#1.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

CU MEMBERS MORTGAGE
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 52

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

#7.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 9

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions. Appearances are not required.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

#11.00 [CASE DISMISSED ON 12/20/19]

Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order Confirming Termination of Stay or That No Stay is in Effect

Docket 30

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In addition and in the alternative, grant the motion under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3) and (j): there is no automatic stay because (a) Debtor's prior case (#2:19-bk-11151-NB) was dismissed (on 4/22/19) within one year before this case was filed (on 2/4/19), (b) that dismissal was not under 11 U.S.C. 707(b), and (c) no finding of good faith was timely sought and obtained. The automatic stay has terminated both as to Debtor in personam and as to property of Debtor. See In re Hernandez & Jiminez, Case No. 2:11-bk-53730-NB, Dkt 40.

In addition and in the alternative, grant the motion under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(4). Debtor actually had not one but two bankruptcy cases that were dismissed within the year before this latest bankruptcy case was filed: Case No. 2:18-bk-21271-VZ, dismissed 10/15/18, and Case No. 2:19-bk-11151-NB, dismissed 4/22/19.

Section 362(c)(4) provides in relevant part

(A)(i) ... if 2 or more single or join cases of the debtor were pending within the previous year but were dismissed, other than a case refiled under a chapter other than chapter 7 after dismissal under section 707(b), the stay under subsection (a) shall not go into effect upon the filing of the later case ... [11 U.S.C. 362(c)(4)(A)(i) (emphasis added)]

Rule 9006(a)(1)(A) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) provides that when computing time periods where the period stated is in days or a longer unit of time, the day of the event that triggers the period is to be excluded. Here, the Section 362(c)(4) time period is stated in years. Pursuant to Rule 9006(a)(1)(A), the petition date, 10/15/19, is to be excluded. Therefore, the instant bankruptcy petition was filed 364 days after Debtor's first prior bankruptcy case was dismissed. Therefore, after considering Debtor's next bankruptcy case that was dismissed on 4/22/19, Debtor had two dismissed bankruptcy cases that were pending within one year previous to the petition date.

Because Debtor did not seek or obtain any order imposing the automatic stay, Debtor's instant bankruptcy case falls within Section 362(c)(4). This is an alternative reason why there is no automatic stay in effect.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 1/14/20:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Cash collateral motion (dkt.31&32)

Grant in part and deny in part on an interim basis, as set forth in calendar no. 2, 1/14/20 at 1:00 p.m.

(b) Status report

At the hearing on 12/17/19 this Court orally directed Debtor's counsel to file a status report no later than 12/31/19. As of the drafting of this tentative ruling, no status report has been filed. Why not?

(c) Amended November Monthly Operating Report ("MOR," dkt. 43)

(i) State court suit

The MOR reflects a $5,000 payment to James A. Judge, Esq. related to a civil law suit. Dkt. 43, p.9. Debtor also states that "a civil law suite against Aztec Financial (Secured Creditor) is pending." Id. at p.30.

The docket does not reflect any application to employ Mr. Judge as special counsel. In addition, there is no disclosure whether this payment was on account of prepetition or postpetition fees/costs/other charges. Should this Court issue an order directing Mr. Judge to show cause why he should not disgorge that payment and/or why he, Debtor, and/or Debtor's bankruptcy counsel should not have a remedy imposed for expending assets of this bankruptcy estate in violation of the Bankruptcy Code?

(ii) Car insurance

The MOR reflects that Debtor's car insurance is due to expire on 12/31/19. Id. at p.26. Has Debtor obtained replacement insurance?

Tentative Ruling for 12/17/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues

(a) Cash collateral motion (dkt.31-33)

Debtor has self-calendared this motion for 1/14/20 at 1:00 p.m. That is over a month after the petition date.

What is Debtor doing with the cash meanwhile? There may be no good answer: either Debtor is using the cash, in violation of 11 U.S.C. 363(c), or Debtor is not using the cash to pay essential expenses, in violation of Debtor's duties to manage the estate and pay utility bills and other ordinary and necessary expenses in a timely manner (see 11 U.S.C. 1107-08 and 28 U.S.C. 959(b)).

Why did Debtor not use the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) to have this matter heard on 14 days' notice, or alternatively apply for an order shortening time if the matter needed to be heard before that 14 day period?

Chapter 11

#2.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Chapter 11 Case for Order
Authorizing Use of Cash Collateral

Docket 31

Tentative Ruling:

Deny in part and grant in part Debtor's motion for use of cash collateral (the "Cash Collateral Motion," dkt. 31) on an interim basis, subject to the conditions set forth below, with a continued, final hearing on 2/18/20 at 1:00 p.m., and a deadline of 1/17/20 for Debtor to file and serve a notice of the final hearing. Appearances required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Preliminary Issues

(1) Disputed liens

Debtor disputes claim(s) allegedly secured by two properties: (1) 45 East 69th Way, Long Beach, CA 90805 ("69th Way") and (2) 11 Shadow Lane, Rolling Hills, CA 90272 ("Shadow Lane"). Debtor does not dispute a claim secured by a third property: (3) 49 East 68th Way, Long Beach, CA 90805 ("68th Way"). See dkt. 31, p.11, para. 8.

Debtor asserts the 69th Way and Shadow Lane properties are "encumbered by a loan which he did not take out but was fraudulently done by a realtor Frank Hernandez whose license has been suspended." Dkt.30 at PDF p.3. Debtor declares, "I will segregate all excess funds in the Debtor in Possession account while a resolution on those claims [is being obtained]." Dkt. 31, p.11, para. 8. This Court has several concerns.

First, Debtor has not provided proof that the Cash Collateral Motion was served properly on the holder(s) of the lien on those two properties, in full compliance with Rule 7004 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) (made applicable by Rule 9014(b)). See dkt.31 (last page), dkt.32 (last 4 pages). Specifically, Debtor has not served them "Attn: Officer or Managing/General Director" or the like (see Rule 7004(b)(3) and see also Rule 7004(h)), nor is it clear that Debtor has used addresses where the Officers or other requisite persons are situated (to the contrary, at least one address appears likely to be a PO Box for payments, and this Court takes judicial notice that payment addresses often are different from addresses for service of process).

Second, Debtor has not obtained any declaratory judgment clearing title of the allegedly fraudulent liens, or any other judgment or order that would permit Debtor to ignore the record title showing an interest in cash collateral. Therefore, the disputed liens must be provided with some form of adequate protection. See 11 U.S.C. 105(a), 361, 363(e).

Third, as noted above, Debtor declares, "I will segregate all excess funds in the Debtor in Possession account while a resolution on those claims [is being obtained]." Dkt. 31, p.11, para. 8 (emphasis added). That is insufficient. Commingling funds in the DIP account does not adequately protect the asserted liens. Debtor must establish a separate account to hold all funds in excess of the dollar amounts necessary for insurance, real estate taxes, and any other expenses approved by this Court. Debtor is directed to address at the hearing whether a separate DIP bank account has been established for each property, and if that account is sufficient to segregate cash collateral.

Fourth, although Debtor has checked the box in the Cash Collateral Motion (dkt.31, p.3, section 6) stating that a memorandum of points and authorities is attached if Debtor proposes not to make adequate protection payments, that is false: no such memorandum is attached.

Fifth, the tentative ruling is that an additional condition to establish adequate protection is that Debtor must act diligently in bringing whatever challenges Debtor might have to the asserted liens.

For all of the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is that (a) Debtor must segregate all excess funds as set forth above, (b) Debtor must re-serve the motion papers in compliance with Rule 7004 no later than 1/16/20, and (c) Debtor must address at the continued hearing what steps Debtor has taken to address the allegedly fraudulent nature of the liens.

F2081-1.1.ORDER.CASH.COLLATERAL or the equivalent. Attach a copy of this tentative ruling as an exhibit, thereby adopting it as the written ruling of this Court, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. Do not repeat the terms set forth in the motion or any stipulation. Incorporate those terms by reference (including the docket number of the document), subject to any modification by this Court.

(b) Timing. Lodge the proposed order within 7 days after the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Minimum adequate protection

In addition to the postpetition security interests that are automatically provided pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 552 (e.g., in traceable proceeds and profits), and subject to any more comprehensive protection that may be included in the motion or related papers, Debtor shall provide at least the following protection to any creditor with a security interest in the subject property (pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 361-364, as applicable):

(a) Insurance. For all collateral of a type that typically is insured (e.g., real property and improvements), Debtor is directed to maintain insurance in a dollar amount at least equal to Debtor's good faith estimate of the value of such creditor's interest in the collateral, and such insurance shall name such creditor as an additional insured. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments for such insurance.

(b) Taxes. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments on account of postpetition real estate taxes (to the extent that real estate is part of the collateral).

(c) Disclosures/access. Debtor is directed to provide, upon such creditor's reasonable request, periodic accountings of the foregoing insurance and tax obligations and payments, as well as postpetition proceeds, products, offspring, or profits from the collateral, including gross revenues and expenses and a calculation of net revenues, including any rents and any fees, charges, accounts, or other payments for the use or occupancy of rooms and other public facilities in lodging properties (as all of the foregoing terms are used in 11 U.S.C. 552). Debtor is directed to provide appropriate documentation of those accountings, and access for purposes of inspection or appraisal.

In the event that the motion or related papers seek authority to grant postpetition liens to the creditor(s) with respect to prepetition debts any such liens shall be limited to the same validity, priority, and amount as prepetition liens. As used herein, the "validity, priority, and amount" or any similar phrase that may be used by the parties or this Court is deemed to include the following:

(a) Extent. Such liens shall be limited to the type of collateral in which the creditor held a security interest as of the petition date, unless this order expressly states that the liens granted by this order are intended to attach to different types of collateral from the prepetition collateral. For example, if prepetition liens extended to inventory and accounts receivable but not equipment then postpetition liens are likewise limited (unless otherwise expressly provided by order of this Court). In addition, postpetition liens shall not extend to the proceeds of any avoidance actions, any recoveries under 11 U.S.C. 506(c), or any "carveout" under 11 U.S.C. 552.

(b) Priority. Such liens shall be limited to the same priority as the security interest held by the creditor as of the petition date.

(c) Dollar amount. Such liens shall be limited to the dollar amount needed to protect the creditor against diminution in the value of the secured claims as of the petition date.

(d) Enforceability. Such liens shall be limited to the extent that the creditor's security interests were duly perfected and valid as of the petition date, and to the extent that they are unavoidable.

(e) Automatic postpetition perfection. Any automatic perfection of such liens shall be subject to any applicable limitations regarding the Court's authority, jurisdiction, or due process.

(4) Automatic disapproval of insufficiently disclosed provisions

Any provision of the type listed in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or in local form F4001-2 (e.g., cross-collateralization) or any waiver of the "equities of the case" exception in 11 U.S.C. 552(b)(2) shall be deemed automatically disapproved and excepted from any order granting the motion, notwithstanding any other provision of such order, unless either: (a) such provision is specifically and prominently disclosed in the motion papers in a checklist (such as local form F4001-2), or alternatively (b) such provision is specifically identified in any proposed order granting the motion, using terminology of the type used in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or local form F4001-2

(5) Disputes

In the event of any disputes regarding the rulings in this order, the parties are directed to meet and confer and, if they cannot resolve their disputes consensually, contact Judge Bason's chambers to arrange a mutually convenient time for either a telephonic or in-person hearing to address such disputes.

There is no tentative ruling. The parties should be prepared to address whether debtor has cured all outstanding compliance issues, and whether Debtor's second corrected opposition continues to have error(s) in calculating projected cash flow. That opposition lists net income before personal expenses for "Oct-19" and "Nov-19" as -5,850.00, but then after personal expenses of $1,751.00 for each month it lists "excess income" of $34,900.00. In addition, this Court is concerned about (i) whether Airbnb rental would be in compliance with any local permitting and zoning requirements and is otherwise permissible, (ii) whether that proposed use might expose the bankruptcy estate to liabilities, (iii) whether there is adequate insurance for that use of the property, and (iv) whether the proposed sale of the property is consistent with any agreement with Airbnb.

(b) Real estate agent.

The employment application (dkt. 26, p.4:1-4) states that Agent has agreed to disclose to Debtor [i.e., only to Debtor? how about disclosure to creditors, the US Trustee, and this Court?] any agency relationship Agent has with other parties ("Third Parties") that may be part of a real estate transaction for the sale of the Real Property i.e., dual agency? that is prohibited by the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at [www.cacb.uscourts.gov)] as well as the amount of any compensation Agent receives from Agent's relationship with any Third Parties [i.e., splitting the commission with a cooperating agent from a different real estate agency? or something else?].

(a) Order on Debtor/Defendant's Motion To Set Aside Entry Of Default (adv. dkt. 19)

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after this hearing date, and attach a copy of this Court's 12/17/19 tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, for the reasons stated therein and at the hearing. Appearances are not required.

Current issues

(1) Debtor/Defendant's motion to set aside entry of default (adv. dkt. 19), Plaintiff's opposition (adv. dkt. 25), and Debtor/Defendant's reply (adv. dkt. 26)

Deny without prejudice for the reasons set forth below.

The 9th Circuit employs a three-part test to determine whether or not "good cause" exists to set aside entry of default under Rule 55(c) (Fed. R. Civ. P.), made applicable in adversary proceedings by Rule 7055 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). The three factors are:

(1) whether [the party seeking to set aside the default] engaged in culpable conduct that led to the default; (2) whether [it] had [no] meritorious defense; or (3) whether reopening the default judgment would prejudice the other party. [United States v. Signed Pers. Check No. 730 of Yubran S. Mesle, 615 F.3d

1085, 1091 (9th Cir. 2010) (internal quotation and citation omitted).]

This standard is disjunctive, such that a finding that any one of the above factors is true is sufficient reason to refuse to set aside the default. Id.

(a) Whether Debtor engaged in culpable conduct that led to the default

Debtor provides three explanations for why she was not culpable - (1) her prior counsel withdrew on 8/6/19, shortly before her answer was due (on 8/14/19), and prior counsel never filed an answer, (2) a series of exigent personal matters, and (3) that she is not an attorney and is unfamiliar with the details and formalities of litigation deadlines. Adv. dkt. 19, p.4:11-14 and p.4:21-27.

Debtor did not file the instant motion (11/17/19) until almost three months after default was entered against her (8/20/19, adv. dkt. 9). See adv. dkt. 25, p.5:13-16. Debtor has not explained why the above three explanations excuse a three month delay in filing the motion. Was Debtor interviewing lawyers during that time? Debtor also does not provide any specific dates of her exigent personal matters that demonstrate there was a direct relationship between those events and Debtor's mental state at the time the answer was due. See adv. dkt. 25, p.6:10-12. For example, did Debtor visit a doctor or other professionals to address those exigent personal circumstances? While Debtor might not be an attorney familiar with litigation deadlines, immediately after default was entered she enlisted her state court attorney to assist in having the default set aside. Adv. dkt. 19, p.3:25-p.4:1. Was Debtor similarly aware of the answer deadline?

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not provided sufficient support for her explanations of how she did not engage in culpable conduct, which is sufficient grounds for denying her motion.

(b) Whether Debtor has meritorious defenses to the causes of action in the adversary proceeding

Debtor's motion explains that Debtor has meritorious defenses to the causes of action in the underlying state court action. Adv. dkt. 19, p.6:13-7:8. Plaintiff's opposition explains that Debtor's motion does not address defenses to Plaintiff's objections to dischargeability, which are the matters at issue in this adversary proceeding. Adv. dkt. 25, p.6:23-25. Debtor's reply states that because the state court actions have not been finally adjudicated, there is no debt owed to Plaintiff by Debtor that the court can make a determination on regarding dischargeability. Adv. dkt. 26, p.4:7-10.

Debtor is incorrect as to Debtor not owing Plaintiff a debt. Plaintiff's complaint explains that Plaintiff's fees and costs award was affirmed on appeal and the abstract of judgment was recorded on 7/19/18. Adv. dkt. 1, p.11, paras. 33-34. Plaintiff's complaint further alleges that Debtor's action to allegedly prevent collection of the judgment is grounds for denying Debtor her discharge under 11 U.S.C. 727. Id. at p.12, para. 44. Debtor's motion does not provide any meritorious defenses to this cause of action. Moreover, in order to defeat Plaintiff's cause of action on this issue, Debtor would need to meet the burden of proof for a motion for reconsideration. It appears Debtor would have a very difficult time meeting this standard, especially in light of Debtor's admission that the lien which eats up all the equity in Debtor's property that might otherwise be used to pay the judgment is a sham. See dkt. 142, p.3:1-3; adv. dkt. 25, p.7:26-p.8:1.

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not provided any meritorious defenses to that portion of the adversary proceeding, which is a sufficient ground to deny her motion as currently presented. The tentative ruling is that it is premature to address whether Debtor has meritorious defenses with respect to the remainder of the adversary proceeding, because that may be mooted by the issue- or claim-preclusive effect of the actions that are proceeding in nonbankruptcy court.

(c) Whether reopening the default judgment will prejudice

Plaintiff

Debtor argues that Plaintiff will not be prejudiced if this Court grants her requested relief because moving forward on the merits after "only a short delay" should not prejudice Plaintiff's ability to litigate her case. Adv. dkt. 19, p.7:10-22. Plaintiff says that she will be prejudiced because the history of Debtor's bankruptcy case evidences a pattern of fraudulent actions by Debtor to hinder Plaintiff's prosecution of the state court cases. Adv. dkt. 25, p.7:25-26.

While this Court agrees with Plaintiff that there appears to have been fraud re the $5 million recorded lien on Debtor's property, Plaintiff has not explained the basis for her assertion that now that Debtor is in bankruptcy the same sort of fraudulent behavior is likely to occur.

The tentative ruling is that granting Debtor's motion will not prejudice Plaintiff.

The tentative ruling is that while granting Debtor's motion may not prejudice Plaintiff, Debtor has not provided sufficient support for her explanations of how she did not engage in culpable conduct, and she has not explained what her meritorious defenses to the causes of action in this adversary proceeding are, so this Court is denying Debtor's motion without prejudice.

This Court has reviewed Plaintiff's unilateral status report (adv. dkt. 11) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order entitled "Order On Initial Status Conference" via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling.

Preliminary matters: continuance

Plaintiff's Status Report notes (a) that a Clerk's Default was entered in this case on 8/20/19 (adv. dkt. 9) and (b) that she will either seek relief from the automatic stay to proceed with defamation actions in nonbankruptcy court and/or seek a default judgment in this adversary proceeding. The tentative ruling is to continue this Status Conference as set forth below, at which time this Court can assess what progress has been made on those issues. Note: In addition, this Court will hold a Status Conference concurrent with any other hearing in this adversary proceeding (including any self-calendared hearings).

creditors who automatically receive emails under this Court's NEF system). See dkt. 458 (last 2 pages), dkt. 484.

(ii) LA Fire has not established an exception to the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(b)(4)

The filing of the bankruptcy petition imposes the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(a)), but that stay does not apply to "the commencement or continuation of an action or proceeding by a governmental unit ... to enforce such governmental unit's or organization's police and regulatory power ...." 11 U.S.C. 362(b)(4) (emphasis added). Two alternative tests determine whether government actions are exempted from the automatic stay: the pecuniary purpose test and the public policy test.

Under the pecuniary purpose test, this Court must determine "whether the government action relates primarily to the protection of the government's pecuniary interest in the debtor's property or to matters of public safety and welfare." In re Dingley, 852 F.3d 1143, 1146 (9th Cir. 2017) (internal citation and quotation omitted, emphasis added). Under the public policy test, this Court must determine whether the government's action is intended to "effectuate public policy" or, at the other extreme, to "adjudicate private rights." Id. (internal citation and quotation omitted).

LA Fire argues that its proposed audit satisfies these tests - i.e., that the audit is necessary to protect "public safety and welfare" or "to effectuate public policy," rather than being just collection of a contractual debt. See dkt. 459, 485. The tentative ruling is that Debtor's arguments (dkt. 479) are more persuasive.

It would be one thing if Debtor were conducting ongoing operations, because then if past fraud were to be uncovered by an audit that might help protect the public from future fraud. But that is not the present situation. Debtor is liquidating, and this dispute is about money - nothing more.

LA Fire's cited decisions are distinguishable. One decision involved violations of Massachusetts's consumer protection act, but LA Fire's proposed audit has not been shown to result in any greater protection of consumers in this case. In re First Alliance Mortg. Co., 263 B.R. 99, 108 (9th Cir. BAP 2001). Another decision was based on violations of the National Labor Relations Act, which also is not at issue in this case. N.L.R.B. v. Continental Hagen Corp., 932 F.2d 828, 833 (9th Cir. 1991). Another decision involved the IRS' revocation of a debtor's tax-exempt status, which promoted public welfare by assuring the public and potential donors that contributions would be used in future for legitimate charitable purposes, but no similar facts are presented in this case. In re Universal Life Church, Inc., 128 F.3d 1294, 1298 (9th Cir. 1997). In another decision, an award of sanctions for frivolous conduct in litigation served a public purpose of deterring such conduct in future, but this case involves damages arising from a contractual relationship, not sanctions. In re Berg, 230 F.3d 1165, 1168 (9th Cir. 2000). Lastly, one decision involved HUD's subpoena and audit based on potential fraud, but LA Fire has not established that the chapter 11 debtor in that case had ceased all ongoing operations, like Debtor in this case; and in any event the decision is out-of-circuit and non-binding. U.S. Dept. Housing & Urban Dev. v. Sutton, 68 B.R. 89, 91-94 (D. E.D. Mo. 1986).

In sum, the tentative ruling is that LA Fire has not established that any exception to the automatic stay is applicable to it.

(iii) LA Fire has not established "cause" for relief under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1)

LA Fire argues in the alternative that if the automatic stay applies then relief from the stay should be granted to conduct an audit and determine the amount of its claim. Dkt. 459, p.7:24-p.8:14. Debtor counters (A) that Movant's claim (Claim no.140) was filed after the claims bar date (dkt. 479, p.5:6-11) and alternatively (B) it is a general unsecured claim, and Debtor projects that its bankruptcy estate will not have any funds to distribute to such claims, so granting the R/S Motion would only burden the estate with needless expenses. Dkt. 479, p.5:12-17.

On the first issue (untimely proof of claim) LA Fire replies that Debtor has been serving it at the wrong address (dkt. 485, pp.2:21-4:9); and that Debtor has not objected to its claim so that claim is deemed allowed. Id. The tentative ruling is that LA Fire has the better of these arguments (without prejudice to either party's rights to argue the merits of any future claim objection).

But the tentative ruling is that Debtor's second argument is persuasive. LA Fire has not established that an audit would make any difference to its claim, and any audit would only drain the estate, because under present projections there will be nothing to distribute on account of LA Fire's claim.

LA Fire argues that Debtor's projected 0% dividend is unsupported; but Debtor's opposition papers do include some support: a declaration that Debtor has engaged in an analysis of assets and claims, and that Debtor's projected waterfall of distributions under the Bankruptcy Code results in no divided to general unsecured creditors. That is some evidence, albeit not as strong as it could be; and LA Fire has not presented any evidence to the contrary. In addition, Debtor concedes that, if its projections turn out to be incorrect, then the issue can be revisited. Debtor's evidence is enough, given the summary nature of proceedings on relief from the automatic stay (and those proceedings are summary in nature precisely so that, among other things, the cost of litigation does not consume the bankruptcy estate).

True, there are two grounds on which LA Fire appears to assert something more than just a general unsecured claim. First, its proof of claim asserts priority under 11 U.S.C. 507(a)(8) for a portion of its claim (under $45,000 out of a total of over $1.8 million). But LA Fire does not argue that issue in its reply. In addition, there is no evidence that LA Fire's claim is for a "tax" or "customs duty" as required to come within 11 U.S.C. 507(a)(8). So LA Fire has not established any priority under section 507.

Second, LA Fire appears to argue that it should be paid ahead of other general unsecured creditors because Debtor billed and collected from insurers and others without remitting the appropriate funds to LA Fire, which it characterizes as fraudulently converting funds that never belonged to Debtor's estate. Dkt. 485, pp.4:25-5:7. But LA Fire does not support this argument with any citations to evidence or legal authority to establish Debtor's lack of ownership of the funds it collected.

For example, consider an ambulance trip that included not only services provided by Debtor's personnel but also medical services provided by LA Fire. Debtor may have billed insurers for that trip, including those medical services, but there is no evidence that Debtor was contractually obligated to, and did, segregate any billing and any funds received. To the contrary, under section 3.1 of the parties' agreement (dkt.459, Ex.A) Debtor was required to use its own billing number to collect from insurers, and there is no provision for any segregated account.

Put differently, LA Fire has not established that it is in any different position from all of Debtor's nonpriority unsecured creditors. All creditors - from a vendor of medical supplies used in Debtor's ambulances to a driver of Debtor's ambulances to a pedestrian who was hit by one of Debtor's ambulances - can assert that Debtor was contractually or legally obligated to pay them out of Debtor's revenues. But, absent some sort of segregated account dedicated to paying such creditors, or some legal priority, they must share in the general pool of assets that comprises Debtor's bankruptcy estate, in accordance with the Bankruptcy Code's distribution scheme.

Of course, it is extremely unfortunate for the injured pedestrian, the ambulance driver, the vendor, or LA Fire if there are no net assets to pay them. But it would be even more unfortunate if it turned out that, notwithstanding Debtor's projections, there were funds to pay something to all those creditors but instead LA Fire were given priority over those other deserving creditors without a legal basis for such priority.

In sum, LA Fire has not established "cause" for relief from the automatic stay to conduct its audit. On the present record, that audit would consume resources that the bankruptcy estate cannot afford, for no purpose.

(iv) LA Fire has not established that 11 U.S.C. 105(a) can be used to create any equitable exception to the automatic stay, or that the equities favor any such exception

Section 105(a) provides that this Court "may issue any order, process, or judgement that is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of this title." LA Fire argues that that the "public policy interests of promoting the certainties associated with and in furtherance of protecting the parties' contractual obligations" weighs in favor of this Court exercising its equitable powers under Section 105(a) to grant the R/S Motion. Dkt. 459, p.9:19-22.

First, this Court's general equitable powers cannot be used to override the Bankruptcy Code's distribution scheme. See Czyzewski v. Jevic Holding Corp., 137 S.Ct. 973 (2017) (bankruptcy court cannot depart from Bankruptcy Code's distribution scheme). That alone defeats LA Fire's argument.

Alternatively, the tentative ruling is that the equities cut against LA Fire, rather than in its favor. Debtor argues persuasively that the audit should have been conducted over a year ago, and Debtor is winding down its operations and does not have the personnel or resources to assist with an audit. See dkt. 479, p.9:10-p.10:6. In addition, as set forth above, LA Fire has not established that, even if the audit produced evidence of fraud, that would make LA Fire any more deserving of a distribution than Debtor's other creditors, whether they are injured pedestrians, drivers, vendors of medical supplies, or others whose deserving claims may go unpaid.

(iii) Conclusion

For the reasons set forth above, the tentative ruling is to deny the R/S Motion, without prejudice.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling,

(a) Objection to Claim 10 (dkt. 99), Stipulation & Order to continue hearing (dkt. 99, 124), response of Jesus Quintero's ("Quintero") (dkt. 124), no reply is on file

DENY the objection, without prejudice, for the same reasons as set forth in the tentative ruling for 12/17/19 (reproduced below) with respect to other claims (see part "(1)(a)" of that tentative ruling). The tentative ruling is not to determine the merits of the parties' disputes and liquidate the claim, but rather to leave those issues to nonbankruptcy fora, as set forth below (see part "(1)(b)" of this tentative ruling).

Proposed order: Quintero is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling and the 12/17/19 tentative ruling, thereby adopting that reasoning as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

This Court previously granted the R/S Motion only insofar as conducting discovery, and temporarily denied other relief so as to give Debtor the "breathing spell" contemplated by the Bankruptcy Code. The tentative ruling is to grant further relief from the automatic stay at this point, by modifying the automatic stay to permit the parties to liquidate the claim and resolve their disputes on the merits by concluding their litigation in

(i) Legal standards for objections to claim

"The term 'claim' is broadly defined to mean "a right to payment, whether or not such right is reduced to judgment, liquidated, unliquidated, fixed, contingent, matured, unmatured, disputed, undisputed, legal, equitable, secure, or unsecured . . . ." 11 U.S.C. 101(5)(A) (emphasis added). The term also broadly includes a "right to an equitable remedy for breach of performance . . . ." 11 U.S.C. 101(5)(B). "The Code utilizes this 'broadest possible definition' of claim to ensure that 'all legal obligations of the debtor, no matter how remote or contingent, will be able to be dealt with in the bankruptcy case." In re SNTL Corp., 571 F.3d 826, 838 (9th Cir. 2009). Furthermore, "a claim may exist for bankruptcy and discharge purposes long before a cause of action accrues under nonbankruptcy law." Id., at 839. "It is only necessary that the creditor be able to fairly or reasonably contemplate the claim's existence as of the petition date." Id.

The exclusive grounds under which a debtor may successfully object to a claim are listed in 11 U.S.C. 502(b). In re Heath, 331 B.R. 424, 435 (9th Cir. BAP 2005); In re Campbell, 336 B.R. 430 (9th Cir. BAP 2005).

(A) Failure to attach supporting documentation is not a sufficient basis to disallow a claim

See Heath, 331 B.R. at 435 ("a request for complete disallowance of the claim merely because of inadequate documentation" is not a proper objection").

(B) The fact that a claim is contingent is not a proper basis to disallow a claim under section 502(b)(1)

Section 502(b)(1) provides that a claim is not allowable if it is unenforceable under the applicable agreement or law "for a reason other than because such claim is contingent or unmatured." 11 U.S.C. 502(b)(1). "Under section 502(b)(1), [ ] contingent claims cannot be disallowed simply because the contingency occurred postpetition." SNTL Corp., 571 F.3d at 838.

(C) Claim objections without merit can be overruled, and should be, even absent a response by the claimant

It is often more costly in money and time for a creditor to respond than a claim is expected to be worth, because even if the claim is allowed it will only be paid in what are sometimes called "tiny bankruptcy dollars" (i.e., pennies on the dollar). In addition, any litigation will increase the administrative expense of the debtor's counsel, thereby further reducing recoveries even if the claimant prevails. Recognizing these disincentives to fight claim objections, and also recognizing that claim objections that are not well taken should not be sustained, bankruptcy courts often overrule claim objections even without any opposition by the claimant. See, e.g., Heath, 331 B.R. 424, 427 (affirming bankruptcy court's allowance of claims, despite most creditors' lack of participation before that court or on appeal, and noting bankruptcy court's statement that "[i]t's more trouble [for most Creditors] to respond than the claim is worth"). That approach is consistent with Rule 55(b)(2)(C) and (D) (Fed.R.Civ.P., incorporated by Rules 7055, 9001(7) and 9014(c), Fed.R.Bankr.P.), which give the trial court discretion to conduct a "prove up" hearing any deny recoveries even when the defendant/respondent defaults.

(ii) Objection to Claim 6 (dkt. 89), no opposition is on file

The tentative ruling is to DENY the objection because, as set forth above, lack of adequate documentation and the fact that the claim is disputed and contingent are not proper grounds to disallow Claim 6 under 502(b).

(iii) Objection to Claim 12 (dkt. 91), opposition papers of Joseph Frugard ("Mr. Frugard"), including declaration of Rita Leong ("Leong Decl.") (dkt. 112, 113, 114), Debtor's reply (dkt. 120)

The tentative ruling is to DENY the objection in-part because the only grounds Debtor raises for disallowance of the claim are that the claim is contingent and disputed and a duplicate of Proof of Claim 9. As set forth above, the fact that the claim is disputed and contingent is not a proper basis to disallow Claim 12, so the claim objection is denied on that basis. The tentative ruling is to CONTINUE the objection to the date set forth below for the continued status conference to address Debtor's assertion that Claim 12 is a duplicate of Claim 9, so the matter can be heard concurrently with Debtor's objection to Claim 9.

This Court declines to address Mr. Frugard's arguments in support of whether this Court should authorize his filing of a class claim under Rule 7023 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.), because Debtor did not raise that issue in the Claim Objection so that request is not properly before this Court at this time. Similarly, Debtor's reply argues against this Court estimating Claim 12 under section 502(c)(1), but that argument is irrelevant because neither Debtor nor Mr. Frugard have requested any such relief.

(iv) Objection to Claim 13 (dkt. 92), Joseph Frugard's opposition (dkt. 116, 117), no reply is on file

The tentative ruling is to DENY the objection because, as set forth

United States Bankruptcy Court

above, lack of adequate documentation and the fact that the claim is disputed and contingent are not proper grounds to disallow Claim 13 under 502(b).

(v) Objection to Claim 14 (dkt. 93), no opposition is on file

The tentative ruling is to DENY the objection as follows. Failure to comply with Rule 3001 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) does not alone justify disallowing the claim. The fact that the claim is disputed and contingent are not proper grounds to disallow Claim 14 under 502(b).

(vi) Summary

Nothing in the foregoing tentative rulings should be construed to prevent Debtor from defending against or objecting to these claims, either in nonbankruptcy fora or, if appropriate, in this Bankruptcy Court, on any grounds recognized by 11 U.S.C. 502(b). Nor does anything in the foregoing tentative rulings prevent Debtor or any creditor from filing proper papers regarding class certification (under, e.g., Rules 7023 and 9014(c), Fed.R.Bankr.P.), or to estimate claims if the fixing or liquidation of the claim would unduly delay the administration of the case or otherwise satisfy the requirements of 11 U.S.C. 502(c).

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

#19.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case
fr. 1/7/20

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 1/14/20:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Dismissal, or other relief

The tentative ruling is to dismiss this case with a 180-day bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy for willful failure to appear in proper prosecution of this case. 11 U.S.C. 109(g). At the hearing on 1/7/20 this Court was persuaded to continue this status conference, even though it appeared that Debtor has done almost nothing to meet its obligations as a Debtor In Possession, to see if Debtor belatedly would file "first day" motions and otherwise meet its obligations. See generally US Trustee Motion to Dismiss (dkt.18). Despite that continuance, the docket still does not reflect any progress - even Debtor's belated status report (dkt.20) is not on the form required by this Court's order (dkt.6), and is woefully inadequate. In addition, as pointed out by Debtor's landlord (dkt.22), Debtor lacks any right to remain in its premises, so there does not appear to be any legitimate purpose in allowing this bankruptcy case to proceed.

Proposed order: The United States Trustee is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any modifications at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(b) United States Trustee's Motion For The Appointment Of A Patient Care Ombudsman (the "Patient Care Motion," dkt. 21)

The tentative ruling is that, if this case is not dismissed, to grant the Patient Care Motion, subject to any opposition at the hearing.

Proposed order: The United States Trustee is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 12/12/19.

(a) Bar date: N/A (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - if this case is not dismissed, this Court will set a bar date and will prepare an appropriate order after the status conference).

(b) Procedures order: dkt. 6 (timely served, dkt. 13)

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: N/A

(d) Continued status conference: If this case is not dismissed, the tentative ruling is to set a continued status conference for 1/28/20 at 1:00 p.m., no status report required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 1/7/20:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by debtor's principal, Khaleel Multani.

(1) Current issues

(a) Status report

Per this Court's Order Setting Principal Status Conference (dkt. 6), Debtor was required to file a status report no later than 12/24/19. As of the drafting of this tentative ruling, Debtor has filed a proof of service of that report (dkt. 14) but not the actual status report itself. Why not?

Debtor's counsel is directed to address orally all of the issues that should have been presented in the status report, including but not limited to whether Debtor has consumers' health care information that needs to be protected, and whether this Court should appoint a health care ombudsman.

Chapter 11

Debtor's counsel also is directed to address orally what sanctions or other remedies this Court should impose for failing to file a status report.

(b) First day motions

No "first day" motions have been filed. Why not?

(c) Inaccurate papers

Debtor is a corporation but Debtor has filed a statement (dkt. 16) asserting that it has no equity holders. How is that possible?

Similarly, Debtor has filed a statement (dkt.2) asserting that no entity owns more than 10% of Debtor's equity interests; but an "entity" includes individuals (see 11 U.S.C. 101(15)&(41)). Is it really true that no person or other entity owns more than 10% of Debtor's equity interests?

On Debtor's bankruptcy petition (dkt.1, p.3, line 12) Debtor reports having real or personal property that needs immediate attention, but then Debtor has failed to complete the portions of the form explaining why. Is there actually any property that needs immediate attention (e.g., any health or safety hazard from medical materials)?

Given the foregoing matters, is Debtor accurately completing the other required bankruptcy forms?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 12/12/19.

(a) Bar date: 3/11/20 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

(b) Procedures order: dkt. 6 (timely served, dkt. 13)

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: N/A

(d) Continued status conference: 2/18/20 at 1:00 p.m., initial status report due 1/9/20, brief supplemental status report due 2/10/20.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Chapter 7

Tentative Ruling for 7/2/19:

At the 6/4/19 hearing this Court took the Motion for Summary Judgment (adv. dkt. 98) under submission and anticipates issuing an order at a later time.

Tentative Ruling for 6/4/19:

[No tentative ruling was posted]

Tentative Ruling for 5/21/19:

Appearances are not required on 5/21/19. The tentative ruling is to continue the hearings in these related adversary proceedings (calendar no. 13 & 14, 5/21/19) to the date of the continued status conference (see below).

(1) Current issues

The tentative ruling on the Motion to Compel (dkt. 104) and the Order to Show Cause ("OSC," dkt. 107) is to continue these matters as requested in the response of Aston Business Solutions, Inc. (dkt. 110, 111). This Court contemplates that the deadlines for completion of discovery and other matters will need to be extended, and the parties are directed to meet and confer and, if they can agree to new deadlines, lodge a proposed order. If they cannot agree, this Court anticipates setting new deadlines at the continued status conference.

(2) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

Matters of venue, jurisdiction, and authority have been determined and/or waived or forfeited (adv. dkt. 6, 11, 24).

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 4/7/17.

Discovery cutoff (for completion of discovery): 6/15/19 (adv. dkt. 90).

Expert(s) - deadline for reports: 6/28/19 (adv. dkt. 90).

Expert(s) - deadline for rebuttal reports: 7/26/19 (adv. dkt. 90).

Dispositive motions to be heard no later than: TBD

Trial commencement: TBD

Tentative Ruling for 4/30/19:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 4/30/19.

This Court has reviewed the latest filed documents in this adversary proceeding and is not aware of issues that would warrant a status conference at this time.

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

Supplemental Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

The original tentative ruling (below) provides two inconsistent dates for a continued status conference: 4/30/19 at 11:00 a.m., 4/7/19 at 11:00 a.m. The latter [should be "former"] is correct. No status report required.

Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

Deny the motion to quash (with the possible exception of one aspect), address procedural issues, and then continue this Status Conference, all as set forth below. Appearances required.

Current issues:

(a) Procedures

Please see the tentative ruling for the main case status conference (calendar no. 10, 4/9/19 at 11:00 a.m.)

(b) Motion to Quash (adv. dkt. 84)

The tentative ruling is that the motion to quash (adv. dkt. 84) by Aston Business Solutions, Inc. ("ABS") is unpersuasive, except perhaps for limitations as to time, which the parties are directed to address at the hearing.

7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(A) Analysis re motion to quash

ABS asserts only vague objections:

(1) Competitors?

ABS asserts that it and Plaintiff are competitors. How so?

The motion does not even disclose ABS' business. Is it a timeshare owner? Is it a timeshare operator? Is it something else? (As noted below, this Court expects that it has gleaned the answer from other documents, but the tentative ruling is that this lack of even such basic information in the motion is fatal to this argument.)

(2) Protected information?

ABS alleges that some sort of trade secrets or other confidential, privileged, or other type of protected information is involved. What sort of information? Why would a traditional privilege log and other tools be inadequate?

ABS complains that parties in interest in this bankruptcy case have shared information. But ABS fails to point to any prohibition on sharing information.

(3) Burden?

ABS alleges that the requested discovery is unduly burdensome. How so? Is it stored in thousands of boxes of paper files that are difficult to reach and review for some reason?

(4) Vagueness and overbreadth?

ABS alleges that the discovery requests are vague and overbroad. How so? ABS fails to provide any explanation or evidence to support this allegations.

(5) Discussion

Based on a question (not an answer) in excerpts from the deposition of ABS' President and shareholder, Glenn Chaffin, ABS may be a marketing company for "timeshare exit companies." Adv. dkt. 84, Ex.1 (Depo. Tr. 1/24/19), p.95:22-23. But how does that make ABS a "competitor" of Plaintiff, with information that would constitute trade secrets, as opposed to a facilitator of (possibly) legitimate ways to exit timeshares, who sends out non-secret flyers and other publicly known marketing materials, and assists timeshare members in navigating contracts that are known to all the parties?

Chapter 7

Such a facilitator theoretically could benefit Plaintiff, by replacing non-paying or troubled members with paying ones - unless, of course, ABS engages in acts that improperly interfere with contractual relations or otherwise assists in the wrongdoing of which Plaintiff accuses Defendants. Plaintiff's discovery appears to be targeted at discovering information that could lead to admissible evidence on this and other relevant issues. Accordingly, the discovery appears to be entirely proper and appropriate, with the possible exception of the movant's request to impose some limitations as to time, which the parties are directed to address at the hearing.

(B) Adversary proceeding status conference issues

Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

Please see the tentative ruling for the main case status conference (calendar no. 10, 4/9/19 at 11:00 a.m.).

Tentative Ruling for 1/30/18:

Appearances required. The court has reviewed the parties' filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The parties must address (a) why they failed to file the required status report, (b) why the motions for joint administration/consolidation of the two closely related adversary proceedings have not been prosecuted, and (c) the following issues. The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences.

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif,

Chapter 7

135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this court should not formalize the fact that the pending mediation includes this adversary proceeding by issuing an order to mediate this matter together with related adversary proceeding (2:17-ap-01229-NB)? The tentative ruling is to direct counsel for the defendants to lodge a proposed order to that effect.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures"). There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address whether this Court should grant the relief requested in Debtor's emergency first-day motions (dkt. 19, 20, 21, 23, 25 & 26) and this Court's "Order Granting Oral Request for Emergency Hearing Pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule 9075-1(a) and Setting Hearing on Shortened Notice" (dkt. 24).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

#5.00 Hrg re: Motion for order determining value of collateral [11 U.S.C. section 506(a), FRBP 3012]

Docket 23

Tentative Ruling:

Continue to 3/26/20 at 8:30 a.m. with a deadline of 3/12/20 for the parties to file supplemental papers addressing the issues set forth in the filed objection (dkt.32). Appearances are not required on 1/23/20.

Reasons:

(1) Service

The amended motion papers were not served until 1/7/20 (10 days before the hearing) (see dkt. 26), which is too little time before the hearing.

(2) Evidence of senior debt

Debtor's amended motion (dkt. 29) alleges that the senior lender ("Bayview") is owed $662,095.02 as of 11/16/19 but it is unclear from the mortgage statement (dkt. 29, Ex. 2) how Debtor arrived at that total.

(3) Appraisal; date of valuation

The junior lienholder has requested (dkt. 32) additional time to obtain an appraisal. Debtor is directed to provide reasonable access for that purpose. Note: Judge Bason's tentative ruling is to require valuations at or near the petition date. See In re Gutierrez, 503 B.R. 458 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2013).

At the continued hearing the parties should address how they propose to resolve their disputes - e.g., (i) with an evidentiary hearing; (ii) with a court ruling based solely on the written record (to save costs, if all parties consent), (iii) through mediation, or (iv) through appointment of an appraiser (jointly selected by the parties/their appraisers) as the court's own expert under FRE 706.

#10.00 Hrg re: Stipulation Confirming No Stay in Effect for All Purposes as to Secured Creditor, its Assignees and/or Successors in Interest, With Respect to the Subject Property, Generally Described as 5115 Cimarron Street, Los Angeles

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required. Deny.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Analysis:

Either (a) Debtor's postpetition transfer of her interest in the subject real property to her former husband is void as a violation of the automatic stay (see order setting this hearing, dkt. 61), or alternatively (b) that transfer is voidable as an unauthorized postpetition transfer (see 11 U.S.C. 549) and any attempt by Movant to exercise remedies against the subject real property would undermine the bankruptcy estate's rights to recovery of that property and, therefore, would violate one or more provisions of the automatic stay. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(3). No party in interest has sought retroactive relief (as authorized by this Court's order setting this hearing, dkt.61).

In addition, it is not at all clear that this Court would grant any such retroactive relief. This Court is concerned about possible gamesmanship in the transfer of the property, because divorcing spouses have been known to structure property division and related issues such as "support" payments in ways that do not reflect factually-supported characterizations of inter-spousal by Claimant Cross Fox Condominium, Inc.

#14.00 Hrg re: Objection to Claim Number 5

Docket 39

Tentative Ruling:

Sustain the claim objection and allow the claim in the reduced amount of $2,665.35 as a nonpriority unsecured claim. Note: The claim objection is somewhat opaque as to the exact dollar amount that Debtor believes should be disallowed, and whether any amount would qualify as a secured or priority claim; but this Court's interpretation is that the objection seeks the relief granted by this tentative ruling; no response to the claim objection has been filed; and this Court seeks to minimize any additional expenses so it appears appropriate not to require any supplemental papers or appearances at this hearing, and instead to grant the relief set forth above. Appearances are not required.

fr. 12/19/19

Docket 54

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 1/23/20:

Deny. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Debtors' supplemental declaration (dkt. 64), supplemental proof of service (dkt. 66)

Reasons for denial:

Debtors have still not presented sufficient evidence of value

At the last hearing, this Court found that Debtors had not submitted sufficient evidence of value because their evidence only identified the "private party" value of the Vehicle, and not "the price a retail merchant would charge for the property ..." as required by 11 U.S.C. 506(a)(2) (emphasis added). This Court continued the matter to this date to allow debtors time to submit supplemental evidence.

This Court has reviewed that evidence (dkt. 64) and finds that Debtors' evidence is still insufficient. First, Debtors submitted the declaration of Giovanni Orantes (id., p.2) and two exhibits containing the results of Mr. Orantes' google search for vehicles of a similar condition (id., pp. 3-28). This Court finds this evidence unhelpful because it is largely inadmissible hearsay and Mr. Orantes has not established that he is an expert who is qualified to opine about the value of vehicles.

Second, Debtors submitted the declaration of Norma Y. Martinez (dkt. 64, p. 29) and print outs from Kelley Blue Book and CarMax (id., pp. 31-46).

Thursday, January 23, 2020

Hearing Room 1545

8:30 AM

CONT... Marvin E Medina and Blanca F. Medina

Chapter 13

First, like Mr. Orantes there is no showing that Ms. Martinez is competent to opine as to the value of vehicles (unlike Debtors, who are deemed to be competent to opine as to the value of their own property). Second, the Kelley Blue Book printouts list the "trade-in" and "private party" values of the Vehicle (id., pp. 31-32), and although Debtor's counsel argues that it is difficult to find retail valuation this Court takes judicial notice that hundreds of motions have been filed in this Court that attach copies of "Blue Book" retail valuations. Third, although the CarMax printout provides a value for a 2008 Toyota Tundra (which might be very comparable to Debtors' 2007 Toyota Tundra), Ms. Martinez states that she was unable to get an accurate selling price from CarMax because they only had a new vehicle with different mileage (id., p. 29:16-17). This Court is not persuaded that such a large adjustment, based on a single (hearsay) listing of one vehicle, is a sufficient basis for valuation when the "Blue Book" retail value is so readily available.

Therefore, the tentative ruling is that Debtors have again failed to establish the "replacement value" that a "retail merchant" would charge the public for a vehicle of similar age and condition, as of the petition date, "without deducting for costs of sale or marketing." 11 U.S.C. 506(a)(2).

This Court's requirement of such evidence, notwithstanding the lack of response by the creditor, is pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 105(a), 506(a)(2); Rule 104(a), 403, 602 and 701 (Fed. R. Evid.); and Rules 9014(c) and 7055 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) which, in this Court's discretion, incorporate Rule 55(b)(2)(B) and not Rule 55(b)(1) (Fed. R. Civ. P.). See also In re Heath, 331 B.R. 424 (9th Cir. BAP 2005) (affirming bankruptcy court's disallowance of claims even though some creditors did not respond).

No fees on this matter, absent specific authorization.

Counsel is directed not to charge any fees on this matter (including all past and present work related to this valuation motion), and to return any fees received on this matter because (1) counsel did not present proper evidence in support of the motion or comply with this Court's directions to submit competent evidence along with the supplemental declarations, and (2) any fees paid to Counsel decrease the funds available to pay creditors. Counsel is also directed not to charge fees for any future work associated with any amended valuation motion, unless this Court enters an order granting the motion and specifically authorizes counsel's fees.

Continue to 1/23/20 at 8:30 a.m., with a deadline of 1/9/20 to file and serve the debtors' declaration addressing the following issue. Appearances are not required on 12/19/19.

Reasons: The KBB printout states that it is a "private party" value, but under 11 U.S.C. 506(a)(2) the value means "the price a retail merchant would charge for the property ..." (emphasis added) (which this Court expects is higher than the "private party" value).

Tentative Ruling for 1/23/20 (same as for 11/21/19):

Appearances required. At the hearing on 10/24/19 this Court was persuaded to continue the matter to this date, based on the representation of counsel for the United States Trustee ("UST") that respondent Vanessa Watson has filed her own individual bankruptcy case (2:19-bk-19881-BR), to allow time for the UST to assess the effect of that bankruptcy filing and take appropriate action. #24.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 16

Tentative Ruling:

Deny, for the reasons stated in the opposition papers (dkt.35, 36), except that this Court is not persuaded that Debtor's plan in his prior case (Case No. 2:19-bk-16168-NB, dkt.8, p.7) attempted to bifurcate the objecting creditors' claims, or that the 2017 cases weigh heavily in the analysis. Appearances required.

Further analysis:

This Court is persuaded principally by the lack of evidence of changed circumstances, lack of evidence of valuation and prospects for sale of properties, the speculative nature of any reliance on a future sale, and the lack of evidence of contributions. In addition, the tentative ruling that the creditors' requests for dismissal with a bar (11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1)) are not properly before this Court (they could be addressed in connection with a motion for such relief, or at the confirmation hearing, but not in an opposition to Debtor's motion under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3)).

THE BANK OF NEW YORK MELLON

Docket 63

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

DEBTOR

Docket 46

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

The automatic stay does apply

Movant requests an order confirming that no stay is in effect because Debtor's prior case was dismissed within one year before this present bankruptcy case was filed, and Debtor's motion to impose or continue the stay (the "Stay Motion," dkt. 17) was not with respect to Movant or the subject property. On the one hand, Movant is correct about the scope of Debtor's Stay Motion. On the other hand, this Court's order (dkt. 37) granting the Stay Motion imposed/continued the stay as to all property of the bankruptcy estate, and if the subject property was transferred to Debtor then it may be part of the estate, and thus subject to this Court's order continuing the stay.

True, this Court's order might be subject to challenge as granting more relief than requested; but as of the preparation of this tentative ruling no such challenge has been asserted and that order is still effective. Therefore, the tentative ruling is not to grant relief on this ground.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is not sufficient evidence and notice.

No prejudice to Debtor intended. Based on the record, it appears that this is a "hijacked" case, and that Debtor is innocent of any involvement. See e.g., In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017) (describing hijacking); In re Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) (same). In a hijacking case, the Debtor faces the legitimate concern of being subject to a 180-day bar and other adverse consequences if, for example, Debtor later requests and obtains a voluntary dismissal and subsequently needs to file another bankruptcy petition. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(2), 362(b)(21) (A). There is authority that section 109 "eligibility issues" are nonjurisdictional, can be waived, forfeited, or subject to estoppel, and should not be applied if that would produce an "illogical, unjust, or capricious result, or when the benefit of dismissal would inure to a bad faith creditor." In re Leifty, 489 B.R. 545, 550-51 (9th Cir. Bap 2012) (citing cases including under 109(g)(2)). See also In re Mendez, 367 B.R. 109, 116-17 (9th Cir. BAP

Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to condition the relief from the automatic stay granted in this tentative ruling such that no adverse consequences apply to Debtor from the hijacking, including under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(2) or 362(b)(21)(A). Note: None of the foregoing will shield Debtor if it turns out that Debtor was not, in fact, innocent of any involvement in the apparent hijacking or other abusive scheme.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Docket 15

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

Grant the motion under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3) and (j): there is no automatic stay because (a) Debtor's prior case (#2:19-bk-12483-NB) was dismissed (on 3/26/19) within one year before this case was filed (on 11/27/19), (b) that dismissal was not under 11 U.S.C. 707(b), and (c) no finding of good faith was timely sought and obtained. The automatic stay has terminated both as to Debtor in personam and as to property of Debtor. See In re Hernandez & Jiminez, Case No. 2:11-bk-53730-NB, Dkt 40.

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Retroactive relief

Grant the request for retroactive annulment of the stay. See In re

U.S. BANK NATIONAL ASSOC
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 16

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part and continue in part as provided below, based on the motion papers (dkt.16) and the (untimely) opposition papers (dkt.31, filed 1/17/20). Appearances required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The tentative ruling is that Movant has established the predicates for "relief" from the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (4) - including a scheme to "delay" or "hinder" creditors within the meaning of the latter paragraph of the statute - and that the appropriate form of relief is (A) to issue an order (suitable for recording in the real estate recorder's office) that no future bankruptcy case will affect the subject property (the "Oxford" property) - in other words, this case is the last chance for Debtor and her family to make appropriate use of the bankruptcy system regarding that property - and meanwhile (B) to require adequate protection payments, in a dollar amount to be determined at the hearing, pending a continuance to provide time for the closing of Debtor's proposed refinance of the "Woodbury" property. More specifically, the tentative ruling is as follows.

No termination

Deny the request to terminate the stay (at this time). In addition, to the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record.

There is no automatic stay

At a hearing on 1/23/20 at 8:30 a.m. this Court denied Debtor's motion to continue the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3). Accordingly as of 1/25/20 there is no automatic stay.

See generally In re Ervin (Case No. 2:14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

First, Movant has not cited any authority, or set forth any factual and legal analysis, supporting such relief.

Second, the tentative ruling is that procedurally the requested relief has not been properly presented. Movant would have to file an adversary proceeding seeking declaratory relief.

Third, the factual record does not appear to support such relief. The tentative ruling is that Movant has not described any facts or presented any evidence showing that effective relief cannot be granted under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) because, for example, purported transfers of interests in the subject Property have been backdated multiple times in what appear to be sham, "hijacking" transactions. Absent such evidence, it would be inappropriate to grant declaratory relief that no automatic stay applied in cases pending before other Judges and/or affecting other debtors and creditors who have received no notice of the requested relief.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #22.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions. Appearances are not required.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Docket 66

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(1) Limited relief. Modify and condition the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) such that the movant may proceed in the nonbankruptcy forum to final judgment (including any appeals) in accordance with applicable nonbankruptcy law, subject to the following limitations (Judge Bason's standard limitations).

(a) No enforcement against property of the bankruptcy estate. The stay remains in effect with respect to enforcement of any judgment against property of the debtor's bankruptcy estate - any such property shall be distributed when and how provided by the Bankruptcy Code. Nevertheless, the movant is permitted to enforce its final judgment by (i) collecting upon any available insurance in accordance with applicable nonbankruptcy law or (ii) proceeding against the debtor as to any property that is not property of this bankruptcy estate. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 362(b)(2)(B) & 541(b)(7) (collection of domestic support obligations from ERISA qualified retirement plans).

(b) Claim allowance, priority, and discharge issues. Any claims arising from the nonbankruptcy litigation are subject to this Bankruptcy Court's jurisdiction regarding claim allowance and priority, and the existence and scope of any bankruptcy discharge.

(c) No relief in other bankruptcy cases. To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Additional analysis:

The Bankruptcy Court "shall grant relief from the stay" upon a showing of "cause." 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1). Such relief need not take the form of a complete termination of the automatic stay, but instead may include "modifying or conditioning such stay." Id.

"Cause" is determined on a case-by-case basis." In re Tucson Estates, Inc., 912 F.2d 1162, 1166 (9th Cir.1990). In determining whether "cause" exists to grant relief from the automatic stay to allow a movant to pursue litigation in a non-bankruptcy forum, courts in the Ninth Circuit have examined the factors set forth in In re Curtis, 40 B.R. 795, 799–800 (Bankr. D. Utah 1984). See In re Kronmeyer, 405 B.R. 915 (9th Cir. BAP 2009); In re Plumberex Specialty Prods., Inc., 311 B.R. 551, 559–60 (Bankr. C.D. Cal.2004). Those factors are: (1) Whether the relief will result in a partial or complete resolution of the issues; (2) The lack of any connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case; (3) Whether the foreign proceeding involves the debtor as a fiduciary; (4) Whether a specialized tribunal has been established to hear the particular cause of action and whether that tribunal has the expertise to hear such cases; (5) Whether the debtor's insurance carrier has assumed full financial responsibility for defending the litigation; (6) Whether the action essentially involves third parties, and the debtor functions only as a bailee or conduit for the goods or proceeds in question; (7) Whether the litigation in another forum would prejudice the interests of other creditors, the creditors' committee and other interested parties; (8) Whether the judgment claim arising from the foreign action is subject to equitable subordination under Section 510(c); (9) Whether movant's success in the foreign proceeding would result in a judicial lien avoidable by the debtor under Section 522(f); (10) The interests of judicial economy and the expeditious and economical determination of litigation for the parties; (11) Whether the foreign proceedings have progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial; and (12) The impact of the stay on the parties and the "balance of hurt."

Plumberex, 311 B.R. at 559. "[W]hile the Curtis factors are widely used to determine the existence of 'cause,' not all of the factors are relevant in every case, nor is a court required to give each factor equal weight." In re Landmark Fence Co., Inc., 2011 WL 6826253 at *4 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 9, 2011).

Based on the present record, the tentative ruling is that these factors weigh in favor of granting relief as set forth above. Most significantly, relief will result in a complete resolution of the issues and the action essentially involves third parties - movant will seek insurance proceeds and will turn over any excess to the chapter 13 trustee. In addition, Debtor has filed a non-opposition (dkt. 68).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 1/28/20:

Appearances required. This matter was continued to this date to allow time for the parties to attempt to resolve this dispute. Based on this Court's review of the filed documents and records in this case, including Debtor's response (dkt.119) and Movant's reply (dkt.124) the tentative ruling is that Debtor has not rebutted Movant's evidence that Debtor is seriously in default, but that Debtor as the owner of the property is competent to provide an opinion as to its value, and Debtor has asserted a very substantial equity cushion, so the parties should be prepared to address whether Debtor can and will refinance the debt, or sell the property, or propose some other realistic strategy for addressing her missed payments.

#2.00 Hrg re: Application for payment of final fees

[Filed by Levene, Neale, Bender, Yoo & Brill, LLP]

Docket 251

Tentative Ruling:

Allow Levene, Neale, Bender, Yoo & Brill LLP $129,788.50 in fees (but limit payment to $73,082.29 per Trustee's report, see dkt. 255, PDF p.15) and $8,996.53 in expenses, for a total of $82,078.82. Appearances are not required.

Analysis:

This Court has reviewed the fee application, Debtor's Memorandum In Objection To Application For Payment Of Final Fees And/Or Expenses (dkt. 254), and the Chapter 7 Trustee's reply (dkt. 260). This Court is not persuaded by Debtor's objections for the following reasons.

(1) Debtor lacks standing

Based on the filed claims, as summarized in the Trustee's final report (dkt.256, at PDF pp.3-4), even if this Court were to sustain Debtor's objections and allow $0 for Trustee and all professionals, the claims against the bankruptcy estate still would exceed the funds available. Therefore Debtor has not established that she has any pecuniary interest, or any other cognizable stake, in how much or how little is awarded to Trustee and his professionals. Debtor lacks standing to object to their fees.

(2) Debtor's assertions are barred by the law of the case/preclusion principles

Debtor objects that she should have been permitted to dismiss her bankruptcy case and (Dkt.254, p.6:19-22) but that issue has already been litigated and decided against Debtor including on appeals. Debtor ignores this and other binding rulings of this Court. Her assertions of wrongdoing by Trustee ignore the fact that this Court has ruling in their favor, and those rulings are final.

(3) Debtor's factual allegations and legal contentions not only lack support: they are contrary to the record in this case

The background is that Debtor apparently was given bad advice by a non-attorney to file this bankruptcy case, in an attempt to block the Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") and/or other creditors from pursuing their remedies. In any event (whether through bad advice or for some other reason), Debtor attempted to claim a homestead exemption in property that was not her homestead, and when that failed she sought to have this Court dismiss this bankruptcy case without compensating Trustee/the bankruptcy estate for the expenses Debtor had caused them to incur (as of that time).

In other words, Debtor sought to have it both ways. She attempted to gain the benefits of bankruptcy (the automatic stay that held her creditors at bay) without the burdens (complying with the homestead laws, and paying administrative expenses).

Trustee and this Court attempted to explain these things to Debtor, and encouraged her to obtain advice from any capable bankruptcy attorney so as not to continue making matters worse. Instead, Debtor has continued throughout this case to make factual allegations that are contrary to the evidence before this Court and assert legal conclusions that are contrary to the law.

For example, this Court previously found that her assertions about living in the rental property lacked evidence, and in fact were contrary to the evidence before this Court, and her homestead exemption was legally unsupportable. Instead of accepting these things, Debtor drove up administrative expenses with frivolous motions for reconsideration and appeals.

Even now, Debtor repeatedly mis-quotes this Court in her objection, and mis-characterizes the attempts by Trustee and this Court to help her understand. For example, both Trustee and this Court attempted to explain that if Debtor had obtained good advice, and if Debtor's personal circumstances permitted her to move cities, then perhaps she could have moved into her rental property and claimed a homestead, either before filing this case or, if this case were to be dismissed, after that dismissal; but on the record presented she could not claim a homestead in this case nor could she have this case dismissed without at least paying administrative fees.

Likewise, if Debtor qualified for chapter 13 (including meeting the statutory requirement of having "regular income," 11 U.S.C. 109(e)), then perhaps she could move to convert her case, pay the chapter 7 administrative expenses over time, and pay her other creditors enough to keep her rental property.

But Debtor cherry picks the portions of those explanations that she likes and ignores the rest. For example, she mis-quotes this Court as having supposedly assured her that she could convert her case to chapter 13 and could "move back into her house, and claim an exemption." Dkt.254, pp.6:22-7:2 & 8:22-23. That is false.

(4) Conclusion

For each of the foregoing alternative reasons, this Court is not persuaded by Debtor's objection. Rather than attempting to re-litigate issues that have already been decided against her and that have always lacked merit, Debtor is encouraged to move on with her life, and to use her intelligence and skills for more productive purposes.

#3.00 Status conference re: Complaint to determine dischargeability of money received by fraud

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

Preliminary issues

(1) Status report

The summons issued in this case (adv. dkt. 2) directed the parties to file a joint status report by 1/14/20. As of the drafting of this tentative ruling, no status report has been filed. Why not?

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/11/20 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 11/27/19. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

#2.00 Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case

Docket 49

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues

(a) Lack of progress

Debtor has only very belatedly filed a status report (dkt.65) (one week after it was required by this Court's order, dkt. 50). Worse, long after this case was converted to chapter 11 (11/20/19) she has only now filed an application to employ counsel and a budget motion, and she admits (dkt. 65, p.2) that she has not filed her list of 20 largest unsecured creditors. In addition, she admits that she has not filed any cash collateral motion(s) (id., p.3), which apparently means that either she has been using cash without authority or she has been failing to use cash for ordinary and necessary expenses, both of which are bad.

What remedies should this Court impose on Debtor and/or her counsel for this pervasive failure to comply with her obligations under the Bankruptcy Code? What assurances can they provide this Court that similar problems will not happen in future?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 11/20/19 and converted from chapter 13 on 1/2/20.

(a) Bar date: 4/3/20 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference)

(b) Procedures order: dkt. 50 (timely served, dkt. 58)

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: n/a

(d) Continued status conference: 2/18/20 at 1:00 p.m., concurrent with other matters in this case. No written status report required.

fr. 12/17/19

Docket 5

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 1/28/20:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues

(a) Monthly operating reports ("MORs")

Debtor's MORs have been filed late, and they appear to show unauthorized adequate protection payments (see dkt.68, pp.15, 29) and unpaid US Trustee fees (id., p.30). Why?

(b) Cash collateral

Debtor's initial status report (dkt.27, at PDF pp.3-5) stated that there was no immediate need to obtain authorization for use of cash collateral because Debtor has no employees or operations. Debtor's latest status report (dkt.60, p.3:9-20) suggests that productive negotiations have taken place with the creditor holding an interest in cash collateral and that Debtor intends to self-calendar a motion approving the use of cash collateral for 2/4/20. What is the latest status of those matters?

(c) Employing broker and filing sale motion

Debtor is directed to address the status of its plans to employ a real estate broker, sell its properties (11 U.S.C. 363(b) & (f)). Those things typically are "first day" motions. But as of this continued status conference it will have been two months after the petition date and those matters are not on the calendar. Why not?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 11/29/19.

(a) Bar date: 3/31/20 (dkt.46, timely served, dkt.49).

(b) Procedures order: dkt. 2 (timely served, dkt. 8, 9)

Tentative Ruling for 12/17/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor (see dkt. 21, excusing debtor's appearance).

(1) Current issues

(a) Has Debtor ceased all operations?

Debtor's status report gives the impression, but does not quite state, that Debtor is not conducting any business operations at this time (dkt. 27, p. 3). Debtor is directed to confirm this, or disclose if that is not so, at the hearing.

(b) Budget motion

Debtor's status report states that a budget motion is not required by the presiding judge's procedures. Dkt. 27, p.5. That is wrong (see posted Procedures, available at cacb.uscourts.gov), but the tentative ruling is to excuse this requirement with a caution to counsel not to mis-state the applicable procedures.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 11/29/19.

(a) Bar date: 3/31/20 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

(b) Procedures order: dkt. 2 (timely served, dkt. 8, 9)

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: N/a

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 1/28/20:

Dismiss this case, with a direction to Debtor's counsel to assure completeness of the record by addressing the issue in item "(1)(a)" below, on pain of being held in contempt of this Court. See 11 U.S.C. 105(a).
Appearances are not required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Proposed order re untimely service of bar date order

In numerous prior tentative rulings (reproduced below) and at prior hearings this Court has directed Debtor's counsel to lodge a proposed order memorializing that this Court is excusing the untimely servicing of the bar date order. See also section "(2)(a)" of this tentative ruling, below. As of the drafting of this tentative ruling, such an order still has not been lodged. The tentative ruling is that, if Debtor's counsel fails to lodge an appropriate proposed order by 1/31/20 then this Court will impose coercive sanctions of $10 per day until such an order is lodged.

(b) Debtor's Second Amended Plan ("Plan," dkt. 98) and Disclosure Statement (dkt. 97), and the State Bank of India's Comments (dkt. 100)

The proposed Plan is not remotely feasible, given Debtor's long history of postpetition under-performance. Compare November MOR (dkt.96), p.1 ($977.10 balance in DIP account, after all receipts and disbursements since petition date) and id. p.15 (net loss on accrual basis) and December MOR (dkt. 100), p.1 ($531.15 balance in DIP account, after all receipts and disbursements since petition date) and id. p.15 (net gain on accrual basis), with Plan Ex.C (dkt.98 at PDF p.12) (projecting $5,000 disposable income per month).

Debtor's Plan is also internally inconsistent, and inconsistent with filed claims. It promises (dkt.98, p.3) a fixed dividend of 5% to general unsecured creditors ("GUCs"), but Exhibit A calculates that GUCs will received 2% of their claims. Dkt.98 at PDF p.10. Debtor's Plan, Exhibit A, also provides that the entire claim of the Franchise Tax Board ("FTB") is a priority claim under Section 507(a), but the FTB's Proof of Claim 2-2 states that not all of its claim is a priority claim.

In sum, Debtor has not demonstrated any realistic hope of a successful reorganization. The tentative ruling is to dismiss this case, because conversion would not result in any distribution to GUCs in view of the lien of Bank of India. See 11 U.S.C. 1112. See also dkt.100 (statement by Bank in favor of dismissal).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 8/2/18.

(a) Bar date: 12/11/18: not timely served, see dkt. 24, 35 & 41, but the tentative ruling is that no new bar date needs to be set because of the substantial time after the bar date with no party in interest having asserted prejudice and/or seeking to have an untimely claim allowed. Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order memorializing that, for the foregoing reasons, this Court is excusing the untimely servicing of the bar date order.

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: See above.

(c) Continued status conference: N/A

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Chapter 11

(1) Current issues

(a) Proposed order re untimely service of bar date order

In the tentative ruling for the 9/24/19 hearing, this Court directed Debtor to lodge a proposed order memorializing that this Court is excusing the untimely servicing of the bar date order. As of the drafting of this tentative ruling, no such order has been lodged. Why not?

Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order within 7 days of this status conference as set forth in Section (2)(a) below.

(b) Debtor's MORs

On the one hand, Debtor's latest MOR (dkt.94) continues to show that Debtor is current on adequate protection payments, and so far as this Court is aware Debtor is otherwise in compliance with DIP obligations. On the other hand, Debtor's hopes of increasing its income appear to be elusive.

Debtor's September MOR (dkt. 93) shows a small increase in Debtor's general account (under $4,000 increase) (id., p.1) and a slightly larger decrease in the payroll account (just over $5,000 decrease) (id., p.4). Debtor's October MOR (dkt. 94) shows a small loss in the general account (just under $2,000 decrease) and in the payroll account (just over $400 decrease). In addition, Debtor has offered various explanations during this case about why Debtor expects to turn the corner in the near future, but then any (minor) profits in one month appear to be offset by losses the next month, and Debtor's latest explanations (dkt.94, at PDF p.18) are unreadable.

The parties should be prepared to address whether this Court should fix deadlines for Debtor to file a proposed plan and disclosure statement with a realistic possibility of confirmation, and whether failure to meet any such deadlines should result in dismissal or conversion of this bankruptcy case.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 8/2/18.

(a) Bar date: 12/11/18: not timely served, see dkt. 24, 35 & 41, but the tentative ruling is that no new bar date needs to be set because of the substantial time after the bar date with no party in interest having asserted prejudice and/or seeking to have an untimely claim allowed. Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order memorializing that, for the foregoing reasons, this Court is excusing the untimely servicing of the bar date order.

Tentative Ruling for 9/24/19:

Continue as set forth below, subject to lodging the proposed order indicated below. Appearances are not required on 9/24/19.

(1) Current issues

It appears from a review of the August MOR (dkt. 91) that the Debtor's sales have increased and operations are (barely) profitable, with hopes of future increases in profitability. The tentative ruling is that Debtor needs to establish a longer track record of profitability before any proposed plan could be shown to be feasible, and therefore this Court should continue this Status Conference without setting a deadline to file a proposed plan and disclosure statement.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 8/2/18.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 1/28/20:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtors' Disclosure Statement (dkt. 123) and chapter 11 Plan of reorganization (dkt. 124)

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/4/20 for Debtors to file corrected bankruptcy Schedules I&J, a declaration of postpetition income and expenses, a corrected and "blacklined" Disclosure Statement, and a corrected and "blacklined" Plan, addressing the following issues:

(i) Debtors' net income calculations are very confusing

Debtors' net income calculations are confusing for three reasons. First, bankruptcy Schedules I and J (filed both as part of the Plan documents and separately) are supposed to reflect income and expenses as of the petition date, not later dates. For later dates, Debtors should have used this Court's local form declaration of postpetition income and expenses. Using the wrong forms is confusing and misleading.

Second, it appears from this Court's notes of the hearing on 7/30/19 that Debtors moved out of their Locust Avenue duplex at some point, so they are now renting out both units (and meanwhile they are themselves renting their living space for $1,000/mo.); but the Plan and Disclosure Statement do not make this clear. In addition, Debtors appear to list income from three renters - what space is the extra renter occupying, given that the property is a duplex not a triplex? Specifically, amended Schedule I, line 8a, lists $1,600/mo. income (tenant #1), and line 8h and Ex.A list two more tenants paying a total of $3,445/mo. (tenants #2&3). Is this accurate?

Third, Debtors' mortgage obligation does not appear to be included either in their calculation of net income from their rental property (amended bankruptcy Schedule I, dkt.122, at PDF pp.29-30, line 8a & Ex.A) or in their expenses (Schedule J, line 20a, dkt.122, at PDF p.31). In one or another of those places, they should have included their mortgage expense of $2,480.18 for principal and interest (dkt.122, at PDF p.30).

That error is balanced out by the fact that the Plan proposes to pay that amount. But the correct way to show this would have been to file an accurate declaration of postpetition income and expenses and then, in the Disclosure Statement, adjust Debtors' net income by backing out whatever mortgage was included in the declaration of postpetition income and expenses. Exhibit C-1 to the Disclosure Statement has a line to make such adjustments.

(ii) The Plan in its current form is infeasible by $325 on the Effective Date

Debtors' cash flow statement (dkt.123, Ex.C) shows a negative balance on the effective date: it gives the impression that the Plan is infeasible because Debtors would not be able to make the mandatory $325 payment to the UST on the effective date (see 11 USC 1129(a)(12)). Debtors are directed to address whether they will have sufficient cash on hand to make this payment.

(iii) The Plan does not comply with 11 USC 1129(a)(9)

Debtors propose to pay the IRS's claim over a period of 60 months, beginning on the proposed 4/1/20 effective date; but section 1129(a)(9) requires that the IRS's claim be paid in full within 5 years of the order for relief (i.e. 5 years from 4/10/19, or by 4/10/24).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 4/10/19 and converted from chapter 13 on 6/18/19.

- (a) Bar date: 6/19/19, and supplemental bar date of 8/28/19 after conversion to chapter 11, notice timely served (see dkt. 66, 67)
- (b) Procedures order: dkt. 41 (timely served, dkt. 46)
- (c) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/4/20 for Debtors to file (BUT NOT SERVE) an amended Plan and Disclosure Statement correcting the foregoing issues, with manual "blacklining" showing all changes, which this Court will review prior to the continued status conference.
- (d) Continued status conference: 2/28/20 at 1:00 p.m.

(1) Current Issues

(a) Settlement of Mazakoda's Inc.'s Claim

Debtors and Mazakoda have each reported a tentative settlement of their disputes (dkt.104, and adv.no. 2:19-ap-01243-NB, adv.dkt.8), and this status conference has been continued before in anticipation of such settlement (see dkt.106). What is the status of the parties' attempted settlement, and what action should this Court take?

Docket 4

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 1/28/20:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Goldman Sachs' Motion for relief from stay (dkt. 25-28), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 31), Goldman Sachs' reply (dkt. 32, 33), adequate protection order (dkt. 39), Debtor's supplemental briefs (dkt. 47,57), Goldman Sachs' supplemental briefs (dkt. 49-51, 67-68), orders (dkt. 72, 79), status report (dkt.83)

This Court's order setting today's hearing (dkt.79, para.4) requires evidence "of efforts to arrange for takeout financing." The declarations filed by Debtor (dkt.83) address the status of plan check meetings with the city, but nothing about any efforts to obtain takeout financing.

What is the status of those efforts? What remedies should this Court impose?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 6/25/19.

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Goldman Sachs' Motion for relief from stay (dkt. 25, 26, 27, 28), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 31), Goldman Sachs' reply (dkt. 32, 33), adequate protection order (dkt. 39), Debtor's supplemental brief (dkt. 47), Goldman Sachs' supplemental reply (dkt. 59, 50, 51), stipulation to continue hearing (dkt. 53), Debtor's supplemental opposition (dkt. 57), Goldman Sachs' supplemental reply (dkt. 67, 68), order (dkt. 72)

At the hearing on 12/2/19, this Court granted Goldman Sachs' motion for relief from stay in part, such that the stay will continue in force and effect only through 2/28/20, but set some discovery-related deadlines and continued this hearing to address any discovery disputes. If there are no disputes that need to be resolved at this time, the tentative ruling is to continue this matter to the same time as the continued status conference (see below).

(b) Law office of Michael J. Berger's first interim fee application (dkt. 58), no opposition is on file Grant the application and authorize fees of $19,559 and costs of $374.20, for a total award of $19,933.20.

Proposed order: Applicant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(1) Current issues

(a) Goldman Sachs' Motion for relief from stay (dkt. 25, 26, 27, 28), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 31), Goldman Sachs' reply (dkt. 32, 33), adequate protection order (dkt. 39), Debtor's supplemental brief (dkt. 47), Goldman Sachs' supplemental reply (dkt. 59, 50, 51), stipulation to continue hearing (dkt. 53), Debtor's supplemental opposition (dkt. 57), Goldman Sachs' supplemental reply (dkt. 67, 68)

The tentative ruling is to modify and condition the automatic stay, under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (2), such that the stay will continue in force and effect only through 2/28/20, which will allow debtor a final opportunity to obtain the anticipated construction permits within the time frame it current projects and several additional weeks to secure its anticipated post-petition financing.

This Court acknowledges that Debtor appears to be making incremental progress towards paying off Goldman Sachs and restructuring its finances. But this Court is also mindful that (a) Goldman Sachs' lien has been in default since 12/2018; (b) Debtor has already benefitted from five months of stay protection since the 6/25/19 petition date; (c) based on a review of Goldman Sachs' recent appraisal (dkt. 68), its interest in the Proposed order: Goldman Sachs is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1) (B).

(1) Written order

(a) Form. Use local form

F2081-1.1.ORDER.CASH.COLLATERAL or the equivalent. Attach a copy of this tentative ruling as an exhibit, thereby adopting it as the written ruling of this Court, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. Do not repeat the terms set forth in the motion or any stipulation. Incorporate those terms by reference (including the docket number of the document), subject to any modification by this Court.

(b) Timing. Lodge the proposed order within 7 days after the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Minimum adequate protection

In addition to the postpetition security interests that are automatically provided pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 552 (e.g., in traceable proceeds and profits), and subject to any more comprehensive protection that may be included in the motion or related papers, Debtor shall provide at least the following protection to any creditor with a security interest in the subject property (pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 361-364, as applicable):

(a) Insurance. For all collateral of a type that typically is insured (e.g., real property and improvements), Debtor is directed to maintain insurance in a dollar amount at least equal to Debtor's good faith estimate of the value of such creditor's interest in the collateral, and such insurance shall name such creditor as an additional insured. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments for such insurance.

(b) Taxes. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments on account of postpetition real estate taxes (to the extent that real estate is part of the collateral).

(c) Disclosures/access. Debtor is directed to provide, upon such creditor's reasonable request, periodic accountings of the foregoing insurance and tax obligations and payments, as well as postpetition proceeds, products, offspring, or profits from the collateral, including gross revenues and expenses and a calculation of net revenues, including any rents and any fees, charges, accounts, or other payments for the use or occupancy of rooms and other public facilities in lodging properties (as all of the foregoing terms are used in 11 U.S.C. 552). Debtor is directed to provide appropriate documentation of those accountings, and access for purposes of inspection or appraisal.

(3) Limitation on postpetition liens

In the event that the motion or related papers seek authority to grant postpetition liens to the creditor(s) with respect to prepetition debts any such liens shall be limited to the same validity, priority, and amount as prepetition liens. As used herein, the "validity, priority, and amount" or any similar phrase that may be used by the parties or this Court is deemed to include the following:

(a) Extent. Such liens shall be limited to the type of collateral in which the creditor held a security interest as of the petition date, unless this order expressly states that the liens granted by this order are intended to attach to different types of collateral from the prepetition collateral. For example, if prepetition liens extended to inventory and accounts receivable but not equipment then postpetition liens are likewise limited (unless otherwise expressly provided by order of this Court). In addition, postpetition liens shall not extend to the proceeds of any avoidance actions, any recoveries under 11 U.S.C. 506(c), or any "carveout" under 11 U.S.C. 552.

(b) Priority. Such liens shall be limited to the same priority as the security interest held by the creditor as of the petition date.

(c) Dollar amount. Such liens shall be limited to the dollar amount needed to protect the creditor against diminution in the value of the secured claims as of the petition date.

(d) Enforceability. Such liens shall be limited to the extent that the creditor's security interests were duly perfected and valid as of the petition date, and to the extent that they are unavoidable.

(e) Automatic postpetition perfection. Any automatic perfection of such liens shall be subject to any applicable limitations regarding the Court's authority, jurisdiction, or due process.

(4) Automatic disapproval of insufficiently disclosed provisions

Any provision of the type listed in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or in local form F4001-2 (e.g., cross-collateralization) or any waiver of the "equities of the case" exception in 11 U.S.C. 552(b)(2) shall be deemed automatically disapproved and excepted from any order granting the motion, notwithstanding any other provision of such order, unless either: (a) such provision is specifically and prominently disclosed in the motion papers in a checklist (such as local form F4001-2), or alternatively (b) such provision is

(5) Disputes

In the event of any disputes regarding the rulings in this order, the parties are directed to meet and confer and, if they cannot resolve their disputes consensually, contact Judge Bason's chambers to arrange a mutually convenient time for either a telephonic or in-person hearing to address such disputes.

Appearances are not required on 12/10/19.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's counsel final fee application (dkt. 149)

Allow Zolkin Talerico LLP $153,269.00 in fees and $2,009.07 in expenses, for a total of $155,278.07. The tentative ruling is to authorize payment of those dollar amounts pro rata with other administrative claimants from Debtor's remaining cash - i.e., in accordance with the Bankruptcy Code's priority scheme - pursuant to the procedures set forth below.

(b) Motion of the United States Trustee ("UST") to convert, dismiss, or appoint a Chapter 11 trustee (the "UST Motion", dkt. 76)

The tentative ruling is to authorize a structured dismissal of this case, contingent on distribution of all remaining assets (funds) in accordance with the distribution priorities of the Bankruptcy Code. In furtherance of such a distribution, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 12/31/19 for Debtor to file and serve a notice of its proposed distributions and any other proposed terms for a structured dismissal, and set a deadline of 14 days after service via US mail for any objections (i.e., 11 days plus 3 additional days for service via US mail per Rule 9006, Fed. R. Bankr. P.), so that if Debtor wishes this matter can be noticed on a "negative notice" basis and possibly concluded before the end of the calendar year). Absent any objections, the tentative ruling is that Debtor could file a declaration of no response and lodge a proposed order granting the UST's motion on the terms proposed by Debtor.

Appearances required. Deny the (belated) motion re cash collateral (docket no. 51) and only authorize Debtor to use funds to pay the following items in the proposed budget (dkt.51, Ex."A" "1", at p.22):

- (1) non-insider payroll, payroll taxes, benefits, and payroll service,
- (2) consultants whose employment has been authorized by written order of this Court,
- (3) insurance,
- (4) Hanmi Bank adequate protection payments equal to regular monthly payments of principal and interest - not any "loan fees,"
- (5) property repair and maintenance,
- (6) Office expense and supplies, postage, and shipping,
- (7) Permits, property taxes, and licenses,
- (8) telecommunications,
- (9) utilities.

The tentative ruling is that all other expenses are not adequately explained and justified. For example, the proposed budget includes $108,222 (approximately 2/3 of the total expenses) for "Taxi Vouchers and tokens" plus $3,155/mo. for "Equipment rental and maintenance," $3,412/mo. for "Management Fees," and $5,784/mo. for "Facility cost (rent utilities)." How can any creditors or this Court assess whether those things are "ordinary course" without some explanation? See 11 U.S.C. 363(b).

Has Debtor historically been in the business of providing taxi vouchers to low-income persons to facilitate employment, medical visits, and food? If so, why was this not explained in more detail in the initial status conference report? See dk.11. Are those services paid for out of the grants that Debtor receives? Is there any protection of the bankruptcy estate against misuse of such a large amount of transfers? Is the budget for those things consistent with past practices and/or with the expenses of other nonprofits that provide similar services? See In re Dant & Russell, Inc., 853 F.2d 700 (9th Cir. 1988).

In addition, as to those expenditures that are approved, the tentative ruling is not to approve section "8" of the proposed stipulation with Hanmi Bank (dk. 51, Ex.A). In that section Debtor purports to waive rights under 11 U.S.C. 364(d) and 506(c), but there is no showing why that would be appropriate and it might be detrimental to creditors. The tentative ruling is, instead, to require that Debtor provide at least 72 hours' advance notice of any proposed expenditure that Debtor believes would qualify for reimbursement under section 506(c), absent exigent circumstances that make such advance notice impossible. In other respects, the tentative ruling is to authorize the use of cash collateral as provided in the stipulation, but subject to the conditions set forth below.

Judge Bason's standard conditions for use of cash collateral and/or postpetition financing (by creditors holding prepetition claims)

(1) Written order

(a) Form. Use local form

F2081-1.1.ORDER.CASH.COLLATERAL or the equivalent. Attach a copy of this tentative ruling as an exhibit, thereby adopting it as the written ruling of this Court, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. Do not repeat the terms set forth in the motion or any stipulation. Incorporate those terms by reference (including the docket number of the document), subject to any modification by this Court.

(b) Timing. Lodge the proposed order within 7 days after the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Minimum adequate protection

In addition to the postpetition security interests that are automatically provided pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 552 (e.g., in traceable proceeds and profits), and subject to any more comprehensive protection that may be included in the motion or related papers, Debtor shall provide at least the following protection to any creditor with a security interest in the subject property (pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 361-364, as applicable):

(a) Insurance. For all collateral of a type that typically is insured (e.g., real property and improvements), Debtor is directed to maintain insurance in a dollar amount at least equal to Debtor's good faith estimate of the value of such creditor's interest in the collateral, and such insurance shall name such creditor as an additional insured. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments for such insurance.

(b) Taxes. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments on account of postpetition real estate taxes (to the extent that real estate is part of the collateral).

(c) Disclosures/access. Debtor is directed to provide, upon such creditor's reasonable request, periodic accountings of the foregoing insurance and tax obligations and payments, as well as postpetition proceeds, products, offspring, or profits from the collateral, including gross revenues and expenses and a calculation of net revenues, including any rents and any fees, charges, accounts, or other payments for the use or occupancy of rooms and other public facilities in lodging properties (as all of the foregoing terms are used in 11 U.S.C. 552). Debtor is directed to provide appropriate documentation of those accountings, and access for purposes of inspection or appraisal.

(3) Limitation on postpetition liens

In the event that the motion or related papers seek authority to grant postpetition liens to the creditor(s) with respect to prepetition debts any such liens shall be limited to the same validity, priority, and amount as prepetition liens. As used herein, the "validity, priority, and amount" or any similar phrase that may be used by the parties or this Court is deemed to include the following:

(a) Extent. Such liens shall be limited to the type of collateral in which the creditor held a security interest as of the petition date, unless this order expressly states that the liens granted by this order are intended to attach to different types of collateral from the prepetition collateral. For example, if prepetition liens extended to inventory and accounts receivable but not equipment then postpetition liens are likewise limited (unless otherwise expressly provided by order of this Court). In addition, postpetition liens shall not extend to the proceeds of any avoidance actions, any recoveries under 11 U.S.C. 506(c), or any "carveout" under 11 U.S.C. 552.

(b) Priority. Such liens shall be limited to the same priority as the security interest held by the creditor as of the petition date.

(c) Dollar amount. Such liens shall be limited to the dollar amount needed to protect the creditor against diminution in the value of the secured claims as of the petition date.

(d) Enforceability. Such liens shall be limited to the extent that the creditor's security interests were duly perfected and valid as of the petition date, and to the extent that they are unavoidable.

(e) Automatic postpetition perfection. Any automatic perfection of such liens shall be subject to any applicable limitations regarding the Court's authority, jurisdiction, or due process.

(4) Automatic disapproval of insufficiently disclosed provisions

Any provision of the type listed in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or in local form F4001-2 (e.g., cross-collateralization) or any waiver of the "equities of the case" exception in 11 U.S.C. 552(b)(2) shall be deemed automatically disapproved and excepted from any order granting the motion, notwithstanding any other provision of such order, unless either: (a) such provision is specifically and prominently disclosed in the motion papers in a checklist (such as local form F4001-2), or alternatively (b) such provision is specifically identified in any proposed order granting the motion, using terminology of the type used in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or local form F4001-2 (e.g., any "cross-collateralization" that is not specifically identified as such is deemed to be disapproved).

Docket 44

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Docket 26

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is not sufficient evidence and notice.

No prejudice to Debtor intended. Based on the record, it appears that this is a "hijacked" case, and that Debtor is innocent of any involvement. See e.g., In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017) (describing hijacking); In re Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) (same). In a hijacking case, the Debtor faces the legitimate concern of being subject to a 180-day bar and other adverse consequences if, for example, Debtor later requests and obtains a voluntary dismissal and subsequently needs to file another bankruptcy petition. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(2), 362(b)(21)(A). There is authority that section 109 "eligibility issues" are nonjurisdictional, can be waived, forfeited, or subject to estoppel, and should not be applied if that would produce an "illogical, unjust, or capricious result, or when the benefit of dismissal would inure to a bad faith creditor." In re Leafly, 489 B.R. 545, 550-51 (9th Cir. Bap 2012) (citing cases including under 109(g)(2)). See also In re Mendez, 367 B.R. 109, 116-17 (9th Cir. BAP 2007); In re Luna, 122 B.R. 575, 577 (9th Cir. BAP 1991); Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261, 270. The same principles apply to any other adverse consequences from a hijacking. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to condition the relief from the automatic stay granted in this tentative ruling such that no adverse consequences apply to Debtor from the hijacking, including under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(2) or 362(b)(21)(A). Note: None of the foregoing will shield Debtor if it turns out that Debtor was not, in fact, innocent of any involvement in the

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Analysis
Service

In his opposition (dkt. 28), Debtor states that there was insufficient notice of the hearing. It is true that the motion papers were not served until January 14, 2020 (21 days before the hearing) (see dkt. 24, p.12), but Debtor's counsel timely filed an opposition and has not explained that Debtor has suffered any prejudice as a result of receiving 21 days' notice rather than 24 days' notice of the hearing. Therefore, the tentative ruling is to excuse the untimely service. See Rule 9006 (Fed.R.Bankr.P.).

Debtor's unauthorized receipt of ownership of the property, and apparent participation in a scheme to delay, hinder, and defraud creditors

As noted in the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov), an unauthorized transferee of property cannot modify a lienholder's rights. See id., citing In re Bousheri, Case No. 2:15-bk-11345-NB, dkt. 79. So Debtor's only apparent choice is to refinance or sell the subject property, while meanwhile adequately protecting Movant's interest.

Chapter 13

First, Debtor has not proposed any such course of action. His proposed chapter 13 plan (dkt.13) ignores this lien.

Second, Debtor's own self-reported income and expenses (dkt.10, pp.18-21) show that he has no cash flow from which to make adequate protection payments.

Third, the evidence is that Debtor's purported interest in the property (which he variously reports as either a 50% interest or a 100% interest) is only part of a scheme to hinder, delay, and defraud creditors. Debtor does not dispute that the purported to transfer to him was a "gift," so he paid nothing for that interest. Debtor also does not dispute the other factual allegations in Movant's papers about how the transfer was used to stop foreclosure.

For all of the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is to grant the following relief.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Docket 15

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions, and also subject to any opposition at the hearing. Appearances required.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

Chapter 13

#9.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order
Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic
Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 5

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions. Appearances are not required.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Docket 16

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to (1) any opposition at the hearing, (2) denial of attorney fees for appearing at the hearing as set forth below, and (3) the additional conditions set forth below. Appearances required.

No attorney fees: This Court presumes that counsel for Debtor will not charge any fees for appearing at this hearing, unless there is an opposition to the motion, because (a) the posted Procedures of Judge Bason permit these types of motions to be set on 14 days' notice with opposition papers due 5 calendar days before the hearing, but (b) counsel checked the box providing that the motion (dkt. 16) was being heard on regular notice with opposition due 14 days before the hearing when the motion was served 15 days before the hearing and (c) the amended motion (dkt. 21) was filed 13 days before the hearing. If counsel intends to charge any fees then the procedures must be followed to dispute this tentative ruling.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

Tentative Ruling for 2/4/20:

Appearances required. This Court was persuaded to continue this matter to allow time for Debtor to make a $2,000 payment to Movant by January 15, 2020 and for the parties to negotiate the terms of an adequate protection order. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address (a) whether Debtor timely made the payment described above, (b) whether the alleged arrears have been brought current and/or (c) whether they will agree to the terms of an adequate protection order.

Docket 5

Tentative Ruling:

This case has now been dismissed (dkt.14). Debtor has not filed any response to this Court's order to show cause (dkt.5) why he should not be barred from being a debtor in any future bankruptcy case for a period of 180 days. This Court previously imposed a 180-day bar (dkt.5, last paragraph). Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 2/4/20:

Grant Plaintiff's motion for a default judgment, in the amount of $20,239.94 consisting of $12,646.75 in principal, $1,234.44 in interest, and $6,358.75 in attorney fees and costs (see adv. dkt. 21 and 23). Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Appearances are not required on 1/7/20.

(see adv.dkt.21, p.5, n.7), and deadlines of 1/21/20 for any opposition to those additional charges and 1/30/20 for any reply.

The tentative ruling is to defer issuing any order on the motion until the final dollar amount is determined.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 12/10/19:

Continue to 1/7/20 at 11:00 a.m. to address the following issues.

Appearances are not required on 12/10/19.

Reasons:

Plaintiff seeks $19,099.40 consisting of "$12,646.75 in principal, $1,466.40 in interest, and $4,986.25 in attorneys' fees and costs." Adv.dkt.17, p.11:6-7.

(1) Interest

The retainer letter, attached to the Complaint (adv.dkt.1, Ex. 1 at PDF p.9), does not mention any interest rate, so there is a question what rate to apply (see below). In addition, there are no calculations showing what interest rate has been applied and how it has been calculated.

The tentative ruling is that this Court has limited discretion to determine whether the pre-judgment interest rate should be governed California or federal law, but that the state of the law on this issue is somewhat unclear. See In re Zenovic, 2017 WL 431400, *8 (9th Cir. BAP 2017) (in nondischargeability case when State law issues predominated, there was no State court judgment, and there was danger of forum shopping, bankruptcy court had discretion to award prejudgment interest at Federal or State law rate, and did not abuse discretion by choosing State rate); but see In re Hamilton, 584 B.R. 310, 324 (9th Cir. BAP 2018) (citing In re Zenovic for proposition that when there is no prior State court judgment, federal law governs pre-and postjudgment interest).

(2) Attorney fees

The retainer letter, attached to the Complaint (adv.dkt.1, Ex. 1 at PDF p.9), includes an attorney fee clause. But Plaintiff's motion does not include daily time records evidencing that Plaintiff is entitled to the fees and costs he seeks (as distinguished from his claim for damages, which is supported by daily time records).

(3) Additional briefing

The deadline for Plaintiff to file additional papers addressing the above issues is 12/31/19.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 9/24/19:

The tentative ruling is to continue this Status Conference as set forth below, at which time this Court can assess what progress has been made on any motion for a default judgment, based on this Court's reviewed of Plaintiff's unilateral status report (adv. dkt. 12) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. Plaintiff is directed in future to use the mandatory form of status report (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) - among other things, it has a question regarding consent to this Court's entry of final orders. Appearances are not required on 9/24/19.

Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order entitled "Order On Initial Status Conference" via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling.

Preliminary Issues: continuance

Note: This Court will hold a Status Conference concurrent with any other hearing in this adversary proceeding (including any self-calendared hearings).

Standard issues

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. [Intentionally omitted.]

(3) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 7/12/19. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

#1.00 Status conference re: Chapter 11 case

Docket 6

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by Debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues

(a) Employment application (dkt.21): Debtor fails to disclose the source of funds used to pay proposed bankruptcy counsel (id., p.8). Nor is there any disclosure of either the payment or the source of funds in the SOFA line 16 (dkt.19, at PDF p.47). Nor has counsel filed the required disclosure under Rule 2016 (Fed.R.Bankr.P.). See Nat. Form B2030.

The employment application lists costs for photocopying and other expenses that appear to exceed the applicable guidelines (see dkt.21, at PDF p.20). The tentative ruling is to disapprove those proposed charges.

Late payment charges can only run from when fees and costs are authorized and directed to be paid (as ordered by this Court) (see id., at PDF p.21). Pursuant to the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) any employment order will supersede the provisions in the employment application that would otherwise provide for an attorney lien (impermissible because it would create a conflict of interest). Under the same Procedures, any arbitration provision is subject to this Court's initial jurisdiction to review any fee disputes (id., at PDF p.21).

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/7/20 to file and serve documents correcting the foregoing deficiencies. If those documents are amendments to previously filed documents, all changes must be shown by "blacklining."

(b) Budget motion (dkt.20): SchJ line 17 (reproduced at dkt.20, PDF p.12) shows two cars, but Debtor's bankruptcy Schedules A/B and D (dkt.19 at PDF pp.4-5 & 15-16) show four cars (all under-water). What is Debtor's intent regarding these cars, and why does Debtor need so many?

SchJ line 19 (reproduced at dkt.20, at PDF p.12) shows $500/mo. of "support" payments "to mother-in-law and sister-in-law." Are these truly "support" payments within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 101(14A)(A)(i) & (B) and 11 U.S.C. 707(b)(2)(A)(ii)(II) (incorporated by 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(15) and 1325(b)(2)(A)(i)), and can they be deducted properly from Debtor's income?

(c) Substantial equity in properties alleged to have been fraudulently transferred. Based on SOFA line 13 (dkt.19 at PDF p.46), certain creditors allege that Debtor fraudulently transferred interests properties at 319 N. Sunset Ave., La Puente, CA ("Sunset") and 1545 Cambria St, Los Angeles, CA 90017, where Debtor resides ("Cambria"), as gifts to his wife and children, perhaps to evade payment of a judgment in those creditors' lawsuit asserting that Debtor's rental property was uninhabitable. See SOFA line 9 (dkt.19, at PDF p.45). Based on Bankruptcy Schedule D (dkt.19, at PDF pp.15-16) and Debtor's Status Report (dkt.18, p.A-2, lines 15-25), there appears to be over $300,000 of equity in Sunset and over $1.1 million in unencumbered equity in Cambria. Debtor cannot and does not claim any exemption in these properties that he allegedly fraudulently transferred. See Bankruptcy Schedule C (dkt.19, at PDF pp.13-14).

Debtor is directed to disclose at the status conference the percentage ownership interest that Debtor had in Sunset and Cambria in the years prior to the alleged fraudulent transfer. All parties are directed to address the status of the nonbankruptcy litigation.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 1/13/20.

(a) Bar date: 5/31/20 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

(b) Procedures order: dkt. 3 (timely served, dkt. 9)

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD

(d) Continued status conference: 3/10/20 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 2/4/20:

Appearances are not required on 2/4/20.

(1) Current issues

(a) Berger fee application (dkt. 138).

Grant in part and deny in part as follows. Applicant seeks an interim award of $33,341 in fees and $417.30 in expenses, for a total award of $33,758.30.

Applicant's time records identify $9,846 in fees for services performed related to "Claims Administration and Objections" (dkt. 138, Ex. 3). The bulk of the fees requested in this category relate to Debtor's objections to proofs of claim 6, 9, 10, 12, 13, & 14 (dkt. 89, 90, 91, 92, 93 & 99). This Court is not persuaded that the fees billed for bringing these objections are entirely reasonable.

First, the bulk of the objections contain identical, "boilerplate" summaries of law, with very limited facts and argument. This is reinforced by the fact that the application divides time equally among these objections. See dkt. 138, Ex. 3, p.2.

Second, the objections fail to cite proper grounds to disallow the various claims under 11 U.S.C. 502(b), pursuant to well established authority, and Debtor did not cite or attempt to distinguish such authority. This Court's orders overruled each of Debtor's claim objections. See dkt.127 et seq.

For the foregoing reasons, this Court finds it appropriate to reduce the fees by $2,000 for this category. Accordingly, this Court will allow fees in the amount of $31,341 and $417.30 in expenses, for a total award of $31,758.30.

(b) Jennifer M. Liu fee application (dkt. 141).

Allow Jennifer M. Liu $11,650 in fees and $160 in expenses, for a total

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 2/4/20

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor (as orally ruled at the last status conference, Debtor's principals need not appear because they appeared at that status conference).

(1) Current issues

(a) Cash collateral motion (dkt. 19), supporting declarations (dkt. 23, 25, 26, 32, 33), order setting emergency hearing (dkt. 24), interim order (dkt. 39).

There is no tentative ruling, the parties should be prepared to update this Court on whether JPMorgan Chase and Fundation Group will consent to the use of their cash collateral.

(b) Utility motion (dkt. 21), supporting declarations (dkt. 23, 25, 26, 32, 33), order setting emergency hearing (dkt. 24),no opposition is on file.

Grant the utility motion on a final basis.

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(c) Service of order setting principal status conference

This Court's order setting principal status conference and setting various procedures (the "Procedures Order," dkt. 5) required Debtor to serve that order on all parties in interest and file a proof of service at least 14 days before the principal status conference. Debtor's proof of service states that the Procedures Order was only served on the UST, secured creditors and the twenty largest unsecured creditors (dkt. 11).

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/7/20 for Debtor to file and serve a Notice, with a copy of the Procedures Order attached as an exhibit, informing all parties in interest that "Debtor failed to serve the Procedures Order on all parties in interest as directed by the Bankruptcy Court, which may have prejudiced some parties. The Bankruptcy Court has directed Debtor to serve this Notice, with a copy of the Procedures Order, on all parties in interest, both to inform all parties of the procedures in the Procedures Order and so that any party who was prejudiced by the lack of earlier service has an opportunity to seek any appropriate relief."

In addition, Debtor is cautioned that failure to comply with this Court's orders may result in adverse consequences.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 1/15/20.

(a) Bar date: 4/7/20 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

(b) Procedures order: dkt. 5 (see section "(1)(c)" above).

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: file by 5/15/20 using the forms required by Judge Bason (DO NOT SERVE yet, except on the U.S. Trustee - this Court will set a deadline and procedures at a later time).

fr. 12/10/19, 1/7/20

Docket 38

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 2/4/20:
Appearances required.

Current issues

(1) Employees' Motion for Contempt (dkt. 38)

This matter has been continued a number of times to allow time for discovery and to address further the sanctions issues. On 1/24/19, Employees submitted the declaration of William G. Short (dkt. 81, the "Short Decl.").

The tentative ruling is that the Short Decl. does not include sufficient evidence to meet the usual standards for compensatory sanctions, including for example (a) evidence justifying a billing rate of $500/hr. (e.g., any board certifications, a summary of relevant experience in the legal specialt(ies) at issue, evidence of the customary compensation charged by comparably skilled practitioners in similar cases) or (b) a breakdown of what fees and expenses would not have been incurred but for the failure of Debtor and/or its agents to respond to discovery requests in accordance with the applicable rules (e.g., the Small Decl. includes charges for deposition preparation but, although it is true that Debtor initially failed to produce its person most knowledgeable, there is no explanation why the deposition preparation was not helpful when Debtor did eventually produce its person most knowledgeable for deposition). Cf. 11 U.S.C. 330(a)(3)&(4) (standards applicable to asserted administrative expenses).

The tentative ruling is to continue this matter to 2/18/20 at 11:00 a.m., to be concurrent with another scheduled matter in this case, with a deadline of 2/10/20 for Employees to file and serve their second supplemental declaration, a deadline of 2/14/20 at noon for any opposition papers to be

(2) Outstanding discovery issues?

The parties are directed to address whether there are any outstanding discovery issues that need to be resolved. The tentative ruling is to hear any such issues, at least on an initial basis, at this hearing, consistent with the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (www.cacb.uscourts.gov) regarding discovery disputes.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 1/7/20:

Appearances required. This matter was continued to this date to allow time for the parties to meet and confer, conduct further discovery, and then at this hearing to address further the sanctions issues. On 12/23/19, the Creditors conducted the requested 2004 examination. The parties are directed to appear to provide this Court with an update on the status of their dispute.

The tentative ruling is also to grant the motion and award coercive sanctions, in an escalating dollar amount to be addressed at the hearing. The tentative ruling is to deny any request for an order directing Google to do anything, for lack of sufficient notice and cited authority/analysis. Docket 13

Revised Tentative Ruling for 2/4/20:

Appearances required. Mr. Mack is directed to appear and bring government issued photo identification.

Current issues

(1) Background

On 11/5/19, Alero Mack, Daniel Fernandez, and Booker Chism (collectively, the "Petitioning Creditors") filed an involuntary petition against alleged debtor Joel Spivak.

On 11/8/19, this Court issued an "Order (1) Regarding Dismissal of Involuntary Petition, or Other Remedies, (2) Directing Al Mack, Daniel Fernandez, Booker Chism, and Joel Spivak to Appear and Show Cause Why This Court Should Not Impose Sanctions, and (3) Authorizing Hearing on Shortened Time on Any Motion to Annul the Automatic Stay or For Other Remedies (dkt. 3) (the "First OSC"). The First OSC detailed the history of a pre-filing bar the Honorable Thomas B. Donovan imposed against Mr. Mack and Mr. Chism in connection with a different involuntary case (id.), and directed the Petitioning Creditors to appear and show cause at a hearing on 12/17/19 to address why this Court should not impose sanctions against them "(a) for failing to comply with the Pre-Filing Order (as to Mr. Mack and Mr. Chism), and (b) for their apparent participation in a scheme to abuse the bankruptcy system" as set forth in more detail therein (id.).

The First OSC also directed Mr. Spivak to appear and show cause to address, among other things, "why this Court should not impose sanctions against him, based on any participation in a scheme to abuse the bankruptcy system . . . ." (id.).

The Petitioning Creditors and Mr. Spivak did not appear at the hearing on 12/17/19.

(2) OSC re sanctions and pre-filing bar against Alero Mack (dkt. 13)
(the "Mack OSC")

On 1/2/20, this Court issued an order:

- (a) finding Mr. Mack in contempt of this Court,
- (b) directing Mr. Mack to appear at a continued show cause hearing on 2/4/20 at 2:00 p.m.
- (c) fining Mr. Mack punitive sanctions of $300 for failing to appear at the initial OSC hearing on 12/17/19
- (d) imposing coercive sanctions of $10/day for each day after 1/16/20 that Mr. Mack continues to fail to respond to the First OSC,
- (e) directing Mr. Mack to pay the foregoing fines prior to the 2/4/20 hearing and to bring a copy of the receipt to the hearing,
- (f) providing notice that this Court will determine at the 2/4/20 hearing whether to impose additional or different sanctions,
- (g) imposing a pre-filing bar against Mr. Mack, and
- (h) directing Mr. Mack to bring a government issued photo identification to the 2/4/20 hearing.

Dkt. 13.

This Court has reviewed the declaration of Alero Mack filed on 1/16/20 (dkt. 25) (the "Mack Declaration").

Among other things, Mr. Mack states that he did not appear at the First OSC hearing because "I knew the property was being prepared to be foreclosed on by our group so that ALL of the outstanding debts could be paid, I believed that I didn't have to show at the December 17, 2019 hearing and that the case would be DISMISSED." (dkt. 25, para. 12). Mr. Mack also states that he was not aware that Judge Donovan's pre-filing bar prevented him from filing pleadings and documents relating to any involuntary petitions (id., para. 2).

The tentative ruling is that Mr. Mack has not provided an adequate explanation for failing to appear at the First OSC hearing or for his mistaken belief that the Pre-Filing Bar did not apply to involuntary petitions, because Mr. Mack's intent is irrelevant, and his good faith is not a defense (unless coupled with reasonable interpretation of order, which this Court finds has not been satisfied). See In re Dyer, 322 F.3d 1178, 1191 (9th Cir. 2003) (citation and internal quotations omitted) ("Because civil contempt serves a remedial purpose, it matters not with what intent the defendant did the prohibited act"); In re Count Liberty, LLC, 370 B.R. 259, 275 (Bankr. Chapter 7

(A) Sanctions

(i) Punitive sanctions

Pursuant to the Mack OSC, the tentative ruling is that Mr. Mack is fined $300 in punitive sanctions for his failure to appear at the First OSC hearing on 12/17/19. Mr. Mack is directed to provide a copy of a receipt demonstrating that he has paid this fine in advance of the hearing.

(ii) Coercive sanctions

The Mack OSC also put Mr. Mack on notice that this Court would impose additional fines for each day after 1/16/20 that he failed to respond to the Mack OSC. Because Mr. Mack filed the Mack Declaration on 1/16/20, the tentative ruling is that no coercive sanctions will be imposed at this time.

(iii) Additional or different sanctions

This Court will determine at the hearing whether to impose additional or different sanctions.

(B) Pre-Filing Bar

The Mack OSC imposed a pre-filing bar against Mr. Mack. This Court will determine at the hearing whether any grounds exist to lift the pre-filing bar.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." (1) Background

On 11/5/19, Alero Mack, Daniel Fernandez, and Booker Chism (collectively, the "Petitioning Creditors") filed an involuntary petition against alleged debtor Joel Spivak.

On 11/8/19, this Court issued an "Order (1) Regarding Dismissal of Involuntary Petition, or Other Remedies, (2) Directing Al Mack, Daniel Fernandez, Booker Chism, and Joel Spivak to Appear and Show Cause Why This Court Should Not Impose Sanctions, and (3) Authorizing Hearing on Shortened Time on Any Motion to Annul the Automatic Stay or For Other Remedies (dkt. 3) (the "First OSC"). The First OSC detailed the history of a pre-filing bar the Honorable Thomas B. Donovan imposed against Mr. Mack and Mr. Chism in connection with a different involuntary case (id.), and directed the Petitioning Creditors to appear and show cause at a hearing on 12/17/19 to address why this Court should not impose sanctions against them "(a) for failing to comply with the Pre-Filing Order (as to Mr. Mack and Mr. Chism), and (b) for their apparent participation in a scheme to abuse the bankruptcy system" as set forth in more detail therein (id.).

(2) OSC re sanctions and pre-filing bar against Booker Chism (dkt. 15)
(the "Chism OSC")

On 1/2/20, this Court issued an order:

- (a) finding Mr. Chism in contempt of this Court,
- (b) directing Mr. Chism to appear at a continued show cause hearing on 2/4/20 at 2:00 p.m.
- (c) fining Mr. Chism punitive sanctions of $300 for failing to appear at the initial OSC hearing on 12/17/19
- (d) imposing coercive sanctions of $10/day for each day after 1/16/20 that Mr. Chism continues to fail to respond to the First OSC,
- (e) directing Mr. Chism to pay the foregoing fines prior to the 2/4/20 hearing and to bring a copy of the receipt to the hearing,
- (f) providing notice that this Court will determine at the 2/4/20 hearing whether to impose additional or different sanctions,
- (g) imposing a pre-filing bar against Mr. Chism, and
- (h) directing Mr. Chism to bring a government issued photo identification to the 2/4/20 hearing.

Dkt. 15.

This Court has reviewed the declaration of Booker Chism filed on 1/16/20 (dkt. 27) (the "Chism Declaration").

Among other things, Mr. Chism states that he did not appear at the First OSC hearing because "I knew the property was being prepared to be foreclosed on by our group so that ALL of the outstanding debts could be paid, I believed that I didn't have to show at the December 17, 2019 hearing and that the case would be DISMISSED." (dkt. 27, para. 11).

The tentative ruling is that Mr. Chism has not provided an adequate explanation for failing to appear at the First OSC hearing, because Mr. Chism's intent is irrelevant, and his good faith is not a defense (unless coupled with reasonable interpretation of order, which this Court finds has not been satisfied). See In re Dyer, 322 F.3d 1178, 1191 (9th Cir. 2003) (citation and internal quotations omitted) ("Because civil contempt serves a remedial purpose, it matters not with what intent the defendant did the prohibited act"); In re Count Liberty, LLC, 370 B.R. 259, 275 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2007) (citing cases).

Mr. Chism also states that he was not aware of the Pre-Filing Order or that it imposed a pre-filing bar against him (dkt. 27, para. 1-2). However, the certificate of service of Judge Donovan's Pre-Filing Order (Case No. 2:14-

The tentative ruling is that pursuant to the so-called "Mail-Box Rule," there is a presumption of proper notice which can only be rebutted by clear and convincing evidence of nonreceipt and Mr. Chism has not carried that burden to show that he did not receive notice of the Pre-Filing Order. In re Bucknum, 951 F.2d 204, 207 (9th Cir. 1991); see also In re Williams, 185 B.R. 598, 600 (9th Cir. BAP 1995) (A "bare declaration of non-receipt" is not sufficient to rebut the presumption").

(A) Sanctions

(i) Punitive sanctions

Pursuant to the Chism OSC, the tentative ruling is that Mr. Chism is fined $300 in punitive sanctions for his failure to appear at the First OSC hearing on 12/17/19. Mr. Chism is directed to provide a copy of a receipt demonstrating that he has paid this fine in advance of the hearing.

(ii) Coercive sanctions

The Chism OSC also put Mr. Chism on notice that this Court would impose additional fines for each day after 1/16/20 that he failed to respond to the Chism OSC. Because Mr. Chism filed the Chism Declaration on 1/16/20, the tentative ruling is that no coercive sanctions will be imposed at this time.

(iii) Additional or different sanctions

This Court will determine at the hearing whether to impose additional or different sanctions.

(B) Pre-Filing Bar

The Chism OSC imposed a pre-filing bar against Mr. Chism. This Court will determine at the hearing whether any grounds exist to lift the pre-filing bar.

vs
DEBTOR

Docket 59

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address whether Debtors have reached any agreement with the senior lienholder, who has been granted relief from the automatic stay (dkt.48), to delay its foreclosure proceedings, or whether for any other reason it would be appropriate to continue the automatic stay to prevent Movant, as junior lienholder, from protecting its rights by pursuing foreclosure as well. See Debtors' response (dkt. 62) and Movant's reply (dkt.63).

WILMINGTON SAVINGS FUND SOCIETY
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 35

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

PNC BANK, NATIONAL ASSOC
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 17

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4). To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

Bianca C Amezcua

Chapter 13

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is not sufficient evidence and notice.

No prejudice to Debtor intended. Based on the record, it appears that this is a "hijacked" case, and that Debtor is innocent of any involvement. See e.g., In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017) (describing hijacking); In re Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) (same). In a hijacking case, the Debtor faces the legitimate concern of being subject to a 180-day bar and other adverse consequences if, for example, Debtor later requests and obtains a voluntary dismissal and subsequently needs to file another bankruptcy petition. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(2), 362(b)(21) (A). There is authority that section 109 "eligibility issues" are nonjurisdictional, can be waived, forfeited, or subject to estoppel, and should not be applied if that would produce an "illogical, unjust, or capricious result, or when the benefit of dismissal would inure to a bad faith creditor." In re Leaffy, 489 B.R. 545, 550-51 (9th Cir. Bap 2012) (citing cases including under 109(g)(2)). See also In re Mendez, 367 B.R. 109, 116-17 (9th Cir. BAP 2007); In re Luna, 122 B.R. 575, 577 (9th Cir. BAP 1991); Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261, 270. The same principles apply to any other adverse consequences from a hijacking. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to condition the relief from the automatic stay granted in this tentative ruling such that no adverse consequences apply to Debtor from the hijacking, including under 11 U.S.C.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).
To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is not sufficient evidence and notice.

No prejudice to Debtor intended. Based on the record, it appears that this is a "hijacked" case, and that Debtor is innocent of any involvement. See e.g., In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017) (describing hijacking); In re Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) (same). In a hijacking case, the Debtor faces the legitimate concern of being subject to a 180-day bar and other adverse consequences if, for example, Debtor later requests and obtains a voluntary dismissal and subsequently needs to file another bankruptcy petition. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(2), 362(b)(21)(A). There is authority that section 109 "eligibility issues" are nonjurisdictional, can be waived, forfeited, or subject to estoppel, and should not be applied if that would produce an "illogical, unjust, or capricious result, or when the benefit of dismissal would inure to a bad faith creditor." In re Leifty, 489 B.R. 545, 550-51 (9th Cir. Bap 2012) (citing cases including under 109(g)(2)). See also In re Mendez, 367 B.R. 109, 116-17 (9th Cir. BAP 2007); In re Luna, 122 B.R. 575, 577 (9th Cir. BAP 1991); Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261, 270. The same principles apply to any other adverse consequences from a hijacking. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to condition the relief from the automatic stay granted in this tentative ruling such that no adverse consequences apply to Debtor from the hijacking, including under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(2) or 362(b)(21)(A). Note: None of the foregoing will shield Debtor if it turns out that Debtor was not, in fact, innocent of any involvement in the apparent hijacking or other abusive scheme.

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

#19.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [NA]

vs
DEBTOR

Docket 21

Tentative Ruling:

Grant creditor Fritz J. Ferman's motion for relief from the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d), and deny Debtors' motion to continue the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3), as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Creditor Ferman is directed to lodge proposed orders (one for each motion) via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(1) Preliminary note

This motion for relief from the automatic stay, and Debtor's motion to continue the automatic stay, are intertwined. Accordingly, this Court is reviewing both of them, and the parties' filed papers relating to both of them, together in this tentative ruling.

(2) The automatic stay does not apply

Grant the motion for relief from the automatic stay, and deny the motion to continue the stay, under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3) and (j): there is no automatic stay because (a) Debtor's prior case (#2:19-bk-18972-NB) was dismissed (on 10/29/19) within one year before this case was filed (on 1/13/20), (b) that dismissal was not under 11 U.S.C. 707(b), and (c) no finding of good faith was timely sought and obtained. The automatic stay has terminated both as to Debtor in personam and as to property of Debtor. See In re Reswick, 446 B.R. 362 (9th Cir. BAP 2011); In re Hernandez, case no. 2:11-bk-53730-NB, docket #40 (Memorandum Decision).

Chapter 7

In the alternative and in addition, the tentative ruling is to grant relief from the automatic stay as follows.

(3) Modification

Modify the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) such that the movant may proceed in the nonbankruptcy forum to final judgment (including any appeals) in accordance with applicable nonbankruptcy law, subject to the following limitations (Judge Bason's standard limitations).

(a) Claim allowance, priority, and discharge issues. Any claims arising from the nonbankruptcy litigation are subject to this Bankruptcy Court's jurisdiction regarding claim allowance and priority, and the existence and scope of any bankruptcy discharge.

(b) No relief in other bankruptcy cases. To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

(4) Additional analysis:

(a) Legal standard

The Bankruptcy Court "shall grant relief from the stay" upon a showing of "cause." 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

"Cause" is determined on a case-by-case basis." In re Tucson Estates, Inc., 912 F.2d 1162, 1166 (9th Cir.1990). In determining whether "cause" exists to grant relief from the automatic stay to allow a movant to pursue litigation in a non-bankruptcy forum, courts in the Ninth Circuit have examined the factors set forth in In re Curtis, 40 B.R. 795, 799–800 (Bankr. D. Utah 1984). See In re Kronemeyer, 405 B.R. 915 (9th Cir. BAP 2009); In re Plumberx Specialty Prods., Inc., 311 B.R. 551, 559–60 (Bankr. C.D. Cal.2004). Those factors are: (1) Whether the relief will result in a partial or complete resolution of the issues; (2) The lack of any connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case; (3) Whether the foreign proceeding involves the debtor as a fiduciary; (4) Whether a specialized tribunal has been established to hear the particular cause of action and whether that tribunal has the expertise to hear such cases; (5) Whether the debtor's insurance carrier has assumed full financial responsibility for defending the litigation; (6)

Whether the action essentially involves third parties, and the debtor functions only as a bailee or conduit for the goods or proceeds in question; (7) Whether the litigation in another forum would prejudice the interests of other creditors, the creditors' committee and other interested parties; (8) Whether the judgment claim arising from the foreign action is subject to equitable subordination under Section 510(c); (9) Whether movant's success in the foreign proceeding would result in a judicial lien avoidable by the debtor under Section 522(f); (10) The interests of judicial economy and the expeditious and economical determination of litigation for the parties; (11) Whether the foreign proceedings have progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial; and (12) The impact of the stay on the parties and the "balance of hurt." Plumberex, 311 B.R. at 559. "[W]hile the Curtis factors are widely used to determine the existence of 'cause,' not all of the factors are relevant in every case, nor is a court required to give each factor equal weight." In re Landmark Fence Co., Inc., 2011 WL 6826253 at *4 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 9, 2011).

Debtors cite to the Sonnax factors in their opposition (dkt. 25 at PDF pp.10-11). But those factors apply in the Second Circuit, not here in the Ninth Circuit. In any event, the Sonnax factors essentially parallel the Curtis factors. This Court will apply the Curtis factors.

(b) Analysis

Based on the present record, the tentative ruling is that the Curtis factors weigh in favor of granting relief as set forth above. Most significantly, factors 1, 2, 7, 10 and 12 weigh in favor of granting Movant's motion.

(i) Factors 1, 7 and 10: whether relief would result in a partial or complete resolution fo the issues; whether the litigation in another forum would prejudice the interests of other creditors; and the interests of judicial economy and the expeditious and economical determination of litigation for the parties

Debtor argues that punitive damages eventually will have to be determined by this Court, and that any award of punitive damages would dilute recoveries to other creditors. See dkt. 25 at PDF pp.12-13. The tentative ruling is that Debtor's argument is not persuasive.

First, punitive damages are subordinated to other chapter 7 claims. See 11 U.S.C. 726(a)(4). Therefore, contrary to Debtors' argument, there is no showing that permitting the State Court litigation to proceed will do anything to reduce any dividend to Debtors' other creditors.

Second, although Debtors' arguments are not clear, perhaps they are anticipating having to re-litigate some issues in this Bankruptcy Court if Movant brings a nondischargeability action (under 11 U.S.C. 523(a)(2)(A) or another code section), based on the State Court Complaint's claims such as the third cause of action, for fraudulent misrepresentations, and they prayer for punitive damages. See dkt. 21, Ex. 1. But the State Court can address the elements of fraud and punitive damages, and generally its findings of fact and conclusions of law on those issues would have a preclusive effect in this bankruptcy case, so Debtors have not established that there would be any partial resolution of the issues in State Court, or any duplication of effort or waste of judicial resources.

To the contrary, the State Court litigation has already progressed at least to the point of attempted discovery, so it appears that denying relief from the automatic stay and forcing the parties to start over in this Bankruptcy Court would be a waste of judicial resources, and would undermine the expeditious and economical determination of litigation for the parties. The tentative ruling is that these considerations weigh in favor of granting relief from the automatic stay.

(ii) Factor 2: lack of any connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case

Debtor argues that permitting the State Court litigation to proceed would disrupt "this chapter 13 case." Dkt. 25 at PDF p.16, para.19.

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's argument is not persuasive. First, this is a chapter 7 case, not a chapter 13 case. Second, Debtor has not shown that granting relief from the automatic stay will disrupt this bankruptcy case at all.

The tentative ruling is that this factor weighs in favor of granting Movant's motion.

(iii) Factor 12: the impact of the automatic stay on the parties and the "balance of hurt"

Creditor Firman has presented evidence that Debtors' prior bankruptcy case and this present bankruptcy case have been filed on the eve of depositions, and have succeeded in delaying that discovery. Debtors have had a "breathing spell," and at this point the tentative ruling is that the automatic stay is unduly prejudicial to resolution of the parties' litigation, and that the balance of hurt tips in favor of granting relief from the automatic stay (if it applies).

For the reasons set forth above, the tentative ruling is that the Curtis factors weigh in favor of granting relief from the automatic stay, and that there is sufficient "cause" to grant the foregoing relief to proceed with the State Court litigation.

(5) Retroactive relief

Grant the request for retroactive annulment of the stay. See In re Fjeldsted, 293 B.R. 12 (9th Cir. BAP 2003); and see also In re Williams, 323 B.R. 691, 697-702 (9th Cir. BAP 2005) (various issues involving annulment, and application of Fjeldsted), aff'd, 204 Fed.Appx. 582 (9th Cir. 2006), overruled on other issues, In re Perl, 811 F.3d 1120 (9th Cir. 2016) (scope of automatic stay).

(6) Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases

The tentative ruling is that the timing and effect of Debtors' two bankruptcy cases establish a prima facie showing of a scheme to hinder or delay creditor Ferman's litigation in State Court, and that it is appropriate to grant the following "in rem" relief pursuant to the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. (7) Effective date of relief

(8) Co-debtor stay

The tentative ruling is that the foregoing relief will not be affected by any future conversion of this case to chapter 13. This Court is not aware of any reason why any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) should be accorded greater effect than the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a).

(9) No attorney fees for Debtors' counsel

This Court presumes that Debtors' counsel will not charge any fees for the time spent on these motions, because counsel knew or should have known of Debtors' earlier bankruptcy case and knew or should have known of the 30 day deadline under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3), so all time spent seeking to continue the automatic stay and opposing relief from the automatic stay has been wasted time. If Debtors' counsel intends to charge any fees then the procedures must be followed to dispute this tentative ruling.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #21.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order
Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic
Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 8

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions. Appearances are not required.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

(3) Very limited ruling. This Court's tentative ruling to grant the foregoing relief is solely for purposes of this motion, and is not intended to have any binding effect with respect to any future assertions by any party in interest regarding the existence or lack of existence of good faith in any other context.

Tentative Ruling for 2/18/20:

This matter was continued to this date (a) to allow time for Debtor to substitute in new counsel and (b) for Debtor to determine whether she can and will refinance the debt, or sell the property, or propose some other realistic strategy for addressing her missed payments. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/6/20 for Debtor to file and serve a motion seeking authorization for one of those methods of curing her defaults, to be self-calendared for hearing no later than 4/30/20 at 8:30 a.m. Meanwhile, the tentative ruling is to continue this hearing to 4/7/20 at 10:00 a.m. Appearances are not required on 2/18/20.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 1/28/20:

Appearances required. This matter was continued to this date to allow time for the parties to attempt to resolve this dispute. Based on this Court's review of the filed documents and records in this case, including Debtor's response (dkt.119) and Movant's reply (dkt.124) the tentative ruling is that Debtor has not rebutted Movant's evidence that Debtor is seriously in default, but that Debtor as the owner of the property is competent to provide an opinion as to its value, and Debtor has asserted a very substantial equity cushion, so the parties should be prepared to address whether Debtor can and will refinance the debt, or sell the property, or propose some other realistic strategy for addressing her missed payments.

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is not sufficient evidence and notice.

No prejudice to Debtor intended. Based on the record, it appears that this is a "hijacked" case, and that Debtor is innocent of any involvement. See e.g., In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017) (describing hijacking); In re Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) (same). In a hijacking case, the Debtor faces the legitimate concern of being subject to a 180-day bar and other adverse consequences if, for example, Debtor later requests and obtains a voluntary dismissal and subsequently needs to file another bankruptcy petition. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(2), 362(b)(21)(A). There is authority that section 109 "eligibility issues" are nonjurisdictional, can be waived, forfeited, or subject to estoppel, and should not be applied if that would produce an "illogical, unjust, or capricious result, or when the benefit of dismissal would inure to a bad faith creditor." In re Leafly, 489 B.R. 545, 550-51 (9th Cir. Bap 2012) (citing cases including under 109(g)(2)). See also In re Mendez, 367 B.R. 109, 116-17 (9th Cir. BAP 2007); In re Luna, 122 B.R. 575, 577 (9th Cir. BAP 1991); Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261, 270. The same principles apply to any other adverse consequences from a hijacking. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to condition the relief from the automatic stay granted in this tentative ruling such that no adverse consequences apply to Debtor from the hijacking, including under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(2) or 362(b)(21)(A). Note: None of the foregoing will shield Debtor if it turns out that Debtor was not, in fact, innocent of any involvement in the apparent hijacking or other abusive scheme.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Attorney fees

Movant requests that its attorney fees be allowed. The tentative ruling is that this Court will not express any view regarding any attorney fee request because (a) in any nonjudicial foreclosure action, attorney fee issues typically are not decided by a court (and in a judicial foreclosure it is the State Court, not this Bankruptcy Court, that would determine attorney fee issues), (b) a motion for relief from the automatic stay is not the proper vehicle to adjudicate attorney fees in this Bankruptcy Court, and (c) this hearing does not involve any claim objection or other proceeding that might properly present that issue for this Court's determination.

#1.00 Status conference re: Chapter 7 Involuntary Petition

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (dkt. 24) and the other filed documents and records in this involuntary bankruptcy case.

(1) Current issues

Cynthia Cohen, Esq. and Theodore Sanos, Esq. ("Petitioning Creditors"), filed an involuntary petition against alleged debtor, Samini Cohen Spanos LLP, on 1/3/20. Non-petitioning partner Babak (Bobby) Samini filed a timely answer on 1/24/20 denying the Petitioning Creditors' allegation that the alleged debtor generally is not paying its debts as such debts become due (unless such debts are the subject of a bona fide dispute as to liability or amount) (dkt. 18). The tentative ruling is to continue this status conference to the time and place set forth below, to allow time for the parties to conduct discovery and start to address the above issue.

This Court also notes that Mr. Samini requests damages pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 303(i) (dkt. 18). The tentative ruling is that it is premature to set any discovery cut-off deadlines, or any other related deadlines, on this issue at this time (prior to a determination whether or not to issue an order for relief).

This Court also notes that Mr. Samini's Answer asserts various affirmative defenses, which appear either to constitute alleged grounds for dismissal (the first, second, and fourth affirmative defenses) or to be the same as the elements under 11 U.S.C. 303(h)(1) (the third affirmative defense). The tentative ruling is to bifurcate and defer the asserted affirmative defenses until after addressing the elements of section 303(h)(1).

Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/25/20 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines

The tentative ruling is to proceed toward trial on the elements of section 303(h)(1) simultaneous with any mediation. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), Petitioning Creditors are directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after this status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling and adopting the following dates/deadlines related to a trial on the elements of section 303(h)(1).

#2.00 Hrg re: Objection to Amended Proof of Claim No. 1-2
[Filed by Claimants Dong, Wang & Hu]

Docket 77

Tentative Ruling:

Deny/overrule the claim objection, without prejudice, and stay future objections by Ms. Chao to Proof of Claim 2 as set forth below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: The Alleged Employees are directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(1) Deny/overrule the claim objection

(a) Legal issues

Creditor (and sometime attorney for Debtor) the Law Offices of Lynn Chao, APC ("Chao") has filed a second objection (dkt. 77) to Proof of Claim 2 ("Claim 2"), filed by claimants Wei Dong, Wenrui Wang and Zongzhi Hu (the "Alleged Employees"). Chao's principal ground for disallowance of Claim 2 is that the Alleged Employees have provided no written proof that they were ever employed by Debtor. But, as the Alleged Employees point out (dkt.84, 85), this Court has already overruled this objection in connection with Chao's first objection to Claim 2 (see dkt. 73) and Chao does not cite any new authority to change this Court's conclusion on this basis.

As an alternative ground, Chao now argues that Debtor is not liable to the Alleged Employees for damages arising from California labor law violations because, based on a review of Debtor's books and records, Debtor could not find any evidence to establish that Debtor was ever their employer (dkt. 77, Declarations of Johnny Ling, Jianying Zhang). The tentative ruling is that this objection is sufficient to establish prima facie grounds for disallowing the claim under 11 U.S.C. 502(b), thus shifting the burden to the Alleged Employees to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Heath, 331 B.R. 424 (9th Cir. BAP 2005); In re

But the burden can go back and forth and the Alleged Employees have responded with more than equally probative arguments and evidence to establish that they could be considered employees, notwithstanding the alleged absence of books and records. See Short Decl. (dkt.84 pp.13 et seq.) and Dong Decl. (dkt.85). That shifts the burden back to Chao.

(b) Evidentiary issues

Chao has asserted evidentiary objections (dkt.93, 94). But the tentative ruling is to overrule those objections in relevant part.

Chao objects that statements by declarant Wei Dong ("Dong") as to having worked at more than one location are irrelevant because Debtor is "a completely separate entity" from the entities that employed him (dkt. 93, p.2, objection 1). But that is circular reasoning: the Alleged Employees assert that the entities were not completely separate, but to the contrary were so intertwined that they must be considered commonly controlled and that Debtor was in fact their employer. That issue is being litigated in State Court, and unless and until a final order or judgment rules against the Alleged Employees this Court cannot presume that they were not in fact employees of Debtor.

The same analysis applies to Chao's relevance objection to Dong's statement as to his understanding that the Little Sheep Restaurants were "commonly controlled." Dkt.93, p.2, objection 2. As this Court understands the issues before the State Court, it is relevant if the Little Sheep Restaurants were held out to the public (including the Alleged Employees) as being "commonly controlled," and again this Bankruptcy Court cannot presume that the State Court will rule against the Alleged Employees on that issue.

Chao objects that Dong has not explained the basis for his understanding that Debtor and the other entities were commonly controlled. Dkt.93, p.2, objection 2. The tentative ruling is to overrule that objection because Dong sufficiently explains in the following paragraphs of his declaration some of the bases for that understanding.

Chao objects to the extent that Dong purports to know the understanding/thoughts of his fellow co-workers. Dkt.93, p.2, objection 2. The tentative ruling is to sustain that objection; but that does not matter. If Debtor revealed to Dong that it was part of a commonly controlled enterprise (as Dong asserts in his declaration) then Chao has not established how Dong's statement would be inadmissible simply because Debtor might not have revealed the same information to other Alleged Employees.

Chao objects to the relevance of Dong's statements about each restaurant using the same menus, business cards, uniforms, etc. Dkt.93, p.2, objection 3. Again, this goes to how Debtor held itself out. It also goes to whether the acts of Debtor and the other entities were in fact those of a common enterprise (i.e., regardless whether they held themselves out to the public as a common enterprise, if they acted like a common enterprise then, as this Court understands the issues before the State Court, that is relevant). Again, those are issues before the State Court and this Bankruptcy Court cannot presume that the State Court will rule against the Alleged Employees.

Chao objects that Dong has not detailed how he has personal knowledge of each restaurant using the same menus, business cards, etc. Dkt.93, p.2, objection 3. The tentative ruling is that Dong has provided more than sufficient explanation: he was a waiter and a manager, worked at more than one location, etc.

The tentative ruling is to overrule Chao's remaining objections to Dong's declaration (dkt.93, p.3) on the same grounds as described above. Although Dong could have provided more background as to the basis of his knowledge, he has provided enough.

The tentative ruling is also to overrule Chao's objections (dkt.94) to the Short Declaration. The relevance objections fail for the same reasons as outlined above in connection with the Dong declaration. The hearsay objections disregard standard exceptions to the hearsay rule (admission, public records, etc.). Mr. Short's assertion that the Alleged Employees were Debtor's own employees and are owed unpaid overtime etc. are interpreted by this Court as setting the context, from the Alleged Employees' perspective, and not as evidence, so on that one issue the tentative ruling is to sustain the objection. Dkt.94, p.2, objection 1.

In sum, on all relevant issues the tentative ruling is to overrule Chao's evidentiary objections. Therefore, the Alleged Employees have shifted the burden back to Ms. Chao, and she has not carried that burden on the present record.

(c) Alternatively, the claim objection is premature, until the State Court renders a final judgment

The tentative ruling is that, even if Chao's objections were sufficient to shift the burden back to the Alleged Employees (which they are not), it would be premature to disallow the Alleged Employees' claims because those claims are still being litigated in State Court. Although the Alleged Employees have not requested that this Court abstain from deciding the claim objection, nevertheless the tentative ruling is that this Court on its own motion should defer to the State Court (28 U.S.C. 1334(c)), but without limiting the Alleged Employees' ability to obtain discovery through Rule 2004 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) (see part "(3)" of this Tentative Ruling, below).

(d) Conclusion

On the present record, the tentative ruling is to deny Chao's claim objection, without prejudice. Chao has not sufficiently satisfied her burden of proof and, alternatively, this Court should abstain and defer to the pending State Court litigation on the merits of the Alleged Employee's claims.

(2) Sua sponte stay of future objections to Claim 2

As referenced above, this Court takes judicial notice that the focus of the parties' current dispute also appears to be the subject of pending litigation in state court (Dong et al v. Little Sheep International, Inc., Case No. BC 696904). This Court has serious concerns about whether it is a waste of judicial resources, imposes a risk of inconsistent judgments, and is otherwise inappropriate to proceed simultaneously with litigating substantially (if not entirely) the same issues in two fora at once.

Therefore, the tentative ruling, on this Court's own motion (as authorized by 11 U.S.C. 105(a)), is to stay any future claim objection issues with respect to Claim 2 until this Court can hold a status conference to determine whether it should proceed with a ruling on the merits. Meanwhile, this Court will suspend any deadline that otherwise would apply for any opposition to any claim objection (and any reply), as authorized by Rule 9006, 9007, and 9029 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) and Local Bankruptcy Rule 1001-1(d).

(3) No stay of Employees' pending Rule 2004 discovery

Nothing in the foregoing tentative ruling is intended to contradict this Court's oral rulings at prior hearings that the Alleged Employees discovery under Rule 2004 (Fed. R. Bankr.P.) can go forward, notwithstanding the pendency of the State Court action. As this Court has explained, (a) any objections by Debtor and others that discovery should be conducted solely in State Court were raised too late and accordingly were forfeited and waived, and alternatively (b) the scope of Rule 2004 is appropriately broader than the scope of nonbankruptcy discovery, and Debtor cannot obtain the advantages

Current issues

(1) The Alleged Employees' Motion for Contempt (dkt. 38), declaration of William G. Short (dkt. 81), supplemental declaration of William G. Short (dkt. 90)

The Alleged Employees seek $7,300 and $1,155 in costs from Debtor, and $10,450 against Chao. The tentative ruling is to disallow 4 hours out of the 29.5 total that the Alleged Employees are seeking against Debtor, for a combination of: (a) a slight reduction for "clumping" some fee entries (e.g., 6/13/19 entry), (b) a slight reduction on account of the posted Procedures of Judge Bason regarding non-working travel time, and (c) a slight reduction because preparation for the examination that was held was not entirely wasted.

This Court recognizes that, on each of these issues, it would be possible to require further evidence. But the tentative ruling is that the above estimate is sufficient for present purposes, and that further litigation over these issues would only increase the costs for all parties. At $500 per hour, a four hour reduction amounts to $2,000 against Debtor, resulting in the following awards: $5,300 fees plus $1,155 costs = $6,455 against Debtor, and $10,450 against Chao.

(2) The Alleged Employees' Motion for Protective Order (dkt. 82)

The tentative ruling is to continue this matter to 2/18/20 at 11:00 a.m., to be concurrent with another scheduled matter in this case, with a deadline of 2/10/20 for Employees to file and serve their second supplemental declaration, a deadline of 2/14/20 at noon for any opposition papers to be filed and served by Ms. Chao and/or Debtor, and any further responses orally at the continued hearing.

(2) Outstanding discovery issues?

The parties are directed to address whether there are any outstanding discovery issues that need to be resolved. The tentative ruling is to hear any such issues, at least on an initial basis, at this hearing, consistent with the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (www.cacb.uscourts.gov) regarding discovery disputes.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 1/7/20:

Appearances required. This matter was continued to this date to allow time for the parties to meet and confer, conduct further discovery, and then at this hearing to address further the sanctions issues. On 12/23/19, the Creditors conducted the requested 2004 examination. The parties are directed to appear to provide this Court with an update on the status of their dispute.

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

(A) Preliminary issues

(1) Status report

This Court issued a summons which required the parties to file a joint status report at least 14 days before the hearing, or by 2/4/20. Adv. dkt. 2, p.2. As of the drafting of this tentative ruling, no status report has been filed. Why not?

(B) Standard issues

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); *Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. (2) Mediation

Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/25/20 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 12/16/19. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Tentative Ruling for 9/24/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order entitled "Order On Initial Status Conference" via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling.

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (dkt. 9) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The tentative ruling is to order mediation - as requested by both parties - and continue this Status Conference as set forth below.

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 10/2/19 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 5/10/19. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Current issues

At the hearing on 10/9/18, Defendants did not appear, and this Court was persuaded to take a flexible approach to whether Plaintiff would pursue default judgments, or mediation, or other avenues. Appearances required. The court has reviewed the filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

Tentative Ruling:

Revised Tentative Ruling for 2/18/20:
Appearances are not required on 2/18/20.

(1) Current matters

(a) Combined Status Conference

This Status Conference involves two related bankruptcy cases and associated matters: (a) In re Layfield & Barrett, APC, Case No. 2:17-bk-19548-NB ("L&B"); (b) In re Layfield, Case No. 2:18-bk-15829-NB ("Lay-Invol."); (c) Pachulski v. Young et al., Adv. Case No. 2:18-ap-01233-NB ("Preference Adv."); (d) Affeld Grivakes, LLP v. Pachulski, Adv., Adv. No. 2:19-ap-01028-NB ("Affeld Grivakes Adv.").

The tentative ruling is to take off calendar all matters in the Preference Adv. and the Affeld Grivakes Adv. because both matters have been settled (subject to any required approval of this Court, see L&B Case, dkt. 472).

(2) Deadlines/dates. The L&B case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 on 8/3/17 and converted to chapter 11 on 8/11/17 (L&B dkt. 25). The Lay-Invol case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 case on 5/21/18 and an order for relief was entered on 12/12/18 (Lay-Invol dkt. 160, 161).

(a) L&B Bar date: 2/5/18 (timely served, L&B dkt. 133, 157)

(b) Lay-Invol Bar date: 4/12/19 (timely served, Lay-Invol dkt.180)

(c) L&B Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD. Do not file or serve until further order of this court.

(d) Continued status conferences to 3/3/20 at 11:00 a.m., to be concurrent with other matters. No written status reports required.

Tentative Ruling for 2/18/20:

Appearances are not required on 2/18/20.

(1) Current matters

(a) Combined Status Conference

This Status Conference involves two related bankruptcy cases and associated matters: (a) In re Layfield & Barrett, APC, Case No. 2:17-bk-19548-NB ("L&B"); (b) In re Layfield, Case No. 2:18-bk-15829-NB ("Lay-Invol."); (c) Pachulski v. Young et al., Adv. Case No. 2:18-ap-01233-NB ("Preference Adv."); (d) Affeld Grivakes, LLP v. Pachulski, Adv., Adv. No. 2:19-ap-01028-NB ("Affeld Grivakes Adv.").

The tentative ruling is to continue all matters on calendar for today to the date of the continued status conferences, set forth below, to be concurrent with the hearing on a motion to approve a settlement involving the Preference Adv. (L&B Case, dkt. 472).

At the continued hearing, the parties are directed to address whether any further acts need to be taken to implement the settlement of the Affeld Grivakes Adv. (L&B Case, dkt. 466, 469), and whether that adversary proceeding should be dismissed or otherwise resolved.

(2) Deadlines/dates. The L&B case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 on 8/3/17 and converted to chapter 11 on 8/11/17 (L&B dkt. 25). The Lay-Invol case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 case on 5/21/18 and an order for relief was entered on 12/12/18 (Lay-Invol dkt. 160, 161).

#1.00 Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case

Docket 5

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

(1) Current issues

(a) DTLA Properties, Inc. Motion For Relief From The Automatic Stay (Unlawful Detainer) (dkt. 7)

Grant as set forth in calendar no. 2, 2/18/20 at 1:00 p.m.

(b) Dismiss this case

This is Debtor's second bankruptcy filing in less than three months. Debtor's prior case (2:19-bk-24527-NB) was dismissed at the 1/14/20 status conference, without a bar, but with a caution to Debtor to coordinate with the United States Trustee to avoid the pitfalls from the prior case should Debtor choose to refile. It appears to this Court that the current case is proceeding much like the prior case.

Debtor's current case was filed 1/17/20 and Debtor's status report (dkt.25) does not adequately explain why there are no "first day" motions and why Debtor believes that no patient care ombudsman is needed (this Court notes that Debtor has now stipulated to the appointment of an ombudsman, dkt.28). In addition, under this Court's tentative ruling regarding relief from the automatic stay, Debtor will lose its premises so there might be no point to proceeding in this chapter 11 case.

The tentative ruling is to dismiss this case. The tentative ruling is not to impose a bar under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1) because (a) the "in rem" relief from the automatic stay will prevent any future bankruptcy case from interfering further with the landlord's remedies and (b) although Debtor's conduct appears to amount to a failure to appear in proper prosecution of this case, it is not clear on the present record that such conduct is "willful" (as required by section 109(g)(1)), and rather than put the parties to the expense of an evidentiary hearing or further briefing on that issue, it appears to be more efficient simply to order a straight dismissal of this case with no bar.

#2.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [UD]

DTLA PROPERTIES, INC.
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 7

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

(a) Federal law

Grant the motion under 11 U.S.C. 362(b)(10) and 541(b)(2). The tentative ruling is that the Reply is correct: the automatic stay does not apply to the "any act" by Movant as lessor under the lease that expired prepetition. Dkt.27, pp.4:17-6:7. In other words, the automatic stay does not apply as a matter of federal bankruptcy law.

(b) California law

Alternatively, the automatic stay does not apply because Debtor has not established that, under California law, Debtor had any cognizable interest that could possibly be protected by the automatic stay. See In re Perl, 811 F.3d 1120, 1127-28 (9th Cir. 2016) ("We conclude that under California law, entry of judgment and a writ of possession following unlawful detainer proceedings extinguishes all other legal and equitable possessory interests in the real property at issue."). Debtor's opposition argues that In re Perl is distinguishable from this current case because In re Perl dealt with a residential tenant, and Debtor is a non-residential tenant. Dkt. 26, p.11:8-11. Debtor does not adequately explain how that distinction matters. Id. at p.11:23-p.12:1.

CONT...

Universal Health Foundation

Chapter 11

Although Debtor argues for relief from forfeiture, the tentative ruling is that, even if there were a potential ground to regain an interest in property, that in itself would not be an interest in property, so the automatic stay would not apply even supposing, for the sake of discussion, that Debtor would be entitled to relief from forfeiture. Moreover, Debtor has not established that there was any forfeiture: the leasehold was not forfeited - it ended. Therefore Debtor has not established any interest in the subject premises under California law that could be protected by the automatic stay.

(c) Grounds for relief from any automatic stay

In the alternative and in addition, even if the automatic stay applied (which it does not), the tentative ruling is that Movant has established sufficient grounds for relief from the automatic stay as set forth below. In addition, some the requested relief applies even if there is no automatic stay in this case - i.e., the request that "in rem" relief be granted so that no future bankruptcy case will affect Movant's interest in the property.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases

Grant the following relief pursuant to the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

#4.00 Cont'd status conference re: Chapter 11 case
fr. 2/4/20

Docket 6

Tentative Ruling:

Revised Tentative Ruling for 2/18/20:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues

(a) Employment application (dkt.21)

Debtor has filed Nat. Form B2030 (dkt. 23) and an amended SOFA (dkt. 24) disclosing that a retainer of $10,000 was paid by one James G. Lewis, who is described as one of Debtor's unsecured creditors. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/25/20 for Debtor and Mr. Lewis each to file and serve on the Office of the United States Trustee their declarations addressing the ethical concerns involved whenever a retainer is paid by a third party. See In re 9469 Beverly Crest, LLC (Case No. 2:19-bk-20000-NB, dkt.44). The tentative ruling is to set the employment application for hearing concurrent with the continued status conference (see below).

As for other issues raised in the tentative ruling for 2/4/20 (reproduced below), the tentative ruling is to cap costs for photocopying and other expenses per the applicable guidelines (see dkt.21, at PDF p.20), to authorize late payment charges only from when fees and costs are authorized and directed to be paid by this Court (see id., at PDF p.21), and to include the other standard provisions set forth in the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov).

(b) Budget motion (as amended, dkt.34): This motion has been self-calendared for 3/3/20 at 1:00 p.m. There is no tentative ruling regarding that motion, but this Court notes (in anticipation of that hearing) that (i) Debtor lists a $750/mo. contribution from his son (dkt.34 at PDF p.9) but there is no contribution declaration on the docket; (ii) Debtor's MOR (dkt.35 at PDF p.7) states that going forward Debtor and his non-debtor wife will pay only their portion of the combined insurance premium for their vehicles and their children's vehicles, and that their children will be responsible for their own car loan payments and insurance, but there is no disclosure of how the insurance expense has been allocated; and (iii) Debtor's monthly income projected in the budget motion appears to be substantially lower than in prior years, based on a comparison with Debtor's Statement Of Financial Affairs ("SOFA") (dkt.24, line 4, at p.2), but there is no explanation why. (This Court also notes that the budget no longer includes $500/mo. of "support" payments "to mother-in-law and sister-in-law.")

(c) Substantial equity in properties alleged to have been fraudulently transferred. As directed in the tentative ruling for 2/4/20 (reproduced below), the tentative ruling is to direct Debtor to disclose at the status conference the percentage ownership interest that Debtor had in Sunset and Cambria in the years prior to the alleged fraudulent transfers of those properties, and direct all parties in interest who appear to address the status of the nonbankruptcy litigation.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 1/13/20.

(a) Bar date: 5/31/20 (dkt. 27; timely served, dkt. 28).

(b) Procedures order: dkt. 3 (timely served, dkt. 9)

(d) Continued status conference: 3/3/20 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Chapter 11

Tentative Ruling for 2/4/20:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by Debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues

(a) Employment application (dkt.21): Debtor fails to disclose the source of funds used to pay proposed bankruptcy counsel (id., p.8). Nor is there any disclosure of either the payment or the source of funds in the SOFA line 16 (dkt.19, at PDF p.47). Nor has counsel filed the required disclosure under Rule 2016 (Fed.R.Bankr.P.). See Nat. Form B2030.

The employment application lists costs for photocopying and other expenses that appear to exceed the applicable guidelines (see dkt.21, at PDF p.20). The tentative ruling is to disapprove those proposed charges.

Late payment charges can only run from when fees and costs are authorized and directed to be paid (as ordered by this Court) (see id., at PDF p.21). Pursuant to the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) any employment order will supersede the provisions in the employment application that would otherwise provide for an attorney lien (impermissible because it would create a conflict of interest). Under the same Procedures, any arbitration provision is subject to this Court's initial jurisdiction to review any fee disputes (id., at PDF p.21).

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/7/20 to file and serve documents correcting the foregoing deficiencies. If those documents are amendments to previously filed documents, all changes must be shown by "blacklining."

(b) Budget motion (dkt.20): SchJ line 17 (reproduced at dkt.20, PDF p.12) shows two cars, but Debtor's bankruptcy Schedules A/B and D (dkt.19 at PDF pp.4-5 & 15-16) show four cars (all under-water). What is Debtor's intent regarding these cars, and why does Debtor need so many?

SchJ line 19 (reproduced at dkt.20, at PDF p.12) shows $500/mo. of "support" payments "to mother-in-law and sister-in-law." Are these truly "support" payments within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 101(14A)(A)(i) & (B) and 11 U.S.C. 707(b)(2)(A)(ii)(II) (incorporated by 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(15) and 1325(b)(2)(A)(i)), and can they be deducted properly from Debtor's income?

(c) Substantial equity in properties alleged to have been fraudulently transferred. Based on SOFA line 13 (dkt.19 at PDF p.46), certain creditors allege that Debtor fraudulently transferred interests properties at 319 N. Sunset Ave., La Puente, CA ("Sunset") and 1545 Cambria St, Los Angeles, CA 90017, where Debtor resides ("Cambria"), as gifts to his wife and children, perhaps to evade payment of a judgment in those creditors' lawsuit asserting that Debtor's rental property was uninhabitable. See SOFA line 9 (dkt.19, at PDF p.45). Based on Bankruptcy Schedule D (dkt.19, at PDF pp.15-16) and Debtor's Status Report (dkt.18, p.A-2, lines 15-25), there appears to be over $300,000 of equity in Sunset and over $1.1 million in unencumbered equity in Cambria. Debtor cannot and does not claim any exemption in these properties that he allegedly fraudulently transferred. See Bankruptcy Schedule C (dkt.19, at PDF pp.13-14).

Debtor is directed to disclose at the status conference the percentage ownership interest that Debtor had in Sunset and Cambria in the years prior to the alleged fraudulent transfer. All parties are directed to address the status of the nonbankruptcy litigation.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 1/13/20.

(a) Bar date: 5/31/20 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

Docket 42

Tentative Ruling:

Revised Tentative Ruling for 2/18/20:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtors' amended Disclosure Statement (dkt. 133) and amended Chapter 11 Plan of reorganization (dkt. 134)

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/28/20 for Debtors to file, BUT NOT SERVE on anyone except the United States Trustee and parties requesting a copy, a further amended Plan and amended Disclosure Statement to correct the issues discussed below. Debtors' counsel are cautioned that serving these draft documents as they have done (dkt.133, pp.83-85) is contrary to this Court's directions (see, e.g., Tentative Ruling for 1/28/20, part (2)(c), reproduced below), and is also wasteful of photocopying and postage expenses.

(i) Erroneous/duplicative text

Debtor's Disclosure Statement (dkt.133, at PDF p.9:13-15) states that Debtors propose to pay the IRS over 60 months. But that is longer than permitted under 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(9), and it is also inconsistent with their Exhibit A (dkt.133, at PDF pp.14&16) which proposes to pay the IRS over 48 months. Debtors have also classified the IRS as Class 3A, but priority tax debts are required to be unclassified. 11 U.S.C. 1123(a)(1).

These inconsistencies and errors illustrate the problems and confusion that can be caused by Debtors departing from the required forms and inserting their own text. The tentative ruling is to direct Debtors to delete all of the text inserted into the forms (e.g., dkt.133 at PDF pp.2, 3, 4, 7-12).

(ii) Disclosure Statement, Exhibits A and C (dkt.133 at PDF pp.14, 27-35 )

Again, Debtors are causing problems by departing from the required forms. Under an attachment to Exhibit C (dkt.133 at PDF p.30, line 3b), Debtors are directed to make adjustments to avoid double counting. But, for example, Debtors have double counted their $2,480.18 monthly mortgage payment on their rental property: both in their bankruptcy Schedule J (dkt.133 at PDF p.35) that they use to calculate disposable income and in their proposed Exhibit A showing distributions to creditors (dkt.133, Ex.A, at PDF p.14, Class 2A).

Again, Debtors must follow the forms: do not count that mortgage payment in calculating net income available to pay creditors (adjust the calculations in bankruptcy Schedule J to "back out" any debt payments or other double-counting), and list payments of debts only once, in Exhibit A.

(iii) Schedules I & J

Debtors have not complied with this Court's tentative ruling below (1/28/20) directing them to file corrected bankruptcy Schedules I & J that reflect income and expenses as of the petition date, not later dates. Why not? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/28/20 for Debtors to file corrected bankruptcy Schedules I & J.

(b) Fee Application of A.O.E. Law & Associates ("AOE") (dkt. 126, 127), UST's opposition (dkt. 131), stipulation resolving UST's opposition (dkt. 136), Debtors' declaration (dkt. 139)

Applicant seeks an interim award of $6,591 in fees and $87.30 in expenses, for a total award of $6,678.30. The tentative ruling is to grant in part and deny in part the application as follows.

First, AOE states that it performed $10,150 in services for Debtors during the relevant fee period, but has applied a $3,559 retainer against those fees, so it only seeks approval of $6,591 in fees. Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 330(a), all fees and expenses incurred in connection with AOE's representation of Debtors in this case must be approved by this Court. Therefore, the fee application should have requested approval of $10,150 in fees, but only sought payment of 6,591 in fees.

The tentative ruling is that, although the fee application is deficient and somewhat confusing on this issue, it includes sufficient disclosures that parties in interest have been notified of the totals that are really sought. Therefore, this Court can approve the correct totals (with a caution to counsel to list the correct amounts next time).

Second, the order authorizing AOE's employment is effective as of 9/29/19 (dkt. 117), but AOE seeks $1,125 in fees for two time entries billed on 9/28/19 without addressing why such fees are warranted. The tentative ruling is to treat the fee application as including a request to amend the employment order to authorize earlier employment by a day or two, and direct Debtor to lodge a proposed amended employment order (again, with a caution to counsel to use the correct dates next time).

Third, pursuant to the stipulation resolving the UST's opposition, AOE has agreed to reduce its fees by an additional $645 (dkt. 136).

Based on the foregoing, the tentative ruling is to approve $9,505.00 in fees ($10,150.00 - $645.00 = $9,505.00) in fees and $87.30 in expenses, for a total award of $9,592.30, and direct Debtors to pay $6,033.30 ($9,592.30 - $3,559.00 retainer = $6,033.30).

Proposed order: Applicant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Chapter 11

Tentative Ruling for 1/28/20:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtors' Disclosure Statement (dkt. 123) and chapter 11 Plan of reorganization (dkt. 124)

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/4/20 for Debtors to file corrected bankruptcy Schedules I&J, a declaration of postpetition income and expenses, a corrected and "blacklined" Disclosure Statement, and a corrected and "blacklined" Plan, addressing the following issues:

(i) Debtors' net income calculations are very confusing

Debtors' net income calculations are confusing for three reasons. First, bankruptcy Schedules I and J (filed both as part of the Plan documents and separately) are supposed to reflect income and expenses as of the petition date, not later dates. For later dates, Debtors should have used this Court's local form declaration of postpetition income and expenses. Using the wrong forms is confusing and misleading.

Second, it appears from this Court's notes of the hearing on 7/30/19 that Debtors moved out of their Locust Avenue duplex at some point, so they are now renting out both units (and meanwhile they are themselves renting their living space for $1,000/mo.); but the Plan and Disclosure Statement do not make this clear. In addition, Debtors appear to list income from three renters - what space is the extra renter occupying, given that the property is a duplex not a triplex? Specifically, amended Schedule I, line 8a, lists $1,600/mo. income (tenant #1), and line 8h and Ex.A list two more tenants paying a total of $3,445/mo. (tenants #2&3). Is this accurate?

Third, Debtors' mortgage obligation does not appear to be included either in their calculation of net income from their rental property (amended bankruptcy Schedule I, dkt.122, at PDF pp.29-30, line 8a & Ex.A) or in their expenses (Schedule J, line 20a, dkt.122, at PDF p.31). In one or another of those places, they should have included their mortgage expense of $2,480.18 for principal and interest (dkt.122, at PDF p.30).

That error is balanced out by the fact that the Plan proposes to pay that amount. But the correct way to show this would have been to file an accurate declaration of postpetition income and expenses and then, in the Disclosure Statement, adjust Debtors' net income by backing out whatever mortgage was included in the declaration of postpetition income and expenses. Exhibit C-1 to the Disclosure Statement has a line to make such adjustments.

(ii) The Plan in its current form is infeasible by $325 on the Effective Date

Debtors' cash flow statement (dkt.123, Ex.C) shows a negative balance on the effective date: it gives the impression that the Plan is infeasible because Debtors would not be able to make the mandatory $325 payment to the UST on the effective date (see 11 USC 1129(a)(12)). Debtors are directed to address whether they will have sufficient cash on hand to make this payment.

(iii) The Plan does not comply with 11 USC 1129(a)(9)

Debtors propose to pay the IRS's claim over a period of 60 months, beginning on the proposed 4/1/20 effective date; but section 1129(a)(9) requires that the IRS's claim be paid in full within 5 years of the order for relief (i.e. 5 years from 4/10/19, or by 4/10/24).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 4/10/19 and converted from chapter 13 on 6/18/19.

- (a) Bar date: 6/19/19, and supplemental bar date of 8/28/19 after conversion to chapter 11, notice timely served (see dkt. 66, 67)
- (b) Procedures order: dkt. 41 (timely served, dkt. 46)
- (c) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/4/20 for Debtors to file (BUT NOT SERVE) an amended Plan and Disclosure Statement correcting the foregoing issues, with manual "blacklining" showing all changes, which this Court will review prior to the continued status conference.
- (d) Continued status conference: 2/28/20 at 1:00 p.m.

Preliminary Issues

(1) Disputed liens

Debtor disputes claim(s) allegedly secured by two properties: (1) 45 East 69th Way, Long Beach, CA 90805 ("69th Way") and (2) 11 Shadow Lane, Rolling Hills, CA 90272 ("Shadow Lane"). Debtor does not dispute a claim secured by a third property: (3) 49 East 68th Way, Long Beach, CA 90805 ("68th Way"). See dkt. 31, p.11, para. 8.

Debtor asserts the 69th Way and Shadow Lane properties are "encumbered by a loan which he did not take out but was fraudulently done by a realtor Frank Hernandez whose license has been suspended." Dkt.30 at PDF p.3. Debtor declares, "I will segregate all excess funds in the Debtor in Possession account while a resolution on those claims [is being obtained]."

Candelario Lora

Chapter 11

Dkt. 31, p.11, para. 8. This Court has several concerns.

First, Debtor has not provided proof that the Cash Collateral Motion was served properly on the holder(s) of the lien on those two properties, in full compliance with Rule 7004 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) (made applicable by Rule 9014(b)). See dkt.31 (last page), dkt.32 (last 4 pages). Specifically, Debtor has not served them "Attn: Officer or Managing/General Director" or the like (see Rule 7004(b)(3) and see also Rule 7004(h)), nor is it clear that Debtor has used addresses where the Officers or other requisite persons are situated (to the contrary, at least one address appears likely to be a PO Box for payments, and this Court takes judicial notice that payment addresses often are different from addresses for service of process).

Second, Debtor has not obtained any declaratory judgment clearing title of the allegedly fraudulent liens, or any other judgment or order that would permit Debtor to ignore the record title showing an interest in cash collateral. Therefore, the disputed liens must be provided with some form of adequate protection. See 11 U.S.C. 105(a), 361, 363(e).

Third, as noted above, Debtor declares, "I will segregate all excess funds in the Debtor in Possession account while a resolution on those claims [is being obtained]." Dkt. 31, p.11, para. 8 (emphasis added). That is insufficient. Commingling funds in the DIP account does not adequately protect the asserted liens. Debtor must establish a separate account to hold all funds in excess of the dollar amounts necessary for insurance, real estate taxes, and any other expenses approved by this Court. Debtor is directed to address at the hearing whether a separate DIP bank account has been established for each property, and if that account is sufficient to segregate cash collateral.

Fourth, although Debtor has checked the box in the Cash Collateral Motion (dkt.31, p.3, section 6) stating that a memorandum of points and authorities is attached if Debtor proposes not to make adequate protection payments, that is false: no such memorandum is attached.

Fifth, the tentative ruling is that an additional condition to establish adequate protection is that Debtor must act diligently in bringing whatever challenges Debtor might have to the asserted liens.

For all of the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is that (a) Debtor must segregate all excess funds as set forth above, (b) Debtor must re-serve the motion papers in compliance with Rule 7004 no later than 1/16/20, and (c) Debtor must address at the continued hearing what steps Debtor has taken to address the allegedly fraudulent nature of the liens.

Judge Bason's standard conditions for use of cash collateral and/or postpetition financing (by creditors holding prepetition claims)

(1) Written order

(a) Form. Use local form

F2081-1.1.ORDER.CASH.COLLATERAL or the equivalent. Attach a copy of this tentative ruling as an exhibit, thereby adopting it as the written ruling of this Court, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. Do not repeat the terms set forth in the motion or any stipulation. Incorporate those terms by reference (including the docket number of the document), subject to any modification by this Court.

(b) Timing. Lodge the proposed order within 7 days after the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Minimum adequate protection

In addition to the postpetition security interests that are automatically provided pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 552 (e.g., in traceable proceeds and profits), and subject to any more comprehensive protection that may be included in the motion or related papers, Debtor shall provide at least the following protection to any creditor with a security interest in the subject property (pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 361-364, as applicable):

(a) Insurance. For all collateral of a type that typically is insured (e.g., real property and improvements), Debtor is directed to maintain insurance in a dollar amount at least equal to Debtor's good faith estimate of the value of such creditor's interest in the collateral, and such insurance shall name such creditor as an additional insured. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments for such insurance.

(b) Taxes. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments on account of postpetition real estate taxes (to the extent that real estate is part of the collateral).

(c) Disclosures/access. Debtor is directed to provide, upon such creditor's reasonable request, periodic accountings of the foregoing insurance and tax obligations and payments, as well as postpetition proceeds, products, offspring, or profits from the collateral, including gross revenues and expenses and a calculation of net revenues, including any rents and any fees, charges, accounts, or other payments for the use or occupancy of rooms and other public facilities in lodging properties (as all of the foregoing terms are used in 11 U.S.C. 552). Debtor is directed to provide appropriate documentation of those accountings, and access for purposes of inspection or appraisal.

(3) Limitation on postpetition liens

In the event that the motion or related papers seek authority to grant postpetition liens to the creditor(s) with respect to prepetition debts any such liens shall be limited to the same validity, priority, and amount as prepetition liens. As used herein, the "validity, priority, and amount" or any similar phrase that may be used by the parties or this Court is deemed to include the following:

(a) Extent. Such liens shall be limited to the type of collateral in which the creditor held a security interest as of the petition date, unless this order expressly states that the liens granted by this order are intended to attach to different types of collateral from the prepetition collateral. For example, if prepetition liens extended to inventory and accounts receivable but not equipment then postpetition liens are likewise limited (unless otherwise expressly provided by order of this Court). In addition, postpetition liens shall not extend to the proceeds of any avoidance actions, any recoveries under 11 U.S.C. 506(c), or any "carveout" under 11 U.S.C. 552.

(b) Priority. Such liens shall be limited to the same priority as the security interest held by the creditor as of the petition date.

(c) Dollar amount. Such liens shall be limited to the dollar amount needed to protect the creditor against diminution in the value of the secured claims as of the petition date.

(d) Enforceability. Such liens shall be limited to the extent that the creditor's security interests were duly perfected and valid as of the petition date, and to the extent that they are unavoidable.

(e) Automatic postpetition perfection. Any automatic perfection of such liens shall be subject to any applicable limitations regarding the Court's authority, jurisdiction, or due process.

(4) Automatic disapproval of insufficiently disclosed provisions

Any provision of the type listed in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or in local form F4001-2 (e.g., cross-collateralization) or any waiver of the "equities of the case" exception in 11 U.S.C. 552(b)(2) shall be deemed automatically disapproved and excepted from any order granting the motion, notwithstanding any other provision of such order, unless either: (a) such provision is specifically and prominently disclosed in the motion papers in a checklist (such as local form F4001-2), or alternatively (b) such provision is specifically identified in any proposed order granting the motion, using terminology of the type used in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or local form F4001-2 (e.g., any "cross-collateralization" that is not specifically identified as such is deemed to be disapproved).

(5) Disputes

In the event of any disputes regarding the rulings in this order, the parties are directed to meet and confer and, if they cannot resolve their disputes consensually, contact Judge Bason's chambers to arrange a mutually convenient time for either a telephonic or in-person hearing to address such disputes.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing

#9.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case
fr. 12/17/19, 1/14/20

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Revised Tentative Ruling for 2/18/20:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) First cash collateral motion (dkt.31&32) and second cash collateral motion (dkt. 55&56)

(i) Applicable motion(s)?

At the 1/14/20 hearing, Debtor was directed to re-serve the first cash collateral motion no later than 1/16/20 (see also Tentative Ruling for 1/14/20, reproduced below). Instead, Debtor filed and served the second cash collateral motion, which differs materially from the first cash collateral motion.

It appears that Debtor still may be seeking authorization under the first motion as to two properties (68th Way and Shadow Ln) and authorization under the second motion as to a third property (69th Way). Is that accurate? If not, what is Debtor attempting to do?

(ii) Service issues

At the 1/14/20 hearing, this Court noted that the first cash collateral motion was not served in compliance with Rule 7004 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.), and Debtor was directed to reserve that motion no later than 1/16/20. Debtor served the second cash collateral motion instead, and did so on 1/17/20. Dkt. 56.

It appears that Debtor has still not complied with Rule 7004. First, Nationstar Mortgage, LLC dba Mr. Cooper was not served at the address listed on POC No. 4 for notices. Second, CitiMortgage, Inc. filed POC No. 5 alleging a security interest in the 68th Way property, and it was not served with either cash collateral motion.

(iii) Allegedly fraudulent liens

Chapter 11

As noted in Debtor's status report, Debtor is (belatedly) seeking authorization for the postpetition employment of special counsel to pursue an action in state court for fraud and quiet title with respect to allegedly fraudulent liens encumbering the 69th Way and Shadow Lane properties. Dkt. 57 & 69, p.3:2-4. Debtor has stated an intention to sell the Shadow Lane property but not the 69th Way property. What cost/benefit analysis have Debtor and Debtor's bankruptcy counsel done regarding this litigation?

The holder of the alleged liens appears to be asserting 21% default interest (and a non-default rate of just under 10%) (see dkt.70, p.5:1-6). Of course, all rights are preserved to argue regarding interest rates, but Debtor appears to be gambling on winning the litigation and avoiding the liens and the default interest entirely. In other words, if Debtor is not 100% successful, there appears to be a substantial danger of wiping out any recovery for other creditors and Debtor. Why is Debtor not proposing a course of action that might stop the running of such high rates of interest?

For example, solely for purposes of this tentative ruling this Court presumes (without deciding) that selling the 69th Way property free and clear of the disputed liens, with such liens to attach the proceeds, might stop the running of such interest rates. Alternatively, Debtor might propose a chapter 11 plan that could include alternative treatments of this claim depending on whether the litigation were or were not successful, and restructuring any secured claims to have a lower interest rate. These are only hypotheticals: again, all rights are preserved to argue whether any such possible solutions would or would not stop the running of these high interest rates, but the point is that Debtor is directed to address why the status report and the docket do not appear to reflect any exploration of methods to avoid what appear to be the large risks of staking everything on Debtor's litigation.

(iv) Rehabbers Financial, Inc. dba Aztec Financial ("Aztec") opposition to second cash collateral motion (dkt. 70)

Aztec's opposition notes that Debtor's second cash collateral motion proposes to pay Aztec $2,000/month of the $5,465/month generated by the property, and allocates $1,058.20 to taxes, insurance, and maintenance, but Debtor does not explain what the remaining $2,379.80/month will be used for. Dkt. 70, p.4:24-27. Aztec also disputes Debtor's valuation of the property, and states that Debtor should at least be making the non-default, pre-maturity contractual payment of $4,535.67/month. Id. at p.5:17-28. While the second cash collateral motion states that Debtor's basis for the valuation of the property is Debtor's declaration, Debtor's declaration does not address the value of the property. Dkt. 55, p.11. Lastly, Aztec states that it has requested access to the property to arrange its own appraisal. Id. at p.5:21-23.

(v) Tentative ruling on both cash collateral motions

The tentative ruling is to order Debtor to segregate 100% of any rents and profits from each rental property (the 69th Way, Shadow Lane, and 68th Way properties), and hold all such funds - after payment of real estate taxes, insurance, utilities, and essential repairs - in separate blocked accounts until further order of this Court, so as to provide an interim form of adequate protection to Aztec and to other lienholders. In addition, the tentative ruling is to direct Debtor no later than 2/25/20 to serve all lienholders with notice of a continued hearing on the cash collateral motions, concurrent with the continued status conference set forth below. In addition, the tentative ruling is to direct Debtor no later than 2/25/20 to provide Aztec and all other lienholders with access to the properties for any inspection/appraisal they wish to conduct (or, alternatively, to schedule by 2/25/20 an inspection/appraisal after 2/25/20 at a time that is convenient for the lienholders).

(b) January MOR (dkt. 73)

This MOR (dkt.73, p.17) shows general liability insurance due to expire/only paid through 1/25/20. Has that insurance been extended? Are the MORs up to date?

(c) Prosecution of this case

As set forth above, Debtor's prosecution of this case appears to be inadequate. Cash collateral motions are known as "first day" motions; but Debtor's cash collateral motions have been filed belatedly, served incorrectly (despite this Court's prior direction), and presented in a confusing manner (it is ambiguous whether the second motion supersedes or is in addition to the first motion). Similarly troubling, Debtor's application to employ special counsel has been filed belatedly, and neither that application nor Debtor's status report adequately address the cost/benefit analysis about pursuing that litigation and selling the 69th Way property or otherwise addressing possible methods to stop the running of high interest rates that could wipe out any value in this bankruptcy estate. What assurances can Debtor and Debtor's

(i) State court suit

The MOR reflects a $5,000 payment to James A. Judge, Esq. related to a civil law suit. Dkt. 43, p.9. Debtor also states that "a civil law suite against Aztec Financial (Secured Creditor) is pending." Id. at p.30.

The docket does not reflect any application to employ Mr. Judge as special counsel. In addition, there is no disclosure whether this payment was on account of prepetition or postpetition fees/costs/other charges. Should this Court issue an order directing Mr. Judge to show cause why he should not disgorge that payment and/or why he, Debtor, and/or Debtor's bankruptcy counsel should not have a remedy imposed for expending assets of this bankruptcy estate in violation of the Bankruptcy Code?

(ii) Car insurance

(a) Cash collateral motion (dkt.31-33)

Debtor has self-calendared this motion for 1/14/20 at 1:00 p.m. That is over a month after the petition date.

What is Debtor doing with the cash meanwhile? There may be no good answer: either Debtor is using the cash, in violation of 11 U.S.C. 363(c), or Debtor is not using the cash to pay essential expenses, in violation of Debtor's duties to manage the estate and pay utility bills and other ordinary and necessary expenses in a timely manner (see 11 U.S.C. 1107-08 and 28 U.S.C. 959(b)).

Why did Debtor not use the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) to have this matter heard on 14 days' notice, or alternatively apply for an order shortening time if the matter needed to be heard before that 14 day period?

Docket 49

Tentative Ruling:

Revised Tentative Ruling for 2/18/20:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Budget Motion (dkt. 85, 90), East West Bank's opposition (dkt. 94)

The tentative ruling is to grant in part and deny in part the budget motion, on an interim basis, such that Debtor is authorized to make the expenditures in her proposed budget but must provide additional adequate protection payments to East West Bank to bring the total payment from $4,619.32 to $5,140.78, without prejudice to Debtor and East West Bank establishing an evidentiary basis for a lesser or greater dollar amount either (i) for adequate protection payments, (ii) for purposes of any chapter 11 plan, or (iii) for any other reason. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/25/20 for East West Bank to file a declaration with a copy of advance notice to Debtor regarding the increased monthly mortgage payments, a deadline of 3/4/20 for any response by Debtor, and any reply by East West Bank permitted at the continued hearing, to be held contemporaneous with the continued status conference (see below).

Debtor states (dkt.85, Ex.1, at PDF p.7, 1st footnote) that she recently had an increase income. But, as of the preparation of this tentative ruling, Debtor has not filed a declaration of current/postpetition income and expenses. Why not?

(b) Cash Collateral Motion (dkt. 86, 90)

Grant the motion on an interim basis, subject to Judge Bason's standard conditions for use of cash collateral set forth in the tentative ruling for calendar no. 17.20 (2/18/20 at 1:00 p.m.).

(a) Lack of progress

Debtor has only very belatedly filed a status report (dkt.65) (one week after it was required by this Court's order, dkt. 50). Worse, long after this case was converted to chapter 11 (11/20/19) she has only now filed an application to employ counsel and a budget motion, and she admits (dkt. 65, p.2) that she has not filed her list of 20 largest unsecured creditors. In addition, she admits that she has not filed any cash collateral motion(s) (id., p.3), which apparently means that either she has been using cash without authority or she has been failing to use cash for ordinary and necessary expenses, both of which are bad.

What remedies should this Court impose on Debtor and/or her counsel for this pervasive failure to comply with her obligations under the Bankruptcy Code? What assurances can they provide this Court that similar problems will not happen in future?

#17.20 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Chapter 11 Case for Order
Authorizing Use of Cash Collateral

Docket 86

Tentative Ruling:

Revised Tentative Ruling for 2/18/20:

Grant the motion (docket no. 86, 90) on an interim basis, subject to the conditions set forth below, with a final hearing on 3/31/20 at 1:00 p.m., and a deadline of 2/25/20 for the movant to file and serve a notice of the final hearing. Appearances are not required on 2/18/20.

Judge Bason's standard conditions for use of cash collateral and/or postpetition financing (by creditors holding prepetition claims)

(1) Written order

(a) Form. Use local form

F2081-2.1.ORDER.CASH.COLLATERAL or the equivalent. Attach a copy of this tentative ruling as an exhibit, thereby adopting it as the written ruling of this Court, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. Do not repeat the terms set forth in the motion or any stipulation. Incorporate those terms by reference (including the docket number of the document), subject to any modification by this Court.

(b) Timing. Lodge the proposed order within 7 days after the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Minimum adequate protection

In addition to the postpetition security interests that are automatically provided pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 552 (e.g., in traceable proceeds and profits), and subject to any more comprehensive protection that may be included in the motion or related papers, Debtor shall provide at least the following protection to any creditor with a security interest in the subject property (pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 361-364, as applicable):

(a) Insurance. For all collateral of a type that typically is insured (e.g., real property and improvements), Debtor is directed to maintain insurance in a dollar amount at least equal to Debtor's good faith estimate of the value of such creditor's interest in the collateral, and such insurance shall name such creditor as an additional insured. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments for such insurance.

(b) Taxes. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments on account of postpetition real estate taxes (to the extent that real estate is part of the collateral).

(c) Disclosures/access. Debtor is directed to provide, upon such creditor's reasonable request, periodic accountings of the foregoing insurance and tax obligations and payments, as well as postpetition proceeds, products, offspring, or profits from the collateral, including gross revenues and expenses and a calculation of net revenues, including any rents and any fees, charges, accounts, or other payments for the use or occupancy of rooms and other public facilities in lodging properties (as all of the foregoing terms are used in 11 U.S.C. 552). Debtor is directed to provide appropriate documentation of those accountings, and access for purposes of inspection or appraisal.

(3) Limitation on postpetition liens

In the event that the motion or related papers seek authority to grant postpetition liens to the creditor(s) with respect to prepetition debts any such liens shall be limited to the same validity, priority, and amount as prepetition liens. As used herein, the "validity, priority, and amount" or any similar phrase that may be used by the parties or this Court is deemed to include the following:

(a) Extent. Such liens shall be limited to the type of collateral in which the creditor held a security interest as of the petition date, unless this order expressly states that the liens granted by this order are intended to attach to different types of collateral from the prepetition collateral. For example, if prepetition liens extended to inventory and accounts receivable but not equipment then postpetition liens are likewise limited (unless otherwise expressly provided by order of this Court). In addition, postpetition liens shall not extend to the proceeds of any avoidance actions, any recoveries under 11 U.S.C. 506(c), or any "carveout" under 11 U.S.C. 552.

(b) Priority. Such liens shall be limited to the same priority as the security interest held by the creditor as of the petition date.

(c) Dollar amount. Such liens shall be limited to the dollar amount needed to protect the creditor against diminution in the value of the

(d) Enforceability. Such liens shall be limited to the extent that the creditor's security interests were duly perfected and valid as of the petition date, and to the extent that they are unavoidable.

(e) Automatic postpetition perfection. Any automatic perfection of such liens shall be subject to any applicable limitations regarding the Court's authority, jurisdiction, or due process.

(4) Automatic disapproval of insufficiently disclosed provisions

Any provision of the type listed in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or in local form F4001-2 (e.g., cross-collateralization) or any waiver of the "equities of the case" exception in 11 U.S.C. 552(b)(2) shall be deemed automatically disapproved and excepted from any order granting the motion, notwithstanding any other provision of such order, unless either: (a) such provision is specifically and prominently disclosed in the motion papers in a checklist (such as local form F4001-2), or alternatively (b) such provision is specifically identified in any proposed order granting the motion, using terminology of the type used in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or local form F4001-2 (e.g., any "cross-collateralization" that is not specifically identified as such is deemed to be disapproved).

(5) Disputes

In the event of any disputes regarding the rulings in this order, the parties are directed to meet and confer and, if they cannot resolve their disputes consensually, contact Judge Bason's chambers to arrange a mutually convenient time for either a telephonic or in-person hearing to address such disputes.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #18.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case
fr. 12/17/19, 1/28/20

Docket 5

Tentative Ruling:

Revised Tentative Ruling for 2/18/20:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor.

(1) Current issues

(a) Cash Collateral Motion (dkt. 73)

Grant in part and deny in part. See the tentative ruling for calendar no. 18.10 (2/18/20 at 1:00 p.m.).

(b) Explanation of business

Debtor's proposed budget (dkt.73, Ex.A) lists wildly fluctuating income, from highs of $45,028 in February 2020 and $37,114 in March 2020 to lows of $2,200 in May and June 2020. Why?

This Court recognizes that the same budget lists historical fluctuations for 2019. The net income ranges from a high of $38,366 in March 2019 to a low of $0 in July and August of 2019, and only $2,500 in June 2019 and $3,300 in May 2019. Again, however, there is no explanation. In addition, Debtor's Statement Of Financial Affairs (dkt.28, line 1) lists gross revenues of approximately $500,000 per year for 2017, 2018 and 2019. What accounts for (i) the wild fluctuations in net income and (ii) the lack of consistent profit despite substantial and seemingly stable gross annual revenues?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 11/29/19.

Tentative Ruling for 2/18/20:

This Court anticipates posting a tentative ruling at a later time.

Tentative Ruling for 1/28/20:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues

(a) Monthly operating reports ("MORs")

Debtor's MORs have been filed late, and they appear to show unauthorized adequate protection payments (see dkt.68, pp.15, 29) and unpaid US Trustee fees (id., p.30). Why?

(b) Cash collateral

Debtor's initial status report (dkt.27, at PDF pp.3-5) stated that there was no immediate need to obtain authorization for use of cash collateral because Debtor has no employees or operations. Debtor's latest status report (dkt.60, p.3:9-20) suggests that productive negotiations have taken place with the creditor holding an interest in cash collateral and that Debtor intends to self-calendar a motion approving the use of cash collateral for 2/4/20. What is the latest status of those matters?

(c) Employing broker and filing sale motion

Debtor is directed to address the status of its plans to employ a real estate broker, sell its properties (11 U.S.C. 363(b) & (f)). Those things typically are "first day" motions. But as of this continued status conference it will have been two months after the petition date and those matters are not on the calendar. Why not?

Tentative Ruling for 12/17/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor (see dkt. 21, excusing debtor's appearance).

(1) Current issues

(a) Has Debtor ceased all operations?

Debtor's status report gives the impression, but does not quite state, that Debtor is not conducting any business operations at this time (dkt. 27, p. 3). Debtor is directed to confirm this, or disclose if that is not so, at the hearing.

(b) Budget motion

Debtor's status report states that a budget motion is not required by the presiding judge's procedures. Dkt. 27, p.5. That is wrong (see posted Procedures, available at cacb.uscourts.gov), but the tentative ruling is to excuse this requirement with a caution to counsel not to mis-state the applicable procedures.

#18.10 Hrg re: Debtor's Motion for Order Approving Stipulation
for the Interim Use of Cash Collateral

Docket 73

Tentative Ruling:

Revised Tentative Ruling for 2/18/20:

Grant in part and deny in part the motion (dkt. 73) on an interim basis, subject to the conditions set forth below, with a final hearing on 3/31/20 at 1:00 p.m., and a deadline of 2/25/20 for the movant to file and serve a notice of the final hearing. Appearances required.

Current issues

The tentative ruling is to authorize Debtor to use cash collateral without approving many of the provisions of the proposed stipulation (dkt.73, Ex.A). First, no evidence or argument in favor of those provisions have been provided, either by Debtor or by Zions Bancorporation, N.A. d/b/a California Bank & Trust ("Lender"). Second, Lender appears to be more than adequately protected by an enormous equity cushion (see Bankruptcy Schedule D, dkt.31, line 2.1, listing estimated lien of $7,124,000.00 as against estimated property value of $27,380,000.00). Third, the provisions appear to be unduly prejudicial to other creditors in the event of Debtor's inability to pay its creditors in full - however seemingly unlikely that may be, if the information provided by Debtor and Lender is to be believed.

More specifically, the tentative ruling is as follows:

(1) Validation of Lender's liens only as against Debtor. Approve only as against Debtor, and not as against any other party in interest, any provisions regarding the validity, priority, and extent of Lender's liens on cash or other collateral, or any provisions waiving setoffs, claims against the Lender, and the like. See, e.g., Agreement sections 1.1 and 2 (dkt.73, Ex.A, pp.4:2-5:9).

(2) Emergencies. Approve the provisions regarding emergency use of cash collateral (Agreement section 3.3(b), dkt.73, Ex.A, p.6:7-19), but without prejudice to Debtor's right (and perhaps obligation) to react to true emergencies without Lender's consent. For example, if Debtor's property were on fire, Debtor might be justified in expending more than the $1,000 contemplated by the Agreement (and might have a duty to do so, to protect the estate).

(3) No postpetition liens, except standard replacement liens, and no waiver of section 506(c). Disapprove these provisions, in favor of the standard conditions set forth in the next part of this tentative ruling regarding replacement liens. Debtor and Lender have not established any legal or factual basis for "cross-collateralization," or liens on avoidance actions or recoveries under 11 U.S.C. 506(c). Nor have Debtor and Lender established grounds to waive the bankruptcy estate's rights under 11 U.S.C. 506(c). See Agreement sections 4 & 10 (dkt.73, Ex.A, pp.7:10-8:27, & 11:24-27).

(4) Superpriority under section 507(b) is not a lien. Disapprove the provisions of the Agreement that purport to treat the superpriority under 11 U.S.C. 507(b) as if it had "the same priority as the Replacement Lien as set forth in this Stipulation" (dkt.73, Ex.A, p.11:22-23) and/or with a priority over Debtor's rights under 11 U.S.C. 506(c). Lender is directed at the hearing to address what legal theory justifies treating a superpriority administrative claim as if it were a lien.

(5) No bar on future Court authorization. Notwithstanding anything in the Stipulation or Motion to the contrary, no approval of its terms shall prevent this Court from authorizing the use of cash collateral in future on terms other than as set forth therein, or other than as provided above.

Debtor is directed at the hearing to explain why Debtor's disclosures (dkt.75) failed to disclose the provisions for cross-collateralization.

(2) Minimum adequate protection

In addition to the postpetition security interests that are automatically provided pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 552 (e.g., in traceable proceeds and profits), and subject to any more comprehensive protection that may be included in the motion or related papers, Debtor shall provide at least the following protection to any creditor with a security interest in the subject property (pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 361-364, as applicable):

(a) Insurance. For all collateral of a type that typically is insured (e.g., real property and improvements), Debtor is directed to maintain insurance in a dollar amount at least equal to Debtor's good faith estimate of the value of such creditor's interest in the collateral, and such insurance shall name such creditor as an additional insured. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments for such insurance.

(b) Taxes. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments on account of postpetition real estate taxes (to the extent that real estate is part of the collateral).

(c) Disclosures/access. Debtor is directed to provide, upon such creditor's reasonable request, periodic accountings of the foregoing insurance and tax obligations and payments, as well as postpetition proceeds, products, offspring, or profits from the collateral, including gross revenues and expenses and a calculation of net revenues, including any rents and any fees, charges, accounts, or other payments for the use or occupancy of rooms and other public facilities in lodging properties (as all of the foregoing terms are used in 11 U.S.C. 552). Debtor is directed to provide appropriate documentation of those accountings, and access for purposes of inspection or appraisal.

(3) Limitation on postpetition liens

In the event that the motion or related papers seek authority to grant postpetition liens to the creditor(s) with respect to prepetition debts any such liens shall be limited to the same validity, priority, and amount as prepetition liens. As used herein, the "validity, priority, and amount" or any similar phrase that may be used by the parties or this Court is deemed to include the following:

(a) Extent. Such liens shall be limited to the type of collateral in which the creditor held a security interest as of the petition date, unless this order expressly states that the liens granted by this order are intended to attach to different types of collateral from the prepetition collateral. For example, if prepetition liens extended to inventory and accounts receivable but not equipment then postpetition liens are likewise limited (unless otherwise expressly provided by order of this Court). In addition, postpetition liens shall not extend to the proceeds of any avoidance actions, any recoveries under 11 U.S.C. 506(c), or any "carveout" under 11 U.S.C. 552.

(b) Priority. Such liens shall be limited to the same priority as the security interest held by the creditor as of the petition date.

(c) Dollar amount. Such liens shall be limited to the dollar amount needed to protect the creditor against diminution in the value of the secured claims as of the petition date.

(d) Enforceability. Such liens shall be limited to the extent that the creditor's security interests were duly perfected and valid as of the petition date, and to the extent that they are unavoidable.

(e) Automatic postpetition perfection. Any automatic perfection of such liens shall be subject to any applicable limitations regarding the Court's authority, jurisdiction, or due process.

(4) Automatic disapproval of insufficiently disclosed provisions

Any provision of the type listed in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or in local form F4001-2 (e.g., cross-collateralization) or any waiver of the "equities of the case" exception in 11 U.S.C. 552(b)(2) shall be deemed automatically disapproved and excepted from any order granting the motion, notwithstanding any other provision of such order, unless either: (a) such provision is specifically and prominently disclosed in the motion papers in a checklist (such as local form F4001-2), or alternatively (b) such provision is specifically identified in any proposed order granting the motion, using terminology of the type used in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or local form F4001-2 (e.g., any "cross-collateralization" that is not specifically identified as such is deemed to be disapproved).

#20.00 Cont'd hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]
fr. 12/10/19, 12/17/19, 1/28/20

BEVERLY PARTNERS, LLC
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 47

Tentative Ruling:

Revised Tentative Ruling for 2/18/20:

Grant in part the motion of Beverly Partners, LLC ("Beverly") for relief from automatic stay (dkt. 47). Appearances required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Analysis

Based on the motion papers, Debtor's opposition papers (dkt. 50), and Beverly's reply (dkt. 53), the tentative ruling is to modify the automatic stay to set deadlines - further described below - for Debtor to take steps to market and sell the property at 10838-10842 Beverly Blvd., Whittier, CA 90601 (the "Property"). This Court recognizes that Debtor has characterized the Property as his retirement security, but the tentative ruling is that there is no other way to provide adequate protection of Beverly's interest in the Property.

(1) Valuation

The tentative ruling is that Beverly's evidence is persuasive as to including a higher property tax assessment for valuation purposes (see Eggleston Reply Decl., dkt.53, p.3:1-13) and that, with this adjustment, Debtor's approach to valuation would yield a value of $850,000 (id., p.3:14-17). Beverly's appraisal, in contrast, asserts a value of $795,000. See dkt.47, at PDF pp.77-end, and dkt. 53, p.3:18-21.

The tentative ruling is that the other evidence provided by Debtor and Beverly (e.g., as to appropriate discount rates, and the use of allegedly comparable properties) does not weigh in one direction or the other clearly enough for this Court to decide between the two valuations without an evidentiary hearing (or, perhaps, further declarations). Compare Eggleston Decl. (dkt.79, pp.79 et seq.) and Eggleston Reply Decl. (dkt.53) with Collins Appraisal (dkt.50, Ex.A) and Collins Decl. (dkt.50, pp.13 et seq.). Therefore, the remainder of this tentative ruling considers both valuations.

(2) 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1)

Under section 362(d)(1) this Court must consider any lack of adequate protection (or other "cause" for relief). One form of adequate protection is a sufficient equity cushion.

The tentative ruling is that, unless an equity cushion is very large, an eroding equity cushion may place Beverly's interest in the Property at greater risk. Therefore, this Court must consider Beverly's equity cushion (if any), both as of the petition date (8/30/19) and currently.

In calculating that equity cushion the tentative ruling is that this Court must consider (i) the senior real estate tax lien (Claim No.2-3) of $22,417.08 as of the petition date, plus postpetition interest at 18% for the current calculation (id., p.2, line 9), plus (ii) Beverly's lien of approximately $721,702.10 as of the petition date, or approximately $741,879.34 as of 11/7/19 (dkt.47, pp.7 & 11), plus postpetition interest at 17% for the current calculation (id., Ex.H, at PDF p.141) (POC 5-1, line 9), plus (iii) any other charges that are allowable under 11 U.S.C. 506(b) (e.g., ongoing attorney fees), minus (iv) adequate protection payments (3 x $3,313.63 through Beverly's 12/3/19 Reply, dkt.dkt.53, p.2:15, plus two more payments for January and February, for a total of 5x$3,313.63 = $16,586.15).

Based on these numbers, the tentative ruling is that, even using Debtor's valuation method (adjusted as set forth above), the combination of a modest equity cushion (substantially below 20%) and the current (low) adequate protection payments (very substantially below the contractual default or non-default interest rates) are insufficient. They do not provide Beverly with protection of its interest that is truly "adequate" as required by section 362(d)(1).

Chapter 11

Therefore this Court "shall" grant some form of relief from the automatic stay. 11 U.S.C. 362(d). That relief need not necessarily be termination of the automatic stay: it can take the form of modifying or conditioning the automatic stay. Id. The tentative ruling is that, because Beverly itself would have to take time to market and sell the Property (if it were to attempt to maximize value and not risk its own recovery), Beverly will be adequately protected by providing Debtor with time in which to do the same.

(3) Amount of time to market and sell the property

The tentative ruling is to set deadlines of (a) 2/28/20 for Debtor to file and serve an application to employ a real estate agent for the Property, (b) 4/24/20 for Debtor to file and serve a motion under 11 U.S.C. 363(b) and (f) to sell the Property, subject to overbids, (c) 5/19/20 for a hearing (and auction, if there are any overbidders), and (d) 6/23/20 to close the sale (either to the winning bidder or a backup bidder) and pay Beverly out of escrow. If Debtor fails to meet those deadlines, the tentative ruling is that Beverly would be authorized to file and serve a declaration of default and lodge a proposed order terminating the automatic stay.

Meanwhile, the tentative ruling is to monitor Debtor's progress by setting a continued hearing on this motion to the same time as the continued status conference (see calendar no. 23, 2/18/20 at 1:00 p.m.).

(4) 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(2)

The tentative ruling is that for purposes of section 362(d)(2)(A) (whether Debtor has any equity in the Property) this Court must take into account the IRS lien (Claim No.7-1) of $64,423.96 as of the petition date (id. at PDF pp.2&4-10), plus postpetition interest of 5% for the current calculation. This Court notes that the IRS claim is secured by any property owned by Debtor, but there is no evidence that equity in any other property will decrease the amount of this claim.

The result would be that under Beverly's valuation Debtor would have no equity in the property, but under Debtor's valuation he would have some equity. Because the burden of proof is on Beverly on this issue (11 U.S.C. 362(g)(1)), the tentative ruling is that on the present record Beverly has not established an entitlement to relief under section 362(d)(2). All rights are reserved for Beverly to continue seeking to establish that element with Appearances are not required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Beverly's motion for relief from automatic stay (dkt. 47); Debtor's opposition (dkt. 50); Beverly's reply (dkt. 53)

Continue to the same date and time as the continued status conference. Reasons: This Court's posted tentative ruling prior to the hearing scheduled for 12/10/19 (reproduced below) was not contested, and therefore it was adopted as this Court's ruling. The ruling was: "to continue this hearing to 12/17/19 at 1:00 p.m., with a deadline of 12/11/19 for Beverly to [i] serve all required persons with notice of the continued hearing, and [ii] file a proof of service." (Emphasis added.) Beverly has done the latter (dkt.54) but not the former.

(b) Cash collateral motion (dkt.13, 19, 26, 31, 32, 42, 43, 55, 61)
Grant on a final basis.

Tentative Ruling for 12/10/19:

Appearances are not required on 12/10/19, but Debtor and Beverly Partners, LLC ("Beverly") are directed, well ahead of the continued hearing date set forth below, to take whatever steps are necessary or appropriate to address the issues set forth below (e.g., correcting service and/or proofs of service, lodging proposed order(s), filing corrected MORs, etc.).

(1) Current issues

(a) Beverly's motion for relief from automatic stay (dkt. 47); Debtor's opposition (dkt. 50); Beverly's reply (dkt. 53)

Beverly's proof of service does not show service on the list of creditors included in Debtor's "list filed under Rule 1007(d)" (as required by Rule 4001(a)(1), Fed. R. Bankr. P.). See dkt. 1. The tentative ruling is to continue this hearing to 12/17/19 at 1:00 p.m., with a deadline of 12/11/19 for Beverly to serve all required persons with notice of the continued hearing, and file a proof of service.

Court directed counsel to lodge a proposed order granting the motion on an interim basis and attaching (and adopting) a copy of this Court's tentative ruling for that date (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov). In addition, Debtor did not file and serve a notice of the final hearing by 10/3/19. In addition, any such service would have to be in compliance with the applicable rules for service, as stated in that adopted tentative ruling.

The current tentative ruling is (i) to direct counsel, again, to lodge a proposed order granting the motion on an interim basis through the conclusion of the final hearing, (ii) to set a final hearing for the same date and time as the continued status conference (see below), and (iii) to set a deadline of 12/11/19 for Debtor to file and serve notice of the final hearing in compliance with the applicable rules for service.

(c) Proof of service of bar date order (dkt.28)

Debtor's counsel has had trouble with service of this order and/or proving that it was served as required. See dkt. 35,36,37. Even the latest, second amended proof of service (dkt.37) is inadequate in that it fails to state who actually served the order and when they did so. Implicitly, the person who signed the proof of service, Paulina Buitron, is the person who actually deposited the envelopes in the U.S. mail, and that was done sometime between 9/30/19, when the order was supposed to have been served, and 10/3/19, when the proof of service was filed, but the declaration does not actually say so. In addition, at the hearing on 10/1/19 this Court directed Debtor's counsel to double-check that all creditors had in fact been served and, if not, to apply for an order setting a supplemental bar date as to any creditors who have not been served.

The tentative ruling is to excuse what appears to be untimely service of the bar date order by a few days, and set a deadline of 12/11/19 (i) for Debtor's counsel to file a third amended proof of service of the bar date order, using the local form (mandatory for all motions) (see Local Form F9013-3.1.PROOF.SERVICE), (ii) to lodge a proposed order excusing the untimely service of the bar date order, with a copy of this tentative ruling attached, and (iii) if necessary, apply for a supplemental bar date for any creditors who were not served with the bar date order, and lodge a proposed supplemental bar date order.

(d) Debtor's Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs")

Debtor appears to be having trouble complying with his obligations as a debtor in possession, including not paying prepetition debts. In addition, the October MOR (dkt.49) appears to show losses from most of Debtor's various businesses, and perilously low bank balances, even with the reduced dollar amount of the adequate protection payments to Beverly (less than the ongoing interest obligation). In addition, there is an internal inconsistency about postpetition adequate protection and/or lease payments: the October MOR (dkt.49, at PDF p.57 of 61) lists "0" postpetition payments not made (i.e., Debtor allegedly is postpetition current), but then the same table lists "Total Due" postpetition amounts of many thousands of dollars - which is it? Is Debtor postpetition current in payments to secured creditors and/or lessors, or not?

The tentative ruling is to direct Debtor (i) to confer with the Office of the United States Trustee and file whatever corrected MORs are necessary or appropriate, and (ii) to be prepared to address the foregoing issues at the continued status conference.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 8/30/19.

(a) Bar date: 12/13/19 (see Order, dkt.28; see above)

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD. Debtor must use the forms required by Judge Bason (DO NOT SERVE yet, except on the U.S. Trustee - this Court will set a deadline and procedures at a later time).

(c) Continued status conference: 12/17/19 at 1:00 p.m. (short continuance because Beverly's motion for relief from the automatic stay should be addressed soon). No written status report is required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Tentative Ruling for 10/1/19:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor(s) and by Debtor himself.

(1) Current issues

(a) Cash collateral motion

Grant (subject to this Court's standard conditions, see calendar no.1, 10/1/19 at 1:00 p.m.), provided that Debtor must address why this motion was not self-calendared for hearing until over a month after the petition date, and whether, meanwhile, has Debtor (i) been using cash collateral without authorization (in violation of 11 U.S.C. 363(c)) or (ii) not been using cash collateral, and hence failing to pay ordinary and necessary business and personal expenses, in violation of Debtor's duties to pay postpetition debts as they come due and preserve and maximize the value of the bankruptcy estate. 11 U.S.C. 1107(a) and 1108, and 28 U.S.C. 959(b). The tentative ruling is that, although this is not yet sufficient cause for appointment of a chapter 11 trustee or other remedies, it may factor into consideration of any such remedies in future.

appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 9/24/19:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor(s) and by Debtor himself.

(1) Current issues

(a) Budget Motion

Debtor's status report incorrectly states that a budget motion is not required by the presiding judge's procedures. Dkt. 20, p.3. See posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at cacb.uscourts.gov) (the "Bason Procedures") Section VII.G. In addition, a budget motion appears to be particularly important in this case because most of Debtor's income and expenses are effectively hidden and/or mis-reported.

Debtor's Bankruptcy Schedule I reports that he is an interior designer/hair stylist (dkt.22, at PDF p.27), his Statement Of Financial Affairs ("SOFA") lists various "dba" enterprises that might or might not reflect other business ventures, and Debtor apparently rents out some of his properties using Airbnb, but there is no breakdown of any of this. Contrary to the instructions on line 8a of Schedule I, debtor lists only a total net dollar amount for all businesses/properties combined - $22,598.00 per month - and fails to attach a statement for each business/property showing gross receipts, ordinary and necessary business expenses, and the calculation of net income. Also, in apparent contradiction of this alleged monthly net income, the SOFA (dkt. 22 at PDF p.31) lists gross income of $20,000 for the year to date (9 months), $7,875 for 2018, and $28,223 for 2017. (Perhaps Debtor listed monthly net income instead of yearly gross income - if so he must file a corrected SOFA.)

The tentative ruling is to direct Debtor to file an amended Schedule I and an amended SOFA, and to file and serve a budget motion and any other documents that are necessary or appropriate to correct the foregoing deficiencies, no later than 9/27/19.

(b) Bankruptcy Schedule G

Debtor lists no executory contracts or unexpired leases (dkt.22, at PDF p.24). What about Airbnb and/or other short-term or long-term rental arrangements? The tentative ruling is to direct Debtor to file an amended Schedule G no later than 9/27/19.

(c) Cash collateral

Even though this case was filed on 8/30/19, Debtor did not self-calendar his cash collateral motion for hearing until over a month later, on 10/1/19 at 1:00 p.m. Meanwhile, has Debtor (i) been using cash collateral without authorization (in violation of 11 U.S.C. 363(c)) or (ii) not been using cash collateral, and hence failing to pay ordinary and necessary business and personal expenses, in violation of Debtor's duties to pay postpetition debts as they come due and preserve and maximize the value of the bankruptcy estate. 11 U.S.C. 1107(a) and 1108, and 28 U.S.C. 959(b). The tentative ruling is that, although this is not yet sufficient cause for appointment of a chapter 11 trustee or other remedies, it may factor into consideration of any such remedies in future.

(d) Employment Application

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 9/27/19 for Debtor to file and serve local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTERESTED.PROF in support of Debtor's application to employ Eric Bensamochan as his bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 18). See Bason Procedures Section VII.D.

(1) Debtor/Defendant's motion to set aside entry of default (adv. dkt. 19), Plaintiff's opposition (adv. dkt. 25), and Debtor/Defendant's reply (adv. dkt. 26)

Deny without prejudice for the reasons set forth below.

The 9th Circuit employs a three-part test to determine whether or not "good cause" exists to set aside entry of default under Rule 55(c) (Fed. R. Civ. P.), made applicable in adversary proceedings by Rule 7055 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). The three factors are:

(1) whether [the party seeking to set aside the default] engaged in culpable conduct that led to the default; (2) whether [it] had [no] meritorious defense; or (3) whether reopening the default judgment would prejudice the other party. This standard is disjunctive, such that a finding that any one of the above factors is true is sufficient reason to refuse to set aside the default. Id.

(a) Whether Debtor engaged in culpable conduct that led to the default

Debtor provides three explanations for why she was not culpable - (1) her prior counsel withdrew on 8/6/19, shortly before her answer was due (on 8/14/19), and prior counsel never filed an answer, (2) a series of exigent personal matters, and (3) that she is not an attorney and is unfamiliar with the details and formalities of litigation deadlines. Adv. dkt. 19, p.4:11-14 and p.4:21-27.

Debtor did not file the instant motion (11/17/19) until almost three months after default was entered against her (8/20/19, adv. dkt. 9). See adv. dkt. 25, p.5:13-16. Debtor has not explained why the above three explanations excuse a three month delay in filing the motion. Was Debtor interviewing lawyers during that time? Debtor also does not provide any specific dates of her exigent personal matters that demonstrate there was a direct relationship between those events and Debtor's mental state at the time the answer was due. See adv. dkt. 25, p.6:10-12. For example, did Debtor visit a doctor or other professionals to address those exigent personal circumstances? While Debtor might not be an attorney familiar with litigation deadlines, immediately after default was entered she enlisted her state court attorney to assist in having the default set aside. Adv. dkt. 19, p.3:25-p.4:1. Was Debtor similarly aware of the answer deadline?

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not provided sufficient support for her explanations of how she did not engage in culpable conduct, which is sufficient grounds for denying her motion.

(b) Whether Debtor has meritorious defenses to the causes of action in the adversary proceeding

Debtor's motion explains that Debtor has meritorious defenses to the causes of action in the underlying state court action. Adv. dkt. 19, p.6:13-7:8. Plaintiff's opposition explains that Debtor's motion does not address defenses to Plaintiff's objections to dischargeability, which are the matters at issue in this adversary proceeding. Adv. dkt. 25, p.6:23-25. Debtor's reply states that because the state court actions have not been finally adjudicated, there is no debt owed to Plaintiff by Debtor that the court can make a determination on regarding dischargeability. Adv. dkt. 26, p.4:7-10.

Debtor is incorrect as to Debtor not owing Plaintiff a debt. Plaintiff's complaint explains that Plaintiff's fees and costs award was affirmed on appeal and the abstract of judgment was recorded on 7/19/18. Adv. dkt. 1, p.11, paras. 33-34. Plaintiff's complaint further alleges that Debtor's action to allegedly prevent collection of the judgment is grounds for denying Debtor her discharge under 11 U.S.C. 727. Id. at p.12, para. 44. Debtor's motion does not provide any meritorious defenses to this cause of action. Moreover, in order to defeat Plaintiff's cause of action on this issue, Debtor would need to meet the burden of proof for a motion for reconsideration. It appears Debtor would have a very difficult time meeting this standard, especially in light of Debtor's admission that the lien which eats up all the equity in Debtor's property that might otherwise be used to pay the judgment is a sham. See dkt. 142, p.3:1-3; adv. dkt. 25, p.7:26-p.8:1.

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not provided any meritorious defenses to that portion of the adversary proceeding, which is a sufficient ground to deny her motion as currently presented. The tentative ruling is that it is premature to address whether Debtor has meritorious defenses with respect to the remainder of the adversary proceeding, because that may be mooted by the issue- or claim-preclusive effect of the actions that are proceeding in nonbankruptcy court.

(c) Whether reopening the default judgment will prejudice

Plaintiff

Debtor argues that Plaintiff will not be prejudiced if this Court grants her requested relief because moving forward on the merits after "only a short delay" should not prejudice Plaintiff's ability to litigate her case. Adv. dkt. 19, p.7:10-22. Plaintiff says that she will be prejudiced because the history of Debtor's bankruptcy case evidences a pattern of fraudulent actions by Debtor to hinder Plaintiff's prosecution of the state court cases. Adv. dkt. 25, p.7:25-26.

While this Court agrees with Plaintiff that there appears to have been fraud re the $5 million recorded lien on Debtor's property, Plaintiff has not explained the basis for her assertion that now that Debtor is in bankruptcy the same sort of fraudulent behavior is likely to occur.

The tentative ruling is that granting Debtor's motion will not prejudice Plaintiff.

The tentative ruling is that while granting Debtor's motion may not prejudice Plaintiff, Debtor has not provided sufficient support for her explanations of how she did not engage in culpable conduct, and she has not explained what her meritorious defenses to the causes of action in this adversary proceeding are, so this Court is denying Debtor's motion without prejudice.

Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order entitled "Order On Initial Status Conference" via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling.

Preliminary matters: continuance

Plaintiff's Status Report notes (a) that a Clerk's Default was entered in this case on 8/20/19 (adv. dkt. 9) and (b) that she will either seek relief from the automatic stay to proceed with defamation actions in nonbankruptcy court and/or seek a default judgment in this adversary proceeding. The tentative ruling is to continue this Status Conference as set forth below, at which time this Court can assess what progress has been made on those issues. Note: In addition, this Court will hold a Status Conference concurrent with any other hearing in this adversary proceeding (including any self-calendared hearings).

Standard matters

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

Plaintiff is directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. #25.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Post Confirmation
fr. 11/12/19

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Revised Tentative Ruling for 2/18/20:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

Current issues

As set forth in this Court's order setting this hearing (dkt.129), Debtor did not file her status report or appear at the post-confirmation hearing on 11/12/19, as required by the Confirmation Order (dkt. 117). Debtor belatedly filed a status report (dkt.131, filed 12/6/19) from which it appears that, by then, Debtor was current in her obligations under her confirmed Plan.

Debtor is directed to address why she did not file a timely status report or appear at the prior scheduled status conference, and when she expects to file an application for a final decree. Meanwhile, the tentative ruling is to continue this status conference to 6/30/20 at 1:00 p.m., with no written status report required, and with the expectation this Court will issue a final decree before then and then that status conference will go off calendar.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

Revised Tentative Ruling for 2/18/20:

Grant the motion (docket no. 11) on an interim basis, subject to the following conditions. Appearances required.

Conditions

(i) Debtor must provide proof of service of the motion papers and this Court's order shortening time ("OST," dkt.14) as directed in the OST, including expedited service on any persons asserting an interest in cash collateral, such that the papers would be received no later than 2/13/20 at noon.

reference (including the docket number of the document), subject to any modification by this Court.

(b) Timing. Lodge the proposed order within 7 days after the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Minimum adequate protection

In addition to the postpetition security interests that are automatically provided pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 552 (e.g., in traceable proceeds and profits), and subject to any more comprehensive protection that may be included in the motion or related papers, Debtor shall provide at least the following protection to any creditor with a security interest in the subject property (pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 361-364, as applicable):

(a) Insurance. For all collateral of a type that typically is insured (e.g., real property and improvements), Debtor is directed to maintain insurance in a dollar amount at least equal to Debtor's good faith estimate of the value of such creditor's interest in the collateral, and such insurance shall name such creditor as an additional insured. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments for such insurance.

(b) Taxes. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments on account of postpetition real estate taxes (to the extent that real estate is part of the collateral).

(c) Disclosures/access. Debtor is directed to provide, upon such creditor's reasonable request, periodic accountings of the foregoing insurance and tax obligations and payments, as well as postpetition proceeds, products, offspring, or profits from the collateral, including gross revenues and expenses and a calculation of net revenues, including any rents and any fees, charges, accounts, or other payments for the use or occupancy of rooms and other public facilities in lodging properties (as all of the foregoing terms are used in 11 U.S.C. 552). Debtor is directed to provide appropriate documentation of those accountings, and access for purposes of inspection or appraisal.

(3) Limitation on postpetition liens

In the event that the motion or related papers seek authority to grant postpetition liens to the creditor(s) with respect to prepetition debts any such liens shall be limited to the same validity, priority, and amount as prepetition liens. phrase that may be used by the parties or this Court is deemed to include the following:

(a) Extent. Such liens shall be limited to the type of collateral in which the creditor held a security interest as of the petition date, unless this order expressly states that the liens granted by this order are intended to attach to different types of collateral from the prepetition collateral. For example, if prepetition liens extended to inventory and accounts receivable but not equipment then postpetition liens are likewise limited (unless otherwise expressly provided by order of this Court). In addition, postpetition liens shall not extend to the proceeds of any avoidance actions, any recoveries under 11 U.S.C. 506(c), or any "carveout" under 11 U.S.C. 552.

(b) Priority. Such liens shall be limited to the same priority as the security interest held by the creditor as of the petition date.

(c) Dollar amount. Such liens shall be limited to the dollar amount needed to protect the creditor against diminution in the value of the secured claims as of the petition date.

(d) Enforceability. Such liens shall be limited to the extent that the creditor's security interests were duly perfected and valid as of the petition date, and to the extent that they are unavoidable.

(e) Automatic postpetition perfection. Any automatic perfection of such liens shall be subject to any applicable limitations regarding the Court's authority, jurisdiction, or due process.

(4) Automatic disapproval of insufficiently disclosed provisions

Any provision of the type listed in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or in local form F4001-2 (e.g., cross-collateralization) or any waiver of the "equities of the case" exception in 11 U.S.C. 552(b)(2) shall be deemed automatically disapproved and excepted from any order granting the motion, notwithstanding any other provision of such order, unless either: (a) such provision is specifically and prominently disclosed in the motion papers in a checklist (such as local form F4001-2), or alternatively (b) such provision is specifically identified in any proposed order granting the motion, using terminology of the type used in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or local form F4001-2 (e.g., any "cross-collateralization" that is not specifically identified as such is deemed to be disapproved).

Tentative Ruling for 8/6/19 [N/A: continued to 8/20/19 at 2:00 p.m. by this Court]

Tentative Ruling for 7/2/19:

At the 6/4/19 hearing this Court took the Motion for Summary Judgment (adv. dkt. 98) under submission and anticipates issuing an order at a later time.

Tentative Ruling for 6/4/19:

[No tentative ruling was posted]

Tentative Ruling for 5/21/19:

Appearances are not required on 5/21/19. The tentative ruling is to continue the hearings in these related adversary proceedings (calendar no. 13 & 14, 5/21/19) to the date of the continued status conference (see below).

(1) Current issues

The tentative ruling on the Motion to Compel (dkt. 104) and the Order to Show Cause ("OSC," dkt. 107) is to continue these matters as requested in the response of Aston Business Solutions, Inc. (dkt. 110, 111). This Court contemplates that the deadlines for completion of discovery and other matters will need to be extended, and the parties are directed to meet and confer and, if they can agree to new deadlines, lodge a proposed order. If they cannot agree, this Court anticipates setting new deadlines at the continued status conference.

(2) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

Matters of venue, jurisdiction, and authority have been determined and/or waived or forfeited (adv. dkt. 6, 11, 24).

(3) Deadlines

Supplemental Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

The original tentative ruling (below) provides two inconsistent dates for a continued status conference: 4/30/19 at 11:00 a.m., 4/7/19 at 11:00 a.m. The latter [should be "former"] is correct. No status report required.

Tentative Ruling for 4/9/19:

Deny the motion to quash (with the possible exception of one aspect), address procedural issues, and then continue this Status Conference, all as set forth below. Appearances required.

Current issues:

Please see the tentative ruling for the main case status conference (calendar no. 10, 4/9/19 at 11:00 a.m.)

Business Solutions, Inc. ("ABS") is unpersuasive, except perhaps for limitations as to time, which the parties are directed to address at the hearing.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(A) Analysis re motion to quash

ABS asserts only vague objections:

(1) Competitors?

ABS asserts that it and Plaintiff are competitors. How so?

The motion does not even disclose ABS' business. Is it a timeshare owner? Is it a timeshare operator? Is it something else? (As noted below, this Court expects that it has gleaned the answer from other documents, but the tentative ruling is that this lack of even such basic information in the motion is fatal to this argument.)

(2) Protected information?

ABS alleges that some sort of trade secrets or other confidential, privileged, or other type of protected information is involved. What sort of information? Why would a traditional privilege log and other tools be inadequate?

ABS complains that parties in interest in this bankruptcy case have shared information. But ABS fails to point to any prohibition on sharing information.

(3) Burden?

ABS alleges that the requested discovery is unduly burdensome. How so? Is it stored in thousands of boxes of paper files that are difficult to reach and review for some reason?

(4) Vagueness and overbreadth?

ABS alleges that the discovery requests are vague and overbroad. How so? ABS fails to provide any explanation or evidence to support this allegations.

(5) Discussion

Based on a question (not an answer) in excerpts from the deposition of ABS' President and shareholder, Glenn Chaffin, ABS may be a marketing company for "timeshare exit companies." Adv. dkt. 84, Ex.1 (Depo. Tr. 1/24/19), p.95:22-23. But how does that make ABS a "competitor" of Plaintiff, with information that would constitute trade secrets, as opposed to a facilitator of (possibly) legitimate ways to exit timeshares, who sends out non-secret flyers and other publicly known marketing materials, and assists timeshare members in navigating contracts that are known to all the parties?

Such a facilitator theoretically could benefit Plaintiff, by replacing non-paying or troubled members with paying ones - unless, of course, ABS engages in acts that improperly interfere with contractual relations or otherwise assists in the wrongdoing of which Plaintiff accuses Defendants. Plaintiff's discovery appears to be targeted at discovering information that could lead to admissible evidence on this and other relevant issues. Accordingly, the discovery appears to be entirely proper and appropriate, with the possible exception of the movant's request to impose some limitations as to time, which the parties are directed to address at the hearing.

judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See *generally Stern v. See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this court should not formalize the fact that the pending mediation includes this adversary proceeding by issuing an order to mediate this matter together with related adversary proceeding (2:17-ap-01229-NB)? The tentative ruling is to direct counsel for the defendants to lodge a proposed order to that effect.

Chapter 13

#2.00 Hrg re: Motion to Avoid Lien under
11 U.S.C. section 522(f) (real property)

Docket 18

Tentative Ruling:

Deny, because Debtor improperly includes costs of sale (estimated at 8%), and if those are not included then the subject lien does not impair Debtor's homestead exemption, even using Debtor's valuation and other numbers.
Appearances are not required.

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Opposition papers (dkt.22, 23) of Reape-Rickett, P.C. ("Lienholder"); Debtor's notice of hearing (dkt. 27). No reply is on file

Current issues

(1) Costs of sale are not proper deductions

Under 11 U.S.C. 506(a)(1), the value of property "shall be determined in light of ... the proposed disposition or use of such property ...." Debtor proposes to retain the property at issue, not sell it, so it is inappropriate to deduct costs of sale. See In re Case, 115 B.R. 666, 669-70 (9th Cir. BAP 1990) (unlike "adequate protection" calculation, which can include costs of sale, "when the debtor plans to retain the property, selling costs should not be deducted from the fair market value of the property when valuing the creditor's interest in the property").

(2) Without deducting costs of sale, Debtor's own figures require denial of the motion

Debtor values the property at $480,000.00 (before deducting costs of sale). Debtor asserts that the balances owed on the first and second liens are $351,157.48 and $33,694.75, plus a homestead exemption of $75,000, for a total of $459,852.23. That total is less than $480,000.00, so the lien cannot be avoided under the formula in 11 U.S.C. 522(f)(2)(A).

#6.00 Hrg re: Motion to Commence Loan
Modification Management Program (LMM)

Docket 34

Tentative Ruling:

Deny. Appearances are not required.

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Opposition (dkt.49);
Reply (dkt.57).

Debtor has not cited any authority that this Court has the power to compel lenders (if they timely object) to grant loan modifications or to participate in a loan modification program ("LMM"). Alternatively, even if this Court had any discretion to require participation on the LMM program, Debtor has not established that ordering such participation would be appropriate in this case: the lender objects that it has determined that Debtor is ineligible for (a second, voluntary) reduction of the amounts that Debtor is legally obligated to pay. So if this Court were to order participation in the LMM program, it appears that would only cause delay and added expense.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Docket 20

Tentative Ruling:

Deny. Appearances are not required.

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Opposition (dkt.22);
Reply (dkt.24).

Debtor has not cited any authority that this Court has the power to compel lenders (if they timely object) to grant loan modifications or to participate in a loan modification program ("LMM"). Alternatively, even if this Court had any discretion to require participation on the LMM program, Debtor has not established that ordering such participation would be appropriate in this case: the lender objects that it has determined that Debtor was already reviewed, did not meet investor guidelines, and Debtor has not established a change in circumstances. So if this Court were to order participation in the LMM program, it appears that would only cause delay and added expense.

Docket 23

Tentative Ruling:

Continue to 3/26/20 at 8:30 a.m. to address the following issues.
Appearances are not required on 2/27/20.

Reasons:

Lack of cost/benefit analysis. The posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) provide:

§ 502: claim objections & cost/benefit analysis. When objecting to claims, be sure to include an analysis of whether the costs of preparing and litigating the claim objection (administrative expenses) do not exceed the anticipated benefits (reductions in claims). For example, if the anticipated dividend is small or 0% then the attorney fees incurred in prosecuting your claim objection to any general unsecured claim probably will exceed the benefit to the bankruptcy estate/debtor, so filing that objection would be a waste of the bankruptcy estate's (and everyone else's) resources (unless, for example, the claim is nondischargeable, in which event the attorney fees might well be justified).

No later than 7 days after the date of this hearing the movant must file either:

(1) a supplemental declaration explaining why the attorney fees for this objection are justified (including supporting evidence, such as a copy of the plan showing the projected dividend to the claimant, and a calculation comparing that projected dividend against the attorney fees related to this claim objection), or

(2) a withdrawal of the claim objection.

No fees on this matter, absent specific authorization. Counsel is directed not to charge any fees on this matter (including all past, present and future work related to this claim objection), and to return any fees received on this matter, unless and until this Court expressly finds: "Counsel has provided a cost/benefit analysis that is sufficient for purposes of Judge Bason's posted Procedures regarding claim objections." It is counsel's responsibility to include the quoted phrase, if warranted, in the proposed order on this claim objection.

This Court does not have the capacity to monitor all fee applications to assure compliance with the foregoing limitation on fees. But if counsel is found to have disregarded this limitation then this Court may impose sanctions.

§ 502: claim objections & cost/benefit analysis. When objecting to claims, be sure to include an analysis of whether the costs of preparing and litigating the claim objection (administrative expenses) do not exceed the anticipated benefits (reductions in claims). For example, if the anticipated dividend is small or 0% then the attorney fees incurred in prosecuting your claim objection to any general unsecured claim probably will exceed the benefit to the bankruptcy estate/debtor, so filing that objection would be a waste of the bankruptcy estate's (and everyone else's) resources (unless, for example, the claim is nondischargeable, in which event the attorney fees might well be justified).

No later than 7 days after the date of this hearing the movant must file either:

(1) a supplemental declaration explaining why the attorney fees for this objection are justified (including supporting evidence, such as a copy of the plan showing the projected dividend to the claimant, and a calculation comparing that projected dividend against the attorney fees related to this claim objection), or

(2) a withdrawal of the claim objection.

No fees on this matter, absent specific authorization. Counsel is directed not to charge any fees on this matter (including all past, present and future work related to this claim objection), and to return any fees received on this matter,

It is counsel's responsibility to include the quoted phrase, if warranted, in the proposed order on this claim objection.

Chapter 13

#14.00 Hrg re: Motion to Set Aside as Void the Foreclosure Sale of Subject Property as a Violation of the Automatic Stay

Docket 20

Tentative Ruling:

The tentative ruling is to deny the motion for the reasons set forth below.
Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Reasons for denial:

(1) Background

Debtor's motion (the "Stay Violation Motion") seeks an order setting aside a foreclosure sale of property at 10504 Victory Blvd., Los Angeles, California (the "Property") - or determining that the sale was void - because Debtor asserts that the sale was conducted in violation of the automatic stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(1), (3) and (6). Dkt.20, pp.8:6-10 & 11:4-13. Debtor also seeks an award of attorney fees and costs against creditor Community West Bank, N.A. ("Bank") and the foreclosing trustee under the deed of trust, SBS Trust Deed Network ("Foreclosure Trustee") (collectively, "Creditors"), pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 105(a) and this Court's inherent civil contempt and sanctioning authority, as well as an order directing Creditors to take steps to unwind the foreclosure sale. Id. at pp.9:14-11:13.

The sequence of key events is as follows. On 11/8/19 Debtor filed his bankruptcy petition. Dkt.1. Also on 11/8/19, Debtor faxed a notice (the "Fax Notice") to Foreclosure Trustee referencing Debtor's bankruptcy case and stating, "Please stop the sale" of the Property (and two other properties). Dkt.20, p.16, para.3, & Ex.15, at PDF p.82. On 11/11/19, according to Debtor's attorney's declaration, his office telephoned Foreclosure Trustee, providing further notice of the bankruptcy case. Dkt.20, p.16, para.3.

On 11/13/19, Foreclosure Trustee conducted a foreclosure sale of the Property. The Property was purchased by a third party purchaser, Balcor, LLC (the "Purchaser"). Dkt.30, Ex.J.

On 11/21/19 Debtor filed his bankruptcy Schedules A and D, which were the first papers filed in this bankruptcy case to reveal that Debtor asserted an interest in the Property. See dkt.13, at PDF p.7, 16. The problem for Debtor is that, as he admits, record title to the Property was held by Debtor's corporation ("Laundromat"), and the debt was owed by Laundromat, not Debtor individually.

Debtor asserts that he had an equitable interest in the Property because among other things he regularly paid Laundromat's business debts. It is also undisputed that Debtor was a guarantor of Laundromat's debt to Bank. The main question is whether those things are enough to make the automatic stay applicable.

In addition, if the automatic stay did apply (despite the tentative ruling, below, that it does not apply), then the question would be whether there are grounds to annul the stay. Bank argues that it and others have acted without notice of any applicability of the automatic stay, and would be prejudiced if the stay were applied.

Specifically, Bank points out that nothing on the bankruptcy docket reflected Debtor's alleged interest in the Property before the foreclosure sale, and after the foreclosure sale Bank reconveyed its deeds of trust on two other properties that had secured Debtor's guaranty of Laundromat's debt to Bank, all before Debtor filed and served his Stay Violation Motion. In addition, Bank asserts that Purchaser has obtained its own loan, from Fleet Capital, Inc. ("New Lender"), secured by a new deed of trust on the Property. Dkt.30, p.4:3-15.

(2) Procedural issues

This Court notes two procedural issues. The tentative ruling is that the first is not dispositive, but the second is.

First, the Stay Violation Motion does not follow the usual procedure of requesting an order to show cause ("OSC") why the alleged violation of the automatic stay should not be subject to sanctions. See In re Dyer, 322 F.3d 1178 (9th Cir. 2003). By proceeding straight to a motion seeking sanctions and other relief, Debtor has bypassed the procedural protection of this Court's initial review and decision whether or not to issue an OSC. But Creditors have not objected on that basis, and this Court is not aware of any prejudice from the procedure used by Debtor, so the tentative ruling is that this procedural irregularity is implicitly waived, or is forfeited. See In re Hamer, 138 S.Ct. 13, 17 n.1 (2017) (distinguishing forfeiture and waiver).

Second, Debtor did not serve the Stay Violation Motion on Purchaser or New Lender. See dkt.20, at PDF pp.18-19. True, on 1/24/20 Debtor served a notice of the motion on Purchaser (see dkt.24, pp.3-4), so Purchaser had notice and easily could have obtained a copy of the Stay Violation Motion. But there is no evidence that New Lender has received any such notice.

The tentative ruling is that Purchaser has implicitly waived, or has forfeited, any opposition on grounds of lack of proper service, by not responding to the notice of the Stay Violation Motion. But as to New Lender the tentative ruling is that unwinding the foreclosure sale or otherwise prejudicing New Lender's interests in the Property would violate due process. Accordingly, this is one ground for denying the Stay Violation Motion (such denial would be without prejudice; but as set forth below the other problems with the motion may be insurmountable).

(3) The automatic stay

The provisions of the automatic stay cited by Debtor provide, in relevant part:

(a) ... a [bankruptcy] petition ... operates as a stay, applicable to all entities, of -

(1) ... a judicial, administrative, or other action or proceeding against the debtor that was or could have been commenced before [the petition date], or to recover a claim against the debtor that arose before the commencement of the [bankruptcy] case ...;

...
(3) any act to obtain possession of property of the estate or of property from the estate or to exercise control over property of the estate;

...
(6) any act to collect, assess, or recover a claim against the debtor that arose before the commencement of the case under this title ... [11 U.S.C. Section 362(a)(1), (3) & (6) (emphasis added)]

Chapter 13

(4) No property interest

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not established, by clear and convincing evidence, the existence of a resulting trust under California law. Nor has he established any other cognizable legal or equitable interest in the Property.

Under 11 U.S.C. 541(a)(1), property of the estate includes "all legal or equitable interests of the debtor in property as of the commencement of the case" (with inapplicable exceptions). There is no dispute that legal title to the Property was in the name of the Laundromat, and the loan documents and deed of trust were in the Laundromat's name (dkt. 30, Ex. A and B). Whether Debtor nevertheless had an equitable interest in the Property is an issue governed by state law. See In re Sale Guar. Corp., 220 B.R. 660, 664 (9th Cir. BAP 1998).

Under California law, "a resulting trust arises from a transfer of property under circumstances showing that the transferee was not intended to take the beneficial interest." Id. (internal citation and quotation omitted). The party claiming a resulting trust in property has the burden of proof, and must establish their interest by "clear and convincing" evidence. In re Cecconi, 366 B.R. 83, 115 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2007) (citing Gomez v. Cecena, 15 Cal.3d 363, 366-67 (1940)).

Debtor argues that a "resulting trust" exists based on his assumption of the "benefits and burdens of ownership" of the property. See dkt. 20, p.8:11-14. But, first, there is no evidence of "a transfer of property" from Debtor to Laundromat, which is an essential element to establish a "resulting" trust. Sale Guar. Corp., 220 B.R. 660, 664.

Second, even if that element were established (which it is not), Debtor's remaining evidence of any resulting trust is not "clear and convincing." Although Debtor alleges that it was the intent of both the corporation and Debtor that he would retain "all important incidents of ownership," there is no evidence of that except his payment from his individual bank accounts of the mortgage and property taxes, and the tentative ruling is that this is not, by itself, clear and convincing evidence. Dkt.20, p.8:15-26.

This Court takes judicial notice that it is not uncommon for the owners of closely held corporations to have some mixing of individual and business transactions; but that common pattern does not mean that in all such cases the business' property is the debtor's. Consider what that would mean in this case: Would Debtor take the position that the Property was his, not the Laundromat's, if, for example, an environmental toxic waste plume were found to have emanated from the Property? This rhetorical question illustrates that Debtor's evidence of any equitable ownership of the Property is far from "clear and convincing."

This Court recognizes that Debtor conceivably could assert alternative grounds for some sort of equitable interest in the Property. But Debtor has not done so, and it is not immediately apparent to this Court how any attempt to do so would be any more successful. In other words, Debtor's evidence probably cannot satisfy the high bar that generally applies to establishing such equitable interests.

In sum, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has not provided sufficient evidence and authority to establish an equitable interest in the Property. So to the extent that the automatic stay depends on Debtor or the bankruptcy estate having a property interest, the Stay Violation Motion must be denied.

(5) No violation of the automatic stay by acts against a non-debtor, or a non-debtor's property

With certain limited exceptions, such as the co-debtor stay in Chapter 13 cases, the automatic stay does not protect non-debtors or extend to property of non-debtors. See In re Levine, 583 B.R. 231, 236 (C.D. Cal. 2018); In re Chugach Forest Products, Inc., 23 F.3d 241, 246 (9th Cir. 1994). "A strict reading of Section 362(a)(6) indicates that it stays acts to recover a 'claim' against the debtor, and not a debt owed by the debtor." In re Torrez, 132 B.R. 924, 943 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. 1991); see also In re Advanced Ribbons and Office Products, Inc., 125 B.R. 259, 264 (9th Cir. BAP 1991) (concluding that a foreclosure sale on debtor's sole shareholder's stock pledged as security for a debt was not a violation of Section 362(a)(6) because the sale involved the collection of a claim against the property rather than collection of a claim against the debtor).

Debtor cites no authority for the proposition that foreclosing on non-debtor property to satisfy an obligation on which the non-debtor is the primary obligor violates the automatic stay. The authority cited above provides that acts to collect from a non-debtor or the non-debtor's property are not construed as acts against a debtor, even if that debtor is a guarantor of the non-debtor's debts. Therefore the tentative ruling is to deny the remaining aspects of the Stay Violation Motion.

Chapter 13

(6) Alternatively, retroactive annulment of the automatic stay would be appropriate under the circumstances

The tentative ruling is that even if there were a violation of the automatic stay (which there is not), it would be appropriate to annul the automatic stay. See In re Fjeldsted, 293 B.R. 12 (9th Cir. BAP 2003); and see also In re Williams, 323 B.R. 691, 697-702 (9th Cir. BAP 2005) (various issues involving annulment, and application of Fjeldsted), aff'd, 204 Fed.Appx. 582 (9th Cir. 2006), overruled on other issues, In re Perl, 811 F.3d 1120 (9th Cir. 2016) (scope of automatic stay).

First, Debtor has not established that Creditors had notice prior to the foreclosure sale of the grounds on which Debtor asserts that the automatic stay applied to protect the Property. Second, Creditors' and other parties' rights would be unduly prejudiced by applying the stay.

Bank has released its liens on two other properties. Any attempt to reimpose those liens, or Bank's lien on the Property, would expose Bank to risks. Bank would be exposed to the risk of any alleged intervening liens or interests, such as those of New Lender. Bank would also be exposed to the alleged interests of any person who, like Debtor, alleges an unrecorded interest.

Purchaser has invested time and money in acquiring the Property. Purchaser has also become indebted to New Lender.

New Lender has invested time and money in making its loan. It has also recorded a deed of trust against the Property.

Debtor has not established how to "unscramble the eggs" so as to protect and compensate all of these parties, let alone that it would be appropriate to unwind the foreclosure sale in the face of so much reliance on the lack of any notice of the automatic stay. Therefore the tentative ruling is that, even if the stay had applied (which it did not), it would be appropriate to grant retroactive relief by annulling the stay.

(7) Conclusion

For the foregoing reasons the tentative ruling is that the Stay Violation Motion must be denied. In addition, the tentative ruling is that, because it does not appear that any amendment of the motion could cure the problems

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Debtor's response (dkt. 67), Opposition of Yunuen Campos (dkt. 68), Debtor's supplemental response (dkt. 69)

Reasons: At a hearing on 9/19/19, this Court was persuaded not to dismiss Debtor's case and to give Debtor additional time to attempt to address the issues in this case on the condition that Debtor keep making his plan payments and, in the event of dismissal, those funds would be turned over to Ms. Campos, as a contemporaneous exchange for her agreement not to go after his accounts receivable while the parties attempted to settle their disputes (see dkt. 64, Ex. #1.00 Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

Current issues

The following tentative rulings are subject to any opposition and other persuasive argument at the hearing:

(1) Background: church solvency, and governance disputes

Debtor appears to be very solvent, but alleges cash flow problems. Those problems appear to be intertwined with governance disputes.

(a) Solvency

Debtor's bankruptcy petition and list of 20 largest general unsecured creditors ("GUCs") (dkt. 1, 11) list very few GUCs, with total claims of under $896,000. Debtor's "first day" motions allege that it owns 1218 South Fairfax Ave., Los Angeles, California (the "Property"), which Debtor estimates is worth between $17 and $18 million and is only encumbered by a first deed of trust lien of approximately $630,000 in favor of Commonwealth Business Bank (the "Bank").

Debtor alleges that its cash flow problems arise from a prepetition dispute with LA Open Door Presbyterian Church ("LA Open Door"), which was a lessee from Debtor under a lease that Debtor alleges was terminated prepetition after months of non-payment. LA Open Door is also subject to a final judgment of approximately $3 million in favor of Evangelical Christian Credit Union ("Evangelical CU"). Debtor reports that Evangelical CU obtained appointment of a receiver over LA Open Door, Thomas Seaman (the "Receiver"), but that LA Open Door has been uncooperative with the Receiver. All of this allegedly has exacerbated Debtor's cash flow problems.

(b) Governance issues

Debtor has no board of directors, but asserts that it is governed by certain elders known as the "Session," which Debtor alleges is analogous to a corporate board of directors. See dkt.16 (the "Plan Procedures Motion"), p.4:1-3. Debtor acknowledges that there is a governance dispute among, on the one side, Debtor's Session and religious leaders associated with the Session and, on the other side LA Open Door, The Western Presbytery of the Hapdong in USA ("Hapdong"), and their associated religious leaders.

Debtor proposes to sell the Property, pay all creditors in full, and have the surplus available "for distribution to the litigating parties who claim to be the true spokespersons of the Debtor, with such funds to be held by a professional third party fiduciary until such litigation has either concluded or the parties resolve their differences." Dkt.16, p.11:1-6. That approach (selling property now, and arguing about the proceeds later) is a common and effective tool in bankruptcy cases. But the twist in this case is that it is unclear who has legal title to the Property and who has authority to authorize the sale of the Property.

In terms of legal title, this Court takes judicial notice that in bankruptcy cases filed by churches of other religions/denominations there have been disputes about whether "church" property is owned by the worshipers, the leadership of a local church, a single church official in the capacity of a "corporation sole," or some other form. Debtor's papers do not address that issue.

In terms of who has authority to authorize a sale of the Property, Debtor alleges that it had discussions with LA Open Door about a possible merger but called off those discussions in August of 2019. Debtor acknowledges, however, that "LA [Open Door] asserted that the Debtor and LA [Open Door] were already 'one' church under LA [Open Door's] leadership." Dkt.15, p.2:21-24 (emphasis added). In addition, Debtor acknowledges that, although LA Open Door allegedly was supposed to occupy only 60% of the Property under the terms of the lease, instead it had been occupying 100%, and has attempted to become the "de facto owner" of the Property. Dkt.16, p.2, n.1 (emphasis added).

In other words, at least in the past, it was hotly disputed who properly controls both Debtor and the Property. The leadership of LA Open Door apparently claimed to control both, and perhaps Hapdong asserted some control, although its role is not described in Debtor's papers.

Nor is it clear what role, if any, is played by the worshipers at the various church organizations. Do Debtor's worshipers have the power to control the disposition of the Property and/or to replace Debtor's Session and/or its individual leaders? Would Debtor's worshipers oppose a sale of the Property, and prefer to lease it or some other approach, based on capital gains taxes or other considerations? Do LA Open Door's and Hapdong's worshipers have any interests at stake? Is it even clear whether a given worshiper belongs to Debtor's congregation or to LA Open Door's and/or Hapdong's?

Perhaps these governance issues have been partially or fully resolved in the nonbankruptcy courts. Debtor reports that on 11/6/19 it commenced an action against LA Open Door entitled Korean Western Presbyterian Church of Los Angeles v. Jong Suk Choi et al. (LA Superior Ct., Case No. 19STCV40062) (the "LA Open Door Litigation"). Debtor reports that the Superior Court has enjoined LA Open Door and others from interfering with Debtor's use of the Property as set forth in its lease with LA Open Door. See dkt.16, p.10:7-14. But, again, Debtor does not describe the situation with Hapdong, and it is unclear whether Debtor's worshipers have any say in these matters.

Based on (i) all of the above-described property ownership and governance issues and (ii) possible assertions that LA Open Door and Debtor have merged or otherwise might be liable for one another's debts, all parties are directed to address whether notice of all of the matters on today's calendar must be provided to various types of persons who have not already been served. In the broadest scenario, perhaps notice should be provided to all worshipers and all creditors of (i) Debtor and also (ii) LA Open Door and Hapdong. The parties are directed to address the scope of notice that may be necessary or appropriate.

(c) Possible difficulties identifying creditors or worshipers, and possible limits on the need for such notice

This Court recognizes that providing notice to a wide range of parties in interest might be difficult, and also might be legally unnecessary. For example, the Receiver for LA Open Door might have supplanted the leaders of that entity, and even its worshipers, on a wide range of governance issues.

But the Receiver's control appears to be limited to collection of revenues, obtaining financial information, and related matters, not sale or other disposition of the Property. In addition, if the Receiver has any potential role in these proceedings, it is unclear if the Receiver would need to apply to the Superior Court for directions, and how principles of comity and respect for the Superior Court's jurisdiction should be applied in this situation.

As for identifying creditors and worshipers, the Receiver's Report regarding LA Open Door (dkt.16, Ex.4, p.2:7-10, at PDF p.33) alleges that the Receiver provided notice to various banks and an "internet giving portal" for LA Open Door. The Receiver reports that in response to requests to turn over funds he received only a single check, from Hanin Federal Credit Union ("Hanin CU") (dkt.16, Ex.4, p.2:10-13, at PDF p.33), and that he received little to no cooperation from the leadership of LA Open Door or its worshipers. According to the Receiver, at the end of various LA Open Door services that he attended its worshipers gave hardly anything to that entity, despite having given generously in the past.

In sum, based on the Receiver's report and Debtor's papers, it may be difficult to identify names and addresses for worshipers or creditors. But the parties are directed to address whether it is necessary or appropriate to direct Debtor to attempt to do so, including but not limited to (i) attempting to communicate to worshipers through the "internet giving portals" for Debtor, LA Open Door, and/or Hapdong, and (ii) attempting to identify creditors through discovery or other mechanisms.

(d) Conclusion as to governance issues

Debtor has served the motions that are the subject of this hearing in accordance with this Court's order shortening time ("OST," dkt. 19), except for one creditor served within a couple of hours after the time directed in the OST, and the tentative ruling to that this is sufficient. See dkt.26, 28. Nevertheless, before this Court can authorize the sale of the Property, and retention of professionals by Debtor in furtherance of any such sale, it is important to consider whether Debtor's present leadership is authorized to seek those things, and whether other persons might be entitled to oppose or support those things, and therefore whether they should receive notice.

Because of these concerns, all of the tentative rulings set forth below are subject to the possibility that, before this Court authorizes anything, more notice must be given.

(2) Debtor's application to employ bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 13); statement of disinterestedness (dkt. 14)

Debtor seeks to employ SulmeyerKupetz, a Professional Corporation ("Attorneys") as its general bankruptcy counsel. The tentative ruling is to grant the application and authorize Attorneys' employment, subject to the caveats stated above, including any arguments and evidence presented at the hearing, and the possibility of not adopting this tentative ruling at this time but instead continuing this hearing to provide more notice.

(3) Debtor's application to employ chief restructuring officer (dkt. 15)

Debtor seeks to employ Broadway Advisors, LLC ("Broadway"), and its principal Alfred M. Masse, as its financial advisor and Chief Restructuring Officer ("CRO"). Debtor seeks to provide Broadway with "sole decision-making authority with respect to the sale of the Property." Dkt.16, p.10:3-4.

The tentative ruling is that Broadway cannot be its own supervisor, and that provisions in its proposed employment agreement that appear to be to the contrary will be disapproved. For example, the proposed agreement with Broadway requires that it be indemnified as both a director and an officer. See dkt.15, Ex.1, p.3, para. 9 (at PDF p.19)). Debtor and Broadway should be prepared to provide more information on the decision-making and oversight being proposed.

Subject to the caveats above (again, considering any arguments and evidence presented at the hearing, and possibly providing more notice before making any final decision), the tentative ruling is to authorize Broadway to act as CRO, subject to the posted Procedures of Judge Bason regarding terms of employment (e.g., notwithstanding any arbitration provision, this Court will retain jurisdiction in the first instance over any employment/compensation issues).

The tentative ruling is that the authorization for Broadway to act as CRO should include sole decision-making authority with respect to the sale of the Property, except that any proposed sale must be subject to notice and a hearing, with an opportunity for Debtor's leadership and any other parties in interest to object.

(4) Debtor's application to employ real estate broker (dkt. 25)

Debtor proposes to employ Jones Lang Lasalle ("Broker") as its real estate broker to sell the Property. Debtor states that it has consented to Broker representing potential purchasers (dkt. 25, p. 2: 14-15).

Subject to the caveats above (again, considering any arguments and evidence presented at the hearing, and possibly providing more notice before making any final decision), the tentative ruling is to grant the motion, with the following additional caveat. Notwithstanding any provision in the employment application or proposed agreement to the contrary, the tentative ruling is that Judge Bason's standard terms apply (unless struck through) as follows:

(a) employment is per 11 U.S.C. § 327 not § 328; (b) payment only per 11 U.S.C. § 330(a) – no lien or superpriority claim is allowed (except as explicitly allowed – e.g., realtor commissions on court-approved sales); (c) maximum 2 hours per day of non-working time (e.g., travel, or waiting for matter to be called) absent an adequate explanation; (d) no buyers' premium for auctioneers; (e) no dual agency; (f) all matters relating to the professional's engagement, compensation and costs shall be resolved in this court, notwithstanding any provisions for arbitration, choice of venue, or the like, and (g) any indemnification, limitation of damages or the like is ineffective. See generally In re Circle K Corp., 279 F.3d 669 (9th Cir. 2002) and 11 U.S.C. § 327(a) (professionals may not "hold or represent an interest adverse to the estate").

(5) Plan Procedures Motion (dkt. 16)

Before these hearings commence, Debtor hopes to file certain plan-related documents. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, those documents have not been filed.

Debtor requests that it be excused from using the local forms of Plan and Disclosure Statement, and instead that it be authorized to file and serve a combined disclosure statement and plan (collectively, the "Plan"). Debtor requests authority to serve a two-page "Executive Summary" in Korean and English in lieu of serving a full copy of the Plan (but with the Plan available upon request). Debtor also requests that this Court set a combined hearing on (i) final approval of the disclosures in the Plan and (ii) confirmation of the Plan. In addition, Debtor seeks such a hearing on approximately 30 days' notice.

In sum, Debtor and requests (a) streamlined procedures and (b) expedited procedures. The tentative ruling is that the former is justified, but on the present record the latter has not been sufficiently justified.

(a) Streamlined procedures

The tentative ruling is to excuse Debtor from using the local forms, authorize Debtor to file a combined document (the Plan), set a combined hearing on final approval of the disclosures in the Plan and confirmation of the Plan, and authorize service of the Executive Summary in lieu of the Plan but with a copy of the Plan readily available. On this last issue, the tentative ruling is that all parties in interest will actually receive greater disclosure when, instead of stacks of papers filled with dense legal language, they receive a short summary in "plain English" - or "plain Korean" - with easily an exercised option to review the full Plan either online or via email or U.S. mail, at the recipient's option. See 11 U.S.C. 105(d)(2)(B)(vi) (authorizing combined hearing on Plan and disclosures); 1125(b) & (c) (authorizing service of "court-approved summary" in lieu of full Plan, and disclosures "differing in amount, detail, or kind of information, as between classes"); and Rule 3017(d) (1) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) (reiterating option for "court-approved summary," provided that documents are made available at plan proponent's expense).

(b) Request for a hearing on 30 days' notice

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not provided sufficient justification for a hearing on 30 days' notice. First, the same caveats apply as with other motions: this tentative ruling is subject to any opposition at this hearing and the possible need for more notice.

Second, until the proposed documents are filed it is premature to determine whether they can be served in their proposed form, or if they need amendments (or replacements with entirely new forms).

Third, it may be problematic to confirm any Plan until the bar date for filing proofs of claim has passed, including the special bar date for governmental entities. The parties are directed to address what bar date this Court should set.

Fourth, although Debtor explains why there is some urgency - its professionals need assurance that their employment is authorized before they can be expected to devote the substantial time and effort needed to market and sell the Property - it is unclear why the Property must be sold so quickly. Presumably that has to do with cash flow issues, but those issues have not been fully explained.

For example, why is it not possible for Debtor to use funds provided by its worshipers (either regular collections or a special collection) to tide Debtor over until the Property can be sold, or some other solution can be explored, on a less expedited basis? Alternatively, why is it not possible to obtain loans (11 U.S.C. 364) or perhaps other funding mechanisms to tide Debtor over?

Subject to all of the foregoing, the tentative ruling is to grant the Plan Procedures Motion, with the date of the combined hearing on disclosures and confirmation to be determined. Deadlines for service of the voting package,

Proposed orders: If this Court is persuaded at the hearing not to require additional notice, and instead to adopt the foregoing tentative rulings in whole or in part, then Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. The tentative ruling is that this Court will issue a "Memorialization Of Tentative Rulings" or similar document, and all lodged order should incorporate that document by reference, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. Docket 38

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address (a) whether the alleged arrears have been brought current and/or (b) whether they will agree to the terms of an adequate protection order (see the debtor's response, dkt. 40).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Docket 53

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address (a) whether the alleged arrears have been brought current and/or (b) whether they will agree to the terms of an adequate protection order (see the debtor's response, dkt. 55).

In addition, this Court notes that Movant did not serve Debtor's non-debtor husband, Luis A. Delgado, who is listed on the deed of trust as a joint tenant with respect to the subject property. That is a prerequisite for any "in rem" relief. See LBR 4001-1(c)(1)(B).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Chapter 13

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases

Deny, without prejudice to any other types of relief granted herein (or previously granted), for the following reasons.

The motion requests requests "in rem" relief (i.e., relief applicable notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases (under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and/or In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31)). The tentative ruling is to deny that request because there is insufficient evidence on the record to convince the Court that the Debtor is involved in a scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud Movant as is required under Section 362(d)(4) or the other authorities cited above.

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Docket 19

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

Chapter 13

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is not sufficient evidence and notice.

No prejudice to Debtor intended. Based on the record, it appears that this is a "hijacked" case, and that Debtor is innocent of any involvement. See e.g., In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017) (describing hijacking); In re Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) (same). In a hijacking case, the Debtor faces the legitimate concern of being subject to a 180-day bar and other adverse consequences if, for example, Debtor later requests and obtains a voluntary dismissal and subsequently needs to file another bankruptcy petition. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(2), 362(b)(21) (A). There is authority that section 109 "eligibility issues" are nonjurisdictional, can be waived, forfeited, or subject to estoppel, and should not be applied if that would produce an "illogical, unjust, or capricious result, or when the benefit of dismissal would inure to a bad faith creditor." In re Leafy, 489 B.R. 545, 550-51 (9th Cir. Bap 2012) (citing cases including under 109(g)(2)). See also In re Mendez, 367 B.R. 109, 116-17 (9th Cir. BAP 2007); In re Luna, 122 B.R. 575, 577 (9th Cir. BAP 1991); Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261, 270. The same principles apply to any other adverse consequences from a hijacking. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to condition the relief from the automatic stay granted in this tentative ruling such that no adverse consequences apply to Debtor from the hijacking, including under 11 U.S.C.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

In the alternative and in addition, the tentative ruling is to grant relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." HOME EXPO FINANCIAL INC.
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 16

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part, deny in part, as set forth below, and overrule Debtor's opposition (dkt.16). But this tentative ruling is subject to any additional opposition at or before the hearing, because Movant incorrectly listed the date of any opposition as 3/3/20, the date of the hearing. Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

Incorrect opposition deadline

Movant Home Expo Financial Inc. states in its motion that written opposition to the motion must be filed and served by the hearing date (3/3/20). But the posted Procedures of Judge Bason permit these types of motions to be set on 14 days' notice with opposition papers due five calendar days before the hearing. Movant is cautioned not to misstate this Court's procedures.

The automatic stay does not apply

Movant Home Expo Financial Inc. purchased the property at a foreclosure sale conducted on 8/29/19 and recorded a trustee's deed upon sale on 12/9/19, both of which occurred prepetition. Therefore, any interest Debtor had in the property was terminated prepetition.

Chapter 13

Debtor's opposition (dkt.25) asserts that Movant's predecessor in interest (the foreclosing creditor) refused or failed to modify its loan to Debtor, and did not fully comply with foreclosure requirements. But Debtor has not cited any authority that would establish (a) any duty to modify that loan, or how that would render void the foreclosure sale and transfer of title to Movant, or (b) an exception to the usual rule that the proper time to raise allegations of defects in the foreclosure sale procedure is prior to the foreclosure sale, not afterwards. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to overrule Debtor's opposition.

In the alternative and in addition, the tentative ruling is to grant relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases

Deny, without prejudice to any other types of relief granted herein (or previously granted), for the following reasons.

The motion requests requests "in rem" relief (i.e., relief applicable notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases under In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31)). The tentative ruling is to deny that request because there is insufficient evidence on the record to convince this Court that Debtor is involved in a scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud the Movant that is equivalent to a scheme involving multiple bankruptcy cases or other acts analogous to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4), as is required under the authorities cited above.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have

Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic
Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions. Appearances are not required.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

(3) Very limited ruling. This Court's tentative ruling to grant the foregoing relief is solely for purposes of this motion, and is not intended to have any binding effect with respect to any future assertions by any party in interest regarding the existence or lack of existence of good faith in any other context.

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part, and continue in part to 4/7/20 at 10:00 a.m., subject to the following conditions. Appearances are not required.

The tentative ruling is (1) temporarily to continue the automatic stay as to the 3775 Ruthelen Street property, through the continued hearing on 4/7/20 at 10:00 a.m., to permit the parties time to obtain an appraisal of the property (see dkt. 35, pp.2-3, and dkt. 36), and assess Debtor's progress in this case, and meanwhile (2) to grant the motion as to all remaining property of the Debtor's bankruptcy estate, such that the automatic stay applies to all such property.

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 3/3/20.

Current issues

(1) Plaintiffs' motion to strike answer and enter default (adv. dkt. 23) (calendar no.2, 3/3/20 at 11:00 a.m.)

Continue to the same date as the continued status conference, to assure entry and finality of this Court's order approving the parties' settlement, and full performance of the terms of the parties' settlement, at which point this motion will be moot.

(2) Status Conference

Continued to 6/16/20 at 11:00 a.m., with the understanding that it will come off calendar once an order approving the settlement is entered in the main case, the parties' settlement has been fully performed, and Plaintiffs file a separate dismissal motion/application in this adversary proceeding as required by the posted Procedures of Judge Bason.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing

Tentative Ruling for 2/18/20:

Continue to 3/3/20 at 11:00 a.m. to be concurrent with the motion (main case dkt.67) to approve the settlement of this matter. Appearances are not required on 2/18/20.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing

Tentative Ruling for 12/17/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

Current issues

(1) Plaintiffs' motion to strike answer and enter default (adv. dkt. 23)

The tentative ruling is that, because no Answer was ever filed, Plaintiffs' request to strike the answer is moot. As for Plaintiffs' request for entry of a default judgment, the parties are directed to appear and address whether this Court should enter a default judgment or if instead the attempted settlement will be implemented.

(2) Status Conference

The tentative ruling is to set a continued status conference for 1/28/20 at 11:00 a.m., with no written status report required.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 11/12/19:

Continue to 12/17/19 at 11:00 a.m., to be concurrent with another calendared matter (see adv. dkt. 23-25). Appearances are not required on 11/12/19.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 9/24/19:

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures"). The parties should be prepared to discuss the following issues:

(1) No Status Report

Again, the parties have not filed a Joint Status Report. Why not?

(2) Efforts to finalize settlement

The 4/18/19 status report (adv.dkt.19) reports that this matter has settled. But the dockets in this adversary proceeding and in the associated bankruptcy case still do not reflect any steps to finalize the settlement (e.g., a motion in this adversary proceeding to approve a stipulated judgment, and/or a status report regarding the status of settlement payments and a suggested date to continue this matter, and/or if necessary a motion in the bankruptcy case to approve a settlement per Rule 9019, Fed. R. Bankr. P.). Why not? This adversary proceeding has been pending since 6/22/18.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 7/30/19:

Continue to 9/19/19 at 11:00 a.m., with a brief status report due 9/5/19 addressing whether the required settlement payments have been made, and any other issues regarding the parties' settlement (as reported at the status conference on 6/4/19). Appearances are not required on 7/30/19.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

The parties are directed to address why the docket does not reflect any steps to finalize their reported settlement (e.g., a motion in this adversary proceeding to approve a stipulated judgment, and/or if necessary a motion in the bankruptcy case to approve a settlement per Rule 9019, Fed. R. Bankr. P.). This adversary proceeding has been pending since 6/22/18.

Tentative Ruling for 3/5/19:
Appearances required.

The parties are directed to address (1) why no status report was filed as required by the adopted 2/5/19 tentative ruling, and (2) whether the parties have scheduled and/or attended mediation.

The tentative ruling is to continue this status conference to 4/9/19 at 11:00 a.m, with a brief status report due by 3/26/19.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 2/5/19:

Continue to 3/5/19 at 11:00 a.m, with a brief status report due by 2/26/19. Although the latest Status Report (adv. dkt. 16) does not address whether the mandatory mediation ordered by this Court has occurred, it appears that more time is needed for mediation. Appearances are not required on 1/8/19.

The parties have lodged, and this Court has approved, the Order Assigning Matter to Mediation Program and Appointing Mediator and Alternate Mediator (dkt. 11). This Court is not aware of issues that would warrant a status conference at this time.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Appearances required, but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

At the hearing on 10/9/18, Defendants did not appear, and this Court was persuaded to take a flexible approach to whether Plaintiff would pursue default judgments, or mediation, or other avenues. Appearances required. The court has reviewed the filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority. consented. See generally Stern v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 9/10/18 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 6/22/18. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Discovery cutoff (for completion of discovery): 11/27/18.

Expert(s) - deadline for reports: 12/4/18

Expert(s) - discovery cutoff (if different from above): 12/11/18

Dispositive motions to be heard no later than: 12/18/18.

Tentative Ruling:

Deny. Appearances required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Trustee's opposition (dkt. 160) and request for hearing (dkt. 161); reply (dkt.162).

Reasons for denial: The tentative ruling is to deny the motion for abandonment because, although there is not a large amount of equity above the homestead exemption, there is some equity based on the only evidence before this Court, and Debtor's argument would enable any debtor in bankruptcy essentially to increase the homestead exemption by tens of thousands of dollars. It is very understandable that Debtors wish to retain their home, but the usual remedy is to enter into an arrangement with the Chapter 7 Trustee to buy out the bankruptcy estate's interest in the property.

(A) Preliminary Issues

(1) Proof of service of summons

A summons was issued on 12/26/19 (adv. dkt. 2), but as of the drafting of this tentative ruling, no proof of service evidencing service of the summons and complaint has been filed. Did the Trustee timely serve the summons and complaint?

(2) Status report

The summons (adv. dkt. 2) provides that a joint status report must be filed by the parties no later than 14 days prior to the status conference (2/18/20). As of the drafting of this tentative ruling, no status report has been filed.

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 3/3/20:

Appearances required. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address the status of their settlement discussions (see adv. dkt. 14).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 2/18/20:

Continue to 3/3/20 at 11:00 a.m. in view of Defendant Salgado's counsel's notice of unavailability (adv. dkt.13) and unilateral status report (adv. dkt.12). Appearances are not required on 2/18/20. Based on the joint status report filed by the parties (adv. dkt. 14), it appears that this adversary proceeding may still settle. In case settlement discussion break down again, the parties are directed to meet and confer regarding possible dates for a trial and related deadlines. If the parties are able to agree on those things, they are directed to lodge a proposed order.

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(A) Current issues

(1) Status of anticipated settlement

At the hearing on 9/24/19 this Court directed the parties to lodge a mediation order no later than 12/3/19 if the matter had not settled by then. It appears that at least some parties may have settled. The trustee and one of the defendants have filed a status report (adv. dkt. 10) stating that they anticipate settling this matter, either by cooperating in a sale of the the real property or by defendants purchasing the estate's claims against them. The parties are directed to address the status that anticipated settlement, and any other relevant matters.

(B) General issues

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

Matters of venue, jurisdiction, and authority have been determined and/or waived or forfeited (adversary docket number(s) 8, 9).

Appearances required but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order entitled "Order On Initial Status Conference" via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling.

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (dkt. 9) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The tentative ruling is to order mediation - as requested by both parties - and continue this Status Conference as set forth below.

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); *Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 10/2/19 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 5/10/19. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Chapter 11

#1.00 Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues

(a) Lack of activity on the docket

This case was filed on 2/7/20 and as of the preparation of this tentative ruling there is very little activity on the docket. There are no "first day" motions such as the cash collateral motion, a budget motion, and the application to employ counsel that Debtor anticipated filing (see Status Report, dkt.18, p.3). Apparently Debtor has either been using cash without authority, or failing to use cash for ordinary and necessary expenses, both of which are bad.

What assurances can Debtor and Debtor's counsel provide parties in interest and this Court that this case will be adequately prosecuted?

(b) Debtor's ex parte motion for joint administration (dkt. 19); oppositions by Le Elegant Bath, Inc. ("Elegant") (dkt. 23) and United States Trustee ("UST") (dkt.27)

Debtor filed an ex parte request for this Court to jointly administer his case with two related cases: A Touch of Brass ("Brass") (2:20-bk-11555-NB) and AC YU Chan Holdings LLC ("Holdings") (2:20-bk-11476-NB). Elegant opposes joint administration to the extent Debtor seeks relief greater than consolidating filings onto one docket and the UST similarly objects to any financial reporting that does not keep the estates separate, as well as any consolidated billing for professional fees and costs. The parties are directed to address whether this Court should set this matter for hearing or, alternatively, grant joint administration but without combining any financial reporting or professional billing.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 2/7/20.

- (a) Bar date: 5/5/20 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).
- (b) Procedures order: dkt.3 (timely served, dkt. 5)
- (c) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD
- (d) Continued status conference: 3/31/20 at 1:00 p.m., brief status report due 3/17/20.

There are no "first day" motions such as the cash collateral motion, a budget motion, and the application to employ counsel that Debtor anticipated filing (see Status Report, dkt.14, p.3). Apparently Debtor has either been using cash without authority, or failing to use cash for ordinary and necessary expenses, both of which are bad.

What assurances can Debtor and Debtor's counsel provide parties in interest and this Court that this case will be adequately prosecuted?

(b) Mediation

The tentative ruling is to order debtor to attend mediation as set forth in more detail in the status conference for related debtor, Anthony Chan (Calendar no. 1, 3/3/20 at 1:00 p.m.).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 2/10/20.

(a) Bar date: 5/5/20 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

(b) Procedures order: dkt.7 (timely served, dkt. 9)

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD.

(d) Continued status conference: 3/31/20 at 1:00 p.m., brief status report due 3/17/20.

Revised Tentative Ruling for 2/18/20:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues

(a) Employment application (dkt.21)

Debtor has filed Nat. Form B2030 (dkt. 23) and an amended SOFA (dkt. 24) disclosing that a retainer of $10,000 was paid by one James G. Lewis, who is described as one of Debtor's unsecured creditors. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/25/20 for Debtor and Mr. Lewis each to file and serve on the Office of the United States Trustee their declarations addressing the ethical concerns involved whenever a retainer is paid by a third party. See In re 9469 Beverly Crest, LLC (Case No. 2:19-bk-20000-NB, dkt.44). The tentative ruling is to set the employment application for hearing concurrent with the continued status conference (see below).

As for other issues raised in the tentative ruling for 2/4/20 (reproduced below), the tentative ruling is to cap costs for photocopying and other expenses per the applicable guidelines (see dkt.21, at PDF p.20), to authorize late payment charges only from when fees and costs are authorized and directed to be paid by this Court (see id., at PDF p.21), and to include the other standard provisions set forth in the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov).

(b) Budget motion (as amended, dkt.34): This motion has been self-calendared for 3/3/20 at 1:00 p.m. There is no tentative ruling regarding that motion, but this Court notes (in anticipation of that hearing) that (i) Debtor lists a $750/mo. contribution from his son (dkt.34 at PDF p.9) but there is no contribution declaration on the docket; (ii) Debtor's MOR (dkt.35 at PDF p.7) states that going forward Debtor and his non-debtor wife will pay only their portion of the combined insurance premium for their vehicles and their children's vehicles, and that their children will be responsible for their own car loan payments and insurance, but there is no disclosure of how the insurance expense has been allocated; and (iii) Debtor's monthly income projected in the budget motion appears to be substantially lower than in prior years, based on a comparison with Debtor's Statement Of Financial Affairs ("SOFA") (dkt.24, line 4, at p.2), but there is no explanation why. (This Court also notes that the budget no longer includes $500/mo. of "support" payments "to mother-in-law and sister-in-law.")

(c) Substantial equity in properties alleged to have been fraudulently transferred. As directed in the tentative ruling for 2/4/20 (reproduced below), the tentative ruling is to direct Debtor to disclose at the status conference the percentage ownership interest that Debtor had in Sunset and Cambria in the years prior to the alleged fraudulent transfers of those properties, and direct all parties in interest who appear to address the status of the nonbankruptcy litigation.

Tentative Ruling for 3/3/20:

Grant as set forth below. Appearances required.

Key documents reviewed: Original motion of Michael George Tremblay, as Trustee ("Tremblay") for relief from the automatic stay (dkt. 9), debtor's response (dkt. 11), Celtic Bank Corporation's limited objection (dkt. 18, 40), debtor's supplemental opposition and supporting declarations (dkt. 25, 26, 27, 29), stipulations to continue hearing and orders thereon (dkt. 62, 63, 83, 87), Tremblay's amended motion for relief from stay (dkt. 93), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 95) and evidentiary objections (dkt. 96), reply (dkt. 119).

Analysis

(1) Service

As Debtor points out (dkt.94, pp.4:13-5:2), under Rule 4001 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) a motion for relief from the automatic stay must be served on Debtor's list of 20 largest general unsecured creditors. Debtor asserts that the motion was not served in accordance with that rule; but the original motion was (dkt.9, at PDF pp.61-64) and Debtor cites no authority that the amendments to the motion were so substantial that they would require re-noticing. Any creditor who cared to follow the progress of the original motion would be able to do so, and file any papers or make any arguments they wish. The tentative ruling is that Debtor's argument that additional service is required is not persuasive.

(2) Evidentiary objections

Chapter 11

The tentative ruling is to overrule Debtor's evidentiary objections (dkt.96), which are not well taken. For example, Debtor objects to Movant's valuation evidence on grounds of relevance. How can Debtor assert that the value of the subject property is irrelevant when it is clearly relevant under the statute (11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (2)) and when the Amended Motion asserts (dkt.93, p.3, para.4.a.(1)(A)&(B) & p.4, para.4.b.) that (i) the subject property's value is inadequate to protect Movant's interest and is declining, and (ii) Debtor lacks any equity in the property (and that the property is not necessary to an effective reorganization)?

(3) Valuation

Although valuation is relevant, the tentative ruling is that this Court cannot resolve the parties' valuation disputes without an evidentiary hearing (or other procedure, such as an agreement of the parties to be bound by the valuation determined by an independent appraiser selected by each of their appraisers). Normally this Court would set an evidentiary hearing (or other procedures) and establish associated deadlines and other procedures. But the tentative ruling is that all such procedures are unnecessary because Movant has shown other "cause" for relief from the automatic stay.

(4) Cause for relief from the automatic stay

Movant asserts that Debtor has shown bad faith, and that this is "cause" for relief from the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1). The tentative ruling is to agree.

This is Debtor's second bankruptcy case. The first case (Case No. 2:19-bk-21504-NB) was filed on 9/30/19 and dismissed on 11/5/19 for failure to file required documents. Before that case was dismissed, Tremblay filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay in which he pointed out that Debtor was ineligible for chapter 13 under 11 U.S.C. 109(e) and accused Debtor of intentionally misusing the bankruptcy system for purposes of delay. See Case No. 2:19-bk-21504-NB, dkt.10, p.5). Nevertheless, Debtor filed this case as another chapter 13 case on 11/20/19.

This Court recognizes that at the time each case was filed Debtor had no attorney of record. But Debtor owns multiple real properties and two businesses (one that recently ceased operating), and there is no showing that Debtor is unsophisticated.

Nor is there any showing that Debtor was unable to read and understand Tremblay's motion, or was unable to find an attorney to represent her, despite her substantial alleged assets and income. This Court takes judicial notice that other debtors with a range of assets, liabilities, income, expenses, and other characteristics regularly understand the chapter 13 debt limits and regularly retain bankruptcy attorneys, especially after having been accused of misusing the bankruptcy system.

In other words, Movant has established a prima facie showing that Debtor's two chapter 13 bankruptcy petitions were filed in bad faith. The burden is on Debtor to rebut that showing. Instead, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has done the opposite.

True, Debtor belatedly retained an attorney, and filed a motion to convert this case to chapter 11, which this Court granted effective just over two months ago, on 1/2/20. Subsequently, however, this Court has noted Debtor's lack of prosecution of this chapter 11 case. See Tentative Rulings for Status Conference (calendar no. 16, 3/3/20 at 1:00 p.m.).

Even now, over three months after the petition date (11/20/19), Debtor still has not proposed any sale of her properties, or other method to pay her creditors within a reasonable time. Debtor's filed papers suggest that she is entirely reliant on rental income, but that income is uncertain and the net amount apparently is very modest (if anything), after mortgages and other expenses (see Tentative Ruling for Status Conference, calendar no.16 on 3/3/20 at 1:00 p.m.). See also Jan. MOR (dkt.103) ($0 income reported).

Debtor proposes a chapter 11 plan (dkt.97) that appears unconfirmable on its face. As Movant points out, the plan proposes to modify Movant's claim (and another claim) both of which appear to be secured only by an interest in Debtor's principal residence, in contravention of 11 U.S.C. 1123(b)(5). See dkt.97, pp.3:1-4:10. Moreover, the plan proposes what appear to be interest-only payments with a balloon payment of the entire principal many months later. See dkt.97, Ex.A & A-1, at PDF pp.8&10, Classes 2A & 2B. See also dkt.119, p.3:1-8.

For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has filed and has prosecuted (or failed to prosecute) her two bankruptcy cases in bad faith. The tentative ruling is that this is sufficient "cause" for relief from the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1). Specifically, the tentative ruling is to grant the following relief.

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Tentative Ruling for 3/3/20:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion for relief from stay (as amended, dkt. 93)

Grant, as set forth in the tentative ruling for calendar no. 15 (3/3/20 at 1:00 p.m.).

(b) Monthly operating report ("MOR") #1 (for Jan, 2020, dkt.103)

Debtor's MOR is not on the form that is familiar to this Court. Has the Office of the United States Trustee changed its form? Debtor reports $0 income for the month of January. Were rents paid prior to conversion to chapter 11 (i.e., prior to 1/2/20), and if so, how much rental income did Debtor receive for January, and when?

(c) Income and expenses

Debtor still has not filed a declaration of current/postpetition income and expenses. See Revised Tentative Ruling for 2/18/20 (reproduced below). Why not?

Debtor's Bankruptcy Schedules I and J provide very little information about Debtor's rental income. They list only gross rents per building instead of, e.g., a rent roll listing each tenant and their rental rate and information about whether those rents are reliable, such as a rental history. Nor does Debtor provide any breakdown of expenses, beyond what appears to be Debtor's rough estimate of $6,000 per month in mortgage payments, which appears to omit any payments to liens that Debtor is disputing. Nothing appears to be allocated for rental property maintenance, repairs, utilities, gardening, etc.

In addition, creditor Tremblay has questioned whether Debtor is omitting community property income of her non-debtor spouse, Mr. Behzad Beroukhai. See dkt.119, p.2:17-28. As Tremblay notes, Mr. Beroukhai allegedly pays all expenses related to certain real property, but Debtor has not disclosed and accounted for such past and ongoing funds. This Court also notes that Mr. Beroukhai is not listed as a codebtor on any debts. See Bankruptcy Schedule H (dkt.10 at PDF p.30, line 1). What is the true situation, and are Debtor's disclosures accurate?

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/6/20 for Debtor to file and serve amended Schedules I and J, an amended SOFA, and any other documents that may be necessary or appropriate to provide much more comprehensive information about her income, expenses, assets, liabilities, and other aspects of her finances.

The tentative ruling is to grant in part and deny in part the budget motion, on an interim basis, such that Debtor is authorized to make the expenditures in her proposed budget but must provide additional adequate protection payments to East West Bank to bring the total payment from $4,619.32 to $5,140.78, without prejudice to Debtor and East West Bank establishing an evidentiary basis for a lesser or greater dollar amount either (i) for adequate protection payments, (ii) for purposes of any chapter 11 plan, or (iii) for any other reason. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/25/20 for East West Bank to file a declaration with a copy of advance notice to Debtor regarding the increased monthly mortgage payments, a deadline of 3/4/20 for any response by Debtor, and any reply by East West Bank permitted at the continued hearing, to be held contemporaneous with the continued status conference (see below).

Debtor states (dkt.85, Ex.1, at PDF p.7, 1st footnote) that she recently had an increase income. But, as of the preparation of this tentative ruling, Debtor has not filed a declaration of current/postpetition income and expenses. Why not?

(b) Cash Collateral Motion (dkt. 86, 90)

Grant the motion on an interim basis, subject to Judge Bason's standard conditions for use of cash collateral set forth in the tentative ruling for calendar no. 17.20 (2/18/20 at 1:00 p.m.).

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Tentative Ruling for 1/28/20:

(1) Current issues

(a) Lack of progress

Debtor has only very belatedly filed a status report (dkt.65) (one week after it was required by this Court's order, dkt. 50). Worse, long after this case was converted to chapter 11 (11/20/19) she has only now filed an application to employ counsel and a budget motion, and she admits (dkt. 65, p.2) that she has not filed her list of 20 largest unsecured creditors. In addition, she admits that she has not filed any cash collateral motion(s) (id., p.3), which apparently means that either she has been using cash without authority or she has been failing to use cash for ordinary and necessary expenses, both of which are bad.

What remedies should this Court impose on Debtor and/or her counsel for this pervasive failure to comply with her obligations under the Bankruptcy Code? What assurances can they provide this Court that similar problems will not happen in future?

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 3/3/20:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's Utility Motion (dkt. 10), no opposition is on file
Grant on a final basis, on the same terms as the interim order (dkt.38).

(b) Debtor's Cash Collateral Motion (dkt. 11, 19), opposition of Le Elegant Bath, Inc. ("Elegant") (dkt. 47), Debtor's reply (dkt. 49)

This Court is mindful of the concerns raised by Elegant, including the findings of fact and conclusions of law by the State Court including on alter ego liability, and bearing on the related Debtors' alleged transfers of assets, lack of truthfulness, and delay. The tentative ruling is that those things are part of the totality of the circumstances that this Court may consider in various possible future contexts, but that for present purposes they are not sufficient to warrant denial of further interim relief regarding the use of cash collateral.

Grant on a further interim basis, on the same conditions set forth in the first interim order authorizing debtor's use of cash collateral (dkt. 37), with the requested 15% variances (dkt.49, p.2:4-8), through the conclusion of a continued hearing commencing on 6/2/20 at 1:00 p.m. The last two days of this period extend beyond Debtor's proposed cash collateral budget (dkt.11, Ex.2, at PDF pp.50-58), so the tentative ruling is to authorize expenditures for the week of 5/31/20 through 6/6/20 identical to the authorized expenditures covering the first day of the previous month (4/26/20 through 5/2/20). Id. at PDF pp.55-56.

Do not repeat the terms set forth in the motion or any stipulation. Incorporate those terms by reference (including the docket number of the document), subject to any modification by this Court.

(b) Timing. Lodge the proposed order within 7 days after the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Minimum adequate protection

In addition to the postpetition security interests that are automatically provided pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 552 (e.g., in traceable proceeds and profits), and subject to any more comprehensive protection that may be included in the motion or related papers, Debtor shall provide at least the following protection to any creditor with a security interest in the subject property (pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 361-364, as applicable):

(a) Insurance. For all collateral of a type that typically is insured (e.g., real property and improvements), Debtor is directed to maintain insurance in a dollar amount at least equal to Debtor's good faith estimate of the value of such creditor's interest in the collateral, and such insurance shall name such creditor as an additional insured. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments for such insurance.

(b) Taxes. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments on account of postpetition real estate taxes (to the extent that real estate is part of the collateral).

(c) Disclosures/access. Debtor is directed to provide, upon such creditor's reasonable request, periodic accountings of the foregoing insurance and tax obligations and payments, as well as postpetition proceeds, products, offspring, or profits from the collateral, including gross revenues and expenses and a calculation of net revenues, including any rents and any fees, charges, accounts, or other payments for the use or occupancy of rooms and other public facilities in lodging properties (as all of the foregoing terms are used in 11 U.S.C. 552). Debtor is directed to provide appropriate documentation of those accountings, and access for purposes of inspection or appraisal.

In the event that the motion or related papers seek authority to grant postpetition liens to the creditor(s) with respect to prepetition debts any such liens shall be limited to the same validity, priority, and amount as prepetition liens. As used herein, the "validity, priority, and amount" or any similar phrase that may be used by the parties or this Court is deemed to include the following:

(a) Extent. Such liens shall be limited to the type of collateral in which the creditor held a security interest as of the petition date, unless this order expressly states that the liens granted by this order are intended to attach to different types of collateral from the prepetition collateral. For example, if prepetition liens extended to inventory and accounts receivable but not equipment then postpetition liens are likewise limited (unless otherwise expressly provided by order of this Court). In addition, postpetition liens shall not extend to the proceeds of any avoidance actions, any recoveries under 11 U.S.C. 506(c), or any "carveout" under 11 U.S.C. 552.

(b) Priority. Such liens shall be limited to the same priority as the security interest held by the creditor as of the petition date.

(c) Dollar amount. Such liens shall be limited to the dollar amount needed to protect the creditor against diminution in the value of the secured claims as of the petition date.

(d) Enforceability. Such liens shall be limited to the extent that the creditor's security interests were duly perfected and valid as of the petition date, and to the extent that they are unavoidable.

(e) Automatic postpetition perfection. Any automatic perfection of such liens shall be subject to any applicable limitations regarding the Court's authority, jurisdiction, or due process.

(4) Automatic disapproval of insufficiently disclosed provisions

Any provision of the type listed in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or in local form F4001-2 (e.g., cross-collateralization) or any waiver of the "equities of the case" exception in 11 U.S.C. 552(b)(2) shall be deemed automatically disapproved and excepted from any order granting the motion, notwithstanding any other provision of such order, unless either: (a) such provision is specifically and prominently disclosed in the motion papers in a checklist (such as local form F4001-2), or alternatively (b) such provision is specifically identified in any proposed order granting the motion, using terminology of the type used in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or local form F4001-2

Tentative Ruling for 12/10/19:

Appearances are not required on 12/10/19, but Debtor and Beverly Partners, LLC ("Beverly") are directed, well ahead of the continued hearing date set forth below, to take whatever steps are necessary or appropriate to address the issues set forth below (e.g., correcting service and/or proofs of service, lodging proposed order(s), filing corrected MORs, etc.).

(1) Current issues

(a) Beverly's motion for relief from automatic stay (dkt. 47); Debtor's opposition (dkt. 50); Beverly's reply (dkt. 53)

Beverly's proof of service does not show service on the list of creditors included in Debtor's "list filed under Rule 1007(d)" (as required by Rule 4001(a)(1), Fed. R. Bankr. P.). See dkt. 1. The tentative ruling is to continue this hearing to 12/17/19 at 1:00 p.m., with a deadline of 12/11/19 for Beverly to serve all required persons with notice of the continued hearing, and file a proof of service.

(b) Cash collateral motion (dkt.19)

Court directed counsel to lodge a proposed order granting the motion on an interim basis and attaching (and adopting) a copy of this Court's tentative ruling for that date (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov). In addition, Debtor did not file and serve a notice of the final hearing by 10/3/19. In addition, any such service would have to be in compliance with the applicable rules for service, as stated in that adopted tentative ruling.

The current tentative ruling is (i) to direct counsel, again, to lodge a proposed order granting the motion on an interim basis through the conclusion of the final hearing, (ii) to set a final hearing for the same date and time as the continued status conference (see below), and (iii) to set a deadline of 12/11/19 for Debtor to file and serve notice of the final hearing in compliance with the applicable rules for service.

(c) Proof of service of bar date order (dkt.28)

Debtor's counsel has had trouble with service of this order and/or proving that it was served as required. See dkt. 35,36,37. Even the latest, second amended proof of service (dkt.37) is inadequate in that it fails to state who actually served the order and when they did so. Implicitly, the person who signed the proof of service, Paulina Buitron, is the person who actually deposited the envelopes in the U.S. mail, and that was done sometime between 9/30/19, when the order was supposed to have been served, and 10/3/19, when the proof of service was filed, but the declaration does not actually say so. In addition, at the hearing on 10/1/19 this Court directed Debtor's counsel to double-check that all creditors had in fact been served and, if not, to apply for an order setting a supplemental bar date as to any creditors who have not been served.

The tentative ruling is to excuse what appears to be untimely service of the bar date order by a few days, and set a deadline of 12/11/19 (i) for Debtor's counsel to file a third amended proof of service of the bar date order, using the local form (mandatory for all motions) (see Local Form F9013-3.1.PROOF.SERVICE), (ii) to lodge a proposed order excusing the untimely service of the bar date order, with a copy of this tentative ruling attached, and (iii) if necessary, apply for a supplemental bar date for any creditors who were not served with the bar date order, and lodge a proposed supplemental bar date order.

(d) Debtor's Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs")

Debtor appears to be having trouble complying with his obligations as a debtor in possession, including not paying prepetition debts. In addition, the October MOR (dkt.49) appears to show lossess from most of Debtor's various businesses, and perilously low bank balances, even with the reduced dollar amount of the adequate protection payments to Beverly (less than the ongoing interest obligation). In addition, there is an internal inconsistency about postpetition adequate protection and/or lease payments: the October MOR (dkt.49, at PDF p.57 of 61) lists "0" postpetition payments not made (i.e., Debtor allegedly is postpetition current), but then the same table lists "Total Due" postpetition amounts of many thousands of dollars - which is it? Is Debtor postpetition current in payments to secured creditors and/or lessors, or not?

The tentative ruling is to direct Debtor (i) to confer with the Office of the United States Trustee and file whatever corrected MORs are necessary or appropriate, and (ii) to be prepared to address the foregoing issues at the continued status conference.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 8/30/19.

(a) Bar date: 12/13/19 (see Order, dkt.28; see above)

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD. Debtor must use the forms required by Judge Bason (DO NOT SERVE yet, except on the U.S. Trustee - this Court will set a deadline and procedures at a later time).

(c) Continued status conference: 12/17/19 at 1:00 p.m. (short continuance because Beverly's motion for relief from the automatic stay should be addressed soon). No written status report is required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Grant (subject to this Court's standard conditions, see calendar no.1, 10/1/19 at 1:00 p.m.), provided that Debtor must address why this motion was not self-calendared for hearing until over a month after the petition date, and whether, meanwhile, has Debtor (i) been using cash collateral without authorization (in violation of 11 U.S.C. 363(c)) or (ii) not been using cash collateral, and hence failing to pay ordinary and necessary business and personal expenses, in violation of Debtor's duties to pay postpetition debts as they come due and preserve and maximize the value of the bankruptcy estate. 11 U.S.C. 1107(a) and 1108, and 28 U.S.C. 959(b). The tentative ruling is that, although this is not yet sufficient cause for appointment of a chapter 11 trustee or other remedies, it may factor into consideration of any such remedies in future.

appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 9/24/19:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor(s) and by Debtor himself.

(1) Current issues

(a) Budget Motion

Debtor's status report incorrectly states that a budget motion is not required by the presiding judge's procedures. Dkt. 20, p.3. See posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at cacb.uscourts.gov) (the "Bason Procedures") Section VII.G. In addition, a budget motion appears to be particularly important in this case because most of Debtor's income and expenses are effectively hidden and/or mis-reported.

Debtor's Bankruptcy Schedule I reports that he is an interior designer/hair stylist (dkt.22, at PDF p.27), his Statement Of Financial Affairs ("SOFA") lists various "dba" enterprises that might or might not reflect other business ventures, and Debtor apparently rents out some of his properties using Airbnb, but there is no breakdown of any of this. Contrary to the instructions on line 8a of Schedule I, debtor lists only a total net dollar amount for all businesses/properties combined - $22,598.00 per month - and fails to attach a statement for each business/property showing gross receipts, ordinary and necessary business expenses, and the calculation of net income. Also, in apparent contradiction of this alleged monthly net income, the SOFA (dkt. 22 at PDF p.31) lists gross income of $20,000 for the year to date (9 months), $7,875 for 2018, and $28,223 for 2017. (Perhaps Debtor listed monthly net income instead of yearly gross income - if so he must file a corrected SOFA.)

The tentative ruling is to direct Debtor to file an amended Schedule I and an amended SOFA, and to file and serve a budget motion and any other documents that are necessary or appropriate to correct the foregoing deficiencies, no later than 9/27/19.

(b) Bankruptcy Schedule G

Debtor lists no executory contracts or unexpired leases (dkt.22, at PDF p.24). What about Airbnb and/or other short-term or long-term rental arrangements? The tentative ruling is to direct Debtor to file an amended Schedule G no later than 9/27/19.

Even though this case was filed on 8/30/19, Debtor did not self-calendar his cash collateral motion for hearing until over a month later, on 10/1/19 at 1:00 p.m. Meanwhile, has Debtor (i) been using cash collateral without authorization (in violation of 11 U.S.C. 363(c)) or (ii) not been using cash collateral, and hence failing to pay ordinary and necessary business and personal expenses, in violation of Debtor's duties to pay postpetition debts as they come due and preserve and maximize the value of the bankruptcy estate. 11 U.S.C. 1107(a) and 1108, and 28 U.S.C. 959(b). The tentative ruling is that, although this is not yet sufficient cause for appointment of a chapter 11 trustee or other remedies, it may factor into consideration of any such remedies in future.

(d) Employment Application

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 9/27/19 for Debtor to file and serve local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTERESTED.PROF in support of Debtor's application to employ Eric Bensamochan as his bankruptcy counsel (dkt. 18). See Bason Procedures Section VII.D.

Appearances required.

As to the cash that allegedly is collateral of Beverly Partners, LLC, continue this hearing pursuant to its stipulation with the debtor (dkt.31) and this Court's order thereon. As to all properties/sources of cash, Debtor must segregate cash so that there is no commingling.

Judge Bason's standard conditions for use of cash collateral and/or postpetition financing (by creditors holding prepetition claims)

(1) Written order

(a) Form. Use local form

F2081-1.1.ORDER.CASH.COLLATERAL or the equivalent. Attach a copy of this tentative ruling as an exhibit, thereby adopting it as the written ruling of this Court, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. Do not repeat the terms set forth in the motion or any stipulation. Incorporate those terms by reference (including the docket number of the document), subject to any modification by this Court.

(b) Timing. Lodge the proposed order within 7 days after the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Minimum adequate protection

In addition to the postpetition security interests that are automatically provided pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 552 (e.g., in traceable proceeds and profits), and subject to any more comprehensive protection that may be included in the motion or related papers, Debtor shall provide at least the following protection to any creditor with a security interest in the subject property (pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 361-364, as applicable):

(a) Insurance. For all collateral of a type that typically is insured (e.g., real property and improvements), Debtor is directed to maintain insurance in a dollar amount at least equal to Debtor's good faith estimate of the value of such creditor's interest in the collateral, and such insurance shall name such creditor as an additional insured. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments for such insurance.

(b) Taxes. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments on account of postpetition real estate taxes (to the extent that real estate is part of the collateral).

(c) Disclosures/access. Debtor is directed to provide, upon such creditor's reasonable request, periodic accountings of the foregoing insurance and tax obligations and payments, as well as postpetition proceeds, products, offspring, or profits from the collateral, including gross revenues and expenses and a calculation of net revenues, including any rents and any fees, charges, accounts, or other payments for the use or occupancy of rooms and other public facilities in lodging properties (as all of the foregoing terms are used in 11 U.S.C. 552). Debtor is directed to provide appropriate documentation of those accountings, and access for purposes of inspection or appraisal.

(3) Limitation on postpetition liens

In the event that the motion or related papers seek authority to grant postpetition liens to the creditor(s) with respect to prepetition debts any such liens shall be limited to the same validity, priority, and amount as prepetition liens. As used herein, the "validity, priority, and amount" or any similar phrase that may be used by the parties or this Court is deemed to include the following:

(a) Extent. Such liens shall be limited to the type of collateral in which the creditor held a security interest as of the petition date, unless this order expressly states that the liens granted by this order are intended to attach to different types of collateral from the prepetition collateral. For example, if prepetition liens extended to inventory and accounts receivable but not equipment then postpetition liens are likewise limited (unless otherwise expressly provided by order of this Court). In addition, postpetition liens shall not extend to the proceeds of any avoidance actions, any recoveries under 11 U.S.C. 506(c), or any "carveout" under 11 U.S.C. 552.

(b) Priority. Such liens shall be limited to the same priority as the security interest held by the creditor as of the petition date.

(c) Dollar amount. Such liens shall be limited to the dollar amount needed to protect the creditor against diminution in the value of the secured claims as of the petition date.

(d) Enforceability. Such liens shall be limited to the extent that the creditor's security interests were duly perfected and valid as of the petition date, and to the extent that they are unavoidable.

(e) Automatic postpetition perfection. Any automatic perfection of such liens shall be subject to any applicable limitations regarding the Court's authority, jurisdiction, or due process.

(4) Automatic disapproval of insufficiently disclosed provisions

Any provision of the type listed in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or in local form F4001-2 (e.g., cross-collateralization) or any waiver of the "equities of the case" exception in 11 U.S.C. 552(b)(2) shall be deemed automatically disapproved and excepted from any order granting the motion, notwithstanding any other provision of such order, unless either: (a) such provision is specifically and prominently disclosed in the motion papers in a checklist (such as local form F4001-2), or alternatively (b) such provision is specifically identified in any proposed order granting the motion, using terminology of the type used in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or local form F4001-2 (e.g., any "cross-collateralization" that is not specifically identified as such is deemed to be disapproved).

(5) Disputes

In the event of any disputes regarding the rulings in this order, the parties are directed to meet and confer and, if they cannot resolve their disputes consensually, contact Judge Bason's chambers to arrange a mutually convenient time for either a telephonic or in-person hearing to address such disputes.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Analysis

Based on the motion papers, Debtor's opposition papers (dkt. 50), and Beverly's reply (dkt. 53), the tentative ruling is to modify the automatic stay to set deadlines - further described below - for Debtor to take steps to market and sell the property at 10838-10842 Beverly Blvd., Whittier, CA 90601 (the "Property"). This Court recognizes that Debtor has characterized the Property as his retirement security, but the tentative ruling is that there is no other way to provide adequate protection of Beverly's interest in the Property.

(1) Valuation

The tentative ruling is that Beverly's evidence is persuasive as to including a higher property tax assessment for valuation purposes (see Eggleston Reply Decl., dkt.53, p.3:1-13) and that, with this adjustment, Debtor's approach to valuation would yield a value of $850,000 (id., p.3:14-17). Beverly's appraisal, in contrast, asserts a value of $795,000. See dkt.47, at PDF pp.77-end, and dkt. 53, p.3:18-21.

The tentative ruling is that the other evidence provided by Debtor and Beverly (e.g., as to appropriate discount rates, and the use of allegedly comparable properties) does not weigh in one direction or the other clearly enough for this Court to decide between the two valuations without an evidentiary hearing (or, perhaps, further declarations). Compare Eggleston Decl. (dkt.79, pp.79 et seq.) and Eggleston Reply Decl. (dkt.53) with Collins Appraisal (dkt.50, Ex.A) and Collins Decl. (dkt.50, pp.13 et seq.). Therefore, the remainder of this tentative ruling considers both valuations.

Under section 362(d)(1) this Court must consider any lack of adequate protection (or other "cause" for relief). One form of adequate protection is a sufficient equity cushion.

The tentative ruling is that, unless an equity cushion is very large, an eroding equity cushion may place Beverly's interest in the Property at greater risk. Therefore, this Court must consider Beverly's equity cushion (if any), both as of the petition date (8/30/19) and currently.

In calculating that equity cushion the tentative ruling is that this Court must consider (i) the senior real estate tax lien (Claim No.2-3) of $22,417.08 as of the petition date, plus postpetition interest at 18% for the current calculation (id., p.2, line 9), plus (ii) Beverly's lien of approximately $721,702.10 as of the petition date, or approximately $741,879.34 as of 11/7/19 (dkt.47, pp.7 & 11), plus postpetition interest at 17% for the current calculation (id., Ex.H, at PDF p.141) (POC 5-1, line 9), plus (iii) any other charges that are allowable under 11 U.S.C. 506(b) (e.g., ongoing attorney fees), minus (iv) adequate protection payments (3 x $3,313.63 through Beverly's 12/3/19 Reply, dkt.dkt.53, p.2:15, plus two more payments for January and February, for a total of 5x$3,313.63 = $16,586.15).

Based on these numbers, the tentative ruling is that, even using Debtor's valuation method (adjusted as set forth above), the combination of a modest equity cushion (substantially below 20%) and the current (low) adequate protection payments (very substantially below the contractual default or non-default interest rates) are insufficient. They do not provide Beverly with protection of its interest that is truly "adequate" as required by section 362(d)(1).

Therefore this Court "shall" grant some form of relief from the automatic stay. 11 U.S.C. 362(d). That relief need not necessarily be termination of the automatic stay: it can take the form of modifying or conditioning the automatic stay. Id. The tentative ruling is that, because Beverly itself would have to take time to market and sell the Property (if it were to attempt to maximize value and not risk its own recovery), Beverly will be adequately protected by providing Debtor with time in which to do the same.

(3) Amount of time to market and sell the property

The tentative ruling is to set deadlines of (a) 2/28/20 for Debtor to file and serve an application to employ a real estate agent for the Property, (b) 4/24/20 for Debtor to file and serve a motion under 11 U.S.C. 363(b) and (f) to sell the Property, subject to overbids, (c) 5/19/20 for a hearing (and auction, if there are any overbidders), and (d) 6/23/20 to close the sale (either to the winning bidder or a backup bidder) and pay Beverly out of escrow. If Debtor fails to meet those deadlines, the tentative ruling is that Beverly would be authorized to file and serve a declaration of default and lodge a proposed order terminating the automatic stay.

Meanwhile, the tentative ruling is to monitor Debtor's progress by setting a continued hearing on this motion to the same time as the continued status conference (see calendar no. 23, 2/18/20 at 1:00 p.m.).

(4) 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(2)

The tentative ruling is that for purposes of section 362(d)(2)(A) (whether Debtor has any equity in the Property) this Court must take into account the IRS lien (Claim No.7-1) of $64,423.96 as of the petition date (id. at PDF pp.2&4-10), plus postpetition interest of 5% for the current calculation. This Court notes that the IRS claim is secured by any property owned by Debtor, but there is no evidence that equity in any other property will decrease the amount of this claim.

The result would be that under Beverly's valuation Debtor would have no equity in the property, but under Debtor's valuation he would have some equity. Because the burden of proof is on Beverly on this issue (11 U.S.C. 362(g)(1)), the tentative ruling is that on the present record Beverly has not established an entitlement to relief under section 362(d)(2). All rights are reserved for Beverly to continue seeking to establish that element with additional evidence, and for Debtor to oppose any such evidence.

HSBC BANK USA
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 60

Tentative Ruling:

Deny, for the reasons set forth below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Analysis

(1) Motion's allegations are insufficient

The motion does not allege any missed payments. It relies solely on Debtors' alleged bad faith and the assertion that the filing of the bankruptcy petition commencing this case (over a year ago, on 10/10/2018) was part of a "scheme" to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors. The sole grounds for these assertions appear to be Debtors' three prior bankruptcy cases since 2015.

Those allegations, by themselves, are insufficient. See, e.g., In re Jiminez (unpublished) (9th Cir. BAP 3/3/2020) (BAP Nos. CC-19-1177-TaLG, CC-19-1186-TaLG), at p.3 (holding that the "unadorned assertion" that debtor had filed three bankruptcy cases over 10 year period does not "unfailingly equate" to a scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors) (decision available at:

(2) Debtor's assertions are largely unpersuasive, but that is not enough to carry Movant's burden

True, Debtors' opposition (dkt. 62) asserts several arguments that this Court does not find to be very persuasive. Debtors (a) note that their first two bankruptcy cases were filed without an attorney; (b) claim they "did not understand [their] responsibilities"; and (c) argue that their motive was "to save our residence from foreclosure and to reorganize our debts." Debtors assert that these things (and some alleged bad advice by a "Mortgage Specialist") should excuse their failure to file required case commencement documents and their use of the wrong chapter of the Bankruptcy Code in their second case (chapter 7, which they "found out" does not "have a repayment plan to save our home," unlike chapter 13). Dkt.62, at PDF p.4:12-25.

Debtors' excuses fail to address how, despite the mandatory course under 11 U.S.C. 109(h), they failed so completely to understand the different chapters of the Bankruptcy Code, and their responsibilities as debtors in bankruptcy. Many other individuals manage to understand those things and file the required documents.

As for the motive to save the family home, that is certainly understandable, but that is irrelevant to whether the methods used to save that home amount to good or bad faith, or a scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors. To use an extreme example, solely to illustrate the distinction, a hypothetical debtor might have an entirely legitimate desire to pay the mortgage and save the family home, but that does not justify robbing a bank to make the mortgage payment.

Debtor's opposition also argues that this case cannot be found to have been filed in bad faith because this Court has made good faith findings, both by implication in confirming Debtor's chapter 13 plan and expressly in this Court's Order Granting Motion For Order Imposing A Stay Or Continuing The Automatic Stay (dkt. 26). The last-referenced order states that "the present case was filed in good faith and any presumption of bad faith has been adequately rebutted." Dkt. 62, PDF p.6, para. 17. This Court is not persuaded by these arguments, because those findings of good faith were for entirely different, narrow purposes. For example, as noted in this Court's continuing the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3), the stay protects each creditors against other creditors, who might otherwise seize assets in a "race to collect." Therefore, parties in interest may elect not to oppose a "good faith" finding for purposes of section 362(c)(3) without being deemed to concede good faith for all purposes.

In sum, Debtors' assertions that they must or should be found to have acted in good faith are not entirely persuasive. Every one of their arguments does not carry much weight.

Chapter 13

That said, the burden is on Movant in the first instance to establish "cause" for relief from the automatic stay. It has not met that burden, as noted in the preceding section of this tentative ruling.

(3) Additional facts and circumstances

This Court takes judicial notice that Debtors' repayment history has been uneven. They have fallen into one default or another for years, so Movant's arrears are being paid very slowly. See, e.g., Case No. 2:16-bk-12829-SK, dkt.90 (Trustee's Final Report and Account). In addition, as noted above, Debtors have not always been attentive to their responsibilities as debtors in bankruptcy. Moreover, this Court takes judicial notice that in their most recent prior case the Chapter 13 Trustee alleged that Debtors failed to provide annual reports of their income and expenses, and Debtors did not contest that assertion. See Case No. 2:16-bk-12829-SK, dkt.77 et seq.

But on the other hand Debtors have made payments (albeit with defaults) for several years. That is a powerful indicator that Debtors are making a very concerted effort to pay Movant, and lack either bad faith or an intent to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors.

For all of the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is to deny the motion.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." DEBTOR

Docket 123

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part, so as to permit Movant to commence the lengthy foreclosure process, including a notice of default and other steps but not including any actual notice of foreclosure sale absent further order of this Court. In addition, the tentative ruling is to permit Movant to seek such a further order by filing and serving a supplemental 21-day notice that places this motion back on calendar (on any available self-calendaring date), rather than requiring Movant to incur the expense of preparing a new motion. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Chapter 7 Trustee's Opposition (dkt. 130), Creditor Andrew Kwiat's reply (dkt. 131).

Reasons:

The tentative ruling is to deny the motion as to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) because Mr. Kwiat has conceded the insurance issue and that he is protected by an adequate equity cushion. As for relief under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(2), the tentative ruling is to grant limited relief as set forth above, based the Chapter 7 Trustee's listing price and purchase offers on the property. Although Mr. Kwiat is correct that the Trustee's representations about offers are not evidence, there are good reasons for a chapter 7 trustee to wish to keep offers confidential so as to maximize other potential bidders' offers. And even without evidence of value, Mr. Kwiat is protected by (a) the substantial equity above his lien and (b) the Trustee's efforts to sell the property, because the "proof is in the pudding" - i.e., if the Trustee is able, within a reasonable time, to file a motion for approval of a sale that pays Movant then Movant's foreclosure presumably will be unnecessary; and if the Trustee cannot do that then Movant can proceed to foreclosure.

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

facie showing of a lack of adequate protection. That is also cause for relief.
11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

Alternatively, the tentative ruling is that Movant has established a prima facie showing that the subject property is not necessary to an effective reorganization (11 U.S.C. 362(d)(2)(B)). It is uncertain at this stage whether there is any equity in the subject property above all liens, and on that one issue Movant has the burden of proof, so the tentative ruling is not to rely on 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(2) in granting the relief set forth herein.

In addition, to the extent Debtor seeks reconsideration of the Stay Order, the tentative ruling is that she has not established sufficient legal or equitable grounds to do so.

(2) Background

(a) The Stay Order

This is Debtor's second bankruptcy case. The first case (Case No. 2:19-bk-16825-NB) was filed on 6/11/19 and dismissed on 7/3/19 because Debtor was ineligible to be a chapter 13 debtor.

Shortly thereafter, on 7/17/19, Debtor filed this case. She moved to continue the automatic stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3) (dkt. 11). Movant's predecessor-in-interest, Patch of Land Lending, LLC ("Patch"), opposed that motion (dkt. 25).

After consideration of the filed documents and records of this Court, and oral arguments, this Court adopted its tentative ruling and entered an order granting the motion but, as a condition of continuation of the automatic stay, set a number of deadlines for Debtor to move this case forward and to ensure that the interests of Patch (among others) were not adversely affected - i.e., that they remained adequately protected (dkt. 31, the "Stay Order"). With respect to Patch's lien, this Court set deadlines as follows:

The tentative ruling is to grant [Debtor's] motion [to continue the automatic stay] in part and deny it in part by setting deadlines for Debtor to accomplish each of the items listed below. If Debtor fails timely to do so, objecting creditor Alliance Portfolio, Private Equity Finance, Inc. ("Alliance") (dkt. 21) and objecting creditor Patch of Land Lending, LLC ("Patch") (dkt. 25) would be authorized to file and serve motions for relief from the automatic stay on shortened time: a 14 day notice period, with any oppositions due 7 days prior to the hearing. The items that Debtor must accomplish are:

(ii) Bel Air refi/debt restructuring: by 9/24/19, file a motion to refinance the Bel Air Road property, or file a realistic plan of reorganization, or otherwise file appropriate papers aimed at stopping the running [of] postpetition default interest owed to Patch (and any other creditors whose interests are secured by that property and who might be able to charge default interest under 11 U.S.C. 506(b)) and

(iii) interest payments to Patch: if any such treatment of Patch has not been accomplished by 11/12/19, pay Patch on that date all accrued postpetition interests, at the non-default interest rate, and thereafter maintain current in such payments . . . . [Stay Order, dkt.31 (emphasis added)]

Debtor alleges that she has met the first deadline above by filing her motion to disallow Movant's default interest. For purposes of this tentative ruling, this Court expresses no view on that issue. But Debtor does not dispute that she has failed to meet the second deadline: she has not paid accrued and ongoing postpetition interest at the nondefault rate. See dkt. 147, Donatoni Decl., para. 13; dkt. 159, p. 9:28-10:2 (PDF pp. 12-13).

(b) Other developments

Two other developments, described below, may provide context. But they do nothing to amend the second deadline in the Stay Order, quoted above. So this Court ultimately concludes that these two other developments are not presently relevant, although both might be relevant in future.

First, on 9/26/19 Debtor filed a motion to obtain postpetition financing (the "Financing Motion," dkt. 75). But for the reasons set forth in this Court's tentative ruling and on the record, this Court denied that motion. Although the Finance Motion might be evidence of Debtor's efforts to move this case forward, and perhaps Debtor will seek approval of new financing at a later time, these things are different from showing compliance with the Stay Order.

As an aside, this Court directed Debtor to lodge a proposed order, but it appears Debtor has not done so. Accordingly, Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing and attach a copy of the tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling (subject to any changes ordered at the hearing).

Second, on 11/12/19, Debtor filed a motion challenging the validity of Movant's assertion that it is entitled to default interest and late fees (dkt. 123, the "Default Interest Motion"), but the hearing on that motion has been continued several times (dkt. 129, 133, 141) and the current hearing is set for 5/5/20 at 1:00 p.m. (dkt. 164). Even if Debtor were to prevail on the Default Interest Motion, that might or might not establish that Debtor has any equity in the subject property - that issue is disputed. For present purposes, the point is only that this Court cannot presume that Debtor will prevail, and therefore any analysis of Movant's claim, or of the equity in the subject property, cannot presume that Movant's claim for default interest will be disallowed.

(3) Grounds for relief under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1)&(2)

(a) Debtor's failure to meet one or more deadlines in the Stay Order is, by itself, "cause" for at least some form of relief from the automatics stay

The tentative ruling is that Movant has established "cause" for relief (11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1)) simply by showing that Debtor has missed one (or more) of the deadlines in the Stay Order. That order conditionally found that Debtor had met her burden to overcome the presumption that she has not filed this case in good faith, but only on the condition that she "must" meet the deadlines in that order - i.e., she had to demonstrate her good faith by adequate prosecution of this case. Now Debtor has the burden to show, by clear and convincing evidence, that she can overcome the presumption of a lack of good faith under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3) even though she has not met one or more deadlines in the Stay Order. See Stay Order (dkt.31, Ex.1, pp.3-5).

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not met this burden on the present record. Debtor offers various excuses, but (as described below) they are unsupported by any substantial evidence or even a meaningful description of her prospects of making further progress and, meanwhile, protecting creditors' interests.

Therefore the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to grant Movant the limited relief set forth at the start of this tentative ruling. That limited relief will permit Debtor some additional time to demonstrate (belatedly) her good faith.

(b) "Adequate protection," and necessity of the subject property to an "effective" reorganization

Chapter 11

Alternatively - even if this Court were persuaded not to revisit the "good faith" issue under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3), as set forth above - the reasoning underlying the Stay Order still applies. One reason that this Court imposed the deadlines in the Stay Order was that those deadlines were part of the protection of Movant's interest that was required for "adequate protection" (11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1)). The burden is on Debtor to establish that Movant is protected by an equity cushion that is large enough to provide adequate protection despite missing the deadline to commence adequate protection payments. To date, Debtor has not done so. See Stay Order (dkt.31, Ex.1, part "(3)", entitled "Adequate protection of [Movant's] interests [in the subject property]").

Alternatively, the Stay Order set the deadlines therein as a method of measuring the progress that Debtor would need to show to establish that the subject property was necessary to an "effective" reorganization (11 U.S.C. 362(d)(2)(B)). See Stay Order (dkt.31, Ex.1, part "(2)(d)", entitled "Apparently sensible strategy [for attempting an effective reorganization]"). On this issue, too, Debtor has not followed through: at this later stage of the bankruptcy case (as described below), Debtor has not shown that she still could file a plan of reorganization that will have "a reasonable possibility of being confirmed within a reasonable time." United Sav. Assn. of Tex. v. Timbers of Inwood Forest Assoc's, Ltd., 484 U.S. 365, 375-76 (1988) (citation omitted).

In reaching this tentative ruling, this Court interprets 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(2) as requiring a stronger possibility of confirmation the longer the case is pending. But the tentative ruling is to reject any specific stages (such as deadlines keyed to the expiration of any exclusivity period) or any specific adjectives that attempt to capture all of the facts and circumstances that might be presented at each stage (such as progressing from a showing that a successful reorganization is "plausible" to being "probable" to being "assured"). Cf. dkt.147, pp.6:18-7:4 (citing In re Sun Valley Newspapers, 171 B.R. 71, 75 (9th Cir. BAP 1994)). This Court interprets Sun Valley as illustrating the type of analysis that bankruptcy courts typically apply in applying the "effective reorganization" standard of 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(2)(B), not as imposing any mandate that all bankruptcy courts must follow precisely such deadlines and adjectives. Alternatively, the tentative ruling is that this Court would reach the same result even if that were Sun Valley's holding (and even if this Bankruptcy Court were to hold that BAP decisions are binding, which has not been definitively established in the Ninth Circuit).

(4) Debtor's burden under the foregoing standards

Debtor faces an uphill battle. As this Court explained in the Stay Order, Debtor faces "numerous hurdles to a successful chapter 11 restructuring of her finances" (id., Ex.1, p.2), and her evidence of an ability to do so was "woefully inadequate" to show that she could feasibly reorganize at the time of that order, but at that "very early stage of this bankruptcy case" this Court afforded Debtor considerable leeway. Id., Ex.1, p.3. Now, at this later stage, Debtor has substantially less leeway, and she offers many excuses but no significant evidence of progress. It is possible that negotiations or litigation with Debtor's insurer will lead to something, but there is no evidence that they will.

Debtor's counter-arguments appear to rely on two possibilities. One possibility would be a valuation of the subject property that is sufficiently great to provide so large an equity cushion that no periodic payments to Movant are required (perhaps in conjunction with disallowing Movant's default interest and late charges). Another possibility would be some breakthrough with Debtor's insurer that would fund further repairs to the property in time to obtain a refinancing or establish cash flow to make periodic payments.

Although Debtor states that "[t]here are a few lenders very interested in [] refinancing the Property now that there is some solid progress being made on the insurance claim" (dkt. 159, p.15:2-3), Debtor has not attached evidence supporting these assertions. The declaration of Craig Bordon of ClaimsXP (the proposed claims adjuster) provides no details about the status of his efforts to obtain more insurance proceeds (dkt. 159, pp.23-24).

Finally, Debtor makes it clear that she cannot sell the Bel Air Property to capitalize on any equity. According to Debtor, the anticipated capital gains taxes could be around $1 million, which would seriously if not entirely deplete any equity in the property (id., p. 17:1-4).

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not met her burdens under any of the foregoing analysis, but she will continue to have the opportunity to attempt to show these things, if she can do so in time. Meanwhile it is appropriate to grant relief from the automatic stay as set forth at the start of this tentative ruling.

Chapter 11

The tentative ruling is that this Court cannot resolve the parties' valuation disputes without an evidentiary hearing, or possibly some other procedure, such as an agreement of the parties to be bound by the valuation determined by an independent appraiser selected by each of their appraisers. The parties are directed to address their preferred methods of valuation, and associated deadlines and other procedures, at the hearing.

(6) Treating Debtor's opposition as a request for reconsideration

Debtor's opposition could be construed as including a request for this Court to reconsider the deadlines in the Stay Order under Rule 9024 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). But the tentative ruling is that Debtor must file a separate motion if she seeks such relief, and in any event she has not established sufficient legal or factual grounds for reconsideration.

(7) Evidentiary objections

The tentative ruling is that Movant's evidentiary objections are well taken (dkt. 166), except that any untimeliness is insufficient to warrant striking the proffered evidence. But even considering all of Debtor's proffered evidence, the tentative ruling is that such evidence would not alter the outcome.

(8) Mr. Haycock's request for relief if Movant is granted relief (dkt. 157)

The tentative ruling is to grant Mr. Haycock's request that, if Movant is granted relief, it should be on the condition that parallel relief be granted to Mr. Haycock.

(9) Relief applicable notwithstanding any future bankruptcy cases ("in rem" relief)

The tentative ruling is that, although Debtor's failure to meet the deadlines in the Stay Order has reopened the question of Debtor's good faith, that is not quite enough to establish that the filing of the petition commencing this case was part of a "scheme" to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors (or any other grounds for in rem relief). Such relief requires a more showing of more egregious acts, or failures to act, than what is required to show "cause" for relief in this current bankruptcy case.

This Court is empathetic to Debtor, and to other creditors whose interests might be prejudiced if Movant proceeds towards foreclosure. But in the nearly nine months that Debtor has been in bankruptcy (in her prior case and this one), she has failed to adequately use the tools available to her under the Bankruptcy Code to pay-off Movant's lien, restructure her finances, and/or establish that Movant is adequately protected, absent relief of the sort granted at the start of this tentative ruling.

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that, although the history of this case and Debtor's prior bankruptcy case call into question whether Debtor might have participated in such a scheme, there is not notice that Movant seeks such a ruling against Debtor.

As this Court has noted on other occasions, debtors receive many papers, not all of which require action. A debtor who receives a motion for relief from the automatic stay regarding a property in which the debtor might not assert any interest (in a hijacked case), or that the debtor is prepared to surrender, might not understand that there is any need to respond to the motion in order to avoid possible prejudice to the debtor (see below).

No prejudice to Debtor intended. Based on the record, it appears that this is a "hijacked" case, and that Debtor is innocent of any involvement. See e.g., In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017) (describing hijacking); In re Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) (same). In a hijacking case, the Debtor faces the legitimate concern of being subject to a 180-day bar and other adverse consequences if, for example, Debtor later requests and obtains a voluntary dismissal and subsequently needs to file another bankruptcy petition. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(2), 362(b)(21) (A). There is authority that section 109 "eligibility issues" are nonjurisdictional, can be waived, forfeited, or subject to estoppel, and should not be applied if that would produce an "illogical, unjust, or capricious result, or when the benefit of dismissal would inure to a bad faith creditor." In re

Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to condition the relief from the automatic stay granted in this tentative ruling such that no adverse consequences apply to Debtor from the hijacking, including under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(2) or 362(b)(21)(A). Note: None of the foregoing will shield Debtor if it turns out that Debtor was not, in fact, innocent of any involvement in the apparent hijacking or other abusive scheme.

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

#10.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

vs
DEBTOR

Docket 13

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, this court grants relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1), (d)(2), and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is not sufficient evidence and notice.

No prejudice to Debtor intended. Based on the record, it appears that this is a "hijacked" case, and that Debtor is innocent of any involvement. See e.g., In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017) (describing hijacking); In re Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) (same). In a hijacking case, the Debtor faces the legitimate concern of being subject to a 180-day bar and other adverse consequences if, for example, Debtor later requests and obtains a voluntary dismissal and subsequently needs to file another bankruptcy petition. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(2), 362(b)(21) (A). There is authority that section 109 "eligibility issues" are nonjurisdictional, can be waived, forfeited, or subject to estoppel, and should not be applied if that would produce an "illogical, unjust, or capricious result, or when the benefit of dismissal would inure to a bad faith creditor." In re Leifty, 489 B.R. 545, 550-51 (9th Cir. Bap 2012) (citing cases including under 109(g)(2)). See also In re Mendez, 367 B.R. 109, 116-17 (9th Cir. BAP 2007); In re Luna, 122 B.R. 575, 577 (9th Cir. BAP 1991); Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261, 270. The same principles apply to any other adverse consequences from a hijacking. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to condition the relief from the automatic stay granted in this tentative ruling such that no adverse consequences apply to Debtor from the hijacking, including under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(2) or 362(b)(21)(A). Note: None of the foregoing will shield Debtor if it turns out that Debtor was not, in fact, innocent of any involvement in the apparent hijacking or other abusive scheme.

Effective date of relief

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

(sometimes referred to in the mortgage context as the "original borrower").
Reasons: See LBR 4001-1(c)(1)(B). In addition, Judge Bason has due process concerns about granting such relief without service on the person(s) whose interests may be most directly affected. See generally Mullane v. Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co., 339 U.S. 306 (1950) (due process generally). In this matter, such persons appear to include: Co-borrower, Juana Sanchez.

Option for shortened time: This Court has selected a continued hearing date that contemplates shortened notice (per Rule 9006) but that date is conditioned on the movant (i) serving, on the day after the current hearing date, the motion papers and notice of the continued hearing date, and (ii) filing that notice and a proof of service no later than the next day. Alternatively, the movant may self-calendar a continued hearing on regular notice.

Option for interim/partial order: Movant may elect to lodge a proposed order granting the partial relief provided in this tentative ruling, but any such order must recite that a continued hearing has been set to consider additional relief (or, alternatively, that the movant no longer seeks additional relief and the Clerk's office is requested and directed to take the continued hearing off calendar).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

#16.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 7

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions. Appearances are not required.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

(3) Very limited ruling. This Court's tentative ruling to grant the foregoing relief is solely for purposes of this motion, and is not intended to have any binding effect with respect to any future assertions by any party in interest regarding the existence or lack of existence of good faith in any other context.

Tentative Ruling for 1/28/20:

Appearances required. This matter was continued to this date to allow time for the parties to attempt to resolve this dispute. Based on this Court's review of the filed documents and records in this case, including Debtor's response (dkt.119) and Movant's reply (dkt.124) the tentative ruling is that Debtor has not rebutted Movant's evidence that Debtor is seriously in default, but that Debtor as the owner of the property is competent to provide an opinion as to its value, and Debtor has asserted a very substantial equity cushion, so the parties should be prepared to address whether Debtor can and will refinance the debt, or sell the property, or propose some other realistic strategy for addressing her missed payments.

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Docket 87

Tentative Ruling:

Revised Tentative Ruling for 3/10/20:

Deny/overrule the claim objection. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Chao is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(1) Introduction

Creditors Wei Dong, Wenrui Wang and Zongzhi Hu (the "Alleged Employees") have filed an objection (dkt. 87) to Proof of Claim 2 ("Claim 2"), filed by claimant the Law Offices of Lynn Chao, APC ("Chao"). This Court has reviewed Chao's opposition (dkt. 104, 105) and the Alleged Employees' reply (dkt. 110).

As a preliminary matter, it is not clear to this Court why this bankruptcy case was filed, when the only issues being litigated here appear to be the subject of pending litigation in State Court. Nevertheless, Debtor chose to file this case (perhaps to delay those State Court proceedings, or perhaps for other reasons). Debtor having chosen this forum, the Alleged Employees took advantage of the opportunity to seek discovery that is broader in bankruptcy than it is outside of bankruptcy. Eventually Chao, perhaps acting for Debtor's affiliated parties, countered by seeking to disallow the Alleged Employees' claims and, when that did not work, by seeking her own discovery in this forum from the Alleged Employees. Now the Alleged Employees, perhaps as a method of blocking any discovery or other proceedings by Chao, have objected to Claim 2.

Whether or not these apparent motives are true, this Court is concerned about the amount of litigation over these issues. Nevertheless, the claim objection is properly before this Court and the tentative ruling is as follows.

(2) Legal standard

A proof of claim executed and filed in accordance with Rule 3001(f) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim. To overcome the presumption of validity, an objector "must produce evidence tending to defeat the claim that is of a probative force equal to that of the creditor's proof of claim." In re Consolidated Pioneer Mortgage, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995). More precisely, "the objector must produce evidence which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency," and if the objector produces "sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence." Id.

In addition, even if the proof of claim is not entitled to "prima facie" validity, the statute directs that claims must be allowed unless there is a specific basis to object to them. See 11 U.S.C. 502; In re Campbell, 336 B.R. 430 (9th Cir. BAP 2005); In re Heath, 331 B.R. 424 (9th Cir. BAP 2005).

(3) The Alleged Employees have not cited authority that they have any legal basis to disallow Claim

The Alleged Employees' principal stated basis for disallowance of Claim 2 is that the Chao attorney who prepared, signed and filed Debtor's petition was not authorized to practice law in California or admitted to practice before this Court. There is no citation to any authority that this (a) rendered the filing of the petition void or voidable, or (b) rendered those legal services valueless.

The Alleged Employees jump to the conclusion that Chao inevitably will be ordered to disgorge the $5,000 in fees already received. They appear to argue that this presumed disgorgement should be set off against Chao's Claim 2 and reduce it to zero.

The Alleged Employees' reliance on 11 U.S.C. 502(b)(4) is misplaced. The Alleged Employees have not addressed how the pre-petition services that form the basis for Claim 2 exceeded the reasonable value of what Chao charged.

(4) Evidentiary issues

Chao has asserted evidentiary objections (dkt. 105). But the tentative ruling is that this Court declines to rule on those objections because it would not change the outcome. Even if this Court were to consider all of the Alleged Employees' evidence filed in support of the claim objection, the tentative ruling is that they still have failed to carry their burden for the reasons set forth above.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #3.00 Hrg re: Motion by Unsecured Creditors Wei Dong,
Wenrui Wang, and Zongzhi Hu for Protective Order

Docket 82

Tentative Ruling:

Revised Tentative Ruling for 3/10/20:

Grant the motion for protective order. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: The Alleged Employees are directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(1) Background

On 1/27/20, creditors Wei Dong, Wenrui Wang and Zongzhi Hu (the "Alleged Employees") filed an ex parte motion for protective order prohibiting the Law Offices of Lynn Cha, APC ("Chao") from issuing any discovery from them in connection with this case (dkt. 82, the "Motion for Protective Order"). In advance of other hearings in this case scheduled for 2/18/20, this Court issued the following tentative ruling addressing the motion:

(2) The Alleged Employees' Motion for Protective Order (dkt. 82)

This motion was presented on an ex parte basis. No response has been filed, and until now this Court taken no action on this - neither granting nor denying this motion.

The tentative ruling is temporarily to maintain the status quo. Specifically, the tentative ruling is to grant a temporary stay of any discovery against the Alleged Employees (as distinguished from discovery by the Alleged Employees, which may go forward), and direct the Alleged Employees to file and serve a notice, no later than 2/20/20, setting this matter for hearing on 3/10/20 at 11:00 a.m., concurrent with the Alleged Employees' objection to the Law Offices of Lynn Chao, APC's proof of claim, with any opposition papers due 3/3/20 and any reply at the hearing. Chapter 7

On 2/19/20, the Alleged Employees gave notice of this hearing (dkt. 97), but as of the preparation of this tentative ruling, Chao has not filed an opposition.

(3) Analysis

(a) Chao's alleged lack of standing

In support of the Motion for Protective Order, the Alleged Employees argue that Chao lacks standing to seek discovery relevant to the extent and validity of their claim against Debtor's estate because Chao is not a creditor. But for the reasons set forth in this Court's tentative ruling denying the Alleged Employees' objection to Chao's proof of claim (see tentative ruling for calendar no. 2, 3/10/20 at 11:00 a.m.), the tentative ruling is that Chao has standing to seek discovery related to their claim.

The Alleged Employees also assert grounds not included in their objection to Chao's proof of claim - namely, that Chao could not have asserted any claim, because that would have disqualified her, citing In re CIC Inv. Corp., 175 B.R. 52 (9th Cir. BAP 1994). But CIC was a chapter 11 case involving postpetition services for the "debtor in possession," as trustee for the benefit of creditors, by an attorney who also asserted a secured claim against the debtor. It has no relevance to Chao's services to a chapter 7 debtor, who is not a trustee for the benefit of creditors.

(b) Sequence of discovery

Alternatively, the Alleged Employees argue that it is premature to permit Chao to seek discovery from them because it is not yet known whether this will be an asset estate that will provide any distributions to creditors. The tentative ruling is to grant the motion on this basis and stay all discovery sought from the Employees absent further order of this Court. See also In re Cobbs, 2018 WL 5289698, at *8, 2018 Bankr. LEXIS 3293, at *22 (9th Cir. BAP Oct. 24, 2018) (Pursuant to Civil Rule 26, made applicable in bankruptcy by Rule 7026, "bankruptcy courts have the power to control the sequence and timing of discovery").

Alternatively, the tentative ruling is that a protective order is warranted because the discovery sought from the Alleged Employees appears to be duplicative of the issues being litigated in the State Court litigation. Unless and until Chao shows otherwise, it appears appropriate to defer any discovery from the Alleged Employees in this forum.

(c) No stay of Employees' pending Rule 2004 discovery

As this Court has previously ruled, nothing in the foregoing tentative ruling is intended to limit the Alleged Employees' pending discovery regarding Debtor and its affiliates under Rule 2004 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). The quid pro quo of Debtor having obtained the benefit of bankruptcy relief is that creditors are entitled to request discovery pursuant to Rule 2004. In addition, this Court previously has ruled that Chao has waived and/or forfeited its rights to object on new grounds.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." (a) Debtor's motion for order authorizing Debtor to enter into plan treatment negotiations with unsecured creditors (the "Plan Negotiations Motion," dkt. 1011) and joinder of Committee (dkt.1018)

Grant, subject to the following:

(i) sustain Debtor's position regarding the non-inclusion of objecting to the Plan on "other" grounds (i.e., other than because the creditor believes the Plan does not include the terms of their agreement) (dkt.1019, p.2:21-22, and Ex.1, p.3:2-3), because of (x) the risk of confusion and (y) the fact that, in connection with any proposed plan, creditors will be notified of their rights to object (if they have the right and grounds to do so);

(ii) replace the phrase, "this is a BUSINESS RISK which you, and all her creditors accept and must be considered by you ..." (emphasis added), with the phrase, "this is a BUSINESS RISK which you, and all her creditors, must consider ..." (dkt.1019, Ex.1, p.3:13-15);

(iii) fill in the "cash" amount with whatever is the dollar amount listed on the most recent Monthly Operating Report (id., p.4:15);

(iv) correct the word "estimates" (id., p.4:21); and

(v) include, in the proposed order granting the motion, an ordering paragraph stating that "Debtor is directed, prior to any negotiations with any creditor, to provide such creditor with a copy of (A) this order and (B) the "Statement To Be Provided To Creditors Making Payment Agreements

Appearances required. This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv. dkt. 14) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. Revised Tentative Ruling for 2/18/20:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtors' amended Disclosure Statement (dkt. 133) and amended Chapter 11 Plan of reorganization (dkt. 134)

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/28/20 for Debtors to file, BUT NOT SERVE on anyone except the United States Trustee and parties requesting a copy, a further amended Plan and amended Disclosure Statement to correct the issues discussed below. Debtors' counsel are cautioned that serving these draft documents as they have done (dkt.133, pp.83-85) is contrary to this Court's directions (see, e.g., Tentative Ruling for 1/28/20, part (2)(c), reproduced below), and is also wasteful of photocopying and postage expenses.

(i) Erroneous/duplicative text

Debtor's Disclosure Statement (dkt.133, at PDF p.9:13-15) states that Debtors propose to pay the IRS over 60 months. But that is longer than permitted under 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(9), and it is also inconsistent with their Exhibit A (dkt.133, at PDF pp.14&16) which proposes to pay the IRS over 48 months. Debtors have also classified the IRS as Class 3A, but priority tax debts are required to be unclassified. 11 U.S.C. 1123(a)(1).

These inconsistencies and errors illustrate the problems and confusion that can be caused by Debtors departing from the required forms and inserting their own text. The tentative ruling is to direct Debtors to delete all of the text inserted into the forms (e.g., dkt.133 at PDF pp.2, 3, 4, 7-12).

(ii) Disclosure Statement, Exhibits A and C (dkt.133 at PDF pp.14, 27-35 )

Again, Debtors are causing problems by departing from the required forms. Under an attachment to Exhibit C (dkt.133 at PDF p.30, line 3b), Debtors are directed to make adjustments to avoid double counting. But, for example, Debtors have double counted their $2,480.18 monthly mortgage payment on their rental property: both in their bankruptcy Schedule J (dkt.133 at PDF p.35) that they use to calculate disposable income and in their proposed Exhibit A showing distributions to creditors (dkt.133, Ex.A, at PDF p.14, Class 2A).

Again, Debtors must follow the forms: do not count that mortgage payment in calculating net income available to pay creditors (adjust the calculations in bankruptcy Schedule J to "back out" any debt payments or other double-counting), and list payments of debts only once, in Exhibit A.

(iii) Schedules I & J

Debtors have not complied with this Court's tentative ruling below (1/28/20) directing them to file corrected bankruptcy Schedules I & J that reflect income and expenses as of the petition date, not later dates. Why not? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/28/20 for Debtors to file corrected bankruptcy Schedules I & J.

(b) Fee Application of A.O.E. Law & Associates ("AOE") (dkt. 126, 127), UST's opposition (dkt. 131), stipulation resolving UST's opposition (dkt. 136), Debtors' declaration (dkt. 139)

Applicant seeks an interim award of $6,591 in fees and $87.30 in expenses, for a total award of $6,678.30. The tentative ruling is to grant in part and deny in part the application as follows.

First, AOE states that it performed $10,150 in services for Debtors during the relevant fee period, but has applied a $3,559 retainer against those fees, so it only seeks approval of $6,591 in fees. Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 330(a), all fees and expenses incurred in connection with AOE's representation of Debtors in this case must be approved by this Court. Therefore, the fee application should have requested approval of $10,150 in fees, but only sought payment of 6,591 in fees.

The tentative ruling is that, although the fee application is deficient and somewhat confusing on this issue, it includes sufficient disclosures that parties in interest have been notified of the totals that are really sought. Therefore, this Court can approve the correct totals (with a caution to counsel to list the correct amounts next time).

Second, the order authorizing AOE's employment is effective as of 9/29/19 (dkt. 117), but AOE seeks $1,125 in fees for two time entries billed on 9/28/19 without addressing why such fees are warranted. The tentative ruling is to treat the fee application as including a request to amend the employment order to authorize earlier employment by a day or two, and direct Debtor to lodge a proposed amended employment order (again, with a caution to counsel to use the correct dates next time).

Third, pursuant to the stipulation resolving the UST's opposition, AOE has agreed to reduce its fees by an additional $645 (dkt. 136).

Based on the foregoing, the tentative ruling is to approve $9,505.00 in fees ($10,150.00 - $645.00 = $9,505.00) in fees and $87.30 in expenses, for a total award of $9,592.30, and direct Debtors to pay $6,033.30 ($9,592.30 - $3,559.00 retainer = $6,033.30).

Proposed order: Applicant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtors' Disclosure Statement (dkt. 123) and chapter 11 Plan of reorganization (dkt. 124)

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/4/20 for Debtors to file corrected bankruptcy Schedules I&J, a declaration of postpetition income and expenses, a corrected and "blacklined" Disclosure Statement, and a corrected and "blacklined" Plan, addressing the following issues:

(i) Debtors' net income calculations are very confusing

Debtors' net income calculations are confusing for three reasons. First, bankruptcy Schedules I and J (filed both as part of the Plan documents and separately) are supposed to reflect income and expenses as of the petition date, not later dates. For later dates, Debtors should have used this Court's local form declaration of postpetition income and expenses. Using the wrong forms is confusing and misleading.

Second, it appears from this Court's notes of the hearing on 7/30/19 that Debtors moved out of their Locust Avenue duplex at some point, so they are now renting out both units (and meanwhile they are themselves renting their living space for $1,000/mo.); but the Plan and Disclosure Statement do not make this clear. In addition, Debtors appear to list income from three renters - what space is the extra renter occupying, given that the property is a duplex not a triplex? Specifically, amended Schedule I, line 8a, lists $1,600/mo. income (tenant #1), and line 8h and Ex.A list two more tenants paying a total of $3,445/mo. (tenants #2&3). Is this accurate?

Third, Debtors' mortgage obligation does not appear to be included either in their calculation of net income from their rental property (amended bankruptcy Schedule I, dkt.122, at PDF pp.29-30, line 8a & Ex.A) or in their expenses (Schedule J, line 20a, dkt.122, at PDF p.31). In one or another of those places, they should have included their mortgage expense of $2,480.18 for principal and interest (dkt.122, at PDF p.30).

That error is balanced out by the fact that the Plan proposes to pay that amount. But the correct way to show this would have been to file an accurate declaration of postpetition income and expenses and then, in the Disclosure Statement, adjust Debtors' net income by backing out whatever mortgage was included in the declaration of postpetition income and expenses. Exhibit C-1 to the Disclosure Statement has a line to make such adjustments.

(ii) The Plan in its current form is infeasible by $325 on the Effective Date

Debtors' cash flow statement (dkt.123, Ex.C) shows a negative balance on the effective date: it gives the impression that the Plan is infeasible because Debtors would not be able to make the mandatory $325 payment to the UST on the effective date (see 11 USC 1129(a)(12)). Debtors are directed to address whether they will have sufficient cash on hand to make this payment.

(iii) The Plan does not comply with 11 USC 1129(a)(9)

Debtors propose to pay the IRS's claim over a period of 60 months, beginning on the proposed 4/1/20 effective date; but section 1129(a)(9) requires that the IRS's claim be paid in full within 5 years of the order for relief (i.e. 5 years from 4/10/19, or by 4/10/24).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 4/10/19 and converted from chapter 13 on 6/18/19.

(a) Bar date: 6/19/19, and supplemental bar date of 8/28/19 after conversion to chapter 11, notice timely served (see dkt. 66, 67)

#9.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case

Docket 49

Tentative Ruling:

Revised Tentative Ruling for 3/10/20:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's amendment of bankruptcy petition to elect Subchapter V (dkt. 128)

On 3/2/20, Debtor amended her petition to elect Subchapter V. The parties should be prepared to discuss the effect of that amendment, including any appropriate dates and deadlines for such matters as the appointment of a Subchapter V trustee, the filing of an amended plan, and any other applicable procedures that this Court may need to set at this time.

(b) No discernable progress since last hearing

The docket does not reflect any motion to sell or refinance any property, or other evidence of adequate prosecution of this case. Given the short time since the last hearing, the tentative ruling is that this Court will not take any action based on that lack of discernable progress, but to remind Debtor to be cognizant of the warnings that this Court set forth on the record at the last hearing.

(c) No corrected MOR

Debtor has not corrected the monthly operating report, which was not filed on the required form. See tentative ruling for 3/3/20 (reproduced below), item "(1)" "(b)". Why not?

(d) No statement reflecting apparent increase in income?

Despite two reminders, Debtor still has not filed a declaration of current/postpetition income and expenses. See Revised Tentative Rulings for 3/10/20 and 2/18/20 (reproduced below). Why not?

(e) Budget Motion (dkt. 85, 90), East West Bank's opposition (dkt. 94), Debtor's reply (dkt. 134), interim order (dkt.113)

Although this Court has concerns about whether Debtor's financial disclosures are accurate and complete (as set forth in various portions of this tentative ruling and prior tentative rulings), the proposed use of funds in the budget motion appears to be appropriate. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to grant the motion on a final basis, subject to the following.

First, any approval is subject possible reconsideration once Debtor finally files her statement of postpetition income and expenses, and files the other documents directed by this Court (see dkt.133), or as other facts may come to light. Second, the budget must be adjusted to accommodate the request of East West Bank for Debtor to increase her proposed monthly mortgage payment to $5,643.86, which Debtor has agreed to do (dkt. 134). Third, any approval is subject to the parties' rights to seek further relief, including approval of any stipulation for adequate protection.

(f) Cash Collateral Motion (dkt. 86, 90)

Grant the motion on a final basis, on the same terms as stated in the order (dkt.114) granting the motion on an interim basis, and subject to the same caveats and conditions as set forth above regarding the budget motion.

(g) Application to employ The Orantes Law Firm (the "Firm") (dkt. 72); statement of disinterestedness (dkt. 73); amended statement of disinterestedness (dkt. 82); Dec re non-opp (dkt. 98); order setting matter for hearing (dkt. 101)

The tentative ruling is to grant the application in part and deny it in part as follows.

Debtor seeks to employ the Firm pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 327, with compensation pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 330 at the following hourly rates for the Firm's attorneys: Giovanni Orantes: $695 and Luis A. Solorzano: $350 (dkt. 72, p.16). In determining the reasonableness of the proposed billing rates, 11 USC 330(a)(3)(B), (E) and (F) require this Court to consider, among other things, proposed counsel's hourly rates, any board certification or other demonstrated skill and experience in the bankruptcy field, and "the customary compensation charged by comparably skilled practitioners ...."

Based on a review of rates charged by other bankruptcy professionals practicing before this Court as well as this Court's familiarity with proposed counsel's skills and performance in pending and past cases before it, the tentative ruling is to approve the Firm's employment, subject to Judge Bason's standard employment terms (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov), but reduce the hourly rates that the Firm may charge to the following maximum dollar amounts, without in any way limiting the requirement that any rates charged and time spent still must be fully justified: Giovanni Orantes: $475/hour and Luis A. Solorzano: $250/hour.

In addition, the tentative ruling is that any waiver of conflicts of interest is ineffective as against the bankruptcy estate. (A "debtor in possession," acting as a trustee for the benefit of creditors, cannot waive conflicts on behalf of those creditors.)

(h) Motion for relief from stay (as amended, dkt. 93), debtor supplemental declaration (dkt.129), previously-filed papers (see tentative ruling for 3/3/20, reproduced at calendar no.13, 3/10/20 at 1:00 p.m.)

The tentative ruling is to continue this matter again, to be concurrent with the continued status conference (see below), so as to be able to assess (i) whether Debtor has adequately prosecuted this case, including selling or refinancing one or more properties (if that is realistic) or otherwise demonstrating progress that has been sorely lacking to date, and (ii) Debtor's papers regarding her non-debtor husband's finances, which are due 3/18/20. See Order (dkt.133).

Meanwhile, the parties should be prepared to address whether they have agreed upon procedures for valuing the property and whether further briefing is necessary regarding any issues of debtor's alleged bad faith. See dkt.132, 138.

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion for relief from stay (as amended, dkt. 93)

Grant, as set forth in the tentative ruling for calendar no. 15 (3/3/20 at 1:00 p.m.).

(b) Monthly operating report ("MOR") #1 (for Jan, 2020, dkt.103)

Debtor's MOR is not on the form that is familiar to this Court. Has the Office of the United States Trustee changed its form? Debtor reports $0 income for the month of January. Were rents paid prior to conversion to chapter 11 (i.e., prior to 1/2/20), and if so, how much rental income did Debtor receive for January, and when?

(c) Income and expenses

Debtor still has not filed a declaration of current/postpetition income and expenses. See Revised Tentative Ruling for 2/18/20 (reproduced below). Why not?

about Debtor's rental income. They list only gross rents per building instead of, e.g., a rent roll listing each tenant and their rental rate and information about whether those rents are reliable, such as a rental history. Nor does Debtor provide any breakdown of expenses, beyond what appears to be Debtor's rough estimate of $6,000 per month in mortgage payments, which appears to omit any payments to liens that Debtor is disputing. Nothing appears to be allocated for rental property maintenance, repairs, utilities, gardening, etc.

In addition, creditor Tremblay has questioned whether Debtor is omitting community property income of her non-debtor spouse, Mr. Behzad Beroukhai. See dkt.119, p.2:17-28. As Tremblay notes, Mr. Beroukhai allegedly pays all expenses related to certain real property, but Debtor has not disclosed and accounted for such past and ongoing funds. This Court also notes that Mr. Beroukhai is not listed as a codebtor on any debts. See Bankruptcy Schedule H (dkt.10 at PDF p.30, line 1). What is the true situation, and are Debtor's disclosures accurate?

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/6/20 for Debtor to file and serve amended Schedules I and J, an amended SOFA, and any other documents that may be necessary or appropriate to provide much more comprehensive information about her income, expenses, assets, liabilities, and other aspects of her finances.

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor but telephonic appearances are encouraged if advance arrangements are made (see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.", "Instructions/Procedures").

(1) Current issues

(a) Budget Motion (dkt. 85, 90), East West Bank's opposition (dkt. 94)

The tentative ruling is to grant in part and deny in part the budget motion, on an interim basis, such that Debtor is authorized to make the expenditures in her proposed budget but must provide additional adequate protection payments to East West Bank to bring the total payment from $4,619.32 to $5,140.78, without prejudice to Debtor and East West Bank establishing an evidentiary basis for a lesser or greater dollar amount either (i) for adequate protection payments, (ii) for purposes of any chapter 11 plan, or (iii) for any other reason. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/25/20 for East West Bank to file a declaration with a copy of advance notice to Debtor regarding the increased monthly mortgage payments, a deadline of 3/4/20 for any response by Debtor, and any reply by East West Bank permitted at the continued hearing, to be held contemporaneous with the continued status conference (see below).

Debtor states (dkt.85, Ex.1, at PDF p.7, 1st footnote) that she recently had an increase income. But, as of the preparation of this tentative ruling, Debtor has not filed a declaration of current/postpetition income and expenses. Why not?

(b) Cash Collateral Motion (dkt. 86, 90)

(1) Current issues

(a) Lack of progress

Debtor has only very belatedly filed a status report (dkt.65) (one week after it was required by this Court's order, dkt. 50). Worse, long after this case was converted to chapter 11 (11/20/19) she has only now filed an application to employ counsel and a budget motion, and she admits (dkt. 65, p.2) that she has not filed her list of 20 largest unsecured creditors. In addition, she admits that she has not filed any cash collateral motion(s) (id.,

What remedies should this Court impose on Debtor and/or her counsel for this pervasive failure to comply with her obligations under the Bankruptcy Code? What assurances can they provide this Court that similar problems will not happen in future?

Judge Bason's standard conditions for use of cash collateral and/or postpetition financing (by creditors holding prepetition claims)

(1) Written order

(a) Form. Use local form

F2081-2.1.ORDER.CASH.COLLATERAL or the equivalent. Attach a copy of this tentative ruling as an exhibit, thereby adopting it as the written ruling of this Court, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. Do not repeat the terms set forth in the motion or any stipulation. Incorporate those terms by reference (including the docket number of the document), subject to any modification by this Court.

(b) Timing. Lodge the proposed order within 7 days after the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Minimum adequate protection

In addition to the postpetition security interests that are automatically provided pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 552 (e.g., in traceable proceeds and profits), and subject to any more comprehensive protection that may be included in the motion or related papers, Debtor shall provide at least the following protection to any creditor with a security interest in the subject property (pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 361-364, as applicable):

(a) Insurance. For all collateral of a type that typically is insured (e.g., real property and improvements), Debtor is directed to maintain insurance in a dollar amount at least equal to Debtor's good faith estimate of the value of such creditor's interest in the collateral, and such insurance shall name such creditor as an additional insured. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments for such insurance.

(b) Taxes. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments on account of postpetition real estate taxes (to the extent that real estate is part of the collateral).

(c) Disclosures/access. Debtor is directed to provide, upon such creditor's reasonable request, periodic accountings of the foregoing insurance and tax obligations and payments, as well as postpetition proceeds, products, offspring, or profits from the collateral, including gross revenues and expenses and a calculation of net revenues, including any rents and any fees, charges, accounts, or other payments for the use or occupancy of rooms and other public facilities in lodging properties (as all of the foregoing terms are used in 11 U.S.C. 552). Debtor is directed to provide appropriate documentation of those accountings, and access for purposes of inspection or appraisal.

(3) Limitation on postpetition liens

In the event that the motion or related papers seek authority to grant postpetition liens to the creditor(s) with respect to prepetition debts any such liens shall be limited to the same validity, priority, and amount as prepetition liens. As used herein, the "validity, priority, and amount" or any similar phrase that may be used by the parties or this Court is deemed to include the following:

(a) Extent. Such liens shall be limited to the type of collateral in which the creditor held a security interest as of the petition date, unless this order expressly states that the liens granted by this order are intended to attach to different types of collateral from the prepetition collateral. For example, if prepetition liens extended to inventory and accounts receivable but not equipment then postpetition liens are likewise limited (unless otherwise expressly provided by order of this Court). In addition, postpetition liens shall not extend to the proceeds of any avoidance actions, any recoveries under 11 U.S.C. 506(c), or any "carveout" under 11 U.S.C. 552.

(b) Priority. Such liens shall be limited to the same priority as the security interest held by the creditor as of the petition date.

(c) Dollar amount. Such liens shall be limited to the dollar amount needed to protect the creditor against diminution in the value of the secured claims as of the petition date.

(d) Enforceability. Such liens shall be limited to the extent that the creditor's security interests were duly perfected and valid as of the petition date, and to the extent that they are unavoidable.

(e) Automatic postpetition perfection. Any automatic perfection of such liens shall be subject to any applicable limitations regarding the Court's authority, jurisdiction, or due process.

(4) Automatic disapproval of insufficiently disclosed provisions

Any provision of the type listed in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or in local form F4001-2 (e.g., cross-collateralization) or any waiver of the "equities of the case" exception in 11 U.S.C. 552(b)(2) shall be deemed automatically disapproved and excepted from any order granting the motion, notwithstanding any other provision of such order, unless either: (a) such provision is specifically and prominently disclosed in the motion papers in a checklist (such as local form F4001-2), or alternatively (b) such provision is specifically identified in any proposed order granting the motion, using terminology of the type used in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or local form F4001-2 (e.g., any "cross-collateralization" that is not specifically identified as such is deemed to be disapproved).

(5) Disputes

In the event of any disputes regarding the rulings in this order, the parties are directed to meet and confer and, if they cannot resolve their disputes consensually, contact Judge Bason's chambers to arrange a mutually convenient time for either a telephonic or in-person hearing to address such disputes.

Grant as set forth below. Appearances required.

Key documents reviewed: Original motion of Michael George Tremblay, as Trustee ("Tremblay") for relief from the automatic stay (dkt. 9), debtor's response (dkt. 11), Celtic Bank Corporation's limited objection (dkt. 18, 40), debtor's supplemental opposition and supporting declarations (dkt. 25, 26, 27, 29), stipulations to continue hearing and orders thereon (dkt. 62, 63, 83, 87), Tremblay's amended motion for relief from stay (dkt. 93), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 95) and evidentiary objections (dkt. 96), reply (dkt. 119).

Analysis

(1) Service

As Debtor points out (dkt.94, pp.4:13-5:2), under Rule 4001 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) a motion for relief from the automatic stay must be served on Debtor's list of 20 largest general unsecured creditors. Debtor asserts that the motion was not served in accordance with that rule; but the original motion was (dkt.9, at PDF pp.61-64) and Debtor cites no authority that the amendments to the motion were so substantial that they would require re-noticing. Any creditor who cared to follow the progress of the original motion would be able to do so, and file any papers or make any arguments they wish. The tentative ruling is that Debtor's argument that additional service is required is not persuasive.

(2) Evidentiary objections

The tentative ruling is to overrule Debtor's evidentiary objections (dkt.96), which are not well taken. For example, Debtor objects to Movant's valuation evidence on grounds of relevance. How can Debtor assert that the value of the subject property is irrelevant when it is clearly relevant under the statute (11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (2)) and when the Amended Motion asserts (dkt.93, p.3, para.4.a.(1)(A)&(B) & p.4, para.4.b.) that (i) the subject property's value is inadequate to protect Movant's interest and is declining, and (ii) Debtor lacks any equity in the property (and that the property is not necessary to an effective reorganization)?

(3) Valuation

Although valuation is relevant, the tentative ruling is that this Court cannot resolve the parties' valuation disputes without an evidentiary hearing (or other procedure, such as an agreement of the parties to be bound by the valuation determined by an independent appraiser selected by each of their appraisers). Normally this Court would set an evidentiary hearing (or other procedures) and establish associated deadlines and other procedures. But the tentative ruling is that all such procedures are unnecessary because Movant has shown other "cause" for relief from the automatic stay.

(4) Cause for relief from the automatic stay

Movant asserts that Debtor has shown bad faith, and that this is "cause" for relief from the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1). The tentative ruling is to agree.

This is Debtor's second bankruptcy case. The first case (Case No. 2:19-bk-21504-NB) was filed on 9/30/19 and dismissed on 11/5/19 for failure to file required documents. Before that case was dismissed, Tremblay filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay in which he pointed out that Debtor was ineligible for chapter 13 under 11 U.S.C. 109(e) and accused Debtor of intentionally misusing the bankruptcy system for purposes of delay. See Case No. 2:19-bk-21504-NB, dkt.10, p.5). Nevertheless, Debtor filed this case as another chapter 13 case on 11/20/19.

This Court recognizes that at the time each case was filed Debtor had no attorney of record. But Debtor owns multiple real properties and two businesses (one that recently ceased operating), and there is no showing that Debtor is unsophisticated.

Nor is there any showing that Debtor was unable to read and understand Tremblay's motion, or was unable to find an attorney to represent her, despite her substantial alleged assets and income. This Court takes judicial notice that other debtors with a range of assets, liabilities, income, expenses, and other characteristics regularly understand the chapter 13 debt limits and regularly retain bankruptcy attorneys, especially after having been accused of misusing the bankruptcy system.

In other words, Movant has established a prima facie showing that Debtor's two chapter 13 bankruptcy petitions were filed in bad faith. The burden is on Debtor to rebut that showing. Instead, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has done the opposite.

True, Debtor belatedly retained an attorney, and filed a motion to convert this case to chapter 11, which this Court granted effective just over two months ago, on 1/2/20. Subsequently, however, this Court has noted Debtor's lack of prosecution of this chapter 11 case. See Tentative Rulings for Status Conference (calendar no. 16, 3/3/20 at 1:00 p.m.).

Even now, over three months after the petition date (11/20/19), Debtor still has not proposed any sale of her properties, or other method to pay her creditors within a reasonable time. Debtor's filed papers suggest that she is entirely reliant on rental income, but that income is uncertain and the net amount apparently is very modest (if anything), after mortgages and other expenses (see Tentative Ruling for Status Conference, calendar no.16 on 3/3/20 at 1:00 p.m.). See also Jan. MOR (dkt.103) ($0 income reported).

Debtor proposes a chapter 11 plan (dkt.97) that appears unconfirmable on its face. As Movant points out, the plan proposes to modify Movant's claim (and another claim) both of which appear to be secured only by an interest in Debtor's principal residence, in contravention of 11 U.S.C. 1123(b)(5). See dkt.97, pp.3:1-4:10. Moreover, the plan proposes what appear to be interest-only payments with a balloon payment of the entire principal many months later. See dkt.97, Ex.A & A-1, at PDF pp.8&10, Classes 2A & 2B. See also dkt.119, p.3:1-8.

For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has filed and has prosecuted (or failed to prosecute) her two bankruptcy cases in bad faith. The tentative ruling is that this is sufficient "cause" for relief from the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1). Specifically, the tentative ruling is to grant the following relief.

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3).

Co-debtor stay

provided pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 552 (e.g., in traceable proceeds and profits), and subject to any more comprehensive protection that may be included in the motion or related papers, Debtor shall provide at least the following protection to any creditor with a security interest in the subject property (pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 361-364, as applicable):

(a) Insurance. For all collateral of a type that typically is insured (e.g., real property and improvements), Debtor is directed to maintain insurance in a dollar amount at least equal to Debtor's good faith estimate of the value of such creditor's interest in the collateral, and such insurance shall name such creditor as an additional insured. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments for such insurance.

(b) Taxes. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments on account of postpetition real estate taxes (to the extent that real estate is part of the collateral).

(c) Disclosures/access. Debtor is directed to provide, upon such creditor's reasonable request, periodic accountings of the foregoing insurance and tax obligations and payments, as well as postpetition proceeds, products, offspring, or profits from the collateral, including gross revenues and expenses and a calculation of net revenues, including any rents and any fees, charges, accounts, or other payments for the use or occupancy of rooms and other public facilities in lodging properties (as all of the foregoing terms are used in 11 U.S.C. 552). Debtor is directed to provide appropriate documentation of those accountings, and access for purposes of inspection or appraisal.

(3) Limitation on postpetition liens

In the event that the motion or related papers seek authority to grant postpetition liens to the creditor(s) with respect to prepetition debts any such liens shall be limited to the same validity, priority, and amount as prepetition liens. As used herein, the "validity, priority, and amount" or any similar phrase that may be used by the parties or this Court is deemed to include the following:

(a) Extent. Such liens shall be limited to the type of collateral in which the creditor held a security interest as of the petition date, unless this order expressly states that the liens granted by this order are intended to attach to different types of collateral from the prepetition collateral. but not equipment then postpetition liens are likewise limited (unless otherwise expressly provided by order of this Court). In addition, postpetition liens shall not extend to the proceeds of any avoidance actions, any recoveries under 11 U.S.C. 506(c), or any "carveout" under 11 U.S.C. 552.

(b) Priority. Such liens shall be limited to the same priority as the security interest held by the creditor as of the petition date.

(c) Dollar amount. Such liens shall be limited to the dollar amount needed to protect the creditor against diminution in the value of the secured claims as of the petition date.

(d) Enforceability. Such liens shall be limited to the extent that the creditor's security interests were duly perfected and valid as of the petition date, and to the extent that they are unavoidable.

(e) Automatic postpetition perfection. Any automatic perfection of such liens shall be subject to any applicable limitations regarding the Court's authority, jurisdiction, or due process.

(4) Automatic disapproval of insufficiently disclosed provisions

Any provision of the type listed in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or in local form F4001-2 (e.g., cross-collateralization) or any waiver of the "equities of the case" exception in 11 U.S.C. 552(b)(2) shall be deemed automatically disapproved and excepted from any order granting the motion, notwithstanding any other provision of such order, unless either: (a) such provision is specifically and prominently disclosed in the motion papers in a checklist (such as local form F4001-2), or alternatively (b) such provision is specifically identified in any proposed order granting the motion, using terminology of the type used in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or local form F4001-2 (e.g., any "cross-collateralization" that is not specifically identified as such is deemed to be disapproved).

(5) Disputes

#1.00 Hrg re: Emergency Motion re Cash Collateral

Docket 23

Tentative Ruling:

Subject to (i) resolution of the issues raised in this Court's order shortening time (dkt. 21) and below, and (ii) any persuasive opposition at the hearing, and (iii) the additional conditions set forth below, the tentative ruling is to grant the motion (dkt. 23) on an interim basis, with a final hearing on 3/31/20 at 1:00 p.m., and a deadline of 3/18/20 for the movant to file and serve a notice of the final hearing.

Appearances required, but pursuant to Judge Bason's COVID-19 Procedures, telephonic appearances are REQUIRED until further notice. Please contact CourtCall at (888) 882-6878 to make arrangements. There is no need to contact the Court for permission. Parties who are not represented by an attorney will be able to use CourtCall for free through 4/30/20. Attorneys will receive a 25% discount (for more information, see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.," "Telephonic Instructions").

(A) Preliminary issues

(1) Proof of service

This Court's order shortening time (the "OST," dkt. 21) directed Debtor to serve a copy of the OST via expedited means on all secured creditors, the Subchapter V trustee, and certain other persons, so that the OST was received by them no later than 3/14/20 at noon. All other parties had to be served via U.S. mail no later than 3/13/20. Id., p.2.

Was that done? Although the OST directed Debtor to file a proof of service ("POS") no later than 3/13/20 at 5:00 p.m., no such POS has been filed. (There is proof of service of the cash collateral motion itself, but only via U.S. mail on 3/13/20, not via expedited means. Nor is there any proof of service of the OST.)

If Debtor's counsel makes an adequate offer of proof at the hearing regarding service, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/19/20 for Debtor's counsel to file a written proof of service confirming that offer of proof.

Chapter 11

(2) Budget starts in April - what about March?

The Budget omits March. See dkt.23, Ex.4, at PDF p.52. Debtor sought, and obtained, the OST on the basis of an allegedly urgent need for approval of this Court before paying anything. How can Debtor obtain any expedited relief unless this Court grants authorization for March expenditures?

(3) Proposed Budget's payment of "principal," or interest?

The proposed Budget attached to Debtor's motion (dkt.23, Ex.4, at PDF p.51-52) includes "Long-term Principal payments" (sic, emphasis added) of $4,000.00/mo. An endnote to the proposed Budget (id., n.3) states "Key Assumptions: ... 3. Board of Trustees [sic] repayment is $4,000." (Emphasis added.)

First, any repayment of principal is prohibited. Second, Debtor does not explain what the "Board of Trustees" is, or why Debtor proposes to pay it anything.

Perhaps the answer is in the Motion and the declaration of Debtor's principal, Sam Vazquez (dkt.23, p.4:12-17, and p.11:1-8). They state that Debtor proposes to pay monthly "interest" to its secured creditors as adequate protection (11 U.S.C. 361, 363(c)&(e)), which is usually permissible. Debtor calculates that, at the proposed rate of 5% per annum, the payments will be as follows: $1,699.00/mo. to Forward Financing, $420.00/mo. to Pearl Beta Funding, and $1,152.00/mo. to On Deck Capital, Inc., for a total of $3,271.00/mo. Id.

Is this "adequate protection" what Debtor proposes to pay, rather than any repayment of "principal"? If so, the tentative ruling is to approve such interest-only payments, based on the record presented and subject to the conditions in this tentative ruling, as adequate protection payments.

(4) "Other" income

The proposed Budget includes "other" income. Dkt.23, Ex.4, at PDF p.51. What is that "other" income?

Debtor's status report (dkt.17, p.2) states that Debtor's principal, Mr. Vazquez, makes monthly contributions to Debtor. Is that the "other" income? If so, why was this not explained in the motion? In addition, what evidence is there that Mr. Vazquez is not only able to make such contributions but will commit to do so, and that his commitment is realistic (so that this Court has some foundation on which to determine that all interests in Debtor's cash collateral will be adequately protected?)

(5) Receivables collection

The proposed Budget includes "Receivables Collections" of $6,000 per month for the first two months, followed by $24,000 per month for the third month. What is the basis for these projections? Are they in line with historical experience? On what basis can this Court conclude that quadrupling the receivables collection in the third month of this case is realistic?

(B) Judge Bason's standard conditions for use of cash collateral and/or postpetition financing (by creditors holding prepetition claims)

(1) Written order

(a) Form. Use local form

F2081-2.1.ORDER.CASH.COLLATERAL or the equivalent. In addition to the postpetition security interests that are automatically provided pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 552 (e.g., in traceable proceeds and profits), and subject to any more comprehensive protection that may be included in the motion or related papers, Debtor shall provide at least the following protection to any creditor with a security interest in the subject property (pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 361-364, as applicable):

For all collateral of a type that typically is insured (e.g., real property and improvements), Debtor is directed to maintain insurance in a dollar amount at least equal to Debtor's good faith estimate of the value of such creditor's interest in the collateral, and such insurance shall name such creditor as an additional insured. (b) Taxes. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments on account of postpetition real estate taxes (to the extent that real estate is part of the collateral).

(c) Disclosures/access. Debtor is directed to provide, upon such creditor's reasonable request, periodic accountings of the foregoing insurance and tax obligations and payments, as well as postpetition proceeds, products, offspring, or profits from the collateral, including gross revenues and expenses and a calculation of net revenues, including any rents and any fees, charges, accounts, or other payments for the use or occupancy of rooms and other public facilities in lodging properties (as all of the foregoing terms are used in 11 U.S.C. 552). Debtor is directed to provide appropriate documentation of those accountings, and access for purposes of inspection or appraisal.

(3) Grant of, and limitation on, postpetition liens

The tentative ruling is to grant postpetition liens to the secured creditor(s) named in the motion papers by granting replacement liens, but such liens shall be limited to the same validity, priority, and amount as prepetition liens. As used herein, the "validity, priority, and amount" or any similar phrase that may be used by the parties or this Court is deemed to include the following:

(a) Extent. Such liens shall be limited to the type of collateral in which the creditor held a security interest as of the petition date, unless this order expressly states that the liens granted by this order are intended to attach to different types of collateral from the prepetition collateral. For example, if prepetition liens extended to inventory and accounts receivable but not equipment then postpetition liens are likewise limited (unless otherwise expressly provided by order of this Court). In addition, postpetition liens shall not extend to the proceeds of any avoidance actions, any recoveries under 11 U.S.C. 506(c), or any "carveout" under 11 U.S.C. 552.

(b) Priority. Such liens shall be limited to the same priority as the security interest held by the creditor as of the petition date.

(1) Current issues

(a) No witnesses required

No witnesses need appear (either by telephone or in person), because no evidentiary issues are presented at this time.

(b) Objection to the Sale Motion

The tentative ruling is to overrule the objection objection (dkt.104) filed by the Estate of Maynard Poynter, Patricia Poynter, Leah Poynter, Adam Poynter, Sean pointer and Melissa O'Donnel. The parties should be prepared to address the issues raised in that objection and in Debtor's reply papers (dkt.110-12).

(c) Service of the Sale Motion on certain other persons

Debtor's proof of service ("POS," dkt. 101) appears insufficient. The tentative ruling is that the hearing will have to be continued to provide notice to persons who have not received adequate notices.

For example, Debtor proposes to sell/assign to Mariculture a license issued by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers (the "Corps") (see dkt. 111, Ex.1(ii) (APA), Schedules 1.1 & 1.3, at PDF pp.35 & 41). But there are two problems with any attempted service on the Corps:

Chapter 11

(i) No service on the Corps itself. The Corps is listed on the proof of service with its mailing address crossed out and the notation "1/2/20 Unable to Forward" (dkt. 101, p.5, middle of right column); and

(ii) No service on U.S. Attorney and Attorney General. The Corps appears to be an "agency of the United States" so a copy of the motion papers should have been "addressed to the civil process clerk at the office of the United States Attorney" for this district (whose address is available on this Court's website, www.cacb.uscourts.gov under "Government Units' Mailing Address," section 2.4(a)) and to the "Attorney General of the United States at Washington, District of Columbia" (same, section 2.4(b)). Rule 7004(b) (4)&(5) (emphasis added) (incorporated by Rule 9014(b)).

There appear to be similar problems with service on other entities. For example, although Debtor's sale materials (dkt. 100, at PDF p.16) identify a "National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) Aquaculture Permit dated February 28, 2017" as one of the assets to be sold, and Schedules 1.1 and 1.3 of the APA (dkt. 111 at PDF pp. 35 & 41) also reference "permits and consents and conditions" imposed by NOAA, the POS does not appear to include NOAA or its representative. Similar issues appear to apply regarding the California Coastal Commission, Titan Steel Structures, and other parties to various executory contracts. See dkt. 111, Ex. 1(ii) (APA), Schedule 1.3, at PDF p. 41, and see Rule 7004(b)(3) (service on organizations) and (b)(6) (service on States, or governmental organizations thereof).

The tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to shorten time under Rule 9006(c) because of the exigent circumstances of Debtor having no funds to continue operating beyond a very short period of time. See dkt. 47, p.7:25; dkt. 79; dkt. 60; dkt. 93; dkt.109. The evidence before this Court is that Debtor's assets will lose substantial value if not all value if Debtor is unable to pay for care of its mussels and other essential tasks. See dkt. 96, pp.22:13-24:18; dkt. 99.

Based on the foregoing, the tentative ruling is to set the following deadlines: March 25, 2020 for Debtor to serve via overnight mail or personal delivery any entities whose interests are directly affected by the Sale Motion and who have not already been served in compliance with Rule 7004 (or who have waived such service), and to file a proof of service; April 3, 2020 for for failure to Make plan payments

Docket 53

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required, but pursuant to Judge Bason's COVID-19 Procedures, telephonic appearances are REQUIRED until further notice.

Please contact CourtCall at (888) 882-6878 to make arrangements. There is no need to contact the Court for permission. Parties who are not represented by an attorney will be able to use CourtCall for free through 4/30/20. The parties should be prepared to address the issues raised in this Court's Order Setting Motion To Dismiss For Hearing (the "Order," dkt. 56). As set forth in the Order, if there is no appearance by or on behalf of Debtor, the tentative ruling is to grant the Trustee's motion.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear telephonically without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Analysis

(1) Background

On 9/16/19 creditor Ajax Mortgage Loan Trust 2019-A etc. ("Ajax") filed its proof of claim (Claim No. 17-1) that incorrectly stated that Debtor's mortgage has a fixed interest rate, when in fact the interest rate varies every month and, confusingly, the monthly payments vary every year. On 10/7/19, 11/18/19, and 12/16/19 Ajax filed notices of payment changes. On 3/12/20 Ajax filed an amended proof of claim (Claim No. 17-2).

On 1/21/20 Debtor filed a motion (dkt.62) objecting to Ajax's notices of payment change, and requesting that Debtors be entitled to continue paying $1,561.02/mo. instead of the increased payment of $1,685.91/mo. that was to commence 2/1/20 according to Ajax's second notice of payment change. On 3/12/20 Ajax filed its response (dkt.72), which admitted certain errors but (a) pointed out that Debtors were well aware that their loan had a variable interest rate based on the changes in their prior chapter 13 case, their own loan modification request, and the history of this case, and (b) argued that Debtors had not been prejudiced, but (c) stating that Ajax "has applied the first two payments at the lower P&I amount listed in the POC." Dkt.72, p.11:11-14. On 3/19/20 Debtors filed their reply arguing that Ajax still has not provided a transparent explanation of all of its calculations; that payments should remain at $1,561.02/mo. and that "Debtors should be entitled to a credit against future payments for any mortgage overpayment that they have paid in excess of said amount until such time as Ajax [or its servicer] completes a thorough and transparent principal and interest mortgage payment analysis." Dkt.74, p.5:22-26 (emphasis in original).

(2) Governing Rule

Under Rule 3002.1(b) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.), Ajax was required to provide "a notice of any change in the payment amount" no later than 21 days "before payment in the new amount is due"; Debtor was entitled to object to any such payment change; and, "[i]f no motion is filed by the day before the new amount is due, the charge goes into effect, unless the court orders otherwise." (Emphasis added.) Rule 3002.1(b)(2). Under Rule 3002.1(f),

- (f) Failure to Notify. If [Ajax] fails to provide any information as required by subdivision (b) [of Rule 3002.1], the court may, after notice and a hearing, take either or both of the following actions:
- (1) preclude [Ajax] from presenting the omitted information, in any form, as evidence in any contested matter or adversary proceeding in the case, unless the court determines that the failure was substantially justified or is harmless; or
  - (2) award other appropriate relief, including reasonable expenses and attorney's fees caused by the failure. [Rule 3002.1(f) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) (emphasis added)]

Under 11 U.S.C. 102(3), "'includes' and 'including' are not limiting. Rule 9001 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) applies section 102 to the Rules.

(3) Application of Rule 3002.1 to the facts

This Court has considerable discretion in fashioning appropriate relief based on Ajax's incorrect and confusing notices of payment change. This Court is also concerned that Ajax has not provided enough information and transparency, and on the other hand this Court is not persuaded on the present record that there has been any substantial prejudice to Debtors, although this Court recognizes that it can be difficult for any debtors in bankruptcy to catch up all at once on any shortfalls in mortgage payments, which is one reason why adequate protection orders typically provide several months to cure postpetition arrears. In addition, this Court is concerned that both parties' attorney fees may well exceed the dollar amounts in controversy.

Based on all of the foregoing, the tentative ruling is as follows:

Ajax, no later than 4/30/20, must file and serve declaration(s) establishing at each relevant time (i) the amount of the index interest rate on which the variable interest rate is based, (ii) its calculation of the variable interest rates, and the dollar amounts of principal and interest, (iii) the data on which all escrow amounts are based (e.g., copies of documents showing real estate tax amounts and insurance amounts), and (iv) calculations of escrow account balances and monthly payment amounts.

Debtor's response is due 5/14/20.

A continued hearing will be held on 5/28/20 at 8:30 a.m.

Meanwhile, the parties will be ordered to mandatory mediation. Their deadline to lodge proposed mediation order(s) is 4/10/20.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Continue to 4/30/20 at 8:30 a.m. to address the following issues.
Appearances are not required on 3/26/20. If you wish to dispute the tentative ruling you must notify opposing counsel of your intent to appear telephonically.

Pursuant to Judge Bason's COVID19 Procedures, ONLY TELEPHONIC APPEARANCES WILL BE PERMITTED until further notice. Please contact CourtCall at (888) 882-6878 to make arrangements. Current issues

(1) Debtor has not articulated a sufficient basis to disallow the claim
Debtor's sole basis for disallowance of Proof of Claim 22-1 (the "Claim") filed by HSBC Bank USA, N.A. is that the Claim is not supported by adequate documentation or an explanation as to why such documentation could not be attached (dkt. 33, p.2:12-16).

It is not enough to say that there is insufficient writing for prima facie validity under Rule 3001(f) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). As stated by this Court in its Memorandum Decision Regarding Debtor's Claim Objections in In re Orozco, available on the court's website:

It is true that under Rule 3001(f) a proof of claim must be "executed and filed in accordance with these rules" in order to automatically "constitute prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim." But a rule cannot supersede a statute, and as held by the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel for the Ninth Circuit ("BAP"), an objecting party must do more than simply point to a lack of compliance with Rule 3001 in order to obtain an order disallowing a claim: the objecting party must establish an actual basis to contest the liability or amount of the claim. See In re Campbell, 336 B.R. 430 (9th Cir. BAP 2005); In re Heath, 331 B.R. 424 (9th Cir. BAP 2005). See also Travelers Cas. & Sur. Co. of Am. V. Pac. Gas & Elec. Co., 549 U.S. 443, 449 (2007) ("the court 'shall allow' the claim 'except to the extent that' the claim implicates any of the nine exceptions enumerated in § 502(b)") (quoting the statute). [2:13-bk-15745-NB, dkt. 134 at p.5:8-19]

(2) Lack of cost/benefit analysis. The posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) provide:

§ 502: claim objections & cost/benefit analysis. When objecting to claims, be sure to include an analysis of whether the costs of preparing and litigating the claim objection (administrative expenses) do not exceed the anticipated benefits (reductions in claims). For example, if the anticipated dividend is small or 0% then the attorney fees incurred in prosecuting your claim objection to any general unsecured claim probably will exceed the benefit to the bankruptcy estate/debtor, so filing that objection would be a waste of the bankruptcy estate's (and everyone else's) resources (unless, for example, the claim is nondischargeable, in which event the attorney fees might well be justified).

(3) Debtor must supplement the claim objection or withdraw it

No later than 7 days after the date of this hearing Debtor must file either:

(a) a supplemental declaration that both (i) identifies a basis under section 502(b) for disallowance of the Claim and (ii) explains why the attorney fees for this objection are justified (including supporting evidence, such as a copy of the plan showing the projected dividend to the claimant, and a calculation comparing that projected dividend against the attorney fees related to this claim objection), or

(b) a withdrawal of the claim objection.

No fees on this matter, absent specific authorization. Counsel is directed not to charge any fees on this matter (including all past, present and future work related to this claim objection), and to return any fees received on this matter, unless and until this Court expressly finds: "Counsel has provided a cost/benefit analysis that is sufficient for purposes of Judge Bason's posted Procedures regarding claim objections." It is counsel's responsibility to include the quoted phrase, if warranted, in the proposed order on this claim objection.

This Court does not have the capacity to monitor all fee applications to assure compliance with the foregoing limitation on fees. But if counsel is found to have disregarded this limitation then this Court may impose sanctions.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Proposed order: This Court will prepare the order.

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Proof of Claim 4

Reasons for denial:

Debtor has objected to this claim before, and this Court previously overruled that objection on similar grounds. See Order (dkt.42).

(a) Burdens of proof

The Proof of Claim contains the documentation required by Rule 3001(c) (Fed. R Bankr. P.) and therefore it is prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim. Fed. R. Bankr. P. 3001(f). Alternatively, even if the claim were not entitled to prima facie validity (which it is), the burden is on Debtor to come forward with evidence and legal arguments sufficient to disallow the claim. 11 U.S.C. 502(a). See In re Campbell, 336 B.R. 430 (9th Cir. BAP 2005); In re Heath, 331 B.R. 424 (9th Cir. BAP 2005). (This Court recognizes that Rule 3001(c) has been amended, after Campbell and Heath, principally to specify what writings must be attached when a revolving credit agreement is involved, but for other types of claims the language of the rule remains essentially the same.)

(b) Claim objections without merit can be overruled, and should be, even absent a response by the claimant

It is often more costly in money and time for a creditor to respond than a claim is expected to be worth, because even if the claim is allowed it will only be paid in what are sometimes called "tiny bankruptcy dollars" (i.e., pennies on the dollar). In addition, any litigation will increase the administrative expense of any counsel for the debtor, thereby further reducing recoveries even if the claimant prevails. Recognizing these disincentives to fight claim objections, and also recognizing that claim objections that are not well taken should not be sustained, bankruptcy courts often overrule claim objections even without any opposition by the claimant. See, e.g., Heath, 331 B.R. 424, 427 (affirming bankruptcy court's allowance of claims, despite most creditors' lack of participation before that court or on appeal, and noting bankruptcy court's statement that "[i]t's more trouble [for most Creditors] to respond than the claim is worth"). That approach is consistent with Rule 55(b)(2)(C) and (D) (Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Rules 7055, 9001(7) and 9014(c), Fed. R. Bankr. P.), which give the trial court discretion to conduct a "prove up" hearing any deny recoveries even when the defendant/respondent defaults.

(c) The claim objection was not properly served

The proof of claim states that the address where notices should be sent (pursuant to Rule 2002(g), Fed. R. Bankr. P.) is:

PO Box 10587
Greenville, SC 29603-0587 [Claim No. 4-1, line 3]

Debtor's proof of service (the "POS," dkt.60, last 2 pages) lists that PO Box but is addressed to a different entity - the holder of the claim instead of the servicer. That could have caused the mail to be mis-directed, so this Court cannot presume that this error is harmless.

(In addition, this Court notes that the POS is not properly filled out. Given that Debtor is not represented by an attorney, this Court is not resting its tentative ruling on this basis; but for future reference this Court notes the following problems with the POS. First, the POS leaves blank the date of service - although service must have been before the POS was signed and filed. Second, the POS checks the box for service via overnight service or other expedited means, but the attached list of addresses does not specify which means, and this Court suspects that in fact the service was via U.S. mail.)

(d) Debtor's objection is not persuasive

Debtor challenges the enforceability of the state court default judgment. But Debtor has not provided any evidence that he does not owe this debt or asserted that he timely appealed the state court judgment and that appeal was still pending as of the petition date. In fact, Debtor states that he has only recently attempted to set aside the default judgment (dkt. 60, p. 4).

Debtor appears to assert that the claim is time-barred. But judgments typically are enforceable for many years, and Debtor has not provided evidence that this judgment is time barred.

Debtor challenges the standing of claimant LVNV Funding LLC ("LVNV") to enforce that judgment, and the standing of Resurgent Capital Services to assert a claim on behalf of LVNV in this case. But the proof of claim (Claim No. 4-1) includes evidence of standing.

For the foregoing reasons, Debtor has failed to meet his burden to establish a basis to disallow the claim.

(e) Debtor's request for a continuance is denied

In the alternative, Debtor requests that this Court continue this hearing until some unspecified time that (a) the state court can locate the case file and (b) debtor can move to set aside the default judgment. The tentative ruling is that this Court is not persuaded to continue this matter indefinitely. If Debtor succeeds in his efforts to set aside the default judgment, he is free to re-file an objection to Proof of Claim 4.

Note: This Court also notes that Debtor has again failed to include a copy of the proof of claim as an exhibit to his objection, or use the mandatory local form of claim objection. In any future objections, Debtor must comply with all applicable rules and procedures regarding claim objections.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Docket 61

Tentative Ruling:

Deny Debtor's objection to Proof of Claim 5. Appearances required, to address whether the denial should be with or without leave to amend - i.e., should Debtor have another opportunity (in addition to his prior claim objections, his current claim objections, and his opportunities to file reply papers) to provide legal authority and admissible evidence for his assertions, such as his assertion that "[i]n order to service loans in the State of California a business entity must register with the California State Department of Business Oversight (DBO)" (dkt.61, p.2:9-10)?

Pursuant to Judge Bason's COVID19 Procedures, ONLY TELEPHONIC APPEARANCES WILL BE PERMITTED until further notice. Please contact CourtCall at (888) 882-6878 to make arrangements. There is no need to contact the Court for permission. Parties who are not represented by an attorney will be able to use CourtCall for free through 4/30/20. Proposed order: Claimant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Proof of Claim 5-1, Order denying prior objection to proof of claim no. 5-1 (dkt. 51, "Order Denying Claim Objection"), current claim objection (dkt. 61), Claimant's response (dkt. 64, the "Opposition"), no reply is on file.

Reasons for denial:

(a) Burdens of proof

Chapter 13

The Proof of Claim contains the documentation required by Rule 3001(c) (Fed. R Bankr. P.) and therefore it is prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim. Fed. R. Bankr. P. 3001(f). Alternatively, even if the claim were not entitled to prima facie validity (which it is), the burden is on Debtor to come forward with evidence and legal arguments sufficient to disallow the claim. 11 U.S.C. 502(a). See In re Campbell, 336 B.R. 430 (9th Cir. BAP 2005); In re Heath, 331 B.R. 424 (9th Cir. BAP 2005). (This Court recognizes that Rule 3001(c) has been amended, after Campbell and Heath, principally to specify what writings must be attached when a revolving credit agreement is involved, but for other types of claims the language of the rule remains essentially the same.)

(b) Debtor's objection is not persuasive

As noted above, Debtor asserts that claimant is required to be, and is not, registered with the DBO, but Debtor has not cited any legal authority for that assertion. Claimant responds on that basis (dkt.64, p.4:15-16) and Debtor has not filed any reply. Accordingly, this ground is unpersuasive.

Debtor asserts that the proof of claim contains a number of "suspicious entries that may or may not be valid" (dkt. 61, p.2:23-24), but he does not provide any explanation as to why those charges are "suspicious" or identify any legal basis to disallow those charges. Nor does Debtor provide any evidence that he does not owe this debt. Similarly, Debtor asserts that Claimant and its servicer lack standing to enforce the claim, but does not cite any authority in support of these arguments.

For these reasons, Debtor has not met his burden to establish a basis to disallow the claim.

(c) Whether the claim objection should be denied with or without leave to amend

This is Debtor's second objection to Proof of Claim 5-1 ("Claim 5"). In connection with his first objection to Claim 5, this Court issued a detailed tentative ruling explaining why Debtor's arguments were not meritorious (dkt. 51). Now Debtor has again failed to identify a legitimate basis to disallow Claim 5, in whole or in part. Meanwhile, Claimant has had to incur significant costs responding to his claim objections. Therefore, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has waived and forfeited any arguments in support of disallowing Claim 5 and this Court's denial will be without leave to amend.

Tentative Ruling for 2/27/20:

Continue to 3/26/20 at 8:30 a.m. to address the following issues.

Appearances are not required on 2/27/20.

Reasons:

Lack of cost/benefit analysis. The posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) provide:

§ 502: claim objections & cost/benefit analysis. When objecting to claims, be sure to include an analysis of whether the costs of preparing and litigating the claim objection (administrative expenses) do not exceed the anticipated benefits (reductions in claims). For example, if the anticipated dividend is small or 0% then the attorney fees incurred in prosecuting your claim objection to any general unsecured claim probably will exceed the benefit to the bankruptcy estate/debtor, so filing that objection would be a waste of the bankruptcy estate's (and everyone else's) resources (unless, for example, the claim is nondischargeable, in which event the attorney fees might well be justified).

No later than 7 days after the date of this hearing the movant must file either:

(1) a supplemental declaration explaining why the attorney fees for this objection are justified (including supporting evidence, such as a copy of the plan showing the projected dividend to the claimant, and a calculation comparing that projected dividend against the attorney fees related to this claim objection), or

(2) a withdrawal of the claim objection.

No fees on this matter, absent specific authorization. Counsel is directed not to charge any fees on this matter (including all past, present and future work related to this claim objection), and to return any fees received on this matter, unless and until this Court expressly finds: "Counsel has provided a cost/benefit analysis that is sufficient for purposes of Judge Bason's posted Procedures regarding claim objections." Chapter 13

Tentative Ruling for 1/23/20:

Continue to 3/26/20 at 8:30 a.m. with a deadline of 3/12/20 for the parties to file supplemental papers addressing the issues set forth in the filed objection (dkt.32). Appearances are not required on 1/23/20.

Reasons:

(1) Service

The amended motion papers were not served until 1/7/20 (10 days before the hearing) (see dkt. 26), which is too little time before the hearing.

(2) Evidence of senior debt

Debtor's amended motion (dkt. 29) alleges that the senior lender ("Bayview") is owed $662,095.02 as of 11/16/19 but it is unclear from the mortgage statement (dkt. 29, Ex. 2) how Debtor arrived at that total.

(3) Appraisal; date of valuation

The junior lienholder has requested (dkt. 32) additional time to obtain an appraisal. Debtor is directed to provide reasonable access for that purpose. Note: Judge Bason's tentative ruling is to require valuations at or near the petition date. See In re Gutierrez, 503 B.R. 458 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2013).

At the continued hearing the parties should address how they propose to resolve their disputes - e.g., (i) with an evidentiary hearing; (ii) with a court ruling based solely on the written record (to save costs, if all parties consent), (iii) through mediation, or (iv) through appointment of an appraiser (jointly selected by the parties/their appraisers) as the court's own expert under FRE 706.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." substitute in new counsel and (b) for Debtor to determine whether she can and will refinance the debt, or sell the property, or propose some other realistic strategy for addressing her missed payments. Appearances are not required on 2/18/20.

Tentative Ruling for 1/28/20:

Appearances required. This matter was continued to this date to allow time for the parties to attempt to resolve this dispute. Based on this Court's review of the filed documents and records in this case, including Debtor's response (dkt.119) and Movant's reply (dkt.124) the tentative ruling is that Debtor has not rebutted Movant's evidence that Debtor is seriously in default, but that Debtor as the owner of the property is competent to provide an opinion as to its value, and Debtor has asserted a very substantial equity cushion, so the parties should be prepared to address whether Debtor can and will refinance the debt, or sell the property, or propose some other realistic strategy for addressing her missed payments.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Chapter 13

Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is not sufficient evidence and notice.

No prejudice to Debtor intended. Based on the record, it appears that this is a "hijacked" case, and that Debtor is innocent of any involvement. See e.g., In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017) (describing hijacking); In re Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) (same). In a hijacking case, the Debtor faces the legitimate concern of being subject to a 180-day bar and other adverse consequences if, for example, Debtor later requests and obtains a voluntary dismissal and subsequently needs to file another bankruptcy petition. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(2), 362(b)(21) (A). There is authority that section 109 "eligibility issues" are nonjurisdictional, can be waived, forfeited, or subject to estoppel, and should not be applied if that would produce an "illogical, unjust, or capricious result, or when the benefit of dismissal would inure to a bad faith creditor." In re Leaffy, 489 B.R. 545, 550-51 (9th Cir. Bap 2012) (citing cases including under 109(g)(2)). See also In re Mendez, 367 B.R. 109, 116-17 (9th Cir. BAP 2007); In re Luna, 122 B.R. 575, 577 (9th Cir. BAP 1991); Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261, 270. The same principles apply to any other adverse consequences from a hijacking. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to condition the relief from the automatic stay granted in this tentative ruling such that no adverse consequences apply to Debtor from the hijacking, including under 11 U.S.C.

109(g)(2) or 362(b)(21)(A). Note: None of the foregoing will shield Debtor if it turns out that Debtor was not, in fact, innocent of any involvement in the apparent hijacking or other abusive scheme.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

Effective date of relief

Evidence

This Court notes that the declaration attached to the motion is incomplete and/or contains changes to the mandatory form (which are hereby treated as a request to amend the form per LBR 9009-1). This Court makes no determination whether such omissions/changes would withstand an evidentiary objection. Nevertheless, this Court has considered the key documents because (a) there are no evidentiary objections and/or (b) those documents appear to be admissible on other grounds. In future the movant's failure to complete the form properly may result in denial of the motion sua sponte.

the movant is permitted to enforce its claim by (i) collecting upon any available insurance in accordance with applicable nonbankruptcy law or (ii) proceeding against the debtor as to any property that is not property of this bankruptcy estate. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 362(b)(2)(B) & 541(b)(7) (collection of domestic support obligations from ERISA qualified retirement plans).

(b) Claim allowance, priority, and discharge issues. Any deficiency claim after application of insurance proceeds is subject to this Bankruptcy Court's jurisdiction regarding claim allowance and priority, and the existence and scope of any bankruptcy discharge.

(c) No relief in other bankruptcy cases. To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

distributed when and how provided by the Bankruptcy Code. Nevertheless, the movant is permitted to enforce its final judgment by (i) collecting upon any available insurance in accordance with applicable nonbankruptcy law or (ii) proceeding against the debtor as to any property that is not property of this bankruptcy estate. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 362(b)(2)(B) & 541(b)(7) (collection of domestic support obligations from ERISA qualified retirement plans).

(b) Claim allowance, priority, and discharge issues. Any claims arising from the nonbankruptcy litigation are subject to this Bankruptcy Court's jurisdiction regarding claim allowance and priority, and the existence and scope of any bankruptcy discharge.

(c) No relief in other bankruptcy cases. To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

In limiting the nonbankruptcy litigation as set forth above, this Bankruptcy Court emphasizes that it does not seek in any way to impinge on the authority of the Nonbankruptcy Courts presiding over the nonbankruptcy action. Rather, this Bankruptcy Court takes seriously its obligations, as a subordinate unit of the District Court, to manage this bankruptcy case. Those obligations include taking into consideration the interests of creditors (who are not parties to the underlying nonbankruptcy litigation), and preserving the bankruptcy estate by placing limits on any relief from the automatic stay that Congress has mandated (11 U.S.C. 362(a) & (d)).

Additional analysis:

The Bankruptcy Court "shall grant relief from the stay" upon a showing of "cause." 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1). Such relief need not take the form of a complete termination of the automatic stay, but instead may include "modifying or conditioning such stay." Id.

"Cause" is determined on a case-by-case basis." In re Tucson Estates, Inc., 912 F.2d 1162, 1166 (9th Cir.1990). In determining whether "cause" exists to grant relief from the automatic stay to allow a movant to pursue litigation in a non-bankruptcy forum, courts in the Ninth Circuit have examined the factors set forth in In re Curtis, 40 B.R. 795, 799–800 (Bankr.

D. Utah 1984). See In re Kronemeyer, 405 B.R. 915 (9th Cir. BAP 2009); In re Plumberex Specialty Prods., Inc., 311 B.R. 551, 559–60 (Bankr. C.D. Cal.2004). Those factors are: (1) Whether the relief will result in a partial or complete resolution of the issues; (2) The lack of any connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case; (3) Whether the foreign proceeding involves the debtor as a fiduciary; (4) Whether a specialized tribunal has been established to hear the particular cause of action and whether that tribunal has the expertise to hear such cases; (5) Whether the debtor's insurance carrier has assumed full financial responsibility for defending the litigation; (6) Whether the action essentially involves third parties, and the debtor functions only as a bailee or conduit for the goods or proceeds in question; (7) Whether the litigation in another forum would prejudice the interests of other creditors, the creditors' committee and other interested parties; (8) Whether the judgment claim arising from the foreign action is subject to equitable subordination under Section 510(c); (9) Whether movant's success in the foreign proceeding would result in a judicial lien avoidable by the debtor under Section 522(f); (10) The interests of judicial economy and the expeditious and economical determination of litigation for the parties; (11) Whether the foreign proceedings have progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial; and (12) The impact of the stay on the parties and the "balance of hurt." Plumberex, 311 B.R. at 559. "[W]hile the Curtis factors are widely used to determine the existence of 'cause,' not all of the factors are relevant in every case, nor is a court required to give each factor equal weight." In re Landmark Fence Co., Inc., 2011 WL 6826253 at *4 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 9, 2011).

Based on the present record, the tentative ruling is that these factors weigh in favor of granting relief as set forth above. Most significantly:

As to the first Curtis factor (would relief result in partial or complete resolution of the issues?), granting relief would result in complete resolution of the issues and the issues involve matters of state law that can be resolved most expeditiously in the non-bankruptcy forum.

As to the second Curtis factor (connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case) and seventh Curtis factor (prejudice to other creditors/interested parties) this Court finds that proceeding to final judgment in the state court will not interfere with this case and will be most expeditious in bringing this litigation to a conclusion.

As to the fourth Curtis factor (whether a specialized tribunal has been established to hear the action) and the eleventh Curtis factor (whether the proceedings have progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial), this Court finds that although not a specialized tribunal, the state court would be best suited to determine the state law claims.

As to the tenth Curtis factor (interest of judicial economy) and the twelfth Curtis factor (the impact of the stay on the parties and the "balance of hurt"), this Court is persuaded that the matter is more properly determined by the state court because it involves matters of state law and Debtor has not filed an opposition or presented any argument to persuade this Court that the issues would be better dealt with in this Court.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

(g) Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

(B) Analysis

(1) Background

Multiple bankruptcy cases have been used as part of a scheme to hinder and delay the foreclosure sale of the property commonly known as 340 Alahmar Terrace, San Gabriel, CA 91775 (the "Subject Property") by Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. ("Wells Fargo"). More recently the foreclosure sale finally occurred, but the current disputes concern the attempted eviction of Debtor Anthony Siracusa by the purchaser of the Subject Property, Green Force, Inc. ("Green Force").

According to Green Force, Debtor is acting in bad faith, "has not paid to live in the property since 2011," and has personally "evaded and hindered creditors for nine (9) years." Dkt.37, p.5:19-20. Debtor paints a different picture.

Debtor declares that he was ignorant of the multiple bankruptcy cases that were used to hinder, delay, and defraud Wells Fargo. According to Debtor, he was the victim of a scam by his former attorney and an employee of Wells Fargo to take his money in exchange for false promises of relief from foreclosure, and Debtor claims he was part of a "sting" operation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. This Court will return to these allegations later, but for now this Court focuses on the relevant history and legal issues.

(2) Relevant history

On 11/13/18, in one of the multiple bankruptcy cases hindering the foreclosure sale, Chief Judge Maureen Tighe issued an order granting "in rem" relief from the automatic stay with respect to the Subject Property under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4). See In re Pan Lea Kim (Case No. 1:18-bk-12380-MT), dkt. 21. That order was recorded in the real estate records on 12/18/18. See dkt.32, Ex.C. Much later Debtor filed a motion seeking relief from that order (the "Anti-In Rem Motion," id., dkt.27), but Judge Tighe denied that motion. Dkt.44, 45.

Meanwhile, on 10/8/19, Debtor filed his chapter 13 petition commencing this case (dkt.1). On or about 10/10/19 a foreclosure sale was held and the Subject Property was sold to Green Force. Dkt.32, Ex.D. Debtor does not dispute that, pursuant to the in rem order, that foreclosure sale did not violate the automatic stay. See In re Alakozai, 499 B.R. 698 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (foreclosure sale did not violate automatic stay because of in rem order in prior case).

On or about 11/13/19, Green Force served Debtor with a 3-day notice to quit. On or about 12/23/19, Green Force filed an unlawful detainer complaint against Debtor. See dkt.38.

This Court takes judicial notice that Green Force filed a notice in the unlawful detainer proceeding, on or about 2/4/20, asserting that, due to the in rem order, Debtor's bankruptcy case "does not create a stay." See In re Pan Lea Kim (Case No. 1:18-bk-12380-MT), dkt.29, Ex.4. Green Force's notice made no distinction between in rem acts (which the in rem order clearly permitted) and in personam acts, as to which the automatic stay still might apply.

(3) The parties' contentions

Debtor does not dispute that any attempts to evict him did not violate the automatic stay. But Green Force also seeks damages, and Debtor asserts that this violates the automatic stay.

The parties are vague about what damages Green Force seeks from Debtor. But based on this Court's review of a proposed State Court judgment, referencing a hearing on 2/13/20, it appears that the State Court's oral ruling was to grant Green Force not only restitution of the Subject Premises but also $11,436.38 "as holdover damages" and "court costs as provided by law in the sum of $1,100.00" (dkt.36, Ex.4) (emphasis added).

Green Force continues to maintain that no automatic stay applies, but it does not explain why the automatic stay is inapplicable to its in personam acts to obtain a judgment for damages against Debtor. Nevertheless, the tentative ruling is to agree with Green Force's conclusion that the automatic stay does not apply to those specific acts.

(4) Debtor has not established any violation of the automatic stay

As noted above, Green Force has not explained why the automatic stay does not apply. But that is putting the cart before the horse. Debtor has not explained how the automatic stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) does apply. In particular, Debtor does not address some important limitations on the foreclosure sale, so its unlawful detainer proceeding could not have been commenced prepetition.

Nor has Debtor explained how Green Force's acts to recover holdover damages from Debtor and costs of suit can constitute acts involving a "claim against the debtor that arose before the commencement of the [bankruptcy] case" under paragraph "(6)" above, or could amount to enforcement of a "judgment obtained before the commencement of the [bankruptcy] case" under paragraph "(2)" above. Again, Green Force could not have had any claim or judgment against Debtor before commencement of the case because the foreclosure sale to Green Force did not occur until two days postpetition, and the holdover damages that Green Force seeks all arose postpetition.

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not established that the automatic stay applies to any acts Green Force has taken to date. To be clear, as Green Force concedes, it cannot "enforce" any damages award in this chapter 13 case - that would be an "act to obtain possession of property of the estate or of property from the estate or to exercise control over property of the estate" that is prohibited by paragraph "(3)" of section 362(a). See 11 U.S.C. 1306 (property of estate includes postpetition earnings, and property acquired postpetition); and see Reply (dkt.37, p.9:3-9).

In sum, the tentative ruling is that Green Force is correct when it asserts in its motion that the automatic stay does not apply to the acts that it has already pursued, and any future acts to obtain (not collect) any judgments against Debtor arising from Debtor's postpetition acts or failures and refusals to act. That is one ground to issue an order granting the motion.

(5) Alternatively, if the automatic stay does apply for some reason (contrary to this Court's tentative ruling above), it is appropriate to grant prospective and retroactive relief

Green Force is the owner of the Subject Property. It has been unable to take possession because Debtor is occupying the property, notwithstanding the foreclosure sale to Green Force. That is "cause" under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) to terminate the automatic stay prospectively to permit Green Force not only to evict Debtor but also to recover any postpetition damages and costs.

As for retroactive annulment of the stay, one issue is whether Green Force knew or should have known of the automatic stay but proceeded in disregard of the stay. See In re Fjeldsted, 293 B.R. 12 (9th Cir. BAP 2003); and see also In re Williams, 323 B.R. 691, 697-702 (9th Cir. BAP 2005) (various issues involving annulment, and application of Fjeldsted), aff'd, 204 Fed.Appx. 582 (9th Cir. 2006), overruled on other issues, In re Perl, 811 F.3d 1120 (9th Cir. 2016) (scope of automatic stay).

Green Force asserts that prior to the hearing on the Anti-In Rem Motion it was "not aware of any ... stays that could hinder its possession of the property." Dkt.37, p.6:15-18. This Court interprets that phrase to mean that, although Green Force was aware of this bankruptcy case, it was not aware of any theory under which the automatic stay in this case would stay its postpetition efforts to obtain (but not collect) a judgment for holdover damages and costs. As set forth above, this Court is not aware of any such theory either.

This favors annulment, as do the other facts and circumstances. See id., and see Reply (dkt.37) pp.5:1-7:27 and passim. Therefore, even supposing for the sake of discussion that Debtor could articulate some persuasive argument that the automatic stay did apply, the tentative ruling is that retroactive annulment of the automatic stay would be appropriate.

In sum, the alternative tentative ruling is that, if the automatic stay somehow does apply (contrary to this Court's tentative ruling above), then Green Force is entitled to both prospective and retroactive relief from the automatic stay. That is an alternative basis to grant Green Force's motion.

(6) Debtor's allegations about being a victim, rather than a perpetrator, of the scheme to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors

Debtor does not clearly explain the relevance of his claims that he was ignorant of the multiple bankruptcy cases that were used to hinder, delay, and defraud creditors, or that he was the victim of a scam by his former attorney and an employee of Wells Fargo to take his money in exchange for false promises of relief from foreclosure, and that he was part of a "sting" operation by the FBI. Presumably Debtor is attempting (a) to counter Green Force's allegations of "bad faith," which is alternative "cause" for relief from the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1)), and (b) to counter Green Force's allegations that he was part of the scheme to hinder, delay, and/or defraud creditors. The tentative ruling is that there is sufficient evidence of Debtor's bad faith to support both forms of relief.

As a preliminary matter, Debtor's story is unsupported by any evidence. For example, Debtor alleges (a) that in March of 2018 his then-attorney Mr. Brifman continued to press Debtor to "bribe Wells Fargo employee(s)" to get "a loan modification for [the Subject Property] approved by Wells Fargo" (dkt.36, Ex.1, p.3:13-18); (b) the FBI allegedly provided him with $17,000 to "put in my bank account and then wire to Brifman" (id., p.7:16-17); and (c) on 6/26/18 Debtor allegedly "deposited the FBI money directly into Brifman's Comerica account" and "provided the deposit receipts and emails to the FBI." Id., p.8:1-3. Debtor does not provide any such deposit receipts or emails. Likewise, all of Debtor's other allegations are unsupported by any evidence.

Second, Debtor's allegation that he was ignorant of the other bankruptcy cases used to hinder, delay, and defraud Wells Fargo is contradicted by the evidence before this Court. That evidence shows that Debtor was served with the motion seeking "in rem" relief in one of the bankruptcy cases. See In re Pan Lea Kim (Case No. 1:18-bk-12380-MT), dkt. 11 (last page).

In this case Debtor flatly denies having received the motion (dkt.36, Ex.1, p.12, para.61) ("I was never served with a copy of the motion"), but he offers no legal authority or factual basis to disregard the proof of service. In any event, Debtor's declaration admits (dkt.36, Ex.1, p.11, para.59 & 60) that he was shown the document sometime during the same month (October of 2019).

Next Debtor claims he "did not understand the significance of this document or how it was connected to me or my house." Id. That is nonsense.

The motion lists the Subject Property as "The Property at Issue"; it refers to Debtor by name; it describes in detail the multiple bankruptcy cases that were used to hinder, delay, and defraud creditors with respect to the Subject Property; and it requests that the automatic stay not apply in any future bankruptcy case affecting the Subject Property ("in rem" relief). See In re Pan Lea Kim (Case No. 1:18-bk-12380-MT), dkt. 11, at p.3, para.2, pp. 14-15, and passim. The most casual review of that motion would have alerted Debtor to the scam of which he claims he was ignorant.

In sum, the tentative ruling is to find that Debtor has indeed engaged in bad faith, and was part of the scheme to hinder, delay, and defraud creditors. That is an alternative basis to grant Green Force's motion.

For all of the foregoing reasons, Debtor has not established that any provision of the automatic stay prevents Green Force from obtaining (but not collecting) a judgment against Debtor for holdover damages, costs, and any other postpetition damages. Alternatively, if the automatic stay somehow does apply (contrary to this Court's conclusion), Green Force's purchase of the Subject Property at the foreclosure sale, and Debtor's continued occupancy of the property, are sufficient "cause" for retroactive and prospective relief from the stay, including in rem relief. Alternatively, Debtor's bad faith, including his participation in the scheme to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors, is an alternative ground for such relief.

This matter was originally self-calendared for hearing on 6/4/19, but was taken off calendar to allow Debtor an opportunity to participate in the loan modification program. On 2/25/20, Movant re-noticed this matter for this date based on Debtor's failure to obtain a loan modification or otherwise address Movant's claim - which Movant states is now $132,128.58 post-petition delinquent (see dkt. 88).

Debtor timely opposed the motion (dkt. 94) arguing that his brother has obtained financing and is ready to proceed with a refinance that would pay Movant in full. But Debtor states that the contemplated refinance cannot occur until this case is closed. Debtor asks this Court to deny the motion or delay the foreclosure sale for 60 days.

The tentative ruling is that the evidence of a refinancing offer may provide some protection, but (a) it is unclear whether the proposed refinancing, if it closes, will provide Movant with the same recovery it could expect as of the petition date (i.e., whether any protection from the proposed refinancing would be "adequate") and (b) it is unclear how certain the

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 3/31/20:

This matter was continued to this date so that, if Debtor were not performing under the LMM trial period (see Order, dkt.42), Movant could bring such non-performance to the attention of this Court (such as by filing and serving a declaration, or raising such non-performance at the hearing). The docket does not reflect any such non-performance, so the tentative ruling is to continue this hearing to 5/5/20 at 10:00 a.m. Appearances are not required on 3/31/20.

If you wish to dispute the tentative ruling you must notify opposing counsel of your intent to appear telephonically. Pursuant to Judge Bason's COVID-19 Procedures, ONLY TELEPHONIC APPEARANCES WILL BE PERMITTED until further notice. Please contact CourtCall at (888) 882-6878 to make arrangements for any appearance. There is no need to contact the Court for permission. Parties who are not represented by an attorney will be able to use CourtCall for free through 4/30/20. As set forth in this Court's order (dkt. 11), this matter was continued to this date because Debtor appeared at the hearing on 2/18/20 and represented that she is negotiating a reaffirmation agreement with Movant. The order included provisions that, if Debtor did not make certain adequate protection payments, Movant could file a declaration to that effect and lodge a proposed order terminating the automatic stay. Those things have not happened, so perhaps the parties can work out an adequate protection order, a reaffirmation agreement, or some other solution.

Meanwhile, this Court notes that, from a review of the docket, no reaffirmation was filed prior to entry of Debtor's discharge on 2/24/20 (dkt. 13). On the other hand, the docket might not be fully accurate: after the order discharging Debtor (dkt.13), there is a docket entry (dkt.16) purporting to vacate an "order of dismissal" (emphasis added), although the docket does not reflect any dismissal; and thereafter there is a written order "Setting Aside Closing [sic] and Reopening Estate" (dkt.17), although the docket does not reflect any closing of this case.

Tentative Ruling for 2/18/20:

Grant as provided below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Docket 161

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, except as to any dual agency, as set forth below. Appearances are not required.

If you wish to dispute the tentative ruling you must notify opposing counsel of your intent to appear telephonically. Pursuant to Judge Bason's COVID19 Procedures, ONLY TELEPHONIC APPEARANCES WILL BE PERMITTED until further notice. Please contact CourtCall at (888) 882-6878 to make arrangements for any telephonic appearance. Attorneys will receive a 25% discount (for more information, see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.," "Telephonic Instructions").

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Debtor's opposition (dkt. 163), Pensco Trust Company ("Pensco") response to opposition (dkt. 167), Trustee's reply (dkt. 168) and evidentiary objections (dkt. 169).

Reasons:

The tentative ruling is to grant the Trustee's Application To Employ Rodeo Realty (the "Broker Employment Application," dkt. 161) except as to dual agency, overrule Debtor's objection.

(1) Dual agency

In the Broker Employment Application the Trustee states that "in the event Rodeo may represent potential purchasers, the Trustee consents to such dual representation." Dkt. 161, p.4:26-27. Judge Bason's standard employment terms, outlined in his posted Procedures available at cacb.uscourts.gov, provide that no dual agency is permitted. Judge Bason's Procedures, p.10. See also Tentative Ruling for 3/31/20, 11:00 a.m., calendar no.4 (unrelated case involving request for dual agency).

(2) Evidentiary objections (dkt. 169)

The tentative ruling is to sustain the Trustee's evidentiary objections to Debtor's declaration (dkt. 163, p.8-10), except as to relevance of the 2018 appraisal - it is still inadmissible for the other reasons given by the Trustee, and it is not as persuasive as more recent opinions of value, but it would have some relevance if it were admissible.

(3) Debtor's objection (dkt. 163)

(a) Necessity for employment of a real estate broker

Debtor's objection argues that because the Trustee has failed to "identify any immediate necessity to list the Debtor's Property for sale," the Broker Employment Application should be denied. Dkt. 163, p.3:16-24.

While Debtor is correct that the Broker Employment Application does not identify an immediate need, the Trustee's reply provides ample support. First, as a general matter, one of the Trustee's primary functions is to "collect and reduce to money the property of the estate." Dkt. 168, p.4:25-26. Employing a broker to market the property is to further that end. Second, because of the uncertainty surrounding coronavirus and how that may affect the market, it is the broker's opinion that it is more prudent to list the property now than spend money to improve the property and perhaps get a higher price. Id. at p.6:19-23. Lastly, as pointed out by both Pensco and the Trustee, there is no evidence that Debtor has been making payments to secured creditors, which generally erodes any equity cushion. See id. at p.4:3; see also dkt. 167, p.2:25-26.

The tentative ruling is that the Trustee has established that the employment of a real estate broker is necessary.

(b) Alleged value of the property and claims

The objection also argues that "there is no basis for the Trustee to sell the Property at this time" because secured creditors are protected by an adequate equity cushion based on the property being worth $8.4 million and estimated liens of "well below" $4.5 million. Id. at pp.3:25-4:17.

This Court does not find Debtor's argument persuasive. First, the

Chapter 7

Trustee is not proposing the sell the property via this application, but to employ a real estate broker to list the property. Should the Trustee come forward with a sale motion and a proposed buyer, Debtor may object to the sale of the property at that time. Second, the appraisal on which Debtor is relying to say that the property is worth $8.4 million is from 2018 (see dkt. 163, Ex. E), which is somewhat outdated evidence of the value of the property. The proposed broker's declaration explains the basis for valuing the property at approximately $6.2 million includes a 2019 visit to the property and a review of recent sales in the area. Dkt. 168, pp.14:16-15:6. The Court finds the proposed broker's evidence is more probative of the current value of the property than Debtor's 2018 appraisal. Lastly, Debtor's statement that the claims total $4.5 million is based on the assumption that she will be successful in reducing the amount of several claims. See dkt. 163, pp.4:25-6:14. Until claim objections are filed and this Court has an opportunity to review them, any statements re reducing claim amounts are speculative. In addition, as the Trustee points out, Debtor's figures do not address how she would pay general unsecured claims (dkt. 168, p.8:8-9) or the claim of Ms. Olivia Vaateta should the claim be found to be meritorious. Dkt. 168, p.7:13-14; p.8:8-19; p.9:10-15. It also appears that Debtor may have underestimated the costs of administration. See dkt. 168, pp.9:24-10:15.

The tentative ruling is that the Debtor's objection on this point is unpersuasive.

(c) Debtor's attempt to refinance the property

Lastly, Debtor argues that the Broker Employment Application should be denied because Debtor "is diligently trying to refinancing the Property by obtaining a loan with sufficient cash out to pay all allowed claims." DKt. 163, p.4:18-19.

Debtor has had considerable time to attempt a refinance, and she does not explain how the Trustee employing a broker prevents her from continuing her efforts to refinance the property. In addition, as the Trustee points out in the reply and is discussed above, any refinance would have to address unsecured claims and contingent claims.

The tentative ruling is that the Debtor's objection on this point is unpersuasive.

(d) Conclusion

For the reasons set forth above, the tentative ruling is to overrule

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Bank of America, N.A.'s non-opposition (dkt. 268); no opposition from the Debtors is on file.

Analysis

The tentative ruling is to grant the sale motion, subject to
(1) payment in full of Bank of America's lien (dkt. 268),
(2) any overbids at the hearing,
(3) the filing of a "good faith" declaration (11 U.S.C. 363(m)) by the winning bidder that substantially complies with Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov), and

(4) no dual agency.

On this last issue, the tentative ruling is to deny the request (dkt.253, Notice, p.4:10-17, Motion, p. 5:7-17 at PDF p.16, Temple Decl. para.5, at PDF p.37) to permit other real estate brokers ("Affiliated Brokers") in the same office as the real estate brokers for the Trustee (the "Trustee Brokers") to represent prospective buyers - i.e., to modify the terms of employment. See Order (dkt.236) (copy at dkt.253, Ex.5, at PDF pp.89-91). The asserted negative impact on the sale price is not a sufficient reason to depart from the prohibition on such dual agency, for three alternative reasons.

First, professionals employed by the bankruptcy estate cannot have conflicts of interest. See 11 U.S.C. 101(14) and 327(a) (professionals may not "hold or represent an interest adverse to the estate"); In re Circle K Corp., 279 F.3d 669 (9th Cir. 2002). This Court is not persuaded that it can, or should, depart from the plain meaning of the statute.

Second, dual agency would create a financial incentive to favor sales to persons whom the broker also represents. For example, a 5% (dual agency) commission on a $500,000 sale is worth more to a broker ($25,000) than a 2.5% (single agency) commission on a $650,000 sale ($16,250), so a broker with a choice between such sales has a financial incentive ($8,750) to favor the former sale, even though that would depress the price by $150,000. This is not just a hypothetical concern.

This Court takes judicial notice that dual agency is widely viewed with skepticism because it involves potential or actual conflicts of interest. See, e.g., Horiike v. Coldwell Banker Res. Brokerage Co., 383 P.3d 1094, 1029-32 and 1041 (Cal. S.Ct. 2016) (noting historical lack of dual agency, and "fundamental problem in dual agency relationships — potential and sometimes unavoidable conflicts of interest") (citation and internal quotation marks omitted).

In addition, years after Judge Bason posted his policy of prohibiting dual agency, he experienced first hand the negative effects of dual agency. He made a higher and better offer on a property by the bid deadline (through his broker), but the seller's brokers had a dual agency arrangement with a competing prospective purchaser and Judge Bason never even heard back from the seller.

Of course, this Court does not intend in any way to impugn the integrity of the Trustee Brokers. The point is not that they would actually violate any duties to the bankruptcy estate - this Court presumes they would not. Rather, the point is that it is inappropriate and unfair to place estate professionals in the position of having conflicting incentives.

Third, the assertion that the prohibition on dual agency results in lost opportunities rests on a premise that, admittedly, is all too real. But that premise is also incomplete.

The all too real part is that any Affiliated Brokers may well fail to let their clients know about the subject property, even if that property would be an attractive property for their clients, because (under this Court's bar on dual agency) the Affiliated Brokers cannot receive a 2.5% commission on that property. The incomplete part is that (a) such Affiliated Brokers risk losing their clients, and their reputation, if those clients find out about the missed opportunity to bid on the subject property (although, admittedly, some brokers are not very concerned about those risks), and (b) such Affiliated Brokers have a "win-win" alternative: they can do right by their client by referring their client, for this one property, to a broker who does not work in the same office, and the broker they choose can be one who has an incentive (i) not to "steal" the client and (ii) to return the favor (e.g., a broker who is retained by bankruptcy trustees, who faces the same prohibition on dual agency, and who therefore has reasons to refer one of their own clients to the Affiliated Broker at a future date). See generally Order (dkt.236) (copy at dkt.253, Ex.5, at PDF pp.89-91) (permitting brokers who are affiliated with the Trustee Brokers, but who do not work out of same office, to represent buyers, subject to otherwise applicable ethical and legal restrictions).

As with the Trustee Brokers, this Court does not intend to impugn the integrity of the Affiliated Brokers. The point is only that, if this Court presumes that the Affiliated Brokers will act with integrity and some creativity, then there should not be any negative impact - or at least none that outweighs the advantages - arising from this Court's prohibition on dual agency. (And if this Court were to presume the contrary - i.e., a lack of integrity - that only reinforces the second alternative reason to deny the request to permit dual agency: the dangers of conflicting incentives for brokers.)

For any and all of these three alternative reasons, the tentative ruling is to deny the request to lift the prohibition on dual agency.

The Summons And Notice Of Status Conference (adv. dkt. 2) directed the parties to file a joint status report no later than 14 days before this status conference (3/17/20). As of the drafting of this tentative ruling, no status report has been filed. Why not?

This Court notes, however, that according to a recent status report in the main case (dkt.103, p.2:21-23) the parties are pursuing settlement. Accordingly the tentative ruling is to continue this matter as set forth below, without setting any other deadlines at this time.

(1) Current matters

(a) Combined Status Conference

This Status Conference involves two related bankruptcy cases and associated matters: (a) In re Layfield & Barrett, APC, Case No. 2:17-bk-19548-NB ("L&B"); (b) In re Layfield, Case No. 2:18-bk-15829-NB ("Lay-Invol."); (c) *Pimentel v. (d) Pimentel Adv.

(i) Status conference

Continue as set forth in part "(2)" of this tentative ruling, below.

(ii) Substantive motions

As a preliminary matter, as of the preparation of this tentative ruling, no reply papers appear on the docket. Although Mr. Layfield attempted to submit reply briefing via e-mail on 3/25/20 to Judge Bason's Courtroom Deputy (as well as Plaintiff's counsel and other interested parties) and allegedly sent overnight mail copies to the Court, the tentative ruling is that is insufficient.

First, Mr. Layfield's pleadings were not physically received by this Court by the 3/24/20 reply deadline. Second, and more importantly, e-mail transmission does not comply with the filing procedures this Court previously ordered, as an accommodation to Mr. Layfield, permitting him to file his papers using special procedures due to his inability to file papers electronically (because he is unrepresented and disbarred). Among other things, this Court required papers to be filed on a compact disk ("CD"), rather than via other electronic means, so that the proposed papers could be scanned for computer viruses. See, e.g., L&B dkt.362, p.3:14-15; dkt. 367 para."(5)." Therefore, until the papers appear on the docket this Court will not review them.

(A) Defendant/Debtor Mr. Layfield's motion for judgment on the pleadings ("MJOP" adv. dkt. 42), Plaintiff Mr. Pimentel's First Amended Complaint ("FAC," adv. dkt. 20), Order denying Mr. Layfield's motion to dismissal FAC ("Order Denying MTD," adv. dkt. 36), Mr. Layfield's Answer to FAC (adv. dkt. 38), Mr. Pimentel's opposition to motion for judgment on the pleadings (adv. dkt. 47) and request for judicial notice (adv. dkt. 48), no reply is on file

The tentative ruling is to deny the MJOP because Mr. Layfield has not established any basis to reconsider this Court's Order Denying MTD under Rule 60(b) (Fed. R. Civ.P.) and any arguments not made in connection with Debtor's motion to dismiss the FAC were waived and forfeited.

Alternatively, and in addition, as to Plaintiff's first claim for relief

Chapter 11

(declaratory relief, restitution, constructive trust), Mr. Layfield has not cited the standard for preclusion or discussed how each of the requisite elements of preclusion are satisfied. See e.g., Tritz v. U.S. Postal Serv., 721 F.3d 1133, 1141 (9th Cir. 2013) ("Res judicata applies where there is (1) an identity of claims, (2) a final judgment on the merits, and (3) identity or privity between parties"). Instead, Mr. Layfield jumps to the incorrect conclusion that because this Court previously granted a motion to dismiss defendant Affeld Grivakes, preclusion principles also bar Plaintiff's claims against him on the same grounds.

Although it may be true that there is no basis to establish a constructive trust at all, this Court does not agree that the analysis this Court applied for Affeld Grivakes necessarily applies to Mr. Layfield. This Court previously ruled that, when there was evidence that Plaintiff's funds were commingled with funds that were converted to services performed in other cases handled by Affeld Grivakes, that led to the recovery of settlement funds in those cases, Plaintiff had not established a constructive trust over those funds. But that is different from whether there could be any constructive trust over any and all funds that might or might not be within Mr. Layfield's custody or control.

Given that Mr. Layfield still has not complied with his duty to file bankruptcy schedules, it is premature to conclude that there is not a pool of assets upon which Plaintiff might be entitled to a constructive trust. To use a hypothetical example, suppose that Mr. Layfield placed millions of dollars in Swiss bank accounts and labeled one of the accounts "Pimentel settlement funds." In such an instance, it is plausible that Plaintiff could establish a basis to impose a constructive trust over that account.

While this is an extreme hypothetical (and there is nothing presently in the record to suggest that any such account exists), the point is just to illustrate that at this early stage of litigation, Mr. Layfield has not established that there is no basis upon which Plaintiff could establish a constructive trust (against someone other than Affeld Grivakes). Whether a constructive trust could hold up against the bankruptcy estate, or otherwise be enforced, is an entirely separate issue and one that is not suitable for disposition at this time.

(B) Mr. Layfield's motion to disqualify McMurray & Henriks, LLP (the "Firm") and Yana Henriks ("Ms. Henriks") as Mr. Pimentel's counsel ("Disqualification Motion," adv. dkt. 44), The Firm/Ms. Henriks' opposition (adv. dkt. 46), no reply is on file

The tentative ruling is to deny the Disqualification Motion with leave to amend, because the motion is not supported by any evidence in support of Mr. Layfield's allegations and the newly presented evidence attached in support of the untimely and improper reply should have been submitted in the motion and is appropriately ordered stricken.

Proposed orders: Mr. Pimentel is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Deadlines/dates. The L&B case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 on 8/3/17 and converted to chapter 11 on 8/11/17 (L&B dkt. 25). The Lay-Invol case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 case on 5/21/18 and an order for relief was entered on 12/12/18 (Lay-Invol dkt. 160, 161).

- (a) L&B Bar date: 2/5/18 (timely served, L&B dkt. 133, 157)
- (b) Lay-Invol Bar date: 4/12/19 (timely served, Lay-Invol dkt.180)
- (c) L&B Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD. Do not file or serve until further order of this court.
- (d) Continued status conferences (L&B, Lay-Invol., & Pimentel Adv.)

Continue status conferences to 8/4/20 at 11:00 a.m., to be concurrent with other matters. No written status reports required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Tentative Ruling for 3/31/20:

The tentative ruling is to dismiss this adversary proceeding for lack of prosecution. Appearances are not required. If you wish to dispute the tentative ruling you must notify opposing parties of your intent to appear telephonically.

Pursuant to Judge Bason's COVID-19 Procedures, ONLY TELEPHONIC APPEARANCES WILL BE PERMITTED until further notice. Reason:

After the 1/28/20 status conference, this Court issued its Order Directing The Parties To Mediation And Setting A Continued Status Conference (the "Scheduling Order," adv. dkt. 4). The Scheduling Order directed the parties to this adversary proceeding to lodge a proposed mediation order on the local form no later than 2/11/20.

On 2/18/20, this Court held a status conference in the related adversary proceeding of Yiping Zhu v. Shih Lin Hsu (2:19-ap-01511-NB, the "Zhu Adversary"). At that status conference, Debtor represented to this Court that the plaintiffs in the related adversary proceedings did not respond to his inquiries re selecting a mediator. After the status conference, this Court issued its Order Directing Parties To Lodge Mediation Order(s) And Continuing Status Conference (the "Zhu Scheduling Order," Zhu Adversary, adv. dkt. 4). The Zhu Scheduling Order was served on Debtor/Defendant, and Plaintiffs Diana Lee, Yiping Zhu, and Ching Chen Kok. The Zhu Scheduling Order reiterated that mediation of the three related adversary proceedings was mandatory, and failure to lodge the required mediation orders by 2/25/20 and attend mediation could "result in sanctions or other remedies." Zhu Adversary, adv. dkt. 4, p.2:12-13.

As of the drafting of this tentative ruling, no mediation orders have been lodged in any of the three related adversary proceedings. The tentative ruling is to dismiss this adversary proceeding for lack of prosecution.

Preliminary issues

(1) Status report

The summons issued in this case (adv. dkt. 2) directed the parties to file a joint status report by 1/14/20. As of the drafting of this tentative ruling, no status report has been filed. Why not?

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented.

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/11/20 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 11/27/19. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

fr. 02/18/20

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 3/31/20:

The tentative ruling is to dismiss this adversary proceeding for lack of prosecution. Appearances are not required. If you wish to dispute the tentative ruling you must notify opposing parties of your intent to appear telephonically.

Pursuant to Judge Bason's COVID-19 Procedures, ONLY TELEPHONIC APPEARANCES WILL BE PERMITTED until further notice. Please contact CourtCall at (888) 882-6878 to make arrangements for any appearance. There is no need to contact the Court for permission. Parties who are not represented by an attorney will be able to use CourtCall for free through 4/30/20. Reason:

On 2/18/20, this Court held a status conference in this adversary proceeding. At that status conference, Debtor represented to this Court that the plaintiffs in the related adversary proceedings did not respond to his inquiries re selecting mediator. After the status conference, this Court issued its Order Directing Parties To Lodge Mediation Order(s) And Continuing Status Conference (the "Zhu Scheduling Order," adv. dkt. 4). The Zhu Scheduling Order was served on Debtor/Defendant, and Plaintiffs Diana Lee, Yiping Zhu, and Ching Chen Kok. The Zhu Scheduling Order reiterated that mediation of the three related adversary proceedings was mandatory, and failure to lodge the required mediation orders by 2/25/20 and attend mediation could "result in sanctions or other remedies." Adv. dkt. 4,

As of the drafting of this tentative ruling, no mediation orders have been lodged in any of the three related adversary proceedings. The tentative ruling is to dismiss this adversary proceeding for lack of prosecution.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 2/18/20:
Appearances required.

(A) Preliminary issues

(1) Status report

This Court issued a summons which required the parties to file a joint status report at least 14 days before the hearing, or by 2/4/20. Adv. dkt. 2, p.2. As of the drafting of this tentative ruling, no status report has been filed. Why not?

(B) Standard issues

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. (2) Mediation

Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/25/20 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 12/16/19. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

#26.00 Status Conference re: Notice of Removal

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required, to address whether, prior to remand, this Court should order mandatory mediation. But, pursuant to Judge Bason's COVID19 Procedures, telephonic appearances are REQUIRED until further notice.

Please contact CourtCall at (888) 882-6878 to make arrangements for any telephonic appearance. There is no need to contact the Court for permission. Parties who are not represented by an attorney will be able to use CourtCall for free through 4/30/20. Attorneys will receive a 25% discount (for more information, see www.cacb.uscourts.gov, "Judges," "Bason, N.," "Telephonic Instructions").

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (dkt. 11) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion for remand (adv. dkt. 7, "Remand Motion") and supporting declaration (adv. dkt. 8), Plaintiff's opposition (adv. dkt. 10), Movants' reply (adv. dkt. 12)

Defendants Dos Cabezas Properties, LLC, Criscione-Meyer Entitlement, LLC, and Michael Criscione (collectively, the "Movants") seek an order remanding this proceeding and for an award of attorneys fees and costs imposed against plaintiff Tarzana Crossing, a Merchant Faire, LLC ("Plaintiff").

For the reasons set forth below, the tentative ruling is to grant the request to remand this removed action, but perhaps defer the remand until after mediation, and deny the request for attorney fees.

(i) Jurisdiction

The parties dispute whether this Court has subject matter jurisdiction to hear this proceeding. The tentative ruling is that this Court has "related to" jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. 157(c)(1), because the parties' dispute arises from an alleged breach of contract for the sale of the estate's principal asset.

(ii) Mandatory abstention

The tentative ruling is that mandatory abstention applies as follows. Mandatory abstention under 28 U.S.C. 1334(c)(2) requires seven elements: (1) a timely motion; (2) a purely state law question; (3) a non-core proceeding under 28 U.S.C. 157(c)(1); (4) a lack of independent federal jurisdiction absent the petition under Title 11; (5) that an action is commenced in a state court; (6) the state court action may be timely adjudicated; (7) a state forum of appropriate jurisdiction exists. [In re Gen. Carriers Corp., 258 B.R. 181, 189 (9th Cir. BAP 2001) (internal quotation omitted).]

These elements are satisfied: (1) the motion was timely - the proceeding was removed on 1/22/20 and Movants filed the remand motion just 30 days later, on 2/21/20; (2) the complaint involves purely nonbankruptcy law questions (breach of fiduciary duty etc., adv. dkt. 7, p. 2:17-21) (Movants state that they amended their complaint on 8/30/19, but there is nothing in the record reflecting what was amended (id., p. 2:21), so this Court bases its ruling on the record presented); (3) the proceeding is noncore - the authorities cited by the removing party (dkt.10, pp.14:24-15:14) are distinguishable because they all involved alleged violations of fiduciary duties within the bankruptcy case itself, not prepetition and nonbankruptcy alleged violations; (4) no independent federal jurisdiction has been asserted; (5) the action was commenced prepetition, on 12/14/18, in Los Angeles Superior Court; (6) there is no evidence that the proceeding cannot be timely adjudicated in the State Court; and (7) neither party has contested in this Court the State Court's jurisdiction over the proceeding.

(iii) Discretionary abstention

Alternatively, and in addition, the tentative ruling is that discretionary abstention is appropriate.

Discretionary abstention under 28 U.S.C. 1334(c)(1) requires consideration of the following twelve factors:

- (1) the effect of lack thereof on the efficient administration of the estate if a Court recommends abstention,
- (2) the extent to which state law issues predominate over bankruptcy issues,
- (3) the difficulty or unsettled nature of the applicable law,
- (4) the presence of a related proceeding commenced in state court or other nonbankruptcy court, (5) the jurisdictional basis, if any, other than 28 U.S.C. 1334, (6) the degree of relatedness or remoteness of the proceeding to the main bankruptcy case, (7) the substance rather than form of an asserted "core" proceeding, (8) the feasibility of severing state law claims from core bankruptcy matters to allow judgments to be entered in state court with enforcement left to the bankruptcy court, (9) the burden of the bankruptcy court's docket, (10) the likelihood that the commencement of the proceeding in bankruptcy court involves forum shopping by one of the parties, (11) the existence of a right to a jury trial, and (12) the presence in the proceeding of nondebtor parties.

Several of the Tucson factors weigh in favor of abstention. First, the Complaint involves purely state-law issues. Second, this Court would not have jurisdiction over the Complaint but for the Debtor's bankruptcy petition, because the claims arise under state law and there is no diversity between the parties. Third, the Complaint involves several non-debtor parties who have asserted a right to a jury trial. Fourth, permitting the Complaint to proceed in state court will contribute to the efficient administration of the bankruptcy case because the State Court is the best tribunal to adjudicate the parties' state law claims. Fifth, although the Complaint is related to the main bankruptcy case because it involves claims relating to the primary asset of the estate, deferring to the State Court to adjudicate the parties' claims will not unduly interfere with this Bankruptcy Court's determination of other matters in the bankruptcy case.

(iv) Movants' request for attorneys' fees is denied

The tentative ruling is to deny Movant's request for attorneys' fees because this Court is not persuaded that Plaintiff lacked an objectively reasonable basis for seeking removal of this action because the dispute is related to the primary asset of Debtor's bankruptcy estate.

Proposed order: Movants are directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1) (B).

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor/defendant's motion to dismiss (adv. dkt. 3, "MTD"), Plaintiffs' opposition (adv. dkt. 7), Debtor/defendant's reply (adv. dkt. 10)
Debtor/defendant seeks dismissal of this proceeding under Rule 12(b)(6) (Fed. R. Civ. P.) (made applicable by Rule 7012, Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

As to Plaintiffs' first claim for relief under 11 U.S.C. 523(a)(2)(A), the tentative ruling is to grant the motion and dismiss the claim with prejudice for the reasons stated in the MTD. The tentative ruling is also to deny leave to amend because amendment would be futile.

As to Plaintiffs' second claim for relief for fraud under CCCP 1572, the tentative ruling is to agree with the argument in the MTD that because the claim does not fall within one of the categories set forth in Rule 7001 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) the complaint must be dismissed, without leave to amend, but also

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Revised Tentative Ruling for 2/18/20:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor.

(1) Current issues

(a) Cash Collateral Motion (dkt. 73)

Grant in part and deny in part. See the tentative ruling for calendar no. 18.10 (2/18/20 at 1:00 p.m.).

(b) Explanation of business

Debtor's proposed budget (dkt.73, Ex.A) lists wildly fluctuating income, from highs of $45,028 in February 2020 and $37,114 in March 2020 to lows of $2,200 in May and June 2020. Why?

This Court recognizes that the same budget lists historical fluctuations for 2019. The net income ranges from a high of $38,366 in March 2019 to a low of $0 in July and August of 2019, and only $2,500 in June 2019 and $3,300 in May 2019. Again, however, there is no explanation. In addition, Debtor's Statement Of Financial Affairs (dkt.28, line 1) lists gross revenues of approximately $500,000 per year for 2017, 2018 and 2019. What accounts for (i) the wild fluctuations in net income and (ii) the lack of consistent profit despite substantial and seemingly stable gross annual revenues?

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 11/29/19.

(a) Bar date: 3/31/20 (dkt.46, timely served, dkt.49).

(b) Procedures order: dkt. 2 (timely served, dkt. 8, 9)

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: N/a

(d) Continued status conference: 3/31/20 at 1:00 p.m. No written

Tentative Ruling for 2/18/20:

This Court anticipates posting a tentative ruling at a later time.

Tentative Ruling for 1/28/20:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues

(a) Monthly operating reports ("MORs")

Debtor's MORs have been filed late, and they appear to show unauthorized adequate protection payments (see dkt.68, pp.15, 29) and unpaid US Trustee fees (id., p.30). Why?

(b) Cash collateral

Debtor's initial status report (dkt.27, at PDF pp.3-5) stated that there was no immediate need to obtain authorization for use of cash collateral because Debtor has no employees or operations. Debtor's latest status report (dkt.60, p.3:9-20) suggests that productive negotiations have taken place with the creditor holding an interest in cash collateral and that Debtor intends to self-calendar a motion approving the use of cash collateral for 2/4/20. What is the latest status of those matters?

(c) Employing broker and filing sale motion

Debtor is directed to address the status of its plans to employ a real estate broker, sell its properties (11 U.S.C. 363(b) & (f)). Those things typically are "first day" motions. But as of this continued status conference it will have been two months after the petition date and those matters are not

Tentative Ruling for 12/17/19:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor (see dkt. 21, excusing debtor's appearance).

- (1) Current issues
- (a) Has Debtor ceased all operations?
Debtor's status report gives the impression, but does not quite state, that Debtor is not conducting any business operations at this time (dkt. 27, p. 3). Debtor is directed to confirm this, or disclose if that is not so, at the hearing.
  - (b) Budget motion
Debtor's status report states that a budget motion is not required by the presiding judge's procedures. Dkt. 27, p.5. That is wrong (see posted Procedures, available at cacb.uscourts.gov), but the tentative ruling is to excuse this requirement with a caution to counsel not to mis-state the applicable procedures.

Current issues

(a) Service

Debtor's proof of service does not reflect service on PHH Mortgage Corporation or Specialized Loan Servicing in a manner consistent with Rule 7004 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). Why not?

The tentative ruling is that by the date stated at the start of this tentative ruling Debtor must give notice of the continued hearing and file a proof of service reflecting service as follows (a) on PHH Mortgage at the address listed in its proof of claim (claim no. 2) (which was filed after the date of the motion, but which appears to be the most recent designated address) (see Rule 2002(g), Fed. R. Bankr. P.), and (b) on Specialized Loan Servicing in a manner consistent with Rule 7004(b)(3).

Debtor checked the box requesting authority to deviate from the line item expenses in the proposed budget(s), but did not fill in the percentage of deviation requested. The tentative ruling is that debtor may not deviate from the line items listed in the motion by more than 10%.

(c) Property taxes and insurance

The motion is inconsistent about whether debtor pays monthly property taxes and insurance into an impound account (compare dkt. 12, p. 4, para. 5 with p. 5, para. 1). The tentative ruling is to direct debtor to file an amended motion stating the estimated dollar amount for these items by the date for service of notice of the continued hearing (stated at the start of this tentative ruling).

Judge Bason's standard conditions for use of cash collateral and/or postpetition financing (by creditors holding prepetition claims)

(1) Written order

(a) Form. Use local form

F2081-2.1.ORDER.CASH.COLLATERAL or the equivalent. Attach a copy of this tentative ruling as an exhibit, thereby adopting it as the written ruling of this Court, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. Do not repeat the terms set forth in the motion or any stipulation. Incorporate those terms by reference (including the docket number of the document), subject to any modification by this Court.

(b) Timing. Lodge the proposed order within 7 days after the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Minimum adequate protection

In addition to the postpetition security interests that are automatically provided pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 552 (e.g., in traceable proceeds and profits), and subject to any more comprehensive protection that may be included in the motion or related papers, Debtor shall provide at least the following protection to any creditor with a security interest in the subject property (pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 361-364, as applicable):

(a) Insurance. For all collateral of a type that typically is insured (e.g., real property and improvements), Debtor is directed to maintain insurance in a dollar amount at least equal to Debtor's good faith estimate of the value of such creditor's interest in the collateral, and such insurance shall name such creditor as an additional insured. current on payments for such insurance.

(b) Taxes. Debtor is directed to remain current on payments on account of postpetition real estate taxes (to the extent that real estate is part of the collateral).

(c) Disclosures/access. Debtor is directed to provide, upon such creditor's reasonable request, periodic accountings of the foregoing insurance and tax obligations and payments, as well as postpetition proceeds, products, offspring, or profits from the collateral, including gross revenues and expenses and a calculation of net revenues, including any rents and any fees, charges, accounts, or other payments for the use or occupancy of rooms and other public facilities in lodging properties (as all of the foregoing terms are used in 11 U.S.C. 552). Debtor is directed to provide appropriate documentation of those accountings, and access for purposes of inspection or appraisal.

(3) Grant of, and limitation on, postpetition liens

The tentative ruling is to grant postpetition liens to any creditors holding secured claims by granting replacement liens, but such liens shall be limited to the same validity, priority, and amount as prepetition liens. As used herein, the "validity, priority, and amount" or any similar phrase that may be used by the parties or this Court is deemed to include the following:

(a) Extent. Such liens shall be limited to the type of collateral in which the creditor held a security interest as of the petition date, unless this order expressly states that the liens granted by this order are intended to attach to different types of collateral from the prepetition collateral. For example, if prepetition liens extended to inventory and accounts receivable but not equipment then postpetition liens are likewise limited (unless otherwise expressly provided by order of this Court). In addition, postpetition liens shall not extend to the proceeds of any avoidance actions, any recoveries under 11 U.S.C. 506(c), or any "carveout" under 11 U.S.C. 552.

(b) Priority. Such liens shall be limited to the same priority as the security interest held by the creditor as of the petition date.

(c) Dollar amount. Such liens shall be limited to the dollar amount needed to protect the creditor against diminution in the value of the secured claims as of the petition date.

(d) Enforceability. Such liens shall be limited to the extent that the creditor's security interests were duly perfected and valid as of the petition date, and to the extent that they are unavoidable.

(e) Automatic postpetition perfection. Any automatic perfection of such liens shall be subject to any applicable limitations regarding the Court's authority, jurisdiction, or due process.

(4) Automatic disapproval of insufficiently disclosed provisions

Any provision of the type listed in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or in local form F4001-2 (e.g., cross-collateralization) or any waiver of the "equities of the case" exception in 11 U.S.C. 552(b)(2) shall be deemed automatically disapproved and excepted from any order granting the motion, notwithstanding any other provision of such order, unless either: (a) such provision is specifically and prominently disclosed in the motion papers in a checklist (such as local form F4001-2), or alternatively (b) such provision is specifically identified in any proposed order granting the motion, using terminology of the type used in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B) or local form F4001-2 (e.g., any "cross-collateralization" that is not specifically identified as such is deemed to be disapproved).

(5) Disputes

In the event of any disputes regarding the rulings in this order, the parties are directed to meet and confer and, if they cannot resolve their disputes consensually, contact Judge Bason's chambers to arrange a mutually convenient time for either a telephonic or in-person hearing to address such disputes.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." (1) Current issues

(a) Cash collateral motion (dkt. 12)

Grant the motion on an interim basis, subject to the service deadlines and also to Judge Bason's standard conditions for use of cash collateral set forth in the tentative ruling for calendar no. 2 (3/31/20 at 1:00 p.m.), with a continued hearing concurrent with the continued status conference (see part "(2)" of this tentative ruling, below).

(b) Utilities motion (dkt. 16), order setting hearing on shortened notice (dkt. 19, "OST"), notice of hearing (dkt. 21), proof of service (dkt. 22)

The first issue that this Court will address is whether to shorten time and why notice could not have been provided sooner.

The second issue that this Court will address is whether, if notice could have been provided sooner, counsel should not charge anything for the Application and related matters.

If this Court is persuaded to shorten time, then subject to any opposition at the hearing, the tentative ruling is to grant this motion on an interim basis, with a final hearing concurrent with the continued status

Chapter 11

(c) Application to employ Anyama Law Firm (dkt. 11)

Ms. Anyama and Debtor state that Ms. Anyama's firm received an $8,233 pre-petition retainer payment, which was a gift from Debtor's family (dkt. 11, p.6, para. 3.a.1 & p. 8) (actually, Ms. Anyama's firm received $10,000 including the filing fee, id., Ex.2, p.2).

The contribution from family members raises certain ethical issues because a third party who funds a retainer for a debtor (a "Funder") may have a variety of motivations for providing the funding such as, for example, being the recipient of an avoidable preference, or otherwise having interests that are adverse to (or at least not fully aligned with) the bankruptcy estate or creditors. For these reasons, although payment of a retainer by a Funder is not outright prohibited, it is fraught with ethical concerns. At the hearing, proposed counsel should be prepared to address the following.

(i) Connections. What are all of the connections between the Funder, on the one hand, and Debtor, Debtor's proposed counsel, and any of the other types of persons listed in FRBP 2014, on the other hand -- e.g., have there been any economic or business or personal connections between the Funder and Debtor, beyond the fact of being a family member, or between the Funder and proposed counsel, or any creditor or other party in interest, or their respective attorneys or accountants? These questions may be answered, if appropriate, by referring to specific disclosures already on file, e.g., the bankruptcy schedules.

(ii) Terms. The Application and Debtor's declaration assert that the funds were to be treated as a gift, but there is no evidence to support that assertion (e.g., declaration(s) from the Funder).

(iii) Informed consent of Funder. Has the Funder been advised regarding actual and potential conflicts of interest, and that the sole attorney-client relationship and duty of loyalty is with Debtor, not the Funder? Who provided such advice: independent counsel, or Debtor's proposed counsel (and if the latter, was each Funder given the opportunity to obtain independent counsel)? Has the Funder given informed consent? Are these things in writing?

(iv) Informed consent of debtor. Has the debtor likewise been fully advised and given informed consent? Who provided such advice? Are these things in writing?

(v) Other considerations. Has proposed counsel demonstrated to the Court the absence of an actual or potential conflict, a lack of disinterestedness, or any other basis for disqualification? See In re Kelton Motors, Inc., 116 B.R. 208, 219 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1990); In re Park-Helena Corp., 63 F.3d 877 (9th Cir. 1995).

Ms. Anyama seeks authority to charge $150/hour for paralegal services, but the application is not supported by a resume or any other qualifications from her paralegal to justify that hourly rate.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/3/20 for Debtor to file supplemental declarations addressing the issues set forth above, and to continue this matter to be concurrent with the continued status conference (see part "(2)" below).

(d) Schedules I and J are deficient

Debtor's status report (dkt. 15, p. 5, para.1) states that she intends to assume a residential lease of her rental property, but Debtor's Schedule I (line 8a and passim) does not reflect any rental income or attach a separate statement showing gross receipts, ordinary and necessary business expenses, and the total monthly net income. Additionally, Debtor's Schedule J does not reflect the first and second mortgage payments for the rental property or any other expenses such as real property taxes, insurance, and maintenance.

The tentative ruling is that Debtor is directed to file amended schedules by 4/3/20.

(e) Budget motion

Debtor's status report (dkt. 15) states that she "will file a budget motion on or before" [presumably the status conference]. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, no budget motion is on file. Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) Section VII.G provide that budget motions are mandatory in all chapter 11 cases. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/3/20 to file and serve a budget motion with a hearing set on shortened time to be concurrent with the continued status conference (see part "(2)" below), oppositions due 4/14/20, and replies at the hearing.

This Court's order setting principal status conference (dkt. 5, "Procedures Order") required Debtor to serve this order on all parties in interest by 2/29/20 and file a proof of service at least 14 days before the principal status conference. On 3/18/20 debtor's counsel belatedly filed a declaration (dkt. 18) stating that she served the order, but does not state when service occurred or why she could not file her declaration by the 3/17/20 filing deadline. Was the procedures order timely served? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/3/20 for Debtor to file an amended proof of service.

(g) Monthly operating reports ("MORs")

As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, Debtor's February MOR was overdue. When will the MOR be filed? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/3/20 to do so.

(h) Should this case remain in chapter 11?

Debtor's status report (dkt. 15) states that she filed this case to address pre-petition arrears on a rental property. Debtor should be prepared to address why this case was filed as a chapter 11 case rather than a chapter 13 case.

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

parties should be prepared to discuss the effect of that amendment, including any appropriate dates and deadlines for such matters as the appointment of a Subchapter V trustee, the filing of an amended plan, and any other applicable procedures that this Court may need to set at this time.

(b) No discernable progress since last hearing

The docket does not reflect any motion to sell or refinance any property, or other evidence of adequate prosecution of this case. Given the short time since the last hearing, the tentative ruling is that this Court will not take any action based on that lack of discernable progress, but to remind Debtor to be cognizant of the warnings that this Court set forth on the record at the last hearing.

(c) No corrected MOR

Debtor has not corrected the monthly operating report, which was not filed on the required form. See tentative ruling for 3/3/20 (reproduced below), item "(1)" "(b)". Why not?

(d) No statement reflecting apparent increase in income?

Despite two reminders, Debtor still has not filed a declaration of current/postpetition income and expenses. See Revised Tentative Rulings for 3/10/20 and 2/18/20 (reproduced below). Why not?

(e) Budget Motion (dkt. 85, 90), East West Bank's opposition (dkt. 94), Debtor's reply (dkt. 134), interim order (dkt.113)

Although this Court has concerns about whether Debtor's financial disclosures are accurate and complete (as set forth in various portions of this tentative ruling and prior tentative rulings), the proposed use of funds in the budget motion appears to be appropriate. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to grant the motion on a final basis, subject to the following.

First, any approval is subject possible reconsideration once Debtor finally files her statement of postpetition income and expenses, and files the other documents directed by this Court (see dkt.133), or as other facts may come to light. Second, the budget must be adjusted to accommodate the request of East West Bank for Debtor to increase her proposed monthly mortgage payment to $5,643.86, which Debtor has agreed to do (dkt. 134). Third, any approval is subject to the parties' rights to seek further relief, including approval of any stipulation for adequate protection.

(f) Cash Collateral Motion (dkt. 86, 90)

Grant the motion on a final basis, on the same terms as stated in the order (dkt.114) granting the motion on an interim basis, and subject to the same caveats and conditions as set forth above regarding the budget motion.

(g) Application to employ The Orantes Law Firm (the "Firm") (dkt. 72); statement of disinterestedness (dkt. 73); amended statement of disinterestedness (dkt. 82); Dec re non-opp (dkt. 98); order setting matter for hearing (dkt. 101)

The tentative ruling is to grant the application in part and deny it in part as follows.

Debtor seeks to employ the Firm pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 327, with compensation pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 330 at the following hourly rates for the Firm's attorneys: Giovanni Orantes: $695 and Luis A. Solorzano: $350 (dkt. 72, p.16). In determining the reasonableness of the proposed billing rates, 11 USC 330(a)(3)(B), (E) and (F) require this Court to consider, among other things, proposed counsel's hourly rates, any board certification or other demonstrated skill and experience in the bankruptcy field, and "the customary compensation charged by comparably skilled practitioners ...."

Based on a review of rates charged by other bankruptcy professionals practicing before this Court as well as this Court's familiarity with proposed counsel's skills and performance in pending and past cases before it, the tentative ruling is to approve the Firm's employment, subject to Judge Bason's standard employment terms (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov), but reduce the hourly rates that the Firm may charge to the following maximum dollar amounts, without in any way limiting the requirement that any rates charged and time spent still must be fully justified: Giovanni Orantes: $475/hour and Luis A. Solorzano: $250/hour.

In addition, the tentative ruling is that any waiver of conflicts of interest is ineffective as against the bankruptcy estate. (A "debtor in possession," acting as a trustee for the benefit of creditors, cannot waive conflicts on behalf of those creditors.)

(h) Motion for relief from stay (as amended, dkt. 93), debtor supplemental declaration (dkt.129), previously-filed papers (see tentative ruling for 3/3/20, reproduced at calendar no.13, 3/10/20 at 1:00 p.m.)

The tentative ruling is to continue this matter again, to be concurrent with the continued status conference (see below), so as to be able to assess (i) whether Debtor has adequately prosecuted this case, including selling or refinancing one or more properties (if that is realistic) or otherwise demonstrating progress that has been sorely lacking to date, and (ii) Debtor's papers regarding her non-debtor husband's finances, which are due 3/18/20. See Order (dkt.133).

Meanwhile, the parties should be prepared to address whether they have agreed upon procedures for valuing the property and whether further briefing is necessary regarding any issues of debtor's alleged bad faith. See dkt.132, 138.

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. (a) Motion for relief from stay (as amended, dkt. 93)

Grant, as set forth in the tentative ruling for calendar no. 15 (3/3/20 at 1:00 p.m.).

(b) Monthly operating report ("MOR") #1 (for Jan, 2020, dkt.103)

Debtor's MOR is not on the form that is familiar to this Court. Has the Office of the United States Trustee changed its form? Debtor reports $0 income for the month of January. Were rents paid prior to conversion to chapter 11 (i.e., prior to 1/2/20), and if so, how much rental income did Debtor receive for January, and when?

(c) Income and expenses

Debtor still has not filed a declaration of current/postpetition income and expenses. See Revised Tentative Ruling for 2/18/20 (reproduced below). Why not?

Debtor's Bankruptcy Schedules I and J provide very little information about Debtor's rental income. They list only gross rents per building instead of, e.g., a rent roll listing each tenant and their rental rate and information about whether those rents are reliable, such as a rental history. Nor does Debtor provide any breakdown of expenses, beyond what appears to be Debtor's rough estimate of $6,000 per month in mortgage payments, which appears to omit any payments to liens that Debtor is disputing. Nothing appears to be allocated for rental property maintenance, repairs, utilities, gardening, etc.

In addition, creditor Tremblay has questioned whether Debtor is omitting community property income of her non-debtor spouse, Mr. Behzad Beroukhai. See dkt.119, p.2:17-28. As Tremblay notes, Mr. Beroukhai allegedly pays all expenses related to certain real property, but Debtor has not disclosed and accounted for such past and ongoing funds. This Court also notes that Mr. Beroukhai is not listed as a codebtor on any debts. See Bankruptcy Schedule H (dkt.10 at PDF p.30, line 1). What is the true

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/25/20 for East West Bank to file a declaration with a copy of advance notice to Debtor regarding the increased monthly mortgage payments, a deadline of 3/4/20 for any response by Debtor, and any reply by East West Bank permitted at the continued hearing, to be held contemporaneous with the continued status conference (see below).

Debtor states (dkt.85, Ex.1, at PDF p.7, 1st footnote) that she recently had an increase income. But, as of the preparation of this tentative ruling, Debtor has not filed a declaration of current/postpetition income and expenses. Why not?

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues

(a) Lack of progress

Debtor has only very belatedly filed a status report (dkt.65) (one week after it was required by this Court's order, dkt. 50). Worse, long after this case was converted to chapter 11 (11/20/19) she has only now filed an application to employ counsel and a budget motion, and she admits (dkt. 65, p.2) that she has not filed her list of 20 largest unsecured creditors. In addition, she admits that she has not filed any cash collateral motion(s) (id., p.3), which apparently means that either she has been using cash without authority or she has been failing to use cash for ordinary and necessary expenses, both of which are bad.

What remedies should this Court impose on Debtor and/or her counsel for this pervasive failure to comply with her obligations under the Bankruptcy Code? What assurances can they provide this Court that similar problems will not happen in future?

hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(c) Service of order setting principal status conference

This Court's order setting principal status conference and setting various procedures (the "Procedures Order," dkt. 5) required Debtor to serve that order on all parties in interest and file a proof of service at least 14 days before the principal status conference. Debtor's proof of service states that the Procedures Order was only served on the UST, secured creditors and the twenty largest unsecured creditors (dkt. 11).

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/7/20 for Debtor to file and serve a Notice, with a copy of the Procedures Order attached as an exhibit, informing all parties in interest that "Debtor failed to serve the Procedures Order on all parties in interest as directed by the Bankruptcy Court, which may have prejudiced some parties. The Bankruptcy Court has directed Debtor to serve this Notice, with a copy of the Procedures Order, on all parties in interest, both to inform all parties of the procedures in the Procedures Order and so that any party who was prejudiced by the lack of earlier service has an opportunity to seek any appropriate relief."

In addition, Debtor is cautioned that failure to comply with this Court's orders may result in adverse consequences.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 1/15/20.

(a) Bar date: 4/7/20 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address whether this Court should grant the relief requested in Debtor's emergency first-day motions (dkt. 19, 20, 21, 23, 25 & 26) and this Court's "Order Granting Oral Request for Emergency Hearing Pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule 9075-1(a) and Setting Hearing on Shortened Notice" (dkt. 24).

Tentative Ruling:

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Jointly administered debtors' limited non-opposition (dkt. 38). As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, no reply is on file

(1) Requested relief

Debtors' non-opposition consents to the relief requested in the motion, which includes (i) relief in this case to continue their litigation in the State Courts, and (ii) that such relief continue for 180 days notwithstanding any future bankruptcy filing by any person or entity. Debtors request (a) that their review and approval/consent as to the form of order be obtained, (b) that entry of the order not prejudice their lien avoidance rights, and (c) that their consent not be deemed as an admission of any of the allegations of bad faith contained in the motion.

The tentative ruling is to grant each of Debtors' requested conditions (provided that, if they do not consent to the form of order, then both Movant and Debtors must file their own proposed form of order and may (if necessary) file a short declaration and/or brief explaining why they did not agree to one another's proposed form of order.

(2) Limitations on relief in this case

(a) Limited relief. Modify and condition the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) such that the movant may proceed in the nonbankruptcy forum to final judgment (including any appeals) in accordance with applicable nonbankruptcy law, subject to the following limitations (Judge Bason's standard limitations).

(i) No enforcement against property of the bankruptcy estate.

The stay remains in effect with respect to enforcement of any judgment against property of the debtors' bankruptcy estates - any such property shall be distributed when and how provided by the Bankruptcy Code. Nevertheless, the movant is permitted to enforce its final judgment by (i) collecting upon any available insurance in accordance with applicable nonbankruptcy law or (ii) proceeding against the debtors as to any property that is not property of the respective bankruptcy estates. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 362(b)(2)(B) & 541(b)(7) (collection of domestic support obligations from ERISA qualified retirement plans).

(ii) Claim allowance, priority, and discharge issues. Any claims arising from the nonbankruptcy litigation are subject to this Bankruptcy Court's jurisdiction regarding claim allowance and priority, and the existence and scope of any bankruptcy discharge.

(iii) No relief in other bankruptcy cases. To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases beyond these three jointly administered cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

In limiting the nonbankruptcy litigation as set forth above, this Bankruptcy Court emphasizes that it does not seek in any way to impinge on the authority of the Nonbankruptcy Courts presiding over the nonbankruptcy action. Rather, this Bankruptcy Court takes seriously its obligations, as a subordinate unit of the District Court, to manage this bankruptcy case. Those obligations include taking into consideration the interests of creditors (who are not parties to the underlying nonbankruptcy litigation), and preserving the bankruptcy estate by placing limits on any relief from the automatic stay that Congress has mandated (11 U.S.C. 362(a) & (d)).

(b) Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases: 180 day in rem relief

Because this type of relief potentially affects third parties - not just Debtors who have filed their consent - the tentative ruling is to grant such relief pursuant to the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017) regarding the grounds for relief beyond 11 U.C.S. 362(d)(4), provided that, with respect to any property owned in whole or in part by any of Debtors, such in rem relief is only effective if the order is recorded, as follows:
