Appearances required. The court has reviewed the parties' filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The parties must address (a) why they failed to file the required status report, (b) why the motions for joint administration/consolidation of the two closely related adversary proceedings have not been prosecuted, and (c) the following issues. The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences.

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. (2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this court should not formalize the fact that the pending mediation includes this adversary proceeding by issuing an order to mediate this matter together with related adversary proceeding (2:17-ap-01229-NB)? The tentative ruling is to direct counsel for the defendants to lodge a proposed order to that effect.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/21/19:

Appearances are not required on 5/21/19. The tentative ruling is to continue the hearings in these related adversary proceedings (calendar no. 13 & 14, 5/21/19) to the date of the continued status conference (see below).

(1) Current issues

The tentative ruling on the Motion to Compel (dkt. 104) and the Order to Show Cause ("OSC," dkt. 107) is to continue these matters as requested in the response of Aston Business Solutions, Inc. (dkt. 110, 111). This Court contemplates that the deadlines for completion of discovery and other matters will need to be extended, and the parties are directed to meet and confer and, if they can agree to new deadlines, lodge a proposed order. If they cannot agree, this Court anticipates setting new deadlines at the continued status conference.

(2) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

Matters of venue, jurisdiction, and authority have been determined and/or waived or forfeited (adv. dkt. 6, 11, 24).

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 4/7/17.

Discovery cutoff (for completion of discovery): 6/15/19 (adv. dkt. 90).

Expert(s) - deadline for reports: 6/28/19 (adv. dkt. 90).

Expert(s) - deadline for rebuttal reports: 7/26/19 (adv. dkt. 90).

Dispositive motions shall be filed no later than: 8/22/19 (adv. dkt. 90).

Tentative Ruling for 4/30/19:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 4/30/19.

This Court has reviewed the latest filed documents in this adversary proceeding and is not aware of issues that would warrant a status conference at this time.

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

Matters of venue, jurisdiction, and authority have been determined and/or waived or forfeited (adv. dkt. 6, 11, 24).

Supplemental Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

The original tentative ruling (below) provides two inconsistent dates for a continued status conference: 4/30/19 at 11:00 a.m., 4/7/19 at 11:00 a.m. The latter [should be "former"] is correct. No status report required.

Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

Chapter 7

The tentative ruling is that the motion to quash (adv. dkt. 84) by Aston Business Solutions, Inc. ("ABS") is unpersuasive, except perhaps for limitations as to time, which the parties are directed to address at the hearing.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(A) Analysis re motion to quash

ABS asserts only vague objections:

(1) Competitors?

ABS asserts that it and Plaintiff are competitors. How so?

The motion does not even disclose ABS' business. Is it a timeshare owner? Is it a timeshare operator? Is it something else? (As noted below, this Court expects that it has gleaned the answer from other documents, but the tentative ruling is that this lack of even such basic information in the motion is fatal to this argument.)

(2) Protected information?

ABS alleges that some sort of trade secrets or other confidential, privileged, or other type of protected information is involved. What sort of information? Why would a traditional privilege log and other tools be inadequate?

ABS complains that parties in interest in this bankruptcy case have shared information. But ABS fails to point to any prohibition on sharing information.

(3) Burden?

ABS alleges that the requested discovery is unduly burdensome. How so? Is it stored in thousands of boxes of paper files that are difficult to reach and review for some reason?

(4) Vagueness and overbreadth?

ABS alleges that the discovery requests are vague and overbroad. How so? ABS fails to provide any explanation or evidence to support this allegations.

(5) Discussion

Based on a question (not an answer) in excerpts from the deposition of ABS' President and shareholder, Glenn Chaffin, ABS may be a marketing company for "timeshare exit companies." Adv. dkt. 84, Ex.1 (Depo. Tr.

1/24/19), p.95:22-23. But how does that make ABS a "competitor" of Plaintiff, with information that would constitute trade secrets, as opposed to a facilitator of (possibly) legitimate ways to exit timeshares, who sends out non-secret flyers and other publicly known marketing materials, and assists timeshare members in navigating contracts that are known to all the parties?

Such a facilitator theoretically could benefit Plaintiff, by replacing non-paying or troubled members with paying ones - unless, of course, ABS engages in acts that improperly interfere with contractual relations or otherwise assists in the wrongdoing of which Plaintiff accuses Defendants. Plaintiff's discovery appears to be targeted at discovering information that could lead to admissible evidence on this and other relevant issues. Accordingly, the discovery appears to be entirely proper and appropriate, with the possible exception of the movant's request to impose some limitations as to time, which the parties are directed to address at the hearing.

(B) Adversary proceeding status conference issues

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

Matters of venue, jurisdiction, and authority have been determined and/or waived or forfeited (adv. dkt. 6, 11, 24).

(2) Deadlines

Tentative Ruling for 6/12/18:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues.

(a) Amended Joint Plan/Amended Joint Disclosure Statement (dkt. 175, 176).

These documents, and the supporting declaration of Yuichiro Sakurai (dkt. 177), appear to be identical to the documents filed in the related bankruptcy case of debtors Yuichiro and Akemi Sakurai (the "Sakurais"). See Sakurai BK dkt. 186, 187, 188. Counsel are directed to alert this Court and the parties at the hearing if they are not.

For the tentative ruling regarding these documents, see the tentative ruling for the status conference in the Sakurais' bankruptcy case (calendar no. 4, 6/12/18 at 2:00 p.m.).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 10/16/17.

(a) Bar date: 1/17/18 (order timely served. dkt. 63, 69)

(b) Amended Joint Plan/Amended Joint Disclosure Statement* (dkt. 175, 176): At the status conference this Court will discuss appropriate deadlines.

(c) Continued status conference: 8/7/18 at 2:00 p.m. Brief written status report due 7/24/18.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Tentative Ruling for 5/8/18:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues.

(a) Joint Plan/Joint Disclosure Statement (dkt. 165, 166).

These documents, and the supporting declaration of Yuichiro Sakurai (dkt. 167). are substantially identical to the documents filed in the related bankruptcy case of debtors Yuichiro and Akemi Sakurai (the "Sakurais"). See Sakurai BK dkt. 176, 177, 178. For the tentative ruling regarding these documents, see the tentative ruling for the status conference in the Sakurais' bankruptcy case (calendar no. 2, 5/8/18 at 2:00 p.m.).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 10/16/17.

(a) Bar date: 1/17/18 (order timely served. dkt. 63, 69)

(b) Joint Plan/Disclosure Statement* (dkt. 166, 167): The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 5/22/18 to file (NOT SERVE - except on the U.S. Trustee) an amended joint plan and amended joint disclosure statement to address the foregoing issues.

(c) Continued status conference: 6/12/18 at 2:00 p.m. No status report required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion for Relief from Stay (dkt. 57). In light of the proposed settlement with the Fresco Parties, the tentative ruling is to continue the hearing to be concurrent with the continued status conference (see below).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement. The tentative ruling is to conduct a combined hearing on the adequacy of the (forthcoming) disclosure statement and confirmation of the (forthcoming) plan to be concurrent with the continued status conference (see below).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 10/16/17.

(b) Cash collateral & budget motions & stipulation (Sakurai dkt. 119, 122; Checkmate dkt. 114, 118, 119). Grant the cash collateral motion in the Sakurai case, subject to the same replacement liens and other terms and conditions as this Court's prior approvals of the use of cash collateral (see Sakurai case dkt. 43, 57); grant the budget motion in the Sakurai case; and approve the cash collateral stipulation in the Checkmate case on a final basis.

(d) Removed action (Adv. no. 2:17-ap-01558-NB), motions for stay and for remand (adv. dkt. 8, 10, 12, 13). The tentative ruling is that the motion for a stay pending determination by the District Court of the debtors' motion to withdraw the reference is moot, because the District Court has dismissed that motion. There is no tentative ruling on the motion to remand.

Revised Tentative Ruling for 11/14/17:

Appearances required by the debtor's principals and debtor's counsel.

Proposed orders: The debtor is directed to serve and lodge proposed orders on each motion listed below via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date.

(1) Current issues

(a) Status Report (dkt. 37): The status report states that the debtor has no executory contracts. What about all the contracts with Radiology Solutions Inc./Corp. (whichever name is correct)?

(b) Cash collateral motion (dkt.9): The debtor reports (dkt. 53, p.3) that it has reached a stipulation with Community Bank regarding the use of cash collateral, but as of the preparation of this tentative ruling no such stipulation appears on the docket. If there is no such stipulation, or if it does not moot the bank's opposition (dkt. 50), then the parties should be prepared to address the merits of that opposition. In addition, the parties should be prepared to address the objection of the Fresco parties (dkt. 49) and the debtor's response (dkt. 53).

(c) Payroll motion (dkt. 6). The tentative ruling is to grant this motion on a final basis.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 10/16/17.

(a) Bar date: 1/17/18

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: file by 4/16/18 using the forms required by Judge Bason (DO NOT SERVE yet, except on the U.S. Trustee - the court will set a deadline and procedures at a later time).

Tentative Ruling for 10/26/17:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor.

(1) Current issues

(a) Proof of service (dkt. 28). Service appears to be in compliance with this court's orders shortening time, except that no addresses are listed. The following tentative rulings are contingent on filing a corrected proof of service, no later than the day after this hearing, listing those addresses.

(b) Cash collateral motion (dkt. 9). Subject to any opposition at the hearing, the tentative ruling is to grant this motion on the terms set forth in the separate tentative ruling on that motion.

(c) Payroll motion (dkt. 6). Subject to any opposition at the hearing, the tentative ruling is to grant this motion. Proposed order: Movant is directed to serve and lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 10/16/17.

Please see the tentative ruling for the Sakurai status conference (calendar no. 6, 8/14/18 at 2:00 p.m.).

Tentative Ruling for 7/10/18 (same as for 6/19/18):

Please see the tentative ruling for the Sakurai status conference (calendar no. 2, 7/10/18 at 2:00 p.m.).

Tentative Ruling for 6/12/18:

Appearances required.

(1) Current Issues.

(a) Joint Status Report and Notice of Continuances. This Court's 5/8/18 tentative ruling (see below) was not opposed, so it became this Court's actual ruling.

This Court directed (i) Checkmate to file and serve a notice of continuances attaching and incorporating by reference the deadlines in that tentative ruling by 5/7/18, and (ii) the parties to file a brief joint status report by 5/29/18. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, none of the parties have complied. The parties are cautioned that failure to abide by applicable deadlines in future may result in adverse consequences.

(b) Motion for TRO & Claim and Delivery (adv. dkt. 10).

Plaintiff/debtor Checkmate King Co., Ltd. ("Checkmate") has filed a stipulation (adv. dkt. 30) with defendants Radiology Solutions Corp. ("RS") and George Fower ("Fower") for turnover of equipment. But Checkmate has not provided any evidence that it has relief from the automatic stay and consent of the Chapter 7 Trustee in the RS and Fower bankruptcy cases for such turnover (Case Nos. 8:18-bk-10585-TA and 8:18-bk-10583-TA). The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 6/19/18 for Checkmate to file a declaration attaching evidence sufficient to establish those things, and lodge a revised proposed order to approve the stipulation.

(2) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 3/6/18. It is premature to set a discovery cutoff and other deadlines at this time. Continue to 7/17/18 at 2:00 p.m., brief joint status report due 7/3/18.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 5/8/18:

The tentative ruling is to continue all pending matters in this adversary proceeding to 6/12/18 at 2:00 p.m. for the reason stated below, with a brief joint status report due 5/29/18, and with a deadline of 5/7/18 for the plaintiff to file and serve a notice of continuances attaching and incorporating by reference the deadlines in this tentative ruling (assuming that this Court is not persuaded to depart from this tentative ruling). Appearances are not required on 5/8/18.

(1) Current Issues. This Court has reviewed the parties' status reports (adv. dkt. 24 & 26) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(a) Motion for TRO & Claim and Delivery (adv. dkt. 10). At the 4/9/18 hearing on this motion, counsel for plaintiff/debtor Checkmate King Co., Ltd. ("Checkmate") apprised this Court of the bankruptcy filings of defendants Radiology Solutions Corp. ("RS") and George Fower ("Fower") (Case Nos. 8:18-bk-10585-TA and 8:18-bk-10583-TA) and requested a continuance of this hearing to allow time to obtain orders granting relief from stay with annulment. In the Joint status report (adv. dkt. 24), Checkmate states that the hearings on the relief from stay motions are scheduled for 5/15/18.

Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to continue this motion to the date and time set forth at the start of this tentative ruling.

(b) Siemens Motion to Dismiss (adv. dkt. 27, the "MTD"). Defendant Siemens Medical Solutions USA, Inc. ("Siemens") has properly self-calendared its MTD for 6/12/18 at 11:00 a.m. Siemens anticipates that it may be voluntarily dismissed by plaintiff (see adv. dkt. 24), but if that does not occur then this Court anticipates that the MTD may take 15 minutes or more to hear. This Court's practice is that matters anticipated to take 15 minutes or more are heard on the 2:00 p.m. calendar (not available for self-calendaring, except by permission of this Court). Therefore the tentative ruling is to re-calendar the MTD from 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m., which is concurrent with the other matters in this adversary proceeding that are on today's calendar.

(2) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 3/6/18. It is premature to set a discovery cutoff and other deadlines at this time.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/28/19:

Appearances are not required on 5/21/19.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion re Insurance Financing (dkt. 839)

Debtor's declaration of service (dkt. 844) is insufficient. The declarant states that "All parties on the Court-approved short service list and the United States Trustee [were] served by U.S. mail" (id., p.2, para.3) but there is no attached "short service list" with addresses (as required by both the rules and the mandatory form of proof of service, see id., p.3, para.2). The tentative ruling is to grant the motion contingent on filing an amended declaration of service that includes the missing list.

(2) Deadlines/dates.

This case was filed on 3/6/18.

(a) Bar date: 8/24/18 (dkt. 367, timely served per dkt. 383)

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD.

(c) Continued status conference: 6/18/19 at 2:00 p.m. No written status report required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 5/21/19:

Continue as set forth below (to be concurrent with Debtor's premium financing motion (dkt. 839, 841)). This Court anticipates further continuing this status conference at a later date, per Debtor's request in the status report (dkt. 836). Appearances are not required on 5/21/19.

(1) Current issues.

This Court has reviewed the latest filed documents, and is not aware of any issues that would warrant a status conference at this time.

(2) Deadlines/dates.

This case was filed on 3/6/18.

(a) Bar date: 8/24/18 (dkt. 367, timely served per dkt. 383)

In addition, the parties are directed to address the deadline(s) and procedures for any objections by the Presbytery, given the short time between the proposed auction date (6/25/19), any filing of evidence of assurance of future performance, and the proposed sale hearing date (7/2/19). See dkt. 815, p.9, n.4.

In addition, the proposed notice (dkt.815, Ex.2) must specify that the hearing time is 2:00 p.m. (on 7/2/19). See id., p.74, section VIII (entitled "Sale Hearing"). In addition, the proposed notice should be amended to clarify that any Backup Bid will be not just the "next highest" but the "next highest and best" bid after the Successful Bid (as determined by the Agent after consultation with Debtor and confirmation by this Court).

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Chapter 13

#12.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [PP]

AUTO FINANCIAL SERVICES, INC
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 15

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

Current issues:

(1) Motion for relief from stay (dkt. 15)

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address (a) whether the movant is adequately protected by the current insurance (dkt. 20, Ex.A to Shevitz Decl., last page) and the pre-confirmation adequate protection payments included in Debtor's proposed chapter 13 plan; and/or (b) whether they will agree to the terms of an adequate protection order (see the debtor's response, dkt. 20).

(2) Evidentiary objections to supplemental declaration of Marianna Demirchian ("Evidentiary Objections," dkt. 21)

The tentative ruling is to sustain the objection to dkt. 15, at PDF p. 20, paras. 5&6, insofar as the declarant asserts (a) that the cancellation of the insurance was intentional and (b) that Debtor threatened violence against the repossession agent (and the details of that encounter) (but see below). Those statements are hearsay per Rule 802 (Fed. Rul. Evid., "FRE") and the declarant does not have personal knowledge of the facts alleged per FRE 602.

The tentative ruling is to overrule the objection to the extent, if any, that it disputes that the insurance was in fact canceled. That is admissible because the declarant has authenticated, as a business record, the printout from the insurance carrier (which is a business record on which the declarant's business relies and therefore is admissible). See MRT Constr. Inc. v. Hardrives, Inc., 158 F.3d 478, 483 (9th Cir. 1998) ("records a business receives from others are admissible under [FRE 803(6)] when those records are kept in the regular course of that business, relied upon by that business, and where that business has a substantial interest in the accuracy of the records.").

Despite the foregoing, Movant has provided evidence (the repossession agent's declaration, dkt. 22) of Debtor's alleged threats to the repossession agent, and the other circumstances of the repossession. The tentative ruling is that these statements are admissible.

(3) Turnover of vehicle

Debtor's response to the R/S Motion suggests that Movant is required to turn over the vehicle and that failure to do so constitutes a violation of the automatic stay. First, that issue has not been briefed and is not squarely presented because Debtor has not filed any motion for turnover and/or for remedies for the purported violation of the automatic stay.

Second, to the extent that issue might be relevant in addressing the R/S Motion, this Court is not persuaded on the present record that there is any turnover obligation or violation of the automatic stay, unless and until this Court makes a ruling that the Movant will be adequately protected if it is required to turn over the vehicle. See In re Hayden, 308 B.R. 428 (9th Cir. BAP 2004)

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply, for three alternative reasons

(1) The stay expired after 30 days

Grant the motion under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3) and (j): there is no automatic stay because (a) Debtor's prior case (#2:19-bk-12412-VZ) was dismissed (on 3/26/19) within one year before this case was filed (on 4/15/19), (b) that dismissal was not under 11 U.S.C. 707(b), and (c) no finding of good faith was timely sought and obtained. The automatic stay has terminated both as to Debtor in personam and as to property of Debtor. See In re Hernandez & Jiminez, Case No. 2:11-bk-53730-NB, Dkt 40.

(2) Debtor did not satisfy section 362(b)(22) & (l)

The movant obtained a prepetition unlawful detainer judgment, and Debtor has not satisfied the statutory requirements to remain in possession. See 11 U.S.C. 362(b)(22) and (l).

(3) Debtor has no cognizable interest in the property

The movant obtained a prepetition eviction judgment and writ of possession. See In re Perl, 811 F.3d 1120, 1127-28 (9th Cir. 2016) ("We conclude that under California law, entry of judgment and a writ of possession following unlawful detainer proceedings extinguishes all other legal and equitable possessory interests in the real property at issue.").

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1), (d)(2) and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Retroactive relief

Grant the request for retroactive annulment of the stay. See In re Fjeldsted, 293 B.R. 12 (9th Cir. BAP 2003).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Cont'd hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]
fr. 05/21/19

US BANKRUPTCY TRUST
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 32

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/4/19:

Grant in part, as to relief from the automatic stay in this case, and deny in part, as to any "in rem" relief, for lack of prosecution: as of the preparation of this tentative ruling, the docket does not reflect that Movant has cured the deficiency noted in this Court's tentative ruling for 5/21/19 (reproduced below). Appearances are not required on 6/4/19.

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay.
See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

Option for partial order: Movant may elect to lodge a proposed order granting the partial relief provided in this tentative ruling.

Reasons:

(1) Service.

The motion papers were not served on the original borrower (dkt. 32 at PDF p. 54) as required under Local Bankruptcy Rule 4001-1(c)(1).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 5/21/19

Grant in part, continue in part to 6/4/19 at 10:00 a.m. to address the following issues. Appearances are not required on 5/21/19.

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

Option for interim/partial order: Movant may elect to lodge a proposed order granting the partial relief provided in this tentative ruling, but any such order must recite that a continued hearing has been set to consider additional relief (or, alternatively, that the movant no longer seeks additional relief and the Clerk's office is requested and directed to take the continued hearing off calendar).

Reasons:

(1) Service.

The motion papers were not served on the original borrower (dkt. 32 at PDF p. 54) as required under Local Bankruptcy Rule 4001-1(c)(1).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Docket 39

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below, subject to any opposition (due 5/31/19, which is after the time this tentative ruling has been prepared). See Order Shortening Time ("OST," dkt. 36). Appearances required if an opposition is filed; but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(1) Limited relief. Modify and condition the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) such that the movant may proceed in the nonbankruptcy forum to final judgment (including any appeals) in accordance with applicable nonbankruptcy law, subject to the following limitations (Judge Bason's standard limitations).

(a) No enforcement against property of the bankruptcy estate. The stay remains in effect with respect to enforcement of any judgment against property of the debtor's bankruptcy estate - any such property shall be distributed when and how provided by the Bankruptcy Code. Nevertheless, the movant is permitted to enforce its final judgment by (i) collecting upon any available insurance in accordance with applicable nonbankruptcy law or (ii) proceeding against the debtor as to any property that is not property of this bankruptcy estate. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 362(b)(2)(B) & 541(b)(7) (collection of domestic support obligations from ERISA qualified retirement plans).

(b) Claim allowance, priority, and discharge issues. Any claims arising from the nonbankruptcy litigation are subject to this Bankruptcy Court's jurisdiction regarding claim allowance and priority, and the existence and scope of any bankruptcy discharge.

(c) No relief in other bankruptcy cases. To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

This Bankruptcy Court emphasizes that it does not seek in any way to impinge on the authority of the Nonbankruptcy Courts presiding over the nonbankruptcy action. Rather, this Bankruptcy Court takes seriously its obligations, as a subordinate unit of the District Court, to manage this bankruptcy case. Those obligations including taking into consideration the interests of creditors (who are not parties to the underlying nonbankruptcy litigation), and preserving the bankruptcy estate by placing limits on any relief from the automatic stay that Congress has mandated (11 U.S.C. 362(a) & (d)).

Additional analysis:

The Bankruptcy Court "shall grant relief from the stay" upon a showing of "cause." 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1). Such relief need not take the form of a complete termination of the automatic stay, but instead may include "modifying or conditioning such stay." Id.

"Cause" is determined on a case-by-case basis." In re Tucson Estates, Inc., 912 F.2d 1162, 1166 (9th Cir.1990). In determining whether "cause" exists to grant relief from the automatic stay to allow a movant to pursue litigation in a non-bankruptcy forum, courts in the Ninth Circuit have examined the factors set forth in In re Curtis, 40 B.R. 795, 799–800 (Bankr. D. Utah 1984). See In re Kronemeyer, 405 B.R. 915 (9th Cir. BAP 2009); In re Plumberex Specialty Prods., Inc., 311 B.R. 551, 559–60 (Bankr. C.D. Cal.2004). Those factors are: (1) Whether the relief will result in a partial or complete resolution of the issues; (2) The lack of any connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case; (3) Whether the foreign proceeding involves the debtor as a fiduciary; (4) Whether a specialized tribunal has been established to hear the particular cause of action and whether that tribunal has the expertise to hear such cases; (5) Whether the debtor's insurance carrier has assumed full financial responsibility for defending the litigation; (6) Whether the action essentially involves third parties, and the debtor functions only as a bailee or conduit for the goods or proceeds in question; (7) Whether the litigation in another forum would prejudice the interests of other creditors, the creditors' committee and other interested parties; (8) Whether the judgment claim arising from the foreign action is subject to equitable subordination under Section 510(c); (9) Whether movant's success in the foreign proceeding would result in a judicial lien avoidable by the debtor under Section 522(f); (10) The interests of judicial economy and the expeditious and economical determination of litigation for the parties; (11) Whether the foreign proceedings have progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial; and (12) The impact of the stay on the parties and the "balance of hurt." Plumberex, 311 B.R. at 559. "[W]hile the Curtis factors are widely used to determine the existence of 'cause,' not all of the factors are relevant in every case, nor is a court required to give each factor equal weight." In re Landmark Fence Co., Inc., 2011 WL 6826253 at *4 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 9, 2011).

The tentative ruling is that these factors, and the other facts and circumstances, weigh in favor of granting relief as set forth above. Most significantly, Debtor is the party seeking relief from the automatic stay; Debtor is appealing the attorney's fees award, which is a matter of state law over which this Federal Court has no power to exercise appellate review; and it appears that resolution of the disputed issues in the State Courts is appropriate in the interests of judicial economy, the expeditious and economical determination of litigation for the parties, and comity.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Adv#: 2:19-01089 Rossil v. Moreno

#1.00 Status Conference re: Complaint for a Determination of the Validity, Priority or Extent of Liens and Security Interests

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required. This Court has reviewed the filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The parties have failed to file a Joint Status Report as of the time of this tentative ruling.

Preliminary Issues

(1) No Status Report

The parties have not filed a Joint Status Report. Why not?

(2) Failure to Join Indispensible Party

Based on Plaintiff's Complaint, Plaintiff jointly owns the property with his mother, Judith J. Rossil, and they are both jointly liable on the loan in question. Adv. dkt. 1. Ms. Rossil appears to be a required party because she "claims an interest relating to the subject of the action" and "disposing of the action may as a practical matter impair or impede [her] ability to protect the interest." Fed. R. Civ. P. 19(a)(1)(B). Required parties must be joined to the action. Fed. R. Civ. P. 19(a)(1). The parties should be prepared to address why this case should not be dismissed for failure to join a required party. Fed. R. Civ. P. 19(a)(1).

(3) Default

Presuming that Plaintiff's case survives any procedural concerns, Defendant has not filed an answer in this case. Debtor would need to request an entry of default and then file a motion for default judgment. The tentative ruling is that any default judgment will require a prove-up motion per Rule 55(b)(2) (Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Rule 7055, Fed. R. Bankr. P.). See, e.g., In re Beltran, 182 B.R. 820 (9th Cir. BAP 1995). This Court anticipates that any such motion must be accompanied by an authenticated copy of the closing statement for the subject loan, showing the distribution of all funds.

Providing only a bank statement allegedly reflecting receipt of net proceeds, as Plaintiff/Debtor has done, is not enough. That ignores transaction costs and any transfers out of escrow to other persons.

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences.

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 6/18/19 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 3/27/19. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/4/19:

Appearances are not required on 6/4/19.

(1) Motion for Default Judgment (dkt. 8)

(a) A default judgment appears to be appropriate

The tentative ruling is to grant the Motion for Default Judgment based on Defendant's consistent failure to properly appear in this case. Although a trial on the merits is favored over a default judgment, it appears that entering a default judgment is appropriate in these circumstances. Fed. R. Civ. P. 55(b)(2).

First, despite this Court's oral rulings requiring mediation (as contemplated in the tentative rulings for 3/5/19 and 5/7/19, reproduced below), Defendant has failed to attend mediation or seek relief from those orders. Second, despite the fact that the Clerk of this Court has entered a default against Defendant (adv. dkt. 5), he has not filed any motion for relief from such default. Instead he has filed a (late) answer (dkt. 6) that appears to be nothing but a generic denial of everything and assertion of boilerplate, generic defenses. Third, Defendant's lack of any meaningful participation in this adversary proceeding is prejudicial. Plaintiff has incurred all the post-judgment attorney fees and costs of this nondischargeability action, while Defendant is incurring far fewer fees and costs by barely participating in this litigation.

(b) Nature of default judgment

Because there is a prepetition state court judgment of $11,622.46, it is not appropriate for this Bankruptcy Court to issue a new award of such damages. Rather, it appears that the proper course is for this Bankruptcy Court to issue a declaratory judgment that the State Court judgment is non-dischargeable as to Defendant under 11 U.S.C. 523(a)(2)(A) and 523(a)(2) (B). In addition, Plaintiff is entitled to ongoing pre- and postpetition interest on the State Court judgment, at the post-judgment interest at the California rate of 10% per annum based on Cal. Civ. P. Code 685.010(a). In re Hamilton, 584 B.R. 310, 323-24 (9th Cir. BAP 2018). Additionally, the tentative ruling is to award Plaintiff $1,297.34 in attorney's fees, plus $350.00 in the cost of suit. See LBR 7055-1(b)(4).

Tentative Ruling for 5/7/19:

(1) Mediation: This Court ordered the parties file a mediation order by 3/19/19. Based on Plaintiff's Status Report (dkt. 12), it appears Defendant and his counsel have not cooperated in scheduling a mediation. The parties should be prepared to address whether this Court should enter an Order to Show Cause as to why Defendant and his counsel are not in contempt for failing to abide with this Court's mandatory mediation order. In addition, or in the alternative, should Plaintiff and this Court proceed to address a default judgment?

Tentative Ruling for 3/5/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

Preliminary matters:

(1) No status report

The parties have failed to file any joint status report. Why not?

(2) Stay all proceedings pending mediation

This Court has reviewed the filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. This Court notes that a Default was entered in this case on 2/7/19 (dkt. 5); Defendant/Debtor then filed an answer on 2/8/19 (dkt. 6); Plaintiff then filed a Motion for Default Judgment on 2/11/19 (dkt. 8), which is set for hearing on 3/26/19 at 11:00 a.m. The tentative ruling is to stay all proceedings and order mandatory mediation.

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. *See generally Stern v. (2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/19/19 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/4/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

The parties are directed to address why the docket does not reflect any steps to finalize their reported settlement (e.g., a motion in this adversary proceeding to approve a stipulated judgment, and/or if necessary a motion in the bankruptcy case to approve a settlement per Rule 9019, Fed. R. Bankr. P.). This adversary proceeding has been pending since 6/22/18.

Tentative Ruling for 3/5/19:
Appearances required.

The parties are directed to address (1) why no status report was filed as required by the adopted 2/5/19 tentative ruling, and (2) whether the parties have scheduled and/or attended mediation.

The tentative ruling is to continue this status conference to 4/9/19 at 11:00 a.m, with a brief status report due by 3/26/19.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 2/5/19:

Continue to 3/5/19 at 11:00 a.m, with a brief status report due by 2/26/19. Although the latest Status Report (adv. dkt. 16) does not address whether the mandatory mediation ordered by this Court has occurred, it appears that more time is needed for mediation. Caution: If the parties do not schedule and attend mediation before the next status conference, this Court may impose sanctions on the recalcitrant party(ies). Appearances are not required on 1/8/19.

The parties have lodged, and this Court has approved, the Order Assigning Matter to Mediation Program and Appointing Mediator and Alternate Mediator (dkt. 11). This Court is not aware of issues that would warrant a status conference at this time.

Tentative Ruling for 11/27/18:

Appearances required, but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

At the hearing on 10/9/18, Defendants did not appear, and this Court was persuaded to take a flexible approach to whether Plaintiff would pursue default judgments, or mediation, or other avenues. The docket does not reflect any activity since that time. Should this status conference be continued? Should this adversary proceeding be dismissed for lack of prosecution?

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/4/19:

Appearances are not required on 6/4/19.

The tentative ruling is (1) to direct Plaintiff to lodge a proposed order dismissing this adversary proceeding without prejudice, for the reasons stated in the Plaintiff's status report (adv. dkt. 21), and (2) to continue this status conference to 8/6/19 at 11:00 a.m. (so that, if Plaintiff does not lodge the proposed order for some reason, this matter will not "slip through the cracks").

Current Issues:

(1) District Court Litigation: On 6/12/18 this Court granted relief from the automatic stay (main case dkt. 123) to proceed with related litigation before the District Court. Current Issues.

(1) Motion to Dismiss (adv. dkt.7). At the hearing on 4/17/18, this Court was persuaded to defer ruling on the motion to dismiss in view of the possibility that the issues would be litigated before the district court. On 5/9/18 plaintiff filed a motion for relief from stay to proceed with the district court litigation (2:16-bk-24010-NB, dkt. 117) (the "R/S Motion") and scheduled a hearing for this date on the 10:00 a.m. calendar. This court's tentative ruling for the R/S Motion is to grant that motion. Therefore, the tentative ruling for this matter is to take the motion to dismiss off calendar without prejudice to resetting it or filing appropriate papers after the district court litigation has been resolved.

(2) Deadlines: In view of this Court's tentative ruling on the R/S Motion, the tentative ruling is to continue this status conference to the date and time stated at the start of this tentative ruling. The parties are directed to file a joint status report by 10/2/18.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Chapter 7

Tentative Ruling for 4/17/18:

Appearances required. The court has reviewed the debtor's motion to dismiss (dkt. 7), Plaintiff's opposition (dkt. 14), the parties' joint status report (dkt. 9), Notice of Related District Court Case (dkt. 12) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

Paragraph "(2)" below is the tentative ruling on the motion to dismiss. Paragraphs "(1)," "(3)," and "(4)" below are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences, with additional provisions specific to this matter. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

With respect to this specific matter, although nondischargeability complaints are prototypically "core" bankruptcy matters, this Bankruptcy Court is concerned about possible duplication of litigation and infringement on the District Court's management of the related nonbankruptcy action pending in that Court since 6/16/17. Should this Bankruptcy Court grant relief from the automatic stay (on this Court's own motion or the motion of either party) so that such litigation can proceed, and meanwhile hold this nondischargeability action in abeyance? Alternatively, are other approaches preferable, such as removal, or withdrawal of the reference, or bifurcation of issues? The parties are directed to address what is the most appropriate and efficient way to proceed.

(2) Motion to Dismiss (dkt. 7)

The legal standards applicable to a motion to dismiss will not be repeated here because they are well known and have been summarized in the parties' filed papers. The tentative ruling is to grant the motion to dismiss the first and second claims for relief, with leave to amend, for the following reasons.

(a) 11 U.S.C. 523(a)(2)(A): false representation etc.

The debtor/defendant seeks dismissal of the first claim for relief, under section 523(a)(2)(A), on the ground that the plaintiff has not alleged that he obtained money, property, services, or credit from plaintiff as a result of the alleged fraud. The debtor/defendant argues (adv. dkt. 7, pp.6:23-7:3) that any alleged misrepresentations occurred in reports filed after the employees had performed services for the prior month and therefore after the debt was incurred, so the money or property at issue was not "obtained by" the alleged fraud.

On the one hand, the motion to dismiss is not entirely persuasive on this point. Reading the complaint in the light most favorable to the plaintiff as this Court must do when addressing a motion to dismiss, the complaint (adv. dkt. 1, p.1, para. 25) alleges that as a result of an ongoing pattern of false reports the Trust Funds (whom the plaintiff represents) missed opportunities to assert claims against the debtor/defendant's general contractors, which allegedly would have resulted in recovery of funds to cover the dollar amounts owed to the Trust Funds. In other words, if the Trust Funds had known of the (allegedly) false representations in those reports (or the allegedly fraudulent nature or false pretenses in those reports) then, allegedly, the Trust Funds could have pursued remedies that apparently are no longer available to them, so the fact that the reports were filed after the services were rendered each month is not dispositive.

But the complaint does not explain how the Trust Funds' missed opportunity amounts to obtaining money, property, services, or credit from plaintiff as a result of the alleged fraud. Rather, it appears that the (allegedly) false reports enabled the debtor/defendant to continue obtaining services from the employees (without providing those employees all of the compensation to which they were owed, in the form of funds that should have been transferred to the Trust Funds for the benefit of the employees).

Compare In re Kay, 60 B.R. 174, 176 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1986) (liability based on fact that "the employee beneficiaries" sustained damages as "the proximate result of the defendants' representations") (emphasis added).

In sum, there are not enough allegations in the complaint to show a causal connection between the alleged falsehoods of the debtor/defendant and some sort of damage to the plaintiff. It is possible, of course, that the plaintiff stands in the shoes of the employees for these purposes, but the complaint does not include sufficient allegations (or copies of documents) for this Court to read the complaint that way. It is also possible that the plaintiff itself has been damaged - e.g., perhaps the plaintiff is liable to the employees if it did not detect and cure the alleged falsehoods in the debtor/defendant's reports, and thus the plaintiff itself has been damaged - but again the complaint does not include sufficient allegations (or copies of documents) for this Court to read the complaint that way.

For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is to grant the motion to dismiss the first claim for relief, with leave to amend. The tentative deadline for filing an amended complaint is 5/1/18.

The debtor/defendant has raised a separate argument with respect to the first claim for relief. The tentative ruling, however, is to reject the debtor/defendant's alternative argument (adv. dkt. 7, pp.7:23-8:5) that, under Rule 9(b), Fed. R. Civ. P. (incorporated by Rule 7009, Fed. R. Bankr.P.), the complaint is not sufficiently precise about the amount of hours that were falsely under-reported in each report. The complaint sufficiently apprises the debtor/defendant of the grounds of the alleged fraud, and any greater specificity is a matter for discovery and proof at trial, not a defect in pleading.

(b) 11 U.S.C. 523(a)(4): fraud or defalcation while acting in a fiduciary capacity, etc.

The debtor/defendant seeks dismissal of the second claim for relief, under section 523(4), on the ground that the complaint lacks sufficient allegations that he is a fiduciary with respect to the funds at issue. The tentative ruling is that this is correct.

The complaint alleges that "amounts withheld from employee wages meant to be transmitted to the Vacation Trust" became assets of that trust

"as of the earliest date on which such contributions ... can reasonably be segregated from the employer's general assets." Complaint (adv. dkt. 1), p. 8, para.30 (emphasis added, quoting 29 C.F.R. 2510.3-102). In response the debtor/defendant argues (adv. dkt. 7, pp.9:12-15): "Plaintiff has failed to allege that such withholdings actually occurred and when such employee wage withholdings could be 'reasonably segregated from the employer's general assets.' Without such allegations, Plaintiff has failed to adequately allege that plan assets are at issue." (Emphasis added.)

To illustrate, consider the following hypothetical situation. Suppose that the debtor/defendant was paid $10X by a customer, but had obligations at that time of $15X consisting of $5X owed to employees for their base pay, $1X that should have been transmitted to the Vacation Trust but was not, and $9X for various other business expenses such as rent and income taxes. Did the $1X ever become segregated (withheld from wages) to the extent that it became a separate fund as to which the debtor/defendant had fiduciary obligations, or was the $1X only one contractual debt among many, with no segregated fund and therefore no associated fiduciary obligations?

In a similar vein the debtor/defendant also argues (adv. dkt. 7, pp.9:16-10:17) that the allegations about purported control over plan assets are conclusory, that unpaid contributions to employee benefit funds are not plan assets, and that there are insufficient allegations in the complaint to establish that there was any pre-existing fiduciary relationship. The tentative ruling is that all of these arguments are persuasive.

The debtor/defendant cites persuasive authority in support of the foregoing analysis. It is one thing if an employer misuses employee contributions to a trust fund, but if the funds have never reached the employee and instead are contributions that the employer was supposed to make then the failure to pay that contribution is not, by itself, enough to establish a fiduciary relationship with respect to those funds. See In re Quinones, 537 B.R. 942, 945 n.2 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2015) (distinguishing employer contributions "from the situation where an employer has control over funds that were withheld from employees' paychecks"). The complaint does not include sufficient allegations to determine which type of contribution is at issue.

In sum, the complaint does not contain enough allegations about the precise relationships among the parties so as to be able to figure out when the debtor/defendant's duties arose and to whom. The tentative ruling is to set the same deadline to amend the complaint as for the first claim for relief.

Unless this Court is persuaded to depart from the foregoing tentative ruling it will be adopted as this Court's final ruling on the motion to dismiss. The debtor/defendant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this court's final ruling. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(3) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge) at this time? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 5/1/18 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(4) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 2/5/18. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/4/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 1/4/16. At the hearing on 5/7/19, the parties informed this Court that the judgment at issue had been affirmed on appeal. Additionally, Defendant/Debtor had obtained new counsel (adv. dkt. 31) who requested additional time to review this matter. The parties should be prepared to address whether the nonbankruptcy judgment is preclusive on some or all issues in this adversary proceeding. If so, is there anything left to do but issue a judgment determining that the nonbankruptcy judgment is nondischargeable? On the other hand, if Defendant/Debtor asserts that preclusion is not sufficient to establish nondischargeability, what deadlines and other procedures should this Court adopt to move this matter forward (e.g., a deadline for any additional discovery and any dispositive motions, and a concurrent deadline to lodge an order for mandatory mediation)?

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address the status of the appeal in the civil matter.

Tentative Ruling for 10/9/18:

The plaintiff mis-filed the status report in the main case (main case dkt. 42) instead of this adversary proceeding. The plaintiff also failed to lodge a proposed order continuing this matter (using this Court's "LOU" program), and instead attached it to the status report.

Notwithstanding these errors, the tentative ruling is to continue this Status Conference to 12/18/18 at 11:00 a.m. Plaintiff is directed to file the

(2) Status of the state court litigation. What is the status of the state court litigation?

(3) Continued status conference. Assuming that the state court litigation is still pending, this Court intends to set a continued status conference for 11/8/16 at 11:00 a.m. The plaintiff must file a brief status report detailing the current status of the state court litigation by 10/25/16.

(b) Pachulski v. Young, et al (Adv. No. 18-01223) (11 U.S.C. 547)

Based on the Joint Status Report (adv. dkt. 28), this Court finds it appropriate to abate any current deadlines in anticipation of cross-motions for summary judgment. This adversary proceeding will be set for a new status conference on 9/10/19 at 11:00 a.m. with no written status report required.

(c) Affeld Grivakes LLP v. Pachulski (Adv. No 19-1028) (Jewel/Heller issues)

At a prior hearing, the parties discussed the possibility of mediation, but wanted time for discovery, as well as time to address the issues with Mr. Alvarez. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 6/18/19 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

The tentative ruling is also to continue the status conference in this adversary proceeding to the same time as the continued status conferences

(2) Deadlines/dates. The L&B case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 on 8/3/17 and converted to chapter 11 on 8/11/17 (L&B dkt. 25). The Lay-Invol case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 case on 5/21/18 and an order for relief was entered on 12/12/18 (Lay-Invol dkt. 160, 161).

(a) L&B Bar date: 2/5/18 (timely served, L&B dkt. 133, 157)

(b) Lay-Invol Bar date: 4/12/19 (timely served, Lay-Invol dkt.180)

(c) L&B Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD. Do not file or serve until further order of this court.

(d) Continued status conference: The tentative ruling is to continue the status conferences in the L&B and Lay-Invol cases to 7/30/19 at 11:00 a.m., with no written status report required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Tentative Ruling for 4/30/19:

Appearances are not required.

(1) Current matters

(a) Combined Status Conference

This Status Conference involves two related bankruptcy cases: (a) In re Layfield & Barrett, APC, Case No. 2:17-bk-19548-NB ("L&B"); (b) In re Layfield, Case No. 2:18-bk-15829-NB ("Lay-Invol").

(b) Evidentiary Objections (Lay-Invol dkt. 214) to the Declaration of Philip Layfield (Lay-Invol dkt. 207, last two pages)

Sustain the objections except as to Mr. Layfield's alleged intent to appear at certain scheduled meetings of creditors (11 U.S.C. 341(a)). On that issue, his testimony is at least potentially relevant, because his good or bad faith is one of the facts and circumstances that this Court may consider in determining whether to dismiss this case.

Alternatively, the tentative ruling on the merits (see below) would be unchanged even if this Court were to overrule all of the evidentiary objections to Mr. Layfield's declaration.

(b) Motion to Dismiss (Lay-Invol dkt. 207)

Deny for the reasons stated in the Chapter 7 Trustee's Opposition (dkt. 213). See also Joinders (dkt. 215, 216).

Chapter 11

In addition, regarding Mr. Layfield's allegations about some sort of perceived conflict involving the Chapter 7 Trustee, his arguments are difficult to follow and both procedurally and substantively deficient. This Court has already rejected Mr. Layfield's challenges to the appointment of the Trustee. See dkt. 149, 183. To the extent that Mr. Layfield raises new allegations, there is no explanation why they were not raised before; there is no citation to the standards for reconsideration (e.g., under Rule 9024, Fed.R.Bankr.P.) nor any attempt to meet those standards; and his vague allegations are conclusory statements of opinion and legal conclusions without supporting facts. See dkt. 207, p.4:11-18 & pp. 11:21-12:5 (referencing In re Adelman, Case No. 2:15-bk-15952-RK). In addition, this Court has reviewed the docket in the Adelman bankruptcy case, including the bankruptcy schedules (id. dkt.84), and is unable to discern any disqualifying facts. See 11 U.S.C. 327(c)(attorney's representation of creditor does not by itself disqualify such person from representing trustee).

Proposed Order: Trustee is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(3) Deadlines/dates. The L&B case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 on 8/3/17 and converted to chapter 11 on 8/11/17 (L&B dkt. 25). The Lay-Invol case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 case on 5/21/18 and an order for relief was entered on 12/12/18 (Lay-Invol dkt. 160, 161).

(a) L&B Bar date: 2/5/18 (timely served, L&B dkt. 133, 157)

(b) Lay-Invol Bar date: 4/12/19

(c) L&B Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD. Do not file or serve until further order of this court.

(d) Continued status conference: The tentative ruling is to continue the status conferences in the L&B and Lay-Invol cases to 6/4/19 at 11:00 a.m., with no written status report required.

(1) General matters

(a) Combined status conferences in the interrelated bankruptcy cases

This hearing includes Status Conferences in each of two related bankruptcy cases before this Court: (a) In re Layfield & Barrett, APC, Case No. 2:17-bk-19548-NB ("L&B"); (b) In re Layfield, Case No. 2:18-bk-15829-NB ("Lay-Invol."). (A third related bankruptcy case, In re Maximum Legal (Cal.), LLP, Case No. 2:17-bk-18433-NB ("Max-CA"), has been closed (Max-CA dkt. 154).)

(2) Matters on Calendar Today

(a) Motion for Sale of Property (dkt. 419)

The tentative ruling is to grant the Motion to Sell Units 210 and 220. If the buyer submits a suitable 363(m) declaration, the Court will approve the buyer as a good-faith purchaser.

Proposed Order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(b) Wells Fargo Relief from Stay Motion (dkt. 143)

Based on the above, the tentative ruling is to continue the Relief from Stay Motion to the next status conference date, see below, until the sale is finalized.

(3) Deadlines/dates. The L&B case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 on 8/3/17 and converted to chapter 11 on 8/11/17 (L&B dkt. 25). The Lay-Invol case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 case on 5/21/18 and an order for relief was entered on 12/12/18 (Lay-Invol dkt. 160, 161).

(A third related bankruptcy case, In re Maximum Legal (Cal.), LLP, Case No. 2:17-bk-18433-NB ("Max-CA"), has been closed (Max-CA dkt. 154), so the status conference in that case was not continued to today.)

(2) Matters on Calendar Today

(a) Wells Fargo Relief from Stay Motions (dkt. 143, 144)

The parties should be prepared to address whether there has been any new information regarding the sale of Units 210 & 220. If there is no progress with a sale, this Court's tentative ruling would be to grant relief from stay as to Units 210 & 220 due to the diminishing equity cushion (dkt. 143). As Unit 200 has been successfully sold, dkt. 144 is moot.

(3) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 on 8/3/17 and converted to chapter 11 on 8/11/17.

(a) L&B Bar date: 2/5/18 (timely served, L&B dkt. 133, 157)

(b) L&B Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD. Do not file or serve until further order of this court.

(c) Continued status conference: The tentative ruling is to continue the status conferences in the L&B and Lay-Invol cases to 3/26//19 at 2:00 p.m. to be concurrent with status conferences in the Lay-Invol case and in an adversary proceeding in the L&B case (Adv. (b) Lay-Invol 341(a) Meeting

The parties should be prepared to address appropriate remedies for Mr. Layfield's failure to appear at the meeting of creditors (11 U.S.C. 341(a)) scheduled for 1/22/19.

(c) Christine Layfield Delaware bankruptcy case

The parties should be prepared to address any effects of the chapter 7 bankruptcy case filed by Mr. Layfield's spouse, as reported by the L&B Chapter 11 Trustee (L&B dkt. 401, p.7). To what extent does the trustee of that bankruptcy estate assert interests in these related cases? Are there discussions regarding any stipulations for relief from the automatic stay, coordination regarding venue of any proceedings, and/or coordinating other matters as between the estates?

(2) Matters on Calendar Today

(a) Motion to Sell 2720 Homestead Rd, Unit 200, Park City Utah (L&B dkt. 391)

The parties should be prepared to address the issues raised by Wells Fargo (L&B dkt. 396) and Toll Creek Owners Association, Inc. (L&B dkt. 397), as well as Movant's reply (L&B dkt. 402). In addition, if the objections are resolved or overruled and the sale goes forward (subject to overbids), the tentative ruling is that any "good faith" finding (11 U.S.C. 363(m)) will require a declaration from any successful bidder that complies with the posted Procedures of Judge Bason:

§ 363(m): "Good Faith" Findings. Supporting declaration(s) should address: (1) connections: the bidder's prior, current, or expected connections with any relevant persons (other bidders, the debtor, major creditors or equity security holders in the case, or any of the debtor's officers, directors, agents, or employees, including whether any offers of employment or compensation have been made or will be offered to debtor's present or former officers, directors, agents, or employees), (2) consideration: whether any consideration is contemplated or has been transferred by the bidder in connection with the sale to any person other than the bankruptcy estate, and (3) absence of fraud or collusion between the bidder and any relevant persons (e.g., other bidders, the debtor's officers, directors, agents or employees), or any attempt to take unfair advantage of other bidders. See generally In re M Capital Corp., 290 B.R. 743, 748-49 (9th Cir. BAP 2003). As used in this paragraph, a "bidder" includes all known prospective bidders.

(b) Wells Fargo Relief from Stay Motions (dkt. 143, 144)

The parties should be prepared to address the issues raised in Wells Fargo's status report (L&B dkt. 399) regarding all of the condominium units. The tentative ruling is to continue the Relief from Stay Motions to 3/5/19 at 2:00 p.m., with a deadline of 2/12/19 for the Trustee to provide Wells Fargo an updated written report describing the listing price(s), showings, and offers for Units 210 and 220. The tentative ruling is also to extend the previously entered orders for filing under seal (L&B dkt. 387, 388) to any brief the parties wish to file in connection with the continued hearing.

(c) Wellgen Standard v. Maximum Legal (17-1503) Status Conference

The parties should be prepared to address the status of the purported settlement of this adversary proceeding.

(3) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 on 8/3/17 and converted to chapter 11 on 8/11/17.

(a) Chapter 7 Trustee's Motion for Order (1) Approving Stipulation Relating to Disbursement of Funds, and (2) Closing Case (Max-CA, dkt. 137)

Appearances required. The court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (dkt. 19) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/16/19 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 1/29/19. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

#1.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case
fr. 04/30/19

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/4/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Proof of Insurance for Motor Vehicles

Debtor should be prepared to address the status of her proof of insurance for two motor vehicles. See dkt. 52.

(b) Motion of Karl S. Reinecker, An Accountancy Corporation, for Relief from Stay (the "R/S Motion," dkt. 56)

The tentative ruling is to grant the R/S Motion in part, and deny it in part, as follows.

(i) Termination

Modify the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2) such that Movant may proceed with all foreclosure steps, except no foreclosure sale prior to 9/26/19. As a preliminary matter, this Court notes that proceedings on motions for relief from the automatic stay are summary in nature, and this Court is not required to conduct a "mini trial" on any disputed evidentiary issues. See, e.g., In re Veal, 450 B.R. 897 (9th Cir. BAP 2011). On the record presented, this Court's analysis is as follows.

As for insurance, the tentative ruling is that Debtor is persuasive in asserting that the principal value is in the real property, as distinguished from the improvements, and that there is no showing that a $1.5 million policy is insufficient for the latter. On the other hand, as for Debtor's assertion of a TILA violation or other lender liability/defenses, the tentative ruling is that this is insufficient for the reasons stated in Movant's reply (dkt. 66). That leaves what appears to be the key issues: valuation of the property, and the prospects for a quick sale (Debtor admits that she lacks the income for any other type of financial reorganization).

Both parties have weak evidence of value (as addressed further below). But on the record presented the tentative ruling is that Movant has presented sufficient evidence to show on a prima facie basis that its lien more likely than not is underwater and subject to erosion by an increasing senior lien debt (section 362(d)(1)), and therefore is not adequately protected, and alternatively that Debtor lacks an equity in the property and the property is not necessary for an effective reorganization, meaning a financial reorganization (i.e., in this case, a sale of the property) that has a "reasonable" possibility of being successfully accomplished "within a reasonable time." United Sav. Ass'n of Texas v. Timbers of Inwood Forest Assoc's, Ltd., 484 U.S. 365, 375-76 (1988). These issues are addressed further below.

(ii) Section 362(d)(1) and valuation

Movant has presented evidence that the property value is approximately $2,750,000. True, Debtor points out a weakness in Movant's evidence of value: if Movant's evidence is to be believed then the present value leaves its lien far underwater, but there is no evidence of a drastic decline in real estate values or drastic increase in the senior debt after the loan was made in 2016, which suggests that either Movant made a loan in 2016 on very inadequate collateral or else that Movant's current valuation is substantially too low. In addition, this Court notes that Movant's appraisal is an "exterior only" appraisal. See dkt. 56, Ex.4.

But even if Movant's evidence is flawed, the tentative ruling is that it is enough to meet Movant's burden of producing some evidence of "cause" for relief from the automatic stay because it is more likely than not that Movant's lien is being eroded by accruing interest and other charges on unpaid senior liens. The undisputed evidence is that the asserted liens against the property amount to over $3.9 million so, even if Movant's evidence of value is wildly inaccurate, Movant has presented enough evidence to meet its initial burden to show that lacks a sufficient equity cushion (normally a 10% to 20% equity cushion is required for that cushion to constitute adequate protection).

Debtor has attempted to rebut Movant's evidence by presenting her own evidence of a $4.8 million value. But, as Movant points out, Debtor's appraisal (dkt. 65) is as of April 20, 2018, 11 months prior to the bankruptcy petition and over a year before the present date, and it relies on comparable sales from 2017 and 2014. In addition, this Court notes that the adjustments to "comps" (allegedly comparable properties) are generally so large that they call into question the accuracy of Debtor's appraisal. See dkt. 65, Ex.4.B., at PDF pp.8-10.

In other words, the tentative ruling is that Debtor's evidence does not provide sufficient assurance of an equity cushion to overcome Movant's prima facie evidence of cause for relief from stay due to erosion of its interest because of non-payment of the senior lien. Nevertheless, given the weaknesses in Movant's evidence, and given that the apparent erosion of Movant's interest is somewhat gradual relative to the size of the debt at issue, the tentative ruling is that an appropriate form of relief from the automatic stay is to provide Debtor with the period of time set forth at the start of this tentative ruling before any foreclosure can take place. To be clear: Movant will be able to take all steps in preparation for foreclosure prior to that time, but could not actually conduct a foreclosure sale until that date.

The tentative ruling is that Movant has established that Debtor lacks an equity in the property for the same reasons set forth above. As to whether the property is necessary to "effective" reorganization, the evidence is that the property has been on the market for over a year and has not sold. Although Debtor has substantially reduced the asking price, she has not provided evidence of an impending sale or any interested buyers. The tentative ruling is that if a sale is not accomplished within the period set forth at the start of this tentative ruling that would not be "within a reasonable time" as required by Timbers.

Note: The tentative ruling is to overrule Movant's evidentiary objection (dkt. 67) because it goes to the weight of the evidence and not the admissibility. Also, to the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

(ii) Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Deny, without prejudice to any other types of relief granted herein (or previously granted), for the following reasons.

The motion requests requests "in rem" relief (i.e., relief applicable notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases (under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and/or In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31)). The tentative ruling is to deny that request because Movant has not provided sufficient evidence of bad faith or a scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors comparable to what Congress has set forth in section 362(d)(4) that would justify awarding the requested in rem relief.

(iii) Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

(iv) Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this portion of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(a) Budget motion

Debtor's status report (dkt. 31, item B.2.) states that a budget motion is not required by the presiding judge. To the contrary, the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) state:

§ 363(b): Budget motions. Required. ... NOTE: Judge Bason requires the use of local forms F 2081-2.2.MOTION.BUDGET and F 2081-2.2.ORDER.BUDGET.

Nevertheless, the tentative ruling is to excuse the lack of a budget motion due to the circumstances of this case (Debtor proposes a 363 sale of her sole property that allegedly has substantial equity; she has almost no income; and she has almost no unsecured creditors).

(b) Transfers to insiders

Debtor's first Monthly Operating Report ("MOR," dkt. 30, p.8, question 2) states that transfers have been made to insiders without appropriate authorization. What are the details?

(c) 363 sale

Debtor's counsel is referred to the posted Procedures of Judge Bason regarding sales under 11 U.S.C. 363(b)&(f).

Docket 8

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/4/19:

Appearances are not required.

(1) Current issues

The tentative ruling is to dismiss this case with a 108 day bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy, for willful failure to appear in proper prosecution of this case. 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1).

Proposed order: The United States Trustee ("UST") is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(a) Background

This Court has issued orders terminating the automatic stay as against Crescent Capital Holdings, LLC (dkt. 146), to permit it to foreclose on the Las Flores property, and as against WRCOF Asset Trust 2017-2 (dkt. 149), to permit it to foreclose on the Cahuenga property, provided that neither creditor could conduct a foreclosure sale prior to 6/30/19 unless the stay is otherwise terminated prior to that time, e.g., by dismissal of this case. This Court also was not persuaded that there was any point in Debtor's recent motions to value property, other than delay (see dkt. 161, denying motion re Cahuenga property), and this Court has had other concerns about the lack of prosecution of this case (see below).

This Court was only persuaded not to dismiss this case at the hearing on 5/7/19 for two reasons. First, Debtor's principal allegedly was prepared to contribute funds to make adequate protection payments; but as set forth below that apparently has not happened. Second, this Court wished to provide any other parties in interest who are monitoring the docket an opportunity to address whether some other form of relief would be more appropriate.

Note: Regarding the second reason for a continuance, this Court's standard order at the commencement of this case (dkt. 6, 8), which was served on all parties on the creditor matrix (dkt. 13), provides that this Court may dismiss the case at any Status Conference, so any additional notice probably was not required. Nevertheless, this Court issued a written order continuing this status conference (the "Continuance Order," dkt. 150), which reiterated that this case might be dismissed, and a bar might be imposed. Therefore any party monitoring the docket has had additional notice of the possible dismissal and possible 180 day bar. To provide even more notice, this Court directed the UST to serve a copy of the Continuance Order on all parties in interest (dkt. 150). The docket does not reflect any proof of such service, but the tentative ruling is that there has already been enough notice.

(b) April MOR (dkt. 154)

The March MOR appears to reflect that Debtor's principal has not, in fact, contributed whatever funds are needed for Debtor to make adequate protection payments and other necessary expenditures. Debtor reports that it has not paid various secured creditors. Dkt. 154 at PDF p. 14. Debtor also reports being behind $650 on UST quarterly fees. Id. at PDF p.15.

(c) Dismissal with a bar

This Court has previously expressed concerns about the feasibility of this case. Debtor has responded that its principal can fund the case, but as set forth above that does not appear to have happened, and meanwhile the docket appears to reflect nothing but lack of prosecution and delay.

This Court has expressed other concerns about Debtor's lack of prosecution of this case (see prior tentative rulings reproduced below, including 5/7/19 regarding failure to prosecute any claim objections, and earlier tentative rulings about lack of progress).

For all of the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is to dismiss this case with a 180 day bar under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1) for willful failure to appear in proper prosecution of this case.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 6/11/18.

(a) Bar date: 2/8/19 (timely served, dkt. 67)

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD.

(c) Continued status conference: TBD, if this tentative ruling is

(1) Current issues

(a) General status

Debtor was ordered to file a status report no later than April 30, 2019. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, no such report has been filed. Should this Court impose sanctions?

Debtor's prior status report (#5, dkt. 128) states that Debtor has no unsecured debt and "will seek refinancing of its assets and/or the sale of properties in order to pay off the entire debt of the Las Flores Property and fund a confirmable Chapter 11 Plan." Dkt. 128, p.2:17-20. This Court previously presumed that Debtor was focused on sales, because refinancings appear to be unrealistic. But now Debtor's principal declares (dkt. 139, p.4, para.4-5) that he is currently in negotiations with potential lenders to refinance two of Debtor's three properties which "will pay" all secured debt against the properties. That appears to be entirely unrealistic.

Debtor has almost no funds: it reports only $50.01 as of 3/31/19 in its latest Monthly Operating Report ("MOR"). See MOR#10 (dkt. 136), p.1. Apart from that, Debtor has three properties:

(i) Las Flores/Altadena Property. This property is supposed to have been sold for $850,000. See dkt. 129. That is unlikely to generate any useable proceeds because this $850,000 is subject to a real estate broker's commission of $17,000, real estate taxes estimated at over $18,000, and the claim of Crescent Capital Holdings, LLC ("Crescent") of $763,832.42 as of the petition date plus alleged postpetition interest for one year at 29.99%. See dkt.110, p.4:10-17, dkt. 129, and POC 3-1. Although interest above the non-default rate will not be presently distributed to Crescent, nor will it be distributed to Debtor (until after resolution of any claim objection, or other order of this Court).

(ii) Cahuenga Park Property. Debtor values this property at $900,000. Dkt. 30, p.3. Creditor WRCOF Asset Trust 2017-2 ("Cahuenga Trust") asserts a secured claim of $811,295.30 as of the petition date, plus postpetition interest for almost a year at 12%. POC 4-1. After the balance of unpaid real estate taxes (POC 5-1 for over $65,000), this property is unlikely to have any useable equity.

(iii) Date Property. Debtor values this property at $800,000 (dkt. 30, p.3). No proof of claim has been filed by the holder of the loan debt secured by this property. Debtor estimated this claim at $532,000 as of the petition date (dkt.15 at PDF p.9), but given Debtor's wildly inaccurate estimation of other claims ($627,497.80 against the Cahuenga Park Property, and $695,831.34 against the Los Flores/Altadena Property) this Court is not persuaded that there is any useable equity in this property.

The bottom line is that any expectation of being able to refinance these properties appears, on the present record, to be unrealistic and a waste of time. Apparently any refinancing would be preconditioned on successful prosecution of claim objections, but nearly a year into this case no claim objections have been filed, let alone successfully prosecuted. See, e.g., dkt. 139, p.2:21-22 (Debtor's admits it has no equity in the Cahuenga Park Property based on the "alleged balance" of the secured claim against that property).

Debtor's only plausible path appears to be to sell the properties; pay the undisputed portion of the secured claims; and, if there are legitimate grounds to do so at this late date, prosecute claim objections.

(b) Crescent's Motion for Relief from Stay (dkt. 78)

Has the sale of the Las Flores/Altadena Property closed? If so, what dollar amount is being held in escrow pending determination of Crescent's claim? What deadline should this Court set to file its objection to Crescent's claim?

(b) Cahuenga Trust's Motion for Relief from Stay (dkt. 134)

What dollar amount of monthly adequate protection payments should be required (see dkt. 134 & the debtor's late-filed response, dkt. 139)? How can Debtor afford to pay that, given the lack of funds reflected in the latest MOR (dkt. 136)? Has Debtor been receiving rents, and are any rents reflected in the MORs?

(c) March MOR (dkt. 136)

This Court is concerned with several items in the March MOR. First, Debtor reports that it did not pay an adequate protection payment of $5,200 to Triump Capital. Dkt. 136, p.23. Second, Debtor reports being behind $975 on UST quarterly fees. Id. at PDF p.15. Debtor should be prepared to

(1) Current issues

(a) Closing of sale (per Order, dkt. 129)

Debtor's status report (dkt. 128) does not state how soon the approved sale will close. When is it scheduled to close?

(b) Motion for Relief from Stay (dkt. 78)

If there is a satisfactory answer to how soon the sale will close, the tentative ruling is to continue this motion to the same time as the continued status conference to allow time for the sale to be completed and for Debtor to pay approximately $645,707.28 to Crescent ($870,885 payoff demand, per dkt. 128, p.3:14, minus amounts to be held aside pending resolution of forthcoming claim objection: approximately $200,177.72 in default interest and $25,000 balloon fee).

(1) Current issues

(a) Application to employ James Gallardo as real estate broker (dkt. 112, 113)

The parties must inform the Court as to the status of the Mr. Vasquez and the bankruptcy estate having separate real estate brokers (or Mr. Vasquez proceeding without a broker); how any brokers will split the 4% commission; and the other issues laid out by the Court in the tentative ruling for the 2/26/19 hearing. The tentative ruling is that the sale cannot be approved until a broker is authorized to represent the estate in the sale.

(b) Debtor's Motion for Authority to Sell Altadena Property (the "Sale Motion," dkt. 102, 105, 114)

(i) Payment of costs of sale, including real estate brokers

The tentative ruling is to sustain the UST's objection (dkt. 104) and Crescent's objection (dkt. 110) to the extent they object to paying any attorney fees out of escrow, or paying the real estate brokers until those brokers are actually retained, but overrule those objections to the extent they object to paying costs of sale, including real estate brokers, ahead of Crescent.

Debtor's proposed employment of a real estate broker. The tentative ruling is to go forward with the sale hearing, including any overbids, and approve the sale on a provisional basis, with a continued hearing on both the employment application and the sale motion at the same time as the continued status conference (see below).

(a) Application to employ James Gallardo as real estate broker (dkt. 112, 113)

As pointed out by both the United States Trustee ("UST") (dkt. 104) and creditor Crescent Capital Holdings ("Crescent") (dkt.110), Mr. Gallardo is purporting to act as a dual agent, for both the seller (Debtor) and the proposed buyer (subject to overbids), Luis Vasquez. Judge Bason prohibits dual agency, as noted both in his posted Procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) and in the order approving the prior real estate broker (dkt. 92) (Mr. Leal).

The tentative ruling is that the lack of dual agency is mandated by the disinterestedness requirements of the Bankruptcy Code and Rules, so it cannot be waived. It is irrelevant that, outside of bankruptcy, it is not uncommon for parties in real estate transactions to accept their agent's lack of disinterestedness. See Reply to Sale Motion (dkt. 115, p.3:10-21).

Accordingly, the tentative ruling is that, if the highest and best bid is that of Mr. Vasquez, then Mr. Vasquez must file a declaration confirming that he has retained his own real estate broker (who must be unaffiliated with Mr. Gallardo), and Mr. Gallardo must represent only Debtor and the bankruptcy estate (not Mr. Vasquez).

In addition, the parties are directed to address whether Mr. Gallardo and/or Debtor's counsel must pay the additional real estate broker out of either (i) a portion of the 4% commission that was to have been paid solely to Mr. Gallardo, or (ii) out of a reduction in Debtor's counsel's attorney fees, so that the bankruptcy estate is not prejudiced by Debtor's non-compliance with the prohibition on dual agency. In other words, should this Court order that the total commission to all real estate brokers combined must not exceed 4%?

In addition, there might be other grounds for objecting to Mr. Gallardo's employment, and the time for objections has not yet expired, so the employment cannot be approved yet. The employment application was served on 2/12/19, which means that objections can be filed until 3/1/19 (14 days plus 3 for service via U.S. mail). Until after that date, parties in interest and this Court will not know if, for example, someone were to object to Mr. Gallardo's employment and the proposed sale on the basis that Mr. Gallardo had an undisclosed interest in the sale.

The tentative ruling is that until Mr. Guillardo's employment is approved, the sale must be only provisionally approved. The tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to shorten time (Rule 9006, Fed. R. Bankr. P.) because there is a substantial risk in any bankruptcy sale that if the sale is deferred then prospective purchasers may be unable or unwilling to continue to bid on the property (this Court takes judicial notice that there are considerable costs in holding a proposed sale open, if it is even possible to retain enough funds on hand to close a sale that has been deferred).

For all of the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is to set the employment application for hearing at the same time as the continued sale motion and continued status conference (see below).

(b) Debtor's Motion for Authority to Sell Altadena Property (the "Sale Motion," dkt. 102, 105, 114)

(i) Continued hearing

The tentative ruling is to approve the sale (subject to overbids) on a provisional basis, with a continued hearing at the same time as the continued status conference (see below). Between now and that continued hearing, Mr. Vasquez must arrange for a separate real estate broker to represent him (or must proceed without any real estate broker), and must disclaim any reliance on any past representation by Mr. Guillardo and any present representation by him. In addition, the parties can take whatever steps may be appropriate to address the issues set forth below.

(ii) No approval or payment of attorney fees at this time

The tentative ruling is to sustain the objection of the UST (dkt. 104), joined in by Crescent (dkt. 110), that attorney fees must be subject to approval by this Court pursuant to the usual procedures, and that any approval of the proposed sale shall not be deemed to be approval of the attorney fees. The tentative ruling is that the proposed attorney fees must be held by Debtor's counsel in a separate account from which funds cannot be released without further order of this Court (a "Blocked Account"). In addition, the tentative ruling is to defer any ruling on Crescent's objection that it should be paid in full before any attorney fees are allowed (dkt. 110, p.5:24-25), because the timing of any distribution of attorney fees can be addressed in connection with allowance or disallowance of those fees.

(iii) Payment of real estate taxes

Crescent objects (dkt. 110, pp.4:24-5:14) that LA County's claim for real estate taxes, estimated to be $18,456.38, is of a lower priority than Crescent's own claim and therefore should not be paid until Crescent is paid in full. The parties are directed to address (x) whether the real estate taxes are in fact of a lower priority than Crescent's lien, (y) whether any doctrine of marshaling should apply (i.e., whether, even if Crescent's lien is of a higher priority in this property, its claim should be paid from the sale of any other property of the estate so that LA County can be paid out of this sale, or alternatively whether LA County is entitled to a replacement lien on other property so that it is not prejudiced by the fact that this property is being sold prior to other properties), and (z) whether any disputed funds that Debtor proposes to pay either LA County or Crescent must be held in the Blocked Account pending further order of this Court.

In addition, the parties are directed to address how any accruing interest affects the analysis. For example, if funds are held in a Blocked Account pending resolution of the competing claims of LA County and Crescent, will those claims continue to accrue interest at the rate that otherwise would apply (e.g., 18% or 29.99% or some other high rate), or only at the rate that is being paid by the bank at which the Blocked Account is maintained (e.g., 1%)?

The parties also are directed to address what will happen if the funds are distributed to LA County (to stop interest running) but later turn out to be payable to Crescent or the bankruptcy estate. Will LA County be subject to a disgorgement order, consistent with any sovereign immunity analysis?

(iv) Payment of costs of sale, including real estate brokers

The tentative ruling is to sustain the UST's objection (dkt. 104) and Crescent's objection (dkt. 110) to the extent they object to paying the real estate brokers until those brokers are actually retained. But the tentative ruling is to overrule Crescent's objection to the extent it is seeking to bar paying of any costs of sale, including real estate brokers, until it is paid in full, because those costs are properly chargeable out of Crescent's collateral. See dkt. 110, p.4:5-7; 11 U.S.C. 506(c).

(v) Payment of the portion of Crescent's claim that is not (yet) disputed any objection to its claim, but has yet to do so, and that the only portion of its claim as to which an objection has been outlined is the default interest. The tentative ruling is that this objection is well taken: not until 2/13/19 did Debtor assert that it would object to Crescent's claim on the additional ground of not fully funding the construction loan. See dkt. 114, p.4, para.7; dkt. 115, p.4:24-26. The tentative ruling is that this last minute suggestion of a possible type of claim objection is insufficient to support Debtor's proposal to withhold all distributions from Crescent.

In other words, the tentative ruling is that Debtor must pay all principal and non-default interest through the date of closing of escrow, plus all other charges included in the proof of claim, without prejudice to Crescent seeking additional charges and default interest, and conversely without prejudice to Debtor objecting at a later time to any charges (other than principal and non-default interest). This means that Debtor would have to pay out of escrow not only principal and non-default interest but also any attorney fees, late fees, or other charges included in the Proof of Claim, and Crescent subsequently could seek additional attorney fees and other charges, but Debtor subsequently could object both to any attorney fees and other charges that have already been distributed and to any new attorney fees and other charges.

The foregoing tentative ruling attempts to balance Debtor's broad rights to object to claims at any time against Debtor's unexplained delay in raising these issues, and against Crescent's rights (consistent with this Court's adequate protection order) to receive distributions without undue delay.

Debtor's latest closing statement (dkt. 114, Ex.A, at PDF p.6) lists the "Loan Payoff" as "To Be Determined" but with an (estimated) amount of $512,500. Crescent is directed to address at the hearing the approximate dollar amount that will comport with the foregoing tentative ruling.

(vi) "Good faith" finding

The tentative ruling is that any "good faith" finding (11 U.S.C. 363(m)) will require a declaration from any successful bidder that complies with the posted Procedures of Judge Bason:

§ 363(m): "Good Faith" Findings. Supporting declaration(s) should address: (1) connections: the bidder's prior, current, or expected connections with any relevant persons (other bidders, the debtor, major creditors or equity security holders in the case, or any of the debtor's officers, directors, agents, or employees, including BAP 2003). As used in this paragraph, a "bidder" includes all known prospective bidders. [Judge Bason's posted Procedures, available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov]

(c) Motion for Relief from Stay (dkt. 78)

The tentative ruling is to continue this motion to the same time as the continued hearing on the Sale Motion.

(d) Motion for 2004 Examination (the "2004 Motion," dkt. 106)

Grant in part and deny in part as follows. The tentative ruling is to exercise this Court's discretion to limit discovery in keeping with the general principles set forth in Rule 26(b) and 45(d)&(e) (Fed. R. Civ. P.) and Rules 7026, 9016 and 9018 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). Without limiting the foregoing, this Court is particularly aware that (i) although Debtor has yet to file any actual objection to Crescent's claim, that is clearly contemplated; (ii) Crescent has an interest in maintaining the confidentiality of its loan-analysis methodology; and (iii) Debtor has not shown that it lacks its own records on many of the issues on which it seeks discovery and that the relative burdens and benefits weigh in its favor.

The tentative ruling is that no later than 3/15/19 Crescent must produce the documents listed below (the list is excerpted from the 2004 Motion) and that Crescent's person most knowledgeable about the subject matter of those document requests must appear for examination at Debtor's bankruptcy counsel's law offices on 4/5/19 at 10:00 a.m. The document requests/subject matter that this Court tentatively will allow is as follows:

- (1) "ALL COMMUNICATIONS between YOU and the DEBTOR RELATING TO THE $500,000 LOAN" (dtk. 106, PDF p.23, Section A.6)

- (2) "ALL DOCUMENTS, including COMMUNICATIONS, RELATING TO YOUR assessment of the default interest rate with respect to the $500,000 LOAN" (Id. at PDF p.24, Section A.11)
- (3) "ALL DOCUMENTS referring or relating to YOUR calculations of damages that YOU would sustain in the event of any default under the $500,000 LOAN" (Id. at PDF p.25, Section B.17)
- (4) "ALL DOCUMENTS referring or relating to YOUR analysis of the appropriate default interest to apply to the $500,000 LOAN" (Id. at PDF p.25, Section B.18)
- (5) "ALL DOCUMENTS referring or relating to YOUR efforts to arrive at a default interest rate that was intended to compensate YOU for actual anticipated damages that would result from a default under the $500,000 LOAN" (Id. at PDF p. 25, Section B.22)
- (6) "All appraisals or title reports completed RELATING TO the REAL PROPERTY" (Id. at PDF p.26, Section B.26)

The tentative ruling is, notwithstanding Debtor's reply (dkt. 117), to sustain Crescent's objections (dkt. 109) to the remaining questions, without prejudice to Debtor seeking further discovery (either under Rule 2004 or under other discovery rules, as appropriate) based upon a proper showing. For example, as noted above Debtor now contemplates that it might object to Crescent's claim based on Crescent not fully funding the construction loan, but Debtor provides no information about the facts and circumstances, which might assist Crescent and this Court to evaluate whether discovery is or is not focused on relevant issues.

Did Crescent promise to fund the loan with no strings attached, or did it impose performance metrics, or was the remaining funding within Crescent's sole discretion? What dollar amount did Crescent refuse to fund? When did it do so? What reasons, if any, did it give? Is Debtor contemplating a breach of contract objection, or a tort claim, or both?

In addition, the tentative ruling is to overrule Crescent's remaining objections as follows:

(i) LBR 2004-1(a): While the conference between Debtor and Crescent may not have been productive (dkt. 109, p.2), this Court is satisfied that for present purposes, the parties have "attempt[ed] to confer" as required by LBR 2004-1(a).

(ii) LBR 9013-1: Although the amount of notice of Debtor's 2004 Motion was short, Crescent has not shown that it was prejudiced by such shortened notice. The tentative ruling is to excuse any untimeliness in the 2004 Motion.

(iii) Laches: Crescent has not alleged sufficient delay to persuade this Court that relief based on laches is appropriate.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 6/11/18.

(a) Bar date: 2/8/19 (timely served, dkt. 67)

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD.

Tentative Ruling for 11/27/18:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues. This Court has reviewed the debtor's status report (dkt. 46) and other relevant documents.

(a) Failure to Serve Bar Date Order (dkt. 25). Once again, the bar date order has not been served. But in view of Debtor's substitution of new counsel, the tentative ruling is to set yet another new bar date as set forth below.

(b) Advantage Realty Group Attempted Sale Properties. The parties should be prepared to address the status of any contemplated marketing and sale of properties.

Tentative Ruling for 11/6/18:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by Debtors themselves.

(1) Current issues

(a) Status report (dkt. 43, 45)

Debtors have not used the Local Form, which is mandatory in this case (see Judge Bason's posted procedures, available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov). The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 11/13/18 to file the form and serve it on the United States Trustee.

(b) Motion to Employ Debtors' Counsel (Dkt. 18)

Debtors have not adequately addressed the issues in this Court's interim order (dkt. 39). Although proposed counsel declares (dkt. 47) that he has "learned" (from unspecified hearsay) that Debtors' relatives have funded the $15,000 retainer as a gift, there is no declaration from the two alleged donors confirming this, and confirming all of their "connections" with all parties in interest and their attorneys and accountants (see dkt. 39, section 6.(a)), and their informed consent to potential or actual conflicts (id., sec. 6.(c)), and Debtors' informed consent (id., sec. 6.(d)). The tentative ruling is to continue this matter to the same time as the continued status conference (see below) and set a deadline of 11/13/18 to file appropriate declarations and serve them on the United States Trustee.

(c) MOR1 (Sept., 2018, dkt. 36)

Debtors report that they spent $1,350.43 in cash, with no breakdown and just a vague description about "personal expenses," "charitable contributions," etc. The tentative ruling is that any proposed order authorizing the proposed budget must include a prohibition on Debtors spending more than $50 cash on any one item or $250 cash in the aggregate per month without attaching photocopies of receipts.

Several insurance policies have expired or are about to (see dkt. 36, at PDF p.16). What are Debtors doing about that?

(d) Motion to Use Cash Collateral (dkt 20)

First, Debtors failed to lodge a proposed order authorizing the use of cash collateral on the terms set forth in the adopted Tentative Ruling for 10/16/18 (see calendar no. 20, 11/6/18 at 1:00 p.m., which includes a copy of that earlier tentative ruling). The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 11/13/18 to lodge that proposed order, with a copy of that tentative ruling attached.

Second, the original motion appears to have been superseded by an amended motion, which has not been separately filed and served but instead is attached as an exhibit to a supplemental declaration. See dkt. 29, Ex.B. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 11/13/18 to file and serve that motion, which will be heard at the same date and time as the continued status conference (see below).

Third, the tentative ruling is that no order granting Debtors' motions regarding cash collateral shall be construed as endorsing the statements to which creditor Poser Investments, Inc. objects. See dkt. 23. Debtors are directed to make this clear in their proposed orders.

(b) Motion for Order Approving a Budget (Dkt. 11)

Grant on an interim basis, with a continued hearing at the same time as the continued status conference (see below). The tentative ruling is that Debtors' (late-filed) declaration (dkt. 29 & Ex.A) has adequately addressed this Court's concerns about charitable donations.

Tentative Ruling for 2/5/19:

Appearances required. This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (dkt. 9) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. Based on those documents it appears that both the plaintiff (Poser Investments, Inc., "Poser") and the Debtor-defendants agree that the four properties at issue either were never properly transferred or have been returned to Debtors, and either way they are now part of the bankruptcy estate. The principal remaining issues appear to be:

- (1) Will the other defendants contest that issue?
- (2) Does this Bankruptcy Court require jurisdiction over those other defendants (so as to enter a judgment against them, or at least against the interests that they previously asserted against the four properties), and if such jurisdiction is required, is such jurisdiction established by their appearance in the removed State Court action, or do they consent to in personam jurisdiction?

(3) Does the underlying default judgment obtained by Poser's predecessor in interest against Debtors have a preclusive effect against the Debtor-defendants?

(4) Does Poser have allowable secured claims against the four properties based on the lis pendens and abstracts of judgment?

The parties are directed to address whether there are different principal issues that this Court has not identified. In addition, the parties are directed to address why it would be necessary to have further discovery (in addition to what has already been conducted in the State Court) to address these issues. These appear likely to be resolved based on an application of the law to the undisputed facts, after briefing - e.g., motion(s) for summary judgment.

Meanwhile, it appears appropriate to order mandatory mediation, as set forth below.

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702

C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/19/19 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 12/10/18. The tentative ruling is not to set any deadlines (e.g., for cutoff of discovery) at this time, so as to provide time for mediation and/or motion(s) for summary judgment on potentially dispositive issues.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

#10.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case
fr. 5/7/19

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/4/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Sale of home

What is Debtor's progress regarding sale of the home?

(b) Motion for DIP Financing for insurance premium financing (dkt. 39, 42, 48)

Grant, subject to (a) a satisfactory explanation whether, in view of the objection by MTGLQ Investors, LP; Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. as servicer ("Wells Fargo," dkt. 55), the force-placed insurance would render the proposed Debtor's insurance duplicative (or if, on the other hand, whether it is feasible and sensible for Debtor to obtain insurance and for Wells Fargo to obtain a partial refund of its force-placed insurance); (b) naming Wells Fargo is an additional insured; and (c) the conditions set forth in the conditional opposition of Pensco Trust Co. fbo Elizabeth S. Boren IRA ("Pensco") (dkt. 53) (being named as additional insured; providing a copy of the proposed insurance agreement; reserving its rights to maintain force-placed insurance; and reserving other rights).

Proposed order: If this Court is persuaded to grant the motion, then Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(c) United States Trustee ("UST") Motion to Dismiss ("MTD," dkt. 23, 43)

Debtor appears to have remedied some issues raised in the MTD and to be in the process of attempting to remedy other issues. See dkt. 51 (status report) and dkt. 36 (MOR#1), 41 (Opp. to MTD), 42 (see below), 46

(employment of counsel). What is the UST's position on these issues? Should this hearing on the MTD be continued to the same time as the continued status conference (see below)?

(d) Budget motion (dkt. 34), amended Bankruptcy Schedules I&J (dkt. 33), and Monthly Operating Report ("MOR," dkt. 36)

This Court is troubled by Debtor's vague and inconsistent information about her income and expenditures.

(i) Cash transactions

Debtor's MOR (dkt. 36, p.5) reports over $1300 in cash "For Business." The tentative ruling is that this is insufficient reporting, and that (A) Debtor must amend her MOR no later than 6/7/19 to account for her cash expenditures to the maximum extent possible based on her declaration under penalty of perjury, and (B) in any future MOR she must provide a complete cash accounting.

(ii) Business net income of $12,500/mo. or $10,000/mo.?

Debtor's amended Bankruptcy Schedules I and J (dkt. 33) and her budget motion (dkt. 34, Ex. A&B) are ambiguous and inconsistent. Debtor reports income of $12,500/mo. from her jewelry business, Zeniba LLC (line 8a of Schedule I) but attaches a table showing $10,000/mo. of net income (dkt. 34 at PDF p.9). That table has an asterisk next to the business name, but no corresponding note.

(iii) Very round numbers for historical amounts, and no future projections

Although the table was filed on 5/14/19 it uses only very round numbers, not actual figures, for the column entitled "3/1/19." (The other months show $0 income or expenditures.) Why is it not possible for Debtor to provide actual dollar amounts for March, 2019, given that the motion was filed over a month and a half after the end of that month? Why does the table not include future projections?

(iv) Attorney fees of $20,000/mo?

The table lists $20,000 for attorney fees under the 3/1/19 column. It is unclear whether the attorney fees are intended to be a monthly business expense - in which event, why are they so high? - or bankruptcy fees - in which event, why are they included in this table, which should be limited to business income and expenses?

(v) Vague expenditures

Tuesday, June 4, 2019

Hearing Room 1545

Chapter 11

The table lists gross income of $75,000 as against expenses of $35,000 for "Stones, Materials, Supplies for Jewelry" and $10,000 for "Travel" (apparently for the business) (in addition to the $20,000 for attorney fees). How can parties in interest or this Court determine whether causing Zeniba, LLC to make these vague and unsubstantiated proposed expenditures, with no historical context, is within the "ordinary course" of Debtor's own business dealings (in which event no approval of this Court is normally required per 11 U.S.C. 363(c)(1)), or if instead Court approval is required (11 U.S.C. 363(b))? How much assurance can there be that spending all these funds will result in the projected gross and net income?

(vi) Double-counting and/or mis-classification?

In addition to the table's listing of expenses, Debtor's Bankruptcy Schedule J, line 21, lists more "Business expenses" of $10,833.00, without explanation. Why are such expenses not included in the table that is supposed to show all business expenses? What is the nature of such expenses?

Debtor's table of business expenses does not include any business meals, but her MOR does list several business meals, as does her Bankruptcy Schedule J, line 21. Again, why are all business expenses not included in the table that is supposed to show all gross income, expenses, and net income from the business?

(vii) Conclusion regarding budget

This Court recognizes that Debtor's use of funds during this bankruptcy case might be a moot point if all goes as she plans, and she is able to sell her home and pay her creditors. But best laid plans do not always work out, and meanwhile creditors and this Court are being left in the dark about Debtor's actual and projected income and expenses.

Debtor is cautioned that if she engaged in transactions that should have been, but were not, authorized, there may be adverse consequences. For example, if those transactions generate any losses/liability, then she might be liable, and such liability might be nondischargeable.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 6/7/19 for Debtor to file an amended budget motion and her declaration addressing all of the foregoing issues, and serve those papers on the UST, Pensco, and any other creditor who requests a copy. The tentative ruling is to set the budget motion for a hearing on the same day as the continued status conference.

Tentative Ruling for 5/7/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues

(a) Budget motion; Bankruptcy Schedule I

Debtor's status report (dkt. 19) anticipates that a budget motion will have been filed already, but as of the preparation of this tentative ruling none has been filed. Debtor has also ignored the instructions on Bankruptcy Schedule I, line 8a (dkt. 20 at PDF p.8) to "Attach a statement for each ... business showing gross receipts, ordinary and necessary business expenses, and the total monthly net income" from the business. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 5/10/19 for filing and serving the budget motion and filing an amended Schedule I.

Is Debtor now in compliance with the requirements of the Office of the United States Trustee ("UST")?

05/21/19

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/4/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Application to employ real estate broker (dkt. 164)

Subject to an adequate explanation regarding the value/price discrepancy for the Atlantic Blvd. Property (see Cathay Bank Obj., dkt. 243, at pp.6:25-7:6), the tentative ruling is to grant the application to employ real estate broker. The tentative ruling is to overrule Cathay Bank's other objections.

(i) Alleged lack of disinterestedness

Although Cathay Bank's supplemental opposition (dkt. 243) argues that the proposed broker, Standard Mortgage, Inc. dba Standard Realty ("Broker") is not "disinterested," and therefore is not eligible for employment under 11 U.S.C. 327(a), the tentative ruling is that this objection is not persuasive. True, an independent contractor with Broker, Mr. Akbari (who previously stated that he was an "employee" of Broker), is married to the sister of the wife of one of Debtor's officers/control persons. Cathay Bank cites authority that, under California law, being a brother-in-law is equivalent to being a brother, so the tentative ruling is that Mr. Akbari is a "relative" of an "officer" or "person in control" of Debtor and therefore he is an "insider." See 11 U.S.C. 101(45) (a "relative" means an "individual related by affinity or consanguinity within the third degree as determined by the common law"); 101(31)(B)(vi) (insider includes a "relative of a ... officer, or person in control of the debtor"). But that does not mean that Broker is an insider.

It also appears to be true that Debtor has not been as forthcoming with the connections between Broker and Debtor as would have been advisable, including both the familial relationships noted above and the recent discovery that Mr. Akbari "was the listing agent on the Cabrillo Street Property (during the nunc pro tunc timeframe in which the Broker is sought to be employed)" Cathay Bank Obj. dkt. 243, p.3:4-6 & Warrington Decl., Ex.1. Finally, as noted in the tentative ruling for 5/21/19, part (1)(b) (reproduced below), the statutory list of insiders "includes" but is not limited to the listed examples (see 11 U.S.C. 102(3)) and in addition this Court notes that a professional must be not only "disinterested" but also must not "hold or represent an interest adverse to the estate." 11 U.S.C. 327(a).

But the tentative ruling is that the facts recited above do not disqualify Broker from employment. A different real estate agent will be handling this matter (Mr. Ahmadi, dkt. 234); there is no evidence that Mr. Ahmadi or Broker itself has any incentive to act in any way adverse to the bankruptcy estate; and the failures to provide disclosure of every arguable "connection" between Broker and Debtor (within the meaning of Rule 2014, Fed. R. Bankr. P.) is unfortunate but understandable given the attenuated nature of the connections (Debtor's officer's wife's sister's husband originally was the listing agent for Broker on one of the four properties to be sold).

(ii) Alleged issues with 4.5% commission

Cathay Bank argues that Debtor has failed to justify a 4.5% commission; but to the contrary, the tentative ruling is that in general this Court should give deference to Debtor's business judgment, and that even without such deference Debtor has provided sufficient evidence that a 4.5% commission is appropriate (see dkt. 234) (Declaration regarding typical commission for commercial properties being 4-6%, and for residential properties 5-6%). Cathay Bank has provided no evidence to the contrary. Nor has Cathay Bank cited authority that Debtors are required to "shop around" for the lowest commission (which might not be the best broker) prior to selecting a broker, especially given that the proposed Broker has agreed to a slightly reduced commission from what is typical (see id. at 3).

(iii) Alleged lack of qualifications re industrial property

The tentative ruling is that although there may be conceptual differences between "industrial" and "commercial" properties, Cathay Bank has not established that any such difference is meaningful in the context of this case and the properties at issue.

(iv) Conclusion as to Broker

The tentative ruling is to grant the application and authorize Broker's employment subject, again, to an adequate explanation regarding the

Tentative Ruling for 5/21/19:

Appearances are not required on 5/21/19.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's counsel's fee application (dkt. 175, 177)

Allow $145,683.50 in fees and $5,714.10 in expenses for a total of $151,397.50, and authorize draw down of the retainer ($124,846.70 remaining), with the balance of the fees and expenses to paid from the estate.

Cathay Bank's response (dkt. 207) does not object to allowance of the fees but seeks to reserve all rights it might have regarding a purported lien on some of the retainer. Debtor's reply (dkt. 215) asserts that the bank has no such rights to reserve because it has been given a replacement lien on the real estate.

This Court's recollection is that the bank did not entirely waive such rights at the hearing on 5/7/19, but did indicate that it was no more going to seek disgorgement from Debtor's firm (of authorized postpetition distributions from the retainer account) than it would seek disgorgement from one of Debtor's utilities (of authorized postpetition utility payments). In any event, whatever the parties' interpretations of the representations on 5/7/19, the issue is too remote for either party to be expending any substantial attorney fees on it at this time.

Cathay Bank has its security interest in the accounts receivable that existed as of the petition date, and it has replacement liens in ongoing accounts receivable. Debtor believes the bank will be paid in full out of those things. But as adequate protection (11 U.S.C. 361, 363(e) & 552(b)) the bank has replacement liens in Debtor's real estate - to cover both (i) any diminution in the value of its security interest in the accounts receivable as of the petition date and (ii) any diminution in the value of its purported security interest in the retainer as of the petition date. Therefore the bank's and Debtor's rights are both reserved, and neither party should be spending much time on this issue. Any attorney fees spent arguing about this issue are subject to this Court's review for reasonableness (under 11 U.S.C. 330 and 331 for Debtor's counsel, and under 11 U.S.C. 506(b) for Cathay Bank's counsel).

(b) Application to employ real estate broker (dkt. 164)

The tentative ruling is, with one exception, to overrule the objection of Cathay Bank (dkt. 199), based on Debtor's reply (dkt. 214). The exception is that, although Debtor has presented evidence of the reasonableness of the broker's proposed commission and experience, and this Court generally should defer to Debtor's business judgment, Cathay Bank makes a good point that the real estate at issue ranges broadly from a single family residence to commercial property etc., and there is insufficient evidence of the proposed broker's specific experience as to each type of real estate. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 5/24/19 for Debtor to file and serve a supplemental declaration detailing such experience, with a deadline of 5/29/19 for any supplemental objection by Cathay Bank, and a continued hearing (if there is any such objection) concurrent with the continued status conference (see below).

As for disinterestedness (11 U.S.C. 101(14), 327(a)), Cathay Bank argues that the broker is not disinterested because, from the information on the docket, it appears that one of its alleged employees (Mr. Akbari) is a relative by marriage of one of Debtor's principals, and the principals are beneficiaries of a trust that engaged in prepetition transactions with Debtor that, according to the bank, violated Debtor's covenants with the bank. On the one hand, it is true that Mr. Akbari previously declared that he was "employed" by the broker (dkt. 77, p.1:22).

On the other hand, this Court interprets that as an (unfortunately) imprecise description of his arrangement as an independent contractor. Alternatively, even if he is an employee, this Court is not persuaded that this disqualifies the broker from employment by the estate.

Mr. Akbari apparently is married to the sister of the wife of one of Debtor's officers/control persons. The tentative ruling is that this makes him related "by affinity or consanguinity" within the fourth degree (1.officer - 2.spouse - 3.sister of spouse - 4.Mr. Akbari), so he is not a "relative" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 101(45) and therefore he is not an "insider" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 101(31)(B)(vi) or (E). That is not dispositive, because, the statutory list of insiders "includes" but is not limited to the listed examples. See 11 U.S.C. 102(3). But the tentative ruling is that the connection has been sufficiently disclosed (Rule 2014, Fed. R. Bankr. P.) and is not disqualifying.

In practical terms, this Court does not perceive that any alleged ties between the proposed real estate broker and Debtor's principal creates any incentive to lessen the price obtained for the real estate, or otherwise prejudice the interests of the bankruptcy estate. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to approve the employment, subject to satisfactory supplemental evidence as set forth above.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 2/20/19.

(a) Bar date: 6/17/19 (timely served, dkt. 129).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: The tentative ruling is to vacate any deadline to file a proposed plan and disclosure statement, given the current posture of this case.

Revised Tentative Ruling for 5/7/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Employment of bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 83)

The tentative ruling is to authorize Debtor's bankruptcy counsel (whose employment has already been approved except for the retainer issue), to draw down on the retainer as otherwise permitted (e.g., after allowance of fees in the forthcoming interim fee application), without deciding at this time whether Cathay Bank does or does not have a traceable security interest in the retainer. Instead the tentative ruling is to grant the Bank a replacement lien, in the full amount of the Bank's disputed lien on the retainer, on Debtor's real estate (to the extent, if any, that the Bank's existing replacement lien does not already apply). That replacement lien would be subject to the same limitations on validity, priority, and amount as this Court has ordered with respect to cash collateral (see dkt. 71).

Reasons: Given the Bank's current debt of approximately $3.1 million (see dkt. 156, p.5:15-21), and the equity in the real estate of approximately $4 million (see id., p.6:4-11), such a replacement lien appears fully sufficient to provide adequate protection. Meanwhile, any further litigation over the retainer issue appears unnecessary and potentially wasteful and distracting from the other, important issues in this bankruptcy case.

(b) Continued use of cash collateral (dkt. 156)

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not sufficiently justified its proposed expenditures under the line item for "Professional Fees (Legal, Accounting)." The tentative ruling is to grant the motion for use of cash collateral, through 8/18/19, except that professional fees must be limited, and the tentative ruling is to set a limit of paying not more than $15,000 per week without further authorization of this Court. (To be clear: if Debtor in its business judgment believes that it must incur more than that amount of professional fees, it may do so, subject to the usual limits on reasonableness of fees, billing judgment, and business judgment - what is limited by this tentative ruling is use of cash collateral, not incurring fees.)

(c) Cathay Bank's adequate protection: replacement liens v. cash payments

The tentative ruling is to deny the Bank's request for interim payments. It is already adequately protected by the protections on the terms of this Court's prior orders and the additional protections set forth above.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 2/20/19.

(1) Current issues

(a) Employment of bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 83)

Debtor is directed to address the issues raised in Cathay Bank's opposition (dkt. 117) (source of retainer; non-consent to use of cash collateral or carve-out; and objection to any Knudsen procedure). In addition, the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) state that counsel must file local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF and also state:

Note: the judge prefers that local form F 2014-1 not repeat the employment application – instead simply say "see application" or the like (reasons: proposed professionals frequently do not track the language of Rule 2014, so the judge requires use of the form so that someone verifies the elements of that rule under penalty of perjury, and so the court staff does not have to do a line-by-line comparison with each element of the Rule).

(b) Employment of special counsel, employment issues (dkt. 113)

See above re local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF.

(c) Employment of BidMed LLC as asset liquidation broker (dkt. 134)

See above re local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF.

In addition, although this employment application is not on for hearing at this time, Debtor and all parties in interest should be aware that Judge Bason has in the past disapproved buyer's premiums. See the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) which provide in part that any order authorizing such employment typically will include a provision stating, "no buyer's premium" for auctioneers. This should not be interpreted as making any economic change in the compensation arrangement - the auctioneer and Debtor can adjust what is paid by Debtor such that the net compensation is the same - but the tentative ruling is that this is required both as a matter of disclosure (of what the professional is charging out of property of the estate or the proceeds of such property) and as a matter of disinterestedness (not being paid by both parties, but only by Debtor).

(ii) Books and records: Grant access to Debtor's historical books and records, and all documents used to create the cash collateral budget and the chart summarizing collateral values, with such access starting on 3/18/19, for Cathay Bank's forensic accountant, James Crossland, to inspect and copy (including copying hard drives), during normal business hours. (iii) Reporting: Require Debtor to file and serve reconciliations, 10 days in arrears on Wednesday of each week (i.e., covering the week that ended 10 days prior), comparing actual results with budgeted results, and calculating variances against budgeted and actual receipts and expenditures.

(iv) CDs: The tentative ruling is that Cathay Bank need not apply any CDs to the extent that they are collateral for standby letters of credit for any liability to workers' compensation insurers. But the parties are directed to address whether there are any other CDs at issue, and why, as a condition for the other adequate protection being granted to Cathay Bank, it should not be required to apply such other CDs against the loans for which they are collateral, so as to stop accruing interest or other charges adverse to Debtor and the bankruptcy estate.

The tentative ruling is to deny Cathay Bank's request for additional adequate protection in the form of monthly payments of interest. Debtor is liquidating much of its business, which creates a situation in which both assets and cash flow are somewhat uncertain. That uncertainty favors granting the Bank the additional adequate protection set forth above; but it also means that Debtor may have urgent needs to use cash for legitimate purposes other than interest payments to the Bank.

The tentative ruling is that all of the foregoing is subject to being revisited as the facts and circumstances develop. For example, if Debtor turns out to have success in collecting the proportion of accounts receivable that it predicts, it might be appropriate to find that Cathay Bank is adequately protected by a lien on less than all of Debtor's remaining real estate. Likewise, if Debtor pays down some of its debt to Cathay Bank through sales of some real property, that might reduce the need for the replacement liens to be as extensive as contemplated by this tentative ruling.

Conversely, if Debtor's accounts receivable appear to be less valuable than predicted by Debtor then Cathay Bank might need every bit of the replacement liens in Debtor's real property and all other assets (except avoidance actions etc.). Ironically, the more dire Debtor's finances, and the greater the risk of administrative insolvency, the stronger the argument that even if the Bank were free to foreclose it would have to pay someone to liquidate Debtor's assets in an orderly fashion (11 U.S.C. 506(c)), and in any event the "equities of the case" might warrant a carve-out for professionals (11 U.S.C. 552(b)). But those are issues that can be addressed when and if there is any need to do so.

The tentative ruling regarding Cathay Bank's evidentiary objections and due process objections (dkt. 78) is that, if this Court adopts the foregoing tentative ruling (granting replacement liens in essentially all of Debtor's assets), then those objections should be overruled because (x) Cathay Bank cannot be granted a replacement lien in greater than "all" of Debtor's assets, so to a large extent the value of those assets is irrelevant, and (y) whatever weaknesses may exist in Debtor's valuation evidence, there is enough to establish on a prima facie basis a reasonable probability that Cathay Bank is sufficiently over-secured to provide it with a substantial equity cushion, which is one form of adequate protection, and that is sufficient for present purposes.

As for the alleged costs of selling property subject to Cathay Bank's replacement liens, this Court can assess for each proposed sale whether Debtor's proposed use of the proceeds is consistent with adequate protection, and whether Cathay Bank is unreasonably withholding its consent under 11 U.S.C. 363(f)(2). In addition, all parties in interest are directed to the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) regarding 363 sales.

(d) Motion to reject collective bargaining agreements (dkt. 62) (the "1113 Motion")

Debtor seeks relief without a hearing, on 14 days' notice (so called "negative notice," or a "scream or die procedure"). But it appears that an actual hearing is required, and must be held quickly, under 11 U.S.C. 1113(d) (1) ("Upon the filing of an application for rejection the court shall schedule a hearing to be held not later than fourteen days after the date of the filing of such application," although "[t]he court may extend the time for the commencement of such hearing for a period not exceeding seven days where the circumstances of the case, and the interest of justice require such extension, or for additional periods of time to which the trustee and [employee's] representative agree.").

The 1113 Motion was filed on 3/1/19. The tentative ruling is to find that granting a short extension is warranted, based on the apparent lack of prejudice from doing so, and that a hearing should be held either on 3/21/19 at 1:00 p.m. or, if the representatives of the various employee groups will consent, concurrent with the continued status conference (see below). Debtor is directed to address what efforts have been made to obtain the consent of any representative who is not present at the hearing. Tentative Ruling for 1/30/18:

Appearances required. The court has reviewed the parties' filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The parties must address (a) why they failed to file the required status report, (b) why the motions for joint administration/consolidation of the two closely related adversary proceedings have not been prosecuted, and (c) the following issues. The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences.

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

Chapter 7

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this court should not formalize the fact that the pending mediation includes this adversary proceeding by issuing an order to mediate this matter together with related adversary proceeding (2:17-ap-01229-NB)? The tentative ruling is to direct counsel for the defendants to lodge a proposed order to that effect.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #1.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

WILMINGTON TRUST, NATIONAL ASSOC
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 73

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." STRATEGIC ACQUISITIONS, INC.
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 120

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) as to sending the required notices under Cal. Civ. Code 2966 - i.e., only to send a 90 day pre-maturity notice on the balloon payment and then record a notice of default and election to sell under deed of trust, but not to issue a notice of sale or hold a foreclosure sale (without a further motion and a further order granting relief from the automatic stay to do those things).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

#6.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

THE PARK TOWERS HOA
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 21

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Docket 18

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is not sufficient evidence and notice.

No prejudice to Debtor intended. Based on the record, it appears that this is a "hijacked" case, and that Debtor is innocent of any involvement. See e.g., In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017) (describing hijacking); In re Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) (same). Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to condition any relief from the automatic stay on this Court's determination that this motion shall not result in the application of sections 109(g)(2) and 362(b)(21)(A) to Debtor or any property other than the property that is the subject of this motion for relief from the automatic stay, and that by not contesting this tentative ruling the movant has waived and forfeited any contrary argument. See In re Leafly, 479 B.R. 545, 550-51 (9th Cir. BAP 2012); In re Mendez, 367 B.R. 109, 116-17 (9th Cir. BAP 2007); In re Luna, 122 B.R. 575, 577 (9th Cir. BAP 1991); Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261, 270.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

#1.00 Hrg re: Motion for Fine and/or Disgorgement of Fees Against Bankruptcy Petition Preparer Jo Bog Yoo aka Jospheh Yoo

Docket 12

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part and deny in part as set forth below. Appearances required because (1) respondent still does not appear to understand what is and is not prohibited by the law, (2) respondent has filed a supplemental opposition (dkt. 18), to which the United States Trustee ("UST") has not had an opportunity to respond, and (3) this Court is tentatively inclined to grant some but not all of the relief requested by the UST, as set forth below.

Proposed order: The UST is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Analysis:

(1) Mr. Yoo still appears to be confused

(a) Mr. Yoo has violated 11 U.S.C. 110

Ignorance of the law generally is no excuse. Under 11 U.S.C. 110 Mr. Yoo is prohibited from (among other things) (i) using the term "legal" or "paralegal" (in any materials viewable by the public) in connection with any bankruptcy-related services (section 110(f)), (ii) receiving filing fees (section 110(g)), or (iii) offering any bankruptcy-related legal advice (section 110(e)(2)(A)&(B)).

Based on the evidence provided by the UST, Mr. Yoo clearly violated the first and second of these prohibitions (using the term "paralegal" and receiving filing fees), and (as discussed further below) he has either violated the third prohibition (providing legal advice) or, alternatively, he has charged more fees than can be allowed for any purported services that do not involve providing legal advice (i.e., generally Mr. Yoo can only charge for typing services, and possibly other minimal non-legal services).

There is no showing that Congress was acting beyond its powers in enacting this law. Moreover, there are good policy reasons for such a law (although, even if there were not good reasons, this Court and Mr. Yoo are bound by the law).

True, Mr. Yoo's stated motivation is commendable when he declares that he "enjoy[s] helping the low-income persons [who have been his clients] as a volunteer in [the] Korean community." Dkt. 13 at PDF p.5. But Mr. Yoo is not qualified to "help" by giving legal advice on bankruptcy matters, and his attempts to "help" may actually cause harm.

For example, to the extent (if any) that Mr. Yoo assisted Debtor in this case by providing any advice (anything more than writing up the bankruptcy petition and, perhaps, some translation), Mr. Yoo may have harmed Debtor because the bankruptcy petition in this case appears to be internally inconsistent in places. That could have caused the Chapter 7 Trustee or creditors to raise objections that Debtor would have been required to address, possibly at considerable expense and risk of a denial of his discharge or other adverse consequences. In any event, whether or not there were any adverse consequences from Mr. Yoo's activities in this particular case, Congress has prohibited Mr. Yoo from engaging in the acts at issue.

Mr. Yoo further demonstrates his lack of full understanding of the law in his supplemental declaration (dkt. 18), which erroneously asserts that the Guidelines and notice to the public issued by the UST he is permitted to use the term "paralegal." That is a mis-reading of the UST's documents (and in any event the UST could not override the statute).

(b) Section 110 does not prohibit Mr. Yoo from providing paralegal services on non-bankruptcy matters (although, in doing so, he must comply with any applicable non-bankruptcy law)

It appears that Mr. Yoo might have over-interpreted what he is prohibited from doing. He declares (dkt. 13, at PDF p.6), "I have already closed my website and will not use the term 'paralegal' for my LDA [Legal Document Assistance] business." This Court does not interpret the statute or the UST Guidelines as prohibiting the use of the term "paralegal" or maintaining a website in connection with any non-bankruptcy services. Any non-bankruptcy services, advertising, fees, and other matters are regulated by applicable non-bankruptcy law, as to which this Court expresses no opinion.

(2) Penalties for violation of 11 U.S.C. 110

(a) Return of some fees paid by Debtor under section 110(h)(2)

Under 11 U.S.C. 110(h)(2), this Court "shall" disallow "any fee received from or on behalf of the debtor within 12 months immediately prior to the filing of the case" that is "found to be in excess of the value of any services rendered by the bankruptcy petition preparer during the 12-month period immediately preceding the date of the filing of the petition." (Emphasis added.) The UST argues that, although its Guidelines permit fees of up to $200 for typing services, Mr. Yoo should not retain more than $50 out of the $200 he received, because the bankruptcy petition papers were not typed - they were handwritten. See dkt. 1. In other words, the UST seeks an order compelling Mr. Yoo to return $150 to Debtor.

The tentative ruling is to require Mr. Yoo to return $25 to Debtor. Although the UST is correct that the petition papers were not typed, it appears that Mr. Yoo hand-wrote them or caused them to be hand-written in English, and permissible activities under 11 U.S.C. 110 include both his act of filling in the petition papers by hand (without providing legal advice) and minimal translation services - i.e., translation of the documents from English into Korean, and translation of Debtor's responses to the documents' questions from Korean into English, if such translation is done without giving any advice on any of the issues prohibited by section 110. Although this Court has some doubts about whether Mr. Yoo could have done this translation without inadvertently providing some legal advice, the tentative ruling on the record presently before this Court is to presume - solely in this present case - that Mr. Yoo's translation did not involve any such prohibited advice.

This Court notes, however, that in future Mr. Yoo may wish to avoid any translation of bankruptcy-related documents because it is extremely difficult to translate even the most basic documents without inadvertently providing some legal advice. For example, the bankruptcy schedules use terms such as "property" that are specialized legal terms that encompass things that might not be obvious and that might not translate well - e.g., "property" of a debtor can include claims against third parties.

provision of subsection ... (e), (f), [or] (g) ... may be fined not more than $500 for each such failure. [11 U.S.C. 110(l)(1) (emphasis added)]

The emphasized language indicates that this fine is discretionary. The tentative ruling is (i) to impose a $1,000 fine: $500 for the violation of section 110(f) and another $500 for the violation of section 110(g), as requested in the U.S. Trustee's motion, but (ii) to suspend the $1,000 fine so long as there are no future violations of section 110 by Mr. Yoo.

#3.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual chapter 11 Case for Order
Authorizing Debtors in Possession to Employ Professional (Other Than General Bankruptcy Counsel)

Docket 38

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part and deny in part as set forth below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: The Egbase firm is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(1) Employment must be under 11 U.S.C. 327(a) not 327(e)

Poser Investments, Inc. ("Poser") points out in its Opposition (adv. dkt. 3, pp.3:23-4:12) that, under the majority of courts' interpretation of the statute, employment of special counsel under section 327(e) is limited to attorneys who represented the debtors in the special proceedings prepetition. The tentative ruling is that Poser's reading of the statute is correct, but that is not the end of the story.

The tentative ruling is to follow the decision of the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel for the Ninth Circuit (the "BAP") in holding that, while employment cannot be authorized under section 327(e) in such circumstances, it can be authorized under section 327(a). See In re Fondiller, 15 B.R. 890 (9th Cir. BAP 1981). Section 327(e) expressly permits employment notwithstanding a lack of disinterestedness, whereas section 327(a) requires disinterestedness with respect to all matters on which the professional is proposed to be employed. See id. But both statutory provisions can be used to authorize limited employment (or, as in this case, an expansion of employment to handle a special matter). See id.

(2) This Court construes the motion as seeking an expansion of employment

Chapter 11

The Egbase firm has already been employed under 11 U.S.C. 327(a) to handle general bankruptcy matters. See dk. 18, 63. This Court construes the present motion as seeking an expansion of such employment to represent Debtors in this adversary proceeding. True, the Egbase firm incorrectly checked the box on the form motion for employment of special counsel under 11 U.S.C. 327(e), but the form does not include an option to expand existing employment to handle special matters, which clearly is the intent.

(3) Retroactive authorization of employment has not been justified, beyond the usual period of approximately 30 days

Poser cites authority that retroactive authorization for employment must be limited to "exceptional circumstances" in which the applicant shows "both [a] a satisfactory explanation for the failure to receive prior judicial approval and [b] that he or she has benefited the bankrupt estate in some significant manner." In re THC Fin. Corp., 837 F.2d 389, 392 (9th Cir. 1988). As to the first of these two requirements, Poser cites authority that ordinary negligence cannot qualify as a "satisfactory explanation." See In re Downtown Inv. Club III, 89 B.R. 59, 63-64 (9th Cir. BAP 1988). In addition, Poser notes that it has repeatedly pointed out Debtors' counsel's need to appear and be employed See, e.g., [Adv.] Docket No. 13-1 at [p.5:10-11] ("A.O.E. Law & Associates, APC have not formally substituted into the case on behalf of the Debtors"); [Adv.] Docket No. 30 at 11 [lines 12-15] ("The Debtors' Bankruptcy Counsel Has Not Been Employed in This Case").

Based on the foregoing, the tentative ruling is that the Egbase firm cannot meet the first requirement. In addition, the tentative ruling is that the Egbase firm cannot show that it has "benefited the bankrupt estate in some significant manner" because, even assuming that the attempt to relitigate Debtors' liability to Poser might have ultimately benefitted the bankruptcy estate if it had been successful, it has not been successful.

All of that said, this Court recognizes that it is typical for proposed representatives of the estate to file papers seeking retroactive authorization for up to approximately 30 days from when the employment application is filed, because almost inevitably the professional must attend to urgent matters that take precedence. In this case the motion for employment was filed on 5/3/19 (adv. dkt. 38), so the tentative ruling is to authorize the expanded employment as of 4/3/19. Fees incurred prior to that time may not be awarded.

(4) Employment is otherwise appropriate, subject to minor adjustments

Except for retroactivity as noted above, the proposed expansion of employment of the Egbase firm to cover this adversary proceeding appears to be appropriate. The standard limitations will apply (per the posted Procedures of Judge Bason, available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov):

Notwithstanding any other provisions, Judge Bason's standard terms apply (unless struck through): (a) employment is per 11 U.S.C. § 327 not § 328; (b) payment only per 11 U.S.C. § 330(a) - no lien or superpriority claim is allowed (except as explicitly allowed – e.g., realtor commissions on court-approved sales); (c) maximum 2 hours per day of non-working time (e.g., travel, or waiting for matter to be called) absent an adequate explanation; (d) no buyers' premium for auctioneers; (e) no dual agency; (f) all matters relating to the professional's engagement, compensation and costs shall be resolved in this court, notwithstanding any provisions for arbitration, choice of venue, or the like, and (g) any indemnification, limitation of damages or the like is ineffective. See generally In re Circle K Corp., 279 F.3d 669 (9th Cir. 2002) and 11 U.S.C. § 327(a) (professionals may not "hold or represent an interest adverse to the estate"). [Emphasis omitted.]

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/11/19

Appearances are not required.

(1) Current Issues

(a) Motion to Extend Exclusivity Period (dkt. 180)

The tentative ruling is to grant the Motion and extend the exclusivity deadline to file a chapter 11 plan to 8/23/19 and the deadline to obtain acceptance of that plan to 10/22/19.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order on the foregoing motion via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, subject to any modifications on the record at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 1/25/19.

(a) Bar date: 5/17/19 (dkt. 65) (served 2/22/19).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: [TBD] At a future status conference this Court anticipates setting a deadline will be set for filing, using the forms required by Judge Bason (DO NOT SERVE yet, except on the U.S. Trustee - this Court will set a deadline and procedures at a later time).

(c) Continued status conference: 7/30/19 at 1:00 p.m. (to be concurrent with the status conference in Debtor's adversary proceeding against Strategic, Adv. No. 2:19-ap-01135-NB), no written status report required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Tentative Ruling for 5/14/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's Objection and Motion to Strike ("Motion to Strike," dkt. 175) Request for Judicial Notice by Strategic Partners, Inc. ("Strategic," dkt. 161)

Deny. This Court can take judicial notice of the Magistrate Judge's report and recommendation for the limited purpose of showing that there is a substantial risk that Debtor will have a substantial debt to Strategic. That issue is relevant to the purposes, risks, and benefits of Debtor's proposed financing.

(b) Motion for Authority to Obtain Credit (dkt. 129, the "DIP Financing Motion")

Grant the DIP Financing Motion on a final basis on the same terms as set forth in the interim order (dkt. 159), and overrule Strategic's supplemental objection (dkt. 168), for the reasons set forth in Debtor's supplemental reply (dkt. 174) at pp. 3:6-5:13 & nn. 4 & 5, and based on this Court's review of Debtor's projected budget (dkt. 151, Ex.A) and Debtor's postpetition financial performance (e.g., dkt. 146). The tentative ruling is that the proposed financing has been shown to be appropriate under the statutory standards (11 U.S.C. 364(d)) and that Debtor has met its burden to show adequate protection of Strategic's interests in property of the bankruptcy estate (id.).

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this latest tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any modifications on the record at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(1) Current issues

(a) Cash Collateral Motion (dkt. 4)

Grant on a final basis.

(b) Motion for Authority to Obtain Credit (dkt. 129, the "DIP Motion")

Grant the DIP Motion on an interim basis and continued for a final hearing at the same time as the continued status conference, based on the assertions that Wells Fargo has an oversecured, unavoidable, perfected lien. If those assertions turn out to be untrue, the DIP financing will be rejected.

basis, on the same terms as in the interim order (dkt. 27).

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 1/25/19.

(a) Bar date: 5/17/19 (dkt. 65). Note: This Court's order setting the bar date (dkt. 65) directed Debtor to serve that order on all parties in interest no later than 2/22/19. Debtor's proof of service (dkt. 82) is deficient.

First, the declarant alleges (dkt. 82, pp.1:25-2:3) that someone else (an unnamed person) served the order. That is inadequate: a declaration of service must be based on personal knowledge.

Second, it appears that the person who served the order was someone employed by Debtor. Traditionally, service must be verified by someone who is "not a party" (see Rule 7004(a)(1), Fed. R. Bankr. P.), and Debtor has not cited any authority that the rule is different in bankruptcy cases.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/4/19 for Debtor's counsel to re-serve the bar date order and file a proof of service that complies with the applicable rules. (This Court recognizes that this second notice of the bar date will not be received until closer to that bar date, but in the circumstances that appears to be appropriate.)

(b) Order setting principal status conference. The same deficiencies apply to the purported proof of service (dkt. 53) of this Court's order (dkt. 38) setting this principal status conference.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/4/19 for Debtor's counsel to re-serve the principal status conference order and file a proof of service that complies with the applicable rules. (This Court recognizes that this second service of the principal status conference order will occur after the principal status conference; but in the circumstances that appears to be appropriate because that order provides official notice of important matters, such as notice that this Court can issue case-dispositive orders at any status conference.)

(c) Proofs of service generally. In addition to the foregoing, Debtor's

Tentative Ruling for 6/11/19:

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion to Allow Late-filed Proof of Claim as a Timely Filed Proof of Claim (dkt. 98)

Grant, subject to Debtor's reservation of rights to object to the substance of the claim. See Ltd. Opp. (dkt. 101) and Reply (dkt. 102).

Appearances are not required regarding this motion.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(b) Plan and Disclosure Statement (dkt. 68,69)

The parties are directed to address (i) whether Debtor projects that $90,000 or $240,000 will be available fourteen months after the Effective Date of the Plan - based on Ex.C to the Disclosure Statement (dkt. 68), the tentative ruling is that it is the former; and (ii) Debtor's evidence of feasibility asserting that if necessary Debtor will "seek" additional equity contributions (dkt. 95, p.3:2-6) and the evidence provided by the objecting tenants in Class 6 of the Plan that Debtor will need between approximately $600,000 and $650,000 to pay the insurance replacement cost of the mobile homes (plus, for those tenants who elect to remove their mobile homes, another $2,000, under the terms of the Plan). See Disclosure Statement (dkt. 68) Ex.I, incorporated into Plan, dkt.69 (Ex.A class 6, Ex.H Note 2); Order conditionally approving Plan subject to feasibility evidence (dkt. 93); Starflinger Decl. re feasibility (dkt. 95); and Tenants' Obj. Tentative Ruling for 3/26/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) UST motion to dismiss (dkt. 79)

Have the issues in this motion been resolved (see dkt. 82)?

(b) Third amended plan (dkt. 69) and disclosure statement (dkt. 68)

The tentative ruling is to approve the Disclosure Statement on a final basis, and confirm the Plan for the following reasons.

Service of the voting package and notice (dkt. 75, 77) appears to have complied with this Court's orders setting this hearing (dkt. 71, 72). The ballot summary (dkt. 81) shows timely acceptance by Classes 2A, 2B, and 2C, untimely acceptance by Class 2D (the last of the secured claim classes), a lack of any votes by Class 4 (nonpriority unsecured creditors, who are to receive a 30% distribution under the Plan), and votes against the plan by Class 6 (mobile home park tenants, who may receive up to the value of their mobile home, if they hold a valid tenancy, or $2,000 for removing the mobile home). Because not every impaired class has accepted the Plan (paragraph "(8)" of 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)), Debtor must satisfy the requirements for "cramdown" under subsection "(b)" of 11 U.S.C. 1129, as well as the other requirements of subsection "(a)."

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has done so. Cramdown requires, among other things, that a plan be "fair and equitable" and not "discriminate unfairly" as to non-accepting impaired classes. 11 U.S.C. 1129(b).

None of the non-accepting classes have filed any objections to confirmation of the Plan or final approval of the adequacy of the Disclosure Statement. The treatment of Class 2D is justified by its belated acceptance of the Plan. The treatment of Class 4 appears to be justified by the legal requirement to pay secured creditors ahead of unsecured creditors, the "new value" contribution of Debtor's principal, and Debtor's cash flow projections.

The treatment of Class 6 appears to be justified by Debtor's disclosure of its legal theory for displacing the mobile home park tenants, and the absence of any contrary arguments or authority. See Disclosure Statement, Exhibit "I" (dkt. 68 at PDF pp.22-24).

The final requirement is the other elements of 11 U.S.C. 1129(a). Those appear to have been satisfied, both by Debtor's use of this Court's form of plan and disclosure statement and by the data included when Debtor completed those forms.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling for 3/26/19, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B). In addition, the proposed order must include the language required by Local Rule 3020-1(b), including a post-confirmation status conference as set forth below.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 5/15/18.

(a) Bar date: 8/14/18 (dkt. 35), timely served (dkt. 38).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement (dkt. 68, 69)*: See above.

(c) Post-confirmation status conference: 7/9/19 at 1:00 p.m. Status report due 6/25/19.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Chapter 11

It appears that counsel for Debtor has manually altered the spreadsheets, which defeats the purpose of having automatic (reliable) calculations in the spreadsheets. In addition, it appears that the Plan periods in Ex.A are "1" month and 13 months later (month "14"), whereas on Ex.C Period A is 3 months, Period B is 1 month, and Period C is 6 months, which does not match. In addition, the Effective Date (e.g., on Ex.A & Ex. C) should be revised to a date that is at least two weeks after the combined hearing on the plan and D/S set forth below.

Subject to correction of these issues, the tentative ruling is to conditionally approve the disclosure statement and authorize service of the voting package, all as set forth below.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 5/15/18.

(a) Bar date: 8/14/18 (dkt. 35), timely served (dkt. 38).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement (dkt. 64,63)*: 12/18/18 deadline (i) to file (NOT SERVE - except on the U.S. Trustee) any redlined revisions to be discussed at the status conference and (ii) to lodge Judge Bason's form of order authorizing service of the voting package, setting deadlines, and setting a combined hearing on final approval of the Disclosure Statement and confirmation of the Plan for the same time as the continued status conference. The proposed order should be modified so that the voting package includes Mr. Starflinger's declaration (dkt. 65).

Note: If the U.S. Trustee wishes to file initial comments on any draft Plan documents before the regular deadline, it should do so at least two weeks prior to the subsequent status conference (but, whether or not any comments are filed, all rights are reserved to object to the Disclosure Statement or Plan when deadline(s) for such objections are established).

(c) Continued status conference: 3/12/19 at 1:00 p.m. No status report required.

Docket 7

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/11/19:

Apperances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Second Amended Disclosure Statement (dkt. 74) and Plan (dkt. 75)

The parties are directed to address the following issues.

First, Debtor has not filed any ballot summary. Why not?

Second, what is the appropriate treatment of Class 2B: the claim of Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. ("Wells Fargo")? Debtor's Plan lists a claim of $189,058.31 for Wells Fargo, to be paid over 360 months (30 years) with 5.8% interest, resulting in amortizing payments of $1,109.31/mo. Plan, Ex.A (dkt. 74, p.6). Wells Fargo objects (dkt. 80) that its claim is actually $190,388.01 as of 4/22/19, and that it does not consent to a 30-year amortization but instead seeks payment over approximately 25.6 years, by the existing maturity date of 2/7/2045. This Court calculates that, if the Effective Date is approximately 7/1/19 then the term proposed by Wells Fargo would be approximately 307 months, and with 5.8% interest the amortizing payments would need to be $1,191.33/mo. (this calculation is solely for purposes of this tentative ruling, and the parties are encouraged to do their own calculations).

The tentative ruling is that such a modification of the Plan would be feasible. Debtor's projected budget (Disclosure Statement Ex.C, dkt. 73 at PDF p.6) reflects anticipated positive cash flow of $457.91/mo.

In addition, the tentative ruling is that such a modification of the Plan would not adversely change the treatment of any claim. Therefore under Rule 3019(a) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) it will not be necessary to re-solicit votes, assuming for purposes of discussion that Debtor has received sufficient votes

The tentative ruling is to authorize and direct Debtor to fill out and lodge, no later than 4/25/19, the form of order on Judge Bason's portion of the Court's website (www.cacb.uscourts.gov) setting a combined hearing on final approval of the disclosure statement and confirmation of the Plan. #2.00 Hrg re: Motion under Local Bankruptcy Rule 3015-1 (n) and (w) to modify plan or suspend plan payments

Docket 55

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required. On the one hand, this Court is inclined to deny the motion and dismiss this case because of (a) concerns about Debtor apparently under-paying creditors by shifting to them all of the risks and less than all of the gains of gambling and (b) concerns about exceeding the 60 month term (by as much as 12 months). On the other hand, despite Debtor's failure to file a response to this motion, it appears that she denies having failed to abide by her obligation to report income, which might be relevant. See dkt. 57.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Chapter 13

#4.00 Hrg re: Motion for order reconsidering the imposition of a 180-day 11 U.S.C. section 109(g) prohibition against filing a new case

Docket 39

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part and deny in part as set forth below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Reasons:

As set forth in this Court's Order Setting Hearing on Motion to Reconsider (dkt. 41), the tentative ruling is as follows:

On the one hand, this Court has no power to remove the statutory bar imposed by 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1) (the tentative ruling is to disagree, respectfully, with decisions interpreting the statute to provide this Court with discretion whether to impose the 180-day bar). See, e.g., In re Payton, 481 B.R. 460 (Bankr. ND Ill. 2012).

On the other hand, nothing appears to prevent this Court from granting the ultimate relief requested in the Reconsideration Motion - based on mistake, inadvertence, or excusable neglect (see Rule 9023 and 9024, Fed. R. Bankr. P.) - by (a) vacating this Court's earlier order for dismissal based on Debtors' motion and (b) immediately issuing a new order dismissing this case on this Court's own motion (11 U.S.C. 105(a)), based on Debtors' admission that without the prior contributor's funds their confirmed chapter 13 plan is infeasible.

The tentative ruling is that, although it would be inappropriate to grant any such relief if Debtors had exhibited an abuse of the bankruptcy system, it is entirely appropriate to grant such relief absent any such abuse; and then once enough time has passed for Debtors to be eligible for a chapter 7

Grant in full, and award $4,962.55 in supplemental attorney's fees, for the reasons stated in the Application (dkt. 84) and Reply (dkt. 93), and overrule the Opposition (dkt. 84), based on this Court's careful review of those papers, the other filed documents in this case, and this Court's records (e.g., of the matters that were skillfully handled by Applicant at the hearing on 9/27/18 at 8:30 a.m. - see dkt. 71). Appearances required so as (1) to address the apparent lack of understanding by Debtor regarding the workings of prepetition defaults, adequate protection orders, postpetition defaults, and attorney fees in bankruptcy cases and (2) to address with Debtor and her new attorneys that continued non-meritorious litigation may result in adverse consequences, such as dismissal of this bankruptcy case without a discharge, or denial of fees for her new attorneys. *Compare Baker Botts LLP v. Docket 60

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part as set forth below, and continue this hearing to 7/18/19 at 8:30 a.m. Appearances are not required on 6/13/19.

Option for interim order: Debtor may lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's interim ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Analysis:

Based on the objection (dkt. 60) and the response (dkt. 62) the tentative ruling is to issue an order (a) directing the Chapter 13 Trustee not to make any further distributions on account of the prepetition arrears that were owed to the Bank of New York Mellon (the "Bank") and (b) directing the Bank to return to the Chapter 13 Trustee any funds paid to it by the Trustee to after 2/1/29 (the Loan Modification effective date) (see dkt 55, 58). In addition, the tentative ruling is to continue this hearing to the time set forth at the start of this tentative ruling, so as to provide the Bank with time to amend its proof of claim ("POC") to reflect the changes made by the Loan Modification, including the deferred principal balance. If the amended POC moots this objection, Debtor is directed to file and serve a written withdrawal of this claim objection.

Docket 22

Tentative Ruling:

Continue to 7/18/19 at 8:30 a.m. to address the following issues.
Appearances are not required on 6/13/19.

Lack of cost/benefit analysis. The posted Procedures of Judge Bason
(available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) provide:

§ 502: claim objections & cost/benefit analysis. When objecting to claims, be sure to include an analysis of whether the costs of preparing and litigating the claim objection (administrative expenses) do not exceed the anticipated benefits (reductions in claims). For example, if the anticipated dividend is small or 0% then the attorney fees incurred in prosecuting your claim objection to any general unsecured claim probably will exceed the benefit to the bankruptcy estate/debtor, so filing that objection would be a waste of the bankruptcy estate's (and everyone else's) resources (unless, for example, the claim is nondischargeable, in which event the attorney fees might well be justified).

No later than 7 days after the date of this hearing the movant must file either:

(1) a supplemental declaration explaining why the attorney fees for this objection are justified (including supporting evidence, such as a copy of the plan showing the projected dividend to the claimant, and a calculation comparing that projected dividend against the attorney fees related to this claim objection), or

(2) a withdrawal of the claim objection.

No fees on this matter, absent specific authorization. Counsel is directed not to charge any fees on this matter (including all past, present and future work related to this claim objection), and to return any fees received on this matter, unless and until this Court expressly finds: "Counsel has provided a

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The tentative ruling is to grant the motion (sustain the claim objection) to the extent of (1) categorizing both Claim 17-1 and 18-1 as non-priority unsecured claims, and (2) disallowing $705.00 of Claim 17-1, because the evidence is that this dollar amount is based on vehicles that Debtor does not own. In other words, the tentative ruling is that Claim 17-1 is allowed as a reduced to nonpriority unsecured claim of $3,335.00 ($4,040.00 - $705.00 = $3,335.00), and Claim 18-1 is allowed as a $410.00 nonpriority unsecured claim. #15.00 Hrg re: Debtor's motion for order disallowing proof of claim 1-1 by Claimant Calvary SPV I, LLC as assignee of Citibank, N.A./AT&T

Tentative Ruling:

Deny (overrule the objection to claim 1 of Calvary SPV I, LLC) and deny any attorney fees associated with this claim objection, for the reasons stated below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Reasons for denial:

(1) Debtor's objection (dkt. 40) ignores Rule 3001(c)(3) and appellate authority

The Proof of Claim contains all of the documentation required by Rule 3001(c)(3)(A)(i) through (v) (Fed. R Bankr. P.). Therefore it is prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim. Fed. R. Bankr. P. 3001(f).

Alternatively, even if the claim were not entitled to prima facie validity (which it is), the burden is on Debtor to come forward with evidence and legal arguments sufficient to disallow the claim. 11 U.S.C. 502(a). See In re Campbell, 336 B.R. 430 (9th Cir. BAP 2005); In re Heath, 331 B.R. 424 (9th Cir. BAP 2005). Debtor has not, for example, asserted that this is a case of identity theft; or that he timely disputed a charge after receiving a monthly statement and that dispute was still pending as of the petition date; or any other basis to dispute this debt.

For each of these reasons, Debtor has failed to meet his burden to establish a basis to disallow the claim.

(2) No cost/benefit analysis

§ 502: claim objections & cost/benefit analysis. When objecting to claims, be sure to include an analysis of whether the costs of preparing and litigating the claim objection (administrative expenses) do not exceed the anticipated benefits (reductions in claims). For example, if the anticipated dividend is small or 0% then the attorney fees incurred in prosecuting your claim objection to any general unsecured claim probably will exceed the benefit to the bankruptcy estate/debtor, so filing that objection would be a waste of the bankruptcy estate's (and everyone else's) resources (unless, for example, the claim is nondischargeable, in which event the attorney fees might well be justified).

No such cost/benefit analysis is included in the claim objection.

(3) No fees on this matter, absent specific authorization

Counsel is directed not to charge any fees on this matter (including all past, present and future work related to this claim objection), and to return any fees received on this matter, unless and until this Court expressly finds: "Counsel has provided a cost/benefit analysis that is sufficient for purposes of Judge Bason's posted Procedures regarding claim objections."

Counsel has the option of filing a declaration with evidence establishing that this claim objection was warranted under a cost/benefit analysis, and lodging a proposed order that includes the foregoing quoted phrase permitting fees to be charged for this matter. But, in view of the Rule and appellate authority that this claim objection lacks merit, this Court questions whether the cost/benefit analysis can be satisfied.

Caution: This Court does not have the capacity to monitor all fee applications to assure compliance with the foregoing limitation on fees. But if counsel is found to have disregarded this limitation then this Court may impose sanctions.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Chapter 13

#16.00 Hrg re: Debtor's motion for order disallowing proof of claim 2-1 by Claimant Calvary SPV I, LLC as assignee of Citibank, N.A.

Docket 41

Tentative Ruling:

Deny (overrule the objection to claim 2 of Calvary SPV I, LLC) and deny any attorney fees associated with this claim objection, for the reasons stated below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Reasons for denial:

(1) Debtor's objection (dkt. 40) ignores Rule 3001(c)(3) and appellate authority

The Proof of Claim contains all of the documentation required by Rule 3001(c)(3)(A)(i) through (v) (Fed. R Bankr. P.). Therefore it is prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim. Fed. R. Bankr. P. 3001(f).

Alternatively, even if the claim were not entitled to prima facie validity (which it is), the burden is on Debtor to come forward with evidence and legal arguments sufficient to disallow the claim. 11 U.S.C. 502(a). See In re Campbell, 336 B.R. 430 (9th Cir. BAP 2005); In re Heath, 331 B.R. 424 (9th Cir. BAP 2005). Debtor has not, for example, asserted that this is a case of identity theft; or that he timely disputed a charge after receiving a monthly statement and that dispute was still pending as of the petition date; or any other basis to dispute this debt.

For each of these reasons, Debtor has failed to meet his burden to establish a basis to disallow the claim.

(2) No cost/benefit analysis

Tentative Ruling for 6/13/19

Deny as moot. Creditor has filed an amended proof of claim (Claim No. 4-2), which reduces the arrears to $2,659.25. According to the Proof of Claim, that was the dollar amount disbursed by the Chapter 13 Trustee prior to the loan modification. Therefore it appears that the amended claim renders the claim objection moot. Appearances are not required.

Deny, without prejudice. This Court has reviewed Debtor's supplemental declaration (dkt. 28), but that declaration is based on a "Purchase Voucher" showing what a retail merchant (Nissani Brothers CDJR Hyundai) would pay for the vehicle (see dkt. 28 at PDF p.4), not the "replacement value" that a retail merchant would charge the public for a vehicle of similar age and condition, as of the petition date, without deduction for costs of sale or marketing. 11 U.S.C. 506(a)(2). Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Evidence of value

Although owners of property generally are deemed competent to provide opinion testimony regarding the value of that property, in this case Debtor's opinion lacks any stated foundation. The tentative ruling is to require as a foundation a Kelley Blue Book report, or similar valuation. That valuation must establish the "replacement value" (not trade-in value) that a "retail merchant" would charge the public for a vehicle of similar age and condition, as of the petition date, "without deduction for costs of sale or marketing." 11 U.S.C. 506(a)(2). This Court's requirement of such foundational evidence, notwithstanding the lack of response by the creditor, is pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 105(a), 506(a)(2); Rule 104(a), 403, 602 and 701 (Fed. R. Evid.); and Rules 9014(c) and 7055 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) which, in this Court's discretion, incorporate Rule 55(b)(2)(B) and not Rule 55(b)(1) (Fed. R. Civ. P.). See also In re Heath, 331 B.R. 424 (9th Cir. BAP 2005) (affirming bankruptcy court's disallowal of claims even though some creditors did not respond).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #24.00 Cont'd hrg re: Motion to Disallow Claim No. 6
Filed by Discover Bank
fr. 05/16/19

Docket 39

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/13/19:

Deny (overrule the objection to claim #6 of Discover Bank). Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Reasons for denial:

The tentative ruling, adopted as this Court's final ruling, from the 5/16/19 hearing directed Debtor's counsel to either file a supplemental declaration explaining why the attorney fees for this objection are justified or withdrawing the claim objection within seven days of the hearing. As of the date of this tentative ruling, Debtor's counsel has done neither of those things.

Counsel is directed not to charge any fees on this matter (including all past, present and future work related to this claim objection), and to return any fees received on this matter, as set forth below.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Chapter 13

Continue to 6/13/19 at 8:30 a.m. to address the following issues.
Appearances are not required on 5/11/19.

Lack of cost/benefit analysis. The posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) provide:

§ 502: claim objections & cost/benefit analysis. When objecting to claims, be sure to include an analysis of whether the costs of preparing and litigating the claim objection (administrative expenses) do not exceed the anticipated benefits (reductions in claims). For example, if the anticipated dividend is small or 0% then the attorney fees incurred in prosecuting your claim objection to any general unsecured claim probably will exceed the benefit to the bankruptcy estate/debtor, so filing that objection would be a waste of the bankruptcy estate's (and everyone else's) resources (unless, for example, the claim is nondischargeable, in which event the attorney fees might well be justified).

No later than 7 days after the date of this hearing the movant must file either:

(1) a supplemental declaration explaining why the attorney fees for this objection are justified (including supporting evidence, such as a copy of the plan showing the projected dividend to the claimant, and a calculation comparing that projected dividend against the attorney fees related to this claim objection), or

(2) a withdrawal of the claim objection.

No fees on this matter, absent specific authorization. Counsel is directed not to charge any fees on this matter (including all past, present and future work related to this claim objection), and to return any fees received on this matter, unless and until this Court expressly finds: "Counsel has provided a cost/benefit analysis that is sufficient for purposes of Judge Bason's posted Procedures regarding claim objections." It is counsel's responsibility to include the quoted phrase, if warranted, in the proposed order on this claim objection.

This Court does not have the capacity to monitor all fee applications to assure compliance with the foregoing limitation on fees. But if counsel is found to have disregarded this limitation then this Court may impose sanctions.

Chapter 13

#25.00 Cont'd order to show cause why Synchrony and Cir Law Firm should not be sanctioned for violating the automatic stay and/or co-debtor stay
fr. 4/18/19

Docket 33

Tentative Ruling:

Supplemental Tentative Ruling for 6/13/19:

Grant, and award damages in a dollar amount to be determined in future proceedings.

(1) Overview

This Court finds it helpful to distinguish between (a) in personam liability against (i) Debtor or (ii) Debtor's non-debtor spouse, Mr. Robert Ciufo ("Codebtor"), and (2) in rem liability against property of (i) Debtor or (ii) the bankruptcy estate. For example, the automatic stay distinguishes between acts to obtain possession of "property" of the estate (in rem liability, 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(3)) and acts to collect "a claim against the debtor" (in personam liability, 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(6)).

As Debtor notes (dkt. 29, p.13:7-15), the bankruptcy estate is broad. It encompasses "[a]ll interests of the debtor and the debtor's spouse in community property as of the commencement of the case" that is either under Debtor's sole or joint "control" or that is "liable for an allowable claim against the debtor, or for both an allowable claim against the debtor and an allowable claim against the debtor's spouse, to the extent that such interest is so liable." 11 U.S.C. 541(a)(2) (emphasis added). In addition, under 11 U.S.C. 1306(a)(1), property of the estate includes all property of the same kind acquired "after the commencement of the case"

With this background this tentative ruling first reviews the applicability of the automatic stay, and then reviews the codebtor stay. Then this tentative ruling turns to damages.

(2) Violation of the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(a))

Chapter 13

Debtor argues that paragraph "(1)" of subsection 362(a) was violated. This Court agrees. In addition, the tentative ruling is that at least one other paragraph of section 362(a) applies.

(a) Paragraph "(1)"

The automatic stay bars "the commencement or continuation, including the issuance or employment of process, of a judicial, administrative, or other action or proceeding against the debtor that was or could have been commenced before the commencement of the case under this title, or to recover a claim against the debtor that arose before the commencement of the case under this title." 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(1) (emphasis added). Debtor argues that there is a "claim against the debtor" because California Family Code section 914 "makes his debt hers." Dkt. 42, p.2:23 (capitalization altered).

Respondents argue (dkt. 40, p.4:4-16) that Family Code section 914 applies as between spouses - in the context of a divorce, for example - and does not establish in personam liability of Debtor to respondents. Respondent cites no authority so holding, and this Court is not persuaded for two alternative reasons.

(i) Respondents' efforts to collect from Codebtor were efforts to collect from Debtor's property interests

True, Respondents' nonbankruptcy action only named Codebtor, not Debtor. But that is still an attempt to collect a claim against Debtor under the applicable law.

Respondents have not identified any separate property of Codebtor, let alone established that they limited their nonbankruptcy action to collect solely out of any such separate property. Debtor has a community property interest in all community property, which includes Codebtor's earnings. See, e.g., In re Kimmel, 367 B.R. 174 (Bankr. ND Cal. 2007). Under Family Code section 910(a), "Except as otherwise expressly provided by statute, the community estate is liable for a debt incurred by either spouse before or during marriage, regardless of which spouse has the management and control of the property and regardless of whether one or both spouses are parties to the debt or to a judgment for the debt." (Emphasis added.) Under 11 U.S.C. 102(2), "claim against the debtor" includes claim against property of the debtor." Therefore, Debtor is correct that the debt at issue constitutes a "claim against the debtor" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(1).

(ii) Alternatively, because the debt at issue was for

Chapter 13

"necessaries," Respondents were attempting to collect a debt on which Debtor has in personam liability

Debtor has made a prima facie showing that the debt at issue is for "necessaries of life" (within the meaning of Family Code section 914) because the debt was for gas for Codebtor's car so he could get to work. Respondents have not overcome that prima facie showing. Therefore, Family Code section 914 expands the community property liability (section 910) such that Debtor has in personam liability (and Debtor's separate property is also liable).

Specifically, although the general rule under Family Code section 913(b)(1) is that, "The separate property of a married person is not liable for a debt incurred by the person's spouse before or during marriage," section 914 provides:

(a) Notwithstanding Section 913, a married person is personally liable for the following debts incurred by the person's spouse during marriage:

(1) A debt incurred for necessities of life of the person's spouse

(b) The separate property of a married person may be applied to the satisfaction of a debt for which the person is personally liable pursuant to this section. ... [Emphasis added.]

In other words, even if respondents were not pursuing a claim against property of Debtor (which they were), they were pursuing a claim on which Debtor is personally liable to respondents. True, their action did not name Debtor, but section 362(a)(1) does not include any such requirement that the action or proceeding at issue name the debtor as a defendant.

Nor would it make sense to read such a limitation into the statute. Congress presumably knew that collecting a claim against a debtor in bankruptcy from some non-debtor source very likely would give rise to claims for indemnity, contribution, and the like. So it would make no sense to read the automatic stay as inapplicable unless the action specifically names the debtor. That would gut the "breathing spell" that the automatic stay is supposed to provide.

(iii) Respondents misread In re Fadel

Respondents cite In re Fadel, 492 B.R. 1 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (dkt. 40, pp.4:4-5:16) for the proposition that Family Code section 914 only applies when a debtor's separate property is used to pay debts (at which point the debtor can then seek reimbursement from the nondebtor spouse). Respondents misread Fadel. In that case the creditor was pursuing foreclosure of the nondebtor husband's separate property, the debtor wife was not liable on the deed of trust note, and the BAP was only observing that, because the debtor wife had not used her separate property to satisfy her husband's debt, no reimbursement rights were triggered under Family Code section 914 and, in that context, the statute was inapplicable. Id. at 16.

(iv) Conclusion as to section 362(a)(1)

Respondents violated the automatic stay's prohibition on any proceeding to recover "a claim against the debtor" (11 U.S.C. 362(a)(1)) on two alternative grounds. They pursued a claim against Codebtor, and that counts as a "claim against the debtor" under 11 U.S.C. 102(3) because of Debtor's property interest in community property and Codebtor's earnings. Alternatively, respondents pursued a claim arising from "necessaries," as to which Debtor has in personam liability.

(b) Paragraph "(3)"

The automatic stay bars, among other things, "any act to obtain possession of property of the estate or of property from the estate or to exercise control over property of the estate." 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(3) (emphasis added). As already noted, Debtor has a community property interest in her husband's earnings, so respondents' acts to collect from Codebtor's earnings (or other community property) violated section 362(a)(3).

(3) Violation of the codebtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301)

With inapplicable exceptions, the codebtor stay provides that "a creditor may not act, or commence or continue any civil action, to collect all or any part of a consumer debt of the debtor from any individual that is liable on such debt with the debtor" 11 U.S.C. 1301(a) (emphasis added). Respondents argue that a "debt of the debtor" in section 1301(a) is different from a "claim against the debtor" under section 362(a)(1), even though the term "debt" is defined by statute as "liability on a claim." 11 U.S.C. 101(12). This Court is not persuaded

Respondents cite Smith v. Capital One Bank (USA), 845 F.3d 256 (7th Cir. 2016), but that decision is distinguishable because the debt in that case was one "for which the debtor is not personally liable but that may be satisfied from the debtor's interest in marital property" (id. at 258) and as noted above Debtor is personally liable for this debt of Codebtor because it was for

"necessaries." Moreover, this Court respectfully disagrees with Smith to the extent it reads into section 1301 a limitation to in personam liability and omits in rem liability.

First, Smith reasoned that reading the codebtor stay to include claims against a debtor would be redundant of provisions of section 362(a)(1) that "likely" would apply (id. at 260), but it is well established that Congress, in making the automatic stay very broad, included overlapping provisions. Second, the purpose of codebtor stay is to protect debtors from indirect collection efforts, by pursuing persons who share liability with the debtor and who could then pursue the debtor or debtor's property for indemnity, contribution, or similar claims.

In this case, for example, respondents have failed to explain how their efforts to collect from Codebtor could possibly avoid depleting the bankruptcy estate by taking either community property or Codebtor's earnings (not to mention taking Debtor's time and energy to focus on the effects on her and her husband). Respondents have not explained why section 1301 should be read to permit that, to the detriment of other creditors and Debtor.

(4) Damages

The tentative ruling is that 11 U.S.C. 362(k) applies to violations of section 362(a) but not to violations of section 1301. Although non-statutory remedies appear to be available for violations of section 1301 - under 11 U.S.C. 105 or this Court's inherent powers - Debtor has not briefed such alternative remedies. In addition, those alternatives do not appear to add any greater remedies than under section 362(k), and they might provide lesser remedies. See generally In re Taggart, ___ U.S. ___ (6/2/2019) (addressing sanctions for violations of 11 U.S.C. 524, and declining to address standards under section 362(k)); In re Dyer, 322 F.3d 1178, 1190 (9th Cir. 2003).

The tentative ruling is to award the following sanctions under section 362(k): (a) $225, payable to Debtor, for her filing fee in State Court, plus any other attorney fees incurred in State Court in response to the respondents' violations of the stay, (b) Debtor's attorney fees in this bankruptcy case for preparing and prosecuting this motion (see In re Schwartz-Tallard, 803 F.3d 1095 (9th Cir. 2015) (en banc)), and (c) punitive damages, payable to the bankruptcy estate, in a dollar amount to be determined. In re Bloom, 875 F.2d 224, 228 (9th Cir. 1989) (movant must show "reckless or callous disregard of the law or rights of others").

Chapter 13

The tentative ruling is to deny Debtor's requests for any other damages (see dkt. 39), including (i) her asserted emotion distress damages or any punitive damages payable to her individually (except to the extent, if any, that punitive damages would result in a surplus estate). See In re Dawson, 390 F.3d 1139, 1148-49 (9th Cir. 2004) (to support emotional distress damages debtor must show "clear evidence" of "significant harm" caused by stay violation, as distinct, for instance, from the anxiety and pressures inherent in the bankruptcy process).

(5) Conclusion

The parties may supplement their prior oral arguments to address the foregoing issues, if they choose. In addition, unless this Court is persuaded to depart from the foregoing tentative ruling, the parties are directed to address a schedule (a) for Debtor to file declaration(s) establishing attorney fees and any allowable costs, (b) for respondents to respond, (c) for Debtor to reply. In addition, the parties are directed to address the issue of punitive damages, and what further briefing and evidence is appropriate, if any.

Chapter 13

#1.00 Hrg re: Emergency motion to enforce the automatic stay per local rule 9075-1

Docket 9

Tentative Ruling:

Deny. Appearances required.

Proposed order: This Court will prepare an order after the hearing.

(1) Background

This Court received a telephone call from Debtor requesting a hearing on an extremely shortened notice on his anticipated emergency motion to enforce the automatic stay, pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule 9075-1. Because Debtor stated that he is facing imminent eviction, this Court authorized Debtor to notice the motion for hearing on 6/13/19 at 1:00 p.m., but this Court repeatedly instructed Debtor that he had to serve the Motion on both (a) the Chapter 13 Trustee and (b) the Plaintiff in the unlawful detainer action, by overnight mail with delivery by June 12, 2019.

(2) Debtor's Motion, and declaration re service

Debtor has now filed his motion (dkt. 9, the "Motion"). Attached to the Motion is Debtor's declaration in which he declares that he sent the motion to the plaintiff in the unlawful detainer action, Greg Walker, by overnight mail (at an unspecified address where Debtor allegedly knows he resides). Debtor's declaration also appears to indicate that he sent the Motion to Greg Walker by email. Dkt. 9 at PDF p. 76. Debtor does not address whether the Chapter 13 Trustee has been served. See id.

(3) Tentative ruling

The tentative ruling is to deny the Motion for lack of proper service, for three alternative reasons. First, Debtor apparently did not serve the Chapter 13 Trustee despite this Court's direction to do so.

Second, pursuant to LBR 9013-3(b), a proof of service must be filed on the Mandatory Court Form, F. 9013-3.1, with "the signature of the person who performed the service." The local rule goes on to require specific instructions to "explicitly indicate the method of service and how [the] person or entity is related to the case." LBR 9013-3(d) (emphasis added). Debtor provided a declaration in narrative format, which is not on the mandatory form, and states that the Motion was sent by overnight delivery but does not explicitly indicate the method of service (Federal Express? the U.S. Postal Service's overnight mail? some other method?). See dkt. 9 at PDF. p. 76.

Third, Local Form F. 9013-1 provides that the person executing that form must be someone who is "over the age of 18 and not a party to this bankruptcy case or adversary proceeding." (Emphasis added.) The Court website (www.cacb.uscourts.gov) provides instructions for filling out a F. 9013-3.1 and notes that the person signing the proof of service "must be 18 years of age or older and can be someone you know, a process server, or at times law enforcement personnel, but it cannot be you. Only the person who serves (gives) the documents to the applicable parties can sign the Proof of Service of Document." (Emphasis added.) See www.cacb.uscourts.gov/site/cacb/files/documents/forms/POS%20Instructions.pdf Debtor has only provided his own declaration, which does not comply with these requirements. See dkt. 9 at PDF p. 76.

For all of the above reasons, service is ineffective, and the Motion must be denied.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." THE BANK OF NEW YORK MELLON
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 35

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply.

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Docket 7

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part and deny in part as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Deny, without prejudice to any other types of relief granted herein (or previously granted), for the following reasons.

The declaration attached to the motion (dkt. 7 at PDF p.12) requests requests "in rem" relief (i.e., relief applicable notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases (under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and/or In re Vazquez, 580 B.R.

526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31)). The tentative ruling is to deny that request because (a) the motion was not served on the persons who executed the lease (per LBR 4001-1(c)(1)(B)) and (b) there is insufficient evidence on the record to convince this Court that Debtor lacks any good faith basis for filing this bankruptcy case and asserting some sort of interest in the leasehold (e.g., as a sublessee), all of which would need to be the equivalent of a scheme to "hinder, delay, or defraud" the Movant as is required under section 362(d)(4) or the other authorities cited above.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Docket 10

Tentative Ruling:

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

Tentative Ruling for 6/18/19

Deny as against creditor WBL SPE III, LLC ("Creditor"). Appearances are not required.

Reasons:

At the hearing on 5/21/19, this Court was persuaded to provide Debtor with an opportunity to correct her incomplete and misleading papers (see Tentative Ruling for 5/21/19, part "(3)," reproduced below). Debtor has not done so. See Order (dkt. 18) (continuing automatic stay as to most creditors on final basis, and as to Creditor on temporary basis, through conclusion of this hearing).

family home, at 24310 Via La Casa, Valencia, CA 91354 (the "Home"). Creditor objects that asserts that, contrary to her bankruptcy schedules, Debtor has no cognizable ownership interest in the Home. More generally, Creditor objects that Debtor has not provided complete or accurate disclosures regarding who owns the Home.

The tentative ruling is that the record is not entirely clear that Debtor lacks any interest at all in the Home; and alternatively even if Debtor lacks an interest in the Home it is not clear that this would mean the automatic stay and co-debtor stay do not apply now and (if Debtor's motion is granted) in future. But the tentative ruling is also that Creditor is correct that Debtor's bankruptcy schedules are woefully inadequate, which calls into question whether Debtor can meet her burden to establish good faith, at least as to Creditor.

(1) Whether Debtor has any interest in the property

Creditor provides copies of two grant deeds. Both apparently involve the Home, and Creditor apparently asserts a second deed of trust lien against the Home.

The first grant deed (dkt. 14, Ex. A) recites that it transfers the property from Mancuso Properties III to Debtor's non-debtor spouse "as his sole and separate property" (the "Spouse"). Normally, property acquired during the marriage is subject to the presumption of community property. In re Marriage of Valli, 58 Cal. 4th 1396, 1400 (2014). But spouses may transmute community property to separate property. Id. Although the form of the first deed itself is insufficient to establish an interspousal transfer (id.), that is where the second grant deed comes in.

The second grant deed is an interspousal grant deed from Debtor to Spouse, which includes the statement, "This conveyance establishes sole and separate property of a spouse" Dkt. 14-3, Ex.B, at PDF p.11. In other words, this is a transfer that appears to satisfy Valli, so it appears that Creditor is correct and Debtor relinquished any interest in the Home.

That said, it is possible that after the House was transferred to Spouse, community property funds were used to pay off or pay down liens on the house (as Debtor's and Spouse's last-minute declarations declare, dkt. 16 & 17), and that this or something else created an interest in the House in favor of Debtor. See also Mejia v. Reed, 31 Cal.4th 657 (2003) (spousal transfer can be voidable fraudulent transfer). Debtor and Spouse assert that both of them intended to own the property together.

At the very least (at least without further briefing, and perhaps evidence), this Court is not prepared to rule that the bankruptcy estate has no interest in the Home. Therefore the tentative ruling is that Creditor's first argument is not persuasive.

(2) The automatic stay and co-debtor stay are broad

This Court notes that the automatic stay and co-debtor stay apply to more than just property interests. It is not clear from Creditor's opposition (dkt. 14) whether it asserts any in personam claim against Debtor (as opposed to claims solely against Spouse and in rem claims against the Home), and on this or other grounds the stay might apply now and (if Debtor's motion is granted) in future. See 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(1) through (8) and 1301.

Accordingly, to the extent Creditor is arguing that the automatic stay does not apply, this is an alternative reason to reject Creditor's argument.

(3) But Debtor appears not to have provided candid disclosures

(a) Ownership of Home

As Creditor points out, Debtor's bankruptcy schedules (dkt. 1) do not disclose the Spouse's apparent ownership of the Home. Nor do they even disclose that Spouse is a co-debtor with respect to the debt on the Home. Id.

(b) Purported income

This Court's own review of the bankruptcy schedules reveals that Debtor's Bankruptcy Schedule I, line 8a, provides woefully inadequate information about the purported means of funding Debtor's proposed chapter 13 plan. Debtor alleges that she and Spouse have been employed, for one month, by an entity called Boss Janitorial Services, Inc. But, although Debtor and Spouse apparently assert that they are employees not owners of that business, no employment income is listed. Instead Debtor lists only round numbers of $2,000.00 and $5,000.00 as "business" income, with no statement showing gross receipts, expenses, and calculation of net income (as required by the instructions to that form). Among other things, there is no disclosure of any employment taxes or other payroll or business deductions or expenses. In other words, the purported $2,000 and $5,000 of income lacks any foundation and appears to be nothing more than a hope of potential future income.

(c) Whether Debtor has met her burden to show good faith

Chapter 13

Based on the foregoing, Debtor appears to have filed bankruptcy schedules that are very misleading if not simply wrong about the ownership of the House and whether Spouse is a co-debtor; and Debtor's Bankruptcy Schedule I provides woefully inadequate information about the purported income that is supposed to be used to fund any chapter 13 plan. Can Debtor satisfy her burden under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3)(B) to demonstrate that the filing of this case is in good faith, either as to Creditor or as to all creditors?

CHAMPION MORTGAGE COMPANY
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 32

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/18/19:

Grant in part as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Analysis

Debtor has been given an exceptional amount of leeway. The tentative ruling is to grant relief from the automatic stay, subject to a final opportunity for Debtor to comply with this Court's prior order on this motion. See Order (dkt. 55).

(1) Background

The motion was filed on 10/5/18. Movant established that it was entitled to reimbursement of its payment of real estate taxes and force-placed insurance (originally in the amounts of $9,851.79 and $2,175.72, respectively, according to this Court's records). See Order (dkt. 55). Debtor was directed to cure the tax-related debt over the remaining term of her chapter 13 plan, by filing a motion to modify the plan ("MoMod"). See id.

Debtor has filed multiple MoMods, but they all have deficiencies, such as seeking impermissibly to extend the term beyond the permissible 60 months. See Trustee's Comments (dkt. 74); MoMods (dkt. 61, 62, 70, 73); and Amended Plans (dkt. 63, 69). Debtor's proposed modifications also do not provide for ongoing interest on the debt owed to Movant for reimbursement of tax payments.

Note regarding interest: At a hearing on 6/13/19 at 8:30 a.m. on the latest MoMod, Debtor suggested that Movant had waived any claim for interest. But a "waiver is the intentional relinquishment or abandonment of a known right" (Hamer v. Neighborhood Housing Svcs., 138 S.Ct. 13, 17 n.1 (2017) (citations and internal quotation marks omitted)) and there is no evidence of any such waiver. Rather, although interest presumably should be paid in keeping with the loan documents and this Court's prior order (dkt. 55), Movant may have determined that it would be too expensive to object to the MoMod on this basis.

In any event, there is a very long history of hearings on Movant's request for relief from the automatic stay, and Debtor's failed attempts at a MoMod (and, impermissibly, amended plans). In addition to the numerous papers on the docket, this Court's records show that these issues have been raised in connection with multiple hearings (sometimes hearings on unrelated matters) including those set for 11/27/18, 12/11/18, 1/8/19, 3/26/19, 4/30/19, and 5/21/19 (at which this Court was persuaded to continue the hearing yet again to this 6/18/19 date), and 6/13/19.

Based on the facts and circumstances in this case, this Court orally ordered at the 6/13/19 hearing on the latest MoMod that Debtor would have one final opportunity to cure the deficiencies. Debtor was directed (i) to obtain signatures from both Movant and the Chapter 13 Trustee on a proposed order approving the latest MoMod and lodge that proposed order as soon as possible, or alternatively (ii) to file and serve papers no later than 7/8/19 explaining why this Court should approve the MoMod despite the lack of signatures (the deadline for any response to Debtor's papers was set at 7/12/19). That is Debtor's last chance to cure these deficiencies.

(2) Modification of automatic stay

The proceedings described above have been prejudicial to Movant in multiple ways. It has not been reimbursed for the tax-related advances it made. It has had to incur attorney fees constantly, to address issues which should have been resolved long ago. True, those attorney fees presumably can be added to the total debt, and Movant might eventually be reimbursed, but meanwhile Movant is being forced to extend more credit to Debtor and is not being reimbursed as ordered by this Court (dkt. 55).

Debtor has attempted at various hearings to place some of the blame at Movant's feet. But there is no evidence to support those assertions.

Based on the foregoing, there is ample "cause" for relief from the automatic stay. Therefore this Court "shall" grant relief from the automatic stay, which can take the form of modifying or conditioning the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 362(d).

The tentative ruling is to modify and condition the automatic stay as follows. If Debtor fails in her final attempt to obtain approval of a MoMod by the conclusion of the continued hearing that is set for 7/18/19 at 8:30 a.m., then Movant is authorized to lodge a proposed order terminating the automatic stay, which this Court may issue without further notice or hearing. Such relief is further subject to the following standard provisions.

(a) No relief in other cases

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

(b) Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

(c) Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 3/26/19:

Appearances required. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address the assertion by Debtor's attorney that Debtor is unable to comply with this Court's Order on Motion for Relief From Stay (dkt. 43) because her checks in payment of the tax-related debt have been returned to her with a notation that she has now overpaid that debt, and any other matters relevant to this motion. placed insurance of $3,912 (2 x $1,956). The tentative ruling is (1) to require Debtor to pay the tax-related debt via a motion to modify her confirmed chapter 13 plan to amortize that debt over the remaining term of the plan, and (2) to pay the insurance-related debt via a standard adequate protection order ("APO").

(1) Real estate taxes

Debtor argues (dkt. 41) that her chapter 13 plan was intended to include when it listed movant (or its predecessor in interest) with a debt of $33,000 (dkt. 15, confirmed by dkt. 22). But it appears that Debtor listed the wrong party with respect to taxes.

According to Movant, it did not pay those taxes until many months postpetition, on 8/28/28 (see dkt. 37, para. 20), so as of the petition date the debt was owed to the tax authorities, not Movant. Therefore Debtor should have listed the tax authorities in her chapter 13 plan.

Because Debtor did not do so, it appears that those tax debts went unpaid until Movant paid them. Meanwhile, as provided in the confirmation order (dkt. 22), Movant's proof of claim (no. 2-1) controls the monthly distributions by the Chapter 13 Trustee, and that proof of claim apparently did not include the taxes (it is for $20,085.53, which Debtor concedes is substantially less than the $33,000 estimated in her plan).

Based on the foregoing, it appears that the best way to restore the parties to the position they would have been if Debtor had correctly included the tax authorities in her plan is to require Debtor to file a motion to modify her plan to amortize the tax-related debt, with interest payable to Movant at the contract rate, over the remaining term of the chapter 13 plan. The tentative ruling is that Debtor must file such a motion in time to be self-calendared for hearing on the chapter 13 calendar on 2/21/19 at 8:30 a.m.

(2) Insurance

The force placed insurance appears to be for postpetition periods (and paid by Movant postpetition). Accordingly, it is a postpetition default, and a standard six month APO appears to be the appropriate remedy (with the usual cure period of 14 days after any default under the APO, and a maximum of three opportunities for any such cure). The tentative ruling is to direct Movant to prepare and lodge that APO within seven days after this hearing.

#12.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from automatic stay [RP]

BAKERS 26, LLC
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 6

Tentative Ruling:

Grant this motion of Bakers 26, LLC ("Bakers") for relief from the automatic stay, as provided below, and overrule the opposition (dkt. 57), all subject to oral argument (see Order Shortening Time, "OST," dkt. 10). The tentative ruling is to excuse any lack of strict compliance with the OST because notice and service have been adequate under the circumstances. See dkt. 23, 42, 43. Appearances required.

Proposed order: Movant Bakers is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling - including the tentative rulings from Debtor's prior bankruptcy case (reproduced below) - thereby incorporating this tentative ruling as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(1) Analysis, and termination of automatic stay

This Court is mindful of the fact that this matter is being heard on shortened time, early in this bankruptcy case. Nevertheless, on the present record, and subject to oral argument, the tentative ruling is to terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4), for the reasons set forth in the motion papers (dkt. 6-9) and the filed documents and this Court's records from Debtor's prior case combined with the lack of progress in this case.

(a) Evidentiary issues

The tentative ruling is to sustain Debtor's hearsay objection regarding the alleged basis for not renewing insurance (see dkt. 60) but otherwise accept the evidence of insurance cancellation for two reasons. First, it is part of Bakers' business to assure that its interests in the property are adequately protected by insurance, so the business records exception and the declarant's knowledge of the business establish that Debtor has not complied with requirements to provide Bakers with assurances of the maintenance of insurance. Rules 602 & 803(6) (Fed. R. Evid.). That is enough to shift the burden to Debtor to establish that it does, in fact, have adequate insurance. Second, and alternatively, Debtor does not appear to dispute the facts on which this Court is relying regarding insurance (see below).

The tentative ruling is to sustain Debtor's hearsay objection (dkt. 59) regarding the alleged basis for restricting Debtor's use of the central reservation system maintained by Days Inn Worldwide, Inc. ("Days Inn") - the alleged "four to five months" of missed payments - but otherwise accept the evidence that Debtor has been restricted in its use of Days Inn's system. The reasons are the same as stated above in connection with the evidence regarding insurance.

(b) Cause for relief

This Court is especially troubled by the following:

(i) Gap in insurance: see the tentative ruling for calendar no.16 (on this 10:00 a.m. calendar for 6/18/19);

(ii) Real estate taxes: Debtor's principal had promised to pay these taxes in the first bankruptcy case as part of the "adequate protection" to Bakers, but apparently those taxes were not paid then and the deficit has only gotten worse (see dkt. 6-2, Ex.18, at p.126), all of which means that any promises to provide "adequate protection" in this second bankruptcy case (e.g., the promise to pay $15,000 per month; the assertion that Debtor's condition is improving rather than deteriorating; and the assertion that Debtor will have a viable exit strategy within a reasonable time) must be viewed with considerable skepticism;

(iii) Reservation system: Debtor apparently is restricted in its use of Days Inn's reservations system (dkt. 6-3, Ex.21, at p.189, and dkt. 57, p.3, para.3.c.(6));

(iv) Property condition report: although this Court recognizes that the pool, hot tub, and other aspects of the property might not be as bad as suggested in the report (see dkt.57), there is still substantial evidence of dangerous conditions and deferred maintenance (see dkt. 6-4, Ex.22, at pp.211-74, and the additional photographs, id., Ex.23, at pp.275-77) (see also the tentative ruling for Bakers' motion to dismiss this bankruptcy case, calendar no. 16 on this calendar for 10:00 a.m. on 6/18/19);

(v) Delay: Debtor's "first day" wage, cash collateral, and utility motions (dkt. 26-28 et seq.) were not filed until after 6:30 p.m. on 6/12/19, when the petition was filed on 6/7/19 - Debtor should have known from its prior bankruptcy case (Case No. 2:18-bk-22059-NB) the importance of providing information and coordinating with its attorneys to have those motions filed immediately, for the reasons set forth below;

(vi) Payroll: Debtor either has not made the 6/14/19 payroll - and the tentative ruling is that this would show gross mismanagement in not seeking this Court's approval early enough - or has paid employees for that payroll period without this Court's approval - which presumably includes at least some prepetition hours worked and therefore is an unauthorized payment of prepetition debt;

(vii) Cash collateral: Debtor either has not been using cash collateral - which would mean a lack of normal business operations - or has been using cash collateral without authorization (11 U.S.C. 363(c)); and

(viii) Lack of evidence: Debtor provides no evidence (x) of any currently pending offers for the hotel, or other progress in the various exit strategies it has had since commencement of its prior bankruptcy case over eight months ago, on 10/14/18 (Case No. 2:18-bk-22059-NB), (y) in support of its projected income and expenses (see Cash Collateral Budget, dkt.27, Ex.1), or (z) regarding the current state of its online bookings and its franchise with Days Inn (apart from acknowledging, vaguely, that there is a restriction on Debtor's use of its reservation system).

The tentative ruling is to grant the relief requested in the motion, as further set forth below, based on the foregoing and on the other matters addressed in the tentative ruling on Bakers' motion to dismiss this bankruptcy case (calendar no. 16 on this 10:00 a.m. calendar for 6/18/19). As to "in rem" relief in particular, the tentative ruling is that Bakers has met its prima facie burden of establishing the existence of a "scheme" to "hinder" or "delay" or "defraud" it, involving the prior bankruptcy case and this one. These two bankruptcy cases have prevented Bakers from exercising remedies for a total of over eight months (since the filing of the prior bankruptcy case on 10/14/18); these cases have not been adequately prosecuted; and the tentative ruling is that those things have established a scheme to hinder and delay Bakers within the meaning of the statute.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of Baker 26, LLC ("Baker") to dismiss case (the "MTD," dkt. 117-131), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 138), and Baker's reply (dkt. 152)

Dismiss this case, without a bar. Under 11 U.S.C. 1112(b) this Court "shall" dismiss (or convert) this case for cause, with only limited exceptions. There does not appear to be any argument that conversion is practical, so the question is whether to dismiss.

(i) Insurance

One type of "cause" to dismiss is "failure to maintain appropriate insurance that poses a risk to the estate or to the public." 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(C). The MTD points out that Debtor's insurance is expiring very soon, and that there is no evidence of Debtor's financial ability to renew its insurance, or an insurer's willingness to do so. In response, Debtor asserts only that it currently has insurance - which is expiring on 5/25/19. See dkt. 138, at PDF p.17, para.27, and Ex.4 at PDF p.33. That is insufficient.

Debtor asserts (dkt. 138, at PDF p.17, para.28) that it is "finalizing" negotiations with prospective purchasers and intends to bring both a motion to sell the hotel property and an application to employ its real estate broker by the time of this hearing on the MTD. Theoretically, a pending sale might be one way of taking care of the insurance issue, because it might be grounds for this Court to find and specifically identify "unusual circumstances" establishing that dismissing this case is not in the best interests of creditors and the estate, if Debtor can establish "a reasonable likelihood that a plan will be confirmed ... within a reasonable period of time" and if Debtor establishes "reasonable justification" for the apparent failure to arrange for future insurance and establishes that insurance will be obtained "within a reasonable period of time fixed by the court." 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(2). Presumably, the method of curing the lack of insurance from 5/25/19 forward would be that the purchaser would pay for that insurance; and presumably the proposed "plan" would be essentially to provide for distributing the proceeds of a sale under 11 U.S.C. 363.

The main problem with all of this is that Debtor is out of time: no application to employ any broker has been filed (let alone approved); and no 363 sale motion has been filed (let alone granted). That application and sale motion cannot reasonably be expected to be filed, served, heard, and granted, and the sale itself cannot be expected to close, all in the next two weeks and three days (before the existing insurance expires on 5/25/19).

Conceivably, Debtor's principal, Ms. Rhonda Chung, might be willing and able to fund the insurance (using funds from her 401(k) retirement account, or some other source, as she has done with some other expenses in the past). But Debtor has not suggested that any such funding is forthcoming; Debtor's principal apparently has not lived up to her commitment to pay real estate taxes (see below) so any mere promise to pay insurance would be inadequate on the present record; and in any event Debtor has not provided any evidence that an insurer is ready, willing, and able to extend future insurance.

For all of these reasons, it appears that this Court has no choice. Congress has directed that this Court "shall" dismiss this case due to "failure to maintain" appropriate insurance. 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(C).

(ii) Taxes, adequate protection payments, losses, and management

Other types of cause for dismissal include failure to pay postpetition taxes, "gross mismanagement," failure to comply with an order of the court, or "substantial or continuing loss to or diminution of the estate and the absence of a reasonable likelihood of rehabilitation." 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(I), (A), (B) & (E). The MTD alleges that Debtor has failed to pay postpetition taxes (see dkt. 131, p.3, para.7) and Debtor has not contested that issue (although, as noted above, Debtor's principal had promised to fund tax payments - see tentative ruling for 11/27/18, part "(1)(a)," reproduced below).

The MTD also alleges that Debtor has failed to pay several required "adequate protection" payments to Baker (or its predecessor in interest). See dkt. 131, pp. 4:27-5:16. Again, Debtor has not contested that issue.

As for "gross mismanagement" or "substantial or continuing loss" or "diminution," this Court previously has expressed concerns (both at hearings and in the tentative ruling for 2/5/19, part "(1)(a)," reproduced below). The MTD alleges (dkt. 131, p.4:1-21) that Debtor has lost over $44,000 since this case was filed on 10/14/18, despite approximately $41,000 in cash infusions by Debtor's principal. Again, Debtor has not contested this issue.

True, Debtor has shown a modest amount of improvement recently. In addition, this Court is not persuaded that a sale of property can never be a "rehabilitation" - to the contrary, Debtor alleges that it has engaged in both physical rehabilitation (repairing the premises, installing safety equipment, etc.) and management rehabilitation (terminating management that was embezzling, restoring online booking services, etc.), so the most significant issues appear to be (A) whether there is a "reasonable" likelihood that taxes will be paid and that the (modest) recent progress will offset the prior losses, and (B) whether there is sufficient "justification" (under 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(2)(B)(i)) for prior failure to pay taxes, mismanagement, losses, and failure to comply with the budget approved by this Court's orders.

On the present record, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has not met its burden to provide evidence of those things. Debtor offers no justification for its principal not living up to her commitment to pay real estate taxes or for postpetition mismanagement by current management; and as noted above there is no section 363 sale motion on file, pursuant to which a purchaser might cure that non-payment or, perhaps, cure other issues.

(1) Current issues

(a) Finances (MOR #3, Dec. 2018, dkt. 71; Decl. dkt. 75)

Debtor's recently reported finances are dismal, as noted in the tentative ruling for 1/8/19. It appears that Debtor's occupancy rate is less than half of what was projected (which is itself less than half of available rooms), and that Debtor is failing to pay some franchise fees, utilities, housekeeping expenses, and other items.

Debtor blames outages in its online booking services, but as noted in the limited opposition to extending exclusivity (dkt. 78) filed by First Choice Bank, Debtor's behavior in the face of problems with online booking is puzzling. Why did Debtor not proactively contact the online booking agencies around the time it filed its bankruptcy petition? Why did Debtor not monitor its own finances sufficiently to realize that those agencies had not been paid? Debtor asserts that it was given no advance notice, but that seems highly unusual, so where is evidence of the telephone calls, emails, and letters immediately reacting, objecting to being cut off with no prior notice, and offering immediate payment of any missed bills? This Court takes judicial notice that the booking agencies are large enough to be familiar names, and presumably they have experienced hotel bankruptcies before, so what reasons did they give for their alleged lack of notice and over-reaction? As the bank suggests, the outages in booking were long enough that one would expect Debtor to have made repeated and considerable efforts to resolve the situation, possibly including meetings in person, but there is no evidence of that.

All of the foregoing suggests "gross mismanagement" of the estate, which is one possible basis to dismiss or convert this case. 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(B). The facts recited above also appear to constitute a "substantial" loss or diminution of the estate, and calls into question whether there is a "reasonable likelihood of rehabilitation." 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(A). In addition, these facts call into question whether Debtor will be able to meet the feasibility test for any proposed plan. 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(11).

The parties are directed to address whether this case should be dismissed or converted.

Authorizing Use of Cash Collateral

Docket 27

Tentative Ruling:

Deny this motion for use of cash collateral (dkt. 27) - for the reasons stated in the response (dkt. 56) of Bakers 26, LLC ("Bakers"), and the additional reasons stated in connection with Bakers' motion for relief from the automatic stay (calendar no. 12) and Bakers' motion to dismiss (calendar no. 16) - (1) all subject to any oral argument, opposition, and reply at the hearing, per this Court's order shortening time (dkt. 32), and (2) with the exception of payroll, as to which the tentative ruling is to authorize Debtor to use cash collateral to the extent this Court adheres to its tentative ruling to authorize the payment of payroll (see calendar no. 15. Appearances required).

Proposed order: Bakers is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating this tentative ruling as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

To the limited extent that the tentative ruling is to approve the use of cash collateral, such use is subject to replacement liens and other standard conditions as provided below. The tentative ruling is to find and conclude that such limited relief is necessary to avoid immediate and irreparable harm to the bankruptcy estate, and to creditors whose chances of repayment depend on maintaining whatever going concern value Debtor has. See Rule 4001(b)(2), 6003(b) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

this Court, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. Do not repeat the terms set forth in the motion or any stipulation. Incorporate those terms by reference (including the docket number of the document), subject to any modification by this Court.

(b) Timing. Lodge the proposed order within 7 days after the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Minimum adequate protection

In addition to the postpetition security interests that are automatically provided pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 552 (e.g., in traceable proceeds and profits), and subject to any more comprehensive protection that may be included in the motion or related papers, Debtor shall provide at least the following protection to any creditor with a security interest in the subject property (pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 361-364, as applicable):

(a) Insurance. For all collateral of a type that typically is insured (e.g., real property and improvements), Debtor is directed to maintain insurance in a dollar amount at least equal to Debtor's good faith estimate of the value of such creditor's interest in the collateral, and such insurance shall name such creditor as an additional insured. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments for such insurance.

(b) Taxes. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments on account of postpetition real estate taxes (to the extent that real estate is part of the collateral).

(c) Disclosures/access. Debtor is directed to provide, upon such creditor's reasonable request, periodic accountings of the foregoing insurance and tax obligations and payments, as well as postpetition proceeds, products, offspring, or profits from the collateral, including gross revenues and expenses and a calculation of net revenues, including any rents and any fees, charges, accounts, or other payments for the use or occupancy of rooms and other public facilities in lodging properties (as all of the foregoing terms are used in 11 U.S.C. 552). Debtor is directed to provide appropriate documentation of those accountings, and access for purposes of inspection or appraisal.

(3) Limitation on postpetition liens liens shall be limited to the same validity, priority, and amount as prepetition liens. As used herein, the "validity, priority, and amount" or any similar phrase that may be used by the parties or this Court is deemed to include the following:

(a) Extent. Such liens shall be limited to the type of collateral in which the creditor held a security interest as of the petition date, unless this order expressly states that the liens granted by this order are intended to attach to different types of collateral from the prepetition collateral. For example, if prepetition liens extended to inventory and accounts receivable but not equipment then postpetition liens are likewise limited (unless otherwise expressly provided by order of this Court). In addition, postpetition liens shall not extend to the proceeds of any avoidance actions, any recoveries under 11 U.S.C. 506(c), or any "carveout" under 11 U.S.C. 552.

(b) Priority. Such liens shall be limited to the same priority as the security interest held by the creditor as of the petition date.

(c) Dollar amount. Such liens shall be limited to the dollar amount needed to protect the creditor against diminution in the value of the secured claims as of the petition date.

(d) Enforceability. Such liens shall be limited to the extent that the creditor's security interests were duly perfected and valid as of the petition date, and to the extent that they are unavoidable.

(e) Automatic postpetition perfection. Any automatic perfection of such liens shall be subject to any applicable limitations regarding the Court's authority, jurisdiction, or due process.

(4) Automatic disapproval of insufficiently disclosed provisions

Any provision of the type listed in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or in local form F4001-2 (e.g., cross-collateralization) or any waiver of the "equities of the case" exception in 11 U.S.C. 552(b)(2) shall be deemed automatically disapproved and excepted from any order granting the motion, notwithstanding any other provision of such order, unless either: (a) such provision is specifically and prominently disclosed in the motion papers in a checklist (such as local form F4001-2), or alternatively (b) such provision is specifically identified in any proposed order granting the motion, using terminology of the type used in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or local form F4001-2 (e.g., any "cross-collateralization" that is not specifically identified as such is deemed to be disapproved).

#16.00 Hrg re: Motion to Dismiss Chapter 11 Case

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

(A) Dismiss this case under 11 U.S.C. 1112 and (B) impose a 180-day bar for willful failure to appear "in proper prosecution of the case" under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1). This Court has reviewed the opposition papers (dkt. 58), and this tentative ruling is subject to oral argument at the hearing. See Order Shortening Time (dkt. 17), p.3. The tentative ruling is to excuse any lack of strict compliance with the OST because notice and service have been adequate under the circumstances. See dkt. 23, 42, 43.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Analysis

The tentative ruling is that the following alternative grounds exist for the relief sought in the motion papers. This Court is mindful of the fact that this matter is being heard on shortened time, early in this bankruptcy case. Nevertheless, on the present record, and subject to oral argument, the tentative ruling is to dismiss this case and impose a 180-day bar.

(1) Insurance ((b)(4)(C))

In Debtor's prior bankruptcy case (Case No. 2:18-bk-22059-NB), there was evidence that insurance was expiring on 5/25/19. See id. dkt. 138, at PDF p.17, para.27, and Ex.4 at PDF p.33 (filed 4/23/19). Debtor therefore not only should have foreseen the need to arrange in advance for new insurance, it was on actual notice, over a month in advance, that this could be a problem.

But there is evidence that Debtor's insurance was canceled effective 5/25/19 (as to its commercial package coverage) and 6/1/19 (as to excess liability) (dkt. 6-2, Ex.17, at pp.124-25). In this current bankruptcy case, Debtor asserts that as of 6/14/19 it has obtained insurance (see Debtor's Opp., dkt. 58, p.4:14-21). Notably absent is any denial by Debtor that it had a gap in insurance coverage from 5/25/19 through 6/14/19.

True, the current insurance coverage apparently was made retroactive to 5/25/19. See dkt. 58, R. Chung Delc., para.19 & Ex.3. But if any significant loss had occurred during the gap before replacement insurance was obtained, Debtor ran the (very substantial) risk of not being able to obtain any insurance coverage. That gap period extended after the petition date of 6/7/19 until 6/14/19 - i.e., for a postpetition period of seven days.

This Court recognizes that Debtor filed this bankruptcy case on 6/7/19 because of the impending 6/10/19 foreclosure sale. But whatever pressures Debtor may have had, that does not excuse the lack of insurance.

The tentative ruling is that in a hotel with dozens if not hundreds of guests, fourteen days, including seven days postpetition, is a substantial period of time to go without insurance coverage. The tentative ruling is that such a gap in coverage imposes a substantial risk on the public and the estate, which is cause to dismiss. 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(C).

In addition, given the amount of notice that Debtor had of the need to address insurance, the tentative ruling is that Debtor's failure to obtain insurance and its decision to file this bankruptcy case without such insurance appears to be a willful failure to appear in "proper" prosecution of this case. To be clear, this Court's tentative ruling is not that Debtor would have elected to run the risk of not having insurance given a complete freedom of choice; but it appears that Debtor willfully elected not to take whatever steps were necessary to assure insurance until it turned out to be too late to avoid a gap in coverage. The tentative ruling is that this is willful failure to appear in proper prosecution of this case, which is cause to impose a 180-day bar. 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1).

The foregoing tentative rulings are reinforced by Debtor's history in its prior bankruptcy case of not being proactive, or even adequately reactive, in managing the online bookings fiasco. That situation is summarized in the tentative rulings for that prior case (reproduced in this case within the tentative ruling for calendar no.12, 6/18/19 at 10:00 a.m.).

As in that situation (involving bookings), Debtor should have foreseen in this situation (involving insurance) the need to be proactive. Failing that, at the very least Debtor should have been adequately reactive once the issues had been flagged for Debtor. Insurance was flagged on 4/23/19, and in this Court's tentative ruling (later adopted as the final ruling) regarding dismissal of the prior bankruptcy case. See Case No. 2:18-bk-22059-NB, dkt. 138 (at PDF p.17, para.27, and Ex.4 at PDF p.33) and dkt. 156 (dismissal order). Debtor has not offered any explanation for being unable to maintain insurance despite such notice.

(2) Gross mismanagement ((b)(4)(B))

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's handling of the insurance matter (described above) is sufficient to establish a prima facie showing of gross mismanagement. That shifted the burden to Debtor to rebut that showing, but Debtor has not done so.

In addition, the tentative ruling is that Bakers has submitted sufficient evidence that (a) the property has physically been allowed to fall into a state of disrepair, (b) Debtor's reservation system is subject to (unspecified) restrictions, and (c) Debtor's exit strategy continues to be vague and uncertain. That shifts the burden to Debtor to overcome the appearance that there is gross mismanagement.

Debtor argues that Bakers' evidence of the dilapidated state of the property is "stale," that Debtor's physical condition has been improving, that its projected revenues are healthy, and that it has prospective buyers and a prospective investor. This Court has heard that story before from this Debtor.

(a) Physical condition of the property

Although this Court recognizes that the pool, hot tub, and other aspects of the property might not be as bad as suggested in the report prepared for Bakers (see dkt.57), there is still substantial evidence of dangerous conditions and deferred maintenance (see dkt. 6-4, Ex.22, at pp.211-74, and the additional photographs, id., Ex.23, at pp.275-77). Debtor's opposition papers do not include any specific information about what Debtor is doing to address these issues.

Debtor provides only vague and sweeping assertions that the property was allowed by previous owners to fall into a bad state and that Debtor has been improving the property. Such assertions appear to be contrary to the only evidence before this Court of Debtor's past expenditures: its monthly operating reports from its prior case, which do not appear to reflect any restoration of the property and, if anything, appear to be more consistent with ongoing deterioration.

(b) Reservation systems

There is evidence that Debtor's use of the Days Inn reservation system is restricted. Debtor provides no information about the nature of that restriction, how much impact that is having on Debtor's ability to generate revenues, what is being done to address the issue, or any other facts and circumstances.

This Court would expect capable and proactive management to present detailed information on these issues, to have strategies and tactics to address all of those things, to support their analysis and proposed approaches with evidence, and to present all of that to this Court as part of some "first day" motions (e.g., use of cash collateral to help remove some or all restrictions). Instead there is barely any recognition of the problem.

This is reminiscent of Debtor's fiasco with its online reservation systems (Expedia and Bookings.com) in its prior bankruptcy case, in which Debtor never provided any satisfactory explanation for failing to foresee the problem, failing to recognize it once it arose, or failing to act quickly and decisively enough once the problem was recognized. See the tentative ruling for Bakers' R/S Motion, calendar no. 12 on this 10:00 a.m. calendar for 6/18/19).

In this case Debtor reports vaguely that it is "working to resolve the [unspecified] restriction on its reservation system with Days Inn." Dkt. 57, Response to Bakers' R/S Motion, p.3, para. 3.c.(6). The tentative ruling is that the scant information is itself evidence of gross mismanagement.

(c) Debtor's vacillating and vague exit strategy

In the prior case Debtor repeatedly vacillated between purported sales opportunities and equity investment opportunities, but never produced evidence of any solid exit strategy. See, e.g., Bakers' Response re Cash Collateral (dkt. 56), pp.2:15-3:14 (citing and quoting from Debtor's vacillating statements). In this case Debtor has provided copies of two letters of intent ("LOI"), but the tentative ruling is that they are unconvincing.

The first LOI is for $6.1 million, but it is dated 2/12/19 (dkt. 58, R. Chung Decl., Ex.1, at PDF pp.18-21); it required Debtor's signature by 2/19/19 (id. para.10) and in any event it was subject to a 45 day investigation period (id. para.3) which has long since expired. The second LOI is for $5.1 million and is dated 3/29/19 (id., Ex.2, at PDF pp.22-25); and it required Debtor's signature by 4/5/19 (id. para.10) which has long since expired.

(d) Lack of evidence of steps to improve cash flow

Chapter 11

Despite Debtor's (unspecified) restrictions in use of the Days Inn reservation system, and despite the apparent lack of physical improvement in the property, Debtor's cash collateral motion includes relatively rosy projections of future cash flow. As Bakers argues (dkt. 11, 56), Debtor made rosy projections in its first bankruptcy case but ended up losing a substantial amount of money.

Debtor's projected income is just a series of seemingly random figures. Debtor offers no evidentiary support, and no explanation for any change from the first bankruptcy case except the vague assertion that Debtor's summer season will be busier.

In the prior bankruptcy case Debtor repeatedly anticipated better performance, including in the busier winter holiday season. Instead its performance was extremely bad. See tentative rulings from prior bankruptcy case, reproduced in tentative ruling for calendar no.12 (Bakers' R/S Motion).

Debtor's projected expenses also raise concerns (although at least they are listed and Debtor shows the calculation of projected net income). One problem is that the expenses appear to be reduced from what would be typical. Debtor omits any property taxes because those "are typically paid in April and December" and the cash collateral budget runs from June through November, 2019. See Cash Collateral Budget (dkt. 27, Ex.1). If the budget included such taxes, estimated by Debtor at $30,000 (id.), Debtor's projected budget would be extremely "thin."

Debtor's insurance expense also appears to be lower than what Debtor typically would pay if its annual expenses were spread out evenly over 12 months. Debtor appears to have obtained insurance pursuant to California's "FAIR" program, with an initial payment of $25,356.50 (see dkt. 58, R. Chung Decl., Ex.3, last page, at PDF p.34) - presumably either prepetition or from a non-Debtor source because no authorization was sought for such an expenditure. That insurance requires ongoing payments of $6,250.00 per month (Cash Collateral Motion, dkt. 27, Ex.1). It is unclear whether Debtor can continue to afford such insurance. See also dkt. 56, p.4:9-23 (arguing that if Debtor has obtained insurance through the "FAIR" program - insurance of last resort - that is further evidence of Debtor's troubled condition).

The tentative ruling is that all of the foregoing adds up to present a picture that is very reminiscent of Debtor's first bankruptcy case. Debtor is making vague promises regarding (a) the physical condition of the property, (b) somehow addressing the restrictions in its use of the Days Inn reservation system, (c) some sort of exit strategy that might involve a sale or an equity investment, and (d) somehow increasing monthly gross income and minimizing monthly expenses, but there is a glaring absence of actual evidence and analysis of data to back up any of this.

In addition, as noted in the tentative ruling on Bakers' R/S motion (calendar no. 12, on this 10:00 a.m. calendar on 6/18/19), Debtor has failed to be proactive in obtaining authorization from this Court or payment of payroll on 6/14/19, or for the use of cash collateral, or other matters.

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's lack of proactive steps and evidence on all of the foregoing shows gross mismanagement within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(B).

(3) Loss/diminution and no reasonable prospects for rehabilitation ((b)(4)(A))

On the one hand, this Court is not currently persuaded that "rehabilitation," within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(A), can never include a process of "staunching the bleeding" in preparation for an orderly liquidation, even if that process involves substantial or continuing losses or a "diminution to the estate," as long as that process is calculated to preserve more value for creditors than other alternatives. The tentative ruling is that this can constitute a "rehabilitation" in preparation for a sale or other liquidation.

For example, if a hypothetical debtor were to diminish a $1 million estate by spending $100,000, but that would stabilize the estate at a value of $900,000, and the alternatives would be a foreclosure sale or "fire sale" that would cause the estate to be worth only $800,000, then the hypothetical debtor's expenditure of the $100,000 to stabilize the estate could, in this Court's view, constitute a "rehabilitation." In other words, this Court is not persuaded that the statute would force this Court to convert or dismiss the case in such a situation, thereby harming creditors. To the extent the motion papers argue otherwise this Court is not persuaded. See Motion (dkt. 11) p.8:13-25 (citing Loop Corp. v. U.S. Trustee, 379 F.3d 511, 516 (8th Cir. 2004), and In re The Ledges Apts., 58 B.R. 84, 87 (Bankr. D.Vt. 1986)).

But on the present record there is no evidence that Debtor's prosecution of this case is likely to preserve more value for creditors than other alternatives. To the contrary, the decision to file this bankruptcy case and thereby stop the movant's foreclosure sale appears to have obstructed the best opportunity for someone (Movant, or another buyer at a foreclosure sale) to take charge of the subject property and immediately invest the funds and expertise needed to bring the property into a condition in which it could be safe and preserve its current value. Therefore the tentative ruling is that there is cause to dismiss this case under 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(A).

(4) Other "cause" to dismiss ((b)(1))

The tentative ruling is that there is persuasive evidence of non-payment of adequate protection payments and taxes in the first case, in violation of this Court's orders and Debtor's obligations under the Bankruptcy Code and, although that is not the same as such acts in this case (11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(D),(E)&(I)), nevertheless it places a high premium on Debtor showing a different course of conduct in this second bankruptcy case. But the tentative ruling is that all of the matters addressed in this tentative ruling and in the tentative ruling for calendar no.12 are prima facie evidence that this case was not filed in good faith.

The tentative ruling is that such conduct establishes "cause" to dismiss this case within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(1). See 11 U.S.C. 102(3) ("includes" and "including" are not limiting). In addition, the tentative ruling is that such conduct establishes a willful failure to appear in "proper" prosecution of this case within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1) (emphasis added).

(5) Conclusion

The tentative ruling is that Movant has shown prima facie cause to dismiss this case and to impose a 180-day bar against being a debtor in any future bankruptcy case. The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not rebutted that showing.

Tentative Ruling for 6/18/19

Continue status conferences in the underlying bankruptcy cases (Sakurai and Checkmate) to 7/2/19 at 2:00 p.m. because Plaintiff has filed Notices of Voluntary Dismissal in both Adversary Proceedings (adv. 19-1112 dkt. 5; adv. 19-1113 dkt 5). Therefore, status conferences in the adversary proceedings are moot. Appearances are not required on 6/18/19.

proper notice of the motion by its counsel, Mr. Aronson and/or his firm (collectively, "Aronson"), to withdrawal from representing Debtor in this bankruptcy case. Such notice would be important in any bankruptcy case. It is especially important in this situation, because (i) Debtor is not an individual so it is prohibited from appearing without counsel and (ii) there are pending sanctions proceedings against Debtor's principal(s) - Mr. Sakurai (and, possibly, Ms. Sakurai), and Debtor's lack of legal counsel might adversely effect them in those proceedings.

Proper notice is also important for another reason. It protects Aronson in the event that Debtor later asserts that it did not consent to Aronson's withdrawal, and was not properly served.

But Aronson has not complied with this Court's order directing service and setting this hearing (the "Hearing Order"). First, Aronson did not serve Debtor in accordance with Rule 7004(b)(3). Second, he did not serve Debtor or its principal(s) timely.

As the Hearing Order previously explained:

The Withdrawal Motion was not served on Debtor in accordance with Rule 7004(b)(3) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.), which requires service on a corporation to be to the attention of an Officer (or other agent authorized to accept service of process). [Dkt. 296, p.1:26-28]

(As the above-quoted language recognizes, service can be made on an agent for service of process, but there are separate problems, described below, with any reliance on that alternative.)

The Hearing Order ordered Mr. Aronson to serve Debtor in compliance with Rule 7004:

Aronson is directed no later than April 25, 2019, to serve the Motion and a copy of this Order, and file a proof of service, all in accordance with Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7004 [Dkt. 296, p.2:24-26 (emphasis added)]

Mr. Aronson did not serve these papers until sometime on Tuesday 4/30/19. It is not clear whether service was before or after the U.S. mail pickup time: the proof of service was not filed until 6:30 p.m. See dkt. 301 at PDF pp. 23-24. So this Court cannot presume mail pickup before Wednesday May 1. Then, adding three days for service by mail (per Rule 9006(f), Fed.R.Bankr.P.), this Court cannot presume delivery before Saturday May 4. Next, this Court cannot presume that business mail delivered on a Saturday is necessarily picked up and read prior to a normal business day - this Court takes judicial notice that the Sakurais have a mailing address that is different from their street address; and this Court takes judicial notice that Debtor's agent for service of process might require a business day or more to forward mail to Debtor. In sum, it appears that this Court cannot presume service prior to sometime on Monday May 6, 2019.

The Hearing Order set May 6 as the deadline for Debtor or Mr. and Ms. Sakurai to file and serve any written response to Aronson's motion to withdraw, and set the hearing for May 7. In other words, Debtor and its principal(s) had essentially no notice of their deadline to respond to the motion to withdraw, and perhaps less than 24 hours' notice of the hearing. Although shortened notice is permissible upon a sufficient showing (Rule 9006, Fed. R. Bankr. P.), no showing has been made for such exceptionally shortened notice.

Mr. Aronson declares (dkt. 302, p.1, para.6) that he had a telephone conversation with Debtor's principal, Mr. Sakurai, and obtained oral assurances that Aronson could email Mr. Sakurai. That is insufficient. See Rule 5(b)(2)(E) (Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Rule 7005 & 9014(b), Fed. R. Bankr. P.) (requiring consent to electronic service "in writing"). Moreover, given the possible effects on Debtor's principal(s) - e.g., derivative claims by Debtor against Mr. and/or Mrs. Sakurai - it seems appropriate to assure service on both of them; but Mr. Aronson's declaration only asserts that oral and email notice was given to Mr. Sakuria.

Why was it impossible for Mr. Aronson, while he was out of his office, to arrange for service via U.S. mail by his staff or a colleague on 4/25/19, or failing that then the next day? If that was not possible, why did he not serve his client via overnight delivery on 4/30/19, instead of via U.S. mail?

In sum, Mr. Aronson's efforts to comply with this Court's Hearing Order appear to be inadequate. The tentative ruling is to continue the hearing on Aronson's motion to withdraw to the same time as the continued status conferences (see below), with a new deadline of 5/17/19 for any response by Debtor and/or Mr. or Ms. Sakurai, and with a direction to Aronson, no later than 5/8/19, to serve a notice of the continued hearing, and a copy of this tentative ruling, on each of those persons at all of their known addresses via overnight mail (except for service in Japan via regular U.S. airmail), all in full compliance with Rule 7004 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

(1) Current Issues

(a) Implementation of the Plan; OSC (Sakurai dkt. 386), OSC Supp. (id. dkt. 399), and Sanctions Order (id. dkt. 407).

Based on the Debtors' Status Report (Sakurai dkt. 417), Debtors have failed to comply with the OSC, OSC Supp. and Sanctions Order. In addition, it appears that Debtors are refusing to sell the Las Vegas Property.

Based on the supplemental evidence (Sakurai dkt. 408), the tentative ruling is to award the Fresco Parties $10,371.50 in attorneys fees as compensatory sanctions (without prejudice to seeking additional amounts in future). In addition, the tentative ruling is to increase coercive sanctions to $200.00 per day against Debtors until they comply with this Court's prior orders.

Proposed orders: The Fresco Parties are directed to lodge proposed orders (one awarding interim compensatory sanctions, and one increasing the coercive sanctions) via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling for 4/30/19, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. (1) Current Issues

(a) Implementation of the Plan; Order to Show Cause ("OSC," dkt. 386), and supplemental order ("OSC Supp," dkt. 399)

Debtors have not responded to the OSC (dkt. 386) or the OSC Supp (dkt. 399). The Fresco Parties have responded with a supplemental brief (dkt. 403) pointing out that this Court cannot appoint a chapter 11 trustee, but also recapping the disadvantages of conversion to chapter 7, and suggesting instead that (i) this Court should sanction Debtors, (ii) this Court should replace the current disbursing agent under the confirmed Plan, Mr. Aronson, with a new disbursing agent (the mechanism to choose such a person is not discussed), and (iii) this Court should vest that person with the power to execute documents to implement the Plan pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 1142(b):

any instrument required to effect a transfer of property dealt with by a confirmed plan, and to perform any other act, including the satisfaction of any lien, that is necessary for the consummation of the plan.

The tentative ruling is to find that the individual Debtors are in contempt of court for each of the reasons stated in the OSC and the OSC Supp, and to award the compensatory, coercive, and punitive sanctions set forth below. As for issuing order(s) replacing the disbursing agent and vesting some person with power to execute documents and do other things necessary or appropriate to implement the Plan, this Court is concerned that such orders might exceed the scope of authority under section 1142(b), but similar relief might be available using other mechanisms, perhaps only after commencing an adversary proceeding or perhaps not, under Rules 70 and 71 (Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Rules 7001(7), 7070, 7071, and 9014(c), Fed. R. Bankr. P.). The parties are directed to address these issues at the hearing.

As for sanctions, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/14/19 for the Fresco Parties to file and serve their declaration(s) with attached timesheets, a deadline of 4/23/19 for Debtors and the U.S. Trustee to file and serve any responses, and any reply may be presented orally at the continued hearing. In addition, the tentative ruling is to impose coercive sanctions, payable to the Court, starting at $100 per day and continuing until Debtors comply with all of their obligations set forth in the OSC and the OSC Supp, all subject to being increased or otherwise adjusted at the continued hearing. In addition, the tentative ruling is to impose punitive sanctions of $2,500, payable to this Court, also subject to adjustment in future (either by this Court or by the District Court if punitive sanctions or other issues are before the District Court - because of the limitations on this Bankruptcy Court's ability to award any punitive sanctions, it may be necessary for the District Court to address that issue, which might be accomplished by a recommendation from this Court for withdrawal of the reference, perhaps only for that limited purpose, or which might be based on proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law by this Court, or any other mechanism that is appropriate). See In re Dyer, 322 F.3d 1178, 1195 (9th Cir. 2003); see also In re Count Liberty, LLC, 370 B.R. 259, 274 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2007).

The continued hearing on the OSC and the OSC Supp will be concurrent with the continued status conference set forth below.

Chapter 11

(b) Coordination with Japanese authorities

This Court intends to address briefly with the parties what methods may be appropriate to request and obtain the assistance of any authorities in Japan in enforcing the terms of the Plan and this Court's orders. This Court may set a briefing schedule to address those things.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 10/16/17.

(a) Bar date: 1/17/18 (order timely served. dkt. 58, 59).

(b) Amended Joint Plan (dkt. 309): Confirmed (dkt. 365).

(c) Continued post-confirmation status conference (in the Sakurai and Checkmate cases): 4/30/19 at 2:00 p.m. (status report due 4/23/19).

(d) Continued adversary proceeding status conference (Radiology/Fower): 5/21/19 at 2:00 p.m. (as ordered at the hearing on 3/26/19).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 3/26/19:

Appearances Required

(1) Current Issues

(a) Order to Show Cause ("OSC," dkt. 386)

The parties should be prepared to address the issues raised by the OSC (dkt. 386), the motion for the OSC (dkt. 384), the status report (dkt. 390), the declaration of the Sakurais' counsel Mr. Gebelt (dkt. 391), and the reply of the Fresco Parties (dkt. 392).

2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 10/16/17.

Revised Tentative Ruling for 1/15/19:

Appearances Required

(1) Current Issues

(a) Final Fee Application for Debtor's Counsel (Checkmate, dkt. 249, 250, 253, 255, 257, 258, 261, 264; and Sakurai, dkt. 343, 346, 352, 355, 356, 363, 367)

The applications seek $350,846.10 (Checkmate) and $118,796.75 (Sakurai). This Court has allowed a total of $300,000, and set this continued hearing to address the balance of $169,642.85. See Interim Fee Orders (dkt. 261, Checkmate; dkt. 363, Sakurai).

The Fresco parties' objections note that this Court has on more than one occasion expressed grave concerns about whether these Debtors have adequately prosecuted these bankruptcy cases. Of course, this Court expects that counsel for the debtors would not in any way have participated in any attempts by these Debtors to mislead or obstruct creditors in these cases, but that is not the end of the inquiry.

On the one hand, when there are legitimate strategic or tactical reasons to chose among different courses of action, counsel for Debtors usually must act at their clients' direction, even if they might harbor some doubts about the efficacy of those choices. On the other hand, in addition to the ethical limits of what counsel may do at their clients' direction, counsel are only permitted "reasonable compensation for actual, necessary services" (11 U.S.C. 330(a)(1)(A) (emphasis added)), and in determining what compensation is reasonable this Court "shall consider the nature, the extent, and the value of such services, taking into account all relevant factors, including [among other things] whether the services were necessary to the administration of, or beneficial at the time at which the service was rendered toward the completion of, [these bankruptcy cases]."

In these cases there are open questions about (i) Debtors' own acts and omissions, and whether Debtors were or were not engaging in a lack of diligent prosecution of these cases or other misconduct, (ii) whether Debtors, if deposed or examined at trial on those issues, will or will not assert advice of counsel, and (iii) whether, regardless of the foregoing issues, counsel for Debtors can satisfy the above-referenced statutory requirements. For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that the Fresco parties must have a reasonable period of time in which to conduct discovery to investigate Debtors' apparent failures to prosecute these cases or other misconduct, and whether, in view of the results of any such discovery, the compensation sought by counsel for Debtors is for "necessary" services and is "reasonable" in dollar amount, given all of the facts and circumstances.

Meanwhile, although this Court recognizes that all interim compensation may be revisited in connection with any final award, the question is how much to award on an interim basis, and whether any disbursed funds must be held in trust. The tentative ruling is to award another $35,000 to counsel for Debtors, to be allocated pro rata in proportion to their outstanding fee requests, without requiring any portion of those funds to be held in trust, but also without prejudice to allowance of a greater or lesser final award.

The parties should be prepared to address the schedule for discovery on the issues outlined above. The tentative ruling is that a five month period is appropriate.

Then, in connection with any final fee award, or at such other time as this Court may later determine, the Fresco parties' objections can be revisited with the benefit of both (i) any discovery and (ii) any subsequent developments. For example, any additional disclosures and/or recoveries in the Fower/Radiology litigation might shed light on whether Debtors' and their counsel's strategies and tactics in dealing with those parties were appropriate at the time they were made. (This Court emphasizes that any subsequent developments would be relevant only to the extent they shed light on what was reasonable at the time the legal services were rendered - not for

Revised Tentative Ruling for 11/14/17:

Appearances required by the debtor's principals and debtor's counsel.

Proposed orders: The debtor is directed to serve and lodge proposed orders on each motion listed below via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date.

(1) Current issues

(a) Status Report (dkt. 37): The status report states that the debtor has no executory contracts. What about all the contracts with Radiology Solutions Inc./Corp. (whichever name is correct)?

(b) Cash collateral motion (dkt.9): The debtor reports (dkt. 53, p.3) that it has reached a stipulation with Community Bank regarding the use of cash collateral, but as of the preparation of this tentative ruling no such stipulation appears on the docket. If there is no such stipulation, or if it does not moot the bank's opposition (dkt. 50), then the parties should be prepared to address the merits of that opposition. In addition, the parties should be prepared to address the objection of the Fresco parties (dkt. 49) and the debtor's response (dkt. 53).

(c) Payroll motion (dkt. 6). The tentative ruling is to grant this motion on a final basis.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/4/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Application to employ real estate broker (dkt. 164)

Subject to an adequate explanation regarding the value/price discrepancy for the Atlantic Blvd. Property (see Cathay Bank Obj., dkt. 243, at pp.6:25-7:6), the tentative ruling is to grant the application to employ real estate broker. The tentative ruling is to overrule Cathay Bank's other objections.

(i) Alleged lack of disinterestedness

Although Cathay Bank's supplemental opposition (dkt. 243) argues that the proposed broker, Standard Mortgage, Inc. dba Standard Realty ("Broker") is not "disinterested," and therefore is not eligible for employment under 11 U.S.C. 327(a), the tentative ruling is that this objection is not persuasive. True, an independent contractor with Broker, Mr. Akbari (who previously stated that he was an "employee" of Broker), is married to the sister of the wife of one of Debtor's officers/control persons. Cathay Bank cites authority that, under California law, being a brother-in-law is equivalent to being a brother, so the tentative ruling is that Mr. Akbari is a "relative" of an "officer" or "person in control" of Debtor and therefore he is an "insider." See 11 U.S.C. 101(45) (a "relative" means an "individual related by affinity or consanguinity within the third degree as determined by the common law"); 101(31)(B)(vi) (insider includes a "relative of a ... officer, or person in control of the debtor"). But that does not mean that Broker is an insider.

It also appears to be true that Debtor has not been as forthcoming with the connections between Broker and Debtor as would have been advisable, including both the familial relationships noted above and the recent discovery that Mr. Akbari "was the listing agent on the Cabrillo Street Property (during the nunc pro tunc timeframe in which the Broker is sought to be employed)" Cathay Bank Obj. dkt. 243, p.3:4-6 & Warrington Decl., Ex.1. Finally, as noted in the tentative ruling for 5/21/19, part (1)(b) (reproduced below), the statutory list of insiders "includes" but is not limited to the listed examples (see 11 U.S.C. 102(3)) and in addition this Court notes that a professional must be not only "disinterested" but also must not "hold or represent an interest adverse to the estate." 11 U.S.C. 327(a).

But the tentative ruling is that the facts recited above do not disqualify Broker from employment. A different real estate agent will be handling this matter (Mr. Ahmadi, dkt. 234); there is no evidence that Mr. Ahmadi or Broker itself has any incentive to act in any way adverse to the bankruptcy estate; and the failures to provide disclosure of every arguable "connection" between Broker and Debtor (within the meaning of Rule 2014, Fed. R. Bankr. P.) is unfortunate but understandable given the attenuated nature of the connections (Debtor's officer's wife's sister's husband originally was the listing agent for Broker on one of the four properties to be sold).

(ii) Alleged issues with 4.5% commission

Cathay Bank argues that Debtor has failed to justify a 4.5% commission; but to the contrary, the tentative ruling is that in general this Court should give deference to Debtor's business judgment, and that even without such deference Debtor has provided sufficient evidence that a 4.5% commission is appropriate (see dkt. 234) (Declaration regarding typical commission for commercial properties being 4-6%, and for residential properties 5-6%). Cathay Bank has provided no evidence to the contrary. Nor has Cathay Bank cited authority that Debtors are required to "shop around" for the lowest commission (which might not be the best broker) prior to selecting a broker, especially given that the proposed Broker has agreed to a slightly reduced commission from what is typical (see id. at 3).

(iii) Alleged lack of qualifications re industrial property

The tentative ruling is that although there may be conceptual differences between "industrial" and "commercial" properties, Cathay Bank has not established that any such difference is meaningful in the context of this case and the properties at issue.

(iv) Conclusion as to Broker

The tentative ruling is to grant the application and authorize Broker's employment subject, again, to an adequate explanation regarding the value/price discrepancy for the Atlantic Blvd. Property. See Cathay Bank Obj., dkt. 243, at pp.6:25-7:6.

Tentative Ruling for 5/21/19:

Appearances are not required on 5/21/19.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's counsel's fee application (dkt. 175, 177)

Allow $145,683.50 in fees and $5,714.10 in expenses for a total of $151,397.50, and authorize draw down of the retainer ($124,846.70 remaining), with the balance of the fees and expenses to paid from the estate.

Cathay Bank's response (dkt. 207) does not object to allowance of the fees but seeks to reserve all rights it might have regarding a purported lien on some of the retainer. Debtor's reply (dkt. 215) asserts that the bank has no such rights to reserve because it has been given a replacement lien on the real estate.

This Court's recollection is that the bank did not entirely waive such rights at the hearing on 5/7/19, but did indicate that it was no more going to seek disgorgement from Debtor's firm (of authorized postpetition distributions from the retainer account) than it would seek disgorgement from one of Debtor's utilities (of authorized postpetition utility payments). In any event, whatever the parties' interpretations of the representations on 5/7/19, the issue is too remote for either party to be expending any substantial attorney fees on it at this time.

Cathay Bank has its security interest in the accounts receivable that existed as of the petition date, and it has replacement liens in ongoing accounts receivable. Debtor believes the bank will be paid in full out of those things. But as adequate protection (11 U.S.C. 361, 363(e) & 552(b)) the bank has replacement liens in Debtor's real estate - to cover both (i) any diminution in the value of its security interest in the accounts receivable as of the petition date and (ii) any diminution in the value of its purported security interest in the retainer as of the petition date. Therefore the bank's and Debtor's rights are both reserved, and neither party should be spending much time on this issue. Any attorney fees spent arguing about this issue are subject to this Court's review for reasonableness (under 11 U.S.C. 330 and 331 for Debtor's counsel, and under 11 U.S.C. 506(b) for Cathay Bank's counsel).

(b) Application to employ real estate broker (dkt. 164)

The tentative ruling is, with one exception, to overrule the objection of Cathay Bank (dkt. 199), based on Debtor's reply (dkt. 214). The exception is that, although Debtor has presented evidence of the reasonableness of the broker's proposed commission and experience, and this Court generally should defer to Debtor's business judgment, Cathay Bank makes a good point that the real estate at issue ranges broadly from a single family residence to commercial property etc., and there is insufficient evidence of the proposed broker's specific experience as to each type of real estate. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 5/24/19 for Debtor to file and serve a supplemental declaration detailing such experience, with a deadline of 5/29/19 for any supplemental objection by Cathay Bank, and a continued hearing (if there is any such objection) concurrent with the continued status conference (see below).

As for disinterestedness (11 U.S.C. 101(14), 327(a)), Cathay Bank argues that the broker is not disinterested because, from the information on the docket, it appears that one of its alleged employees (Mr. Akbari) is a relative by marriage of one of Debtor's principals, and the principals are beneficiaries of a trust that engaged in prepetition transactions with Debtor that, according to the bank, violated Debtor's covenants with the bank. On the one hand, it is true that Mr. Akbari previously declared that he was "employed" by the broker (dkt. 77, p.1:22).

On the other hand, this Court interprets that as an (unfortunately) imprecise description of his arrangement as an independent contractor. Alternatively, even if he is an employee, this Court is not persuaded that this disqualifies the broker from employment by the estate.

Mr. Akbari apparently is married to the sister of the wife of one of Debtor's officers/control persons. The tentative ruling is that this makes him related "by affinity or consanguinity" within the fourth degree (1.officer - 2.spouse - 3.sister of spouse - 4.Mr. Akbari), so he is not a "relative" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 101(45) and therefore he is not an "insider" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 101(31)(B)(vi) or (E). That is not dispositive, because, the statutory list of insiders "includes" but is not limited to the listed examples. See 11 U.S.C. 102(3). But the tentative ruling is that the connection has been sufficiently disclosed (Rule 2014, Fed. R. Bankr. P.) and is not disqualifying.

In practical terms, this Court does not perceive that any alleged ties between the proposed real estate broker and Debtor's principal creates any incentive to lessen the price obtained for the real estate, or otherwise prejudice the interests of the bankruptcy estate. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to approve the employment, subject to satisfactory supplemental evidence as set forth above.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 2/20/19.

(a) Bar date: 6/17/19 (timely served, dkt. 129).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: The tentative ruling is to vacate any deadline to file a proposed plan and disclosure statement, given the current posture of this case.

Revised Tentative Ruling for 5/7/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Employment of bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 83)

The tentative ruling is to authorize Debtor's bankruptcy counsel (whose employment has already been approved except for the retainer issue), to draw down on the retainer as otherwise permitted (e.g., after allowance of fees in the forthcoming interim fee application), without deciding at this time whether Cathay Bank does or does not have a traceable security interest in the retainer. Instead the tentative ruling is to grant the Bank a replacement lien, in the full amount of the Bank's disputed lien on the retainer, on Debtor's real estate (to the extent, if any, that the Bank's existing replacement lien does not already apply). That replacement lien would be subject to the same limitations on validity, priority, and amount as this Court has ordered with respect to cash collateral (see dkt. 71).

Reasons: Given the Bank's current debt of approximately $3.1 million (see dkt. 156, p.5:15-21), and the equity in the real estate of approximately $4 million (see id., p.6:4-11), such a replacement lien appears fully sufficient to provide adequate protection. Meanwhile, any further litigation over the retainer issue appears unnecessary and potentially wasteful and distracting from the other, important issues in this bankruptcy case.

(b) Continued use of cash collateral (dkt. 156)

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not sufficiently justified its proposed expenditures under the line item for "Professional Fees (Legal, Accounting)." The tentative ruling is to grant the motion for use of cash collateral, through 8/18/19, except that professional fees must be limited, and the tentative ruling is to set a limit of paying not more than $15,000 per week without further authorization of this Court. (To be clear: if Debtor in its business judgment believes that it must incur more than that amount of professional fees, it may do so, subject to the usual limits on reasonableness of fees, billing judgment, and business judgment - what is limited by this tentative ruling is use of cash collateral, not incurring fees.)

(c) Cathay Bank's adequate protection: replacement liens v. cash payments

The tentative ruling is to deny the Bank's request for interim payments. It is already adequately protected by the protections on the terms of this Court's prior orders and the additional protections set forth above.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 2/20/19.

Court's order (dkt. 4) and notice thereof (dkt. 75), pursuant to which status conferences are held concurrent with any other calendared proceeding.

(1) Current issues

(a) Employment of bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 83)

Debtor is directed to address the issues raised in Cathay Bank's opposition (dkt. 117) (source of retainer; non-consent to use of cash collateral or carve-out; and objection to any Knudsen procedure). In addition, the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) state that counsel must file local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF and also state:

Note: the judge prefers that local form F 2014-1 not repeat the employment application – instead simply say "see application" or the like (reasons: proposed professionals frequently do not track the language of Rule 2014, so the judge requires use of the form so that someone verifies the elements of that rule under penalty of perjury, and so the court staff does not have to do a line-by-line comparison with each element of the Rule).

(b) Employment of special counsel, employment issues (dkt. 113)

See above re local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF.

(c) Employment of BidMed LLC as asset liquidation broker (dkt. 134)

See above re local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF.

In addition, although this employment application is not on for hearing at this time, Debtor and all parties in interest should be aware that Judge Bason has in the past disapproved buyer's premiums. See the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) which provide in part that any order authorizing such employment typically will include a provision stating, "no buyer's premium" for auctioneers. This should not be interpreted as making any economic change in the compensation arrangement - the auctioneer and Debtor can adjust what is paid by Debtor such that the net compensation is the same - but the tentative ruling is that this is required both as a matter of disclosure (of what the professional is charging out of property of the estate or the proceeds of such property) and as a matter of disinterestedness (not being paid by both parties, but only by Debtor).

also directed to review the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) regarding discovery disputes.

(iii) Reporting: Require Debtor to file and serve reconciliations, 10 days in arrears on Wednesday of each week (i.e., covering the week that ended 10 days prior), comparing actual results with budgeted results, and calculating variances against budgeted and actual receipts and expenditures.

(iv) CDs: The tentative ruling is that Cathay Bank need not apply any CDs to the extent that they are collateral for standby letters of credit for any liability to workers' compensation insurers. But the parties are directed to address whether there are any other CDs at issue, and why, as a condition for the other adequate protection being granted to Cathay Bank, it should not be required to apply such other CDs against the loans for which they are collateral, so as to stop accruing interest or other charges adverse to Debtor and the bankruptcy estate.

The tentative ruling is to deny Cathay Bank's request for additional adequate protection in the form of monthly payments of interest. Debtor is liquidating much of its business, which creates a situation in which both assets and cash flow are somewhat uncertain. That uncertainty favors granting the Bank the additional adequate protection set forth above; but it also means that Debtor may have urgent needs to use cash for legitimate purposes other than interest payments to the Bank.

The tentative ruling is that all of the foregoing is subject to being revisited as the facts and circumstances develop. For example, if Debtor turns out to have success in collecting the proportion of accounts receivable that it predicts, it might be appropriate to find that Cathay Bank is adequately protected by a lien on less than all of Debtor's remaining real estate. Likewise, if Debtor pays down some of its debt to Cathay Bank through sales of some real property, that might reduce the need for the replacement liens to be as extensive as contemplated by this tentative ruling.

Conversely, if Debtor's accounts receivable appear to be less valuable than predicted by Debtor then Cathay Bank might need every bit of the replacement liens in Debtor's real property and all other assets (except avoidance actions etc.). Ironically, the more dire Debtor's finances, and the greater the risk of administrative insolvency, the stronger the argument that even if the Bank were free to foreclose it would have to pay someone to liquidate Debtor's assets in an orderly fashion (11 U.S.C. 506(c)), and in any event the "equities of the case" might warrant a carve-out for professionals (11 U.S.C. 552(b)). But those are issues that can be addressed when and if there is any need to do so.

The tentative ruling regarding Cathay Bank's evidentiary objections and due process objections (dkt. 78) is that, if this Court adopts the foregoing tentative ruling (granting replacement liens in essentially all of Debtor's assets), then those objections should be overruled because (x) Cathay Bank cannot be granted a replacement lien in greater than "all" of Debtor's assets, so to a large extent the value of those assets is irrelevant, and (y) whatever weaknesses may exist in Debtor's valuation evidence, there is enough to establish on a prima facie basis a reasonable probability that Cathay Bank is sufficiently over-secured to provide it with a substantial equity cushion, which is one form of adequate protection, and that is sufficient for present purposes.

As for the alleged costs of selling property subject to Cathay Bank's replacement liens, this Court can assess for each proposed sale whether Debtor's proposed use of the proceeds is consistent with adequate protection, and whether Cathay Bank is unreasonably withholding its consent under 11 U.S.C. 363(f)(2). In addition, all parties in interest are directed to the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) regarding 363 sales.

(d) Motion to reject collective bargaining agreements (dkt. 62) (the "1113 Motion")

Debtor seeks relief without a hearing, on 14 days' notice (so called "negative notice," or a "scream or die procedure"). But it appears that an actual hearing is required, and must be held quickly, under 11 U.S.C. 1113(d) (1) ("Upon the filing of an application for rejection the court shall schedule a hearing to be held not later than fourteen days after the date of the filing of such application," although "[t]he court may extend the time for the commencement of such hearing for a period not exceeding seven days where the circumstances of the case, and the interest of justice require such extension, or for additional periods of time to which the trustee and [employee's] representative agree.").

The 1113 Motion was filed on 3/1/19. The tentative ruling is to find that granting a short extension is warranted, based on the apparent lack of prejudice from doing so, and that a hearing should be held either on 3/21/19 at 1:00 p.m. or, if the representatives of the various employee groups will consent, concurrent with the continued status conference (see below). Debtor is directed to address what efforts have been made to obtain the

Among other things, this Court anticipates that, because the motion was not served on the entire creditor matrix, any party who was not served may seek reconsideration without meeting the usual standards under Rules 9023, 9024 or 52(b) (Fed. R. Bankr. P. & Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Rules 7052 and 9014(c)).

(b) Motion to extend time (dkt. 9)

Grant, with a caution that this Court is unlikely to grant further extensions.

(c) Payroll motion (dkt. 14)

Grant, except to the extent that the proposed payments in Exhibit 1 (dkt. 14, Ex.1) exceed the priority maximum provided in 11 U.S.C. 507(a)(4) and, if applicable, 507(a)(5).

(d) Motion to use prepetition bank accounts (dkt. 12)

Grant, subject to sufficient safeguards (i) to ensure accurate accounting including separation of pre- and postpetition accounting and (ii) to prevent inadvertent payment of prepetition obligations. Debtor is directed to work closely with the Office of the United States Trustee to develop and implement such procedures.

(e) Cash collateral motion (dkt. 13)

Grant in part and deny in part on an interim basis, as set forth in calendar no. 5 (2/28/19 at 10:00 a.m.).

(f) Motion to reject unexpired leases (dkt. 24)

Grant, except that Debtor seeks rejection effective as of 2/20/19 and, although there is some authority for retroactive rejection (see, e.g., In re At Home Corp., 392 F.3d 1064 (9th Cir. 2004)), Debtor has not addressed the types of considerations that would determine whether retroactive rejection is appropriate (e.g., were the premises vacated as of 2/20/19? when were the landlords given notice that the premises would be or were vacant? were the premises left in "broom clean" condition?). Debtor is directed to address those issues at the hearing.

(g) Utility motion (dkt. 25)

Grant on an interim basis, subject to any opposition at the hearing, with a final hearing to take place at the same time as the continued status conference (see below) and a deadline of 3/1/19 for Debtor to file and serve a notice of the final hearing.

(1) Current issues

(a) Amended plan (dkt. 72) and disclosure statement (dkt. 73)

(i) Exhibits generally

The exhibits should not all be attached to both documents. Exhibits A and B should be attached to the Plan and the rest to the Disclosure Statement (as stated in the Disclosure Statement). Attaching duplicate exhibits to both documents adds confusion, and expense to copy and mail the documents.

(ii) Exhibit B (dkt. 72 at PDF p. 10)

This exhibit shows a cure amount of "none" but then lists a negative amount on the Effective Date, which artificially reduces the payments required on the Effective Date. It appears that, but for this calculation error, Debtor would run out of cash in the first month.

(iii) Exhibit C (dkt. 72 at PDF pp.12-13)

First, despite overly optimistic projections (see below) this exhibit still shows projected losses. Second, there is no support for the projections: Exhibit C1, lines 1a and 1b include a space to show the source. Both "Historical gross inc." and "Historical expenses" are supposed to be dollar amounts from a "recent MOR part IX or equivalent" which is supposed to be "attached/at docket# _____," but there is no such document attached or referenced. (Emphasis omitted.)

(iv) Exhibit E (dkt. 72 at PDF p. 15)

This exhibit shows monthly payments of $1,137.68 to the State Bank of India, for total payments of $50,000 on its bifurcated secured claim. First, this is completely different from the $3,667.23 shown on Exhibit A (dkt. 72 at PDF p.9) on its unbifurcated claim. What treatment is Debtor actually proposing?

Second, because the spreadsheet automatically fills in the numbers from Exhibit E on Exhibit A, someone must have substituted different exhibits (perhaps from different drafts). This means that counsel's declaration (dkt. 72, p.7) that the spreadsheet has not been altered is FALSE.

This is the second time that unauthorized modifications have occurred. Debtor's counsel is cautioned that if this happens again that may result in sanctions.

(b) Feasibility of any reorganization

(A) Actual performance

MOR #7 (for 2/19, dkt. 74, p.1) shows a net loss despite an "IRS refund & transfers from savings," and despite the fact that the adequate protection payment to Bank of India is only $2800/mo. (MOR dkt.74, at PDF p.12) but the Plan (dkt. 72) proposes to pay the bank $3,667.23/mo. How is that remotely realistic?

(B) Projections

A letter from Debtor's principal dated 3/12/19 (dkt. 72, at PDF p.11) states that Nov.-Jan is "always usually a much slower period in our industry and sales will normally be lowest during these months"; but the letter projects better performance in February and an increase of $500 per 7-month period thereafter (the Disclosure Statement is even rosier, with a projected $1000 increase in the first period, dkt. 73, Ex.C, line 7a, Period A). If those projections are already off, how can this Court find that any plan is feasible (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(11))?

Should this case be dismissed or converted?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 8/2/18.

(a) Bar date: 12/11/18 (not timely served, see dkt. 24, 35 & 41, but the tentative ruling is not to set a new bar date because any party in interest who asserts prejudice can seek relief).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: see above. The tentative ruling is that, if this case is not dismissed or converted, Debtor will need to show substantial progress in MOR results before any further revisions to any plan or disclosure statement.

(c) Continued status conference: If this case is not dismissed or converted, the tentative ruling is to continue this status conference to 4/30/19 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report is required.

Tentative Ruling for 11/6/18:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) MORs (dkt. 44, 45)

MOR1 (for August, 2018) shows an ending balance of negative $4,549.03. MOR2 (for September 2018) shows an ending balance of negative $4,074.81. Both MORs also show negative postpetition accounts receivable. What does that mean?

Both MORs were also filed late. They were due middle of the month following the reporting period, and this Court's adopted tentative ruling for 10/9/18 directed that the defective August MOR be cured by 10/15/18 but it and the September MOR were not filed until 10/31/18.

Are the (untimely) MORs inaccurate? How can parties in interest and this Court rely on them for current information? If they're accurate, they appear to show losses, or at least an inability to generate profits that would be needed to reorganization.

In view of all the foregoing, should this case be converted or dismissed?

directed service no later than 10/12/18. Why?

Meanwhile, although Debtor's principal Neel Viradia declares under penalty of perjury that no unauthorized insider compensation has been paid (dkt. 45, p.16, answer #2), the breakdown of payroll in the MORs apparently shows otherwise (e.g., dkt. 45, p.5, lines 1-2). The form itself states (e.g., dkt. 47, p.2, bottom of page): "[T]his notice ... must be filed and served fifteen days before any pay out of compensation" What consequences should follow from Debtor's apparent violation of that limitation?

(c) Employment (dkt. 32, superseded by amended application, dkt. 42)

The amended application does not specify whether the $10,000 fee already paid by Batuk Viradia (and the filing fee), or the $2,000 he has committed to pay, are loans to Debtor, or gifts, or equity investments, or something else. Nor has he filed a declaration confirming that he understands that proposed counsel's sole loyalty must be to Debtor (not to Mr. Viradia), and that has been informed that there might be conflicts of interest and he may wish to seek separate counsel (e.g., conflicts could exist if Mr. Viradia received any preferential payments or other avoidable transfers, or if Mr. Viradia would prefer that Debtor take a course of action that is not in the best interests of creditors).

More generally, although payment of a retainer by a third party is not outright prohibited, it is fraught with ethical concerns. See In re Kelton Motors, Inc., 109 B.R. 641 (Bankr. D. Vt. 1989); In re Hathaway Ranch Partnership, 116 B.R. 208, 219 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1990); In re Park-Helena Corp., 63 F.3d 877 (9th Cir. 1995).

The tentative ruling is that, if this case is not dismissed or converted, the employment application must be continued to the date of the continued status conference (set forth below) with a deadline of 11/13/18 for Debtor to file Mr. Viradia's declaration, with a copy of this tentative ruling attached as an exhibit, addressing the issues described above.

(d) Cash collateral. If this case is not dismissed or converted, the tentative ruling is to authorize the use of cash collateral on a final basis, on the same terms as the interim authorization (dkt. 37).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 8/2/18.

(a) Bar date: 12/11/18 (order, dkt. 35). Although the order was not timely served (see dkt. 41), the tentative ruling is that the confusion of setting yet another bar date would outweigh the benefit, and that this Court can address any prejudice from shortened notice when and if anyone files a late claim and seeks to have the claim treated as timely.

(c) Continued status conference: If this case is not dismissed or converted, the tentative ruling is to continue this status conference to 12/11/18 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report is required.

Revised Tentative Ruling for 10/9/18:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues.

(a) Cash collateral. The tentative ruling is to authorize the use of cash collateral as set forth in the tentative ruling for calendar no. 6 (10/9/18 at 1:00 p.m.).

(b) Insider compensation. Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 2014-1(a) requires a notice and opportunity to object before any insider compensation is paid. But no such notice has been filed, and Debtor's Monthly Operating Report ("MOR") for the month ending 8/31/18 reflects payments to each of two insiders. Dkt. 34, at PDF p.8. The tentative ruling is to direct Debtor to serve the notice using the local form no later than 10/12/18.

(c) Bar date. On 9/5/18 this Court entered its "Order Setting Bar Date: November 9, 2018; and Directing Service by Debtor." Dkt. 24. The debtor failed to serve that order. Why? The tentative ruling is to issue an amended order setting a bar date as set forth below.

(d) MOR (dkt. 34). The MOR appears to be incomplete. For example, it refers to multiple accounts but appears to provide only a combined report; many of the entries are vague or have no description; and page one includes a reference to "Non DIP personal checking (see attached letter)" but no letter or any other explanation is attached. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 10/15/18 to file an amended MOR correcting these and any other deficiencies.

(e) Employment (dkt. 25). As highlighted by the objection of the United States Trustee ("UST") (dkt. 28), the parties should be prepared to address

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 8/2/18.

(a) Bar date: See above. In view of Debtor's failure to serve the order (dkt.24), the tentative ruling is to issue an amended order setting a bar date of 12/28/18 and directing the debtor to serve that order no later than 10/15/18 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD.

Grant, if the case is not dismissed or converted.

(d) Budget Motion (dkt. 87) and amended Schedule I (dkt. 87, Ex. D)

This Court's Scheduling Order directed Debtor to file and serve the Budget Motion by 5/30/19 (dkt. 80, at 2) but it was not filed and served until 6/3/19. Why? If there is a satisfactory explanation, and if this case is not dismissed or converted, the tentative ruling is to grant the motion.

(c) Motion to sell free and clear (the "Sale Motion," dkt. 42)

No statements have been filed by the proposed purchaser and her broker of their connections with Debtor and other parties in interest, as required by this Court's order (dkt. 80, para.3.iii.&iv.). The proposed sale has been continued multiple times, and Debtor has been given a long time to attempt to maximize the sale proceeds, but Debtor still has not provided adequate assurances of an arms-length transaction and maximization of value. Why should this Court not dismiss or convert this bankruptcy case? The tentative ruling is to deny the Sale Motion and convert this bankruptcy case to chapter 7.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date (see LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B)) except that this Court will prepare the conversion order.

Tentative Ruling for 5/21/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Budget Motion (dkt. 19) and incomplete Schedule I (see dkt. 68)

This Court set the Budget Motion for hearing because the attached Bankruptcy Schedules I and J were not completed in accordance with the instructions on the form (see dkt. 68). Debtor was directed to file an amended Schedule I to cure the defect by 5/16/19. Dkt. 68. As of the time this tentative ruling has been prepared, no amended schedule has been filed. Why not?

What remedies should this Court impose for that omission, and for the fact that Debtor did not seek approval of a budget until four months after this bankruptcy was filed? See id. Should this Court impose a sanction on Debtor and/or Debtor's counsel?

If this case is not dismissed or converted (see below), the tentative ruling is to continue the Budget Motion to the same date and time as the continued status conference (see below).

(b) Order to show cause ("OSC," dkt. 65), and Debtor's response (dkt. 77)

The parties should be prepared to address whether this case should be converted or dismissed. If this case is not dismissed or converted at this hearing, the tentative ruling (per dkt. 65, to which Debtor has acceded per dkt. 77) is (i) to continue the OSC to the same time as the continued status conference (see below), and (ii) to require both Debtor and proposed buyer of the Gage Avenue property to hire independent third party brokers in connection with the sale, with full disclosure and (as to Debtor) with this Court's approval of such employment. See dkt. 65.

(c) Motion to sell free and clear (the "Sale Motion," dkt. 42)

If this case is not dismissed or converted, the tentative ruling is to continue the Sale Motion to the same time as the continued status conference, to allow time for Debtor and the proposed buyer to hire independent third party brokers as set forth above. As to Debtor's alleged "bona fide dispute" regarding certain liens (11 U.S.C. 363(f)(4)), without loan closing statements (at a minimum), how can this Court accept on their face Debtor's assertions that, supposedly, he did not receive all of the net proceeds of certain promised loans to which he claims to be entitled? See Adv. No. 2:19-ap-01138-NB, dkt. 1; and Adv. No. 2:19-ap-01089-NB, dkt. 1.

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not adequately addressed the objections of Mr. Daneil Partida (dkt. 55) and Mr. Andrew Kwiat (dkt. 52) to the Sale Motion. This Court has the same concerns regarding other lienholders. Therefore, if any sale is approved in future, this Court anticipates that (at least if the current record remains unchanged) all liens (including not just those of the objecting creditors, but all other asserted liens as well) will need to be paid out of escrow in accordance with escrow demands.

To be clear, the issue before this Court is solely whether or not to authorize any sale to be free and clear of some portion of the liens, not whether the liens are ultimately valid. Therefore, if distributions are made to lienholders and later Debtor can establish that some lienholders have been overpaid, he would remain free to pursue any legitimate action to recover any such overpayment.

The foregoing issues can be addressed at the continued sale hearing (if this case is not dismissed or converted).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 1/8/19.

(a) Bar date: 4/16/19 (untimely but excused, dkt. 25).

Tentative Ruling for 4/30/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Relief From Stay Motion (the "R/S Motion," dkt. 31)

According to Debtor's status report (dkt. 54) the disputes with movant Ms. Moreno have been resolved by an agreement to be embodied in a forthcoming proposed adequate protection order ("APO"). The parties are directed to address whether any disputes remain, and when the APO will be lodged.

(b) Amended Sale Motion (dkt. 42)

On further review this Court is concerned with several aspects of the proposed sale of the Gage Ave. property. The proposed sale is for $550,000, subject to overbids, to the current tenant, Ms. Gabi Rangel ("Proposed Buyer").

(i) Representing both sides

This Court recalls that at prior hearings Debtor made assurances that Proposed Buyer was representing herself. But Debtor's real estate agency, Realty World Capero, is listed as agent for both the seller (Debtor) and Proposed Buyer. See Sale Motion (dkt. 42) Ex.A at PDF pp.30-33.

Although dual agency is permissible outside of bankruptcy, within bankruptcy Judge Bason has prohibited dual agency because it means the real estate agent who represents the bankruptcy estate is not disinterested and may have an actual conflict of interest. The fact that Debtor is acting as his own agent, and his firm is representing Proposed Buyer, only makes these concerns worse. Can the Sale Motion be granted despite these concerns?

(ii) Service issues

Chapter 11

One lienholder asserts that he did not receive the Sale Motion papers, and only recently learned of the proposed sale when another lienholder contacted him. See Ltd. Obj. (dkt. 52). Can this Court rely on Debtor's proof of service?

(iii) Buyer's closing costs

The estimating closing statement (dkt. 42, Ex.B, at PDF p.48) includes a "Seller Credit for Buyer[']s Closing Costs" in the amount of $16,500. What is the basis for this distribution to Proposed Buyer? Does that effectively reduce the purchase price to $533,500 (because $550,000 - $16,500 = $533,500)? Does that make the initial overbid of $575,000 unreasonably high, and thereby chill the bidding?

(iv) Unpaid rent

The Sale Motion reveals that Proposed Buyer owes $1,353 for March, 2019 rent, supposedly offset by some repairs to the property; but Debtor has not yet received receipts. See dkt. 42, p.10:12-14. In addition, rent is due for April, 2019. Id., p.10:15-17. What is the current status of these matters?

(v) Accounting for receipt and use of security deposit

The accounting in the Sale Motion is unclear. Nor is it clear what happened before or after Debtor filed his bankruptcy petition, on 1/18/19 (the "Petition Date").

Apparently, Proposed Buyer made a $5,000 deposit; was supposed to make an additional $35,000 deposit; and actually made a total deposit of $50,000. See Dkt. 42, p.10:19-20. It is unclear if some of these funds were received after the Petition Date.

It appears that there was a "pre-release" to Debtor of the entire $50,000 security deposit. Debtor alleges (dkt. 42, pp.10:18-11:18) that he used those funds as follows:

$ 20,200.00 Juan Resendiz (paid prepetition? for prepetition work)
$ 4,055.44 Home Depot supplies (prepetition)
$ 8,250.00 1st DOT (Kwait) (paid prepetition? for prepetition debt)
$ 5,350.00 Ramon Ruelas (repairs) (paid prepetition? prepetition work?)

$ 4,770.00 Debtor's (prepetition?) payments re office lease & car

$ 42,625.44 total

Debtor is "unable to account for" the balance, and alleges that it "was likely used on miscellaneous expenses for [Debtor's] business and the property." Sale Motion (dkt. 42) p.11:17-18. (Debtor calculates $4,594.56, id., but this Court calculates $7,374.56 because $50,000 - $42,625.44 = $7,374.56.)

Depending on the timing, Debtor's depletion of the security deposit could constitute unauthorized postpetition borrowing (11 U.S.C. 364), and his use of the resulting funds could be unauthorized postpetition acts out of the ordinary course of business (11 U.S.C. 363), or unauthorized postpetition transfers (11 U.S.C. 549). Debtor is directed to clarify the timing.

When were the "pre-releases" of the security deposit made? When were the expenditures made? How can Debtor provide any evidence regarding the timing and use of the missing $7,374.56?

(vi) Sale "free and clear"

One of Debtor's two grounds for selling free and clear of liens is an alleged "bona fide" dispute (11 U.S.C. 363(f)(4)) regarding the dollar amount of those liens:

The Debtor, simultaneously with the prosecution of this Motion, will seek through adversary complaints filed against the secured creditors holding liens against the Property to void said liens in whole or in part. The allegations of said complaints will include usury claims and challenges to the amount of said claims (i.e., the Debtor did not receive the amounts the creditors promised to lend). Debtor proposes that proceeds in the amount of all secured claims against the Property be held in escrow by Debtor's attorney until the resolution of said adversary proceedings or as agreed to by the parties. [Sale Motion (dkt. 42), p.6:15-23 (emphasis added), and see id. pp.17:15-18:6.]

As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, no such adversary proceedings have been filed (except for the one against Ms. Moreno that allegedly has been settled as part of the forthcoming APO). See dkt. 40 (Adv.P. 2:19-ap-01089-NB). In addition, there is reason to doubt whether any such disputes are "bona fide."

The limited opposition of the holder of the first deed of trust, Andrew Kwiat (dkt.52), points out that he is a licensed real estate broker, which generally creates an exception to the usury limitations. More broadly, the fact that Debtor himself is a licensed real estate broker might exempt all of the liens from the usury limitations (this Court has not researched that issue, and only uses it to illustrate that Debtor's bald assertion of "usury" does not appear to be sufficient to create a "bona fide" dispute).

Chapter 11

Debtor's other ground for selling free and clear of liens is that the sale price is greater than the aggregate value of all liens on the property (11 U.S.C. 363(f)(3)). See Sale Motion (dkt. 42), p.11:1-6. That appears to be a sufficient ground for authorizing the sale itself, but not for withholding any of the proceeds.

Any withholding of proceeds would have to have some bankruptcy-related purpose - e.g., to use the funds to preserve or enhance the bankruptcy estate - and would have to be conditioned on adequate protection of each lienholder's interests. See 11 U.S.C. 363(e). Debtor's Sale Motion does not suggest any such purpose, nor any such adequate protection.

Accordingly, the tentative ruling is that (assuming this Court's other concerns are sufficiently addressed and that the sale can be approved at all) all lienholders must be paid in full out of escrow. The only exception is that, to the extent Debtor has a good faith basis to challenge the reasonableness of any attorney fees or other charges, the tentative ruling is that those amounts may be withheld from distribution, but must be maintained in a blocked account, or a trust account maintained by Debtor's counsel, or the equivalent.

(vii) Requested waiver of 14-day stay

Debtor requests a waiver of the 14-day stay of Rule 6004(h) (Fed.R.Bankr.P.). But Debtor provides no reason why the sale, which has already waited many months, cannot wait 14 days longer. That appears to be especially appropriate because Debtor's latest status report (dkt. 54, p.2:12-16) states that the Gage Ave. property is only "nearing" rehabilitation, and Debtor is "awaiting approval" by the architect of an "attic addition." The tentative ruling is to deny Debtor's request to waive the 14-day stay.

(viii) Conclusion as to Sale Motion/Gage Ave. property

The parties are directed to address the foregoing issues. If this Court's concerns can be adequately addressed, the tentative ruling is to authorize the sale but require all liens to be paid in full out of escrow, with the possible exception of attorney fees and other charges that are subject to bona fide dispute and that are held in a blocked account or the equivalent.

Proposed order: If the Sale Motion is granted, Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR

Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

Appearances are not required on 4/9/19. The tentative continuances/dispositions of matters before this Court are set forth below.

(1) Current issues

(a) Relief From Stay Motion (the "R/S Motion," dkt. 31)

This Court contin[u]ed the hearing on the R/S Motion per the parties' stipulation (see dkt. 44) informing this Court that the parties needed time to finalize and execute an adequate protection stipulation. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address (a) whether the alleged arrears have been brought current and/or (b) whether they will agree to the terms of an adequate protection order.

(b) Amended Motion to Sell Free and Clear (dkt. 42)

Grant, as this Court is satisfied that the issues raised in its 4/2/19 tentative ruling have been adequately addressed.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Tentative Ruling for 3/5/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Financial losses and irregularities

Debtor's first Monthly Operating Report ("MOR," Jan. 2019, dkt. 17, p.1) appears to show that Debtor started with $2,518.85 and ended with $25.64. How is this sustainable? It appears to match Debtor's bankruptcy Schedules I&J (dkt. 1 at PDF pp.43-46), which show negative cash flow and no anticipated future change. Although Debtor's status report (dkt. 13) states that Debtor intends to sell one property and/or evict the tenant, but the docket does not reflect any progress on those things. Based on the foregoing, the tentative ruling is to dismiss this bankruptcy case.

The same MOR appears to show that Debtor paid $150 on a "Personal Loan" from "Samuel Samuel" via "Cash App" (dkt. 17, at PDF p.2, 1/15/19 entry) - is that an unauthorized postpetition borrowing? Alternatively, is it an unauthorized payment of prepetition debt? Either way, it appears that Debtor is violating the duties of a debtor in possession.

Likewise, the MOR shows a payment of $479.31 to Capital One Auto Carpay for an "Automobile Loan." Dkt. 17, at PDF p.3, entry for 1/22/19. What is the explanation?

Likewise, the MOR shows a payment of $228.96 to "Charter Communications" on 1/28/19 for "Internet (Includes Past Due Amounts)." This appears to violate the automatic stay: what will Debtor's counsel do about that?

(b) Disregarding Court order

This Court's "Order Setting Bar Date: April 16, 2019 and Directing Service by Debtor" (dkt. 14, emphasis added) specifically directed Debtor to serve a copy of that order no later than February 11, 2019. There is no proof of such service. Why not? The tentative ruling, if this case is not dismissed, is to issue an order setting an amended bar date, and once again direct Debtor to serve a copy of that amended order on creditors (see below).

(c) Missing budget motion. At the 2/5/19 hearing and in the Initial Case Status Report (dkt. 13), Debtor represented to this Court that a budget motion would be forthcoming. As of the writing of this tentative ruling, no such motion has been filed. Why not?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 1/8/19.

(a) Bar date: 4/16/19 but no notice (see above), so re-set to 5/30/19 (DO NOT service any notice - this Court will prepare an amended bar date order and that order will direct Debtor to serve it on creditors).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD

(c) Continued status conference: 4/9/19 at 1:00 p.m., brief status report due 3/26/19.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

(1) Current issues.

(a) Missing status report. Debtor is directed to explain why a Case Status Report was not filed, as required by this Court's order setting this status conference (dkt. 5).

(b) Missing "first day" motions. Debtor has failed to file a budget motion (required by Judge Bason's posted procedures, available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov). Debtor also has not filed any other typical "first day" motions (e.g., a utility motion).

(c) Negative, and inadequately supported, monthly income. Debtor appears to have a new job as a real estate broker, but even with that new (alleged) income and supplemental income as a Lyft driver he shows negative cash flow. See Bankruptcy Schedules I & J (dkt. 1 at PDF pp. 43-46).

Debtor appears to have two properties, but does not list any leases or any income from a rental property: why not?

Debtor has stated under penalty of perjury that he does not expect any changes to income or expenses (see bankruptcy Schedule I, item 13, and Schedule J, item 24). How can Debtor hope to reorganize with negative cash flow?

In addition, the (sparse) income that is reported is inadequately supported. Debtor has ignored the instructions on bankruptcy Schedule I, line 8a, to "[a]ttach a statement for each property and business showing gross receipts, ordinary and necessary business expenses, and the total monthly net income."

(c) Dismissal? Should this Court dismiss this case? Does the foregoing constitute a "willful failure to appear in proper prosecution" of this case, and/or a "willful" failure to comply with this Court's order setting this status conference, either of which would support dismissal with a bar under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1)?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 1/8/19. If this case is not dismissed, the tentative ruling is to set the following deadlines/dates:

(a) Bar date: 4/16/19 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

Tentative Ruling for 5/21/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's 11 U.S.C. 363 sale motion (the "Sale Motion," dkt. 80); Oppositions (dkt. 87, 93), and Reply (dkt. 94, 96)

At the hearing on 5/7/19 this Court adopted the tentative ruling and granted the Sale Motion, with a waiver of the 14-day stay under 6004(h), subject some modifications. First, although this Court overruled objections and approved Sale Part One (as described in the Sale Motion), this Court set this continued hearing on 5/21/19 to address whether that sale has closed, and to resolve any issues involving the dollar amounts need to (i) cure leased equipment defaults or (ii) pay financed equipment liens.

Second, as to the proposed Sale Part Two, this Court ruled that the sale to Debtor's principal, Ms. Galant, is approved for a payment of $100,000 and can close with no further order of this Court. But if it turns out that she is unable to pay that price (within the time frame outlined in the Sale Motion), and (i) if she proposes to pay between $50,000 and $99,999, then the parties would need to address what remedies are appropriate, such as opening up the proposed sale to overbids; and (ii) if she proposes to pay less than $50,000 then the proposed Sale Part Two is disapproved, and the intellectual property (and miscellaneous assets included in Sale Part Two) would continue to belong to bankruptcy estate, and could be sold or otherwise addressed.

This Court directed Debtor to lodge a proposed order memorializing the foregoing rulings. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, no such proposed order has been lodged. Why not?

In any event, are there any issues that are properly before this Court at this time in connection with the Sale Motion? Should this Court continue the Sale Motion to the same time as the continued status conference (see below)?

(b) Motion of the United States Trustee ("UST") to convert, dismiss, or appoint a Chapter 11 trustee (the "Conversion Motion", dkt. 76)

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address the following issues. It is unclear whether Sale Part One has closed. This Court notes that there is a declaration (dkt. 107) of a real estate broker for Debtor's principal, Ms. Galant, regarding the listing of her property for sale (which was contemplated to fund the Sale Part Two); but there is no information about the refinancing the Ms. Galant was contemplating (which was contemplated to fund the Sale Part One).

Should this Court continue the Conversion Motion to the same time as the continued status conference (see below)?

(c) Bar date order (dkt. 108)

This Court issued its Order Setting Bar Date (dkt. 108), directing service by Debtor be completed by 5/10/19. The docket does not reflect any proof of service. What the order timely served? If so, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 5/22/19 to file a proof of such service; and if not, the tentative ruling is to issue a new order setting a new bar date.

Revised Tentative Ruling for 5/7/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of the United States Trustee ("UST") to convert, dismiss, or appoint a Chapter 11 trustee (the "Conversion Motion", dkt. 76)

Continue to to be heard concurrently with the continued status conference (see part "(2)" of this tentative ruling, below). If, prior to the continued hearing date, Debtor files a declaration that it has closed the proposed Sale Part One, this Court anticipates that the tentative ruling for the continued hearing will be to deny the Conversion Motion without prejudice.

(b) Debtor's 11 U.S.C. 363 sale motion (the "Sale Motion," dkt. 80); Oppositions (dkt. 87, 93), and Reply (dkt. 94, 96)

Grant the Sale Motion, but only on the following terms:

(i) Minimum dollar amount for Sale Part Two. Debtor's principal, Ms. Rachel Galant, is essentially agreeing to pay debts on which she is already the guarantor (Sale Part One, estimated at $450,000), and if there is any money left over from the anticipated $550,000 proceeds of the refinance and sale of her home, then that residual amount (estimated at $100,000, but possibly much less, down to $-0-) will be used to pay for Debtor's intellectual property and some de minimus assets (Sale Part Two).

The tentative ruling is that there must be a minimum dollar amount payable for Sale Part Two. That is essentially the consideration Ms. Galant must pay (beyond what she owes anyway, as a guarantor) for being able to continue her business without successor liability, based on the Bankruptcy Code's ability to sell property free and clear of an liability that would otherwise follow the assets (which is one type of "interest" in such property). See, e.g., In re Trans World Airlines, Inc., 322 F.3d 283, 290-91 (3d Cir. 2003). See also Myers v. U.S., 297 B.R. 774 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 2003).

The tentative ruling is to set the minimum consideration for the Sale Part Two at not less than $50,000. The tentative ruling is that this dollar amount is subject to overbids, as set forth below.

(ii) Overbids. The proposed sale must be subject to any overbids at the hearing, including any overbids that are not cash (in whole or in part), or that are for fewer than all assets, or any other combination of things. Any "highest and best" determination must be made initially by Debtor, but subject to any objections and resolution by this Court. See generally, e.g., In re Lahijani, 325 B.R. 282 (9th Cir. BAP 2005); In re Mickey Thompson Entm't Group, Inc., 292 B.R. 415, 421 (9th Cir. BAP 2003).

(iii) Backup bids. Any sale must be subject to any backup bids, in the event the winning bidder does not timely close either Sale Part One or Sale Part Two. For example, if the proposed purchaser - Debtor's principal - were to close Sale Part One but fail to close the Sale Part Two, and if a backup bidder has been approved for Sale Part Two, then the backup bidder could acquire the Sale Part Two assets (Debtor's recipes, trademarks, and other intellectual property).

(iv) Deadline for resolution of any disputes regarding purchase/cure amounts for equipment. The motion lists some cure/payment amounts as "TBD." In addition, one creditor has objected. See Sale Motion (dkt. 82, Schedules A&B), and see Direct Cap. Corp. Obj. (dkt. 93) (asserting $11,050.14 arrears plus $5,411.34 attorney fees to date, for a total alleged cure amount of approximately $16,461.48).

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of May 20, 2019 for Debtor to reach agreement with any equipment lessor/lienholder, or else those creditors will be free to repossess the equipment and must be given access to do so on 24 hours' notice. The reason is that the equipment must be removed by the end of May, or the bankruptcy estate will "abandon" the equipment (technically, an "abandonment" under 11 U.S.C. 554 is abandonment from the estate to Debtor; but Debtor apparently means that it intends to leave the equipment at the landlord's premises, for disposition by the landlord - this Court expresses no opinion whether that would create any postpetition liability, or what competing rights might exist in the equipment at that point). Any dispute can be addressed at the continued hearing on the same date as the continued status conference (see below).

(v) Good faith finding

Any "good faith" finding under 11 U.S.C. 363(m) will need to be supported by sufficient evidence (see the posted Procedures of Judge Bason, available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov). Normally that would include more information than what is Ms. Galant's declaration. See Dkt. 82, p.6:1-7. But the tentative ruling is to accept that declaration, combined with the purchase price above the debts for which she is personally liable and the agreement to turn over to Debtor any profit on resale of equipment, as sufficient prima facie evidence of good faith.

As to the objection of the "Objecting Creditors" (Mr. Haloosim et al., dkt. 87), this Court is inclined to agree with Debtor that, on the present record, there is a prima facie showing by Debtor of sufficient marketing, and insufficient evidence of any improper conduct by Debtor. As for their objections under 11 U.S.C. 363(f), this Court questions whether they have an "interest" in the property to be sold and, if not, whether they have standing to raise any objections. In addition, as stated in the posted Producedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov):

§ 363(f): Sales free and clear. Regarding § 363(f)(5), Judge Bason does not follow Clear Channel Outdoor, Inc. v. Knupfer (In re PW, LLC), 391 B.R. 25, 40 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2008). He has ruled that a sale free and clear is permissible under that statute whenever the interest at issue is subject to monetary valuation. See In re Trans World Airlines, Inc., 322 F.3d 283, 290-91 (3d Cir. 2003) ("TWA") (because employees' claims were "subject to monetary valuation," debtor's assets could be sold free and clear of successor liability for such claims under § 363(f)(5)). Alternatively, Judge Bason has ruled that "cramdown" is among the types of legal or equitable proceeding within the statute, or that Clear Channel is distinguishable in most cases under the rationale of In re Jolan, 403 B.R. 866 (Bankr. W.D. Wash. 2009), because holders of interests can be compelled in numerous other types of legal or equitable proceedings to accept a money satisfaction (which might be $-0- in the case of an interest that is entirely underwater). Those proceedings include a hypothetical foreclosure by one of the lienholders, or a receivership (which could be initiated at the behest of creditors or by the debtor itself). See Cal. Code Civ. Proc. ("CCP") §564(b)(9) (power to appoint receiver to sell property); CCP § 568.5 (receiver empowered to sell property as provided in CCP §§701.510 et seq.); CCP § 701.630 (extinguishment of liens); CCP § 701.680 (binding effect of sale). The judge respectfully disagrees with In re Hassen Imports

Appearances required for the status conference, but not for the abandonment motion. Telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Dismissal or conversion

Debtor's fourth status report alleges (dkt. 62, p.2:10) that a "363 motion, supported with a stalking horse bid, will be submitted to the court" at some unspecified future date. This Court and parties in interest have heard that hope before, but it appears highly unlikely that Debtor will receive a bid that will exceed the losses that are accruing meanwhile.

Debtor's situation appears to be getting steadily worse, both on a cash basis and in terms of accrued liabilities for postpetition real property rent, equipment leasing, etc. See MOR for Jan. 2019 (dkt. 57) (small positive cash flow, but $48,522.19 in postpetition payables as against $6,281.31 receivables) and MOR for Feb. 2019 (dkt. 63) lines 22-25 (net cash flow of ($1765.14) and increase in payables to $96,380.19 - almost double the prior month - as against $6,281.31 receivables - unchanged).

The tentative ruling is to dismiss this case and let Debtor and its secured creditors/equipment lessors make whatever arrangements they see fit for disposing of the collateral/leased equipment. (Office of the United States Trustee to lodge proposed order.)

Tentative Ruling for 6/4/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Application to employ real estate broker (dkt. 164)

Subject to an adequate explanation regarding the value/price discrepancy for the Atlantic Blvd. Property (see Cathay Bank Obj., dkt. 243, at pp.6:25-7:6), the tentative ruling is to grant the application to employ real estate broker. The tentative ruling is to overrule Cathay Bank's other objections.

(i) Alleged lack of disinterestedness

Although Cathay Bank's supplemental opposition (dkt. 243) argues that the proposed broker, Standard Mortgage, Inc. dba Standard Realty ("Broker") is not "disinterested," and therefore is not eligible for employment under 11 U.S.C. 327(a), the tentative ruling is that this objection is not persuasive. True, an independent contractor with Broker, Mr. Akbari (who previously stated that he was an "employee" of Broker), is married to the sister of the wife of one of Debtor's officers/control persons. Cathay Bank cites authority that, under California law, being a brother-in-law is equivalent to being a brother, so the tentative ruling is that Mr. Akbari is a "relative" of an "officer" or "person in control" of Debtor and therefore he is an "insider." See 11 U.S.C. 101(45) (a "relative" means an "individual related by affinity or consanguinity within the third degree as determined by the common law"); 101(31)(B)(vi) (insider includes a "relative of a ... officer, or person in control of the debtor"). But that does not mean that Broker is an insider.

It also appears to be true that Debtor has not been as forthcoming with the connections between Broker and Debtor as would have been advisable, including both the familial relationships noted above and the recent discovery that Mr. Akbari "was the listing agent on the Cabrillo Street Property (during the nunc pro tunc timeframe in which the Broker is sought to be employed)" Cathay Bank Obj. dkt. 243, p.3:4-6 & Warrington Decl., Ex.1. Finally, as noted in the tentative ruling for 5/21/19, part (1)(b) (reproduced below), the statutory list of insiders "includes" but is not limited to the listed examples (see 11 U.S.C. 102(3)) and in addition this Court notes that a professional must be not only "disinterested" but also must not "hold or represent an interest adverse to the estate." 11 U.S.C. 327(a).

But the tentative ruling is that the facts recited above do not disqualify Broker from employment. A different real estate agent will be handling this matter (Mr. Ahmadi, dkt. 234); there is no evidence that Mr. Ahmadi or Broker itself has any incentive to act in any way adverse to the bankruptcy estate; and the failures to provide disclosure of every arguable "connection" between Broker and Debtor (within the meaning of Rule 2014, Fed. R. Bankr. P.) is unfortunate but understandable given the attenuated nature of the connections (Debtor's officer's wife's sister's husband originally was the listing agent for Broker on one of the four properties to be sold).

(ii) Alleged issues with 4.5% commission

Cathay Bank argues that Debtor has failed to justify a 4.5% commission; but to the contrary, the tentative ruling is that in general this Court should give deference to Debtor's business judgment, and that even without such deference Debtor has provided sufficient evidence that a 4.5% commission is appropriate (see dkt. 234) (Declaration regarding typical commission for commercial properties being 4-6%, and for residential properties 5-6%). Cathay Bank has provided no evidence to the contrary. Nor has Cathay Bank cited authority that Debtors are required to "shop around" for the lowest commission (which might not be the best broker) prior to selecting a broker, especially given that the proposed Broker has agreed to a slightly reduced commission from what is typical (see id. at 3).

(iii) Alleged lack of qualifications re industrial property

The tentative ruling is that although there may be conceptual differences between "industrial" and "commercial" properties, Cathay Bank has not established that any such difference is meaningful in the context of this case and the properties at issue.

(iv) Conclusion as to Broker

The tentative ruling is to grant the application and authorize Broker's employment subject, again, to an adequate explanation regarding the value/price discrepancy for the Atlantic Blvd. Property. See Cathay Bank Obj., dkt. 243, at pp.6:25-7:6.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this portion of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this

Tentative Ruling for 5/21/19:

Appearances are not required on 5/21/19.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's counsel's fee application (dkt. 175, 177)

Allow $145,683.50 in fees and $5,714.10 in expenses for a total of $151,397.50, and authorize draw down of the retainer ($124,846.70 remaining), with the balance of the fees and expenses to paid from the estate.

Cathay Bank's response (dkt. 207) does not object to allowance of the fees but seeks to reserve all rights it might have regarding a purported lien on some of the retainer. Debtor's reply (dkt. 215) asserts that the bank has no such rights to reserve because it has been given a replacement lien on the real estate.

This Court's recollection is that the bank did not entirely waive such rights at the hearing on 5/7/19, but did indicate that it was no more going to seek disgorgement from Debtor's firm (of authorized postpetition distributions from the retainer account) than it would seek disgorgement from one of Debtor's utilities (of authorized postpetition utility payments). In any event, whatever the parties' interpretations of the representations on 5/7/19, the issue is too remote for either party to be expending any substantial attorney fees on it at this time.

Cathay Bank has its security interest in the accounts receivable that existed as of the petition date, and it has replacement liens in ongoing accounts receivable. Debtor believes the bank will be paid in full out of those things. But as adequate protection (11 U.S.C. 361, 363(e) & 552(b)) the bank has replacement liens in Debtor's real estate - to cover both (i) any diminution in the value of its security interest in the accounts receivable as of the petition date and (ii) any diminution in the value of its purported security interest in the retainer as of the petition date. Therefore the bank's and Debtor's rights are both reserved, and neither party should be spending much time on this issue. Any attorney fees spent arguing about this issue are subject to this Court's review for reasonableness (under 11 U.S.C. 330 and 331 for Debtor's counsel, and under 11 U.S.C. 506(b) for Cathay Bank's counsel).

(b) Application to employ real estate broker (dkt. 164)

The tentative ruling is, with one exception, to overrule the objection of Cathay Bank (dkt. 199), based on Debtor's reply (dkt. 214). The exception is that, although Debtor has presented evidence of the reasonableness of the broker's proposed commission and experience, and this Court generally should defer to Debtor's business judgment, Cathay Bank makes a good point that the real estate at issue ranges broadly from a single family residence to commercial property etc., and there is insufficient evidence of the proposed broker's specific experience as to each type of real estate. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 5/24/19 for Debtor to file and serve a supplemental declaration detailing such experience, with a deadline of 5/29/19 for any supplemental objection by Cathay Bank, and a continued hearing (if there is any such objection) concurrent with the continued status conference (see below).

As for disinterestedness (11 U.S.C. 101(14), 327(a)), Cathay Bank argues that the broker is not disinterested because, from the information on the docket, it appears that one of its alleged employees (Mr. Akbari) is a relative by marriage of one of Debtor's principals, and the principals are beneficiaries of a trust that engaged in prepetition transactions with Debtor that, according to the bank, violated Debtor's covenants with the bank. Chapter 11 the one hand, it is true that Mr. Akbari previously declared that he was "employed" by the broker (dkt. 77, p.1:22).

On the other hand, this Court interprets that as an (unfortunately) imprecise description of his arrangement as an independent contractor. Alternatively, even if he is an employee, this Court is not persuaded that this disqualifies the broker from employment by the estate.

Mr. Akbari apparently is married to the sister of the wife of one of Debtor's officers/control persons. The tentative ruling is that this makes him related "by affinity or consanguinity" within the fourth degree (1.officer - 2.spouse - 3.sister of spouse - 4.Mr. Akbari), so he is not a "relative" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 101(45) and therefore he is not an "insider" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 101(31)(B)(vi) or (E). That is not dispositive, because, the statutory list of insiders "includes" but is not limited to the listed examples. See 11 U.S.C. 102(3). But the tentative ruling is that the connection has been sufficiently disclosed (Rule 2014, Fed. R. Bankr. P.) and is not disqualifying.

In practical terms, this Court does not perceive that any alleged ties between the proposed real estate broker and Debtor's principal creates any incentive to lessen the price obtained for the real estate, or otherwise prejudice the interests of the bankruptcy estate. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to approve the employment, subject to satisfactory supplemental evidence as set forth above.

are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Revised Tentative Ruling for 5/7/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Employment of bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 83)

The tentative ruling is to authorize Debtor's bankruptcy counsel (whose employment has already been approved except for the retainer issue), to draw down on the retainer as otherwise permitted (e.g., after allowance of fees in the forthcoming interim fee application), without deciding at this time whether Cathay Bank does or does not have a traceable security interest in the retainer. Instead the tentative ruling is to grant the Bank a replacement lien, in the full amount of the Bank's disputed lien on the retainer, on Debtor's real estate (to the extent, if any, that the Bank's existing replacement lien does not already apply). That replacement lien would be subject to the same limitations on validity, priority, and amount as this Court has ordered with respect to cash collateral (see dkt. 71).

Reasons: Given the Bank's current debt of approximately $3.1 million (see dkt. 156, p.5:15-21), and the equity in the real estate of approximately $4 million (see id., p.6:4-11), such a replacement lien appears fully sufficient to provide adequate protection. Meanwhile, any further litigation over the retainer issue appears unnecessary and potentially wasteful and distracting from the other, important issues in this bankruptcy case.

(b) Continued use of cash collateral (dkt. 156)

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not sufficiently justified its proposed expenditures under the line item for "Professional Fees (Legal, Accounting)." The tentative ruling is to grant the motion for use of cash collateral, through 8/18/19, except that professional fees must be limited, and the tentative ruling is to set a limit of paying not more than $15,000 per week without further authorization of this Court. (To be clear: if Debtor in its business judgment believes that it must incur more than that amount of professional fees, it may do so, subject to the usual limits on reasonableness of fees, billing judgment, and business judgment - what is limited by this tentative ruling is use of cash collateral, not incurring fees.)

Note: the judge prefers that local form F 2014-1 not repeat the employment application – instead simply say "see application" or the like (reasons: proposed professionals frequently do not track the language of Rule 2014, so the judge requires use of the form so that someone verifies the elements of that rule under penalty of perjury, and so the court staff does not have to do a line-by-line comparison with each element of the Rule).

(b) Employment of special counsel, employment issues (dkt. 113)

(c) Employment of BidMed LLC as asset liquidation broker (dkt. 134)

See above re local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF.

In addition, although this employment application is not on for hearing at this time, Debtor and all parties in interest should be aware that Judge Bason has in the past disapproved buyer's premiums. See the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) which provide in part that any order authorizing such employment typically will include a provision stating, "no buyer's premium" for auctioneers. This should not be interpreted as making any economic change in the compensation arrangement - the auctioneer and Debtor can adjust what is paid by Debtor such that the net compensation is the same - but the tentative ruling is that this is required both as a matter of disclosure (of what the professional is charging out of property of the estate or the proceeds of such property) and as a matter of disinterestedness (not being paid by both parties, but only by Debtor).

Tentative Ruling for 3/12/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion to use prepetition bank accounts (dkt. 12)

Grant on a final basis, on the same terms as the interim order (dkt. 55).

(b) Utility motion (dkt. 25)

Grant on a final basis, on the same terms as the interim order (dkt. 54).

(c) Cash collateral motion (dkt. 13)

Grant on a final basis, on the same terms as the interim order (dkt. 71), except that after review of the parties' briefs (dkt. 76, 78) and the other documents and records before this Court, the tentative ruling is as follows:

(i) Real estate: Continue Cathay Bank's replacement lien on all of Debtor's real properties (subject to adjustment as set forth below).

(ii) Books and records: Grant access to Debtor's historical books and records, and all documents used to create the cash collateral budget and the chart summarizing collateral values, with such access starting on 3/18/19, for Cathay Bank's forensic accountant, James Crossland, to inspect and copy (including copying hard drives), during normal business hours. Such access must be subject to whatever Non-Disclosure Agreement, redaction, or other safeguards as may be necessary or appropriate to protect employees' privacy, attorney-client communications, Debtor's trade secrets, etc. The parties are directed to meet and confer on those issues, and the parties are also directed to review the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) regarding discovery disputes.

(iii) Reporting: Require Debtor to file and serve reconciliations, 10 days in arrears on Wednesday of each week (i.e., covering the week that ended 10 days prior), comparing actual results with budgeted results, and calculating variances against budgeted and actual receipts and expenditures.

(iv) CDs: The tentative ruling is that Cathay Bank need not apply any CDs to the extent that they are collateral for standby letters of credit for any liability to workers' compensation insurers. But the parties are directed to address whether there are any other CDs at issue, and why, as a condition for the other adequate protection being granted to Cathay Bank, it should not be required to apply such other CDs against the loans for which they are collateral, so as to stop accruing interest or other charges adverse to Debtor and the bankruptcy estate.

The tentative ruling is to deny Cathay Bank's request for additional adequate protection in the form of monthly payments of interest. Debtor is liquidating much of its business, which creates a situation in which both assets and cash flow are somewhat uncertain. That uncertainty favors granting the Bank the additional adequate protection set forth above; but it also means that Debtor may have urgent needs to use cash for legitimate purposes other than interest payments to the Bank.

The tentative ruling is that all of the foregoing is subject to being revisited as the facts and circumstances develop. For example, if Debtor turns out to have success in collecting the proportion of accounts receivable that it predicts, it might be appropriate to find that Cathay Bank is adequately protected by a lien on less than all of Debtor's remaining real estate. Likewise, if Debtor pays down some of its debt to Cathay Bank through sales of some real property, that might reduce the need for the replacement liens to be as extensive as contemplated by this tentative ruling.

Conversely, if Debtor's accounts receivable appear to be less valuable than predicted by Debtor then Cathay Bank might need every bit of the replacement liens in Debtor's real property and all other assets (except avoidance actions etc.). Ironically, the more dire Debtor's finances, and the greater the risk of administrative insolvency, the stronger the argument that even if the Bank were free to foreclose it would have to pay someone to liquidate Debtor's assets in an orderly fashion (11 U.S.C. 506(c)), and in any event the "equities of the case" might warrant a carve-out for professionals (11 U.S.C. 552(b)). But those are issues that can be addressed when and if there is any need to do so.

The tentative ruling regarding Cathay Bank's evidentiary objections and due process objections (dkt. 78) is that, if this Court adopts the foregoing tentative ruling (granting replacement liens in essentially all of Debtor's assets), then those objections should be overruled because (x) Cathay Bank cannot be granted a replacement lien in greater than "all" of Debtor's assets, so to a large extent the value of those assets is irrelevant, and (y) whatever weaknesses may exist in Debtor's valuation evidence, there is enough to establish on a prima facie basis a reasonable probability that Cathay Bank is sufficiently over-secured to provide it with a substantial equity cushion, which is one form of adequate protection, and that is sufficient for present purposes.

As for the alleged costs of selling property subject to Cathay Bank's replacement liens, this Court can assess for each proposed sale whether Debtor's proposed use of the proceeds is consistent with adequate protection, and whether Cathay Bank is unreasonably withholding its consent under 11 U.S.C. 363(f)(2). In addition, all parties in interest are directed to the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) regarding 363 sales.

(d) Motion to reject collective bargaining agreements (dkt. 62) (the "1113 Motion")

Debtor seeks relief without a hearing, on 14 days' notice (so called "negative notice," or a "scream or die procedure"). But it appears that an actual hearing is required, and must be held quickly, under 11 U.S.C. 1113(d) (1) ("Upon the filing of an application for rejection the court shall schedule a hearing to be held not later than fourteen days after the date of the filing of such application," although "[t]he court may extend the time for the commencement of such hearing for a period not exceeding seven days where the circumstances of the case, and the interest of justice require such extension, or for additional periods of time to which the trustee and [employee's] representative agree.").

The 1113 Motion was filed on 3/1/19. The tentative ruling is to find that granting a short extension is warranted, based on the apparent lack of prejudice from doing so, and that a hearing should be held either on 3/21/19 at 1:00 p.m. or, if the representatives of the various employee groups will consent, concurrent with the continued status conference (see below). Debtor is directed to address what efforts have been made to obtain the consent of any representative who is not present at the hearing. The tentative ruling is that Debtor must file and serve notice of the hearing date on all representatives (and other parties requiring notice) no later than 3/13/19.

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Grant, subject to sufficient safeguards (i) to ensure accurate accounting including separation of pre- and postpetition accounting and (ii) to prevent inadvertent payment of prepetition obligations. Debtor is directed to work closely with the Office of the United States Trustee to develop and implement such procedures.

(e) Cash collateral motion (dkt. 13)

Grant in part and deny in part on an interim basis, as set forth in calendar no. 5 (2/28/19 at 10:00 a.m.).

(f) Motion to reject unexpired leases (dkt. 24)

Grant, except that Debtor seeks rejection effective as of 2/20/19 and, although there is some authority for retroactive rejection (see, e.g., In re At Home Corp., 392 F.3d 1064 (9th Cir. 2004)), Debtor has not addressed the types of considerations that would determine whether retroactive rejection is appropriate (e.g., were the premises vacated as of 2/20/19? when were the landlords given notice that the premises would be or were vacant? were the premises left in "broom clean" condition?). Debtor is directed to address those issues at the hearing.

(g) Utility motion (dkt. 25)

Grant on an interim basis, subject to any opposition at the hearing, with a final hearing to take place at the same time as the continued status conference (see below) and a deadline of 3/1/19 for Debtor to file and serve a notice of the final hearing.

(a) Bar date: 8/24/18 (dkt. 367, timely served per dkt. 383)

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD.

(c) Continued status conference: 6/18/19 at 2:00 p.m. No written status report required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 5/21/19:

Continue as set forth below (to be concurrent with Debtor's premium financing motion (dkt. 839, 841)). This Court anticipates further continuing this status conference at a later date, per Debtor's request in the status report (dkt. 836). Appearances are not required on 5/21/19.

Chapter 11

This Court has reviewed the latest filed documents, and is not aware of any issues that would warrant a status conference at this time.

(2) Deadlines/dates.

This case was filed on 3/6/18.

- (a) Bar date: 8/24/18 (dkt. 367, timely served per dkt. 383)
- (b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD.
- (c) Continued status conference: 5/28/19 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 4/29/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Sale procedures motion, re leasehold interest in 1629 Griffith Park Blvd. (dkt. 778)

Grant, with a reservation of all rights for the Presbytery of the Pacific (the "Presbytery") with respect to any objection to the sale motion, including but not limited to any objection to assumption and assignment of the leasehold and Debtor's development and guaranty obligations. In addition, the parties are directed to address the deadline(s) and procedures for any objections by the Presbytery, given the short time between the proposed auction date (6/25/19), any filing of evidence of assurance of future performance, and the proposed sale hearing date (7/2/19). See dkt. 815, p.9, n.4.

In addition, the proposed notice (dkt.815, Ex.2) must specify that the hearing time is 2:00 p.m. (on 7/2/19). See id., p.74, section VIII (entitled "Sale Hearing"). In addition, the proposed notice should be amended to clarify that any Backup Bid will be not just the "next highest" but the "next highest and best" bid after the Successful Bid (as determined by the Agent after consultation with Debtor and confirmation by this Court).

(2) Deadlines/dates.

This case was filed on 3/6/18.

(a) Bar date: 8/24/18 (dkt. 367, timely served per dkt. 383)

#1.00 Hrg re: Motion Of Alliance Portfolio, Private Equity Finance, Inc. To Dismiss Or Convert Chapter 13 Case Pursuant To 11 U.S.C. Section 109(e) And For Cause Including For Bad Faith Filing Under 11 U.S.C. Section 1307(c)

Docket 7

Tentative Ruling:

Subject to any oral opposition and reply at the hearing, the tentative ruling is to grant the motion and, if Debtor appears and is willing and able to prosecute a reorganization then convert this case to chapter 11, and otherwise dismiss this case with a 180-day bar under 11 U.S.C. 109(g) for failure to appear in proper prosecution of this case, all based on the best interests of creditors and also Debtor. See Order Shortening Time ("OST," dkt. 11), and 11 U.S.C. section 1307(c)&(d). Appearances required.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

#1.00 Cont'd hrg re: Motion for relief from automatic stay [RP]
fr. 6/18/19

BAKERS 26, LLC
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 6

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 7/9/19:

Please see the tentative ruling for the status conference (calendar no. 6, 7/9/19 at 9:00 a.m.)

Tentative Ruling for 6/18/19:

Grant this motion of Bakers 26, LLC ("Bakers") for relief from the automatic stay, as provided below, and overrule the opposition (dkt. 57), all subject to oral argument (see Order Shortening Time, "OST," dkt. 10). The tentative ruling is to excuse any lack of strict compliance with the OST because notice and service have been adequate under the circumstances. See dkt. 23, 42, 43. Appearances required.

Proposed order: Movant Bakers is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling - including the tentative rulings from Debtor's prior bankruptcy case (reproduced below) - thereby incorporating this tentative ruling as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(1) Analysis, and termination of automatic stay

This Court is mindful of the fact that this matter is being heard on shortened time, early in this bankruptcy case. Nevertheless, on the present record, and subject to oral argument, the tentative ruling is to terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4), for the reasons set forth in the motion papers (dkt. 6-9) and the filed documents and this Court's records from Debtor's prior case combined with the lack of progress in this case.

(a) Evidentiary issues

The tentative ruling is to sustain Debtor's hearsay objection regarding the alleged basis for not renewing insurance (see dkt. 60) but otherwise accept the evidence of insurance cancellation for two reasons. First, it is part of Bakers' business to assure that its interests in the property are adequately protected by insurance, so the business records exception and the declarant's knowledge of the business establish that Debtor has not complied with requirements to provide Bakers with assurances of the maintenance of insurance. Rules 602 & 803(6) (Fed. R. Evid.). That is enough to shift the burden to Debtor to establish that it does, in fact, have adequate insurance. Second, and alternatively, Debtor does not appear to dispute the facts on which this Court is relying regarding insurance (see below).

The tentative ruling is to sustain Debtor's hearsay objection (dkt. 59) regarding the alleged basis for restricting Debtor's use of the central reservation system maintained by Days Inn Worldwide, Inc. ("Days Inn") - the alleged "four to five months" of missed payments - but otherwise accept the evidence that Debtor has been restricted in its use of Days Inn's system. The reasons are the same as stated above in connection with the evidence regarding insurance.

(b) Cause for relief

This Court is especially troubled by the following:

(i) Gap in insurance: see the tentative ruling for calendar no.16 (on this 10:00 a.m. calendar for 6/18/19);

(ii) Real estate taxes: Debtor's principal had promised to pay these taxes in the first bankruptcy case as part of the "adequate protection" to Bakers, but apparently those taxes were not paid then and the deficit has only gotten worse (see dkt. 6-2, Ex.18, at p.126), all of which means that any promises to provide "adequate protection" in this second bankruptcy case (e.g., the promise to pay $15,000 per month; the assertion that Debtor's condition is improving rather than deteriorating; and the assertion that Debtor will have a viable exit strategy within a reasonable time) must be viewed with considerable skepticism;

(iii) Reservation system: Debtor apparently is restricted in its use of Days Inn's reservations system (dkt. 6-3, Ex.21, at p.189, and dkt. 57, p.3, para.3.c.(6));

(iv) Property condition report: although this Court recognizes that the pool, hot tub, and other aspects of the property might not be as bad as suggested in the report (see dkt.57), there is still substantial evidence of dangerous conditions and deferred maintenance (see dkt. 6-4, Ex.22, at pp.211-74, and the additional photographs, id., Ex.23, at pp.275-77) (see also the tentative ruling for Bakers' motion to dismiss this bankruptcy case, calendar no. 16 on this calendar for 10:00 a.m. on 6/18/19);

(v) Delay: Debtor's "first day" wage, cash collateral, and utility motions (dkt. 26-28 et seq.) were not filed until after 6:30 p.m. on 6/12/19, when the petition was filed on 6/7/19 - Debtor should have known from its prior bankruptcy case (Case No. 2:18-bk-22059-NB) the importance of providing information and coordinating with its attorneys to have those motions filed immediately, for the reasons set forth below;

(vi) Payroll: Debtor either has not made the 6/14/19 payroll - and the tentative ruling is that this would show gross mismanagement in not seeking this Court's approval early enough - or has paid employees for that payroll period without this Court's approval - which presumably includes at least some prepetition hours worked and therefore is an unauthorized payment of prepetition debt;

(vii) Cash collateral: Debtor either has not been using cash collateral - which would mean a lack of normal business operations - or has been using cash collateral without authorization (11 U.S.C. 363(c)); and

(viii) Lack of evidence: Debtor provides no evidence (x) of any currently pending offers for the hotel, or other progress in the various exit strategies it has had since commencement of its prior bankruptcy case over eight months ago, on 10/14/18 (Case No. 2:18-bk-22059-NB), (y) in support of its projected income and expenses (see Cash Collateral Budget, dkt.27, Ex.1), or (z) regarding the current state of its online bookings and its franchise with Days Inn (apart from acknowledging, vaguely, that there is a restriction on Debtor's use of its reservation system).

The tentative ruling is to grant the relief requested in the motion, as further set forth below, based on the foregoing and on the other matters addressed in the tentative ruling on Bakers' motion to dismiss this bankruptcy case (calendar no. 16 on this 10:00 a.m. calendar for 6/18/19). As to "in rem" relief in particular, the tentative ruling is that Bakers has met its prima facie burden of establishing the existence of a "scheme" to "hinder" or "delay" or "defraud" it, involving the prior bankruptcy case and this one. These two bankruptcy cases have prevented Bakers from exercising remedies for a total of over eight months (since the filing of the prior bankruptcy case on 10/14/18); these cases have not been adequately prosecuted; and the tentative ruling is that those things have established a scheme to hinder and delay Bakers within the meaning of the statute.

(2) Standard terms

(a) Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

(b) Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

(c) Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)

COPIES OF SELECTED TENTATIVE RULINGS FROM DEBTOR'S PRIOR BANKRUPTCY CASE (Case No. 2:18-bk-22059-NB):

Tentative Ruling for 5/7/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of Baker 26, LLC ("Baker") to dismiss case (the "MTD," dkt. 117-131), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 138), and Baker's reply (dkt. 152)

Dismiss this case, without a bar. Under 11 U.S.C. 1112(b) this Court "shall" dismiss (or convert) this case for cause, with only limited exceptions. There does not appear to be any argument that conversion is practical, so the question is whether to dismiss.

(i) Insurance

One type of "cause" to dismiss is "failure to maintain appropriate insurance that poses a risk to the estate or to the public." 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(C). The MTD points out that Debtor's insurance is expiring very soon, and that there is no evidence of Debtor's financial ability to renew its insurance, or an insurer's willingness to do so. In response, Debtor asserts only that it currently has insurance - which is expiring on 5/25/19. See dkt. 138, at PDF p.17, para.27, and Ex.4 at PDF p.33. That is insufficient.

Debtor asserts (dkt. 138, at PDF p.17, para.28) that it is "finalizing" negotiations with prospective purchasers and intends to bring both a motion to sell the hotel property and an application to employ its real estate broker by the time of this hearing on the MTD. Theoretically, a pending sale might be one way of taking care of the insurance issue, because it might be grounds for this Court to find and specifically identify "unusual circumstances" establishing that dismissing this case is not in the best interests of creditors and the estate, if Debtor can establish "a reasonable likelihood that a plan will be confirmed ... within a reasonable period of time" and if Debtor establishes "reasonable justification" for the apparent failure to arrange for future insurance and establishes that insurance will be obtained "within a reasonable period of time fixed by the court." 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(2). Presumably, the method of curing the lack of insurance from 5/25/19 forward would be that the purchaser would pay for that insurance; and presumably the proposed "plan" would be essentially to provide for distributing the proceeds of a sale under 11 U.S.C. 363.

The main problem with all of this is that Debtor is out of time: no application to employ any broker has been filed (let alone approved); and no 363 sale motion has been filed (let alone granted). That application and sale motion cannot reasonably be expected to be filed, served, heard, and granted, and the sale itself cannot be expected to close, all in the next two weeks and three days (before the existing insurance expires on 5/25/19).

Conceivably, Debtor's principal, Ms. Rhonda Chung, might be willing and able to fund the insurance (using funds from her 401(k) retirement account, or some other source, as she has done with some other expenses in the past). But Debtor has not suggested that any such funding is forthcoming; Debtor's principal apparently has not lived up to her commitment to pay real estate taxes (see below) so any mere promise to pay insurance would be inadequate on the present record; and in any event Debtor has not provided any evidence that an insurer is ready, willing, and able to extend future insurance.

For all of these reasons, it appears that this Court has no choice. Congress has directed that this Court "shall" dismiss this case due to "failure to maintain" appropriate insurance. 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(C).

(ii) Taxes, adequate protection payments, losses, and management

Other types of cause for dismissal include failure to pay postpetition taxes, "gross mismanagement," failure to comply with an order of the court, or "substantial or continuing loss to or diminution of the estate and the absence of a reasonable likelihood of rehabilitation." 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(I), (A), (B) & (E). The MTD alleges that Debtor has failed to pay postpetition taxes (see dkt. 131, p.3, para.7) and Debtor has not contested that issue (although, as noted above, Debtor's principal had promised to fund tax payments - see tentative ruling for 11/27/18, part "(1)(a)," reproduced below).

The MTD also alleges that Debtor has failed to pay several required "adequate protection" payments to Baker (or its predecessor in interest). See dkt. 131, pp. 4:27-5:16. Again, Debtor has not contested that issue.

As for "gross mismanagement" or "substantial or continuing loss" or "diminution," this Court previously has expressed concerns (both at hearings and in the tentative ruling for 2/5/19, part "(1)(a)," reproduced below). The MTD alleges (dkt. 131, p.4:1-21) that Debtor has lost over $44,000 since this case was filed on 10/14/18, despite approximately $41,000 in cash infusions by Debtor's principal. Again, Debtor has not contested this issue.

True, Debtor has shown a modest amount of improvement recently. In addition, this Court is not persuaded that a sale of property can never be a "rehabilitation" - to the contrary, Debtor alleges that it has engaged in both physical rehabilitation (repairing the premises, installing safety equipment, etc.) and management rehabilitation (terminating management that was embezzling, restoring online booking services, etc.), so the most significant issues appear to be (A) whether there is a "reasonable" likelihood that taxes will be paid and that the (modest) recent progress will offset the prior losses, and (B) whether there is sufficient "justification" (under 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(2) (B)(i)) for prior failure to pay taxes, mismanagement, losses, and failure to comply with the budget approved by this Court's orders.

On the present record, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has not met its burden to provide evidence of those things. Debtor offers no justification for its principal not living up to her commitment to pay real estate taxes or for postpetition mismanagement by current management; and as noted above there is no section 363 sale motion on file, pursuant to which a purchaser might cure that non-payment or, perhaps, cure other issues.

(1) Current issues

(a) Finances (MOR #3, Dec. 2018, dkt. 71; Decl. dkt. 75)

Debtor's recently reported finances are dismal, as noted in the tentative ruling for 1/8/19. It appears that Debtor's occupancy rate is less than half of what was projected (which is itself less than half of available rooms), and that Debtor is failing to pay some franchise fees, utilities, housekeeping expenses, and other items.

Debtor blames outages in its online booking services, but as noted in the limited opposition to extending exclusivity (dkt. 78) filed by First Choice Bank, Debtor's behavior in the face of problems with online booking is puzzling. Why did Debtor not proactively contact the online booking agencies around the time it filed its bankruptcy petition? Why did Debtor not monitor its own finances sufficiently to realize that those agencies had not been paid? Debtor asserts that it was given no advance notice, but that seems highly unusual, so where is evidence of the telephone calls, emails, and letters immediately reacting, objecting to being cut off with no prior notice, and offering immediate payment of any missed bills? This Court takes judicial notice that the booking agencies are large enough to be familiar names, and presumably they have experienced hotel bankruptcies before, so what reasons did they give for their alleged lack of notice and over-reaction? As the bank suggests, the outages in booking were long enough that one would expect Debtor to have made repeated and considerable efforts to resolve the situation, possibly including meetings in person, but there is no evidence of that.

All of the foregoing suggests "gross mismanagement" of the estate, which is one possible basis to dismiss or convert this case. 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(B). The facts recited above also appear to constitute a "substantial" loss or diminution of the estate, and calls into question whether there is a "reasonable likelihood of rehabilitation." 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(A).

In addition, these facts call into question whether Debtor will be able to meet the feasibility test for any proposed plan. 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(11).

The parties are directed to address whether this case should be dismissed or converted.

(b) Alleged infusions

There have been promises during this case that cash infusions would be made by Debtor's principal, Rhonda Chung. The Status Report (dkt. 79, p.4:8-21) alludes to some, but the precise dollars amounts are generally unclear, as are the dates, and precisely how those dollars been used. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/12/19 (if this case is not dismissed) for Ms. Chung to file a declaration, with attached evidence, addressing each of these things.

(c) Employment of bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 47, 51, 56, 67, 68, 71)

Have the objections of the United States Trustee (dkt. 51) been resolved?

(c) Motion to Extend Exclusivity Periods (dkt. 73)

(1) Current issues.

Debtor's status report (dkt. 72) attempts to put the best face on a dismal record of recent operations. Should this Court set deadlines to sell the estate's property/business, or impose other performance metrics and establish consequences for failure to satisfy those metrics?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 10/14/18.

#2.00 Cont'd hrg re: Debtor's Emergency Motion for Order
Authorizing Use of Cash Collateral
fr. 6/18/19

Docket 27

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 7/9/19:

Please see the tentative ruling for the status conference (calendar no. 6, 7/9/19 at 9:00 a.m.)

Tentative Ruling for 6/18/19:

Deny this motion for use of cash collateral (dkt. 27) - for the reasons stated in the response (dkt. 56) of Bakers 26, LLC ("Bakers"), and the additional reasons stated in connection with Bakers' motion for relief from the automatic stay (calendar no. 12) and Bakers' motion to dismiss (calendar no. 16) - (1) all subject to any oral argument, opposition, and reply at the hearing, per this Court's order shortening time (dkt. 32), and (2) with the exception of payroll, as to which the tentative ruling is to authorize Debtor to use cash collateral to the extent this Court adheres to its tentative ruling to authorize the payment of payroll (see calendar no. 15. Appearances required).

Proposed order: Bakers is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating this tentative ruling as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

To the limited extent that the tentative ruling is to approve the use of cash collateral, such use is subject to replacement liens and other standard conditions as provided below. The tentative ruling is to find and conclude that such limited relief is necessary to avoid immediate and irreparable harm to the bankruptcy estate, and to creditors whose chances of repayment depend on maintaining whatever going concern value Debtor has. See Rule 4001(b)(2), 6003(b) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

Chapter 11

Judge Bason's standard conditions for use of cash collateral and/or postpetition financing (by creditors holding prepetition claims)

(1) Written order

(a) Form. Use local form

F2081-1.1.ORDER.CASH.COLLATERAL or the equivalent. Attach a copy of this tentative ruling as an exhibit, thereby adopting it as the written ruling of this Court, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. Do not repeat the terms set forth in the motion or any stipulation. Incorporate those terms by reference (including the docket number of the document), subject to any modification by this Court.

(b) Timing. Lodge the proposed order within 7 days after the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Minimum adequate protection

In addition to the postpetition security interests that are automatically provided pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 552 (e.g., in traceable proceeds and profits), and subject to any more comprehensive protection that may be included in the motion or related papers, Debtor shall provide at least the following protection to any creditor with a security interest in the subject property (pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 361-364, as applicable):

(a) Insurance. For all collateral of a type that typically is insured (e.g., real property and improvements), Debtor is directed to maintain insurance in a dollar amount at least equal to Debtor's good faith estimate of the value of such creditor's interest in the collateral, and such insurance shall name such creditor as an additional insured. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments for such insurance.

(b) Taxes. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments on account of postpetition real estate taxes (to the extent that real estate is part of the collateral).

(c) Disclosures/access. Debtor is directed to provide, upon such creditor's reasonable request, periodic accountings of the foregoing insurance and tax obligations and payments, as well as postpetition proceeds, products, offspring, or profits from the collateral, including gross revenues and expenses and a calculation of net revenues, including any rents and any fees, charges, accounts, or other payments for the use or occupancy of rooms and other public facilities in lodging properties (as all of the foregoing terms are used in 11 U.S.C. 552). Debtor is directed to provide appropriate documentation of those accountings, and access for purposes of inspection or appraisal.

(3) Limitation on postpetition liens

In the event that the motion or related papers seek authority to grant postpetition liens to the creditor(s) with respect to prepetition debts any such liens shall be limited to the same validity, priority, and amount as prepetition liens. As used herein, the "validity, priority, and amount" or any similar phrase that may be used by the parties or this Court is deemed to include the following:

(a) Extent. Such liens shall be limited to the type of collateral in which the creditor held a security interest as of the petition date, unless this order expressly states that the liens granted by this order are intended to attach to different types of collateral from the prepetition collateral. For example, if prepetition liens extended to inventory and accounts receivable but not equipment then postpetition liens are likewise limited (unless otherwise expressly provided by order of this Court). In addition, postpetition liens shall not extend to the proceeds of any avoidance actions, any recoveries under 11 U.S.C. 506(c), or any "carveout" under 11 U.S.C. 552.

(b) Priority. Such liens shall be limited to the same priority as the security interest held by the creditor as of the petition date.

(c) Dollar amount. Such liens shall be limited to the dollar amount needed to protect the creditor against diminution in the value of the secured claims as of the petition date.

(d) Enforceability. Such liens shall be limited to the extent that the creditor's security interests were duly perfected and valid as of the petition date, and to the extent that they are unavoidable.

(e) Automatic postpetition perfection. Any automatic perfection of such liens shall be subject to any applicable limitations regarding the Court's authority, jurisdiction, or due process.

(4) Automatic disapproval of insufficiently disclosed provisions

Any provision of the type listed in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or in local form F4001-2 (e.g., cross-collateralization) or any waiver of the "equities of the case" exception in 11 U.S.C. 552(b)(2) shall be deemed automatically disapproved and excepted from any order granting the motion, notwithstanding any other provision of such order, unless either: (a) such provision is specifically and prominently disclosed in the motion papers in a checklist (such as local form F4001-2), or alternatively (b) such provision is specifically identified in any proposed order granting the motion, using terminology of the type used in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or local form F4001-2 (e.g., any "cross-collateralization" that is not specifically identified as such is deemed to be disapproved).

(5) Disputes

In the event of any disputes regarding the rulings in this order, the parties are directed to meet and confer and, if they cannot resolve their disputes consensually, contact Judge Bason's chambers to arrange a mutually convenient time for either a telephonic or in-person hearing to address such disputes.

This Court has reviewed the opposition papers (dkt. 58), and this tentative ruling is subject to oral argument at the hearing. See Order Shortening Time (dkt. 17), p.3. The tentative ruling is to excuse any lack of strict compliance with the OST because notice and service have been adequate under the circumstances. See dkt. 23, 42, 43.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Analysis

The tentative ruling is that the following alternative grounds exist for the relief sought in the motion papers. This Court is mindful of the fact that this matter is being heard on shortened time, early in this bankruptcy case. Nevertheless, on the present record, and subject to oral argument, the tentative ruling is to dismiss this case and impose a 180-day bar.

(1) Insurance ((b)(4)(C))

In Debtor's prior bankruptcy case (Case No. 2:18-bk-22059-NB), there was evidence that insurance was expiring on 5/25/19. See id. dkt. 138, at

Chapter 11

PDF p.17, para.27, and Ex.4 at PDF p.33 (filed 4/23/19). Debtor therefore not only should have foreseen the need to arrange in advance for new insurance, it was on actual notice, over a month in advance, that this could be a problem.

But there is evidence that Debtor's insurance was canceled effective 5/25/19 (as to its commercial package coverage) and 6/1/19 (as to excess liability) (dkt. 6-2, Ex.17, at pp.124-25). In this current bankruptcy case, Debtor asserts that as of 6/14/19 it has obtained insurance (see Debtor's Opp., dkt. 58, p.4:14-21). Notably absent is any denial by Debtor that it had a gap in insurance coverage from 5/25/19 through 6/14/19.

True, the current insurance coverage apparently was made retroactive to 5/25/19. See dkt. 58, R. Chung Delc., para.19 & Ex.3. But if any significant loss had occurred during the gap before replacement insurance was obtained, Debtor ran the (very substantial) risk of not being able to obtain any insurance coverage. That gap period extended after the petition date of 6/7/19 until 6/14/19 - i.e., for a postpetition period of seven days.

This Court recognizes that Debtor filed this bankruptcy case on 6/7/19 because of the impending 6/10/19 foreclosure sale. But whatever pressures Debtor may have had, that does not excuse the lack of insurance.

The tentative ruling is that in a hotel with dozens if not hundreds of guests, fourteen days, including seven days postpetition, is a substantial period of time to go without insurance coverage. The tentative ruling is that such a gap in coverage imposes a substantial risk on the public and the estate, which is cause to dismiss. 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(C).

In addition, given the amount of notice that Debtor had of the need to address insurance, the tentative ruling is that Debtor's failure to obtain insurance and its decision to file this bankruptcy case without such insurance appears to be a willful failure to appear in "proper" prosecution of this case. To be clear, this Court's tentative ruling is not that Debtor would have elected to run the risk of not having insurance given a complete freedom of choice; but it appears that Debtor willfully elected not to take whatever steps were necessary to assure insurance until it turned out to be too late to avoid a gap in coverage. The tentative ruling is that this is willful failure to appear in proper prosecution of this case, which is cause to impose a 180-day bar. 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1).

The foregoing tentative rulings are reinforced by Debtor's history in its prior bankruptcy case of not being proactive, or even adequately reactive, in managing the online bookings fiasco. That situation is summarized in the tentative rulings for that prior case (reproduced in this case within the tentative ruling for calendar no.12, 6/18/19 at 10:00 a.m.).

As in that situation (involving bookings), Debtor should have foreseen in this situation (involving insurance) the need to be proactive. Failing that, at the very least Debtor should have been adequately reactive once the issues had been flagged for Debtor. Insurance was flagged on 4/23/19, and in this Court's tentative ruling (later adopted as the final ruling) regarding dismissal of the prior bankruptcy case. See Case No. 2:18-bk-22059-NB, dkt. 138 (at PDF p.17, para.27, and Ex.4 at PDF p.33) and dkt. 156 (dismissal order). Debtor has not offered any explanation for being unable to maintain insurance despite such notice.

(2) Gross mismanagement ((b)(4)(B))

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's handling of the insurance matter (described above) is sufficient to establish a prima facie showing of gross mismanagement. That shifted the burden to Debtor to rebut that showing, but Debtor has not done so.

In addition, the tentative ruling is that Bakers has submitted sufficient evidence that (a) the property has physically been allowed to fall into a state of disrepair, (b) Debtor's reservation system is subject to (unspecified) restrictions, and (c) Debtor's exit strategy continues to be vague and uncertain. That shifts the burden to Debtor to overcome the appearance that there is gross mismanagement.

Debtor argues that Bakers' evidence of the dilapidated state of the property is "stale," that Debtor's physical condition has been improving, that its projected revenues are healthy, and that it has prospective buyers and a prospective investor. This Court has heard that story before from this Debtor.

(a) Physical condition of the property

Although this Court recognizes that the pool, hot tub, and other aspects of the property might not be as bad as suggested in the report prepared for Bakers (see dkt.57), there is still substantial evidence of dangerous conditions and deferred maintenance (see dkt. 6-4, Ex.22, at pp.211-74, and the additional photographs, id., Ex.23, at pp.275-77). Debtor's opposition papers do not include any specific information about what Debtor is doing to address these issues.

Debtor provides only vague and sweeping assertions that the property was allowed by previous owners to fall into a bad state and that Debtor has been improving the property. Such assertions appear to be contrary to the only evidence before this Court of Debtor's past expenditures: its monthly operating reports from its prior case, which do not appear to reflect any restoration of the property and, if anything, appear to be more consistent with ongoing deterioration.

(b) Reservation systems

There is evidence that Debtor's use of the Days Inn reservation system is restricted. Debtor provides no information about the nature of that restriction, how much impact that is having on Debtor's ability to generate revenues, what is being done to address the issue, or any other facts and circumstances.

This Court would expect capable and proactive management to present detailed information on these issues, to have strategies and tactics to address all of those things, to support their analysis and proposed approaches with evidence, and to present all of that to this Court as part of some "first day" motions (e.g., use of cash collateral to help remove some or all restrictions). Instead there is barely any recognition of the problem.

This is reminiscent of Debtor's fiasco with its online reservation systems (Expedia and Bookings.com) in its prior bankruptcy case, in which Debtor never provided any satisfactory explanation for failing to foresee the problem, failing to recognize it once it arose, or failing to act quickly and decisively enough once the problem was recognized. See the tentative ruling for Bakers' R/S Motion, calendar no. 12 on this 10:00 a.m. calendar for 6/18/19).

In this case Debtor reports vaguely that it is "working to resolve the [unspecified] restriction on its reservation system with Days Inn." Dkt. 57, Response to Bakers' R/S Motion, p.3, para. 3.c.(6). The tentative ruling is that the scant information is itself evidence of gross mismanagement.

(c) Debtor's vacillating and vague exit strategy

In the prior case Debtor repeatedly vacillated between purported sales opportunities and equity investment opportunities, but never produced evidence of any solid exit strategy. See, e.g., Bakers' Response re Cash Collateral (dkt. 56), pp.2:15-3:14 (citing and quoting from Debtor's vacillating statements). In this case Debtor has provided copies of two letters of intent ("LOI"), but the tentative ruling is that they are unconvincing.

The first LOI is for $6.1 million, but it is dated 2/12/19 (dkt. 58, R.

Chung Decl., Ex.1, at PDF pp.18-21); it required Debtor's signature by 2/19/19 (id. para.10) and in any event it was subject to a 45 day investigation period (id. para.3) which has long since expired. The second LOI is for $5.1 million and is dated 3/29/19 (id., Ex.2, at PDF pp.22-25); and it required Debtor's signature by 4/5/19 (id. para.10) which has long since expired.

(d) Lack of evidence of steps to improve cash flow

Despite Debtor's (unspecified) restrictions in use of the Days Inn reservation system, and despite the apparent lack of physical improvement in the property, Debtor's cash collateral motion includes relatively rosy projections of future cash flow. As Bakers argues (dkt. 11, 56), Debtor made rosy projections in its first bankruptcy case but ended up losing a substantial amount of money.

Debtor's projected income is just a series of seemingly random figures. Debtor offers no evidentiary support, and no explanation for any change from the first bankruptcy case except the vague assertion that Debtor's summer season will be busier.

In the prior bankruptcy case Debtor repeatedly anticipated better performance, including in the busier winter holiday season. Instead its performance was extremely bad. See tentative rulings from prior bankruptcy case, reproduced in tentative ruling for calendar no.12 (Bakers' R/S Motion).

Debtor's projected expenses also raise concerns (although at least they are listed and Debtor shows the calculation of projected net income). One problem is that the expenses appear to be reduced from what would be typical. Debtor omits any property taxes because those "are typically paid in April and December" and the cash collateral budget runs from June through November, 2019. See Cash Collateral Budget (dkt. 27, Ex.1). If the budget included such taxes, estimated by Debtor at $30,000 (id.), Debtor's projected budget would be extremely "thin."

Debtor's insurance expense also appears to be lower than what Debtor typically would pay if its annual expenses were spread out evenly over 12 months. Debtor appears to have obtained insurance pursuant to California's "FAIR" program, with an initial payment of $25,356.50 (see dkt. 58, R. Chung Decl., Ex.3, last page, at PDF p.34) - presumably either prepetition or from a non-Debtor source because no authorization was sought for such an expenditure. That insurance requires ongoing payments of $6,250.00 per month (Cash Collateral Motion, dkt. 27, Ex.1). It is unclear whether Debtor can continue to afford such insurance. See also dkt. 56, p.4:9-23 (arguing that if Debtor has obtained insurance through the "FAIR" program - insurance of last resort - that is further evidence of Debtor's troubled condition).

The tentative ruling is that all of the foregoing adds up to present a picture that is very reminiscent of Debtor's first bankruptcy case. Debtor is making vague promises regarding (a) the physical condition of the property, (b) somehow addressing the restrictions in its use of the Days Inn reservation system, (c) some sort of exit strategy that might involve a sale or an equity investment, and (d) somehow increasing monthly gross income and minimizing monthly expenses, but there is a glaring absence of actual evidence and analysis of data to back up any of this.

In addition, as noted in the tentative ruling on Bakers' R/S motion (calendar no. 12, on this 10:00 a.m. calendar on 6/18/19), Debtor has failed to be proactive in obtaining authorization from this Court or payment of payroll on 6/14/19, or for the use of cash collateral, or other matters.

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's lack of proactive steps and evidence on all of the foregoing shows gross mismanagement within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(B).

(3) Loss/diminution and no reasonable prospects for rehabilitation ((b)(4)(A))

On the one hand, this Court is not currently persuaded that "rehabilitation," within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(A), can never include a process of "staunching the bleeding" in preparation for an orderly liquidation, even if that process involves substantial or continuing losses or a "diminution to the estate," as long as that process is calculated to preserve more value for creditors than other alternatives. The tentative ruling is that this can constitute a "rehabilitation" in preparation for a sale or other liquidation.

For example, if a hypothetical debtor were to diminish a $1 million estate by spending $100,000, but that would stabilize the estate at a value of $900,000, and the alternatives would be a foreclosure sale or "fire sale" that would cause the estate to be worth only $800,000, then the hypothetical debtor's expenditure of the $100,000 to stabilize the estate could, in this Court's view, constitute a "rehabilitation." In other words, this Court is not persuaded that the statute would force this Court to convert or dismiss the case in such a situation, thereby harming creditors. To the extent the motion papers argue otherwise this Court is not persuaded. See Motion (dkt. 11) p.8:13-25 (citing Loop Corp. v. U.S. Trustee, 379 F.3d 511, 516 (8th Cir.

2004), and In re The Ledges Apts., 58 B.R. 84, 87 (Bankr. D.Vt. 1986)).

But on the present record there is no evidence that Debtor's prosecution of this case is likely to preserve more value for creditors than other alternatives. To the contrary, the decision to file this bankruptcy case and thereby stop the movant's foreclosure sale appears to have obstructed the best opportunity for someone (Movant, or another buyer at a foreclosure sale) to take charge of the subject property and immediately invest the funds and expertise needed to bring the property into a condition in which it could be safe and preserve its current value. Therefore the tentative ruling is that there is cause to dismiss this case under 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(A).

(4) Other "cause" to dismiss ((b)(1))

The tentative ruling is that there is persuasive evidence of non-payment of adequate protection payments and taxes in the first case, in violation of this Court's orders and Debtor's obligations under the Bankruptcy Code and, although that is not the same as such acts in this case (11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(D),(E)&(I)), nevertheless it places a high premium on Debtor showing a different course of conduct in this second bankruptcy case. But the tentative ruling is that all of the matters addressed in this tentative ruling and in the tentative ruling for calendar no.12 are prima facie evidence that this case was not filed in good faith.

The tentative ruling is that such conduct establishes "cause" to dismiss this case within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(1). See 11 U.S.C. 102(3) ("includes" and "including" are not limiting). In addition, the tentative ruling is that such conduct establishes a willful failure to appear in "proper" prosecution of this case within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1) (emphasis added).

(5) Conclusion

The tentative ruling is that Movant has shown prima facie cause to dismiss this case and to impose a 180-day bar against being a debtor in any future bankruptcy case. The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not rebutted that showing.

Chapter 11

#6.00 Cont'd status conference re: Chapter 11 case
fr. 7/2/19

Docket 15

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

At the hearing on 6/18/19 this Court expressed considerable skepticism about whether creditors or this Court can place reliance on Debtor's existing management, or can expect any turn around in Debtor's performance. That skepticism was based on the history of Debtor's prior bankruptcy case and its complete failure in this case to take appropriate steps such as "first day" motions.

Nevertheless, this Court was persuaded to give Debtor one final opportunity to restructure its finances in a chapter 11 case, presumably either via (x) a proposed sale under 11 U.S.C. 363(b)&(f) or (y) a substantial equity infusion, which almost certainly would have to be combined with new management. This Court also: granted certain interim relief; prohibited any payments to insiders; and required Debtor to make an adequate protection payment to creditor Bakers 26, LLC ("Bakers") of $20,000, no later than 7/1/19. See dkt. 63, 64, 65, 69, 70.

As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, the docket does not reflect any progress toward a 363 sale or a major equity infusion (or any other developments, except an objection to Debtor's utility motion, dkt. 80, which is addressed below). Accordingly, the tentative rulings are as follows.

(a) Bakers' Motion For Relief From The Automatic Stay ("R/S Motion," dkt.6)

Grant, including relief under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (4), as set forth in the tentative ruling for 6/18/19 (see calendar no.1, 7/9/19 at 9:00 a.m.).

(b) Cash Collateral Motion (dkt. 27)

Deny any further authorization for use of cash collateral, except for (i) non-insider payroll and (ii) other necessary expenses for preserving the collateral during the transition period contemplated before dismissal (see below). Any such use of cash collateral is conditioned on the prior written consent of each creditor holding a secured claim. It is contemplated that such use of cash collateral will be for purposes of preserving value during a transition from current management to a receiver and/or foreclosure.

(c) Utility Motion (dkt. 28)

Grant on a final basis, except that as to Souther California Gas Company ("SoCal Gas") such relief is conditioned on Debtor paying the requested deposit of $3,825.00 in cash or cash equivalent, such that it is received by SoCal Gas no later than 7/11/19, otherwise SoCal Gas may terminate service pursuant to non-bankruptcy law. This Court recognizes that dismissal of this case may render this utility motion moot; but as set forth below this Court is also mindful that it may be appropriate to delay dismissal for a brief transition period, and to preserve the value of the estate it may be necessary to provide the requested security deposit during that time.

(d) Payroll Motion (dkt. 26)

Deny any remaining relief - i.e., any payment to insiders (because all other persons have already been paid) - based on the insiders' failures to perform necessary and appropriate services in accordance with their duties as persons in control of a debtor-in-possession. Such failures include not seeking authorization for payroll in time for normal payroll processing, despite the insiders' knowledge of the importance of that duty from Debtor's prior chapter 11 case, which means either (i) payroll was delayed - which is very unfair to employees - or (ii) Debtor made payroll in violation of the Bankruptcy Code - which is gross mismanagement.

(e) Bakers Motion to Dismiss ("MTD," dkt. 11)

Grant, with a 180 day bar under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1), for willful failure to appear in proper prosecution of this case, for all the reasons stated in the tentative ruling for 6/18/19 (see calendar no. 5, 7/9/19 at 9:00 a.m.). This Court contemplates, however, that dismissal might be delayed by a few days or so, to enable an orderly transition in management from Debtor's current management to a receiver, or a purchaser at a foreclosure sale. The parties are directed to address that issue at the hearing. Meanwhile, Debtor's insiders are reminded again of their duties as fiduciaries for the benefit of creditors, and their counsel is directed no later than the hearing on 7/9/19 to remind them of such duties in writing.

(f) Status Report (dkt. 77)

The status report erroneously states that no budget motion is required

(please Judge Bason's posted Procedures, available at cacb.uscourts.gov, which state that budget motions are "[r]equired," without limiting such requirement to individuals). But, in view of the dismissal of this case, that issue is moot.

Proposed orders: Bakers is directed to lodge proposed orders on the R/S Motion and the dismissal motion via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of the applicable tentative rulings from 6/18/19 and 7/9/19, thereby adopting them as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Docket 13

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Movant has Standing to Seek Relief from Stay.

Debtor attaches several letters in her opposition, which allege that Movant does not have standing to foreclose because the original mortgagor, Washington Mutual Bank, FA ("WAMU") allegedly sold the deed of trust and the note prior to being taken over by the FDIC. See dkt. 20 (amending dkt.19). Debtor bases this supposition on the fact that an officer of WAMU endorsed the promissory note in blank. See dkt. 20 at PDF pp.5-6,19&66; dkt.19 at PDF pp.3&13; and dkt. 13, Ex.1, p.5.

It is true that the motion papers do not assert that Movant has possession of the promissory note (see dkt. 13 at p.11), but Movant has provided evidence that it is an assignee of the deed of trust. Dkt. 13, ex. 3 at

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. Compare In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311) (different procedure required for such relief).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Docket 9

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below, primarily because (1) Debtor has not filed contribution declarations, with evidence of the contributors' willingness and ability to make sufficient contributions to support a feasible chapter 13 plan; (2) Debtor's hope of a refinance appears unrealistic; and (3) given the lack of apparent feasibility of this chapter 13 case, Movant has made a prima facie showing that Debtor and his mother have engaged in nothing more than a "scheme" to "delay" and "hinder" Movant's exercise of its remedies, involving multiple (two) bankruptcies, and alternatively involving a transfer in violation of the loan documents, and therefore "in rem" relief is appropriate. See dkt. 9, 18, 21. Appearances required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Late-filed opposition

The tentative ruling is to excuse the lateness of the opposition papers because it is understandable for Debtor and his mother, having only recently retained present counsel, to need additional time to respond. See dkt. 19.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4). To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Chapter 13

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Existence of automatic stay

Deny the request for an order confirming that no stay is in effect. Movant cites 11 U.S.C. 362(b)(22) and (l) but those statutory provisions require a prepetition "judgment for possession" of the property, and there is no evidence of any such judgment. Id.

Evidence

This Court notes that the declaration attached to the motion is executed by Movant's attorney, not by anyone shown to have personal knowledge. Nevertheless, this Court has considered the key documents because there are no evidentiary objections. In future the movant's failure to complete the form properly may result in denial of the motion sua sponte.

Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic

Docket 13

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions. Appearances are not required.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

DEBTOR

Docket 32

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 7/9/19:

Grant as provided below. At the hearing on 5/21/19 this Court was persuaded to continue this hearing for the parties to attempt to negotiate an adequate protection agreement. Meanwhile, however, this case has been dismissed. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Reason: At the 12/4/18 hearing, this Court set a deadline of 12/11/18 for Debtor to provide evidence in support of any further continuance and adequate protection, including evidence of the status of the attempted loan modification. Debtor did not file any evidence by the deadline.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

In view of the alleged equity in the property this Court grants the following limited relief to Debtor:

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

No foreclosure sale of the property may take place prior to 2/28/19.

Chapter 13

#1.00 Hrg re: Motion for order determining value of collateral [11 U.S.C. section 506(a), FRBP 3012]

Docket 33

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, provided that this Court presumes that counsel for Debtor will not charge any fees for any work in connection with the prior version of this Motion (see dkt. 22, 32). If counsel seeks to charge any such fees, counsel must contest this tentative ruling. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

#10.00 Hrg re: Objection to Claim Number 7 by
Claimant BMW Bank of North America

Docket 30

Tentative Ruling:

Continue to 8/15/19 at 8:30 a.m. to address the following issues.
Appearances are not required on 7/18/19.

Lack of cost/benefit analysis. The posted Procedures of Judge Bason
(available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) provide:

§ 502: claim objections & cost/benefit analysis. When objecting to claims, be sure to include an analysis of whether the costs of preparing and litigating the claim objection (administrative expenses) do not exceed the anticipated benefits (reductions in claims). For example, if the anticipated dividend is small or 0% then the attorney fees incurred in prosecuting your claim objection to any general unsecured claim probably will exceed the benefit to the bankruptcy estate/debtor, so filing that objection would be a waste of the bankruptcy estate's (and everyone else's) resources (unless, for example, the claim is nondischargeable, in which event the attorney fees might well be justified).

No later than 7 days after the date of this hearing the movant must file either:

(1) a supplemental declaration explaining why the attorney fees for this objection are justified (including supporting evidence, such as a copy of the plan showing the projected dividend to the claimant, and a calculation comparing that projected dividend against the attorney fees related to this claim objection), or

(2) a withdrawal of the claim objection.

No fees on this matter, absent specific authorization. Counsel is directed not to charge any fees on this matter (including all past, present and future work related to this claim objection), and to return any fees received on this matter, unless and until this Court expressly finds: "Counsel has provided a cost/benefit analysis that is sufficient for purposes of Judge Bason's posted Procedures regarding claim objections." It is counsel's responsibility to include the quoted phrase, if warranted, in the proposed order on this claim objection.

This Court does not have the capacity to monitor all fee applications to assure compliance with the foregoing limitation on fees. But if counsel is found to have disregarded this limitation then this Court may impose sanctions.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Chapter 13

#11.00 Hrg re: Objection to proof of claim of Lakeview Loan Servicing, LLC [Claim number 12 on the court's register]

Docket 34

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part and deny in part as set forth below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The tentative ruling is to disallow all of the arrears asserted in Claim No. 12 of Lakeview Loan Servicing, LLC ("Creditor"). As for $2,527.70 of such arrears, Debtor has provided evidence, in the form of her bank statement (dkt. 34, Ex. B, at PDF p.26, entry for 2/19/19), that she paid the February mortgage payment. As for the balance of the alleged $2,836.50 arrears as of the petition date, the tentative ruling is to sustain the objection because the proof of claim itself asserts that this is only an estimate (see dkt. 34, Ex.B, at PDF p.10, Part 3) and presumably the actual debit of $2,527.70 is an updated amount that, having been debited, leaves no arrears as of the petition date. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to disallow the entire alleged arrears.

To the extent, if any, that the claim objection seeks to disallow any other portions of the claim, the tentative ruling is to overrule the objection and allow the balance of Creditor's Claim No. 12 because the POC contains all of the documentation required by Rule 3001(c)(3)(A)(i) through (v) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). Therefore it is prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim (Fed. R. Bankr. P. 3001(f)) and Debtor has not presented any evidence to overcome that prima facie validity.

Alternatively, even if the claim were not entitled to prima facie validity (which it is), the burden is on Debtor to come forward with evidence and legal arguments sufficient to disallow the claim. 11 U.S.C. 502(a). See In re

Campbell, 336 B.R. 430 (9th Cir. BAP 2005); In re Heath, 331 B.R. 424 (9th Cir. BAP 2005). Debtor has not, for example, provided evidence that she does not owe the debt; or any other basis to dispute this claim.

For each of these reasons, Debtor has met her burden to disallow the arrears as of the petition date, but has not met her burden to establish a basis to disallow the claim in its entirety.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Docket 113

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 7/18/19:

Take this matter off calendar. Appearances are not required.

Analysis and caveat:

This Court has continued this matter several times at the request of the parties (see dkt. 129, 139, 152, 163, 177). This Court issued an order (dkt. 180) modifying the automatic stay to permit the parties to seek approval of the settlement by the District Court presiding over the parties' underlying action (subject to whatever approval Debtor might need from this Bankruptcy Court to be able to enter into and effectuate that settlement). The parties have now filed a stipulation (dkt. 183) resolving the motion/claim objection that is the subject of this hearing, a motion (dkt. 184) authorizing them to file their settlement agreement under seal, and a settlement motion (dkt. 185).

Caveat: Although this motion/claim objection has been withdrawn, it is not presently known whether this Bankruptcy Court will approve the settlement agreement (or the associated motion to file it under seal), nor is it clear whether the federal District Court will approve the settlement of the underlying litigation. But if there are any objections by any party in interest, or any questions or concerns of this Court about those things, the parties or this Court can set a hearing or status conference.

Tentative Ruling for 11/29/18:

Appearances required. The tentative ruling is (1) to continue this claim objection to 2/21/19 at 8:30 a.m., and meanwhile (2) order Debtor and the uninsured employers benefits trust fund ("Claimant") to mediation, to include, if possible, all other parties in interest, including Jorge Antonio Gomez Lopez ("Lopez") and any insurers, with a deadline of 12/11/18 to lodge a proposed mediation order.

Analysis:

Based on the papers filed by the parties (dkt. 30, 32, 33), as well as the other filed papers and records of this Court (e.g., dkt. 16, 20, 22), the parties' disputes appear ripe for mediation. There are numerous issues that might be decided in favor or against Debtor, Claimant, and Lopez. All of those issues probably are risky and expensive to litigate.

(a) Preclusion from disallowance of Lopez' claim

As Debtor points out, this Court issued an order (dkt. 22) disallowing Lopez' claim. True, as Claimant points out, there might be grounds file a motion for reconsideration of that order. But that is far from certain and the docket does not reflect that any such motion has been filed.

Claimant argues that this Court' disallowance of Lopez' claim should not have any claim or issue preclusive effect because there was no evidentiary hearing nor any analysis by this Court of the response that, Claimant points out, Lopez filed (albeit untimely). But it is far from certain whether preclusion applies: in general, even default judgments have a preclusive effect, and the precise scope of preclusion has not been fully briefed by the parties.

(b) Possible proceedings before Workers Compensation Appeals Board (the "Board")

Chapter 13

Claimant asserts that the Workers Compensation Appeals Board can and should adjudicate the issues, notwithstanding the fact that (i) no motion has been filed seeking relief from the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(a)) for proceedings in that forum, (ii) the Board might (or might not) be bound by the preclusive effect of this Court's disallowance of Lopez' claim, (iii) the Board might (or might not) be bound by the preclusive effect of the Superior Court's grant of summary judgment in favor of Taylor, (iv) the Board might (or might not) be bound by Lopez' apparent admission in his own complaint in Superior Court that Taylor, not Debtor, was the general contractor (see dkt. 32, Ex.D, para.4), and (v) even if the Board has no constraints on its consideration of the issues, Claimant points out that the Board could reach a wide range of final determinations based on the full panoply of circumstances - e.g., that Debtor was Lopez' employer, or that Debtor was a co-employer with Taylor, or that Debtor was not Lopez' employer at all. In addition, there might be litigation over the Board's ability to join all parties; there might be appeals from whatever the Board decides; there might be complications from the roles of any insurers; etc.

In other words, all parties appear to have many battles to fight before they can prevail, and many ways that they could lose, and meanwhile the cost of litigation might make any victory Pyrrhic. Mediation seems the best approach, and this Court has the power and authority to order mandatory mediation.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." liability against (i) Debtor or (ii) Debtor's non-debtor spouse, Mr. Robert Ciufo ("Codebtor"), and (2) in rem liability against property of (i) Debtor or (ii) the bankruptcy estate. For example, the automatic stay distinguishes between acts to obtain possession of "property" of the estate (in rem liability, 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(3)) and acts to collect "a claim against the debtor" (in personam liability, 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(6)).

As Debtor notes (dkt. 29, p.13:7-15), the bankruptcy estate is broad. It encompasses "[a]ll interests of the debtor and the debtor's spouse in community property as of the commencement of the case" that is either under Debtor's sole or joint "control" or that is "liable for an allowable claim against the debtor, or for both an allowable claim against the debtor and an allowable claim against the debtor's spouse, to the extent that such interest is so liable." 11 U.S.C. 541(a)(2) (emphasis added). In addition, under 11 U.S.C. 1306(a)(1), property of the estate includes all property of the same kind acquired "after the commencement of the case"

With this background this tentative ruling first reviews the applicability of the automatic stay, and then reviews the codebtor stay. Then this tentative ruling turns to damages.

(2) Violation of the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(a))

Debtor argues that paragraph "(1)" of subsection 362(a) was violated. This Court agrees. In addition, the tentative ruling is that at least one other paragraph of section 362(a) applies.

(a) Paragraph "(1)"

The automatic stay bars "the commencement or continuation, including the issuance or employment of process, of a judicial, administrative, or other action or proceeding against the debtor that was or could have been commenced before the commencement of the case under this title, or to recover a claim against the debtor that arose before the commencement of the case under this title." 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(1) (emphasis added). Debtor argues that there is a "claim against the debtor" because California Family Code section 914 "makes his debt hers." Dkt. 42, p.2:23 (capitalization altered).

Respondents argue (dkt. 40, p.4:4-16) that Family Code section 914 applies as between spouses - in the context of a divorce, for example - and does not establish in personam liability of Debtor to respondents. Respondent cites no authority so holding, and this Court is not persuaded for two alternative reasons.

(i) Respondents' efforts to collect from Codebtor were efforts to collect from Debtor's property interests

True, Respondents' nonbankruptcy action only named Codebtor, not Debtor. But that is still an attempt to collect a claim against Debtor under the applicable law.

Respondents have not identified any separate property of Codebtor, let alone established that they limited their nonbankruptcy action to collect solely out of any such separate property. Debtor has a community property interest in all community property, which includes Codebtor's earnings. See, e.g., In re Kimmel, 367 B.R. 174 (Bankr. ND Cal. 2007). Under Family Code section 910(a), "Except as otherwise expressly provided by statute, the community estate is liable for a debt incurred by either spouse before or during marriage, regardless of which spouse has the management and control of the property and regardless of whether one or both spouses are parties to the debt or to a judgment for the debt." (Emphasis added.) Under 11 U.S.C. 102(2), "'claim against the debtor' includes claim against property of the debtor." Therefore, Debtor is correct that the debt at issue constitutes a "claim against the debtor" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(1).

(ii) Alternatively, because the debt at issue was for "necessaries," Respondents were attempting to collect a debt on which Debtor has in personam liability

Debtor has made a prima facie showing that the debt at issue is for "necessaries of life" (within the meaning of Family Code section 914) because the debt was for gas for Codebtor's car so he could get to work. Respondents have not overcome that prima facie showing. Therefore, Family Code section 914 expands the community property liability (section 910) such that Debtor has in personam liability (and Debtor's separate property is also liable).

Specifically, although the general rule under Family Code section 913(b)(1) is that, "The separate property of a married person is not liable for a debt incurred by the person's spouse before or during marriage," section 914 provides:

- (a) Notwithstanding Section 913, a married person is personally liable for the following debts incurred by the person's spouse during marriage:
- (1) A debt incurred for necessities of life of the person's spouse

Chapter 13

(b) The separate property of a married person may be applied to the satisfaction of a debt for which the person is personally liable pursuant to this section. ... [Emphasis added.]

In other words, even if respondents were not pursuing a claim against property of Debtor (which they were), they were pursuing a claim on which Debtor is personally liable to respondents. True, their action did not name Debtor, but section 362(a)(1) does not include any such requirement that the action or proceeding at issue name the debtor as a defendant.

Nor would it make sense to read such a limitation into the statute. Congress presumably knew that collecting a claim against a debtor in bankruptcy from some non-debtor source very likely would give rise to claims for indemnity, contribution, and the like. So it would make no sense to read the automatic stay as inapplicable unless the action specifically names the debtor. That would gut the "breathing spell" that the automatic stay is supposed to provide.

(iii) Respondents misread In re Fadel

Respondents cite In re Fadel, 492 B.R. 1 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (dkt. 40, pp.4:4-5:16) for the proposition that Family Code section 914 only applies when a debtor's separate property is used to pay debts (at which point the debtor can then seek reimbursement from the nondebtor spouse). Respondents misread Fadel. In that case the creditor was pursuing foreclosure of the nondebtor husband's separate property, the debtor wife was not liable on the deed of trust note, and the BAP was only observing that, because the debtor wife had not used her separate property to satisfy her husband's debt, no reimbursement rights were triggered under Family Code section 914 and, in that context, the statute was inapplicable. Id. at 16.

(iv) Conclusion as to section 362(a)(1)

Respondents violated the automatic stay's prohibition on any proceeding to recover "a claim against the debtor" (11 U.S.C. 362(a)(1)) on two alternative grounds. They pursued a claim against Codebtor, and that counts as a "claim against the debtor" under 11 U.S.C. 102(3) because of Debtor's property interest in community property and Codebtor's earnings. Alternatively, respondents pursued a claim arising from "necessaries," as to which Debtor has in personam liability.

(b) Paragraph "(3)"

The automatic stay bars, among other things, "any act to obtain possession of property of the estate or of property from the estate or to exercise control over property of the estate." 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(3) (emphasis added). As already noted, Debtor has a community property interest in her husband's earnings, so respondents' acts to collect from Codebtor's earnings (or other community property) violated section 362(a)(3).

(3) Violation of the codebtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301)

With inapplicable exceptions, the codebtor stay provides that "a creditor may not act, or commence or continue any civil action, to collect all or any part of a consumer debt of the debtor from any individual that is liable on such debt with the debtor" 11 U.S.C. 1301(a) (emphasis added). Respondents argue that a "debt of the debtor" in section 1301(a) is different from a "claim against the debtor" under section 362(a)(1), even though the term "debt" is defined by statute as "liability on a claim." 11 U.S.C. 101(12). This Court is not persuaded

Respondents cite Smith v. Capital One Bank (USA), 845 F.3d 256 (7th Cir. 2016), but that decision is distinguishable because the debt in that case was one "for which the debtor is not personally liable but that may be satisfied from the debtor's interest in marital property" (id. at 258) and as noted above Debtor is personally liable for this debt of Codebtor because it was for "necessaries." Moreover, this Court respectfully disagrees with Smith to the extent it reads into section 1301 a limitation to in personam liability and omits in rem liability.

First, Smith reasoned that reading the codebtor stay to include claims against a debtor would be redundant of provisions of section 362(a)(1) that "likely" would apply (id. at 260), but it is well established that Congress, in making the automatic stay very broad, included overlapping provisions. Second, the purpose of codebtor stay is to protect debtors from indirect collection efforts, by pursuing persons who share liability with the debtor and who could then pursue the debtor or debtor's property for indemnity, contribution, or similar claims.

In this case, for example, respondents have failed to explain how their efforts to collect from Codebtor could possibly avoid depleting the bankruptcy estate by taking either community property or Codebtor's earnings (not to mention taking Debtor's time and energy to focus on the effects on her and her husband). Respondents have not explained why section 1301 should be read to permit that, to the detriment of other creditors and Debtor.

(4) Damages

The tentative ruling is that 11 U.S.C. 362(k) applies to violations of section 362(a) but not to violations of section 1301. Although non-statutory remedies appear to be available for violations of section 1301 - under 11 U.S.C. 105 or this Court's inherent powers - Debtor has not briefed such alternative remedies. In addition, those alternatives do not appear to add any greater remedies than under section 362(k), and they might provide lesser remedies. See generally In re Taggart, ___ U.S. ___ (6/2/2019) (addressing sanctions for violations of 11 U.S.C. 524, and declining to address standards under section 362(k)); In re Dyer, 322 F.3d 1178, 1190 (9th Cir. 2003).

The tentative ruling is to award the following sanctions under section 362(k): (a) $225, payable to Debtor, for her filing fee in State Court, plus any other attorney fees incurred in State Court in response to the respondents' violations of the stay, (b) Debtor's attorney fees in this bankruptcy case for preparing and prosecuting this motion (see In re Schwartz-Tallard, 803 F.3d 1095 (9th Cir. 2015) (en banc)), and (c) punitive damages, payable to the bankruptcy estate, in a dollar amount to be determined. In re Bloom, 875 F.2d 224, 228 (9th Cir. 1989) (movant must show "reckless or callous disregard of the law or rights of others").

The tentative ruling is to deny Debtor's requests for any other damages (see dkt. 39), including (i) her asserted emotion distress damages or any punitive damages payable to her individually (except to the extent, if any, that punitive damages would result in a surplus estate). See In re Dawson, 390 F.3d 1139, 1148-49 (9th Cir. 2004) (to support emotional distress damages debtor must show "clear evidence" of "significant harm" caused by stay violation, as distinct, for instance, from the anxiety and pressures inherent in the bankruptcy process).

(5) Conclusion

The parties may supplement their prior oral arguments to address the foregoing issues, if they choose. In addition, unless this Court is persuaded to depart from the foregoing tentative ruling, the parties are directed to address a schedule (a) for Debtor to file declaration(s) establishing attorney fees and any allowable costs, (b) for respondents to respond, (c) for Debtor to reply. In addition, the parties are directed to address the issue of punitive damages, and what further briefing and evidence is appropriate, if any.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing

Tentative Ruling for 6/13/19:
Appearances required.

Background

This Court did not post any written tentative ruling prior to the hearing on 4/18/19; but at that hearing this Court gave a partial oral tentative ruling, heard argument, and informed the parties that it was anticipated that a written tentative ruling would be issued prior to this continued 6/13/19 hearing. Thereafter the alleged contemnors filed a letter requesting that this Court refrain from issuing any written tentative ruling (dkt. 43) - purportedly to aid in settlement discussions - and Debtor filed a response (dkt. 46) objecting to that letter and asserting that, to the contrary, issuing a written tentative ruling would facilitate resolution of this matter.

Current status

Unless the docket reflects a settlement, or other developments that would warrant further deferring any tentative ruling (e.g., a stipulation to a continuance), this Court anticipates posting a tentative ruling after noon on 6/12/18, and then addressing at the hearing on 6/13/19 whether to accept further argument or not, and any other remaining procedural or substantive issues.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Docket 22

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 7/18/19:

Grant (sustain the objection to Merrick Bank's claim no. 4) with a warning to counsel that in future (1) a cost/benefit analysis must be provided as part of the claim objection and (2) attorney fees probably are not warranted, even in a reduced dollar amount, based on a purported benefit as paltry as the one in this case: under $200, and that assumes that the current dividend to non-priority unsecured creditors remains at the current 57%. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

This Court expressly finds that Counsel has provided a cost/benefit analysis (dkt. 33) that is (just barely, this one time only) sufficient for purposes of Judge Bason's posted procedures regarding claim objections. The cost/benefit analysis was not timely filed (due 6/20, filed 7/10). This Court is willing to excuse the tardiness of the cost/benefit analysis in light of Counsel's commitment to file a fee application for work on the claim objection not exceeding $500.00 (see dkt. 33 at PDF p.2).

Tentative Ruling for 6/13/19:

Continue to 7/18/19 at 8:30 a.m. to address the following issues.

Appearances are not required on 6/13/19.

Lack of cost/benefit analysis. The posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) provide:

§ 502: claim objections & cost/benefit analysis. When objecting to claims, be sure to include an analysis of whether the costs of preparing and litigating the claim objection (administrative expenses) do not exceed the anticipated benefits (reductions in claims). For example, if the anticipated dividend is small or 0% then the attorney fees incurred in prosecuting your claim objection to any general unsecured claim probably will exceed the benefit to the bankruptcy estate/debtor, so filing that objection would be a waste of the bankruptcy estate's (and everyone else's) resources (unless, for example, the claim is nondischargeable, in which event the attorney fees might well be justified).

No later than 7 days after the date of this hearing the movant must file either:

(1) a supplemental declaration explaining why the attorney fees for this objection are justified (including supporting evidence, such as a copy of the plan showing the projected dividend to the claimant, and a calculation comparing that projected dividend against the attorney fees related to this claim objection), or

(2) a withdrawal of the claim objection.

No fees on this matter, absent specific authorization. Counsel is directed not to charge any fees on this matter (including all past, present and future work related to this claim objection), and to return any fees received on this matter, unless and until this Court expressly finds: "Counsel has provided a cost/benefit analysis that is sufficient for purposes of Judge Bason's posted Procedures regarding claim objections." It is counsel's responsibility to include the quoted phrase, if warranted, in the proposed order on this claim objection.

#31.00 Order to show cause why William Cort, Esq should not be sanctioned for non-appearance at hearing on July 2, 2019

Docket 23

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required. There is no tentative ruling, but Debtor's counsel should be prepared to address the following issues.

Current issues

This Court's order setting this hearing (the "OSC," dkt. 23) directed Mr. Cort to address three issues. He has addressed two of them.

First, Mr. Cort's declaration provides an explanation for his failure to appear at the 7/2/19 hearing. See dkt. 26, 28. The tentative ruling is that the explanation is sufficient.

Second, Mr. Cort's declaration describes a $1,000 fee (in addition to the filing fee) for the Motion in Individual Case for Order Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic Stay (the "Stay Motion," dkt. 16). The tentative ruling is to limit the fee to the $750 flat fee authorized by the Court Manual (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov), section 2.9(b) at p.2-50.

Third, Mr. Cort has not provided this Court with an explanation of why the Stay Motion and the notice of the Stay Motion had incorrect and misleading information about the deadline for any response to the Stay Motion. This Court is concerned that Mr. Cort's notices imposed an undue burden on creditors and this Court.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Docket 15

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 7/23/19:

Appearances required.

A. Tentative Rulings

For the reasons set forth below, the tentative rulings are:

(1) Relief from stay: grant the motion of Bakers 26, LLC ("Bakers") for relief from the automatic stay, perhaps conditioned on a lack of foreclosure prior to a specified date;

(2) Dismissal with a bar: grant Bakers' motion to dismiss this case, with a 180-day bar for willful failure to appear in proper prosecution of this case (11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1)); and

(3) Other rulings: make the other rulings set forth below so as to preserve the hotel's value, to the maximum feasible extent, pending a foreclosure sale or other disposition of the property.

Proposed orders: Bakers is directed to lodge proposed orders on the R/S Motion and the dismissal motion via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. This Court will issue a Memorialization of these Tentative Rulings, and then add a cross-reference to them in the lodged orders, thereby adopting them as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

B. Reasons

(1) Overview

Debtor has a history of gross mismanagement dating back to the inception of the prior bankruptcy case (filed 10/14/18) and continuing in this case (filed 6/7/19). At the prior hearings in this case this Court found and concluded that existing management could not continue to manage the estate, so presumably Debtor either had to propose to sell the hotel or had to bring in substantial new investment - almost certainly combined with new management. But Debtor has failed to present any viable path to those options.

Meanwhile, Debtor's finances have continued to deteriorate substantially, after taking into consideration accruing taxes and insurance obligations. In addition, Debtor's insurance is insufficient to provide adequate protection to Bakers, unsecured creditors, or the public.

Debtor's counsel make the best arguments they can in the circumstances. But the tentative ruling is that they cannot overcome the history of this case and the ongoing problems described in this and prior tentative rulings.

(2) Procedural history

Debtor's history of gross mismanagement is reflected in prior tentative rulings (reproduced below). At recent hearings this Court has made it abundantly clear that, based on that history, they cannot be trusted to run this hotel, and to act as a debtor in possession with the duties of a trustee for the benefit of creditors. 11 U.S.C. 1101(1), 1107, 1108.

Nevertheless, as recited in the tentative ruling for 7/9/19:

this Court was persuaded [at the hearing on 6/18/19] to give Debtor one final opportunity to restructure its finances in a chapter 11 case, presumably either via (x) a proposed sale under 11 U.S.C. 363(b)&(f) or (y) a substantial equity infusion, which almost certainly would have to be combined with new management. [Emphasis added.]

In other words, this Court left open the possibility that, with a large enough and sufficiently immediate equity infusion, perhaps existing management could continue to have a role. But almost certainly new management would be required even if there were an equity infusion.

Just prior to the 7/9/19 hearings, Debtor presented a purported partnership agreement with Green Hospitality Partners ("Green"). See R. Chung Decl. (dkt. 86), Ex.4. Despite Debtor's reliance on a "$2,000,000.00 capital infusion" (Reply, dkt. 107, p.3:9-10), the "agreement" is really an outline of a potential arrangement that Debtor hopes might lead to a $2 million investment at some future date after considerable due diligence. It is not an actual, enforceable agreement.

Note: Bakers has filed a "supplement" (dkt. 108, pp.4:4-6:14) advancing various arguments why the alleged "agreement" is illusory. This Court accepts that supplement in keeping with this Court's acceptance of Debtor's own last-minute filings, because of the expedited nature of these proceedings (necessitated by the problems of leaving Debtor's current management in place for any longer than necessary). But, even if this Court were to disregard Bakers' supplement, many of its arguments have already been raised orally, and in any event this Court would reach the same conclusions without the supplement.

Despite the sham partnership "agreement," this Court was persuaded that Debtor should be granted more time (i.e., a "final, final continuance") because section 5 of that proposed agreement stated that Green would "take over the Hotel Management effective on July 29th, 2019" R. Chung Decl. (dkt. 86), Ex.4. (emphasis added). This Court's order continuing the hearings memorialized this Court's oral ruling that the hearings would be continued to this 7/23/19 date for Debtor to file a "motion to approve [a] contract with [a] new management company to run the hotel, be it Green [] or another new management entity." Dkt. 87, p.2:13-15 (emphasis added).

(3) Debtor has failed to obtain new management (let alone any viable purchase offer or equity investment) and that is cause to convert or dismiss

Debtor's purported management agreement (dkt. 95, Ex.2, section 1) provides only for Green to be Debtor's "exclusive consultant," not the replacement manager. There is no evidence that Green has the intent, personnel, or resources to replace existing management (as Bakers points out, see dkt. 98; and see also Days Inn joinder, dkt. 109).

This is completely inadequate. Without an immediate and very substantial equity infusion (to protect creditors from the likelihood of damage by existing management) it is unacceptable for Debtor's current management to have any role going forward.

Debtor's latest proposal is actually a large step backward from what Debtor seemed to be promising with section 5 of its proposed "agreement" with Green. Rather than taking over management in a matter of days (by July 29, 2019), Green would be a consultant, with no assurance that existing management will be replaced at all. Nor is there any immediate equity infusion. All of that places the estate at substantial risk.

Debtor's reply attempts to address these deficiencies by stating that Mr. Hamlet (Green's principal, who appears to have considerable experience with hotels) will select and "work with" an on-site manager. Debtor also asserts that its existing management and principal will not retain "control" over the daily operations of the hotel. Reply (dkt. 102, p.5:9-26).

First, this greatly overstates what the documents provide. Nothing in the management agreement says that Debtor's existing management and principal will be removed from their primary role in running the hotel. Debtor's careful phrasing about "control" of the hotel is predicated on the (non-approved) partnership "agreement" (outline) which provides for Green to have a 2/3 vote. But that non-approved outline is not binding, and nothing in the management agreement suggests that Green will be using its (anticipated) control to take over management and remove Debtor's existing management.

Second, even if Green had the intent and authority to take over management, there is no evidence that it has the personnel or resources to do so. For Mr. Hamlet's experience and skills to provide any assurance that the current gross mismanagement will cease, he or his very close subordinates would need to have direct and close involvement in a thorough and immediate transition of the hotel away from existing management to new management. That is what the partnership "agreement" seemed to promise in section 5: Green would "take over the Hotel Management effective on July 29th, 2019" R. Chung Decl. (dkt. 86), Ex.4. (emphasis added). The proposed management agreement promises nothing of the sort.

If anything, the proposed management agreement shows that Debtor is still failing to take seriously the need for new management. That failure is yet one more instance of gross mismanagement. Debtor's history of gross mismanagement is cause for conversion or dismissal (11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4) (B)).

(4) The tentative ruling is that any dismissal should include a 180-day bar

There is evidence that Debtor's acts and omissions constituting gross mismanagement are "willful" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1). At every turn, the focus appears to be not on protecting creditors' interests, or employees, or the public, but instead to hold out for some impossible deal that would result in a "home run" for Debtor's principal, regardless of the risks to other parties. The history supporting these conclusions is summarized in the tentative rulings from prior hearings in this case and in Debtor's prior bankruptcy case, reproduced below. The tentative ruling is that Debtor has willfully failed to appear in proper prosecution of this case within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1).

(5) The lack of new management (let alone any viable purchase offer or equity investment) is also cause for relief from the automatic stay

Normally some evidence of an equity cushion would establish adequate protection of a secured creditor's interests, absent an actual appraisal from the party seeking relief from the automatic stay. Not in this case.

Debtor's bankruptcy schedules assert that the value of the hotel land, building, and associated personal property is approximately $5.2 million, which is substantially above the dollar amount of Bakers' lien and senior liens - estimated by Debtor to be about $4.2 million. See Bankruptcy Schedule A/B, dkt. 71, at PDF pp.7-8, lines 50 and 55.1; dkt. 90, p.4:1-8. But the tentative ruling is that the evidence of any equity cushion is woefully inadequate.

First, Debtor relies on purported offers that, on closer inspection, are only earlier, amorphous possibilities. Second, given the evidence of the property's deteriorated condition and ongoing problems, the tentative ruling is to find that, even if Debtor's documents could be characterized as genuine purchase and sale agreements, the condition of the property offers numerous grounds for the purported purchasers to renege on any commitment to purchase, so those documents are little if any evidence of value. Third, although Debtor's sworn bankruptcy schedules are also some evidence of value, the tentative ruling is that such evidence is insufficient, given the exhibited lack of reliability of other opinions by Debtor's management and principal (projected income). For all of these reasons, Debtor has not presented any reliable evidence of the value of the hotel sufficient to provide adequate protection of Bakers' interests in the hotel.

Moreover, even if there were some equity cushion, as noted above Debtor's current management cannot be trusted to continue to run this bankruptcy estate without jeopardizing any such cushion. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is that there is "cause" for relief from the automatic stay within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

Chapter 11

In addition, there is evidence that Debtor's filing of this case has been part of a "scheme," involving multiple bankruptcy cases, to "delay, hinder, or defraud" creditors within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4). Again, Debtor's history of using these bankruptcy cases for delay, and otherwise hindering or defrauding creditors, is set forth in the tentative rulings reproduced below.

(6) Debtor's finances have continued to deteriorate, which is an alternative cause both for conversion or dismissal and for relief from the automatic stay

Debtor's initial Monthly Operating Report ("MOR," dkt. 94) shows extremely thin revenues. See, e.g., id. at PDF p.7 (starting balance of $509.20 and ending balance of $2,489.78, based on receipts of $126,380.34 and disbursements of $124,399.76 for the partial month from 6/7/19 through 6/30/19) and id. at PDF pp.1, 4, 10 & 14 (under $15,000 in other accounts).

In addition, as Bakers points out, Debtor has very substantial bills that will come due in the coming weeks and months for insurance and taxes. See dkt. 101, p.3:11-26 (estimating monthly escrow requirements of $8,009 for insurance and $12,600 for real estate taxes). After taking into account these forthcoming expenses on an accrual basis, it appears that Debtor is operating at a loss. Even using Debtor's lower figure of $5,250 per month for real estate taxes (dkt. 110, p.3:22-23), Debtor appears to be operating at a loss.

In addition, it is appropriate to take into account other expenditures that would be necessary to remedy the poor condition of the property (at least to the point where Debtor could hope to obtain adequate insurance, see below, and have any hope of reorganizing). Based on any reasonable estimate of such expenditures, the true financial picture is that Debtor is continuing its pattern of operating at a loss that is both substantial and ongoing.

In addition, Debtor now seeks a continuance to try to obtain an additional $1 million of insurance. Reply (dkt. 107) p.4:3-12. That would only deepen and further continue Debtor's losses.

Bakers' latest supplement also points out other financial deficiencies. See dkt. 108, pp.6:14-7:27. (As noted above, this Court is inclined to accept the supplement, given the expedited nature of these proceedings. But, again, this Court would reach the same result even without the supplement.)

Moreover, Debtor's projections are only that it could generate $140,000 to $150,000 per month during its allegedly "busy" summer months (dkt. 107, p.6:2-3). In other words, revenues likely will be lower within a couple of months, not higher (at least absent a very substantial equity infusion to vastly improve the hotel and, as noted above, Debtor's hope of a $2 million equity infusion is based on a sham agreement).

Chapter 11

In addition, this Court cannot rely on Debtor's latest projections because its past projections have been woefully inaccurate.

A "substantial or continuing loss to or diminution of the estate and the absence of a reasonable likelihood of rehabilitation" is cause to convert or dismiss. 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(A). On the record presented, this standard has been met.

In addition, based on the lack of evidence of any equity cushion, and the justifiable concerns that Bakers has about the ability and willingness of Debtor to protect Bakers' interests in the hotel, the substantial and continuing losses are additional cause for relief from the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1)). This Court recognizes that Debtor has made some adequate protection payments, but this Court's recollection is that those payments were set at a level that was only enough to cover the approximate estimate of ongoing accrual of interest, so they offer no protection against the hotel's ongoing and substantial losses.

(7) Debtor's insurance is inadequate, which is an alternative cause for conversion or dismissal, and cause for relief from the automatic stay

(a) Background

Debtor values its real property and improvements at $5.1 million and its furniture, fixtures, and equipment at approximately $100,000, for a total of approximately $5.2 million. See Bankruptcy Schedule A/B, dkt. 71, at PDF pp.7-8, lines 50 and 55.1. Debtor has only $3 million of insurance on its building (plus insurance on furniture, fixtures, and equipment, and liability insurance). See dkt. 90, p.5:21-22 & Ex.1.

True, Debtor has argued that $3 million is sufficient because the land value constitutes a substantial portion of the total value of the hotel. It is conceivable for example that if the land alone were worth $2.5 million then, even if a fire caused a total loss of the hotel building, creditors could be paid up to $2.5 million out of a sale of the raw land plus the $3 million insurance proceeds on the building.

Theoretically, such proceeds would be enough to cover not only secured claims but also unsecured claims. Debtor estimates secured claims of $4.2 million (dkt. 90, p.4:1-8) (including $3.8 million in estimated claims held by Bakers), $181,281.40 in priority claims, and $236,360.62 in nonpriority unsecured claims (id. p.4:8-15) for total estimated debts of slightly over $4.6 million. In other words, this Court was not prepared at the prior hearings to rule out the possibility that $3 million in insurance, combined with the value of the raw land, could protect Bakers, the bankruptcy estate, and the public.

At the hearing on 7/9/19 this Court was persuaded to continue the pending matters based on the rough outline of such a scenario. This continuance was predicated on Debtor filing a motion seeking whatever authorization would be required to authorize enough insurance to provide adequate protection for Bakers and also to protect unsecured creditors. See Order (dkt. 87).

Note: One reason this Court required such a motion is that, in this Court's view, Debtor's existing insurance is out of the "ordinary course." See 11 U.S.C. 363(b). In other words, it appears that Debtor's (expensive) insurance of last resort is not "ordinary" based on either Debtor's past history or industry standards, and therefore Debtor should have obtained this Court's approval (after notice and a hearing) before purchasing such insurance, and likewise Debtor should obtain approval now to continue with such insurance. See Dant & Russell, Inc., 853 F.2d 700 (9th Cir. 1988). (This is not to say that insurance is not essential - it is. The point is only that notice, a hearing, and approval should have been obtained for the unusual type of insurance at issue.)

In addition, this Court directed Debtor to file a motion for approval of insurance because this Court anticipated that Debtor probably would need to increase its insurance coverage, and therefore would have to file a motion for authorization to use cash collateral beyond what has already been authorized (11 U.S.C. 363(c)) and/or to borrow funds (11 U.S.C. 364) to pay such increased insurance. It turns out that Debtor has not sought approval to pay for any increase in insurance, because it has been unable so far to obtain any such increase in insurance. See Reply (dkt. 107), p.4:3-12.

In any event, Debtor has filed its motion to approve the adequacy of its existing Insurance (dkt. 90). Debtor has not filed any evidence of the value of the raw land.

Chapter 11

(b) Reasons why the insurance is inadequate

There are numerous problems with Debtor's assertion that $3 million of building insurance is adequate to protect either Bakers' interests or the interests of unsecured creditors or the public:

(i) There is no evidence that the raw land value is as large as Debtor's arguments would require.

(ii) Even if the value of the raw land theoretically were very substantial on its own, in practice many losses such as a fire would require substantial remediation before the land could be sold at full value, so the net value of the land would be far less.

(iii) Bakers has presented evidence that Debtor's insurer might have defenses to coverage. For example, Bakers has presented evidence that fire extinguishers and other safety equipment or systems are deficient, which might well be grounds for denial of coverage. Debtor's inability to obtain regular insurance, despite seeking it from 16 insurers, is further evidence that the property is not in condition to be insured, and this reinforces the concern that there might be grounds for the current insurer-of-last-resort to deny coverage if a claim is actually made. All this reinforces the lack of reliability of the existing insurance.

(iv) Both Bakers and Days Inn have pointed out that Debtor's current insurer is un-rated, which means the insurance is not as reliable as is commonly required.

(v) At least if there were something less than a total loss of the hotel building, Debtor likely would need to replace some portion of the building rather than just take the proceeds and distribute them to creditors. But Bakers has presented evidence that the replacement cost far exceeds the $3 million building insurance (and, likewise, that replacing the FF&E would exceed the insurance for the existing FF&E). This is another reason why the $3 million amount does not appear sufficient.

(vi) At current levels Debtor's insurance coverage is out of compliance with its franchise with Days Inn, creating an ongoing risk of termination of that franchise, or of reimposition of some sort of restrictions by Days Inn. In addition, the specific ways in which Debtor's current insurance is out of compliance appear to show a risk both to the bankruptcy estate and to the public. Days Inn points out that Debtor's evidence does not establish sufficient insurance for: auto liability, liquor liability, workers compensation, or employer's liability. See dkt. 100, p.4:3-11.

(vii) The foregoing problems with the insurance coverage jeopardize any ability to obtain any other franchise or to sell the hotel or obtain equity investment.

(viii) Debtor's attempt to obtain insurance above the $3 million cap of its current insurance (dkt. 107, pp.3:13-4:12) is too speculative, and too late.

See generally Bakers Omnibus Reply (dkt. 83) passim and at Ex.32, at PDF pp.23 et seq.; Days Inn obj., dkt.100, pp.3:23-4:11.

(c) Remedies for lack of adequate insurance

Based on the foregoing evidence of lack of sufficient insurance coverage, combined with Debtor's history and this Court's reasoning set forth in prior tentative rulings (reproduced below), Bakers has made a prima facie showing of both (a) a lack of adequate protection of Bakers' interests, constituting "cause" for relief from the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1)), and (b) cause to convert or dismiss this bankruptcy case (11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4) (C)) ("failure to maintain appropriate insurance that poses a risk to the estate or to the public"). There is substantial risk to Bakers, the estate, and the public. Debtor has not rebutted that showing.

In addition, Debtor's history of not adequately addressing Bakers' concerns about insurance (x) in the prior bankruptcy case, (y) between dismissal of that case and the filing of this case, or (z) in this case, is evidence of a willful failure to appear in proper prosecution of this case (11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1)). It is also evidence that Debtor has used this second case as part of a scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors (11 U.S.C. 362(d) (4)).

To be clear, the tentative ruling is not that Debtor necessarily had any ability to obtain insurance and yet willfully chose not to. Rather the willful act is the choice to file another bankruptcy petition without either having already arranged adequate insurance or immediately taking steps to assure that creditors and the public would be protected by adequate insurance.

There is no evidence that, despite knowing for months about the expiration of prior insurance, and despite Bakers raising concerns about that expiration in the prior case, Debtor has acted diligently. To the contrary, Debtor did not file any "first day" motion for a sale of the property to someone who could obtain adequate insurance, nor did Debtor file a "first day" motion to approve a substantial equity infusion that could be used to restore the property and obtain adequate insurance, nor in the following weeks has Debtor presented any such solution. Rather, Debtor was prepared to let secured creditors, unsecured creditors, and the public bear the exposure to uninsured risks without treating adequate insurance coverage as a crucial, emergency matter requiring immediate action.

The tentative ruling is that these acts and omissions amount to a willful failure to appear in proper prosecution of this case (11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1)) and that these acts and omissions were not calculated to do anything but hinder, delay, or defraud creditors. Debtor's principal may have had vague and unrealistic hopes that some solution might work out that would maximize her investment, but in the many months since the prior bankruptcy was filed through the present, she has not been prepared to do what is needed to assure uninterrupted and adequate insurance to protect creditors and the public.

(8) Dismissal, rather than conversion

The tentative ruling is that dismissal is in the best interests of creditors. Based on the (admittedly meager) evidence in the record regarding the value of the estate, it seems unlikely that the hotel could be sold in a chapter 7 case for enough net proceeds to cover costs of administration and also provide a dividend to unsecured creditors. Conversely, it seems likely that if this case is dismissed then Bakers and Days Inn, both acting in their own self-interest, will attempt to preserve the hotel as a going concern and sell the hotel for fair value through a nonbankruptcy receivership and sale, or comparable nonbankruptcy remedies.

The tentative ruling is for this Court to further incentivise such an outcome by conditioning relief from the automatic stay on a bar of any foreclosure sale prior to a specified date, thereby providing an opportunity for a receiver to market and sell the property, or for other remedies that might maximize value. The parties are directed to address that issue at the hearing.

(9) Debtor's challenge to Bakers' standing is unpersuasive

Debtor questions whether Bakers has a viable security interest in the hotel property. See dkt. 90 p.6:16-7:8. The tentative ruling is that there is more than sufficient evidence of Bakers' standing. See Case No. 2:18-

(10) Debtor's evidentiary objections

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's latest evidentiary objections (dkt. 103, 104, 105) are moot because this tentative ruling does not rely on any of the proffered evidence to which Debtor objects.

C. Conclusion

Based on the foregoing, and Debtor's extensive history in its prior case and this case, the tentative ruling is that there is cause to grant both Bakers' motion for relief from the automatic stay and its motion to dismiss this case. In addition, to preserve the hotel's value, to the maximum feasible extent, pending a foreclosure sale or other disposition of the property, the tentative ruling is to make the other rulings set forth below. The parties are also directed to address whether some different approach, such as a short delay in dismissing this case, would help to facilitate orderly arrangements regarding any nonbankruptcy receivership or other avenues.

The tentative rulings on each separate matter are as follows:

(a) Bakers' Motion For Relief From The Automatic Stay ("R/S Motion," dkt.6). Grant, including "in rem" relief (on the same terms set forth in the tentative ruling for 6/18/19 at 10:00 a.m., calendar no. 12, part "(2)," reproduced below).

(b) Cash Collateral Motion (dkt. 27). Grant further interim authorization through the dismissal of this case, and otherwise deny.

(c) Payroll Motion (dkt. 26). Deny any further relief - i.e., deny any compensation to insiders.

(d) Motion to Approve Stipulation with Days Inn (dkt. 89). Grant, so as to preserve the hotel's value.

(e) Motion to Approve Adequacy of Insurance (dkt. 90). Deny.

(f) Motion to Employ Green Hospitality Partners as Hotel Management Company (dkt. 96). Deny.

(e) Bakers Motion to Dismiss ("MTD," dkt. 11). Grant, with a 180-day bar for willful failure to appear in proper prosecution of this case (11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1)).

Tentative Ruling for 7/9/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

At the hearing on 6/18/19 this Court expressed considerable skepticism about whether creditors or this Court can place reliance on Debtor's existing management, or can expect any turn around in Debtor's performance. That skepticism was based on the history of Debtor's prior bankruptcy case and its complete failure in this case to take appropriate steps such as "first day" motions.

Nevertheless, this Court was persuaded to give Debtor one final opportunity to restructure its finances in a chapter 11 case, presumably either via (x) a proposed sale under 11 U.S.C. 363(b)&(f) or (y) a substantial equity infusion, which almost certainly would have to be combined with new management. This Court also: granted certain interim relief; prohibited any payments to insiders; and required Debtor to make an adequate protection payment to creditor Bakers 26, LLC ("Bakers") of $20,000, no later than 7/1/19. See dk. 63, 64, 65, 69, 70.

As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, the docket does not reflect any progress toward a 363 sale or a major equity infusion (or any other developments, except an objection to Debtor's utility motion, dk. 80, which is addressed below). Accordingly, the tentative rulings are as follows.

(a) Bakers' Motion For Relief From The Automatic Stay ("R/S Motion," dk. 6)

Grant, including relief under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (4), as set forth in the tentative ruling for 6/18/19 (see calendar no.1, 7/9/19 at 9:00 a.m.).

(b) Cash Collateral Motion (dk. 27)

Deny any further authorization for use of cash collateral, except for (i) non-insider payroll and (ii) other necessary expenses for preserving the collateral during the transition period contemplated before dismissal (see below). Any such use of cash collateral is conditioned on the prior written consent of each creditor holding a secured claim. It is contemplated that such use of cash collateral will be for purposes of preserving value during a transition from current management to a receiver and/or foreclosure.

(c) Utility Motion (dkt. 28)

Grant on a final basis, except that as to Souther California Gas Company ("SoCal Gas") such relief is conditioned on Debtor paying the requested deposit of $3,825.00 in cash or cash equivalent, such that it is received by SoCal Gas no later than 7/11/19, otherwise SoCal Gas may terminate service pursuant to non-bankruptcy law. This Court recognizes that dismissal of this case may render this utility motion moot; but as set forth below this Court is also mindful that it may be appropriate to delay dismissal for a brief transition period, and to preserve the value of the estate it may be necessary to provide the requested security deposit during that time.

(d) Payroll Motion (dkt. 26)

Deny any remaining relief - i.e., any payment to insiders (because all other persons have already been paid) - based on the insiders' failures to perform necessary and appropriate services in accordance with their duties as persons in control of a debtor-in-possession. Such failures include not seeking authorization for payroll in time for normal payroll processing, despite the insiders' knowledge of the importance of that duty from Debtor's prior chapter 11 case, which means either (i) payroll was delayed - which is very unfair to employees - or (ii) Debtor made payroll in violation of the Bankruptcy Code - which is gross mismanagement.

(e) Bakers Motion to Dismiss ("MTD," dkt. 11)

Grant, with a 180 day bar under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1), for willful failure to appear in proper prosecution of this case, for all the reasons stated in the tentative ruling for 6/18/19 (see calendar no. 5, 7/9/19 at 9:00 a.m.). This Court contemplates, however, that dismissal might be delayed by a few days or so, to enable an orderly transition in management from Debtor's current management to a receiver, or a purchaser at a foreclosure sale. The parties are directed to address that issue at the hearing. Meanwhile, Debtor's insiders are reminded again of their duties as fiduciaries for the benefit of creditors, and their counsel is directed no later than the hearing on 7/9/19 to remind them of such duties in writing.

The status report erroneously states that no budget motion is required (please Judge Bason's posted Procedures, available at cacb.uscourts.gov, which state that budget motions are "[r]equired," without limiting such requirement to individuals). Analysis

The tentative ruling is that the following alternative grounds exist for the relief sought in the motion papers. This Court is mindful of the fact that this matter is being heard on shortened time, early in this bankruptcy case. Nevertheless, on the present record, and subject to oral argument, the tentative ruling is to dismiss this case and impose a 180-day bar.

(1) Insurance ((b)(4)(C))

In Debtor's prior bankruptcy case (Case No. 2:18-bk-22059-NB), there was evidence that insurance was expiring on 5/25/19. See id. dkt. 138, at PDF p.17, para.27, and Ex.4 at PDF p.33 (filed 4/23/19). Debtor therefore not only should have foreseen the need to arrange in advance for new insurance, it was on actual notice, over a month in advance, that this could be a problem.

But there is evidence that Debtor's insurance was canceled effective 5/25/19 (as to its commercial package coverage) and 6/1/19 (as to excess liability) (dkt. 6-2, Ex.17, at pp.124-25). In this current bankruptcy case, Debtor asserts that as of 6/14/19 it has obtained insurance (see Debtor's Opp., dkt. 58, p.4:14-21). Notably absent is any denial by Debtor that it had a gap in insurance coverage from 5/25/19 through 6/14/19.

True, the current insurance coverage apparently was made retroactive to 5/25/19. See dkt. 58, R. Chung Delc., para.19 & Ex.3. But if any significant loss had occurred during the gap before replacement insurance was obtained, Debtor ran the (very substantial) risk of not being able to obtain any insurance coverage. That gap period extended after the petition date of 6/7/19 until 6/14/19 - i.e., for a postpetition period of seven days.

This Court recognizes that Debtor filed this bankruptcy case on 6/7/19 because of the impending 6/10/19 foreclosure sale. But whatever pressures Debtor may have had, that does not excuse the lack of insurance.

Chapter 11

The tentative ruling is that in a hotel with dozens if not hundreds of guests, fourteen days, including seven days postpetition, is a substantial period of time to go without insurance coverage. The tentative ruling is that such a gap in coverage imposes a substantial risk on the public and the estate, which is cause to dismiss. 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(C).

In addition, given the amount of notice that Debtor had of the need to address insurance, the tentative ruling is that Debtor's failure to obtain insurance and its decision to file this bankruptcy case without such insurance appears to be a willful failure to appear in "proper" prosecution of this case. To be clear, this Court's tentative ruling is not that Debtor would have elected to run the risk of not having insurance given a complete freedom of choice; but it appears that Debtor willfully elected not to take whatever steps were necessary to assure insurance until it turned out to be too late to avoid a gap in coverage. The tentative ruling is that this is willful failure to appear in proper prosecution of this case, which is cause to impose a 180-day bar. 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1).

The foregoing tentative rulings are reinforced by Debtor's history in its prior bankruptcy case of not being proactive, or even adequately reactive, in managing the online bookings fiasco. That situation is summarized in the tentative rulings for that prior case (reproduced in this case within the tentative ruling for calendar no.12, 6/18/19 at 10:00 a.m.).

As in that situation (involving bookings), Debtor should have foreseen in this situation (involving insurance) the need to be proactive. Failing that, at the very least Debtor should have been adequately reactive once the issues had been flagged for Debtor. Insurance was flagged on 4/23/19, and in this Court's tentative ruling (later adopted as the final ruling) regarding dismissal of the prior bankruptcy case. See Case No. 2:18-bk-22059-NB, dkt. 138 (at PDF p.17, para.27, and Ex.4 at PDF p.33) and dkt. 156 (dismissal order). Debtor has not offered any explanation for being unable to maintain insurance despite such notice.

(2) Gross mismanagement ((b)(4)(B))

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's handling of the insurance matter (described above) is sufficient to establish a prima facie showing of gross mismanagement. That shifted the burden to Debtor to rebut that showing, but Debtor has not done so.

In addition, the tentative ruling is that Bakers has submitted sufficient evidence that (a) the property has physically been allowed to fall into a state of disrepair, (b) Debtor's reservation system is subject to (unspecified) restrictions, and (c) Debtor's exit strategy continues to be vague and uncertain. That shifts the burden to Debtor to overcome the appearance that there is gross mismanagement.

Debtor argues that Bakers' evidence of the dilapidated state of the property is "stale," that Debtor's physical condition has been improving, that its projected revenues are healthy, and that it has prospective buyers and a prospective investor. This Court has heard that story before from this Debtor.

(a) Physical condition of the property

Although this Court recognizes that the pool, hot tub, and other aspects of the property might not be as bad as suggested in the report prepared for Bakers (see dkt.57), there is still substantial evidence of dangerous conditions and deferred maintenance (see dkt. 6-4, Ex.22, at pp.211-74, and the additional photographs, id., Ex.23, at pp.275-77). Debtor's opposition papers do not include any specific information about what Debtor is doing to address these issues.

Debtor provides only vague and sweeping assertions that the property was allowed by previous owners to fall into a bad state and that Debtor has been improving the property. Such assertions appear to be contrary to the only evidence before this Court of Debtor's past expenditures: its monthly operating reports from its prior case, which do not appear to reflect any restoration of the property and, if anything, appear to be more consistent with ongoing deterioration.

(b) Reservation systems

There is evidence that Debtor's use of the Days Inn reservation system is restricted. Debtor provides no information about the nature of that restriction, how much impact that is having on Debtor's ability to generate revenues, what is being done to address the issue, or any other facts and circumstances.

This Court would expect capable and proactive management to present detailed information on these issues, to have strategies and tactics to address all of those things, to support their analysis and proposed approaches with evidence, and to present all of that to this Court as part of some "first day" motions (e.g., use of cash collateral to help remove some or all restrictions). Instead there is barely any recognition of the problem.

This is reminiscent of Debtor's fiasco with its online reservation systems (Expedia and Bookings.com) in its prior bankruptcy case, in which Debtor never provided any satisfactory explanation for failing to foresee the problem, failing to recognize it once it arose, or failing to act quickly and decisively enough once the problem was recognized. See the tentative ruling for Bakers' R/S Motion, calendar no. 12 on this 10:00 a.m. calendar for 6/18/19).

In this case Debtor reports vaguely that it is "working to resolve the [unspecified] restriction on its reservation system with Days Inn." Dkt. 57, Response to Bakers' R/S Motion, p.3, para. 3.c.(6). The tentative ruling is that the scant information is itself evidence of gross mismanagement.

(c) Debtor's vascilating and vague exit strategy

In the prior case Debtor repeatedly vascillated between purported sales opportunities and equity investment opportunities, but never produced evidence of any solid exit strategy. See, e.g., Bakers' Response re Cash Collateral (dkt. 56), pp.2:15-3:14 (citing and quoting from Debtor's vascillating statements). In this case Debtor has provided copies of two letters of intent ("LOI"), but the tentative ruling is that they are unconvincing.

The first LOI is for $6.1 million, but it is dated 2/12/19 (dkt. 58, R. Chung Decl., Ex.1, at PDF pp.18-21); it required Debtor's signature by 2/19/19 (id. para.10) and in any event it was subject to a 45 day investigation period (id. para.3) which has long since expired. The second LOI is for $5.1 million and is dated 3/29/19 (id., Ex.2, at PDF pp.22-25); and it required Debtor's signature by 4/5/19 (id. para.10) which has long since expired.

(d) Lack of evidence of steps to improve cash flow

Despite Debtor's (unspecified) restrictions in use of the Days Inn reservation system, and despite the apparent lack of physical improvement in the property, Debtor's cash collateral motion includes relatively rosy projections of future cash flow. As Bakers argues (dkt. 11, 56), Debtor made rosy projections in its first bankruptcy case but ended up losing a substantial amount of money.

Debtor's projected income is just a series of seemingly random figures. Debtor offers no evidentiary support, and no explanation for any change from the first bankruptcy case except the vague assertion that Debtor's summer season will be busier.

In the prior bankruptcy case Debtor repeatedly anticipated better performance, including in the busier winter holiday season. Instead its performance was extremely bad. See tentative rulings from prior bankruptcy case, reproduced in tentative ruling for calendar no.12 (Bakers' R/S Motion).

Debtor's projected expenses also raise concerns (although at least they are listed and Debtor shows the calculation of projected net income). One problem is that the expenses appear to be reduced from what would be typical. Debtor omits any property taxes because those "are typically paid in April and December" and the cash collateral budget runs from June through November, 2019. See Cash Collateral Budget (dkt. 27, Ex.1). If the budget included such taxes, estimated by Debtor at $30,000 (id.), Debtor's projected budget would be extremely "thin."

Debtor's insurance expense also appears to be lower that what Debtor typically were pay if its annual expenses were spread out evenly over 12 months. Debtor appears to have obtained insurance pursuant to California's "FAIR" program, with an initial payment of $25,356.50 (see dkt. 58, R. Chung Decl., Ex.3, last page, at PDF p.34) - presumably either prepetition or from a non-Debtor source because no authorization was sought for such an expenditure. That insurance requires ongoing payments of $6,250.00 per month (Cash Collateral Motion, dkt. 27, Ex.1). It is unclear whether Debtor can continue to afford such insurance. See also dkt. 56, p.4:9-23 (arguing that if Debtor has obtained insurance through the "FAIR" program - insurance of last resort - that is further evidence of Debtor's troubled condition).

The tentative ruling is that all of the foregoing adds up to present a picture that is very reminiscent of Debtor's first bankruptcy case. Debtor is making vague promises regarding (a) the physical condition of the property, (b) somehow addressing the restrictions in its use of the Days Inn reservation system, (c) some sort of exit strategy that might involve a sale or an equity investment, and (d) somehow increasing monthly gross income and minimizing monthly expenses, but there is a glaring absence of actual evidence and analysis of data to back up any of this.

In addition, as noted in the tentative ruling on Bakers' R/S motion (calendar no. 12, on this 10:00 a.m. calendar on 6/18/19), Debtor has failed to be proactive in obtaining authorization from this Court or payment of payroll on 6/14/19, or for the use of cash collateral, or other matters.

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's lack of proactive steps and evidence on all of the foregoing shows gross mismanagement within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(B).

(3) Loss/diminution and no reasonable prospects for rehabilitation ((b)(4)(A))

Chapter 11

On the one hand, this Court is not currently persuaded that "rehabilitation," within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(A), can never include a process of "staunching the bleeding" in preparation for an orderly liquidation, even if that process involves substantial or continuing losses or a "diminution to the estate," as long as that process is calculated to preserve more value for creditors than other alternatives. The tentative ruling is that this can constitute a "rehabilitation" in preparation for a sale or other liquidation.

For example, if a hypothetical debtor were to diminish a $1 million estate by spending $100,000, but that would stabilize the estate at a value of $900,000, and the alternatives would be a foreclosure sale or "fire sale" that would cause the estate to be worth only $800,000, then the hypothetical debtor's expenditure of the $100,000 to stabilize the estate could, in this Court's view, constitute a "rehabilitation." In other words, this Court is not persuaded that the statute would force this Court to convert or dismiss the case in such a situation, thereby harming creditors. To the extent the motion papers argue otherwise this Court is not persuaded. See Motion (dkt. 11) p.8:13-25 (citing Loop Corp. v. U.S. Trustee, 379 F.3d 511, 516 (8th Cir. 2004), and In re The Ledges Apts., 58 B.R. 84, 87 (Bankr. D.Vt. 1986)).

But on the present record there is no evidence that Debtor's prosecution of this case is likely to preserve more value for creditors than other alternatives. To the contrary, the decision to file this bankruptcy case and thereby stop the movant's foreclosure sale appears to have obstructed the best opportunity for someone (Movant, or another buyer at a foreclosure sale) to take charge of the subject property and immediately invest the funds and expertise needed to bring the property into a condition in which it could be safe and preserve its current value. Therefore the tentative ruling is that there is cause to dismiss this case under 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(A).

(4) Other "cause" to dismiss ((b)(1))

The tentative ruling is that there is persuasive evidence of non-payment of adequate protection payments and taxes in the first case, in violation of this Court's orders and Debtor's obligations under the Bankruptcy Code and, although that is not the same as such acts in this case (11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(D),(E)&(I)), nevertheless it places a high premium on Debtor showing a different course of conduct in this second bankruptcy case. But the tentative ruling is that all of the matters addressed in this tentative ruling and in the tentative ruling for calendar no.12 are prima facie evidence that this case was not filed in good faith.

The tentative ruling is that such conduct establishes "cause" to dismiss this case within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(1). See 11 U.S.C. 102(3) ("includes" and "including" are not limiting). In addition, the tentative ruling is that such conduct establishes a willful failure to appear in "proper" prosecution of this case within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1) (emphasis added).

(5) Conclusion

The tentative ruling is that Movant has shown prima facie cause to dismiss this case and to impose a 180-day bar against being a debtor in any future bankruptcy case. The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not rebutted that showing.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." COPY OF TENTATIVE RULING FROM 6/18/19 at 10:00 a.m., calendar no. 12 (Bakers26 Motion for relief from automatic stay):

Grant this motion of Bakers 26, LLC ("Bakers") for relief from the automatic stay, as provided below, and overrule the opposition (dkt. 57), all subject to oral argument (see Order Shortening Time, "OST," dkt. 10). The tentative ruling is to excuse any lack of strict compliance with the OST because notice and service have been adequate under the circumstances. See dkt. 23, 42, 43. Appearances required.

final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(1) Analysis, and termination of automatic stay

This Court is mindful of the fact that this matter is being heard on shortened time, early in this bankruptcy case. Nevertheless, on the present record, and subject to oral argument, the tentative ruling is to terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4), for the reasons set forth in the motion papers (dkt. 6-9) and the filed documents and this Court's records from Debtor's prior case combined with the lack of progress in this case.

(a) Evidentiary issues

The tentative ruling is to sustain Debtor's hearsay objection regarding the alleged basis for not renewing insurance (see dkt. 60) but otherwise accept the evidence of insurance cancellation for two reasons. First, it is part of Bakers' business to assure that its interests in the property are adequately protected by insurance, so the business records exception and the declarant's knowledge of the business establish that Debtor has not complied with requirements to provide Bakers with assurances of the maintenance of insurance. Rules 602 & 803(6) (Fed. R. Evid.). That is enough to shift the burden to Debtor to establish that it does, in fact, have adequate insurance. Second, and alternatively, Debtor does not appear to dispute the facts on which this Court is relying regarding insurance (see below).

The tentative ruling is to sustain Debtor's hearsay objection (dkt. 59) regarding the alleged basis for restricting Debtor's use of the central reservation system maintained by Days Inn Worldwide, Inc. ("Days Inn") - the alleged "four to five months" of missed payments - but otherwise accept the evidence that Debtor has been restricted in its use of Days Inn's system. The reasons are the same as stated above in connection with the evidence regarding insurance.

(b) Cause for relief

This Court is especially troubled by the following:

(i) Gap in insurance: see the tentative ruling for calendar no.16 (on this 10:00 a.m. calendar for 6/18/19);

(ii) Real estate taxes: Debtor's principal had promised to pay these taxes in the first bankruptcy case as part of the "adequate protection" to Bakers, but apparently those taxes were not paid then and the deficit has only gotten worse (see dkt. 6-2, Ex.18, at p.126), all of which means that any promises to provide "adequate protection" in this second bankruptcy case (e.g., the promise to pay $15,000 per month; the assertion that Debtor's condition is improving rather than deteriorating; and the assertion that Debtor will have a viable exit strategy within a reasonable time) must be viewed with considerable skepticism;

(iii) Reservation system: Debtor apparently is restricted in its use of Days Inn's reservations system (dkt. 6-3, Ex.21, at p.189, and dkt. 57, p.3, para.3.c.(6));

(iv) Property condition report: although this Court recognizes that the pool, hot tub, and other aspects of the property might not be as bad as suggested in the report (see dkt.57), there is still substantial evidence of dangerous conditions and deferred maintenance (see dkt. 6-4, Ex.22, at pp.211-74, and the additional photographs, id., Ex.23, at pp.275-77) (see also the tentative ruling for Bakers' motion to dismiss this bankruptcy case, calendar no. 16 on this calendar for 10:00 a.m. on 6/18/19);

(v) Delay: Debtor's "first day" wage, cash collateral, and utility motions (dkt. 26-28 et seq.) were not filed until after 6:30 p.m. on 6/12/19, when the petition was filed on 6/7/19 - Debtor should have known from its prior bankruptcy case (Case No. 2:18-bk-22059-NB) the importance of providing information and coordinating with its attorneys to have those motions filed immediately, for the reasons set forth below;

(vi) Payroll: Debtor either has not made the 6/14/19 payroll - and the tentative ruling is that this would show gross mismanagement in not seeking this Court's approval early enough - or has paid employees for that payroll period without this Court's approval - which presumably includes at least some prepetition hours worked and therefore is an unauthorized payment of prepetition debt;

(vii) Cash collateral: Debtor either has not been using cash collateral - which would mean a lack of normal business operations - or has been using cash collateral without authorization (11 U.S.C. 363(c)); and

(viii) Lack of evidence: Debtor provides no evidence (x) of any currently pending offers for the hotel, or other progress in the various exit strategies it has had since commencement of its prior bankruptcy case over eight months ago, on 10/14/18 (Case No. 2:18-bk-22059-NB), (y) in support of its projected income and expenses (see Cash Collateral Budget, dkt.27, Ex.1), or (z) regarding the current state of its online bookings and its franchise with Days Inn (apart from acknowledging, vaguely, that there is a restriction on Debtor's use of its reservation system).

The tentative ruling is to grant the relief requested in the motion, as further set forth below, based on the foregoing and on the other matters addressed in the tentative ruling on Bakers' motion to dismiss this bankruptcy case (calendar no. 16 on this 10:00 a.m. calendar for 6/18/19). As to "in rem" relief in particular, the tentative ruling is that Bakers has met its prima facie burden of establishing the existence of a "scheme" to "hinder" or "delay" or "defraud" it, involving the prior bankruptcy case and this one. These two bankruptcy cases have prevented Bakers from exercising remedies for a total of over eight months (since the filing of the prior bankruptcy case on 10/14/18); these cases have not been adequately prosecuted; and the tentative ruling is that those things have established a scheme to hinder and delay Bakers within the meaning of the statute.

(2) Standard terms

(a) Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

(b) Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

(c) Effective date of relief

COPIES OF SELECTED TENTATIVE RULINGS FROM DEBTOR'S PRIOR BANKRUPTCY CASE (Case No. 2:18-bk-22059-NB):

Tentative Ruling for 5/7/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of Baker 26, LLC ("Baker") to dismiss case (the "MTD," dkt. 117-131), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 138), and Baker's reply (dkt. 152)

Dismiss this case, without a bar. Under 11 U.S.C. 1112(b) this Court "shall" dismiss (or convert) this case for cause, with only limited exceptions. There does not appear to be any argument that conversion is practical, so the question is whether to dismiss.

(i) Insurance

One type of "cause" to dismiss is "failure to maintain appropriate insurance that poses a risk to the estate or to the public." 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(C). The MTD points out that Debtor's insurance is expiring very soon, and that there is no evidence of Debtor's financial ability to renew its insurance, or an insurer's willingness to do so. In response, Debtor asserts only that it currently has insurance - which is expiring on 5/25/19. See dkt. 138, at PDF p.17, para.27, and Ex.4 at PDF p.33. That is insufficient.

Debtor asserts (dkt. 138, at PDF p.17, para.28) that it is "finalizing" negotiations with prospective purchasers and intends to bring both a motion to sell the hotel property and an application to employ its real estate broker by the time of this hearing on the MTD. Theoretically, a pending sale might be one way of taking care of the insurance issue, because it might be grounds for this Court to find and specifically identify "unusual circumstances" establishing that dismissing this case is not in the best interests of creditors and the estate, if Debtor can establish "a reasonable likelihood that a plan will be confirmed ... within a reasonable period of time" and if Debtor establishes "reasonable justification" for the apparent failure to arrange for future insurance and establishes that insurance will be obtained "within a reasonable period of time fixed by the court." 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(2). Presumably, the method of curing the lack of insurance from 5/25/19 forward would be that the purchaser would pay for that insurance; and presumably the proposed "plan" would be essentially to provide for distributing the proceeds of a sale under 11 U.S.C. 363.

The main problem with all of this is that Debtor is out of time: no application to employ any broker has been filed (let alone approved); and no 363 sale motion has been filed (let alone granted). That application and sale motion cannot reasonably be expected to be filed, served, heard, and granted, and the sale itself cannot be expected to close, all in the next two weeks and three days (before the existing insurance expires on 5/25/19).

Conceivably, Debtor's principal, Ms. Rhonda Chung, might be willing and able to fund the insurance (using funds from her 401(k) retirement account, or some other source, as she has done with some other expenses in the past). But Debtor has not suggested that any such funding is forthcoming; Debtor's principal apparently has not lived up to her commitment to pay real estate taxes (see below) so any mere promise to pay insurance would be inadequate on the present record; and in any event Debtor has not provided any evidence that an insurer is ready, willing, and able to extend future insurance.

For all of these reasons, it appears that this Court has no choice. Congress has directed that this Court "shall" dismiss this case due to "failure to maintain" appropriate insurance. 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(C).

(ii) Taxes, adequate protection payments, losses, and management

Other types of cause for dismissal include failure to pay postpetition taxes, "gross mismanagement," failure to comply with an order of the court, or "substantial or continuing loss to or diminution of the estate and the absence of a reasonable likelihood of rehabilitation." 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(I), (A), (B) & (E). The MTD alleges that Debtor has failed to pay postpetition taxes (see dk. 131, p.3, para.7) and Debtor has not contested that issue (although, as noted above, Debtor's principal had promised to fund tax payments - see tentative ruling for 11/27/18, part "(1)(a)," reproduced below).

The MTD also alleges that Debtor has failed to pay several required "adequate protection" payments to Baker (or its predecessor in interest). See dkt. 131, pp. 4:27-5:16. Again, Debtor has not contested that issue.

As for "gross mismanagement" or "substantial or continuing loss" or "diminution," this Court previously has expressed concerns (both at hearings and in the tentative ruling for 2/5/19, part "(1)(a)," reproduced below). The MTD alleges (dkt. 131, p.4:1-21) that Debtor has lost over $44,000 since this case was filed on 10/14/18, despite approximately $41,000 in cash infusions by Debtor's principal. Again, Debtor has not contested this issue.

True, Debtor has shown a modest amount of improvement recently. In addition, this Court is not persuaded that a sale of property can never be a "rehabilitation" - to the contrary, Debtor alleges that it has engaged in both physical rehabilitation (repairing the premises, installing safety equipment, etc.) and management rehabilitation (terminating management that was embezzling, restoring online booking services, etc.), so the most significant issues appear to be (A) whether there is a "reasonable" likelihood that taxes will be paid and that the (modest) recent progress will offset the prior losses, and (B) whether there is sufficient "justification" (under 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(2)(B)(i)) for prior failure to pay taxes, mismanagement, losses, and failure to comply with the budget approved by this Court's orders.

On the present record, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has not met its burden to provide evidence of those things. Debtor offers no justification for its principal not living up to her commitment to pay real estate taxes or for postpetition mismanagement by current management; and as noted above there is no section 363 sale motion on file, pursuant to which a purchaser might cure that non-payment or, perhaps, cure other issues.

(1) Current issues

(a) Finances (MOR #3, Dec. 2018, dkt. 71; Decl. dkt. 75)

Debtor's recently reported finances are dismal, as noted in the tentative ruling for 1/8/19. It appears that Debtor's occupancy rate is less than half of what was projected (which is itself less than half of available rooms), and that Debtor is failing to pay some franchise fees, utilities, housekeeping expenses, and other items.

Debtor blames outages in its online booking services, but as noted in the limited opposition to extending exclusivity (dkt. 78) filed by First Choice Bank, Debtor's behavior in the face of problems with online booking is puzzling. Why did Debtor not proactively contact the online booking agencies around the time it filed its bankruptcy petition? Why did Debtor not monitor its own finances sufficiently to realize that those agencies had not been paid? Debtor asserts that it was given no advance notice, but that seems highly unusual, so where is evidence of the telephone calls, emails, and letters immediately reacting, objecting to being cut off with no prior notice, and offering immediate payment of any missed bills? This Court takes judicial notice that the booking agencies are large enough to be familiar names, and presumably they have experienced hotel bankruptcies before, so what reasons did they give for their alleged lack of notice and over-reaction? As the bank suggests, the outages in booking were long enough that one would expect Debtor to have made repeated and considerable efforts to resolve the situation, possibly including meetings in person, but there is no evidence of that.

All of the foregoing suggests "gross mismanagement" of the estate, which is one possible basis to dismiss or convert this case. 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(B). The facts recited above also appear to constitute a "substantial" loss or diminution of the estate, and calls into question whether there is a "reasonable likelihood of rehabilitation." 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(A). In addition, these facts call into question whether Debtor will be able to meet the feasibility test for any proposed plan. 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(11).

The parties are directed to address whether this case should be dismissed or converted.

(b) Alleged infusions

There have been promises during this case that cash infusions would be made by Debtor's principal, Rhonda Chung. The Status Report (dkt. 79, p.4:8-21) alludes to some, but the precise dollars amounts are generally unclear, as are the dates, and precisely how those dollars been used. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/12/19 (if this case is not dismissed) for Ms. Chung to file a declaration, with attached evidence, addressing each of these things.

(c) Employment of bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 47, 51, 56, 67, 68, 71)

Have the objections of the United States Trustee (dkt. 51) been resolved?

(c) Motion to Extend Exclusivity Periods (dkt. 73)

(a) Payroll motion (dkt. 5). As noted in this Court's order setting this hearing (dkt. 10), this Court is concerned about whether this is a self-created emergency. In addition, the parties should be prepared to address the jobs of each person who is proposed to be paid (dkt. 7, Ex.6), whether any of them are "insiders" (11 U.S.C. 101(31)), and how they will be paid if the checks do not clear and other sources of revenue do not come through. Subject to adequately addressing those issues, and (1) confirming notice per this Court's order shortening time (dkt. 10), (2) addressing this Court's concerns in that order, and (3) any objections at the hearing, the tentative ruling is to grant this motion.

Docket 33

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

#12.10 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

vs
DEBTOR

Docket 19

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

This Court has reviewed the Motion (dkt. 19), notice (dkt.23), and the other filed documents in this case, and it appears that the parties need to address the following issues.

(1) Who owns the subject property?

From this Court's review of the documents, it is unclear whether Mr. Walter Edgar Poe has passed (there is no evidence of that), whether his estate was properly probated, whether the Water Edgar Poe Living Trust dated 10/23/13 (the "2013 Trust") is the operative trust document, or whether some other document such as the Walter E. Poe Revocable Living Trust dated 2/26/08 (the "2008 Trust") is operative. The 2013 Trust appears to grant an interest in the property to Ms. Kathie Denise Wargo and grants Debtor and his brother, Thomas Allen Poe, $5.00. Dkt. 19 at PDF pp. 29-30. In addition, the Motion includes a copy of a revocation of the 2008 Trust. Dkt. 19 at PDF p.32. But Debtor's Bankruptcy Schedule A/B states that the property went through probate and was transferred into Debtor's name in August 2018. Dkt. 1 at 12. The parties' representations appear to be inconsistent. Should the parties' disputes regarding ownership of the subject property be resolved in Probate Court, another State Court, or this Bankruptcy Court?

(2) Service

Movant has not served Kathie Denise Wargo, who appears to be a beneficiary of the 2013 Trust and the trustee, who entered into the Deed of

Chapter 13

Trust on which the Motion appears to be based (dkt. 19 at PDF p. 15). The tentative ruling is that Ms. Wargo, and any other potential beneficiaries, need to be served.

(3) What relief does the Motion seek?

Is the Movant seeking relief from the automatic stay to return to Probate Court, or some other State Court, to determine who owns the property? Or is the Movant seeking relief from the automatic stay for other remedies against the property, or against Debtor individually, including assertion of any secured or unsecured claim? This Bankruptcy Court is inclined to modify the automatic stay to permit litigation to determine the parties' respective rights in the property, but not to grant any relief that would prejudice the bankruptcy estate or that would evade the priorities for various types of claims established by the Bankruptcy Code.

(4) Conclusion

The tentative ruling is to continue the hearing to 9/10/19 at 10:00 a.m. with a deadline of 8/9/19 for Movant to serve file and serve a supplement to the Motion to address the foregoing issues, and to serve the Motion and Notice of the Continued Hearing on all potential beneficiaries parties.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address whether they will agree to the terms requested by Debtor - no foreclosure sale for 90 days - but with "in rem" relief so that no future bankruptcy case will further delay the creditor's exercise of its remedies (see the debtor's response, dkt. 26, and movant's reply, dkt. 27).

HSBC BANK USA, NATIONAL ASSOC
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 18

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Notwithstanding Debtor's response (dkt. 22), this case has been dismissed so Debtor cannot pay Movant through his chapter 13 plan, and in addition there is no evidence that any proposed payment was feasible. Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed (dkt. 23). That terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In addition, there is no automatic stay because (a) Debtor's prior case (#2:19-bk-12682-NB) was dismissed (on 3/12/19) within one year before this case was filed (on 5/21/19), (b) that dismissal was not under 11 U.S.C. 707(b), and (c) no finding of good faith was timely sought and obtained. 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3) and (j). The automatic stay has terminated both as to Debtor in personam and as to property of Debtor. See In re Hernandez & Jiminez, Case No. 2:11-bk-53730-NB, Dkt 40.

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Docket 18

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as set forth below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

There is no automatic stay

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In addition and in the alternative the tentative ruling is to grant the following relief.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Chapter 7

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is not sufficient evidence and notice.

No prejudice to Debtor intended. Based on the record, it appears that this is a "hijacked" case, and that Debtor is innocent of any involvement. See e.g., In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017) (describing hijacking); In re Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) (same). Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to condition any relief from the automatic stay on this Court's determination that this motion shall not result in the application of sections 109(g)(2) and 362(b)(21)(A) to Debtor or any property other than the property that is the subject of this motion for relief from the automatic stay, and that by not contesting this tentative ruling the movant has waived and forfeited any contrary argument. See In re Leafly, 479 B.R. 545, 550-51 (9th Cir. BAP 2012); In re Mendez, 367 B.R. 109, 116-17 (9th Cir. BAP 2007); In re Luna, 122 B.R. 575, 577 (9th Cir. Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3).

Docket 7

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

Grant the motion under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3) and (j): there is no automatic stay because (a) Debtor's prior case (#2:19-bk-12371-BR) was dismissed (on 5/22/19) within one year before this case was filed (on 5/30/19), (b) that dismissal was not under 11 U.S.C. 707(b), and (c) no finding of good faith was timely sought and obtained. The automatic stay has terminated both as to Debtor in personam and as to property of Debtor. See In re Hernandez & Jiminez, Case No. 2:11-bk-53730-NB, Dkt 40.

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

that eviction be permitted regardless of any future bankruptcy filing for a period of 180 days).

The tentative ruling is to deny that request for lack of service on the persons who executed the documents through which the movant asserts its interest in the property (sometimes referred to in the leasehold context as the "original lessor"). Reasons: See LBR 4001-1(c)(1)(B). In addition, Judge Bason has due process concerns about granting such relief without service on the person(s) whose interests may be most directly affected. See generally Mullane v. Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co., 339 U.S. 306 (1950) (due process generally). In this matter, such persons appear to include: Francisco Rosales. See dkt. 23 at PDF p.13.

Docket 13

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

There is no automatic stay

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In addition and in the alternative, this Court grants the following relief.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is not sufficient evidence and notice.

No prejudice to Debtor intended. Based on the record, it appears that this might be a "hijacked" case, and that Debtor is innocent of any involvement. See e.g., In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017) (describing hijacking); In re Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) (same). Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to condition any relief from the automatic stay on this Court's determination that this motion shall not result in the application of sections 109(g)(2) and 362(b)(21)(A) to Debtor or any property other than the property that is the subject of this motion for relief from the automatic stay, and that by not contesting this tentative ruling the movant has waived and forfeited any contrary argument. See In re Leafly, 479 B.R. 545, 550-51 (9th Cir. BAP 2012); In re Mendez, 367 B.R. 109, 116-17 (9th Cir. BAP 2007); In re Luna, 122 B.R. 575, 577 (9th Cir. BAP 1991); Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261, 270.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1), (d)(2), and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic

Docket 6

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions. Appearances are not required.

Key documents reviewed (other than the motion papers): exhibit #7.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Deny, without prejudice to any other types of relief granted herein (or previously granted), for the following reasons.

The motion requests requests "in rem" relief (i.e., relief applicable notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases (under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and/or In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. #47.00 Cont'd hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]
fr. 7/9/19

MILESTONE FINANCIAL, LLC
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 9

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 7/30/19:

Appearances required. The parties should be prepared to address whether Debtor is current on chapter 13 plan payments and adequate protection payments. See Order (dkt. 25).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 7/9/19:

Grant as provided below, primarily because (1) Debtor has not filed contribution declarations, with evidence of the contributors' willingness and ability to make sufficient contributions to support a feasible chapter 13 plan; (2) Debtor's hope of a refinance appears unrealistic; and (3) given the lack of apparent feasibility of this chapter 13 case, Movant has made a prima facie showing that Debtor and his mother have engaged in nothing more than a "scheme" to "delay" and "hinder" Movant's exercise of its remedies, involving multiple (two) bankruptcies, and alternatively involving a transfer in violation of the loan documents, and therefore "in rem" relief is appropriate. See dkt. 9, 18, 21. Appearances required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Late-filed opposition

The tentative ruling is to excuse the lateness of the opposition papers because it is understandable for Debtor and his mother, having only recently retained present counsel, to need additional time to respond. See dkt. 19.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #3.00 Status conference re: Complaint to deny discharge (11 U.S.C. section 727)

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv. dkt. 8) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 8/13/19 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 5/28/19. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

#5.00 Status Conference re: Complaint to Determine Dischargeability

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

This Court has reviewed the filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The parties should be prepared to address the following issues.

Preliminary issues

- (a) The parties have not filed a joint status report. Why?
- (b) In a prior case (2:11-bk-42321-SK), the parties stipulated to, and the Bankruptcy Court ordered, nondischargeability under 11 U.S.C. 523(a)(4). See adv. dkt. 1, Ex.B. Debtor's Plan (dkt. 24) provides for 100% dividend, and was confirmed (dkt. 29). Based on the foregoing, is there any reason why the parties will not stipulate to a judgment on this complaint (per 11 U.S.C. 1328(a)(4))? The tentative ruling is to set a continued status conference, as set forth below, to give the parties time to file such a stipulation and lodge a proposed order approving the same.

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences (except that that provisions regarding mediation have been omitted because they appear to be unnecessary). (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented.

Chapter 7

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 8/13/19 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 5/28/19. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Discovery cutoff (for completion of discovery): TBD

Expert(s) - deadline for reports: TBD

Expert(s) - discovery cutoff (if different from above): TBD

Dispositive motions to be heard no later than: TBD

Joint Status Report: 9/10/19

Continued status conference: 9/24/19 at 11:00 a.m.

Lodge Joint Proposed Pre-Trial Order: TBD

Pretrial conference: TBD

Deliver trial exhibits to other parties and chambers (2 copies to chambers), including direct testimony by declaration unless excused: TBD (for the format of exhibits and other trial procedures, please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "Trial Practice")

Trial commencement: TBD

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 7/30/19:

Continue to 9/19/19 at 11:00 a.m., with a brief status report due 9/5/19 addressing whether the required settlement payments have been made, and any other issues regarding the parties' settlement (as reported at the status conference on 6/4/19). Appearances are not required on 7/30/19.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 6/4/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

The parties are directed to address why the docket does not reflect any steps to finalize their reported settlement (e.g., a motion in this adversary proceeding to approve a stipulated judgment, and/or if necessary a motion in the bankruptcy case to approve a settlement per Rule 9019, Fed. R. Bankr. P.). This adversary proceeding has been pending since 6/22/18.

Tentative Ruling for 4/30/19:

Continue this status conference to 6/4/19 at 11:00 a.m. so that the parties can document their settlement and obtain any approval of Court that may be necessary or appropriate. See Status Report (adv. dkt. 19). Appearances are not required on 4/30/19.

Tentative Ruling for 3/5/19:

Appearances required.

The parties are directed to address (1) why no status report was filed as required by the adopted 2/5/19 tentative ruling, and (2) whether the parties have scheduled and/or attended mediation.

The tentative ruling is to continue this status conference to 4/9/19 at 11:00 a.m, with a brief status report due by 3/26/19.

Tentative Ruling for 2/5/19:

Continue to 3/5/19 at 11:00 a.m, with a brief status report due by 2/26/19. Although the latest Status Report (adv. dkt. 16) does not address whether the mandatory mediation ordered by this Court has occurred, it appears that more time is needed for mediation. Caution: If the parties do not schedule and attend mediation before the next status conference, this Court may impose sanctions on the recalcitrant party(ies). Appearances are not required on 2/5/19.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 1/8/19:

Continue to 2/5/19 at 11:00 a.m, with a brief status report due by 1/29/19. Appearances are not required on 1/8/19.

The parties have lodged, and this Court has approved, the Order Assigning Matter to Mediation Program and Appointing Mediator and Alternate Mediator (dkt. 11). This Court is not aware of issues that would warrant a status conference at this time.

Tentative Ruling for 11/27/18:

Appearances required, but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

At the hearing on 10/9/18, Defendants did not appear, and this Court was persuaded to take a flexible approach to whether Plaintiff would pursue default judgments, or mediation, or other avenues. The docket does not reflect any activity since that time. Should this status conference be continued? Should this adversary proceeding be dismissed for lack of prosecution?

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 10/9/18:

Appearances required, but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address why neither party has lodged a mediation order (via this Court's "LOU" program) as required by the adopted tentative ruling for 9/4/18. Cf. adv. dkt. 7 (belated request for mediation).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Chapter 7

Tentative Ruling for 9/4/18:

Appearances required. The court has reviewed the filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority. The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? Tentative Ruling for 7/30/19:

Appearances are not required.

Current Issues

(a) Request for Judicial Notice (dkt. 13)

Grant.

(b) Motion for Default Judgment (dkt. 12).

The tentative ruling is to grant the Motion for Default Judgment and find that Plaintiff's state court judgment of $883,858.25, plus post-judgment interest and costs, is not dischargeable under 11 U.S.C. 523(a)(2)(A) and 11 U.S.C. 523(a)(6) as to Debtors. Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 7/30/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current matters

(a) Combined Status Conference

This Status Conference involves two related bankruptcy cases and associated matters: (a) In re Layfield & Barrett, APC, Case No. 2:17-bk-19548-NB ("L&B"); (b) In re Layfield, Case No. 2:18-bk-15829-NB ("Lay-Invol.").

(b) Affeld Grivakes LLP v. Pachulski (Adv. No 19-ap-01028-NB)

Plaintiff filed a notice of lodgment of a mediation order (dkt. 7) but this Court's records do not reflect that any such order was actually lodged.

That order contemplated that the mediation would occur on July 25, 2019. Did it? Is the matter settled, still in mediation, or has mediation concluded without any settlement?

The tentative ruling is to continue the status conference in this adversary proceeding to the same time as the continued status conferences in the main cases (see below), with no written status report required.

(c) Pimental v. Layfield and Affled Grivakes LLP (Adv. No. 19-ap-01069-NB)

This Court has reviewed the status report (dkt. 22) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 8/13/19 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

Additionally, the tentative ruling is to continue the status conference in this Pimental v. Layfield adversary proceeding to 10/1/19 at 2:00 p.m. to be heard in conjunction with the Motion to Dismiss, with no status report required.

(2) Deadlines/dates. The L&B case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 on 8/3/17 and converted to chapter 11 on 8/11/17 (L&B dkt. 25). The Lay-Invol case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 case on 5/21/18 and an order for relief was entered on 12/12/18 (Lay-Invol dkt. 160, 161).

(c) L&B Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD. Do not file or serve until further order of this court.

(d) Continued status conference: The tentative ruling is to continue the status conferences in the L&B and Lay-Invol cases to 10/1/19 at 2:00 p.m., with no written status report required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Tentative Ruling for 6/4/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current matters

(a) Combined Status Conference

This Status Conference involves two related bankruptcy cases: (a) In re Layfield & Barrett, APC, Case No. 2:17-bk-19548-NB ("L&B"); (b) In re Layfield, Case No. 2:18-bk-15829-NB ("Lay-Invol").

(b) Pachulski v. Young, et al (Adv. No. 18-01223) (11 U.S.C. 547)

Based on the Joint Status Report (adv. dkt. 28), this Court finds it appropriate to abate any current deadlines in anticipation of cross-motions for summary judgment. This adversary proceeding will be set for a new status conference on 9/10/19 at 11:00 a.m. with no written status report required.

(c) Affeld Grivakes LLP v. Pachulski (Adv. No 19-1028) (Jewel/Heller issues)

At a prior hearing, the parties discussed the possibility of mediation, but wanted time for discovery, as well as time to address the issues with Mr. Alvarez. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 6/18/19 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

The tentative ruling is also to continue the status conference in this adversary proceeding to the same time as the continued status conferences in the main cases (see below).

(b) Evidentiary Objections (Lay-Invol dkt. 214) to the Declaration of Philip Layfield (Lay-Invol dkt. 207, last two pages)

Sustain the objections except as to Mr. Layfield's alleged intent to appear at certain scheduled meetings of creditors (11 U.S.C. 341(a)). On that issue, his testimony is at least potentially relevant, because his good or bad faith is one of the facts and circumstances that this Court may consider in determining whether to dismiss this case.

Alternatively, the tentative ruling on the merits (see below) would be unchanged even if this Court were to overrule all of the evidentiary objections to Mr. Layfield's declaration.

(b) Motion to Dismiss (Lay-Invol dkt. 207)

Deny for the reasons stated in the Chapter 7 Trustee's Opposition (dkt. 213). See also Joinders (dkt. 215, 216).

perceived conflict involving the Chapter 7 Trustee, his arguments are difficult to follow and both procedurally and substantively deficient. This Court has already rejected Mr. Layfield's challenges to the appointment of the Trustee. See dkt. 149, 183. To the extent that Mr. Layfield raises new allegations, there is no explanation why they were not raised before; there is no citation to the standards for reconsideration (e.g., under Rule 9024, Fed.R.Bankr.P.) nor any attempt to meet those standards; and his vague allegations are conclusory statements of opinion and legal conclusions without supporting facts. See dkt. 207, p.4:11-18 & pp. 11:21-12:5 (referencing In re Adelman, Case No. 2:15-bk-15952-RK). In addition, this Court has reviewed the docket in the Adelman bankruptcy case, including the bankruptcy schedules (id. dkt.84), and is unable to discern any disqualifying facts. See 11 U.S.C. 327(c)(attorney's representation of creditor does not by itself disqualify such person from representing trustee).

Proposed Order: Trustee is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Matters on Calendar Today

(a) Motion for Sale of Property (dkt. 419)

The tentative ruling is to grant the Motion to Sell Units 210 and 220. If the buyer submits a suitable 363(m) declaration, the Court will approve the buyer as a good-faith purchaser.

Proposed Order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(b) Wells Fargo Relief from Stay Motion (dkt. 143)

Based on the above, the tentative ruling is to continue the Relief from Stay Motion to the next status conference date, see below, until the sale is finalized.

(3) Deadlines/dates. The L&B case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 on 8/3/17 and converted to chapter 11 on 8/11/17 (L&B dkt. 25). The Lay-Invol case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 case on 5/21/18 and an order for relief was entered on 12/12/18 (Lay-Invol dkt. 160, 161).

(2) Matters on Calendar Today

(a) Wells Fargo Relief from Stay Motions (dkt. 143, 144)

The parties should be prepared to address whether there has been any new information regarding the sale of Units 210 & 220. If there is no progress with a sale, this Court's tentative ruling would be to grant relief from stay as to Units 210 & 220 due to the diminishing equity cushion (dkt. 143). As Unit 200 has been successfully sold, dkt. 144 is moot.

(3) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 on 8/3/17 and converted to chapter 11 on 8/11/17.

(b) Lay-Invol 341(a) Meeting

The parties should be prepared to address appropriate remedies for Mr. Layfield's failure to appear at the meeting of creditors (11 U.S.C. 341(a)) scheduled for 1/22/19.

(c) Christine Layfield Delaware bankruptcy case

The parties should be prepared to address any effects of the chapter 7 bankruptcy case filed by Mr. Layfield's spouse, as reported by the L&B Chapter 11 Trustee (L&B dkt. 401, p.7). To what extent does the trustee of that bankruptcy estate assert interests in these related cases? Are there discussions regarding any stipulations for relief from the automatic stay, coordination regarding venue of any proceedings, and/or coordinating other matters as between the estates?

(2) Matters on Calendar Today

(a) Motion to Sell 2720 Homestead Rd, Unit 200, Park City Utah (L&B dkt. 391)

The parties should be prepared to address the issues raised by Wells Fargo (L&B dkt. 396) and Toll Creek Owners Association, Inc. (L&B dkt. 397), as well as Movant's reply (L&B dkt. 402). In addition, if the objections are resolved or overruled and the sale goes forward (subject to overbids), the tentative ruling is that any "good faith" finding (11 U.S.C. 363(m)) will require a declaration from any successful bidder that complies with the posted Procedures of Judge Bason:

§ 363(m): "Good Faith" Findings. Supporting declaration(s) should address: (1) connections: the bidder's prior, current, or expected connections with any relevant persons (other bidders, the debtor, major creditors or equity security holders in the case, or any of the debtor's officers, directors, agents, or employees, including whether any offers of employment or compensation have been made or will be offered to debtor's present or former officers, directors, agents, or employees), (2) consideration: whether any consideration is contemplated or has been transferred by the bidder in connection with the sale to any person other than the bankruptcy estate, and (3) absence of fraud or collusion between the bidder and any relevant persons (e.g., other bidders, the debtor's officers, directors, agents or employees), or any attempt to take unfair advantage of other bidders. See generally In re M Capital Corp., 290 B.R. 743, 748-49 (9th Cir. BAP 2003). As used in this paragraph, a "bidder" includes all known prospective bidders.

(b) Wells Fargo Relief from Stay Motions (dkt. 143, 144)

The parties should be prepared to address the issues raised in Wells Fargo's status report (L&B dkt. 399) regarding all of the condominium units. The tentative ruling is to continue the Relief from Stay Motions to 3/5/19 at 2:00 p.m., with a deadline of 2/12/19 for the Trustee to provide Wells Fargo an updated written report describing the listing price(s), showings, and offers for Units 210 and 220. The tentative ruling is also to extend the previously entered orders for filing under seal (L&B dkt. 387, 388) to any brief the parties wish to file in connection with the continued hearing.

(c) Wellgen Standard v. Maximum Legal (17-1503) Status Conference

The parties should be prepared to address the status of the purported settlement of this adversary proceeding.

Appearances required. This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (dkt. 4) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally *Stern v. See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/16/19 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 1/29/19. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Docket 42

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves

(1) Current issues

(a) "First Day Motions" (dkt. 52, 53)

Debtors originally self-calendared their cash collateral motion (dkt. 52) and their budget motion (dkt. 53) for 8/21/19, which is not a day available for self-calendaring. In addition, Debtor's case was converted on 6/18/19 (dkt. 38), which is two months prior to the purported hearing - how could Debtor set these "first day" matters so far out? How can Debtors use cash, which might be subject to asserted liens, without an order approving use of cash collateral? See 11 U.S.C. 363(c). Have Debtors been engaging in transactions out of the "ordinary course" (11 U.S.C. 363(b)) - guarding against such unauthorized transactions is the reason why Judge Bason requires budget motions?

(b) Employment application, Law Offices of Lionel E. Giron (dkt. 50)

The United States Trustee has objected to the employment of the Law Offices of Lionel E. Giron (dkt. 61). The tentative ruling is to set the application for hearing at the same time as the continued status conference below.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 4/10/19 and converted from chapter 13 on 6/18/19.

(a) Bar date: 10/15/19 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 7/30/19:

Continue this Status Conference to 10/15/19 at 1:00 p.m., pursuant to Debtor's request in her Status Report (dkt. 80). Appearances are not required on 7/30/19.

(1) Current issues

(a) Proof of Insurance for Motor Vehicles

Debtor should be prepared to address the status of her proof of insurance for two motor vehicles. See dkt. 52.

(b) Motion of Karl S. Reinecker, An Accountancy Corporation, for Relief from Stay (the "R/S Motion," dkt. 56)

The tentative ruling is to grant the R/S Motion in part, and deny it in part, as follows.

(i) Termination

Modify the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2) such that Movant may proceed with all foreclosure steps, except no foreclosure sale prior to 9/26/19. As a preliminary matter, this Court notes that proceedings on motions for relief from the automatic stay are summary in nature, and this Court is not required to conduct a "mini trial" on any disputed evidentiary issues. See, e.g., In re Veal, 450 B.R. 897 (9th Cir. BAP 2011). On the record presented, this Court's analysis is as follows.

As for insurance, the tentative ruling is that Debtor is persuasive in asserting that the principal value is in the real property, as distinguished from the improvements, and that there is no showing that a $1.5 million policy is insufficient for the latter. On the other hand, as for Debtor's assertion of a TILA violation or other lender liability/defenses, the tentative ruling is that this is insufficient for the reasons stated in Movant's reply (dkt. 66). That leaves what appears to be the key issues: valuation of the property, and the prospects for a quick sale (Debtor admits that she lacks the income for any other type of financial reorganization).

Both parties have weak evidence of value (as addressed further below). But on the record presented the tentative ruling is that Movant has presented sufficient evidence to show on a prima facie basis that its lien more likely than not is underwater and subject to erosion by an increasing senior lien debt (section 362(d)(1)), and therefore is not adequately protected, and alternatively that Debtor lacks an equity in the property and the property is not necessary for an effective reorganization, meaning a financial reorganization (i.e., in this case, a sale of the property) that has a "reasonable" possibility of being successfully accomplished "within a reasonable time." United Sav. Ass'n of Texas v. Timbers of Inwood Forest Assoc's, Ltd., 484 U.S. 365, 375-76 (1988). These issues are addressed further below.

(ii) Section 362(d)(1) and valuation

Movant has presented evidence that the property value is approximately $2,750,000. True, Debtor points out a weakness in Movant's evidence of value: if Movant's evidence is to be believed then the present value leaves its lien far underwater, but there is no evidence of a drastic decline in real estate values or drastic increase in the senior debt after the loan was made in 2016, which suggests that either Movant made a loan in 2016 on very inadequate collateral or else that Movant's current valuation is substantially too low. In addition, this Court notes that Movant's appraisal is an "exterior only" appraisal. See dkt. 56, Ex.4.

But even if Movant's evidence is flawed, the tentative ruling is that it is enough to meet Movant's burden of producing some evidence of "cause" for relief from the automatic stay because it is more likely than not that Movant's lien is being eroded by accruing interest and other charges on unpaid senior liens. The undisputed evidence is that the asserted liens against the property amount to over $3.9 million so, even if Movant's evidence of value is wildly inaccurate, Movant has presented enough evidence to meet its initial burden to show that lacks a sufficient equity cushion (normally a 10% to 20% equity cushion is required for that cushion to constitute adequate protection).

Debtor has attempted to rebut Movant's evidence by presenting her own evidence of a $4.8 million value. But, as Movant points out, Debtor's appraisal (dkt. 65) is as of April 20, 2018, 11 months prior to the bankruptcy petition and over a year before the present date, and it relies on comparable sales from 2017 and 2014. In addition, this Court notes that the adjustments to "comps" (allegedly comparable properties) are generally so large that they call into question the accuracy of Debtor's appraisal. See dkt. 65, Ex.4.B., at PDF pp.8-10.

In other words, the tentative ruling is that Debtor's evidence does not provide sufficient assurance of an equity cushion to overcome Movant's prima facie evidence of cause for relief from stay due to erosion of its interest because of non-payment of the senior lien. Nevertheless, given the weaknesses in Movant's evidence, and given that the apparent erosion of Movant's interest is somewhat gradual relative to the size of the debt at issue, the tentative ruling is that an appropriate form of relief from the automatic stay is to provide Debtor with the period of time set forth at the start of this tentative ruling before any foreclosure can take place. To be clear: Movant will be able to take all steps in preparation for foreclosure prior to that time, but could not actually conduct a foreclosure sale until that date.

(iii) Section 362(d)(2)

The tentative ruling is that Movant has established that Debtor lacks an equity in the property for the same reasons set forth above. As to whether the property is necessary to "effective" reorganization, the evidence is that the property has been on the market for over a year and has not sold. Although Debtor has substantially reduced the asking price, she has not provided evidence of an impending sale or any interested buyers. The tentative ruling is that if a sale is not accomplished within the period set forth at the start of this tentative ruling that would not be "within a reasonable time" as required by Timbers.

Note: The tentative ruling is to overrule Movant's evidentiary objection

(dkt. 67) because it goes to the weight of the evidence and not the admissibility. Also, to the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

(ii) Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Deny, without prejudice to any other types of relief granted herein (or previously granted), for the following reasons.

The motion requests requests "in rem" relief (i.e., relief applicable notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases (under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and/or In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31)). The tentative ruling is to deny that request because Movant has not provided sufficient evidence of bad faith or a scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors comparable to what Congress has set forth in section 362(d)(4) that would justify awarding the requested in rem relief.

(iii) Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

(iv) Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this portion of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Tentative Ruling for 4/30/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves

(1) Current issues

(a) Budget motion

Debtor's status report (dkt. 31, item B.2.) states that a budget motion is not required by the presiding judge. To the contrary, the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) state:

§ 363(b): Budget motions. Required. ... NOTE: Judge Bason requires the use of local forms F 2081-2.2.MOTION.BUDGET and F 2081-2.2.ORDER.BUDGET.

Nevertheless, the tentative ruling is to excuse the lack of a budget motion due to the circumstances of this case (Debtor proposes a 363 sale of her sole property that allegedly has substantial equity; she has almost no income; and she has almost no unsecured creditors).

(b) Transfers to insiders

Debtor's first Monthly Operating Report ("MOR," dkt. 30, p.8, question 2) states that transfers have been made to insiders without appropriate authorization. What are the details?

(c) 363 sale

Debtor's counsel is referred to the posted Procedures of Judge Bason regarding sales under 11 U.S.C. 363(b)&(f).

complied with this Court's orders setting this hearing (dkt. 71, 72). The ballot summary (dkt. 81) shows timely acceptance by Classes 2A, 2B, and 2C, untimely acceptance by Class 2D (the last of the secured claim classes), a lack of any votes by Class 4 (nonpriority unsecured creditors, who are to receive a 30% distribution under the Plan), and votes against the plan by Class 6 (mobile home park tenants, who may receive up to the value of their mobile home, if they hold a valid tenancy, or $2,000 for removing the mobile home). Because not every impaired class has accepted the Plan (paragraph "(8)" of 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)), Debtor must satisfy the requirements for "cramdown" under subsection "(b)" of 11 U.S.C. 1129, as well as the other requirements of subsection "(a)."

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has done so. Cramdown requires, among other things, that a plan be "fair and equitable" and not "discriminate unfairly" as to non-accepting impaired classes. 11 U.S.C. 1129(b).

None of the non-accepting classes have filed any objections to confirmation of the Plan or final approval of the adequacy of the Disclosure Statement. The treatment of Class 2D is justified by its belated acceptance of the Plan. The treatment of Class 4 appears to be justified by the legal requirement to pay secured creditors ahead of unsecured creditors, the "new value" contribution of Debtor's principal, and Debtor's cash flow projections. The treatment of Class 6 appears to be justified by Debtor's disclosure of its legal theory for displacing the mobile home park tenants, and the absence of any contrary arguments or authority. See Disclosure Statement, Exhibit "I" (dkt. 68 at PDF pp.22-24).

The final requirement is the other elements of 11 U.S.C. 1129(a). Those appear to have been satisfied, both by Debtor's use of this Court's form of plan and disclosure statement and by the data included when Debtor completed those forms.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling for 3/26/19, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B). In addition, the proposed order must include the language required by Local Rule 3020-1(b), including a post-confirmation status conference as set forth below.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 5/15/18.

(a) Bar date: 8/14/18 (dkt. 35), timely served (dkt. 38).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement (dkt. 68, 69)*: See above.

(c) Post-confirmation status conference: 7/9/19 at 1:00 p.m. Status report due 6/25/19.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Tentative Ruling for 12/11/18:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues.

(a) Plan (dkt. 64, the "Plan") and disclosure statement (dkt. 63, the "D/S")

It appears that counsel for Debtor has manually altered the spreadsheets, which defeats the purpose of having automatic (reliable) calculations in the spreadsheets. In addition, it appears that the Plan periods in Ex.A are "1" month and 13 months later (month "14"), whereas on Ex.C Period A is 3 months, Period B is 1 month, and Period C is 6 months, which does not match. In addition, the Effective Date (e.g., on Ex.A & Ex. C) should be revised to a date that is at least two weeks after the combined hearing on the plan and D/S set forth below.

Subject to correction of these issues, the tentative ruling is to conditionally approve the disclosure statement and authorize service of the voting package, all as set forth below.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 5/15/18.

(a) Bar date: 8/14/18 (dkt. 35), timely served (dkt. 38).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement (dkt. 64,63)*: 12/18/18 deadline (i) to file (NOT SERVE - except on the U.S. Trustee) any redlined revisions to be discussed at the status conference and (ii) to lodge Judge Bason's form of order authorizing service of the voting package, setting deadlines, and setting a combined hearing on final approval of the Disclosure Statement and confirmation of the Plan for the same time as the continued status conference. The proposed order should be modified so that the voting package includes Mr. Starflinger's declaration (dkt. 65).

Note: If the U.S. Trustee wishes to file initial comments on any draft Plan documents before the regular deadline, it should do so at least two weeks prior to the subsequent status conference (but, whether or not any comments are filed, all rights are reserved to object to the Disclosure Statement or Plan when deadline(s) for such objections are established).

(c) Continued status conference: 3/12/19 at 1:00 p.m. No status report required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 7/30/19:

Grant the UST's Motion to Dismiss or Convert (dkt. 180), provided that for the reasons stated by the IRS (dkt. 184) and Debtor (dkt. 185) the tentative ruling is to dismiss this case rather than convert it. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: The United States Trustee is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

Debtor is directed to provide an oral status report regarding the status of the IRS payment and the final decree.

The tentative ruling is to continue this status conference to 6/18/19 at 1:00 p.m., with no written status report required, and with the expectation that it might go off calendar if a final decree has been issued by then.

Tentative Ruling for 9/18/18:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues. This status conference was continued from 8/18/18 to 9/18/18 (dkt.142). Based on recent docket activity, this Court is aware of the following issues.

(a) Dispute with State Compensation Insurance Fund (dkt. 145-156, 158, 159). Has this matter been resolved? Perhaps so, because the Status Report (dkt. 170) does not mention it. If not, what is the status of the parties' disputes?

(b) Final decree (dkt. 141, 151). The Status Report (dkt. 170) projects filing another motion by 12/31/18, so the tentative ruling is to continue this post-confirmation Status Conference to 12/18/18 at 1:00 p.m., with no written status report required and with the expectation that it might go off calendar if a motion for a final decree has been filed by then.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 7/30/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current Issues

(a) Koi Design v. SPI (Adv. No. 2:19-ap-01135-NB), Status Conference

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv. dkt. 12) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The tentative ruling is to continue this status conference to the date below to be held at the same time as the continued status conference in the main case.

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(i) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014)

(authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(ii) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 8/13/19 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(iii) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 5/7/19. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Discovery cutoff (for completion of discovery): 11/29/19.

Expert(s) - deadline for reports: 11/5/19

Expert(s) - discovery cutoff (if different from above): 11/19/19

Pretrial conference: TBD

Deliver trial exhibits to other parties and chambers (2 copies to chambers), including direct testimony by declaration unless excused: TBD (for the format of exhibits and other trial procedures, please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "Trial Practice")

Tentative Ruling for 6/11/19

Appearances are not required.

(1) Current Issues

(a) Motion to Extend Exclusivity Period (dkt. 180)

The tentative ruling is to grant the Motion and extend the exclusivity deadline to file a chapter 11 plan to 8/23/19 and the deadline to obtain acceptance of that plan to 10/22/19.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order on the foregoing motion via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, subject to any modifications on the record at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Tentative Ruling for 5/14/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's Objection and Motion to Strike ("Motion to Strike," dkt. 175) Request for Judicial Notice by Strategic Partners, Inc. ("Strategic," dkt. 161)

Deny. This Court can take judicial notice of the Magistrate Judge's report and recommendation for the limited purpose of showing that there is a substantial risk that Debtor will have a substantial debt to Strategic. That issue is relevant to the purposes, risks, and benefits of Debtor's proposed financing.

(b) Motion for Authority to Obtain Credit (dkt. 129, the "DIP Financing Motion")

Grant the DIP Financing Motion on a final basis on the same terms as set forth in the interim order (dkt. 159), and overrule Strategic's supplemental objection (dkt. 168), for the reasons set forth in Debtor's supplemental reply (dkt. 174) at pp. 3:6-5:13 & nn. 4 & 5, and based on this Court's review of Debtor's projected budget (dkt. 151, Ex.A) and Debtor's postpetition financial performance (e.g., dkt. 146). The tentative ruling is that the proposed financing has been shown to be appropriate under the statutory standards (11 U.S.C. 364(d)) and that Debtor has met its burden to show adequate protection of Strategic's interests in property of the bankruptcy estate (id.).

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this latest tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final final basis, on the same terms as in the interim order (dkt. 29).

(b) Motion for Authority to Obtain Credit (dkt. 129, the "DIP Motion")

(c) Cash Management Motion (dkt. 6)

Subject to an update from Debtor and, if they elect to appear, counsel for the United States Trustee, regarding the adequacy of Debtor's cash management procedures, the tentative ruling is to grant this motion on a final basis, on the same terms as in the interim order (dkt. 27).

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 1/25/19.

(a) Bar date: 5/17/19 (dkt. 65). Note: This Court's order setting the bar date (dkt. 65) directed Debtor to serve that order on all parties in interest no later than 2/22/19. Debtor's proof of service (dkt. 82) is deficient.

First, the declarant alleges (dkt. 82, pp.1:25-2:3) that someone else (an unnamed person) served the order. That is inadequate: a declaration of service must be based on personal knowledge.

Second, it appears that the person who served the order was someone employed by Debtor. Traditionally, service must be verified by someone who is "not a party" (see Rule 7004(a)(1), Fed. R. Bankr. P.), and Debtor has not cited any authority that the rule is different in bankruptcy cases.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/4/19 for Debtor's counsel to re-serve the bar date order and file a proof of service that complies with the applicable rules. (This Court recognizes that this second notice of the bar date will not be received until closer to that bar date, but in the circumstances that appears to be appropriate.)

(b) Order setting principal status conference. The same deficiencies apply to the purported proof of service (dkt. 53) of this Court's order (dkt. 38) setting this principal status conference.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/4/19 for Debtor's counsel to re-serve the principal status conference order and file a proof of service that complies with the applicable rules. (This Court recognizes that this second service of the principal status conference order will occur after the principal status conference; but in the circumstances that appears to be appropriate because that order provides official notice of important matters, such as notice that this Court can issue case-dispositive orders at any status conference.)

- (c) Proofs of service generally. In addition to the foregoing, Debtor's counsel are encouraged to redouble their efforts to provide accurate proofs of service. Chapter 11

Tentative Ruling for 6/4/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Application to employ real estate broker (dkt. 164)

Subject to an adequate explanation regarding the value/price discrepancy for the Atlantic Blvd. Property (see Cathay Bank Obj., dkt. 243, at pp.6:25-7:6), the tentative ruling is to grant the application to employ real estate broker. The tentative ruling is to overrule Cathay Bank's other objections.

(i) Alleged lack of disinterestedness

Although Cathay Bank's supplemental opposition (dkt. 243) argues that the proposed broker, Standard Mortgage, Inc. dba Standard Realty ("Broker") is not "disinterested," and therefore is not eligible for employment under 11 U.S.C. 327(a), the tentative ruling is that this objection is not persuasive. True, an independent contractor with Broker, Mr. Akbari (who previously stated that he was an "employee" of Broker), is married to the sister of the wife of one of Debtor's officers/control persons. Cathay Bank cites authority that, under California law, being a brother-in-law is equivalent to being a brother, so the tentative ruling is that Mr. Akbari is a "relative" of an "officer" or "person in control" of Debtor and therefore he is an "insider." See 11 U.S.C. 101(45) (a "relative" means an "individual related by affinity or consanguinity within the third degree as determined by the common law"); 101(31)(B)(vi) (insider includes a "relative of a ... officer, or person in control of the debtor"). But that does not mean that Broker is an insider.

It also appears to be true that Debtor has not been as forthcoming with the connections between Broker and Debtor as would have been advisable, including both the familial relationships noted above and the recent discovery that Mr. Akbari "was the listing agent on the Cabrillo Street Property (during the nunc pro tunc timeframe in which the Broker is sought to be employed)" Cathay Bank Obj. dkt. 243, p.3:4-6 & Warrington Decl., Ex.1. Finally, as noted in the tentative ruling for 5/21/19, part (1)(b) (reproduced below), the statutory list of insiders "includes" but is not limited to the listed examples (see 11 U.S.C. 102(3)) and in addition this Court notes that a professional must be not only "disinterested" but also must not "hold or represent an interest adverse to the estate." 11 U.S.C. 327(a).

But the tentative ruling is that the facts recited above do not disqualify Broker from employment. A different real estate agent will be handling this matter (Mr. Ahmadi, dkt. 234); there is no evidence that Mr. Ahmadi or Broker itself has any incentive to act in any way adverse to the bankruptcy estate; and the failures to provide disclosure of every arguable "connection" between Broker and Debtor (within the meaning of Rule 2014, Fed. R. Bankr. P.) is unfortunate but understandable given the attenuated nature of the connections (Debtor's officer's wife's sister's husband originally was the listing agent for Broker on one of the four properties to be sold).

(ii) Alleged issues with 4.5% commission

Cathay Bank argues that Debtor has failed to justify a 4.5% commission; but to the contrary, the tentative ruling is that in general this Court should give deference to Debtor's business judgment, and that even without such deference Debtor has provided sufficient evidence that a 4.5% commission is appropriate (see dkt. 234) (Declaration regarding typical commission for commercial properties being 4-6%, and for residential properties 5-6%). Cathay Bank has provided no evidence to the contrary. Nor has Cathay Bank cited authority that Debtors are required to "shop around" for the lowest commission (which might not be the best broker) prior to selecting a broker, especially given that the proposed Broker has agreed to a slightly reduced commission from what is typical (see id. at 3).

(iii) Alleged lack of qualifications re industrial property

The tentative ruling is that although there may be conceptual differences between "industrial" and "commercial" properties, Cathay Bank has not established that any such difference is meaningful in the context of this case and the properties at issue.

(iv) Conclusion as to Broker

The tentative ruling is to grant the application and authorize Broker's employment subject, again, to an adequate explanation regarding the value/price discrepancy for the Atlantic Blvd. Property. See Cathay Bank Obj., dkt. 243, at pp.6:25-7:6.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this portion of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Tentative Ruling for 5/21/19:

Appearances are not required on 5/21/19.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's counsel's fee application (dkt. 175, 177)
Allow $145,683.50 in fees and $5,714.10 in expenses for a total of $151,397.50, and authorize draw down of the retainer ($124,846.70 remaining), with the balance of the fees and expenses to paid from the estate.

Cathay Bank's response (dkt. 207) does not object to allowance of the fees but seeks to reserve all rights it might have regarding a purported lien on some of the retainer. Debtor's reply (dkt. 215) asserts that the bank has no such rights to reserve because it has been given a replacement lien on the real estate.

This Court's recollection is that the bank did not entirely waive such rights at the hearing on 5/7/19, but did indicate that it was no more going to seek disgorgement from Debtor's firm (of authorized postpetition distributions from the retainer account) than it would seek disgorgement from one of Debtor's utilities (of authorized postpetition utility payments). In any event, whatever the parties' interpretations of the representations on 5/7/19, the issue is too remote for either party to be expending any substantial attorney fees on it at this time.

Cathay Bank has its security interest in the accounts receivable that existed as of the petition date, and it has replacement liens in ongoing accounts receivable. Debtor believes the bank will be paid in full out of those things. But as adequate protection (11 U.S.C. 361, 363(e) & 552(b)) the bank has replacement liens in Debtor's real estate - to cover both (i) any diminution in the value of its security interest in the accounts receivable as of the petition date and (ii) any diminution in the value of its purported security interest in the retainer as of the petition date. Therefore the bank's and Debtor's rights are both reserved, and neither party should be spending much time on this issue. Any attorney fees spent arguing about this issue are subject to this Court's review for reasonableness (under 11 U.S.C. 330 and 331 for Debtor's counsel, and under 11 U.S.C. 506(b) for Cathay Bank's counsel).

(b) Application to employ real estate broker (dkt. 164)

The tentative ruling is, with one exception, to overrule the objection of Cathay Bank (dkt. 199), based on Debtor's reply (dkt. 214). The exception is that, although Debtor has presented evidence of the reasonableness of the broker's proposed commission and experience, and this Court generally should defer to Debtor's business judgment, Cathay Bank makes a good point that the real estate at issue ranges broadly from a single family residence to commercial property etc., and there is insufficient evidence of the proposed broker's specific experience as to each type of real estate. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 5/24/19 for Debtor to file and serve a supplemental declaration detailing such experience, with a deadline of 5/29/19 for any supplemental objection by Cathay Bank, and a continued hearing (if there is any such objection) concurrent with the continued status conference (see below).

As for disinterestedness (11 U.S.C. 101(14), 327(a)), Cathay Bank argues that the broker is not disinterested because, from the information on the docket, it appears that one of its alleged employees (Mr. Akbari) is a relative by marriage of one of Debtor's principals, and the principals are beneficiaries of a trust that engaged in prepetition transactions with Debtor that, according to the bank, violated Debtor's covenants with the bank. On the one hand, it is true that Mr. Akbari previously declared that he was "employed" by the broker (dkt. 77, p.1:22).

On the other hand, this Court interprets that as an (unfortunately) imprecise description of his arrangement as an independent contractor. Alternatively, even if he is an employee, this Court is not persuaded that this disqualifies the broker from employment by the estate.

Mr. Akbari apparently is married to the sister of the wife of one of Debtor's officers/control persons. The tentative ruling is that this makes him related "by affinity or consanguinity" within the fourth degree (1.officer - 2.spouse - 3.sister of spouse - 4.Mr. Akbari), so he is not a "relative" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 101(45) and therefore he is not an "insider" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 101(31)(B)(vi) or (E). That is not dispositive, because, the statutory list of insiders "includes" but is not limited to the listed examples. See 11 U.S.C. 102(3). But the tentative ruling is that the connection has been sufficiently disclosed (Rule 2014, Fed. R. Bankr. P.) and is not disqualifying.

In practical terms, this Court does not perceive that any alleged ties between the proposed real estate broker and Debtor's principal creates any incentive to lessen the price obtained for the real estate, or otherwise prejudice the interests of the bankruptcy estate. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to approve the employment, subject to satisfactory supplemental evidence as set forth above.

Chapter 11

Revised Tentative Ruling for 5/7/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Employment of bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 83)

The tentative ruling is to authorize Debtor's bankruptcy counsel (whose employment has already been approved except for the retainer issue), to draw down on the retainer as otherwise permitted (e.g., after allowance of fees in the forthcoming interim fee application), without deciding at this time whether Cathay Bank does or does not have a traceable security interest in the retainer. Instead the tentative ruling is to grant the Bank a replacement lien, in the full amount of the Bank's disputed lien on the retainer, on Debtor's real estate (to the extent, if any, that the Bank's existing replacement lien does not already apply). That replacement lien would be subject to the same limitations on validity, priority, and amount as this Court has ordered with respect to cash collateral (see dkt. 71).

Reasons: Given the Bank's current debt of approximately $3.1 million (see dkt. 156, p.5:15-21), and the equity in the real estate of approximately $4 million (see id., p.6:4-11), such a replacement lien appears fully sufficient to provide adequate protection. Meanwhile, any further litigation over the retainer issue appears unnecessary and potentially wasteful and distracting from the other, important issues in this bankruptcy case.

(b) Continued use of cash collateral (dkt. 156)

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not sufficiently justified its proposed expenditures under the line item for "Professional Fees (Legal, Accounting)." The tentative ruling is to grant the motion for use of cash collateral, through 8/18/19, except that professional fees must be limited, and the tentative ruling is to set a limit of paying not more than $15,000 per week without further authorization of this Court. (To be clear: if Debtor in its business judgment believes that it must incur more than that amount of professional fees, it may do so, subject to the usual limits on reasonableness of fees, billing judgment, and business judgment - what is limited by this tentative ruling is use of cash collateral, not incurring fees.)

(c) Cathay Bank's adequate protection: replacement liens v. cash payments

The tentative ruling is to deny the Bank's request for interim payments. It is already adequately protected by the protections on the terms of this Court's prior orders and the additional protections set forth above.

(a) Bar date: 6/17/19 (timely served, dkt. 129).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: file by 6/30/19 using the forms required by Judge Bason (DO NOT SERVE yet, except on the U.S. Trustee - this Court will set a deadline and procedures at a later time).

(c) Continued status conference: 6/11/19 at 2:00 p.m., no status report required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Tentative Ruling for 5/7/19:

This Court anticipates posting a tentative ruling at a later time.

Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

Appearances required. This status conference has been set pursuant to this Court's order (dkt. 4) and notice thereof (dkt. 75), pursuant to which status conferences are held concurrent with any other calendared proceeding.

(1) Current issues

(a) Employment of bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 83)

Debtor is directed to address the issues raised in Cathay Bank's opposition (dkt. 117) (source of retainer; non-consent to use of cash collateral or carve-out; and objection to any Knudsen procedure). In addition, the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov)

state that counsel must file local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF and also state:

Note: the judge prefers that local form F 2014-1 not repeat the employment application – instead simply say "see application" or the like (reasons: proposed professionals frequently do not track the language of Rule 2014, so the judge requires use of the form so that someone verifies the elements of that rule under penalty of perjury, and so the court staff does not have to do a line-by-line comparison with each element of the Rule).

(b) Employment of special counsel, employment issues (dkt. 113)

See above re local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF.

(c) Employment of BidMed LLC as asset liquidation broker (dkt. 134)

See above re local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF.

In addition, although this employment application is not on for hearing at this time, Debtor and all parties in interest should be aware that Judge Bason has in the past disapproved buyer's premiums. See the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) which provide in part that any order authorizing such employment typically will include a provision stating, "no buyer's premium" for auctioneers. This should not be interpreted as making any economic change in the compensation arrangement - the auctioneer and Debtor can adjust what is paid by Debtor such that the net compensation is the same - but the tentative ruling is that this is required both as a matter of disclosure (of what the professional is charging out of property of the estate or the proceeds of such property) and as a matter of disinterestedness (not being paid by both parties, but only by Debtor).

Tentative Ruling for 3/12/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion to use prepetition bank accounts (dkt. 12)

Grant on a final basis, on the same terms as the interim order (dkt. 55).

(b) Utility motion (dkt. 25)

Grant on a final basis, on the same terms as the interim order (dkt. 54).

(c) Cash collateral motion (dkt. 13)

Grant on a final basis, on the same terms as the interim order (dkt. 71), except that after review of the parties' briefs (dkt. 76, 78) and the other documents and records before this Court, the tentative ruling is as follows:

(i) Real estate: Continue Cathay Bank's replacement lien on all of Debtor's real properties (subject to adjustment as set forth below).

(ii) Books and records: Grant access to Debtor's historical books and records, and all documents used to create the cash collateral budget and the chart summarizing collateral values, with such access starting on 3/18/19, for Cathay Bank's forensic accountant, James Crossland, to inspect and copy (including copying hard drives), during normal business hours. Such access must be subject to whatever Non-Disclosure Agreement, redaction, or other safeguards as may be necessary or appropriate to protect employees' privacy, attorney-client communications, Debtor's trade secrets, etc. The parties are directed to meet and confer on those issues, and the parties are also directed to review the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) regarding discovery disputes.

(iii) Reporting: Require Debtor to file and serve reconciliations, 10 days in arrears on Wednesday of each week (i.e., covering the week that ended 10 days prior), comparing actual results with budgeted results, and calculating variances against budgeted and actual receipts and expenditures.

(iv) CDs: The tentative ruling is that Cathay Bank need not apply any CDs to the extent that they are collateral for standby letters of credit for any liability to workers' compensation insurers. But the parties are directed to address whether there are any other CDs at issue, and why, as a condition for the other adequate protection being granted to Cathay Bank, it should not be required to apply such other CDs against the loans for which they are collateral, so as to stop accruing interest or other charges adverse to Debtor and the bankruptcy estate.

The tentative ruling is to deny Cathay Bank's request for additional adequate protection in the form of monthly payments of interest. Debtor is liquidating much of its business, which creates a situation in which both assets and cash flow are somewhat uncertain. That uncertainty favors granting the Bank the additional adequate protection set forth above; but it also means that Debtor may have urgent needs to use cash for legitimate purposes other than interest payments to the Bank.

The tentative ruling is that all of the foregoing is subject to being revisited as the facts and circumstances develop. For example, if Debtor turns out to have success in collecting the proportion of accounts receivable that it predicts, it might be appropriate to find that Cathay Bank is adequately protected by a lien on less than all of Debtor's remaining real estate. Likewise, if Debtor pays down some of its debt to Cathay Bank through sales of some real property, that might reduce the need for the replacement liens to be as extensive as contemplated by this tentative ruling.

Conversely, if Debtor's accounts receivable appear to be less valuable than predicted by Debtor then Cathay Bank might need every bit of the replacement liens in Debtor's real property and all other assets (except avoidance actions etc.). Ironically, the more dire Debtor's finances, and the greater the risk of administrative insolvency, the stronger the argument that even if the Bank were free to foreclose it would have to pay someone to liquidate Debtor's assets in an orderly fashion (11 U.S.C. 506(c)), and in any event the "equities of the case" might warrant a carve-out for professionals (11 U.S.C. 552(b)). But those are issues that can be addressed when and if there is any need to do so.

The tentative ruling regarding Cathay Bank's evidentiary objections and due process objections (dkt. 78) is that, if this Court adopts the foregoing tentative ruling (granting replacement liens in essentially all of Debtor's assets), then those objections should be overruled because (x) Cathay Bank cannot be granted a replacement lien in greater than "all" of Debtor's assets, so to a large extent the value of those assets is irrelevant, and (y) whatever weaknesses may exist in Debtor's valuation evidence, there is enough to establish on a prima facie basis a reasonably probability that Cathay Bank is sufficiently over-secured to provide it with a substantial equity cushion, which is one form of adequate protection, and that is sufficient for present purposes.

As for the alleged costs of selling property subject to Cathay Bank's replacement liens, this Court can assess for each proposed sale whether Debtor's proposed use of the proceeds is consistent with adequate protection, and whether Cathay Bank is unreasonably withholding its consent under 11 U.S.C. 363(f)(2). In addition, all parties in interest are directed to the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) regarding 363 sales.

(d) Motion to reject collective bargaining agreements (dkt. 62) (the "1113 Motion")

Debtor seeks relief without a hearing, on 14 days' notice (so called "negative notice," or a "scream or die procedure"). But it appears that an actual hearing is required, and must be held quickly, under 11 U.S.C. 1113(d) (1) ("Upon the filing of an application for rejection the court shall schedule a hearing to be held not later than fourteen days after the date of the filing of such application," although "[t]he court may extend the time for the commencement of such hearing for a period not exceeding seven days where the circumstances of the case, and the interest of justice require such extension, or for additional periods of time to which the trustee and [employee's] representative agree.").

The 1113 Motion was filed on 3/1/19. The tentative ruling is to find that granting a short extension is warranted, based on the apparent lack of prejudice from doing so, and that a hearing should be held either on 3/21/19 at 1:00 p.m. or, if the representatives of the various employee groups will consent, concurrent with the continued status conference (see below). Debtor is directed to address what efforts have been made to obtain the consent of any representative who is not present at the hearing. The tentative ruling is that Debtor must file and serve notice of the hearing date on all representatives (and other parties requiring notice) no later than 3/13/19.

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Tentative Ruling for 2/28/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

The tentative ruling, subject to any oppositions at the hearing (pursuant to the orders shortening time) is to grant the following relief and to find that, to the extent relief is granted pursuant to Rules 4001(b)(2) and 6003 (Fed. (1) Current issues

(a) Motion to limit notice (dkt. 8)

Grant in substantial part, subject to certain modifications to be addressed at the hearing. Among other things, this Court anticipates that, because the motion was not served on the entire creditor matrix, any party who was not served may seek reconsideration without meeting the usual standards under Rules 9023, 9024 or 52(b) (Fed. Debtor is directed to work closely with the Office of the United States Trustee to develop and implement such procedures.

(e) Cash collateral motion (dkt. 13)

(f) Motion to reject unexpired leases (dkt. 24)

Grant, except that Debtor seeks rejection effective as of 2/20/19 and, although there is some authority for retroactive rejection (see, e.g., In re At Home Corp., 392 F.3d 1064 (9th Cir. 2004)), Debtor has not addressed the types of considerations that would determine whether retroactive rejection is appropriate (e.g., were the premises vacated as of 2/20/19? when were the landlords given notice that the premises would be or were vacant? were the premises left in "broom clean" condition?). Debtor is directed to address those issues at the hearing.

(g) Utility motion (dkt. 25)

Grant on an interim basis, subject to any opposition at the hearing, with a final hearing to take place at the same time as the continued status conference (see below) and a deadline of 3/1/19 for Debtor to file and serve a notice of the final hearing.

The Driver Creditors object to the Plan's proposal to pay Mr. Wallace, the sole officer of the Debtor, an administrative claim in the total of $97,766.90. Dkt. 335. The Driver Creditors object that $10,000 per month compensation is not justified for a liquidating and non-operating business. The tentative ruling is to overrule that objection because (i) the Driver Creditors did not object (until now, approximately one year later) to Debtor's Notice of Insider Compensation (the "Notice") detailing Mr. Wallace's compensation on November 17, 2017 (dkt. 354) (see LBR 2014-1(a)(3)) and (ii) Debtor's Opposition and Mr. Wallace's declaration (dkt. 354) adequately support the compensation.

(a) Plan and Disclosure Statement

Approve the disclosures in the Disclosure Statement on a final basis (11 U.S.C. 1125), and confirm the Plan (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)&(b)), for the reasons set forth in Debtor's Brief in Support of Confirmation. The plan proponents are directed to lodge a proposed order within seven days after this hearing, which should include a paragraph setting a post-confirmation status conference (on the date set forth below) and include language substantially in the form required by LBR 3020-1(b).

Tentative Ruling for 9/21/18:

Appearances required. This Court has reviewed the transcript that orally memorializes the principal parties' settlement. See Tr. 9/7/18 (dkt. 295), pp. 3:16-15:18 & 30:1-4 (the "Main Settlement"). The parties should be prepared to address the following issues.

(1) Settlement documentation. What documents are being prepared to implement the Main Settlement (e.g., the form of notice to the Truck Drivers, including their election whether to return the trucks and their agreement to mutual releases)? What is the status of that preparation? Will the notice to the Truck Drivers need to be in any languages other than English and Spanish? What steps can be taken before the documentation is finalized, and conversely what steps should wait until the documents are finalized?

(2) Secured/unsecured Truck Drivers. How do the parties propose to address what portion of the distributions from the bankruptcy estate should be allocated to the secured claims of certain Truck Drivers, and what remainder should be allocated to unsecured claims? Is that issue deferred until a proposed chapter 11 plan? If so, how will the possible effects of various secured claim amounts be adequately explained to the Truck Drivers who will be asked to consent to the Main Settlement? Conversely, if the parties have a proposed settlement as to the allowed dollar amount of these secured claims, what are the proposed terms of that additional settlement (the "Secured Driver Claims Settlement")?

(3) Procedures. What procedures should apply to the Main Settlement and any Secured Driver Claims Settlement (or litigation)? For example, is another Rule 9019 motion advisable (or necessary)? Should this Court find and conclude, under Rule 2002(a)(3), Fed. R. Bankr. P., that some sort of supplemental notice and opportunity to object (and overbid?) is sufficient, given that notice has already been provided of the basic issues and standards governing settlement? See dkt. 36 (settlement motion) and dkt. 122 (priorities/secured claims motion).

Whatever further procedures are required, should different sets of documents be provided to (a) the Truck Drivers (holding both secured and unsecured claims) and (b) other creditors (holding both secured and unsecured claims)? Should all creditors, including the Truck Drivers, receive a complete set of settlement documentation, or is that an undue expense? Is it sufficient for such documents to be available upon request? Should any cover letter/notice be translated, but not the underlying documentation (to save expense)?

(4) Calendaring. Is it appropriate (a) to continue the status conference and settlement motion (dkt. 19) for a relatively brief time, so that the parties can prepare the settlement documentation for review by this Court prior to mailing, and (b) take off calendar (without prejudice) all other matters that have been set for hearing today, including the overbid procedures motion (dkt. 149)?

Tentative Ruling for 8/7/18:

Continue as stated below. No appearances required on 8/7/18.

(1) Current issues. This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (dkt. 262) and other relevant pleadings in this case.

(a) Bid Procedures Motion (dkt. 149). The tentative ruling is to defer ruling on this until after resolution of the discovery dispute and continue the hearing to a date and time to be set at the continued status conference set forth below.

(b) Motion to Approve Compromise (dkt. 36). The tentative ruling is to defer ruling on this until after resolution of the discovery dispute and continue the hearing to a date and time to be set at the continued status conference set forth below.

(c) Motion to Determine Extent & Priority of Truck Drivers' Liens (dkt. 122). The tentative ruling is to defer ruling on this until after resolution of the motion to disqualify and continue the hearing to a date and time to be set at the continued status conference set forth below.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 11/6/17.

(a) Bar date: 3/16/18 (order timely served, dkt. 43, 46).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD.

(c) Continued status conference: 9/4/18 at 2:00 p.m. No status report required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Chapter 11

(1) Current issues.

(a) Debtor's Motion to Extend Time to Assume or Reject Lease (dkt. 139). Debtor seeks an extension of time to assume or reject its lease of commercial real property located at 2727 E. Del Amo Blvd., Rancho Dominguez, CA 90221 (the "Property") with Joe Murez Exempt Trust ("JMET" or "Landlord") through June 4, 2018. But in connection with Landlord's currently motion (dkt. 184, see discussion below), the debtor concedes that there are incurable defaults that prevent it from assuming the lease and states that it intends to vacate and surrender the Property by May 31, 2018 (dkt. 197, PDF p. 7, lines 17-19 & Wallace Declaration, paragraph 14). Additionally, on May 7, 2018, debtor served its subtenants with 30-day notices to terminate rental agreement with an expiration date of June 6, 2018 (id., Ex. A).

In Landlord's motion (dkt. 184, see discussion below), it seeks possession of the Property effective as of June 5, 2018 and appears to have consented to an extension through that time (see dkt. 184, PDF p. 4, lines 26-27).

The tentative ruling is to grant the debtor's motion and extend the deadline to assume or reject the lease to May 31, 2018. The effects of that date on the subtenants and the Landlord are addressed below.

(b) Landlord's Motion for Administrative Claim and Possession of Property (dkt. 184).

(i) Base rent, late fees, interest, CAM, taxes, attorneys' fees and costs. Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 365(d)(3), Landlord is entitled to an allowed administrative expense for the full amount of rent accrued during the period following the order for relief through the lease rejection, regardless of the actual value conferred by the lease upon the estate. See Pacific-Atlantic Trading Company, 27 F.3d 401 (9th Cir. 1994); In re Cukierman, 265 F.3d 846 (9th Cir. 2001). Section 365(d)(3) requires immediate payment of lease obligations so that the landlord is not left providing uncompensated services. In re Cukierman, 265 F.3d at 851-52.

In this case, Paragraph 4.1 of the Lease provides: "All monetary obligations of Lessee to Lessor under the terms of this Lease (except for the Security Deposit) are deemed to be Rent." Pursuant to paragraphs 1.5, 4.3, 10.2, 13.4, 13.5, and 31, Landlord is entitled to an allowed administrative expense for payment of base rent, late fees, interest, CAM, taxes, and attorneys' fees and costs. On the record before this Court, Landlord holds an estimated administrative expense in the amount of $79,965.01 ($48,626 (May rent) + $4,862.20 (late fee) + $11,661.31 (real property taxes) + $14,815.5 (attorneys fees) = $79,965.01). Landlord may supplement the record to establish a valid basis for any additional amounts it may be entitled to under the Lease (e.g., prorated June rent if the debtor has not turned over the premises as of 5/31/18).

(ii) No superpriority. Section 365(d)(3) does not authorize a superpriority over other administrative expenses. In re LPM Corp., 300 F.3d 1134 (9th Cir. 2002). It is possible that the estate will be administratively insolvent (although the estate's assets and its administrative claims are largely moving targets until the conclusion of any bankruptcy case) so if Landlord had slept on its rights and were seeking prior months' rent it would not be entitled to payment at this time; but that is not the situation.

Landlords are entitled to current payments. Other administrative claimants are not. There is no evidence that this Landlord has slept on its rights.

Reconciling the lack of priority with the entitlement to current payments, the tentative ruling is that Landlord is entitled to immediate payment of a pro rata share of funds that are available to pay estimated accrued administrative expenses to date. This is essentially the alternative relief requested by Landlord (see dkt. 200, p.4:4-8).

Because the interim fee applications (discussed below) seek approximately $305,000 in fees and expenses, and because Landlord's claim is approximately $79,965.01, it appears that the rough total of accrued administrative expenses is approximately $385,000, of which Landlord holds roughly $80,000, or approximately 20% ($$80,000/$385,000 = 20.8\%$). Therefore, the tentative ruling is that Landlord is entitled to immediate payment of approximately 20% of the $47,000 in unrestricted funds currently in debtor's possession (dkt. 197, PDF p. 13, paragraph 13), or approximately $9,400.

(iii) Landlord has not established that the funds are held in trust for it. This Court is not persuaded that the $47,000 in funds debtor has on hand is being held in trust for Landlord. Landlord has not carried its burden of establishing that, under California law, an express trust exists that excepts these funds from estate property. See Golden Mortg. Fund # 14 v. Kennedy, 171 B.R. 79, 84 (9th Cir. BAP 1994) ("A creditor has the burden to prove that the funds in the debtor's possession should be held in trust for that creditor's benefit").

(iv) Surrender and Writ of Possession. Landlord has discretion whether to extend the time for the debtor to assume or reject the Lease beyond the statutory maximum, or permit occupancy after rejection, absent nonbankruptcy law that would permit occupants to continue in possession. As set forth above, the tentative ruling is that the lease will be deemed rejected on 5/31/18.

Because neither the subtenants nor any other party in interest has articulated a sufficient basis for the subtenants to continue to occupy the Property following rejection of the Lease, the tentative ruling is to grant Landlord's request for a writ of possession directing any subtenants to surrender and vacate the property effective 6/6/18. Landlord is instructed to review LBR 7064-1 and include the necessary language set forth in 7064-1(e) into the proposed order.

(v) Relief from stay. The tentative ruling is to grant Landlord relief from the automatic stay under 362(d)(1).

(vi) Waiver of 14-day stay. The tentative ruling is to waive the 14-day stay.

(c) Interim Fee Apps of Levene Neale Bender Yoo & Brill (dkt. 177); CohenReznick LLP (dkt. 178); and Haberbush & Associates LLP (dkt. 179), and related documents (dkt. 200, 214). The tentative ruling is to approve the applications on an interim basis, subject to final review and approval at the conclusion of the case, but deny the requests for immediate payment of fees and expenses given the debtor's limited funds on hand, except that Haberbush & Associates may draw down on its pre-petition retainer, subject to the possibility of disgorgement in future.

(a) Bar date: 3/16/18 (order timely served, dkt. 43, 46).

Revised Tentative Ruling for 5/22/18:

(a) April MOR (dkt.192). On PDF p. 3, the debtor identifies a payment made to "Transport" on 4/26/18 in the amount of $55,515.00 for "dispatch and brokerage svc." What is this payment for? Is it an "ordinary course" transaction?

(b) Motion to Disqualify Truck Driver Counsel (dkt. 125). This Court issued an order (dkt. 169, amended dkt. 175) continuing this motion and set (i) a 5/15/18 deadline for the Slattery Law Firm and Hirsch Law Firm to file supplemental papers addressing who properly represents the Truck Drivers; and (ii) a 5/21/18 at noon deadline to file any responses.

This Court has reviewed the relevant papers. See dkt. 125, 126 & 127 (motion papers), dkt. 143 (Hirsch opposition), dkt. 145 (Slattery opposition), dkt. 156, 157 (debtor's reply), dkt. 161 (Slattery decl.), dkt. 167 (Slattery Rule 2019 statements), dkt. 189 (debtor's authorities re attorney-client privilege as applied to retainer agreements), dkt. 199 (Hirsch supp. opposition), dkt. 201 (Slattery decl.), dkt. 202 (Hirsch supp. reply), dkt. 203 (Hirsch evid. obj. to Slattery decl.), dkt. 204 (Rivera|Shakleford opp. re S.H. The proofs of claim were filed by the Hirsch Law Firm and the claim objections/notices were served on the Hirsch Law Firm and Slattery Law Firm. However, based on the debtor's pending motion to disqualify both firms, the tentative ruling is to continue the hearings on these claim objections to 6/19/18 at 2:00 p.m., pending resolution of the motion to disqualify. At the continued hearings, the parties should be prepared to address whether it would be appropriate for this court to set continued oppositions deadlines.

(b) Status Report. At the last status conference on 2/13/18, this court directed the debtor to file a brief status report by 2/27/18. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, the debtor has not complied. The debtor should be prepared to address why it failed to comply with this court's order.

(c) Employment application: Creditors' Committee Counsel (dkt. 47, 65). The objection by certain truck drivers (dkt. 63) has been withdrawn (dkt. 89). The debtor's limited objection (dkt. 55) and the reply papers (dkt. 85, 86) raise issues that are best addressed in connection with any application for compensation, at which time this Court can evaluate whether the hourly billing rates are commensurate with the nature of the work performed, the time spent on each task, and the other factors under 11 U.S.C. 330. Tentative Ruling for 7/30/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's 11 U.S.C. 363 sale motion (the "Sale Motion," dkt. 80);
Oppositions (dkt. 87, 93), and Reply (dkt. 94, 96)

At the 6/18/19 hearing, this Court was informed that payments under Part 1 of the sale were complete but some equipment had yet to be removed, and Part 2 was still being funded. What is the current status of these matters?

Continue to the same date and time as the continued status conference, as set forth below.

(b) Motion of the United States Trustee ("UST") to convert, dismiss, or appoint a Chapter 11 trustee (the "Conversion Motion", dkt. 76)

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's 11 U.S.C. 363 sale motion (the "Sale Motion," dkt. 80); Oppositions (dkt. 87, 93), and Reply (dkt. 94, 96)

There has been little activity on the docket since the last status conference in this case, and it is unclear whether Sale Part One has closed. Has Sale Part One closed? If so, what progress has been made re Sale Part Two? Should this Court continue the Sale Motion to the same time as the continued status conference (see below)?

(b) Motion of the United States Trustee ("UST") to convert, dismiss, or appoint a Chapter 11 trustee (the "Conversion Motion", dkt. 76)

Should this Court continue the Conversion Motion to the same time as the continued status conference (see below)?

(c) Amended bar date order (dkt. 112)

This Court issued its Amended Order Setting Bar Date (dkt. 112), directing service by Debtor be completed by 5/24/19. The docket does not reflect any proof of service. Was the order timely served? If so, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 6/19/19 to file a proof of such service; and if not, the tentative ruling is to issue a new order setting a new bar date.

Tentative Ruling for 5/21/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's 11 U.S.C. 363 sale motion (the "Sale Motion," dkt. 80); Oppositions (dkt. 87, 93), and Reply (dkt. 94, 96)

At the hearing on 5/7/19 this Court adopted the tentative ruling and granted the Sale Motion, with a waiver of the 14-day stay under 6004(h), subject some modifications. First, although this Court overruled objections and approved Sale Part One (as described in the Sale Motion), this Court set this continued hearing on 5/21/19 to address whether that sale has closed, and to resolve any issues involving the dollar amounts need to (i) cure leased equipment defaults or (ii) pay financed equipment liens.

Second, as to the proposed Sale Part Two, this Court ruled that the sale to Debtor's principal, Ms. Galant, is approved for a payment of $100,000 and can close with no further order of this Court. But if it turns out that she is unable to pay that price (within the time frame outlined in the Sale Motion), and (i) if she proposes to pay between $50,000 and $99,999, then the parties would need to address what remedies are appropriate, such as opening up the proposed sale to overbids; and (ii) if she proposes to pay less than $50,000 then the proposed Sale Part Two is disapproved, and the intellectual property (and miscellaneous assets included in Sale Part Two) would continue to belong to bankruptcy estate, and could be sold or otherwise addressed.

This Court directed Debtor to lodge a proposed order memorializing the foregoing rulings. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, no such proposed order has been lodged. Why not?

In any event, are there any issues that are properly before this Court at this time in connection with the Sale Motion? Should this Court continue the Sale Motion to the same time as the continued status conference (see below)?

(b) Motion of the United States Trustee ("UST") to convert, dismiss, or appoint a Chapter 11 trustee (the "Conversion Motion", dkt. 76)

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address the following issues. It is unclear whether Sale Part One has closed. This Court notes that there is a declaration (dkt. 107) of a real estate broker for Debtor's principal, Ms. Galant, regarding the listing of her property for sale (which was contemplated to fund the Sale Part Two); but there is no information about the refinancing the Ms. Galant was contemplating (which was contemplated to fund the Sale Part One).

Should this Court continue the Conversion Motion to the same time as the continued status conference (see below)?

(c) Bar date order (dkt. 108)

This Court issued its Order Setting Bar Date (dkt. 108), directing service by Debtor be completed by 5/10/19. The docket does not reflect any proof of service. What the order timely served? If so, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 5/22/19 to file a proof of such service; and if not, the tentative ruling is to issue a new order setting a new bar date.

by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Revised Tentative Ruling for 5/7/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of the United States Trustee ("UST") to convert, dismiss, or appoint a Chapter 11 trustee (the "Conversion Motion", dkt. 76)

Continue to be heard concurrently with the continued status conference (see part "(2)" of this tentative ruling, below). If, prior to the continued hearing date, Debtor files a declaration that it has closed the proposed Sale Part One, this Court anticipates that the tentative ruling for the continued hearing will be to deny the Conversion Motion without prejudice.

(b) Debtor's 11 U.S.C. 363 sale motion (the "Sale Motion," dkt. 80); Oppositions (dkt. 87, 93), and Reply (dkt. 94, 96)

Grant the Sale Motion, but only on the following terms:

(i) Minimum dollar amount for Sale Part Two. Debtor's principal, Ms. Rachel Galant, is essentially agreeing to pay debts on which she is already the guarantor (Sale Part One, estimated at $450,000), and if there is any money left over from the anticipated $550,000 proceeds of the refinance and sale of her home, then that residual amount (estimated at $100,000, but possibly much less, down to $-0-) will be used to pay for Debtor's intellectual property and some de minimus assets (Sale Part Two).

The tentative ruling is that there must be a minimum dollar amount payable for Sale Part Two. That is essentially the consideration Ms. Galant must pay (beyond what she owes anyway, as a guarantor) for being able to continue her business without successor liability, based on the Bankruptcy Code's ability to sell property free and clear of an liability that would otherwise follow the assets (which is one type of "interest" in such property). See, e.g., In re Trans World Airlines, Inc., 322 F.3d 283, 290-91 (3d Cir. 2003). See also Myers v. U.S., 297 B.R. 774 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 2003).

The tentative ruling is to set the minimum consideration for the Sale Part Two at not less than $50,000. The tentative ruling is that this dollar amount is subject to overbids, as set forth below.

(ii) Overbids. The proposed sale must be subject to any overbids at the hearing, including any overbids that are not cash (in whole or in part), or that are for fewer than all assets, or any other combination of things. Any "highest and best" determination must be made initially by Debtor, but subject to any objections and resolution by this Court. See generally, e.g., In re Lahijani, 325 B.R. 282 (9th Cir. BAP 2005); In re Mickey Thompson Entm't Group, Inc., 292 B.R. 415, 421 (9th Cir. BAP 2003).

(iii) Backup bids. Any sale must be subject to any backup bids, in the event the winning bidder does not timely close either Sale Part One or Sale Part Two. For example, if the proposed purchaser - Debtor's principal - were to close Sale Part One but fail to close the Sale Part Two, and if a backup bidder has been approved for Sale Part Two, then the backup bidder could acquire the Sale Part Two assets (Debtor's recipes, trademarks, and other intellectual property).

(iv) Deadline for resolution of any disputes regarding purchase/cure amounts for equipment. The motion lists some cure/payment amounts as "TBD." In addition, one creditor has objected. See Sale Motion (dkt. 82, Schedules A&B), and see Direct Cap. Corp. Obj. (dkt. 93) (asserting $11,050.14 arrears plus $5,411.34 attorney fees to date, for a total alleged cure amount of approximately $16,461.48).

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of May 20, 2019 for Debtor to reach agreement with any equipment lessor/lienholder, or else those creditors will be free to repossess the equipment and must be given access to do so on 24 hours' notice. The reason is that the equipment must be removed by the end of May, or the bankruptcy estate will "abandon" the equipment (technically, an "abandonment" under 11 U.S.C. 554 is abandonment from the estate to Debtor; but Debtor apparently means that it intends to leave the equipment at the landlord's premises, for disposition by the landlord - this Court expresses no opinion whether that would create any postpetition liability, or what competing rights might exist in the equipment at that point). Any dispute can be addressed at the continued hearing on the same date as the continued status conference (see below).

(v) Good faith finding

Any "good faith" finding under 11 U.S.C. 363(m) will need to be supported by sufficient evidence (see the posted Procedures of Judge Bason, available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov). Normally that would include more information than what is Ms. Galant's declaration. See Dkt. 82, p.6:1-7. But the tentative ruling is to accept that declaration, combined with the purchase price above the debts for which she is personally liable and the agreement to turn over to Debtor any profit on resale of equipment, as sufficient prima facie evidence of good faith.

As to the objection of the "Objecting Creditors" (Mr. Haloosim et al., dkt. 87), this Court is inclined to agree with Debtor that, on the present record, there is a prima facie showing by Debtor of sufficient marketing, and insufficient evidence of any improper conduct by Debtor. As for their objections under 11 U.S.C. 363(f), this Court questions whether they have an "interest" in the property to be sold and, if not, whether they have standing to raise any objections. In addition, as stated in the posted Producedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov):

§ 363(f): Sales free and clear. Regarding § 363(f)(5), Judge Bason does not follow Clear Channel Outdoor, Inc. v. Knupfer (In re PW, LLC), 391 B.R. 25, 40 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2008). He has ruled that a sale free and clear is permissible under that statute whenever the interest at issue is subject to monetary valuation. See In re Trans World Airlines, Inc., 322 F.3d 283, 290-91 (3d Cir. 2003) ("TWA") (because employees' claims were "subject to monetary valuation," debtor's assets could be sold free and clear of successor liability for such claims under § 363(f)(5)). Alternatively, Judge Bason has ruled that "cramdown" is among the types of legal or equitable proceeding within the statute, or that Clear Channel is distinguishable in most cases under the rationale of In re Jolan, 403 B.R. 866 (Bankr. W.D. Wash. 2009), because holders of interests can be compelled in numerous other types of legal or equitable proceedings to accept a money satisfaction (which might be $-0- in the case of an interest that is entirely underwater). Those proceedings include a hypothetical foreclosure by one of the lienholders, or a receivership (which could be initiated at the behest of creditors or by the debtor itself). See Cal. Code Civ. Proc. ("CCP") §564(b)(9) (power to appoint receiver to sell property); CCP § 568.5 (receiver empowered to sell property as provided in CCP §§701.510 et seq.); CCP § 701.630 (extinguishment of liens); CCP § 701.680 (binding effect of sale). The judge respectfully disagrees with In re Hassen Imports P'ship, 502 B.R. 851, 860 et seq. (C.D. Cal. 2013) (hypothetical foreclosure sale did not qualify under section 363(f)(5)).

Appearances required for the status conference, but not for the abandonment motion. Telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Dismissal or conversion

Debtor's fourth status report alleges (dkt. 62, p.2:10) that a "363 motion, supported with a stalking horse bid, will be submitted to the court" at some unspecified future date. This Court and parties in interest have heard that hope before, but it appears highly unlikely that Debtor will receive a bid that will exceeding the losses that are accruing meanwhile.

Debtor's situation appears to be getting steadily worse, both on a cash basis and in terms of accrued liabilities for postpetition real property rent, equipment leasing, etc. See MOR for Jan. 2019 (dkt. 57) (small positive cash flow, but $48,522.19 in postpetition payables as against $6,281.31 receivables) and MOR for Feb. 2019 (dkt. 63) lines 22-25 (net cash flow of ($1765.14) and increase in payables to $96,380.19 - almost double the prior month - as against $6,281.31 receivables - unchanged).

The tentative ruling is to dismiss this case and let Debtor and its secured creditors/equipment lessors make whatever arrangements they see fit for disposing of the collateral/leased equipment. (Office of the United States Trustee to lodge proposed order.)

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD

(c) Continued status conference: if this Court is persuaded not to dismiss this case, the tentative ruling is to continue this Status Conference to 1/29/19 at 1:00 p.m., with a status report on the required form (see above) due 1/22/19.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing

#1.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

U.S. BANK NATIONAL ASSOC
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 57

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Chapter 13

#5.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

BSI FINANCIAL SERVICES
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 54

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

Debtor requests a continuance due to plans to be out of the State (dkt. 56), but he does not address why he could not use this Court's procedures for a telephonic appearance (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov). The tentative ruling is to deny the request for a continuance.

On the merits, Debtor appears to assert that (a) if Movant's predecessor in interest (Wells Fargo) had fulfilled its alleged promises for a loan modification, he could have applied the proceeds from another loan (a Keep Your Home California loan of approximately $27,381) to paying Movant, (b) then his obligations to movant would be prepaid through sometime in 2020, (c) under a settlement offer from Wells Fargo in the underlying State Court litigation, Movant's loan would be brought current, and (d) Movant should contribute additional funds or concessions toward the settlement. Dkt. 56. Movant essentially replies that it cannot be charged with any alleged wrongdoing by Wells Fargo, and meanwhile it is not being paid. Dkt. 58.

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not established why any alleged wrongdoing by Wells Fargo could be charged against Movant, nor has Debtor established any wrongdoing by Movant itself, or any other reason why Movant should be estopped to assert Debtor's failure to pay monthly mortgage payments. In other words, it is up to Debtor and Wells Fargo either to settle their claims or not, and meanwhile, the question for purposes of the present motion is whether Debtor's failure to make monthly payments to Movant is or is not "cause" for relief from the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1)).

United States Bankruptcy Court

Courtroom 1545 Calendar

Tuesday, August 6, 2019

Hearing Room 1545

10:00 AM

Chapter 13

On the one hand, non-payment is usually considered to be such "cause" (even without evidence that the collateral is declining in value) because of the "time value" of money and other harms to creditors from non-payment. On the other hand, it appears that the defaults in payments to Movant might be cured, either (i) under the settlement communication attached to Debtor's papers, if Debtor commences payments as of 9/15/19, or (ii) through some other voluntary or involuntary payment by Wells Fargo. See dkt. 56, exhibit (last page). (This Court is considering that settlement communication only for the very limited purpose of noting that there are scenarios in which someone will be paying Movant.)

The tentative ruling is that if either Debtor or Wells Fargo do not cure the postpetition non-payments to Movant then Movant will be entitled to some form of relief from the automatic stay. If that results in a loss of Debtor's home, and if Debtor can establish that this is Wells Fargo's or Movant's fault, then he can seek damages from them in State Court. Meanwhile, Movant cannot be held in limbo indefinitely because the disputes between Debtor and Wells Fargo have not been resolved.

The parties should be prepared to address the foregoing, and whether a short continuance would be appropriate, to provide an opportunity to resolve these issues and have someone (either Debtor or Wells Fargo) pay Movant.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

#6.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

NATIONSTAR MORTGAGE, LLC
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 45

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 19

Tentative Ruling:

Grant the motion's requests for (a) relief from the automatic stay, and (b) dismissal with a bar, as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): response (dkt. 23), reply (dkt. 29).

The automatic stay does not apply

The motion papers establish that the exception to the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(b)(4) applies.

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) for the reasons set forth in the motion papers and the reply.

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Grant the request for retroactive annulment of the stay. See In re Fjeldsted, 293 B.R. 12 (9th Cir. BAP 2003); and see also In re Williams, 323 B.R. 691, 697-702 (9th Cir. Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Additional regarding relief from the automatic stay to pursue litigation

The Bankruptcy Court "shall grant relief from the stay" upon a showing of "cause." 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1). "'Cause' is determined on a case-by-case basis." In re Tucson Estates, Inc., 912 F.2d 1162, 1166 (9th Cir.1990). In determining whether "cause" exists to grant relief from the automatic stay to allow a movant to pursue litigation in a non-bankruptcy forum, courts in the Ninth Circuit have examined the factors set forth in In re Curtis, 40 B.R. 795, 799–800 (Bankr. D. Utah 1984). See In re Kronemeyer, 405 B.R. 915 (9th Cir. BAP 2009); In re Plumberex Specialty Prods., Inc., 311 B.R. 551, 559–60 (Bankr. C.D. Cal.2004). Those factors are: (1) Whether the relief will result in a partial or complete resolution of the issues; (2) The lack of any connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case; (3) Whether the foreign proceeding involves the debtor as a fiduciary; (4) Whether a specialized tribunal has been established to hear the particular cause of action and whether that tribunal has the expertise to hear such cases; (5) Whether the debtor's insurance carrier has assumed full financial responsibility for defending the litigation; (6) Whether the action essentially involves third parties, and the debtor functions only as a bailee or conduit for the goods or proceeds in question; (7) Whether the litigation in another forum would prejudice the interests of other creditors, the creditors' committee and other interested parties; (8) Whether the judgment claim arising from the foreign action is subject to equitable subordination under Section 510(c); (9) Whether movant's success in the foreign proceeding would result in a judicial lien avoidable by the debtor under Section 522(f); (10) The interests of judicial economy and the expeditious and economical determination of litigation for the parties; (11) Whether the foreign proceedings have progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial; and (12) The impact of the stay on the parties and the "balance of hurt." Plumberex, 311 B.R. at 559. "[W]hile the Curtis factors are widely used to determine the existence of 'cause,' not all of the factors are relevant in every case, nor is a court required to give each factor equal weight." In re Landmark Fence Co., Inc., 2011 WL 6826253 at *4 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 9, 2011).

Based on the present record, the tentative ruling is that the foregoing factors, or close analogs to them, favor granting relief from the automatic stay. In particular: nonbankruptcy Courts can preside over criminal matters, which this Bankruptcy Court cannot do; the nonbankruptcy proceeding allegedly involves the debtor as a fiduciary; there is a very powerful public interest in pursuing restitution for victims as well as civil and criminal remedies; the nonbankruptcy matters have progressed substantially; judicial economy would be served by granting relief from the automatic stay - it makes sense to determine if any assets truly belong to Debtor, or instead if they are fraud victims' money, before it can be determined what, if anything, is part of any bankruptcy estate; the motion papers establish bad faith and an abuse of the bankruptcy system; and the balance of hurt tips sharply in favor of pursuing restitution and other remedies for alleged crime victims.

Dismissal, with a bar

"Cause" for dismissal has been established, within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 1307(c), based on Debtor's failure to notify the prosecutors of the bankruptcy case, failure to list assets on the bankruptcy schedules, and other acts and omissions set forth in the motion papers. In addition, the tentative ruling is that the pattern and gravity of such acts and omissions establishes that they constitute a "willful" failure to appear in proper prosecution of this case within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1). Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to dismiss this case with a 180-day bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy.

#17.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 6

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required. Based on the motion (dkt.6), the opposition papers (dkt. 19), and the reply (dkt. 21), the tentative ruling is to find good faith by clear and convincing evidence and to grant the motion on the following conditions: (1) Debtors must amend their chapter 13 Plan to provide for repayment of objecting party Great Ajax over 36 months; (2) Debtors must be subject to a "stay-current" adequate protection order ("APO") on the usual terms (14 days' notice of any default; maximum of 3 cures of defaults; etc.); and (3) the conditions set forth below.

After the hearing date (1) Debtors must lodge a proposed APO and (2) this Court will prepare an order granting the 362(c)(3) motion except for the APO's conditions , and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in the latter order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some

#18.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 13

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions. Appearances are not required.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

Chapter 11

#19.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

The tentative ruling is to grant the motion in part and deny it in part by setting deadlines for Debtor to accomplish each of the items listed below. If Debtor fails timely to do so, objecting creditor Alliance Portfolio, Private Equity Finance, Inc. ("Alliance") (dkt. 21) and objecting creditor Patch of Land Lending, LLC ("Patch") (dkt. 25) would be authorized to file and serve motions for relief from the automatic stay on shortened time: a 14 day notice period, with any oppositions due 7 days prior to the hearing.

The items that Debtor must accomplish are:

(i) more information: by 8/13/19,

(A) declaration: file and serve on the objecting creditors and the United States Trustee a declaration detailing the amount of insurance proceeds that Debtor has received and/or expects to receive; and the progress to date regarding any repairs, as well as projected costs and timing of future repairs to the Bel Air Road property; and

(B) Schedule I: file an amended bankruptcy Schedule I that (in furtherance of the instructions for line 8a) includes 6 months of historical information and 6 months of projections for each property or business, including the Bel Air Road property roommates, and the music business, with breakdowns of revenues, expenses, and calculation of net income;

(ii) Bel Air refi/debt restructuring: by 9/24/19, file a motion to refinance the Bel Air Road property, or file a realistic plan of reorganization, or otherwise file appropriate papers aimed at stopping the running of postpetition default interest owed to Patch (and any other creditors whose interests are secured by that property and who might be able to charge default interest under 11 U.S.C. 506(b)), and

(iii) interest payments to Patch: if any such treatment of Patch has not been accomplished by 11/12/19, pay Patch on that date all accrued postpetition interest, at the non-default interest rate, and thereafter remain current in such payments, and

(iv) Sweetzer sale: by 11/12/19, close a sale of the Sweetzer Ave. property and pay Alliance out of escrow.

The foregoing deadlines are intended in part to assure that Debtor is making a good faith, expeditious attempt to address default interest. See generally General Elec. Cap. Corp. v. Future Media Productions Inc., 536 F.3d 969, 974-75 (9th Cir. 2008) (default interest presumptively allowable under bankruptcy law, if allowed under nonbankruptcy law), and compare In re Altadena Lincoln Crossing, 2018 WL 3244502 (Bankr. C.D. Cal.) (disallowing default interest under California law), rev'd, 598 B.R. 633 (C.D. Cal. 2019) (appeal pending before 9th Cir.).

Analysis

(1) Burden on Debtor to show good faith by clear and convincing evidence

There is a presumption that this case was not filed in good faith. First, Debtor has not demonstrated a change in her financial circumstances since the dismissal of the prior case. 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3)(C)(III). Second, and alternatively, there are reasons (set forth below) to conclude that this case will not be concluded with a confirmed chapter 11 plan that will be performed. 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3)(C)(III)(b).

Debtor faces numerous hurdles to a successful chapter 11 restructuring of her finances. She admits that water damage has rendered the Bel Air Road property uninhabitable. Dkt. 11 at PDF p.10:18-20. There is no evidence about whether insurance covers all or only part of the repair costs, or how long it will take to repair the property and start generating income from it. There is also no evidence (apart from the very broad history in the Statement of Financial Affairs) of Debtor's level of past income from roommates or any detailed projections of future rental revenues, expenses, and net income. Nor is there any evidence to support Debtor's projected income from her music business, including past and projected gross revenues, expenses, and a calculation of monthly net income. In addition, the projected income and expenses on Debtor's bankruptcy Schedules I and J appears to be woefully inadequate, even with the projected roommate and music business income, to pay the monthly amounts that Alliance and Patch assert are owing to them: $26,653/mo. for Alliance, and $45,000/mo. for Patch. If such monthly payments continue to accrue and are allowed, they could consume any equity in the Bel Air Road property and gut any chance of reorganization.

In sum, there are many reasons to question whether Debtor ultimately can succeed in her attempted reorganization. If Debtor were seeking confirmation of a chapter 11 plan today, and had not presented more evidence of feasibility (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(11)), her evidence would be woefully inadequate.

But at this very early stage of this bankruptcy case that is not the question. The question is whether Debtor has filed this case in a good faith attempt to reorganize.

(2) Evidence of Debtor's good faith

(a) Information

Although it would have been better by far to have provided far more information as noted above, this Court has to take judicial notice of the reality that most debtors' records are not in an ideal state when they spiral into bankruptcy.

(b) Counsel

Debtor points out that she filed her prior bankruptcy case without the assistance of legal counsel. The tentative ruling is that, although debtor was over the debt limits for a chapter 13 case (11 U.S.C. 109(e)), that appears to be an innocent mistake.

(c) Reasons for financial difficulties

Debtor has provided evidence of very understandable reasons for having gotten into financial difficulties, including extensive water damage to the Bel Air Road property, loss of rental income from that property, obtaining high interest loans to bridge the gap until debt could be consolidated/refinanced, and then spiraling problems when the new loan fell apart. See dkt. 11 at PDF p.10:18-24.

(d) Apparently sensible strategy

After dismissal of the prior chapter 13 case, Debtor has filed this chapter 11 case reasonably promptly, with the assistance of legal counsel, and is proposing an overall strategy that appears to be reasonably calculated to maximize her ability to pay creditors: selling the Sweetzer Ave. property and restoring the Bel Air Road property, which appears to have substantial equity, to a condition that can generate rental income that could pay refinanced debt. Although it is difficult to tell whether that strategy will be realistic - e.g., whether insurance proceeds will be sufficient and will be available timely - those things will become apparent soon enough, and there are remedies that Debtor and creditors can pursue if Debtor needs to change course or if this case needs to be converted or dismissed.

(e) Adequate protection of objecting creditors' interests

Both Alliance and Patch appear to be adequately protected by very substantial equity cushions above their (first lien) debts. That alone appears to establish that, unless there were evidence that the overriding purpose of this case was to delay those creditors' remedies, this case is filed in good faith as to them.

True, Debtor's assertion that she has some equity in the Sweetzer Ave. property appears to be undercut by her own listing price. But, regardless whether that property is underwater, an orderly sale under 11 U.S.C. 363(b)&(f) is far more likely to maximize all creditors' recoveries than termination of the automatic stay and a foreclosure sale. That is what Debtor is proposing, so she appears to be proceeding in good faith regarding the Sweetzer Ave. property, both with respect to Alliance and with respect to all other creditors.

As for the Bel Air Road property, Debtor is proposing to pay the postpetition mortgage payments when due (see dkt. 11, p.8, para.7), and although it is true that she appears unable to do so as long as the property remains uninhabitable, the tentative ruling is that sufficient evidence of good faith is established by (i) the equity in that property (according to Debtor's sworn bankruptcy schedules and the other evidence before this Court), (ii) Debtor's expectation of being able to repair the property with insurance proceeds, and (iii) Debtor's apparent commitment to make the property habitable quickly, and resume regular monthly payments to Patch - if anything, Debtor's anticipated payments to Patch might be overly ambitious, but Patch's very large equity cushion combined with Debtor's eagerness to pay what she can appears to show good faith. In sum, from the evidence presented the tentative ruling is that Debtor is proceeding in good faith regarding the Bel Air Road property, both with respect to Patch and with respect to all other creditors.

(3) Conclusion

The bottom line is that there appears to be substantial equity in the Bel Air Road property, and Debtor appears to be proposing in good faith a strategy of selling the Sweetzer Ave. property and repairing the Bel Air Road property and obtaining roommate income sufficient to pay refinanced or restructured debts. That approach appears, on the present record, to be a good faith attempt to maximize recovery for all creditors while adequately protection Alliance and Patch.

The tentative ruling is that, by clear and convincing evidence, Debtor has rebutted the presumption of a lack of good faith and has shown that this case has been filed in good faith.

Docket 12

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions, and also subject to any opposition at the hearing because the motion papers erroneously state that the hearing is on regular notice and that any opposition would be due 14 days prior to the hearing, which is only one day after the original motion was filed (dkt. 12) and the same day the amended motion was filed (dkt. 16), whereas in fact any opposition would have been due 5 days prior to the hearing (per the posted Procedures of Judge Bason, available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov), and the erroneous notice might cause creditors to be confused and to appear at the hearing. Appearances required.

No fees for this appearance, absent specific authorization. Counsel is directed not to charge any fees for appearing at this hearing, because appearances presumably would not have been necessary but for the incorrect notice (see above).

Chapter 13

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Movant has Standing to Seek Relief from Stay.

Debtor attaches several letters in her opposition, which allege that Movant does not have standing to foreclose because the original mortgagor, Washington Mutual Bank, FA ("WAMU") allegedly sold the deed of trust and the note prior to being taken over by the FDIC. See dkt. 20 (amending dkt.19). Debtor bases this supposition on the fact that an officer of WAMU endorsed the promissory note in blank. See dkt. 20 at PDF pp.5-6,19&66; dkt.19 at PDF pp.3&13; and dkt. 13, Ex.1, p.5.

It is true that the motion papers do not assert that Movant has possession of the promissory note (see dkt. 13 at p.11), but Movant has provided evidence that it is an assignee of the deed of trust. Dkt. 13, ex. 3 at PDF p. 30-31. That is sufficient for purposes of a motion for relief from the automatic stay. See In re Gallagher, 2012 WL 2900477 (Bankr. C.D. Cal.) (following In re Veal, 450 B.R. 897 (9th Cir. BAP 2011)); In re Dahl (Case No. 2:11-bk-11028-NB), Memorandum Decision (dkt. 75) at 2 n. 1.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. Compare In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311) (different procedure required for such relief).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

#25.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 17

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions. Appearances are not required.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." (1) Current issues

(a) Third Amended Disclosure Statement (dkt. 104) and Plan (dkt. 105); and recent supporting documents (dkt. 106, 107)

This Court's order setting a combined hearing on Debtor's plan and disclosure statement (dkt. 109) directed Debtor to file a proof of service of the voting package and to file a ballot summary by 7/30/19. Dkt. 109 at p.2. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, those documents have not been filed.

Proposed order: If the foregoing deficiencies are cured, and if this Court is persuaded (a) to approve the disclosure statement on a final basis and (b) to confirm the plan, then Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B). The proposed confirmation order must include the language required by LBR 3020-1(b) (the first two paragraphs).

Tentative Ruling for 7/2/19:

Appearances are not required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Third Amended Disclosure Statement (dkt. 104) and Plan (dkt. 105); and recent supporting documents (dkt. 106, 107)

The tentative ruling is to approve the Disclosure Statement on an interim basis and direct Debtor, no later than 7/3/19 at noon, to lodge a proposed order (using the required form) setting a combined hearing on final approval of the Disclosure Statement and confirmation of the Plan at the same time as the continued status conference (see below) (that hearing includes a slightly shortened time for notice, per Rule 9006, Fed. R. Bankr. P.). The tentative ruling is that, although the changes to the Plan arguably are all positive from the viewpoint of all creditors, and although the proposed payment is 100%, nevertheless the terms of the Disclosure Statement and Plan have been amended enough that re-solicitation of votes is required.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 7/11/18.

(a) Bar date: 10/29/18 (dkt. 26, timely served dkt. 28)

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement (dkt. 104, 105)*: see above.

Tentative Ruling for 5/21/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Finances (MOR #9, March 2019, dkt. 94)

At the 4/2/19 hearing, Debtor's counsel informed this Court that Debtor actually was postpetition current with secured creditors despite MOR #6, #7, and #8 reflecting 3 missed payments to FCI Lender and 3 missed payments to Rushmore Loan Management. Debtor's counsel stated that forthcoming amended MORs would reflect that Debtor is current. But only MOR #8 has been amended to reflect those changes (see dkt. 92) and MOR #9 still reflects that the mortgage payments have not been made (dkt. 94, p.7). What is Debtor's explanation?

(b) Second Amended Plan (dkt. 96) and Disclosure Statement (dkt.95)

At the 4/2/19 hearing on Debtor's First Amended Plan, this Court addressed several objections regarding the first amended plan (dkt. 76) and disclosure statement (dkt. 75). One issue was feasibility. Another was, as to Amir Hechter 24/42% Ocean 18, LLC 75.58% ("Hechter/Ocean") (Class 2B, listed as "Nationwide Servicing Center"), that the proposed interest rate (5%) and length of time for repayment (360 months/30 years) were insufficient. See tentative ruling for 4/2/19 (reproduced below). The tentative ruling is that Debtor's second amended plan does not adequately address these issues, and appears to have additional problems.

As for feasibility, the situation is worse because Debtor projects that she will have only $17.31/mo. of positive cash flow (dkt. 95 Ex. C, at PDF p.6) when previously she projected $42.14/mo. for the first 50 months (dkt. 75, Ex.C, at PDF p.6). As for Hechter/Ocean, the term remains unchanged at 30 years, and although Debtor has increased the interest rate from 5% to 5.5%, the tentative ruling is that this is still insufficient for all the reasons set forth in the tentative ruling for 4/2/19 (reproduced below). See dkt. 96 Ex. A, at PDF p.7.

Note: As a side issue, the Plan has been confusingly amended in ways that turn out not to make a material difference. Specifically, Debtor has moved some debt repayment out of Exhibit A of the proposed Plan (which is supposed to show all payments to creditors) and into Exhibit I (which is supposed to show net income available to pay creditors).

Previously Debtor correctly listed payments to Wilmington Savings Fund ("Wilmington") on two separate lines of Exhibit A - once for the arrearage ($402.95/mo. to be paid over 60 months) and once for the restructured ongoing payments ($1187.10/mo. to be paid over a longer term). See 1st Am. Plan, dkt. 76, Ex.A. True, Debtor incorrectly listed the arrearage in Class 1A, which is supposed to be for a principal residence (id.), but that could have been readily fixed by listing Wilmington in two rows that were both designated as Class 2A: one row for arrears and one row for restructured ongoing payments. Instead Debtor has listed Wilmington in Exhibit A to be paid $1197.97/mo. (2d Am. Plan, dkt. 96, Ex.A) and has also added a row in Exhibit I (2d from bottom) for $402.95/mo. in "Contractual Arrears" (presumably paid to Wilmington).

The bottom line is that there is little net difference, but the documents fail to list all payments to creditors where they belong, in Exhibit A. The tentative ruling is that this does not matter because the Plan cannot be confirmed anyway.

Based on the foregoing and this Court's 4/2/19 tentative ruling, the tentative ruling is to dismiss or convert this case, because Debtor appears unable to propose a confirmable plan. See 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(1)&(4)(J). The parties should be prepared to address whether dismissal or conversion is in the best interests of creditors.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 7/11/18.

(a) Bar date: 10/29/18 (dkt. 26, timely served dkt. 28)

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: see above.

(c) Continued status conference: If this case is not dismissed or converted, the tentative ruling is to set a continued status conference for 6/18/19 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report is required.

Tentative Ruling for 4/2/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Finances (MOR #8, Feb. 2019, dkt. 85), and US Trustee Notice of Delinquency (dkt. 82)

At the 2/5/19 hearing, Debtor's counsel informed this Court that Debtor actually was postpetition current with secured creditors despite MOR #6 reflecting 3 missed payments to FCI Lender and 3 missed payments to Rushmore Loan Management. But MOR #8 still reflects that those payments are missing. Dkt. 85, p.7. What is Debtor's explanation?

Meanwhile, the United States Trustee ("UST") has filed a Notice of Delinquency (dkt. 82) stating that Debtor missed a quarterly payment of $650 to the United States, and has not (as of that date) provided proof of current insurance (including a vehicle). These defaults call into question whether Debtor has sufficient cash flow to reorganize in this case.

(b) First Amended Plan (dkt. 76) and Disclosure Statement (dkt.75) - voting: acceptance by some, but not all, impaired classes (section 1129(a)(8))

As noted below, Class 1A has been combined with Class 2A, so there are three classes: Classes 2A (Wilmington), 2B (Nationwide/Hechter/Ocean), and 4A (general unsecured creditors). Debtor's Ballot Summary (dkt. 91) lists these three classes, but it includes two errors.

First, it asserts on page 1, item 6, that only one class (Class "2(a)") has accepted the Plan. But the ballots attached to the summary appear to show that two classes have accepted the Plan (Classes 2A and 4A).

Second, the Ballot Summary states on page 1, item 3, that cramdown (11 U.S.C. 1129(b)) is not requested. But 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(8) requires acceptance by all impaired classes, and the only exception is cramdown. See 11 U.S.C. 1129(b) ("if all of the applicable requirements of subsection (a) of this section other than paragraph (8) are met ..." then the Court can confirm such plan in certain circumstances). In other words, by no withdrawing the Plan and instead proceeding with this hearing, Debtors implicitly request cramdown, even though the Ballot Summary says otherwise.

Accordingly, this Court will examine both whether the Plan meets all the requirements of subsection "(a)" of section 1129 (other than paragraph "(8)") and whether it meets the requirements of subsection "(b)." In addition, this Court will examine whether the Disclosure Statement, which was only provisionally approved for purposes of soliciting votes, can be approved on a final basis as containing "adequate information" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 1125(a)&(b).

(c) Plan (dkt. 76) and Disclosure Statement (dkt.75) - section 1129(a) (11) feasibility

Debtor proposes a 100% dividend to all creditors. But Debtor's budget is very thin. See Disclosure Statement, Exhibits C & I (dkt. 75, at PDF pp.6 & 13). Even with minimal expenditures on items like food and housekeeping ($550/mo.) and medical and dental expenses ($50/mo.), Debtor projects that she will have only $75.00 left at the end of the Effective Date and $42.14/mo. left each month thereafter (increasing to $358.70/mo. after the first 50 months).

But as noted above Debtor's finances appear to be unreliable. How can this Court find that Debtor's Plan is feasible (i) if Debtor is already behind on postpetition payments or alternatively (ii) if Debtor's reporting is so unreliable?

In addition, Debtors' cash flow has been made worse by their Court-approved stipulation to resolve an objection to confirmation and modify their Plan with Creditor Wilmington Savings Fund Society, FSB dba Christiana Trust ("Wilmington"). See dkt. 78 (limited obj.), dkt. 86 (stipulation), & dkt. 88 (order approving stip.). The Plan calls for payments to Wilmington of $1,187.10/mo (Class 2A & Ex.E) plus another $402.95/mo. for the arrears (originally Class 1A, but now included in Class 2A per the stipulation, dkt. 86, p.3, para."1"), for a total of $1,590.05. The stipulation calls for slightly more: (i) payments of $1,119.61/mo. (amortizing payments of principal and interest) + (ii) $255.50/mo. estimated escrow payments (which do not appear to be accounted for in Debtors' budget, dkt. 75, Ex.I) + (iii) $402.95/mo. to pay arrears, for a total of $1,778.06 (which is $188.01/mo. more than contemplated in the Plan: $1,778.06 - $1,590.05 = $188.01).

A feasibility objection has been raised (dkt. 83) by creditor(s) Amir Hechter 24/42% Ocean 18, LLC 75.58% ("Hechter/Ocean") (Class 2B, listed as "Nationwide Servicing Center" in the Plan (dkt. 76, p.7). Based on the foregoing analysis, the tentative ruling is to sustain that objection.

(d) Plan (dkt. 76) and Disclosure Statement (dkt.75) - section 1129(a)(7) "best interests of creditors"

Hechter/Ocean objects that the Plan does not meet the "best interests of creditors" test, which requires that each creditor receive property of a value, "as of the effective date of the plan, that is not less than the amount that such [creditor would receive] if the debtor were liquidated under chapter 7 of this title on such date." 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(7)(A)(ii). The value of Debtor's promise of cash payments over time is addressed below.

(e) Plan (dkt. 76) and Disclosure Statement (dkt.75) - section 1129(a)(3) "good faith"

Hechter/Ocean objects that its loan matured seven years ago, that it negotiated a second mortgage loan based on Debtor's credit worthiness, property value, etc. at the time when the loan was made, and

[t]o arbitrarily extend the term of a loan secured by property from which the Debtor is collecting rents, and using the rental income for payment to other creditors, while forcing this creditor to wait 30 additional years to recover its full investment, puts the Debtor's good faith in question. [Dkt. 83, p.5:24-26]

On the one hand, there is no inherent lack of good faith in proposing to pay debts over time, even if those debts have already matured. To the contrary, for all creditors - regardless whether they are an unsecured tort victim, an unsecured trade vendor, a secured creditor with a fully matured loan, or a secured creditor with a loan that has just begun - the Bankruptcy Code contemplates that typically they will be paid over time, so as to maximize a debtor's ability to pay all creditors.

On the other hand, the tentative ruling is that Hechter/Ocean is correct that there are limits to this ability to pay over time. Debtor's good faith in proposing the Plan's treatment of Hechter/Ocean (Class 2B) is intertwined with whether that class will receive an appropriate interest rate to compensate it for all risks, including the increased risk from a long (360 month) term of repayments. Those issues of the appropriate interest rate and term are addressed below.

(f) Plan (dkt. 76) and Disclosure Statement (dkt.75) - other requirements of section 1129(a)

The tentative ruling is that the remaining requirements of section 1129(a) are either satisfied or irrelevant. For example, the requirements in paragraph "(9)" for treatment of tax claims appear to be satisfied by Debtor's use of this Court's form Plan and exhibits, which provide for payment of tax claims over a shorter period than other creditors in compliance with that paragraph of section 1129(a).

(g) Plan (dkt. 76) and Disclosure Statement (dkt.75) - section 1129(b) "cramdown"

Under 11 U.S.C. 1129(b) this Court "shall" confirm the Plan if it satisfies all the requirements of subsection "(a)" except for paragraph "(8)" (acceptance by all impaired classes) and "if the plan does not discriminate unfairly, and is fair and equitable, with respect to each class of claims or interests that is impaired under, and has not accepted, the plan." The "fair and equitable" requirement includes, but is not limited to, the requirements of paragraph "(2)" of section 1129(b), which are addressed below.

Hechter/Ocean objects that the Plan does not provide the "indubitable equivalent" of its claim. The tentative ruling is to overrule that objection, because the "indubitable equivalent" is just one of three alternative treatments: (i) retaining the creditor's lien and receiving "deferred cash payments" with a present value of the lien's present value (what the Plan proposes) (11 U.S.C. 1129(b)(2)(A)(i)), (ii) a sale, subject to credit bidding rights (1129(b)(2)(A)(ii)), "or" (iii) the "indubitable equivalent" of the creditor's claim (1129(b)(2)(A)(iii)).

But that leads to another objection raised by Hechter/Ocean: that the Plan does not provide cash payments with a present value equal to its lien's present value. 11 U.S.C. 1129(b)(2)(A)(i). Hechter/Ocean argues that "this Court should require an interest rate of 7.75% and a shorter, more reasonable term." Dkt. 83, p.4:20-21.

Hechter/Ocean uses the "formula" approach that was used by the Supreme Court for small-value collateral (a used truck) in Till v. SCS Credit Corp., 541 U.S. 465 (2004). That formula is the prime rate plus 1% to 3% depending on the risk factors.

It is an open question whether the Supreme Court intended for the formula approach to be used in all cases. The Posted procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) include the following:

§§ 506(b), 1129(b), 1325: "cramdown" interest rates. Judge Bason has expressed the view in various cases that when dealing with relatively small dollar amounts (for which the cost of presenting expert testimony as to interest rates would be prohibitive) the analysis in Till v. SCS Credit Corp., 541 U.S. 465 (2004), is appropriate, and conversely when dealing with larger dollar amounts the Till analysis probably is not appropriate, and one acceptable method for experts to opine as to the appropriate interest rate is the method described in In re Boulders on the River, Inc., 164 B.R. 99 (9th Cir. BAP 1994); see In re N. Valley Mall, LLC, 432 B.R. 825 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2010) (discussing continued viability of Boulders on the River).

The question is whether, in the facts and circumstances of this case, this Court should apply the simpler analysis in Till or a more complex analysis such as the one in Boulders on the River/N. Valley Mall. The tentative ruling is to use the Till analysis.

Applying Till, Hechter/Ocean asserts that the "current prime rate is 5.5%" and "[t]herefore a fixed rate of 6.5% to 8.5% would be proper as the bankrupt Debtor is getting an 84% loan to value ['LTV'] loan: this rate would be unavailable to a borrower with a history of defaults with even a 20% loan to value loan in today's market." Dkt. 83, p.5:10-14. As for the proposed term of repayment under the Plan (360 months), which is intertwined with the appropriate interest rate and is also an independent issue, Hechter/Ocean argues:

[T]he loan fully matured on December 28, 2011, more than seven years prior to the expected effective date of the plan. The Debtor proposes that the claim be paid over a new term of 360 months from the effective date. That is adding 30 years to a loan that matured more than seven years ago. Such treatment is patently unfair to this Secured Creditor, who negotiated a second mortgage loan based on the Debtor's credit worthiness, property value, etc. [Dkt. 83, p.5:19-23]

The tentative ruling is that, before this Court could fully assess the appropriate interest rate and term of any proposed repayment to Hechter/Ocean, this Court would need more evidence. But the tentative ruling is that, based on the evidence that is already in the record, the current proposed Plan's treatment of this claim is insufficient, and therefore the Plan cannot be confirmed.

Specifically, the additional evidence that would need to be presented would include support for Hechter/Ocean's assertion that the current prime rate is 5.5%, and evidence bearing on the risk factors, including whether there are analogous market rates for comparable debt (second liens, with a comparable LTV and comparable duration). See also Till, 541 U.S. 465, 484 (majority noting four components of risk cited by dissent: "(1) the probability of plan failure; (2) the rate of collateral depreciation; (3) the liquidity of the collateral market; and (4) the administrative expenses of enforcement").

(h) Conclusion as to Debtor's finances, and proposed Plan (dkt. 76) and Disclosure Statement (dkt.75)

The tentative ruling is that the cash flow evidence does not support the projections in Debtors' Disclosure Statement, so it cannot be approved on a final basis. In addition, the tentative ruling is that the Plan cannot be confirmed because Debtors have not established feasibility (1129(a)(11)).

The parties would have to present more evidence before this Court could determine the specific interest rate to provide present value (for purposes of 1129(b)(2)(A)(i), 1129(a)(3), and 1129(a)(7)) and whether the proposed term is too long to be "fair and equitable" to Hechter/Ocean (1129(b)(1)). But the tentative ruling is that (i) the combination of the currently proposed interest rate and term are insufficient to provide present value and (ii) this Court need not reach the issue of what exact interest rate and term would be necessary to provide present value because the feasibility issue is dispositive.

Based on the foregoing tentative rulings, the parties should be prepared to address whether this case should be dismissed or converted. One alternative might be for Debtor to abandon the property secured by the lien of Hechter/Ocean. Another alternative might be if Debtors have any other, more feasible strategy to reorganize their finances, including any good faith grounds to object to the Hechter/Ocean claim, and whether that would reduce their obligations enough so that they could propose a feasible plan. But it might be too late to propose such a strategy given the duration of this case, and the lack of evidence that Debtor's finances are improving.

payments amounting to $5,334.18 to Rushmore Loan Mgmt (dkt.72, p.7), and quarterly UST fees of $325 (id., p.9). Debtor also reports that vehicle insurance was only $25,000 (does that comply with legal requirements?) and expired on 12/22/18. Id., p.7.

What caused these losses and missed payments? How can Debtor afford to continue in this chapter 11 bankruptcy case?

(b) Plan (dkt. 74), Disclosure Statement (dkt. 73), and order setting hearing re same (dkt. 63)

The tentative ruling is to reschedule the combined hearing on final approval of the Disclosure Statement and confirmation of the Plan from 3/5/19 to 4/2/19 at 1:00 p.m. for two reasons. First, as noted above, Debtor's finances are problematic, and perhaps additional time will enable Debtor to establish a better track record and meet the feasibility requirement of 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(11).

Second, contrary to the oral ruling at the last status conference, Debtor did not lodge this Court's form of order (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov, under Judge Bason's portion of the web site) setting a combined hearing, which would have directed Debtor to provide notice to creditors of the 3/5/19 hearing (and associated deadlines) in sufficient time to comply with the applicable rules. (Debtor's counsel apparently misunderstood and lodged a different order that included the 3/5/19 hearing along with other matters, which this Court signed without recognizing the error, dkt. 63.)

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/8/19 for Debtor to lodge the correct form of order and file a revised Disclosure Statement and revised Plan that list the revised 4/2/19 hearing date in the caption, and that include a revised form of ballot (dkt. 74, Appendix "1") that states "The Court has provisionally approved" the Disclosure Statement instead of "The Court has approved" (Emphasis added.)

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues. This Court has reviewed the debtor's filed status report (dkt. 17) and the other filed documents in this case.

Dkt. 1, at PDF p.32, line 8a. This Court takes judicial notice that there is considerable construction activity in this geographic area. Why is that income not higher?

In addition, there is no attached statement showing gross income, expenses, and the calculation of net income. That is contrary to the instructions for line 8a, and to this Court's order that for reporting purposes any spouse is to be treated as equivalent to the debtor (dkt. 6, para.3).

If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 12/11/18 (same as for 9/18/18):

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

The docket does not reflect any activity. What is the status of this case, and when will it be ready for a final decree?

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 7/10/18:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 7/10/18.

(1) Current Issues. This Court has reviewed debtor's status report (dkt. 154, 156) and other relevant pleadings in this case. This Court has no issues to raise sua sponte at this time.

(2) Deadlines/dates. Continue to 9/18/18 at 1:00 p.m. (no written status report required; and will go off calendar if a final decree has been issued before that time).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at

Tentative Ruling for 2/13/18:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

The parties should be prepared to address any issues appropriate for resolution at this post-confirmation status conference. The tentative ruling is to set a continued status conference for 7/10/18 at 1:00 p.m.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 11/14/17:

Continue to 2/13/18 at 1:00 p.m. in view of the debtor's post-confirmation status report (dkt. 142). Appearances are not required on 11/14/17.

If you wish to dispute the above tentative ruling, please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings".

Tentative Ruling for 8/15/17:

Appearances required. The debtor's counsel should be prepared to address the issues set forth below.

Proposed order: If this court is persuaded to adopt this tentative ruling, then counsel for the debtor is directed to serve and lodge proposed orders (a) approving the disclosure statement (dkt. 101) on a final basis and (b) confirming the plan (dkt. 102), all as amended by the stipulation with class 2A (dkt. 127, 128). Those proposed orders must be lodged via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date.

(1) Ballot Summary. The debtor's ballot summary (dkt. 131) appears to be inaccurate and internally inconsistent. Although the ballots and stipulation attached to the ballot summary show acceptance by 100% in both dollar amount and number of the claims actually voted or deemed to have been voted in classes 2A, 2B and 4A, and no vote by Class 2C, the ballot summary makes assertions that are not consistent with those ballots, namely:

(a) Cramdown: The ballot summary asserts that the debtor is not requesting cramdown (dkt. 131, item 3), even though the lack of an affirmative vote in class 2C means that the debtor does not satisfy 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(8) and therefore must seek cramdown under 11 U.S.C. 1129(b);

(b) Accepting classes: The ballot summary asserts that only class 4A has voted to accept the plan (dkt. 131, item 6), even though classes 2A and 2B have also accepted the plan; and

(c) Page 2 of the Ballot Summary: The chart on page 2 of the ballot summary (dkt. 131, p.2, top line of chart) fails to show that Class 2A has accepted the plan by 100% in number of claims deemed to have been voted (not just 100% in amount). In addition, it would have been helpful if the ballot summary's "Comments" following that chart had explained that (i) Portfolio Recovery Associates is Class 2C (even though it is listed as LA County Tax Collector in the Plan), (ii) U.S. Bank is Class 2A (even though it is listed as Wells Fargo in the Plan), and (iii) Class 2A is deemed to have voted in favor of the plan under its court-approved stipulation, even though it did not actually cast a ballot. (If any of the foregoing is incorrect then counsel for the debtor must correct those issues at the hearing.)

(2) Status report

The debtor's status report (dkt. 130) misleadingly asserts that this court's order (dkt. 106) previously approved the disclosure statement (dkt. 101), whereas in fact this court only granted preliminary approval for purposes of this combined hearing on whether to approve the disclosure statement (dkt. 101) and confirm the plan (dkt. 102).

(3) Confirmation. Notwithstanding the foregoing, it appears that the debtor's disclosure statement (dkt. 101) should be approved, and that the chapter 11 plan (dkt. 102), as amended by the debtor's stipulation with the holder of the class 2A claim (dkt. 127, 128), has met the requirements for confirmation under 11 U.S.C. 1129(a) & (b).

(4) Correction. This court notes that the tentative ruling for 6/20/17 (reproduced below) was in error in asserting that "[at] the status conference on 5/23/17 this court set a deadline of 6/6/17 to file an amended plan and disclosure statement." In fact, this court was persuaded at that status conference not to impose that deadline.

If you do not appear, and the matter is not adequately resolved by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 6/20/17:

Continue to 8/8/17 at 1:00 p.m. (without the need for any written status report), but impose sanctions of $200 on counsel for the debtor, for the reasons set forth below. Appearances are not required on 6/20/17.

At the status conference on 5/23/17 this court set a deadline of 6/6/17 to file an amended plan and disclosure statement. On 6/15/17, after this court had already prepared a tentative ruling for this status conference, counsel for the debtor filed a stipulation (dkt. 117) and lodged a proposed order for yet another continuance of the confirmation hearing. At no point did counsel telephone chambers to suggest that counsel expected or was attempting to arrange for such a continuance. Moreover, as set forth in the tentative rulings reproduced below, this case has a long history of missed deadlines, last minute filings, and deficient documents.

This court recognizes that to a large extent counsel cannot control delays by a debtor and debtor in possession, and not infrequently a debtor is simply incapable of meeting all of the debtor's obligations. Nevertheless, this court has noted that counsel of record in this case has a pattern, in this and other cases (e.g., In re Barragan, 2:15-bk-29156-NB), of filing late and inadequate documents, and that pattern is not matched by the vast majority of other counsel who appear before this court. All of that strongly suggests that counsel bears some responsibility for those deficiencies, and that imposes substantial burdens on this court, the U.S. Trustee, and any other parties in interest who may be monitoring or involved in such bankruptcy cases. The tentative ruling is that this warrants sanctions under this court's inherent powers and 11 U.S.C. 105. Counsel is also cautioned that this court anticipates issuing similar or increased sanctions if this pattern continues in other cases in future.

If you wish to dispute the above tentative ruling, please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings".

Tentative Ruling for 5/23/17:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor, but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

The ballot summary was due 5/16/17 but was not filed until 5/22/17 at 4:12 p.m. In addition, it is internally inconsistent. What remedies are appropriate?

The plan (dkt. 102) has not been accepted by any class. This is the debtor's second bankruptcy case, and it has been pending for over a year. The debtor's lack of progress for that long a period of time suggests a willful delay. Should this court dismiss or convert this case? Should this court impose a bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy for the third time in a row?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 4/20/16. If this case is not dismissed or converted, the tentative ruling is to hold a continued status conference on 6/20/17 at 1:00 p.m. with a deadline of 6/6/17 to file (but NOT serve) yet another amended plan and disclosure statement.

If you do not appear, and the matter is not adequately resolved by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 5/23/17:

This court anticipates posting a tentative ruling at a later time.

Tentative Ruling for 4/11/17:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues.

(a) UST compliance and adequate protection payments. What is the status?

(b) Plan (dkt. 101) and Disclosure Statement (dkt. 102). 4/14/17 deadline to lodge Judge Bason's form of order authorizing service of the voting package, setting deadlines, and setting a combined hearing on final approval of the Disclosure Statement and confirmation of the Plan for the same time as the continued status conference.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 4/20/16.

delinquency in adequate protection payments. But the monthly operating report for January 2017 (dkt. 95, filed 2/7/17, at p.4) continues to list 4 missed payments for a total of $6,972 delinquency. What was the basis for counsel's misrepresentation to this court? Should this court require counsel and the debtor to testify on that issue, and on the prospects for future income, before this court can find that the plan is feasible (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(11))? Should this misrepresentation have any other consequences?

(c) Plan (dkt. 82) and Disclosure Statement (dkt. 81). The debtor's ballot summary was due to be filed no later than 2/21/17 (dkt. 89). Instead the debtor's counsel has filed a declaration (dkt. 96) asserting that a ballot in favor of the plan has been received by class "6b," even though no such class is listed in the plan (see dkt. 82, Ex.A), and requesting more time to receive ballots from classes 2a and 2b, even though the deadline for ballots has passed. The parties should be prepared to address how best to proceed in these circumstances.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 4/20/16.

(a) Bar date: 7/29/16 (timely served, dkt. 39)

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement (dkt. 82, 81): See above.

(a) Bar date: 7/29/16 (timely served, dkt. 39)

Note: If the U.S. Trustee wishes to file initial comments on any draft Plan documents before the regular deadline, it should do so at least two weeks prior to the subsequent status conference (but, whether or not any comments are filed, all rights are reserved to object to the Disclosure Statement or Plan when deadline(s) for such objections are established).

There are issues with these documents which this Bankruptcy Court will review orally at the hearing.

(b) Monthly operating reports. The debtor's court approved budget (dkt. 19) and the budget attached to her amended chapter 11 disclosure statement (dkt. 74, PDF p. 13) show various typical monthly expenses such as transportation costs, utilities, and food. The expenses included in her budgets submitted to this court are either not reflected in her MORs for August and September 2016 (dkt. 65 and 73, respectively) or are reflected, but in much smaller amounts than budgeted. Is the debtor reporting all of her monthly expenses in her MORs? If not, why not?

Additionally, the MORs appear to reflect that the debtor is receiving less than her budgeted monthly income ($1,800/mo.) from her job as a real estate professional. In August 2016, the debtor reported receipts of $970.01; in September 2016, receipts of $1,000.

Based on the reporting in the debtor's two most recent MORs, this court is concerned that the debtor may not have sufficient disposable income with which to fund her proposed chapter 11 plan.

(a) Chapter 11 Plan and Disclosure Statement (dkt. 59, 58). There are numerous issues with these documents, which this Bankruptcy Court will review orally at the hearing.

(b) Orders on budget and cash collateral motions. On July 19, 2016, this court held continued hearings on the debtor's motion for use of cash collateral (dkt. 18) and budget motion (dkt. 19). The motions were granted on a final basis, and the court's adopted tentative ruling directed the debtor to lodge proposed orders on those motions within seven days of the hearing date. - (1) Current issues. This Court has reviewed the debtor's status report (dkt. 23).
- (a) Prior failed case. The debtor's prior case (no. 2:14-bk-14065-NB) was a chapter 13 case that was dismissed because of plan infeasibility due to the objections by Wells Fargo, and claims by the IRS, FTB, and L.A. County Tax Collector.
 - (b) Debtor's real property
 - (i) Inconsistent rental income amount. This Court notes that the debtor's amended schedule G reflects a monthly rental of $2,200 (dkt. 13, p.10), which was originally listed as $1,500 per month (dkt. 1, p.36). However, the debtor's original schedule I originally listed the debtor's net income from rental property as $2,400 (dkt. 1, p.39). The debtor's amended schedule I now lists net income from rental property as $2,200 (dkt. 13, p.12). Although the rental income now appears to be consistent at $2,200, and schedule G reflects the same lessee, Smark Lyles, is this the correct amount?

(ii) Schedule I. Part 8.a. requires that the debtor attach a statement for each property and business showing gross receipts, ordinary and necessary business expenses, and the total monthly net income.

(iii) Motion to Value. The debtor's status report indicates that the debtor intends to file a motion to value the real property. When does the debtor anticipate filing the motion to value?

(c) UST compliance. The United States Trustee has filed a motion to dismiss or convert (dkt. 24). Although the matter has been set for hearing on 6/21/16, the debtor should be prepared to address more generally, why this case in chapter 11 instead of chapter 13. It appears that the debtor is within the debt limits for chapter 13, and chapter 11 typically is far more expensive, so it seems doubtful that the debtor needs or can afford a chapter 11 case.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 4/20/16.

(a) Bar date: 7/29/16 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: file by 8/19/16 using the forms required by Judge Bason (DO NOT SERVE yet, except on the U.S. Trustee - the court will set a deadline and procedures at a later time). This Court is aware that the debtor has requested a much later deadline (dkt. 23, p.4) but this Court is not aware of any reason why so much time is needed. The debtor should be negotiating with secured creditors and other key constituencies already.

fr. 7/2/19

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/6/19:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 8/6/19.

(1) Current issues

This Court has reviewed the debtor's latest filed documents, including its Status Report (dkt. 43). The status report does not address item (1)(f) from the 7/2/19 tentative ruling (copied below), which raises concerns about possible conflicts of interest between Debtor's principal/landlord and Debtor's bankruptcy estate. Nevertheless, presumably, the leases can be addressed at future status conferences. Therefore this Court is not aware of issues that would warrant a status conference at this time.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 6/1/19.

(a) Bar date: 9/6/19 (timely served 7/18/19) (dkt. 31, 32)

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD (DO NOT SERVE yet, except on the U.S. Trustee - this Court will set a deadline and procedures at a later time).

(c) Continued status conference: 8/20/19 at 1:00 p.m., No written status report required.

(a) Cash Collateral

Debtor's Chapter 11 Status Conference Report (dkt. 17, the "Status Report") asserts that "there is no cash that any entity can claim as its cash collateral." Dkt. 17 at 3. But Debtor's Schedule D lists two possible secured creditors: Bank of the West (the "Bank") - which Debtor "believes" has been paid, but apparently has not confirmed - and FM Marketing & Properties, LLC ("FM Marketing") - as to which Debtor "does not know" whether a UCC-1 was recorded or any termination statement was filed. Dkt. 15 at PDF p. 14-15.

How can Debtor be sure that the Bank and FM Marketing agree that any debts have been fully paid off, without verification from those creditors that they are not asserting an unpaid balance based on, e.g., loan initiation charges, alleged defaults, default interest, late charges, attorney fees, etc.? How can Debtor use cash, which might be subject to asserted liens, without filing and serving a motion for use of cash collateral? See 11 U.S.C. 363(c) (2). What due diligence has been undertaken to determine the foregoing issues, and whether or not there are recorded UCC liens against Debtor?

(b) Other "First Day" Motions

Debtor states that there are approximately 200 employees, including Debtor's principal, Sherif Antoon (dkt. 17 at 2) but Debtor has not filed a motion seeking authorization to pay prepetition payroll. Why not?

Debtor states that it has not filed a budget motion (dkt. 17, p.3) because Debtor "is not an individual" but the posted Procedures of Judge Bason require budget motions, without any exemption for non-individuals. In the past, Judge Bason has ruled that a budget motion is necessary because under 11 U.S.C. 363(b)&(c) only "ordinary course" transactions do not require Court approval, and debtors not infrequently have unduly expansive concepts of what is "ordinary course."

(c) IRS Debt

The Status Report notes that the IRS may have a claim of $140,000 against Debtor and that Debtor intends to enter into a plan treatment stipulation with the IRS. Dkt. 17 at 2. But Debtor's Schedules state that the IRS has a $0.00 claim and that the IRS is included in the Schedules "for notification purposes and as a precaution only." Dkt. 15 at PDF p. 17. Why was the IRS debt not disclosed in Debtor's Schedules?

(d) False Corporate Ownership Statement

Debtor's Principal, Sherif Antoon, declares that there are no "entities" that directly or indirectly own 10% or more of any class of equity interests in Debtor. Dkt.1, p.17. But the term "entity" includes any "person" (11 U.S.C. 101(15)) and the term "person" includes any individual (11 U.S.C. 101(41)). Does Mr. Antoon own 10% or more of the equity interests of Debtor?

(e) Monthly Operating Reports for 4JFarid

The Status Report notes that Mr. Antoon is the principal of 4JFarid, LLC. Dkt. 17 at 7. 4JFarid is Debtor's landlord on three separate leases. Id.

This Court reminds Debtor and its Principal that "for all reporting purposes - including Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs"), disclosure statements, etc. - Debtor must disclose all income, expenses, assets, and liabilities of (a) affiliated businesses and (b) any spouse." Dkt. 3 at 2 (emphasis added). Based on this Court's review of Debtor's schedules, Debtor has not disclosed the income, expenses, assets, and liabilities of 4JFarid.

(f) Assumption of Leases

Debtor has three unexpired leases with landlord 4JFarid. Dkt. 15 at PDF p. 27. Debtor states that it intends to assume these three leases. Dkt. 17 at 7. Assumption requires curing of any default (as well as compensating for any pecuniary losses, and providing adequate assurance of future performance under the leases). 11 U.S.C. 365(b). Debtor's bankruptcy schedules list $180,000 in unpaid rent owed to landlord 4JFarid. Dkt. 15 at PDF p. 17.

This Court is concerned that Mr. Antoon, who is the principal of both Debtor and landlord 4JFarid (dkt. 17 at 7) proposes to assume these leases, at great expense, rather than move to a new location. Debtor is directed to address why it would not be less expensive and in the best interests of creditors to lease new premises.

Tentative Ruling for 8/6/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current Issues

(a) United States Trustee's Fees

The June Monthly Operating Report (dkt. 96, "June MOR") indicates that Debtors still owe $650.00 in United States Trustee's fees for the quarter ending June 30, 2019. Dkt. 96 at 6. Have Debtors paid those fees?

(b) Select Portfolio Servicing Post-Petition Payments

The June MOR indicates that Debtors have not made any post-petition payments to Select Portfolio Servicing. Dkt. 96 at 4. Why not?

(c) Status of Valuation Motion or Settlement of Mazakoda's Inc.'s

Claim

Debtors have stated that they intend to file a valuation motion and avoid Mazakoda's judgment lien or enter into a claim treatment stipulation. Dkt. 96 at 8. Debtors have not filed a valuation motion or a claim treatment stipulation.

The parties should be prepared to explain the status of dealing with Mazakoda's claim as this case has been pending since October 2018 and a chapter 11 plan has not been filed.

Chapter 11

#9.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case
fr. 5/7/19, 06/04/19, 7/2/19

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/6/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

Current issues

(a) United States Trustee ("UST") Motion to Dismiss or Convert ("MTD," dkt. 23, 43), and responses by Olivia Vaatete (dkt. 88) and Ramsaur Law Office (dkt. 89)

The tentative ruling is to convert Debtor's case to Chapter 7.

In relevant part the statute (11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)) provides:

For purposes of this subsection, the term "cause" includes -
(A) substantial or continuing loss to or diminution of the estate and the absence of a reasonable likelihood of rehabilitation;
(B) gross mismanagement of the estate;

...

(E) failure to comply with an order of the court;

... [11 U.S.C. 1112(c)(4)]

(i) Substantial or continuing loss

Debtor's June Monthly Operating Report ("MOR") (dkt. 87) reflects continuing losses, on top of the substantial losses noted in prior tentative rulings (reproduced below).

(ii) Gross mismanagement

Critical to any intelligent management of a business is sufficient recordkeeping and analysis to figure out how the business is performing financially. Debtor's failure to provide such records and analysis, while making very substantial expenditures (see latest MOR (dkt. 87) and prior tentative rulings reproduced below) speaks volumes about the gross mismanagement of this bankruptcy estate.

Chapter 11

(iii) Failure to comply with order

Despite this Court's oral ruling at the hearing on 7/2/19, imposing a deadline of 7/23/19 to file certain documents, Debtor has not done so. Those documents are (1) declarations explaining how the expenses listed in Debtor's MORs are ordinary course, and (2) amended MORs with clear lines between business and personal expenses.

(iv) Other cause

The statutory examples of "cause" for conversion or dismissal are not exclusive. See 11 U.S.C. 102(3). Other "cause" is based on all of the other concerns this Court has had from the inception of this case (see prior tentative rulings, reproduced below).

It appears that conversion is in the best interests of creditors. The statute provides:

... on request of a party in interest, and after notice and a hearing, the court shall convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 7 or dismiss a case under this chapter, whichever is in the best interest of creditors and the estate, for cause unless the court determines that the appointment under section 1104(a) of a trustee or an examiner is in the best interests of creditors and the estate. [1112(b)(1), emphasis added]

It appears that a chapter 7 trustee might be able to sell Debtor's home, with or without avoidance of a lien that parties have questioned, and realize sufficient funds to pay a meaningful dividend to unsecured creditors, or even pay them in full. While the UST originally supported dismissal with a 180-day bar (dkt. 23 at PDF p.6), creditor Olivia Vaatete has provided this Court with an email from the UST's counsel that indicates the UST believes conversion to chapter 7 would be in the best interest of all general unsecured creditors (see dkt. 88, ex. 1). Moreover, she and another of Debtor's creditors filed limited oppositions to the UST's MTD, indicating that their preference was for conversion rather than dismissal. See dkt. 88 & 89.

Proposed order: The UST is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

monthly operating report for April, 2019 ("MOR," dkt. 63), MOR for May, 2019 (dkt. 75), MOR for June, 2019 (dkt. 87)

(c) Motion of Berger law office to withdraw as Debtor's bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 84)

Grant.

Proposed order: Mr. Berger is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

If this case is not converted or dismissed (see below), issue a continuing compliance order because the May monthly operating report is at least 9 days past due (that is the delay as of the preparation of this tentative ruling). 3. Affiliates. For all reporting purposes – including Monthly Operating Reports (“MORs”), disclosure statements, etc. – Debtor must disclose all income, expenses, assets, and liabilities of (a) affiliated businesses and (b) any spouse. See §§ 101(2) & (9); Rule 2015.3; SBE v. Woo, 82 Cal. App.4th 481, 483-84 (2000). Prior authorization of this Court is required for Debtor to cause any affiliate to act out of the ordinary course of that affiliate’s business (§ 363(c)). [Dkt. 7, p.2, emphasis added.]

This order was served on Debtor personally, as well as her attorneys. See dkt. 11. Debtor appears to be in violation of this order, as well as her responsibilities under the Bankruptcy Code.

(i) Huge reported expenditures to date

Debtor's postpetition spending is troubling. Debtor's Amended April MOR reflects that Debtor spent $1,000 on one "Business dinner" for a prospective client, $181.66 for another "Business Lunch," $974.55 for a present for a client, $136.98 for another lunch that is not described as a business lunch (so apparently it was Debtor's treat to herself?), $529.45 for food from "Great Alaska Seafood" (again, not described as a business expense), and numerous other expenses that appear on their face to be extravagant and of dubious business benefit. Dkt. 63 at PDF p.5. Similarly, the May MOR includes a $466.00 "Gift for client," $1,000 for "Home Maintenance" (the nature of which is not disclosed), and a manicure and other items that are unusual for a debtor in bankruptcy.

Even if the gifts, personal grooming, and meal are truly business expenses (not personal treats), what evidence does Debtor have that spending such sums is in the "ordinary course" of the financial affairs of debtor's business, Zeniba LLC, such that causing the business to spend such amounts was within the ordinary course of Debtor's own business affairs (see 11 U.S.C. 363(c))? Even if such expenditures were typical of the prepetition past, how are they appropriate postpetition, given Debtor's duties as a trustee for the benefit of creditors?

Debtor's belated declaration (dkt. 74) vaguely explains that "I occasionally buy 'thank you' gifts for my clients and take them out for lunch and dinner at expensive restaurants" which is "how I market my business to get new clients." Id., para.6. That is all very well but what evidence is there that, in the past, such expenditures have in fact reliably generated profits that exceed expenses? Can that be evidenced by, for example, monthly profit and loss statements for the last 36 months?

(ii) Projected future returns

Debtor's projected returns on such expenditures appear to be uncertain at best. Based on Debtor's budget, she caused Zeniba LLC to spend well over $100,000 in March, April, and May of 2019. Dkt. 67, Ex.A, at PDF p.10. The May MOR lists a gross receipts of exactly $98,000 (dkt. 75, p.4, item 4) - an oddly round number - and also lists $28,075.47 in unpaid adequate protection payments to the two most senior liens. Dkt. 75, p.7.

First, where did the money come from for expenditures in April? The petition date is 4/11/19 so that money should have been reflected in the April MOR, either as cash or as accounts receivable or another source of such funds, but on a quick review this Court saw no such disclosure. That MOR lists a $0 starting balance and fails to include the normal balance sheet and profit and loss statement for a business. Dkt. 63, p.1 In addition, the attached bank account statements are heavily redacted and apparently incomplete.

Second, spending $100,000 in the first three months of this case is an astounding level of monthly expenditure in comparison to Debtor's assets and liabilities. Those funds appear to have been sufficient to have paid a substantial dividend to unsecured claims, but unless Debtor can generate consistent profits those funds appear to be at risk. The latest (alleged) profit of $98,000 might (or might not) reflect a net loss in Debtor's overall finances since the petition date (it is difficult, if not impossible, to tell from Debtor's partial disclosures).

Third, although conceivably Debtor's expenditures will result in future income, Debtor projects only modest and very uneven returns. Debtor projects net monthly income over a nine month period that gyrates from negative $5,405.10 in April to $23,289.29 in May, up to $77,784.3 in June, and back down to $284.13 in July. Dkt. 67, Ex.A, at PDF p.10. How can creditors, the UST, and this Court have reasonable confidence that Debtor's expenditures will generate reliable returns above what Debtor has caused Zeniba LLC to spend?

Debtor herself appears to recognize that such expenditures are inappropriate. For example, her budget projects that she will cause Zeniba LLC to cease making any expenditures for "Business Gifts to Clients" - if such gifts had a history of reliably generating profits, why would she not seek to continue them? See dkt. 67, Ex.A, at PDF p.10.

(iii) Conclusion as to budget issues

Debtor appears to be in violation of this Court's above-quoted order, section 363(b), and her duties as trustee for the benefit of creditors. Moreover, those violations appear to be risking, if not actually causing, depletion of assets that could be used to pay creditors. The parties should be prepared to address appropriate remedies.

If this Court does not convert or dismiss this case under 11 U.S.C. 1112(b), this Court will hold a continued hearing on the Budget Motion concurrent with the continued status conference as set forth below. Meanwhile, the parties are directed to address what to do about the proposed budget expenditures until that continued hearing: e.g., should this Court prohibit Debtor from making certain types of expenditures? should this Court set a deadline for Debtor to file her declaration authenticating 36 months of prior profit and loss statements?

Tentative Ruling for 6/4/19:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Sale of home

What is Debtor's progress regarding sale of the home?

(b) Motion for DIP Financing for insurance premium financing (dkt. 39, 42, 48)

Grant, subject to (a) a satisfactory explanation whether, in view of the objection by MTGLQ Investors, LP; Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. as servicer ("Wells Fargo," dkt. 55), the force-placed insurance would render the proposed Debtor's insurance duplicative (or if, on the other hand, whether it is feasible and sensible for Debtor to obtain insurance and for Wells Fargo to obtain a partial refund of its force-placed insurance); (b) naming Wells Fargo is an additional insured; and (c) the conditions set forth in the conditional opposition of Pensco Trust Co. fbo Elizabeth S. Boren IRA ("Pensco") (dkt. 53) (being named as additional insured; providing a copy of the proposed insurance agreement; reserving its rights to maintain force-placed insurance; and reserving other rights).

Proposed order: If this Court is persuaded to grant the motion, then Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(c) United States Trustee ("UST") Motion to Dismiss ("MTD," dkt. 23, 43)

Debtor appears to have remedied some issues raised in the MTD and to be in the process of attempting to remedy other issues. See dkt. 51 (status report) and dkt. 36 (MOR#1), 41 (Opp. to MTD), 42 (see below), 46 (employment of counsel). What is the UST's position on these issues? Should this hearing on the MTD be continued to the same time as the continued status conference (see below)?

(d) Budget motion (dkt. 34), amended Bankruptcy Schedules I&J (dkt. 33), and Monthly Operating Report ("MOR," dkt. 36)

This Court is troubled by Debtor's vague and inconsistent information about her income and expenditures.

(i) Cash transactions

Debtor's MOR (dkt. 36, p.5) reports over $1300 in cash "For Business." The tentative ruling is that this is insufficient reporting, and that (A) Debtor must amend her MOR no later than 6/7/19 to account for her cash expenditures to the maximum extent possible based on her declaration under penalty of perjury, and (B) in any future MOR she must provide a complete cash accounting.

(ii) Business net income of $12,500/mo. or $10,000/mo.?

Debtor's amended Bankruptcy Schedules I and J (dkt. 33) and her budget motion (dkt. 34, Ex. A&B) are ambiguous and inconsistent. Debtor reports income of $12,500/mo. from her jewelry business, Zeniba LLC (line 8a of Schedule I) but attaches a table showing $10,000/mo. of net income (dkt. 34 at PDF p.9). That table has an asterisk next to the business name, but no corresponding note.

(iii) Very round numbers for historical amounts, and no future projections

Although the table was filed on 5/14/19 it uses only very round numbers, not actual figures, for the column entitled "3/1/19." (The other months show $0 income or expenditures.) Why is it not possible for Debtor to provide actual dollar amounts for March, 2019, given that the motion was filed over a month and a half after the end of that month? Why does the table not include future projections?

(iv) Attorney fees of $20,000/mo?

The table lists $20,000 for attorney fees under the 3/1/19 column. It is unclear whether the attorney fees are intended to be a monthly business expense - in which event, why are they so high? - or bankruptcy fees - in which event, why are they included in this table, which should be limited to business income and expenses?

(v) Vague expenditures

The table lists gross income of $75,000 as against expenses of $35,000 for "Stones, Materials, Supplies for Jewelry" and $10,000 for "Travel" (apparently for the business) (in addition to the $20,000 for attorney fees). How can parties in interest or this Court determine whether causing Zeniba, LLC to make these vague and unsubstantiated proposed expenditures, with no historical context, is within the "ordinary course" of Debtor's own business dealings (in which event no approval of this Court is normally required per 11 U.S.C. 363(c)(1)), or if instead Court approval is required (11 U.S.C. 363(b))? How much assurance can there be that spending all these funds will result in the projected gross and net income?

(vi) Double-counting and/or mis-classification?

In addition to the table's listing of expenses, Debtor's Bankruptcy Schedule J, line 21, lists more "Business expenses" of $10,833.00, without explanation. Why are such expenses not included in the table that is supposed to show all business expenses? What is the nature of such expenses?

Debtor's table of business expenses does not include any business meals, but her MOR does list several business meals, as does her Bankruptcy Schedule J, line 21. Again, why are all business expenses not included in the table that is supposed to show all gross income, expenses, and net income from the business?

(vii) Conclusion regarding budget

This Court recognizes that Debtor's use of funds during this bankruptcy case might be a moot point if all goes as she plans, and she is able to sell her home and pay her creditors. But best laid plans do not always work out, and meanwhile creditors and this Court are being left in the dark about Debtor's actual and projected income and expenses.

Debtor is cautioned that if she engaged in transactions that should have been, but were not, authorized, there may be adverse consequences. For example, if those transactions generate any losses/liability, then she might be liable, and such liability might be nondischargeable.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 6/7/19 for Debtor to file an amended budget motion and her declaration addressing all of the foregoing issues, and serve those papers on the UST, Pensco, and any other creditor who requests a copy. The tentative ruling is to set the budget motion for a

If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 5/7/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues

(a) Budget motion; Bankruptcy Schedule I

Debtor's status report (dkt. 19) anticipates that a budget motion will have been filed already, but as of the preparation of this tentative ruling none has been filed. Debtor has also ignored the instructions on Bankruptcy Schedule I, line 8a (dkt. 20 at PDF p.8) to "Attach a statement for each ... business showing gross receipts, ordinary and necessary business expenses, and the total monthly net income" from the business. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 5/10/19 for filing and serving the budget motion and filing an amended Schedule I.

(b) UST compliance

Is Debtor now in compliance with the requirements of the Office of the United States Trustee ("UST")?

Tentative Ruling for 8/6/19:

Continue to 9/10/19 at 2:00 p.m., to be heard concurrently with Plaintiff's Motion for Summary Judgment (see dkt. 34 & 39). Appearances are not required on 8/6/19.

Tentative Ruling for 6/4/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 1/4/16. At the hearing on 5/7/19, the parties informed this Court that the judgment at issue had been affirmed on appeal. Additionally, Defendant/Debtor had obtained new counsel (adv. dkt. 31) who requested additional time to review this matter. The parties should be prepared to address whether the nonbankruptcy judgment is preclusive on some or all issues in this adversary proceeding. If so, is there anything left to do but issue a judgment determining that the nonbankruptcy judgment is nondischargeable? On the other hand, if Defendant/Debtor asserts that preclusion is not sufficient to establish nondischargeability, what deadlines and other procedures should this Court adopt to move this matter forward (e.g., a deadline for any additional discovery and any dispositive motions, and a concurrent deadline to lodge an order for mandatory mediation)?

Tentative Ruling for 10/9/18:

The plaintiff mis-filed the status report in the main case (main case dkt. 42) instead of this adversary proceeding. The plaintiff also failed to lodge a proposed order continuing this matter (using this Court's "LOU" program), and instead attached it to the status report.

Notwithstanding these errors, the tentative ruling is to continue this Status Conference to 12/18/18 at 11:00 a.m. Plaintiff is directed to file the next status report in this adversary proceeding (not in the main case) no later than 12/4/18. Appearances are not required on 10/9/18.

This matter has been continued multiple times (see tentative rulings reproduced below, and see Order, adv. dkt. 18). At the 2/27/18 hearing, this court further continued the hearing to today's date and directed plaintiff to give written notice. No such notice appears to have been filed on the docket. Why not?

Tentative Ruling for 2/27/18:

Appearances required. At the hearing on 5/2/17 this court was persuaded to continue this matter to 9/12/17. This matter was further continued to today's date (see Order, adv. dkt. 18).

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address (1) the results of their mediation, (2) whether to continue this status conference a short time (for finalization of any settlement) or a long time (far enough ahead that the parties can litigate their issues in State Court, which then presumably will have a partially or fully preclusive effect on any nondischargeability issues before this court), and (3) any other matters appropriate to address at this status conference.

Chapter 11

Adv#: 2:19-01149 Cathay Bank, a California banking corporation v. Schaefer Ambulance

#4.00 Cont'd status conference re: Removal
fr. 7/2/19

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required. This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv. dkt. 20) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(A) Debtor/Defendant's motion for TRO and/or alleged automatic stay violation in removed action (the "TRO Motion," 2:19-ap-01149-NB, dkt. 10), Cathay Bank's opposition (adv. dkt. 18), Debtor/Defendant's reply (adv. dkt. 19), and McNeal defendants' joinder (adv. dkt. 21)

(1) Whether the TRO Motion is properly before this Court
Cathay Bank asserts that a separate adversary proceeding is required for the TRO Motion. This Court disagrees.

Rule 7001(7) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) provides that (with inapplicable exceptions) "a proceeding to obtain an injunction or other equitable relief" requires an adversary proceeding. But the removed action is itself an adversary proceeding that has been "federalized." This Court does not read Rule 7001(7) to require that the pleadings themselves must include requests for injunctive relief: in this Court's experience adversary proceedings sometimes include requests for preliminary injunctive relief, regardless whether the pleadings themselves include claims or counterclaims for injunctive relief, and requiring amendments to the pleadings every time anyone seeks injunctive relief appears to be unnecessary and unduly burdensome, so there is no reason to interpret Rule 7001(7) that way.

(2) Whether Cathay Bank's actions constitute a violation of the automatic stay

The tentative ruling is that Cathay Bank's attempts to depose Schaefer Ambulance's accountant after removal of the state court action to Bankruptcy Court would constitute a violation of the automatic stay. But the tentative ruling is also that it is appropriate to annul the stay retroactively such that those attempts do not constitute any such violation. These tentative rulings involve several steps, discussed below.

(3) Whether 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(1) applies to removed actions

(a) Plain meaning

The plain meaning of the statute is that the stay applies to the "continuation" of any pending "action or proceeding against the debtor." 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(1). Cathay Bank cites to several decisions for the proposition that the automatic stay implicitly does not apply to proceedings initiated against a debtor in the debtor's home Bankruptcy Court. See adv. dkt. 18 at PDF pp. 10-11; and see generally In re Miller, 397 F.3d 726, 730 (9th Cir. 2005) ("The automatic stay does not apply to proceedings initiated against the debtor if the proceedings are initiated in the same bankruptcy court where the debtor's bankruptcy proceedings are pending.") (citations omitted). This Court is bound by that holding, and fully agrees with it. But there is a substantial difference between proceedings initiated in the Bankruptcy Court and proceedings that are removed to the Bankruptcy Court.

When a proceeding is initiated in the Bankruptcy Court, a strict application of section 362(a)(1) would lead to absurd results - e.g., having to file a motion for relief from the automatic stay before filing most papers, including a motion for relief from the automatic stay itself (which would result in an infinite series of motions to be able to file motions). But Cathay Bank has not established that there is anything absurd about applying the plain meaning of the statute to a removed action. Therefore, this Court must apply the plain meaning of the statute.

(b) Alternative analysis

Alternatively, supposing for the sake of discussion that there were any ambiguity in the applicable statutes (which there is not), that would mean that this Court should look to what the applicable rules provide and, if they provide no guidance, then this Court should look to any relevant legislative or rule-making history as well as policy considerations. Debtor/Defendant points out that none of the cases cited by Cathay Bank address the advisory committee notes to Rule 9027 (see adv. dkt. 19 at PDF p. 3) which provide in relevant part:

If the claim or cause of action which is removed to the bankruptcy court is subject to the automatic stay of [section] 362 of the Code, the litigation may not proceed in the bankruptcy court until relief from the stay is granted. [Rule 9027 Advisory Committee Notes (emphasis added).]

In addition, public policy favors application of the automatic stay. One of the main purposes of the stay is to provide a breathing spell for debtors. See In re N. Coast Village, Ltd., 135 B.R. 641, 643 (9th Cir. BAP 1992). If a creditor could obtain automatic relief from the automatic stay simply by removing an action that would eviscerate the breathing spell.

Another purpose of the automatic stay is to protect creditors from each other by stopping a race for the debtor's assets. Id. Again, that purpose would be entirely undermined if a creditor who happened to have a pending action could obtain automatic relief from the stay by removing that action (while other creditors, who did not already have a pending action on the petition date, would remain stayed).

A third purpose of the automatic stay is to provide for an orderly liquidation (or reorganization) of the estate. Again, that purpose would be frustrated if any creditor with a pending action could automatically obtain relief from the automatic stay simply by removing the action.

True, the Bankruptcy Court could be asked to enjoin such a creditor, and if the creditor had already taken acts detrimental to the estate the Bankruptcy Court could be asked to try to "put Humpty Dumpty back together again." But it might be too late, and in any event that shifts the burden to the debtor and the bankruptcy estate, contrary to Congress' purpose in providing a stay in the first place - that is why, after all, the stay is "automatic": to alleviate the burden on a debtor/trustee and other creditors of having to scramble to stop whatever litigation is pending.

It is also true that the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel for the Ninth Circuit (the "BAP") has held that section 362(a)(1) does not apply to removed actions, in an unpublished decision cited by Cathay Bank. See In re Liberty Asset Mgmt. Corp., 2017 Bankr. Lexis 758, at *11-12 (9th Cir. BAP). But this Court respectfully disagrees with Liberty Asset. The BAP did not address how it could disregard the plain meaning of the statute, nor did it address the legislative history of the statute or Rule 9027, nor did it address public policy.

For all of these reasons, this Court concludes that even if section 362(a)(1)'s meaning were not plain (which it is), both the advisory committee's notes and public policy favor application of the automatic stay to any pending action against the debtor even when it is removed to the Bankruptcy Court.

This conclusion accords with persuasive authority cited by Debtor/Defendant. See In re Cashco, Inc., 599 B.R. 138 (Bankr. D. N.M. 2019) ((cited in Reply (adv. dkt. 19), pp.2-3). See also In re Brateman Bros., Inc., 135 B.R. 853, 855 (Bankr. N.D. I.N. 1991) (same).

(4) Whether the removed action is "against the debtor"

As Cathay Bank concedes, the removed action "is presently proceeding against all Defendants," which includes the Debtor/Defendant. Adv. dkt. 18 at PDF p.12. Cathay Bank proposes to depose Debtor/Defendant's accountants and not its principals at this time (see adv. dkt. 18 at PDF p.14).

The tentative ruling is that Debtor/Defendant is correct that this is an action "against" it within the meaning of section 362(a)(1). Allowing Cathay Bank to depose the accountant and continue otherwise prosecute the removed action could "result in potentially preclusive adverse findings and rulings against the Debtor, and to recover damages from the Officers to satisfy Cathay's prepetition claims against the Debtor." Adv. dkt. 10 at PDF p.15. Therefore the action is within the ambit of matters that are stayed under section 362(a)(1).

(5) Annulment

The tentative ruling is, on this Court's own motion, to grant retroactive annulment of the stay as to past acts, without granting prospective relief except as provided in the next section of this discussion (below). There are several reasons why annulment appears to be appropriate.

First, Cathay Bank had reason to believe that its acts did not violate the automatic stay because several courts have so held, including the BAP. There is even authority that BAP decisions are binding (this Court respectfully disagrees - in the absence of a parallel holding from the District Court or a higher Court - but the point is that Cathay Bank had reasons to believe that, under binding authority in this Circuit, its acts did not violate the automatic stay).

Second, there is no evidence that Cathay Bank was not acting in good faith. Cathay Bank's papers set forth a fairly long history of delays in its ability to obtain discovery, including what appear to be good faith extensions granted by Cathay Bank.

Third, Debtor/Defendant does not assert that any harm has occurred from violation of the automatic stay, other than having to brief the issue, and this Court is not inclined to treat that as cognizable harm in these circumstances. It appears that no actual discovery has taken place, so all of Debtor/Defendant's rights are preserved to oppose such discovery.

Fourth, there is a judicial and practical efficacy of annulling the stay retroactively, so as to reduce the parties' expenditure of time and money arguing over a non-event (the lack of discovery) and focus instead on future events: whether discovery should or should not be permitted going forward.

Finally, without listing every factor identified in the cases as potentially relevant, the tentative ruling is taht balancing all of the equities favors annulment. See In re Fjeldsted, 293 B.R. 12 (9th Cir. BAP 2003); and see also In re Williams, 323 B.R. 691, 697-702 (9th Cir. BAP 2005) (various issues involving annulment, and application of Fjeldsted), aff'd, 204 Fed.Appx. 582 (9th Cir. 2006), overruled on other issues, In re Perl, 811 F.3d 1120 (9th Cir. 2016) (scope of automatic stay).

(6) Whether Debtor/Defendant has met the standard for a temporary restraining order

The tentative ruling is that some limitations on discovery are appropriate. But the tentative ruling is also to agree with Cathay Bank that preservation of evidence is sufficiently important to warrant some discovery at this point, including not only document production but also obtaining witness' testimony while events are still somewhat fresh in their minds.

Under Section 105(a), a bankruptcy court "may issue any order, process, or judgment that is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of this title." Section 105(a) gives the bankruptcy courts power to stay actions that are not subject to the section 362(a) automatic stay but "threaten the integrity of a bankruptcy's estate." In re Excel Innovations, Inc., 502 F.3d 1086, 1093 (9th Cir., 2007) (internal citations and quotations omitted).

Because Debtor/Defendant seeks to prevent Cathay Bank from continuing the removed action and deposing its accountant, Debtor/Defendant is at least in part asking for a preliminary injunction to stay actions against non-debtors. In addition, the following analysis would apply as to Debtor/Defendant itself in the event that (contrary to the tentative ruling in earlier sections of this discussion) the automatic stay did not apply, because the "usual preliminary injunction standard applies to stays of

To prevail on the TRO Motion, Debtor/Defendant must show:

(1) a strong likelihood of success on the merits, (2) the possibility of irreparable injury to [the party seeking the TRO] if preliminary relief is not granted, (3) a balance of hardships favoring [that party], and (4) advancement of the public interest (in certain cases). Alternatively, a court may grant the injunction if [Debtor/Defendant] demonstrates either a combination of probable success on the merits and the possibility of irreparable injury or that serious questions are raised and the balance of hardships tips sharply in [its] favor. ... These two formulations represent two points on a sliding scale in which the required degree of irreparable harm increases as the probability of success decreases. They are not separate tests but rather outer reaches of a single continuum. [Id. at 1093, internal citations omitted]

The maximum injunctive relief that a bankruptcy court may grant is a stay until confirmation of a plan of reorganization. Id. at 1095 (internal citations omitted).

(a) Likelihood of success on the merits/successful restructuring

In this context the Ninth Circuit has equated the likelihood of success on the merits with the likelihood of a successful reorganization. The Ninth Circuit has also noted that "it is not a high burden to show reasonable likelihood of success in reorganization." Id. at 1097.

Cathay Bank argues that because Debtor/Defendant is liquidating rather than filing a plan of reorganization, it has failed to meet this element. See adv. dkt. 18 at PDF p.16. Debtor/Defendant argues the contrary, and notes that Section 1123 allows a chapter 11 liquidation. See adv. dkt. 10.

This Court is inclined to read the term "reorganization" to include any proper financial restructuring under the Bankruptcy Code, including a liquidation in a chapter 11 case. It makes sense to read Exce/ this way, because this Court takes judicial notice that the assistance of any debtor's principals can be just as necessary, or even more so, in an orderly liquidation as in a reorganization. In other words, the purposes of injunctive relief would be served by recognizing the likelihood of a successful liquidation as satisfying this element.

Debtor/Defendant has shown a reasonable likelihood of success regarding a successful liquidation of the bankruptcy estate. For example, this Court has authorized the marketing of various parcels of real property, one of which has now been authorized to be sold (see dkt. 307), and this Court has also authorized the sale of personal property of the estate (see dkt. 291). In addition, Debtor/Defendant is within the (extended) exclusivity period (see dkt. 271).

For the foregoing reasons, this element thus weighs in favor of granting some sort of injunctive relief.

(b) Irreparable harm

Debtor/Defendant argues that it will suffer irreparable harm if Cathay Bank is permitted to continue prosecuting the removed action because its principals are critical to a successful liquidation and financial restructuring. See adv. dkt. 10 at PDF p.20. Cathay Bank argues to the contrary, based on Debtor/Defendant's lack of ongoing operations and its hiring of experts to liquidate the estate. See adv. dkt. 18 at PDF p.17.

This Court takes judicial notice that hiring professionals to liquidate the estate is a far cry from turning over the entire liquidation to those professionals, and that in many cases a debtor's principals have to be closely involved in the process of liquidation so as to preserve as much value as possible. For example, liquidating assets such as receivables may require detailed knowledge of past practices and events, to address the account obligors' excuses for non-payment or reduction in payments. That appears to be particularly applicable in this case, because of the complex aspects of collecting medical reimbursements from governmental entities, insurers, hospitals, private patients, etc.

This element thus weighs in favor of granting some form of injunctive relief.

(c) Balance of hardships

Under this prong of the test, "a bankruptcy court must identify the harms which a preliminary injunction might cause to defendants and ... weigh these against plaintiff's threatened injury." In re Excel Innovations, Inc. 502 F.3d at 1097 (internal quotations and citation omitted).

Cathay Bank argues that the balance of hardships weighs in its favor because evidence and documents of the third-party accountants must be preserved, and information must be obtained while it is relatively fresh in the accountant's mind. See adv. dkt. 18 at PDF p.17. Debtor/Defendant argues that the balance of hardships weighs in its favor for essentially the same reasons it would suffer irreparable harm. See adv. dkt. 10 at PDF p.21. In its reply it further argues that any hardship that may have been imposed from delay in discovery efforts were mitigated by its cooperation in producing documents, and the fact that its accountants presumably have been instructed by their own legal counsel about the requirement to retain documents. See adv. dkt. 19 at PDF p.8.

The tentative ruling is that Cathay Bank has the better of this argument. Memories can fade quickly (or at least, witnesses might be able to assert faded memory more plausibly when time passes). Documents can be inadvertently (or intentionally) misplaced or destroyed. It is appropriate to preserve evidence, including both documents and testimony.

This element thus weighs against granting the TRO Motion.

(d) Public interest

Cathay Bank did not address this element in its opposition. Debtor/Defendant argues that the element weighs in its favor because "the public interest is served in a bankruptcy case by promoting a successful reorganization" (adv. dkt. 19 at PDF p. 8), but it is not apparent why deposing Debtor/Defendant's accountants would impose such a heavy burden on the Debtor/Defendant's principals that the potential disruption to the bankruptcy process would outweigh Cathay Bank's need to preserve evidence.

This element thus weighs against granting the TRO Motion.

(e) Conclusion

This Court's tentative ruling is that Cathay Bank be permitted to obtain discovery from Debtor/Defendant's accountant, including both documentary evidence and deposition testimony. In other respects, however, the tentative ruling is to grant the TRO Motion on an interim basis, with a continued hearing in a couple of months to reassess the situation.

(7) Sanctions

In Cathay Bank's opposition (adv. dkt. 18 at PDF pp.13-14) and Debtor/Defendant's reply (adv. dkt. 19 at PDF p.4-5) there are references to allegedly sanctionable conduct of the other party. Because neither party has filed any separate motion for sanctions or briefed this Court on the issue, this Court expresses no opinion on these issues.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(B) Other issues in the removed proceeding

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation

Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 8/20/19 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

Tentative Ruling for 8/6/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's motion for TRO and/or alleged automatic stay violation in removed action (the "TRO Motion," 2:19-ap-01149-NB, dkt. 10), Cathay Bank's opposition (adv. dkt. 18), Debtor's reply (adv. dkt. 19), and McNeal defendants' joinder (adv. dkt. 21)

Grant in part and deny in part, as set forth in the tentative ruling for calendar no. 4 (8/6/19 at 2:00 p.m.).

(b) TCF Equip. Finance, Inc.'s emergency motion (dkt. 310) to modify order (dkt. 291) re sale of personal property

This Court has provisionally authorized TCF to present this matter on 8/6/19 at 2:00 p.m., based on a telephonic request pursuant to LBR 9075-1(a). The first issues this Court will address are (i) whether TCF has served whatever parties are appropriate, in sufficient time, and (ii) whether shortening time is appropriate. If so, this Court will address the merits of whatever TCF is requesting.

Chapter 11

Tentative Ruling for 6/4/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Application to employ real estate broker (dkt. 164)

Subject to an adequate explanation regarding the value/price discrepancy for the Atlantic Blvd. Property (see Cathay Bank Obj., dkt. 243, at pp.6:25-7:6), the tentative ruling is to grant the application to employ real estate broker. The tentative ruling is to overrule Cathay Bank's other objections.

(i) Alleged lack of disinterestedness

Although Cathay Bank's supplemental opposition (dkt. 243) argues that the proposed broker, Standard Mortgage, Inc. dba Standard Realty ("Broker") is not "disinterested," and therefore is not eligible for employment under 11 U.S.C. 327(a), the tentative ruling is that this objection is not persuasive. True, an independent contractor with Broker, Mr. Akbari (who previously stated that he was an "employee" of Broker), is married to the sister of the wife of one of Debtor's officers/control persons. Cathay Bank cites authority that, under California law, being a brother-in-law is equivalent to being a brother, so the tentative ruling is that Mr. Akbari is a "relative" of an "officer" or "person in control" of Debtor and therefore he is an "insider." See 11 U.S.C. 101(45) (a "relative" means an "individual related by affinity or consanguinity within the third degree as determined by the common law"); 101(31)(B)(vi) (insider includes a "relative of a ... officer, or person in control of the debtor"). But that does not mean that Broker is an insider.

It also appears to be true that Debtor has not been as forthcoming with the connections between Broker and Debtor as would have been advisable, including both the familial relationships noted above and the recent discovery that Mr. Akbari "was the listing agent on the Cabrillo Street Property (during the nunc pro tunc timeframe in which the Broker is sought to be employed)" Cathay Bank Obj. dkt. 243, p.3:4-6 & Warrington Decl., Ex.1. Finally, as noted in the tentative ruling for 5/21/19, part (1)(b) (reproduced below), the statutory list of insiders "includes" but is not limited to the listed examples (see 11 U.S.C. 102(3)) and in addition this Court notes that a professional must be not only "disinterested" but also must not "hold or represent an interest adverse to the estate." 11 U.S.C. 327(a).

But the tentative ruling is that the facts recited above do not disqualify Broker from employment. A different real estate agent will be handling this matter (Mr. Ahmadi, dkt. 234); there is no evidence that Mr. Ahmadi or Broker itself has any incentive to act in any way adverse to the bankruptcy estate; and the failures to provide disclosure of every arguable "connection" between Broker and Debtor (within the meaning of Rule 2014, Fed. R. Bankr. P.) is unfortunate but understandable given the attenuated nature of the connections (Debtor's officer's wife's sister's husband originally was the listing agent for Broker on one of the four properties to be sold).

(ii) Alleged issues with 4.5% commission

Cathay Bank argues that Debtor has failed to justify a 4.5% commission; but to the contrary, the tentative ruling is that in general this Court should give deference to Debtor's business judgment, and that even without such deference Debtor has provided sufficient evidence that a 4.5% commission is appropriate (see dkt. 234) (Declaration regarding typical commission for commercial properties being 4-6%, and for residential properties 5-6%). Cathay Bank has provided no evidence to the contrary. Nor has Cathay Bank cited authority that Debtors are required to "shop around" for the lowest commission (which might not be the best broker) prior to selecting a broker, especially given that the proposed Broker has agreed to a slightly reduced commission from what is typical (see id. at 3).

(iii) Alleged lack of qualifications re industrial property

The tentative ruling is that although there may be conceptual differences between "industrial" and "commercial" properties, Cathay Bank has not established that any such difference is meaningful in the context of this case and the properties at issue.

(iv) Conclusion as to Broker

The tentative ruling is to grant the application and authorize Broker's employment subject, again, to an adequate explanation regarding the value/price discrepancy for the Atlantic Blvd. Property. See Cathay Bank Obj., dkt. 243, at pp.6:25-7:6.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this portion of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Tentative Ruling for 5/21/19:

Appearances are not required on 5/21/19.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's counsel's fee application (dkt. 175, 177)
Allow $145,683.50 in fees and $5,714.10 in expenses for a total of $151,397.50, and authorize draw down of the retainer ($124,846.70 remaining), with the balance of the fees and expenses to paid from the estate.

Cathay Bank's response (dkt. 207) does not object to allowance of the fees but seeks to reserve all rights it might have regarding a purported lien on some of the retainer. Debtor's reply (dkt. 215) asserts that the bank has no such rights to reserve because it has been given a replacement lien on the real estate.

This Court's recollection is that the bank did not entirely waive such rights at the hearing on 5/7/19, but did indicate that it was no more going to seek disgorgement from Debtor's firm (of authorized postpetition distributions from the retainer account) than it would seek disgorgement from one of Debtor's utilities (of authorized postpetition utility payments). In any event, whatever the parties' interpretations of the representations on 5/7/19, the issue is too remote for either party to be expending any substantial attorney fees on it at this time.

Cathay Bank has its security interest in the accounts receivable that existed as of the petition date, and it has replacement liens in ongoing accounts receivable. Debtor believes the bank will be paid in full out of those things. But as adequate protection (11 U.S.C. 361, 363(e) & 552(b)) the bank has replacement liens in Debtor's real estate - to cover both (i) any diminution in the value of its security interest in the accounts receivable as of the petition date and (ii) any diminution in the value of its purported security interest in the retainer as of the petition date. Therefore the bank's and Debtor's rights are both reserved, and neither party should be spending much time on this issue. Any attorney fees spent arguing about this issue are subject to this Court's review for reasonableness (under 11 U.S.C. 330 and 331 for Debtor's counsel, and under 11 U.S.C. 506(b) for Cathay Bank's counsel).

(b) Application to employ real estate broker (dkt. 164)

The tentative ruling is, with one exception, to overrule the objection of Cathay Bank (dkt. 199), based on Debtor's reply (dkt. 214). The exception is that, although Debtor has presented evidence of the reasonableness of the broker's proposed commission and experience, and this Court generally should defer to Debtor's business judgment, Cathay Bank makes a good point that the real estate at issue ranges broadly from a single family residence to commercial property etc., and there is insufficient evidence of the proposed broker's specific experience as to each type of real estate. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 5/24/19 for Debtor to file and serve a supplemental declaration detailing such experience, with a deadline of 5/29/19 for any supplemental objection by Cathay Bank, and a continued hearing (if there is any such objection) concurrent with the continued status conference (see below).

As for disinterestedness (11 U.S.C. 101(14), 327(a)), Cathay Bank argues that the broker is not disinterested because, from the information on the docket, it appears that one of its alleged employees (Mr. Akbari) is a relative by marriage of one of Debtor's principals, and the principals are beneficiaries of a trust that engaged in prepetition transactions with Debtor that, according to the bank, violated Debtor's covenants with the bank. On the one hand, it is true that Mr. Akbari previously declared that he was "employed" by the broker (dkt. 77, p.1:22).

On the other hand, this Court interprets that as an (unfortunately) imprecise description of his arrangement as an independent contractor. Alternatively, even if he is an employee, this Court is not persuaded that this disqualifies the broker from employment by the estate.

Mr. Akbari apparently is married to the sister of the wife of one of Debtor's officers/control persons. The tentative ruling is that this makes him related "by affinity or consanguinity" within the fourth degree (1.officer - 2.spouse - 3.sister of spouse - 4.Mr. Akbari), so he is not a "relative" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 101(45) and therefore he is not an "insider" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 101(31)(B)(vi) or (E). That is not dispositive, because, the statutory list of insiders "includes" but is not limited to the listed examples. See 11 U.S.C. 102(3). But the tentative ruling is that the connection has been sufficiently disclosed (Rule 2014, Fed. R. Bankr. P.) and is not disqualifying.

In practical terms, this Court does not perceive that any alleged ties between the proposed real estate broker and Debtor's principal creates any incentive to lessen the price obtained for the real estate, or otherwise prejudice the interests of the bankruptcy estate. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to approve the employment, subject to satisfactory supplemental evidence as set forth above.

Chapter 11

Revised Tentative Ruling for 5/7/19:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Employment of bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 83)

The tentative ruling is to authorize Debtor's bankruptcy counsel (whose employment has already been approved except for the retainer issue), to draw down on the retainer as otherwise permitted (e.g., after allowance of fees in the forthcoming interim fee application), without deciding at this time whether Cathay Bank does or does not have a traceable security interest in the retainer. Instead the tentative ruling is to grant the Bank a replacement lien, in the full amount of the Bank's disputed lien on the retainer, on Debtor's real estate (to the extent, if any, that the Bank's existing replacement lien does not already apply). That replacement lien would be subject to the same limitations on validity, priority, and amount as this Court has ordered with respect to cash collateral (see dkt. 71).

Reasons: Given the Bank's current debt of approximately $3.1 million (see dkt. 156, p.5:15-21), and the equity in the real estate of approximately $4 million (see id., p.6:4-11), such a replacement lien appears fully sufficient to provide adequate protection. Meanwhile, any further litigation over the retainer issue appears unnecessary and potentially wasteful and distracting from the other, important issues in this bankruptcy case.

(b) Continued use of cash collateral (dkt. 156)

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not sufficiently justified its proposed expenditures under the line item for "Professional Fees (Legal, Accounting)." The tentative ruling is to grant the motion for use of cash collateral, through 8/18/19, except that professional fees must be limited, and the tentative ruling is to set a limit of paying not more than $15,000 per week without further authorization of this Court. (To be clear: if Debtor in its business judgment believes that it must incur more than that amount of professional fees, it may do so, subject to the usual limits on reasonableness of fees, billing judgment, and business judgment - what is limited by this tentative ruling is use of cash collateral, not incurring fees.)

(c) Cathay Bank's adequate protection: replacement liens v. cash payments

The tentative ruling is to deny the Bank's request for interim payments. It is already adequately protected by the protections on the terms of this Court's prior orders and the additional protections set forth above.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 2/20/19.

(a) Bar date: 6/17/19 (timely served, dkt. 129).

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: file by 6/30/19 using the forms required by Judge Bason (DO NOT SERVE yet, except on the U.S. Trustee - this Court will set a deadline and procedures at a later time).

(c) Continued status conference: 6/11/19 at 2:00 p.m., no status report required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 5/7/19:

This Court anticipates posting a tentative ruling at a later time.

Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

Appearances required. This status conference has been set pursuant to this Court's order (dkt. 4) and notice thereof (dkt. 75), pursuant to which status conferences are held concurrent with any other calendared proceeding.

(1) Current issues

(a) Employment of bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 83)

Debtor is directed to address the issues raised in Cathay Bank's opposition (dkt. 117) (source of retainer; non-consent to use of cash collateral or carve-out; and objection to any Knudsen procedure). In addition, the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov)

state that counsel must file local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF and also state:

Note: the judge prefers that local form F 2014-1 not repeat the employment application – instead simply say "see application" or the like (reasons: proposed professionals frequently do not track the language of Rule 2014, so the judge requires use of the form so that someone verifies the elements of that rule under penalty of perjury, and so the court staff does not have to do a line-by-line comparison with each element of the Rule).

(b) Employment of special counsel, employment issues (dkt. 113)

See above re local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF.

(c) Employment of BidMed LLC as asset liquidation broker (dkt. 134)

See above re local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF.

In addition, although this employment application is not on for hearing at this time, Debtor and all parties in interest should be aware that Judge Bason has in the past disapproved buyer's premiums. See the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) which provide in part that any order authorizing such employment typically will include a provision stating, "no buyer's premium" for auctioneers. This should not be interpreted as making any economic change in the compensation arrangement - the auctioneer and Debtor can adjust what is paid by Debtor such that the net compensation is the same - but the tentative ruling is that this is required both as a matter of disclosure (of what the professional is charging out of property of the estate or the proceeds of such property) and as a matter of disinterestedness (not being paid by both parties, but only by Debtor).

Tentative Ruling for 3/12/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion to use prepetition bank accounts (dkt. 12)

Grant on a final basis, on the same terms as the interim order (dkt. 55).

(b) Utility motion (dkt. 25)

Grant on a final basis, on the same terms as the interim order (dkt. 54).

(c) Cash collateral motion (dkt. 13)

Grant on a final basis, on the same terms as the interim order (dkt. 71), except that after review of the parties' briefs (dkt. 76, 78) and the other documents and records before this Court, the tentative ruling is as follows:

(i) Real estate: Continue Cathay Bank's replacement lien on all of Debtor's real properties (subject to adjustment as set forth below).

(ii) Books and records: Grant access to Debtor's historical books and records, and all documents used to create the cash collateral budget and the chart summarizing collateral values, with such access starting on 3/18/19, for Cathay Bank's forensic accountant, James Crossland, to inspect and copy (including copying hard drives), during normal business hours. Such access must be subject to whatever Non-Disclosure Agreement, redaction, or other safeguards as may be necessary or appropriate to protect employees' privacy, attorney-client communications, Debtor's trade secrets, etc. The parties are directed to meet and confer on those issues, and the parties are also directed to review the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) regarding discovery disputes.

(iii) Reporting: Require Debtor to file and serve reconciliations, 10 days in arrears on Wednesday of each week (i.e., covering the week that ended 10 days prior), comparing actual results with budgeted results, and calculating variances against budgeted and actual receipts and expenditures.

(iv) CDs: The tentative ruling is that Cathay Bank need not apply any CDs to the extent that they are collateral for standby letters of credit for any liability to workers' compensation insurers. But the parties are directed to address whether there are any other CDs at issue, and why, as a condition for the other adequate protection being granted to Cathay Bank, it should not be required to apply such other CDs against the loans for which they are collateral, so as to stop accruing interest or other charges adverse to Debtor and the bankruptcy estate.

The tentative ruling is to deny Cathay Bank's request for additional adequate protection in the form of monthly payments of interest. Debtor is liquidating much of its business, which creates a situation in which both assets and cash flow are somewhat uncertain. That uncertainty favors granting the Bank the additional adequate protection set forth above; but it also means that Debtor may have urgent needs to use cash for legitimate purposes other than interest payments to the Bank.

The tentative ruling is that all of the foregoing is subject to being revisited as the facts and circumstances develop. For example, if Debtor turns out to have success in collecting the proportion of accounts receivable that it predicts, it might be appropriate to find that Cathay Bank is adequately protected by a lien on less than all of Debtor's remaining real estate. Likewise, if Debtor pays down some of its debt to Cathay Bank through sales of some real property, that might reduce the need for the replacement liens to be as extensive as contemplated by this tentative ruling.

Conversely, if Debtor's accounts receivable appear to be less valuable than predicted by Debtor then Cathay Bank might need every bit of the replacement liens in Debtor's real property and all other assets (except avoidance actions etc.). Ironically, the more dire Debtor's finances, and the greater the risk of administrative insolvency, the stronger the argument that even if the Bank were free to foreclose it would have to pay someone to liquidate Debtor's assets in an orderly fashion (11 U.S.C. 506(c)), and in any event the "equities of the case" might warrant a carve-out for professionals (11 U.S.C. 552(b)). But those are issues that can be addressed when and if there is any need to do so.

The tentative ruling regarding Cathay Bank's evidentiary objections and due process objections (dkt. 78) is that, if this Court adopts the foregoing tentative ruling (granting replacement liens in essentially all of Debtor's assets), then those objections should be overruled because (x) Cathay Bank cannot be granted a replacement lien in greater than "all" of Debtor's assets, so to a large extent the value of those assets is irrelevant, and (y) whatever weaknesses may exist in Debtor's valuation evidence, there is enough to establish on a prima facie basis a reasonably probability that Cathay Bank is sufficiently over-secured to provide it with a substantial equity cushion, which is one form of adequate protection, and that is sufficient for present purposes.

As for the alleged costs of selling property subject to Cathay Bank's replacement liens, this Court can assess for each proposed sale whether Debtor's proposed use of the proceeds is consistent with adequate protection, and whether Cathay Bank is unreasonably withholding its consent under 11 U.S.C. 363(f)(2). In addition, all parties in interest are directed to the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) regarding 363 sales.

(d) Motion to reject collective bargaining agreements (dkt. 62) (the "1113 Motion")

Debtor seeks relief without a hearing, on 14 days' notice (so called "negative notice," or a "scream or die procedure"). But it appears that an actual hearing is required, and must be held quickly, under 11 U.S.C. 1113(d) (1) ("Upon the filing of an application for rejection the court shall schedule a hearing to be held not later than fourteen days after the date of the filing of such application," although "[t]he court may extend the time for the commencement of such hearing for a period not exceeding seven days where the circumstances of the case, and the interest of justice require such extension, or for additional periods of time to which the trustee and [employee's] representative agree.").

The 1113 Motion was filed on 3/1/19. The tentative ruling is to find that granting a short extension is warranted, based on the apparent lack of prejudice from doing so, and that a hearing should be held either on 3/21/19 at 1:00 p.m. or, if the representatives of the various employee groups will consent, concurrent with the continued status conference (see below). Debtor is directed to address what efforts have been made to obtain the consent of any representative who is not present at the hearing. The tentative ruling is that Debtor must file and serve notice of the hearing date on all representatives (and other parties requiring notice) no later than 3/13/19.

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Tentative Ruling for 2/28/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

The tentative ruling, subject to any oppositions at the hearing (pursuant to the orders shortening time) is to grant the following relief and to find that, to the extent relief is granted pursuant to Rules 4001(b)(2) and 6003 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.), such relief is necessary avoid immediate and irreparable harm to the estate.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion to limit notice (dkt. 8)

Grant in substantial part, subject to certain modifications to be addressed at the hearing. Among other things, this Court anticipates that, because the motion was not served on the entire creditor matrix, any party who was not served may seek reconsideration without meeting the usual standards under Rules 9023, 9024 or 52(b) (Fed. R. Bankr. P. & Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Rules 7052 and 9014(c)).

(b) Motion to extend time (dkt. 9)

Grant, except to the extent that the proposed payments in Exhibit 1 (dkt. 14, Ex.1) exceed the priority maximum provided in 11 U.S.C. 507(a)(4) and, if applicable, 507(a)(5).

(d) Motion to use prepetition bank accounts (dkt. 12)

Grant, subject to sufficient safeguards (i) to ensure accurate accounting including separation of pre- and postpetition accounting and (ii) to prevent inadvertent payment of prepetition obligations. Debtor is directed to work closely with the Office of the United States Trustee to develop and implement such procedures.

(e) Cash collateral motion (dkt. 13)

Grant in part and deny in part on an interim basis, as set forth in calendar no. 5 (2/28/19 at 10:00 a.m.).

(f) Motion to reject unexpired leases (dkt. 24)

Grant, except that Debtor seeks rejection effective as of 2/20/19 and, although there is some authority for retroactive rejection (see, e.g., In re At Home Corp., 392 F.3d 1064 (9th Cir. 2004)), Debtor has not addressed the types of considerations that would determine whether retroactive rejection is appropriate (e.g., were the premises vacated as of 2/20/19? when were the landlords given notice that the premises would be or were vacant? were the premises left in "broom clean" condition?). Debtor is directed to address those issues at the hearing.

(g) Utility motion (dkt. 25)

Grant on an interim basis, subject to any opposition at the hearing, with a final hearing to take place at the same time as the continued status conference (see below) and a deadline of 3/1/19 for Debtor to file and serve a notice of the final hearing.

#4.00 Hrg re: Objection to proof of claim
11 filed by Quantum3 Group LLC

Docket 25

Tentative Ruling:

Continue to 9/19/19 at 8:30 a.m. to address the following issues.
Appearances are not required on 8/15/19.

Lack of cost/benefit analysis. The posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) provide:

§ 502: claim objections & cost/benefit analysis. When objecting to claims, be sure to include an analysis of whether the costs of preparing and litigating the claim objection (administrative expenses) do not exceed the anticipated benefits (reductions in claims). For example, if the anticipated dividend is small or 0% then the attorney fees incurred in prosecuting your claim objection to any general unsecured claim probably will exceed the benefit to the bankruptcy estate/debtor, so filing that objection would be a waste of the bankruptcy estate's (and everyone else's) resources (unless, for example, the claim is nondischargeable, in which event the attorney fees might well be justified).

No later than 7 days after the date of this hearing the movant must file either:

(1) a supplemental declaration explaining why the attorney fees for this objection are justified (including supporting evidence, such as a copy of the plan showing the projected dividend to the claimant, and a calculation comparing that projected dividend against the attorney fees related to this claim objection), or

(2) a withdrawal of the claim objection.

No fees on this matter, absent specific authorization. Counsel is directed not to charge any fees on this matter (including all past, present and future work related to this claim objection), and to return any fees received on this matter, unless and until this Court expressly finds: "Counsel has provided a cost/benefit analysis that is sufficient for purposes of Judge Bason's posted Procedures regarding claim objections." It is counsel's responsibility to include the quoted phrase, if warranted, in the proposed order on this claim objection.

This Court does not have the capacity to monitor all fee applications to assure compliance with the foregoing limitation on fees. But if counsel is found to have disregarded this limitation then this Court may impose sanctions.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 8/15/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

The tentative ruling is either to continue this hearing or to discharge the order to show cause (the "OSC," dkt. 12) depending on the following. Debtor's response (dkt. 26) does not explain why the other bankruptcy case has been pending without any activity since April of 2019. What is Debtor doing to assure that the other case is concluded.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA

DEBTOR

Docket 19

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/15/19:

Appearances required. There is no tentative ruling, but the Debtor should be prepared to address the issues raised in this Court's "Order Regard (1) Movant's Request For Dismissal With A Bar And (2) This Court's Prior Order Directing Debtor To Show Cause Why This Case Should Not Be Dismissed With A Bar" (dkt. 42).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 8/6/19:

Grant the motion's requests for (a) relief from the automatic stay, and (b) dismissal with a bar, as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Chapter 13

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): response (dkt. 23), reply (dkt. 29).

The automatic stay does not apply

The motion papers establish that the exception to the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(b)(4) applies.

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) for the reasons set forth in the motion papers and the reply.

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Retroactive relief

Grant the request for retroactive annulment of the stay. See In re Fjeldsted, 293 B.R. 12 (9th Cir. BAP 2003); and see also In re Williams, 323 B.R. 691, 697-702 (9th Cir. BAP 2005) (various issues involving annulment, and application of Fjeldsted), aff'd, 204 Fed.Appx. 582 (9th Cir. 2006), overruled on other issues, In re Perl, 811 F.3d 1120 (9th Cir. 2016) (scope of automatic stay).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Additional regarding relief from the automatic stay to pursue litigation

The Bankruptcy Court "shall grant relief from the stay" upon a showing of "cause." 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1). "'Cause' is determined on a case-by-case basis." In re Tucson Estates, Inc., 912 F.2d 1162, 1166 (9th Cir.1990). In determining whether "cause" exists to grant relief from the automatic stay to allow a movant to pursue litigation in a non-bankruptcy forum, courts in the Ninth Circuit have examined the factors set forth in In re Curtis, 40 B.R. 795, 799–800 (Bankr. D. Utah 1984). See In re Kronmeyer, 405 B.R. 915 (9th Cir. BAP 2009); In re Plumberex Specialty Prods., Inc., 311 B.R. 551, 559–60 (Bankr. C.D. Cal.2004). Those factors are: (1) Whether the relief will result in a partial or complete resolution of the issues; (2) The lack of any connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case; (3) Whether the foreign proceeding involves the debtor as a fiduciary; (4) Whether a specialized tribunal has been established to hear the particular cause of action and whether that tribunal has the expertise to hear such cases; (5) Whether the debtor's insurance carrier has assumed full financial responsibility for defending the litigation; (6) Whether the action essentially involves third parties, and the debtor functions only as a bailee or conduit for the goods or proceeds in question; (7) Whether the litigation in another forum would prejudice the interests of other creditors, the creditors' committee and other interested parties; (8) Whether the judgment claim arising from the foreign action is subject to equitable subordination under Section 510(c); (9) Whether movant's success in the foreign proceeding would result in a judicial lien avoidable by the debtor under Section 522(f); (10) The interests of judicial economy and the expeditious and economical determination of litigation for the parties; (11) Whether the foreign proceedings have progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial; and (12) The impact of the stay on the parties and the "balance of hurt." Plumberex, 311 B.R. at 559. "[W]hile the Curtis factors are widely used to determine the existence of 'cause,' not all of the factors are relevant in every case, nor is a court required to give each factor equal weight." In re Landmark Fence Co., Inc., 2011 WL 6826253 at *4 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 9, 2011).

United States Bankruptcy Court

Based on the present record, the tentative ruling is that the foregoing factors, or close analogs to them, favor granting relief from the automatic stay. In particular: nonbankruptcy Courts can preside over criminal matters, which this Bankruptcy Court cannot do; the nonbankruptcy proceeding allegedly involves the debtor as a fiduciary; there is a very powerful public interest in pursuing restitution for victims as well as civil and criminal remedies; the nonbankruptcy matters have progressed substantially; judicial economy would be served by granting relief from the automatic stay - it makes sense to determine if any assets truly belong to Debtor, or instead if they are fraud victims' money, before it can be determined what, if anything, is part of any bankruptcy estate; the motion papers establish bad faith and an abuse of the bankruptcy system; and the balance of hurt tips sharply in favor of pursuing restitution and other remedies for alleged crime victims.

Dismissal, with a bar

"Cause" for dismissal has been established, within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 1307(c), based on Debtor's failure to notify the prosecutors of the bankruptcy case, failure to list assets on the bankruptcy schedules, and other acts and omissions set forth in the motion papers. In addition, the tentative ruling is that the pattern and gravity of such acts and omissions establishes that they constitute a "willful" failure to appear in proper prosecution of this case within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1). Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to dismiss this case with a 180-day bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #8.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

WILMINGTON SAVINGS FUND SOCIETY, FSB
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 30

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

#9.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

THE ESTATE OF WILLIAM WALTER SELLERS
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 23

Tentative Ruling:

Continue to 9/10/19 at 10:00 a.m., with a deadline of 8/22/19 for Movant (1) to serve Debtor via U.S. mail, as explained below, and (2) to file a proof of service. Appearances are not required on 8/20/19.

Reasons:

The proof of service does not show service on both (i) Debtor's counsel and (ii) Debtor individually ("double service"), as required by Rules 7004(b)(9)&(g) and 9014(a), Fed. R. Bankr. P.). The tentative ruling is that this Court has neither the authority nor the inclination to excuse non-compliance with these rules. It is true that this double service requirement is the exact opposite of typical non-bankruptcy practice, in which it is generally impermissible to serve a represented party personally; but there are good reasons for the double service rule in bankruptcy. It helps protect Debtor and the bankruptcy estate (i.e., all parties in interest) from matters "falling through the cracks" given the high volume and speed of matters in typical bankruptcy cases, and the frequent use of service via U.S. mail.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

STRATEGIC ACQUISITIONS, INC.
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 8

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Retroactive relief

Grant the request for retroactive annulment of the stay. See In re Fjeldsted, 293 B.R. 12 (9th Cir. BAP 2003); and see also In re Williams, 323 B.R. 691, 697-702 (9th Cir. laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

XIANG WANG
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 8

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part and deny in part as set forth below. Appearances are not required.

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Deny the request for relief that will remain effective notwithstanding any future bankruptcy case, without prejudice to any other types of relief granted herein (or previously granted), for the following reasons. First, for lack of sufficient cause shown. Second, for lack of service on the persons who executed the documents through which the movant asserts its interest in the property. See LBR 4001-1(c)(1)(B).

Chapter 13

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Chapter 13

#20.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [UD]

BRECKENRIDGE PROPERTY FUND 2016, LLC
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 10

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part, deny in part, as set forth below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Deny, without prejudice to any other types of relief granted herein (or previously granted), for the following reasons.

The motion requests requests "in rem" relief (i.e., relief applicable notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases (under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and/or In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31)). The tentative ruling is to deny that request because there is insufficient evidence on the record to convince this Court that Debtor is involved in a scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud the Movant as is required under 362(d)(4) or the other authorities cited above.
