Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #21.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [UD]

5800 HAROLD, LLC
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part, deny in part, as set forth below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Deny, without prejudice to any other types of relief granted herein (or previously granted), for the following reasons.

The motion requests requests "in rem" relief (i.e., relief applicable notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases (under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and/or In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31)). The tentative ruling is to deny that request because there is insufficient evidence on the record to convince this Court that Debtor is involved in a scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud the Movant as is required under 362(d)(4) or the other authorities cited above.

Other requested relief

Movant requests in the alternative that this Court dismiss this case with a 180-day bar pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 109(g). See dkt. 11 at PDF p.12. First, such a request is not procedurally proper because all creditors must be served (see Rule 1017(f)(1), Fed. R. Bankr. P.) with sufficient notice and a motion requesting such relief, not a request buried on the 12th page of a notice and motion seeking entirely different relief. Second, the motion papers do not set forth sufficient cause for dismissal of this case with a 180-day bar.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Docket 13

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part, deny in part, and continue in part to 9/10/19 at 10:00 a.m. as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 8/20/19.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

As to the requested relief that will remain effective notwithstanding any future bankruptcy case, continue the motion to the date and time set forth at the start of this tentative ruling, for service on the persons who executed the documents through which the movant asserts its interest in the property. Reasons: See LBR 4001-1(c)(1)(B). In addition, Judge Bason has due process concerns about granting such relief without service on the person(s) whose interests may be most directly affected. See generally Mullane v. Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co., 339 U.S. 306 (1950) (due process generally). In this matter, such persons appear to include: Lita Logan.

Option for shortened time: This Court has selected a continued hearing date that contemplates shortened notice (per Rule 9006)

but that date is conditioned on the movant (i) serving, on the day after the current hearing date, the motion papers and notice of the continued hearing date, and (ii) filing that notice and a proof of service no later than the next day. Alternatively, the movant may self-calendar a continued hearing on regular notice.

Option for interim/partial order: Movant may elect to lodge a proposed order granting the partial relief provided in this tentative ruling, but any such order must recite that a continued hearing has been set to consider additional relief (or, alternatively, that the movant no longer seeks additional relief and the Clerk's office is requested and directed to take the continued hearing off calendar).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Docket 15

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions. Appearances are not required.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

Tentative Ruling for 8/20/19:

Appearances required. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address (a) whether the alleged arrears have been brought current and/or (b) whether the Debtor will agree to the terms of an adequate protection order (see Debtor's supplemental declaration, dkt. 102, and Bank of New York Mellon's supplemental response, dkt. 105, p.5:10-16).

Tentative Ruling for 7/2/19:

Appearances required. The tentative ruling, subject to any oral opposition at the hearing in view of the non-compliance with this Court's order shortening time ("OST," dkt. 90), is that Debtor has made a sufficient prima facie showing of the requirements for reconsideration. Therefore the burden is on creditor The Bank of New York Mellon f/k/a The Bank of New York as Trustee for Home Equity Loan Trust 2007-FRE1 (the "Bank") to rebut that showing. See Rule 9024 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.); Pioneer Inv. Servs. Co. v. Brunswick Assocs. Ltd. P'ship, 507 U.S. 380, 395 (1993); Pincay v. Andrews, 389 F.3d 853 (9th Cir. 2004).

On the merits, the parties are directed to address (1) whether Bank and/or Bank's servicer (Nationstar/Mr. Cooper) has provided an updated payment history that accounts for the payments that Debtor alleges were not included before (see dkt. 89 at PDF pp. 22-36 and dkt. 95) and (2) whether

#31.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

MAXIM COMMERCIAL CAPITAL, LLC
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required. The tentative ruling, is as set forth in this Court's order shortening time ("OST," dkt. 17), with the following modifications after reviewing Debtor's opposition (dkt. 29) and Movant's reply (dkt. 30).

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Tentative ruling from OST (dkt.17, p.3):

The Court's tentative ruling is as follows.

(1) Movant's calculation under 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) is incorrect. In fact, it appears to have a substantial equity cushion providing it with adequate protection.

(2) Movant may be correct that (unlike Movant, which has a substantial equity cushion) Debtor lacks any equity in the property, so the issue under 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(2) is whether the property is necessary to an effective reorganization.

(3) Apart from the foregoing issues, there is an issue of whether the series of bankruptcy petitions by Debtor and its affiliates have been part of a "scheme" to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(4), or whether such a scheme or any other abuse of the bankruptcy system constitutes "cause" for relief under 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1).

Chapter 11

Further tentative rulings:

First, Debtor as an owner of the subject property is competent to opine (through its principal) as to its worth. True, Debtor's opinion might not be the strongest evidence of value - (a) it appears to be inconsistent with the (hearsay) opinions of another owner who previously filed for bankruptcy, and (b) Debtor's ownership might have been part of a scheme of transferring fractional interests to use bankruptcy to delay foreclosure (see below). But Debtor's opinion is still some evidence of value, and Movant offers none. In any event, it appears that the lower range of the values cited by Movant would still leave it with an equity cushion.

Second, Debtor as an owner of the subject property can declare what he has calculated as the approximate balance owed on a senior lien, so as to calculate the approximate equity cushion protecting Movant. Again, that might not be the strongest evidence - presumably the senior lien has sent mortgage statements, and presumably a recent statement would be far better evidence (unless there have been even more recent adjustments to the debt). But given the summary nature of proceedings on relief from the automatic stay, and given the expedited hearing schedule (at Movant's request), this Court is not persuaded to exclude Debtor's evidence of the senior lien amount. The tentative ruling is to overrule Movant's evidentiary objection no.4 (see dkt. 30-1, p.2:20-24), except to the extent of directing Debtor to file a declaration authenticating a recent mortgage statement from the senior lienholder no later than 8/27/19.

Third, the tentative ruling is that, at this very early stage of this case, Debtor has offered sufficient evidence that the subject property is necessary to an effective financial reorganization, whether that consists of refinancing the property, selling it, arranging for an orderly transition of his business to a new location and then surrendering the property, or something else. Of course, the longer this case is pending the greater will be the burden on Debtor to provide specific information and evidence as to precisely how the property remains necessary for an effective reorganization.

Based on the foregoing, the tentative ruling is to deny relief at this time under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) or (d)(2), except for the limited relief provided below.

Fourth, the property appears to have been the subject of multiple bankruptcy petitions that were used to put off foreclosure. The tentative ruling is that this amounts to a scheme to "hinder" or "delay" creditors, under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4), as well as "cause" under section 362(d)(1). Therefore this Court "shall" grant some form of relief from the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4), but such relief need not include terminating the stay - it can take the form of modifying or conditioning the stay, or some other remedy.

The tentative ruling is that Debtor should have the opportunity to make legitimate use of the bankruptcy system in the present case, but that the property should not continue to be subject to more bankruptcy cases if this one is unsuccessful. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to issue an order providing that no future bankruptcy case will affect Movant's remedies against the property (subject to the usual limitations under section 362(d)(4), such as requiring Movant to record a copy of the order in the real estate records), but not to terminate or otherwise modify or condition the automatic stay in the present bankruptcy case. In other words, the tentative ruling is to issue an order granting the following relief:

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

The automatic stay remains in effect in the bankruptcy case of In re NAMR1726 LLC (Bankr. C.D. Cal., Case No. 2:19-bk-18998-NB). But if this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

Additional evidentiary objections

The tentative ruling is to sustain Movant's evidentiary objection no. 1 (regarding Mr. Sargsyan's motives for quitclaiming an interest in the property) (dkt. 30-1, p.2:1-7), evidentiary objection no. 2 (regarding the motives for Mr. Sargsyan filing his own prior bankruptcy petition) (dkt. 30-1, p.2:8-11), and evidentiary objection no. 3 (regarding the motives for HDA Trucking, Inc. filing and then seeking dismissal of its own bankruptcy case, and its purported

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. BSI FINANCIAL SERVICES

Docket 54

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/20/19:

Deny. Appearances required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Debtor's opposition (dkt. 56), Movant's reply (dkt. 58), Debtor's amended response (dkt. 59), and Proofs of Claim nos. 2 (senior lien) and 4 (Movant).

Analysis:

Debtor has not been making monthly payments to Movant. That is sufficient "cause" for relief from the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1)) to place the burden on Debtor to overcome that showing of cause (11 U.S.C. 362(g)).

Previously, Debtor focused on his theory that he does not owe Movant any monthly payments because, allegedly, he had some sort of oral agreement with Movant's predecessor in interest (Wells Fargo) for a loan modification, and although that loan modification never went through Debtor asserts that Movant should be bound by it. This Court remains unconvinced by that argument.

Nevertheless, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has met his burden by advancing a new argument in his amended response. Debtor states that Movant is adequately protected because the subject property has a value in excess of $550,000. Dkt. 59, p.11:22-25.

True, Debtor provides no supporting documentation for the contention that the property is worth $550,000. But Debtor's schedule A lists the property value at a still substantial value of $400,000. Dkt. 1, at PDF p.11. For purposes of determining whether Movant is adequately protected, this Court will use the property value of $400,000.

Movant's proof of claim no. 4 is for $90,704.81, and according to the relief from stay motion, BSI is owed $100,533.58 as of June 17, 2019. Dkt. 54 at PDF p.7. That leaves an equity cushion of about $300,000, or approximately 300% of the debt to Movant.

In the 9th Circuit, a 20% equity cushion has been held to be adequate protection for a secured creditor. See In re Moller, 734 F.2d 1396, 1401 (9th Cir. 1984). Therefore the tentative ruling is that, despite Debtor's ongoing failure to make monthly payments to Movant, Movant is adequately protected by a substantial equity cushion. In addition, Debtor appears to have had some preliminary success in his litigation in State Court, so it appears appropriate to let that litigation play out and, meanwhile, hold Movant at bay and let Debtor remain in his home.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, this Court remains highly dubious about Debtor's long-term chances of successfully litigating against Movant. Whatever Movant's predecessor in interest (Wells Fargo) might or might not have done, Debtor has not shown how Movant can be charged with any wrongdoing. This Court cautions Debtor that, if Movant continues to incur attorney fees in the State Court litigation, and if those fees are added to its claim in this bankruptcy case, this Court might have to conclude in future that Movant is no longer protected by an adequate equity cushion, or that the erosion of that cushion combined with other factors would warrant termination of the automatic stay. In other words, Debtor is cautioned that (if this Court adopts this tentative ruling) he will have won the battle but he could lose the war, if he does not resolve the State Court litigation soon.

Tentative Ruling for 8/6/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

Debtor requests a continuance due to plans to be out of the State (dkt. 56), but he does not address why he could not use this Court's procedures for a telephonic appearance (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov). The tentative ruling is to deny the request for a continuance.

On the merits, Debtor appears to assert that (a) if Movant's predecessor in interest (Wells Fargo) had fulfilled its alleged promises for a loan modification, he could have applied the proceeds from another loan (a Keep Your Home California loan of approximately $27,381) to paying Movant, (b) then his obligations to movant would be prepaid through sometime in 2020, (c) under a settlement offer from Wells Fargo in the underlying State Court litigation, Movant's loan would be brought current, and (d) Movant should contribute additional funds or concessions toward the settlement. Dkt. 56. Movant essentially replies that it cannot be charged with any alleged wrongdoing by Wells Fargo, and meanwhile it is not being paid. Dkt. 58.

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not established why any alleged wrongdoing by Wells Fargo could be charged against Movant, nor has Debtor established any wrongdoing by Movant itself, or any other reason why Movant should be estopped to assert Debtor's failure to pay monthly mortgage payments. In other words, it is up to Debtor and Wells Fargo either to settle their claims or not, and meanwhile, the question for purposes of the present motion is whether Debtor's failure to make monthly payments to Movant is or is not "cause" for relief from the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1)).

On the one hand, non-payment is usually considered to be such "cause" (even without evidence that the collateral is declining in value) because of the "time value" of money and other harms to creditors from non-payment. On the other hand, it appears that the defaults in payments to Movant might be cured, either (i) under the settlement communication attached to Debtor's papers, if Debtor commences payments as of 9/15/19, or (ii) through some other voluntary or involuntary payment by Wells Fargo. See

dkt. 56, exhibit (last page). (This Court is considering that settlement communication only for the very limited purpose of noting that there are scenarios in which someone will be paying Movant.)

The tentative ruling is that if either Debtor or Wells Fargo do not cure the postpetition non-payments to Movant then Movant will be entitled to some form of relief from the automatic stay. If that results in a loss of Debtor's home, and if Debtor can establish that this is Wells Fargo's or Movant's fault, then he can seek damages from them in State Court. Meanwhile, Movant cannot be held in limbo indefinitely because the disputes between Debtor and Wells Fargo have not been resolved.

The parties should be prepared to address the foregoing, and whether a short continuance would be appropriate, to provide an opportunity to resolve these issues and have someone (either Debtor or Wells Fargo) pay Movant.

Docket 13

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

The parties are directed to address:

- (1) the opposition of CAM XIV Trust ("Lender") (dkt.21);
- (2) any oral opposition at the hearing;
- (3) what remedies this Court should impose for the incorrect notices sent by Debtor's counsel, Mr. Cort, as explained below; and
- (4) this Court's standard conditions, in the event this Court is persuaded to grant the motion in whole or in part.

(1) Lender's opposition (dkt.21)

Lender's opposition argues (a) that this is Debtor's 4th bankruptcy in 6 years; (b) that Debtor has fallen further behind: from $9,620.86 at the time when her 1st bankruptcy case was filed to $53,604.57 now; (c) that there is a presumption of a lack of good faith - rebuttable only by clear and convincing evidence - because Debtor has not established any substantial change in circumstance since the dismissal of her most recent case, and because of Debtor's history of not being able to make the payments she has promised; and (d) that it would be inequitable to force Lender into what is, in essence, a 12 year plan of reorganization. Lender asserts that the total payoff amount owing as of the petition date is approximately $430,114.31.

This Court notes that Debtor's Bankruptcy Schedule D (dkt.1) lists a secured debt (in the name of BSI Financial Services, which this Court presumes is Lender's servicer) of $454,053.83 as against an alleged property value of $520,000.00. That equates to an equity cushion of approximately 13%. That is a thin equity cushion, taking into account the typical presumption of 8% costs of sale.

This Court also notes that Debtor's proposed chapter 13 plan (dkt. 2, p.6) lists arrears of $27,183.65, which is substantially less than the $53,604.57 listed by Lender.

Can Debtor afford to retain this property? If not, would Debtor's consent to a deadline to sell or refinance the property be sufficient to establish good faith? Would any such consent need to include an agreement that no future bankruptcy filings would affect Lender's rights against this property?

(2) Oral opposition at the hearing

This Court's order shortening time (the "OST," dkt. 16, pp.2-3) provides that any opposition papers must be filed and served no later than 8/15/19. But Mr. Cort has instead notified creditors repeatedly that they may present any opposition orally at the hearing.

Specifically, Mr. Cort prepared the following two notices. First, before the OST was issued Debtor's motion presumed, and it tells creditors, that any opposition may be made orally at the hearing (rather than using the pre-printed option on the form to state that an application for an OST has been filed, and that a supplemental notice will inform creditors of the deadline for any opposition). Dkt.13, pp.1&3.

Second, although Mr. Cort could have cured this problem by providing a corrected notice after the OST was issued, instead he provided a notice (dkt. 18, p.1) that repeats (erroneously) that any opposition may be made orally at the hearing.

For the foregoing reasons, despite the 8/15/19 deadline for opposition papers in the OSC, all parties in interest will be permitted to present any opposition orally at the hearing.

(3) Concerns about Mr. Cort's billing, and remedies

Because of Mr. Cort's two incorrect notices, he has assured that he has to appear at the hearing to see if there is any oral opposition to the motion. In contrast, if he had provided notice of this Court's 8/15/19 deadline for any opposition papers, and if no opposition had been filed, then (under this Court's typical procedures and standard tentative ruling) he would not have had to appear.

In other words, Mr. Cort has transformed a process that would not have required him to charge attorney fees (for appearing at the hearing) into a process that guarantees he will get those fees (were it not for this tentative ruling prohibiting him from charging those fees). That is "churning" this bankruptcy case: he is charging unnecessary fees.

This Court takes judicial notice that the same problem has arisen frequently in cases handled by Mr. Cort. This is a serious problem.

"Churning" is a particular danger in chapter 13 cases because the client (the debtor) has to pay all disposable income to the Chapter 13 Trustee regardless what portion of those funds go to the debtor's attorney instead of paying creditors. This means that debtors have a reduced incentive (if any) to be concerned about unnecessary services, such as those Mr. Cort is providing by appearing at a hearing when no appearance was needed.

Nor is it obvious to anyone else involved in the process (the Chapter 13 Trustee or creditors) that an appearance at any given hearing was unnecessary. Therefore, Mr. Cort's apparent practice of churning his chapter 13 cases could go unnoticed (were it not for this Court having raised these concerns on its own initiative, per 11 U.S.C. 105).

For these reasons, the tentative ruling is to issue an OSC directing Mr. Cort to show cause why this Court should not impose a restriction, in all of his cases, that he must not charge fees for any appearance, at any hearing, by any attorney for his client, unless and until he affirmatively establishes that he could not have handled the matter without an appearance. The tentative ruling is to set a hearing on that OSC on 9/19/19 at 8:30 a.m., with a deadline of 9/5/19 to file and serve on the Chapter 13 Trustee and the United States Trustee any response by Mr. Cort (or by any other party in interest).

After the hearing date this Court will prepare the OSC.

(4) Limitations on granting the motion

The tentative ruling, if the motion is granted in whole or in part (as to creditors other than Lender, or as to Lender), is to include the following language in that order. After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order.

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required. There is no tentative ruling, but this Court will hear any opposition and any reply orally at the hearing, pursuant to this Court's oral directions provisionally shortening time, on the request of Debtor's counsel in a telephone call to chambers. See LBR 1001-1(d) and 9075-1(a). In addition, the parties should be prepared to address the following issues:

(1) Self-created emergency?

Why was the motion not filed on or shortly after the petition date of 8/1/19, so that it could have been heard on 14 days' notice, pursuant to the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov)?

(2) Adequate service?

Are the addresses that Debtor used for service adequate? See dkt. 19 (last 3 pages) and see Rules 7004(b)(3) & 9014(b) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

(3) Can Debtor show good faith?

Can Debtor can establish good faith in the face of his history of unauthorized transfers and multiple bankruptcies affecting various properties in which Debtor claims an interest. See In re Anderson (Bankr. C.D. Cal., Case No. 2:18-bk-20990-SK, dkt. no. 31, at PDF pp.6-7, listing 10 bankruptcy cases). Will Debtor consent to some form of restrictions in this case that might establish that, despite such history, his is proceeding in good faith? If so, what restrictions would be appropriate?

If this Court is persuaded to grant relief, the tentative ruling is that this Court will prepare the order and it will include the following provisions (Judge Bason's standard provisions):

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #8.00 Status conference re: Complaint for Wrongful foreclosure, conversion, quiet, title, violation the discharge order

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

Current issues

(a) No service of summons and complaint

Plaintiff/Debtor (acting without an attorney) has not filed any proof of service of process of the summons and the complaint. Is Plaintiff/Debtor capable of prosecuting this adversary proceeding?

(b) No service of motion to dismiss ("MTD," adv. dkt. 3, 5)

Defendant/Creditor has filed its MTD papers, but it alleges that it has not served those papers on Plaintiff/Debtor because the Complaint does not include her current address and she no longer resides at her prior address, so its intent is to serve Plaintiff/Debtor in person, at this status conference. See adv.dkt.6.

The tentative ruling, if such service is accomplished, is to continue the hearing on the MTD to 9/24/19 at 2:00 p.m. (with the usual deadlines for any opposition and reply papers). If Plaintiff/Debtor fails to appear, the tentative ruling is to dismiss this adversary proceeding for lack of prosecution.

(c) No joint Status Report

Plaintiff/Debtor has failed to file any status report. Defendant/Creditor has filed a unilateral status report, which is not on the official form. If this adversary proceeding is not dismissed, the parties are directed to use the local form.

(d) Merits of MTD

Defendant/Creditor relies on an unlawful detainer judgment in arguing for (i) abstention and (ii) application of the "Rooker-Feldman doctrine." But unlawful detainer proceedings are summary in nature. See, e.g., S.P. Growers Ass'n v. Rodriguez, 17 Cal.3d 71 (1976). Defendant/Creditor has not cited any authority that abstention is appropriate for unlawful detainer proceedings - could the merits of Plaintiff/Debtor's claims be litigated in an unlawful detainer proceeding? Nor has Defendant/Creditor cited any authority that the Rooker-Feldman doctrine can rest on the foundation of an unlawful detainer proceeding.

This Court expresses no opinion at this point on the remaining arguments in the MTD. Any such issues can be addressed at the continued hearing, after it is properly served, and after reviewing any opposition by Plaintiff/Debtor and any reply by Defendant/Creditor.

Tentative Ruling for 7/30/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

This Court has reviewed the filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The parties should be prepared to address the following issues.

Preliminary issues

- (a) The parties have not filed a joint status report. Why?
- (b) In a prior case (2:11-bk-42321-SK), the parties stipulated to, and the Bankruptcy Court ordered, nondischargeability under 11 U.S.C. 523(a)(4). See adv. dkt. 1, Ex.B. Debtor's Plan (dkt. 24) provides for 100% dividend, and was confirmed (dkt. 29). Based on the foregoing, is there any reason why the parties will not stipulate to a judgment on this complaint (per 11 U.S.C. 1328(a)(4))? The tentative ruling is to set a continued status conference, as set forth below, to give the parties time to file such a stipulation and lodge a proposed order approving the same.

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences (except that that provisions regarding mediation have been omitted because they appear to be unnecessary). (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

proceeding should not be remanded
fr. 08/06/19

Docket 2

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/20/19:

Appearances required. The tentative ruling, subject to hearing argument from the Chapter 7 Trustee and any other party in interest with standing, is to abstain and remand this case, for the reasons stated in this Court's Order to Show Cause ("OSC," adv. dkt. 2).

First, Debtor lacks standing and is no longer the real party in interest. As the OSC points out, Debtor chose to convert this case to chapter 7, so now his chapter 7 trustee has exclusive control over all of his claims.

Second, Debtor is not persuasive in his argument that that this Court lacks "jurisdiction" to issue any final ruling on the abstention and remand issues, and must instead forward any recommended disposition to the District Court (adv. dkt. 8, p.5, n.3). Debtor confuses jurisdiction with authority, and this Bankruptcy Court has both jurisdiction and authority to issue final orders on the matters presently before this Court: the decisions whether to abstain and remand are both statutorily and Constitutionally "core," and even if they were not this Court can issue final rulings because those matters can be addressed without an evidentiary hearing. See 28 U.S.C. 157(b)(2)(A)&(O); and see In re AWTR Liquidation Inc., 547 B.R. 831 (2016). (Indeed, Debtor himself asserts that this entire proceeding is a "core" proceeding, dkt. 8, p.15:26-27, p.25:21, etc. - this Court does not agree that the entire proceeding is "core," but this part of it certainly is.)

Third, Debtor's remaining arguments are unpersuasive. Based on the record before this Court, as summarized in the OSC, the tentative ruling is to find that there is ample cause to abstain and remand. Debtor has been involved in orchestrating repeated bankruptcy cases and repeated removals of the probate proceedings, without adequate notice to other parties to the probate proceeding, and all for the purposes of (i) later asserting that any proceedings before the Probate Court have been void, and (ii) otherwise hindering and delaying the probate proceedings. This constitutes bad faith, an abuse of the bankruptcy system, and more than sufficient grounds to abstain and remand under the authorities cited in the OSC.

#1.00 Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by debtor herself.

(1) Current issues

(a) Airbnb

Debtor's budget motion (dkt. 37, Ex.A, p.2) reveals that, although the Sweetzer property is "listed to be sold," meanwhile "Debtor intends to rent [that property] as an Airbnb." The tentative ruling is that this is a transaction out of the ordinary course, which requires notice, an opportunity for a hearing, and approval by this Court. 11 U.S.C. 363(b). Has Debtor already acted on this intent, without such approval?

In addition, this Court is concerned about (i) whether Airbnb rental would be in compliance with any local permitting and zoning requirements and is otherwise permissible, (ii) whether that proposed use might expose the bankruptcy estate to liabilities, (iii) whether there is adequate insurance for that use of the property, and (iv) whether the proposed sale of the property is consistent with any agreement with Airbnb.

(b) Real estate agent.

The employment application (dkt. 26, p.4:1-4) states that Agent has agreed to disclose to Debtor [i.e., only to Debtor? how about disclosure to creditors, the US Trustee, and this Court?] any agency relationship Agent has with other parties ("Third Parties") that may be part of a real estate transaction for the sale of the Real Property [i.e., dual agency? that is prohibited by the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov)] as well as the amount of any compensation Agent receives from Agent's relationship with any Third Parties [i.e., splitting the commission with a cooperating agent from a different real estate agency? or something else?].

#2.00 Status Conference re: Chapter 11 case

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues

(a) Service of order setting principal status conference

This Court's order setting principal status conference (dkt. 2) required Debtor to serve this order on all parties in interest and file a proof of service at least 14 days before the principal status conference. As of the drafting of this tentative ruling, the docket does not reflect such service. Was the order served?

(b) Missing budget motion

Debtor's status report states that Debtor has not yet filed a budget motion but "will do so if necessary." Dkt. 11 at p.3. Per the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at cacb.uscourts.gov), budget motions are required in all Chapter 11 cases.

(c) Cash collateral

Debtor indicates that it will meet and confer with its lender re cash collateral. Dkt. 11 at p.3. What is the status of those negotiations?

Pending lender approval, how has Debtor continued to operate its business since filing? Has Debtor been using cash collateral without authorization? Has Debtor been holding the rent money it has received in a separate account?

(d) Interim arbitration award

Debtor should be prepared to apprise the court of the details surrounding the interim arbitration award, including the nature of the dispute, how Debtor intends to contest the award, and what approach to the award is in the best interests of creditors.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 7/31/19.

#8.00 Hrg re: Motion in individual chapter 11 case
for order authorizing use of cash collateral

Docket 52

Tentative Ruling:

Grant the motion (docket no. 52), subject to the conditions set forth below.
Appearances required.

Judge Bason's standard conditions for use of cash collateral and/or postpetition financing (by creditors holding prepetition claims)

(1) Written order

(a) Form. Use local form

F2081-1.1.ORDER.CASH.COLLATERAL or the equivalent. Attach a copy of this tentative ruling as an exhibit, thereby adopting it as the written ruling of this Court, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. Do not repeat the terms set forth in the motion or any stipulation. Incorporate those terms by reference (including the docket number of the document), subject to any modification by this Court.

(b) Timing. Lodge the proposed order within 7 days after the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Minimum adequate protection

In addition to the postpetition security interests that are automatically provided pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 552 (e.g., in traceable proceeds and profits), and subject to any more comprehensive protection that may be included in the motion or related papers, Debtor shall provide at least the following protection to any creditor with a security interest in the subject property (pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 361-364, as applicable):

(a) Insurance. For all collateral of a type that typically is insured (e.g., real property and improvements), Debtor is directed to maintain insurance in a dollar amount at least equal to Debtor's good faith estimate of the value of such creditor's interest in the collateral, and such insurance shall name such creditor as an additional insured. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments for such insurance.

(b) Taxes. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments on account of postpetition real estate taxes (to the extent that real estate is part of the collateral).

(c) Disclosures/access. Debtor is directed to provide, upon such creditor's reasonable request, periodic accountings of the foregoing insurance and tax obligations and payments, as well as postpetition proceeds, products, offspring, or profits from the collateral, including gross revenues and expenses and a calculation of net revenues, including any rents and any fees, charges, accounts, or other payments for the use or occupancy of rooms and other public facilities in lodging properties (as all of the foregoing terms are used in 11 U.S.C. 552). Debtor is directed to provide appropriate documentation of those accountings, and access for purposes of inspection or appraisal.

(3) Limitation on postpetition liens

In the event that the motion or related papers seek authority to grant postpetition liens to the creditor(s) with respect to prepetition debts any such liens shall be limited to the same validity, priority, and amount as prepetition liens. As used herein, the "validity, priority, and amount" or any similar phrase that may be used by the parties or this Court is deemed to include the following:

(a) Extent. Such liens shall be limited to the type of collateral in which the creditor held a security interest as of the petition date, unless this order expressly states that the liens granted by this order are intended to attach to different types of collateral from the prepetition collateral. For example, if prepetition liens extended to inventory and accounts receivable but not equipment then postpetition liens are likewise limited (unless otherwise expressly provided by order of this Court). In addition, postpetition liens shall not extend to the proceeds of any avoidance actions, any recoveries under 11 U.S.C. 506(c), or any "carveout" under 11 U.S.C. 552.

(b) Priority. Such liens shall be limited to the same priority as the security interest held by the creditor as of the petition date.

(c) Dollar amount. Such liens shall be limited to the dollar amount needed to protect the creditor against diminution in the value of the secured claims as of the petition date.

(d) Enforceability. Such liens shall be limited to the extent that the creditor's security interests were duly perfected and valid as of the petition date, and to the extent that they are unavoidable.

(e) Automatic postpetition perfection. Any automatic perfection of such liens shall be subject to any applicable limitations regarding the Court's authority, jurisdiction, or due process.

(4) Automatic disapproval of insufficiently disclosed provisions

Any provision of the type listed in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or in local form F4001-2 (e.g., cross-collateralization) or any waiver of the "equities of the case" exception in 11 U.S.C. 552(b)(2) shall be deemed automatically disapproved and excepted from any order granting the motion, notwithstanding any other provision of such order, unless either: (a) such provision is specifically and prominently disclosed in the motion papers in a checklist (such as local form F4001-2), or alternatively (b) such provision is specifically identified in any proposed order granting the motion, using terminology of the type used in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or local form F4001-2 (e.g., any "cross-collateralization" that is not specifically identified as such is deemed to be disapproved).

(5) Disputes

In the event of any disputes regarding the rulings in this order, the parties are directed to meet and confer and, if they cannot resolve their disputes consensually, contact Judge Bason's chambers to arrange a mutually convenient time for either a telephonic or in-person hearing to address such disputes.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 8/20/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on the following matters via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(1) Current issues

(a) Cash collateral motion (dkt. 52)

Please see the tentative ruling for the cash collateral motion (calendar no.8, 8/20/19 at 1:00 p.m.). Why was this motion not set for hearing sooner? Were Debtors using cash collateral without authorization to do so?

(b) Budget motion (dkt. 53)

First, why have Debtors ignored the instructions in line 8a of Bankruptcy Schedule I to attach, for each rental property, a breakdown of gross receipts, expenses, and net revenues? Second, based on the listed $1600 of income (Schedule I, line 8a) and over $2,400 of expenses (Schedule J, line 20), how is it in the best interests of creditors to retain the rental property? Third, how can creditors and this Court and rely on Debtor's figures and their proposed attorneys' review of their motions when, contrary to the dollar amounts listed in the budget motion, Debtor reports $2,700 of income and $2,637.98 of expenses for the rental property in the cash collateral motion (dkt. 52, p.5)?

Tentative Ruling for 7/30/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues

- (a) "First Day Motions" (dkt. 52, 53)

Debtors originally self-calendared their cash collateral motion (dkt. 52) and their budget motion (dkt. 53) for 8/21/19, which is not a day available for self-calendaring. In addition, Debtor's case was converted on 6/18/19 (dkt. 38), which is two months prior to the purported hearing - how could Debtor set these "first day" matters so far out? How can Debtors use cash, which might be subject to asserted liens, without an order approving use of cash collateral? See 11 U.S.C. 363(c). Have Debtors been engaging in transactions out of the "ordinary course" (11 U.S.C. 363(b)) - guarding against such unauthorized transactions is the reason why Judge Bason requires budget motions?

(b) Employment application, Law Offices of Lionel E. Giron (dkt. 50)

The United States Trustee has objected to the employment of the Law Offices of Lionel E. Giron (dkt. 61). The tentative ruling is to set the application for hearing at the same time as the continued status conference below.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 4/10/19 and converted from chapter 13 on 6/18/19.

Analysis

(a) Broker's dual representation

Debtor's motion provides that Mr. Renteria represents both the proposed buyer and the seller, the Debtor, in this transaction. Dkt. 352, at PDF p.18:2-5. The tentative ruling is that, although Judge Bason normally disapproves dual agency, that restriction will not apply to the post-confirmation reorganized Debtor.

(b) Sale free and clear

Section 363(f) provides that

The trustee may sell property under subsection (b) or (c) of this section free and clear of any interest in such property of an entity other than the estate, only if—

- (1) applicable nonbankruptcy law permits sale of such property free and clear of such interest;
- (2) such entity consents;
- (3) such interest is a lien and the price at which such property is to be sold is greater than the aggregate value of all liens on such property;
- (4) such interest is in bona fide dispute; or
- (5) such entity could be compelled, in a legal or equitable proceeding, to accept a money satisfaction of such interest.

The tentative ruling is that the property may be sold free and clear of the following interests in the property:

(i) Allco Enterprises Inc. dba Allco Leasing's lien pursuant to section 363(f)(4), because its U.C.C.-2 continuation statement has expired (dkt. 352, at PDF pp. 21-22).

(ii) Bayview Loan Servicing, LLC's lien pursuant to section 363(f) (2) in view of the parties apparent settlement (dkt. 364). (Unless the settlement falls through, this Court intends to express no view on whether Bayview's interest is in bona fide dispute within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 363(f)(4) (see dkt. 352, at PDF p.20).

(iii) Epps & Coulson, LLC's lien pursuant to section 363(f)(2) because it apparently has consented to the sale (dkt. 352, at PDF p. 20).

(iv) All other interests pursuant to section 363(f)(5), and the following analysis from the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov):

§ 363(f): Sales free and clear. Regarding § 363(f)(5), Judge Bason does not follow Clear Channel Outdoor, Inc. v. Knupfer (In re PW, LLC), 391 B.R. 25, 40 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2008). He has ruled that a sale free and clear is permissible under that statute whenever the interest at issue is subject to monetary valuation. See In re Trans World Airlines, Inc., 322 F.3d 283, 290-91 (3d Cir. 2003) ("TWA") (because employees' claims were "subject to monetary valuation," debtor's assets could be sold free and clear of successor liability for such claims under § 363(f)(5)). Alternatively, Judge Bason has ruled that "cramdown" is among the types of legal or equitable proceeding within the statute, or that Clear Channel is distinguishable in most cases under the rationale of In re Jolan, 403 B.R. 866 (Bankr. W.D. Wash. 2009), because holders of interests can be compelled in numerous other types of legal or equitable proceedings to accept a money satisfaction (which might be $-0- in the case of an interest that is entirely underwater). Those proceedings include a hypothetical foreclosure by one of the lienholders, or a receivership (which could be initiated at the behest of creditors or by the debtor itself). See Cal. Code Civ. Proc. ("CCP") § 564(b)(9) (power to appoint receiver to sell property); CCP § 568.5 (receiver empowered to sell property as provided in CCP §§701.510 et seq.); CCP § 701.630 (extinguishment of liens); CCP § 701.680 (binding effect of sale). The judge respectfully disagrees with In re Hassen Imports P'ship, 502 B.R. 851, 860 et seq. (C.D. Cal. 2013) (hypothetical foreclosure sale did not qualify under section 363(f)(5)).

(2) Status conference

The tentative ruling is to continue this post-confirmation status conference to 8/20/19 at 1:00 p.m., with no written status report required. This Court anticipates that it will issue a tentative ruling, shortly prior to that time, further continuing the status conference if there is no activity on the docket that appears to warrant a status conference at that time.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 3/26/19:

Continue to 5/21/19 at 1:00 p.m., with no status report required, in view of the latest status report (dkt. 346) and notice of sale (dkt. 347). Appearances are not required on 3/26/19.

This Court has reviewed the Debtor's latest filed documents, including its Monthly Operating Reports (dkt. 343, 345) and Status Report (dkt. 346). This Court is not aware of issues that would warrant a status conference at this time.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." report (dkt. 9) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. Based on those documents it appears that both the plaintiff (Poser Investments, Inc., "Poser") and the Debtor-defendants agree that the four properties at issue either were never properly transferred or have been returned to Debtors, and either way they are now part of the bankruptcy estate. The principal remaining issues appear to be:

- (1) Will the other defendants contest that issue?
- (2) Does this Bankruptcy Court require jurisdiction over those other defendants (so as to enter a judgment against them, or at least against the interests that they previously asserted against the four properties), and if such jurisdiction is required, is such jurisdiction established by their appearance in the removed State Court action, or do they consent to in personam jurisdiction?
- (3) Does the underlying default judgment obtained by Poser's predecessor in interest against Debtors have a preclusive effect against the Debtor-defendants?
- (4) Does Poser have allowable secured claims against the four properties based on the lis pendens and abstracts of judgment?

The parties are directed to address whether there are different principal issues that this Court has not identified. In addition, the parties are directed to address why it would be necessary to have further discovery (in addition to what has already been conducted in the State Court) to address these issues. These appear likely to be resolved based on an application of the law to the undisputed facts, after briefing - e.g., motion(s) for summary judgment.

Meanwhile, it appears appropriate to order mandatory mediation, as set forth below.

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

- (1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/19/19 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 12/10/18. The tentative ruling is not to set any deadlines (e.g., for cutoff of discovery) at this time, so as to provide time for mediation and/or motion(s) for summary judgment on potentially dispositive issues.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/20/19:

Appearances are not required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion for Summary Judgment ("MSJ," Adv. No. 2:18-ap-01431-NB, dkt. 13), and counterclaims motion (adv.dkt. 16)

This Court has issued its written Memorandum Decision granting the MSJ of Poser Investments, Inc. ("Poser") and denying Debtor/Defendants' counterclaims motion. In other words, Debtors cannot raise defenses or counterclaims to Poser's liens, which has a very substantial impact on how Debtors will have to address their financial situation. The tentative ruling is to continue the Status Conference in this adversary proceeding (no.13 on today's calendar) to the same date and time as the continued Status Conference in the bankruptcy case (no.16 on today's calendar), at which time the parties can address whether Debtors have any viable exit strategy in this chapter 11 case, and whether it is appropriate to dismiss or convert this case, set briefing schedules, or take any other action. The tentative ruling is to direct Debtor to serve a notice on all parties in interest via U.S. mail, no later than 8/22/19, quoting this paragraph in full.

Tentative Ruling for 11/6/18:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by Debtors themselves.

(1) Current issues

(a) Status report (dkt. 43, 45)

Debtors have not used the Local Form, which is mandatory in this case (see Judge Bason's posted procedures, available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov). The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 11/13/18 to file the form and serve it on the United States Trustee.

(b) Motion to Employ Debtors' Counsel (Dkt. 18)

Debtors have not adequately addressed the issues in this Court's interim order (dkt. 39). Although proposed counsel declares (dkt. 47) that he has "learned" (from unspecified hearsay) that Debtors' relatives have funded the $15,000 retainer as a gift, there is no declaration from the two alleged donors confirming this, and confirming all of their "connections" with all parties in interest and their attorneys and accountants (see dkt. 39, section 6.(a)), and their informed consent to potential or actual conflicts (id., sec. 6.(c)), and Debtors' informed consent (id., sec. 6.(d)). The tentative ruling is to continue this matter to the same time as the continued status conference (see below) and set a deadline of 11/13/18 to file appropriate declarations and serve them on the United States Trustee.

(c) MOR1 (Sept., 2018, dkt. 36)

Debtors report that they spent $1,350.43 in cash, with no breakdown and just a vague description about "personal expenses," "charitable contributions," etc. The tentative ruling is that any proposed order authorizing the proposed budget must include a prohibition on Debtors spending more than $50 cash on any one item or $250 cash in the aggregate per month without attaching photocopies of receipts.

Several insurance policies have expired or are about to (see dkt. 36, at PDF p.16). What are Debtors doing about that?

(d) Motion to Use Cash Collateral (dkt 20)

First, Debtors failed to lodge a proposed order authorizing the use of cash collateral on the terms set forth in the adopted Tentative Ruling for 10/16/18 (see calendar no. 20, 11/6/18 at 1:00 p.m., which includes a copy of that earlier tentative ruling). The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 11/13/18 to lodge that proposed order, with a copy of that tentative ruling attached.

Second, the original motion appears to have been superseded by an amended motion, which has not been separately filed and served but instead is attached as an exhibit to a supplemental declaration. See dkt. 29, Ex.B. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 11/13/18 to file and serve that motion, which will be heard at the same date and time as the continued status conference (see below).

Third, the tentative ruling is that no order granting Debtors' motions regarding cash collateral shall be construed as endorsing the statements to which creditor Poser Investments, Inc. objects. See dkt. 23. Debtors are directed to make this clear in their proposed orders.

(b) Motion for Order Approving a Budget (Dkt. 11)

Grant on an interim basis, with a continued hearing at the same time as the continued status conference (see below). The tentative ruling is that Debtors' (late-filed) declaration (dkt. 29 & Ex.A) has adequately addressed this Court's concerns about charitable donations.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 9/12/18.

(a) Bar date: 1/11/19 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD

(c) Continued status conference: 12/18/18 at 1:00 p.m., brief status report due 12/11/18.

appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 11/14/17:

Continue to 2/13/18 at 1:00 p.m. in view of the debtor's post-confirmation status report (dkt. 142). Appearances are not required on 11/14/17.

If you wish to dispute the above tentative ruling, please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings".

Tentative Ruling for 8/15/17:

Appearances required. The debtor's counsel should be prepared to address the issues set forth below.

Proposed order: If this court is persuaded to adopt this tentative ruling, then counsel for the debtor is directed to serve and lodge proposed orders (a) approving the disclosure statement (dkt. 101) on a final basis and (b) confirming the plan (dkt. 102), all as amended by the stipulation with class 2A (dkt. 127, 128). Those proposed orders must be lodged via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date.

(1) Ballot Summary. The debtor's ballot summary (dkt. 131) appears to be inaccurate and internally inconsistent. Although the ballots and stipulation attached to the ballot summary show acceptance by 100% in both dollar amount and number of the claims actually voted or deemed to have been voted in classes 2A, 2B and 4A, and no vote by Class 2C, the ballot summary makes assertions that are not consistent with those ballots, namely:

(a) Cramdown: The ballot summary asserts that the debtor is not requesting cramdown (dkt. 131, item 3), even though the lack of an affirmative vote in class 2C means that the debtor does not satisfy 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(8) and therefore must seek cramdown under 11 U.S.C. 1129(b);

(b) Accepting classes: The ballot summary asserts that only class 4A has voted to accept the plan (dkt. 131, item 6), even though classes 2A and 2B have also accepted the plan; and

(not just 100% in amount). In addition, it would have been helpful if the ballot summary's "Comments" following that chart had explained that (i) Portfolio Recovery Associates is Class 2C (even though it is listed as LA County Tax Collector in the Plan), (ii) U.S. Bank is Class 2A (even though it is listed as Wells Fargo in the Plan), and (iii) Class 2A is deemed to have voted in favor of the plan under its court-approved stipulation, even though it did not actually cast a ballot. (If any of the foregoing is incorret then counsel for the debtor must correct those issues at the hearing.)

(2) Status report

The debtor's status report (dkt. 130) misleadingly asserts that this court's order (dkt. 106) previously approved the disclosure statement (dkt. 101), whereas in fact this court only granted preliminary approval for purposes of this combined hearing on whether to approve the disclosure statement (dkt. 101) and confirm the plan (dkt. 102).

(3) Confirmation. Notwithstanding the foregoing, it appears that the debtor's disclosure statement (dkt. 101) should be approved, and that the chapter 11 plan (dkt. 102), as amended by the debtor's stipulation with the holder of the class 2A claim (dkt. 127, 128), has met the requirements for confirmation under 11 U.S.C. 1129(a) & (b).

(4) Correction. This court notes that the tentative ruling for 6/20/17 (reproduced below) was in error in asserting that "[at] the status conference on 5/23/17 this court set a deadline of 6/6/17 to file an amended plan and disclosure statement." In fact, this court was persuaded at that status conference not to impose that deadline.

If you do not appear, and the matter is not adequately resolved by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 6/20/17:

Continue to 8/8/17 at 1:00 p.m. (without the need for any written status report), but impose sanctions of $200 on counsel for the debtor, for the reasons set forth below. Appearances are not required on 6/20/17.

Chapter 11

At the status conference on 5/23/17 this court set a deadline of 6/6/17 to file an amended plan and disclosure statement. On 6/15/17, after this court had already prepared a tentative ruling for this status conference, counsel for the debtor filed a stipulation (dkt. 117) and lodged a proposed order for yet another continuance of the confirmation hearing. At no point did counsel telephone chambers to suggest that counsel expected or was attempting to arrange for such a continuance. Moreover, as set forth in the tentative rulings reproduced below, this case has a long history of missed deadlines, last minute filings, and deficient documents.

This court recognizes that to a large extent counsel cannot control delays by a debtor and debtor in possession, and not infrequently a debtor is simply incapable of meeting all of the debtor's obligations. Nevertheless, this court has noted that counsel of record in this case has a pattern, in this and other cases (e.g., In re Barragan, 2:15-bk-29156-NB), of filing late and inadequate documents, and that pattern is not matched by the vast majority of other counsel who appear before this court. All of that strongly suggests that counsel bears some responsibility for those deficiencies, and that imposes substantial burdens on this court, the U.S. Trustee, and any other parties in interest who may be monitoring or involved in such bankruptcy cases. The tentative ruling is that this warrants sanctions under this court's inherent powers and 11 U.S.C. 105. Counsel is also cautioned that this court anticipates issuing similar or increased sanctions if this pattern continues in other cases in future.

If you wish to dispute the above tentative ruling, please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings".

Tentative Ruling for 5/23/17:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor, but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

Chapter 11

The plan (dkt. 102) has not been accepted by any class. This is the debtor's second bankruptcy case, and it has been pending for over a year. The debtor's lack of progress for that long a period of time suggests a willful delay. Should this court dismiss or convert this case? Should this court impose a bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy for the third time in a row?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 4/20/16. If this case is not dismissed or converted, the tentative ruling is to hold a continued status conference on 6/20/17 at 1:00 p.m. with a deadline of 6/6/17 to file (but NOT serve) yet another amended plan and disclosure statement.

If you do not appear, and the matter is not adequately resolved by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 5/23/17:

Tentative Ruling for 4/11/17:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues.

(a) UST compliance and adequate protection payments. What is the status?

(b) Plan (dkt. 101) and Disclosure Statement (dkt. 102). 4/14/17 deadline to lodge Judge Bason's form of order authorizing service of the voting package, setting deadlines, and setting a combined hearing on final approval of the Disclosure Statement and confirmation of the Plan for the same time as the continued status conference.

Chapter 11

If you do not appear, and the matter is not adequately resolved by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Revised Tentative Ruling for 2/28/17:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues.

(a) U.S. Trustee notice of non-compliance. Has the debtor cured the reporting delinquency noted by the U.S. Trustee regarding lack of insurance (dkt. 94)?

(b) Adequate protection payments. At the hearing on 1/10/17 counsel for the debtor assured this court that the debtor had cured the postpetition delinquency in adequate protection payments. But the monthly operating report for January 2017 (dkt. 95, filed 2/7/17, at p.4) continues to list 4 missed payments for a total of $6,972 delinquency. What was the basis for counsel's misrepresentation to this court? Should this court require counsel and the debtor to testify on that issue, and on the prospects for future income, before this court can find that the plan is feasible (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(11))? Should this misrepresentation have any other consequences?

(c) Plan (dkt. 82) and Disclosure Statement (dkt. 81). The debtor's ballot summary was due to be filed no later than 2/21/17 (dkt. 89). Instead the debtor's counsel has filed a declaration (dkt. 96) asserting that a ballot in favor of the plan has been received by class "6b," even though no such class is listed in the plan (see dkt. 82, Ex.A), and requesting more time to receive ballots from classes 2a and 2b, even though the deadline for ballots has passed. The parties should be prepared to address how best to proceed in these circumstances.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 4/20/16.

(a) Bar date: 7/29/16 (timely served, dkt. 39)

Tentative Ruling for 11/8/16:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor, but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Amended Chapter 11 Plan and Disclosure Statement (dkt. 74, 75).

There are issues with these documents which this Bankruptcy Court will review orally at the hearing.

(b) Monthly operating reports. The debtor's court approved budget (dkt. 19) and the budget attached to her amended chapter 11 disclosure statement (dkt. 74, PDF p. 13) show various typical monthly expenses such as transportation costs, utilities, and food. The expenses included in her budgets submitted to this court are either not reflected in her MORs for August and September 2016 (dkt. 65 and 73, respectively) or are reflected, but in much smaller amounts than budgeted. Is the debtor reporting all of her monthly expenses in her MORs? If not, why not?

Additionally, the MORs appear to reflect that the debtor is receiving less than her budgeted monthly income ($1,800/mo.) from her job as a real estate professional. In August 2016, the debtor reported receipts of $970.01; in September 2016, receipts of $1,000.

Based on the reporting in the debtor's two most recent MORs, this court is concerned that the debtor may not have sufficient disposable income with which to fund her proposed chapter 11 plan.

(1) Current issues

(a) Chapter 11 Plan and Disclosure Statement (dkt. 59, 58). There are numerous issues with these documents, which this Bankruptcy Court will review orally at the hearing.

(b) Orders on budget and cash collateral motions. On July 19, 2016, this court held continued hearings on the debtor's motion for use of cash collateral (dkt. 18) and budget motion (dkt. 19). The motions were granted on a final basis, and the court's adopted tentative ruling directed the debtor to lodge proposed orders on those motions within seven days of the hearing date. then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 5/31/16:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves

(1) Current issues. This Court has reviewed the debtor's status report (dkt. 23).

(a) Prior failed case. The debtor's prior case (no. 2:14-bk-14065-NB) was a chapter 13 case that was dismissed because of plan infeasibility due to the objections by Wells Fargo, and claims by the IRS, FTB, and L.A. County Tax Collector.

(b) Debtor's real property

(i) Inconsistent rental income amount. This Court notes that the debtor's amended schedule G reflects a monthly rental of $2,200 (dkt. 13, p.10), which was originally listed as $1,500 per month (dkt. 1, p.36). However, the debtor's original schedule I originally listed the debtor's net income from rental property as $2,400 (dkt. 1, p.39). The debtor's amended schedule I now lists net income from rental property as $2,200 (dkt. 13, p.12). Although the rental income now appears to be consistent at $2,200, and schedule G reflects the same lessee, Smark Lyles, is this the correct amount?

(ii) Schedule I. Part 8.a. requires that the debtor attach a statement for each property and business showing gross receipts, ordinary and necessary business expenses, and the total monthly net income.

(iii) Motion to Value. The debtor's status report indicates that the debtor intends to file a motion to value the real property. When does the debtor anticipate filing the motion to value?

(c) UST compliance. The United States Trustee has filed a motion to dismiss or convert (dkt. 24). Although the matter has been set for hearing on 6/21/16, the debtor should be prepared to address more generally, why this case in chapter 11 instead of chapter 13. It appears that the debtor is within the debt limits for chapter 13, and chapter 11 typically is far more expensive, so it seems doubtful that the debtor needs or can afford a chapter 11 case.

Tentative Ruling for 8/6/19:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 8/6/19.

(1) Current issues

This Court has reviewed the debtor's latest filed documents, including its Status Report (dkt. 43). The status report does not address item (1)(f) from the 7/2/19 tentative ruling (copied below), which raises concerns about possible conflicts of interest between Debtor's principal/landlord and Debtor's bankruptcy estate. Nevertheless, presumably, the leases can be addressed at future status conferences. Therefore this Court is not aware of issues that would warrant a status conference at this time.

Chapter 11

Tentative Ruling for 7/2/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves

(1) Current issues

(a) Cash Collateral

Debtor's Chapter 11 Status Conference Report (dkt. 17, the "Status Report") asserts that "there is no cash that any entity can claim as its cash collateral." Dkt. 17 at 3. But Debtor's Schedule D lists two possible secured creditors: Bank of the West (the "Bank") - which Debtor "believes" has been paid, but apparently has not confirmed - and FM Marketing & Properties, LLC ("FM Marketing") - as to which Debtor "does not know" whether a UCC-1 was recorded or any termination statement was filed. Dkt. 15 at PDF p. 14-15.

How can Debtor be sure that the Bank and FM Marketing agree that any debts have been fully paid off, without verification from those creditors that they are not asserting an unpaid balance based on, e.g., loan initiation charges, alleged defaults, default interest, late charges, attorney fees, etc.? How can Debtor use cash, which might be subject to asserted liens, without filing and serving a motion for use of cash collateral? See 11 U.S.C. 363(c)(2). What due diligence has been undertaken to determine the foregoing issues, and whether or not there are recorded UCC liens against Debtor?

(b) Other "First Day" Motions

Debtor states that there are approximately 200 employees, including Debtor's principal, Sherif Antoon (dkt. 17 at 2) but Debtor has not filed a motion seeking authorization to pay prepetition payroll. Why not?

Debtor states that it has not filed a budget motion (dkt. 17, p.3) because Debtor "is not an individual" but the posted Procedures of Judge Bason require budget motions, without any exemption for non-individuals. In the past, Judge Bason has ruled that a budget motion is necessary because under 11 U.S.C. 363(b)&(c) only "ordinary course" transactions do not require Court approval, and debtors not infrequently have unduly expansive concepts of what is "ordinary course."

(c) IRS Debt

The Status Report notes that the IRS may have a claim of $140,000 against Debtor and that Debtor intends to enter into a plan treatment stipulation with the IRS. Dkt. 17 at 2. But Debtor's Schedules state that the IRS has a $0.00 claim and that the IRS is included in the Schedules "for notification purposes and as a precaution only." Dkt. 15 at PDF p. 17. Why was the IRS debt not disclosed in Debtor's Schedules?

(d) False Corporate Ownership Statement

Debtor's Principal, Sherif Antoon, declares that there are no "entities" that directly or indirectly own 10% or more of any class of equity interests in Debtor. Dkt.1, p.17. But the term "entity" includes any "person" (11 U.S.C. 101(15)) and the term "person" includes any individual (11 U.S.C. 101(41)). Does Mr. Antoon own 10% or more of the equity interests of Debtor?

(e) Monthly Operating Reports for 4JFarid

The Status Report notes that Mr. Antoon is the principal of 4JFarid, LLC. Dkt. 17 at 7. 4JFarid is Debtor's landlord on three separate leases. Id.

This Court reminds Debtor and its Principal that "for all reporting purposes - including Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs"), disclosure statements, etc. - Debtor must disclose all income, expenses, assets, and liabilities of (a) affiliated businesses and (b) any spouse." Dkt. 3 at 2 (emphasis added). Based on this Court's review of Debtor's schedules, Debtor has not disclosed the income, expenses, assets, and liabilities of 4JFarid.

(f) Assumption of Leases

Debtor has three unexpired leases with landlord 4JFarid. Dkt. 15 at PDF p. 27. Debtor states that it intends to assume these three leases. Dkt. 17 at 7. Assumption requires curing of any default (as well as compensating for any pecuniary losses, and providing adequate assurance of future performance under the leases). 11 U.S.C. 365(b). Debtor's bankruptcy schedules list $180,000 in unpaid rent owed to landlord 4JFarid. Dkt. 15 at PDF p. 17.

This Court is concerned that Mr. Antoon, who is the principal of both Debtor and landlord 4JFarid (dkt. 17 at 7) proposes to assume these leases, at great expense, rather than move to a new location. Debtor is directed to address why it would not be less expensive and in the best interests of creditors to lease new premises.

Adv#: 2:18-01457 Los Angeles Federal Credit Union v. Panosian

#1.00 Hrg re: Motion To Set Aside Default Judgment

Docket 20

Tentative Ruling:

Deny for the reasons stated in Plaintiff's opposition (adv. dkt. 24), and the additional reasons provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Analysis

(1) Background

This Court's tentative ruling on Plaintiff's motion for default judgment (heard 6/4/19 at 11 a.m., cal. no.3&4) was as follows:

(a) A default judgment appears to be appropriate

The tentative ruling is to grant the Motion for Default Judgment based on Defendant's consistent failure to properly appear in this case. Although a trial on the merits is favored over a default judgment, it appears that entering a default judgment is appropriate in these circumstances. Fed. R. Civ. P. 55(b)(2).

First, despite this Court's oral rulings requiring mediation (as contemplated in the tentative rulings for 3/5/19 and 5/7/19, reproduced below), Defendant has failed to attend mediation or seek relief from those orders. Second, despite the fact that the Clerk of this Court has entered a default against Defendant (adv. dkt. 5), he has not filed any motion for relief from such default. Instead he has filed a (late) answer (dkt. 6) that appears to be nothing but a generic denial of everything and assertion of boilerplate, generic defenses. Third, Defendant's lack of any meaningful participation in this adversary proceeding is prejudicial. Plaintiff has incurred all the post-judgment attorney fees and costs of this nondischargeability action, while Defendant is incurring far fewer fees and costs by barely participating in this litigation.

(b) Nature of default judgment

Because there is a prepetition state court judgment of $11,622.46, it is not appropriate for this Bankruptcy Court to issue a new award of such damages. Rather, it appears that the proper course is for this Bankruptcy Court to issue a declaratory judgment that the State Court judgment is non-dischargeable as to Defendant under 11 U.S.C. 523(a)(2)(A) and 523(a)(2)(B). In addition, Plaintiff is entitled to ongoing pre- and postpetition interest on the State Court judgment, at the post-judgment interest at the California rate of 10% per annum based on Cal. Civ. P. Code 685.010(a). In re Hamilton, 584 B.R. 310, 323-24 (9th Cir. BAP 2018). Additionally, the tentative ruling is to award Plaintiff $1,297.34 in attorney's fees, plus $350.00 in the cost of suit. See LBR 7055-1(b)(4).

(2) Legal standards for setting aside default judgment

A default judgment is a "drastic" and "extreme" remedy and litigation should, whenever possible, be decided on the merits. United States v. Signed Personal Check No. 730 of Yubran S. Mesle, 615 F.3d 1085, 1091 (9th Cir. 2010) (citing Falk v. Allen, 739 F.2d 461, 463 (9th Cir. 1984)). But there are limits on a party's ability to ignore litigation and then, after losing, seek to be heard.

A client ordinarily is accountable for negligent acts or omissions of their counsel. See Comty. Dental Serv. v. Tani, 282 F.3d 1164, 1168 (9th Cir. 2002). Only when the client "has demonstrated gross negligence on the part of the counsel" is that accountability excused. Id. (emphasis added). There are good reasons for this approach: otherwise Courts would have to inquire into attorney-client communications, or else accept without question a client's excuse about alleged miscommunications between the counsel and the client.

A motion to vacate a default judgment under Rule 9024 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) (paralleling Rule 60(b)(1), Fed. R. Civ. P.) may be denied, in the discretion of the trial court, if:

(1) the defendant's culpable conduct led to the default, (2) the defendant has no meritorious defense, or (3) the plaintiff would be prejudiced if the judgment is set aside. . . . If a default judgment is entered as the result of a defendant's culpable conduct, however, we need not consider whether a meritorious defense was shown, or whether the plaintiff would suffer prejudice if the judgment were set aside. [Meadows v. Dominican Republic, 817 F.2d 517, 521 (9th Cir. 1987) (citations omitted, emphasis added)]

As provided by the emphasized text, the above quoted test is disjunctive. See Cassidy v. Tenorio, 856 F.2d 1412, 1415 (9th Cir. 1988). A court "may exercise its discretion to deny relief to a defaulting defendant based solely upon a finding of defendant's culpability, but need not." Brandt v. Am. Bankers Ins. Co. of Fla., 653 F.3d 1108, 1112 (9th Cir. 2011).

A defendant's conduct is culpable if they have "received actual or constructive notice of the filing of the action and intentionally fail[] to answer." In re Houng, 2011 WL 6989900, at *7 (9th Cir. BAP 2011) (citations omitted). "Intentionally" in this context requires that the individual have acted with bad faith, such as "an intention to take advantage of the opposing party, interfere with judicial decisionmaking, or otherwise manipulate the legal process." Id. (citations omitted).

(3) Application of the legal standard

On the record presented, the tentative ruling is to find that Debtor/Defendant's conduct was culpable. That conduct includes:

- * despite having been served with notice of the status conference and the deadline for filing an Answer, and despite email correspondence about those things, failing to attend the status conferences in this adversary proceeding or file an Answer until three days after the extended deadline (see adv. dkt. 7 and adv.dkt.24 Ex.A, B & C);

- * filing an Answer that includes only generic denials and defenses - for example, in response to the Complaint's allegation in paragraph 8 that a judgment was entered against Debtor/Defendant with a true and correct copy attached as an exhibit, the Answer states that "Defendant lacks information or belief sufficient to admit or deny" such allegations and on that basis denies them;

- * failing to attend mediation despite email correspondence with

Plaintiff's counsel informing Debtor/Defendant (if he did not already know) that this Court has posted tentative rulings requiring mediation (adopted as oral orders of this Court at the status conferences that Debtor/Defendant failed to attend);

* failing to file a notice of limited appearance (if, in fact, Debtor/Defendant's counsel had any arrangement to appear for only limited purposes);

* failing to inform Plaintiff's counsel - despite an exchange of emails between Plaintiff and the counsel who filed the answer for Debtor/Defendant - that such counsel was only retained to file the Answer (see adv. dkt. 24, Ex.A&B).

There is no allegation by Debtor/Defendant of any gross negligence by his counsel; and unless his counsel failed to inform him of any of this he has had more than ample opportunity to participate in this litigation. Moreover, by doing nothing Debtor/Defendant had driven up Plaintiff's legal fees: already those legal fees must be substantial in proportion to the $10,000 debt at issue. See Complaint, Ex.B (adv.dkt.1). This matter has all the hallmarks of an attempt to use delay and obstruction in litigation as a tactic to gain advantage.

For all of the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is that Debtor/Defendant's culpable conduct does not warrant relief from the default judgment. In addition, the tentative ruling is that in view of the comparatively small dollar amounts at stake, this Court should determine the issues on the filed papers and this Court's records, without the expense, delay, and burden of an evidentiary hearing.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/20/19:

Appearances required. The tentative ruling is (A) to grant the defendants' motions to dismiss Debtor's Complaint (the "MTDs," adv.no. 2:19-ap-01103-NB), without leave for Debtor to amend his Complaint, (B) to deny Debtor's motion for contempt (the "Contempt Motion," dkt. 197), without leave to amend that motion, and (C) to continue the status conference in this adversary proceeding to 10/29/19 at 2:00 p.m., and set a concurrent status conference in the bankruptcy case itself, with a direction to Debtor to file a brief status report in both proceedings no later than 10/15/19.

(1) Overview

(a) Contentions

The parties' disputes arise from a stipulation gone wrong. See Stip. (dkt. 135, the "Stipulation"), approved by Order (dkt.107). Debtor asserts that the Stipulation had the effect of substituting him in place of the original borrower. Debtor claims that the bearer of the promissory note, Bank of America, N.A. ("BofA"), and its agents including its loan servicers (with BofA, "Creditors"), wrongfully refused to communicate with him, refused to accept some payments, and wrongfully foreclosed on his rental property at 12902 Fairford Ave., Norwalk, CA (the "Fairford Property").

Creditors assert that Debtor was never substituted as a new borrower.

Chapter 11

They dispute that they ever refused to accept any payments.

Alternatively, Creditors argue that, even if there is a factual dispute about whether Debtor tendered some payments, Debtor never alleges in his Complaint that he tendered all payments. In fact, according to Creditors, Debtor failed to make a substantial number of payments - i.e., even if he had been substituted as the borrower under the loan documents he was in default anyway, so the Fairford Property was subject to foreclosure.

(b) Summary of analysis

As set forth below, a fair reading of the Stipulation is that, as Debtor asserts, he was effectively substituted for the original borrower. In effect, the Stipulation and the Plan rewrote the terms of the loan and made Debtor the borrower and mortgagor.

But Debtor does not allege in his Complaint or in his opposition to Creditors' MTD that he tendered the (much reduced) payments he promised. So the Fairford Property was subject to foreclosure regardless whether he was or was not recognized as the borrower.

Debtor also complains that the creditors refused to communicate with him, but he has not alleged how any lack of communication caused him any harm, or how a failure to communicate is itself grounds to state some sort of a claim (e.g., some sort of presumptive statutory damages for non-communication).

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's Complaint does not state a claim either based on any allegedly wrongful refusal to accept payments, or for failure to communicate, or for foreclosure. Therefore it appears appropriate to grant the MTDs, and the remaining question is whether to grant leave to amend.

Conceivably Debtor could assert that, if he had only been able to communicate with Creditors, they might have granted him a further loan modification. That might (or might not) state a claim under the Homeowner Bill Of Rights ("HBOA") (Cal.Civ.C. 2923.7) or some other claim.

But any allegation that Debtor was deprived of an opportunity to obtain a further loan modification appears to be implausible, on the record presently before this Court. BofA and Debtor previously stipulated that it had a secured claim of $383,000.00 (Stip., dkt. 105, p.3:22-24), but BofA nevertheless agreed to modify the loan down to $250,000.01 (Disclosure Statement, Ex.H, Endnote 2, at dkt.130-2, PDF p.3), as a result of which Debtor now asserts that he had $200,000 of equity in the Fairford Property (dkt. 197, p.11:13-18).

This Court is not aware of any reason why a creditor who is (allegedly) so oversecured would voluntarily agree to write down its debt even further, so it is not apparent how Debtor was harmed by any inability to communicate with Creditors. Therefore, the tentative ruling is to grant the MTDs without leave to amend.

Debtor's Contempt Motion is subject to the same obstacles set forth above: (i) Debtor's apparent lack of harm from refusal to accept partial payments, because he could not afford full payment; and (ii) the lack of apparent harm from non-communication, because he had no plausible ability to obtain a further loan modification.

Alternatively, the Contempt Motion is subject to a more fundamental flaw: Debtor asserts violation of the discharge injunction, but he never obtained a discharge order. Alternatively, Debtor has not alleged any in personam collection efforts, only in rem, and in rem acts do not violate any discharge injunction.

For each of these alternative reasons, the tentative ruling is to deny the Sanctions Motion without leave to amend.

(2) Procedural history

Two separate proceedings are involved.

(a) The Complaint

On 4/9/19 Debtor filed a Complaint commencing an adversary proceeding (the "Complaint," adv. no. 2:19-ap-01103-NB, adv. dkt. 1). The Complaint seeks damages of not less than $1.5 million (id., p.33:23), based on claims for wrongful foreclosure, intentional and negligent misrepresentation, fraud, violation of the HBOR, violation of the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(a)), etc. The Complaint names as defendants BofA; Fay Servicing, LLC ("Fay"); Wilmington Savings Fund Society, FSB d/b/a Christiana Trust, Not Individually But As Trustee For Hilldale Trust ("Wilmington"); BSI Financial Services, Inc. ("BSI"); and National Default Servicing Corporation ("NatDefault").

Responding to the Complaint, MTDs have been filed by BofA (adv.dkt.8,9) and by Fay, Wilmington and BSI (collectively, the "Fay Parties," adv.dkt.11,13). NatDefault has filed a joinder in the Fay Parties' MTD (adv.dkt.15). Debtor has filed opposition papers (adv.dkt. 24-27), and BofA and Fay have filed replies (adv.dkt. 28, 29).

On 6/26/19 Debtor filed a motion for damages pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 105 (the "Contempt Motion," dkt. 197). The Contempt Motion seeks damages of $400,000 in emotional distress damages, $200,000 for loss of equity to the property, $70,000 for improvements to the property, and miscellaneous other damages. Dkt. 197, p.11:13-18. The Contempt Motion alleges that BofA willfully failed to adhere to the terms of the Stipulation, and it asserts that in doing so BofA violated the discharge injunction (11 U.S.C. 524(a)(2), as modified by 11 U.S.C. 1141(d)(5)).

Responding to the Contempt Motion, BofA has filed opposition papers (dkt. 205, 206). So have the Fay Parties (dkt.202-04), on the basis that Debtor "implies that Fay and BSI could be liable for their conduct in servicing the loan and in proceeding with foreclosure." Adv.dkt.202, p.2:20-21. Debtor has filed reply papers (dkt. 208).

(3) Procedural issues

(a) Jurisdiction, and request for abstention

BofA argues that Debtor asserts only State law claims. See BofA MTD (adv.dkt.8) p.1:13-14. The Fay Parties make a similar argument. See Reply-MTD (adv.dkt.28) pp.3:7-4:26. Based on these assertions they question this Bankruptcy Court's jurisdiction and assert that this Court should abstain.

Those arguments are not persuasive. First, technically, Debtor's Complaint (adv.dkt.1) asserts a claim for violation of the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(a)), and Debtors' Contempt Motion (main case, dkt. 197) asserts a violation of the discharge injunction (11 U.S.C. 524), and those are claims arise under the Bankruptcy Code. True, this Court's tentative ruling is that neither claim has merit, but until this Court reaches the merits those claims do create "arising under" jurisdiction. 28 U.S.C. 1334.

More importantly, the remaining claims asserted by Debtors are founded on the Stipulation and, at least implicitly, Debtors' chapter 11 plan (the "Plan," dkt.129) and this Court's orders approving the Stipulation (dkt.107) and confirming the Plan (the "Confirmation Order," dkt.151). The effect of all of those things (according to Debtors, and this tentative ruling) was to restructure Debtor's relationship with BofA and substituting Debtor in place of the original borrower.

The Stipulation, the Plan, and this Court's orders all arose in this bankruptcy case, and this Court is in the best position to interpret the Stipulation, the Plan, and this Court's own orders based on the facts and circumstances of this bankruptcy case. In addition, the Plan provides that (with inapplicable exceptions) this Court retains post-confirmation jurisdiction over a wide range of proceedings, including "sanctions" and "the implementation, interpretation, or enforcement of this Plan" See Plan, dkt.129, p.6, Article V, Part. F.

For all of these reasons the tentative ruling is that this Court has jurisdiction, and that abstention would be inappropriate. See 28 U.S.C. 1334 and In re Tucson Estates, Inc., 912 F.2d 1162, 1166 (9th Cir.1990); In re Plumberex Specialty Prods., Inc., 311 B.R. 551, 559–60 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2004); In re Landmark Fence Co., Inc., 2011 WL 6826253 at *4 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 9, 2011).

(b) Whether the Contempt Motion should have been filed in the adversary proceeding instead of the bankruptcy case

In general, civil contempt must be sought by a contested matter rather than an adversary proceeding. See Barrientos v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., 633 F.3d 1186, 1190-91 (9th Cir. 2011). But in this instance the Contempt Motion, which was filed in the main case (albeit with the double-caption of an adversary proceeding) arises from the same nucleus of operative facts as the Complaint, and in addition the Contempt Motion was filed after the Complaint, so perhaps Debtors' claim about violation of the discharge injunction and request for sanctions should have been included in the adversary proceeding, either as one of Debtor's claims or perhaps as a separate motion. But the tentative ruling is not to address this issue: it has not been briefed, and the tentative ruling is that this Court need not decide this issue sua sponte. See In re Nash, 464 B.R. 874, 879 (9th Cir. BAP 2012) (harmless error to use wrong proceeding).

(4) Merits of the MTDs and the Complaint

(a) Interpretation of the Stipulation, and related documents

The stipulation (dkt. 197, Ex.C, at PDF pp.22-28) reads like an agreement to treat Debtor as the substituted borrower. It obligates Debtor to make payments on BofA's secured claim in a specified dollar amount each month, at a specified interest rate, and provides that BofA will retain its security interest "until the secured claim is paid in full per the terms of the Note and Deed of Trust as modified by this Stipulation." Id. para.4. Why would Debtor and BofA agree to these things unless they intended to treat Debtor as the new mortgagor?

Chapter 11

Even more telling, the remaining portion of BofA's claim is treated as an unsecured claim against Debtor (id., para. 7) - in other words, Debtor is treated as having personal liability on the debt. Why would BofA and Debtor so stipulate unless Debtor had been substituted for the original borrower under the promissory note?

The Stipulation is incorporated into the Plan and the Confirmation Order. The latter states that "Class 2B creditor, Bank of America, N.A. ("B of A"), shall be entitled to immediate relief from the automatic stay and the claim shall be treated consistent with the Stipulation between Debtor and B of A (Docket No. 105), approved by Order of the Court (Docket No. 107)." Confirmation Order (dkt.151), p.2:18-21 (emphasis added).

For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that Debtor's interpretation of the Stipulation is correct. Debtor should have been recognized by BofA as having been substituted for the original borrower, and, at least once this was pointed out to BofA, it should have corroborated that fact to the other Creditors.

The question is whether Debtor has asserted any cognizable claims based on Creditors' refusal to recognize him as the borrower. The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not stated any such claims.

(b) Debtor's allegations: not accepting payments; not communicating; and foreclosing

Debtor asserts a failure to accept some payments. See, e.g., Complaint (adv.dkt.1) para.113, at p.23:21-26. Creditors dispute this, and also assert that Debtor never tendered enough to cure the defaults. Debtor's allegations in the Complaint never say otherwise. BofA cites authority that this is fatal to Debtor's claims for wrongful foreclosure. See BofA MTD (adv.dkt.8), pp.8:17-9:11.

Debtor also cite no authority that there is any duty to accept partial payments. Nor does Debtor explain how, even if there was such a duty, he was damaged by the refusal to accept partial payments. If he could not afford to make full payments, he was subject to foreclosure, and therefore if he was prevented from making partial payments it appears that he was only prevented from throwing good money after bad.

The Complaint alleges a failure to communicate with Debtor, but most of Debtor's claims do not assert any duty to communicate with him. An exception is the 6th claim for relief (adv.dkt.1, p.20:12 et seq) asserts violation of the HBOR (Cal.Civ.C. 2923.7) which does appear to establish a duty to communicate with the borrower (through a single point of contact). But, again, it is unclear how Debtor suffered any harm from any lack of communication.

To the contrary it appears that lenders have no duty to offer, consider, or approve loan modifications. See, e.g., Sheen v. Wells Fargo Bank, NA, ___ Cal.App.5th ___ (2d Div. 8/5/2019).

The Complaint's eighth claim for relief (adv.dkt.1, p.25:3 et seq.) alleges fraud in inducing Debtor to enter into the Stipulation if, despite making payments, Debtor would be subject to foreclosure. There appear to be grounds for that assertion but, again, Debtor has not established any harm from Creditors' failure to recognize him as successor to the original borrower pursuant to the Stipulation, because he has not asserted that he tendered the full monthly payments.

As set forth in the Overview (part "(1)" of this tentative ruling) the bottom line is that the Complaint does not appear to state any claims on which relief may be granted. Nor is it apparent how Debtor could amend the Complaint to state a viable claim.

(5) Merits of the Contempt Motion

Debtor seeks a determination that Creditors are in contempt of court for violation of the discharge injunction, and Debtor seeks compensatory damages, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 105(a). See Contempt Motion (dkt. 197), p.8:22-24 (asserting violation of "an order issued by this Court - i.e., the Discharge Order"). See also, e.g., In re Dyer, 322 F.3d 1178, 1190 (9th Cir. 2003). Debtor has the burden to establish, by clear and convincing evidence, that Creditors violated a specific and definite order of this Court, including a "deemed" order such as the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362) or the discharge injunction (11 U.S.C. 524). See id. and FTC v. Affordable Media, LLC, 179 F.3d 1228, 1239 (9th Cir. 1999).

(a) Debtor has not established that he ever received a discharge

Debtor has not established any violation of a discharge injunction because, under 11 U.S.C. 1141(d)(5), an individual debtor is not discharged "until the court grants a discharge on completion of all payments under the plan," unless the court orders otherwise for cause after notice and a hearing. Nothing in the Plan or the Confirmation Order suggests otherwise. See Plan (dkt.129), Article IV.A. (discharge is per section 1141(d)); Confirmation Order (dkt. 151) (all terms and conditions of Plan are incorporated into order).

Chapter 11

For this reason, this Court's local forms permit a chapter 11 case to be closed on an interim basis and reopened later "so that a motion for entry of discharge ... may be filed and resolved." See dkt. 170, p.3, para.3.b. The docket does not reflect any motion for entry of a discharge, and the 60 month term of the Plan has yet to run, so apparently he is not yet eligible for a discharge. Accordingly, there could be no violation of any discharge injunction.

(b) The discharge injunction only prohibits in personam collection, and Debtor only alleges in rem acts

The discharge injunction in section 524 states:

(a) A discharge under this title --

(2) operates as an injunction against the commencement or continuation of an action, the employment of process, or any act, to collect, recover or offset any [discharged] debt as a personal liability of the debtor, whether or not discharge of such debt is waived [11 U.S.C. 524(a)(2) (emphasis added)]

Because the discharge injunction only prohibits efforts to collect debts as a personal liability of the debtor, "secured creditors can foreclose their liens after the discharge is entered." In re Marino, 577 B.R. 772, 783-84 (9th Cir. BAP 2017) (citations and internal quotation marks omitted)).

Debtor does not allege any in personam collection efforts. He asserts wrongful foreclosure, but foreclosure is an in rem act. Therefore, even if the discharge injunction applied (which it does not), Debtor's allegations would not establish any violation of that injunction.

(6) Conclusion

For all of the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is to grant the Creditors' MTDs, dismiss the Complaint without leave to amend, and deny Debtor's Contempt Motion without leave to amend. The tentative ruling is to continue the status conferences so that the parties have time to consider what they will do next, and so that this Court can address any ancillary matters that may be presented.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/20/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's 11 U.S.C. 363 sale motion (the "Sale Motion," dkt. 80); supplemental brief ("Haloossim Brief," dkt. 128), Debtor's reply (dkt. 129)

At the 7/30/19 hearing, this Court set deadlines for additional briefing re overbidding or other remedies for Ms. Galant's alleged failure to comply with purchase of equipment (Sale Part 2). The tentative ruling is that (i) to the extent, if any, that the Haloossim Brief challenges the sale process and seeks reconsideration of the order (dkt.113) granting the Sale Motion, it is denied because it does not address the standards for reconsideration, but (ii) on other issues the Haloosim Brief is persuasive: under the sale order (dkt.113) Ms. Galant (or a company owned by her) was required by May 21, 2019 to pay $100,000 to the estate (in addition to any cure payments) if she wanted to foreclose the possibility of modifying the proposed sale of the Part 2 assets, such as by opening up the purchase to competing bidders, with a minimum bid by Ms. Galant of $50,000.

The parties are directed to address what remedy is appropriate. If reopening sale Part 2 for an auction is the appropriate remedy, the parties should be prepared to address when to hold an auction, what procedures should apply, and whether Debtor can manage that process given that Ms. Galant is Debtor's principal, and given the issues raised in the Haloossim Brief about whether the Part 2 assets were adequately exposed to the market in the past.

Tentative Ruling for 5/21/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's 11 U.S.C. 363 sale motion (the "Sale Motion," dkt. 80); Oppositions (dkt. 87, 93), and Reply (dkt. 94, 96)

At the hearing on 5/7/19 this Court adopted the tentative ruling and granted the Sale Motion, with a waiver of the 14-day stay under 6004(h), subject some modifications. First, although this Court overruled objections and approved Sale Part One (as described in the Sale Motion), this Court set this continued hearing on 5/21/19 to address whether that sale has closed, and to resolve any issues involving the dollar amounts need to (i) cure leased equipment defaults or (ii) pay financed equipment liens.

Second, as to the proposed Sale Part Two, this Court ruled that the sale to Debtor's principal, Ms. Galant, is approved for a payment of $100,000 and can close with no further order of this Court. But if it turns out that she is unable to pay that price (within the time frame outlined in the Sale Motion), and (i) if she proposes to pay between $50,000 and $99,999, then the parties would need to address what remedies are appropriate, such as opening up the proposed sale to overbids; and (ii) if she proposes to pay less than $50,000 then the proposed Sale Part Two is disapproved, and the intellectual property (and miscellaneous assets included in Sale Part Two) would continue to belong to bankruptcy estate, and could be sold or otherwise addressed.

This Court directed Debtor to lodge a proposed order memorializing the foregoing rulings. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, no such proposed order has been lodged. Why not?

In any event, are there any issues that are properly before this Court at this time in connection with the Sale Motion? Should this Court continue the Sale Motion to the same time as the continued status conference (see below)?

(b) Motion of the United States Trustee ("UST") to convert, dismiss, or appoint a Chapter 11 trustee (the "Conversion Motion", dkt. 76)

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address the following issues. It is unclear whether Sale Part One has closed. This Court notes that there is a declaration (dkt. 107) of a real estate broker for Debtor's principal, Ms. Galant, regarding the listing of her property for sale (which was contemplated to fund the Sale Part Two); but there is no information about the refinancing the Ms. Galant was contemplating (which was contemplated to fund the Sale Part One).

Should this Court continue the Conversion Motion to the same time as the continued status conference (see below)?

(c) Bar date order (dkt. 108)

This Court issued its Order Setting Bar Date (dkt. 108), directing service by Debtor be completed by 5/10/19. The docket does not reflect any proof of service. What the order timely served? If so, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 5/22/19 to file a proof of such service; and if not, the tentative ruling is to issue a new order setting a new bar date.

Revised Tentative Ruling for 5/7/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of the United States Trustee ("UST") to convert, dismiss, or appoint a Chapter 11 trustee (the "Conversion Motion", dkt. 76)

Continue to to be heard concurrently with the continued status conference (see part "(2)" of this tentative ruling, below). If, prior to the continued hearing date, Debtor files a declaration that it has closed the proposed Sale Part One, this Court anticipates that the tentative ruling for the continued hearing will be to deny the Conversion Motion without prejudice.

(b) Debtor's 11 U.S.C. 363 sale motion (the "Sale Motion," dkt. 80); Oppositions (dkt. 87, 93), and Reply (dkt. 94, 96)

Grant the Sale Motion, but only on the following terms:

(i) Minimum dollar amount for Sale Part Two. Debtor's principal, Ms. Rachel Galant, is essentially agreeing to pay debts on which she is already the guarantor (Sale Part One, estimated at $450,000), and if there is any money left over from the anticipated $550,000 proceeds of the refinance and sale of her home, then that residual amount (estimated at $100,000, but possibly much less, down to $-0-) will be used to pay for Debtor's intellectual property and some de minimus assets (Sale Part Two).

The tentative ruling is that there must be a minimum dollar amount payable for Sale Part Two. That is essentially the consideration Ms. Galant must pay (beyond what she owes anyway, as a guarantor) for being able to continue her business without successor liability, based on the Bankruptcy Code's ability to sell property free and clear of an liability that would otherwise follow the assets (which is one type of "interest" in such property). See, e.g., In re Trans World Airlines, Inc., 322 F.3d 283, 290-91 (3d Cir. 2003). See also Myers v. U.S., 297 B.R. 774 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 2003).

The tentative ruling is to set the minimum consideration for the Sale Part Two at not less than $50,000. The tentative ruling is that this dollar amount is subject to overbids, as set forth below.

(ii) Overbids. The proposed sale must be subject to any overbids at the hearing, including any overbids that are not cash (in whole or in part), or that are for fewer than all assets, or any other combination of things. Any "highest and best" determination must be made initially by Debtor, but subject to any objections and resolution by this Court. See generally, e.g., In re Lahijani, 325 B.R. 282 (9th Cir. BAP 2005); In re Mickey Thompson Entm't Group, Inc., 292 B.R. 415, 421 (9th Cir. BAP 2003).

(iii) Backup bids. Any sale must be subject to any backup bids, in the event the winning bidder does not timely close either Sale Part One or Sale Part Two. For example, if the proposed purchaser - Debtor's principal - were to close Sale Part One but fail to close the Sale Part Two, and if a backup bidder has been approved for Sale Part Two, then the backup bidder could acquire the Sale Part Two assets (Debtor's recipes, trademarks, and other intellectual property).

(iv) Deadline for resolution of any disputes regarding purchase/cure amounts for equipment. The motion lists some cure/payment amounts as "TBD." In addition, one creditor has objected. See Sale Motion (dkt. 82, Schedules A&B), and see Direct Cap. Corp. Obj. (dkt. 93) (asserting $11,050.14 arrears plus $5,411.34 attorney fees to date, for a total alleged cure amount of approximately $16,461.48).

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of May 20, 2019 for Debtor to reach agreement with any equipment lessor/lienholder, or else those creditors will be free to repossess the equipment and must be given access to do so on 24 hours' notice. The reason is that the equipment must be removed by the end of May, or the bankruptcy estate will "abandon" the equipment (technically, an "abandonment" under 11 U.S.C. 554 is abandonment from the estate to Debtor; but Debtor apparently means that it intends to leave the equipment at the landlord's premises, for disposition by the landlord - this Court expresses no opinion whether that would create any postpetition liability, or what competing rights might exist in the equipment at that point). Any dispute can be addressed at the continued hearing on the same date as the continued status conference (see below).

(v) Good faith finding

Any "good faith" finding under 11 U.S.C. 363(m) will need to be supported by sufficient evidence (see the posted Procedures of Judge Bason, available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov). Normally that would include more information than what is Ms. Galant's declaration. See Dkt. 82, p.6:1-7. But the tentative ruling is to accept that declaration, combined with the purchase price above the debts for which she is personally liable and the agreement to turn over to Debtor any profit on resale of equipment, as sufficient prima facie evidence of good faith.

As to the objection of the "Objecting Creditors" (Mr. Haloosim et al., dkt. 87), this Court is inclined to agree with Debtor that, on the present record, there is a prima facie showing by Debtor of sufficient marketing, and insufficient evidence of any improper conduct by Debtor. As for their objections under 11 U.S.C. 363(f), this Court questions whether they have an "interest" in the property to be sold and, if not, whether they have standing to raise any objections. In addition, as stated in the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov):

§ 363(f): Sales free and clear. Regarding § 363(f)(5), Judge Bason does not follow Clear Channel Outdoor, Inc. v. Knupfer (In re PW, LLC), 391 B.R. 25, 40 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2008). He has ruled that a sale free and clear is permissible under that statute whenever the interest at issue is subject to monetary valuation. See In re Trans World Airlines, Inc., 322 F.3d 283, 290-91 (3d Cir. 2003) ("TWA") (because employees' claims were "subject to monetary valuation," debtor's assets could be sold free and clear of successor liability for such claims under § 363(f)(5)). Alternatively, Judge Bason has ruled that "cramdown" is among the types of legal or equitable proceeding within the statute, or that Clear Channel is distinguishable in most cases under the rationale of In re Jolan, 403 B.R. 866 (Bankr. W.D. Wash. 2009), because holders of interests can be compelled in numerous other types of legal or equitable proceedings to accept a money satisfaction (which might be $-0- in the case of an interest that is entirely underwater). Those proceedings include a hypothetical foreclosure by one of the lienholders, or a receivership (which could be initiated at the behest of creditors or by the debtor itself). See Cal. Code Civ. The judge respectfully disagrees with In re Hassen Imports P'ship, 502 B.R. 851, 860 et seq. (C.D. Cal. 2013) (hypothetical foreclosure sale did not qualify under section 363(f)(5)).

(1) Current issues

(a) Dismissal or conversion

Debtor's fourth status report alleges (dkt. 62, p.2:10) that a "363 motion, supported with a stalking horse bid, will be submitted to the court" at some unspecified future date. This Court and parties in interest have heard that hope before, but it appears highly unlikely that Debtor will receive a bid that will exceed the losses that are accruing meanwhile.

Debtor's situation appears to be getting steadily worse, both on a cash basis and in terms of accrued liabilities for postpetition real property rent, equipment leasing, etc. See MOR for Jan. 2019 (dkt. 57) (small positive cash flow, but $48,522.19 in postpetition payables as against $6,281.31 receivables) and MOR for Feb. 2019 (dkt. 63) lines 22-25 (net cash flow of ($1765.14) and increase in payables to $96,380.19 - almost double the prior month - as against $6,281.31 receivables - unchanged).

The tentative ruling is to dismiss this case and let Debtor and its secured creditors/equipment lessors make whatever arrangements they see fit for disposing of the collateral/leased equipment. (Office of the United States Trustee to lodge proposed order.)

(b) Motion to Compel Abandonment of Property (dkt. 59)

If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 2/26/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues.

Debtor's status report (dkt. 55) reports some alleged progress in exploring either sale(s) of assets or sale of the business or both. What is the timeline? What assurances do creditors have that debtor's uncertainty on these issues (two months into this case) will not deplete rather than enhance any potential recoveries?

Chapter 11

(a) Case Status Report

In the Amended Order Setting (A) Principal Status Conference and (B) Procedures (dkt. 4), this Court directed the Debtor to file and serve a Case Status Report on Local Form F 2081-1.1.C11.STATUS.RPT at least 14 days before this hearing. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling the Debtor has not done so. Why not?

(b) First day motions

Debtor has not filed any payroll motion, motion for use of cash collateral, budget motion, utility motion, or other typical "first day" motions. This Court recognizes that Debtor is in the process of formulating its strategy (dkt. 20, p.4:17-21), and has requested an extension of time to file bankruptcy schedules and other documents (dkt. 19), but none of that excuses the failure to file any required first day motions.

(c) Dismissal? Bar?

Debtor is directed to address why this Court should not dismiss this case with a 180 day bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy, under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1), for willful failure to abide by an order of this court, or willful failure to appear in proper prosecution of this case, or both.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 12/17/18.

(a) Bar date: TBD

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD

(c) Continued status conference: if this Court is persuaded not to dismiss this case, the tentative ruling is to continue this Status Conference to 1/29/19 at 1:00 p.m., with a status report on the required form (see above) due 1/22/19.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The tentative ruling is that Trustee has established on a prima facie basis that Debtors had an ownership interest in two Porches and three Lotus vehicles, and the burden is on Debtors to establish that they no longer have such an interest. The tentative ruling is that Debtors have only met that burden with respect to one vehicle (the Lotus as to which there is evidence of a sale to Debtor MacMillan's brother).

First, as a procedural matter, Debtors had an opportunity to respond to the Turnover Motion by the deadline established by the Local Bankruptcy Rules; they did not request additional time to respond; and, even if they had made such a request, they have not (on the present record) established any cause to be granted additional time. Second, based on the limited evidence provided by Debtors, they have not rebutted the Trustee's prima facie showing (except as to the one vehicle noted above).

For example, it appears that Debtors are the owners of record for at least three Lotus race cars - two Lotus Evoras and one Lotus 211. Dkt. 332, p. 6. Debtor MacMillan's declaration (dkt. 361) provides very little information about these vehicles.

Debtor MacMillan asserts that one Lotus vehicle was totaled around February 2012 (dkt. 361, p.3, para. 9), and that he no longer has any paperwork relating to that vehicle. But (i) the one photograph that he provides (allegedly of the subject vehicle) does not appear to show that it was totaled; (ii) he fails to explain why he lacks any paperwork; and (iii) normally one would expect to have paperwork regarding the loss of such a valuable vehicle, such as insurance papers, or tax returns for Debtor MacMillan or one of his businesses showing a write-off based on loss of the vehicle, or other records and documents. Although it is conceivable that there are explanations and documents that would establish that Debtor MacMillan does not still own this vehicle, he has not met his burden to rebut the Trustee's prima facie showing, and the deadline to do so has passed.

In addition, although the tentative ruling is that Debtor MacMillan has met his burden insofar as the unregistered 2011 Lotus Evora that allegedly was sold to his brother by Rasco/Racso (the spelling is unclear) in March 2016 (dkt. 361, p. 3, para 12), it appears that the Lotus Evora sold to Debtor's brother is not the same Lotus Evora mentioned in para. 10 (see dkt. 362, p.2:22-28). There is no evidence to rebut the prima facie showing as to that Lotus vehicle. Nor is there any evidence to rebut the prima facie showing as to the two Porches. Nor has Debtor Martin filed anything in response to the Turnover Motion.

The tentative ruling is to direct Debtors to turn over the two Lotus vehicles and the two Porches to the Chapter 7 Trustee, together with all associated papers and materials (e.g., car keys), no later than 5/28/19, or be subject to possible sanctions. This Court recognizes that, if Debtors truly do not possess some of these four vehicles, or if those vehicles belong to another entity, then perhaps they will be unable to turn over the vehicles despite any order of this Court directing them to do so. But the tentative ruling is that, having chosen not to take the Turnover Motion seriously enough to rebut the Trustee's prima facie showing, or to request additional time to do so, Debtors have waived and forfeited that opportunity, and the Turnover Motion must be granted.

Debtors' apparent remedy will be (i) to seek reconsideration (e.g., under Rule 9023), or, (ii) if they are held in contempt for violating the Turnover Motion, to meet their burden to show impossibility (or to establish any other viable defense to a finding of contempt). The parties should be prepared to address the present location and condition of the vehicles, where the Trustee needs them to be delivered, and any other specifics that this tentative ruling does not address.

Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

Appearances required. The parties should be prepared to address the following issues.

Current issues

(a) Procedures

This Court issued its Order Setting Status Conference in All Related Matters (the "Procedures Order," dkt. 332). See a/so dkt. 334 & 338 (proofs of service). Among other things, the Procedures Order was prompted by the following.

First, an exhibit was filed without a cover page and with the exhibit pages out of order rendering the exhibit difficult to read (see dkt. 324, ex. 1). Second, briefs have gone on for 80 pages or more, with whole sections that appear to be at best tangentially related to the subject matter and appear to have been copied and pasted wholesale from other papers (but with no statement to let the reader know if those sections are or are not different in some way). See dkt. 326, 330. Third, those same papers, with exhibits included, are over 2000 pages long. Fourth, some papers appear to raise frivolous arguments (see below).

The tentative ruling is as follows with respect to procedures in all of the adversary proceedings and contested matters in these related bankruptcy cases:

Chapter 7

(i) Page limits. Set a limit of 25 pages for any brief, and 50 pages of attached or accompanying documents, absent prior authorization to exceed those limits. The documents can be excerpts, marked up to point the reader to the relevant phrase or item, provided that (x) any original markings on the documents are clearly distinguishable from any added markings and (y) upon request full copies of all exhibits are immediately made available to all other parties and this Court.

(ii) Incorporation by reference. Direct all parties, rather than repeating their arguments and exhibits, to incorporate them by reference. In addition, to the extent any material does not exactly repeat prior material, but parallels prior material in substantial part, the tentative ruling is that the party must explain what is new or different.

For example, instead of a 10-page recitation of background facts in which one sentence is different, the party would replace those 10 pages with that one sentence and a brief summary of the relevant aspects of the prior material, with a cross-reference to the docket number of the material that is incorporated by reference. Alternatively, if the approach in the immediately preceding sentence would not be practical or would be confusing in any particular situation, then the party would add a footnote both at the start of the factual summary and at the start of the new or different sentence, to alert the reader that this is the portion that is new or different. Alternatively, the party could adopt any other suitable method for highlighting new or different material. In any event, all parties are directed to use whatever method is most reader-friendly for presenting accurate, relevant material.

(iii) Bifurcating or combining any matters, and issuing judgments on partial findings and/or final judgments on fewer than all claims or parties. The claim objections that are set for hearing today violate at least the spirit, and probably the letter, of Rule 3007(b) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) ("A party in interest shall not include a demand for relief of a kind specified in Rule 7001 in an objection to the allowance of a claim, but may include the objection in an adversary proceeding."). In any event, any future claim objections involving the same nucleus of operative facts as any pending adversary proceeding must be raised through proper pleadings or motions in those adversary proceedings, not by separate claim objections.

In addition, there is no reason to litigate all of the numerous issues raised by the parties if it appears that it would be more efficient to litigate just one or two issues first, and enter judgements on partial findings, and/or enter final judgments as to fewer than all claims or parties (based on any express determination that there is “no just reason for delay”) (Rules 52 & 54(b), Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Rules 7052, 7054 & 9014(c), Fed. R. Bankr. P.). For example, if a hypothetical chapter 7 debtor were accused of dozens of acts and omissions that could warrant either nondischargeability of individual claims (11 U.S.C. 523) or denial of the entire discharge (11 U.S.C. 727), there might be no just reason not to enter a judgment determining a single issue, after bifurcation so as to have a separate trial on that issue. In this situation the single issue might be whether the hypothetical debtor had concealed or failed to maintain adequate recorded information (under section 727(a)(3)), which, if proven, presumably would moot the other issues under sections 523 and 727.

The parties are directed to address whether this Court should adopt such procedures for one or more issues in these cases and the related adversary proceedings and contested matters, or conversely whether this Court should combine various matters for joint hearings or trials. See Rule 42 (Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Rules 7042 & 9014(c), Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

(iv) Testimony by declaration. Direct testimony must be presented by declaration, subject to live cross-examination and redirect (see Rule 611(a); In re Gergely, 110 F.3d 1448, 1451-52 (9th Cir. 1997); In re Adair, 965 F.2d 777, 779-80 (9th Cir. 1992)).

(v) Time limits. The parties are hereby put on notice that this Court at any time may limit their time for oral argument and presentation of their case. In addition, the parties are directed to address whether they would prefer that this Court impose such limits at this time, or at any pretrial conferences, or on the first day of trial, or during trial. See generally, Hon. Barry Russell, 2 Bankr. Evid. Manual (2018-19 Ed., Nov. 2018) 611:1, Examples 6&7).

Chapter 7

(b) Objection by individual Debtors to Proof of Claim ("POC") No. 3 (dkt. 310)

Overrule the objection to POC No. 3, filed by Wyndham Vacation Resort, Inc ("Wyndham"), for the reasons stated in Wyndham's opposition (dkt. 326), and for the following additional reasons.

First, POC No. 3 has sufficient documentation and other information to establish its prima facie validity. Second, any lack of prima facie validity is not enough to disallow the claim under 11 U.S.C. 502. See In re Orozco, 2017 WL 3126797 (Case No. 2:13-bk-15745-NB, dkt. 132), and In re Beoglyan (Case No. 2:13-bk-22883-NB, dkt. 141).

The cases cited by Mr. MacMillan (dkt. 310, pp.2:28-3:1) are distinguishable or actually contrary to his position. See In re Garner, 246 B.R. 617 (9th Cir. BAP 2000) (when claim did have prima facie validity, opposition did not overcome that prima facie validity); and see In re Stoecker, 5 F.3d 1022, 1027-28 (7th Cir. 1993) (reversing disallowance of claim based on non-compliance with Rule 3001(f)); In re Brunson, 486 B.R. 759, 765-66, and 768-73 (Bankr. ND Tex. 2013) ("This court adheres to the majority view that a proof of claim may not be disallowed where the sole basis of objection is the creditor's failure to attach sufficient documentation under Bankruptcy Rule 3001") (emphasis added).

Indeed, as noted in Brunson, the 2011 amendments to "Bankruptcy Rule 3001(c)(2)(D), together with the Advisory Committee Note shedding light on its meaning, should end the debate." Id., p.770 (emphasis added). Now it is clear that "[f]ailure to provide the required information does not itself constitute a ground for disallowance of a claim." Id. (quoting advisory committee note; emphasis added).

In view of the foregoing, the tentative ruling is that this objection to POC No. 3 is frivolous.

(c) Objection by individual Debtors to POC No. 18 (dkt. 312)

Overrule the objection to Americana Vacation Club and Stardust Vacation Club's ("Americana/Stardust") POC for the reasons stated in Americana/Stardust's opposition (dkt. 320) and for the same reasons as stated above in connection with POC No. 3. Debtors' Reply (dkt. 341) does not adequately address those reasons.

In view of the foregoing, the tentative ruling is that this objection to POC No. 18 is frivolous.

Chapter 7

(d) Motion by individual Debtors to Dismiss bankruptcy case of Attitude Marketing, Inc. ("Attitude") (the "MTD," dkt. 307)

The tentative ruling is to deny the individual Debtors' MTD for the reasons stated in the Chapter 7 Trustee's opposition (dkt. 325) to the MTD, and for the following additional reasons.

As the Trustee notes, in this circuit a voluntary Chapter 7 debtor is entitled to dismissal of the case so long as such dismissal will cause no "plain legal prejudice" to interested parties, or perhaps just "legal prejudice" (without the "plain" modifier). In re Leach, 130 B.R. 855, 857 (9th Cir. BAP 1991) (citing pre-Bankruptcy Code case of In re International Airport Inn Partnership, 517 F.2d 510, 512 (9th Cir. 1975), and addressing how its principles should be applied under the Bankruptcy Code). The tentative ruling is that dismissal very much would cause plain legal prejudice to interested parties because dismissal would preclude the Trustee and creditors from using the bankruptcy process and powers (i) to investigate past and present alleged misconduct, (ii) to prevent acts and omissions for which there are grounds to be concerned, and which can drain the value of a potentially valuable asset of this bankruptcy estate, and (iii) to identify and recover any avoidable transfers.

Investigating all of these things is made all the more important by the allegations of a long history of Debtors purportedly evading judgments, settlement obligations, etc. Whether those allegations are accurate or not is an issue on which Debtors will have every legitimate opportunity to present arguments and evidence; but the tentative ruling is that they cannot avoid the determination of those bankruptcy-focused issues by obtaining a dismissal of their bankruptcy case.

Debtor's motion and reply papers (dkt. 339, 340) do not adequately address any of the foregoing, nor do they establish any reason why this Court would not recognize the Trustee's authority to file the bankruptcy petition pursuant to the Written Consent Of Shareholders In Lieu Of Meeting and the Written Consent Of Sole Director In Lieu Of Meeting attached to the Trustee's Opposition as Exhibit A (dkt. 325). The arguments attempting to dispute the Trustee's business judgment in causing Attitude's bankruptcy petition to be filed, or in filling out Attitude's bankruptcy schedules, or in administering Attitude's assets, are unpersuasive and unsupported by any meaningful evidence. The individual Debtors' flat denials of the claims against Attitude, without persuasive or even colorable arguments or evidence, are insufficient.

The tentative ruling is that the individual Debtors' arguments are frivolous. In any event, the paucity of those arguments only reinforces the need for the Trustee to take over management of Attitude.

Proposed orders: The Trustee and the Claimants are directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing matters "(1)(b)," "(c)," and "(d)" via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B). This Court will prepare an order on matter "(1)(a)."

Please see the tentative ruling for the main case status conference (calendar no. 10, 4/9/19 at 11:00 a.m.)

Tentative Ruling for 1/30/18:

Appearances required. The court has reviewed the parties' filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The parties must address (a) why they failed to file the required status report, (b) why the motions for joint administration/consolidation of the two closely related adversary proceedings have not been prosecuted, and (c) the following issues. The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences.

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this court should not formalize the fact that the pending mediation includes this adversary proceeding by issuing an order to mediate this matter together with related adversary proceeding (2:17-ap-01229-NB)? The tentative ruling is to direct counsel for the defendants to lodge a proposed order to that effect.

The court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv. dkt. 23) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

The plaintiff states (dkt. 23, p.2) that he requested entry of a default against defendants Andrae Perez and Accelerated Capital Group, Inc., but the Clerk of this Court has issued notices of non-entry of defaults (dkt. 15, 16). When will the plaintiff correct the deficiencies?

Chapter 7

At the 3/6/18 hearing, this Court continued the matter to allow the parties time to meet and confer about the various deadlines that this court should set in this adversary proceeding and/or court-ordered mediation. This matter was further continued to today's date for the parties to participate in mediation on or about 5/21/18 (see Order, adv. dkt. 21). This Court also directed the parties to file a status report by 5/29/18, but the parties have not done so--for a second time.

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties are directed to address why they have not filed a status report, and to provide an oral status report, and are cautioned that continued failure to adhere to the applicable rules and orders of this Court may result in sanctions.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." At the 3/6/18 hearing, this Court continued the matter to allow the parties time to meet and confer about the various deadlines that this court should set in this adversary proceeding and/or court-ordered mediation. This court also directed the parties to file a status report by 4/3/18, but the parties have not done so.

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties are directed to address why they have not filed a status report, and to provide an oral status report, and are cautioned that continued failure to adhere to the applicable rules and orders of this Court may result in sanctions. Tentative Ruling for 3/6/18:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

The parties requested a brief continuance of this status conference from 2/27/18 to today's date (see Joint Status Report, adv. dkt. 10). At the status conference on 1/23/18 there was no appearance for the plaintiff, and this Court was persuaded that it was premature to adopt the deadlines stated in the tentative ruling for that status conference (reproduced below). There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to discuss the status of this case.

Tentative Ruling for 2/27/18:

Reasons: At the status conference on 1/23/18 there was no appearance for the plaintiff, and this Court was persuaded that it was premature to adopt the deadlines stated in the tentative ruling for that status conference (reproduced below). Tentative Ruling for 1/23/18:

Appearances required. The court has reviewed the parties' filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The parties must address why they failed to file the required status report, and also the following issues. The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences.

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority. The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/6/18 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines/dates: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 11/21/17. The tentative ruling is to set the following deadlines/dates. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to serve and lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Supplemental Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

The original tentative ruling (below) provides two inconsistent dates for a continued status conference: 4/30/19 at 11:00 a.m., 4/7/19 at 11:00 a.m. The latter [should be "former"] is correct. No status report required.

Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

Deny the motion to quash (with the possible exception of one aspect), address procedural issues, and then continue this Status Conference, all as set forth below. Appearances required.

Current issues:

(a) Procedures

Please see the tentative ruling for the main case status conference (calendar no. 10, 4/9/19 at 11:00 a.m.)

(b) Motion to Quash (adv. dkt. 84)

The tentative ruling is that the motion to quash (adv. dkt. 84) by Aston Business Solutions, Inc. ("ABS") is unpersuasive, except perhaps for limitations as to time, which the parties are directed to address at the hearing.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(A) Analysis re motion to quash

ABS asserts only vague objections:

(1) Competitors?

ABS asserts that it and Plaintiff are competitors. How so?

The motion does not even disclose ABS' business. Is it a timeshare owner? Is it a timeshare operator? Is it something else? (As noted below, this Court expects that it has gleaned the answer from other documents, but the tentative ruling is that this lack of even such basic information in the motion is fatal to this argument.)

(2) Protected information?

ABS alleges that some sort of trade secrets or other confidential, privileged, or other type of protected information is involved. What sort of information? Why would a traditional privilege log and other tools be inadequate?

Chapter 7

ABS complains that parties in interest in this bankruptcy case have shared information. But ABS fails to point to any prohibition on sharing information.

(3) Burden?

ABS alleges that the requested discovery is unduly burdensome. How so? Is it stored in thousands of boxes of paper files that are difficult to reach and review for some reason?

(4) Vagueness and overbreadth?

ABS alleges that the discovery requests are vague and overbroad. How so? ABS fails to provide any explanation or evidence to support this allegations.

(5) Discussion

Based on a question (not an answer) in excerpts from the deposition of ABS' President and shareholder, Glenn Chaffin, ABS may be a marketing company for "timeshare exit companies." Adv. dkt. 84, Ex.1 (Depo. Tr. 1/24/19), p.95:22-23. But how does that make ABS a "competitor" of Plaintiff, with information that would constitute trade secrets, as opposed to a facilitator of (possibly) legitimate ways to exit timeshares, who sends out non-secret flyers and other publicly known marketing materials, and assists timeshare members in navigating contracts that are known to all the parties?

Such a facilitator theoretically could benefit Plaintiff, by replacing non-paying or troubled members with paying ones - unless, of course, ABS engages in acts that improperly interfere with contractual relations or otherwise assists in the wrongdoing of which Plaintiff accuses Defendants. Plaintiff's discovery appears to be targeted at discovering information that could lead to admissible evidence on this and other relevant issues. Accordingly, the discovery appears to be entirely proper and appropriate, with the possible exception of the movant's request to impose some limitations as to time, which the parties are directed to address at the hearing.

(B) Adversary proceeding status conference issues

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

Matters of venue, jurisdiction, and authority have been determined and/or waived or forfeited (adv. dkt. 6, 11, 24).

(2) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 4/7/17.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/20/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion to Sell 212 E Pomona Ave, Monrovia, CA free and clear (dkt. 317)

Grant the motion, subject to (i) any overbids at the hearing, and (ii) if there are overbidders, subject to the filing of a "good faith" declaration (11 U.S.C. 363(m)) by the winning bidder that substantially complies with Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at cacb.uscourts.gov), and (iii) the terms set forth in Cathay Bank's response (dkt. 325).

The tentative ruling is that the good faith declaration of one of the proposed purchasers, Paula T. Li (dkt. 321), is sufficient if they are the winning bidder and as to her co-purchaser, Eric C. Hung (despite his failure to sign the declaration and that any representations made on his behalf are hearsay).

(1) Current issues

(a) Application to employ real estate broker (dkt. 164)

Subject to an adequate explanation regarding the value/price discrepancy for the Atlantic Blvd. Property (see Cathay Bank Obj., dkt. 243, at pp.6:25-7:6), the tentative ruling is to grant the application to employ real estate broker. The tentative ruling is to overrule Cathay Bank's other objections.

(i) Alleged lack of disinterestedness

Although Cathay Bank's supplemental opposition (dkt. 243) argues that the proposed broker, Standard Mortgage, Inc. dba Standard Realty ("Broker") is not "disinterested," and therefore is not eligible for employment under 11 U.S.C. 327(a), the tentative ruling is that this objection is not persuasive. True, an independent contractor with Broker, Mr. Akbari (who previously stated that he was an "employee" of Broker), is married to the sister of the wife of one of Debtor's officers/control persons. Cathay Bank cites authority that, under California law, being a brother-in-law is equivalent to being a brother, so the tentative ruling is that Mr. Akbari is a "relative" of an "officer" or "person in control" of Debtor and therefore he is an "insider." See 11 U.S.C. 101(45) (a "relative" means an "individual related by affinity or consanguinity within the third degree as determined by the common law"); 101(31)(B)(vi) (insider includes a "relative of a ... officer, or person in control of the debtor"). But that does not mean that Broker is an insider.

It also appears to be true that Debtor has not been as forthcoming with the connections between Broker and Debtor as would have been advisable, including both the familial relationships noted above and the recent discovery that Mr. Akbari "was the listing agent on the Cabrillo Street Property (during the nunc pro tunc timeframe in which the Broker is sought to be employed)" Cathay Bank Obj. dkt. 243, p.3:4-6 & Warrington Decl., Ex.1. Finally, as noted in the tentative ruling for 5/21/19, part (1)(b) (reproduced below), the statutory list of insiders "includes" but is not limited to the listed examples (see 11 U.S.C. 102(3)) and in addition this Court notes that a professional must be not only "disinterested" but also must not "hold or represent an interest adverse to the estate." 11 U.S.C. 327(a).

But the tentative ruling is that the facts recited above do not disqualify Broker from employment. A different real estate agent will be handling this matter (Mr. Ahmadi, dkt. 234); there is no evidence that Mr. Ahmadi or Broker itself has any incentive to act in any way adverse to the bankruptcy estate; and the failures to provide disclosure of every arguable "connection" between Broker and Debtor (within the meaning of Rule 2014, Fed. R. Bankr. P.) is unfortunate but understandable given the attenuated nature of the connections (Debtor's officer's wife's sister's husband originally was the listing agent for Broker on one of the four properties to be sold).

(ii) Alleged issues with 4.5% commission

Cathay Bank argues that Debtor has failed to justify a 4.5% commission; but to the contrary, the tentative ruling is that in general this Court should give deference to Debtor's business judgment, and that even without such deference Debtor has provided sufficient evidence that a 4.5% commission is appropriate (see dkt. 234) (Declaration regarding typical commission for commercial properties being 4-6%, and for residential properties 5-6%). Cathay Bank has provided no evidence to the contrary. Nor has Cathay Bank cited authority that Debtors are required to "shop around" for the lowest commission (which might not be the best broker) prior to selecting a broker, especially given that the proposed Broker has agreed to a slightly reduced commission from what is typical (see id. at 3).

(iii) Alleged lack of qualifications re industrial property

The tentative ruling is that although there may be conceptual differences between "industrial" and "commercial" properties, Cathay Bank has not established that any such difference is meaningful in the context of this case and the properties at issue.

(iv) Conclusion as to Broker

The tentative ruling is to grant the application and authorize Broker's employment subject, again, to an adequate explanation regarding the value/price discrepancy for the Atlantic Blvd. Property. See Cathay Bank Obj., dkt. 243, at pp.6:25-7:6.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this portion of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 5/21/19:

Appearances are not required on 5/21/19.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's counsel's fee application (dkt. 175, 177)

Allow $145,683.50 in fees and $5,714.10 in expenses for a total of $151,397.50, and authorize draw down of the retainer ($124,846.70 remaining), with the balance of the fees and expenses to paid from the estate.

Cathay Bank's response (dkt. 207) does not object to allowance of the fees but seeks to reserve all rights it might have regarding a purported lien on some of the retainer. Debtor's reply (dkt. 215) asserts that the bank has no such rights to reserve because it has been given a replacement lien on the real estate.

This Court's recollection is that the bank did not entirely waive such rights at the hearing on 5/7/19, but did indicate that it was no more going to seek disgorgement from Debtor's firm (of authorized postpetition distributions from the retainer account) than it would seek disgorgement from one of Debtor's utilities (of authorized postpetition utility payments). In any event, whatever the parties' interpretations of the representations on 5/7/19, the issue is too remote for either party to be expending any substantial attorney fees on it at this time.

Cathay Bank has its security interest in the accounts receivable that existed as of the petition date, and it has replacement liens in ongoing accounts receivable. Debtor believes the bank will be paid in full out of those things. But as adequate protection (11 U.S.C. 361, 363(e) & 552(b)) the bank has replacement liens in Debtor's real estate - to cover both (i) any diminution in the value of its security interest in the accounts receivable as of the petition date and (ii) any diminution in the value of its purported security interest in the retainer as of the petition date. Therefore the bank's and Debtor's rights are both reserved, and neither party should be spending much time on this issue. Any attorney fees spent arguing about this issue are subject to this Court's review for reasonableness (under 11 U.S.C. 330 and 331 for Debtor's counsel, and under 11 U.S.C. 506(b) for Cathay Bank's counsel).

(b) Application to employ real estate broker (dkt. 164)

The tentative ruling is, with one exception, to overrule the objection of Cathay Bank (dkt. 199), based on Debtor's reply (dkt. 214). The exception is that, although Debtor has presented evidence of the reasonableness of the broker's proposed commission and experience, and this Court generally should defer to Debtor's business judgment, Cathay Bank makes a good point that the real estate at issue ranges broadly from a single family residence to commercial property etc., and there is insufficient evidence of the proposed broker's specific experience as to each type of real estate. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 5/24/19 for Debtor to file and serve a supplemental declaration detailing such experience, with a deadline of 5/29/19 for any supplemental objection by Cathay Bank, and a continued hearing (if there is any such objection) concurrent with the continued status conference (see below).

As for disinterestedness (11 U.S.C. 101(14), 327(a)), Cathay Bank argues that the broker is not disinterested because, from the information on the docket, it appears that one of its alleged employees (Mr. Akbari) is a relative by marriage of one of Debtor's principals, and the principals are beneficiaries of a trust that engaged in prepetition transactions with Debtor that, according to the bank, violated Debtor's covenants with the bank. On the one hand, it is true that Mr. Akbari previously declared that he was "employed" by the broker (dkt. 77, p.1:22).

On the other hand, this Court interprets that as an (unfortunately) imprecise description of his arrangement as an independent contractor. Alternatively, even if he is an employee, this Court is not persuaded that this disqualifies the broker from employment by the estate.

Chapter 11

Mr. Akbari apparently is married to the sister of the wife of one of Debtor's officers/control persons. The tentative ruling is that this makes him related "by affinity or consanguinity" within the fourth degree (1.officer - 2.spouse - 3.sister of spouse - 4.Mr. Akbari), so he is not a "relative" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 101(45) and therefore he is not an "insider" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 101(31)(B)(vi) or (E). That is not dispositive, because, the statutory list of insiders "includes" but is not limited to the listed examples. See 11 U.S.C. 102(3). But the tentative ruling is that the connection has been sufficiently disclosed (Rule 2014, Fed. R. Bankr. P.) and is not disqualifying.

In practical terms, this Court does not perceive that any alleged ties between the proposed real estate broker and Debtor's principal creates any incentive to lessen the price obtained for the real estate, or otherwise prejudice the interests of the bankruptcy estate. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to approve the employment, subject to satisfactory supplemental evidence as set forth above.

Chapter 11

(1) Current issues

(a) Employment of bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 83)

The tentative ruling is to authorize Debtor's bankruptcy counsel (whose employment has already been approved except for the retainer issue), to draw down on the retainer as otherwise permitted (e.g., after allowance of fees in the forthcoming interim fee application), without deciding at this time whether Cathay Bank does or does not have a traceable security interest in the retainer. Instead the tentative ruling is to grant the Bank a replacement lien, in the full amount of the Bank's disputed lien on the retainer, on Debtor's real estate (to the extent, if any, that the Bank's existing replacement lien does not already apply). That replacement lien would be subject to the same limitations on validity, priority, and amount as this Court has ordered with respect to cash collateral (see dkt. 71).

Reasons: Given the Bank's current debt of approximately $3.1 million (see dkt. 156, p.5:15-21), and the equity in the real estate of approximately $4 million (see id., p.6:4-11), such a replacement lien appears fully sufficient to provide adequate protection. Meanwhile, any further litigation over the retainer issue appears unnecessary and potentially wasteful and distracting from the other, important issues in this bankruptcy case.

(b) Continued use of cash collateral (dkt. 156)

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not sufficiently justified its proposed expenditures under the line item for "Professional Fees (Legal, Accounting)." The tentative ruling is to grant the motion for use of cash collateral, through 8/18/19, except that professional fees must be limited, and the tentative ruling is to set a limit of paying not more than $15,000 per week without further authorization of this Court. (To be clear: if Debtor in its business judgment believes that it must incur more than that amount of professional fees, it may do so, subject to the usual limits on reasonableness of fees, billing judgment, and business judgment - what is limited by this tentative ruling is use of cash collateral, not incurring fees.)

(c) Cathay Bank's adequate protection: replacement liens v. cash payments

The tentative ruling is to deny the Bank's request for interim payments. It is already adequately protected by the protections on the terms of this Court's prior orders and the additional protections set forth above.

This Court anticipates posting a tentative ruling at a later time.

Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

Appearances required. This status conference has been set pursuant to this Court's order (dkt. 4) and notice thereof (dkt. 75), pursuant to which status conferences are held concurrent with any other calendared proceeding.

(1) Current issues

(a) Employment of bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 83)

Debtor is directed to address the issues raised in Cathay Bank's opposition (dkt. 117) (source of retainer; non-consent to use of cash collateral or carve-out; and objection to any Knudsen procedure). In addition, the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) state that counsel must file local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF and also state:

Note: the judge prefers that local form F 2014-1 not repeat the employment application – instead simply say "see application" or the like (reasons: proposed professionals frequently do not track the language of Rule 2014, so the judge requires use of the form so that someone verifies the elements of that rule under penalty of perjury, and so the court staff does not have to do a line-by-line comparison with each element of the Rule).

(b) Employment of special counsel, employment issues (dkt. 113)

See above re local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF.

(c) Employment of BidMed LLC as asset liquidation broker (dkt. 134)

See above re local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF.

In addition, although this employment application is not on for hearing at this time, Debtor and all parties in interest should be aware that Judge Bason has in the past disapproved buyer's premiums. See the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) which provide in part that any order authorizing such employment typically will include a provision stating, "no buyer's premium" for auctioneers. This should not be interpreted as making any economic change in the compensation arrangement - the auctioneer and Debtor can adjust what is paid by Debtor such that the net compensation is the same - but the tentative ruling is that this is required both as a matter of disclosure (of what the professional is charging out of property of the estate or the proceeds of such property) and as a matter of disinterestedness (not being paid by both parties, but only by Debtor).

(a) Motion to use prepetition bank accounts (dkt. 12)

Grant on a final basis, on the same terms as the interim order (dkt. 55).

(b) Utility motion (dkt. 25)

Grant on a final basis, on the same terms as the interim order (dkt. 54).

(c) Cash collateral motion (dkt. 13)

Grant on a final basis, on the same terms as the interim order (dkt. 71), except that after review of the parties' briefs (dkt. 76, 78) and the other documents and records before this Court, the tentative ruling is as follows:

(i) Real estate: Continue Cathay Bank's replacement lien on all of Debtor's real properties (subject to adjustment as set forth below).

(ii) Books and records: Grant access to Debtor's historical books and records, and all documents used to create the cash collateral budget and the chart summarizing collateral values, with such access starting on 3/18/19, for Cathay Bank's forensic accountant, James Crossland, to inspect and copy (including copying hard drives), during normal business hours. Such access must be subject to whatever Non-Disclosure Agreement, redaction, or other safeguards as may be necessary or appropriate to protect employees' privacy, attorney-client communications, Debtor's trade secrets, etc. The parties are directed to meet and confer on those issues, and the parties are also directed to review the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) regarding discovery disputes.

(iii) Reporting: Require Debtor to file and serve reconciliations, 10 days in arrears on Wednesday of each week (i.e., covering the week that ended 10 days prior), comparing actual results with budgeted results, and calculating variances against budgeted and actual receipts and expenditures.

(iv) CDs: The tentative ruling is that Cathay Bank need not apply any CDs to the extent that they are collateral for standby letters of credit for any liability to workers' compensation insurers. But the parties are directed to address whether there are any other CDs at issue, and why, as a condition for the other adequate protection being granted to Cathay Bank, it should not be required to apply such other CDs against the loans for which they are collateral, so as to stop accruing interest or other charges adverse to Debtor and the bankruptcy estate.

The tentative ruling is to deny Cathay Bank's request for additional adequate protection in the form of monthly payments of interest. Debtor is liquidating much of its business, which creates a situation in which both assets and cash flow are somewhat uncertain. That uncertainty favors granting the Bank the additional adequate protection set forth above; but it also means that Debtor may have urgent needs to use cash for legitimate purposes other than interest payments to the Bank.

The tentative ruling is that all of the foregoing is subject to being revisited as the facts and circumstances develop. For example, if Debtor turns out to have success in collecting the proportion of accounts receivable that it predicts, it might be appropriate to find that Cathay Bank is adequately protected by a lien on less than all of Debtor's remaining real estate. Likewise, if Debtor pays down some of its debt to Cathay Bank through sales of some real property, that might reduce the need for the replacement liens to be as extensive as contemplated by this tentative ruling.

Conversely, if Debtor's accounts receivable appear to be less valuable than predicted by Debtor then Cathay Bank might need every bit of the replacement liens in Debtor's real property and all other assets (except avoidance actions etc.). Ironically, the more dire Debtor's finances, and the greater the risk of administrative insolvency, the stronger the argument that even if the Bank were free to foreclose it would have to pay someone to liquidate Debtor's assets in an orderly fashion (11 U.S.C. 506(c)), and in any event the "equities of the case" might warrant a carve-out for professionals (11 U.S.C. 552(b)). But those are issues that can be addressed when and if there is any need to do so.

The tentative ruling regarding Cathay Bank's evidentiary objections and due process objections (dkt. 78) is that, if this Court adopts the foregoing tentative ruling (granting replacement liens in essentially all of Debtor's assets), then those objections should be overruled because (x) Cathay Bank cannot be granted a replacement lien in greater than "all" of Debtor's assets, so to a large extent the value of those assets is irrelevant, and (y) whatever weaknesses may exist in Debtor's valuation evidence, there is enough to establish on a prima facie basis a reasonable probability that Cathay Bank is sufficiently over-secured to provide it with a substantial equity cushion, which is one form of adequate protection, and that is sufficient for present purposes.

As for the alleged costs of selling property subject to Cathay Bank's replacement liens, this Court can assess for each proposed sale whether Debtor's proposed use of the proceeds is consistent with adequate protection, and whether Cathay Bank is unreasonably withholding its consent under 11 U.S.C. 363(f)(2). In addition, all parties in interest are directed to the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) regarding 363 sales.

(d) Motion to reject collective bargaining agreements (dkt. 62) (the "1113 Motion")

Debtor seeks relief without a hearing, on 14 days' notice (so called "negative notice," or a "scream or die procedure"). But it appears that an actual hearing is required, and must be held quickly, under 11 U.S.C. 1113(d) (1) ("Upon the filing of an application for rejection the court shall schedule a hearing to be held not later than fourteen days after the date of the filing of such application," although "[t]he court may extend the time for the commencement of such hearing for a period not exceeding seven days where the circumstances of the case, and the interest of justice require such extension, or for additional periods of time to which the trustee and [employee's] representative agree.").

The 1113 Motion was filed on 3/1/19. The tentative ruling is to find that granting a short extension is warranted, based on the apparent lack of prejudice from doing so, and that a hearing should be held either on 3/21/19 at 1:00 p.m. or, if the representatives of the various employee groups will consent, concurrent with the continued status conference (see below). Debtor is directed to address what efforts have been made to obtain the consent of any representative who is not present at the hearing. The tentative ruling is that Debtor must file and serve notice of the hearing date on all representatives (and other parties requiring notice) no later than 3/13/19.

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Tentative Ruling for 2/28/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

The tentative ruling, subject to any oppositions at the hearing (pursuant to the orders shortening time) is to grant the following relief and to find that, to the extent relief is granted pursuant to Rules 4001(b)(2) and 6003 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.), such relief is necessary avoid immediate and irreparable harm to the estate.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion to limit notice (dkt. 8)

Grant in substantial part, subject to certain modifications to be addressed at the hearing. Among other things, this Court anticipates that, because the motion was not served on the entire creditor matrix, any party who was not served may seek reconsideration without meeting the usual standards under Rules 9023, 9024 or 52(b) (Fed. R. Bankr. P. & Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Rules 7052 and 9014(c)).

(b) Motion to extend time (dkt. 9)

Grant, with a caution that this Court is unlikely to grant further extensions.

(c) Payroll motion (dkt. 14)

Grant, except to the extent that the proposed payments in Exhibit 1 (dkt. 14, Ex.1) exceed the priority maximum provided in 11 U.S.C. 507(a)(4) and, if applicable, 507(a)(5).

Grant, subject to sufficient safeguards (i) to ensure accurate accounting including separation of pre- and postpetition accounting and (ii) to prevent inadvertent payment of prepetition obligations. Debtor is directed to work closely with the Office of the United States Trustee to develop and implement such procedures.

(e) Cash collateral motion (dkt. 13)

Grant in part and deny in part on an interim basis, as set forth in calendar no. 5 (2/28/19 at 10:00 a.m.).

(f) Motion to reject unexpired leases (dkt. 24)

Grant, except that Debtor seeks rejection effective as of 2/20/19 and, although there is some authority for retroactive rejection (see, e.g., In re At Home Corp., 392 F.3d 1064 (9th Cir. 2004)), Debtor has not addressed the types of considerations that would determine whether retroactive rejection is appropriate (e.g., were the premises vacated as of 2/20/19? when were the landlords given notice that the premises would be or were vacant? were the premises left in "broom clean" condition?). Debtor is directed to address those issues at the hearing.

(g) Utility motion (dkt. 25)

Grant on an interim basis, subject to any opposition at the hearing, with a final hearing to take place at the same time as the continued status conference (see below) and a deadline of 3/1/19 for Debtor to file and serve a notice of the final hearing.

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

DEBTOR

Docket 40

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address (a) whether the alleged arrears have been brought current and/or (b) whether they will agree to the terms of an adequate protection order (see the debtor's response, dkt. 42).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Docket 34

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

#13.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [NA]

JESUS QUINTERO
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 48

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part, deny in part, as provided below. Appearances required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Debtor's opposition (dkt. 60), and Movant's reply (dkt. 62).

(1) Debtor's untimely Opposition

In its reply, Movant asks this Court to disregard Debtor's Opposition because it was filed two days late. Dkt. 62, at p.2:5-12. Movant does not explain, however, what prejudice it suffered from the two day delay.

In addition, Movant may be partially responsible for Debtor's delay because the Motion was not served on Debtor itself, as well as Debtor's counsel ("double service"), as required by Rules 7004(b)(9)&(g) and 9014(a), Fed. R. Bankr. P.). This Court recognizes that the double service requirement is the exact opposite of typical non-bankruptcy practice, in which it is generally impermissible to serve a represented party personally; but there are good reasons for the double service rule in bankruptcy. It helps protect Debtor and the bankruptcy estate (i.e., all parties in interest) from matters "falling through the cracks" given the high volume and speed of matters in typical bankruptcy cases, and the frequent use of service via U.S. mail.

In addition, Movant served the Motion via United States mail on several parties in interest on 8/20/19, 21 days before the hearing. But Rule 9006(f) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) adds an additional three days for service via U.S. mail, so it should have been mailed 24 days prior to the hearing. Therefore, if Movant argues for a strict application of the usual deadlines, this hearing should be continued anyway.

For each of these reasons, the tentative ruling is to overrule Movant's objection to consideration of the Opposition papers.

(2) Merits

The tentative ruling is (a) to grant Movant's request for an order confirming that the automatic stay does not protect the non-debtor defendants, and alternatively granting relief from the automatic stay for Movant to pursue its action(s) against such defendants, and (b) to modify the automatic stay to permit discovery to proceed in the non-bankruptcy action, and continue the hearing with respect to any remaining relief.

Legal standards

The Bankruptcy Court "shall grant relief from the stay" upon a showing of "cause." 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1). Such relief need not take the form of a complete termination of the automatic stay, but instead may include "modifying or conditioning such stay." Id.

"Cause" is determined on a case-by-case basis." In re Tucson Estates, Inc., 912 F.2d 1162, 1166 (9th Cir.1990). In determining whether "cause" exists to grant relief from the automatic stay to allow a movant to pursue litigation in a non-bankruptcy forum, courts in the Ninth Circuit have examined the factors set forth in In re Curtis, 40 B.R. 795, 799–800 (Bankr. D. Utah 1984). See In re Kronemeyer, 405 B.R. 915 (9th Cir. BAP 2009); In re Plumberex Specialty Prods., Inc., 311 B.R. 551, 559–60 (Bankr. C.D. Cal.2004). Those factors are: (1) Whether the relief will result in a partial or complete resolution of the issues; (2) The lack of any connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case; (3) Whether the foreign proceeding involves the debtor as a fiduciary; (4) Whether a specialized tribunal has been established to hear the particular cause of action and whether that tribunal has the expertise to hear such cases; (5) Whether the debtor's insurance carrier has assumed full financial responsibility for defending the litigation; (6) Whether the action essentially involves third parties, and the debtor functions only as a bailee or conduit for the goods or proceeds in question; (7) Whether the litigation in another forum would prejudice the interests of other creditors, the creditors' committee and other interested parties; (8) Whether the judgment claim arising from the foreign action is subject to equitable subordination under Section 510(c); (9) Whether movant's success in the foreign proceeding would result in a judicial lien avoidable by the debtor under Section 522(f); (10) The interests of judicial economy and the expeditious and economical determination of litigation for the parties; (11) Whether the foreign proceedings have progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial; and (12) The impact of the stay on the parties and the "balance of hurt." Plumberex, 311 B.R. at 559. "[W]hile the Curtis factors are widely used to determine the existence of 'cause,' not all of the factors are relevant in every case, nor is a court required to give each factor equal weight." In re Landmark Fence Co., Inc., 2011 WL 6826253 at *4 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 9, 2011).

(a) Non-Debtor defendants

In general, the automatic stay does not protect non-debtors, and any request to stay acts against non-debtors would require a separate adversary proceeding. See generally, In re Excel Innovations, Inc., 502 F.3d 1086 (9th Cir. 2007). That said, it can be difficult to determine whether the automatic stay applies when dealing with entities that may have intertwined finances with a debtor in bankruptcy, or when suing a related entity could be interpreted as an attempt to collect a claim against a debtor. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(3) (staying any act to obtain possession of, or exercise control over, property of estate) and (a)(6) (staying any act to collect a prepetition claim against a debtor).

In this case neither Debtor nor any other party in interest has asserted that the automatic stay prevents Movant from suing the non-debtors. In addition, the record before this Court does not reflect facts and circumstances showing that the automatic stay would apply to suing the non-debtors. Accordingly the tentative ruling is that the automatic stay does not apply.

Alternatively, the tentative ruling is that if the stay were to apply for some reason, relief from the automatic stay would be appropriate to permit Movant to pursue its action(s) against the non-debtors. Of particular note, under the authorities cited above, any such acts involve third parties, and there has been no showing of interference with or prejudice to Debtor, other creditors, or the bankruptcy estate by permitting such acts. For example, the third parties themselves may have the expense of litigation, but there is no evidence that any such expense will constitute an administrative claim against the bankruptcy estate.

(b) Modify the stay to permit discovery, and continue hearing for other issues

Based on the present record, the tentative ruling is that the Curtis factors weigh in favor of granting relief to pursue discovery, but continuing the hearing as to any other relief. Most significantly:

As to the first Curtis factor (would relief result in partial or complete resolution of issues?), granting relief would result in a complete resolution of the issues, whereas denying relief would not, because the majority of the defendants in the state court action are not subject to this Court's jurisdiction, and the suit involves primarily issues of state labor law. Dkt. 48, Ex. 1.

As to the second Curtis factor (connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case) and the seventh Curtis factor (prejudice to other creditors/interested parties), Debtor has pointed primarily to the expense of litigation, and also to the need for a "breathing spell." Both Debtor and other parties in interest, including Movant, may be better able to assess the costs and benefits of litigation and/or settlement once Debtor presents a chapter 11 plan, or the outline of one: for example, litigating over a 1% dividend is very different from litigating over a 50% or 90% dividend. More generally, this Court takes judicial notice that this bankruptcy case was commenced by the filing of the bankruptcy petition on 6/1/19, so Debtor has had some time but not a very large amount of time to formulate its strategy for paying its creditors and proposing a chapter 11 plan, so for a limited additional time some breathing spell appears to be appropriate.

As to the tenth and eleventh Curtis factors (judicial economy, expeditious and economical determination of litigation, and whether the non-bankruptcy proceedings have progressed to trial-readiness), it is true that the non-bankruptcy action has not progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial, but Movant has established that that action has been pending since 9/16 and significant discovery and discovery-related motion practice has already occurred. Dkt. 48 at p.3, dkt. 62 at p.3. The State Court has familiarity with the action, and appears to be better situated to evaluate issues of California state labor law.

As for the twelfth Curtis factor (impact of the stay on the parties and the "balance of hurt"), Movant has argued that it would be prejudiced in opposing another defendant's motion for summary judgment without discovery from Debtor, and although Movant has not explained precisely how that is so, it is true that in general discovery from all parties in interest is helpful in opposing any motion for summary judgment. For those reasons it appears that discovery is appropriate, but for the moment the "balance of hurt" favors continuation of the automatic stay as to other acts against Debtor.

The tentative ruling is to issue an order granting limited relief as set forth above, and continue the hearing as to any other relief. The tentative continuance is to 11/5/19 at 10:00 a.m.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #14.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order
Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic
Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 10

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions. Appearances are not required.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Docket 19

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 9/10/19:

Grant the Motion (dkt. 19, 23, 27), as set forth below. Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1), (d)(2), and (d)(4) so as to permit Movant to proceed with nonbankruptcy remedies - including any probate proceedings, and any judicial or non-judicial foreclosure - notwithstanding the automatic stay in this bankruptcy case or in any future bankruptcy case.

Chapter 13

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Retroactive relief

Deny the request for retroactive annulment of the stay because Judge Bason is not prepared to issue a blanket annulment with respect to whatever unspecified things might have occurred postpetition.

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases

Although the motion papers are not entirely clear on this issue, it appears that Movant seeks relief under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and/or other "in rem" relief based on the assertions that Movant holds a claim secured by an interest in the subject real property and that the filing of Debtor's bankruptcy petition was part of a scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors that involved a purported transfer from the decedent borrower to Debtor, and that Movant alleges that Debtor's asserted interest in the property has been rejected multiple times in the probate proceedings. Based on those assertions, the supporting evidence, and the lack of opposing arguments and evidence, the tentative ruling is to grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 7/30/19:
Appearances required.

This Court has reviewed the Motion (dkt. 19), notice (dkt.23), and the other filed documents in this case, and it appears that the parties need to address the following issues.

(1) Who owns the subject property?

From this Court's review of the documents, it is unclear whether Mr. Walter Edgar Poe has passed (there is no evidence of that), whether his estate was properly probated, whether the Water Edgar Poe Living Trust dated 10/23/13 (the "2013 Trust") is the operative trust document, or whether some other document such as the Walter E. Poe Revocable Living Trust dated 2/26/08 (the "2008 Trust") is operative. The 2013 Trust appears to grant an interest in the property to Ms. Kathie Denise Wargo and grants Debtor and his brother, Thomas Allen Poe, $5.00. Dkt. 19 at PDF pp. 29-30. In addition, the Motion includes a copy of a revocation of the 2008 Trust. Dkt. 19 at PDF p.32. But Debtor's Bankruptcy Schedule A/B states that the property went through probate and was transferred into Debtor's name in August 2018. Dkt. 1 at 12. The parties' representations appear to be inconsistent. Should the parties' disputes regarding ownership of the subject property be resolved in Probate Court, another State Court, or this Bankruptcy Court?

(2) Service

Movant has not served Kathie Denise Wargo, who appears to be a beneficiary of the 2013 Trust and the trustee, who entered into the Deed of Trust on which the Motion appears to be based (dkt. 19 at PDF p. 15). The tentative ruling is that Ms. Wargo, and any other potential beneficiaries, need to be served.

(3) What relief does the Motion seek?

Is the Movant seeking relief from the automatic stay to return to Probate Court, or some other State Court, to determine who owns the property? Or is the Movant seeking relief from the automatic stay for other remedies against the property, or against Debtor individually, including assertion of any secured or unsecured claim? This Bankruptcy Court is inclined to modify the automatic stay to permit litigation to determine the parties' respective rights in the property, but not to grant any relief that would prejudice the bankruptcy estate or that would evade the priorities for various types of claims established by the Bankruptcy Code.

(4) Conclusion

The tentative ruling is to continue the hearing to 9/10/19 at 10:00 a.m. with a deadline of 8/9/19 for Movant to serve file and serve a supplement to the Motion to address the foregoing issues, and to serve the Motion and Notice of the Continued Hearing on all potential beneficiaries parties.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Continue to 9/10/19 at 10:00 a.m., with a deadline of 8/22/19 for Movant (1) to serve Debtor via U.S. mail, as explained below, and (2) to file a proof of service. Appearances are not required on 8/20/19.

Reasons:

The proof of service does not show service on both (i) Debtor's counsel and (ii) Debtor individually ("double service"), as required by Rules 7004(b) (9)&(g) and 9014(a), Fed. R. Bankr. P.). The tentative ruling is that this Court has neither the authority nor the inclination to excuse non-compliance with these rules. It is true that this double service requirement is the exact opposite of typical non-bankruptcy practice, in which it is generally impermissible to serve a represented party personally; but there are good reasons for the double service rule in bankruptcy. It helps protect Debtor and the bankruptcy estate (i.e., all parties in interest) from matters "falling through the cracks" given the high volume and speed of matters in typical bankruptcy cases, and the frequent use of service via U.S. mail.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

#26.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [PP]

SANTANDER CONSUMER USA INC.
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 43

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

The tentative ruling is to continue this status conference to 10/15/19 at 11:00 a.m., with no written status report required, in view of the 9/16/19 hearing before the District Court on the motion to withdraw the reference (see adv. dkt. 28, p.2). Meanwhile, the parties should be prepared to address (a) whether it makes sense for this Bankruptcy Court to order mandatory mediation, either at this time or after some preliminary discovery, (b) whether the scope of any such mediation should include all matters concerning the parties' disputes in any forum (before an arbitrator, or the District Court, or otherwise), (c) whether it makes sense to include third parties such as the major secured and unsecured creditors - e.g., the bank with a lien on Debtor's assets, or Strategic Partners, Inc. - in any such mediation, or if that would only complicate matters unduly, and/or (d) whether this Bankruptcy Court should stay these proceedings pursuant to Rule 5011(c) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) and/or defer to the District Court's procedures regarding any mediation.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv. dkt. 7) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences, except that in view of the parties' Status Report the tentative ruling is not to order mediation at this time. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. #10.00 Cont'd status conference re: Complaint to determine nondischargeability of debt pursuant to 11 U.S.C. section 1328(a)(4) fr. 9/3/19

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required. This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv. dkt. 5) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

Preliminary matters

The tentative ruling is to continue this status conference as set forth below, and meanwhile to address with the parties (1) whether the mediation on 8/23/19 resulted in any clarification of the issues or partial resolution; (2) whether it makes sense for Judge Bason to discuss with Judge Robles the possibility of transferring this adversary proceeding to him (without transferring the underlying chapter 13 case, because Judge Robles is not one of the Judges of this Court who hears chapter 13 matters); and (3) the anticipated time-line for the pending appellate matters in the nonbankruptcy courts regarding attorney fees.

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences, except that the mediation section has been omitted in view of the parties' Status Report. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented.

ALLIANCE PORTFOLIO, PRIVATE EQUITY FINANCE
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 40

Tentative Ruling:

Grant the motion of Alliance Portfolio, Private Equity Finance, Inc. ("Alliance") Motion for Relief From The Automatic Stay (dkt. 40, 41), on the terms set forth below, based on this Court's review of that motion, Debtor's opposition (dkt. 44), Alliance's reply (dkt. 50), and the other facts and circumstances, including this Court's review of Debtor's prior bankruptcy case and the order in this case (dkt.31) continuing the automatic stay. Appearances required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within 180 days after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the grounds for "in rem" relief unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks a finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Chapter 11

#4.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Ch 11 Case for Order Employing Professional (LBR 2014-1):
The Turoci Firm as General Bankruptcy Counsel

Docket 23

Tentative Ruling:

Deny the motion, under both subsections "(a)" and "(e)" of 11 U.S.C. 327.
Appearances required.

Analysis

Debtor's motion (dkt. 23) and supplement (dkt. 28) seek employment of The Turoci Firm. The United States Trustee has filed an opposition (dkt. 30), and Debtor has filed a reply (dkt. 38).

The Bankruptcy Code requires that general bankruptcy counsel be "disinterested" (11 U.S.C. 327(a)), which means a person who is "not a creditor" (among other things). 11 U.S.C. 101(14)(A). In other words, the statute prohibits general bankruptcy counsel from holding any claim, not just a secured claim.

Debtor cites authority from other jurisdictions that a security interest in favor of proposed bankruptcy counsel is not necessarily disqualifying. See Reply (dkt. 51). But those out-of-circuit decisions are not binding; the authority in the Ninth Circuit appears to disfavor security interests (except in cash retainers); and the tentative ruling is that employment is not permitted in the circumstances of this case.

Debtor cites In re Martin, 817 F.2d 175 (1st Cir. 1987) (security interest in debtor's property does not per se disqualify proposed counsel), and In re Watson, 94 B.R. 111 (Bankr. S.D. Ohio 1988) (following Martin). But in this circuit the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel (the "BAP") has held that "a professional with a claim secured by the debtor's property [is] not disinterested as a matter of law." In re CIC Inv. Corp., 175 B.R. 52, 53 (9th Cir. BAP 1994) (emphasis added), but cf. id. at 56 n.4 (distinguishing Martin). See also, e.g., In re Escalera, 171 B.R. 107 (Bankr. E.D. Wash. 1994) (declining to follow Martin, and distinguishing retainers from security interests in other estate property).

More generally, the BAP has stated: "We have previously acknowledged that '[t]he courts do not agree on whether counsel with a prepetition claim [i.e., either a secured claim or an unsecured claim] against the debtor is absolutely barred from representing the trustee or debtor in possession as general counsel,' but we have come down firmly on the side of the courts barring such representation." In re Triple Star Welding, Inc., 324 B.R. 778, 791 n.17 (9th Cir. BAP 2005) (emphasis added, citations omitted). Compare In re Dick Cepek, Inc., 339 B.R. 730 (9th Cir. BAP 2006) (2-1 decision) (professional holding security retainer would not be required to disgorge it if it had been adequately disclosed, despite lack of equal distribution among administrative claims), on appeal after further proceedings, 300 Fed.Appx. 497 (9th Cir. 2008) (disgorgement required because asserted security interest had not been adequately disclosed).

The analysis is somewhat different when the proposed professional does not directly hold a claim. In that instance the question is whether the professional "does not have an interest materially adverse to the interest of the estate or of any class of creditors or equity security holders, by reason of any direct or indirect relationship to, connection with, or interest in, the debtor, or for any other reason." 11 U.S.C. 101(14)(C) (emphasis added). Cf. In re AFI Holding, Inc., 530 F.2d 832, 844-49 (9th Cir. 2008) (noting, in case involving removal of trustee, that 11 U.S.C. 101(14)(C), unlike (14)(A), requires "materially" adverse interest).

The tentative ruling is that (1) a secured loan that came directly from proposed bankruptcy counsel for a debtor would create an inherent lack of disinterestedness; (2) that lack of disinterestedness cannot be resolved by arranging the secured loan through a lending business owned by the firm's principal; and (3) the lack of disinterestedness also cannot be resolved by subsequently transferring the loan and security interest to an independent third party.

(1) A secured loan directly from proposed counsel would create an inherent lack of disinterestedness

Some courts (such as Martin) point out that, as soon as a lawyer performs any services, that lawyer is owed a debt by the debtor/estate, and on that basis those courts decline to read the statute literally. But this Court must apply the plain meaning of the statute, unless that would produce absurd results.

Chapter 11

Congress chose to draw a bright line between prepetition claims, which disqualify counsel under 11 U.S.C. 101(14)(A) and 327(a), and postpetition administrative expenses, which do not disqualify counsel. That bright line is not absurd.

Congress rationally could conclude that prepetition claims present the risk of skewing a professional's economic incentives for or against other classes of creditors. Conversely, Congress rationally could conclude, there is substantially less risk for postpetition administrative expenses, because those expenses must be based on "necessary services" and are scrutinized to see if they "were necessary to the administration of, or beneficial ... toward completion of," the bankruptcy case. 11 U.S.C. 330(a)(1)(A) & (3)(C).

The rational basis for this distinction is reinforced by an examination of the economic incentives of secured and unsecured creditors, which generally are in opposition to one another. That can be illustrated with a hypothetical example.

Suppose that a hypothetical debtor in possession (the "DIP") has parcels of real estate without much equity, but enough to secure a loan from the law firm that seeks to be retained as general bankruptcy counsel. Like any DIP, this debtor will have to make choices on all sorts of issues, such as whether to adopt a risky but potentially lucrative business plan for using the property as an Airbnb.

The economic incentive usually is for unsecured creditors to favor any risky strategy, because even a risky gambit is better than the certainty of little or no dividend at all. Conversely, the economic incentive for secured creditors usually is to minimize risk: any risk generally poses only a "down-side" exposure, with no possibility of any "up-side" because secured claims generally are capped at the value of the collateral (under 11 U.S.C. 506(b)).

Like anyone in charge of a business with conflicting constituencies, a DIP must strive not to be biased against any class of creditors, and instead take whatever course of action will have the best overall chance of maximizing the value of the estate. See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300, 327-30 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016); and see Credit Lyonnais Bank Nederland N.V. v. Pathe Communications Corp., 1991 WL 277613 at n.55 (Del. Ch. Dec. 30, 1991) (illustrating concept of maximizing value, despite conflicting constituencies, using a hypothetical discounted present value analysis to assess different courses of action).

For these reasons, any proposed general bankruptcy counsel who holds a secured claim against the bankruptcy estate has economic incentives that may be adverse to unsecured claims (or other classes of secured claims). In fact, holding any claim - secured or unsecured - places such counsel at risk of being adverse to other classes of creditors.

Of course, the interests of secured creditors and unsecured creditors sometimes align. But the problem is that it is impossible to know in advance when the interests will be aligned, and meanwhile the proposed professional who holds a claim (secured or unsecured) has an economic incentive that may be adverse to at least some creditors.

In sum, Congress chose to draw a bright line barring professionals who hold claims from employment under 11 U.S.C. 327(a). That bright line is not absurd, so this Court must apply the plain meaning of the statute.

Therefore, if The Turoci Firm held a claim (secured or unsecured) as of the petition date, it would be disqualified. The next question is whether the outcome is different because the lending relationship was indirect.

(2) The lack of disinterestedness cannot be resolved by arranging the secured loan through an entity owned by the firm's principal

The requirement to be "disinterested" encompasses not just a bar on being a "creditor" directly but also a requirement that proposed counsel "not have an interest materially adverse to the interest of the estate or of any class of creditors or equity security holders, by reason of any direct or indirect relationship to, connection with, or interest in, the debtor, or for any other reason." 11 U.S.C. 101(14)(C) (emphasis added). The tentative ruling is that, when Congress chose to draw a bright line prohibiting proposed professionals from holding any "claim," it would not be consonant with Congressional intent to permit the professional to hold a claim indirectly.

From a practical standpoint, there is no difference. If Mr. Turoci's lending business holds a claim, his and his law firm's economic incentives are the same as if his law firm held the claim directly. That was the situation in which The Turoci Firm found itself at the inception of this case. See Supplement to Motion (dkt.28).

(3) The lack of disinterestedness cannot be resolved by subsequently transferring the loan and security interest to an independent third party

Based on the foregoing analysis, The Turoci Firm was disqualified at the inception of this case because of its indirect claim against the bankruptcy estate (through the firm's principal's lending business). The question is whether, by transferring the loan and security interest, the disqualification can be cured.

The tentative ruling is that it cannot. First, selling the loan does not retroactively change The Turoci Firm's economic incentives during the prior times when it rendered services.

Second, the very process of selling the loan may have been tainted by The Turoci Firm's economic incentives. Any buyer of that loan had an interest in assessing how risky the loan might be, which gets back to how much risk will be taken by the debtor - advised by its general bankruptcy counsel. If the risk is high then the prospective purchaser of the $25,000 loan might be able to buy the loan for a substantial discount. So Mr. Turoci had an incentive to minimize whatever risks exist, so that his lending business would be paid as close to $25,000 as possible.

But, from the standpoint of the bankruptcy estate's future negotiations with the new holder of that claim, it might be best to maximize whatever risks exist. A purchaser of the loan who buys it for $10,000, and thinks of the loan as a risky venture, might be much more willing to accept a chapter 11 plan that will pay $10,000 over time than a purchaser who buys the loan for $25,000.

Third, it is impossible to know what ongoing consequences the conflicts of interest might have had, beyond the time when the loan was sold. For example, suppose that during the first weeks of this case The Turoci Firm advised Debtor in ways that favored a sale of the real estate rather than attempting to start an Airbnb business. It is impossible to know if that advice might have been tainted by an awareness of the possible effects on the secured claim that was then held by Mr. Turoci's lending business. Now, after the loan has been sold, it may be too late to adopt a different strategy or tactics.

Of course, the above discussion includes only some hypothetical illustrations of how the economic incentives might cause problems. In actuality there might be different issues that arise, or it might be that there were not any adverse effects. The point is only that, once The Turoci Firm held a claim against property of the estate, that created a lack of disinterestedness that could have had adverse effects, prior to, during, and after the time the loan was sold.

Caveat: This Court wishes to emphasize that there is no evidence in the record that Mr. Turoci or The Turoci Firm has actually taken any act, or omitted to do any act, that would have an actual adverse effect on the bankruptcy estate. To the contrary, so far as this Court is aware, Mr. Turoci and The Turoci Firm have attempted to help Debtor obtain the benefits of that law firm's services, which in turn appears to be an attempt to help Debtor fulfill the duties of a DIP for the benefit of creditors and all parties in interest.

The point is only that the statute requires disqualification of general bankruptcy counsel based not only on actual conflicts but also for a lack of "disinterestedness." 11 U.S.C. 327(a). The tentative ruling is that the lending relationship, through Mr. Turoci's lending business, inherently creates a lack of disinterestedness that cannot be cured by subsequently selling the loan.

(4) Section 327(e) does not provide an "end run" around the foregoing limitations

The Reply suggests that, if employment cannot be authorized under subsection "(a)" of section 327, perhaps it can be authorized under subsection "(e)," "for the limited purposes of initiating the case and sheparding Debtor through the first few months." Reply (dkt. 51), p.3:10-14. The tentative ruling is that this solution, while creative, is not workable.

True, Section 327(e) provides does not include the "disinterestedness" requirement. But it provides that the DIP, acting as a trustee for the benefit of creditors under 11 U.S.C. 1101(1) and 1107), may employ "for a specified special purpose, other than to represent the [DIP] in conducting the case," an attorney who previously represented the debtor, if that is in the best interest of the estate and if such attorney "does not represent or hold any interest adverse to the debtor or to the estate with respect to the matter on which such attorney is to be employed." (Emphasis added.)

The problem is that (a) The Turoci Firm has been representing Debtor "in conducting the case" and, alternatively, (b) The Turoci Firm has, at least while its principal held a claim against the estate (through his lending business), held an "interest adverse to ... the estate" with respect to the general representation of the bankruptcy estate in conducting the case. Therefore, the tentative ruling is that The Turoci Firm's employment cannot be authorized under 11 U.S.C. 327(e).

bankruptcy counsel, and is also empathetic to proposed bankruptcy counsel who attempt to solve that problem by arranging for loans. Unfortunately for those parties, the tentative ruling is that the arrangements in this case disqualify The Turoci Firm from employment.

Caveat: This issue has not been extensively briefed by the parties; the decisions appear to be sparse; and the law in this area appears to be somewhat unclear. This Court is very much aware of the substantial consequences of the foregoing tentative ruling on The Turoci Firm, Debtor, the bankruptcy estate, and other parties in interest. The parties should be prepared to address whether they will seek further briefing.

Debtor's budget motion (dkt. 37, Ex.A, p.2) reveals that, although the Sweetzer property is "listed to be sold," meanwhile "Debtor intends to rent [that property] as an Airbnb." The tentative ruling is that this is a transaction out of the ordinary course, which requires notice, an opportunity for a hearing, and approval by this Court. 11 U.S.C. 363(b). Has Debtor already acted on this intent, without such approval?

In addition, this Court is concerned about (i) whether Airbnb rental would be in compliance with any local permitting and zoning requirements and is otherwise permissible, (ii) whether that proposed use might expose the bankruptcy estate to liabilities, (iii) whether there is adequate insurance for that use of the property, and (iv) whether the proposed sale of the property is consistent with any agreement with Airbnb.

(b) Real estate agent.

The employment application (dkt. 26, p.4:1-4) states that Agent has agreed to disclose to Debtor [i.e., only to Debtor? how about disclosure to creditors, the US Trustee, and this Court?] any agency relationship Agent has with other parties ("Third Parties") that may be part of a real estate transaction for the sale of the Real Property [i.e., dual agency? that is prohibited by the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov)] as well as the amount of any compensation Agent receives from Agent's relationship with any Third Parties [i.e., splitting the commission with a cooperating agent from a different real estate agency? or something else?].

The parties should be prepared to address the issues raised in Bob's LLC's limited opposition (dkt. 927) and Pierre Casanova's statement of clarification (dkt. 928).

The tentative ruling is to excuse any requirement for approval of the employment of real estate professionals regarding the Cliffs Entities (dkt. 916, p.12:11-25). Although the fact that Debtor is causing those entities to be sold appears to be a transaction out of the ordinary course of Debtor's business, and normally that would require approval under 11 U.S.C. 363(b), which probably would include safeguards as to the professionals' lack of conflicts, those things are sufficiently addressed by this Court's prior approval of Ms. Haro and the Agent, combined with the terms of the proposed settlement and related agreements. In addition, notice of the proposed arrangements with professionals and transactions is sufficient under Rules 2002(a)(3) and 9019 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

(b) Procedures relating to filed Plan (dkt. 932) and Disclosure Statement (dkt. 931)

The parties should be prepared to address what procedures should apply, such as the timing of any future hearings and whether to hold separate or combined hearings on whether to approve the Disclosure Statement and

(b) Mr. Layfield has not filed adequate proofs of service

Mr. Layfield's papers lack adequate proofs of service. He apparently takes the position that this Court has excused him from serving papers and/or filling out proofs of service. He is wrong.

Mr. Layfield's position is reflected in his recent proofs of service (Lay-Invol. dkt.243 & 244, p.3, para.2) which assert that the "clerk [of this Court] shall issue NEF and Debtor is not required to serve those parties on List to Receive NEF," allegedly pursuant to "10/22/18 Docket #128 [sic]." (Emphasis added.) The referenced Docket #128 is irrelevant: it is a proof of service of a joinder in the involuntary petition. See L&B dkt.128.

Mr. Layfield apparently means to refer to this Court's "PDF Protocol" (Lay-Invol. dkt.88, adopted by Order at Lay-Invol.dkt.111, p.3:8-11 and L&B dkt.367). The PDF Protocol is a special accommodation to Mr. Layfield: as set forth in therein, he had (among other things) filed one motion that he estimated to be 3,500 to 4,000 pages long, and such voluminous papers were causing an undue burden and delays for all parties in interest and this Court's staff; but, rather than limit the number of pages that Mr. Layfield could file, this Court adopted the PDF Protocol.

The PDF Protocol requires Mr. Layfield (i) to file documents in PDF format on CDs and (ii) to serve "each person whom he is required to serve under the applicable rules or any orders of this Court" by mailing them such CDs with PDFs. Lay-Invol.dkt.88, p.5:3-14. Notwithstanding this special requirement (to serve CDs with PDFs via U.S. mail), Mr. Layfield is excused from servicing CDs for those parties who are served via NEF. Id. But nothing excuses him from the requirements that he, like every other party, must serve everyone who is required to be served and file a proof of service, which must identify who was served via NEF.

These requirements are important. Among other things, not everyone is served via NEF, and even for those parties who are on NEF a proper proof of service is required to identify those parties, including an explicit indication of how they are "related to the case or adversary proceeding." LBR 9013-3(d); and see LBR 9001-1(39), 9013-1(e). For example, if there were a hypothetical NEF email address of "xyz@randomemail.com" that would not identify who was served, so a proper proof of service should state something like: "John Doe, Esq., Attorney for Bank of the North Pole, at xyz@randomemail.com." Otherwise parties in interest, and this Court, are not notified who was actually served.

There are numerous other problems with Mr. Layfield's service of papers. Examples include failure to state what document was (allegedly) served, failure to have someone (not a party to the proceeding) sign the proof of service, and failure to serve persons who are required to be served. These defects are addressed below if they appear sufficiently problematic to affect the outcome.

(c) Mr. Layfield has failed to establish that he has standing and/or is the real party in interest

Layfield & Barrett, APC

Chapter 11

This Bankruptcy Court has an independent duty to consider whether any person who seeks or opposes any relief has standing to do so. This Court also must consider the closely related concept of whether such person is the real party in interest. See In re Veal, 450 B.R. 897, 906-08 (9th Cir. BAP 2011).

Mr. Layfield has not established how he has standing and is the real party in interest in any of the matters on which he has filed papers. In general a chapter 7 debtor is supplanted by a bankruptcy trustee who controls the bankruptcy estate, and such a debtor lacks standing, and is not the real party in interest, (a) to pursue any claims that used to belong to the debtor and now belong to his bankruptcy estate (i.e., any claims that Mr. Layfield might have had against the L&B chapter 11 estate generally belong to his chapter 7 bankruptcy estate, and are controlled by the Lay-Invol Trustee, not by Mr. Layfield), (b) to object to creditors' claims, (c) to seek removal of a chapter 7 or chapter 11 trustee, or (d) to request any similar relief in the chapter 7 or chapter 11 cases.

In common sense terms, how a chapter 7 bankruptcy estate is administered and divided among creditors is a matter of concern to creditors, not a chapter 7 debtor. There is an exception if, for example, the chapter 7 debtor provides evidence of the likely solvency of the bankruptcy estate, because then the allowance or disallowance of claims might actually affect the debtor. But Mr. Layfield's motion papers provide no evidence that the estate is solvent or any other relevant facts. Accordingly the tentative ruling is that he has forfeited any such arguments.

Alternatively, even if this Court did not start with the usual rule that a chapter 7 debtor generally lacks standing, the tentative ruling is that there is prima facie evidence in the record of these particular cases that Mr. Layfield lacks standing and is not the real party in interest. Mr. Layfield has not rebutted that evidence.

To be clear, this Court is not ruling that it would be impossible for Mr. Layfield to establish that he has standing and is the real party in interest. Perhaps he could have done so. The point is only that, on the present record, he appears to lack standing and not be the real party in interest, and he has failed to show otherwise.

Alternatively, this Court is addressing the merits as set forth below.

(d) Mr. Layfield's motion to compel (L&B dkt. 443), Chapter 11

Chapter 11

Trustee's opposition (L&B dkt. 452), and Mr. Layfield's Reply (L&B dkt. 453, filed 9/9/19 at 3:17 p.m.)

(i) Striking the motion is an appropriate remedy for Mr. Layfield's use of these proceedings for improper purposes

The tentative ruling is to strike the motion to compel for the reasons stated in the Chapter 11 Trustee's opposition. See L&B dkt.452, pp.6:17-7:24. Specifically, the tentative findings of fact are that Mr. Layfield, as a (former) attorney with years of experience, is well aware of the need to file motion papers with evidence and citations to appropriate authority; in addition and alternatively he has been warned repeatedly by this Court of the need to do so; and on the present record the tentative ruling is that this Court must find that his continued failure to do so is for the improper purpose of attempting to harass the L&B Trustee and needlessly increase the cost of litigation, and that the appropriate remedy is to strike his motion.

Likewise, the tentative ruling is that even if the motion is not struck the reply must be struck because it cites no authority or evidence and was filed so late.

(ii) Alternatively, the motion was not properly served

The tentative ruling is that Mr. Layfield was required to serve "all creditors" and other parties in interest with his motion, pursuant to Rule 2002(a)(2) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). In seeking to compel the L&B Trustee to expend estate resources to attempt to reconstruct L&B records and file tax returns or do other acts, contrary to the business judgment of the L&B Trustee, Mr. Layfield is proposing a extraordinary "use" of property of the bankruptcy estate within the meaning of that rule.

Alternatively, the tentative ruling is that under Rule 9007 and 9013(b), all creditors and parties in interest must be served. In addition, basic notions of due process require that all creditors and parties in interest be informed of a request for an order compelling the bankruptcy estate to use resources (potentially very substantial resources) to perform acts that might be of little or no benefit to the estate and creditors, and might even be a detriment (by wedding the estate to a position as to historical facts that might not be true).

In addition, Mr. Layfield's proof of service is inadequate for the reasons noted in part "(1)(b)" of this tentative ruling.

For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that all creditors and parties in interest should have been served and that there is no proof of any such service. That is an alternative basis on which the motion must be

Chapter 11

(iii) Alternatively, Mr. Layfield has not established that he has standing or is the real party in interest

Mr. Layfield's last-minute Reply (L&B dkt. 453) fails to address the L&B Trustee's argument (L&B dkt.452, p.8:1-17) that he lacks standing. The tentative ruling is that he has forfeited any contrary argument.

Alternatively, even if contrary arguments are not forfeited, the tentative ruling is that, on the present record, there is prima facie evidence that Mr. Layfield lacks standing and is not the real party in interest, and Mr. Layfield has not rebutted that evidence. Of course, this Court recognizes that failure to file tax returns or other documents can give rise to penalties or other liabilities. But whatever tax returns were or were not filed during Mr. Layfield's tenure with L&B are matters of historical fact. He has not shown how the trustees' non-filing or delayed filing of tax returns (or any other acts that he seeks) would affect him in any way that would give him standing.

(iv) Alternatively, the motion must be denied on the merits

The tentative ruling is that it is appropriate for this Court to defer to the L&B Trustee's reasonable business judgment as to whether and how to attempt to reconstruct L&B's records, when and how to prepare and file tax returns, and other matters. The Trustee's opposition papers set forth more than adequate grounds for his exercise of that business judgment. See L&B dkt.452, pp.8:17-10:5. See generally In re Pomona Valley Med. Group, Inc., 476 F.3d 665, 670 (9th Cir. 2006) ("courts are no more equipped to make subjective business decisions for insolvent business than they are for solvent businesses, so we have no difficulty concluding that its formulation in corporate litigation is also appropriate here") (citation omitted).

Proposed order: The L&B Trustee is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(f) Mr. Layfield's motion for relief from automatic stay ("R/S Motion," Lay-Invol dkt. 222), the opposition papers filed by Wellgen Standard, LLC ("Wellgen") (Lay-Invol dkt. 248) and the Chapter 7 Trustee (Lay-Invol dkt.

249), and Mr. Layfield's reply (Lay-Invol dkt.259, filed 9/9/19 at 3:05 p.m.)

(i) Striking the motion is an appropriate remedy for Mr. Layfield's use of these proceedings for improper purposes

Wellgen requests that this Court sanction Mr. Layfield by awarding attorney fees. See Lay-Invol dkt.248, p.5:5-15. A request for an award of attorney fees must be made by separate motion, at least if it is made pursuant to Rule 9011 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). See generally Sanctions Table of Judge Bason, available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov under "Judges"/"Bason"/"Instructions" (the "Sanctions Table"). Nor has Wellgen set forth the precise legal basis, under Rule 9011 or any other grounds, for such an award.

Nevertheless, Wellgen's objection to Mr. Layfield's abusive tactics is well taken, and as set forth in part "(1)(d)(i)" of this tentative ruling, this Court has previously warned Mr. Layfield that he must file proper papers or he may be subject to consequences. As set forth above, the tentative findings of fact are that Mr. Layfield is using these proceedings for improper purposes, and the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to strike the R/S Motion. Alternatively, it is appropriate to strike Mr. Layfield's last minute reply.

(ii) Alternatively, Mr. Layfield lacks standing

The tentative ruling is that, as set forth in the opposition papers, Mr. Layfield, as the debtor in an apparently insolvent chapter 7 estate, lacks standing to seek the relief in the R/S Motion. Lay-Invol dkt.248 at pp.2:26-4:3, dkt. 249 at pp.2:18-3:3. In addition, the tentative ruling is that Mr. Layfield is not the real party in interest: the Lay-Invol Trustee is.

(iii) Alternatively, service is defective

Mr. Layfield's proof of service (Lay-Invol dkt.243, p.3) is defective for the reasons noted in part "(1)(b)" of this tentative ruling.

(iv) Alternatively, the R/S Motion must be denied on the merits

As Wellgen points out, this Court has already ruled that, regardless whether Mr. Layfield was or was not properly served, Wellgen's claim against him is not subject to any bona fide dispute. See Lay-Invol dkt.162 (incorporating dkt.149 by reference), dkt.248 p.2:18-25. The Lay-Invol Chapter 7 Trustee agrees. See Lay-Invol dkt. 249.

Chapter 11

(i) The motion must be denied for lack of proper service on the

IRS

There is no proof of service evidencing service on the IRS at the address required by the Court's manual, available at cacb.uscourts.gov, Appendix D Section 2.1. The tentative ruling is to deny the motion on that ground.

To the extent that the motion seeks discovery, the tentative ruling is that without service on the IRS it is inappropriate to address that issue.

(ii) Alternatively, the tentative ruling is that the motion should be stricken because it is being used for improper purposes

Mr. Layfield asserts that the IRS has violated the automatic stay, but he cites very little legal authority and the only evidence to support Debtor's various factual allegations is one (inadequate) exhibit. That prejudices anyone who seeks to understand whether to support or oppose the motion, and it is particularly prejudicial to the IRS or anyone else who might seek to oppose the motion, because any such party must research and set forth all the legal standards that Mr. Layfield should have addressed, before addressing why those standards have or have not been met.

In other words, the IRS has to do the research that Mr. Layfield should have done to set forth the legal standards, then the IRS has to surmise what evidence Mr. Layfield might present to meet each element of his claims, and then the IRS has to present contrary arguments and evidence. That is using the motion to harass the IRS and to needlessly increase the costs of litigation for other parties.

(iii) Alternatively, on the merits, the motion must be denied

One of the essential elements for any claim for violation of the automatic stay is that there must be actual knowledge of the bankruptcy case. See generally Sanctions Table. It appears from the record before this Court that Debtor never complied with his obligation to file a creditor matrix, nor is there any other evidence of which this Court is aware that the IRS has had notice of this bankruptcy case.

As to the request for an order directing discovery, Mr. Layfield fails to cite any legal authority or any evidence to support his request. Nor has he explained how any non-filing of tax returns violates the automatic stay or any other statute or legal duty.

Proposed order: The Chapter 7 Trustee is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR

Deny for lack of service on all creditors and parties in interest; for lack of standing/real party in interest; for the reasons stated in the opposition papers; and for the reasons stated in this Court's ruling on Mr. Layfield's prior Motion to Dismiss (Lay-Invol dkt. 207), reproduced below, and modified as shown in brackets:

... regarding Mr. Layfield's allegations about some sort of perceived conflict involving the Chapter 7 Trustee, his arguments are difficult to follow and both procedurally and substantively deficient. This Court has already rejected Mr. Layfield's challenges to the appointment of the Trustee. See [Lay-Invol] dkt. 149, 183. To the extent that Mr. Layfield raises new allegations, there is no explanation why they were not raised before; there is no citation to the standards for reconsideration (e.g., under Rule 9024, Fed.R.Bankr.P.) nor any attempt to meet those standards; and his vague allegations are conclusory statements of opinion and legal conclusions without supporting facts. See [Lay-Invol] dkt. 207, p.4:11-18 & pp.11:21-12:5 (referencing In re Adelman, Case No. 2:15-bk-15952-RK). [See also Lay-Invol dkt. 241 at PDF pp.5:23-6:12 & pp.11:19-12:6 (referencing In re Adelman)]. In addition, this Court has reviewed the docket in the Adelman bankruptcy case, including the bankruptcy schedules (id. dkt.84), and is unable to discern any disqualifying facts. See 11 U.S.C. 327(c)(attorney's representation of creditor does not by itself disqualify such person from representing trustee).

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Docket 25

Tentative Ruling:

Revised Tentative Ruling for 9/17/19:

Grant in part and deny in part as set forth below. In addition, the tentative ruling is to continue this hearing to 10/29/19 at 10:00 a.m. to assess Debtor's ongoing progress at that time. Appearances required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(1) Section 362(d)(1)

In its Memorandum of Points and Authorities (dkt. 28) in support of its motion for relief from the automatic stay (the "R/S Motion," dkt. 25), Movant asserts that there is "cause" for relief from the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1)) on two alternative grounds: (a) allegedly it is not protected by an adequate equity cushion and (b) allegedly Debtor's bankruptcy case was commenced in bad faith (dkt. 28, p.8:3-5).

(a) Adequate protection

Movant asserts that its equity cushion is 7% (dkt. 28 at PDF p.13), and it cites authority that typically a 10% to 20% equity cushion is considered appropriate. Movant acknowledges that it has received two post-petition adequate protection payments of $16,683.00 each (dkt. 31 at PDF p.6), but Movant asserts that these are not sufficient (dkt. 32 at PDF p.5), apparently because they do not cover Movant's claimed default interest.

The tentative ruling is that Movant is adequately protected by a combination of (i) the equity cushion, (ii) adequate protection payments at the non-default rate, and (iii) Debtor's past and ongoing progress in moving the property toward approval of permits (and then a construction loan and full development of the property).

(b) Bad faith, or not

Movant asserts that Debtor's bankruptcy case was filed in bad faith. Movant cites In re Can-Alta Props., Ltd., 87 B.R. 89, 92 (9th Cir. BAP 1988) for a list of factors courts consider in determining bad faith as one type of "cause" under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) to grant relief from the automatic stay. Dkt. 32, p.6. Movant asserts that the bankruptcy court's finding of bad faith in that case was reversed by the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel ("BAP") "primarily because the Property had over $1.0 million in equity." Dkt. 32, p.6:8-22.

The tentative ruling is that, although the equity in the property was certainly a major factor, it was just one of the following factors cited by the BAP in ruling that the record, taken as a whole, did not support a conclusion of bad faith: the debtor therein was not formed on the eve of bankruptcy, that debtor had approximately one million dollars in equity, the bankruptcy petition was filed six months prior to the order lifting the stay so it was not surprising that that debtor had received only one offer to purchase the property, and relief from stay was granted prior to the hearing on that debtor's plan so that debtor had no opportunity to amend the plan consistent with the bankruptcy court's concerns and no opportunity to present evidence of confirmability or feasibility. Can-Alta, 87 B.R. 89, 92.

The tentative ruling is that in this case the record as a whole does not support a conclusion of bad faith. As explained below, the tentative ruling is that this is not a single asset real estate case so, although Debtor needs to show progress soon, the deadlines are not quite as hard-and-fast. Movant's R/S Motion was filed 8/23/19, less than two months after Debtor filed for bankruptcy. Given that the property has a value of at least $3.2 million, and may be on the eve of plan approval and development, it is not surprising that Debtor has received no acceptable offers to purchase the property - that is an awkward stage at which to attempt to sell development property. The fact that the bankruptcy case was commenced in response to Movant's foreclosure sale is neutral, given that the goals of the Bankruptcy Code include not just adequate protection of secured creditors but also maximizing the possible return to unsecured creditors and preserving bankrupt businesses and jobs, and this is Debtor's first bankruptcy filing. While it is true that (at a $3.2 million valuation) Debtor has no equity in the property, after taking into account debt junior to Movant's claim, Debtor has alleged that now that plans have been revised and the development is in its current stage the property is worth $4 million (dkt. 31, p.7:1-3 and Hanson Decl., p.10:21-22). Although the opinion of Debtor's principal certainly is not the strongest evidence of value, owners are deemed to be competent to opine as to value, and there is no contrary evidence presented. Lastly, Debtor has shown sufficient progress, at this early stage of the case, towards reorganization. Debtor has employed an architect to design the home for the property, and in the process of seeking the necessary permits.

The tentative ruling is that neither element of 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(2) is satisfied. First, based on an assumed property value of $3.2 million, Movant asserts that Debtor has no equity in the property (dkt. 25, p.8). But, as noted above, there is some evidence that the property is worth $4 million. The tentative ruling is that Debtor's evidence is sufficient under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(2)(A).

Second, Movant argues that the property is not necessary for an effective reorganization. Debtor provides evidence of some progress toward a reorganization, including a copy of the new floor plans, a delcaration from its principal Sam Hanson, and the application for the required permits. Dkt. 31, pp.10:23-11:5 and Ex.2 & 3. The tentative ruling is that this is sufficient, at the present time, under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(2)(B).

(3) Section 362(d)(3), and Movant's request for a finding that Debtor's case constitutes a single asset real estate ("SAR") case

Fairly short deadlines apply, under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(3), with respect to a stay of an act against "single asset real estate" ("SARE") as defined in 11 U.S.C. 101(51A):

The term "single asset real estate" means real property constituting a single property or project, other than residential real property with fewer than 4 residential units, which generates substantially all of the gross income of a debtor who is not a family farmer and on which no substantial business is being conducted by a debtor other than the business of operating the real property and activities incidental thereto. Chapter 11

101(51A), emphasis added)

Movant cites several cases for the proposition that vacant raw land does not fall within the emphasized language (the "Residential Exception"). Dkt. 32, pp.9:7-10:7. The tentative ruling is that the cited cases are either distinguishable or actually support the opposite conclusion on the facts presented.

The first case, In re Kachina Village, LLC, 538 B.R. 124 (Bankr. D.N.M. 2015), admittedly held that the Residential Exception would not apply to raw land, at least in the circumstances of that case; but that case involved property zoned for mixed use. Id. at 126. That debtor's former intention was to build four or more residential units, and at the time of the hearing, that debtor's current intentions were to do than in addition to building a commercial building. Id. at 128. The Court opined that

A good example of raw land that might come within the Residential Exception would be between one and three lots, zoned strictly for residential development, upon which the debtor intended to build from one to three houses. In such a situation it might [] be fair to exclude the property from the Code's SARE provisions. [Id.]

In the present case, Debtor's stated intentions were always to build a personal residence on the property, and Movant has not provided any evidence to do contrary. Moreover, there is no evidence that Debtor's property is zoned for anything other than residential development.

The second decision, In re Mountain Edge LLC, 2012 Bankr. LEXIS 4784 (Bankr. D.N.M. 2012), held that the debtor's case was a SARE case. 2012 Bankr. LEXIS 4784 at *12. But that decision is factually distinguishable because the debtor owned 24 residential lots and therefore could not qualify for the Residential Exception. Id. at *2.

The last case, In re Kkemko, Inc., 181 B.R. 47 (Bankr. S.D. Ohio 1995), held that the debtor's case was not a SARE case. 181 B.R. 47 at 51. The debtor's property consisted of a marina that moored, stored, repaired and winterized boats, provided showers and a pool, and sold gas, among other activities. Id. at 51. Therefore, this case is factually distinguishable because that debtor could not have qualified for the Residential Exception.

The tentative ruling is to find and conclude that this is not a SARE case.

(4) Movant's request for deadlines

Movant requests in the alternative (dkt. 32, p.10:11-14) that this Court set a deadline of 10/24/19 for Debtor to obtain construction permits and a deadline of 11/15/19 to pay its claim in full. The tentative ruling is not to set such hard-and-fast deadlines at this time, but instead to continue this hearing and monitor Debtor's progress as this case moves forward.

(5) Conclusion

The tentative ruling is that Movant has not established sufficient grounds for relief from the automatic stay on the present record. But the tentative ruling is to direct Debtor to continue making adequate protection payments of $16,683.33 per month, using the typical "stay-current" form of adequate protection order ("APO") (14 days' notice of default, maximum of three opportunities to cure), and to continue this hearing to the date set forth at the start of this tentative ruling.

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Docket entries for Reina Elizabeth Gonzalez bankruptcy (2:19-bk-15640-NB); Debtor's notice of conversion to chapter 7 (dkt.13, 14).

Termination

ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. Effective date of relief

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Docket 62

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 9/17/19:

Appearances required. At the previous hearing, Movant informed this Court that it had provided the Chapter 13 Trustee with a payoff statement and that the Chapter 13 Trustee required further accounting. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address (a) the status of that further accounting, (b) whether the alleged arrears have been brought current and/or (c) whether they will agree to the terms of an adequate protection order.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 8/6/19:

Appearances required. At the previous hearing, the parties noted that another of Debtor's properties had been sold and that Movant's debt may be paid in full out of the proceeds. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address (a) whether the alleged arrears have been brought current and/or (b) whether they will agree to the terms of an adequate protection order.

Tentative Ruling for 7/2/19:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Deny. At the last hearing this Court set a deadline of 9/3/19 for supplemental declarations of Mr. Giron and Mr. Egbase, and as of the date of this tentative ruling, only the former has been filed, and that is insufficient for the reasons stated at the hearing and in the UST's reply. Docket 5

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required. The tentative ruling is that Debtor's third amended chapter 11 plan, as modified (dkt.107), cannot be confirmed, despite Debtor's supplemental briefing in support of that plan (dkt. 112). Because Debtor was unable to establish the feasibility of the version of that plan (dkt. 69) that was conditionally approved by order of this Court (dkt. 93), the parties should be prepared to address whether Debtor can and will propose alternative exit strategies, or if this case should be dismissed or converted.

Analysis

The tentative ruling is that (1) Debtor has not established that bankruptcy law preempts nonbankruptcy law regarding the notices and other procedures for a change in use of a mobilehome part;

(2) Debtor has not established that Cal. Gov. Code 65863.7(f) exempts Debtor from otherwise applicable requirements of California law or regulation, because that section by its terms requires that any closure or cessation of use of a mobilehome park must "result[] from the entry of an order for relief in bankruptcy" (emphasis added), and Debtor has not established that closure or cessation of use is the only bankruptcy option, as opposed to, for example, sale of the property as a mobilehome park under 11 U.S.C. 363; and therefore

(3) Debtor has not established that Carson Municipal Code 9128.21 conflicts with, and is preempted by, either the Bankruptcy Code or nonbankruptcy law.

Chapter 7

Tentative Ruling for 2/13/18:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Potential settlement with Fresco Parties. The parties must be prepared to address the status of their settlement negotiations and finalization of the draft settlement documents circulated 2/5/18, and all other issues appropriate to raise at a status conference, including the issues in their recent status reports and related documents (Sakurai case, no. 2:17-bk-22660-NB, dkt. 87, 104, 105, 114, 124, and Checkmate case, no. 2:17-bk-22648-NB, dkt. 90, 93, 100, 102, 104, 105, 106, 109, 112, 113, 119, 122).

(b) Cash collateral & budget motions & stipulation (Sakurai dkt. 119, 122; Checkmate dkt. 114, 118, 119). Grant the cash collateral motion in the Sakurai case, subject to the same replacement liens and other terms and conditions as this Court's prior approvals of the use of cash collateral (see Sakurai case dkt. 43, 57); grant the budget motion in the Sakurai case; and approve the cash collateral stipulation in the Checkmate case on a final basis.

(d) Removed action (Adv. no. 2:17-ap-01558-NB), motions for stay and for remand (adv. dkt. 8, 10, 12, 13). The tentative ruling is that the motion for a stay pending determination by the District Court of the debtors' motion to withdraw the reference is moot, because the District Court has dismissed that motion. There is no tentative ruling on the motion to remand.

(a) Status Report (dkt. 90): The status report states that the debtor's business is dormant with respect to its financing of the purchase of used medical equipment. Revised Tentative Ruling for 11/14/17:

Appearances required by the debtor's principals and debtor's counsel.

Proposed orders: The debtor is directed to serve and lodge proposed orders on each motion listed below via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date.

(1) Current issues

(a) Status Report (dkt. 37): The status report states that the debtor has no executory contracts. What about all the contracts with Radiology Solutions Inc./Corp. (whichever name is correct)?

(b) Cash collateral motion (dkt.9): The debtor reports (dkt. 53, p.3) that it has reached a stipulation with Community Bank regarding the use of cash collateral, but as of the preparation of this tentative ruling no such stipulation appears on the docket. If there is no such stipulation, or if it does not moot the bank's opposition (dkt. 50), then the parties should be prepared to address the merits of that opposition. In addition, the parties should be prepared to address the objection of the Fresco parties (dkt. 49) and the debtor's response (dkt. 53).

Tentative Ruling for 11/14/17:

This court anticipates posting a tentative ruling at a later time.

Tentative Ruling for 10/26/17:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor.

(1) Current issues

(a) Proof of service (dkt. 28). Service appears to be in compliance with this court's orders shortening time, except that no addresses are listed. The following tentative rulings are contingent on filing a corrected proof of service, no later than the day after this hearing, listing those addresses.

(b) Cash collateral motion (dkt. 9). Subject to any opposition at the hearing, the tentative ruling is to grant this motion on the terms set forth in the separate tentative ruling on that motion.

(a) Status of these cases

The following issues involve both of these related cases: In re Yichiro and Akemi Sakurai (Case No. 2:17-bk-22660-NB, filed 10/16/17) and the Checkmate ("Checkmate") (Case No. 2:17-bk-22648-NB, filed 10/16/17). On 6/13/19 these cases were converted to chapter 7. See Sakurai dkt. 465, Checkmate dkt. 329. The meetings of creditors are scheduled for 8/7/19 and 7/24/19, respectively.

reason set forth below. The parties should be prepared to address, however, whether the chapter 11 administrative expenses are likely to be paid at all, now that the cases have been converted to chapter 7, and therefore whether the fee issues are moot, or should be deferred.

(i) Background: Checkmate had $4.5 million of receivables that appeared very likely on their face to be nearly worthless

Checkmate's bankruptcy schedules listed $43,177.70 that were 90 days old or less, and over $4.5 million that were over 90 days old. See Checkmate Schedule A/B (Checkmate dkt.1), line 11, at PDF p.11. In fact, these receivables were far older than 90 days: they were "incurred in the one to two-year period prepetition." Sakurai dkt. 464, p.6:24.

This Court takes judicial notice, from hundreds if not thousands of bankruptcy cases, that receivables over 90 days typically are worth a fraction of their face amount, and often are worthless. Debtors later acknowledged, in their Disclosure Statement, that one of the immediate causes of Checkmate's bankruptcy (in addition to an impending trial with the Fresco Parties) was "Checkmate Debtor's inability to collect the [Radiology] receivables." Sakurai dkt. 177, Ex.H, Attachment, p.11:11-14 (PDF p.32).

Nevertheless, Checkmate claimed to be confident of collection, principally because the accounts were backed up by security interests. On even a superficial review, there was cold comfort in any purported security interests. Almost all of the receivables were from a single party: Radiology Solutions Corp. ("Radiology"). Checkmate alleged that it had advanced funds to Radiology to purchase used medical equipment manufactured by Siemens, for resale in India and other markets, and Checkmate purportedly took back a security interest in that medical equipment.

But Checkmate had only the word of Radiology and its principal, Mr. Fower, that most of the equipment had ever been purchased. See Sakurai dkt. 177, Ex.H, Attachment, p.22:10-13 (PDF p.43) ("Debtors have made progress by confirming with Seimens that [Radiology] bought at least some of the equipment") (emphasis added). In addition, Checkmate had only their word that the equipment had not already been sold to overseas purchasers or otherwise disposed of.

Checkmate had only vague and incomplete reports from Radiology about the purported location of unsold equipment. See id. ("the location of that equipment is not known" and "Debtors hope to soon be able to gain access to a warehouse in Anaheim, California, where 15 of the [49] machines are supposed to be located, and warehouses in Houston and New York where another 6 of the machines" are supposed to be located).

Checkmate also had only sloppy documentation or perfection of the purported security interest - e.g., (A) it is unclear how enforceable any purported security interest would be, especially in India and other foreign locations; (B) Checkmate's invoices from Radiology did not cross-reference the security agreement; and (C) even at the outset, the identification and location of the equipment was incomplete. See adv. no. 2:18-ap-01062-NB, dkt. 12.

Despite all of these grounds for concern, Checkmate purported to be supremely confident that the Radiology receivables were collectible. Its bankruptcy schedules listed the portion of its receivables that were "doubtful or uncollectible accounts" as $0. See Checkmate Schedule A/B (dkt.1), line 11, at PDF p.11.

That was either a delusion or an intentional fabrication. In any event, when Debtors' counsel eventually was able to inspect the collateral stored at one location, nine months after the petition date, they found almost nothing:

On June 21, 2018, ... an inspection of Checkmate's collateral occurred. At that time, Applicant learned for the first time that the equipment supposedly purchased by Radiology was largely gone. [Sakurai dkt. 464, p.9:13-16.]

In what should not have been a surprise to anyone, it "turned out" that Checkmate "only collect[ed] $9,000 from Radiology." [Sakurai dkt. 464, p.6, n.2.]

The point, of course, is not that with "20/20 hindsight" the receivables were worth next to nothing. The point is that from the outset there was every reason to believe that the receivables would be worth next to nothing.

(ii) Counsel for the estates had a duty not to incur substantial fees based on Debtors' unsupported delusions or misrepresentations

It is one thing for a debtor's principals to be deluded about the likely value of the debtor's assets. It is another thing for counsel to incur many tens of thousands of dollars in fees premised on such fantasies.

But that is what counsel did. The Radiology receivables were central to the negotiation and drafting of an original and first amended plan, and an original and first amended disclosure statement. Those documents included a complicated arrangement by which the Fresco Parties would receive a junior security interest in certain real properties and improvements, and payments out of the Radiology receivables that would be partially subordinated to claims of other non-priority unsecured creditors. As explained in the Disclosure Statement:

The collection of the RS [Radiology Solutions] receivables is addressed throughout this [Disclosure Statement]. Checkmate believes that it can retrieve and sell 21 of 49 machines, located mostly in Anaheim, California, with some in Houston, Texas and New York, New York. ... Checkmate estimates that during the 6 months post-confirmation ... it will receive and sell enough equipment to recoup $700,000. During the next 9 months ... it anticipates receiving $600,000 and during the following 9 months after that ... another $500,000. [In other words, $1.8 million total.] These are general estimates based on Checkmate recovering many, but not all, of the machines serving as its collateral. [Sakurai dkt. 177, Ex.H, Attachment, p.10:8-17 (PDF p.31)].

At this time (4/17/18, when the initial Disclosure Statement was filed, approximately 6 months after the petition date), Checkmate boasted that the Radiology receivables were estimated to be worth "approximately $1,000,000" more in chapter 11 than "if the case is converted to Chapter 7," because the Checkmate Debtor has made progress ... in locating the medical equipment" Sakurai dkt. 177, Ex.H, Attachment, p.10:23-25 (PDF p.31) (emphasis added). Of course, as noted above, the purported location of the equipment had not been verified. Three months later, when Debtors' counsel actually went to Anaheim to look at the collateral that purportedly was "locat[ed]" there, it turned out to be "largely gone." [Sakurai dkt. 464, p.9:13-16.]

Meanwhile, based on the foregoing highly speculative recovery of $1.8 million, and before verifying the existence and value of the purported collateral, Debtors' counsel engaged in protracted negotiations with the Fresco Parties and Community Bank about the structure of the proposed plan. Debtors' counsel then drafted a Plan that promised to use the Radiology receivables in a fairly complex waterfall of distributions: first to pay attorney fees, then up to $300,000 toward a schedule of payments to secured creditor Community Bank, then quarterly payments to non-priority unsecured creditors other than the Fresco Parties (Class 4A) until payment of 50% of such claims, and then pro-rata to the Fresco Parties (Class 4B) and to Class 4A (except in the event of liquidation). Sakurai dkt. 177, Ex.H, Attachment, p.5:-20 (PDF p.26 of 47) and p.8:8-20 (PDF p. 29).

All of this was completely wasted effort. So were the subsequent hearings, the next version of the plan and disclosure statement, and all the associated negotiations. These services were not "reasonably likely to benefit the debtor's estate" or "necessary" to the administration of the estate. Therefore they "shall not" be allowed. 11 U.S.C. 330(a)(4)(A)(ii).

The same conclusion is supported by other portions of the statute. Such a large amount of fees and services was not "necessary to the administration of, or beneficial at the time at which the service was rendered toward the completion of," the bankruptcy cases. 11 U.S.C. 330(a)(1)(3)(C). In addition, the large amount of time spent on such services is not "reasonable," or "commensurate with the complexity, importance, nature of the problem, issue, or task addressed." 11 U.S.C. 330(a)(3)(D).

In sum, the fees at issue are not "reasonable compensation for actual, necessary services" 11 U.S.C. 330(a)(1)(A).

(Sakurai). This Court has allowed a total of $300,000, and set this continued hearing to address the balance of $169,642.85. See Interim Fee Orders (dkt. 261, Checkmate; dkt. 363, Sakurai).

The Fresco parties' objections note that this Court has on more than one occasion expressed grave concerns about whether these Debtors have adequately prosecuted these bankruptcy cases. Of course, this Court expects that counsel for the debtors would not in any way have participated in any attempts by these Debtors to mislead or obstruct creditors in these cases, but that is not the end of the inquiry.

On the one hand, when there are legitimate strategic or tactical reasons to chose among different courses of action, counsel for Debtors usually must act at their clients' direction, even if they might harbor some doubts about the efficacy of those choices. On the other hand, in addition to the ethical limits of what counsel may do at their clients' direction, counsel are only permitted "reasonable compensation for actual, necessary services" (11 U.S.C. 330(a)(1)(A) (emphasis added)), and in determining what compensation is reasonable this Court "shall consider the nature, the extent, and the value of such services, taking into account all relevant factors, including [among other things] whether the services were necessary to the administration of, or beneficial at the time at which the service was rendered toward the completion of, [these bankruptcy cases]."

In these cases there are open questions about (i) Debtors' own acts and omissions, and whether Debtors were or were not engaging in a lack of diligent prosecution of these cases or other misconduct, (ii) whether Debtors, if deposed or examined at trial on those issues, will or will not assert advice of counsel, and (iii) whether, regardless of the foregoing issues, counsel for Debtors can satisfy the above-referenced statutory requirements. For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that the Fresco parties must have a reasonable period of time in which to conduct discovery to investigate Debtors' apparent failures to prosecute these cases or other misconduct, and whether, in view of the results of any such discovery, the compensation sought by counsel for Debtors is for "necessary" services and is "reasonable" in dollar amount, given all of the facts and circumstances.

Meanwhile, although this Court recognizes that all interim compensation may be revisited in connection with any final award, the question is how much to award on an interim basis, and whether any disbursed funds must be held in trust. The tentative ruling is to award another $35,000 to counsel for Debtors, to be allocated pro rata in proportion to their outstanding fee requests, without requiring any portion of those funds to be held in trust, but also without prejudice to allowance of a greater or lesser final award.

The parties should be prepared to address the schedule for discovery on the issues outlined above. The tentative ruling is that a five month period is appropriate.

Then, in connection with any final fee award, or at such other time as this Court may later determine, the Fresco parties' objections can be revisited with the benefit of both (i) any discovery and (ii) any subsequent developments. For example, any additional disclosures and/or recoveries in the Fower/Radiology litigation might shed light on whether Debtors' and their counsel's strategies and tactics in dealing with those parties were appropriate at the time they were made. (This Court emphasizes that any subsequent developments would be relevant only to the extent they shed light on what was reasonable at the time the legal services were rendered - not for purposes of "20/20 hindsight.")

Chapter 7

Tentative Ruling for 8/14/18:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues.

(a) Fresco Parties' Motion to Convert Cases (dkt. 199 & Checkmate 2:17-bk-22648-NB, dkt. 185). The tentative ruling is to grant Fresco's motions to convert the Checkmate and Sakurai cases to chapter 7 for the following reasons.

(i) Gross mismanagement. The tentative finding of fact is that the debtors have grossly mismanaged their estates such that cause exists under 1112(b)(4)(B) to convert their cases. These cases have been pending for nearly a year, since 10/16/17, only very belated and half-hearted investigation or collection activity against Radiology Solutions and Fower - either using legal enforcement or practical steps. For example, at hearings on 11/14/17 and 1/30/18, the debtors maintained their belief that they could recover 100% on the dated receiveables from Radiology Solutions, despite this Court's expressed concerns with the debtors' counsel regarding the apparent lack of collection activity based on Checkmate's failure to use the vast panoply of litigation tools available to them, including examinations under Rule 2004 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.), other discovery tools, remedies such as immediately seeking restraining orders and injunctions, and non-litigation approaches such as pressuring Radiology Solutions and Fower by reporting their defaults to Siemens or attempting to use pressure from other suppliers, customers, government regulators, or other persons. All of those avenues should have been explored vigorously, both prepetition and postpetition, and disclosed to parties in interest in these cases.

(ii) Other "cause." The debtors appear to have run through vast amounts of money to "purchase" equipment that does not exist, and yet as set forth above they have a very cavalier attitude toward attempting to engage in discovery or collection, while continuing to insist that they expected very substantial recoveries from those sources and/or from equipment (which turned out not to exist). The tentative finding of fact is that these circumstances show not just gross mismanagement but also that the debtors are hiding facts, or they are attempting to run out the clock on possible causes of action against them or transferees of their assets, or both.

(ii) The debtors' counter-argument about the best interests of creditors is not persuasive. The debtors argue that under their liquidation analysis (Sakurai, dkt. 240, PDF p. 14, Checkmate, dkt. 194, PDF p. 17) creditors will receive faster and better recoveries if the debtors are permitted to engage in a liquidation through chapter 11, rather than converting these cases to chapter 7. There are several problems with this argument.

First, this Court questions the debtors' projected recoveries in chapter 11. The debtors have been wildly inaccurate (or have intentionally hidden the truth) before, as set forth above. This Court has no faith in the Debtors to adequately disclose and maximize the value of their remaining assets, such as the house in Japan or purported interests in that house. Moreover, this Court is concerned about the debtor's management of whatever is recovered, such as what might happen to proceeds from the sale of real property. This Court recognizes that safeguards can be attempted; but safeguards can also be evaded, and the tentative ruling is that the simplest and best safeguard is to appoint a chapter 7 trustee.

Second, this Court questions the debtor's projected lack of substantial recoveries in chapter 7. The tentative ruling is that the Fresco Parties have the better arguments regarding the potential benefits to unsecured creditors in a chapter 7 case (perhaps as much as 80% or more).

Third, supposing for the sake of discussion that the debtors were accurate in their projected recoveries in a liquidating chapter 11 case, and their comparison with projected recoveries in a chapter 7 case, that is not the only consideration. This Court must consider the integrity of the bankruptcy system. Given the debtors' gross mismanagement and this Court's concerns about the debtors' conduct (as described above) it appears that the only adequate safeguard of the integrity of the bankruptcy system is to convert these cases to chapter 7.

(iii) Evidentiary Objections (Sakurai, dkt. 233, 252) & (Checkmate 2:17-bk-22648-NB, dkt. 200, 204). The tentative ruling is that the history of this case and this Court's own admonishments to the debtors provides ample support for conversion, so this Court need not resolve the parties' respective evidentiary objections.

(iv) Proposed Orders. The Fresco Parties are directed to lodge proposed orders via this Court's LOU system within 7 days of the hearing.

(b) Application to Employ KW Commercial Inland Empire (dkt. 197) and Neiman Realty (dkt. 206). If this Court adopts the tentative ruling set forth above, the tentative ruling is to continue these hearings to the date and time

#5.00 Hrg re: Motion to vacate order Granting Motion to Avoid Lien and Order Granting Confirmation of Chapter 13 Plan

Docket 38

Tentative Ruling:

Deny for the reasons stated in Debtor's opposition (dkt. 45) and the additional reasons set forth below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Debtor's Motion to Avoid Junior Lien (dkt. 19); Movant's Opposition (dkt.45); Debtor's reply (dkt.46).

Analysis:

Creditor Deutsche Bank Nat. Trust Co., as trustee ("Deutsche") seeks to vacate this Court's order (the "506 Order," dkt.25) granting Debtor's motion (the "506 Motion," dkt.19) to avoid Deutsche's junior lien. Deutsche argues (dkt.38, pp.2:19-3:6 & 4:10-14, and dkt.46 passim) that the loan was being serviced by Franklin Credit ("Frankin"), and that the 506 Motion was not served on Deutsche or Franklin so, allegedly, the 506 Order is void for lack of due process, or alternatively there is cause for relief under Rule 60(b) (Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Rule 9024, Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

Deutsche asserts that Debtor was sent several notices of the transfer of the loan servicing to Franklin. But those notices were sent over six years before the 506 Motion was served: the notices are dated 2/28/12, 3/5/12 and 3/22/12, and the 506 Motion was served on 4/16/18. See dkt. 38, Ex.5-7, at PDF pp.51-58, and dkt.19 at PDF pp.11-13.

Deutsche does not dispute the evidence in the 506 Motion that Debtor has not made any payments on this junior lien debt since 2008 - so Deutsche and its servicer were well aware that the debt was not being paid and that they and Debtor had not been in communication for over six years. Deutsche also does not dispute that Debtor took the following steps to try to identify the current holder or servicer of the junior lien debt at the time the 506 Motion was served.

First, Debtor obtained a title search and identified the latest holder of record of the lien, according to the real estate records ("Aegis"). Debtor then served Aegis both at the address listed in the real estate records and in care of their agent for service of process according to the secretary of state's website. See dkt. 19 at PDF pp.11-12, dkt.45 at PDF pp.8:27-9:2.

Second, Debtor spent approximately two and a half hours, with the assistance of her bankruptcy counsel, attempting to contact and eventually communicating with the lender's nominee listed in the deed of trust, Mortgage Electronic Registration System, Inc. ("MERS"). Dkt. 19 at PDF pp.9:3-14, & Ex.2 at PDF p.23. MERS informed Debtor that Aegis was no longer in business and the loan had been sold to GMAC Mortgage, LLC ("GMAC"), which also was no longer in business, and that the loan "is inactive and no longer being tracked by MERS." Dkt.19, Ex.5, at PDF p.2.

Third, MERS also informed Debtor that "Ocwen Loan Servicing LLC [Ocwen] did purchase a remaining portfolio and their contact information has been provided for your convenience." Dkt.19, Ex.5, at PDF p.2. Debtor then, through her attorney's office, sent a fax to Ocwen's research department and "requested [their] cooperation in helping me locate the status of my Second DOT with their company." Dkt. 19 at PDF p.9:12-15. Debtor served the 506 Motion on Ocwen at both the address for its agent for service of process (according to the Secretary of State's website) and in care of its President/CEO at the address listed on Ocwen's website. Dkt.19 at PDF pp.11 & 13.

In short, Debtor appears to have engaged in more than enough steps to try to identify and serve the party who held the second deed of trust on the subject property. Thus Debtor provided notice "reasonably calculated, under all the circumstances, to apprise interested parties of the pendency of the action and afford them an opportunity to present their objections." Reply (dkt.46), pp.5:26-6:2 (quoting Mullane v. Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co., 339 U.S. 306, 314 (1950)).

In addition, Debtor has acted in reliance on avoidance of the second deed of trust for over a year. Dkt. 45 at PDF p.3:1-2. Under the authorities cited by Movant, that weighs against granting relief.

In contrast, Movant has not explained (a) why it did not update MERS upon the transfer of ownership to Movant of the second DOT in 2012 (dkt. 38 at p.2:26-27), and (b) why it took over a year after not receiving monthly payments for Movant to determine that Debtor is in bankruptcy and to seek relief from the order avoiding its junior lien.

For all of the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is to deny the motion.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #6.00 Hrg re: Debtor's Motion For Intentional Violation of the Automatic Stay Against Westrux International, Inc.; Request for Sanctions; Request for Attorney's Fees; Request for Compensatory and Punitive Damages

Docket 40

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required. There is no tentative ruling, except to sustain the evidentiary objections (dkt.54, 55) but the parties should be prepared to address the issues raised in the motion (dkt.40), opposition papers (dkt.53-55) and reply papers (dkt.59-60), including:

(1) whether Debtor should be deemed to have abandoned the vehicle (before having a change of heart) by not responding to demands for payment (see dkt.52, pp.2:11-3:10 and 4:14-6:19, and compare dkt.59, p.4:8-28);

(2) whether, even if there was no actual abandonment, Debtor gave the impression of abandonment, thus

(a) making any alleged violation of the (subsequent) automatic stay not "willful" because Westrux International, Inc. ("Westrux") reasonably believed that no stay applied to abandoned property (see id.), thereby precluding compensatory damages including attorney fees, and/or

(b) making any violation of the stay not malicious, oppressive, or undertaken with reckless disregard for Debtor's rights, thereby precluding any punitive damages (see dkt.52, p.7:19-28 and p.8:1-19), and

(c) making any subsequent change of heart by Debtor, and his demand for return of the vehicle, irrelevant unless and until there is a final ruling that there was not actually an abandonment, at which point Westrux would then know that the stay does apply so, from that point forward, it would have to turn over the vehicle (see dkt.59, pp.3:14-4:7 and p.5:1-28);

(3) whether Movant has no lien because it did not apply for authorization to conduct a lien sale or to file a court action within 45 days (30 + 15 days) after the work was completed (Cal. Civ. C. 3068(a)&(b)) (see dkt.59, pp.2:3-3:13), or if Westrux's attempts to contact Debtor and address the bill with him, and Debtor's lack of response, has any effect on that deadline (see dkt.52, pp.2:11-3:10 and 4:14-6:19); and

Tentative Ruling:

Continue to 10/24/19 at 8:30 a.m. to address the following issues.
Appearances are not required on 9/19/19.

Current issues

(1) Omnibus objection

Debtors' objections (dkt. 29) address five separate proofs of claim. Debtors appear to be attempting to come within Rule 3007(d)(6)&(e) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). Debtors have not made a sufficient showing of grounds justifying the needs for an omnibus objection. Therefore, Debtors must file and serve separate claim objections for each proof of claim.

(2) Grounds for objection

Debtors object to the five proofs of claim on the grounds that they are not entitled to a presumption of validity because they do not contain sufficient documentation. Dkt. 29 at PDF p.3. Debtors cite to Rule 3001(c)(2) (D), but that rule only applies, by its terms, when "the holder of a claim fails to provide any information required by this subdivision (c)." Debtors have not specified how the claimants have allegedly failed to provide the information required by Rule 3001(c).

Moreover, it is not enough to say that there is insufficient writing for prima facie validity under Rule 3001(f). As stated by this Court in its Memorandum Decision Regarding Debtor's Claim Objections in In re Orozco, available on the court's website:

It is true that under Rule 3001(f) a proof of claim must be "executed and filed in accordance with these rules" in order to automatically "constitute prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim." But a rule cannot supersede a statute, and as held by the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel for the Ninth Circuit ("BAP"), an objecting party must do more than simply point to a lack of compliance with Rule 3001 in order to obtain an order disallowing a claim: the objecting party must establish an actual basis to contest the liability or amount of the claim. See In re Campbell, 336 B.R. 430 (9th Cir. BAP 2005); In re Heath, 331 B.R. 424 (9th Cir. BAP 2005). See also Travelers Cas. & Sur. Co. of Am. V. Pac. Gas & Elec. Co., 549 U.S. 443, 449 (2007) ("the court 'shall allow' the claim 'except to the extent that' the claim implicates any of the nine exceptions enumerated in § 502(b)") (quoting the statute). [2:13-bk-15745-NB, dkt. 134 at p.5:8-19]

(3) Lack of cost/benefit analysis. The posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) provide:

§ 502: claim objections & cost/benefit analysis. When objecting to claims, be sure to include an analysis of whether the costs of preparing and litigating the claim objection (administrative expenses) do not exceed the anticipated benefits (reductions in claims). For example, if the anticipated dividend is small or 0% then the attorney fees incurred in prosecuting your claim objection to any general unsecured claim probably will exceed the benefit to the bankruptcy estate/debtor, so filing that objection would be a waste of the bankruptcy estate's (and everyone else's) resources (unless, for example, the claim is nondischargeable, in which event the attorney fees might well be justified).

No later than 7 days after the date of this hearing the movant must file either:

(1) a supplemental declaration explaining why the attorney fees for this objection are justified (including supporting evidence, such as a copy of the plan showing the projected dividend to the claimant, and a calculation comparing that projected dividend against the attorney fees related to this claim objection), or

(2) a withdrawal of the claim objection.

No fees on this matter, absent specific authorization. Counsel is directed not to charge any fees on this matter (including all past, present and future work related to this claim objection), and to return any fees received on this matter, unless and until this Court expressly finds: "Counsel has provided a cost/benefit analysis that is sufficient for purposes of Judge Bason's posted Procedures regarding claim objections." It is counsel's responsibility to include the quoted phrase, if warranted, in the proposed order on this claim objection.

This Court does not have the capacity to monitor all fee applications to assure compliance with the foregoing limitation on fees. But if counsel is found to have disregarded this limitation then this Court may impose sanctions.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Analysis

(1) Although Debtor's attorney has failed to provide a cost/benefit analysis, this Court has exercised its discretion, in view of the extremely high interest rate asserted, to review that issue, and based on Debtor's proposed 100% chapter 13 plan (dkt. 16) it appears that the cost/benefit analysis is satisfied. In future, however, Debtor's attorney is cautioned to provide a cost/benefit analysis.

Analysis

(1) Although Debtor's attorney has failed to provide a cost/benefit analysis, this Court has exercised its discretion, in view of the extremely high interest rate asserted, to review that issue, and based on Debtor's proposed 100% chapter 13 plan (dkt. 16) it appears that the cost/benefit analysis is satisfied. In future, however, Debtor's attorney is cautioned to provide a cost/benefit analysis.

(2) Based on the motion, the proof of service, and this Court's review of the Opposition (dkt. 40), the Reply (dkt. 41), and those facts that are undisputed (as well as facts and circumstances that the parties have elected not to address), the tentative ruling is that Debtor has established a prima facie showing that the 180.58% interest rate is both procedurally and substantively unconscionable under De La Torre v. CashCall, Inc., 5 Cal.5th 966 (2018), and that the claimant has failed to rebut that prima facie showing.

This Bankruptcy Court is mindful that the courts must tread carefully in the area of interest rates, and this tentative ruling should not be misunderstood to mean that the 180.58% interest rate is per se unconscionable. This Bankruptcy Court is also mindful of the fact that either party might request (i) an evidentiary hearing or (ii) the opportunity to submit affidavits. The tentative ruling is that, in the absence of any such request, it is appropriate to determine unconscionability on the record presented, without further declarations or affidavits. Even if one or both parties were to request an evidentiary hearing, the tentative ruling is that such a hearing would be an inappropriate burden on the bankruptcy estate, that would prejudice other creditors, and that an evidentiary hearing is not warranted because the inevitable expense of attorney fees (not to mention any expert witnesses or other expenses) far exceed the dollar value for either side of this dispute. See generally In re Nicholson, 435 B.R. 622, 635-36 (9th Cir. Analysis

(1) Although Debtor's attorney has failed to provide a cost/benefit analysis, this Court has exercised its discretion, in view of the extremely high interest rate asserted, to review that issue, and based on Debtor's proposed 100% chapter 13 plan (dkt. 16) it appears that the cost/benefit analysis is satisfied. In future, however, Debtor's attorney is cautioned to provide a cost/benefit analysis.

(2) Based on the motion, the proof of service, and the lack of opposition, the tentative ruling is to grant the motion. See Posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Chapter 13

#12.00 Hrg re: Application for Compensation of Debtor's Attorney [Brad Weil]

Docket 51

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part and deny in part as set forth below, with a caveat: see below.
Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Declaration of Brad Weil in support of Motion for Fees Pursuant to LBR 3015-1(v) (dkt. 56)

Reasons:

Based upon Debtor's counsel's declaration, allow $2,675.00 in fees and disallow $700.00 of counsel's requested fees.

Caveat:

Mr. Weil states that in future, instead of applying for a "no look" fee for an opposition that was never filed, he will file an opposition and attach a copy of the docket showing that such an opposition was filed. Dkt.56, p.3, para.7. This is a satisfactory solution if it is efficient for the estate, all parties in interest, and this Court, as explained below.

First, the whole point of this hearing is to assure that fees are being charged in compliance with the applicable statute, rules, and procedures, and that Mr. Weil is not over-billing the bankruptcy estate. Therefore this Court presumes that Mr. Weil's proposed solution means that he will only file an opposition if one is actually warranted. For example, if the Chapter 13 Trustee's motion to dismiss can be resolved with a telephone call or email that takes 0.2 hours, it would be wasteful either (a) to spend 0.6 hours, and bill at an hourly rate, for preparing and filing an opposition, communicating the the Trustee, reviewing the Trustee's withdrawal of the motion, etc., or (b) to bill the flat fee for a service (filing an opposition) that was unnecessary. (Mr. Weil could bill at an hourly rate for the 0.2 hours, of course: he just can't bill at either a flat rate or an hourly rate for services that were not performed or were unnecessary.)

Second, this Court presumes that Mr. Weil will implement his proposed solution in a way that does not unduly burden parties or this Court. For example, if he attaches a copy of the docket it should be marked to show the relevant entries, rather than requiring parties or this Court to search for those entries; and if the docket is multiple pages but only one page is relevant, then Mr. Weil should attach only that one page.

Subject to the foregoing, and further subject to any modifications that might be required in future, Mr. Weil's proposed solution appears to be appropriate.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #13.00 Cont'd order to show cause why Synchrony and Cir Law Firm should not be sanctioned for violating the automatic stay and/or co-debtor stay
fr. 4/18/19, 6/13/19; 07/18/19

Docket 33

Tentative Ruling:

Revised Tentative Ruling for 9/19/19:

Award actual damages, including a $225 filing fee and slightly reduced attorney fees, in the amount of $23,625 to date, plus ongoing attorney fees and expenses, and deny Debtor's request for punitive damages and the countervailing request for an award of costs under Rule 7068 (Fed.R.Bankr.P.) by Synchrony Bank ("Synchrony") and CIR Law Offices International, LLP ("CIR") (collectively "Creditors"). Appearances required.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Current issues

(1) Liability issues and emotional damages

At prior hearings this Court ruled that Creditors had a choice: if they elected to reopen the "liability issues" then Debtor could reopen the emotional distress issues. See Order Continuing Hearing And Memorializing Rulings (dkt. 51). Creditors elected not to reopen the liability issues, so Debtor is entitled to an award of actual damages, and the remaining issues are the dollar amount of attorney fees to award, and whether to award punitive damages.

(2) Actual damages, apart from attorney fees

As set forth in the Order Continuing Hearing, this Court's ruling is to award Debtor $225 under section 362(k), payable to Debtor, for her filing fee

Chapter 13

(3) Attorney fees

The tentative ruling is to award Debtor's Counsel $23,625 of the requested $24,660 fees for the following reasons, subject to any additional fees approved by this Court for work done in preparation for this 9/19/19 hearing.

This Court agrees with Synchrony (dkt 57, p.16), and Debtor's counsel does not contest (dkt.59, p.6:18-22), that attorney rates should not be billed for administrative tasks. Therefore this Court has reduced Debtor's counsel's fees in accordance with Synchrony's objections for the following entires:

2/21/2019 - $225 reduction,
3/25/2019 - $135 reduction,
4/20/2019 - $180 reduction,
5/1/2019 - $90 reduction,
5/31/2019 - $135 reduction,
6/20/2019 - $90 reduction,
6/24/2019 - $180 reduction.

Total: -$1035

But this Court disagrees with Synchrony's proposed reductions for "inadequate description" of reserach conducted and work conducted re mediation. While Debtor's counsel could have provided more detailed descriptions of what was being researched, this Court is familiar with the papers submitted my Debtor's counsel and what reserach would need to be conducted in order to prepare those papers and attend mediation.

The parties essentially accuse each other other not participating in the mediation in good faith. This Court is not persuaded that it is permissible to delve into what did or did not happen in mediation, and even if it were permissible this Court is not persuaded that it is appropriate. Alternatively, based on all parties' descriptions of what happened in connnection with the mediation, this Court is not persuaded that anything described by the parties warrants, on the one hand, punitive damages or, on the other hand, any reduction of Debtor's counsel's fees for this work.

Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to disallow $1,035 out of the total $24,660 requested by Debtor's counsel, for a net award of $23,625 (i.e., $24,660 - $1,035 = $23,625). This Court contemplates that, after the continued hearing and discovery matters set forth below, this Court will set deadlines for Debtor's counsel to file a supplemental fee application, Creditors to respond, and Debtor to reply.

(4) Punitive damages

To state a claim for punitive damages Debtor must show "reckless or callous disregard of the law or rights of others." In re Bloom, 875 F.2d 224, 228 (9th Cir. 1989). The tentative ruling is that the evidence is insufficient to establish this level of conduct by Synchrony and CIR, and that it is not appropriate to provide further opportunity to attempt to discover and produce such evidence.

(a) Evidentiary objections

Debtor objects (dkt.59, pp.9:25-10:5) to the declaration of Synchrony's Manager of Litigation Support, Martha Koehler, that it "failed to code Non-Filer's individual accounts for Bankruptcy" and "[u]nfortunately, these accounts were then placed with CIR for collection." Debtor objects that, "to the extent that Ms Koehler is declaring evidence of 'Synchrony's process,' that evidence lacks foundation and is inadmissible hearsay (Federal Rules of Evidence 802), as well as a violation of the Best Evidence Rule. Federal Rules of Evidence 1004." Id. (emphasis added).

The tentative ruling is to overrule this evidentiary objection. Ms. Koehler's declaration states:

In my position, I am familiar with Synchrony's bankruptcy processes and routinely review information and records received and created in the normal course of business regarding Synchrony's credit card accounts. The facts stated herein are true and correct and based upon my own personal knowledge and/or upon my personal review of Synchrony's business records pertinent to this matter. [Dkt.57, p.2:10-15 (emphasis added)]

The tentative ruling is that Ms. Koehler, in her position as Manager of Litigation Support, has established a sufficient basis for personal knowledge about Synchrony's process regarding how accounts are supposed to be coded.

Note: It is important to distinguish personal knowledge from reliance on business records, including the records of how Debtor's husband's account was coded in Synchrony's records. On the latter issue Ms. Koehler's declaration might not satisfy Rule 803(6) (Fed. R. Evid.), because it does not state that the relevant records were "made at or near the time" of the event at issue (and it does not track the other language of Rule 803(6)). But Debtor has not objected to Synchrony's evidence on that issue (perhaps because it is an admission of Synchrony's mis-coding).

As for the "best evidence" objection, it is true that, if Synchrony has a written policy regarding its process for bankruptcy coding, the best evidence of such a policy would be a written copy. But the tentative ruling is that Ms. Koehler's personal knowledge about how Synchrony actually handles bankruptcy related matters is actually more relevant, and the fact that it has elected either not to have a written policy or not to provide a copy of any such policy goes to the weight, not the admissibility, of Ms. Koehler's declaration regarding Synchrony's policies. So the tentative ruling is to overrule the "best records" objection as well.

As noted below, there are additional evidentiary issues regarding a lack of evidence on some issues that appear to be essential to the elements of any punitive damages award. Those issues will be discussed separately, in connection with the tentative ruling not to continue this hearing.

(b) Synchrony and CIR processes

Theoretically, the processes described by Synchrony and CIR appear to show appropriate safeguards against violation of the automatic stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a). Synchrony has presented evidence that its process in community property states is to code the non-debtor's spouse to cease collection attempts, that that it inadvertently failed to do so on this occasion. Dkt.57, p.3, para.5-6. CIR has presented evidence that it relies on Synchrony's coding, and that in addition its attorney conducted numerous bankruptcy "scrubs" to determine if the non-Debtor spouse was in bankruptcy.

The problem for Synchrony and CIR is that those systems failed in this case. The question is whether that reflects a "reckless or callous disregard of the law or rights of others." Bloom, 875 F.2d 224, 228.

Note: Synchrony asserts that Debtor's creditor matrix apparently used Synchrony's billing address rather than its addresses for correspondence or service of process, but Synchrony has not shown how that is relevant. It clearly knew of the bankruptcy case because it filed a proof of claim. The issue is not whether it knew of Debtor's bankruptcy case, but whether it ceased collection activity against Debtor's non-debtor spouse. On that issue, Synchrony admits that it failed to code the account of Debtor's spouse for bankruptcy. So, again, the issue is whether the failure of Synchrony's system in this case establishes grounds for punitive damages.

(c) Letters from Synchrony/CIR to Debtor

Debtor asserts that she received collection letters. Creditors respond that the only letters in evidence are directed to Debtor's attorney, not Debtor (or her non-debtor husband) directly.

The tentative ruling is that this issue cannot be determined without an evidentiary hearing, or at least affidavits, but for purposes of the following discussion this Court is not persuaded that there is any significant difference, insofar as the punitive damages analysis is concerned, between letters sent directly to a debtor and non-debtor spouse and letters sent to an attorney who passes them along to a debtor and non-debtor spouse. Either way, the debtor and non-debtor spouse have the anxiety and stress of ongoing collection efforts despite the relief that they hoped and expected to obtain through the bankruptcy case.

(d) Letters from Debtor's counsel to CIR

More troubling is the issue of letters from Debtor's counsel to CIR and its attorney. Dkt.33, Ex.E. Both CIR and its attorney assert that they have no record of receiving those letters. Debtor's counsel is adamant that those letters were sent, and he points to a number of other aspects of this litigation that, he asserts, show a lack of credibility by Creditors and a pattern of conduct by Creditors that supports sanctions. Among other things, he points to the following.

Debtor's counsel points to a letter from CIR's counsel to this Court about whether this Court should post a tentative ruling (CIR's counsel lists Debtor's counsel as a "cc" on that letter, but Debtor's counsel asserts that he never received such a copy and only discovered the communication through this Court's NEF system). Debtor's counsel also points to a disagreement about the scope of mediation: whether it should include liability, or just the questions of attorney fees and punitive damages. Debtor's counsel and Creditors also exchange accusations concerning the participation in mediation.

The tentative ruling is that credibility issues cannot be determined without an evidentiary hearing. That leads to the question of whether this Court should continue this matter and hold an evidentiary hearing, and perhaps for discovery in preparation for such a hearing.

Chapter 13

(e) Whether to continue this matter

One consideration that would support a continuance is CIR's assertion that an essential element of any punitive damages award is Creditors' financial resources (because someone who has substantial resources might not be deterred from its misconduct by a small punitive sanction). But the tentative ruling is that CIR's argument goes to the dollar amount of any punitive damages, which this Court intended to address separately, only after determining whether or not any award of punitive damages is appropriate.

There is no evidence in the record about whether Synchrony or CIR have a pattern of similar behavior in other cases. The tentative ruling is that the time for Debtor to have presented such evidence would have been in connection with its briefing for this hearing, and the question is whether to reopen the briefing on that issue and permit discovery.

The tentative ruling is not to do so, partly because (A) deadlines generally should be enforced, and partly because (B) the cost and burden of discovery for all parties - and for the bankruptcy estate - likely exceeds the potential benefits. In assessing the latter issue (cost/benefit) this Court considers what punitive damages might be awarded if (x) Creditors were found to have received the letters that Debtor's counsel sent to CIR, (y) Creditors were found to have a pattern of violating the automatic stay when dealing with non-debtor spouses, and to have been reckless or callous regarding the law or rights of others (Bloom, 875 F.2d 224, 228) in their coding and other procedures, and (z) Creditors were found to have substantial financial resources. Even in that situation, this Court does not anticipate that punitive damages, including attorney fees, would be much greater than the latest Rule 7068 offer made by Creditors (see below), because the principal issue in awarding punitive damages would be Creditors' misconduct and the resulting harm in this case, and the tentative ruling is that such misconduct and harm, while not insignificant, is not of a type that would warrant very large punitive damages.

This Court is not minimizing the stress, anxiety, sleeplessness, shortness of breath, concerns about heart problems, and other effects that Debtor and her husband appear to have suffered. But nor does this Court minimize that many debtors in bankruptcy face comparable stresses and anxieties: this Court takes judicial notice that debtors often face the prospect of losing their home, or losing their vehicle that is their means of earning a living and visiting loved ones and doing essential errands from medical visits to grocery shopping, and much, much more.

For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that there is not a sufficient basis to reopen the briefing regarding punitive damages, and to permit discovery. In addition, the tentative ruling is that on the present record there is not a sufficient basis for punitive damages.

(5) Settlement Offer under Rule 68 (Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Rule 7068, Fed.R. Bankr.P.)

Creditors point to evidence that they made an initial offer and then an increased offer (of $50,000) under Rule 68. Debtor objects (among other things) that Rule 68 only applies in adversary proceedings. Dkt.59, pp.20:22-21:2. The tentative ruling is that this is so.

Rule 7068 provides that "Rule 68 F.R.Civ.P. applies in adversary proceedings." Rule 9014(c) lists which rules in Part VII apply to contested matters, and Rule 7068 is not among the listed rules. True, Rule 9014(c) also states that the bankruptcy court may, at any stage in a particular matter, "direct that one or more of the other rules in Part VII shall apply," but only after reasonable notice and an opportunity to comply. Creditors never requested that this Court issue an order directing that Rule 7068 apply, so it is inapplicable.

(6) Conclusion

For the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is to award $23,850 at this time (the $225 filing fee + $23,625 attorney fees to date) and to set a deadline of 10/4/19 for Debtor to file and serve a supplemental declaration with all remaining attorney fees and anticipated fees, a deadline of 10/11/19 for any response, a deadlin of 10/18/19 for any reply, and a hearing on 10/24/19 at 8:30 a.m. to resolve that final piece of this dispute.

fr. 8/15/19

Docket 25

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 9/19/19:

Grant (sustain the objection to Quantum3 Group LLC's Claim No. 11).

Appearances are not required.

This Court expressly finds that Counsel has provided a cost/benefit analysis (dkt. 28) that is sufficient for purposes of Judge Bason's posted Procedures regarding claim objections, so any limitation on fees in the prior tentative ruling on this matter is hereby vacated.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 8/15/19:

Continue to 9/19/19 at 8:30 a.m. to address the following issues.

Appearances are not required on 8/15/19.

Lack of cost/benefit analysis. The posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) provide:

§ 502: claim objections & cost/benefit analysis. When objecting to claims, be sure to include an analysis of whether the costs of preparing and litigating the claim objection (administrative expenses) do not exceed the anticipated benefits (reductions in claims). For example, if the anticipated dividend is small or 0% then the attorney fees incurred in prosecuting your claim objection to any general unsecured claim probably will exceed the benefit to the bankruptcy estate/debtor, so filing that objection would be a waste of the bankruptcy estate's (and everyone else's) resources (unless, for example, the claim is nondischargeable, in which event the attorney fees might well be justified).

No later than 7 days after the date of this hearing the movant must file either:

(1) a supplemental declaration explaining why the attorney fees for this objection are justified (including supporting evidence, such as a copy of the plan showing the projected dividend to the claimant, and a calculation comparing that projected dividend against the attorney fees related to this claim objection), or

(2) a withdrawal of the claim objection.

No fees on this matter, absent specific authorization. Counsel is directed not to charge any fees on this matter (including all past, present and future work related to this claim objection), and to return any fees received on this matter, unless and until this Court expressly finds: "Counsel has provided a cost/benefit analysis that is sufficient for purposes of Judge Bason's posted Procedures regarding claim objections." It is counsel's responsibility to include the quoted phrase, if warranted, in the proposed order on this claim objection.

This Court does not have the capacity to monitor all fee applications to assure compliance with the foregoing limitation on fees. But if counsel is found to have disregarded this limitation then this Court may impose sanctions.

The tentative ruling is that this Court has no authority to require a lender (if they timely object) to enter into a loan modification, participate in a loan modification program, or even explain their reasons for denial of a prior requested loan modification. fr. 08/20/19

Tentative Ruling:

Continue the motion to 10/24/19 at 8:30 a.m., to be heard concurrently with the Trustee's contemplated objection to Ann's claim of exemption in "tools of the trade," unless that matter is mooted by an increase in the bid price.
Appearances required.

Analysis:

This motion to sell assets under 11 U.S.C. 363(b) and (f)(2) and (f) (4) is brought by the Chapter 7 Trustee (the "Trustee") of the estate of Antoinette Elisa Galvan ("Ann," Case No. 2:16-bk-24753-NB). The Trustee is also acting, for these purposes, on behalf of the chapter 13 estate of Ann's twin sister Gloria Galvan ("Gloria," Case No. 2:16-bk-24755-NB) (see GloriaDkt. 65, 76). The Trustee has filed the sale motion in both cases. AnnDkt.154, 163; GloriaDkt.191, 207.

(1) Background

Prepetition Ann and Gloria operated an online images business (the "Business"), which included selling T-shirts relating to breast cancer emblazoned with the slogan, "Fight Like A Girl." The business was operated through the sisters' entity, Hope Inspired Creations, LLC (referred to herein as "Creations," and referred to by the Trustee as "HIC").

Competitor TSDC, LLC ("TSDC") sued the sisters for trademark infringement and other claims. There was a 2018 settlement but the parties had protracted disputes about whether it had been breached. See

Eventually the sisters removed various images of their products from their online sales websites and, on November 1, 2016 they dissolved Creations. The parties disagree whether (a) Ann is now the sole owner of the Business and/or its assets or (b) each sister owns 50%.

The Trustee argues that both Ann and Gloria testified under oath, at their respective meetings of creditors (11 U.S.C. 341(a)), that the Business was transferred to Ann. The sisters apparently take the position that the Trustee misunderstands, and that Ann only received 100% of the post-dissolution revenues (allegedly because Ann was running the business while Gloria was too busy to do so as a paralegal) and the ownership of the business and/or its assets (collectively, the "Business") was divided 50% to Gloria and 50% to Ann. See AnnDkt.168, pp.2:12-3:28 (Trustee's Reply, quoting 341(a) testimony) and compare AnnDkt..165 (Ann's Opposition).

In any event, a few days after dissolving Creations, on November 7, 2016 Ann and Gloria each filed a voluntary chapter 7 bankruptcy petition. Gloria's bankruptcy case was converted to chapter 13 on January 26, 2017, after the United States Trustee ("UST") objected that undisclosed income violated the "means test." See AnnDkt.168, p.5:6-11 (citing GloriaDkt.15, 23).

Just recently, on 9/13/19, this Court issued an order (GloriaDkt.212) approving a settlement agreement between both sisters and TSDC (the "Settlement," GloriaDkt.205, Ex.2). The Settlement provides (among other things) that the sisters will cease using the phrase "Fight Like A Girl" or any similar phrase in the marketing or sale of any goods worldwide, but that nothing in the settlement agreement shall prevent them from "receiving the proceeds or being credited with the sale of any of [their] designs by the Chapter 7 or Chapter 13 trustees," provided that if their "designs are returned to [them], the designs shall be destroyed" GloriaDkt.205, Ex.2, p.3, para.3(h) & 5.

Meanwhile TSDC has reached an agreement with the Trustee to purchase all intellectual property and all social media accounts, websites, and related assets of the Business (the "Assets") from Ann's bankruptcy estate for $45,000. AnnDkt.163, Ex.1. Ann and Gloria have each filed objections (AnnDkt.165, GloriaDkt.209).

(2) The sisters' objections

Both sisters argue that the Settlement "relates only to 'Fight Like A Girl' trademarks" and "TSDC is attempting to purchase not only items related to 'Fight Like A Girl' but every design that [Gloria] and [Ann] have ever created." AnnDkt.165, p.4:3-12. According to the sisters, the "Fight Like A Girl" assets "only generated approximately 7% of the overall revenue" of the Business. GloriaDkt.209, p.4:22-27, AnnDkt.165, p.4:8-10. They assert that they still have rights in, and have exempted, the non-Settlement portion of the Assets.

Chapter 7

The next step in the sisters' argument is that a bankruptcy trustee "may not sell the [Assets] for less than the amount exempted" by a debtor, citing In re Clark, 266 B.R. 163, 172 (9th Cir. BAP 2001). GloriaDkt.165, p.4:22-24. See also AnnDkt.209, p.4:15-27.

Note: The sisters do not dispute that, if the proceeds of the sale to be received by their respective bankruptcy estates were to exceed their respective exemptions, then the sale could be approved. See, e.g., In re Reilly, 130 S.Ct. 2652, 2657 (2010) (estate can "recover value in the asset beyond the dollar value the debtor expressly declares as exempt"); In re Gebhart, 621 F.3d 1206, 1211 (9th Cir. 2010) (estate can sell property that is fully covered by exemption as of petition date, to obtain postpetition appreciation for benefit of estate); In re Fuentes, 687 Fed. Appx. 542, 544 (9th Cir. 2017) (exemption is not absolute right to property itself, "[r]ather, it is a debtor's right to retain a certain sum of money when the court orders sale of [the property in which the exemption is claimed]") (internal quotations and citation omitted).

The sisters then calculate that, "[a]ll together, the $45,000.00 offer by TSDC and the $7,952.23 from monthly sales collected to date by the Trustee total $52,952.23, of which the estates of [Gloria] and [Ann] are entitled to $50% each, or $26,476.11." GloriaDkt.209, pp.3:24-4:1; AnnDkt.165,p.4:14-18. The sisters assert that Ann's exemptions equal or exceed this $26,476.11, so under Clark the Assets may not be sold.

Note: The sisters' inclusion of the $7,952.23 in receipts held by the Trustee appears to be an acknowledgment that (a) their claimed exemptions cover both the Assets proposed to be sold to TSDC and those receipts held by the Trustee so (b) in determining whether the proposed sale will result in any net proceeds for the estate, the $7,952.23 must be deducted.

Note: It is not entirely clear if the sisters are making the same argument with respect to Gloria's exemptions. Gloria argues (GloriaDkt.209,pp.5:-6:5) that the Assets cannot be sold because Ann's exemptions (in the 50% of the Assets that Ann claims) equal or exceed 50% of the proposed purchase price of the Assets, so there is no equity for Ann's estate. But in her conclusion Gloria appears to argue (GloriaDkt.209, p.6:7-14) that there will not be sufficient proceeds from the sale to pay her own exemptions, so the sale motion must be denied.

(3) The Trustee's reply

The Trustee argues that, in connection with the prepetition dissolution of Creations (aka HIC), the Business was transferred solely to Ann. The Trustee cites both Ann's and Gloria's 341(a) testimony. The Trustee then argues that Ann's exemptions are less than the sale price so the Assets can be sold.

The Trustee argues in the alternative that the Trustee plans to object to Ann's purported "tools of the trade" exemption in the intellectual property included in the Assets. See AnnDkt.168, pp.11:8-13:9. The Trustee argues that this will reduce "the amount owed to Ann on account of her exemptions to $23,758.00, which is less than the amount Ann's estate would be entitled to $26,514.25, even if Gloria's Estate were able to prove its claim to 50% of the Assets. AnnDkt.268, p.13:2-9 (emphasis in original).

Alternatively, the Trustee argues that Ann and Gloria engaged in various misconduct:

(a) Sabotaging the value of the Assets: The sisters purportedly hid the online images of the Business's goods which "deliberately sabotaged" the value of the Assets in an attempt to persuade the Trustee to abandon the Assets to Ann (Ann dkt.168, pp.4:1-5:4 and p.10:26).

(b) Ann hiding income: Ann allegedly "had been improperly retaining postpetition income from the Assets that had trickled into some of her bank accounts despite the Sisters' efforts to 'hide' most of the online images," (id., p.9:17-22).

(c) Gloria hiding income: Gloria allegedly intentionally omitted her "highly compensated" employment from her "means test" in an attempt to qualify for chapter 7 (id., p.5:6-11).

The Trustee appears to be arguing that the sisters should be estopped to assert that Gloria owns 50% of the Business. Alternatively, the Trustee may be asserting that there is some basis for surcharging the claimed exemptions.

(4) Good or bad faith

The Trustee seeks a "good faith" finding under 11 U.S.C. 363(m). The sisters argue that TSDC is acting in bad faith because it has provided "misleading information about [Gloria and Ann] and [Creations]" in an attempt to "obfuscate the value of the [Assets]" and, perhaps as a result, the Trustee did not actively manage the Assets to generate substantial income. AnnDkt.165, pp.5:25-6:20.

(5) Analysis

(a) Standing

This Court has an independent duty to examine standing. Gloria, as a chapter 13 debtor, ordinarily would have, "exclusive of the [chapter 13 trustee], the rights and powers of a trustee under sections 363(b) ... [and] 363(f)" 11 U.S.C. 1303 (emphasis added). But notice of the motion to approve the stipulation allowing the Trustee to manage the Business, and the hearing thereon, was served on Gloria (GloriaDkt.67, 68). Therefore the tentative ruling is that the Trustee has standing to bring the Motion, even if Gloria's bankruptcy estate has a 50% interest in the Business.

(b) Whether Gloria's bankruptcy estate has a 50% interest in the Business and/or its assets

The tentative ruling is that the Trustee has not established a sufficient basis to estop the sisters from asserting that each of them owns a 50% interest in the Business (including the Assets proposed to be sold). The Trustee's own summary of the sisters' bankruptcy schedules shows that they have consistently asserted that 50% ownership interest. See GloriaDkt.211, p.5:15-9:16. The Trustee's excerpts from their 341(a) testimony is consistent with assigning 100% of the revenues/profits of the Business to Ann, because she was running the business while Gloria was focusing on her paralegal employment, and each sister retained a 50% ownership interest in the underlying Business. See AnnDkt.168, pp.2:12-3:28 (Trustee's Reply, quoting 341(a) testimony). That is not the only possible reading of the testimony, and it may have been somewhat misleading, but for purposes of this sale motion it is not enough to establish that Ann owns 100% of the

Business (and therefore 100% of Assets - what is proposed to be sold).

(c) Calculations

Based on the foregoing, the tentative ruling is that the Trustee must establish that each Debtor has less than $26,514.25 in allowable exemptions, or alternatively the sale price would have to be increased. The two sets of exemptions are examined separately.

Ann's current (2/28/18) relevant exemptions (summarized AnnDkt.168, p.8:11-16) appear to be as follows:

$23,758.00 50% interest in the Business and/or its assets
$ 8,000.00 "tools of trade"
$31,758.00

Gloria's current (April and June 2017) relevant exemptions (summarized dkt.168, p.8:11-16) appear to be as follows:

$ 8,000.00 14 registered copyrights
$ 300.00 50% interest in 3 licensed images from 3d parties
$ 1,250.00 50% of 23 internet domains
$ 0.00 dormant online stores
$ 8,000.00 "tools of trade," 50% of ribbon design business
$17,550.00

Based on these dollar amounts, the tentative ruling is that Clark does not affect the Trustee's ability to sell the 50% interest in the Assets (apparently) held by Gloria's bankruptcy estate, but Clark prevents the Trustee from selling the 50% interest in the Assets (apparently) held by Ann's bankruptcy estate, unless (a) the Trustee prevails in the contemplated objection to Ann's "tools of the trade" exemption and/or (b) the bid is increased enough to moot Ann's objection.

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Retroactive relief

Deny the request for retroactive annulment of the stay because Judge Bason is not prepared to issue a blanket annulment with respect to whatever unspecified things might have occurred postpetition.

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

As to the requested relief that will remain effective notwithstanding any future bankruptcy case, continue the motion to the date and time set forth at the start of this tentative ruling, for service on the persons who executed the documents through which the movant asserts its interest in the property (sometimes referred to in the mortgage context as the "original borrower"). Reasons: See LBR 4001-1(c)(1)(B). In addition, Judge Bason has due process concerns about granting such relief without service on the person(s) whose interests may be most directly affected. See generally Mullane v. Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co., 339 U.S. 306 (1950) (due process generally). In this matter, such persons appear to include: Cesar Amador.

Option for shortened time: This Court has selected a continued hearing date that contemplates shortened notice (per Rule 9006) but that date is conditioned on the movant (i) serving, on the day after the current hearing date, the motion papers and notice of the continued hearing date, and (ii) filing that notice and a proof of service no later than the next day. Alternatively, the movant may self-calendar a continued hearing on regular notice.

Option for interim/partial order: Movant may elect to lodge a proposed order granting the partial relief provided in this tentative ruling, but any such order must recite that a continued hearing has been set to consider additional relief (or, alternatively, that the movant no longer seeks additional relief and the Clerk's office is requested and directed to take the continued hearing off calendar).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling:

Deny. Appearances required to address whether the case should be dismissed (see Judge Bason's Procedures, posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov, then search for "362(c)(3)").

Proposed order: Movant is directed to serve and lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Reasons: The motion was not timely set for hearing in accordance with 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3)(B) (providing that "on the motion of a party in interest for continuation of the automatic stay and upon notice and a hearing, the court may extend the stay in particular cases as to any or all creditors . . . after notice and a hearing completed before the expiration of the 30 day period [after the petition date, i.e., 8/16/19 + 30 days]." (emphasis added)).

Debtor originally attempted to self-calendar the motion for 9/19/19 (which is not a date on which these types of motions ordinarily are heard), but even that date would have been more than 30 days after the petition date. The tentative ruling is that none of the foregoing is intended to be with prejudice to Debtor (a) seeking and obtaining confirmation of a chapter 13 plan - which, if accomplished, may bind creditors and prevent them from taking acts to collect prepetition debts as long as Debtor continues to perform under the plan, or (b) filing another chapter 13 case and seeking and obtaining imposition of the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(4) (assuming without deciding that this would be the appropriate type of relief).

No attorney fees: This Court presumes that counsel for the debtor will not charge any fees for the time spent on this motion (because counsel knew or

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions. Appearances are not required.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

#15.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order
Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic
Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 7

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions, and subject to any proper response (due 9/19/19). Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 9/24/19:

Appearances required. At the prior hearing, this Court was persuaded to grant a continuance for a possible adequate protection stipulation. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address (a) whether the alleged arrears have been brought current and/or (b) whether they will agree to the terms of an adequate protection order.

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

#3.00 Status conference re: Complaint to determine non-dischargeability of debt pursuant to 11 U.S.C. section 523(a)(6) and 11 U.S.C. section 727(c)

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures"). This Court has reviewed Plaintiff's unilateral status report (adv. dkt. 11) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order entitled "Order On Initial Status Conference" via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling.

Preliminary matters: continuance

Plaintiff's Status Report notes (a) that a Clerk's Default was entered in this case on 8/20/19 (adv. dkt. 9) and (b) that she will either seek relief from the automatic stay to proceed with defamation actions in nonbankruptcy court and/or seek a default judgment in this adversary proceeding. The tentative ruling is to continue this Status Conference as set forth below, at which time this Court can assess what progress has been made on those issues. Note: In addition, this Court will hold a Status Conference concurrent with any other hearing in this adversary proceeding (including any self-calendared hearings).

Standard matters

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 9/24/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures"). The parties should be prepared to discuss the following issues:

(1) No Status Report

Again, the parties have not filed a Joint Status Report. Why not?

(2) Efforts to finalize settlement

The 4/18/19 status report (adv.dkt.19) reports that this matter has settled. But the dockets in this adversary proceeding and in the associated bankruptcy case still do not reflect any steps to finalize the settlement (e.g., a motion in this adversary proceeding to approve a stipulated judgment, and/or a status report regarding the status of settlement payments and a suggested date to continue this matter, and/or if necessary a motion in the bankruptcy case to approve a settlement per Rule 9019, Fed. R. Bankr. P.). Why not? This adversary proceeding has been pending since 6/22/18.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 7/30/19:

Continue to 9/19/19 at 11:00 a.m., with a brief status report due 9/5/19 addressing whether the required settlement payments have been made, and any other issues regarding the parties' settlement (as reported at the status conference on 6/4/19). Appearances are not required on 7/30/19.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 6/4/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

The parties are directed to address why the docket does not reflect any steps to finalize their reported settlement (e.g., a motion in this adversary proceeding to approve a stipulated judgment, and/or if necessary a motion in the bankruptcy case to approve a settlement per Rule 9019, Fed. R. Bankr. P.). This adversary proceeding has been pending since 6/22/18.

If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 4/30/19:

Continue this status conference to 6/4/19 at 11:00 a.m. so that the parties can document their settlement and obtain any approval of Court that may be necessary or appropriate. See Status Report (adv. dkt. 19). Appearances

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 3/5/19:
Appearances required.

The parties are directed to address (1) why no status report was filed as required by the adopted 2/5/19 tentative ruling, and (2) whether the parties have scheduled and/or attended mediation.

The tentative ruling is to continue this status conference to 4/9/19 at 11:00 a.m, with a brief status report due by 3/26/19.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 2/5/19:

Continue to 3/5/19 at 11:00 a.m, with a brief status report due by 2/26/19. Although the latest Status Report (adv. dkt. 16) does not address whether the mandatory mediation ordered by this Court has occurred, it appears that more time is needed for mediation. Caution: If the parties do not schedule and attend mediation before the next status conference, this Court may impose sanctions on the recalcitrant party(ies). Tentative Ruling for 1/8/19:

Continue to 2/5/19 at 11:00 a.m, with a brief status report due by 1/29/19.

Appearances are not required on 1/8/19.

The parties have lodged, and this Court has approved, the Order Assigning Matter to Mediation Program and Appointing Mediator and Alternate Mediator (dkt. 11). This Court is not aware of issues that would warrant a status conference at this time.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 11/27/18:

Appearances required, but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

At the hearing on 10/9/18, Defendants did not appear, and this Court was persuaded to take a flexible approach to whether Plaintiff would pursue default judgments, or mediation, or other avenues. The docket does not reflect any activity since that time. Should this status conference be continued? Should this adversary proceeding be dismissed for lack of prosecution?

Tentative Ruling for 9/24/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order entitled "Order On Initial Status Conference" via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling.

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (dkt. 9) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The tentative ruling is to order mediation - as requested by both parties - and continue this Status Conference as set forth below.

#2.00 Status conference re: Chapter 11 case

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues

(a) Budget motion

Debtor's status report states that it has not filed a budget motion because it is not required by the presiding judge's procedures. Dkt. 23, p.3. Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at cacb.uscourts.gov) Section VII.G provide that budget motions are mandatory in all chapter 11 cases. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 9/30/19 to file and serve a budget motion.

(b) Settlement Discussions

The Debtor should be prepared to provide this Court with an update on the status of any settlement discussions with the existing lienholder.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 8/26/19.

Chapter 11

#3.00 Status conference re: Chapter 11 case

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor(s) and by Debtor himself.

(1) Current issues

(a) Budget Motion

Debtor's status report incorrectly states that a budget motion is not required by the presiding judge's procedures. Dkt. 20, p.3. See posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at cacb.uscourts.gov) (the "Bason Procedures") Section VII.G. In addition, a budget motion appears to be particularly important in this case because most of Debtor's income and expenses are effectively hidden and/or mis-reported.

Debtor's Bankruptcy Schedule I reports that he is an interior designer/hair stylist (dkt.22, at PDF p.27), his Statement Of Financial Affairs ("SOFA") lists various "dba" enterprises that might or might not reflect other business ventures, and Debtor apparently rents out some of his properties using Airbnb, but there is no breakdown of any of this. Contrary to the instructions on line 8a of Schedule I, debtor lists only a total net dollar amount for all businesses/properties combined - $22,598.00 per month - and fails to attach a statement for each business/property showing gross receipts, ordinary and necessary business expenses, and the calculation of net income. Also, in apparent contradiction of this alleged monthly net income, the SOFA (dkt. 22 at PDF p.31) lists gross income of $20,000 for the year to date (9 months), $7,875 for 2018, and $28,223 for 2017. (Perhaps Debtor listed monthly net income instead of yearly gross income - if so he must file a corrected SOFA.)

The tentative ruling is to direct Debtor to file an amended Schedule I and an amended SOFA, and to file and serve a budget motion and any other documents that are necessary or appropriate to correct the foregoing deficiencies, no later than 9/27/19.

(b) Bankruptcy Schedule G

Debtor lists no executory contracts or unexpired leases (dkt.22, at PDF

p.24). What about Airbnb and/or other short-term or long-term rental arrangements? The tentative ruling is to direct Debtor to file an amended Schedule G no later than 9/27/19.

(c) Cash collateral

Even though this case was filed on 8/30/19, Debtor did not self-calendar his cash collateral motion for hearing until over a month later, on 10/1/19 at 1:00 p.m. Meanwhile, has Debtor (i) been using cash collateral without authorization (in violation of 11 U.S.C. 363(c)) or (ii) not been using cash collateral, and hence failing to pay ordinary and necessary business and personal expenses, in violation of Debtor's duties to pay postpetition debts as they come due and preserve and maximize the value of the bankruptcy estate. 11 U.S.C. 1107(a) and 1108, and 28 U.S.C. 959(b). The tentative ruling is that, although this is not yet sufficient cause for appointment of a chapter 11 trustee or other remedies, it may factor into consideration of any such remedies in future.

(d) Employment Application

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 9/27/19 for Debtor to file and serve local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTERESTED.PROF in support of Debtor's application to employ Eric Bensamochoan as his bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 18). See Bason Procedures Section VII.D.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 8/30/19.

(a) Bar date: 12/13/19 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD. Debtor must use the forms required by Judge Bason (DO NOT SERVE yet, except on the U.S. Trustee - this Court will set a deadline and procedures at a later time).

(c) Continued status conference: 10/1/19 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report is required.

#8.00 Cont'd status conference re: Chapter 11 case
fr. 9/10/19

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 9/24/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion to Dismiss, Convert or Appoint a Chapter 11 Trustee (dkt. 37), Debtor's Opposition (dkt. 55), no reply is on file

If Debtor is not in full compliance with all UST requirements by the hearing, this Court will determine whether to dismiss, convert or appoint a chapter 11 trustee in this case.

(b) Application to Employ Ure Law Firm (dkt. 24), Statement of Disinterestedness (dkt. 23), Maxim's Oppositions (dkt. 31, 50), Notice of hearing (dkt. 40), Debtor's Reply (dkt. 61)

The tentative ruling is to deny Debtor's request to employ the Ure Law Firm ("Ure Firm"), and set a 10/4/19 deadline for Debtor to file and serve an application to retain new counsel, for the following reasons:

(i) Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm are not "disinterested" and represent an "adverse interest" to the estate by reason of their representation of HDA Trucking, Inc. and Nelson Sargsyan

11 U.S.C. Section 327(a) "requires the application of a two-pronged test for the employment of professional persons. A debtor-in-possession may employ attorneys with court approval only if (1) they do not hold or represent an interest adverse to the estate, and (2) they are disinterested persons." In re Tevis, 347 B.R. 679, 687 (9th Cir. BAP 2006).

The term "adverse interest" is not defined in the Bankruptcy Code, but has been defined by case law to mean:

(1) possession or assertion of an economic interest that would tend to lessen the value of the bankruptcy estate; or (2) possession or assertion of an economic interest that would create either an actual or potential dispute in which the estate is a rival claimant; or (3) possession of a predisposition under circumstances that create a bias against the estate.

Tevis, 347 B.R. 679, 688. "To represent an adverse interest means to serve as an attorney for an entity holding such an adverse interest." Id.

The term "disinterested person" is defined in the Bankruptcy Code to include, inter alia, one who "does not have an interest materially adverse to the interests of the estate or of any class of creditors or equity security holders, by reason of any direct or indirect relationship to, connection with, or interest in, the debtor, or for any other reason." 11 U.S.C. Section 101(14) (C). "For the purpose of disinterestedness, a lawyer has an interest materially adverse to the interest of the estate if the lawyer either holds or represents such an interest." Tevis, 347 B.R. 679, 688.

The tentative ruling is to find that because Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm represented HDA Trucking, Inc. ("HDA Trucking") in its recent bankruptcy case (Case No. 1:19-bk-11595-DS) (the "HDA Trucking Bankruptcy Case"), and have represented HDA Trucking's principal, Nelson Sargsyan ("Mr. Sargsyan"), in his pending bankruptcy case (Case No. 1:19-bk-10790-VK) (the "Sargsyan Bankruptcy Case"), the Ure Firm is not a "disinterested person" and represents an "adverse interest" to the estate for purposes of this case because Debtor's Bankruptcy Schedules identify HDA Trucking as a creditor of Debtor's estate (see dkt. 1, PDF pp.6 & 16) and because there have been inconsistent representations made by HDA, Sargsyan, and Debtor regarding the chain of interests in 8527 Hedges Way, Los Angeles, California 90069 (the "Hedges Property"), which is the real property that is at the center of all these bankruptcy cases.

(ii) Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm violated Rule 2014(a) by failing to disclose their connection with Mr. Sargsyan and HDA Trucking

Rule 2014(a) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) requires that a firm's application for employment disclose "all of the [applicant's] connections with the debtor, creditors, [or] any other party in interest" The disclosure requirements of Rule 2014 are strictly applied. In re Park-Helena Corp., 63 F.3d 877, 881 (9th Cir. 1995). Professionals "cannot pick and choose which connections are irrelevant or trivial . . . No matter how old the connection, no matter how trivial it appears, the professional seeking employment must disclose it." Id. at 882.

In this case, Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm failed to disclose their prior representation of HDA Trucking in its bankruptcy case, or their prior and current representation of Mr. Sargsyan in his bankruptcy case, in either the Application (dkt. 24) or the Statement of Disinterestedness (dkt. 23).

For the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is that the Ure Firm is disqualified from representing the Debtor and its employment must be denied.

(c) Maxim's Rule 9011 Sanction Motion (dkt. 32), Mr. Ure/Ure Firm's Opposition (dkt. 54), Maxim's Reply (dkt. 57)

Maxim Commercial Capital, LLC ("Maxim") seeks an order imposing sanctions against Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm for alleged violations of Rule 9011 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

(i) Background

As best as this Court can discern from its review of various pleadings filed in this case, the Sargsyan Bankruptcy Case, and the HDA Trucking Bankruptcy Case, the relevant facts are as follows:

On 4/7/16 Maxim made a loan to NAMR 2617, LLC ("Other-NAMR") in the sum of $2,669,365 (the "Loan"). The Loan was personally guaranteed by Mr. Sargsyan and Alice and Nazaret Chakrian (the "Chakrians," and together with Mr. Sargsyan, the "Guarantors"). The Guarantors also executed a deed of trust securing their guaranties of the Loan against the Hedges Property.

On 12/30/16, Mr. Sargsyan recorded a Grant Deed conveying his interest in the Hedges Property to Nazaret Chakrian ("Mr. Chakrian") (dkt. 11, PDF p. 352-356). The parties subsequently executed a number of loan modifications and, ultimately, the Loan fully matured without timely payment. As a result, the Hedges Property was noticed for a judicial foreclosure sale on 4/5/19.

On 4/3/19 Mr. Sargsyan filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition and asserted a 25% ownership interest in the Hedges Property (Sargsyan Bankruptcy Case, 1:19-bk-10790-VK, dkt. 1, Schedule A/B). On 5/1/19 Maxim filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay with respect to the Hedges Property (the "Sargsyan R/S Motion," id., dkt. 18). Mr. Ure, acting for Debtor Sargsyan, filed an opposition (Id., dkt. 33, p.2:1-3), which did not argue that Debtor Sargsyan had any interest in the Hedges Property (contrary to what he had indicated in his bankruptcy schedules) but did argue that Mr. Sargsyan had "personally guaranteed the loan" with Maxim.

Following a hearing on the Sargsyan R/S Motion, the Bankruptcy Court entered an order denying the motion as moot based on the Court's finding that the Hedges Property was not property of Mr. Sargsyan's estate because

Chapter 11

Mr. Sargsyan had conveyed away his interest in the Hedges Property to Nazaret Chakrian ("Mr. Chakrian") pre-petition, on 9/30/16 (see Id., dkt. 51, Ex. 1) (the "Sargsyan R/S Order"). After entry of the Sargsyan R/S Order, Maxim re-noticed a foreclosure sale for 8/2/19.

On 6/28/19, Mr. Sargsyan caused HDA Trucking to file a voluntary chapter 11 petition and assert an ownership interest in the Hedges Property (HDA Trucking Bankruptcy Case, 1:19-bk-11595-DS, dkt.1, Schedule A/B). According to Maxim, HDA Trucking has no such interest in the Hedges Property.

On 7/24/19, the United States Trustee (the "UST") filed a motion to appoint a trustee or convert or dismiss that case (Id., dkt. 24). At the hearing on that motion, HDA Trucking stipulated to the dismissal of the case and the case was dismissed by order entered 7/31/19 (Id., dkt. 27).

On 8/1/19 the instant bankruptcy case was filed by Debtor (which is similarly named, but not the same as, the Other-NAMR). Debtor asserts an interest in the Hedges Property pursuant to a Grant Deed recorded on 4/2/19 in which Mr. Chakrian conveyed a 10% interest in the Hedges Property to Debtor (dkt. 1, Schedule A/B & dkt. 11, PDF pp. 361-364).

Almost immediately after this bankruptcy case was filed, Maxim filed an emergency motion for relief from the automatic stay and this Court shortened time, reviewed briefs, heard arguments, made oral findings of fact and conclusions of law on the record, and issued an order that prevented any future bankruptcy case from affecting the Hedges Property (subject to the usual limitations on such relief). Dkt.36. But this Court declined to terminate the automatic stay at this time (id.) because, among other things, (A) other creditors' interests are at stake, (B) on the evidence presented Maxim's interests are fully adequately protected, and (C) Debtor may be able to restructure its finances in a manner that will benefit all parties in interest.

At that early hearing this Court suggested that a transfer of a fractional interest among related entities is not necessarily evidence of bad faith. This Court took judicial notice that debtors and their affiliates not infrequently engage transfers of fractional interests as a way to balance the accounts among them, or for other reasons that may be perfectly consistent with good faith, even if they violate provisions of loan documents or other obligations.

But this Court's unwillingness to suppose bad faith at the inception of this case, before adequate time to respond, should not be misconstrued as giving a blanket exemption from any subsequent finding of bad faith or other misconduct. This Court is troubled by some of the conduct outlined in Maxim's motion papers.

With this context, this Court turns to Maxim's motion for sanctions.

(ii) Maxim has not established that Judge Bason can or should impose sanctions under Rule 9011 for conduct that occurred in bankruptcy cases that are not before Judge Bason

As a preliminary matter, Maxim has not addressed whether it would be proper, or even within the jurisdiction of the instant bankruptcy case, for Judge Bason to impose sanctions regarding any cases that are not pending before Judge Bason. The Sargsyan Bankruptcy Case is still pending before Judge Kaufman, and the HDA Trucking Bankruptcy Case was pending before Judge Saltzman, and the tentative ruling is that any request for sanctions for conduct in those cases must be presented to those Bankruptcy Judges.

That is not to say that prior conduct in other cases is irrelevant. Such prior conduct may establish a pattern of conduct that extends into this case, or may otherwise shed light on the conduct in this case. But the tentative ruling is that Judge Bason will only consider sanctions regarding conduct in the instant bankruptcy case.

(iii) Maxim has not established misconduct in connection with the Sargsyan Bankruptcy Case

Maxim asserts - as part of its argument that Mr. Ure's conduct and the Ure Firm's conduct in this case is sanctionable - that there is a pattern of abuse starting with the filing of the Sargsyan Bankruptcy Case. The tentative ruling is that this assertion is not persuasive.

Nothing in Maxim's papers establishes that it was frivolous or otherwise improper for Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm to oppose Maxim's request for relief from the automatic stay in the Sargsyan Bankruptcy Case, in light of Debtor Sargsyan's position as a Guarantor. True, the automatic stay's protection against in rem acts generally extends only to property of the debtor (see 1:19-bk-10790-VK, dkt.51 (the Sargsyan R/S Order)); and the automatic stay's protection against in personam acts generally extends only to the debtor. See, e.g., In re Advanced Ribbons and Office Prod's, Inc., 125 B.R. 259, 262-67 (9th Cir. BAP 1991) (guarantor, and guarantor's property, not protected). But Maxim has not cited any authority that it was frivolous for Debtor Sargsyan to take the position that acts to foreclose the Hedges Property, based on a debt he guaranteed, were acts "to collect, assess, or recover a claim against the debtor that arose before the commencement of the [bankruptcy] case" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(6), if not based on existing caselaw then based on a nonfrivolous assertion regarding "extension, modification, or reversal of existing law or the establishment of new law." Rule 9011(b)(2). The tentative ruling is that there is nothing sanctionable in making this argument.

True, Mr. Sargsyan, Mr. Ure, and the Ure Firm should have been more careful in verifying that Debtor did in fact have an interest in the Hedges Property before Debtor Sargsyan said so, under penalty of perjury, in his bankruptcy schedules. And it would have been preferable for the Ure Firm to cite some authority for their position, or expressly argue for an extension of existing law or other nonfrivolous legal grounds, and to amend the bankruptcy schedules once the record ownership of the property became apparent.

But, given the transfers back and forth (described above), and the last-minute scramble that almost invariably precedes an emergency bankruptcy filing, it appears that the original misstatement of ownership in the bankruptcy schedules, and the lack of citation to legal authority in opposing the Sargsyan R/S Motion, are more consistent with a lack of adequate time than any intentional falsehood or misconduct. And once it became apparent that the automatic stay did not protect the property, it is understandable (although not the ideal course of action) to move on and not take the time to amend the bankruptcy schedules.

(iv) Maxim has established apparent misconduct in connection with the HDA Trucking Bankruptcy Case

Maxim asserts that HDA Trucking had no interest in the Hedges Property whatsoever, and yet falsely listed that property on its bankruptcy schedules. Dkt.32, p.7:5. The Ure Firm has not offered any explanation why, even after the incorrect assertion by Mr. Sargsyan of an ownership interest in the Hedges Property, it filed another bankruptcy case that, once again, asserted an ownership interest that is not supported by any evidence. The tentative ruling is that this is prima facie evidence of the Ure Firm's lack of "inquiry reasonable under the circumstances" and apparent filing of the petition for an improper purpose - namely a scheme to hinder, delay, or defraud Maxim. Rule 9011(b)(1).

Alternatively, the tentative ruling is that this is also prima facie evidence of a factual contention that, after "an inquiry reasonable under the circumstances," does not have "evidentiary support," or that has not been "specifically [] identified" as "likely to have evidentiary support after a reasonable opportunity for further investigation or discovery." Rule 9011(b) (3).

In the face of such prima facie evidence of a violation of Rule 9011, the burden was on Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm to present contrary evidence of at least equal weight. They have not done so.

Again, the tentative ruling is that this Court should not impose any sanctions for any alleged misconduct in the HDA Trucking Bankruptcy Case. But the apparent violations of Rule 9011 in that case establish a pattern that calls into question any allegedly similar conduct in the instant case.

(v) It is premature for this Court to determine whether the filing of the instant bankruptcy case, or how it has been prosecuted, is sanctionable under Rule 9011

On the one hand, the facts discussed above are evidence that Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm have participated in efforts to frustrate Maxim's exercise of its remedies, and have done so using tactics that appear to violate Rule 9011. It is possible that the transfer of a fractional interest to Debtor, and the filing of the instant bankruptcy case, are part of that scheme and are sanctionable.

On the other hand, it is also possible that the transfer of a fractional interest to Debtor was nothing more than an attempt retroactively to "unscramble the eggs" and have the record title to the Hedges Property reflect what Mr. Sargsyan, the Chakrians, and other affiliates all had intended to be the reality of their financial relationships. True, Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm have had an opportunity to present any such explanation, with supporting evidence, and they have failed to do so. But this Court is wary of imposing sanctions without providing them with an opportunity to explain why they did not offer an explanation in their opposition papers, and why they should be granted an opportunity to do so now.

In addition, depending on how this instant bankruptcy case progresses, it may become more apparent over time whether there is a reasonable possibility of a successful reorganization within a reasonable time, and other factors that might bear on whether this case was or was not filed in good faith. It is also possible that Debtor will obtain refinancing and pay Maxim in full, or that some other developments in this case will bear on issues such as whether Maxim has suffered any un-reimbursed expenses, all of which may be relevant to its sanctions motion.

For all of these reasons the tentative ruling is that it is premature for this Court to determine any sanctions issues, and the tentative ruling is to take Maxim's sanctions motion off calendar, and determine at a future status conference when it should be put back on calendar. Meanwhile, the tentative ruling is that no further briefing on the sanctions issues will be accepted or considered absent further order of this Court.

Tentative Ruling for 9/24/19:

Continue as set forth below, subject to lodging the proposed order indicated below. Appearances are not required on 9/24/19.

(1) Current issues

It appears from a review of the August MOR (dkt. 91) that the Debtor's sales have increased and operations are (barely) profitable, with hopes of future increases in profitability. The tentative ruling is that Debtor needs to establish a longer track record of profitability before any proposed plan could be shown to be feasible, and therefore this Court should continue this Status Conference without setting a deadline to file a proposed plan and disclosure statement.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 8/2/18.

(a) Bar date: 12/11/18: not timely served, see dkt. 24, 35 & 41, but the tentative ruling is that no new bar date needs to be set because of the substantial time after the bar date with no party in interest having asserted prejudice and/or seeking to have an untimely claim allowed. Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order memorializing that, for the foregoing reasons, this Court is excusing the untimely servicing of the bar date order.

(a) Mazakoda, Inc's Motion to Extend Time to Object to Dischargeability (dkt. 53). Grant, with an extension of the deadline for Mazakoda Inc to file a complaint objecting to dischargeability to 4/30/19. After the parties filed their papers (dkt. 53, 63, 64) this Court continued this matter for Mazakoda to obtain a recording/transcript of the meeting of creditors (11 U.S.C. 341(a)). At the hearing on 3/26/19, counsel for Mazakoda appeared and informed this Court that it opposed the tentative ruling denying the motion for lack of prosecution, and that it had just received the recording/transcript on 3/22/19. Although Debtors' counsel was not notified of Mazakoda's intent to contest the tentative ruling (as required by the posted Procedures of Judge Bason, available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov), this Court was persuaded to continue this matter, as permissible under those same procedures. Mazakoda has now supplemented the Motion (dkt. 74), and based on that supplement the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to extend the deadline.

Tentative Ruling for 9/24/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Missing status report

As of the time this tentative ruling has been prepared, no status report is on file. Why Not?

(b) Missing budget motion

At the 8/20/19 status conference this Court directed the Debtor to file a budget motion. As of the time this tentative ruling has been prepared, the docket does not reflect that the Debtor has complied. Why not?

(c) Cash collateral

At the 8/20/19 status conference, this Court expressed serious concerns about Debtor's possible use of cash collateral without the consent of its lender. What is the status of the Debtor's negotiations with its lender re cash collateral?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 7/31/19.

Tentative Ruling for 8/20/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues

(a) Service of order setting principal status conference

This Court's order setting principal status conference (dkt. 2) required Debtor to serve this order on all parties in interest and file a proof of service at least 14 days before the principal status conference. As of the drafting of this tentative ruling, the docket does not reflect such service. Was the order served?

(b) Missing budget motion

Debtor's status report states that Debtor has not yet filed a budget motion but "will do so if necessary." Dkt. 11 at p.3. Per the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at cacb.uscourts.gov), budget motions are required in all Chapter 11 cases.

(c) Cash collateral

Debtor indicates that it will meet and confer with its lender re cash collateral. Dkt. 11 at p.3. What is the status of those negotiations?

Pending lender approval, how has Debtor continued to operate its business since filing? Has Debtor been using cash collateral without authorization? Has Debtor been holding the rent money it has received in a separate account?

(d) Interim arbitration award

Debtor should be prepared to apprise the court of the details surrounding the interim arbitration award, including the nature of the dispute, how Debtor intends to contest the award, and what approach to the award is in the best interests of creditors.

Tentative Ruling for 9/24/19:

Appearances are not required.

(1) Current issues. This Court has reviewed the Debtors' Status Report (dkt. 132) and the Response filed by Poser Investments, Inc. ("Poser") (dkt. 133).

Trustee

At the start of this case, this Court issued an Order putting all parties on notice that "[w]ithout further notice this Court . . . may issue appropriate orders including on: . . . (b) case disposition (e.g., appointment of a trustee, conversion, dismissal" Dkt. 25, p. 1-2. That order was served on all parties in interest. Dkt.48.

Poser requests that this Court issue an Order to Show Cause ("OSC") directing the Debtor to appear and show cause why this Court should not convert, dismiss or appoint a chapter 11 trustee in this case. The tentative ruling is to issue such an OSC, and direct Poser to serve that OSC and a copy of Poser's response (dkt.133) on all creditors listed in the creditor mailing matrix, as a "belt and suspenders" notice to all interested parties that this Court is considering granting such relief. This Court will prepare the OSC with a hearing date of October 15, 2019 at 1:00 p.m. to be heard concurrently with other matters on calendar for that date.

(b) Mediation

The tentative ruling is not to issue any further orders regarding mediation or other settlement efforts at this point - the parties remain free to engage in voluntary discussions.

Tentative Ruling for 2/13/18:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

The parties should be prepared to address any issues appropriate for resolution at this post-confirmation status conference. The tentative ruling is to set a continued status conference for 7/10/18 at 1:00 p.m.

Chapter 11

(1) Ballot Summary. The debtor's ballot summary (dkt. 131) appears to be inaccurate and internally inconsistent. Although the ballots and stipulation attached to the ballot summary show acceptance by 100% in both dollar amount and number of the claims actually voted or deemed to have been voted in classes 2A, 2B and 4A, and no vote by Class 2C, the ballot summary makes assertions that are not consistent with those ballots, namely:

(a) Cramdown: The ballot summary asserts that the debtor is not requesting cramdown (dkt. 131, item 3), even though the lack of an affirmative vote in class 2C means that the debtor does not satisfy 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(8) and therefore must seek cramdown under 11 U.S.C. 1129(b);

(b) Accepting classes: The ballot summary asserts that only class 4A has voted to accept the plan (dkt. 131, item 6), even though classes 2A and 2B have also accepted the plan; and

(c) Page 2 of the Ballot Summary: The chart on page 2 of the ballot summary (dkt. 131, p.2, top line of chart) fails to show that Class 2A has accepted the plan by 100% in number of claims deemed to have been voted (not just 100% in amount). In addition, it would have been helpful if the ballot summary's "Comments" following that chart had explained that (i) Portfolio Recovery Associates is Class 2C (even though it is listed as LA County Tax Collector in the Plan), (ii) U.S. Bank is Class 2A (even though it is listed as Wells Fargo in the Plan), and (iii) Class 2A is deemed to have voted in favor of the plan under its court-approved stipulation, even though it did not actually cast a ballot. (If any of the foregoing is incorret then counsel for the debtor must correct those issues at the hearing.)

(2) Status report

The debtor's status report (dkt. 130) misleadingly asserts that this court's order (dkt. 106) previously approved the disclosure statement (dkt. 101), whereas in fact this court only granted preliminary approval for purposes of this combined hearing on whether to approve the disclosure statement (dkt. 101) and confirm the plan (dkt. 102).

(3) Confirmation. Notwithstanding the foregoing, it appears that the debtor's disclosure statement (dkt. 101) should be approved, and that the chapter 11 plan (dkt. 102), as amended by the debtor's stipulation with the holder of the class 2A claim (dkt. 127, 128), has met the requirements for confirmation under 11 U.S.C. 1129(a) & (b).

(4) Correction. This court notes that the tentative ruling for 6/20/17 (reproduced below) was in error in asserting that "[at] the status conference on 5/23/17 this court set a deadline of 6/6/17 to file an amended plan and disclosure statement." In fact, this court was persuaded at that status conference not to impose that deadline.

If you do not appear, and the matter is not adequately resolved by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 6/20/17:

Continue to 8/8/17 at 1:00 p.m. (without the need for any written status report), but impose sanctions of $200 on counsel for the debtor, for the reasons set forth below. Appearances are not required on 6/20/17.

At the status conference on 5/23/17 this court set a deadline of 6/6/17 to file an amended plan and disclosure statement. On 6/15/17, after this court had already prepared a tentative ruling for this status conference, counsel for the debtor filed a stipulation (dkt. 117) and lodged a proposed order for yet another continuance of the confirmation hearing. At no point did counsel telephone chambers to suggest that counsel expected or was attempting to arrange for such a continuance. Moreover, as set forth in the tentative rulings reproduced below, this case has a long history of missed deadlines, last minute filings, and deficient documents.

This court recognizes that to a large extent counsel cannot control delays by a debtor and debtor in possession, and not infrequently a debtor is simply incapable of meeting all of the debtor's obligations. Nevertheless, this court has noted that counsel of record in this case has a pattern, in this and other cases (e.g., In re Barragan, 2:15-bk-29156-NB), of filing late and inadequate documents, and that pattern is not matched by the vast majority of other counsel who appear before this court. All of that strongly suggests that counsel bears some responsibility for those deficiencies, and that imposes substantial burdens on this court, the U.S. Trustee, and any other parties in interest who may be monitoring or involved in such bankruptcy cases. The tentative ruling is that this warrants sanctions under this court's inherent powers and 11 U.S.C. 105. Counsel is also cautioned that this court anticipates issuing similar or increased sanctions if this pattern continues in other cases in future.

If you wish to dispute the above tentative ruling, please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings".

Tentative Ruling for 5/23/17:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor, but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

The ballot summary was due 5/16/17 but was not filed until 5/22/17 at 4:12 p.m. In addition, it is internally inconsistent. What remedies are appropriate?

The plan (dkt. 102) has not been accepted by any class. This is the debtor's second bankruptcy case, and it has been pending for over a year. The debtor's lack of progress for that long a period of time suggests a willful delay. Should this court dismiss or convert this case? Should this court impose a bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy for the third time in a row?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 4/20/16. If this case is not dismissed or converted, the tentative ruling is to hold a continued status conference on 6/20/17 at 1:00 p.m. with a deadline of 6/6/17 to file (but NOT serve) yet another amended plan and disclosure statement.

If you do not appear, and the matter is not adequately resolved by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

(b) Plan (dkt. 101) and Disclosure Statement (dkt. 102). 4/14/17 deadline to lodge Judge Bason's form of order authorizing service of the voting package, setting deadlines, and setting a combined hearing on final approval of the Disclosure Statement and confirmation of the Plan for the same time as the continued status conference.

(b) Adequate protection payments. At the hearing on 1/10/17 counsel for the debtor assured this court that the debtor had cured the postpetition delinquency in adequate protection payments. But the monthly operating report for January 2017 (dkt. 95, filed 2/7/17, at p.4) continues to list 4 missed payments for a total of $6,972 delinquency. What was the basis for counsel's misrepresentation to this court? Should this court require counsel and the debtor to testify on that issue, and on the prospects for future income, before this court can find that the plan is feasible (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(11))? Should this misrepresentation have any other consequences?

(c) Plan (dkt. 82) and Disclosure Statement (dkt. 81). The debtor's ballot summary was due to be filed no later than 2/21/17 (dkt. 89). Instead the debtor's counsel has filed a declaration (dkt. 96) asserting that a ballot in favor of the plan has been received by class "6b," even though no such class is listed in the plan (see dkt. 82, Ex.A), and requesting more time to receive ballots from classes 2a and 2b, even though the deadline for ballots has passed. The parties should be prepared to address how best to proceed in these circumstances.

(b) Monthly operating reports. The debtor's court approved budget (dkt. 19) and the budget attached to her amended chapter 11 disclosure statement (dkt. 74, PDF p. 13) show various typical monthly expenses such as transportation costs, utilities, and food. The expenses included in her budgets submitted to this court are either not reflected in her MORs for August and September 2016 (dkt. 65 and 73, respectively) or are reflected, but in much smaller amounts than budgeted. Is the debtor reporting all of her monthly expenses in her MORs? If not, why not?

Additionally, the MORs appear to reflect that the debtor is receiving less than her budgeted monthly income ($1,800/mo.) from her job as a real estate professional. In August 2016, the debtor reported receipts of $970.01; in September 2016, receipts of $1,000.

Based on the reporting in the debtor's two most recent MORs, this court is concerned that the debtor may not have sufficient disposable income with which to fund her proposed chapter 11 plan.

Tentative Ruling for 5/31/16:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves

(1) Current issues. This Court has reviewed the debtor's status report (dkt. 23).

(a) Prior failed case. The debtor's prior case (no. 2:14-bk-14065-NB) was a chapter 13 case that was dismissed because of plan infeasibility due to the objections by Wells Fargo, and claims by the IRS, FTB, and L.A. County Tax Collector.

(b) Debtor's real property

(i) Inconsistent rental income amount. This Court notes that the debtor's amended schedule G reflects a monthly rental of $2,200 (dkt. 13, p.10), which was originally listed as $1,500 per month (dkt. 1, p.36). However, the debtor's original schedule I originally listed the debtor's net income from rental property as $2,400 (dkt. 1, p.39). The debtor's amended schedule I now lists net income from rental property as $2,200 (dkt. 13, p.12). Although the rental income now appears to be consistent at $2,200, and schedule G reflects the same lessee, Smark Lyles, is this the correct amount?

(ii) Schedule I. Part 8.a. requires that the debtor attach a statement for each property and business showing gross receipts, ordinary and necessary business expenses, and the total monthly net income.

(iii) Motion to Value. The debtor's status report indicates that the debtor intends to file a motion to value the real property. When does the debtor anticipate filing the motion to value?

(c) UST compliance. The United States Trustee has filed a motion to dismiss or convert (dkt. 24). Although the matter has been set for hearing on 6/21/16, the debtor should be prepared to address more generally, why this case in chapter 11 instead of chapter 13. It appears that the debtor is within the debt limits for chapter 13, and chapter 11 typically is far more expensive, so it seems doubtful that the debtor needs or can afford a chapter 11 case.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 4/20/16.

(a) Bar date: 7/29/16 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: file by 8/19/16 using the forms required by Judge Bason (DO NOT SERVE yet, except on the U.S. Trustee - the court will set a deadline and procedures at a later time). This Court is aware that the debtor has requested a much later deadline (dkt. 23, p.4) but this Court is not aware of any reason why so much time is needed. The debtor should be negotiating with secured creditors and other key constituencies already.

(c) Continued status conference: 7/19/16 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report is required.

Tentative Ruling for 8/20/19:
Appearances required.

- (1) Current issues
(a) Motion to Sell 212 E Pomona Ave, Monrovia, CA free and clear (dkt. 317)
Grant the motion, subject to (i) any overbids at the hearing, and (ii) if there are overbidders, subject to the filing of a "good faith" declaration (11 U.S.C. 363(m)) by the winning bidder that substantially complies with Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at cacb.uscourts.gov), and (iii) the terms set forth in Cathay Bank's response (dkt. 325).
The tentative ruling is that the good faith declaration of one of the proposed purchasers, Paula T. Li (dkt. 321), is sufficient if they are the winning bidder and as to her co-purchaser, Eric C. Hung (despite his failure to sign the declaration and that any representations made on his behalf are hearsay).

Tentative Ruling for 6/4/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Application to employ real estate broker (dkt. 164)

Subject to an adequate explanation regarding the value/price discrepancy for the Atlantic Blvd. Property (see Cathay Bank Obj., dkt. 243, at pp.6:25-7:6), the tentative ruling is to grant the application to employ real estate broker. The tentative ruling is to overrule Cathay Bank's other objections.

(i) Alleged lack of disinterestedness

Although Cathay Bank's supplemental opposition (dkt. 243) argues that the proposed broker, Standard Mortgage, Inc. dba Standard Realty ("Broker") is not "disinterested," and therefore is not eligible for employment under 11 U.S.C. 327(a), the tentative ruling is that this objection is not persuasive. True, an independent contractor with Broker, Mr. Akbari (who previously stated that he was an "employee" of Broker), is married to the sister of the wife of one of Debtor's officers/control persons. Cathay Bank cites authority that, under California law, being a brother-in-law is equivalent to being a brother, so the tentative ruling is that Mr. Akbari is a "relative" of an "officer" or "person in control" of Debtor and therefore he is an "insider." See 11 U.S.C. 101(45) (a "relative" means an "individual related by affinity or consanguinity within the third degree as determined by the common law"); 101(31)(B)(vi) (insider includes a "relative of a ... officer, or person in control of the debtor"). But that does not mean that Broker is an insider.

It also appears to be true that Debtor has not been as forthcoming with the connections between Broker and Debtor as would have been advisable, including both the familial relationships noted above and the recent discovery that Mr. Akbari "was the listing agent on the Cabrillo Street Property (during the nunc pro tunc timeframe in which the Broker is sought to be employed)" Cathay Bank Obj. dkt. 243, p.3:4-6 & Warrington Decl., Ex.1. Finally, as noted in the tentative ruling for 5/21/19, part (1)(b) (reproduced below), the statutory list of insiders "includes" but is not limited to the listed examples (see 11 U.S.C. 102(3)) and in addition this Court notes that a professional must be not only "disinterested" but also must not "hold or represent an interest adverse to the estate." 11 U.S.C. 327(a).

But the tentative ruling is that the facts recited above do not disqualify Broker from employment. A different real estate agent will be handling this matter (Mr. Ahmadi, dkt. 234); there is no evidence that Mr. Ahmadi or Broker itself has any incentive to act in any way adverse to the bankruptcy estate; and the failures to provide disclosure of every arguable "connection" between Broker and Debtor (within the meaning of Rule 2014, Fed. R. Bankr. P.) is unfortunate but understandable given the attenuated nature of the connections (Debtor's officer's wife's sister's husband originally was the listing agent for Broker on one of the four properties to be sold).

(ii) Alleged issues with 4.5% commission

Cathay Bank argues that Debtor has failed to justify a 4.5% commission; but to the contrary, the tentative ruling is that in general this Court should give deference to Debtor's business judgment, and that even without such deference Debtor has provided sufficient evidence that a 4.5% commission is appropriate (see dkt. 234) (Declaration regarding typical commission for commercial properties being 4-6%, and for residential properties 5-6%). Cathay Bank has provided no evidence to the contrary. Nor has Cathay Bank cited authority that Debtors are required to "shop around" for the lowest commission (which might not be the best broker) prior to selecting a broker, especially given that the proposed Broker has agreed to a slightly reduced commission from what is typical (see id. at 3).

(iii) Alleged lack of qualifications re industrial property

The tentative ruling is that although there may be conceptual differences between "industrial" and "commercial" properties, Cathay Bank has not established that any such difference is meaningful in the context of this case and the properties at issue.

(iv) Conclusion as to Broker

The tentative ruling is to grant the application and authorize Broker's employment subject, again, to an adequate explanation regarding the value/price discrepancy for the Atlantic Blvd. Property. See Cathay Bank Obj., dkt. 243, at pp.6:25-7:6.

Tentative Ruling for 5/21/19:

Appearances are not required on 5/21/19.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's counsel's fee application (dkt. 175, 177)
Allow $145,683.50 in fees and $5,714.10 in expenses for a total of $151,397.50, and authorize draw down of the retainer ($124,846.70 remaining), with the balance of the fees and expenses to paid from the estate.

Cathay Bank's response (dkt. 207) does not object to allowance of the fees but seeks to reserve all rights it might have regarding a purported lien on some of the retainer. Debtor's reply (dkt. 215) asserts that the bank has no such rights to reserve because it has been given a replacement lien on the real estate.

This Court's recollection is that the bank did not entirely waive such rights at the hearing on 5/7/19, but did indicate that it was no more going to seek disgorgement from Debtor's firm (of authorized postpetition distributions from the retainer account) than it would seek disgorgement from one of Debtor's utilities (of authorized postpetition utility payments). In any event, whatever the parties' interpretations of the representations on 5/7/19, the issue is too remote for either party to be expending any substantial attorney fees on it at this time.

Cathay Bank has its security interest in the accounts receivable that existed as of the petition date, and it has replacement liens in ongoing accounts receivable. Debtor believes the bank will be paid in full out of those things. But as adequate protection (11 U.S.C. 361, 363(e) & 552(b)) the bank has replacement liens in Debtor's real estate - to cover both (i) any diminution in the value of its security interest in the accounts receivable as of the petition date and (ii) any diminution in the value of its purported security interest in the retainer as of the petition date. Therefore the bank's and Debtor's rights are both reserved, and neither party should be spending much time on this issue. Any attorney fees spent arguing about this issue are subject to this Court's review for reasonableness (under 11 U.S.C. 330 and 331 for Debtor's counsel, and under 11 U.S.C. 506(b) for Cathay Bank's counsel).

(b) Application to employ real estate broker (dkt. 164)

The tentative ruling is, with one exception, to overrule the objection of Cathay Bank (dkt. 199), based on Debtor's reply (dkt. 214). The exception is that, although Debtor has presented evidence of the reasonableness of the broker's proposed commission and experience, and this Court generally should defer to Debtor's business judgment, Cathay Bank makes a good point that the real estate at issue ranges broadly from a single family residence to commercial property etc., and there is insufficient evidence of the proposed broker's specific experience as to each type of real estate. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 5/24/19 for Debtor to file and serve a supplemental declaration detailing such experience, with a deadline of 5/29/19 for any supplemental objection by Cathay Bank, and a continued hearing (if there is any such objection) concurrent with the continued status conference (see below).

As for disinterestedness (11 U.S.C. 101(14), 327(a)), Cathay Bank argues that the broker is not disinterested because, from the information on the docket, it appears that one of its alleged employees (Mr. Akbari) is a relative by marriage of one of Debtor's principals, and the principals are beneficiaries of a trust that engaged in prepetition transactions with Debtor that, according to the bank, violated Debtor's covenants with the bank. On the one hand, it is true that Mr. Akbari previously declared that he was "employed" by the broker (dkt. 77, p.1:22).

On the other hand, this Court interprets that as an (unfortunately) imprecise description of his arrangement as an independent contractor. Alternatively, even if he is an employee, this Court is not persuaded that this disqualifies the broker from employment by the estate.

Mr. Akbari apparently is married to the sister of the wife of one of Debtor's officers/control persons. The tentative ruling is that this makes him related "by affinity or consanguinity" within the fourth degree (1.officer - 2.spouse - 3.sister of spouse - 4.Mr. Akbari), so he is not a "relative" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 101(45) and therefore he is not an "insider" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 101(31)(B)(vi) or (E). That is not dispositive, because, the statutory list of insiders "includes" but is not limited to the listed examples. See 11 U.S.C. 102(3). But the tentative ruling is that the connection has been sufficiently disclosed (Rule 2014, Fed. R. Bankr. P.) and is not disqualifying.

In practical terms, this Court does not perceive that any alleged ties between the proposed real estate broker and Debtor's principal creates any incentive to lessen the price obtained for the real estate, or otherwise prejudice the interests of the bankruptcy estate. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to approve the employment, subject to satisfactory supplemental evidence as set forth above.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 2/20/19.

(a) Bar date: 6/17/19 (timely served, dkt. 129).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: The tentative ruling is to vacate any deadline to file a proposed plan and disclosure statement, given the current posture of this case.

Revised Tentative Ruling for 5/7/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Employment of bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 83)

The tentative ruling is to authorize Debtor's bankruptcy counsel (whose employment has already been approved except for the retainer issue), to draw down on the retainer as otherwise permitted (e.g., after allowance of fees in the forthcoming interim fee application), without deciding at this time whether Cathay Bank does or does not have a traceable security interest in the retainer. Instead the tentative ruling is to grant the Bank a replacement lien, in the full amount of the Bank's disputed lien on the retainer, on Debtor's real estate (to the extent, if any, that the Bank's existing replacement lien does not already apply). That replacement lien would be subject to the same limitations on validity, priority, and amount as this Court has ordered with respect to cash collateral (see dkt. 71).

Reasons: Given the Bank's current debt of approximately $3.1 million (see dkt. 156, p.5:15-21), and the equity in the real estate of approximately $4 million (see id., p.6:4-11), such a replacement lien appears fully sufficient to provide adequate protection. Meanwhile, any further litigation over the retainer issue appears unnecessary and potentially wasteful and distracting from the other, important issues in this bankruptcy case.

(b) Continued use of cash collateral (dkt. 156)

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not sufficiently justified its proposed expenditures under the line item for "Professional Fees (Legal, Accounting)." The tentative ruling is to grant the motion for use of cash collateral, through 8/18/19, except that professional fees must be limited, and the tentative ruling is to set a limit of paying not more than $15,000 per week without further authorization of this Court. (To be clear: if Debtor in its business judgment believes that it must incur more than that amount of professional fees, it may do so, subject to the usual limits on reasonableness of fees, billing judgment, and business judgment - what is limited by this tentative ruling is use of cash collateral, not incurring fees.)

(c) Cathay Bank's adequate protection: replacement liens v. cash payments

The tentative ruling is to deny the Bank's request for interim payments. It is already adequately protected by the protections on the terms of this Court's prior orders and the additional protections set forth above.

(a) Employment of bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 83)

Debtor is directed to address the issues raised in Cathay Bank's opposition (dkt. 117) (source of retainer; non-consent to use of cash collateral or carve-out; and objection to any Knudsen procedure). In addition, the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) state that counsel must file local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF and also state:

Note: the judge prefers that local form F 2014-1 not repeat the employment application – instead simply say "see application" or the like (reasons: proposed professionals frequently do not track the language of Rule 2014, so the judge requires use of the form so that someone verifies the elements of that rule under penalty of perjury, and so the court staff does not have to do a line-by-line comparison with each element of the Rule).

(b) Employment of special counsel, employment issues (dkt. 113)

See above re local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF.

(c) Employment of BidMed LLC as asset liquidation broker (dkt. 134)

See above re local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF.

In addition, although this employment application is not on for hearing at this time, Debtor and all parties in interest should be aware that Judge Bason has in the past disapproved buyer's premiums. See the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) which provide in part that any order authorizing such employment typically will include a provision stating, "no buyer's premium" for auctioneers. This should not be interpreted as making any economic change in the compensation arrangement - the auctioneer and Debtor can adjust what is paid by Debtor such that the net compensation is the same - but the tentative ruling is that this is required both as a matter of disclosure (of what the professional is charging out of property of the estate or the proceeds of such property) and as a matter of disinterestedness (not being paid by both parties, but only by Debtor).

Chapter 11

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 3/12/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion to use prepetition bank accounts (dkt. 12)

Grant on a final basis, on the same terms as the interim order (dkt. 55).

(b) Utility motion (dkt. 25)

Grant on a final basis, on the same terms as the interim order (dkt. 54).

(c) Cash collateral motion (dkt. 13)

Grant on a final basis, on the same terms as the interim order (dkt. 71), except that after review of the parties' briefs (dkt. 76, 78) and the other documents and records before this Court, the tentative ruling is as follows:

(i) Real estate: Continue Cathay Bank's replacement lien on all of Debtor's real properties (subject to adjustment as set forth below).

(ii) Books and records: Grant access to Debtor's historical books and records, and all documents used to create the cash collateral budget and the chart summarizing collateral values, with such access starting on 3/18/19, for Cathay Bank's forensic accountant, James Crossland, to inspect and copy (including copying hard drives), during normal business hours. Such access must be subject to whatever Non-Disclosure Agreement, redaction, or other safeguards as may be necessary or appropriate to protect employees' privacy, attorney-client communications, Debtor's trade secrets, etc. The parties are directed to meet and confer on those issues, and the parties are also directed to review the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) regarding discovery disputes.

(iii) Reporting: Require Debtor to file and serve reconciliations, 10 days in arrears on Wednesday of each week (i.e., covering the week that ended 10 days prior), comparing actual results with budgeted results, and calculating variances against budgeted and actual receipts and expenditures.

(iv) CDs: The tentative ruling is that Cathay Bank need not apply any CDs to the extent that they are collateral for standby letters of credit for any liability to workers' compensation insurers. But the parties are directed to address whether there are any other CDs at issue, and why, as a condition for the other adequate protection being granted to Cathay Bank, it should not be required to apply such other CDs against the loans for which they are collateral, so as to stop accruing interest or other charges adverse to Debtor and the bankruptcy estate.

The tentative ruling is to deny Cathay Bank's request for additional adequate protection in the form of monthly payments of interest. Debtor is liquidating much of its business, which creates a situation in which both assets and cash flow are somewhat uncertain. That uncertainty favors granting the Bank the additional adequate protection set forth above; but it also means that Debtor may have urgent needs to use cash for legitimate purposes other than interest payments to the Bank.

The tentative ruling is that all of the foregoing is subject to being revisited as the facts and circumstances develop. For example, if Debtor turns out to have success in collecting the proportion of accounts receivable that it predicts, it might be appropriate to find that Cathay Bank is adequately protected by a lien on less than all of Debtor's remaining real estate. Likewise, if Debtor pays down some of its debt to Cathay Bank through sales of some real property, that might reduce the need for the replacement liens to be as extensive as contemplated by this tentative ruling.

Conversely, if Debtor's accounts receivable appear to be less valuable than predicted by Debtor then Cathay Bank might need every bit of the replacement liens in Debtor's real property and all other assets (except avoidance actions etc.). Ironically, the more dire Debtor's finances, and the greater the risk of administrative insolvency, the stronger the argument that even if the Bank were free to foreclose it would have to pay someone to liquidate Debtor's assets in an orderly fashion (11 U.S.C. 506(c)), and in any event the "equities of the case" might warrant a carve-out for professionals (11 U.S.C. 552(b)). But those are issues that can be addressed when and if there is any need to do so.

The tentative ruling regarding Cathay Bank's evidentiary objections and due process objections (dkt. 78) is that, if this Court adopts the foregoing tentative ruling (granting replacement liens in essentially all of Debtor's assets), then those objections should be overruled because (x) Cathay Bank cannot be granted a replacement lien in greater than "all" of Debtor's assets, so to a large extent the value of those assets is irrelevant, and (y) whatever weaknesses may exist in Debtor's valuation evidence, there is enough to establish on a prima facie basis a reasonable probability that Cathay Bank is sufficiently over-secured to provide it with a substantial equity cushion, which is one form of adequate protection, and that is sufficient for present purposes.

As for the alleged costs of selling property subject to Cathay Bank's replacement liens, this Court can assess for each proposed sale whether Debtor's proposed use of the proceeds is consistent with adequate protection, and whether Cathay Bank is unreasonably withholding its consent under 11 U.S.C. 363(f)(2). In addition, all parties in interest are directed to the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) regarding 363 sales.

(d) Motion to reject collective bargaining agreements (dkt. 62) (the "1113 Motion")

Debtor seeks relief without a hearing, on 14 days' notice (so called "negative notice," or a "scream or die procedure"). But it appears that an actual hearing is required, and must be held quickly, under 11 U.S.C. 1113(d) (1) ("Upon the filing of an application for rejection the court shall schedule a hearing to be held not later than fourteen days after the date of the filing of such application," although "[t]he court may extend the time for the commencement of such hearing for a period not exceeding seven days where the circumstances of the case, and the interest of justice require such extension, or for additional periods of time to which the trustee and [employee's] representative agree.").

The 1113 Motion was filed on 3/1/19. The tentative ruling is to find that granting a short extension is warranted, based on the apparent lack of prejudice from doing so, and that a hearing should be held either on 3/21/19 at 1:00 p.m. or, if the representatives of the various employee groups will consent, concurrent with the continued status conference (see below). Debtor is directed to address what efforts have been made to obtain the consent of any representative who is not present at the hearing. The tentative ruling is that Debtor must file and serve notice of the hearing date on all representatives (and other parties requiring notice) no later than 3/13/19.

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on each

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD

(c) Continued status conference: 3/26/19 at 1:00 p.m., status report due 3/12/19 (see dkt. 4). In addition, if it is necessary before that time to hold a hearing on the 1113 Motion, the status conference will also be held concurrent with that hearing.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 2/28/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

The tentative ruling, subject to any oppositions at the hearing (pursuant to the orders shortening time) is to grant the following relief and to find that, to the extent relief is granted pursuant to Rules 4001(b)(2) and 6003 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.), such relief is necessary avoid immediate and irreparable harm to the estate.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion to limit notice (dkt. 8)

Grant in substantial part, subject to certain modifications to be addressed at the hearing. Among other things, this Court anticipates that, because the motion was not served on the entire creditor matrix, any party who was not served may seek reconsideration without meeting the usual standards under Rules 9023, 9024 or 52(b) (Fed. R. Bankr. P. & Fed. R. Civ.

P., incorporated by Rules 7052 and 9014(c)).

(b) Motion to extend time (dkt. 9)

Grant, with a caution that this Court is unlikely to grant further extensions.

(c) Payroll motion (dkt. 14)

Grant, except to the extent that the proposed payments in Exhibit 1 (dkt. 14, Ex.1) exceed the priority maximum provided in 11 U.S.C. 507(a)(4) and, if applicable, 507(a)(5).

(d) Motion to use prepetition bank accounts (dkt. 12)

Grant, subject to sufficient safeguards (i) to ensure accurate accounting including separation of pre- and postpetition accounting and (ii) to prevent inadvertent payment of prepetition obligations. Debtor is directed to work closely with the Office of the United States Trustee to develop and implement such procedures.

(e) Cash collateral motion (dkt. 13)

Grant in part and deny in part on an interim basis, as set forth in calendar no. 5 (2/28/19 at 10:00 a.m.).

(f) Motion to reject unexpired leases (dkt. 24)

Grant, except that Debtor seeks rejection effective as of 2/20/19 and, although there is some authority for retroactive rejection (see, e.g., In re At Home Corp., 392 F.3d 1064 (9th Cir. 2004)), Debtor has not addressed the types of considerations that would determine whether retroactive rejection is appropriate (e.g., were the premises vacated as of 2/20/19? when were the landlords given notice that the premises would be or were vacant? were the premises left in "broom clean" condition?). Debtor is directed to address those issues at the hearing.

(g) Utility motion (dkt. 25)

Grant on an interim basis, subject to any opposition at the hearing, with a final hearing to take place at the same time as the continued status conference (see below) and a deadline of 3/1/19 for Debtor to file and serve a notice of the final hearing.

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 9/24/19:

Appearances required. This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (dkt. 38 & 40) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

Preliminary issues

(a) McNeal Defendants' Motion to Quash Cathay Bank's Subpoenas, or in the alternative, for a protective order (adv. dkt. 35) (the "Motion to Quash"), Cathay Bank's opposition (adv. dkt. 37), McNeal Defendants' reply (adv. dkt. 39)

The tentative ruling is to deny the Motion to Quash for the reasons set forth in Cathay Bank's opposition (adv. dkt. 37).

Proposed order: Cathay Bank is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(b) Motion for TRO etc. (adv.dkt.10, 18, 19, 21, 32, 33)

This matter was continued to this hearing date, but it does not appear that there are any remaining issues to address at this time. Accordingly the tentative ruling is to take this matter off calendar, without prejudice to re-noticing it to be heard at the same time as any future status conference in this adversary proceeding or the bankruptcy case. The tentative ruling is also to authorize Debtor to self-calendar this motion at 2:00 p.m., after notifying the Courtroom Deputy of Judge Bason of this authorization to do so, and to memorialize the provisions of this paragraph in a written order.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Tentative Ruling for 1/30/18:

Appearances required. The court has reviewed the parties' filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The parties must address (a) why they failed to file the required status report, (b) why the motions for joint administration/consolidation of the two closely related adversary proceedings have not been prosecuted, and (c) the following issues. The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences.

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this court should not formalize the fact that the pending mediation includes this adversary proceeding by issuing

Chapter 7

Tentative Ruling for 6/12/18:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

At the 3/6/18 hearing, this Court continued the matter to allow the parties time to meet and confer about the various deadlines that this court should set in this adversary proceeding and/or court-ordered mediation. This matter was further continued to today's date for the parties to participate in mediation on or about 5/21/18 (see Order, adv. dkt. 21). This Court also directed the parties to file a status report by 5/29/18, but the parties have not done so--for a second time.

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties are directed to address why they have not filed a status report, and to provide an oral status report, and are cautioned that continued failure to adhere to the applicable rules and orders of this Court may result in sanctions.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 4/17/18:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

At the 3/6/18 hearing, this Court continued the matter to allow the parties time to meet and confer about the various deadlines that this court should set in this adversary proceeding and/or court-ordered mediation. This court also directed the parties to file a status report by 4/3/18, but the parties have not done so.

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties are directed to address why they have not filed a status report, and to provide an oral status report, and are cautioned that continued failure to adhere to the applicable rules and orders of this Court may result in sanctions. The tentative ruling is to continue this status conference to 5/29/18 at 11:00 a.m. with a brief status report due 5/15/18.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 3/6/18:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

The parties requested a brief continuance of this status conference from 2/27/18 to today's date (see Joint Status Report, adv. dkt. 10). At the status conference on 1/23/18 there was no appearance for the plaintiff, and this Court was persuaded that it was premature to adopt the deadlines stated in the tentative ruling for that status conference (reproduced below). There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to discuss the status of this case.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Chapter 7

Reasons: At the status conference on 1/23/18 there was no appearance for the plaintiff, and this Court was persuaded that it was premature to adopt the deadlines stated in the tentative ruling for that status conference (reproduced below). The plaintiff and one defendant (the debtor) have now filed a joint status report (adv. dkt. 10) requesting a brief continuance.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 1/23/18:

Appearances required. The court has reviewed the parties' filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The parties must address why they failed to file the required status report, and also the following issues. The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences.

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority. The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/6/18 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines/dates: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 11/21/17. The tentative ruling is to set the following deadlines/dates. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to serve and lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Discovery cutoff (for completion of discovery): 5/1/18

Expert(s) - deadline for reports: 5/8/18

Expert(s) - discovery cutoff (if different from above): 5/15/18

Dispositive motions to be heard no later than: 6/26/18

Joint Status Report: 2/6/18

Continued status conference: 2/27/18 at 11:00 a.m.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

The tentative ruling on the Motion to Compel (dkt. 104) and the Order to Show Cause ("OSC," dkt. 107) is to continue these matters as requested in the response of Aston Business Solutions, Inc. This Court contemplates that the deadlines for completion of discovery and other matters will need to be extended, and the parties are directed to meet and confer and, if they can agree to new deadlines, lodge a proposed order. If they cannot agree, this Court anticipates setting new deadlines at the continued status conference.

are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Supplemental Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

The original tentative ruling (below) provides two inconsistent dates for a continued status conference: 4/30/19 at 11:00 a.m., 4/7/19 at 11:00 a.m. The latter [should be "former"] is correct. No status report required.

Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

Deny the motion to quash (with the possible exception of one aspect), address procedural issues, and then continue this Status Conference, all as set forth below. Appearances required.

Current issues:

(a) Procedures

Please see the tentative ruling for the main case status conference (calendar no. 10, 4/9/19 at 11:00 a.m.)

(b) Motion to Quash (adv. dkt. 84)

The tentative ruling is that the motion to quash (adv. dkt. 84) by Aston Business Solutions, Inc. ("ABS") is unpersuasive, except perhaps for limitations as to time, which the parties are directed to address at the hearing.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(A) Analysis re motion to quash

ABS asserts only vague objections:

(1) Competitors?

ABS asserts that it and Plaintiff are competitors. How so?

The motion does not even disclose ABS' business. Is it a timeshare owner? Is it a timeshare operator? Is it something else? (As noted below, this Court expects that it has gleaned the answer from other documents, but the tentative ruling is that this lack of even such basic information in the motion is fatal to this argument.)

(2) Protected information?

Chapter 7

ABS alleges that some sort of trade secrets or other confidential, privileged, or other type of protected information is involved. What sort of information? Why would a traditional privilege log and other tools be inadequate?

ABS complains that parties in interest in this bankruptcy case have shared information. But ABS fails to point to any prohibition on sharing information.

(3) Burden?

ABS alleges that the requested discovery is unduly burdensome. How so? Is it stored in thousands of boxes of paper files that are difficult to reach and review for some reason?

(4) Vagueness and overbreadth?

ABS alleges that the discovery requests are vague and overbroad. How so? ABS fails to provide any explanation or evidence to support this allegations.

(5) Discussion

Based on a question (not an answer) in excerpts from the deposition of ABS' President and shareholder, Glenn Chaffin, ABS may be a marketing company for "timeshare exit companies." Adv. dkt. 84, Ex.1 (Depo. Tr. 1/24/19), p.95:22-23. But how does that make ABS a "competitor" of Plaintiff, with information that would constitute trade secrets, as opposed to a facilitator of (possibly) legitimate ways to exit timeshares, who sends out non-secret flyers and other publicly known marketing materials, and assists timeshare members in navigating contracts that are known to all the parties?

Such a facilitator theoretically could benefit Plaintiff, by replacing non-paying or troubled members with paying ones - unless, of course, ABS engages in acts that improperly interfere with contractual relations or otherwise assists in the wrongdoing of which Plaintiff accuses Defendants. Plaintiff's discovery appears to be targeted at discovering information that could lead to admissible evidence on this and other relevant issues. Accordingly, the discovery appears to be entirely proper and appropriate, with the possible exception of the movant's request to impose some limitations as to time, which the parties are directed to address at the hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 2/26/19:

It appears there is little to address at this status conference, but this Court is requiring appearances to assure that this matter is moving forward. #20.00 Cont'd hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]
fr. 9/10/19

ALLIANCE PORTFOLIO, PRIVATE EQUITY FINANCE
VS
DEBTOR

Docket 40

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 9/24/19:

Please see tentative ruling for the status conference (calendar no. 21, 9/24/19 at 2:00 p.m.).

Tentative Ruling for 9/10/19:

Grant the motion of Alliance Portfolio, Private Equity Finance, Inc. ("Alliance") Motion for Relief From The Automatic Stay (dkt. 40, 41), on the terms set forth below, based on this Court's review of that motion, Debtor's opposition (dkt. 44), Alliance's reply (dkt. 50), and the other facts and circumstances, including this Court's review of Debtor's prior bankruptcy case and the order in this case (dkt.31) continuing the automatic stay. Appearances required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Chapter 11

Grant the following relief pursuant to the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within 180 days after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the grounds for "in rem" relief unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks a finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #21.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case
fr. 8/20/19

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 9/24/19:

Appearances required. The Court has reviewed the Debtor's status report (dkt. 69).

(1) Current issues

In addition to addressing the general status of this case, the following issues will be addressed.

(a) Motion of Alliance for Relief From Automatic Stay (dkt. 40)

There is no tentative ruling. The parties should be prepared to advise this Court on whether they will agree to an adequate protection order and the proposed $50,000 loan from Complete Business Solutions Group ("Complete") (dkt.69, p.2:21-25). The parties also should be prepared to address whether shortened time or other special procedures are requested regarding any proposed lending. See 11 U.S.C. 364; Rules 4001(c) & 9006(c)(2) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

(b) Contemplated contract with Majestic Ventures LLC dba VacationHomes365.com ("Consultant") re marketing (Airbnb etc.)

Debtor is contemplating a contract with Consultant for marketing services. Dkt.69, Ex.2. As that contract points out (id., sec.7.2, p.44), Debtor is responsible for complying with legal obligations regarding short term rentals, and associated costs, including local taxes.

The parties should be prepared to address whether Consultant is a "professional" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 327; whether approval of the contract with Consultant is required under that section or section 363(b); and whether shortened time or other special procedures are requested regarding any proposed agreement with Consultant. See 11 U.S.C. 327, 363(b); Rules 2002(a)(2) & 9006(c)(2) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

(c) Termination of prior real estate agent

(c) Continued status conference: 10/15/19 at 1:00 p.m to be heard concurrently with other matters on calendar. No written status report required.

Tentative Ruling for 8/20/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by debtor herself.

(1) Current issues

(a) Airbnb

Debtor's budget motion (dkt. 37, Ex.A, p.2) reveals that, although the Sweetzer property is "listed to be sold," meanwhile "Debtor intends to rent [that property] as an Airbnb." The tentative ruling is that this is a transaction out of the ordinary course, which requires notice, an opportunity for a hearing, and approval by this Court. 11 U.S.C. 363(b). Has Debtor already acted on this intent, without such approval?

In addition, this Court is concerned about (i) whether Airbnb rental would be in compliance with any local permitting and zoning requirements and is otherwise permissible, (ii) whether that proposed use might expose the bankruptcy estate to liabilities, (iii) whether there is adequate insurance for that use of the property, and (iv) whether the proposed sale of the property is consistent with any agreement with Airbnb.

(b) Real estate agent.

The employment application (dkt. 26, p.4:1-4) states that Agent has agreed to disclose to Debtor [i.e., only to Debtor? how about disclosure to creditors, the US Trustee, and this Court?] any agency relationship Agent has with other parties ("Third Parties") that may be part of a real estate transaction for the sale of the Real Property [i.e., dual agency? that is prohibited by the posted Cal. 2004); and In re Curtis, 40 B.R. 795, 799–800 (Bankr. D. Utah 1984). Appearances are not required.

(1) The automatic stay applies, but only to a limited extent

The nonbankruptcy action at issue appears to arise from a postpetition sale of real property, with allegedly undisclosed mold issues. For the most part, the automatic stay concerns prepetition claims, but the automatic stay does apply because it also prohibits, e.g., acts to "obtain possession of property of the estate" (11 U.S.C. 362(a)(3)), which would include attempts to collect any judgment out of property of the estate, such as by garnishing Debtors' postpetition wages. See 11 U.S.C. 1306.

(2) Limited relief. Modify and condition the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) such that the movant may proceed in the nonbankruptcy forum to final judgment (including any appeals) in accordance with applicable nonbankruptcy law, subject to the following limitations (Judge Bason's standard limitations).

(a) No enforcement against property of the bankruptcy estate. The stay remains in effect with respect to enforcement of any judgment against property of the debtor's bankruptcy estate - any such property shall be distributed when and how provided by the Bankruptcy Code. Nevertheless, the movant is permitted to enforce its final judgment by (i) collecting upon any available insurance in accordance with applicable nonbankruptcy law or (ii) proceeding against the debtor as to any property that is not property of this bankruptcy estate. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 362(b)(2)(B) & 541(b)(7) (collection of domestic support obligations from ERISA qualified retirement plans).

(b) Claim allowance, priority, and discharge issues. Any claims arising from the nonbankruptcy litigation are subject to this Bankruptcy Court's jurisdiction regarding claim allowance and priority, and the existence and scope of any bankruptcy discharge.

(c) No relief in other bankruptcy cases. To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

This Bankruptcy Court emphasizes that it does not seek in any way to impinge on the authority of the Nonbankruptcy Courts presiding over the nonbankruptcy action. Rather, this Bankruptcy Court takes seriously its obligations, as a subordinate unit of the District Court, to manage this bankruptcy case. Those obligations including taking into consideration the interests of creditors (who are not parties to the underlying nonbankruptcy litigation), and preserving the bankruptcy estate by placing limits on any relief from the automatic stay that Congress has mandated (11 U.S.C. 362(a) & (d)).

#8.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [NA]

DELANO FIELDS
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 46

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part and deny in part as provided below. The parties should be prepared to address the amount of time that this Court should grant Debtor an additional "breathing spell" as discussed below. Appearances required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Debtor's opposition (dkt. 66), no reply is on file as of the preparation of this tentative ruling

(1) Standing

The tentative ruling is to overrule Debtor's objection that Movant lacks standing to seek the relief requested because he does not have an allowed claim. He may not have an allowable claim, but that does not mean he lacks standing.

True, his claim cannot be allowed in this chapter 11 case as a result of his failure to timely file a proof of claim. Rule 3003(c)(2) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) provides in relevant part that "[a]ny creditor whose claim or interest is . . . scheduled as disputed, contingent, or unliquidated shall file a proof of claim or interest within the time prescribed by subdivision (c)(3)" and "any creditor who fails to do so shall not be treated as a creditor with respect to such claim for the purposes of voting and distribution." (Emphasis added.)

But Debtor cites no authority that an inability to participate in voting and distribution in the bankruptcy case means that Movant lacks a claim that can be asserted against Debtor's insurance, or that Debtor's alleged wrongdoing cannot form the basis for claims against third parties such as Debtor's principals. The tentative ruling is that, like the "in rem" rights of creditors who hold liens but fail to file a proof of claim, Movant's rights survive except for purposes of voting and distribution in the bankruptcy case.

In addition, it is premature to conclude that Movant could never have an allowable claim. For example, this case could be dismissed or converted, which could give Movant an opportunity to assert claims against Debtor. That possibility gives Movant a cognizable financial interest that is an alternative ground on which Movant has standing to seek relief from the automatic stay.

For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has not established that Movant lacks standing to bring this motion for relief from the automatic stay.

(2) Merits of the motion and opposition

The tentative ruling is (a) to grant Movant's request for an order confirming that the automatic stay does not protect the non-debtor defendants, and alternatively granting relief from the automatic stay for Movant to pursue its action(s) against such defendants, (b) to grant Movant's request for relief from stay with respect to any action to collect from insurance or third parties, but not against Debtor or the estate, and only after a short additional period of time for Debtor to have a "breathing spell," and (c) to deny Movant's request for retroactive annulment of the automatic stay, without prejudice to filing the amended complaint in Superior Court once the stay is lifted. Alternatively, although Movant's motion does not assert that mandatory abstention applies, the tentative ruling is (x) that it is proper for this Court to raise that issue sua sponte; (y) that mandatory abstention does apply; and (z) that mandatory abstention is one consideration in favor of granting relief from the automatic stay, after a short period for Debtor's "breathing spell."

(a) Legal standards

The Bankruptcy Court "shall grant relief from the stay" upon a showing of "cause." 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1). Such relief need not take the form of a complete termination of the automatic stay, but instead may include "modifying or conditioning such stay." Id.

"Cause' is determined on a case-by-case basis." In re Tucson Estates, Inc., 912 F.2d 1162, 1166 (9th Cir.1990). In determining whether "cause" exists to grant relief from the automatic stay to allow a movant to pursue litigation in a non-bankruptcy forum, courts in the Ninth Circuit have examined the factors set forth in In re Curtis, 40 B.R. 795, 799–800 (Bankr. D. Utah 1984). See In re Kronmeyer, 405 B.R. 915 (9th Cir. BAP 2009); In re Plumberex Specialty Prods., Inc., 311 B.R. 551, 559–60 (Bankr. C.D. Cal.2004). Those factors are: (1) Whether the relief will result in a partial or complete resolution of the issues; (2) The lack of any connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case; (3) Whether the foreign proceeding involves the debtor as a fiduciary; (4) Whether a specialized tribunal has been established to hear the particular cause of action and whether that tribunal has the expertise to hear such cases; (5) Whether the debtor's insurance carrier has assumed full financial responsibility for defending the litigation; (6) Whether the action essentially involves third parties, and the debtor functions only as a bailee or conduit for the goods or proceeds in question; (7) Whether the litigation in another forum would prejudice the interests of other creditors, the creditors' committee and other interested parties; (8) Whether the judgment claim arising from the foreign action is subject to equitable subordination under Section 510(c); (9) Whether movant's success in the foreign proceeding would result in a judicial lien avoidable by the debtor under Section 522(f); (10) The interests of judicial economy and the expeditious and economical determination of litigation for the parties; (11) Whether the foreign proceedings have progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial; and (12) The impact of the stay on the parties and the "balance of hurt." Plumberex, 311 B.R. at 559. "[W]hile the Curtis factors are widely used to determine the existence of 'cause,' not all of the factors are relevant in every case, nor is a court required to give each factor equal weight." In re Landmark Fence Co., Inc., 2011 WL 6826253 at *4 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 9, 2011).

(b) Non-Debtor defendants

In general, the automatic stay does not protect non-debtors, and any request to stay acts against non-debtors would require a separate adversary proceeding. See generally, In re Excel Innovations, Inc., 502 F.3d 1086 (9th Cir. 2007). That said, it can be difficult to determine whether the automatic stay applies when dealing with entities that may have intertwined finances with a debtor in bankruptcy, or when suing a related entity could be interpreted as an attempt to collect a claim against a debtor. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(3) (staying any act to obtain possession of, or exercise control over, property of estate) and (a)(6) (staying any act to collect a prepetition claim against a debtor).

In this case neither Debtor nor any other party in interest has asserted that the automatic stay prevents Movant from suing the non-debtors. In addition, the record before this Court does not reflect facts and circumstances showing that the automatic stay would apply to suing the non-debtors. Accordingly the tentative ruling is that the automatic stay does not apply.

Alternatively, the tentative ruling is that if the stay were to apply for some reason, relief from the automatic stay would be appropriate to permit Movant to pursue its action(s) against the non-debtors. Of particular note, under the authorities cited above, any such acts involve third parties, and there has been no showing of interference with or prejudice to Debtor, other creditors, or the bankruptcy estate by permitting such acts. For example, the third parties themselves may have the expense of litigation, but there is no evidence that any such expense will constitute an administrative claim against the bankruptcy estate.

(c) Debtor and the bankruptcy estate

Based on the present record, the tentative ruling is that the Curtis factors weigh in favor of granting relief as to Debtor and the bankruptcy estate. Most significantly:

As to the first Curtis factor (would relief result in partial or complete resolution of issues?), granting relief would result in a complete resolution of the issues, whereas denying relief would not, because the other defendants in the state court action are not subject to this Court's jurisdiction, and the suit involves primarily issues of state labor law. Dkt. 46, Ex. 1.

As to the second Curtis factor (connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case) and the seventh Curtis factor (prejudice to other creditors/interested parties), Debtor has pointed primarily to the expense of litigation, and also to the need for a "breathing spell." But Movant seeks relief only from applicable insurance, if any, and waives any deficiency or other claim against the Debtor or property of the Debtor's bankruptcy estate. Accordingly, after a short additional time for Debtor's "breathing spell," the tentative ruling is that lifting the stay will not result in any undue interference or prejudice in this case.

Courtroom 1545 Calendar

Tuesday, October 1, 2019

Hearing Room 1545

Unified Protective Services, Inc.

Chapter 11

As to the fifth Curtis factor (whether the debtor's insurance carrier has assumed full financial responsibility for defending the litigation), Movant asserts that the non-bankruptcy action is covered under the applicable insurance policy (see dkt. 46, p. 4, ¶ g, and Ex. 4). True, there is no evidence that the insurer has accepted coverage and will bear the expense of litigation (Movant asserts that insurance covered very similar claims before, but has not provided evidence of that assertion). But Debtor has not shown why it would be appropriate for Debtor to expend substantial sums on litigation, given that Movant has limited its recovery to insurance (if any) and third parties. Accordingly, the expense of litigation is not a major consideration.

As to the tenth and eleventh Curtis factors (judicial economy, expeditious and economical determination of litigation, and whether the non-bankruptcy proceedings have progressed to trial-readiness), Debtor points out that the non-bankruptcy action was filed shortly before the filing of the bankruptcy petition and is in the early stages of litigation. But Movant seeks a jury trial, and is pursuing third parties that appear to be beyond the jurisdiction of this Bankruptcy Court, so these factors favor lifting the automatic stay.

As for the twelfth Curtis factor (impact of the stay on the parties and the "balance of hurt"), Debtor has not explained how it would be unduly prejudiced by allowing Movant to proceed with seeking recovery from the applicable insurance provider and third parties, apart from needing a "breathing spell." Accordingly, on this record, it appears the "balance of hurt" weighs against continuation of the automatic stay beyond a short additional period of time for the "breathing spell" in which Debtor and its principal(s) can focus on this bankruptcy case and restructuring its obligations to all creditors.

For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is to grant the motion subject to a short additional period of time for a "breathing spell." The parties should be prepared to address what period of time is appropriate.

(c) Annulment

The tentative ruling is to deny Movant's request for an order annulling the stay retroactively to the petition date. First, as Debtor points out, Movant fails to explain the basis for annulment. Second, Debtor provides evidence of notice to Movant prior (just barely) to the time when Movant filed his amended complaint in Superior Court. Third, there might be prejudice to Debtor if the automatic stay were annulled because then the time for Debtor to respond to the amended complaint might have already started running, or there might be other adverse consequences, whereas if the stay is not annulled then it appears that all rights will be preserved: once the stay is terminated Movant will be free to file the amended complaint, and Debtor can respond timely.

Chapter 11

(3) Beyond the parties' papers: sua sponte consideration of mandatory abstention

Although Movant does not assert that mandatory abstention applies, the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate for this Court to consider that issue sua sponte; that mandatory abstention does apply; and that this is an additional consideration favoring relief from the automatic stay (after a short additional period of time for Debtor's "breathing spell").

In order for mandatory abstention to apply, the proceeding must: 1) be based on a state law claim or cause of action, 2) lack a federal jurisdictional basis absent the bankruptcy, 3) be commenced in a state forum of appropriate jurisdiction, 4) be capable of timely adjudication, and 5) be a non-core proceeding. 28 U.S.C. 1334(c)(2). [In re Conejo Enterprises, Inc., 71 F.3d 1460, 1464 (9th Cir. 1995), further proceedings at 96 F.3d 346 (9th Cir. 1996).]

The tentative ruling is that each one of these elements is satisfied so this Bankruptcy Court must abstain. That said, abstention and lifting the automatic stay are two separate considerations (see Conejo, 96 F.3d 346) and the tentative ruling is that although abstention favors relief from the automatic stay, a short additional "breathing spell" is still appropriate.

For these additional reasons, the tentative ruling is to grant the motion, subject to a short additional "breathing spell." Again, the parties should be prepared to address how much time is appropriate.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay.
See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Option for shortened time: This Court has selected a continued hearing date that contemplates shortened notice (per Rule 9006) but that date is conditioned on the movant (i) serving, on the day after the current hearing date, the motion papers and notice of the continued hearing date, and (ii) filing that notice and a proof of service no later than the next day. Alternatively, the movant may self-calendar a continued hearing on regular notice.

Option for interim/partial order: Movant may elect to lodge a proposed order granting the partial relief provided in this tentative ruling, but any such order must recite that a continued hearing has been set to consider additional relief (or, alternatively, that the movant no longer seeks additional relief and the Clerk's office is requested and directed to take the continued hearing off calendar).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Chapter 13

#12.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order
Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic
Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 10

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions. Appearances are not required.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #1.00 Hrg re: Motion to individual chapter 11 case for order authorizing use of cash collateral

Tentative Ruling:

Grant the motion (docket no. 19) on an interim basis, subject to the conditions set forth below, with a final hearing on 10/29/19 at 1:00 p.m., and a deadline of 10/3/19 for the movant to file and serve a notice of the final hearing provided that service on all persons with a potential interest in Debtor's cash must be served in strict compliance with Rule 7004 (Fed.R.Bankr.P.) - see the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov). Appearances required.

As to the cash that allegedly is collateral of Beverly Partners, LLC, continue this hearing pursuant to its stipulation with the debtor (dkt.31) and this Court's order thereon. As to all properties/sources of cash, Debtor must segregate cash so that there is no commingling.

Judge Bason's standard conditions for use of cash collateral and/or postpetition financing (by creditors holding prepetition claims)

(1) Written order

(a) Form. Use local form

F2081-1.1.ORDER.CASH.COLLATERAL or the equivalent. Attach a copy of this tentative ruling as an exhibit, thereby adopting it as the written ruling of this Court, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. Do not repeat the terms set forth in the motion or any stipulation. Incorporate those terms by reference (including the docket number of the document), subject to any modification by this Court.

(b) Timing. Lodge the proposed order within 7 days after the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Minimum adequate protection

In addition to the postpetition security interests that are automatically provided pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 552 (e.g., in traceable proceeds and profits), and subject to any more comprehensive protection that may be included in the motion or related papers, Debtor shall provide at least the following protection to any creditor with a security interest in the subject property (pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 361-364, as applicable):

(a) Insurance. For all collateral of a type that typically is insured (e.g., real property and improvements), Debtor is directed to maintain insurance in a dollar amount at least equal to Debtor's good faith estimate of the value of such creditor's interest in the collateral, and such insurance shall name such creditor as an additional insured. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments for such insurance.

(b) Taxes. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments on account of postpetition real estate taxes (to the extent that real estate is part of the collateral).

(c) Disclosures/access. Debtor is directed to provide, upon such creditor's reasonable request, periodic accountings of the foregoing insurance and tax obligations and payments, as well as postpetition proceeds, products, offspring, or profits from the collateral, including gross revenues and expenses and a calculation of net revenues, including any rents and any fees, charges, accounts, or other payments for the use or occupancy of rooms and other public facilities in lodging properties (as all of the foregoing terms are used in 11 U.S.C. 552). Debtor is directed to provide appropriate documentation of those accountings, and access for purposes of inspection or appraisal.

(3) Limitation on postpetition liens

In the event that the motion or related papers seek authority to grant postpetition liens to the creditor(s) with respect to prepetition debts any such liens shall be limited to the same validity, priority, and amount as prepetition liens. As used herein, the "validity, priority, and amount" or any similar phrase that may be used by the parties or this Court is deemed to include the following:

(a) Extent. Such liens shall be limited to the type of collateral in which the creditor held a security interest as of the petition date, unless this order expressly states that the liens granted by this order are intended to attach to different types of collateral from the prepetition collateral. For example, if prepetition liens extended to inventory and accounts receivable but not equipment then postpetition liens are likewise limited (unless otherwise expressly provided by order of this Court). In addition, postpetition liens shall not extend to the proceeds of any avoidance actions, any recoveries under 11 U.S.C. 506(c), or any "carveout" under 11 U.S.C. 552.

(b) Priority. Such liens shall be limited to the same priority as the security interest held by the creditor as of the petition date.

(c) Dollar amount. Such liens shall be limited to the dollar amount needed to protect the creditor against diminution in the value of the secured claims as of the petition date.

(d) Enforceability. Such liens shall be limited to the extent that the creditor's security interests were duly perfected and valid as of the petition date, and to the extent that they are unavoidable.

(e) Automatic postpetition perfection. Any automatic perfection of such liens shall be subject to any applicable limitations regarding the Court's authority, jurisdiction, or due process.

(4) Automatic disapproval of insufficiently disclosed provisions

Any provision of the type listed in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or in local form F4001-2 (e.g., cross-collateralization) or any waiver of the "equities of the case" exception in 11 U.S.C. 552(b)(2) shall be deemed automatically disapproved and excepted from any order granting the motion, notwithstanding any other provision of such order, unless either: (a) such provision is specifically and prominently disclosed in the motion papers in a checklist (such as local form F4001-2), or alternatively (b) such provision is specifically identified in any proposed order granting the motion, using terminology of the type used in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or local form F4001-2 (e.g., any "cross-collateralization" that is not specifically identified as such is deemed to be disapproved).

(5) Disputes

In the event of any disputes regarding the rulings in this order, the parties are directed to meet and confer and, if they cannot resolve their disputes consensually, contact Judge Bason's chambers to arrange a mutually convenient time for either a telephonic or in-person hearing to address such disputes.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 10/1/19:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor(s) and by Debtor himself.

(1) Current issues

(a) Cash collateral motion

Grant (subject to this Court's standard conditions, see calendar no.1, 10/1/19 at 1:00 p.m.), provided that Debtor must address why this motion was not self-calendared for hearing until over a month after the petition date, and whether, meanwhile, has Debtor (i) been using cash collateral without authorization (in violation of 11 U.S.C. 363(c)) or (ii) not been using cash collateral, and hence failing to pay ordinary and necessary business and personal expenses, in violation of Debtor's duties to pay postpetition debts as they come due and preserve and maximize the value of the bankruptcy estate. 11 U.S.C. 1107(a) and 1108, and 28 U.S.C. 959(b). The tentative ruling is that, although this is not yet sufficient cause for appointment of a chapter 11 trustee or other remedies, it may factor into consideration of any such remedies in future.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 8/30/19.

(a) Bar date: 12/13/19 (see Order, dkt.28).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD. Debtor must use the forms required by Judge Bason (DO NOT SERVE yet, except on the U.S. Trustee - this Court will set a deadline and procedures at a later time).

Tentative Ruling for 9/24/19:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor(s) and by Debtor himself.

(1) Current issues

(a) Budget Motion

Debtor's status report incorrectly states that a budget motion is not required by the presiding judge's procedures. Dkt. 20, p.3. See posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at cacb.uscourts.gov) (the "Bason Procedures") Section VII.G. In addition, a budget motion appears to be particularly important in this case because most of Debtor's income and expenses are effectively hidden and/or mis-reported.

Debtor's Bankruptcy Schedule I reports that he is an interior designer/hair stylist (dkt.22, at PDF p.27), his Statement Of Financial Affairs ("SOFA") lists various "dba" enterprises that might or might not reflect other business ventures, and Debtor apparently rents out some of his properties using Airbnb, but there is no breakdown of any of this. Contrary to the instructions on line 8a of Schedule I, debtor lists only a total net dollar amount for all businesses/properties combined - $22,598.00 per month - and fails to attach a statement for each business/property showing gross receipts, ordinary and necessary business expenses, and the calculation of net income. Also, in apparent contradiction of this alleged monthly net income, the SOFA (dkt. 22 at PDF p.31) lists gross income of $20,000 for the year to date (9 months), $7,875 for 2018, and $28,223 for 2017. (Perhaps Debtor listed monthly net income instead of yearly gross income - if so he must file a corrected SOFA.)

The tentative ruling is to direct Debtor to file an amended Schedule I and an amended SOFA, and to file and serve a budget motion and any other documents that are necessary or appropriate to correct the foregoing deficiencies, no later than 9/27/19.

(b) Bankruptcy Schedule G

(c) Cash collateral

Even though this case was filed on 8/30/19, Debtor did not self-calendar his cash collateral motion for hearing until over a month later, on 10/1/19 at 1:00 p.m. Meanwhile, has Debtor (i) been using cash collateral without authorization (in violation of 11 U.S.C. 363(c)) or (ii) not been using cash collateral, and hence failing to pay ordinary and necessary business and personal expenses, in violation of Debtor's duties to pay postpetition debts as they come due and preserve and maximize the value of the bankruptcy estate. 11 U.S.C. 1107(a) and 1108, and 28 U.S.C. 959(b). The tentative ruling is that, although this is not yet sufficient cause for appointment of a chapter 11 trustee or other remedies, it may factor into consideration of any such remedies in future.

(d) Employment Application

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 9/27/19 for Debtor to file and serve local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTERESTED.PROF in support of Debtor's application to employ Eric Bensamochan as his bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 18). See Bason Procedures Section VII.D.

Chapter 11

brief status report in both proceedings no later than 10/15/19.

(1) Overview

(a) Contentions

The parties' disputes arise from a stipulation gone wrong. See Stip. (dkt. 135, the "Stipulation"), approved by Order (dkt.107). Debtor asserts that the Stipulation had the effect of substituting him in place of the original borrower. Debtor claims that the bearer of the promissory note, Bank of America, N.A. ("BofA"), and its agents including its loan servicers (with BofA, "Creditors"), wrongfully refused to communicate with him, refused to accept some payments, and wrongfully foreclosed on his rental property at 12902 Fairford Ave., Norwalk, CA (the "Fairford Property").

Creditors assert that Debtor was never substituted as a new borrower. They dispute that they ever refused to accept any payments.

Alternatively, Creditors argue that, even if there is a factual dispute about whether Debtor tendered some payments, Debtor never alleges in his Complaint that he tendered all payments. In fact, according to Creditors, Debtor failed to make a substantial number of payments - i.e., even if he had been substituted as the borrower under the loan documents he was in default anyway, so the Fairford Property was subject to foreclosure.

(b) Summary of analysis

As set forth below, a fair reading of the Stipulation is that, as Debtor asserts, he was effectively substituted for the original borrower. In effect, the Stipulation and the Plan rewrote the terms of the loan and made Debtor the borrower and mortgagor.

But Debtor does not allege in his Complaint or in his opposition to Creditors' MTD that he tendered the (much reduced) payments he promised. So the Fairford Property was subject to foreclosure regardless whether he was or was not recognized as the borrower.

Debtor also complains that the creditors refused to communicate with him, but he has not alleged how any lack of communication caused him any harm, or how a failure to communicate is itself grounds to state some sort of a claim (e.g., some sort of presumptive statutory damages for non-communication).

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's Complaint does not state a claim either based on any allegedly wrongful refusal to accept payments, or for failure to communicate, or for foreclosure. Therefore it appears appropriate to grant the MTDs, and the remaining question is whether to grant leave to amend.

Conceivably Debtor could assert that, if he had only been able to communicate with Creditors, they might have granted him a further loan modification. That might (or might not) state a claim under the Homeowner Bill Of Rights ("HBOA") (Cal.Civ.C. 2923.7) or some other claim.

But any allegation that Debtor was deprived of an opportunity to obtain a further loan modification appears to be implausible, on the record presently before this Court. BofA and Debtor previously stipulated that it had a secured claim of $383,000.00 (Stip., dkt. 105, p.3:22-24), but BofA nevertheless agreed to modify the loan down to $250,000.01 (Disclosure Statement, Ex.H, Endnote 2, at dkt.130-2, PDF p.3), as a result of which Debtor now asserts that he had $200,000 of equity in the Fairford Property (dkt. 197, p.11:13-18). This Court is not aware of any reason why a creditor who is (allegedly) so oversecured would voluntarily agree to write down its debt even further, so it is not apparent how Debtor was harmed by any inability to communicate with Creditors. Therefore, the tentative ruling is to grant the MTDs without leave to amend.

Debtor's Contempt Motion is subject to the same obstacles set forth above: (i) Debtor's apparent lack of harm from refusal to accept partial payments, because he could not afford full payment; and (ii) the lack of apparent harm from non-communication, because he had no plausible ability to obtain a further loan modification.

Alternatively, the Contempt Motion is subject to a more fundamental flaw: Debtor asserts violation of the discharge injunction, but he never obtained a discharge order. Alternatively, Debtor has not alleged any in personam collection efforts, only in rem, and in rem acts do not violate any discharge injunction.

For each of these alternative reasons, the tentative ruling is to deny the Sanctions Motion without leave to amend.

(2) Procedural history

Two separate proceedings are involved.

(a) The Complaint

On 4/9/19 Debtor filed a Complaint commencing an adversary proceeding (the "Complaint," adv. no. 2:19-ap-01103-NB, adv. dkt. 1). The Complaint seeks damages of not less than $1.5 million (id., p.33:23), based on claims for wrongful foreclosure, intentional and negligent misrepresentation, fraud, violation of the HBOR, violation of the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(a)), etc. The Complaint names as defendants BofA; Fay Servicing, LLC ("Fay"); Wilmington Savings Fund Society, FSB d/b/a Christiana Trust, Not Individually But As Trustee For Hilldale Trust ("Wilmington"); BSI Financial Services, Inc. ("BSI"); and National Default Servicing Corporation ("NatDefault").

Responding to the Complaint, MTDs have been filed by BofA (adv.dkt.8,9) and by Fay, Wilmington and BSI (collectively, the "Fay Parties," adv.dkt.11,13). NatDefault has filed a joinder in the Fay Parties' MTD (adv.dkt.15). Debtor has filed opposition papers (adv.dkt. 24-27), and BofA and Fay have filed replies (adv.dkt. 28, 29).

(b) Contempt Motion

On 6/26/19 Debtor filed a motion for damages pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 105 (the "Contempt Motion," dkt. 197). The Contempt Motion seeks damages of $400,000 in emotional distress damages, $200,000 for loss of equity to the property, $70,000 for improvements to the property, and miscellaneous other damages. Dkt. 197, p.11:13-18. The Contempt Motion alleges that BofA willfully failed to adhere to the terms of the Stipulation, and it asserts that in doing so BofA violated the discharge injunction (11 U.S.C. 524(a)(2), as modified by 11 U.S.C. 1141(d)(5)).

Responding to the Contempt Motion, BofA has filed opposition papers (dkt. 205, 206). So have the Fay Parties (dkt.202-04), on the basis that Debtor "implies that Fay and BSI could be liable for their conduct in servicing the loan and in proceeding with foreclosure." Adv.dkt.202, p.2:20-21. Debtor has filed reply papers (dkt. 208).

(3) Procedural issues

(a) Jurisdiction, and request for abstention

BofA argues that Debtor asserts only State law claims. See BofA MTD (adv.dkt.8) p.1:13-14. The Fay Parties make a similar argument. See Reply-MTD (adv.dkt.28) pp.3:7-4:26. Based on these assertions they question this Bankruptcy Court's jurisdiction and assert that this Court should abstain.

Those arguments are not persuasive. First, technically, Debtor's Complaint (adv.dkt.1) asserts a claim for violation of the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(a)), and Debtors' Contempt Motion (main case, dkt. 197) asserts a violation of the discharge injunction (11 U.S.C. 524), and those are claims arise under the Bankruptcy Code. True, this Court's tentative ruling is that neither claim has merit, but until this Court reaches the merits those claims do create "arising under" jurisdiction. 28 U.S.C. 1334.

More importantly, the remaining claims asserted by Debtors are founded on the Stipulation and, at least implicitly, Debtors' chapter 11 plan (the "Plan," dkt.129) and this Court's orders approving the Stipulation (dkt.107) and confirming the Plan (the "Confirmation Order," dkt.151). The effect of all of those things (according to Debtors, and this tentative ruling) was to restructure Debtor's relationship with BofA and substituting Debtor in place of the original borrower.

The Stipulation, the Plan, and this Court's orders all arose in this bankruptcy case, and this Court is in the best position to interpret the Stipulation, the Plan, and this Court's own orders based on the facts and circumstances of this bankruptcy case. In addition, the Plan provides that (with inapplicable exceptions) this Court retains post-confirmation jurisdiction over a wide range of proceedings, including "sanctions" and "the implementation, interpretation, or enforcement of this Plan" See Plan, dkt.129, p.6, Article V, Part. F.

For all of these reasons the tentative ruling is that this Court has jurisdiction, and that abstention would be inappropriate. See 28 U.S.C. 1334 and In re Tucson Estates, Inc., 912 F.2d 1162, 1166 (9th Cir.1990); In re Plumberex Specialty Prods., Inc., 311 B.R. 551, 559-60 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2004); In re Landmark Fence Co., Inc., 2011 WL 6826253 at *4 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 9, 2011).

(b) Whether the Contempt Motion should have been filed in the adversary proceeding instead of the bankruptcy case

In general, civil contempt must be sought by a contested matter rather than an adversary proceeding. See Barrientos v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., 633 F.3d 1186, 1190-91 (9th Cir. 2011). But in this instance the Contempt Motion, which was filed in the main case (albeit with the double-caption of an adversary proceeding) arises from the same nucleus of operative facts as the Complaint, and in addition the Contempt Motion was filed after the Complaint, so perhaps Debtors' claim about violation of the discharge injunction and request for sanctions should have been included in the adversary proceeding, either as one of Debtor's claims or perhaps as a separate motion. But the tentative ruling is not to address this issue: it has not been briefed, and the tentative ruling is that this Court need not decide this issue sua sponte. See

(4) Merits of the MTDs and the Complaint

(a) Interpretation of the Stipulation, and related documents

The stipulation (dkt. 197, Ex.C, at PDF pp.22-28) reads like an agreement to treat Debtor as the substituted borrower. It obligates Debtor to make payments on BofA's secured claim in a specified dollar amount each month, at a specified interest rate, and provides that BofA will retain its security interest "until the secured claim is paid in full per the terms of the Note and Deed of Trust as modified by this Stipulation." Id. para.4. Why would Debtor and BofA agree to these things unless they intended to treat Debtor as the new mortgagor?

Even more telling, the remaining portion of BofA's claim is treated as an unsecured claim against Debtor (id., para. 7) - in other words, Debtor is treated as having personal liability on the debt. Why would BofA and Debtor so stipulate unless Debtor had been substituted for the original borrower under the promissory note?

The Stipulation is incorporated into the Plan and the Confirmation Order. The latter states that "Class 2B creditor, Bank of America, N.A. ("B of A"), shall be entitled to immediate relief from the automatic stay and the claim shall be treated consistent with the Stipulation between Debtor and B of A (Docket No. 105), approved by Order of the Court (Docket No. 107)." Confirmation Order (dkt.151), p.2:18-21 (emphasis added).

For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that Debtor's interpretation of the Stipulation is correct. Debtor should have been recognized by BofA as having been substituted for the original borrower, and, at least once this was pointed out to BofA, it should have corroborated that fact to the other Creditors.

The question is whether Debtor has asserted any cognizable claims based on Creditors' refusal to recognize him as the borrower. The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not stated any such claims.

(b) Debtor's allegations: not accepting payments; not communicating; and foreclosing

Debtor asserts a failure to accept some payments. See, e.g., Complaint (adv.dkt.1) para.113, at p.23:21-26. Creditors dispute this, and also assert that Debtor never tendered enough to cure the defaults. Debtor's allegations in the Complaint never say otherwise. BofA cites authority that this is fatal to Debtor's claims for wrongful foreclosure. See BofA MTD (adv.dkt.8), pp.8:17-9:11.

Debtor also cite no authority that there is any duty to accept partial payments. Nor does Debtor explain how, even if there was such a duty, he was damaged by the refusal to accept partial payments. If he could not afford to make full payments, he was subject to foreclosure, and therefore if he was prevented from making partial payments it appears that he was only prevented from throwing good money after bad.

The Complaint alleges a failure to communicate with Debtor, but most of Debtor's claims do not assert any duty to communicate with him. An exception is the 6th claim for relief (adv.dkt.1, p.20:12 et seq) asserts violation of the HBOR (Cal.Civ.C. 2923.7) which does appear to establish a duty to communicate with the borrower (through a single point of contact). But, again, it is unclear how Debtor suffered any harm from any lack of communication.

To the contrary it appears that lenders have no duty to offer, consider, or approve loan modifications. See, e.g., Sheen v. Wells Fargo Bank, NA, ___ Cal.App.5th ___ (2d Div. 8/5/2019).

The Complaint's eighth claim for relief (adv.dkt.1, p.25:3 et seq.) alleges fraud in inducing Debtor to enter into the Stipulation if, despite making payments, Debtor would be subject to foreclosure. There appear to be grounds for that assertion but, again, Debtor has not established any harm from Creditors' failure to recognize him as successor to the original borrower pursuant to the Stipulation, because he has not asserted that he tendered the full monthly payments.

As set forth in the Overview (part "(1)" of this tentative ruling) the bottom line is that the Complaint does not appear to state any claims on which relief may be granted. Nor is it apparent how Debtor could amend the Complaint to state a viable claim.

(5) Merits of the Contempt Motion

Debtor seeks a determination that Creditors are in contempt of court for violation of the discharge injunction, and Debtor seeks compensatory damages, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 105(a). See Contempt Motion (dkt. 197), p.8:22-24 (asserting violation of "an order issued by this Court - i.e., the Discharge Order"). See also, e.g., In re Dyer, 322 F.3d 1178, 1190 (9th Cir.

2003). Debtor has the burden to establish, by clear and convincing evidence, that Creditors violated a specific and definite order of this Court, including a "deemed" order such as the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362) or the discharge injunction (11 U.S.C. 524). See id. and FTC v. Affordable Media, LLC, 179 F.3d 1228, 1239 (9th Cir. 1999).

(a) Debtor has not established that he ever received a discharge

Debtor has not established any violation of a discharge injunction because, under 11 U.S.C. 1141(d)(5), an individual debtor is not discharged "until the court grants a discharge on completion of all payments under the plan," unless the court orders otherwise for cause after notice and a hearing. Nothing in the Plan or the Confirmation Order suggests otherwise. See Plan (dkt.129), Article IV.A. (discharge is per section 1141(d)); Confirmation Order (dkt. 151) (all terms and conditions of Plan are incorporated into order).

For this reason, this Court's local forms permit a chapter 11 case to be closed on an interim basis and reopened later "so that a motion for entry of discharge ... may be filed and resolved." See dkt. 170, p.3, para.3.b. The docket does not reflect any motion for entry of a discharge, and the 60 month term of the Plan has yet to run, so apparently he is not yet eligible for a discharge. Accordingly, there could be no violation of any discharge injunction.

(b) The discharge injunction only prohibits in personam collection, and Debtor only alleges in rem acts

The discharge injunction in section 524 states:

(a) A discharge under this title --

(2) operates as an injunction against the commencement or continuation of an action, the employment of process, or any act, to collect, recover or offset any [discharged] debt as a personal liability of the debtor, whether or not discharge of such debt is waived [11 U.S.C. 524(a)(2) (emphasis added)]

Because the discharge injunction only prohibits efforts to collect debts as a personal liability of the debtor, "secured creditors can foreclose their liens after the discharge is entered." In re Marino, 577 B.R. 772, 783-84 (9th Cir. BAP 2017) (citations and internal quotation marks omitted)).

Debtor does not allege any in personam collection efforts. He asserts wrongful foreclosure, but foreclosure is an in rem act. Therefore, even if the discharge injunction applied (which it does not), Debtor's allegations would not establish any violation of that injunction.

(6) Conclusion

For all of the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is to grant the Creditors' MTDs, dismiss the Complaint without leave to amend, and deny Debtor's Contempt Motion without leave to amend. The tentative ruling is to continue the status conferences so that the parties have time to consider what they will do next, and so that this Court can address any ancillary matters that may be presented.

Tentative Ruling for 7/30/19:

Continue to 8/20/19 at 2:00 p.m. (1) in view of the notice of unavailability of Plaintiff/Debtor's counsel (adv. dkt. 20) and (2) to be concurrent with the pending motions to dismiss (adv. dkt. 8, 11, 15). Appearances are not required on 7/30/19.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/16/19 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 1/29/19. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Discovery cutoff (for completion of discovery): 7/9/19, subject to adjustment at next status conference depending on Alvarez issues (see Status Report, adv. dkt. 4, section G).

related matters. No status report required.

(e) Pimentel Adv., Affeld Grivakes' motion to dismiss first amended complaint (adv. dkt. 24) ("MTD"), Mr. Pimentel's opposition (adv. dkt. 30), Affeld Grivakes' reply (adv. dkt. 32)

The tentative ruling is to grant the MTD, without leave to amend, only as against Affeld Grivakes LLP ("Affeld-G"), as follows.

(i) Plaintiff has not alleged sufficient facts to state a claim for constructive trust or restitution, and any associated declaratory relief

Plaintiff's first claim for relief appears in parts to seek only declaratory relief, and in other parts it apparently seeks a constructive trust against settlement proceeds that allegedly were used to fund the litigation of cases transferred from Layfield & Barret (the alleged alter ego of Mr. Layfield) to Mr. Barrett and then from him to Affeld-G. Specifically, Plaintiff alleges that an unspecified amount of funds owed to Plaintiff "were used to fund one or two of Layfield's pending contingency fee cases." (First Amended Complaint ("FAC"), adv. dkt. 20, p. 8:3-4).

Plaintiff has not cited any legal authority establishing the imposition of a constructive trust on facts similar to those alleged in the FAC – i.e. where Plaintiff's money was allegedly converted into services that were commingled with other services that resulted in a recovery in a different case. The tentative ruling is that this is several "bridges too far" - Plaintiff may well have a claim against L&B and/or Mr. Layfield (and possibly others, such as Mr. Barrett), but the FAC fails to allege sufficient grounds for the imposition of any constructive trust in these circumstances.

Absent any constructive trust, the other aspects of this claim for relief do not appear to have any basis. The tentative ruling is that Plaintiff has failed to state a claim for relief for declaratory relief, the imposition of a constructive trust, or restitution.

(ii) Plaintiff has not alleged sufficient facts to state a claim for relief under 727(a)(2)

Plaintiff's second claim for relief asserts a claim under 11 U.S.C. Section 727(a)(2). Although Plaintiff argues in opposition to the MTD that he has alleged sufficient facts to state a claim for avoidance of a fraudulent transfer (adv. dkt. 30, p. 13:1-3), he insists that he is only seeking relief under Section 727 and not 11 U.S.C. 548 (id., p. 30:5-14). Because Section 727 is limited to whether to grant or deny a debtor's discharge, and Affeld-G is not a debtor, Plaintiff has not and cannot state a claim against Affeld-G under Section 727(a)(2).

(iii) Plaintiff's request for leave to amend

The tentative ruling is that, for the reasons stated above, leave to amend would be futile. The tentative ruling is to dismiss the complaint (solely as against Affeld-G) without leave to amend.

(2) Deadlines/dates. The L&B case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 on 8/3/17 and converted to chapter 11 on 8/11/17 (L&B dkt. 25). The Lay-Invol case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 case on 5/21/18 and an order for relief was entered on 12/12/18 (Lay-Invol dkt. 160, 161).

(b) Lay-Invol Bar date: 4/12/19 (timely served, Lay-Invol dkt.180)

(c) L&B Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD. Do not file or serve until further order of this court.

(b) Mr. Layfield has not filed adequate proofs of service

Mr. Layfield's papers lack adequate proofs of service. He apparently takes the position that this Court has excused him from serving papers and/or filling out proofs of service. He is wrong.

Mr. Layfield's position is reflected in his recent proofs of service (Lay-Invol. dkt.243 & 244, p.3, para.2) which assert that the "clerk [of this Court] shall issue NEF and Debtor is not required to serve those parties on List to Receive NEF," allegedly pursuant to "10/22/18 Docket #128 [sic]." (Emphasis added.) The referenced Docket #128 is irrelevant: it is a proof of service of a joinder in the involuntary petition. See L&B dkt.128.

Mr. Layfield apparently means to refer to this Court's "PDF Protocol" (Lay-Invol. dkt.88, adopted by Order at Lay-Invol.dkt.111, p.3:8-11 and L&B dkt.367). The PDF Protocol is a special accommodation to Mr. Layfield: as set forth in therein, he had (among other things) filed one motion that he estimated to be 3,500 to 4,000 pages long, and such voluminous papers were causing an undue burden and delays for all parties in interest and this Court's staff; but, rather than limit the number of pages that Mr. Layfield could file, this Court adopted the PDF Protocol.

The PDF Protocol requires Mr. Layfield (i) to file documents in PDF format on CDs and (ii) to serve "each person whom he is required to serve under the applicable rules or any orders of this Court" by mailing them such CDs with PDFs. Lay-Invol.dkt.88, p.5:3-14. Notwithstanding this special requirement (to serve CDs with PDFs via U.S. mail), Mr. Layfield is excused from serving CDs for those parties who are served via NEF. Id. But nothing excuses him from the requirements that he, like every other party, must serve everyone who is required to be served and file a proof of service, which must identify who was served via NEF.

These requirements are important. Among other things, not everyone is served via NEF, and even for those parties who are on NEF a proper proof of service is required to identify those parties, including an explicit indication of how they are "related to the case or adversary proceeding." LBR 9013-3(d); and see LBR 9001-1(39), 9013-1(e). For example, if there were a hypothetical NEF email address of "xyz@randomemail.com" that would not identify who was served, so a proper proof of service should state something like: "John Doe, Esq., Attorney for Bank of the North Pole, at xyz@randomemail.com." Otherwise parties in interest, and this Court, are not notified who was actually served.

There are numerous other problems with Mr. Layfield's service of papers. Examples include failure to state what document was (allegedly) served, failure to have someone (not a party to the proceeding) sign the proof of service, and failure to serve persons who are required to be served. These defects are addressed below if they appear sufficiently problematic to affect the outcome.

(c) Mr. Layfield has failed to establish that he has standing and/or is the real party in interest

This Bankruptcy Court has an independent duty to consider whether any person who seeks or opposes any relief has standing to do so. This Court also must consider the closely related concept of whether such person is the real party in interest. See In re Veal, 450 B.R. 897, 906-08 (9th Cir. BAP 2011).

Mr. Layfield has not established how he has standing and is the real party in interest in any of the matters on which he has filed papers. In general a chapter 7 debtor is supplanted by a bankruptcy trustee who controls the bankruptcy estate, and such a debtor lacks standing, and is not the real party in interest, (a) to pursue any claims that used to belong to the debtor and now belong to his bankruptcy estate (i.e., any claims that Mr. Layfield might have had against the L&B chapter 11 estate generally belong to his chapter 7 bankruptcy estate, and are controlled by the Lay-Invol Trustee, not by Mr. Layfield), (b) to object to creditors' claims, (c) to seek removal of a chapter 7 or chapter 11 trustee, or (d) to request any similar relief in the chapter 7 or chapter 11 cases.

In common sense terms, how a chapter 7 bankruptcy estate is administered and divided among creditors is a matter of concern to creditors, not a chapter 7 debtor. There is an exception if, for example, the chapter 7 debtor provides evidence of the likely solvency of the bankruptcy estate, because then the allowance or disallowance of claims might actually affect the debtor. But Mr. Layfield's motion papers provide no evidence that the estate is solvent or any other relevant facts. Accordingly the tentative ruling is that he has forfeited any such arguments.

Alternatively, even if this Court did not start with the usual rule that a chapter 7 debtor generally lacks standing, the tentative ruling is that there is prima facie evidence in the record of these particular cases that Mr. Layfield lacks standing and is not the real party in interest. Mr. Layfield has not rebutted that evidence.

To be clear, this Court is not ruling that it would be impossible for Mr. Layfield to establish that he has standing and is the real party in interest. Perhaps he could have done so. The point is only that, on the present record, he appears to lack standing and not be the real party in interest, and he has failed to show otherwise.

Alternatively, this Court is addressing the merits as set forth below.

(d) Mr. Layfield's motion to compel (L&B dkt. 443), Chapter 11 Trustee's opposition (L&B dkt. 452), and Mr. Layfield's Reply (L&B dkt. 453, filed 9/9/19 at 3:17 p.m.)

(i) Striking the motion is an appropriate remedy for Mr. Layfield's use of these proceedings for improper purposes

The tentative ruling is to strike the motion to compel for the reasons stated in the Chapter 11 Trustee's opposition. See L&B dkt.452, pp.6:17-7:24. Specifically, the tentative findings of fact are that Mr. Layfield, as a (former) attorney with years of experience, is well aware of the need to file motion papers with evidence and citations to appropriate authority; in addition and alternatively he has been warned repeatedly by this Court of the need to do so; and on the present record the tentative ruling is that this Court must find that his continued failure to do so is for the improper purpose of attempting to harass the L&B Trustee and needlessly increase the cost of litigation, and that the appropriate remedy is to strike his motion.

Likewise, the tentative ruling is that even if the motion is not struck the reply must be struck because it cites no authority or evidence and was filed so late.

(ii) Alternatively, the motion was not properly served

The tentative ruling is that Mr. Layfield was required to serve "all creditors" and other parties in interest with his motion, pursuant to Rule 2002(a)(2) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). In seeking to compel the L&B Trustee to expend estate resources to attempt to reconstruct L&B records and file tax returns or do other acts, contrary to the business judgment of the L&B Trustee, Mr. Layfield is proposing a extraordinary "use" of property of the bankruptcy estate within the meaning of that rule.

Alternatively, the tentative ruling is that under Rule 9007 and 9013(b), all creditors and parties in interest must be served. In addition, basic notions of due process require that all creditors and parties in interest be informed of a request for an order compelling the bankruptcy estate to use resources (potentially very substantial resources) to perform acts that might be of little or no benefit to the estate and creditors, and might even be a detriment (by wedding the estate to a position as to historical facts that might not be true).

In addition, Mr. Layfield's proof of service is inadequate for the reasons noted in part "(1)(b)" of this tentative ruling.

For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that all creditors and parties in interest should have been served and that there is no proof of any such service. That is an alternative basis on which the motion must be denied.

(iii) Alternatively, Mr. Layfield has not established that he has standing or is the real party in interest

Mr. Layfield's last-minute Reply (L&B dkt. 453) fails to address the L&B Trustee's argument (L&B dkt.452, p.8:1-17) that he lacks standing. The tentative ruling is that he has forfeited any contrary argument.

Alternatively, even if contrary arguments are not forfeited, the tentative ruling is that, on the present record, there is prima facie evidence that Mr. Layfield lacks standing and is not the real party in interest, and Mr. Layfield has not rebutted that evidence. Of course, this Court recognizes that failure to file tax returns or other documents can give rise to penalties or other liabilities. But whatever tax returns were or were not filed during Mr. Layfield's tenure with L&B are matters of historical fact. He has not shown how the trustees' non-filing or delayed filing of tax returns (or any other acts that he seeks) would affect him in any way that would give him standing.

(iv) Alternatively, the motion must be denied on the merits

The tentative ruling is that it is appropriate for this Court to defer to the L&B Trustee's reasonable business judgment as to whether and how to attempt to reconstruct L&B's records, when and how to prepare and file tax returns, and other matters. The Trustee's opposition papers set forth more than adequate grounds for his exercise of that business judgment. See L&B dkt.452, pp.8:17-10:5. See generally In re Pomona Valley Med. Group, Inc., 476 F.3d 665, 670 (9th Cir. 2006) ("courts are no more equipped to make subjective business decisions for insolvent business than they are for solvent businesses, so we have no difficulty concluding that its formulation in corporate litigation is also appropriate here") (citation omitted).

("Preference Adv."), status conference

Continue to 12/10/19 at 2:00 p.m., at the parties' request (adv. dkt. 29), with a brief status report due 11/26/19.

(f) Mr. Layfield's motion for relief from automatic stay ("R/S Motion," Lay-Invol dkt. 222), the opposition papers filed by Wellgen Standard, LLC ("Wellgen") (Lay-Invol dkt. 248) and the Chapter 7 Trustee (Lay-Invol dkt. 249), and Mr. Layfield's reply (Lay-Invol dkt.259, filed 9/9/19 at 3:05 p.m.)

(i) Striking the motion is an appropriate remedy for Mr. Layfield's use of these proceedings for improper purposes

Wellgen requests that this Court sanction Mr. Layfield by awarding attorney fees. See Lay-Invol dkt.248, p.5:5-15. A request for an award of attorney fees must be made by separate motion, at least if it is made pursuant to Rule 9011 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). See generally Sanctions Table of Judge Bason, available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov under "Judges"/"Bason"/"Instructions" (the "Sanctions Table"). Nor has Wellgen set forth the precise legal basis, under Rule 9011 or any other grounds, for such an award.

Nevertheless, Wellgen's objection to Mr. Layfield's abusive tactics is well taken, and as set forth in part "(1)(d)(i)" of this tentative ruling, this Court has previously warned Mr. Layfield that he must file proper papers or he may be subject to consequences. As set forth above, the tentative findings of fact are that Mr. Layfield is using these proceedings for improper purposes, and the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to strike the R/S Motion.

Alternatively, it is appropriate to strike Mr. Layfield's last minute reply.

(ii) Alternatively, Mr. Layfield lacks standing

The tentative ruling is that, as set forth in the opposition papers, Mr. Layfield, as the debtor in an apparently insolvent chapter 7 estate, lacks standing to seek the relief in the R/S Motion. Lay-Invol dkt.248 at pp.2:26-4:3, dkt. 249 at pp.2:18-3:3. In addition, the tentative ruling is that Mr. Layfield is not the real party in interest: the Lay-Invol Trustee is.

(iii) Alternatively, service is defective

Mr. Layfield's proof of service (Lay-Invol dkt.243, p.3) is defective for the reasons noted in part "(1)(b)" of this tentative ruling.

Chapter 11

(iv) Alternatively, the R/S Motion must be denied on the merits

As Wellgen points out, this Court has already ruled that, regardless whether Mr. Layfield was or was not properly served, Wellgen's claim against him is not subject to any bona fide dispute. See Lay-Invol dkt.162 (incorporating dkt.149 by reference), dkt.248 p.2:18-25. The Lay-Invol Chapter 7 Trustee agrees. See Lay-Invol dkt. 249.

(g) Mr. Layfield's motion for entry of an order finding the IRS in willful violation of the automatic stay (dkt. 239), Chapter 7 Trustee's opposition (dkt. 252)

(i) The motion must be denied for lack of proper service on the IRS

There is no proof of service evidencing service on the IRS at the address required by the Court's manual, available at cacb.uscourts.gov, Appendix D Section 2.1. The tentative ruling is to deny the motion on that ground.

To the extent that the motion seeks discovery, the tentative ruling is that without service on the IRS it is inappropriate to address that issue.

(ii) Alternatively, the tentative ruling is that the motion should be stricken because it is being used for improper purposes

Mr. Layfield asserts that the IRS has violated the automatic stay, but he cites very little legal authority and the only evidence to support Debtor's various factual allegations is one (inadequate) exhibit. That prejudices anyone who seeks to understand whether to support or oppose the motion, and it is particularly prejudicial to the IRS or anyone else who might seek to oppose the motion, because any such party must research and set forth all the legal standards that Mr. Layfield should have addressed, before addressing why those standards have or have not been met.

In other words, the IRS has to do the research that Mr. Layfield should have done to set forth the legal standards, then the IRS has to surmise what evidence Mr. Layfield might present to meet each element of his claims, and then the IRS has to present contrary arguments and evidence. That is using the motion to harass the IRS and to needlessly increase the costs of litigation for other parties.

(iii) Alternatively, on the merits, the motion must be denied

One of the essential elements for any claim for violation of the automatic stay is that there must be actual knowledge of the bankruptcy case.

See generally Sanctions Table. It appears from the record before this Court that Debtor never complied with his obligation to file a creditor matrix, nor is there any other evidence of which this Court is aware that the IRS has had notice of this bankruptcy case.

As to the request for an order directing discovery, Mr. Layfield fails to cite any legal authority or any evidence to support his request. Nor has he explained how any non-filing of tax returns violates the automatic stay or any other statute or legal duty.

Proposed order: The Chapter 7 Trustee is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

... regarding Mr. Layfield's allegations about some sort of perceived conflict involving the Chapter 7 Trustee, his arguments are difficult to follow and both procedurally and substantively deficient. This Court has already rejected Mr. Layfield's challenges to the appointment of the Trustee. See [Lay-Invol] dkt. 149, 183. To the extent that Mr. Layfield raises new allegations, there is no explanation why they were not raised before; there is no citation to the standards for reconsideration (e.g., under Rule 9024, Fed.R.Bankr.P.) nor any attempt to meet those standards; and his vague allegations are conclusory statements of opinion and legal conclusions without supporting facts. Docket 5

Tentative Ruling:

Grant the motion (docket no. 5) on an interim basis, subject to any opposition at the hearing, the conditions set forth below, and the issues raised in the tentative rulings for the Status Conference (calendar no.4, 10/2/19 at 2:00 p.m.). Appearances required.

Judge Bason's standard conditions for use of cash collateral and/or postpetition financing (by creditors holding prepetition claims)

(1) Written order

(a) Form. Use local form

F2081-1.1.ORDER.CASH.COLLATERAL or the equivalent. Attach a copy of this tentative ruling as an exhibit, thereby adopting it as the written ruling of this Court, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. Do not repeat the terms set forth in the motion or any stipulation. Incorporate those terms by reference (including the docket number of the document), subject to any modification by this Court.

(b) Timing. Lodge the proposed order within 7 days after the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Minimum adequate protection

In addition to the postpetition security interests that are automatically provided pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 552 (e.g., in traceable proceeds and profits), and subject to any more comprehensive protection that may be included in the motion or related papers, Debtor shall provide at least the following protection to any creditor with a security interest in the subject property (pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 361-364, as applicable):

(a) Insurance. For all collateral of a type that typically is insured (e.g., real property and improvements), Debtor is directed to maintain insurance in a dollar amount at least equal to Debtor's good faith estimate of the value of such creditor's interest in the collateral, and such insurance shall name such creditor as an additional insured. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments for such insurance.

(b) Taxes. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments on account of postpetition real estate taxes (to the extent that real estate is part of the collateral).

(c) Disclosures/access. Debtor is directed to provide, upon such creditor's reasonable request, periodic accountings of the foregoing insurance and tax obligations and payments, as well as postpetition proceeds, products, offspring, or profits from the collateral, including gross revenues and expenses and a calculation of net revenues, including any rents and any fees, charges, accounts, or other payments for the use or occupancy of rooms and other public facilities in lodging properties (as all of the foregoing terms are used in 11 U.S.C. 552). Debtor is directed to provide appropriate documentation of those accountings, and access for purposes of inspection or appraisal.

(3) Limitation on postpetition liens

In the event that the motion or related papers seek authority to grant postpetition liens to the creditor(s) with respect to prepetition debts any such liens shall be limited to the same validity, priority, and amount as prepetition liens. As used herein, the "validity, priority, and amount" or any similar phrase that may be used by the parties or this Court is deemed to include the following:

(a) Extent. Such liens shall be limited to the type of collateral in which the creditor held a security interest as of the petition date, unless this order expressly states that the liens granted by this order are intended to attach to different types of collateral from the prepetition collateral. For example, if prepetition liens extended to inventory and accounts receivable but not equipment then postpetition liens are likewise limited (unless otherwise expressly provided by order of this Court). In addition, postpetition liens shall not extend to the proceeds of any avoidance actions, any recoveries under 11 U.S.C. 506(c), or any "carveout" under 11 U.S.C. 552.

(b) Priority. Such liens shall be limited to the same priority as the security interest held by the creditor as of the petition date.

(c) Dollar amount. Such liens shall be limited to the dollar amount needed to protect the creditor against diminution in the value of the secured claims as of the petition date.

(d) Enforceability. Such liens shall be limited to the extent that the creditor's security interests were duly perfected and valid as of the petition date, and to the extent that they are unavoidable.

(e) Automatic postpetition perfection. Any automatic perfection of such liens shall be subject to any applicable limitations regarding the Court's authority, jurisdiction, or due process.

(4) Automatic disapproval of insufficiently disclosed provisions

Any provision of the type listed in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or in local form F4001-2 (e.g., cross-collateralization) or any waiver of the "equities of the case" exception in 11 U.S.C. 552(b)(2) shall be deemed automatically disapproved and excepted from any order granting the motion, notwithstanding any other provision of such order, unless either: (a) such provision is specifically and prominently disclosed in the motion papers in a checklist (such as local form F4001-2), or alternatively (b) such provision is specifically identified in any proposed order granting the motion, using terminology of the type used in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or local form F4001-2 (e.g., any "cross-collateralization" that is not specifically identified as such is deemed to be disapproved).

(5) Disputes

In the event of any disputes regarding the rulings in this order, the parties are directed to meet and confer and, if they cannot resolve their disputes consensually, contact Judge Bason's chambers to arrange a mutually convenient time for either a telephonic or in-person hearing to address such disputes.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #4.00 Status conference re: Chapter 11 case

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required. The parties are directed to address whether there was adequate notice of this hearing, and the merits of each motion, as set forth below.

(1) Notice of this hearing

Debtor must address whether the proof of service of the motion papers (the "POS," dkt.21) complies with this Court's order shortening time ("OST," dkt.10), or due process. The OST provides that the deadline for "RECEIPT" of written notice of this hearing/a copy of the OST is 10/1/19 at noon. Id. (emphasis in original). In two ways, this Court questions whether the POS complies with this direction.

First, the POS only appears to assert that envelopes were dropped off with an (unspecified) "Overnight Mail" carrier on 10/1/19, which would mean that those envelopes would not be received until 10/2/19 at the earliest, possibly just shortly before the hearing or even after the hearing.

Second, this Court questions whether delivery really was "overnight" to Taiwan, South Korea, China, and other overseas destinations.

(2) Merits of each motion

If the foregoing notice issue is adequately addressed, the tentative rulings are as follows.

(a) Payroll motion (dkt. 2)

Grant on a final basis, subject to any opposition at the hearing, and subject to authorization to use cash collateral to make payroll (see below).

(b) Cash management motion (dkt.4)

Grant on an interim basis, subject to any opposition at the hearing, with a final hearing at the same time as the continued status conference (see below).

Chapter 11

(c) Cash collateral motion (dkt.5)

Debtor's budget (dkt.8, Ex.1) lacks historical context. Are the proposed expenditures and projected receipts in line with historical experience? Is it typical for Debtor's cash position to fluctuate so substantially from week to week? Are the goods that Debtor anticipates selling in keeping with Debtor's historical lines of business, and with existing customers, or is Debtor projecting the replacement of some past lines of business with new lines?

Subject to (i) adequate resolution of the foregoing, (ii) any opposition at the hearing, and (iii) the conditions set forth in calendar no. 3 (on 10/2/19 at 2:00 p.m.), the tentative ruling is to grant this motion on an interim basis, with a further interim hearing at the same time as the continued status conference (see below).

(d) Notice of continued hearings

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 10/3/19 for Debtor to file and serve via U.S. mail a notice of the continued hearings.

(e) Proposed orders

This Court anticipates filing a "Memorialization of Tentative Rulings." Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders that reference that document and incorporate the tentative rulings as final rulings, except as they may be modified at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(3) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 9/30/19.

(a) Bar date: TBD

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD (Debtor must use the forms required by Judge Bason, absent an order excusing the use of such forms) (DO NOT SERVE yet, except on the U.S. Trustee - this Court will set a deadline and procedures at a later time).

(c) Continued status conference: 10/15/19 at 2:00 p.m. No written status report is required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

("Alliance") Motion for Relief From The Automatic Stay (dkt. 40, 41), on the terms set forth below, based on this Court's review of that motion, Debtor's opposition (dkt. 44), Alliance's reply (dkt. 50), and the other facts and circumstances, including this Court's review of Debtor's prior bankruptcy case and the order in this case (dkt.31) continuing the automatic stay. Chapter 11

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within 180 days after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the grounds for "in rem" relief unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks a finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Tentative Ruling for 9/24/19:

Appearances required. The Court has reviewed the Debtor's status report (dkt. 69).

(1) Current issues

In addition to addressing the general status of this case, the following issues will be addressed.

(a) Motion of Alliance for Relief From Automatic Stay (dkt. 40)

There is no tentative ruling. The parties should be prepared to advise this Court on whether they will agree to an adequate protection order and the proposed $50,000 loan from Complete Business Solutions Group ("Complete") (dkt.69, p.2:21-25). The parties also should be prepared to address whether shortened time or other special procedures are requested regarding any proposed lending. See 11 U.S.C. 364; Rules 4001(c) & 9006(c)(2) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

(b) Contemplated contract with Majestic Ventures LLC dba VacationHomes365.com ("Consultant") re marketing (Airbnb etc.)

Debtor is contemplating a contract with Consultant for marketing services. Dkt.69, Ex.2. As that contract points out (id., sec.7.2, p.44), Debtor is responsible for complying with legal obligations regarding short term rentals, and associated costs, including local taxes.

The parties should be prepared to address whether Consultant is a "professional" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 327; whether approval of the contract with Consultant is required under that section or section 363(b); and whether shortened time or other special procedures are requested regarding any proposed agreement with Consultant. See 11 U.S.C. 327, 363(b); Rules 2002(a)(2) & 9006(c)(2) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

(c) Termination of prior real estate agent

Debtor reports (dkt. 69, para.3) that the previously authorized real estate agent has agreed to cancel the listing. Is that in writing? Will Debtor need any order related to that cancellation/termination? What assurance is there that this prior agent will not seek some sort of compensation?

Tentative Ruling for 8/20/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by debtor herself.

(1) Current issues

(a) Airbnb

Debtor's budget motion (dkt. 37, Ex.A, p.2) reveals that, although the Sweetzer property is "listed to be sold," meanwhile "Debtor intends to rent [that property] as an Airbnb." The tentative ruling is that this is a transaction out of the ordinary course, which requires notice, an opportunity for a hearing, and approval by this Court. 11 U.S.C. 363(b). Has Debtor already acted on this intent, without such approval?

In addition, this Court is concerned about (i) whether Airbnb rental would be in compliance with any local permitting and zoning requirements and is otherwise permissible, (ii) whether that proposed use might expose the bankruptcy estate to liabilities, (iii) whether there is adequate insurance for that use of the property, and (iv) whether the proposed sale of the property is consistent with any agreement with Airbnb.

(b) Real estate agent.

The employment application (dkt. 26, p.4:1-4) states that Agent has agreed to disclose to Debtor [i.e., only to Debtor? how about disclosure to creditors, the US Trustee, and this Court?] any agency relationship Agent has with other parties ("Third Parties") that may be part of a real estate transaction for the sale of the Real Property [i.e., dual agency? that is prohibited by the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov)] as well as the amount of any compensation Agent receives from Agent's relationship with any Third Parties [i.e., splitting the commission with a cooperating agent from a different real estate agency? or something else?].

any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Docket 44

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other

Chapter 13

#10.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

MARBELLA REAL ESTATE, INC.
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required. The parties should be prepared to address the following issues.

(1) Standing

Movant should be prepared to address its standing to bring the motion. Movant is Marabella Real Estate, Inc. ("Marabella"), but the deed of trust attached to the motion papers is in favor of a trust (the "Carroll Trust") (dkt.11, Ex.1, at PDF p.14), and the Assignment attached to the motion papers is from the Carroll Trust to another trust (the "Westridge Trust") (dkt.11, Ex.2, at PDF p.20). There is no evidence of an assignment from the Westridge Trust to Marabella.

(2) No in rem relief

The tentative ruling is not to grant any "in rem" relief from the automatic stay (relief that would be effective in any future case that otherwise would affect the property). Movant has not shown adequate cause, for the reasons stated in Debtor's response (the prior case was 10 years ago; there is no evidence of any wrongdoing in that case or any other evidence that this case is part of a scheme to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors; nor is there any equivalent evidence of wrongdoing).

In addition, and in the alternative, Movant cannot be granted in rem relief because Movant has not served all of the persons who executed the documents through which the movant asserts its interest in the property (sometimes referred to in the mortgage context as the "original borrower") - namely, Julia J. Colosi, the joint tenant and co-signer of the deed of trust. That is required by the local rules. See LBR 4001-1(c)(1)(B). In addition, the tentative ruling is that it is required by due process, because notice should be provided to the joint tenant, who is one of the persons whose interests may be most directly affected. See generally Mullane v. Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co., 339 U.S. 306 (1950) (due process generally).

(3) Possible APO

The parties are directed to address whether the alleged postpetition payment of $31,961.95 to the holder of the senior lien (Motion, dkt.11, p.6, para. 3.a.) on 9/11/19 was made with knowledge of this bankruptcy case (filed 9/9/19). If so, the tentative ruling is to disallow any attorney fees that Movant seeks to recover for this motion, because there is no showing that such payment and this motion were necessary, as opposed to letting Debtor pay any arrears to the senior lienholder over time pursuant to the Bankruptcy Code.

On the other hand, if Movant did not have knowledge that this bankruptcy case had been commenced, the tentative ruling is to require a "stay current" adequate protection order ("APO") with the usual terms (14 days' notice to cure in the event of default, and no more than three opportunities for such a cure).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic
Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 8

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions. Appearances are not required.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #25.00 Cont'd hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]
fr. 9/24/19

THE BANK OF NEW YORK MELLON FKA
THE BANK OF NEW YORK
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 174

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 10/15/19:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Retroactive relief

Deny the request for retroactive annulment of the stay because Judge Bason is not prepared to issue a blanket annulment with respect to whatever unspecified things might have occurred postpetition.

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re

Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is not sufficient evidence and notice.

No prejudice to Debtor intended. Based on the record, it appears that this is a "hijacked" case, and that Debtor is innocent of any involvement. See e.g., In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017) (describing hijacking); In re Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) (same). Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to condition any relief from the automatic stay on this Court's determination that this motion shall not result in the application of sections 109(g)(2) and 362(b)(21)(A) to Debtor or any property other than the property that is the subject of this motion for relief from the automatic stay, and that by not contesting this tentative ruling the movant has waived and forfeited any contrary argument. See In re Leafly, 479 B.R. 545, 550-51 (9th Cir. BAP 2012); In re Mendez, 367 B.R. 109, 116-17 (9th Cir. BAP 2007); In re Luna, 122 B.R. 575, 577 (9th Cir. BAP 1991); Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261, 270.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 9/24/19:

Grant in part and continue in part to 10/15/19 at 10:00 a.m. as set forth below.
Appearances are not required on 9/24/19.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(sometimes referred to in the mortgage context as the "original borrower").
Reasons: See LBR 4001-1(c)(1)(B). In addition, Judge Bason has due process concerns about granting such relief without service on the person(s) whose interests may be most directly affected. See generally Mullane v. Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co., 339 U.S. 306 (1950) (due process generally). In this matter, such persons appear to include: Cesar Amador.

Option for shortened time: This Court has selected a continued hearing date that contemplates shortened notice (per Rule 9006) but that date is conditioned on the movant (i) serving, on the day after the current hearing date, the motion papers and notice of the continued hearing date, and (ii) filing that notice and a proof of service no later than the next day. Alternatively, the movant may self-calendar a continued hearing on regular notice.

Option for interim/partial order: Movant may elect to lodge a proposed order granting the partial relief provided in this tentative ruling, but any such order must recite that a continued hearing has been set to consider additional relief (or, alternatively, that the movant no longer seeks additional relief and the Clerk's office is requested and directed to take the continued hearing off calendar).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases

As to the requested relief that will remain effective notwithstanding any future bankruptcy case, continue the motion to the date and time set forth at the start of this tentative ruling, for service on the persons who executed the documents through which the movant asserts its interest in the property. continued hearing date, and (ii) filing that notice and a proof of service no later than the next day. Alternatively, the movant may self-calendar a continued hearing on regular notice.

Option for interim/partial order: Movant may elect to lodge a proposed order granting the partial relief provided in this tentative ruling, but any such order must recite that a continued hearing has been set to consider additional relief (or, alternatively, that the movant no longer seeks additional relief and the Clerk's office is requested and directed to take the continued hearing off calendar).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

DEBTOR

Docket 64

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 10/15/19:

Take this motion for relief from the automatic stay off calendar, in view of this Court's order (dkt. 71) granting the debtor's motion to commence loan modification program, without prejudice to the movant self-calendaring this motion again if the loan modification program is terminated without a consensual loan modification. Appearances are not required.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 10/1/19:

Continue to 10/15/19 at 10:00 a.m. because Debtors have filed their Motion to Commence LMM Program (dkt. 66). Appearances are not required on 10/1/19.

#32.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order
Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic
Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 13

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to (x) disallowing any attorney fees fo Debtor's counsel for appearing at the hearing, (y) any opposition at the hearing, and (z) the following conditions. Appearances required.

(A) No fees for appearing at hearing

Counsel for Debtor is directed not to charge any fees for appearing at the hearing on this matter, unless a party in interest appears at the hearing in opposition to the motion. Reasons: Per the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this matter could have been set on shortened time with any opposition due 5 days prior to the hearing, and instead counsel stated in the motion (incorrectly) that any opposition is due at the hearing. See dkt.13, p.2, para. 3.b.(1).

This Court does not have the capacity to monitor all fee applications to assure compliance with the foregoing limitation on fees. But if counsel is found to have disregarded this limitation then this Court may impose sanctions.

(B) Limited relief

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #9.00 Cont'd status conference re: Complaint for Validity, priority or extent of lien or other interest in property; injunctive relief; Declaratory judgment fr. 9/24/19

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 10/15/19:

Appearances required. This Court has reviewed the status reports filed by Defendant Avail Holding LLC ("Avail," adv.dkt.9) and by Plaintiff/Debtor (adv. dkt. 8, 13) and other relevant documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

Matters of venue, jurisdiction, and authority have been determined and/or waived or forfeited (docket number(s) 1, 8, 9, 13).

(2) Current issues

(a) Avail's motion to dismiss (adv.dkt.6) ("MTD"), Plaintiff/Debtor's opposition (adv.dkt.11), Avail's reply (adv.dkt.12)

Avail's papers establish a sufficient showing that the complaint fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted, and the opposition does not adequately rebut that showing. But the tentative ruling is that leave to amend should be granted because the gravamen of the complaint appears to be that, in reliance on Avail's (and its predecessor's) complete lack of communication for over ten years, Plaintiff/Debtor did not take steps to avoid the encumbrance now held by Avail, as he would have done had he known that Avail was not writing off its debt for a payment of $8,000 (see adv. dkt. 1, ¶ 49, p. 12). It is not clear whether those allegations, which appear in the fourth claim for declaratory relief, would support a claim for general negligence or perhaps some other claim, but it appears that leave to amend should be granted to test whether that is so.

(3) Mediation

Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 10/29/19 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(4) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 7/10/19. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Tentative Ruling for 10/15/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) UST's motion to dismiss (dkt. 65), debtor's opposition (dkt. 86), no reply is on file

There is no tentative ruling. The parties should be prepared to address whether debtor has cured all outstanding compliance issues, and whether Debtor's second corrected opposition continues to have error(s) in calculating projected cash flow. That opposition lists net income before personal expenses for "Oct-19" and "Nov-19" as -5,850.00, but then after personal expenses of $1,751.00 for each month it lists "excess income" of $34,900.00. Chapter 11

(1) Current issues

In addition to addressing the general status of this case, the following issues will be addressed.

(a) Motion of Alliance for Relief From Automatic Stay (dkt. 40)

There is no tentative ruling. The parties should be prepared to advise this Court on whether they will agree to an adequate protection order and the proposed $50,000 loan from Complete Business Solutions Group ("Complete") (dkt.69, p.2:21-25). The parties also should be prepared to address whether shortened time or other special procedures are requested regarding any proposed lending. See 11 U.S.C. 364; Rules 4001(c) & 9006(c)(2) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

(b) Contemplated contract with Majestic Ventures LLC dba VacationHomes365.com ("Consultant") re marketing (Airbnb etc.)

Debtor is contemplating a contract with Consultant for marketing services. Dkt.69, Ex.2. As that contract points out (id., sec.7.2, p.44), Debtor is responsible for complying with legal obligations regarding short term rentals, and associated costs, including local taxes.

The parties should be prepared to address whether Consultant is a "professional" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 327; whether approval of the contract with Consultant is required under that section or section 363(b); and whether shortened time or other special procedures are requested regarding any proposed agreement with Consultant. See 11 U.S.C. 327, 363(b); Rules 2002(a)(2) & 9006(c)(2) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

(c) Termination of prior real estate agent

Debtor reports (dkt. 69, para.3) that the previously authorized real estate agent has agreed to cancel the listing. Is that in writing? Will Debtor need any order related to that cancellation/termination? What assurance is there that this prior agent will not seek some sort of compensation?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 7/17/19.

(a) Bar date: TBD

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD

(c) Continued status conference: 10/15/19 at 1:00 p.m to be heard concurrently with other matters on calendar. No written status report required.

appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 8/20/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by debtor herself.

(1) Current issues

(a) Airbnb

Debtor's budget motion (dkt. 37, Ex.A, p.2) reveals that, although the Sweetzer property is "listed to be sold," meanwhile "Debtor intends to rent [that property] as an Airbnb." The tentative ruling is that this is a transaction out of the ordinary course, which requires notice, an opportunity for a hearing, and approval by this Court. 11 U.S.C. 363(b). Has Debtor already acted on this intent, without such approval?

In addition, this Court is concerned about (i) whether Airbnb rental would be in compliance with any local permitting and zoning requirements and is otherwise permissible, (ii) whether that proposed use might expose the bankruptcy estate to liabilities, (iii) whether there is adequate insurance for that use of the property, and (iv) whether the proposed sale of the property is consistent with any agreement with Airbnb.

(b) Real estate agent.

The employment application (dkt. 26, p.4:1-4) states that Agent has agreed to disclose to Debtor [i.e., only to Debtor? how about disclosure to creditors, the US Trustee, and this Court?] any agency relationship Agent has with other parties ("Third Parties") that may be part of a real estate transaction for the sale of the Real Property [i.e., dual agency? that is prohibited by the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov)] as well as the amount of any compensation Agent receives from Agent's relationship with any Third Parties [i.e., splitting the commission with a cooperating agent from a different real estate agency? or something else?].

What does the quoted text mean? This Court's questions are set forth in the emphasized, bracketed text above.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 10/15/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues - fee applications

The tentative ruling is (a) to allow the requested fees and expenses, and (b) to authorize and direct Debtor to make immediate payment, on a pro rata basis, of a portion of those fees, all subject to the following limitations.

Debtor's reply asserts that all but $209,867.58 can be paid using a combination of: a retainer (applied to one of the fee applications), unencumbered funds from the sale of personal property, and payment of the authorized monthly amounts for professional fees in the approved cash collateral budget. See Reply (dkt.408), p.3:1-7. But as to that $209,867.58 balance, this Court requires some assistance interpreting (i) Ex.1 and 2 to the declaration in support of the fee applications (the "Accountant Calculations," L.McNeal Decl. (dkt.401), Ex.1&2) and (ii) Mr. Borrer's declaration (the "Borrer Decl," dkt.388).

(i) Accountant Calculations

Is Debtor asserting that, notwithstanding the limited dollar amount in the approved cash collateral budget for payment of professionals' fees, a larger dollar amount should be distributed now? If so, is Debtor asserting that Cathay Bank is adequately protected because it has received interim payments, and/or because of some combination of uncollected accounts receivable, proceeds from the sale of assets, and remaining real estate provide adequate protection? Do the Accountant Calculations show that?

(ii) Borrer Decl

Mr. Borrer declares that the funds held in the "401k" account are "not part of the bankruptcy estate pursuant to BCS 522(b)(3)(C)." Dkt.388, p.1:24-25. Assuming he is referring to section 522(b)(3)(C) of the Bankruptcy Code, the problem is that the exemptions provided by that section apply only to an "individual" debtor. 11 U.S.C. 522(b)(1). Mr. Borrer may have intended to assert that the funds in the employee retirement account are not part of the estate pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 541(a)(7). Is that what was intended?

Chapter 11

Mr. Borrer also declares that "it is permissible to pay reasonable administrative expenses from the assets of the 401k [sic] plan and allocate them using a nondiscriminatory method" (dkt.388, p.1:26-28) and he requests that his fees of $58,960.00 "be paid with assets from the 401(k) Plan." Id., p.1:9-10. This Court has several concerns with this request.

First, Mr. Borrer does not provide a copy of the retirement plan with the relevant language. Does the plan, or applicable nonbankruptcy law, require notice to the retirement plan's participants, and an opportunity for them to object?

Second, Mr. Borrer's fee application requests "$16,400 in fees for services to be performed in the near future." Dkt. 388, p.2:5-6. Mr. Borrer explains that he routinely bills for such future services "because fairness requires that all expense amounts be removed from the plan asset pool before distributions to participants are made." Dkt. 388, p.2:17-20. If the $16,400 estimate turns out to be too high, how will that be determined, and what happens? Will Mr. Borrer be refunding any overpayments to the employees?

Third, Mr. Borrer and Debtor do not address whether, if the retirement plan assets are not part of this bankruptcy estate, this Bankruptcy Court has the jurisdiction and authority to approve the fees, and any "nondiscriminatory method" of paying those fees. Is this Court's authority limited to approving the payment as a transaction out of the ordinary course (11 U.S.C. 363(b)), without otherwise approving or disapproving the proposed payment (i.e., without addressing any applicable requirements under nonbankruptcy law)?

Subject to the foregoing, the tentative ruling is to allow the following fees, and authorize immediate payment of all but $209,867.58 on a pro rata basis, with the remainder to be paid in arrears pursuant to approved cash collateral budgets:

* Margulies Faith LLP (dkt. 391). Allow $427,130.00 in fees and $6,283.44 expenses, for a total of $433,413.44.

* Steven M. Steese (dkt. 390). Allow $5,075.50 in fees and $37.58 in expenses, for a total of 5,113.08.

#16.00 Cont'd status conference re: Chapter 11 case
fr. 9/10/19, 9/24/19

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 10/15/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Inaccurate bankruptcy schedules

Why has Debtor not amended its bankruptcy schedules to reflect all of its creditors (at the 9/24/19 status conference it was reported that Debtor failed to list creditors with liens against three vacant parcels of real property)?

(b) Lack of any progress reflected on docket

As this Court previously has ruled, in connection with creditor Maxim's motion for relief from the automatic stay, "the longer this case is pending the greater will be the burden on Debtor to provide specific information and evidence as to precisely how [each] property [that Debtor claims to own] remains necessary to an effective reorganization." Dkt.36, Ex.1, at PDF p.4. Why does the docket not reflect any progress, such as a motion to approve employment of a real estate broker, or a motion to approve refinancing, or a motion to abandon one or more properties?

(c) Missing status report

At the status conference on 9/24/19, this Court set a deadline of 10/4/19 for debtor to file a status report and an application to employ new counsel. Why has no status report been filed?

(d) Missing Local Form F 2014-1

Debtor has filed an application to employ Pena & Soma, APC (dkt. 68), but the posted Procedures of Judge Bason require Local Form 2014-1. Where is that form?

(e) Motion of United States Trustee ("UST") to Dismiss etc. ("MTD," dkt. 37), Debtor's Opposition (dkt. 55)

Has Debtor address the issues raised in the UST's MTD? In addition, this Court's order setting procedures (dkt.9) provides that at any status

Tentative Ruling for 9/24/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion to Dismiss, Convert or Appoint a Chapter 11 Trustee (dkt. 37), Debtor's Opposition (dkt. 55), no reply is on file

If Debtor is not in full compliance with all UST requirements by the hearing, this Court will determine whether to dismiss, convert or appoint a chapter 11 trustee in this case.

(b) Application to Employ Ure Law Firm (dkt. 24), Statement of Disinterestedness (dkt. 23), Maxim's Oppositions (dkt. 31, 50), Notice of hearing (dkt. 40), Debtor's Reply (dkt. 61)

The tentative ruling is to deny Debtor's request to employ the Ure Law Firm ("Ure Firm"), and set a 10/4/19 deadline for Debtor to file and serve an application to retain new counsel, for the following reasons:

- (i) Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm are not "disinterested" and represent an "adverse interest" to the estate by reason of their representation of HDA Trucking, Inc. and Nelson Sargsyan

11 U.S.C. Section 327(a) "requires the application of a two-pronged test for the employment of professional persons. A debtor-in-possession may employ attorneys with court approval only if (1) they do not hold or represent an interest adverse to the estate, and (2) they are disinterested persons." In re Tevis, 347 B.R. 679, 687 (9th Cir. BAP 2006).

The term "adverse interest" is not defined in the Bankruptcy Code, but has been defined by case law to mean:

(1) possession or assertion of an economic interest that would tend to lessen the value of the bankruptcy estate; or (2) possession or assertion of an economic interest that would create either an actual or potential dispute in which the estate is a rival claimant; or (3) possession of a predisposition under circumstances that create a bias against the estate.

Tevis, 347 B.R. 679, 688. "To represent an adverse interest means to serve as an attorney for an entity holding such an adverse interest." Id.

The term "disinterested person" is defined in the Bankruptcy Code to include, inter alia, one who "does not have an interest materially adverse to the interests of the estate or of any class of creditors or equity security holders, by reason of any direct or indirect relationship to, connection with, or interest in, the debtor, or for any other reason." 11 U.S.C. Section 101(14) (C). "For the purpose of disinterestedness, a lawyer has an interest materially adverse to the interest of the estate if the lawyer either holds or represents such an interest." Tevis, 347 B.R. 679, 688.

The tentative ruling is to find that because Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm represented HDA Trucking, Inc. ("HDA Trucking") in its recent bankruptcy case (Case No. 1:19-bk-11595-DS) (the "HDA Trucking Bankruptcy Case"), and have represented HDA Trucking's principal, Nelson Sargsyan ("Mr. Sargsyan"), in his pending bankruptcy case (Case No. 1:19-bk-10790-VK) (the "Sargsyan Bankruptcy Case"), the Ure Firm is not a "disinterested person" and represents an "adverse interest" to the estate for purposes of this case because Debtor's Bankruptcy Schedules identify HDA Trucking as a creditor of Debtor's estate (see dkt. 1, PDF pp.6 & 16) and because there have been inconsistent representations made by HDA, Sargsyan, and Debtor regarding the chain of interests in 8527 Hedges Way, Los Angeles, California 90069 (the "Hedges Property"), which is the real property that is at the center of all these bankruptcy cases.

(ii) Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm violated Rule 2014(a) by failing to disclose their connection with Mr. Sargsyan and HDA Trucking

Rule 2014(a) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) requires that a firm's application for employment disclose "all of the [applicant's] connections with the debtor, creditors, [or] any other party in interest" The disclosure requirements of Rule 2014 are strictly applied. In re Park-Helena Corp., 63 F.3d 877, 881 (9th Cir. 1995). Professionals "cannot pick and choose which connections are irrelevant or trivial . . . No matter how old the connection, no matter how trivial it appears, the professional seeking employment must disclose it." Id. at 882.

In this case, Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm failed to disclose their prior representation of HDA Trucking in its bankruptcy case, or their prior and current representation of Mr. Sargsyan in his bankruptcy case, in either the Application (dkt. 24) or the Statement of Disinterestedness (dkt. 23).

For the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is that the Ure Firm is disqualified from representing the Debtor and its employment must be denied.

(c) Maxim's Rule 9011 Sanction Motion (dkt. 32), Mr. Ure/Ure Firm's Opposition (dkt. 54), Maxim's Reply (dkt. 57)

Maxim Commercial Capital, LLC ("Maxim") seeks an order imposing sanctions against Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm for alleged violations of Rule 9011 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

(i) Background

As best as this Court can discern from its review of various pleadings filed in this case, the Sargsyan Bankruptcy Case, and the HDA Trucking Bankruptcy Case, the relevant facts are as follows:

On 4/7/16 Maxim made a loan to NAMR 2617, LLC ("Other-NAMR") in the sum of $2,669,365 (the "Loan"). The Loan was personally guaranteed by Mr. Sargsyan and Alice and Nazaret Chakrian (the "Chakrians," and together with Mr. Sargsyan, the "Guarantors"). The Guarantors also executed a deed of trust securing their guaranties of the Loan against the Hedges Property.

On 12/30/16, Mr. Sargsyan recorded a Grant Deed conveying his interest in the Hedges Property to Nazaret Chakrian ("Mr. Chakrian") (dkt. 11, PDF p. 352-356). The parties subsequently executed a number of loan modifications and, ultimately, the Loan fully matured without timely payment. As a result, the Hedges Property was noticed for a judicial foreclosure sale on 4/5/19.

On 4/3/19 Mr. Sargsyan filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition and asserted a 25% ownership interest in the Hedges Property (Sargsyan Bankruptcy Case, 1:19-bk-10790-VK, dkt. 1, Schedule A/B). On 5/1/19 Maxim filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay with respect to the Hedges Property (the "Sargsyan R/S Motion," id., dkt. 18). Mr. Ure, acting for Debtor Sargsyan, filed an opposition (id., dkt. 33, p.2:1-3), which did not argue that Debtor Sargsyan had any interest in the Hedges Property (contrary to what he had indicated in his bankruptcy schedules) but did argue that Mr. Sargsyan had "personally guaranteed the loan" with Maxim.

Following a hearing on the Sargsyan R/S Motion, the Bankruptcy Court entered an order denying the motion as moot based on the Court's finding that the Hedges Property was not property of Mr. Sargsyan's estate because Mr. Sargsyan had conveyed away his interest in the Hedges Property to Nazaret Chakrian ("Mr. Chakrian") pre-petition, on 9/30/16 (see id., dkt. 51, Ex. 1) (the "Sargsyan R/S Order"). After entry of the Sargsyan R/S Order, Maxim re-noticed a foreclosure sale for 8/2/19.

On 6/28/19, Mr. Sargsyan caused HDA Trucking to file a voluntary chapter 11 petition and assert an ownership interest in the Hedges Property (HDA Trucking Bankruptcy Case, 1:19-bk-11595-DS, dkt.1, Schedule A/B). According to Maxim, HDA Trucking has no such interest in the Hedges Property.

On 7/24/19, the United States Trustee (the "UST") filed a motion to appoint a trustee or convert or dismiss that case (id., dkt. 24). At the hearing on that motion, HDA Trucking stipulated to the dismissal of the case and the case was dismissed by order entered 7/31/19 (id., dkt. 27).

On 8/1/19 the instant bankruptcy case was filed by Debtor (which is similarly named, but not the same as, the Other-NAMR). Debtor asserts an interest in the Hedges Property pursuant to a Grant Deed recorded on 4/2/19 in which Mr. Chakrian conveyed a 10% interest in the Hedges Property to Debtor (dkt. 1, Schedule A/B & dkt. 11, PDF pp. 361-364).

Almost immediately after this bankruptcy case was filed, Maxim filed an emergency motion for relief from the automatic stay and this Court shortened time, reviewed briefs, heard arguments, made oral findings of fact and conclusions of law on the record, and issued an order that prevented any future bankruptcy case from affecting the Hedges Property (subject to the usual limitations on such relief). Dkt.36. But this Court declined to terminate the automatic stay at this time (id.) because, among other things, (A) other creditors' interests are at stake, (B) on the evidence presented Maxim's interests are fully adequately protected, and (C) Debtor may be able to restructure its finances in a manner that will benefit all parties in interest.

At that early hearing this Court suggested that a transfer of a fractional interest among related entities is not necessarily evidence of bad faith. This Court took judicial notice that debtors and their affiliates not infrequently engage transfers of fractional interests as a way to balance the accounts among them, or for other reasons that may be perfectly consistent with good faith, even if they violate provisions of loan documents or other obligations.

But this Court's unwillingness to suppose bad faith at the inception of this case, before adequate time to respond, should not be misconstrued as giving a blanket exemption from any subsequent finding of bad faith or other misconduct. This Court is troubled by some of the conduct outlined in Maxim's motion papers.

With this context, this Court turns to Maxim's motion for sanctions.

(ii) Maxim has not established that Judge Bason can or should impose sanctions under Rule 9011 for conduct that occurred in bankruptcy cases that are not before Judge Bason

As a preliminary matter, Maxim has not addressed whether it would be proper, or even within the jurisdiction of the instant bankruptcy case, for Judge Bason to impose sanctions regarding any cases that are not pending before Judge Bason. The Sargsyan Bankruptcy Case is still pending before Judge Kaufman, and the HDA Trucking Bankruptcy Case was pending before Judge Saltzman, and the tentative ruling is that any request for sanctions for conduct in those cases must be presented to those Bankruptcy Judges.

That is not to say that prior conduct in other cases is irrelevant. Such prior conduct may establish a pattern of conduct that extends into this case, or may otherwise shed light on the conduct in this case. But the tentative ruling is that Judge Bason will only consider sanctions regarding conduct in the instant bankruptcy case.

(iii) Maxim has not established misconduct in connection with the Sargsyan Bankruptcy Case

Maxim asserts - as part of its argument that Mr. Ure's conduct and the Ure Firm's conduct in this case is sanctionable - that there is a pattern of abuse starting with the filing of the Sargsyan Bankruptcy Case. The tentative ruling is that this assertion is not persuasive.

Nothing in Maxim's papers establishes that it was frivolous or otherwise improper for Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm to oppose Maxim's request for relief from the automatic stay in the Sargsyan Bankruptcy Case, in light of Debtor Sargsyan's position as a Guarantor. True, the automatic stay's protection against in rem acts generally extends only to property of the debtor (see 1:19-bk-10790-VK, dkt.51 (the Sargsyan R/S Order)); and the automatic stay's protection against in personam acts generally extends only to the debtor. See, e.g., In re Advanced Ribbons and Office Prod's, Inc., 125 B.R. 259, 262-67 (9th Cir. BAP 1991) (guarantor, and guarantor's property, not protected). But Maxim has not cited any authority that it was frivolous for Debtor Sargsyan to take the position that acts to foreclose the Hedges Property, based on a debt he guaranteed, were acts "to collect, assess, or recover a claim against the debtor that arose before the commencement of the [bankruptcy] case" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(6), if not based on existing caselaw then based on a nonfrivolous assertion regarding "extension, modification, or reversal of existing law or the establishment of new law." Rule 9011(b)(2). The tentative ruling is that there is nothing sanctionable in making this argument.

True, Mr. Sargsyan, Mr. Ure, and the Ure Firm should have been more careful in verifying that Debtor did in fact have an interest in the Hedges Property before Debtor Sargsyan said so, under penalty of perjury, in his bankruptcy schedules. And it would have been preferable for the Ure Firm to cite some authority for their position, or expressly argue for an extension of existing law or other nonfrivolous legal grounds, and to amend the bankruptcy schedules once the record ownership of the property became apparent.

But, given the transfers back and forth (described above), and the last-minute scramble that almost invariably precedes an emergency bankruptcy filing, it appears that the original misstatement of ownership in the bankruptcy schedules, and the lack of citation to legal authority in opposing the Sargsyan R/S Motion, are more consistent with a lack of adequate time than any intentional falsehood or misconduct. And once it became apparent that the automatic stay did not protect the property, it is understandable (although not the ideal course of action) to move on and not take the time to amend the bankruptcy schedules.

(iv) Maxim has established apparent misconduct in connection with the HDA Trucking Bankruptcy Case

Maxim asserts that HDA Trucking had no interest in the Hedges Property whatsoever, and yet falsely listed that property on its bankruptcy schedules. Dkt.32, p.7:5. The Ure Firm has not offered any explanation why, even after the incorrect assertion by Mr. Sargsyan of an ownership interest in the Hedges Property, it filed another bankruptcy case that, once again, asserted an ownership interest that is not supported by any evidence. The tentative ruling is that this is prima facie evidence of the Ure Firm's lack of "inquiry reasonable under the circumstances" and apparent filing of the petition for an improper purpose - namely a scheme to hinder, delay, or defraud Maxim. Rule 9011(b)(1).

Alternatively, the tentative ruling is that this is also prima facie evidence of a factual contention that, after "an inquiry reasonable under the circumstances," does not have "evidentiary support," or that has not been "specifically [] identified" as "likely to have evidentiary support after a reasonable opportunity for further investigation or discovery." Rule 9011(b)(3).

In the face of such prima facie evidence of a violation of Rule 9011, the burden was on Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm to present contrary evidence of at least equal weight. They have not done so.

Again, the tentative ruling is that this Court should not impose any sanctions for any alleged misconduct in the HDA Trucking Bankruptcy Case. But the apparent violations of Rule 9011 in that case establish a pattern that calls into question any allegedly similar conduct in the instant case.

(v) It is premature for this Court to determine whether the filing of the instant bankruptcy case, or how it has been prosecuted, is sanctionable under Rule 9011

On the one hand, the facts discussed above are evidence that Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm have participated in efforts to frustrate Maxim's exercise of its remedies, and have done so using tactics that appear to violate Rule 9011. It is possible that the transfer of a fractional interest to Debtor, and the filing of the instant bankruptcy case, are part of that scheme and are sanctionable.

On the other hand, it is also possible that the transfer of a fractional interest to Debtor was nothing more than an attempt retroactively to "unscramble the eggs" and have the record title to the Hedges Property reflect what Mr. Sargsyan, the Chakrians, and other affiliates all had intended to be the reality of their financial relationships. True, Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm have had an opportunity to present any such explanation, with supporting evidence, and they have failed to do so. But this Court is wary of imposing sanctions without providing them with an opportunity to explain why they did not offer an explanation in their opposition papers, and why they should be granted an opportunity to do so now.

In addition, depending on how this instant bankruptcy case progresses, it may become more apparent over time whether there is a reasonable possibility of a successful reorganization within a reasonable time, and other factors that might bear on whether this case was or was not filed in good faith. It is also possible that Debtor will obtain refinancing and pay Maxim in full, or that some other developments in this case will bear on issues such as whether Maxim has suffered any un-reimbursed expenses, all of which may be relevant to its sanctions motion.

For all of these reasons the tentative ruling is that it is premature for this Court to determine any sanctions issues, and the tentative ruling is to take Maxim's sanctions motion off calendar, and determine at a future status conference when it should be put back on calendar. Meanwhile, the tentative ruling is that no further briefing on the sanctions issues will be accepted or considered absent further order of this Court.

Docket 26

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 10/15/19:

Appearances are not required

(1) Current issues.

(a) AOE Fee Application (dkt. 134, 145)

Grant in part, and award $16,345 of the requested $19,345 in fees, and $0 in expenses. The tentative ruling is to disallow $3,000 of the time spent on motions for setting property values (dkt.134, p.9:9-12) because that time has not been sufficiently justified (as explained at prior hearings).

Proposed order: AOE is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and include a copy of the foregoing language from this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing if this tentative ruling is properly contested. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(b) Poser Investments, Inc. ("Poser") v. Ebuehi et al. (Adv. No. 2:18-ap-01431-NB), Motion for Attorney's Fees ("Poser Fee Motion," adv. dkt. 63), and Relief From Stay Motion ("R/S Motion," dkt.137)

The parties should be prepared to address whether attorney fees incurred in matters that were pending before different Judges should be determined by those Judges (i.e., the State Court Judge who was presiding over this action before it was removed, and the Bankruptcy Court Judge who was presiding over Plaintiffs/Debtors' prior bankruptcy case, no. 2:18-bk-16992-RK). Put differently, the parties are directed to address whether this Bankruptcy Court (i) lacks jurisdiction and authority to determine what attorneys fees to award for litigation that occurred when this matter was pending before other Judges, or (ii) should defer to those other Judges under principles of comity, abstention, or similar doctrines.

The tentative ruling is that, notwithstanding the foregoing questions, this Bankruptcy Court has jurisdiction and authority to determine the allowability of all of the requested attorney fees, because the removed action is currently pending in this Bankruptcy Court. The tentative ruling is that it would be an unwarranted imposition on other Judges to have them address fractional pieces of the requested compensation, especially when the parties' disputes did not go to trial and this Bankruptcy Court appears to be in at least as good a position to review time spent on pretrial preparation and other matters. In addition, Plaintiffs/Debtors have not filed any opposition papers, so any contrary arguments are waived and forfeited.

On the merits of the requested attorney fees, this Bankruptcy Court has carefully reviewed the motion papers including the daily time records. The tentative ruling is to allow all fees requested in the Poser Fee Motion except the following apparently duplicative time entries: (A) on 8/30/18 Ms. Gomez has several entries with identical or nearly identical text (dkt.63, Ex.2, p.26), and the tentative ruling is to disallow 0.3 hours (a reduction of $40.50); and (B) on 4/30/19 Mr. Reynolds has two entries for appearing at a hearing on the motion for summary judgment (one for 5.1 hours and another for 5.6 hours, including other tasks) (dkt.63, Ex.2, p.31), and the tentative ruling is to disallow 5.1 hours (a reduction of $2,244.00). That amounts to a total reduction of $2,284.50 ($2,244.00+$40.50 = $2,284.50). In addition, counsel are cautioned that some time entries reflect "lumping" of multiple tasks without a breakdown of time spent on each discrete task, but the tentative ruling is not to impose any reduction on that basis.

Based on the foregoing, the tentative ruling is to award fees of $182,836.00 ($185,120.50-$2,284.50 = $182,836.00) and $0 expenses. That dollar amount must be added to Poser's lien against Debtors' properties. See Findings/Conclusions (adv.dkt.47) and Judgement (adv.dkt.56).

In addition, the tentative ruling is to grant Defendant Poser's R/S Motion (dkt.137) so that it may return to the Federal District Court (the court that issued the underlying judgment on which Poser's liens are founded) and move to have its costs of enforcing that Court's judgment, including its attorney fees, added to the judgment. In addition, the tentative ruling is to grant Poser's request that such relief from the automatic stay be binding and effective in any future bankruptcy case, no matter who the debtor may be ("in rem" relief), subject to the following limitations.

The tentative ruling is that this Court may grant such in rem relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4), because Poser is a creditor whose claim is secured by an interest in real property, and the filing of the present bankruptcy petition was part of a scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors that involved unauthorized transfers (which Debtors subsequently purported to unwind, but which caused Poser considerable additional expense). 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4)(A). Alternatively, that scheme involved multiple bankruptcy filings (Case Nos. 2:18-bk-16992-RK and 2:18-bk-20704-NB). 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4)(B). Alternatively, the tentative ruling is that in rem relief is warranted pursuant to the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017).

The tentative ruling is that any such relief will be subject to the following limitations, to be added to the proposed order (dkt.137, Exhibit):

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within 180 days after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case based upon changed circumstances or for good cause shown, after notice and a hearing.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by Poser Investment, Inc. to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Proposed orders: Based on the foregoing tentative rulings on the Poser Fee Motion and the R/S Motion, Poser is directed to lodge proposed orders via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and include a copy of the foregoing language from this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing if this tentative ruling is properly contested. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(c) Order to Show Cause ("OSC") re Conversion, Dismissal or Appointment of Chapter 11 Trustee (dkt. 140, 144)

The tentative ruling is to convert this case to chapter 7 for the reasons stated in the OSC.

Tentative Ruling for 9/24/19:

Appearances are not required.

(1) Current issues. This Court has reviewed the Debtors' Status Report (dkt. 132) and the Response filed by Poser Investments, Inc. ("Poser") (dkt. 133).

(a) OSC re Conversion, Dismissal or Appointment of Chapter 11 Trustee

At the start of this case, this Court issued an Order putting all parties on notice that "[w]ithout further notice this Court . . . may issue appropriate orders including on: . . . (b) case disposition (e.g., appointment of a trustee, conversion, dismissal" Dkt. 25, p. 1-2. That order was served on all parties in interest. Dkt.48.

Poser requests that this Court issue an Order to Show Cause ("OSC") directing the Debtor to appear and show cause why this Court should not convert, dismiss or appoint a chapter 11 trustee in this case. The tentative ruling is to issue such an OSC, and direct Poser to serve that OSC and a copy of Poser's response (dkt.133) on all creditors listed in the creditor

(b) Mediation

The tentative ruling is not to issue any further orders regarding mediation or other settlement efforts at this point - the parties remain free to engage in voluntary discussions.

(c) Poser Investments, Inc. v. Ebuehi et al. (Adv. No. 2:18-ap-01431-NB)

This Court has issued its decision, its order denying Debtors/Defendants' counterclaim motion, and its judgment in favor of Poser Investments, Inc. See adv.dkt.47, 55, 56. Debtors have stated their intention to appeal and Poser has stated its intention to file motions for relief from the automatic stay and for attorney fees and costs. The tentative ruling is to continue the status conference in the adversary proceeding to the same date and time as the continued status conference in the bankruptcy case.

by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 10/2/19:

Appearances required. The parties are directed to address whether there was adequate notice of this hearing, and the merits of each motion, as set forth below.

(1) Notice of this hearing

Debtor must address whether the proof of service of the motion papers (the "POS," dkt.21) complies with this Court's order shortening time ("OST," dkt.10), or due process. The OST provides that the deadline for "RECEIPT" of written notice of this hearing/a copy of the OST is 10/1/19 at noon. Id. (emphasis in original). In two ways, this Court questions whether the POS complies with this direction.

First, the POS only appears to assert that envelopes were dropped off with an (unspecified) "Overnight Mail" carrier on 10/1/19, which would mean that those envelopes would not be received until 10/2/19 at the earliest, possibly just shortly before the hearing or even after the hearing.

Second, this Court questions whether delivery really was "overnight" to Taiwan, South Korea, China, and other overseas destinations.

(2) Merits of each motion

If the foregoing notice issue is adequately addressed, the tentative rulings are as follows.

(a) Payroll motion (dkt. 2)

Grant on a final basis, subject to any opposition at the hearing, and subject to authorization to use cash collateral to make payroll (see below).

(b) Cash management motion (dkt.4)

Grant on an interim basis, subject to any opposition at the hearing, with a final hearing at the same time as the continued status conference (see below).

(c) Cash collateral motion (dkt.5)

typical for Debtor's cash position to fluctuate so substantially from week to week? Are the goods that Debtor anticipates selling in keeping with Debtor's historical lines of business, and with existing customers, or is Debtor projecting the replacement of some past lines of business with new lines?

Subject to (i) adequate resolution of the foregoing, (ii) any opposition at the hearing, and (iii) the conditions set forth in calendar no. 3 (on 10/2/19 at 2:00 p.m.), the tentative ruling is to grant this motion on an interim basis, with a further interim hearing at the same time as the continued status conference (see below).

(d) Notice of continued hearings

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 10/3/19 for Debtor to file and serve via U.S. mail a notice of the continued hearings.

(e) Proposed orders

This Court anticipates filing a "Memorialization of Tentative Rulings." Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders that reference that document and incorporate the tentative rulings as final rulings, except as they may be modified at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(3) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 9/30/19.

(a) Bar date: TBD

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD (Debtor must use the forms required by Judge Bason, absent an order excusing the use of such forms) (DO NOT SERVE yet, except on the U.S. Trustee - this Court will set a deadline and procedures at a later time).

(c) Continued status conference: 10/15/19 at 2:00 p.m. No written status report is required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 10/15/19:

Appearances are not required on 10/15/19. See below for tentative dispositions of various matters, and continuances.

(1) Current matters

(a) Combined Status Conference

This Status Conference involves two related bankruptcy cases and associated matters: (i) In re Layfield & Barrett, APC, Case No. 2:17-bk-19548-NB ("L&B"); (ii) In re Layfield, Case No. 2:18-bk-15829-NB ("Lay-Invol."); (iii) Pimentel v. Layfield et al., Adv.No. 2:19-ap-01069-NB ("Pimentel Adv."); and (iv) Hickey v. Layfield (Adv No. 2:19-ap-01070-NB) ("Hickey-523 Adv.").

(b) L&B, status conference

Continue as set forth in part "(2)" of this tentative ruling, below.

(c) Lay-Invol, status conference

Continue as set forth in part "(2)" of this tentative ruling, below.

(d) Pimentel Adv., Defendant/Debtor Mr. Layfield's motion to dismiss ("MTD," adv.dkt.26) Plaintiff Mr. Pimentel's First Amended Complaint ("FAC," adv.dkt.20)

Deny the MTD insofar as it seeks to dismiss nondischargeability claims against Mr. Layfield, for the reasons stated in the opposition (adv.dkt. 28). See also Decision and Order of State Bar Court, pp.4-5 (Ex.2 to FAC, adv.dkt.20) (issue preclusive findings of fact and conclusions of law).

Deny the MTD insofar as it seeks to dismiss what the MTD calls claims for "in rem" relief, because Mr. Layfield as a chapter 7 debtor lacks standing to dispute whether certain funds are or are not property of the bankruptcy estate, or that certain alleged transfers to third parties are or are not avoidable.

Grant the MTD, with leave to amend the FAC, as to the fraudulent transfer claims, insofar as the MTD asserts a failure to join indispensable parties. Note: This Court expresses no opinion whether Plaintiff has standing to assert claims for fraudulent transfers (as distinguished from the standing of the trustees for the L&B and Layfield bankruptcy estates to assert fraudulent transfers).

Specifically, the indispensable parties issue is as follows. The FAC's second claim for relief (FAC para. 38-49) asserts claims for "fraudulent transfer and/or concealment ..." (emphasis added), and Pimentel seeks "a judgment of the Court avoiding all fraudulent transfers of property to Defendants which are traceable to amounts owed to the Plaintiff." FAC para.49 (adv.dkt.20, p.11:24-26) (emphasis added). The MTD argues that the FAC fails to join indispensable parties with respect to any such fraudulent transfers: "Pimentel alleges Barrett facilitated the fraudulent transfers between [Mr. Layfield individually and/or L&B] and A&G" but "Pimentel has failed to join L&B" or "Maximum Legal (California), LLP," "The Barrett Law Firm," or "Wakefield." MTD (adv.dkt.26) pp.3:28-4:6. The tentative ruling is that at least some of those parties, and apparently all of them, are indispensable to Mr. Pimentel's fraudulent transfer claims, because he appears to assert that all of those parties were recipients or intermediate or mediate transferees of the transfers and/or participated in the alleged transfers and/or are subject to liability for the alleged transfers.

After the hearing this Court will prepare an order.

(2) Deadlines/dates. The L&B case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 on 8/3/17 and converted to chapter 11 on 8/11/17 (L&B dkt. 25). The Lay-Invol case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 case on 5/21/18 and an order for relief was entered on 12/12/18 (Lay-Invol dkt. 160, 161).

- (a) L&B Bar date: 2/5/18 (timely served, L&B dkt. 133, 157)
- (b) Lay-Invol Bar date: 4/12/19 (timely served, Lay-Invol dkt.180)
- (c) L&B Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD. Do not file or serve until further order of this court.
- (d) Continued status conferences (L&B, Lay-Invol, Pimentel Adv., and Hickey-523 Adv.):

(d) Lay-Invol, status conference

Continue to 10/15/19 at 2:00 p.m., to be heard concurrently with related matters. No status report required.

(e) Pimentel Adv., Affeld Grivakes' motion to dismiss first amended complaint (adv. dkt. 24) ("MTD"), Mr. Pimentel's opposition (adv. dkt. 30), Affeld Grivakes' reply (adv. dkt. 32)

The tentative ruling is to grant the MTD, without leave to amend, only as against Affeld Grivakes LLP ("Affeld-G"), as follows.

(i) Plaintiff has not alleged sufficient facts to state a claim for constructive trust or restitution, and any associated declaratory relief

Plaintiff's first claim for relief appears in parts to seek only declaratory relief, and in other parts it apparently seeks a constructive trust against settlement proceeds that allegedly were used to fund the litigation of cases transferred from Layfield & Barret (the alleged alter ego of Mr. Layfield) to Mr. Barrett and then from him to Affeld-G. Specifically, Plaintiff alleges that an unspecified amount of funds owed to Plaintiff "were used to fund one or two of Layfield's pending contingency fee cases." (First Amended Complaint ("FAC"), adv. dkt. 20, p. 8:3-4).

Plaintiff has not cited any legal authority establishing the imposition of a constructive trust on facts similar to those alleged in the FAC – i.e. where Plaintiff's money was allegedly converted into services that were commingled with other services that resulted in a recovery in a different case. The tentative ruling is that this is several "bridges too far" - Plaintiff may well have a claim against L&B and/or Mr. Layfield (and possibly others, such as Mr. Barrett), but the FAC fails to allege sufficient grounds for the imposition of any constructive trust in these circumstances.

Absent any constructive trust, the other aspects of this claim for relief do not appear to have any basis. The tentative ruling is that Plaintiff has failed to state a claim for relief for declaratory relief, the imposition of a constructive trust, or restitution.

(ii) Plaintiff has not alleged sufficient facts to state a claim for relief under 727(a)(2)

Plaintiff's second claim for relief asserts a claim under 11 U.S.C. Section 727(a)(2). Although Plaintiff argues in opposition to the MTD that he has alleged sufficient facts to state a claim for avoidance of a fraudulent transfer (adv. dkt. 30, p. 13:1-3), he insists that he is only seeking relief under Section 727 and not 11 U.S.C. 548 (id., p. 30:5-14). Because Section 727 is limited to whether to grant or deny a debtor's discharge, and Affeld-G is not a debtor, Plaintiff has not and cannot state a claim against Affeld-G under Section 727(a)(2).

(iii) Plaintiff's request for leave to amend

The tentative ruling is that, for the reasons stated above, leave to amend would be futile. The tentative ruling is to dismiss the complaint (solely as against Affeld-G) without leave to amend.

(2) Deadlines/dates. The L&B case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 on 8/3/17 and converted to chapter 11 on 8/11/17 (L&B dkt. 25). The Lay-Invol case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 case on 5/21/18 and an order for relief was entered on 12/12/18 (Lay-Invol dkt. 160, 161).

(a) L&B Bar date: 2/5/18 (timely served, L&B dkt. 133, 157)

(b) Lay-Invol Bar date: 4/12/19 (timely served, Lay-Invol dkt.180)

(c) L&B Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD. Do not file or serve until further order of this court.

(d) Continued status conferences (L&B and Lay-Invol): continue to 10/15/19 at 2:00 p.m. No status report required.

(b) Motion for TRO & Claim and Delivery (adv. dkt. 10).

Plaintiff/debtor Checkmate King Co., Ltd. ("Checkmate") has filed a stipulation (adv. dkt. 30) with defendants Radiology Solutions Corp. ("RS") and George Fower ("Fower") for turnover of equipment. But Checkmate has not provided any evidence that it has relief from the automatic stay and consent of the Chapter 7 Trustee in the RS and Fower bankruptcy cases for such turnover (Case Nos. 8:18-bk-10585-TA and 8:18-bk-10583-TA). The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 6/19/18 for Checkmate to file a declaration attaching evidence sufficient to establish those things, and lodge a revised proposed order to approve the stipulation.

(2) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 3/6/18. It is premature to set a discovery cutoff and other deadlines at this time. Continue to 7/17/18 at 2:00 p.m., brief joint status report due 7/3/18.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 5/8/18:

The tentative ruling is to continue all pending matters in this adversary proceeding to 6/12/18 at 2:00 p.m. for the reason stated below, with a brief joint status report due 5/29/18, and with a deadline of 5/7/18 for the plaintiff to file and serve a notice of continuances attaching and incorporating by reference the deadlines in this tentative ruling (assuming that this Court is not persuaded to depart from this tentative ruling). (a) Motion for TRO & Claim and Delivery (adv. dkt. 10). At the 4/9/18 hearing on this motion, counsel for plaintiff/debtor Checkmate King Co., Ltd. ("Checkmate") apprised this Court of the bankruptcy filings of defendants Radiology Solutions Corp. ("RS") and George Fower ("Fower") (Case Nos. 8:18-bk-10585-TA and 8:18-bk-10583-TA) and requested a continuance of this hearing to allow time to obtain orders granting relief from stay with annulment. In the Joint status report (adv. dkt. 24), Checkmate states that the hearings on the relief from stay motions are scheduled for 5/15/18. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to continue this motion to the date and time set forth at the start of this tentative ruling.

(b) Siemens Motion to Dismiss (adv. dkt. 27, the "MTD"). Defendant Siemens Medical Solutions USA, Inc. ("Siemens") has properly self-calendared its MTD for 6/12/18 at 11:00 a.m. Siemens anticipates that it may be voluntarily dismissed by plaintiff (see adv. dkt. 24), but if that does not occur then this Court anticipates that the MTD may take 15 minutes or more to hear. This Court's practice is that matters anticipated to take 15 minutes or more are heard on the 2:00 p.m. calendar (not available for self-calendaring, except by permission of this Court). Therefore the tentative ruling is to re-calendar the MTD from 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m., which is concurrent with the other matters in this adversary proceeding that are on today's calendar.

(2) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 3/6/18. It is premature to set a discovery cutoff and other deadlines at this time.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

#2.00 Hrg re: Motion to Dismiss
Chapter 13 case

Docket 12

Tentative Ruling:

Grant. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Debtor's Schedule D (dkt. 21) and Certificate of Credit Counseling (dkt. 30).

Reasons:

(1) Secured debt limit

11 U.S.C. 109(e) provides in relevant part

Only an individual with regular income that owes, on the date of the filing of the petition, noncontingent, liquidated, unsecured debts of less than $419,275 and noncontingent, liquidated, secured debts of less than $1,257,850 ... may be a debtor under chapter 13 of this title. 11 U.S.C. 109(e).

Debtor's Schedule D shows that she has $7,329,000 of secured debt. Dkt. 21, p.2. Debtor's secured debts are thus above the debt limit, and she is ineligible to be a debtor in chapter 13.

(2) Certificate of credit counseling

11 U.S.C. 109(h) provides in relevant part

... an individual may not be a debtor under this title unless such individual has, during the 180-day period ending on the date of filing of the petition, received ... credit counseling 11 U.S.C. 109(h)(1) (emphasis added).

Debtor's Certificate of Credit Counseling (dkt. 30) shows that she received credit counseling on September 17, 2019, thirteen (13) days after filing her petition. Debtor did not receive credit counseling prior to filing for bankruptcy, and is therefore not eligible to be a debtor in bankruptcy.

#6.00 Hrg re: Debtor's Omnibus motion for

#32 - Eternal Valley Memorial Park
#33 - Eternal Valley Memorial Park

Docket 35

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as set forth below and disallow Claims 32 and 33 in full as duplicates of Claim 34. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Reasons: The tentative ruling is that debtors' proof of service does not reflect service of the court-mandated form F 3007-1.1.NOTICE.OBJ.CLAIM on Eternal Valley Memorial Park ("Claimant") as required by Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 3007-1(b)(3), but that such failure is harmless because debtors' notice of motion and motion (dkt. 35) contains the requisite information set forth in LBR 3007-1(b)(3)(A) & (B), the attached proof of service reflects that Claimant was served with that document and, as of the preparation of this tentative ruling no opposition is on file. Debtors' counsel is cautioned that failure to comply with applicable rules in future may result in denial of the motion.

#14.00 Cont'd hrg re: Debtor's Motion For Intentional Violation of the Automatic Stay Against Westrux International, Inc.; Request for Sanctions; Request for Attorney's Fees; Request for Compensatory and Punitive Damages fr. 9/19/19

Docket 40

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 10/24/19:

Grant in part and deny in part as set forth below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing if this tentative ruling is contested. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Declaration of Debtor's Attorney (dkt. 65), Declaration of Debtor (dkt. 66), Declaration of Jose A. Gomez in Support of Debtor's Truck Rental Expenses ("Brother's Declaration," dkt. 67), Westrux International, Inc. ("Westrux") Response ("Westrux Opposition," dkt. 68); Debtor's Reply (dkt.69).

Reasons:

(1) Attorney fees

The tentative ruling is to allow Debtor's attorneys, the Law Offices of Carmel Hehr, $11,160.00 in fees and $0 in costs. If Westrux contests this tentative ruling, forcing Debtor's attorney to appear at the hearing, then the tentative ruling is to allow the additional estimated 1.5 hours or $675.00 for appearance at the hearing.

Westrux objects to Debtor's attorney fees on the following grounds: (a) Westrux objects to work completed by any "legal assistant," (b) Westrux objects to work regarding Ally Financial, and (c) Westrux objects that the proper rate is $350/hour, not the $450/hour charged. See dkt. 68, p.4-5. But, (a) the daily time records show "nc" (no charge) for work completed by legal assistants (dkt. 65, pp.13-15), (b) in the narrative portion of her declaration, Ms. Hehr details how the discussions with Ally Financial were relevant to the Westrux stay violation (see dkt. 65, p.2:16-27), and (c) $450/hr. is well within the range of appropriate billing rates; it is no different from what counsel is charging Debtor and the bankruptcy estate (dkt. 14, p.6); and this Court is fully satisfied that it is an appropriate rate, based on the high quality of the written work and oral arguments presented, the efficiency reflected in the relatively modest amounts of time on complex issues, and the other factors commonly considered in awarding fees. See generally 11 U.S.C. 330(a)(3). While Westrux cites to an alleged docket entry in a matter before the Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit for its proposition that $350/hour is the "ordered" reasonable rate (dkt. 68, p.5), Westrux has failed to explain why an order in one matter is binding on all fee applications or requests in other matters, and Westrux did not provide a copy of that document to this Court as required by Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 9013-2(b) which provides in relevant part:

If a party cites an unpublished judicial opinion, order, judgment, or other written disposition, the party must file and serve a copy of that opinion, order, judgment, or disposition with the brief or other document in which it is cited. [LBR 9013-2(b)(4) (emphasis added)].

(2) Rental truck expenses

The tentative ruling is to allow $1,800.00 for the rental truck expenses incurred by Debtor, and disallow $600.00.

Westrux objects to Debtors rental truck expenses on the following grounds: (a) Westrux asserts that it is not properly charged with truck payments made prior to or in June 2019 because Debtor's bankruptcy petition was filed on June 14, 2019 and it was not informed of the bankruptcy filing until June 27, 2019, and (b) Westrux asserts that more evidence is required, beyond Debtor's financial records and his and his brother's declarations, to prove that Debtor paid $600 per month for use of the replacement truck. See dkt. 68, p.1-3.

The tentative ruling is to sustain Westrux's first objection. Any violation of the automatic stay could not have caused prepetition expenses, because the automatic stay did not exist prepetition; nor could any damages have been caused by a "willful" violation of the stay before Westrux knew of the bankruptcy case. See GoodyearTire & Rubber Co. v. Hager, 137 S.Ct. 1178 (2017) (rejecting award of all attorney fees, including prior to when sanctionable conduct occurred).

The tentative ruling is to overrule Westrux's second objection. Both Debtor (dkt. 66) and his brother (dkt.67) have submitted declarations, under penalty of perjury, stating that Debtor was leasing the vehicle from his brother at $600/month. This Court is satisfied that the declarations are sufficient evidence for purposes of establishing the truck rental costs.

(3) Vehicle registration

The tentative ruling is to allow $210.00 of the requested $840.00 for the rental truck registration fees and disallow the remainder, although not on the specific grounds asserted by Westrux. Westrux argues that there is no copy of the registration (dkt. 68, p.1:28-p.2:1; p.3:26-27); but a copy of the registration has been provided with the Reply. Dkt.69, Ex.3. Nevertheless, both the registration and the corresponding financial records show that this payment occurred prior to the bankruptcy petition (dkt.69, Ex.3, and dkt. 66, Ex. A at PDF p.13, "Hino Regist."), so to the extent the registration expense is attributable to the period prior to June 27, 2019 this expense comes within Westrux' more general objection to being charged for expenses that were prepetition and before it knew of the bankruptcy filing. Thereafter, however, the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to prorate the expense, because the evidence is that Debtor's agreement with his brother was to cover the registration expense during the time that Debtor had to use his brother's truck (dkt.67, p.2:3-6), which is approximately 3 months (July, August, September) or 1/4 of a year, and $$840.00 \times 1/4 = \210.00 .

(4) Insurance

The tentative ruling is to allow the requested $635.88 for insurance. Westrux objects that Debtor has not provided proof of insurance (dkt. 68, p.3:22-24), but that has been provided in the Reply. Dkt.69, Ex.4; and see also dkt. 66, Ex. A at PDF p.25 (evidence of payment).

(5) Proposed setoff

Westrux argues that it is entitled to a $9,000.00 setoff because it had to store Debtor's truck for nine months, and allegedly "[t]he standard cost to park a commercial truck in a locked facility in the Greater Los Angeles area is

Chapter 13

$1,000 per month." Dkt.68, p.4:11-16. There is some appeal to this argument, but the tentative ruling is to reject it for several reasons.

First, there is no evidence to support the alleged "standard cost" of $1,000 per month. That alone is fatal to this argument.

Second, there is no citation to any authority for setting off a prepetition claim against a postpetition sanction for violation of the automatic stay. In general, sanctions are within the bankruptcy court's "discretion" (see, e.g., In re Bennett, 298 F.3d 1059, 1069-70 (9th Cir. 2002)) and even if it were permissible to apply setoff (for which, again, no authority has been cited), the tentative ruling is that in the circumstances of this case that would not be appropriate. The evidence is that Debtor's earning ability depends on having a truck and Westrux' willful violation of the automatic stay jeopardized Debtor's earning ability and reduced or impaired his ability to pay all allowed claims of creditors. A setoff would enable Westrux to be paid ahead of other creditors, which is inappropriate.

Third, the claims bar date was 8/23/19 (dkt.4) and this Court's claims register does not include any claim filed by Westrux. Accordingly, there is nothing to set off.

For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is to reject the proposed setoff of $9,000.00.

(6) Other arguments

In addition to the foregoing, Westrux' arguments are rejected for the reasons stated in Debtor's papers. Among other things, Westrux' arguments regarding the merits of the violation of the automatic stay are raised too late: the violation has already been determined, and the current issue is solely what damages to award.

(7) Conclusion

The tentative ruling is to award damages to Debtor under 11 U.S.C. 362(k) in the total amount of $13,805.88 ($11,160.00 attorney fees + $1,800 truck rental + $210.00 registration + $635.88 insurance = $13,805.88). The tentative ruling is to make such damages payable within 21 days after entry of the order adopting this tentative ruling, and to make the damages payable to Debtor's attorney, to apply against the attorney fee award and to hold the balance for disposition pursuant to the usual methods of applying funds in chapter 13 cases - i.e., either to pay creditors under Debtor's confirmed 100%

If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 9/19/19:

Appearances required. There is no tentative ruling, except to sustain the evidentiary objections (dkt.54, 55) but the parties should be prepared to address the issues raised in the motion (dkt.40), opposition papers (dkt.53-55) and reply papers (dkt.59-60), including:

(1) whether Debtor should be deemed to have abandoned the vehicle (before having a change of heart) by not responding to demands for payment (see dkt.52, pp.2:11-3:10 and 4:14-6:19, and compare dkt.59, p.4:8-28);

(2) whether, even if there was no actual abandonment, Debtor gave the impression of abandonment, thus

(a) making any alleged violation of the (subsequent) automatic stay not "willful" because Westrux International, Inc. ("Westrux") reasonably believed that no stay applied to abandoned property (see id.), thereby precluding compensatory damages including attorney fees, and/or

(b) making any violation of the stay not malicious, oppressive, or undertaken with reckless disregard for Debtor's rights, thereby precluding any punitive damages (see dkt.52, p.7:19-28 and p.8:1-19), and

(c) making any subsequent change of heart by Debtor, and his demand for return of the vehicle, irrelevant unless and until there is a final ruling that there was not actually an abandonment, at which point Westrux would then know that the stay does apply so, from that point forward, it would have to turn over the vehicle (see dkt.59, pp.3:14-4:7 and p.5:1-28);

(3) whether Movant has no lien because it did not apply for authorization to conduct a lien sale or to file a court action within 45 days (30 + 15 days) after the work was completed (Cal. Civ. C. 3068(a)&(b)) (see

(4) whether Debtor can establish any damages (see dkt.52, pp.6:21-7:17).

#19.00 Hrg re: Motion to dismiss chapter 13 case

Docket 111

Tentative Ruling:

Grant the motion and dismiss Debtor's bankruptcy case, subject to any persuasive opposition at the hearing, for the reasons set forth below.
Appearances required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Key documents reviewed: Motion to Dismiss filed by WVJP 2017-2, LP ("Movant") ("MTD," dkt. 11); Debtors' 5th Amended Plan ("Plan," dkt. 100), objections of Movant and WV SPE 2017-2A, LLC (collectively, "Creditors") to the Plan (dkt. 104, 105), Debtors' Amended Schedule I (dkt. 108), Debtors' responses to Creditors' objections (dkt. 109, 110), and Creditor's replies (dkt. 118, 119).

Reasons:

The tentative ruling is that there is cause under 11 U.S.C. 1307(c)(1) and (c)(5) to dismiss Debtors' bankruptcy case because (w) the Plan is not feasible on its face; (x) Debtors have not suggested any plausible way in which they can propose a feasible plan; (y) Debtors have repeatedly failed to propose a plan that provides for the allowed amount of secured Creditors' claims; and (z) the delay caused by Debtors is prejudicial to all creditors, who must bear all the usual expenses of nonperforming loans/unpaid debts.

Chapter 13

(1) unreasonable delay by the debtor that is prejudicial to creditors ...; [or]

...

(5) denial of confirmation of a plan under section 1325 of this title and denial of a request made for additional time for filing another plan or modification of a plan [11 U.S.C. 1307(c)(1)&(5)]

(2) Debtors' repeated failure to propose confirmable plans

Debtors have repeatedly failed to propose a plan that provides for interest payments to Creditors, who are oversecured. See, e.g., dkt. 118, p.4:6 and n.5. Debtors' first Chapter 13 plan was filed on 3/19/19. Dkt. 17. Debtors filed the sixth version of their Chapter 13 plan on 8/13/19. Dkt. 100. As Creditors explain in their objections to confirmation, the Plan does not provide for interest on Creditor's claim even though Creditor is oversecured. See, e.g., dkt. 105, p.3:3-4.

This has been a recurring theme. As set forth in the MTD, all six versions of Debtors' plan fail to provide properly for Movant's claim. Dkt. 111, p.3-4.

In their reply to Creditors' objections to confirmation, Debtors' purport to establish that Creditors are not oversecured. See, e.g., dkt. 110, p.6. Debtors' arguments are frivolous. See Replies (dkt.118, 119), passim.

(3) Plan feasibility

Debtors have not adequately supported their income and expenses to show that they could propose any feasible plan. Debtors' numbers fall short, and are implausible, unsupported, and internally inconsistent. See Replies (dkt.118, 119), passim.

In addition, even Debtors' information is woefully incomplete. Bankruptcy Schedule I, line 8a, instructs Debtors to "attach a statement for each property and business showing gross receipts, ordinary and necessary business expenses, and the total monthly net income." Debtors have failed to attach such a statement.

(4) Conclusion

For all of the foregoing reasons, dismissal is appropriate.

#2.00 Cont'd hrg re: Trustee's Motion for Allowance of Administrative Expense Request
fr. 10/24/19

Docket 214

Tentative Ruling:

Revised Tentative Ruling for 10/29/19:

The tentative ruling is (1) to allow Dinsmore & Shohl, LLP $30,265.50 in fees and $343.38 in expenses, for a total of $30,608.88, plus any additional amounts allowed in future regarding sale of the Assets (as defined in the motion papers) as an administrative expense of Ann's Estate against Gloria's estate; and, if necessary, (2) to set an evidentiary hearing to determine whether or not 100% of the postpetition income from the Assets (as defined in the motion papers) belongs to Ann's estate. Appearances required.

Proposed order: Trustee is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Analysis:

(1) Legal standards for allowance of administrative expenses

The parties appear to agree on the legal standards for allowance of the administrative expense reimbursement sought by Trustee, in his dual capacity as chapter 7 trustee for Ann's estate and authorized agent for the Chapter 13 Trustee in Gloria's estate with respect to the matters at issue: this Court "shall" allow as administrative expenses any "actual, necessary costs and expenses of preserving the estate" (11 U.S.C. 503(b)(1)(A)&(b)(2), emphasis added), including but not limited to "reasonable compensation for actual, necessary services rendered by the trustee ... or any person employed by [the trustee]," as well as "reimbursement for actual, necessary expenses." 11 U.S.C. 330(a)(1) (emphasis added). In assessing reasonable compensation for services, this Court shall take into consideration "the nature, the extent, and the value of such services, taking into account all relevant factors, including - (A) the time spent ...; (B) the rates charged ...; (C) whether the services were necessary to the administration of, or beneficial at the time at which the service was rendered toward the completion of, [the bankruptcy] case ...; (D) whether the services were performed within a reasonable amount of time commensurate with the complexity, importance, and nature of the problem, issue, or task addressed; (E) with respect to a professional person, whether the person is board certified or otherwise has demonstrated skill and experience in the bankruptcy field; and (F) whether the compensation is reasonable based on the customary compensation charged by comparably skilled practitioners in cases other than [bankruptcy] cases" 11 U.S.C. 330(a)(3) (emphasis added).

(2) Application of the legal standards for administrative expenses to the facts

Putting aside the parties' invective, this Court's tentative ruling is that Trustee's incurrence of the fees and expenses at issue satisfies the foregoing legal standards for an administrative claim as against Gloria's bankruptcy estate for 1/2 of the services rendered. Trustee had more than sufficient reasons to believe that the sale of the Assets (as defined in the parties' papers) was well worth the anticipated costs of administration, given (a) the prepetition income apparently derived from the Assets (especially because of Debtor's changing statement about what is annual income and what were receivables), (b) Debtors' somewhat unclear testimony regarding the ownership of the Assets and any income derived from them, (c) Debtors' changing exemptions, and (d) the other facts and circumstances of these cases.

Whether the administrative expenses in Ann's bankruptcy case will or will not be allowed, and in what dollar amount, is an issue for another day. See the tentative ruling for calendar no. 5 (10/29/19 at 9:00 a.m.).

(3) Dollar amounts of administrative expenses

As for the mathematical calculations, the fee application (dkt. 214) requests two different figures - $30,944.50 (p.1:19) and $30,848.87 (p.2:15). Both of these figures are listed as "representing one-half of the attorney's fees and costs incurred by Trustee Mastan selling the Assets." Dkt. 214 at p.1:19 & p.2:15. But the attached billing records provide that $60,531.00 in fees and $686.75 in expenses have been incurred, for a total of $61,217.75. Dkt. 214, Ex. 3. One-half of that figure is $30,608.88.

Trustee is directed to address whether the above tentative ruling reflects the correct figures.

(4) Which estate(s) are entitled to postpetition income from the Assets

The tentative ruling is that there are credibility issues, and other factual issues such as who actually worked on deriving income from the Assets and what agreement or arrangement Debtors actually had between them as to who would receive such income. The tentative ruling is that such issues cannot be determined on the existing record, and probably would require an evidentiary hearing to resolve, although, given the relatively small dollar amounts at stake, the evidentiary hearing probably would have to be very short. The parties are directed to address those issues.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Chapter 7

Analysis:

This motion to sell assets under 11 U.S.C. 363(b) and (f)(2) and (f)(4) is brought by the Chapter 7 Trustee (the "Trustee") of the estate of Antoinette Elisa Galvan ("Ann," Case No. 2:16-bk-24753-NB). The Trustee is also acting, for these purposes, on behalf of the chapter 13 estate of Ann's twin sister Gloria Galvan ("Gloria," Case No. 2:16-bk-24755-NB) (see GloriaDkt. 65, 76). The Trustee has filed the sale motion in both cases. AnnDkt.154, 163; GloriaDkt.191, 207.

(1) Background

Prepetition Ann and Gloria operated an online images business (the "Business"), which included selling T-shirts relating to breast cancer emblazoned with the slogan, "Fight Like A Girl." The business was operated through the sisters' entity, Hope Inspired Creations, LLC (referred to herein as "Creations," and referred to by the Trustee as "HIC").

Competitor TSDC, LLC ("TSDC") sued the sisters for trademark infringement and other claims. There was a 2018 settlement but the parties had protracted disputes about whether it had been breached. See GloriaDkt.205, Ex.2, p.1 (last para.) & p.2 (Recital 2).

Eventually the sisters removed various images of their products from their online sales websites and, on November 1, 2016 they dissolved Creations. The parties disagree whether (a) Ann is now the sole owner of the Business and/or its assets or (b) each sister owns 50%.

The Trustee argues that both Ann and Gloria testified under oath, at their respective meetings of creditors (11 U.S.C. 341(a)), that the Business was transferred to Ann. The sisters apparently take the position that the Trustee misunderstands, and that Ann only received 100% of the post-dissolution revenues (allegedly because Ann was running the business while Gloria was too busy to do so as a paralegal) and the ownership of the business and/or its assets (collectively, the "Business") was divided 50% to Gloria and 50% to Ann. See AnnDkt.168, pp.2:12-3:28 (Trustee's Reply, quoting 341(a) testimony) and compare AnnDkt..165 (Ann's Opposition).

In any event, a few days after dissolving Creations, on November 7, 2016 Ann and Gloria each filed a voluntary chapter 7 bankruptcy petition. Gloria's bankruptcy case was converted to chapter 13 on January 26, 2017, after the United States Trustee ("UST") objected that undisclosed income violated the "means test." See AnnDkt.168, p.5:6-11 (citing GloriaDkt.15, 23).

Just recently, on 9/13/19, this Court issued an order (GloriaDkt.212) approving a settlement agreement between both sisters and TSDC (the "Settlement," GloriaDkt.205, Ex.2). The Settlement provides (among other things) that the sisters will cease using the phrase "Fight Like A Girl" or any similar phrase in the marketing or sale of any goods worldwide, but that nothing in the settlement agreement shall prevent them from "receiving the proceeds or being credited with the sale of any of [their] designs by the Chapter 7 or Chapter 13 trustees," provided that if their "designs are returned to [them], the designs shall be destroyed" GloriaDkt.205, Ex.2, p.3, para.3(h) & 5.

Meanwhile TSDC has reached an agreement with the Trustee to purchase all intellectual property and all social media accounts, websites, and related assets of the Business (the "Assets") from Ann's bankruptcy estate for $45,000. AnnDkt.163, Ex.1. Ann and Gloria have each filed objections (AnnDkt.165, GloriaDkt.209).

(2) The sisters' objections

Both sisters argue that the Settlement "relates only to 'Fight Like A Girl' trademarks" and "TSDC is attempting to purchase not only items related to 'Fight Like A Girl' but every design that [Gloria] and [Ann] have ever created." AnnDkt.165, p.4:3-12. According to the sisters, the "Fight Like A Girl" assets "only generated approximately 7% of the overall revenue" of the Business. GloriaDkt.209, p.4:22-27, AnnDkt.165, p.4:8-10. They assert that they still have rights in, and have exempted, the non-Settlement portion of the Assets.

The next step in the sisters' argument is that a bankruptcy trustee "may not sell the [Assets] for less than the amount exempted" by a debtor, citing In re Clark, 266 B.R. 163, 172 (9th Cir. BAP 2001). GloriaDkt.165, p.4:22-24. See also AnnDkt.209, p.4:15-27.

Note: The sisters do not dispute that, if the proceeds of the sale to be received by their respective bankruptcy estates were to exceed their respective exemptions, then the sale could be approved. See, e.g., In re Reilly, 130 S.Ct. 2652, 2657 (2010) (estate can "recover value in the asset beyond the dollar value the debtor expressly declares as exempt"); In re Gebhart, 621 F.3d 1206, 1211 (9th Cir. 2010) (estate can sell property that is fully covered by exemption as of petition date, to obtain postpetition appreciation for benefit of estate); In re Fuentes, 687 Fed. Appx.

542, 544 (9th Cir. 2017) (exemption is not absolute right to property itself, "[r]ather, it is a debtor's right to retain a certain sum of money when the court orders sale of [the property in which the exemption is claimed]") (internal quotations and citation omitted).

The sisters then calculate that, "[a]ll together, the $45,000.00 offer by TSDC and the $7,952.23 from monthly sales collected to date by the Trustee total $52,952.23, of which the estates of [Gloria] and [Ann] are entitled to 50% each, or $26,476.11." GloriaDkt.209, pp.3:24-4:1; AnnDkt.165,p.4:14-18. The sisters assert that Ann's exemptions equal or exceed this $26,476.11, so under Clark the Assets may not be sold.

Note: The sisters' inclusion of the $7,952.23 in receipts held by the Trustee appears to be an acknowledgment that (a) their claimed exemptions cover both the Assets proposed to be sold to TSDC and those receipts held by the Trustee so (b) in determining whether the proposed sale will result in any net proceeds for the estate, the $7,952.23 must be deducted.

Note: It is not entirely clear if the sisters are making the same argument with respect to Gloria's exemptions. Gloria argues (GloriaDkt.209,pp.5:-6:5) that the Assets cannot be sold because Ann's exemptions (in the 50% of the Assets that Ann claims) equal or exceed 50% of the proposed purchase price of the Assets, so there is no equity for Ann's estate. But in her conclusion Gloria appears to argue (GloriaDkt.209, p.6:7-14) that there will not be sufficient proceeds from the sale to pay her own exemptions, so the sale motion must be denied.

(3) The Trustee's reply

The Trustee argues that, in connection with the prepetition dissolution of Creations (aka HIC), the Business was transferred solely to Ann. The Trustee cites both Ann's and Gloria's 341(a) testimony. The Trustee then argues that Ann's exemptions are less than the sale price so the Assets can be sold.

The Trustee argues in the alternative that the Trustee plans to object to Ann's purported "tools of the trade" exemption in the intellectual property included in the Assets. See AnnDkt.168, pp.11:8-13:9. The Trustee argues that this will reduce "the amount owed to Ann on account of her exemptions to $23,758.00, which is less than the amount Ann's estate would be entitled to $26,514.25, even if Gloria's Estate were able to prove its claim to 50% of the Assets. AnnDkt.268, p.13:2-9 (emphasis in original).

Alternatively, the Trustee argues that Ann and Gloria engaged in various misconduct:

(a) Sabotaging the value of the Assets: The sisters purportedly hid the online images of the Business's goods which "deliberately sabotaged" the value of the Assets in an attempt to persuade the Trustee to abandon the Assets to Ann (Ann dkt.168, pp.4:1-5:4 and p.10:26).

(b) Ann hiding income: Ann allegedly "had been improperly retaining postpetition income from the Assets that had trickled into some of her bank accounts despite the Sisters' efforts to 'hide' most of the online images," (id., p.9:17-22).

(c) Gloria hiding income: Gloria allegedly intentionally omitted her "highly compensated" employment from her "means test" in an attempt to qualify for chapter 7 (id., p.5:6-11).

The Trustee appears to be arguing that the sisters should be estopped to assert that Gloria owns 50% of the Business. Alternatively, the Trustee may be asserting that there is some basis for surcharging the claimed exemptions.

(4) Good or bad faith

The Trustee seeks a "good faith" finding under 11 U.S.C. 363(m). The sisters argue that TSDC is acting in bad faith because it has provided "misleading information about [Gloria and Ann] and [Creations]" in an attempt to "obfuscate the value of the [Assets]" and, perhaps as a result, the Trustee did not actively manage the Assets to generate substantial income. AnnDkt.165, pp.5:25-6:20.

(5) Analysis

(a) Standing

This Court has an independent duty to examine standing. Gloria, as a chapter 13 debtor, ordinarily would have, "exclusive of the [chapter 13 trustee], the rights and powers of a trustee under sections 363(b) ... [and] 363(f)" 11 U.S.C. 1303 (emphasis added). But notice of the motion to approve the stipulation allowing the Trustee to manage the Business, and the hearing thereon, was served on Gloria (GloriaDkt.67, 68). Therefore the tentative ruling is that the Trustee has standing to bring the Motion, even if Gloria's bankruptcy estate has a 50% interest in the Business.

(b) Whether Gloria's bankruptcy estate has a 50% interest in the Business and/or its assets

The tentative ruling is that the Trustee has not established a sufficient basis to estop the sisters from asserting that each of them owns a 50% interest in the Business (including the Assets proposed to be sold). The Trustee's own summary of the sisters' bankruptcy schedules shows that they have consistently asserted that 50% ownership interest. See GloriaDkt.211, p.5:15-9:16. The Trustee's excerpts from their 341(a) testimony is consistent with assigning 100% of the revenues/profits of the Business to Ann, because she was running the business while Gloria was focusing on her paralegal employment, and each sister retained a 50% ownership interest in the underlying Business. See AnnDkt.168, pp.2:12-3:28 (Trustee's Reply, quoting 341(a) testimony). That is not the only possible reading of the testimony, and it may have been somewhat misleading, but for purposes of this sale motion it is not enough to establish that Ann owns 100% of the Business (and therefore 100% of Assets - what is proposed to be sold).

(c) Calculations

Based on the foregoing, the tentative ruling is that the Trustee must establish that each Debtor has less than $26,514.25 in allowable exemptions, or alternatively the sale price would have to be increased. The two sets of exemptions are examined separately.

Ann's current (2/28/18) relevant exemptions (summarized AnnDkt.168, p.8:11-16) appear to be as follows:

$23,758.00 50% interest in the Business and/or its assets
$ 8,000.00 "tools of trade"
$31,758.00

Gloria's current (April and June 2017) relevant exemptions (summarized dkt.168, p.8:11-16) appear to be as follows:

$ 8,000.00 14 registered copyrights
$ 300.00 50% interest in 3 licensed images from 3d parties
$ 1,250.00 50% of 23 internet domains

Based on these dollar amounts, the tentative ruling is that Clark does not affect the Trustee's ability to sell the 50% interest in the Assets (apparently) held by Gloria's bankruptcy estate, but Clark prevents the Trustee from selling the 50% interest in the Assets (apparently) held by Ann's bankruptcy estate, unless (a) the Trustee prevails in the contemplated objection to Ann's "tools of the trade" exemption and/or (b) the bid is increased enough to moot Ann's objection.

#5.00 Cont'd hrg re: Motion to compel trustee to abandon interest in property of estate
fr. 10/24/19

Docket 171

Tentative Ruling:

Revised Tentative Ruling for 10/29/19:

Deny Debtor Ann's abandonment motion (dkt.171). Appearances required.

Proposed order: Trustee Mastan is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Analysis:

Debtor asserts that "[e]ven in the event that the Trustee [were] to prevail on his Objection to Debtor's [t]ools of the trade exemption" -- which is this Court's tentative ruling (see calendar no. 4, 10/29/19 at 9:00 a.m.) -- nevertheless "after accounting for the Trustee's significant administrative fees the estate is administratively insolvent and would not pay anything to creditors." Abandonment Motion (dkt.171), p.6:17-21. The tentative ruling is that this argument is not persuasive for two alternative reasons:

(1) For purposes of abandonment under 11 U.S.C. 554, the issue under the plain words of the statute is not whether property is of no or inconsequential value and benefit to creditors, but rather whether the property is "burdensome" or of inconsequential value and benefit "to the estate" (id., emphasis added). The estate will receive net funds (if this Court disallows the tools of the trade exemption) so the statutory predicates for abandonment are not met.

(2) Alternatively, if it were necessary for creditors to benefit (which it is not), that could be accomplished by reducing the administrative claims. But the allowed amount of such claims is an issue for another day, and is the subject of different approaches by the courts. See, e.g., In re Ruiz, 541 B.R. 892 (9th Cir. BAP 2015).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants the motion under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3) and (j): there is no automatic stay because (a) Debtor's prior case (2:18-bk-22533-WB) was dismissed (on 5/3/19) within one year before this case was filed (on 6/5/19), (b) that dismissal was not under 11 U.S.C. 707(b), and (c) no finding of good faith was timely sought and obtained. The automatic stay has terminated both as to Debtor in personam and as to property of Debtor. See In re Hernandez & Jiminez, Case No. 2:11-bk-53730-NB, Dkt 40.

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

The automatic stay does apply

Deny the request for an order confirming that no stay is in effect. Although there is certainly evidence that Debtor's purported lien on the subject property probably is a fraud, nevertheless it is possible that the bankruptcy estate really does have a lien - the documentation establishes at least some basis for this bankruptcy estate to assert a claim of an interest in the property (see dkt. 18, PDF p. 267), and the automatic stay protects that claim. Nor has Movant established that there is any exception to, or termination of, the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(b) or (c).

But the tentative ruling is that various forms of relief from the automatic stay are appropriate, as set forth below.

analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is not sufficient evidence and notice.

No prejudice to Debtor intended. Based on the record, it appears that this may be a "hijacked" case, and that Debtor is innocent of any involvement. See e.g., In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017) (describing hijacking); In re Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) (same). Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to condition any relief from the automatic stay on this Court's determination that this motion shall not result in the application of sections 109(g)(2) and 362(b)(21)(A) to Debtor or any property other than the property that is the subject of this motion for relief from the automatic stay, and that by not contesting this tentative ruling the movant has waived and forfeited any contrary argument. See In re Leafly, 479 B.R. 545, 550-51 (9th Cir. BAP 2012); In re Mendez, 367 B.R. 109, 116-17 (9th Cir. BAP 2007); In re Luna, 122 B.R. 575, 577 (9th Cir. Property." Dkt.18, p.16:21-22. On extremely rare occasions, this Court has been prepared to grant such relief, but this case does not appear appropriate for such relief. See generally In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

First, Movant has not cited any authority, or set forth any factual and legal analysis, supporting such relief.

Second, the tentative ruling is that procedurally the requested relief has not been properly presented. Movant would have to file an adversary proceeding seeking declaratory relief.

Third, the factual record does not appear to support such relief. The tentative ruling is that Movant has not described so much evidence of sham transfers of interests in the subject property that it would be appropriate for this Court to declare that, even in the face of documentation purporting to show that past or pending bankruptcy cases had a interest in the property, those interests must be fictional. Absent such evidence, it would be inappropriate to grant declaratory relief that no automatic stay applied in cases pending before other Judges, with other debtors and creditors who have received no notice of the requested relief.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Docket 21

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below, subject to any opposition at the hearing.
Appearances required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does apply

Deny the request for an order confirming that no stay is in effect. Although there is certainly evidence that Debtor's purported interest in the subject property probably is a fraud, nevertheless it is possible that the bankruptcy estate really does have an interest in the property - the documentation establishes at least some basis for this bankruptcy estate to assert a claim of an interest in the property (see dkt. 21, Ex.9), and the automatic stay protects that claim. Nor has Movant established that there is any exception to, or termination of, the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(b) or (c).

But the tentative ruling is that various forms of relief from the automatic stay are appropriate, as set forth below.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1), (d)(2), and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part and continue in part to 11/12/19 at 10:00 a.m. to address the following issues. Appearances are not required on 10/29/19.

Option for shortened time: This Court has selected a continued hearing date that contemplates shortened notice (per Rule 9006) but that date is conditioned on the movant serving all papers on the day after the current hearing date. Alternatively, the movant may self-calendar a continued hearing on regular notice.

Reasons:

There is no automatic stay

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

Option for interim/partial order: Movant may elect to lodge a proposed order granting the partial relief provided in this tentative ruling, but any such order must recite that a continued hearing has been set to consider additional relief (or, alternatively, that the movant no longer seeks additional relief and the Clerk's office is requested and directed to take the continued hearing off calendar).

Key documents reviewed (other than the motion papers): Docket from Debtor's two prior filings (2:19-bk-14059-WB and 2:19-bk-20164-NB).

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 10/29/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion for final decree (dkt. 191), limited opposition of U.S. Bank National Association ("US Bank") (dkt. 195), no reply is on file

The tentative ruling is to grant the Motion for Final Decree provided that (i) the order will recite that it is without prejudice to US Bank's rights to deem the loan in default for failure to make payments as set forth in US Bank's limited opposition (dkt. 195) and (ii) notwithstanding Debtor's assertion that all matters have been resolved (dkt.191, p.4, para.4.a.) it appears that once Debtor has made 60 months of payments to unsecured creditors she will have to file a motion for discharge (see Plan, dkt.102, p.4, Art.IV.A.), and therefore the tentative ruling is to close this case on an interim basis (not a final basis) so that, at that time, Debtor can more easily file a motion to reopen this case and a motion to be granted a discharge of her debts.

Proposed order: US Bank is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date reflecting the foregoing terms, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1) (B).

Chapter 11

#5.00 Hrg re: Motion to Use Cash Collateral

Docket 51

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required. Deny the (belated) motion re cash collateral (docket no. 51) and only authorize Debtor to use funds to pay the following items in the proposed budget (dkt.51, Ex."A" "1", at p.22):

- (1) non-insider payroll, payroll taxes, benefits, and payroll service,
- (2) consultants whose employment has been authorized by written order of this Court,
- (3) insurance,
- (4) Hanmi Bank adequate protection payments equal to regular monthly payments of principal and interest - not any "loan fees,"
- (5) property repair and maintenance,
- (6) Office expense and supplies, postage, and shipping,
- (7) Permits, property taxes, and licenses,
- (8) telecommunications,
- (9) utilities.

The tentative ruling is that all other expenses are not adequately explained and justified. For example, the proposed budget includes $108,222 (approximately 2/3 of the total expenses) for "Taxi Vouchers and tokens" plus $3,155/mo. for "Equipment rental and maintenance," $3,412/mo. for "Management Fees," and $5,784/mo. for "Facility cost (rent utilities)." How can any creditors or this Court assess whether those things are "ordinary course" without some explanation? See 11 U.S.C. 363(b).

Has Debtor historically been in the business of providing taxi vouchers to low-income persons to facilitate employment, medical visits, and food? If so, why was this not explained in more detail in the initial status conference report? See dkt.11. Are those services paid for out of the grants that Debtor receives? Is there any protection of the bankruptcy estate against misuse of such a large amount of transfers? Is the budget for those things consistent with past practices and/or with the expenses of other nonprofits that provide similar services? See In re Dant & Russell, Inc., 853 F.2d 700 (9th Cir. 1988).

Chapter 11

In addition, as to those expenditures that are approved, the tentative ruling is not to approve section "8" of the proposed stipulation with Hanmi Bank (dkt. 51, Ex.A). In that section Debtor purports to waive rights under 11 U.S.C. 364(d) and 506(c), but there is no showing why that would be appropriate and it might be detrimental to creditors. The tentative ruling is, instead, to require that Debtor provide at least 72 hours' advance notice of any proposed expenditure that Debtor believes would qualify for reimbursement under section 506(c), absent exigent circumstances that make such advance notice impossible. In other respects, the tentative ruling is to authorize the use of cash collateral as provided in the stipulation, but subject to the conditions set forth below.

Judge Bason's standard conditions for use of cash collateral and/or postpetition financing (by creditors holding prepetition claims)

(1) Written order

(a) Form. Use local form

F2081-1.1.ORDER.CASH.COLLATERAL or the equivalent. Attach a copy of this tentative ruling as an exhibit, thereby adopting it as the written ruling of this Court, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. Do not repeat the terms set forth in the motion or any stipulation. Incorporate those terms by reference (including the docket number of the document), subject to any modification by this Court.

(b) Timing. Lodge the proposed order within 7 days after the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Minimum adequate protection

In addition to the postpetition security interests that are automatically provided pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 552 (e.g., in traceable proceeds and profits), and subject to any more comprehensive protection that may be included in the motion or related papers, Debtor shall provide at least the following protection to any creditor with a security interest in the subject property (pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 361-364, as applicable):

(a) Insurance. For all collateral of a type that typically is insured (e.g., real property and improvements), Debtor is directed to maintain insurance in a dollar amount at least equal to Debtor's good faith estimate of the value of such creditor's interest in the collateral, and such insurance shall name such creditor as an additional insured. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments for such insurance.

(b) Taxes. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments on account of postpetition real estate taxes (to the extent that real estate is part of the collateral).

(c) Disclosures/access. Debtor is directed to provide, upon such creditor's reasonable request, periodic accountings of the foregoing insurance and tax obligations and payments, as well as postpetition proceeds, products, offspring, or profits from the collateral, including gross revenues and expenses and a calculation of net revenues, including any rents and any fees, charges, accounts, or other payments for the use or occupancy of rooms and other public facilities in lodging properties (as all of the foregoing terms are used in 11 U.S.C. 552). Debtor is directed to provide appropriate documentation of those accountings, and access for purposes of inspection or appraisal.

(3) Limitation on postpetition liens

In the event that the motion or related papers seek authority to grant postpetition liens to the creditor(s) with respect to prepetition debts any such liens shall be limited to the same validity, priority, and amount as prepetition liens. As used herein, the "validity, priority, and amount" or any similar phrase that may be used by the parties or this Court is deemed to include the following:

(a) Extent. Such liens shall be limited to the type of collateral in which the creditor held a security interest as of the petition date, unless this order expressly states that the liens granted by this order are intended to attach to different types of collateral from the prepetition collateral. For example, if prepetition liens extended to inventory and accounts receivable but not equipment then postpetition liens are likewise limited (unless otherwise expressly provided by order of this Court). In addition, postpetition liens shall not extend to the proceeds of any avoidance actions, any recoveries under 11 U.S.C. 506(c), or any "carveout" under 11 U.S.C. 552.

(b) Priority. Such liens shall be limited to the same priority as the security interest held by the creditor as of the petition date.

(c) Dollar amount. Such liens shall be limited to the dollar amount needed to protect the creditor against diminution in the value of the secured claims as of the petition date.

(d) Enforceability. Such liens shall be limited to the extent that the creditor's security interests were duly perfected and valid as of the petition date, and to the extent that they are unavoidable.

(e) Automatic postpetition perfection. Any automatic perfection of such liens shall be subject to any applicable limitations regarding the Court's authority, jurisdiction, or due process.

(4) Automatic disapproval of insufficiently disclosed provisions

Any provision of the type listed in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or in local form F4001-2 (e.g., cross-collateralization) or any waiver of the "equities of the case" exception in 11 U.S.C. 552(b)(2) shall be deemed automatically disapproved and excepted from any order granting the motion, notwithstanding any other provision of such order, unless either: (a) such provision is specifically and prominently disclosed in the motion papers in a checklist (such as local form F4001-2), or alternatively (b) such provision is specifically identified in any proposed order granting the motion, using terminology of the type used in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or local form F4001-2 (e.g., any "cross-collateralization" that is not specifically identified as such is deemed to be disapproved).

(5) Disputes

In the event of any disputes regarding the rulings in this order, the parties are directed to meet and confer and, if they cannot resolve their disputes consensually, contact Judge Bason's chambers to arrange a mutually convenient time for either a telephonic or in-person hearing to address such disputes.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." fr. 8/20/19, 9/24/19

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 10/29/19:

Appearances required

(1) Current issues

(a) Budget Motion (dkt. 60) and cash collateral motion (dkt.61) and stipulation (dkt.61, Ex.A)

Deny, and only authorize a limited use of cash collateral and/or property of the estate as set forth in the tentative ruling for calendar no. 5 (10/29/19 at 1:00 p.m.).

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(b) Monthly Operating Report, for 9/30/19 ("MOR," dkt.69)

Debtor's MOR raises a number of concerns. First, the first page lists a very large monthly net loss and a large negative ending balance. Second, Debtor's report of postpetition accounts receivable (dkt.69, at PDF p.36) lists aging that exceeds the entire duration of this case: how can that be so? Third, Debtor reports payments of insider compensation, allegedly pursuant to order(s) from 2017 (dkt.69, at PDF p.38) but this case was not filed until 2019. Later the MOR asserts, "Insider compensation forms previously served. No objections." (dkt.69, at PDF p.41) But this Court's review of the docket did not disclose any proof of service of any such notices. Fourth, the MOR reports (dkt.69, at PDF pp.34-35) that Debtor is delinquent in real property taxes and UST fees. In sum, the MOR paints a bleak and internally inconsistent picture.

(c) Remedies?

As set forth in this Court's procedures order (dkt.2), this Court can

As of the drafting of this tentative ruling, the docket does not reflect such service. Was the order served?

(b) Missing budget motion

Debtor's status report states that Debtor has not yet filed a budget motion but "will do so if necessary." Dkt. 11 at p.3. Per the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at cacb.uscourts.gov), budget motions are required in all Chapter 11 cases.

#10.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case
fr. 8/20/19, 9/24/19, 10/4/19, 10/15/19

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 10/29/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of the U.S. Trustee ("UST") to dismiss (dkt. 65), debtor's opposition (dkt. 86), no reply is on file

There is no tentative ruling, but Debtor is directed to address the thousands of dollars of unauthorized payments to "Independent Contractor[s]" Ofir Engel and L. Napolitano, "McCarthy Construction," and cash withdrawals, as well as the other issues raised by the UST. Debtor is also directed to address what progress, if any, has been made on insurance claims, AirBnB arrangements, refinancing or selling the Bel Air and Sweetzer properties, and other aspects of this bankruptcy case.

(b) Application to employ Totaro & Shanahan (the "Firm") (dkt. 63) (the "Employment Application"), Statement of disinterestedness (dkt. 100), UST Objection (dkt. 90), the Firm's errata (dkt. 97)

The tentative ruling is to grant the Employment Application, subject to any objection from the UST.

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1) (B).

Tentative Ruling for 10/15/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) UST's motion to dismiss (dkt. 65), debtor's opposition (dkt. 86), no reply is on file

There is no tentative ruling. The parties should be prepared to address whether debtor has cured all outstanding compliance issues, and whether Debtor's second corrected opposition continues to have error(s) in calculating projected cash flow. That opposition lists net income before personal expenses for "Oct-19" and "Nov-19" as -5,850.00, but then after personal expenses of $1,751.00 for each month it lists "excess income" of $34,900.00. Dkt.94, Ex.1, at PDF pp.8-9. If the spreadsheet is wrong about those numbers, can creditors and this Court rely on the rest of Debtor's projections?

(a) Motion for authority to obtain post-petition financing (dkt. 75, 76, 77, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84) (the "Finance Motion"); Alliance Portfolio/Private Equity Finance, Inc.'s Opposition (dkt. 91)

There is no tentative ruling. It appears no reply deadline was set, so debtor's reply will be allowed orally at the hearing.

(b) Motion of Alliance for Relief From Automatic Stay (dkt. 40)

by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 9/24/19:

Appearances required. The Court has reviewed the Debtor's status report (dkt. 69).

(1) Current issues

In addition to addressing the general status of this case, the following issues will be addressed.

(a) Motion of Alliance for Relief From Automatic Stay (dkt. 40)

There is no tentative ruling. The parties should be prepared to advise this Court on whether they will agree to an adequate protection order and the proposed $50,000 loan from Complete Business Solutions Group ("Complete") (dkt.69, p.2:21-25). The parties also should be prepared to address whether shortened time or other special procedures are requested regarding any proposed lending. See 11 U.S.C. 364; Rules 4001(c) & 9006(c)(2) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

(b) Contemplated contract with Majestic Ventures LLC dba VacationHomes365.com ("Consultant") re marketing (Airbnb etc.)

Debtor is contemplating a contract with Consultant for marketing services. Dkt.69, Ex.2. As that contract points out (id., sec.7.2, p.44), Debtor is responsible for complying with legal obligations regarding short term rentals, and associated costs, including local taxes.

The parties should be prepared to address whether Consultant is a "professional" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 327; whether approval of the contract with Consultant is required under that section or section 363(b); and whether shortened time or other special procedures are requested regarding any proposed agreement with Consultant. See 11 U.S.C. 327, 363(b); Rules 2002(a)(2) & 9006(c)(2) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

(c) Termination of prior real estate agent

Debtor reports (dkt. 69, para.3) that the previously authorized real estate agent has agreed to cancel the listing. Is that in writing? Will Debtor need any order related to that cancellation/termination? What assurance is there that this prior agent will not seek some sort of compensation?

Tentative Ruling for 8/20/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by debtor herself.

(1) Current issues

(a) Airbnb

Debtor's budget motion (dkt. 37, Ex.A, p.2) reveals that, although the Sweetzer property is "listed to be sold," meanwhile "Debtor intends to rent [that property] as an Airbnb." The tentative ruling is that this is a transaction out of the ordinary course, which requires notice, an opportunity for a hearing, and approval by this Court. 11 U.S.C. 363(b). Has Debtor already acted on this intent, without such approval?

In addition, this Court is concerned about (i) whether Airbnb rental would be in compliance with any local permitting and zoning requirements and is otherwise permissible, (ii) whether that proposed use might expose the bankruptcy estate to liabilities, (iii) whether there is adequate insurance for that use of the property, and (iv) whether the proposed sale of the property is consistent with any agreement with Airbnb.

(b) Real estate agent.

The employment application (dkt. 26, p.4:1-4) states that Agent has agreed to disclose to Debtor [i.e., only to Debtor? how about disclosure to creditors, the US Trustee, and this Court?] any agency relationship Agent has with other parties ("Third Parties") that may be part of a real estate transaction for the sale of the Real Property [i.e., dual agency? that is prohibited by the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov)] as well as the amount of any compensation Agent receives from Agent's relationship with any Third Parties [i.e., splitting the commission with a cooperating agent from a different real estate agency? or something else?].

Continue to 11/5/19 at 1:00 p.m. to be concurrent with Debtors' valuation motion (dkt.95), at which time Debtors are directed to address why this case should not be converted or dismissed due to (1) the large amount of cash transactions (without receipts) (Sept. (1) Current Issues

(a) Settlement of Mazakoda's Inc.'s Claim

Debtors and Mazakoda have each reported a tentative settlement of their disputes (dkt.104, and adv.no. 2:19-ap-01243-NB, adv.dkt.8), and this status conference has been continued before in anticipation of such settlement (see dkt.106). But as of the preparation of this tentative ruling the docket does not reflect any motion to approve a settlement or other resolution. What is the status of the parties' attempted settlement, and what action should this Court take?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 10/22/18.

(a) Bar date: 2/8/19 (dkt. 27, timely served dkt. 30)

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD.

(c) Continued status conference: 12/10/19 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report is required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

(c) Settlement of Mazakoda's Inc.'s Claim

Debtors state (dkt.104) that they have engaged in settlement discussions with Mazakoda regarding its claim and are in the process of memorializing their agreement. The tentative ruling is to continue this matter to the date set forth below to allow time for the parties to finalize and obtain approval of any settlement.

Tentative Ruling for 10/29/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Insufficient progress?

The docket reflects some very recent movement toward leasing some vacant properties (dkt.72) but nothing about selling, refinancing, or otherwise deadling with the principal property in which Debtor asserts an interest, at 8527 Hedges Way, West Hollywood, CA. Why not?

(e) Motion of United States Trustee ("UST") to Dismiss etc. ("MTD," dkt. 37), Debtor's Opposition (dkt. 55)

Has Debtor address the issues raised in the UST's MTD? In addition, this Court's order setting procedures (dkt.9) provides that at any status conference this Court may take case-dispositive actions, such as conversion, dismissal, etc. Given the lack of progress, should this Court dismiss this case? Should this Court impose a bar under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1)?

Tentative Ruling for 10/15/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Inaccurate bankruptcy schedules

Why has Debtor not amended its bankruptcy schedules to reflect all of its creditors (at the 9/24/19 status conference it was reported that Debtor failed to list creditors with liens against three vacant parcels of real property)?

(b) Lack of any progress reflected on docket

As this Court previously has ruled, in connection with creditor Maxim's motion for relief from the automatic stay, "the longer this case is pending the greater will be the burden on Debtor to provide specific information and evidence as to precisely how [each] property [that Debtor claims to own] remains necessary to an effective reorganization." Dkt.36, Ex.1, at PDF p.4. Why does the docket not reflect any progress, such as a motion to approve employment of a real estate broker, or a motion to approve refinancing, or a motion to abandon one or more properties?

(c) Missing status report

At the status conference on 9/24/19, this Court set a deadline of 10/4/19 for debtor to file a status report and an application to employ new counsel. Why has no status report been filed?

(d) Missing Local Form F 2014-1

Debtor has filed an application to employ Pena & Soma, APC (dkt. 68), but the posted Procedures of Judge Bason require Local Form 2014-1. Where is that form?

(e) Motion of United States Trustee ("UST") to Dismiss etc. ("MTD," dkt. 37), Debtor's Opposition (dkt. 55)

Has Debtor address the issues raised in the UST's MTD? In addition, this Court's order setting procedures (dkt.9) provides that at any status conference this Court may take case-dispositive actions, such as conversion, dismissal, etc.

- (a) Motion to Dismiss, Convert or Appoint a Chapter 11 Trustee (dkt. 37), Debtor's Opposition (dkt. 55), no reply is on file
If Debtor is not in full compliance with all UST requirements by the hearing, this Court will determine whether to dismiss, convert or appoint a chapter 11 trustee in this case.

The tentative ruling is to deny Debtor's request to employ the Ure Law Firm ("Ure Firm"), and set a 10/4/19 deadline for Debtor to file and serve an application to retain new counsel, for the following reasons:

- (i) Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm are not "disinterested" and represent an "adverse interest" to the estate by reason of their representation of HDA Trucking, Inc. and Nelson Sargsyan

11 U.S.C. Section 327(a) "requires the application of a two-pronged test for the employment of professional persons. A debtor-in-possession may employ attorneys with court approval only if (1) they do not hold or represent an interest adverse to the estate, and (2) they are disinterested persons." In re Tevis, 347 B.R. 679, 687 (9th Cir. BAP 2006).

The term "adverse interest" is not defined in the Bankruptcy Code, but has been defined by case law to mean:

(1) possession or assertion of an economic interest that would tend to lessen the value of the bankruptcy estate; or (2) possession or assertion of an economic interest that would create either an actual or potential dispute in which the estate is a rival claimant; or (3) possession of a predisposition under circumstances that create a bias against the estate.

Tevis, 347 B.R. 679, 688. "To represent an adverse interest means to serve as an attorney for an entity holding such an adverse interest." Id.

The term "disinterested person" is defined in the Bankruptcy Code to include, inter alia, one who "does not have an interest materially adverse to the interests of the estate or of any class of creditors or equity security holders, by reason of any direct or indirect relationship to, connection with, or interest in, the debtor, or for any other reason." 11 U.S.C. Section 101(14) (C). "For the purpose of disinterestedness, a lawyer has an interest materially adverse to the interest of the estate if the lawyer either holds or represents such an interest." Tevis, 347 B.R. 679, 688.

The tentative ruling is to find that because Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm represented HDA Trucking, Inc. ("HDA Trucking") in its recent bankruptcy case (Case No. 1:19-bk-11595-DS) (the "HDA Trucking Bankruptcy Case"), and have represented HDA Trucking's principal, Nelson Sargsyan ("Mr. Sargsyan"), in his pending bankruptcy case (Case No. 1:19-bk-10790-VK) (the "Sargsyan Bankruptcy Case"), the Ure Firm is not a "disinterested person" and represents an "adverse interest" to the estate for purposes of this case because Debtor's Bankruptcy Schedules identify HDA Trucking as a creditor of Debtor's estate (see dkt. 1, PDF pp.6 & 16) and because there have been inconsistent representations made by HDA, Sargsyan, and Debtor regarding the chain of interests in 8527 Hedges Way, Los Angeles, California 90069 (the "Hedges Property"), which is the real property that is at the center of all these bankruptcy cases.

disclose their connection with Mr. Sargsyan and HDA Trucking

Rule 2014(a) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) requires that a firm's application for employment disclose "all of the [applicant's] connections with the debtor, creditors, [or] any other party in interest" The disclosure requirements of Rule 2014 are strictly applied. In re Park-Helena Corp., 63 F.3d 877, 881 (9th Cir. 1995). Professionals "cannot pick and choose which connections are irrelevant or trivial . . . No matter how old the connection, no matter how trivial it appears, the professional seeking employment must disclose it." Id. at 882.

In this case, Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm failed to disclose their prior representation of HDA Trucking in its bankruptcy case, or their prior and current representation of Mr. Sargsyan in his bankruptcy case, in either the Application (dkt. 24) or the Statement of Disinterestedness (dkt. 23).

For the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is that the Ure Firm is disqualified from representing the Debtor and its employment must be denied.

(c) Maxim's Rule 9011 Sanction Motion (dkt. 32), Mr. Ure/Ure Firm's Opposition (dkt. 54), Maxim's Reply (dkt. 57)

Maxim Commercial Capital, LLC ("Maxim") seeks an order imposing sanctions against Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm for alleged violations of Rule 9011 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

(i) Background

As best as this Court can discern from its review of various pleadings filed in this case, the Sargsyan Bankruptcy Case, and the HDA Trucking Bankruptcy Case, the relevant facts are as follows:

On 4/7/16 Maxim made a loan to NAMR 2617, LLC ("Other-NAMR") in the sum of $2,669,365 (the "Loan"). The Loan was personally guaranteed by Mr. Sargsyan and Alice and Nazaret Chakrian (the "Chakrians," and together with Mr. Sargsyan, the "Guarantors"). The Guarantors also executed a deed of trust securing their guaranties of the Loan against the Hedges Property.

On 12/30/16, Mr. Sargsyan recorded a Grant Deed conveying his interest in the Hedges Property to Nazaret Chakrian ("Mr. Chakrian") (dkt. 11, PDF p. 352-356). The parties subsequently executed a number of loan modifications and, ultimately, the Loan fully matured without timely payment. As a result, the Hedges Property was noticed for a judicial foreclosure sale on 4/5/19.

On 4/3/19 Mr. Sargsyan filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition and asserted a 25% ownership interest in the Hedges Property (Sargsyan Bankruptcy Case, 1:19-bk-10790-VK, dkt. 1, Schedule A/B). On 5/1/19 Maxim filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay with respect to the Hedges Property (the "Sargsyan R/S Motion," id., dkt. 18). Mr. Ure, acting for Debtor Sargsyan, filed an opposition (Id., dkt. 33, p.2:1-3), which did not argue that Debtor Sargsyan had any interest in the Hedges Property (contrary to what he had indicated in his bankruptcy schedules) but did argue that Mr. Sargsyan had "personally guaranteed the loan" with Maxim.

Following a hearing on the Sargsyan R/S Motion, the Bankruptcy Court entered an order denying the motion as moot based on the Court's finding that the Hedges Property was not property of Mr. Sargsyan's estate because Mr. Sargsyan had conveyed away his interest in the Hedges Property to Nazaret Chakrian ("Mr. Chakrian") pre-petition, on 9/30/16 (see Id., dkt. 51, Ex. 1) (the "Sargsyan R/S Order"). After entry of the Sargsyan R/S Order, Maxim re-noticed a foreclosure sale for 8/2/19.

On 6/28/19, Mr. Sargsyan caused HDA Trucking to file a voluntary chapter 11 petition and assert an ownership interest in the Hedges Property (HDA Trucking Bankruptcy Case, 1:19-bk-11595-DS, dkt.1, Schedule A/B). According to Maxim, HDA Trucking has no such interest in the Hedges Property.

On 7/24/19, the United States Trustee (the "UST") filed a motion to appoint a trustee or convert or dismiss that case (Id., dkt. 24). At the hearing on that motion, HDA Trucking stipulated to the dismissal of the case and the case was dismissed by order entered 7/31/19 (Id., dkt. 27).

On 8/1/19 the instant bankruptcy case was filed by Debtor (which is similarly named, but not the same as, the Other-NAMR). Debtor asserts an interest in the Hedges Property pursuant to a Grant Deed recorded on 4/2/19 in which Mr. Chakrian conveyed a 10% interest in the Hedges Property to Debtor (dkt. 1, Schedule A/B & dkt. 11, PDF pp. 361-364).

Almost immediately after this bankruptcy case was filed, Maxim filed an emergency motion for relief from the automatic stay and this Court shortened time, reviewed briefs, heard arguments, made oral findings of fact and conclusions of law on the record, and issued an order that prevented any future bankruptcy case from affecting the Hedges Property (subject to the usual limitations on such relief). Dkt.36. But this Court declined to terminate the automatic stay at this time (id.) because, among other things, (A) other creditors' interests are at stake, (B) on the evidence presented Maxim's interests are fully adequately protected, and (C) Debtor may be able to restructure its finances in a manner that will benefit all parties in interest.

At that early hearing this Court suggested that a transfer of a fractional interest among related entities is not necessarily evidence of bad faith. This Court took judicial notice that debtors and their affiliates not infrequently engage transfers of fractional interests as a way to balance the accounts among them, or for other reasons that may be perfectly consistent with good faith, even if they violate provisions of loan documents or other obligations.

But this Court's unwillingness to suppose bad faith at the inception of this case, before adequate time to respond, should not be misconstrued as giving a blanket exemption from any subsequent finding of bad faith or other misconduct. This Court is troubled by some of the conduct outlined in Maxim's motion papers.

With this context, this Court turns to Maxim's motion for sanctions.

(ii) Maxim has not established that Judge Bason can or should impose sanctions under Rule 9011 for conduct that occurred in bankruptcy cases that are not before Judge Bason

As a preliminary matter, Maxim has not addressed whether it would be proper, or even within the jurisdiction of the instant bankruptcy case, for Judge Bason to impose sanctions regarding any cases that are not pending before Judge Bason. The Sargsyan Bankruptcy Case is still pending before Judge Kaufman, and the HDA Trucking Bankruptcy Case was pending before Judge Saltzman, and the tentative ruling is that any request for sanctions for conduct in those cases must be presented to those Bankruptcy Judges.

That is not to say that prior conduct in other cases is irrelevant. Such prior conduct may establish a pattern of conduct that extends into this case, or may otherwise shed light on the conduct in this case. But the tentative ruling is that Judge Bason will only consider sanctions regarding conduct in the instant bankruptcy case.

(iii) Maxim has not established misconduct in connection with the Sargsyan Bankruptcy Case

Maxim asserts - as part of its argument that Mr. Ure's conduct and the Ure Firm's conduct in this case is sanctionable - that there is a pattern of abuse starting with the filing of the Sargsyan Bankruptcy Case. The tentative ruling is that this assertion is not persuasive.

Nothing in Maxim's papers establishes that it was frivolous or otherwise improper for Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm to oppose Maxim's request for relief from the automatic stay in the Sargsyan Bankruptcy Case, in light of Debtor Sargsyan's position as a Guarantor. True, the automatic stay's protection against in rem acts generally extends only to property of the debtor (see 1:19-bk-10790-VK, dkt.51 (the Sargsyan R/S Order)); and the automatic stay's protection against in personam acts generally extends only to the debtor. See, e.g., In re Advanced Ribbons and Office Prod's, Inc., 125 B.R. 259, 262-67 (9th Cir. BAP 1991) (guarantor, and guarantor's property, not protected). But Maxim has not cited any authority that it was frivolous for Debtor Sargsyan to take the position that acts to foreclose the Hedges Property, based on a debt he guaranteed, were acts "to collect, assess, or recover a claim against the debtor that arose before the commencement of the [bankruptcy] case" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(6), if not based on existing caselaw then based on a nonfrivolous assertion regarding "extension, modification, or reversal of existing law or the establishment of new law." Rule 9011(b)(2). The tentative ruling is that there is nothing sanctionable in making this argument.

True, Mr. Sargsyan, Mr. Ure, and the Ure Firm should have been more careful in verifying that Debtor did in fact have an interest in the Hedges Property before Debtor Sargsyan said so, under penalty of perjury, in his bankruptcy schedules. And it would have been preferable for the Ure Firm to cite some authority for their position, or expressly argue for an extension of existing law or other nonfrivolous legal grounds, and to amend the bankruptcy schedules once the record ownership of the property became apparent.

But, given the transfers back and forth (described above), and the last-minute scramble that almost invariably precedes an emergency bankruptcy filing, it appears that the original misstatement of ownership in the bankruptcy schedules, and the lack of citation to legal authority in opposing the Sargsyan R/S Motion, are more consistent with a lack of adequate time than any intentional falsehood or misconduct. And once it became apparent that the automatic stay did not protect the property, it is understandable (although not the ideal course of action) to move on and not take the time to amend the bankruptcy schedules.

(iv) Maxim has established apparent misconduct in connection with the HDA Trucking Bankruptcy Case

Maxim asserts that HDA Trucking had no interest in the Hedges Property whatsoever, and yet falsely listed that property on its bankruptcy schedules. Dkt.32, p.7:5. The Ure Firm has not offered any explanation why, even after the incorrect assertion by Mr. Sargsyan of an ownership interest in the Hedges Property, it filed another bankruptcy case that, once again, asserted an ownership interest that is not supported by any evidence. The tentative ruling is that this is prima facie evidence of the Ure Firm's lack of "inquiry reasonable under the circumstances" and apparent filing of the petition for an improper purpose - namely a scheme to hinder, delay, or defraud Maxim. Rule 9011(b)(1).

Alternatively, the tentative ruling is that this is also prima facie evidence of a factual contention that, after "an inquiry reasonable under the circumstances," does not have "evidentiary support," or that has not been "specifically [] identified" as "likely to have evidentiary support after a reasonable opportunity for further investigation or discovery." Rule 9011(b)(3).

In the face of such prima facie evidence of a violation of Rule 9011, the burden was on Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm to present contrary evidence of at least equal weight. They have not done so.

Again, the tentative ruling is that this Court should not impose any sanctions for any alleged misconduct in the HDA Trucking Bankruptcy Case. But the apparent violations of Rule 9011 in that case establish a pattern that calls into question any allegedly similar conduct in the instant case.

(v) It is premature for this Court to determine whether the filing of the instant bankruptcy case, or how it has been prosecuted, is sanctionable under Rule 9011

On the one hand, the facts discussed above are evidence that Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm have participated in efforts to frustrate Maxim's exercise of its remedies, and have done so using tactics that appear to violate Rule 9011. It is possible that the transfer of a fractional interest to Debtor, and the filing of the instant bankruptcy case, are part of that scheme and are sanctionable.

On the other hand, it is also possible that the transfer of a fractional interest to Debtor was nothing more than an attempt retroactively to "unscramble the eggs" and have the record title to the Hedges Property reflect what Mr. Sargsyan, the Chakrians, and other affiliates all had intended to be the reality of their financial relationships. True, Mr. Ure and the Ure Firm have had an opportunity to present any such explanation, with supporting evidence, and they have failed to do so. But this Court is wary of imposing sanctions without providing them with an opportunity to explain why they did not offer an explanation in their opposition papers, and why they should be granted an opportunity to do so now.

In addition, depending on how this instant bankruptcy case progresses, it may become more apparent over time whether there is a reasonable possibility of a successful reorganization within a reasonable time, and other factors that might bear on whether this case was or was not filed in good faith. It is also possible that Debtor will obtain refinancing and pay Maxim in full, or that some other developments in this case will bear on issues such as whether Maxim has suffered any un-reimbursed expenses, all of which may be relevant to its sanctions motion.

For all of these reasons the tentative ruling is that it is premature for this Court to determine any sanctions issues, and the tentative ruling is to take Maxim's sanctions motion off calendar, and determine at a future status conference when it should be put back on calendar. Meanwhile, the tentative ruling is that no further briefing on the sanctions issues will be accepted or considered absent further order of this Court.

Chapter 11

Tentative Ruling for 10/2/19:

Appearances required. The parties are directed to address whether there was adequate notice of this hearing, and the merits of each motion, as set forth below.

(1) Notice of this hearing

Debtor must address whether the proof of service of the motion papers (the "POS," dkt.21) complies with this Court's order shortening time ("OST," dkt.10), or due process. The OST provides that the deadline for "RECEIPT" of written notice of this hearing/a copy of the OST is 10/1/19 at noon. Id. (emphasis in original). In two ways, this Court questions whether the POS complies with this direction.

First, the POS only appears to assert that envelopes were dropped off with an (unspecified) "Overnight Mail" carrier on 10/1/19, which would mean that those envelopes would not be received until 10/2/19 at the earliest, possibly just shortly before the hearing or even after the hearing.

Second, this Court questions whether delivery really was "overnight" to Taiwan, South Korea, China, and other overseas destinations.

(2) Merits of each motion

If the foregoing notice issue is adequately addressed, the tentative rulings are as follows.

(a) Payroll motion (dkt. 2)

Grant on a final basis, subject to any opposition at the hearing, and subject to authorization to use cash collateral to make payroll (see below).

(b) Cash management motion (dkt.4)

Grant on an interim basis, subject to any opposition at the hearing, with a final hearing at the same time as the continued status conference (see below).

(c) Cash collateral motion (dkt.5)

Debtor's budget (dkt.8, Ex.1) lacks historical context. Are the proposed expenditures and projected receipts in line with historical experience? Is it typical for Debtor's cash position to fluctuate so substantially from week to week? Are the goods that Debtor anticipates selling in keeping with Debtor's historical lines of business, and with existing customers, or is Debtor projecting the replacement of some past lines of business with new lines?

Subject to (i) adequate resolution of the foregoing, (ii) any opposition at the hearing, and (iii) the conditions set forth in calendar no. 3 (on 10/2/19 at 2:00 p.m.), the tentative ruling is to grant this motion on an interim basis, with a further interim hearing at the same time as the continued status conference (see below).

(d) Notice of continued hearings

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 10/3/19 for Debtor to file and serve via U.S. mail a notice of the continued hearings.

(e) Proposed orders

This Court anticipates filing a "Memorialization of Tentative Rulings." Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders that reference that document and incorporate the tentative rulings as final rulings, except as they may be modified at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(3) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 9/30/19.

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD (Debtor must use the forms required by Judge Bason, absent an order excusing the use of such forms) (DO NOT SERVE yet, except on the U.S. Trustee - this Court will set a deadline and procedures at a later time).

In addition, this Court notes that, given the conversion of this case to chapter 7, Debtors' claims in the adversary no longer can be prosecuted by Debtors - the Chapter 7 Trustee has exclusive standing to prosecute those claims. AOE is directed, no later than 10/31/19, to apprise Debtors' appellate counsel of that fact.

Proposed order: AOE is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1) (B).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed as a voluntary chapter 11 case on 9/12/18 and converted to chapter 7 on 10/15/19 (memorialized in this Court's written order entered on 10/18/19, dkt.161).

Tentative Ruling for 10/15/19:
Appearances are not required

(1) Current issues.

(a) AOE Fee Application (dkt. 134, 145)

Grant in part, and award $16,345 of the requested $19,345 in fees, and $0 in expenses. The tentative ruling is to disallow $3,000 of the time spent on motions for setting property values (dkt.134, p.9:9-12) because that time has not been sufficiently justified (as explained at prior hearings).

Proposed order: AOE is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and include a copy of the foregoing language from this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing if this tentative ruling is properly contested. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(b) Poser Investments, Inc. ("Poser") v. Ebuehi et al. (Adv. No. 2:18-ap-01431-NB), Motion for Attorney's Fees ("Poser Fee Motion," adv. dkt. 63), and Relief From Stay Motion ("R/S Motion," dkt.137)

The parties should be prepared to address whether attorney fees incurred in matters that were pending before different Judges should be determined by those Judges (i.e., the State Court Judge who was presiding over this action before it was removed, and the Bankruptcy Court Judge who was presiding over Plaintiffs/Debtors' prior bankruptcy case, no. 2:18-bk-16992-RK). Put differently, the parties are directed to address whether this Bankruptcy Court (i) lacks jurisdiction and authority to determine what attorneys fees to award for litigation that occurred when this matter was pending before other Judges, or (ii) should defer to those other Judges under principles of comity, abstention, or similar doctrines.

The tentative ruling is that, notwithstanding the foregoing questions, this Bankruptcy Court has jurisdiction and authority to determine the allowability of all of the requested attorney fees, because the removed action is currently pending in this Bankruptcy Court. The tentative ruling is that it would be an unwarranted imposition on other Judges to have them address fractional pieces of the requested compensation, especially when the parties' disputes did not go to trial and this Bankruptcy Court appears to be in at least as good a position to review time spent on pretrial preparation and other matters. In addition, Plaintiffs/Debtors have not filed any opposition papers, so any contrary arguments are waived and forfeited.

On the merits of the requested attorney fees, this Bankruptcy Court has carefully reviewed the motion papers including the daily time records. The tentative ruling is to allow all fees requested in the Poser Fee Motion except the following apparently duplicative time entries: (A) on 8/30/18 Ms. Gomez has several entries with identical or nearly identical text (dkt.63, Ex.2, p.26), and the tentative ruling is to disallow 0.3 hours (a reduction of $40.50); and (B) on 4/30/19 Mr. Reynolds has two entries for appearing at a hearing on the motion for summary judgment (one for 5.1 hours and another for 5.6 hours, including other tasks) (dkt.63, Ex.2, p.31), and the tentative ruling is to disallow 5.1 hours (a reduction of $2,244.00). That amounts to a total reduction of $2,284.50 ($2,244.00+$40.50 = $2,284.50). In addition, counsel are cautioned that some time entries reflect "lumping" of multiple tasks without a breakdown of time spent on each discrete task, but the tentative ruling is not to impose any reduction on that basis.

Based on the foregoing, the tentative ruling is to award fees of $182,836.00 ($185,120.50-$2,284.50 = $182,836.00) and $0 expenses. That dollar amount must be added to Poser's lien against Debtors' properties. See Findings/Conclusions (adv.dkt.47) and Judgement (adv.dkt.56).

In addition, the tentative ruling is to grant Defendant Poser's R/S Motion (dkt.137) so that it may return to the Federal District Court (the court that issued the underlying judgment on which Poser's liens are founded) and move to have its costs of enforcing that Court's judgment, including its attorney fees, added to the judgment. In addition, the tentative ruling is to grant Poser's request that such relief from the automatic stay be binding and effective in any future bankruptcy case, no matter who the debtor may be ("in rem" relief), subject to the following limitations.

The tentative ruling is that this Court may grant such in rem relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4), because Poser is a creditor whose claim is secured by an interest in real property, and the filing of the present bankruptcy petition was part of a scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors that involved unauthorized transfers (which Debtors subsequently purported to unwind, but which caused Poser considerable additional expense). 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4)(A). Alternatively, that scheme involved multiple bankruptcy filings (Case Nos. 2:18-bk-16992-RK and 2:18-bk-20704-NB). 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4)(B). Alternatively, the tentative ruling is that in rem relief is warranted pursuant to the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017).

The tentative ruling is that any such relief will be subject to the following limitations, to be added to the proposed order (dkt.137, Exhibit):

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within 180 days after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case based upon changed circumstances or for good cause shown, after notice and a hearing.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by Poser Investment, Inc. to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Proposed orders: Based on the foregoing tentative rulings on the Poser Fee Motion and the R/S Motion, Poser is directed to lodge proposed orders via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and include a copy of the foregoing language from this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing if this tentative ruling is properly contested. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(c) Order to Show Cause ("OSC") re Conversion, Dismissal or Appointment of Chapter 11 Trustee (dkt. 140, 144)

The tentative ruling is to convert this case to chapter 7 for the reasons stated in the OSC.

Proposed order: Poser is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing if this tentative ruling is properly contested.

Tentative Ruling for 9/24/19:
Appearances are not required.

(1) Current issues. This Court has reviewed the Debtors' Status Report (dkt. 132) and the Response filed by Poser Investments, Inc. ("Poser") (dkt. 133).

(a) OSC re Conversion, Dismissal or Appointment of Chapter 11 Trustee

At the start of this case, this Court issued an Order putting all parties on notice that "[w]ithout further notice this Court . . . may issue appropriate orders including on: . . . (b) case disposition (e.g., appointment of a trustee, conversion, dismissal" Dkt. 25, p. 1-2. That order was served on all parties in interest. Dkt.48.

Poser requests that this Court issue an Order to Show Cause ("OSC") directing the Debtor to appear and show cause why this Court should not convert, dismiss or appoint a chapter 11 trustee in this case. The tentative ruling is to issue such an OSC, and direct Poser to serve that OSC and a copy of Poser's response (dkt.133) on all creditors listed in the creditor mailing matrix, as a "belt and suspenders" notice to all interested parties that this Court is considering granting such relief. This Court has issued its decision, its order denying Debtors/Defendants' counterclaim motion, and its judgment in favor of Poser Investments, Inc. See adv.dkt.47, 55, 56. No appearances required for the Checkmate case in view of the dismissal order entered 10/28/2019 (Case No. 2:17-bk-22648-NB, dkt. 349).

(1) Current Issues

(a) Status of these cases and related proceeding

The following issues involve the following related cases and related proceeding: In re Yuichiro and Akemi Sakurai (Case No. 2:17-bk-22660-NB, filed 10/16/17) ("Sakurai"), In re Checkmate King Co., LTD ("Checkmate") (Case No. 2:17-bk-22648-NB, filed 10/16/17), and *Checkmate v. (b) The RS Adversary Proceeding is dismissed as moot

This Court has considered the foregoing factors, and other facts and circumstances of this case. Of particular importance, the dismissal of the Checkmate case removes the claims from the estate so there would be no apparent benefit to creditors or the estate in keeping this litigation pending.

For these reasons, the tentative ruling is to dismiss the RS Adversary Proceeding. The Court will prepare the order.

(c) Sakurai Trustee's Sale Motion (Sakurai, dkt. 501, 502, 503), no opposition on file

The tentative ruling is to grant this sale motion, subject to overbids and, if any successful overbidder or backup bidder wishes to have a "good faith" finding (11 U.S.C. 363(m)), subject to declarations providing sufficient evidence of such good faith.

Proposed order: The Sakurai Trustee is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date reflecting the foregoing terms, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1) (B).

(1) Current Issues

(a) Status of these cases

The following issues involve both of these related cases: In re Yichiro and Akemi Sakurai (Case No. 2:17-bk-22660-NB, filed 10/16/17) and the Checkmate ("Checkmate") (Case No. 2:17-bk-22648-NB, filed 10/16/17). On 6/13/19 these cases were converted to chapter 7. See Sakurai dkt. 465, Checkmate dkt. 329. The meetings of creditors are scheduled for 8/7/19 and 7/24/19, respectively.

(b) Final Fee Application for the estates' Counsel (Mr. Gebelt, Checkmate, dkt. 249, 250, 253, 255, 257, 258, 261, 264, 269, 299, 328; and Mr. Aronson's firm, Sakurai, dkt. 343, 346, 352, 355, 356, 363, 367, 376, 448, 454, 456, 464)

This Court will issue a decision disallowing a substantial portion of the requested fees, chiefly concerning negotiation and drafting of the first two versions of a proposed plan and proposed disclosure statement, for the reason set forth below. The parties should be prepared to address, however, whether the chapter 11 administrative expenses are likely to be paid at all, now that the cases have been converted to chapter 7, and therefore whether the fee issues are moot, or should be deferred.

(i) Background: Checkmate had $4.5 million of receivables that appeared very likely on their face to be nearly worthless

Checkmate's bankruptcy schedules listed $43,177.70 that were 90 days old or less, and over $4.5 million that were over 90 days old. See Checkmate Schedule A/B (Checkmate dkt.1), line 11, at PDF p.11. In fact, these receivables were far older than 90 days: they were "incurred in the one to two-year period prepetition." Sakurai dkt. 464, p.6:24.

This Court takes judicial notice, from hundreds if not thousands of bankruptcy cases, that receivables over 90 days typically are worth a fraction of their face amount, and often are worthless. Debtors later acknowledged, in their Disclosure Statement, that one of the immediate causes of Checkmate's bankruptcy (in addition to an impending trial with the Fresco Parties) was "Checkmate Debtor's inability to collect the [Radiology] receivables." Sakurai dkt. 177, Ex.H, Attachment, p.11:11-14 (PDF p.32).

Nevertheless, Checkmate claimed to be confident of collection, principally because the accounts were backed up by security interests. On even a superficial review, there was cold comfort in any purported security interests. Almost all of the receivables were from a single party: Radiology Solutions Corp. ("Radiology"). Checkmate alleged that it had advanced funds to Radiology to purchase used medical equipment manufactured by Siemens, for resale in India and other markets, and Checkmate purportedly took back a security interest in that medical equipment.

But Checkmate had only the word of Radiology and its principal, Mr. Fower, that most of the equipment had ever been purchased. See Sakurai dkt. 177, Ex.H, Attachment, p.22:10-13 (PDF p.43) ("Debtors have made progress by confirming with Seimens that [Radiology] bought at least some of the equipment") (emphasis added). In addition, Checkmate had only their word that the equipment had not already been sold to overseas purchasers or otherwise disposed of.

Checkmate had only vague and incomplete reports from Radiology about the purported location of unsold equipment. See id. ("the location of that equipment is not known" and "Debtors hope to soon be able to gain access to a warehouse in Anaheim, California, where 15 of the [49] machines are supposed to be located, and warehouses in Houston and New York where another 6 of the machines" are supposed to be located).

Checkmate also had only sloppy documentation or perfection of the purported security interest - e.g., (A) it is unclear how enforceable any purported security interest would be, especially in India and other foreign locations; (B) Checkmate's invoices from Radiology did not cross-reference the security agreement; and (C) even at the outset, the identification and location of the equipment was incomplete. See adv. no. 2:18-ap-01062-NB, dkt. 12.

Despite all of these grounds for concern, Checkmate purported to be supremely confident that the Radiology receivables were collectible. Its bankruptcy schedules listed the portion of its receivables that were "doubtful or uncollectible accounts" as $0. See Checkmate Schedule A/B (dkt.1), line 11, at PDF p.11.

Chapter 7

That was either a delusion or an intentional fabrication. In any event, when Debtors' counsel eventually was able to inspect the collateral stored at one location, nine months after the petition date, they found almost nothing:

On June 21, 2018, ... an inspection of Checkmate's collateral occurred. At that time, Applicant learned for the first time that the equipment supposedly purchased by Radiology was largely gone. [Sakurai dkt. 464, p.9:13-16.]

In what should not have been a surprise to anyone, it "turned out" that Checkmate "only collect[ed] $9,000 from Radiology." [Sakurai dkt. 464, p.6, n.2.]

The point, of course, is not that with "20/20 hindsight" the receivables were worth next to nothing. The point is that from the outset there was every reason to believe that the receivables would be worth next to nothing.

(ii) Counsel for the estates had a duty not to incur substantial fees based on Debtors' unsupported delusions or misrepresentations

It is one thing for a debtor's principals to be deluded about the likely value of the debtor's assets. It is another thing for counsel to incur many tens of thousands of dollars in fees premised on such fantasies.

But that is what counsel did. The Radiology receivables were central to the negotiation and drafting of an original and first amended plan, and an original and first amended disclosure statement. Those documents included a complicated arrangement by which the Fresco Parties would receive a junior security interest in certain real properties and improvements, and payments out of the Radiology receivables that would be partially subordinated to claims of other non-priority unsecured creditors. As explained in the Disclosure Statement:

The collection of the RS [Radiology Solutions] receivables is addressed throughout this [Disclosure Statement]. Checkmate believes that it can retrieve and sell 21 of 49 machines, located mostly in Anaheim, California, with some in Houston, Texas and New York, New York. ... Checkmate estimates that during the 6 months post-confirmation ... it will receive and sell enough equipment to recoup $700,000. During the next 9 months ... it anticipates receiving $600,000 and during the following 9 months after that ... another $500,000. [In other words, $1.8 million total.] These are general estimates based on Checkmate recovering many, but not all, of the machines serving as its collateral. [Sakurai dkt. 177, Ex.H, Attachment, p.10:8-17 (PDF p.31)].

At this time (4/17/18, when the initial Disclosure Statement was filed, approximately 6 months after the petition date), Checkmate boasted that the Radiology receivables were estimated to be worth "approximately $1,000,000" more in chapter 11 than "if the case is converted to Chapter 7," because the Checkmate Debtor has made progress ... in locating the medical equipment" Sakurai dkt. 177, Ex.H, Attachment, p.10:23-25 (PDF p.31) (emphasis added). Of course, as noted above, the purported location of the equipment had not been verified. Three months later, when Debtors' counsel actually went to Anaheim to look at the collateral that purportedly was "locat[ed]" there, it turned out to be "largely gone." [Sakurai dkt. 464, p.9:13-16.]

Meanwhile, based on the foregoing highly speculative recovery of $1.8 million, and before verifying the existence and value of the purported collateral, Debtors' counsel engaged in protracted negotiations with the Fresco Parties and Community Bank about the structure of the proposed plan. Debtors' counsel then drafted a Plan that promised to use the Radiology receivables in a fairly complex waterfall of distributions: first to pay attorney fees, then up to $300,000 toward a schedule of payments to secured creditor Community Bank, then quarterly payments to non-priority unsecured creditors other than the Fresco Parties (Class 4A) until payment of 50% of such claims, and then pro-rata to the Fresco Parties (Class 4B) and to Class 4A (except in the event of liquidation). Sakurai dkt. 177, Ex.H, Attachment, p.5:-20 (PDF p.26 of 47) and p.8:8-20 (PDF p. 29).

All of this was completely wasted effort. So were the subsequent hearings, the next version of the plan and disclosure statement, and all the associated negotiations. These services were not "reasonably likely to benefit the debtor's estate" or "necessary" to the administration of the estate. Therefore they "shall not" be allowed. 11 U.S.C. 330(a)(4)(A)(ii).

The same conclusion is supported by other portions of the statute. Such a large amount of fees and services was not "necessary to the administration of, or beneficial at the time at which the service was rendered toward the completion of," the bankruptcy cases. 11 U.S.C. 330(a)(1)(3)(C). In addition, the large amount of time spent on such services is not "reasonable," or "commensurate with the complexity, importance, nature of the problem, issue, or task addressed." 11 U.S.C. 330(a)(3)(D).

Revised Tentative Ruling for 1/15/19:
Appearances Required

(1) Current Issues

(a) Final Fee Application for Debtor's Counsel (Checkmate, dkt. 249, 250, 253, 255, 257, 258, 261, 264; and Sakurai, dkt. 343, 346, 352, 355, 356, 363, 367)

The applications seek $350,846.10 (Checkmate) and $118,796.75 (Sakurai). This Court has allowed a total of $300,000, and set this continued hearing to address the balance of $169,642.85. See Interim Fee Orders (dkt. 261, Checkmate; dkt. 363, Sakurai).

The Fresco parties' objections note that this Court has on more than one occasion expressed grave concerns about whether these Debtors have adequately prosecuted these bankruptcy cases. Of course, this Court expects that counsel for the debtors would not in any way have participated in any attempts by these Debtors to mislead or obstruct creditors in these cases, but that is not the end of the inquiry.

On the one hand, when there are legitimate strategic or tactical reasons to chose among different courses of action, counsel for Debtors usually must act at their clients' direction, even if they might harbor some doubts about the efficacy of those choices. On the other hand, in addition to the ethical limits of what counsel may do at their clients' direction, counsel are only permitted "reasonable compensation for actual, necessary services" (11

U.S.C. 330(a)(1)(A) (emphasis added)), and in determining what compensation is reasonable this Court "shall consider the nature, the extent, and the value of such services, taking into account all relevant factors, including [among other things] whether the services were necessary to the administration of, or beneficial at the time at which the service was rendered toward the completion of, [these bankruptcy cases]."

In these cases there are open questions about (i) Debtors' own acts and omissions, and whether Debtors were or were not engaging in a lack of diligent prosecution of these cases or other misconduct, (ii) whether Debtors, if deposed or examined at trial on those issues, will or will not assert advice of counsel, and (iii) whether, regardless of the foregoing issues, counsel for Debtors can satisfy the above-referenced statutory requirements. For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that the Fresco parties must have a reasonable period of time in which to conduct discovery to investigate Debtors' apparent failures to prosecute these cases or other misconduct, and whether, in view of the results of any such discovery, the compensation sought by counsel for Debtors is for "necessary" services and is "reasonable" in dollar amount, given all of the facts and circumstances.

Meanwhile, although this Court recognizes that all interim compensation may be revisited in connection with any final award, the question is how much to award on an interim basis, and whether any disbursed funds must be held in trust. The tentative ruling is to award another $35,000 to counsel for Debtors, to be allocated pro rata in proportion to their outstanding fee requests, without requiring any portion of those funds to be held in trust, but also without prejudice to allowance of a greater or lesser final award.

The parties should be prepared to address the schedule for discovery on the issues outlined above. The tentative ruling is that a five month period is appropriate.

Then, in connection with any final fee award, or at such other time as this Court may later determine, the Fresco parties' objections can be revisited with the benefit of both (i) any discovery and (ii) any subsequent developments. For example, any additional disclosures and/or recoveries in the Fower/Radiology litigation might shed light on whether Debtors' and their counsel's strategies and tactics in dealing with those parties were appropriate at the time they were made. (This Court emphasizes that any subsequent developments would be relevant only to the extent they shed light on what

[TENTATIVE RULINGS FOR INTERIM HEARINGS OMITTED]

Tentative Ruling for 8/14/18:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues.

(a) Fresco Parties' Motion to Convert Cases (dkt. 199 & Checkmate 2:17-bk-22648-NB, dkt. 185). The tentative ruling is to grant Fresco's motions to convert the Checkmate and Sakurai cases to chapter 7 for the following reasons.

(i) Gross mismanagement. The tentative finding of fact is that the debtors have grossly mismanaged their estates such that cause exists under 1112(b)(4)(B) to convert their cases. These cases have been pending for nearly a year, since 10/16/17, only very belated and half-hearted investigation or collection activity against Radiology Solutions and Fower - either using legal enforcement or practical steps. For example, at hearings on 11/14/17 and 1/30/18, the debtors maintained their belief that they could recover 100% on the dated receivables from Radiology Solutions, despite this Court's expressed concerns with the debtors' counsel regarding the apparent lack of collection activity based on Checkmate's failure to use the vast panoply of litigation tools available to them, including examinations under Rule 2004 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.), other discovery tools, remedies such as immediately seeking restraining orders and injunctions, and non-litigation approaches such as pressuring Radiology Solutions and Fower by reporting their defaults to Siemens or attempting to use pressure from other suppliers, customers, government regulators, or other persons. All of those avenues should have been explored vigorously, both prepetition and postpetition, and disclosed to parties in interest in these cases.

(ii) Other "cause." The debtors appear to have run through vast amounts of money to "purchase" equipment that does not exist, and yet as set forth above they have a very cavalier attitude toward attempting to engage in discovery or collection, while continuing to insist that they expected very substantial recoveries from those sources and/or from equipment (which turned out not to exist). The tentative finding of fact is that these circumstances show not just gross mismanagement but also that the debtors are hiding facts, or they are attempting to run out the clock on possible causes of action against them or transferees of their assets, or both.

(ii) The debtors' counter-argument about the best interests of creditors is not persuasive. The debtors argue that under their liquidation analysis (Sakurai, dkt. 240, PDF p. 14, Checkmate, dkt. 194, PDF p. 17) creditors will receive faster and better recoveries if the debtors are permitted to engage in a liquidation through chapter 11, rather than converting these cases to chapter 7. There are several problems with this argument.

First, this Court questions the debtors' projected recoveries in chapter 11. The debtors have been wildly inaccurate (or have intentionally hidden the truth) before, as set forth above. This Court has no faith in the Debtors to adequately disclose and maximize the value of their remaining assets, such as the house in Japan or purported interests in that house. Moreover, this Court is concerned about the debtor's management of whatever is recovered, such as what might happen to proceeds from the sale of real property. This Court recognizes that safeguards can be attempted; but safeguards can also be evaded, and the tentative ruling is that the simplest and best safeguard is to appoint a chapter 7 trustee.

Second, this Court questions the debtor's projected lack of substantial recoveries in chapter 7. The tentative ruling is that the Fresco Parties have the better arguments regarding the potential benefits to unsecured creditors in a chapter 7 case (perhaps as much as 80% or more).

Third, supposing for the sake of discussion that the debtors were accurate in their projected recoveries in a liquidating chapter 11 case, and their comparison with projected recoveries in a chapter 7 case, that is not the only consideration. This Court must consider the integrity of the bankruptcy system. Given the debtors' gross mismanagement and this Court's concerns about the debtors' conduct (as described above) it appears that the only adequate safeguard of the integrity of the bankruptcy system is to convert these cases to chapter 7.

(iii) Evidentiary Objections (Sakurai, dkt. 233, 252) & (Checkmate 2:17-bk-22648-NB, dkt. 200, 204). The tentative ruling is that the history of this case and this Court's own admonishments to the debtors provides ample support for conversion, so this Court need not resolve the parties' respective evidentiary objections.

(iv) Proposed Orders. The Fresco Parties are directed to lodge proposed orders via this Court's LOU system within 7 days of the hearing.

(b) Application to Employ KW Commercial Inland Empire (dkt. 197) and Neiman Realty (dkt. 206). If this Court adopts the tentative ruling set forth above, the tentative ruling is to continue these hearings to the date and time set forth below to allow time for the chapter 7 trustees to weigh in.

(c) RS/Fower Adversary Proceeding (2:18-ap-01602-NB). The tentative ruling is to continue the status conference to the date and time stated below.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 10/16/17.

(a) Bar date: 1/17/18 (order timely served. dkt. 58, 59).

(b) Amended Joint Plan/Amended Joint Disclosure Statement*: TBD based on the outcome of the Conversion Motions.

(c) Continued status conference: If this Court converts these cases to chapter 7, the tentative ruling is to continue the status conference in the Sakurai and Checkmate cases to 10/9/18 at 2:00 p.m. No written status report required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Potential settlement with Fresco Parties. (b) Cash collateral & budget motions & stipulation (Sakurai dkt. 119, 122; Checkmate dkt. 114, 118, 119). Grant the cash collateral motion in the Sakurai case, subject to the same replacement liens and other terms and conditions as this Court's prior approvals of the use of cash collateral (see Sakurai case dkt. 43, 57); grant the budget motion in the Sakurai case; and approve the cash collateral stipulation in the Checkmate case on a final basis.

(d) Removed action (Adv. no. 2:17-ap-01558-NB), motions for stay and for remand (adv. dkt. 8, 10, 12, 13). The tentative ruling is that the motion for a stay pending determination by the District Court of the debtors' motion to withdraw the reference is moot, because the District Court has dismissed that motion. Tentative Ruling for 1/23/18:

Continue all matters scheduled for today in the Sakurai and Checkmate cases and related adversary proceeding to 1/30/18 at 2:00 p.m. in view of the apparent inability of the Office of the United States Trustee to appear due to the shutdown of much of the federal government. At the continued hearing the parties must be prepared to address all issues appropriate to raise at a status conference, including the issues in their recent status reports and related documents (case no. 2:17-bk-22660-NB, dkt. 87, 104, 105, and 2:17-bk-22648-NB, dkt. 90, 93, 100, 102, 104, 105, 106, 109). Appearances are not required on 1/23/18.

Chapter 11

This Court directed (i) Checkmate to file and serve a notice of continuances attaching and incorporating by reference the deadlines in that tentative ruling by 5/7/18, and (ii) the parties to file a brief joint status report by 5/29/18. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, none of the parties have complied. The parties are cautioned that failure to abide by applicable deadlines in future may result in adverse consequences.

(b) Motion for TRO & Claim and Delivery (adv. dkt. 10).

Plaintiff/debtor Checkmate King Co., Ltd. ("Checkmate") has filed a stipulation (adv. dkt. 30) with defendants Radiology Solutions Corp. ("RS") and George Fower ("Fower") for turnover of equipment. But Checkmate has not provided any evidence that it has relief from the automatic stay and consent of the Chapter 7 Trustee in the RS and Fower bankruptcy cases for such turnover (Case Nos. 8:18-bk-10585-TA and 8:18-bk-10583-TA). The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 6/19/18 for Checkmate to file a declaration attaching evidence sufficient to establish those things, and lodge a revised proposed order to approve the stipulation.

(2) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 3/6/18. It is premature to set a discovery cutoff and other deadlines at this time. Continue to 7/17/18 at 2:00 p.m., brief joint status report due 7/3/18.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 5/8/18:

The tentative ruling is to continue all pending matters in this adversary proceeding to 6/12/18 at 2:00 p.m. for the reason stated below, with a brief joint status report due 5/29/18, and with a deadline of 5/7/18 for the plaintiff to file and serve a notice of continuances attaching and incorporating by reference the deadlines in this tentative ruling (assuming that this Court is not persuaded to depart from this tentative ruling). Chapter 11

(1) Current Issues. This Court has reviewed the parties' status reports (adv. dkt. 24 & 26) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(a) Motion for TRO & Claim and Delivery (adv. dkt. 10). At the 4/9/18 hearing on this motion, counsel for plaintiff/debtor Checkmate King Co., Ltd. ("Checkmate") apprised this Court of the bankruptcy filings of defendants Radiology Solutions Corp. ("RS") and George Fower ("Fower") (Case Nos. 8:18-bk-10585-TA and 8:18-bk-10583-TA) and requested a continuance of this hearing to allow time to obtain orders granting relief from stay with annulment. In the Joint status report (adv. dkt. 24), Checkmate states that the hearings on the relief from stay motions are scheduled for 5/15/18. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to continue this motion to the date and time set forth at the start of this tentative ruling.

(b) Siemens Motion to Dismiss (adv. dkt. 27, the "MTD"). Defendant Siemens Medical Solutions USA, Inc. ("Siemens") has properly self-calendared its MTD for 6/12/18 at 11:00 a.m. Siemens anticipates that it may be voluntarily dismissed by plaintiff (see adv. dkt. 24), but if that does not occur then this Court anticipates that the MTD may take 15 minutes or more to hear. This Court's practice is that matters anticipated to take 15 minutes or more are heard on the 2:00 p.m. calendar (not available for self-calendaring, except by permission of this Court). Therefore the tentative ruling is to re-calendar the MTD from 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m., which is concurrent with the other matters in this adversary proceeding that are on today's calendar.

(2) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 3/6/18. It is premature to set a discovery cutoff and other deadlines at this time.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Docket 32

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so

THE BANK OF NEW YORK MELLON
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 29

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

Grant the motion under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(4) and (j): there is no automatic stay because (a) Debtor's prior cases (#2:19-bk-12690-SK, dismissed 4/23/19 and #2:19-bk-16492-NB, dismissed 7/22/19) were dismissed within one year before this case was filed (on 8/12/19), (b) those dismissals were not under 11 U.S.C. 707(b), and (c) no motion for an order imposing the automatic stay was sought, and the time for doing so has expired.

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (2).

Debtor's opposition (dkt. 33) asserts that he has equity in the property, and the Movant is adequately protected by an equity cushion, but provides no evidence to refute the showing in the Motion papers. Debtor asserts that Movant lacks standing but the motion papers establish two alternative grounds for standing: Movant is the holder of the promissory note, and Movant is also the assignee of the deed of trust. See generally In re Veal, 450 B.R. 897 (9th Cir. BAP 2011). Debtor argues that the property is necessary to an effective reorganization, but this is a liquidating chapter 7 case, not a reorganizing chapter 13 or 11 case, so that argument is unpersuasive. Debtor's remaining arguments are also unpersuasive.

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Tentative Ruling:

The tentative ruling is to deny Celtic's request to dismiss this case with a 180-day bar because (a) the request is not included in a duly noticed motion, (b) there is insufficient evidence that Debtor's failure to prosecute this case is willful, and (c) in the event of another bankruptcy petition affecting this property there are remedies if Debtor is not proceeding in good faith and in compliance with the Bankruptcy Code and Rules (e.g., 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3)). #12.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order
Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic

Docket 10

Tentative Ruling:

Deny as moot and order that Debtor's counsel shall not charge any fees for this unnecessary motion. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Docket for Debtor's prior Chapter 7 case (2:19-bk-17048-RK).

Reasons for denial:

The tentative ruling is to deny this motion as moot because Debtor's instant bankruptcy case is not governed by the provisions of 11 U.S.C. 362(c).

Debtor received a discharge in his prior Chapter 7 case on October 1, 2019. Chapter 7 case, dkt. 22. Debtor filed this Chapter 13 case on October 7, 2019.

Section 362(c)(3) provides in relevant part if a single or joint case is filed by or against a debtor who is an individual in a case under chapter 7, 11, or 13, and if a single or joint case of the debtor was pending within the preceeding 1-year period but was dismissed ...

(A) the stay under subsection (a) with respect to any action taken with respect to a debt or property securing such debt or with respect to any lease shall terminate with respect to the debtor on the 30th day after the filing of the later case; ...

Chapter 13

Becuae Debtor's prior bankruptcy case was not dismissed, the automatic stay in Debtor's current case will not terminate thirty days after filing. This motion to continue the automatic stay is therefore moot. To the extent that Debtor is seeking a comfort order confirming that the automatic stay is still in effect, this Court grants that request.

No fees on this matter, absent specific authorization

Counsel is directed not to charge any fees on this matter (including all past, present and future work related to this 362(c)(3) objection), and to return any fees received on this matter, because (a) this motion was unnecessary, and (b) it is appropriate for this Court to impose this limitation sua sponte because in chapter 13 cases there is a danger that the client (Debtor) does not have a sufficient incentive to monitor counsel's services because all net income has to be paid anyway, regardless whether some of that net income goes to counsel instead of to creditors.

This Court does not have the capacity to monitor all fee applications to assure compliance with the foregoing limitation on fees. But if counsel is found to have disregarded this limitation then this Court may impose sanctions.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling:

Deny for the reasons stated in the opposition (dkt.12) of The Estates Condo. Owners Assoc. Appearances required to address whether the case should be dismissed by this Court sua sponte, and whether to impose a 180-day bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy due to willful failure to appear in proper prosecution of this bankruptcy case. See 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1).

Proposed order: Movant is directed to serve and lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Key documents reviewed (other than motion papers): ___.

Reasons: The motion was not timely set for hearing in accordance with 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3)(B) (providing that "on the motion of a party in interest for continuation of the automatic stay and upon notice and a hearing, the court may extend the stay in particular cases as to any or all creditors . . . after notice and a hearing completed before the expiration of the 30 day period [after the petition date, i.e., _____ + 30 days]." (emphasis added)).

No attorney fees: This Court presumes that counsel for the debtor will not charge any fees for the time spent on this motion (because counsel knew or should have known of the earlier case and knew or should have known of the 30 day deadline). If counsel intends to charge any fees then the procedures must be followed to dispute this tentative ruling.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances

#18.00 Cont'd hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [NA]

vs
DEBTOR

Docket 48

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 11/5/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

There is no tentative ruling, but debtor should be prepared to address why this Court should not grant the remaining relief requested in the motion, subject to the usual limitations about not collecting any judgment from estate assets etc. (per this Court's local form order), given that debtor has had a "breathing spell" of over five months, since the petition date of 6/1/19.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 9/10/19:

Grant in part, deny in part, as provided below. Appearances required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Debtor's opposition (dkt. 60), and Movant's reply (dkt. 62).

(1) Debtor's untimely Opposition

In its reply, Movant asks this Court to disregard Debtor's Opposition because it was filed two days late. Dkt. 62, at p.2:5-12. Movant does not explain, however, what prejudice it suffered from the two day delay.

In addition, Movant may be partially responsible for Debtor's delay because the Motion was not served on Debtor itself, as well as Debtor's counsel ("double service"), as required by Rules 7004(b)(9)&(g) and 9014(a), Fed. R. Bankr. P.). This Court recognizes that the double service requirement is the exact opposite of typical non-bankruptcy practice, in which it is generally impermissible to serve a represented party personally; but there are good reasons for the double service rule in bankruptcy. It helps protect Debtor and the bankruptcy estate (i.e., all parties in interest) from matters "falling through the cracks" given the high volume and speed of matters in typical bankruptcy cases, and the frequent use of service via U.S. mail.

In addition, Movant served the Motion via United States mail on several parties in interest on 8/20/19, 21 days before the hearing. But Rule 9006(f) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) adds an additional three days for service via U.S. mail, so it should have been mailed 24 days prior to the hearing. Therefore, if Movant argues for a strict application of the usual deadlines, this hearing should be continued anyway.

For each of these reasons, the tentative ruling is to overrule Movant's objection to consideration of the Opposition papers.

(2) Merits

The tentative ruling is (a) to grant Movant's request for an order confirming that the automatic stay does not protect the non-debtor defendants, and alternatively granting relief from the automatic stay for Movant to pursue its action(s) against such defendants, and (b) to modify the automatic stay to permit discovery to proceed in the non-bankruptcy action, and continue the hearing with respect to any remaining relief.

of "cause." 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1). Such relief need not take the form of a complete termination of the automatic stay, but instead may include "modifying or conditioning such stay." Id.

"Cause' is determined on a case-by-case basis." In re Tucson Estates, Inc., 912 F.2d 1162, 1166 (9th Cir.1990). In determining whether "cause" exists to grant relief from the automatic stay to allow a movant to pursue litigation in a non-bankruptcy forum, courts in the Ninth Circuit have examined the factors set forth in In re Curtis, 40 B.R. 795, 799–800 (Bankr. D. Utah 1984). See In re Kronmeyer, 405 B.R. 915 (9th Cir. BAP 2009); In re Plumberex Specialty Prods., Inc., 311 B.R. 551, 559–60 (Bankr. C.D. Cal.2004). Those factors are: (1) Whether the relief will result in a partial or complete resolution of the issues; (2) The lack of any connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case; (3) Whether the foreign proceeding involves the debtor as a fiduciary; (4) Whether a specialized tribunal has been established to hear the particular cause of action and whether that tribunal has the expertise to hear such cases; (5) Whether the debtor's insurance carrier has assumed full financial responsibility for defending the litigation; (6) Whether the action essentially involves third parties, and the debtor functions only as a bailee or conduit for the goods or proceeds in question; (7) Whether the litigation in another forum would prejudice the interests of other creditors, the creditors' committee and other interested parties; (8) Whether the judgment claim arising from the foreign action is subject to equitable subordination under Section 510(c); (9) Whether movant's success in the foreign proceeding would result in a judicial lien avoidable by the debtor under Section 522(f); (10) The interests of judicial economy and the expeditious and economical determination of litigation for the parties; (11) Whether the foreign proceedings have progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial; and (12) The impact of the stay on the parties and the "balance of hurt." Plumberex, 311 B.R. at 559. "[W]hile the Curtis factors are widely used to determine the existence of 'cause,' not all of the factors are relevant in every case, nor is a court required to give each factor equal weight." In re Landmark Fence Co., Inc., 2011 WL 6826253 at *4 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 9, 2011).

(a) Non-Debtor defendants

In general, the automatic stay does not protect non-debtors, and any request to stay acts against non-debtors would require a separate adversary proceeding. See generally, In re Excel Innovations, Inc., 502 F.3d 1086 (9th Cir. 2007). That said, it can be difficult to determine whether the automatic stay applies when dealing with entities that may have intertwined finances with a debtor in bankruptcy, or when suing a related entity could be interpreted as an attempt to collect a claim against a debtor. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(3) (staying any act to obtain possession of, or exercise control over, property of estate) and (a)(6) (staying any act to collect a prepetition claim against a debtor).

In this case neither Debtor nor any other party in interest has asserted that the automatic stay prevents Movant from suing the non-debtors. In addition, the record before this Court does not reflect facts and circumstances showing that the automatic stay would apply to suing the non-debtors. Accordingly the tentative ruling is that the automatic stay does not apply.

Alternatively, the tentative ruling is that if the stay were to apply for some reason, relief from the automatic stay would be appropriate to permit Movant to pursue its action(s) against the non-debtors. Of particular note, under the authorities cited above, any such acts involve third parties, and there has been no showing of interference with or prejudice to Debtor, other creditors, or the bankruptcy estate by permitting such acts. For example, the third parties themselves may have the expense of litigation, but there is no evidence that any such expense will constitute an administrative claim against the bankruptcy estate.

(b) Modify the stay to permit discovery, and continue hearing for other issues

Based on the present record, the tentative ruling is that the Curtis factors weigh in favor of granting relief to pursue discovery, but continuing the hearing as to any other relief. Most significantly:

As to the first Curtis factor (would relief result in partial or complete resolution of issues?), granting relief would result in a complete resolution of the issues, whereas denying relief would not, because the majority of the defendants in the state court action are not subject to this Court's jurisdiction, and the suit involves primarily issues of state labor law. Dkt. 48, Ex. 1.

As to the second Curtis factor (connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case) and the seventh Curtis factor (prejudice to other creditors/interested parties), Debtor has pointed primarily to the expense of litigation, and also to the need for a "breathing spell." Both Debtor and other parties in interest, including Movant, may be better able to assess the costs and benefits of litigation and/or settlement once Debtor presents a chapter 11 plan, or the outline of one: for example, litigating over a 1% dividend is very different from litigating over a 50% or 90% dividend. More generally, this Court takes judicial notice that this bankruptcy case was commenced by the filing of the bankruptcy petition on 6/1/19, so Debtor has had some time but not a very large amount of time to formulate its strategy for paying its creditors and proposing a chapter 11 plan, so for a limited additional time some breathing spell appears to be appropriate.

As to the tenth and eleventh Curtis factors (judicial economy, expeditious and economical determination of litigation, and whether the non-bankruptcy proceedings have progressed to trial-readiness), it is true that the non-bankruptcy action has not progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial, but Movant has established that that action has been pending since 9/16 and significant discovery and discovery-related motion practice has already occurred. Dkt. 48 at p.3, dkt. 62 at p.3. The State Court has familiarity with the action, and appears to be better situated to evaluate issues of California state labor law.

As for the twelfth Curtis factor (impact of the stay on the parties and the "balance of hurt"), Movant has argued that it would be prejudiced in opposing another defendant's motion for summary judgment without discovery from Debtor, and although Movant has not explained precisely how that is so, it is true that in general discovery from all parties in interest is helpful in opposing any motion for summary judgment. For those reasons it appears that discovery is appropriate, but for the moment the "balance of hurt" favors continuation of the automatic stay as to other acts against Debtor.

The tentative ruling is to issue an order granting limited relief as set forth above, and continue the hearing as to any other relief. The tentative continuance is to 11/5/19 at 10:00 a.m.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." (c) Continued status conference: 10/29/19 at 2:00 p.m. Case status report on Local Form F 2081-1.1.STATUS.RPT due 10/15/19.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 10/2/19:

Appearances required. The parties are directed to address whether there was adequate notice of this hearing, and the merits of each motion, as set forth below.

(1) Notice of this hearing

Debtor must address whether the proof of service of the motion papers (the "POS," dkt.21) complies with this Court's order shortening time ("OST," dkt.10), or due process. The OST provides that the deadline for "RECEIPT" of written notice of this hearing/a copy of the OST is 10/1/19 at noon. Id. (emphasis in original). In two ways, this Court questions whether the POS complies with this direction.

First, the POS only appears to assert that envelopes were dropped off with an (unspecified) "Overnight Mail" carrier on 10/1/19, which would mean that those envelopes would not be received until 10/2/19 at the earliest, possibly just shortly before the hearing or even after the hearing.

Second, this Court questions whether delivery really was "overnight" to Taiwan, South Korea, China, and other overseas

(2) Merits of each motion

If the foregoing notice issue is adequately addressed, the tentative rulings are as follows.

(a) Payroll motion (dkt. 2)

Grant on a final basis, subject to any opposition at the hearing, and subject to authorization to use cash collateral to make payroll (see below).

(b) Cash management motion (dkt.4)

Grant on an interim basis, subject to any opposition at the hearing, with a final hearing at the same time as the continued status conference (see below).

(c) Cash collateral motion (dkt.5)

Debtor's budget (dkt.8, Ex.1) lacks historical context. Are the proposed expenditures and projected receipts in line with historical experience? Is it typical for Debtor's cash position to fluctuate so substantially from week to week? Are the goods that Debtor anticipates selling in keeping with Debtor's historical lines of business, and with existing customers, or is Debtor projecting the replacement of some past lines of business with new lines?

Subject to (i) adequate resolution of the foregoing, (ii) any opposition at the hearing, and (iii) the conditions set forth in calendar no. 3 (on 10/2/19 at 2:00 p.m.), the tentative ruling is to grant this motion on an interim basis, with a further interim hearing at the same time as the continued status conference (see below).

(d) Notice of continued hearings

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 10/3/19 for Debtor to file and serve via U.S. mail a notice of the continued hearings.

(e) Proposed orders

This Court anticipates filing a "Memorialization of Tentative Rulings." Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders that reference that document and incorporate the tentative rulings as final rulings, except as they may be modified at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

#2.00 Cont'd hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [NA]
fr. 10/1/19

BRG ADAMS, LLC
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 37

Tentative Ruling:

Revised Tentative Ruling for 11/5/19:

Grant as provided below, in addition to the interim relief previously granted (dkt.55). Appearances required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Emergency motion to continue hearing (dkt. 40); order granting partial relief from stay (dkt. 55); debtor's opposition (dkt. 65); Movant's reply (dkt. 71); Movant's evidentiary objections (dkt. 72).

(1) Limited relief. Modify and condition the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) such that the movant may proceed in the nonbankruptcy forum to final judgment (including any appeals) in accordance with applicable nonbankruptcy law, subject to the following limitations (Judge Bason's standard limitations).

(a) No enforcement against property of the bankruptcy estate

The stay remains in effect with respect to enforcement of any judgment against property of the debtor's bankruptcy estate - any such property shall be distributed when and how provided by the Bankruptcy Code. Nevertheless, the movant is permitted to enforce its final judgment by (i) collecting upon any available insurance in accordance with applicable nonbankruptcy law or (ii) proceeding against the debtor as to any property that is not property of this bankruptcy estate. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 362(b)(2)(B) & 541(b)(7) (collection of domestic support obligations from ERISA qualified retirement plans).

(b) Claim allowance, priority, and discharge issues

Any claims arising from the nonbankruptcy litigation are subject to this Bankruptcy Court's jurisdiction regarding claim allowance and priority, and the existence and scope of any bankruptcy discharge.

(c) No relief in other bankruptcy cases

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

In limiting the nonbankruptcy litigation as set forth above, this Bankruptcy Court emphasizes that it does not seek in any way to impinge on the authority of the Nonbankruptcy Courts presiding over the nonbankruptcy action. Rather, this Bankruptcy Court takes seriously its obligations, as a subordinate unit of the District Court, to manage this bankruptcy case. Those obligations include taking into consideration the interests of creditors (who are not parties to the underlying nonbankruptcy litigation), and preserving the bankruptcy estate by placing limits on any relief from the automatic stay that Congress has mandated (11 U.S.C. 362(a) & (d)).

Additional analysis:

The Bankruptcy Court "shall grant relief from the stay" upon a showing of "cause." 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1). Such relief need not take the form of a complete termination of the automatic stay, but instead may include "modifying or conditioning such stay." Id.

"Cause" is determined on a case-by-case basis." In re Tucson Estates, Inc., 912 F.2d 1162, 1166 (9th Cir.1990). Cause can be established when abstention applies. Id.

The tentative ruling is that mandatory abstention does not apply at this time. Under 28 U.S.C. 1334(c)(2), abstention is mandatory if (1) the proceeding is based on a state law cause of action, (2) the proceeding is not a core proceeding, (3) the proceeding could not have been commenced in federal court absent the jurisdiction provided by 28 U.S.C. 1334, and (4) the proceeding has been commenced, and can be timely adjudicated, in a state forum of appropriate jurisdiction. The tentative ruling is that, although arbitration proceedings qualify under the fourth element (see In re Porter-Hayden Co., 304 B.R. 725, 734-35 (Bankr. D. Md. 2004)), it is premature to determine whether the claims at issue are "core" because Movant still has time in which to determine whether or not it will file a proof of claim, which would be determinative regarding whether the litigation at issue is or is not "core." See In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 547 B.R. 831 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016) (Bason, J.).

But the tentative ruling is that discretionary abstention applies under 28 U.S.C. 1334(c)(1), and alternatively that "cause" exists to grant relief from the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1), under the factors applied by the Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit. See Tucson Estates, Inc., 912 F.2d 1162 (applying factors from In re Curtis, 40 B.R. 795, 799-800 (Bankr. D. Utah 1984)). See also, e.g., In re Kronemeyer, 405 B.R. 915 (9th Cir. BAP 2009); In re Plumberex Specialty Prods., Inc., 311 B.R. 551, 559-60 (Bankr. C.D. Cal.2004).

Those factors are: (1) Whether the relief will result in a partial or complete resolution of the issues; (2) The lack of any connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case; (3) Whether the foreign proceeding involves the debtor as a fiduciary; (4) Whether a specialized tribunal has been established to hear the particular cause of action and whether that tribunal has the expertise to hear such cases; (5) Whether the debtor's insurance carrier has assumed full financial responsibility for defending the litigation; (6) Whether the action essentially involves third parties, and the debtor functions only as a bailee or conduit for the goods or proceeds in question; (7) Whether the litigation in another forum would prejudice the interests of other creditors, the creditors' committee and other interested parties; (8) Whether the judgment claim arising from the foreign action is subject to equitable subordination under Section 510(c); (9) Whether movant's success in the foreign proceeding would result in a judicial lien avoidable by the debtor under Section 522(f); (10) The interests of judicial economy and the expeditious and economical determination of litigation for the parties; (11) Whether the foreign proceedings have progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial; and (12) The impact of the stay on the parties and the "balance of hurt." Plumberex, 311 B.R. at 559. "[W]hile the Curtis factors are widely used to determine the existence of 'cause,' not all of the factors are relevant in every case, nor is a court required to give each factor equal weight." In re Landmark Fence Co., Inc., 2011 WL 6826253 at *4 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 9, 2011).

Based on the present record, the tentative ruling is that these factors weigh in favor of granting relief as set forth above. Most significantly, under the fourth Curtis factor (whether a specialized tribunal has been established to hear the action), the parties agreed to binding arbitration before the arbitrator, and this Bankruptcy Court does not typically review arbitration awards whereas the Superior Court does.

As to the remaining Curtis factors, Debtor has not established that they would weigh against granting the motion. For example, the first factor (would relief result in partial or complete resolution of the issues?), granting relief would result in complete resolution of the issues and the issues involve matters of state law that can be resolved expeditiously in the nonbankruptcy proceedings.

As to the second Curtis factor (connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case) and seventh Curtis factor (prejudice to other creditors/interested parties) completion of the arbitration proceeding and obtaining an order confirming or vacating the award from the Superior Court will not interfere with this case, but to the contrary it is essential to this bankruptcy case to reach a final determination as to these claims, and this Bankruptcy Court is not better situated than the Superior Court to review the arbitration award.

As to the eleventh Curtis factor (the impact of the stay on the parties and the "balance of hurt"), Debtor has not identified any persuasive reason why the issues would be better dealt with in this Bankruptcy Court.

Alternatively, there is one other consideration that is, in this Court's view, an independent and sufficient reason for discretionary abstention, and alternatively is "cause" for relief from the automatic stay. Debtor's attempt to have this Bankruptcy Court review the arbitration award, rather than the usual process of review by the Superior Court, smacks of forum shopping. In addressing this alternative consideration, this Court interprets the Curtis factors as helpful but not limiting.

To be sure, if there were (i) numerous matters to be arbitrated, and (ii) no assurance that the arbitration-related matters would proceed expeditiously before arbitrators and Nonbankruptcy Courts, then the Bankruptcy Code's policies of centralization of disputes, avoiding piecemeal litigation, and avoiding undue delay in reorganizing might well tip the balance in favor of reviewing the arbitration award in this Bankruptcy Court rather than deferring to the State Courts (assuming without deciding that this Bankruptcy Court would have jurisdiction to do so). See In re Thorpe Insulation Co., 671 F.3d 1011, 1022-24 & n.9 (9th Cir. 2012). But such facts are not presented in this case.

In view of the foregoing, this Court finds it unnecessary to reach a determination as to Movant's remaining arguments.

(2) Evidentiary Objections

Sustain the objections insofar as lack of relevance (without reaching the other evidentiary objections). Alternatively, the tentative ruling is that this Court would reach the same result regardless of the ruling on the evidentiary objections.

(3) Additional Relief: effective date

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Tentative Ruling for 9/13/19:

Chapter 11

#2.20 Cont'd hrg re: Motion to Use Cash Collateral
fr. 10/29/19

Docket 51

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 11/5/19:

Please see the tentative ruling for status conference (calendar no. 3, 11/5/19 at 2:00 p.m.).

Tentative Ruling for 10/29/19:

Appearances required. Deny the (belated) motion re cash collateral (docket no. 51) and only authorize Debtor to use funds to pay the following items in the proposed budget (dkt.51, Ex."A" "1", at p.22):

- (1) non-insider payroll, payroll taxes, benefits, and payroll service,
- (2) consultants whose employment has been authorized by written order of this Court,
- (3) insurance,
- (4) Hanmi Bank adequate protection payments equal to regular monthly payments of principal and interest - not any "loan fees,"
- (5) property repair and maintenance,
- (6) Office expense and supplies, postage, and shipping,
- (7) Permits, property taxes, and licenses,
- (8) telecommunications,
- (9) utilities.

The tentative ruling is that all other expenses are not adequately explained and justified. For example, the proposed budget includes $108,222 (approximately 2/3 of the total expenses) for "Taxi Vouchers and tokens" plus $3,155/mo. for "Equipment rental and maintenance," $3,412/mo. for "Management Fees," and $5,784/mo. for "Facility cost (rent utilities)." How can any creditors or this Court assess whether those things are "ordinary course" without some explanation? See 11 U.S.C. 363(b).

Has Debtor historically been in the business of providing taxi vouchers to low-income persons to facilitate employment, medical visits, and food? If so, why was this not explained in more detail in the initial status conference report? See dk.11. Are those services paid for out of the grants that Debtor receives? Is there any protection of the bankruptcy estate against misuse of such a large amount of transfers? Is the budget for those things consistent with past practices and/or with the expenses of other nonprofits that provide similar services? See In re Dant & Russell, Inc., 853 F.2d 700 (9th Cir. 1988).

In addition, as to those expenditures that are approved, the tentative ruling is not to approve section "8" of the proposed stipulation with Hanmi Bank (dk. 51, Ex.A). In that section Debtor purports to waive rights under 11 U.S.C. 364(d) and 506(c), but there is no showing why that would be appropriate and it might be detrimental to creditors. The tentative ruling is, instead, to require that Debtor provide at least 72 hours' advance notice of any proposed expenditure that Debtor believes would qualify for reimbursement under section 506(c), absent exigent circumstances that make such advance notice impossible. In other respects, the tentative ruling is to authorize the use of cash collateral as provided in the stipulation, but subject to the conditions set forth below.

Judge Bason's standard conditions for use of cash collateral and/or postpetition financing (by creditors holding prepetition claims)

(1) Written order

(a) Form. Use local form

F2081-1.1.ORDER.CASH.COLLATERAL or the equivalent. Attach a copy of this tentative ruling as an exhibit, thereby adopting it as the written ruling of this Court, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. Do not repeat the terms set forth in the motion or any stipulation. Incorporate those terms by reference (including the docket number of the document), subject to any modification by this Court.

(b) Timing. Lodge the proposed order within 7 days after the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Minimum adequate protection

In addition to the postpetition security interests that are automatically provided pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 552 (e.g., in traceable proceeds and profits), and subject to any more comprehensive protection that may be included in the motion or related papers, Debtor shall provide at least the following protection to any creditor with a security interest in the subject property (pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 361-364, as applicable):

(a) Insurance. For all collateral of a type that typically is insured (e.g., real property and improvements), Debtor is directed to maintain insurance in a dollar amount at least equal to Debtor's good faith estimate of the value of such creditor's interest in the collateral, and such insurance shall name such creditor as an additional insured. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments for such insurance.

(b) Taxes. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments on account of postpetition real estate taxes (to the extent that real estate is part of the collateral).

(c) Disclosures/access. Debtor is directed to provide, upon such creditor's reasonable request, periodic accountings of the foregoing insurance and tax obligations and payments, as well as postpetition proceeds, products, offspring, or profits from the collateral, including gross revenues and expenses and a calculation of net revenues, including any rents and any fees, charges, accounts, or other payments for the use or occupancy of rooms and other public facilities in lodging properties (as all of the foregoing terms are used in 11 U.S.C. 552). Debtor is directed to provide appropriate documentation of those accountings, and access for purposes of inspection or appraisal.

(3) Limitation on postpetition liens

In the event that the motion or related papers seek authority to grant postpetition liens to the creditor(s) with respect to prepetition debts any such liens shall be limited to the same validity, priority, and amount as prepetition liens. As used herein, the "validity, priority, and amount" or any similar phrase that may be used by the parties or this Court is deemed to include the following:

(a) Extent. Such liens shall be limited to the type of collateral in which the creditor held a security interest as of the petition date, unless this order expressly states that the liens granted by this order are intended to attach to different types of collateral from the prepetition collateral. For example, if prepetition liens extended to inventory and accounts receivable but not equipment then postpetition liens are likewise limited (unless otherwise expressly provided by order of this Court). In addition, postpetition liens shall not extend to the proceeds of any avoidance actions, any recoveries under 11 U.S.C. 506(c), or any "carveout" under 11 U.S.C. 552.

(b) Priority. Such liens shall be limited to the same priority as the security interest held by the creditor as of the petition date.

(c) Dollar amount. Such liens shall be limited to the dollar amount needed to protect the creditor against diminution in the value of the secured claims as of the petition date.

(d) Enforceability. Such liens shall be limited to the extent that the creditor's security interests were duly perfected and valid as of the petition date, and to the extent that they are unavoidable.

(e) Automatic postpetition perfection. Any automatic perfection of such liens shall be subject to any applicable limitations regarding the Court's authority, jurisdiction, or due process.

(4) Automatic disapproval of insufficiently disclosed provisions

Any provision of the type listed in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or in local form F4001-2 (e.g., cross-collateralization) or any waiver of the "equities of the case" exception in 11 U.S.C. 552(b)(2) shall be deemed automatically disapproved and excepted from any order granting the motion, notwithstanding any other provision of such order, unless either: (a) such provision is specifically and prominently disclosed in the motion papers in a checklist (such as local form F4001-2), or alternatively (b) such provision is specifically identified in any proposed order granting the motion, using terminology of the type used in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or local form F4001-2 (e.g., any "cross-collateralization" that is not specifically identified as such is deemed to be disapproved).

(5) Disputes

In the event of any disputes regarding the rulings in this order, the parties are directed to meet and confer and, if they cannot resolve their disputes consensually, contact Judge Bason's chambers to arrange a mutually convenient time for either a telephonic or in-person hearing to address such disputes.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Chapter 11

#3.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Chapter 11 case
fr. 8/20/19, 9/24/19,10/29/19

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Revised Tentative Ruling for 11/5/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion for Relief From Automatic Stay (dkt.37); Opposition (dkt.65); Reply (dkt. 71); and related documents

Grant, as set forth in the tentative ruling for calendar no. 2 (11/5/19 at 2:00 p.m.).

(b) Budget Motion (dkt. 60) and cash collateral motion (dkt.61) and stipulation (dkt.61, Ex.A)

At the hearing on 10/29/19 this Court was persuaded to authorize the use of cash collateral on an interim basis - not because of the adequacy of Debtor's papers but because of the potentially adverse effects on multiple constituencies if this Court were to prohibit the use of cash collateral. This Court declined either to approve or disapprove Debtor's budget: again, Debtor's papers were inadequate, and if Debtor turns out to have been engaging in expenditures out of the ordinary course without authorization, or otherwise improperly managing the budget, that will have consequences. This Court also set a deadline of 11/1/19 at noon for Debtor to file declaration(s) addressing the concerns of this Court and the United States Trustee (as set forth on the record and in this Court's tentative ruling for the 10/29/19 hearing, reproduced below). This Court also directed Hanmi Bank to lodge a proposed order authorizing the use of cash collateral as set forth in that tentative ruling for 10/29/19.

Debtor timely filed the declaration (dkt.74) of its principal, Pastor Edgar E. Boyd, purportedly addressing the above-referenced concerns. The tentative ruling is that Reverend Boyd's declaration does not adequately address how the proposed budget is (or is not) "ordinary course." See generally In re Dant & Russell, Inc., 853 F.2d 700 (9th Cir. 1988). Nor does does Reverend Boyd's declaration adequately project how Debtor will maintain positive cash flow postpetition. The parties should be prepared to address possible remedies.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 7/31/19.

(a) Bar date: 10/25/19 (dkt. 24; timely served, dkt. 26). Exception: Per oral order at 9/24/19 hearing, the bar date for creditors Apex Realty, Inc. and BRG Adams, LLC will be set at the hearing on 11/5/19.

(b) Procedures order: dkt. 2 (timely served, dkt.23).

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD

(d) Continued status conference: 12/17/19 at 2:00 p.m., brief status report due 12/3/19.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(b) Monthly Operating Report, for 9/30/19 ("MOR," dkt.69)

Debtor's MOR raises a number of concerns. First, the first page lists a very large monthly net loss and a large negative ending balance. Second, Debtor's report of postpetition accounts receivable (dkt.69, at PDF p.36) lists aging that exceeds the entire duration of this case: how can that be so? Third, Debtor reports payments of insider compensation, allegedly pursuant to order(s) from 2017 (dkt.69, at PDF p.38) but this case was not filed until 2019. Later the MOR asserts, "Insider compensation forms previously served. No objections." (dkt.69, at PDF p.41) But this Court's review of the docket did not disclose any proof of service of any such notices. Fourth, the MOR reports (dkt.69, at PDF pp.34-35) that Debtor is delinquent in real property taxes and UST fees. In sum, the MOR paints a bleak and internally inconsistent picture.

(c) Remedies?

As set forth in this Court's procedures order (dkt.2), this Court can make case-dispositive rulings at any status conference, among other things. What remedies are appropriate to address the foregoing concerns?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 7/31/19.

(a) Bar date: 10/25/19 (dkt. 24; timely served, dkt. 26). Exception: Per oral order at 9/24/19 hearing, the bar date for creditors Apex Realty, Inc. and BRG Adams, LLC will be set at the hearing on 11/5/19.

(b) Procedures order: dkt.2 (timely served, dkt.23).

Tentative Ruling for 9/24/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Missing status report

As of the time this tentative ruling has been prepared, no status report is on file. Why Not?

(b) Missing budget motion

At the 8/20/19 status conference this Court directed the Debtor to file a budget motion. As of the time this tentative ruling has been prepared, the docket does not reflect that the Debtor has complied. Why not?

(c) Cash collateral

At the 8/20/19 status conference, this Court expressed serious concerns about Debtor's possible use of cash collateral without the consent of its lender. What is the status of the Debtor's negotiations with its lender re cash collateral?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 7/31/19.

(a) Bar date: 10/25/19 (dkt. 24; timely served, dkt. 26).

by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 8/20/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues

(a) Service of order setting principal status conference

This Court's order setting principal status conference (dkt. 2) required Debtor to serve this order on all parties in interest and file a proof of service at least 14 days before the principal status conference. As of the drafting of this tentative ruling, the docket does not reflect such service. Was the order served?

(b) Missing budget motion

Debtor's status report states that Debtor has not yet filed a budget motion but "will do so if necessary." Dkt. 11 at p.3. Per the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at cacb.uscourts.gov), budget motions are required in all Chapter 11 cases.

(c) Cash collateral

Debtor indicates that it will meet and confer with its lender re cash collateral. Dkt. 11 at p.3. What is the status of those negotiations?

Pending lender approval, how has Debtor continued to operate its business since filing? Has Debtor been using cash collateral without authorization? Has Debtor been holding the rent money it has received in a separate account?

(d) Interim arbitration award

Debtor should be prepared to apprise the court of the details surrounding the interim arbitration award, including the nature of the dispute, how Debtor intends to contest the award, and what approach to the award is in the best interests of creditors.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 7/31/19.

Tentative Ruling for 8/20/19:

Appearances required. The tentative ruling is (A) to grant the defendants' motions to dismiss Debtor's Complaint (the "MTDs," adv.no. 2:19-ap-01103-NB), without leave for Debtor to amend his Complaint, (B) to deny Debtor's motion for contempt (the "Contempt Motion," dkt. 197), without leave to amend that motion, and (C) to continue the status conference in this adversary proceeding to 10/29/19 at 2:00 p.m., and set a concurrent status conference in the bankruptcy case itself, with a direction to Debtor to file a brief status report in both proceedings no later than 10/15/19.

(1) Overview

(a) Contentions

The parties' disputes arise from a stipulation gone wrong. See Stip. (dkt. 135, the "Stipulation"), approved by Order (dkt.107). Debtor asserts that the Stipulation had the effect of substituting him in place of the original borrower. Debtor claims that the bearer of the promissory note, Bank of America, N.A. ("BoFA"), and its agents including its loan servicers (with BoFA, "Creditors"), wrongfully refused to communicate with him, refused to accept some payments, and wrongfully foreclosed on his rental property at 12902 Fairford Ave., Norwalk, CA (the "Fairford Property").

Creditors assert that Debtor was never substituted as a new borrower. They dispute that they ever refused to accept any payments.

Alternatively, Creditors argue that, even if there is a factual dispute about whether Debtor tendered some payments, Debtor never alleges in his Complaint that he tendered all payments. In fact, according to Creditors, Debtor failed to make a substantial number of payments - i.e., even if he had been substituted as the borrower under the loan documents he was in default anyway, so the Fairford Property was subject to foreclosure.

(b) Summary of analysis

As set forth below, a fair reading of the Stipulation is that, as Debtor asserts, he was effectively substituted for the original borrower. In effect, the

Chapter 11

Stipulation and the Plan rewrote the terms of the loan and made Debtor the borrower and mortgagor.

But Debtor does not allege in his Complaint or in his opposition to Creditors' MTD that he tendered the (much reduced) payments he promised. So the Fairford Property was subject to foreclosure regardless whether he was or was not recognized as the borrower.

Debtor also complains that the creditors refused to communicate with him, but he has not alleged how any lack of communication caused him any harm, or how a failure to communicate is itself grounds to state some sort of a claim (e.g., some sort of presumptive statutory damages for non-communication).

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's Complaint does not state a claim either based on any allegedly wrongful refusal to accept payments, or for failure to communicate, or for foreclosure. Therefore it appears appropriate to grant the MTDs, and the remaining question is whether to grant leave to amend.

Conceivably Debtor could assert that, if he had only been able to communicate with Creditors, they might have granted him a further loan modification. That might (or might not) state a claim under the Homeowner Bill Of Rights ("HBOA") (Cal.Civ.C. 2923.7) or some other claim.

But any allegation that Debtor was deprived of an opportunity to obtain a further loan modification appears to be implausible, on the record presently before this Court. BofA and Debtor previously stipulated that it had a secured claim of $383,000.00 (Stip., dkt. 105, p.3:22-24), but BofA nevertheless agreed to modify the loan down to $250,000.01 (Disclosure Statement, Ex.H, Endnote 2, at dkt.130-2, PDF p.3), as a result of which Debtor now asserts that he had $200,000 of equity in the Fairford Property (dkt. 197, p.11:13-18). This Court is not aware of any reason why a creditor who is (allegedly) so oversecured would voluntarily agree to write down its debt even further, so it is not apparent how Debtor was harmed by any inability to communicate with Creditors. Therefore, the tentative ruling is to grant the MTDs without leave to amend.

Debtor's Contempt Motion is subject to the same obstacles set forth above: (i) Debtor's apparent lack of harm from refusal to accept partial payments, because he could not afford full payment; and (ii) the lack of apparent harm from non-communication, because he had no plausible ability to obtain a further loan modification.

Chapter 11

Alternatively, the Contempt Motion is subject to a more fundamental flaw: Debtor asserts violation of the discharge injunction, but he never obtained a discharge order. Alternatively, Debtor has not alleged any in personam collection efforts, only in rem, and in rem acts do not violate any discharge injunction.

For each of these alternative reasons, the tentative ruling is to deny the Sanctions Motion without leave to amend.

(2) Procedural history

Two separate proceedings are involved.

(a) The Complaint

On 4/9/19 Debtor filed a Complaint commencing an adversary proceeding (the "Complaint," adv. no. 2:19-ap-01103-NB, adv. dkt. 1). The Complaint seeks damages of not less than $1.5 million (id., p.33:23), based on claims for wrongful foreclosure, intentional and negligent misrepresentation, fraud, violation of the HBOR, violation of the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(a)), etc. The Complaint names as defendants BofA; Fay Servicing, LLC ("Fay"); Wilmington Savings Fund Society, FSB d/b/a Christiana Trust, Not Individually But As Trustee For Hilldale Trust ("Wilmington"); BSI Financial Services, Inc. ("BSI"); and National Default Servicing Corporation ("NatDefault").

Responding to the Complaint, MTDs have been filed by BofA (adv.dkt.8,9) and by Fay, Wilmington and BSI (collectively, the "Fay Parties," adv.dkt.11,13). NatDefault has filed a joinder in the Fay Parties' MTD (adv.dkt.15). Debtor has filed opposition papers (adv.dkt. 24-27), and BofA and Fay have filed replies (adv.dkt. 28, 29).

(b) Contempt Motion

On 6/26/19 Debtor filed a motion for damages pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 105 (the "Contempt Motion," dkt. 197). The Contempt Motion seeks damages of $400,000 in emotional distress damages, $200,000 for loss of equity to the property, $70,000 for improvements to the property, and miscellaneous other damages. Dkt. 197, p.11:13-18. The Contempt Motion alleges that BofA willfully failed to adhere to the terms of the Stipulation, and it asserts that in doing so BofA violated the discharge injunction (11 U.S.C. 524(a)(2), as modified by 11 U.S.C. 1141(d)(5)).

Responding to the Contempt Motion, BofA has filed opposition papers (dkt. 205, 206). So have the Fay Parties (dkt.202-04), on the basis that Debtor "implies that Fay and BSI could be liable for their conduct in servicing the loan and in proceeding with foreclosure." Adv.dkt.202, p.2:20-21. Debtor has filed reply papers (dkt. 208).

(3) Procedural issues

(a) Jurisdiction, and request for abstention

BofA argues that Debtor asserts only State law claims. See BofA MTD (adv.dkt.8) p.1:13-14. The Fay Parties make a similar argument. See Reply-MTD (adv.dkt.28) pp.3:7-4:26. Based on these assertions they question this Bankruptcy Court's jurisdiction and assert that this Court should abstain.

Those arguments are not persuasive. First, technically, Debtor's Complaint (adv.dkt.1) asserts a claim for violation of the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(a)), and Debtors' Contempt Motion (main case, dkt. 197) asserts a violation of the discharge injunction (11 U.S.C. 524), and those are claims arise under the Bankruptcy Code. True, this Court's tentative ruling is that neither claim has merit, but until this Court reaches the merits those claims do create "arising under" jurisdiction. 28 U.S.C. 1334.

More importantly, the remaining claims asserted by Debtors are founded on the Stipulation and, at least implicitly, Debtors' chapter 11 plan (the "Plan," dkt.129) and this Court's orders approving the Stipulation (dkt.107) and confirming the Plan (the "Confirmation Order," dkt.151). The effect of all of those things (according to Debtors, and this tentative ruling) was to restructure Debtor's relationship with BofA and substituting Debtor in place of the original borrower.

The Stipulation, the Plan, and this Court's orders all arose in this bankruptcy case, and this Court is in the best position to interpret the Stipulation, the Plan, and this Court's own orders based on the facts and circumstances of this bankruptcy case. In addition, the Plan provides that (with inapplicable exceptions) this Court retains post-confirmation jurisdiction over a wide range of proceedings, including "sanctions" and "the implementation, interpretation, or enforcement of this Plan" See Plan, dkt.129, p.6, Article V, Part. F.

For all of these reasons the tentative ruling is that this Court has jurisdiction, and that abstention would be inappropriate. See 28 U.S.C. 1334 and In re Tucson Estates, Inc., 912 F.2d 1162, 1166 (9th Cir.1990); In re Plumberex Specialty Prods., Inc., 311 B.R. 551, 559-60 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2004); In re Landmark Fence Co., Inc., 2011 WL 6826253 at *4 (C.D. Cal.

Chapter 11

Dec. 9, 2011).

(b) Whether the Contempt Motion should have been filed in the adversary proceeding instead of the bankruptcy case

In general, civil contempt must be sought by a contested matter rather than an adversary proceeding. See Barrientos v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., 633 F.3d 1186, 1190-91 (9th Cir. 2011). But in this instance the Contempt Motion, which was filed in the main case (albeit with the double-caption of an adversary proceeding) arises from the same nucleus of operative facts as the Complaint, and in addition the Contempt Motion was filed after the Complaint, so perhaps Debtors' claim about violation of the discharge injunction and request for sanctions should have been included in the adversary proceeding, either as one of Debtor's claims or perhaps as a separate motion. But the tentative ruling is not to address this issue: it has not been briefed, and the tentative ruling is that this Court need not decide this issue sua sponte. See In re Nash, 464 B.R. 874, 879 (9th Cir. BAP 2012) (harmless error to use wrong proceeding).

(4) Merits of the MTDs and the Complaint

(a) Interpretation of the Stipulation, and related documents

The stipulation (dkt. 197, Ex.C, at PDF pp.22-28) reads like an agreement to treat Debtor as the substituted borrower. It obligates Debtor to make payments on BofA's secured claim in a specified dollar amount each month, at a specified interest rate, and provides that BofA will retain its security interest "until the secured claim is paid in full per the terms of the Note and Deed of Trust as modified by this Stipulation." Id. para.4. Why would Debtor and BofA agree to these things unless they intended to treat Debtor as the new mortgagor?

Even more telling, the remaining portion of BofA's claim is treated as an unsecured claim against Debtor (id., para. 7) - in other words, Debtor is treated as having personal liability on the debt. Why would BofA and Debtor so stipulate unless Debtor had been substituted for the original borrower under the promissory note?

The Stipulation is incorporated into the Plan and the Confirmation Order. The latter states that "Class 2B creditor, Bank of America, N.A. ("B of A"), shall be entitled to immediate relief from the automatic stay and the claim shall be treated consistent with the Stipulation between Debtor and B of A (Docket No. 105), approved by Order of the Court (Docket No. 107)."

Chapter 11

Confirmation Order (dkt.151), p.2:18-21 (emphasis added).

For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that Debtor's interpretation of the Stipulation is correct. Debtor should have been recognized by BofA as having been substituted for the original borrower, and, at least once this was pointed out to BofA, it should have corroborated that fact to the other Creditors.

The question is whether Debtor has asserted any cognizable claims based on Creditors' refusal to recognize him as the borrower. The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not stated any such claims.

(b) Debtor's allegations: not accepting payments; not communicating; and foreclosing

Debtor asserts a failure to accept some payments. See, e.g., Complaint (adv.dkt.1) para.113, at p.23:21-26. Creditors dispute this, and also assert that Debtor never tendered enough to cure the defaults. Debtor's allegations in the Complaint never say otherwise. BofA cites authority that this is fatal to Debtor's claims for wrongful foreclosure. See BofA MTD (adv.dkt.8), pp.8:17-9:11.

Debtor also cite no authority that there is any duty to accept partial payments. Nor does Debtor explain how, even if there was such a duty, he was damaged by the refusal to accept partial payments. If he could not afford to make full payments, he was subject to foreclosure, and therefore if he was prevented from making partial payments it appears that he was only prevented from throwing good money after bad.

The Complaint alleges a failure to communicate with Debtor, but most of Debtor's claims do not assert any duty to communicate with him. An exception is the 6th claim for relief (adv.dkt.1, p.20:12 et seq) asserts violation of the HBOR (Cal.Civ.C. 2923.7) which does appear to establish a duty to communicate with the borrower (through a single point of contact). But, again, it is unclear how Debtor suffered any harm from any lack of communication.

To the contrary it appears that lenders have no duty to offer, consider, or approve loan modifications. See, e.g., Sheen v. Wells Fargo Bank, NA, ___ Cal.App.5th ___ (2d Div. 8/5/2019).

The Complaint's eighth claim for relief (adv.dkt.1, p.25:3 et seq.) alleges fraud in inducing Debtor to enter into the Stipulation if, despite making payments, Debtor would be subject to foreclosure. There appear to be grounds for that assertion but, again, Debtor has not established any harm from Creditors' failure to recognize him as successor to the original borrower pursuant to the Stipulation, because he has not asserted that he tendered the full monthly payments.

As set forth in the Overview (part "(1)" of this tentative ruling) the bottom line is that the Complaint does not appear to state any claims on which relief may be granted. Nor is it apparent how Debtor could amend the Complaint to state a viable claim.

(5) Merits of the Contempt Motion

Debtor seeks a determination that Creditors are in contempt of court for violation of the discharge injunction, and Debtor seeks compensatory damages, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 105(a). See Contempt Motion (dkt. 197), p.8:22-24 (asserting violation of "an order issued by this Court - i.e., the Discharge Order"). See also, e.g., In re Dyer, 322 F.3d 1178, 1190 (9th Cir. 2003). Debtor has the burden to establish, by clear and convincing evidence, that Creditors violated a specific and definite order of this Court, including a "deemed" order such as the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362) or the discharge injunction (11 U.S.C. 524). See id. and FTC v. Affordable Media, LLC, 179 F.3d 1228, 1239 (9th Cir. 1999).

(a) Debtor has not established that he ever received a discharge

Debtor has not established any violation of a discharge injunction because, under 11 U.S.C. 1141(d)(5), an individual debtor is not discharged "until the court grants a discharge on completion of all payments under the plan," unless the court orders otherwise for cause after notice and a hearing. Nothing in the Plan or the Confirmation Order suggests otherwise. See Plan (dkt.129), Article IV.A. (discharge is per section 1141(d)); Confirmation Order (dkt. 151) (all terms and conditions of Plan are incorporated into order).

For this reason, this Court's local forms permit a chapter 11 case to be closed on an interim basis and reopened later "so that a motion for entry of discharge ... may be filed and resolved." See dkt. 170, p.3, para.3.b. The docket does not reflect any motion for entry of a discharge, and the 60 month term of the Plan has yet to run, so apparently he is not yet eligible for a discharge. Accordingly, there could be no violation of any discharge injunction.

(b) The discharge injunction only prohibits in personam collection, and Debtor only alleges in rem acts

The discharge injunction in section 524 states:

Chapter 11

(a) A discharge under this title --

(2) operates as an injunction against the commencement or continuation of an action, the employment of process, or any act, to collect, recover or offset any [discharged] debt as a personal liability of the debtor, whether or not discharge of such debt is waived [11 U.S.C. 524(a)(2) (emphasis added)]

Because the discharge injunction only prohibits efforts to collect debts as a personal liability of the debtor, "secured creditors can foreclose their liens after the discharge is entered." In re Marino, 577 B.R. 772, 783-84 (9th Cir. BAP 2017) (citations and internal quotation marks omitted)).

Debtor does not allege any in personam collection efforts. He asserts wrongful foreclosure, but foreclosure is an in rem act. Therefore, even if the discharge injunction applied (which it does not), Debtor's allegations would not establish any violation of that injunction.

(6) Conclusion

For all of the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is to grant the Creditors' MTDs, dismiss the Complaint without leave to amend, and deny Debtor's Contempt Motion without leave to amend. The tentative ruling is to continue the status conferences so that the parties have time to consider what they will do next, and so that this Court can address any ancillary matters that may be presented.

Tentative Ruling for 7/30/19:

Continue to 8/20/19 at 2:00 p.m. (1) in view of the notice of unavailability of Plaintiff/Debtor's counsel (adv. dkt. 20) and (2) to be concurrent with the pending motions to dismiss (adv. dkt. 8, 11, 15). Appearances are not required on 7/30/19.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Docket 22

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings."
