Tentative Ruling for 1/8/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues.

(a) Case Status Report

In the Amended Order Setting (A) Principal Status Conference and (B) Procedures (dkt. 4), this Court directed the Debtor to file and serve a Case Status Report on Local Form F 2081-1.1.C11.STATUS.RPT at least 14 days before this hearing. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling the Debtor has not done so. Why not?

(b) First day motions

Debtor has not filed any payroll motion, motion for use of cash collateral, budget motion, utility motion, or other typical "first day" motions. This Court recognizes that Debtor is in the process of formulating its strategy (dkt. 20, p.4:17-21), and has requested an extension of time to file bankruptcy schedules and other documents (dkt. 19), but none of that excuses the failure to file any required first day motions.

(c) Dismissal? Bar?

Debtor is directed to address why this Court should not dismiss this case with a 180 day bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy, under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1), for willful failure to abide by an order of this court, or willful failure to appear in proper prosecution of this case, or both.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 12/17/18.

(a) Bar date: TBD

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD

(c) Continued status conference: if this Court is persuaded not to dismiss this case, the tentative ruling is to continue this Status Conference to 1/29/19 at 1:00 p.m., with a status report on the required form (see above) due 1/22/19.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 3/26/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Amended plan (dkt. 72) and disclosure statement (dkt. 73)

(i) Exhibits generally

The exhibits should not all be attached to both documents. Exhibits A and B should be attached to the Plan and the rest to the Disclosure Statement (as stated in the Disclosure Statement). Attaching duplicate exhibits to both documents adds confusion, and expense to copy and mail the documents.

(ii) Exhibit B (dkt. 72 at PDF p. 10)

This exhibit shows a cure amount of "none" but then lists a negative amount on the Effective Date, which artificially reduces the payments required on the Effective Date. It appears that, but for this calculation error, Debtor would run out of cash in the first month.

(iii) Exhibit C (dkt. 72 at PDF pp.12-13)

First, despite overly optimistic projections (see below) this exhibit still shows projected losses. Second, there is no support for the projections: Exhibit C1, lines 1a and 1b include a space to show the source. Both "Historical gross inc." and "Historical expenses" are supposed to be dollar amounts from a "recent MOR part IX or equivalent" which is supposed to be "attached/at docket# _____," but there is no such document attached or referenced. (Emphasis omitted.)

(iv) Exhibit E (dkt. 72 at PDF p. 15)

This exhibit shows monthly payments of $1,137.68 to the State Bank of India, for total payments of $50,000 on its bifurcated secured claim. First, this is completely different from the $3,667.23 shown on Exhibit A (dkt. 72 at PDF p.9) on its unbifurcated claim. What treatment is Debtor actually proposing?

Second, because the spreadsheet automatically fills in the numbers from Exhibit E on Exhibit A, someone must have substituted different exhibits (perhaps from different drafts). This means that counsel's declaration (dkt. 72, p.7) that the spreadsheet has not been altered is FALSE.

This is the second time that unauthorized modifications have occurred. Debtor's counsel is cautioned that if this happens again that may result in sanctions.

(b) Feasibility of any reorganization

(A) Actual performance

MOR #7 (for 2/19, dkt. 74, p.1) shows a net loss despite an "IRS refund & transfers from savings," and despite the fact that the adequate protection payment to Bank of India is only $2800/mo. (MOR dkt.74, at PDF p.12) but the Plan (dkt. 72) proposes to pay the bank $3,667.23/mo. How is that remotely realistic?

(B) Projections

A letter from Debtor's principal dated 3/12/19 (dkt. 72, at PDF p.11) states that Nov.-Jan is "always usually a much slower period in our industry and sales will normally be lowest during these months"; but the letter projects better performance in February and an increase of $500 per 7-month period thereafter (the Disclosure Statement is even rosier, with a projected $1000 increase in the first period, dkt. 73, Ex.C, line 7a, Period A). If those projections are already off, how can this Court find that any plan is feasible (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(11))?

Should this case be dismissed or converted?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 8/2/18.

(a) Bar date: 12/11/18 (not timely served, see dkt. 24, 35 & 41, but the tentative ruling is not to set a new bar date because any party in interest who asserts prejudice can seek relief).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: see above. The tentative ruling is that, if this case is not dismissed or converted, Debtor will need to show substantial progress in MOR results before any further revisions to any plan or disclosure statement.

(c) Continued status conference: If this case is not dismissed or converted, the tentative ruling is to continue this status

Tentative Ruling for 1/15/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs")

The November MOR (dkt. 62, p.2) includes numerous entries described as "Funds Transfer." How is the reader to know what that means? The same MOR includes a column of numbers with nothing else next to it (dkt. 62, p.3). How is the reader to know what that means?

(b) Plan and Disclosure Statement ("D/S")

The deadline to file the Plan and D/S is fast approaching (see below). What is the outline of Debtor's intended plan? Has Debtor reviewed Judge Bason's procedures and form of order re same?

(c) Employment of counsel

At the hearing on 12/11/18 this Court adopted the tentative ruling approving counsel's employment, which directed that a proposed order be lodged within 7 days. Why has no such order been lodged?

Why was there no notice of insider compensation filed and served for this person, and what consequences should follow? advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) MORs (dkt. 44, 45)

MOR1 (for August, 2018) shows an ending balance of negative $4,549.03. MOR2 (for September 2018) shows an ending balance of negative $4,074.81. Both MORs also show negative postpetition accounts receivable. What does that mean?

Both MORs were also filed late. They were due middle of the month following the reporting period, and this Court's adopted tentative ruling for 10/9/18 directed that the defective August MOR be cured by 10/15/18 but it and the September MOR were not filed until 10/31/18.

Are the (untimely) MORs inaccurate? How can parties in interest and this Court rely on them for current information? If they're accurate, they appear to show losses, or at least an inability to generate profits that would be needed to reorganization.

In view of all the foregoing, should this case be converted or dismissed?

(b) Insider compensation

Debtor's notices of insider compensation (dkt. 46, 47) were not served until 10/24/18, even though this Court's adopted tentative ruling for 10/9/18 directed service no later than 10/12/18. Why?

Meanwhile, although Debtor's principal Neel Viradia declares under penalty of perjury that no unauthorized insider compensation has been paid (dkt. 45, p.16, answer #2), the breakdown of payroll in the MORs apparently shows otherwise (e.g., dkt. 45, p.5, lines 1-2). The form itself states (e.g., dkt. 47, p.2, bottom of page): "[T]his notice ... must be filed and served fifteen days before any pay out of compensation" What consequences should follow from Debtor's apparent violation of that limitation?

(c) Employment (dkt. 32, superseded by amended application, dkt. 42)

The amended application does not specify whether the $10,000 fee already paid by Batuk Viradia (and the filing fee), or the $2,000 he has committed to pay, are loans to Debtor, or gifts, or equity investments, or something else. Nor has he filed a declaration confirming that he understands that proposed counsel's sole loyalty must be to Debtor (not to Mr. Viradia), and that has been informed that there might be conflicts of interest and he may wish to seek separate counsel (e.g., conflicts could exist if Mr. Viradia received any preferential payments or other avoidable transfers, or if Mr. Viradia would prefer that Debtor take a course of action that is not in the best interests of creditors).

More generally, although payment of a retainer by a third party is not outright prohibited, it is fraught with ethical concerns. See In re Kelton Motors, Inc., 109 B.R. 641 (Bankr. D. Vt. 1989); In re Hathaway Ranch Partnership, 116 B.R. 208, 219 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1990); In re Park-Helena Corp., 63 F.3d 877 (9th Cir. 1995).

The tentative ruling is that, if this case is not dismissed or converted, the employment application must be continued to the date of the continued status conference (set forth below) with a deadline of 11/13/18 for Debtor to file Mr. Viradia's declaration, with a copy of this tentative ruling attached as an exhibit, addressing the issues described above.

(d) Cash collateral. If this case is not dismissed or converted, the tentative ruling is to authorize the use of cash collateral on a final basis, on the same terms as the interim authorization (dkt. 37).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 8/2/18.

(a) Bar date: 12/11/18 (order, dkt. 35). Although the order was not timely served (see dkt. 41), the tentative ruling is that the confusion of setting yet another bar date would outweigh the benefit, and that this Court can address any prejudice from shortened notice when and if anyone files a late claim and seeks to have the claim treated as timely.

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD.

(c) Continued status conference: If this case is not dismissed or converted, the tentative ruling is to continue this status conference to 12/11/18 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report is required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

(a) Cash collateral. The tentative ruling is to authorize the use of cash collateral as set forth in the tentative ruling for calendar no. 6 (10/9/18 at 1:00 p.m.).

(b) Insider compensation. Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 2014-1(a) requires a notice and opportunity to object before any insider compensation is paid. But no such notice has been filed, and Debtor's Monthly Operating Report ("MOR") for the month ending 8/31/18 reflects payments to each of two insiders. Dkt. 34, at PDF p.8. The tentative ruling is to direct Debtor to serve the notice using the local form no later than 10/12/18.

(c) Bar date. On 9/5/18 this Court entered its "Order Setting Bar Date: November 9, 2018; and Directing Service by Debtor." Dkt. 24. The debtor failed to serve that order. Why? The tentative ruling is to issue an amended order setting a bar date as set forth below.

(d) MOR (dkt. 34). The MOR appears to be incomplete. For example, it refers to multiple accounts but appears to provide only a combined report; many of the entries are vague or have no description; and page one includes a reference to "Non DIP personal checking (see attached letter)" but no letter or any other explanation is attached. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 10/15/18 to file an amended MOR correcting these and any other deficiencies.

(e) Employment (dkt. 25). As highlighted by the objection of the United States Trustee ("UST") (dkt. 28), the parties should be prepared to address (a) the proposed $12,000 flat fee under 11 U.S.C. 328 and (b) the source of the "loan" for $10,000 of that fee (dkt. 25, p.8) and the source of the remaining $2,000 plus the filing fee.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 8/2/18.

(a) Bar date: See above. In view of Debtor's failure to serve the order (dkt.24), the tentative ruling is to issue an amended order setting a bar date of 12/28/18 and directing the debtor to serve that order no later than 10/15/18 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD.

(c) Continued status conference: 11/6/18 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report is required.

The parties should be prepared to discuss what progress has been made in negotiation with secured creditor Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. (Class 2B in the debtor's draft Plan, dkt. 47). This Court is aware of the motion to approve the stipulation with the holder of Class 2A claims, Bank of New York Mellon (the "Mellon Stip," dkt. 52). The tentative ruling is to move the Mellon Stip hearing from 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m., and continue this status conference to the same date and time, with no written Status Report required.

Tentative Ruling for 9/4/18:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues. This Court has reviewed the debtor's draft plan (dkt. 47) and disclosure statement (dkt. 46) and this Court has no issues to raise sua sponte. Has the debtor had any negotiations with secured creditors? Is it more appropriate to allow additional time for such negotiations, or to authorize the debtor to mail a voting package to all parties in interest and set a combined hearing on final approval of the disclosure statement and confirmation of the plan for the same time and date as the continued status conference set forth below?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 3/6/18.

the petition date?

(ii) Amended budget motion? Should an amended budget motion needs to be filed and served, or is such notice unnecessary and should the budget be deemed amended, in view of what appears to be an increase of approximately $168 in the debtor's monthly income (compare dkt. 13 at PDF p.8, debtor's personal income of $2,800, with dkt. 30, line 7, debtor's personal income of $2,968)?

(b) Cash collateral motion (dkt. 12). Grant on a final basis, on the same terms as the interim order (dkt.24).

Presumably the debtor means that she served the order on creditors (not the POS), but the debtor is directed to file an amended POS saying so, no later than 5/3/18.

fr. 6/12/18, 6/26/18, 08/07/18, 10/9/18, 11/6/18, 12/11/18, 03/12/19

Docket 5

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 3/26/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) UST motion to dismiss (dkt. 79)

Have the issues in this motion been resolved (see dkt. 82)?

(b) Third amended plan (dkt. 69) and disclosure statement (dkt. 68)

The tentative ruling is to approve the Disclosure Statement on a final basis, and confirm the Plan for the following reasons.

Service of the voting package and notice (dkt. 75, 77) appears to have complied with this Court's orders setting this hearing (dkt. 71, 72). The ballot summary (dkt. 81) shows timely acceptance by Classes 2A, 2B, and 2C, untimely acceptance by Class 2D (the last of the secured claim classes), a lack of any votes by Class 4 (nonpriority unsecured creditors, who are to receive a 30% distribution under the Plan), and votes against the plan by Class 6 (mobile home park tenants, who may receive up to the value of their mobile home, if they hold a valid tenancy, or $2,000 for removing the mobile home). Because not every impaired class has accepted the Plan (paragraph "(8)" of 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)), Debtor must satisfy the requirements for "cramdown" under subsection "(b)" of 11 U.S.C. 1129, as well as the other requirements of subsection "(a)."

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has done so. Cramdown requires, among other things, that a plan be "fair and equitable" and not "discriminate unfairly" as to non-accepting impaired classes. 11 U.S.C. 1129(b).

None of the non-accepting classes have filed any objections to confirmation of the Plan or final approval of the adequacy of the Disclosure Statement. The treatment of Class 2D is justified by its belated acceptance of the Plan. The treatment of Class 4 appears to be justified by the legal requirement to pay secured creditors ahead of unsecured creditors, the "new value" contribution of Debtor's principal, and Debtor's cash flow projections. The treatment of Class 6 appears to be justified by Debtor's disclosure of its legal theory for displacing the mobile home park tenants, and the absence of any contrary arguments or authority. See Disclosure Statement, Exhibit "I" (dkt. 68 at PDF pp.22-24).

The final requirement is the other elements of 11 U.S.C. 1129(a). Those appear to have been satisfied, both by Debtor's use of this Court's form of plan and disclosure statement and by the data included when Debtor completed those forms.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling for 3/26/19, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B). In addition, the proposed order must include the language required by Local Rule 3020-1(b), including a post-confirmation status conference as set forth below.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 5/15/18.

(a) Bar date: 8/14/18 (dkt. 35), timely served (dkt. 38).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement (dkt. 68, 69)*: See above.

(c) Post-confirmation status conference: 7/9/19 at 1:00 p.m. Status report due 6/25/19.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." (a) Plan (dkt. 64, the "Plan") and disclosure statement (dkt. 63, the "D/S")

It appears that counsel for Debtor has manually altered the spreadsheets, which defeats the purpose of having automatic (reliable) calculations in the spreadsheets. In addition, it appears that the Plan periods in Ex.A are "1" month and 13 months later (month "14"), whereas on Ex.C Period A is 3 months, Period B is 1 month, and Period C is 6 months, which does not match. In addition, the Effective Date (e.g., on Ex.A & Ex. C) should be revised to a date that is at least two weeks after the combined hearing on the plan and D/S set forth below.

Subject to correction of these issues, the tentative ruling is to conditionally approve the disclosure statement and authorize service of the voting package, all as set forth below.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 5/15/18.

(a) Bar date: 8/14/18 (dkt. 35), timely served (dkt. 38).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement (dkt. 64,63)*: 12/18/18 deadline (i) to file (NOT SERVE - except on the U.S. Trustee) any redlined revisions to be discussed at the status conference and (ii) to lodge Judge Bason's form of order authorizing service of the voting package, setting deadlines, and setting a combined hearing on final approval of the Disclosure Statement and confirmation of the Plan for the same time as the continued status conference. The proposed order should be modified so that the voting package includes Mr. Starflinger's declaration (dkt. 65).

Note: If the U.S. Trustee wishes to file initial comments on any draft Plan documents before the regular deadline, it should do so at least two weeks prior to the subsequent status conference (but, whether or not any comments are filed, all rights are reserved to object to the Disclosure Statement or Plan when deadline(s) for such objections are established).

(c) Continued status conference: 3/12/19 at 1:00 p.m. No status report required.

are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 9/21/18:

Appearances required. This Court has reviewed the transcript that orally memorializes the principal parties' settlement. See Tr. 9/7/18 (dkt. 295), pp. 3:16-15:18 & 30:1-4 (the "Main Settlement"). The parties should be prepared to address the following issues.

(1) Settlement documentation. What documents are being prepared to implement the Main Settlement (e.g., the form of notice to the Truck Drivers, including their election whether to return the trucks and their agreement to mutual releases)? What is the status of that preparation? Will the notice to the Truck Drivers need to be in any languages other than English and Spanish? What steps can be taken before the documentation is finalized, and conversely what steps should wait until the documents are finalized?

(2) Secured/unsecured Truck Drivers. How do the parties propose to address what portion of the distributions from the bankruptcy estate should be allocated to the secured claims of certain Truck Drivers, and what remainder should be allocated to unsecured claims? Is that issue deferred until a proposed chapter 11 plan? If so, how will the possible effects of various secured claim amounts be adequately explained to the Truck Drivers who will be asked to consent to the Main Settlement? Conversely, if the parties have a proposed settlement as to the allowed dollar amount of these secured claims, what are the proposed terms of that additional settlement (the "Secured Driver Claims Settlement")?

(3) Procedures. What procedures should apply to the Main Settlement and any Secured Driver Claims Settlement (or litigation)? For example, is another Rule 9019 motion advisable (or necessary)? Should this Court find and conclude, under Rule 2002(a)(3), Fed. R. Bankr. P., that some sort of supplemental notice and opportunity to object (and overbid?) is sufficient, given that notice has already been provided of the basic issues and standards governing settlement? See dkt. 36 (settlement motion) and dkt. 122 (priorities/secured claims motion).

Whatever further procedures are required, should different sets of documents be provided to (a) the Truck Drivers (holding both secured and unsecured claims) and (b) other creditors (holding both secured and unsecured claims)? Should all creditors, including the Truck Drivers, receive a complete set of settlement documentation, or is that an undue expense? Is it sufficient for such documents to be available upon request? Should any cover letter/notice be translated, but not the underlying documentation (to save expense)?

(4) Calendaring. Is it appropriate (a) to continue the status conference and settlement motion (dkt. 19) for a relatively brief time, so that the parties can prepare the settlement documentation for review by this Court prior to mailing, and (b) take off calendar (without prejudice) all other matters that have been set for hearing today, including the overbid procedures motion (dkt. 149)?

If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 8/7/18:

Continue as stated below. No appearances required on 8/7/18.

(1) Current issues. This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (dkt. 262) and other relevant pleadings in this case.

(a) Bid Procedures Motion (dkt. 149). The tentative ruling is to defer ruling on this until after resolution of the discovery dispute and continue the hearing to a date and time to be set at the continued status conference set forth below.

(b) Motion to Approve Compromise (dkt. 36). The tentative ruling is to defer ruling on this until after resolution of the discovery dispute and continue the hearing to a date and time to be set at the continued status conference set forth below.

Revised Tentative Ruling for 5/29/18:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues.

(a) Debtor's Motion to Extend Time to Assume or Reject Lease (dkt. 139). Debtor seeks an extension of time to assume or reject its lease of commercial real property located at 2727 E. Del Amo Blvd., Rancho Dominguez, CA 90221 (the "Property") with Joe Murez Exempt Trust ("JMET" or "Landlord") through June 4, 2018. But in connection with Landlord's currently motion (dkt. 184, see discussion below), the debtor concedes that there are incurable defaults that prevent it from assuming the lease and states that it intends to vacate and surrender the Property by May 31, 2018 (dkt. 197, PDF p. 7, lines 17-19 & Wallace Declaration, paragraph 14). Additionally, on May 7, 2018, debtor served its subtenants with 30-day notices to terminate rental agreement with an expiration date of June 6, 2018 (id., Ex. A).

In Landlord's motion (dkt. 184, see discussion below), it seeks possession of the Property effective as of June 5, 2018 and appears to have consented to an extension through that time (see dkt. 184, PDF p. 4, lines 26-27).

The tentative ruling is to grant the debtor's motion and extend the deadline to assume or reject the lease to May 31, 2018. The effects of that date on the subtenants and the Landlord are addressed below.

(b) Landlord's Motion for Administrative Claim and Possession of Property (dkt. 184).

(i) Base rent, late fees, interest, CAM, taxes, attorneys' fees and costs. Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 365(d)(3), Landlord is entitled to an allowed administrative expense for the full amount of rent accrued during the period following the order for relief through the lease rejection, regardless of the actual value conferred by the lease upon the estate. See Pacific-Atlantic Trading Company, 27 F.3d 401 (9th Cir. 1994); In re Cukierman, 265 F.3d 846 (9th Cir. 2001). Section 365(d)(3) requires immediate payment of lease obligations so that the landlord is not left providing uncompensated services. In re Cukierman, 265 F.3d at 851-52.

In this case, Paragraph 4.1 of the Lease provides: "All monetary obligations of Lessee to Lessor under the terms of this Lease (except for the Security Deposit) are deemed to be Rent." Pursuant to paragraphs 1.5, 4.3, 10.2, 13.4, 13.5, and 31, Landlord is entitled to an allowed administrative expense for payment of base rent, late fees, interest, CAM, taxes, and attorneys' fees and costs. On the record before this Court, Landlord holds an estimated administrative expense in the amount of $79,965.01 ($48,626 (May rent) + $4,862.20 (late fee) + $11,661.31 (real property taxes) + $14,815.5 (attorneys fees) = $79,965.01). Landlord may supplement the record to establish a valid basis for any additional amounts it may be entitled to under the Lease (e.g., prorated June rent if the debtor has not turned over the premises as of 5/31/18).

(ii) No superpriority. Section 365(d)(3) does not authorize a superpriority over other administrative expenses. In re LPM Corp., 300 F.3d 1134 (9th Cir. 2002). It is possible that the estate will be administratively insolvent (although the estate's assets and its administrative claims are largely moving targets until the conclusion of any bankruptcy case) so if Landlord had slept on its rights and were seeking prior months' rent it would not be entitled to payment at this time; but that is not the situation.

Chapter 11

Landlords are entitled to current payments. Other administrative claimants are not. There is no evidence that this Landlord has slept on its rights.

Reconciling the lack of priority with the entitlement to current payments, the tentative ruling is that Landlord is entitled to immediate payment of a pro rata share of funds that are available to pay estimated accrued administrative expenses to date. This is essentially the alternative relief requested by Landlord (see dk. 200, p.4:4-8).

Because the interim fee applications (discussed below) seek approximately $305,000 in fees and expenses, and because Landlord's claim is approximately $79,965.01, it appears that the rough total of accrued administrative expenses is approximately $385,000, of which Landlord holds roughly $80,000, or approximately 20% ($$80,000/$385,000 = 20.8\%$). Therefore, the tentative ruling is that Landlord is entitled to immediate payment of approximately 20% of the $47,000 in unrestricted funds currently in debtor's possession (dk. 197, PDF p. 13, paragraph 13), or approximately $9,400.

(iii) Landlord has not established that the funds are held in trust for it. This Court is not persuaded that the $47,000 in funds debtor has on hand is being held in trust for Landlord. Landlord has not carried its burden of establishing that, under California law, an express trust exists that excepts these funds from estate property. See Golden Mortg. Fund # 14 v. Kennedy, 171 B.R. 79, 84 (9th Cir. BAP 1994) ("A creditor has the burden to prove that the funds in the debtor's possession should be held in trust for that creditor's benefit").

(iv) Surrender and Writ of Possession. Landlord has discretion whether to extend the time for the debtor to assume or reject the Lease beyond the statutory maximum, or permit occupancy after rejection, absent nonbankruptcy law that would permit occupants to continue in possession. As set forth above, the tentative ruling is that the lease will be deemed rejected on 5/31/18.

Because neither the subtenants nor any other party in interest has articulated a sufficient basis for the subtenants to continue to occupy the Property following rejection of the Lease, the tentative ruling is to grant Landlord's request for a writ of possession directing any subtenants to surrender and vacate the property effective 6/6/18. Landlord is instructed to review LBR 7064-1 and include the necessary language set forth in 7064-1(e) into the proposed order.

(v) Relief from stay. The tentative ruling is to grant Landlord relief from the automatic stay under 362(d)(1).

(vi) Waiver of 14-day stay. The tentative ruling is to waive the 14-day stay.

(c) Interim Fee Apps of Levene Neale Bender Yoo & Brill (dkt. 177); CohenReznick LLP (dkt. 178); and Haberbush & Associates LLP (dkt. 179), and related documents (dkt. 200, 214). The tentative ruling is to approve the applications on an interim basis, subject to final review and approval at the conclusion of the case, but deny the requests for immediate payment of fees and expenses given the debtor's limited funds on hand, except that Haberbush & Associates may draw down on its pre-petition retainer, subject to the possibility of disgorgement in future.

(a) Bar date: 3/16/18 (order timely served, dkt. 43, 46).

(1) Current issues.

(a) April MOR (dkt.192). On PDF p. 3, the debtor identifies a payment made to "Transport" on 4/26/18 in the amount of $55,515.00 for "dispatch and brokerage svc." What is this payment for? Is it an "ordinary course" transaction?

(b) Motion to Disqualify Truck Driver Counsel (dkt. 125). This Court issued an order (dkt. 169, amended dkt. 175) continuing this motion and set (i) a 5/15/18 deadline for the Slattery Law Firm and Hirsch Law Firm to file supplemental papers addressing who properly represents the Truck Drivers; and (ii) a 5/21/18 at noon deadline to file any responses.

This Court has reviewed the relevant papers. See dkt. 125, 126 & 127 (motion papers), dkt. 143 (Hirsch opposition), dkt. 145 (Slattery opposition), dkt. 156, 157 (debtor's reply), dkt. 161 (Slattery decl.), dkt. 167 (Slattery Rule 2019 statements), dkt. 189 (debtor's authorities re attorney-client privilege as applied to retainer agreements), dkt. 199 (Hirsch supp. opposition), dkt. 201 (Slattery decl.), dkt. 202 (Hirsch supp. reply), dkt. 203 (Hirsch evid. obj. to Slattery decl.), dkt. 204 (Rivera|Shakleford opp. re S.H. Chung, R.M. Rubio, H.D. Alvarez & G. Perez Silva).

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address the arguments set forth in the filed papers.

(c) Objection to Claim Nos. 11, 37, 38, 40, 44, 45, 50 (dkt. 108, 109, 111, 113, 115, 117, 119). The proofs of claim were filed by the Hirsch Law Firm and the claim objections/notices were served on the Hirsch Law Firm and Slattery Law Firm. However, based on the debtor's pending motion to disqualify both firms, the tentative ruling is to continue the hearings on these claim objections to 6/19/18 at 2:00 p.m., pending resolution of the motion to disqualify. At the continued hearings, the parties should be prepared to address whether it would be appropriate for this court to set continued oppositions deadlines.

Note: Counsel did not comply with Judge Bason's posted procedures (at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) requiring a cost/benefit analysis for any claim objection (although this court's own cost/benefit analysis appears to favor seeking to reclassify these claim). In future, counsel should comply with those posted procedures.

The debtor's limited objection (dkt. 55) and the reply papers (dkt. 85, 86) raise issues that are best addressed in connection with any application for compensation, at which time this Court can evaluate whether the hourly billing rates are commensurate with the nature of the work performed, the time spent on each task, and the other factors under 11 U.S.C. 330. #5.00 Cont'd hrg re: Motion for Order Compelling Debtor to Appear at Continued § 341(a) Examination and for Order Authorizing Trustee to File Affidavit for Order Pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 2005 fr. 2/26/19

Docket 186

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 3/26/19:

Appearances required, but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address whether Debtor appeared at the meeting of creditors, and any remaining issues regarding this motion.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 2/26/19:

Grant the motion insofar as directing Debtor to attend the meeting of creditors, either (i) in person on 3/6/19 at 10:00 a.m. or (ii) through a video appearance, at Debtor's expense and using technology and a time and place reasonably satisfactory to the Chapter 7 Trustee, and (iii) continue this hearing to 3/26/19 at 2:00 p.m. to address possible remedies if Debtor fails to appear, including whether to issue an order requesting and directing the United States Marshal or his designee to detain Debtor and compel his attendance. Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Notice of the section 341(a) meeting of the creditors

Debtor asserts (dkt. 191, pp.4-5) that he did not receive proper notice of his obligation to attend the meeting of creditors (11 U.S.C. 341(a)) that originally was set for 1/17/19. First, Debtor does not appear to dispute that he had actual knowledge of the scheduled meeting, and he is charged with knowledge of the law establishing his duty to attend. See 11 U.S.C. 343. Second, as the Trustee's reply clarifies (dkt. 194), the Trustee is not seeking any remedy for Debtor's non-appearance at the initial meeting, but is seeking to address Debtor's preemptive assertion that he need not attend the continued meeting.

(2) Anticipated invocation of the 5th Amendment

Debtor asserts that "the Fifth Amendment will be broadly asserted at the 341 meeting." Dkt. 171, p.5:7-9. But, as explained in the Trustee's reply (dkt. 194), Mr. Layfield cannot assert a generalized right to invoke the 5th Amendment. He must appear and respond to the questions presented.

(3) Alleged expense or inconvenience of attending the continued section 341(a) meeting

Debtor requests (through his criminal attorney who seeks to appear specially) that the Trustee's motion be denied because he resides in Delaware (dkt. 191, p.3:28) and because his lawyer states that Debtor is indigent (dkt. 191, p.7, para. 7). There is no admissible evidence presented with the opposition. Nevertheless, this Court takes judicial notice that, on other occasions, Debtor himself has asserted that he lives in Delaware and that travelling to California would be costly in terms of time and money.

The parties are directed to address whether Skype or some other video service, or combination of audio and video, can be used to create a recordable record of the meeting (as contemplated at the start of this tentative ruling).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 3/26/19:

Dismiss this adversary with prejudice because Mr. Layfield lacks standing.
See Tentative Ruling for 12/18/18 (reproduced below). Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Defendant Richard M. Pachulski, the Chapter 11 Trustee in this case, is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling (including the Tentative Ruling for 12/18/18), thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

the stipulation (adv. dkt. 3) between (a) Wesley Avery, the Chapter 7 Trustee in the individual (involuntary) bankruptcy case of Mr. Layfield, and (b) defendant Richard M. Pachulski, the Chapter 11 Trustee in the bankruptcy case of Layfield & Barrett, APC. See adv. dkt. 3, Recital "K," and adv. dkt. 4 (order approving stipulation). Although Mr. Layfield has filed papers requesting dismissal of his bankruptcy case, and numerous other things, this Court has denied his requests.

Meanwhile, all deadlines including the time to file any answer or other pleading have been extended indefinitely as to two other defendants, US Claims Opco, LLC ("USCO") and DRB Capital ("DRB"), by stipulation (adv. dkt. 13) and order thereon (adv. dkt. 15). The last defendant, Advanced Legal Capital, LLC ("Advanced") has filed an answer (adv. dkt. 5) that includes a prayer for a judgment of dismissal, an award of its attorney fees and costs, and sanctions and other remedies.

In view of possible appeals by Mr. Layfield, or any other avenues by which he may attempt to gain standing, it appears to be premature for this Court to hold any Status Conference in this adversary proceeding at this time. In addition, both because Mr. Layfield may not have exhausted his remedies, and because sanctions usually must be sought by separate motion (see, e.g., Rule 9011(c)(1)(A), Fed. R. Bankr. P.), it appears premature to address any sanctions issues at this time.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Chapter 11

(1) Current Issues

(a) Final Fee Application for Debtor's Counsel (Checkmate, dkt. 249, 250, 253, 255, 257, 258, 261, 264; and Sakurai, dkt. 343, 346, 352, 355, 356, 363, 367)

The applications seek $350,846.10 (Checkmate) and $118,796.75 (Sakurai). This Court has allowed a total of $300,000, and set this continued hearing to address the balance of $169,642.85. See Interim Fee Orders (dkt. 261, Checkmate; dkt. 363, Sakurai).

The Fresco parties' objections note that this Court has on more than one occasion expressed grave concerns about whether these Debtors have adequately prosecuted these bankruptcy cases. Of course, this Court expects that counsel for the debtors would not in any way have participated in any attempts by these Debtors to mislead or obstruct creditors in these cases, but that is not the end of the inquiry.

On the one hand, when there are legitimate strategic or tactical reasons to chose among different courses of action, counsel for Debtors usually must act at their clients' direction, even if they might harbor some doubts about the efficacy of those choices. On the other hand, in addition to the ethical limits of what counsel may do at their clients' direction, counsel are only permitted "reasonable compensation for actual, necessary services" (11 U.S.C. 330(a)(1)(A) (emphasis added)), and in determining what compensation is reasonable this Court "shall consider the nature, the extent, and the value of such services, taking into account all relevant factors, including [among other things] whether the services were necessary to the administration of, or beneficial at the time at which the service was rendered toward the completion of, [these bankruptcy cases]."

In these cases there are open questions about (i) Debtors' own acts and omissions, and whether Debtors were or were not engaging in a lack of diligent prosecution of these cases or other misconduct, (ii) whether Debtors, if deposed or examined at trial on those issues, will or will not assert advice of counsel, and (iii) whether, regardless of the foregoing issues, counsel for Debtors can satisfy the above-referenced statutory requirements. For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that the Fresco parties must have a reasonable period of time in which to conduct discovery to investigate Debtors' apparent failures to prosecute these cases or other misconduct, and whether, in view of the results of any such discovery, the compensation sought by counsel for Debtors is for "necessary" services and is "reasonable" in dollar amount, given all of the facts and circumstances.

Meanwhile, although this Court recognizes that all interim compensation may be revisited in connection with any final award, the question is how much to award on an interim basis, and whether any disbursed funds must be held in trust. The tentative ruling is to award another $35,000 to counsel for Debtors, to be allocated pro rata in proportion to their outstanding fee requests, without requiring any portion of those funds to be held in trust, but also without prejudice to allowance of a greater or lesser final award.

The parties should be prepared to address the schedule for discovery on the issues outlined above. The tentative ruling is that a five month period is appropriate.

Then, in connection with any final fee award, or at such other time as this Court may later determine, the Fresco parties' objections can be revisited with the benefit of both (i) any discovery and (ii) any subsequent developments. For example, any additional disclosures and/or recoveries in the Fower/Radiology litigation might shed light on whether Debtors' and their counsel's strategies and tactics in dealing with those parties were appropriate at the time they were made. (This Court emphasizes that any subsequent developments would be relevant only to the extent they shed light on what was reasonable at the time the legal services were rendered - not for purposes of "20/20 hindsight.")

(1) Current issues

(a) Potential settlement with Fresco Parties. The parties must be prepared to address the status of their settlement negotiations and finalization of the draft settlement documents circulated 2/5/18, and all other issues appropriate to raise at a status conference, including the issues in their recent status reports and related documents (Sakurai case, no. 2:17-bk-22660-NB, dkt. 87, 104, 105, 114, 124, and Checkmate case, no. 2:17-bk-22648-NB, dkt. 90, 93, 100, 102, 104, 105, 106, 109, 112, 113, 119, 122).

(b) Cash collateral & budget motions & stipulation (Sakurai dkt. 119, 122; Checkmate dkt. 114, 118, 119). Grant the cash collateral motion in the Sakurai case, subject to the same replacement liens and other terms and conditions as this Court's prior approvals of the use of cash collateral (see Sakurai case dkt. 43, 57); grant the budget motion in the Sakurai case; and approve the cash collateral stipulation in the Checkmate case on a final basis.

(d) Removed action (Adv. no. 2:17-ap-01558-NB), motions for stay and for remand (adv. dkt. 8, 10, 12, 13). The tentative ruling is that the motion for a stay pending determination by the District Court of the debtors' motion to withdraw the reference is moot, because the District Court has dismissed that motion. There is no tentative ruling on the motion to remand.

Appearances required.

(1) Current Issues.

(a) Joint Status Report and Notice of Continuances. This Court's 5/8/18 tentative ruling (see below) was not opposed, so it became this Court's actual ruling.

This Court directed (i) Checkmate to file and serve a notice of continuances attaching and incorporating by reference the deadlines in that tentative ruling by 5/7/18, and (ii) the parties to file a brief joint status report by 5/29/18. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, none of the parties have complied. The parties are cautioned that failure to abide by applicable deadlines in future may result in adverse consequences.

(b) Motion for TRO & Claim and Delivery (adv. dkt. 10).

Plaintiff/debtor Checkmate King Co., Ltd. ("Checkmate") has filed a stipulation (adv. dkt. 30) with defendants Radiology Solutions Corp. ("RS") and George Fower ("Fower") for turnover of equipment. But Checkmate has not provided any evidence that it has relief from the automatic stay and consent of the Chapter 7 Trustee in the RS and Fower bankruptcy cases for such turnover (Case Nos. 8:18-bk-10585-TA and 8:18-bk-10583-TA). The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 6/19/18 for Checkmate to file a declaration attaching evidence sufficient to establish those things, and lodge a revised proposed order to approve the stipulation.

(2) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 3/6/18. It is premature to set a discovery cutoff and other deadlines at this time. Continue to 7/17/18 at 2:00 p.m., brief joint status report due 7/3/18.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 5/8/18:

The tentative ruling is to continue all pending matters in this adversary proceeding to 6/12/18 at 2:00 p.m. for the reason stated below, with a brief joint status report due 5/29/18, and with a deadline of 5/7/18 for the plaintiff to file and serve a notice of continuances attaching and incorporating by reference the deadlines in this tentative ruling (assuming that this Court is not persuaded to depart from this tentative ruling). Appearances are not required on 5/8/18.

(1) Current Issues. This Court has reviewed the parties' status reports (adv. dkt. 24 & 26) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(a) Motion for TRO & Claim and Delivery (adv. dkt. 10). At the 4/9/18 hearing on this motion, counsel for plaintiff/debtor Checkmate King Co., Ltd. ("Checkmate") apprised this Court of the bankruptcy filings of defendants Radiology Solutions Corp. ("RS") and George Fower ("Fower") (Case Nos. 8:18-bk-10585-TA and 8:18-bk-10583-TA) and requested a continuance of this hearing to allow time to obtain orders granting relief from stay with annulment. In the Joint status report (adv. dkt. 24), Checkmate states that the hearings on the relief from stay motions are scheduled for 5/15/18. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to continue this motion to the date and time set forth at the start of this tentative ruling.

Siemens Medical Solutions USA, Inc. ("Siemens") has properly self-calendared its MTD for 6/12/18 at 11:00 a.m. Siemens anticipates that it may be voluntarily dismissed by plaintiff (see adv. dkt. 24), but if that does not occur then this Court anticipates that the MTD may take 15 minutes or more to hear. This Court's practice is that matters anticipated to take 15 minutes or more are heard on the 2:00 p.m. calendar (not available for self-calendaring, except by permission of this Court). Therefore the tentative ruling is to re-calendar the MTD from 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m., which is concurrent with the other matters in this adversary proceeding that are on today's calendar.

(2) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 3/6/18. It is premature to set a discovery cutoff and other deadlines at this time.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #1.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

WILMINGTON TRUST, NATIONAL ASSOCIATION vs
DEBTOR

Docket 33

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is not sufficient evidence and notice.

The automatic stay does not apply

Grant the motion under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(4) and (j): there is no automatic stay because (a) Debtor's first case (#2:18-bk-24420) was dismissed (on 1/2/19) within one year before this case was filed (on 3/12/19), (b) Debtor's second case (#2:19-bk-11198) was dismissed (on 2/5/19) within one year before this case was filed (on 3/12/19), (b) that dismissal was not under 11 U.S.C. 707(b), and (c) no finding of good faith was timely sought and obtained. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Grant in part, deny in part, as set forth below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Deny, without prejudice to any other types of relief granted herein (or previously granted), for the following reasons.

The motion requests requests "in rem" relief (i.e., relief applicable notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases (under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and/or In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. #16.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 30

Tentative Ruling:

(1) Deny Debtor's motion with prejudice, and without attorney fees to Debtor's attorney for (a) any work on this motion or (b) any other work that would have been unnecessary if a timely motion under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3) had been filed; (2) deny the request of Bayview Loan Servicing, LLC ("Bayview") for attorney fees and costs without prejudice, and (3) grant Bayview's request for an order confirming that the automatic stay is no longer in effect as to both Debtor and the estate. Appearances required to address whether the case should be dismissed (see Judge Bason's Procedures, posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov, then search for "362(c)(3)").

Proposed order: Movant is directed to serve and lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling.

Reasons:

(1) Denial of the motion, based on analysis of Debtor's motion (dkt. 30), Bayview's opposition (dkt. 33), and Debtor's reply (dkt. 34)

(a) Relief is unavailable on Debtor's motion as a matter of law

As set forth in this Court's Order Deny Application for Order Setting Hearing on Shortened Notice (dkt. 29), and as Bayview reiterates (dkt. 33), the motion was not timely set for hearing in accordance with 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3)(B) ("on the motion of a party in interest for continuation of the automatic stay and upon notice and a hearing, the court may extend the stay in particular cases as to any or all creditors . . . after notice and a hearing completed before the expiration of the 30 day period [after the petition date, i.e., 1/26/19 + 30 days]." (emphasis added)). The motion was not filed until 3/12/19, so it could not be heard within this 30-day period.

Not only is Debtor time-barred from seeking to "continue" the automatic stay under paragraph "(3)" of section 362(c), she also is ineligible to seek to "impose" the automatic stay under paragraph "(4)" for two reasons. First, that paragraph only applies if "2 or more ... cases of the debtor were pending within the previous year" and were dismissed (emphasis added), and Debtor only alleges one such case. Second, any motion under paragraph "(4)" must be filed "within 30 days after" the petition date and, again, Debtor did not file the present motion until 3/12/19.

Debtor does not dispute any of this. Instead she argues instead that this Court can "impose" a stay under this Court's residual powers in 11 U.S.C. 105(a). That argument is not persuasive.

First, the general provisions of section 105 cannot supersede the more specific provisions of section 362(c), which delineate when the stay can and cannot be extended or imposed. See Law v. Siegel, 134 S.Ct. 1188, 1194 (2014) ("§ 105(a) does not allow the bankruptcy court to override explicit mandates of other sections of the Bankruptcy Code") (citation and internal quotation marks omitted).

Second, even if section 362(c) could be read as something other than Congress' explicit mandate (which it cannot be), section 105 is not a "roving commission to do equity." In re Saxman, 325 F.3d 1168, 1174-75 (9th Cir. 2003) (citations omitted).

Third, Rule 7001(7) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) requires an adversary proceeding to obtain an injunction such as a stay. Compare e.g., In re Excel Innovations, Inc., 502 F.3d 1086 (9th Cir. 2007) (injunctive relief available (i) in adversary proceeding, (ii) not involving automatic stay in section 362(c)(3) or (4) or other explicit provisions of Bankruptcy Code, and (iii) only if Debtor establishes (A) reasonable likelihood of successful reorganization, (B) possibility of irreparable injury if preliminary relief is not granted, (C) balance of hardships favoring Debtor, and (D) advancement of the public interest, if applicable).

(b) Alternatively, even if this Court had discretion to impose a stay in sufficiently extreme circumstances, Debtor's evidence is inadequate

Even if this Court had equitable discretion, the tentative ruling is that Debtor's excuse is insufficient. Debtor asserts (dkt. 30 at PDF p.11) that "due to severe illness and hospitalization the Debtor was unable to execute [the section 362(c)(3) motion] within 30 days of the Order of Relief [sic]" There is no evidentiary support for this assertion.

In addition, that assertion is also too vague. Debtor herself did not need to execute the motion, so does Debtor's attorney mean that he himself was too ill to prepare, execute, and file the local form?

Nor are there any details about the nature of the illness; or when the hospitalization began; or why those things were so debilitating that it was impossible to prepare the simple form motion under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3). Nor does Debtor's counsel, who represented her in her prior case (Case No. 2:17-bk-17965-VZ), explain how he could prepare all the case commencement documents (the petition and other forms) and yet could not prepare this simple local form motion at the same time.

For these alternative reasons, the tentative ruling is that the motion must be denied.

(c) No attorney fees charged by Debtor's counsel to Debtor or estate

This Court presumes that counsel for the debtor will not charge any fees to Debtor, the bankruptcy estate, or anyone else for the time spent in connection with this motion, on the application for an OST, or in preparing any subsequent bankruptcy petition papers (if this case is dismissed) and any motion (in such a subsequent case) to continue or impose the automatic stay. This Court makes that presumption because if Debtor's counsel had timely prepared, filed, and served a simple motion under paragraph "(3)," none of these other tasks would have been necessary. If counsel intends to charge any fees then he must follow the procedures to dispute this tentative ruling.

(2) Bayview's request for attorney's fees

At the end of its opposition (dkt. 33) Bayview requests attorney fees and costs. Bayview cites no authority for any such award.

A request for attorney's fees pursuant to Rule 9011(c)(1)(A) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) must be made by separate motion. No such separate motion was filed, so this Court lacks authority to award any fees under Rule 9011 based on Bayview's request.

In order to be awarded attorney's fees pursuant to this Court's inherent power, Bayview must show "by clear and convincing evidence that the contemnors violated a specific and definite order of the court." In re Taggart, 888 F.3d 438, 443 (9th Cir. 2018), cert. granted 2019 WL 98543. This Court also would need to make a finding of bad faith or willful misconduct. See In re Lehtinen, 564 F.3d 1052, 1061 (9th Cir. 2009), abrogated on other grounds, as stated in In re Gugliuzza, 852 F.3d 884, 898 (9th Cir. 2017); In re

DeVille, 280 B.R. 483, 495 (9th Cir. BAP 2002) (quoting Chambers v. NASCO, Inc., 501 U.S. 32, 45-6 (1991)) ("To impose inherent power sanctions, a court must find that a party acted 'in bad faith, vexatiously, wantonly, or for oppressive reasons.'"), aff'd, 361 F.3d 539 (9th Cir. 2004). On the present record, this Court is not prepared to make such findings of fact and conclusions of law.

Lastly, in order to be granted attorney's fees pursuant to section 105(a), Bayview would have to show by clear and convincing evidence that the contemnors violated a specific and definite order of the court. See In re Dyer, 322 F.3d 1178, 1190 (9th Cir. 2003); In re Lehtinen, 564 F.3d 1052, 1058 (9th Cir. 2009); FTC v. Affordable Media, LLC, 179 F.3d 1228, 1239 (9th Cir. 1999). Bayview has not met it's burden to establish those things.

Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to deny Bayview's request for attorney fees.

(3) The automatic stay is no longer in effect as to both Debtor and the estate

At the end of Bayview's opposition (dkt. 33) it also requests that this Court issue an order confirming that the automatic stay is no longer in effect as to both Debtor and the estate. The tentative ruling is to grant such relief. See 11 U.S.C. 362(j); In re Reswick, 446 B.R. 362 (9th Cir. BAP 2011); In re Hernandez, case no. 2:11-bk-53730-NB, docket #40 (Memorandum Decision).

(4) Dismissal of this case, or not?

As stated in the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov):

Judge Bason recognizes that termination of the automatic stay may harm creditors, or otherwise undermine important bankruptcy policies, and therefore one of two remedies may be appropriate: (1) if it appears that a plan can be confirmed before irreparable harm occurs, then the binding effect of the plan might be a sufficient substitute for the lack of an automatic stay (see § 1327(a)), or alternatively (2) the court can dismiss the bankruptcy case on its own motion and (generally) without a bar to filing another bankruptcy case. See Hernandez (2:11-bk-53730-NB, dkt. 40) pp. 8:4-10:16.

The parties are directed to address these issues.

#7.00 Status conference re: Complaint for 1) Declaratory Relief; 2) Enforcement of lien

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required. This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (dkt. 4) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/16/19 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 1/29/19. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Discovery cutoff (for completion of discovery): 7/9/19, subject to adjustment at next status conference depending on Alvarez issues (see Status Report, adv. dkt. 4, section G).

Expert(s) - deadline for reports: 7/23/19 (subject to same adjustment)

Expert(s) - discovery cutoff (if different from above): 8/6/19 (subject to same adjustment)

Docket 23

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required. The tentative ruling is to deny the motion unless all the issues set forth below are resolved, and if that occurs, or is reliably promised, then continue the motion to 4/30/19 at 1:00 p.m. with a deadline of 4/9/19 for Debtor to file and serve an amended motion on all creditors via U.S. mail.

The tentative ruling is to require the following:

- (a) Overbidding: Debtor must amend the overbidding procedures to address the concerns raised in the objection filed by the United States Trustee ("UST") (dkt. 39);
- (b) Rent: Debtor must satisfactorily address whether the tenant/proposed buyer is being forgiven rent and, if not, what steps are being taken to recover the missing rent payments (id.);
- (c) Receipt of deposits: Debtor must provide an offer of proof regarding the proposed buyer's deposits (id.);
- (d) Withholdings, and use of net proceeds: Debtor must provide that the sale free and clear of liens will result in Debtor holding only an approximation of the disputed portion of those liens, and the withheld portion must be specified in the motion and must be a reasonable amount; and Debtor must address what assurances will be provided that the net proceeds of sale will be held or will only be used for purposes that are authorized by this Court (e.g., will all net proceeds be held in a blocked account?);
- (e) Notice of sale: No later than the deadline for filing and serving the amended motion, Debtor must file a notice of sale on the local form (LBR 6004-1(f)); amount "Due To Seller" on the estimated closing statement (dkt. 23, Ex.B, at PDF p.43);

(h) Good faith finding: Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at cacb.uscourts.gov) provide that before any successful bidder is found to be a good faith purchaser under 11 U.S.C. 363(m), supporting declaration(s) must be filed that address:

(2) consideration: whether any consideration is contemplated or has been transferred by the bidder in connection with the sale to any person other than the bankruptcy estate, and

(3) absence of fraud or collusion between the bidder and any relevant persons (e.g., other bidders, the debtor's officers, directors, agents or employees), or any attempt to take unfair advantage of other bidders. See generally In re M Capital Corp., 290 B.R. 743, 748-49 (9th Cir. BAP 2003). As used in this paragraph, a "bidder" includes all known prospective bidders.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/2/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Finances (MOR #8, Feb. 2019, dkt. 85), and US Trustee Notice of Delinquency (dkt. 82)

At the 2/5/19 hearing, Debtor's counsel informed this Court that Debtor actually was postpetition current with secured creditors despite MOR #6 reflecting 3 missed payments to FCI Lender and 3 missed payments to Rushmore Loan Management. But MOR #8 still reflects that those payments are missing. Dkt. 85, p.7. What is Debtor's explanation?

Meanwhile, the United States Trustee ("UST") has filed a Notice of Delinquency (dkt. 82) stating that Debtor missed a quarterly payment of $650 to the United States, and has not (as of that date) provided proof of current insurance (including a vehicle). These defaults call into question whether Debtor has sufficient cash flow to reorganize in this case.

(b) First Amended Plan (dkt. 76) and Disclosure Statement (dkt.75) - voting: acceptance by some, but not all, impaired classes (section 1129(a)(8))

As noted below, Class 1A has been combined with Class 2A, so there are three classes: Classes 2A (Wilmington), 2B (Nationwide/Hechter/Ocean), and 4A (general unsecured creditors). Debtor's Ballot Summary (dkt. 91) lists these three classes, but it includes two errors.

First, it asserts on page 1, item 6, that only one class (Class "2(a)") has accepted the Plan. But the ballots attached to the summary appear to show that two classes have accepted the Plan (Classes 2A and 4A).

Chapter 11

Second, the Ballot Summary states on page 1, item 3, that cramdown (11 U.S.C. 1129(b)) is not requested. But 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(8) requires acceptance by all impaired classes, and the only exception is cramdown. See 11 U.S.C. 1129(b) ("if all of the applicable requirements of subsection (a) of this section other than paragraph (8) are met ..." then the Court can confirm such plan in certain circumstances). In other words, by no withdrawing the Plan and instead proceeding with this hearing, Debtors implicitly request cramdown, even though the Ballot Summary says otherwise.

Accordingly, this Court will examine both whether the Plan meets all the requirements of subsection "(a)" of section 1129 (other than paragraph "(8)") and whether it meets the requirements of subsection "(b)." In addition, this Court will examine whether the Disclosure Statement, which was only provisionally approved for purposes of soliciting votes, can be approved on a final basis as containing "adequate information" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 1125(a)&(b).

(c) Plan (dkt. 76) and Disclosure Statement (dkt.75) - section 1129(a) (11) feasibility

Debtor proposes a 100% dividend to all creditors. But Debtor's budget is very thin. See Disclosure Statement, Exhibits C & I (dkt. 75, at PDF pp.6 & 13). Even with minimal expenditures on items like food and housekeeping ($550/mo.) and medical and dental expenses ($50/mo.), Debtor projects that she will have only $75.00 left at the end of the Effective Date and $42.14/mo. left each month thereafter (increasing to $358.70/mo. after the first 50 months).

But as noted above Debtor's finances appear to be unreliable. How can this Court find that Debtor's Plan is feasible (i) if Debtor is already behind on postpetition payments or alternatively (ii) if Debtor's reporting is so unreliable?

In addition, Debtors' cash flow has been made worse by their Court-approved stipulation to resolve an objection to confirmation and modify their Plan with Creditor Wilmington Savings Fund Society, FSB dba Christiana Trust ("Wilmington"). See dkt. 78 (limited obj.), dkt. 86 (stipulation), & dkt. 88 (order approving stip.). The Plan calls for payments to Wilmington of $1,187.10/mo (Class 2A & Ex.E) plus another $402.95/mo. for the arrears (originally Class 1A, but now included in Class 2A per the stipulation, dkt. 86, p.3, para."1"), for a total of $1,590.05. The stipulation calls for slightly more:

(i) payments of $1,119.61/mo. (amortizing payments of principal and interest) + (ii) $255.50/mo. estimated escrow payments (which do not appear to be accounted for in Debtors' budget, dkt. 75, Ex.I) + (iii) $402.95/mo. to pay arrears, for a total of $1,778.06 (which is $188.01/mo. more than contemplated in the Plan: $1,778.06 - $1,590.05 = $188.01).

A feasibility objection has been raised (dkt. 83) by creditor(s) Amir Hechter 24/42% Ocean 18, LLC 75.58% ("Hechter/Ocean") (Class 2B, listed as "Nationwide Servicing Center" in the Plan (dkt. 76, p.7). Based on the foregoing analysis, the tentative ruling is to sustain that objection.

(d) Plan (dkt. 76) and Disclosure Statement (dkt.75) - section 1129(a)(7) "best interests of creditors"

Hechter/Ocean objects that the Plan does not meet the "best interests of creditors" test, which requires that each creditor receive property of a value, "as of the effective date of the plan, that is not less than the amount that such [creditor would receive] if the debtor were liquidated under chapter 7 of this title on such date." 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(7)(A)(ii). The value of Debtor's promise of cash payments over time is addressed below.

(e) Plan (dkt. 76) and Disclosure Statement (dkt.75) - section 1129(a)(3) "good faith"

Hechter/Ocean objects that its loan matured seven years ago, that it negotiated a second mortgage loan based on Debtor's credit worthiness, property value, etc. at the time when the loan was made, and

[t]o arbitrarily extend the term of a loan secured by property from which the Debtor is collecting rents, and using the rental income for payment to other creditors, while forcing this creditor to wait 30 additional years to recover its full investment, puts the Debtor's good faith in question. [Dkt. 83, p.5:24-26]

On the one hand, there is no inherent lack of good faith in proposing to pay debts over time, even if those debts have already matured. To the contrary, for all creditors - regardless whether they are an unsecured tort victim, an unsecured trade vendor, a secured creditor with a fully matured loan, or a secured creditor with a loan that has just begun - the Bankruptcy Code contemplates that typically they will be paid over time, so as to maximize a debtor's ability to pay all creditors.

On the other hand, the tentative ruling is that Hechter/Ocean is correct that there are limits to this ability to pay over time. Debtor's good faith in proposing the Plan's treatment of Hechter/Ocean (Class 2B) is intertwined with whether that class will receive an appropriate interest rate to compensate it for all risks, including the increased risk from a long (360 month) term of repayments. Those issues of the appropriate interest rate and term are addressed below.

(f) Plan (dkt. 76) and Disclosure Statement (dkt.75) - other requirements of section 1129(a)

The tentative ruling is that the remaining requirements of section 1129(a) are either satisfied or irrelevant. For example, the requirements in paragraph "(9)" for treatment of tax claims appear to be satisfied by Debtor's use of this Court's form Plan and exhibits, which provide for payment of tax claims over a shorter period than other creditors in compliance with that paragraph of section 1129(a).

(g) Plan (dkt. 76) and Disclosure Statement (dkt.75) - section 1129(b) "cramdown"

Under 11 U.S.C. 1129(b) this Court "shall" confirm the Plan if it satisfies all the requirements of subsection "(a)" except for paragraph "(8)" (acceptance by all impaired classes) and "if the plan does not discriminate unfairly, and is fair and equitable, with respect to each class of claims or interests that is impaired under, and has not accepted, the plan." The "fair and equitable" requirement includes, but is not limited to, the requirements of paragraph "(2)" of section 1129(b), which are addressed below.

Hechter/Ocean objects that the Plan does not provide the "indubitable equivalent" of its claim. The tentative ruling is to overrule that objection, because the "indubitable equivalent" is just one of three alternative treatments: (i) retaining the creditor's lien and receiving "deferred cash payments" with a present value of the lien's present value (what the Plan proposes) (11 U.S.C. 1129(b)(2)(A)(i)), (ii) a sale, subject to credit bidding rights (1129(b)(2)(A)(ii)), "or" (iii) the "indubitable equivalent" of the creditor's claim (1129(b)(2)(A)(iii)).

But that leads to another objection raised by Hechter/Ocean: that the Plan does not provide cash payments with a present value equal to its lien's present value. 11 U.S.C. 1129(b)(2)(A)(i). Hechter/Ocean argues that "this Court should require an interest rate of 7.75% and a shorter, more reasonable term." Dkt. 83, p.4:20-21.

Hechter/Ocean uses the "formula" approach that was used by the Supreme Court for small-value collateral (a used truck) in Till v. SCS Credit Corp., 541 U.S. 465 (2004). That formula is the prime rate plus 1% to 3% depending on the risk factors.

It is an open question whether the Supreme Court intended for the formula approach to be used in all cases. The Posted procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) include the following:

§§ 506(b), 1129(b), 1325: "cramdown" interest rates. Judge Bason has expressed the view in various cases that when dealing with relatively small dollar amounts (for which the cost of presenting expert testimony as to interest rates would be prohibitive) the analysis in Till v. SCS Credit Corp., 541 U.S. 465 (2004), is appropriate, and conversely when dealing with larger dollar amounts the Till analysis probably is not appropriate, and one acceptable method for experts to opine as to the appropriate interest rate is the method described in In re Boulders on the River, Inc., 164 B.R. 99 (9th Cir. BAP 1994); see In re N. Valley Mall, LLC, 432 B.R. 825 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2010) (discussing continued viability of Boulders on the River).

The question is whether, in the facts and circumstances of this case, this Court should apply the simpler analysis in Till or a more complex analysis such as the one in Boulders on the River/N. Valley Mall. The tentative ruling is to use the Till analysis.

Applying Till, Hechter/Ocean asserts that the "current prime rate is 5.5%" and "[t]herefore a fixed rate of 6.5% to 8.5% would be proper as the bankrupt Debtor is getting an 84% loan to value ['LTV'] loan: this rate would be unavailable to a borrower with a history of defaults with even a 20% loan to value loan in today's market." Dkt. 83, p.5:10-14. As for the proposed term of repayment under the Plan (360 months), which is intertwined with the appropriate interest rate and is also an independent issue, Hechter/Ocean argues:

[T]he loan fully matured on December 28, 2011, more than seven years prior to the expected effective date of the plan. The Debtor proposes that the claim be paid over a new term of 360 months from the effective date. That is adding 30 years to a loan that matured more than seven years ago. Such treatment is patently unfair to this Secured Creditor, who negotiated a second mortgage loan based on the Debtor's credit worthiness, property value, etc. [Dkt. 83, p.5:19-23]

The tentative ruling is that, before this Court could fully assess the appropriate interest rate and term of any proposed repayment to Hechter/Ocean, this Court would need more evidence. But the tentative ruling is that, based on the evidence that is already in the record, the current proposed Plan's treatment of this claim is insufficient, and therefore the Plan cannot be confirmed.

Specifically, the additional evidence that would need to be presented would include support for Hechter/Ocean's assertion that the current prime rate is 5.5%, and evidence bearing on the risk factors, including whether there are analogous market rates for comparable debt (second liens, with a comparable LTV and comparable duration). See also Till, 541 U.S. 465, 484 (majority noting four components of risk cited by dissent: "(1) the probability of plan failure; (2) the rate of collateral depreciation; (3) the liquidity of the collateral market; and (4) the administrative expenses of enforcement").

(h) Conclusion as to Debtor's finances, and proposed Plan (dkt. 76) and Disclosure Statement (dkt.75)

The tentative ruling is that the cash flow evidence does not support the projections in Debtors' Disclosure Statement, so it cannot be approved on a final basis. In addition, the tentative ruling is that the Plan cannot be confirmed because Debtors have not established feasibility (1129(a)(11)).

The parties would have to present more evidence before this Court could determine the specific interest rate to provide present value (for purposes of 1129(b)(2)(A)(i), 1129(a)(3), and 1129(a)(7)) and whether the proposed term is too long to be "fair and equitable" to Hechter/Ocean (1129(b)(1)). But the tentative ruling is that (i) the combination of the currently proposed interest rate and term are insufficient to provide present value and (ii) this Court need not reach the issue of what exact interest rate and term would be necessary to provide present value because the feasibility issue is dispositive.

(i) Future proceedings / disposition of this case

Based on the foregoing tentative rulings, the parties should be prepared to address whether this case should be dismissed or converted.

One alternative might be for Debtor to abandon the property secured by the lien of Hechter/Ocean. Another alternative might be if Debtors have any other, more feasible strategy to reorganize their finances, including any good faith grounds to object to the Hechter/Ocean claim, and whether that would reduce their obligations enough so that they could propose a feasible plan. But it might be too late to propose such a strategy given the duration of this case, and the lack of evidence that Debtor's finances are improving.

insurance was only $25,000 (does that comply with legal requirements?) and expired on 12/22/18. Id., p.7.

What caused these losses and missed payments? How can Debtor afford to continue in this chapter 11 bankruptcy case?

(b) Plan (dkt. 74), Disclosure Statement (dkt. 73), and order setting hearing re same (dkt. 63)

The tentative ruling is to reschedule the combined hearing on final approval of the Disclosure Statement and confirmation of the Plan from 3/5/19 to 4/2/19 at 1:00 p.m. for two reasons. First, as noted above, Debtor's finances are problematic, and perhaps additional time will enable Debtor to establish a better track record and meet the feasibility requirement of 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(11).

Second, contrary to the oral ruling at the last status conference, Debtor did not lodge this Court's form of order (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov, under Judge Bason's portion of the web site) setting a combined hearing, which would have directed Debtor to provide notice to creditors of the 3/5/19 hearing (and associated deadlines) in sufficient time to comply with the applicable rules. (Debtor's counsel apparently misunderstood and lodged a different order that included the 3/5/19 hearing along with other matters, which this Court signed without recognizing the error, dkt. 63.)

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/8/19 for Debtor to lodge the correct form of order and file a revised Disclosure Statement and revised Plan that list the revised 4/2/19 hearing date in the caption, and that include a revised form of ballot (dkt. 74, Appendix "1") that states "The Court has provisionally approved" the Disclosure Statement instead of "The Court has approved" (Emphasis added.)

Chapter 11

Movant previously filed a motion (dkt. 8) for relief from the automatic stay in this case. This Court issued an adequate protection order (dkt. 31, the "APO"). The APO provides that the stay will remain in place as long as Debtor makes adequate protection payments, but that the stay will not apply in any future bankruptcy case ("in rem" relief).

(2) Alleged cause for relief under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1)&(4)

(a) Insurance

Movant asserts that Debtor has failed to provide proof that the property is insured. See dkt. 78, p.3. Debtor's response (dkt. 83) fails to address this issue, as pointed out by Movant's reply (dkt. 85).

At the hearing, Debtor is directed to address whether the property is insured, and to make an offer of proof. This Court may be persuaded to terminate the automatic stay immediately if Debtor fails to provide adequate proof of insurance that complies with the loan documents (e.g., naming Movant as a party entitled to notice and/or as an insured party, if that is what the loan documents require).

(b) Order for relief from the stay in a related case

Movant now seeks relief again, pointing out that since the APO was issued an order granting relief from the automatic stay has been issued in a case filed by Debtor's principal and 100% equity owner, Sergio Moreno Morales. See In re Morales (Case No. 2:18-bk-16365-WB), dkt. 31 (issued on 7/3/18) (the "In Rem Order"). The In Rem Order grants relief under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) - i.e., relief that is applicable notwithstanding any future bankruptcy case. By definition the In Rem Order is not applicable to this pending bankruptcy case, but Movant apparently believes the issuance of that order should be considered cause under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1)&(4) to modify the APO so as to terminate the automatic stay immediately.

This Court is not persuaded. First, as Debtor points, in this case there is no evidence that Debtor has failed to comply with the APO.

Second, the In Rem Order itself recites that there was no opposition to that order. In contrast, in this case Debtor has responded and adequately established, long before the In Rem Order was issued, that there were grounds to hold Debtor to a strict APO but not terminate the stay.

To summarize this Court's prior reasoning in issuing the APO, although it is true that Mr. Morales has filed multiple bankruptcy cases and previously arranged an unauthorized transfer of title to the real property from Debtor to himself, (a) title was restored to Debtor on or about 6/1/18 (see dkt. 21, p.4:5-6), (b) Mr. Morales has adequately explained his prior bankruptcy cases and the unauthorized transfer of title, at least for purposes of issuing the APO rather than terminating the automatic stay (see dkt. 21, pp.4:9-5:21, and 7:12-10:22), and (c) creditors would be harmed if the stay were terminated in this case. Not only does this reasoning still apply, but the APO is the law of this case, and Movant has neither briefed the standards for overcoming the law of the case nor established legal or factual grounds for reconsidering the APO.

As Debtor argues, Movant must show both (a) a lack of equity in the property and (b) that the property is not necessary for an effective reorganization. Debtor disputes both of these prongs. Ultimately, however, both parties' arguments depend on whether there is equity in the property. If there is, then the property can be sold and net proceeds distributed to creditors. If there is no equity, Debtor has not suggested any reason why the property would be necessary to an effective reorganization.

Any equity in the property is equal to the property's value minus costs of sale and liens or other encumbrances. Debtor questions whether the dollar amount that Movant claims to be owed on its lien takes into consideration the payments made under the APO. That may make a difference of a few thousand dollars. The larger issue is the value of the property.

Movant asserts that the value is $750,000. See dkt. 78, p.8 & Ex.M, and dkt. 85 at PDF pp.11 et seq. (Mauch Decl.). Debtor's principal asserts (dkt. 83, pp.9:20-10:2) that Debtor has recently accepted an offer to purchase the property for $850,000, for which he will seek this Court's approval under 11 U.S.C. 363(b)&(f). Debtor's principal also asserts (id.) that he believes the property is actually worth much more - approximately $915,000 - but that "in the interest of moving Debtor's reorganization along and avoiding Movant's attempts at relief and foreclosure" he "has determined that it is in the best interest of the estate to accept a purchase price of $850,000.00."

The tentative ruling is that the best method of determining whether Debtor has an equity in the property (and hence, in the circumstances of this case, whether the property is necessary to an effective reorganization of Debtor's finances) is to move forward with the proposed sale of the property (presumably subject to overbids). As the Supreme Court has stated, generally "the best way to determine value is exposure to a market." Bank of Am. v. 203 N. LaSalle St. P'ship, 526 U.S. 434, 457 (1999).

This Court takes judicial notice that Debtor has filed an application (dkt. 82) to employ a real estate broker. In other words, Debtor appears to be taking steps to proceed with the proposed sale of the property.

Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline for Debtor to file and serve its motion to sell the property under 11 U.S.C. 363(b)&(f), and defer any other issues until after this Court determines whether or not to approve the proposed sale. The tentative ruling is that a motion to sell must be filed and served no later than 2/1/19, and self-calendared for hearing on 2/26/19 at 1:00 p.m.

In addition, the tentative ruling is to continue the present motion for relief from the automatic stay to the same time (specially set at 1:00 p.m., rather than the usual time of 10:00 a.m.). In addition, the tentative ruling is to reschedule the upcoming Status Conference in this case from 2/5/19 to 2/26/19 at 1:00 p.m.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/2/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Closing of sale (per Order, dkt. 129)

Debtor's status report (dkt. 128) does not state how soon the approved sale will close. When is it scheduled to close?

(b) Motion for Relief from Stay (dkt. 78)

If there is a satisfactory answer to how soon the sale will close, the tentative ruling is to continue this motion to the same time as the continued status conference to allow time for the sale to be completed and for Debtor to pay approximately $645,707.28 to Crescent ($870,885 payoff demand, per dkt. 128, p.3:14, minus amounts to be held aside pending resolution of forthcoming claim objection: approximately $200,177.72 in default interest and $25,000 balloon fee).

(c) Forthcoming claim objection

How soon will this be filed?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 6/11/18.

(a) Bar date: 2/8/19 (timely served, dkt. 67)

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD.

(c) Continued status conference: 5/7/19 at 1:00 p.m., brief status report due 4/30/19

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 3/5/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Application to employ James Gallardo as real estate broker (dkt. 112, 113)

The parties must inform the Court as to the status of the Mr. Vasquez and the bankruptcy estate having separate real estate brokers (or Mr. Vasquez proceeding without a broker); how any brokers will split the 4% commission; and the other issues laid out by the Court in the tentative ruling for the 2/26/19 hearing. The tentative ruling is that the sale cannot be approved until a broker is authorized to represent the estate in the sale.

(b) Debtor's Motion for Authority to Sell Altadena Property (the "Sale Motion," dkt. 102, 105, 114)

(i) Payment of costs of sale, including real estate brokers

The tentative ruling is to sustain the UST's objection (dkt. 104) and Crescent's objection (dkt. 110) to the extent they object to paying any attorney fees out of escrow, or paying the real estate brokers until those brokers are actually retained, but overrule those objections to the extent they object to paying costs of sale, including real estate brokers, ahead of Crescent.

(ii) Payment of the portion of Crescent's claim that is not (yet) disputed, and real estate taxes

The parties should be prepared to address whether a new closing statement has been generated to update the amount to be paid to Crescent and to show that real estate taxes will be paid out of escrow.

(iii) "Good faith" finding

If Mr. Vasquez files a declaration that comports with Judge Bason's procedures before the proposed order approving the sale is lodged, then the tentative ruling is to include a good faith finding in that order.

(iv) Approval of sale

Subject to all the foregoing (including that a broker must be retained before the sale can be approved), the tentative ruling is to approve the sale.

Tentative Ruling for 2/26/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues (dkt. 111 etc.)

Debtor's proposed sale of certain real estate is intertwined with Debtor's proposed employment of a real estate broker. The tentative ruling is to go forward with the sale hearing, including any overbids, and approve the sale on a provisional basis, with a continued hearing on both the employment application and the sale motion at the same time as the continued status conference (see below).

(a) Application to employ James Gallardo as real estate broker (dkt. 112, 113)

As pointed out by both the United States Trustee ("UST") (dkt. 104) and creditor Crescent Capital Holdings ("Crescent") (dkt. 110), Mr. Gallardo is purporting to act as a dual agent, for both the seller (Debtor) and the proposed buyer (subject to overbids), Luis Vasquez. Judge Bason prohibits dual agency, as noted both in his posted Procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) and in the order approving the prior real estate broker (dkt. 92) (Mr. Leal).

The tentative ruling is that the lack of dual agency is mandated by the disinterestedness requirements of the Bankruptcy Code and Rules, so it cannot be waived. It is irrelevant that, outside of bankruptcy, it is not uncommon for parties in real estate transactions to accept their agent's lack of disinterestedness. See Reply to Sale Motion (dkt. 115, p.3:10-21).

Accordingly, the tentative ruling is that, if the highest and best bid is that of Mr. Vasquez, then Mr. Vasquez must file a declaration confirming that he has retained his own real estate broker (who must be unaffiliated with Mr. Gallardo), and Mr. Gallardo must represent only Debtor and the bankruptcy estate (not Mr. Vasquez).

In addition, the parties are directed to address whether Mr. Gallardo and/or Debtor's counsel must pay the additional real estate broker out of either (i) a portion of the 4% commission that was to have been paid solely to Mr. Gallardo, or (ii) out of a reduction in Debtor's counsel's attorney fees, so that the bankruptcy estate is not prejudiced by Debtor's non-compliance with the prohibition on dual agency. In other words, should this Court order that the total commission to all real estate brokers combined must not exceed 4%?

In addition, there might be other grounds for objecting to Mr. Gallardo's employment, and the time for objections has not yet expired, so the employment cannot be approved yet. The employment application was served on 2/12/19, which means that objections can be filed until 3/1/19 (14 days plus 3 for service via U.S. mail). Until after that date, parties in interest and this Court will not know if, for example, someone were to object to Mr. Gallardo's employment and the proposed sale on the basis that Mr. Gallardo had an undisclosed interest in the sale.

The tentative ruling is that until Mr. Guillardo's employment is approved, the sale must be only provisionally approved. The tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to shorten time (Rule 9006, Fed. R. Bankr. P.) because there is a substantial risk in any bankruptcy sale that if the sale is deferred then prospective purchasers may be unable or unwilling to continue to bid on the property (this Court takes judicial notice that there are considerable costs in holding a proposed sale open, if it is even possible to retain enough funds on hand to close a sale that has been deferred).

For all of the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is to set the employment application for hearing at the same time as the continued sale motion and continued status conference (see below).

(b) Debtor's Motion for Authority to Sell Altadena Property (the "Sale Motion," dkt. 102, 105, 114)

(i) Continued hearing

The tentative ruling is to approve the sale (subject to overbids) on a provisional basis, with a continued hearing at the same time as the continued status conference (see below). Between now and that continued hearing, Mr. Vasquez must arrange for a separate real estate broker to represent him (or must proceed without any real estate broker), and must disclaim any reliance on any past representation by Mr. Guillardo and any present representation by him. In addition, the parties can take whatever steps may be appropriate to address the issues set forth below.

(ii) No approval or payment of attorney fees at this time

The tentative ruling is to sustain the objection of the UST (dkt. 104), joined in by Crescent (dkt. 110), that attorney fees must be subject to approval by this Court pursuant to the usual procedures, and that any approval of the proposed sale shall not be deemed to be approval of the attorney fees. The tentative ruling is that the proposed attorney fees must be held by Debtor's counsel in a separate account from which funds cannot be released without further order of this Court (a "Blocked Account"). In addition, the tentative ruling is to defer any ruling on Crescent's objection that it should be paid in full before any attorney fees are allowed (dkt. 110, p.5:24-25), because the timing of any distribution of attorney fees can be addressed in connection with allowance or disallowance of those fees.

(iii) Payment of real estate taxes

Crescent objects (dkt. 110, pp.4:24-5:14) that LA County's claim for real estate taxes, estimated to be $18,456.38, is of a lower priority than Crescent's own claim and therefore should not be paid until Crescent is paid in full. The parties are directed to address (x) whether the real estate taxes are in fact of a lower priority than Crescent's lien, (y) whether any doctrine of marshaling should apply (i.e., whether, even if Crescent's lien is of a higher priority in this property, its claim should be paid from the sale of any other property of the estate so that LA County can be paid out of this sale, or alternatively whether LA County is entitled to a replacement lien on other property so that it is not prejudiced by the fact that this property is being sold prior to other properties), and (z) whether any disputed funds that Debtor proposes to pay either LA County or Crescent must be held in the Blocked Account pending further order of this Court.

In addition, the parties are directed to address how any accruing interest affects the analysis. For example, if funds are held in a Blocked Account pending resolution of the competing claims of LA County and Crescent, will those claims continue to accrue interest at the rate that otherwise would apply (e.g., 18% or 29.99% or some other high rate), or only at the rate that is being paid by the bank at which the Blocked Account is maintained (e.g., 1%)?

The parties also are directed to address what will happen if the funds are distributed to LA County (to stop interest running) but later turn out to be payable to Crescent or the bankruptcy estate. Will LA County be subject to a disgorgement order, consistent with any sovereign immunity analysis?

(iv) Payment of costs of sale, including real estate brokers

The tentative ruling is to sustain the UST's objection (dkt. 104) and Crescent's objection (dkt. 110) to the extent they object to paying the real estate brokers until those brokers are actually retained. But the tentative ruling is to overrule Crescent's objection to the extent it is seeking to bar paying of any costs of sale, including real estate brokers, until it is paid in full, because those costs are properly chargeable out of Crescent's collateral. See dkt. 110, p.4:5-7; 11 U.S.C. 506(c).

(v) Payment of the portion of Crescent's claim that is not (yet) disputed

Crescent objects that Debtor has had considerable time in which to file any objection to its claim, but has yet to do so, and that the only portion of its claim as to which an objection has been outlined is the default interest. The tentative ruling is that this objection is well taken: not until 2/13/19 did Debtor assert that it would object to Crescent's claim on the additional ground of not fully funding the construction loan. See dkt. 114, p.4, para.7; dkt. 115, p.4:24-26. The tentative ruling is that this last minute suggestion of a possible type of claim objection is insufficient to support Debtor's proposal to withhold all distributions from Crescent.

In other words, the tentative ruling is that Debtor must pay all principal and non-default interest through the date of closing of escrow, plus all other charges included in the proof of claim, without prejudice to Crescent seeking additional charges and default interest, and conversely without prejudice to Debtor objecting at a later time to any charges (other than principal and non-default interest). This means that Debtor would have to pay out of escrow not only principal and non-default interest but also any attorney fees, late fees, or other charges included in the Proof of Claim, and Crescent subsequently could seek additional attorney fees and other charges, but Debtor subsequently could object both to any attorney fees and other charges that have already been distributed and to any new attorney fees and other charges.

The foregoing tentative ruling attempts to balance Debtor's broad rights to object to claims at any time against Debtor's unexplained delay in raising these issues, and against Crescent's rights (consistent with this Court's adequate protection order) to receive distributions without undue delay.

Debtor's latest closing statement (dkt. 114, Ex.A, at PDF p.6) lists the "Loan Payoff" as "To Be Determined" but with an (estimated) amount of $512,500. Crescent is directed to address at the hearing the approximate dollar amount that will comport with the foregoing tentative ruling.

(vi) "Good faith" finding

The tentative ruling is that any "good faith" finding (11 U.S.C. 363(m)) will require a declaration from any successful bidder that complies with the posted Procedures of Judge Bason:

§ 363(m): "Good Faith" Findings. Supporting declaration(s) should address: (1) connections: the bidder's prior, current, or expected connections with any relevant persons (other bidders, the debtor, major creditors or equity security holders in the case, or any of the debtor's officers, directors, agents, or employees, including whether any offers of employment or compensation have been made or will be offered to debtor's present or former officers, directors, agents, or employees), (2) consideration: whether any consideration is contemplated or has been transferred by the bidder in connection with the sale to any person other than the bankruptcy estate, and (3) absence of fraud or collusion between the bidder and any relevant persons (e.g., other bidders, the debtor's officers, directors, agents or employees), or any attempt to take unfair advantage of other bidders. (c) Motion for Relief from Stay (dkt. 78)

The tentative ruling is to continue this motion to the same time as the continued hearing on the Sale Motion.

(d) Motion for 2004 Examination (the "2004 Motion," dkt. 106)

Grant in part and deny in part as follows. The tentative ruling is to exercise this Court's discretion to limit discovery in keeping with the general principles set forth in Rule 26(b) and 45(d)&(e) (Fed. R. Civ. P.) and Rules 7026, 9016 and 9018 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). Without limiting the foregoing, this Court is particularly aware that (i) although Debtor has yet to file any actual objection to Crescent's claim, that is clearly contemplated; (ii) Crescent has an interest in maintaining the confidentiality of its loan-analysis methodology; and (iii) Debtor has not shown that it lacks its own records on many of the issues on which it seeks discovery and that the relative burdens and benefits weigh in its favor.

The tentative ruling is that no later than 3/15/19 Crescent must produce the documents listed below (the list is excerpted from the 2004 Motion) and that Crescent's person most knowledgeable about the subject matter of those document requests must appear for examination at Debtor's bankruptcy counsel's law offices on 4/5/19 at 10:00 a.m. The document requests/subject matter that this Court tentatively will allow is as follows:

- (1) "ALL COMMUNICATIONS between YOU and the DEBTOR RELATING TO THE $500,000 LOAN" (dtk. 106, PDF p.23, Section A.6)
- (2) "ALL DOCUMENTS, including COMMUNICATIONS, RELATING TO YOUR assessment of the default interest rate with respect ot he $500,000 LOAN" (Id. at PDF p.24, Section A.11)
- (3) "ALL DOCUMENTS referring or relating to YOUR calculations of damages that YOU would sustain in the event of any default under the $500,000 LOAN" (Id. at PDF p.25, Section B.17)
- (4) "ALL DOCUMENTS referring or relating to YOUR analysis of the appropriate default interest to apply to the $500,000 LOAN" (Id.

at PDF p.25, Section B.18)

(5) "ALL DOCUMENTS referring or relating to YOUR efforts to arrive at a default interest rate that was intended to compensate YOU for actual anticipated damages that would result from a default under the $500,000 LOAN" (Id. at PDF p. 25, Section B.22)

(6) "All appraisals or title reports completed RELATING TO the REAL PROPERTY" (Id. at PDF p.26, Section B.26)

The tentative ruling is, notwithstanding Debtor's reply (dkt. 117), to sustain Crescent's objections (dkt. 109) to the remaining questions, without prejudice to Debtor seeking further discovery (either under Rule 2004 or under other discovery rules, as appropriate) based upon a proper showing. For example, as noted above Debtor now contemplates that it might object to Crescent's claim based on Crescent not fully funding the construction loan, but Debtor provides no information about the facts and circumstances, which might assist Crescent and this Court to evaluate whether discovery is or is not focused on relevant issues.

Did Crescent promise to fund the loan with no strings attached, or did it impose performance metrics, or was the remaining funding within Crescent's sole discretion? What dollar amount did Crescent refuse to fund? When did it do so? What reasons, if any, did it give? Is Debtor contemplating a breach of contract objection, or a tort claim, or both?

In addition, the tentative ruling is to overrule Crescent's remaining objections as follows:

(i) LBR 2004-1(a): While the conference between Debtor and Crescent may not have been productive (dkt. 109, p.2), this Court is satisfied that for present purposes, the parties have "attempt[ed] to confer" as required by LBR 2004-1(a).

(ii) LBR 9013-1: Although the amount of notice of Debtor's 2004 Motion was short, Crescent has not shown that it was prejudiced by such shortened notice. The tentative ruling is to excuse any untimeliness in the 2004 Motion.

(iii) Laches: Crescent has not alleged sufficient delay to persuade this Court that relief based on laches is appropriate.

Tentative Ruling for 4/2/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 2/26/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current matters

At the hearing on 10/2/18 this Court heard oral argument on the motion of the Bureau of Land Management ("BLM") to dismiss Debtor's adversary proceeding ("Debtor v. BLM," Adv. No. 2:18-ap-01057-NB). This Court took the matter under submission and continued the various related matters in this case to 12/4/18, and then (for this Court's own scheduling needs) to 12/18/18 (dkt. 167), and then (based on the partial shutdown of the U.S. government) to 2/26/19 (Debtor v. BLM adv. dkt. 44, 46).

Chapter 11

This Court anticipates, prior to this 2/26/19 hearing, finalizing and issuing a Memorandum Decision granting the BLM's motion to dismiss the Debtor v. BLM adversary proceeding, without leave to amend. Based on that ruling, Debtor will not have any interest in the subject leases. The tentative ruling is that this moots the related matters:

(i) Debtor v. Western States Int'l et al.

Debtor's adversary proceeding against other parties in interest that essentially seeks to clear Debtor's title to the leases ("Debtor v. Western States Int'l, et al.," Adv. No. 2:17-ap-01326-NB); and

(ii) R/S Motion (dkt. 130)

Ms. Aliet-Gass's motion for relief from the automatic stay to proceed with pending litigation in State Court, in which she essentially seeks to assert the alleged interests of Western States Int'l against Debtor.

Accordingly, the tentative ruling is (x) to stay the foregoing related matters for a period of not less than 14 days after entry of this Court's order dismissing the Debtor v. BLM adversary proceeding, (y) if there is an appeal from that order, to extend such stay during the pendency of any appeal and subsequent proceedings on that order, and (z) if there is no appeal, dismiss this bankruptcy case and all pending adversary proceedings and contested matters. This Court will prepare the orders granting the BLM's motion to dismiss and the orders staying the related proceedings.

The parties should be prepared to address whether any additional procedural issues need to be addressed.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 11/23/16.

(a) Bar date: 7/10/17 and 1/26/18 (sufficiently served, dkt. 56, 60, 103, 107, 110, 111, 121, 123).

Tentative Ruling for 6/26/18:

(2) Continue the R/S Motion, which is currently set for 5/1/18 at 10:00 a.m., to the same date and time.

After this hearing date this Court will prepare an order continuing all of the foregoing matters and will serve it on the BLM, Aliet-Gass, and Western States International, Inc. at the addresses known to this Court, and that order will also direct the debtor to serve those parties and any other known parties with an interest in the foregoing matters.

It appears that plaintiff has abandoned claims against defendant Jag Pathirana other than "clearing title" to the plaintiff/debtor's alleged property interests at issue in the complaint. arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues.

(a) Status Reports (main case dkt. 122; adv. no. 2:17-ap-01326-NB, dkt. 132). The debtor/plaintiff suggests that it will be filing a motion to approve a disclosure statement. Is that premature, given the following issues?

(b) Motion to amend complaint (adv. dkt. 125). The parties should be prepared to address the issues raised in the motion and in the oppositions filed by the California Department of Conservation, Division of Oil and Gas, and Geothermal Resources ("DOGGR") (adv. dkt. 125, 130, 131).

In addition, the debtor/plaintiff should be prepared to address whether the proposed amended complaint cures the deficiencies in the original complaint, and whether any ruling on the motion to amend the complaint should be deferred until after default judgments are (or are not) obtained on the existing (original) complaint, for the reasons set forth in this Court's Memorialization Of Reasons For Denying Motions For Default Judgments (captioned for the adversary proceeding but erroneously filed in the main case as dkt. 118). See also Order denying prior motions for default judgments (adv. dkt. 117) and subsequent Motions for default judgments (adv. dkt. 133, 134, 135).

www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 1/23/18:

Continue the status conferences in both the main case and the adversary proceeding (adv. no. 2:17-ap-01326-NB) to 2/13/18 at 2:00 p.m. with a status report due 2/6/18 (at which time other documents are also due as set forth below) for the reasons set forth below. Appearances are not required on 1/23/18.

(1) Current issues

(a) Reasons for continuance: (i) because of the problems noted below; (ii) because of the debtor's untimely last-minute filing of status reports (the debtor is cautioned that continued untimely filings may result in sanctions); (iii) because of the inability of the Office of the United States Trustee to appear due to the shutdown of much of the federal government, (iv) to be concurrent with the (improperly self-calendared) motion to amend the complaint, and (v) in view of the debtor's various status reports (main case dkt. 117, adv. dkt. 122, 127, 129).

(b) Bar date. The debtor's proofs of service of the bar date order are missing exhibits and incomprehensible (see dkt. 110, 111). The debtor is directed to file, no later than 2/6/18, either a corrected proof of service or an application (supported by a declaration) to set yet another supplemental bar date - whichever is appropriate.

(c) Status of existing complaint in adversary proceeding. On 11/20/17 this court issued an order (adv. dkt. 117) denying the plaintiff/debtor's motions for default judgments, without prejudice. The debtor now seeks to amend the complaint (adv. dkt. 125). All of these things moot the motions for default judgments so the hearings on those motions have been vacated.

In addition, the tentative ruling is to memorialize this court's reasons for denying the motions for default judgments by filing on the docket a copy of this court's adopted tentative ruling for the 11/14/17 hearings on those motions (reproduced within the tentative ruling for calendar no. 9. 1/23/18 at 2:00 p.m.).

calendared for 2:00 p.m. (a time that cannot be used for self-calendaring) on 2/13/18. Nevertheless, the tentative ruling is to permit that motion to proceed at that time.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 11/23/16.

(a) Bar date: initial date of 7/10/17 (order timely served, dkt. 56, 60); supplemental date of 1/26/18, to be served no later than 11/15/17 (per Order, dkt. 107) but proofs of service are incomprehensible (dkt. 110, 111) - see above under "current issues".

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD.

(c) Continued status conference: as set forth above.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 11/14/17:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address the following issues.

(1) Current issues. The debtor has filed a second (very belated) proof of service (dkt. 103) of this court's order (dkt. 56) setting a bar date. Under that order the bar date was set as 7/10/17 and service was required no later than 5/8/17. What does the debtor's belated service do except cause confusion? Does the debtor require a new bar date for previously unknown creditors?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 11/23/16. If this case is not converted or dismissed, the tentative ruling is to set the following:

- (a) Bar date: 7/10/17 (order timely served, dkt. 56, 60; but see above under "current issues").
 - (b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD.
 - (c) Continued status conference: 1/30/18 at 2:00 p.m., status report due 1/16/18.
- *Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 8/22/17:

The tentative ruling is to dismiss this case with a 180 day bar for willful failure to appear in proper prosecution, as set forth below. See 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1). Appearances are not required.

Reasons: This case was filed on 11/23/16. The debtor's assets consist of disputed rights in hydrocarbon leases. See Status Report, dkt. 81. Realizing any value from those rights apparently depends on retaining special counsel who will diligently prosecute the debtor's claims. Despite numerous opportunities, the debtor has failed to satisfy the prerequisites for retention of special counsel.

(1) Inadequate declarations about "connections"

At the hearing on 7/11/17 this court extensively reviewed the evidence that would be required before this court could approve the application to employ the latest proposed special counsel, Mr. Montes. That included a requirement of detailed declarations from Mr. and Mrs. Hoats regarding any transfers of any property (including intangible property) involving the debtor and any of them, as well as any other "connections" (as that term is used in Rule 2014, Fed. R. Bankr. P.) to the debtor and any other party in interest.

Chapter 11

This court recognizes that Mr. and Mrs. Hoats are not the professionals whose employment is being sought. Nevertheless, given their very close ties to the debtor, and their failure to disclose connections to the prior proposed special counsel that raised questions about conflicts of interest, this court orally ordered the debtor to provide their declarations at the hearing on 5/2/17. That order has been ignored.

(2) Knudsen factors

This court also directed Mr. Montes to file a declaration addressing the factors that this court must consider in assessing his request to be paid more frequently than once every 120 days. See In re Knudsen, 84 B.R. 668, 672-73 (9th Cir. BAP 1988). Mr. Montes has filed such a declaration (dkt. 82) and has adequately summarized the factors (id., p.3:15-23) but he has not adequately addressed the third factor, which he summarizes as: "any funds paid but later disapproved by the court can be recovered from the professional" in one or more of the ways listed in Knudsen. (Emphasis added.) Those ways are:

- [a. Holdback] retainer payments are for only a percentage of the amount billed so that the likelihood or necessity of repayment is minimal [Mr. Montes suggests a 10% holdback, which has not been shown to be adequate - the typical amount is 20%, and that typically applies only to well established firms whose ability to repay funds is reinforced by the firm's longevity and reputation or similar considerations];
- [b. Bond] counsel can post a bond covering any possible reassessment [Mr. Montes has not addressed this factor];
- [c. Financial ability to repay] counsel's financial position makes it certain that any reassessment can be repaid [Mr. Montes has not addressed this factor]; [and/or]
- [d. Hold funds in trust account] funds paid prior to allowance are held in a trust account until a final or interim fee allowance is made [Mr. Montes has only offered to place the 10% proposed holdback in a trust account]. [Knudsen, 84 B.R. 668, at 672]

(3) The debtor appears to cite the wrong statutory authority

The debtor's application to employ Mr. Montes (dkt. 65) requests that his employment be approved under subsection "(e)" of 11 U.S.C. 327. But that subsection only applies by its terms to an attorney who "has represented the debtor" (i.e., prepetition counsel whose employment is to continue postpetition). Id. (emphasis added).

That is not the end of the analysis, because it has been held that special counsel can be employed even when such counsel has not represented the debtor prepetition. See In re Fondiller, 15 B.R. 890, 892 (9th Cir. BAP 1981) (emphasis added), appeal dismissed, 707 F.2d 441 (9th Cir. 1983). Although Fondiller has been interpreted as authorizing employment under subsection (e) (see, e.g., Covenant Fin. Group of Am., Inc., 243 B.R. 450, 455 & n. 8 (Bankr. N.D. Ala. 1999)), the precise holding of Fondiller appears to be that special counsel can be employed under subsection "(a)" of Section 327 because any "omission" in subsection "(e)" does not limit the general authority in subsection "(a)." See Fondiller, 15 B.R. at 891-92 (interpreting § 327(a) by comparison with §§ 327(c) and (e)).

True, the precise statutory authority appears to make little if any practical difference, because Fondiller held that when counsel is only employed to perform limited services, then an interest "adverse to the estate" means "an adverse interest relating to the services which are to be performed by that attorney," which appears to mean that the inquiry for proposed special counsel under subsection "(a)" is the same as under subsection "(e)." Fondiller, 15 B.R. at 892 (emphasis added). Mr. Montes' declaration (included in dkt. 65) appears to meet this test because he states that he has no adverse interest.

Nevertheless, as stated above this court has required additional evidence from Mr. and Mrs. Hoats and that evidence has not been provided. In addition, because the debtor has sought authority under subsection "(e)" instead of "(a)" it appears not have met the technical requirements for employment of Mr. Montes.

If you wish to dispute the above tentative ruling, please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings".

(1) Current issues.

(a) Proposed special counsel.

(i) Background. On 4/5/17 the debtor filed an application for authority to employ the law offices of Mr. McMahon as special counsel under 11 U.S.C. 327(e) (dkt. 47). On 4/12/17 the United States Trustee ("UST") filed an objection to the employment application, which expressed concerns about the payment arrangement proposed in the application (dkt. 49).

The debtor filed a statement of disinterestedness for Mr. McMahon (dkt.53), and a reply (dkt.55), stating that a third party, Ms. Lilian Hoats, will be paying the attorney fees for Mr. McMahon's representation. Ms. Hoats is the CEO of Inviron Technologies, Inc. ("Managing Member"), which is the debtor's managing member (dkt. 55, Ex.1, p.1, recital "b"). Attached to the reply (dkt. 55, Ex.1) is a written document that purports to be a waiver of conflicts (if any exist) among the debtor, Ms. Hoats, and the Managing Member (the "Hoats/Managing Member Conflict Waiver").

The Attorney-Client Retainer Agreement attached to the employment application (dkt. 46, Ex.1) provides that Mr. McMahon is representing not only the debtor but also its affiliates Riverwood Energy, LLC ("Energy Affiliate") and Riverwood Resources Ltd. ("Resources Affiliate"). This court is not aware of the precise organizational and contractual relationships among the debtor, Energy Affiliate, and Resources Affiliate, nor of any written document purporting to be a waiver of conflicts (if any exist) among them.

(ii) Statutory provisions and rules

Although special counsel does not have to be "disinterested" (compare 11 U.S.C. 327(a)), special counsel still must not "represent or hold any interest adverse to the debtor or to the estate with respect to the matter on which such attorney is to be employed." 11 U.S.C. 327(e) (emphasis added). Under Rule 2014 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) both Mr. McMahon and the debtor were supposed to disclose all connections between Mr. McMahon and "the debtor, creditors, any other party in interest, their respective attorneys and accountants, the United States trustee, or any person employed in the office of the United States trustee."

The disclosures have not been adequate. This court does not know enough about the underlying litigation and the organizational and contractual relationships among the various entities to assess whether there may be conflicts of interest between the debtor, on the one hand, and Ms. Hoats, Managing Member, Energy Affiliate, and/or Resource Affiliate.

Chapter 11

(iii) A DIP's conflicts generally cannot be waived

Any purported conflict waiver probably cannot waive actual conflicts. See, e.g., In re Perry, 194 B.R. 875, 880 (E.D.Cal.1996) (waiver of conflict by non-debtor parties was insufficient and "[i]nformed consent could not be obtained" because "the real parties in interest in this case are the creditors, and that is not a waivable conflict"); In re B.E.S. Concrete Products, Inc., 93 B.R. 228, 235 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. 1988).

But while actual conflicts of interest create a violation of 11 U.S.C. 327 which would require disqualification of the proposed professional, the mere existence of a potential conflict of interest does not require disqualification, and it is up to the court's discretion whether the purported conflict is sufficiently threatening to the estate to warrant disqualification. In re Wheatfield Business Park, LLC, 286 B.R. 412, 421 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2002).

Are proposed counsel and the debtor aware of any actual conflicts?
How about potential conflicts?

(iv) The purported conflict waiver is incomplete

The Hoats/Managing Member Conflict Waiver is not actually signed by Ms. Hoats in her individual capacity (she has only signed it on behalf of the debtor's Managing Member). In addition, as noted above, this court is not aware of any purported conflict waiver among the debtor and Operating Affiliate or Resources Affiliate.

(v) There might be conflicts among the debtor and Ms. Hoats

A third party who funds a retainer for the debtor (the "Funder") generally has some pre-existing relationship with the debtor, and/or some motivation to providing the funding. Those things increase the likelihood that the Funder could be the recipient of an avoidable preference, or might have alter ego liability, or otherwise might have interests that are adverse to (or at least not fully aligned with) the bankruptcy estate or creditors. For these reasons, although payment of a retainer by a third party is not outright prohibited, it is fraught with ethical concerns. At the hearing, counsel for the debtor and proposed special counsel should be prepared to address the following.

(A) Terms. What are the precise agreements, understandings or expectations regarding the funds -- e.g., are the funds a loan, a gift, an investment, or something else?

(B) Informed consent of Funder. Has the Funder been advised regarding actual and potential conflicts of interest, and that the sole attorney-client relationship and duty of loyalty is with the debtor, not the Funder? Who provided such advice: independent counsel? counsel for the debtor? the debtor's proposed special counsel? Has the Funder given informed consent? Are those things in writing?

(C) Informed consent of debtor. Has the debtor likewise been fully advised and given informed consent? Who provided such advice? Are these things in writing? Ms. Hoats has signed the Hoats/Managing Member conflict waiver on behalf of the debtor: how can she, acting for the debtor, waive conflicts with herself?

(D) Other considerations. Has proposed special counsel demonstrated or represented to the Court the absence of an actual or potential conflict, a lack of disinterestedness, or any other basis for disqualification? See In re Kelton Motors, Inc., 109 B.R. 641 (Bankr. D. Vt. 1989); In re Lotus Prop's LP, 200 B.R. 388 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1996) (rejecting per se disqualification when fees are paid by third party); and compare In re Hathaway Ranch Partnership, 116 B.R. 208, 219 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1990) (per se rule). See generally In re Park-Helena Corp., 63 F.3d 877 (9th Cir. 1995).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 11/23/16. If this case is not converted or dismissed, the tentative ruling is to set the following:

(a) Bar date*: to be set during the status conference.

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: same.

(c) Continued status conference: 5/23/17 at 2:00 p.m., status report due 5/9/17.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 11/23/16. If this case is not converted or dismissed, the tentative ruling is to set the following:

Tentative Ruling for 2/7/17:

Continue to 4/4/17 at 2:00 p.m., status report due 3/14/17. No appearances are required on 2/7/17.

(1) Current issues

This case was filed on 11/23/16. The debtor's status report (dkt. 34) states that the debtor intends to retain special counsel, and the monthly operating reports (dkt. 37, 38) appear to show no activity other than opening DIP bank accounts and paying associated fees. Although progress in this case has been slow, it does not appear efficient to hold a status conference at this time. If substantially more progress is not shown by the next status conference, this court may dismiss this case for failure to appear in proper prosecution. See 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1), 349.

If you wish to dispute the above tentative ruling, please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings".

Tentative Ruling for 11/14/17:

Appearances required. The tentative ruling is to deny the motions for default judgments, without prejudice, for the reasons set forth below, and to set a continued status conference for 1/30/18 at 2:00 p.m.

On the one hand, there appears to be successful prosecution of this adversary proceeding because, according to the plaintiff's status report (adv. dkt. 92), all of the defendants have either agreed to the requested declaratory relief or have defaulted. On the other hand, there are some fundamental issues that appear to prevent this court from granting default judgments at this time.

(1) Self-calendaring error. The motions for default judgments were only served on 10/27/17. See, e.g., Motion for Default Judgment Derek Wilshee (dkt. 83, 74) (collectively, the "Wilshee Default Motion"). That is insufficient time prior to the hearing, under the applicable rules, nor was there any cover notice of the hearing date and deadline for any opposition or response.

(2) Jurisdictional issues.

(a) Personal jurisdiction. Does the complaint adequately establish personal jurisdiction over each defendant? At least one defendant is alleged to be a resident of Australia (dkt. 1, para. 14), although the plaintiff has voluntarily dismissed claims against that defendant (dkt. 107). Are each of the defaulting defendants subject to personal jurisdiction?

(b) Subject matter jurisdiction, and abstention. The complaint and motions for default judgment make somewhat vague assertions of other action(s) that were or are pending in other courts apparently involving the same subject matter, and involving at least preliminary injunctive relief if not other relief. Can this Bankruptcy Court assume jurisdiction over matters that are pending in other courts? Must or should this Bankruptcy Court abstain?

(3) Allegations of wrongdoing. Where is the analysis tying each of the defaulting defendants to one or more of the specific acts of wrongdoing bringing them within the claims in the complaint? For example, the only allegation in the complaint regarding Mr. Wilshee (dkt. 1, para. 14) appears to be that he was at one time an officer of the debtor. How is that an act of wrongdoing?

The Wilshee Default Motion seeks a default judgment against Mr. Wilshee of $431,472,300.00 (dkt. 74, at PDF p.51 of 53). How is he responsible for such alleged damages? Does the complaint need to be amended to establish, as against one or more of the defaulting defendants, how they are alleged to be liable?

(4) Calculation of damages. An exhibit to the plaintiff's motions for default judgments asserts that "Based on Department of Conservation Records [available on a website and/or verified by whom?], these leases [which leases? the ones that allegedly were supposed to be assigned but were not?] were producing 1730 barrels of Oil a day [when?]" and "[w]ith today's technology [how is today's technology better?], a conservative figure would be 3500 barrels a day [based on whose expert opinion?] that will be used as a figure for all the losses caused by Western States International [how about other defendants?]." Dkt. 83, Ex.A, at PDF p.17 of 53. The same exhibit shows a calculation of alleged damages based on "Approx Production" of "105,000" which is far more than 3500 barrels (perhaps using a 30-day presumptive month multiplied by 3500 barrels a day?), an "Average Oil Price [from what source?]," and a "Cost [to extract, market, refine, deliver, and sell the oil - or some other or different set of things? based on what expert's opinion?]." Based on the foregoing questions, and applying Rule 55(b)(2) (Fed. R. Civ. P.) (incorporated by Rule 7055, Fed. R. Bankr. P.), it appears that additional evidence and a "prove up" hearing will be needed to determine the amount of damages, if not other issues.

(5) Alleged costs, attorney fees, and interest. The debtor/plaintiff asserts $1 million in costs (dkt. 74 at PDF p.51 of 53) - how is that possible? What are the components? Attorney fees are alleged to be $300,000 - this case has barely commenced, so how is that possible? Where are the daily time sheets and/or other support for this figure? Prejudgment interest is alleged to be at a 10% rate per year starting 1/1/11. What is the contractual or statutory basis for that interest rate and that commencement date? The purported damages were incurred month by month, so how can interest run from before those damages were incurred?

(6) Declaratory relief. The plaintiff makes broad allegations about the rights under various contracts, or arising from breaches of those contracts or by operation of law. Where is the support for these allegations? The plaintiff cannot place the burden on this court to sort through numerous provisions of various contracts to piece together the plaintiff's theory. The plaintiff must provide specific, easy-to-follow analysis and evidence.

(7) Conclusion. Because the motions for default judgments are both procedurally and substantively deficient in all of the ways set forth above, the tentative ruling is to deny them without prejudice.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 8/22/17:

Appearances required. This court notes that the parties were directed to file a joint status report two weeks in advance of this hearing (dkt. 2), but have not done so. In addition, this court notes that the tentative ruling in the main case status conference (calendar no. 3, 8/22/17 at 2:00 p.m.) is to dismiss the main case, which normally would terminate this adversary proceeding.

Nevertheless, to preserve all rights in the event that this court were to be persuaded not to dismiss the main case, this court has reviewed the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding and issues the following tentative ruling.

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below?

(3) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 6/19/17. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to serve and lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/2/19:

Appearances required

(1) General matters

(a) Combined status conferences in the interrelated bankruptcy cases

This hearing includes Status Conferences in each of two related bankruptcy cases before this Court: (a) In re Layfield & Barrett, APC, Case No. 2:17-bk-19548-NB ("L&B"); (b) In re Layfield, Case No. 2:18-bk-15829-NB ("Lay-Invol."). (A third related bankruptcy case, In re Maximum Legal (Cal.), LLP, Case No. 2:17-bk-18433-NB ("Max-CA"), has been closed (Max-CA dkt. 154).)

(2) Matters on Calendar Today

(a) Motion for Sale of Property (dkt. 419)

The tentative ruling is to grant the Motion to Sell Units 210 and 220. If the buyer submits a suitable 363(m) declaration, the Court will approve the buyer as a good-faith purchaser.

Proposed Order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(b) Wells Fargo Relief from Stay Motion (dkt. 143)

Based on the above, the tentative ruling is to continue the Relief from Stay Motion to the next status conference date, see below, until the sale is finalized.

(3) Deadlines/dates. The L&B case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 on 8/3/17 and converted to chapter 11 on 8/11/17 (L&B dkt. 25). The Lay-Invol case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 case on 5/21/18 and an order for relief was entered on 12/12/18 (Lay-Invol dkt. 160, 161).

- (a) L&B Bar date: 2/5/18 (timely served, L&B dkt. 133, 157)
- (b) Lay-Invol Bar date: 4/12/19
- (c) L&B Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD. Do not file or serve until further order of this court.
- (d) Continued status conference: The tentative ruling is to continue the status conferences in the L&B and Lay-Invol cases to 4/30/19 at 11:00 a.m. to be concurrent with Mr. Layfield's motion to dismiss that case (Lay-Invol. dkt. 207). No written status report required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Tentative Ruling for 3/5/18:

(1) General matters

(a) Combined status conferences in the interrelated bankruptcy cases

This hearing includes Status Conferences in each of two related bankruptcy cases before this Court: (a) In re Layfield & Barrett, APC, Case No. 2:17-bk-19548-NB ("L&B"); (b) In re Layfield, Case No. 2:18-bk-15829-NB ("Lay-Invol."). (A third related bankruptcy case, In re Maximum Legal (Cal.), LLP, Case No. 2:17-bk-18433-NB ("Max-CA"), has been closed (Max-CA dkt. 154), so the status conference in that case was not continued to today.)

(2) Matters on Calendar Today

(a) Wells Fargo Relief from Stay Motions (dkt. 143, 144)

The parties should be prepared to address whether there has been any new information regarding the sale of Units 210 & 220. If there is no progress with a sale, this Court's tentative ruling would be to grant relief from stay as to Units 210 & 220 due to the diminishing equity cushion (dkt. 143). As Unit 200 has been successfully sold, dkt. 144 is moot.

(3) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 on 8/3/17 and converted to chapter 11 on 8/11/17.

(b) Lay-Invol 341(a) Meeting

The parties should be prepared to address appropriate remedies for Mr. Layfield's failure to appear at the meeting of creditors (11 U.S.C. 341(a)) scheduled for 1/22/19.

(c) Christine Layfield Delaware bankruptcy case

The parties should be prepared to address any effects of the chapter 7 bankruptcy case filed by Mr. Layfield's spouse, as reported by the L&B Chapter 11 Trustee (L&B dkt. 401, p.7). To what extent does the trustee of that bankruptcy estate assert interests in these related cases? Are there discussions regarding any stipulations for relief from the automatic stay, coordination regarding venue of any proceedings, and/or coordinating other matters as between the estates?

(2) Matters on Calendar Today

(a) Motion to Sell 2720 Homestead Rd, Unit 200, Park City Utah (L&B dkt. 391)

as well as Movant's reply (L&B dkt. 402). In addition, if the objections are resolved or overruled and the sale goes forward (subject to overbids), the tentative ruling is that any "good faith" finding (11 U.S.C. 363(m)) will require a declaration from any successful bidder that complies with the posted Procedures of Judge Bason:

§ 363(m): "Good Faith" Findings. Supporting declaration(s) should address: (1) connections: the bidder's prior, current, or expected connections with any relevant persons (other bidders, the debtor, major creditors or equity security holders in the case, or any of the debtor's officers, directors, agents, or employees, including whether any offers of employment or compensation have been made or will be offered to debtor's present or former officers, directors, agents, or employees), (2) consideration: whether any consideration is contemplated or has been transferred by the bidder in connection with the sale to any person other than the bankruptcy estate, and (3) absence of fraud or collusion between the bidder and any relevant persons (e.g., other bidders, the debtor's officers, directors, agents or employees), or any attempt to take unfair advantage of other bidders. See generally In re M Capital Corp., 290 B.R. 743, 748-49 (9th Cir. BAP 2003). As used in this paragraph, a "bidder" includes all known prospective bidders.

(b) Wells Fargo Relief from Stay Motions (dkts. 143, 144)

The parties should be prepared to address the issues raised in Wells Fargo's status report (L&B dkt. 399) regarding all of the condominium units. The tentative ruling is to continue the Relief from Stay Motions to 3/5/19 at 2:00 p.m., with a deadline of 2/12/19 for the Trustee to provide Wells Fargo an updated written report describing the listing price(s), showings, and offers for Units 210 and 220. The tentative ruling is also to extend the previously entered orders for filing under seal (L&B dkt. 387, 388) to any brief the parties wish to file in connection with the continued hearing.

(c) Wellgen Standard v. Maximum Legal (17-1503) Status Conference

The parties should be prepared to address the status of the purported settlement of this adversary proceeding.

(3) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 on 8/3/17 and converted to chapter 11 on 8/11/17.

(1) General matters

(a) Combined status conferences in the interrelated bankruptcy cases

(2) Matters on Calendar Today

(a) Chapter 7 Trustee's Motion for Order (1) Approving Stipulation Relating to Disbursement of Funds, and (2) Closing Case (Max-CA, dkt. 137)

The tentative ruling is to grant this motion, but the parties should be prepared to address the effect on the pending adversary proceeding entitled Wellgen Standard LLC v. Maximum Legal (California), LLP et al. (L&B Case, No. 2:17-bk-19548-NB; Adv. No. 2:17-ap-01503-NB) (the "Wellgen Adv.P.").

#1.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 66

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in substantial part, as set forth below. Appearances required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does apply

Deny the request for an order confirming that no stay is in effect. Movant has not established an exception to the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(b) or (c) because Movant checked the box for an order confirming that no stay is in effect, but did not present this Court with any evidence to support that contention.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2). Debtor's Opposition (dkt. 68) does not dispute that payments have not been made, that Movant has had to pay real estate taxes and other expenses, that Movant's interest in the subject property is not adequately protected, and that after taking into account the principal, interest, costs advanced, and other charges Debtor lacks any equity in the Property and it is not necessary to an effective reorganization.

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Chapter 13

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases ("in rem" relief)

On the one hand, Debtor's Opposition (dkt. 68) appears to present persuasive evidence that the filing of this bankruptcy petition on 5/8/14 was not intended by him, at that time, to hinder, delay, or defraud Movant. Debtor's mother did not die until 8/16/15 (dkt. 66, Ex.10, at PDF p.69; and dkt. 68 at PDF p.43); Debtor had yet to inherit any interest in the property; and Movant has not provided evidence that such inheritance or any foreclosure proceedings were reasonably in prospect and were a substantial motivation for Debtor to file the bankruptcy on 5/8/14.

Nor is this Court persuaded by the Reply's arguments (dkt. 69, pp.3:1-4:11) that there was a "scheme" based on the following facts:

(a) No consideration. On the present record, the fact that the transfer to Debtor (and other heirs) was for no consideration appears to be just a natural consequence of being an heir.

(b) Transfer while foreclosure was pending. True, the transfer occurred after Movant's commencement of attempted remedies against the property; but on the present record that timing appears to have been driven by the need to sort out probate matters, not by any scheme to hinder, delay, or defraud Movant.

(c) Transfer in violation of loan documents. Any violation of the loan documents appears to be just a consequence of being an heir, not any intent to hinder, delay, or defraud Movant.

On the other hand, this Court is troubled by the apparent effect of (1) Debtor's failure to amend his bankruptcy schedules and creditor matrix and (2) his apparent failure to provide any other notice to Movant of this bankruptcy case. Are those things sufficient to establish that Debtor took advantage of the fact that he happened to be in a bankruptcy case, with its automatic stay, so that any foreclosure could be delayed or hindered by notifying Movant of this bankruptcy case, just before a foreclosure sale, or at any other time that Debtor and his siblings might choose? In other words, did Debtor retroactively make the filing of his bankruptcy petition part of a larger scheme to hinder, delay, or defraud Movant? If so, then in rem relief may be warranted under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) or under other authority. See In re 4th St. E. Investors, Inc., 474 B.R. 709, 711-12 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012). See also In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526, 532-33 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017).

If this Court is persuaded to grant any type of in rem relief, the tentative ruling is to provide the usual limitations and opportunity to request reconsideration (e.g., if in a future case a debtor presented evidence that the property was necessary to an effective reorganization, and that Movant could be adequately protected, it might be appropriate to revisit any in rem relief). Specifically, any in rem relief would include the following:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." THE BANK OF NEW YORK MELLON

DEBTOR

Docket 24

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Retroactive relief

Grant the request for retroactive annulment of the stay. See In re Fjeldsted, 293 B.R. 12 (9th Cir. BAP 2003).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is not sufficient evidence and notice.

No prejudice to Debtor intended. Based on the record, it appears that this is a "hijacked" case, and that Debtor is innocent of any involvement. See e.g., In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017) (describing hijacking); In re Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) (same). Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to condition any relief from the automatic stay on this Court's determination that this motion shall not result in the application of sections 109(g)(2) and 362(b)(21)(A) to Debtor or any property other than the property that is the subject of this motion for relief from the automatic stay, and that by not contesting this tentative ruling the movant has waived and forfeited any contrary argument. See In re Leafly, 479 B.R. 545, 550-51 (9th Cir. BAP 2012); In re Mendez, 367 B.R. 109, 116-17 (9th Cir. BAP 2007); In re Luna, 122 B.R. 575, 577 (9th Cir. BAP 1991); Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261, 270.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Chapter 7

#13.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [PP]

FINANCIAL SERVICE VEHICLE TRUST
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 10

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

MAXIE JAMES
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 14

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part and deny in part, as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Movant apparently seeks relief both as to (1) enforcement of her unlawful detainer judgment (dkt. 14, Ex.4) and (2) possession of the condominium unit (eviction/unlawful detainer). The tentative ruling is to deny the former and grant the latter.

(1) Enforcement of judgment

Movant is prohibited from taking any acts to collect the judgment because Debtor has received her discharge (dkt. 17) (11 U.S.C. 524). Movant did not file any adversary proceeding objecting to Debtor's discharge (the deadline was 3/11/19 - see dkt. 2).

(2) Possession of the unit

The automatic stay does not apply as to Movant's attempts to recover possession. Movant obtained a prepetition unlawful detainer judgment, and Debtor has not satisfied the statutory requirements to remain in possession. See 11 U.S.C. 362(b)(22) and (l) and (b). The movant obtained a prepetition eviction judgment and writ of possession. See In re Perl, 811 F.3d 1120, 1127-28 (9th Cir. 2016) ("We conclude that under California law, entry of judgment and a writ of possession following unlawful detainer proceedings extinguishes all other legal and equitable possessory interests in the real property at issue.").

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows with respect to possession of the unit.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Retroactive relief

Grant the request for retroactive annulment of the stay. See In re Fjeldsted, 293 B.R. 12 (9th Cir. BAP 2003).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does apply

Deny the request for an order confirming that no stay is in effect. Movant has not established an exception to the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(b)(22) or (23) because Movant has not obtained a judgment for possession of the property against the debtor and the unlawful detainer action is not based on endangerment of the property or illegal use of controlled substances on the property.

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Deny, without prejudice to any other types of relief granted herein (or previously granted), for the following reasons.

The motion requests requests "in rem" relief (i.e., relief applicable notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases (under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and/or In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31)). The tentative ruling is to deny that request because the Movant has not established that the filing of the petition was part of a scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors that involved either unauthorized transfers of the property or multiple bankruptcy filings.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic
Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 7

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions. Appearances are not required.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Supplemental Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

The original tentative ruling (below) provides two inconsistent dates for a continued status conference: 4/30/19 at 11:00 a.m., 4/7/19 at 11:00 a.m. The latter is correct. No status report required.

Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

Deny the motion to quash (with the possible exception of one aspect), address procedural issues, and then continue this Status Conference, all as set forth below. Appearances required.

Current issues:

(a) Procedures

Please see the tentative ruling for the main case status conference (calendar no. 10, 4/9/19 at 11:00 a.m.)

(b) Motion to Quash (adv. dkt. 84)

The tentative ruling is that the motion to quash (adv. dkt. 84) by Aston Business Solutions, Inc. ("ABS") is unpersuasive, except perhaps for limitations as to time, which the parties are directed to address at the hearing.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(A) Analysis re motion to quash

ABS asserts only vague objections:

(1) Competitors?

Chapter 7

ABS asserts that it and Plaintiff are competitors. How so?

The motion does not even disclose ABS' business. Is it a timeshare owner? Is it a timeshare operator? Is it something else? (As noted below, this Court expects that it has gleaned the answer from other documents, but the tentative ruling is that this lack of even such basic information in the motion is fatal to this argument.)

(2) Protected information?

ABS alleges that some sort of trade secrets or other confidential, privileged, or other type of protected information is involved. What sort of information? Why would a traditional privilege log and other tools be inadequate?

ABS complains that parties in interest in this bankruptcy case have shared information. But ABS fails to point to any prohibition on sharing information.

(3) Burden?

ABS alleges that the requested discovery is unduly burdensome. How so? Is it stored in thousands of boxes of paper files that are difficult to reach and review for some reason?

(4) Vagueness and overbreadth?

ABS alleges that the discovery requests are vague and overbroad. How so? ABS fails to provide any explanation or evidence to support this allegations.

(5) Discussion

Based on a question (not an answer) in excerpts from the deposition of ABS' President and shareholder, Glenn Chaffin, ABS may be a marketing company for "timeshare exit companies." Adv. dkt. 84, Ex.1 (Depo. Tr. 1/24/19), p.95:22-23. But how does that make ABS a "competitor" of Plaintiff, with information that would constitute trade secrets, as opposed to a facilitator of (possibly) legitimate ways to exit timeshares, who sends out non-secret flyers and other publicly known marketing materials, and assists timeshare members in navigating contracts that are known to all the parties?

Such a facilitator theoretically could benefit Plaintiff, by replacing non-paying or troubled members with paying ones - unless, of course, ABS engages in acts that improperly interfere with contractual relations or otherwise assists in the wrongdoing of which Plaintiff accuses Defendants. Plaintiff's discovery appears to be targeted at discovering information that could lead to admissible evidence on this and other relevant issues.

Accordingly, the discovery appears to be entirely proper and appropriate, with the possible exception of the movant's request to impose some limitations as to time, which the parties are directed to address at the hearing.

Please see the tentative ruling for the main case status conference (calendar no. 10, 4/9/19 at 11:00 a.m.)

Tentative Ruling for 1/30/18:

Appearances required. The court has reviewed the parties' filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The parties must address (a) why they failed to file the required status report, (b) why the motions for joint administration/consolidation of the two closely related adversary proceedings have not been prosecuted, and (c) the following issues. The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences.

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See *generally Stern v. (2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this court should not formalize the fact that the pending mediation includes this adversary proceeding by issuing an order to mediate this matter together with related adversary proceeding (2:17-ap-01229-NB)? The tentative ruling is to direct counsel for the defendants to lodge a proposed order to that effect.

Plaintiff filed a motion (adv. dkt. 14) for summary judgment on his first claim for relief (constructively fraudulent transfer) and the second claim for relief (declaratory relief that the purported trust is ineffective to prevent creditors from reaching the assets) in his complaint (adv. dkt. 1). Defendants appealed. The District Court dismissed the appeal as interlocutory. See adv. dkt. 52, 53. The parties' joint status report states (adv. dkt. 54, p.4, sec.G) that they have executed but not filed a stipulation "that the dismissed appeal can be re-filed as an interlocutory appeal but on the condition that the trial proceed on the remaining fraudulent transfer claim for relief."

(2) Current issues

It is not clear what the parties intend, or what procedural steps this Court should take. Whatever is in the parties' unfiled stipulation presumably will not bind the District Court (or any other court hearing the appeal) in deciding whether to grant leave to appeal this Court's interlocutory ruling, so what do the parties hope to accomplish with their stipulation? Moreover, the parties' stated intention to proceed simultaneously in both this Bankruptcy Court and the District Court usually is not possible because an appeal generally deprives this court of jurisdiction. Cf. Rule 54(b) (Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Rule 7054, Fed. R. Bankr. P.), and compare Rule 8008 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). To the extent, if any, that this Court has discretion to grant any relief that would make such dual-tracking possible, is that an appropriate use of judicial resources? On a separate issue, if the plaintiff intends to proceed with the first claim for relief, does the plaintiff plan to amend the complaint to cure the deficiencies in that claim (constructively fraudulent transfer) noted in the tentative ruling for 3/20/18?

The tentative ruling is to continue this status conference to 11/6/18 at 11:00 a.m. with a deadline of 10/23/18 for the parties to file and serve whatever papers they deem appropriate to address the foregoing issues and any other relevant issues at this stage of these proceedings.

are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Revised Tentative Ruling for 3/20/18:

Appearances required.

(1) Motion for summary judgment (adv. dkt. 14-18, the "MSJ"); opposition papers (adv. dkt. 22-25); and reply papers (adv. dkt. 26-27). The tentative ruling is to deny in part and grant in part the MSJ, as set forth below.

(a) Legal standards. The legal standards governing motions for summary judgment are well known, do not appear to be disputed by the parties, and need not be repeated in this tentative ruling.

(b) First claim for relief (fraudulent transfer). Although the complaint (adv. dkt. 1) asserts fraudulent transfer claims under both California law and the Bankruptcy Code, the MSJ limits this to 11 U.S.C. 548. The MSJ also asserts only constructive, not actual, fraud. See adv. dkt. 14, pp.2:21-3:1.

The complaint alleges less than reasonably equivalent value (11 U.S.C. 548(a)(1)(B)(i)) - namely, transfers by the debtors/defendants for no value from the debtors and/or their revocable trusts (the assets of which apparently could be reached by creditors) to irrevocable trusts. But to establish the elements of a constructively fraudulent transfer the plaintiff must also establish one of three types of insolvency (commonly referred to as "balance sheet," "inadequate capital," or "cash flow" insolvency) or else a transfer to an insider under an "employment contract." See 11 U.S.C. 548(a)(1)(B)(ii)(I)-(IV). There is no allegation about any employment contract, so the plaintiff must establish some type of insolvency.

The MSJ refers to balance sheet insolvency (11 U.S.C. 101(32A)). But the complaint never alleges that type of insolvency, so the plaintiff cannot be granted partial summary judgment as to that element (11 U.S.C. 548(a)(1)(B)(ii)(I)).

The complaint alleges inadequate capital and inadequate cash flow (in language that roughly parallels 11 U.S.C. 548(a)(1)(B)(ii)(II)&(III)). But the MSJ extrapolates that those types of insolvency could be presumed based on the bankruptcy schedules many months after the transfer, and from the sheer number of lawsuits and eventual judgments against the defendants and other circumstantial evidence. Those things might (or might not) be persuasive at trial, but they are insufficient to establish a lack of genuine issue of fact.

(c) Second claim for relief (declaratory relief related to nature of the trusts). The complaint (adv. dkt. 1, para. 23) seeks a declaratory judgment (i) that the debtors/defendants are "beneficiaries" of the trusts within the meaning of California Probate Code 15304, (ii) that the benefits the debtors/defendants receive from the trusts are "property of the estate" under 11 U.S.C. 541, and (iii) that the trusts qualify as "self-settled trusts" under California law, which the MSJ uses as shorthand for a trust the assets of which are reachable by creditors.

Various provisions of the Bankruptcy Code define what property is part of the bankruptcy estate:

The bankruptcy estate includes "all legal or equitable interests of the debtor in property as of the commencement of the case." 11 U.S.C. § 541(a)(1). It does not include, however, "any power that the debtor may exercise solely for the benefit of another," 11 U.S.C. § 541(b)(1), nor does it include "[p]roperty in which the debtor holds ... only legal title and not an equitable interest." 11 U.S.C. § 541(d). Similarly, the estate does not include property containing "[a] restriction on the transfer of a beneficial interest of the debtor in a trust that is enforceable under applicable nonbankruptcy law." 11 U.S.C. § 541(c)(2). [In re Cutter, 398 B.R. 6, 18-19 (9th Cir. BAP 2008).]

Under California law:

(a) If the settlor is a beneficiary of a trust created by the settlor and the settlor's interest is subject to a provision restraining the voluntary or involuntary transfer of the settlor's interest, the restraint is invalid against transferees or creditors of the settlor. The invalidity of the restraint on transfer does not affect the validity of the trust.

(b) If the settlor is the beneficiary of a trust created by the settlor and the trust instrument provides that the trustee shall pay income or principal or both for the education or support of the beneficiary or gives the trustee discretion to determine the amount of income or principal or both to be paid to or for the benefit of the settlor, a transferee or creditor of the settlor may reach the maximum amount that the trustee could pay to or for the benefit of the settlor under the trust instrument, not exceeding the amount of the settlor's proportionate contribution to the trust. [California Probate Code 15304]

The California Supreme Court has held that to the extent that the settlor of a trust is also a beneficiary, creditors can reach the property held by the trust:

It is against public policy to permit a man to tie up his property in such a way that he can enjoy it but prevent his creditors from reaching it, and where the settlor makes himself a beneficiary of a trust any restraints in the instrument on the involuntary alienation of his interest are invalid and ineffective. Since [the settlor] was the sole beneficiary, all the property in the trust is subject to the claims of his creditors. [Nelson v. Cal. Trust Co., 33 Cal.2d 501, 501-02 (1949) (emphasis added)]

These principles have been more recently reaffirmed in a decision of the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals:

[U]nder California law, a settlor of a spendthrift trust cannot also act as beneficiary of that trust (i.e., California law prohibits "self-settled" trusts). See Cal. Prob.Code § 15304(a) (West 1987). California law voids self-settled trusts to prevent individuals from placing their property beyond the reach of their creditors while at the same time still reaping the bounties of such property. See Nelson v. California Trust Co., 33 Cal.2d 501, 202 P.2d 1021, 1021 (Cal. 1949). [In re Moses, 167 F.3d 470, 473 (9th Cir. 1999)]

In addition, the MSJ cites authority that if beneficiaries exercise "excessive" control over a trust then under California law they cannot "shield that trust with an anti-alienation provision lacking true substance." In re Moses, 167 F.3d 470, 473 (9th Cir. 1999) (citation omitted) (emphasis added). See also In re Cutter, 398 B.R. 6, 22 (9th Cir. BAP 2008). MSJ (adv. dkt. 14, p.10:1-14).

The debtors argue that their situation is different from that in Cutter because "the Debtor in Cutter could potentially use all the Trust's principal and income to maintain his standard of living, without limitation" whereas "[t] here is no such provision" in the debtors' trusts. Dkt. 22, p.3:22-26 (italics added to case name). That distinction of Cutter (and the other authorities cited above) is unpersuasive.

The MSJ points to the following facts in support of its argument that (i) the debtors are also beneficiaries and (ii) the anti-alienation provisions of the trust lack "true substance." The debtor/defendants do not raise any genuine contrary issues of fact.

(i) The debtors deducted mortgage interest and real estate taxes on their 2015 tax returns. See dkt. 18, p.4:5-9 (and evidence cited therein).

(ii) During the "initial period" of the trusts (the earlier of the grantors' deaths or 16 years) the debtors can continue to live in the property rent-free. See Dkt. 18, p.4:10-15 (and evidence cited therein).

(iii) During that same period, any net income or excess cash is distributed to the debtors. See Dkt. 18, p.4:16-21 (and evidence cited therein).

(iv) The debtors can manage the property as "absolute owners." See Dkt. 18, p.4:22-28 (and evidence cited therein).

(v) The debtors can loan money to themselves and/or use the property to secure loans to themselves. See Dkt. 18, p.5:2-7 (and evidence cited therein).

(vi) During their lifetime, the debtors can make discretionary distributions to their children, and upon their deaths the trust assets are to be distributed to their children. See Dkt. 18, p.5:8-12 (and evidence cited therein).

Based on the foregoing, it appears that the debtors are indeed beneficiaries of the trusts to a large extent, and moreover the anti-alienation provisions of the trust lack "true substance" as that term has been used in the cited authorities. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to grant the MSJ on the second claim for relief.

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

This court recognizes that, at least at this stage, the attorney who filed the answer (dkt. 4) for both trustees of the trust has also executed the Status Report (dkt. 5) on behalf of one of the defendant trustees (the debtor/defendant) asserting that neither of them can consent to this Bankruptcy Court entering a final judgment because third party beneficiaries of the trust allegedly have a right to have their rights litigated "outside of this venue." Counsel for the answering defendants should be prepared (a) to explain whether this is a Stern objection or something else and (b) whether both answering defendants or only one of them takes this position, and if the former, why he did not execute the status report on behalf of both of them.

Counsel for the plaintiff should be prepared to address whether the plaintiff contends that there are no additional parties who need to be joined, and why.

(2) Mediation. The plaintiff suggests in the Status Report (adv. dkt. 5) that mediation, if any, should not be ordered before dispositive motion(s) are heard, which the plaintiff anticipates will be by 3/1/18. The tentative ruling is to revisit the issue of mediation after that date.

(3) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 9/26/17.

Tentative Ruling for 8/14/18:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

The court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv. dkt. 23) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

The plaintiff states (dkt. 23, p.2) that he requested entry of a default against defendants Andrae Perez and Accelerated Capital Group, Inc., but the Clerk of this Court has issued notices of non-entry of defaults (dkt. 15, 16). When will the plaintiff correct the deficiencies?

Tentative Ruling for 6/12/18:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

At the 3/6/18 hearing, this Court continued the matter to allow the parties time to meet and confer about the various deadlines that this court should set in this adversary proceeding and/or court-ordered mediation. This matter was further continued to today's date for the parties to participate in mediation on or about 5/21/18 (see Order, adv. dkt. 21). This Court also directed the parties to file a status report by 5/29/18, but the parties have not done so--for a second time.

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties are directed to address why they have not filed a status report, and to provide an oral status report, and are cautioned that continued failure to adhere to the applicable rules and orders of this Court may result in sanctions.

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

At the 3/6/18 hearing, this Court continued the matter to allow the parties time to meet and confer about the various deadlines that this court should set in this adversary proceeding and/or court-ordered mediation. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties are directed to address why they have not filed a status report, and to provide an oral status report, and are cautioned that continued failure to adhere to the applicable rules and orders of this Court may result in sanctions. The parties requested a brief continuance of this status conference from 2/27/18 to today's date (see Joint Status Report, adv. dkt. 10). At the status conference on 1/23/18 there was no appearance for the plaintiff, and this Court was persuaded that it was premature to adopt the deadlines stated in the tentative ruling for that status conference (reproduced below). There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to discuss the status of this case.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 2/27/18:

Continue to 3/6/18 at 11:00 a.m. Appearances are not required on 2/27/18.

Reasons: At the status conference on 1/23/18 there was no appearance for the plaintiff, and this Court was persuaded that it was premature to adopt the deadlines stated in the tentative ruling for that status conference (reproduced below). The plaintiff and one defendant (the debtor) have now filed a joint status report (adv. dkt. 10) requesting a brief continuance.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 1/23/18:

following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences.

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority. The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/6/18 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines/dates: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 11/21/17. The tentative ruling is to set the following deadlines/dates. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to serve and lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

#10.00 Status conference re: Procedures

Docket 332

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required. The parties should be prepared to address the following issues.

Current issues

(a) Procedures

This Court issued its Order Setting Status Conference in All Related Matters (the "Procedures Order," dkt. 332). See also dkt. 334 & 338 (proofs of service). Among other things, the Procedures Order was prompted by the following.

First, an exhibit was filed without a cover page and with the exhibit pages out of order rendering the exhibit difficult to read (see dkt. 324, ex. 1). Second, briefs have gone on for 80 pages or more, with whole sections that appear to be at best tangentially related to the subject matter and appear to have been copied and pasted wholesale from other papers (but with no statement to let the reader know if those sections are or are not different in some way). See dkt. 326, 330. Third, those same papers, with exhibits included, are over 2000 pages long. Fourth, some papers appear to raise frivolous arguments (see below).

The tentative ruling is as follows with respect to procedures in all of the adversary proceedings and contested matters in these related bankruptcy cases:

(i) Page limits. Set a limit of 25 pages for any brief, and 50 pages of attached or accompanying documents, absent prior authorization to exceed those limits. The documents can be excerpts, marked up to point the reader to the relevant phrase or item, provided that (x) any original markings on the documents are clearly distinguishable from any added markings and (y) upon request full copies of all exhibits are immediately made available to all other parties and this Court.

(ii) Incorporation by reference. Direct all parties, rather than repeating their arguments and exhibits, to incorporate them by reference. In addition, to the extent any material does not exactly repeat prior material, but parallels prior material in substantial part, the tentative ruling is that the party must explain what is new or different.

For example, instead of a 10-page recitation of background facts in which one sentence is different, the party would replace those 10 pages with that one sentence and a brief summary of the relevant aspects of the prior material, with a cross-reference to the docket number of the material that is incorporated by reference. Alternatively, if the approach in the immediately preceding sentence would not be practical or would be confusing in any particular situation, then the party would add a footnote both at the start of the factual summary and at the start of the new or different sentence, to alert the reader that this is the portion that is new or different. Alternatively, the party could adopt any other suitable method for highlighting new or different material. In any event, all parties are directed to use whatever method is most reader-friendly for presenting accurate, relevant material.

(iii) Bifurcating or combining any matters, and issuing judgments on partial findings and/or final judgments on fewer than all claims or parties. The claim objections that are set for hearing today violate at least the spirit, and probably the letter, of Rule 3007(b) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) ("A party in interest shall not include a demand for relief of a kind specified in Rule 7001 in an objection to the allowance of a claim, but may include the objection in an adversary proceeding."). In any event, any future claim objections involving the same nucleus of operative facts as any pending adversary proceeding must be raised through proper pleadings or motions in those adversary proceedings, not by separate claim objections.

In addition, there is no reason to litigate all of the numerous issues raised by the parties if it appears that it would be more efficient to litigate just one or two issues first, and enter judgements on partial findings, and/or enter final judgments as to fewer than all claims or parties (based on any express determination that there is "no just reason for delay") (Rules 52 & 54(b), Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Rules 7052, 7054 & 9014(c), Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

For example, if a hypothetical chapter 7 debtor were accused of dozens of acts and omissions that could warrant either nondischargeability of individual claims (11 U.S.C. 523) or denial of the entire discharge (11 U.S.C. 727), there might be no just reason not to enter a judgment determining a single issue, after bifurcation so as to have a separate trial on that issue. In this situation the single issue might be whether the hypothetical debtor had concealed or failed to maintain adequate recorded information (under section 727(a)(3)), which, if proven, presumably would moot the other issues under sections 523 and 727.

The parties are directed to address whether this Court should adopt such procedures for one or more issues in these cases and the related adversary proceedings and contested matters, or conversely whether this Court should combine various matters for joint hearings or trials. See Rule 42 (Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Rules 7042 & 9014(c), Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

(iv) Testimony by declaration. Direct testimony must be presented by declaration, subject to live cross-examination and redirect (see Rule 611(a); In re Gergely, 110 F.3d 1448, 1451-52 (9th Cir. 1997); In re Adair, 965 F.2d 777, 779-80 (9th Cir. 1992)).

(v) Time limits. The parties are hereby put on notice that this Court at any time may limit their time for oral argument and presentation of their case. In addition, the parties are directed to address whether they would prefer that this Court impose such limits at this time, or at any pretrial conferences, or on the first day of trial, or during trial. See generally, Hon. Barry Russell, 2 Bankr. Evid. Manual (2018-19 Ed., Nov. 2018) 611:1, Examples 6&7).

(b) Objection by individual Debtors to Proof of Claim ("POC") No. 3 (dkt. 310)

Overrule the objection to POC No. 3, filed by Wyndham Vacation Resort, Inc ("Wyndham"), for the reasons stated in Wyndham's opposition (dkt. 326), and for the following additional reasons.

First, POC No. 3 has sufficient documentation and other information to establish its prima facie validity. Second, any lack of prima facie validity is not enough to disallow the claim under 11 U.S.C. 502. See In re Orozco, 2017 WL 3126797 (Case No. 2:13-bk-15745-NB, dkt. 132), and In re Beoglyan (Case No. 2:13-bk-22883-NB, dkt. 141).

The cases cited by Mr. MacMillan (dkt. 310, pp.2:28-3:1) are distinguishable or actually contrary to his position. See In re Garner, 246 B.R. 617 (9th Cir. BAP 2000) (when claim did have prima facie validity, opposition did not overcome that prima facie validity); and see In re Stoecker, 5 F.3d 1022, 1027-28 (7th Cir. 1993) (reversing disallowance of claim based on non-compliance with Rule 3001(f)); In re Brunson, 486 B.R. 759, 765-66, and 768-73 (Bankr. ND Tex. 2013) ("This court adheres to the majority view that a proof of claim may not be disallowed where the sole basis of objection is the creditor's failure to attach sufficient documentation under Bankruptcy Rule 3001") (emphasis added).

Indeed, as noted in Brunson, the 2011 amendments to "Bankruptcy Rule 3001(c)(2)(D), together with the Advisory Committee Note shedding light on its meaning, should end the debate." Id., p.770 (emphasis added). Now it is clear that "[f]ailure to provide the required information does not itself constitute a ground for disallowance of a claim." Id. (quoting advisory committee note; emphasis added).

In view of the foregoing, the tentative ruling is that this objection to POC No. 3 is frivolous.

(c) Objection by individual Debtors to POC No. 18 (dkt. 312)

Overrule the objection to Americana Vacation Club and Stardust Vacation Club's ("Americana/Stardust") POC for the reasons stated in Americana/Stardust's opposition (dkt. 320) and for the same reasons as stated above in connection with POC No. 3. Debtors' Reply (dkt. 341) does not adequately address those reasons.

In view of the foregoing, the tentative ruling is that this objection to POC No. 18 is frivolous.

(d) Motion by individual Debtors to Dismiss bankruptcy case of Attitude Marketing, Inc. ("Attitude") (the "MTD," dkt. 307)

The tentative ruling is to deny the individual Debtors' MTD for the reasons stated in the Chapter 7 Trustee's opposition (dkt. 325) to the MTD, and for the following additional reasons.

As the Trustee notes, in this circuit a voluntary Chapter 7 debtor is entitled to dismissal of the case so long as such dismissal will cause no "plain legal prejudice" to interested parties, or perhaps just "legal prejudice" (without the "plain" modifier). In re Leach, 130 B.R. 855, 857 (9th Cir. BAP 1991) (citing pre-Bankruptcy Code case of In re International Airport Inn Partnership, 517 F.2d 510, 512 (9th Cir. 1975), and addressing how its principles should be applied under the Bankruptcy Code). The tentative ruling is that dismissal very much would cause plain legal prejudice to interested parties because dismissal would preclude the Trustee and creditors from using the bankruptcy process and powers (i) to investigate past and present alleged misconduct, (ii) to prevent acts and omissions for which there are grounds to be concerned, and which can drain the value of a potentially valuable asset of this bankruptcy estate, and (iii) to identify and recover any avoidable transfers.

Investigating all of these things is made all the more important by the allegations of a long history of Debtors purportedly evading judgments, settlement obligations, etc. Whether those allegations are accurate or not is an issue on which Debtors will have every legitimate opportunity to present arguments and evidence; but the tentative ruling is that they cannot avoid the determination of those bankruptcy-focused issues by obtaining a dismissal of their bankruptcy case.

Debtor's motion and reply papers (dkt. 339, 340) do not adequately address any of the foregoing, nor do they establish any reason why this Court would not recognize the Trustee's authority to file the bankruptcy petition pursuant to the Written Consent Of Shareholders In Lieu Of Meeting and the Written Consent Of Sole Director In Lieu Of Meeting attached to the Trustee's Opposition as Exhibit A (dkt. 325). The arguments attempting to dispute the Trustee's business judgment in causing Attitude's bankruptcy petition to be filed, or in filling out Attitude's bankruptcy schedules, or in administering Attitude's assets, are unpersuasive and unsupported by any meaningful evidence. The individual Debtors' flat denials of the claims against Attitude, without persuasive or even colorable arguments or evidence, are insufficient.

The tentative ruling is that the individual Debtors' arguments are frivolous. In any event, the paucity of those arguments only reinforces the need for the Trustee to take over management of Attitude.

Proposed orders: The Trustee and the Claimants are directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing matters "(1)(b)," "(c)," and "(d)" via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any

(1) Current issues

(a) Employment of bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 83)

Debtor is directed to address the issues raised in Cathay Bank's opposition (dkt. 117) (source of retainer; non-consent to use of cash collateral or carve-out; and objection to any Knudsen procedure). In addition, the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) state that counsel must file local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF and also state:

Note: the judge prefers that local form F 2014-1 not repeat the employment application – instead simply say "see application" or the like (reasons: proposed professionals frequently do not track the language of Rule 2014, so the judge requires use of the form so that someone verifies the elements of that rule under penalty of perjury, and so the court staff does not have to do a line-by-line comparison with each element of the Rule).

(b) Employment of special counsel, employment issues (dkt. 113)

See above re local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF.

(c) Employment of BidMed LLC as asset liquidation broker (dkt. 134)

See above re local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF.

In addition, although this employment application is not on for hearing at this time, Debtor and all parties in interest should be aware that Judge Bason has in the past disapproved buyer's premiums. See the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) which provide in part that any order authorizing such employment typically will include a provision stating, "no buyer's premium" for auctioneers. This should not be interpreted as making any economic change in the compensation arrangement - the auctioneer and Debtor can adjust what is paid by Debtor such that the net compensation is the same - but the tentative ruling is that this is required both as a matter of disclosure (of what the professional is charging out of property of the estate or the proceeds of such property) and as a matter of disinterestedness (not being paid by both parties, but only by Debtor).

Tentative Ruling for 3/12/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion to use prepetition bank accounts (dkt. 12)

Grant on a final basis, on the same terms as the interim order (dkt. 55).

(b) Utility motion (dkt. 25)

Grant on a final basis, on the same terms as the interim order (dkt. 54).

(c) Cash collateral motion (dkt. 13)

Grant on a final basis, on the same terms as the interim order (dkt. 71), except that after review of the parties' briefs (dkt. 76, 78) and the other documents and records before this Court, the tentative ruling is as follows:

(i) Real estate: Continue Cathay Bank's replacement lien on all of Debtor's real properties (subject to adjustment as set forth below).

(ii) Books and records: Grant access to Debtor's historical books and records, and all documents used to create the cash collateral budget and the chart summarizing collateral values, with such access starting on 3/18/19, for Cathay Bank's forensic accountant, James Crossland, to inspect and copy (including copying hard drives), during normal business hours. Such access must be subject to whatever Non-Disclosure Agreement, redaction, or other safeguards as may be necessary or appropriate to protect employees' privacy, attorney-client communications, Debtor's trade secrets, etc. The parties are directed to meet and confer on those issues, and the parties are also directed to review the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) regarding discovery disputes.

(iii) Reporting: Require Debtor to file and serve reconciliations, 10 days in arrears on Wednesday of each week (i.e., covering the week that ended 10 days prior), comparing actual results with budgeted results, and calculating variances against budgeted and actual receipts and expenditures.

(iv) CDs: The tentative ruling is that Cathay Bank need not apply any CDs to the extent that they are collateral for standby letters of credit for any liability to workers' compensation insurers. But the parties are directed to address whether there are any other CDs at issue, and why, as a condition for the other adequate protection being granted to Cathay Bank, it should not be required to apply such other CDs against the loans for which they are collateral, so as to stop accruing interest or other charges adverse to Debtor and the bankruptcy estate.

The tentative ruling is to deny Cathay Bank's request for additional adequate protection in the form of monthly payments of interest. Debtor is liquidating much of its business, which creates a situation in which both assets and cash flow are somewhat uncertain. That uncertainty favors granting the Bank the additional adequate protection set forth above; but it also means that Debtor may have urgent needs to use cash for legitimate purposes other than interest payments to the Bank.

The tentative ruling is that all of the foregoing is subject to being revisited as the facts and circumstances develop. For example, if Debtor turns out to have success in collecting the proportion of accounts receivable that it predicts, it might be appropriate to find that Cathay Bank is adequately protected by a lien on less than all of Debtor's remaining real estate. Likewise, if Debtor pays down some of its debt to Cathay Bank through sales of some real property, that might reduce the need for the replacement liens to be as extensive as contemplated by this tentative ruling.

Conversely, if Debtor's accounts receivable appear to be less valuable than predicted by Debtor then Cathay Bank might need every bit of the replacement liens in Debtor's real property and all other assets (except avoidance actions etc.). Ironically, the more dire Debtor's finances, and the greater the risk of administrative insolvency, the stronger the argument that even if the Bank were free to foreclose it would have to pay someone to liquidate Debtor's assets in an orderly fashion (11 U.S.C. 506(c)), and in any event the "equities of the case" might warrant a carve-out for professionals (11 U.S.C. 552(b)). But those are issues that can be addressed when and if there is any need to do so.

The tentative ruling regarding Cathay Bank's evidentiary objections and due process objections (dkt. 78) is that, if this Court adopts the foregoing tentative ruling (granting replacement liens in essentially all of Debtor's assets), then those objections should be overruled because (x) Cathay Bank cannot be granted a replacement lien in greater than "all" of Debtor's assets, so to a large extent the value of those assets is irrelevant, and (y) whatever weaknesses may exist in Debtor's valuation evidence, there is enough to establish on a prima facie basis a reasonable probability that Cathay Bank is sufficiently over-secured to provide it with a substantial equity cushion, which is one form of adequate protection, and that is sufficient for present purposes.

As for the alleged costs of selling property subject to Cathay Bank's replacement liens, this Court can assess for each proposed sale whether Debtor's proposed use of the proceeds is consistent with adequate protection, and whether Cathay Bank is unreasonably withholding its consent under 11 U.S.C. 363(f)(2). In addition, all parties in interest are directed to the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) regarding 363 sales.

(d) Motion to reject collective bargaining agreements (dkt. 62) (the "1113 Motion")

Debtor seeks relief without a hearing, on 14 days' notice (so called "negative notice," or a "scream or die procedure"). But it appears that an actual hearing is required, and must be held quickly, under 11 U.S.C. 1113(d) (1) ("Upon the filing of an application for rejection the court shall schedule a hearing to be held not later than fourteen days after the date of the filing of such application," although "[t]he court may extend the time for the commencement of such hearing for a period not exceeding seven days where the circumstances of the case, and the interest of justice require such extension, or for additional periods of time to which the trustee and [employee's] representative agree.").

The 1113 Motion was filed on 3/1/19. The tentative ruling is to find that granting a short extension is warranted, based on the apparent lack of prejudice from doing so, and that a hearing should be held either on 3/21/19 at 1:00 p.m. or, if the representatives of the various employee groups will consent, concurrent with the continued status conference (see below). Debtor is directed to address what efforts have been made to obtain the consent of any representative who is not present at the hearing. The tentative ruling is that Debtor must file and serve notice of the hearing date on all representatives (and other parties requiring notice) no later than 3/13/19.

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD

(c) Continued status conference: 3/26/19 at 1:00 p.m., status report due 3/12/19 (see dkt. 4). In addition, if it is necessary before that time to hold a hearing on the 1113 Motion, the status conference will also be held concurrent with that hearing.

themselves.

The tentative ruling, subject to any oppositions at the hearing (pursuant to the orders shortening time) is to grant the following relief and to find that, to the extent relief is granted pursuant to Rules 4001(b)(2) and 6003 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.), such relief is necessary avoid immediate and irreparable harm to the estate.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion to limit notice (dkt. 8)

Grant in substantial part, subject to certain modifications to be addressed at the hearing. Among other things, this Court anticipates that, because the motion was not served on the entire creditor matrix, any party who was not served may seek reconsideration without meeting the usual standards under Rules 9023, 9024 or 52(b) (Fed. R. Bankr. P. & Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Rules 7052 and 9014(c)).

(b) Motion to extend time (dkt. 9)

Grant, with a caution that this Court is unlikely to grant further extensions.

(c) Payroll motion (dkt. 14)

Grant, except to the extent that the proposed payments in Exhibit 1 (dkt. 14, Ex.1) exceed the priority maximum provided in 11 U.S.C. 507(a)(4) and, if applicable, 507(a)(5).

(d) Motion to use prepetition bank accounts (dkt. 12)

Grant, subject to sufficient safeguards (i) to ensure accurate accounting including separation of pre- and postpetition accounting and (ii) to prevent inadvertent payment of prepetition obligations. Debtor is directed to work closely with the Office of the United States Trustee to develop and implement such procedures.

(e) Cash collateral motion (dkt. 13)

Grant in part and deny in part on an interim basis, as set forth in calendar no. 5 (2/28/19 at 10:00 a.m.).

(f) Motion to reject unexpired leases (dkt. 24)

Grant, except that Debtor seeks rejection effective as of 2/20/19 and, although there is some authority for retroactive rejection (see, e.g., In re At Home Corp., 392 F.3d 1064 (9th Cir. 2004)), Debtor has not addressed the types of considerations that would determine whether retroactive rejection is appropriate (e.g., were the premises vacated as of 2/20/19? when were the

(1) Current issues

(a) Mazakoda, Inc's Motion to Extend Time to Object to Dischargeability (dkt. 53). Grant, with an extension of the deadline for Mazakoda Inc to file a complaint objecting to dischargeability to 4/30/19. After the parties filed their papers (dkt. 53, 63, 64) this Court continued this matter for Mazakoda to obtain a recording/transcript of the meeting of creditors (11 U.S.C. 341(a)). At the hearing on 3/26/19, counsel for Mazakoda appeared and informed this Court that it opposed the tentative ruling denying the motion for lack of prosecution, and that it had just received the recording/transcript on 3/22/19. Although Debtors' counsel was not notified of Mazakoda's intent to contest the tentative ruling (as required by the posted Procedures of Judge Bason, available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov), this Court was persuaded to continue this matter, as permissible under those same procedures. Mazakoda has now supplemented the Motion (dkt. 74), and based on that supplement the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to extend the deadline.

Tentative Ruling for 12/11/18:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion to Use Cash Collateral (dkt. 57). Withdrawn (dkt. 69).

(b) Proposed refinance. The refinance motion (dkt. 68) was not filed until 12/3/18 - almost half a year after this case was filed: why was it not filed sooner? The motion fails to include the mandatory notice of hearing, objection deadlines, etc. The motion contemplates that the sale will close in January of 2019, but it lists a hearing date of 1/29/19 at 1:00 p.m., which would give almost no leeway to close in January after the hearing: why was the hearing self-calendared so far out? The motion admits that the payoff amounts will increase by then: will the refinance provide sufficient funds to pay all liens in full? The escrow statement contemplates a payment of $30,000 to Debtors' counsel: any such payment must be held in a trust account unless and until approved by this Court. The tentative ruling is to continue this status conference for one week to see if these issues have been corrected, with a warning to counsel for Debtors that there likely will be consequences to his continued disregard for the rules and procedures of this Court, including a reduction in fees.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion to Use Cash Collateral. Grant on an interim basis, as set forth in the tentative ruling in calendar no. 11 (11/27/18 at 1:00 p.m.).

(b) Proposed refinance. At the status conference on 10/16/18, Debtors' counsel anticipated filing a motion for a refinance very shortly thereafter, and the tentative ruling for that date set forth various items that Debtor would need to address. No such motion is on the docket. The refinance motion was supposed to supersede the proposed plan and disclosure statement, and as noted in the tentative ruling for 10/16/18 those documents are incomplete and confused. See also dkt. 65 (objection of Ditech Fin. LLC). Are debtors and their counsel properly prosecuting this case?

The tentative ruling is to continue this Status Conference with a warning to Debtors and their counsel that if they do not prosecute this case then it likely will be dismissed with a bar against being a debtor again, or converted to chapter 7, or this Court may impose other remedies.

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues. This Court has reviewed debtor's status report (dkt. 50) and other relevant pleadings.

(a) Plan (dkt. 47) and Disclosure Statement (dkt. 48). These documents are incomplete and confused. But the tentative ruling is that there is no need to proceed with these documents if Debtors are going to proceed with a proper motion to refinance and pay all creditors in full (as stated in their status report).

(b) Proposed refinance. The claims register lists total claims for $419,929.77 as of the petition date (of which $366,270.15 are listed as secured and $150.29 as priority). The proposed refinance would generate loan proceeds of $463,000. This appears to be sufficient to pay all claims, probably including postpetition interest, although perhaps not including 100% of asserted administrative expenses. Counsel for the debtor should be prepared to address (i) the form of motion he intends to file, (ii) whether that motion will seek authority to pay unsecured claims, and (iii) whether unsecured claims will be paid out of escrow or by some other means and, if

Tentative Ruling for 6/26/18:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor themselves.

(1) Current issues. This Court has reviewed the debtors' status report (dkt. 14), and the other filed documents and records in this case.

(a) May MOR (dkt. 18). The MOR purports to cover the period from 5/28/18 (the petition date) to 5/31/18, but is essentially blank, including the section for disclosure of existing insurance coverage (dkt. 18, pdf p. 5). Debtors should be prepared to address (i) whether they have insurance coverage on their residential real property (and any other asset requiring insurance); and, if they do (ii) whether they read the MOR and understood it prior to signing.

(b) Case Status Report (dkt. 14).

(i) Budget Motion. The status report says that a budget motion is not required by Judge Bason's procedures (dkt. 14, pdf p. 3), but that is not correct. See Judge Bason's Procedures, Section VII.F ("Judge Bason requires the use of local forms F 2081-2.2.MOTION.BUDGET and F 2081-2.2.ORDER.BUDGET"). Did counsel actually review the posted procedures? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 6/28/18 to file and serve a budget motion.

(ii) Consumers' confidential information. The status report states that the debtors do not have possession, custody, or control of consumers' confidential information (dkt. 14, pdf p. 10), but this Court questions whether that is accurate. What about customer lists from Hey Baby Sales, Inc.? Do the debtors claim any rights to those lists? (e.g. if the case were converted to a chapter 7 case, a sale of the debtors' interest in the company took place, and the buyer wanted the customer lists, would the debtors agree they could not retain or use the lists because the lists are owned by the company?).

The debtors should be prepared to address what steps they will take to protect confidential consumer information, and whether a consumer privacy ombudsman is required (11 U.S.C. 332).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 5/28/18.

(1) Current issues

(a) Finances (MOR #3, Dec. 2018, dkt. 71; Decl. dkt. 75)

Debtor's recently reported finances are dismal, as noted in the tentative ruling for 1/8/19. It appears that Debtor's occupancy rate is less than half of what was projected (which is itself less than half of available rooms), and that

Chapter 11

Debtor is failing to pay some franchise fees, utilities, housekeeping expenses, and other items.

Debtor blames outages in its online booking services, but as noted in the limited opposition to extending exclusivity (dkt. 78) filed by First Choice Bank, Debtor's behavior in the face of problems with online booking is puzzling. Why did Debtor not proactively contact the online booking agencies around the time it filed its bankruptcy petition? Why did Debtor not monitor its own finances sufficiently to realize that those agencies had not been paid? Debtor asserts that it was given no advance notice, but that seems highly unusual, so where is evidence of the telephone calls, emails, and letters immediately reacting, objecting to being cut off with no prior notice, and offering immediate payment of any missed bills? This Court takes judicial notice that the booking agencies are large enough to be familiar names, and presumably they have experienced hotel bankruptcies before, so what reasons did they give for their alleged lack of notice and over-reaction? As the bank suggests, the outages in booking were long enough that one would expect Debtor to have made repeated and considerable efforts to resolve the situation, possibly including meetings in person, but there is no evidence of that.

All of the foregoing suggests "gross mismanagement" of the estate, which is one possible basis to dismiss or convert this case. 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(B). The facts recited above also appear to constitute a "substantial" loss or diminution of the estate, and calls into question whether there is a "reasonable likelihood of rehabilitation." 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(A). In addition, these facts call into question whether Debtor will be able to meet the feasibility test for any proposed plan. 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(11).

The parties are directed to address whether this case should be dismissed or converted.

(b) Alleged infusions

There have been promises during this case that cash infusions would be made by Debtor's principal, Rhonda Chung. The Status Report (dkt. 79, p.4:8-21) alludes to some, but the precise dollars amounts are generally unclear, as are the dates, and precisely how those dollars been used. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/12/19 (if this case is not dismissed) for Ms. Chung to file a declaration, with attached evidence, addressing each of these things.

(1) Current issues.

Tentative Ruling for 11/27/18:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Cash collateral motion (dkt. 4). This Court has reviewed the supplemental declarations of Kenneth Chung and Rhonda Chung (dkt. 38). Those declarations provide that in the event Debtor lacks the funds necessary to make the required property tax payments, Rhonda Chung will "personally pay any short fall [o]f the Debtor to pay these taxes or, any portion of those taxes, if any, that has not otherwise been approved by the Court as an authorized Cash Collateral expense." (Rhonda Chung decl, para. 7). Would these funds be a loan or a gift? Is Rhonda Chung financially able to provide such a sum?

(b) Creditor First Choice Bank reporting requests: In its opposition to the cash collatera motion, First Choice Bank requests that Debtor be required to provide additional reporting to insure cash collateral is not misused (dkt. 58). Does Debtor object to any of these recommendations? If so, on what grounds?

(c) Order on cash collateral. Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed final order approving the use of cash collateral, incorporating the terms of the interim order plus any additional requirements as noted above, via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(d) Utility motion. Debtor's status report (dkt. 49) states that this motion will be withdraw, either orally or in writing. Debtor should file a written withdrawal, so that the docket is clear.

(a) Cash collateral motion (dkt.4). Subject to any objections at the hearing, the tentative ruling is to authorize the use of cash collateral to a limited extent, on a further interim basis, with a final hearing at the same time as the continued status conference (see below). What specific use of cash is authorized will depend on any supplement filed prior to the hearing and how the debtor and other parties in interest address the following issues: (i) payment of employment taxes and other withholdings, (ii) payment of income taxes, (iii) payment of sales taxes on room rentals, as well as on food, beverages, and other taxable items, and (iv) adequacy of cash flow, both actual and projected.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Tentative Ruling for 10/17/18:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Payroll motion (dkt. 5). As noted in this Court's order setting this hearing (dkt. 10), this Court is concerned about whether this is a self-created emergency. In addition, the parties should be prepared to address the jobs of each person who is proposed to be paid (dkt. 7, Ex.6), whether any of them are "insiders" (11 U.S.C. 101(31)), and how they will be paid if the checks do not clear and other sources of revenue do not come through. Subject to adequately addressing those issues, and (1) confirming notice per this Court's order shortening time (dkt. 10), (2) addressing this Court's concerns in that order, and (3) any objections at the hearing, the tentative ruling is to grant this motion.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this court's final ruling. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(b) Cash collateral motion (dkt.4). The tentative ruling is to grant this motion, subject to the caveats set forth in the tentative ruling for calendar no. 2 (10/17/18 at 9:00 a.m.).

#7.00 Cont'd hrg re: Motion to Sell Property of the Estate Free and Clear of Liens Under Section 363(f) fr. 04/02/19

Docket 23

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

Please see the tentative ruling for the status conference (calendar no. 9, 4/9/19 at 1:00 p.m.).

Tentative Ruling for 4/2/19:

Appearances required. The tentative ruling is to deny the motion unless all the issues set forth below are resolved, and if that occurs, or is reliably promised, then continue the motion to 4/30/19 at 1:00 p.m. with a deadline of 4/9/19 for Debtor to file and serve an amended motion on all creditors via U.S. mail.

The tentative ruling is to require the following:

- (a) Overbidding: Debtor must amend the overbidding procedures to address the concerns raised in the objection filed by the United States Trustee ("UST") (dkt. 39);
- (b) Rent: Debtor must satisfactorily address whether the tenant/proposed buyer is being forgiven rent and, if not, what steps are being taken to recover the missing rent payments (id.);
- (c) Receipt of deposits: Debtor must provide an offer of proof regarding the proposed buyer's deposits (id.);
- (d) Withholdings, and use of net proceeds: Debtor must provide that the sale free and clear of liens will result in Debtor holding only an approximation of the disputed portion of those liens, and the withheld portion must be specified in the motion and must be a reasonable amount; and Debtor must address what assurances will be provided that the net proceeds of sale will be held or will only be used for purposes that are authorized by this Court (e.g., will all net proceeds be held in a blocked account?);

(f) Taxes: Debtor must address the tax consequences of the proposed sale (LBR 6004-1(c)(3)(l)).

(g) "Pre-Release to Debtor": Debtor must explain and justify the tens of thousands of dollars that are listed as "Pre Release" to Debtor before the amount "Due To Seller" on the estimated closing statement (dkt. 23, Ex.B, at PDF p.43);

(h) Good faith finding: Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at cacb.uscourts.gov) provide that before any successful bidder is found to be a good faith purchaser under 11 U.S.C. 363(m), supporting declaration(s) must be filed that address:

(1) connections: the bidder's prior, current, or expected connections with any relevant persons (other bidders, the debtor, major creditors or equity security holders in the case, or any of the debtor's officers, directors, agents, or employees, including whether any offers of employment or compensation have been made or will be offered to debtor's present or former officers, directors, agents, or employees),

(2) consideration: whether any consideration is contemplated or has been transferred by the bidder in connection with the sale to any person other than the bankruptcy estate, and

(3) absence of fraud or collusion between the bidder and any relevant persons (e.g., other bidders, the debtor's officers, directors, agents or employees), or any attempt to take unfair advantage of other bidders. See generally In re M Capital Corp., 290 B.R. 743, 748-49 (9th Cir. #8.00 Cont'd hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

LAURA Z. NALVARTE MORENO

DEBTOR

Docket 31

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

Please see the tentative ruling for the status conference (calendar no. 9, 4/9/19 at 1:00 p.m.).

Tentative Ruling for 4/2/19:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

#9.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case
fr. 02/05/19, 03/05/19

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

Appearances are not required on 4/9/19. The tentative continuances/dispositions of matters before this Court are set forth below.

(1) Current issues

(a) Relief From Stay Motion (the "R/S Motion," dkt. 31)

The tentative ruling is to continue the hearing on the R/S Motion for 6 months to 9/10/19 at 10:00 a.m., subject to further continuation, until Debtor's adversary proceeding (see dkt. 40) has been resolved. See Debtor's response (dkt. 41).

(b) Motion to Sell Free and Clear (dkt. 23)

Deny the motion, because as of the preparation of this tentative ruling Debtor has not filed a declaration and/or amended motion (due 4/4/19 per this Court's oral ruling at the 4/2/19 hearing) to address the issues raised by United States Trustee's opposition (dkt. 39) and the other issues raised by this Court in its tentative ruling for the 4/2/19 hearing (reproduced below).

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders (one for each of the foregoing matters) via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 1/8/19.

(a) Bar date: 4/16/19 (untimely but excused, dkt. 25).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD

(c) Continued status conference: 5/21/19 at 1:00 p.m., brief status report due 5/7/19.

If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 3/5/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Financial losses and irregularities

Debtor's first Monthly Operating Report ("MOR," Jan. 2019, dkt. 17, p.1) appears to show that Debtor started with $2,518.85 and ended with $25.64. How is this sustainable? It appears to match Debtor's bankruptcy Schedules I&J (dkt. 1 at PDF pp.43-46), which show negative cash flow and no anticipated future change. Although Debtor's status report (dkt. 13) states that Debtor intends to sell one property and/or evict the tenant, but the docket does not reflect any progress on those things. Based on the foregoing, the tentative ruling is to dismiss this bankruptcy case.

The same MOR appears to show that Debtor paid $150 on a "Personal Loan" from "Samuel Samuel" via "Cash App" (dkt. 17, at PDF p.2, 1/15/19 entry) - is that an unauthorized postpetition borrowing? Alternatively, is it an unauthorized payment of prepetition debt? Either way, it appears that Debtor is violating the duties of a debtor in possession.

Likewise, the MOR shows a payment of $479.31 to Capital One Auto Carpay for an "Automobile Loan." Dkt. 17, at PDF p.3, entry for 1/22/19. What is the explanation?

Likewise, the MOR shows a payment of $228.96 to "Charter Communications" on 1/28/19 for "Internet (Includes Past Due Amounts)." This appears to violate the automatic stay: what will Debtor's counsel do about that?

(b) Disregarding Court order

This Court's "Order Setting Bar Date: April 16, 2019 and Directing Service by Debtor" (dkt. 14, emphasis added) specifically directed Debtor to serve a copy of that order no later than February 11, 2019. There is no proof of such service. Why not? The tentative ruling, if this case is not dismissed, is to issue an order setting an amended bar date, and once again direct Debtor to serve a copy of that amended order on creditors (see below).

(c) Missing budget motion. At the 2/5/19 hearing and in the Initial Case Status Report (dkt. 13), Debtor represented to this Court that a budget motion would be forthcoming. As of the writing of this tentative ruling, no such motion has been filed. Why not?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 1/8/19.

(a) Bar date: 4/16/19 but no notice (see above), so re-set to 5/30/19 (DO NOT service any notice - this Court will prepare an amended bar date order and that order will direct Debtor to serve it on creditors).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD

(c) Continued status conference: 4/9/19 at 1:00 p.m., brief status report due 3/26/19.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 2/5/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues.

(a) Missing status report. Debtor is directed to explain why a Case Status Report was not filed, as required by this Court's order setting this status conference (dkt. 5).

(b) Missing "first day" motions. Debtor has failed to file a budget motion (required by Judge Bason's posted procedures, available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov). Debtor also has not filed any other typical "first day" motions (e.g., a utility motion).

(c) Negative, and inadequately supported, monthly income. Debtor appears to have a new job as a real estate broker, but even with that new (alleged) income and supplemental income as a Lyft driver he shows negative cash flow. See Bankruptcy Schedules I & J (dkt. 1 at PDF pp. 43-46).

Debtor appears to have two properties, but does not list any leases or any income from a rental property: why not?

Debtor has stated under penalty of perjury that he does not expect any changes to income or expenses (see bankruptcy Schedule I, item 13, and Schedule J, item 24). How can Debtor hope to reorganize with negative cash flow?

In addition, the (sparse) income that is reported is inadequately supported. Debtor has ignored the instructions on bankruptcy Schedule I, line 8a, to "[a]ttach a statement for each property and business showing gross receipts, ordinary and necessary business expenses, and the total monthly net income."

(c) Dismissal? Should this Court dismiss this case? Does the foregoing constitute a "willful failure to appear in proper prosecution" of this case, and/or a "willful" failure to comply with this Court's order setting this status conference, either of which would support dismissal with a bar under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1)?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 1/8/19. If this case is not dismissed, the tentative ruling is to set the following deadlines/dates:

(a) Bar date: 4/16/19 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD

(c) Continued status conference: 3/5/19 at 1:00 p.m., brief status report due 2/26/19.

hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Minimum adequate protection

In addition to the postpetition security interests that are automatically provided pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 552 (e.g., in traceable proceeds and profits), and subject to any more comprehensive protection that may be included in the motion or related papers, Debtor shall provide at least the following protection to any creditor with a security interest in the subject property (pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 361-364, as applicable):

(a) Insurance. For all collateral of a type that typically is insured (e.g., real property and improvements), Debtor is directed to maintain insurance in a dollar amount at least equal to Debtor's good faith estimate of the value of such creditor's interest in the collateral, and such insurance shall name such creditor as an additional insured. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments for such insurance.

(b) Taxes. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments on account of postpetition real estate taxes (to the extent that real estate is part of the collateral).

(c) Disclosures/access. Debtor is directed to provide, upon such creditor's reasonable request, periodic accountings of the foregoing insurance and tax obligations and payments, as well as postpetition proceeds, products, offspring, or profits from the collateral, including gross revenues and expenses and a calculation of net revenues, including any rents and any fees, charges, accounts, or other payments for the use or occupancy of rooms and other public facilities in lodging properties (as all of the foregoing terms are used in 11 U.S.C. 552). Debtor is directed to provide appropriate documentation of those accountings, and access for purposes of inspection or appraisal.

(3) Limitation on postpetition liens

In the event that the motion or related papers seek authority to grant postpetition liens to the creditor(s) with respect to prepetition debts any such liens shall be limited to the same validity, priority, and amount as prepetition liens. As used herein, the "validity, priority, and amount" or any similar phrase that may be used by the parties or this Court is deemed to include the following:

(a) Extent. Such liens shall be limited to the type of collateral in which the creditor held a security interest as of the petition date, unless this order expressly states that the liens granted by this order are intended to attach to different types of collateral from the prepetition collateral. For example, if prepetition liens extended to inventory and accounts receivable but not equipment then postpetition liens are likewise limited (unless otherwise expressly provided by order of this Court). In addition, postpetition liens shall not extend to the proceeds of any avoidance actions, any recoveries under 11 U.S.C. 506(c), or any "carveout" under 11 U.S.C. 552.

(b) Priority. Such liens shall be limited to the same priority as the security interest held by the creditor as of the petition date.

(c) Dollar amount. Such liens shall be limited to the dollar amount needed to protect the creditor against diminution in the value of the secured claims as of the petition date.

(d) Enforceability. Such liens shall be limited to the extent that the creditor's security interests were duly perfected and valid as of the petition date, and to the extent that they are unavoidable.

(e) Automatic postpetition perfection. Any automatic perfection of such liens shall be subject to any applicable limitations regarding the Court's authority, jurisdiction, or due process.

(4) Automatic disapproval of insufficiently disclosed provisions

Any provision of the type listed in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or in local form F4001-2 (e.g., cross-collateralization) or any waiver of the "equities of the case" exception in 11 U.S.C. 552(b)(2) shall be deemed automatically disapproved and excepted from any order granting the motion, notwithstanding any other provision of such order, unless either: (a) such provision is specifically and prominently disclosed in the motion papers in a checklist (such as local form F4001-2), or alternatively (b) such provision is specifically identified in any proposed order granting the motion, using terminology of the type used in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or local form F4001-2 (e.g., any "cross-collateralization" that is not specifically identified as such is deemed to be disapproved).

#18.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Removal
fr. 2/5/19

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

Please see tentative ruling in status conference (4/9/19, calendar no. 19 at 1:00 p.m.).

Tentative Ruling for 2/5/19:

Appearances required. This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (dkt. 9) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. Based on those documents it appears that both the plaintiff (Poser Investments, Inc., "Poser") and the Debtor-defendants agree that the four properties at issue either were never properly transferred or have been returned to Debtors, and either way they are now part of the bankruptcy estate. The principal remaining issues appear to be:

- (1) Will the other defendants contest that issue?
- (2) Does this Bankruptcy Court require jurisdiction over those other defendants (so as to enter a judgment against them, or at least against the interests that they previously asserted against the four properties), and if such jurisdiction is required, is such jurisdiction established by their appearance in the removed State Court action, or do they consent to in personam jurisdiction?
- (3) Does the underlying default judgment obtained by Poser's predecessor in interest against Debtors have a preclusive effect against the Debtor-defendants?
- (4) Does Poser have allowable secured claims against the four properties based on the lis pendens and abstracts of judgment?

The parties are directed to address whether there are different principal issues that this Court has not identified. In addition, the parties are directed to address why it would be necessary to have further discovery (in addition to what has already been conducted in the State Court) to address these issues. These appear likely to be resolved based on an application of the law to the undisputed facts, after briefing - e.g., motion(s) for summary judgment.

Meanwhile, it appears appropriate to order mandatory mediation, as set forth below.

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/19/19 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 12/10/18. The tentative ruling is not to set any deadlines (e.g., for cutoff of discovery) at this time, so as to provide time for mediation and/or motion(s) for summary judgment on potentially dispositive issues.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

Appearances Required

(1) Current Issues

(a) Implementation of the Plan; Order to Show Cause ("OSC," dkt. 386), and supplemental order ("OSC Supp," dkt. 399)

Debtors have not responded to the OSC (dkt. 386) or the OSC Supp (dkt. 399). The Fresco Parties have responded with a supplemental brief (dkt. 403) pointing out that this Court cannot appoint a chapter 11 trustee, but also recapping the disadvantages of conversion to chapter 7, and suggesting instead that (i) this Court should sanction Debtors, (ii) this Court should replace the current disbursing agent under the confirmed Plan, Mr. Aronson, with a new disbursing agent (the mechanism to choose such a person is not discussed), and (iii) this Court should vest that person with the power to execute documents to implement the Plan pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 1142(b):

1142. Implementation of plan

(b) The court may direct the debtor and any other necessary party to execute or deliver or to join in the execution or delivery of any instrument required to effect a transfer of property dealt with by a confirmed plan, and to perform any other act, including the satisfaction of any lien, that is necessary for the consummation of the plan.

The tentative ruling is to find that the individual Debtors are in contempt of court for each of the reasons stated in the OSC and the OSC Supp, and to award the compensatory, coercive, and punitive sanctions set forth below. As for issuing order(s) replacing the disbursing agent and vesting some person with power to execute documents and do other things necessary or appropriate to implement the Plan, this Court is concerned that such orders might exceed the scope of authority under section 1142(b), but similar relief might be available using other mechanisms, perhaps only after commencing an adversary proceeding or perhaps not, under Rules 70 and 71 (Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Rules 7001(7), 7070, 7071, and 9014(c), Fed. R. Bankr. P.). The parties are directed to address these issues at the hearing.

As for sanctions, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/14/19 for the Fresco Parties to file and serve their declaration(s) with attached timesheets, a deadline of 4/23/19 for Debtors and the U.S. Trustee to file and serve any responses, and any reply may be presented orally at the continued hearing. In addition, the tentative ruling is to impose coercive sanctions, payable to the Court, starting at $100 per day and continuing until Debtors comply with all of their obligations set forth in the OSC and the OSC Supp, all subject to being increased or otherwise adjusted at the continued hearing. In addition, the tentative ruling is to impose punitive sanctions of $2,500, payable to this Court, also subject to adjustment in future (either by this Court or by the District Court if punitive sanctions or other issues are before the District Court - because of the limitations on this Bankruptcy Court's ability to award any punitive sanctions, it may be necessary for the District Court to address that issue, which might be accomplished by a recommendation from this Court for withdrawal of the reference, perhaps only for that limited purpose, or which might be based on proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law by this Court, or any other mechanism that is appropriate). See In re Dyer, 322 F.3d 1178, 1195 (9th Cir. 2003); see also In re Count Liberty, LLC, 370 B.R. 259, 274 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2007).

The continued hearing on the OSC and the OSC Supp will be concurrent with the continued status conference set forth below.

(b) Coordination with Japanese authorities

This Court intends to address briefly with the parties what methods may be appropriate to request and obtain the assistance of any authorities in Japan in enforcing the terms of the Plan and this Court's orders. This Court may set a briefing schedule to address those things.

Revised Tentative Ruling for 1/15/19:
Appearances Required

(1) Current Issues

(a) Final Fee Application for Debtor's Counsel (Checkmate, dkt. 249, 250, 253, 255, 257, 258, 261, 264; and Sakurai, dkt. 343, 346, 352, 355, 356, 363, 367)

The applications seek $350,846.10 (Checkmate) and $118,796.75 (Sakurai). This Court has allowed a total of $300,000, and set this continued hearing to address the balance of $169,642.85. See Interim Fee Orders (dkt. 261, Checkmate; dkt. 363, Sakurai).

The Fresco parties' objections note that this Court has on more than one occasion expressed grave concerns about whether these Debtors have adequately prosecuted these bankruptcy cases. Of course, this Court expects that counsel for the debtors would not in any way have participated in any attempts by these Debtors to mislead or obstruct creditors in these cases, but that is not the end of the inquiry.

On the one hand, when there are legitimate strategic or tactical reasons to chose among different courses of action, counsel for Debtors usually must act at their clients' direction, even if they might harbor some doubts about the efficacy of those choices. On the other hand, in addition to the ethical limits of what counsel may do at their clients' direction, counsel are only permitted "reasonable compensation for actual, necessary services" (11 U.S.C. 330(a)(1)(A) (emphasis added)), and in determining what compensation is reasonable this Court "shall consider the nature, the extent, and the value of such services, taking into account all relevant factors, including [among other things] whether the services were necessary to the administration of, or beneficial at the time at which the service was rendered toward the completion of, [these bankruptcy cases]."

In these cases there are open questions about (i) Debtors' own acts and omissions, and whether Debtors were or were not engaging in a lack of diligent prosecution of these cases or other misconduct, (ii) whether Debtors, if deposed or examined at trial on those issues, will or will not assert advice of counsel, and (iii) whether, regardless of the foregoing issues, counsel for Debtors can satisfy the above-referenced statutory requirements. For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that the Fresco parties must have a reasonable period of time in which to conduct discovery to investigate Debtors' apparent failures to prosecute these cases or other misconduct, and whether, in view of the results of any such discovery, the compensation sought by counsel for Debtors is for "necessary" services and is "reasonable" in dollar amount, given all of the facts and circumstances.

Meanwhile, although this Court recognizes that all interim compensation may be revisited in connection with any final award, the question is how much to award on an interim basis, and whether any disbursed funds must be held in trust. The tentative ruling is to award another $35,000 to counsel for Debtors, to be allocated pro rata in proportion to their outstanding fee requests, without requiring any portion of those funds to be held in trust, but also without prejudice to allowance of a greater or lesser final award.

The parties should be prepared to address the schedule for discovery on the issues outlined above. The tentative ruling is that a five month period is appropriate.

Then, in connection with any final fee award, or at such other time as this Court may later determine, the Fresco parties' objections can be revisited with the benefit of both (i) any discovery and (ii) any subsequent developments. For example, any additional disclosures and/or recoveries in the Fower/Radiology litigation might shed light on whether Debtors' and their counsel's strategies and tactics in dealing with those parties were appropriate at the time they were made. (This Court emphasizes that any subsequent developments would be relevant only to the extent they shed light on what was reasonable at the time the legal services were rendered - not for purposes of "20/20 hindsight.")

Chapter 11

Tentative Ruling for 3/26/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) UST motion to dismiss (dkt. 79)

Have the issues in this motion been resolved (see dkt. 82)?

(b) Third amended plan (dkt. 69) and disclosure statement (dkt. 68)

The tentative ruling is to approve the Disclosure Statement on a final basis, and confirm the Plan for the following reasons.

Service of the voting package and notice (dkt. 75, 77) appears to have complied with this Court's orders setting this hearing (dkt. 71, 72). The ballot summary (dkt. 81) shows timely acceptance by Classes 2A, 2B, and 2C, untimely acceptance by Class 2D (the last of the secured claim classes), a lack of any votes by Class 4 (nonpriority unsecured creditors, who are to receive a 30% distribution under the Plan), and votes against the plan by Class 6 (mobile home park tenants, who may receive up to the value of their mobile home, if they hold a valid tenancy, or $2,000 for removing the mobile home). Because not every impaired class has accepted the Plan (paragraph "(8)" of 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)), Debtor must satisfy the requirements for "cramdown" under subsection "(b)" of 11 U.S.C. 1129, as well as the other requirements of subsection "(a)."

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has done so. Cramdown requires, among other things, that a plan be "fair and equitable" and not "discriminate unfairly" as to non-accepting impaired classes. 11 U.S.C. 1129(b).

None of the non-accepting classes have filed any objections to confirmation of the Plan or final approval of the adequacy of the Disclosure Statement. The treatment of Class 2D is justified by its belated acceptance of the Plan. The treatment of Class 4 appears to be justified by the legal requirement to pay secured creditors ahead of unsecured creditors, the "new value" contribution of Debtor's principal, and Debtor's cash flow projections. The treatment of Class 6 appears to be justified by Debtor's disclosure of its legal theory for displacing the mobile home park tenants, and the absence of any contrary arguments or authority. See Disclosure Statement, Exhibit "I" (dkt. 68 at PDF pp.22-24).

The final requirement is the other elements of 11 U.S.C. 1129(a).

(a) Plan (dkt. 64, the "Plan") and disclosure statement (dkt. 63, the "D/S")

It appears that counsel for Debtor has manually altered the spreadsheets, which defeats the purpose of having automatic (reliable) calculations in the spreadsheets. In addition, it appears that the Plan periods in Ex.A are "1" month and 13 months later (month "14"), whereas on Ex.C Period A is 3 months, Period B is 1 month, and Period C is 6 months, which does not match. In addition, the Effective Date (e.g., on Ex.A & Ex. C) should be revised to a date that is at least two weeks after the combined hearing on the plan and D/S set forth below.

Subject to correction of these issues, the tentative ruling is to conditionally approve the disclosure statement and authorize service of the voting package, all as set forth below.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 5/15/18.

(a) Bar date: 8/14/18 (dkt. 35), timely served (dkt. 38).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement (dkt. 64,63)*: 12/18/18 deadline (i) to file (NOT SERVE - except on the U.S. Trustee) any redlined revisions to be discussed at the status conference and (ii) to lodge Judge Bason's form of order authorizing service of the voting package, setting deadlines, and setting a combined hearing on final approval of the Disclosure Statement and confirmation of the Plan for the same time as the continued status conference. The proposed order should be modified so that the voting package includes Mr. Starflinger's declaration (dkt. 65).

Note: If the U.S. Trustee wishes to file initial comments on any draft Plan documents before the regular deadline, it should do so at least two weeks prior to the subsequent status conference (but, whether or not any comments are filed, all rights are reserved to object to the Disclosure Statement or Plan when deadline(s) for such objections are established).

(c) Continued status conference: 3/12/19 at 1:00 p.m. No status report required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Tentative Ruling for 2/26/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current matters

At the hearing on 10/2/18 this Court heard oral argument on the motion of the Bureau of Land Management ("BLM") to dismiss Debtor's adversary proceeding ("Debtor v. BLM," Adv. No. 2:18-ap-01057-NB). This Court took the matter under submission and continued the various related matters in this case to 12/4/18, and then (for this Court's own scheduling needs) to 12/18/18 (dkt. 167), and then (based on the partial shutdown of the U.S. government) to 2/26/19 (Debtor v. BLM adv. dkt. 44, 46).

(a) Current status and tentative rulings

This Court anticipates, prior to this 2/26/19 hearing, finalizing and issuing a Memorandum Decision granting the BLM's motion to dismiss the Debtor v. BLM adversary proceeding, without leave to amend. Based on that ruling, Debtor will not have any interest in the subject leases. The tentative ruling is that this moots the related matters:

(i) Debtor v. Western States Int'l et al.

Debtor's adversary proceeding against other parties in interest that essentially seeks to clear Debtor's title to the leases ("Debtor v. Western States Int'l, et al.," Adv. No. 2:17-ap-01326-NB); and

(ii) R/S Motion (dkt. 130)

Ms. Aliet-Gass's motion for relief from the automatic stay to proceed with pending litigation in State Court, in which she essentially seeks to assert the alleged interests of Western States Int'l against Debtor.

Accordingly, the tentative ruling is (x) to stay the foregoing related matters for a period of not less than 14 days after entry of this Court's order dismissing the Debtor v. BLM adversary proceeding, (y) if there is an appeal from that order, to extend such stay during the pendency of any appeal and subsequent proceedings on that order, and (z) if there is no appeal, dismiss

Tentative Ruling for 6/26/18:

Tentative Ruling for 5/8/18:

Tentative Ruling for 4/17/18:

Continue (1) calendar nos. 5, 6 and 7 on today's calendar, and (2) the motion for relief from the automatic stay filed by Ingrid Aliet-Gass for herself and Western States International, Inc. (dkt. 130, the "R/S Motion") all as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 4/17/18.

Specifically, the tentative ruling is as follows:

(1) Continue (a) the status conference in this bankruptcy case, (b) the status conference in adversary proceeding no. 2:17-ap-01326-NB, and (c) the debtor's motion to amend the complaint in that adversary proceeding (adv. dkt. 125, and see adv. dkt. 130, 131, 139, 142) to be concurrent with (d) the motion by the Bureau of Land Management ("BLM") to dismiss the separate adversary proceeding against it (no. 2:18-ap-01057-NB, adv. dkt. 7), which is currently scheduled for 5/8/18 at 2:00 p.m.

(2) Continue the R/S Motion, which is currently set for 5/1/18 at 10:00 a.m., to the same date and time.

After this hearing date this Court will prepare an order continuing all of the foregoing matters and will serve it on the BLM, Aliet-Gass, and Western States International, Inc. at the addresses known to this Court, and that order will also direct the debtor to serve those parties and any other known parties with an interest in the foregoing matters.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 11/23/16.

Tentative Ruling for 3/6/18:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues.

(a) Default judgment motion - Wilshee (adv. dkt. 140). Deny for lack of service. See dkt. 140 at PDF p.4 (serving defendant at "ENTER ADDRESS HERE").

(b) Default judgment motion - JNDDC, LLC (adv. dkt. 135). Deny for lack of service. See dkt. 135, last two pages (defendant not listed in service list).

(c) Default judgment motion - Flavio Rodriguez (adv. dkt. 133). Deny for lack of service. See dkt. 133 at PDF p.8 (marked up by someone - movant? - to show deficiencies in completion of proof of service) and dkt. 133 last two pages (defendant not listed on service list).

(d) Default judgment motion - Jag Pathirana (adv. dkt. 134). Grant. It appears that plaintiff has abandoned claims against defendant Jag Pathirana other than "clearing title" to the plaintiff/debtor's alleged property interests at issue in the complaint. That appears to moot the relevant concerns previously raised by this court (see adv. dkt. 116, exhibit).

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues.

(a) Status Reports (main case dkt. 122; adv. no. 2:17-ap-01326-NB, dkt. 132). The debtor/plaintiff suggests that it will be filing a motion to approve a disclosure statement. Is that premature, given the following issues?

(b) Motion to amend complaint (adv. dkt. 125). The parties should be prepared to address the issues raised in the motion and in the oppositions filed by the California Department of Conservation, Division of Oil and Gas, and Geothermal Resources ("DOGGR") (adv. dkt. 125, 130, 131).

In addition, the debtor/plaintiff should be prepared to address whether the proposed amended complaint cures the deficiencies in the original complaint, and whether any ruling on the motion to amend the complaint should be deferred until after default judgments are (or are not) obtained on the existing (original) complaint, for the reasons set forth in this Court's Memorialization Of Reasons For Denying Motions For Default Judgments

If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 1/23/18:

Continue the status conferences in both the main case and the adversary proceeding (adv. no. 2:17-ap-01326-NB) to 2/13/18 at 2:00 p.m. with a status report due 2/6/18 (at which time other documents are also due as set forth below) for the reasons set forth below. Appearances are not required on 1/23/18.

(1) Current issues

(a) Reasons for continuance: (i) because of the problems noted below; (ii) because of the debtor's untimely last-minute filing of status reports (the debtor is cautioned that continued untimely filings may result in sanctions); (iii) because of the inability of the Office of the United States Trustee to appear due to the shutdown of much of the federal government, (iv) to be concurrent with the (improperly self-calendared) motion to amend the complaint, and (v) in view of the debtor's various status reports (main case dkt. 117, adv. dkt. 122, 127, 129).

(b) Bar date. The debtor's proofs of service of the bar date order are missing exhibits and incomprehensible (see dkt. 110, 111). The debtor is directed to file, no later than 2/6/18, either a corrected proof of service or an application (supported by a declaration) to set yet another supplemental bar date - whichever is appropriate.

(c) Status of existing complaint in adversary proceeding. On 11/20/17 this court issued an order (adv. dkt. 117) denying the plaintiff/debtor's motions for default judgments, without prejudice. The debtor now seeks to amend the complaint (adv. dkt. 125). All of these things moot the motions for default judgments so the hearings on those motions have been vacated.

In addition, the tentative ruling is to memorialize this court's reasons for denying the motions for default judgments by filing on the docket a copy of this court's adopted tentative ruling for the 11/14/17 hearings on those motions (reproduced within the tentative ruling for calendar no. 9. 1/23/18 at 2:00 p.m.).

(d) Motion to amend complaint (adv. dkt. 125). This motion was self-calendared for 2:00 p.m. (a time that cannot be used for self-calendaring) on 2/13/18. Nevertheless, the tentative ruling is to permit that motion to proceed at that time.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 11/23/16.

(a) Bar date: initial date of 7/10/17 (order timely served, dkt. 56, 60); supplemental date of 1/26/18, to be served no later than 11/15/17 (per Order, dkt. 107) but proofs of service are incomprehensible (dkt. 110, 111) - see above under "current issues".

Tentative Ruling for 11/14/17:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address the following issues.

(1) Current issues. The debtor has filed a second (very belated) proof of service (dkt. 103) of this court's order (dkt. 56) setting a bar date. Under that order the bar date was set as 7/10/17 and service was required no later than 5/8/17. What does the debtor's belated service do except cause confusion? Does the debtor require a new bar date for previously unknown creditors?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 11/23/16. If this case is not converted or dismissed, the tentative ruling is to set the following:

(a) Bar date: 7/10/17 (order timely served, dkt. 56, 60; but see above under "current issues").

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD.

(c) Continued status conference: 1/30/18 at 2:00 p.m., status report due 1/16/18.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

CONT... Riverwood Gas and Oil LLC

Chapter 11

Tentative Ruling for 8/22/17:

The tentative ruling is to dismiss this case with a 180 day bar for willful failure to appear in proper prosecution, as set forth below. See 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1). Appearances are not required.

Reasons: This case was filed on 11/23/16. The debtor's assets consist of disputed rights in hydrocarbon leases. See Status Report, dkt. 81. Realizing any value from those rights apparently depends on retaining special counsel who will diligently prosecute the debtor's claims. Despite numerous opportunities, the debtor has failed to satisfy the prerequisites for retention of special counsel.

(1) Inadequate declarations about "connections"

At the hearing on 7/11/17 this court extensively reviewed the evidence that would be required before this court could approve the application to employ the latest proposed special counsel, Mr. Montes. That included a requirement of detailed declarations from Mr. and Mrs. Hoats regarding any transfers of any property (including intangible property) involving the debtor and any of them, as well as any other "connections" (as that term is used in Rule 2014, Fed. R. Bankr. P.) to the debtor and any other party in interest.

This court recognizes that Mr. and Mrs. Hoats are not the professionals whose employment is being sought. Nevertheless, given their very close ties to the debtor, and their failure to disclose connections to the prior proposed special counsel that raised questions about conflicts of interest, this court orally ordered the debtor to provide their declarations at the hearing on 5/2/17. That order has been ignored.

(2) Knudsen factors

This court also directed Mr. Montes to file a declaration addressing the factors that this court must consider in assessing his request to be paid more frequently than once every 120 days. See In re Knudsen, 84 B.R. 668, 672-73 (9th Cir. BAP 1988). Mr. Montes has filed such a declaration (dkt. 82) and has adequately summarized the factors (id., p.3:15-23) but he has not adequately addressed the third factor, which he summarizes as: "any funds paid but later disapproved by the court can be recovered from the professional" in one or more of the ways listed in Knudsen. (Emphasis added.) Those ways are:

[a. Holdback] retainer payments are for only a percentage of the amount billed so that the likelihood or necessity of repayment is minimal [Mr. Montes suggests a 10% holdback, which has not been shown to be adequate - the typical amount is 20%, and that typically applies only to well established firms whose ability to repay funds is reinforced by the firm's longevity and reputation or similar considerations];

[b. Bond] counsel can post a bond covering any possible reassessment [Mr. Montes has not addressed this factor];

[c. Financial ability to repay] counsel's financial position makes it certain that any reassessment can be repaid [Mr. Montes has not addressed this factor]; [and/or]

[d. Hold funds in trust account] funds paid prior to allowance are held in a trust account until a final or interim fee allowance is made [Mr. Montes has only offered to place the 10% proposed holdback in a trust account]. [Knudsen, 84 B.R. 668, at 672]

(3) The debtor appears to cite the wrong statutory authority

The debtor's application to employ Mr. Montes (dkt. 65) requests that his employment be approved under subsection "(e)" of 11 U.S.C. 327. But that subsection only applies by its terms to an attorney who "has represented the debtor" (i.e., prepetition counsel whose employment is to continue postpetition). Id. (emphasis added).

That is not the end of the analysis, because it has been held that special counsel can be employed even when such counsel has not represented the debtor prepetition. See In re Fondiller, 15 B.R. 890, 892 (9th Cir. BAP 1981) (emphasis added), appeal dismissed, 707 F.2d 441 (9th Cir. 1983). Although Fondiller has been interpreted as authorizing employment under subsection (e) (see, e.g., Covenant Fin. Group of Am., Inc., 243 B.R. 450, 455 & n. 8 (Bankr. N.D. Ala. 1999)), the precise holding of Fondiller appears to be that special counsel can be employed under subsection "(a)" of Section 327 because any "omission" in subsection "(e)" does not limit the general authority in subsection "(a)." See Fondiller, 15 B.R. at 891-92 (interpreting § 327(a) by comparison with §§ 327(c) and (e)).

True, the precise statutory authority appears to make little if any practical difference, because Fondiller held that when counsel is only employed to perform limited services, then an interest "adverse to the estate" means "an adverse interest relating to the services which are to be performed by that attorney," which appears to mean that the inquiry for proposed special counsel under subsection "(a)" is the same as under subsection "(e)." Fondiller, 15 B.R. at 892 (emphasis added). Mr. Montes' declaration (included in dkt. 65) appears to meet this test because he states that he has no adverse interest.

Nevertheless, as stated above this court has required additional evidence from Mr. and Mrs. Hoats and that evidence has not been provided. In addition, because the debtor has sought authority under subsection "(e)" instead of "(a)" it appears not have met the technical requirements for employment of Mr. Montes.

If you wish to dispute the above tentative ruling, please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings".

Tentative Ruling for 7/11/17:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Employment of special counsel. Deny the application to employ the Law Offices of M. Brian McMahon (dkt. 46) because he no longer intends to pursue employment. See dkt. 73, para. 3. Deny the application to employ the Law Offices of Mike Montes, Jr. (dkt. 65) due to the failure to address the issues raised by this court in the tentative ruling for 5/2/17 (reproduced below) (without reaching the issues raised by the U.S. Trustee's objection, dkt. 72, and the debtor's reply, dkt. 74). The U.S. Trustee is directed to lodge proposed orders denying each application within seven days after this hearing date.

(b) Lack of progress. Should this case be dismissed for lack of prosecution?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 11/23/16. If this case is not converted or dismissed, the tentative ruling is to set the following:

(a) Bar date: 7/10/17 (order timely served, dkt. 56, 60).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD.

(c) Continued status conference: 8/22/17 at 2:00 p.m., status report due 8/15/17.

Tentative Ruling for 6/13/17:

Continue to 7/11/17 at 1:00 p.m. to allow the debtor time to prosecute an employment application regarding Mr. Motes (see debtor's case status report, dkt. 62). Appearances are not required on 6/13/17.

If you wish to dispute the above tentative ruling, please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings".

Tentative Ruling for 5/2/17:

Appearances required. There is no tentative ruling, but the debtor's proposed attorney, Brian McMahon Esq., should be prepared to address the concerns set forth in the U.S. Trustee's objection (dkt. 49) and the other issues set forth below.

(1) Current issues.

(a) Proposed special counsel.

(i) Background. On 4/5/17 the debtor filed an application for authority to employ the law offices of Mr. McMahon as special counsel under 11 U.S.C. 327(e) (dkt. 47). On 4/12/17 the United States Trustee ("UST") filed an objection to the employment application, which expressed concerns about the payment arrangement proposed in the application (dkt. 49).

The debtor filed a statement of disinterestedness for Mr. McMahon (dkt.53), and a reply (dkt.55), stating that a third party, Ms. Lilian Hoats, will be paying the attorney fees for Mr. McMahon's representation. Ms. Hoats is the CEO of Inviron Technologies, Inc. ("Managing Member"), which is the debtor's managing member (dkt. 55, Ex.1, p.1, recital "b"). Attached to the reply (dkt. 55, Ex.1) is a written document that purports to be a waiver of conflicts (if any exist) among the debtor, Ms. Hoats, and the Managing Member (the "Hoats/Managing Member Conflict Waiver").

The Attorney-Client Retainer Agreement attached to the employment application (dkt. 46, Ex.1) provides that Mr. McMahon is representing not only the debtor but also its affiliates Riverwood Energy, LLC ("Energy Affiliate") and Riverwood Resources Ltd. ("Resources Affiliate"). This court is not aware of the precise organizational and contractual relationships among the debtor, Energy Affiliate, and Resources Affiliate, nor of any written document purporting to be a waiver of conflicts (if any exist) among them.

(ii) Statutory provisions and rules

Although special counsel does not have to be "distinterested" (compare 11 U.S.C. 327(a)), special counsel still must not "represent or hold any interest adverse to the debtor or to the estate with respect to the matter on which such attorney is to be employed." 11 U.S.C. 327(e) (emphasis added). Under Rule 2014 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) both Mr. McMahon and the debtor were supposed to disclose all connections between Mr. McMahon and "the debtor, creditors, any other party in interest, their respective attorneys and accountants, the United States trustee, or any person employed in the office of the United States trustee."

The disclosures have not been adequate. This court does not know enough about the underlying litigation and the organizational and contractual relationships among the various entities to assess whether there may be conflicts of interest between the debtor, on the one hand, and Ms. Hoats, Managing Member, Energy Affiliate, and/or Resource Affiliate.

(iii) A DIP's conflicts generally cannot be waived

Any purported conflict waiver probably cannot waive actual conflicts. See, e.g., In re Perry, 194 B.R. 875, 880 (E.D.Cal.1996) (waiver of conflict by non-debtor parties was insufficient and "[i]nformed consent could not be obtained" because "the real parties in interest in this case are the creditors, and that is not a waivable conflict"); In re B.E.S. Concrete Products, Inc., 93 B.R. 228, 235 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. 1988).

But while actual conflicts of interest create a violation of 11 U.S.C. 327 which would require disqualification of the proposed professional, the mere existence of a potential conflict of interest does not require disqualification, and it is up to the court's discretion whether the purported conflict is sufficiently threatening to the estate to warrant disqualification. In re Wheatfield Business Park, LLC, 286 B.R. 412, 421 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2002).

Are proposed counsel and the debtor aware of any actual conflicts?
How about potential conflicts?

(iv) The purported conflict waiver is incomplete

The Hoats/Managing Member Conflict Waiver is not actually signed by Ms. Hoats in her individual capacity (she has only signed it on behalf of the debtor's Managing Member). In addition, as noted above, this court is not aware of any purported conflict waiver among the debtor and Operating Affiliate or Resources Affiliate.

(v) There might be conflicts among the debtor and Ms. Hoats

A third party who funds a retainer for the debtor (the "Funder") generally has some pre-existing relationship with the debtor, and/or some motivation to providing the funding. Those things increase the likelihood that the Funder could be the recipient of an avoidable preference, or might have alter ego liability, or otherwise might have interests that are adverse to (or at least not fully aligned with) the bankruptcy estate or creditors. For these reasons, although payment of a retainer by a third party is not outright prohibited, it is fraught with ethical concerns. At the hearing, counsel for the debtor and proposed special counsel should be prepared to address the following.

(A) Terms. What are the precise agreements, understandings or expectations regarding the funds -- e.g., are the funds a loan, a gift, an investment, or something else?

(B) Informed consent of Funder. Has the Funder been advised regarding actual and potential conflicts of interest, and that the sole attorney-client relationship and duty of loyalty is with the debtor, not the Funder? Who provided such advice: independent counsel? counsel for the debtor? the debtor's proposed special counsel? Has the Funder given informed consent? Are those things in writing?

(C) Informed consent of debtor. Has the debtor likewise been fully advised and given informed consent? Who provided such advice? Are these things in writing? Ms. Hoats has signed the Hoats/Managing Member conflict waiver on behalf of the debtor: how can she, acting for the debtor, waive conflicts with herself?

(D) Other considerations. Has proposed special counsel demonstrated or represented to the Court the absence of an actual or potential conflict, a lack of disinterestedness, or any other basis for disqualification? See In re Kelton Motors, Inc., 109 B.R. 641 (Bankr. D. Vt. 1989); In re Lotus Prop's LP, 200 B.R. 388 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1996) (rejecting per se disqualification when fees are paid by third party); and compare In re Hathaway Ranch Partnership, 116 B.R. 208, 219 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1990) (per se rule). See generally In re Park-Helena Corp., 63 F.3d 877 (9th Cir. 1995).

This case was filed on 11/23/16. The debtor's status report (dkt. 34) states that the debtor intends to retain special counsel, and the monthly operating reports (dkt. 37, 38) appear to show no activity other than opening DIP bank accounts and paying associated fees. Although progress in this case has been slow, it does not appear efficient to hold a status conference at this time. If substantially more progress is not shown by the next status conference, this court may dismiss this case for failure to appear in proper prosecution. See 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1), 349.

Appearances required. The tentative ruling is to deny the motions for default judgments, without prejudice, for the reasons set forth below, and to set a continued status conference for 1/30/18 at 2:00 p.m.

On the one hand, there appears to be successful prosecution of this adversary proceeding because, according to the plaintiff's status report (adv. dkt. 92), all of the defendants have either agreed to the requested declaratory relief or have defaulted. On the other hand, there are some fundamental issues that appear to prevent this court from granting default judgments at this time.

(1) Self-calendaring error. The motions for default judgments were only served on 10/27/17. See, e.g., Motion for Default Judgment Derek Wilshee (dkt. 83, 74) (collectively, the "Wilshee Default Motion"). That is insufficient time prior to the hearing, under the applicable rules, nor was there any cover notice of the hearing date and deadline for any opposition or response.

(2) Jurisdictional issues.

Chapter 11

(a) Personal jurisdiction. Does the complaint adequately establish personal jurisdiction over each defendant? At least one defendant is alleged to be a resident of Australia (dkt. 1, para. 14), although the plaintiff has voluntarily dismissed claims against that defendant (dkt. 107). Are each of the defaulting defendants subject to personal jurisdiction?

(b) Subject matter jurisdiction, and abstention. The complaint and motions for default judgment make somewhat vague assertions of other action(s) that were or are pending in other courts apparently involving the same subject matter, and involving at least preliminary injunctive relief if not other relief. Can this Bankruptcy Court assume jurisdiction over matters that are pending in other courts? Must or should this Bankruptcy Court abstain?

(3) Allegations of wrongdoing. Where is the analysis tying each of the defaulting defendants to one or more of the specific acts of wrongdoing bringing them within the claims in the complaint? For example, the only allegation in the complaint regarding Mr. Wilshee (dkt. 1, para. 14) appears to be that he was at one time an officer of the debtor. How is that an act of wrongdoing?

The Wilshee Default Motion seeks a default judgment against Mr. Wilshee of $431,472,300.00 (dkt. 74, at PDF p.51 of 53). How is he responsible for such alleged damages? Does the complaint need to be amended to establish, as against one or more of the defaulting defendants, how they are alleged to be liable?

(4) Calculation of damages. An exhibit to the plaintiff's motions for default judgments asserts that "Based on Department of Conservation Records [available on a website and/or verified by whom?], these leases [which leases? the ones that allegedly were supposed to be assigned but were not?] were producing 1730 barrels of Oil a day [when?] and "[w]ith today's technology [how is today's technology better?], a conservative figure would be 3500 barrels a day [based on whose expert opinion?] that will be used as a figure for all the losses caused by Western States International [how about other defendants?]." Dkt. 83, Ex.A, at PDF p.17 of 53. The same exhibit shows a calculation of alleged damages based on "Approx Production" of "105,000" which is far more than 3500 barrels (perhaps using a 30-day presumptive month multiplied by 3500 barrels a day?), an "Average Oil Price [from what source?]," and a "Cost [to extract, market, refine, deliver, and sell the oil - or some other or different set of things? based on what expert's opinion?]." Based on the foregoing questions, and applying Rule 55(b)(2) (Fed. R. Civ. P.) (incorporated by Rule 7055, Fed. R. Bankr. P.), it appears that additional evidence and a "prove up" hearing will be needed to determine the amount of damages, if not other issues.

(5) Alleged costs, attorney fees, and interest. The debtor/plaintiff asserts $1 million in costs (dkt. 74 at PDF p.51 of 53) - how is that possible? What are the components? Attorney fees are alleged to be $300,000 - this case has barely commenced, so how is that possible? Where are the daily time sheets and/or other support for this figure? Prejudgment interest is alleged to be at a 10% rate per year starting 1/1/11. What is the contractual or statutory basis for that interest rate and that commencement date? The purported damages were incurred month by month, so how can interest run from before those damages were incurred?

(6) Declaratory relief. The plaintiff makes broad allegations about the rights under various contracts, or arising from breaches of those contracts or by operation of law. Where is the support for these allegations? The plaintiff cannot place the burden on this court to sort through numerous provisions of various contracts to piece together the plaintiff's theory. The plaintiff must provide specific, easy-to-follow analysis and evidence.

(7) Conclusion. Because the motions for default judgments are both procedurally and substantively deficient in all of the ways set forth above, the tentative ruling is to deny them without prejudice.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

a joint status report two weeks in advance of this hearing (dkt. 2), but have not done so. In addition, this court notes that the tentative ruling in the main case status conference (calendar no. 3, 8/22/17 at 2:00 p.m.) is to dismiss the main case, which normally would terminate this adversary proceeding. Nevertheless, to preserve all rights in the event that this court were to be persuaded not to dismiss the main case, this court has reviewed the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding and issues the following tentative ruling.

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below?

(3) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 6/19/17. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to serve and lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

WVJP 2017-2, LP
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 41

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below, subject to any opposition at the hearing (see order setting this hearing on shortened time, dkt. 49, and notice, dkt. 52, 53). Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

Movant seeks to record an abstract of a previously-renewed judgment. The automatic stay does not apply to such perfection of an interest in property. See 11 U.S.C. 362(b)(3).

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Deny, without prejudice to any other types of relief granted herein (or previously granted), for the following reasons.

The motion requests requests "in rem" relief (i.e., relief applicable notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases (which this Court can grant, in appropriate cases, under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and/or In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31)). The tentative ruling is to deny that request because there has not been a sufficient showing of any "scheme" to hinder, delay, or defraud Movant, or comparable misconduct.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Requested relief under 11 U.S.C. 108

Movant's alternative request for relief is for a ruling that its time to record its abstract of the renewed judgment is extended under 11 U.S.C. 108. The tentative ruling is that if for some reason this Court were incorrect in its tentative ruling (above) that all Movant seeks is to extend the perfection of its lien, then section 108(c) would apply. The provisions of 108(c) and 362(b)(3) go hand in hand. See In re Hunters Run Ltd. P'ship, 875 F.2d 1425, 1428-29 (9th Cir. 1989).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

#1.00 Cont'd hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]
fr. 4/9/19

BOBS, LLC
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 778

Tentative Ruling:

Deny the motion for relief from the automatic stay, including the alternative request for adequate protection payments; all subject to the possibility of setting an evidentiary hearing, as further explained below. Appearances required.

(1) Overview

Bob's, LLC's ("Bobs") has filed its motion for relief from the automatic stay (dkt. 778, 787). Debtor has filed opposition papers (dkt. 805, and see related procedural matters at dkt. 780-86, 788, 800). So have the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors (the "Committee") (dkt. 806), Ms. DeeAnna Staats (dkt. 807), and the Agent under the Court-approved settlement agreement, Dean G. Rallis, Jr., Esq. (the "Agent") (dkt. 808). Bobs has filed a reply (dkt. 812). Debtor has also filed an application to emply a new appraiser (dkt. 813), in the event that this Court sets an evidentiary hearing on the motion.

On the present record, the tentative ruling is to deny the motion (subject to possible continuance for an evidentiary hearing as set forth below). Debtor and the other parties opposing the motion have met their burden under 11 U.S.C. 362(g) (albeit not with the strongest evidence) to establish that, despite Debtor's failure to make adequate protection payments to Bobs, it is adequately protected by an equity cushion.

But the tentative ruling is also that the foregoing is only the best assessment that this Court can make on the present record, within the initial 30-day period under 11 U.S.C. 362(e). The tentative ruling is that there are sufficient grounds to extend the automatic stay through the conclusion of an evidentiary hearing and ruling on the value of the various collateral and other liens involved. The tentative ruling is to set that hearing and a briefing schedule as set forth in the tentative ruling for the Status Conference (calendar no. 2, 4/16/19 at 2:00 p.m.).

(2) The statute and its interpretation

(a) Code provisions

Bobs seeks relief under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) or (d)(2), which provide as follows:

- (d) On request of a party in interest and after notice and a hearing, the court shall grant relief from the [automatic stay], such as by terminating, annulling, modifying, or conditioning such stay -
- (1) for cause, including the lack of adequate protection of an interest in property of such party in interest; [or]
- (2) with respect to a stay of an act against property ... if-
- (A) the debtor does not have an equity in such property; and
- (B) such property is not necessary to an effective reorganization [11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1)&(2) (emphasis added)]

There is a 30-day time limit to complete the hearing on a motion for relief from the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(e)), subject to certain exceptions:

- (e) Thirty days after a request under subsection (d) of this section for relief from the stay of any act against property of the estate under subsection (a) of this section, such stay is terminated with respect to the party in interest making such request, unless the court, after notice and a hearing, orders such stay continued in effect pending the conclusion of, or as a result of, a final hearing and determination under subsection (d) of this section. A hearing under this subsection may be a preliminary hearing, or may be consolidated with the final hearing under subsection (d) of this section. The court shall order such stay continued in effect pending the conclusion of the final hearing under subsection (d) of this section if there is a reasonable likelihood that the party opposing relief from such stay will prevail at the conclusion of such final hearing. If the hearing under this subsection is a preliminary hearing, then such final hearing shall be concluded not later than thirty days after the conclusion of such preliminary hearing, unless the 30-day period is extended with the consent of the parties in interest or for a specific time which the court finds is required by compelling circumstances.

[11 U.S.C. 362(e)(1) (emphasis added)]

The burdens of proof are set forth in 11 U.S.C. 362(g):

(g) In any hearing under subsection (d) or (e) of this section concerning relief from the stay of any act under subsection (a) of this section -

(1) the party requesting such relief has the burden of proof on the issue of the debtor's equity in property; and

(2) the party opposing such relief has the burden of proof on all other issues. [11 U.S.C. 362(g) (emphasis added)]

In addition, in permitting Debtor to use the Paramour and other collateral, this Court must "prohibit or condition" such use "as is necessary to provide adequate protection" of Bobs' interest in such property. 11 U.S.C. § 363(e). In interpreting each of the various portions of the Code, this Court keeps in mind that the words "includes" and "including" are not limiting. 11 U.S.C. 102(3).

(b) Judicial interpretation, in general

The Bankruptcy Appellate Panel for the Ninth Circuit (the "BAP") has held that relief from stay proceedings are summary in nature and have only limited preclusive effect - "a creditor's claim or security is not finally determined in the relief from stay proceeding." In re Veal, 450 B.R. 897, 914 (9th Cir. BAP 2011). The BAP has also explained the shifting burdens of proof under section 362(d)(1) as follows:

While neither the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals nor this Panel have issued a published decision addressing the standard of proof for establishing cause for stay relief under [section] 362(d)(1), the bankruptcy courts within the circuit that have squarely addressed the issue are trending in a single direction. That trend is well-represented by the following quote from [Plumberex Specialty Prod's, Inc., 311 B.R. 551, 559 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2004)]:

The burden of proof on a motion to modify the automatic stay is a shifting one. To obtain relief from the automatic stay, the party seeking relief must first establish a prima facie case that "cause" exists for relief under [section] 362(d)(1). Once a prima facie case has been established, the burden shifts to the debtor to show that relief from the stay is unwarranted. If the movant fails to meet its initial burden to demonstrate cause, relief from the automatic stay should be denied.

BAP 2016)]

The BAP also explained in Advanced Medical that these shifting burdens are consistent with section 362(g):

This trend is consistent with [section] 362(g), which places the burden of proof on the debtor [and all other parties opposing relief from the automatic stay] on all issues except for the issue of debtor's equity in the property (when relevant). As one leading treatise explains, [section] 362(g) deals with the ultimate burden of persuasion, whereas the rule requiring the party seeking relief from the automatic stay to present a prima facie case of cause deals only with the initial burden of production. See 3 Collier on Bankruptcy [para.] 362.10 (16th ed. 2016). [Advanced Medical, 2016 WL 6958130, *5 n.4]

(c) "Cause" under section 362(d)(1)

As the parties recognize, "cause" for relief from the automatic stay is a flexible concept, and one example of "cause" is a lack of adequate protection. 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1). The Bankruptcy Code provides a non-exclusive list of various types of adequate protection, including: (1) periodic cash payments equivalent to the decrease in the value of the creditor's interest in the property; (2) an additional or replacement lien on other property; or (3) other relief that provides the indubitable equivalent. See 11 U.S.C. § 361.

(i) Size of equity cushion

As Bobs argues, a 20% equity cushion is usually considered fully adequate; an equity cushion of approximately half that is usually (but not always) considered inadequate; and between these amounts the outcome depends on the facts and circumstances and the Bankruptcy Court's exercise of its discretion. See MPA (dkt. 778, at PFD pp.18 et seq.) p.2:12-22. See also Debtor Opp. (dkt. 805) p.4:12-16; Committee Opp. (dkt. 808) p.5:1-7.

(ii) Effect of section 506(b)

Accruing interest, attorney fees, and other charges are allowed to oversecured creditors under 11 U.S.C. 506(b). But if a creditor is undersecured - if its lien is "underwater" - it is not entitled to periodic "adequate protection" payments under section 362(d)(1) to compensate it for the lost "time value" of money. United Sav. Ass'n of Tex. v. Timbers of Inwood Forest Assocs., Ltd., 484 U.S. 365 (1988) (involving underwater lien).

Debtor and the Agent argue that this concept should be extended further. They argue that any amounts allowed under section 506(b) - i.e., interest and reasonable attorney fees, costs and charges allowable to oversecured creditors, including either the senior lienholder or Bobs itself - should not count, for purposes of determining whether Bobs is adequately protected by an (alleged) equity cushion. See Debtor Opp. (dkt. 805, p.11:13-17) (citing Delta Resources, Inc., 54 F.3d 722, 730 (11th Cir. 1995)) and Agent Opp. (dkt. 808, p.4:13-27) (same).

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's and Agent's arguments stretch Timbers too far. This Court is not aware of appellate authority on point within the Ninth Circuit. The analogous authority is unclear.

For example, one element of the analysis under sections 362(d)(1) and 506(b) is valuation, and "[v]aluation dates in general have been subject to much disagreement." In re Gutierrez, 503 B.R. 458, 461 (Bankr. CD Cal. 2013) (Bason, J.). See also, e.g., In re Alpine Group, Inc., 151 B.R. 931 (9th Cir. BAP 1993) (although lien was underwater on petition date, creditor was entitled to benefits of section 506(b) because, after improvements, property was sold for substantially more than lien amount).

In short, the burden is on the parties opposing relief from the automatic stay to show that Bobs is adequately protected. Those parties have not established that the law considers Bobs' interest adequately protected based on an equity cushion that (allegedly) existed as of the petition date, regardless whether that equity cushion is being depleted by charges allowable under section 506(b). This Court emphasizes that this is only the present, tentative ruling, and is subject to further briefing in the event of a continued hearing (see below).

Chapter 11

(iii) Nonpayment as "cause" for relief

Another alleged "cause" for relief from the automatic stay (even if Bobs is adequately protected) is a debtor's failure to make payments for an extended period of time, although it is hotly disputed whether that by itself is sufficient "cause." See, e.g., Debtor Opp. (dkt. 805) pp. 8:1-10:27. The tentative ruling is that, both under the broad words of the statute and under the cases cited by Bobs, a history of non-payment is some cause for relief, even if there is adequate protection, because the concept of adequate protection only accounts for economic protection of the specific claim at issue, not other considerations such as the disruption caused by delay and the creditor's overall cash flow needs.

For example, suppose that a hypothetical debtor has a large equity in the subject property - more than enough to provide adequate protection - but the debtor is not going to use the property for a reorganization or a 363 sale, and is simply using the automatic stay as a sword to inflict a delay in making any payments, or to tie up that creditor's investment so as to deprive it of cash flow. In either of these circumstances, a history of non-payment might constitute "cause" for relief from the automatic stay, even if ultimately the creditor's claim is adequately protected by a large equity cushion.

Bobs' reply papers focus largely on Debtor's failure to live up to the budget that this Court approved for use of cash collateral. The tentative ruling is that, although that is indeed some cause for relief, it is not dispositive. It is part of what this Court must consider in assessing all of the facts and circumstances to determine whether there is cause for relief under section 362(d)(1).

(d) Lack of equity, and necessity of property for an effective reorganization, under section 362(d)(2)

The Supreme Court has held that what section 362(d)(2) requires is "not merely a showing that if there is conceivably to be an effective reorganization, this property will be needed for it; but that the property is essential for an effective reorganization that is in prospect." Timbers, 484 U.S. 365, 375-76 (1988) (emphasis added). As Timbers itself noted, what amount of time is reasonable depends on the stage of the proceedings and the facts and circumstances of the specific case. See also In re Sun Valley Ranches, 823 F.2d 1373 (9th Cir. 1987); In re Pegasus Agency, Inc., 101 F.3d 882 (2d Cir. 1996).

Chapter 11

(3) Evidence

(a) Section 362(d)(1): equity cushion

Bobs asserts that it is not adequately protected based on a combination of four things:

- (i) valuation of the property at 1923 Micheltorena Street, Los Angeles, CA (the "Paramour") at $14,500,000,
- (ii) an allegedly deteriorating equity cushion due to accruing interest, allowed under 11 U.S.C. 506(b), owed to the holder of the first deed of trust, U.S. Bank, N.A. ("US Bank") and to Bobs itself,
- (iii) unpaid property taxes, and
- (iv) allegedly diminishing value of Bobs' additional collateral known as the Roble Vista property, which appears to be the property commonly known as 1910 Micheltorena St, Los Angeles, CA ("Roble Vista").

(i) Collateral valuation

Bobs has provided an appraisal by a licensed real estate appraiser, valuing Paramour at $14,500,000 as of 2/15/18. See Adelman Decl. (dkt. 778, Ex.C-F). Bobs' motion does not provide evidence regarding the value of Roble Vista, or liens against that property.

As the Committee argues, there is substantial evidence that the Paramour may have a value between $21 million and $44 million or even higher, including Debtor's own opinion. Committee Opp. (dkt. 808), pp.5:20-6:10 & n.2 (citing authority for admissibility of Debtor's opinion of value). Bobs' motion papers include analyses of various asserted deficiencies in any valuation above $14.5 million, but on the present, limited record, and keeping in mind the summary nature of relief from stay proceedings, the tentative ruling is that there is sufficient evidence to establish a value of the Paramour of not less than $20 million. (This preliminary, tentative valuation is subject to the tentative ruling regarding possible discovery and an evidentiary hearing, set forth below.)

The value of Roble Vista is addressed separately, below.

(ii) Liens of US Bank and Bobs

Bobs has presented evidence that US Bank's senior lien, was $4,348,411.79 as of the petition date (3/6/18), with an interest rate of 3.635%. See Claim 14-1; 11 U.S.C. 502(a). Based on those facts Bobs calculates that as of 3/5/19 the total owed, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 506(b), is approximately $4,506,475. See Brownstein Decl (dkt. 778 at PDF p.16) para. 4-5. This Court has verified that this calculation is approximately correct (using an Excel spreadsheet, this Court has calculated a slightly higher amount, but because there may be more than one legitimate method of calculation - e.g., whether interest accrues at the start or end of each period - and because Bobs' amount is lower than this Court's calculation, the difference is immaterial).

(iii) unpaid property taxes

The motion lists $4,000 in unpaid property taxes. Id. at PDF p.8. Debtor acknowledges that there are no material disputes about such senior claims. See dkt. 805, 3-4.

(iv) Allegedly diminishing value of Roble Vista

Debtor argues (dkt. 805, p.7:5-10) that it is Bobs' burden to provide evidence as to the valuation of Roble Vista and the dollar amount of liens against it. The tentative ruling is that this is incorrect.

If this part of the discussion concerned paragraph "(2)" of section 362(d), then one of the elements would be whether Debtor lacks any equity in the property, and Bobs would have the burden of proof on that issue under section 362(g). But for purposes of paragraph "(1)" of section 362(d), that issue is irrelevant.

Rather, once Bobs has made its prima facie showing of some "cause" for relief, it is the burden of any party opposing that relief to establish adequate protection, such as an equity cushion either from the Paramour or from the other collateral, Roble Vista. See In re Advanced Medical Spa Inc., 2016 WL 6958130, *4-5 & n.4.

Nevertheless, although Debtor has the burden, the tentative ruling is that she has met that burden (albeit not with the strongest evidence). Specifically, the tentative ruling is that Debtor as the owner of Roble Vista is qualified to opine as to its value, and can do so in a couple of ways. First, the valuation in her bankruptcy schedules is some evidence of its value. Debtor's amended Bankruptcy Schedule D (dkt. 277 at PDF pp.28 et seq.) lists that property with a value of $2,400,000.

Second, Debtor asserts that in June of 2018, before the re-zoning issue surfaced, Debtor's predecessor in interest received an offer of $3 million for Roble Vista.

Chapter 11

As against the lack of any evidence from Bobs, the tentative ruling is that this Court must accept Debtor's valuation, subject to a downward adjustment to account for the possible effects of re-zoning that became an issue after the two above-referenced measures of value. True, it appears to be undisputed that no re-zoning has yet occurred, and that Debtor might have defenses to any attempted re-zoning. See dkt. 805, p.7:12-18. But any prospective buyer of the property would discount what they were willing to pay based on their assessment of how likely it would be that the zoning change would occur.

There is no evidence to quantify that adjustment, except for Debtor's stated intent to fight any re-zoning as a "taking" in violation of the U.S. Constitution. In the absence of briefing on that issue, the tentative ruling is to discount Debtor's scheduled value of Roble Vista such that its value will be treated as $2 million for purposes of this tentative ruling.

As for liens, Debtor's bankruptcy schedules and the filed proofs of claim are evidence of liens against Roble Vista. See 11 U.S.C. 502(a), 1111(a). Some of those liens (those of Ms. Staats and the claimants referred to as "Church" and "Bird") are cross-collateralized against other properties as well, which reduces the effect of those liens against any equity in Roble Vista. Again, as against the lack of any evidence from Bobs, the tentative ruling is that this Court must accept Debtor's valuation of those other properties, and the alleged lien amounts against those properties.

The liens on Roble Vista appear to be as follows. Debtor's amended Bankruptcy Schedule D (dkt. 277 at PDF pp.28 et seq.) is helpful to figure out which liens apply to which properties, so this tentative ruling uses that source (subject to future adjustment to reflect the dollar amounts in proofs of claim). That Schedule D lists: $749,484 held by Bank of America (Sch.D, claim 2.1), $300,000 held by Ms. DeeAnna Staats (id., claim 2.3), $700,000 also held by Ms. Staats (id., claim 2.4), and the claims of Church and Bird (id., claims 2.8, 2.13 & 2.14), which are secured by all real and personal property of Debtor, and are in the amount of approximately $15,391,136.57, subject to a reduction to $7,000,000 pursuant to the settlement (dkt. 528) approved by this Court.

Based on the foregoing, this Court performs the following calculations, starting with (A) all collateral and liens other than Roble Vista and the Paramour (not including Brite Spot Diner and Villain's Tavern, because this Court has not determined whether any of the proceeds from the sales of those properties were used to pay down any of the relevant claims), then (B) Roble Vista, and finally (C) the Paramour.

*Debtor lists furnishings at dkt. 277, PDF p.12, with an alleged value of $1,484,100. Discounting by 70% for resale value (based on this Court's judicial notice of sales of personalty in other cases), yields collateral value of $445,230.

 Church's claim is approximately $10,146,843 (dkt. 277, Sch.D-2.8 & -2.14). Bird's claim is approximately $5,244,294 (dkt. 277, Sch.D-2.13). These claims have been reduced to an aggregate of $7,000,000, subject to various contingencies, pursuant to these claimants' settlement with Debtor. To account for these contingencies, this Court increases the claim by $500,000, for a total estimated present value of $7,500,000.

Bobs' claim:	$ 9,040,400		(per motion, p.7, including post-pet. int.)
Equity cushion:			very roughly 27%

Based on the foregoing, the tentative ruling is that, solely for present purposes on this preliminary hearing, Bobs is adequately protected by equity cushions in its collateral, the Paramour and Roble Vista.

(b) Section 362(d)(2): any equity in the Paramour, and necessity for an effective reorganization

The tentative ruling is that, although this case is getting old, it is also exceptionally complex. As Debtor argues (dkt. 805, pp.12:21-14:26) she has made sufficient progress to establish, for present purposes, that the Paramour is necessary for an "effective" reorganization, meaning a reasonable possibility of a successful reorganization within a reasonable time. See also Committee Opp. (dkt. 808) p.8:12-28.

(4) Request for alternative forms of adequate protection

The tentative ruling is not to require adequate protection payments, or any other form of adequate protection, at this time. Based on the foregoing, there is a sufficient equity cushion that such payments are not necessary to protect Bobs.

Meanwhile it appears that everyone else (the estate, its other creditors, and Debtor) will be benefitted substantially more by using cash flow to restore and grow the Paramour business rather than by making periodic payments to Bobs.

(5) Possible discovery, and possible evidentiary hearing

As noted above, the foregoing is just a tentative ruling based on the record presently before this Court. If Bobs consents to waive the periods in section 362(e), it might or might not be able to obtain a different result after further briefing and an evidentiary hearing to determine the value of collateral and the dollar amount of liens.

The tentative ruling is that there are sufficient grounds under section 362(e) to continue this hearing beyond the usual periods in the statute. The tentative ruling is also that discovery is appropriate, in view of the multiple possible uses of the Paramour and Roble Vista. The parties should be prepared to address those issues at the hearing.

Docket 14

Tentative Ruling:

Continue to 5/16/19 at 8:30 a.m. to address the following issues.
Appearances are not required on 4/18/19.

Reasons:

Service

The motion papers were not served:

- (1) To the bank via certified mail (FRBP 7004(h)).
- (2) To the address for notices listed on the proof of claim (or any more recent address designated by the claimant) (Rule 2002(g)(1)).

Note: Service issues are complex, and courts do not always agree on how service must be accomplished, so it is not entirely clear that the foregoing requirements apply in this instance. Even if service does not comply with the applicable rules, this Court does not always note that or raise the issue sua sponte; and if there was some sort of actual notice or deemed notice then that might be sufficient for purposes of due process. Nevertheless, because this matter is being continued anyway for evidentiary reasons (see below) this Court is directing that service be supplemented as set forth above.

Evidence

The proof of value in the motion papers (dkt. 14 at PDF p. 7) is for a 2016 Chevrolet Corvette Stingray Coupe 2D and not for the subject vehicle: a 2014 Chrysler 200 LX Sedan 4D.

#8.00 Hrg re: Motion under Local Bankruptcy Rule 3015-1 (n)
and (w) to modify plan or suspend plan payments

Docket 58

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

Subject to argument at this hearing, the tentative ruling is to continue this matter to 5/16/19 at 8:30 a.m., to address whether a different disposition of this case is appropriate, such as (a) conversion to chapter 7, or (b) dismissal with a bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1) or (2) (180 days), or pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 105(a), 349, 1307, and this Court's inherent power (different period, or until otherwise ordered). See In re Glover, 537 Fed.Appx. 741 (9th Cir. 2013) (affirming dismissal with a five-year bar to refiling under 11 U.S.C. § 105(a)); In re Leavitt, 171 F.3d 1219 (9th Cir. 1999) (affirming dismissal with prejudice based upon a finding of bad faith).

The tentative ruling is to set a briefing schedule at the usual times: any motion seeking such relief to be filed and served not less than 21 days prior; any opposition 14 days prior; and any reply 7 days prior (see LBR 9014-1). The parties are directed to address whether there is a danger of dissipation of assets or other cause to act immediately or on shortened time. See 11 U.S.C. 102; Rule 9006 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.); and In re Rosson, 545 F.3d 764, 775-76 (9th Cir. 2008).

Analysis:

Before this Court is the Chapter 13 Trustee's motion to modify the confirmed plan (the "MoMod," dkt. 58). Debtor's response (dkt. 61) asserts that this MoMod is moot because (1) the Chapter 13 Trustee filed a motion to dismiss this case (the "MTD," dkt. 56), and (2) after initially opposing dismissal (dkt. 57) Debtor now no longer opposes dismissal (dkt. 60). This Court is not persuaded that the MoMod is necessarily moot.

This Court is concerned that, according to the MoMod (dkt. 58, at PDF p.6), once copies of Debtor's 2017 tax returns were provided to the Trustee, it became apparent that Debtor did not abide by her duty to provide updated information about her income and expenses for 2016 and 2017. Allegedly, during those years she has been paying her creditors far less than her disposable income.

On the one hand, the statute (11 U.S.C. 1307(b)) appears to provide a chapter 13 debtor with an unqualified right to dismiss a case; but on the other hand the statute also provides that the case must be converted if that is in creditors' best interests (11 U.S.C. 1307(c)). (This Court assumes for purposes of this discussion that Debtor's non-opposition to the Trustee's MTD qualifies as a "request" of Debtor within the meaning of section 1307(b); and this discussion also presumes that either Trustee will request conversion under section 1307(c), if that appears to be in the best interest of creditors, or that this Court could do so under section 105(a) - in other words, this discussion presumes that the potential conflict between subsections (b) and (c) of section 1307 will be before this Court.)

In such circumstances, under authority by the Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit, this Bankruptcy Court should be guided by what is needed to prevent abuse of the bankruptcy system. Any Ninth Circuit authority is binding on this Bankruptcy Court, unless it has been clearly overruled, and the tentative ruling is that not only has such authority not been clearly overruled, but it appears still to be good law. See Rosson, 545 F.3d 764 (relying by analogy on Marrama v. Citizens Bank of Mass., 549 U.S. 365 (2007)); and see In re Brown, 547 B.R. 846, 848 (Bankr. SD Cal. 2016) ("Even if this court has the authority to question Rosson, which it surely lacks, the court finds that Rosson's analysis of Marrama was, if anything, corroborated by the later authority of [Law v. Siegel, __ U.S. __, 134 S.Ct. 1188 (2014)].").

In other words, it appears that this Court must consider whether conversion to chapter 7, rather than dismissal, is in the best interest of creditors. In addition, even if dismissal is appropriate, it appears necessary to consider whether dismissal should be with or without a bar.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Chapter 13

#9.00 Hrg re: Objection to Claim Number 4
by Claimant Wilmington Savings Fund /
BSI Financial Services, Inc.

Docket 30

Tentative Ruling:

Deny without prejudice, and abstain in favor of the pending State Court action (dkt. 41-1, Ex. 14) on Debtor's complaint (dkt. 41-1, Ex.13). Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Analysis:

(1) Preclusion

Claimant Wilmington Savings Fund Society ("Wilmington") asserts (dkt. 40) that the State Court's rulings against Debtor on his complaint are preclusive. If that is so, this Bankruptcy Court lacks any power to rule on Debtor's claim objection.

On the one hand, it is true that Debtor's State Court complaint appears to allege the same nucleus of operative fact as Debtor's claim objection. But on the other hand, there does not appear to be any final judgment in the State Court action - its latest rulings appear to be tentative (dkt. 41-1, Ex.14) - and Wilmington has not established tentative rulings are preclusive.

(2) Abstention

The tentative ruling is that abstention applies. The parties have not addressed abstention, but this Bankruptcy Court, as a federal court of limited jurisdiction, must consider whether it applies.

The tentative ruling is that mandatory abstention (28 U.S.C. 1334(c))

(2)) might not apply because this claim objection arguably arises under title 11 (11 U.S.C. 502). But this Court need not decide that issue because it appears that permissive abstention applies (28 U.S.C. 1334(c)(1)) under In re Tucson Estates, Inc., 912 F.2d 1162, 1167 (9th Cir.1990).

Under Tucson Estates, considerations for permissive abstention include the following (with this Court's tentative rulings in brackets):

- (1) the effect or lack thereof on the efficient administration of the estate if a Court recommends abstention [it would be inefficient to re-litigate the State Court litigation, which favors abstention],
- (2) the extent to which state law issues predominate over bankruptcy issues [the issues appear to be entirely matters of nonbankruptcy law, which favors abstention],
- (3) the difficulty or unsettled nature of the applicable law [inapplicable],
- (4) the presence of a related proceeding commenced in state court or other nonbankruptcy court [the pending State Court proceeding involves the same nucleus of operative facts, which favors abstention],
- (5) the jurisdictional basis, if any, other than 28 U.S.C. § 1334 [none, which favors abstention],
- (6) the degree of relatedness or remoteness of the proceeding to the main bankruptcy case [Debtor's attempts to retain the house are strongly related to this bankruptcy case, but also to the State Court litigation, so this consideration is neutral],
- (7) the substance rather than form of an asserted "core" proceeding [the issues are all matters of nonbankruptcy law, which favors abstention],
- (8) the feasibility of severing state law claims from core bankruptcy matters to allow judgments to be entered in state court with enforcement left to the bankruptcy court [it is entirely feasible to defer to the State Court, because there are no issues that are matters of bankruptcy law, which favors abstention],
- (9) the burden of [the bankruptcy court's] docket [this litigation would burden this Bankruptcy Court's docket, and would be duplicative of the State Court litigation, which favors abstention],
- (10) the likelihood that the commencement of the proceeding in bankruptcy court involves forum shopping by one of the parties

[Debtor appears to be forum shopping, which favors abstention], (11) the existence of a right to a jury trial [the parties have not addressed this issue, but if it applies it would favor abstention and otherwise it is neutral], and (12) the presence in the proceeding of nondebtor parties [if other defendants in the State Court proceeding are necessary and cannot be made subject to this Court's jurisdiction, that would favor abstention, and otherwise this consideration is neutral]. [Tucson Estates, 912 F.2d 1162, 1167 (citation and internal quotation marks omitted)]

Based on the foregoing, the tentative ruling is that permissive abstention is warranted. Indeed, it might be an abuse of this Bankruptcy Court's discretion not to abstain in the circumstances presented, as this Bankruptcy Court understands them.

Chapter 13

#12.00 Order to show cause re: Dismissal due to simultaneous bankruptcy cases

Docket 6

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required. The tentative ruling is to dismiss this case, for the reasons set forth below.

This Court issued an order to show cause why this case should not be dismissed (the "OSC," dkt. 6) because there is another bankruptcy case pending (Case No. 2:17-bk-18996-WB) (the "Other BK"). As stated in the OSC, simultaneous bankruptcy cases are only permissible if the second case has been filed in good faith, considering the totality of the circumstances. In re Blendheim, 803 F.3d 477, 499-501 (9th Cir. 2015). That inquiry includes, but is not limited to:

(1) whether the debtor misrepresented facts in his petition or plan, unfairly manipulated the Bankruptcy Code, or otherwise filed [the bankruptcy] petition or plan in an inequitable manner; (2) the debtor's history of filings and dismissals; (3) whether the debtor only intended to defeat state court litigation; and (4) whether egregious behavior is present. [Blendheim, 803 F.3d at 499 (quoting in In re Leavitt, 171 F.3d 1219, 1224 (9th Cir.1999) (quotation marks omitted). See also In re Grimes, 117 B.R. 531, 536 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1990) (considering whether the debtor has received a discharge in the first case).]

Debtor's response (dkt. 14) states that he filed this case because "[a] my home was to be sold [at] auction on March 19th, 2019 [i.e., the day after Debtor filed this case, on 3/18/18], and [b] my other bankruptcy [case] to my understanding is close to discharge. ... I had no choice but to file & try to save my family's home." Debtor has also filed his chapter 13 plan (the "Plan," dkt. 18) and various bankruptcy schedules (the "Schedules," dkt. 19).

Debtor's Other BK is was a chapter 11 case filed on 7/25/17 and converted to chapter 7 on 5/4/18. Creditor Wilmington Sav. Fund Soc. ("Wilmington") was granted relief from the automatic stay on 1/23/19 to proceed with foreclose proceedings regarding Debtor's home. Dkt. 128.

Despite being represented by attorneys in the Other BK (first one attorney, and then another), Debtor failed to file mandatory documents. See generally Other BK (Case No. 2:17-bk-18996-WB), dkt. 64. In addition, the documents that Debtor did file showed an inability to generate sufficient income to pay the mortgage, let alone other debts, despite many months to attempt to increase income. See, e.g., Other BK, dkt. 64, 93. In addition, Debtor's anticipated chapter 7 discharge in the Other BK will do nothing to get rid of the multiple creditors' liens that Debtor previously attempted to avoid, without success. See Other BK, dkt. 88.

In this chapter 13 case (Case No. 2:19-bk-12886-NB), Debtors' Plan is almost completely blank, except for a proposed payment to one out of several secured creditors. See dkt. 18, p.6. Debtor's Bankruptcy Schedules J (expenses) has nothing but "$0" for each item. Dkt. 19 at PDF pp. 31-33.

Although this Court recognizes that losing a home is tragic, the tentative ruling is that (1) Debtor has attempted unfairly to manipulate the Bankruptcy Code by filing this case without any realistic hope of being able to use any legitimate means to retain the home; (2) Debtor's history of filings shows that he had a very considerable period of time during the Other BK in which to attempt to increase his income, reduce his mortgage and other debts through loan modifications or lien avoidance or other means, and, if feasible, retain his home; (3) in filing this case, Debtor appears only to have intended to defeat the nonjudicial foreclosure; and (4) Debtor's representation that he has "$0" in expenses is egregious, and alternatively his Plan's proposed treatment of only one of several secured creditors is egregious.

Although it is understandable that Debtor would want to use any and all means to retain his home, that does not mean that he can simply file repeated bankruptcy cases with no realistic hope of being able to retain his home through legitimate means. The tentative ruling is to dismiss this case as not being filed in good faith.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

Grant. Appearances are not required.

This Court expressly finds that Counsel has provided a cost/benefit analysis (dkt. 27) that is sufficient for purposes of Judge Bason's posted Procedures regarding claim objections, so any limitation on fees in the prior tentative ruling on this matter is hereby vacated. In future, counsel is cautioned to provide a cost/benefit analysis within the claim objection.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Appearances are not required on 3/21/19.

to claims, be sure to include an analysis of whether the costs of preparing and litigating the claim objection (administrative expenses) do not exceed the anticipated benefits (reductions in claims). For example, if the anticipated dividend is small or 0% then the attorney fees incurred in prosecuting your claim objection to any general unsecured claim probably will exceed the benefit to the bankruptcy estate/debtor, so filing that objection would be a waste of the bankruptcy estate's (and everyone else's) resources (unless, for example, the claim is nondischargeable, in which event the attorney fees might well be justified).

No later than 7 days after the date of this hearing the movant must file either:

(1) a supplemental declaration explaining why the attorney fees for this objection are justified (including supporting evidence, such as a copy of the plan showing the projected dividend to the claimant, and a calculation comparing that projected dividend against the attorney fees related to this claim objection), or

(2) a withdrawal of the claim objection.

No fees on this matter, absent specific authorization. Counsel is directed not to charge any fees on this matter (including all past, present and future work related to this claim objection), and to return any fees received on this matter, unless and until this Court expressly finds: "Counsel has provided a cost/benefit analysis that is sufficient for purposes of Judge Bason's posted Procedures regarding claim objections." It is counsel's responsibility to include the quoted phrase, if warranted, in the proposed order on this claim objection.

This Court does not have the capacity to monitor all fee applications to assure compliance with the foregoing limitation on fees. But if counsel is found to have disregarded this limitation then this Court may impose sanctions.

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

There is no tentative ruling. This telephonic conference has been set at the request of creditor Mazakoda, Inc. This Court understands that the topics might include clarification of, or procedures for reconsideration of, this Court's recent ruling regarding any extension of time to seek relief under 11 U.S.C. 523 and/or 727. Whatever the topic, this Court neither requires nor expects any filed documents prior to this telephonic conference. At the telephonic conference this Court can determine what procedures may be appropriate for any request for relief.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

WELLS FARGO BANK

DEBTOR

Docket 72

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Docket 24

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

Grant the motion under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(4) and (j): there is no automatic stay because (a) Debtor's first prior case (#16-2358) was dismissed (on 11/14/17) within one year before this case was filed (on 7/16/18), (b) Debtor's second prior case (#17-24618) was dismissed (on 4/13/18) within one year before this case was filed (on 7/16/18), (c) those dismissals were not under 11 U.S.C. 707(b), and (d) no finding of good faith was timely sought and obtained in this case. The automatic stay has terminated both as to Debtor in personam and as to property of Debtor. See In re Hernandez & Jiminez, Case No. 2:11-bk-53730-NB, Dkt 40.

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4). To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

THE BANK OF NEW YORK MELLON
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 23

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part, deny in part, as set forth below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

Grant the motion under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3): there is no automatic stay because (a) Debtor's prior case (#2:18-bk-21271-VZ) was dismissed (on 10/15/18) within one year before this case was filed (on 2/4/19), (b) that dismissal was not under 11 U.S.C. 707(b), and (c) no finding of good faith was timely sought and obtained. The automatic stay has terminated both as to Debtor in personam and as to property of Debtor. See In re Hernandez & Jiminez, Case No. 2:11-bk-53730-NB, Dkt 40.

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Chapter 13

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Deny, without prejudice to any other types of relief granted herein (or previously granted), for the following reasons.

The motion requests requests "in rem" relief (i.e., relief applicable notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases (under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and/or In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31)). The tentative ruling is to deny that request because there is insufficient evidence on the record to convince this Court that Debtor is involved in a scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud the Movant as is required under 362(d)(4) or the other authorities cited above.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

BB WELLS INVESTMENT INC.
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 16

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is not sufficient evidence and notice.

No prejudice to Debtor intended. Based on the record, it appears that this is a "hijacked" case, and that Debtor is innocent of any involvement. See e.g., In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017) (describing hijacking); In re Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) (same). Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to condition any relief from the automatic stay on this Court's determination that this motion shall not result in the application of sections 109(g)(2) and 362(b)(21)(A) to Debtor or any property other than the property that is the subject of this motion for relief from the automatic stay, and that by not contesting this tentative ruling the movant has waived and forfeited any contrary argument. See In re Leafly, 479 B.R. 545, 550-51 (9th Cir. BAP 2012); In re Mendez, 367 B.R. 109, 116-17 (9th Cir. BAP 2007); In re Luna, 122 B.R. 575, 577 (9th Cir. BAP 1991); Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261, 270.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

#29.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [NA]

JOSEPH M. BARRETT
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 205

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(1) Limited relief. Modify and condition the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) such that the movant may proceed in the nonbankruptcy forum to final judgment (including any appeals) in accordance with applicable nonbankruptcy law, subject to the following limitations (Judge Bason's standard limitations).

(a) No enforcement against property of the bankruptcy estate. The stay remains in effect with respect to enforcement of any judgment against property of the debtor's bankruptcy estate - any such property shall be distributed when and how provided by the Bankruptcy Code. Nevertheless, the movant is permitted to enforce its final judgment by (i) collecting upon any available insurance in accordance with applicable nonbankruptcy law or (ii) proceeding against the debtor as to any property that is not property of this bankruptcy estate. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 362(b)(2)(B) & 541(b)(7) (collection of domestic support obligations from ERISA qualified retirement plans).

(b) Claim allowance, priority, and discharge issues. Any claims arising from the nonbankruptcy litigation are subject to this Bankruptcy Court's jurisdiction regarding claim allowance and priority, and the existence and

(c) No relief in other bankruptcy cases. To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

This Bankruptcy Court emphasizes that it does not seek in any way to impinge on the authority of the Nonbankruptcy Courts presiding over the nonbankruptcy action. Rather, this Bankruptcy Court takes seriously its obligations, as a subordinate unit of the District Court, to manage this bankruptcy case. Those obligations including taking into consideration the interests of creditors (who are not parties to the underlying nonbankruptcy litigation), and preserving the bankruptcy estate by placing limits on any relief from the automatic stay that Congress has mandated (11 U.S.C. 362(a) & (d)).

Additional analysis:

The Bankruptcy Court "shall grant relief from the stay" upon a showing of "cause." 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1). Such relief need not take the form of a complete termination of the automatic stay, but instead may include "modifying or conditioning such stay." Id.

"Cause" is determined on a case-by-case basis." In re Tucson Estates, Inc., 912 F.2d 1162, 1166 (9th Cir.1990). In determining whether "cause" exists to grant relief from the automatic stay to allow a movant to pursue litigation in a non-bankruptcy forum, courts in the Ninth Circuit have examined the factors set forth in In re Curtis, 40 B.R. 795, 799–800 (Bankr. D. Utah 1984). See In re Kronemeyer, 405 B.R. 915 (9th Cir. BAP 2009); In re Plumberex Specialty Prods., Inc., 311 B.R. 551, 559–60 (Bankr. C.D. Cal.2004). Those factors are: (1) Whether the relief will result in a partial or complete resolution of the issues; (2) The lack of any connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case; (3) Whether the foreign proceeding involves the debtor as a fiduciary; (4) Whether a specialized tribunal has been established to hear the particular cause of action and whether that tribunal has the expertise to hear such cases; (5) Whether the debtor's insurance carrier has assumed full financial responsibility for defending the litigation; (6) Whether the action essentially involves third parties, and the debtor functions only as a bailee or conduit for the goods or proceeds in question; (7) Whether the litigation in another forum would prejudice the interests of other creditors, the creditors' committee and other interested parties; (8) Whether the judgment claim arising from the foreign action is subject to equitable subordination under Section 510(c); (9) Whether movant's success in the foreign proceeding would result in a judicial lien avoidable by the debtor under Section 522(f); (10) The interests of judicial economy and the expeditious and economical determination of litigation for the parties; (11) Whether the foreign proceedings have progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial; and (12) The impact of the stay on the parties and the "balance of hurt." Plumberex, 311 B.R. at 559. "[W]hile the Curtis factors are widely used to determine the existence of 'cause,' not all of the factors are relevant in every case, nor is a court required to give each factor equal weight." In re Landmark Fence Co., Inc., 2011 WL 6826253 at *4 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 9, 2011).

Based on the present record, the tentative ruling is that these factors weigh in favor of granting relief as set forth above. Most significantly: the Plaintiffs in the underlying malpractice actions have requested jury trials, cannot be brought under the jurisdiction of the bankruptcy court, and are asserting state law claims.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Docket 7

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part, deny in part, as set forth below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does apply

Deny the request for an order confirming that no stay is in effect. Movant has not established an exception to the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(b) or (c) because the movant has not obtained a prepetition unlawful detainer judgment, and movant has not established that the property is endangered. See 11 U.S.C. 362(b)(22), (23) and (l) and (b).

Nevertheless, the tentative ruling is to grant relief from the automatic stay as set forth below.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

#33.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order
Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic
Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 5

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions. Appearances are not required.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

DEBTOR

Docket 63

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/30/19 (same as for 4/9/19):

Appearances required. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address (a) whether the alleged arrears have been brought current and/or (b) whether they will agree to the terms of an adequate protection order (see the debtor's response, dkt. 65).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

fr. 9/4/18,10/9/18, 11/27/18, 01/08/19, 2/5/19, 03/05/19

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/30/19:

Continue this status conference to 6/4/19 at 11:00 a.m. so that the parties can document their settlement and obtain any approval of Court that may be necessary or appropriate. See Status Report (adv. dkt. 19). Appearances are not required on 4/30/19.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 3/5/19:

Appearances required.

The parties are directed to address (1) why no status report was filed as required by the adopted 2/5/19 tentative ruling, and (2) whether the parties have scheduled and/or attended mediation.

The tentative ruling is to continue this status conference to 4/9/19 at 11:00 a.m, with a brief status report due by 3/26/19.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances

Tentative Ruling for 2/5/19:

Continue to 3/5/19 at 11:00 a.m, with a brief status report due by 2/26/19. Although the latest Status Report (adv. dkt. 16) does not address whether the mandatory mediation ordered by this Court has occurred, it appears that more time is needed for mediation. Caution: If the parties do not schedule and attend mediation before the next status conference, this Court may impose sanctions on the recalcitrant party(ies). Appearances are not required on 2/5/19.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 1/8/19:

Continue to 2/5/19 at 11:00 a.m, with a brief status report due by 1/29/19. Appearances are not required on 1/8/19.

The parties have lodged, and this Court has approved, the Order Assigning Matter to Mediation Program and Appointing Mediator and Alternate Mediator (dkt. 11). This Court is not aware of issues that would warrant a status conference at this time.

by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 11/27/18:

Appearances required, but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

At the hearing on 10/9/18, Defendants did not appear, and this Court was persuaded to take a flexible approach to whether Plaintiff would pursue default judgments, or mediation, or other avenues. The docket does not reflect any activity since that time. Should this status conference be continued? Should this adversary proceeding be dismissed for lack of prosecution?

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 10/9/18:

Appearances required, but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address why neither party has lodged a mediation order (via this Court's "LOU" program) as required by the adopted tentative ruling for 9/4/18. Cf. adv. dkt. 7 (belated request for mediation).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 9/4/18:

Appearances required. The court has reviewed the filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority. The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 9/10/18 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 6/22/18. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Discovery cutoff (for completion of discovery): 11/27/18.

Expert(s) - deadline for reports: 12/4/18

Expert(s) - discovery cutoff (if different from above): 12/11/18

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/30/19:

Continue to 5/21/19 at 11:00 a.m., with a brief status report due by 5/7/19.
Appearances are not required on 4/30/19.

This Court is not aware of any issues that warrant a status conference at this time.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

Appearances required. The parties should be prepared to address the following issues.

Current issues

(a) Procedures

This Court issued its Order Setting Status Conference in All Related Matters (the "Procedures Order," dkt. 332). See a/so dkt. 334 & 338 (proofs of service). Among other things, the Procedures Order was prompted by the following.

First, an exhibit was filed without a cover page and with the exhibit pages out of order rendering the exhibit difficult to read (see dkt. 324, ex. 1). Second, briefs have gone on for 80 pages or more, with whole sections that appear to be at best tangentially related to the subject matter and appear to have been copied and pasted wholesale from other papers (but with no statement to let the reader know if those sections are or are not different in some way). See dkt. 326, 330. Third, those same papers, with exhibits included, are over 2000 pages long. Fourth, some papers appear to raise frivolous arguments (see below).

The tentative ruling is as follows with respect to procedures in all of the adversary proceedings and contested matters in these related bankruptcy cases:

(i) Page limits. Set a limit of 25 pages for any brief, and 50 pages of attached or accompanying documents, absent prior authorization to exceed those limits. The documents can be excerpts, marked up to point the reader to the relevant phrase or item, provided that (x) any original markings on the documents are clearly distinguishable from any added markings and (y) upon request full copies of all exhibits are immediately made available to all other parties and this Court.

(ii) Incorporation by reference. Direct all parties, rather than repeating their arguments and exhibits, to incorporate them by reference. In addition, to the extent any material does not exactly repeat prior material, but parallels prior material in substantial part, the tentative ruling is that the party must explain what is new or different.

For example, instead of a 10-page recitation of background facts in which one sentence is different, the party would replace those 10 pages with that one sentence and a brief summary of the relevant aspects of the prior material, with a cross-reference to the docket number of the material that is incorporated by reference. Alternatively, if the approach in the immediately preceding sentence would not be practical or would be confusing in any particular situation, then the party would add a footnote both at the start of the factual summary and at the start of the new or different sentence, to alert the reader that this is the portion that is new or different. Alternatively, the party could adopt any other suitable method for highlighting new or different material. In any event, all parties are directed to use whatever method is most reader-friendly for presenting accurate, relevant material.

(iii) Bifurcating or combining any matters, and issuing judgments on partial findings and/or final judgments on fewer than all claims or parties. The claim objections that are set for hearing today violate at least the spirit, and probably the letter, of Rule 3007(b) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) ("A party in interest shall not include a demand for relief of a kind specified in Rule 7001 in an objection to the allowance of a claim, but may include the objection in an adversary proceeding."). In any event, any future claim objections involving the same nucleus of operative facts as any pending adversary proceeding must be raised through proper pleadings or motions in those adversary proceedings, not by separate claim objections.

In addition, there is no reason to litigate all of the numerous issues raised by the parties if it appears that it would be more efficient to litigate just one or two issues first, and enter judgements on partial findings, and/or enter final judgments as to fewer than all claims or parties (based on any express determination that there is "no just reason for delay") (Rules 52 & 54(b), Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Rules 7052, 7054 & 9014(c), Fed. R. Bankr. P.). For example, if a hypothetical chapter 7 debtor were accused of dozens of acts and omissions that could warrant either nondischargeability of individual claims (11 U.S.C. 523) or denial of the entire discharge (11 U.S.C. 727), there might be no just reason not to enter a judgment determining a single issue, after bifurcation so as to have a separate trial on that issue. In this situation the single issue might be whether the hypothetical debtor had concealed or failed to maintain adequate recorded information (under section 727(a)(3)), which, if proven, presumably would moot the other issues under sections 523 and 727.

The parties are directed to address whether this Court should adopt such procedures for one or more issues in these cases and the related adversary proceedings and contested matters, or conversely whether this Court should combine various matters for joint hearings or trials. See Rule 42 (Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Rules 7042 & 9014(c), Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

(v) Time limits. The parties are hereby put on notice that this Court at any time may limit their time for oral argument and presentation of their case. In addition, the parties are directed to address whether they would prefer that this Court impose such limits at this time, or at any pretrial conferences, or on the first day of trial, or during trial. See generally, Hon. Barry Russell, 2 Bankr. Evid. Manual (2018-19 Ed., Nov. 2018) 611:1, Examples 6&7).

(b) Objection by individual Debtors to Proof of Claim ("POC") No. 3 (dkt. 310)

Overrule the objection to POC No. 3, filed by Wyndham Vacation Resort, Inc ("Wyndham"), for the reasons stated in Wyndham's opposition (dkt. 326), and for the following additional reasons.

First, POC No. 3 has sufficient documentation and other information to establish its prima facie validity. Second, any lack of prima facie validity is not enough to disallow the claim under 11 U.S.C. 502. See In re Orozco, 2017 WL 3126797 (Case No. 2:13-bk-15745-NB, dkt. 132), and In re Beoglyan (Case No. 2:13-bk-22883-NB, dkt. 141).

The cases cited by Mr. MacMillan (dkt. 310, pp.2:28-3:1) are distinguishable or actually contrary to his position. See In re Garner, 246 B.R. 617 (9th Cir. BAP 2000) (when claim did have prima facie validity, opposition did not overcome that prima facie validity); and see In re Stoecker, 5 F.3d 1022, 1027-28 (7th Cir. 1993) (reversing disallowance of claim based on non-compliance with Rule 3001(f)); In re Brunson, 486 B.R. 759, 765-66, and 768-73 (Bankr. ND Tex. 2013) ("This court adheres to the majority view that a proof of claim may not be disallowed where the sole basis of objection is the creditor's failure to attach sufficient documentation under Bankruptcy Rule 3001") (emphasis added).

Indeed, as noted in Brunson, the 2011 amendments to "Bankruptcy Rule 3001(c)(2)(D), together with the Advisory Committee Note shedding light on its meaning, should end the debate." Id., p.770 (emphasis added). Now it is clear that "[f]ailure to provide the required information does not itself constitute a ground for disallowance of a claim." Id. (quoting advisory committee note; emphasis added).

In view of the foregoing, the tentative ruling is that this objection to POC No. 3 is frivolous.

(c) Objection by individual Debtors to POC No. 18 (dkt. 312)

Overrule the objection to Americana Vacation Club and Stardust Vacation Club's ("Americana/Stardust") POC for the reasons stated in Americana/Stardust's opposition (dkt. 320) and for the same reasons as stated above in connection with POC No. 3. Debtors' Reply (dkt. 341) does not adequately address those reasons.

In view of the foregoing, the tentative ruling is that this objection to POC No. 18 is frivolous.

(d) Motion by individual Debtors to Dismiss bankruptcy case of Attitude Marketing, Inc. ("Attitude") (the "MTD," dkt. 307)

The tentative ruling is to deny the individual Debtors' MTD for the reasons stated in the Chapter 7 Trustee's opposition (dkt. 325) to the MTD, and for the following additional reasons.

As the Trustee notes, in this circuit a voluntary Chapter 7 debtor is entitled to dismissal of the case so long as such dismissal will cause no "plain legal prejudice" to interested parties, or perhaps just "legal prejudice" (without the "plain" modifier). In re Leach, 130 B.R. 855, 857 (9th Cir. BAP 1991) (citing pre-Bankruptcy Code case of In re International Airport Inn Partnership, 517 F.2d 510, 512 (9th Cir. 1975), and addressing how its principles should be applied under the Bankruptcy Code). The tentative ruling is that dismissal very much would cause plain legal prejudice to interested parties because dismissal would preclude the Trustee and creditors from using the bankruptcy process and powers (i) to investigate past and present alleged misconduct, (ii) to prevent acts and omissions for which there are grounds to be concerned, and which can drain the value of a potentially valuable asset of this bankruptcy estate, and (iii) to identify and recover any avoidable transfers.

Investigating all of these things is made all the more important by the allegations of a long history of Debtors purportedly evading judgments, settlement obligations, etc. Whether those allegations are accurate or not is an issue on which Debtors will have every legitimate opportunity to present arguments and evidence; but the tentative ruling is that they cannot avoid the determination of those bankruptcy-focused issues by obtaining a dismissal of their bankruptcy case.

Debtor's motion and reply papers (dkt. 339, 340) do not adequately address any of the foregoing, nor do they establish any reason why this Court would not recognize the Trustee's authority to file the bankruptcy petition pursuant to the Written Consent Of Shareholders In Lieu Of Meeting and the Written Consent Of Sole Director In Lieu Of Meeting attached to the Trustee's Opposition as Exhibit A (dkt. 325). The arguments attempting to dispute the Trustee's business judgment in causing Attitude's bankruptcy petition to be filed, or in filling out Attitude's bankruptcy schedules, or in administering Attitude's assets, are unpersuasive and unsupported by any meaningful evidence. The individual Debtors' flat denials of the claims against Attitude, without persuasive or even colorable arguments or evidence, are insufficient.

The tentative ruling is that the individual Debtors' arguments are frivolous. In any event, the paucity of those arguments only reinforces the need for the Trustee to take over management of Attitude.

Proposed orders: The Trustee and the Claimants are directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing matters "(1)(b)," "(c)," and "(d)" via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B). This Court will prepare an order on matter "(1)(a)."

Tentative Ruling for 4/30/19:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 4/30/19.

This Court has reviewed the latest filed documents in this adversary proceeding and is not aware of issues that would warrant a status conference at this time.

If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Supplemental Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

The original tentative ruling (below) provides two inconsistent dates for a continued status conference: 4/30/19 at 11:00 a.m., 4/7/19 at 11:00 a.m. The latter [should be "former"] is correct. No status report required.

Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

Deny the motion to quash (with the possible exception of one aspect), address procedural issues, and then continue this Status Conference, all as set forth below. Appearances required.

Current issues:

(a) Procedures

Please see the tentative ruling for the main case status conference (calendar no. 10, 4/9/19 at 11:00 a.m.)

(b) Motion to Quash (adv. dkt. 84)

The tentative ruling is that the motion to quash (adv. dkt. 84) by Aston Business Solutions, Inc. ("ABS") is unpersuasive, except perhaps for limitations as to time, which the parties are directed to address at the hearing.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Chapter 7

ABS asserts only vague objections:

(1) Competitors?

ABS asserts that it and Plaintiff are competitors. How so?

The motion does not even disclose ABS' business. Is it a timeshare owner? Is it a timeshare operator? Is it something else? (As noted below, this Court expects that it has gleaned the answer from other documents, but the tentative ruling is that this lack of even such basic information in the motion is fatal to this argument.)

(2) Protected information?

ABS alleges that some sort of trade secrets or other confidential, privileged, or other type of protected information is involved. What sort of information? Why would a traditional privilege log and other tools be inadequate?

ABS complains that parties in interest in this bankruptcy case have shared information. But ABS fails to point to any prohibition on sharing information.

(3) Burden?

ABS alleges that the requested discovery is unduly burdensome. How so? Is it stored in thousands of boxes of paper files that are difficult to reach and review for some reason?

(4) Vagueness and overbreadth?

ABS alleges that the discovery requests are vague and overbroad. How so? ABS fails to provide any explanation or evidence to support this allegations.

(5) Discussion

Based on a question (not an answer) in excerpts from the deposition of ABS' President and shareholder, Glenn Chaffin, ABS may be a marketing company for "timeshare exit companies." Adv. dkt. 84, Ex.1 (Depo. Tr. 1/24/19), p.95:22-23. But how does that make ABS a "competitor" of Plaintiff, with information that would constitute trade secrets, as opposed to a facilitator of (possibly) legitimate ways to exit timeshares, who sends out non-secret flyers and other publicly known marketing materials, and assists timeshare members in navigating contracts that are known to all the parties?

Such a facilitator theoretically could benefit Plaintiff, by replacing non-paying or troubled members with paying ones - unless, of course, ABS engages in acts that improperly interfere with contractual relations or otherwise assists in the wrongdoing of which Plaintiff accuses Defendants.

Plaintiff's discovery appears to be targeted at discovering information that could lead to admissible evidence on this and other relevant issues. Accordingly, the discovery appears to be entirely proper and appropriate, with the possible exception of the movant's request to impose some limitations as to time, which the parties are directed to address at the hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 10/16/18:

Appearances required. There is no tentative ruling but the parties should be prepared to address the following issues.

(1) Background

Plaintiff filed a motion (adv. dkt. 14) for summary judgment on his first claim for relief (constructively fraudulent transfer) and the second claim for relief (declaratory relief that the purported trust is ineffective to prevent creditors from reaching the assets) in his complaint (adv. dkt. 1). This Court issued an order (adv. dkt. 31) denying summary judgment on the first claim but granting it on the second, for the reasons stated therein - principally the reasons in the Revised Tentative Ruling for 3/20/18 (reproduced below).

Chapter 7

Defendants appealed. The District Court dismissed the appeal as interlocutory. See adv. dkt. 52, 53. The parties' joint status report states (adv. dkt. 54, p.4, sec.G) that they have executed but not filed a stipulation "that the dismissed appeal can be re-filed as an interlocutory appeal but on the condition that the trial proceed on the remaining fraudulent transfer claim for relief."

(2) Current issues

It is not clear what the parties intend, or what procedural steps this Court should take. Whatever is in the parties' unfiled stipulation presumably will not bind the District Court (or any other court hearing the appeal) in deciding whether to grant leave to appeal this Court's interlocutory ruling, so what do the parties hope to accomplish with their stipulation? Moreover, the parties' stated intention to proceed simultaneously in both this Bankruptcy Court and the District Court usually is not possible because an appeal generally deprives this court of jurisdiction. Cf. Rule 54(b) (Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Rule 7054, Fed. R. Bankr. P.), and compare Rule 8008 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). To the extent, if any, that this Court has discretion to grant any relief that would make such dual-tracking possible, is that an appropriate use of judicial resources? On a separate issue, if the plaintiff intends to proceed with the first claim for relief, does the plaintiff plan to amend the complaint to cure the deficiencies in that claim (constructively fraudulent transfer) noted in the tentative ruling for 3/20/18?

The tentative ruling is to continue this status conference to 11/6/18 at 11:00 a.m. with a deadline of 10/23/18 for the parties to file and serve whatever papers they deem appropriate to address the foregoing issues and any other relevant issues at this stage of these proceedings.

Revised Tentative Ruling for 3/20/18:
Appearances required.

(1) Motion for summary judgment (adv. dkt. 14-18, the "MSJ"); opposition papers (adv. dkt. 22-25); and reply papers (adv. dkt. 26-27). The tentative ruling is to deny in part and grant in part the MSJ, as set forth below.

(a) Legal standards. The legal standards governing motions for summary judgment are well known, do not appear to be disputed by the parties, and need not be repeated in this tentative ruling.

(b) First claim for relief (fraudulent transfer). Although the complaint (adv. dkt.1) asserts fraudulent transfer claims under both California law and the Bankruptcy Code, the MSJ limits this to 11 U.S.C. 548. The MSJ also asserts only constructive, not actual, fraud. See adv. dkt. 14, pp.2:21-3:1.

The complaint alleges less than reasonably equivalent value (11 U.S.C. 548(a)(1)(B)(i)) - namely, transfers by the debtors/defendants for no value from the debtors and/or their revocable trusts (the assets of which apparently could be reached by creditors) to irrevocable trusts. But to establish the elements of a constructively fraudulent transfer the plaintiff must also establish one of three types of insolvency (commonly referred to as "balance sheet," "inadequate capital," or "cash flow" insolvency) or else a transfer to an insider under an "employment contract." See 11 U.S.C. 548(a)(1)(B)(ii)(I)-(IV). There is no allegation about any employment contract, so the plaintiff must establish some type of insolvency.

The MSJ refers to balance sheet insolvency (11 U.S.C. 101(32A)). But the complaint never alleges that type of insolvency, so the plaintiff cannot be granted partial summary judgment as to that element (11 U.S.C. 548(a)(1)(B)(ii)(I)).

The complaint alleges inadequate capital and inadequate cash flow (in language that roughly parallels 11 U.S.C. 548(a)(1)(B)(ii)(II)&(III)). But the MSJ extrapolates that those types of insolvency could be presumed based on the bankruptcy schedules many months after the transfer, and from the sheer number of lawsuits and eventual judgments against the defendants and other circumstantial evidence. Those things might (or might not) be persuasive at trial, but they are insufficient to establish a lack of genuine issue of fact.

(c) Second claim for relief (declaratory relief related to nature of the trusts). The complaint (adv. dkt. 1, para. 23) seeks a declaratory judgment (i) that the debtors/defendants are "beneficiaries" of the trusts within the meaning of California Probate Code 15304, (ii) that the benefits the debtors/defendants receive from the trusts are "property of the estate" under 11 U.S.C. 541, and (iii) that the trusts qualify as "self-settled trusts" under California law, which the MSJ uses as shorthand for a trust the assets of which are reachable by creditors.

Various provisions of the Bankruptcy Code define what property is part of the bankruptcy estate:

The bankruptcy estate includes "all legal or equitable interests of the debtor in property as of the commencement of the case." 11 U.S.C. § 541(a)(1). It does not include, however, "any power that the debtor may exercise solely for the benefit of another," 11 U.S.C. § 541(b)(1), nor does it include "[p]roperty in which the debtor holds ... only legal title and not an equitable interest." 11 U.S.C. § 541(d). Similarly, the estate does not include property containing "[a] restriction on the transfer of a beneficial interest of the debtor in a trust that is enforceable under applicable nonbankruptcy law." 11 U.S.C. § 541(c)(2). [In re Cutter, 398 B.R. 6, 18-19 (9th Cir. BAP 2008).]

Under California law:

(a) If the settlor is a beneficiary of a trust created by the settlor and the settlor's interest is subject to a provision restraining the voluntary or involuntary transfer of the settlor's interest, the restraint is invalid against transferees or creditors of the settlor. The invalidity of the restraint on transfer does not affect the validity of the trust.

(b) If the settlor is the beneficiary of a trust created by the settlor and the trust instrument provides that the trustee shall pay income or principal or both for the education or support of the beneficiary or gives the trustee discretion to determine the amount of income or principal or both to be paid to or for the benefit of the settlor, a transferee or creditor of the settlor may reach the maximum amount that the trustee could pay to or for the benefit of the settlor under the trust instrument, not exceeding the amount of the settlor's proportionate contribution to the trust. [California Probate Code 15304]

The California Supreme Court has held that to the extent that the settlor of a trust is also a beneficiary, creditors can reach the property held by the trust:

It is against public policy to permit a man to tie up his property in such a way that he can enjoy it but prevent his creditors from reaching it, and where the settlor makes himself a beneficiary of a trust any restraints in the instrument on the involuntary alienation of his interest are invalid and ineffective. Since [the settlor] was the sole beneficiary, all the property in the trust is subject to the claims of his creditors. [Nelson v. Cal. Trust Co., 33 Cal.2d 501, 501-02 (1949) (emphasis added)]

These principles have been more recently reaffirmed in a decision of the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals:

[U]nder California law, a settlor of a spendthrift trust cannot also act as beneficiary of that trust (i.e., California law prohibits "self-settled" trusts). See Cal. Prob.Code § 15304(a) (West 1987). California law voids self-settled trusts to prevent individuals from placing their property beyond the reach of their creditors while at the same time still reaping the bounties of such property. See Nelson v. California Trust Co., 33 Cal.2d 501, 202 P.2d 1021, 1021 (Cal. 1949). [In re Moses, 167 F.3d 470, 473 (9th Cir. 1999)]

In addition, the MSJ cites authority that if beneficiaries exercise "excessive" control over a trust then under California law they cannot "shield that trust with an anti-alienation provision lacking true substance." In re Moses, 167 F.3d 470, 473 (9th Cir. 1999) (citation omitted) (emphasis added). See also In re Cutter, 398 B.R. 6, 22 (9th Cir. BAP 2008). MSJ (adv. dkt. 14, p.10:1-14).

The debtors argue that their situation is different from that in Cutter because "the Debtor in Cutter could potentially use all the Trust's principal and income to maintain his standard of living, without limitation" whereas "[t] here is no such provision" in the debtors' trusts. Dkt. 22, p.3:22-26 (italics) added to case name). That distinction of Cutter (and the other authorities cited above) is unpersuasive.

The MSJ points to the following facts in support of its argument that (i) the debtors are also beneficiaries and (ii) the anti-alienation provisions of the trust lack "true substance." The debtor/defendants do not raise any genuine contrary issues of fact.

(i) The debtors deducted mortgage interest and real estate taxes on their 2015 tax returns. See dkt. 18, p.4:5-9 (and evidence cited therein).

(ii) During the "initial period" of the trusts (the earlier of the grantors' deaths or 16 years) the debtors can continue to live in the property rent-free. See Dkt. 18, p.4:10-15 (and evidence cited therein).

(iii) During that same period, any net income or excess cash is distributed to the debtors. See Dkt. 18, p.4:16-21 (and evidence cited therein).

(iv) The debtors can manage the property as "absolute owners." See Dkt. 18, p.4:22-28 (and evidence cited therein).

(v) The debtors can loan money to themselves and/or use the property to secure loans to themselves. See Dkt. 18, p.5:2-7 (and evidence cited therein).

(vi) During their lifetime, the debtors can make discretionary distributions to their children, and upon their deaths the trust assets are to be distributed to their children. See Dkt. 18, p.5:8-12 (and evidence cited therein).

Based on the foregoing, it appears that the debtors are indeed beneficiaries of the trusts to a large extent, and moreover the anti-alienation provisions of the trust lack "true substance" as that term has been used in the cited authorities. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to grant the MSJ on the second claim for relief.

(2) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 9/26/17. The applicable deadlines are reflected in this court's orders (adv. dkt. 7, 20). The parties should be prepared to address whether there are any non-mooted matters left to resolve in this adversary proceeding, if this Court is not persuaded to depart from the foregoing tentative ruling on the MSJ.

See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

This court recognizes that, at least at this stage, the attorney who filed the answer (dkt. 4) for both trustees of the trust has also executed the Status Report (dkt. 5) on behalf of one of the defendant trustees (the debtor/defendant) asserting that neither of them can consent to this Bankruptcy Court entering a final judgment because third party beneficiaries of the trust allegedly have a right to have their rights litigated "outside of this venue." Counsel for the answering defendants should be prepared (a) to explain whether this is a Stern objection or something else and (b) whether both answering defendants or only one of them takes this position, and if the former, why he did not execute the status report on behalf of both of them.

Counsel for the plaintiff should be prepared to address whether the plaintiff contends that there are no additional parties who need to be joined, and why.

(2) Mediation. The plaintiff suggests in the Status Report (adv. dkt. 5) that mediation, if any, should not be ordered before dispositive motion(s) are heard, which the plaintiff anticipates will be by 3/1/18. The tentative ruling is to revisit the issue of mediation after that date.

Tentative Ruling for 4/30/19:

From the prior status report (adv. dkt. 50) it appears that the previously ordered deadlines (adv. dkt. 48) may need to be revised. The parties are directed to address that issue.

(2) Venue/jurisdiction/authority. Matters of venue, jurisdiction, and authority have been determined and/or waived or forfeited (see adv.dct. 23 and compare adv.dkt.50) (ABS Defendants' jury trial demand).

At the 3/6/18 hearing, this Court continued the matter to allow the parties time to meet and confer about the various deadlines that this court should set in this adversary proceeding and/or court-ordered mediation. This court also directed the parties to file a status report by 4/3/18, but the parties have not done so.

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

The parties requested a brief continuance of this status conference from 2/27/18 to today's date (see Joint Status Report, adv. dkt. 10). At the status conference on 1/23/18 there was no appearance for the plaintiff, and this Court was persuaded that it was premature to adopt the deadlines stated in the tentative ruling for that status conference (reproduced below). There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to discuss the status of this case.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 2/27/18:

Continue to 3/6/18 at 11:00 a.m. Appearances are not required on 2/27/18.

Reasons: At the status conference on 1/23/18 there was no appearance for the plaintiff, and this Court was persuaded that it was premature to adopt the deadlines stated in the tentative ruling for that status conference (reproduced below). The plaintiff and one defendant (the debtor) have now filed a joint status report (adv. dkt. 10) requesting a brief continuance.

Chapter 7

Tentative Ruling for 1/23/18:

Appearances required. The court has reviewed the parties' filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The parties must address why they failed to file the required status report, and also the following issues. The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences.

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority. The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/6/18 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines/dates: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 11/21/17. The tentative ruling is to set the following deadlines/dates. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to serve and lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a

This Status Conference involves two related bankruptcy cases: (a) In re Layfield & Barrett, APC, Case No. 2:17-bk-19548-NB ("L&B"); (b) In re Layfield, Case No. 2:18-bk-15829-NB ("Lay-Invol.").

(b) Evidentiary Objections (Lay-Invol dkt. 214) to the Declaration of Philip Layfield (Lay-Invol dkt. 207, last two pages)

Sustain the objections except as to Mr. Layfield's alleged intent to appear at certain scheduled meetings of creditors (11 U.S.C. 341(a)). On that issue, his testimony is at least potentially relevant, because his good or bad faith is one of the facts and circumstances that this Court may consider in determining whether to dismiss this case.

Alternatively, the tentative ruling on the merits (see below) would be unchanged even if this Court were to overrule all of the evidentiary objections to Mr. Layfield's declaration.

(b) Motion to Dismiss (Lay-Invol dkt. 207)

Deny for the reasons stated in the Chapter 7 Trustee's Opposition (dkt. 213). See also Joinders (dkt. 215, 216).

In addition, regarding Mr. Layfield's allegations about some sort of perceived conflict involving the Chapter 7 Trustee, his arguments are difficult to follow and both procedurally and substantively deficient. This Court has already rejected Mr. Layfield's challenges to the appointment of the Trustee. See dkt. 149, 183. To the extent that Mr. Layfield raises new allegations, there is no explanation why they were not raised before; there is no citation to the standards for reconsideration (e.g., under Rule 9024, Fed.R.Bankr.P.) nor any attempt to meet those standards; and his vague allegations are conclusory statements of opinion and legal conclusions without supporting facts. See dkt. 207, p.4:11-18 & pp. 11:21-12:5 (referencing In re Adelman, Case No. 2:15-bk-15952-RK). In addition, this Court has reviewed the docket in the Adelman bankruptcy case, including the bankruptcy schedules (id. dkt.84), and is unable to discern any disqualifying facts. See 11 U.S.C. 327(c)(attorney's representation of creditor does not by itself disqualify such person from representing trustee).

Proposed Order: Trustee is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(3) Deadlines/dates. The L&B case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 on 8/3/17 and converted to chapter 11 on 8/11/17 (L&B dkt. 25). The Lay-Invol case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 case on 5/21/18 and an order for relief was entered on 12/12/18 (Lay-Invol dkt. 160, 161).

(a) L&B Bar date: 2/5/18 (timely served, L&B dkt. 133, 157)

(b) Lay-Invol Bar date: 4/12/19

(c) L&B Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD. Do not file or serve until further order of this court.

(d) Continued status conference: The tentative ruling is to continue the status conferences in the L&B and Lay-Invol cases to 6/4/19 at 11:00 a.m., with no written status report required.

(2) Matters on Calendar Today

(a) Motion for Sale of Property (dkt. 419)

The tentative ruling is to grant the Motion to Sell Units 210 and 220. If the buyer submits a suitable 363(m) declaration, the Court will approve the buyer as a good-faith purchaser.

Proposed Order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(b) Wells Fargo Relief from Stay Motion (dkt. 143)

Based on the above, the tentative ruling is to continue the Relief from Stay Motion to the next status conference date, see below, until the sale is finalized.

(3) Deadlines/dates. The L&B case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 on 8/3/17 and converted to chapter 11 on 8/11/17 (L&B dkt. 25). The Lay-Invol case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 case on 5/21/18 and an order for relief was entered on 12/12/18 (Lay-Invol dkt. 160, 161).

(a) L&B Bar date: 2/5/18 (timely served, L&B dkt. 133, 157)

(b) Lay-Invol Bar date: 4/12/19

(c) L&B Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD. Do not file or serve until further order of this court.

(d) Continued status conference: The tentative ruling is to continue the status conferences in the L&B and Lay-Invol cases to 4/30/19 at 11:00 a.m. to be concurrent with Mr. Layfield's motion to dismiss that case (Lay-Invol. dkt. 207). No written status report required.

(2) Matters on Calendar Today

(a) Wells Fargo Relief from Stay Motions (dkt. 143, 144)

The parties should be prepared to address whether there has been any new information regarding the sale of Units 210 & 220. If there is no progress with a sale, this Court's tentative ruling would be to grant relief from stay as to Units 210 & 220 due to the diminishing equity cushion (dkt. 143). As Unit 200 has been successfully sold, dkt. 144 is moot.

(3) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 on 8/3/17 and converted to chapter 11 on 8/11/17.

(a) L&B Bar date: 2/5/18 (timely served, L&B dkt. 133, 157)

(b) L&B Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD. Do not file or serve until further order of this court.

(c) Continued status conference: The tentative ruling is to continue the status conferences in the L&B and Lay-Invol cases to 3/26//19 at 2:00 p.m. to be concurrent with status conferences in the Lay-Invol case and in an adversary proceeding in the L&B case (Adv. No. 19-1315). No written status report required.

(b) Lay-Invol 341(a) Meeting

The parties should be prepared to address appropriate remedies for Mr. Layfield's failure to appear at the meeting of creditors (11 U.S.C. 341(a)) scheduled for 1/22/19.

(c) Christine Layfield Delaware bankruptcy case

The parties should be prepared to address any effects of the chapter 7 bankruptcy case filed by Mr. Layfield's spouse, as reported by the L&B Chapter 11 Trustee (L&B dkt. 401, p.7). To what extent does the trustee of that bankruptcy estate assert interests in these related cases? Are there discussions regarding any stipulations for relief from the automatic stay, coordination regarding venue of any proceedings, and/or coordinating other matters as between the estates?

(2) Matters on Calendar Today

(a) Motion to Sell 2720 Homestead Rd, Unit 200, Park City Utah (L&B dkt. 391)

The parties should be prepared to address the issues raised by Wells Fargo (L&B dkt. 396) and Toll Creek Owners Association, Inc. (L&B dkt. 397), as well as Movant's reply (L&B dkt. 402). In addition, if the objections are resolved or overruled and the sale goes forward (subject to overbids), the tentative ruling is that any "good faith" finding (11 U.S.C. 363(m)) will require a declaration from any successful bidder that complies with the posted Procedures of Judge Bason:

§ 363(m): "Good Faith" Findings. Supporting declaration(s) should address: (1) connections: the bidder's prior, current, or expected connections with any relevant persons (other bidders, the debtor, major creditors or equity security holders in the case, or any of the debtor's officers, directors, agents, or employees, including whether any offers of employment or compensation have been made or will be offered to debtor's present or former officers, directors, agents, or employees), (2) consideration: whether any consideration is contemplated or has been transferred by the bidder in connection with the sale to any person other than the bankruptcy estate, and (3) absence of fraud or collusion between the bidder and any relevant persons (e.g., other bidders, the debtor's officers, directors, agents or employees), or any attempt to take unfair advantage of other bidders. (b) Wells Fargo Relief from Stay Motions (dkt. 143, 144)

The parties should be prepared to address the issues raised in Wells Fargo's status report (L&B dkt. 399) regarding all of the condominium units. The tentative ruling is to continue the Relief from Stay Motions to 3/5/19 at 2:00 p.m., with a deadline of 2/12/19 for the Trustee to provide Wells Fargo an updated written report describing the listing price(s), showings, and offers for Units 210 and 220. #2.00 Status conference re: Chapter 11 case

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves

(1) Current issues

(a) Budget motion

Debtor's status report (dkt. 31, item B.2.) states that a budget motion is not required by the presiding judge. To the contrary, the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) state:

§ 363(b): Budget motions. Required. ... NOTE: Judge Bason requires the use of local forms F 2081-2.2.MOTION.BUDGET and F 2081-2.2.ORDER.BUDGET.

Nevertheless, the tentative ruling is to excuse the lack of a budget motion due to the circumstances of this case (Debtor proposes a 363 sale of her sole property that allegedly has substantial equity; she has almost no income; and she has almost no unsecured creditors).

(b) Transfers to insiders

Debtor's first Monthly Operating Report ("MOR," dkt. 30, p.8, question 2) states that transfers have been made to insiders without appropriate authorization. What are the details?

(c) 363 sale

Debtor's counsel is referred to the posted Procedures of Judge Bason regarding sales under 11 U.S.C. 363(b)&(f).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 3/13/19 .

Chapter 11

This status conference has been set pursuant to this Court's order (dkt. 6) and notice thereof (dkt. 14), pursuant to which status conferences are held concurrent with any other calendared proceeding. Appearances are not required on 4/9/19.

(1) Current issues

(a) Mazakoda, Inc's Motion to Extend Time to Object to Dischargeability (dkt. 53). Grant, with an extension of the deadline for Mazakoda Inc to file a complaint objecting to dischargeability to 4/30/19. After the parties filed their papers (dkt. 53, 63, 64) this Court continued this matter for Mazakoda to obtain a recording/transcript of the meeting of creditors (11 U.S.C. 341(a)). At the hearing on 3/26/19, counsel for Mazakoda appeared and informed this Court that it opposed the tentative ruling denying the motion for lack of prosecution, and that it had just received the recording/transcript on 3/22/19. Although Debtors' counsel was not notified of Mazakoda's intent to contest the tentative ruling (as required by the posted Procedures of Judge Bason, available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov), this Court was persuaded to continue this matter, as permissible under those same procedures. Mazakoda has now supplemented the Motion (dkt. 74), and based on that supplement the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to extend the deadline.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 10/22/18.

(a) Bar date: 2/8/19 (dkt. 27, timely served dkt. 30)

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD.

(c) Continued status conference: 4/30/19 at 1:00 p.m. Status report due on 4/23/19.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 3/26/19:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 3/26/19.

(1) Current issues

(a) Mazakoda, Inc's Motion to Extend Time to Object to Dischargeability (dkt. 53). Deny for lack of prosecution. It has now had time to do so, and has not supplemented its motion.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling for 3/26/19, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues.

(a) Budget Motion (dkt. 21). This Court has reviewed Debtor's Supplemental Declaration in Support of the Budget Motion (dkt. 34). Although that declaration addresses many of the concerns raised by this Court and by Strategic Acquisitions, Inc. (dkt. 23), the debtor has failed to provide historical monthly profit and loss statements from the period from 1/1/18 through 3/31/18 as required by this Court's order (dkt. 27, para. 5.a.). The parties should be prepared to address what remedy this Court should impose.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 3/13/18.

(a) Bar date: 6/15/18 (timely served, dkt. 26, 32).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: In view of the debtor's declaration about her current and future projected income, the tentative ruling is to vacate the prior deadline to file these documents, and set a new deadline at a future status conference, with the caveat that if the debtor fails to show sufficient diligence in obtaining employment and/or if the estate suffers any substantial losses then this Court might have to dismiss or convert this case.

(c) Continued status conference: 6/12/18 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report is required.

Chapter 11

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor herself.

(1) Current issues. This Court has reviewed the debtor's status report (dkt. 19), the response (dkt. 23) filed by creditor Strategic Acquisitions, Inc. ("Strategic"), and the other filed documents and records in this case.

(a) Prior failed case. The debtor's husband's prior case (no. 17-bk-19071-NB) was a chapter 13 case that was dismissed on 10/13/17 with a 180-day bar to re-filing for failure to make plan payments or appear at the meeting of creditors (11 U.S.C. 341(a)).

(b) Budget Motion (dkt. 21). First, as Strategic points out, the debtor's bankruptcy Schedule I, line 8a, lists $6,220/mo. of net income from "rental property and from operating a business, profession, or farm" but fails to follow the instructions to "[a]ttach a statement for each property and business showing gross receipts, ordinary and necessary business expenses, and the total net monthly income." In addition, as Strategic points out, the debtor may be failing to account for the payment of real property taxes and perhaps also income taxes, and therefore it is not at all clear how the debtor will be able to fund any plan of reorganization.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/17/18 for the debtor to file declaration(s) (i) attaching the statement(s) required by the line 8a instructions, (ii) providing complete explanations of any other sources of income (e.g., how long does the debtor anticipate continuing to receive disability payments? does the debtor anticipate returning to employment, and if so, when?), (iii) explaining whether the debtor is accounting for real estate taxes and income taxes, (iv) explaining how the debtor anticipates generating sufficient income to fund a plan of reorganization, and (v) attaching historical monthly accounts for the period of one year prepetition through 3/31/18.

Second, bankruptcy Schedule J (attached to the budget motion), lines 17c and 17d, list payments to Strategic of $1,750/mo. and to Ropers Majeski of $500/mo. The tentative ruling is to treat those payments as adequate protection payments on account of claims that appear to be secured claims, conditioned on return of such payments in the event that such security interests or claims are avoided or otherwise disallowed.

Third, notice of the motion and the deadline for objections is inadequate. The proof of service fails to attach a service list of creditors, and the debtor checked the box directing creditors to file any oppositions within 14 days' from the date of the proof of service (3/27/18), which would be the date of this hearing. Nevertheless, despite the lack of adequate service or notice, the tentative ruling is that on the present record it appears that it would be more prejudicial to creditors to prevent the debtors from making their proposed expenditures than to permit those expenditures, so the tentative ruling is to grant the budget motion on an interim basis, subject to any objections at a continued hearing simultaneous with the continued status conference date set forth below. This court has selected a continued hearing date that contemplates shortened notice (per Rule 9006, Fed. R. Bankr. P.), but that date is conditioned upon the debtor serving the motion on the entire creditor matrix the day after the current hearing date.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 3/13/18.

(a) Bar date: 6/15/18 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: File by 6/29/18 using the forms required by Judge Bason (DO NOT SERVE yet, except on the U.S. Trustee - the court will set a deadline and procedures at a later time). This Court is aware that the debtor has requested a much later deadline (dkt. 19, p. 5), but this Court is not aware of any reason why so much time is needed. The debtor should be negotiating with secured creditors and other key constituencies already.

(c) Continued status conference: 5/1/18 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report is required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Chapter 11

(1) Current issues

(a) Dismissal or conversion

Debtor's fourth status report alleges (dkt. 62, p.2:10) that a "363 motion, supported with a stalking horse bid, will be submitted to the court" at some unspecified future date. This Court and parties in interest have heard that hope before, but it appears highly unlikely that Debtor will receive a bid that will exceeding the losses that are accruing meanwhile.

Debtor's situation appears to be getting steadily worse, both on a cash basis and in terms of accrued liabilities for postpetition real property rent, equipment leasing, etc. See MOR for Jan. 2019 (dkt. 57) (small positive cash flow, but $48,522.19 in postpetition payables as against $6,281.31 receivables) and MOR for Feb. 2019 (dkt. 63) lines 22-25 (net cash flow of ($1765.14) and increase in payables to $96,380.19 - almost double the prior month - as against $6,281.31 receivables - unchanged).

The tentative ruling is to dismiss this case and let Debtor and its secured creditors/equipment lessors make whatever arrangements they see fit for disposing of the collateral/leased equipment. (Office of the United States Trustee to lodge proposed order.)

(1) Current issues.

Debtor's status report (dkt. 55) reports some alleged progress in exploring either sale(s) of assets or sale of the business or both. What is the timeline? What assurances do creditors have that debtor's uncertainty on these issues (two months into this case) will not deplete rather than enhance any potential recoveries?

At the Status Conference on 1/8/19 this Court was persuaded not to dismiss this case. Tentative Ruling for 1/8/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues.

(a) Case Status Report

In the Amended Order Setting (A) Principal Status Conference and (B) Procedures (dkt. 4), this Court directed the Debtor to file and serve a Case Status Report on Local Form F 2081-1.1.C11.STATUS.RPT at least 14 days before this hearing. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling the Debtor has not done so. Why not?

(b) First day motions

Debtor has not filed any payroll motion, motion for use of cash collateral, budget motion, utility motion, or other typical "first day" motions. This Court recognizes that Debtor is in the process of formulating its strategy (dkt. 20, p.4:17-21), and has requested an extension of time to file bankruptcy schedules and other documents (dkt. 19), but none of that excuses the failure to file any required first day motions.

(c) Dismissal? Bar?

Debtor is directed to address why this Court should not dismiss this case with a 180 day bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy, under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1), for willful failure to abide by an order of this court, or willful failure to appear in proper prosecution of this case, or both.

Chapter 11

(1) Current issues

(a) Amended plan (dkt. 72) and disclosure statement (dkt. 73)

(i) Exhibits generally

The exhibits should not all be attached to both documents. Exhibits A and B should be attached to the Plan and the rest to the Disclosure Statement (as stated in the Disclosure Statement). Attaching duplicate exhibits to both documents adds confusion, and expense to copy and mail the documents.

(ii) Exhibit B (dkt. 72 at PDF p. 10)

This exhibit shows a cure amount of "none" but then lists a negative amount on the Effective Date, which artificially reduces the payments required on the Effective Date. It appears that, but for this calculation error, Debtor would run out of cash in the first month.

(iii) Exhibit C (dkt. 72 at PDF pp.12-13)

First, despite overly optimistic projections (see below) this exhibit still shows projected losses. Second, there is no support for the projections: Exhibit C1, lines 1a and 1b include a space to show the source. Both "Historical gross inc." and "Historical expenses" are supposed to be dollar amounts from a "recent MOR part IX or equivalent" which is supposed to be "attached/at docket# _____," but there is no such document attached or referenced. (Emphasis omitted.)

(iv) Exhibit E (dkt. 72 at PDF p. 15)

This exhibit shows monthly payments of $1,137.68 to the State Bank of India, for total payments of $50,000 on its bifurcated secured claim. First, this is completely different from the $3,667.23 shown on Exhibit A (dkt. 72 at PDF p.9) on its unbifurcated claim. What treatment is Debtor actually proposing?

Second, because the spreadsheet automatically fills in the numbers from Exhibit E on Exhibit A, someone must have substituted different exhibits (perhaps from different drafts). This means that counsel's declaration (dkt. 72, p.7) that the spreadsheet has not been altered is FALSE.

This is the second time that unauthorized modifications have occurred. Debtor's counsel is cautioned that if this happens again that may result in sanctions.

(b) Feasibility of any reorganization

(A) Actual performance

MOR #7 (for 2/19, dkt. 74, p.1) shows a net loss despite an "IRS refund & transfers from savings," and despite the fact that the adequate protection payment to Bank of India is only $2800/mo. (MOR dkt.74, at PDF p.12) but the Plan (dkt. 72) proposes to pay the bank $3,667.23/mo. How is that remotely realistic?

(B) Projections

A letter from Debtor's principal dated 3/12/19 (dkt. 72, at PDF p.11) states that Nov.-Jan is "always usually a much slower period in our industry and sales will normally be lowest during these months"; but the letter projects better performance in February and an increase of $500 per 7-month period thereafter (the Disclosure Statement is even rosier, with a projected $1000 increase in the first period, dkt. 73, Ex.C, line 7a, Period A). If those projections are already off, how can this Court find that any plan is feasible (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(11))?

Should this case be dismissed or converted?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 8/2/18.

(a) Bar date: 12/11/18 (not timely served, see dkt. 24, 35 & 41, but the tentative ruling is not to set a new bar date because any party in interest who asserts prejudice can seek relief).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: see above. The tentative ruling is that, if this case is not dismissed or converted, Debtor will need to show substantial progress in MOR results before any further revisions to any plan or disclosure statement.

(c) Continued status conference: If this case is not dismissed or converted, the tentative ruling is to continue this status conference to 4/30/19 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report is required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Tentative Ruling for 11/6/18:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) MORs (dkt. 44, 45)

MOR1 (for August, 2018) shows an ending balance of negative $4,549.03. MOR2 (for September 2018) shows an ending balance of negative $4,074.81. Both MORs also show negative postpetition accounts receivable. What does that mean?

Both MORs were also filed late. They were due middle of the month following the reporting period, and this Court's adopted tentative ruling for 10/9/18 directed that the defective August MOR be cured by 10/15/18 but it and the September MOR were not filed until 10/31/18.

Are the (untimely) MORs inaccurate? How can parties in interest and this Court rely on them for current information? If they're accurate, they appear to show losses, or at least an inability to generate profits that would be needed to reorganization.

In view of all the foregoing, should this case be converted or dismissed?

(b) Insider compensation

Debtor's notices of insider compensation (dkt. 46, 47) were not served until 10/24/18, even though this Court's adopted tentative ruling for 10/9/18 directed service no later than 10/12/18. Why?

Meanwhile, although Debtor's principal Neel Viradia declares under penalty of perjury that no unauthorized insider compensation has been paid (dkt. 45, p.16, answer #2), the breakdown of payroll in the MORs apparently shows otherwise (e.g., dkt. 45, p.5, lines 1-2). The form itself states (e.g., dkt. 47, p.2, bottom of page): "[T]his notice ... must be filed and served fifteen days before any pay out of compensation" What consequences should follow from Debtor's apparent violation of that limitation?

(c) Employment (dkt. 32, superseded by amended application, dkt. 42)

The amended application does not specify whether the $10,000 fee already paid by Batuk Viradia (and the filing fee), or the $2,000 he has committed to pay, are loans to Debtor, or gifts, or equity investments, or something else. Nor has he filed a declaration confirming that he understands that proposed counsel's sole loyalty must be to Debtor (not to Mr. Viradia), and that has been informed that there might be conflicts of interest and he may wish to seek separate counsel (e.g., conflicts could exist if Mr. Viradia received any preferential payments or other avoidable transfers, or if Mr. Viradia would prefer that Debtor take a course of action that is not in the best interests of creditors).

More generally, although payment of a retainer by a third party is not outright prohibited, it is fraught with ethical concerns. See In re Kelton Motors, Inc., 109 B.R. 641 (Bankr. D. Vt. 1989); In re Hathaway Ranch Partnership, 116 B.R. 208, 219 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1990); In re Park-Helena Corp., 63 F.3d 877 (9th Cir. 1995).

The tentative ruling is that, if this case is not dismissed or converted, the employment application must be continued to the date of the continued status conference (set forth below) with a deadline of 11/13/18 for Debtor to

(d) Cash collateral. If this case is not dismissed or converted, the tentative ruling is to authorize the use of cash collateral on a final basis, on the same terms as the interim authorization (dkt. 37).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 8/2/18.

(a) Bar date: 12/11/18 (order, dkt. 35). Although the order was not timely served (see dkt. 41), the tentative ruling is that the confusion of setting yet another bar date would outweigh the benefit, and that this Court can address any prejudice from shortened notice when and if anyone files a late claim and seeks to have the claim treated as timely.

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD.

(c) Continued status conference: If this case is not dismissed or converted, the tentative ruling is to continue this status conference to 12/11/18 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report is required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Revised Tentative Ruling for 10/9/18:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues.

(a) Cash collateral. The tentative ruling is to authorize the use of cash collateral as set forth in the tentative ruling for calendar no. 6 (10/9/18 at 1:00 p.m.).

(b) Insider compensation. Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 2014-1(a) requires a notice and opportunity to object before any insider compensation is paid. But no such notice has been filed, and Debtor's Monthly Operating Report ("MOR") for the month ending 8/31/18 reflects payments to each of two insiders. Dkt. 34, at PDF p.8. The tentative ruling is to direct Debtor to serve the notice using the local form no later than 10/12/18.

(c) Bar date. On 9/5/18 this Court entered its "Order Setting Bar Date: November 9, 2018; and Directing Service by Debtor." Dkt. 24. The debtor failed to serve that order. Why? The tentative ruling is to issue an amended order setting a bar date as set forth below.

(d) MOR (dkt. 34). The MOR appears to be incomplete. For example, it refers to multiple accounts but appears to provide only a combined report; many of the entries are vague or have no description; and page one includes a reference to "Non DIP personal checking (see attached letter)" but no letter or any other explanation is attached. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 10/15/18 to file an amended MOR correcting these and any other deficiencies.

(e) Employment (dkt. 25). As highlighted by the objection of the United States Trustee ("UST") (dkt. 28), the parties should be prepared to address (a) the proposed $12,000 flat fee under 11 U.S.C. 328 and (b) the source of the "loan" for $10,000 of that fee (dkt. 25, p.8) and the source of the remaining $2,000 plus the filing fee.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 8/2/18.

(a) Bar date: See above. In view of Debtor's failure to serve the order (dkt.24), the tentative ruling is to issue an amended order setting a bar date of 12/28/18 and directing the debtor to serve that order no later than 10/15/18 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD.

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues. This Court has reviewed the debtor's draft plan (dkt. 47) and disclosure statement (dkt. 46) and this Court has no issues to raise sua sponte. Has the debtor had any negotiations with secured creditors? Is it more appropriate to allow additional time for such negotiations, or to authorize the debtor to mail a voting package to all parties in interest and set a combined hearing on final approval of the disclosure statement and confirmation of the plan for the same time and date as the continued status conference set forth below?

Tentative Ruling for 6/12/18:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

- (1) Current issues. The debtor's proofs of service continue to be defective. Elizabeth Cruz declares that she has served the "PROOF OF SERVICE" itself, not the underlying orders. See dkt. 20 at PDF p.2 and dkt. 31 at PDF p.2.

At the hearing counsel is directed to explain why the proofs of service are defective, and what steps will be taken to correct this issue so that it no longer occurs. The deadline is 6/19/18 to file further amended proofs of service of both orders (the order setting principal status conference etc. at dkt. 6, and the bar date order at dkt. 23).

- (1) Current issues.
- (a) Budget motion (dkt. 13). Counsel must address:
 - (i) Income as of petition date or current? The debtor has filed an amended bankruptcy Schedule I (dkt. 30). Is that actually intended to be a decaration of postpetition income, or a correction of the debtor's income as of the petition date?
 - (ii) Amended budget motion? Should an amended budget motion needs to be filed and served, or is such notice unnecessary and should the budget be deemed amended, in view of what appears to be an increase of approximately $168 in the debtor's monthly income (compare dkt. 13 at PDF p.8, debtor's personal income of $2,800, with dkt. 30, line 7, debtor's personal income of $2,968)?

same terms as the interim order (dkt.24).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 3/6/18.

(a) Bar date: 6/15/18 (Order, dkt. 23). Note: Timely served? Per the proof of service (dkt. 26, the "POS") the debtor served the POS itself on creditors. Tentative Ruling for 4/10/18:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues.

(a) Failure to serve order. This Court's order setting this status conference (dkt. 6) directed the debtor to serve a copy of that order on all parties in interest no later than 14 days prior to this status conference. No proof of service appears on the docket. appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 9/18/18:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues. This status conference was continued from 8/18/18 to 9/18/18 (dkt.142). Based on recent docket activity, this Court is aware of the following issues.

(a) Dispute with State Compensation Insurance Fund (dkt. 145-156, 158, 159). Has this matter been resolved? Perhaps so, because the Status Report (dkt. 170) does not mention it. If not, what is the status of the parties' disputes?

(b) Final decree (dkt. 141, 151). The Status Report (dkt. 170) projects filing another motion by 12/31/18, so the tentative ruling is to continue this post-confirmation Status Conference to 12/18/18 at 1:00 p.m., with no written status report required and with the expectation that it might go off calendar if a motion for a final decree has been filed by then.

(2) consideration: whether any consideration is contemplated or has been transferred by the bidder in connection with the sale to any person other than the bankruptcy estate, and

Chapter 11

#16.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case
fr. 02/05/19, 03/05/19, 4/9/19

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/30/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Relief From Stay Motion (the "R/S Motion," dkt. 31)

According to Debtor's status report (dkt. 54) the disputes with movant Ms. Moreno have been resolved by an agreement to be embodied in a forthcoming proposed adequate protection order ("APO"). The parties are directed to address whether any disputes remain, and when the APO will be lodged.

(b) Amended Sale Motion (dkt. 42)

On further review this Court is concerned with several aspects of the proposed sale of the Gage Ave. property. The proposed sale is for $550,000, subject to overbids, to the current tenant, Ms. Gabi Rangel ("Proposed Buyer").

(i) Representing both sides

This Court recalls that at prior hearings Debtor made assurances that Proposed Buyer was representing herself. But Debtor's real estate agency, Realty World Capero, is listed as agent for both the seller (Debtor) and Proposed Buyer. See Sale Motion (dkt. 42) Ex.A at PDF pp.30-33.

Although dual agency is permissible outside of bankruptcy, within bankruptcy Judge Bason has prohibited dual agency because it means the real estate agent who represents the bankruptcy estate is not disinterested and may have an actual conflict of interest. The fact that Debtor is acting as his own agent, and his firm is representing Proposed Buyer, only makes these concerns worse. Can the Sale Motion be granted despite these concerns?

(ii) Service issues

One lienholder asserts that he did not receive the Sale Motion papers, and only recently learned of the proposed sale when another lienholder contacted him. See Ltd. Obj. (dkt. 52). Can this Court rely on Debtor's proof of service?

Chapter 11

(iii) Buyer's closing costs

The estimating closing statement (dkt. 42, Ex.B, at PDF p.48) includes a "Seller Credit for Buyer[']s Closing Costs" in the amount of $16,500. What is the basis for this distribution to Proposed Buyer? Does that effectively reduce the purchase price to $533,500 (because $550,000 - $16,500 = $533,500)? Does that make the initial overbid of $575,000 unreasonably high, and thereby chill the bidding?

(iv) Unpaid rent

The Sale Motion reveals that Proposed Buyer owes $1,353 for March, 2019 rent, supposedly offset by some repairs to the property; but Debtor has not yet received receipts. See dkt. 42, p.10:12-14. In addition, rent is due for April, 2019. Id., p.10:15-17. What is the current status of these matters?

(v) Accounting for receipt and use of security deposit

The accounting in the Sale Motion is unclear. Nor is it clear what happened before or after Debtor filed his bankruptcy petition, on 1/18/19 (the "Petition Date").

Apparently, Proposed Buyer made a $5,000 deposit; was supposed to make an additional $35,000 deposit; and actually made a total deposit of $50,000. See Dkt. 42, p.10:19-20. It is unclear if some of these funds were received after the Petition Date.

It appears that there was a "pre-release" to Debtor of the entire $50,000 security deposit. Debtor alleges (dkt. 42, pp.10:18-11:18) that he used those funds as follows:

- $ 20,200.00 Juan Resendiz (paid prepetition? for prepetition work)
- $ 4,055.44 Home Depot supplies (prepetition)
- $ 8,250.00 1st DOT (Kwait) (paid prepetition? for prepetition debt)
- $ 5,350.00 Ramon Ruelas (repairs) (paid prepetition? prepetition work?)

- $ 4,770.00 Debtor's (prepetition?) payments re office lease & car
- $ 42,625.44 total

Debtor is "unable to account for" the balance, and alleges that it "was likely used on miscellaneous expenses for [Debtor's] business and the property." Sale Motion (dkt. 42) p.11:17-18. (Debtor calculates $4,594.56, id., but this Court calculates $7,374.56 because $50,000 - $42,625.44 = $7,374.56.)

Chapter 11

Depending on the timing, Debtor's depletion of the security deposit could constitute unauthorized postpetition borrowing (11 U.S.C. 364), and his use of the resulting funds could be unauthorized postpetition acts out of the ordinary course of business (11 U.S.C. 363), or unauthorized postpetition transfers (11 U.S.C. 549). Debtor is directed to clarify the timing.

When were the "pre-releases" of the security deposit made? When were the expenditures made? How can Debtor provide any evidence regarding the timing and use of the missing $7,374.56?

(vi) Sale "free and clear"

One of Debtor's two grounds for selling free and clear of liens is an alleged "bona fide" dispute (11 U.S.C. 363(f)(4)) regarding the dollar amount of those liens:

The Debtor, simultaneously with the prosecution of this Motion, will seek through adversary complaints filed against the secured creditors holding liens against the Property to void said liens in whole or in part. The allegations of said complaints will include usury claims and challenges to the amount of said claims (i.e., the Debtor did not receive the amounts the creditors promised to lend). Debtor proposes that proceeds in the amount of all secured claims against the Property be held in escrow by Debtor's attorney until the resolution of said adversary proceedings or as agreed to by the parties. [Sale Motion (dkt. 42), p.6:15-23 (emphasis added), and see id. pp.17:15-18:6.]

As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, no such adversary proceedings have been filed (except for the one against Ms. Moreno that allegedly has been settled as part of the forthcoming APO). See dkt. 40 (Adv.P. 2:19-ap-01089-NB). In addition, there is reason to doubt whether any such disputes are "bona fide."

The limited opposition of the holder of the first deed of trust, Andrew Kwiat (dkt.52), points out that he is a licensed real estate broker, which generally creates an exception to the usury limitations. More broadly, the fact that Debtor himself is a licensed real estate broker might exempt all of the liens from the usury limitations (this Court has not researched that issue, and only uses it to illustrate that Debtor's bald assertion of "usury" does not appear to be sufficient to create a "bona fide" dispute).

Debtor's other ground for selling free and clear of liens is that the sale price is greater than the aggregate value of all liens on the property (11 U.S.C. 363(f)(3)). See Sale Motion (dkt. 42), p.11:1-6. That appears to be a sufficient ground for authorizing the sale itself, but not for withholding any of the proceeds.

Any withholding of proceeds would have to have some bankruptcy-related purpose - e.g., to use the funds to preserve or enhance the bankruptcy estate - and would have to be conditioned on adequate protection of each lienholder's interests. See 11 U.S.C. 363(e). Debtor's Sale Motion does not suggest any such purpose, nor any such adequate protection.

Accordingly, the tentative ruling is that (assuming this Court's other concerns are sufficiently addressed and that the sale can be approved at all) all lienholders must be paid in full out of escrow. The only exception is that, to the extent Debtor has a good faith basis to challenge the reasonableness of any attorney fees or other charges, the tentative ruling is that those amounts may be withheld from distribution, but must be maintained in a blocked account, or a trust account maintained by Debtor's counsel, or the equivalent.

(vii) Requested waiver of 14-day stay

Debtor requests a waiver of the 14-day stay of Rule 6004(h) (Fed.R.Bankr.P.). But Debtor provides no reason why the sale, which has already waited many months, cannot wait 14 days longer. That appears to be especially appropriate because Debtor's latest status report (dkt. 54, p.2:12-16) states that the Gave Ave. property is only "nearing" rehabilitation, and Debtor is "awaiting approval" by the architect of an "attic addition." The tentative ruling is to deny Debtor's request to waive the 14-day stay.

(viii) Conclusion as to Sale Motion/Gage Ave. property

The parties are directed to address the foregoing issues. If this Court's concerns can be adequately addressed, the tentative ruling is to authorize the sale but require all liens to be paid in full out of escrow, with the possible exception of attorney fees and other charges that are subject to bona fide dispute and that are held in a blocked account or the equivalent.

Proposed order: If the Sale Motion is granted, Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. Tentative Ruling for 3/5/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Financial losses and irregularities

Debtor's first Monthly Operating Report ("MOR," Jan. 2019, dkt. 17, p.1) appears to show that Debtor started with $2,518.85 and ended with $25.64. How is this sustainable? It appears to match Debtor's bankruptcy Schedules I&J (dkt. 1 at PDF pp.43-46), which show negative cash flow and no anticipated future change. Although Debtor's status report (dkt. 13) states that Debtor intends to sell one property and/or evict the tenant, but the docket does not reflect any progress on those things. Based on the foregoing, the tentative ruling is to dismiss this bankruptcy case.

The same MOR appears to show that Debtor paid $150 on a "Personal Loan" from "Samuel Samuel" via "Cash App" (dkt. 17, at PDF p.2, 1/15/19 entry) - is that an unauthorized postpetition borrowing? Alternatively, is it an unauthorized payment of prepetition debt? Either way, it appears that Debtor is violating the duties of a debtor in possession.

Likewise, the MOR shows a payment of $479.31 to Capital One Auto Carpay for an "Automobile Loan." Dkt. 17, at PDF p.3, entry for 1/22/19. What is the explanation?

Likewise, the MOR shows a payment of $228.96 to "Charter Communications" on 1/28/19 for "Internet (Includes Past Due Amounts)."

This appears to violate the automatic stay: what will Debtor's counsel do about that?

(b) Disregarding Court order

This Court's "Order Setting Bar Date: April 16, 2019 and Directing Service by Debtor" (dkt. 14, emphasis added) specifically directed Debtor to serve a copy of that order no later than February 11, 2019. There is no proof of such service. Why not? The tentative ruling, if this case is not dismissed, is to issue an order setting an amended bar date, and once again direct Debtor to serve a copy of that amended order on creditors (see below).

(c) Missing budget motion. At the 2/5/19 hearing and in the Initial Case Status Report (dkt. 13), Debtor represented to this Court that a budget motion would be forthcoming. As of the writing of this tentative ruling, no such motion has been filed. Why not?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 1/8/19.

(a) Bar date: 4/16/19 but no notice (see above), so re-set to 5/30/19 (DO NOT service any notice - this Court will prepare an amended bar date order and that order will direct Debtor to serve it on creditors).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD

Chapter 11

(1) Current issues.

(a) Missing status report. Debtor is directed to explain why a Case Status Report was not filed, as required by this Court's order setting this status conference (dkt. 5).

(b) Missing "first day" motions. Debtor has failed to file a budget motion (required by Judge Bason's posted procedures, available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov). Debtor also has not filed any other typical "first day" motions (e.g., a utility motion).

(c) Negative, and inadequately supported, monthly income. Debtor appears to have a new job as a real estate broker, but even with that new (alleged) income and supplemental income as a Lyft driver he shows negative cash flow. See Bankruptcy Schedules I & J (dkt. 1 at PDF pp. 43-46).

Debtor appears to have two properties, but does not list any leases or any income from a rental property: why not?

Debtor has stated under penalty of perjury that he does not expect any changes to income or expenses (see bankruptcy Schedule I, item 13, and Schedule J, item 24). How can Debtor hope to reorganize with negative cash flow?

In addition, the (sparse) income that is reported is inadequately supported. Debtor has ignored the instructions on bankruptcy Schedule I, line 8a, to "[a]ttach a statement for each property and business showing gross receipts, ordinary and necessary business expenses, and the total monthly net income."

(c) Dismissal? Should this Court dismiss this case? Does the foregoing constitute a "willful failure to appear in proper prosecution" of this case, and/or a "willful" failure to comply with this Court's order setting this status conference, either of which would support dismissal with a bar under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1)?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 1/8/19. If this case is not dismissed, the tentative ruling is to set the following deadlines/dates:

(a) Bar date: 4/16/19 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD

(c) Continued status conference: 3/5/19 at 1:00 p.m., brief status report due 2/26/19.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/30/19:

Appearances are not required.

(1) Current Issues

(a) Implementation of the Plan; OSC (Sakurai dkt. 386), OSC Supp. (id. dkt. 399), and Sanctions Order (id. dkt. 407).

Based on the Debtors' Status Report (Sakurai dkt. 417), Debtors have failed to comply with the OSC, OSC Supp. and Sanctions Order. In addition, it appears that Debtors are refusing to sell the Las Vegas Property.

Based on the supplemental evidence (Sakurai dkt. 408), the tentative ruling is to award the Fresco Parties $10,371.50 in attorneys fees as compensatory sanctions (without prejudice to seeking additional amounts in future). In addition, the tentative ruling is to increase coercive sanctions to $200.00 per day against Debtors until they comply with this Court's prior orders.

Proposed orders: The Fresco Parties are directed to lodge proposed orders (one awarding interim compensatory sanctions, and one increasing the coercive sanctions) via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling for 4/30/19, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 10/16/17.

(a) Bar date: 1/17/18 (order timely served. dkt. 58, 59).

(b) Amended Joint Plan (dkt. 309): Confirmed (dkt. 365).

(1) Current Issues

(a) Implementation of the Plan; Order to Show Cause ("OSC," dkt. 386), and supplemental order ("OSC Supp," dkt. 399)

Debtors have not responded to the OSC (dkt. 386) or the OSC Supp (dkt. 399). The Fresco Parties have responded with a supplemental brief (dkt. 403) pointing out that this Court cannot appoint a chapter 11 trustee, but also recapping the disadvantages of conversion to chapter 7, and suggesting instead that (i) this Court should sanction Debtors, (ii) this Court should replace the current disbursing agent under the confirmed Plan, Mr. Aronson, with a new disbursing agent (the mechanism to choose such a person is not discussed), and (iii) this Court should vest that person with the power to execute documents to implement the Plan pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 1142(b):

1142. Implementation of plan

(b) The court may direct the debtor and any other necessary party to execute or deliver or to join in the execution or delivery of any instrument required to effect a transfer of property dealt with by a confirmed plan, and to perform any other act, including the satisfaction of any lien, that is necessary for the consummation of the plan.

The tentative ruling is to find that the individual Debtors are in contempt of court for each of the reasons stated in the OSC and the OSC Supp, and to award the compensatory, coercive, and punitive sanctions set forth below. As for issuing order(s) replacing the disbursing agent and vesting some person with power to execute documents and do other things necessary or appropriate to implement the Plan, this Court is concerned that such orders might exceed the scope of authority under section 1142(b), but similar relief might be available using other mechanisms, perhaps only after commencing an adversary proceeding or perhaps not, under Rules 70 and 71 (Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Rules 7001(7), 7070, 7071, and 9014(c), Fed. R. Bankr. P.). The parties are directed to address these issues at the hearing.

As for sanctions, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/14/19 for the Fresco Parties to file and serve their declaration(s) with attached timesheets, a deadline of 4/23/19 for Debtors and the U.S. Trustee to file and serve any responses, and any reply may be presented orally at the continued hearing. In addition, the tentative ruling is to impose coercive sanctions, payable to the Court, starting at $100 per day and continuing until Debtors comply with all of their obligations set forth in the OSC and the OSC Supp, all subject to being increased or otherwise adjusted at the continued hearing. In addition, the tentative ruling is to impose punitive sanctions of $2,500, payable to this Court, also subject to adjustment in future (either by this Court or by the District Court if punitive sanctions or other issues are before the District Court - because of the limitations on this Bankruptcy Court's ability to award any punitive sanctions, it may be necessary for the District Court to address that issue, which might be accomplished by a recommendation from this Court for withdrawal of the reference, perhaps only for that limited purpose, or which might be based on proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law by this Court, or any other mechanism that is appropriate). See In re Dyer, 322 F.3d 1178, 1195 (9th Cir. 2003); see also In re Count Liberty, LLC, 370 B.R. 259, 274 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2007).

The continued hearing on the OSC and the OSC Supp will be concurrent with the continued status conference set forth below.

Revised Tentative Ruling for 1/15/19:

Appearances Required

(1) Current Issues

(a) Final Fee Application for Debtor's Counsel (Checkmate, dkt. 249, 250, 253, 255, 257, 258, 261, 264; and Sakurai, dkt. 343, 346, 352, 355, 356, 363, 367)

The applications seek $350,846.10 (Checkmate) and $118,796.75 (Sakurai). This Court has allowed a total of $300,000, and set this continued hearing to address the balance of $169,642.85. See Interim Fee Orders (dkt. 261, Checkmate; dkt. 363, Sakurai).

The Fresco parties' objections note that this Court has on more than one occasion expressed grave concerns about whether these Debtors have adequately prosecuted these bankruptcy cases. Of course, this Court expects that counsel for the debtors would not in any way have participated in any attempts by these Debtors to mislead or obstruct creditors in these cases, but that is not the end of the inquiry.

On the one hand, when there are legitimate strategic or tactical reasons to chose among different courses of action, counsel for Debtors usually must act at their clients' direction, even if they might harbor some doubts about the efficacy of those choices. On the other hand, in addition to the ethical limits of what counsel may do at their clients' direction, counsel are only permitted "reasonable compensation for actual, necessary services" (11 U.S.C. 330(a)(1)(A) (emphasis added)), and in determining what compensation is reasonable this Court "shall consider the nature, the extent, and the value of such services, taking into account all relevant factors, including [among other things] whether the services were necessary to the administration of, or beneficial at the time at which the service was rendered toward the completion of, [these bankruptcy cases]."

In these cases there are open questions about (i) Debtors' own acts and omissions, and whether Debtors were or were not engaging in a lack of diligent prosecution of these cases or other misconduct, (ii) whether Debtors, if deposed or examined at trial on those issues, will or will not assert advice of counsel, and (iii) whether, regardless of the foregoing issues, counsel for Debtors can satisfy the above-referenced statutory requirements. For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that the Fresco parties must have a reasonable period of time in which to conduct discovery to investigate Debtors' apparent failures to prosecute these cases or other misconduct, and whether, in view of the results of any such discovery, the compensation sought by counsel for Debtors is for "necessary" services and is "reasonable" in dollar amount, given all of the facts and circumstances.

Meanwhile, although this Court recognizes that all interim compensation may be revisited in connection with any final award, the question is how much to award on an interim basis, and whether any disbursed funds must be held in trust. The tentative ruling is to award another $35,000 to counsel for Debtors, to be allocated pro rata in proportion to their outstanding fee requests, without requiring any portion of those funds to be held in trust, but also without prejudice to allowance of a greater or lesser final award.

The parties should be prepared to address the schedule for discovery on the issues outlined above. The tentative ruling is that a five month period is appropriate.

Then, in connection with any final fee award, or at such other time as this Court may later determine, the Fresco parties' objections can be revisited with the benefit of both (i) any discovery and (ii) any subsequent developments. For example, any additional disclosures and/or recoveries in the Fower/Radiology litigation might shed light on whether Debtors' and their counsel's strategies and tactics in dealing with those parties were appropriate at the time they were made. (This Court emphasizes that any subsequent developments would be relevant only to the extent they shed light on what was reasonable at the time the legal services were rendered - not for purposes of "20/20 hindsight.")

(a) Status report (dkt. 43, 45)

Debtors have not used the Local Form, which is mandatory in this case (see Judge Bason's posted procedures, available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov). The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 11/13/18 to file the form and serve it on the United States Trustee.

(b) Motion to Employ Debtors' Counsel (Dkt. 18)

Debtors have not adequately addressed the issues in this Court's interim order (dkt. 39). Although proposed counsel declares (dkt. 47) that he has "learned" (from unspecified hearsay) that Debtors' relatives have funded the $15,000 retainer as a gift, there is no declaration from the two alleged donors confirming this, and confirming all of their "connections" with all parties in interest and their attorneys and accountants (see dkt. 39, section 6.(a)), and their informed consent to potential or actual conflicts (id., sec. 6.(c)), and Debtors' informed consent (id., sec. 6.(d)). The tentative ruling is to continue this matter to the same time as the continued status conference (see below) and set a deadline of 11/13/18 to file appropriate declarations and serve them on the United States Trustee.

(c) MOR1 (Sept., 2018, dkt. 36)

Debtors report that they spent $1,350.43 in cash, with no breakdown and just a vague description about "personal expenses," "charitable contributions," etc. The tentative ruling is that any proposed order authorizing the proposed budget must include a prohibition on Debtors spending more than $50 cash on any one item or $250 cash in the aggregate per month without attaching photocopies of receipts.

Several insurance policies have expired or are about to (see dkt. 36, at PDF p.16). What are Debtors doing about that?

(d) Motion to Use Cash Collateral (dkt 20)

First, Debtors failed to lodge a proposed order authorizing the use of cash collateral on the terms set forth in the adopted Tentative Ruling for 10/16/18 (see calendar no. 20, 11/6/18 at 1:00 p.m., which includes a copy of that earlier tentative ruling). The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 11/13/18 to lodge that proposed order, with a copy of that tentative ruling attached.

Second, the original motion appears to have been superseded by an amended motion, which has not been separately filed and served but instead is attached as an exhibit to a supplemental declaration. See dkt. 29, Ex.B. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 11/13/18 to file and serve that

Third, the tentative ruling is that no order granting Debtors' motions regarding cash collateral shall be construed as endorsing the statements to which creditor Poser Investments, Inc. objects. See dkt. 23. Debtors are directed to make this clear in their proposed orders.

(b) Motion for Order Approving a Budget (Dkt. 11)

Grant on an interim basis, with a continued hearing at the same time as the continued status conference (see below). The tentative ruling is that Debtors' (late-filed) declaration (dkt. 29 & Ex.A) has adequately addressed this Court's concerns about charitable donations.

Please see tentative ruling in status conference (4/9/19, calendar no. 19 at 1:00 p.m.).

Tentative Ruling for 2/5/19:

Appearances required. This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (dkt. 9) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. Based on those documents it appears that both the plaintiff (Poser Investments, Inc., "Poser") and the Debtor-defendants agree that the four properties at issue either were never properly transferred or have been returned to Debtors, and either way they are now part of the bankruptcy estate. The principal remaining issues appear to be:

- (1) Will the other defendants contest that issue?
- (2) Does this Bankruptcy Court require jurisdiction over those other defendants (so as to enter a judgment against them, or at least against the interests that they previously asserted against the four properties), and if such jurisdiction is required, is such jurisdiction established by their appearance in the removed State Court action, or do they consent to in personam jurisdiction?
- (3) Does the underlying default judgment obtained by Poser's predecessor in interest against Debtors have a preclusive effect against the Debtor-defendants?
- (4) Does Poser have allowable secured claims against the four properties based on the lis pendens and abstracts of judgment?

The parties are directed to address whether there are different principal issues that this Court has not identified. In addition, the parties are directed to address why it would be necessary to have further discovery (in addition to what has already been conducted in the State Court) to address these issues. These appear likely to be resolved based on an application of the law to the undisputed facts, after briefing - e.g., motion(s) for summary judgment.

Meanwhile, it appears appropriate to order mandatory mediation, as set forth below.

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/19/19 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 12/10/18. The tentative ruling is not to set any deadlines (e.g., for cutoff of discovery) at this time, so as to provide time for mediation and/or motion(s) for summary judgment on potentially dispositive issues.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

#9.00 Hrg re: Motion for Order Dismissing Chapter 11
Case with Prejudice

Docket 12

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The tentative ruling is to grant the motion (dkt. 17) and dismiss this case with a permanent bar to being a debtor in bankruptcy (unless and until otherwise ordered by this Court) and with a concurrent bar (for the first 180 days) under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1). See 11 U.S.C. § 105(a), 109(g)(1), 349(a), 1307(a); and see In re Glover, 537 Fed.Appx. 741 (9th Cir. 2013) (affirming dismissal with a five-year bar to refiling under 11 U.S.C. § 105(a)); In re Leavitt, 171 F.3d 1219 (9th Cir. 1999) (affirming dismissal with prejudice based upon a finding of bad faith).

The reasons are as stated in the motion and in the joinder (dkt. 23-25) and because, given the appointment of a receiver over the subject property (dkt. 12-5, Ex. 8, at pp. 323-33) and the associated facts and circumstances, including the grounds for such appointment, and Debtor's prior bankruptcy case, it appears there is no realistic expectation of turnover by the receiver (11 U.S.C. 543) and no apparent purpose to this bankruptcy case.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Notes:

(1) Borrower, Mr. Sandoval

This Court is aware that, according to the sworn statement of Debtor's counsel, the original borrower, Mr. Sandoval, came into his office to find out what was happening; Debtor's counsel explained "hijacking" to him; and "Mr. Sandoval was in disbelief and explained that he had no knowledge of this." Dkt. 18, p.4, para.5.

This Court is empathetic to borrowers who may have been defrauded by so-called foreclosure prevention services, but as this Court has ruled in other cases, as between (a) a creditor who has been hindered, delayed, or defrauded, on the one hand, and (b) a borrower who chose the agent who did the hindering, delaying, or defrauding, on the other hand, it is the borrower who must bear the consequences (subject to suing the agent). In addition, as this Court has ruled in other cases, the borrower continues to have avenues for legitimate bankruptcy relief: the only change is that the burden of proof is on the borrower to show "charged circumstances" or "good cause" for doing so - which generally must include a realistic proposal for legitimate use of the bankruptcy system. See In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017).

(2) Hijacker, Premier Legal Services (per dkt.18 at end)

Counsel for the moving party is directed to attach a service list to the proposed order that this Court can use. Such service list should include not only herself but also Debtor, Mr. Sandoval, and the following address, so that whatever action might be appropriate can be taken against the (alleged) hijacker:

Ronald Moroko, Esq.
Office of the United States Trustee
915 Wilshire Blvd., Suite 1850
Los Angeles, CA 90017

TENTATIVE RULING:

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1), (d)(2), and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is not sufficient evidence and notice.

No prejudice to Debtor intended. Based on the record, it appears that this is a "hijacked" case, and that Debtor is innocent of any involvement. See e.g., In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017) (describing hijacking); In re Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) (same). Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to condition any relief from the automatic stay on this Court's determination that this motion shall not result in the application of sections 109(g)(2) and 362(b)(21)(A) to Debtor or any property other than the property that is the subject of this motion for relief from the automatic stay, and that by not contesting this tentative ruling the movant has waived and forfeited any contrary argument. See In re Leaffy, 479 B.R. 545, 550-51 (9th Cir. BAP 2012); In re Mendez, 367 B.R. 109, 116-17 (9th Cir. BAP 2007); In re Luna, 122 B.R. 575, 577 (9th Cir. BAP 1991); Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261, 270.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Appearances required. The parties should be prepared to address whether they will agree to the terms of an adequate protection order (see the secured creditor's response, dkt. 16). In addition, if this Court is persuaded to grant Debtor's motion, it will be granted subject to the following conditions.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions. Appearances are not required.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 5/7/19:

Appearances required. At the hearings on 12/18/18, 1/29/19 and 3/5/19, this Court was persuaded to continue this matter for a possible finalization of a loan modification. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address the status of the loan modification.

Tentative Ruling for 12/18/18:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Reason: At the 12/4/18 hearing, this Court set a deadline of 12/11/18 for Debtor to provide evidence in support of any further continuance and adequate protection, including evidence of the status of the attempted loan modification. Debtor did not file any evidence by the deadline.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

In view of the alleged equity in the property this Court grants the following limited relief to Debtor:

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

No foreclosure sale of the property may take place prior to 2/28/19.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address (a) whether the alleged arrears have been brought current and/or (b) whether they will agree to the terms of an adequate protection order (see the debtor's response, dkt. 42).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #27.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order
Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic
Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 16

Tentative Ruling:

Debtor's declaration regarding service (dkt. 22) appears to be insufficient. First, it only addresses notice via (1) telephone, which is not a recognized means of service, (2) fax, which is only permissible with consent, as noted in this Court's order shortening time ("OST," dkt. 18, last sentence), or (3) U.S. mail, which is contrary to the expedited means required by the OST. Second, in some instances the declaration does not state that an email actually was sent, only that it "will be" sent. See, e.g., dkt. 22, at PDF p.2:16. In addition, per the OST, this Court will hear any opposition at the hearing. Appearances required.

Additionally, for the reasons stated in the Order Shortening Time (the, "OST," dkt. 18), the tentative ruling is that counsel for Debtors is not permitted to charge any attorney fees (i) for any work in connection with the OST or (ii) for appearing at any hearing on the section 362(c)(3) motion. The tentative ruling is also to impose sanctions of $200.

If, notwithstanding the foregoing issues, this Court is persuaded to grant some form of relief, this Court anticipates that this Court will prepare the order and that any relief will include this Court's usual conditions:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

for Debtor to be able to file a written opposition with evidence and persuasive argument - e.g., evidence of an equity cushion providing adequate protection to movant, and Debtor's filing of a motion to sell the subject property to an

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4). To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

Tentative Ruling for 4/30/19:

Appearances required.

From the prior status report (adv. dkt. 50) it appears that the previously ordered deadlines (adv. dkt. 48) may need to be revised. The parties are directed to address that issue.

(1) Motion for summary judgment ("MSJ," adv.dkt. 43). Contrary to the posted Procedures of Judge Bason, Plaintiff self-calendared the MSJ. In addition, the MSJ is set for 10:00 a.m. (on 6/4/19), which is this Court's relief from stay calendar. The tentative ruling is to reschedule the hearing to 2:00 p.m. on 6/4/19.

Extended deadlines: Extend the discovery cutoff to 2/28/19 (per adv. dkt. 38, p.2:7-9), with an extension of the same number of days for the other remaining deadlines in this Court's scheduling order (adv. dkt. 34) (i.e., the deadline for exchange of any expert reports, and for any hearing on any dispositive motions). In addition, add a deadline for the close of discovery from experts (depositions etc.) two weeks after their reports are due. advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

The parties requested a brief continuance of this status conference from 2/27/18 to today's date (see Joint Status Report, adv. dkt. 10). At the status conference on 1/23/18 there was no appearance for the plaintiff, and this Court was persuaded that it was premature to adopt the deadlines stated in the tentative ruling for that status conference (reproduced below). There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to discuss the status of this case.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 2/27/18:

Continue to 3/6/18 at 11:00 a.m. Appearances are not required on 2/27/18.

Reasons: At the status conference on 1/23/18 there was no appearance for the plaintiff, and this Court was persuaded that it was premature to adopt the deadlines stated in the tentative ruling for that status conference (reproduced below). The plaintiff and one defendant (the debtor) have now filed a joint status report (adv. dkt. 10) requesting a brief continuance.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Appearances required. The court has reviewed the parties' filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The parties must address why they failed to file the required status report, and also the following issues. The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences.

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority. The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/6/18 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines/dates: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 11/21/17. The tentative ruling is to set the following deadlines/dates. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to serve and lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/7/19 (same as for 2/26/19):

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address the status of the appeal in the civil matter.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 10/9/18:

The plaintiff mis-filed the status report in the main case (main case dkt. 42) instead of this adversary proceeding. The plaintiff also failed to lodge a proposed order continuing this matter (using this Court's "LOU" program), and instead attached it to the status report.

Notwithstanding these errors, the tentative ruling is to continue this Status Conference to 12/18/18 at 11:00 a.m. Plaintiff is directed to file the next status report in this adversary proceeding (not in the main case) no later than 12/4/18. Appearances are not required on 10/9/18.

Tentative Ruling for 6/12/18:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

This matter has been continued multiple times (see tentative rulings reproduced below, and see Order, adv. dkt. 18). At the 2/27/18 hearing, this court further continued the hearing to today's date and directed plaintiff to give written notice. No such notice appears to have been filed on the docket. Why not?

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address the issues described in the tentative ruling for 2/27/18.

(1) Failure to file a status report. Why did the plaintiff not file a status report updating the Court as to the status of the pending state court litigation (adv. dkt. 4)? Should this Court issue an order to show cause based on plaintiff's disregard of this Court's order?

(2) Status of the state court litigation. What is the status of the state court litigation?

(3) Continued status conference. Assuming that the state court litigation is still pending, this Court intends to set a continued status conference for 11/8/16 at 11:00 a.m. The plaintiff must file a brief status report detailing the current status of the state court litigation by 10/25/16.

Preliminary matters:

(1) No status report

The parties have failed to file any joint status report. Why not?

(2) Stay all proceedings pending mediation

This Court has reviewed the filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. This Court notes that a Default was entered in this case on 2/7/19 (dkt. 5); Defendant/Debtor then filed an answer on 2/8/19 (dkt. 6); Plaintiff then filed a Motion for Default Judgment on 2/11/19 (dkt. 8), which is set for hearing on 3/26/19 at 11:00 a.m. The tentative ruling is to stay all proceedings and order mandatory mediation.

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented.

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? #1.00 Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues

(a) Budget motion; Bankruptcy Schedule I

Debtor's status report (dkt. 19) anticipates that a budget motion will have been filed already, but as of the preparation of this tentative ruling none has been filed. Debtor has also ignored the instructions on Bankruptcy Schedule I, line 8a (dkt. 20 at PDF p.8) to "Attach a statement for each ... business showing gross receipts, ordinary and necessary business expenses, and the total monthly net income" from the business. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 5/10/19 for filing and serving the budget motion and filing an amended Schedule I.

(b) UST compliance

Is Debtor now in compliance with the requirements of the Office of the United States Trustee ("UST")?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 4/11/19.

(a) Bar date: 7/23/19 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD

(c) Continued status conference: 6/4/19 at 1:00 p.m., brief status report due 5/28/19.

12/11/18; 04/30/19

Docket 9

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/7/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) UST's motion to dismiss (or convert) (dkt. 96)

Both the motion of the United States Trustee ("UST") and Debtor's response (dkt. 109) favor dismissal. The IRS' response (dkt. 108) favors conversion to chapter 7, and raises the possibility that Debtor's home has enough value that a chapter 7 trustee would be able to sell Debtor's residence and pay all secured claims and costs of administration.

The tentative ruling is to convert this case to chapter 7 - not exactly for the reasons advanced by the IRS, but for the following reasons. The starting point is that the statute directs this Court to decide as between dismissal and conversion based on the "best interests of creditors and the estate." 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(1).

(i) In favor of dismissal

Debtor is correct in arguing (dkt. 109) that the IRS offers no admissible evidence of any equity that could be used to pay costs of chapter 7 administration. The IRS asserts:

While the Zillow, Redfin, and Realtor valuations do not prove with certainty the value of the Property, see In re DeBilio, 2014 WL 4476585, at *7 (9th Cir. BAP Sept. 11, 2014), the consistently higher value indicates that the actual value of the the real property is likely higher than what was stated in the Debtor's Schedules.

[Dkt. 108, p.2:24-27]

But the BAP held:

Zillow, however, does not constitute credible evidence of value. See In re Phillips, 491 B.R.

Chapter 11

255, 260 n.7 (Bankr. D. Nev. 2013) (zillow website is inherently unreliable and is inadmissible as evidence). [DeBilio (slip opinion, p.16:13-16) (emphasis added)]

In contrast, Debtor as the owner of the property is competent to opine as to value, and she has done so in her sworn bankruptcy schedules. Therefore, on the present record, there is no equity in the property.

Moreover, even if there were any equity value, debtor might be able to claim a homestead exemption in that equity. True, she has not done so in her filed Bankruptcy Schedule C (dkt. 16 at PDF pp. 26-27), but she appears to be able to amend her exemptions under Rule 1009(a). That makes it even less likely that there would be any net equity in the property.

(ii) In favor of conversion

Even under Debtor's valuation the IRS' lien appears to have a secured claim (in fact, it appears to be fully secured). Therefore, under 11 U.S.C. 507(a)(2) and 724(b)(2), it will be possible to pay costs of administration out of the IRS' lien (and perhaps a distribution to unsecured creditors), even if the property is not as valuable as the IRS supposes it might be.

Alternatively, supposing for the sake of discussion that section 724(b)(2) were inapplicable for some reason, a lack of equity in the property would not necessarily mean that dismissal is better than conversion. Dismissal might let every creditor (secured and unsecured) pursue its own interests, but that can lead to inefficient and inequitable competition among creditors.

In contrast, conversion appears to be better if any secured creditor indicates a willingness to agree to a voluntary carve-out to pay costs of administration (and perhaps something for other creditors, which at least some courts require - Judge Bason has not ruled on that issue). In other words, if there is a voluntary carve-out then a sale could occur in chapter 7, and that would appear to be in the best interests of creditors and the estate. This Court takes judicial notice that the IRS has agree to a voluntary carve-out in favor of unsecured creditors in at least one other case before Judge Bason.

Debtor notes that only secured creditors have filed proofs of claim, but that is not persuasive. A substantial number and dollar amount of unsecured claims are listed on Debtor's bankruptcy schedules and would have the opportunity to file proofs of claim after conversion. See dkt. 16, at PDF pp. 32-39, and see 11 U.S.C. 1111(a) and Rule 1019(2)(A) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

Chapter 11

Of course, this alternative reasoning depends on a secured creditor's willingness to agree to a carve-out that is acceptable to a chapter 7 trustee (and acceptable to this Court, if approval of this Court is required). But on this record it appears that conversion would involve few costs (a chapter 7 trustee could quickly and cheaply estimate the value of the property and/or negotiate a carve-out) and the potential up-side appears to outweigh those few costs.

For all of these reasons, conversion appears to be in the best interest of creditors.

about her current and future projected income, the tentative ruling is to vacate the prior deadline to file these documents, and set a new deadline at a future status conference, with the caveat that if the debtor fails to show sufficient diligence in obtaining employment and/or if the estate suffers any substantial losses then this Court might have to dismiss or convert this case.

Tentative Ruling for 4/10/18:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor herself.

(1) Current issues. This Court has reviewed the debtor's status report (dkt. 19), the response (dkt. 23) filed by creditor Strategic Acquisitions, Inc. ("Strategic"), and the other filed documents and records in this case.

(a) Prior failed case. The debtor's husband's prior case (no. 17-bk-19071-NB) was a chapter 13 case that was dismissed on 10/13/17 with a 180-day bar to re-filing for failure to make plan payments or appear at the meeting of creditors (11 U.S.C. 341(a)).

(b) Budget Motion (dkt. 21). First, as Strategic points out, the debtor's bankruptcy Schedule I, line 8a, lists $6,220/mo. of net income from "rental property and from operating a business, profession, or farm" but fails to follow the instructions to "[a]ttach a statement for each property and business showing gross receipts, ordinary and necessary business expenses, and the total net monthly income." In addition, as Strategic points out, the debtor may be failing to account for the payment of real property taxes and perhaps also income taxes, and therefore it is not at all clear how the debtor will be able to fund any plan of reorganization.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/17/18 for the debtor to file declaration(s) (i) attaching the statement(s) required by the line 8a instructions, (ii) providing complete explanations of any other sources of income (e.g., how long does the debtor anticipate continuing to receive disability payments? does the debtor anticipate returning to employment, and if so, when?), (iii) explaining whether the debtor is accounting for real estate taxes and income taxes, (iv) explaining how the debtor anticipates generating sufficient income to fund a plan of reorganization, and (v) attaching historical monthly accounts for the period of one year prepetition through 3/31/18.

Second, bankruptcy Schedule J (attached to the budget motion), lines 17c and 17d, list payments to Strategic of $1,750/mo. and to Ropers Majeski of $500/mo. The tentative ruling is to treat those payments as adequate protection payments on account of claims that appear to be secured claims, conditioned on return of such payments in the event that such security interests or claims are avoided or otherwise disallowed.

Third, notice of the motion and the deadline for objections is inadequate. The proof of service fails to attach a service list of creditors, and the debtor checked the box directing creditors to file any oppositions within 14 days' from the date of the proof of service (3/27/18), which would be the date of this hearing. Nevertheless, despite the lack of adequate service or notice, the tentative ruling is that on the present record it appears that it would be more prejudicial to creditors to prevent the debtors from making their proposed expenditures than to permit those expenditures, so the tentative ruling is to grant the budget motion on an interim basis, subject to any objections at a continued hearing simultaneous with the continued status conference date set forth below. This court has selected a continued hearing date that contemplates shortened notice (per Rule 9006, Fed. R. Bankr. P.), but that date is conditioned upon the debtor serving the motion on the entire creditor matrix the day after the current hearing date.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 3/13/18.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/7/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of Baker 26, LLC ("Baker") to dismiss case (the "MTD," dkt. 117-131), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 138), and Baker's reply (dkt. 152)

Dismiss this case, without a bar. Under 11 U.S.C. 1112(b) this Court "shall" dismiss (or convert) this case for cause, with only limited exceptions. There does not appear to be any argument that conversion is practical, so the question is whether to dismiss.

(i) Insurance

One type of "cause" to dismiss is "failure to maintain appropriate insurance that poses a risk to the estate or to the public." 11 U.S.C. 1112(b) (4)(C). The MTD points out that Debtor's insurance is expiring very soon, and that there is no evidence of Debtor's financial ability to renew its insurance, or an insurer's willingness to do so. In response, Debtor asserts only that it currently has insurance - which is expiring on 5/25/19. See dkt. 138, at PDF p.17, para.27, and Ex.4 at PDF p.33. That is insufficient.

Debtor asserts (dkt. 138, at PDF p.17, para.28) that it is "finalizing" negotiations with prospective purchasers and intends to bring both a motion to sell the hotel property and an application to employ its real estate broker by the time of this hearing on the MTD. Theoretically, a pending sale might be one way of taking care of the insurance issue, because it might be grounds for this Court to find and specifically identify "unusual circumstances" establishing that dismissing this case is not in the best interests of creditors and the estate, if Debtor can establish "a reasonable likelihood that a plan will be confirmed ... within a reasonable period of time" and if Debtor establishes "reasonable justification" for the apparent failure to arrange for future insurance and establishes that insurance will be obtained "within a reasonable period of time fixed by the court." 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(2). Presumably, the method of curing the lack of insurance from 5/25/19 forward would be that the purchaser would pay for that insurance; and presumably the proposed "plan" would be essentially to provide for distributing the proceeds of a sale under 11 U.S.C. 363.

The main problem with all of this is that Debtor is out of time: no application to employ any broker has been filed (let alone approved); and no 363 sale motion has been filed (let alone granted). That application and sale motion cannot reasonably be expected to be filed, served, heard, and granted, and the sale itself cannot be expected to close, all in the next two weeks and three days (before the existing insurance expires on 5/25/19).

Conceivably, Debtor's principal, Ms. Rhonda Chung, might be willing and able to fund the insurance (using funds from her 401(k) retirement account, or some other source, as she has done with some other expenses in the past). But Debtor has not suggested that any such funding is forthcoming; Debtor's principal apparently has not lived up to her commitment to pay real estate taxes (see below) so any mere promise to pay insurance would be inadequate on the present record; and in any event Debtor has not provided any evidence that an insurer is ready, willing, and able to extend future insurance.

For all of these reasons, it appears that this Court has no choice. Congress has directed that this Court "shall" dismiss this case due to "failure to maintain" appropriate insurance. 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(C).

(ii) Taxes, adequate protection payments, losses, and management

Other types of cause for dismissal include failure to pay postpetition taxes, "gross mismanagement," failure to comply with an order of the court, or "substantial or continuing loss to or diminution of the estate and the absence of a reasonable likelihood of rehabilitation." 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(I), (A), (B) & (E). The MTD alleges that Debtor has failed to pay postpetition taxes (see dkt. 131, p.3, para.7) and Debtor has not contested that issue (although, as noted above, Debtor's principal had promised to fund tax payments - see tentative ruling for 11/27/18, part "(1)(a)," reproduced below).

The MTD also alleges that Debtor has failed to pay several required "adequate protection" payments to Baker (or its predecessor in interest). See dkt. 131, pp. 4:27-5:16. Again, Debtor has not contested that issue.

As for "gross mismanagement" or "substantial or continuing loss" or "diminution," this Court previously has expressed concerns (both at hearings and in the tentative ruling for 2/5/19, part "(1)(a)," reproduced below). The MTD alleges (dkt. 131, p.4:1-21) that Debtor has lost over $44,000 since this case was filed on 10/14/18, despite approximately $41,000 in cash infusions by Debtor's principal. Again, Debtor has not contested this issue.

True, Debtor has shown a modest amount of improvement recently. In addition, this Court is not persuaded that a sale of property can never be a "rehabilitation" - to the contrary, Debtor alleges that it has engaged in both physical rehabilitation (repairing the premises, installing safety equipment, etc.) and management rehabilitation (terminating management that was embezzling, restoring online booking services, etc.), so the most significant issues appear to be (A) whether there is a "reasonable" likelihood that taxes will be paid and that the (modest) recent progress will offset the prior losses, and (B) whether there is sufficient "justification" (under 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(2)(B)(i)) for prior failure to pay taxes, mismanagement, losses, and failure to comply with the budget approved by this Court's orders.

On the present record, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has not met its burden to provide evidence of those things. Debtor offers no justification for its principal not living up to her commitment to pay real estate taxes or for postpetition mismanagement by current management; and as noted above there is no section 363 sale motion on file, pursuant to which a purchaser might cure that non-payment or, perhaps, cure other issues.

Tentative Ruling for 2/5/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Finances (MOR #3, Dec. 2018, dkt. 71; Decl. dkt. 75)

Debtor's recently reported finances are dismal, as noted in the tentative ruling for 1/8/19. It appears that Debtor's occupancy rate is less than half of what was projected (which is itself less than half of available rooms), and that Debtor is failing to pay some franchise fees, utilities, housekeeping expenses, and other items.

Debtor blames outages in its online booking services, but as noted in the limited opposition to extending exclusivity (dkt. 78) filed by First Choice Bank, Debtor's behavior in the face of problems with online booking is puzzling. Why did Debtor not proactively contact the online booking agencies around the time it filed its bankruptcy petition? Why did Debtor not monitor its own finances sufficiently to realize that those agencies had not been paid? Debtor asserts that it was given no advance notice, but that seems highly unusual, so where is evidence of the telephone calls, emails, and letters immediately reacting, objecting to being cut off with no prior notice, and offering immediate payment of any missed bills? This Court takes judicial notice that the booking agencies are large enough to be familiar names, and presumably they have experienced hotel bankruptcies before, so what reasons did they give for their alleged lack of notice and over-reaction? As the bank suggests, the outages in booking were long enough that one would expect Debtor to have made repeated and considerable efforts to resolve the situation, possibly including meetings in person, but there is no evidence of that.

All of the foregoing suggests "gross mismanagement" of the estate, which is one possible basis to dismiss or convert this case. 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(B). The facts recited above also appear to constitute a "substantial" loss or diminution of the estate, and calls into question whether there is a "reasonable likelihood of rehabilitation." 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(A). In addition, these facts call into question whether Debtor will be able to meet the feasibility test for any proposed plan. 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(11).

The parties are directed to address whether this case should be dismissed or converted.

(b) Alleged infusions

There have been promises during this case that cash infusions would be made by Debtor's principal, Rhonda Chung. The Status Report (dkt. 79, p.4:8-21) alludes to some, but the precise dollars amounts are generally unclear, as are the dates, and precisely how those dollars been used. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/12/19 (if this case is not dismissed) for Ms. Chung to file a declaration, with attached evidence, addressing each of these things.

(c) Employment of bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 47, 51, 56, 67, 68, 71)

Have the objections of the United States Trustee (dkt. 51) been resolved?

(c) Motion to Extend Exclusivity Periods (dkt. 73)

(1) Current issues.

Debtor's status report (dkt. 72) attempts to put the best face on a dismal record of recent operations. Should this Court set deadlines to sell the estate's property/business, or impose other performance metrics and establish consequences for failure to satisfy those metrics?

Tentative Ruling for 11/27/18:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Cash collateral motion (dkt. 4). This Court has reviewed the supplemental declarations of Kenneth Chung and Rhonda Chung (dkt. 38). Those declarations provide that in the event Debtor lacks the funds necessary to make the required property tax payments, Rhonda Chung will "personally pay any short fall [o]f the Debtor to pay these taxes or, any portion of those taxes, if any, that has not otherwise been approved by the Court as an authorized Cash Collateral expense." (Rhonda Chung decl, para. 7). Would these funds be a loan or a gift? Is Rhonda Chung financially able to provide such a sum?

(b) Creditor First Choice Bank reporting requests: In its opposition to the cash collatera motion, First Choice Bank requests that Debtor be required to provide additional reporting to insure cash collateral is not misued (dkt. 58). Does Debtor object to any of these recommendations? If so, on what grounds?

(c) Order on cash collateral. Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed final order approving the use of cash collateral, incorporating the terms of the interim order plus any additional requirements as noted above, via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(d) Utility motion. Debtor's status report (dkt. 49) states that this motion will be withdraw, either orally or in writing. Debtor should file a written withdrawal, so that the docket is clear.

(a) Cash collateral motion (dkt.4). Subject to any objections at the hearing, the tentative ruling is to authorize the use of cash collateral to a limited extent, on a further interim basis, with a final hearing at the same time as the continued status conference (see below). What specific use of cash is authorized will depend on any supplement filed prior to the hearing and how the debtor and other parties in interest address the following issues: (i) payment of employment taxes and other withholdings, (ii) payment of income taxes, (iii) payment of sales taxes on room rentals, as well as on food, beverages, and other taxable items, and (iv) adequacy of cash flow, both actual and projected.

(a) Payroll motion (dkt. 5). As noted in this Court's order setting this hearing (dkt. 10), this Court is concerned about whether this is a self-created emergency. In addition, the parties should be prepared to address the jobs of each person who is proposed to be paid (dkt. 7, Ex.6), whether any of them are "insiders" (11 U.S.C. 101(31)), and how they will be paid if the checks do not clear and other sources of revenue do not come through. Subject to adequately addressing those issues, and (1) confirming notice per this Court's order shortening time (dkt. 10), (2) addressing this Court's concerns in that order, and (3) any objections at the hearing, the tentative ruling is to grant this motion.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this court's final ruling. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(b) Cash collateral motion (dkt.4). The tentative ruling is to grant this motion, subject to the caveats set forth in the tentative ruling for calendar no. 2 (10/17/18 at 9:00 a.m.).

Tentative Ruling for 11/14/17:

Continue to 2/13/18 at 1:00 p.m. in view of the debtor's post-confirmation status report (dkt. 142). Appearances are not required on 11/14/17.

If you wish to dispute the above tentative ruling, please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings".

Tentative Ruling for 8/15/17:

Appearances required. The debtor's counsel should be prepared to address the issues set forth below.

Proposed order: If this court is persuaded to adopt this tentative ruling, then counsel for the debtor is directed to serve and lodge proposed orders (a) approving the disclosure statement (dkt. 101) on a final basis and (b) confirming the plan (dkt. 102), all as amended by the stipulation with class 2A (dkt. 127, 128). Those proposed orders must be lodged via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date.

(1) Ballot Summary. The debtor's ballot summary (dkt. 131) appears to be inaccurate and internally inconsistent. Although the ballots and stipulation attached to the ballot summary show acceptance by 100% in both dollar amount and number of the claims actually voted or deemed to have been voted in classes 2A, 2B and 4A, and no vote by Class 2C, the ballot summary makes assertions that are not consistent with those ballots, namely:

(a) Cramdown: The ballot summary asserts that the debtor is not requesting cramdown (dkt. 131, item 3), even though the lack of an affirmative vote in class 2C means that the debtor does not satisfy 11 U.S.C.

1129(a)(8) and therefore must seek cramdown under 11 U.S.C. 1129(b);

(b) Accepting classes: The ballot summary asserts that only class 4A has voted to accept the plan (dkt. 131, item 6), even though classes 2A and 2B have also accepted the plan; and

(c) Page 2 of the Ballot Summary: The chart on page 2 of the ballot summary (dkt. 131, p.2, top line of chart) fails to show that Class 2A has accepted the plan by 100% in number of claims deemed to have been voted (not just 100% in amount). In addition, it would have been helpful if the ballot summary's "Comments" following that chart had explained that (i) Portfolio Recovery Associates is Class 2C (even though it is listed as LA County Tax Collector in the Plan), (ii) U.S. Bank is Class 2A (even though it is listed as Wells Fargo in the Plan), and (iii) Class 2A is deemed to have voted in favor of the plan under its court-approved stipulation, even though it did not actually cast a ballot. (If any of the foregoing is incorrect then counsel for the debtor must correct those issues at the hearing.)

(2) Status report

The debtor's status report (dkt. 130) misleadingly asserts that this court's order (dkt. 106) previously approved the disclosure statement (dkt. 101), whereas in fact this court only granted preliminary approval for purposes of this combined hearing on whether to approve the disclosure statement (dkt. 101) and confirm the plan (dkt. 102).

(3) Confirmation. Notwithstanding the foregoing, it appears that the debtor's disclosure statement (dkt. 101) should be approved, and that the chapter 11 plan (dkt. 102), as amended by the debtor's stipulation with the holder of the class 2A claim (dkt. 127, 128), has met the requirements for confirmation under 11 U.S.C. 1129(a) & (b).

(4) Correction. This court notes that the tentative ruling for 6/20/17 (reproduced below) was in error in asserting that "[at] the status conference on 5/23/17 this court set a deadline of 6/6/17 to file an amended plan and disclosure statement." In fact, this court was persuaded at that status conference not to impose that deadline.

disposition at this hearing.

Chapter 11

Tentative Ruling for 6/20/17:

Continue to 8/8/17 at 1:00 p.m. (without the need for any written status report), but impose sanctions of $200 on counsel for the debtor, for the reasons set forth below. Appearances are not required on 6/20/17.

At the status conference on 5/23/17 this court set a deadline of 6/6/17 to file an amended plan and disclosure statement. On 6/15/17, after this court had already prepared a tentative ruling for this status conference, counsel for the debtor filed a stipulation (dkt. 117) and lodged a proposed order for yet another continuance of the confirmation hearing. At no point did counsel telephone chambers to suggest that counsel expected or was attempting to arrange for such a continuance. Moreover, as set forth in the tentative rulings reproduced below, this case has a long history of missed deadlines, last minute filings, and deficient documents.

This court recognizes that to a large extent counsel cannot control delays by a debtor and debtor in possession, and not infrequently a debtor is simply incapable of meeting all of the debtor's obligations. Nevertheless, this court has noted that counsel of record in this case has a pattern, in this and other cases (e.g., In re Barragan, 2:15-bk-29156-NB), of filing late and inadequate documents, and that pattern is not matched by the vast majority of other counsel who appear before this court. All of that strongly suggests that counsel bears some responsibility for those deficiencies, and that imposes substantial burdens on this court, the U.S. Trustee, and any other parties in interest who may be monitoring or involved in such bankruptcy cases. The tentative ruling is that this warrants sanctions under this court's inherent powers and 11 U.S.C. 105. Counsel is also cautioned that this court anticipates issuing similar or increased sanctions if this pattern continues in other cases in future.

If you wish to dispute the above tentative ruling, please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings".

are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

The ballot summary was due 5/16/17 but was not filed until 5/22/17 at 4:12 p.m. In addition, it is internally inconsistent. What remedies are appropriate?

The plan (dkt. 102) has not been accepted by any class. This is the debtor's second bankruptcy case, and it has been pending for over a year. The debtor's lack of progress for that long a period of time suggests a willful delay. Should this court dismiss or convert this case? Should this court impose a bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy for the third time in a row?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 4/20/16. If this case is not dismissed or converted, the tentative ruling is to hold a continued status conference on 6/20/17 at 1:00 p.m. with a deadline of 6/6/17 to file (but NOT serve) yet another amended plan and disclosure statement.

If you do not appear, and the matter is not adequately resolved by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 5/23/17:

Tentative Ruling for 4/11/17:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues.

(a) UST compliance and adequate protection payments. What is the status?

(b) Plan (dkt. 101) and Disclosure Statement (dkt. 102). 4/14/17 deadline to lodge Judge Bason's form of order authorizing service of the voting package, setting deadlines, and setting a combined hearing on final approval of the Disclosure Statement and confirmation of the Plan for the

Revised Tentative Ruling for 2/28/17:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues.

(a) U.S. Trustee notice of non-compliance. Has the debtor cured the reporting delinquency noted by the U.S. Trustee regarding lack of insurance (dkt. 94)?

(b) Adequate protection payments. At the hearing on 1/10/17 counsel for the debtor assured this court that the debtor had cured the postpetition delinquency in adequate protection payments. But the monthly operating report for January 2017 (dkt. 95, filed 2/7/17, at p.4) continues to list 4 missed payments for a total of $6,972 delinquency. What was the basis for counsel's misrepresentation to this court? Should this court require counsel and the debtor to testify on that issue, and on the prospects for future income, before this court can find that the plan is feasible (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(11))? Should this misrepresentation have any other consequences?

(c) Plan (dkt. 82) and Disclosure Statement (dkt. 81). The debtor's ballot summary was due to be filed no later than 2/21/17 (dkt. 89). Instead the debtor's counsel has filed a declaration (dkt. 96) asserting that a ballot in favor of the plan has been received by class "6b," even though no such class is listed in the plan (see dkt. 82, Ex.A), and requesting more time to receive ballots from classes 2a and 2b, even though the deadline for ballots has

Tentative Ruling for 1/10/17:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues.

(a) Payments to secured creditor Wells Fargo. The debtor's November 2016 MOR reflects that the debtor has not made 4 monthly payments to secured creditor Wells Fargo. See dkt. 84, PDF p. 7. Is that accurate, or did the debtor intend to state that those payments were made?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 4/20/16.

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor, but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Amended Chapter 11 Plan and Disclosure Statement (dkt. 74, 75).

There are issues with these documents which this Bankruptcy Court will review orally at the hearing.

(b) Monthly operating reports. The debtor's court approved budget (dkt. 19) and the budget attached to her amended chapter 11 disclosure statement (dkt. 74, PDF p. 13) show various typical monthly expenses such as transportation costs, utilities, and food. The expenses included in her budgets submitted to this court are either not reflected in her MORs for August and September 2016 (dkt. 65 and 73, respectively) or are reflected, but in much smaller amounts than budgeted. Is the debtor reporting all of her monthly expenses in her MORs? If not, why not?

Additionally, the MORs appear to reflect that the debtor is receiving less than her budgeted monthly income ($1,800/mo.) from her job as a real estate professional. In August 2016, the debtor reported receipts of $970.01;

Based on the reporting in the debtor's two most recent MORs, this court is concerned that the debtor may not have sufficient disposable income with which to fund her proposed chapter 11 plan.

(1) Current issues

(a) Chapter 11 Plan and Disclosure Statement (dkt. 59, 58). There are numerous issues with these documents, which this Bankruptcy Court will review orally at the hearing.

(b) Orders on budget and cash collateral motions. On July 19, 2016, this court held continued hearings on the debtor's motion for use of cash collateral (dkt. 18) and budget motion (dkt. 19). The motions were granted on a final basis, and the court's adopted tentative ruling directed the debtor to lodge proposed orders on those motions within seven days of the hearing date. This court has reviewed the case docket and its pending lodged orders, and it appears no such orders have been lodged.

Tentative Ruling for 5/31/16:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves

(1) Current issues. This Court has reviewed the debtor's status report (dkt. 23).

(a) Prior failed case. The debtor's prior case (no. 2:14-bk-14065-NB) was a chapter 13 case that was dismissed because of plan infeasibility due to the objections by Wells Fargo, and claims by the IRS, FTB, and L.A. County Tax Collector.

(b) Debtor's real property

(i) Inconsistent rental income amount. This Court notes that the debtor's amended schedule G reflects a monthly rental of $2,200 (dkt. 13, p.10), which was originally listed as $1,500 per month (dkt. 1, p.36). However, the debtor's original schedule I originally listed the debtor's net income from rental property as $2,400 (dkt. 1, p.39). The debtor's amended schedule I now lists net income from rental property as $2,200 (dkt. 13, p.12). Although the rental income now appears to be consistent at $2,200, and schedule G reflects the same lessee, Smark Lyles, is this the correct amount?

(ii) Schedule I. Part 8.a. requires that the debtor attach a statement for each property and business showing gross receipts, ordinary and necessary business expenses, and the total monthly net income.

(iii) Motion to Value. The debtor's status report indicates that the debtor intends to file a motion to value the real property. When does the debtor anticipate filing the motion to value?

(c) UST compliance. The United States Trustee has filed a motion to dismiss or convert (dkt. 24). Although the matter has been set for hearing on 6/21/16, the debtor should be prepared to address more generally, why this case in chapter 11 instead of chapter 13. It appears that the debtor is within the debt limits for chapter 13, and chapter 11 typically is far more expensive, so it seems doubtful that the debtor needs or can afford a chapter 11 case.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 4/20/16.

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: file by 8/19/16 using the forms required by Judge Bason (DO NOT SERVE yet, except on the U.S. Trustee - the court will set a deadline and procedures at a later time). This Court is aware that the debtor has requested a much later deadline (dkt. 23, p.4) but this Court is not aware of any reason why so much time is needed. The debtor should be negotiating with secured creditors and other key constituencies already.

(c) Continued status conference: 7/19/16 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report is required.

Chapter 11

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(1) Background

Movant previously filed a motion (dkt. 8) for relief from the automatic stay in this case. This Court issued an adequate protection order (dkt. 31, the "APO"). The APO provides that the stay will remain in place as long as Debtor makes adequate protection payments, but that the stay will not apply in any future bankruptcy case ("in rem" relief).

(2) Alleged cause for relief under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1)&(4)

(a) Insurance

Movant asserts that Debtor has failed to provide proof that the property is insured. See dkt. 78, p.3. Debtor's response (dkt. 83) fails to address this issue, as pointed out by Movant's reply (dkt. 85).

At the hearing, Debtor is directed to address whether the property is insured, and to make an offer of proof. This Court may be persuaded to terminate the automatic stay immediately if Debtor fails to provide adequate proof of insurance that complies with the loan documents (e.g., naming Movant as a party entitled to notice and/or as an insured party, if that is what the loan documents require).

(b) Order for relief from the stay in a related case

Movant now seeks relief again, pointing out that since the APO was issued an order granting relief from the automatic stay has been issued in a case filed by Debtor's principal and 100% equity owner, Sergio Moreno Morales. See In re Morales (Case No. 2:18-bk-16365-WB), dkt. 31 (issued on 7/3/18) (the "In Rem Order"). The In Rem Order grants relief under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) - i.e., relief that is applicable notwithstanding any future bankruptcy case. By definition the In Rem Order is not applicable to this pending bankruptcy case, but Movant apparently believes the issuance of that order should be considered cause under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1)&(4) to modify the APO so as to terminate the automatic stay immediately.

This Court is not persuaded. First, as Debtor points, in this case there is no evidence that Debtor has failed to comply with the APO.

Second, the In Rem Order itself recites that there was no opposition to that order. In contrast, in this case Debtor has responded and adequately established, long before the In Rem Order was issued, that there were grounds to hold Debtor to a strict APO but not terminate the stay.

To summarize this Court's prior reasoning in issuing the APO, although it is true that Mr. Morales has filed multiple bankruptcy cases and previously arranged an unauthorized transfer of title to the real property from Debtor to himself, (a) title was restored to Debtor on or about 6/1/18 (see dkt. 21, p.4:5-6), (b) Mr. Morales has adequately explained his prior bankruptcy cases and the unauthorized transfer of title, at least for purposes of issuing the APO rather than terminating the automatic stay (see dkt. 21, pp.4:9-5:21, and 7:12-10:22), and (c) creditors would be harmed if the stay were terminated in this case. Not only does this reasoning still apply, but the APO is the law of this case, and Movant has neither briefed the standards for overcoming the law of the case nor established legal or factual grounds for reconsidering the APO.

As Debtor argues, Movant must show both (a) a lack of equity in the property and (b) that the property is not necessary for an effective reorganization. Debtor disputes both of these prongs. Ultimately, however, both parties' arguments depend on whether there is equity in the property. If there is, then the property can be sold and net proceeds distributed to creditors. If there is no equity, Debtor has not suggested any reason why the property would be necessary to an effective reorganization.

Any equity in the property is equal to the property's value minus costs of sale and liens or other encumbrances. Debtor questions whether the dollar amount that Movant claims to be owed on its lien takes into consideration the payments made under the APO. That may make a difference of a few thousand dollars. The larger issue is the value of the property.

Movant asserts that the value is $750,000. See dkt. 78, p.8 & Ex.M, and dkt. 85 at PDF pp.11 et seq. (Mauch Decl.). Debtor's principal asserts (dkt. 83, pp.9:20-10:2) that Debtor has recently accepted an offer to purchase the property for $850,000, for which he will seek this Court's approval under 11 U.S.C. 363(b)&(f). Debtor's principal also asserts (id.) that he believes the property is actually worth much more - approximately $915,000 - but that "in the interest of moving Debtor's reorganization along and avoiding Movant's attempts at relief and foreclosure" he "has determined that it is in the best interest of the estate to accept a purchase price of $850,000.00."

Chapter 11

The tentative ruling is that the best method of determining whether Debtor has an equity in the property (and hence, in the circumstances of this case, whether the property is necessary to an effective reorganization of Debtor's finances) is to move forward with the proposed sale of the property (presumably subject to overbids). As the Supreme Court has stated, generally "the best way to determine value is exposure to a market." Bank of Am. v. 203 N. LaSalle St. P'ship, 526 U.S. 434, 457 (1999).

This Court takes judicial notice that Debtor has filed an application (dkt. 82) to employ a real estate broker. In other words, Debtor appears to be taking steps to proceed with the proposed sale of the property.

Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline for Debtor to file and serve its motion to sell the property under 11 U.S.C. 363(b)&(f), and defer any other issues until after this Court determines whether or not to approve the proposed sale. The tentative ruling is that a motion to sell must be filed and served no later than 2/1/19, and self-calendared for hearing on 2/26/19 at 1:00 p.m.

In addition, the tentative ruling is to continue the present motion for relief from the automatic stay to the same time (specially set at 1:00 p.m., rather than the usual time of 10:00 a.m.). In addition, the tentative ruling is to reschedule the upcoming Status Conference in this case from 2/5/19 to 2/26/19 at 1:00 p.m.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/7/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) General status

Debtor was ordered to file a status report no later than April 30, 2019. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, no such report has been filed. Should this Court impose sanctions?

Debtor's prior status report (#5, dkt. 128) states that Debtor has no unsecured debt and "will seek refinancing of its assets and/or the sale of properties in order to pay off the entire debt of the Las Flores Property and fund a confirmable Chapter 11 Plan." Dkt. 128, p.2:17-20. This Court previously presumed that Debtor was focused on sales, because refinancings appear to be unrealistic. But now Debtor's principal declares (dkt. 139, p.4, para.4-5) that he is currently in negotiations with potential lenders to refinance two of Debtor's three properties which "will pay" all secured debt against the properties. That appears to be entirely unrealistic.

Debtor has almost no funds: it reports only $50.01 as of 3/31/19 in its latest Monthly Operating Report ("MOR"). See MOR#10 (dkt. 136), p.1. Apart from that, Debtor has three properties:

(i) Las Flores/Altadena Property. This property is supposed to have been sold for $850,000. See dkt. 129. That is unlikely to generate any useable proceeds because this $850,000 is subject to a real estate broker's commission of $17,000, real estate taxes estimated at over $18,000, and the claim of Crescent Capital Holdings, LLC ("Crescent") of $763,832.42 as of the petition date plus alleged postpetition interest for one year at 29.99%. dkt.110, p.4:10-17, dkt. 129, and POC 3-1. Although interest above the non-default rate will not be presently distributed to Crescent, nor will it be distributed to Debtor (until after resolution of any claim objection, or other order of this Court).

(ii) Cahuenga Park Property. Debtor values this property at $900,000. Dkt. 30, p.3. Creditor WRCOF Asset Trust 2017-2 ("Cahuenga Trust") asserts a secured claim of $811,295.30 as of the petition date, plus postpetition interest for almost a year at 12%. POC 4-1. After the balance of unpaid real estate taxes (POC 5-1 for over $65,000), this property is unlikely to have any useable equity.

(iii) Date Property. Debtor values this property at $800,000 (dkt. 30, p.3). No proof of claim has been filed by the holder of the loan debt secured by this property. Debtor estimated this claim at $532,000 as of the petition date (dkt.15 at PDF p.9), but given Debtor's wildly inaccurate estimation of other claims ($627,497.80 against the Cahuenga Park Property, and $695,831.34 against the Los Flores/Altadena Property) this Court is not persuaded that there is any useable equity in this property.

The bottom line is that any expectation of being able to refinance these properties appears, on the present record, to be unrealistic and a waste of time. Apparently any refinancing would be preconditioned on successful prosecution of claim objections, but nearly a year into this case no claim objections have been filed, let alone successfully prosecuted. See, e.g., dkt. 139, p.2:21-22 (Debtor's admits it has no equity in the Cahuenga Park Property based on the "alleged balance" of the secured claim against that property).

Debtor's only plausible path appears to be to sell the properties; pay the undisputed portion of the secured claims; and, if there are legitimate grounds to do so at this late date, prosecute claim objections.

(b) Crescent's Motion for Relief from Stay (dkt. 78)

Has the sale of the Las Flores/Altadena Property closed? If so, what dollar amount is being held in escrow pending determination of Crescent's claim? What deadline should this Court set to file its objection to Crescent's claim?

(b) Cahuenga Trust's Motion for Relief from Stay (dkt. 134)

What dollar amount of monthly adequate protection payments should be required (see dkt. 134 & the debtor's late-filed response, dkt. 139)? How can Debtor afford to pay that, given the lack of funds reflected in the latest MOR (dkt. 136)? Has Debtor been receiving rents, and are any rents reflected in the MORs?

(c) March MOR (dkt. 136)

This Court is concerned with several items in the March MOR. First, Debtor reports that it did not pay an adequate protection payment of $5,200 to Triumph Capital. Dkt. 136, p.23. Second, Debtor reports being behind $975 on UST quarterly fees. Id. at PDF p.15. Debtor should be prepared to address these issues.

(i) Payment of costs of sale, including real estate brokers

The tentative ruling is to sustain the UST's objection (dkt. 104) and Crescent's objection (dkt. 110) to the extent they object to paying any attorney fees out of escrow, or paying the real estate brokers until those brokers are actually retained, but overrule those objections to the extent they object to paying costs of sale, including real estate brokers, ahead of Crescent.

If Mr. Vasquez files a declaration that comports with Judge Bason's procedures before the proposed order approving the sale is lodged, then the tentative ruling is to include a good faith finding in that order.

(iv) Approval of sale

Subject to all the foregoing (including that a broker must be retained before the sale can be approved), the tentative ruling is to approve the sale.

(c) Motion for Relief from Stay (dkt. 78)

The tentative ruling is to continue this motion to the same time as the continued status conference to allow time for the sale to be completed.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 6/11/18.

(a) Bar date: 2/8/19 (timely served, dkt. 67)

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD.

(c) Continued status conference: 4/30/19 at 1:00 p.m., brief status report due 4/23/19

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 2/26/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues (dkt. 111 etc.)

Debtor's proposed sale of certain real estate is intertwined with Debtor's proposed employment of a real estate broker. The tentative ruling is to go forward with the sale hearing, including any overbids, and approve the sale on a provisional basis, with a continued hearing on both the employment application and the sale motion at the same time as the continued status conference (see below).

(a) Application to employ James Gallardo as real estate broker (dkt. 112, 113)

As pointed out by both the United States Trustee ("UST") (dkt. 104) and creditor Crescent Capital Holdings ("Crescent") (dkt.110), Mr. Gallardo is purporting to act as a dual agent, for both the seller (Debtor) and the proposed buyer (subject to overbids), Luis Vasquez. Judge Bason prohibits dual agency, as noted both in his posted Procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) and in the order approving the prior real estate broker (dkt. 92) (Mr. Leal).

The tentative ruling is that the lack of dual agency is mandated by the disinterestedness requirements of the Bankruptcy Code and Rules, so it cannot be waived. It is irrelevant that, outside of bankruptcy, it is not uncommon for parties in real estate transactions to accept their agent's lack of disinterestedness. See Reply to Sale Motion (dkt. 115, p.3:10-21).

Accordingly, the tentative ruling is that, if the highest and best bid is that of Mr. Vasquez, then Mr. Vasquez must file a declaration confirming that he has retained his own real estate broker (who must be unaffiliated with Mr. Gallardo), and Mr. Gallardo must represent only Debtor and the bankruptcy estate (not Mr. Vasquez).

In addition, the parties are directed to address whether Mr. Gallardo and/or Debtor's counsel must pay the additional real estate broker out of either (i) a portion of the 4% commission that was to have been paid solely to Mr. Gallardo, or (ii) out of a reduction in Debtor's counsel's attorney fees, so that the bankruptcy estate is not prejudiced by Debtor's non-compliance with the prohibition on dual agency. In other words, should this Court order that the total commission to all real estate brokers combined must not exceed 4%?

In addition, there might be other grounds for objecting to Mr. Gallardo's employment, and the time for objections has not yet expired, so the employment cannot be approved yet. The employment application was served on 2/12/19, which means that objections can be filed until 3/1/19 (14 days plus 3 for service via U.S. mail). Until after that date, parties in interest and this Court will not know if, for example, someone were to object to Mr. Gallardo's employment and the proposed sale on the basis that Mr. Gallardo had an undisclosed interest in the sale.

The tentative ruling is that until Mr. Guillardo's employment is approved, the sale must be only provisionally approved. The tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to shorten time (Rule 9006, Fed. R. Bankr. P.) because there is a substantial risk in any bankruptcy sale that if the sale is deferred then prospective purchasers may be unable or unwilling to continue to bid on the property (this Court takes judicial notice that there are considerable costs in holding a proposed sale open, if it is even possible to retain enough funds on hand to close a sale that has been deferred).

For all of the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is to set the employment application for hearing at the same time as the continued sale motion and continued status conference (see below).

(b) Debtor's Motion for Authority to Sell Altadena Property (the "Sale Motion," dkt. 102, 105, 114)

(i) Continued hearing

The tentative ruling is to approve the sale (subject to overbids) on a provisional basis, with a continued hearing at the same time as the continued status conference (see below). Between now and that continued hearing, Mr. Vasquez must arrange for a separate real estate broker to represent him (or must proceed without any real estate broker), and must disclaim any reliance on any past representation by Mr. Guillardo and any present representation by him. In addition, the parties can take whatever steps may be appropriate to address the issues set forth below.

(ii) No approval or payment of attorney fees at this time

The tentative ruling is to sustain the objection of the UST (dkt. 104), joined in by Crescent (dkt. 110), that attorney fees must be subject to approval by this Court pursuant to the usual procedures, and that any approval of the proposed sale shall not be deemed to be approval of the attorney fees. The tentative ruling is that the proposed attorney fees must be held by Debtor's counsel in a separate account from which funds cannot be released without further order of this Court (a "Blocked Account"). In addition, the tentative ruling is to defer any ruling on Crescent's objection that it should be paid in full before any attorney fees are allowed (dkt. 110, p.5:24-25), because the timing of any distribution of attorney fees can be addressed in connection with allowance or disallowance of those fees.

(iii) Payment of real estate taxes

Crescent objects (dkt. 110, pp.4:24-5:14) that LA County's claim for real estate taxes, estimated to be $18,456.38, is of a lower priority than Crescent's own claim and therefore should not be paid until Crescent is paid in full. The parties are directed to address (x) whether the real estate taxes are in fact of a lower priority than Crescent's lien, (y) whether any doctrine of marshaling should apply (i.e., whether, even if Crescent's lien is of a higher priority in this property, its claim should be paid from the sale of any other property of the estate so that LA County can be paid out of this sale, or alternatively whether LA County is entitled to a replacement lien on other property so that it is not prejudiced by the fact that this property is being sold prior to other properties), and (z) whether any disputed funds that Debtor proposes to pay either LA County or Crescent must be held in the Blocked Account pending further order of this Court.

In addition, the parties are directed to address how any accruing interest affects the analysis. For example, if funds are held in a Blocked Account pending resolution of the competing claims of LA County and Crescent, will those claims continue to accrue interest at the rate that otherwise would apply (e.g., 18% or 29.99% or some other high rate), or only at the rate that is being paid by the bank at which the Blocked Account is maintained (e.g., 1%)?

The parties also are directed to address what will happen if the funds are distributed to LA County (to stop interest running) but later turn out to be payable to Crescent or the bankruptcy estate. Will LA County be subject to a disgorgement order, consistent with any sovereign immunity analysis?

(iv) Payment of costs of sale, including real estate brokers

The tentative ruling is to sustain the UST's objection (dkt. 104) and Crescent's objection (dkt. 110) to the extent they object to paying the real estate brokers until those brokers are actually retained. But the tentative ruling is to overrule Crescent's objection to the extent it is seeking to bar paying of any costs of sale, including real estate brokers, until it is paid in full, because those costs are properly chargeable out of Crescent's collateral. See dkt. 110, p.4:5-7; 11 U.S.C. 506(c).

(v) Payment of the portion of Crescent's claim that is not (yet) disputed

Crescent objects that Debtor has had considerable time in which to file any objection to its claim, but has yet to do so, and that the only portion of its claim as to which an objection has been outlined is the default interest. The tentative ruling is that this objection is well taken: not until 2/13/19 did Debtor assert that it would object to Crescent's claim on the additional ground of not fully funding the construction loan. See dkt. 114, p.4, para.7; dkt. 115, p.4:24-26. The tentative ruling is that this last minute suggestion of a possible type of claim objection is insufficient to support Debtor's proposal to withhold all distributions from Crescent.

In other words, the tentative ruling is that Debtor must pay all principal and non-default interest through the date of closing of escrow, plus all other charges included in the proof of claim, without prejudice to Crescent seeking additional charges and default interest, and conversely without prejudice to Debtor objecting at a later time to any charges (other than principal and non-default interest). This means that Debtor would have to pay out of escrow not only principal and non-default interest but also any attorney fees, late fees, or other charges included in the Proof of Claim, and Crescent subsequently could seek additional attorney fees and other charges, but Debtor subsequently could object both to any attorney fees and other charges that have already been distributed and to any new attorney fees and other charges.

The foregoing tentative ruling attempts to balance Debtor's broad rights to object to claims at any time against Debtor's unexplained delay in raising these issues, and against Crescent's rights (consistent with this Court's adequate protection order) to receive distributions without undue delay.

Debtor's latest closing statement (dkt. 114, Ex.A, at PDF p.6) lists the "Loan Payoff" as "To Be Determined" but with an (estimated) amount of $512,500. Crescent is directed to address at the hearing the approximate dollar amount that will comport with the foregoing tentative ruling.

(vi) "Good faith" finding

The tentative ruling is that any "good faith" finding (11 U.S.C. 363(m))

will require a declaration from any successful bidder that complies with the posted Procedures of Judge Bason:

§ 363(m): "Good Faith" Findings. Supporting declaration(s) should address: (1) connections: the bidder's prior, current, or expected connections with any relevant persons (other bidders, the debtor, major creditors or equity security holders in the case, or any of the debtor's officers, directors, agents, or employees, including whether any offers of employment or compensation have been made or will be offered to debtor's present or former officers, directors, agents, or employees), (2) consideration: whether any consideration is contemplated or has been transferred by the bidder in connection with the sale to any person other than the bankruptcy estate, and (3) absence of fraud or collusion between the bidder and any relevant persons (e.g., other bidders, the debtor's officers, directors, agents or employees), or any attempt to take unfair advantage of other bidders. See generally In re M Capital Corp., 290 B.R. 743, 748-49 (9th Cir. BAP 2003). As used in this paragraph, a "bidder" includes all known prospective bidders. [Judge Bason's posted Procedures, available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov]

(c) Motion for Relief from Stay (dkt. 78)

The tentative ruling is to continue this motion to the same time as the continued hearing on the Sale Motion.

(d) Motion for 2004 Examination (the "2004 Motion," dkt. 106)

Grant in part and deny in part as follows. The tentative ruling is to exercise this Court's discretion to limit discovery in keeping with the general principles set forth in Rule 26(b) and 45(d)&(e) (Fed. R. Civ. P.) and Rules 7026, 9016 and 9018 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). Without limiting the foregoing, this Court is particularly aware that (i) although Debtor has yet to file any actual objection to Crescent's claim, that is clearly contemplated; (ii) Crescent has an interest in maintaining the confidentiality of its loan-analysis methodology; and (iii) Debtor has not shown that it lacks its own records on many of the issues on which it seeks discovery and that the relative burdens and benefits weigh in its favor.

The tentative ruling is that no later than 3/15/19 Crescent must produce the documents listed below (the list is excerpted from the 2004 Motion) and that Crescent's person most knowledgeable about the subject matter of those document requests must appear for examination at Debtor's bankruptcy counsel's law offices on 4/5/19 at 10:00 a.m. The document requests/subject matter that this Court tentatively will allow is as follows:

- (1) "ALL COMMUNICATIONS between YOU and the DEBTOR RELATING TO THE $500,000 LOAN" (dtk. 106, PDF p.23, Section A.6)
- (2) "ALL DOCUMENTS, including COMMUNICATIONS, RELATING TO YOUR assessment of the default interest rate with respect ot he $500,000 LOAN" (Id. at PDF p.24, Section A.11)
- (3) "ALL DOCUMENTS referring or relating to YOUR calculations of damages that YOU would sustain in the event of any default under the $500,000 LOAN" (Id. at PDF p.25, Section B.17)
- (4) "ALL DOCUMENTS referring or relating to YOUR analysis of the appropriate default interest to apply to the $500,000 LOAN" (Id. at PDF p.25, Section B.18)
- (5) "ALL DOCUMENTS referring or relating to YOUR efforts to arrive at a default interest rate that was intended to compensate YOU for actual anticipated damages that would result from a default under the $500,000 LOAN" (Id. at PDF p. 25, Section B.22)
- (6) "All appraisals or title reports completed RELATING TO the REAL PROPERTY" (Id. at PDF p.26, Section B.26)

The tentative ruling is, notwithstanding Debtor's reply (dkt. 117), to sustain Crescent's objections (dkt. 109) to the remaining questions, without prejudice to Debtor seeking further discovery (either under Rule 2004 or under other discovery rules, as appropriate) based upon a proper showing. For example, as noted above Debtor now contemplates that it might object to Crescent's claim based on Crescent not fully funding the construction loan, but Debtor provides no information about the facts and circumstances, which might assist Crescent and this Court to evaluate whether discovery is or is not focused on relevant issues.

Did Crescent promise to fund the loan with no strings attached, or did it impose performance metrics, or was the remaining funding within Crescent's sole discretion? What dollar amount did Crescent refuse to fund? When did it do so? What reasons, if any, did it give? Is Debtor contemplating a breach of contract objection, or a tort claim, or both?

In addition, the tentative ruling is to overrule Crescent's remaining objections as follows:

(i) LBR 2004-1(a): While the conference between Debtor and Crescent may not have been productive (dkt. 109, p.2), this Court is satisfied that for present purposes, the parties have "attempt[ed] to confer" as required by LBR 2004-1(a).

(ii) LBR 9013-1: Although the amount of notice of Debtor's 2004 Motion was short, Crescent has not shown that it was prejudiced by such shortened notice. The tentative ruling is to excuse any untimeliness in the 2004 Motion.

(iii) Laches: Crescent has not alleged sufficient delay to persuade this Court that relief based on laches is appropriate.

Revised Tentative Ruling for 5/7/19:

Appearances required.

(a) Motion of the United States Trustee ("UST") to convert, dismiss, or appoint a Chapter 11 trustee (the "Conversion Motion", dkt. 76)

Continue to to be heard concurrently with the continued status conference (see part "(2)" of this tentative ruling, below). If, prior to the continued hearing date, Debtor files a declaration that it has closed the proposed Sale Part One, this Court anticipates that the tentative ruling for the continued hearing will be to deny the Conversion Motion without prejudice.

(b) Debtor's 11 U.S.C. 363 sale motion (the "Sale Motion," dkt. 80); Oppositions (dkt. 87, 93), and Reply (dkt. 94, 96)

Grant the Sale Motion, but only on the following terms:

(i) Minimum dollar amount for Sale Part Two. Debtor's principal, Ms. Rachel Galant, is essentially agreeing to pay debts on which she is already the guarantor (Sale Part One, estimated at $450,000), and if there is any money left over from the anticipated $550,000 proceeds of the refinance and sale of her home, then that residual amount (estimated at $100,000, but possibly much less, down to $-0-) will be used to pay for Debtor's intellectual property and some de minimus assets (Sale Part Two).

The tentative ruling is that there must be a minimum dollar amount payable for Sale Part Two. That is essentially the consideration Ms. Galant must pay (beyond what she owes anyway, as a guarantor) for being able to continue her business without successor liability, based on the Bankruptcy Code's ability to sell property free and clear of an liability that would otherwise follow the assets (which is one type of "interest" in such property). See, e.g., In re Trans World Airlines, Inc., 322 F.3d 283, 290-91 (3d Cir. 2003). See also Myers v. U.S., 297 B.R. 774 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 2003).

The tentative ruling is to set the minimum consideration for the Sale Part Two at not less than $50,000. The tentative ruling is that this dollar amount is subject to overbids, as set forth below.

(ii) Overbids. The proposed sale must be subject to any overbids at the hearing, including any overbids that are not cash (in whole or in part), or that are for fewer than all assets, or any other combination of things. Any "highest and best" determination must be made initially by Debtor, but subject to any objections and resolution by this Court. See generally, e.g., In re Lahijani, 325 B.R. 282 (9th Cir. BAP 2005); In re Mickey Thompson Entm't Group, Inc., 292 B.R. 415, 421 (9th Cir. BAP 2003).

(iii) Backup bids. Any sale must be subject to any backup bids, in the event the winning bidder does not timely close either Sale Part One or Sale Part Two. For example, if the proposed purchaser - Debtor's principal - were to close Sale Part One but fail to close the Sale Part Two, and if a backup bidder has been approved for Sale Part Two, then the backup bidder could acquire the Sale Part Two assets (Debtor's recipes, trademarks, and other intellectual property).

(iv) Deadline for resolution of any disputes regarding purchase/cure amounts for equipment. The motion lists some cure/payment amounts as "TBD." In addition, one creditor has objected. See Sale Motion (dkt. 82, Schedules A&B), and see Direct Cap. Corp. Obj. (dkt. 93) (asserting $11,050.14 arrears plus $5,411.34 attorney fees to date, for a total alleged cure amount of approximately $16,461.48).

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of May 20, 2019 for Debtor to reach agreement with any equipment lessor/lienholder, or else those creditors will be free to repossess the equipment and must be given access to do so on 24 hours' notice. The reason is that the equipment must be removed by the end of May, or the bankruptcy estate will "abandon" the equipment (technically, an "abandonment" under 11 U.S.C. 554 is abandonment from the estate to Debtor; but Debtor apparently means that it intends to leave the equipment at the landlord's premises, for disposition by the landlord - this Court expresses no opinion whether that would create any postpetition liability, or what competing rights might exist in the equipment at that point). Any dispute can be addressed at the continued hearing on the same date as the continued status conference (see below).

(v) Good faith finding

Any "good faith" finding under 11 U.S.C. 363(m) will need to be supported by sufficient evidence (see the posted Procedures of Judge Bason, available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov). Normally that would include more information than what is Ms. Galant's declaration. See Dkt. 82, p.6:1-7. But the tentative ruling is to accept that declaration, combined with the purchase price above the debts for which she is personally liable and the agreement to turn over to Debtor any profit on resale of equipment, as sufficient prima facie evidence of good faith.

As to the objection of the "Objecting Creditors" (Mr. Haloosim et al., dkt. 87), this Court is inclined to agree with Debtor that, on the present record, there is a prima facie showing by Debtor of sufficient marketing, and insufficient evidence of any improper conduct by Debtor. As for their objections under 11 U.S.C. 363(f), this Court questions whether they have an "interest" in the property to be sold and, if not, whether they have standing to raise any objections. In addition, as stated in the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov):

§ 363(f): Sales free and clear. Regarding § 363(f)(5), Judge Bason does not follow Clear Channel Outdoor, Inc. v. Knupfer (In re PW, LLC), 391 B.R. 25, 40 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2008). He has ruled that a sale free and clear is permissible under that statute whenever the interest at issue is subject to monetary valuation. See In re Trans World Airlines, Inc., 322 F.3d 283, 290-91 (3d Cir. 2003) ("TWA") (because employees' claims were "subject to monetary valuation," debtor's assets could be sold free and clear of successor liability for such claims under § 363(f)(5)). Alternatively, Judge Bason has ruled that "cramdown" is among the types of legal or equitable proceeding within the statute, or that Clear Channel is distinguishable in most cases under the rationale of In re Jolan, 403 B.R. 866 (Bankr. W.D. Wash. 2009), because holders of interests can be compelled in numerous other types of legal or equitable proceedings to accept a money satisfaction (which might be $-0- in the case of an interest that is entirely underwater). Those proceedings include a hypothetical foreclosure by one of the lienholders, or a receivership (which could be initiated at the behest of creditors or by the debtor itself). See Cal. Code Civ. Proc. ("CCP") §564(b)(9) (power to

The judge respectfully disagrees with In re Hassen Imports P'ship, 502 B.R. 851, 860 et seq. (C.D. Cal. 2013) (hypothetical foreclosure sale did not qualify under section 363(f)(5)).

Appearances required for the status conference, but not for the abandonment motion. Telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Dismissal or conversion

Debtor's fourth status report alleges (dkt. 62, p.2:10) that a "363 motion, supported with a stalking horse bid, will be submitted to the court" at some unspecified future date. This Court and parties in interest have heard that hope before, but it appears highly unlikely that Debtor will receive a bid that will exceed the losses that are accruing meanwhile.

Debtor's situation appears to be getting steadily worse, both on a cash basis and in terms of accrued liabilities for postpetition real property rent, equipment leasing, etc. See MOR for Jan. 2019 (dkt. 57) (small positive cash flow, but $48,522.19 in postpetition payables as against $6,281.31 receivables) and MOR for Feb. 2019 (dkt. 63) lines 22-25 (net cash flow of ($1765.14) and increase in payables to $96,380.19 - almost double the prior month - as against $6,281.31 receivables - unchanged).

The tentative ruling is to dismiss this case and let Debtor and its secured creditors/equipment lessors make whatever arrangements they see

(b) First day motions

Debtor has not filed any payroll motion, motion for use of cash collateral, budget motion, utility motion, or other typical "first day" motions. This Court recognizes that Debtor is in the process of formulating its strategy (dkt. 20, p.4:17-21), and has requested an extension of time to file bankruptcy schedules and other documents (dkt. 19), but none of that excuses the failure to file any required first day motions.

(c) Dismissal? Bar?

Debtor is directed to address why this Court should not dismiss this case with a 180 day bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy, under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1), for willful failure to abide by an order of this court, or willful failure to appear in proper prosecution of this case, or both.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/7/19:

Appearances are not required

(1) Current Issues

(a) Motion to Withdraw as Bankruptcy Counsel (Sakurai dkt. 418)
Grant.

(b) Motion to Withdraw as Bankruptcy Counsel (Checkmate dkt. 294)

This Court has sought to assure that Debtor and its principal(s) receive proper notice of the motion by its counsel, Mr. Aronson and/or his firm (collectively, "Aronson"), to withdrawal from representing Debtor in this bankruptcy case. Such notice would be important in any bankruptcy case. It is especially important in this situation, because (i) Debtor is not an individual so it is prohibited from appearing without counsel and (ii) there are pending sanctions proceedings against Debtor's principal(s) - Mr. Sakurai (and, possibly, Ms. Sakurai), and Debtor's lack of legal counsel might adversely effect them in those proceedings.

Proper notice is also important for another reason. It protects Aronson in the event that Debtor later asserts that it did not consent to Aronson's withdrawal, and was not properly served.

But Aronson has not complied with this Court's order directing service and setting this hearing (the "Hearing Order"). First, Aronson did not serve Debtor in accordance with Rule 7004(b)(3). Second, he did not serve Debtor or its principal(s) timely.

As the Hearing Order previously explained:

The Withdrawal Motion was not served on Debtor in accordance with Rule 7004(b)(3) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.), which requires service on a corporation to be to the attention of an Officer (or other agent authorized to accept service of process). [Dkt. 296, p.1:26-28]

(As the above-quoted language recognizes, service can be made on an agent for service of process, but there are separate problems, described below, with any reliance on that alternative.)

The Hearing Order ordered Mr. Aronson to serve Debtor in compliance with Rule 7004:

Aronson is directed no later than April 25, 2019, to serve the Motion and a copy of this Order, and file a proof of service, all in accordance with Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7004 [Dkt. 296, p.2:24-26 (emphasis added)]

Mr. Aronson did not serve these papers until sometime on Tuesday 4/30/19. It is not clear whether service was before or after the U.S. mail pickup time: the proof of service was not filed until 6:30 p.m. See dkt. 301 at PDF pp. 23-24. So this Court cannot presume mail pickup before Wednesday May 1. Then, adding three days for service by mail (per Rule 9006(f), Fed.R.Bankr.P.), this Court cannot presume delivery before Saturday May 4. Next, this Court cannot presume that business mail delivered on a Saturday is necessarily picked up and read prior to a normal business day - this Court takes judicial notice that the Sakurais have a mailing address that is different from their street address; and this Court takes judicial notice that Debtor's agent for service of process might require a business day or more to forward mail to Debtor. In sum, it appears that this Court cannot presume service prior to sometime on Monday May 6, 2019.

The Hearing Order set May 6 as the deadline for Debtor or Mr. and Ms. Sakurai to file and serve any written response to Aronson's motion to withdraw, and set the hearing for May 7. In other words, Debtor and its principal(s) had essentially no notice of their deadline to respond to the motion to withdraw, and perhaps less than 24 hours' notice of the hearing. Although shortened notice is permissible upon a sufficient showing (Rule 9006, Fed. R. Bankr. P.), no showing has been made for such exceptionally shortened notice.

Mr. Aronson declares (dkt. 302, p.1, para.6) that he had a telephone conversation with Debtor's principal, Mr. Sakurai, and obtained oral assurances that Aronson could email Mr. Sakurai. That is insufficient. See Rule 5(b)(2)(E) (Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Rule 7005 & 9014(b), Fed. R. Bankr. P.) (requiring consent to electronic service "in writing"). Moreover, given the possible effects on Debtor's principal(s) - e.g., derivative claims by Debtor against Mr. and/or Mrs. Sakurai - it seems appropriate to assure service on both of them; but Mr. Aronson's declaration only asserts that oral and email notice was given to Mr. Sakuria.

Why was it impossible for Mr. Aronson, while he was out of his office, to arrange for service via U.S. mail by his staff or a colleague on 4/25/19, or failing that then the next day? If that was not possible, why did he not serve his client via overnight delivery on 4/30/19, instead of via U.S. mail?

In sum, Mr. Aronson's efforts to comply with this Court's Hearing Order appear to be inadequate. The tentative ruling is to continue the hearing on Aronson's motion to withdraw to the same time as the continued status conferences (see below), with a new deadline of 5/17/19 for any response by Debtor and/or Mr. or Ms. Sakurai, and with a direction to Aronson, no later than 5/8/19, to serve a notice of the continued hearing, and a copy of this tentative ruling, on each of those persons at all of their known addresses via overnight mail (except for service in Japan via regular U.S. airmail), all in full compliance with Rule 7004 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

Proposed orders: Movants are directed to lodge proposed orders via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B). Aronson is directed to attach a copy of this tentative ruling for 5/7/19.

(id. dkt. 399), and Sanctions Order (id. dkt. 407).

Based on the Debtors' Status Report (Sakurai dkt. 417), Debtors have failed to comply with the OSC, OSC Supp. and Sanctions Order. In addition, it appears that Debtors are refusing to sell the Las Vegas Property.

Based on the supplemental evidence (Sakurai dkt. 408), the tentative ruling is to award the Fresco Parties $10,371.50 in attorneys fees as compensatory sanctions (without prejudice to seeking additional amounts in future). In addition, the tentative ruling is to increase coercive sanctions to $200.00 per day against Debtors until they comply with this Court's prior orders.

Proposed orders: The Fresco Parties are directed to lodge proposed orders (one awarding interim compensatory sanctions, and one increasing the coercive sanctions) via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling for 4/30/19, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:
Appearances Required

(1) Current Issues

(a) Implementation of the Plan; Order to Show Cause ("OSC," dkt. 386), and supplemental order ("OSC Supp," dkt. 399)

Debtors have not responded to the OSC (dkt. 386) or the OSC Supp (dkt. 399). The Fresco Parties have responded with a supplemental brief (dkt. 403) pointing out that this Court cannot appoint a chapter 11 trustee, but also recapping the disadvantages of conversion to chapter 7, and suggesting instead that (i) this Court should sanction Debtors, (ii) this Court should replace the current disbursing agent under the confirmed Plan, Mr. Aronson, with a new disbursing agent (the mechanism to choose such a person is not discussed), and (iii) this Court should vest that person with the power to execute documents to implement the Plan pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 1142(b):

(b) The court may direct the debtor and any other necessary party to execute or deliver or to join in the execution or delivery of any instrument required to effect a transfer of property dealt with by a confirmed plan, and to perform any other act, including the satisfaction of any lien, that is necessary for the consummation of the plan.

The tentative ruling is to find that the individual Debtors are in contempt of court for each of the reasons stated in the OSC and the OSC Supp, and to award the compensatory, coercive, and punitive sanctions set forth below. As for issuing order(s) replacing the disbursing agent and vesting some person with power to execute documents and do other things necessary or appropriate to implement the Plan, this Court is concerned that such orders might exceed the scope of authority under section 1142(b), but similar relief might be available using other mechanisms, perhaps only after commencing an adversary proceeding or perhaps not, under Rules 70 and 71 (Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Rules 7001(7), 7070, 7071, and 9014(c), Fed. R. Bankr. P.). The parties are directed to address these issues at the hearing.

As for sanctions, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/14/19 for the Fresco Parties to file and serve their declaration(s) with attached timesheets, a deadline of 4/23/19 for Debtors and the U.S. Trustee to file and serve any responses, and any reply may be presented orally at the continued hearing. In addition, the tentative ruling is to impose coercive sanctions, payable to the Court, starting at $100 per day and continuing until Debtors comply with all of their obligations set forth in the OSC and the OSC Supp, all subject to being increased or otherwise adjusted at the continued hearing. In addition, the tentative ruling is to impose punitive sanctions of $2,500, payable to this Court, also subject to adjustment in future (either by this Court or by the District Court if punitive sanctions or other issues are before the District Court - because of the limitations on this Bankruptcy Court's ability to award any punitive sanctions, it may be necessary for the District Court to address that issue, which might be accomplished by a recommendation from this Court for withdrawal of the reference, perhaps only for that limited purpose, or which might be based on proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law by this Court, or any other mechanism that is appropriate). See In re Dyer, 322 F.3d 1178, 1195 (9th Cir. 2003); see also In re Count Liberty, LLC, 370 B.R. 259, 274 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2007).

The continued hearing on the OSC and the OSC Supp will be concurrent with the continued status conference set forth below.

(b) Coordination with Japanese authorities

This Court intends to address briefly with the parties what methods may be appropriate to request and obtain the assistance of any authorities in Japan in enforcing the terms of the Plan and this Court's orders. This Court may set a briefing schedule to address those things.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 10/16/17.

(a) Bar date: 1/17/18 (order timely served. dkt. 58, 59).

(b) Amended Joint Plan (dkt. 309): Confirmed (dkt. 365).

Tentative Ruling for 3/26/19:
Appearances Required

(1) Current Issues

(a) Order to Show Cause ("OSC," dkt. 386)

The parties should be prepared to address the issues raised by the OSC (dkt. 386), the motion for the OSC (dkt. 384), the status report (dkt. 390), the declaration of the Sakurais' counsel Mr. Gebelt (dkt. 391), and the reply of the Fresco Parties (dkt. 392).

2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 10/16/17.

(c) Continued post-confirmation status conference (in the Sakurai and Checkmate cases, and the related RS/Fower adversary proceeding): 4/30/19 at 2:00 p.m. (status report due 4/23/19).

The applications seek $350,846.10 (Checkmate) and $118,796.75 (Sakurai). This Court has allowed a total of $300,000, and set this continued hearing to address the balance of $169,642.85. See Interim Fee Orders (dkt. 261, Checkmate; dkt. 363, Sakurai).

The Fresco parties' objections note that this Court has on more than one occasion expressed grave concerns about whether these Debtors have adequately prosecuted these bankruptcy cases. Of course, this Court expects that counsel for the debtors would not in any way have participated in any attempts by these Debtors to mislead or obstruct creditors in these cases, but that is not the end of the inquiry.

On the one hand, when there are legitimate strategic or tactical reasons to chose among different courses of action, counsel for Debtors usually must act at their clients' direction, even if they might harbor some doubts about the efficacy of those choices. On the other hand, in addition to the ethical limits of what counsel may do at their clients' direction, counsel are only permitted "reasonable compensation for actual, necessary services" (11 U.S.C. 330(a)(1)(A) (emphasis added)), and in determining what compensation is reasonable this Court "shall consider the nature, the extent, and the value of such services, taking into account all relevant factors, including [among other things] whether the services were necessary to the administration of, or beneficial at the time at which the service was rendered toward the completion of, [these bankruptcy cases]."

In these cases there are open questions about (i) Debtors' own acts and omissions, and whether Debtors were or were not engaging in a lack of diligent prosecution of these cases or other misconduct, (ii) whether Debtors, if deposed or examined at trial on those issues, will or will not assert advice of counsel, and (iii) whether, regardless of the foregoing issues, counsel for Debtors can satisfy the above-referenced statutory requirements. For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that the Fresco parties must have a reasonable period of time in which to conduct discovery to investigate Debtors' apparent failures to prosecute these cases or other misconduct, and whether, in view of the results of any such discovery, the compensation sought by counsel for Debtors is for "necessary" services and is "reasonable" in dollar amount, given all of the facts and circumstances.

Meanwhile, although this Court recognizes that all interim compensation may be revisited in connection with any final award, the question is how much to award on an interim basis, and whether any disbursed funds must be held in trust. The tentative ruling is to award another $35,000 to counsel for Debtors, to be allocated pro rata in proportion to their outstanding fee requests, without requiring any portion of those funds to be held in trust, but also without prejudice to allowance of a greater or lesser final award.

The parties should be prepared to address the schedule for discovery on the issues outlined above. The tentative ruling is that a five month period is appropriate.

Then, in connection with any final fee award, or at such other time as this Court may later determine, the Fresco parties' objections can be revisited with the benefit of both (i) any discovery and (ii) any subsequent developments. For example, any additional disclosures and/or recoveries in the Fower/Radiology litigation might shed light on whether Debtors' and their counsel's strategies and tactics in dealing with those parties were appropriate at the time they were made. (This Court emphasizes that any subsequent developments would be relevant only to the extent they shed light on what was reasonable at the time the legal services were rendered - not for purposes of "20/20 hindsight.")

(b) Cash collateral motion (dkt.9): The debtor reports (dkt. 53, p.3) that it has reached a stipulation with Community Bank regarding the use of cash collateral, but as of the preparation of this tentative ruling no such stipulation appears on the docket. If there is no such stipulation, or if it does not moot the bank's opposition (dkt. 50), then the parties should be prepared to address the merits of that opposition. Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Revised Tentative Ruling for 5/7/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Employment of bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 83)

The tentative ruling is to authorize Debtor's bankruptcy counsel (whose employment has already been approved except for the retainer issue), to draw down on the retainer as otherwise permitted (e.g., after allowance of fees in the forthcoming interim fee application), without deciding at this time whether Cathay Bank does or does not have a traceable security interest in the retainer. Instead the tentative ruling is to grant the Bank a replacement lien, in the full amount of the Bank's disputed lien on the retainer, on Debtor's real estate (to the extent, if any, that the Bank's existing replacement lien does not already apply). That replacement lien would be subject to the same limitations on validity, priority, and amount as this Court has ordered with respect to cash collateral (see dkt. 71).

Reasons: Given the Bank's current debt of approximately $3.1 million (see dkt. 156, p.5:15-21), and the equity in the real estate of approximately $4 million (see id., p.6:4-11), such a replacement lien appears fully sufficient to provide adequate protection. Meanwhile, any further litigation over the retainer issue appears unnecessary and potentially wasteful and distracting from the other, important issues in this bankruptcy case.

(b) Continued use of cash collateral (dkt. 156)

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not sufficiently justified its proposed expenditures under the line item for "Professional Fees (Legal, Accounting)." The tentative ruling is to grant the motion for use of cash collateral, through 8/18/19, except that professional fees must be limited, and the tentative ruling is to set a limit of paying not more than $15,000 per week without further authorization of this Court. (To be clear: if Debtor in its business judgment believes that it must incur more than that amount of professional fees, it may do so, subject to the usual limits on reasonableness of fees, billing judgment, and business judgment - what is limited by this tentative ruling is use of cash collateral, not incurring fees.)

(c) Cathay Bank's adequate protection: replacement liens v. cash payments

The tentative ruling is to deny the Bank's request for interim payments. It is already adequately protected by the protections on the terms of this Court's prior orders and the additional protections set forth above.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 2/20/19.

(a) Bar date: 6/17/19 (timely served, dkt. 129).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: file by 6/30/19 using the forms required by Judge Bason (DO NOT SERVE yet, except on the U.S. Trustee - this Court will set a deadline and procedures at a later time).

(1) Current issues

(a) Employment of bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 83)

Debtor is directed to address the issues raised in Cathay Bank's opposition (dkt. 117) (source of retainer; non-consent to use of cash collateral or carve-out; and objection to any Knudsen procedure). In addition, the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) state that counsel must file local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF and also state:

Note: the judge prefers that local form F 2014-1 not repeat the employment application – instead simply say "see application" or the like (reasons: proposed professionals frequently do not track the language of Rule 2014, so the judge requires use of the form so that someone verifies the elements of that rule under penalty of perjury, and so the court staff does not have to do a line-by-line comparison with each element of the Rule).

(b) Employment of special counsel, employment issues (dkt. 113)

See above re local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF.

(c) Employment of BidMed LLC as asset liquidation broker (dkt. 134)

See above re local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF.

In addition, although this employment application is not on for hearing at this time, Debtor and all parties in interest should be aware that Judge Bason has in the past disapproved buyer's premiums. See the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) which provide in part that any order authorizing such employment typically will include a provision stating, "no buyer's premium" for auctioneers. This should not be interpreted as making any economic change in the compensation arrangement - the auctioneer and Debtor can adjust what is paid by Debtor such that the net compensation is the same - but the tentative ruling is that this is required both as a matter of disclosure (of what the professional is charging out of property of the estate or the proceeds of such property) and as a matter of disinterestedness (not being paid by both parties, but only by Debtor).

Tentative Ruling for 3/12/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor.

(1) Current issues

(b) Utility motion (dkt. 25)

(i) Real estate: Continue Cathay Bank's replacement lien on all of Debtor's real properties (subject to adjustment as set forth below).

(ii) Books and records: Grant access to Debtor's historical books and records, and all documents used to create the cash collateral budget and the chart summarizing collateral values, with such access starting on 3/18/19, for Cathay Bank's forensic accountant, James Crossland, to inspect and copy (including copying hard drives), during normal business hours. Such access must be subject to whatever Non-Disclosure Agreement, redaction, or other safeguards as may be necessary or appropriate to protect employees' privacy, attorney-client communications, Debtor's trade secrets, etc. The parties are directed to meet and confer on those issues, and the parties are also directed to review the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) regarding discovery disputes.

10 days in arrears on Wednesday of each week (i.e., covering the week that ended 10 days prior), comparing actual results with budgeted results, and calculating variances against budgeted and actual receipts and expenditures.

(iv) CDs: The tentative ruling is that Cathay Bank need not apply any CDs to the extent that they are collateral for standby letters of credit for any liability to workers' compensation insurers. But the parties are directed to address whether there are any other CDs at issue, and why, as a condition for the other adequate protection being granted to Cathay Bank, it should not be required to apply such other CDs against the loans for which they are collateral, so as to stop accruing interest or other charges adverse to Debtor and the bankruptcy estate.

The tentative ruling is to deny Cathay Bank's request for additional adequate protection in the form of monthly payments of interest. Debtor is liquidating much of its business, which creates a situation in which both assets and cash flow are somewhat uncertain. That uncertainty favors granting the Bank the additional adequate protection set forth above; but it also means that Debtor may have urgent needs to use cash for legitimate purposes other than interest payments to the Bank.

The tentative ruling is that all of the foregoing is subject to being revisited as the facts and circumstances develop. For example, if Debtor turns out to have success in collecting the proportion of accounts receivable that it predicts, it might be appropriate to find that Cathay Bank is adequately protected by a lien on less than all of Debtor's remaining real estate. Likewise, if Debtor pays down some of its debt to Cathay Bank through sales of some real property, that might reduce the need for the replacement liens to be as extensive as contemplated by this tentative ruling.

Conversely, if Debtor's accounts receivable appear to be less valuable than predicted by Debtor then Cathay Bank might need every bit of the replacement liens in Debtor's real property and all other assets (except avoidance actions etc.). Ironically, the more dire Debtor's finances, and the greater the risk of administrative insolvency, the stronger the argument that even if the Bank were free to foreclose it would have to pay someone to liquidate Debtor's assets in an orderly fashion (11 U.S.C. 506(c)), and in any event the "equities of the case" might warrant a carve-out for professionals (11 U.S.C. 552(b)). But those are issues that can be addressed when and if there is any need to do so.

The tentative ruling regarding Cathay Bank's evidentiary objections and due process objections (dkt. 78) is that, if this Court adopts the foregoing tentative ruling (granting replacement liens in essentially all of Debtor's assets), then those objections should be overruled because (x) Cathay Bank cannot be granted a replacement lien in greater than "all" of Debtor's assets, so to a large extent the value of those assets is irrelevant, and (y) whatever weaknesses may exist in Debtor's valuation evidence, there is enough to establish on a prima facie basis a reasonable probability that Cathay Bank is sufficiently over-secured to provide it with a substantial equity cushion, which is one form of adequate protection, and that is sufficient for present purposes.

As for the alleged costs of selling property subject to Cathay Bank's replacement liens, this Court can assess for each proposed sale whether Debtor's proposed use of the proceeds is consistent with adequate protection, and whether Cathay Bank is unreasonably withholding its consent under 11 U.S.C. 363(f)(2). In addition, all parties in interest are directed to the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) regarding 363 sales.

(d) Motion to reject collective bargaining agreements (dkt. 62) (the "1113 Motion")

Debtor seeks relief without a hearing, on 14 days' notice (so called "negative notice," or a "scream or die procedure"). But it appears that an actual hearing is required, and must be held quickly, under 11 U.S.C. 1113(d) (1) ("Upon the filing of an application for rejection the court shall schedule a hearing to be held not later than fourteen days after the date of the filing of such application," although "[t]he court may extend the time for the commencement of such hearing for a period not exceeding seven days where the circumstances of the case, and the interest of justice require such extension, or for additional periods of time to which the trustee and [employee's] representative agree.").

The 1113 Motion was filed on 3/1/19. The tentative ruling is to find that granting a short extension is warranted, based on the apparent lack of prejudice from doing so, and that a hearing should be held either on 3/21/19 at 1:00 p.m. or, if the representatives of the various employee groups will consent, concurrent with the continued status conference (see below). Debtor is directed to address what efforts have been made to obtain the consent of any representative who is not present at the hearing. The tentative ruling is that Debtor must file and serve notice of the hearing date on all representatives (and other parties requiring notice) no later than 3/13/19.

(b) Motion to extend time (dkt. 9)

(c) Payroll motion (dkt. 14)

Grant, except to the extent that the proposed payments in Exhibit 1 (dkt. 14, Ex.1) exceed the priority maximum provided in 11 U.S.C. 507(a)(4) and, if applicable, 507(a)(5).

(f) Motion to reject unexpired leases (dkt. 24)

Debtor is directed to address those issues at the hearing.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/14/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's Objection and Motion to Strike ("Motion to Strike," dkt. 175) Request for Judicial Notice by Strategic Partners, Inc. ("Strategic," dkt. 161)

Deny. This Court can take judicial notice of the Magistrate Judge's report and recommendation for the limited purpose of showing that there is a substantial risk that Debtor will have a substantial debt to Strategic. That issue is relevant to the purposes, risks, and benefits of Debtor's proposed financing.

(b) Motion for Authority to Obtain Credit (dkt. 129, the "DIP Financing Motion")

Grant the DIP Financing Motion on a final basis on the same terms as set forth in the interim order (dkt. 159), and overrule Strategic's supplemental objection (dkt. 168), for the reasons set forth in Debtor's supplemental reply (dkt. 174) at pp. 3:6-5:13 & nn. 4 & 5, and based on this Court's review of Debtor's projected budget (dkt. 151, Ex.A) and Debtor's postpetition financial performance (e.g., dkt. 146). The tentative ruling is that the proposed financing has been shown to be appropriate under the statutory standards (11 U.S.C. 364(d)) and that Debtor has met its burden to show adequate protection of Strategic's interests in property of the bankruptcy estate (id.).

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this latest tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any modifications on the record at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Chapter 11

Subject to an update from Debtor and, if they elect to appear, counsel for the United States Trustee, regarding the adequacy of Debtor's cash management procedures, the tentative ruling is to grant this motion on a final basis, on the same terms as in the interim order (dkt. 27).

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 1/25/19.

(a) Bar date: 5/17/19 (dkt. 65). Note: This Court's order setting the bar date (dkt. 65) directed Debtor to serve that order on all parties in interest no later than 2/22/19. Debtor's proof of service (dkt. 82) is deficient.

First, the declarant alleges (dkt. 82, pp.1:25-2:3) that someone else (an unnamed person) served the order. That is inadequate: a declaration of service must be based on personal knowledge.

Second, it appears that the person who served the order was someone employed by Debtor. Traditionally, service must be verified by someone who is "not a party" (see Rule 7004(a)(1), Fed. R. Bankr. P.), and Debtor has not cited any authority that the rule is different in bankruptcy cases.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/4/19 for Debtor's counsel to re-serve the bar date order and file a proof of service that complies with the applicable rules. (This Court recognizes that this second notice of the bar date will not be received until closer to that bar date, but in the circumstances that appears to be appropriate.)

(b) Order setting principal status conference. The same deficiencies apply to the purported proof of service (dkt. 53) of this Court' order (dkt. 38) setting this principal status conference.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/4/19 for Debtor's counsel to re-serve the principal status conference order and file a proof of service that complies with the applicable rules. (This Court recognizes that this second service of the principal status conference order will occur after the principal status conference; but in the circumstances that appears to be appropriate because that order provides official notice of important matters, such as notice that this Court can issue case-dispositive orders at any status conference.)

- (c) Proofs of service generally. In addition to the foregoing, Debtor's counsel are encouraged to redouble their efforts to provide accurate proofs of service. See, e.g., dkt. 82, last page (purported proof of service that appears to refer erroneously to status report rather than the declaration to which it is attached).
- (d) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: [TBD] [At a future status conference this Court anticipates setting a deadline will be set for filing, using the forms required by Judge Bason (DO NOT SERVE yet, except on the U.S. Trustee - this Court will set a deadline and procedures at a later time).
- (e) Continued status conference: 5/7/19 at 1:00 p.m., status report due 4/23/19.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

#5.00 Hrg re: Motion for order determining value of collateral
Creditor: American Credit Acceptance

Docket 22

Tentative Ruling:

Continue to 6/13/19 at 8:30 a.m. to address the following issues. Any supplemental evidence or brief must be filed and served no later than 5/30/19. Appearances are not required on 5/16/19.

Reasons:

Evidence of value

Although owners of property generally are deemed competent to provide opinion testimony regarding the value of that property, in this case Debtor's opinion lacks any stated foundation. The tentative ruling is to require as a foundation a Kelley Blue Book report, or similar valuation. That valuation must establish the "replacement value" (not trade-in value) that a "retail merchant" would charge the public for a vehicle of similar age and condition, as of the petition date, "without deduction for costs of sale or marketing." 11 U.S.C. 506(a)(2). This Court's requirement of such foundational evidence, notwithstanding the lack of response by the creditor, is pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 105(a), 506(a)(2); Rule 104(a), 403, 602 and 701 (Fed. R. Evid.); and Rules 9014(c) and 7055 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) which, in this Court's discretion, incorporate Rule 55(b)(2)(B) and not Rule 55(b)(1) (Fed. R. Civ. P.). See also In re Heath, 331 B.R. 424 (9th Cir. BAP 2005) (affirming bankruptcy court's disallowal of claims even though some creditors did not respond).

#7.00 Hrg re: Motion for Damages for Creditor Misconduct Pursuant to FRBP 3001(c)(2)(D)(ii) for "Appropriate Relief" Against Claimant E-Tail Network, Inc. and its Counsel Michael Wallin

Docket 32

Tentative Ruling:

Deny. Appearances are not required.

Reasons for denial:

(1) Request for attorney's fees and costs under Rule 3001(c)

Rule 3001(c) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) provides in relevant part:

(1) Claim Based on a Writing. [With inapplicable exceptions,] when a claim, or an interest in property of the debtor securing the claim, is based on a writing, a copy of the writing shall be filed with the proof of claim. or is harmless; or

(ii) award other appropriate relief, including reasonable expenses and attorney's fees caused by the failure. [Rule 3001(c)(1)&(2) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) (emphasis added)]

Debtor argues that creditor E-Tail Network, Inc. ("Creditor") did not file a "copy of the writing" on which its claim or its asserted interest in Debtor's property is "based" (within the meaning of the above-quoted provisions). The tentative ruling is that this argument is not persuasive.

Creditor attached an abstract of judgment and a writ of execution to its proof of claim. See Claim 2-1. The fact that Debtor could assert a lack of evidence of timely renewal of that judgment, and that Creditor could assert the opposite, only establishes that there is a dispute, not a failure to attach writings on which the claim is "based."

To require more would mean that creditors would have to attach voluminous writings, which would be too burdensome on them and other parties and this Court. Nor would the added paperwork meaningfully aid in understanding the basis of claims or defenses, or meaningfully supplement the discovery rules and obligations that already aid in determining the validity of any claims. See, e.g., In re Campbell, 336 B.R. 430, n.7 & accompanying text (9th Cir. BAP 2005) (broad interpretation of Rule 3001's requirement of "writing" would require voluminous documents in typical situations); In re Heath, 331 B.R. 424 (9th Cir. BAP 2005) (same). (Rule 3001(c) has been amended, after Campbell and Heath, to specify what writings must be attached when a revolving credit agreement is involved, but for other types of claims the operative language remains the same.)

In the alternative, the tentative ruling is to exercise this Court's discretion not to award attorney fees. The above-quoted text of Rule 3001 states that this Court "may" award such fees, and in this case there was very little authority construing the deadline for renewal of the lien created by an abstract of judgment; there were many potential issues; and those issues were sufficiently in doubt that it is more appropriate to apply the "American Rule" that each party bears its own legal fees. See Order (dkt. 30) pp.3-4 (discussing various issues).

This Court recognizes that Creditor and its counsel have been aggressive; and some of their arguments have lacked depth or clarity (see, e.g., dkt. 28). See also Debtor's Reply (dkt. 37). But recognizing the range of possible recoveries and the expense of litigation, it is understandable that Creditor would attempt to minimize its briefing on the claim objection. More to the point, no allegedly bad behavior by Creditor and its counsel changes the tentative ruling that Creditor did supply the "writing" on which the claim was "based," so Rule 3001(c) is not a ground for any award of attorney fees.

(2) Request for sanctions pursuant to Rule 9001

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not established an improper purpose, or any legal contention that was not warranted by non-frivolous arguments, or any other ground for an award of attorney fees under Rule 9011 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). Again, this Court recognizes that Creditor and its counsel may have been aggressive and did not fully brief the claim objection issues; but the tentative ruling is that this is not enough under Rule 9011.

(3) Conclusion

Debtor's counsel was faced with a range of issues that led to a thorough claim objection and, ultimately, a good result for Debtor. It is understandable that this took a substantial amount of time, and that Debtor would like to shift attorney fees to Creditor. But the tentative ruling is that neither Rule 3001 nor Rule 9011 provide a sufficient basis for any fee shifting.

#9.00 Hrg re: Objection to Claim Number 5 by Claimant Merit One Lending

Docket 48

Tentative Ruling:

Deny/overrule the claim objection, and allow the claim in full, subject to resolution of one issue that this Court raises sua sponte, all as set forth below. Appearances required.

Proposed order: Claimant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Analysis:

(1) Debtor's objections are not persuasive

(a) Burdens of proof

The Proof of Claim contains the documentation required by Rule 3001(c) (Fed. R Bankr. P.) and therefore it is prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim. Fed. R. Bankr. P. 3001(f). Alternatively, even if the claim were not entitled to prima facie validity (which it is), the burden is on Debtor to come forward with evidence and legal arguments sufficient to disallow the claim. 11 U.S.C. 502(a). See In re Campbell, 336 B.R. 430 (9th Cir. BAP 2005); In re Heath, 331 B.R. 424 (9th Cir. BAP 2005). (This Court recognizes that Rule 3001(c) has been amended, after Campbell and Heath, principally to specify what writings must be attached when a revolving credit agreement is involved, but for other types of claims the language of the rule remains essentially the same.) For each of these reasons, Debtor has the burden to establish a basis to disallow the claim.

(b) Debtor's allegations of fully repaying the loan appear to be false

Debtor alleges that the loan was rescinded by return of the full loan proceeds. This appears to be false, based on the bank records and other documents produced in the claimant's response.

For example, the closing statement shows a payment of $18,091.81 out of escrow to Ms. Hortense Paredes (dkt. 51, Ex.D) before distribution of $182,589.85 to Debtor, so any alleged repayment of $181,000 is not a complete return of the loan proceeds. In addition, Debtor ignores the other distributions listed on the closing statement, including broker fees and other transaction costs. Moreover, as set forth below Debtor does not adequately address the evidence that $50,906.18 plus other expenditures were paid out of that $181,000.

Chapter 13

Any one of these things is enough to undermine Debtor's theory that the entire loan was repaid, and the loan was rescinded. Debtor has not met her burden of proof on this theory.

(c) Debtor has not established that the alleged wrongdoing by the loan broker can be attributed to the lender

Debtor accuses the loan broker's principal, Roger Duzian of Merit One Lending, of breaching fiduciary duties to Debtor. Debtor mostly does this in opposition to dismissal of this case. See dkt. 42. Those papers on other issues are not properly presented on this claim objection; but her opposition to dismissal helps to explain Debtor's claim objection, so, for the sake of discussion, this Court addresses Mr. Duzian's alleged breaches of fiduciary duty below.

Assuming, also for the sake of discussion, that Mr. Duzian engaged in some sort of wrongdoing, that does not change the fact that the lender advanced hundreds of thousands of dollars. Debtor now seeks to avoid any obligation to pay back those funds to the lender by conflating Mr. Duzian with the lender. (It is understandable that Debtor would do this, because Mr. Duzian and his firm also appear to conflate themselves with the lender, or at least conflate their role in administering the loan for lender with their alleged role(s) in various other transactions involving Debtor - see part "(2)" of this tentative ruling, below.)

Debtor appears to allege that she was talked into the loan by Mr. Duzian. But Debtor has not cited any authority that a lender has a duty to make sure that borrowing the funds was a good idea.

Debtor's other objections have to do with alleged wrongdoing that occurred after the loan was funded - such as Mr. Duzian's alleged role in getting Debtor to transfer $181,000 back to his firm and then, supposedly, use the funds for unauthorized purposes. Again, Debtor has not cited any authority that the lender can be responsible for these alleged events concerning how the loaned funds were used.

Finally, to the extent that damages are an element of Debtor's claims against the lender (which she attempts to use to offset lender's claim against her), she has not established any damages. Debtor received over $200,000 in loan proceeds (before payment of $18,091.81 to Ms. Paredes, not to mention other payments out of escrow). That loan is secured by property that she alleges is worth $60,000. Dkt. 11, at PDF p.11, Schedule D, item 2.14. The documentary evidence (described further below) appears to establish that Debtor used well over $60,000 of the loan proceeds; the balance was credited to the loan; and meanwhile, Debtor apparently has been collecting approximately $50,000 per year for roughly four years since the loan came due. So, even if Debtor loses the property, she appears if anything to have made a profit, not to have suffered any damages.

In sum, Debtor has not established a sufficient factual and legal basis why alleged wrongdoing by Mr. Duzian should exonerate Debtor from repaying the lender. See Gupta Supp. Reply (dkt. 54). This ground for objection is unpersuasive.

(d) Debtor's hearsay objection is unpersuasive

Debtor's supplemental papers (dkt. 42) and the declaration of Brad Bello (who identifies himself as Debtor's son with her power of attorney) argue that Mr. Duzian's declaration contains hearsay and is not supported by documentary evidence. It is true that neither Debtor nor claimant have produced any written confirmation of Debtor's alleged oral instructions to Mr. Duzian about how to apply some of the loan proceeds. See Duzian Decl. (dkt. 38 at PDF pp.11 et seq.), para. 9, 10, 11, 12, 13 & 15; and see dkt. 42, p.3:1-3 et seq. (objecting to Mr. Duzian's statements).

But Debtor's own statements to Mr. Duzian's are not hearsay. See Rule 801(d)(2)(A) (Fed. R. Evid.). Even if they were, Mr. Duzian can still testify as to his own transactions and his own understanding, and he can authenticate the documents that corroborate those things. The tentative ruling is to overrule Debtor's hearsay objection.

(e) Documentary evidence

Aside from the alleged rescission (which, as noted above, is undermined by the closing statement), Debtor objects that Mr. Durzian engaged in unauthorized transactions. He allegedly "took control and dominion over the funds and used the proceeds to pay off the default on a property which Debtor did not own" (the "Second Property"). Dkt. 42, p.4:27-28, emphasis added). That is a highly misleading statement.

What the documents show is that the Second Property had been transferred in 2010 from Debtor to Maricar Mercado (whom Debtor does not deny is her niece); on 6/26/14 Ms. Mercado gave written authorization to Mr. Duzian to act for her regarding that property and its pending foreclosure sale; the foreclosing lender's "Instructions to [credit] Bid" listed a debt of $50,906.18 for purposes of a scheduled 7/25/14 foreclosure sale of the Second Property; bank records show a withdrawal on 7/7/14 of $50,906.18 from a bank account in the name of Mr. Duzian's firm (i.e., funds that either were being held at Debtor's request, as Mr. Duzian asserts, or were his firm's own funds); a copy of a cashier's check dated 7/7/14 for $50,906.18 that apparently saved the Second Property from foreclosure; and a grant deed dated 7/13/14 from Ms. Mercado to Debtor's son as a gift. See Durzian Decl. (dkt. 51 at PDF pp. 19 et seq.), para. 8-15 & Ex.D-J. See also Duzian Decl. (similar if not identical declaration in connection with motion to dismiss - which is the declaration to which Debtor objects) (dkt. 38 at PDF pp.11 et seq.), para. 8-15 & Ex.B-I.

In other words, far from showing anything nefarious, the documents appear to show that $50,906.18 of the loan proceeds were used to save the Second Property from foreclosure, which was then transferred to Debtor's son, who is now objecting to that use of funds. The documents appear to undermine completely his implication that there was anything wrong with this use of proceeds, and his omission of these facts is highly misleading. See dkt. 38, p.6 at n.3 & accompanying text.

Likewise, although Debtor's claim objection appears to be correct that a notice of default listed an incorrect dollar amount (see dkt. 51, p.13, and dkt. 56), Debtor (or her son purporting to act for her) fails to disclose that (according to the lender's uncontested allegations) this notice of default was rescinded. Debtor also provides no argument or evidence of any reasonable reliance prior to such rescission that caused Debtor any damage.

The tentative ruling is that on every ground for objecting to the claim Debtor has failed to meet her burden, after discounting false and incomplete statements. Alternatively, the tentative ruling is that even if Debtor had temporarily shifted the burden of proof back to the claimant (which she has not done), her objection has been overcome with contrary evidence and arguments by the claimant. See dkt. 51 (as amended by errata, dkt. 56), and dkt. 52, 53.

(f) Alternatively, there appears to be inadequate evidence that the claim objection is being advanced by anyone with standing

Chapter 13

This Court has an independent duty to consider issues of jurisdiction and standing. See, e.g., Already, LLC v. Nike, Inc., 133 S. Ct. 721, 726 (2013). The preceding discussion has presumed that Debtor's son, who is purporting to act for Debtor, has a valid power of attorney that was granted at a time when Debtor had the mental capacity to grant a power of attorney, and that Debtor is now suffering from dementia such that it is proper for her son to prosecute the claim objection on her behalf. But, so far as this Court is aware, those things have not been established. The tentative ruling is that this is an alternative ground for denying/overruling the claim objection.

(2) Standing also appears to be an issue for the lender

The promissory note attached to the Proof of Claim (POC 5-1) is payable to "Sarla Mawar Gupta, A Widow," not Mr. Duzian or his firm. But the filed claim itself lists Mr. Duzian's firm as the creditor (although it appears to mix things up because it also states that notices should be sent "c/o" Ms. Gupta, at what appears to be a business address). The response to the claim objection attempts to reconcile these documents by stating that Mr. Duzian's firm, "in its capacity as loan servicer and authorized agent for Sarla Gupta, filed the Proof of Claim on behalf of Sarla Gupta ..." (dkt. 51, p.1, n.1, emphasis added), but that is not clear from the Proof of Claim itself.

This raises questions about who actually holds the claim, and who has standing to respond to the claim objection. This confusion is also significant because, based on the above analysis, it is important to distinguish between the lender and the loan broker who (apparently) continued to be involved in use of the loan proceeds for various purposes after the loan closed (e.g., saving the Second Property from foreclosure, paying taxes owed on that property, etc.).

The tentative ruling is that denial/overruling of the claim objection as set forth in part "(1)" of this tentative ruling is contingent on the filing of an amended proof of claim that is consistent with the explanation described above. Given the dangers of conflating Mr. Duzian and his firm with the lender, the tentative ruling is that any such amended proof of claim must be supported by declarations of Mr. Duzian and the lender, under penalty of perjury, clarifying their respective roles.

(3) Conclusion

Chapter 13

This Court recognizes that the loan included substantial up-front fees and charges, and ended up being an expensive and temporary means for Debtor to pay off some other debts, save the Second Property from foreclosure, and allegedly attempt to engage in other transactions. Perhaps that was a bad deal (or perhaps not). But Debtor has not established that the claim "is unenforceable against the [D]ebtor and property of the [D]ebtor, under any agreement or applicable law" (11 U.S.C. 502(b)(1)), nor has Debtor established any other basis to disallow the claim. Accordingly, the claim must be allowed. 11 U.S.C. 502(b).

Docket 39

Tentative Ruling:

Continue to 6/13/19 at 8:30 a.m. to address the following issues.
Appearances are not required on 5/11/19.

Lack of cost/benefit analysis. The posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) provide:

§ 502: claim objections & cost/benefit analysis. When objecting to claims, be sure to include an analysis of whether the costs of preparing and litigating the claim objection (administrative expenses) do not exceed the anticipated benefits (reductions in claims). For example, if the anticipated dividend is small or 0% then the attorney fees incurred in prosecuting your claim objection to any general unsecured claim probably will exceed the benefit to the bankruptcy estate/debtor, so filing that objection would be a waste of the bankruptcy estate's (and everyone else's) resources (unless, for example, the claim is nondischargeable, in which event the attorney fees might well be justified).

No later than 7 days after the date of this hearing the movant must file either:

(1) a supplemental declaration explaining why the attorney fees for this objection are justified (including supporting evidence, such as a copy of the plan showing the projected dividend to the claimant, and a calculation comparing that projected dividend against the attorney fees related to this claim objection), or

Chapter 13

Based on the papers filed by the parties (dkt. 30, 32, 33), as well as the other filed papers and records of this Court (e.g., dkt. 16, 20, 22), the parties' disputes appear ripe for mediation. There are numerous issues that might be decided in favor or against Debtor, Claimant, and Lopez. All of those issues probably are risky and expensive to litigate.

(a) Preclusion from disallowance of Lopez' claim

As Debtor points out, this Court issued an order (dkt. 22) disallowing Lopez' claim. True, as Claimant points out, there might be grounds file a motion for reconsideration of that order. But that is far from certain and the docket does not reflect that any such motion has been filed.

Claimant argues that this Court' disallowance of Lopez' claim should not have any claim or issue preclusive effect because there was no evidentiary hearing nor any analysis by this Court of the response that, Claimant points out, Lopez filed (albeit untimely). But it is far from certain whether preclusion applies: in general, even default judgments have a preclusive effect, and the precise scope of preclusion has not been fully briefed by the parties.

(b) Possible proceedings before Workers Compensation Appeals Board (the "Board")

Claimant asserts that the Workers Compensation Appeals Board can and should adjudicate the issues, notwithstanding the fact that (i) no motion has been filed seeking relief from the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(a)) for proceedings in that forum, (ii) the Board might (or might not) be bound by the preclusive effect of this Court's disallowance of Lopez' claim, (iii) the Board might (or might not) be bound by the preclusive effect of the Superior Court's grant of summary judgment in favor of Taylor, (iv) the Board might (or might not) be bound by Lopez' apparent admission in his own complaint in Superior Court that Taylor, not Debtor, was the general contractor (see dkt. 32, Ex.D, para.4), and (v) even if the Board has no constraints on its consideration of the issues, Claimant points out that the Board could reach a wide range of final determinations based on the full panoply of circumstances - e.g., that Debtor was Lopez' employer, or that Debtor was a co-employer with Taylor, or that Debtor was not Lopez' employer at all. In addition, there might be litigation over the Board's ability to join all parties; there might be appeals from whatever the Board decides; there might be complications from the roles of any insurers; etc.

In other words, all parties appear to have many battles to fight before they can prevail, and many ways that they could lose, and meanwhile the cost of litigation might make any victory Pyrrhic. Mediation seems the best approach, and this Court has the power and authority to order mandatory mediation.

#19.00 Cont'd hrg re: Motion for Dismissal of Chapter 13 Bankruptcy Proceeding
fr. 3/21/19

Docket 30

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/16/19:

Dismiss this case with a permanent bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy, subject to the bar being lifted by this Court for good cause shown, and with a concurrent 180-day bar under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1), all for the reasons set forth in the motion (dkt. 30), in the reply (dkt. 38), and in the supplemental reply (dkt. 54) (to Debtor's opposition (dkt. 35) and supplemental opposition (dkt. 42)), and the additional reasons set forth below. Appearances required.

This is Debtor's third bankruptcy case. Her first case (Case No. 15-bk-28648-SK) was filed on 12/8/15 and dismissed on 12/15/15 for failure to file information. (Debtor's statement of related cases, dkt.1, asserted that Debtor's signature on this earlier petition was forged; but her latest bankruptcy petition papers assert that the broker who arranged this loan persuaded her to file that bankruptcy petition, for reasons unknown. Debtor allegedly suffers from dementia, so it is unclear what her allegations are regarding this first bankruptcy case.)

Her second case (Case No. 2:17-bk-16891-NB) was filed 6/5/17. It was dismissed on 8/3/18 on a motion by the same creditor whose motion to dismiss this case is the subject of this hearing.

This third bankruptcy case was filed on 11/1/18. Debtor's proposed chapter 13 plan (dkt. 12) ignores the movant/claimant's claim.

Meanwhile, Debtor has had a State Court case pending since 2016. Apparently Debtor alleges in that proceeding, similar to her claims here, that she is the victim of elder financial abuse and fraud in the inception of the loan by movant. See SOFA (dkt. 11).

At the hearing in this matter on 3/21/19 this Court was persuaded to grant Debtor a continuance to be able to file and serve a motion to sell the subject property prior to this 5/16/19 hearing date. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, no such sale motion has been filed (let alone set for hearing on or before 5/16/19).

Debtor has filed an objection to the movant's claim. But, as set forth in the tentative ruling on that matter (calendar no.9, 5/16/19 at 8:30 a.m.), that claim objection appears to include material omissions and misrepresentations and the tentative ruling is to deny/overrule that claim objection and allow the claim in full. The claim objection only reinforces this Court's concern about how Debtor (and her son) have been prosecuting this case.

Brad Bellow, who identifies himself as Debtor's son acting for her under a power of attorney (dkt. 35, at PDF p.12, para. 2&4), pleads that she suffers from dementia and ill health. But assuming that is so (although this Court is not aware of evidence of those things), that only reinforces that there have been ample opportunities for either Debtor's son (after her alleged dementia) or Debtor (before the onset of any dementia) to appear in proper prosecution of these bankruptcy cases.

Debtor's son claims to have had her power of attorney since approximately August of 2018, shortly before the start of this case. Id. So, in addition to the second bankruptcy case (in which Debtor herself had the period from 6/5/17 through 8/3/18 to appear in proper prosecution of the case), there has been ample time in this third bankruptcy case for Debtor's son to appear in proper prosecution.

Debtor (through her son) also asserts that discovery in State Court has been hindered because the State Court "believes there is a stay in effect." Dkt. 35, p.25-27. See generally Parker v. Bain, 68 F.3d 1131, 1136 (9th Cir. 1995). But that is a frivolous excuse for not prosecuting the bankruptcy cases. Debtor has had a simple remedy: Debtor (through her son) could have moved for an order granting relief from the automatic stay or confirming that it does not apply (whichever relief is applicable). In addition, Debtor (through her son) had all the discovery powers available under the Bankruptcy Code and Rules. See, e.g., Rules 2004, 7026-7037, and 9014(c) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

Meanwhile, throughout the past several years, it appears that Debtor has been collecting proceeds from the windmills on the property, which constitute cash in which the movant claims a security interest. During her bankruptcy cases, she has done so without any authorization under 11 U.S.C. 363(c)(2).

True, Debtor asserts that she has a theory under which that cash might not be cash collateral (11 U.S.C. 363(a)). See dkt. 35 at PDF pp.9:9-10:6. But Debtor has failed to obtain any determination by a court of competent jurisdiction that her theory is correct. Proper prosecution of her cases would have included obtaining such a determination before using any such cash. Even in this third bankruptcy case, she has not sought such a determination.

Debtor attempts to shift the burden to movant/claimant, asserting that movant has waived or forfeited its rights to cash collateral by not asserting them sooner. See dkt. 35, at PDF p.7:20-8:8 (citing In re Czyzk, 297 B.R. 406, 410 (Bankr. D.N.J. 2003)). The tentative ruling is to reject this attempt: the issue is whether there is cause to dismiss or convert this case (11 U.S.C. 1307(c)), including whether Debtor has failed to comply with her obligations under the Bankruptcy Code and Rules, not whether the creditor (for good or bad reasons) elected not to do Debtor's work for her. See Reply (dkt. 38) pp.8:17-9:24 (citing authorities).

The tentative ruling is that all of the foregoing constitutes bad faith and cause to dismiss this case under 11 U.S.C. 1307(c), and that dismissal rather than conversion is in the best interests of creditors because it appears that there are no assets from which a chapter 7 trustee could be paid, so conversion would only cause further delay. In addition, the tentative ruling is that the facts and circumstances set forth above establish a willful failure to appear in proper prosecution of this case. See 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1).

The tentative ruling is also that the foregoing constitutes egregious behavior, bad faith, and an abuse of the bankruptcy system by Debtor (acting either for her self or through her son's power of attorney), and that it is appropriate to bar Debtor from being a debtor under any chapter of the Bankruptcy Code permanently, subject to lifting that bar for good cause shown. Such dismissal is one available remedy under 11 U.S.C. § 105(a), 349(a), 1307(a) and, alternatively, pursuant to this court's inherent powers to manage its own docket. See In re Glover, 537 Fed.Appx. 741 (9th Cir. 2013) (affirming dismissal with a five-year bar to refile under 11 U.S.C. § 105(a)); In re Leavitt, 171 F.3d 1219, 1222-23 (9th Cir. 1999) (affirming dismissal with prejudice based on finding of bad faith, considering whether debtor misrepresented facts, unfairly manipulated Code, or otherwise filed petition or plan in an inequitable manner; debtor's history of filings and dismissals; whether the debtor intended to defeat state court litigation; and whether egregious behavior is present).

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/16/19:

Deny this objection to claim no. 2 (erroneously identified as claim no.1 in the initial claim objection) without prejudice, and abstain in favor of the pending State Court action on Debtor's complaint (see dkt. 46, 4:11-19). Debtor's recent supporting declaration (dkt. 47, p.9:24-25) states that "ALL that [he is] asking [this Bankruptcy Court] to do" is to determine if "the Creditor[']s claim is valid or if the Debtor[']s claim is valid." (Capitalization in original.) But that is the same thing he has asked the State Court to do, and abstention is appropriate for the reasons stated below. Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Analysis

The tentative ruling is that permissive abstention applies (28 U.S.C. 1334(c)(1)) under In re Tucson Estates, Inc., 912 F.2d 1162, 1167 (9th Cir. 1990).

Under Tucson Estates, considerations for permissive abstention include the following (with this Court's tentative rulings in brackets):

- (1) the effect or lack thereof on the efficient administration of the estate if a Court recommends abstention [it would be inefficient to re-litigate the State Court litigation, which favors abstention],
- (2) the extent to which state law issues predominate over bankruptcy issues [the issues appear to be entirely matters of nonbankruptcy law, which favors abstention],

(3) the difficulty or unsettled nature of the applicable law [inapplicable],

(4) the presence of a related proceeding commenced in state court or other nonbankruptcy court [the pending State Court proceeding involves the same nucleus of operative facts, which favors abstention],

(5) the jurisdictional basis, if any, other than 28 U.S.C. 1334 [none, which favors abstention]

(6) the degree of relatedness or remoteness of the proceeding to the main bankruptcy case [Debtor's attempts to retain the house are strongly related to this bankruptcy case, but also to the State Court litigation, so this consideration is neutral],

(7) the substance rather than form of an asserted "core" proceeding [the issues are all matters of nonbankruptcy law, which favors abstention]

(8) the feasibility of severing state law claims from core bankruptcy matters to allow judgments to be entered in state court with enforcement left to the bankruptcy court [it is entirely feasible to defer to the State Court, because there are no issues that are matters of bankruptcy law, which favors abstention],

(9) the burden of [the bankruptcy court's] docket [this litigation would burden this Bankruptcy Court's docket, and would be duplicative of the State Court litigation, which favors abstention]

(10) the likelihood that the commencement of the proceeding in bankruptcy court involves forum shopping by one of the parties [Debtor appears to be forum shopping, which favors abstention],

(11) the existence of a right to a jury trial [the State Court can provide the debtor with a jury trial, which favors abstention]

(12) the presence in the proceeding of nondebtor parties [if other defendants in the State Court proceeding are necessary and cannot be made subject to this Court's jurisdiction, that would favor abstention, and otherwise this consideration is neutral]. [Tucson Estates, 912 F.2d 1162, 1167 (citation and internal quotation marks omitted)]

Based on the foregoing, the tentative ruling is that permissive abstention is warranted.

If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 3/21/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Procedures

Debtor's claim objection (dkt. 18-20) requests multiple forms of relief, including an award of damages of not less than $100,000 against creditor Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. ("Wells Fargo"). It appears that an adversary proceeding may be required. See Rules 3007(b) & 7001 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

Debtor has not complied with various other procedures, but the tentative ruling is to excuse such non-compliance, with a caution that future non-compliance with applicable rules might result in adverse rulings. (Debtor's objection papers do not reflect proper service on Wells Fargo; Debtor did not include a copy of Wells Fargo's proof of claim and referred to claim no.1 when the correct identifier is claim no.2; etc.)

Debtor may wish to consider retaining a capable bankruptcy attorney.

(2) Creditor's request for more time

The opposition filed by Wells Fargo (dkt. 33) requests that this Court continue the hearing for 30-45 days so that it can complete its full analysis and then file supplemental papers. The tentative ruling is to grant that request by continuing this matter to 5/16/19 at 8:30 a.m., with a deadline of 5/2/19 for Wells Fargo's supplemental papers.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Docket 30

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part, continue in part to 6/4/19 at 10:00 a.m. to address the following issues. Appearances are not required on 5/21/19.

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay.
See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

#11.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

WELLS FARGO BANK, N.A.
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 9

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is not sufficient evidence and notice.

No prejudice to Debtor intended. Based on the record, it appears that this is a "hijacked" case, and that Debtor is innocent of any involvement. See e.g., In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017) (describing hijacking); In re Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) (same). Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to condition any relief from the automatic stay on this Court's determination that this motion shall not result in the application of sections 109(g)(2) and 362(b)(21)(A) to Debtor or any property other than the property that is the subject of this motion for relief from the automatic stay, and that by not contesting this tentative ruling the movant has waived and forfeited any contrary argument. See In re Leaffy, 479 B.R. 545, 550-51 (9th Cir. BAP 2012); In re Mendez, 367 B.R. 109, 116-17 (9th Cir. BAP 2007); In re Luna, 122 B.R. 575, 577 (9th Cir. BAP 1991); Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261, 270.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Docket 12

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions. Appearances are not required.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

#19.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order
Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic
Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required. The parties should be prepared to address the following issues.

Analysis:

Creditor WBL SPE III, LLC ("Creditor") apparently holds a second deed of trust on the property that Debtor lists on her bankruptcy papers as the family home, at 24310 Via La Casa, Valencia, CA 91354 (the "Home"). Creditor objects that asserts that, contrary to her bankruptcy schedules, Debtor has no cognizable ownership interest in the Home. More generally, Creditor objects that Debtor has not provided complete or accurate disclosures regarding who owns the Home.

The tentative ruling is that the record is not entirely clear that Debtor lacks any interest at all in the Home; and alternatively even if Debtor lacks an interest in the Home it is not clear that this would mean the automatic stay and co-debtor stay do not apply now and (if Debtor's motion is granted) in future. But the tentative ruling is also that Creditor is correct that Debtor's bankruptcy schedules are woefully inadequate, which calls into question whether Debtor can meet her burden to establish good faith, at least as to Creditor.

(1) Whether Debtor has any interest in the property

Creditor provides copies of two grant deeds. Both apparently involve the Home, and Creditor apparently asserts a second deed of trust lien against the Home.

The first grant deed (dkt. 14, Ex. A) recites that it transfers the property from Mancuso Properties III to Debtor's non-debtor spouse "as his sole and separate property" (the "Spouse"). Normally, property acquired during the marriage is subject to the presumption of community property. In re Marriage of Valli, 58 Cal. 4th 1396, 1400 (2014). But spouses may transmute community property to separate property. Id. Although the form of the first deed itself is insufficient to establish an interspousal transfer (id.), that is where the second grant deed comes in.

The second grant deed is an interspousal grant deed from Debtor to Spouse, which includes the statement, "This conveyance establishes sole and separate property of a spouse" Dkt. 14-3, Ex.B, at PDF p.11. In other words, this is a transfer that appears to satisfy Valli, so it appears that Creditor is correct and Debtor relinquished any interest in the Home.

That said, it is possible that after the House was transferred to Spouse, community property funds were used to pay off or pay down liens on the house (as Debtor's and Spouse's last-minute declarations declare, dkt. 16 & 17), and that this or something else created an interest in the House in favor of Debtor. See also Mejia v. Reed, 31 Cal.4th 657 (2003) (spousal transfer can be voidable fraudulent transfer). Debtor and Spouse assert that both of them intended to own the property together.

At the very least (at least without further briefing, and perhaps evidence), this Court is not prepared to rule that the bankruptcy estate has no interest in the Home. Therefore the tentative ruling is that Creditor's first argument is not persuasive.

(2) The automatic stay and co-debtor stay are broad

This Court notes that the automatic stay and co-debtor stay apply to more than just property interests. It is not clear from Creditor's opposition (dkt. 14) whether it asserts any in personam claim against Debtor (as opposed to claims solely against Spouse and in rem claims against the Home), and on this or other grounds the stay might apply now and (if Debtor's motion is granted) in future. See 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(1) through (8) and 1301.

Accordingly, to the extent Creditor is arguing that the automatic stay does not apply, this is an alternative reason to reject Creditor's argument.

(3) But Debtor appears not to have provided candid disclosures

(a) Ownership of Home

As Creditor points out, Debtor's bankruptcy schedules (dkt. 1) do not disclose the Spouse's apparent ownership of the Home. Nor do they even disclose that Spouse is a co-debtor with respect to the debt on the Home. Id.

(b) Purported income

Chapter 13

This Court's own review of the bankruptcy schedules reveals that Debtor's Bankruptcy Schedule I, line 8a, provides woefully inadequate information about the purported means of funding Debtor's proposed chapter 13 plan. Debtor alleges that she and Spouse have been employed, for one month, by an entity called Boss Janitorial Services, Inc. But, although Debtor and Spouse apparently assert that they are employees not owners of that business, no employment income is listed. Instead Debtor lists only round numbers of $2,000.00 and $5,000.00 as "business" income, with no statement showing gross receipts, expenses, and calculation of net income (as required by the instructions to that form). Among other things, there is no disclosure of any employment taxes or other payroll or business deductions or expenses. In other words, the purported $2,000 and $5,000 of income lacks any foundation and appears to be nothing more than a hope of potential future income.

(c) Whether Debtor has met her burden to show good faith

Based on the foregoing, Debtor appears to have filed bankruptcy schedules that are very misleading if not simply wrong about the ownership of the House and whether Spouse is a co-debtor; and Debtor's Bankruptcy Schedule I provides woefully inadequate information about the purported income that is supposed to be used to fund any chapter 13 plan. Can Debtor satisfy her burden under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3)(B) to demonstrate that the filing of this case is in good faith, either as to Creditor or as to all creditors?

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #21.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order
Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic
Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions. Appearances are not required.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. Docket 32

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/9/19:

Terminate the automatic stay, because Debtor has not filed an amended plan as required by the terms of the Adequate Protection Agreement of the parties (see dkt. 55). Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 3/26/19:

Appearances required. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address the assertion by Debtor's attorney that Debtor is unable to comply with this Court's Order on Motion for Relief From Stay (dkt. 43) because her checks in payment of the tax-related debt have been returned to her with a notation that she has now overpaid that debt, and any other matters relevant to this motion. See dkt. 47.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 1/8/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

Movant's supplemental papers (dkt. 37) assert debts for (1) reimbursement for paying real estate taxes of $9,851.79 and (2) reimbursement for force placed insurance of $3,912 (2 x $1,956). The tentative ruling is (1) to require Debtor to pay the tax-related debt via a motion to modify her confirmed chapter 13 plan to amortize that debt over the remaining term of the plan, and (2) to pay the insurance-related debt via a standard adequate protection order ("APO").

(1) Real estate taxes

Debtor argues (dkt. 41) that her chapter 13 plan was intended to include when it listed movant (or its predecessor in interest) with a debt of $33,000 (dkt. 15, confirmed by dkt. 22). But it appears that Debtor listed the wrong party with respect to taxes.

According to Movant, it did not pay those taxes until many months postpetition, on 8/28/28 (see dkt. 37, para. 20), so as of the petition date the debt was owed to the tax authorities, not Movant. Therefore Debtor should have listed the tax authorities in her chapter 13 plan.

Because Debtor did not do so, it appears that those tax debts went unpaid until Movant paid them. Meanwhile, as provided in the confirmation order (dkt. 22), Movant's proof of claim (no. 2-1) controls the monthly distributions by the Chapter 13 Trustee, and that proof of claim apparently did not include the taxes (it is for $20,085.53, which Debtor concedes is substantially less than the $33,000 estimated in her plan).

Based on the foregoing, it appears that the best way to restore the parties to the position they would have been if Debtor had correctly included the tax authorities in her plan is to require Debtor to file a motion to modify her plan to amortize the tax-related debt, with interest payable to Movant at the contract rate, over the remaining term of the chapter 13 plan. The tentative ruling is that Debtor must file such a motion in time to be self-calendared for hearing on the chapter 13 calendar on 2/21/19 at 8:30 a.m.

(2) Insurance

The force placed insurance appears to be for postpetition periods (and paid by Movant postpetition). Accordingly, it is a postpetition default, and a standard six month APO appears to be the appropriate remedy (with the usual cure period of 14 days after any default under the APO, and a maximum of three opportunities for any such cure). The tentative ruling is to direct Movant to prepare and lodge that APO within seven days after this hearing.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 12/11/18:

At the hearing on 11/27/18 this Court was persuaded to continue this matter as Debtor appeared to contest the tentative ruling and inform the Court that the property is insured. Counsel for Movant informed the Court that a declaration re insurance coverage for past period was required.

Appearances required. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address whether they have resolved their issues re insurance coverage.

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination. Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) is also terminated, because it has not been shown to have any basis to exist independent of the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a). To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief. Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Tentative Ruling for 5/21/19:

Tentative Ruling for 5/21/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to (1) address why they did not file a status report as required by this Court's adopted tentative ruling for 3/26/19, and (2) apprise this Court why their settlement agreement has not been documented and, if necessary or appropriate, why they have not filed and served a motion for approval of that settlement under Rule 9019 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 3/26/19:

Continue to 5/21/19 at 11:00 a.m., with a brief status report due by 5/7/19, in light of the parties' Joint Status Report (adv. dkt. 10). Appearances are not required on 3/26/19.

Tentative Ruling for 1/8/19:

Appearances required. This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (dkt. 5) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 1/22/19 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 11/2/18. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

(1) Current issues

(a) General status

Debtor was ordered to file a status report no later than April 30, 2019. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, no such report has been filed. Should this Court impose sanctions?

Debtor's prior status report (#5, dkt. 128) states that Debtor has no unsecured debt and "will seek refinancing of its assets and/or the sale of properties in order to pay off the entire debt of the Las Flores Property and fund a confirmable Chapter 11 Plan." Dkt. 128, p.2:17-20. This Court previously presumed that Debtor was focused on sales, because refinancings appear to be unrealistic. But now Debtor's principal declares (dkt. 139, p.4, para.4-5) that he is currently in negotiations with potential lenders to refinance two of Debtor's three properties which "will pay" all secured debt against the properties. That appears to be entirely unrealistic.

Debtor has almost no funds: it reports only $50.01 as of 3/31/19 in its latest Monthly Operating Report ("MOR"). See MOR#10 (dkt. 136), p.1. Apart from that, Debtor has three properties:

(i) Las Flores/Altadena Property. This property is supposed to have been sold for $850,000. See dkt. 129. That is unlikely to generate any useable proceeds because this $850,000 is subject to a real estate broker's commission of $17,000, real estate taxes estimated at over $18,000, and the claim of Crescent Capital Holdings, LLC ("Crescent") of $763,832.42 as of the petition date plus alleged postpetition interest for one year at 29.99%. See dkt.110, p.4:10-17, dkt. 129, and POC 3-1. Although interest above the non-default rate will not be presently distributed to Crescent, nor will it be distributed to Debtor (until after resolution of any claim objection, or other order of this Court).

(ii) Cahuenga Park Property. Debtor values this property at $900,000. Dkt. 30, p.3. Creditor WRCOF Asset Trust 2017-2 ("Cahuenga Trust") asserts a secured claim of $811,295.30 as of the petition date, plus postpetition interest for almost a year at 12%. POC 4-1. After the balance of unpaid real estate taxes (POC 5-1 for over $65,000), this property is unlikely to have any useable equity.

Chapter 11

(iii) Date Property. Debtor values this property at $800,000 (dkt. 30, p.3). No proof of claim has been filed by the holder of the loan debt secured by this property. Debtor estimated this claim at $532,000 as of the petition date (dkt.15 at PDF p.9), but given Debtor's wildly inaccurate estimation of other claims ($627,497.80 against the Cahuenga Park Property, and $695,831.34 against the Los Flores/Altadena Property) this Court is not persuaded that there is any useable equity in this property.

The bottom line is that any expectation of being able to refinance these properties appears, on the present record, to be unrealistic and a waste of time. Apparently any refinancing would be preconditioned on successful prosecution of claim objections, but nearly a year into this case no claim objections have been filed, let alone successfully prosecuted. See, e.g., dkt. 139, p.2:21-22 (Debtor's admits it has no equity in the Cahuenga Park Property based on the "alleged balance" of the secured claim against that property).

Debtor's only plausible path appears to be to sell the properties; pay the undisputed portion of the secured claims; and, if there are legitimate grounds to do so at this late date, prosecute claim objections.

(b) Crescent's Motion for Relief from Stay (dkt. 78)

Has the sale of the Las Flores/Altadena Property closed? If so, what dollar amount is being held in escrow pending determination of Crescent's claim? What deadline should this Court set to file its objection to Crescent's claim?

(b) Cahuenga Trust's Motion for Relief from Stay (dkt. 134)

What dollar amount of monthly adequate protection payments should be required (see dkt. 134 & the debtor's late-filed response, dkt. 139)? How can Debtor afford to pay that, given the lack of funds reflected in the latest MOR (dkt. 136)? Has Debtor been receiving rents, and are any rents reflected in the MORs?

(c) March MOR (dkt. 136)

This Court is concerned with several items in the March MOR. First, Debtor reports that it did not pay an adequate protection payment of $5,200 to Triumph Capital. Dkt. 136, p.23. Second, Debtor reports being behind $975 on UST quarterly fees. Id. at PDF p.15. Debtor should be prepared to address these issues.

Tentative Ruling for 4/2/19:

(1) Current issues

(a) Closing of sale (per Order, dkt. 129)

Debtor's status report (dkt. 128) does not state how soon the approved sale will close. When is it scheduled to close?

(b) Motion for Relief from Stay (dkt. 78)

If there is a satisfactory answer to how soon the sale will close, the tentative ruling is to continue this motion to the same time as the continued status conference to allow time for the sale to be completed and for Debtor to pay approximately $645,707.28 to Crescent ($870,885 payoff demand, per dkt. 128, p.3:14, minus amounts to be held aside pending resolution of forthcoming claim objection: approximately $200,177.72 in default interest and $25,000 balloon fee).

Tentative Ruling for 3/5/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Application to employ James Gallardo as real estate broker (dkt. 112, 113)

The parties must inform the Court as to the status of the Mr. Vasquez and the bankruptcy estate having separate real estate brokers (or Mr. Vasquez proceeding without a broker); how any brokers will split the 4% commission; and the other issues laid out by the Court in the tentative ruling for the 2/26/19 hearing. The tentative ruling is that the sale cannot be approved until a broker is authorized to represent the estate in the sale.

(b) Debtor's Motion for Authority to Sell Altadena Property (the "Sale Motion," dkt. 102, 105, 114)

(i) Payment of costs of sale, including real estate brokers

The tentative ruling is to sustain the UST's objection (dkt. 104) and Crescent's objection (dkt. 110) to the extent they object to paying any attorney fees out of escrow, or paying the real estate brokers until those brokers are actually retained, but overrule those objections to the extent they object to paying costs of sale, including real estate brokers, ahead of Crescent.

(ii) Payment of the portion of Crescent's claim that is not (yet) disputed, and real estate taxes statement has been generated to update the amount to be paid to Crescent and to show that real estate taxes will be paid out of escrow.

(iii) "Good faith" finding

If Mr. Vasquez files a declaration that comports with Judge Bason's procedures before the proposed order approving the sale is lodged, then the tentative ruling is to include a good faith finding in that order.

(iv) Approval of sale

Subject to all the foregoing (including that a broker must be retained before the sale can be approved), the tentative ruling is to approve the sale.

(c) Motion for Relief from Stay (dkt. 78)

The tentative ruling is to continue this motion to the same time as the continued status conference to allow time for the sale to be completed.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 6/11/18.

(a) Bar date: 2/8/19 (timely served, dkt. 67)

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD.

(c) Continued status conference: 4/30/19 at 1:00 p.m., brief status report due 4/23/19

Tentative Ruling for 2/26/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues (dkt. 111 etc.)

Debtor's proposed sale of certain real estate is intertwined with Debtor's proposed employment of a real estate broker. The tentative ruling is to go forward with the sale hearing, including any overbids, and approve the sale on a provisional basis, with a continued hearing on both the employment application and the sale motion at the same time as the continued status conference (see below).

(a) Application to employ James Gallardo as real estate broker (dkt. 112, 113)

As pointed out by both the United States Trustee ("UST") (dkt. 104) and creditor Crescent Capital Holdings ("Crescent") (dkt.110), Mr. Gallardo is purporting to act as a dual agent, for both the seller (Debtor) and the proposed buyer (subject to overbids), Luis Vasquez. Judge Bason prohibits dual agency, as noted both in his posted Procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) and in the order approving the prior real estate broker (dkt. 92) (Mr. Leal).

The tentative ruling is that the lack of dual agency is mandated by the disinterestedness requirements of the Bankruptcy Code and Rules, so it cannot be waived. It is irrelevant that, outside of bankruptcy, it is not uncommon for parties in real estate transactions to accept their agent's lack of disinterestedness. See Reply to Sale Motion (dkt. 115, p.3:10-21).

Accordingly, the tentative ruling is that, if the highest and best bid is that of Mr. Vasquez, then Mr. Vasquez must file a declaration confirming that he has retained his own real estate broker (who must be unaffiliated with Mr. Gallardo), and Mr. Gallardo must represent only Debtor and the bankruptcy estate (not Mr. Vasquez).

In addition, the parties are directed to address whether Mr. Gallardo and/or Debtor's counsel must pay the additional real estate broker out of either (i) a portion of the 4% commission that was to have been paid solely to Mr. Gallardo, or (ii) out of a reduction in Debtor's counsel's attorney fees, so that the bankruptcy estate is not prejudiced by Debtor's non-compliance with the prohibition on dual agency. In other words, should this Court order that the total commission to all real estate brokers combined must not exceed 4%?

In addition, there might be other grounds for objecting to Mr. Gallardo's employment, and the time for objections has not yet expired, so the employment cannot be approved yet. The employment application was served on 2/12/19, which means that objections can be filed until 3/1/19 (14 days plus 3 for service via U.S. mail). Until after that date, parties in interest and this Court will not know if, for example, someone were to object to Mr. Gallardo's employment and the proposed sale on the basis that Mr. Gallardo had an undisclosed interest in the sale.

Chapter 11

The tentative ruling is that until Mr. Guillardo's employment is approved, the sale must be only provisionally approved. The tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to shorten time (Rule 9006, Fed. R. Bankr. P.) because there is a substantial risk in any bankruptcy sale that if the sale is deferred then prospective purchasers may be unable or unwilling to continue to bid on the property (this Court takes judicial notice that there are considerable costs in holding a proposed sale open, if it is even possible to retain enough funds on hand to close a sale that has been deferred).

For all of the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is to set the employment application for hearing at the same time as the continued sale motion and continued status conference (see below).

(b) Debtor's Motion for Authority to Sell Altadena Property (the "Sale Motion," dkt. 102, 105, 114)

(i) Continued hearing

The tentative ruling is to approve the sale (subject to overbids) on a provisional basis, with a continued hearing at the same time as the continued status conference (see below). Between now and that continued hearing, Mr. Vasquez must arrange for a separate real estate broker to represent him (or must proceed without any real estate broker), and must disclaim any reliance on any past representation by Mr. Guillardo and any present representation by him. In addition, the parties can take whatever steps may be appropriate to address the issues set forth below.

(ii) No approval or payment of attorney fees at this time

The tentative ruling is to sustain the objection of the UST (dkt. 104), joined in by Crescent (dkt. 110), that attorney fees must be subject to approval by this Court pursuant to the usual procedures, and that any approval of the proposed sale shall not be deemed to be approval of the attorney fees. The tentative ruling is that the proposed attorney fees must be held by Debtor's counsel in a separate account from which funds cannot be released without further order of this Court (a "Blocked Account"). In addition, the tentative ruling is to defer any ruling on Crescent's objection that it should be paid in full before any attorney fees are allowed (dkt. 110, p.5:24-25), because the timing of any distribution of attorney fees can be addressed in connection with allowance or disallowance of those fees.

(iii) Payment of real estate taxes

Crescent objects (dkt. 110, pp.4:24-5:14) that LA County's claim for real estate taxes, estimated to be $18,456.38, is of a lower priority than Crescent's own claim and therefore should not be paid until Crescent is paid in full. The parties are directed to address (x) whether the real estate taxes are in fact of a lower priority than Crescent's lien, (y) whether any doctrine of marshaling should apply (i.e., whether, even if Crescent's lien is of a higher priority in this property, its claim should be paid from the sale of any other property of the estate so that LA County can be paid out of this sale, or alternatively whether LA County is entitled to a replacement lien on other property so that it is not prejudiced by the fact that this property is being sold prior to other properties), and (z) whether any disputed funds that Debtor proposes to pay either LA County or Crescent must be held in the Blocked Account pending further order of this Court.

In addition, the parties are directed to address how any accruing interest affects the analysis. For example, if funds are held in a Blocked Account pending resolution of the competing claims of LA County and Crescent, will those claims continue to accrue interest at the rate that otherwise would apply (e.g., 18% or 29.99% or some other high rate), or only at the rate that is being paid by the bank at which the Blocked Account is maintained (e.g., 1%)?

The parties also are directed to address what will happen if the funds are distributed to LA County (to stop interest running) but later turn out to be payable to Crescent or the bankruptcy estate. Will LA County be subject to a disgorgement order, consistent with any sovereign immunity analysis?

(iv) Payment of costs of sale, including real estate brokers

The tentative ruling is to sustain the UST's objection (dkt. 104) and Crescent's objection (dkt. 110) to the extent they object to paying the real estate brokers until those brokers are actually retained. But the tentative ruling is to overrule Crescent's objection to the extent it is seeking to bar paying of any costs of sale, including real estate brokers, until it is paid in full, because those costs are properly chargeable out of Crescent's collateral. See dkt. 110, p.4:5-7; 11 U.S.C. 506(c).

(v) Payment of the portion of Crescent's claim that is not (yet) disputed

Crescent objects that Debtor has had considerable time in which to file any objection to its claim, but has yet to do so, and that the only portion of its claim as to which an objection has been outlined is the default interest. The tentative ruling is that this objection is well taken: not until 2/13/19 did Debtor assert that it would object to Crescent's claim on the additional ground of not fully funding the construction loan. See dkt. 114, p.4, para.7; dkt. 115, p.4:24-26. The tentative ruling is that this last minute suggestion of a possible type of claim objection is insufficient to support Debtor's proposal to withhold all distributions from Crescent.

In other words, the tentative ruling is that Debtor must pay all principal and non-default interest through the date of closing of escrow, plus all other charges included in the proof of claim, without prejudice to Crescent seeking additional charges and default interest, and conversely without prejudice to Debtor objecting at a later time to any charges (other than principal and non-default interest). This means that Debtor would have to pay out of escrow not only principal and non-default interest but also any attorney fees, late fees, or other charges included in the Proof of Claim, and Crescent subsequently could seek additional attorney fees and other charges, but Debtor subsequently could object both to any attorney fees and other charges that have already been distributed and to any new attorney fees and other charges.

The foregoing tentative ruling attempts to balance Debtor's broad rights to object to claims at any time against Debtor's unexplained delay in raising these issues, and against Crescent's rights (consistent with this Court's adequate protection order) to receive distributions without undue delay.

Debtor's latest closing statement (dkt. 114, Ex.A, at PDF p.6) lists the "Loan Payoff" as "To Be Determined" but with an (estimated) amount of $512,500. Crescent is directed to address at the hearing the approximate dollar amount that will comport with the foregoing tentative ruling.

(vi) "Good faith" finding

The tentative ruling is that any "good faith" finding (11 U.S.C. 363(m)) will require a declaration from any successful bidder that complies with the posted Procedures of Judge Bason:

§ 363(m): "Good Faith" Findings. Supporting declaration(s) should address: (1) connections: the bidder's prior, current, or expected connections with any relevant persons (other bidders, the debtor, major creditors or equity security holders in the case, or any of the debtor's officers, directors, agents, or employees, including whether any offers of employment or compensation have been made or will be offered to debtor's present or former officers, directors, agents, or employees), (2) consideration: whether any consideration is contemplated or has been transferred by the bidder in connection with the sale to any person other than the bankruptcy estate, and (3) absence of fraud or collusion between the bidder and any relevant persons (e.g., other bidders, the debtor's officers, directors, agents or employees), or any attempt to take unfair advantage of other bidders. See generally In re M Capital Corp., 290 B.R. 743, 748-49 (9th Cir. BAP 2003). As used in this paragraph, a "bidder" includes all known prospective bidders. [Judge Bason's posted Procedures, available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov]

(c) Motion for Relief from Stay (dkt. 78)

The tentative ruling is to continue this motion to the same time as the continued hearing on the Sale Motion.

(d) Motion for 2004 Examination (the "2004 Motion," dkt. 106)

Grant in part and deny in part as follows. The tentative ruling is to exercise this Court's discretion to limit discovery in keeping with the general principles set forth in Rule 26(b) and 45(d)&(e) (Fed. R. Civ. P.) and Rules 7026, 9016 and 9018 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). Without limiting the foregoing, this Court is particularly aware that (i) although Debtor has yet to file any actual objection to Crescent's claim, that is clearly contemplated; (ii) Crescent has an interest in maintaining the confidentiality of its loan-analysis methodology; and (iii) Debtor has not shown that it lacks its own records on many of the issues on which it seeks discovery and that the relative burdens and benefits weigh in its favor.

The tentative ruling is that no later than 3/15/19 Crescent must produce the documents listed below (the list is excerpted from the 2004 Motion) and that Crescent's person most knowledgeable about the subject matter of those document requests must appear for examination at Debtor's bankruptcy counsel's law offices on 4/5/19 at 10:00 a.m. The document requests/subject matter that this Court tentatively will allow is as follows:

- (1) "ALL COMMUNICATIONS between YOU and the DEBTOR RELATING TO THE $500,000 LOAN" (dtk. 106, PDF p.23, Section A.6)
- (2) "ALL DOCUMENTS, including COMMUNICATIONS, RELATING TO YOUR assessment of the default interest rate with respect

- ot he $500,000 LOAN" (Id. at PDF p.24, Section A.11)
- (3) "ALL DOCUMENTS referring or relating to YOUR calculations of damages that YOU would sustain in the event of any default under the $500,000 LOAN" (Id. at PDF p.25, Section B.17)
 - (4) "ALL DOCUMENTS referring or relating to YOUR analysis of the appropriate default interest to apply to the $500,000 LOAN" (Id. at PDF p.25, Section B.18)
 - (5) "ALL DOCUMENTS referring or relating to YOUR efforts to arrive at a default interest rate that was intended to compensate YOU for actual anticipated damages that would result from a default under the $500,000 LOAN" (Id. at PDF p. 25, Section B.22)
 - (6) "All appraisals or title reports completed RELATING TO the REAL PROPERTY" (Id. at PDF p.26, Section B.26)

The tentative ruling is, notwithstanding Debtor's reply (dkt. 117), to sustain Crescent's objections (dkt. 109) to the remaining questions, without prejudice to Debtor seeking further discovery (either under Rule 2004 or under other discovery rules, as appropriate) based upon a proper showing. For example, as noted above Debtor now contemplates that it might object to Crescent's claim based on Crescent not fully funding the construction loan, but Debtor provides no information about the facts and circumstances, which might assist Crescent and this Court to evaluate whether discovery is or is not focused on relevant issues.

Did Crescent promise to fund the loan with no strings attached, or did it impose performance metrics, or was the remaining funding within Crescent's sole discretion? What dollar amount did Crescent refuse to fund? When did it do so? What reasons, if any, did it give? Is Debtor contemplating a breach of contract objection, or a tort claim, or both?

In addition, the tentative ruling is to overrule Crescent's remaining objections as follows:

(i) LBR 2004-1(a): While the conference between Debtor and Crescent may not have been productive (dkt. 109, p.2), this Court is satisfied that for present purposes, the parties have "attempt[ed] to confer" as required by LBR 2004-1(a).

(ii) LBR 9013-1: Although the amount of notice of Debtor's 2004 Motion was short, Crescent has not shown that it was prejudiced by such shortened notice. The tentative ruling is to excuse any untimeliness in the

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/21/19:

Appearances are not required on 5/21/19.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's counsel's fee application (dkt. 175, 177)

Allow $145,683.50 in fees and $5,714.10 in expenses for a total of $151,397.50, and authorize draw down of the retainer ($124,846.70 remaining), with the balance of the fees and expenses to paid from the estate.

Cathay Bank's response (dkt. 207) does not object to allowance of the fees but seeks to reserve all rights it might have regarding a purported lien on some of the retainer. Debtor's reply (dkt. 215) asserts that the bank has no such rights to reserve because it has been given a replacement lien on the real estate.

This Court's recollection is that the bank did not entirely waive such rights at the hearing on 5/7/19, but did indicate that it was no more going to seek disgorgement from Debtor's firm (of authorized postpetition distributions from the retainer account) than it would seek disgorgement from one of Debtor's utilities (of authorized postpetition utility payments). In any event, whatever the parties' interpretations of the representations on 5/7/19, the issue is too remote for either party to be expending any substantial attorney fees on it at this time.

Cathay Bank has its security interest in the accounts receivable that existed as of the petition date, and it has replacement liens in ongoing accounts receivable. Debtor believes the bank will be paid in full out of those things. But as adequate protection (11 U.S.C. 361, 363(e) & 552(b)) the bank has replacement liens in Debtor's real estate - to cover both (i) any diminution in the value of its security interest in the accounts receivable as of the petition date and (ii) any diminution in the value of its purported security interest in the retainer as of the petition date. Therefore the bank's and Debtor's rights are both reserved, and neither party should be spending much time on this issue. Any attorney fees spent arguing about this issue are subject to this Court's review for reasonableness (under 11 U.S.C. 330 and 331 for Debtor's counsel, and under 11 U.S.C. 506(b) for Cathay Bank's counsel).

(b) Application to employ real estate broker (dkt. 164)

The tentative ruling is, with one exception, to overrule the objection of Cathay Bank (dkt. 199), based on Debtor's reply (dkt. 214). The exception is that, although Debtor has presented evidence of the reasonableness of the broker's proposed commission and experience, and this Court generally should defer to Debtor's business judgment, Cathay Bank makes a good point that the real estate at issue ranges broadly from a single family residence to commercial property etc., and there is insufficient evidence of the proposed broker's specific experience as to each type of real estate. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 5/24/19 for Debtor to file and serve a supplemental declaration detailing such experience, with a deadline of 5/29/19 for any supplemental objection by Cathay Bank, and a continued hearing (if there is any such objection) concurrent with the continued status conference (see below).

As for disinterestedness (11 U.S.C. 101(14), 327(a)), Cathay Bank argues that the broker is not disinterested because, from the information on the docket, it appears that one of its alleged employees (Mr. Akbari) is a relative by marriage of one of Debtor's principals, and the principals are beneficiaries of a trust that engaged in prepetition transactions with Debtor that, according to the bank, violated Debtor's covenants with the bank. On the one hand, it is true that Mr. Akbari previously declared that he was "employed" by the broker (dkt. 77, p.1:22).

On the other hand, this Court interprets that as an (unfortunately) imprecise description of his arrangement as an independent contractor. Alternatively, even if he is an employee, this Court is not persuaded that this disqualifies the broker from employment by the estate.

Mr. Akbari apparently is married to the sister of the wife of one of Debtor's officers/control persons. The tentative ruling is that this makes him related "by affinity or consanguinity" within the fourth degree (1.officer - 2.spouse - 3.sister of spouse - 4.Mr. Akbari), so he is not a "relative" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 101(45) and therefore he is not an "insider" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 101(31)(B)(vi) or (E). That is not dispositive, because, the statutory list of insiders "includes" but is not limited to the listed examples. See 11 U.S.C. 102(3). But the tentative ruling is that the connection has been sufficiently disclosed (Rule 2014, Fed. R. Bankr. P.) and is not disqualifying.

In practical terms, this Court does not perceive that any alleged ties between the proposed real estate broker and Debtor's principal creates any incentive to lessen the price obtained for the real estate, or otherwise prejudice the interests of the bankruptcy estate. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to approve the employment, subject to satisfactory supplemental evidence as set forth above.

(a) Bar date: 6/17/19 (timely served, dkt. 129).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: The tentative ruling is to vacate any deadline to file a proposed plan and disclosure statement, given the current posture of this case.

draw down on the retainer as otherwise permitted (e.g., after allowance of fees in the forthcoming interim fee application), without deciding at this time whether Cathay Bank does or does not have a traceable security interest in the retainer. Instead the tentative ruling is to grant the Bank a replacement lien, in the full amount of the Bank's disputed lien on the retainer, on Debtor's real estate (to the extent, if any, that the Bank's existing replacement lien does not already apply). That replacement lien would be subject to the same limitations on validity, priority, and amount as this Court has ordered with respect to cash collateral (see dkt. 71).

Reasons: Given the Bank's current debt of approximately $3.1 million (see dkt. 156, p.5:15-21), and the equity in the real estate of approximately $4 million (see id., p.6:4-11), such a replacement lien appears fully sufficient to provide adequate protection. Meanwhile, any further litigation over the retainer issue appears unnecessary and potentially wasteful and distracting from the other, important issues in this bankruptcy case.

(b) Continued use of cash collateral (dkt. 156)

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not sufficiently justified its proposed expenditures under the line item for "Professional Fees (Legal, Accounting)." The tentative ruling is to grant the motion for use of cash collateral, through 8/18/19, except that professional fees must be limited, and the tentative ruling is to set a limit of paying not more than $15,000 per week without further authorization of this Court. (To be clear: if Debtor in its business judgment believes that it must incur more than that amount of professional fees, it may do so, subject to the usual limits on reasonableness of fees, billing judgment, and business judgment - what is limited by this tentative ruling is use of cash collateral, not incurring fees.)

(c) Cathay Bank's adequate protection: replacement liens v. cash payments

The tentative ruling is to deny the Bank's request for interim payments. It is already adequately protected by the protections on the terms of this Court's prior orders and the additional protections set forth above.

(1) Current issues

(a) Employment of bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 83)

Debtor is directed to address the issues raised in Cathay Bank's opposition (dkt. 117) (source of retainer; non-consent to use of cash collateral or carve-out; and objection to any Knudsen procedure). In addition, the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) state that counsel must file local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF and also state:

Note: the judge prefers that local form F 2014-1 not repeat the employment application – instead simply say "see application" or the like (reasons: proposed professionals frequently do not track the language of Rule 2014, so the judge requires use of the form so that someone verifies the elements of that rule under penalty of perjury, and so the court staff does not have to do a line-by-line comparison with each element of the Rule).

In addition, although this employment application is not on for hearing at this time, Debtor and all parties in interest should be aware that Judge Bason has in the past disapproved buyer's premiums. See the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) which provide in part that any order authorizing such employment typically will include a provision stating, "no buyer's premium" for auctioneers. This should not be interpreted as making any economic change in the compensation arrangement - the auctioneer and Debtor can adjust what is paid by Debtor such that the net compensation is the same - but the tentative ruling is that this is required both as a matter of disclosure (of what the professional is charging out of property of the estate or the proceeds of such property) and as a matter of disinterestedness (not being paid by both parties, but only by Debtor).

(c) Cash collateral motion (dkt. 13)

Grant on a final basis, on the same terms as the interim order (dkt. 71), except that after review of the parties' briefs (dkt. 76, 78) and the other documents and records before this Court, the tentative ruling is as follows:

(i) Real estate: Continue Cathay Bank's replacement lien on all of Debtor's real properties (subject to adjustment as set forth below).

(ii) Books and records: Grant access to Debtor's historical books and records, and all documents used to create the cash collateral budget and the chart summarizing collateral values, with such access starting on 3/18/19, for Cathay Bank's forensic accountant, James Crossland, to inspect and copy (including copying hard drives), during normal business hours. Such access must be subject to whatever Non-Disclosure Agreement, redaction, or other safeguards as may be necessary or appropriate to protect employees' privacy, attorney-client communications, Debtor's trade secrets, etc. The parties are directed to meet and confer on those issues, and the parties are also directed to review the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) regarding discovery disputes.

(iii) Reporting: Require Debtor to file and serve reconciliations, 10 days in arrears on Wednesday of each week (i.e., covering the week that ended 10 days prior), comparing actual results with budgeted results, and calculating variances against budgeted and actual receipts and expenditures.

(iv) CDs: The tentative ruling is that Cathay Bank need not apply any CDs to the extent that they are collateral for standby letters of credit for any liability to workers' compensation insurers. But the parties are directed to address whether there are any other CDs at issue, and why, as a condition for the other adequate protection being granted to Cathay Bank, it should not be required to apply such other CDs against the loans for which they are collateral, so as to stop accruing interest or other charges adverse to Debtor and the bankruptcy estate.

The tentative ruling is to deny Cathay Bank's request for additional adequate protection in the form of monthly payments of interest. Debtor is liquidating much of its business, which creates a situation in which both assets and cash flow are somewhat uncertain. That uncertainty favors granting the Bank the additional adequate protection set forth above; but it also means that Debtor may have urgent needs to use cash for legitimate purposes other than interest payments to the Bank.

The tentative ruling is that all of the foregoing is subject to being revisited as the facts and circumstances develop. For example, if Debtor turns out to have success in collecting the proportion of accounts receivable that it predicts, it might be appropriate to find that Cathay Bank is adequately protected by a lien on less than all of Debtor's remaining real estate. Likewise, if Debtor pays down some of its debt to Cathay Bank through sales of some real property, that might reduce the need for the replacement liens to be as extensive as contemplated by this tentative ruling.

Conversely, if Debtor's accounts receivable appear to be less valuable than predicted by Debtor then Cathay Bank might need every bit of the replacement liens in Debtor's real property and all other assets (except avoidance actions etc.). Ironically, the more dire Debtor's finances, and the greater the risk of administrative insolvency, the stronger the argument that even if the Bank were free to foreclose it would have to pay someone to liquidate Debtor's assets in an orderly fashion (11 U.S.C. 506(c)), and in any event the "equities of the case" might warrant a carve-out for professionals (11 U.S.C. 552(b)). But those are issues that can be addressed when and if there is any need to do so.

The tentative ruling regarding Cathay Bank's evidentiary objections and due process objections (dkt. 78) is that, if this Court adopts the foregoing tentative ruling (granting replacement liens in essentially all of Debtor's assets), then those objections should be overruled because (x) Cathay Bank cannot be granted a replacement lien in greater than "all" of Debtor's assets, so to a large extent the value of those assets is irrelevant, and (y) whatever weaknesses may exist in Debtor's valuation evidence, there is enough to establish on a prima facie basis a reasonable probability that Cathay Bank is sufficiently over-secured to provide it with a substantial equity cushion, which is one form of adequate protection, and that is sufficient for present purposes.

As for the alleged costs of selling property subject to Cathay Bank's replacement liens, this Court can assess for each proposed sale whether Debtor's proposed use of the proceeds is consistent with adequate protection, and whether Cathay Bank is unreasonably withholding its consent under 11 U.S.C. 363(f)(2). In addition, all parties in interest are directed to the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) regarding

(d) Motion to reject collective bargaining agreements (dkt. 62) (the "1113 Motion")

Debtor seeks relief without a hearing, on 14 days' notice (so called "negative notice," or a "scream or die procedure"). But it appears that an actual hearing is required, and must be held quickly, under 11 U.S.C. 1113(d) (1) ("Upon the filing of an application for rejection the court shall schedule a hearing to be held not later than fourteen days after the date of the filing of such application," although "[t]he court may extend the time for the commencement of such hearing for a period not exceeding seven days where the circumstances of the case, and the interest of justice require such extension, or for additional periods of time to which the trustee and [employee's] representative agree.").

The 1113 Motion was filed on 3/1/19. The tentative ruling is to find that granting a short extension is warranted, based on the apparent lack of prejudice from doing so, and that a hearing should be held either on 3/21/19 at 1:00 p.m. or, if the representatives of the various employee groups will consent, concurrent with the continued status conference (see below). Debtor is directed to address what efforts have been made to obtain the consent of any representative who is not present at the hearing. The tentative ruling is that Debtor must file and serve notice of the hearing date on all representatives (and other parties requiring notice) no later than 3/13/19.

Tentative Ruling for 2/28/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

The tentative ruling, subject to any oppositions at the hearing (pursuant to the orders shortening time) is to grant the following relief and to find that, to the extent relief is granted pursuant to Rules 4001(b)(2) and 6003 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.), such relief is necessary avoid immediate and irreparable harm to the estate.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion to limit notice (dkt. 8)

Grant in substantial part, subject to certain modifications to be addressed at the hearing. Among other things, this Court anticipates that, because the motion was not served on the entire creditor matrix, any party who was not served may seek reconsideration without meeting the usual standards under Rules 9023, 9024 or 52(b) (Fed. R. Bankr. P. & Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Rules 7052 and 9014(c)).

(b) Motion to extend time (dkt. 9)

Grant, with a caution that this Court is unlikely to grant further extensions.

(c) Payroll motion (dkt. 14)

Grant, except to the extent that the proposed payments in Exhibit 1 (dkt. 14, Ex.1) exceed the priority maximum provided in 11 U.S.C. 507(a)(4) and, if applicable, 507(a)(5).

(d) Motion to use prepetition bank accounts (dkt. 12)

Grant, subject to sufficient safeguards (i) to ensure accurate accounting including separation of pre- and postpetition accounting and (ii) to prevent inadvertent payment of prepetition obligations. Debtor is directed to work closely with the Office of the United States Trustee to develop and implement such procedures.

- (1) applicable nonbankruptcy law permits sale of such property free and clear of such interest;
- (2) such entity consents;
- (3) such interest is a lien and the price at which such property is to be sold is greater than the aggregate value of all liens on such property;
- (4) such interest is in bona fide dispute; or
- (5) such entity could be compelled, in a legal or equitable proceeding, to accept a money satisfaction of such interest.

The tentative ruling is that the property may be sold free and clear of the following interests in the property:

- (i) Allco Enterprises Inc. dba Allco Leasing's lien pursuant to section 363(f)(4), because its U.C.C.-2 continuation statement has expired (dkt. 352, at PDF pp. 21-22).
- (ii) Bayview Loan Servicing, LLC's lien pursuant to section 363(f)(2) in view of the parties apparent settlement (dkt. 364). (Unless the settlement falls through, this Court intends to express no view on whether Bayview's interest is in bona fide dispute within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 363(f)(4) (see dkt. 352, at PDF p.20).
- (iii) Epps & Coulson, LLC's lien pursuant to section 363(f)(2) because it apparently has consented to the sale (dkt. 352, at PDF p. 20).
- (iv) All other interests pursuant to section 363(f)(5), and the following analysis from the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov):

§ 363(f): Sales free and clear. Regarding § 363(f)(5), Judge Bason does not follow Clear Channel Outdoor, Inc. v. Knupfer (In re PW, LLC), 391 B.R. 25, 40 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2008). He has ruled that a sale free and clear is permissible under that statute whenever the interest at issue is subject to monetary valuation. See In re Trans World Airlines, Inc., 322 F.3d 283, 290-91 (3d Cir. 2003) ("TWA") (because employees' claims were "subject to monetary valuation," debtor's assets could be sold free and clear of successor liability for such claims under § 363(f)(5)). Alternatively, Judge Bason has ruled that "cramdown" is among the types of legal or equitable proceeding within the statute, or that Clear Channel is distinguishable in most cases under the rationale of In re

Jolan, 403 B.R. 866 (Bankr. W.D. Wash. 2009), because holders of interests can be compelled in numerous other types of legal or equitable proceedings to accept a money satisfaction (which might be $-0- in the case of an interest that is entirely underwater). Those proceedings include a hypothetical foreclosure by one of the lienholders, or a receivership (which could be initiated at the behest of creditors or by the debtor itself). See Cal. Code Civ. Proc. ("CCP") § 564(b)(9) (power to appoint receiver to sell property); CCP § 568.5 (receiver empowered to sell property as provided in CCP §§701.510 et seq.); CCP § 701.630 (extinguishment of liens); CCP § 701.680 (binding effect of sale). The judge respectfully disagrees with In re Hassen Imports P'ship, 502 B.R. 851, 860 et seq. (C.D. Cal. 2013) (hypothetical foreclosure sale did not qualify under section 363(f)(5)).

(2) Status conference

The tentative ruling is to continue this post-confirmation status conference to 8/20/19 at 1:00 p.m., with no written status report required. This Court anticipates that it will issue a tentative ruling, shortly prior to that time, further continuing the status conference if there is no activity on the docket that appears to warrant a status conference at that time.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 3/26/19:

Chapter 11

Tentative Ruling for 12/11/18:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion to Use Cash Collateral (dkt. 57). Withdrawn (dkt. 69).

(b) Proposed refinance. The refinance motion (dkt. 68) was not filed until 12/3/18 - almost half a year after this case was filed: why was it not filed sooner? The motion fails to include the mandatory notice of hearing, objection deadlines, etc. The motion contemplates that the sale will close in January of 2019, but it lists a hearing date of 1/29/19 at 1:00 p.m., which would give almost no leeway to close in January after the hearing: why was the hearing self-calendared so far out? The motion admits that the payoff amounts will increase by then: will the refinance provide sufficient funds to pay all liens in full? The escrow statement contemplates a payment of $30,000 to Debtors' counsel: any such payment must be held in a trust account unless and until approved by this Court. The tentative ruling is to continue this status conference for one week to see if these issues have been corrected, with a warning to counsel for Debtors that there likely will be consequences to his continued disregard for the rules and procedures of this Court, including a reduction in fees.

(2) Dates/Deadlines. This case was filed on 5/28/18.

are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 11/27/18:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion to Use Cash Collateral. Grant on an interim basis, as set forth in the tentative ruling in calendar no. 11 (11/27/18 at 1:00 p.m.).

(b) Proposed refinance. At the status conference on 10/16/18, Debtors' counsel anticipated filing a motion for a refinance very shortly thereafter, and the tentative ruling for that date set forth various items that Debtor would need to address. No such motion is on the docket. The refinance motion was supposed to supersede the proposed plan and disclosure statement, and as noted in the tentative ruling for 10/16/18 those documents are incomplete and confused. See also dkt. 65 (objection of Ditech Fin. LLC). Are debtors and their counsel properly prosecuting this case?

The tentative ruling is to continue this Status Conference with a warning to Debtors and their counsel that if they do not prosecute this case then it likely will be dismissed with a bar against being a debtor again, or converted to chapter 7, or this Court may impose other remedies.

(2) Dates/Deadlines. This case was filed on 5/28/18.

Tentative Ruling for 10/16/18:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues. This Court has reviewed debtor's status report (dkt. 50) and other relevant pleadings.

(a) Plan (dkt. 47) and Disclosure Statement (dkt. 48). These documents are incomplete and confused. But the tentative ruling is that there is no need to proceed with these documents if Debtors are going to proceed with a proper motion to refinance and pay all creditors in full (as stated in their status report).

(b) Proposed refinance. The claims register lists total claims fo $419,929.77 as of the petition date (of which $366,270.15 are listed as secured and $150.29 as priority). The proposed refinance would generate loan proceeds of $463,000. This appears to be sufficient to pay all claims, probably including postpetition interest, although perhaps not including 100% of asserted administrative expenses. Counsel for the debtor should be prepared to address (i) the form of motion he intends to file, (ii) whether that motion will seek authority to pay unsecured claims, and (iii) whether unsecured claims will be paid out of escrow or by some other means and, if the latter, who will hold the net proceeds after payment of secured claims.

(2) Dates/Deadlines. This case was filed on 5/28/18.

Continue to the date and time set forth below. Appearances are not required on 8/14/18.

(1) Current issues. This Court has reviewed debtor's status report (dkt. 38) and other relevant pleadings.

(a) This Court does not have any issues to raise sua sponte.

(2) Dates/Deadlines. This case was filed on 5/28/18.

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: file by 9/25/18 using the forms required by Judge Bason (DO NOT SERVE yet, except on the U.S. Trustee - the court will set a deadline and procedures at a later time).

Note: If the U.S. Trustee wishes to file initial comments on any draft Plan documents before the regular deadline, it should do so at least two weeks prior to the next status conference (but, whether or not any comments are filed, all rights are reserved to object to the Disclosure Statement or Plan when deadline(s) for such objections are established).

by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 6/26/18:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor themselves.

(1) Current issues. This Court has reviewed the debtors' status report (dkt. 14), and the other filed documents and records in this case.

(a) May MOR (dkt. 18). The MOR purports to cover the period from 5/28/18 (the petition date) to 5/31/18, but is essentially blank, including the section for disclosure of existing insurance coverage (dkt. 18, pdf p. 5). Debtors should be prepared to address (i) whether they have insurance coverage on their residential real property (and any other asset requiring insurance); and, if they do (ii) whether they read the MOR and understood it prior to signing.

(b) Case Status Report (dkt. 14).

(i) Budget Motion. The status report says that a budget motion is not required by Judge Bason's procedures (dkt. 14, pdf p. 3), but that is not correct. See Judge Bason's Procedures, Section VII.F ("Judge Bason requires the use of local forms F 2081-2.2.MOTION.BUDGET and F 2081-2.2.ORDER.BUDGET"). Did counsel actually review the posted procedures? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 6/28/18 to file and serve a budget motion.

(ii) Consumers' confidential information. The status report states that the debtors do not have possession, custody, or control of consumers' confidential information (dkt. 14, pdf p. 10), but this Court questions whether that is accurate. What about customer lists from Hey Baby Sales, Inc.? Do the debtors claim any rights to those lists? (e.g. if the case were converted to a chapter 7 case, a sale of the debtors' interest in the company took place, and the buyer wanted the customer lists, would the debtors agree they could not retain or use the lists because the lists are owned by the company?).

The debtors should be prepared to address what steps they will take to protect confidential consumer information, and whether a consumer privacy ombudsman is required (11 U.S.C. 332).

Tentative Ruling 9/18/18

Appearances required.

At a hearing on 7/10/18 this Court orally ordered that (1) the debtor's disclosure statement was approved on a final basis (as reflected in the written order at dkt. 101), (2) the debtor's plan was confirmed, and (3) this post-confirmation Status Conference was set, with a written status report due no later than 9/4/18. No proposed written order has been lodged confirming the debtor's plan. Counsel for the debtor is directed to do so immediately. No written status report was filed. Counsel for the debtor is directed to address why not.

Assuming there are satisfactory responses to the foregoing issues, the tentative ruling is to continue this post-confirmation Status Conference to 12/18/18 at 1:00 p.m., with a written status report due 12/4/18.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Docket 7

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Finances (MOR #9, March 2019, dkt. 94)

At the 4/2/19 hearing, Debtor's counsel informed this Court that Debtor actually was postpetition current with secured creditors despite MOR #6, #7, and #8 reflecting 3 missed payments to FCI Lender and 3 missed payments to Rushmore Loan Management. Debtor's counsel stated that forthcoming amended MORs would reflect that Debtor is current. But only MOR #8 has been amended to reflect those changes (see dkt. 92) and MOR #9 still reflects that the mortgage payments have not been made (dkt. 94, p.7). What is Debtor's explanation?

(b) Second Amended Plan (dkt. 96) and Disclosure Statement (dkt.95)

At the 4/2/19 hearing on Debtor's First Amended Plan, this Court addressed several objections regarding the first amended plan (dkt. 76) and disclosure statement (dkt. 75). One issue was feasibility. Another was, as to Amir Hechter 24/42% Ocean 18, LLC 75.58% ("Hechter/Ocean") (Class 2B, listed as "Nationwide Servicing Center"), that the proposed interest rate (5%) and length of time for repayment (360 months/30 years) were insufficient. See tentative ruling for 4/2/19 (reproduced below). The tentative ruling is that Debtor's second amended plan does not adequately address these issues, and appears to have additional problems.

As for feasibility, the situation is worse because Debtor projects that she will have only $17.31/mo. of positive cash flow (dkt. 95 Ex. C, at PDF p.6) when previously she projected $42.14/mo. for the first 50 months (dkt. 75, Ex.C, at PDF p.6). As for Hecter/Ocean, the term remains unchanged at 30 years, and although Debtor has increased the interest rate from 5% to 5.5%, the tentative ruling is that this is still insufficient for all the reasons set forth in the tentative ruling for 4/2/19 (reproduced below). See dkt. 96 Ex. A, at PDF p.7.

Chapter 11

Note: As a side issue, the Plan has been confusingly amended in ways that turn out not to make a material difference. Specifically, Debtor has moved some debt repayment out of Exhibit A of the proposed Plan (which is supposed to show all payments to creditors) and into Exhibit I (which is supposed to show net income available to pay creditors).

Previously Debtor correctly listed payments to Wilmington Savings Fund ("Wilmington") on two separate lines of Exhibit A - once for the arrearage ($402.95/mo. to be paid over 60 months) and once for the restructured ongoing payments ($1187.10/mo. to be paid over a longer term). See 1st Am. Plan, dkt. 76, Ex.A. True, Debtor incorrectly listed the arrearage in Class 1A, which is supposed to be for a principal residence (id.), but that could have been readily fixed by listing Wilmington in two rows that were both designated as Class 2A: one row for arrears and one row for restructured ongoing payments. Instead Debtor has listed Wilmington in Exhibit A to be paid $1197.97/mo. (2d Am. Plan, dkt. 96, Ex.A) and has also added a row in Exhibit I (2d from bottom) for $402.95/mo. in "Contractual Arrears" (presumably paid to Wilmington).

The bottom line is that there is little net difference, but the documents fail to list all payments to creditors where they belong, in Exhibit A. The tentative ruling is that this does not matter because the Plan cannot be confirmed anyway.

Based on the foregoing and this Court's 4/2/19 tentative ruling, the tentative ruling is to dismiss or convert this case, because Debtor appears unable to propose a confirmable plan. See 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(1)&(4)(J). The parties should be prepared to address whether dismissal or conversion is in the best interests of creditors.

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Finances (MOR #8, Feb. 2019, dkt. 85), and US Trustee Notice of Delinquency (dkt. 82)

At the 2/5/19 hearing, Debtor's counsel informed this Court that Debtor actually was postpetition current with secured creditors despite MOR #6 reflecting 3 missed payments to FCI Lender and 3 missed payments to Rushmore Loan Management. But MOR #8 still reflects that those payments are missing. Dkt. 85, p.7. What is Debtor's explanation?

Meanwhile, the United States Trustee ("UST") has filed a Notice of Delinquency (dkt. 82) stating that Debtor missed a quarterly payment of $650 to the United States, and has not (as of that date) provided proof of current insurance (including a vehicle). These defaults call into question whether Debtor has sufficient cash flow to reorganize in this case.

(b) First Amended Plan (dkt. 76) and Disclosure Statement (dkt.75) - voting: acceptance by some, but not all, impaired classes (section 1129(a)(8))

Chapter 11

As noted below, Class 1A has been combined with Class 2A, so there are three classes: Classes 2A (Wilmington), 2B (Nationwide/Hechter/Ocean), and 4A (general unsecured creditors). Debtor's Ballot Summary (dkt. 91) lists these three classes, but it includes two errors.

First, it asserts on page 1, item 6, that only one class (Class "2(a)") has accepted the Plan. But the ballots attached to the summary appear to show that two classes have accepted the Plan (Classes 2A and 4A).

Second, the Ballot Summary states on page 1, item 3, that cramdown (11 U.S.C. 1129(b)) is not requested. But 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(8) requires acceptance by all impaired classes, and the only exception is cramdown. See 11 U.S.C. 1129(b) ("if all of the applicable requirements of subsection (a) of this section other than paragraph (8) are met ..." then the Court can confirm such plan in certain circumstances). In other words, by no withdrawing the Plan and instead proceeding with this hearing, Debtors implicitly request cramdown, even though the Ballot Summary says otherwise.

Accordingly, this Court will examine both whether the Plan meets all the requirements of subsection "(a)" of section 1129 (other than paragraph "(8)") and whether it meets the requirements of subsection "(b)." In addition, this Court will examine whether the Disclosure Statement, which was only provisionally approved for purposes of soliciting votes, can be approved on a final basis as containing "adequate information" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 1125(a)&(b).

(c) Plan (dkt. 76) and Disclosure Statement (dkt.75) - section 1129(a)(11) feasibility

Debtor proposes a 100% dividend to all creditors. But Debtor's budget is very thin. See Disclosure Statement, Exhibits C & I (dkt. 75, at PDF pp.6 & 13). Even with minimal expenditures on items like food and housekeeping ($550/mo.) and medical and dental expenses ($50/mo.), Debtor projects that she will have only $75.00 left at the end of the Effective Date and $42.14/mo. left each month thereafter (increasing to $358.70/mo. after the first 50 months).

But as noted above Debtor's finances appear to be unreliable. How can this Court find that Debtor's Plan is feasible (i) if Debtor is already behind on postpetition payments or alternatively (ii) if Debtor's reporting is so unreliable?

In addition, Debtors' cash flow has been made worse by their Court-approved stipulation to resolve an objection to confirmation and modify their Plan with Creditor Wilmington Savings Fund Society, FSB dba Christiana Trust ("Wilmington"). See dkt. 78 (limited obj.), dkt. 86 (stipulation), & dkt. 88 (order approving stip.). The Plan calls for payments to Wilmington of $1,187.10/mo (Class 2A & Ex.E) plus another $402.95/mo. for the arrears (originally Class 1A, but now included in Class 2A per the stipulation, dkt. 86, p.3, para."1"), for a total of $1,590.05. The stipulation calls for slightly more: (i) payments of $1,119.61/mo. (amortizing payments of principal and interest) + (ii) $255.50/mo. estimated escrow payments (which do not appear to be accounted for in Debtors' budget, dkt. 75, Ex.I) + (iii) $402.95/mo. to pay arrears, for a total of $1,778.06 (which is $188.01/mo. more than contemplated in the Plan: $1,778.06 - $1,590.05 = $188.01).

A feasibility objection has been raised (dkt. 83) by creditor(s) Amir Hechter 24/42% Ocean 18, LLC 75.58% ("Hechter/Ocean") (Class 2B, listed as "Nationwide Servicing Center" in the Plan (dkt. 76, p.7). Based on the foregoing analysis, the tentative ruling is to sustain that objection.

(d) Plan (dkt. 76) and Disclosure Statement (dkt.75) - section 1129(a)(7) "best interests of creditors"

Hechter/Ocean objects that the Plan does not meet the "best interests of creditors" test, which requires that each creditor receive property of a value, "as of the effective date of the plan, that is not less than the amount that such [creditor would receive] if the debtor were liquidated under chapter 7 of this title on such date." 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(7)(A)(ii). The value of Debtor's promise of cash payments over time is addressed below.

(e) Plan (dkt. 76) and Disclosure Statement (dkt.75) - section 1129(a)(3) "good faith"

Hechter/Ocean objects that its loan matured seven years ago, that it negotiated a second mortgage loan based on Debtor's credit worthiness, property value, etc. at the time when the loan was made, and [t]o arbitrarily extend the term of a loan secured by property from which the Debtor is collecting rents, and using the rental income for payment to other creditors, while forcing this creditor to wait 30 additional years to recover its full investment, puts the Debtor's good faith in question. [Dkt. 83, p.5:24-26]

On the one hand, there is no inherent lack of good faith in proposing to pay debts over time, even if those debts have already matured. To the contrary, for all creditors - regardless whether they are an unsecured tort victim, an unsecured trade vendor, a secured creditor with a fully matured loan, or a secured creditor with a loan that has just begun - the Bankruptcy Code contemplates that typically they will be paid over time, so as to maximize a debtor's ability to pay all creditors.

On the other hand, the tentative ruling is that Hechter/Ocean is correct that there are limits to this ability to pay over time. Debtor's good faith in proposing the Plan's treatment of Hechter/Ocean (Class 2B) is intertwined with whether that class will receive an appropriate interest rate to compensate it for all risks, including the increased risk from a long (360 month) term of repayments. Those issues of the appropriate interest rate and term are addressed below.

(f) Plan (dkt. 76) and Disclosure Statement (dkt.75) - other requirements of section 1129(a)

The tentative ruling is that the remaining requirements of section 1129(a) are either satisfied or irrelevant. For example, the requirements in paragraph "(9)" for treatment of tax claims appear to be satisfied by Debtor's use of this Court's form Plan and exhibits, which provide for payment of tax claims over a shorter period than other creditors in compliance with that paragraph of section 1129(a).

(g) Plan (dkt. 76) and Disclosure Statement (dkt.75) - section 1129(b) "cramdown"

Under 11 U.S.C. 1129(b) this Court "shall" confirm the Plan if it satisfies all the requirements of subsection "(a)" except for paragraph "(8)" (acceptance by all impaired classes) and "if the plan does not discriminate unfairly, and is fair and equitable, with respect to each class of claims or interests that is impaired under, and has not accepted, the plan." The "fair and equitable" requirement includes, but is not limited to, the requirements of paragraph "(2)" of section 1129(b), which are addressed below.

Hechter/Ocean objects that the Plan does not provide the "indubitable equivalent" of its claim. The tentative ruling is to overrule that objection, because the "indubitable equivalent" is just one of three alternative treatments: (i) retaining the creditor's lien and receiving "deferred cash payments" with a present value of the lien's present value (what the Plan proposes) (11 U.S.C. 1129(b)(2)(A)(i)), (ii) a sale, subject to credit bidding rights (1129(b)(2)(A)(ii)), "or" (iii) the "indubitable equivalent" of the creditor's claim (1129(b)(2)(A)(iii)).

But that leads to another objection raised by Hechter/Ocean: that the Plan does not provide cash payments with a present value equal to its lien's present value. 11 U.S.C. 1129(b)(2)(A)(i). Hechter/Ocean argues that "this Court should require an interest rate of 7.75% and a shorter, more reasonable term." Dkt. 83, p.4:20-21.

Hechter/Ocean uses the "formula" approach that was used by the Supreme Court for small-value collateral (a used truck) in Till v. SCS Credit Corp., 541 U.S. 465 (2004). That formula is the prime rate plus 1% to 3% depending on the risk factors.

It is an open question whether the Supreme Court intended for the formula approach to be used in all cases. The Posted procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) include the following:

§§ 506(b), 1129(b), 1325: "cramdown" interest rates. Judge Bason has expressed the view in various cases that when dealing with relatively small dollar amounts (for which the cost of presenting expert testimony as to interest rates would be prohibitive) the analysis in Till v. SCS Credit Corp., 541 U.S. 465 (2004), is appropriate, and conversely when dealing with larger dollar amounts the Till analysis probably is not appropriate, and one acceptable method for experts to opine as to the appropriate interest rate is the method described in In re Boulders on the River, Inc., 164 B.R. 99 (9th Cir. BAP 1994); see In re N. Valley Mall, LLC, 432 B.R. 825 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2010) (discussing continued viability of Boulders on the River).

The question is whether, in the facts and circumstances of this case, this Court should apply the simpler analysis in Till or a more complex analysis such as the one in Boulders on the River/N. Valley Mall. The tentative ruling is to use the Till analysis.

Applying Till, Hechter/Ocean asserts that the "current prime rate is 5.5%" and "[t]herefore a fixed rate of 6.5% to 8.5% would be proper as the bankrupt Debtor is getting an 84% loan to value ['LTV'] loan: this rate would be unavailable to a borrower with a history of defaults with even a 20% loan to value loan in today's market." Dkt. 83, p.5:10-14. As for the proposed term of repayment under the Plan (360 months), which is intertwined with the appropriate interest rate and is also an independent issue, Hechter/Ocean argues:

[T]he loan fully matured on December 28, 2011, more than seven years prior to the expected effective date of the plan. The Debtor proposes that the claim be paid over a new term of 360 months from the effective date. That is adding 30 years to a loan that matured more than seven years ago. Such treatment is patently unfair to this Secured Creditor, who negotiated a second mortgage loan based on the Debtor's credit worthiness, property value, etc. [Dkt. 83, p.5:19-23]

The tentative ruling is that, before this Court could fully assess the appropriate interest rate and term of any proposed repayment to Hechter/Ocean, this Court would need more evidence. But the tentative ruling is that, based on the evidence that is already in the record, the current proposed Plan's treatment of this claim is insufficient, and therefore the Plan cannot be confirmed.

Specifically, the additional evidence that would need to be presented would include support for Hechter/Ocean's assertion that the current prime rate is 5.5%, and evidence bearing on the risk factors, including whether there are analogous market rates for comparable debt (second liens, with a comparable LTV and comparable duration). See also Till, 541 U.S. 465, 484 (majority noting four components of risk cited by dissent: "(1) the probability of plan failure; (2) the rate of collateral depreciation; (3) the liquidity of the collateral market; and (4) the administrative expenses of enforcement").

(h) Conclusion as to Debtor's finances, and proposed Plan (dkt. 76) and Disclosure Statement (dkt.75)

The tentative ruling is that the cash flow evidence does not support the projections in Debtors' Disclosure Statement, so it cannot be approved on a final basis. In addition, the tentative ruling is that the Plan cannot be confirmed because Debtors have not established feasibility (1129(a)(11)).

The parties would have to present more evidence before this Court could determine the specific interest rate to provide present value (for purposes of 1129(b)(2)(A)(i), 1129(a)(3), and 1129(a)(7)) and whether the proposed term is too long to be "fair and equitable" to Hechter/Ocean (1129(b)(1)). But the tentative ruling is that (i) the combination of the currently proposed interest rate and term are insufficient to provide present value and

(ii) this Court need not reach the issue of what exact interest rate and term would be necessary to provide present value because the feasibility issue is dispositive.

(i) Future proceedings / disposition of this case

Based on the foregoing tentative rulings, the parties should be prepared to address whether this case should be dismissed or converted. One alternative might be for Debtor to abandon the property secured by the lien of Hechter/Ocean. Another alternative might be if Debtors have any other, more feasible strategy to reorganize their finances, including any good faith grounds to object to the Hechter/Ocean claim, and whether that would reduce their obligations enough so that they could propose a feasible plan. But it might be too late to propose such a strategy given the duration of this case, and the lack of evidence that Debtor's finances are improving.

(1) Current issues.

(a) Finances (MOR#6, Dec. 2018, dkt. 72)

Debtor reports having lost money during this month and having missed 3 payments amounting to $3,510 to FCI Lender (but see APO, dkt. 70), 3 payments amounting to $5,334.18 to Rushmore Loan Mgmt (dkt.72, p.7), and quarterly UST fees of $325 (id., p.9). Debtor also reports that vehicle insurance was only $25,000 (does that comply with legal requirements?) and expired on 12/22/18. Id., p.7.

What caused these losses and missed payments? How can Debtor afford to continue in this chapter 11 bankruptcy case?

(b) Plan (dkt. 74), Disclosure Statement (dkt. 73), and order setting hearing re same (dkt. 63)

The tentative ruling is to reschedule the combined hearing on final approval of the Disclosure Statement and confirmation of the Plan from 3/5/19 to 4/2/19 at 1:00 p.m. for two reasons. First, as noted above, Debtor's finances are problematic, and perhaps additional time will enable Debtor to establish a better track record and meet the feasibility requirement of 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(11).

Second, contrary to the oral ruling at the last status conference, Debtor did not lodge this Court's form of order (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov, under Judge Bason's portion of the web site) setting a combined hearing, which would have directed Debtor to provide notice to creditors of the 3/5/19 hearing (and associated deadlines) in sufficient time to comply with the applicable rules. (Debtor's counsel apparently misunderstood and lodged a different order that included the 3/5/19 hearing along with other matters, which this Court signed without recognizing the error, dkt. 63.)

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/8/19 for Debtor to lodge the correct form of order and file a revised Disclosure Statement and revised Plan that list the revised 4/2/19 hearing date in the caption, and that include a revised form of ballot (dkt. 74, Appendix "1") that states "The Court has provisionally approved" the Disclosure Statement instead of "The Court has approved" (Emphasis added.)

Tentative Ruling for 1/8/19:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 1/8/19.

(1) Current issues.

This Court has reviewed the Debtor's latest filed documents, including its Monthly Operating Report (dkt. 67). This Court is not aware of issues that would warrant a status conference at this time.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 7/11/18.

(a) Bar date: 10/29/18 (dkt. 26, timely served dkt. 28)

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: file by 1/18/19 (see dkt. 63) using the forms required by Judge Bason and lodge a proposed order authorizing service of those documents and setting a combined hearing on final approval of the disclosure statement and confirmation of the plan (DO NOT SERVE yet, except on the U.S. Trustee - this Court will review the filed documents and then either issue the proposed order or establish other procedures).

(c) Continued status conference: 2/5/19 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report is required.

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues. This Court has reviewed the debtor's filed status report (dkt. 42) and the other filed documents in this case.

(a) Motion of U.S. Trustee ("UST") to dismiss or convert (dkt. 21). The debtor claims to have come into compliance (dkt. 41). Does the UST have any outstanding compliance issues?

(b) Budget motion (dkt. 15) and supplemental declaration of non-debtor spouse Jose M. Juarez (dkt. 37). Grant on a final basis. Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Tentative Ruling for 8/14/18:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues. This Court has reviewed the debtor's filed status report (dkt. 17) and the other filed documents in this case.

(a) Budget motion (dkt. 15). Grant on an interim basis, with a final hearing concurrent with the continued status conference (see below), and a deadline of 8/21/18 to file declaration(s) regarding the income of the debtor's spouse (see below). Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(b) Debtor's spouse's income. The debtor's bankruptcy Schedule I reports that the debtor's spouse is a self-employed construction contractor, but that the spouse only earns $1,500/mo. in net income. Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/21/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Budget Motion (dkt. 19) and incomplete Schedule I (see dkt. 68)

This Court set the Budget Motion for hearing because the attached Bankruptcy Schedules I and J were not completed in accordance with the instructions on the form (see dkt. 68). Debtor was directed to file an amended Schedule I to cure the defect by 5/16/19. Dkt. 68. As of the time this tentative ruling has been prepared, no amended schedule has been filed. Why not?

What remedies should this Court impose for that omission, and for the fact that Debtor did not seek approval of a budget until four months after this bankruptcy was filed? See id. Should this Court impose a sanction on Debtor and/or Debtor's counsel?

If this case is not dismissed or converted (see below), the tentative ruling is to continue the Budget Motion to the same date and time as the continued status conference (see below).

(b) Order to show cause ("OSC," dkt. 65), and Debtor's response (dkt. 77)

The parties should be prepared to address whether this case should be converted or dismissed. If this case is not dismissed or converted at this hearing, the tentative ruling (per dkt. 65, to which Debtor has acceded per dkt. 77) is (i) to continue the OSC to the same time as the continued status conference (see below), and (ii) to require both Debtor and proposed buyer of the Gage Avenue property to hire independent third party brokers in connection with the sale, with full disclosure and (as to Debtor) with this Court's approval of such employment. See dkt. 65.

Chapter 11

If this case is not dismissed or converted, the tentative ruling is to continue the Sale Motion to the same time as the continued status conference, to allow time for Debtor and the proposed buyer to hire independent third party brokers as set forth above. As to Debtor's alleged "bona fide dispute" regarding certain liens (11 U.S.C. 363(f)(4)), without loan closing statements (at a minimum), how can this Court accept on their face Debtor's assertions that, supposedly, he did not receive all of the net proceeds of certain promised loans to which he claims to be entitled? See Adv. No. 2:19-ap-01138-NB, dkt. 1; and Adv. No. 2:19-ap-01089-NB, dkt. 1.

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not adequately addressed the objections of Mr. Daneil Partida (dkt. 55) and Mr. Andrew Kwiat (dkt. 52) to the Sale Motion. This Court has the same concerns regarding other lienholders. Therefore, if any sale is approved in future, this Court anticipates that (at least if the current record remains unchanged) all liens (including not just those of the objecting creditors, but all other asserted liens as well) will need to be paid out of escrow in accordance with escrow demands.

To be clear, the issue before this Court is solely whether or not to authorize any sale to be free and clear of some portion of the liens, not whether the liens are ultimately valid. Therefore, if distributions are made to lienholders and later Debtor can establish that some lienholders have been overpaid, he would remain free to pursue any legitimate action to recover any such overpayment.

The foregoing issues can be addressed at the continued sale hearing (if this case is not dismissed or converted).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 1/8/19.

(a) Bar date: 4/16/19 (untimely but excused, dkt. 25).

are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 4/30/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Relief From Stay Motion (the "R/S Motion," dkt. 31)

According to Debtor's status report (dkt. 54) the disputes with movant Ms. Moreno have been resolved by an agreement to be embodied in a forthcoming proposed adequate protection order ("APO"). The parties are directed to address whether any disputes remain, and when the APO will be lodged.

(b) Amended Sale Motion (dkt. 42)

On further review this Court is concerned with several aspects of the proposed sale of the Gage Ave. property. The proposed sale is for $550,000, subject to overbids, to the current tenant, Ms. Gabi Rangel ("Proposed Buyer").

(i) Representing both sides

This Court recalls that at prior hearings Debtor made assurances that Proposed Buyer was representing herself. But Debtor's real estate agency, Realty World Capero, is listed as agent for both the seller (Debtor) and Proposed Buyer. See Sale Motion (dkt. 42) Ex.A at PDF pp.30-33.

Although dual agency is permissible outside of bankruptcy, within bankruptcy Judge Bason has prohibited dual agency because it means the real estate agent who represents the bankruptcy estate is not disinterested and may have an actual conflict of interest. The fact that Debtor is acting as his own agent, and his firm is representing Proposed Buyer, only makes these concerns worse. Can the Sale Motion be granted despite these concerns?

(ii) Service issues

One lienholder asserts that he did not receive the Sale Motion papers, and only recently learned of the proposed sale when another lienholder contacted him. See Ltd. Obj. (dkt. 52). Can this Court rely on Debtor's proof of service?

(iii) Buyer's closing costs

Chapter 11

The estimating closing statement (dkt. 42, Ex.B, at PDF p.48) includes a "Seller Credit for Buyer[']s Closing Costs" in the amount of $16,500. What is the basis for this distribution to Proposed Buyer? Does that effectively reduce the purchase price to $533,500 (because $550,000 - $16,500 = $533,500)? Does that make the initial overbid of $575,000 unreasonably high, and thereby chill the bidding?

(iv) Unpaid rent

The Sale Motion reveals that Proposed Buyer owes $1,353 for March, 2019 rent, supposedly offset by some repairs to the property; but Debtor has not yet received receipts. See dkt. 42, p.10:12-14. In addition, rent is due for April, 2019. Id., p.10:15-17. What is the current status of these matters?

(v) Accounting for receipt and use of security deposit

The accounting in the Sale Motion is unclear. Nor is it clear what happened before or after Debtor filed his bankruptcy petition, on 1/18/19 (the "Petition Date").

Apparently, Proposed Buyer made a $5,000 deposit; was supposed to make an additional $35,000 deposit; and actually made a total deposit of $50,000. See Dkt. 42, p.10:19-20. It is unclear if some of these funds were received after the Petition Date.

It appears that there was a "pre-release" to Debtor of the entire $50,000 security deposit. Debtor alleges (dkt. 42, pp.10:18-11:18) that he used those funds as follows:

$ 20,200.00 Juan Resendiz (paid prepetition? for prepetition work)
$ 4,055.44 Home Depot supplies (prepetition)
$ 8,250.00 1st DOT (Kwait) (paid prepetition? for prepetition debt)
$ 5,350.00 Ramon Ruelas (repairs) (paid prepetition? prepetition work?)

$ 4,770.00 Debtor's (prepetition?) payments re office lease & car
$ 42,625.44 total

Debtor is "unable to account for" the balance, and alleges that it "was likely used on miscellaneous expenses for [Debtor's] business and the property." Sale Motion (dkt. 42) p.11:17-18. (Debtor calculates $4,594.56, id., but this Court calculates $7,374.56 because $50,000 - $42,625.44 = $7,374.56.)

Depending on the timing, Debtor's depletion of the security deposit could constitute unauthorized postpetition borrowing (11 U.S.C. 364), and his use of the resulting funds could be unauthorized postpetition acts out of the ordinary course of business (11 U.S.C. 363), or unauthorized postpetition transfers (11 U.S.C. 549). Debtor is directed to clarify the timing.

When were the "pre-releases" of the security deposit made? When were the expenditures made? How can Debtor provide any evidence regarding the timing and use of the missing $7,374.56?

(vi) Sale "free and clear"

One of Debtor's two grounds for selling free and clear of liens is an alleged "bona fide" dispute (11 U.S.C. 363(f)(4)) regarding the dollar amount of those liens:

The Debtor, simultaneously with the prosecution of this Motion, will seek through adversary complaints filed against the secured creditors holding liens against the Property to void said liens in whole or in part. The allegations of said complaints will include usury claims and challenges to the amount of said claims (i.e., the Debtor did not receive the amounts the creditors promised to lend). Debtor proposes that proceeds in the amount of all secured claims against the Property be held in escrow by Debtor's attorney until the resolution of said adversary proceedings or as agreed to by the parties. [Sale Motion (dkt. 42), p.6:15-23 (emphasis added), and see id. pp.17:15-18:6.]

As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, no such adversary proceedings have been filed (except for the one against Ms. Moreno that allegedly has been settled as part of the forthcoming APO). See dkt. 40 (Adv.P. 2:19-ap-01089-NB). In addition, there is reason to doubt whether any such disputes are "bona fide."

The limited opposition of the holder of the first deed of trust, Andrew Kwiat (dkt.52), points out that he is a licensed real estate broker, which generally creates an exception to the usury limitations. More broadly, the fact that Debtor himself is a licensed real estate broker might exempt all of the liens from the usury limitations (this Court has not researched that issue, and only uses it to illustrate that Debtor's bald assertion of "usury" does not appear to be sufficient to create a "bona fide" dispute).

Debtor's other ground for selling free and clear of liens is that the sale price is greater than the aggregate value of all liens on the property (11 U.S.C. 363(f)(3)). See Sale Motion (dkt. 42), p.11:1-6. That appears to be a sufficient ground for authorizing the sale itself, but not for withholding any of the proceeds.

Chapter 11

Any withholding of proceeds would have to have some bankruptcy-related purpose - e.g., to use the funds to preserve or enhance the bankruptcy estate - and would have to be conditioned on adequate protection of each lienholder's interests. See 11 U.S.C. 363(e). Debtor's Sale Motion does not suggest any such purpose, nor any such adequate protection.

Accordingly, the tentative ruling is that (assuming this Court's other concerns are sufficiently addressed and that the sale can be approved at all) all lienholders must be paid in full out of escrow. The only exception is that, to the extent Debtor has a good faith basis to challenge the reasonableness of any attorney fees or other charges, the tentative ruling is that those amounts may be withheld from distribution, but must be maintained in a blocked account, or a trust account maintained by Debtor's counsel, or the equivalent.

(vii) Requested waiver of 14-day stay

Debtor requests a waiver of the 14-day stay of Rule 6004(h) (Fed.R.Bankr.P.). But Debtor provides no reason why the sale, which has already waited many months, cannot wait 14 days longer. That appears to be especially appropriate because Debtor's latest status report (dkt. 54, p.2:12-16) states that the Gage Ave. property is only "nearing" rehabilitation, and Debtor is "awaiting approval" by the architect of an "attic addition." The tentative ruling is to deny Debtor's request to waive the 14-day stay.

(viii) Conclusion as to Sale Motion/Gage Ave. property

The parties are directed to address the foregoing issues. If this Court's concerns can be adequately addressed, the tentative ruling is to authorize the sale but require all liens to be paid in full out of escrow, with the possible exception of attorney fees and other charges that are subject to bona fide dispute and that are held in a blocked account or the equivalent.

Proposed order: If the Sale Motion is granted, Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 1/8/19.

(a) Bar date: 4/16/19 (untimely but excused, dkt. 25).

If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

Appearances are not required on 4/9/19. The tentative continuances/dispositions of matters before this Court are set forth below.

(1) Current issues

(a) Relief From Stay Motion (the "R/S Motion," dkt. 31)

This Court contin[u]ed the hearing on the R/S Motion per the parties' stipulation (see dkt. 44) informing this Court that the parties needed time to finalize and execute an adequate protection stipulation. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address (a) whether the alleged arrears have been brought current and/or (b) whether they will agree to the terms of an adequate protection order.

(b) Amended Motion to Sell Free and Clear (dkt. 42)

Grant, as this Court is satisfied that the issues raised in its 4/2/19 tentative ruling have been adequately addressed.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Chapter 11

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 3/5/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Financial losses and irregularities

Debtor's first Monthly Operating Report ("MOR," Jan. 2019, dkt. 17, p.1) appears to show that Debtor started with $2,518.85 and ended with $25.64. How is this sustainable? It appears to match Debtor's bankruptcy Schedules I&J (dkt. 1 at PDF pp.43-46), which show negative cash flow and no anticipated future change. Although Debtor's status report (dkt. 13) states that Debtor intends to sell one property and/or evict the tenant, but the docket does not reflect any progress on those things. Based on the foregoing, the tentative ruling is to dismiss this bankruptcy case.

The same MOR appears to show that Debtor paid $150 on a "Personal Loan" from "Samuel Samuel" via "Cash App" (dkt. 17, at PDF p.2, 1/15/19 entry) - is that an unauthorized postpetition borrowing? Alternatively, is it an unauthorized payment of prepetition debt? Either way, it appears that Debtor is violating the duties of a debtor in possession.

Likewise, the MOR shows a payment of $479.31 to Capital One Auto Carpay for an "Automobile Loan." Dkt. 17, at PDF p.3, entry for 1/22/19. What is the explanation?

Likewise, the MOR shows a payment of $228.96 to "Charter Communications" on 1/28/19 for "Internet (Includes Past Due Amounts)." This appears to violate the automatic stay: what will Debtor's counsel do about that?

(b) Disregarding Court order

This Court's "Order Setting Bar Date: April 16, 2019 and Directing Service by Debtor" (dkt. 14, emphasis added) specifically directed Debtor to serve a copy of that order no later than February 11, 2019. There is no proof of such service. Why not? The tentative ruling, if this case is not dismissed, is to issue an order setting an amended bar date, and once again direct Debtor to serve a copy of that amended order on creditors (see below).

(c) Missing budget motion. At the 2/5/19 hearing and in the Initial Case Status Report (dkt. 13), Debtor represented to this Court that a budget motion would be forthcoming. As of the writing of this tentative ruling, no such motion has been filed. Why not?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 1/8/19.

(a) Bar date: 4/16/19 but no notice (see above), so re-set to 5/30/19 (DO NOT service any notice - this Court will prepare an amended bar date order and that order will direct Debtor to serve it on creditors).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD

(c) Continued status conference: 4/9/19 at 1:00 p.m., brief status report due 3/26/19.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 2/5/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues.

(a) Missing status report. Debtor is directed to explain why a Case Status Report was not filed, as required by this Court's order setting this status conference (dkt. 5).

Chapter 11

(b) Missing "first day" motions. Debtor has failed to file a budget motion (required by Judge Bason's posted procedures, available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov). Debtor also has not filed any other typical "first day" motions (e.g., a utility motion).

(c) Negative, and inadequately supported, monthly income. Debtor appears to have a new job as a real estate broker, but even with that new (alleged) income and supplemental income as a Lyft driver he shows negative cash flow. See Bankruptcy Schedules I & J (dkt. 1 at PDF pp. 43-46).

Debtor appears to have two properties, but does not list any leases or any income from a rental property: why not?

Debtor has stated under penalty of perjury that he does not expect any changes to income or expenses (see bankruptcy Schedule I, item 13, and Schedule J, item 24). How can Debtor hope to reorganize with negative cash flow?

In addition, the (sparse) income that is reported is inadequately supported. Debtor has ignored the instructions on bankruptcy Schedule I, line 8a, to "[a]ttach a statement for each property and business showing gross receipts, ordinary and necessary business expenses, and the total monthly net income."

(c) Dismissal? Should this Court dismiss this case? Does the foregoing constitute a "willful failure to appear in proper prosecution" of this case, and/or a "willful" failure to comply with this Court's order setting this status conference, either of which would support dismissal with a bar under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1)?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 1/8/19. If this case is not dismissed, the tentative ruling is to set the following deadlines/dates:

(a) Bar date: 4/16/19 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD

(c) Continued status conference: 3/5/19 at 1:00 p.m., brief status report due 2/26/19.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's 11 U.S.C. 363 sale motion (the "Sale Motion," dkt. 80);
Oppositions (dkt. 87, 93), and Reply (dkt. 94, 96)

At the hearing on 5/7/19 this Court adopted the tentative ruling and granted the Sale Motion, with a waiver of the 14-day stay under 6004(h), subject some modifications. First, although this Court overruled objections and approved Sale Part One (as described in the Sale Motion), this Court set this continued hearing on 5/21/19 to address whether that sale has closed, and to resolve any issues involving the dollar amounts need to (i) cure leased equipment defaults or (ii) pay financed equipment liens.

Second, as to the proposed Sale Part Two, this Court ruled that the sale to Debtor's principal, Ms. Galant, is approved for a payment of $100,000 and can close with no further order of this Court. But if it turns out that she is unable to pay that price (within the time frame outlined in the Sale Motion), and (i) if she proposes to pay between $50,000 and $99,999, then the parties would need to address what remedies are appropriate, such as opening up the proposed sale to overbids; and (ii) if she proposes to pay less than $50,000 then the proposed Sale Part Two is disapproved, and the intellectual property (and miscellaneous assets included in Sale Part Two) would continue to belong to bankruptcy estate, and could be sold or otherwise addressed.

This Court directed Debtor to lodge a proposed order memorializing the foregoing rulings. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, no such proposed order has been lodged. Why not?

In any event, are there any issues that are properly before this Court at this time in connection with the Sale Motion? Should this Court continue the Sale Motion to the same time as the continued status conference (see below)?

(b) Motion of the United States Trustee ("UST") to convert, dismiss, or appoint a Chapter 11 trustee (the "Conversion Motion", dkt. 76)

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address the following issues. It is unclear whether Sale Part One has closed. This Court notes that there is a declaration (dkt. 107) of a real estate broker for Debtor's principal, Ms. Galant, regarding the listing of her property for sale (which was contemplated to fund the Sale Part Two); but there is no information about the refinancing the Ms. Galant was contemplating (which was contemplated to fund the Sale Part One).

Should this Court continue the Conversion Motion to the same time as the continued status conference (see below)?

(c) Bar date order (dkt. 108)

This Court issued its Order Setting Bar Date (dkt. 108), directing service by Debtor be completed by 5/10/19. The docket does not reflect any proof of service. What the order timely served? If so, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 5/22/19 to file a proof of such service; and if not, the tentative ruling is to issue a new order setting a new bar date.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 12/17/18.

(a) Bar date: 6/20/19 (but see above)

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: N/A

(c) Continued status conference: 6/18/19 at 2:00 p.m., with no written status report required.

Chapter 11

Revised Tentative Ruling for 5/7/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of the United States Trustee ("UST") to convert, dismiss, or appoint a Chapter 11 trustee (the "Conversion Motion", dkt. 76)

Continue to to be heard concurrently with the continued status conference (see part "(2)" of this tentative ruling, below). If, prior to the continued hearing date, Debtor files a declaration that it has closed the proposed Sale Part One, this Court anticipates that the tentative ruling for the continued hearing will be to deny the Conversion Motion without prejudice.

(b) Debtor's 11 U.S.C. 363 sale motion (the "Sale Motion," dkt. 80); Oppositions (dkt. 87, 93), and Reply (dkt. 94, 96)

Grant the Sale Motion, but only on the following terms:

(i) Minimum dollar amount for Sale Part Two. Debtor's principal, Ms. Rachel Galant, is essentially agreeing to pay debts on which she is already the guarantor (Sale Part One, estimated at $450,000), and if there is any money left over from the anticipated $550,000 proceeds of the refinance and sale of her home, then that residual amount (estimated at $100,000, but possibly much less, down to $-0-) will be used to pay for Debtor's intellectual property and some de minimus assets (Sale Part Two).

The tentative ruling is that there must be a minimum dollar amount payable for Sale Part Two. That is essentially the consideration Ms. Galant must pay (beyond what she owes anyway, as a guarantor) for being able to continue her business without successor liability, based on the Bankruptcy Code's ability to sell property free and clear of an liability that would otherwise follow the assets (which is one type of "interest" in such property). See, e.g., In re Trans World Airlines, Inc., 322 F.3d 283, 290-91 (3d Cir. 2003). See also Myers v. U.S., 297 B.R. 774 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 2003).

The tentative ruling is to set the minimum consideration for the Sale Part Two at not less than $50,000. The tentative ruling is that this dollar amount is subject to overbids, as set forth below.

(ii) Overbids. The proposed sale must be subject to any overbids at the hearing, including any overbids that are not cash (in whole or in part), or that are for fewer than all assets, or any other combination of things. Any "highest and best" determination must be made initially by Debtor, but subject to any objections and resolution by this Court. See generally, e.g., In re Lahijani, 325 B.R. 282 (9th Cir. BAP 2005); In re Mickey Thompson Entm't Group, Inc., 292 B.R. 415, 421 (9th Cir. BAP 2003).

(iii) Backup bids. Any sale must be subject to any backup bids, in the event the winning bidder does not timely close either Sale Part One or Sale Part Two. For example, if the proposed purchaser - Debtor's principal - were to close Sale Part One but fail to close the Sale Part Two, and if a backup bidder has been approved for Sale Part Two, then the backup bidder could acquire the Sale Part Two assets (Debtor's recipes, trademarks, and other intellectual property).

(iv) Deadline for resolution of any disputes regarding purchase/cure amounts for equipment. The motion lists some cure/payment amounts as "TBD." In addition, one creditor has objected. See Sale Motion (dkt. 82, Schedules A&B), and see Direct Cap. Corp. Obj. (dkt. 93) (asserting $11,050.14 arrears plus $5,411.34 attorney fees to date, for a total alleged cure amount of approximately $16,461.48).

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of May 20, 2019 for Debtor to reach agreement with any equipment lessor/lienholder, or else those creditors will be free to repossess the equipment and must be given access to do so on 24 hours' notice. The reason is that the equipment must be removed by the end of May, or the bankruptcy estate will "abandon" the equipment (technically, an "abandonment" under 11 U.S.C. 554 is abandonment from the estate to Debtor; but Debtor apparently means that it intends to leave the equipment at the landlord's premises, for disposition by the landlord - this Court expresses no opinion whether that would create any postpetition liability, or what competing rights might exist in the equipment at that point). Any dispute can be addressed at the continued hearing on the same date as the continued status conference (see below).

(v) Good faith finding

Any "good faith" finding under 11 U.S.C. 363(m) will need to be supported by sufficient evidence (see the posted Procedures of Judge Bason, available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov). Normally that would include more information than what is Ms. Galant's declaration. See Dkt. 82, p.6:1-7. But the tentative ruling is to accept that declaration, combined with the purchase price above the debts for which she is personally liable and the agreement to turn over to Debtor any profit on resale of equipment, as sufficient prima facie evidence of good faith.

As to the objection of the "Objecting Creditors" (Mr. Haloosim et al., dkt. 87), this Court is inclined to agree with Debtor that, on the present record, there is a prima facie showing by Debtor of sufficient marketing, and insufficient evidence of any improper conduct by Debtor. As for their objections under 11 U.S.C. 363(f), this Court questions whether they have an "interest" in the property to be sold and, if not, whether they have standing to raise any objections. In addition, as stated in the posted Producedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov):

§ 363(f): Sales free and clear. Regarding § 363(f)(5), Judge Bason does not follow Clear Channel Outdoor, Inc. v. Knupfer (In re PW, LLC), 391 B.R. 25, 40 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2008). He has ruled that a sale free and clear is permissible under that statute whenever the interest at issue is subject to monetary valuation. See In re Trans World Airlines, Inc., 322 F.3d 283, 290-91 (3d Cir. 2003) ("TWA") (because employees' claims were "subject to monetary valuation," debtor's assets could be sold free and clear of successor liability for such claims under § 363(f)(5)). Alternatively, Judge Bason has ruled that "cramdown" is among the types of legal or equitable proceeding within the statute, or that Clear Channel is distinguishable in most cases under the rationale of In re Jolan, 403 B.R. 866 (Bankr. W.D. Wash. 2009), because holders of interests can be compelled in numerous other types of legal or equitable proceedings to accept a money satisfaction (which might be $-0- in the case of an interest that is entirely underwater). Those proceedings include a hypothetical foreclosure by one of the lienholders, or a receivership (which could be initiated at the behest of creditors or by the debtor itself). See Cal. Code Civ. Proc. ("CCP") §564(b)(9) (power to appoint receiver to sell property); CCP § 568.5 (receiver empowered to sell property as provided in CCP §§701.510 et seq.); CCP § 701.630 (extinguishment of liens); CCP § 701.680 (binding effect of sale). The judge respectfully disagrees with In re Hassen Imports P'ship, 502 B.R. 851, 860 et seq. (C.D. Cal. 2013) (hypothetical foreclosure sale did not qualify under section 363(f)(5)).

Appearances required for the status conference, but not for the abandonment motion. Telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Dismissal or conversion

Debtor's fourth status report alleges (dkt. 62, p.2:10) that a "363 motion, supported with a stalking horse bid, will be submitted to the court" at some unspecified future date. This Court and parties in interest have heard that hope before, but it appears highly unlikely that Debtor will receive a bid that will exceeding the losses that are accruing meanwhile.

Debtor's situation appears to be getting steadily worse, both on a cash basis and in terms of accrued liabilities for postpetition real property rent, equipment leasing, etc. See MOR for Jan. 2019 (dkt. 57) (small positive cash flow, but $48,522.19 in postpetition payables as against $6,281.31 receivables) and MOR for Feb. 2019 (dkt. 63) lines 22-25 (net cash flow of ($1765.14) and increase in payables to $96,380.19 - almost double the prior month - as against $6,281.31 receivables - unchanged).

The tentative ruling is to dismiss this case and let Debtor and its secured creditors/equipment lessors make whatever arrangements they see fit for disposing of the collateral/leased equipment. (Office of the United States Trustee to lodge proposed order.)

(b) Motion to Compel Abandonment of Property (dkt. 59)

Tentative Ruling for 2/5/19:

Appearances required. This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (dkt. 9) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. Based on those documents it appears that both the plaintiff (Poser Investments, Inc., "Poser") and the Debtor-defendants agree that the four properties at issue either were never properly transferred or have been returned to Debtors, and either way they are now part of the bankruptcy estate. The principal remaining issues appear to be:

- (1) Will the other defendants contest that issue?
- (2) Does this Bankruptcy Court require jurisdiction over those other defendants (so as to enter a judgment against them, or at least against the interests that they previously asserted against the four properties), and if such jurisdiction is required, is such jurisdiction established by their appearance in the removed State Court action, or do they consent to in personam jurisdiction?

(3) Does the underlying default judgment obtained by Poser's predecessor in interest against Debtors have a preclusive effect against the Debtor-defendants?

(4) Does Poser have allowable secured claims against the four properties based on the lis pendens and abstracts of judgment?

The parties are directed to address whether there are different principal issues that this Court has not identified. In addition, the parties are directed to address why it would be necessary to have further discovery (in addition to what has already been conducted in the State Court) to address these issues. These appear likely to be resolved based on an application of the law to the undisputed facts, after briefing - e.g., motion(s) for summary judgment.

Meanwhile, it appears appropriate to order mandatory mediation, as set forth below.

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014)

(authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/19/19 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 12/10/18. The tentative ruling is not to set any deadlines (e.g., for cutoff of discovery) at this time, so as to provide time for mediation and/or motion(s) for summary judgment on potentially dispositive issues.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 11/6/18:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by Debtors themselves.

(1) Current issues

(a) Status report (dkt. 43, 45)

Debtors have not used the Local Form, which is mandatory in this case (see Judge Bason's posted procedures, available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov). The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 11/13/18 to file the form and serve it on the United States Trustee.

Debtors have not adequately addressed the issues in this Court's interim order (dkt. 39). Although proposed counsel declares (dkt. 47) that he has "learned" (from unspecified hearsay) that Debtors' relatives have funded the $15,000 retainer as a gift, there is no declaration from the two alleged donors confirming this, and confirming all of their "connections" with all parties in interest and their attorneys and accountants (see dkt. 39, section 6.(a)), and their informed consent to potential or actual conflicts (id., sec. 6.(c)), and Debtors' informed consent (id., sec. 6.(d)). The tentative ruling is to continue this matter to the same time as the continued status conference (see below) and set a deadline of 11/13/18 to file appropriate declarations and serve them on the United States Trustee.

(c) MOR1 (Sept., 2018, dkt. 36)

Debtors report that they spent $1,350.43 in cash, with no breakdown and just a vague description about "personal expenses," "charitable contributions," etc. The tentative ruling is that any proposed order authorizing the proposed budget must include a prohibition on Debtors spending more than $50 cash on any one item or $250 cash in the aggregate per month without attaching photocopies of receipts.

Several insurance policies have expired or are about to (see dkt. 36, at PDF p.16). What are Debtors doing about that?

(d) Motion to Use Cash Collateral (dkt 20)

First, Debtors failed to lodge a proposed order authorizing the use of cash collateral on the terms set forth in the adopted Tentative Ruling for 10/16/18 (see calendar no. 20, 11/6/18 at 1:00 p.m., which includes a copy of that earlier tentative ruling). The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 11/13/18 to lodge that proposed order, with a copy of that tentative ruling attached.

Second, the original motion appears to have been superseded by an amended motion, which has not been separately filed and served but instead is attached as an exhibit to a supplemental declaration. See dkt. 29, Ex.B. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 11/13/18 to file and serve that motion, which will be heard at the same date and time as the continued status conference (see below).

Third, the tentative ruling is that no order granting Debtors' motions regarding cash collateral shall be construed as endorsing the statements to which creditor Poser Investments, Inc. objects. See dkt. 23. Debtors are directed to make this clear in their proposed orders.

Grant on an interim basis, with a continued hearing at the same time as the continued status conference (see below). The tentative ruling is that Debtors' (late-filed) declaration (dkt. 29 & Ex.A) has adequately addressed this Court's concerns about charitable donations.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 9/12/18.

(a) Bar date: 1/11/19 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

The tentative ruling is that Trustee has established on a prima facie basis that Debtors had an ownership interest in two Porches and three Lotus vehicles, and the burden is on Debtors to establish that they no longer have such an interest. The tentative ruling is that Debtors have only met that burden with respect to one vehicle (the Lotus as to which there is evidence of a sale to Debtor MacMillan's brother).

First, as a procedural matter, Debtors had an opportunity to respond to the Turnover Motion by the deadline established by the Local Bankruptcy Rules; they did not request additional time to respond; and, even if they had made such a request, they have not (on the present record) established any cause to be granted additional time. Second, based on the limited evidence provided by Debtors, they have not rebutted the Trustee's prima facie showing (except as to the one vehicle noted above).

For example, it appears that Debtors are the owners of record for at least three Lotus race cars - two Lotus Evoras and one Lotus 211. Dkt. 332, p. 6. Debtor MacMillan's declaration (dkt. 361) provides very little information about these vehicles.

Debtor MacMillan asserts that one Lotus vehicle was totaled around February 2012 (dkt. 361, p.3, para. 9), and that he no longer has any paperwork relating to that vehicle. But (i) the one photograph that he provides (allegedly of the subject vehicle) does not appear to show that it was totaled; (ii) he fails to explain why he lacks any paperwork; and (iii) normally one would expect to have paperwork regarding the loss of such a valuable vehicle, such as insurance papers, or tax returns for Debtor MacMillan or one of his businesses showing a write-off based on loss of the vehicle, or other records and documents. Although it is conceivable that there are explanations and documents that would establish that Debtor MacMillan does not still own this vehicle, he has not met his burden to rebut the Trustee's prima facie showing, and the deadline to do so has passed.

In addition, although the tentative ruling is that Debtor MacMillan has met his burden insofar as the unregistered 2011 Lotus Evora that allegedly was sold to his brother by Rasco/Racso (the spelling is unclear) in March 2016 (dkt. 361, p. 3, para 12), it appears that the Lotus Evora sold to Debtor's brother is not the same Lotus Evora mentioned in para. 10 (see dkt. 362, p.2:22-28). There is no evidence to rebut the prima facie showing as to that Lotus vehicle. Nor is there any evidence to rebut the prima facie showing as to the two Porches. Nor has Debtor Martin filed anything in response to the Turnover Motion.

The tentative ruling is to direct Debtors to turn over the two Lotus vehicles and the two Porches to the Chapter 7 Trustee, together with all associated papers and materials (e.g., car keys), no later than 5/28/19, or be subject to possible sanctions. This Court recognizes that, if Debtors truly do not possess some of these four vehicles, or if those vehicles belong to another entity, then perhaps they will be unable to turn over the vehicles despite any order of this Court directing them to do so. But the tentative ruling is that, having chosen not to take the Turnover Motion seriously enough to rebut the Trustee's prima facie showing, or to request additional time to do so, Debtors have waived and forfeited that opportunity, and the Turnover Motion must be granted.

Debtors' apparent remedy will be (i) to seek reconsideration (e.g., under Rule 9023), or, (ii) if they are held in contempt for violating the Turnover Motion, to meet their burden to show impossibility (or to establish any other viable defense to a finding of contempt). The parties should be prepared to address the present location and condition of the vehicles, where the Trustee needs them to be delivered, and any other specifics that this tentative ruling does not address.

are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

Appearances required. The parties should be prepared to address the following issues.

Current issues

(a) Procedures

This Court issued its Order Setting Status Conference in All Related Matters (the "Procedures Order," dkt. 332). See a/so dkt. 334 & 338 (proofs of service). Among other things, the Procedures Order was prompted by the following.

First, an exhibit was filed without a cover page and with the exhibit pages out of order rendering the exhibit difficult to read (see dkt. 324, ex. 1). Second, briefs have gone on for 80 pages or more, with whole sections that appear to be at best tangentially related to the subject matter and appear to have been copied and pasted wholesale from other papers (but with no statement to let the reader know if those sections are or are not different in some way). See dkt. 326, 330. Third, those same papers, with exhibits included, are over 2000 pages long. Fourth, some papers appear to raise frivolous arguments (see below).

The tentative ruling is as follows with respect to procedures in all of the adversary proceedings and contested matters in these related bankruptcy cases:

(i) Page limits. Set a limit of 25 pages for any brief, and 50 pages of attached or accompanying documents, absent prior authorization to exceed those limits. The documents can be excerpts, marked up to point the reader to the relevant phrase or item, provided that (x) any original markings on the documents are clearly distinguishable from any added markings and (y) upon request full copies of all exhibits are immediately made available to all other parties and this Court.

(ii) Incorporation by reference. Direct all parties, rather than repeating their arguments and exhibits, to incorporate them by reference. In addition, to the extent any material does not exactly repeat prior material, but parallels prior material in substantial part, the tentative ruling is that the party must explain what is new or different.

For example, instead of a 10-page recitation of background facts in which one sentence is different, the party would replace those 10 pages with that one sentence and a brief summary of the relevant aspects of the prior material, with a cross-reference to the docket number of the material that is incorporated by reference. Alternatively, if the approach in the immediately preceding sentence would not be practical or would be confusing in any particular situation, then the party would add a footnote both at the start of the factual summary and at the start of the new or different sentence, to alert the reader that this is the portion that is new or different. Alternatively, the party could adopt any other suitable method for highlighting new or different material. In any event, all parties are directed to use whatever method is most reader-friendly for presenting accurate, relevant material.

(iii) Bifurcating or combining any matters, and issuing judgments on partial findings and/or final judgments on fewer than all claims or parties. The claim objections that are set for hearing today violate at least the spirit, and probably the letter, of Rule 3007(b) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) ("A party in interest shall not include a demand for relief of a kind specified in Rule 7001 in an objection to the allowance of a claim, but may include the objection in an adversary proceeding."). In any event, any future claim objections involving the same nucleus of operative facts as any pending adversary proceeding must be raised through proper pleadings or motions in those adversary proceedings, not by separate claim objections.

In addition, there is no reason to litigate all of the numerous issues raised by the parties if it appears that it would be more efficient to litigate just one or two issues first, and enter judgements on partial findings, and/or enter final judgments as to fewer than all claims or parties (based on any express determination that there is "no just reason for delay") (Rules 52 & 54(b), Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Rules 7052, 7054 & 9014(c), Fed. R. Bankr. P.). For example, if a hypothetical chapter 7 debtor were accused of dozens of acts and omissions that could warrant either nondischargeability of individual claims (11 U.S.C. 523) or denial of the entire discharge (11 U.S.C. 727), there might be no just reason not to enter a judgment determining a single issue, after bifurcation so as to have a separate trial on that issue. In this situation the single issue might be whether the hypothetical debtor had concealed or failed to maintain adequate recorded information (under section 727(a)(3)), which, if proven, presumably would moot the other issues under sections 523 and 727.

The parties are directed to address whether this Court should adopt such procedures for one or more issues in these cases and the related adversary proceedings and contested matters, or conversely whether this Court should combine various matters for joint hearings or trials. See Rule 42 (Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Rules 7042 & 9014(c), Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

(iv) Testimony by declaration. Direct testimony must be presented by declaration, subject to live cross-examination and redirect (see Rule 611(a); In re Gergely, 110 F.3d 1448, 1451-52 (9th Cir. 1997); In re Adair, 965 F.2d 777, 779-80 (9th Cir. 1992)).

(v) Time limits. The parties are hereby put on notice that this Court at any time may limit their time for oral argument and presentation of their case. In addition, the parties are directed to address whether they would prefer that this Court impose such limits at this time, or at any pretrial conferences, or on the first day of trial, or during trial. See generally, Hon. Barry Russell, 2 Bankr. Evid. Manual (2018-19 Ed., Nov. 2018) 611:1, Examples 6&7).

(b) Objection by individual Debtors to Proof of Claim ("POC") No. 3 (dkt. 310)

Overrule the objection to POC No. 3, filed by Wyndham Vacation Resort, Inc ("Wyndham"), for the reasons stated in Wyndham's opposition (dkt. 326), and for the following additional reasons.

First, POC No. 3 has sufficient documentation and other information to establish its prima facie validity. Second, any lack of prima facie validity is not enough to disallow the claim under 11 U.S.C. 502. See In re Orozco, 2017 WL 3126797 (Case No. 2:13-bk-15745-NB, dkt. 132), and In re Beoglyan (Case No. 2:13-bk-22883-NB, dkt. 141).

The cases cited by Mr. MacMillan (dkt. 310, pp.2:28-3:1) are distinguishable or actually contrary to his position. See In re Garner, 246 B.R. 617 (9th Cir. BAP 2000) (when claim did have prima facie validity, opposition did not overcome that prima facie validity); and see In re Stoecker, 5 F.3d 1022, 1027-28 (7th Cir. 1993) (reversing disallowance of claim based on non-compliance with Rule 3001(f)); In re Brunson, 486 B.R. 759, 765-66, and 768-73 (Bankr. ND Tex. 2013) ("This court adheres to the majority view that a proof of claim may not be disallowed where the sole basis of objection is the creditor's failure to attach sufficient documentation under Bankruptcy Rule 3001") (emphasis added).

Indeed, as noted in Brunson, the 2011 amendments to "Bankruptcy Rule 3001(c)(2)(D), together with the Advisory Committee Note shedding light on its meaning, should end the debate." Id., p.770 (emphasis added). Now it is clear that "[f]ailure to provide the required information does not itself constitute a ground for disallowance of a claim." Id. (quoting advisory committee note; emphasis added).

In view of the foregoing, the tentative ruling is that this objection to POC No. 3 is frivolous.

(c) Objection by individual Debtors to POC No. 18 (dkt. 312)

Overrule the objection to Americana Vacation Club and Stardust Vacation Club's ("Americana/Stardust") POC for the reasons stated in Americana/Stardust's opposition (dkt. 320) and for the same reasons as stated above in connection with POC No. 3. Debtors' Reply (dkt. 341) does not adequately address those reasons.

In view of the foregoing, the tentative ruling is that this objection to POC No. 18 is frivolous.

(d) Motion by individual Debtors to Dismiss bankruptcy case of Attitude Marketing, Inc. ("Attitude") (the "MTD," dkt. 307)

The tentative ruling is to deny the individual Debtors' MTD for the reasons stated in the Chapter 7 Trustee's opposition (dkt. 325) to the MTD, and for the following additional reasons.

As the Trustee notes, in this circuit a voluntary Chapter 7 debtor is entitled to dismissal of the case so long as such dismissal will cause no "plain legal prejudice" to interested parties, or perhaps just "legal prejudice" (without the "plain" modifier). In re Leach, 130 B.R. 855, 857 (9th Cir. BAP 1991) (citing pre-Bankruptcy Code case of In re International Airport Inn Partnership, 517 F.2d 510, 512 (9th Cir. 1975), and addressing how its principles should be applied under the Bankruptcy Code). The tentative ruling is that dismissal very much would cause plain legal prejudice to interested parties because dismissal would preclude the Trustee and creditors from using the bankruptcy process and powers (i) to investigate past and present alleged misconduct, (ii) to prevent acts and omissions for which there are grounds to be concerned, and which can drain the value of a potentially valuable asset of this bankruptcy estate, and (iii) to identify and recover any avoidable transfers.

Investigating all of these things is made all the more important by the allegations of a long history of Debtors purportedly evading judgments, settlement obligations, etc. Whether those allegations are accurate or not is an issue on which Debtors will have every legitimate opportunity to present arguments and evidence; but the tentative ruling is that they cannot avoid the determination of those bankruptcy-focused issues by obtaining a dismissal of their bankruptcy case.

Debtor's motion and reply papers (dkt. 339, 340) do not adequately address any of the foregoing, nor do they establish any reason why this Court would not recognize the Trustee's authority to file the bankruptcy petition pursuant to the Written Consent Of Shareholders In Lieu Of Meeting and the Written Consent Of Sole Director In Lieu Of Meeting attached to the Trustee's Opposition as Exhibit A (dkt. 325). The arguments attempting to dispute the Trustee's business judgment in causing Attitude's bankruptcy petition to be filed, or in filling out Attitude's bankruptcy schedules, or in administering Attitude's assets, are unpersuasive and unsupported by any meaningful evidence. The individual Debtors' flat denials of the claims against Attitude, without persuasive or even colorable arguments or evidence, are insufficient.

The tentative ruling is that the individual Debtors' arguments are frivolous. In any event, the paucity of those arguments only reinforces the need for the Trustee to take over management of Attitude.

Proposed orders: The Trustee and the Claimants are directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing matters "(1)(b)," "(c)," and "(d)" via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B). This Court will prepare an order on matter "(1)(a)."
