Alternatively, to the extent that there could be any ambiguity in the scope of the Mediation Term Sheet's nondischargeability provisions, the tentative ruling is that this Court need not and should not issue advisory rulings on the scope of those provisions. Put differently, confirmation of a proposed plan is different from the scope of any discharge, and this Court is not aware of any authority that rulings on the latter must precede the former. To the contrary, it is common for various issues such as claim objections, nondischargeability actions, and other matters to be litigated post-confirmation. So if those things were still relevant (which it appears they are not) they can be litigated post-confirmation.

(v) Debtor's Plan Modification (dkt. 265) does not require more disclosure and re-balloting

Debtor's proposed Modification notes several new developments since this Court's approval of Debtor's Disclosure Statement; but he argues that no changes to the Disclosure Statement are required, and re-balloting is not required. Debtor has served his proposed Modification on all creditors, and it lists the confirmation hearing date in the caption. See Modification (dkt. 265).

Only Ms. Campos has filed any response. She argues that a new disclosure statement and balloting are required due to a change in the terms by which Debtor agrees to purchase Mr. Fuller's judgments against Ms. Campos. See Obj. (dkt. 272), pp. 17:10-18:2. The tentative ruling is that Ms. Campos has not established any reason why re-service and re-balloting are required.

Under 11 U.S.C. 1125(a)(1), "adequate information" for purposes of Debtor's Disclosure Statement means information "of a kind, and in sufficient detail, as far as is reasonably practicable in light of the nature and history of the debtor ... that would enable [a] hypothetical investor of the relevant class to make an informed judgment about the plan ... [and] in determining whether a disclosure statement provides adequate information, the court shall consider the complexity of the case, the benefit of additional information to creditors and other parties in interest, and the cost of providing additional information." (Emphasis added.) Under Rule 3019(a) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.), if this Court finds, after notice to any trustee (i.e., Debtor as debtor in possession), any committee (there is none), and "any other entity designated by the court" that "the proposed modification does not adversely change the treatment of the claim of any creditor ... who has not accepted in writing the modification, it shall be deemed accepted by all creditors ... who have previously accepted the plan." (Emphasis added.)

The tentative ruling is that Ms. Campos has not established that Debtor's minor changes in his deal with Mr. Fuller warrant more disclosure or re-balloting. Nor has she established any adverse change in the treatment of her claim (or, for that matter, any other claim).

(vi) Conclusion

For the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is (x) to overrule Ms. Campos' objections, (y) to approve the adequacy of the amended Disclosure Statement on a final basis, and (z) to confirm the amended Plan, subject to Debtor filing and serving on Ms. Campos his evidence of life insurance and proposed non-disparagement terms, after which Ms. Campos would have seven calendar days to file and serve her objections to those things. If any such objections are filed, this Court would determine whether further briefing and a hearing are required. Once all such issues are resolved, this Court would issue order(s) confirming the Plan and authorizing assumption of the Mediation Term Sheet (probably as a single order), subject only to any stay pending appeal as set forth at the start of this tentative ruling.

Tentative Ruling for 12/1/20:

Appearances required.

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv.dkt. 4) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(A) Current issues

Defendant (Debtor) suggests in the status report that this Court stay all proceedings in this adversary proceeding, because his forthcoming chapter 11 plan may moot some or all issues in this adversary proceeding. Plaintiff (Ms. Campos) suggested in the status report that such issues must be decided before any plan can be confirmed.

The parties are directed to clarify the following issues. (1) Does Plaintiff (Ms. Campos) assert that, under nonbankruptcy law, the assignment order created an absolute assignment in Debtor's accounts receivable ("A/R"), or a security interest, or both?

(2) Does she assert those things not only as to (a) A/R embodied in checks that had been issued prepetition (from medical insurers and Medicare prepetition), but also (b) A/R arising from services that had been performed prepetition, but as to which checks had not been issued as of the petition date (i.e., as to which such an interest arguably had not attached as of the petition date), and also (c) A/R arising from services that had yet to be performed as of the petition date? Phrasing these last two issues differently, is Plaintiff asserting that, under nonbankruptcy law, 25% of any checks that had yet to be cut, and 25% of any A/R that had yet to be generated by Debtor's postpetition labor, belongs to Plaintiff, regardless of any interest of, for example, a different judgment creditor who obtained a judicial lien against the A/R and also claimed the same 25%?

(3) Under the Bankruptcy Code, is Plaintiff asserting that her alleged interest in each of the three types of A/R described above is superior to the interests of the bankruptcy estate, other creditors, and any exemptions that Debtor may assert in the A/R?

Depending on Plaintiff's responses, Defendant (Debtor) is directed to address how he can propose a chapter 11 plan without resolving the issues raised in this adversary proceeding. Does Defendant (Debtor) anticipate proposing payment terms (e.g., payment over a time period consistent with the parties' Term Sheet) without resolving whether such payment is secured by the A/R, or whether Plaintiff (Ms. Campos) owns the A/R? Is it possible to confirm a plan that leaves such issues unresolved?

The tentative ruling is to direct the parties to address on a preliminary basis how the foregoing issues bear on whether or not to stay these proceedings. Then the tentative ruling is to continue this matter as set forth below, so that all of these issues can be better addressed after Debtor has proposed a chapter 11 plan.

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation

[Intentionally omitted: it appears that mediation may be unproductive at this time.]

Tentative Ruling for 4/27/21:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's Motion/Objection to Claim 18 (dkt. 292, 294, 297);
Claimant's Opposition (dkt. 313); Debtor's reply (dkt.320)

At the 3/23/21 hearing, this Court continued the hearing on this matter so that Debtor could file a motion under FRBP 9019 to approve the settlement reached by the parties. That motion has been filed. Dkt. 336. The tentative ruling is to take this matter off calendar pending the resolution of the motion under FRBP 9019.

(b) Cash collateral: declaration re 3d default (the "Default Decl.," dkt.315), Debtor's response (dkt.317), order setting hearing (dkt.318)

At the 3/23/21 hearing, this Court continued the hearing on this matter to allow the parties to negotiate and agree upon a budget for Debtor to repair and/or improve the properties he intends to sell for the benefit of the estate and for Debtor to file a motion and notice of motion under 363(b) regarding this use of cash collateral. As of the date this tentative ruling was prepared, no motion under 363(b) has been filed. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address whether they have reached a consensus on a proposed budget for Debtor's use of cash collateral.

Order Setting the Matter for Hearing (dkt. 343).

On 4/12/21, U.S. Bank Trust National Association, as Trustee of the Tiki Series III Trust ("Tiki Series III Trust"), filed a declaration regarding Debtor's default under adequate protection order (dkt. 339). In the declaration, Tiki Series III Trust alleges that Debtor has failed to make any payments under the adequate protection order, is $21,108.70 in arrears, and the remaining balance of the loan is $447,009.08. Debtor filed an opposition alleging that he has entered a into an $800,000 listing agreement for the sale of the subject property which provides the Tiki Series III Trust with an adequate equity cushion. Dkt. 342. This Court set the matter for hearing. Dkt. 343. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address the issues raised in their filed papers.

(d) Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs"): continuing compliance stip. (dkt. 232); order approving same (dkt. 234); lack of breakdown of gross revenues, expenses, and net revenues in past MORs (reviewed at hearing on 2/9/21, tentative ruling thereon, and thereafter); lack of MOR for March, 2021

Debtor is directed to address why Debtor continues to be out of compliance with MORs, and what action this Court should take.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 2/6/20.

(a) Bar date: 5/1/20 (dkt. 50; timely served, dkt. 55).

(b) Procedures order: dkt. 7 (timely served, dkt.8)

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement (dkt. 251, 250)*: TBD.

(d) Continued status conference: 6/1/21 at 2:00 p.m. No written status report is required.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/27/21:

Appearances are not required on 4/27/21.

(1) Current issues

(a) January 21, 2021 Oral Order that Ms. Hollister Respond to Concerns Regarding Ordinary Course Transactions, Debtor's Response (dkt. 1378).

At the 3/23/21 hearing, this Court took the matter under submission. This Court has now reviewed Debtor's response.

Debtor's response has not alleviated this Court's concerns that Debtor's actions appear to have been out of the ordinary course of her businesses, both disclosed and undisclosed. In addition, Debtor's disclosures should have been more complete and should have been made sooner.

First, her disclosures do not appear to be supported by evidence. For example, Debtor stated in her status report that she "completed significant renovations to the guest rooms at The Paramour." Dkt. 1320, p. 4:19–20. Then, in her written response to this Court's oral order, Debtor said that the work was better characterized as "repairs, maintenance, redecorating and refreshing" and she provides the example of installing hand rails in response to a visitor suffering a slip and fall injury. Dkt. 1378, p. 12:1–8.

While Debtor's additional latest information - recharacterizing "significant renovations" as only "repairs, maintenance, redecorating and refreshing" - might be a step in the right direction if that is really true, these disclosures remain incomplete. Debtor has submitted no invoices, work orders, contracts, or similar documentation to establish the precise amount of funds used and that the funds were used for the stated purpose.

Second, Debtor appears to be "cherry picking" the information that she does disclose to the Court. For example, Debtor alleges that she has been consigning items for her business involving the purchase and sale of vintage and antique goods since 2017, before she filed her petition. Dkt. 1378, p. 10:22–23. Debtor then states that "[i]n the last five months of 2020, costs of goods consigned was about $11,500 and sales were about $47,000." Dkt. 1378, p. 10:27–28 (emphasis added). While the latest assertions give the impression that this business has operated at a profit, these figures do not provide a complete picture for whatever longer periods Debtor has been operating this line of business. What is more, these disclosures are also incomplete because Debtor provided no evidence to support the numbers she provides in her declaration.

Finally, Debtor asserts that she had never ceased engaging in the following business activities "(1) buying and selling antiques; (2) clothing and consulting; (3) design; (4) manufacturing custom pillows" Dkt. 1378, p. 2:3–6. In her declaration, Debtor clarifies that "[a]ll of these activities are [her] business and have been [her] business for many years. At no time since the 1990's [has she] ever stopped consulting about clothing, buying and selling vintage items and antiques . . . designing other items and manufacturing custom pillows [sic] covers." Dkt. 1378, p. 8:19–23 (emphasis in original). If Debtor has in fact been conducting these lines of business uninterrupted since the 1990's, these businesses should have appeared on Debtor's bankruptcy Schedule I and/or her Statement of Financial Affairs ("SOFA") and/or her Statement of Monthly Income. But they do not.

Debtor's bankruptcy Schedule I lists her monthly net income derived from rental properties and from operating a business as $8,000. But that Schedule I fails to provide any statements for each property and/or business showing gross receipts, ordinary and necessary business expenses, and the total monthly net income, as required by the instructions on that form, line 8a. Dkt. 1, PDF p. 78.

In her SOFA, Debtor listed the businesses with which she had a connection and the nature of those businesses. The Paramour was described as a "B&B, event center," and The Paramour Estate, Inc. was described as "Not doing business, no assets." Dkt. 1, PDF pp. 89–90. Not one of the businesses was described as involving the purchase and sale of antiques, clothing and consulting, design, or the manufacture of custom pillow covers. Dkt. 1, PDF pp. 89-90.

Finally, Debtor's Statement of Monthly Income identifies three sources of income derived from the operation of a business, profession, or farm: Bridge Tavern LLC - Distribution, GJV Inc. - Distributions, and The Paramour - 1923 Micheltorena. Dkt. 81, p. 4. The first and second businesses were described as restaurants in Debtor's Statement of Financial Affairs, the third was described as a B&B, event center. Dkt. 1, PDF p. 89.

For the reasons set forth above, the tentative ruling is that the Debtor's disclosures have not adequately addressed this Court's concerns regarding Debtor's business activities taken out of the ordinary course of business without prior Court authorization. Nevertheless, at present, this Court does not find that taking further action sua sponte, such as appointing a trustee, will provide sufficiently clear benefits to outweigh the costs to the estate, its creditors, and Debtor. Among other things, this Court is reluctant to supplant Debtor as the debtor in possession, and thereby potentially affect her pending appeal.

In sum, the tentative ruling is that this Court neither approves the expenditures under 11 U.S.C. 363(c), nor rules that such expenditures are "ordinary course" under 11 U.S.C. 363(b), and Debtor therefore runs the risk of adverse consequences in future based on (x) her lack of disclosures, (y) her inconsistent disclosures, and (z) any transactions that should have been disclosed, and/or for which approval should have been sought. This Court, or any party in interest, may revisit these issues in the future.

Docket 213

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/27/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Continued hearing on Order to Show Cause re contempt and sanctions against Young Young Food, LLC ("YYF") (dkt. 213), Contempt/Sanctions Order (dkt. 237)

The tentative ruling is to find YYF in contempt of this Court's Contempt/Sanctions Order and impose coercive sanctions in an amount to be determined at the hearing, for the reasons set forth below.

(i) Alleged Employees' request for production of documents and examination of YYF's person most knowledgeable ("PMK")

On 7/2/20, the Alleged Employees filed a "Motion for Order Pursuant to Rule 2004 for the Production of Documents and Remote Oral Examination of the Person Most Knowledgeable of Young Young Food LLC" (dkt. 146, "2004 Motion"), which this Court granted (dkt. 160, "2004 Order").

(ii) Alleged Employees' request for issuance of order to show cause re contempt and sanctions

On 9/4/20, the Alleged Employees filed a "Motion ... for Order to Show Cause re: Civil Contempt against Young Young Food LLC and for Sanctions" (dkt. 202, the "Motion for OSC") based on YYF's alleged lack of compliance with the 2004 Order. YYF did not file a response.

(iii) Contempt/Sanctions proceedings

On 9/16/20, this Court issued its Order to Show Cause directing YYF to appear and show cause why it should not be held in contempt and sanctioned for the reasons set forth in the Motion for OSC (dkt. 213, the "OSC"). YYF filed responses to the OSC (dkt. 225, 226, 227) and the Alleged Employees filed reply papers (dkt. 228, 230).

Chapter 7

At the hearing on 10/27/20, this Court found YYF in contempt of the 2004 Order and granted the Alleged Employees' request for compensatory and coercive sanctions, subject to briefing and prove up hearings. On October 29, 2020, this Court entered its "Order re: Motion by Unsecured Creditors Wei Dong, Wenrui Wang, and Zongsui Hu for Order to Show Cause re: Civil Contempt Against Young Young Food, LLC and for Sanctions" (dkt. 237, the "Contempt/Sanctions Order").

The Contempt/Sanctions Order, among other things:

- (A) found YYF in contempt of this Court's 2004 Order,
- (B) granted the Alleged Employees' request for compensatory sanctions and set a briefing schedule for the submission of evidence and reply papers,
- (C) granted the Alleged Employees' request for coercive sanctions and ruled that YYF "shall be liable for $500 in daily sanctions for each day after November 20, 2020, at 5:00 p.m., that it fails to produce documents as previously ordered" (see, Dkt. 160, pp. 4-5, for list of documents);
- (D) set a deadline of October 30, 2020 for the Alleged Employees to serve "no more than twenty (20) written interrogatories" on counsel for YYF (in lieu of a 2004 examination of YYF's PMK) and directed YYF to file responses by November 25, 2020 at noon. [Dkt. 237, p.2:7-19] (emphasis added).

(iv) Compensatory Sanctions

On 11/5/20, the Alleged Employees filed evidence in support of their request for compensatory sanctions (dkt. 241). YYF did not file an opposition. Following the hearing on December 1, 2020, this Court entered an interim order awarding the Alleged Employees compensatory sanctions against YYF in the amount of $12,100 in fees and $59.85 in costs, for a total award of $12,159.58 (dkt. 253).

The Alleged Employees should be prepared to address whether they intend to seek additional compensatory damages arising from fees and costs incurred since the 12/1/21 hearing.

(v) Coercive Sanctions

This Court has reviewed the Alleged Employees' status report (dkt. 247), YYF's response (dkt. 263), and the Alleged Employees' reply (dkt. 264).

Chapter 7

The Alleged Employees state that YYF timely responded to the 20 interrogatories they propounded on 11/25/20 (see dkt. 247, Ex. 1 & 2), but argue that YYF's responses were improperly self-limited to one or two employees who were largely ignorant of YYF's operations. Id. p. 2:5-20. YYF appears to concede that its responses are sparse, but contends that it did the best it could to respond because it "is essentially no longer in business due to the COVID-19 pandemic" and its only remaining employee is Sam Song, who is a warehouseman who "does not have the financial bookkeeping knowledge for YYF, thus he was of no help to find the financial information requested." Dkt. 263, p. 3:4-5, 9-12.

The tentative ruling is that the responses to the Alleged Employees' interrogatories are woefully insufficient and fail to demonstrate a reasonable attempt to comply with this Court's Contempt/Sanctions Order. YYF fails to describe in detail any efforts it made to obtain responsive information or documents from its current and former managing members (Zhongquan Xiao and Zhanghai Zhang) or any of its current or former officers, former employees and/or any other person(s) with information or documents relevant to YYF's business operations and finances. Similarly, YYF states that it does not currently know how to locate or contact its former bookkeeper, Ms. Deeta Ye (dkt. 247, Ex. 2, p. 3:27-28), but fails to provide any information about its alleged attempts to locate her.

Furthermore, YYF's assertions that "in late March/early April 2020, YYF laid off/terminated essentially all of its employees other than Warehouse Manager, Sam Song" and "is essentially no longer in business due to the COVID-19 pandemic" (dkt. 247, Ex.2, p. 3:2-5 & dkt. 263, p. 3:4-5) appears to be directly at odds with (i) this Court's findings, based on the uncontested testimony at the trial regarding the related discovery from Debtor, that YYF and/or its affiliate SH E. Young Young Food, Inc. has been paying very substantial dollar amounts to Mr. Polis to fight against discovery from Debtor and ChaoLaw (see dkt. 276, pp. 18-18-27 and 31:2-12) and (ii) the Alleged Employees' assertion (if true) that as recently as 8/10/20 YYF filed an updated statement of information with the California Secretary of State. Dkt. 247, p. 3:14-19.

The tentative ruling is that, in this context, YYF's excuses fail to address the key issues and therefore are insufficient.

(B) Production of documents

The Alleged Employees state that YYF timely produced documents by the 11/20/20 deadline (dkt. 247, Ex.1), but argue that the document production was intentionally and grossly deficient. Id. pp.2:23-4:22. YYF counters that it produced more than 1,000 pages of documents and that, because it is no longer operating and does not have any active employees with knowledge of its financial background, its production "is truly the best YYF and its very limited resources could produce." Dkt. 263, p.3, para. "(7)," "(8)," "(9)" and "(10)".

For the same reasons discussed above with respect to YYF's responses to the Alleged Employees' interrogatories, and the additional reasons set forth in the Alleged Employees' status report (dkt. 237, pp. 2:23-4:20), the tentative ruling is that YYF's document production is not sufficient and fails to carry its burden to demonstrate a reasonable attempt to comply with this Court's Contempt/Sanctions Order. Most notably, YYF has not provided any discussion of any efforts it undertook to reach out to current and former members, officers, employees and/or any other person(s) who might have information or documents responsive to the Alleged Employees' document request.

(vi) Further proceedings re production of missing documents and supplemental responses to interrogatories

If view of this above tentative rulings finding YYF to be in contempt of this Court's Contempt/Sanctions Order, the parties should be prepared to discuss the following issues.

(A) Appropriate amount of coercive sanctions

As set forth in this Court's Contempt/Sanctions Order, this Court will impose coercive sanctions starting at $500 per day against YYF for its failure to produce all documents responsive to the 2004 Order and the Alleged Employees' interrogatories. But the parties should be prepared to address what start date to impose for such sanctions, and the timing and mechanisms of any adjustment to such sanctions.

As this Court previously has observed regarding Debtor, there might be futility in assessing sanctions against an entity that claims not to have any assets (even if it, or someone acting through it, has been paying substantial dollar amounts to fight discovery). But such sanctions might turn out to be collectible, either from the contemnor(s) or from persons who orchestrated the non-compliance with this Court's prior orders.

In any event, possible dates for the daily sanctions include: (x) every day from 11/21/20 (the day following YYF's 11/20/20 deadline to produce all documents), (y) starting then, but suspended for some periods based on the history of this case including this Court's order that the parties attend mediation, or (z) after the conclusion of the meditation.

(B) Procedures for establishing compliance

YYF should be prepared to address how it proposes that it will be able, in future, to show full compliance with the 2004 Order. In view of this Court's tentative findings of fact and conclusions of law above, and as this Court has explained in connection with Debtor's parallel situation, it may be difficult for YYF to establish that it has fully complied with the 2004 Order.

Tentative Ruling for 12/22/20:

This Court is very troubled by the reported state of discovery (see, e.g., Alleged Employees' Reply, dkt. 264, filed 12/18/20). But this Court believes that the issues can be more productively addressed once this Court issues its Memorandum Decision on the related discovery disputes involving, inter alia, Debtor and its law firm, the Law Offices of Lynn Chao. Tentative Ruling for 12/1/20:
Appearances required.

Current issues

(a) Contempt order (dkt. 237)

(i) Compensatory sanctions

This Court has reviewed the Alleged Employees' time records (dkt. 241). As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, YYF has not filed an opposition.

The tentative ruling is to award fees in the amount of $12,100 and costs in the amount of $59.85, for a total compensatory sanction against YYF in the amount of $12,159.58, payable to the Alleged Employees as compensation for the fees and costs they were forced to incur to compel compliance.

(ii) Status of compliance

The parties should be prepared to advise this Court on whether (x) coercive sanctions are appropriate (i.e., whether Young failed to produce all responsive documents by 11/20/20 at 5:00 p.m.); and (y) Young responded to the Alleged Employees' written interrogatories by the 11/25/20 at noon deadline.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 10/27/20:
Appearances required.

Current issues

(1) Alleged employees' motion for issuance of order directing Young Young Food LLC ("YYF") to appear for 2004 examination and production of documents (dkt. 146, "2004 Motion"); Order granting 2004 Motion (dkt. 160, "2004 Order"); Alleged employees' motion for issuance of OSC re contempt (dkt. 202, "Motion for OSC"), Order setting hearing on Motion for OSC (dkt. 215, the "OSC"), YYF's opposition papers (dkt. 225, 226, 227), Alleged employees' reply papers (dkt. 228, 230)

The tentative ruling is to find YYF in contempt of court and impose sanctions in an amount to be determined at the hearing and subsequent proceedings, as set forth below.

(a) The alleged employees have made a sufficient showing that YYF violated this Court's 2004 Order and YYF has not responded with argument or evidence establishing that it was impossible to comply

The tentative ruling is to overrule YYF's opposition, grant the Sanctions Motion for the reasons stated in the Alleged Employees' reply papers (dkt. 228, 230), and find that YYF is in contempt of the 2004 Order.

In addition and alternatively, the tentative ruling is that on the merits this Court is not persuaded by YYF's arguments that the (i) 2004 Order is overbroad and (ii) seeks discovery that could and should have been sought in a pending nonbankruptcy proceeding for the same reasons stated in this Court's prior rulings and orders addressing those arguments. See Order (dkt. 173) at PDF p.12, para. "(b)"; Order (dkt. 117) at PDF p.5, para. "(c)"; and Order (dkt. 101) at PDF pp.6-7, para. "(3)."

(b) Sanctions

(i) Compensatory

compensatory sanctions to reimburse them for their costs incurred preparing and filing the Sanctions Motion, responding to the OSC, and appearing at this hearing. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 11/5/20 for the Alleged Employees to file and serve a declaration setting forth their time records and expenses, 11/13/20 for any opposition, 11/19/20 for any reply, and a hearing on 12/1/20 at 2:00 p.m.

(ii) Coercive

The tentative ruling is to award coercive sanctions, in an escalating dollar amount to be addressed at the hearing.

(iii) Examination by written discovery

The tentative ruling is to grant the Alleged Employees' request to obtain written discovery of YYF, in lieu of any in person examination out of concerns presented by the risks of COVID-19, by propounding 20 interrogatories on YYF, without prejudice to any follow-up discovery. The parties should be prepared to address what deadlines, if any, this Court should set for serving and responding to the Alleged Employees' interrogatories (or if this Court should defer to the parties to act within the usual procedures).

Proposed order: Alleged Employees are directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/27/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Subchapter V Trustee's motion re eviction/contempt (dkt. 318, 319, the "Eviction/OSC Motion"), 319, Debtor & Orantes declarations (dkt. 320, 322), Orantes declaration (dkt. 322), Order shortenting time (dkt. 323) and POS (dkt. 326), Trustee declaration (dkt. 328), Debtor & Orantes declarations & opposition (dkt. 329, 330, 331), Trustee's declaration re compensatory sanctions (dkt. 335), order imposing compensatory sanctions (dkt. 400); further declarations re compensatory sanctions (dkt.573, 574), Debtor's response (dkt. 585)

The tentative ruling is to award the Trustee additional compensatory sanctions in the amount of $3,070.40 ($2,295.40 for 1-800-Got-Junk and $775 for Bailey's Property Maintenance = $3,070.40) for disposal of personal property and coercive sanctions of $3,375 (15 days at $225/day = $3,375) for a total of $6,445.40. The parties should be prepared to address what deadline(s) this Court should impose for Debtor to pay the additional sanctions.

(b) Subchapter V Trustee's Motion for turnover of 35th Street Properties, accounting re Jefferson property, etc. (dkt. 543, 544), Debtor's response (dkt. 562), Oxygen's joinder (dkt. 568), Subchapter V Trustee's reply (dkt. 569, 570)

The parties are directed to update this Court on the status of this motion and address whether any additional relief is appropriate.

whether the Applications were served on the twenty largest unsecured creditors as required by LBR 2014-1(a)(2). Debtor should be prepared to address whether those creditors have been served.

(ii) Court approval is required before a "professional" can be employed or paid (11 U.S.C. 327(a))

Section 327(a) states: "Except as otherwise provided in this section, the trustee, with the court's approval, may employ one or more attorneys, accountants, appraisers, auctioneers, or other professional persons, that do not hold or represent an interest adverse to the estate, and that are disinterested persons, to represent or assist the trustee in carrying out the trustee's duties under this title." 11 U.S.C. 327(a).

Under section 327(a) and Rule 2014 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.), chapter 11 debtors are required to obtain court approval before a "professional person" may be employed and paid by the estate. Whether a particular party is a professional person depends upon the nature of services to be performed; the more central the services are to the administration of the estate, the more likely those services will be determined to be professional in nature. In re That's Entm't Mktg. Grp., Inc., 168 B.R. 226, 230 (N.D. Cal. 1994).

(iii) BBG Inc ("BBG")

The tentative ruling is that BBG is a "professional" whose employment must be approved by this Court for the following reasons. First, section 327(a) specifically names "appraisers" as the type of professional that is typically required to be employed by the Court and Debtor does not appear to dispute that characterization. See dkt. 187.

Second, Debtor represents that it intends to sell its real properties, which Debtor concedes "are the primary (if not the only) source of recovery for creditors" and needs an appraiser to gauge the potential value of the properties against any potential offers received. Dkt. 187, pdf pp.2:27-3:8; see also Ex.2, pdf p.13 (describing the intended use of BBG's appraisal as being for "internal purposes related to Chapter 11 restructuring"). The tentative ruling is that such services are central to the administration of Debtor's estate and BBG's employment must be authorized by this Court under 327(a).

In support of its contention that Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company are "ordinary course professionals," Debtor cites a string of cases articulating tests of varying degrees for determining whether a particular party is a "professional person" requiring employment under 327(a). Dkt. 186, p.10:3-24 (citing Matter of D'lites, 108 B.R. 352, 355 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. 1989) ("professional persons" under section 327(a) does not include parties "who provide services that are necessary whether the petition was filed or not"); In re Fretheim, 102 B.R. 298, 299 (Bankr. D. Conn. 1989) (employee's function must be related to the administration of the estate and employee must be given discretion and autonomy in some part of administration of the estate to qualify as professional); In re Johns-Manville Corp., 60 B.R. 612, 621 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 1986) (professional must play a part in negotiating a plan, adjusting the debtor/creditor relationship, dispose of or acquire assets, or perform any duties required of a debtor by the Bankruptcy Code); In re Napoleon, 233 B.R. 910, 913 (Bankr. D. N.J. 1999) (party must play an integral role in the administration of the bankruptcy case or assist the trustee with important activities, such as obtaining post-petition financing, negotiating creditor claims or formulating plan of reorganization); In re Riker Industries, Inc., 122 B.R. 964, 973 (Bankr. N.D. Ohio 1990) (concluding that whether a person is a professional turns on the degree of autonomy within which the person will operate and the degree of supervision or direction required by the trustee); In re Sieling Associates Ltd. Partnership, 128 B.R. 721, 723 (Bankr. E.D. Va. 1991) (services that have only a tangential relationship to the administration of the estate are not professional in nature).

Debtor argues that Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company are not "professionals" requiring formal retention under section 327(a) because the services they provide are not specific to the chapter 11 case or debtor's restructuring efforts. Dkt. 186, p.6:9-10. Rather, Debtor states that both companies have been employed by it for ten or more years (dkt. 186, p.6:14-19), that Hammonds & Frey "provides accounting services, including bookkeeping services, tax services and preparation of financial documents" (id., p.6:10-12), and Hunter & Company provides management/administrative services, including financial management, keeping Debtor's members apprised of the business operations, assisting in preparing monthly operating reports and other administrative services (id., p.6:14-19).

Hearing Room 1545

CONT...

110 West Properties, LLC

Chapter 11

The tentative ruling is that Hammonds & Frey is likely a "professional" whose employment must be approved by this Court. First, section 327(a) specifically names "accountants" as the type of professional that is typically required to be employed by the Court. 11 U.S.C. 327(a). Although Debtor argues that Hammonds & Frey is not providing services specific to the Debtor's bankruptcy case, that is undercut by the parties' own agreement, which contemplates Hammonds & Frey assisting Debtor with the preparation of Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs") and other important financial disclosures required by the Bankruptcy Code. See Dkt. 186, pdf p.29 ("[y]ou have requested that we prepare the financial statements of 110 West Properties, LLC, which comprise interim monthly balance sheet as of April 30, 2020 and interim months following, and the related profit and loss statements in the form prescribed by the Office of the United States Trustee Regional Headquarters.") Dkt. 186, pdf p.29.

Second, Debtor's monthly operating reports demonstrate that Debtor is not an operating business with routine functions requiring common accounting services (see, e.g., dkt. 195, 196), and Debtor's papers do not make clear what "ordinary course" services Hammonds & Frey might have provided post-petition to account for its $18,497 bill. Dkt. 186, p.7:3-4. On this record, this Court is inclined to conclude that Hammonds & Frey's services are central to the Debtor's administration.

(vi) Hunter & Company

The tentative ruling is that Hunter & Company likely is a "professional" whose employment must be approved by this Court, but Debtor has not provided sufficient evidence of what services Hunter & Company provides.

Debtor argues that Hunter & Company is not providing services specific to Debtor's bankruptcy case, but that assertion is undercut by Debtor's own representation that Hunter & Company is "assisting in preparing monthly operating reports, and other administrative services," (dkt. 186, p.6:18-19) and the fact that Debtor is not an operating business. This also raises concerns about whether there has been a duplication of services with Hammonds & Frey. Additionally, even when Debtor was able to operate a parking facility before COVID-19 closures, Hunter & Company's "Services Agreement" makes clear that it provides services "unrelated to the direct management of the parking facilities." Dkt. 186, pdf p.96. Debtor's papers do not make clear what "ordinary course" services Hunter & Company might have provided post-petition to account for its $40,392.44 bill. Dkt. 186, p.7:6-9. On this record, this Court is inclined to conclude that Hunter & Company's services are central to the Debtor's administration.

The parties should be prepared to address whether this Court should require Debtor to submit supplemental declaration(s) establishing what post-petition services Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company have provided.

(vii) Professionals must be "disinterested"

Under 11 USC 327(a), professionals may not hold or represent any interests adverse to the estate and must be disinterested persons. Section 101(14)(A) defines a "disinterested person" as one who, among other things, "is not a creditor . . ." of the estate.

Rule 2014 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.), Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 2014-1(b)(1)(B) and Judge Bason's Posted Procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) require professionals to establish their disinterestedness and disclose the nature of any actual or potential conflicts of interest by filing local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF (statement of disinterestedness).

"Full disclosure is an essential prerequisite for both employment and compensation." In re Triple Star Welding, Inc., 324 B.R. 778, 788-89 (9th Cir. BAP 2005). The disclosure requirements of Rule 2014 are to be strictly applied and bankruptcy courts do not have discretion to waive the requirement of a Rule 2014 statement. Id. at 779-90. "Pursuant to section 327, a professional has a duty to make full, candid and complete disclosure of all facts concerning his transactions with the debtor. Professionals must disclose all connections with the debtor, creditors and parties in interest, no matter how irrelevant or trivial those connections may seem." In re Mehdipour, 202 B.R. 474, 480 (9th Cir. BAP 1996) (internal citations omitted).

In support of the Appraisal Application, BBG submitted a statement of disinterestedness (dkt. 187, pdf pp.32-34). Although Dos Cabezas' raises certain objections regarding BBG's disclosures (dkt. 194, p.5:15-25), it has not cited any authority establishing that BBG should be disqualified simply because it has provided appraisals for Debtor's affiliates in the past. The tentative ruling is that BBG is disinterested and does not hold any interests adverse to the estate.

(x) Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company

Neither the Ordinary Course Application nor Debtor's reply papers include verified statements of disinterestedness from Hammonds & Frey or Hunter & Company affirming that they do not hold any interests adverse to the estate and are disinterested, so on that ground alone their employment cannot be approved.

Additionally and alternatively, neither Hammonds & Frey nor Hunter & Company are disinterested, because they both hold claims against Debtor's estate. See Claims 3 & 5; 11 U.S.C. 101(14)(A) ("[t]he term 'disinterested person' means a person that – (A) is not a creditor").

Additionally and alternatively, although Debtor correctly points out that Dos Cabezas' arguments are premised on a certain amount of speculation about possible conflicts of interests, Debtor does not squarely address the full extent and nature of those relationships or explain why it included a statement of disinterestedness in support of the Appraiser Application, but not for Hammonds & Frey or Hunter & Company. This is all the more troubling because there appears to be a lot of interlocking relationships between Debtor's management and owners of adjacent properties and insiders. See, e.g., Dkt. 186, pdf pp.102-07 (agreement between Ian Hunter, Shamrock Parking, Inc., Debtor, and other entities).

The parties should be prepared to address whether Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company are prepared to waive their claims and whether Debtor should be provided an opportunity to file supplemental declarations addressing these issues.

(xi) "Nunc pro tunc," retroactive relief, or employment as of a prior date

Debtor seeks what is characterizes as nunc pro tunc approval of BBG's, Hammond & Frey's and Hunter & Company's employment and compensation. First, there is actually a difference between nunc pro tunc orders, or "now for then" orders, which are supposed to be reserved for ministerial matters and correction of a court's own errors, and "retroactive" relief, which may be authorized by statute or other authority.

Moreover, there may be a difference between making employment "retroactive" and authorizing employment as of an earlier date. From the instant the bankruptcy petition is filed a professional's compensation is contingent on subsequent authorization for the professional's employment, but that contingency does not mean that the authorization itself has to be retroactive.

In any event, regardless of the semantic differences, the issue is whether the professionals whose employment is at issue can qualify for compensation for work that they performed before they sought this Bankruptcy Court's approval of their employment.

(xii) Supreme Court authority; and the standards for relief

The ability to authorize any of the foregoing types of relief has been called into question by the Supreme Court's decision Roman Catholic Archdiocese of San Juan, Puerto Rico v. Acevedo Feliciano, 140 S.Ct 696 (2020). Courts have not been consistent in their application of Acevedo.

Some courts have interpreted it to prohibit essentially all retroactive relief, as noted by the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel of the Ninth Circuit (the "BAP"). In re Merriman, 616 B.R. 381, 391 (9th Cir. BAP 2020) (citing In re Telles, No. 8-20-70325-reg, 2020 WL 2121254 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. Apr. 30, 2020)). Another interpretation is that, although employment cannot be retroactive, compensation can be. See In re Miller, 620 B.R. 637, 638 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. 2020). More generally, the BAP has interpreted Acevedo as primarily focused on jurisdiction, not retroactive relief generally. See Merriman, 616 B.R. 381, 392-95.

The tentative ruling is to agree with Merriman. In appropriate circumstances professionals' employment can be approved as of a date prior when their application was filed, but they must satisfy the traditional standards for such relief. Professionals must "(1) satisfactorily explain their failure to receive prior judicial approval; and (2) demonstrate that their services benefitted the bankruptcy estate in a significant manner." In re Atkins, 69 F.3d 970, 974 (9th Cir. 1995); see also In re THC Fin. Corp., 837 F.2d 389 (9th Cir. 1988).

BBG's employment application was filed on 1/5/21. Debtor submits that employment and compensation are warranted for BBG because Debtor initially believed that BBG's services were obtained in Debtor's ordinary course of business and filed the Appraiser Application once it was brought to its attention that BBG likely did qualify as a professional under 327(a). Dkt.

187, p.7:18-22. Debtor also submits that BBG's services benefitted the estate in a significant manner because the appraisal has provided debtor with better evidence to gauge incoming offers for the sale of its properties and to better evaluate its options in the administration of the estate. Id. p.7:22-25.

The tentative ruling is to authorize BBG's employment under 11 U.S.C. 327(a) and 328, effective as of the date when its services first were rendered. The tentative ruling is also to retroactively authorize BBG's compensation to 7/7/20, so that it may retain the entirety of the $4,500 flat fee it received in compensation.

(xiv) Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not adequately briefed the foregoing issues with respect to Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company. Although Debtor cites Acevedo, Debtor simply concludes that granting its request for retroactive relief "does not seek to 'creat[e] 'facts'" or rewrite history" because Debtor believes that Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company do not require formal retention under section 327. Dkt. 186, p.11:23-27. The tentative ruling is that this is insufficient. The parties should be prepared to address a deadline for supplemental papers.

(xv) Proposed ordinary course professionals procedures

The tentative ruling is to grant Debtor's proposed procedures for disclosing any parties Debtor seeks to employ in the ordinary course of its business to allow other parties in interest an opportunity to object to such classification and request a hearing for this Court to determine whether an employment application under 11 USC 327 is appropriate.

(d) Tarzana Crossing v. 110 West Properties, LLC et al. (2:20-ap-01012-NB)

Tentative Ruling for 4/6/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's Sale/Settlement Motion (dkt. 212, amended by dkt. 217), opposition of Tarzana Crossing (dkt. 219), Debtor's reply (dkt. 224)

The tentative ruling is to deny the motion for the following reasons.

(i) Proposed sale of Properties

Debtor seeks approval of a sale of substantially all of its assets to Criscione-Meyer Entitlement ("Buyer") for $22,000,000 pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 363(b) & (f). The proposed purchase price is to be paid as follows. Debtor will receive an immediate cash payment of $10,000,000 and a promissory note due in full in 24 months at 3% annual percentage rate, a deed of trust securing the remaining $12,000,000, and a guaranty. Dkt. 217, pp.8:17-9:19.

(A) Legal standard

Under 11 U.S.C. 363(b), the Debtor may sell estate property out of the ordinary course of business, subject to court approval. The Debtor must articulate a sufficient business reason for the sale. In re Wilde Horse Enters., Inc., 136 B.R. 830, 841 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1991). In determining whether a sale satisfies the business judgment standard, courts must find that the sale "is in the best interests of the estate, i.e., that it is fair and reasonable, that it has been given adequate marketing, that it has been negotiated and proposed in good faith, that the purchaser is proceeding in good faith, and that it is an 'arms length' transaction." Id. at 841-42. Whether the articulated business justification is sufficient "depends on the case," in view of "all salient factors pertaining to the proceeding." In re Walter, 83 B.R. 14, 19-20 (9th Cir. BAP 1988). In proposing a sale outside of the ordinary course, Debtor has the burden of demonstrating that the sale is in the best interests of the estate. Wilde Horse, 136 B.R. at 841.

(B) Debtor has not carried its burden of demonstrating that the sale is in the best interests of the estate

(1) Sound business purpose/adequate disclosures

The "key to the reorganization Chapter ... is disclosure" Wilde Horse, 136 B.R. at 841 (emphasis in original). "The essential purpose served by disclosure is to ensure that parties in interest are not left entirely at the mercy of the debtor and others having special influence over debtor." Id. Accordingly, "[a] sale of substantially all of debtor's property outside the ordinary course of business, and without a Chapter 11 disclosure statement and plan, must be closely scrutinized." Id. (citation omitted); In re Lionel Corp., 722 F.2d 1063, 1069 (2d Cir. 1983) (reversing a approval of asset sale after holding that 11 U.S.C. 363 does not "gran[t] the bankruptcy judge carte blanche" or "swallo[w] up Chapter 11's safeguards"); In re Braniff Airways, Inc., 700 F.2d 935, 940 (5th Cir. 1983) (prohibiting an attempt "to short circuit the requirements of Chapter 11 for confirmation of a reorganization plan by establishing the terms of the plan sub rosa in connection with a sale of assets").

For the reasons stated in Tarzana Crossing's opposition papers (dkt. 219, p.7:2-19) and this Court's own review of the sale ballots (dkt. 224, Ex.A), this Court has concerns that Debtor may be intentionally or inadvertently circumventing important procedural safeguards by failing to provide its members with meaningful and comprehensive disclosures about the proposed sale and settlement with one of the prior defaulting buyers. This includes, but is not limited to, whether Debtor's members were adequately informed of their ability to vote "no" on the sale ballot, the potentially significant adverse tax consequences, and the identity and current financial wherewithal of the proposed Buyer.

Debtor also balks at Tarzana Crossing's assertion that Debtor was obligated to disclose potentially adverse tax consequences arising from the sale (dkt. 224, pp.3:19-4:3). But Debtor offers no explanation for why that should not have been disclosed prior to any voting. By electing to proceed under section 363(b), Debtor appears to be depriving creditors from receiving "adequate information" as required by 11 U.S.C. 1125(a)(1), which provides for disclosure of:

information of a kind, and in sufficient detail, as far as is reasonably practicable in light of the nature and history of the debtor and the condition of the debtor's books and records, including a discussion of the potential material Federal tax consequences of the plan to the debtor, any successor to the debtor, and a hypothetical investor of the relevant class to make an informed judgment about the plan [11 U.S.C. 1125(a)(1)]

For the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has not sufficiently articulated a sound business justification for electing to sell the Properties through section 363 in lieu of a plan.

(2) Fair and reasonable sale price

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not presented sufficient evidence for this Court to find that the $22,000,000 sale price is fair and reasonable. True, the sale price greatly exceeds any other offers Debtor has received, but this Court questions why Debtor would so willingly repackage a sale to one of the defaulting buyers, at a $13,000,000 discount, despite the parties' contentious past.

Debtor has not presented evidence establishing that the Properties were adequately marketed to justify a private sale to one of the prior defaulting buyers.

Debtor's alleged marketing efforts are broadly described as consisting of Colliers International (x) "distributing marketing materials to prospective potential purchasers of the Properties," (y) "engaging in multiple discussions with prospective potential purchasers," and (z) "initiating a call for offers to thousands of prospective potential investors, developers, real estate agents, buyers, etc.," on 11/16/20." Dkt. 217, p.6:22-27 & Dkt. 183. Debtor further states that in response to the call for offers, Colliers received three offers, ranging from $8,000,000 to $13,300,000, which have now all expired. Id. pp.6:28-7:2.

But this Court's 12/8/20 tentative ruling expressed concerns with the adequacy of the marketing efforts up to that point:

First, Debtor is directed to address why the flyer distributed by Collier included the banner "Bankruptcy Court Approved" (dkt.180, Ex.1, and dkt.183, Ex.1). This Court has not approved any sale (although this Court has approved the employment of Colliers to market of the subject property). In fact, there are open questions about whether Debtor even has the ability to sell the subject property without Dos Cabezas' consent.

Second, Debtor is directed to address how it proposes to disclose to prospective purchasers of the properties the fact that Debtor is seeking to sell the subject property before the State Court has determined the underlying disputes with Dos Cabezas. True, as noted in the tentative ruling for 10/27/20, it is possible that Debtor can distinguish In re Popp, 323 B.R. 260, 268 (9th Cir. BAP 2005), and In re Owens-Johnson, 118 B.R. 780 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1990). But the tentative ruling is that Debtor has to disclose to prospective purchasers that (as this Court understands the issues) Dos Cabezas is asserting that (i) Debtor does not own the subject property, and therefore cannot sell it, and alternatively (ii) a sale under 11 U.S.C. 363(b) and (f) should not, or cannot, be used to defeat a claim for specific performance.

In other words, Debtor is directed to address (in consultation with Colliers) how it will disclose to prospective purchasers the potential obstacles to selling the property, without either misleading purchasers or unduly chilling any potential bidding. Of course, this Court recognizes that in chapter 11 there is a certain degree of deference to the business judgment of Debtor, in consultation with Colliers, regarding how best to market the subject property and when and how to provide disclosures. This Court also recognizes that Dos Cabezas might decide that it is in its own interest to consent to the sale (while preserving whatever interests or claims it might have regarding the proceeds of sale), so as to (i) maximize the value of the bankruptcy estate's assets, (ii) stop the running of interest - especially any default interest - owed to the senior lienholder, and thereby (iii) maximize the funds from which its claim and/or equity interests could receive distributions.

But Debtor's flyer ("Bankruptcy Court Approved," dkt.183, Ex.1, at PDF p.9), combined with Debtor's apparently cavalier attitude toward employment and compensation of professionals (see below), raise concerns about whether Debtor and Colliers are not exercising their business judgment appropriately. Debtor is cautioned that failure to exercise proper business judgment, and act as a trustee for the benefit of creditors, might lead to adverse consequences. [See Tentative Ruling for Calendar No. 21, 12/8/20 at 1:00 p.m.]

At the hearing on 12/8/20, this Court orally directed Debtor to file supplemental declaration(s) addressing the foregoing issues. On 1/5/21, Debtor timely filed a status report, but the only additional information Debtor provided in connection with its marketing efforts was that "[t]he proposed buyers who submitted offers for the Properties were advised of the State Court litigation and lis pendens affecting the Properties." Dkt. 188, p.5:24-25. Debtor's status report only raises further questions. Did Collier conduct any further marketing efforts following its November 2020 call for offers? What disclosures were provided to the three interested buyers and/or any other interested buyers? Could such disclosures have had the opposite affect of what this Court was concerned might happen, and instead chilled bidding? If Debtor's $22,000,000 appraisal is accurate, why were the offers Debtor received (prior to disclosing its existing litigation) so low?

For the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has not carried its burden as to this factor.

(ii) Proposed settlement with mutual releases

In conjunction with the proposed sale Debtor also seeks approval of a global settlement with mutual releases between Debtor, the proposed Buyer, Dos Cabezas, Michael Criscione and Michael Meyer that would resolve outstanding litigation. Dkt. 217, pp.18:16-22:3. The tentative ruling is that without further disclosures, this Court is skeptical about the propriety of the proposed settlement. The Debtor's papers do not make clear what consideration Dos Cabezas, Michael Criscione and Michael Meyer are receiving in exchange for the consideration being provided to the estate and execution of the mutual releases. Nor is it clear whether the mutual releases attempt to circumvent 11 U.S.C. 524(e)'s prohibition against third-party releases by dismissing any claims against non-settling third-parties, such as

Tentative Ruling for 12/8/20:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of Doz Cabezas Properties, LLC ("Dos Cabezas") to dismiss case (dkt. 145, 166), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 168), Dos Cabezas's reply (173), Dos Cabezas's supplemental papers (dkt. 179, 182), Debtor's supplemental papers (dkt. 181, 183)

The tentative ruling is not to strike the latest, unauthorized briefs. In any event, with or without considering them, the tentative ruling is to deny the motion to dismiss this case, without prejudice, for the reasons stated in this Court's tentative ruling for 10/27/20 (copied below), with the following caveats.

First, Debtor is directed to address why the flyer distributed by Collier included the banner "Bankruptcy Court Approved" (dkt.180, Ex.1, and dkt.183, Ex.1). This Court has not approved any sale (although this Court has approved the employment of Colliers to market of the subject property). Second, Debtor is directed to address how it proposes to disclose to prospective purchasers of the properties the fact that Debtor is seeking to sell the subject property before the State Court has determined the underlying disputes with Dos Cabezas. True, as noted in the tentative ruling for 10/27/20, it is possible that Debtor can distinguish In re Popp, 323 B.R. 260, 268 (9th Cir. BAP 2005), and In re Owens-Johnson, 118 B.R. 780 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1990). But the tentative ruling is that Debtor has to disclose to prospective purchasers that (as this Court understands the issues) Dos Cabezas is asserting that (i) Debtor does not own the subject property, and therefore cannot sell it, and alternatively (ii) a sale under 11 U.S.C. 363(b) and (f) should not, or cannot, be used to defeat a claim for specific performance.

In other words, Debtor is directed to address (in consultation with Colliers) how it will disclose to prospective purchasers the potential obstacles to selling the property, without either misleading purchasers or unduly chilling any potential bidding. Of course, this Court recognizes that in chapter 11 there is a certain degree of deference to the business judgment of Debtor, in consultation with Colliers, regarding how best to market the subject property and when and how to provide disclosures. But Debtor's flyer ("Bankruptcy Court Approved," dkt.183, Ex.1, at PDF p.9), combined with Debtor's apparently cavalier attitude toward employment and compensation of professionals (see below), raise concerns about whether Debtor and Colliers are not exercising their business judgment appropriately. Debtor is cautioned that failure to exercise proper business judgment, and act as a trustee for the benefit of creditors, might lead to adverse consequences.

(b) Apparently unauthorized retention and payment of professionals

Debtor is directed to address the apparently unauthorized employment and payment of persons who appear to be professionals: Hammonds & Frey (accounting/tax services), Hunter & Co. (management), and BBG, Inc. (appraisal). See dkt.179, p.4:3-23. Debtor alleges (dkt.181, pp.4:23-5:27) that none of these services are "central to the administration of the estate," and instead are "ordinary course" payments that purportedly do not require Court authorization. But, first, there is no evidence to support those allegations and, second, Debtor's explanation raises its own concerns - for example, it is potentially troubling if Debtor is relying on someone to do accounting and tax services who is not addressing the bankruptcy-specific aspects of accounting and tax issues (i.e., if they do not qualify as professionals, that in itself might be problematic).

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 1/5/21 for Debtor and/or those persons to file and serve on all parties in interest either (i) applications for employment, including any authority for retroactive authorization, or (ii) briefs and evidence as to why such persons are not professionals and/or why the payments to them are "ordinary course" and/or whatever other arguments they assert as to why notice, a hearing, and this Court's prior authorization for employment and payment allegedly were not required. The tentative ruling is to set deadlines of 1/12/21 for any responses, and 1/19/21 for any replies.

Chapter 11

(1) Current issues

(a) Doz Cabezas Properties, LLC's ("Dos Cabezas") motion to dismiss case (dkt. 145, 166), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 168), Dos Cabezas's reply (173)

The tentative ruling is to deny the motion without prejudice on the grounds that this Court is not persuaded that, on the present record, sufficient "cause" exists under 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4) to convert or dismiss this case.

First, litigation takes time and Dos Cabezas has not presented sufficient evidence to persuade this Court that Debtor is not diligently prosecuting this bankruptcy case and the State Court action. To the contrary, Debtor's prosecution of this case appears to be reasonable in light of the uncertainty and challenges presented by COVID-19, the resulting backlog in state courts, and the great deal of latitude afforded to debtors exercising their business judgment about matters of case administration.

Second, Dos Cabezas' reliance on In re Popp, 323 B.R. 260, 268 (9th Cir. BAP 2005), and In re Owens-Johnson, 118 B.R. 780 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1990), is not dispositive. True, it is likely that Debtor's anticipated motion to sell the subject property will be subject to objections based on arguments that (i) Debtor cannot sell what it does not own and (ii) a sale under 11 U.S.C. 363(b) and (f) should not, or cannot, be used to defeat a claim for specific performance. But (x) this Court cannot presume, in advance, that those anticipated objections will prevail, (y) even if a sale were blocked, Debtor has other options (e.g., proposing a plan of reorganization, or waiting until a determination in the State Court litigation that Debtor has an ownership interest in the subject property, and therefore can sell it), and (z) even if all of those things were to turn out in future not to be viable options, it is premature to dismiss this case based on that future possibility.

(b) Dos Cabezas Properties, LLC, Criscione-Meyer Entitlement, Michael Criscione and Michael Meyer's ("Movants") omnibus objection to proofs of claim (dkt. 121, "Claim Objections") 4-1/4-2, 6-1, 7-1, 8-1, 9-1, 10-1, 11-1, 12-1, 13-1, 14-1, 15-1, 16-1, 17-1, 18-1, 19-1, 20-1, 22-1, 23-1/23-2, 24-1, 25-1, 26-1, 27-1, 29-1, 31-1, 32-1, 33-1, 34-1, 35-1, 36-1 and 37-1 ("the Claims"), stipulation & order continuing hearing (dkt. 129, 131), Tarzana Crossing, a Merchant Faire, LLC's ("Tarzana Crossing") opposition (dkt. 137).

declaration (adv. dkt. 8), Plaintiff's opposition (adv. dkt. 10), Movants' reply (adv. dkt. 12)

Defendants Dos Cabezas Properties, LLC, Criscione-Meyer Entitlement, LLC, and Michael Criscione (collectively, the "Movants") seek an order remanding this proceeding and for an award of attorneys fees and costs imposed against plaintiff Tarzana Crossing, a Merchant Faire, LLC ("Plaintiff").

For the reasons set forth below, the tentative ruling is to grant the request to remand this removed action, but perhaps defer the remand until after mediation, and deny the request for attorney fees.

(i) Jurisdiction

The parties dispute whether this Court has subject matter jurisdiction to hear this proceeding. The tentative ruling is that this Court has "related to" jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. 157(c)(1), because the parties' dispute arises from an alleged breach of contract for the sale of the estate's principal asset.

(ii) Mandatory abstention

The tentative ruling is that mandatory abstention applies as follows. Mandatory abstention under 28 U.S.C. 1334(c)(2) requires seven elements: (1) a timely motion; (2) a purely state law question; (3) a non-core proceeding under 28 U.S.C. 157(c)(1); (4) a lack of independent federal jurisdiction absent the petition under Title 11; (5) that an action is commenced in a state court; (6) the state court action may be timely adjudicated; (7) a state forum of appropriate jurisdiction exists. [In re Gen. Carriers Corp., 258 B.R. 181, 189 (9th Cir. BAP 2001) (internal quotation omitted).]

These elements are satisfied: (1) the motion was timely - the proceeding was removed on 1/22/20 and Movants filed the remand motion just 30 days later, on 2/21/20; (2) the complaint involves purely nonbankruptcy law questions (breach of fiduciary duty etc., adv. dkt. 7, p. 2:17-21) (Movants state that they amended their complaint on 8/30/19, but there is nothing in the record reflecting what was amended (id., p. 2:21), so this Court bases its ruling on the record presented); (3) the proceeding is noncore - the authorities cited by the removing party (dkt.10, pp.14:24-15:14) are distinguishable because they all involved alleged violations of fiduciary duties within the bankruptcy case itself, not prepetition and nonbankruptcy alleged violations; (4) no independent federal jurisdiction has been asserted;

(5) the action was commenced prepetition, on 12/14/18, in Los Angeles Superior Court; (6) there is no evidence that the proceeding cannot be timely adjudicated in the State Court; and (7) neither party has contested in this Court the State Court's jurisdiction over the proceeding.

(iii) Discretionary abstention

Alternatively, and in addition, the tentative ruling is that discretionary abstention is appropriate.

Discretionary abstention under 28 U.S.C. 1334(c)(1) requires consideration of the following twelve factors:

(1) the effect of lack thereof on the efficient administration of the estate if a Court recommends abstention, (2) the extent to which state law issues predominate over bankruptcy issues, (3) the difficulty or unsettled nature of the applicable law, (4) the presence of a related proceeding commenced in state court or other nonbankruptcy court, (5) the jurisdictional basis, if any, other than 28 U.S.C. 1334, (6) the degree of relatedness or remoteness of the proceeding to the main bankruptcy case, (7) the substance rather than form of an asserted "core" proceeding, (8) the feasibility of severing state law claims from core bankruptcy matters to allow judgments to be entered in state court with enforcement left to the bankruptcy court, (9) the burden of the bankruptcy court's docket, (10) the likelihood that the commencement of the proceeding in bankruptcy court involves forum shopping by one of the parties, (11) the existence of a right to a jury trial, and (12) the presence in the proceeding of nondebtor parties.

Several of the Tucson factors weigh in favor of abstention. First, the Complaint involves purely state-law issues. Second, this Court would not have jurisdiction over the Complaint but for the Debtor's bankruptcy petition, because the claims arise under state law and there is no diversity between the parties. Third, the Complaint involves several non-debtor parties who have asserted a right to a jury trial. Fourth, permitting the Complaint to proceed in state court will contribute to the efficient administration of the bankruptcy case because the State Court is the best tribunal to adjudicate the parties' state law claims. Fifth, although the Complaint is related to the main bankruptcy case because it involves claims relating to the primary asset of the estate, deferring to the State Court to adjudicate the parties' claims will not unduly interfere with this Bankruptcy Court's determination of other matters in the bankruptcy case.

(iv) Movants' request for attorneys' fees is denied

The tentative ruling is to deny Movant's request for attorneys' fees because this Court is not persuaded that Plaintiff lacked an objectively reasonable basis for seeking removal of this action because the dispute is related to the primary asset of Debtor's bankruptcy estate.

Proposed order: Movants are directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(2) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). DEBTOR

Docket 51

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Docket 58

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

#7.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order
Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic
Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 5

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions. Appearances are not required.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

(3) Very limited ruling. This Court's tentative ruling to grant the foregoing relief is solely for purposes of this motion, and is not intended to have any binding effect with respect to any future assertions by any party in interest regarding the existence or lack of existence of good faith in any other context.

#8.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order
Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic
Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 8

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions, and also subject to any opposition at the hearing. Appearances required.

This Court presumes that counsel for Debtor will not seek to charge Debtor or the estate any fees for appearing at this hearing because such appearance would have been unnecessary if the correct procedures had been followed (if counsel intends to do otherwise, that must be raised and argued at the hearing). If that presumption is incorrect, counsel is directed to notify this Court at the hearing.

Analysis: The motion papers were served on 4/20/21 (dkt. 8) (with an amended notice on 4/23/21, dkt. 15), which is 14 days prior to this hearing. That is permissible, under the Posted Procedures of Judge Bason ("Procedures") (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov), but the motion papers must give notice that oppositions are due 5 days before the hearing. Debtor's motion papers (dkt. 8) confusingly checked boxes stating that (a) the motion was being heard on regular notice with oppositions due 14 days before the hearing (id., p.2, para. "(3)(a)") (i.e., the same day the motion papers were initially served), and (b) also on shortened notice without providing any deadline for filing oppositions (id., p.2, para. "(3)(b)"). Debtor's amended notice (dkt. 15) does not clarify the appropriate deadline for filing oppositions.

Because of the confusion about when oppositions are due, the tentative ruling is to require appearances and permit oppositions to be made orally at the hearing.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following

Docket 34

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/4/21:
Appearances required.

Based on the arguments and representations of the parties at the hearing on 4/6/21, this Court continued the matter to this date to allow time for the parties to continued negotiating the terms of an adequate protection stipulation. There is no tentative ruling. The parties should be prepared to provide an update on the status of those negotiations.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing. Pursuant to Judge Bason's COVID-19 procedures, all appearances are via ZoomGov. For ZoomGov instructions for all matters on calendar, please see the tentative ruling for the first matter on today's calendar (i.e., page 1 of the posted tentative rulings). Unless otherwise stated, appearances via CourtCall are no longer permitted.

- #2.10 Cont'd Status Conference re: Complaint to Deny / Revoke Debtor's Discharge Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 727(a)(6) and (d)(3) fr. 2/9/21, 4/27/21

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/4/21:

Grant in relevant part the motion to intervene, and continue the status conference, as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 5/4/21.

(A) Current issues

(1) Motion of the United States Trustee ("UST") to intervene (adv. dkt. 12), Debtor/Defendant's Opposition (adv. dkt. 15), UST's Response (adv. dkt. 16)

The tentative ruling is to allow the UST to intervene as a co-plaintiff, but not technically "substitute" for the Chapter 7 Trustee as a plaintiff. As a practical matter, there may be no difference because the foregoing tentative ruling is subject to whatever rights the Chapter 7 Trustee has to withdraw or otherwise turn over prosecution of this matter to the UST.

The reasons are that, although Debtor is correct that as a technical matter none of the grounds for substitution are present under Rule 25 (Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7025), nevertheless the UST satisfies the grounds for intervention under Rule 24 (Fed. R. Civ. P., incorporated by Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7024). Specifically, there are

- (1) independent grounds for jurisdiction [as the UST argues persuasively, the Bankruptcy Code provides that he can be heard on any matter, and claims under 11 U.S.C. 727 arise under the Bankruptcy Code, thus establishing jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. §§ 157(b)(1) and 1334, so there is both personal and subject matter jurisdiction];
- (2) the motion is timely [the UST argues persuasively that no discovery deadlines have passed in this adversary proceeding, and there is no cognizable prejudice from the timing]; and

Chapter 7

(3) the applicant's claim or defense, and the main action, have a question of law or a question of fact in common [- the UST seeks to prosecute the identical claim, so this factor is satisfied].

[Northwest Forest Res. Council v. Glickman, 82 F.3d 825, 839 (9th Cir. 1996) (citing Greene v. United States, 996 F.2d 973, 978 (9th Cir. 1993) (paragraph breaks added)].

In addition, it would be inappropriate for Defendant/Debtor to escape the possible consequences of her acts and omissions - the potential denial of her discharge - because those same acts and omissions may have deprived the Chapter 7 Trustee of sufficient funds to be able to prosecute this action, or alternatively because the bankruptcy estate never had enough funds for such prosecution. These are exactly the sort of circumstances in which someone else should be permitted to intervene, as recognized by the drafters of the Rules when they provided for notice and an opportunity to object to any dismissal of an action under 11 U.S.C. 727. See Rule 7041 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

None of the foregoing should be interpreted as expressing any view of the merits of the action. All rights are reserved, including all defenses that Defendant/Debtor may have.

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

Unless otherwise stated, appearances via CourtCall are no longer permitted.

Tentative Ruling for 4/27/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 4/27/21.

(A) Current issues

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv.dkt. 14) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(1) United States Trustee's Motion to Intervene (adv. dkt. 12).

The parties' joint status report requests that this status conference be continued, to be held contemporaneously with the hearing on the United States Trustee's Motion to Intervene. Adv. dkt. 14, p. 4. The tentative ruling is to grant the request to continue the status conference to the date and time set forth below.

(A) Current issues

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv.dkt. 8) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(1) Sale or Refinance of Defendant/Debtor's Home

In the parties' joint status report, Defendant/Debtor contends that this proceeding should be postponed because it is likely to become moot when either the Plaintiff/Trustee sells her home or she refinances her home. Adv. dkt. 8, p. 4. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to discuss when they expect the sale or refinancing will be finalized.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/4/21:

Appearances required.

(A) Current issues

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv. dkt. 40) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. This Court has also reviewed Debtor's motion for conversion back to chapter 13 (dkt. 66).

(1) Conversion to chapter 13 and/or dismissal of Defendant/Debtor

Plaintiff states that he proposed to dismiss Defendant/Debtor from this action but received no response. Adv. Dkt. 40, p. 3, para. "(E)". Meanwhile, Defendant/Debtor seeks to convert her case back to chapter 13 (Id. p.4, para. "(G)"), and states that is "willing to include any costs and legal fees incurred in this Adversary Proceeding by the Chapter 7 Trustee." Id. On 4/26/21 Debtor filed such a motion (2:19-bk-20396-NB, dkt. 66).

The tentative ruling is to continue this adversary proceeding status conference as set forth below, to see if the motion to reconvert is granted. But before adopting any such tentative ruling, this Court needs answers to the following issues.

First, does Debtor's statement that she is willing to "include" the Chapter 7 Trustee's costs and legal fees incurred "in this Adversary Proceeding" mean that she proposes to pay immediately and in full all of the Chapter 7 Trustee's allowed administrative expenses, including not just the fees and costs of this adversary proceeding but also, for example, the Trustee's own compensation under 11 U.S.C. 326?

Chapter 7

Second, how will Debtor fund that proposed payment?

(2) The deadline to complete discovery has passed

Defendant/Debtor states that she anticipates propounding discovery on Plaintiff/Trustee and completing discovery by 6/1/21. Adv. Dkt. 40, p.2. But this Court's prior scheduling order (adv. dkt. 23, para. "(3)(f)") set 3/5/21 as the "last day for discovery to be completed, including receiving responses to discovery requests," (other than expert discovery) and Defendant/Debtor has not filed any motion for reconsideration of that deadline. The tentative ruling is that the Status Report cannot be treated as such a motion.

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

The parties have stated their positions (see adv. dkt. 13, p.4, para. F) and, to the extent necessary, this Court has not yet ruled on these issues.

(2) Mediation: The tentative ruling is not to order any mediation at this time.

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 8/27/20. [The deadlines have been memorialized in this Court's scheduling order (adv. dkt. 23), except for the following, which need no written order.]

Appearances required.

Current issues

(a) Plaintiff/Trustee's motion for default judgment against Defendants Hyong Chan Kim ("H. Kim") and Sunhee Kim ("S. Kim") (adv. dkt. 14, 15, 16), no opposition is on file

The tentative ruling is to grant the motion and enter default judgment against H. Kim and S. Kim on the 1st, 4th, and 7th through 10th (mis-labeled 9th) claims for relief in the Complaint. See Adv. Dkt. 1.

(b) Untimely status report

The last two joint status reports have been filed late without explanation or acknowledgment of their untimeliness (see adv. dkt. 28 (8 days late) & adv. dkt. 19 (2 days late)). Counsel for both parties are cautioned that their continued failure to timely comply with this Court's deadlines may result in adverse consequences.

Chapter 7

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv.dkt. 13) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(A) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation

[Intentionally omitted: it appears that mediation may be unproductive, at least prior to discovery and narrowing of the issues.]

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 8/27/20. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/4/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 5/4/21.

(A) Current issues

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv. dkt. 9) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences (except as noted below). (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

Matters of venue, jurisdiction, and authority have been determined and/or waived or forfeited (adv. dkt. 9, p. 4, para. "(F)").

(2) Mediation

[Non-standard provision.] The tentative ruling is not to order mediation at this time. This Court recognizes that the parties both expressed an interest in mediation as of the filing of that status report (adv. dkt. 14) on 4/19/21. But thereafter, in connection with more global mediation, The Law Offices of Lynn Chao, APC ("ChaoLaw") did not reach any settlement, and ChaoLaw faces ongoing contempt sanctions regarding discovery in a related proceeding in this case. Accordingly, it appears that ordering ChaoLaw to mediation in this adversary proceeding likely would be a waste of time and money.

Tentative Ruling for 2/9/21:

Appearances required.

(A) Current issues

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv.dkt. 5) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. Certain key persons already have been ordered to mediation in the bankruptcy case as a whole, by oral order at the hearing on 1/26/21 commencing at 2:00 p.m. (see also Mem. Dec., dkt.276, p.30:20-21). But no proposed mediation has been lodged as of the preparation of this tentative ruling. Therefore, as a "belt and suspenders" precaution, the tentative ruling is to order mediation in this adversary proceeding as well (as set forth below).

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these

(2) Mediation

Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/23/21 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

Docket 323

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/4/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 5/4/21.

(1) Current matters

(a) Combined Status Conference

This Status Conference involves two related bankruptcy cases and associated matters: (a) In re Layfield & Barrett, APC, Case No. 2:17-bk-19548-NB ("L&B"); (b) In re Layfield, Case No. 2:18-bk-15829-NB ("Lay-Invol."); (c) Pimentel v. Layfield et al, Case No. 2:19-ap-01069-NB ("Pimentel Adv."), (d) Pachulski v. Layfield, Case No. 2:19-ap-01071-NB ("Pachulski Adv.").

This Court has no issues to raise sua sponte at this time. The tentative ruling is to continue all matters on today's calendar to the continued date set forth below.

(2) Deadlines/dates. The L&B case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 on 8/3/17 and converted to chapter 11 on 8/11/17 (L&B dkt. 25). The Lay-Invol case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 case on 5/21/18 and an order for relief was entered on 12/12/18 (Lay-Invol dkt. 160, 161).

(a) L&B Bar date: 2/5/18 (timely served, L&B dkt. 133, 157)

(b) Lay-Invol Bar date: 4/12/19 (timely served, Lay-Invol dkt.180)

(c) L&B Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD. Do not file or serve until further order of this court.

(d) Continued status conference: 8/3/21 at 11:00 a.m. Brief status report due 7/20/21.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/4/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 5/4/21.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's motion to extend exclusivity period to obtain acceptance of plan (dkt. 305), no opposition on file

The tentative ruling is to grant the extension motion and extend the deadline for Debtor to gain acceptance of the plan to 6/28/21.

(b) Debtor's objection to Claim 2 filed by Yunuen Campos (dkt. 257), Ms. Campos' opposition (dkt. 261), Debtor's reply (dkt. 266)

This Court has largely sustained this claim objection, except with respect to any outstanding accounting issues, as to which this Court directed the parties to meet and confer. The tentative ruling is to continue this hearing, to be contemporaneous with the continued status conference (see part "(2)" of this tentative ruling, below). If the parties have not resolved any disputes about the accounting, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 5/25/21 for Debtor to file and serve a supplemental brief and declaration(s) setting forth Debtor's understanding of the remaining issues and his evidence in support of his position, with a deadline of 6/1/21 for Ms. Campos' response, and 6/8/21 for Debtor's reply.

(c) Campos v. Kennedy (Adv. No. 2:20-ap-01626-NB)

The tentative ruling is to dismiss this adversary proceeding as moot. Previously this adversary proceeding was stayed so that Debtor could attempt to confirm his proposed Plan (with all rights reserved if Debtor failed to obtain confirmation of that Plan). See dkt. 247, Ex.1, at PDF pp. 5-6 (Section (1) (b)). Now this Court has issued an oral order confirming the Plan (at the hearing on 4/27/21).

Under the Plan, the parties' executory contract embodied in the Mediation Term Sheet is assumed and, contrary to Ms. Campos' position in this adversary proceeding, the Plan treats her claim as an unsecured claim (consistent with the Mediation Term Sheet, which neither creates nor recognizes any alleged security interests in future accounts receivable). Accordingly, there is no point in determining whatever Ms. Campos' rights would have been if the Plan had not been confirmed, and it appears that there is nothing left to address in this adversary proceeding.

Note: Nothing in the foregoing tentative ruling is intended to cut off or prejudice whatever rights Ms. Campos might have if this Court's orders were to be reversed or modified by any appellate tribunal. As stated on the record at the confirmation hearing on 4/27/21, the Plan does not purport to cut off or prejudice the issues that are subject to the appellate proceedings.

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to proposed orders on each of the three foregoing matters via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of the tentative ruling in part "(1)(c)" to the order addressing that issue, all subject to Ms. Campos' rights to contest the tentative rulings and any changes that might be ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 6/30/20.

(a) Bar date: 10/2/20 (dkt. 39) (timely served, dkt. 52)

(b) Procedures order: dkt.4 (timely served, dkt.18).

Tentative Ruling for 12/1/20:

Appearances required.

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv.dkt. 4) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(A) Current issues

Defendant (Debtor) suggests in the status report that this Court stay all proceedings in this adversary proceeding, because his forthcoming chapter 11 plan may moot some or all issues in this adversary proceeding. Plaintiff (Ms. Campos) suggested in the status report that such issues must be decided before any plan can be confirmed.

The parties are directed to clarify the following issues. (1) Does

Chapter 11

Plaintiff (Ms. Campos) assert that, under nonbankruptcy law, the assignment order created an absolute assignment in Debtor's accounts receivable ("A/R"), or a security interest, or both?

(2) Does she assert those things not only as to (a) A/R embodied in checks that had been issued prepetition (from medical insurers and Medicare prepetition), but also (b) A/R arising from services that had been performed prepetition, but as to which checks had not been issued as of the petition date (i.e., as to which such an interest arguably had not attached as of the petition date), and also (c) A/R arising from services that had yet to be performed as of the petition date? Phrasing these last two issues differently, is Plaintiff asserting that, under nonbankruptcy law, 25% of any checks that had yet to be cut, and 25% of any A/R that had yet to generated by Debtor's postpetition labor, belongs to Plaintiff, regardless of any interest of, for example, a different judgment creditor who obtained a judicial lien against the A/R and also claimed the same 25%?

(3) Under the Bankruptcy Code, is Plaintiff asserting that her alleged interest in each of the three types of A/R described above is superior to the interests of the bankruptcy estate, other creditors, and any exemptions that Debtor may assert in the A/R?

Depending on Plaintiff's responses, Defendant (Debtor) is directed to address how he can propose a chapter 11 plan without resolving the issues raised in this adversary proceeding. Does Defendant (Debtor) anticipate proposing payment terms (e.g., payment over a time period consistent with the parties' Term Sheet) without resolving whether such payment is secured by the A/R, or whether Plaintiff (Ms. Campos) owns the A/R? Is it possible to confirm a plan that leaves such issues unresolved?

The tentative ruling is to direct the parties to address on a preliminary basis how the foregoing issues bear on whether or not to stay these proceedings. Then the tentative ruling is to continue this matter as set forth below, so that all of these issues can be better addressed after Debtor has proposed a chapter 11 plan.

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(a) Motion of March 1 LLC and Marchlife3, LLC's (the "March Entities") to compel Debtor to assume or reject contract, or alternatively for dismissal of case (the "Deadline Motion," dkt. 66); Debtor's Opposition (dkt. 69); March Entities' Reply (dkt. 70)

Although Debtor is correct that the March Entities' legal analysis is thin, the tentative ruling is that the March Entities have presented sufficient arguments and evidence that, unless Debtor assumes or rejects the Participation Agreement very soon, the March Entities will not be able to meet their own deadline of 9/19/21 (the "Third Party Deadline") to make certain mandatory improvements, under their Disposition & Development Agreement with a governmental or quasi-governmental "Authority" for development of part of the former March Air Force Base (the "Development Agreement"). See Neimann Decl. (dkt. 66), p. 7:8–12, and Ex.A pp.12 and 13 (Participation Agreement) recitals and section 1 (at PDF p. 15) and pp.26 & 29 (schedule of payments, and "Horizontal Improvements" budget, Ex.B&E to Participation Agreement) (at PDF pp. 28 & 31). The March Entities have provided evidence that they need an estimated $800,000 of funding from Debtor or, in the alternative, from another source, far enough in advance of that Third Party Deadline to make the improvements, or else they risk losing the entire project. Dkt. 66, pp. 7:24–8:3.

Debtor provides no contrary evidence. True, Debtor's proposed Plan (the "Plan," dkt. 61) provides for assumption of the participation agreement and an eventual cure. But the proposed time for any cure payment appears to be the later of (i) the Effective Date (defined to be 6 months after confirmation), if Debtor has sold the interests by then, or alternatively (ii) any later date when Debtor has the funds to make cure payments, subject to the apparent condition that Debtor will only make such payments if it "sells its interests under the Participation Agreement within 3 years after the Effective Date." See Plan, dkt. 61, sections "A," "C," 2.03, 4.01, 6.01, and 8.01. The tentative ruling is that this is insufficient for multiple reasons.

First, the March Entities point to evidence (Debtor's own Monthly Operating Reports and other bankruptcy papers) that Debtor has very few funds or ability to generate income, and therefore Debtor lacks any obvious ability to make the cure payments, except for a speculative prospect of finding investors. Again, Debtor provides no contrary evidence. The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not provided "adequate assurance" that it will be able to cure the default, as required by 11 U.S.C. 365(b)(1)(A) and 1123(b)(2).

Second, the tentative ruling is that, once the Third Party Deadline has expired, Debtor cannot "unring the bell" and belatedly cure its own failure to fund the required improvements before that deadline. See generally In re Claremont Acquisition Corp., 113 F.3d 1029, 1033-35 (9th Cir. 1997) (debtor's failure to operate business for two weeks was historical fact that could not be cured). This means that, based on the evidence provided by the March Entities, Debtor must provide very strong assurances very soon that it will be able to provide the funds in sufficient time for the required improvements to be constructed prior to the Third Party Deadline, or else the March Entities will be left with too little time to make other arrangements to obtain such funding and construct the necessary improvements before the Third Party Deadline.

Third, even supposing that Debtor had presented evidence of some leeway in the Third Party Deadline under the Development Agreement (which Debtor has not presented), the tentative ruling is that Debtor's proposed time line is not sufficient to "promptly" cure within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 365(b)(1)(A) (emphasis added). Again, the March Entities have provided evidence of what "prompt[]" means in the circumstances of this case - i.e., sufficient to assure that the March Entities will not lose their own rights under the Development Agreement - and Debtor has not provided any evidence to the contrary.

Fourth, Debtor's apparent loophole - that it will only pay the cure payment if it can sell its interests under the Participation Agreement within three years after the Effective Date - appears to undermine any ability to provide "adequate assurance" of a future cure. 11 U.S.C. 365(b)(1)(A) (emphasis added).

For each of the foregoing alternative reasons, the tentative ruling is to grant the Deadline Motion, and to set a deadline of 6/1/21 for Debtor to (x) obtain a ruling from this Court authorizing it to assume its Participation Agreement with the March Entities and (y) actually fund the estimated $800,000 of necessary improvements, or else (z) reject the Participation Agreement. The tentative ruling is that there is cause to shorten time on any motion to assume (or reject) the Participation Agreement, both because of the above 6/1/21 deadline and because Debtor would need to raise a lot of money quickly in order to meet that deadline. See Rules 6006, 9006(c) & (d), 9013, 9014, 9036.

The tentative ruling is to shorten the deadlines such that, if Debtor can file and serve an assumption or rejection motion by 5/18/21, that motion can be self-calendared concurrent with the continued status conference (see below), with an opposition deadline of 5/24/21 and any reply due 5/27/21.

Nothing in the foregoing tentative rulings should be construed to eliminate any claims (if any) that survive the arbitration award (dkt. 66, Ex.B, at PDF pp.37 et seq.). For example, Debtor retains all claims or defenses that might arise from its assertion that the March Entities have prevented Debtor from performing, by failing to provide Debtor with allegedly essential information to be able to attract investors. See, e.g., Plan (dkt. 61), at PDF pp. 2-3. Likewise, the March Entities retain all claims or defenses that might arise from their assertions (and any preclusive findings or rulings in the arbitration award) that Debtor made material false statements in the inception of the participation agreement or thereafter. All rights are reserved as to any claims, counterclaims, and defenses that are not barred by principles of preclusion or other doctrines.

Proposed order: The March Entities are directed to lodge a proposed order on the Deadline Motion via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The tentative ruling is to strike both Lessor's surreply and Debtor's response, because neither was authorized and neither presents sufficient grounds for retroactive authorization. Alternatively, the tentative ruling is that even if this Court were not to strike those papers, they have no bearing on the R/S Motion because this Court will not take into consideration mediation matters and settlement communications.

This hearing has been continued multiple times based on the parties' stipulations; but the docket does not reflect that the parties have been able to reach any agreement. Chapter 11

(i) Background

Based solely on Debtor's bankruptcy schedules, Debtor appears solvent. Total assets are listed at $1,036,013.07 and total claims at $980,585.66. But, as set forth below, that appears to be inaccurate.

As for assets, Debtor's bankruptcy Schedule A/B lists $934,283.07 in accounts receivable, with no deduction for doubtful or uncollectible accounts, despite the fact that those accounts are listed as being over 90 days old. Debtor's only other listed assets are $1,730.00 in the bank and a claim against Lessor estimated at $100,000.00.

As for liabilities, Debtor apparently has two secured claims aggregating just under $90,000 or just under $140,000 - it is unclear which. See Plan (dkt. 68), p. 16 ($79,404.04 + $9,625.68 = $89,029.72 secured claims) and compare id. at p. 31:12 ($139,039 secured claims). Bankruptcy Schedule E/F lists $934,073.07 in unsecured claims, and the Plan lists $1,068,892.00. The principal unsecured claims listed on Schedule E/F include over $500,000.00 in unpaid shipping charges and, in line 3.3, Lessor's claim at $398,686.20 (purportedly without offset, although that appears to be inconsistent with the alleged $100,000.00 claim against Lessor and the Plan lists Lessor's claim at $541,474.20, which is disputed by Debtor).

As this Court understands Debtor's background, its business previously included storage at the Premises of tens of thousands of original motion picture "films in the can," weighing approximately 50 pounds each, which major film studios entrusted to Debtor. The Premises allegedly have unique and special qualities for that purpose. There is no explanation whether Debtor is still engaged in other lines of business, or the possible value of any such ongoing businesses, by the Plan implies that there is no such value, and the Plan proposes to liquidate Debtor.

Debtor's bankruptcy Schedule G lists no executory contracts for storage of the films, so apparently Debtor has spun off that business. In 2019 Debtor formed HFC Media Services Corporation ("Affiliate"), which promised to take over all obligations under the lease of the Premises including back rent (for an estimated total obligation of $935,283.07) in exchange for a license to use the Premises, the right to Debtor's security deposit of $395,855.80, $70,000 in cash, and, apparently, approximately $395,885.80 of accounts receivable transferred to it by Debtor. Under Affiliate's Agreement with Debtor, if rights to the Premises are terminated or lost then Affiliate is obligated to pay Debtor $400,000.00.

In actuality, despite the alleged value of Debtor's accounts receivable as stated in Schedule A/B, Debtor's Plan appears to treat those accounts as having no value in excess of the liens against them, and Debtor's Plan states that its primary asset is the license Agreement with Affiliate, pursuant to which Affiliate has already paid $150,771.98 to Lessor on Debtor's behalf (not including rent payments). That appears to be deducted from the presumptive $400,000.00 that will be owed to Debtor by Affiliate.

Debtor calculates that this leaves a balance owed by Affiliate, once the lease is terminated, of $249,228.05, less any payments that Affiliate pays to Lessor on Debtor's behalf through the Effective Date. Debtor's Plan proposes that Affiliate will pay Debtor that balance in 36 monthly installments commencing on the first month following the Effective Date.

Those payments will be used to fund an estimated $50,000.00 in administrative expenses, payment of the secured claims with no interest, and then a pro rata distribution to nonpriority unsecured claims. Debtor's liquidation analysis and projection of distributions under the Plan states: "[a] ssuming a liquidation value of $250,000 ... Class 3 [unsecured] claims should expect to receive approximately ... 10% of the allowed amount of their respective claims" under the Plan and approximately 3% in a hypothetical chapter 7 liquidation. Plan (dkt. 68), p. 31:10-16.

Some of the forgoing information is not in the Plan. It is derived from other filed documents. See generally Stat.Rpt. (dkt.20) at PDF p.13:1-14; Bankruptcy Schedules (dkt. 19) (passim) and Statement Of Financial Affairs ("SOFA") (dkt. 19), p.3, line 13.1 (PDF p.18). See also Plan (dkt. 68), Part IV.A. (history of Debtor), pp. 8:5-9:5 & 10:19-28; and Agreement between Debtor and Affiliate (Ex.1 to Plan, dkt. 68, at PDF pp. 43-46).

Debtor and Lessor have been attempting to settle their claims, but without success so far. Affiliate apparently has been paying Debtor's monthly postpetition leasehold obligations, which have been set off against the anticipated $400,000.00 obligation of Affiliate to Debtor. Debtor's proposed Plan includes the following provision:

V. Retention of Premises to Accommodate Orderly Relocation of Films.

[Affiliate] shall retain its rights to occupy the [Premises] for a period of six-months after the Effective Date to accommodate the relocation of third-party films that are located at the premises and shall pay [Lessor] the amount of $26,050.00 on the 21st day of each month during this period. [Plan (dkt.68), p.29:12-17]

Based on the foregoing background, and this Court's review of the Plan and other filed documents, Debtor is directed to address the following issues at the hearing, and Lessor or other parties in interest are invited to do the same.

(ii) Lease of Premises

The Plan does not specify the legal basis for the above-quoted provision regarding post-confirmation occupancy of the Premises. Is Debtor proposing a deferred rejection of the lease under 11 U.S.C. 365? This might be a confirmation issue; but before the expense and possible confusion of mailing out a proposed Plan to all creditors, it makes sense to address whether there are any "gating" issues.

(iii) Notice to film owners?

This Court recognizes that the major film studios that own the films located at the Premises might not qualify as creditors of Debtor (although, without knowing the parties' contractual arrangements that is unclear). But the tentative ruling is that Debtor must provide them with notice of the confirmation hearing so that they have an opportunity to be heard if they believe that they are creditors or other parties in interest whose rights might be affected by the Plan.

(iv) Cost of moving film cans?

The Plan does not appear to address the costs of moving the film cannisters. See Plan (dkt. 68), p. 31:10-16. Will that be borne entirely by Affiliate?

(v) Other

The foregoing "background" section includes some issues that are not addressed in Debtor's summary of its business, liquidation analysis, and projections. For example, (w) who owes Debtor the dollar amounts included in Debtor's accounts receivable, and what are the chances of collection; (x) what is the actual dollar amount of secured claims; (y) what happened to Debtor's other lines of business, and what are the potential revenues and values of those businesses (if any); and (z) what are the details of any transaction in which Debtor spun off its film storage business to Affiliate (i.e., how does Debtor analyze that transaction from the perspective of a potential claim for voidable transfer)? The tentative ruling is that the proposed Plan must be amended to address those things.

In addition, Debtor is cautioned that various Plan provisions might exceed this Court's authority, or might not be approved for other reasons, even in the absence of any objection by parties in interest. For example, this Court anticipates reviewing carefully the Plan's proposed exculpation, retention of claims against creditors that are not specifically described, and prohibition on new or amended claims by creditors, etc. See Plan (dkt. 68), pp.20:24-22:6, 26:8-14, 27:14-28, 28:13-20.

(vi) Conclusion as to Plan

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/20/21 for Debtor to file an amended proposed Plan (but NOT serve it on anyone except Lessor and the UST).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 12/13/20. Debtor elected to proceed under Subchapter V.

The tentative ruling is to address the following issues with Debtor's counsel and set a deadline to file an amended proposed Plan. The issues to be addressed are:

(i) Background

Based solely on Debtor's bankruptcy schedules, Debtor appears solvent. Total assets are listed at $1,036,013.07 and total claims at $980,585.66. But, as set forth below, that appears to be inaccurate.

As for assets, Debtor's bankruptcy Schedule A/B lists $934,283.07 in accounts receivable, with no deduction for doubtful or uncollectible accounts, despite the fact that those accounts are listed as being over 90 days old. Debtor's only other listed assets are $1,730.00 in the bank and a claim against Lessor estimated at $100,000.00.

As for liabilities, Debtor apparently has two secured claims aggregating just under $90,000 or just under $140,000 - it is unclear which. See Plan (dkt. 68), p. 16 ($79,404.04 + $9,625.68 = $89,029.72 secured claims) and compare id. at p. 31:12 ($139,039 secured claims). Bankruptcy Schedule E/F lists $934,073.07 in unsecured claims, and the Plan lists $1,068,892.00. The principal unsecured claims listed on Schedule E/F include over $500,000.00 in unpaid shipping charges and, in line 3.3, Lessor's claim at $398,686.20 (purportedly without offset, although that appears to be inconsistent with the alleged $100,000.00 claim against Lessor and the Plan lists Lessor's claim at $541,474.20, which is disputed by Debtor).

As this Court understands Debtor's background, its business previously included storage at the Premises of tens of thousands of original motion picture "films in the can," weighing approximately 50 pounds each, which major film studios entrusted to Debtor. The Premises allegedly have unique and special qualities for that purpose. There is no explanation whether Debtor is still engaged in other lines of business, or the possible value of any such ongoing businesses, by the Plan implies that there is no such value, and the Plan proposes to liquidate Debtor.

Debtor's bankruptcy Schedule G lists no executory contracts for storage of the films, so apparently Debtor has spun off that business. In 2019 Debtor formed HFC Media Services Corporation ("Affiliate"), which promised to take over all obligations under the lease of the Premises including back rent (for an estimated total obligation of $935,283.07) in exchange for a license to use the Premises, the right to Debtor's security deposit of $395,855.80, $70,000 in cash, and, apparently, approximately $395,885.80 of accounts receivable transferred to it by Debtor. Under Affiliate's Agreement with Debtor, if rights to the Premises are terminated or lost then Affiliate is obligated to pay Debtor $400,000.00.

In actuality, despite the alleged value of Debtor's accounts receivable as stated in Schedule A/B, Debtor's Plan appears to treat those accounts as having no value in excess of the liens against them, and Debtor's Plan states that its primary asset is the license Agreement with Affiliate, pursuant to which Affiliate has already paid $150,771.98 to Lessor on Debtor's behalf (not including rent payments). That appears to be deducted from the presumptive $400,000.00 that will be owed to Debtor by Affiliate.

Debtor calculates that this leaves a balance owed by Affiliate, once the lease is terminated, of $249,228.05, less any payments that Affiliate pays to Lessor on Debtor's behalf through the Effective Date. Debtor's Plan proposes that Affiliate will pay Debtor that balance in 36 monthly installments commencing on the first month following the Effective Date.

Those payments will be used to fund an estimated $50,000.00 in administrative expenses, payment of the secured claims with no interest, and then a pro rata distribution to nonpriority unsecured claims. Debtor's liquidation analysis and projection of distributions under the Plan states: "[a]ssuming a liquidation value of $250,000 ... Class 3 [unsecured] claims should expect to receive approximately ... 10% of the allowed amount of their respective claims" under the Plan and approximately 3% in a hypothetical chapter 7 liquidation. Plan (dkt. 68), p. 31:10-16.

Some of the forgoing information is not in the Plan. It is derived from other filed documents. See generally Stat.Rpt. (dkt.20) at PDF p.13:1-14; Bankruptcy Schedules (dkt. 19) (passim) and Statement Of Financial Affairs ("SOFA") (dkt. 19), p.3, line 13.1 (PDF p.18). See also Plan (dkt. 68), Part IV.A. (history of Debtor), pp. 8:5-9:5 & 10:19-28; and Agreement between Debtor and Affiliate (Ex.1 to Plan, dkt. 68, at PDF pp. 43-46).

Debtor and Lessor have been attempting to settle their claims, but without success so far. Affiliate apparently has been paying Debtor's monthly postpetition leasehold obligations, which have been set off against the anticipated $400,000.00 obligation of Affiliate to Debtor. Debtor's proposed Plan includes the following provision:

V. Retention of Premises to Accommodate Orderly Relocation of Films.

[Affiliate] shall retain its rights to occupy the [Premises] for a period of six-months after the Effective Date to accommodate the relocation of third-party films that are located at the premises and shall pay [Lessor] the amount of $26,050.00 on the 21st day of each month during this period. [Plan (dkt.68), p.29:12-17]

Based on the foregoing background, and this Court's review of the Plan and other filed documents, Debtor is directed to address the following issues at the hearing, and Lessor or other parties in interest are invited to do the same.

(ii) Lease of Premises

The Plan does not specify the legal basis for the above-quoted provision regarding post-confirmation occupancy of the Premises. Is Debtor proposing a deferred rejection of the lease under 11 U.S.C. 365? This might be a confirmation issue; but before the expense and possible confusion of mailing out a proposed Plan to all creditors, it makes sense to address whether there are any "gating" issues.

(iii) Notice to film owners?

This Court recognizes that the major film studios that own the films located at the Premises might not qualify as creditors of Debtor (although, without knowing the parties' contractual arrangements that is unclear). But the tentative ruling is that Debtor must provide them with notice of the confirmation hearing so that they have an opportunity to be heard if they believe that they are creditors or other parties in interest whose rights might be affected by the Plan.

(iv) Cost of moving film cans?

The Plan does not appear to address the costs of moving the film cannisters. See Plan (dkt. 68), p. 31:10-16. Will that be borne entirely by Affiliate?

(v) Other

The foregoing "background" section includes some issues that are not addressed in Debtor's summary of its business, liquidation analysis, and projections. For example, (w) who owes Debtor the dollar amounts included in Debtor's accounts receivable, and what are the chances of collection; (x) what is the actual dollar amount of secured claims; (y) what happened to Debtor's other lines of business, and what are the potential revenues and values of those businesses (if any); and (z) what are the details of any transaction in which Debtor spun off its film storage business to Affiliate (i.e., how does Debtor analyze that transaction from the perspective of a potential claim for voidable transfer)? The tentative ruling is that the proposed Plan must be amended to address those things.

In addition, Debtor is cautioned that various Plan provisions might exceed this Court's authority, or might not be approved for other reasons, even in the absence of any objection by parties in interest. For example, this Court anticipates reviewing carefully the Plan's proposed exculpation, retention of claims against creditors that are not specifically described, and prohibition on new or amended claims by creditors, etc. See Plan (dkt. 68), pp.20:24-22:6, 26:8-14, 27:14-28, 28:13-20.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/4/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Summary

The biggest issue in these jointly administered cases appears to be how to address the claims of Ms. Zhou against each Debtor, on behalf of herself and other former employees. There is a risk that expenses of litigation could consume a substantial portion of any potential distribution to creditors. That threat to distributions includes Ms. Zhou herself, anyone she might represent, and other claimants - whose interests must be protected.

Debtors have objected to allowance of Ms. Zhou's claims. The tentative ruling is that:

(i) Ms. Zhou cannot represent any former employees who might have priority claims, because there is an inherent conflict of interest between those priority claims and her own nonpriority claims;

(ii) It is possible that Ms. Zhou's claims might have legal and factual issues in common with some other employees' nonpriority claims, and might be typical of such claims, but Debtor is correct that estimation of any such claims is required, because liquidating such claims would unduly delay and adversely affect the administration of this bankruptcy case, and prejudice other creditors. Therefore, streamlined procedures are appropriate, and it is appropriate to limit discovery at this stage to address (x) claims against the one Debtor that directly managed the location at which Ms. Zhou worked (not potential claims against all Debtors, or against any third parties such as Debtors' principals) and (y) claims that are not barred by the three year statute of limitations.

(b) Background

This Court previously denied Ms. Zhou's motion for relief from the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(a)) to resume her litigation in State Court against Debtors. This Court did so without prejudice to Ms. Zhou renewing that motion in future if Debtors fail to make sufficient progress in these bankruptcy cases, or for other cause (and this Court terminated any stay that might apply to nondebtors). See Order (dkt.177).

In making these rulings, this Bankruptcy Court was keenly aware that the State Court discovery proceedings were under way and that the State Court might have considerable expertise in labor and employment matters. See Motion to Dismiss/for Relief From Stay (dkt.49), p.16:10-12 ("The matter has been assigned to the Hon. Yvette Palazuelos. According to Westlaw, the Hon. Palazuelos has heard over 400 labor & employment cases, and those cases constitute the plurality of her docket") (citation omitted). This Bankruptcy Court has also wished to accord comity to State Courts and their proceedings.

Nevertheless, this Bankruptcy Court has been mindful that Congress provided for the automatic stay largely to protect the bankruptcy estate from depletion. This Court's principal concern was that the cost and delay of "scorched earth" litigation (which might be appropriate outside of a bankruptcy case) has the potential to cause undue harm to third party creditors when, as in these bankruptcy cases, there appear to be very limited assets available.

Put differently, in bankruptcy cases there is generally a limited "pie" to be divided among creditors, and although the Bankruptcy Code provides some tools to attempt to grow the "pie," in general one creditor's gain is other creditors' loss. In addition, if the costs and delays of litigation are too great, there is a substantial risk that an attempted reorganization will turn into a liquidation, thereby further harming all creditors.

Debtor's proposed Plan (dkt.137) provides that Ms. Zhou's priority claim (for herself and others) will be paid either $0 or, if allowed, paid in full on the later of the Effective Date or when the claim is allowed by a final non-appealable order. See Plan (dkt.137), section 4.01 (at PDF p.6). The Plan proposes that nonpriority claims will receive a pro-rata share of $150,000, resulting in an estimated dividend between 1.63% and 6.99% depending on the outcome of Debtor's objection to the nonpriority portion of Ms. Zhou's $7 million claim. Id., section 4.02. That is already a small dividend, without being further eroded and delayed.

True, it is conceivable that someone else would be willing to pay more for Debtors' assets, or perhaps someone could object to other claims, and those things might increase the possible dividends. But to date nobody has filed any papers to pursue such alternatives, and on the present record this Bankruptcy Court's concerns about cost and delay loom large.

(c) Debtor's Motion Objecting to Proof of Claims of Baodi Zhou, or in the Alternative, Motion to Estimate Claims (the "Claim Objection," dkt. 184); and Claimant Baodi Zhou's Motion to Compel Depositions in a Contested Matter and a Bankruptcy Rule 2004 Examination, and Production of Documents (the "Motion to Compel," dkt. 196), Debtors' Response (dkt.203), Ms. Zhou's Reply (dkt.210)

Ms. Zhou has filed claims as a purported representative of other claimants based on unpaid overtime and other wage claims, under Rule 23 (Fed. R. Civ. P.). Debtor objects that Rule 23 does not automatically apply because (w) there is no pending adversary proceeding and (x) Rule 23 is not among the rules that automatically apply to contested matters.

Debtor acknowledges that this Court "may at any stage in a particular matter direct" that Rule 23 apply (per Rules 7023 and 9014(c), Fed. R. Bankr. P.). But Debtor notes that this Court must consider (y) the usual requirements under Rule 23 of numerosity, commonality, and typicality, and also (z) special bankruptcy considerations. See generally In re In re Musicland Holding Corp., 362 B.R. 644, 654-58 (Bankr. SD NY 2007) (discussion of "Bankruptcy Considerations"). Ms. Zhou has not cited any contrary authority.

(i) Priority claims cannot be asserted by Ms. Zhou

The tentative ruling is to sustain Debtor's objection to Ms. Zhou purporting to represent any priority claimants under 11 U.S.C. 507(a)(4) and (5) ("Employee Priority Claims"). As a matter of bankruptcy law, there is an inherent conflict between the holders of Employee Priority Claims and the holders of non-priority claims, such as Ms. Zhou.

The conflict is presented because Employee Priority Claims must arise within 180 days before the petition date. 11 U.S.C. 507(a)(4) and (5). But Ms. Zhou has not been employed by any of Debtors for several years, so she has only a general unsecured claim.

Chapter 11

That makes all the difference in the world because, under 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(9)(B), Employee Priority Claims are entitled to "cash on the effective date of the plan equal to the allowed amount of such claim" (or, if the class consents, payments over time with interest). The more Debtors have to pay to those claims, the less they can pay to nonpriority unsecured creditors such as Ms. Zhou. So if Ms. Zhou were to represent priority claimants she would have an incentive to minimize their priority claims - a direct conflict of interest.

The tentative ruling is that this conflict of interest precludes any finding of commonality or typicality under Rule 23 (assuming for purposes of discussion that Rule 23 would be applied). In addition, the tentative ruling is that as a matter of bankruptcy law any certification of Ms. Zhou to represent priority claims would "adversely affect the administration of the case" by effectively interfering with any ability to reach a consensual or litigated allocation of distributions between priority and nonpriority unsecured claims. Musicland, 362 B.R. 644, 654 (citations omitted). See also Claim Obj. (dkt.184), pp.24:16-26:12.

Moreover, Ms. Zhou's claims, which are approximately five years old, appear to lack commonality or typicality when compared to claims within 180 days prepetition, which were during the period when Debtors closed their stores permanently, in or about March of 2020, due to the COVID-19 pandemic. See Claim Obj. (dkt.184), p.11:15-18) and Huang Decl. (dkt.186), para.12. For example, any employees who worked for Debtors shortly before their petition dates might or might not have claims under federal or State "WARN" Acts, and Ms. Zhou would have an inherent conflict of interest in assessing whether any such claims existed, because any such claims would reduce the payment of her own (nonpriority) claims. In addition, even before the stores were closed, the working hours and conditions in February and March of 2020 likely varied from what was typical prior to the pandemic.

These are additional reasons why Ms. Zhou does not appear to be a proper representative for employees who worked for Debtors shortly before their petition dates. Again, her claims appear to lack commonality or typicality, and it appears that any certification of Ms. Zhou to represent priority claims would "adversely affect the administration of the case." Musicland, 362 B.R. 644, 654 (citations omitted).

of claim, does not change the foregoing tentative ruling

This Court recognizes that, if Ms. Zhou cannot represent any priority claimants, there might be no distribution to any such claimants who might exist but who, for whatever reason, did not file their own proofs of claim. But for two reasons the tentative ruling is that this does not change the outcome.

First, any harm to such hypothetical priority claimants does not alter the tentative ruling that Ms. Zhou has an irreconcilable conflict of interest so she cannot represent any such claimants. Second, to the extent if any that equitable considerations apply, there does not appear to be any undue prejudice to Debtors' former employees who might have priority claims but did not file proofs of claim.

Debtors assert that, when they closed their stores and terminated all employees in March of 2020, all employees "were paid in full any amounts owed [i.e., any amounts that Debtors asserted were owed] upon termination," and "were notified that a bankruptcy had been filed." Huang Decl. (dkt.186), p.4:4-6. In addition, Debtors assert that "there were multiple articles published in popular news media sources in the Chinese community (the Debtors' main demographic base of consumers and employees) and elsewhere of the bankruptcy filings. https://en.thechihuo.com/articles/ch_20200603_01." Id., p.4:7-11.

Those direct and general notices provide some assurances of a fair process. In addition, such notices and the procedures for filing claims in bankruptcy should not be lightly cast aside in favor of Rule 23 procedures. See generally Musicland, 362 B.R. 644, 654 ("The most propitious time for filing a motion for class recognition is before a bar date is established, since the bar date is effectively uprooted in part by an extension of the bar date for a favored class of creditors.") (citation and internal quotation marks omitted).

True, it is conceivable that, despite all such payments and notices, an employee who ceased to work for one of Debtors in, say, November of 2019 might be unaware of these bankruptcy cases and might assert a claim for unpaid wages, unpaid overtime, lack of breaks, etc. But it has been a year and a half since then, and it is unlikely that a former employee who sought to assert any such claims would not have contacted Debtor(s). At that point such Debtor(s) would have given that former employee notice of the bankruptcy case (or risk liability for failing to provide any such notification).

More generally, in every bankruptcy case there is the possibility of unknown claimants who were not on notice of the bankruptcy case, but there is a limit to how much notice any debtor must provide to every conceivable claimant. For example, every customer of a grocery store is a potential slip-and-fall claimant, but this Court is not aware of any requirement to mail notices to every customer of the grocery store's bankruptcy filing and bar date.

In sum, the tentative ruling is that Debtors were not required to provide more notice than they already provided of their bankruptcy petitions or their claims bar dates. In addition, the tentative ruling is that this Court will not sua sponte establish any exception to the bar date, or any procedures for supplemental notices to every person who worked for Debtors within 180 days before their bankruptcy petitions and who, for whatever reason, did not file proofs of claim.

(iii) Ms. Zhou's nonpriority claims

The tentative ruling is that none of Debtors' objections to Ms. Zhou's nonpriority claims can be sustained at this time, without developing facts that appear to require more discovery (but streamlined discovery is appropriate, as discussed in the next section). True, Debtors' objections have some appeal; but without more discovery the tentative ruling is that they cannot be sustained.

Debtor objects that Ms. Zhou's claims lack commonality and typicality with other (nonpriority) claims because:

she was only employed at one store operated by TSI [(Tea Station Investment Inc.) - i.e., she did not work at other TSI stores, nor did she work at stores operated by other Debtors. In addition, she] only worked in the kitchen staff at that one store until 2015. ... [E]ach store had its own supervisors and manager who set the staff schedule and directed employees. Moreover, each store had its own payroll, and the payroll management and processing changed to ADP after Zhou's employment terminated. [Claim Obj. (dkt.184), p.21:15-19 (citations omitted, emphasis added).]

Zhou's duties and hours as a kitchen staff member were completely different from the cashier staff and serving staff. Thus, Zhou's claims of not being allowed breaks or having to work overtime at her store because she was the sole cook in the kitchen were necessarily different from the experiences of the other employees, not only within her store, but from the other stores, as well. Thus, Zhou' Claims lack typicality. [Claim Obj. (dkt.184), p.22:1-5 (emphasis in original).]

Chapter 11

Likewise, Ms. Zhou's attempt to assert any "common enterprise," alter ego, or similar theories might not be successful, based on Debtor's evidence and argument that:

Zhou was never employed by the other Debtors, and they are not her employer under the [applicable legal standards]. The other Debtors did not control Zhou's wages, hours and working conditions, nor did they "suffer or permit her to work." In fact, ... [all] of the other Debtors were independently owned and operated entity businesses, having their own corporate governance records, separate employees, store managers and supervisors, payroll records, and bank accounts. [Claim Obj. (dkt.184), p.15:23-28 (citation omitted)]

Likewise, there is some appeal to Debtors' argument that:

Debtors' use of common policies and procedures or forms does not mean that each entity is a joint employer or that it has control over the hiring, firing, supervision, discipline, and relevant day to day aspects of workplace behavior of the employees employed by the other businesses. ... Indeed, to hold otherwise would effectively make all clients of employment lawyers, CPAs, payroll processing and human resources companies effectively joint employers of one another simply because they may share the same policies, practices and procedures. [Claim Obj. (dkt.184), p.16:17-28 (citations omitted)]

But this Bankruptcy Court cannot tell from either the factual record before this Court or the parties' briefs whether discovery in the State Court had progressed to a point at which any of the foregoing arguments would be dispositive. For example, although Ms. Zhou does not know if her experience with "break times" is different from that of other employees (particularly outside of the kitchen where she worked), she might be able to establish with appropriate discovery that other employees did have similar break times. This Court does not know if she has been able to pursue such discovery. See, e.g., Ms. Zhou Deposition Tr. (undated), p.79:5-8 (Ex.B to T. Pham Decl., dkt.185, at PDF p. 75) ("Q[:] Do you know whether any of the employees at the Tea Station where you worked took at least two breaks a day?" A[:] I don't know.").

Therefore, it appears that more discovery may be appropriate. But the question is, what breadth and depth of discovery is appropriate?

(iv) Claim estimation

As noted at the start of this tentative ruling, this Bankruptcy Court is concerned that the cost and delay of "scorched earth" litigation would be unduly prejudicial to creditors (including Ms. Zhou). Part of the reason is that the claims that she purports to assert on behalf of other former employees are unliquidated, and any proceedings to determine how to liquidate all such claims appear likely to be extensive.

For example, this Bankruptcy Court takes judicial notice that the State Court's extensive rulings on some discovery disputes extended to 30 pages. See Grimes Decl. (dkt.196), Ex.A. This Court has carefully reviewed those rulings, and they reflect a substantial amount of litigation by all parties, consistent with this Court's concerns about "scorched earth" effects.

Debtor argues that "Zhou's Claims should be disallowed entirely, or in the alternative, the Court should estimate the Claims for only Zhou herself, or at most, the Court should estimate the claims for a limited class of employees of TSI only, if any, who have a commonality of claims with Zhou during the period of Zhou's employment." Claim Obj. (dkt.203), p.5:23-26 (emphasis added). These are all colorable alternatives.

This Bankruptcy Court "shall" estimate any contingent of unliquidated claims the fixing or liquidating of which would "unduly delay the administration of the case." 11 U.S.C. 502(c). The tentative ruling is that Ms. Zhou's claims - both on her own behalf and purportedly on behalf of other former employees - are unliquidated and must be estimated. "A claim is unliquidated when it is not subject to ready determination and precision in computation of the amount due." In re Castellino Villas, A.K.F. LLC, 836 F.3d 1028, 1033 (9th Cir. 2016) (citation and internal quotation marks omitted). Because the calculation of Ms. Zhou's claims relies upon several different unliquidated figures, including but not limited to the number of days worked by each employee, the number, length, and frequency of breaks taken by each employee (which may be very difficult to determine with accuracy), and the hourly pay rate for each employee, her claims and the potential claims of other former employees are "not subject to ready determination and precision."

Chapter 11

Alternatively, the tentative ruling is that permitting Ms. Zhou to act as a Rule 23 class representative for all other former employees who might be able to assert purportedly similar claims, without any limitations on discovery and other procedures, would "adversely affect the administration of this bankruptcy case" because of the resulting costs and delays in liquidating those claims, unless discovery and other procedures are streamlined. Musicland, 362 B.R. 644, 654 (citations omitted). Again, other creditors will be unduly harmed if such procedures are not adopted.

Under either of the foregoing alternative grounds, this Bankruptcy Court has discretion in determining the scope of discovery and other proceedings. See, e.g., In re The Bible Speaks, 65 B.R. 415, 427 (Bankr. D. Mass. 1986) (reviewing various discretionary aspects of claims estimation proceedings, including "limited discovery") (citations omitted). In addition, Debtor cites authority for limiting discovery in the labor and wage context. See Claim Obj. (dkt.203), passim.

The tentative ruling is to start with discovery only with respect to Ms. Zhou's own personal claims, and only with respect to the one Debtor that directly managed the location at which Ms. Zhou worked (as distinguished from potential claims against all Debtors, or against any third parties such as Debtors' principals). The parties are directed to address how much discovery on those issues has already occurred in the State Court proceedings.

Depending on the results of that discovery - if Ms. Zhou establishes grounds for her own claims - this Court anticipates that it might well be appropriate to expand discovery to encompass discovery on the above-quoted defenses raised by Debtor - e.g., whether Ms. Zhou in particular, or "kitchen staff" in general, had working conditions that lack typicality or commonality with other former employees. Any such discovery would also be subject to other limitations, such as applying to the time frame of the applicable statute of limitations. But any discovery beyond Ms. Zhou's own claims would be an issue for another day.

(v) Lack of propounded discovery

Debtors object that Ms. Zhou has not yet actually propounded any discovery requests, so her Motion to Compel is premature. Debtors also object that because their claim objections and any proceedings on Plan confirmation are contested matters, any discovery must be in accordance with Rule 7026 et seq., not Rule 2004 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). The tentative ruling is that Debtor is correct.

Chapter 11

(d) Conclusion

The tentative ruling is to sustain in part, overrule in part, and continue Debtor's Claim Objection contemporaneous with the continued status conference (see below). The tentative ruling is also to deny as premature Ms. Zhou's Motion to Compel.

The parties are directed to address (i) whether discovery in the State Court proceedings has already covered the limited scope of initial discovery outlined above (limited to Ms. Zhou's own claims, and to the one Debtor that directly managed the location at which Ms. Zhou worked) and, if not, (ii) a schedule and procedures for conducting such discovery. The tentative ruling is to memorialize all of the foregoing in an interim order on the Claim Objection, and a final order on the Motion to Compel.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on both of the foregoing matters via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling to the order on the Claim Objection, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 5/4/20 and converted from chapter 7 to chapter 11 on 7/1/20 (dkt.17). The petition was amended to elect Subchapter V on 7/14/20 (dkt.27). On 9/4/20 this Court ordered joint administration with affiliated debtors (dkt.64).

- (a) Bar date: (i) Investment 9/9/20 (dkt. 40; timely served, dkt. 43);
Affiliated Debtors 11/10/20.
- (b) Procedures order: dkt.18 (timely served, dkt.20) (also timely served in each jointly administered case).
- (c) Plan (dkt. 137): hearing TBD.
- (d) Continued status conference: 6/1/21 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report required.

#1.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

REAL TIME RESOLUTIONS, INC
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 20

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as provided below. Appearances required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Debtor's opposition (dkt. 24)

Reasons:

The tentative ruling is to overrule Debtor's opposition and grant the motion under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

Debtor is correct that the filing of multiple bankruptcy petitions might not, on its own, be sufficient to warrant relief under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4)(B). But Movant has also presented evidence establishing that on 3/5/21 (3 days before filing this petition) Devindra Polittle Somadhi ("Borrower") executed an unauthorized grant deed purporting to transfer the property to Debtor (see dkt. 20, pdf p. 52 and 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4)(A)) and Debtor does not appear to have any legitimate intention to reorganize her affairs because she has not filed a chapter 13 plan or most of the mandatory case commencement documents in the two months that this case has been pending (see dkt. 8).

Based on the totality of the circumstances, the tentative ruling is that sufficient grounds exist to find that the filing of the petition was part of a scheme to delay and hinder Movant's foreclosure efforts warranting in rem relief under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case, for the reasons set forth above, is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Retroactive relief

Deny the request for retroactive annulment of the stay because Judge Bason is not prepared to issue a blanket annulment with respect to whatever unspecified things might have occurred postpetition.

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is not sufficient evidence and notice.

No prejudice to Debtor intended. Based on the record, it appears that this might be a "hijacked" case, and that Debtor might be innocent of any involvement. See e.g., In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017) (describing hijacking); In re Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) (same). In a hijacking case, the Debtor faces the legitimate concern of being subject to a 180-day bar and other adverse consequences if, for example, Debtor later requests and obtains a voluntary dismissal and subsequently needs to file another bankruptcy petition. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(2), 362(b)(21)(A). There is authority that section 109 "eligibility issues" are nonjurisdictional, can be waived, forfeited, or subject to estoppel, and should not be applied if that would produce an "illogical, unjust, or capricious result, or when the benefit of dismissal would inure to a bad faith creditor." In re Leafy, 489 B.R. 545, 550-51 (9th Cir. BAP 2012) (citing cases including under 109(g)(2)). See also In re Mendez, 367 B.R. 109, 116-17 (9th Cir. BAP 2007); In re Luna, 122 B.R. 575, 577 (9th Cir. BAP 1991); Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261, 270. The same principles apply to any other adverse consequences from a hijacking. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to condition the relief from the automatic stay granted in this tentative ruling such that no adverse consequences apply to Debtor from the hijacking, including under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(2) or 362(b)(21)(A). Note: None of the foregoing will shield Debtor if it turns out that Debtor was not, in fact, innocent of any involvement in the apparent hijacking or other abusive scheme.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Chapter 13

#5.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order
Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic
Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 15

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions. Appearances are not required.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

(3) Very limited ruling. This Court's tentative ruling to grant the foregoing relief is solely for purposes of this motion, and is not intended to have any binding effect with respect to any future assertions by any party in interest regarding the existence or lack of existence of good faith in any other context.

- #1.00 Status conference re: Complaint for determination of dischargeability and objecting to debtor's discharge pursuant to sections 523 and 727 of the Bankruptcy Code

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

(A) Current issues

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv. dkt. 7) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(1) Overlap with Talasazan v. Oxygen Funding, Inc., et. al [2:20-ap-01027-NB] (the "Lien Avoidance Action")

The parties highlight that some of the claims at issue in this proceeding arise out the name nucleus of facts at issue in the currently stayed Lien Avoidance Action and would consent to this matter being stayed to track that proceeding. Dkt. 7, p.4, para. "(G)". But, as noted in this Court's tentative ruling for the Lien Avoidance Action (see Calendar No. 2, 5/11/21 at 11:00 a.m.), that proceeding may become moot if this Court approves the Trustee's pending sale motion (dkt. 588, Calendar No. 3, 5/11/21 at 11:00 a.m.). Therefore the tentative ruling is not to stay this matter and instead to proceed with setting appropriate discovery deadlines (see Section (B)(3) below).

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 5/25/21 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order. Both parties state in the status report (adv. dkt. 7) that they favor mediation.

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 3/8/21. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Appearances required.

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (dkt. 37) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

Current issues

(a) Apparent waste of resources and/or unwillingness to prosecute

This Court continues to have serious concerns why it makes any sense for Debtor to dispute the alleged security interest of Oxygen Funding, Inc. when (i) Debtor continues to assert that all creditors will be paid 100% of their allowed claims regardless whether those claims are or are not secured by any collateral, (ii) the Bankruptcy Code includes many tools to assure that disputed security interests do not block attempted refinancings, sales, or other uses of estate property (see, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 363(f), 1129(b)(1)), and (iii) the expense of this litigation to the bankruptcy estate appears very likely to exceed any possible future benefits (but cf. dkt.282 re unauthorized funding of Debtor's counsel by non-debtor husband). At prior hearings this Court was persuaded not to take any action on the foregoing concerns, pending mediation, but the parties report (adv.dkt.37) that mediation was unsuccessful.

Conversely, assuming for the sake of discussion that for some reason would make any sense to pursue this litigation, Debtor/Plaintiff appears to be unwilling to prosecute it unless and until she can obtain a different forum. She states, in the parties' joint status report (adv.dkt.37, p.4, para.G) that she will seek dismissal of this bankruptcy case and then pursue this litigation in State Court.

The parties are directed to address whether this Court should (i) stay this litigation indefinitely, pending the results of attempts by Debtor and the Subchapter V Trustee to sell or refinance the "Laurel" property, or confirm a chapter 11 plan, or implement other means of restructuring Debtor's finances, (ii) dismiss this adversary proceeding for lack of prosecution if Debtor/Plaintiff does not prosecute it pursuant to the deadlines tentatively set forth below, or (iii) establish some other deadlines or procedures regarding this matter.

(A) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

Matters of venue, jurisdiction, and authority have been determined and/or waived or forfeited (docket numbers 26, 37)

(2) Mediation [Intentionally omitted]

Tentative Ruling for 5/11/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Chapter 7 Trustee's Motion to sell Laurel Property (dkt. 588, 589, 590), Celtic Bank's response (dkt. 594), Oxygen Funding's response (dkt. 595), East West Bank's response (dkt. 598), Tremblay subordination stipulation and order (dkt. 599, 600), Stipulation and order approving debtor's waiver of homestead exemption (dkt. 603, 605), Trustee's omnibus reply (dkt. 606), supplemental papers (dkt. 611-613), and stipulation with Celtic Bank (dkt. 617)

The tentative ruling is to grant the sale motion and authorize a sale free and clear (11 U.S.C. 363(b) & (f)(2), (3) & (5)), subject to overbids, with the "carve outs" agreed to by Tremblay and Celtic Bank.

In addition, the tentative ruling is to grant the request for a "good faith" finding (11 U.S.C. 363(m)) if Omninet Laurel LLC is the successful bidder and, alternatively, subject to the successful bidder or backup bidder filing declaration(s) providing sufficient evidence of good faith (see the Posted Procedures of Judge Bason, available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) within 7 days after the hearing.

The tentative ruling is also to grant the request to waive the 14-days stay provided by Rule 6004(h) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

Proposed order: The Trustee is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(b) Subchapter V Trustee's Motion for turnover of 35th Street Properties, accounting re Jefferson property, etc. (dkt. 543, 544), Debtor's response (dkt. 562), Oxygen's joinder (dkt. 568), Subchapter V Trustee's reply (dkt. 569, 570), Order granting motion (dkt. 578)

The parties are directed to update this Court on the status of this motion and address whether any additional relief is appropriate at this time.

(c) Tremblay's motion for relief from stay (dkt. 504), Order denying in substantial part and granting limited relief (dkt. 559), Tremblay's status report (dkt. 583)

If this Court is persuaded to grant the Trustee's sale motion, the tentative ruling is to deny further relief on this motion as moot.

(d) Talasazan v. Oxygen Funding, Inc. ("Oxygen"), et al (2:20-ap-01027-NB) (challenges to Oxygen's asserted liens)

On 9/15/20, this Court ordered this matter stayed and has continued the hearing several times to allow time for the Chapter 7 trustee to evaluate the merits of the claims and determine how to proceed. But if this Court is persuaded to grant the Trustee's sale motion and the sale proceeds are not sufficient to provide a payout to Oxygen, then the tentative ruling is to dismiss this adversary proceeding as moot, because it will make no difference whether Debtor or Oxygen is correct about the validity of Oxygen's asserted liens.

Alternatively, if this Court is not persuaded to grant the sale motion, or the sale proceeds are sufficient to provide anything beyond a nominal payout to Oxygen (i.e., anything that would be worth litigating), then the tentative ruling is to continue this matter concurrent with the continued status conference (see Section (2)(a) below).

(e) Oxygen Funding, Inc. v. Talasazan (2:21-ap-01041-NB) (nondischargeability of debts, or denial of discharge)

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/11/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 5/11/21.

(A) Current issues

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv. dkt. 25) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(1) Motion for default judgment against Los Angeles Farmers, Inc.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 6/29/21 for Plaintiff to file a motion for default judgment against Los Angeles Farmers, Inc., with a hearing concurrent with the continued status conference. The Vayntrub Defendants do not need to appear at the continued status conference and this Court anticipates thereafter setting a further continued status conference for 9/28/21 at 11:00 a.m.

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

Matters of venue, jurisdiction, and authority have been determined and/or waived or forfeited (see adv. dkt. 10 & 25, and at the hearing on 1/26/21).

(2) Mediation [Intentionally omitted].

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/11/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 5/11/21.

(A) Current issues

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv.dkt. 30) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(1) This Court will issue an amended scheduling order

The parties have requested that this Bankruptcy Court issue an order "with the same dates and deadlines as those set forth in" District Judge Blumenfeld's scheduling order (adv.dkt.30, Ex.A). But, in view of Judge Blumenfeld's withdrawal of the reference in full, it appears that this Bankruptcy Court lacks jurisdiction or authority to do anything more than continue this status conference and stand ready to address any issues that Judge Blumenfeld might refer individually to this Bankruptcy Court. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to issue an order vacating this Bankruptcy Court's prior scheduling orders, and setting a continued status conference as set forth below. This Bankruptcy Court intends to prepare and issue such an order after the date of this status conference.

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

Tentative Ruling for 5/11/21:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's disclosure statement (dkt. 228) and plan of reorganization (dkt. 227), Tarzana Crossing's objection (dkt. 234), Plan support statement of Criscione-Meyer Entitlement and Dos Cabezas (dkt. 236), Debtor's reply (dkt. 237), Redlined plan and disclosure statement (dkt. 239), Order conditionally approving disclosure statement and setting plan confirmation hearing and related deadlines (dkt. 241, "DS/Plan Scheduling Order"), Amended plan (dkt. 243), Amended disclosure statement (dkt. 244), proof of service of voting package (dkt. 249)

The tentative ruling is to continue this matter concurrent with the continued status conference (see Section (2)(d) below), pursuant to this Court's DS/Plan Scheduling Order. If any party wishes to address any discovery dispute(s) they are directed to follow the Posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov).

(b) Fairview's motion for relief from stay (dkt. 231), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 238), Fairview's reply (dkt. 242), Order setting forth Court's tentative ruling (dkt. 241, "4/29/21 Order"), Debtor's supplemental declaration in support of opposition papers (dkt. 253)

As set forth in this Court's 4/29/21 Order, the tentative ruling is that Fairview must be granted some form of relief, and that the appropriate relief at this stage is to order adequate protection, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 361, 362(d), and 363(e), to require Debtor to proceed very quickly to attempt to obtain confirmation of its Plan.

Tentative Ruling for 4/2721:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's disclosure statement (dkt. 228) and plan of reorganization (dkt. 227), Tarzana Crossing's objection (dkt. 234)

There is no tentative ruling. Appearances required.

(b) Motion of Doz Cabezas Properties, LLC ("Dos Cabezas") to dismiss case (dkt. 145, 166, the "MTD"), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 168), Dos Cabezas's reply (173), Dos Cabezas's supplemental papers (dkt. 179, 182), Debtor's supplemental papers (dkt. 181, 183), Debtor's status report (dkt. 188), Doz Cabezas's supplemental papers (dkt. 193), Debtor's supplemental response (dkt. 197)

There is no tentative ruling. The outcome of this motion may depend in part on this Court's rulings on Debtor's Disclosure Statement and Plan.

(c) Debtor's applications to retain and compensate ordinary course professionals (dkt. 186, "Ordinary Course Application"), and employ BBG, Inc., as its appraiser (dkt. 187, "Appraisal Application") (together, the "Applications"), Omnibus opposition of Dos Cabezas (dkt. 194), Debtor's reply (dkt. 198)

The parties should be prepared to address the following issues:

Chapter 11

(i) Service

Debtor's proofs of service filed in support of the Applications (dkt. 186, at pdf p.112-114 and dkt. 187, at pdf pp.23-25, 29-31, 36-38) do not state whether the Applications were served on the twenty largest unsecured creditors as required by LBR 2014-1(a)(2). Debtor should be prepared to address whether those creditors have been served.

(ii) Court approval is required before a "professional" can be employed or paid (11 U.S.C. 327(a))

Section 327(a) states: "Except as otherwise provided in this section, the trustee, with the court's approval, may employ one or more attorneys, accountants, appraisers, auctioneers, or other professional persons, that do not hold or represent an interest adverse to the estate, and that are disinterested persons, to represent or assist the trustee in carrying out the trustee's duties under this title." 11 U.S.C. 327(a).

Under section 327(a) and Rule 2014 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.), chapter 11 debtors are required to obtain court approval before a "professional person" may be employed and paid by the estate. Whether a particular party is a professional person depends upon the nature of services to be performed; the more central the services are to the administration of the estate, the more likely those services will be determined to be professional in nature. In re That's Entm't Mktg. Grp., Inc., 168 B.R. 226, 230 (N.D. Cal. 1994).

(iii) BBG Inc ("BBG")

The tentative ruling is that BBG is a "professional" whose employment must be approved by this Court for the following reasons. First, section 327(a) specifically names "appraisers" as the type of professional that is typically required to be employed by the Court and Debtor does not appear to dispute that characterization. See dkt. 187.

Second, Debtor represents that it intends to sell its real properties, which Debtor concedes "are the primary (if not the only) source of recovery for creditors" and needs an appraiser to gauge the potential value of the properties against any potential offers received. Dkt. 187, pdf pp.2:27-3:8; see also Ex.2, pdf p.13 (describing the intended use of BBG's appraisal as being for "internal purposes related to Chapter 11 restructuring"). The tentative ruling is that such services are central to the administration of

Debtor's estate and BBG's employment must be authorized by this Court under 327(a).

(iv) Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company - generally

In support of its contention that Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company are "ordinary course professionals," Debtor cites a string of cases articulating tests of varying degrees for determining whether a particular party is a "professional person" requiring employment under 327(a). Dkt. 186, p.10:3-24 (citing Matter of D'lites, 108 B.R. 352, 355 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. 1989) ("professional persons" under section 327(a) does not include parties "who provide services that are necessary whether the petition was filed or not"); In re Fretheim, 102 B.R. 298, 299 (Bankr. D. Conn. 1989) (employee's function must be related to the administration of the estate and employee must be given discretion and autonomy in some part of administration of the estate to qualify as professional); In re Johns-Manville Corp., 60 B.R. 612, 621 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 1986) (professional must play a part in negotiating a plan, adjusting the debtor/creditor relationship, dispose of or acquire assets, or perform any duties required of a debtor by the Bankruptcy Code); In re Napoleon, 233 B.R. 910, 913 (Bankr. D. N.J. 1999) (party must play an integral role in the administration of the bankruptcy case or assist the trustee with important activities, such as obtaining post-petition financing, negotiating creditor claims or formulating plan of reorganization); In re Riker Industries, Inc., 122 B.R. 964, 973 (Bankr. N.D. Ohio 1990) (concluding that whether a person is a professional turns on the degree of autonomy within which the person will operate and the degree of supervision or direction required by the trustee); In re Sieling Associates Ltd. Partnership, 128 B.R. 721, 723 (Bankr. E.D. Va. 1991) (services that have only a tangential relationship to the administration of the estate are not professional in nature).

Debtor argues that Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company are not "professionals" requiring formal retention under section 327(a) because the services they provide are not specific to the chapter 11 case or debtor's restructuring efforts. Dkt. 186, p.6:9-10. Rather, Debtor states that both companies have been employed by it for ten or more years (dkt. 186, p.6:14-19), that Hammonds & Frey "provides accounting services, including bookkeeping services, tax services and preparation of financial documents" (id., p.6:10-12), and Hunter & Company provides management/administrative services, including financial management, keeping Debtor's members apprised of the business operations, assisting in preparing monthly operating reports and other administrative services (id, p.6:14-19).

(v) Hammonds & Frey

The tentative ruling is that Hammonds & Frey is likely a "professional" whose employment must be approved by this Court. First, section 327(a) specifically names "accountants" as the type of professional that is typically required to be employed by the Court. 11 U.S.C. 327(a). Although Debtor argues that Hammonds & Frey is not providing services specific to the Debtor's bankruptcy case, that is undercut by the parties' own agreement, which contemplates Hammonds & Frey assisting Debtor with the preparation of Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs") and other important financial disclosures required by the Bankruptcy Code. See Dkt. 186, pdf p.29 ("[y]ou have requested that we prepare the financial statements of 110 West Properties, LLC, which comprise interim monthly balance sheet as of April 30, 2020 and interim months following, and the related profit and loss statements in the form prescribed by the Office of the United States Trustee Regional Headquarters.") Dkt. 186, pdf p.29.

Second, Debtor's monthly operating reports demonstrate that Debtor is not an operating business with routine functions requiring common accounting services (see, e.g., dkt. 195, 196), and Debtor's papers do not make clear what "ordinary course" services Hammonds & Frey might have provided post-petition to account for its $18,497 bill. Dkt. 186, p.7:3-4. On this record, this Court is inclined to conclude that Hammonds & Frey's services are central to the Debtor's administration.

(vi) Hunter & Company

The tentative ruling is that Hunter & Company likely is a "professional" whose employment must be approved by this Court, but Debtor has not provided sufficient evidence of what services Hunter & Company provides.

Debtor argues that Hunter & Company is not providing services specific to Debtor's bankruptcy case, but that assertion is undercut by Debtor's own representation that Hunter & Company is "assisting in preparing monthly operating reports, and other administrative services," (dkt. 186, p.6:18-19) and the fact that Debtor is not an operating business. This also raises concerns about whether there has been a duplication of services with Hammonds & Frey. Additionally, even when Debtor was able to operate a parking facility before COVID-19 closures, Hunter & Company's "Services Agreement" makes clear that it provides services "unrelated to the direct management of the parking facilities." Dkt. 186, pdf p.96. Debtor's papers do not make clear what "ordinary course" services Hunter & Company might have provided post-petition to account for its $40,392.44 bill. Dkt. 186, p.7:6-9. On this record, this Court is inclined to conclude that Hunter & Company's services are central to the Debtor's administration.

The parties should be prepared to address whether this Court should require Debtor to submit supplemental declaration(s) establishing what post-petition services Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company have provided.

(vii) Professionals must be "disinterested"

Under 11 USC 327(a), professionals may not hold or represent any interests adverse to the estate and must be disinterested persons. Section 101(14)(A) defines a "disinterested person" as one who, among other things, "is not a creditor . . ." of the estate.

Rule 2014 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.), Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 2014-1(b)(1)(B) and Judge Bason's Posted Procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) require professionals to establish their disinterestedness and disclose the nature of any actual or potential conflicts of interest by filing local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF (statement of disinterestedness).

"Full disclosure is an essential prerequisite for both employment and compensation." In re Triple Star Welding, Inc., 324 B.R. 778, 788-89 (9th Cir. BAP 2005). The disclosure requirements of Rule 2014 are to be strictly applied and bankruptcy courts do not have discretion to waive the requirement of a Rule 2014 statement. Id. at 779-90. "Pursuant to section 327, a professional has a duty to make full, candid and complete disclosure of all facts concerning his transactions with the debtor. Professionals must disclose all connections with the debtor, creditors and parties in interest, no matter how irrelevant or trivial those connections may seem." In re Mehdipour, 202 B.R. 474, 480 (9th Cir. BAP 1996) (internal citations omitted).

In support of the Appraisal Application, BBG submitted a statement of disinterestedness (dkt. 187, pdf pp.32-34). Although Dos Cabezas' raises certain objections regarding BBG's disclosures (dkt. 194, p.5:15-25), it has not cited any authority establishing that BBG should be disqualified simply because it has provided appraisals for Debtor's affiliates in the past. The tentative ruling is that BBG is disinterested and does not hold any interests adverse to the estate.

(x) Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company

Neither the Ordinary Course Application nor Debtor's reply papers include verified statements of disinterestedness from Hammonds & Frey or Hunter & Company affirming that they do not hold any interests adverse to the estate and are disinterested, so on that ground alone their employment cannot be approved.

Additionally and alternatively, neither Hammonds & Frey nor Hunter & Company are disinterested, because they both hold claims against Debtor's estate. See Claims 3 & 5; 11 U.S.C. 101(14)(A) ("[t]he term 'disinterested person' means a person that – (A) is not a creditor ...").

Additionally and alternatively, although Debtor correctly points out that Dos Cabezas' arguments are premised on a certain amount of speculation about possible conflicts of interests, Debtor does not squarely address the full extent and nature of those relationships or explain why it included a statement of disinterestedness in support of the Appraiser Application, but not for Hammonds & Frey or Hunter & Company. This is all the more troubling because there appears to be a lot of interlocking relationships between Debtor's management and owners of adjacent properties and insiders. See, e.g., Dkt. 186, pdf pp.102-07 (agreement between Ian Hunter, Shamrock Parking, Inc., Debtor, and other entities).

The parties should be prepared to address whether Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company are prepared to waive their claims and whether Debtor should be provided an opportunity to file supplemental declarations addressing these issues.

(xi) "Nunc pro tunc," retroactive relief, or employment as of a prior date

Debtor seeks what is characterizes as nunc pro tunc approval of BBG's, Hammond & Frey's and Hunter & Company's employment and compensation. First, there is actually a difference between nunc pro tunc orders, or "now for then" orders, which are supposed to be reserved for ministerial matters and correction of a court's own errors, and "retroactive" relief, which may be authorized by statute or other authority.

United States Bankruptcy Court

Moreover, there may be a difference between making employment "retroactive" and authorizing employment as of an earlier date. From the instant the bankruptcy petition is filed a professional's compensation is contingent on subsequent authorization for the professional's employment, but that contingency does not mean that the authorization itself has to be retroactive.

In any event, regardless of the semantic differences, the issue is whether the professionals whose employment is at issue can qualify for compensation for work that they performed before they sought this Bankruptcy Court's approval of their employment.

(xii) Supreme Court authority; and the standards for relief

The ability to authorize any of the foregoing types of relief has been called into question by the Supreme Court's decision Roman Catholic Archdiocese of San Juan, Puerto Rico v. Acevedo Feliciano, 140 S.Ct 696 (2020). Courts have not been consistent in their application of Acevedo.

Some courts have interpreted it to prohibit essentially all retroactive relief, as noted by the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel of the Ninth Circuit (the "BAP"). In re Merriman, 616 B.R. 381, 391 (9th Cir. BAP 2020) (citing In re Telles, No. 8-20-70325-reg, 2020 WL 2121254 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. Apr. 30, 2020)). Another interpretation is that, although employment cannot be retroactive, compensation can be. See In re Miller, 620 B.R. 637, 638 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. 2020). More generally, the BAP has interpreted Acevedo as primarily focused on jurisdiction, not retroactive relief generally. See Merriman, 616 B.R. 381, 392-95.

The tentative ruling is to agree with Merriman. In appropriate circumstances professionals' employment can be approved as of a date prior when their application was filed, but they must satisfy the traditional standards for such relief. Professionals must "(1) satisfactorily explain their failure to receive prior judicial approval; and (2) demonstrate that their services benefitted the bankruptcy estate in a significant manner." In re Atkins, 69 F.3d 970, 974 (9th Cir. 1995); see also In re THC Fin. Corp., 837 F.2d 389 (9th Cir. 1988).

BBG's employment application was filed on 1/5/21. Debtor submits that employment and compensation are warranted for BBG because Debtor initially believed that BBG's services were obtained in Debtor's ordinary course of business and filed the Appraiser Application once it was brought to its attention that BBG likely did qualify as a professional under 327(a). Dkt. 187, p.7:18-22. Debtor also submits that BBG's services benefitted the estate in a significant manner because the appraisal has provided debtor with better evidence to gauge incoming offers for the sale of its properties and to better evaluate its options in the administration of the estate. Id. p.7:22-25.

The tentative ruling is to authorize BBG's employment under 11 U.S.C. 327(a) and 328, effective as of the date when its services first were rendered. The tentative ruling is also to retroactively authorize BBG's compensation to 7/7/20, so that it may retain the entirety of the $4,500 flat fee it received in compensation.

(xiv) Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not adequately briefed the foregoing issues with respect to Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company. Although Debtor cites Acevedo, Debtor simply concludes that granting its request for retroactive relief "does not seek to 'creat[e] 'facts'" or rewrite history" because Debtor believes that Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company do not require formal retention under section 327. Dkt. 186, p.11:23-27. The tentative ruling is that this is insufficient. The parties should be prepared to address a deadline for supplemental papers.

(xv) Proposed ordinary course professionals procedures

The tentative ruling is to grant Debtor's proposed procedures for disclosing any parties Debtor seeks to employ in the ordinary course of its business to allow other parties in interest an opportunity to object to such classification and request a hearing for this Court to determine whether an employment application under 11 USC 327 is appropriate.

(d) Tarzana Crossing v. 110 West Properties, LLC et al. (2:20-ap-01012-NB)

There is no tentative ruling. The outcome of this motion may depend in part on this Court's rulings regarding Debtor's Disclosure Statement and Plan.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's Sale/Settlement Motion (dkt. 212, amended by dkt. 217), opposition of Tarzana Crossing (dkt. 219), Debtor's reply (dkt. 224)

The tentative ruling is to deny the motion for the following reasons.

(i) Proposed sale of Properties

Debtor seeks approval of a sale of substantially all of its assets to Criscione-Meyer Entitlement ("Buyer") for $22,000,000 pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 363(b) & (f). The proposed purchase price is to be paid as follows. Debtor will receive an immediate cash payment of $10,000,000 and a promissory note due in full in 24 months at 3% annual percentage rate, a deed of trust securing the remaining $12,000,000, and a guaranty. Chapter 11

Under 11 U.S.C. 363(b), the Debtor may sell estate property out of the ordinary course of business, subject to court approval. The Debtor must articulate a sufficient business reason for the sale. In re Wilde Horse Enters., Inc., 136 B.R. 830, 841 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1991). In determining whether a sale satisfies the business judgment standard, courts must find that the sale "is in the best interests of the estate, i.e., that it is fair and reasonable, that it has been given adequate marketing, that it has been negotiated and proposed in good faith, that the purchaser is proceeding in good faith, and that it is an 'arms length' transaction." Id. at 841-42. Whether the articulated business justification is sufficient "depends on the case," in view of "all salient factors pertaining to the proceeding." In re Walter, 83 B.R. 14, 19-20 (9th Cir. BAP 1988). In proposing a sale outside of the ordinary course, Debtor has the burden of demonstrating that the sale is in the best interests of the estate. Wilde Horse, 136 B.R. at 841.

(B) Debtor has not carried its burden of demonstrating that the sale is in the best interests of the estate

(1) Sound business purpose/adequate disclosures

The "key to the reorganization Chapter ... is disclosure" Wilde Horse, 136 B.R. at 841 (emphasis in original). "The essential purpose served by disclosure is to ensure that parties in interest are not left entirely at the mercy of the debtor and others having special influence over debtor." Id. Accordingly, "[a] sale of substantially all of debtor's property outside the ordinary course of business, and without a Chapter 11 disclosure statement and plan, must be closely scrutinized." Id. (citation omitted); In re Lionel Corp., 722 F.2d 1063, 1069 (2d Cir. 1983) (reversing a approval of asset sale after holding that 11 U.S.C. 363 does not "gran[t] the bankruptcy judge carte blanche" or "swallo[w] up Chapter 11's safeguards"); In re Braniff Airways, Inc., 700 F.2d 935, 940 (5th Cir. 1983) (prohibiting an attempt "to short circuit the requirements of Chapter 11 for confirmation of a reorganization plan by establishing the terms of the plan sub rosa in connection with a sale of assets").

For the reasons stated in Tarzana Crossing's opposition papers (dkt. 219, p.7:2-19) and this Court's own review of the sale ballots (dkt. 224, Ex.A), this Court has concerns that Debtor may be intentionally or inadvertently circumventing important procedural safeguards by failing to provide its members with meaningful and comprehensive disclosures about the proposed sale and settlement with one of the prior defaulting buyers. This includes, but is not limited to, whether Debtor's members were adequately informed of their ability to vote "no" on the sale ballot, the potentially significant adverse tax consequences, and the identity and current financial wherewithal of the proposed Buyer.

Debtor also balks at Tarzana Crossing's assertion that Debtor was obligated to disclose potentially adverse tax consequences arising from the sale (dkt. 224, pp.3:19-4:3). But Debtor offers no explanation for why that should not have been disclosed prior to any voting. By electing to proceed under section 363(b), Debtor appears to be depriving creditors from receiving "adequate information" as required by 11 U.S.C. 1125(a)(1), which provides for disclosure of:

information of a kind, and in sufficient detail, as far as is reasonably practicable in light of the nature and history of the debtor and the condition of the debtor's books and records, including a discussion of the potential material Federal tax consequences of the plan to the debtor, any successor to the debtor, and a hypothetical investor of the relevant class to make an informed judgment about the plan [11 U.S.C. 1125(a)(1)]

For the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has not sufficiently articulated a sound business justification for electing to sell the Properties through section 363 in lieu of a plan.

(2) Fair and reasonable sale price

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not presented sufficient evidence for this Court to find that the $22,000,000 sale price is fair and reasonable. True, the sale price greatly exceeds any other offers Debtor has received, but this Court questions why Debtor would so willingly repackage a sale to one of the defaulting buyers, at a $13,000,000 discount, despite the parties' contentious past.

Debtor has not presented evidence establishing that the Properties were adequately marketed to justify a private sale to one of the prior defaulting buyers.

Debtor's alleged marketing efforts are broadly described as consisting of Colliers International (x) "distributing marketing materials to prospective potential purchasers of the Properties," (y) "engaging in multiple discussions with prospective potential purchasers," and (z) "initiating a call for offers to thousands of prospective potential investors, developers, real estate agents, buyers, etc.," on 11/16/20." Dkt. 217, p.6:22-27 & Dkt. 183. Debtor further states that in response to the call for offers, Colliers received three offers, ranging from $8,000,000 to $13,300,000, which have now all expired. Id. pp.6:28-7:2.

But this Court's 12/8/20 tentative ruling expressed concerns with the adequacy of the marketing efforts up to that point:

First, Debtor is directed to address why the flyer distributed by Collier included the banner "Bankruptcy Court Approved" (dkt.180, Ex.1, and dkt.183, Ex.1). This Court has not approved any sale (although this Court has approved the employment of Colliers to market of the subject property). In fact, there are open questions about whether Debtor even has the ability to sell the subject property without Dos Cabezas' consent.

Second, Debtor is directed to address how it proposes to disclose to prospective purchasers of the properties the fact that Debtor is seeking to sell the subject property before the State Court has determined the underlying disputes with Dos Cabezas. True, as noted in the tentative ruling for 10/27/20, it is possible that Debtor can distinguish In re Popp, 323 B.R. 260, 268 (9th Cir. BAP 2005), and In re Owens-Johnson, 118 B.R. 780 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1990). But the tentative ruling is that Debtor has to disclose to prospective purchasers that (as this Court understands the issues) Dos Cabezas is asserting that (i) Debtor does not own the subject property, and therefore cannot sell it, and alternatively (ii) a sale under 11 U.S.C. 363(b) and (f) should not, or cannot, be used to defeat a claim for specific performance.

In other words, Debtor is directed to address (in consultation with Colliers) how it will disclose to prospective purchasers the potential obstacles to selling the property, without either misleading purchasers or unduly chilling any potential bidding. Of course, this Court recognizes that in chapter 11 there is a certain degree of deference to the business judgment of Debtor, in consultation with Colliers, regarding how best to market the subject property and when and how to provide disclosures. This Court also recognizes that Dos Cabezas might decide that it is in its own interest to consent to the sale (while preserving whatever interests or claims it might have regarding the proceeds of sale), so as to (i) maximize the value of the bankruptcy estate's asserts, (ii) stop the running of interest - especially any default interest - owed to the senior lienholder, and thereby (iii) maximize the funds from which its claim and/or equity interests could receive distributions.

But Debtor's flyer ("Bankruptcy Court Approved," dkt.183, Ex.1, at PDF p.9), combined with Debtor's apparently cavalier attitude toward employment and compensation of professionals (see below), raise concerns about whether Debtor and Colliers are not exercising their business judgment appropriately. Debtor is cautioned that failure to exercise proper business judgment, and act as a trustee for the benefit of creditors, might lead to adverse consequences. [See Tentative Ruling for Calendar No. 21, 12/8/20 at 1:00 p.m.]

At the hearing on 12/8/20, this Court orally directed Debtor to file supplemental declaration(s) addressing the foregoing issues. On 1/5/21, Debtor timely filed a status report, but the only additional information Debtor provided in connection with its marketing efforts was that "[t]he proposed buyers who submitted offers for the Properties were advised of the State Court litigation and lis pendens affecting the Properties." Dkt. 188, p.5:24-25. Debtor's status report only raises further questions. Did Collier conduct any further marketing efforts following its November 2020 call for offers? What disclosures were provided to the three interested buyers and/or any other interested buyers? Could such disclosures have had the opposite affect of what this Court was concerned might happen, and instead chilled bidding? If Debtor's $22,000,000 appraisal is accurate, why were the offers Debtor received (prior to disclosing its existing litigation) so low?

For the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has not carried its burden as to this factor.

(ii) Proposed settlement with mutual releases

In conjunction with the proposed sale Debtor also seeks approval of a global settlement with mutual releases between Debtor, the proposed Buyer, Dos Cabezas, Michael Criscione and Michael Meyer that would resolve outstanding litigation. Dkt. 217, pp.18:16-22:3. The tentative ruling is that without further disclosures, this Court is skeptical about the propriety of the proposed settlement. The Debtor's papers do not make clear what consideration Dos Cabezas, Michael Criscione and Michael Meyer are receiving in exchange for the consideration being provided to the estate and execution of the mutual releases. Nor is it clear whether the mutual releases attempt to circumvent 11 U.S.C. 524(e)'s prohibition against third-party releases by dismissing any claims against non-settling third-parties, such as RU, LLC, who is also a defendant in the Derivative Action. See Adv. No. 2:20-ap-01012-NB, dkt. 1.

(b) Motion of Doz Cabezas Properties, LLC ("Dos Cabezas") to dismiss case (dkt. 145, 166, the "MTD"), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 168), Dos Cabezas's reply (173), Dos Cabezas's supplemental papers (dkt. 179, 182), Debtor's supplemental papers (dkt. 181, 183), Debtor's status report (dkt. 188), Doz Cabezas's supplemental papers (dkt. 193), Debtor's supplemental response (dkt. 197)

There is no tentative ruling. The outcome of this motion may depend in part on whether this Court adopts its Tentative Ruling for the Sale/Settlement Motion.

(c) Debtor's applications to retain and compensate ordinary course professionals (dkt. 186, "Ordinary Course Application"), and employ BBG, Inc., as its appraiser (dkt. 187, "Appraisal Application") (together, the "Applications"), Omnibus opposition of Dos Cabezas (dkt. 194), Debtor's reply (dkt. 198)

The tentative ruling is to continue this matter concurrent with the continued status conference (see Section 2(d) below).

(d) Tarzana Crossing v. 110 West Properties, LLC et al. (2:20-ap-01012-NB)

Tentative Ruling for 12/8/20:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of Doz Cabezas Properties, LLC ("Dos Cabezas") to dismiss case (dkt. 145, 166), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 168), Dos Cabezas's reply (173), Dos Cabezas's supplemental papers (dkt. 179, 182), Debtor's supplemental papers (dkt. 181, 183)

The tentative ruling is not to strike the latest, unauthorized briefs. In any event, with or without considering them, the tentative ruling is to deny the motion to dismiss this case, without prejudice, for the reasons stated in this Court's tentative ruling for 10/27/20 (copied below), with the following caveats.

First, Debtor is directed to address why the flyer distributed by Collier included the banner "Bankruptcy Court Approved" (dkt.180, Ex.1, and dkt.183, Ex.1). This Court has not approved any sale (although this Court has approved the employment of Colliers to market of the subject property). In fact, there are open questions about whether Debtor even has the ability to sell the subject property without Dos Cabezas' consent.

Second, Debtor is directed to address how it proposes to disclose to prospective purchasers of the properties the fact that Debtor is seeking to sell the subject property before the State Court has determined the underlying disputes with Dos Cabezas. True, as noted in the tentative ruling for 10/27/20, it is possible that Debtor can distinguish In re Popp, 323 B.R. 260, 268 (9th Cir. BAP 2005), and In re Owens-Johnson, 118 B.R. 780 (Bankr. But the tentative ruling is that Debtor has to disclose to prospective purchasers that (as this Court understands the issues) Dos Cabezas is asserting that (i) Debtor does not own the subject property, and therefore cannot sell it, and alternatively (ii) a sale under 11 U.S.C. 363(b) and (f) should not, or cannot, be used to defeat a claim for specific performance.

In other words, Debtor is directed to address (in consultation with Colliers) how it will disclose to prospective purchasers the potential obstacles to selling the property, without either misleading purchasers or unduly chilling any potential bidding. Of course, this Court recognizes that in chapter 11 there is a certain degree of deference to the business judgment of Debtor, in consultation with Colliers, regarding how best to market the subject property and when and how to provide disclosures. This Court also recognizes that Dos Cabezas might decide that it is in its own interest to consent to the sale (while preserving whatever interests or claims it might have regarding the proceeds of sale), so as to (i) maximize the value of the bankruptcy estate's assets, (ii) stop the running of interest - especially any default interest - owed to the senior lienholder, and thereby (iii) maximize the funds from which its claim and/or equity interests could receive distributions.

But Debtor's flyer ("Bankruptcy Court Approved," dkt.183, Ex.1, at PDF p.9), combined with Debtor's apparently cavalier attitude toward employment and compensation of professionals (see below), raise concerns about whether Debtor and Colliers are not exercising their business judgment appropriately. Debtor is cautioned that failure to exercise proper business judgment, and act as a trustee for the benefit of creditors, might lead to adverse consequences.

(b) Apparently unauthorized retention and payment of professionals

Debtor is directed to address the apparently unauthorized employment and payment of persons who appear to be professionals: Hammonds & Frey (accounting/tax services), Hunter & Co. (management), and BBG, Inc.

(appraisal). See dkt.179, p.4:3-23. Debtor alleges (dkt.181, pp.4:23-5:27) that none of these services are "central to the administration of the estate," and instead are "ordinary course" payments that purportedly do not require Court authorization. But, first, there is no evidence to support those allegations and, second, Debtor's explanation raises its own concerns - for example, it is potentially troubling if Debtor is relying on someone to do accounting and tax services who is not addressing the bankruptcy-specific aspects of accounting and tax issues (i.e., if they do not qualify as professionals, that in itself might be problematic).

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 1/5/21 for Debtor and/or those persons to file and serve on all parties in interest either (i) applications for employment, including any authority for retroactive authorization, or (ii) briefs and evidence as to why such persons are not professionals and/or why the payments to them are "ordinary course" and/or whatever other arguments they assert as to why notice, a hearing, and this Court's prior authorization for employment and payment allegedly were not required. The tentative ruling is to set deadlines of 1/12/21 for any responses, and 1/19/21 for any replies.

rulings). Unless otherwise stated, appearances via CourtCall are no longer permitted.

Tentative Ruling for 10/27/20:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Doz Cabezas Properties, LLC's ("Dos Cabezas") motion to dismiss case (dkt. 145, 166), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 168), Dos Cabezas's reply (173)

The tentative ruling is to deny the motion without prejudice on the grounds that this Court is not persuaded that, on the present record, sufficient "cause" exists under 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4) to convert or dismiss this case.

First, litigation takes time and Dos Cabezas has not presented sufficient evidence to persuade this Court that Debtor is not diligently prosecuting this bankruptcy case and the State Court action. To the contrary, Debtor's prosecution of this case appears to be reasonable in light of the uncertainty and challenges presented by COVID-19, the resulting backlog in state courts, and the great deal of latitude afforded to debtors exercising their business judgment about matters of case administration.

Second, Dos Cabezas' reliance on In re Popp, 323 B.R. 260, 268 (9th Cir. BAP 2005), and In re Owens-Johnson, 118 B.R. 780 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1990), is not dispositive. True, it is likely that Debtor's anticipated motion to sell the subject property will be subject to objections based on arguments that (i) Debtor cannot sell what it does not own and (ii) a sale under 11 U.S.C. 363(b) and (f) should not, or cannot, be used to defeat a claim for specific performance. But (x) this Court cannot presume, in advance, that those anticipated objections will prevail, (y) even if a sale were blocked, Debtor has other options (e.g., proposing a plan of reorganization, or waiting until a determination in the State Court litigation that Debtor has an ownership interest in the subject property, and therefore can sell it), and (z) even if all of those things were to turn out in future not to be viable options, it is premature to dismiss this case based on that future possibility.

(b) Dos Cabezas Properties, LLC, Criscione-Meyer Entitlement, Michael Criscione and Michael Meyer's ("Movants") omnibus objection to proofs of claim (dkt. 121, "Claim Objections") 4-1/4-2, 6-1, 7-1, 8-1, 9-1, 10-1, filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion for remand (adv. dkt. 7, "Remand Motion") and supporting declaration (adv. dkt. 8), Plaintiff's opposition (adv. dkt. 10), Movants' reply (adv. dkt. 12)

Defendants Dos Cabezas Properties, LLC, Criscione-Meyer Entitlement, LLC, and Michael Criscione (collectively, the "Movants") seek an order remanding this proceeding and for an award of attorneys fees and costs imposed against plaintiff Tarzana Crossing, a Merchant Faire, LLC ("Plaintiff").

For the reasons set forth below, the tentative ruling is to grant the request to remand this removed action, but perhaps defer the remand until after mediation, and deny the request for attorney fees.

(i) Jurisdiction

The parties dispute whether this Court has subject matter jurisdiction to hear this proceeding. The tentative ruling is that this Court has "related to" jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. 157(c)(1), because the parties' dispute arises from an alleged breach of contract for the sale of the estate's principal asset.

(ii) Mandatory abstention

The tentative ruling is that mandatory abstention applies as follows. Mandatory abstention under 28 U.S.C. 1334(c)(2) requires seven elements: (1) a timely motion; (2) a purely state law question; (3) a non-core proceeding under 28 U.S.C. 157(c)(1); (4) a lack of independent federal jurisdiction absent the petition under Title 11; (5) that an action is commenced in a state court; (6) the state court action may be timely adjudicated; (7) a state forum of appropriate jurisdiction exists. [In re Gen. Carriers Corp., 258 B.R. 181, 189 (9th Cir. BAP 2001) (internal quotation omitted).]

These elements are satisfied: (1) the motion was timely - the proceeding was removed on 1/22/20 and Movants filed the remand motion just 30 days later, on 2/21/20; (2) the complaint involves purely nonbankruptcy law questions (breach of fiduciary duty etc., adv. dkt. 7, p. 2:17-21) (Movants state that they amended their complaint on 8/30/19, but there is nothing in the record reflecting what was amended (id., p. 2:21), so this Court bases its ruling on the record presented); (3) the proceeding is noncore - the authorities cited by the removing party (dkt.10, pp.14:24-15:14) are distinguishable because they all involved alleged violations of fiduciary duties within the bankruptcy case itself, not prepetition and nonbankruptcy alleged violations; (4) no independent federal jurisdiction has been asserted; (5) the action was commenced prepetition, on 12/14/18, in Los Angeles Superior Court; (6) there is no evidence that the proceeding cannot be timely adjudicated in the State Court; and (7) neither party has contested in this Court the State Court's jurisdiction over the proceeding.

(iii) Discretionary abstention

Alternatively, and in addition, the tentative ruling is that discretionary abstention is appropriate.

Discretionary abstention under 28 U.S.C. 1334(c)(1) requires consideration of the following twelve factors:

- (1) the effect of lack thereof on the efficient administration of the estate if a Court recommends abstention, (2) the extent to which state law issues predominate over bankruptcy issues, (3) the difficulty or unsettled nature of the applicable law, (4) the presence of a related proceeding commenced in state court or other nonbankruptcy court, (5) the jurisdictional basis, if any, other than 28 U.S.C. 1334, (6) the degree of relatedness or remoteness of the proceeding to the main bankruptcy case, (7) the substance rather than form of an asserted "core" proceeding, (8) the feasibility of severing state law claims from core bankruptcy matters to allow judgments to be entered in state court with enforcement left to the bankruptcy court, (9) the burden of the bankruptcy court's docket, (10) the likelihood that the commencement of the proceeding in bankruptcy court involves forum shopping by one of the parties, (11) the existence of a right to a jury trial, and (12) the presence in the proceeding of nondebtor parties.

Several of the Tucson factors weigh in favor of abstention. First, the Complaint involves purely state-law issues. Second, this Court would not have jurisdiction over the Complaint but for the Debtor's bankruptcy petition, because the claims arise under state law and there is no diversity between the parties. Third, the Complaint involves several non-debtor parties who have asserted a right to a jury trial. Fourth, permitting the Complaint to proceed in state court will contribute to the efficient administration of the bankruptcy case because the State Court is the best tribunal to adjudicate the parties' state law claims. Fifth, although the Complaint is related to the main bankruptcy case because it involves claims relating to the primary asset of the estate, deferring to the State Court to adjudicate the parties' claims will not unduly interfere with this Bankruptcy Court's determination of other matters in the bankruptcy case.

(iv) Movants' request for attorneys' fees is denied

The tentative ruling is to deny Movant's request for attorneys' fees because this Court is not persuaded that Plaintiff lacked an objectively reasonable basis for seeking removal of this action because the dispute is related to the primary asset of Debtor's bankruptcy estate.

Proposed order: Movants are directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1) (B).

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(2) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. fr. 3/23/21, 4/27/21

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/11/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's amended budget motion (dkt. 59), Order Modifying Hearing Date (dkt. 61), Debtor's proof of service (dkt. 64)

The tentative ruling is to grant the amended budget motion, subject to any opposition at the hearing.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(b) Electronic case filing notice ("ECF Notice")

Debtor's Counsel states that she did not receive notice of this Court's Order Modifying Hearing Date (dkt. 61) until 5/2/21 (3 days after the order was entered and 2 days after the deadline to serve the order on creditors). Dkt. 64, p.1. But the BNC Certificate of Notice reflects service on Ms. Sabaratnam on 4/29/21 via ECF Notice to her registered email address: pke115mfs@yahoo.com. Dkt. 63, p.1.

This Court also notes that Debtor's Counsel has had similar issues receiving notice of pleadings and orders filed on the docket in the past (see, e.g., Declaration of Counsel Mufthiha Sabaratnam, dkt. 48, p.1, "I was aware that the court would submit an order regarding the Bar Date and I was checking the emails from the Court email to make sure that I received it. When I did not receive the court order ... I checked the docket today and found that the court order was filed as docket #39").

Debtor's Counsel is directed to immediately take all necessary steps to address this issue to ensure timely receipt of ECF Notices in future. For example, she should review her e-mail settings to confirm that ECF Notices

Debtor's counsel is cautioned that the continued failure to timely file and/or serve pleadings by this Court's deadlines in future may result in the imposition of sanctions or other remedies.

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement filing deadline(s)

Debtor's initial case status report (dkt. 32) did not address what deadline(s) this Court should set for her to file a plan and disclosure statement. Debtor should be prepared to address whether there is any reason this Court should not set a filing deadline(s) at this time.

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 3/2/21.

(a) Bar date: 6/16/21 (dkt. 39) (not timely served, dkt. 46)

(b) Procedures order: dkt.18 (timely served, dkt.25)

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement: See above.

Chapter 11

#15.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case
fr. 3/31/21, 4/27/21

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/11/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's Notice of Setting/Increasing Insider Compensation (dkt. 57), Objection of Pravati Credit Fund III LP ("Pravati") (dkt. 81)

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address the issues raised in Pravati's objection.

(b) Debtor's Emergency Motion for Order Authorizing Interim Use of Cash Collateral (dkt. 6), Debtor's Supplemental Declaration (dkt. 31), Opposition by Pravati Credit Fund III LP ("Pravati") (dkt. 46), Debtor's Reply (dkt. 58), Debtor's Motion for Order Approving Budget for Use of the Debtor's Cash and Postpetition Income (dkt. 7)

On 4/27/21, this Court continued the hearing on these matters to allow Pravati to engage in a limited discovery process to (i) verify Debtor's past expenditures and (ii) determine whether there is evidence for or against Debtor's projected future expenditures. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address what progress, if any, they have made.

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 3/29/21.

(a) Bar date: 7/6/21.

(b) Procedures order: dkt. 4 (service cured, see dkt. 8, 82)

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement: TBD

(d) Continued status conference: 6/15/21 at 1:00 p.m., no written status report required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing. Pursuant to Judge Bason's COVID-19 procedures, all appearances are via ZoomGov. For ZoomGov instructions for all matters on calendar, please see the tentative ruling for the first matter on today's calendar (i.e., page 1 of the posted tentative rulings). Unless otherwise stated, appearances via CourtCall are no longer permitted.

Tentative Ruling for 4/27/21:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor and by Debtor's principal.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's Emergency Motion for Order Authorizing Interim Use of Cash Collateral (dkt. 6), Debtor's Supplemental Declaration (dkt. 31), Pravati Credit Fund III LP's Opposition (dkt. 46), Debtor's Reply (dkt. 58), Debtor's Motion for Order Approving Budget for Use of the Debtor's Cash and Postpetition Income (dkt. 7)

The tentative ruling is to grant the motion on a further interim basis. While this Court agrees with Pravati that the evidence to support Debtor's actual and projected budgets falls short of what should have been provided, and that Debtor's proposed $15,000 monthly payments do not appear even to cover the statutory interest accruing on its claim, nevertheless Pravati's position is weakened in two respects.

First, Debtor has provided strong evidence that Pravati's lien is avoidable under 11 U.S.C. § 547 and has indicated that it will initiate an adversary proceeding to avoid that lien, changing Pravati's asserted secured claim to an unsecured claim. Dkt. 58, pp. 2:17–20, 3:23–26. Second, this Court is also concerned that denying the motion would run the risk of undermining Debtor's ability to generate revenues for the benefit of all creditors, thereby reducing the potential distribution to creditors, including Pravati, under any plan. Both of these factors favor granting the motion on a further interim basis, with a continued hearing concurrent with the continued status conference (see below), while also permitting Pravati to engage in reasonable, fairly limited discovery to (i) verify past expenditures and (ii) support Debtor's projected future expenditures. The parties are reminded to review the "Posted Procedures of Judge Bason" (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) regarding discovery disputes (and any other relevant matters).

(b) Proof of Service of the Court's Order Setting (A) Principal Status Conference and (B) Procedures (dks. 4, 15).

On 3/30/21, this Court issued its Order Setting (A) Principal Status Conference and (B) Procedures (the "Procedures Order"). The Procedures Order directed Debtor to serve all parties in interest via U.S. Mail and to file a proof of service with the Court.

On 3/31/21, Debtor's counsel submitted a declaration of one of his employees (the "Employee Declaration") stating that he caused the Procedures Order to be served on a list of parties. A proof of service was attached as Exhibit A to the Employee Declaration, but the proof of service does not list any parties served via U.S. Mail. The tentative ruling is to direct Debtor, no later than 4/29/21, either (x) to serve a corrected Employee Declaration showing the missing names or (y) to serve the Procedures Order on all parties who have not been served and file a supplemental proof of service.

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 3/29/21.

(a) Bar date: 7/6/21 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

(b) Procedures order: dkt. 4 (not timely served, dkt. 8, see above)

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement: TBD

(d) Continued status conference: 5/11/21 at 1:00 p.m., brief status report due 5/18/21.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/11/21:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor.

(1) Current issues

(a) Cash collateral: declaration re 3d default (the "Default Decl.," dkt.315), Debtor's response (dkt.317), order setting hearing (dkt.318)

At the 4/27/21 hearing, this Court held that Debtor is required to prepare a budget, progress reports, and permit site inspections upon request. This Court also directed the parties to meet and confer to discuss reporting requirements for these disclosures and continued the hearing on this matter to resolve any disputes that may have arisen during the course of the meet and confer.

This Court notes that Debtor's latest Monthly Operating Reports (dkt. 348, for March 2021) are finally labeled to show which account relates to which property. But that appears to be "shutting the barn door after the horses have left," because the properties no longer generate income and there are almost no funds left.

In addition, this Court notes that (i) at PDF p.12 of the MOR it appears to report that home insurance expired months ago, car insurance is about to expire, and no payments have been made on either insurance for months, and (ii) PDF p.13 appears to be a random, misplaced page. Debtor is directed to address these issues at the hearing, as well as progress on selling the remaining properties of this bankruptcy estate.

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to discuss whether they have reached a consensus and/or whether there are any disputed issues for this Court to address.

damages, but (b) to refrain from issuing any order memorializing that ruling, so that this Court can direct the parties to mandatory mediation in an attempt to avoid the expense and delay of any appeals or other proceedings. This Court will address at the continued status conference (see below) when to use and enter any order(s) implementing this tentative ruling.

(a) Terminology

This Court's terminology is as previously memorialized (MacCase, dkt.485).

(b) Key documents reviewed

Wyndham's Proof of Claim 3-4 filed in the MacCase (the "Wyndham-Mac Claim") and Wyndham's Proof of Claim 1-2 filed in the AttitudeCase (the "Wyndham-Attitude Claim," and together, the "Claims"); 2015 Settlement Agreement (MacCase dkt. 516, Ex. H, at PDF pp. 151 et seq.); 2020 Settlement Agreement (MacCase dkt. 512, Ex. A); Motion to approve settlement (MacCase dkt. 512); Trustee's limited objection to settlement (MacCase dkt. 515); Reply re settlement (MacCase dkt. 516; AttitudeCase dkt. 191); Order approving settlement subject to Trustee's right to object to claim (MacCase dkt. 518); Trustee's Claim objection (MacCase dkt. 522; AttitudeCase dkt. 191); Wyndham's Response (MacCase dkt. 528; AttitudeCase, dkt. 196), MacMillan declaration in support of Wyndham's Response (MacCase dkt. 530; AttitudeCase, dkt. 197), Stipulations and orders extending filing deadlines (MacCase, dkt. 532, 533, 535, 536; AttitudeCase, dkt. 198, 199, 201, 202), Trustee's reply (MacCase, dkt. 538; AttitudeCase, dkt. 204), Trustee's declaration in support of reply (MacCase dkt. 539; AttitudeCase, dkt. 205), Trustee's request for judicial notice (MacCase dkt. 540; AttitudeCase, dkt. 206)

(c) Legal standards for objections to claim.

Under the statute, a proof of claim is "deemed allowed" unless an objection is made, and if such an objection is made then the court "shall" allow such claim "except to the extent that" it is unenforceable under the agreement itself or applicable law (or other, inapplicable grounds). 11 U.S.C. 502(a) & (b). In other words, the burden is on the objecting party to provide a cognizable ground to disallow the claim.

Chapter 7

(i) There must be some factual or legal basis to disallow the claim, not just an alleged non-compliance with Rule 3001

Pursuant to Rule 3001(f) a proof of claim must be "executed and filed in accordance with these rules" in order to automatically "constitute prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim." But a rule cannot supersede a statute, and an objecting party must do more than simply point to a lack of compliance with Rule 3001 in order to obtain an order disallowing a claim: the objecting party must establish an actual basis to contest the liability or amount of the claim. See In re Campbell, 336 B.R. 430 (9th Cir. BAP 2005); In re Heath, 331 B.R. 424 (9th Cir. BAP 2005). See also Travelers Cas. & Sur. Co. of Am. v. Pac. Gas & Elec. Co., 549 U.S. 443, 449, 127 S. Ct. 1199, 167 L. Ed. 2d 178 (2007) ("the court 'shall allow' the claim 'except to the extent that' the claim implicates any of the nine exceptions enumerated in [section] 502(b)").

(ii) Non-compliance with Rule 3001 only means that the "usual burdens of proof" apply

If a proof of claim does not comply with Rule 3001(f) then it does not automatically constitute prima facie evidence of the "validity and amount" of the claim and "the usual burdens of proof associated with claims litigation apply." Campbell, 336 B.R. 430, 436 (emphasis added). But the proof of claim can still be prima facie evidence of the claim's validity and amount if the evidence attached to the proof of claim is "sufficient to support the claim." In that situation the objecting party "must produce evidence tending to defeat the claim that is of probative force equal to that of the creditors' proof of claim." In re Consolidated Pioneer Mortgage, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995) (citations and internal quotation marks omitted).

(b) The Claims are not entitled to prima facie validity as against the Trustee under Rule 3001(f)

On 12/16/20, Wyndham filed the amended Claims (which appear in all respects to be identical) asserting general unsecured claims against the MacMillan and Attitude estates in the amount of $25,000,000. Although it is not clear from a review of the documents filed in support of the Claims, it appears the Claims are comprised of (w) damages arising out of the Debtors' alleged failures to transfer timeshares to Wyndham and pay an agreed-upon $375 per unit transferred as well as unpaid maintenance fees, (x) attorneys' fees, (y) interest, and (z) liquidated damages arising from alleged breaches of a 2015 Settlement Agreement (the "2015 Settlement Agreement") executed in connection with pre-petition litigation in the Middle District of Tennessee captioned Wyndham Vacation Resorts, Inc. et al. v. Property Relief, LLC, et al., Case No. 3:13-cv-434 (the "WVR Lawsuit") (MacCase dkt. 516, Ex. H, at PDF pp. 151 et seq.).

In support of the Claims, Wyndham relies on a four-page summary of the history of its bankruptcy litigation with MacMillan and Cynthia Martin which concluded with the execution of a new settlement agreement (the "2020 Settlement Agreement") (MacCase dkt. 512-1, Ex. A), as well as this Court's order approving that agreement and the related nondischargeability judgment (none of which is attached, but all of which have been reviewed by this Court). But, as the Trustee highlights, the Claims are not supported by the 2015 Settlement Agreement or any kind of summary explaining the various components of the Claims or how Wyndham arrived at the $25,000,000 figure (MacCase dkt. 522, pp.1:28-2:4 & 17:23-19:4 & AttitudeCase dkt. 191, p.2:1-5 & 18:7-20:25).

As against Debtors themselves, Wyndham's Claims might be entitled to prima facie validity because Debtors were parties to the underlying 2020 Settlement Agreement. But as against the Trustee, there is insufficient information to determine the components of the claim including anything about how the settling parties arrived at $10,000 for liquidated damages.

Therefore, the tentative ruling is that the Claims lack sufficient information to give them prima facie validity under Rule 3001(c)(1) & (f) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). See e.g., In re Heath, 331 B.R. at 433 (claim can be based on summary rather than complete documentation but, among other things, "if the claim includes charges such as interest, late fees and attorney's fees, the summary should include a statement giving a breakdown of those elements").

Alternatively, even if the Claims had prima facie validity under Rule 3001(f) (which they do not), that would not change the outcome. The Trustee has rebutted any such initial showing by Wyndham, thereby shifting the burden to Wyndham. Wyndham has not carried that burden, for the reasons set forth below.

(c) Wyndham has not carried its initial burden of proof

The Trustee objects to the Claims on the grounds that the lion's share of the $25,000,000 figure is premised on an unenforceable liquidated damages provision in the 2015 Settlement Agreement under applicable law (i.e., that the Claims must be disallowed under 11 U.S.C. 502(b)(1)) (MacCase dkt. 522, pp.14:14-17:21 & AttitudeCase dkt. 191, pp.15:1-18:5).

(i) Tennessee law applies

Neither party has briefed whether this Court should apply Tennessee or California law. But the tentative ruling is that Tennessee law applies pursuant to paragraph 13 of the 2015 Settlement Agreement, which states in relevant part: "[s]hould any question arise as to the construction or interpretation of this Agreement, this Agreement shall be construed and interpreted according to the laws of the State of Tennessee ..." (see 2:17-ap-01229-NB, dkt. 80, p.14, para. "(13)") (emphasis added).

Under Tennessee law, "the term 'liquidated damages' 'refers to an amount determined by the parties to be just compensation for damages,' should a contract breach occur." Guesthouse Int'l Franchise Sys., Inc., v. British Am. Props. MacArthur Inn, LLC, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 8570, at *30-31, 2009 WL 278214, at *9-10 (M.D. Tenn. 2009) (quoting Vanderbilt Univ. v. DiNardo, 174 F.3d 751, 755 (6th Cir. 1999)). "The fundamental purpose of a liquidated damages provision is to provide a means of compensation in the event of a breach where damages would be indeterminable or otherwise difficult to prove." Id. (citing Guiliano v. Cleo, Inc., 995 S.W.2d 88, 98 (Tenn. 1999)). "Tennessee courts 'have long recognized the freedom of parties to agree upon terms that may not appear desirable to outsiders and the duty of the courts to refrain from interfering with the parties' agreement unless to enforce it would violate established public policy.'" Id. (quoting Anesthesia Med. Group v. Chandler, 2007 Tenn. App. LEXIS 73, 2007 WL 412323, at *9 (Tenn. Ct. App. Feb. 6, 2007)).

Tennessee courts "will uphold a liquidated damages provision if 'the liquidated damages specified were a reasonable prediction of what a breach would cost the injured party in light of circumstances at the time the contract was formed.'" Id. (quoting U.S. v. Ponnappula, 246 F.3d 576, 584 (6th Cir. 2001)) (emphasis added). "Therefore, 'the amount of actual damages at the time of breach is of little or no relevance to whether the clause is an impermissible penalty.'" Id. "Courts will not, however, enforce a liquidated damages provision 'if the stipulated amount constitutes a penalty.'" Id. (quoting Vanderbilt Univ., 174 F.3d at 755). "A penalty is 'designed to coerce performance by punishing default.'" Id. "Any doubt as to the character of a contract provision 'will be resolved in favor of finding it a penalty.'" Id.

(ii) Wyndham has the burden to establish that the liquidated sum was a reasonable prediction of damages

The parties also have not briefed which of them bears the burden of establishing the enforceability of the liquidated damages provision and, based on this Court's own research, it appears Tennessee Courts are split on the issue. This Court has found at least three Tennessee Court of Appeals decisions that placed the burden on the party seeking to enforce a liquidated damages clause to establish that the liquidated sum was a reasonable prediction of damages. See Patterson v. Anderson Motor Co., 45 Tenn. App. 35, 55-56 (1958) ("it is at least conceivable that had defendants elected to put on proof, they might have established as a fact that $2,000 was a reasonable sum to be allowed as liquidated damages"), Eatherly Construction Co. v. HTI Memorial Hospital, 2005 Tenn. App. LEXIS 575, at *28, 2005 WL 2217078, at *9 (Tenn. Ct. App. Sept. 12, 2005) (citing Guiliano v. Cleo, Inc., 995 S.W.2d 88, 100-101 (Tenn. 1999)) ("In the trial court, [the party seeking to enforce the liquidated damages provision] had the burden to establish that the liquidated sum was a reasonable estimate of potential damages"); Bachour v. Mason, 2013 Tenn. App. LEXIS 366, at *12-13, 2013 WL 2395027, at *5 (Tenn. Ct. App. May 30, 2013) ("It thus appears to us that the $75,000 was not based on any estimate of potential damages, but was just an arbitrary figure that Buyer plucked from thin air. There is no evidence to support his contention that the figure bears any relation to the potential damages he would likely have suffered").

And other courts have agreed that "any doubt as to the character of the [liquidated damages] provision will be resolved in favor of finding it a penalty." DiNardo, supra (citing Beasley v. Horrell, 864 S.W.2d 45, 48 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1993), overruled on other grounds by Guiliano, supra); see also Goggin Truck Line Co. v. Brake Pro, Inc. 2000 Tenn. App. LEXIS 563, at *10, 2000 WL 1183058, at *3 (Tenn. Ct. App. Aug. 22, 2000) (same).

But some courts have held that a challenge to the enforceability of a liquidated damages provision is an affirmative defense which places the burden on the party seeking to avoid the clause to prove that it is a penalty. See e.g. Shelbyville Hosp. Corp. v. Mosley, 2017 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 191466, at *44, 2017 WL 5586729, at *14 (E.D. Tenn. Nov. 20, 2017) (citing Anesthesia Med. Grp., P.C. v. Buras, 2006 Tenn. Chapter 7 2737829, at *3 (Tenn. Ct. App. Sept. 25, 2006)) (issue of enforceability of liquidated damages provision was held to be an affirmative defense).

In the absence of clear authority on the issue, the tentative ruling is that the better reasoned decisions put the burden on the party seeking to enforce a liquidated damages provision because that party is in the best position to establish that its liquidated damages provision was intended to be a reasonable prediction of damages and not to serve as a penalty.

(A) Wyndham has not established that the liquidated sum was a reasonable prediction of damages

In its opposition papers Wyndham argues that its Claims are well supported and that its evidence clearly establishes the enforceability of the liquidated damages provision. But, as discussed below, the tentative ruling is that Wyndham has not presented any evidence establishing that the $10,000 liquidated damages figure was a reasonable prediction of damages. In addition, Wyndham has not sufficiently established the basis for any multiplier that would transform $10,000 per breach of the 2015 Settlement Agreement into $25 million of damages.

As noted above, the 2015 Settlement Agreement is not attached in support of the Claims and nothing in the 2015 Settlement Agreement explains how the parties arrived at the $10,000 liquidated damages figure. The best evidence Wyndham offers to support its contention that $10,000 was a reasonable measure of its compensatory damages is that the parties agreed to that amount.

Wyndham highlights that paragraphs 4(c), 4(d), 4(e) and 4(f) of the 2015 Settlement Agreement provide for $10,000 in liquidated damages for each separate breach and violation and that the agreement specifically states: "[t]he parties agree that the liquidated damages provision is necessary and appropriate due to the difficulty in quantifying the degree of losses, damages or harm posed by a violation of this provision with any mathematical certainty." MacCase dkt. 528, pp.20:25-26:9 & AttitudeCase dkt. 196, pp.20:25-26:9. But the tentative ruling is that this evidence, on its own, is not enough to satisfy Wyndham's burden. See e.g. Eatherly Construction Co. v. HTI Memorial Hospital, 2005 Tenn. App. LEXIS 575, at *27-28, 2005 WL 2217078, at *9 (Tenn. Ct. App. Sept. 12, 2005) ("While the fact the parties 'agreed' to the amount is relevant, and it is a factor to be considered in order to determine whether the amount was a reasonable estimate at the time the parties entered into the contract, that evidence – the parties' agreement – standing alone does not preponderate against the trial court's specific finding to the contrary").

For the same reasons the tentative ruling is also that Wyndham's 2020 Settlement Agreement with MacMillan and Martin is insufficient. In addition and alternatively, the tentative ruling is that such evidence carries little to no evidentiary weight for the reasons articulated by the Trustee in the claim objections (MacCase dkt. 522, pp.5:26-8:22 & AttitudeCase, dkt. 191, pp.6:5-8:26).

Wyndham also offers the declarations of its vice president, Michael Lazinsk, and David MacMillan in support of its opposition papers. But, as the Trustee highlights, Mr. Lazinski has not established that he has personal knowledge to testify about the subject matter in his declaration (MacCase, dkt. 538, p.9:5-27) and neither declaration offers anything more than legal conclusions regarding the reasonableness of the $10,000 liquidated damages figure. MacCase, dkt. 528 at PDF p.91, para. "(6)", dkt. 530, p.3, para. "(4)" & AttitudeCase dkt. 196 at PDF p.91, para. "(6)" & dkt. 197, p.3, para. "(4)". Neither of the parties to the settlement testifies to any facts that show how the parties arrived at the $10,000 figure or how that figure was a reasonable prediction of damages.

There is no testimony from Mr. Lazinsk that, for example, relying on past experience Wyndham calculated that each breach of the 2015 Settlement Agreement would result in an average of X months of non-payment to Wyndham of $Y in time share fees per month when one of its unit owners utilized MacMillan's services to transfer their timeshare interests to a so-called "Viking ship" entity, plus $Z of attorney fees or other damages per breach, all adding up to a "reasonable prediction" of $10,000 per breach of the 2015 Settlement Agreement. On its face, $10,000 of damages from every single time Debtors or their affiliates "solicit, contact or communicate with any Wyndham owners" regarding possible transfer of their timeshare interest appears to be an unbelievably high dollar amount. See 2015 Settlement Agreement, ¶ 4(c) (MacCase dkt. 516, Ex. H, at PDF pp. 151 et seq.).

This Court notes that Wyndham attempts to justify its $25,000,000 claim by highlighting that MacMillan previously testified that he successfully orchestrated the transfer of over 100,000 timeshare interests and generated fees estimated at more than $300,000,000. MacCase, dkt. 528, p.4, Fn.6, AttitudeCase, dkt. 196, p.4, Fn.6. But Wyndham's reliance on these figures is misplaced. Wyndham is improperly attempting to conflate the potential damages MacMillan's actions might have inflicted on consumers with Wyndham's own damages. Standing alone, these figures are meaningless because Wyndham does not include evidence tying those figures to its own damages.

Wyndham does not offer evidence establishing that, for example, but for MacMillan's interference, unit owners would have paid all of that money to Wyndham. Nor does Wyndham account for the fact that many of the alleged 100,000 timeshare interests about which MacMillan bragged were with timeshare businesses other than Wyndham.

Finally, Wyndham argues that a District Court's findings issued in connection with a default judgment Wyndham obtained against TimeShare Relief, Inc. in a different action (Cal. Dist. Ct. case no. 2:18-cv-09036-CJC-AFM) are preclusive on the Trustee's ability to challenge the enforceability of the liquidated damages provision. But Wyndham does not cite to any authority for that proposition. Among other things, Wyndham presumably would have to establish privity between the defendant in that action (TimeShare Relief) and the Trustee or the individual creditors of the MacMillan and Attitude estates, and this Court is not aware of any basis to find such privity, particularly when the Trustee apparently was not served with critical papers and was not on notice of any intent by Wyndham to use the default judgment in that case as a basis for preventing any challenge to its claim in this bankruptcy case.

For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that Wyndham has not carried its burden.

(B) Even if the Trustee bears the initial burden of proving that the liquidated damages provision is an unenforceable penalty, he has carried that burden

Alternatively, even if the Trustee bears the initial burden to prove that the liquidated damages provision is an unenforceable penalty, the tentative ruling is that he has satisfied that burden. This Court notes the difficulty for any party in having to prove a negative and in doing so parties often rely exclusively on circumstantial arguments and evidence to carry their burden. In this case, the Trustee highlights that Wyndham's own proofs of claim have grown exponentially over time and there is nothing in the 2015 Settlement Agreement or any evidence filed in support of the Claims explaining how the parties arrived at the $10,000 liquidated damages figure. The Trustee further highlights several facts and circumstances that call into question the reasonableness of that figure. MacCase, dkt. 522, pp.14:14-17:21 & AttitudeCase, dkt. 191, pp.15:1-18:5.

The tentative ruling is that this is sufficient to cast grave doubt about whether the $10,000 liquidated damages provision was simply a figure pulled from thin air and/or intended to punish parties for any future breaches. See Beasley, 864 S.W.2d at 48 ("when there is doubt whether a provision is intended to be liquidated damages or a penalty, the court must construe it as a penalty"). The tentative ruling is that the burden then shifted back to Wyndham to prove that it was not intended to be a penalty and, for the reasons set forth above, Wyndham has not carried that burden.

Therefore, the tentative ruling is to sustain the Trustee's objections and disallow damages arising from the liquidated damages provision without leave to amend.

(C) Wyndham has not carried its burden as to the other possible components of the Claims

As noted above, it is not clear from a review of the documents filed in support of the Claims whether Wyndham also seeks to recover (i) damages arising out of the Debtors' alleged failures to transfer timeshares to Wyndham and to pay the agreed-upon $375 per unit transferred along with unpaid maintenance fees, (ii) attorneys' fees, and (iii) interest. Wyndham's opposition papers do little to clarify these ambiguities. But, because the Trustee does not appear to object to allowance of these categories in some dollar amount but does object to the lack of evidence establishing what that amount should be (MacCase dkt. 522, pp.19:6-20:11 & AttitudeCase, dkt. 191, pp.19:17-20:24), the tentative ruling is to order the parties to mandatory mediation to address these unresolved issues and to discuss the possibility of a global resolution of the Claim Objections.

Proposed order: The Trustee is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/12/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's motion to sell substantially all of its assets ("Sale Motion," dkt. 61-65, 67), Opposition of Ruth Gonzales, Braubert Andres, and Guillermo J. Lopez Gutierrez ("Gonzales et al.") (dkt. 77), SubchapterV Trustee's response (dkt. 83), Joinder of Samuel Pearce Trust ("Pearce") (dkt. 86), Debtor's reply to Gonzales et al. (dkt. 88), Debtor's reply to SubchapterV Trustee's response (dkt. 95), Schedules to APA (dkt. 99)

The tentative ruling is that the following issues must be addressed before any sale can be approved. On the one hand, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has established sufficient justification for a quick sale of substantially all of its assets without overbids, instead of the delays and expenses of attempting to market the assets and hold an auction, which likely would result in lower net recoveries. Likewise, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has established sufficient justification for a sale instead of attempting to accomplish the same transaction through a chapter 11 plan, again because of the projected delays and costs of the latter proceeding (although those disadvantages might be exaggerated, given the speed and efficiency that are possible in Subchapter V).

In addition, the tentative ruling is that any sale can be free and clear of liens and other interests under 11 U.S.C. 363(f). Although this Court is not persuaded that "applicable nonbankruptcy law" provides for a sale of substantially all assets to an insider free and clear of successor liability and other interests in the assets (section 363(f)(1)), or that a lack of objection is the same as "consent[]" (section 363(f)(2)) (dkt.59, pp.11:3-12:10), nevertheless section 363(f)(4) and (5) apply. Any purported lien or interest would qualify as "disputed" under section 363(f)(4), because of Debtor's lien searches, the lack of notice to Debtor of any other encumbrances or interests (other than Permitted Encumbrances), and the usual grounds for contesting any successor liability. Alternatively, this Court is persuaded that section 363(f)(5) applies because of the existence of "legal or equitable proceeding[s]" that could compel holders of any liens or other interests to accept a "money satisfaction," such as foreclosures and receiverships in which sales can be accomplished free and clear. As stated in the posted "Procedures of Judge Bason" (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) under "Common matters":

Regarding § 363(f)(5), the judge does not follow Clear Channel Outdoor, Inc. v. Knupfer (In re PW, LLC), 391 B.R. 25, 40 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2008). He has ruled that a sale free and clear is permissible under § 363(f)(5) whenever the interest at issue is subject to monetary valuation. See In re Trans World Airlines, Inc., 322 F.3d 283, 290-91 (3d Cir. 2003) ("TWA") (because employees' claims were "subject to monetary valuation," debtor's assets could be sold free and clear of successor liability for such claims under § 363(f)(5)). Alternatively, the judge has ruled that "cramdown" is among the types of legal or equitable proceeding within the statute, or that Clear Channel is distinguishable in most cases under the rationale of In re Jolan, 403 B.R. 866 (Bankr. W.D. Wash. 2009), because holders of interests can be compelled in numerous other types of legal or equitable proceedings to accept a money satisfaction (which might be $-0- in the case of an interest that is entirely underwater). Those proceedings include a hypothetical foreclosure by one of the lienholders, or a receivership (which could be initiated at the behest of creditors or by the debtor itself). See Cal. Code Civ. Proc. ("CCP") §564(b)(9) (power to appoint receiver to sell property); CCP § 568.5 (receiver empowered to sell property as provided in CCP §§701.510 et seq.); CCP § 701.630 (extinguishment of liens); CCP § 701.680 (binding effect of sale). The judge respectfully disagrees with In re Hassen Imports P'ship, 502 B.R. 851, 860 et seq. (C.D. Cal. 2013) (hypothetical foreclosure sale did not qualify under section 363(f)(5)). See generally In re Catalina Sea Ranch, LLC (Case No. 2:19-bk-24467-NB), dkt. 122 (approving sale to insider, free and clear of successor liability).

On the other hand, (i) the insider nature of the proposed transaction requires greater scrutiny and (ii) unless the proposed sale is assured of generating funds sufficient to pay a meaningful dividend to nonpriority unsecured creditors, it does not appear appropriate to approve the proposed sale. This Court's reasoning is that, if a sale is a permissible substitute for a plan (under Braniff, Lionel, Walter, Continental Airlines, Coastal Indus., Abbots Dairies, etc. - see dkt.83, passim and especially pp.2:19-5:4 and 8:1-16:17), then this Court must consider whether the proposed transaction, if embodied in a proposed plan, would fail the tests for confirmation, and whether the proposed transaction would otherwise be contrary to the process and distribution scheme contemplated by the Bankruptcy Code. This approach is consistent with the definition of "cause" to dismiss or convert a case under 11 U.S.C. 1112: if no plan could be confirmed within any reasonable time frame, then this Court "shall" convert or dismiss the case. See 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(J).

The tentative ruling is that, if no meaningful dividend can be assured, then the proposed disposition of Debtor's assets would not satisfy the "fair and equitable" standard for confirmation of any plan, and it would be inappropriate to permit an "end run" around that standard, without even having an opportunity for creditors to vote (because there is no plan), while providing insiders with various benefits from the proposed transaction. In addition, there is insufficient assurance, on such shortened time, that the best interests of creditors test (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(7)) would not favor a chapter 7 liquidation.

Conversion to chapter 7 would preserve the integrity of the system by enabling an independent investigation and assessment. Specifically, it is possible that a chapter 7 trustee: (w) could either obtain a better sale price from the proposed buyer or competitors, (x) could investigate Debtor's vague assertions that unspecified "problems" (dkt. 59, p.3:20) transformed a business from one that "historically operated at a profit" (id., p.3:19) into one that allegedly "would require significant capital investment before it could even break even" (id., p.4:16-17), (y) could uncover claims against insiders, avoidance actions, or other sources of recoveries, and alternatively (z) could, at the very least, provide greater assurance that all "stones had been turned over" to explore whether the foregoing recoveries were possible.

In other words, the tentative ruling is that it is inappropriate to authorize a sale of substantially all assets, with the benefits and protections to insiders and the buyer of releases and cutting off potential successor liability and other claims, unless a meaningful dividend to nonpriority unsecured creditors can be assured. True, conversion or dismissal of this case might produce smaller, not greater, chances of any meaningful recoveries. But the tentative ruling is that the integrity of the system requires either the protections of a chapter 7 trustee or, alternatively, assurance of a meaningful distribution to nonpriority unsecured creditors. Absent the latter, the tentative ruling is that this Court cannot approve the proposed quick, no-voting, no-overbid sale to insiders with releases and a transfer of assets to them free and clear of successor liability.

(b) Plan (dkt. 89)

The tentative ruling is that, although Debtor's Plan is essentially a blank slate, the details of which Debtor proposes to supply after the (hoped for) approval of the Sale Motion, that is sufficient under the circumstances. The tentative ruling is not to take any further action with respect to the Plan at this time.

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 2/5/21.

(a) Bar date: 4/16/21 per General Order 20-01 (70 days after petition date in Subchapter V cases) (DO NOT SERVE any notice: one has already been sent, see dkt.16).

Chapter 13

#7.00 Hrg re: Motion By Debtor Carmen Z. Montalvan For Order Sustaining Objection To Claim No. 5 Of Stohlman & Rogers, Inc., dba Lakeview Petroleum

Docket 26

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part and deny in part as set forth below. Appearances are not required.

Debtor objects to the claim of Stohlman & Rogers, Inc., dba Lakeview Petroleum ("Lakeview") on the grounds that its in personam claim was discharged in her prior chapter 7 case and its lien was avoided in her 2016 chapter 13 bankruptcy case. The tentative ruling is that discharge is effective notwithstanding any lack of notice, because the lack of notice made no difference (pursuant to In re Beezly, 994 F.2d 1433 (9th Cir. 1993)), but the lien avoidance is essentially vacated pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 549(b)(1)(B) so Lakeview retains its in rem rights. See Lakeview Opp. (dkt. 31), pp.5:5-6:10 (and authorities cited therein).

Nothing in the foregoing tentative ruling should be construed to preclude Debtor's latest lien avoidance motion (dkt. 35) or any defenses thereto.

Proposed order: Lakeview is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Docket 26

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 5/20/21:

Continue to 6/24/21 at 8:30 a.m. Appearances are not required on 5/20/21.

The Court has considered the joint motion to approve compromise (see calendar no. 9, 5/20/21 at 8:30 a.m.). In view of this Court's tentative ruling on the motion to approve compromise, the tentative ruling is to grant a short continuance to the date and time set forth above, which this Court anticipates will be vacated after the entry of an order on the motion to approve compromise has been entered and the claim objection has been withdrawn.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Chapter 13

This Court has reviewed Debtor's objection (dkt. 26), the claimant's opposition (dkt. 39), and Debtor's reply (dkt. 41). The objection is based on alleged usury.

"California's usury restrictions are a curious and confusing blend of the California State Constitution, statutory law, and case law pertaining to both Article XV of the California Constitution and the relevant usury statutes." Wishnev v. Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co., 162 F.Supp.3d 930, 937 (ND Cal. 2016). But both parties' papers cite almost no authority.

The claimant seeks a continuance for discovery, which she believes will show (a) that the loan was made for "business purposes" and (b) that the loan was arranged by a real estate broker. Debtor replies (x) that "even if funds were used for business purposes they would still be usurious" (citing section 2 of Article XV of The California Constitution); (y) that the exemption for a real estate broker "arranging" a loan requires that the broker "receives a commission and actively participates in the negotiation and drafting of the loan terms" (dkt.41, p.3:1-2) (citing no authority, and providing no evidence of a lack of such involvement); and (z) that the claimant should have documentation on these things, and is only seeking extensive discovery to harass Debtor, "beat [Debtor] into submission," and "delay this bankruptcy." Dkt.41, p.3:17-18. Debtor also requests that, if this Court permits discovery into the issues raised by the claimant, Debtor be permitted to do its own discovery.

The tentative ruling is that normally the parties are free to propound any discovery they believe might lead to admissible evidence, subject to other parties' rights to seek orders quashing or limiting discovery. But in this instance it appears appropriate to stay discovery and order mandatory mediation in view of (i) the complexities of usury law, (ii) the relatively small dollar amounts at issue, relative to the potential attorney fees of litigation (see POC, reproduced at dkt.26, Ex.A, last page, listing $33,780.82 in interest), and (iii) the difficulty of discovery due to the length of time since the loan's inception, the transfers of the loan, and the likelihood of a lack of rigorous documentation by either party (or any predecessor in interest to the claimant). In other words, mediation appears particularly appropriate because there appears to be a potential for attorney fees to exceed the discounted present value of each party's chances of obtaining a net benefit at the end of their

#12.00 Hrg re: Motion For Order Approving And Authorities (A) Compromise Of Controversy With Investment Management Company, LLC; And (B) Postpetition Financing

Docket 113

Tentative Ruling:

The tentative ruling is that the settlement/finance motion and associated relief from the automatic stay cannot be approved in its present form, for the reasons set forth below. Appearances required.

Debtor proposes to satisfy the claim of Investment Management Company, LLC ("IMC") in a somewhat reduced dollar amount on or before 11/24/21, failing which IMC may foreclose without reducing its claim. Meanwhile Debtor and her non-debtor husband would stipulate to in rem relief and dismissal of this bankruptcy case with a bar to refiling a future bankruptcy case. See Settlement/Refi. Motion (dkt.113), Ex.1&2, at PDF pp. 24-43.

According to the record before this Court, there is substantial equity in the subject property, so any bar against refiling and any in rem relief could prejudice creditors other than IMC. First, the parties' papers do not allege facts or assert arguments that the predicates for dismissal with a bar or for in rem relief are satisfied under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1) or 362(d)(4), or any other authority, and there is a general public policy against enforcing contractual commitments not to file a future bankruptcy case. The parties papers do not analyze those issues at all.

Second, the parties' papers do not assert that the non-debtor husband's creditors have received notice. This Court has due process concerns about granting the requested relief without notice to them.

Third, such relief would appear to prejudice future creditors of Debtor, or her non-debtor husband, or both, and there is no way to know who those creditors might be.

Fourth, this Court has concerns with adding this Court's implicit imprimatur regarding the proposed new financing, which appears to have inconsistent provisions about whether the new loan will be a business or personal loan, and has onerous regular and default interest rates. See

Tentative Ruling for 2/18/21:

Appearances required. Debtor is directed to address the issues raised by the Chapter 13 Trustee (dkt. 95) and whether Debtor's response (dkt. 103) sufficiently addresses the Trustee's concerns.

On the one hand, Debtor's age, retirement status, extremely modest budget, and increases in monthly mortgage payments all favor some leeway in permitting Debtor's proposed modification of her confirmed chapter 13 plan. On the other hand, this Court is concerned that Debtor's math (and her allegations) do not entirely "add up."

In particular, although Debtor asserts (a) that she spends a "de minimis" amount on gambling and (b) that the $61,675.00 of winnings and $52,631.00 of losses on her tax returns are gross amounts that do not accurately reflect the netting of wins and losses, nevertheless (i) the net appears to be approximately $9,000 of winnings ($61,675.00 - $52,631.00 = $9,044.00) that were not used to pay creditors; and (ii) she admits (dkt.103, para.7) to visiting a casino "about 5 times" in 2019, and "load[ing] up the card" with approximately $300 or $400 each time (although there is some ambiguity about whether sometimes those dollar amounts are reduced by carrying over alleged winnings from prior gambling), which would appear to mean an admission that she spent approximately $1,500 to $2,000 on gambling instead of paying her creditors. In addition, Debtor appears to be asserting that she generally wins (to the extent she is asserting that her winnings are carried over), and yet her own evidence (dkt.103, Ex.C) is that the casino has the edge and gamblers generally lose. In addition, this Court is concerned that Debtor's extremely modest budget (dkt.103, Ex.B) does not appear to reflect any ability to use $300 or $400 on each visit to a casino, even supposing significant "belt tightening" by Debtor. All of this calls into question whether Debtor is hiding other sources of income, and/or otherwise being less than truthful.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Chapter 13 reasonable judgment in how much to expend in paying attorney fees instead of paying creditors. Appearances are not required on 1/21/21.

(1) Reasons for continuance

This Court has reviewed Debtor's motion (dkt. 23), the claimant's opposition (dkt. 30), and Debtor's reply (dkt. 31). Although Debtor's reply argues that the claimant has not cited authority, that puts the cart before the horse. Debtor is the objecting party and Debtor has not cited any authority that a deed of trust on real property is void or unenforceable as a matter of law when it includes the correct street address and a conflicting legal description for a particular parcel.

Alternatively, even if Debtor did not need to cite any such authority (which is incorrect), this Court's understanding of California law is contrary to Debtor's position. Based on unrelated litigation before this Court, the general rule appears to be that a transfer of an interest in property "is not void for uncertainty because of errors or inconsistency in some of the particulars of the description" if it is possible "from the whole description to ascertain and identify the land intended to be conveyed." Gyurec v. Bank of New York Trust Co., NA (Cal. Ct. App., 4th Dist., 2014) (unpublished, Case No. No. G050083) (quoting Leonard v. Osburn, 169 Cal. 157, 160 (1915)) (correct street address sufficient for deed of trust's validity, even though it incorrectly described property as located in "Township 4 North" instead of Township 4 South"). See also Cal. Code Civ. P. 2077 ("Where there are certain definite and ascertained particulars in the description, the addition of others which are indefinite, unknown, or false, does not frustrate the conveyance, but it is to be construed by the first mentioned particulars.").

Based on the foregoing, it appears appropriate to continue this hearing for the parties either to litigate the issue or, perhaps, agree to a consensual resolution.

(2) Expenditure of funds on attorney fees

Given the apparent principles of California law (summarized above), Debtor's counsel is reminded of the need to do a cost/benefit analysis in determining whether it is worth expending funds on attorney fees that otherwise would go to pay creditors. Debtor's counsel is reminded that the posted "Procedures of Judge Bason" (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) state:

§ 502: claim objections & cost/benefit analysis. When objecting to claims, be sure to include an analysis of whether the costs of preparing and litigating the claim objection (administrative expenses) do not exceed the anticipated benefits (reductions in claims). For example, if the anticipated dividend is small or 0% then the attorney fees incurred in prosecuting your claim objection to any general unsecured claim probably will exceed the benefit to the bankruptcy estate/debtor, so filing that objection would be a waste of the bankruptcy estate's (and everyone else's) resources (unless, for example, the claim is nondischargeable, in which event the attorney fees might well be justified).

Debtor's claim objection does not include any cost/benefit analysis. If Debtor decides to continue with the claim objection, this Court will set a deadline at a future hearing for Debtor's counsel to file a cost/benefit declaration.

This Court has received a communication with chambers that the parties may stipulate to a further continuance of this hearing. But no such stipulation or proposed order has been filed or lodged as of the preparation of this tentative ruling, so in an abundance of caution this Court is posting this tentative ruling to apprise the parties of the need to appear if they have not sought and obtained an order for a continuance.

On the merits, there is no additional tentative ruling beyond what this Court previously provided. The parties should be prepared to address the issues set forth in this Court's 5/19/21 tentative ruling (copied below).

Tentative Ruling for 5/19/21:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's motion to sell substantially all of its assets ("Sale Motion," dkt. 61-65, 67), Opposition of Ruth Gonzales, Braubert Andres, and Guillermo J. Lopez Gutierrez ("Gonzales et al.") (dkt. 77), SubchapterV Trustee's response (dkt. 83), Joinder of Samuel Pearce Trust ("Pearce") (dkt. 86), Debtor's reply to Gonzales et al. (dkt. 88), Debtor's reply to SubchapterV Trustee's response (dkt. 95), Schedules to APA (dkt. 99)

The tentative ruling is that the following issues must be addressed before any sale can be approved. On the one hand, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has established sufficient justification for a quick sale of substantially all of its assets without overbids, instead of the delays and expenses of attempting to market the assets and hold an auction, which likely would result in lower net recoveries. Likewise, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has established sufficient justification for a sale instead of attempting to accomplish the same transaction through a chapter 11 plan, again because of the projected delays and costs of the latter proceeding (although those disadvantages might be exaggerated, given the speed and efficiency that are possible in Subchapter V).

In addition, the tentative ruling is that any sale can be free and clear of liens and other interests under 11 U.S.C. 363(f). Although this Court is not persuaded that "applicable nonbankruptcy law" provides for a sale of substantially all assets to an insider free and clear of successor liability and other interests in the assets (section 363(f)(1)), or that a lack of objection is the same as "consent[]" (section 363(f)(2)) (dkt.59, pp.11:3-12:10), nevertheless section 363(f)(4) and (5) apply. Any purported lien or interest would qualify as "disputed" under section 363(f)(4), because of Debtor's lien searches, the lack of notice to Debtor of any other encumbrances or interests (other than Permitted Encumbrances), and the usual grounds for contesting any successor liability. Alternatively, this Court is persuaded that section 363(f)(5) applies because of the existence of "legal or equitable proceeding[s]" that could compel holders of any liens or other interests to accept a "money satisfaction," such as foreclosures and receiverships in which sales can be accomplished free and clear. As stated in the posted "Procedures of Judge Bason" (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) under "Common matters":

Regarding § 363(f)(5), the judge does not follow Clear Channel Outdoor, Inc. v. Knupfer (In re PW, LLC), 391 B.R. 25, 40 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2008). He has ruled that a sale free and clear is permissible under § 363(f)(5) whenever the interest at issue is subject to monetary valuation. See In re Trans World Airlines, Inc., 322 F.3d 283, 290-91 (3d Cir. 2003) ("TWA") (because employees' claims were "subject to monetary valuation," debtor's assets could be sold free and clear of successor liability for such claims under § 363(f)(5)). Alternatively, the judge has ruled that "cramdown" is among the types of legal or equitable proceeding within the statute, or that Clear Channel is distinguishable in most cases under the rationale of In re Jolan, 403 B.R. 866 (Bankr. W.D. Wash. 2009), because holders of interests can be compelled in numerous other types of legal or equitable proceedings to accept a money satisfaction (which might be $-0- in the case of an interest that is entirely underwater). Those proceedings include a hypothetical foreclosure by one of the lienholders, or a receivership (which could be initiated at the behest of creditors or by the debtor itself). See Cal. Code Civ. Proc. ("CCP") §564(b)(9) (power to appoint receiver to sell property); CCP § 568.5 (receiver empowered to sell property as provided in CCP §§701.510 et seq.); CCP § 701.630 (extinguishment of liens); CCP § 701.680 (binding effect of sale). The judge respectfully disagrees with In re Hassen Imports P'ship, 502 B.R. 851, 860 et seq. (C.D. Cal. 2013) (hypothetical foreclosure sale did not qualify under section 363(f)(5)). See generally In re Catalina Sea Ranch, LLC (Case No. 2:19-bk-24467-NB), dkt. 122 (approving sale to insider, free and clear of successor liability).

On the other hand, (i) the insider nature of the proposed transaction requires greater scrutiny and (ii) unless the proposed sale is assured of generating funds sufficient to pay a meaningful dividend to nonpriority unsecured creditors, it does not appear appropriate to approve the proposed sale. This Court's reasoning is that, if a sale is a permissible substitute for a plan (under Braniff, Lionel, Walter, Continental Airlines, Coastal Indus., Abbots Dairies, etc. - see dkt.83, passim and especially pp.2:19-5:4 and 8:1-16:17), then this Court must consider whether the proposed transaction, if embodied in a proposed plan, would fail the tests for confirmation, and whether the proposed transaction would otherwise be contrary to the process and distribution scheme contemplated by the Bankruptcy Code. This approach is consistent with the definition of "cause" to dismiss or convert a case under 11 U.S.C. 1112: if no plan could be confirmed within any reasonable time frame, then this Court "shall" convert or dismiss the case. See 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(J).

The tentative ruling is that, if no meaningful dividend can be assured, then the proposed disposition of Debtor's assets would not satisfy the "fair and equitable" standard for confirmation of any plan, and it would be inappropriate to permit an "end run" around that standard, without even having an opportunity for creditors to vote (because there is no plan), while providing insiders with various benefits from the proposed transaction. In addition, there is insufficient assurance, on such shortened time, that the best interests of creditors test (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(7)) would not favor a chapter 7 liquidation.

Conversion to chapter 7 would preserve the integrity of the system by enabling an independent investigation and assessment. Specifically, it is possible that a chapter 7 trustee: (w) could either obtain a better sale price from the proposed buyer or competitors, (x) could investigate Debtor's vague assertions that unspecified "problems" (dkt. 59, p.3:20) transformed a business from one that "historically operated at a profit" (id., p.3:19) into one that allegedly "would require significant capital investment before it could even break even" (id., p.4:16-17), (y) could uncover claims against insiders, avoidance actions, or other sources of recoveries, and alternatively (z) could, at the very least, provide greater assurance that all "stones had been turned over" to explore whether the foregoing recoveries were possible.

In other words, the tentative ruling is that it is inappropriate to authorize a sale of substantially all assets, with the benefits and protections to insiders and the buyer of releases and cutting off potential successor liability and other claims, unless a meaningful dividend to nonpriority unsecured creditors can be assured. True, conversion or dismissal of this case might produce smaller, not greater, chances of any meaningful recoveries. But the tentative ruling is that the integrity of the system requires either the protections of a chapter 7 trustee or, alternatively, assurance of a meaningful distribution to nonpriority unsecured creditors. Absent the latter, the tentative ruling is that this Court cannot approve the proposed quick, no-voting, no-overbid sale to insiders with releases and a transfer of assets to them free and clear of successor liability.

(b) Plan (dkt. 89)

The tentative ruling is that, although Debtor's Plan is essentially a blank slate, the details of which Debtor proposes to supply after the (hoped for) approval of the Sale Motion, that is sufficient under the circumstances. The tentative ruling is not to take any further action with respect to the Plan at this time.

#2.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

FEDERAL HOME LOAN MORTGAGE CORP
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 42

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." AJAX MORTGAGE LOAN TRUST 2021-B
DEBTOR

Docket 5

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, the tentative ruling is to grant relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Note regarding mootness: Judge Bason's standard tentative ruling is as follows. For three reasons the above tentative ruling that there is no stay does not moot requests for relief from whatever stay might apply. First, such alternative rulings are appropriate because (i) the very nature of tentative rulings is that this Court could be persuaded to depart from any one of them, and (ii) a final ruling on any one issue could be reversed on appeal. Second, even if there is currently no stay, that could change - e.g., if there is no stay because of dismissal of this bankruptcy case, such dismissal could be vacated and that might reimpose the stay even if there is a lack of adequate protection, or other grounds why the stay should not apply, and therefore the movant will suffer cognizable harm unless the issues are addressed now (Judge Bason regularly vacates dismissals based on stipulations or other good cause). Third, if the motion includes any request for relief as to past acts (annulment) or future cases (in rem relief), those things are still at issue even if there is no current automatic stay. See In re Aheong, 276 B.R. 233 (9th Cir. BAP 2002). For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to address the following issues.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

The tentative ruling is that Movant has established the existence of a "scheme" to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors involving multiple bankruptcy cases by Debtor. As to Movant's alternative ground - Debtor's unauthorized transfer of the subject property - the tentative ruling is that because the transfer was 11 years ago (dkt. 5, Ex.D, at PDF p.67) - there is insufficient evidence that the transfer was part of the present scheme.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay. INTELLILOAN, INC.
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 18

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part, and overrule Debtor's opposition (dkt. 23), all as set forth below.
Appearances required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Background: Debtor states that she is "intending on paying Movant in full through her Chapter 13 plan." Opp. (dkt. 23), pp.2:14-16 and 4:12-14. But that plan provides only for the base amount of Movant's claim, not the additional dollar amounts that it now seeks. See Plan (dkt. 23, Ex.1, p.7) (listed as "Metropolitan Home Mortgage Inc").

(1) Limited relief. Modify and condition the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) such that the movant may proceed in the nonbankruptcy forum to final judgment (including any appeals) in accordance with applicable nonbankruptcy law, subject to the following limitations (Judge Bason's standard limitations).

(a) No enforcement against property of the bankruptcy estate. The stay remains in effect with respect to enforcement of any judgment against property of the debtor's bankruptcy estate - any such property shall be distributed when and how provided by the Bankruptcy Code. Nevertheless, the movant is permitted to enforce its final judgment by (i) collecting upon any available insurance in accordance with applicable nonbankruptcy law or (ii) proceeding against the debtor as to any property that is not property of this bankruptcy estate. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 362(b)(2)(B) & 541(b)(7) (collection of domestic support obligations from ERISA qualified retirement plans).

(b) Claim allowance, priority, and discharge issues. Any claims arising from the nonbankruptcy litigation are subject to this Bankruptcy Court's jurisdiction regarding claim allowance and priority, and the existence and scope of any bankruptcy discharge.

(c) No relief in other bankruptcy cases. To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

In limiting the nonbankruptcy litigation as set forth above, this Bankruptcy Court emphasizes that it does not seek in any way to impinge on the authority of the Nonbankruptcy Courts presiding over the nonbankruptcy action. Rather, this Bankruptcy Court takes seriously its obligations, as a subordinate unit of the District Court, to manage this bankruptcy case. Those obligations include taking into consideration the interests of creditors (who are not parties to the underlying nonbankruptcy litigation), and preserving the bankruptcy estate by placing limits on any relief from the automatic stay that Congress has mandated (11 U.S.C. 362(a) & (d)).

Additional analysis:

The Bankruptcy Court "shall grant relief from the stay" upon a showing of "cause." 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1). Such relief need not take the form of a complete termination of the automatic stay, but instead may include "modifying or conditioning such stay." Id.

In determining whether "cause" exists to grant relief from the automatic stay to allow a movant to pursue litigation in a non-bankruptcy forum, courts in the Ninth Circuit have examined the factors set forth in In re Curtis, 40 B.R. 795, 799–800 (Bankr. complete resolution of the issues; (2) The lack of any connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case; (3) Whether the foreign proceeding involves the debtor as a fiduciary; (4) Whether a specialized tribunal has been established to hear the particular cause of action and whether that tribunal has the expertise to hear such cases; (5) Whether the debtor's insurance carrier has assumed full financial responsibility for defending the litigation; (6) Whether the action essentially involves third parties, and the debtor functions only as a bailee or conduit for the goods or proceeds in question; (7) Whether the litigation in another forum would prejudice the interests of other creditors, the creditors' committee and other interested parties; (8) Whether the judgment claim arising from the foreign action is subject to equitable subordination under Section 510(c); (9) Whether movant's success in the foreign proceeding would result in a judicial lien avoidable by the debtor under Section 522(f); (10) The interests of judicial economy and the expeditious and economical determination of litigation for the parties; (11) Whether the foreign proceedings have progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial; and (12) The impact of the stay on the parties and the "balance of hurt." Plumberex, 311 B.R. at 559. "[W]hile the Curtis factors are widely used to determine the existence of 'cause,' not all of the factors are relevant in every case, nor is a court required to give each factor equal weight." In re Landmark Fence Co., Inc., 2011 WL 6826253 at *4 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 9, 2011).

Based on the present record, the tentative ruling is that these factors weigh in favor of granting relief as set forth above. Most significantly:

As to the first Curtis factor (would relief result in complete resolution of the issues?), it appears that granting relief would result in complete resolution of the issues.

As to the second Curtis factor (connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case) and the seventh Curtis factor (prejudice to other creditors/interested parties), the tentative ruling is that granting relief will not interfere with this case and will be most expeditious in bringing the litigation to a conclusion and Debtor has not established that she or the estate would be prejudiced.

As to the fourth Curtis factor (whether a specialized tribunal has been established to hear the action) and the eleventh Curtis factor (whether the proceedings have progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial), the tentative ruling is that, although not a specialized tribunal, the State Court would be best suited to determine post-trial attorneys' fees issues due to its prior experience with and jurisdiction over this matter.

As to the tenth Curtis factor (interest of judicial economy) and the twelfth Curtis factor (the impact of the stay on the parties and the "balance of hurt"), the tentative ruling is that the matter is more properly determined by the State Court because it is best suited to determine the reasonableness of services performed and costs expended and Debtor has not responded with any argument to convince this Bankruptcy Court that the issues would be better dealt with in this Court.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. *See generally Stern v. (2) Mediation

In the parties' joint status report (adv. dkt. 6), the parties have both indicated that they would like this matter sent to mediation. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/23/21 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 1/7/21. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Chapter 11

#2.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case
fr. 3/23/21, 4/27/21

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/1/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Dismiss this case with a bar, and issue order to show cause ("OSC")

The tentative ruling, is to dismiss this case with a 180 day bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy due to "willful failure of the debtor to abide by orders of the court, or to appear before the court in proper prosecution of the case." 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1). In addition, the tentative ruling is to issue an OSC directing Debtor's principal (Mr. Melamed) and Debtor's counsel to appear and show cause why they should not be subject to sanctions of $200 each, for the following reasons.

(i) Failure to appear at the 4/27/21 status conference

This Court's tentative ruling posted in advance of the 4/27/21 status conference (copied below) directed Debtor to appear to address certain issues discussed therein, but Debtor failed to appear or otherwise notify Judge Bason's staff in advance of the hearing about any circumstances that might have prompted this Court to excuse Debtor's appearance.

(ii) Failure to comply with reporting requirements

Debtor has repeatedly been late in filing Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs"). See February MOR (dkt. 16, filed 8 days late) & March MOR (dkt. 32, filed 18 days late). As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, Debtor has not filed its April MOR (due 5/15/21), despite having entered into a stipulation to do so (resolving the motion of the United States Trustee ("UST") to dismiss this case, dkt. 40).

(iii) Failure to obtain valuation of property

Debtor's February MOR stated that valuation of its property is key to the success of its plan (dkt. 16, p. 8), but as of the preparation of this tentative ruling (over two months later) Debtor has not filed any motions to value its real properties. Additionally, Debtor's February and March MORs (dkt. 16 & 32) reflect that Debtor is not operating and Debtor continues to accrue administrative expenses without appearing to take any meaningful steps to reorganize its affairs.

(iv) Incorrect/untimely service of original and amended claims bar date orders

On 3/25/21 this Court issued an original bar date order (dkt. 18) which directed Debtor to serve a copy of the order by 3/30/21, but Debtor failed to serve that order at all. On 4/28/21 this Court issued an amended bar date order (dkt. 30) directing Debtor to "serve a copy of this Order (not the notice contemplated by LBR 3003-1)" on all parties in interest no later than 5/3/21 (dkt. 30, p.2, para. "(2)"). Notwithstanding those directions, Debtor appears to have served only the notice contemplated by LBR 3003-1 (see dkt. 35, 36) and even that service was 1 day later than the deadline this Court set.

(v) Conclusion

The foregoing lapses are not terribly serious, and there might (or might not) be good reasons for any one of those lapses (e.g., illness or calendaring errors). But in combination those lapses place undue burdens on other parties in interest (and this Court), and deprive creditors and the UST of timely information that they need. Debtor has obtained the benefits of the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(a)) and the other advantages of bankruptcy (e.g., negotiating leverage, and opportunities for restructuring) without bearing the burdens. That is inappropriate and sanctionable.

The tentative ruling is to set the OSC for the same time as the continued status conference (see part "(2)" of this tentative ruling, below).

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 2/19/21.

(a) Amended Bar date: 6/30/21 (dkt. 30) (served 1 day late, dkt. 35, 36)

(b) Procedures order: dkt.3 (timely served, dkt.5)

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement: See Section (1)(a), above.

(d) Continued status conference: 7/6/21 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report is required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Tentative Ruling for 4/27/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Service of bar date order

This Court's bar date order (dkt. 18) set a deadline of 3/30/21 for Debtor to serve all interested parties. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, there is no proof of service reflecting that Debtor timely complied. Have creditors been served with the bar date order? If so, when did that occur and why has Debtor not filed a proof of service?

(b) Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs")

As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, Debtor has not filed its March MOR. Why not?

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 2/19/21.

(a) Bar date: 5/28/21 (dkt. 18, no proof of service on file)

Tentative Ruling for 3/23/21:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor and by Debtor's principal.

(1) Current issues

(a) Untimely Status report

Debtor filed its status report (dkt. 15) four days late, on 3/13/21, without providing any explanation for the late filing. Debtor/counsel are cautioned that failure to timely comply with this Court's orders in future may result in adverse consequences.

(b) First-day motions

Debtor's status report states that a budget motion is not required by the presiding judge's procedures. Dkt. 15, p.3. That is wrong (see posted "Procedures of Judge Bason," available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov), but the tentative ruling is to excuse this requirement with a caution to counsel not to mis-state the applicable procedures.

If Debtor has not filed an employment application or any other typical so-called "first-day" motion(s) by the time of this hearing, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/30/21 for Debtor to file any outstanding motion(s) with a hearing concurrent with the continued status conference. Tentative Ruling for 6/1/21:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of SAS Creditor Trust (the "Trust") for Sanctions for Violation of the Automatic Stay ("Sanctions Motion," dkt. 727, 729), Opposition (dkt. 731)

Bankruptcy cases would be unworkable if creditors could proceed with their litigation in nonbankruptcy courts in disregard of the automatic stay. Although this Bankruptcy Court has no wish to interfere with the State Courts' management of their own cases, this Bankruptcy Court must recognize that, under the Supremacy Clause and the Bankruptcy Code, State Court proceedings in violation of the automatic stay are void ab initio and creditors who proceed in violation of the stay are subject to sanctions. In re Gruntz, 202 F.3d 1074, 1082 (9th Cir. 2000) (en banc) ("actions taken in violation of the automatic stay are void. Further, '[j]udicial proceedings in violation of th[e] automatic stay are void.' . . . As the Supreme Court explained in Kalb v. Feuerstein, 308 U.S. 433, 443 (1940)], discussing the weaker predecessor statute to 11 U.S.C. § 362(a), '[b]ecause that State court had been deprived of all jurisdiction or power to proceed ... [all acts by creditor]-to the extent based upon the [State] court's actions-were all without authority of law.'" (citations omitted).

When Debtor and the Trust pointed this out, Mr. Logan Deaton ("Deaton") incorrectly asserted, through his counsel Maryann P. Gallagher, Esq. and her law offices (collectively, "Gallagher"), that "[f]iling a lawsuit is not a violation of an automatic stay, it is necessary to preserve the statute [of limitations] and to preserve the claim." Sanctions Motion (dkt. 727), Ex. 8 (at PDF p.93). No authority is cited for that proposition, and it is simply wrong.

Deaton/Gallagher received numerous notices of both the bankruptcy case and the Trust's (correct) assertions of violation of the automatic stay. Gallagher acknowledges "constant calls" to that effect (Sanctions Motion, dkt. 727, Ex. 8, at PDF p.93) and the Sanctions Motion papers include authenticated copies of numerous notices. See Sanctions Motion (dkt. 727), pp. 10-12 (Margulies Decl.) and Ex. 2 & 5-8, and pp. 87-89 (Morales Dec.) and Ex. A.

Nor are Deaton/Gallagher persuasive when they assert that the Trust lacks standing to seek damages because "they are a corporation and not an individual." Opp. (dkt. 731) p.2:19-20. True, the Trust's correspondence incorrectly cited 11 U.S.C. 362(k), which only applies to individuals; but the Trust's motion, and its notice of the bankruptcy case filed in the State Court, both correctly assert that a violation of the automatic stay and the injunctions issued by this Court in connection with the confirmed chapter 11 plan are grounds for issuance of an order to show cause ("OSC") why Deaton and Gallagher should not be held in contempt under 11 U.S.C. 105(a). See Sanctions Motion (dkt.727), pp. 3-9 and Ex.6, especially at p.80 (citing cases).

Nor are Deaton and Gallagher persuasive when they assert that the harm in this case - apparently consisting of the time and attorney fees involved in attempting to obtain Deaton/Gallagher's recognition of the automatic stay - was "self inflicted" because there was "no reason" to appear at status conferences in the State Court action. Opp. (dkt.731), p.2:23-26. It is preposterous to suggest that attorneys should simply fail to appear at status conferences: that would have risked prejudice to the bankruptcy or Trust estate, as well as possible sanctions against the non-appearing attorneys.

Based on all of the foregoing, Deaton/Gallagher appear only to be digging a deeper hole for themselves by raising many unpersuasive, if not frivolous, arguments. That said, they raise three arguments that, temporarily, appear to present obstacles to the Trust.

First, Deaton/Gallagher might be correct that, in addition to serving Gallagher, the Trust should have served Deaton. See Opp. (dkt.731), p.2:21-22. The issue is unclear because it is ambiguous in Gallagher's correspondence whether Gallagher is representing Deaton and accepting service for him for purposes of the bankruptcy case, and therefore arguably the Trust should have served Deaton individually. See In re Villar, 317 B.R. 88, 93 (9th Cir. BAP 2004) (counsel who had represented party in non-bankruptcy matters cannot be presumed to be agent for service of process regarding bankruptcy matters). Of course, normally communicating directly with a represented party is prohibited and can lead to sanctions, so ideally both Gallagher and the Trust should have clarified whether Gallagher was or was not representing Deaton for purposes of any defense to the Trust's assertions of a violation of the automatic stay. Gallagher is directed to clarify that issue at the hearing.

Second, Deaton/Gallagher are correct that the first step is for this Bankruptcy Court to determine whether or not to issue an OSC. See Opp., dkt.731, p.2:8-12. It would be premature for this Bankruptcy Court to proceed to sanctions at this time.

Third, it appears that, due to the time for delivery of U.S. mail to Gallagher's offices, it may be appropriate to grant additional time for Deaton/Gallagher to respond more fully. In addition to the normal delivery time, Gallagher asserts special delays due to COVID-19.

In sum, it appears that this hearing must be continued, with possible service of an additional notice to Deaton. But, before anyone incurs the expense of such additional proceedings, the tentative ruling is to order mandatory mediation, in the hope that the parties can resolve their differences more efficiently.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 6/11/21 for the parties to lodge proposed order(s) assigning this matter to mediation, provided that on or before that date Gallagher must confirm in papers filed with this Bankruptcy Court that Deaton is subjecting himself to the jurisdiction of this Bankruptcy Court without the need for additional notice of these proceedings to be served on him. If no such papers are filed, then the Trust may proceed with serving Deaton (and may add the expenses of doing so to its asserted damages). In any event, the tentative ruling is to continue the proceedings on this Motion to the same time as the continued post-confirmation status conference (see below).

(2) Deadlines/dates

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/1/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 6/1/21.

(1) Current issues

(a) United States Trustee's motion to dismiss, convert or appoint a chapter 11 trustee (dkt. 58, "MTD"), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 70), UST's reply (dkt. 71), continuing compliance order (dkt. 76)

The tentative ruling is to continue this hearing to be concurrent with the continued status conference (see below, section "(2)(a)").

But Debtor is reminded that this Court's continuing compliance order (dkt. 76) requires Debtor to timely file Monthly Operating Reports (id., p.1:24-27) and this Court notes that Debtor filed its March MOR (dkt. 104) five days late and its April MOR (dkt. 105) two days late. The tentative ruling is to excuse the late filings in this instance, but Debtor is again cautioned that failure to timely file MORs in future may result in the UST filing a notice of delinquency and lodging a proposed order converting this case to chapter 7 (dkt. 76, pp.1:27-2:8).

(b) Amended Disclosure Statement (dkt. 81) and Plan (dkt. 80), JPMC objection (dkt. 82), U.S. Trustee objection (dkt.88), Amended Plan (dkt.89), Amended Disclosure Statement (dkt.90)

Based on the arguments and representations of the parties at the hearing on 12/22/20 and subsequent hearings, this Court was persuaded to continue this matter multiple times to see whether Debtor's performance is consistent with its current projections (or not). Debtor's Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs") for December 2020 - April 2021 (dkt. 93, 96, 100, 104, 105) show a consistent improvement in Debtor's financial performance and sufficient cash flow to satisfy this Court's concerns about the feasibility of moving forward with plan confirmation.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 6/11/21 for Debtor to file a further amended Plan and amended Disclosure Statement to correct the issues highlighted in this Court's 12/22/20 Tentative Ruling (copied below) and lodge a proposed order, substantially in the form of the order posted on Judge Bason's portion of the Court's website (www.cacb.uscourts.gov), authorizing the service of a voting package and setting a combined hearing on final approval of the further amended Disclosure Statement and confirmation of the further amended Plan for the same time as the continued status conference (see below, section "(2)(a)").

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 5/21/20.

- (a) Bar date: 7/30/20 per General Order 20-01 (70 days after petition date in Subchapter V cases) (DO NOT SERVE any notice: one has already been sent, see dkt. 12).
- (b) Procedures order: dkt.7 (served one day late, dkt. 14)
- (c) PlanDisclosure Statement*: See above.
- (d) Continued status conference: 8/3/21 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Tentative Ruling for 2/9/21:

Tentative Ruling for 12/22/20:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) United States Trustee's motion to dismiss, convert or appoint a chapter 11 trustee (dkt. 58, "MTD"), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 70), UST's reply (dkt. 71), continuing compliance order (dkt. 76)

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address whether Debtor is in full compliance with all of its reporting and disclosure obligations, and has been maintaining regular communications with the Subchapter V Trustee and creditors.

(b) Amended Disclosure Statement (dkt. 81) and Plan (dkt. 80), JPMC objection (dkt. 82), U.S. Trustee objection (dkt.88), Amended Plan (dkt.89), Amended Disclosure Statement (dkt.90)

(i) Agreement(s)?

The parties are directed to address whether the Plan reflects agreements with creditors, and whether it includes all secured and unsecured claims that are allowed, or untimely claims that might (or might not) be allowed. See dkt.82.

(ii) Feasibility?

The good news is that Debtor appears to have corrected its reporting of recent financial history. Compare Disclosure Statement (dkt.90-2), Ex.D (summary of prepetition books & MORs), with U.S. Trustee's Objection (dkt.88), Ex.1 (summary of MORs). In addition, Debtor's historical profit & loss statements (Disclosure Statement, dkt.90-14, Attachment 8) show considerable improvement from the losses in 2018 and 2019 to a modest income in the first part of 2020. The declaration of one of Debtor's principals, Joel Russell (id., dkt.90-15) also appears to show good reasons to anticipate continued improvement. Debtor projects net cash flow (before debt payments) starting at $6,665.00 for 12/20 and increasing initially to $7,706.25/mo. and eventually to over $9,000.00/mo. See Disclosure Statement, dkt.90-11, Attachment 5.

Chapter 11

But Debtor's projected cash flows appear to be unrealistic because at present Debtor is barely breaking even, after monthly interest-only payments of $3,500/mo. to its principal secured creditor, First Home Bank (see, e.g., MOR for 11/20, dkt.86-2, p.2, and MOR for 10/20, dkt.83-5, p.2), whereas under the Plan Debtor would be paying $5,055.73/mo. to First Home Bank, plus an additional $519.61 to Chase and $916.67 to the Subchapter V Trustee or General Unsecured Creditors. See Plan (dkt.89) Ex.A, Classes 2A, 2B & 4A. Based on this apparent gap between projections and recent history, the tentative ruling is to continue the hearing on any Plan and Disclosure Statement until Debtor begins to demonstrate performance consistent with its current projections (or not).

Meanwhile, the tentative ruling is to direct Debtor's counsel not to expend time (and attorney fees) revising the Disclosure Statement to correct the issues noted below, but to be prepared to do so if directed at a future Status Conference (if Debtor's financial performance demonstrates feasibility).

(iii) Corrections to Disclosure Statement (for future reference)

When and if this Court directs, Debtor must prepare a further amended Disclosure Statement correcting formatting issues, such as blank pages (see, e.g., Disclosure Statement (dkt.90-1), Ex.C1 through C3, at PDF pp.2-4) and miniature pages. See id., Ex.E (dkt.90-3). In addition, Ex.C to the Disclosure Statement uses a single, unchanging projection of monthly net income, whereas Debtor's actual projections are much more variable (mostly projected increases). The tentative ruling is that Ex.C need not show every monthly variation, but should reflect the average projections for each of the periods in the Plan.

Again, the tentative ruling is to direct Debtor's attorneys not to correct any of the above-referenced issues unless and until Debtor demonstrates sufficient cash flow for feasibility purposes.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 5/21/20.

Although this Court recognizes that appointment of a trustee involves expense and potential disruption of transactions that are currently in process, nevertheless the IRS had made a prima facie showing of "dishonesty," and even "fraud," under 11 U.S.C. 1104(a)(1) and there is no contrary evidence let alone a persuasive response.

Not only is the plain meaning of section 1104(a)(1) satisfied, but the spirit of the law is met as well. This Court cannot have any confidence that Debtor will not abscond with funds, or otherwise cause far greater harm to the estate than the expense and possible disruption of turning over control to a chapter 11 trustee. In addition to the proof presented by the IRS, the history of this case deepens those concerns. Debtor appears to have commingled funds - this Court has addressed at multiple status conferences that many of Debtor's monthly operating reports failed to meet the reporting requirements of the United States Trustee ("UST") - and Debtor has defaulted multiple times on this Court's adequate protection orders. See dkt. 144, 198, 209, 245, 302, 310, 315, 339. This Court has already given Debtor significant leeway with regard to his conduct as Debtor under the Bankruptcy Code, and no further leeway is warranted pursuant to this Court's responsibility to preserve the integrity of the bankruptcy system.

The UST and counsel for the IRS and Debtor are directed to address at the hearing how best to coordinate the transition to a chapter 11 trustee.

(1) Current issues

(a) Cash collateral: declaration re 3d default (the "Default Decl.," dkt.315), Debtor's response (dkt.317), order setting hearing (dkt.318)

At the 4/27/21 hearing, this Court held that Debtor is required to prepare a budget, progress reports, and permit site inspections upon request. This Court also directed the parties to meet and confer to discuss reporting requirements for these disclosures and continued the hearing on this matter to resolve any disputes that may have arisen during the course of the meet and confer.

This Court notes that Debtor's latest Monthly Operating Reports (dkt. 348, for March 2021) are finally labeled to show which account relates to which property. But that appears to be "shutting the barn door after the horses have left," because the properties no longer generate income and there are almost no funds left.

In addition, this Court notes that (i) at PDF p.12 of the MOR it appears to report that home insurance expired months ago, car insurance is about to expire, and no payments have been made on either insurance for months, and (ii) PDF p.13 appears to be a random, misplaced page. Debtor is directed to address these issues at the hearing, as well as progress on selling the remaining properties of this bankruptcy estate.

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to discuss whether they have reached a consensus and/or whether there are any disputed issues for this Court to address.

(b) U.S. Bank Trust NA as Trustee of the Tiki Series III Trust's Declaration of Default Under Adequate Protection Order; Request for Entry of Order Granting Relief from Stay (dkt. 339), Debtor's Opposition (dkt. 342), order setting hearing (dkt. 343)

#24.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case
fr. 2/9/21, 03/02/21, 4/6/21, 4/27/21

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/1/21:

Appearance required by counsel for Debtor.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's plan of reorganization (dkt. 58, "Plan")

Based on the discussion on the record at the hearing on 4/27/21, the tentative ruling is not to set a deadline for Debtor to file an amended Plan addressing the issues outlined at that hearing until it is clear whether Debtor will be able to obtain post-petition financing to fund repairs for the El Nido Property. Debtor is directed to address the status of any efforts to locate such financing.

(b) Debtor's motion to commence loan modification management program (LMM) (dkt. 64), Limited opposition of Royal Business Bank ("Bank") (dkt. 71), Debtor's reply (dkt. 73), notice of hearing (dkt. 73)

The tentative ruling is to overrule the limited opposition, without prejudice, and grant the motion, because Bank objects to the lack of specificity in what loan modification Debtor might seek, but Debtor's motion is only to commence the loan modification process and it will be up to the parties to negotiate possible loan modifications (if any) to which either would agree.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(c) Monthly operating reports ("MORs")

Debtor has projected positive cash flow but is incurring negative cash flow. See MORs (dkt. 63, 69). What is Debtor's explanation, and how can creditors and this Court expect positive cash flow in future?

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 1/19/21 .

Docket 113

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/1/21:
Appearances required.

At the 5/20/21 hearing, this Court granted a brief continuance to allow the parties to address this Court's concerns as set forth in the 5/20/21 tentative ruling and as stated on the record. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to discuss what progress, if any, they have made towards either (i) modifying their agreements to address this Court's concerns or (ii) mooted this Court's concerns (except the fourth stated concern, which is not enough by itself to deny the parties' motions) by being able to close a refinance or other transaction before or concurrent with this Court's approval of their proposed settlement.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Chapter 13

The tentative ruling is that the settlement/finance motion and associated relief from the automatic stay cannot be approved in its present form, for the reasons set forth below. Appearances required.

Debtor proposes to satisfy the claim of Investment Management Company, LLC ("IMC") in a somewhat reduced dollar amount on or before 11/24/21, failing which IMC may foreclose without reducing its claim. Meanwhile Debtor and her non-debtor husband would stipulate to in rem relief and dismissal of this bankruptcy case with a bar to refiling a future bankruptcy case. See Settlement/Refi. Motion (dkt.113), Ex.1&2, at PDF pp. 24-43.

According to the record before this Court, there is substantial equity in the subject property, so any bar against refiling and any in rem relief could prejudice creditors other than IMC. First, the parties' papers do not allege facts or assert arguments that the predicates for dismissal with a bar or for in rem relief are satisfied under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1) or 362(d)(4), or any other authority, and there is a general public policy against enforcing contractual commitments not to file a future bankruptcy case. The parties papers do not analyze those issues at all.

Second, the parties' papers do not assert that the non-debtor husband's creditors have received notice. This Court has due process concerns about granting the requested relief without notice to them.

Third, such relief would appear to prejudice future creditors of Debtor, or her non-debtor husband, or both, and there is no way to know who those creditors might be.

Fourth, this Court has concerns with adding this Court's implicit imprimatur regarding the proposed new financing, which appears to have inconsistent provisions about whether the new loan will be a business or personal loan, and has onerous regular and default interest rates. See dkt.113, at PDF p.46 (12% rate, 22% default rate, compounded monthly); and dkt.113 at PDF p.50 (Certificate of Business Purpose Loan).

#1.00 Hrg re: Motion to Dismiss Chapter 7 Case
Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. Section 707(a)

Docket 10

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Debtor's opposition (dkt. 16), Don King Productions, Inc.'s ("Don King") reply papers (dkt. 17, 18, 19) and Objection to Debtor's declaration (dkt. 20)

The tentative ruling is to order the parties to mediation and set a deadline of 6/8/21 for the parties to lodge order(s) assigning this matter to mediation.

The tentative ruling is to also set a continued hearing for 8/3/21 at 2:00 p.m., with additional deadlines between now and then for the parties to cure and/or address various issues, as set forth below, in the event that their mediation is unsuccessful.

(a) 7/9/21 for Don King to re-serve its papers, with a new notice, via US mail. Reasons: Don King's proof of service (dkt. 10, pdf p. 14) does not reflect service on all creditors as required by Rule 2002(a)(4) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). The tentative ruling is that Don King must file and serve an amended notice stating that the deadline is 7/20/21 for any parties in interest not previously served with the motion papers to file and serve an opposition, and that the deadline is 7/27/21 for Don King to file and serve reply papers.

(b) 7/13/21 for Debtor to file and serve an amended declaration that is in proper form (the tentative ruling is to sustain Don King's objection to the admissibility of Debtor's declaration, dkt. 16, pp.8-9).

(c) 7/13/21 for Debtor to file and serve supplemental declaration(s) responding to Don King's assertions that he has undisclosed sources of income from, among other things, an alleged 5/15/21 boxing match and paid sponsorships or that his social media posts and that his social media posts and spending habits allegedly to contradict the information reported in Debtor's Schedules and Statement of Financial Affairs ("SOFA").

(d) 7/13/21 for Don King to file and serve supplemental declaration(s) establishing that it provided Debtor with an invoice or other communication to put Debtor on notice that it was owed $28,000 prior to the petition date and present admissible evidence in support of its assertions that Debtor has participated in other bouts and has the potential to earn substantial sums of money.

(e) 7/20/21 for the parties to file and serve briefs responding to the other parties' supplemental pleadings, and

(f) 7/27/21 for the parties to file and serve reply papers.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, the parties may seek this Court's approval to modify the foregoing deadlines and/or seek a further continuance of the hearing for good cause shown, including progress in mediation.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date incorporating the foregoing dates and deadlines, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Appearances required. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address (1) a proposed timeline, and sequence, for discovery and court proceedings regarding the value of the Paramour and whether Bobs, LLC's second loan is secured or unsecured, and (2) whether this Court should set an evidentiary hearing regarding the value of the Paramour, or whether other procedures are appropriate, such as using a third party appraiser, selected jointly by the parties' own appraisers, who would be either appointed as this Court's own expert witness to assist this Court in assessing the parties' appraisals and testimony of their appraisers, or, alternatively, whose determination would be binding. Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/1/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of Bobs LLC ("Bobs") For Relief From The Automatic Stay ("R/S Motion," dkt. 936), Prior Responses by various parties in interest (dkt. 948-952), Bobs' Prior Reply (dkt. 958, 959), Joinder in Prior Response (dkt. 1005), Bobs' Supplement (dkt. 1413), Supp. Response of Dean G. Rallis, Jr., Court Appointed Agent ("Agent") (dkt. 1415), Agent's Evidentiary Objections (dkt. 1416), Supp. Joinder of The Bird Nest, LLC ("Bird") and the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Los Angeles and the California Institute of the Sisters of the Most Holy and Immaculate Heart of the Blessed Virgin Mary (collectively, "Church") (dkt. 1417)

Bobs asserts that its debt secured by the Paramour, combined the first lien debt, total near $17 million, and that the Paramour is worth no more than $14.5 million based on an appraisal obtained from Chris Adelman. Dkt. 1413, pp. 4:8–9, 6:24–26. In response, the Agent and others note the age and other alleged deficiencies in the Adelman appraisal and point to several appraisals which value the Paramour at anywhere from $36 million to $48 million. Dkt. 1415, p. 5:3–9.

The tentative ruling is that the age of the Adelman appraisal goes to its weight, not admissibility, and in any event the appraisals on which the Agent and others rely have also grown somewhat stale during the continuances of this matter. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to continue this matter for all parties to obtain revised appraisals.

The Agent requests that, if this Court does not deny the R/S Motion at this point, it set an evidentiary hearing to value the Paramour. Likewise, Bobs requests that this Court first hold an evidentiary hearing to determine the value of the Paramour and defer until later other issues such as the dollar amount of its secured claim.

The tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to set an evidentiary hearing at this time. It also appears to be appropriate to defer any determination of the dollar amount of Bobs' claim that is secured by the Paramour, because the difference in the secured claim amount is dwarfed by the range of valuations, so it appears to be most efficient to determine the value first. As to the evidentiary objections (dkt. 952, 1416) to Mr. Shy's declarations, and Bobs' response (dkt. 959), the tentative ruling is to overrule the first of the objections addressed by Bobs (dkt.959, p.2) but sustain the remaining objections, without prejudice to presenting alternative evidence on the issues. As for the junior lienholders' standing, the parties are directed to address that issue at the hearing.

Regarding the procedures for a future evidentiary hearing, the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to balance the fact that, on the one hand, (i) matters involving relief from the automatic stay generally are "summary" proceedings, and this Bankruptcy Court has already noted that vast sums have been spent on litigation in this case, and (ii) on the other hand, this particular litigation appears to warrant the expenditure of reasonable additional funds because so much appears to hinge on the outcome of the R/S Motion. In other words, the tentative ruling is to establish procedures that are neither too "summary" nor in the nature of "scorched earth" litigation that would deplete the bankruptcy estate. See generally In re Johnson, 756 F.2d 738, 740 (9th Cir.1985) (relief from stay matters are properly "handled in a summary fashion") (overruled on other grounds by Travelers Cas. & Sur. Co. v. Pac. Gas & Elec. Co., 549 U.S. 443 (2007)). See also Mem. Dec. Denying Debtor's Financing Motion (dkt. 1382), p. 19:12-15 (administrative expenses allegedly approaching $4 million).

With the foregoing parameters in mind, the parties are directed to address how much time they will need to revise appraisals, depose appraisers, conduct any other relevant discovery, prepare for an evidentiary hearing on valuation, and conduct their examination at an evidentiary hearing. See Mem. Dec. Denying Debtor's Financing Motion (dkt. 1382), n. 7 at p. 15:18-22 ("Bobs could file a motion for relief from the automatic stay" but that could take substantial time because "in all likelihood there would have to be discovery and a trial on valuation").

Tentative Ruling for 6/1/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's disclosure statement (dkt. 228) and plan of reorganization (dkt. 227), Tarzana Crossing's objection (dkt. 234), Plan support statement of Criscione-Meyer Entitlement and Dos Cabezas (dkt. 236), Debtor's reply (dkt. 237), Redlined plan and disclosure statement (dkt. 239), Order conditionally approving disclosure statement and setting plan confirmation hearing and related deadlines (dkt. 241, "DS/Plan Scheduling Order"), Amended plan (dkt. 243), Amended disclosure statement (dkt. 244), proof of service of voting package (dkt. 249), Opposition of Tarzana to Amended Disclosure Statement and Amended Plan (dkt. 263, 264), Ballot Summary (dkt. 266), Debtor's reply papers (dkt. 267, 268)

The tentative ruling is to overrule Tarzana's objections in substantial part, but direct the parties to appear to address the following confirmation issues:

(i) Proposed treatment of Class 4 (Prior Buyer Releasors)

The Amended Plan proposes the following treatment for Class 4 "Prior Buyer Releasors" (which this Court understands to include Dos Cabezas Properties, LLC, Criscione-Meyer Entitlement, LLC, Thirteen Twenty, LLC and 1330 TIC Group, a tenancy in common group, Michael Criscione, Michael Meyer, and Third Day Nipoma, LLC):

On the Effective Date, the Mutual Release of the Purchase Agreement provided by both the Debtor and the Prior Buyer Releasors shall be immediately effective. Pursuant to the Mutual Release, an exhibit the Purchase Agreement, the Debtor and the Prior Buyer Releasors are to provide mutual releases. The Derivative Causes of Action filed by Tarzana on behalf of the Debtor in the Tarzana AP and the State Court Action are to be dismissed with prejudice. The Prior Buyer Releasors shall dismiss the Prior Buyers AP and the Cross-Complaint with prejudice and shall withdraw or dismiss with prejudice, as appropriate, the Dos Cabezas/Criscione Proof of Claim, among other Prior Buyers Adverse Bankruptcy Actions, to the extent they remain pending. This treatment of Class 4 holders shall be effective regardless of whether the sale of the Property pursuant to the Purchase Agreement closes [dkt. 243, p.15, Section 2.4(d) (emphasis added)].

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not cited any authority establishing that its proposal to release the estate's claims against the Prior Buyers, regardless of whether the sale closes and without providing some alternative form of consideration, satisfies the fair and equitable requirements of 11 U.S.C. 1129(b).

Similarly, Debtor should be prepared to provide authority establishing that its proposal to dismiss claims asserted against RU, LLC, for no consideration, satisfies the fair and equitable requirements of 11 U.S.C. 1129(b). See dkt. 243, pp. 9:2-6 & 15, Section 2.4(d).

(iii) Exculpation and limitation of liability clause

Section 524(e) provides that "discharge of a debt of the debtor does not affect the liability of any other entity on, or the property of any other entity for, such debt." 11 U.S.C. 524(e).

Debtor's Amended Plan provides:

Notwithstanding any other provision of the Plan, no holder of a Claim or Interest, no other party in interest, none of their respective agents, employees, representatives, financial advisors, attorneys, or affiliates, and no successors or assigns of the foregoing, shall have any right of action whether in law or equity, whether for breach of contract, statute, or tort claim, against the Debtor or its Estate, assets, properties, or interests in property, for any act or omission in connection with, relating to, or arising out of, this Case, the pursuit of Confirmation of the

Chapter 11

Plan, consummation of the Plan, or the administration of the Plan or the property to be distributed under the Plan. [Dkt. 243, p. 26, Article X, Section 10.2]

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's exculpation clause is overly broad under the standard set forth in the Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit's Blixseth, 961 F.3d 1074 (9th Cir. 2020) decision, because it purports to release parties from any tortious claim without regard to whether parties being released engaged in any willful misconduct or gross negligence. See id., at 1082 (approving the breadth of exculpation clause because it "applies only to negligence claims; it does not release parties 'from willful misconduct or gross negligence'").

(b) Fairview's motion for relief from stay (dkt. 231), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 238), Fairview's reply (dkt. 242), Order setting forth Court's tentative ruling (dkt. 241, "4/29/21 Order"), Debtor's supplemental declaration in support of opposition papers (dkt. 253)

If this Court is persuaded to confirm Debtor's Amended Plan, the tentative ruling is to take this matter off-calendar without prejudice to Fairview resetting it if it is not paid in full within 30 days after entry of the confirmation order.

(c) Motion of Doz Cabezas Properties, LLC ("Dos Cabezas") to dismiss case (dkt. 145, 166, the "MTD"), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 168), Dos Cabezas's reply (173), Dos Cabezas's supplemental papers (dkt. 179, 182), Debtor's supplemental papers (dkt. 181, 183), Debtor's status report (dkt. 188), Doz Cabezas's supplemental papers (dkt. 193), Debtor's supplemental response (dkt. 197)

If this Court is persuaded to confirm the Debtor's Amended Plan, the tentative ruling is to deny this motion as moot. Alternatively, the tentative ruling is to continue this matter concurrent with the continued status conference (see Section (2)(d) below).

(d) Debtor's applications to retain and compensate ordinary course professionals (dkt. 186, "Ordinary Course Application"), Opposition of Dos Cabezas (dkt. 194), Debtor's reply (dkt. 198), Stipulation to withdraw Dos Cabezas' opposition and order thereon (dkt. 247, 248), Stipulation to continue hearing (dkt.269)

Continue to 6/29/21 at 1:00 p.m., to provide Debtor time to address the issues raised in this Court's 4/27/21 tentative ruling (copied below).

(e) Tarzana Crossing v. 110 West Properties, LLC et al. (2:20-ap-01012-NB)

If this Court is persuaded to confirm the Debtor's Amended Plan, the tentative ruling is that this proceeding will be moot (unless this Court is persuaded not to confirm the Plan, in which case the parties should be prepared to address whether this Court should grant Tarzana's motion to remand this proceeding back to the State Court at this time).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 11/29/19.

(a) Bar date: 3/31/20 (dkt.46, timely served, dkt.49).

(b) Procedures order: dkt. 2 (timely served, dkt. 8, 9)

(c) AmPlan (dkt. 243)/AmDisclosure Statement (dkt. 244)*: See above.

(d) Post-Confirmation status conference: If this Court is persuaded to confirm Debtor's Amended Plan, 9/28/21 at 1:00 p.m., with a status report due 14 days in advance or, alternatively, 6/29/21 at 2:00 p.m.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's disclosure statement (dkt. 228) and plan of reorganization (dkt. 227), Tarzana Crossing's objection (dkt. 234), Plan support statement of Criscione-Meyer Entitlement and Dos Cabezas (dkt. 236), Debtor's reply (dkt. 237), Redlined plan and disclosure statement (dkt. 239), Order conditionally approving disclosure statement and setting plan confirmation hearing and related deadlines (dkt. 241, "DS/Plan Scheduling Order"), Amended plan (dkt. 243), Amended disclosure statement (dkt. 244), proof of service of voting package (dkt. 249)

The tentative ruling is to continue this matter concurrent with the continued status conference (see Section (2)(d) below), pursuant to this Court's DS/Plan Scheduling Order. If any party wishes to address any discovery dispute(s) they are directed to follow the Posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov).

As set forth in this Court's 4/29/21 Order, the tentative ruling is that Fairview must be granted some form of relief, and that the appropriate relief at this stage is to order adequate protection, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 361, 362(d), and 363(e), to require Debtor to proceed very quickly to attempt to obtain confirmation or its Plan.

Proposed order: Fairview is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this Court's tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1) (B).

Chapter 11

Tentative Ruling for 4/2721:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's disclosure statement (dkt. 228) and plan of reorganization (dkt. 227), Tarzana Crossing's objection (dkt. 234)

There is no tentative ruling. Appearances required.

(b) Motion of Doz Cabezas Properties, LLC ("Dos Cabezas") to dismiss case (dkt. 145, 166, the "MTD"), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 168), Dos Cabezas's reply (173), Dos Cabezas's supplemental papers (dkt. 179, 182), Debtor's supplemental papers (dkt. 181, 183), Debtor's status report (dkt. 188), Doz Cabezas's supplemental papers (dkt. 193), Debtor's supplemental response (dkt. 197)

There is no tentative ruling. The outcome of this motion may depend in part on this Court's rulings on Debtor's Disclosure Statement and Plan.

(c) Debtor's applications to retain and compensate ordinary course professionals (dkt. 186, "Ordinary Course Application"), and employ BBG, Inc., as its appraiser (dkt. 187, "Appraisal Application") (together, the "Applications"), Omnibus opposition of Dos Cabezas (dkt. 194), Debtor's reply (dkt. 198)

The parties should be prepared to address the following issues:

(i) Service

Debtor's proofs of service filed in support of the Applications (dkt. 186, at pdf p.112-114 and dkt. 187, at pdf pp.23-25, 29-31, 36-38) do not state whether the Applications were served on the twenty largest unsecured creditors as required by LBR 2014-1(a)(2). Debtor should be prepared to address whether those creditors have been served.

(ii) Court approval is required before a "professional" can be employed or paid (11 U.S.C. 327(a))

Section 327(a) states: "Except as otherwise provided in this section, the trustee, with the court's approval, may employ one or more attorneys, accountants, appraisers, auctioneers, or other professional persons, that do not hold or represent an interest adverse to the estate, and that are disinterested persons, to represent or assist the trustee in carrying out the trustee's duties under this title." 11 U.S.C. 327(a).

Under section 327(a) and Rule 2014 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.), chapter 11 debtors are required to obtain court approval before a "professional person" may be employed and paid by the estate. Whether a particular party is a professional person depends upon the nature of services to be performed; the more central the services are to the administration of the estate, the more likely those services will be determined to be professional in nature. In re That's Entm't Mktg. Grp., Inc., 168 B.R. 226, 230 (N.D. Cal. 1994).

(iii) BBG Inc ("BBG")

The tentative ruling is that BBG is a "professional" whose employment must be approved by this Court for the following reasons. First, section 327(a) specifically names "appraisers" as the type of professional that is typically required to be employed by the Court and Debtor does not appear to dispute that characterization. See dkt. 187.

Second, Debtor represents that it intends to sell its real properties, which Debtor concedes "are the primary (if not the only) source of recovery for creditors" and needs an appraiser to gauge the potential value of the properties against any potential offers received. Dkt. 187, pdf pp.2:27-3:8; see also Ex.2, pdf p.13 (describing the intended use of BBG's appraisal as being for "internal purposes related to Chapter 11 restructuring"). The tentative ruling is that such services are central to the administration of Debtor's estate and BBG's employment must be authorized by this Court under 327(a).

(iv) Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company - generally

In support of its contention that Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company are "ordinary course professionals," Debtor cites a string of cases articulating tests of varying degrees for determining whether a particular party is a "professional person" requiring employment under 327(a). Dkt. 186, p.10:3-24 (citing Matter of D'lites, 108 B.R. 352, 355 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. 1989) ("professional persons" under section 327(a) does not include parties "who provide services that are necessary whether the petition was filed or not"); In re Fretheim, 102 B.R. 298, 299 (Bankr. D. Conn. 1989) (employee's function must be related to the administration of the estate and employee must be given discretion and autonomy in some part of administration of the estate to qualify as professional); In re Johns-Manville Corp., 60 B.R. 612, 621 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 1986) (professional must play a part in negotiating a plan, adjusting the debtor/creditor relationship, dispose of or acquire assets, or perform any duties required of a debtor by the Bankruptcy Code); In re Napoleon, 233 B.R. 910, 913 (Bankr. D. N.J. 1999) (party must play an integral role in the administration of the bankruptcy case or assist the trustee with important activities, such as obtaining post-petition financing, negotiating creditor claims or formulating plan of reorganization); In re Riker Industries, Inc., 122 B.R. 964, 973 (Bankr. N.D. Ohio 1990) (concluding that whether a person is a professional turns on the degree of autonomy within which the person will operate and the degree of supervision or direction required by the trustee); In re Sieling Associates Ltd. Partnership, 128 B.R. 721, 723 (Bankr. E.D. Va. 1991) (services that have only a tangential relationship to the administration of the estate are not professional in nature).

Debtor argues that Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company are not "professionals" requiring formal retention under section 327(a) because the services they provide are not specific to the chapter 11 case or debtor's restructuring efforts. Dkt. 186, p.6:9-10. Rather, Debtor states that both companies have been employed by it for ten or more years (dkt. 186, p.6:14-19), that Hammonds & Frey "provides accounting services, including bookkeeping services, tax services and preparation of financial documents" (id., p.6:10-12), and Hunter & Company provides management/administrative services, including financial management, keeping Debtor's members apprised of the business operations, assisting in preparing monthly operating reports and other administrative services (id., p.6:14-19).

(v) Hammonds & Frey

The tentative ruling is that Hammonds & Frey is likely a "professional" whose employment must be approved by this Court. First, section 327(a) specifically names "accountants" as the type of professional that is typically required to be employed by the Court. 11 U.S.C. 327(a). Although Debtor argues that Hammonds & Frey is not providing services specific to the Debtor's bankruptcy case, that is undercut by the parties' own agreement, which contemplates Hammonds & Frey assisting Debtor with the preparation of Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs") and other important financial disclosures required by the Bankruptcy Code. See Dkt. 186, pdf p.29 ("[y]ou have requested that we prepare the financial statements of 110 West Properties, LLC, which comprise interim monthly balance sheet as of April 30, 2020 and interim months following, and the related profit and loss statements in the form prescribed by the Office of the United States Trustee Regional Headquarters.") Dkt. 186, pdf p.29.

Second, Debtor's monthly operating reports demonstrate that Debtor is not an operating business with routine functions requiring common accounting services (see, e.g., dkt. 195, 196), and Debtor's papers do not make clear what "ordinary course" services Hammonds & Frey might have provided post-petition to account for its $18,497 bill. Dkt. 186, p.7:3-4. On this record, this Court is inclined to conclude that Hammonds & Frey's services are central to the Debtor's administration.

(vi) Hunter & Company

The tentative ruling is that Hunter & Company likely is a "professional" whose employment must be approved by this Court, but Debtor has not provided sufficient evidence of what services Hunter & Company provides.

Debtor argues that Hunter & Company is not providing services specific to Debtor's bankruptcy case, but that assertion is undercut by Debtor's own representation that Hunter & Company is "assisting in preparing monthly operating reports, and other administrative services," (dkt. 186, p.6:18-19) and the fact that Debtor is not an operating business. This also raises concerns about whether there has been a duplication of services with Hammonds & Frey. Additionally, even when Debtor was able to operate a parking facility before COVID-19 closures, Hunter & Company's "Services Agreement" makes clear that it provides services "unrelated to the direct management of the parking facilities." Dkt. 186, pdf p.96. Debtor's papers do not make clear what "ordinary course" services Hunter & Company might have provided post-petition to account for its $40,392.44 bill. Dkt. 186, p.7:6-9. On this record, this Court is inclined to conclude that Hunter & Company's services are central to the Debtor's administration.

The parties should be prepared to address whether this Court should require Debtor to submit supplemental declaration(s) establishing what post-petition services Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company have provided.

(vii) Professionals must be "disinterested"

Chapter 11

Under 11 USC 327(a), professionals may not hold or represent any interests adverse to the estate and must be disinterested persons. Section 101(14)(A) defines a "disinterested person" as one who, among other things, "is not a creditor . . ." of the estate.

Rule 2014 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.), Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 2014-1(b)(1)(B) and Judge Bason's Posted Procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) require professionals to establish their disinterestedness and disclose the nature of any actual or potential conflicts of interest by filing local form F 2014-1.STMT.DISINTEREST.PROF (statement of disinterestedness).

"Full disclosure is an essential prerequisite for both employment and compensation." In re Triple Star Welding, Inc., 324 B.R. 778, 788-89 (9th Cir. BAP 2005). The disclosure requirements of Rule 2014 are to be strictly applied and bankruptcy courts do not have discretion to waive the requirement of a Rule 2014 statement. Id. at 779-90. "Pursuant to section 327, a professional has a duty to make full, candid and complete disclosure of all facts concerning his transactions with the debtor. Professionals must disclose all connections with the debtor, creditors and parties in interest, no matter how irrelevant or trivial those connections may seem." In re Mehdipour, 202 B.R. 474, 480 (9th Cir. BAP 1996) (internal citations omitted).

In support of the Appraisal Application, BBG submitted a statement of disinterestedness (dkt. 187, pdf pp.32-34). Although Dos Cabezas' raises certain objections regarding BBG's disclosures (dkt. 194, p.5:15-25), it has not cited any authority establishing that BBG should be disqualified simply because it has provided appraisals for Debtor's affiliates in the past. The tentative ruling is that BBG is disinterested and does not hold any interests adverse to the estate.

(x) Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company

Neither the Ordinary Course Application nor Debtor's reply papers include verified statements of disinterestedness from Hammonds & Frey or Hunter & Company affirming that they do not hold any interests adverse to the estate and are disinterested, so on that ground alone their employment cannot be approved.

Additionally and alternatively, neither Hammonds & Frey nor Hunter &

Company are disinterested, because they both hold claims against Debtor's estate. See Claims 3 & 5; 11 U.S.C. 101(14)(A) ("[t]he term 'disinterested person' means a person that – (A) is not a creditor").

Additionally and alternatively, although Debtor correctly points out that Dos Cabezas' arguments are premised on a certain amount of speculation about possible conflicts of interests, Debtor does not squarely address the full extent and nature of those relationships or explain why it included a statement of disinterestedness in support of the Appraiser Application, but not for Hammonds & Frey or Hunter & Company. This is all the more troubling because there appears to be a lot of interlocking relationships between Debtor's management and owners of adjacent properties and insiders. See, e.g., Dkt. 186, pdf pp.102-07 (agreement between Ian Hunter, Shamrock Parking, Inc., Debtor, and other entities).

The parties should be prepared to address whether Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company are prepared to waive their claims and whether Debtor should be provided an opportunity to file supplemental declarations addressing these issues.

(xi) "Nunc pro tunc," retroactive relief, or employment as of a prior date

Debtor seeks what is characterizes as nunc pro tunc approval of BBG's, Hammond & Frey's and Hunter & Company's employment and compensation. First, there is actually a difference between nunc pro tunc orders, or "now for then" orders, which are supposed to be reserved for ministerial matters and correction of a court's own errors, and "retroactive" relief, which may be authorized by statute or other authority.

Moreover, there may be a difference between making employment "retroactive" and authorizing employment as of an earlier date. From the instant the bankruptcy petition is filed a professional's compensation is contingent on subsequent authorization for the professional's employment, but that contingency does not mean that the authorization itself has to be retroactive.

In any event, regardless of the semantic differences, the issue is whether the professionals whose employment is at issue can qualify for compensation for work that they performed before they sought this Bankruptcy Court's approval of their employment.

(xii) Supreme Court authority; and the standards for relief

The ability to authorize any of the foregoing types of relief has been called into question by the Supreme Court's decision Roman Catholic Archdiocese of San Juan, Puerto Rico v. Acevedo Feliciano, 140 S.Ct 696 (2020). Courts have not been consistent in their application of Acevedo.

Some courts have interpreted it to prohibit essentially all retroactive relief, as noted by the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel of the Ninth Circuit (the "BAP"). In re Merriman, 616 B.R. 381, 391 (9th Cir. BAP 2020) (citing In re Telles, No. 8-20-70325-reg, 2020 WL 2121254 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. Apr. 30, 2020)). Another interpretation is that, although employment cannot be retroactive, compensation can be. See In re Miller, 620 B.R. 637, 638 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. 2020). More generally, the BAP has interpreted Acevedo as primarily focused on jurisdiction, not retroactive relief generally. See Merriman, 616 B.R. 381, 392-95.

The tentative ruling is to agree with Merriman. In appropriate circumstances professionals' employment can be approved as of a date prior when their application was filed, but they must satisfy the traditional standards for such relief. Professionals must "(1) satisfactorily explain their failure to receive prior judicial approval; and (2) demonstrate that their services benefitted the bankruptcy estate in a significant manner." In re Atkins, 69 F.3d 970, 974 (9th Cir. 1995); see also In re THC Fin. Corp., 837 F.2d 389 (9th Cir. 1988).

BBG's employment application was filed on 1/5/21. Debtor submits that employment and compensation are warranted for BBG because Debtor initially believed that BBG's services were obtained in Debtor's ordinary course of business and filed the Appraiser Application once it was brought to its attention that BBG likely did qualify as a professional under 327(a). Dkt. 187, p.7:18-22. Debtor also submits that BBG's services benefitted the estate in a significant manner because the appraisal has provided debtor with better evidence to gauge incoming offers for the sale of its properties and to better evaluate its options in the administration of the estate. Id. p.7:22-25.

The tentative ruling is to authorize BBG's employment under 11 U.S.C. 327(a) and 328, effective as of the date when its services first were rendered. The tentative ruling is also to retroactively authorize BBG's compensation to 7/7/20, so that it may retain the entirety of the $4,500 flat fee it received in

(xiv) Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not adequately briefed the foregoing issues with respect to Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company. Although Debtor cites Acevedo, Debtor simply concludes that granting its request for retroactive relief "does not seek to 'creat[e] 'facts'" or rewrite history" because Debtor believes that Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company do not require formal retention under section 327. Dkt. 186, p.11:23-27. The tentative ruling is that this is insufficient. The parties should be prepared to address a deadline for supplemental papers.

(xv) Proposed ordinary course professionals procedures

The tentative ruling is to grant Debtor's proposed procedures for disclosing any parties Debtor seeks to employ in the ordinary course of its business to allow other parties in interest an opportunity to object to such classification and request a hearing for this Court to determine whether an employment application under 11 USC 327 is appropriate.

(d) Tarzana Crossing v. 110 West Properties, LLC et al. (2:20-ap-01012-NB)

There is no tentative ruling. The outcome of this motion may depend in part on this Court's rulings regarding Debtor's Disclosure Statement and Plan.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 11/29/19.

Tentative Ruling for 4/6/21:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's Sale/Settlement Motion (dkt. 212, amended by dkt. 217), opposition of Tarzana Crossing (dkt. 219), Debtor's reply (dkt. 224)

The tentative ruling is to deny the motion for the following reasons.

(i) Proposed sale of Properties

Debtor seeks approval of a sale of substantially all of its assets to Criscione-Meyer Entitlement ("Buyer") for $22,000,000 pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 363(b) & (f). The proposed purchase price is to be paid as follows. Debtor will receive an immediate cash payment of $10,000,000 and a promissory note due in full in 24 months at 3% annual percentage rate, a deed of trust securing the remaining $12,000,000, and a guaranty. Dkt. 217, pp.8:17-9:19.

(A) Legal standard

Under 11 U.S.C. 363(b), the Debtor may sell estate property out of the ordinary course of business, subject to court approval. The Debtor must articulate a sufficient business reason for the sale. In re Wilde Horse Enters., Inc., 136 B.R. 830, 841 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1991). In determining whether a sale satisfies the business judgment standard, courts must find that the sale "is in the best interests of the estate, i.e., that it is fair and reasonable, that it has been given adequate marketing, that it has been negotiated and proposed in good faith, that the purchaser is proceeding in good faith, and that it is an 'arms length' transaction." Id. at 841-42. Whether the articulated business justification is sufficient "depends on the case," in view of "all salient factors pertaining to the proceeding." In re Walter, 83 B.R. 14, 19-20 (9th Cir. BAP 1988). In proposing a sale outside of the ordinary course, Debtor has the burden of demonstrating that the sale is in the best interests of the estate.

Wilde Horse, 136 B.R. at 841.

(B) Debtor has not carried its burden of demonstrating that the sale is in the best interests of the estate

(1) Sound business purpose/adequate disclosures

The "key to the reorganization Chapter ... is disclosure" Wilde Horse, 136 B.R. at 841 (emphasis in original). "The essential purpose served by disclosure is to ensure that parties in interest are not left entirely at the mercy of the debtor and others having special influence over debtor." Id. Accordingly, "[a] sale of substantially all of debtor's property outside the ordinary course of business, and without a Chapter 11 disclosure statement and plan, must be closely scrutinized." Id. (citation omitted); In re Lionel Corp., 722 F.2d 1063, 1069 (2d Cir. 1983) (reversing a approval of asset sale after holding that 11 U.S.C. 363 does not "gran[t] the bankruptcy judge carte blanche" or "swallo[w] up Chapter 11's safeguards"); In re Braniff Airways, Inc., 700 F.2d 935, 940 (5th Cir. 1983) (prohibiting an attempt "to short circuit the requirements of Chapter 11 for confirmation of a reorganization plan by establishing the terms of the plan sub rosa in connection with a sale of assets").

For the reasons stated in Tarzana Crossing's opposition papers (dkt. 219, p.7:2-19) and this Court's own review of the sale ballots (dkt. 224, Ex.A), this Court has concerns that Debtor may be intentionally or inadvertently circumventing important procedural safeguards by failing to provide its members with meaningful and comprehensive disclosures about the proposed sale and settlement with one of the prior defaulting buyers. This includes, but is not limited to, whether Debtor's members were adequately informed of their ability to vote "no" on the sale ballot, the potentially significant adverse tax consequences, and the identity and current financial wherewithal of the proposed Buyer.

Debtor also balks at Tarzana Crossing's assertion that Debtor was obligated to disclose potentially adverse tax consequences arising from the sale (dkt. 224, pp.3:19-4:3). But Debtor offers no explanation for why that should not have been disclosed prior to any voting. By electing to proceed under section 363(b), Debtor appears to be depriving creditors from receiving "adequate information" as required by 11 U.S.C. 1125(a)(1), which provides for disclosure of:

information of a kind, and in sufficient detail, as far as is reasonably practicable in light of the nature and history of the debtor and the condition of the debtor's books and records, including a discussion of the potential material Federal tax consequences of the plan to the debtor, any successor to the debtor, and a hypothetical investor of the relevant class to make an informed judgment about the plan [11 U.S.C. 1125(a)(1)]

For the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has not sufficiently articulated a sound business justification for electing to sell the Properties through section 363 in lieu of a plan.

(2) Fair and reasonable sale price

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not presented sufficient evidence for this Court to find that the $22,000,000 sale price is fair and reasonable. True, the sale price greatly exceeds any other offers Debtor has received, but this Court questions why Debtor would so willingly repackage a sale to one of the defaulting buyers, at a $13,000,000 discount, despite the parties' contentious past.

Debtor has not presented evidence establishing that the Properties were adequately marketed to justify a private sale to one of the prior defaulting buyers.

Debtor's alleged marketing efforts are broadly described as consisting of Colliers International (x) "distributing marketing materials to prospective potential purchasers of the Properties," (y) "engaging in multiple discussions with prospective potential purchasers," and (z) "initiating a call for offers to thousands of prospective potential investors, developers, real estate agents, buyers, etc.," on 11/16/20." Dkt. 217, p.6:22-27 & Dkt. 183. Debtor further states that in response to the call for offers, Colliers received three offers, ranging from $8,000,000 to $13,300,000, which have now all expired. Id. pp.6:28-7:2.

But this Court's 12/8/20 tentative ruling expressed concerns with the adequacy of the marketing efforts up to that point:

First, Debtor is directed to address why the flyer distributed by Collier included the banner "Bankruptcy Court Approved" (dkt.180, Ex.1, and dkt.183, Ex.1). This Court has not approved any sale (although this Court has approved the employment of Colliers to market of the subject property). In fact, there are open questions about whether Debtor even has the ability to sell the subject property without Dos Cabezas' consent.

Second, Debtor is directed to address how it proposes to disclose to prospective purchasers of the properties the fact that Debtor is seeking to sell the subject property before the State Court has determined the underlying disputes with Dos Cabezas. True, as noted in the tentative ruling for 10/27/20, it is possible that Debtor can distinguish In re Popp, 323 B.R. 260, 268 (9th Cir. BAP 2005), and In re Owens-Johnson, 118 B.R. 780 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1990). But the tentative ruling is that Debtor has to disclose to prospective purchasers that (as this Court understands the issues) Dos Cabezas is asserting that (i) Debtor does not own the subject property, and therefore cannot sell it, and alternatively (ii) a sale under 11 U.S.C. 363(b) and (f) should not, or cannot, be used to defeat a claim for specific performance.

In other words, Debtor is directed to address (in consultation with Colliers) how it will disclose to prospective purchasers the potential obstacles to selling the property, without either misleading purchasers or unduly chilling any potential bidding. Of course, this Court recognizes that in chapter 11 there is a certain degree of deference to the business judgment of Debtor, in consultation with Colliers, regarding how best to market the subject property and when and how to provide disclosures. This Court also recognizes that Dos Cabezas might decide that it is in its own interest to consent to the sale (while preserving whatever interests or claims it might have regarding the proceeds of sale), so as to (i) maximize the value of the bankruptcy estate's assets, (ii) stop the running of interest - especially any default interest - owed to the senior lienholder, and thereby (iii) maximize the funds from which its claim and/or equity interests could receive distributions.

But Debtor's flyer ("Bankruptcy Court Approved," dkt.183, Ex.1, at PDF p.9), combined with Debtor's apparently cavalier attitude toward employment and compensation of professionals (see below), raise concerns about whether Debtor and Colliers are not exercising their business judgment appropriately. Debtor is cautioned that failure to exercise proper business judgment, and act as a trustee for the benefit of creditors, might lead to adverse consequences. Chapter 11

At the hearing on 12/8/20, this Court orally directed Debtor to file supplemental declaration(s) addressing the foregoing issues. On 1/5/21, Debtor timely filed a status report, but the only additional information Debtor provided in connection with its marketing efforts was that "[t]he proposed buyers who submitted offers for the Properties were advised of the State Court litigation and lis pendens affecting the Properties." Dkt. 188, p.5:24-25. Debtor's status report only raises further questions. Did Collier conduct any further marketing efforts following its November 2020 call for offers? What disclosures were provided to the three interested buyers and/or any other interested buyers? Could such disclosures have had the opposite affect of what this Court was concerned might happen, and instead chilled bidding? If Debtor's $22,000,000 appraisal is accurate, why were the offers Debtor received (prior to disclosing its existing litigation) so low?

For the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has not carried its burden as to this factor.

(ii) Proposed settlement with mutual releases

In conjunction with the proposed sale Debtor also seeks approval of a global settlement with mutual releases between Debtor, the proposed Buyer, Dos Cabezas, Michael Criscione and Michael Meyer that would resolve outstanding litigation. Dkt. 217, pp.18:16-22:3. The tentative ruling is that without further disclosures, this Court is skeptical about the propriety of the proposed settlement. The Debtor's papers do not make clear what consideration Dos Cabezas, Michael Criscione and Michael Meyer are receiving in exchange for the consideration being provided to the estate and execution of the mutual releases. Nor is it clear whether the mutual releases attempt to circumvent 11 U.S.C. 524(e)'s prohibition against third-party releases by dismissing any claims against non-settling third-parties, such as RU, LLC, who is also a defendant in the Derivative Action. See Adv. No. 2:20-ap-01012-NB, dkt. 1.

(b) Motion of Doz Cabezas Properties, LLC ("Dos Cabezas") to dismiss case (dkt. 145, 166, the "MTD"), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 168), Dos Cabezas's reply (173), Dos Cabezas's supplemental papers (dkt. 179, 182), Debtor's supplemental papers (dkt. 181, 183), Debtor's status report (dkt. 188), Doz Cabezas's supplemental papers (dkt. 193), Debtor's supplemental

Tentative Ruling for 3/2/21:

[Intentionally omitted]

Tentative Ruling for 12/8/20:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of Doz Cabezas Properties, LLC ("Dos Cabezas") to dismiss case (dkt. 145, 166), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 168), Dos Cabezas's reply (173), Dos Cabezas's supplemental papers (dkt. 179, 182), Debtor's supplemental papers (dkt. 181, 183)

The tentative ruling is not to strike the latest, unauthorized briefs. In any event, with or without considering them, the tentative ruling is to deny the motion to dismiss this case, without prejudice, for the reasons stated in this Court's tentative ruling for 10/27/20 (copied below), with the following caveats.

First, Debtor is directed to address why the flyer distributed by Collier included the banner "Bankruptcy Court Approved" (dkt.180, Ex.1, and dkt.183, Ex.1). This Court has not approved any sale (although this Court has approved the employment of Colliers to market of the subject property). In fact, there are open questions about whether Debtor even has the ability to sell the subject property without Dos Cabezas' consent.

Second, Debtor is directed to address how it proposes to disclose to prospective purchasers of the properties the fact that Debtor is seeking to sell the subject property before the State Court has determined the underlying disputes with Dos Cabezas. True, as noted in the tentative ruling for 10/27/20, it is possible that Debtor can distinguish In re Popp, 323 B.R. 260, 268 (9th Cir. BAP 2005), and In re Owens-Johnson, 118 B.R. 780 (Bankr. But the tentative ruling is that Debtor has to disclose to prospective purchasers that (as this Court understands the issues) Dos Cabezas is asserting that (i) Debtor does not own the subject property, and therefore cannot sell it, and alternatively (ii) a sale under 11 U.S.C. 363(b) and (f) should not, or cannot, be used to defeat a claim for specific performance.

In other words, Debtor is directed to address (in consultation with Colliers) how it will disclose to prospective purchasers the potential obstacles to selling the property, without either misleading purchasers or unduly chilling any potential bidding. Of course, this Court recognizes that in chapter 11 there is a certain degree of deference to the business judgment of Debtor, in consultation with Colliers, regarding how best to market the subject property and when and how to provide disclosures. This Court also recognizes that Dos Cabezas might decide that it is in its own interest to consent to the sale (while preserving whatever interests or claims it might have regarding the proceeds of sale), so as to (i) maximize the value of the bankruptcy estate's assets, (ii) stop the running of interest - especially any default interest - owed to the senior lienholder, and thereby (iii) maximize the funds from which its claim and/or equity interests could receive distributions.

But Debtor's flyer ("Bankruptcy Court Approved," dkt.183, Ex.1, at PDF p.9), combined with Debtor's apparently cavalier attitude toward employment and compensation of professionals (see below), raise concerns about whether Debtor and Colliers are not exercising their business judgment appropriately. Debtor is cautioned that failure to exercise proper business judgment, and act as a trustee for the benefit of creditors, might lead to adverse consequences.

(b) Apparently unauthorized retention and payment of professionals

Debtor is directed to address the apparently unauthorized employment and payment of persons who appear to be professionals: Hammonds & Frey (accounting/tax services), Hunter & Co. (management), and BBG, Inc. (appraisal). See dkt.179, p.4:3-23. Debtor alleges (dkt.181, pp.4:23-5:27) that none of these services are "central to the administration of the estate," and instead are "ordinary course" payments that purportedly do not require Court authorization. But, first, there is no evidence to support those allegations and, second, Debtor's explanation raises its own concerns - for example, it is potentially troubling if Debtor is relying on someone to do accounting and tax services who is not addressing the bankruptcy-specific aspects of accounting and tax issues (i.e., if they do not qualify as professionals, that in itself might be problematic).

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 1/5/21 for Debtor and/or those persons to file and serve on all parties in interest either (i) applications for employment, including any authority for retroactive authorization, or (ii)

briefs and evidence as to why such persons are not professionals and/or why the payments to them are "ordinary course" and/or whatever other arguments they assert as to why notice, a hearing, and this Court's prior authorization for employment and payment allegedly were not required. (a) Doz Cabezas Properties, LLC's ("Dos Cabezas") motion to dismiss case (dkt. 145, 166), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 168), Dos Cabezas's reply (173)

"cause" exists under 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4) to convert or dismiss this case.

First, litigation takes time and Dos Cabezas has not presented sufficient evidence to persuade this Court that Debtor is not diligently prosecuting this bankruptcy case and the State Court action. To the contrary, Debtor's prosecution of this case appears to be reasonable in light of the uncertainty and challenges presented by COVID-19, the resulting backlog in state courts, and the great deal of latitude afforded to debtors exercising their business judgment about matters of case administration.

Second, Dos Cabezas' reliance on In re Popp, 323 B.R. 260, 268 (9th Cir. BAP 2005), and In re Owens-Johnson, 118 B.R. 780 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1990), is not dispositive. True, it is likely that Debtor's anticipated motion to sell the subject property will be subject to objections based on arguments that (i) Debtor cannot sell what it does not own and (ii) a sale under 11 U.S.C. 363(b) and (f) should not, or cannot, be used to defeat a claim for specific performance. But (x) this Court cannot presume, in advance, that those anticipated objections will prevail, (y) even if a sale were blocked, Debtor has other options (e.g., proposing a plan of reorganization, or waiting until a determination in the State Court litigation that Debtor has an ownership interest in the subject property, and therefore can sell it), and (z) even if all of those things were to turn out in future not to be viable options, it is premature to dismiss this case based on that future possibility.

(b) Dos Cabezas Properties, LLC, Criscione-Meyer Entitlement, Michael Criscione and Michael Meyer's ("Movants") omnibus objection to proofs of claim (dkt. 121, "Claim Objections") 4-1/4-2, 6-1, 7-1, 8-1, 9-1, 10-1, 11-1, 12-1, 13-1, 14-1, 15-1, 16-1, 17-1, 18-1, 19-1, 20-1, 22-1, 23-1/23-2, 24-1, 25-1, 26-1, 27-1, 29-1, 31-1, 32-1, 33-1, 34-1, 35-1, 36-1 and 37-1 ("the Claims"), stipulation & order continuing hearing (dkt. 129, 131), Tarzana Crossing, a Merchant Faire, LLC's ("Tarzana Crossing") opposition (dkt. 137), no reply is on file

Appearances required. At the hearing on 8/18/20 this Court was persuaded to continue this matter, rather than adopt the tentative ruling (reproduced below). The parties should be prepared to address the issues set forth in that tentative ruling and their filed papers.

Tentative Ruling for 6/1/21:

Please see the tentative ruling for the main case status conference (Calendar No. 8, 6/1/21 at 2:00 p.m.).

[INTERIM TENTATIVE RULINGS OMITTED]

Tentative Ruling for 12/8/20:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion for remand (adv. dkt. 7, "Remand Motion") and supporting declaration (adv. dkt. 8), Plaintiff's opposition (adv. dkt. 10), Movants' reply (adv. dkt. 12)

This matter has been continued several times to allow time for the parties to participate in settlement negotiations. The tentative ruling is to continue this matter again, concurrent with the status conference in the main case, in view of Debtor's report (main case, dkt.180, p.5:17-20) that Debtor and Tarzana Crossing have tentatively reached a settlement for which Debtor intends to seek approval.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." (1) Current issues

(a) Motion for remand (adv. dkt. 7, "Remand Motion") and supporting declaration (adv. dkt. 8), Plaintiff's opposition (adv. dkt. 10), Movants' reply (adv. dkt. 12)

This matter was continued to allow time for the parties to participate in a second round of mediation, which was been scheduled to take place on 7/17/20 (Main Case, dkt. 129, p.2:7-8). On 8/4/20, Debtor filed a status report (Main Case, dkt. 136, p.4:22-26) stating that "the parties were unable to resolve their disputes [at the mediation, but] are continuing to make efforts to resolve their disputes through Mr. Gould."

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared (a) to provide this Court with any updates on the status of those negotiations (if any) and (b) to address whether this matter should be further continued or this Court should rule on the merits of the Remand Motion.

("Plaintiff").

Chapter 11

For the reasons set forth below, the tentative ruling is to grant the request to remand this removed action, but perhaps defer the remand until after mediation, and deny the request for attorney fees.

(i) Jurisdiction

The parties dispute whether this Court has subject matter jurisdiction to hear this proceeding. The tentative ruling is that this Court has "related to" jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. 157(c)(1), because the parties' dispute arises from an alleged breach of contract for the sale of the estate's principal asset.

(ii) Mandatory abstention

The tentative ruling is that mandatory abstention applies as follows. Mandatory abstention under 28 U.S.C. 1334(c)(2) requires seven elements: (1) a timely motion; (2) a purely state law question; (3) a non-core proceeding under 28 U.S.C. 157(c)(1); (4) a lack of independent federal jurisdiction absent the petition under Title 11; (5) that an action is commenced in a state court; (6) the state court action may be timely adjudicated; (7) a state forum of appropriate jurisdiction exists. [In re Gen. Carriers Corp., 258 B.R. 181, 189 (9th Cir. BAP 2001) (internal quotation omitted).]

These elements are satisfied: (1) the motion was timely - the proceeding was removed on 1/22/20 and Movants filed the remand motion just 30 days later, on 2/21/20; (2) the complaint involves purely nonbankruptcy law questions (breach of fiduciary duty etc., adv. dkt. 7, p. 2:17-21) (Movants state that they amended their complaint on 8/30/19, but there is nothing in the record reflecting what was amended (id., p. 2:21), so this Court bases its ruling on the record presented); (3) the proceeding is noncore - the authorities cited by the removing party (dkt.10, pp.14:24-15:14) are distinguishable because they all involved alleged violations of fiduciary duties within the bankruptcy case itself, not prepetition and nonbankruptcy alleged violations; (4) no independent federal jurisdiction has been asserted; (5) the action was commenced prepetition, on 12/14/18, in Los Angeles Superior Court; (6) there is no evidence that the proceeding cannot be timely adjudicated in the State Court; and (7) neither party has contested in this Court the State Court's jurisdiction over the proceeding.

(iii) Discretionary abstention

Alternatively, and in addition, the tentative ruling is that discretionary abstention is appropriate.

Discretionary abstention under 28 U.S.C. 1334(c)(1) requires consideration of the following twelve factors:

(1) the effect of lack thereof on the efficient administration of the estate if a Court recommends abstention, (2) the extent to which state law issues predominate over bankruptcy issues, (3) the difficulty or unsettled nature of the applicable law, (4) the presence of a related proceeding commenced in state court or other nonbankruptcy court, (5) the jurisdictional basis, if any, other than 28 U.S.C. 1334, (6) the degree of relatedness or remoteness of the proceeding to the main bankruptcy case, (7) the substance rather than form of an asserted "core" proceeding, (8) the feasibility of severing state law claims from core bankruptcy matters to allow judgments to be entered in state court with enforcement left to the bankruptcy court, (9) the burden of the bankruptcy court's docket, (10) the likelihood that the commencement of the proceeding in bankruptcy court involves forum shopping by one of the parties, (11) the existence of a right to a jury trial, and (12) the presence in the proceeding of nondebtor parties.

Several of the Tucson factors weigh in favor of abstention. First, the Complaint involves purely state-law issues. Second, this Court would not have jurisdiction over the Complaint but for the Debtor's bankruptcy petition, because the claims arise under state law and there is no diversity between the parties. Third, the Complaint involves several non-debtor parties who have asserted a right to a jury trial. Fourth, permitting the Complaint to proceed in state court will contribute to the efficient administration of the bankruptcy case because the State Court is the best tribunal to adjudicate the parties' state law claims. Fifth, although the Complaint is related to the main bankruptcy case because it involves claims relating to the primary asset of the estate, deferring to the State Court to adjudicate the parties' claims will not unduly interfere with this Bankruptcy Court's determination of other matters in the bankruptcy case.

(iv) Movants' request for attorneys' fees is denied

The tentative ruling is to deny Movant's request for attorneys' fees because this Court is not persuaded that Plaintiff lacked an objectively reasonable basis for seeking removal of this action because the dispute is related to the primary asset of Debtor's bankruptcy estate.

Proposed order: Movants are directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1) (B).

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(2) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Chapter 13

#6.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

CITY OF BELLFLOWER
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 35

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, and overrule Debtor's opposition (dkt. 38), all as set forth below.
Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Background: Debtor states that she "will address and fix all the nuisance abatement issues up to Movant's satisfaction by or before the hearing date ..." Opp. (dkt. 38), p.4:22-23. But, for the following alternative reasons, the tentative ruling is that this is insufficient.

First, the tentative ruling is that no stay applies to Movant's ongoing and proposed acts, under 11 U.S.C. 362(b)(4) - the "police or regulatory powers" exception. Second, the tentative ruling is that Movant's evidence has established prima facie "cause" to terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

(1) The automatic stay does not apply under 11 U.S.C. 362(b)(4)

The tentative ruling is that, pursuant to the authorities cited in the motion papers (dkt. 36, pp.7:3-8:7), Movant's acts to take possession of and remediate the subject property are within the "police or regulatory powers" exception to the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 362(b)(4). As Movant highlights in its reply papers (dkt. 39, pp.3:4-7:15), Debtor does not actually dispute this issue.

Chapter 13

(2) Alternatively, there is "cause," under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1), to grant relief from any automatic stay that does exist

In the alternative and in addition, the tentative ruling is to grant relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Note regarding mootness: Judge Bason's standard tentative ruling is as follows. For three reasons the above tentative ruling that there is no stay does not moot requests for relief from whatever stay might apply. First, such alternative rulings are appropriate because (i) the very nature of tentative rulings is that this Court could be persuaded to depart from any one of them, and (ii) a final ruling on any one issue could be reversed on appeal. Second, even if there is currently no stay, that could change - e.g., if there is no stay because of dismissal of this bankruptcy case, such dismissal could be vacated and that might reimpose the stay even if there is a lack of adequate protection, or other grounds why the stay should not apply, and therefore the movant will suffer cognizable harm unless the issues are addressed now (Judge Bason regularly vacates dismissals based on stipulations or other good cause). Third, if the motion includes any request for relief as to past acts (annulment) or future cases (in rem relief), those things are still at issue even if there is no current automatic stay. See In re Aheong, 276 B.R. 233 (9th Cir. BAP 2002). For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to address the following issues.

The tentative ruling is that Movant has established sufficient "cause" to terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) to take all actions contemplated in the motion papers, including those that go beyond merely recovering possession of the property (e.g., to encumber property of the estate by issuing receivership certificates to pay for the cleanup expenses). Such cause is established by the evidence of the subject property's substandard conditions and the attendant risk such conditions pose to the safety and wellbeing of the public.

In other words, Movant's evidence has established prima facie "cause" to terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1). In response, Debtor fails to provide actual evidence how she could cure all of the numerous problems with the property by the hearing date, let alone enough evidence to overcome Movant's evidence and uncontested allegations about the long history of problems with the subject property that have not been cured.

Chapter 13

For example, even if Debtor could find someone on such short notice to start and finish a complete tear down of the unauthorized addition to her house, how is there any assurance that the resulting open area would be patched up, and electrical wires and other matters would be cut back and properly sealed and rendered safe? How could Movant or other affected parties such as the public have any assurance that Debtor had done those things properly without an inspection, which cannot possibly occur in such a short time frame? Debtor's bare assertions that she will remediate everything instantly and in full compliance with the building codes and other applicable law, after many years of failing to do so, is too little, too late.

(3) No relief in other past or present bankruptcy cases

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

(4) Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)

(3).

(5) Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #7.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order
Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic
Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions. Appearances are not required.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

(3) Very limited ruling. This Court's tentative ruling to grant the foregoing relief is solely for purposes of this motion, and is not intended to have any binding effect with respect to any future assertions by any party in interest regarding the existence or lack of existence of good faith in any other context.

Docket 16

Tentative Ruling:

Deny. Appearances required to address whether the case should be dismissed (see Judge Bason's Procedures, posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov, then search for "362(c)(3)").

Proposed order: Movant is directed to serve and lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Reasons: The motion was not timely set for hearing in accordance with 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3)(B) (providing that "on the motion of a party in interest for continuation of the automatic stay and upon notice and a hearing, the court may extend the stay in particular cases as to any or all creditors . . . after notice and a hearing completed before the expiration of the 30 day period [after the petition date, i.e., 4/6/21 + 30 days]." (emphasis added)).

Note: The automatic stay has terminated both as to Debtor in personam and as to property of Debtor. See In re Reswick, 446 B.R. 362 (9th Cir. BAP 2011) (if automatic stay is not continued beyond 30 days then it terminates in all aspects, i.e., not only as to the debtor individually but as to all parties and the bankruptcy estate). See In re Hernandez, case no. 2:11-bk-53730-NB, docket #40 (Memorandum Decision).

No attorney fees: This Court presumes that counsel for the debtor will not charge any fees for the time spent on this motion (because counsel knew or should have known of the earlier case and knew or should have known of the 30 day deadline). If counsel intends to charge any fees then the procedures must be followed to dispute this tentative ruling.

Docket 140

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/15/21:

Continue for further briefing as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 6/15/21.

This Court is puzzled by the parties' failure to arrive at an agreed statement that can be submitted to any prospective lender setting forth the facts. Such basic facts as the date and dollar amount of each payment, and whether any payments received in 2020 were late, should be independently verifiable and not subject to any reasonable dispute. But it appears that the parties have been unable to agree on any such statement, so the tentative ruling is to set a schedule for briefs and evidence and a continued hearing on whether to issue a finding and conclusion of contempt of court and impose sanctions.

(1) Background

There appear to be two disputes. One, involving escrow payments and one purportedly late interest payment, appears to be irrelevant, but might be causing confusion. The second, involving timely payments that have been reported as late payments, appears to be the real focus of the parties' disputes.

(a) Escrow payments and one purportedly late interest payment

A long-running dispute apparently involved Debtor's failure to pay monthly amounts into escrow accounts - Debtor instead appears to have paid insurance and real estate taxes directly. The parties' papers never explained this in sufficient detail, but this Court arrived at that conclusion based on its own detailed analysis. See Tentative Rulings for 3/20/18 and 5/8/18 hearings (reproduced below).

In any event, the dispute was settled by a 2018 stipulation providing that the loan would be "de-escrowed for taxes and insurance, commencing with the February 1, 2017 monthly installment" and that Debtor would receive a small refund ($1,965.66) and a waiver of some late charges ($1,849.30). See Stipulation between Debtor and Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., as servicer for U.S. Bank National Association, as Trustee Prime Mortgage Trust, Mortgage Pass-Through Certificates, Series 2006-2 ("US Bank"), attached as Ex.P to Motion for OSC (dkt. 140) (at PDF pp. 133-37) and Order thereon (Ex.Q, at PDF pp.138-39). Specialized's own Response (Ex.C) to the Chapter 13 Trustee's notice that Debtor had cured all defaults (Ex.B) appears to show that Debtor is current. See Ex.B&C to Motion for OSC (dkt.140, at PDF pp.29-33).

Now Debtor reports that that he has been wrongfully accused by US Bank's current servicer, Specialized Loan Servicing LLC ("Specialized") of being "in arrears for $2828.69 due to an escrow shortage. See Exhibit K to Debtor's declaration." Motion for OSC (dkt. 140), p.3:10-13. But Exhibit K (dkt.140, at PDF pp.109-110) says nothing about any escrow shortfall - to the contrary, it states:

The amount of the debt as of 12/08/2020 is $404,193.45. For informational purposes, this amount is comprised of the following: unpaid principal of $401,364.76, deferred balance total of $0.00, uncollected interest of $2,828.69, escrow balance/advances of $0.00, and outstanding fees of $0.00." [Dkt.140, Ex.K, at PDF p.109, emphasis added.]

As for the above-referenced "uncollected interest of $2,828.69," Specialized explained on 2/1/21 that the funds were received and applied to the account on 12/9/20. See Ex.H to Motion for OSC (dkt.140) at PDF p.44. Debtor has not pointed to evidence that this is incorrect, so perhaps this is no longer an issue.

(b) Debtor's apparently timely payments that have been wrongly reported as late payments

Debtor appears to be on firmer ground when he alleges that he applied for a home refinance in 2021 but that his attempted refinance was denied for the sole reason that Specialized reported that he was "9 times delinquent in 2020," citing Exhibit E to his Motion for OSC (dkt. 140), p.3:16-22 (emphasis added). That is supported by three types of evidence.

First, Exhibit E (dkt.140 at PDF p.36) is a Verification of Mortgage from Specialized to Debtor dated "01/06/21" asserting that "last year" (2020) Debtor was delinquent 9 times, from 15 days to over 90 days. Second, Debtor's Exhibit F is a letter from Right Choice Mortgage stating that it "is unable to refinance Mr Tribelsky for the sole reason that upon receiving the Verification of Mortgage from [Specialized] it came back with the following information [tracking 8 of the 9 purported delinquent payments] (see attached statement)." Ex.F to Motion for OSC (dkt.140, at PDF p.41). Third, attached as Exhibit I is Debtor's correspondence with Specialized, dated 1/22/21, enclosing evidence appearing to show that Debtor made all of his 2020 mortgage payments timely. Ex.I to Motion for OSC (dkt.140) at PDF pp.52-79.

Debtor also has provided evidence that Specialized has not addressed these allegations. For example, Specialized's letter dated 2/1/21 states, "We have researched your account and our records indicate that the interest described in your dispute [the one purportedly late interest payment that apparently was cured with the payment received on 12/9/20] was not in error." Ex.H to Motion for OSC (dkt.140, at PDF p.44). Specialized's letter does not address the (apparently erroneous) report of 9 delinquencies in 2020. See also Ex.J (2/9/21 letter from Specialized to Debtor) (dkt.140, at PDF p.80).

In sum, Debtor has presented prima facie evidence that Specialized was reporting delinquencies that did not actually exist. On that basis this Court granted Debtor's motion for issuance of an OSC.

(2) Current status

On 4/7/21 this Court issued its "Order to Show Cause as to Why Specialized Loan Servicing LLC Should Not be Held in Contempt For Violation of Debtor's Discharge Injunction" (dkt. 146, the "OSC") which set a 6/14/21 deadline for the parties to complete discovery. Debtor's status report (dkt. 148) states that the parties have not been able to settle their disputes and that Debtor has propounded, and Specialized has responded to, Debtor's interrogatories, requests for admission, and requests for documents.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 6/25/21 for Specialized to file and serve its response to the OSC, including declarations and evidence (if any) to rebut Debtor's prima facie showing that Specialized has violated the

Tentative Ruling for 5/8/18:
Appearances required.

At the hearing on 3/20/18, this Court continued the matter to this date and directed (1) debtor to commence making higher payments to Movant in the amount of $4,079.99 ($3,698.51 P&I + $381.48 escrow); and (2) set deadlines for (a) Movant to file a supplemental declaration regarding recalculation of the appropriate monthly escrow fund payment, and (b) debtor to file a response.

This Court has reviewed Movant's supplemental declaration (dkt. 68) and debtor's response (dkt. 72). The parties should be prepared to address whether they have reached any resolution regarding debtor's contention that Movant has not taken into account any credits received from hazard insurance and county taxes.

Chapter 13

The parties appear to agree that the debtor has made monthly payments of $3,698.51 (the normal amortizing principal and interest payments). Those payments were due on the first day of each month, and generally were paid a few days later. See dkt. 8, Ex.5 (movant's spreadsheet) and dkt. 61, Ex.A, & dkt. 62) (debtor's copies of cashier checks). The motion lists some late charges, attorney fees, and other items (dkt. 58, p.7, para.8), but those do not appear to have been included in the movant's spreadsheet (dkt. 58, Ex.5, at PDF pp.30-33), perhaps because the listed amounts are for prepetition periods. In any event, the core of the parties' disagreement appears to involve an escrow impound account to pay real estate taxes and property insurance premiums.

(2) The debtor's assertions of "improper" escrow impounds are unpersuasive

The debtor's declaration (dkt. 61, Tribelsky Decl., para.9, at PDF p.7:24-28) asserts that the impound is "improper" and that the debtor has "struggled with [movant] Wells Fargo to have them end these impounds." The debtor also declares (dkt. 61, at PDF p.7:16-22) that there was an "improper increase" in monthly payments starting on March 1, 2016, which he believes was due to an escrow impound for taxes and insurance.

The debtor fails to explain why there is anything "improper" about requiring him to pay into an escrow for real estate taxes and insurance. The loan documents (dkt. 8, Ex.1, para.3, pp.4-5) require the debtor to make escrow payments for taxes and insurance premiums on the same date at the payments of principal and interest.

It is true that the movant apparently had not required escrow payments for some unspecified period prior to March 1, 2016. See Notice of Mortgage Payment Change (Official Form 410S1) (the "Change Notice"), filed 1/19/16 on the Claims Register, at PDF pp.5-6 (requiring monthly payments of $351.96 commencing March 1, 2016). But if the debtor is asserting some sort of waiver that argument is unpersuasive. The Deed of Trust provides (dkt. 58, Ex.1, para.3, pp.4-5) that although the movant may waive the escrow requirement, the movant "may revoke the waiver as to any or all Escrow Items at any time" and then the debtor "shall pay" all escrow amounts.

The debtor apparently just ignored his obligation to pay escrow impound amounts. Instead he has presented evidence (dkt. 61, Ex.B, at PDF pp.38 et seq.) that he paid taxes directly to the tax authorities and insurance premiums directly to the insurers.

It appears that the movant must have credited the debtor's direct payments of taxes and insurance, because its Change Notice filed on 10/18/16 lists a low estimated "Starting balance" of $861.27 as of December 2016 (although that apparently assumes that the debtor would start making his required escrow payments). In any event, the movant's Change Notice is prima facie evidence of the validity of this underlying calculation in support of its claim, and the debtor has not established that there is anything wrong with the movant's accounting included in its Change Notice filed on 10/18/16.

Similarly, by the time of the next Change Notice it appears that the movant must have once again credited the debtor's direct payments of taxes and insurance because, the escrow account projections ("Part 3") project a required "Starting balance" for March 2018 of only $762.96 (although, again, this appears to assume that the debtor will have made certain payments into the escrow account by the start of March 2018). In any event, the debtor has not shown that there is anything wrong with this supporting underlying documentation of the movant's claim.

(3) Despite the deficiencies in the debtor's arguments and evidence, it appears that the motion itself fails to account for the debtor's direct payments of real estate taxes and insurance

The motion asserts (dkt. 58, p.9, para.12.c.) that the debtor was behind three payments of $4,053.45, for a total of $12,160.35, less a suspense account balance of $1,166.12, for a total of $10,994.23 as of approximately 12/12/18 (when the declaration in support of the motion was signed). But unlike the Change Notices the motion does not appear to give the debtor credit for direct payments of real estate taxes and insurance.

Based on the spreadsheet attached to the motion as Exhibit 5 (dkt. 58, at PDF pp.30-33), the alleged shortfall of $10,994.23 appears to be the cumulative sum of all the shortfalls between the $3,698.51 that the debtor was paying each month (the normal amortizing principal and interest payments) and the higher monthly amounts that he should have been paying in order to fund the escrow account. There are no entries in the spreadsheet that appear to reflect the debtor's direct payments of taxes and insurance.

Nor is it possible to rely on the latest Change Notice to determine precisely what the debtor owes. At first glance that Change Notice would appear to have current information because it was filed on 3/5/18, but it provides only a projected shortfall of $762.96 in the escrow account as of March 2018 (3/5/18 Charge Notice at PDF p.6, Part 3, end of first line). That projection probably is too low, because it appears to assume that part of the debtor's monthly payment is credited to the escrow account in January of 2018, and that the debtor will make some very substantial payments in February and March of 2018, and that the real estate taxes that are due in March of 2018 will be paid out of those escrow payments (see id., Part 4, 2d and 5th columns, rows for January, February, and March, including credits of $1,281.90, $9,810.75, and $354.94, and debit of $1,612.38).

The bottom line is that although the movant has not established precisely what the debtor owes, it has established cause for some sort of relief from the automatic stay - namely, there is "cause" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) in that the debtor has failed for many months to comply with his obligations to fund the escrow account, which exposes the movant to the risk that it will have to bear the cost if the debtor fails to pay real estate taxes or insurance (especially if the property were to be damaged or completely burn down). The required adequate protection is for the debtor to cure the deficiency in the escrow account over a reasonable period of time.

The latest Change Notice (filed 3/5/18) can be used as a starting point. It requires that the debtor pay $381.48 per month into the escrow account, in addition to his regular monthly payments of $3,698.51 on account of principal and interest, for total monthly payments of $4,079.99. The escrow payments may have to be adjusted (as noted above, the Change Notice appears to assume that the debtor will have made some very substantial payments by the start of March 2018), but this Court can set a schedule for such adjustment (see below).

(4) Conclusion

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/1/18 for the debtor (a) to file evidence that he has paid the March 2018 real estate tax payment directly to the taxing authority and (b) to commence making monthly payments of $381.48 into the escrow account, in addition to his regular monthly payments of $3,698.51 on account of principal and interest, for total monthly payments of $4,079.99.

In addition, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/1/18 for the movant to file a supplemental declaration showing a calculation of the required escrow balance as of 5/1/18, the required monthly payments for the debtor to cure the deficiency in that escrow balance, and the resulting new total monthly payment that the debtor will have to pay on 5/1/18 and each month thereafter.

Finally, the tentative ruling is to set a continued hearing at the date and time set forth at the start of this tentative ruling, so that the parties and this Court can address what to do if the debtor disputes the movant's calculations.

#2.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case
fr. 3/31/21, 4/27/21, 5/11/21

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/15/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 6/15/21.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of Debtor For Relief From The Automatic Stay (the "R/S Motion," dkt. 100), Opposition of Pravati Credit Fund III LP ("Pravati") (dkt. 109-111), Reply of Debtor (dkt. 117)

Although the tentative ruling is that Debtor's reply (dkt. 110) adequately addresses the issues raised in Pravati's opposition papers (dkt. 109-111), nevertheless it would make no sense to grant relief from the automatic stay to pursue litigation if Debtor cannot hire special counsel to represent Debtor in that litigation. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to continue Debtor's R/S Motion to the same time as the hearing on Pravati's objection to Debtor's application to employ special counsel (which is the same time as the continued Status Conference, set forth below).

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 3/29/21.

#4.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/15/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 6/15/21.

(1) Current issues

(A) Debtor's Application to employ special litigation counsel (dkt. 45, "Employment Application"), Order setting hearing on Employment Application (dkt. 67), Notice of hearing (dkt. 71), late Response and Application for relief from deadline (dkt. 76, 77)

Debtor's very belated response (dkt. 76) refers vaguely to "conflicting trial, vacation/holiday and travel schedules" that "delayed" the ability of Debtor's general bankruptcy counsel and proposed special counsel filing the response due 6/1/21 until the night of 6/11/21. Dkt.77, p.5:18-24. That is too vague an excuse, and counsel for Debtor is cautioned that in future she must request any extension before the deadline has expired, or alternatively provide an adequate excuse for being unable to do so.

Nevertheless, the tentative ruling is to excuse Debtor's non-compliance with this Court' prior deadline and provide Debtor with an opportunity to address the following issues. As this Court understands Debtor's position, he alleges that he entered into a modification of the first deed of trust ("DOT") on his home based on his understanding that the second DOT (a HELOC) had been canceled or otherwise forgiven, and Debtor paid the first DOT for "ten years" in reliance on the absence of the second DOT, but instead the HELOC turns out to be a "zombie" loan. See dkt. 29, p.2, and dkt.76, p.3:10-21. While Debtor was paying the first DOT, the second DOT obligation of "approximately $150,000 grew to nearly $300,000." Id.

Debtor now proposes to spend up to an estimated $40,000 to attempt to obtain cancellation of some or all of the debt secured by the second DOT. Id. On the one hand, that appears to be admirably efficient for this type of litigation, and if the litigation is successful then it could generate a substantial net benefit for Debtor.

On the other hand, creditors appear to be the losers in this scenario. Debtor proposes to spend up to $40,000 or more to litigate undisclosed legal theories that might have zero or minimal chance of success; and even if Debtor succeeds he will gain equity in his home that, presumably, he will seek to exempt. If Debtor's cash flow is used to fund this litigation, it appears that he will have little if anything left over to pay creditors (although it is unclear whether Debtor can obtain more monthly income by increasing his "draw" from his business). See bankruptcy schedules "I" & "J" (dkt.12, pp.23-26, and dkt.46, pp.2-4).

A review of the dollars at issue will illustrate. Debtor's amended bankruptcy schedule "D" lists the value of the home as $750,000 encumbered by a first DOT of $420,000 and a second DOT of $305,000. See dkt.12 at PDF pp.15-16, items 2.3 & 2.4. If, for example, Debtor spends $40,000 and obtains exempt equity of $150,000, then creditors will have lost out of $40,000 and will gain nothing in return.

It is possible that Debtor will propose a chapter 11 plan that adequately discloses the cost/benefit analysis and would share some of the net benefits of any success, or that would otherwise be a suitable use of the bankruptcy system. Such a plan could include full disclosure of the legal theories underlying Debtor's proposed litigation, so that creditors could make their own assessment of the cost/benefit of Debtor's proposed course of action, and if they vote in favor of continuing Debtor's litigation then presumably the plan could be confirmed. Otherwise, Debtor might have to pursue other alternative.

Based on all of the foregoing, the tentative ruling is to continue the hearing on the motion to employ special counsel to 7/20/21 at 1:00 p.m. with a deadline of 7/6/21 for Debtor either to file (and NOT serve on anyone except the United States Trustee and anyone requesting special notice) a chapter 11 plan and disclosure statement that explains why the proposed litigation is a good idea for creditors to vote for, or alternatively for Debtor to file (and serve on the same persons) a brief and supporting declaration(s) addressing the issues set forth above (in which event the deadline to file a draft plan and disclosure statement would remain at 9/3/21, as previously set by this Court).

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's anticipated settlement motion in main case (relating to Garcia v. Myllyla, Adv. No. 2:20-01098)

This Court continued the 4/6/21 hearing on this matter to allow the parties an opportunity to complete settlement negotiations and for Debtor to prepare motion under Rule 9019 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) for any agreed upon settlement. As of the date this tentative ruling was prepared, no such settlement motion has been filed. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address the status of this adversary proceeding and the bankruptcy case in general.

(b) Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs")

Debtor's recent MORs report that Debtor has not been making credit card payments because those accounts "have been blocked" postpetition. See, e.g., MOR (for 5/21) (dkt.72), at p.1, line 3, & PDF p.5. What does that mean?

How much does Debtor owe on these credit card accounts, and why is the total dollar amount not listed on line 24, with details in an attached Exhibit "E," as required by the instructions on the MOR? See id., p.2, line 24.

Debtor projects negative cash flow in June of $3,053.85. Id., p.3, line 37. Will Debtor be able to pay the overdue credit card bills, given that Debtor reports only $4,513.01 of cash on hand at the end of May (id., p.2, line 23)?

This case is nearly a year and a half old, and it appears that Debtor is either currently unable to pay ongoing expenses or is on the verge of being unable to do so. Is Debtor experiencing a "continuing loss to or diminution of

Given the lack of any activity on the docket in the adversary proceeding or the bankruptcy case, as well as the lack of compliance with the MOR reporting requirements listed above, has Debtor willfully failed to appear on proper prosecution of this case? See 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1). Should this case be dismissed with a bar against being a debtor in any future bankruptcy case for a period of 180 days? See id.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/15/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtors' Motion Objecting to Proof of Claims of Baodi Zhou, or in the Alternative, Motion to Estimate Claims (the "Claim Objection," dkt. 184), interim Order (dkt. 226), Debtors' Supplement (dkt. 234-37), Claimant Ms. Baodi Zhou's Brief (dkt. 245), Debtors' Reply (dkt. 256-59)

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties are directed to address the issues raised in their papers, especially the following issues. This Court is particularly concerned whether Ms. Zhou has provided sufficient evidence that her own claims satisfy the commonality and typicality requirements for acting as a class representative, assuming without presently deciding that Rule 23 is applicable. See interim Order, dkt.226, Ex.A, at PDF p.7, part "(1)(c)" and id. sub-parts "(iii)" & "(iv)."

As Ms. Zhou recognizes, under Rule 23 her individual claims must have questions of law and/or fact in common with other putative class members that "predominate" over any questions affecting only individual members. See generally Zhou Brief (dkt.245), pp.28:10-29:6. Ms. Zhou asserts that Debtor Tea Station Investment, Inc. ("Debtor") harmed class members by (1) failing to pay for all hours worked or for overtime due to time rounding and time shaving, and failing to provide accurate wage statements due to such rounding and shaving and purportedly omitting correct employer information, (2) failing to provide compliant meal breaks and pay missed meal break premiums, and (3) failing to provide compliant rest breaks and pay missed rest break period premiums. Zhou Brief (dkt. 245), pp. 10:1–19:2, 21:6–26:13, and summary at pp.32:13-34:22. Therefore the issue is whether Ms. Zhou's own claims for those things have sufficient commonality and typicality of other putative class members' claims.

First, Ms. Zhou's brief does not highlight any specific evidence of her own payroll records, and specific instances in which she asserts rounding, time shaving, missed meal breaks, and missed rest breaks. True, she makes general assertions that might suffice for some issues - e.g., at points her papers appear to assert that she never had rest breaks - but this Court remains concerned about the lack of greater specificity, such as allegations that although on day X she worked, say, 11 hours and 11 minutes, her paycheck and Debtor's records only reflected 8.0 hours. But compare, e.g., Debtor's Reply (dkt.256), p.7:3-4 (asserting, without citation to any evidence, that "[e]ven Zhou herself admitted at her deposition that she was always allowed to take a break whenever she requested or chose") (emphasis in original).

Second, Ms. Zhou offers few examples of other employees' specific instances of rounding, time shaving, missed meal breaks, and missed rest breaks, and she appears to make presumptions to fill in the gaps. This issue may also bear on the "numerosity" requirement under Rule 23.

If Ms. Zhou can overcome the foregoing issues, and otherwise qualifies as a class representative against Debtor, then this Court envisions a claim estimation process in which this Debtor would present its own rebuttal analysis and/or specific disputes with Ms. Zhou's choice of data and analysis, and the parties would focus their disputes on calculations not unlike those presented by Ms. Zhou at the end of her brief - e.g., estimating 88 employees, with 1,671 days multiplied by an estimated 11 minutes and 15 seconds per day, to arrive at a claim of $36,879.48 for "time rounding," etc. See Zhou Brief (dkt.245), pp.33:5-34:22. Each party would be able to present its own data, methodology, and analysis, and challenge the other party's data, methodology, and analysis, in a trial to determine how to estimate the claims.

This Court recognizes that the underlying data, methodology, and analysis might not be as rigorous as they would be if time and money were no object (the "scorched earth" litigation to which this Court previously has referred). See, e.g., Order (dkt.226), Ex.A, at PDF p.6, part "(1)(b)." For example, Ms. Zhou's statistical evidence was prepared not by a statistician or similar expert but by her own counsel. But the tentative ruling is that, given her counsel's apparent experience, this goes to the weight of the evidence, not its admissibility.

Similarly, although Ms. Zhou complains that the "thousands of pages of time and pay records" produced by Debtor (Zhou Brief, dkt. 245, p.16:22) are fractured, incomplete, and otherwise difficult to analyze (id., p.32:16 & attached D. Grimes Decl., pp.2:16–4:28, Ex. 2, Ex. 15), there does not appear to be any evidence that Debtor has intentionally caused any spoliation of records. Ms. Zhou's counsel apparently was able to conduct his statistical analysis based on wage statements and other records for 125 employees provided by Debtor (D. Grimes Decl., dkt. 245, p.5:1–5), and presumably Debtor could use the same data to do its own analysis and/or to challenge Ms. Zhou's analysis.

Again, the foregoing claim estimation process would only apply if Ms. Zhou could overcome the commonality and typicality issues noted above, and if she otherwise could qualify as a class representative. In other words, this Court's discussion of the contemplated claim estimation process is only included for completeness, and should not be interpreted as any presumption that Ms. Zhou can assert claims for the class she seeks to represent.

Note: As for any claims by employees of Debtor's affiliates, the tentative ruling is that this issue is premature. Ms. Zhou only briefly asserts a reservation of rights, arguing that "each corporate entity is managed by the same group of three individuals – Tea Station founder Yu-Liang 'Jimmy' Huang, his wife Teresa Pan, and lieutenant Chi-Fu 'Abraham' Kao." Zhou Brief (dkt.245), p.8:11-13. But this Court has issued an order (dkt.226) limiting claims at this stage to Debtor, and the tentative ruling is that unless and until Ms. Zhou can establish claims against Debtor it would be premature to address potential claims against Debtor's affiliates.

Finally, the parties are directed to address what further deadlines or procedures to establish, if this Court does not issue a final ruling on Debtor's Claim Objection at this hearing. The tentative ruling is that any continued hearing on this Claim Objection would be contemporaneous with the continued Status Conference (see below).

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 5/4/20 and converted from chapter 7 to chapter 11 on 7/1/20 (dkt.17). The petition was amended to elect Subchapter V on 7/14/20 (dkt.27). On 9/4/20 this Court ordered joint administration with affiliated debtors (dkt.64).

(a) Bar date: (i) Investment 9/9/20 (dkt. 40; timely served, dkt. 43);
Affiliated Debtors 11/10/20.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/15/21:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Background

Notices of appeal ("NOA") have been filed by creditor Ms. Campos from:

- (i) this Court's memorandum decision conditionally permitting Debtor to cure defaults and "assume" his agreement with Ms. Campos, embodied in their mediation term sheet ("Assumption Memdispo," dkt. 121; NOA, dkt. 147); see also Order re same, dkt.144; and Status Report, dkt. 274, p.2:12-19 (reporting that the BAP has determined that this order is final and appealable);
- (ii) this Court's order sustaining in part and continuing in part Debtor's objection to Ms. Campos' claim ("Interim Claim Order," dkt. 277; NOA, dkt. 301) (see also dkt. 304, BAP Clerk's Order Re Finality); and
- (iii) this Court's order confirming Debtor's chapter 11 plan, which includes the assumption of the mediation term sheet ("Confirmation Order," dkt. 352; NOA, dkt. 360).

This Court also issued an order (dkt. 351) (x) denying Ms. Campos' motion for a stay pending appeal, but (y) providing a brief stay through 6/2/21 on this Court's own motion. The docket does not reflect any further stay by any appellate court, but Debtor has filed a "Notice Of Brief Delay In Occurrence Of Effective Date [of the confirmed Plan, etc.]" (dkt. 359).

The parties have not briefed the scope of this Bankruptcy Court's jurisdiction in view of the pending appeals. In general, this Bankruptcy

Chapter 11

Court's understanding is that: it is deprived of jurisdiction over any matters as to which any appellate court is exercising jurisdiction; but a NOA filed with respect to an interlocutory order does not transfer jurisdiction unless and until the appellate court grants leave to appeal; and in the absence of a stay pending appeal this Bankruptcy Court retains jurisdiction to implement or enforce its existing orders, as well as jurisdiction over all other matters in the bankruptcy case. See generally, e.g., Nascimento v. Dummer, 508 F.3d 905, 908 (9th Cir. 2007) ("When a Notice of Appeal is defective in that it refers to a non-appealable interlocutory order, it does not transfer jurisdiction to the appellate court, and so the ordinary rule that the [lower] court cannot act until the mandate has issued on the appeal does not apply.") (citation omitted); In re Sherman, 491 F.3d 948, 967 (9th Cir. 2007) ("The timely filing of a notice of appeal to either a district court or bankruptcy appellate panel will typically divest a bankruptcy court of jurisdiction over those aspects of the case involved in the appeal" but not on any other issues in the case, and even with respect to the order or judgment on appeal the bankruptcy court retains jurisdiction "to implement or enforce the judgment or order, although it may not alter or expand upon the judgment"; and "[i]f a party wants to stay all of the proceedings in bankruptcy court while an appeal is pending, it must file a motion for a stay.") (citations and internal quotation marks omitted).

In addition, now that the applicable rules have been augmented with a rule concerning "indicative rulings" (renumbered Rule 8008, Fed. R. Bankr. P.), this Bankruptcy Court is authorized to do several things notwithstanding any pending appeal. Specifically, with respect to a motion as to which this Bankruptcy Court "lacks authority to grant because of an appeal," it may "(1) defer considering the motion; (2) deny the motion; or (3) state that the court would grant the motion if the court where the appeal is pending remands for that purpose, or state that the motion raises a substantial issue."

Based on this Bankruptcy Court's understanding of the matters on appeal - and in the absence of anything on the docket suggesting otherwise - the tentative ruling is that this Bankruptcy Court has jurisdiction to address the issues set forth below. In the alternative, the tentative ruling is that this Bankruptcy Court has jurisdiction to issue indicative rulings on the issues set forth below.

(b) Debtor's objection to Claim 2 filed by Yunuen Campos (dkt. 257), Ms. Campos' opposition (dkt. 261), Debtor's reply (dkt. 266), Interim Claim

Chapter 11

Order (dkt. 277), NOA (dkt. 301)

This Court's Interim Claim Order (dkt. 277) limited Ms. Campos' claim to what the parties agreed in their mediation term sheet, minus a $60,000.00 setoff amount, for a net claim of $751,856.36, subject to minor accounting issues noted below. That order also reserved for future determination, in a presently-stayed adversary proceeding (adv. no. 2:20-ap-01626-NB, adv. dkt. 10), whether or not Debtor's obligation to pay Ms. Campos (i) is secured by Debtor's postpetition accounts receivable or (ii) is supported by any ownership interest that Ms. Campos claims to have in Debtor's postpetition accounts receivable. See Order, dkt. 277, p.2:12-17, and Ex.1, at PDF pp.8-9, part "(1)(c)."

The confirmation of Debtor's plan does not moot either Debtor's claim objection or the above-referenced adversary proceeding. For example, Debtor's Plan expressly provides that, "to the extent valid, enforceable, and perfected, the Plan leaves unaltered the rights, if any, to which Campos is entitled pursuant to the [State Court's] Campos Assignment Order, all subject to all of Debtor's defenses" Plan (dkt. 251, Ex.1), at PDF p.43 (quoted in Interim Claim Order, dkt. 277, Ex.1, at PDF p.9, part "(1)(c)").

On a related issue, it is appropriate to consider at this Status Conference the status of all proceedings, including those on appeal, and determine which issues this Bankruptcy Court should address. The tentative ruling is that it is appropriate not to lift the stay of that adversary proceeding at this time, pending resolution of the appeals from the Assumption Memdispo and the Confirmation Order, and to proceed with adjudication of the remaining accounting issues involved in Debtor's claim objection (so that Debtor can make whatever minor adjustments might be necessary to the distributions under his confirmed Plan, once the precise dollar amount of Ms. Campos' claim is determined).

At the hearing on 5/4/21 this Court orally ordered supplemental briefing on those accounting issues, starting with a brief and declaration(s) from Ms. Campos setting forth her understanding of the remaining issues and her evidence in support of her position. See Interim Claim Order (dkt. 277), at Ex.1, PDF p.11, part "(1)(d)." But the parties' Joint Status Report Re: Accounting (dkt. 363) notes that, due to a calendaring error, Ms. Campos missed that deadline. (This Court also set a deadline of 6/1/21 for Debtor's response, and 6/8/21 for Ms. Campos' reply.)

The parties are directed to address whether they have agreed to new

Tentative Ruling for 5/4/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 5/4/21.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's motion to extend exclusivity period to obtain acceptance of plan (dkt. 305), no opposition on file

Ms. Campos' opposition (dkt. 261), Debtor's reply (dkt. 266)

This Court has largely sustained this claim objection, except with respect to any outstanding accounting issues, as to which this Court directed the parties to meet and confer. The tentative ruling is to continue this hearing, to be contemporaneous with the continued status conference (see part "(2)" of this tentative ruling, below). If the parties have not resolved any disputes about the accounting, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 5/25/21 for Debtor to file and serve a supplemental brief and declaration(s) setting forth Debtor's understanding of the remaining issues and his evidence in support of his position, with a deadline of 6/1/21 for Ms. Campos' response, and 6/8/21 for Debtor's reply.

(c) Campos v. Kennedy (Adv. No. 2:20-ap-01626-NB)

The tentative ruling is to dismiss this adversary proceeding as moot. Previously this adversary proceeding was stayed so that Debtor could attempt to confirm his proposed Plan (with all rights reserved if Debtor failed to obtain confirmation of that Plan). See dkt. 247, Ex.1, at PDF pp. 5-6 (Section (1) (b)). Now this Court has issued an oral order confirming the Plan (at the hearing on 4/27/21).

Under the Plan, the parties' executory contract embodied in the Mediation Term Sheet is assumed and, contrary to Ms. Campos' position in this adversary proceeding, the Plan treats her claim as an unsecured claim (consistent with the Mediation Term Sheet, which neither creates nor recognizes any alleged security interests in future accounts receivable). Accordingly, there is no point in determining whatever Ms. Campos' rights would have been if the Plan had not been confirmed, and it appears that there is nothing left to address in this adversary proceeding.

Note: Nothing in the foregoing tentative ruling is intended to cut off or prejudice whatever rights Ms. Campos might have if this Court's orders were to be reversed or modified by any appellate tribunal. As stated on the record at the confirmation hearing on 4/27/21, the Plan does not purport to cut off or prejudice the issues that are subject to the appellate proceedings.

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to proposed orders on each of the three foregoing matters via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of the tentative ruling in part "(1)(c)" to the order addressing that issue, all subject to Ms. Campos' rights to contest the

Tentative Ruling for 6/15/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Amended proposed Plan (dkt.60), Order setting confirmation hearing (dkt.63), Ballot Summary (dkt.82)

The tentative ruling is that the Plan cannot be confirmed. Although Debtor's ballot summary (dkt.82, p.3:6-13) asserts that the March Entities' ballot should not be counted because its claims are subject to a claim objection, that disregards this Court's order (dkt.63, para.1), which provides that claims were fixed as of 5/4/21 for voting purposes (with inapplicable exceptions). Debtor's claim objection (dkt.77) was not filed until after that deadline (on 5/28/21). Due to the size of the March Entities' claim, the holders of class 3 claims have not voted to accept the Plan by "at least two-thirds in amount." 11 U.S.C. 1126(c) (incorporated by 1129(a)(8)&(10) and 1191(a)). See Ballot Summary (dkt.82) (listing dollar amounts of claims).

In addition, this Court is not persuaded that "cramdown" is appropriate under 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(1)-(3) and 1191(b). As set forth in the next section of this tentative ruling, although a plan may provide for assumption "subject to section 365" (11 U.S.C. 1123(b)(2)), the tentative ruling is that Debtor has not established compliance with section 365 in its attempt to assume its agreement with the March Entities. To the contrary, Debtor's proposed Plan appears to be a bad faith attempt to evade and indefinitely defer its obligations under that agreement.

In making the foregoing tentative rulings this Court recognizes that the docket does not reflect any objection to confirmation. But this Court has an independent duty to assure that the elements of 11 U.S.C. 1129 are satisfied. See United Student Aid Funds, Inc. v. Espinosa, 559 U.S. 260, at n.15 &

(b) Motion of March 1 LLC and Marchlife3, LLC's (the "March Entities") to compel Debtor to assume or reject contract, or alternatively for dismissal of case (the "Deadline Motion," dkt. 66); Debtor's Opposition (dkt. 69); March Entities' Reply (dkt. 70), Debtor's Supp. Opp. (dkt. 76); March Entities' Supp. Reply (dkt. 81)

Grant the Deadline Motion as provided below, for the reasons stated in the Tentative Ruling for 5/4/21 (reproduced below) and the following additional reasons. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 24 hours prior to the continued hearing for Debtor (i) to pay the cure payments set forth below, (ii) to pay the compensation payments set forth below, and (iii) to provide evidence of additional investors or funds as adequate assurance of future performance, as set forth below. The tentative ruling is to set the continued hearing contemporaneous with the continued Status Conference (see part "(2)(d)" of this Tentative Ruling, below).

This Court recognizes that the foregoing might present an impossible burden for Debtor. But the tentative ruling is that the March entities are entitled to a tight deadline because of their own exigent circumstances.

(i) Background

At the hearing on 5/4/21 this Court was persuaded to continue this matter to this date. This Court orally set a deadline of 5/11/21 for the March entities to provide their supplement, a deadline of 5/25/21 for Debtor to respond with whatever briefing and evidence it may have, and a deadline of 6/4/21 for the March entities' reply. See Supp. Opp. (dkt. 76), p.6:4-10.

(ii) Statute

Debtor "may not assume" the subject contract without (i) curing, or providing "adequate assurance that [Debtor] will promptly cure" defaults, (ii) compensating, or providing "adequate assurance that [Debtor] will promptly compensate" the March entities for any "actual pecuniary loss" resulting from defaults, and (iii) providing "adequate assurance of future performance" by Debtor under the subject contract. 11 U.S.C. 365(b)(1). Debtor may assume or reject the contract "at any time before the confirmation of a plan but the court, on the request of any party to [the] contract ..., may order [Debtor] to determine within a specified period of time whether to assume or reject such contract" 11 U.S.C. 365(d)(2). As set forth in Debtor's papers, Debtor is entitled to a "reasonable" time to decide whether to assume or reject the contract, and what amount of time is "reasonable" is left to this Court's discretion in light of the circumstances of this case. See Supp. Opp. (dkt. 76) p.7:16-25 (citing authorities).

(iii) Urgency of Deadline to Compel Assumption or Rejection of the Participation Agreement

Debtor asserts that there is no urgency, and no need to set a deadline to compel assumption or rejection of the Participation Agreement, because the March Entities have not provided evidence that "Debtor's contribution is necessary to meet the [September 2021] due date," "that the due date is being enforced despite COVID-19 and the Force Majeure clauses under the DDA," or "that funds are even due from the Debtor." Supp. Opp. (dkt. 76) p. 7:11–13. The tentative ruling is that the March Entities have more than adequately addressed each of these issues. See, e.g., Niemann Decl. (dkt.74) at p.3, para.10 ("the funds to comply with the infrastructure construction obligation ... are needed immediately" and "there is no funding available for improvements required by Sept. 2021"); Supp. Reply (dkt. 81) pp. 4:9–12, 5:3–9; Second Amendment to the Disposition and Development Agreement (dkt. 74) Ex.A, section 2.01 (replacing section 6.03) and Ex.D (9/12/21 deadline for certain horizontal improvements).

The hypothetical possibility that the March Entities could escape termination of their contract based on COVID-19 and any Force Majeure clause is insufficient. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is that the March Entities have established the urgent need for Debtor to assume or reject the Participation Agreement so that they may continue their work under the Disposition and Development Agreement and retain that agreement.

(iv) Minimum cure and compensation payments

Debtor also makes several arguments against the cure and compensation demands of the March Entities. The tentative ruling is that Debtor's arguments have been fully rebutted by the March Entities, except as noted below. See Niemann Decl. (dkt.81), pp.2-7, passim.

On the specific issue of attorney fees, the tentative ruling is that the March Entities have the better argument for the following reasons. Under § 365(b)(1)(B), the party assuming a contract is required to compensate or provide adequate assurance to a party other than the debtor for any pecuniary loss resulting from a default on the contract in question. Although the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel has held that § 365(b)(1)(B) does not confer an independent right to attorney's fees as pecuniary losses, In re Westside Print Works, Inc., 180 B.R. 557, 564 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), it has upheld the inclusion of attorney's fees for pecuniary losses where the contract at issue explicitly provided for the award of attorney's fees. In re Bullock, 17 B.R. 438, 439 (9th Cir. BAP 1982) ("The purpose of [§] 365(b)(1)(B) is to indemnify the other party to the contract or lease being assumed, against loss. The purpose of an attorney's fee clause in a lease as well as an attorney's fee clause in a security agreement is the same, to indemnify the lessor or secured party against legal expenses incurred by reason of the other party's default.").

Debtor objects to the March Entities' inclusion of $2,500,000 for Phase 2 improvements. Supp. Opp. (dkt. 76) p. 10:1–7. The tentative ruling is that this amount is properly included within the cure obligation, based on the March Entities' citation to contractual provisions entitling them to make a demand for such funds. See Supp. Reply (dkt. 81) p. 3:13–19; May 11, 2021 Phase 2 Invoice (dkt. 81) Ex. D; March Entities' Reply to Debtor's Request for Additional Information (dkt. 81) Ex. Tentative Ruling for 5/4/21:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of March 1 LLC and Marchlife3, LLC's (the "March Entities") to compel Debtor to assume or reject contract, or alternatively for dismissal of case (the "Deadline Motion," dkt. 66); Debtor's Opposition (dkt. 69); March Entities' Reply (dkt. 70)

Although Debtor is correct that the March Entities' legal analysis is thin, the tentative ruling is that the March Entities have presented sufficient arguments and evidence that, unless Debtor assumes or rejects the Participation Agreement very soon, the March Entities will not be able to meet their own deadline of 9/19/21 (the "Third Party Deadline") to make certain mandatory improvements, under their Disposition & Development Agreement with a governmental or quasi-governmental "Authority" for development of part of the former March Air Force Base (the "Development Agreement"). See Neimann Decl. (dkt. 66), p. 7:8–12, and Ex.A pp.12 and 13 (Participation Agreement) recitals and section 1 (at PDF p. 15) and pp.26 & 29 (schedule of payments, and "Horizontal Improvements" budget, Ex.B&E to Participation Agreement) (at PDF pp. 28 & 31). The March Entities have provided evidence that they need an estimated $800,000 of funding from Debtor or, in the alternative, from another source, far enough in advance of that Third Party Deadline to make the improvements, or else they risk losing the entire project. Dkt. 66, pp. 7:24–8:3.

Debtor provides no contrary evidence. True, Debtor's proposed Plan (the "Plan," dkt. 61) provides for assumption of the participation agreement and an eventual cure. But the proposed time for any cure payment appears to be the later of (i) the Effective Date (defined to be 6 months after confirmation), if Debtor has sold the interests by then, or alternatively (ii) any later date when Debtor has the funds to make cure payments, subject to the apparent condition that Debtor will only make such payments if it "sells its interests under the Participation Agreement within 3 years after the Effective Date." See Plan, dkt. 61, sections "A," "C," 2.03, 4.01, 6.01, and 8.01. The tentative ruling is that this is insufficient for multiple reasons.

First, the March Entities point to evidence (Debtor's own Monthly Operating Reports and other bankruptcy papers) that Debtor has very few funds or ability to generate income, and therefore Debtor lacks any obvious ability to make the cure payments, except for a speculative prospect of finding investors. Again, Debtor provides no contrary evidence. The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not provided "adequate assurance" that it will be able to cure the default, as required by 11 U.S.C. 365(b)(1)(A) and 1123(b)(2).

Second, the tentative ruling is that, once the Third Party Deadline has expired, Debtor cannot "unring the bell" and belatedly cure its own failure to fund the required improvements before that deadline. See generally In re Claremont Acquisition Corp., 113 F.3d 1029, 1033-35 (9th Cir. 1997) (debtor's failure to operate business for two weeks was historical fact that could not be cured). This means that, based on the evidence provided by the March Entities, Debtor must provide very strong assurances very soon that it will be able to provide the funds in sufficient time for the required improvements to be constructed prior to the Third Party Deadline, or else the March Entities will be left with too little time to make other arrangements to obtain such funding and construct the necessary improvements before the Third Party Deadline.

Third, even supposing that Debtor had presented evidence of some leeway in the Third Party Deadline under the Development Agreement (which Debtor has not presented), the tentative ruling is that Debtor's proposed time line is not sufficient to "promptly" cure within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 365(b)(1)(A) (emphasis added). Again, the March Entities have provided evidence of what "prompt[]" means in the circumstances of this case - i.e., sufficient to assure that the March Entities will not lose their own rights under the Development Agreement - and Debtor has not provided any evidence to the contrary.

Fourth, Debtor's apparent loophole - that it will only pay the cure payment if it can sell its interests under the Participation Agreement within three years after the Effective Date - appears to undermine any ability to provide "adequate assurance" of a future cure. 11 U.S.C. 365(b)(1)(A) (emphasis added).

For each of the foregoing alternative reasons, the tentative ruling is to grant the Deadline Motion, and to set a deadline of 6/1/21 for Debtor to (x) obtain a ruling from this Court authorizing it to assume its Participation Agreement with the March Entities and (y) actually fund the estimated $800,000 of necessary improvements, or else (z) reject the Participation Agreement. The tentative ruling is that there is cause to shorten time on any motion to assume (or reject) the Participation Agreement, both because of the above 6/1/21 deadline and because Debtor would need to raise a lot of money quickly in order to meet that deadline. See Rules 6006, 9006(c) & (d), 9013, 9014, 9036.

The tentative ruling is to shorten the deadlines such that, if Debtor can file and serve an assumption or rejection motion by 5/18/21, that motion can be self-calendared concurrent with the continued status conference (see below), with an opposition deadline of 5/24/21 and any reply due 5/27/21.

Nothing in the foregoing tentative rulings should be construed to eliminate any claims (if any) that survive the arbitration award (dkt. 66, Ex.B, at PDF pp.37 et seq.). For example, Debtor retains all claims or defenses that might arise from its assertion that the March Entities have prevented Debtor from performing, by failing to provide Debtor with allegedly essential information to be able to attract investors. See, e.g., Plan (dkt. 61), at PDF pp. 2-3. Likewise, the March Entities retain all claims or defenses that might arise from their assertions (and any preclusive findings or rulings in the arbitration award) that Debtor made material false statements in the inception of the participation agreement or thereafter. All rights are reserved as to any claims, counterclaims, and defenses that are not barred by principles of preclusion or other doctrines.

Proposed order: The March Entities are directed to lodge a proposed order on the Deadline Motion via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Tentative Ruling for 5/26/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's motion to sell substantially all of its assets ("Sale Motion," dkt. 61-65, 67), Opposition of Ruth Gonzales, Braubert Andres, and Guillermo J. Lopez Gutierrez ("Gonzales et al.") This Court has received a communication with chambers that the parties may stipulate to a further continuance of this hearing. But no such stipulation or proposed order has been filed or lodged as of the preparation of this tentative ruling, so in an abundance of caution this Court is posting this tentative ruling to apprise the parties of the need to appear if they have not sought and obtained an order for a continuance.

On the merits, there is no additional tentative ruling beyond what this Court previously provided. The parties should be prepared to address the issues set forth in this Court's 5/19/21 tentative ruling (copied below).

Tentative Ruling for 5/19/21:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's motion to sell substantially all of its assets ("Sale Motion," dkt. 61-65, 67), Opposition of Ruth Gonzales, Braubert Andres, and Guillermo J. Lopez Gutierrez ("Gonzales et al.") (dkt. 77), SubchapterV Trustee's response (dkt. 83), Joinder of Samuel Pearce Trust ("Pearce") (dkt. 86), Debtor's reply to Gonzales et al. (dkt. 88), Debtor's reply to SubchapterV Trustee's response (dkt. 95), Schedules to APA (dkt. 99)

The tentative ruling is that the following issues must be addressed before any sale can be approved. On the one hand, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has established sufficient justification for a quick sale of substantially all of its assets without overbids, instead of the delays and expenses of attempting to market the assets and hold an auction, which likely would result in lower net recoveries. Likewise, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has established sufficient justification for a sale instead of attempting to accomplish the same transaction through a chapter 11 plan, again because of the projected delays and costs of the latter proceeding (although those disadvantages might be exaggerated, given the speed and efficiency that are possible in Subchapter V).

In addition, the tentative ruling is that any sale can be free and clear of liens and other interests under 11 U.S.C. 363(f). Although this Court is not persuaded that "applicable nonbankruptcy law" provides for a sale of substantially all assets to an insider free and clear of successor liability and other interests in the assets (section 363(f)(1)), or that a lack of objection is the same as "consent[]" (section 363(f)(2)) (dkt.59, pp.11:3-12:10), nevertheless section 363(f)(4) and (5) apply. Any purported lien or interest would qualify as "disputed" under section 363(f)(4), because of Debtor's lien searches, the lack of notice to Debtor of any other encumbrances or interests (other than Permitted Encumbrances), and the usual grounds for contesting any successor liability. Alternatively, this Court is persuaded that section 363(f)(5) applies because of the existence of "legal or equitable proceeding[s]" that could compel holders of any liens or other interests to accept a "money satisfaction," such as foreclosures and receiverships in which sales can be accomplished free and clear. As stated in the posted "Procedures of Judge Bason" (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) under "Common matters":

Regarding § 363(f)(5), the judge does not follow Clear Channel Outdoor, Inc. v. Knupfer (In re PW, LLC), 391 B.R. 25, 40 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2008). He has ruled that a sale free and clear is permissible under § 363(f)(5) whenever the interest at issue is subject to monetary valuation. See In re Trans World Airlines, Inc., 322 F.3d 283, 290-91 (3d Cir. 2003) ("TWA") (because employees' claims were "subject to monetary valuation," debtor's assets could be sold free and clear of successor liability for such claims under § 363(f)(5)). Alternatively, the judge has ruled that "cramdown" is among the types of legal or equitable proceeding within the statute, or that Clear Channel is distinguishable in most cases under the rationale of In re Jolan, 403 B.R. 866 (Bankr. W.D. Wash. 2009), because holders of interests can be compelled in numerous other types of legal or equitable proceedings to accept a money satisfaction (which might be $-0- in the case of an interest that is entirely underwater). Those proceedings include a hypothetical foreclosure by one of the lienholders, or a receivership (which could be initiated at the behest of creditors or by the debtor itself). See

Cal. Code Civ. Proc. ("CCP") §564(b)(9) (power to appoint receiver to sell property); CCP § 568.5 (receiver empowered to sell property as provided in CCP §§701.510 et seq.); CCP § 701.630 (extinguishment of liens); CCP § 701.680 (binding effect of sale). The judge respectfully disagrees with In re Hassen Imports P'ship, 502 B.R. 851, 860 et seq. (C.D. Cal. 2013) (hypothetical foreclosure sale did not qualify under section 363(f)(5)). See generally In re Catalina Sea Ranch, LLC (Case No. 2:19-bk-24467-NB), dkt. 122 (approving sale to insider, free and clear of successor liability).

On the other hand, (i) the insider nature of the proposed transaction requires greater scrutiny and (ii) unless the proposed sale is assured of generating funds sufficient to pay a meaningful dividend to nonpriority unsecured creditors, it does not appear appropriate to approve the proposed sale. This Court's reasoning is that, if a sale is a permissible substitute for a plan (under Braniff, Lionel, Walter, Continental Airlines, Coastal Indus., Abbots Dairies, etc. - see dkt.83, passim and especially pp.2:19-5:4 and 8:1-16:17), then this Court must consider whether the proposed transaction, if embodied in a proposed plan, would fail the tests for confirmation, and whether the proposed transaction would otherwise be contrary to the process and distribution scheme contemplated by the Bankruptcy Code. This approach is consistent with the definition of "cause" to dismiss or convert a case under 11 U.S.C. 1112: if no plan could be confirmed within any reasonable time frame, then this Court "shall" convert or dismiss the case. See 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(J).

The tentative ruling is that, if no meaningful dividend can be assured, then the proposed disposition of Debtor's assets would not satisfy the "fair and equitable" standard for confirmation of any plan, and it would be inappropriate to permit an "end run" around that standard, without even having an opportunity for creditors to vote (because there is no plan), while providing insiders with various benefits from the proposed transaction. In addition, there is insufficient assurance, on such shortened time, that the best interests of creditors test (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(7)) would not favor a chapter 7 liquidation.

Conversion to chapter 7 would preserve the integrity of the system by enabling an independent investigation and assessment. Specifically, it is possible that a chapter 7 trustee: (w) could either obtain a better sale price from the proposed buyer or competitors, (x) could investigate Debtor's vague assertions that unspecified "problems" (dkt. 59, p.3:20) transformed a business from one that "historically operated at a profit" (id., p.3:19) into one that allegedly "would require significant capital investment before it could even break even" (id., p.4:16-17), (y) could uncover claims against insiders, avoidance actions, or other sources of recoveries, and alternatively (z) could, at the very least, provide greater assurance that all "stones had been turned over" to explore whether the foregoing recoveries were possible.

In other words, the tentative ruling is that it is inappropriate to authorize a sale of substantially all assets, with the benefits and protections to insiders and the buyer of releases and cutting off potential successor liability and other claims, unless a meaningful dividend to nonpriority unsecured creditors can be assured. True, conversion or dismissal of this case might produce smaller, not greater, chances of any meaningful recoveries. But the tentative ruling is that the integrity of the system requires either the protections of a chapter 7 trustee or, alternatively, assurance of a meaningful distribution to nonpriority unsecured creditors. Absent the latter, the tentative ruling is that this Court cannot approve the proposed quick, no-voting, no-overbid sale to insiders with releases and a transfer of assets to them free and clear of successor liability.

(b) Plan (dkt. 89)

The tentative ruling is that, although Debtor's Plan is essentially a blank slate, the details of which Debtor proposes to supply after the (hoped for) approval of the Sale Motion, that is sufficient under the circumstances. The tentative ruling is not to take any further action with respect to the Plan at this time.

(a) Debtor's Post-Confirmation Status Report (256)

Debtor reports that the confirmed plan "has funded to escrow but ... escrow has not yet closed." Dkt.256, p.2:6-7 (footnote omitted). Why not? What is Debtor's projected progress toward resolution, and paying the Granada Park Tenants what they are owed under the Plan without undue delay?

(2) Deadlines/dates

This case was filed on 5/15/18, and Debtor's plan was confirmed on 3/15/21 (dkt. 230). The tentative ruling is to set a continued post-confirmation status conference for 7/20/21 at 1:00 p.m., with a brief status report due 7/6/21.

Docket 24

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/15/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 6/15/21.

(1) Current issues

(a) Contempt/Sanctions motion (dkt. 24, 25), Opposition of Jordan Jarvis and Dixon G. Kummer, Esq ("Respondents") (dkt. 30), Debtor's reply (dkt. 31), interim order (dkt. 32), Debtor's notice of errata (dkt. 34), Dixon declaration (dkt. 35), Order assigning matter to mediation (dkt. 36) & proof of service (dkt. 38), mediator's certificate of conclusion of mediation (dkt. 42) Declaration of Dixon G. Kummer re status of mediation (dkt. 43)

Based on this Court's review of the mediator's certificate and Mr. Kummer's declaration stating that the parties have settled their dispute and intend to seek approval of their propose settlement agreement, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 7/13/21 for Mr. Kummer to file and serve a motion for approval of the parties' settlement agreement with a hearing concurrent with the continued status conference (see Section (2)(a) below).

(b) Jarvis v. Garcia (Adv. No. 2:21-ap-01006-NB, the "Removed Action"), Debtor's declaration (adv. dkt. 4)

On 4/6/21 this Court ordered this matter stayed while the parties participated in mediation. In view of the parties' settlement, the tentative ruling is to set a further continued status conference concurrent with the continued status conference (see Section (2)(a) below), subject to this proceeding being vacated if the settlement is approved.

30), Debtor's reply (dkt. 31), interim order (dkt. 32), Debtor's notice of errata (dkt. 34), as of the preparation of this tentative ruling no response has been filed by Jeff or Linda Jarvis.

Analysis:

(1) Background

Debtor moves for an order setting aside a state court default judgment and for damages arising from violations of the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(k). On 1/29/21, this Court entered an "Emergency Order: (1) Granting Partial Relief on Debtor's Motion to Set Aside Default Judgment on an Interim Basis, and (2) Directing Respondents to (I) Cease All Eviction Efforts and Related Acts, (II) Instruct Any Persons Aiding Them in Those Efforts to Cease all Such Efforts, and (III) Appear and Address the Stay Violation Issues and the Appropriate Amount of Damages" (dkt. 32, the "Interim Order"). The Interim Order sets forth the facts relevant to this dispute as well as the applicable law and this Court's interim findings and conclusions, which this Court incorporates by reference and will not repeat here. (Errata: This Court hereby corrects one non-material error in the Interim Order: the phrase "nearly a month later" (id., p.2:27) is amended to read "over two months later.")

(2) The default judgment is void

For the reasons stated in the Interim Order, the tentative ruling is to confirm that the Default Judgment is void and of no legal effect because it was entered on 12/8/20 in violation of the automatic stay that was in effect as of the date of entry of the judgment. See Dkt. 25, Ex.3; see also In re Wardrobe, 559 F.3d 932, 934 (9th Cir. 2009) (judicial proceedings in violation of the automatic stay are also void); In re Gruntz, 202 F.3d 1074, 1082 (9th Cir. 2000) (en banc) ("actions taken in violation of the automatic stay are void. Further, '[j]udicial proceedings in violation of th[e] automatic stay are void.' . . . As the Supreme Court explained in Kalb [v. Feuerstein], 308 U.S. 433, 443 (1940)], discussing the weaker predecessor statute to 11 U.S.C. § 362(a), '[b]ecause that State court had been deprived of all jurisdiction or power to proceed ... [all acts by creditor]-to the extent based upon the [State] court's actions-were all without authority of law.'" (citations omitted); In re Schwartz, 954 F.2d 569, 571 (9th Cir. 1992) ("It is well established that acts in violation of the automatic stay are void ab initio and have no force or effect").

Chapter 7

(3) Debtor is entitled to recover damages arising from Respondents' willful violation of the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. § 362(k))

Section 362(k)(1) provides, "...an individual injured by any willful violation of a stay provided by this section shall recover actual damages, including costs and attorneys' fees, and, in appropriate circumstances, may recover punitive damages." 11 U.S.C. 362(k)(1).

A willful violation is satisfied if a party knew of the automatic stay, and that party's actions in violation of the automatic stay were intentional. In re Bruel, 533 B.R. 782, 787 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2015) (citation Eksanos & Adler, P.C. v. Leetien, 309 F.3d 1210, 1215 (9th Cir. 2002)). "Once a creditor has knowledge of the bankruptcy, it is deemed to have knowledge of the automatic stay." Id. Even if a party violates the stay inadvertently, once it becomes clear that a stay violation has occurred it is the duty of the party violating the stay to remedy the stay violation. In re Stefani, 2019 Bankr. LEXIS 481, at *21, 2019 WL 762661, at *8 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. Feb. 15, 2019) (citing In re Roman, 283 B.R. 1, 12 (9th Cir. BAP 2002) (creditor has the burden both to establish administrative safeguards to prevent stay violations and to restore the status quo by undoing them); In re Dyer, 322 F.3d 1178, 1192 (9th Cir. 2003) (knowledge of a stay violation created an "affirmative duty to remedy [the] automatic stay violation")).

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's evidence is insufficient to establish that Respondents knew Debtor's bankruptcy case had been reinstated when they obtained the Default Judgment because the Certificate of Notice of the Order Reinstating the Case does not reflect service on Respondents (dkt. 21) and Debtor has not submitted any evidence establishing that Respondents received notice in some other way prior to 12/8/20 when the Default Judgment was entered.

But Respondents do not dispute that they were made aware of this Court's Order Reinstating Case on December 15, 2020 when Debtor's counsel e-mailed them to notify them that the Default Judgment was void as a violation of the automatic stay and to request that Respondents take steps to vacate the default judgment. Dkt. 25, Ex.4 & Dkt. 30, p.2:24-26. Therefore, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has shown by a preponderance of the evidence that Respondents had actual notice of Debtor's bankruptcy filing and of the automatic stay no later than December 15, 2020.

The tentative ruling is also that because the Default Judgment was void ab initio (Schwartz, 954 F.2d 569, 571), the real property that is the subject of that action is property of Debtor's bankruptcy estate and continues to be subject to the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(3), (6) and 541(a) (1). As a result, Respondents' efforts to enforce the Default Judgment were intentional, willful and in violation of the automatic stay. The tentative ruling, based on Debtor's unrefuted evidence, is that Respondents:

(a) failed to take any actions to have the Default Judgment vacated despite having an affirmative obligation to do so (dkt. 25, p.13:17-24; see also dkt. 30, p.3:5-13);

(b) engaged in efforts to lock out and evict Debtor and her daughter from the real property that is the subject of the Default Judgment by changing the locks and posting a 60-day notice to vacate and a notice of termination of tenancy for no-fault just cause (dkt. 25, pp. 13:25-14:3, 17:17-18:11 & Ex. 5, 8, 9);

(c) seized Debtor's and her daughter's personal property (dkt. 25, pp. 14:26-15:25 & 17:3-19:10); and

(d) threatened and harassed Debtor and her daughter with the specific intent of trying to intimidate them to vacate the subject property and turn over full possession to Mr. Jarvis. Dkt. 25, pp. 14:4-25, 15:15-20 & Ex.6 & 7. (Debtor and her daughter also allege harassment of the boyfriend of Debtor's daughter, but there is no declaration from him, and although there is no hearsay objection this Court has discretion to require non-hearsay evidence even when respondents have failed to raise any hearsay objection. See Rule 55(b)(2), Fed. R. Civ. P. (incorporated by Rules 7055 & 9014(c), Fed. R. Bankr. P.))

(4) Damages

"The words 'shall recover' indicate that Congress intended that the award of actual damages, costs and attorney's fees be mandatory upon a finding of willful violation of the stay." In re Ramirez, 183 B.R. 583, 589 (9th Cir. BAP 1995) (internal citations omitted).

(a) Actual damages/Attorney's fees

Section 362(k)(1) is a fee-shifting statute that entitles debtor not only to attorney's fees and costs incurred in ending a stay violation, but also to fees and costs incurred in prosecuting an action for damages from a stay violation and in successful defending a damages award on appeal. In re Schwartz-Tallard, 803 F.3d 1095, 1099-1101 (9th Cir. 2015) (internal citations omitted);

see also In re Moon, 2021 Bankr. LEXIS 27 at *10, 2021 WL 62629 at *10 (9th Cir. BAP Jan. 7, 2021) ("attorney's fees and costs are 'incurred' even when the plaintiff is not personally liable for them") (citations omitted).

In support of her motion and reply papers, Debtor submitted evidence establishing $6,554 in damages as follows: (1) $1,700 to prepare and file the Stay Violation Motion (dkt. 25, p.15:11-13); (2) $500 to prepare and file her reply in support of the Stay Violation Motion and to file a notice of removal of the State Court Action (dkt. 31, p.6:13-15); (3) $1,500 in attorney's fees incurred having to defend against Department of Real Estate complaint Mr. Jarvis filed against Debtor (dkt. 25, p.15:15-20); and (4) $2,854 to reimburse Debtor's daughter and Debtor's daughter's boyfriend for theft of property that Debtor is responsible for reimbursing (dkt. 25, p.15:21-25).

The tentative ruling is that Debtor is entitled to an award of actual damages, including attorney's fees and costs, of $6,554, payable jointly and severally by the Respondents.

(b) Emotional distress damages

To be entitled to damages for emotional distress under section 362(k), an individual must (1) suffer a significant harm, (2) clearly establish the significant harm, and (3) demonstrate a causal connection between that harm and the violation of the automatic stay. In re Dawson, 390 F.3d 1139, 1148-49 (9th Cir. 2004). "Fleeting or trivial anxiety or distress does not suffice to support an award; instead, an individual must suffer significant emotional harm." Id. (citations omitted).

An individual may establish emotional distress damages in a number of ways, such as by providing corroborating medical evidence or by submitting testimony or declarations from family members, friends or coworkers. Id. at 1149-50. Additionally, in some cases, "significant emotional distress may be readily apparent even without corroborative evidence" such as instances where the violator has engaged in egregious conduct. Id. Alternatively, "even if the violation of the automatic stay was not egregious, the circumstances may make it obvious that a reasonable person would suffer significant emotional harm." Id.

In support of the Stay Violation Motion, Debtor submitted her declaration in which she states "Emotional Distress/Punitive; It is hard to measure these. However, the emotional impact has been tremendous, while myself and my family are being harassed no end. I believe that emotional distress punitive damages are warranted" Dkt. 25, p.15:27-16:2. The tentative ruling is that this is insufficient to warrant the imposition of emotional distress damages.

(c) Punitive damages

Section 362(k) authorizes an award of punitive damages "in appropriate circumstances." 11 U.S.C. 362(k)(1). "An award of punitive damages requires some showing of reckless or callous disregard for the law or rights of others" or "where the conduct is malicious, wanton, or oppressive." In re Snowden, 769 F.3d 651, 657 (9th Cir. 2014). "Courts have also imposed punitive damages for arrogant defiance of the automatic stay." In re Stefani, 2019 Bankr. LEXIS 481, at * 22-23, 2019 WL 762661, at *8 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. Feb. 15, 2019) (emphasis added) (citing In re Jean-Francois, 532 B.R. 449, 459 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 2015); In re Diviney, 211 B.R. 951 (Bankr. N.D. Okla. 1997)). "The Court in considering an award of punitive damages, thus, needs to find that the violator did more than violate the stay through mere negligence or inattention." Id. at *8. "The amount of a punitive damage award is also fact-specific and within the discretion of a Bankruptcy Court." Id. (citation omitted). In determining whether to impose punitive damages under [section] 362(k), bankruptcy courts have considered the nature of the creditor's conduct, the creditor's ability to pay, the motives of the creditor, any provocation by the debtor, and the creditor's level of sophistication." Id. (emphasis added).

The tentative ruling is that punitive damages are appropriate for several reasons. First, Respondents' refusal to remedy the stay violation is ongoing and intentional. Second, Respondents' three-page opposition is not supported by any citation to legal authority and Respondents do not even attempt to deny Debtor's allegations or refute Debtor's evidence with declarations or other evidence. Their papers reflect a complete indifference to educate themselves on applicable bankruptcy law and/or a willful and callous disregard of the automatic stay and this Court's authority. Third and finally, their willful stay violations are numerous and malicious—they have willfully refused to take steps to vacate the Default Judgment and instead have changed the locks and posted notices of eviction on the property, they have sent threatening and intimidating messages to Debtor and her family members and attempted to enforce prepetition claims against Debtor, with the additional apparent intent to destroy Debtor's ability to earn an income, by filing lawsuits against her and contacting her employer.

Respondents should be prepared to address whether there are any grounds why this Court should not impose $7,000 in punitive damages against them, jointly and severally, for their egregious behavior.

(5) Caveat

As always, tentative rulings are just that - tentative. In addition, this Court's Interim Order (dkt.32, p.6:10-12) prohibited any further briefing. All rights are reserved to argue why this Court should or should not permit further briefing. In addition, this Court has the power to order mandatory mediation of parties before it, and the parties should be prepared to address whether this Court should do so.

(1) Current issues

(a) Background

The Contemnors have filed a Notice of Appeal (dkt. 300, "NOA") of the Sanctions Order. The parties have not briefed the scope of this Bankruptcy Court's jurisdiction in view of the pending appeal.

In general, this Bankruptcy Court's understanding is that: it is deprived of jurisdiction over any matter as to which any appellate court is exercising jurisdiction; but in the absence of a stay pending appeal this Bankruptcy Court retains jurisdiction to implement or enforce its existing orders, as well as jurisdiction over all other matters in the bankruptcy case. See, e.g., In re

Sherman, 491 F.3d 948, 967 (9th Cir. 2007) ("The timely filing of a notice of appeal to either a district court or bankruptcy appellate panel will typically divest a bankruptcy court of jurisdiction over those aspects of the case involved in the appeal" but not on any other issues in the case, and even with respect to the order or judgment on appeal the bankruptcy court retains jurisdiction "to implement or enforce the judgment or order, although it may not alter or expand upon the judgment"; and "[i]f a party wants to stay all of the proceedings in bankruptcy court while an appeal is pending, it must file a motion for a stay." (citations and internal quotation marks omitted).

In addition, now that the applicable rules have been augmented with a rule concerning "indicative rulings" (renumbered Rule 8008, Fed. R. Bankr. P.), this Bankruptcy Court is authorized to do several things notwithstanding any pending appeal. Specifically, with respect to a motion as to which this Bankruptcy Court "lacks authority to grant because of an appeal," it may "(1) defer considering the motion; (2) deny the motion; or (3) state that the court would grant the motion if the court where the appeal is pending remands for that purpose, or state that the motion raises a substantial issue."

Based on this Bankruptcy Court's understanding of the matter on appeal - and in the absence of anything on the docket suggesting otherwise - the tentative ruling is that this Bankruptcy Court has jurisdiction to address the issues set forth below. In the alternative, the tentative ruling is that this Bankruptcy Court has jurisdiction to issue indicative rulings on the issues set forth below.

(b) Compensatory sanctions (dkt. 297), no opposition is on file

This Court has reviewed the Alleged Employees' time records (dkt. 297). As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, the Contemnors have not filed any opposition.

The tentative ruling is to award supplemental fees in the amount of $5,050 and costs in the amount of $86, for a total supplemental compensatory sanctions award of $5,136 against the Contemnors, payable to the Alleged Employees as compensation for the fees and costs they have been forced to incur to date to compel compliance.

In addition, the tentative ruling is that all rights are reserved for the Alleged Employees to request further compensatory sanctions in future until this Court finds that the Contemnors have fully complied with the 2004 Orders.

Chapter 7

(c) Coercive sanctions

This Court has reviewed the parties' supplemental papers (dkt. 306, 309, 313).

(i) Appropriate amount of daily sanctions

The Contemnor Contempt/Sanctions Order (dkt. 291) notified the Contemnors of this Court's intent to impose coercive sanctions against each of them in the amount of $100 per day, starting on 5/17/21 (the original date was 5/10/21, but this Court extended that deadline at the Contemnors' request, see dkt. 299 & 302), but set a deadline for the Contemnors to present any argument or evidence in support of any different dollar amount or any different period than daily sanctions. Dkt. 291, pp. 4:10-18.

This Court has reviewed the Contemnors' supplemental declarations (dkt. 306 & 313) and notes that they do not object to this Court's proposed sanction amount and frequency. Therefore, the tentative ruling is that coercive sanctions will continue to be $100 per day, payable as stated in the Contemnor Contempt/Sanctions Order (dkt. 291, p.4:10-19). All rights are reserved for either side to seek to modify the amount and frequency in future.

(ii) Proof of payment of outstanding sanctions

This Court's review of the docket reflects the Clerk's Office's receipt of three payments of $700 in sanctions on 6/4/21. But the tentative ruling is that (A) the Contemnor Contempt/Sanctions Order (dkt. 291, p.4:10-19) directed all four of the Contemnors (Debtor, Ms. Freda Wang, The Law Offices of Lynn Chao, and Ms. Lynn Chao) to each pay $700 in weekly sanctions, and (B) those sanctions began the week of 5/21/21 (so as of the date of this hearing the Contemnors should have made payments for the weeks of 5/21/21, 5/27/21, 6/4/21, and 6/11/21). The tentative ruling is to take up at a future hearing what remedies to impose if the Contemnors do not pay the missing sanctions.

(d) Procedures for establishing full compliance of the 2004 Orders

For the reasons set forth in the Alleged Employees' responsive papers (dkt. 309), the tentative ruling is that the Contemnors have not complied with this Court's direction to propose procedures for establishing compliance with the 2004 Orders. The parties should be prepared to address whether this Court should set additional briefing deadlines or order some other form of relief at this time.

(a) Background

Young Young Food, LLC ("YYF") has filed a Notice of Appeal (dkt. 293, amended by dkt. 296, "NOA") of this Court's "Order Re: Sanctions for Civil Contempt Against Young Young Food LLC" (dkt. 289, the "YYF Contempt/Sanctions Order").

Tentative Ruling for 6/1/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of Bobs LLC ("Bobs") For Relief From The Automatic Stay ("R/S Motion," dkt. 936), Prior Responses by various parties in interest (dkt. 948-952), Bobs' Prior Reply (dkt. 958, 959), Joinder in Prior Response (dkt. 1005), Bobs' Supplement (dkt. 1413), Supp. Response of Dean G. Rallis, Jr., Court Appointed Agent ("Agent") (dkt. 1415), Agent's Evidentiary Objections (dkt. 1416), Supp. Joinder of The Bird Nest, LLC ("Bird") and the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Los Angeles and the California Institute of the Sisters of the Most Holy and Immaculate Heart of the Blessed Virgin Mary (collectively, "Church") (dkt. 1417)

Bobs asserts that its debt secured by the Paramour, combined the first lien debt, total near $17 million, and that the Paramour is worth no more than $14.5 million based on an appraisal obtained from Chris Adelman. Dkt. 1413, pp. 4:8–9, 6:24–26. In response, the Agent and others note the age and other alleged deficiencies in the Adelman appraisal and point to several appraisals which value the Paramour at anywhere from $36 million to $48 million. Dkt. 1415, p. 5:3–9.

The tentative ruling is that the age of the Adelman appraisal goes to its weight, not admissibility, and in any event the appraisals on which the Agent and others rely have also grown somewhat stale during the continuances of this matter. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to continue this matter for all parties to obtain revised appraisals.

The Agent requests that, if this Court does not deny the R/S Motion at this point, it set an evidentiary hearing to value the Paramour. Likewise, Bobs requests that this Court first hold an evidentiary hearing to determine the value of the Paramour and defer until later other issues such as the dollar amount of its secured claim.

The tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to set an evidentiary hearing at this time. It also appears to be appropriate to defer any determination of the dollar amount of Bobs' claim that is secured by the Paramour, because the difference in the secured claim amount is dwarfed by the range of valuations, so it appears to be most efficient to determine the value first. As to the evidentiary objections (dkt. 952, 1416) to Mr. Shy's declarations, and Bobs' response (dkt. 959), the tentative ruling is to overrule the first of the objections addressed by Bobs (dkt.959, p.2) but sustain the remaining objections, without prejudice to presenting alternative evidence on the issues. As for the junior lienholders' standing, the parties are directed to address that issue at the hearing.

Regarding the procedures for a future evidentiary hearing, the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to balance the fact that, on the one hand, (i) matters involving relief from the automatic stay generally are "summary" proceedings, and this Bankruptcy Court has already noted that vast sums have been spent on litigation in this case, and (ii) on the other hand, this particular litigation appears to warrant the expenditure of reasonable additional funds because so much appears to hinge on the outcome of the R/S Motion. In other words, the tentative ruling is to establish procedures that are neither too "summary" nor in the nature of "scorched earth" litigation that would deplete the bankruptcy estate. See generally In re Johnson, 756 F.2d 738, 740 (9th Cir.1985) (relief from stay matters are properly "handled in a summary fashion") (overruled on other grounds by Travelers Cas. & Sur. Co. v. Pac. Gas & Elec. Co., 549 U.S. 443 (2007)). See also Mem. Dec. Denying Debtor's Financing Motion (dkt. 1382), p. 19:12-15 (administrative expenses allegedly approaching $4 million).

With the foregoing parameters in mind, the parties are directed to address how much time they will need to revise appraisals, depose appraisers, conduct any other relevant discovery, prepare for an evidentiary hearing on valuation, and conduct their examination at an evidentiary hearing. See Mem. Dec. Denying Debtor's Financing Motion (dkt. 1382), n. 7 at p. 15:18-22 ("Bobs could file a motion for relief from the automatic stay" but that could take substantial time because "in all likelihood there would have to

#6.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Complaint for Monetary and Equitable Relief and Demand for a Jury Trial fr. 01/26/21, 2/9/21, 03/02/21, 4/6/21

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/15/21:
Appearances required.

This Court continued the 4/6/21 hearing on this matter based on the representations of the parties that they had found a new mediator. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address the status of the mediation proceedings.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing. Pursuant to Judge Bason's COVID-19 procedures, all appearances are via ZoomGov. For ZoomGov instructions for all matters on calendar, please see the tentative ruling for the first matter on today's calendar (i.e., page 1 of the posted tentative rulings). Unless otherwise stated, appearances via CourtCall are no longer permitted.

Tentative Ruling for 4/6/21:
Appearances required.

This Court continued the 3/2/21 hearing on this matter to allow the parties an opportunity to find a mediator. This Court set a deadline of 3/16/21 to file a mediation order (meanwhile, this mediation remains stayed, adv.dkt.10).

Chapter 13

#4.00 Hrg re: Debtor's Objection to the Amended Claim of Capital One Auto Finance [Claim 5]

Docket 75

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

(1) Cost/benefit analysis

The posted "Procedures of Judge Bason" (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) state:

§ 502: claim objections & cost/benefit analysis. When objecting to claims, be sure to include an analysis of whether the costs of preparing and litigating the claim objection (administrative expenses) do not exceed the anticipated benefits (reductions in claims). For example, if the anticipated dividend is small or 0% then the attorney fees incurred in prosecuting your claim objection to any general unsecured claim probably will exceed the benefit to the bankruptcy estate/debtor, so filing that objection would be a waste of the bankruptcy estate's (and everyone else's) resources (unless, for example, the claim is nondischargeable, in which event the attorney fees might well be justified). [Emphasis added.]

Debtor's claim objection fails to address the emphasized language. It states only:

Amended Claim 5 ("Amended Claim") of Capital One Auto Finance ("COAF") is for $14,530.83. Based on the evidence attached to this Objection, Ms. Romero believes the debt may be invalid. Ms. Romero's counsel, Mr. Nicholas Gebelt, estimates the costs and fees associated with this Objection will be approximately $2,500.

Therefore, the benefit of the successful prosecution of this Objection will be approximately $12,000. [Emphasis added.]

The emphasized language is false. Debtor's confirmed chapter 13 plan (dkt.20, 23) is not a 100% plan, so the benefit cannot possibly be $12,000. For example, if the dividend were 1% then a reduction from $14,530.83 to $0 would reduce the distributions on this claim from $145.01 to $0, but at an estimated expense of $2,500 there would be a net loss to the estate of $2,354.99 ($$145.01 - $2,500.00 = -$2,354.99$).

In addition, the same net loss would apply if the dividend were 100% but the chances of success were only 1%. Debtor's counsel fails to apply any discount to account for the possibility that the claim objection will not be successful, or will only be partially successful.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 7/1/21 for counsel for Debtor to file a declaration specifying the current dividend for creditors, the likelihood of success, and actual calculations demonstrating whether the costs of this claim objection are worth the discounted value of a potential successful outcome. Of course, many of these things might not be capable of being determined with precision; but that is not the point. The point is that counsel for Debtor has a duty to exercise billing judgment, and should demonstrate that a reasonable attempt has been made to exercise that judgment. If the declaration is sufficient, the tentative ruling is that this Court will not make any change to the normally process for allowing fees (and, conversely, if the declaration is insufficient, this Court may issue an order disallowing some fees for this claim objection).

(2) Merits

The parties are directed to address whether the collateral was in fact surrendered to Capital One Auto Finance ("Capital One") and, if so, the value of the collateral at that time (probably measured by any sale price received by Capital One when it sold the vehicle to a third party, if that is what happened), and any other reductions or other adjustments to the filed proof of claim. The tentative ruling is that the allowed (unsecured) claim will be the net dollar amount of this calculation (including a credit for whatever payments have been made by Debtor or Debtor's daughter).

In view of the apparent paucity of reliable records, the parties are encouraged to compromise, rather than incur the expense of litigation that might well exceed the net benefit to either party.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances

Docket 92

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part as follows. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The tentative ruling is to issue an order granting relief under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) as follows:

If relief from the automatic stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) is granted to permit the holder of the obligation secured by the first position deed of trust (the "1st Lienholder") against the property at 1015 Via Carmelita, Burbank, CA 91501 (the "Property") to pursue its remedies with respect to the Property, then BBV Profit Sharing Plan ("BBV") is authorized to lodge a proposed order granting BBV relief from the automatic stay, effective as of the same date as relief to the 1st Lienholder, such that BBV may pursue its own remedies with respect to the Property, including without limitation foreclosure and curing any default under the obligation held by the 1st Lienholder.

Docket 18

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.
Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1), (d)(2), and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #5.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [NA]

KATHLEEN AND PATRICK STONE
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 15

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: This Court will prepare an order after the hearing date.

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Debtor's opposition (dkt. 17), no reply is on file

Analysis:

(1) Notice

Debtor highlights that the motion papers were not served until 6/9/21 (20 days before the hearing) (see dkt. 15 and LBR 9013-1(d)(2) requiring 21 days' notice). But the Posted Procedures of Judge Bason's (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) permit parties to file this type of motion on shortened time - 14 days' notice - without prior approval.

True, Movants failed to modify the local form of notice to state the foregoing, and to note that the deadline for any opposition is five calendar days before the hearing date. But Debtor has not alleged or provided evidence of any prejudice, so the tentative ruling is to overrule Debtor's objection to Movants' notice.

(2) The automatic stay does not apply

The tentative ruling is to grant the motion under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3) and (j): there is no automatic stay because (a) Debtor's prior case (#2:20-bk-15695-NB) was dismissed (on 10/26/20) within one year before this case was filed (on 4/7/21), (b) that dismissal was not under 11 U.S.C. 707(b), and (c) no finding of good faith was timely sought and obtained. The automatic stay has terminated both as to Debtor in personam and as to property of Debtor. See In re Reswick, 446 B.R. 362 (9th Cir. BAP 2011); In re Hernandez, case no. 2:11-bk-53730-NB, docket #40 (Memorandum Decision).

In the alternative and in addition, the tentative ruling is that the automatic stay does not apply pursuant to this Court's order issued in Debtor's prior case, which provides "[t]his order is binding and effective in any bankruptcy case commenced by or against the Debtor for a period of 180 days, so that no further automatic stay shall arise in that case as to the nonbankruptcy action." Id. at p.2, para. "(9)". Because Debtor commenced this case on 4/7/21, which is within the 180-day period contemplated by that Order, no automatic stay applies in this case as against Movants.

(3) Alternative relief: if the automatic stay were to apply for some reason (which it does not), there is cause to grant relief

In the alternative and in addition, the tentative ruling is to grant relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Note regarding mootness: Judge Bason's standard tentative ruling is as follows. For three reasons the above tentative ruling that there is no stay does not moot requests for relief from whatever stay might apply. First, such alternative rulings are appropriate because (i) the very nature of tentative rulings is that this Court could be persuaded to depart from any one of them, and (ii) a final ruling on any one issue could be reversed on appeal. Second, even if there is currently no stay, that could change - e.g., if there is no stay because of dismissal of this bankruptcy case, such dismissal could be vacated and that might reimpose the stay even if there is a lack of adequate protection, or other grounds why the stay should not apply, and therefore the movant will suffer cognizable harm unless the issues are addressed now (Judge Bason regularly vacates dismissals based on stipulations or other good cause). Third, if the motion includes any request for relief as to past acts (annulment) or future cases (in rem relief), those things are still at issue even if there is no current automatic stay. See In re Aheong, 276 B.R. 233 (9th Cir. BAP 2002). For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to address the following issues.

On the merits, the tentative ruling is to terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1). Debtor argues that Movants do not specify what "cause" they assert for relief; but Movants implicitly rely on the same cause that persuaded this Court to grant them relief in Debtor's prior bankruptcy case. See R/S Motion (Case No. 2:20-bk-15695-NB, dkt. 39) and R/S Order (dkt. 41). In that case Movants established that Debtor filed that bankruptcy case without notice to them, and then attempted to use that bankruptcy case to render void the $35,000 arbitration award against Debtor in favor of Movants. That conduct was and is cause to grant Movants the relief they seek.

In addition, this Court's records show that Debtor's prior bankruptcy case was dismissed for infeasibility. Debtor's history of having used an infeasible bankruptcy case to frustrate Movants' attempts to collect their arbitration award is alternative and additional cause for relief from any automatic stay in this case (if any such stay existed, which it does not).

(4) Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's conduct described above establishes that the filing of this bankruptcy case was part of a scheme to hinder, delay, or defraud Movants and that it is appropriate to grant relief that will be effective notwithstanding any future bankruptcy cases under the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017):

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

(5) Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)

(3).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Chapter 13

#6.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order
Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic
Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 5

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the conditions that Debtor may not dismiss this case voluntarily, and any failure to proceed in proper prosecution of this case, including selling the subject real property, may result in conversion or dismissal of this case with a bar against being a debtor in any future bankruptcy case.

Appearances are not required.

This Court has reviewed the motion papers (dkt. 5), the opposition papers (dkt. 10) filed by West Coast Servicing, Inc. ("Creditor"), Debtor's reply papers (dkt. 18), and other filed documents and records in this case and Debtor's prior bankruptcy case (Case No. 2:20-bk-20249-NB) (the "Prior Case").

The tentative ruling is that (1) the burden is on Debtor to show good faith in filing the current bankruptcy petition; (2) there is a presumption that Debtor did not file this case in good faith, which can only be rebutted by clear and convincing evidence; and (3) Debtor has adequately rebutted that presumption on the present record, but only if conditions are imposed (as set forth herein) to assure the proper prosecution of this case.

Analysis:

(1) The automatic stay will terminate 30 days after the petition date unless this Court enters an order extending it

On 11/16/20, the debtor file a voluntary chapter 13 petition commencing the Prior Case. The Prior Case was dismissed at the confirmation hearing on 5/26/21 based on debtor's failure to resolve objections filed by the Chapter 13 Trustee ("Trustee") and Creditor. Seven days later, on 6/2/21, Debtor filed this chapter 13 case. Therefore, the automatic stay will terminate on 7/2/21 if this Court does not extend the stay, pursuant to 362(c)(3):

(3) if a single or joint case is filed by or against a debtor who is an individual in a case under chapter 7, 11, or 13, and if a single or joint case of the debtor was pending within the preceding 1-year period but was dismissed, other than a case refiled under a chapter other than chapter 7 after dismissal under section 707(b) –

(A) the stay under subsection (a) with respect to any action taken with respect to a debt or property securing such debt or with respect to any lease shall terminate with respect to the debtor on the 30th day after the filing of the later case;

(B) on motion of a party in interest for continuation of the automatic stay and upon notice and a hearing, the court may extend the stay in particular cases as to any or all creditors (subject to such conditions or limitations as the court may then impose) after notice and a hearing completed before the expiration of the 30-day period only if the party in interest demonstrates that the filing of the later case is in good faith as to the creditors to be stayed. [Emphasis added.]

The following principles guide this Court's application of 11 U.S.C. 362(c) to this case. First, there is authority that if the automatic stay is not continued beyond 30 days then it terminates in all aspects, i.e., not only as to the debtor individually but as to all parties and the bankruptcy estate. In re Reswick, 446 B.R. 362 (9th Cir. BAP 2011); In re Hernandez, case no. 2:11-bk-53730-NB, docket #40 (Memorandum Decision).

Second, there is authority that "good faith" is a factual inquiry, although to the extent the statute defines what is good faith the interpretation of the statute is a legal question. See generally, e.g., In re Ellsworth, 455 B.R. 904, 914, 917 (9th Cir. BAP 2011) (holding that good and bad faith in other contexts are factual inquiries). Cf. U.S. Bank v. Village at Lakeridge, LLC, 138 S.Ct. 960 (2018) (analyzing what issues are factual and what are legal).

Third, the factual nature of "good faith" does not necessarily mean that live testimony is required. See, e.g., In re Nicholson, 435 B.R. 622, 635-36 (9th Cir. BAP 2010). In fact, the tentative ruling is that, just like hearings on whether to grant relief from the automatic stay, any hearing on whether to continue the automatic stay is intended to be an expedited, summary proceeding, not a full blown trial. See 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3)(B) (30 day limit to conclude hearing), and compare 11 U.S.C. 362(d)&(e) (30 day limit to conclude hearing) and In re Johnson, 756 F.2d 738, 740 (9th Cir. 1995) (summary nature of proceedings on whether to grant relief from stay); In re Veal, 450 B.R. 897, 914-15 (9th Cir. BAP 2011) (same, requiring only "colorable" basis for standing to seek relief from stay).

Fourth, the "good faith" inquiry is narrowly focused on the filing of the petition. For example, debtors sometimes argue that because they have a genuine desire to retain a roof over their and their family's heads they are acting in good faith, but the question is not the genuineness of that motive. The question is whether the debtor had a sufficient basis to believe that the current bankruptcy case could be properly prosecuted notwithstanding the dismissal of one or more earlier bankruptcy cases. In a reorganization case, such as this one, the tentative ruling is that the test of good faith is analogous to a standard test of whether relief from the automatic stay is appropriate: when the petition was filed, did the debtor have a good faith basis to believe that there would be "a reasonable possibility of a successful reorganization within a reasonable time." United Savings Assn. v. Timbers of Inwood Forest, 484 U.S. 365, 376 (1988) (interpreting 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(2)) (citation and internal quotation marks omitted), and see 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(3)(A) (similar test in small business cases).

Fifth, a finding of good faith at the inception of the case for the limited purpose of determining whether to continue the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3) - for the benefit of both Debtor and creditors - is not necessarily determinative of good faith for any other purposes. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(3), and In re Abdelgadir, 455 B.R. 896, 900 (9th Cir. BAP 2011).

(2) The tentative ruling is that this case presumptively was not filed in good faith, and that presumption is only rebuttable by clear and convincing evidence

Creditor argues (dkt. 10, p.2:26-4:3) that this case is presumptively not filed in good faith under 362(c)(3)(C)(i)(I), (II), and (III). Sub-paragraphs "(I)" and "(II)" (quoted below) do not appear to be applicable; but, as Creditor argues, sub-paragraph "(III)" (also quoted below) appears to be applicable because (A) Debtor has not asserted any change in Debtor's financial or personal affairs, and alternatively (B) given Debtor's prior failure to sell the property on which Creditor holds a lien there is arguably reason to conclude that this current case will not conclude with a successful sale of the property a Debtor again proposes.

The statute provides, in relevant part:

(C) ... a case is presumptively filed not in good faith (but such presumption may be rebutted by clear and convincing evidence to the contrary) (i) – as to all creditors, if –

(I) more than 1 previous case ... was pending within the preceding 1-year period [not applicable, although Creditor cites this portion of the statute];

(II) a previous case ... was dismissed ... after the debtor failed to --

(aa) file or amend [various documents];

(bb) provide adequate protection as ordered by the court; or

(cc) perform the terms of a plan confirmed by the court

[Creditor cites this portion of the statute but, again, fails to cite any evidence that the foregoing provisions are applicable];

(III) there has not been [x] a substantial change in the financial or personal affairs of the debtor since the dismissal of the next most previous case under chapter 7, 11, or 13 or [y] any other reason to conclude that the later case will be concluded –

(bb) if a case under chapter 11 or 13, with a confirmed plan that will be fully performed. [11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3)(C) (emphasis added)]

The tentative ruling is that Creditor under the emphasized language the burden is on Debtor to show, by "clear and convincing" evidence, that he has filed this latest bankruptcy in good faith (whether he has done so is the topic of part "(3)" of this tentative ruling -- this part "(2)" only addresses the presumptions and burdens of proof).

(3) Debtor has rebutted that presumption by "clear and convincing" evidence

The tentative ruling is that, in view of Debtor's plan (dkt. 13), which proposes a 100% distribution to creditors, and Debtor's evidence establishing that the Cherrywood Property has been listed for sale on the Multiple Listing Service (dkt. 18, Ex. A), provided that Debtor really does intend to follow through on selling the subject property and otherwise appearing in proper prosecution of this bankruptcy case. To assure that this is so, the tentative ruling is to impose the conditions set forth at the start of this tentative ruling and below.

(4) Conditions

The tentative ruling is that, in view of Debtor's prior bankruptcy history, Debtor will not be permitted to voluntarily dismiss this case absent further order of this Court. See In re Rosson, 545 F.3d 764, 767 (9th Cir. 2008) (citing Marrama v. Citizens Bank of Massachusetts, 549 U.S. 365 (2007)) ("a debtor's right to voluntarily dismiss a Chapter 13 case under [11 U.S.C.] 1307(b) is not absolute, but is qualified by an implied exception for bad-faith conduct or abuse of the bankruptcy process").

In addition, the tentative ruling is that any failure of Debtor to appear in proper prosecution of this case, including following through on the sale of the subject property, may result in conversion or dismissal of this case and the imposition of a bar against being a debtor in any future bankruptcy case pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1) or other authority.

(5) Conclusion

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(I) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(II) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

(III) Very limited ruling. This Court's tentative ruling to grant the foregoing relief is solely for purposes of this motion, and is not intended to have any binding effect with respect to any future assertions by any party in interest regarding the existence or lack of existence of good faith in any other context.

Chapter 7

#3.00 Hrg re: Motion by Chapter 7 trustee to employ used automobile dealer and to sell property of the estate

Docket 70

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

Reasons:

The Trustee is directed to appear to address the following issues:

(a) Notice

This Court notes that the Sale Motion (dkt. 70), filed on 6/1/21, did not attach the appraisal of the subject vehicle, but the Trustee filed a notice of errata (dkt. 74, "Errata") on 6/21/21. The tentative ruling is to excuse the late filing and find that, in the absence of any showing of prejudice, notice is proper.

(b) Public or Private Auction

Based on this Court's review of the papers, it appears the Trustee seeks an order authorizing a private sale of the estate's interest in a 2015 Toyota Tundra (the "Vehicle") and employment of Mountain Motors, Inc. ("Broker") to facilitate that sale for no less than $25,500, but the Sale Motion and related notice are inconsistent. On the one hand, the Sale Motion refers to a private sale without further hearing (dkt. 70, pp.2:6-8, 4:8-10, 5:18). On the other hand, the Trustee checked the box indicating this will be a public sale in the Notice of Sale of Estate Property (dkt. 72, p.1) and states that the property is to be sold at this hearing (6/29/21 at 11:00 a.m.) (id., p.2). The Trustee should be prepared to clarify whether he seeks a private or public sale and, if it's the latter, the tentative ruling is to set a continued hearing and direct the Trustee to re-serve notice of the auction to ensure that the Vehicle is sold for the highest and best price.

(c) Statement of Disinterestedness

The Sale Motion refers to an attached statement of disinterestedness, but that is not attached to the Sale Motion (dkt. 70) or the Errata (dkt. 74). The tentative ruling is that, if this Court is persuaded to grant the Sale Motion, the Trustee will be directed to file a statement of disinterestedness prior to lodging a proposed order.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #4.00 Hrg re: Motion for Default Judgment

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required. The tentative ruling is to continue this hearing to 8/17/21 at 11:00 a.m. and meanwhile (1) set a deadline of 7/9/21 for the parties to lodge proposed order(s) on the Local Form directing them to mandatory mediation, (2) set a deadline of 7/23/21 for defendant Los Angeles Farmers, Inc. ("Defendant"), if the parties have not resolved their differences by then, to file and serve a motion to vacate the default, to be heard at the continued hearing. (Presumably such a motion for relief from default would be substantially identical in substance to the opposition papers, but it would be properly filed and served as a separate motion, although Defendant is free to file and serve any other form of such a motion.) All of the foregoing is subject to the parties lodging any stipulated order for further continuances, in view of the relatively short time to arrange for and complete mediation before the deadline to file and serve any motion for relief from default.

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Defendant's belated opposition (dkt. 30). As of the preparation of this tentative ruling no reply is on file.

Analysis

Defendant's opposition to entry of a default judgment requests that this Court set aside entry of default (see dkt. 30). The tentative ruling is that, on the one hand, this request for relief is procedurally improper and must be brought via a separate motion, and the opposition has been filed very late; but, on the other hand, a continuance appears to be appropriate based on the allegations in the opposition, including that Defendant never received the funds at issue (which, apparently, were paid to the Vayntrubs instead); Defendant is no longer associated with the Vayntrubs; and the other reasons set forth in the opposition papers. Tentative Ruling:

Deny.

Proposed order: The Trustee is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Trustee's opposition (dkt. 70)

Reasons for denial: The tentative ruling is to deny the motion for the reasons stated in the Trustee's opposition papers (dkt. 70), including that Debtor has not proposed any method of paying creditors and the Trustee in full immediately - e.g., if a refinance of the subject property could do so - and also because Debtor has not filed a reply and has known about these issues for some time. This Court previously raised these issues in its tentative ruling for a status conference in the Trustee's pending adversary proceeding:

Defendant/Debtor

Plaintiff states that he proposed to dismiss Defendant/Debtor from this action but received no response. Adv. Dkt. 40, p. 3, para. "(E)". Meanwhile, Defendant/Debtor seeks to convert her case back to chapter 13 (Id. p.4, para. "(G)"), and states that is "willing to include any costs and legal fees incurred in this Adversary Proceeding by the Chapter 7 Trustee." Id. On 4/26/21 Debtor filed such a motion (2:19-bk-20396-NB, dkt. 66).

The tentative ruling is to continue this adversary proceeding status conference as set forth below, to see if the motion to reconvert is granted. But before adopting any such tentative ruling, this Court needs answers to the following issues.

First, does Debtor's statement that she is willing to "include" the Chapter 7 Trustee's costs and legal fees incurred "in this Adversary Proceeding" mean that she proposes to pay immediately and in full all of the Chapter 7 Trustee's allowed administrative expenses, including not just the fees and costs of this adversary proceeding but also, for example, the Trustee's own compensation under 11 U.S.C. 326?

Second, how will Debtor fund that proposed payment?

Tentative Ruling for 5/4/21:

(A) Current issues

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv. dkt. 40) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. This Court has also reviewed Debtor's motion for conversion back to chapter 13 (dkt. 66).

(1) Conversion to chapter 13 and/or dismissal of Defendant/Debtor

Plaintiff states that he proposed to dismiss Defendant/Debtor from this action but received no response. Adv. Dkt. 40, p. 3, para. "(E)". Meanwhile, Defendant/Debtor seeks to convert her case back to chapter 13 (id. p.4, para. (2) The deadline to complete discovery has passed Defendant/Debtor states that she anticipates propounding discovery on Plaintiff/Trustee and completing discovery by 6/1/21. Adv. Dkt. 40, p.2. But this Court's prior scheduling order (adv. dkt. 23, para. "(3)(f)") set 3/5/21 as the "last day for discovery to be completed, including receiving responses to discovery requests," (other than expert discovery) and Defendant/Debtor has not filed any motion for reconsideration of that deadline. The tentative ruling is that the Status Report cannot be treated as such a motion.

Docket 140

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/29/21:

Appearances required.

This Court's 6/15/21 tentative ruling (copied below) waived appearances; but based on the representations of Specialized Loan Servicing LLC, relayed by Debtor's Counsel at that hearing, this Court instead continued the hearing to this date. There is no tentative ruling but the parties should be prepared to update this Court on whether they have resolved their disputes or if, instead, this Court should revise the briefing schedule set forth in the 6/15/21 tentative ruling.

Chapter 13

This Court is puzzled by the parties' failure to arrive at an agreed statement that can be submitted to any prospective lender setting forth the facts. Such basic facts as the date and dollar amount of each payment, and whether any payments received in 2020 were late, should be independently verifiable and not subject to any reasonable dispute. But it appears that the parties have been unable to agree on any such statement, so the tentative ruling is to set a schedule for briefs and evidence and a continued hearing on whether to issue a finding and conclusion of contempt of court and impose sanctions.

(1) Background

There appear to be two disputes. One, involving escrow payments and one purportedly late interest payment, appears to be irrelevant, but might be causing confusion. The second, involving timely payments that have been reported as late payments, appears to be the real focus of the parties' disputes.

(a) Escrow payments and one purportedly late interest payment

A long-running dispute apparently involved Debtor's failure to pay monthly amounts into escrow accounts - Debtor instead appears to have paid insurance and real estate taxes directly. The parties' papers never explained this in sufficient detail, but this Court arrived at that conclusion based on its own detailed analysis. See Tentative Rulings for 3/20/18 and 5/8/18 hearings (reproduced below).

In any event, the dispute was settled by a 2018 stipulation providing that the loan would be "de-escrowed for taxes and insurance, commencing with the February 1, 2017 monthly installment" and that Debtor would receive a small refund ($1,965.66) and a waiver of some late charges ($1,849.30). See Stipulation between Debtor and Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., as servicer for U.S. Bank National Association, as Trustee Prime Mortgage Trust, Mortgage Pass-Through Certificates, Series 2006-2 ("US Bank"), attached as Ex.P to Motion for OSC (dkt. 140) (at PDF pp. 133-37) and Order thereon (Ex.Q, at PDF pp.138-39). Specialized's own Response (Ex.C) to the Chapter 13 Trustee's notice that Debtor had cured all defaults (Ex.B) appears to show that Debtor is current. See Ex.B&C to Motion for OSC (dkt.140, at PDF pp.29-33).

Now Debtor reports that that he has been wrongfully accused by US Bank's current servicer, Specialized Loan Servicing LLC ("Specialized") of being "in arrears for $2828.69 due to an escrow shortage. See Exhibit K to Debtor's declaration." Motion for OSC (dkt. 140), p.3:10-13. But Exhibit K (dkt.140, at PDF pp.109-110) says nothing about any escrow shortfall - to the contrary, it states:

The amount of the debt as of 12/08/2020 is $404,193.45. For informational purposes, this amount is comprised of the following: unpaid principal of $401,364.76, deferred balance total of $0.00, uncollected interest of $2,828.69, escrow balance/advances of $0.00, and outstanding fees of $0.00." [Dkt.140, Ex.K, at PDF p.109, emphasis added.]

As for the above-referenced "uncollected interest of $2,828.69," Specialized explained on 2/1/21 that the funds were received and applied to the account on 12/9/20. See Ex.H to Motion for OSC (dkt.140) at PDF p.44. Debtor has not pointed to evidence that this is incorrect, so perhaps this is no longer an issue.

(b) Debtor's apparently timely payments that have been wrongly reported as late payments

Debtor appears to be on firmer ground when he alleges that he applied for a home refinance in 2021 but that his attempted refinance was denied for the sole reason that Specialized reported that he was "9 times delinquent in 2020," citing Exhibit E to his Motion for OSC (dkt. 140), p.3:16-22 (emphasis added). That is supported by three types of evidence.

First, Exhibit E (dkt.140 at PDF p.36) is a Verification of Mortgage from Specialized to Debtor dated "01/06/21" asserting that "last year" (2020) Debtor was delinquent 9 times, from 15 days to over 90 days. Second, Debtor's Exhibit F is a letter from Right Choice Mortgage stating that it "is unable to refinance Mr Tribelsky for the sole reason that upon receiving the Verification of Mortgage from [Specialized] it came back with the following information [tracking 8 of the 9 purported delinquent payments] (see attached statement)." Ex.F to Motion for OSC (dkt.140, at PDF p.41). Third, attached as Exhibit I is Debtor's correspondence with Specialized, dated 1/22/21, enclosing evidence appearing to show that Debtor made all of his 2020 mortgage payments timely. Chapter 13

Debtor also has provided evidence that Specialized has not addressed these allegations. For example, Specialized's letter dated 2/1/21 states, "We have researched your account and our records indicate that the interest described in your dispute [the one purportedly late interest payment that apparently was cured with the payment received on 12/9/20] was not in error." Ex.H to Motion for OSC (dkt.140, at PDF p.44). Specialized's letter does not address the (apparently erroneous) report of 9 delinquencies in 2020. See also Ex.J (2/9/21 letter from Specialized to Debtor) (dkt.140, at PDF p.80).

In sum, Debtor has presented prima facie evidence that Specialized was reporting delinquencies that did not actually exist. On that basis this Court granted Debtor's motion for issuance of an OSC.

(2) Current status

On 4/7/21 this Court issued its "Order to Show Cause as to Why Specialized Loan Servicing LLC Should Not be Held in Contempt For Violation of Debtor's Discharge Injunction" (dkt. 146, the "OSC") which set a 6/14/21 deadline for the parties to complete discovery. Debtor's status report (dkt. 148) states that the parties have not been able to settle their disputes and that Debtor has propounded, and Specialized has responded to, Debtor's interrogatories, requests for admission, and requests for documents.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 6/25/21 for Specialized to file and serve its response to the OSC, including declarations and evidence (if any) to rebut Debtor's prima facie showing that Specialized has violated the discharge injunction of 11 U.S.C. 524, is in contempt of court, and is subject to sanctions. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 7/9/21 for Debtor's reply, and a non-evidentiary hearing on 7/20/21 at 11:00 a.m., at which time this Court will determine if there are any matters that require an evidentiary hearing or other procedures.

This Court has reviewed Movant's supplemental declaration (dkt. 68) and debtor's response (dkt. 72). The parties should be prepared to address whether they have reached any resolution regarding debtor's contention that Movant has not taken into account any credits received from hazard insurance and county taxes.

Tentative Ruling for 3/20/18:

Grant in part, deny in part, and continue to 4/10/17 at 10:00 a.m., all as set forth below. Appearances required.

(1) Background

The parties appear to agree that the debtor has made monthly payments of $3,698.51 (the normal amortizing principal and interest payments). Those payments were due on the first day of each month, and generally were paid a few days later. See dkt. 8, Ex.5 (movant's spreadsheet) and dkt. 61, Ex.A, & dkt. 62) (debtor's copies of cashier checks). The motion lists some late charges, attorney fees, and other items (dkt. 58, p.7, para.8), but those do not appear to have been included in the movant's spreadsheet (dkt. 58, Ex.5, at PDF pp.30-33), perhaps because the listed amounts are for prepetition periods. In any event, the core of the parties' disagreement appears to involve an escrow impound account to pay real estate taxes and property insurance premiums.

(2) The debtor's assertions of "improper" escrow impounds are unpersuasive

Boaz Tribelsky

Chapter 13

The debtor's declaration (dkt. 61, Tribelsky Decl., para.9, at PDF p.7:24-28) asserts that the impound is "improper" and that the debtor has "struggled with [movant] Wells Fargo to have them end these impounds." The debtor also declares (dkt. 61, at PDF p.7:16-22) that there was an "improper increase" in monthly payments starting on March 1, 2016, which he believes was due to an escrow impound for taxes and insurance.

The debtor fails to explain why there is anything "improper" about requiring him to pay into an escrow for real estate taxes and insurance. The loan documents (dkt. 8, Ex.1, para.3, pp.4-5) require the debtor to make escrow payments for taxes and insurance premiums on the same date at the payments of principal and interest.

It is true that the movant apparently had not required escrow payments for some unspecified period prior to March 1, 2016. See Notice of Mortgage Payment Change (Official Form 410S1) (the "Change Notice"), filed 1/19/16 on the Claims Register, at PDF pp.5-6 (requiring monthly payments of $351.96 commencing March 1, 2016). But if the debtor is asserting some sort of waiver that argument is unpersuasive. The Deed of Trust provides (dkt. 58, Ex.1, para.3, pp.4-5) that although the movant may waive the escrow requirement, the movant "may revoke the waiver as to any or all Escrow Items at any time" and then the debtor "shall pay" all escrow amounts.

The debtor apparently just ignored his obligation to pay escrow impound amounts. Instead he has presented evidence (dkt. 61, Ex.B, at PDF pp.38 et seq.) that he paid taxes directly to the tax authorities and insurance premiums directly to the insurers.

It appears that the movant must have credited the debtor's direct payments of taxes and insurance, because its Change Notice filed on 10/18/16 lists a low estimated "Starting balance" of $861.27 as of December 2016 (although that apparently assumes that the debtor would start making his required escrow payments). In any event, the movant's Change Notice is prima facie evidence of the validity of this underlying calculation in support of its claim, and the debtor has not established that there is anything wrong with the movant's accounting included in its Change Notice filed on 10/18/16.

Similarly, by the time of the next Change Notice it appears that the movant must have once again credited the debtor's direct payments of taxes and insurance because, the escrow account projections ("Part 3") project a required "Starting balance" for March 2018 of only $762.96 (although, again, this appears to assume that the debtor will have made certain payments into the escrow account by the start of March 2018). In any event, the debtor has not shown that there is anything wrong with this supporting underlying documentation of the movant's claim.

(3) Despite the deficiencies in the debtor's arguments and evidence, it appears that the motion itself fails to account for the debtor's direct payments of real estate taxes and insurance

The motion asserts (dkt. 58, p.9, para.12.c.) that the debtor was behind three payments of $4,053.45, for a total of $12,160.35, less a suspense account balance of $1,166.12, for a total of $10,994.23 as of approximately 12/12/18 (when the declaration in support of the motion was signed). But unlike the Change Notices the motion does not appear to give the debtor credit for direct payments of real estate taxes and insurance.

Based on the spreadsheet attached to the motion as Exhibit 5 (dkt. 58, at PDF pp.30-33), the alleged shortfall of $10,994.23 appears to be the cumulative sum of all the shortfalls between the $3,698.51 that the debtor was paying each month (the normal amortizing principal and interest payments) and the higher monthly amounts that he should have been paying in order to fund the escrow account. There are no entries in the spreadsheet that appear to reflect the debtor's direct payments of taxes and insurance.

Nor is it possible to rely on the latest Change Notice to determine precisely what the debtor owes. At first glance that Change Notice would appear to have current information because it was filed on 3/5/18, but it provides only a projected shortfall of $762.96 in the escrow account as of March 2018 (3/5/18 Charge Notice at PDF p.6, Part 3, end of first line). That projection probably is too low, because it appears to assume that part of the debtor's monthly payment is credited to the escrow account in January of 2018, and that the debtor will make some very substantial payments in February and March of 2018, and that the real estate taxes that are due in March of 2018 will be paid out of those escrow payments (see id., Part 4, 2d and 5th columns, rows for January, February, and March, including credits of $1,281.90, $9,810.75, and $354.94, and debit of $1,612.38).

The bottom line is that although the movant has not established precisely what the debtor owes, it has established cause for some sort of relief from the automatic stay - namely, there is "cause" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) in that the debtor has failed for many months to comply with his obligations to fund the escrow account, which exposes the movant to the risk that it will have to bear the cost if the debtor fails to pay real estate taxes or insurance (especially if the property were to be damaged or completely burn down). The required adequate protection is for the debtor to cure the deficiency in the escrow account over a reasonable period of time.

The latest Change Notice (filed 3/5/18) can be used as a starting point. It requires that the debtor pay $381.48 per month into the escrow account, in addition to his regular monthly payments of $3,698.51 on account of principal and interest, for total monthly payments of $4,079.99. The escrow payments may have to be adjusted (as noted above, the Change Notice appears to assume that the debtor will have made some very substantial payments by the start of March 2018), but this Court can set a schedule for such adjustment (see below).

(4) Conclusion

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/1/18 for the debtor (a) to file evidence that he has paid the March 2018 real estate tax payment directly to the taxing authority and (b) to commence making monthly payments of $381.48 into the escrow account, in addition to his regular monthly payments of $3,698.51 on account of principal and interest, for total monthly payments of $4,079.99.

In addition, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/1/18 for the movant to file a supplemental declaration showing a calculation of the required escrow balance as of 5/1/18, the required monthly payments for the debtor to cure the deficiency in that escrow balance, and the resulting new total monthly payment that the debtor will have to pay on 5/1/18 and each month thereafter.

Finally, the tentative ruling is to set a continued hearing at the date and time set forth at the start of this tentative ruling, so that the parties and this Court can address what to do if the debtor disputes the movant's calculations.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/29/21:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Amended proposed Plan (dkt.60), Order setting confirmation hearing (dkt.63), Ballot Summary (dkt.82)

At the 6/15/21 hearing, this Court continued the hearing on confirmation of Debtor's First Amended Plan pending the resolution of the objection to the claim of March 1 LLC and Marchlife3, LLC's ("March Entities"). As discussed below, the tentative ruling is to overrule the objection to the claim of the March Entities. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is that the plan cannot be confirmed because the size of the March Entities' claim and their vote against confirmation means that the holders of class 3 claims have not voted to accept the Plan by "at least two-thirds in amount." 11 U.S.C. 1126(c) (incorporated by 1129(a)(8)&(10) and 1191(a)). See Ballot Summary (dkt.82) (listing dollar amounts of claims). In addition, this Court is not persuaded that "cramdown" is appropriate under 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(1)-(3) and 1191(b).

In making the foregoing tentative rulings this Court recognizes that the docket does not reflect any objection to confirmation. But this Court has an independent duty to assure that the elements of 11 U.S.C. 1129 are satisfied. See United Student Aid Funds, Inc. v. Espinosa, 559 U.S. 260, at n.15 & accompanying text (2010).

(b) Motion of March 1 LLC and Marchlife3, LLC's (the "March Entities") to compel Debtor to assume or reject contract, or alternatively for dismissal of case (the "Assumption Motion," dkt. 66); Debtor's Opposition (dkt. 69); March Entities' Reply (dkt. 70), Debtor's Supp. Opp. (dkt. 76); March Entities' Supp.

Chapter 11

Reply (dkt. 81); interim Order (dkt. 95)

The tentative ruling is to set new deadlines, for the reasons set forth in this Court's interim order partially granting the Assumption Motion.

(c) Debtor's Objection to Claim of March Entities (Claim No. 3) (dkt. 77); Opposition of March Entities (dkt. 86); Debtor's Reply (dkt. 91)

Debtor has raised several arguments in support of its objection to the claim of the March Entities. One of the objections is that the opposition was untimely, but Debtor has not established any prejudice from the lack of timeliness, so that objection is overruled.

A court reviewing an objection to claim must "determine the amount of such claim" unless the objecting party has established one of the limited grounds for disallowance. In re Heath, 331 B.R. 424, 435 (9th Cir. BAP 2005), see 11 U.S.C. 502(b). Debtor cites none of the limited grounds for disallowance in its objection. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is that Debtor's arguments are not persuasive and that the objection to the claim of the March Entities is overruled, without prejudice, for the reasons set forth below.

(i) Repayment of Amounts Advanced on Debtor's Behalf for Phase 1 Improvements

Debtor argues that the March Entities opted to advance the funds for Phase 1 Improvements on behalf of Debtor as a loan and that the March Entities' election to advance the amount as a loan payable from the net proceeds due to the Debtor from the sale of property pursuant to Section 5(d)(i)(b) of the Participation. This Court was not persuaded when Debtor raised this same argument in opposition to the March Entities' Motion to Compel Debtor to Assume or Reject the Contract. The tentative ruling is that this Court's position is unchanged. The language of the section Debtor cites unambiguously states that the amount is payable from net proceeds from the sale of parcels "or otherwise upon demand." Participation Agreement (dkt. 77), para. 5.(d)i.(b) at PDF p. 22 (emphasis added).

(ii) The March Entities' Claim for $2,500,000 for Phase 2 Improvements

Debtor asserts that the $2,500,000 for Phase 2 Improvements are not properly included in the March Entities' proof of claim because (1) the work on Phase 2 Improvements will not commence until July 2021 and thus represent a post-petition claim and (2) there is no evidence to support the $2,500,000 demand. First, Debtor's characterization of the $2,500,000 as a post-petition claim is inaccurate. The Participation Agreement executed in 2017 states that Phase 2 Improvements were scheduled to take place in years 4–6, that the budget for those improvements was $5,000,000, and that Debtor would be responsible for 50% of all "Horizontal Improvements." Participation Agreement (dkt. 77) at PDF pp. 22, 41. Thus, this portion of the claim is best characterized as a contingent claim because Debtor was aware that this obligation could and likely would arise during the bankruptcy. See, e.g., In re SNTL, 571 F.3d 826 (9th Cir. 2009).

Second, as previously noted in this Court's 6/15/21 tentative ruling on the March Entities' Motion to Compel Debtor to Assume or Reject the Contract, contractual provisions within the Participation Agreement entitle the March Entities to make a demand for such funds. See Participation Agreement (dkt. 77) at PDF pp. 22, 41.

(iii) Debtor's assertions that the March Entities' Claim was Made in Bad Faith

In its Objection and Reply, Debtor alleges that the March Entities filed their proof of claim in bad faith because they have (1) submitted inconsistent demands which also violate the Participation Agreement, (2) falsely stated that Debtor has paid nothing towards horizontal improvements, (3) complained of the scheduled debt to Yihao Chen and the fact that Mr. Chen has not filed a proof of claim, and (4) accuse Debtor of not providing a copy of the Chen promissory despite a promise to do so. Debtor has not cited, and this Court is not aware of, any authority construing bad faith as one of the limited grounds for disallowance under 11 U.S.C. 502(b). As to Debtor's first allegation, the preparation of an inconsistent demand is insufficient to establish the March Entities have acted in bad faith. Debtor's other allegations of bad faith include alleged misrepresentations maligning Debtor. Though these allegations are troubling, these statements are not material to the merits of the claim because they do not pertain to whether the March Entities in fact hold a claim against Debtor and/or the value of such claim.

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of relevant portions of this tentative ruling to each, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject

(1) Current issues

(a) Amended proposed Plan (dkt.60), Order setting confirmation hearing (dkt.63), Ballot Summary (dkt.82)

The tentative ruling is that the Plan cannot be confirmed. Although Debtor's ballot summary (dkt.82, p.3:6-13) asserts that the March Entities' ballot should not be counted because its claims are subject to a claim objection, that disregards this Court's order (dkt.63, para.1), which provides that claims were fixed as of 5/4/21 for voting purposes (with inapplicable exceptions). Debtor's claim objection (dkt.77) was not filed until after that deadline (on 5/28/21). Due to the size of the March Entities' claim, the holders of class 3 claims have not voted to accept the Plan by "at least two-thirds in amount." 11 U.S.C. 1126(c) (incorporated by 1129(a)(8)&(10) and 1191(a)). See Ballot Summary (dkt.82) (listing dollar amounts of claims).

In addition, this Court is not persuaded that "cramdown" is appropriate under 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(1)-(3) and 1191(b). As set forth in the next section of this tentative ruling, although a plan may provide for assumption "subject to section 365" (11 U.S.C. 1123(b)(2)), the tentative ruling is that Debtor has not established compliance with section 365 in its attempt to assume its agreement with the March Entities. To the contrary, Debtor's proposed Plan appears to be a bad faith attempt to evade and indefinitely defer its obligations under that agreement.

In making the foregoing tentative rulings this Court recognizes that the docket does not reflect any objection to confirmation. But this Court has an independent duty to assure that the elements of 11 U.S.C. 1129 are satisfied. See United Student Aid Funds, Inc. v. Espinosa, 559 U.S. 260, at n.15 & accompanying text (2010).

(b) Motion of March 1 LLC and Marchlife3, LLC's (the "March Entities") to compel Debtor to assume or reject contract, or alternatively for dismissal of case (the "Deadline Motion," dkt. 66); Debtor's Opposition (dkt. 69); March Entities' Reply (dkt. 70), Debtor's Supp. Opp. (dkt. 76); March Entities' Supp. Reply (dkt. 81)

Grant the Deadline Motion as provided below, for the reasons stated in the Tentative Ruling for 5/4/21 (reproduced below) and the following additional reasons. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 24 hours prior to the continued hearing for Debtor (i) to pay the cure payments set forth below, (ii) to pay the compensation payments set forth below, and (iii) to provide evidence of additional investors or funds as adequate assurance of future performance, as set forth below. The tentative ruling is to set the continued hearing contemporaneous with the continued Status Conference (see part "(2)(d)" of this Tentative Ruling, below).

This Court recognizes that the foregoing might present an impossible burden for Debtor. But the tentative ruling is that the March entities are entitled to a tight deadline because of their own exigent circumstances.

Chapter 11

(i) Background

At the hearing on 5/4/21 this Court was persuaded to continue this matter to this date. This Court orally set a deadline of 5/11/21 for the March entities to provide their supplement, a deadline of 5/25/21 for Debtor to respond with whatever briefing and evidence it may have, and a deadline of 6/4/21 for the March entities' reply. See Supp. Opp. (dkt. 76), p.6:4-10.

(ii) Statute

Debtor "may not assume" the subject contract without (i) curing, or providing "adequate assurance that [Debtor] will promptly cure" defaults, (ii) compensating, or providing "adequate assurance that [Debtor] will promptly compensate" the March entities for any "actual pecuniary loss" resulting from defaults, and (iii) providing "adequate assurance of future performance" by Debtor under the subject contract. 11 U.S.C. 365(b)(1). Debtor may assume or reject the contract "at any time before the confirmation of a plan but the court, on the request of any party to [the] contract ..., may order [Debtor] to determine within a specified period of time whether to assume or reject such contract" 11 U.S.C. 365(d)(2). As set forth in Debtor's papers, Debtor is entitled to a "reasonable" time to decide whether to assume or reject the contract, and what amount of time is "reasonable" is left to this Court's discretion in light of the circumstances of this case. See Supp. Opp. (dkt. 76) p.7:16-25 (citing authorities).

(iii) Urgency of Deadline to Compel Assumption or Rejection of the Participation Agreement

Debtor asserts that there is no urgency, and no need to set a deadline to compel assumption or rejection of the Participation Agreement, because the March Entities have not provided evidence that "Debtor's contribution is necessary to meet the [September 2021] due date," "that the due date is being enforced despite COVID-19 and the Force Majeure clauses under the DDA," or "that funds are even due from the Debtor." Supp. Opp. (dkt. 76) p. 7:11–13. The tentative ruling is that the March Entities have more than adequately addressed each of these issues. See, e.g., Niemann Decl. (dkt.74) at p.3, para.10 ("the funds to comply with the infrastructure construction obligation ... are needed immediately" and "there is no funding available for improvements required by Sept. 2021"); Supp. Reply (dkt. 81)

pp. 4:9–12, 5:3–9; Second Amendment to the Disposition and Development Agreement (dkt. 74) Ex.A, section 2.01 (replacing section 6.03) and Ex.D (9/12/21 deadline for certain horizontal improvements).

The hypothetical possibility that the March Entities could escape termination of their contract based on COVID-19 and any Force Majeure clause is insufficient. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is that the March Entities have established the urgent need for Debtor to assume or reject the Participation Agreement so that they may continue their work under the Disposition and Development Agreement and retain that agreement.

(iv) Minimum cure and compensation payments

Debtor also makes several arguments against the cure and compensation demands of the March Entities. The tentative ruling is that Debtor's arguments have been fully rebutted by the March Entities, except as noted below. See Niemann Decl. (dkt.81), pp.2-7, passim.

On the specific issue of attorney fees, the tentative ruling is that the March Entities have the better argument for the following reasons. Under § 365(b)(1)(B), the party assuming a contract is required to compensate or provide adequate assurance to a party other than the debtor for any pecuniary loss resulting from a default on the contract in question. Although the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel has held that § 365(b)(1)(B) does not confer an independent right to attorney's fees as pecuniary losses, In re Westside Print Works, Inc., 180 B.R. 557, 564 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), it has upheld the inclusion of attorney's fees for pecuniary losses where the contract at issue explicitly provided for the award of attorney's fees. In re Bullock, 17 B.R. 438, 439 (9th Cir. BAP 1982) ("The purpose of [§] 365(b)(1)(B) is to indemnify the other party to the contract or lease being assumed, against loss. The purpose of an attorney's fee clause in a lease as well as an attorney's fee clause in a security agreement is the same, to indemnify the lessor or secured party against legal expenses incurred by reason of the other party's default.").

Debtor objects to the March Entities' inclusion of $2,500,000 for Phase 2 improvements. Supp. Opp. (dkt. 76) p. 10:1–7. The tentative ruling is that this amount is properly included within the cure obligation, based on the March Entities' citation to contractual provisions entitling them to make a demand for such funds. See Supp. Reply (dkt. 81) p. 3:13–19; May 11, 2021 Phase 2 Invoice (dkt. 81) Ex. D; March Entities' Reply to Debtor's Request for the tentative ruling is that the March Entities have presented sufficient arguments and evidence that, unless Debtor assumes or rejects the Participation Agreement very soon, the March Entities will not be able to meet their own deadline of 9/19/21 (the "Third Party Deadline") to make certain mandatory improvements, under their Disposition & Development Agreement with a governmental or quasi-governmental "Authority" for development of part of the former March Air Force Base (the "Development Agreement"). See Neimann Decl. (dkt. 66), p. 7:8–12, and Ex.A pp.12 and 13 (Participation Agreement) recitals and section 1 (at PDF p. 15) and pp.26 & 29 (schedule of payments, and "Horizontal Improvements" budget, Ex.B&E to Participation Agreement) (at PDF pp. 28 & 31). The March Entities have provided evidence that they need an estimated $800,000 of funding from Debtor or, in the alternative, from another source, far enough in advance of that Third Party Deadline to make the improvements, or else they risk losing the entire project. Dkt. 66, pp. 7:24–8:3.

Debtor provides no contrary evidence. True, Debtor's proposed Plan (the "Plan," dkt. 61) provides for assumption of the participation agreement and an eventual cure. But the proposed time for any cure payment appears to be the later of (i) the Effective Date (defined to be 6 months after confirmation), if Debtor has sold the interests by then, or alternatively (ii) any later date when Debtor has the funds to make cure payments, subject to the apparent condition that Debtor will only make such payments if it "sells its interests under the Participation Agreement within 3 years after the Effective Date." See Plan, dkt. 61, sections "A," "C," 2.03, 4.01, 6.01, and 8.01. The tentative ruling is that this is insufficient for multiple reasons.

First, the March Entities point to evidence (Debtor's own Monthly Operating Reports and other bankruptcy papers) that Debtor has very few funds or ability to generate income, and therefore Debtor lacks any obvious ability to make the cure payments, except for a speculative prospect of finding investors. Again, Debtor provides no contrary evidence. The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not provided "adequate assurance" that it will be able to cure the default, as required by 11 U.S.C. 365(b)(1)(A) and 1123(b)(2).

Second, the tentative ruling is that, once the Third Party Deadline has expired, Debtor cannot "unring the bell" and belatedly cure its own failure to fund the required improvements before that deadline. See generally In re Claremont Acquisition Corp., 113 F.3d 1029, 1033-35 (9th Cir. 1997) (debtor's failure to operate business for two weeks was historical fact that could not be cured). This means that, based on the evidence provided by the March Entities, Debtor must provide very strong assurances very soon that it will be able to provide the funds in sufficient time for the required improvements to be constructed prior to the Third Party Deadline, or else the March Entities will be left with too little time to make other arrangements to obtain such funding and construct the necessary improvements before the Third Party Deadline.

Third, even supposing that Debtor had presented evidence of some leeway in the Third Party Deadline under the Development Agreement (which Debtor has not presented), the tentative ruling is that Debtor's proposed time line is not sufficient to "promptly" cure within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 365(b)(1)(A) (emphasis added). Again, the March Entities have provided evidence of what "prompt[]" means in the circumstances of this case - i.e., sufficient to assure that the March Entities will not lose their own rights under the Development Agreement - and Debtor has not provided any evidence to the contrary.

Fourth, Debtor's apparent loophole - that it will only pay the cure payment if it can sell its interests under the Participation Agreement within three years after the Effective Date - appears to undermine any ability to provide "adequate assurance" of a future cure. 11 U.S.C. 365(b)(1)(A) (emphasis added).

For each of the foregoing alternative reasons, the tentative ruling is to grant the Deadline Motion, and to set a deadline of 6/1/21 for Debtor to (x) obtain a ruling from this Court authorizing it to assume its Participation Agreement with the March Entities and (y) actually fund the estimated $800,000 of necessary improvements, or else (z) reject the Participation Agreement. The tentative ruling is that there is cause to shorten time on any motion to assume (or reject) the Participation Agreement, both because of the above 6/1/21 deadline and because Debtor would need to raise a lot of money quickly in order to meet that deadline. See Rules 6006, 9006(c) & (d), 9013, 9014, 9036.

The tentative ruling is to shorten the deadlines such that, if Debtor can file and serve an assumption or rejection motion by 5/18/21, that motion can be self-calendared concurrent with the continued status conference (see below), with an opposition deadline of 5/24/21 and any reply due 5/27/21.

Nothing in the foregoing tentative rulings should be construed to eliminate any claims (if any) that survive the arbitration award (dkt. 66, Ex.B, at PDF pp.37 et seq.). For example, Debtor retains all claims or defenses that might arise from its assertion that the March Entities have prevented Debtor from performing, by failing to provide Debtor with allegedly essential information to be able to attract investors. See, e.g., Plan (dkt. 61), at PDF pp. 2-3. Likewise, the March Entities retain all claims or defenses that might arise from their assertions (and any preclusive findings or rulings in the arbitration award) that Debtor made material false statements in the inception of the participation agreement or thereafter. All rights are reserved as to any claims, counterclaims, and defenses that are not barred by principles of preclusion or other doctrines.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/29/21:

Grant the motion for discharge/final decree, subject to an express reservation of jurisdiction to resolve certain potential disputes, as provided below.

Appearances are not required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion by Reorganized Debtor for Entry of Discharge and Entry of Final Decree (dkt. 216); no opposition is on file

The tentative ruling is to grant Debtor a discharge now, but either (a) defer entry of a final decree closing this case until Debtor's counsel lodges a proposed final decree at a future date and/or (b) enter a final decree now but include an express reservation of jurisdiction to address any disputes with creditors regarding plan payment issues. The tentative ruling is to adopt the latter approach, so that Debtor does not incur any expenses associated with keeping this bankruptcy case open (e.g., fee applications).

The reasons are that Debtor notes possible disputes with creditors that probably would be best handled in this Court, and closing this case before any such disputes are resolved conceivably could have the effect of depriving this Court of jurisdiction to resolve the disputes (this Court takes judicial notice that the jurisdictional effects of closing a case have not been fully resolved in the reported decisions in this circuit). A lack of jurisdiction in this Court could force the parties to litigate any issues in a different forum with less knowledge of the facts, less bankruptcy expertise, and procedural rules that do not have the same flexibility as the bankruptcy rules for speedy and reduced-cost litigation.

The two potential disputes noted by Debtor are (i) a possible accounting dispute with the IRS (dkt. 216, p.5:1-7) and (ii) a possible claim for postpetition attorney fees by a secured creditor ("US Bank/PHH") (dkt. 216, p.5:20-23). Debtor states that such disputes are expected to be resolved consensually, and no future contested matters or adversary proceedings "are anticipated." Dkt. 216, p.9:14-16. But, of course, consensual resolution might not be possible, and the tentative ruling is that it may be in the interests of both Debtor and creditors to provide for this Court to retain jurisdiction to address any non-consensual resolution.

This Court recognizes, as Debtor acknowledges (dkt. 216, p.6:25-27), that an individual in a chapter 11 case generally does not receive a discharge until "completion of all payments under the plan" (11 U.S.C. 1141(d)(5)(A), emphasis added), and arguably all payments have not been made, in view of the potential disputes noted above. But for two reasons the tentative ruling is that this is not a problem.

First, Debtor alleges that all payments have been completed - at least, for purposes of granting a discharge - and no party in interest has objected to the relief sought by the motion, so any objection has been waived or forfeited. Second, the statute provides an exception to the requirement that "all" payments be completed, if "the court orders otherwise for cause." Id. The tentative ruling is that under each of these alternative grounds it is appropriate to grant Debtor a discharge now, notwithstanding any potential disputes such as those noted by Debtor.

In sum, the tentative ruling is (x) to grant Debtor a discharge now, and (y) to issue a final decree closing this bankruptcy case, but (z) to include in the final decree an express reservation of jurisdiction, in addition to the automatic reservation of jurisdiction in the Local Bankruptcy Rules, to address any disputes with creditors regarding plan payment issues.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order on the foregoing motion via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Status conference

This Court is not aware of any reason to hold a status conference at this time, and in view of the closing of this case no continued status

fr. 3/31/21, 4/27/21, 5/11/21, 6/15/21

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/29/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Compensation application by Debtor's bankruptcy counsel, law offices of Michael Jay Berger (dkt. 106); Opposition of Pravati Credit Fund III LP ("Pravati") (dkt. 123)

The tentative ruling is to grant the application for the reasons stated in applicant's reply, but only authorize payment as funds allow. Specifically, the tentative ruling is to approve fees of $39,700.00 plus expenses of $776.35 for total of $40,476.35, to be paid by applying the retainer balance of $12,912.00 immediately, with the balance of $27,564.35 to be paid in future as funds allow, after applicant files a declaration establishing that the estate has sufficient funds, and lodges a proposed order authorizing such payment.

(b) Debtor's Application to Employ Benedon & Serlin, A Limited Liability Partnership as Special Counsel (dkt. 98); Pravati's Opposition (dkt. 112); Order Setting Hearing (dkt. 115); Debtor's reply (dkt. 126)

Grant in part and continue in part. The tentative ruling is to grant the application with respect to the Trejo Matter (as defined in the application) and continue the hearing with respect to the Pravati matter, to address some of the issues raised in Pravati's opposition.

On the one hand, the tentative ruling is that on the Pravati matter Debtor's reply is persuasive in its part "1" (issues about the timeliness of the appeal are for the State Courts) and part "3" (Debtor will benefit from retaining special counsel). On the other hand, the tentative ruling is that Pravati is correct that (i) funding of the proposed retainer requires a supplemental cash collateral motion, (ii) Mr. Witzer should share the expense of special counsel, or alternatively he and Debtor must have their own separate counsel, (iii) any authorization to employ special counsel must be subject to certain limitations, although not the specific limitations proposed by Pravati, and (iv) more information is required about potential conflicts of interest between Mr. Witzer and Debtor with respect to the Pravati matter.

(i) The proposed etainer requires a supplemental cash collateral motion

Debtor's reply implies that any issue about the use of cash collateral can be deferred: "this Court has the discretion to approve the Application with the retainer to be used [only] upon [future] approval of interim fee applications by the Court and approval to use cash collateral, as needed." Dkt. 126, p.6:6-9. The tentative ruling is that the cash collateral issue cannot be deferred.

Even before a "retainer" is "used," the mere establishment of a retainer is a use of funds, and Debtor cannot use any funds that constitute Pravati's cash collateral without this Court's approval. That will require filing and serving a supplemental cash collateral motion.

Debtor's original cash collateral motion (dkt.6) did not include the retainer in its budget. See id. at Ex.1, at PDF pp.16-17. Both Pravati and the other lienholder must be provided with notice and an opportunity to oppose this proposed use of their (alleged) cash collateral.

In reaching the foregoing tentative ruling, this Court is aware of Debtor's assertions that Pravati has no lien on the cash at issue because its purported lien is avoidable as a preference (and possibly other reasons). But this Court is also aware of Pravati's contrary assertions, and this Court has not made any rulings on such issues. See generally Pravati Obj. to Cash Collateral Mot. (dkt.46); 1st Am. Compl. (Adv. No. 2:21-ap-01084-NB, adv. dkt.2); MTD (adv.dkt.6) (raising other issues); Opp. to MTD (adv.dkt.10) (same).

This Court is also aware that even if Pravati establishes that the funds at issue are its cash collateral, that does not give Pravati (or any other entity with an interest in cash collateral) an absolute right to block the use of such funds. Rather, it has a right to adequate protection. 11 U.S.C. 363(e). Again, though, the tentative ruling is that those issues are not properly before this Court, and will need to be addressed if they are renewed by the parties in connection with a supplemental motion for use of cash collateral.

(ii) Mr. Witzer should share the expenses of special counsel

The tentative ruling is that Mr. Witzer must bear his "fair share" of the litigation costs. The tentative ruling is that the starting point would be a 50/50 share, because the judgment at issue is against both Mr. Witzer and Debtor. In addition, the tentative ruling is that the burden is on any party who seeks to depart from that allocation to establish that a different allocation is appropriate.

But the tentative ruling is that, on the present record, Pravati has met that burden. Pravati argues that the litigation would appear most likely to provide little or no benefit to Debtor - apparently because, according to Debtor, Pravati's liens against Debtor's assets are already avoidable - but will benefit Mr. Witzer - apparently because if the litigation is successful it will have the effect of avoiding Pravati's judgment lien(s) on his personal assets. See Opp. (dkt.112), pp.7:13-8:5.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline for Debtor to file and serve a supplemental brief and/or declaration(s) rebutting the foregoing, or alternatively for Debtor and Mr. Witzer to arrange for each of them to have separate counsel (subject to this Court's approval of any proposed counsel for Debtor). The tentative deadline for such supplemental brief and/or declaration(s) is set forth below.

(iii) Any authorization to employ special counsel must be subject to certain limitations

Pravati argues that if any employment of special counsel were to be approved, it should be limited to $5,000.00 and specific issues. See Opp. (dkt.112), p.10:9-14. The tentative ruling is that these specific limitations are not appropriate, but that both Debtor and any special counsel are subject to more overarching limitations.

A debtor in possession of the bankruptcy estate has the duties of a trustee for the benefit of creditors, and both Debtor and any counsel for Debtor (including special counsel) have a duty to balance the expense of any litigation or transactional matters against the likely benefits and detriments of any act or decision not to act. To state some very simple examples, usually it would be inappropriate to spend $100,000 to recover $50,000; and likewise it would be inappropriate to spend $100,000 on a 50% chance to recover $100,000.

Of course, any cost/benefit analysis must be not be subject to "20/20 hindsight." But a failure to exercise appropriate judgment based on the facts and circumstances at the time of each decision to incur more fees may result in a reduction of fees or other adverse consequences.

Chapter 11

(iv) Potential conflicts of interest

As the employment application notes, proposed special counsel currently represents both Debtor and Mr. Witzer individually. See dkt. 98, p.2, n.1. The tentative ruling is that greater disclosure is required, to address actual or potential conflicts of interest. If, as Pravati asserts, there is a substantial difference in how much or how little Mr. Witzer and Debtor stand to gain or lose, then that might create conflicts of interest.

To illustrate with a hypothetical example, suppose that as against Mr. Witzer individually Pravati has an un-avoidable lien against $1 million of his net assets, and suppose that Pravati will have a $0 lien against Debtor's assets. Finally, suppose that Pravati offers to settle for $1 million.

In that hypothetical scenario, Mr. Witzer potentially has no incentive to settle (he stands to lose his entire $1 million of net assets), whereas Debtor potentially has every incentive to settle (if Mr. Witzer's assets are used to satisfy the settlement, Debtor might owe $0). This hypothetical example is intentionally set up to be completely unrealistic; but the point is that without more disclosure, probably including Mr. Witzer's own assets and liabilities, this Court cannot determine whether proposed special counsel "does not represent or hold any interest adverse to the debtor or to the estate, with respect to the matter on which such [special counsel] is to be employed." 11 U.S.C. 327(e). See also In re Sonya D. Intern., Inc., 484 B.R. 773 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) (authorizing joint representation of debtor and non-debtor, with fee sharing, but noting potential for disqualifying conflicts or lack of disinterestedness).

For more specifics regarding the types of disclosures that may be required, Debtor is directed to the following excerpt from the posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov):

Declarations and/or briefs generally are required to address the ethical concerns involved whenever a retainer is paid by a third party. See Cal. Rule of Prof'l Conduct 1.8.6; In re 9469 Beverly Crest, LLC (Case No. 2:19-bk-20000-NB, dkt.44).

The present situation goes beyond funding a retainer - it includes joint representation and funding the entire appellate litigation with Pravati. But the above-referenced sources are a starting point for considering the ethical issues and the bankruptcy-specific issues.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline for Debtor to file and serve any brief and/or declaration(s) addressing these issues. The specific deadline is

Chapter 11

(v) Conclusion as to employment of special counsel

The tentative ruling, in view of the July 4 holiday, is to set a deadline of 7/13/21 for Debtor to file and serve any brief(s) and/or declaration(s) addressing the foregoing issues, a deadline of 7/20/21 for Pravati to respond, and a deadline of 7/27/21 for Debtor to reply, with a continued hearing on 8/3/21 at 1:00 p.m.

(c) Debtor's motion for relief from the Automatic Stay (the "R/S Motion," dkt. 100), Pravati's Opposition (dkt. 109-111), Reply of Debtor (dkt. 117)

This Court's tentative ruling for the 6/15/21 hearing (reproduced below) was that Debtor's reply adequately addresses the issues raised in Pravati's Opposition. But, because this Court's tentative ruling above is to continue Debtor's application to employ special counsel, the tentative ruling is that it would be premature to grant the R/S Motion. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to continue the R/S Motion to be contemporaneous with the continued hearing on employment of special counsel.

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling to an interim order on the application to employ special counsel, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B). The interim order on the R/S motion should simply provide for a continuance, for the reasons stated in the interim order on the application to employ special counsel.

(d) Status Conference issues: possible use of estate funds, including cash collateral, to pay prepetition debts and to fund retainer for special counsel

Debtor asserts that "it is not unusual for the Debtor to have its prepetition bank accounts open for a few days after the bankruptcy case is filed in order to honor its prior obligations." Dkt. 126, p.7:1-3. This Court disagrees completely.

Prepetition debts generally may not be paid until the effective date of a plan of reorganization, or as otherwise authorized such as for payroll motions and payment of liens out of the proceeds of sales, under 11 U.S.C. 363(b). Cf. 11 U.S.C. 549 (avoidance of unauthorized postpetition transfers). Debtor apparently made some payments without seeking authorization under section 363(b) (or other applicable provisions of the Bankruptcy Code).

A related issue, noted above, is that Debtor may not use of any cash that qualifies as the cash collateral of any entity absent the consent of that entity or approval of this Court. 11 U.S.C. 363(c). If Debtor used any cash collateral without such approval (either to pay prepetition claims or for any other purpose), that may have violated the Bankruptcy Code.

Nevertheless, the tentative ruling is that this Court will not, sua sponte, take any action at this time regarding any unauthorized payments of prepetition debts or unauthorized use of cash collateral. Debtor is cautioned, however, that in future any unauthorized acts might be a factor, when combined with other apparent violations of the Bankruptcy Code or this Court's orders, in granting some form of relief upon a proper request by a party in interest. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(D) ("unauthorized use of cash collateral substantially harmful to 1 or more creditors" is "cause" to convert or dismiss case).

Tentative Ruling for 6/15/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 6/15/21.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of Debtor For Relief From The Automatic Stay (the "R/S Motion," dkt. 100), Opposition of Pravati Credit Fund III LP ("Pravati") (dkt. 109-111), Reply of Debtor (dkt. 117)

Although the tentative ruling is that Debtor's reply (dkt. 110) adequately addresses the issues raised in Pravati's opposition papers (dkt.109-111), nevertheless it would make no sense to grant relief from the automatic stay to pursue litigation if Debtor cannot hire special counsel to represent Debtor in that litigation. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to continue Debtor's R/S Motion to the same time as the hearing on Pravati's objection to Debtor's application to employ special counsel (which is the same time as the continued Status Conference, set forth below).

Tentative Ruling for 6/29/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's applications to retain and compensate ordinary course professionals (dkt. 186, "Ordinary Course Application"), Opposition of Dos Cabezas (dkt. 194), Debtor's reply (dkt. 198), Stipulation to withdraw Dos Cabezas' opposition and order thereon (dkt. 247, 248), Stipulation to continue hearing (dkt.269), Debtor's supplemental papers (dkt. 296)

In view of the additional explanations provided in Debtor's supplemental papers, the tentative ruling is to grant the motion. Even though, at least previously, it appeared that Hammonds & Frey and Hunter & Company might well be professionals whose employment required this Court's approval, no party is presently arguing that position, and this Court is not persuaded sua sponte to find that employment was required as a precondition to payment for those parties' post-petition services.

Alternatively, as to Hammonds & Frey, it has waived its prepetition claim, and based on the supplemental papers it is appropriate to authorize their employment retroactively to the extent (if any) that such authorization might be required. Alternatively, as to Hunter & Company/Ian Hunter, the tentative ruling is to authorize payment as set forth below (provided that there is no duplication of payment).

(b) Ian Hunter's motion for administrative expense claim (dkt. 290), no opposition on file

As an alternative to the relief granted in Section (1)(a) above, the

Tentative Ruling for 5/19/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's motion to sell substantially all of its assets ("Sale Motion," dkt. 61-65, 67), Opposition of Ruth Gonzales, Braubert Andres, and Guillermo J. Lopez Gutierrez ("Gonzales et al.") (dkt. 77), SubchapterV Trustee's response (dkt. 83), Joinder of Samuel Pearce Trust ("Pearce") (dkt. 86), Debtor's reply to Gonzales et al. (dkt. 88), Debtor's reply to SubchapterV Trustee's response (dkt. 95), Schedules to APA (dkt. 99)

The tentative ruling is that the following issues must be addressed before any sale can be approved. On the one hand, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has established sufficient justification for a quick sale of substantially all of its assets without overbids, instead of the delays and expenses of attempting to market the assets and hold an auction, which likely would result in lower net recoveries. Likewise, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has established sufficient justification for a sale instead of attempting to accomplish the same transaction through a chapter 11 plan, again because of the projected delays and costs of the latter proceeding (although those disadvantages might be exaggerated, given the speed and efficiency that are possible in Subchapter V).

In addition, the tentative ruling is that any sale can be free and clear of liens and other interests under 11 U.S.C. 363(f). Although this Court is not persuaded that "applicable nonbankruptcy law" provides for a sale of substantially all assets to an insider free and clear of successor liability and other interests in the assets (section 363(f)(1)), or that a lack of objection is the same as "consent[]" (section 363(f)(2)) (dkt.59, pp.11:3-12:10), nevertheless section 363(f)(4) and (5) apply. Any purported lien or interest would qualify as "disputed" under section 363(f)(4), because of Debtor's lien searches, the lack of notice to Debtor of any other encumbrances or interests (other than Permitted Encumbrances), and the usual grounds for contesting any successor liability. Alternatively, this Court is persuaded that section 363(f)(5) applies because of the existence of "legal or equitable proceeding[s]" that could compel holders of any liens or other interests to accept a "money satisfaction," such as foreclosures and receiverships in which sales can be accomplished free and clear. As stated in the posted "Procedures of Judge Bason" (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) under "Common matters":

Regarding § 363(f)(5), the judge does not follow Clear Channel Outdoor, Inc. v. Knupfer (In re PW, LLC), 391 B.R. 25, 40 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2008). He has ruled that a sale free and clear is permissible under § 363(f)(5) whenever the interest at issue is subject to monetary valuation. See In re Trans World Airlines, Inc., 322 F.3d 283, 290-91 (3d Cir. 2003) ("TWA") (because employees' claims were "subject to monetary valuation," debtor's assets could be sold free and clear of successor liability for such claims under § 363(f)(5)). Alternatively, the judge has ruled that "cramdown" is among the types of legal or equitable proceeding within the statute, or that Clear Channel is distinguishable in most cases under the rationale of In re Jolan, 403 B.R. 866 (Bankr. W.D. Wash. 2009), because holders of interests can be compelled in numerous other types of legal or equitable proceedings to accept a money satisfaction (which might be $-0- in the case of an interest that is entirely underwater). Those proceedings include a hypothetical foreclosure by one of the lienholders, or a receivership (which could be initiated at the behest of creditors or by the debtor itself). See Cal. Code Civ. Proc. ("CCP") §564(b)(9) (power to appoint receiver to sell property); CCP § 568.5 (receiver empowered to sell property as provided in CCP §§701.510 et seq.); CCP § 701.630 (extinguishment of liens); CCP § 701.680 (binding effect of sale). The judge respectfully disagrees with In re Hassen Imports P'ship, 502 B.R. 851, 860 et seq. (C.D. Cal. 2013) (hypothetical foreclosure sale did not qualify under section 363(f)(5)). See generally In re Catalina Sea Ranch, LLC (Case No. 2:19-bk-24467-NB), dkt. 122 (approving sale to insider, free and clear of successor liability).

On the other hand, (i) the insider nature of the proposed transaction requires greater scrutiny and (ii) unless the proposed sale is assured of generating funds sufficient to pay a meaningful dividend to nonpriority unsecured creditors, it does not appear appropriate to approve the proposed sale. This Court's reasoning is that, if a sale is a permissible substitute for a plan (under Braniff, Lionel, Walter, Continental Airlines, Coastal Indus., Abbots Dairies, etc. - see dkt.83, passim and especially pp.2:19-5:4 and 8:1-16:17), then this Court must consider whether the proposed transaction, if embodied in a proposed plan, would fail the tests for confirmation, and whether the proposed transaction would otherwise be contrary to the process and distribution scheme contemplated by the Bankruptcy Code. This approach is consistent with the definition of "cause" to dismiss or convert a case under 11 U.S.C. 1112: if no plan could be confirmed within any reasonable time frame, then this Court "shall" convert or dismiss the case. See 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(J).

The tentative ruling is that, if no meaningful dividend can be assured, then the proposed disposition of Debtor's assets would not satisfy the "fair and equitable" standard for confirmation of any plan, and it would be inappropriate to permit an "end run" around that standard, without even having an opportunity for creditors to vote (because there is no plan), while providing insiders with various benefits from the proposed transaction. In addition, there is insufficient assurance, on such shortened time, that the best interests of creditors test (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(7)) would not favor a chapter 7 liquidation.

Conversion to chapter 7 would preserve the integrity of the system by enabling an independent investigation and assessment. Specifically, it is possible that a chapter 7 trustee: (w) could either obtain a better sale price from the proposed buyer or competitors, (x) could investigate Debtor's vague assertions that unspecified "problems" (dkt. 59, p.3:20) transformed a business from one that "historically operated at a profit" (id., p.3:19) into one that allegedly "would require significant capital investment before it could even break even" (id., p.4:16-17), (y) could uncover claims against insiders, avoidance actions, or other sources of recoveries, and alternatively (z) could, at the very least, provide greater assurance that all "stones had been turned over" to explore whether the foregoing recoveries were possible.

In other words, the tentative ruling is that it is inappropriate to authorize a sale of substantially all assets, with the benefits and protections to insiders and the buyer of releases and cutting off potential successor liability and other claims, unless a meaningful dividend to nonpriority unsecured creditors can be assured. True, conversion or dismissal of this case might produce smaller, not greater, chances of any meaningful recoveries. But the tentative ruling is that the integrity of the system requires either the protections of a chapter 7 trustee or, alternatively, assurance of a meaningful distribution to nonpriority unsecured creditors. Absent the latter, the tentative ruling is that this Court cannot approve the proposed quick, no-voting, no-overbid sale to insiders with releases and a transfer of assets to them free and clear of successor liability.

(b) Plan (dkt. 89)

The tentative ruling is that, although Debtor's Plan is essentially a blank slate, the details of which Debtor proposes to supply after the (hoped for) approval of the Sale Motion, that is sufficient under the circumstances. The tentative ruling is not to take any further action with respect to the Plan at this time.

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 2/5/21.

#16.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case
fr. 3/23/21, 4/27/21, 6/1/21

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 6/29/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Dismiss this case with a bar, and issue orders to show cause why Debtor's principal and its proposed counsel should not be sanctioned ("OSCs")

The tentative ruling, is to dismiss this case with a 180 day bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy due to "willful failure of the debtor to abide by orders of the court, or to appear before the court in proper prosecution of the case." 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1). In addition, the tentative ruling is to issue OSCs directing Debtor's principal (Mr. Melamed) and Debtor's proposed counsel (meaning both the Abbasi Law Corporation and Matthew Abbasi individually) to appear and show cause why they should not be subject to sanctions, (x) for the reasons set forth in this Court's 6/1/21 tentative ruling (copied below) in the amount of $200 each, for Mr. Melamed and proposed counsel, and also (y) for the following additional reasons, in the amount of $50 against Mr. Melamed for the MOR/UST fee issue described below, and $2,000 against Debtor's proposed counsel for apparently false, belated statements regarding conflicts of interest and other disqualifications to represent this Debtor.

(i) Continued failure to comply with reporting requirements

Despite this Court's admonitions in the 6/1/21 tentative ruling about filing late Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs"), Debtor's May MOR (which was due 6/15/21) was not filed until 6/24/21. In addition, that MOR is mostly blank, including the part reflecting payment of quarterly fees to the Office of the United States Trustee ("UST"), which means Debtor either is not making the required payments (without explaining why in the MOR), or Debtor is not accurately reporting payments. See MOR (dkt.50) p.6. What else is missing or inaccurate in Debtor's MORs?

Chapter 11

(ii) Failure to obtain valuation of property, or other apparent progress

This Court was persuaded not to dismiss this case on 6/1/21 based on proposed counsel's representation the Debtor would be filing papers demonstrating the steps it has taken to move this case forward. But as of the preparation of this tentative ruling the docket does not reflect any apparent progress.

True, Debtor's (late) MOR asserts that Debtor has "achieved [a] tentative deal with Creditor, Prime Point which needs to be approved by the court. Additionally, the Debtor has made substantial progress on its plan for its properties." Dkt.50, p.8, Questionnaire item 3. Those vague phrases are essentially meaningless.

There is no indication that, after more than four months in bankruptcy, Debtor has made any tangible progress. To the contrary, as set forth below, the apparent conflicts and other problems involving Debtor's proposed counsel probably mean that any tentative deal with Prime Point cannot be approved.

(iii) Employment of bankruptcy counsel

Debtor filed this case on 2/19/21, but has only belatedly filed an employment application a month later, and very belatedly lodged a proposed order approving that application four months later. See dkt. 20-22, 48, 49. For the following reasons, this Court has concerns about the proposed employment. Some of those concerns might be easily addressed; but they get progressively worse, and they culminate in apparent conflicts of interest and related concerns that appear to disqualify counsel entirely.

A. Missing retainer agreement. Proposed counsel refers to a retainer agreement (dkt. 20, pp.4:19, 5:9), but the retainer agreement is not attached. That is troubling because retainer agreements sometimes include matters such as purported waivers of conflicts of interest that are impermissible (in fact, as set forth below, the application papers do include a purported waiver of conflicts of interest).

B. Third party funder. Proposed counsel discloses that it received a pre-petition retainer from Shahin Melamed, who holds a 50% membership interest in the Debtor (dkt. 20, pdf p.18:5-7) and that Mr. Melamed and/or his other businesses have agreed to pay all of proposed counsel's post-petition fees and costs (id., pdf p.18:14-16) and that all funds provided by Mr. Melamed or his affiliates are intended to be contributions and not loans (id., pdf p.18:11-20). This raises certain ethical issues because a third party funder who funds a retainer and ongoing attorneys' fees and costs for a debtor (a "Funder") may have a variety of motivations for providing the funding, including not just a desire to protect prior equity investments or loans to Debtor, but also, for example, being the recipient of an avoidable preference, or having alter ego liability, or otherwise having interests that are adverse to (or at least not fully aligned with) the bankruptcy estate or creditors. For these reasons, although payment of a retainer by a Funder is not outright prohibited, it is fraught with ethical concerns. If this Court is persuaded not to dismiss this case, proposed counsel should be prepared to address the following issues (for purposes of the following discussion, the "Funder" includes not just Mr. Melamed but all of his affiliates who may contribute funds):

(1) Connections. What are all of the connections between the Funder, on the one hand, and Debtor, Debtor's proposed counsel, and any of the other types of persons listed in FRBP 2014, on the other hand – e.g., have there been any economic or business or personal connections between the Funder and Debtor beyond the fact of being direct or indirect equity owners, or between the Funder and proposed counsel, or any creditor or other party in interest, or their respective attorneys or accountants? These questions may be answered, if appropriate, by referring to specific disclosures already on file, e.g., in the bankruptcy schedules.

(2) Informed consent of Funder. Has the Funder been advised regarding actual and potential conflicts of interest, and that the sole attorney-client relationship and duty of loyalty is with Debtor, not the Funder? Who provided such advice: independent counsel, or Debtor's proposed counsel (and, if the latter, was the Funder given the opportunity to obtain independent counsel)? Has the Funder given informed consent? Are those things in writing? If any Funder has other equity owners, have they given their informed consent in writing?

(3) Informed consent of debtor. Has the debtor likewise been fully advised and given informed consent? Who provided such advice? Are these things in writing?

(4) Other consideration. Has proposed counsel demonstrated or represented to the Court the absence of an actual or potential conflict, a lack of disinterestedness, or any other basis for disqualification? See In re Kelton Motors, Inc., 109 B.R. 641 (Bankr. D. Vt. 1989); In re Hathaway Ranch Partnership, 116 B.R. 208, 219 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1990); In re Park-Helena Corp., 63 F.3d 877 (9th Cir. 1995).

C. Purported waiver of conflicts. Proposed counsel states that, to the extent any potential or actual conflicts of interest exist or arise between the Debtor, Mr. Melamed and/or Mr. Ali Nowaid (who holds the other 50% membership interest in the Debtor) as a result of the Mr. Melamed's payment of proposed counsel's pre-petition retainer and post-petition fees and costs or, presumably for any other reason (see below re apparent conflicts), the parties have agreed to waive all conflicts of interest (dkt. 20, p.5:3-8 & pdf p.14, para. "(5)"). But proposed counsel has not cited any authority in support of those assertions, and in general a debtor in possession cannot waive conflicts on behalf of the bankruptcy estate/creditors. If this Court is persuaded not to dismiss this case, the tentative ruling is to disapprove of any provision in proposed counsel's retainer agreement in which Debtor purports to waive any conflict of interest on behalf of the estate. See In re Triple Star Welding, Inc., 324 B.R. 778, 791 (9th Cir. BAP 2005) (informed consent to waive conflicts cannot be obtained because "the real parties in interest" are "the creditors, and that is not a waivable conflict") (citation and internal quotation marks omitted).

D. Conflicts of Interest. Mr. Melamed's declaration states that Debtor sought bankruptcy protection to prevent the loss of its real property located at 7227 Oleander Avenue, Fontana, CA 92336 (the "Property") in a foreclosure sale (dkt. 20, pdf p.8:11-14) and that there is currently a dispute between Debtor's two secured creditors (All Star Financial ("All Star") and Prime Point Contracting, Inc. ("Prime Point")) over which of the two entities holds the first-priority lien against Debtor's real property (id., pdf p.8:18-25). Mr. Melamed further states that that resolution of the dispute between All Star and Prime Point is very important to Debtor's plan and that Debtor intends to seek a determination of lien priority in an action pending in State Court that Prime Point initiated to foreclose on its judgment lien (id., pdf p., 9:1-6). In other words, disputes with Prime Point are central to this bankruptcy case.

Proposed counsel states that it does not have any conflicts of interest (id., pdf p.14, para. "(5)") that would prevent it from representing Debtor. But proposed counsel discloses that it represents Prime Point in an unrelated employment law matter (id. pdf p.15, para. "(6)"). In addition, proposed counsel discloses that for many years it has represented the co-defendants in that employment law matter: Prime Point's owner, Anthony Nowald, and to a lesser extent his son, Ali Nowald, who is also the 50% co-owner of Debtor. Id., pdf pp.15-18. In other words, proposed counsel appears to have direct conflicts of interest because it has duties of loyalty to Prime Point, its owner, and his son, all of whom are on opposite sides of disputes with (x) Debtor (foreclosure etc.), (y) All Star (lien priority etc.), and (z) all other creditors and equity holders in this bankruptcy case (because proposed counsel has a duty to investigate whether, for example, there might be grounds to avoid any lien asserted by Prime Point, or otherwise object to its claim). See generally, e.g., Triple Star Welding, 324 B.R. 778, 791-797 & nn.12, 14 & 20 (burden is on debtor and professionals to establish disinterestedness and lack of adverse interests, both for employment and for compensation); In re Sonya D. Intern., Inc., 484 B.R. 773, 781 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) (citing authority that general bankruptcy counsel must review claims "to determine which should be disputed" and to investigate "pre-bankruptcy transactions" and, if such counsel represented creditors then "[a]ny number of possible conflicts can be envisioned," although representation of a creditor is not a per se disqualification from employment) (citation and internal quotation marks omitted).

In addition, this Court is concerned that these disclosures were not stated prominently in the employment application itself, together with an explanation of how proposed counsel concluded that it is qualified for employment. Instead, the application contains only an oblique reference to the disclosures and a bald assertion (apparently false) that proposed counsel does not represent anyone who has an interest "materially adverse" to Debtor (which, incidentally, is not the complete test under 11 U.S.C. 101(14) and 327(a)):

ALC does not represent [anyone] which has an interest materially adverse to the Debtor in connection with this bankruptcy case or otherwise. ALC has disclosed all of its current and past representations of the Debtor, its owners, and one of its creditors in the present and past matters in the aforementioned Statement which is being filed concurrently with the herein Application. [Dkt.48, p. 5:19-23 (emphasis added).]

The tentative ruling is that, whether or not this case is dismissed, this Court will issue an OSC directing proposed counsel to address the foregoing issues and explain the factual and legal grounds for concluding that its current and past representations of Prime Point, its owner Anthony Nowald, and his son and Debtor's co-owner Ali Nowald, do not create actual conflicts of interest and a lack of disinterestedness that disqualify it from representing the Debtor. The tentative ruling is that proposed counsel's explanation must address the precise words of 11 U.S.C. 327(a), which authorizes employment of professionals who "do not hold or represent an interest adverse to the estate, and that are disinterested persons" and 11 U.S.C. 101(14)(C), which defines "disinterested person" as a person who (among other things) "does not have an interest materially adverse to the interest of the estate or of any class of creditors or equity security holders, by reason of any direct or indirect relationship to, connection with, or interest in, the debtor, or for any other reason," and in addition proposed counsel must cite authority supporting its position that it "does not represent [anyone] which has an interest materially adverse to the Debtor" despite its representation of foreclosing creditor Prime Point and its insiders.

(v) Conclusion

Debtor has obtained the benefits of the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(a)) and the other advantages of bankruptcy (e.g., negotiating leverage, and opportunities for restructuring) without bearing the burdens. In addition, Debtor's proposed counsel appears to have made false statements regarding its purported lack of conflicts and its qualifications to represent Debtor in this case.

For the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is to dismiss this case with a 180-day bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy, and expressly retain jurisdiction regarding possible sanctions. The tentative ruling is to issue OSCs against Debtor's principal and its proposed counsel, and set those OSCs for hearing at the same time as the continued status conference (see part "(2)" of this tentative ruling, below).

Proposed order: The UST is requested to lodge a proposed order of dismissal via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

After entry of that order on the docket, this Court will prepare the above-referenced OSCs.

Unless otherwise stated, appearances via CourtCall are no longer permitted.

Tentative Ruling for 6/1/21:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Dismiss this case with a bar, and issue order to show cause ("OSC")

The tentative ruling, is to dismiss this case with a 180 day bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy due to "willful failure of the debtor to abide by orders of the court, or to appear before the court in proper prosecution of the case." 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1). In addition, the tentative ruling is to issue an OSC directing Debtor's principal (Mr. Melamed) and Debtor's counsel to appear and show cause why they should not be subject to sanctions of $200 each, for the following reasons.

(i) Failure to appear at the 4/27/21 status conference

This Court's tentative ruling posted in advance of the 4/27/21 status conference (copied below) directed Debtor to appear to address certain issues discussed therein, but Debtor failed to appear or otherwise notify Judge Bason's staff in advance of the hearing about any circumstances that might have prompted this Court to excuse Debtor's appearance.

(ii) Failure to comply with reporting requirements

Debtor has repeatedly been late in filing Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs"). See February MOR (dkt. 16, filed 8 days late) & March MOR (dkt.

United States Bankruptcy Court

32, filed 18 days late). As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, Debtor has not filed its April MOR (due 5/15/21), despite having entered into a stipulation to do so (resolving the motion of the United States Trustee ("UST") to dismiss this case, dkt. 40).

(iii) Failure to obtain valuation of property

Debtor's February MOR stated that valuation of its property is key to the success of its plan (dkt. 16, p. 8), but as of the preparation of this tentative ruling (over two months later) Debtor has not filed any motions to value its real properties. Additionally, Debtor's February and March MORs (dkt. 16 & 32) reflect that Debtor is not operating and Debtor continues to accrue administrative expenses without appearing to take any meaningful steps to reorganize its affairs.

(iv) Incorrect/untimely service of original and amended claims bar date orders

On 3/25/21 this Court issued an original bar date order (dkt. 18) which directed Debtor to serve a copy of the order by 3/30/21, but Debtor failed to serve that order at all. On 4/28/21 this Court issued an amended bar date order (dkt. 30) directing Debtor to "serve a copy of this Order (not the notice contemplated by LBR 3003-1)" on all parties in interest no later than 5/3/21 (dkt. 30, p.2, para. "(2)"). Notwithstanding those directions, Debtor appears to have served only the notice contemplated by LBR 3003-1 (see dkt. 35, 36) and even that service was 1 day later than the deadline this Court set.

(v) Conclusion

The foregoing lapses are not terribly serious, and there might (or might not) be good reasons for any one of those lapses (e.g., illness or calendaring errors). But in combination those lapses place undue burdens on other parties in interest (and this Court), and deprive creditors and the UST of timely information that they need. Debtor has obtained the benefits of the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(a)) and the other advantages of bankruptcy (e.g., negotiating leverage, and opportunities for restructuring) without bearing the burdens. That is inappropriate and sanctionable.

The tentative ruling is to set the OSC for the same time as the continued status conference (see part "(2)" of this tentative ruling, below).

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 2/19/21.

Tentative Ruling for 4/27/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Service of bar date order

This Court's bar date order (dkt. 18) set a deadline of 3/30/21 for Debtor to serve all interested parties. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, there is no proof of service reflecting that Debtor timely complied. Have creditors been served with the bar date order? If so, when did that occur and why has Debtor not filed a proof of service?

(b) Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs")

As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, Debtor has not filed its March MOR. Why not?

Tentative Ruling for 3/23/21:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor and by Debtor's principal.

(1) Current issues

(a) Untimely Status report

Debtor filed its status report (dkt. 15) four days late, on 3/13/21, without providing any explanation for the late filing. Debtor/counsel are cautioned that failure to timely comply with this Court's orders in future may result in adverse consequences.

(b) First-day motions

Debtor's status report states that a budget motion is not required by the presiding judge's procedures. Dkt. 15, p.3. That is wrong (see posted "Procedures of Judge Bason," available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov), but the tentative ruling is to excuse this requirement with a caution to counsel not to mis-state the applicable procedures.

so-called "first-day" motion(s) by the time of this hearing, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/30/21 for Debtor to file any outstanding motion(s) with a hearing concurrent with the continued status conference. Debtor is directed to address at the hearing what other motions are required or appropriate.

(c) Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs")

As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, Debtor has not filed its February MOR. Why not?

(d) Only two creditors?

Debtor's creditor matrix includes only two creditors. Is that really true? How about the City of Fontana which, according to Debtor's Status Report (dkt.15), is considering citations for alleged "violations" of some sort? How about former employees, tax authorities, and other typical creditors?

Docket 33

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

#3.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [NA]

LOURDES M. GALINDO
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 18

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant in part and deny in part as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): No opposition is on file

The automatic stay does not apply

The tentative ruling is that, (a) to the extent Movant seeks relief from the automatic stay, that relief is moot because the automatic stay does not apply, and to that limited extent the motion must be denied; but (b) in the alternative, in the event that this Court were incorrect on that issue, the tentative ruling is to grant relief from whatever stay applied, based on the Curtis/Plumberex factors (cited in the motion).

Specifically, the automatic stay previously terminated (i) as to Debtor's in personam liability on 10/19/20 upon the granting of Debtor's discharge (11 U.S.C. 362(c)(2)(C)) and was replaced by the discharge injunction (11 U.S.C. 524(a)), and (ii) as to any property of the estate when the case was closed on 10/20/20 (11 U.S.C. 362(c)(1)). Nor is this Court aware of any authority that reopening this bankruptcy case operates automatically to reimpose the automatic stay. Accordingly, no stay applies, and Movant is permitted to proceed in the nonbankruptcy forum to final judgment (including any appeals) and enforce its final judgment by collecting upon any available insurance, all in accordance with applicable nonbankruptcy law.

Alternatively, it is standard to grant the type of limited relief requested in the motion, to pursue insurance, under the Curtis/Plumberex factors. That is particularly appropriate in a chapter 7 case that has been closed. No party in interest has argued otherwise.

Caveat: Nothing in the foregoing tentative ruling should be interpreted as modifying the usual limitations that any creditor pursuing in rem recoveries (e.g., from insurance) must be careful not to give the impression to a debtor who has received a discharge that the creditor is pursuing in personam liability against Debtor personally, in violation of the discharge injunction. See, e.g., In re Marino, 577 B.R. 772, 783 (9th Cir. BAP 2017), partially overruled on other issues by Taggart v. Lorenzen, 139 S.Ct. 1795 (2019).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 7/6/21:
Appearances required.

At the 6/1/21 hearing, this Court was persuaded to continue the matter to this date to allow the parties an opportunity to agree to the terms of an adequate protection agreement. See also Debtors' Reponse (dkt. 29). As of the date this tentative ruling was prepared, no stipulation and/or proposed adequate protection order has been filed with this Court. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address whether (a) whether the alleged arrears have been brought current and/or (b) whether they will agree to the terms of an adequate protection order.

(A) Current issues

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv.dkt. 6) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding and is not aware of any issues to raise sua sponte at this time.

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation

In the parties' joint status report (adv. dkt. 6), the parties have both indicated that they would like this matter sent to mediation. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/23/21 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 1/7/21. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Tentative Ruling for 7/6/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Background

No Answer is on file. Nor are there any motions to dismiss or other pleadings on file.

That said, the tentative ruling is that the lack of response is not dispositive because the docket in this adversary proceeding does not reflect proper service of the summons, Complaint, etc. on Debtor to the attention of an officer, a managing or general agent, or to any other agent authorized by appointment of law (Rule 7004(b)(3), Fed. R. Bankr. P.), at an address that appears to be reasonably calculated to reach the officer (e.g., corporate headquarters). Note: Judge Bason does not require that a specific individual be named -- "Attn: Officer or Managing/General Agent" is sufficient.

(b) The Complaint fails to state a claim for relief under section 523(a)

The tentative ruling is to dismiss the Complaint on this Court's own motion, under Rule 12(b)(6) (Fed. R. Civ. P.) (incorporated by Rule 7012, Fed. R. Bankr. P.), for failure to state a claim for relief. The two claims asserted in the Complaint (dkt.1, 3) are brought under 11 U.S.C. 523(a)(6) or (a)(7); but section 523(a), by its express language, only applies to individual debtors and not corporate debtors such as LAX In-Flight Services, LLC. See In re Gordon's Music & Sound, Inc., 2012 Bankr. LEXIS 6133, at *2, 2012 WL 8250009, at *1-2 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. Oct. 12, 2012) (dismissing 523(a)(6) claim against corporate debtor and reasoning that "Congress clearly did not intend the term 'corporate debtor' to be used interchangeably with the term 'individual debtor'" (internal quotations and citations omitted); see also Omar v. Sea-Land Serv. Inc., 813 F.2d 986, 991 (9th Cir. 1987) (citing Wong v. Bell, 642 F.2d 359, 361-62 (9th Cir. 1981) ("A trial court may dismiss a claim sua sponte under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6) ... [s]uch dismissal may be made without notice where the claimant cannot possibly win relief").

The tentative ruling is to dismiss with leave to amend, because the factual allegations in the Complaint, and its assertions about asserted violations of nonbankruptcy law, might be the basis to assert a cognizable claim. The tentative ruling is (i) to set a deadline of 7/20/21 for Plaintiffs to file a first amended complaint ("FAC") and serve their summons, FAC, etc. on Defendant/Debtor; and to set a continued status conference for 8/17/21 at 1:00 p.m., with a joint status report on this Court's Local Form due 8/3/21.

In addition, the parties are directed to address how to this matter can best be handled efficiently. For example, is mandatory mediation appropriate?

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #2.00 Hrg re: Motion for order approving compromise with Wyndham Vacation, Resorts, Inc.

Docket 550

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required on 7/6/21

(1) Terminology

This Court's terminology has been memorialized (MacCase, dkt. 485).

(2) Current issues

(a) Trustee's motion to approve compromise with Wyndham (MacCase, dkt. 550, 551, the "Settlement Motion"), no opposition on file

The tentative ruling is to grant the Settlement Motion.

(b) Trustee's claim objections (MacCase, dkt. 522; AttitudeCase dkt. 191)

The tentative ruling is to deny the Trustee's claim objections as moot in view of the tentative approval of the Settlement Motion.

Proposed orders: Trustee is directed to lodge proposed orders on items "(2)(a)" & "(2)(b)" above via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(c) Wyndham's motion for administrative expense claim (MacCase dkt. 548, the "Administrative Claim Motion"), no opposition on file

The tentative ruling is to grant the Administrative Claim Motion for the reasons stated therein. In addition, the tentative ruling is that, in this instance only, this Court is prepared to not require service on all parties or the submission of evidence establishing that Wyndham actually incurred $50,000 in expenses (e.g., a declaration from Mr. Eliades with time records), but only because (i) all interested parties received notice of the Settlement Motion (dkt. 552), which contemplates the granting of the relief requested in this motion as a condition of the settlement (see dkt. 550, p.12:13-16), (ii) no party in interest has objected, and (iii) this Court takes judicial notice of the docket in the MacCase, and the numerous hearings before this Court, all of which establish that Wyndham has incurred significant expense for services that provided a substantial contribution to the case and led to the discovery of assets that has increased the distribution to creditors.

Proposed order: Wyndham is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Chapter 7

(1) Current issues

The tentative ruling is (a) to sustain the Trustee's objections to Wyndham's Claims, without leave for Wyndham to renew its claims for liquidated damages, but (b) to refrain from issuing any order memorializing that ruling, so that this Court can direct the parties to mandatory mediation in an attempt to avoid the expense and delay of any appeals or other proceedings. This Court will address at the continued status conference (see below) when to use and enter any order(s) implementing this tentative ruling.

(a) Terminology

This Court's terminology is as previously memorialized (MacCase, dkt.485).

(b) Key documents reviewed

Wyndham's Proof of Claim 3-4 filed in the MacCase (the "Wyndham-Mac Claim") and Wyndham's Proof of Claim 1-2 filed in the AttitudeCase (the "Wyndham-Attitude Claim," and together, the "Claims"); 2015 Settlement Agreement (MacCase dkt. 516, Ex. Chapter 7 agreement itself or applicable law (or other, inapplicable grounds). 11 U.S.C. 502(a) & (b). In other words, the burden is on the objecting party to provide a cognizable ground to disallow the claim.

(i) There must be some factual or legal basis to disallow the claim, not just an alleged non-compliance with Rule 3001

Pursuant to Rule 3001(f) a proof of claim must be "executed and filed in accordance with these rules" in order to automatically "constitute prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim." But a rule cannot supersede a statute, and an objecting party must do more than simply point to a lack of compliance with Rule 3001 in order to obtain an order disallowing a claim: the objecting party must establish an actual basis to contest the liability or amount of the claim. See In re Campbell, 336 B.R. 430 (9th Cir. BAP 2005); In re Heath, 331 B.R. 424 (9th Cir. BAP 2005). See also Travelers Cas. & Sur. Co. of Am. v. Pac. Gas & Elec. Co., 549 U.S. 443, 449, 127 S. Ct. 1199, 167 L. Ed. 2d 178 (2007) ("the court 'shall allow' the claim 'except to the extent that' the claim implicates any of the nine exceptions enumerated in [section] 502(b)").

(ii) Non-compliance with Rule 3001 only means that the "usual burdens of proof" apply

If a proof of claim does not comply with Rule 3001(f) then it does not automatically constitute prima facie evidence of the "validity and amount" of the claim and "the usual burdens of proof associated with claims litigation apply." Campbell, 336 B.R. 430, 436 (emphasis added). But the proof of claim can still be prima facie evidence of the claim's validity and amount if the evidence attached to the proof of claim is "sufficient to support the claim." In that situation the objecting party "must produce evidence tending to defeat the claim that is of probative force equal to that of the creditors' proof of claim." In re Consolidated Pioneer Mortgage, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995) (citations and internal quotation marks omitted).

(b) The Claims are not entitled to prima facie validity as against the Trustee under Rule 3001(f)

On 12/16/20, Wyndham filed the amended Claims (which appear in all respects to be identical) asserting general unsecured claims against the MacMillan and Attitude estates in the amount of $25,000,000. Although it is not clear from a review of the documents filed in support of the Claims, it appears the Claims are comprised of (w) damages arising out of the Debtors' alleged failures to transfer timeshares to Wyndham and pay an agreed-upon $375 per unit transferred as well as unpaid maintenance fees, (x) attorneys' fees, (y) interest, and (z) liquidated damages arising from alleged breaches of a 2015 Settlement Agreement (the "2015 Settlement Agreement") executed in connection with pre-petition litigation in the Middle District of Tennessee captioned Wyndham Vacation Resorts, Inc. et al. v. Property Relief, LLC, et al., Case No. 3:13-cv-434 (the "WVR Lawsuit") (MacCase dkt. 516, Ex. H, at PDF pp. 151 et seq.).

In support of the Claims, Wyndham relies on a four-page summary of the history of its bankruptcy litigation with MacMillan and Cynthia Martin which concluded with the execution of a new settlement agreement (the "2020 Settlement Agreement") (MacCase dkt. 512-1, Ex. A), as well as this Court's order approving that agreement and the related nondischargeability judgment (none of which is attached, but all of which have been reviewed by this Court). But, as the Trustee highlights, the Claims are not supported by the 2015 Settlement Agreement or any kind of summary explaining the various components of the Claims or how Wyndham arrived at the $25,000,000 figure (MacCase dkt. 522, pp.1:28-2:4 & 17:23-19:4 & AttitudeCase dkt. 191, p.2:1-5 & 18:7-20:25).

As against Debtors themselves, Wyndham's Claims might be entitled to prima facie validity because Debtors were parties to the underlying 2020 Settlement Agreement. But as against the Trustee, there is insufficient information to determine the components of the claim including anything about how the settling parties arrived at $10,000 for liquidated damages.

Therefore, the tentative ruling is that the Claims lack sufficient information to give them prima facie validity under Rule 3001(c)(1) & (f) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). See e.g., In re Heath, 331 B.R. at 433 (claim can be based on summary rather than complete documentation but, among other things, "if the claim includes charges such as interest, late fees and attorney's fees, the summary should include a statement giving a breakdown of those elements").

Alternatively, even if the Claims had prima facie validity under Rule 3001(f) (which they do not), that would not change the outcome. The Trustee has rebutted any such initial showing by Wyndham, thereby shifting the burden to Wyndham. Wyndham has not carried that burden, for the reasons set forth below.

Chapter 7

(c) Wyndham has not carried its initial burden of proof

The Trustee objects to the Claims on the grounds that the lion's share of the $25,000,000 figure is premised on an unenforceable liquidated damages provision in the 2015 Settlement Agreement under applicable law (i.e., that the Claims must be disallowed under 11 U.S.C. 502(b)(1)) (MacCase dkt. 522, pp.14:14-17:21 & AttitudeCase dkt. 191, pp.15:1-18:5).

(i) Tennessee law applies

Neither party has briefed whether this Court should apply Tennessee or California law. But the tentative ruling is that Tennessee law applies pursuant to paragraph 13 of the 2015 Settlement Agreement, which states in relevant part: "[s]hould any question arise as to the construction or interpretation of this Agreement, this Agreement shall be construed and interpreted according to the laws of the State of Tennessee ..." (see 2:17-ap-01229-NB, dkt. 80, p.14, para. "(13)") (emphasis added).

Under Tennessee law, "the term 'liquidated damages' 'refers to an amount determined by the parties to be just compensation for damages,' should a contract breach occur." Guesthouse Int'l Franchise Sys., Inc., v. British Am. Props. MacArthur Inn, LLC, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 8570, at *30-31, 2009 WL 278214, at *9-10 (M.D. Tenn. 2009) (quoting Vanderbilt Univ. v. DiNardo, 174 F.3d 751, 755 (6th Cir. 1999)). "The fundamental purpose of a liquidated damages provision is to provide a means of compensation in the event of a breach where damages would be indeterminable or otherwise difficult to prove." Id. (citing Guiliano v. Cleo, Inc., 995 S.W.2d 88, 98 (Tenn. 1999)). "Tennessee courts 'have long recognized the freedom of parties to agree upon terms that may not appear desirable to outsiders and the duty of the courts to refrain from interfering with the parties' agreement unless to enforce it would violate established public policy.'" Id. (quoting Anesthesia Med. Group v. Chandler, 2007 Tenn. App. LEXIS 73, 2007 WL 412323, at *9 (Tenn. Ct. App. Feb. 6, 2007)).

Tennessee courts "will uphold a liquidated damages provision if 'the liquidated damages specified were a reasonable prediction of what a breach would cost the injured party in light of circumstances at the time the contract was formed.'" Id. (quoting U.S. v. Ponnappula, 246 F.3d 576, 584 (6th Cir. 2001)) (emphasis added). "Therefore, 'the amount of actual damages at the time of breach is of little or no relevance to whether the clause is an impermissible penalty." Id. "Courts will not, however, enforce a liquidated damages provision 'if the stipulated amount constitutes a penalty.'" Id. (quoting Vanderbilt Univ., 174 F.3d at 755). "A penalty is 'designed to coerce performance by punishing default.'" Id. "Any doubt as to the character of a contract provision 'will be resolved in favor of finding it a penalty.'" Id.

(ii) Wyndham has the burden to establish that the liquidated sum was a reasonable prediction of damages

The parties also have not briefed which of them bears the burden of establishing the enforceability of the liquidated damages provision and, based on this Court's own research, it appears Tennessee Courts are split on the issue. This Court has found at least three Tennessee Court of Appeals decisions that placed the burden on the party seeking to enforce a liquidated damages clause to establish that the liquidated sum was a reasonable prediction of damages. See Patterson v. Anderson Motor Co., 45 Tenn. App. 35, 55-56 (1958) ("it is at least conceivable that had defendants elected to put on proof, they might have established as a fact that $2,000 was a reasonable sum to be allowed as liquidated damages ..."), Eatherly Construction Co. v. HTI Memorial Hospital, 2005 Tenn. App. LEXIS 575, at *28, 2005 WL 2217078, at *9 (Tenn. Ct. App. Sept. 12, 2005) (citing Guiliano v. Cleo, Inc., 995 S.W.2d 88, 100-101 (Tenn. 1999)) ("In the trial court, [the party seeking to enforce the liquidated damages provision] had the burden to establish that the liquidated sum was a reasonable estimate of potential damages"); Bachour v. Mason, 2013 Tenn. App. LEXIS 366, at *12-13, 2013 WL 2395027, at *5 (Tenn. Ct. App. May 30, 2013) ("It thus appears to us that the $75,000 was not based on any estimate of potential damages, but was just an arbitrary figure that Buyer plucked from thin air. There is no evidence to support his contention that the figure bears any relation to the potential damages he would likely have suffered ...").

And other courts have agreed that "any doubt as to the character of the [liquidated damages] provision will be resolved in favor of finding it a penalty." DiNardo, supra (citing Beasley v. Horrell, 864 S.W.2d 45, 48 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1993), overruled on other grounds by Guiliano, supra); see also Goggin Truck Line Co. v. Brake Pro, Inc. 2000 Tenn. App. LEXIS 563, at *10, 2000 WL 1183058, at *3 (Tenn. Ct. App. Aug. 22, 2000) (same).

But some courts have held that a challenge to the enforceability of a liquidated damages provision is an affirmative defense which places the burden on the party seeking to avoid the clause to prove that it is a penalty. See e.g. Shelbyville Hosp. Corp. v. Mosley, 2017 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 191466, at *44, 2017 WL 5586729, at *14 (E.D. Tenn. Nov. 20, 2017) (citing Anesthesia Med. Grp., P.C. v. Buras, 2006 Tenn. App. LEXIS 618, at *8, 2006 WL 2737829, at *3 (Tenn. Ct. App. Sept. 25, 2006)) (issue of enforceability of liquidated damages provision was held to be an affirmative defense).

In the absence of clear authority on the issue, the tentative ruling is that the better reasoned decisions put the burden on the party seeking to enforce a liquidated damages provision because that party is in the best position to establish that its liquidated damages provision was intended to be a reasonable prediction of damages and not to serve as a penalty.

(A) Wyndham has not established that the liquidated sum was a reasonable prediction of damages

In its opposition papers Wyndham argues that its Claims are well supported and that its evidence clearly establishes the enforceability of the liquidated damages provision. But, as discussed below, the tentative ruling is that Wyndham has not presented any evidence establishing that the $10,000 liquidated damages figure was a reasonable prediction of damages. In addition, Wyndham has not sufficiently established the basis for any multiplier that would transform $10,000 per breach of the 2015 Settlement Agreement into $25 million of damages.

As noted above, the 2015 Settlement Agreement is not attached in support of the Claims and nothing in the 2015 Settlement Agreement explains how the parties arrived at the $10,000 liquidated damages figure. The best evidence Wyndham offers to support its contention that $10,000 was a reasonable measure of its compensatory damages is that the parties agreed to that amount.

Wyndham highlights that paragraphs 4(c), 4(d), 4(e) and 4(f) of the 2015 Settlement Agreement provide for $10,000 in liquidated damages for each separate breach and violation and that the agreement specifically states: "[t]he parties agree that the liquidated damages provision is necessary and appropriate due to the difficulty in quantifying the degree of losses, damages or harm posed by a violation of this provision with any mathematical certainty." MacCase dkt. 528, pp.20:25-26:9 & AttitudeCase dkt. 196, pp.20:25-26:9. But the tentative ruling is that this evidence, on its own, is not enough to satisfy Wyndham's burden. See e.g. Eatherly Construction Co. v.

HTI Memorial Hospital, 2005 Tenn. App. LEXIS 575, at *27-28, 2005 WL 2217078, at *9 (Tenn. Ct. App. Sept. 12, 2005) ("While the fact the parties 'agreed' to the amount is relevant, and it is a factor to be considered in order to determine whether the amount was a reasonable estimate at the time the parties entered into the contract, that evidence – the parties' agreement – standing alone does not preponderate against the trial court's specific finding to the contrary").

For the same reasons the tentative ruling is also that Wyndham's 2020 Settlement Agreement with MacMillan and Martin is insufficient. In addition and alternatively, the tentative ruling is that such evidence carries little to no evidentiary weight for the reasons articulated by the Trustee in the claim objections (MacCase dkt. 522, pp.5:26-8:22 & AttitudeCase, dkt. 191, pp.6:5-8:26).

Wyndham also offers the declarations of its vice president, Michael Lazinsk, and David MacMillan in support of its opposition papers. But, as the Trustee highlights, Mr. Lazinski has not established that he has personal knowledge to testify about the subject matter in his declaration (MacCase, dkt. 538, p.9:5-27) and neither declaration offers anything more than legal conclusions regarding the reasonableness of the $10,000 liquidated damages figure. MacCase, dkt. 528 at PDF p.91, para. "(6)", dkt. 530, p.3, para. "(4)" & AttitudeCase dkt. 196 at PDF p.91, para. "(6)" & dkt. 197, p.3, para. "(4)". Neither of the parties to the settlement testifies to any facts that show how the parties arrived at the $10,000 figure or how that figure was a reasonable prediction of damages.

There is no testimony from Mr. Lazinsk that, for example, relying on past experience Wyndham calculated that each breach of the 2015 Settlement Agreement would result in an average of X months of non-payment to Wyndham of $Y in time share fees per month when one of its unit owners utilized MacMillan's services to transfer their timeshare interests to a so-called "Viking ship" entity, plus $Z of attorney fees or other damages per breach, all adding up to a "reasonable prediction" of $10,000 per breach of the 2015 Settlement Agreement. On its face, $10,000 of damages from every single time Debtors or their affiliates "solicit, contact or communicate with any Wyndham owners" regarding possible transfer of their timeshare interest appears to be an unbelievably high dollar amount. See 2015 Settlement Agreement, ¶ 4(c) (MacCase dkt. 516, Ex. H, at PDF pp. 151 et seq.).

This Court notes that Wyndham attempts to justify its $25,000,000 claim by highlighting that MacMillan previously testified that he successfully orchestrated the transfer of over 100,000 timeshare interests and generated fees estimated at more than $300,000,000. MacCase, dkt. 528, p.4, Fn.6, AttitudeCase, dkt. 196, p.4, Fn.6. But Wyndham's reliance on these figures is misplaced. Wyndham is improperly attempting to conflate the potential damages MacMillan's actions might have inflicted on consumers with Wyndham's own damages. Standing alone, these figures are meaningless because Wyndham does not include evidence tying those figures to its own damages.

Wyndham does not offer evidence establishing that, for example, but for MacMillan's interference, unit owners would have paid all of that money to Wyndham. Nor does Wyndham account for the fact that many of the alleged 100,000 timeshare interests about which MacMillan bragged were with timeshare businesses other than Wyndham.

Finally, Wyndham argues that a District Court's findings issued in connection with a default judgment Wyndham obtained against TimeShare Relief, Inc. in a different action (Cal. Dist. Ct. case no. 2:18-cv-09036-CJC-AFM) are preclusive on the Trustee's ability to challenge the enforceability of the liquidated damages provision. But Wyndham does not cite to any authority for that proposition. Among other things, Wyndham presumably would have to establish privity between the defendant in that action (TimeShare Relief) and the Trustee or the individual creditors of the MacMillan and Attitude estates, and this Court is not aware of any basis to find such privity, particularly when the Trustee apparently was not served with critical papers and was not on notice of any intent by Wyndham to use the default judgment in that case as a basis for preventing any challenge to its claim in this bankruptcy case.

For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that Wyndham has not carried its burden.

(B) Even if the Trustee bears the initial burden of proving that the liquidated damages provision is an unenforceable penalty, he has carried that burden

Alternatively, even if the Trustee bears the initial burden to prove that the liquidated damages provision is an unenforceable penalty, the tentative ruling is that he has satisfied that burden. This Court notes the difficulty for any party in having to prove a negative and in doing so parties often rely exclusively on circumstantial arguments and evidence to carry their burden. In this case, the Trustee highlights that Wyndham's own proofs of claim have grown exponentially over time and there is nothing in the 2015 Settlement Agreement or any evidence filed in support of the Claims explaining how the parties arrived at the $10,000 liquidated damages figure. The Trustee further highlights several facts and circumstances that call into question the reasonableness of that figure. MacCase, dkt. 522, pp.14:14-17:21 & AttitudeCase, dkt. 191, pp.15:1-18:5.

The tentative ruling is that this is sufficient to cast grave doubt about whether the $10,000 liquidated damages provision was simply a figure pulled from thin air and/or intended to punish parties for any future breaches. See Beasley, 864 S.W.2d at 48 ("when there is doubt whether a provision is intended to be liquidated damages or a penalty, the court must construe it as a penalty"). The tentative ruling is that the burden then shifted back to Wyndham to prove that it was not intended to be a penalty and, for the reasons set forth above, Wyndham has not carried that burden.

Therefore, the tentative ruling is to sustain the Trustee's objections and disallow damages arising from the liquidated damages provision without leave to amend.

(C) Wyndham has not carried its burden as to the other possible components of the Claims

As noted above, it is not clear from a review of the documents filed in support of the Claims whether Wyndham also seeks to recover (i) damages arising out of the Debtors' alleged failures to transfer timeshares to Wyndham and to pay the agreed-upon $375 per unit transferred along with unpaid maintenance fees, (ii) attorneys' fees, and (iii) interest. Wyndham's opposition papers do little to clarify these ambiguities. But, because the Trustee does not appear to object to allowance of these categories in some dollar amount but does object to the lack of evidence establishing what that amount should be (MacCase dkt. 522, pp.19:6-20:11 & AttitudeCase, dkt. 191, pp.19:17-20:24), the tentative ruling is to order the parties to mandatory mediation to address these unresolved issues and to discuss the possibility of a global resolution of the Claim Objections.

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 7/20/21 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 5/10/21. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Revised Tentative Ruling for 7/6/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion to Dismiss ("MTD") filed by Defendant Pravati Credit Fund III, LLP ("Pravati") (adv. dkt. 6) in Adv. No. 2:21-ap-01084-NB, Pravati's Request for Judicial Notice (adv. dkt. 7), Plaintiff/Debtor's Opposition (adv. dkt. 10), Pravati's Reply (adv. dkt. 11), Status Report (adv.dkt.12)

The MTD relates to Plaintiff/Debtor's First Amended Complaint ("FAC," Adv. No. 2:21-ap-01084-NB, adv.dkt. 2), which in broad terms seeks two forms of relief: enforcing the automatic stay and injunctive relief. The tentative ruling is to deny the MTD for the following reasons.

(i) Legal standards

The MTD seeks dismissal under Rule 12(b)(6) (Fed. R. Civ. P.), incorporated by Rule 7012 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). Under that rule, this Court must accept all factual allegations as true, provided that the complaint contains "sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face." Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009) (internal quotation marks omitted) (citing Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007)); Moss v. U.S. Secret Serv., 572 F.3d 962, 969 (9th Cir. 2009).

Determining whether a claim for relief is plausible is "a context-specific task that requires the reviewing court to draw on its judicial experience and common sense." Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 679. This Court must consider not only the complaint itself, but also any documents incorporated into the complaint and matters of which a court may take judicial notice. Tellabs, Inc. v. Makor Issues & Rights, Ltd., 551 U.S. 308, 322 (2007); United States v. Ritchie, 342 F.3d 903, 907-08 (9th Cir. 2003); Estate of Blue v. Cty. Of L.A., 120 F.3d 982, 984 (9th Cir. 1997). Compare Khoja v. Orexigen Therapeutics, Inc., 899 F.3d 988, 999 (9th Cir. 2018) (court "cannot take judicial notice of disputed facts" contained in public records).

(ii) Automatic stay

Pravati asserts that it has not violated the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(a)) because it "only pursued its judgment against non-debtor [Mr.] Witzer." MTD (adv.dkt.6), p.3:8 (emphasis added). That is flatly contradicted by the allegations in the FAC, which this Court must accept as true for purposes of this MTD.

For example, the FAC alleges that Pravati's counsel Mr. Chora took acts to collect Pravati's judgment from the proceeds of the Rodriguez litigation that is "held by" Debtor (not Mr. Witzer). See FAC, p. 3:19-22. In other words, Pravati attempted to enforce its judgment against Debtor's (not Mr. Witzer's) account receivable.

Pravati's attempt to enforce its judgment against Debtor's property appears to violate almost every subsection of the automatic stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a). The automatic stay bars the "enforcement, against the debtor or against property of the estate, of a judgment obtained before the commencement of the [bankruptcy case]" (11 U.S.C. 362(a)(2)), as well as "any act to obtain possession of property of the estate or of property from the estate or to exercise control over property of the estate (11 U.S.C. 362(a)(3)), as well as "any act to create, perfect, or enforce any lien against property of the estate" (11 U.S.C. 362(a)(4)), as well as "any act to create, perfect, or enforce against property of the debtor any lien to the extent that such lien secures a claim that arose before the commencement of the [bankruptcy case]" (11 U.S.C. 362(a)(5)), as well as "any act to collect, assess, or recover a claim against the debtor that arose before the commencement of the [bankruptcy case]" (11 U.S.C. 362(a)(6)).

Pravati's apparent interpretation of the statute is that the automatic stay does not apply because Pravati purportedly intended to pursue only Mr. Witzer, not Debtor. That is not the law, and it would make a mockery of the automatic stay. See generally In re Taggart, 139 S.Ct. 1795 (2019) (subjective good faith is not a defense to violation of statutory injunction).

The foregoing is enough by itself to deny the MTD with respect to the FAC's claims for violation of the automatic stay. But there is more.

The FAC alleges, and attaches evidence, that Pravati itself knew that its acts would have a negative effect on the value of Debtor's property. Its attorney, Mr. Chora, wrote that he knew that his course of action - informing opposing counsel in the Rodriguez litigation about Debtor's bankruptcy - would result in the "weakening" of Debtor's "case in Rodriguez," and used that as an apparent postpetition threat in attempting to enforce its judgment. FAC, p. 7:1-15 & Ex.D (at PDF p.31). This, again, appears to violate almost every subsection of the automatic stay.

(iii) Injunctive relief

The tentative ruling is that if there were any doubt that the automatic stay applies (which, so far as this Court can tell from the present record, there is not), that is all the more reason why Debtor must have the opportunity to prove that injunctive relief is warranted. Pravati has failed to establish that Debtor's claim for injunctive relief lacks plausibility.

Starting with the legal principles, it is well established that this Court can grant injunctive relief under 11 U.S.C. 105(a), including protection of third parties such as Mr. Witzer, to prevent interference with the reorganization process. See In re Canter, 299 F.3d 1150, 1155 (9th Cir. 2002) ("Section 105(a) contemplates injunctive relief in precisely those instances where parties are pursuing actions pending in other courts that threaten the integrity of a bankrupt's estate") (internal quotation marks and citations omitted); In re Family Health Servs., 105 B.R. 937, 943-45 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1989), vacated on other grounds, In re Family Health Servs., 130 B.R. 314 (9th Cir. BAP 1991).

The standard for such relief have been set forth by the Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit as follows:

[The] usual preliminary injunction standard applies to applications to stay actions against non-debtors under § 105(a). In granting or denying such an injunction, a bankruptcy court must consider [1] whether the debtor has a reasonable likelihood of a successful reorganization, [2] the relative hardship of the parties, and [3] any public interest concerns if relevant. [In re Excel Innovations, Inc., 502 F.3d 1086, 1096 (9th Cir. 2007).]

Debtor would not necessarily need to prevail on all of these elements at an evidentiary hearing. Applying the usual sliding scale for a preliminary injunction, Debtor could show either a combination of a reasonable likelihood of a successful reorganization and the possibility of irreparable injury or "that serious questions are raised and the balance of hardships tips sharply in [Debtor's] favor." Id. at 1093 (citation and internal quotation marks omitted).

Applying these legal standards to the facts alleged in the FAC, it seems not only plausible that Debtor could obtain at least some injunctive relief, it seems likely. First, to the extent that Debtor seeks to enjoin Pravati from seizing Debtor's own judgments and settlement proceeds, Pravati has not presented any evidence that it can unscramble the eggs: it cannot pursue any (indirect) interest that Mr. Witzer might have in the proceeds of Debtor's litigation without interfering with Debtor's own (direct) interest in that litigation (as an account receivable).

Second, and alternatively, even if Pravati could pursue Mr. Witzer alone (e.g., garnishing his wages or his draw from Debtor), Debtor might be able to prove that depriving Mr. Witzer of the fruits of his labors would seriously risk dooming any attempt by Debtor to reorganize. Not only is that alleged in the FAC (as Plaintiff/Debtor points out), but it is obvious on its face that depriving an attorney of the fruits of his labors might cause him to use his energies elsewhere and that might be catastrophic for this bankruptcy estate.

Of course, Debtor has not yet proven that these things are so - in future Debtor will have to present its evidence and satisfy the above-referenced legal standards before it can obtain any actual relief, and this Court might or might not actually grant any such relief. But in assessing the MTD the issue is not whether Debtor has already proven those things but whether it is "plausible" that Debtor could prove those things. Debtor easily meets that standard.

(iv) Purported free speech rights

The tentative ruling is that Pravati's assertion of First Amendment rights is unpersuasive. First, the FAC mostly alleges acts that do not have a speech component, so at best Pravati's defense would apply only to a portion of the FAC. For example, the FAC alleges that Pravati, in furtherance of its collection efforts, filed a Writ of Execution postpetition that lists Debtor (not just Mr. Witzer) as the judgment debtor against whom execution is being sought. See FAC (adv.dkt.2), p.9:12-15 & Ex.E (at PDF p.33). Pravati has not shown how any "free speech" is impinged by staying or enjoining such acts.

Second, even when the FAC focuses on communication - as with Mr. Chora's alleged communication with other counsel in the Rodriguez matter - that appears to be a verbal act, and akin to the types of "speech" that have been held not to be protected - e.g., harassing debt collection. For example, one of the cases on which Pravati relies notes that it no undue impingement on free speech to prohibit debt collectors from engaging in harassing conduct because:

(1) the speech [of bill collectors] is not highly protected; (2) the speech is "speech-plus," that is, it involves action beyond speech; and (3) countervailing interests, such as an individual's right to privacy, are involved. [Citing authority, inter alia, "allowing prohibition of speech amounting to conduct."]
* * *

Moreover, aside from these considerations, § 362 also involves protection of the judicial process itself. All bankruptcy statutes are designed to protect our economic system. ... Pure, otherwise protected speech could in appropriate circumstances result in a contempt finding because of this countervailing interest in protecting the judicial system. [In re Stonegate Security Svcs., Ltd., 56 B.R. 1014, 1018-19 (N.D. Ill. 1986) (citations omitted).]

True, Stonegate also held that, in the absence of some language presenting a clear and present danger of some significant interference with the debtor's reorganization, or with the functions of the bankruptcy court, § 362 cannot prohibit public criticism. [Id. at 1020]

But arguably that is precisely what Pravati did. Stonegate involved a truck passively parked outside of the debtor's business, with painted messages to the world about debtor's failure to pay debts, and a lack of any findings about any substantial effect on the debtor's business or any intent by the creditor to violate the bankruptcy laws or collect a prepetition debt. Id. at 1016 & 1020 n.3. In contrast, according to the FAC, this case involves an active intrusion by Pravati into a specific hearing in Rodriguez, and similarly active verbal acts and attempts by Pravati to collect from other personal injury cases on which Debtor's income relies, with the stated intent of enforcing a prepetition judgment, notwithstanding Debtor's bankruptcy case. See, e.g., FAC (adv. dkt. 2) pp. 7:7-12 and 8:21-23, and Ex. D at PDF p. 31.

In similar circumstances, posting a sign directing third parties to pay a creditor rather than a debtor was held not to be protected by the First Amendment. Rather, it was nothing more than "an attempt to collect a pre-petition debt to the detriment of the other unsecured creditors and in circumvention of the Debtor's legitimate effort to reorganize his financial affairs under the protection of this Court," in violation of the automatic stay. See In re Collier, 410 B.R. 464, 474-75 (Bankr. E.D. Tex. 2009) (distinguishing Stonegate). See also In re Andrus, 184 B.R. 311, 315 (Bankr. N.D. Ill. 1995) (same) ("When the intent of a sign displayed by a creditor is to coerce and harass the discharged debtor into paying the discharged debt, the sign is not protected speech") (citation omitted); In re Sechuan City, Inc., 96 B.R. 37, 42-44 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 1989). See generally, e.g., Clark v. Community for Creative Non-Violence, 468 U.S. 288, 293 (1984) ("Expression, whether oral or written or symbolized by conduct, is subject to reasonable time, place, or manner restrictions.") (citations omitted).

In sum, Pravati has not established that the First Amendment offers it any protection.

(iv) Conclusion as to MTD and this adversary proceeding

The tentative ruling is to deny the MTD in full. In addition, the tentative ruling is to stay this adversary proceeding temporarily, while directing the parties to a global mandatory mediation (as set forth below).

Proposed order: Plaintiff/Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of part "(1)(a)" of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(b) Debtor's Motion for Turnover of Estate Property (dkt. 119), Opposition of Pravati Credit Fund III LP ("Pravati") (dkt. 127), Debtor's Reply (dkt. 129)

The tentative ruling is that this Court cannot reach the merits of Debtor's turnover demand due to lack of proper service on all parties entitled thereto, and because an adversary is required. Nevertheless, the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to address with the parties some larger issues about how to resolve the turnover issues.

(i) Lack of service on Debtor's clients

Debtor asserts that its clients need not receive notice because their share of the escrowed funds is fixed pursuant to the retainer agreement. The tentative ruling is that this is insufficient, both because this Court can conceive of situations in which Debtor's clients might object and alternatively because Debtor's clients might object on grounds this Court has not conceived of.

For example, Debtor's clients, if they had notice of these proceedings, might assert that the 33 and 1/3% contingency fee should apply instead of the 40% contingency fee, or that Debtor's claimed expenses are excessive, or that the deduction for medical liens includes interest that would not have accrued but for unreasonable delays by Debtor or Pravati and that one of them should pay that interest charge; or any number of other objections. Therefore, the tentative ruling is that they must be served with any papers initiating any turnover proceedings. That leads to the next question: what proceedings are required.

(ii) Does section 542 or 543 apply?

The tentative ruling is that the Clerk of the Superior Court appears to be a custodian, so 11 U.S.C. 543 would apply and would require that Clerk to "deliver to the trustee any property of the debtor" 11 U.S.C. 543(b)(1). A "custodian" includes any "agent" appointed under applicable law "to take charge of property of the debtor for the purpose of enforcing a lien against such property" 11 U.S.C. 101(11)(C).

Alternatively, if section 543 did not apply for some reason then it appears that 11 U.S.C. 542 would apply, because it provides for the turnover of estate property by "an entity, other than a custodian, in possession, custody, or control, during the case, of property that the trustee may use, sell, or lease under section 363 of this title." 11 U.S.C. 542(a). The Bankruptcy Code defines the term "entity" as including any "governmental unit" and any "individual" or other "person" (11 U.S.C. 101(15) & (41)) so, regardless whether the Clerk of the Kern County Superior Court is acting as an arm of the Superior Court or independently, it appears that section 542 applies if section 543 does not.

In other words, the tentative ruling is that either section 542 or 543 governs. The tentative ruling is that it does not matter which because, either way, the following analysis appears to apply.

(iii) Adversary proceeding

Chapter 11

Under Rule 7001(1) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.), a "proceeding to recover money or property" is an adversary proceeding (with inapplicable exceptions) that must be initiated with a summons and complaint. The tentative ruling is that Pravati is correct that a proceeding under 11 U.S.C. 542 or 543 comes within Rule 7001(1). Cf. In re American Ambulance Service, Inc., 46 B.R. 658, 659 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1985) (treating motion for turnover as adversary proceeding in absence of objection by parties in interest).

The tentative ruling is that this Court cannot reach the merits of Debtor's demand for turnover in these circumstances, but that it is appropriate to address some broader jurisdictional and practical issues. Those are discussed below.

(iv) Abstention/relief from the automatic stay

This Court must consider jurisdictional issues, and can raise both mandatory and permissive abstention sua sponte. See 28 U.S.C. 1334(c)(2) (mandatory abstention) and (c)(1) (permissive abstention). See also 11 U.S.C. 105(a) and In re Meruelo Maddux Props., 2013 Bankr. LEXIS 4672 at *20-*21 (9th Cir. BAP Apr. 15, 2013) (court "has the power to permissively abstain from hearing any matter, sua sponte." (citation omitted)).

It appears that mandatory abstention might apply, because the interpleader action was commenced prepetition and appears to be a non-core proceeding that can be timely adjudicated in the Superior Court. Alternatively, it appears that permissive abstention might apply based on the traditional considerations (set forth below) and in particular because of the Superior Court's familiarity with the underlying dispute, the fact that it appears to be well along in its process of resolving that dispute, and the fact that it appears to have the necessary parties before it, including Debtor's own clients, who are not presently before this Court.

A non-exclusive list of common considerations includes the following:

- (1) the effect or lack thereof on the efficient administration of the estate if a Court recommends abstention,
- (2) the extent to which state law issues predominate over bankruptcy issues,
- (3) the difficulty or unsettled nature of the applicable law,
- (4) the presence of a related proceeding commenced in state court or other nonbankruptcy court,
- (5) the jurisdictional basis, if any, other than 28 U.S.C. Section 1334,

- (6) the degree of relatedness or remoteness of the proceeding to the main bankruptcy case,
- (7) the substance rather than form of an asserted core proceeding,
- (8) the feasibility of severing state law claims from core bankruptcy matters to allow judgments to be entered in state court with enforcement left to the bankruptcy court,
- (9) the burden of the bankruptcy court's docket,
- (10) the likelihood that the commencement of the proceeding in bankruptcy court involves forum shopping by one of the parties,
- (11) the existence of a right to a jury trial, and
- (12) the presence in the proceeding of nondebtor parties. [In re Azam, 2015 Bankr. LEXIS 1581 at *25–*26 (9th Cir. BAP May 8, 2015) (citing In re Tucson Estates, Inc., 912 F.2d 1162, 1167 (9th Cir. 1990)).]

Hand in hand with any consideration of abstention, it is typical to address whether to modify the automatic stay so that any non-bankruptcy litigation may proceed. The typical approach, embodied in the Local Form of order on such motions for relief from the automatic stay, is (A) to modify the stay to enable litigation as to who has what interests in the interpled funds, but not to permit any enforcement of any judgment against any property of the estate, for example, and (B) to assure that any determinations of non-bankruptcy rights and entitlements are subject to any superseding bankruptcy laws, such as any avoidance of Pravati's judgment lien as a preference under 11 U.S.C. 547.

For example, the State Courts could determine that, after the attorney fees owed to the party who did the interpleading, Debtor's clients own the dollar amounts set forth in Debtor's evidence (dkt. 129, Ex.4) and, as between Debtor and its clients, Debtor owns the rest (id.), but as between Debtor and Pravati, the latter has or does not have a consensual lien or a judgment lien and, under nonbankruptcy law, should receive 100% or 50% or some other fraction of Debtor's share. Then the parties presumably would return to this Bankruptcy Court to determine whether any aspect of bankruptcy law changes the outcome, such as avoidance of Pravati's judgment lien as a preference.

On the other hand, perhaps all of the foregoing is putting the cart before the horse, meaning that perhaps the turnover action and preference action and any other bankruptcy litigation should be resolved before determining whether to grant relief from the automatic stay. Among other things, this Court does not wish to burden the Superior Court with contentious and complex litigation over issues that might be mooted if Pravati ends up with no security interest and only a nonpriority unsecured claim to funds that must be turned over and that the bankruptcy estate can use for the benefit of all creditors and parties in interest (not just Pravati).

The tentative ruling is that all of these issues can be addressed either (A) in future proceedings regarding turnover, or avoidance of the alleged preference, or other proceedings in this Court, or else (B) in mediation. Accordingly, this Court does not anticipate delving into these issues at this time, but encourages the parties to think about these issues, which might be addressed in future proceedings.

(v) Conclusion as to turnover issues

The tentative ruling is to deny Debtor's turnover motion for the reasons set forth in parts "(1)(b)(i)" and "(iii)" of the foregoing tentative ruling, without prejudice to bringing the same claims as part of an adversary proceeding.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order on the foregoing motion via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of part "(1)(b)" of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(c) Sanctions

Plaintiff/Debtor has raised the issue of possible sanctions against Pravati for violations of the automatic stay. Potentially there are enormous sums at issue, and the tentative ruling is that the issue of sanctions must be included in the mandatory mediation because the parties might be unable to reach any sort of resolution while leaving this matter open. (The opposite also could be true, and nothing in this tentative ruling should be construed to dissuade the parties and the mediator from "carving out" the sanctions issues and resolving some or all other issues, if that is the most feasible approach. The only point is that it appears that, initially at least, the scope of the mediation should not exclude the sanctions issues because they are such a potentially large dollar amount of the parties' disputes, depending on what damages Debtor might be able to prove.)

To assure a level playing field, this Court encourages both parties to review the "Sanctions Table" posted on this Court's website, under Judge Bason's "Instructions/Procedures" (at www.cacb.uscourts.gov). See also Taggart, 139 S.Ct. 1795 (applying "traditional principles" of civil contempt, sanctions are warranted if there is no "objectively reasonable" ground of doubt as to whether creditor's conduct was barred) (citations omitted); and In re Goodman, 991 F.2d 613, 620-21 (9th Cir. 1993) (non-individual's violation of automatic stay subject to sanctions as "ordinary civil contempt," noting that this encourages "would be violators" to obtain "declaratory judgments" rather than imposing on debtors' estates "potentially unnecessary legal expenses in prosecuting stay violations") (citations and internal quotation marks omitted).

(d) Mandatory mediation

This Court is concerned that all of the foregoing disputes have the potential to result in expensive and lengthy litigation, and might also harm third parties (such as Debtor's clients, some of whom apparently have been waiting a long time already for their recoveries). The tentative ruling is to direct the parties to mandatory mediation, combined with the mandatory mediation in the adversary proceeding. The parties are directed to address whether some or all of Debtor's clients in the underlying litigation can, and should, be included.

Tentative Ruling for 10/1/19:

Appearances required. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address (1) a proposed timeline, and sequence, for discovery and court proceedings regarding the value of the Paramour and whether Bobs, LLC's second loan is secured or unsecured, and (2) whether this Court should set an evidentiary hearing regarding the value of the Paramour, or whether other procedures are appropriate, such as using a third party appraiser, selected jointly by the parties' own appraisers, who would be either appointed as this Court's own expert witness to assist this Court in assessing the parties' appraisals and testimony of their appraisers, or, alternatively, whose determination would be binding. Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 7/8/21:

Appearances required only as to items "(1)(a)" and "(1)(c)" below.

(1) Current issues

(a) Application of Dean G. Rallis, Court-appointed Agent ("Agent") to Employ Cushman & Wakefield as Real Estate Appraiser ("Cushman App.," dkt. 1437), Application for Order Setting Hearing on Shortened Notice (dkt. 1438), Order Setting Hearing on Shortened Notice ("OST," dkt. 1439), Notice re same (dkt.1442), Decl. re service (dkt.1443)

As set forth in the OST, the tentative ruling is to grant the Cushman App., subject to any opposition raised at the hearing.

(b) Motion of Bobs LLC ("Bobs") For Relief From The Automatic Stay ("R/S Motion," dkt. 936), Prior Responses by various parties in interest (dkt. 948-952), Bobs' Prior Reply (dkt. 958, 959), Joinder in Prior Response (dkt. 1005), Bobs' Supplement (dkt. 1413), Supp. Response of Dean G. Rallis, Jr., Court Appointed Agent ("Agent") (dkt. 1415), Agent's Evidentiary Objections (dkt. 1416), Supp. Joinder of The Bird Nest, LLC ("Bird") and the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Los Angeles and the California Institute of the Sisters of the Most Holy and Immaculate Heart of the Blessed Virgin Mary (collectively, "Church") (dkt. 1417), Scheduling Order (dkt. 1419), Participation request of Church (dkt. 1428), Participation Request of Deanna Stats (dkt.

Chapter 11

Appearances are not required on this matter. The docket does not reflect any opposition to the participation requests, and the deadline in the Scheduling Order has passed, so the tentative ruling is to grant the participation requests.

This Court recognizes that (i) Bobs' reply (dkt.958) questions the participants' standing and (ii) this Court has an independent duty to consider standing. But the tentative ruling is that the participants' briefing (dkt.1428) has the better arguments.

Proposed orders: The parties seeking each of the foregoing forms of relief are directed to lodge proposed orders via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(c) Ex parte communication

Judge Bason received an ex parte communication regarding the marketing of the Paramour that he intends to address with the parties on the record.

(d) The Bird Nest, LLC et al v. Hollister (Adv. No. 2:18-ap-01203-NB)

Appearances are not required on this matter. This adversary proceeding remains stayed. The tentative ruling is to continue this adversary proceeding status conference to 11/16/21 at 2:00 p.m.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 3/6/18.

(a) Bar date: 8/24/18 (dkt. 367, timely served per dkt. 383)

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement: TBD. See the revised "Procedures of Judge Bason" (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) (search for "Chapter 11: Plan").

(c) Continued status conference: 8/18/21 at 9:00 a.m. to be held contemporaneous with the trial on Bobs' R/S Motion. No written status report required. (But Pre-Trial Stipulation is due 8/9/21, and Pre-Trial Briefs and Motions in Limine, if any, are due 8/13/21, per Scheduling Order, dkt.1419).

(d) Limited Notice: A "Core Service List" has been established (see dkt.97, p.3:4-17, dkt.195), as modified by any updates (contact Debtor for latest list).

#5.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [UD]

vs
DEBTOR

Docket 7

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part and continue in part to 8/3/21 at 10:00 a.m. as set forth below.
Appearances are not required on 7/20/21.

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay.
See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, the tentative ruling is to grant relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Note regarding mootness: Judge Bason's standard tentative ruling is as follows. For three reasons the above tentative ruling that there is no stay does not moot requests for relief from whatever stay might apply. First, such alternative rulings are appropriate because (i) the very nature of tentative rulings is that this Court could be persuaded to depart from any one of them, and (ii) a final ruling on any one issue could be reversed on appeal. Second, even if there is currently no stay, that could change - e.g., if there is no stay because of dismissal of this bankruptcy case, such dismissal could be vacated and that might reimpose the stay even if there is a lack of adequate protection, or other grounds why the stay should not apply, and therefore the movant will suffer cognizable harm unless the issues are addressed now (Judge Bason regularly vacates dismissals based on stipulations or other good cause). Third, if the motion includes any request for relief as to past acts (annulment) or future cases (in rem relief), those things are still at issue even if there is no current automatic stay. See In re Aheong, 276 B.R. 233 (9th Cir. BAP 2002). For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to address the following issues.

Chapter 7

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Retroactive relief

Grant the request for retroactive annulment of the stay. See In re Nat'l Enviro. Waste Corp., 129 F.3d 1052, 1054-56 (9th Cir. 1997); In re Fjeldsted, 293 B.R. 12 (9th Cir. BAP 2003); and see also In re Williams, 323 B.R. 691, 697-702 (9th Cir. BAP 2005) (various issues involving annulment, and application of Fjeldsted), aff'd, 204 Fed.Appx. 582 (9th Cir. 2006), overruled on other issues, In re Perl, 811 F.3d 1120 (9th Cir. 2016) (scope of automatic stay).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

As to the requested relief that will remain effective notwithstanding any future bankruptcy case, continue the motion to the date and time set forth at the start of this tentative ruling, for service on the persons who executed the documents through which the movant asserts its interest in the property (sometimes referred to in the leasehold context as the "original lessee(s)"). Reasons: See LBR 4001-1(c)(1)(B). In addition, Judge Bason has due process concerns about granting such relief without service on the person(s) whose interests may be most directly affected. See generally Mullane v. Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co., 339 U.S. 306 (1950) (due process generally). In this matter, such persons appear to include: Victor Reza Valanejad.

Option for shortened time: This Court has selected a continued hearing date that contemplates shortened notice (per Rule 9006) but that date is conditioned on the movant (i) serving, on the day after the current hearing date, the motion papers and notice of the continued hearing date, and (ii) filing that notice and a proof of service no later than the next day. Alternatively, the movant may self-calendar a continued hearing on regular notice.

#7.00 Cont'd hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]
fr. 6/15/21

NATIONSTAR MORTGAGE LLC
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 31

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 7/20/21:

Appearances are not required on 7/20/21.

(1) Background

At the hearing on 6/15/21 this Court was persuaded to continue this matter based on the (untimely) oppositions filed by the Chapter 7 Trustee and Debtor. See dkt. 36, 37. This Court set deadlines for supplemental papers, which this Court has now reviewed. See dkt. 53, 54.

(2) Continuance, or order

The tentative ruling is to continue this matter to 8/17/21 at 11:00 a.m., concurrent with Debtor's motion to avoid lien (dkt. 39), provided that Movant is prepared to waive the requirements of 11 U.S.C. 362(e)(1). Movant is directed to file and serve notice of the continued hearing and a proof of service within 7 days after the hearing date.

In the alternative, the tentative ruling is that if Movant is not prepared to waive the requirements of 11 U.S.C. 362(e)(1), Movant may lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of the tentative ruling set forth below, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing:

(a) Deny relief under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1)

The tentative ruling is to deny the relief requested under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) because on this record this Court is prepared to find that Movant is adequately protected by a significant equity cushion.

Chapter 7

(b) Deny relief under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(2) and/or grant limited relief

The tentative ruling is to deny the relief requested under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(2) on the grounds that although this is a chapter 7 case and the Property is not necessary for an effective reorganization (11 U.S.C. 362(d)(2)(B)), Movant has not established that Debtor lacks any equity in the Property (11 U.S.C. 362(d)(2)(A) and (g)(1)) because Debtor has filed a motion under 11 U.S.C. 522(f) and might be able to establish that she can avoid Sulphur Mountain's lien which would free up equity in the Property.

In the alternative, the tentative ruling is that even if this Court were to find that Movant has carried its burden of proof under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(2), section 362(d) provides that this Court "shall" grant some form of relief, but this Court has discretion as to what form of relief to grant and the tentative ruling is to grant limited relief under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(2)(A) to require the Trustee and/or Debtor, as appropriate, to prosecute this case so as to figure out who holds what interests in the Property and then arrange either to pay those interests through a section 363 sale or pursue other available relief to administer the Property and assure that Movant (and other creditors) are paid. Based on the filed documents and records before this Court, all of that is happening, so the tentative ruling is that, even if relief "shall" be granted under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(2), no further relief is warranted at this time.

Note: Nothing in the foregoing tentative ruling shall be interpreted as a ruling regarding whether Debtor is required to obtain any authorization from this Court or consent from the Chapter 7 Trustee to list the subject Property for sale, or any other acts. This Court expresses no opinion on any such issues.

(3) Conclusion

If Movant is prepared to waive the time limit in section 362(e), the tentative ruling is to continue this matter as set forth above. If Movant serves a notice of continuance, that will be deemed a voluntary waiver.

Alternatively, the tentative ruling is (a) to deny the motion for relief from the automatic stay (without prejudice) or, alternatively, to the extent any relief is warranted, (b) rule that relief has already been accorded Movant in the form of progressing toward payment of Movant (and other creditors). No further relief is warranted at this time.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you

#2.00 Hrg re: First and final Application for Compensation
[File by Menchaca & Company LLP, Trustee's accountant]

Docket 173

Tentative Ruling:

Approve Menchaca & Company, LLP's fee application and authorize payment of $3,958.50 in fees and $23.54 in expenses, for a total award of $3,982.04. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Applicant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see the Posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing. Pursuant to Judge Bason's Procedures, hearings are now simultaneously (1) IN PERSON in the courtroom, (2) via ZOOMGOV video, and (3) via ZOOMGOV telephone. You are free to choose any of these options, except that evidentiary hearings/trials must be in person in the courtroom (unless otherwise ordered). You do not need to call Chambers for advance approval or notice. For ZoomGov instructions for all matters on calendar, please see the tentative ruling for the first matter on today's calendar (i.e., page 1 of the posted tentative rulings). Unless otherwise stated, appearances via CourtCall are no longer permitted.

#3.00 Status Conference re: Complaint to Declare Debt Non-Dischargeable
Purasant to 11 U.S.C. Secitons 523(a)(2, 4, 6)

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

(A) Current issues

This Court has reviewed the parties' Status Report (adv.dkt.4, 6). The parties are directed to address whether the non-response by Comstock Brewing Co. is any impediment to proceeding as set forth below.

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation

Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 8/3/21 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 5/10/21. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Joinder of parties/amendment of pleadings-deadline: 8/24/21

Discovery cutoff (for completion of discovery): 10/12/21.

Expert(s) - deadline for reports: N/A

Expert(s) - discovery cutoff (if different from above): N/A

Dispositive motions to be heard no later than: 11/30/21

Joint Status Report: 9/28/21.

Continued status conference: 10/12/21 at 11:00 a.m.

Lodge Joint Proposed Pre-Trial Order: TBD

Pretrial conference: TBD

Deliver trial exhibits to other parties and chambers, including direct testimony by declaration unless excused: TBD (for the format of exhibits and other trial procedures, please see the Procedures of Judge Bason (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "Trial Practice" BUT, at least during the COVID-19 shut down of the courtroom, also see the forms of order regarding video trials, posted on Judge Bason's portion of the Court's above-referenced web page)

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 7/20/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 7/20/21.

(A) Current issues

The Court has no issues to raise sua sponte at this time.

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

Matters of venue, jurisdiction, and authority have been determined and/or waived or forfeited at the hearing(s) on 2/9/21.

(2) Mediation

[Intentionally omitted]

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 12/7/20. The deadlines set in this Court's prior scheduling orders (adv. dkt. 10, 18), have been vacated pursuant to this Court's order extending the discovery deadline and continuing the trial (adv. dkt. 29). That order set new deadlines for discovery and for the filing of dispositive motions. New dates for the trial, pre-trial conference, deadline to file a joint pre-trial order, and the deadline to deliver trial exhibits will be set at the continued status conference.

(1) Current matters

(a) Related proceedings

The matters on calendar involve two related bankruptcy cases and associated matters: (a) In re Layfield & Barrett, APC, Case No. 2:17-bk-19548-NB ("L&B"); (b) In re Layfield, Case No. 2:18-bk-15829-NB ("Lay-Invol."); (c) Pimentel v. Layfield et al, Case No. 2:19-ap-01069-NB ("Pimentel Adv."), (d) Pachulski v. Layfield, Case No. 2:19-ap-01071-NB ("Pachulski Adv.").

(b) Motion for relief from the automatic stay (action in nonbankruptcy forum) (dkt. 567, the "R/S Motion") filed by Joseph Barrett and the Barrett Law Firm (collectively, "Barrett"), Trustee's opposition (dkt. 570) & request for judicial notice (dkt. 572), Barrett's reply (dkt. 573)

The tentative ruling is deny the R/S Motion, for the reasons stated in the Trustee's opposition papers, except as follows. The Trustee is directed to address whether there is a way to grant Barrett access to L&B's records, with appropriate safeguards and at minimal expense, so as to reduce the risk of potential prejudice to Barrett in having to defend the State Courts without the benefit of obtaining discovery from L&B.

Additional analysis:

Without limiting the generality of the tentative ruling to adopt the reasons set forth in the Trustee's Opposition, this Bankruptcy Court highlights the following issues. The Bankruptcy Court "shall grant relief from the stay" upon a showing of "cause." 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1). "'Cause' is determined on a case-by-case basis." In re Tucson Estates, Inc., 912 F.2d 1162, 1166 (9th Cir.1990).

In determining whether "cause" exists to grant relief from the automatic stay to allow a movant to pursue litigation in a non-bankruptcy forum, courts in the Ninth Circuit have examined the factors set forth in In re Curtis, 40 B.R. 795, 799–800 (Bankr. D. Utah 1984). See In re Kronemeyer, 405 B.R. 915 (9th Cir. BAP 2009); In re Plumberex Specialty Prods., Inc., 311 B.R. 551, 559–60 (Bankr. C.D. Cal.2004). Those factors have been set forth in the parties' papers. "[W]hile the Curtis factors are widely used to determine the existence of 'cause,' not all of the factors are relevant in every case, nor is a court required to give each factor equal weight." In re Landmark Fence Co., Inc., 2011 WL 6826253 at *4 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 9, 2011).

Barrett's reply argues that, just as this Bankruptcy Court granted relief from the automatic stay for Mr. Pimentel to be able to litigate against affiliated debtor Mr. Layfield, Barrett should be granted relief from the automatic stay to litigate against L&B. Reply (dkt.573), p.2:5-23. Although there are certainly parallels, there are some major differences between the two situations.

First, Mr. Layfield is an individual who can defend himself if he lacks the resources to hire an attorney in the Pimentel action in State Court, whereas L&B is an entity that can only appear through counsel. So granting the R/S Motion would require either that someone pay for an attorney for L&B or alternatively that L&B default. Either scenario would "prejudice the interests of other creditors" and also (in this administratively insolvent estate) administrative claimants. See Opp.(dkt.570), passim, and Reply, p.5 n.2 (quoting, inter alia, 7th Curtis factor).

Second, any alleged prejudice to Barrett from not having L&B as a cross-defendant appears to be more hypothetical than real. For one thing, there is no assurance that the State Courts would permit Barrett to add L&B as a cross-defendant at this apparently late stage. For another thing, all organizations can only act through individuals, and Barrett remains free to subpoena any individuals through whom L&B acted, such as any bookkeepers, any office managers, and any attorneys involved in the Pimentel matter or involved in management of L&B's finances, including Mr. Layfield (subject to any automatic stay, discharge injunction, Fifth Amendment privilege, or similar limitation). As for any claim that Barrett might have against L&B, Barrett has the same rights as any other creditor to file a proof of claim and, if the estate ever has any assets, receive his share.

Third, although Barrett asserts that he/it will suffer harm or prejudice if L&B is not required to defend them and Mr. Barrett is forced to "fund his own defense" (Reply, dkt.573, pp.3:20-4:2), Barrett has not cited any authority that a debtor in bankruptcy is required to expend resources (as an administrative priority) to pre-pay such indemnity claims. To the contrary, as noted by the L&B Trustee, elevating Barrett's claim for indemnity to an administrative expense, in this administratively insolvent case, would effectively force administrative claimants to fund the liquidation of a non-priority unsecured claim (while not doing the same for other claims). See Opp. (dkt.570), p.9:11-17. Like all creditors, Barrett is prejudiced by L&B's bankruptcy case, but as the saying goes, "you can't get blood from a stone." Moreover, instead of being elevated, there is a substantial possibility that Barrett's claim would be subordinated under 11 U.S.C. 502(e)(1) or 510(c), which would make any pre-payment of his indemnity claims, at the expense of other creditors and administrative claimants, particularly inappropriate. See Opp. (dkt.570), pp. 7:21-8:13 & nn.6-7 and pp.9:18-12:2 & n.9.

Of course, this Bankruptcy Court is mindful of the possibility that the State Courts might hold that L&B is so indispensable to the Pimentel litigation that such litigation cannot proceed without L&B (see Reply, dkt.573, p.3:3-17), and, in that hypothetical situation, evidence theoretically could become stale or there could be other prejudice to Mr. Pimentel, Barrett, and possibly others. But, again, all parties remain free to subpoena witnesses, and in addition the State Courts may well be able to bifurcate issues or proceed in other ways. Therefore, Barrett has not established a likelihood of any actual prejudice; and, in any event, on the record before this Bankruptcy Court there is far greater risk of prejudice to the bankruptcy estate, its fiduciaries, and all other creditors if the R/S Motion were to be granted.

For all of the foregoing reasons and the reasons stated in the Trustee's opposition papers, especially the potential harm to other creditors and administrative claimants and the "impact on the parties and the 'balance of hurt,'" the tentative ruling is to deny the R/S Motion. See Reply, p.5 n.2 (quoting, inter alia, 7th and 12th Curtis factors).

Proposed order: The Trustee is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Deadlines/dates. The L&B case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 on 8/3/17 and converted to chapter 11 on 8/11/17 (L&B dkt. 25). The Lay-Invol case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 case on 5/21/18 and an order for relief was entered on 12/12/18 (Lay-Invol dkt. 160, 161).

- (a) L&B Bar date: 2/5/18 (timely served, L&B dkt. 133, 157)
- (b) Lay-Invol Bar date: 4/12/19 (timely served, Lay-Invol dkt.180)
- (c) L&B Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD. Do not file or serve until further order of this Court.
- (d) Continued status conference: 8/3/21 at 11:00 a.m., concurrent with other matters. No written status report required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's anticipated settlement motion in main case (relating to Garcia v. Myllyla, Adv. No. 2:20-01098)

This Court continued the 1/26/21 and 6/15/21 hearings based on the representations of the parties that a settlement agreement was prepared and was being circulated for signatures. Debtor also represented to this Court that a motion under Rule 9019 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) would be forthcoming within a week of the settlement agreement's full execution. At the hearing on 6/15/21, counsel for Plaintiff in the adversary proceeding represented that serious medical issues were the cause of the delays, but that they were substantially better. Notwithstanding that report, as of the date this tentative ruling was prepared no settlement motion has been filed, nor is any activity reflected on the docket in the bankruptcy case or adversary proceeding.

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties are directed to address whether this Court should order a final continuance.

(b) Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs")

Debtor's amended MOR for 5/31 (dkt. 73) appears to have addressed the Court's concerns raised in this Court's tentative ruling for the 6/15/21 hearing.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 1/13/20.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's anticipated settlement motion in main case (relating to Garcia v. Myllyla, Adv. No. 2:20-01098)

This Court continued the 4/6/21 hearing on this matter to allow the parties an opportunity to complete settlement negotiations and for Debtor to prepare motion under Rule 9019 (Fed. R. Bankr. Debtor's recent MORs report that Debtor has not been making credit card payments because those accounts "have been blocked" postpetition. See, e.g., MOR (for 5/21) (dkt.72), at p.1, line 3, & PDF p.5. What does that mean?

How much does Debtor owe on these credit card accounts, and why is the total dollar amount not listed on line 24, with details in an attached Exhibit "E," as required by the instructions on the MOR? See id., p.2, line 24.

Debtor projects negative cash flow in June of $3,053.85. Id., p.3, line 37. Will Debtor be able to pay the overdue credit card bills, given that Debtor reports only $4,513.01 of cash on hand at the end of May (id., p.2, line 23)?

This case is nearly a year and a half old, and it appears that Debtor is either currently unable to pay ongoing expenses or is on the verge of being unable to do so. Is Debtor experiencing a "continuing loss to or diminution of the estate and the absence of a reasonable likelihood of rehabilitation," an "unexcused failure to satisfy [the MOR] reporting requirement," or other "cause" for dismissal or conversion of this bankruptcy case? See 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(1) and (4)(A) & (F).

Given the lack of any activity on the docket in the adversary proceeding or the bankruptcy case, as well as the lack of compliance with the MOR reporting requirements listed above, has Debtor willfully failed to appear on proper prosecution of this case? See 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1). Should this case be dismissed with a bar against being a debtor in any future bankruptcy case for a period of 180 days? See id.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 7/20/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 7/20/21.

(1) Current issues

This Court has reviewed Debtor's status report (dkt. 86). This Court has no issues to raise sua sponte at this time regarding the matters in the status report.

(a) Objection (dkt.85) of Towd Point Master Funding Trust 2018-PM27 ("Secured Creditor") to confirmation of chapter 11 plan (dkt. 58)

At a hearing on 4/27/21, this Court addressed a number of issues with Debtor's plan (dkt. 58) and noted that Debtor will need to file an amended Plan addressing those issues before this Court will authorize it to be served on all creditors; but this Court held off on setting a deadline for Debtor to file an amended plan (and has not set a confirmation hearing date) until it is clear whether Debtor will be able to obtain post-petition financing to fund repairs for the El Nido Property.

In view of the foregoing, the tentative ruling is that, to the extent Secured Creditor's objection pertains to Debtor's current plan, it is overruled as moot. And to the extent Secured Creditor's objection pertains to future plans, it is premature and therefore is denied as moot. All of the foregoing is without prejudice to Secured Creditor's rights to object to any future amended plans, on the same or different grounds as its current objection.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, denying the claim objection as moot. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

5/19/21, 5/26/21, 6/15/21, 6/29/21, 7/6/21

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 7/20/21:

Appearances are not required on 7/20/21.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's motion to sell substantially all of its assets ("Sale Motion," dkt. 61-65, 67), Opposition of Ruth Gonzales, Braubert Andres, and Guillermo J. Lopez Gutierrez ("Gonzales et al.") (dkt. 77), SubchapterV Trustee's response (dkt. 83), Joinder of Samuel Pearce Trust ("Pearce") (dkt. 86), Debtor's reply to Gonzales et al. (dkt. 88), Debtor's reply to SubchapterV Trustee's response (dkt. 95), Schedules to APA (dkt. 99), Stipulation/Order continuing hearing (dkt. 102, 104), Stipulation re form of APA and form of order (the "Global Stipulation," dkt. 120)

The tentative ruling is to grant the Sale Motion as provided in the Global Stipulation, and for the reasons set forth in this Court's 5/19/21 tentative ruling (copied below) and the additional reasons stated on the record at the prior hearings on the Sale Motion.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(b) Debtor's plan (dkt. 89), or other "exit strategy" for this case

This Court notes that Debtor filed what appears to be a placeholder plan on 5/6/21 (dkt. 89). The tentative ruling is to not set a deadline for Debtor to file an amended plan, nor to address any other exit strategy (e.g., dismissal), until after the sale has closed.

The tentative ruling is that the following issues must be addressed before any sale can be approved. On the one hand, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has established sufficient justification for a quick sale of substantially all of its assets without overbids, instead of the delays and expenses of attempting to market the assets and hold an auction, which likely would result in lower net recoveries. Likewise, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has established sufficient justification for a sale instead of attempting to accomplish the same transaction through a chapter 11 plan, again because of the projected delays and costs of the latter proceeding (although those disadvantages might be exaggerated, given the speed and efficiency that are possible in Subchapter V).

In addition, the tentative ruling is that any sale can be free and clear of liens and other interests under 11 U.S.C. 363(f). Although this Court is not persuaded that "applicable nonbankruptcy law" provides for a sale of substantially all assets to an insider free and clear of successor liability and other interests in the assets (section 363(f)(1)), or that a lack of objection is the same as "consent[]" (section 363(f)(2)) (dkt.59, pp.11:3-12:10), nevertheless section 363(f)(4) and (5) apply. Any purported lien or interest would qualify as "disputed" under section 363(f)(4), because of Debtor's lien searches, the lack of notice to Debtor of any other encumbrances or interests (other than Permitted Encumbrances), and the usual grounds for contesting any successor liability. Alternatively, this Court is persuaded that section 363(f)(5) applies because of the existence of "legal or equitable proceeding[s]" that could compel holders of any liens or other interests to accept a "money satisfaction," such as foreclosures and receiverships in which sales can be accomplished free and clear. As stated in the posted "Procedures of Judge Bason" (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) under "Common matters":

Regarding § 363(f)(5), the judge does not follow Clear Channel Outdoor, Inc. v. Knupfer (In re PW, LLC), 391 B.R. 25, 40 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2008). He has ruled that a sale free and clear is permissible under § 363(f)(5) whenever the interest at issue is subject to monetary valuation. See In re Trans World Airlines, Inc.,

322 F.3d 283, 290-91 (3d Cir. 2003) ("TWA") (because employees' claims were "subject to monetary valuation," debtor's assets could be sold free and clear of successor liability for such claims under § 363(f)(5)). Alternatively, the judge has ruled that "cramdown" is among the types of legal or equitable proceeding within the statute, or that Clear Channel is distinguishable in most cases under the rationale of In re Jolan, 403 B.R. 866 (Bankr. W.D. Wash. 2009), because holders of interests can be compelled in numerous other types of legal or equitable proceedings to accept a money satisfaction (which might be $-0- in the case of an interest that is entirely underwater). Those proceedings include a hypothetical foreclosure by one of the lienholders, or a receivership (which could be initiated at the behest of creditors or by the debtor itself). See Cal. Code Civ. Proc. ("CCP") §564(b)(9) (power to appoint receiver to sell property); CCP § 568.5 (receiver empowered to sell property as provided in CCP §§701.510 et seq.); CCP § 701.630 (extinguishment of liens); CCP § 701.680 (binding effect of sale). The judge respectfully disagrees with In re Hassen Imports P'ship, 502 B.R. 851, 860 et seq. (C.D. Cal. 2013) (hypothetical foreclosure sale did not qualify under section 363(f)(5)). See generally In re Catalina Sea Ranch, LLC (Case No. 2:19-bk-24467-NB), dkt. 122 (approving sale to insider, free and clear of successor liability).

On the other hand, (i) the insider nature of the proposed transaction requires greater scrutiny and (ii) unless the proposed sale is assured of generating funds sufficient to pay a meaningful dividend to nonpriority unsecured creditors, it does not appear appropriate to approve the proposed sale. This Court's reasoning is that, if a sale is a permissible substitute for a plan (under Braniff, Lionel, Walter, Continental Airlines, Coastal Indus., Abbots Dairies, etc. - see dkt.83, passim and especially pp.2:19-5:4 and 8:1-16:17), then this Court must consider whether the proposed transaction, if embodied in a proposed plan, would fail the tests for confirmation, and whether the proposed transaction would otherwise be contrary to the process and distribution scheme contemplated by the Bankruptcy Code. This approach is consistent with the definition of "cause" to dismiss or convert a case under 11 U.S.C. 1112: if no plan could be confirmed within any reasonable time frame, then this Court "shall" convert or dismiss the case. See 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4)(J).

The tentative ruling is that, if no meaningful dividend can be assured, then the proposed disposition of Debtor's assets would not satisfy the "fair and equitable" standard for confirmation of any plan, and it would be inappropriate to permit an "end run" around that standard, without even having an opportunity for creditors to vote (because there is no plan), while providing insiders with various benefits from the proposed transaction. In addition, there is insufficient assurance, on such shortened time, that the best interests of creditors test (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(7)) would not favor a chapter 7 liquidation.

Conversion to chapter 7 would preserve the integrity of the system by enabling an independent investigation and assessment. Specifically, it is possible that a chapter 7 trustee: (w) could either obtain a better sale price from the proposed buyer or competitors, (x) could investigate Debtor's vague assertions that unspecified "problems" (dkt. 59, p.3:20) transformed a business from one that "historically operated at a profit" (id., p.3:19) into one that allegedly "would require significant capital investment before it could even break even" (id., p.4:16-17), (y) could uncover claims against insiders, avoidance actions, or other sources of recoveries, and alternatively (z) could, at the very least, provide greater assurance that all "stones had been turned over" to explore whether the foregoing recoveries were possible.

In other words, the tentative ruling is that it is inappropriate to authorize a sale of substantially all assets, with the benefits and protections to insiders and the buyer of releases and cutting off potential successor liability and other claims, unless a meaningful dividend to nonpriority unsecured creditors can be assured. True, conversion or dismissal of this case might produce smaller, not greater, chances of any meaningful recoveries. But the tentative ruling is that the integrity of the system requires either the protections of a chapter 7 trustee or, alternatively, assurance of a meaningful distribution to nonpriority unsecured creditors. Absent the latter, the tentative ruling is that this Court cannot approve the proposed quick, no-voting, no-overbid sale to insiders with releases and a transfer of assets to them free and clear of successor liability.

(b) Plan (dkt. 89)

The tentative ruling is that, although Debtor's Plan is essentially a blank slate, the details of which Debtor proposes to supply after the (hoped for) approval of the Sale Motion, that is sufficient under the circumstances. The tentative ruling is not to take any further action with respect to the Plan at this time.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 7/20/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's apparent inability to proceed in chapter 11

In view of this Court's order granting junior lienholder NDF1, LLC's motion for relief from stay (dkt. 86) and based on this Court's review of Debtor's status report (dkt. 90), the tentative ruling is to dismiss this case without further notice, based on this Court's procedures order issued at the inception of this case. See dkt.14 (timely served, dkt. 21, amended by dkt. 22). The grounds for dismissal, under 11 U.S.C. 1112, are as follows.

It appears that Debtor is unable to propose a feasible plan or other path forward. Specifically, Debtor has not provided any math to show that he can afford to pay the roughly $5,077.54 in proposed plan payments (dkt. 90, pp.9-12), plus living expenses (dkt. 12, pdf pp.25-26), nor does it appear that he could do so, given that his average monthly income for March, April & May 2021 was roughly $6,080 (see dkt. 55, 75 & 84) and Debtor states that his income will be lower every November-January (dkt. 90, p.4:22-27).

Alternatively, if Debtor seeks to oppose dismissal, the tentative ruling is to continue the status conference as set forth below (see Section (2)(d)) with a deadline of 7/27/21 for Debtor to file and serve on all creditors (i) a copy of this tentative ruling and (ii) supplemental papers addressing the issues set forth above.

(b) Debtor's Application to employ special litigation counsel (dkt. 45, "Employment Application"), Order setting hearing on Employment Application (dkt. 67), Notice of hearing (dkt. 71), late Response and Application for relief from deadline (dkt. 76, 77)

Tentative Ruling for 6/15/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 6/15/21.

(1) Current issues

(A) Debtor's Application to employ special litigation counsel (dkt. 45, "Employment Application"), Order setting hearing on Employment Application (dkt. 67), Notice of hearing (dkt. 71), late Response and Application for relief from deadline (dkt. 76, 77)

Debtor's very belated response (dkt. 76) refers vaguely to "conflicting trial, vacation/holiday and travel schedules" that "delayed" the ability of Debtor's general bankruptcy counsel and proposed special counsel filing the response due 6/1/21 until the night of 6/11/21. Dkt.77, p.5:18-24. That is too vague an excuse, and counsel for Debtor is cautioned that in future she must request any extension before the deadline has expired, or alternatively provide an adequate excuse for being unable to do so.

Nevertheless, the tentative ruling is to excuse Debtor's non-compliance with this Court' prior deadline and provide Debtor with an opportunity to address the following issues. As this Court understands Debtor's position, he alleges that he entered into a modification of the first deed of trust ("DOT") on his home based on his understanding that the second DOT (a HELOC) had been canceled or otherwise forgiven, and Debtor paid the first DOT for "ten years" in reliance on the absence of the second DOT, but instead the HELOC turns out to be a "zombie" loan. See dkt. 29, p.2, and dkt.76, p.3:10-21. While Debtor was paying the first DOT, the second DOT obligation of "approximately $150,000 grew to nearly $300,000." Id.

Debtor now proposes to spend up to an estimated $40,000 to attempt to obtain cancellation of some or all of the debt secured by the second DOT. Id. On the one hand, that appears to be admirably efficient for this type of litigation, and if the litigation is successful then it could generate a substantial net benefit for Debtor.

On the other hand, creditors appear to be the losers in this scenario. Debtor proposes to spend up to $40,000 or more to litigate undisclosed legal theories that might have zero or minimal chance of success; and even if Debtor succeeds he will gain equity in his home that, presumably, he will seek to exempt. If Debtor's cash flow is used to fund this litigation, it appears that he will have little if anything left over to pay creditors (although it is unclear whether Debtor can obtain more monthly income by increasing his "draw" from his business). See bankruptcy schedules "I" & "J" (dkt.12, pp.23-26, and dkt.46, pp.2-4).

A review of the dollars at issue will illustrate. Debtor's amended bankruptcy schedule "D" lists the value of the home as $750,000 encumbered by a first DOT of $420,000 and a second DOT of $305,000. See dkt.12 at PDF pp.15-16, items 2.3 & 2.4. If, for example, Debtor spends $40,000 and obtains exempt equity of $150,000, then creditors will have lost out of $40,000 and will gain nothing in return.

It is possible that Debtor will propose a chapter 11 plan that adequately discloses the cost/benefit analysis and would share some of the net benefits of any success, or that would otherwise be a suitable use of the bankruptcy system. Such a plan could include full disclosure of the legal theories underlying Debtor's proposed litigation, so that creditors could make their own assessment of the cost/benefit of Debtor's proposed course of action, and if they vote in favor of continuing Debtor's litigation then presumably the plan could be confirmed. Otherwise, Debtor might have to pursue other alternative.

Based on all of the foregoing, the tentative ruling is to continue the hearing on the motion to employ special counsel to 7/20/21 at 1:00 p.m. with a deadline of 7/6/21 for Debtor either to file (and NOT serve on anyone except the United States Trustee and anyone requesting special notice) a chapter 11 plan and disclosure statement that explains why the proposed litigation is a good idea for creditors to vote for, or alternatively for Debtor to file (and serve on the same persons) a brief and supporting declaration(s) addressing the issues set forth above (in which event the deadline to file a draft plan and disclosure statement would remain at 9/3/21, as previously set by this Court).

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 7/20/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Pretrial Conference on Debtor's Motion for Order Disallowing the 2014 Assessment for the Tax Year 2009 Set Forth in Proof of Claim Number 5 (dkt. 155); Opposition of the Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") (dkt. 268); Debtor's Reply (dkt. 269); Scheduling Order (dkt. 284); Stipulation Amending Scheduling Order and Order Thereon (dkt. 332, 334); Pre-Trial Stipulation (dkt. 382)

The tentative ruling is to approve the pre-trial stipulation and direct the parties to address what deadline to set for motions in limine. In addition, based on an inquiry from chambers, the parties have reported that they intend to proceed with trial in person, with masks if required by the Court. The tentative ruling is to proceed in that manner.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order regarding the foregoing issues via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Note: This Court notes that a Chapter 11 Trustee has been appointed. See dkt. 370, 374. This Court has considered whether that deprives Debtor of standing to prosecute the claim objection, but the tentative ruling is that Debtor has standing in view of (i) potential nondischargeability issues, (ii) potential solevency issues, and (iii) the lack of any objection by the Trustee.

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

Matters of venue, jurisdiction, and authority have been determined and/or waived or forfeited (adv. dkt. 9, p. 4, para. "(F)").

(2) Mediation

[Non-standard provision.] The tentative ruling is not to order mediation at this time. This Court recognizes that the parties both expressed an interest in mediation as of the filing of that status report (adv. dkt. 14) on 4/19/21. But thereafter, in connection with more global mediation, The Law Offices of Lynn Chao, APC ("ChaoLaw") did not reach any settlement, and ChaoLaw faces ongoing contempt sanctions regarding discovery in a related proceeding in this case. Accordingly, it appears that ordering ChaoLaw to mediation in this adversary proceeding likely would be a waste of time and money.

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 12/7/20. [The deadlines have been memorialized in this Court's scheduling order (adv. dkt. 7), except for the following, which need no written order.]

#8.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Complaint for Avoidance and Recovery of Preferential Transfers [11 U.S.C. Sections 547(b), 550(a) and 551] fr. 2/9/21, 5/4/21

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 7/20/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 7/20/21.

(A) Current issues

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv. dkt. 11) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences (except as noted below). (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

Matters of venue, jurisdiction, and authority have been determined and/or waived or forfeited (adv. dkt. 9, p. 4, para. "(F)").

(2) Mediation

[Non-standard provision.] The tentative ruling is not to order mediation at this time, for the reasons stated in this Court's 5/4/21 tentative ruling (copied below).

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 12/7/20. The deadlines have been memorialized in this Court's scheduling order (adv. dkt. 7), except for the following. The tentative ruling is to direct Plaintiff/Trustee to lodge a supplemental scheduling order via LOU within 7 days after the

Lodge Joint Proposed Pre-Trial Order: 11/2/21

Pretrial conference: 11/16/21 at 2:00 p.m.

Trial commencement: This Court has not yet finalized its hearing dates for 2022, but anticipates setting a trial date at the continued status conference for sometime in January/February 2022.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see the Posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing. Pursuant to Judge Bason's Procedures, hearings are now simultaneously (1) IN PERSON in the courtroom, (2) via ZOOMGOV video, and (3) via ZOOMGOV telephone. You are free to choose any of these options, except that evidentiary hearings/trials must be in person in the courtroom (unless otherwise ordered). their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

Matters of venue, jurisdiction, and authority have been determined and/or waived or forfeited (adv. dkt. 9, p. 4, para. "(F)").

(2) Mediation

[Non-standard provision.] The tentative ruling is not to order mediation at this time. This Court recognizes that the parties both expressed an interest in mediation as of the filing of that status report on 4/19/21. But thereafter defendant Young Young Food, LLC ("YYF") failed to appear at a hearing on 4/27/21 on a motion regarding contempt sanctions regarding discovery in a related proceeding in this case. Accordingly, it appears that ordering YYF to mediation in this adversary proceeding likely would be a waste of time and money.

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 12/7/20. [The deadlines have been memorialized in this Court's scheduling order (adv. dkt. 7), except for the following, which need no written order.]

#1.00 Hrg re: Motion to Avoid Lien Judicial

Lakeview Petroleum

Docket 40

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

The tentative ruling is to grant the motion for the reasons set forth in the motion and Debtor's reply, and the fact that even supposing the initial service was insufficient, (a) Debtor subsequently appears to have served the respondent in the fashion that respondent suggests is required, and (b) this Court has discretion to shorten time under Rule 9006 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) such that the subsequent service is timely, and it appears appropriate to shorten time because (i) respondent has not alleged any defense on the merits or any actual prejudice arising from not having been served in the manner it argues was required, and (ii) continuing this hearing (so that time would not have to be shortened) would not appear to accomplish anything except increasing the expense and time spent by both parties.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

#2.00 Hrg re: Motion for Order Determining Value of Collateral
[11 U.S.C. §506(a), FRBP 3012)

Docket 19

Tentative Ruling:

Continue to 9/9/21 at 8:30 a.m. to address the following issues. Appearances are not required on 7/22/21.

Reasons:

Appraisal; date of valuation. The junior lienholder has requested (dkt. 25) additional time to obtain an appraisal. Debtor is directed to provide reasonable access for that purpose. The junior lienholder is directed to file and serve the appraisal at least 14 days before the continued hearing. Note: Judge Bason's tentative ruling is to require valuations at or near the petition date. See In re Gutierrez, 503 B.R. 458 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2013).

At the continued hearing the parties should address how they propose to resolve their disputes - e.g., (i) with an evidentiary hearing; (ii) with a court ruling based solely on the written record (to save costs, if all parties consent), (iii) through mediation, or (iv) through appointment of an appraiser (jointly selected by the parties/their appraisers) as the court's own expert under FRE 706.

Chapter 13

#4.00 Hrg re: Motion Objecting to Claim No 1-1 on the Bankruptcy Court's Claims Register of Trinity Financial Services LLC, Request Claim to be Disallowed

Docket 29

Tentative Ruling:

Statement re Revised Tentative Ruling for 7/22/21:

The only revision to the tentative ruling posted on 7/21/21 at approximately 12:16 p.m. is to add the word "not" (emphasized below) in the following excerpt from part "(5)" of the tentative ruling:

True, it is possible that other paragraphs of section 1632(b) might apply. See, e.g., section 1632(b)(4) ("Notwithstanding paragraph (2), ..."). But Debtor does not argue the application of any such other paragraphs. [Emphasis added.]

Revised Tentative Ruling for 7/22/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Background

The facts are not entirely clear, but they appear to be as follows. Debtor obtained what he allegedly thought was a single loan from First Magnus Financial Corporation ("Magnus"). In fact, the loan documents apparently reflected two loans from Magnus: one secured by a first lien, which Debtor has been paying, and another loan secured by a second lien, for which Debtor was never sent monthly statements or other communications, and on which he made no monthly payments for many years.

More recently, the successor in interest as holder of the junior loan, Trinity Financial Services, LLC ("Trinity"), has initiated collection efforts. Debtor attempted to enter into a loan modification, and made three payments of $600.00 as part of that attempt, but no loan modification was made and Trinity initiated foreclosure proceedings.

Debtor filed this bankruptcy case to stop the foreclosure and address his financial obligations. Debtor has now objected to Trinity's claim.

Chapter 13

(2) An adversary proceeding may be required, because of some of the arguments in the claim objection

Trinity asserts (dkt. 34, pp.1:24-25 and 3:16-22) that Debtor's claim objection must be brought in the form of an adversary proceeding, and Trinity asserts that it has been prejudiced by not having the amount of time to respond that it would have in an adversary proceeding. Trinity appears to be correct that an adversary proceeding is required.

Trinity argues that the objection seeks "to determine the validity, priority, or extent of a lien or other interest in property" within the meaning of Rule 7001(2) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) (emphasis added). As Trinity points out, no party in interest may "include a demand for relief of a kind specified in Rule 7001 in an objection to the allowance of a claim, but may include the objection in an adversary proceeding." Rule 3007(b) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

On the one hand, most of Debtor's arguments focus on the promissory note held by Trinity, not its lien, so those portions of Debtor's claim objection would not appear, by themselves, to require any adversary proceeding. On the other hand, part of Debtor's claim objection argues that the lien securing the promissory note has been "extinguished by the lapse of time" (dkt. 29, p.7:14) and that enforcement of any power of sale "is barred by the Statute of Limitations." Id., p.8:20-21. The latter arguments do appear to challenge the "validity" of the lien and therefore, if Debtor presses forward with those arguments, an adversary proceeding appears to be required.

(3) It is unclear whether Debtor will proceed with the arguments challenging the validity of the lien, so an adversary proceeding might not be required

Debtor's arguments for a time bar appear to rest on the assumption that the "last transaction and payment occurred on December 7, 2006, well past the [alleged statute of limitations period]." Claim Obj. (dkt. 29), p.9:7-9. But, according to Trinity, Debtor made three payments of $600.00 each, received on June 3, 2020, June 29, 2020, and July 28, 2020, "as part of an unsuccessful loan modification application." Trinity Resp. (dkt. 34), p.2:5-8 and attached Madden Decl. para.4.

Therefore, it appears that Debtor the time bar arguments might be moot, unless Debtor can amend his arguments to address why those three $600.00 payments should not count. In other words, on the present record, it appears that there is a possibility that no adversary proceeding will be required. For that reason, and for the sake of completeness, this tentative ruling proceeds to address the parties' other arguments.

(4) Burden of proof

Regarding burdens of proof, the parties are referred to prior decisions discussing the shifting burdens. See In re Orozco, 2017 WL 3126797 (Bankr. C.D. Cal.) (Case No. 2:13-bk-15745-NB, dkt. 132), and In re Beoglyan (Case No. 2:13-bk-22883-NB, dkt. 141).

(5) The California Translation Act appears to be applicable, but Debtor appears not to have any feasible remedy under that act

Debtor alleges that the loan was negotiated in Spanish but he was not provided with a Spanish translation of the loan documents. He argues that this violated the California Translation Act (Cal. Civ. C. 1632 et seq.). See Objection (dkt. 29), pp. 4:1-5:10.

Trinity responds that this act "specifically exempts loan transactions secured by real property. See California Civil Code Section 1632(a)(2) [sic]." Trinity Resp. (dkt. 34), p.2:19-22. Trinity apparently means section 1632(b)(2) (section 1632(a)(2) contains legislative findings of fact about the diversity of languages in California).

Section 1632(b) provides that any person engaged in a business who negotiates various types of contracts or agreements primarily in Spanish shall deliver to the counterparty (Debtor) "a translation of the contract or agreement" in Spanish. One such type of contract or agreement is for a loan "secured other than by real property." Section 1632(b)(2) (emphasis added).

True, it is possible that other paragraphs of section 1632(b) might apply. See, e.g., section 1632(b)(4) ("Notwithstanding paragraph (2), ..."). But Debtor does not argue the application of any such other paragraphs.

Accordingly, on the current record it appears that section 1632 is inapplicable. In addition, Trinity argues that the remedy under that act (Cal. Civ. C. 1632(k)) is for the aggrieved person to "rescind" the contract or agreement, and this "requires that the Debtor be able to tender payment in full to [Trinity]," which Debtor has not offered to do. See Trinity Resp. (dkt. 34), pp.2:23-3:2 (citing authority). On the present record, this also appears to be accurate.

In passing, Debtor cites section 1632.5, which does apply to mortgage loans. But by the statute's own terms any action for violation of that section "may only be brought by a licensing agency or by the Attorney General," and that section "shall not be construed to create or enhance any claim, right of action, or civil liability." Cal. Civ. C. 1632.5(k) and (l).

For the foregoing alternative reasons, it appears that Debtor cannot successfully object to Trinity's claim based on the California Translation Act.

(6) Other objections

Debtor objects that Trinity (and its predecessor in interest, Magnus) violated the "Periodic Statement Rule" by not sending monthly statements. See Claim Obj. (dkt.29), pp. 5:11-6:11. Debtor also argues that a 10-day notice of default required by the parties' contract was not sent (id., p.4:20-25), that the claim upon the promissory note was abandoned and therefore is unenforceable (id., p.6:12-27), and that Trinity's claim should be barred by the doctrine of laches. Id., pp. 8:22-9:4.

Trinity responds that "the periodic statement rule does not apply to Trinity, because Trinity is a small servicer within the meaning of 12 CFR Section 1026.41(e)(ii)" and alternatively that Debtor "has waived his ability to enforce the periodic statement rule by tendering payments in 2020." Trinity Resp. (dkt. 34), p.3:3-9. As for laches, Trinity argues that "Debtor's proffer of payments for a proposed forbearance make such an argument moot." Id., p.3:10-11. Trinity does not respond to the alleged failure to send a 10-day notice of default.

The tentative ruling is that these factual and legal issues have not been fully briefed and addressed. Accordingly, this tentative ruling expresses no views on these issues at this time.

(7) Mediation

The tentative ruling is to order the parties to mandatory mediation. Not only is mediation helpful in many matters, but this particular matter appears to include both factual and legal issues that are somewhat complex and could involve substantial costs and delays for both sides if they were fully litigated. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 8/5/21 to lodge a proposed mediation order.

Meanwhile, the tentative ruling is not to adopt any of the other tentative rulings set forth above, and instead to preserve both parties' rights on all issues, and to continue this hearing to 9/9/21 at 8:30 a.m. If the parties have not reached an agreement by that continued hearing, this Court anticipates setting a schedule for filing any appropriate papers.

Tentative Ruling for 7/22/21:

Appearances required.

The Court continued the 5/20/21 hearing on this matter to this date to allow claimant to commence an adversary proceeding and/or to allow the parties to negotiate the terms of a loan modification. As of the date this tentative ruling was prepared, no proposed loan modification has been filed with the Court. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address the status of these discussions.

Chapter 13

The Court continued the 1/21/21 hearing on this matter to 3/18/21 to allow claimant to commence an adversary proceeding and/or to allow the parties to consensual resolution. On 3/16/21, this Court entered an order approving the stipulation by the parties to continue the 3/18/21 hearing to this date. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address the status of their negotiations and/or whether claimant intends to initiate the aforementioned adversary proceeding.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing. Pursuant to Judge Bason's COVID-19 procedures, all appearances are via ZoomGov. For ZoomGov instructions for all matters on calendar, please see the tentative ruling for the first matter on today's calendar (i.e., page 1 of the posted tentative rulings). Unless otherwise stated, appearances via CourtCall are no longer permitted.

Tentative Ruling for 1/21/21:

Continue to 3/18/21 at 8:30 a.m. so that claimant can commence its contemplated adversary proceeding or the parties can reach a consensual resolution. Counsel for Debtor is cautioned about the need to exercise reasonable judgment in how much to expend in paying attorney fees instead of paying creditors. Appearances are not required on 1/21/21.

(1) Reasons for continuance

This Court has reviewed Debtor's motion (dkt. 23), the claimant's opposition (dkt. 30), and Debtor's reply (dkt. 31). Although Debtor's reply argues that the claimant has not cited authority, that puts the cart before the horse. Debtor is the objecting party and Debtor has not cited any authority that a deed of trust on real property is void or unenforceable as a matter of law when it includes the correct street address and a conflicting legal description for a particular parcel.

Alternatively, even if Debtor did not need to cite any such authority (which is incorrect), this Court's understanding of California law is contrary to Debtor's position. Based on unrelated litigation before this Court, the general rule appears to be that a transfer of an interest in property "is not void for uncertainty because of errors or inconsistency in some of the particulars of the description" if it is possible "from the whole description to ascertain and identify the land intended to be conveyed." Gyurec v. Bank of New York Trust Co., NA (Cal. Ct. App., 4th Dist., 2014) (unpublished, Case No. No. G050083) (quoting Leonard v. Osburn, 169 Cal. 157, 160 (1915)) (correct street address sufficient for deed of trust's validity, even though it incorrectly described property as located in "Township 4 North" instead of Township 4 South"). See also Cal. Code Civ. P. 2077 ("Where there are certain definite and ascertained particulars in the description, the addition of others which are indefinite, unknown, or false, does not frustrate the conveyance, but it is to be construed by the first mentioned particulars.").

Based on the foregoing, it appears appropriate to continue this hearing for the parties either to litigate the issue or, perhaps, agree to a consensual resolution.

(2) Expenditure of funds on attorney fees

Given the apparent principles of California law (summarized above), Debtor's counsel is reminded of the need to do a cost/benefit analysis in determining whether it is worth expending funds on attorney fees that otherwise would go to pay creditors. Debtor's counsel is reminded that the posted "Procedures of Judge Bason" (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) state:

§ 502: claim objections & cost/benefit analysis. When objecting to claims, be sure to include an analysis of whether the costs of preparing and litigating the claim objection (administrative expenses) do not exceed the anticipated benefits (reductions in claims). For example, if the anticipated dividend is small or 0% then the attorney fees incurred in prosecuting your claim objection to any general unsecured claim probably will exceed the benefit to the bankruptcy estate/debtor, so filing that objection would be a waste of the bankruptcy estate's (and everyone else's) resources (unless, for example, the claim is nondischargeable, in which event the attorney fees might well be justified).

Debtor's claim objection does not include any cost/benefit analysis. If Debtor decides to continue with the claim objection, this Court will set a deadline at a future hearing for Debtor's counsel to file a cost/benefit declaration.

Revised Tentative Ruling for 7/22/21:

Note: This revised tentative ruling amends the previously published tentative ruling (posted on 7/21/21 at approximately 12:16 p.m.) to state the proper date for the continued status conference.

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's Motion to Extend Exclusivity Period for Filing a Chapter 11 Plan and Disclosure Statement (dkt. 148); Application for Order Shortening Time (dkt. 149); Order Provisionally Granting Application and Setting Hearing on Shortened Notice ("OST," dkt. 150), Notices (152, 153, 156, 157), Opposition of Pravati Credit Fund III LP ("Pravati") (dkt. 160)

The tentative ruling is to grant an extension of exclusivity through 11/30/21, without prejudice to seeking further extensions, in view of (i) Pravati's postpetition interference with Debtor's collection of its accounts receivable, which at the very least hindered Debtor's ability to establish a track record of financial performance on which to base any proposed plan of reorganization, (ii) this Court's recent decision to order the parties to mandatory mediation and, meanwhile, stay all proceedings, and (iii) the arguments set forth in the parties' papers and in the OST (dkt. 150).

THE BANK OF NEW YORK MELLON
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 47

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Docket 36

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, the tentative ruling is to grant relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Note regarding mootness: Judge Bason's standard tentative ruling is as follows. For three reasons the above tentative ruling that there is no stay does not moot requests for relief from whatever stay might apply. First, such alternative rulings are appropriate because (i) the very nature of tentative rulings is that this Court could be persuaded to depart from any one of them, and (ii) a final ruling on any one issue could be reversed on appeal. Second, even if there is currently no stay, that could change - e.g., if there is no stay because of dismissal of this bankruptcy case, such dismissal could be vacated and that might reimpose the stay even if there is a lack of adequate protection, or other grounds why the stay should not apply, and therefore the movant will suffer cognizable harm unless the issues are addressed now (Judge Bason regularly vacates dismissals based on stipulations or other good cause). Third, if the motion includes any request for relief as to past acts (annulment) or future cases (in rem relief), those things are still at issue even if there is no current automatic stay. See In re Aheong, 276 B.R. 233 (9th Cir. BAP 2002). For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to address the following issues.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Chapter 13

#11.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order
Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic
Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 7

Tentative Ruling:

Conditionally grant, as follows. Appearances required.

The tentative ruling is that Debtor cannot overcome the presumption of a lack of good faith absent something significantly more persuasive than the evidence that she has presented. For example, if Debtor were to propose a short deadline to sell her home, that might establish that she is prosecuting this latest bankruptcy case in good faith. Another example might be if she were (a) to agree that no future bankruptcy case filed in the next two years will affect the rights of objecting creditor U.S. Bank, NA ("US Bank") ("in rem relief") and (b) to agree to a stay-current adequate protection order ("APO") in this current bankruptcy case.

Assuming that Debtor would prefer not to sell her home, the tentative ruling is that a stay-current APO with in rem relief as to any future bankruptcy case is warranted under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017). If this Court adopts that approach, this Court contemplates that the APO will provide:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Chapter 13

A presumption of lack of good faith applies because Debtor filed to "provide adequate protection as ordered by the court." 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3)(C)(i)(II)(bb). See also 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3)(C)(ii). And see In re Saenz, Case No. 2:20-bk-15207-NB, dkt. 61 (APO).

Alternatively, a presumption of lack of good faith applies because Debtor's motion papers (and the untimely additional evidence in her reply papers) do not establish a sufficiently substantial change in her financial or personal affairs since the dismissal of her last case to conclude that this current case will result in "a confirmed plan that will be fully performed." 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3)(i)(III).

The presumption of a lack of good faith can only be rebutted by "clear and convincing evidence." 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3)(C). The tentative ruling is that Debtor has failed to meet that burden on the present record, and can only do so if she presents substantially more evidence of a realistic ability to pay US Bank in this bankruptcy case, such as the examples set forth at the start of this tentative ruling.

Of course, this Court recognizes the very difficult situation that Debtor alleges. Debtor's situation would be hard for anyone to overcome, including marital issues involving a restraining order, and the need to remain home to take care of children during the COVID-19 pandemic. But, first, Debtor is vague about the timing of those things, and under section 362(c)(3)(C)(i)(III) any change in circumstances must have occurred since the dismissal of her prior case. Second, Debtor's default under the APO in her prior case establishes an alternative ground why the presumption of a lack of good faith applies. See 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3)(C)(i)(II)(bb). See also 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3)(C)(ii).

It is also true that, conceivably, Debtor's unemployment compensation and purported rental income will enable Debtor to do what she failed to do in her prior string of bankruptcy cases - namely, reliably make payments to US Bank and perform under the terms of a confirmable plan. But, as US Bank points out, unemployment insurance is of limited duration, and Debtor has made similar promises in her prior bankruptcy cases.

The bottom line is that the statute requires "clear and convincing" evidence. Debtor's situation is very unfortunate, but that alone does not establish good faith in filing repeated bankruptcy petitions and having only a doubtful ability to stay current in her present (unemployed) circumstances.

Based on all of the foregoing, the tentative ruling is to issue two orders:

(1) the above-referenced stay-current APO with in rem relief, to be prepared by US Bank with a copy of this tentative ruling attached (lodged within 7 days of this hearing), and (2) an order continuing the automatic stay, to be prepared by this Court, cross-referencing the APO and including the following language:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) APO. As against US Bank, this order is subject to an adequate protection order (a) requiring Debtor to stay current in her monthly payments and other obligations and (b) providing that no future bankruptcy case will affect the property securing US Bank's lien for a period of two years.

(2) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(3) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

(4) Very limited ruling. This Court's tentative ruling to grant the foregoing relief is solely for purposes of this motion, and is not intended to have any binding effect with respect to any future assertions by any party in interest regarding the existence or lack of existence of good faith in any other context.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances

fr. 7/20/21

vs
DEBTOR

Docket 7

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/3/21:

Deny request for future in rem relief for the reasons stated below (without altering the other relief granted in the adopted tentative ruling for 7/20/21).
Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this court's final ruling. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Reason: This matter was continued from 7/20/21 on shortened notice on the condition that Movant serve the motion and notice of this continued hearing on the original lessee (Victor Reza Valanejad) by 7/22/21. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, Movant has not filed a proof of service. Based on Movant's non-compliance, the tentative ruling is to deny Movant's request for future in rem relief (without prejudice to the other relief granted by virtue of Debtor's failure to contest the tentative ruling for 7/20/21).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see the Posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Unless otherwise stated, appearances via CourtCall are no longer permitted.

Tentative Ruling for 7/20/21:

Grant in part and continue in part to 8/3/21 at 10:00 a.m. as set forth below.
Appearances are not required on 7/20/21.

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay.
See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, the tentative ruling is to grant relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Note regarding mootness: Judge Bason's standard tentative ruling is as follows. For three reasons the above tentative ruling that there is no stay does not moot requests for relief from whatever stay might apply. First, such alternative rulings are appropriate because (i) the very nature of tentative rulings is that this Court could be persuaded to depart from any one of them, and (ii) a final ruling on any one issue could be reversed on appeal. Second, even if there is currently no stay, that could change - e.g., if there is no stay because of dismissal of this bankruptcy case, such dismissal could be vacated and that might reimpose the stay even if there is a lack of adequate protection, or other grounds why the stay should not apply, and therefore the movant will suffer cognizable harm unless the issues are addressed now (Judge Bason regularly vacates dismissals based on stipulations or other good cause). Third, if the motion includes any request for relief as to past acts (annulment) or future cases (in rem relief), those things are still at issue even if there is no current automatic stay. See In re Aheong, 276 B.R. 233 (9th Cir. BAP 2002). For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to address the following issues.

Chapter 7

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2). To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Retroactive relief

Grant the request for retroactive annulment of the stay. See In re Nat'l Enviro. Waste Corp., 129 F.3d 1052, 1054-56 (9th Cir. 1997); In re Fjeldsted, 293 B.R. 12 (9th Cir. BAP 2003); and see also In re Williams, 323 B.R. 691, 697-702 (9th Cir. BAP 2005) (various issues involving annulment, and application of Fjeldsted), aff'd, 204 Fed.Appx. 582 (9th Cir. 2006), overruled on other issues, In re Perl, 811 F.3d 1120 (9th Cir. 2016) (scope of automatic stay).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

As to the requested relief that will remain effective notwithstanding any future bankruptcy case, continue the motion to the date and time set forth at the start of this tentative ruling, for service on the persons who executed the documents through which the movant asserts its interest in the property (sometimes referred to in the leasehold context as the "original lessee(s)"). Reasons: See LBR 4001-1(c)(1)(B). In addition, Judge Bason has due process concerns about granting such relief without service on the person(s) whose interests may be most directly affected. See generally Mullane v. Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co., 339 U.S. 306 (1950) (due process generally). In this matter, such persons appear to include: Victor Reza Valanejad.

Option for shortened time: This Court has selected a continued hearing date that contemplates shortened notice (per Rule 9006) but that date is conditioned on the movant (i) serving, on the day after the current hearing date, the motion papers and notice of the continued hearing date, and (ii) filing that notice and a proof of service no later than the next day. Alternatively, the movant may self-calendar a continued hearing on regular notice.

Option for interim/partial order: Movant may elect to lodge a proposed order granting the partial relief provided in this tentative ruling, but any such order must recite that a continued hearing has been set to consider additional relief (or, alternatively, that the movant no longer seeks additional relief and the Clerk's office is requested and directed to take the continued hearing off calendar).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) is also terminated, because it has not been shown to have any basis to exist independent of the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see the Posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." (A) Current issues

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv.dkt. 28) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(1) The deadline to complete discovery has passed

Defendants/Debtors state that they anticipate propounding interrogatories on Plaintiff/UST and completing discovery by 5/30/21. Adv.Dkt. 28, p.2. But this Court's prior scheduling order (adv. dkt. 23, p.1, para. "(3)(f)") set 3/2/21 as the "last day for discovery to be completed, including receiving responses to discovery requests," and Defendants/Debtors have not filed any motion for reconsideration of that deadline. The tentative ruling is that the Status Report cannot be treated as such a motion.

This Court notes that Plaintiff/UST asserts that Defendants/Debtors have "[not] responded (timely or otherwise) to written discovery served by Plaintiff, including interrogatories, requests for production of documents and requests for admissions." Adv. dkt. 28, p.4. The tentative ruling is that this Court will not take any action on that non-responsiveness sua sponte (without prejudice to any evidentiary or other consequences that might be requested by Plaintiff/UST at trial or any other time).

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

Matters of venue, jurisdiction, and authority have been determined and/or waived or forfeited (adversary docket number 19).

(2) Mediation

Plaintiff/UST does not wish to have this matter sent to mediation. Stat.Rpt. (adv.dkt.28), p.3. Defendants/Debtors request mediation and state that they seek a chapter 7 discharge and to "obtain the homestead exemption funds." Stat.Rpt. (adv.dkt.28), pp.3-4. The tentative ruling is that (a) mediation would not appear to be productive, given the lack of participation in discovery by Defendants/Debtors and the opposition of Plaintiff/UST; and (b) whether and when Defendants/Debtors are or are not entitled to any homestead exemption funds is not within the scope of this adversary proceeding.

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 9/29/20. On 12/2/20, this Court entered a scheduling order (adv.dkt.23) memorializing certain dates and deadlines which have now passed and have been omitted below. #2.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Debtor's Second Renewed Motion for Order To Show Cause as to Why Specialized Loan Servicing LLC Should Not be Held in Contempt for Violation of Debtor's Discharge Injunction fr. 4/6/21, 6/15/21, 6/29/21

Docket 140

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/3/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Background

On 4/7/21 this Court issued its "Order to Show Cause as to Why Specialized Loan Servicing LLC Should Not be Held in Contempt for Violation of Debtor's Discharge Injunction" (dkt. 146, the "OSC"). Specialized Loan Servicing LLC ("Specialized") timely submitted its opposition papers (dkt. 151, 152, 153) and Debtor filed reply papers (dkt. 154, 155, 156).

Based on this Court's review of the docket and all relevant papers, the tentative ruling is to discharge the OSC and deny Debtor's Contempt Motion (dkt. 140) for the reasons set forth below.

(2) Procedural issues

(a) Specialized appears to be correct that a motion for contempt, rather than a motion for an OSC, would have been the better procedure

Specialized argues that this matter is not properly before this Court because Debtor should have filed a motion for an order of contempt, rather than a motion for an OSC, pursuant to Rules 9014 and 9020 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). Dkt. 151, pp.3:24-4:22. Specialized appears to be correct, although the issue is not free from doubt. See Barrientos v. Wells Fargo, N.A., 633 F.3d 1186 (9th Cir. 2011) ("A contempt order is to be sought by a motion in the main case under FRBP 9020, and not by a motion for an order to show cause or by any adversary proceeding") (emphasis added). Cf. Reply (dkt. 154), pp. 2:26-3:24.

But the tentative ruling is that there is an easy fix to any procedural infirmary. This Court can vacate the Order to Show Cause (dkt. 146, "OSC"), without vacating the previously established deadlines for Specialized to respond, and treat Specialized's opposition papers (dkt. 151, 152, 153) as a response to Debtor's motion instead of a response to the OSC. Mr. Nagel is directed to address whether there is any prejudice to Specialized in proceeding that way.

(b) Settlement communications will not be considered

The tentative ruling is to disregard Mr. Nagel's statements about alleged settlement communications between the parties. See Rule 408 (Fed. R. Evid.).

(c) Omitted table of contents etc.

Debtor argues that this Court should not consider Specialized's opposition papers to the extent they exceed ten pages in length because Specialized failed to comply with LBR 9013-2(b)(3) which requires a table of contents or indexed table of cases. The tentative ruling is to overrule Debtor's objection and excuse Specialized's noncompliance because Debtor has not demonstrated how he has been prejudiced.

(3) Specialized's arguments about the dischargeability of its long-term debt appear to be only partially correct

Specialized argues that it could not have violated the discharge injunction because section 11 U.S.C. 1328(a)(1) excepts its long-term claim from Debtor's discharge. Dkt. 151, pp.4:23-6:12. The tentative ruling is that, although this is true as far as it goes, it does not entirely undermine Debtor's arguments.

On the one hand, 11 U.S.C. 1328(a)(1) excepts from the discharge any debt "provided for under section 1322(b)(5)" - i.e., the arrears cured over time in the plan and the ongoing "direct" payments. So it appears that Debtor continues to have in personam liability with respect to long-term debts that properly remained due and therefore had not been discharged.

On the other hand, Debtor is objecting to what he perceives as attempts by Specialized to collect dollar amounts that were either resolved by the parties' stipulation (e.g., any disputed escrow payments) or had already been paid (e.g., payments of principal and interest that had been received by Specialized during the term of the plan) and both of those types of debts were discharged. See 11 U.S.C. 524(a)(2) (discharge "operates as an injunction against the commencement or continuation of an action, the employment of process, or an act, to collect, recover or offset any ... debt [discharged under section 1328] as a personal liability"); see also In re Marino, 577 B.R. 772, 783-84 (9th Cir. BAP 2017) ("Even if a creditor threatens only to enforce its surviving lien, that threat will violate the discharge injunction if the evidence shows that the threat is really an effort to coerce payment of the underlying discharged debt").

(4) Debtor has not carried his burden to show that Specialized violated the discharge injunction

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not shown under any standard, and especially by clear and convincing evidence, that Specialized violated the discharge injunction.

(a) Applicable standard

Under Taggart v. Lorenzen, 139 S.Ct. 1795 (2019), a court "may hold a creditor in civil contempt for violating a discharge order where there is," on an "objective" basis, "not a 'fair ground of doubt'" as to whether the creditor's conduct might be lawful under the discharge order." Taggart, 139 S.Ct. 1795, 1804 (emphasis added; citation omitted). "Under the fair ground of doubt standard," civil contempt "may be appropriate when the creditor violates a discharge order based on an objectively unreasonable understanding of the discharge order or the statutes that govern its scope." Id. at 1802 (emphasis added). See also Ahn v. Sanger, 794 Fed.App'x 661, 663 (9th Cir. 2020) (applicability of discharge injunction was "sufficiently debatable" that creditor had an objectively reasonable basis for concluding that its conduct was lawful).

The party seeking contempt sanctions has the burden of proof. That party must establish the relevant facts by "clear and convincing" evidence. FTC v. Affordable Media, LLC, 179 F.3d 1228, 1239 (9th Cir. 1999).

(b) Escrow payments and one purportedly late interest payment

For the reasons set forth in part "(1)(a)" of this Court's tentative ruling for 6/15/21 (copied below), the tentative ruling is that Debtor has not shown that Specialized's 12/8/20 letter violated the discharge injunction.

(c) Verification of mortgage letter

Debtor argues in his motion papers that Specialized violated the discharge injunction by failing promptly to correct the Verification of Mortgage letter dated "01/06/21" that it sent to Debtor. That letter asserted that "last year" (2020) Debtor was delinquent 9 times, from 15 days to over 90 days.

Dkt. 140, at PDF p.36. But Debtor objects that he provided evidence to show that he made all of his 2020 mortgage payments timely. Dkt. 140, at p.8:13-20 & PDF pp.52-79.

Specialized counters that its Verification of Mortgage letter "was accurate because 11 U.S.C. 1322(b)(2) did not allow Debtor to modify its claim and because all pre-petition arrears were not paid in full until approximately September 2021 such that [its] accounting system accurately reported that the loan was technically 'delinquent' for 9 months in 202[0]." Dkt. 151, p.8, n. 2 (emphasis added). Specialized adds that it has now provided Debtor with a revised letter that omits the delinquencies at issue. Dkt. 152, p.2:12-16 & Ex. A.

The tentative ruling is that this is an unfortunate example of a miscommunication - "ships passing in the night." Ultimately, Debtor has not established that Specialized has done anything wrong at all, let alone violated the discharge injunction.

Although it appears to be uncontested that Debtor (x) was current on all "direct" payments of ongoing monthly principal and interest and (y) was current on all plan payments, nevertheless (z) those plan payments were designed to catch up on arrears and, until Debtor actually had caught up on those arrears, he remained delinquent under his loan documents, as Specialized confirmed to Debtor. In other words, Debtor's privilege of being able to cure defaults in a chapter 13 case does not change the fact that Debtor had previously fallen behind on his mortgage obligations and was in default under the contractual terms of the loan documents until those arrears were paid in full, which is what Specialized accurately told Debtor.

True, as Debtor points out, there is no declaration from Specialized itself, only its attorney. But the tentative ruling is that it is sufficient for an attorney to point out that a letter is technically correct, even if there is no declaration from the client supporting that point.

It is also true that it would have been helpful if Specialized had provided Debtor with a more detailed letter explaining that Debtor was contractually delinquent but had exercised his right to cure those delinquencies through his bankruptcy case. This Court's own tentative ruling for 6/15/21 (copied below) noted that Debtor appeared to be correct that he was current, and it was not until the latest papers filed by Specialized that this Court understood that Specialized's notations about delinquencies are correct as applied to the arrears (which, by definition, were delinquent).

But Debtor also could have explained the full picture to prospective lenders. Alternatively, he could have made it clearer to Specialized that this was what he was asking Specialized to do.

In any event, even if Specialized had been unreasonable in its communications (which Debtor has not established), Debtor has the burden to prove more than that. Debtor must establish that Specialized was attempting to collect a discharged debt, and was doing so based on an objectively unreasonable understanding of the discharge injunction. The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not met that burden.

(5) Conclusion

Whatever harm Debtor suffered from Specialized not providing a modified Verification of Mortgage letter sooner is unfortunate. But Debtor has the burden to show, by clear and convincing evidence, that Specialized's conduct violated the discharge injunction. Based on the evidence presented, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has not met that burden.

For the reasons set forth above, the tentative ruling is to discharge the OSC and deny the motion.

whether any payments received in 2020 were late, should be independently verifiable and not subject to any reasonable dispute. But it appears that the parties have been unable to agree on any such statement, so the tentative ruling is to set a schedule for briefs and evidence and a continued hearing on whether to issue a finding and conclusion of contempt of court and impose sanctions.

(1) Background

There appear to be two disputes. One, involving escrow payments and one purportedly late interest payment, appears to be irrelevant, but might be causing confusion. The second, involving timely payments that have been reported as late payments, appears to be the real focus of the parties' disputes.

(a) Escrow payments and one purportedly late interest payment

A long-running dispute apparently involved Debtor's failure to pay monthly amounts into escrow accounts - Debtor instead appears to have paid insurance and real estate taxes directly. The parties' papers never explained this in sufficient detail, but this Court arrived at that conclusion based on its own detailed analysis. See Tentative Rulings for 3/20/18 and 5/8/18 hearings (reproduced below).

In any event, the dispute was settled by a 2018 stipulation providing that the loan would be "de-escrowed for taxes and insurance, commencing with the February 1, 2017 monthly installment" and that Debtor would receive a small refund ($1,965.66) and a waiver of some late charges ($1,849.30). See Stipulation between Debtor and Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., as servicer for U.S. Bank National Association, as Trustee Prime Mortgage Trust, Mortgage Pass-Through Certificates, Series 2006-2 ("US Bank"), attached as Ex.P to Motion for OSC (dkt. 140) (at PDF pp. 133-37) and Order thereon (Ex.Q, at PDF pp.138-39). Specialized's own Response (Ex.C) to the Chapter 13 Trustee's notice that Debtor had cured all defaults (Ex.B) appears to show that Debtor is current. See Ex.B&C to Motion for OSC (dkt.140, at PDF pp.29-33).

Now Debtor reports that that he has been wrongfully accused by US Bank's current servicer, Specialized Loan Servicing LLC ("Specialized") of being "in arrears for $2828.69 due to an escrow shortage. See Exhibit K to Debtor's declaration." Motion for OSC (dkt. 140), p.3:10-13. But Exhibit K

(dkt.140, at PDF pp.109-110) says nothing about any escrow shortfall - to the contrary, it states:

The amount of the debt as of 12/08/2020 is $404,193.45. For informational purposes, this amount is comprised of the following: unpaid principal of $401,364.76, deferred balance total of $0.00, uncollected interest of $2,828.69, escrow balance/advances of $0.00, and outstanding fees of $0.00." [Dkt.140, Ex.K, at PDF p.109, emphasis added.]

As for the above-referenced "uncollected interest of $2,828.69," Specialized explained on 2/1/21 that the funds were received and applied to the account on 12/9/20. See Ex.H to Motion for OSC (dkt.140) at PDF p.44. Debtor has not pointed to evidence that this is incorrect, so perhaps this is no longer an issue.

(b) Debtor's apparently timely payments that have been wrongly reported as late payments

Debtor appears to be on firmer ground when he alleges that he applied for a home refinance in 2021 but that his attempted refinance was denied for the sole reason that Specialized reported that he was "9 times delinquent in 2020," citing Exhibit E to his Motion for OSC (dkt. 140), p.3:16-22 (emphasis added). That is supported by three types of evidence.

First, Exhibit E (dkt.140 at PDF p.36) is a Verification of Mortgage from Specialized to Debtor dated "01/06/21" asserting that "last year" (2020) Debtor was delinquent 9 times, from 15 days to over 90 days. Second, Debtor's Exhibit F is a letter from Right Choice Mortgage stating that it "is unable to refinance Mr Tribelsky for the sole reason that upon receiving the Verification of Mortgage from [Specialized] it came back with the following information [tracking 8 of the 9 purported delinquent payments] (see attached statement)." Ex.F to Motion for OSC (dkt.140, at PDF p.41). Third, attached as Exhibit I is Debtor's correspondence with Specialized, dated 1/22/21, enclosing evidence appearing to show that Debtor made all of his 2020 mortgage payments timely. Ex.I to Motion for OSC (dkt.140) at PDF pp.52-79.

Debtor also has provided evidence that Specialized has not addressed these allegations. For example, Specialized's letter dated 2/1/21 states, "We have researched your account and our records indicate that the interest described in your dispute [the one purportedly late interest payment that apparently was cured with the payment received on 12/9/20] was not in error." Ex.H to Motion for OSC (dkt.140, at PDF p.44). Specialized's letter does not address the (apparently erroneous) report of 9 delinquencies in 2020. See also Ex.J (2/9/21 letter from Specialized to Debtor) (dkt.140, at PDF p.80).

In sum, Debtor has presented prima facie evidence that Specialized was reporting delinquencies that did not actually exist. On that basis this Court granted Debtor's motion for issuance of an OSC.

(2) Current status

On 4/7/21 this Court issued its "Order to Show Cause as to Why Specialized Loan Servicing LLC Should Not be Held in Contempt For Violation of Debtor's Discharge Injunction" (dkt. 146, the "OSC") which set a 6/14/21 deadline for the parties to complete discovery. Debtor's status report (dkt. 148) states that the parties have not been able to settle their disputes and that Debtor has propounded, and Specialized has responded to, Debtor's interrogatories, requests for admission, and requests for documents.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 6/25/21 for Specialized to file and serve its response to the OSC, including declarations and evidence (if any) to rebut Debtor's prima facie showing that Specialized has violated the discharge injunction of 11 U.S.C. 524, is in contempt of court, and is subject to sanctions. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 7/9/21 for Debtor's reply, and a non-evidentiary hearing on 7/20/21 at 11:00 a.m., at which time this Court will determine if there are any matters that require an evidentiary hearing or other procedures.

Tentative Ruling for 3/20/18:

Grant in part, deny in part, and continue to 4/10/17 at 10:00 a.m., all as set forth below. Appearances required.

(1) Background

The parties appear to agree that the debtor has made monthly payments of $3,698.51 (the normal amortizing principal and interest payments). Those payments were due on the first day of each month, and generally were paid a few days later. See dkt. 8, Ex.5 (movant's spreadsheet) and dkt. 61, Ex.A, & dkt. 62) (debtor's copies of cashier checks). The motion lists some late charges, attorney fees, and other items (dkt. 58, p.7, para.8), but those do not appear to have been included in the movant's spreadsheet (dkt. 58, Ex.5, at PDF pp.30-33), perhaps because the listed amounts are for prepetition periods. In any event, the core of the parties' disagreement appears to involve an escrow impound account to pay real estate taxes and property insurance premiums.

(2) The debtor's assertions of "improper" escrow impounds are unpersuasive

The debtor's declaration (dkt. 61, Tribelsky Decl., para.9, at PDF p.7:24-28) asserts that the impound is "improper" and that the debtor has "struggled with [movant] Wells Fargo to have them end these impounds." The debtor also declares (dkt. 61, at PDF p.7:16-22) that there was an "improper increase" in monthly payments starting on March 1, 2016, which he believes was due to an escrow impound for taxes and insurance.

The debtor fails to explain why there is anything "improper" about requiring him to pay into an escrow for real estate taxes and insurance. The loan documents (dkt. 8, Ex.1, para.3, pp.4-5) require the debtor to make escrow payments for taxes and insurance premiums on the same date at the payments of principal and interest.

It is true that the movant apparently had not required escrow payments for some unspecified period prior to March 1, 2016. See Notice of Mortgage Payment Change (Official Form 410S1) (the "Change Notice"), filed 1/19/16 on the Claims Register, at PDF pp.5-6 (requiring monthly payments of $351.96 commencing March 1, 2016). But if the debtor is asserting some sort of waiver that argument is unpersuasive. The Deed of Trust provides (dkt. 58, Ex.1, para.3, pp.4-5) that although the movant may waive the escrow requirement, the movant "may revoke the waiver as to any or all Escrow Items at any time" and then the debtor "shall pay" all escrow amounts.

The debtor apparently just ignored his obligation to pay escrow impound amounts. Instead he has presented evidence (dkt. 61, Ex.B, at PDF pp.38 et seq.) that he paid taxes directly to the tax authorities and insurance premiums directly to the insurers.

It appears that the movant must have credited the debtor's direct payments of taxes and insurance, because its Change Notice filed on 10/18/16 lists a low estimated "Starting balance" of $861.27 as of December 2016 (although that apparently assumes that the debtor would start making his required escrow payments). In any event, the movant's Change Notice is prima facie evidence of the validity of this underlying calculation in support of its claim, and the debtor has not established that there is anything wrong with the movant's accounting included in its Change Notice filed on 10/18/16.

Similarly, by the time of the next Change Notice it appears that the movant must have once again credited the debtor's direct payments of taxes and insurance because, the escrow account projections ("Part 3") project a required "Starting balance" for March 2018 of only $762.96 (although, again, this appears to assume that the debtor will have made certain payments into the escrow account by the start of March 2018). In any event, the debtor has not shown that there is anything wrong with this supporting underlying documentation of the movant's claim.

(3) Despite the deficiencies in the debtor's arguments and evidence, it appears that the motion itself fails to account for the debtor's direct payments of real estate taxes and insurance

The motion asserts (dkt. 58, p.9, para.12.c.) that the debtor was behind three payments of $4,053.45, for a total of $12,160.35, less a suspense account balance of $1,166.12, for a total of $10,994.23 as of approximately 12/12/18 (when the declaration in support of the motion was signed). But unlike the Change Notices the motion does not appear to give the debtor credit for direct payments of real estate taxes and insurance.

Based on the spreadsheet attached to the motion as Exhibit 5 (dkt. 58, at PDF pp.30-33), the alleged shortfall of $10,994.23 appears to be the cumulative sum of all the shortfalls between the $3,698.51 that the debtor was paying each month (the normal amortizing principal and interest payments) and the higher monthly amounts that he should have been paying in order to fund the escrow account. There are no entries in the spreadsheet that appear to reflect the debtor's direct payments of taxes and insurance.

Nor is it possible to rely on the latest Change Notice to determine precisely what the debtor owes. At first glance that Change Notice would appear to have current information because it was filed on 3/5/18, but it provides only a projected shortfall of $762.96 in the escrow account as of March 2018 (3/5/18 Charge Notice at PDF p.6, Part 3, end of first line). That projection probably is too low, because it appears to assume that part of the debtor's monthly payment is credited to the escrow account in January of 2018, and that the debtor will make some very substantial payments in February and March of 2018, and that the real estate taxes that are due in March of 2018 will be paid out of those escrow payments (see id., Part 4, 2d and 5th columns, rows for January, February, and March, including credits of $1,281.90, $9,810.75, and $354.94, and debit of $1,612.38).

The bottom line is that although the movant has not established precisely what the debtor owes, it has established cause for some sort of relief from the automatic stay - namely, there is "cause" within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) in that the debtor has failed for many months to comply with his obligations to fund the escrow account, which exposes the movant to the risk that it will have to bear the cost if the debtor fails to pay real estate taxes or insurance (especially if the property were to be damaged or completely burn down). The required adequate protection is for the debtor to cure the deficiency in the escrow account over a reasonable period of time.

The latest Change Notice (filed 3/5/18) can be used as a starting point.

Hearing Room 1545

11:00 AM

Chapter 13

It requires that the debtor pay $381.48 per month into the escrow account, in addition to his regular monthly payments of $3,698.51 on account of principal and interest, for total monthly payments of $4,079.99. The escrow payments may have to be adjusted (as noted above, the Change Notice appears to assume that the debtor will have made some very substantial payments by the start of March 2018), but this Court can set a schedule for such adjustment (see below).

(4) Conclusion

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/1/18 for the debtor (a) to file evidence that he has paid the March 2018 real estate tax payment directly to the taxing authority and (b) to commence making monthly payments of $381.48 into the escrow account, in addition to his regular monthly payments of $3,698.51 on account of principal and interest, for total monthly payments of $4,079.99.

In addition, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/1/18 for the movant to file a supplemental declaration showing a calculation of the required escrow balance as of 5/1/18, the required monthly payments for the debtor to cure the deficiency in that escrow balance, and the resulting new total monthly payment that the debtor will have to pay on 5/1/18 and each month thereafter.

Finally, the tentative ruling is to set a continued hearing at the date and time set forth at the start of this tentative ruling, so that the parties and this Court can address what to do if the debtor disputes the movant's calculations.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/3/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 8/3/21.

(1) Current matters

(a) Related proceedings

The matters on calendar involve two related bankruptcy cases and associated matters: (a) In re Layfield & Barrett, APC, Case No. 2:17-bk-19548-NB ("L&B"); (b) In re Layfield, Case No. 2:18-bk-15829-NB ("Lay-Invol."); (c) Pimentel v. Layfield et al, Case No. 2:19-ap-01069-NB ("Pimentel Adv."), (d) Pachulski v. Layfield, Case No. 2:19-ap-01071-NB ("Pachulski Adv.").

This Court has no issues to raise sua sponte at this time. The tentative ruling is to continue all matters on today's calendar to the continued date set forth below.

(2) Deadlines/dates. The L&B case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 on 8/3/17 and converted to chapter 11 on 8/11/17 (L&B dkt. 25). The Lay-Invol case was filed as an involuntary chapter 7 case on 5/21/18 and an order for relief was entered on 12/12/18 (Lay-Invol dkt. 160, 161).

(a) L&B Bar date: 2/5/18 (timely served, L&B dkt. 133, 157)

(b) Lay-Invol Bar date: 4/12/19 (timely served, Lay-Invol dkt.180)

(c) L&B Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD. Do not file or serve until further order of this Court.

(d) Continued status conference: 10/12/21 at 11:00 a.m. Brief status report due 9/28/21.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/3/21:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Final fee application (dkt. 380, 381, "Fee Application") of Leech Tishman Fuscaldo & Lampl, Inc. ("Applicant"), Objection of Yunuen Campos (dkt. 383), Applicant's reply (dkt. 392)

The tentative ruling is (i) to overrule Ms. Campos' objections and allow the fees except as set forth below, for the reasons stated in Applicant's papers (including that Applicant has already voluntarily reduced its fee request by over 90 hours (dkt. 392, p.11:4-6)), but (ii) to defer entering a final ruling and continue this matter to be concurrent with another professional's fee application and the continued post-confirmation status conference (see Section (2)(d) below).

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, this Court adds the following analysis on specific issues.

(i) Fees relating to the disclosure statement and plan

The first item to which Ms. Campos objects is the time spent in connection with the disclosure statement and plan. The tentative ruling is that this time was reasonable and appropriate.

Ms. Campos argues that 276 hours for this category is "excessive" because this case is "not complex" and "essentially a two-party dispute" (dkt. 383, pp. 4:24-25 & 5:9-10), but she does not point to any specific time entries she believes are inappropriate. Nor does Ms. Campos acknowledge that she is largely responsible for the time Applicant expended drafting the relevant papers, reviewing and responding to her objections, and drafting proposed modifications addressing Ms. Campos' objections.

Chapter 11

(ii) Fees relating to opposing motion for stay pending appeal and supplemental briefing

The second item to which Ms. Campos objects is the time spent on opposing a stay pending appeal. Dkt. 383, pp. 5:11-8:16. The tentative ruling is this time was reasonable and appropriate.

Appeals can take years, and meanwhile Debtor and his other creditors and Applicant all want to be able to get on with their lives. In addition, it is unclear why Ms. Campos would want a stay: the Plan reserves her rights on issues she has been litigating and that are on appeal, and meanwhile if the Plan is not stayed (as this Court ordered) then she will start receiving payments, whereas if it were to be stayed she would not.

If anything, the parties' dispute on this issue illustrates that this case would have been much cheaper if Ms. Campos had not been as litigious. Of course, she is entitled to protect her rights and entitlements, as she sees them, but she cannot have it both ways by increasing the amount of litigation and then objecting to her opponent's proportionate and reasonable fees to respond to that litigation.

(iii) Fees related to drafting motion for reconsideration regarding BAP's determination as to finality of order on appeal

The third item to which Ms. Campos objects is the time spent drafting a motion for reconsideration which was never filed. Dkt. 383, pp.8:19-9:13. The tentative ruling is to overrule the objection because it is not appropriate to second guess Applicant's judgment with "20/20 hindsight" simply because the motion was never filed. Rather, the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel for the Ninth Circuit has explained:

Section 330(a)(3)(A)(C) clearly states that the question governing attorney compensation should be whether services were necessary or beneficial 'at the time at which the service was rendered' ... The statute does not require that the services result in a material benefit to the estate in order for the professional to be compensated; the applicant must demonstrate only that the services were 'reasonably likely' to benefit the estate at the time the services were rendered.

[In re Mednet, 251, B.R. 108 (9th Cir. BAP 2000)]

The tentative ruling is that Applicant's papers (dkt. 392, pp. 9:19-10:12) establish that the services were reasonably likely to benefit the estate at the time the services were rendered. In addition, this Court takes judicial notice that the issue of "finality" of orders in bankruptcy cases is one of the most complex and least certain areas of bankruptcy law, in this Court's experience.

One of the reasons for that complexity and uncertainty is the competing policy concerns with which appellate courts have wrestled, such as the attempt to avoid piecemeal litigation, the attempt to provide speedy and efficient appellate review, and the intelocking nature of some disputes in bankruptcy cases. It is both understandable and expected that, in attempting to address these and similar concerns, some time inevitably will be spent on initial research and drafting, only to determine that other approaches are best for the bankruptcy estate.

In sum, the tentative ruling is that the time spent on this issue is modest and appropriate, particularly compared with the complexity and importance of the issues. The tentative ruling is to allow all fees in this category.

(iv) Fees related to defending Applicant's first interim fee application

The fourth item to which Ms. Campos objects is the time spent defending its first interim fee application. Dkt. 383, pp. 9:16-10:2. The tentative ruling is to sustain the objection and disallow the requested $7,494.00 in fees (i.e., per Objection, dkt.383, at pp. 9:25-10:2, the dollar amounts are $7,332.00 + $162.00 = $7,494.00).

The tentative ruling is that the services rendered are not compensable under the rule announced in Baker Botts, 576 U.S. 121, 134-35 (2015). Applicant has not cited any authority holding that this Court has the "equitable powers" to distinguish the Supreme Court's binding authority on this issue.

(v) Fees for "Nonlegal" services

The fifth item to which Ms. Campos objects is the time spent preparing proofs of service and other allegedly "nonlegal" services. Dkt. 383, p.10:4:27.

The tentative ruling is to overrule the objection in part as to the two entries describing time spent reviewing and finalizing the proof of service for the solicitation package because this Court agrees with Debtor that such services require a certain amount of legal analysis to ensure proper service.

The tentative ruling is also to sustain the objection in part and disallow time requested for the following entries:

(vi) Conclusion as to reasonableness of fees

For the reasons set forth above, the tentative ruling is to allow $491,056.00 in fees (i.e., $498,892.00 - $7,494.00 - $342.00 = $491,056.00) plus $3,188.55 in costs, for a final award of $494,244.55, but defer entering a final ruling until the continued hearing.

(vi) Payment of any approved fees/costs

The tentative ruling is to defer ruling on this issue until the continued hearing, so that this Court can determine whether payments to other professionals have any impact on the timing of payments to Applicant.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/3/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's Motion to Dismiss Chapter 11 Case ("MTD," dkt. 104); Limited Opposition of March 1 LLC and MarchLife3, LLC (the "March Entities") (dkt. 111); Limited Response and Statement of Non-Opposition of M. Douglas Fahaut, SubChapter V Trustee (dkt. 112), Debtor's reply (dkt. 114)

Grant the MTD subject to the conditions set forth in the limited oppositions of the March Entities (dkt. 111) and the Trustee (dkt. 112). The parties are directed to address whether, in addition to the Trustee's fees and expenses, any other administrative expenses or fees will need to be paid out of the small bank balance - only $3,030.00 as of the end of June, 2021 as reflected on Debtor's latest monthly operating report (dkt.113).

(b) Motion of March Entities to compel Debtor to assume or reject contract, or alternatively for dismissal of case (the "Assumption Motion," dkt. 66); Debtor's Opposition (dkt. 69); March Entities' Reply (dkt. 70), Debtor's Supp. Opp. (dkt. 76); March Entities' Supp. Reply (dkt. 81); interim Order (dkt. 95)

Grant the Assumption Motion on a final basis, and hold that the subject Participation Agreement is REJECTED, based on Debtor's failure to make the partial payment required by this Court's interim order on 6/28/21. See Order (dkt. 95), p.5. The tentative ruling is to reject Debtor's argument that the parties should be returned to their prepetition status pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 349. Reply (dkt. 114), pp. 2:8-4:12.

First, as Debtor acknowledges (id., p. 2:22-23), section 349 does not provide an absolute rule. It expressly provides that the dismissal of a bankruptcy case restores the prepetition status "[u]nless the court, for cause, orders otherwise." 11 U.S.C. 349(b).

Second, there is "cause" to order otherwise because it is impossible to return the parties to their prepetition status. Time has passed, and the March Entities are up against their own deadline. As stated in this Court's interim order, the first payment deadline and amount were "intended to approximate what the March Entities will need in order to be in a financial position to be able to meet their own obligations, under their Disposition & Development Agreement to develop a portion of the land previously known as March Airforce Base." Order (dkt. 95), p.2:16-19. Debtor failed to meet the first payment deadline, and that deadline would be meaningless if Debtor could assert now that the contract is not rejected.

Third, the March Entities' Assumption Motion expressly requested that this Court compel Debtor to assume "or reject" the parties' contract by a date certain (dkt. 66, p.5:22-23), and the order was intended to do that. See Order (dkt. 95), pp. 3:22-4:12 (discussing exercise of discretion to "set a deadline for Debtor to assume or reject" the parties' contract). If Debtor could do an end-run around the deadline, and evade rejection of the parties' contract via dismissal of this bankruptcy case, that would undermine the balance that this Court was attempting to strike between protecting Debtor's interests and the March Entities' interests.

Fourth, even if this Court had not already intended for the result of missing the deadline to be rejection of the contract (which was this Court's intent), the tentative ruling is that such result is the only equitable outcome. Debtor has had the benefit of the automatic stay, and all of the tools that are available in a bankruptcy case to attempt to cure defaults that would not be curable outside of bankruptcy. It would be unfair to permit Debtor, at this late stage, to attempt to retain rights to proceed under a contract that Debtor admits it could not perform within the deadline set by this Court.

(c) Debtor's Objection to the Claim of the March Entities (Claim No. 3) (dkt. 77); Opposition of March Entities (dkt. 86); Debtor's Reply (dkt. 91)

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's Objection to the Claim of the March Entities is resolved as MOOT in light of the tentative ruling to grant Debtor's Motion to Dismiss.

Proposed orders: The March Entities are directed to lodge proposed orders on items "(1)(a), "(1)(b)," and "(1)(c)" above, via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, attach a copy of this tentative ruling to the order on item "(1)(b)," and incorporate into the other orders by reference the same tentative ruling. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(d) First Application of SubChapter V Trustee ("Applicant") for Allowance and Payment of Fees (dkt. 108), no opposition is on file

The tentative ruling is to grant the Application approving fees of $8,826.50 and $31.85 in expenses for a total award of $8,858.35, and authorize payment to the extent of available funds (see item "(1)(a)" above).

Proposed order: Applicant is directed to lodge a proposed order on the foregoing motion via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Tentative Ruling for 6/15/21:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtors' Motion Objecting to Proof of Claims of Baodi Zhou, or in the Alternative, Motion to Estimate Claims (the "Claim Objection," dkt. 184), interim Order (dkt. 226), Debtors' Supplement (dkt. 234-37), Claimant Ms. Baodi Zhou's Brief (dkt. 245), Debtors' Reply (dkt. 256-59)

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties are directed to address the issues raised in their papers, especially the following issues. This Court is particularly concerned whether Ms. Zhou has provided sufficient evidence that her own claims satisfy the commonality and typicality requirements for acting as a class representative, assuming without presently deciding that Rule 23 is applicable. See interim Order, dkt.226, Ex.A, at PDF p.7, part "(1)(c)" and id. sub-parts "(iii)" & "(iv)."

As Ms. Zhou recognizes, under Rule 23 her individual claims must have questions of law and/or fact in common with other putative class members that "predominate" over any questions affecting only individual members. See generally Zhou Brief (dkt.245), pp.28:10-29:6. Ms. Zhou asserts that Debtor Tea Station Investment, Inc. ("Debtor") harmed class members by (1) failing to pay for all hours worked or for overtime due to time rounding and time shaving, and failing to provide accurate wage statements due to such rounding and shaving and purportedly omitting correct employer information, (2) failing to provide compliant meal breaks and pay missed meal break premiums, and (3) failing to provide compliant rest breaks and pay missed rest break period premiums. Zhou Brief (dkt. 245), pp. 10:1–19:2, 21:6–26:13, and summary at pp.32:13-34:22. Therefore the issue is whether Ms. Zhou's own claims for those things have sufficient commonality and typicality of other putative class members' claims.

First, Ms. Zhou's brief does not highlight any specific evidence of her own payroll records, and specific instances in which she asserts rounding, time shaving, missed meal breaks, and missed rest breaks. True, she makes general assertions that might suffice for some issues - e.g., at points her papers appear to assert that she never had rest breaks - but this Court remains concerned about the lack of greater specificity, such as allegations that although on day X she worked, say, 11 hours and 11 minutes, her paycheck and Debtor's records only reflected 8.0 hours. But compare, e.g., Debtor's Reply (dkt.256), p.7:3-4 (asserting, without citation to any evidence, that "[e]ven Zhou herself admitted at her deposition that she was always allowed to take a break whenever she requested or chose") (emphasis in original).

Second, Ms. Zhou offers few examples of other employees' specific instances of rounding, time shaving, missed meal breaks, and missed rest breaks, and she appears to make presumptions to fill in the gaps. This issue may also bear on the "numerosity" requirement under Rule 23.

If Ms. Zhou can overcome the foregoing issues, and otherwise qualifies as a class representative against Debtor, then this Court envisions a claim estimation process in which this Debtor would present its own rebuttal analysis and/or specific disputes with Ms. Zhou's choice of data and analysis, and the parties would focus their disputes on calculations not unlike those presented by Ms. Zhou at the end of her brief - e.g., estimating 88 employees, with 1,671 days multiplied by an estimated 11 minutes and 15 seconds per day, to arrive at a claim of $36,879.48 for "time rounding," etc. See Zhou Brief (dkt.245), pp.33:5-34:22. Each party would be able to present its own data, methodology, and analysis, and challenge the other party's data, methodology, and analysis, in a trial to determine how to estimate the claims.

This Court recognizes that the underlying data, methodology, and analysis might not be as rigorous as they would be if time and money were no object (the "scorched earth" litigation to which this Court previously has referred). See, e.g., Order (dkt.226), Ex.A, at PDF p.6, part "(1)(b)." For example, Ms. Zhou's statistical evidence was prepared not by a statistician or similar expert but by her own counsel. But the tentative ruling is that, given her counsel's apparent experience, this goes to the weight of the evidence, not its admissibility.

Similarly, although Ms. Zhou complains that the "thousands of pages of time and pay records" produced by Debtor (Zhou Brief, dkt. 245, p.16:22) are fractured, incomplete, and otherwise difficult to analyze (id., p.32:16 & attached D. Grimes Decl., pp.2:16–4:28, Ex. 2, Ex. 15), there does not appear to be any evidence that Debtor has intentionally caused any spoliation of records. Ms. Zhou's counsel apparently was able to conduct his statistical analysis based on wage statements and other records for 125 employees provided by Debtor (D. Grimes Decl., dkt. 245, p.5:1–5), and presumably Debtor could use the same data to do its own analysis and/or to challenge Ms. Zhou's analysis.

Again, the foregoing claim estimation process would only apply if Ms. Zhou could overcome the commonality and typicality issues noted above, and if she otherwise could qualify as a class representative. In other words, this Court's discussion of the contemplated claim estimation process is only included for completeness, and should not be interpreted as any presumption that Ms. Zhou can assert claims for the class she seeks to represent.

Note: As for any claims by employees of Debtor's affiliates, the tentative ruling is that this issue is premature. Ms. Zhou only briefly asserts a reservation of rights, arguing that "each corporate entity is managed by the same group of three individuals – Tea Station founder Yu-Liang 'Jimmy' Huang, his wife Teresa Pan, and lieutenant Chi-Fu 'Abraham' Kao." Zhou Brief (dkt.245), p.8:11-13. But this Court has issued an order (dkt.226) limiting claims at this stage to Debtor, and the tentative ruling is that unless and until Ms. Zhou can establish claims against Debtor it would be premature to address potential claims against Debtor's affiliates.

Finally, the parties are directed to address what further deadlines or procedures to establish, if this Court does not issue a final ruling on Debtor's Claim Objection at this hearing. The tentative ruling is that any continued hearing on this Claim Objection would be contemporaneous with the continued Status Conference (see below).

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/3/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Amended Plan (dkt. 109), Amended Disclosure Statement (dkt. 110), Order setting confirmation hearing (dkt. 112) and notice of hearing (dkt. 116), conditional non-opposition of First (dkt. 120), Proof of service of voting package (dkt. 121), Ballot summary (dkt. 122)

As a preliminary matter, even though there is no opposition on file, this Bankruptcy Court has an independent obligation to review the Plan and Disclosure Statement for compliance with 11 U.S.C. 1129 and 1191. Based on that review, the tentative ruling is to approve the Amended Disclosure Statement on a final basis and confirm the Amended Plan, subject to the conditional non-opposition of First Home Bank (dkt. 120).

The starting point is Debtor's ballot summary (dkt. 122). Debtor states that three impaired classes voted to accept the plan (Classes 2A, 2B, and 4A) and one class did not vote (Class 2C), so it is deemed to have rejected the plan. In re M. Long Arabians, 103 B.R. 211 (9th Cir. BAP 1989). This Court notes that Debtor's Amended Plan also designates two additional secured classes not referenced in the ballot summary (Classes 2D and 2E) (compare dkt. 109, at pdf p.9 and dkt. 122, pp. 1-2) This Court presumes that creditors in those classes did not vote and are deemed to have rejected the plan.

(i) Nonconsensual "cramdown" requirements

The requirements for confirmation of a Subchapter V plan are set forth in 11 U.S.C. 1191, which incorporates with modifications 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)-(b). The tentative ruling is that all requirements of 11 U.S.C. 1129(a) have been satisfied in this case except 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(8) with respect to Classes 2C, 2D, and 2E. A non-consensual plan may nevertheless be confirmed if "the plan does not discriminate unfairly, and is fair and equitable, with respect to each class of claims or interests that is impaired under, and has not accepted, the plan." 11 U.S.C. 1191(b).

(A) The plan does not "unfairly discriminate"

A plan unfairly discriminates unfairly if similar claims are treated differently without a reasonable basis for the disparate treatment. See, e.g., In re Acequia, Inc., 787 F.2d 1352, 1364 (9th Cir. 1986) ("The Collier treatise states that this provision requires that a plan "allocate[] value to the class in a manner consistent with the treatment afforded to other classes with similar legal claims against the debtor") (citation omitted).

The plan does not treat similar claims differently or otherwise discriminate among similarly situated creditors without a reasonable basis for the disparate treatment. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is that the plan does not unfairly discriminate with respect to Classes 2C, 2D and 2E.

(B) The plan is "fair and equitable"

A plan is "fair and equitable" with regard to secured claims if it complies with the standards for secured claims stated in 11 U.S.C. 1129(b)(2)

(A). 11 U.S.C. 1191(c)(1). Section 1129(b)(2)(A) provides:

For the purpose of this subsection, the condition that a plan be fair and equitable with respect to a class includes the following requirements:

(A) With respect to a class of secured claims, the plan provides—

(i)

(I) that the holders of such claims retain the liens securing such claims, whether the property subject to such liens is retained by the debtor or transferred to another entity, to the extent of the allowed amount of such claims; and

(II) that each holder of a claim of such class receive on account of such claim deferred cash payments totaling at least the allowed amount of such claim, of a value, as of the effective date of the plan, of at least the value of such holder's interest in the estate's interest in such property;

(ii) for the sale, subject to section 363(k) of this title [11 USCS § 363(k)], of any property that is subject to the liens securing such claims, free and clear of such liens, with such liens to attach to the proceeds of such sale, and the treatment of such liens on proceeds under clause (i) or (iii) of this subparagraph; or

(iii) for the realization by such holders of the indubitable equivalent of such claims. [11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(2)(A)(i)-(iii)]

Class 2C is a secured class with an allowed secured claim of $0.01.
Under the plan, the holder of the claim in this single-member class will receive payment in full on the Effective Date. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is that treatment of Class 2C is fair and equitable.

Class 2D is a secured class with an allowed secured claim of $0.01.
Under the plan, the holder of the claim in this single-member class will receive payment in full on the Effective Date. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is that treatment of Class 2D is fair and equitable.

Class 2E is a secured class with an allowed secured claim of $0.01.
Under the plan, the holder of the claim in this single-member class will receive payment in full on the Effective Date. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is that treatment of Class 2E is fair and equitable.

(ii) Conclusion

For the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is that Debtor's proposed Amended Plan satisfies the requirements of 11 U.S.C. 1129 and 1191.

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge two proposed orders via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date: (i) an order approving the Amended Disclosure Statement on a final basis, and (ii) an order confirming the Amended Plan and setting a post-confirmation status conference on the date set forth below, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. In addition, the confirmation order should include the language requested by First Home Bank and the language required by the local rules regarding post-confirmation status reports and the effect of any future conversion. See LBR 3020-1(b), 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(b) United States Trustee's motion to dismiss, convert or appoint a chapter 11 trustee (dkt. 58, "MTD"), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 70), UST's reply
(dkt. 71), continuing compliance order (dkt. 76)

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Debtor's opposition (dkt. 16), Reply papers (dkt. 17, 18, 19) of Don King Productions, Inc.'s ("Don King") and objection to Debtor's declaration (dkt. 20), Notice of continued hearing (dkt. 22, 23), Order assigning matter to mediation (dkt. 27), Scheduling order (dkt. 28), Supplemental papers of Don King (dkt. 40, 41, 42, "Supplemental Papers")

Reasons: The tentative ruling is to dismiss this case for the reasons stated in the Motion to Dismiss (dkt. 10, 11, 12, 13) and Supplemental Papers.

The tentative ruling is also to direct Debtor to appear to address why this Court should not dismiss this case with a 180 day bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy due to "willful failure of the debtor to abide by orders of the court, or to appear before the court in proper prosecution of the case" (11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1)) in view of Debtor's failure to file supplemental papers by the briefing deadlines set by this Court (see dkt. 28).

fr. 3/23/21, 4/27/21, 6/1/21, 6/29/21

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/3/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Dismiss this case with a bar, and issue orders to show cause why Debtor's principal and its proposed counsel should not be sanctioned ("OSCs")

The tentative ruling, is to dismiss this case with a 180 day bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy due to "willful failure of the debtor to abide by orders of the court, or to appear before the court in proper prosecution of the case." 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1). In addition, the tentative ruling is to issue OSCs directing Debtor's principal (Mr. Melamed) and Debtor's proposed counsel (meaning both the Abbasi Law Corporation and Matthew Abbasi individually) to appear and show cause why they should not be subject to sanctions, (x) for the reasons set forth in this Court's 6/1/21 and 6/29/21 tentative rulings (copied below) in the amount of $200 each, for Mr. Melamed and proposed counsel, and also (y) for the following additional reasons, in the amount of $50 against Mr. Melamed for the MOR/UST fee issue described below, and $2,000 against Debtor's proposed counsel for apparently false, belated statements regarding conflicts of interest and other disqualifications to represent this Debtor.

(i) Continued failure to comply with reporting requirements

Despite this Court's admonitions in the 6/1/21 and 6/29/21 tentative rulings about filing late Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs"), Debtor has not filed its June MOR (which was due 7/15/21) as of the preparation of this tentative ruling.

In addition, the declaration of Shahin Melamed (dkt. 52), details the Debtor's ownership interest in two real properties: a commercial property located at 7227 Oleander Avenue, Fontana, CA 92336 (the "Fontana Property") and a residential property located at 1641 Viewmont Dr., Los Angeles, CA 90069 (the "Viewmont Property") (id., pp.2-3), but Debtor's May MOR (dkt. 50) does not disclose any insurance coverage for either property. True, Mr. Melamed asserts that the Viewmont Property is "secure and insured" (dkt. 52, p.3:6-7), but that omission from Debtor's MORs further confirms that Debtor is not providing complete and accurate information in its MORs.

Finally, this Court notes that on 6/25/21 the Clerk's Office issued a notice to Debtor to re-file its May MOR (dkt. 51) using the correct docket event, but as of the preparation of this tentative ruling Debtor has not complied.

(ii) Failure to demonstrate meaningful progress

This Court has reviewed the papers filed on 6/28/21 (dkt. 52) which attach appraisals and related repair estimates for the Fontana and Viewmont Properties. Id., Ex. A, B, C & D. But those papers only raise further concerns about the Debtor's apparent lack of any tangible progress after five and a half months in bankruptcy.

(A) The Fontana Property

Mr. Melamed asserts that the Fontana Property is a "partially built convalescence home," and anticipates that it will take an estimated $6,925,349.36 in funds to complete the project. Id., p.2:16, 25-26. Mr. Melamed further asserts that "the entire sum is not going to be needed at once but [he is] committed to investing as much as [he] can into this property ... [and] can obtain a construction loan as [the Debtor] make[s] progress." Id. pp.2:26-3:1.

But it is unclear how Debtor intends to fund such a large project given that it is not operating or generating any income (dkt. 15, p.2, para. "(B)(1)" & p.3 "(B)(2)" and dkt. 50, p.1) and there is no evidence in the record of Debtor efforts to obtain DIP financing or of Mr. Melamed's or Mr. Ali Nowaid's (Debtor's other member) financial ability to fund even a portion of the project until it can obtain the necessary funding. To make matters worse, Debtor previously stated that an existing dispute between its secured creditors "has to be resolved at the earliest to allow the Debtor to seek new investors and/or new financing to fund its plans" (dkt. 15, pdf p.13:19-20). But there remains nothing in the record suggesting this dispute has been resolved so it is unclear whether Debtor even could pursue DIP financing at this time.

Nor is there any discussion about how long construction is anticipated to take, whether Debtor intends to sell the Fontana Property once construction is completed and, if so, how much the Debtor estimates it could be sold for, and how Debtor intends to service existing secured debts (including the accrual of default interest) in the meantime. Alternatively, if Debtor intends to operate the convalescence home (albeit unlikely), there is no discussion about Debtor's qualifications to operate this type of business or financial projections for servicing the existing secured debt as well as the debt necessary to bring the project to completion.

Debtor's initial status report (dkt. 15) disclosed that the City of Fontana was in the process of reviewing the property's existing conditions, the validity of Debtor's permits and might issue citations against the Debtor (id., pdf p.13:12-13). As a result, Debtor was considering demolishing existing structures and submitting a new plan an permit package (id., pdf p., 13:13-15). But in Debtor's latest papers (dkt. 52) Debtor fails to address the status of those investigations and what impact that has or might have on Debtor's ability to proceed with its existing plans.

(B) The Viewmont Property

Mr. Melamed states that this property "requires a great deal of repair and is currently not occupied due to its condition" (dkt. 52, p.3:5-6) and repair costs have been estimated to be $1,709,126.80 (id., p.3:11-12). But it is unclear what Debtor's intentions are with respect to this property and what risks exist for the estate or the public in allowing this property to sit vacant indefinitely.

(iii) Employment of bankruptcy counsel

At the conclusion of the hearing on 6/29/21 this Court set a deadline of 7/16/21 for Debtor's (proposed) bankruptcy counsel to file supplemental papers addressing the issues addressed in the 6/29/21 tentative ruling (copied below). As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, no response is on file.

(v) Conclusion

Debtor has obtained the benefits of the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(a)) and the other advantages of bankruptcy (e.g., negotiating leverage, and opportunities for restructuring) without bearing the burdens. In addition, Debtor's proposed counsel appears to have made false statements regarding its purported lack of conflicts and its qualifications to represent Debtor in this case.

For the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is to dismiss this case with a 180-day bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy, and expressly retain jurisdiction regarding possible sanctions. The tentative ruling is to issue OSCs against Debtor's principal and its proposed counsel, and set those OSCs for hearing at the same time as the continued status conference (see part "(2)" of this tentative ruling, below).

After entry of that order on the docket, this Court will prepare the above-referenced OSCs.

Tentative Ruling for 6/29/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Dismiss this case with a bar, and issue orders to show cause why Debtor's principal and its proposed counsel should not be sanctioned ("OSCs")

The tentative ruling, is to dismiss this case with a 180 day bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy due to "willful failure of the debtor to abide by orders of the court, or to appear before the court in proper prosecution of the case." 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1). In addition, the tentative ruling is to issue OSCs directing Debtor's principal (Mr. Melamed) and Debtor's proposed counsel (meaning both the Abbasi Law Corporation and Matthew Abbasi individually) to appear and show cause why they should not be subject to sanctions, (x) for the reasons set forth in this Court's 6/1/21 tentative ruling (copied below) in the amount of $200 each, for Mr. Melamed and proposed counsel, and also (y) for the following additional reasons, in the amount of $50 against Mr. Melamed for the MOR/UST fee issue described below, and $2,000 against Debtor's proposed counsel for apparently false, belated statements regarding conflicts of interest and other disqualifications to represent this Debtor.

(i) Continued failure to comply with reporting requirements

Despite this Court's admonitions in the 6/1/21 tentative ruling about filing late Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs"), Debtor's May MOR (which was due 6/15/21) was not filed until 6/24/21. In addition, that MOR is mostly blank, including the part reflecting payment of quarterly fees to the Office of the United States Trustee ("UST"), which means Debtor either is not making the required payments (without explaining why in the MOR), or Debtor is not accurately reporting payments. See MOR (dkt.50) p.6. What else is missing or inaccurate in Debtor's MORs?

(ii) Failure to obtain valuation of property, or other apparent progress

This Court was persuaded not to dismiss this case on 6/1/21 based on proposed counsel's representation the Debtor would be filing papers demonstrating the steps it has taken to move this case forward. But as of the preparation of this tentative ruling the docket does not reflect any apparent progress.

True, Debtor's (late) MOR asserts that Debtor has "achieved [a] tentative deal with Creditor, Prime Point which needs to be approved by the court. Additionally, the Debtor has made substantial progress on its plan for its properties." Dkt.50, p.8, Questionnaire item 3. Those vague phrases are essentially meaningless.

There is no indication that, after more than four months in bankruptcy, Debtor has made any tangible progress. To the contrary, as set forth below, the apparent conflicts and other problems involving Debtor's proposed counsel probably mean that any tentative deal with Prime Point cannot be approved.

(iii) Employment of bankruptcy counsel

Debtor filed this case on 2/19/21, but has only belatedly filed an employment application a month later, and very belatedly lodged a proposed order approving that application four months later. See dkt. 20-22, 48, 49. For the following reasons, this Court has concerns about the proposed employment. Some of those concerns might be easily addressed; but they get progressively worse, and they culminate in apparent conflicts of interest and related concerns that appear to disqualify counsel entirely.

A. Missing retainer agreement. Proposed counsel refers to a retainer agreement (dkt. 20, pp.4:19, 5:9), but the retainer agreement is not attached. That is troubling because retainer agreements sometimes include matters such as purported waivers of conflicts of interest that are impermissible (in fact, as set forth below, the application papers do include a purported waiver of conflicts of interest).

B. Third party funder. Proposed counsel discloses that it received a pre-petition retainer from Shahin Melamed, who holds a 50% membership interest in the Debtor (dkt. 20, pdf p.18:5-7) and that Mr. Melamed and/or his other businesses have agreed to pay all of proposed counsel's post-petition fees and costs (id., pdf p.18:14-16) and that all funds provided by Mr. Melamed or his affiliates are intended to be contributions and not loans (id., pdf p.18:11-20). This raises certain ethical issues because a third party funder who funds a retainer and ongoing attorneys' fees and costs for a debtor (a "Funder") may have a variety of motivations for providing the funding, including not just a desire to protect prior equity investments or loans to Debtor, but also, for example, being the recipient of an avoidable preference, or having alter ego liability, or otherwise having interests that are adverse to (or at least not fully aligned with) the bankruptcy estate or creditors. For these reasons, although payment of a retainer by a Funder is not outright prohibited, it is fraught with ethical concerns. If this Court is persuaded not to dismiss this case, proposed counsel should be prepared to address the following issues (for purposes of the following discussion, the "Funder" includes not just Mr. Melamed but all of his affiliates who may contribute funds):

(1) Connections. What are all of the connections between the Funder, on the one hand, and Debtor, Debtor's proposed counsel, and any of the other types of persons listed in FRBP 2014, on the other hand – e.g., have there been any economic or business or personal connections between the Funder and Debtor beyond the fact of being direct or indirect equity owners, or between the Funder and proposed counsel, or any creditor or other party in interest, or their respective attorneys or accountants? These questions may be answered, if appropriate, by referring to specific disclosures already on file, e.g., in the bankruptcy schedules.

(2) Informed consent of Funder. Has the Funder been advised regarding actual and potential conflicts of interest, and that the sole attorney-client relationship and duty of loyalty is with Debtor, not the Funder? Who provided such advice: independent counsel, or Debtor's proposed counsel (and, if the latter, was the Funder given the opportunity to obtain independent counsel)? Has the Funder given informed consent? Are those things in writing? If any Funder has other equity owners, have they given their informed consent in writing?

(3) Informed consent of debtor. Has the debtor likewise been fully advised and given informed consent? Who provided such advice? Are these things in writing?

(4) Other consideration. Has proposed counsel demonstrated or represented to the Court the absence of an actual or potential conflict, a lack of disinterestedness, or any other basis for disqualification? See In re Kelton Motors, Inc., 109 B.R. 641 (Bankr. D. Vt. 1989); In re Hathaway Ranch Partnership, 116 B.R. 208, 219 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1990); In re Park-Helena Corp., 63 F.3d 877 (9th Cir. 1995).

C. Purported waiver of conflicts. Proposed counsel states that, to the extent any potential or actual conflicts of interest exist or arise between the Debtor, Mr. Melamed and/or Mr. Ali Nowaid (who holds the other 50% membership interest in the Debtor) as a result of the Mr. Melamed's payment of proposed counsel's pre-petition retainer and post-petition fees and costs or, presumably for any other reason (see below re apparent conflicts), the parties have agreed to waive all conflicts of interest (dkt. 20, p.5:3-8 & pdf p.14, para. "(5)"). But proposed counsel has not cited any authority in support of those assertions, and in general a debtor in possession cannot waive conflicts on behalf of the bankruptcy estate/creditors. If this Court is persuaded not to dismiss this case, the tentative ruling is to disapprove of any provision in proposed counsel's retainer agreement in which Debtor purports to waive any conflict of interest on behalf of the estate. See In re Triple Star Welding, Inc., 324 B.R. 778, 791 (9th Cir. BAP 2005) (informed consent to waive conflicts cannot be obtained because "the real parties in interest" are "the creditors, and that is not a waivable conflict") (citation and internal quotation marks omitted).

D. Conflicts of Interest. Mr. Melamed's declaration states that Debtor sought bankruptcy protection to prevent the loss of its real property located at 7227 Oleander Avenue, Fontana, CA 92336 (the "Property") in a foreclosure sale (dkt. 20, pdf p.8:11-14) and that there is currently a dispute between Debtor's two secured creditors (All Star Financial ("All Star") and Prime Point Contracting, Inc. ("Prime Point")) over which of the two entities holds the first-priority lien against Debtor's real property (id., pdf p.8:18-25). Mr. Melamed further states that that resolution of the dispute between All Star and Prime Point is very important to Debtor's plan and that Debtor intends to seek a determination of lien priority in an action pending in State Court that Prime Point initiated to foreclose on its judgment lien (id., pdf p., 9:1-6). In other words, disputes with Prime Point are central to this bankruptcy case.

Proposed counsel states that it does not have any conflicts of interest (id., pdf p.14, para. "(5)") that would prevent it from representing Debtor. But proposed counsel discloses that it represents Prime Point in an unrelated employment law matter (id. pdf p.15, para. "(6)"). In addition, proposed counsel discloses that for many years it has represented the co-defendants in that employment law matter: Prime Point's owner, Anthony Nowald, and to a lesser extent his son, Ali Nowald, who is also the 50% co-owner of Debtor. Id., pdf pp.15-18. In other words, proposed counsel appears to have direct conflicts of interest because it has duties of loyalty to Prime Point, its owner, and his son, all of whom are on opposite sides of disputes with (x) Debtor (foreclosure etc.), (y) All Star (lien priority etc.), and (z) all other creditors and equity holders in this bankruptcy case (because proposed counsel has a duty to investigate whether, for example, there might be grounds to avoid any lien asserted by Prime Point, or otherwise object to its claim). See generally, e.g., Triple Star Welding, 324 B.R. 778, 791-797 & nn.12, 14 & 20 (burden is on debtor and professionals to establish disinterestedness and lack of adverse interests, both for employment and for compensation); In re Sonya D. Intern., Inc., 484 B.R. 773, 781 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) (citing authority that general bankruptcy counsel must review claims "to determine which should be disputed" and to investigate "pre-bankruptcy transactions" and, if such counsel represented creditors then "[a]ny number of possible conflicts can be envisioned," although representation of a creditor is not a per se disqualification from employment) (citation and internal quotation marks omitted).

In addition, this Court is concerned that these disclosures were not stated prominently in the employment application itself, together with an explanation of how proposed counsel concluded that it is qualified for employment. Instead, the application contains only an oblique reference to the disclosures and a bald assertion (apparently false) that proposed counsel does not represent anyone who has an interest "materially adverse" to Debtor (which, incidentally, is not the complete test under 11 U.S.C. 101(14) and 327(a)):

ALC does not represent [anyone] which has an interest materially adverse to the Debtor in connection with this bankruptcy case or otherwise. ALC has disclosed all of its current and past representations of the Debtor, its owners, and one of its creditors in the present and past matters in the aforementioned Statement which is being filed concurrently with the herein Application. [Dkt.48, p. 5:19-23 (emphasis added).]

The tentative ruling is that, whether or not this case is dismissed, this Court will issue an OSC directing proposed counsel to address the foregoing issues and explain the factual and legal grounds for concluding that its current and past representations of Prime Point, its owner Anthony Nowald, and his son and Debtor's co-owner Ali Nowald, do not create actual conflicts of interest and a lack of disinterestedness that disqualify it from representing the Debtor. The tentative ruling is that proposed counsel's explanation must address the precise words of 11 U.S.C. 327(a), which authorizes employment of professionals who "do not hold or represent an interest adverse to the estate, and that are disinterested persons" and 11 U.S.C. 101(14)(C), which defines "disinterested person" as a person who (among other things) "does not have an interest materially adverse to the interest of the estate or of any class of creditors or equity security holders, by reason of any direct or indirect relationship to, connection with, or interest in, the debtor, or for any other reason," and in addition proposed counsel must cite authority supporting its position that it "does not represent [anyone] which has an interest materially adverse to the Debtor" despite its representation of foreclosing creditor Prime Point and its insiders.

Debtor has obtained the benefits of the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(a)) and the other advantages of bankruptcy (e.g., negotiating leverage, and opportunities for restructuring) without bearing the burdens. In addition, Debtor's proposed counsel appears to have made false statements regarding its purported lack of conflicts and its qualifications to represent Debtor in this case.

Tentative Ruling for 6/1/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Dismiss this case with a bar, and issue order to show cause ("OSC")

The tentative ruling, is to dismiss this case with a 180 day bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy due to "willful failure of the debtor to abide by orders of the court, or to appear before the court in proper prosecution of the case." 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1). In addition, the tentative ruling is to issue an OSC directing Debtor's principal (Mr. Melamed) and Debtor's counsel to appear and show cause why they should not be subject to sanctions of $200 each, for the following reasons.

(i) Failure to appear at the 4/27/21 status conference

This Court's tentative ruling posted in advance of the 4/27/21 status conference (copied below) directed Debtor to appear to address certain issues discussed therein, but Debtor failed to appear or otherwise notify Judge Bason's staff in advance of the hearing about any circumstances that might have prompted this Court to excuse Debtor's appearance.

(ii) Failure to comply with reporting requirements

Debtor has repeatedly been late in filing Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs"). See February MOR (dkt. 16, filed 8 days late) & March MOR (dkt. 32, filed 18 days late). As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, Debtor has not filed its April MOR (due 5/15/21), despite having entered into a stipulation to do so (resolving the motion of the United States Trustee ("UST") to dismiss this case, dkt. 40).

(iii) Failure to obtain valuation of property

Debtor's February MOR stated that valuation of its property is key to the success of its plan (dkt. 16, p. 8), but as of the preparation of this tentative ruling (over two months later) Debtor has not filed any motions to value its real properties. Additionally, Debtor's February and March MORs (dkt. 16 & 32) reflect that Debtor is not operating and Debtor continues to accrue administrative expenses without appearing to take any meaningful steps to reorganize its affairs.

(iv) Incorrect/untimely service of original and amended claims bar date orders

On 3/25/21 this Court issued an original bar date order (dkt. 18) which directed Debtor to serve a copy of the order by 3/30/21, but Debtor failed to serve that order at all. On 4/28/21 this Court issued an amended bar date order (dkt. 30) directing Debtor to "serve a copy of this Order (not the notice contemplated by LBR 3003-1)" on all parties in interest no later than 5/3/21 (dkt. 30, p.2, para. "(2)"). Notwithstanding those directions, Debtor appears to have served only the notice contemplated by LBR 3003-1 (see dkt. 35, 36) and even that service was 1 day later than the deadline this Court set.

(v) Conclusion

The foregoing lapses are not terribly serious, and there might (or might not) be good reasons for any one of those lapses (e.g., illness or calendaring errors). But in combination those lapses place undue burdens on other parties in interest (and this Court), and deprive creditors and the UST of timely information that they need. Debtor has obtained the benefits of the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(a)) and the other advantages of bankruptcy (e.g., negotiating leverage, and opportunities for restructuring) without bearing the burdens. That is inappropriate and sanctionable.

The tentative ruling is to set the OSC for the same time as the continued status conference (see part "(2)" of this tentative ruling, below).

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 2/19/21.

(a) Amended Bar date: 6/30/21 (dkt. 30) (served 1 day late, dkt. 35, 36)

(b) Procedures order: dkt.3 (timely served, dkt.5)

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement: See Section (1)(a), above.

(1) Current issues

(a) Service of bar date order

This Court's bar date order (dkt. 18) set a deadline of 3/30/21 for Debtor to serve all interested parties. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, there is no proof of service reflecting that Debtor timely complied. Have creditors been served with the bar date order? If so, when did that occur and why has Debtor not filed a proof of service?

(b) Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs")

As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, Debtor has not filed its March MOR. Why not?

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor and by Debtor's principal.

(1) Current issues

(a) Untimely Status report

Debtor filed its status report (dkt. 15) four days late, on 3/13/21, without providing any explanation for the late filing. Debtor/counsel are cautioned that failure to timely comply with this Court's orders in future may result in adverse consequences.

(b) First-day motions

Debtor's status report states that a budget motion is not required by the presiding judge's procedures. Dkt. 15, p.3. That is wrong (see posted "Procedures of Judge Bason," available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov), but the tentative ruling is to excuse this requirement with a caution to counsel not to mis-state the applicable procedures.

If Debtor has not filed an employment application or any other typical so-called "first-day" motion(s) by the time of this hearing, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/30/21 for Debtor to file any outstanding motion(s) with a

fr. 3/23/21, 6/15/21

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/3/21:

Appearances are not required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion to approve settlement (dkt. 47)

The tentative ruling is to approve the parties settlement agreement as follows.

(i) Notice and service are proper

This Court's 6/15/21 tentative ruling (copied below) directed Mr. Kummer to file and serve a motion to approve the parties' settlement agreement by 7/13/21. On 6/30/21, Mr. Kummer filed a "Declaration of Dixon G. Kummer re Mediation and Settlement and Request/Motion to Approve Settlement" (dkt. 47) (emphasis added).

The typical procedure for obtaining approval of a settlement requires parties to file a separately noticed motion under Rule 9019 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) (see In re A&C Properties, 784 F.2d 1377, 1381 (9th Cir. 1986) for applicable standards) and serve the motion on all creditors at least 21 days prior to the hearing, "unless the court for cause shown directs that notice not be sent." Rule 2002(a)(3) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

The tentative ruling is that there is adequate "cause" not to require service on all creditors in this instance because the dollar amounts at issue are small and the Chapter 7 Trustee received NEF notice of the proposed settlement and has not filed any opposition to the settlement or request to administer the asset.

(ii) The settlement is reasonable, fair and equitable

The tentative ruling is also that the proposed settlement is reasonable, fair and equitable as follows.

As to the first A&C Factor (probable success), the tentative ruling is that this factor weighs in favor of approving the settlement because although the Debtor has succeeded in avoiding the entry of default judgment against her in the State Court action, the Debtor is proceeding in pro per and absent the settlement would need to litigate the issue of whether Mr. Jarvis's (and his parents) conduct violated the discharge injunction and defend herself against the claims asserted in the State Court complaint.

As to the second A&C Factor (difficulty of collection) the tentative ruling is that this factor is neutral. There is no evidence in the record to conclude that the Debtor would experience any difficulty in collecting against Mr. Jarvis at a later time.

As to the third A&C Factor (complexity of the litigation and circumstances attending it) the tentative ruling is that this factor weighs in favor of settlement because it results in an immediate resolution of all disputes and avoids the unnecessary costs, delay and uncertainty attendant with litigation.

As to the fourth A&C Factor (best interest of creditors) the tentative ruling is that this factor is neutral because Debtor disclosed the property that is the primary subject of the parties' dispute: 316 Oompaul St., Johannesburg, CA 93528 on Schedule A (dkt. 1, p.11) and the Chapter 7 Trustee has not indicated an intent to administer the property if the settlement is approved.

(b) Contempt/Sanctions motion (dkt. 24, 25), Opposition of Jordan Jarvis and Dixon G. Kummer, Esq ("Respondents") (dkt. 30), Debtor's reply (dkt. 31), interim order (dkt. 32), Debtor's notice of errata (dkt. 34), Dixon declaration (dkt. 35), Order assigning matter to mediation (dkt. 36) & proof of service (dkt. 38), mediator's certificate of conclusion of mediation (dkt. 42) Declaration of Dixon G. Kummer re status of mediation (dkt. 43)

If this Court adopts its tentative ruling approving the settlement agreement, the tentative ruling is to deny this motion as moot.

(c) Jarvis v. Garcia (Adv. No. 2:21-ap-01006-NB, the "Removed Action"), Debtor's declaration (adv. dkt. 4)

If this Court adopts its tentative ruling approving the settlement agreement, the tentative ruling is to dismiss this proceeding as moot.

Proposed orders: Mr. Kummer is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing matters ("(a)", "(b)" and "(c)") via LOU within 7

Docket 173

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/3/21:

Appearances required by Thomas J. Polis, Esq., Ms. Freda Wang, and Ms. Lynn Chao.

(1) Current issues

(a) Background: ongoing failure to abide by orders of this Court

On 7/22/21 this Court entered its "Supplemental Order re Continued Hearing on Increasing Coercive Sanctions Against Freda Wang, Lynn Chao, the Law Offices of Lynn Chao, A.P.C., and Debtor" (dkt. 330, the "Supplemental Coercive Sanctions Order"). That order directed the Contemnors to pay coercive sanctions owing through 7/16/21 by 7/27/21 and established supplemental briefing deadlines for Mr. Polis to address several issues.

Based on this Court's review of the docket, Mr. Polis' supplemental declaration (dkt. 333), and the Alleged Employees' response (dkt. 334, 335) the parties are directed to appear to address the following issues.

(b) Failure to pay coercive sanctions

As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, the Contemnors have not paid the $19,600.00 in outstanding coercive contempt sanctions owing through 7/16/21. Additional coercive sanctions of $700.00/week per Contemnor have also come due ($5,600.00 for the weeks ending 7/23/21 and 7/30/21) and have not been paid. Additional coercive sanctions will come due on 8/6/21 in the amount of $700.00 per Contemnor (for a total of $2,800.00).

The aggregate amount through 8/6/21 is $28,000.00. ($19,600.00 + $5,600.00 + $2,800.00 = $28,000.00).

(c) Failure of Mr. Polis to identify how prior coercive sanction payments should be allocated

The Supplemental Coercive Sanctions Order (dkt. 330, p. 2:9-12) directed Mr. Polis to "file a Declaration no later than July 27, 2021 ... identifying how the coercive sanction payments should be allocated between the individual Contemors." As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, Mr. Polis has not addressed this issue at all.

(d) Failure of Mr. Polis to comply with this Court's discovery orders

Despite Mr. Polis' representations at the hearing on July 20, 2021 that his office has a practice of immediately turning over responsive documents to Counsel for the Alleged Employees, Mr. Polis's supplemental declaration (dkt. 333, p.3:7-17) admits that he failed to do so. That is startling.

The history is that on 5/17/21 Mr. Polis filed the declaration of Johnny Ling, with Mr. Polis' name listed in the caption, in which Johnny Ling declared: "I have personally reviewed the Law Offices of Lynn Chao, A.P.C.'s documents, books and records relevant to the extent necessary to prepare this declaration" (dkt. 306, p. 8:17-18), and "[unspecified] documents are being sent directly to the Alleged Employees' counsel through Contemors' counsel's office [i.e., through Mr. Polis]." Id. (dkt. 306), p. 9:24-25 (emphasis added). Mr. Polis now declares (dkt. 333, pp. 2:27-3:3) that on the same day, 5/17/21, he did in fact receive three emails from Johnny Ling and forwarded them to his legal assistant to be turned over to the Alleged Employees' counsel.

But within days thereafter the Alleged Employees notified Mr. Polis that they had not received any such documents. They did so on 5/20/21, stating: "As of this date, this office has not received any such documents." Dkt. 309, p. 6:27-28. (Later, they may have reiterated later the documents still were missing - this Court recalls that they did so at the hearing on 6/15/21.)

Mr. Polis does not declare that the Alleged Employees' reference(s) to missing documents prompted him to ask his legal assistant why the documents had not been forwarded. Instead, Mr. Polis declares (dkt. 333, p. 3:4-6) that by the time of the hearing on 7/20/21 he had forgotten that any such documents ever existed, and therefore he wrongly (but adamantly) asserted that he had never received such documents.

Meanwhile, Johnny Ling apparently had the same alleged lapse of memory. On 7/14/21 Mr. Polis filed another declaration of Johnny Ling, again with Mr. Polis' name listed in the caption, in which Johnny Ling declared: "All communications with GL Master, Inc. (formerly Little Sheep International, Inc.) that would not violate confidentiality and attorney-client privilege with other parties have been produced in previous productions in October 2019 and December 2019" - he makes no mention of the documents that he provided to Mr. Polis on 5/17/21. Ling Decl. (dkt. 325), p.9:20-22 (emphasis added).

At the very least, the above history appears to exhibit an extremely cavalier attitude toward discovery. In addition, this Court notes that the explanations offered by Mr. Polis are not supported by any declaration from his legal assistant nor any supplemental declaration from Mr. Ling verifying the specific documents and number of pages that he provided to Mr. Polis.

Moreover, as the Alleged Employees point out (dkt. 334, pp. 3:12-4:3 and 5:3-5), there is still no privilege log covering the several litigation matters that Johnny Ling admits handling for Debtor, despite his references to "confidentiality and attorney-client privilege." Dkt. 325, p.9:20-22. Mr. Polis does not address the missing privilege logs.

Nor is there any definitive declaration from Mr. Polis about what responsive documents he has or has not received from Johnny Ling at any time, or from anyone else at any time, as this Court ordered him to file. Specifically, the Supplemental Coercive Sanctions Order directed Mr. Polis "to file a declaration no later than July 27, 2021," addressing:

- a) Whether he received responsive documents from Mr. Johnny Ling or anyone else; and,
- b) Whether he has produced all or part of such documents to the Alleged Employee's counsel.

In the event documents have been withheld, by no later than July 27, 2021, Mr. Polis is to file and serve a brief and declaration(s), with a privilege log attached, addressing any alleged grounds for withholding any documents. [Supplemental Coercive Sanctions Order (dkt. 330), p. 2:13-20.]

Again, the Alleged Employees point this out. See dkt. 334, pp. 3:12-4:3 and 5:3-5.

The Alleged Employees argue persuasively (dkt. 334) that the latest responses by the Contemnors and Mr. Polis only reinforce that they are failing to comply with this Court's discovery orders. To put it bluntly, they are only digging themselves a deeper hole.

(f) Consequences

This Court anticipates addressing at the hearing some possible consequences of the foregoing acts and omissions. At a minimum, this Court anticipates increasing the dollar amount of daily coercive sanctions imposed on the Contemnors. The tentative ruling is also to continue this matter to 8/31/21 at 2:00 p.m. to assess again whatever further coercive measures may be appropriate until the Contemnors and Mr. Polis comply with their discovery obligations and this Court's orders.

Proposed order: Counsel for the Alleged Employees is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date providing for whatever increased coercive sanctions this Court orders, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. Tentative Ruling for 8/3/21:

Appearances required.

(1) YYF Coercive Sanctions Order (dkt. 289)

The YYF Coercive Sanctions Order provided that YYF "shall be liable for $500 in daily sanctions for each day after December 1, 2020" that it fails to produce/provide documents and information responsive to the Alleged Employees' discovery requests (dkt. 289, p.2:4-10). That order also provided that YYF "may with notice to all parties seek leave of Court to lift these daily sanctions on the basis of YYF's compliance with this Court's Orders" (id., p.2:11-12).

Based on this Court's calculations, as of the date of this hearing, coercive sanctions have accrued in the amount of $122,500.00 (245 days x $500/day) and there is no evidence that YYF has made a single payment, produced any (or supplemental) discovery, or otherwise sought leave to avoid the accrual of future sanctions.

The parties are directed to address what alternative coercive measures this Court should impose, and whether this Court should set supplemental briefing deadlines for the parties to brief that issue, in view of the Contemnors continuing failure to comply with this Court's orders.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see the Posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard

#6.00 Hrg re: Debtor's Motion for Order Disallowing Proof of Claim 4-1

Docket 44

Tentative Ruling:

Continue to 9/9/21 at 8:30 a.m. to address the following issues. Appearances are not required on 8/12/21.

Reasons:

(A) Grounds for objection

Debtor objects to the proof of claim on the grounds that it does not contain sufficient documentation as required by Rule 3001(c). Dkt. 44, p.2:8-15. But failure to attach supporting documentation, by itself, is not a proper basis to disallow a claim under 11 U.S.C. 502(b). As stated by this Court in its Memorandum Decision Regarding Debtor's Claim Objections in In re Orozco, available on the court's website:

It is true that under Rule 3001(f) a proof of claim must be "executed and filed in accordance with these rules" in order to automatically "constitute prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim." But a rule cannot supersede a statute, and as held by the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel for the Ninth Circuit ("BAP"), an objecting party must do more than simply point to a lack of compliance with Rule 3001 in order to obtain an order disallowing a claim: the objecting party must establish an actual basis to contest the liability or amount of the claim. See In re Campbell, 336 B.R. 430 (9th Cir. BAP 2005); In re Heath, 331 B.R. 424 (9th Cir. BAP 2005). See also Travelers Cas. & Sur. Co. of Am. V. Pac. Gas & Elec. Co., 549 U.S. 443, 449 (2007) ("the court 'shall allow' the claim 'except to the extent that' the claim implicates any of the nine exceptions enumerated in § 502(b)") (quoting the statute). [2:13-bk-15745-NB, dkt. 134 at p.5:8-19]

No later than 7 days after the date of this hearing the movant must file and serve either: (1) supplemental papers addressing what statutory ground exists for denial of the claim (if such grounds exist, and if the costs of further proceedings are worth the likely benefits - see below) or (2) a withdrawal of the claim objection.

(B) Lack of cost/benefit analysis. The posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) provide:

§ 502: claim objections & cost/benefit analysis. When objecting to claims, be sure to include an analysis of whether the costs of preparing and litigating the claim objection (administrative expenses) do not exceed the anticipated benefits (reductions in claims). For example, if the anticipated dividend is small or 0% then the attorney fees incurred in prosecuting your claim objection to any general unsecured claim probably will exceed the benefit to the bankruptcy estate/debtor, so filing that objection would be a waste of the bankruptcy estate's (and everyone else's) resources (unless, for example, the claim is nondischargeable, in which event the attorney fees might well be justified).

No later than 7 days after the date of this hearing the movant must file and serve either:

(1) a supplemental declaration (x) explaining why the attorney fees for this objection are justified (including supporting evidence, such as a copy of the plan showing the projected dividend to the claimant, and a calculation comparing that projected dividend against the attorney fees related to this claim objection) and, (y) providing a valid basis to disallow the claim under 11 U.S.C. 502(b), or

(2) a withdrawal of the claim objection.

(C) No fees on this matter, absent specific authorization. Counsel is directed not to charge any fees on this matter (including all past, present and future work related to this claim objection), and return any fees received on this matter, unless and until this Court expressly finds: "Counsel has provided a cost/benefit analysis that is sufficient for purposes of Judge Bason's posted Procedures regarding claim objections." It is counsel's responsibility to include the quoted phrase, if warranted, in the proposed order on this claim objection.

This Court does not have the capacity to monitor all fee applications to assure compliance with the foregoing limitation on fees. But if counsel is found to have disregarded this limitation then this Court may impose

vs
DEBTOR

Docket 41

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

fr. 6/29/21

vs
DEBTOR

Docket 15

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/17/21:
Appearances required.

At the hearing on 6/29/21 this Court granted the motion but deferred entering an order to allow time for the parties to participate in mandatory mediation. On 8/16/21, this Court received an ex parte communication from the mediator that Debtor did not meet the mediator's deadlines for submitting a mediation brief. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to provide an update on the status of mediation.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see the Posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." posted tentative rulings). Unless otherwise stated, appearances via CourtCall are no longer permitted.

Tentative Ruling for 6/29/21:
Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: This Court will prepare an order after the hearing date.

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Debtor's opposition (dkt. 17), no reply is on file

Analysis:

(1) Notice

Debtor highlights that the motion papers were not served until 6/9/21 (20 days before the hearing) (see dkt. 15 and LBR 9013-1(d)(2) requiring 21 days' notice). But the Posted Procedures of Judge Bason's (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) permit parties to file this type of motion on shortened time - 14 days' notice - without prior approval.

True, Movants failed to modify the local form of notice to state the foregoing, and to note that the deadline for any opposition is five calendar days before the hearing date. But Debtor has not alleged or provided evidence of any prejudice, so the tentative ruling is to overrule Debtor's objection to Movants' notice.

(2) The automatic stay does not apply

The tentative ruling is to grant the motion under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3) and (j): there is no automatic stay because (a) Debtor's prior case (#2:20-bk-15695-NB) was dismissed (on 10/26/20) within one year before this case was filed (on 4/7/21), (b) that dismissal was not under 11 U.S.C. 707(b), and (c) no finding of good faith was timely sought and obtained. The automatic stay has terminated both as to Debtor in personam and as to property of Debtor. See In re Reswick, 446 B.R. 362 (9th Cir. BAP 2011); In re Hernandez, case no. 2:11-bk-53730-NB, docket #40 (Memorandum Decision).

Chapter 7

In the alternative and in addition, the tentative ruling is that the automatic stay does not apply pursuant to this Court's order issued in Debtor's prior case, which provides "[t]his order is binding and effective in any bankruptcy case commenced by or against the Debtor for a period of 180 days, so that no further automatic stay shall arise in that case as to the nonbankruptcy action." Id. at p.2, para. "(9)". Because Debtor commenced this case on 4/7/21, which is within the 180-day period contemplated by that Order, no automatic stay applies in this case as against Movants.

(3) Alternative relief: if the automatic stay were to apply for some reason (which it does not), there is cause to grant relief

In the alternative and in addition, the tentative ruling is to grant relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Note regarding mootness: Judge Bason's standard tentative ruling is as follows. For three reasons the above tentative ruling that there is no stay does not moot requests for relief from whatever stay might apply. First, such alternative rulings are appropriate because (i) the very nature of tentative rulings is that this Court could be persuaded to depart from any one of them, and (ii) a final ruling on any one issue could be reversed on appeal. Second, even if there is currently no stay, that could change - e.g., if there is no stay because of dismissal of this bankruptcy case, such dismissal could be vacated and that might reimpose the stay even if there is a lack of adequate protection, or other grounds why the stay should not apply, and therefore the movant will suffer cognizable harm unless the issues are addressed now (Judge Bason regularly vacates dismissals based on stipulations or other good cause). Third, if the motion includes any request for relief as to past acts (annulment) or future cases (in rem relief), those things are still at issue even if there is no current automatic stay. See In re Aheong, 276 B.R. 233 (9th Cir. BAP 2002). For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to address the following issues.

On the merits, the tentative ruling is to terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1). Debtor argues that Movants do not specify what "cause" they assert for relief; but Movants implicitly rely on the same cause that persuaded this Court to grant them relief in Debtor's prior bankruptcy case. See R/S Motion (Case No. 2:20-bk-15695-NB, dkt. 39) and R/S Order (dkt. 41). In that case Movants established that Debtor filed that bankruptcy case without notice to them, and then attempted to use that bankruptcy case to render void the $35,000 arbitration award against Debtor in favor of Movants. That conduct was and is cause to grant Movants the relief they seek.

In addition, this Court's records show that Debtor's prior bankruptcy case was dismissed for infeasibility. Debtor's history of having used an infeasible bankruptcy case to frustrate Movants' attempts to collect their arbitration award is alternative and additional cause for relief from any automatic stay in this case (if any such stay existed, which it does not).

(4) Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's conduct described above establishes that the filing of this bankruptcy case was part of a scheme to hinder, delay, or defraud Movants and that it is appropriate to grant relief that will be effective notwithstanding any future bankruptcy cases under the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017):

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

(5) Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)

(3).

#8.00 Cont'd hrg re: Motion for Default Judgment
fr. 6/29/21

Docket 28

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/17/21:

Please see the tentative ruling for the status conference (Calendar No. 9, 8/17/21 at 11:00 a.m.).

Tentative Ruling for 6/29/21:

Appearances required. The tentative ruling is to continue this hearing to 8/17/21 at 11:00 a.m. and meanwhile (1) set a deadline of 7/9/21 for the parties to lodge proposed order(s) on the Local Form directing them to mandatory mediation, (2) set a deadline of 7/23/21 for defendant Los Angeles Farmers, Inc. ("Defendant"), if the parties have not resolved their differences by then, to file and serve a motion to vacate the default, to be heard at the continued hearing. (Presumably such a motion for relief from default would be substantially identical in substance to the opposition papers, but it would be properly filed and served as a separate motion, although Defendant is free to file and serve any other form of such a motion.) All of the foregoing is subject to the parties lodging any stipulated order for further continuances, in view of the relatively short time to arrange for and complete mediation before the deadline to file and serve any motion for relief from default.

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Defendant's belated opposition (dkt. 30). As of the preparation of this tentative ruling no reply is on file.

Analysis

Defendant's opposition to entry of a default judgment requests that this Court set aside entry of default (see dkt. 30). The tentative ruling is that, on the one hand, this request for relief is procedurally improper and must be brought via a separate motion, and the opposition has been filed very late; but, on the other hand, a continuance appears to be appropriate based on the allegations in the opposition, including that Defendant never received the funds at issue (which, apparently, were paid to the Vayntrubs instead); Defendant is no longer associated with the Vayntrubs; and the other reasons set forth in the opposition papers. See Horton v. Sierra Conservation Ctr. 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 18241, at *2, 2010 WL 743849, at *1 (E.D. Cal. Mar. 2010) ("[e]ntry of default against a defendant cuts off that defendant's right to appear in the action or to present evidence" unless or until the entry of default has been set aside) (citing Clifton v. Tomb, 21 F.2d 893, 897 (4th Cir. 1927)).

Tentative Ruling for 5/11/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 5/11/21.

(A) Current issues

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv. dkt. 25) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(1) Motion for default judgment against Los Angeles Farmers, Inc.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 6/29/21 for Plaintiff to file a motion for default judgment against Los Angeles Farmers, Inc., with a hearing concurrent with the continued status conference. The Vayntrub Defendants do not need to appear at the continued status conference and this Court anticipates thereafter setting a further continued status conference for 9/28/21 at 11:00 a.m.

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/17/21:

Grant relief as set forth below, and continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 8/17/21.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion to Dismiss or Convert, filed by the United States of America, on Behalf of its Agency the Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") (dkt. 396); Opposition of Debtor (dkt. 407); IRS's Reply (dkt. 413)

Grant insofar as conversion, because failure to pay taxes "timely" is cause for relief, and such cause is reinforced by the matters described below. Conversion, rather than dismissal, appears to be in the the best interest of the bankruptcy estate (see below).

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1) (B).

(b) Motion to Convert Case to Chapter 7, filed by John P. Pringle, Chapter 11 Trustee ("Chapter 11 Trustee") (dkt. 397); Opposition of Debtor (dkt. 408); Chapter 11 Trustee's Reply (dkt.412)

Grant. On the one hand, it is difficult to predict in advance whether the statutory fees of a chapter 7 trustee would be greater or less than the administrative expenses in chapter 11; and on the present record any alleged failure to maintain insurance for any period of time appears to be a disputed factual issue that cannot be resolved without additional evidence.

On the other hand, Debtor's violation of his duties in chapter 11, including his non-disclosure of unauthorized postpetition borrowing and his failure to segregate cash from various sources (in violation of this Court's orders regarding the use of cash collateral), establish "cause" for conversion (or dismissal) under 11 U.S.C. 1112(b). Those things also make it very unlikely that Debtor will be able to propose any chapter 11 plan that would be accepted by creditors or "crammed down" by this Court, because even a liquidating plan would have to rely on Debtor's trustworthiness, or alternatively would have to provide for a liquidating agent. Appointing a chapter 7 trustee appears to be the most efficient and appropriate means of liquidating the estate. In addition, beyond an expenses that would have to be borne by the bankruptcy estate, any attempt by Debtor to pursue a liquidating plan or other relief will force other parties to spend time and money for which they are very unlikely to be compensated. In addition, one of the principal unsecured creditors, the IRS, supports conversion (if this case is not dismissed). For all of these reasons, conversion appears to be both appropriate and in the best interests of creditors and the estate within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. 1112(b) (1) and (b)(4)(A), (B), (D), (E), (F) and (I).

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b) (1)(B).

(c) Cash collateral: declaration re 3d default under stipulation with IRS (the "Default Decl.," dkt.315), Debtor's response (dkt.317), order setting hearing (dkt.318)

The tentative ruling is that conversion of this case to chapter 7, and the ongoing efforts by the chapter 11/chapter 7 trustees to sell the properties of the estate and pay the IRS and other creditors, are sufficient and appropriate relief. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to maintain the automatic stay conditioned on ongoing and sufficient progress in selling the properties, and deny any further relief on the present record (without prejudice to seeking any additional relief in future). The tentative ruling is not to continue this matter any further.

Proposed order: The IRS is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1) (B).

The tentative ruling is that conversion of this case to chapter 7, and the ongoing efforts by the chapter 11/chapter 7 trustees to sell the properties of the estate and pay US Bank and other creditors, are sufficient and appropriate relief. (1) Current issues

(a) Disputes with several creditors

This Court has reviewed Debtor's post-confirmation reports (dkt. 431, 432), the responses filed by (i) administrative claimant Michael R. Totaro/Totaro & Shanahan ("Totaro") (dkt. 436) and (ii) Verus Securitization Trust 2020-NPL1, as successor in interest to Invictus Residential Pooler Trust 3A, and Patch of Land Lending, Inc. (collectively, "Verus/Patch") (dkt. 435), and Debtor's (unsigned) reply declaration (dkt. 438). There is no tentative ruling, but the parties are directed to address whether this Court should set a briefing schedule on any of their disputes that properly can be presented to this Court, or whether this Court should simply continue this status conference, or set any other procedures at this time.

(2) Deadlines/dates

This case was filed on 7/17/19, and Debtor's plan was confirmed on 2/11/21 (dkt. 390). The tentative ruling is to set a further continued Post-Confirmation Status Conference for 9/28/21 at 1:00 p.m. Brief post-confirmation status report due 9/14/21.

Tentative Ruling for 8/17/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's apparent inability to proceed in chapter 11

On 6/30/21 this Court entered an order granting junior lienholder NDF1, LLC's motion for relief from stay (dkt. 86). Based, in part, on that order (and for the additional reasons set forth in the tentative ruling for 7/20/21 (copied below)), this Court was prepared to dismiss this case on 7/20/21 but was persuaded to continue to the matter to this date based on the representations of an appearance attorney that Debtor was engaging in negotiations with NFD1, LLC to delay any foreclosure sale. There is no tentative ruling, but Debtor should be prepared to provide an update on the status of those negotiations and address why this Court should not dismiss this case for the reasons stated in the 7/20/21 tentative ruling and for failure to file monthly operating reports (see below).

(b) Debtor's Application to employ special litigation counsel (dkt. 45, "Employment Application"), Order setting hearing on Employment Application (dkt. 67), Notice of hearing (dkt. 71), late Response and Application for relief from deadline (dkt. 76, 77)

The tentative ruling is to deny the Employment Application, even if this bankruptcy case is not dismissed, for the reasons stated in the Tentative Ruling for 6/15/21 (reproduced below).

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)

Chapter 11

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's apparent inability to proceed in chapter 11

In view of this Court's order granting junior lienholder NDF1, LLC's motion for relief from stay (dkt. 86) and based on this Court's review of Debtor's status report (dkt. 90), the tentative ruling is to dismiss this case without further notice, based on this Court's procedures order issued at the inception of this case. See dkt.14 (timely served, dkt. 21, amended by dkt. 22). The grounds for dismissal, under 11 U.S.C. 1112, are as follows.

It appears that Debtor is unable to propose a feasible plan or other path forward. Specifically, Debtor has not provided any math to show that he can afford to pay the roughly $5,077.54 in proposed plan payments (dkt. 90, pp.9-12), plus living expenses (dkt. 12, pdf pp.25-26), nor does it appear that he could do so, given that his average monthly income for March, April & May 2021 was roughly $6,080 (see dkt. 55, 75 & 84) and Debtor states that his income will be lower every November-January (dkt. 90, p.4:22-27).

Alternatively, if Debtor seeks to oppose dismissal, the tentative ruling is to continue the status conference as set forth below (see Section (2)(d)) with a deadline of 7/27/21 for Debtor to file and serve on all creditors (i) a copy of this tentative ruling and (ii) supplemental papers addressing the issues set forth above.

(b) Debtor's Application to employ special litigation counsel (dkt. 45, "Employment Application"), Order setting hearing on Employment Application (dkt. 67), Notice of hearing (dkt. 71), late Response and Application for relief from deadline (dkt. 76, 77)

For the reasons set forth above, the tentative ruling is to deny the Employment Application without prejudice.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b) (1)(B).

(c) Monthly Operating Reports ("MOR")

As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, Debtor has not filed his June MOR. The tentative ruling is that this provides an additional ground to dismiss this case.

from deadline (dkt. 76, 77)

Debtor's very belated response (dkt. 76) refers vaguely to "conflicting trial, vacation/holiday and travel schedules" that "delayed" the ability of Debtor's general bankruptcy counsel and proposed special counsel filing the response due 6/1/21 until the night of 6/11/21. Dkt.77, p.5:18-24. That is too vague an excuse, and counsel for Debtor is cautioned that in future she must request any extension before the deadline has expired, or alternatively provide an adequate excuse for being unable to do so.

Nevertheless, the tentative ruling is to excuse Debtor's non-compliance with this Court' prior deadline and provide Debtor with an opportunity to address the following issues. As this Court understands Debtor's position, he alleges that he entered into a modification of the first deed of trust ("DOT") on his home based on his understanding that the second DOT (a HELOC) had been canceled or otherwise forgiven, and Debtor paid the first DOT for "ten years" in reliance on the absence of the second DOT, but instead the HELOC turns out to be a "zombie" loan. See dkt. 29, p.2, and dkt.76, p.3:10-21. While Debtor was paying the first DOT, the second DOT obligation of "approximately $150,000 grew to nearly $300,000." Id.

Debtor now proposes to spend up to an estimated $40,000 to attempt to obtain cancellation of some or all of the debt secured by the second DOT. Id. On the one hand, that appears to be admirably efficient for this type of litigation, and if the litigation is successful then it could generate a substantial net benefit for Debtor.

On the other hand, creditors appear to be the losers in this scenario. Debtor proposes to spend up to $40,000 or more to litigate undisclosed legal theories that might have zero or minimal chance of success; and even if Debtor succeeds he will gain equity in his home that, presumably, he will seek to exempt. If Debtor's cash flow is used to fund this litigation, it appears that he will have little if anything left over to pay creditors (although it is unclear whether Debtor can obtain more monthly income by increasing his "draw" from his business). See bankruptcy schedules "I" & "J" (dkt.12, pp.23-26, and dkt.46, pp.2-4).

A review of the dollars at issue will illustrate. Debtor's amended bankruptcy schedule "D" lists the value of the home as $750,000 encumbered by a first DOT of $420,000 and a second DOT of $305,000. See dkt.12 at PDF pp.15-16, items 2.3 & 2.4. If, for example, Debtor spends $40,000 and obtains exempt equity of $150,000, then creditors will have lost out of $40,000 and will gain nothing in return.

It is possible that Debtor will propose a chapter 11 plan that adequately discloses the cost/benefit analysis and would share some of the net benefits of any success, or that would otherwise be a suitable use of the bankruptcy system. Such a plan could include full disclosure of the legal theories underlying Debtor's proposed litigation, so that creditors could make their own assessment of the cost/benefit of Debtor's proposed course of action, and if they vote in favor of continuing Debtor's litigation then presumably the plan could be confirmed. Otherwise, Debtor might have to pursue other alternative.

Based on all of the foregoing, the tentative ruling is to continue the hearing on the motion to employ special counsel to 7/20/21 at 1:00 p.m. with a deadline of 7/6/21 for Debtor either to file (and NOT serve on anyone except the United States Trustee and anyone requesting special notice) a chapter 11 plan and disclosure statement that explains why the proposed litigation is a good idea for creditors to vote for, or alternatively for Debtor to file (and serve on the same persons) a brief and supporting declaration(s) addressing the issues set forth above (in which event the deadline to file a draft plan and disclosure statement would remain at 9/3/21, as previously set by this Court).

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 3/3/21.

See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation

Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 7/20/21 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 5/10/21. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Joinder of parties/amendment of pleadings-deadline: TBD

Discovery cutoff (for completion of discovery): TBD

Expert(s) - deadline for reports: TBD

Expert(s) - discovery cutoff (if different from above): TBD

Dispositive motions to be heard no later than: TBD

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/17/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Mediation, and pending disputes

This Court has directed the parties to mediation and issued an order (dkt. 161) staying all matters in this bankruptcy case and the associated adversary proceeding (2:21-ap-01084-NB) pending mediation. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address what progress they have made toward completing the mediation and, if that mediation has not been successful, what deadlines, if any, this Court should set for filing briefs and other documents to move this case forward.

(b) Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs")

Debtor's latest MOR (dkt. 162, for month ending 6/30/21) shows continuing losses, and less than $40,000 of cash at the end of the month. How will Debtor continue to finance its operations?

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 3/29/21.

(a) Bar date: 7/6/21.

(b) Procedures order: dkt. 4 (service cured, see dkt. 8, 82)

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement: TBD

(d) Continued status conference: 9/14/21 at 1:00 p.m., concurrent with other matters. No written status report required.

#1.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

RJS Financial, Inc.
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 16

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

Grant as set forth below, subject to any opposition made at the hearing, based on the motion papers (dkt. 16, 17), this Court's order shortening time ("OST," dkt. 19), and the notice and proofs of service (dkt. 21, 22, 23).

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

The tentative ruling is that the automatic stay does not apply to the subject properties. Movant has provided ample evidentiary support that Dos Potrillos LLC owned the subject properties in fee. See, e.g., Decl. of Matt Gross (dkt. 17), Ex. 4, PDF pp. 49–50. Debtor's role as the managing member of Dos Potrillos LLC conferred no legal or equitable interest in the subject properties upon him in his individual capacity, and thus the subject properties were not "property of the estate" under 11 U.S.C. 362(a).

In the alternative and in addition, the tentative ruling is to grant relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Note regarding mootness: Judge Bason's standard tentative ruling is as follows. For three reasons the above tentative ruling that there is no stay does not moot requests for relief from whatever stay might apply. First, such alternative rulings are appropriate because (i) the very nature of tentative rulings is that this Court could be persuaded to depart from any one of them, and (ii) a final ruling on any one issue could be reversed on appeal. Second, even if there is currently no stay, that could change - e.g., if there is no stay because of dismissal of this bankruptcy case, such dismissal could be vacated and that might reimpose the stay even if there is a lack of adequate protection, or other grounds why the stay should not apply, and therefore the movant will suffer cognizable harm unless the issues are addressed now (Judge Bason regularly vacates dismissals based on stipulations or other good cause). Third, if the motion includes any request for relief as to past acts (annulment) or future cases (in rem relief), those things are still at issue even if there is no current automatic stay. See In re Aheong, 276 B.R. 233 (9th Cir. BAP 2002). For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to address the following issues.

Chapter 13

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Retroactive relief

Grant the request for retroactive annulment of the stay. See In re Nat'l Enviro. Waste Corp., 129 F.3d 1052, 1054-56 (9th Cir. 1997); In re Fjeldsted, 293 B.R. 12 (9th Cir. BAP 2003); and see also In re Williams, 323 B.R. 691, 697-702 (9th Cir. BAP 2005) (various issues involving annulment, and application of Fjeldsted), aff'd, 204 Fed.Appx. 582 (9th Cir. 2006), overruled on other issues, In re Perl, 811 F.3d 1120 (9th Cir. 2016) (scope of automatic stay).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

BOBS, LLC
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 936

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/19/21:

Please see the tentative ruling for the status conference (Calendar No. 4, 8/19/21).

[INTERIM TENTATIVE RULINGS OMITTED]

Tentative Ruling for 10/1/19:

Appearances required. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address (1) a proposed timeline, and sequence, for discovery and court proceedings regarding the value of the Paramour and whether Bobs, LLC's second loan is secured or unsecured, and (2) whether this Court should set an evidentiary hearing regarding the value of the Paramour, or whether other procedures are appropriate, such as using a third party appraiser, selected jointly by the parties' own appraisers, who would be either appointed as this Court's own expert witness to assist this Court in assessing the parties' appraisals and testimony of their appraisers, or, alternatively, whose determination would be binding. See Motion (dkt.936), Opposition papers (dkt.948, 949, 950, 951, 952), and Reply papers (dkt.958, 959).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing.

#1.00 Cont'd pretrial Conference re: Complaint Objecting to Discharge
fr. 12/1/20, 4/27/21, 8/3/21

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/26/21:

Please see the tentative ruling for the trial (Calendar No. 2, 8/26/21 at 9:00 a.m.).

Tentative Ruling for 8/3/21:

Continue to 8/26/21 at 9:00 a.m. (the trial date). Appearances are not required on 8/3/21.

(A) Current issues

This Court is not aware of any issues that need to be addressed prior to trial. The parties have resolved their disputes concerning the pretrial stipulation and order. See Order (adv. dkt. 42) and Stipulation (adv. dkt. 44).

This Court understands that the parties intend to appear in person for the trial. The parties are reminded that face masks are required under the current policy adopted by the judges of the Bankruptcy Court, as well as Judge Bason's own policies.

The parties are also directed to review the posted "Procedures of Judge Bason" (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) regarding trial procedures.

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

(2) Mediation [Intentionally omitted]

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 9/29/20. On 12/2/20, this Court entered a scheduling order (adv.dkt.23) memorializing certain dates and deadlines which have now passed and have been omitted below.

Deliver trial exhibits to other parties and chambers, including direct testimony by declaration unless excused: 8/5/21

Trial commencement: 8/26/21 at 9:00 a.m.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing. Pursuant to Judge Bason's COVID-19 procedures, all appearances are via ZoomGov. Tentative Ruling for 4/27/21:

Appearances required.

(A) Current issues

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv.dkt. 28) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(1) The deadline to complete discovery has passed

Defendants/Debtors state that they anticipate propounding interrogatories on Plaintiff/UST and completing discovery by 5/30/21. Adv.Dkt. 28, p.2. But this Court's prior scheduling order (adv. dkt. 23, p.1, para. "(3)(f)") set 3/2/21 as the "last day for discovery to be completed, including receiving responses to discovery requests," and Defendants/Debtors have not filed any motion for reconsideration of that deadline. The tentative ruling is that the Status Report cannot be treated as such a motion.

This Court notes that Plaintiff/UST asserts that Defendants/Debtors have "[not] responded (timely or otherwise) to written discovery served by Plaintiff, including interrogatories, requests for production of documents and requests for admissions." Adv. dkt. 28, p.4. The tentative ruling is that this Court will not take any action on that non-responsiveness sua sponte (without prejudice to any evidentiary or other consequences that might be requested by Plaintiff/UST at trial or any other time).

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

Matters of venue, jurisdiction, and authority have been determined and/or waived or forfeited (adversary docket number 19).

(2) Mediation

Plaintiff/UST does not wish to have this matter sent to mediation. Stat.Rpt. (adv.dkt.28), p.3. Defendants/Debtors request mediation and state that they seek a chapter 7 discharge and to "obtain the homestead exemption funds." Stat.Rpt. (adv.dkt.28), pp.3-4. The tentative ruling is that (a) mediation would not appear to be productive, given the lack of participation in discovery by Defendants/Debtors and the opposition of Plaintiff/UST; and (b) whether and when Defendants/Debtors are or are not entitled to any homestead exemption funds is not within the scope of this adversary proceeding.

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 9/29/20. On 12/2/20, this Court entered a scheduling order (adv.dkt.23) memorializing

#2.00 Trial re: Complaint Objecting to Discharge

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Evidentiary objections

This Court has reviewed Plaintiff/UST's direct testimony declarations (adv. dkt. 49, 50, 51) and Defendants'/Debtors' joint direct testimony declaration (adv. dkt. 55), as well as the parties' evidentiary objections (adv. dkt. 56, 58).

(i) Plaintiff/UST's evidentiary objections (dkt. 58)

The tentative ruling is to overrule the objections to Defendants'/Debtor's "joint" declaration. Dkt. 55. This Court construes that document as comprising two identical declarations - one by each Defendant/Debtor - and this Court is not aware of any undue prejudice to Plaintiff that would warrant striking or excluding the declarations as so construed. The tentative ruling is that the remaining objections go to the weight rather than the admissibility of the Defendants'/Debtors' statements.

Note: As to the assertion in paragraph 19 of Defendants'/Debtors' declaration(s), addressing the ability to obtain information from third parties, this Court notes the following. On the one hand, Defendants'/Debtors cite authority that, "To state a prima facie case under 727(a)(3), a party objecting to discharge must show (a) that the debtor failed to maintain and preserve adequate records, and (2) that such failure makes it impossible to ascertain the debtor's financial condition and material business transactions." In re Cox, 41 F.3d 1294, 1296 (9th Cir. 1994) (quoting Meridian Bank v. Aten, 958 F.2d 1226, 1232 (3rd Cir. 1992)) (emphasis added). See Def.Trial Brief (adv. dkt. 65), pp. 2:6-16 & 4:1-6:6.

On the other hand, 11 U.S.C. 727(a)(3) imposes an "affirmative duty" on debtors to create and preserve records (see In re Caneva, 550 F.3d 755 (9th Cir. 2008)) and Plaintiff appears to assert that the collection of rents in cash makes it impossible, even with potential access to third parties and bank records, to be sure of Defendants/Debtors' financial condition or business transactions because of the difficulty in tracing cash transactions without contemporaneous written records.

Those are among the issues on which this Court expects to focus at trial. If the parties believe that this Court has misconstrued the law or relevant factual issues on this particular matter (or any other), they are encouraged to direct this Court's attention to appropriate evidence and/or legal authority.

(ii) Defendant/Debtor's evidentiary objections (dkt. 56)

The tentative ruling is to sustain the objection to Paragraph 12 of Chapter 7 Trustee Mastan's declaration (adv. dkt. 51) about the condition of the subject property when his agents (or he?) viewed that property, due to lack of foundation as to personal knowledge and (apparently) hearsay. The tentative ruling is also to sustain the objections to Ms. Danker's declaration (adv. dkt. 50), except as follows:

(A) Paragraph 9:17-19: Overrule, in part, as to the assertion that "Neither [of the Defendants/Debtors] appeared at the meetings held on March 4, 2020 and April 24, 2020," because Ms. Danker testifies that the first section 341(a) meeting she attended was on January 28, 2020 and that she "attended all subsequent sessions of the [Defendants'/Debtors'] section 341(a) meeting that were held," (adv. dkt. 50, para. 9:15-17), so she has personal knowledge that Defendants/Debtors did not appear at the meetings on March 4, 2020 and April 24, 2020. Sustain as to the lack of foundation for Ms. Danker's assertion that the lack of appearance was "ostensibly on the grounds that one or the other of [Defendants/Debtors] was 'sick.'"

(B) Paragraph 9:19-20: Overrule. The declarant's assertion (that Defendant/Debtor Mr. Ebuehi missed certain meetings of creditors without consent by the Trustee) is not hearsay, and the alternative objection ("Lack of preliminary facts-whether the debtors had notice of the 341a meetings") is in the nature of rebuttal, not a ground to exclude the Plaintiff's evidence.

(C) Paragraph 20: Overrule, in part, as to the assertion that Defendants/Debtors failed to appear at their Section 341(a) meetings of creditors on March 4, 2020 and April 28, 2020, because Ms. Danker has personal knowledge that Debtors did not appear at those meetings. Adv. dkt. 50, para. 9:15-17.

(b) Plaintiff/UST's request for judicial notice (adv. dkt. 61)

Plaintiff/UST requests that this Court take judicial notice of sixteen documents comprised of documents and orders filed in the bankruptcy case and this adversary proceeding and several certified transcripts from 341(a) meetings.

The tentative ruling is to grant the request and take judicial notice of all sixteen exhibits because they are court documents and matters of public record. Fed. R. Evid. 201; Reyn's Pasta Bella, LLC v. Visa USA, Inc., 442 F.3d 741, 746 n.6 (9th Cir. 2006).

Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see the Posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Docket 27

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/31/21 (same as for 7/20/21 and 7/6/21, except dates):

Appearances required.

At the 6/1/21, 7/6/21 and 7/20/21 hearings, this Court was persuaded to continue the matter to this date to allow the parties an opportunity to agree to the terms of an adequate protection agreement. See a/so Debtors' Reponse (dkt. 29). As of the date this tentative ruling was prepared, no stipulation and/or proposed adequate protection order has been filed with this Court. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address whether (a) whether the alleged arrears have been brought current and/or (b) whether they will agree to the terms of an adequate protection order.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Docket 23

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017):

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within 180 days after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Tentative Ruling:

Continue, with deadlines to lodge a mediation order etc. Appearances are not required on 8/31/21.

(A) Current issues

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv. dkt. 5) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. The tentative ruling is to continue this matter as set forth below and order the parties to participate in mandatory mediation.

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702

C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 9/14/21 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 6/21/21. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Joinder of parties/amendment of pleadings-deadline: TBD

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/31/21:

Continue to 9/28/21 at 11:00 a.m., subject to being mooted if a stipulated judgment and order closing this adversary proceeding are issued before that time. Appearances are not required on 8/31/21.

(A) Current issues

(1) Stipulation for Entry of Non-Dischargeability Judgment (adv. dkt. 16)

On 8/5/21, Plaintiff filed a stipulation between the parties for entry of non-dischargeability judgment. As of the date this tentative ruling was prepared, no proposed judgment has been lodged with this Court.

In addition, although it appears that the parties might intend for the stipulated judgment to resolve all issues between them, it is possible that other matters could need to be addressed before this adversary proceeding is closed - e.g., if any party believes it is entitled to seek an award of costs. If nothing further is contemplated, Plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order closing this adversary proceeding.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 9/7/21 for Plaintiff to lodge a proposed judgment and a proposed order with the Court as described above.

Chapter 7

Tentative Ruling for 8/17/21:

Grant the motion as to the Debtor, but continue this matter to 8/31/21 at 11:00 a.m. with a deadline of 8/18/21 for the Trustee to serve the motion papers on "all occupants" of the subject property and file a proof of service. Appearances are not required on 8/17/21.

Option for interim/partial order: Movant may elect to lodge a proposed order granting the partial relief provided in this tentative ruling, but any such order must recite that a continued hearing has been set to consider additional relief (or, alternatively, that the movant no longer seeks additional relief and the Clerk's office is requested and directed to take the continued hearing off calendar).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see the Posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Chapter 11

#1.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

ALLSTAR FINANCIAL SERVICES, INC.
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 58

Tentative Ruling:

Grant. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, the tentative ruling is to grant relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Note regarding mootness: Judge Bason's standard tentative ruling is as follows. For three reasons the above tentative ruling that there is no stay does not moot requests for relief from whatever stay might apply. First, such alternative rulings are appropriate because (i) the very nature of tentative rulings is that this Court could be persuaded to depart from any one of them, and (ii) a final ruling on any one issue could be reversed on appeal. Second, even if there is currently no stay, that could change - e.g., if there is no stay because of dismissal of this bankruptcy case, such dismissal could be vacated and that might reimpose the stay even if there is a lack of adequate protection, or other grounds why the stay should not apply, and therefore the movant will suffer cognizable harm unless the issues are addressed now (Judge Bason regularly vacates dismissals based on stipulations or other good cause). Third, if the motion includes any request for relief as to past acts (annulment) or future cases (in rem relief), those things are still at issue even if there is no current automatic stay. See In re Aheong, 276 B.R. 233 (9th Cir. BAP 2002). For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to address the following issues.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017):

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

fr. 3/23/21, 4/27/21, 6/1/21, 6/29/21, 8/3/21

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/31/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 8/31/21.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion for relief from the automatic stay of Allstar Financial Services (dkt. 58, the "R/S Motion"), no opposition on file Grant as set forth in Calendar 1 (8/31/21 at 1:00 p.m.).

(b) Dismissal of case and post-dismissal status conference

At a hearing on 8/3/21 this Court dismissed this case, and set a post-dismissal status conference ("Status Conference") for 9/28/21 at 2:00 p.m. See dkt. 61, 63. In addition, pursuant to this Court's procedural order issued at the start of this case (dkt. 3, timely served, dkt. 5), a Status Conference will also be held contemporaneous with any other matters on calendar (in case there are issues that are best addressed at a Status Conference instead of any other matter on calendar). This Court is not aware of any such issues, so the tentative ruling is simply to continue this Status Conference as previously ordered.

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 2/19/21 and dismissed on 8/6/21 (dkt. 61).

(a) Amended Bar date: 6/30/21 (dkt. 30) (served 1 day late, dkt. 35, 36)

(b) Procedures order: dkt.3 (timely served, dkt.5)

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement: N/A

(d) Continued status conference: 9/28/21 at 2:00 p.m., concurrent with other matters.

#3.00 Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor and by Debtor's principal.

(1) Current issues

(a) Failure to use required local form status report

The Procedures Order required Debtor to "file a Case Status Report on Local Form F 2081-1.1.C11.STATUS.RPT" (dkt. 4, p. 2:8-12). The tentative ruling is to excuse that requirement in view of Debtor's alternative status report (dkt. 23), and to save expenses Debtor is directed not to prepare and file the local form now. But in future matters Debtor's counsel are cautioned to follow the required procedures.

(b) Motion to approve stipulation to terminate the automatic stay (dkt. 35, the "R/S Motion") filed by Waterfall Bridge Advisors, Inc. ("Movant"), Application for hearing on shortened time (dkt. 36), Order shortening time (dkt. 37, "OST"), notice of hearing (dkt. 39) and declaration of service (dkt. 41), oppositions to be made orally at the hearing

As set forth in this Court's OST (dkt. 37, p.3) Movant is directed to address why this R/S Motion cannot wait to be heard concurrently with Debtor's motion to approve takeout financing (dkt. 29) on 9/14/21 at 1:00 p.m.

If this Court is persuaded to grant the relief requested in the R/S Motion at the hearing, the tentative ruling is to deny the request for any form of "in rem" relief that would be without the protections of 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) (e.g., recording a copy of the order, and providing for relief from the order in the circumstances noted in the statute).

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 7/19/21.

(a) Bar date: 12/9/21 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

(b) Procedures order: dkt. 4 (timely served, dkt. 10)

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/31/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion to avoid lien (dkt. 70 "Lien Avoidance Motion"), Opposition of Royal Business Bank ("Lienholder") (dkt. 75), Debtor's reply (dkt. 98) and notice of hearing (dkt. 99), Lienholder's unauthorized sur-reply (dkt. 103), Debtor's motion to strike sur-reply (dkt. 105), Debtor's response to sur-reply (dkt. 108)

The parties should be prepared to address the issues set forth below.

(i) Motion to strike sur-reply (dkt. 105)

The tentative ruling is to deny the motion and consider the unauthorized sur-reply, as an exception to LBR 9013-1(g), because (x) Debtor did not file the Amended Schedule C asserting a $600,000.00 homestead exemption (dkt. 97) until after Lienholder had already filed its opposition papers, and (y) Lienholder did not have adequate time to conduct an appraisal of the subject property by the time its opposition papers were due and Debtor has not presented any evidence or argument that she would have stipulated to extend the deadline for Lienholder to file an opposition and/or continue the hearing on the Lien Avoidance Motion to allow time for Lienholder to obtain its own appraisal.

The tentative ruling is also to caution Lienholder that failure to seek leave to file a sur-reply in future may result in this Court striking those papers or the imposition of other adverse consequences. See LBR 9013-1(g).

(ii) Legal standard

Section 522(f)(2)(A) provides that a lien shall be considered to impair an exemption to the extent that the sum of—

(i) the lien;
(ii) all other liens on the property; and
(iii) the amount of the exemption that the debtor could claim if there were no liens on the property; exceeds the value that the debtor's interest in the property would have in the absence of any liens. [11 U.S.C. 522(f)(2)(A) (i)-(iii)].

(iii) Costs of sale are not proper deductions

The tentative ruling is that Lienholder is correct that the relevant date for determining fair market value under 11 U.S.C. § 522(f) is the petition date and Debtor may not deduct "costs of sale" for purposes of determining the subject property's value. 11 U.S.C. §§ 522(a)(2) and (f)(2)(A); see also In re Reynolds, 2006 Bankr. LEXIS 4820, at *28 (9th Cir. BAP Aug. 4, 2006) (Rejecting the argument that hypothetical costs of sale and commissions should be included in calculation for purposes of 522(f)) (citation omitted); see also In re Aslanyan, 2017 Bankr. LEXIS 4363, at *4 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. Dec. 20, 2017) ("Liquidation costs or closing costs are not deducted from market value in the context of a motion to avoid a judicial lien") (collecting cases).

(iv) The Mansi Kothari lien is not relevant

Lienholder argues in its opposition papers that the "lien" of Mansi Kothari is fraudulent and should not be used in the calculation for purposes of avoiding its lien. Dkt. 75, p.4:13-26. But Debtor's reply makes clear that she did not include that lien in her calculations (dkt. 98, p.2:20-25) and Lienholder's sur-reply does not renew its objection as to that issue (dkt. 103), so the tentative ruling is to do any calculations without including that contested lien, and otherwise overrule the objection as moot.

(v) The amount of the second lien must be determined as of the petition date

Debtor asserts, without citation to legal authority, that the appropriate value of the second lien for purposes of the Lien Avoidance Motion is $223,214.00, which consists of the amount reflected in Bank of America/SLS's proof of claim ($219,674.63) plus two months of delinquent post-petition payments owing as of the date of the motion (dkt. 70, p.5:12-16).

The tentative ruling is that Debtor must use the amount of the second lien as of the petition date ($219,674.63), because the statute (§ 522(a)(2)) defines "value" of the property as of the petition date, and there is authority that to be logically consistent the dollar amounts of each lien and exemption should also be as of the petition date, with rare exceptions. See, e.g., In re Salanoa, 263 B.R. 120, 122-23 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 2001) (suggesting possible exception if debtor fails to bring timely motion and the creditor can show prejudice); In re Chiu, 266 B.R. 743, 751-52 (9th Cir. BAP 2001) (debtor's interest in property that can be exempted, and exemption amount, are determined as of petition date), aff'd, 304 F.3d 905 (9th Cir. 2002); In re Chiu, 2017 Bankr. LEXIS 821, at *9, FN 2 (9th Cir. BAP Mar. 27, 2017) ("For purposes of applying § 522(f), the property value and the lien amounts as they existed on the bankruptcy petition date control") (emphasis added) (citations omitted).

(iv) Amount of Debtor's exemption

On 5/14/21 Debtor filed her amended Schedule C (dkt. 68) asserting a homestead exemption of $553,791.21. Id. at p.2. But, after Lienholder argued that the Lien Avoidance Motion's calculations improperly used a larger homestead exemption than Debtor had claimed in her Schedule C (dkt. 75, p.5:19-28), Debtor filed an amended Schedule C increasing her claimed homestead exemption to $600,000.00 (dkt. 96, p.2).

In its sur-reply Lienholder now argues that Debtor may only claim a homestead exemption in an amount in effect as of October 21, 2016, the date Lienholder recorded its abstract of judgment. Dkt. 103, pp.4:13-5:26. In support of this argument Lienholder relies on In re Morgan, 157 B.R. 467, 469-71 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1993) ("A plain reading of the California exemption scheme provides that ... the determination of the amount of an exemption shall be made by application of the exemption statutes in effect at the time the judgment creditor's lien was created") (citing Cal. Code Civ. Proc. Section 704.965 (West 1987)) and In re Combs, 166 B.R. 417, 418-19 n.3 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 1994) ("If exemptions are claimed under state law, however, the state law may itself limit the debtor to exemption rights available on a date earlier than the petition date, such as the date a judgment lien was recorded on the real property") (citing Cal. Civ. Code. Proc. Code section 704.965) (West 1994)).

As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, Debtor has not filed a supplemental reply addressing this argument. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address the authorities cited in Debtor's response (dkt. 108).

(vii) Property valuation

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address how they propose to resolve their disputes re: valuation of the subject property – e.g., (i) with an evidentiary hearing, (ii) with a court ruling based solely on the written record (to save costs, if all parties consent), (iii) through mediation, or (iv) through appointment of an appraiser (jointly selected by the parties/their appraisers) as the court's own expert under FRE 706. Note: Judge Bason requires valuations at or near the petition date. See In re Gutierrez, 503 B.R. 458 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2013).

(b) Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs")

(i) Continued failure to comply with reporting requirements

This Court's 4/27/21 tentative ruling (copied below) highlighted that Debtor has consistently filed her MORs late and cautioned Debtor that failure to timely satisfy her reporting obligations may result in the imposition of sanctions or other adverse consequences. See also LBR 2015-2(b)(2) (requiring MORs to be filed "not later than the 15th day of the month following expiration of the month which is the subject of the report") (emphasis added).

Despite that admonition, Debtor has continued to file her MORs late. See January MOR (dkt. 31, filed 4 days late); February MOR (dkt. 45, filed 5 days late); March MOR (dkt. 63, filed 12 days late); April MOR (dkt. 69, timely filed); May MOR (dkt. 84, filed 3 days late); June MOR (dkt. 90, filed 4 days late); July MOR (dkt. 104, filed 8 days late).

The tentative ruling is that if Debtor does not timely file her August MOR by September 15, 2021 (and each MOR thereafter by the 15th day of the following month) this Court will issue orders to show cause directing Debtor and her counsel, Ms. Stella Havkin, to appear and show cause why they should not be sanctioned for their repeated and willful failure to comply with reporting requirements and this Court's orders.

(ii) Inaccurate or incomplete representations

Debtor's Lien Avoidance Motion (dkt. 70) admits that Debtor failed to make two postpetition payments with respect to the second lien on her residence. Id. at p.5, para. "(4)". But Debtor's MORs do not disclose those Debtor is cautioned that MORs need to be prepared carefully and include all relevant information available to keep this Court and parties in interest apprised of Debtor's financial affairs. Full and timely disclosures are the quid pro quo to being a debtor in bankruptcy and receiving the benefits available to a debtor-in-possession under the Bankruptcy Code.

Debtor should be prepared to address what else is missing or inaccurate in her MORs.

Chapter 11

#6.00 Status conference re: Chapter 11 case

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor and by Debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's Motion to for Order Setting a Budget for the use of the Debtor's Cash and Postpetition Income (dkt. 14), no opposition on file

Debtor's income and expense projection (dkt. 14, Ex.A, at PDF p.7) shows monthly losses from two rental properties. One (the Anzac property) is addressed in Debtor's status report (dkt. 21), which explains that Debtor is attempting to evict the former owner. But the other, at 1763 108th St, appears to be a rental property with no such explanation and with a monthly loss of $1,041.00 from the property ($2,520.00 income - $3,561.00 expenses = -$1,041.00). See also Cash Collateral Motion (dkt.19, p.9, last line) (showing -$1,041.00 net income).

Why is Debtor proposing to retain this money-losing property?

Subject to adequately addressing the foregoing issue, the tentative ruling is to grant the motion.

(b) Debtor's Motion for Order Authorizing Use of Cash Collateral (dkt. 15), no opposition on file

Subject to the same issues as with the Budget motion, the tentative ruling is to grant this Cash Collateral motion.

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 7/19/21.

(a) Bar date: 11/16/21 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/31/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 8/31/21.

(1) Current issues

(a) Untimely status report and MOR

This Court's adopted 6/29/21 tentative ruling set a deadline of 8/17/21 for Debtor to file a status report, but Debtor did not file her status report until 8/23/21 (dkt. 79). Local Bankruptcy Rule 2015-2(b)(2) requires MORs to be filed "not later than the 15th day of the month following expiration of the month which is the subject of the report." (emphasis added). Debtor did not file her July MOR until 8/23/21 (dkt. 79, 8 days late).

Debtor is cautioned that failure to timely comply with all obligations in future may result in adverse consequences.

Tentative Ruling for 8/31/21:

The tentative ruling is to take this matter under submission for this Court to make whatever interim or final orders are appropriate on the record presented to date, and to set a continued hearing contemporaneous with the continued status conference (see part "(2)(d)" below).

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 5/4/20 and converted from chapter 7 to chapter 11 on 7/1/20 (dkt.17). The petition was amended to elect Subchapter V on 7/14/20 (dkt.27). On 9/4/20 this Court ordered joint administration with affiliated debtors (dkt.64).

Tentative Ruling for 6/15/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtors' Motion Objecting to Proof of Claims of Baodi Zhou, or in the Alternative, Motion to Estimate Claims (the "Claim Objection," dkt. 184), interim Order (dkt. 226), Debtors' Supplement (dkt. 234-37), Claimant Ms. Baodi Zhou's Brief (dkt. 245), Debtors' Reply (dkt. 256-59)

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties are directed to address the issues raised in their papers, especially the following issues. This Court is particularly concerned whether Ms. Zhou has provided sufficient evidence that her own claims satisfy the commonality and typicality requirements for acting as a class representative, assuming without presently deciding that Rule 23 is applicable. See interim Order, dkt.226, Ex.A, at PDF p.7, part "(1)(c)" and id. sub-parts "(iii)" & "(iv)."

As Ms. Zhou recognizes, under Rule 23 her individual claims must have questions of law and/or fact in common with other putative class members that "predominate" over any questions affecting only individual members. See generally Zhou Brief (dkt.245), pp.28:10-29:6. Ms. Zhou asserts that Debtor Tea Station Investment, Inc. ("Debtor") harmed class members by (1) failing to pay for all hours worked or for overtime due to time rounding and time shaving, and failing to provide accurate wage statements due to such rounding and shaving and purportedly omitting correct employer information, (2) failing to provide compliant meal breaks and pay missed meal break premiums, and (3) failing to provide compliant rest breaks and pay missed rest break period premiums. Zhou Brief (dkt. 245), pp. 10:1–19:2, 21:6–26:13, and summary at pp.32:13-34:22. Therefore the issue is whether Ms. Zhou's own claims for those things have sufficient commonality and typicality of other putative class members' claims.

First, Ms. Zhou's brief does not highlight any specific evidence of her own payroll records, and specific instances in which she asserts rounding, time shaving, missed meal breaks, and missed rest breaks. True, she makes general assertions that might suffice for some issues - e.g., at points her papers appear to assert that she never had rest breaks - but this Court remains concerned about the lack of greater specificity, such as allegations that although on day X she worked, say, 11 hours and 11 minutes, her paycheck and Debtor's records only reflected 8.0 hours. But compare, e.g., Debtor Reply (dkt.256), p.7:3-4 (asserting, without citation to any evidence, that "[e]ven Zhou herself admitted at her deposition that she was always allowed to take a break whenever she requested or chose") (emphasis in original).

Second, Ms. Zhou offers few examples of other employees' specific instances of rounding, time shaving, missed meal breaks, and missed rest breaks, and she appears to make presumptions to fill in the gaps. This issue may also bear on the "numerosity" requirement under Rule 23.

If Ms. Zhou can overcome the foregoing issues, and otherwise qualifies as a class representative against Debtor, then this Court envisions a claim estimation process in which this Debtor would present its own rebuttal analysis and/or specific disputes with Ms. Zhou's choice of data and analysis, and the parties would focus their disputes on calculations not unlike those presented by Ms. Zhou at the end of her brief - e.g., estimating 88 employees, with 1,671 days multiplied by an estimated 11 minutes and 15 seconds per day, to arrive at a claim of $36,879.48 for "time rounding," etc. See Zhou Brief (dkt.245), pp.33:5-34:22. Each party would be able to present its own data, methodology, and analysis, and challenge the other party's data, methodology, and analysis, in a trial to determine how to estimate the claims.

This Court recognizes that the underlying data, methodology, and analysis might not be as rigorous as they would be if time and money were no object (the "scorched earth" litigation to which this Court previously has referred). See, e.g., Order (dkt.226), Ex.A, at PDF p.6, part "(1)(b)." For example, Ms. Zhou's statistical evidence was prepared not by a statistician or similar expert but by her own counsel. But the tentative ruling is that, given her counsel's apparent experience, this goes to the weight of the evidence, not its admissibility.

Similarly, although Ms. Zhou complains that the "thousands of pages of time and pay records" produced by Debtor (Zhou Brief, dkt. 245, p.16:22) are fractured, incomplete, and otherwise difficult to analyze (id., p.32:16 & attached D. Grimes Decl., pp.2:16–4:28, Ex. 2, Ex. 15), there does not appear to be any evidence that Debtor has intentionally caused any spoliation of records. Ms. Zhou's counsel apparently was able to conduct his statistical analysis based on wage statements and other records for 125 employees provided by Debtor (D. Grimes Decl., dkt. 245, p.5:1–5), and presumably Debtor could use the same data to do its own analysis and/or to challenge Ms. Zhou's analysis.

Again, the foregoing claim estimation process would only apply if Ms. Zhou could overcome the commonality and typicality issues noted above, and if she otherwise could qualify as a class representative. In other words, this Court's discussion of the contemplated claim estimation process is only included for completeness, and should not be interpreted as any presumption that Ms. Zhou can assert claims for the class she seeks to represent.

Note: As for any claims by employees of Debtor's affiliates, the tentative ruling is that this issue is premature. Ms. Zhou only briefly asserts a reservation of rights, arguing that "each corporate entity is managed by the same group of three individuals – Tea Station founder Yu-Liang 'Jimmy' Huang, his wife Teresa Pan, and lieutenant Chi-Fu 'Abraham' Kao." Zhou Brief (dkt.245), p.8:11-13. But this Court has issued an order (dkt.226) limiting claims at this stage to Debtor, and the tentative ruling is that unless and until Ms. Zhou can establish claims against Debtor it would be premature to address potential claims against Debtor's affiliates.

Finally, the parties are directed to address what further deadlines or

Chapter 11

No Answer is on file. Nor are there any motions to dismiss or other pleadings on file.

That said, the tentative ruling is that the lack of response is not dispositive because the docket in this adversary proceeding does not reflect proper service of the summons, Complaint, etc. on Debtor to the attention of an officer, a managing or general agent, or to any other agent authorized by appointment of law (Rule 7004(b)(3), Fed. R. Bankr. P.), at an address that appears to be reasonably calculated to reach the officer (e.g., corporate headquarters). Note: Judge Bason does not require that a specific individual be named -- "Attn: Officer or Managing/General Agent" is sufficient.

(b) The Complaint fails to state a claim for relief under section 523(a)

The tentative ruling is to dismiss the Complaint on this Court's own motion, under Rule 12(b)(6) (Fed. R. Civ. P.) (incorporated by Rule 7012, Fed. R. Bankr. P.), for failure to state a claim for relief. The two claims asserted in the Complaint (dkt.1, 3) are brought under 11 U.S.C. 523(a)(6) or (a)(7); but section 523(a), by its express language, only applies to individual debtors and not corporate debtors such as LAX In-Flight Services, LLC. See In re Gordon's Music & Sound, Inc., 2012 Bankr. LEXIS 6133, at *2, 2012 WL 8250009, at *1-2 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. Oct. 12, 2012) (dismissing 523(a)(6) claim against corporate debtor and reasoning that "Congress clearly did not intend the term 'corporate debtor' to be used interchangeably with the term 'individual debtor'" (internal quotations and citations omitted); see also Omar v. Sea-Land Serv. Inc., 813 F.2d 986, 991 (9th Cir. 1987) (citing Wong v. Bell, 642 F.2d 359, 361-62 (9th Cir. 1981) ("A trial court may dismiss a claim sua sponte under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6) ... [s]uch dismissal may be made without notice where the claimant cannot possibly win relief").

The tentative ruling is to dismiss with leave to amend, because the factual allegations in the Complaint, and its assertions about asserted violations of nonbankruptcy law, might be the basis to assert a cognizable claim. The tentative ruling is (i) to set a deadline of 7/20/21 for Plaintiffs to file a first amended complaint ("FAC") and serve their summons, FAC, etc. on Defendant/Debtor; and to set a continued status conference for 8/17/21 at 1:00 p.m., with a joint status report on this Court's Local Form due 8/3/21.

In addition, the parties are directed to address how to this matter can best be handled efficiently. For example, is mandatory mediation appropriate?

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 8/31/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's plan (dkt. 89), or other "exit strategy" for this case

This Court's 7/20/21 tentative ruling (copied below) deferred setting a deadline for Debtor to file an amended plan or addressing any other exit strategy (e.g., dismissal) until after the sale has closed. Debtor's July MOR (dkt. 157) reflects a $225,000.00 payment from Pacific Airline Linen Services (id., at PDF p.7), so it appears the sale has closed. There is no tentative ruling but Debtor should be prepared to address whether this Court should set a deadline to file an amended plan or provide an update on Debtor's exit strategy for this case.

(b) Gonzales et al v. LAX In-Flite Services (2:21-ap-01079-NB)

This matter was continued to this date to allow time for the parties to engage in settlement discussions (adv. dkt. 6, 8). There is no tentative ruling. The parties should be prepared to provide an update on the status of those discussions. If this matter continues to be active, the tentative ruling is to continue it concurrent with the continued status conference in the bankruptcy case (see below).

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 2/5/21.

(a) Bar date: 4/16/21 per General Order 20-01 (70 days after petition date in Subchapter V cases) (DO NOT SERVE any notice: one has already been sent, see dkt.16).

(b) Procedures order: dkt.3 (timely served, dkt.9)

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see the Posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing. Pursuant to Judge Bason's Procedures, hearings are now simultaneously (1) IN PERSON in the courtroom, (2) via ZOOMGOV video, and (3) via ZOOMGOV telephone. You are free to choose any of these options, except that evidentiary hearings/trials must be in person in the courtroom (unless otherwise ordered). Tentative Ruling for 7/20/21:

Appearances are not required on 7/20/21.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's motion to sell substantially all of its assets ("Sale Motion," dkt. 61-65, 67), Opposition of Ruth Gonzales, Braubert Andres, and Guillermo J. Lopez Gutierrez ("Gonzales et al.") (dkt. 77), SubchapterV Trustee's response (dkt. 83), Joinder of Samuel Pearce Trust ("Pearce") (dkt. 86), Debtor's reply to Gonzales et al. (dkt. 88), Debtor's reply to SubchapterV Trustee's response (dkt. 95), Schedules to APA (dkt. 99), Stipulation/Order continuing hearing (dkt. 102, 104), Stipulation re form of APA and form of order (the "Global Stipulation," dkt. 120)

The tentative ruling is to grant the Sale Motion as provided in the Global Stipulation, and for the reasons set forth in this Court's 5/19/21 tentative ruling (copied below) and the additional reasons stated on the record

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(b) Debtor's plan (dkt. 89), or other "exit strategy" for this case

This Court notes that Debtor filed what appears to be a placeholder plan on 5/6/21 (dkt. 89). The tentative ruling is to not set a deadline for Debtor to file an amended plan, nor to address any other exit strategy (e.g., dismissal), until after the sale has closed.

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 2/5/21.

(a) Bar date: 4/16/21 per General Order 20-01 (70 days after petition date in Subchapter V cases) (DO NOT SERVE any notice: one has already been sent, see dkt.16).

#6.00 Status Conference re: Complaint to Deny the Debtor's Discharge Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. Sections 727(a)(6)(A) and (a)(2)(B)

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

(A) Current issues

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv. dkt. 10) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment).
