Tentative Ruling for In re Araujo [2:15-bk-28353-NB]:

Appearances required.

This Court has reviewed the motion of the homeowners association ("HOA") (dkt.48), Debtor's response (dkt. 61) and the HOA's reply (dkt. 62). The tentative ruling is to grant the motion in part and deny it in part as follows:

(A) no relief from any automatic stay is required because, once the accounting is corrected, the HOA is not attempting to collect a prepetition debt or doing any other act prohibited by 11 U.S.C. 362(a), but

(B) no attorney fees are owed, because the HOA's and/or its agents' own errors have caused the confusion and litigation over these issues.

Chapter 13

Therefore, Debtor has a positive balance on her regular assessments.

The parties are directed to address these issues and, if this Court adopts the tentative ruling as the final ruling, address how that positive balance in Debtor's current accounts should be applied.

Proposed order: The HOA is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(1) Factual background

The HOA acknowledges that its own billing statements and records were confused, but now it believes that, if payments are properly applied:

(a) Prepetition arrears have been paid in full

Debtor's chapter 13 plan payments, through the Chapter 13 Trustee, have now paid in full the $12,464.00 of arrears in assessments that were due as of the petition date. See Motion (dkt.48), p.16:10-13, & Ex.4, at PDF pp.56-57.

(b) Postpetition regular assessments have a positive balance as of 12/10/20, or a slight negative balance if the HOA's attorney fees and costs are included

In addition to her chapter 13 plan payments, Debtor made payments on the regular postpetition assessments, and in fact she overpaid by $4,626.66 (Motion (dkt.48), Ex.4, at PDF p.63, last line, penultimate column), before including legal fees and costs. Those fees are estimated to be approximately $4,950.00 as of 12/10/20 (Motion (dkt.48), p.33:16-21), plus an anticipated $180.00 in costs and additional fees for preparing reply papers and appearing at the hearing. Id. If these specific dollar amounts of fees and costs were included, Debtor would owe approximately $503.34 as of 12/10/20 ($$4,950.00 + $180.00 = $5,130.00 - $4,626.66 = $503.34$). (As noted above, additional fees would be due for the reply papers and hearing; but the tentative ruling is to deny these and the HOA's other demands for attorney fees and costs.)

(c) The postpetition special assessment payments are current (as of 12/20)

Postpetition, approximately 2/2016, the HOA levied a special assessment to pay for repairs, in the amount of $19,938.65 per unit. See Koochek Decl. (dkt.48), pp.30:10-31:3 & Ex.3 (at PDF pp.30-46). Homeowners could either pay that amount in a lump sum or pay over time with interest, in 180 payments of $153.86 each. See Motion, Ex.3, Loan Amortization Schedule, at PDF pp. 35-38.

The HOA calculates that, if Debtor's payments are properly applied, she has a positive balance of current payments, as of 12/20, of $206.98 on account of the postpetition special assessment. See Motion (dkt.48), Ex.4, at PDF p.63 (last line, last column). The HOA calculates that Debtor has made 50 payments (id.), and according to the Loan Amortization Schedule that leaves a special assessment principal balance of $15,705.18 as of 1/1/21, to be paid in monthly installments of $153.86 for months 51 through 180. See Motion (dkt.48), Ex.3, Loan Amortization Schedule p.2 (at PDF p.36) (entries for payment nos. 50 & 51).

(2) Analysis

(a) Tentative findings of fact

Debtor does not raise any specific challenges to the HOA's corrected accounting included in the motion papers. Nor has this Court found any errors in that accounting.

The tentative ruling is to accept that accounting for purposes of determining how Debtor's payments should be applied. Therefore, as of 12/10/20, (a) Debtor owes nothing on account of her prepetition arrears, (b) Debtor has a positive balance of $4,626.66 on account of postpetition regular assessments (not including the HOA's asserted attorney fees and costs), and (c) on the special assessment, Debtor has a positive current balance of $206.98, with a remaining principal balance of $15,705.18, to be paid in monthly installments of $153.86 for months 51 through 180.

(b) Tentative conclusions of law regarding the automatic stay

The automatic stay prohibits any act "to collect, assess, or recover a claim against the debtor that arose before the commencement of the case under this title." 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(6) (emphasis added). But, based on the foregoing findings of fact, the HOA concedes that the prepetition arrears have been paid in full, so this provision of the automatic stay is not implicated.

The HOA also has statutory assessment liens. See Motion (dkt.48) p.15:3-20. The imposition of those liens potentially implicates the automatic stay's prohibition on "any act to create, perfect, or enforce any lien against property of the estate" (11 U.S.C. 362(a)(4)) and "any act to obtain possession of property of the estate or of property from the estate or to exercise control over property of the estate." 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(3). In this judicial district, a chapter 13 debtor' property is not re-vested in the debtor upon confirmation, so the automatic stay continues to apply at all relevant times.

But the tentative ruling is that it would be too expansive to interpret the automatic stay as applying to the HOA's postpetition assessments made in the ordinary course of its business and financial affairs. To the contrary, as the HOA points out, postpetition assessments are nondischargeable under 11 U.S.C. 523(a)(16), and it would seem anomalous to make postpetition assessments violate the automatic stay while also making them nondischargeable. Similarly, under 28 U.S.C. 959(b), the bankruptcy estate is supposed to be managed consistent with nonbankruptcy law, and it appears more consistent with that obligation for postpetition assessments made in the ordinary course not to be construed as an affirmative act to obtain possession of, or create or enforce a lien against, estate property, or otherwise violate the cited provisions of the automatic stay. If that were so, chapter 13 debtors and anyone interacting with them could not engage in any of their ordinary transactions without constantly seeking relief from the automatic stay; and it does not seem that Congress could have intended that trap for the unwary and impractical result.

In sum, the tentative ruling is that if postpetition assessments are made in the ordinary course, they do not require relief from the automatic stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(3), (4), or (6). Nor has any party suggested that any other provision of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies.

Alternatively, the tentative ruling is to grant retroactive relief by annulling the automatic stay for cause, under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1). This relief appears to be appropriate given (x) the lack of clear law on whether the automatic stay applies in these circumstances, (y) the HOA's evidence about its changes in management and confusion regarding the proper application of payments, and (z) the HOA's apparent attempts to correct the accounting and resolve the parties' disputes once it discovered the misapplication of payments, followed quickly by its motion for relief from the automatic stay once the attempted consensual resolution fell apart. See generally In re Fjeldsted, 293 B.R. 12 (9th Cir. BAP 2003); and see also In re Williams, 323 B.R. 691, 697-702 (9th Cir. BAP 2005) (various issues involving

In sum, given the HOA's corrected accounting, it is not attempting to collect a prepetition debt, nor has it been shown to have engaged in any other act in violation of the automatic stay. Alternatively, annulment is appropriate.

(c) Tentative conclusions of law as to attorney fees

Under sections 6.04.1 and 6.04.2 of the HOA's Declaration of Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions ("CC&Rs"), attorney fees must be "reasonable" and otherwise allowable. Motion (dkt.48), Ex.2, pp.43-45 (PDF pp.23-25). The tentative ruling is that the HOA cannot charge Debtor for its attorney fees because its and/or its agents' own errors have caused the confusion and litigation over the foregoing issues.

(d) The parties' relations and accounting going forward

The parties are directed to address whether the positive balances in Debtor's current accounts for regular and special assessments, as of 12/10/20, should be applied to future monthly payments of regular assessments or the special assessment, or in a lump sum, or should be refunded to Debtor, or applied in some other way.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

#1.00 Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by Debtor's principal.

(1) Current issues

This Court has reviewed Debtor's status reports (dkt. 20, 21) and the other filed documents and records in this case.

(a) Budget motion

Debtor's status report asserts (dkt.20, p.3, section "B.2.") that no budget motion is required. That is incorrect. Judge Bason requires a budget motion so as to confirm that debtors are not (i) overpaying insiders for alleged services, or (ii) otherwise engaged in transactions that fail the "ordinary course" test (11 U.S.C. 363(b)&(c)) or are otherwise impermissible.

The tentative ruling, unless Debtor's counsel can make a detailed offer of proof sufficient to establish that no budget motion is required, is to set a deadline of 1/12/21 to file and serve a budget motion. To save costs, Debtor is encouraged to use the form available for individual debtors on the Court's website (www.cacb.uscourts.gov) with appropriate modification suitable for Debtor's business (e.g., striking the word "individual").

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 12/13/20. Debtor elected to proceed under Subchapter V.

(a) Bar date: 2/22/21 per General Order 20-01 (70 days after petition date in Subchapter V cases) (DO NOT SERVE any notice: one has already been sent, see dkt.23).

(b) Procedures order: dkt. 3 (timely served, dkt. 6).

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: file by 3/15/21 using the forms required by Judge Bason or, with prior permission, other forms (DO NOT SERVE yet, except on the U.S. Trustee - this Court will set a deadline and procedures at a later time).

Note: Although Subchapter V contemplates only a Plan, not a Disclosure Statement, the required form Plan has not yet been updated to include the disclosures required by Subchapter V (11 U.S.C. 1190), so Judge Bason requires that the form Disclosure Statement be completed as well. 11 U.S.C. 1181(b).

(d) Continued status conference: 2/9/21 at 1:00 p.m., no written status report is required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 1/5/21:

(1) Current issues

(a) Application to employ the Law Offices of Michael J. Berger (dkt. 20, "Application"), supplemental declarations of Michael Berger and Jon Udoff (dkt. 30), order setting hearing & further briefing deadline (dkt. 32), further supplemental declarations (dkt.36)

Unless otherwise stated, appearances via CourtCall are no longer permitted.

Tentative Ruling for 12/1/20:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by the debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues

(a) Reassignment?

Debtor's 50% owner, Residence Group, Inc., has filed a bankruptcy petition (Case No. 2:20-bk-20261-BR). See dkt. 20 at PDF p.24 (disclosing 50% ownership interest and bankruptcy case). Ordinarily affiliated cases are assigned to the same bankruptcy judge (usually the judge presiding over the lower numbered case), but the bankruptcy petition in the Residence Group case failed to disclose Debtor's bankruptcy case. See In re Residence Group, Inc. (Case No. 2:20-bk-20261-BB), dkt.1, p.2, line 10.

Is there any reason why Judge Bason should not coordinate with Judge Russell about reassignment of one or the other case so that both are before the same judge? Are there any other affiliated bankruptcy cases?

(b) First-Day Motions

Based on this Court's review of Debtor's status reports (dkt. 11 & 13), the tentative ruling is to excuse the usual requirement to file a budget motion (see posted procedures available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) and other first day motions.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 11/16/20.

(a) Bar date: 1/25/21 per General Order 20-01 (70 days after petition date in Subchapter V cases) (DO NOT SERVE any notice: one

Tentative Ruling for 1/5/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion for Wilmington Savings Fund Society, FSB ("Wilmington") for relief from automatic stay (dkt.225); Debtor opposition (dkt.240); Wilmington reply (dkt.259), Interim Order (dkt. 261)

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties are directed to address whether the sale of the subject property has closed and/or whether the mortgage payments provided for in this Court's Interim Order (dkt. 261) have been made.

(b) Motion (Claim Objection) re 2009 taxes in Proof of Claim Number 5 (dkt. 155), Opposition of U.S./IRS (dkt. 268), Debtor's reply (dkt.269)

The tentative ruling is to continue this objection to be concurrent with the continued status conference (see below) and meanwhile direct the parties to meet and confer regarding discovery and a pretrial schedule in approximately the 180-day time frame suggested by the IRS (see Dkt.268, pp.5:27-6:5) and lodge either an agreed scheduling order or, if they cannot agree, separate proposed orders, which this Court will either issue prior to the continued hearing or address at the continued hearing.

(c) Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs") (dkt.267)

From this Court's brief review, it appears that all accounts are labeled "general account." Debtor is directed to address why the accounts are not labeled according to the property to which each one relates.

Debtor appears to show a modest overall growth in income in a single account, on the first page of the latest MORs (dkt.267, p.1). Debtor is

(d) Amended plan (dkt.251) and Disclosure Statement ("D/S," dkt.250) and blacklines (dkt.253, 252), and request for judicial notice ("RJN," dkt.254)

The tentative ruling is to defer setting a new deadline for any plan or disclosure statement, until Debtor's MORs either show an ability to fund a plan or this case is converted or dismissed.

(a) Bar date: 5/1/20 (dkt. 50; timely served, dkt. 55).

Tentative Ruling for 1/5/21:

Tentative Ruling for 12/22/20:

This Court is very troubled by the reported state of discovery (see, e.g., Alleged Employees' Reply, dkt. 264, filed 12/18/20). But this Court believes that the issues can be more productively addressed once this Court issues its Memorandum Decision on the related discovery disputes involving, inter alia, Debtor and its law firm, the Law Offices of Lynn Chao. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to continue this hearing to 1/5/21 at 2:00 p.m. Appearances are not required on 12/22/20.

Tentative Ruling for 12/1/20:
Appearances required.

Current issues

(a) Contempt order (dkt. 237)

(i) Compensatory sanctions

This Court has reviewed the Alleged Employees' time records (dkt. 241). As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, YYF has not filed an opposition.

The tentative ruling is to award fees in the amount of $12,100 and costs in the amount of $59.85, for a total compensatory sanction against YYF in the amount of $12,159.58, payable to the Alleged Employees as compensation for the fees and costs they were forced to incur to compel compliance.

(ii) Status of compliance

The parties should be prepared to advise this Court on whether (x) coercive sanctions are appropriate (i.e., whether Young failed to produce all responsive documents by 11/20/20 at 5:00 p.m.); and (y) Young responded to the Alleged Employees' written interrogatories by the 11/25/20 at noon deadline.

Tentative Ruling for 10/27/20:
Appearances required.

Current issues

(1) Alleged employees' motion for issuance of order directing Young Young Food LLC ("YYF") to appear for 2004 examination and production of documents (dkt. 146, "2004 Motion"); Order granting 2004 Motion (dkt. 160, "2004 Order"); Alleged employees' motion for issuance of OSC re contempt (dkt. 202, "Motion for OSC"), Order setting hearing on Motion for OSC (dkt. 215, the "OSC"), YYF's opposition papers (dkt. 225, 226, 227), Alleged employees' reply papers (dkt. 228, 230)

The tentative ruling is to find YYF in contempt of court and impose sanctions in an amount to be determined at the hearing and subsequent proceedings, as set forth below.

(a) The alleged employees have made a sufficient showing that YYF violated this Court's 2004 Order and YYF has not responded with argument or evidence establishing that it was impossible to comply

The tentative ruling is to overrule YYF's opposition, grant the Sanctions Motion for the reasons stated in the Alleged Employees' reply papers (dkt. 228, 230), and find that YYF is in contempt of the 2004 Order.

In addition and alternatively, the tentative ruling is that on the merits this Court is not persuaded by YYF's arguments that the (i) 2004 Order is overbroad and (ii) seeks discovery that could and should have been sought in a pending nonbankruptcy proceeding for the same reasons stated in this Court's prior rulings and orders addressing those arguments. See Order (dkt. 173) at PDF p.12, para. "(b)"; Order (dkt. 117) at PDF p.5, para. "(c)"; and Order (dkt. 101) at PDF pp.6-7, para. "(3)."

(b) Sanctions

(i) Compensatory

The tentative ruling is to grant the Alleged Employees' request for compensatory sanctions to reimburse them for their costs incurred preparing and filing the Sanctions Motion, responding to the OSC, and appearing at this hearing. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 11/5/20 for the Alleged Employees to file and serve a declaration setting forth their time records and expenses, 11/13/20 for any opposition, 11/19/20 for any reply, and a hearing on 12/1/20 at 2:00 p.m.

(ii) Coercive

The tentative ruling is to award coercive sanctions, in an escalating dollar amount to be addressed at the hearing.

(iii) Examination by written discovery

The tentative ruling is to grant the Alleged Employees' request to obtain written discovery of YYF, in lieu of any in person examination out of concerns presented by the risks of COVID-19, by propounding 20 interrogatories on YYF, without prejudice to any follow-up discovery. The parties should be prepared to address what deadlines, if any, this Court should set for serving and responding to the Alleged Employees' interrogatories (or if this Court should defer to the parties to act within the usual procedures).

Proposed order: Alleged Employees are directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

There is no tentative ruling. The outcome of this motion may depend on whether this Court confirms Debtor's amended plan.

(c) Debtor's Amended plan (dkt. 313) (see also Disclosure Statement, dkt. 311), order setting confirmation hearing (dkt. 317), proof of service of solicitation package (dkt. 324), Debtor's confirmation brief (dkt. 329), ballot summary (dkt. 330), objection of Post Acute Care Partners, Inc. ("Post") (dkt. 332), objection of Shiv Raj & Saroj Gupta ("Guptas") (dkt. 333), Debtor's Reply (dkt. 335)

The tentative ruling is that (x) Debtor has adequately addressed Post's objection; (y) Debtor has adequately addressed the non-materiality of her proposed minor modifications to the Plan (i.e., re-balloting is not required); and (z) Debtor has provided sufficient arguments and evidence to overrule most of the Guptas' objections. The Guptas' objections that Debtor has not yet sufficiently addressed are explained below.

(A) Best Interest Test (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(7)): Debtor's calculations require an adjustment, but even with an adjustment the Guptas have not rebutted Debtor's showing that the Plan satisfies the best interest test

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's alternative liquidation analysis (dkt.335, pp.11-12) should be adjusted to account for the possibility that the secured claim asserted by Patch Of Land ("Patch" or "POL") might be reduced to some extent, based on objections to default interest and other claims by the bankruptcy estate. But the tentative ruling - based on this Court's familiarity with numerous disputes in other cases regarding default rates of interest and other charges - is that the possibility of such reduction, discounted to present value, is less than shortfall in funds that would be available in any hypothetical chapter 7 case. See Debtor's Reply (dkt.335), p.12. See generally, e.g., East-West Bank v. Altadena Lincoln Crossing, LLC, 598 B.R. 633 (C.D. Cal. 2019)

The tentative ruling is that a precise dollar estimate is not required because the shortfall is hundreds of thousands of dollars; the discount to Patch's claim would not be greater than that. In other words, even with the adjustment to Patch's claim as described above, there would be $-0- for general unsecured creditors in a hypothetical chapter 7 case.

Alternatively, assuming for the sake of discussion that any adjustments to Debtor's liquidation analysis would be enough to provide any projected recovery for nonpriority unsecured creditors, that in itself does not establish that liquidation would be in the best interests of creditors. Rather, the issue would require further evidence because any such projected chapter 7 recovery still would have to exceed the projected recovery under Debtor's proposed Plan, and the latter requires more evidence (as noted below).

(B) Adequate means for implementation (11 U.S.C. 1123(a)(5)) and feasibility (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(11))

Debtor is directed to address whether she has evidence of sufficient loan commitments and/or gift commitments from family and friends to make her proposed commitments in the Plan adequate and feasible. See, e.g., Debtor's Reply (dkt.335), p.14:2-8. The parties are directed to address whether any evidentiary hearing will be necessary to address the sufficiency of such evidence, and the possible scheduling of any such evidentiary hearing and any related matters.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 7/17/19.

(a) Bar date: 12/20/19, dkt. 116 (timely served, dkt. 120)

(b) Procedures order: dkt.9 (timely served, dkt.18)

(d) Continued status conference: If there are unresolved confirmation issues, this Court anticipates setting either a continued hearing/status conference on 10/6/20 at 2:00 p.m. and/or an evidentiary hearing (at a date and time to be determined). Alternatively, if the Plan were to be confirmed at today's hearing, the tentative ruling would be to set a post-confirmation status conference for 1/12/21 at 2:00 p.m.

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

U.S. BANK NATIONAL ASSOCIATION
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

Grant the motion under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3) and (j): there is no automatic stay because (a) Debtor's prior case (#2:19-bk-10241-NB) was dismissed (on 10/29/2019) within one year before this case was filed (on 9/21/20), (b) that dismissal was not under 11 U.S.C. 707(b), and (c) no finding of good faith was timely sought and obtained. The automatic stay has terminated both as to Debtor in personam and as to property of Debtor. See In re Reswick, 446 B.R. 362 (9th Cir. BAP 2011); In re Hernandez, case no. 2:11-bk-53730-NB, docket #40 (Memorandum Decision).

In the alternative and in addition, the tentative ruling is to grant relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Note regarding mootness: Judge Bason's standard tentative ruling is as follows. For three reasons the above tentative ruling that there is no stay does not moot requests for relief from whatever stay might apply. First, such alternative rulings are appropriate because (i) the very nature of tentative rulings is that this Court could be persuaded to depart from any one of them, and (ii) a final ruling on any one issue could be reversed on appeal. Second, even if there is currently no stay, that could change - e.g., if there is no stay because of dismissal of this bankruptcy case, such dismissal could be vacated and that might reimpose the stay even if there is a lack of adequate protection, or other grounds why the stay should not apply, and therefore the movant will suffer cognizable harm unless the issues are addressed now (Judge Bason regularly vacates dismissals based on stipulations or other good cause). Third, if the motion includes any request for relief as to past acts (annulment) or future cases (in rem relief), those things are still at issue even if there is no current automatic stay. See In re Aheong, 276 B.R. 233 (9th Cir. BAP 2002). For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to address the following issues.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Docket 12

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

Grant, subject to (1) any opposition at the hearing, (2) the following conditions and (3) denial of all attorney fees related to the motion, due to counsel's failure to serve all of the parties directed by this Court's order (dkt.22) shortening time. See POS (dkt.24)

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

(3) Very limited ruling. This Court's tentative ruling to grant the foregoing relief is solely for purposes of this motion, and is not intended to have any binding effect with respect to any future assertions by any party in interest regarding the existence or lack of existence of good faith in any other context.

Tentative Ruling for 1/12/21:

At the 12/22/20 hearing, the Court was persuaded to continue the hearing to allow the debtor to provide evidence of the forbearance application, evidence of sufficient equity in the property to support a finding of adequate protection, and/or motion for authority to sell the subject property. Debtor has now provided a real estate broker's price opinion (dkt.58, the "BPO") estimating the property's value at $413,000. According to Debtor's prior calculations, that would result in an equity cushion of over $100,000.

Although BPOs are not the best evidence of value, they are some evidence, and based on the apparent equity cushion the tentative ruling is that there is adequate protection of the movant's interest in the property to warrant additional time for Debtor (a) to seek a forbearance agreement, (b) to attempt to negotiate repayment of the postpetition arrears over a period of months pursuant to an adequate protection order ("APO"), (c) to attempt to modify the confirmed chapter 13 plan to address both prepetition and postpetition arrears, (d) to attempt to sell the subject property, or (e) to address the defaults and pre- and postpetition arrears in some other way. The inclusion of each of the foregoing hypothetical alternatives should not be construed as a ruling that any one of them would be acceptable in this particular case. The parties are directed to address whether Debtor realistically can pursue one or more alternatives, and how long a continuance this Court should provide for that, and/or for Movant to obtain its own valuation of the subject property, and/or for any other course of action by

#2.00 Status conference re: Complaint to declare debt non-dischargeable pursuant to 11 U.S.C. sections 523(a)(2, 4, 6)

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

(A) Current issues

(1) Late Status Report (adv.dkt.7)

The parties' status report was very late. The parties are cautioned that future failure to meet deadlines may result in adverse consequences.

(2) Amended complaint?

In the Status Report the statement is made:

Comstock Brewing Company, a California Corporation, has been named as defendant in this adversary. However, it is not in bankruptcy and, therefore, a complaint to determine dischargeability of any obligation owing from Comstock Brewing is inappropriate. Comstock Brewing has not filed a response and will not file a response. [Status Report (adv.dkt.7), p.2]

What is Plaintiff's intent regarding these issues? Does this Court need to set any deadlines or procedures relating to these issues?

(3) Related motions?

The Status Report also states (adv.dkt.7, p.2): "There are motions addressed to Claims Documents pending." What does that mean? No such motions appear to have been filed, based on this Court's review of the docket in both the main case (Case No. 2:20-bk-19262-NB) and this adversary proceeding.

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status

Chapter 13

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation

Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 1/26/21 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 11/3/20. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 1/12/21.

(A) Current issues

Following the initial status conference on 9/1/20, and based on the parties' representations that this matter was straightforward, this Court set a pretrial conference for 11/10/20, which was further continued to 12/1/20 and then to this date. Based on this Court's review of the parties' joint status report (adv.dkt. 5) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding, it appears the parties were not able to resolve this dispute through a global settlement and that they now seek additional time for discovery and other matters.

Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to treat this hearing as a status conference and direct Plaintiff to lodge a scheduling order consistent with the dates and deadlines set forth in Section "(B)(3)" below.

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing. Chapter 13

#8.10 Cont'd hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]
fr. 1/5/21

GENESIS CONDOMINIUM ASSOC
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 48

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 1/21/21:
Appearances required.

At the 1/5/21 hearing, this Court was persuaded to continue the hearing to allow the parties to meet and confer on the appropriate disposition of the funds being held by the HOA and the attorney fee issues. Attorney fees are only indirectly at issue: the question is whether this Court should grant relief from the automatic stay, to the extent (if any) that the stay applies, for the HOA to enforce its claim for postpetition attorney fees.

This Court's oral tentative ruling at the hearing on 1/5/21 was that the HOA bears more responsibility than Debtor for the attorney fees relating to this motion for relief from the automatic stay, because it is the HOA's confused accounting that caused most of the attorney fees (although some of that confusion was due to Debtor not properly informing the HOA when this bankruptcy case was filed). On the other hand, this Court's oral tentative ruling was that Debtor bears some responsibility for not clarifying that (a) she is not attempting any discharge at all (because she is ineligible for one) (see dkt. 7), and in particular (b) she is not attempting to discharge the balance owed to the HOA on its special assessment lien, or on any attorney fees or other charges.

There is no further tentative ruling at this time, but the parties should be prepared to address the status of their discussions and, if they have not resolved their issues, then argue the issues to this Court.

Tentative Ruling for In re Araujo [2:15-bk-28353-NB]:

Appearances required.

This Court has reviewed the motion of the homeowners association ("HOA") (dkt.48), Debtor's response (dkt. 61) and the HOA's reply (dkt. 62). The tentative ruling is to grant the motion in part and deny it in part as follows:

(A) no relief from any automatic stay is required because, once the accounting is corrected, the HOA is not attempting to collect a prepetition debt or doing any other act prohibited by 11 U.S.C. 362(a), but

Chapter 13

(B) no attorney fees are owed, because the HOA's and/or its agents' own errors have caused the confusion and litigation over these issues. Therefore, Debtor has a positive balance on her regular assessments.

The parties are directed to address these issues and, if this Court adopts the tentative ruling as the final ruling, address how that positive balance in Debtor's current accounts should be applied.

Proposed order: The HOA is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b) (1)(B).

(1) Factual background

The HOA acknowledges that its own billing statements and records were confused, but now it believes that, if payments are properly applied:

(a) Prepetition arrears have been paid in full

Debtor's chapter 13 plan payments, through the Chapter 13 Trustee, have now paid in full the $12,464.00 of arrears in assessments that were due as of the petition date. See Motion (dkt.48), p.16:10-13, & Ex.4, at PDF pp.56-57.

(b) Postpetition regular assessments have a positive balance as of 12/10/20, or a slight negative balance if the HOA's attorney fees and costs are included

In addition to her chapter 13 plan payments, Debtor made payments on the regular postpetition assessments, and in fact she overpaid by $4,626.66 (Motion (dkt.48), Ex.4, at PDF p.63, last line, penultimate column), before including legal fees and costs. Those fees are estimated to be approximately $4,950.00 as of 12/10/20 (Motion (dkt.48), p.33:16-21), plus an anticipated $180.00 in costs and additional fees for preparing reply papers and appearing at the hearing. Id. If these specific dollar amounts of fees and costs were included, Debtor would owe approximately $503.34 as of 12/10/20 ($4,950.00 + $180.00 = $5,130.00 - $4,626.66 = $503.34). (As noted above, additional fees would be due for the reply papers and hearing; but the tentative ruling is to deny these and the HOA's other demands for attorney fees and costs.)

(c) The postpetition special assessment payments are current (as of

Postpetition, approximately 2/2016, the HOA levied a special assessment to pay for repairs, in the amount of $19,938.65 per unit. See Koochek Decl. (dkt.48), pp.30:10-31:3 & Ex.3 (at PDF pp.30-46). Homeowners could either pay that amount in a lump sum or pay over time with interest, in 180 payments of $153.86 each. See Motion, Ex.3, Loan Amortization Schedule, at PDF pp. 35-38.

The HOA calculates that, if Debtor's payments are properly applied, she has a positive balance of current payments, as of 12/20, of $206.98 on account of the postpetition special assessment. See Motion (dkt.48), Ex.4, at PDF p.63 (last line, last column). The HOA calculates that Debtor has made 50 payments (id.), and according to the Loan Amortization Schedule that leaves a special assessment principal balance of $15,705.18 as of 1/1/21, to be paid in monthly installments of $153.86 for months 51 through 180. See Motion (dkt.48), Ex.3, Loan Amortization Schedule p.2 (at PDF p.36) (entries for payment nos. 50 & 51).

(2) Analysis

(a) Tentative findings of fact

Debtor does not raise any specific challenges to the HOA's corrected accounting included in the motion papers. Nor has this Court found any errors in that accounting.

The tentative ruling is to accept that accounting for purposes of determining how Debtor's payments should be applied. Therefore, as of 12/10/20, (a) Debtor owes nothing on account of her prepetition arrears, (b) Debtor has a positive balance of $4,626.66 on account of postpetition regular assessments (not including the HOA's asserted attorney fees and costs), and (c) on the special assessment, Debtor has a positive current balance of $206.98, with a remaining principal balance of $15,705.18, to be paid in monthly installments of $153.86 for months 51 through 180.

(b) Tentative conclusions of law regarding the automatic stay

The automatic stay prohibits any act "to collect, assess, or recover a claim against the debtor that arose before the commencement of the case under this title." 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(6) (emphasis added). But, based on the foregoing findings of fact, the HOA concedes that the prepetition arrears have been paid in full, so this provision of the automatic stay is not implicated.

The HOA also has statutory assessment liens. See Motion (dkt.48) p.15:3-20. The imposition of those liens potentially implicates the automatic stay's prohibition on "any act to create, perfect, or enforce any lien against property of the estate" (11 U.S.C. 362(a)(4)) and "any act to obtain possession of property of the estate or of property from the estate or to exercise control over property of the estate." 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(3). In this judicial district, a chapter 13 debtor' property is not re-vested in the debtor upon confirmation, so the automatic stay continues to apply at all relevant times.

But the tentative ruling is that it would be too expansive to interpret the automatic stay as applying to the HOA's postpetition assessments made in the ordinary course of its business and financial affairs. To the contrary, as the HOA points out, postpetition assessments are nondischargeable under 11 U.S.C. 523(a)(16), and it would seem anomalous to make postpetition assessments violate the automatic stay while also making them nondischargeable. Similarly, under 28 U.S.C. 959(b), the bankruptcy estate is supposed to be managed consistent with nonbankruptcy law, and it appears more consistent with that obligation for postpetition assessments made in the ordinary course not to be construed as an affirmative act to obtain possession of, or create or enforce a lien against, estate property, or otherwise violate the cited provisions of the automatic stay. If that were so, chapter 13 debtors and anyone interacting with them could not engage in any of their ordinary transactions without constantly seeking relief from the automatic stay; and it does not seem that Congress could have intended that trap for the unwary and impractical result.

In sum, the tentative ruling is that if postpetition assessments are made in the ordinary course, they do not require relief from the automatic stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(3), (4), or (6). Nor has any party suggested that any other provision of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies.

Alternatively, the tentative ruling is to grant retroactive relief by annulling the automatic stay for cause, under under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1). This relief appears to be appropriate given (x) the lack of clear law on whether the automatic stay applies in these circumstances, (y) the HOA's evidence about its changes in management and confusion regarding the proper application of payments, and (z) the HOA's apparent attempts to correct the accounting and resolve the parties' disputes once it discovered the misapplication of payments, followed quickly by its motion for relief from the automatic stay once the attempted consensual resolution fell apart. In sum, given the HOA's corrected accounting, it is not attempting to collect a prepetition debt, nor has it been shown to have engaged in any other act in violation of the automatic stay. Alternatively, annulment is appropriate.

(c) Tentative conclusions of law as to attorney fees

Under sections 6.04.1 and 6.04.2 of the HOA's Declaration of Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions ("CC&Rs"), attorney fees must be "reasonable" and otherwise allowable. Motion (dkt.48), Ex.2, pp.43-45 (PDF pp.23-25). The tentative ruling is that the HOA cannot charge Debtor for its attorney fees because its and/or its agents' own errors have caused the confusion and litigation over the foregoing issues.

(d) The parties' relations and accounting going forward

The parties are directed to address whether the positive balances in Debtor's current accounts for regular and special assessments, as of 12/10/20, should be applied to future monthly payments of regular assessments or the special assessment, or in a lump sum, or should be refunded to Debtor, or applied in some other way.

Docket 28

Tentative Ruling:

Continue to 2/18/21 at 8:30 a.m. to address the following issues.
Appearances are not required on 1/21/21.

Lack of cost/benefit analysis. The posted Procedures of Judge Bason

When objecting to claims, be sure to include an analysis of whether the costs of preparing and litigating the claim objection (administrative expenses) do not exceed the anticipated benefits (reductions in claims). For example, if the anticipated dividend is small or 0% then the attorney fees incurred in prosecuting your claim objection to any general unsecured claim probably will exceed the benefit to the bankruptcy estate/debtor, so filing that objection would be a waste of the bankruptcy estate's (and everyone else's) resources (unless, for example, the claim is nondischargeable, in which event the attorney fees might well be justified).

No later than 7 days after the date of this hearing the movant must file either:

(1) a supplemental declaration explaining why the attorney fees for this objection are justified (including supporting evidence, such as a copy of the plan showing the projected dividend to the claimant, and a calculation comparing that projected dividend against the attorney fees related to this claim objection), or

(2) a withdrawal of the claim objection.

The motion papers were not served on the Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") at the address stated in its Proof of Claim (i.e., Claim 6-1, p.1, para. #11.00 Hrg re: Objection to Proof of Claim #8 Filed by Bank of America, N.A.

Docket 23

Tentative Ruling:

Continue to 3/18/21 at 8:30 a.m. so that claimant can commence its contemplated adversary proceeding or the parties can reach a consensual resolution. Counsel for Debtor is cautioned about the need to exercise reasonable judgment in how much to expend in paying attorney fees instead of paying creditors. Appearances are not required on 1/21/21.

(1) Reasons for continuance

This Court has reviewed Debtor's motion (dkt. 23), the claimant's opposition (dkt. 30), and Debtor's reply (dkt. 31). Although Debtor's reply argues that the claimant has not cited authority, that puts the cart before the horse. Debtor is the objecting party and Debtor has not cited any authority that a deed of trust on real property is void or unenforceable as a matter of law when it includes the correct street address and a conflicting legal description for a particular parcel.

Alternatively, even if Debtor did not need to cite any such authority (which is incorrect), this Court's understanding of California law is contrary to Debtor's position. Based on unrelated litigation before this Court, the general rule appears to be that a transfer of an interest in property "is not void for uncertainty because of errors or inconsistency in some of the particulars of the description" if it is possible "from the whole description to ascertain and identify the land intended to be conveyed." Gyurec v. Bank of New York Trust Co., NA (Cal. Ct. App., 4th Dist., 2014) (unpublished, Case No. No. G050083) (quoting Leonard v. Osburn, 169 Cal. 157, 160 (1915)) (correct street address sufficient for deed of trust's validity, even though it incorrectly described property as located in "Township 4 North" instead of Township 4 South"). See also Cal. Code Civ. P. 2077 ("Where there are certain definite and ascertained particulars in the description, the addition of others which are indefinite, unknown, or false, does not frustrate the conveyance, but it is to be construed by the first mentioned particulars.").

Chapter 13

Based on the foregoing, it appears appropriate to continue this hearing for the parties either to litigate the issue or, perhaps, agree to a consensual resolution.

(2) Expenditure of funds on attorney fees

Given the apparent principles of California law (summarized above), Debtor's counsel is reminded of the need to do a cost/benefit analysis in determining whether it is worth expending funds on attorney fees that otherwise would go to pay creditors. Debtor's counsel is reminded that the posted "Procedures of Judge Bason" (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) state:

§ 502: claim objections & cost/benefit analysis. When objecting to claims, be sure to include an analysis of whether the costs of preparing and litigating the claim objection (administrative expenses) do not exceed the anticipated benefits (reductions in claims). For example, if the anticipated dividend is small or 0% then the attorney fees incurred in prosecuting your claim objection to any general unsecured claim probably will exceed the benefit to the bankruptcy estate/debtor, so filing that objection would be a waste of the bankruptcy estate's (and everyone else's) resources (unless, for example, the claim is nondischargeable, in which event the attorney fees might well be justified).

Debtor's claim objection does not include any cost/benefit analysis. If Debtor decides to continue with the claim objection, this Court will set a deadline at a future hearing for Debtor's counsel to file a cost/benefit declaration.

Docket 26

Tentative Ruling:

Continue to 3/18/21 at 8:30 a.m. and direct the parties to mandatory mediation before one of this Court's panel of mediators (not a bankruptcy judge), with a deadline of 2/5/21 to lodge a mediation order. Appearances are not required on 1/21/21.

This Court has reviewed Debtor's objection (dkt. 26), the claimant's opposition (dkt. 39), and Debtor's reply (dkt. 41). The objection is based on alleged usury.

"California's usury restrictions are a curious and confusing blend of the California State Constitution, statutory law, and case law pertaining to both Article XV of the California Constitution and the relevant usury statutes." Wishnev v. Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co., 162 F.Supp.3d 930, 937 (ND Cal. 2016). But both parties' papers cite almost no authority.

The claimant seeks a continuance for discovery, which she believes will show (a) that the loan was made for "business purposes" and (b) that the loan was arranged by a real estate broker. Debtor replies (x) that "even if funds were used for business purposes they would still be usurious" (citing section 2 of Article XV of The California Constitution); (y) that the exemption for a real estate broker "arranging" a loan requires that the broker "receives a commission and actively participates in the negotiation and drafting of the loan terms" (dkt.41, p.3:1-2) (citing no authority, and providing no evidence of a lack of such involvement); and (z) that the claimant should have documentation on these things, and is only seeking extensive discovery to harass Debtor, "beat [Debtor] into submission," and "delay this bankruptcy." Dkt.41, p.3:17-18. Debtor also requests that, if this Court permits discovery into the issues raised by the claimant, Debtor be permitted to do its own discovery.

The tentative ruling is that normally the parties are free to propound any discovery they believe might lead to admissible evidence, subject to other parties' rights to seek orders quashing or limiting discovery. But in this instance it appears appropriate to stay discovery and order mandatory mediation in view of (i) the complexities of usury law, (ii) the relatively small dollar amounts at issue, relative to the potential attorney fees of litigation (see POC, reproduced at dkt.26, Ex.A, last page, listing $33,780.82 in interest), and (iii) the difficulty of discovery due to the length of time since the loan's inception, the transfers of the loan, and the likelihood of a lack of rigorous documentation by either party (or any predecessor in interest to the claimant). In other words, mediation appears particularly appropriate because there appears to be a potential for attorney fees to exceed the discounted present value of each party's chances of obtaining a net benefit at the end of their litigation.

#18.00 Order to show cause why this court should not deny his fees and costs associated with the claim objection

Docket 71

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Pursuant to this Court's order to show cause (dkt. 71), the tentative ruling is to direct Mr. Ure not to charge Debtor for any fees or costs associated with the Claim Objection (dkt. 65, 67) and Amended Proof of Service (dkt. 70), prior to 12/20/20, because (a) he is an experienced bankruptcy practitioner who should already know the proper procedures for service on the IRS, and (b) he failed personally to make sure the amended service cured the deficient service, especially after this Court's tentative ruling for 12/17/20 directed him to the specific rules and procedures for service on the IRS.

Proposed order: This Court will prepare an order after the hearing date, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing. Pursuant to Judge Bason's COVID-19 procedures, all appearances are via ZoomGov. Tentative Ruling for 1/21/21:

Appearances required, absent either (1) an agreement with the Chapter 13 Trustee's office and the objecting creditors to continue this matter or (2) withdrawal of the motion by Debtor.

Analysis

At the 12/17/20 hearing, the Debtor and the siblings and creditors Patricia A. Kennedy and Vincent J. Kennedy (the "Siblings") informed the Court that they had reached a settlement on the motion. As of the date of this tentative ruling, no order on the motion has been lodged with the Court. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address whether the intent remains to resolve the motion by way of the settlement.

Trustee's office and the objecting creditors to continue this matter or (2) withdrawal of the motion by Debtor. The tentative ruling is to deny the motion for the reasons set forth below.

Analysis

At the 11/19/20 hearing, this Court was persuaded to continue the matter to allow the parties to file additional papers. The Court has reviewed Debtor's supplemental Declaration (dkt. 123), the supplemental Opposition by siblings and creditors Patricia A. Kennedy and Vincent J. Kennedy (the "Siblings") (dkt. 124), Debtor's supplemental Reply (dkt.125), and the documents reviewed in preparation of the tentative ruling for 11/19/20.

The tentative ruling is that, although Debtor's evidentiary objections are well taken, nevertheless (i) Debtor's supplemental declaration has not established that his alleged financial hardship is in fact due to the pandemic as required by 11 U.S.C. 1329(d) and (ii) Debtor has not established good faith for a plan modification as required by 11 U.S.C. 1329(b)(1).

Debtor has provided evidence indicating that his brother has had a reduction in income, that he was unsuccessful in finding replacement tenant to rent the property, and why preparing the garage for use as a rentable space is not possible. Dkt. 123, pp. 2–5. Debtor's evidence of his brother's reduction in income appears to be adequate, as is his evidence of the apparent expense of repairing and furnishing the garage and his alleged intent from the outset not to rent the garage but instead to rent the entire house out if necessary to fund his "step up" plan (the Siblings dispute this, but they do not provide admissible evidence). But Debtor has not adequately explained his efforts to lease the property.

Debtor alleges that he placed a "for rent" sign in front of the property. Dkt. 123, p.2. But Debtor does not explain when this sign was put up, how long the sign remained, and what other efforts he undertook when it became clear that the for rent sign was unsuccessful in attracting a tenant. For this reason and the reasons stated in the tentative ruling for 11/19/20, the tentative ruling is to deny the motion.

Notwithstanding all of the foregoing, the parties are directed to meet and confer to see if a compromise can be reached. This Court is concerned that if the parties do not settle then there could be considerable additional litigation between Debtor and the Siblings, and that such litigation might result in added expense without added benefit for the parties, and also could result in adverse consequences to third parties.

If Debtor and the Siblings reach a compromise then, depending on the nature of the compromise and any offers of proof, this Court may well be able to find, in the absence of evidentiary objections from the Siblings and the Chapter 13 Trustee, that there is sufficient "good faith" and compliance with section 1329(d) to grant a modified version of the motion.

A. Kennedy and Vincent J. Kennedy (the "Siblings") (dkt. 111), the response of the Chapter 13 Trustee (dkt. 113), Debtor's reply (dkt. 120), and the Siblings' unauthorized sur-reply (dkt. 121). As a preliminary matter, the tentative ruling is to strike the unauthorized sur-reply. Nevertheless, the tentative ruling is to deny the motion for the following reasons.

Modification can be requested under 11 U.S.C. 1329. Section 1329(c) usually provides that a plan as modified may not exceed five years, but the CARES Act added section 1329(d), which permits an extension, in certain circumstances, of up to seven years after the first payment under the original plan was due (for chapter 13 plans confirmed prior to 3/27/20).

To be eligible for that extension Debtor must establish that he "is experiencing or has experienced a material financial hardship due, directly or indirectly, to the coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) pandemic" and if the modification "is approved after notice and a hearing." (Emphasis added.) The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not established that his alleged financial hardship is in fact due to the pandemic.

First, Debtor asserts that his brother, who has been occupying part of the property, has been making "contributions" to fund the plan but had a reduction in income due to the pandemic and cannot afford to continue with such "contributions" or pay rent. Debtor also asserts that he has been unable to find paying tenants due to the pandemic. Where is the evidence of the brother's financial inability to pay fair rent? Where is the evidence of Debtor's efforts to find a paying tenant (and evict his brother)?

Second, Debtor alleges that his garage is "packed with boxes and other household items, and is not habitable." Reply (dkt.120), p.7:1-3 & Ex.3. Why has it not been possible, since the inception of this case and especially now, to clean up and rent out this space?

There might (or might not) be good explanations for these things. But Debtor fails to address them.

The same concerns apply under section 1325(a), made applicable to any proposed plan modification by section 1329(b)(1). Section 1325(a)(3) requires that "the plan has been proposed in good faith and not by any means forbidden by law." See In re Sunahara, 326 B.R. 768, 772-84 (9th Cir. BAP 2005).

The "good faith" determination "necessarily requires an assessment of a debtor's overall financial condition including, without limitation, the debtor's current disposable income, the likelihood that the debtor's disposable income will significantly increase ..." and any other facts and circumstances bearing on the issue of good faith. Id. at 781-82. For the same reasons stated above, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has not established his good faith.

In sum, Debtor has not satisfied section 1329(d) - by failing to provide enough evidence that it is the pandemic that has made the plan infeasible - nor has he provided sufficient evidence of his good faith under section 1325(a)(3). Therefore the tentative ruling is to deny the motion.

(available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) provide:

§ 502: claim objections & cost/benefit analysis. When objecting to claims, be sure to include an analysis of whether the costs of preparing and litigating the claim objection (administrative expenses) do not exceed the anticipated benefits (reductions in claims). For example, if the anticipated dividend is small or 0% then the attorney fees incurred in prosecuting your claim objection to any general unsecured claim probably will exceed the benefit to the bankruptcy estate/debtor, so filing that objection would be a waste of the bankruptcy estate's (and everyone else's) resources (unless, for example, the claim is nondischargeable, in which event the attorney fees might well be justified).

No later than 7 days after the date of this hearing the movant must file either:

(1) a supplemental declaration explaining why the attorney fees for this objection are justified (including supporting evidence, such as a copy of the plan showing the projected dividend to the claimant, and a calculation comparing that projected dividend against the attorney fees related to this claim objection), or

(2) a withdrawal of the claim objection.

No fees on this matter, absent specific authorization. Counsel is directed not to charge any fees on this matter (including all past, present and future work related to this claim objection), and to return any fees received on this matter, unless and until this Court expressly finds: "Counsel has provided a cost/benefit analysis that is sufficient for purposes of Judge Bason's posted Procedures regarding claim objections." It is counsel's responsibility to include the quoted phrase, if warranted, in the proposed order on this claim objection.

This Court does not have the capacity to monitor all fee applications to assure compliance with the foregoing limitation on fees. But if counsel is found to have disregarded this limitation then this Court may impose sanctions.

Tentative Ruling for 9/24/20:

Sustain the claim objection in part, overrule it in part, and continue the hearing, all as set forth below. Appearances required.

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): BBV Profit Sharing Plan ("BBV") opposition papers (dkt. 40, 41), Debtor's reply (dkt. 42), BBV's unauthorized sur-reply (dkt. 43), BBV's amended proof of claim 6-2 ("AmClaim")

Analysis:

(1) Advances of funds to the senior lienholder

(a) Nonbankruptcy law

The tentative ruling is that Debtor is correct that under nonbankruptcy law a junior lienholder is not authorized to advance more funds than what is necessary to cure any arrears on a senior lien (Cal. Civ. Code 2924c(a)(1)) and BBV has not demonstrated that it was necessary to advance $91,930.10 to the senior lienholder, when it appears that the senior lienholder's arrears as of the petition date were only $47,356.58 (see dkt. 38, Ex.C). Therefore, to the extent the advances exceeded the amount of any default (i.e., $91,930.10 - $47,356.58 = $44,573.52), they were unauthorized under nonbankruptcy law.

The parties have not briefed the consequences of making such an unauthorized transfer. One remedy might be for BBV, Debtor, and/or the senior lien holder to seek to unwind BBV's unauthorized payment of $44,573.52 to the senior lien holder. In that event, presumably, Debtor would once again owe the excess $44,573.52 to the senior debt holder, and BBV's claim would be reduced by that same dollar amount. But that does not appear to have happened, so the question is what consequences follow from BBV's unauthorized payment of the senior debt.

The tentative ruling, in the absence of cited authority from either party, is that California law must be construed so as to treat BBV's payment of the senior debt as an unauthorized loan that attempts to replace the (lower) interest rate under the senior loan documents with the (higher) interest rate under the junior loan documents, and that this is impermissible. BBV has not cited authority that someone who makes a loan without authority to do so can charge any interest on that unauthorized loan. Therefore, the tentative ruling is that BBV cannot charge any interest prior to the effective date of any plan; although, after the effective date, it would have to bear "present value" interest pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 1325(a)(5)(B)(ii). In other words, the senior debt paid by BBV does not simply disappear (which would be a windfall to Debtor), but nor can BBV charge (higher) interest on that debt (which would be a windfall to BBV).

(b) Bankruptcy law

All of the foregoing analysis under nonbankruptcy law may be mooted by the superseding effect of bankruptcy law. It appears that both of BBV's payments are void as a matter of bankruptcy law.

BBV's checks are dated 7/8/20 - the same day that Debtor's prior bankruptcy case was dismissed (Case No. 2:18-bk-18060-NB). This Court presumes for purposes of this discussion that the checks were issued after the dismissal (and therefore this Court will not address whether the checks violated the automatic stay in that prior case). This Court also presumes, for purposes of this discussion, that the checks were mailed on or about the same date. But the timestamps reflect that the checks were not received and/or deposited by the senior lienholder until after the 7/10/20 petition date in this current case. The checks apparently were deposited on 7/13/20 and 7/17/20 (see AmClaim, pdf pp. 6-7).

The parties have not briefed which of these dates is relevant, but the tentative ruling is that the date of deposit is the date when BBV's lien against Debtor's real property was increased, and that this constituted a "transfer" of an interest in that property and an "exercise of control" over property of the estate, in violation of the automatic stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(3). Alternatively the tentative ruling is that each transfer constituted an act to obtain "possession" of property of the estate in violation of the other clause of 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(3), or an act to "create, perfect, or enforce a lien" against property of the estate in violation of 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(4). On each of these alternative grounds, BBV's advances violated the automatic stay and therefore are void ab initio. See generally 11 U.S.C. 11 U.S.C. 101(50)

("transfer" defined); cf. In re Lee, 179 B.R. 149, 158-59 (9th Cir. BAP 1995) (date of "transfer" involving perfection of lien, under 11 U.S.C. 547), aff'd 108 F.3d 239, 241 (9th Cir. 1997); In re Hagen, 922 F.2d 742, 745 (11th Cir. 1991) (same); see also In re Schwartz, 954 F.2d 569, 571 (9th Cir. 1992) (acts in violation of automatic stay are void).

Note: The tentative ruling is that the transfers also likely constituted avoidable unauthorized postpetition transfers (11 U.S.C. 549(a)), and/or unauthorized post-petition loans (11 U.S.C. 364), which had the effect of replacing a senior encumbrance bearing a low interest rate with BBV's encumbrance bearing a higher interest rate. But the tentative ruling is that this Court cannot make any ruling on those issues because they would require an adversary proceeding. See Rules 3007(b), 7001(1) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

The bottom line is that, in making payments to the holder of the senior lien, BBV violated the automatic stay and therefore both advances are void. BBV argues that there is no harm because Debtor owed the money anyway, but as a practical matter, BBV effectively increased the interest rate that Debtor must pay, which ultimately takes away from any recovery for junior creditors and jeopardizes Debtor's ability to reorganize.

Again, this Court is not ruling that Debtor will receive a windfall. If this Court adheres to the foregoing tentative ruling then the transfers from BBV to the senior lien holder were void, so presumably the senior lienholder must return the $91,930.10 to BBV and Debtor's debt to the senior lienholder will increase by that same dollar amount. That said, the senior lienholder has not been made a party to these proceedings, and Debtor has not commenced any proceeding to compel turnover by the senior lienholder (see 11 U.S.C. 542; Rule 7001(1), Fed. R. Bankr. P.). In addition, if BBV's entire $91,930.10 transfers were to be unwound then Debtor might owe additional interest, late charges, and other charges to the senior lienholder, and there might be other consequences.

Accordingly, although the tentative ruling is that BBV's $91,930.10 in advances were void (because, by increasing BBV's lien, they violated the automatic stay), the tentative ruling is that it would be premature to disallow BBV's claim for those funds at this time. Rather, the tentative ruling is to direct Debtor and BBV to meet and confer, and for both of them to communicate with the holder of the senior lien, to attempt to resolve this matter.

Chapter 13

(2) Foreclosure and Bankruptcy Attorneys Fees and Costs

(i) Foreclosure fees, costs & interest thereon

The tentative ruling is to overrule Debtor's objection to BBV's foreclosure fees, costs and interest because BBV's response cites the applicable loan provision that purportedly entitles it to collect these fees/costs (dkt. 40, p.8:1-9) and Debtor's reply does not renew any challenges to these items.

(ii) Reasonableness of attorneys' fees & costs

The tentative ruling is to overrule the objection as to the reasonableness of the amounts charged because BBV's opposition papers attach time records (dkt. 40, Ex.2, pdf pp. 30-40 & dkt. 41), which appear to provide adequate support for the reasonableness of its fees.

(iii) Rule 3002.1(c) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.)

First, the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate for this Court to reach the merits of this issue because although Debtor raised this issue for the first time in her reply papers (a) it appears to be in response to new information provided in BBV's opposition and (b) there is no prejudice to BBV because it filed the unauthorized sur-reply (dkt. 43) responding to these arguments.

Second, on the merits, the tentative ruling is that Debtor appears to be correct that BBV did not comply with Rule 3002.1(c) by filing timely notices of postpetition mortgage fees, expenses and charges in the Prior Case. Although BBV points out (dkt. 43) that any noncompliance was in the Prior Case, the tentative ruling is that for the following reasons this issue is properly raised in this current case.

The tentative ruling is that the burden is on BBV to show why charges that it was supposed to have noticed in the prior case should survive and be chargeable in this case. In addition, if necessary this Court could reopen the prior case and decide the issues in that case instead of in this one, but because this Court presided over the Prior Case that would appear to be form over substance, and any insistence by BBV on parties incurring the expense of reopening might be appropriately charged to BBV as part of this Court's discretion under Rule 3002.1(i) to award "appropriate relief."

All of that said, neither side has cited any authority interpreting Rule 3002.1; Debtor has not shown how she was prejudiced by BBV's nondisclosure of its charges in the Prior Case; and just as Debtor is having another bite at the apple in this current case perhaps BBV should as well - in other words, BBV's apparent violation of Rule 3002.1 does not appear to have caused any cognizable prejudice, and both parties did not fully live up to their obligations in the prior bankruptcy case, so the tentative ruling is that an "appropriate remedy" under Rule 3002.1(i) is probably not to reduce BBV's claim. Therefore the tentative ruling is to overrule Debtor's objection on this ground.

(3) Interest Rate

The tentative ruling is to overrule the objection for the reasons stated in BBV's opposition papers.

(4) Unapplied funds from Debtor's prior bankruptcy case

The tentative ruling is that this objection appears to be moot in view of BBV's filing of an Amended Proof of Claim crediting Debtor for all payments made during the Prior Case.

(5) Conclusion

The tentative ruling is not to adopt any of the foregoing tentative rulings on any final basis, and instead to direct the parties to meet and confer, and communicate with the holder of the senior lien, and meanwhile continue this matter to 10/22/20 at 8:30 a.m.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion (the "Reconsideration Motion," dkt.1289, 1300, 1304, 1305, 1318) regarding order (dkt.557) granting Debtor's motion to approve settlement agreement (dkt.547); order shortening time (dkt.1301, 1311); creditors' committee response (dkt.1307); opposition papers of Anea Enter., LLC ("Anea," dkt. 1310), Bobs LLC ("Bobs," dkt.1312), The Bird Nest, LLC ("Bird") and the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Los Angeles, And the California Institute of the Sisters of the Most Holy and Immaculate Heart of the Blessed Virgin Mary ("Church") (dkt.1313-1316); reply papers (dkt. 1322-1324); and Church/Bird's evidentiary objections thereto (dkt.1325)

Deny. The Reconsideration Motion requests that this Court "reconsider" the order approving her settlement with certain creditors by extending the time for her performance by up to one year. Debtor cites no authority that this Court has any power to rewriting the parties' settlement agreement.

Alternatively, even if Debtor were correct that in theory the duty of "good faith and fair dealing" would permit this Court to rewrite the parties' agreement (which it does not), the tentative ruling is that Debtor's own evidence fails to establish that the Church and Bird violated that duty. There is no apparent lack of good faith demonstrated in the concerns raised by those creditors. See, e.g., Reconsid. Mot. (dkt.1298), Ex.13, at p.128 (email summarizing Church/Bird concerns that they are not adequately protected).

Alternatively, although Debtor blames the current pandemic situation for her inability to perform her agreement, she has not provided any evidence that she was precluded from refinancing or selling the Paramour property or entering into a joint venture in the months and years prior to the onset of the pandemic. In other words, on the record presented, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has not established that anything but her own delay caused her to be susceptible to risks such as the current pandemic situation.

Alternatively, the tentative ruling is to deny the Reconsideration Motion for the other reasons stated by Church, Bird, Bobs, and Anea. Without limiting the generality of the immediately preceding sentence, the tentative ruling is that those creditors' concerns about further delay in Debtor's performance are well founded, both based on Debtor's past performance and losses and, alternatively, in view of the uncertainty and possible effects of the pandemic situation on Debtor's businesses and assets.

On the latter point, this Court takes judicial notice that the pandemic situation has been growing much worse: local businesses such as The Paramour are subject to very substantial restrictions; new variants of the virus have emerged; and the vaccine rollouts have not been as rapid or widespread as hoped. All of these matters reinforce creditors' objections. See, e.g., Anea Obj. (dkt.1310) (noting lengthy delays in disposition of Roble Vista Property, lack of payment of property taxes, and stating that "Covid 19 has affected everyone, including creditors" and Debtor's problems "should not put a greater burden on creditors"); Bobs Obj. (dkt.1312) (citing risk that any equity cushion might be "rapidly eroding" or non-existent due to the pandemic situation); Maddoc Decl. (dkt.1314) (noting lack of foundation for Debtor's assertions, including long-standing lack of evidence of profitability of The Paramour; lack of evidence that Debtor could qualify for $25 million loan at 3% interest; and, to the contrary, many reasons to conclude that Debtor would not qualify for any loan that could be supported even by drastically improved cash flow).

Proposed order: Counsel for the Church is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of parts "(1)(a)" above and "(1)(b)" below of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating them as this Court's final rulings, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. Chapter 11

(b) Evidentiary rulings regarding Reconsideration Motion

In formulating the foregoing tentative rulings on the Reconsideration Motion, this Court has considered the parties' evidentiary objections. Any ruling on those objections would not change any of the foregoing tentative rulings on the merits, but for the sake of completeness this Court rules as follows on the evidentiary objections:

The tentative ruling is to sustain Debtor's objection (dkt.1323) to the request of Church/Bird for judicial notice (dkt.1315), to the limited extent stated by Debtor (factual allegations in filed documents are not subject to judicial notice). But all of the documents are appropriate subjects of judicial notice for limited purposes. For example, it is appropriate for this Court to take judicial notice of the representations made by Debtor in her own MORs - not for the truth of those representations, but to illustrate Church/Bird's argument that Debtor's own figures do not support her requested relief. See RJN (dkt.1315) p.2:1 (requesting judicial notice of Debtor's MOR at dkt.1297).

The tentative rulings regarding Church/Bird's initial evidentiary objections (dkt.1316) are: overrule the objection to Debtor's assertions regarding her perception of a weakened negotiating position (dkt.1316, p.2:9-15) (but those assertions are irrelevant); sustain the objections to Debtor's assertions that Church and its counsel have obtained pandemic-related financial relief (id. p.2:15-21); sustain the objection to Debtor's declaration about the causes for her inability to obtain refinancing (without prejudice to admission of declarations from others) (id. p.2:22-26); overrule the objection to Debtor's statement about meeting or speaking with more than 30 potential buyers, lenders, or partners, but sustain the objection to their alleged statements about their reasons for not proceeding (id. pp.2:27-3:2); sustain the objections to Debtor's attempt to dispute the merits of her underlying (settled) disputes with Church/Bird and the alleged lack of damages to them (id. p.3:3-4:6); sustain the objections to Debtor's assertion that she is the only one who has not received any pandemic-related relief (id. p.4:7-9); sustain the objections to Debtor's assertion that Church's position is "not in keeping" with the spirit of speeches made by the Archbishop (id. p.4:9-15); sustain the objections to Debtor's allegations that Church and Ms. Perry (Bird's principal) allegedly would not be prejudiced by the proposed modification of the parties' agreement (id. p.4:15-20); sustain the relevance objection to Debtor's allegation that as a result of the pandemic she has "effectively been deprived of the time for which I originally bargained," but overrule the other objections to that statement, and sustain the objections to Debtor's assertion that with "everyone else" allegedly receiving pandemic relief it is "appropriate" for this Court to rewrite her agreement (id. p.4:21-26); overrule the objection to the Clark Declaration's assertions about the current and future value of the Roble Vista Property (the objections go to the weight of the evidence, but are insufficient to exclude that evidence) (id. p.5:2-7); overrule the objections to the Young Declaration's assertions about the values of 1910 Micheltorena Street and The Paramour (for the same reasons) (id. p.5:9-17); sustain the objections to the Melzer Declaration's assertions that Debtor has "sufficient borrowing capacity to meet her obligations" based on lack of sufficient foundation, but overrule all other objections to his declaration except for his assertion that another client's attempted $49 million remodeling loan is "the single largest such loan in the Country" (id. pp.6:3-7:8); sustain the relevance objection to the Tilem Declaration's assertions about how he (and Debtor) perceived this Court's rulings and the possibility of converting this case to chapter 7 (Debtor's perceptions, and any actual negotiating weakness in arriving at the approved settlement agreement, are irrelevant) (id. p.7:9-18); sustain the objections to the Sebastian Declaration's assertions about his investment firm's potential willingness to purchase the Waverly property from Church (id. pp.7:19-8:6).

The tentative rulings regarding Church/Bird's evidentiary objections (dkt.1325) to Debtor's reply papers are: sustain the objections to Debtor's assertion that the real estate transaction in which she was found to have interfered "was never going to take place" and that "history has proven" that she did not interfere with the sale (dkt.1325, p.2:9-18); sustain the objections to Debtor's assertions that others have received pandemic relief while she has not and that the 5% interest rate in the parties' agreement is "above-market" (id. p.2:18-24); sustain the objections to Debtor's assertion that "reality" overrules legal objections to the admissibility of her alleged motivations to enter into her agreement (id. pp.2:24-3:2); sustain the objections to the Juckniess Declaration, except that the bare fact of a creditor supporting Debtor's Reconsideration Motion would be a relevant consideration for this Court in assessing any request for reconsideration, if there were any legal grounds for such relief (id. p.3:4-22); sustain the objections to the Martin Declaration for the same reasons (id. pp.3:24-28); sustain the objections to the Staats, Vitalos, Aeppel, and Parwani Declarations for the same reasons (id. p.4); sustain the objections to the Roopenian Declaration's assertions about the reasons for Debtor's alleged inability to obtain refinancing or other relief, except for the characterization of his opinion as that of a "lay witness" (id. p.5:1-7); sustain the objections to the Howard Declaration's assertions about what is the "primary" reason for Debtor's alleged inability to obtain funds and future ability to obtain financing, except for the characterization of his opinion as that of a "lay witness" (id. p.5:8-19).

Nothing in the foregoing summaries of the declarants' assertions should be interpreted as limiting this Court's rulings to such assertions. Except as otherwise stated above, the tentative ruling is that all of the creditors' evidentiary objections are sustained, and all of Debtor's are overruled.

(c) Debtor's transactions out of the ordinary course?

Debtor's status reports disclose that she has "restarted" her businesses of buying and selling antiques, clothing consulting, and design. See Stat.Rpts. (dkt.1296, p.4:8-11, and dkt. 1320, pp.4:22-5:1). See also Debtor Decl. (dkt.1322) p.9:1-6. Other papers filed by Debtor disclose that she is "manufacturing custom designer pillows (which typically sell between $500-$1,000 each)." Dkt. 1322, p.4:11-16 & 9:1-6. In addition, although renovations to the Paramour property (dkt.1322, p.8:22-28) might well qualify as "ordinary course," this Court has concerns about what Debtor means by "renovations" and whether they really are ordinary course.

Chapter 11

As noted in the tentative ruling for the (continued) status conference on 12/8/20, Debtor is directed to address (i) how, if Debtor previously had ceased engaging in various lines of business, restarting those lines now would qualify as "ordinary course" (11 U.S.C. 363(b)) and (ii) the historical cost/benefit and risks of those businesses. This Court takes judicial notice that Debtor repeatedly has been warned that she and any affiliated businesses must not "reopen" businesses (or engage in any other transactions out of the ordinary course) without notice to parties in interest and prior approval by this Court.

In addition to the legal requirements, there are practical concerns about Debtor acting without notice. For example, reopening closed lines of business typically involves up-front costs that the estate might not recover if the business is not successful; and some lines of business could expose the estate to liabilities.

These concerns are heightened by the history of this case. This Court previously found and concluded that Debtor failed to notify parties in interest, even including the co-owner of the Cliff's Edge business, of her acts regarding that business. This Court also found and concluded that Debtor:

... has disregarded her duties as a trustee for the benefit of creditors by ... reopening the Bridge [Tavern, LLC, aka Villain's Tavern,] business without notice or authorization by this Court ...
[emphasis added]

Just as the debtor acknowledges that causing Bridge to sell its business is a transaction out of the ordinary course, so is causing Bridge to reopen its closed business [emphasis in original].
[Memorialization of [adopted] Tentative Rulings (dkt.239), at pp.13-14, para. "(d)"; see also id. (dkt.238, 239) passim.]

Alternatively, supposing for the sake of discussion that Debtor's reopening of businesses, renovations to the Paramour, and other activities can be shown to have been in the ordinary course of Debtor's business (which does not appear so, with the possible exception of renovations), at the very least Debtor was required to disclose the finances of every line of business. See Order (dkt.22), p.2:18-22 ("For all reporting purposes – including Monthly Operating Reports ('MORs'), disclosure statements, etc. – Debtor must disclose all income, expenses, assets, and liabilities of [any] affiliated businesses").

Chapter 11

Contrary to that requirement, Debtor's MORs appear to provide only partial disclosure. Some individual items are listed - e.g., funds spent on "Items for resale." But there does not appear to be any separate accounting for different lines of the reopened business, nor any way to assess if any one line of business is losing money, making a profit, etc. Nor is it clear why some items are included in the DIP "general" account and others in the DIP "personal" account. Nor does Debtor's DIP Tax account appear to reflect any payment of sales taxes for any such businesses. See, e.g., MOR (11/30/20, dkt.1297), pp.2, 9 & 53; but cf. id. p.67 (P&L for Vintage Event Design, showing Nov. 2020 loss of $4,681.22).

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/2/21 for Debtor to file and serve papers responsive to the foregoing concerns, including:

(A) detailed statements of the historical and current profits or losses of each line of business engaged in by Debtor, including all associated expenses (except that, to the extent such information is already included in MORs or other filed documents, Debtor may incorporate specific information by reference);

(B) the exact time periods in which those business were operated historically and currently;

(C) what regulatory requirements apply to such businesses, including any permits, sales taxes, employment taxes, etc., and whether Debtor is in full compliance with all such regulatory requirements;

(D) whether Debtor is competent to run each line of business in which she is engaged;

(E) the potential risks of any such businesses; and

(F) what renovations have been performed at the Paramour, whether those renovations were performed by licensed contractors, whether permits were obtained for such renovations, the cost of such renovations, the increase in room rates or other revenues as a result of such renovations, and any other relevant information regarding such renovations.

For example, with respect to potential risks, the tentative ruling is that Debtor must address any liabilities to which the bankruptcy estate might be exposed if Debtor's pillows do not have fire-resistant filling or, conversely, if they have such filling but it causes allergic reactions. More broadly, Debtor must address whether she is competent to run her businesses - is she aware of issues such as fire retardance requirements, what furniture is or is not "antique," etc.?

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/11/21 for any other party in interest who chooses to file and serve response papers to address whether Debtor has violated her duties and what consequences should follow, and a deadline of 2/18/21 for any reply by Debtor. Then this Court anticipates determining whether to issue an order directing Debtor to show cause why this Court should not impose sanctions or other consequences, such as restricting or terminating her authorization to act as debtor in possession.

Tentative Ruling for In re Matevosian [2:20-bk-19479-NB]:

Tentative Ruling for 1/26/21:

Appearances required. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties are directed to address the following issues.

At the hearing on 12/22/20 this Court was persuaded to continue this matter conditioned on Debtor paying regular monthly payments for December 2020 and January 2021. See Order (dkt.56). Movant initially reported (dkt.57) that Debtor did not make those payments.

Chapter 13

Debtor subsequently filed a (belated) supplemental opposition (dkt.59) in which she alleges (id., p.4:20-21) that she mailed the December payment on an unspecified date after the hearing on 12/22/20. She also offers explanations for the late wire transfers for the January payment.

Movant's supplemental reply points out Debtor's lack of evidence of mailing the December 2020 payment (no tracking number etc.), and Movant declares (dkt.63, at PDF p.10:21-22) that it has yet to receive any such payment. Movant also points to (a) the untimeliness of the January 2021 adequate protection payment and other missed deadlines, (b) assertions that insurance on the Oak Street property expired on 11/7/20, and insurance on the Sinclair property expired on 11/21/20, (c) evidence of negative equity in those two properties, (d) Debtor's allegedly false or misleading information, and (e) the lack of evidence that family members are willing and able to provide contributions, and the paucity of evidence that Raphael Mendez or his business is able to pay Debtor in dollar amounts needed to fund Debtor's monthly shortfall. See Supp. Reply (dkt.63) passim.

The parties are directed to address the foregoing issues. This Court is particularly troubled by the missing December 2020 payment, the alleged postpetition expiration of insurance (which is troubling even if the insurance has since been restored), and questions about whether the three properties are necessary to an effective reorganization. In addition, Debtor's failure to meet past deadlines makes it likely that, if this Court is persuaded not to grant immediate termination of the automatic stay, any adequate protection order ("APO") will have a shorter period than normal to cure missed payments.

Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. Docket 55

Tentative Ruling:

Grant.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Adv#: 2:20-01666 Demovsky-Kapustyan v. Vayntrub et al

#3.00 Status Conference re: Complaint for Turnover of Property of the Estate, Unjust Enrichment

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

(A) Current issues

(1) Defendants have not filed a response

Plaintiff's unilateral status report (adv. dkt. 5) states that Plaintiff granted Defendants David and Irena Vayntrub (the "Vayntrubs") an extension to the 12/16/20 deadline to respond to his complaint, but does not state how long an extension was granted and the Vayntrubs did not participate in preparing a joint status report or file a unilateral status report. Plaintiff should be prepared to address the status of his communications with the Vayntrubs' counsel.

On a related issue, Plaintiff's unilateral status report favors mediation; but if the Vayntrubs are not responding then it appears that mediation might not be productive at this time. Accordingly, this Court's standard provisions regarding mediation have been intentionally omitted from part "(B)(2)" of this Tentative Ruling, below. If the Vayntrubs do not appear, Plaintiff is directed to address whether Plaintiff will seek a default judgment against all defendants.

(2) Out of date form

Plaintiff has used an outdated 2012 version of the Status Report (Local Form F 7016-1.STATUS.REPORT). Plaintiff is directed in future to use the latest version.

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.

Tentative Ruling for 8/7/18:

Appearances required. The court has reviewed defendant/debtor Quinn's unilateral status report (dkt. 7) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. Counsel for the plaintiff/creditor Duff is directed to address why no status report was executed by plaintiff.

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation. Is there is any reason why this court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 8/24/18 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines: This adversary proceeding has been pending since 5/24/18. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

(1) Current issues

(a) Finance motion (dkt. 46), Opposition of Amit Tidhar (dkt. 54, 55), no reply is on file

There is no tentative ruling. Debtor should be prepared to address the issues raised by Mr. Tidhar in opposition to the motion.

(b) Amit Tidhar's ("Movant") motion for relief from stay (dkt. 48, "R/S Motion"), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 52), Movant's reply (dkt. 57)

There is no tentative ruling. The outcome of this motion depends on this Court's ruling on the Finance Motion.

(c) Debtor's motion to extend exclusivity periods (dkt. 51) and ex parte motion to amend scheduling order (dkt. 53), no opposition is on file

The tentative ruling is to grant the motions and extend Debtor's deadlines (i) to file a plan to 5/13/21 and (ii) gain acceptance of the plan to 7/12/21.

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1) (B).

(d) Monthly operating reports ("MORs")

This Court's tentative ruling for 12/1/20 cautioned Debtor that failure to file MORs might be cause for dismissal, conversion of this case to chapter 7, or other relief. Notwithstanding that admonition, Debtor filed its November MOR more than a month late (dkt. 56) and filed its December MOR four days

Tentative Ruling for 10/6/20:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor and by Debtor's principal.

(1) Current issues

The Debtor's status report (dkt. 14, p.2, para. 2) states that Debtor "owns a single asset- one parcel of real property located at 701 N. Hillcrest Road, Beverly Hills, CA 90210," which Debtor intends to market and sell. Debtor's Bankruptcy Schedule A/B and Statement of Financial Affairs ("SOFA") describe that property as residential property worth $20,000,000.00 (dkt.19, line 55, at PDF p.7) at which Debtor's sole equity interest holder and her children reside rent-free (although her mailing address is in Indonesia). Dkt.19-1, at PDF p.15, and dkt.19-2.

(a) Procedures order and mailing matrix

The Procedures Order (dkt.4) directed Debtor to serve a copy of that order on all parties in interest, but Debtor's proof of service (dkt.6) appears to omit (i) at least one (disputed) creditor - Medallion Capital Financial (Schedule E/F, line 3.2, dkt.19 at PDF p.15); (ii) Debtor's sole equity interest holder/creditor (id., line 3.1); and (iii) Debtor's director, Andre Djaafar (SOFA, line 28, dkt.19-1 at PDF p.13). Debtor's mailing matrix also omits at least those parties.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 10/8/20 for Debtor to file (x) a proof of service on all parties in interest who were not originally served with the Procedures Order and (b) an amended mailing matrix.

(b) Single Asset Real Estate Case?

Debtor does not disclose if there are fewer than four residential units at the property. Debtor is directed to address at the status conference whether it should have designated itself as a single asset real estate ("SARE") debtor (11 USC 101(51B)) and, if so, whether its proposed date for filing a plan is consistent with 362(d)(3).

fr. 7/28/20, 9/1/20, 9/15/20, 9/29/20, 12/22/20

Docket 15

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 1/26/21:

Appearances required by Debtor's counsel.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motions of Baodi Zhou ("Zhou") for relief from automatic stay or dismissal of the Investment case (dkt.49, 50, 59); Debtors' opposition (dkt.62), reply (dkt.68)

At the 12/22/20 hearing, this Court continued the hearing to address the possibility of a "comfort order" explaining that the automatic stay is inapplicable as to Debtors' principal. The Court also gave Debtors an opportunity to submit a supplemental opposition. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, no such supplemental opposition appears on the docket.

The tentative ruling is to grant Movant Zhou's request to clarify that the automatic stay is inapplicable to the non-debtor defendants in the nonbankruptcy action. But the tentative ruling is to deny any other relief from the automatic stay and to deny Zhou's request to dismiss this bankruptcy case, all without prejudice to renewing such requests if Debtors fail to make sufficient progress in this case, or for other cause.

(b) Debtors' Application to Employ Enenstein Pham & Glass as Special Litigation Counsel (dkt. 146); objection by United States Trustee ("UST") (dkt. 148), and withdrawal thereof (dkt.163)

Although the UST's objection has been withdrawn based on Debtors' communications with the UST, those communications are not in the record and the issues raised by the UST are of concern to this Court. Debtor is directed to address those concerns at the hearing. If they are addressed to the satisfaction of this Court, the tentative ruling is to grant the application subject to the standard terms in the posted "Procedures of Judge Bason" (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov).

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(c) Plan (dkt. 137)

Debtors' status report (dkt. 158) alludes to some concerns raised by the Subchapter V Trustee and possible amendments to the proposed Plan. Debtor is directed to address the current status of negotiations. The tentative ruling, if Debtors assert, and this Court is persuaded, that the Plan quickly can be made ready to be mailed to all creditors as part of a voting package, is to set a deadline of 2/2/21 for Debtor to file a "blacklined" version of the Plan showing any changes, and lodge a proposed order substantially in the form posted on Judge Bason's portion of this Court's website (www.cacb.uscourts.gov), setting a confirmation hearing concurrent with the continued Status Conference set forth below.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 5/4/20 and converted from chapter 7 to chapter 11 on 7/1/20 (dkt.17). The petition was amended to elect Subchapter V on 7/14/20 (dkt.27). On 9/4/20 this Court ordered joint administration with affiliated debtors (dkt.64).

- (a) Bar date: (i) Investment 9/9/20 (dkt. 40; timely served, dkt. 43);
Affiliated Debtors 11/10/20.
- (b) Procedures order: dkt.18 (timely served, dkt.20) (also timely served in each jointly administered case).
- (c) Plan (dkt. 137)*: see above.
- (d) Continued status conference: 3/9/21 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 1/26/21:

Appearances are not required on 1/26/21.

(1) Status Conference

Although the tentative ruling is to grant the motion for a default judgment, this Court anticipates post-judgment proceedings, such as supplemental declaration(s) to request more damages (see below). Therefore it appears appropriate to set a continued status conference so that the parties and this Court can address any scheduling issues, discretionary procedures, and similar matters orally, without the expense and delay of formal written motions (unless the issues warrant such briefing).

The tentative ruling is to continue this adversary proceeding status conference to 3/9/21 at 1:00 p.m., provided that if any party self-calendars any matter for a different date then the practice of this Court is to hold an additional status conference on that date as well (without further notice).

The tentative ruling is that no written status report is required for the continued status conference.

(2) Plaintiff's Motion for Default Judgment (dkt. 18), Plaintiff's Request for Judicial Notice (dkt. 19) and the Supplemental Declaration of Monsi Morales in Support of Motion for Default Judgment (dkt. 23).

The tentative ruling is to grant the motion for the reasons set forth below.

(a) Entry of Default against Defendant L.A. Paint and Body Works, Inc.

United States Bankruptcy Court
Central District of California
Los Angeles
Judge Neil Bason, Presiding
Courtroom 1545 Calendar

Tuesday, January 26, 2021

Hearing Room 1545

CONT... Schaefer Ambulance Service, Inc

Chapter 11

On 08/07/20, plaintiff The SAS Creditor Trust ("SAS") filed a motion requesting entry of default (dkt. 6), citing defendant L.A. Paint and Body Works, Inc.'s ("LA Paint") failure to appear in the instant adversary proceeding. On 08/10/20, the clerk of court entered LA Paint's default (dkt. 8).

(2) SAS' Motion for Default Judgment

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8(b)(6) (incorporated by Rule 7008, Fed. R. Bankr. P.), failure to deny an allegation acts as an admission of that allegation. But allegations pertaining to the amount of damages must be independently proven. Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(b)(6). Accordingly, the tentative ruling with respect to SAS's claims for relief is as follows.

(i) LA Paint Did Not Violate 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(3)

The tentative ruling is that LA Paint did not violate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362(a)(3). Subsequent to the filing of SAS' motion, the Supreme Court issued a decision clarifying what it means to exercise control over property of the estate. City of Chicago v. Fulton, __ U.S. __, 2021 U.S. Lexis 496 (Jan. 14, 2021). In Fulton, the Court held that "mere retention of estate property after the filing of a bankruptcy petition does not violate § 362(a)(3) of the Bankruptcy Code." Id. at *12 (Jan. 14, 2021). Thus, under Fulton, LA Paint's failure to turn over property of the estate cannot be considered an act to exercise control over estate property.

(ii) LA Paint Violated 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(6) by Acting to Collect or Recover a Prepetition Claim Against the Debtor

The tentative ruling is that LA Paint violated the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362(a)(6). The Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit has held that refusal to turn over property of the estate in an effort to collect on a prepetition debt without seeking relief from the automatic stay violates the provisions of the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362(a)(6). In re Farmers Markets, Inc., 792 F.2d 1400, 1404 (9th Cir. 1986). Here, LA Paint was (x) informed of SAS's bankruptcy and the request to turn over the subject property, (y) conditioned the return of the subject property on the payment of the invoices incurred prepetition, and (z) did so without seeking relief from the automatic stay. See dkt. 18, PDF pp. 35–50.

Chapter 11

(iii) LA Paint Violated the Plan Injunctions

The tentative ruling is that, for the reasons set forth in the moving papers (similar to those cited immediately above), LA Paint's act of conditioning the turn over of the subject property on the payment of prepetition debts also violated the injunctions set forth in the Debtor's confirmed chapter 11 plan. Those injunctions (the "Plan Injunctions") were adopted by this Court in issuing its order confirming the Plan.

(iv) SAS is Entitled to Turnover of the Subject Property Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 542(a)

Under 11 U.S.C. 542(a), an entity in possession of estate property must turn over to the debtor in possession any property of the estate that the debtor in possession may use, sell, or lease, see United States v. Whiting Pools, 462 U.S. 198, 202 (1983), unless that property is "of inconsequential value or benefit to the estate." 11 U.S.C. § 542(a). The tentative ruling is that SAS is entitled to turnover of the subject property because SAS, as successor in interest to the debtor in possession, can use, sell, or lease the subject property. The tentative ruling is also that LA Paint is directed to surrender the subject property or its value of $30,500 to SAS. See dkf.18, p.31:26-32:8.

(v) LA Paint did not establish any exception to its obligations under the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(a)), the Plan Injunctions, or the turnover provisions of the Bankruptcy Code (11 U.S.C. 542)

This Court recognizes that in some instances a creditor can retain possession of a vehicle as a way of perfecting its lien arising from work performed on the vehicle, and that might be an exception to the automatic stay. Likewise such a creditor might be excused from its turnover obligations and might be permitted to retain the vehicle (at least temporarily) as a form of adequate protection of its interest in the vehicle. See generally 11 U.S.C. 362(b)(3)&(24), 363(e), 546(b), 547(e)(2)(A). But LA Paint has not presented any argument or evidence to establish that it falls within any exception to the automatic stay, the Plan Injunctions, or its turnover obligations.

(vi) Contempt

The tentative ruling is that SAS has presented clear and convincing evidence that LA Paint has violated clear and definite orders of this Court, or statutory provisions that deemed to be automatic orders of this Court - namely, the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. 362(a)) and the Plan Injunctions. (LA Paint also violated the turnover obligations of 11 U.S.C. 542, and that might constitute violation of a third alternative deemed order and an additional ground for contempt, but the motion does not seek contempt on that third alternative ground.)

The tentative ruling is that there was nothing ambiguous or unclear about LA Paint's obligations. LA Paint was notified of SAS' bankruptcy case and had received multiple requests to turn over the subject property for purposes of administering the bankruptcy estate. In response, LA Paint sought to collect on a prepetition debt by conditioning the delivery of the subject property on payment of prepetition invoices. Dkt. 18, at PDF pp. 27, 33, 35–36, 42.

The tentative ruling is that LA Paint is in contempt of court, under the applicable standards, and that SAS is entitled to compensatory and, if necessary, coercive relief. See generally In re Taggart v. Lorenzen, 139 S.Ct. 1795 (2019), on remand, In re Taggart, 980 F.3d 1340 (9th Cir. 2020). The tentative ruling is that Movant is also entitled to injunctive relief to enforce LA Paint's turnover obligations under 11 U.S.C. 542.

(vii) Relief: turnover; injunctive relief; writ of possession and assistance; damages including reasonable attorneys fees and costs, etc

The tentative ruling is that Movant has established grounds for a judgment and order directing LA Paint immediately to surrender and turn over the subject property, or its value of no less than $30,500, to SAS. In addition, the tentative ruling is that in the event LA Paint fails to turn over the subject property immediately then the judgment shall constitute a writ of possession and a writ of assistance (with the requisite language from LBR 7064-1) authorizing SAS to request the assistance of the U.S. Marshal Service to execute the Writ or Judgment by (a) repossessing the subject property from LA Paint and/or its property, (b) using all necessary force to effectuate the turnover and repossession, and (c) surrendering possession of the subject property to SAS's designated custodian. At this time, no coercive sanctions are expressly requested, but the tentative ruling is to reserve jurisdiction to impose coercive sanctions and other relief in appropriate circumstances.

In addition, the tentative ruling is that SAS is entitled to damages, including reasonable attorney fees and costs; that the requested $17,865.50 in attorney fees incurred to date is reasonable (dkt. 23); and that SAS may file

In addition, the tentative ruling is that SAS is entitled to interest at the federal judgment rate (28 U.S.C. 1961) from the date that each of the sums referenced above becomes due and owing through the date when such sums are collected.

Proposed judgment: SAS is directed to lodge a proposed judgment via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The tentative ruling is also to set Plaintiff's Motion for Default Judgment (adv. dkt. 18) for hearing to be held contemporaneous with the continued status conference, with a deadline of 1/12/21 for Plaintiff to file a declaration with daily timesheets to support the requested attorney fees of $17,865.50. Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 1/26/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 1/26/21.

(1) Current issues

This Court has no issues to raise sua sponte at this time.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed, as a Subchapter V case, on 10/19/20.

(a) Bar date: 12/28/20 per General Order 20-01 (70 days after petition date in Subchapter V cases) (DO NOT SERVE any notice: one has already been sent, see dkt.9).

(b) Procedures order: dkt.4 (timely served, dkt.6).

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement: See the revised "Procedures of Judge Bason" (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) (search for "Chapter 11: Plan").

Note: Debtor has filed a written motion (dkt. 37) to extend the deadline to file a plan, which is set by statute in this subchapter V case, from 1/19/21 to 3/22/21. The actual deadline will depend on whether that motion is granted.

(d) Continued status conference: 3/23/21 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report is required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing. Pursuant to Judge Bason's COVID-19 procedures, all appearances are via ZoomGov. Unless otherwise stated, appearances via CourtCall are no longer permitted.

Tentative Ruling for 12/22/20:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 12/22/20.

(1) Current issues

The issues raised in the tentative ruling for 11/10/20 (reproduced below) have been adequately addressed. This Court is not aware of any remaining issues that would warrant a status conference at this time.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed, as a Subchapter V case, on 10/19/20.

(a) Bar date: 12/28/20 per General Order 20-01 (70 days after petition date in Subchapter V cases) (DO NOT SERVE any notice: one has already been sent, see dkt.9).

(b) Procedures order: dkt.4 (timely served, dkt.6).

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: File by 1/19/21 using the forms required by Judge Bason or, alternatively, Debtor's own forms (DO NOT SERVE yet, except on the U.S. Trustee - this Court will set a deadline and procedures at a later time).

Note: Although Subchapter V contemplates only a Plan, not a Disclosure Statement, the required form Plan has not yet been updated to include the disclosures required by Subchapter V (11 U.S.C. 1190), so if the form Plan is used then Judge Bason requires that the form Disclosure Statement be completed as well. 11 U.S.C. 1181(b).

(d) Continued status conference: 1/26/21 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report is required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Unless otherwise stated, appearances via CourtCall are no longer permitted.

Tentative Ruling for 11/10/20:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by Debtor's principal, Wayne Tsang.

(1) Current issues

This Court has reviewed Debtor's status reports (dkt.12, 13) and the other filed documents and records in this case.

(a) Executory contract(s)?

Debtor reports (dkt.12, p.2) that its "sole asset in an income producing contractual interest" and this bankruptcy case was precipitated by arbitration of a contract dispute and "lack of information/income from main asset." This implies that Debtor is a party to a contract that might be executory (although that is not necessarily so). Debtor also reports (dkt.12, p.7) that it has no executory contracts: is that accurate?

(b) Employment application (dkt.16)

In connection with the pending employment application of proposed bankruptcy counsel (dkt.16), Debtor's principal, Mr. Tsang, declares that Alkterra Capital "paid the pre-petition retainer of $76,717.00" to proposed bankruptcy counsel "as a gift" for which it will not seek reimbursement, and that "[o]ther than shared leadership/ownership, Alkterra Capital has no connections to, or claims against, the Debtor." Dkt.16, p.11:10-13 There is no disclosure about the business form of Alkterra Capital.

Supposing that Alkterra Capital is a corporation or similar type of business subject to the laws of California or similar laws, this Court is concerned that investors in Alkterra Capital could in future seek to avoid its gift as a constructively fraudulent transfer, or bring similar claims. That possibility could be used as leverage to influence Mr. Tsang's management of this bankruptcy estate, or otherwise cause potential conflicts of interest.

Have any investors in Alkterra Capital been fully informed as to its gift to Debtor, and have they provided their written consent, and/or whatever else might be required (e.g., a vote)? Does the gift implicate bankruptcy-related concerns in any other ways?

Because it might take time to obtain any responses/authorizations, the tentative ruling is to set the employment application for hearing fairly far in the future, concurrent with the continued status conference (see below). The tentative ruling is not to alter the current deadline for any response to the employment application (14 days after it was filed/served), but to set a supplemental deadline of 12/8/20 for Debtor to file a declaration or other papers addressing this Court's concerns set forth above, and a deadline of 12/15/20 for the United States Trustee to file any response it may elect to file on that issue.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed, as a Subchapter V case, on 10/19/20.

- (a) Bar date: 12/28/20 per General Order 20-01 (70 days after petition date in Subchapter V cases) (DO NOT SERVE any notice: one has already been sent, see dkt.9)
- (b) Procedures order: dkt.4 (timely served, dkt.6).
- (c) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD

Note: Although Subchapter V contemplates only a Plan, not a Disclosure Statement, the required form Plan has not yet been updated to include the disclosures required by Subchapter V (11 U.S.C. 1190), so Judge Bason requires that the form Disclosure Statement be completed as well. 11 U.S.C. 1181(b). Alternatively, as stated in the Procedures Order, Debtor can request to be excused from using the forms.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

#26.00 Cont'd status conference re: Chapter 11 case
fr. 12/1/20, 1/5/21

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 1/26/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of Access Investment, LLC ("Access") for relief from the automatic stay (dkt. 40), Debtor's response (dkt. 48), no reply is on file

The tentative ruling is to issue an adequate protection order ("APO"), pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2), requiring Debtor to close the contemplated sale of the property - or, if that sale falls through, an equivalent sale to a backup buyer - no later than 3/31/21, and meanwhile abide by the commitments in Debtor's response (dkt.48) including making monthly adequate protection payments to Access, failing which Access would be entitled to file a declaration of default under the APO and lodge a proposed order terminating the automatic stay. Reasons: Although Access has established grounds for relief from the automatic stay, the statute provides flexibility as to the form of any such relief, and the foregoing tentative ruling is intended to provide Access with adequate protection against any diminution of its interest while also maximizing the sale price of the subject property for the benefit of junior lienholder(s) and, if such junior lienholder(s) can assert any deficiency claims, for the benefit of all creditors by reducing any such deficiency.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 11/16/20.

(b) Campos v. Kennedy (Adv. No. 2:20-ap-01626-NB)

This Court has reviewed the parties joint status report (adv. dkt. 8) and the other filed documents in the adversary proceeding and the bankruptcy case. The tentative ruling is that, purely as a scheduling matter - and without making any binding determinations on the merits of the adversary proceeding - it is appropriate to stay the adversary proceeding and move forward with Debtor's attempts to confirm his proposed Plan, including his contemplated motion to disallow Ms. Campos' claimed security interest or ownership interest in Debtor's receivables, because Debtor asserts that his motion and/or confirmation of the Plan would moot the adversary proceeding. If this Court ultimately were to rule against Debtor on these issues, all rights would be preserved to litigate the (not-mooted) adversary proceeding.

This Court's understanding of Debtor's theory is as follows, based largely on the parties' prior oral arguments and the proposed Disclosure Statement, Exhibit "L" (dkt.230 at PDF pp.52-54). If the Mediation Term Sheet is an assumed, binding agreement between Debtor and Ms. Campos then, under Debtor's theory, it would be inconsistent with that agreement to treat Debtor's obligations to Ms. Campos as a secured claim, or to treat 25% of Debtor's earnings (or any other percentage) as belonging to Ms. Campos. In other words, either of those things would be contrary to the carefully negotiated settlement of the parties.

The tentative ruling is that there is enough support for this argument that it makes sense, in the interests of efficiency, to stay the adversary proceeding while Debtor is pursuing this theory. Specifically, this Court takes judicial notice that the Mediation Term Sheet expressly provides for a schedule of payments and states that the obligations shall be nondischargeable, but does not provide for such obligations to be secured by any collateral, or for any of Debtor's future earnings to belong to Ms. Campos. Therefore Debtor has at least a colorable argument that permitting Ms. Campos to assert ownership of Debtor's future earnings, or a security interest in those earnings, would be inconsistent with the carefully balanced give-and-take of their settlement, embodied in the Mediation Term Sheet.

True, prior to the petition date, when the parties were disputing whether or not the Mediation Term Sheet was binding and whether either of them breached it, Ms. Campos was free to pursue collection from Dr. Kennedy (Debtor), subject to whatever defenses and counterclaims he had at that time. But now, as this Court understands Debtor's position, under the Supremacy Clause of the United States Constitution and the provisions of the Bankruptcy Code including the automatic stay and the Code's provisions for assumption of executory contracts, Ms. Campos is barred from pursuing collection attempts or asserting any interest in Debtor's postpetition earnings that would be contrary to her agreement embodied in the Mediation Term Sheet.

For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is to stay all matters in this adversary proceeding until further order of this Bankruptcy Court, and meanwhile proceed with Debtor's attempts to disallow some of Ms. Campos' claim, and his attempt to confirm the proposed Plan. Again, this is purely a scheduling issue, and if Debtor fails in those attempts then all rights are reserved regarding the issues in the adversary proceeding.

The tentative ruling is to set a continued status conference in this adversary proceeding for 4/27/21 at 1:00 p.m.

(c) Debtor's Plan of reorganization (dkt. 229) and Disclosure statement (dkt. 230)

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/5/21 for Debtor to file a blacklined plan with the following changes:

(i) Amended Plan

(A) Internal inconsistency with defined term

The Plan contains two different definitions for "Disputed Claim or Disputed Interest" (compare dkt. 229, PDF p.4, para. "(C)") with dkt. 229, PDF p.19). Debtor is directed to choose one or the other.

(B) Clarifications to address ambiguous plan provisions

Debtor is directed to amend the following plan provisions to clarify ambiguities:

-Dkt. 229, PDF p.37, change the last sentence that reads "and (y) entry of an order of the Bankruptcy Court" (emphasis added) to address what type of order is contemplated.

-Dkt. 229, PDF p.38, last full paragraph, 5 to 6 lines down, change the phrase "...including, without limitation, are expressly reserved" (emphasis added) to include whatever language was intended to follow the emphasized words.

-Dkt. 229, PDF p.39, carryover paragraph, 6 lines down from top, change the phrase: "...Assumption Final Order, are [sic] such orders are not appealed by Campos" (emphasis added) to read: "Assumption Final Order, and such orders are not appealed by Campos" (Emphasis added.)

(C) Exculpation Clause

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's proposed Exculpation Clause (dkt. 229, PDF p.44) is consistent with the Ninth Circuit's decision in Blixseth v. Credit Suisse, 961 F.3d 1074 (9th Cir. 2020).

(ii) Disclosure Statement (dkt.230)

The tentative ruling is to authorize Debtor to disclose the dollar amounts represented by "XXXXX" in Exhibit "L" to the Disclosure Statement (dkt.230 at PDF pp.52-54). More broadly, the parties are directed to address whether there is any reason why Debtor cannot attach a non-redacted copy of the Mediation Term Sheet to the proposed Plan.

(iii) Proposed order

By 2/5/21, Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order, substantially in the form of the order posted on Judge Bason's portion of the Court's website (www.cacb.uscourts.gov), authorizing the service of a voting package and setting a combined hearing on final approval of the Disclosure Statement and confirmation of the Plan for the same time as the continued status conference (see below).

Based on this Court's review of the declaration of Samuel Biggs, the tentative ruling is to approve Debtor's budget motion on a final basis, subject to any opposition at the hearing.

#34.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Complaint for Declaratory and Injunctive Relief re: Determination of Validity, Priority or Extent of Interest in Property fr. 12/1/20

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 1/26/21:

Please see the tentative ruling for the main case status conference (Calendar No. 33, 1/26/21 at 1:00 p.m.).

Tentative Ruling for 12/1/20:

Appearances required.

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv.dkt. 4) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(A) Current issues

Defendant (Debtor) suggests in the status report that this Court stay all proceedings in this adversary proceeding, because his forthcoming chapter 11 plan may moot some or all issues in this adversary proceeding. Plaintiff (Ms. Campos) suggested in the status report that such issues must be decided before any plan can be confirmed.

The parties are directed to clarify the following issues. (1) Does Plaintiff (Ms. Campos) assert that, under nonbankruptcy law, the assignment order created an absolute assignment in Debtor's accounts receivable ("A/R"), or a security interest, or both?

(2) Does she assert those things not only as to (a) A/R embodied in checks that had been issued prepetition (from medical insurers and Medicare prepetition), but also (b) A/R arising from services that had been performed prepetition, but as to which checks had not been issued as of the petition date (i.e., as to which such an interest arguably had not attached as of the petition date), and also (c) A/R arising from services that had yet to be performed as of the petition date? Phrasing these last two issues differently, is Plaintiff asserting that, under nonbankruptcy law, 25% of any checks that had yet to be cut, and 25% of any A/R that had yet to generated by Debtor's postpetition labor, belongs to Plaintiff, regardless of any interest of, for example, a different judgment creditor who obtained a judicial lien against the A/R and also claimed the same 25%?

(3) Under the Bankruptcy Code, is Plaintiff asserting that her alleged interest in each of the three types of A/R described above is superior to the interests of the bankruptcy estate, other creditors, and any exemptions that Debtor may assert in the A/R?

Depending on Plaintiff's responses, Defendant (Debtor) is directed to address how he can propose a chapter 11 plan without resolving the issues raised in this adversary proceeding. Does Defendant (Debtor) anticipate proposing payment terms (e.g., payment over a time period consistent with the parties' Term Sheet) without resolving whether such payment is secured by the A/R, or whether Plaintiff (Ms. Campos) owns the A/R? Is it possible to confirm a plan that leaves such issues unresolved?

The tentative ruling is to direct the parties to address on a preliminary basis how the foregoing issues bear on whether or not to stay these proceedings. Then the tentative ruling is to continue this matter as set forth below, so that all of these issues can be better addressed after Debtor has proposed a chapter 11 plan.

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. *See generally Stern v. Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 1/26/21:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Successful mediation (adv. dkt. 49)

The parties are directed to address the terms of the settlement (per their status report, adv. dkt. 52), and whether those terms require notice to other creditors and an opportunity for those creditors to object, pursuant to a motion under Rule 9019 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) filed in the bankruptcy case (not in the adversary proceeding). In any event, the tentative ruling is to take the adversary proceeding matters off calendar, and continue the status conference in the bankruptcy case as set forth below.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 1/13/20.

(a) Bar date: 5/31/20 (dkt. 27; timely served, dkt. 28).

(b) Procedures order: dkt. 3 (timely served, dkt. 9).

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: TBD

(d) Continued status conference: 3/2/21 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Chapter 7

#1.00 Hrg re: Motion for Order for Approval of Sale by Auction of Proprietary Database

Docket 168

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Trustee's sale motion (dkt. 168, 170), Wyndham's opposition (dkt. 169), Trustee's reply (dkt. 173)

The tentative ruling is to grant the sale motion and conditionally authorize a sale free and clear (11 U.S.C. 363(b) & (f)), subject to the following conditions. First, the proposed sale is subject to overbids at the hearing, pursuant to the proposed auction procedures including anonymity of bidders so as to reduce the risk of collusion and increase the sale price of parties who may fear litigation with Wyndham. See dkt.168, p.5:19-25.

Second, the parties are directed to address the following issues, which might affect whether the sale can be approved:

(i) Standing

Wyndham should be prepared to provide authority establishing that it has standing to raise the arguments set forth in its opposition on behalf of all parties listed in the database.

(ii) Notice

It does not appear that the Trustee has complied with LBR 6004-1(f), which requires use of F 6004-2.NOTICE.SALE. The parties are directed to address whether this Court should waive that requirement or continue this matter for the Trustee to comply.

(iii) Service, and Prohibition against sale of "personally identifiable information" ("PPI") (11 U.S.C. 363(b)(1))

The tentative ruling is to overrule Wyndham's objection on these grounds based on (a) Wyndham's failure to cite applicable authority establishing that the Trustee is required to serve all 8.5 million individuals listed in the database, and (b) the Trustee's reply papers and supporting evidence addressing the absence of any policy prohibiting the transfer of PPI and representing that the sale will not include any telephone numbers or PPI for California residents.

(iv) Grounds for sale free and clear

The Trustee is directed to specify at the hearing the precise legal grounds for a sale free and clear - i.e., is it under 11 U.S.C. 363(f)(1), (2), (3), (4) or (5), and what the alleged grounds are under each paragraph that is applicable. See "Posted Procedures of Judge Bason" (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov).

In addition, the Trustee is directed to file a supplemental declaration following the hearing that attaches evidence establishing the existence (or nonexistence) of all persons who may assert an interest in the property and that such persons have been served with the motion papers, so that it is apparent what interests the Trustee intends to sell free and clear of, and that all such persons received notice. See Rule 6004(c) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

(v) "Good faith" finding

The Trustee seeks a "good faith" finding under 11 U.S.C. 363(m). The tentative ruling is that any winning bidder who wishes to have such a finding must file declaration(s), and so must the Trustee, substantially in the form set forth in the "Posted Procedures of Judge Bason" (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov). See In re R.B.B., Inc., 211 F.3d 475, 478-80 (9th Cir. 2000) (no good faith finding when identity of purchaser was ambiguous).

Conceivably it is possible that even such declarations could keep the identity of the purchaser secret (either by declining to provide any information from which the purchaser could be identified or, possibly, by filing such a declaration under seal - although sealing documents and in camera review are disfavored). But any such partial disclosure would substantially weaken the evidence of good faith, as compared with disclosure to the public who might know reasons to question the alleged good faith.

Therefore, if the purchaser chooses to seek a good faith finding without revealing its identity, this Court might elect, after reviewing the declaration, to decline to make any good faith finding. In addition, a good faith finding is only as good as the evidence provided. See, e.g., In re Thomas, 287 B.R. 782, 785-86 (9th Cir. BAP 2002) (noting that "good faith" findings are not required, and even if they often are based on a partial record "before the really interesting facts emerge" and therefore might be subject to reconsideration).

In sum, any purchaser who wants a "good faith" finding under section

363(m) might need to reveal its identity. But this Court notes that such a finding is neither necessary for a sale nor a "trump card" that will insulate the sale from later challenges. Therefore any good faith finding might be unnecessary.

(b) Trustee's motions for admission of excerpts from depositions of Glen Chaffin (dkt. 174, 175), Wyndham response (dkt.178)

The tentative ruling is to grant these motions and admit the deposition excerpts into evidence, because Wyndham's objection about the timing of its efforts to pursue timeshare exit enterprises does not moot the Trustee's point that such efforts exist at all - i.e., that any prospective purchasers of the customer list have reason to be concerned that Wyndham will sue them. Alternatively, the tentative ruling is that exclusion of those excerpts would make no difference to the outcome of the sale motion.

Proposed orders: Trustee is directed to lodge proposed orders on each of the foregoing motions via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

- #2.10 Cont'd status conference re: Complaint to redetermine purported tax liability, to recover overpaid amounts, and to determine dischargeability of any amount otherwise due fr. 1/12/21

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 1/26/21:

Appearances required.

(A) Current issues

(1) Background

Plaintiff/Debtor's complaint (adv. no. 2:20-ap-01656-NB, dkt.1) seeks:

(a) tax adjudication: an order or judgment under 11 U.S.C. 505 disallowing the $71,521.41 claim no.3 of Defendant (a California tax authority) as "invalid and unconstitutional" or, in the alternative,

(b) discharge: a determination under 11 U.S.C. 1328 that the claim is dischargeable. See id., p.6 (prayer for relief).

Defendant's tax claim apparently is founded on a sales tax assessment made under Cal. Code. Regs. tit. 18, §1702.6, which provides for personal liability of corporate officers and stockholders in certain circumstances.

(2) Defendant's Motion to Dismiss (dkt. 4), Plaintiff's Opposition (dkt. 7) and Defendant's Reply (dkt. 8, 9).

Defendant moves to dismiss Plaintiff's claim under 11 U.S.C. 505, asserting that this Bankruptcy Court lacks jurisdiction to hear the proceeding pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 505(a)(2)(A). In the alternative Defendant asserts that if this Bankruptcy Court rules that it does have jurisdiction, then based on discretionary abstention and comity this claim should not be heard. The tentative ruling is to DENY the request to dismiss the Plaintiff's claim under 11 U.S.C. 505 for the reasons stated below.

Defendant also moved to dismiss Plaintiff/Debtor's claim under 11 U.S.C. 1328. The tentative ruling is to DENY that request as well, for the reasons stated below.

The tentative ruling is that much of Defendant's objection (adv.dkt.9) to Plaintiff/Debtor's request for judicial notice ("RJN," adv.dkt.7) is well taken. But the tentative ruling is that this makes no difference to the outcome of the MTD.

(a) 11 U.S.C. § 505(a)(2)(A) does not Deprive this Bankruptcy Court of Jurisdiction, nor has Defendant established that dismissal is appropriate as a matter of discretionary abstention, comity, or other principles

Under 11 U.S.C. § 505(a)(2)(A) a bankruptcy court may not determine the legality of a tax if the legality of the tax previously was contested before and adjudicated by a judicial or administrative tribunal. 11 U.S.C. § 505(a)(2)(A) is a statutory embodiment of the principles of res judicata. See Cent. Valley Agric. Enters. v. United States, 531 F.3d 750, 755 (9th Cir. 2008). Plaintiff argues that res judicata cannot apply here because none of the prior proceedings addressed the merits of Plaintiff's challenge to the legality of the tax assessment.

On the one hand, Defendant points out that this adversary proceeding is the latest among numerous administrative hearings and State Court cases for much of the past a decade in which Plaintiff/Debtor challenged his tax liability, including raising the same challenges he now makes. It is certainly frustrating to have such long-running litigation.

On the other hand, the tentative ruling is that Plaintiff/Debtor is correct that none of these proceedings resulted in a final adjudication on the merits of his current claims - in fact, the administrative tribunals and the State Court expressly declined to reach those merits, at the request of Defendant (or its predecessor agency). The hearing panels convened by the administrative agency refused to question the legality of its own regulation, and the State Courts dismissed Plaintiff/Debtor's cases as they were barred by the requirement that Plaintiff/Debtor "pay first" and then sue for a refund, under Article XIII, Section 32 of the California Constitution. Adv.dkt. 4-1, PDF pp. 57-58. Without a final adjudication there is no res judicata, and the exception in 11 U.S.C. 505(a)(2)(A) does not apply.

True, Article XIII, Section 32 of the California Constitution normally would bars Plaintiff/Debtor's complaint because it requires that challenged tax assessments must be paid and can only be challenged via a postpayment refund action. But bankruptcy courts are vested with the authority to decide tax issues pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 505, without requiring debtors to pay the tax liability first.

The policy behind this statutory scheme is to "protect[] a debtor from being bound by a pre-bankruptcy tax liability determination that, because of a lack of financial resources, he or she was unable to contest." In re Mantz, 343 F.3d 1207, 1211 (9th Cir. 2003) (emphasis added). See also Cent. Valley AG Enter. v. U.S., 531 F.3d 750, 755 (quoting and following Mantz).

As for principles of comity, Plaintiff/Debtor has cited authority that California itself would not apply res judicata to bar his claims. Nor does it appear that discretionary abstention is appropriate when the claims that Plaintiff/Debtor now seeks to assert have never been addressed, because of the "pay first" requirement.

True, Defendant asserts that Plaintiff/Debtor has resources that he has not disclosed, and that perhaps, unlike a typical debtor in bankruptcy, other creditors would not be harmed by enforcing the "pay first" requirement, and there would be no unfairness to Plaintiff/Debtor. But the tentative ruling is that (i) such evidentiary issues cannot be adjudicated in the context of a motion to dismiss; (ii) there is insufficient evidence presented; (iii) there are other remedies, such as dismissal of Plaintiff/Debtor's bankruptcy case, and possibly the imposition of a bar under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1), if it turns out that he is omitting assets or otherwise misusing the bankruptcy system; and (iv) any such considerations of the facts of this particular case do not bear on the interpretation of 11 U.S.C. 505.

For all of the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is that this Court has jurisdiction to hear this case, because none of the prior proceedings concluded with an "adjudication" as set forth in 11 U.S.C. § 505(a)(2)(A). Nor, in this motion to dismiss context, is this Bankruptcy Court persuaded that principles of comity or discretionary abstention prevent the consideration of Plaintiff/Debtor's claims under the "pay first" rule. Conceivably, if the record is further developed, such issues could be revisited in a motion to abstain or some other motion or proceeding, but that is not the subject of today's hearing and this Bankruptcy Court expresses no view on these issues.

(b) Dischargeability

Defendant asserts that a discharge is only granted upon completion of payments under 11 U.S.C. 1328, and no plan has yet been confirmed, so Plaintiff/Debtor fails to state a claim on which relief can be granted. But, construing the Complaint in the light most favorable to Plaintiff/Debtor (as this Bankruptcy Court must in the MTD context), he is seeking a declaratory judgment, before committing to devoting all of his disposable income for five years, that such commitment will not be in vain.

The tentative ruling is that this is a proper use of a complaint for declaratory relief. Defendant has not cited any contrary authority.

(3) Future proceedings

The parties should be prepared to address anticipated future proceedings, and whether this Court should set deadlines or procedures. As a starting point, Plaintiff/Debtor is directed to clarify his theory of this adversary proceeding.

He acknowledges that Cal. Rev. & Tax. Code § 6829 provides for liability for corporate officers "or other person having control or supervision of, or who is charged with the responsibility for the filing of returns or the payment of tax," for unremitted sales and use taxes upon the "termination, dissolution or abandonment of the business of a corporation." See RJN (adv.dkt.7) Ex.5 at PDF p.55 (emphasis added), and see also id. at 162:21-25. His theory appears to be that Defendant (or its predecessor agency) acted beyond its authority when it promulgated a regulation (Cal. Code. Regs. tit. 18 §1702.6, RJN (adv.dkt.7) Ex.9 at PDF pp.85-87) interpreting the "termination" or "abandonment" of a "business" to include periods when the corporation was suspended and thus prohibited by law from conducting any business. Complaint (adv.dkt.1), pp. 3:16–19, 4:1–5. Plaintiff/Debtor is directed to clarify whether that is his theory.

Proposed order: Plaintiff/Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

#4.00 Status Conference re: Adversary Complaint

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required on 1/26/21.

(A) Current issues

(1) Defendant's Motion to Dismiss Complaint (adv. dkt. 7, "MTD"), Plaintiff/Debtor's limited opposition (adv. dkt. 11), Defendant's reply (adv. dkt. 14)

The tentative ruling is to grant the MTD, without leave to amend because, for the reasons set forth in Defendant's motion and reply papers, Debtor has not established that any amendment would not be futile. See Rule 15(a)(2) (Fed. R. Civ. P.), made applicable by Rule 7015 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.); see also Amerisourcebergen Corp. v. Dialysis West, Inc., 445 F.3d 1132 (9th Cir. 2006) (Courts "need not grant leave to amend where the amendment . . . is futile").

(B) Status conference

The tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to set a continued status conference, notwithstanding the anticipated dismissal of the Complaint without leave to amend, to address any post-dismissal issues. See, e.g., dkt. 12 (Wilkinson Decl.). The tentative ruling is to set that status conference for 3/9/21 at 2:00 p.m., with no written status report required.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 12/22/20:

This Court is very troubled by the reported state of discovery (see, e.g., Alleged Employees' Reply, dkt. 264, filed 12/18/20). But this Court believes that the issues can be more productively addressed once this Court issues its Memorandum Decision on the related discovery disputes involving, inter alia, Debtor and its law firm, the Law Offices of Lynn Chao. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to continue this hearing to 1/5/21 at 2:00 p.m. Appearances are not required on 12/22/20.

(ii) Status of compliance

The parties should be prepared to advise this Court on whether (x) coercive sanctions are appropriate (i.e., whether Young failed to produce all responsive documents by 11/20/20 at 5:00 p.m.); and (y) Young responded to the Alleged Employees' written interrogatories by the 11/25/20 at noon deadline.

Chapter 7

The tentative ruling is to find YYF in contempt of court and impose sanctions in an amount to be determined at the hearing and subsequent proceedings, as set forth below.

(a) The alleged employees have made a sufficient showing that YYF violated this Court's 2004 Order and YYF has not responded with argument or evidence establishing that it was impossible to comply

The tentative ruling is to overrule YYF's opposition, grant the Sanctions Motion for the reasons stated in the Alleged Employees' reply papers (dkt. 228, 230), and find that YYF is in contempt of the 2004 Order.

In addition and alternatively, the tentative ruling is that on the merits this Court is not persuaded by YYF's arguments that the (i) 2004 Order is overbroad and (ii) seeks discovery that could and should have been sought in a pending nonbankruptcy proceeding for the same reasons stated in this Court's prior rulings and orders addressing those arguments. See Order (dkt. 173) at PDF p.12, para. "(b)"; Order (dkt. 117) at PDF p.5, para. "(c)"; and Order (dkt. 101) at PDF pp.6-7, para. "(3)."

(b) Sanctions

(i) Compensatory

The tentative ruling is to grant the Alleged Employees' request for compensatory sanctions to reimburse them for their costs incurred preparing and filing the Sanctions Motion, responding to the OSC, and appearing at this hearing. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 11/5/20 for the Alleged Employees to file and serve a declaration setting forth their time records and expenses, 11/13/20 for any opposition, 11/19/20 for any reply, and a hearing on 12/1/20 at 2:00 p.m.

(ii) Coercive

The tentative ruling is to award coercive sanctions, in an escalating dollar amount to be addressed at the hearing.

(iii) Examination by written discovery

The tentative ruling is to grant the Alleged Employees' request to obtain written discovery of YYF, in lieu of any in person examination out of concerns presented by the risks of COVID-19, by propounding 20 interrogatories on YYF, without prejudice to any follow-up discovery. The parties should be prepared to address what deadlines, if any, this Court should set for serving and responding to the Alleged Employees' interrogatories (or if this Court should defer to the parties to act within the usual procedures).

(a) Motion of the U.S. Trustee ("UST") to dismiss (dkt. 65, "MTD"), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 86), UST's reply (dkt. 168, 170), Debtor's response (dkt. 179), Debtor's status report (dkt. 180), stipulation and order re pre-petition bank account (dkt. 212, 221)

The outcome of this motion may depend on whether this Court confirms Debtor's amended plan.

The tentative ruling is that if Debtor can provide evidence, or an offer of proof, regarding removal of the appraisal contingency on the JSS Financial refinancing (see dkt.374, p.5:5-7), the imminent payment of Verus, and the alleged commitment of Janet Sexton to contribute $45,000, then Debtor will have presented sufficient evidence of feasibility, sufficient "new value" to satisfy the "new value corrolary" (aka "exception") to the absolute priority rule, good faith, and the other elements required for confirmation. Although some significant uncertainties remain, and although it is possible that nonpriority unsecured creditors would receive a greater recovery in some scenarios, it is more likely on the present record that they would receive less in most scenarios, and as a matter of law Debtor is only required to show that the plan's treatment of non-consenting impaired classes is "fair and equitable" and does not discriminate unfairly - not that the plan is the best of all possible outcomes.

Tentative Ruling for 9/29/20:

Appearances required.

objection; (y) Debtor has adequately addressed the non-materiality of her proposed minor modifications to the Plan (i.e., re-balloting is not required); and (z) Debtor has provided sufficient arguments and evidence to overrule most of the Guptas' objections. The Guptas' objections that Debtor has not yet sufficiently addressed are explained below.

(A) Best Interest Test (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(7)): Debtor's calculations require an adjustment, but even with an adjustment the Guptas have not rebutted Debtor's showing that the Plan satisfies the best interest test

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's alternative liquidation analysis (dkt.335, pp.11-12) should be adjusted to account for the possibility that the secured claim asserted by Patch Of Land ("Patch" or "POL") might be reduced to some extent, based on objections to default interest and other claims by the bankruptcy estate. But the tentative ruling - based on this Court's familiarity with numerous disputes in other cases regarding default rates of interest and other charges - is that the possibility of such reduction, discounted to present value, is less than shortfall in funds that would be available in any hypothetical chapter 7 case. See Debtor's Reply (dkt.335), p.12. See generally, e.g., East-West Bank v. Altadena Lincoln Crossing, LLC, 598 B.R. 633 (C.D. Cal. 2019)

The tentative ruling is that a precise dollar estimate is not required because the shortfall is hundreds of thousands of dollars; the discount to Patch's claim would not be greater than that. In other words, even with the adjustment to Patch's claim as described above, there would be $-0- for general unsecured creditors in a hypothetical chapter 7 case.

Alternatively, assuming for the sake of discussion that any adjustments to Debtor's liquidation analysis would be enough to provide any projected recovery for nonpriority unsecured creditors, that in itself does not establish that liquidation would be in the best interests of creditors. Rather, the issue would require further evidence because any such projected chapter 7 recovery still would have to exceed the projected recovery under Debtor's proposed Plan, and the latter requires more evidence (as noted below).

(B) Adequate means for implementation (11 U.S.C. 1123(a)(5)) and feasibility (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(11))

Debtor is directed to address whether she has evidence of sufficient loan commitments and/or gift commitments from family and friends to make her proposed commitments in the Plan adequate and feasible. See, e.g., Debtor's Reply (dkt.335), p.14:2-8. The parties are directed to address whether any evidentiary hearing will be necessary to address the sufficiency of such evidence, and the possible scheduling of any such evidentiary hearing and any related matters.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 7/17/19.

(a) Bar date: 12/20/19, dkt. 116 (timely served, dkt. 120)

(d) Continued status conference: If there are unresolved confirmation issues, this Court anticipates setting either a continued hearing/status conference on 10/6/20 at 2:00 p.m. and/or an evidentiary hearing (at a date and time to be determined). Alternatively, if the Plan were to be confirmed at today's hearing, the tentative ruling would be to set a post-confirmation status conference for 1/12/21 at 2:00 p.m.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

the other elements required for confirmation (see prior tentative rulings, reproduced below, on those issues). Debtor should be prepared to provide an update on the status of the Florida receivership.

Regarding the "new value" issues, please note the following excerpt from the posted "Procedures of Judge Bason" (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov):

§ 1129(b)(2)(B)(ii): absolute priority rule. The judge previously has made the following, both orally and in writing. See In re Lytle (Case No. 2:20-bk-12166-NB), dkt. 113. First, although this Court has an independent duty to examine the elements of cramdown under § 1129(a)(1) (cf. United States v. Espinosa, 130 S.Ct. 1367, 1378-80 (2010) (duty under parallel provisions of 11 U.S.C. 1325(a)(1))), a class of creditors can waive or forfeit the requirements of the absolute priority rule, so if there is no objection to confirmation and the plan meets the minimum requirements for cramdown then confirmation of the plan is appropriate. Cf. In re Hamer, 138 S.Ct. 13, 17 n.1 (2017) (distinguishing forfeiture and waiver); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (holding, in different context, that consent need not be express); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (same, and analyzing presumed consent). Second, when cramdown is required under § 1129(a)(10) & (b) it is subject to the "new value" "exception" (corrolary) to the absolute priority rule (typically an individual debtor would contribute cash from an exempt retirement account, or from a relative or friend). Third, new value must be (among other things) "reasonably equivalent to the value or interest received" (In re Bonner Mall P'ship, 2 F.3d 899, 908 (9th Cir. 1993) (citations omitted)) but by definition $0 is "reasonably equivalent" to whatever residual value exists in fully encumbered property (which is what debtors often retain). Fourth, however, new value must be "necessary" and "substantial" (id.), which requires whatever cash is "necessary" to the success of the proposed reorganization, as opposed to a "token" cash infusion. In re Snyder, 967 F.2d 1126, 1131-32 (7th Cir. 1992) (cited in Bonner Mall, 2 F.3d at 908). When a debtor is devoting all or almost all disposable income to the plan then it may be "necessary" for feasibility (§ 1129(a)(11)) to have a cash infusion to cover the type of unanticipated emergency expenses that typically arise, and the judge has accepted this as "substantial" new value even if it does not increase the dividend to unsecured creditors. Note: the judge has questioned, but not ruled on, whether "bids or competing plans" are required, or what that would mean as applied to property that an individual debtor is entitled to exempt. Compare Bank of Am. Nat. Trust and Sav. Assn. v. 203 North LaSalle St. P'ship, 526 U.S. 434, 454-58 (1999) (limited partnership, not individual, bankruptcy case); Zachary v. California Bank & Trust, 811 F.3d 1191 (9th Cir. 2016) (individual case, but not addressing that issue). See also In re Ambanc La Mesa L.P., 115 F.3d 650, 656-657 (9th Cir. 1997) (not deciding among various ways to measure if contribution is "substantial," but holding that $32,000 contribution, less than 0.5% of unsecured debt, was de minimus as a matter of law). See also In re Green Pharmaceuticals, Inc., 617 B.R. 131 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2020) (court may consider other circumstances, such as how much debtor is paying for insiders' auto and life insurance).

Unless otherwise stated, appearances via CourtCall are no longer permitted.

Tentative Ruling for 1/26/21:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of the U.S. Trustee ("UST") to dismiss (dkt. 65, "MTD"), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 86), UST's reply (dkt. 168, 170), Debtor's response (dkt. 179), Debtor's status report (dkt. 180), stipulation and order re pre-petition bank account (dkt. 212, 221)

The outcome of this motion may depend on whether this Court confirms Debtor's amended plan.

(b) Debtor's Amended plan (dkt. 313) (see also Disclosure Statement, dkt. 311), order setting confirmation hearing (dkt. 317), proof of service of solicitation package (dkt. 324), Debtor's confirmation brief (dkt. 329), ballot summary (dkt. 330), objection of Post Acute Care Partners, Inc. (dkt. 373), Debtor's supplemental reply (dkt. 374)

The tentative ruling is that if Debtor can provide evidence, or an offer of proof, regarding removal of the appraisal contingency on the JSS Financial refinancing (see dkt.374, p.5:5-7), the imminent payment of Verus, and the alleged commitment of Janet Sexton to contribute $45,000, then Debtor will have presented sufficient evidence of feasibility, sufficient "new value" to satisfy the "new value corollary" (aka "exception") to the absolute priority rule, good faith, and the other elements required for confirmation. Although some significant uncertainties remain, and although it is possible that nonpriority unsecured creditors would receive a greater recovery in some scenarios, it is more likely on the present record that they would receive less in most scenarios, and as a matter of law Debtor is only required to show that the plan's treatment of non-consenting impaired classes is "fair and equitable" and does not discriminate unfairly - not that the plan is the best of all possible outcomes.

(d) Continued status conference: If there are unresolved confirmation issues, this Court anticipates setting either a continued hearing/status conference on 3/2/21 at 2:00 p.m. and/or a further evidentiary hearing (at a date and time to be determined).

Tentative Ruling for 9/29/20:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of the U.S. Trustee ("UST") to dismiss (dkt. 65, "MTD"), debtor's opposition (dkt. 86), UST's reply (dkt. 168, 170), debtor's response (dkt. 179), debtor's status report (dkt. 180), stipulation and order re pre-petition bank account (dkt. 212, 221)

There is no tentative ruling. The outcome of this motion may depend on whether this Court confirms Debtor's amended plan.

(c) Debtor's Amended plan (dkt. 313) (see also Disclosure Statement, dkt. 311), order setting confirmation hearing (dkt. 317), proof of service of solicitation package (dkt. 324), Debtor's confirmation brief (dkt. 329), ballot summary (dkt. 330), objection of Post Acute Care Partners, Inc. ("Post") (dkt. 332), objection of Shiv Raj & Saroj Gupta ("Guptas") (dkt. 333), Debtor's Reply (dkt. 335)

The tentative ruling is that (x) Debtor has adequately addressed Post's objection; (y) Debtor has adequately addressed the non-materiality of her proposed minor modifications to the Plan (i.e., re-balloting is not required); and (z) Debtor has provided sufficient arguments and evidence to overrule most of the Guptas' objections. The Guptas' objections that Debtor has not yet sufficiently addressed are explained below.

(A) Best Interest Test (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(7)): Debtor's calculations require an adjustment, but even with an adjustment the Guptas have not rebutted Debtor's showing that the Plan satisfies the best interest test

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's alternative liquidation analysis (dkt.335, pp.11-12) should be adjusted to account for the possibility that the secured claim asserted by Patch Of Land ("Patch" or "POL") might be reduced to some extent, based on objections to default interest and other claims by the bankruptcy estate. But the tentative ruling - based on this Court's familiarity with numerous disputes in other cases regarding default rates of interest and other charges - is that the possibility of such reduction, discounted to present value, is less than shortfall in funds that would be available in any hypothetical chapter 7 case. See Debtor's Reply (dkt.335), p.12. See generally, e.g., East-West Bank v. Altadena Lincoln Crossing, LLC, 598 B.R. 633 (C.D. Cal. 2019)

The tentative ruling is that a precise dollar estimate is not required because the shortfall is hundreds of thousands of dollars; the discount to Patch's claim would not be greater than that. In other words, even with the adjustment to Patch's claim as described above, there would be $-0- for general unsecured creditors in a hypothetical chapter 7 case.

Alternatively, assuming for the sake of discussion that any adjustments to Debtor's liquidation analysis would be enough to provide any projected recovery for nonpriority unsecured creditors, that in itself does not establish that liquidation would be in the best interests of creditors. Rather, the issue would require further evidence because any such projected chapter 7 recovery still would have to exceed the projected recovery under Debtor's proposed Plan, and the latter requires more evidence (as noted below).

(B) Adequate means for implementation (11 U.S.C. 1123(a)(5)) and feasibility (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(11))

Debtor is directed to address whether she has evidence of sufficient loan commitments and/or gift commitments from family and friends to make her proposed commitments in the Plan adequate and feasible. See, e.g., Debtor's Reply (dkt.335), p.14:2-8. The parties are directed to address whether any evidentiary hearing will be necessary to address the sufficiency of such evidence, and the possible scheduling of any such evidentiary hearing and any related matters.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 7/17/19.

(b) Procedures order: dkt.9 (timely served, dkt.18)

(d) Continued status conference: If there are unresolved confirmation issues, this Court anticipates setting either a continued hearing/status conference on 10/6/20 at 2:00 p.m. and/or an evidentiary hearing (at a date and time to be determined). Alternatively, if the Plan were to be confirmed at today's hearing,

Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

U.S. BANK TRUST NATIONAL ASSOC

Docket 58

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.
Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, the tentative ruling is to grant relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Note regarding mootness: Judge Bason's standard tentative ruling is as follows. For three reasons the above tentative ruling that there is no stay does not moot requests for relief from whatever stay might apply. First, such alternative rulings are appropriate because (i) the very nature of tentative rulings is that this Court could be persuaded to depart from any one of them, and (ii) a final ruling on any one issue could be reversed on appeal. Second, even if there is currently no stay, that could change - e.g., if there is no stay because of dismissal of this bankruptcy case, such dismissal could be vacated and that might reimpose the stay even if there is a lack of adequate protection, or other grounds why the stay should not apply, and therefore the movant will suffer cognizable harm unless the issues are addressed now (Judge Bason regularly vacates dismissals based on stipulations or other good cause). Third, if the motion includes any request for relief as to past acts (annulment) or future cases (in rem relief), those things are still at issue even if there is no current automatic stay. See In re Aheong, 276 B.R. 233 (9th Cir. BAP 2002). For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to address the following issues.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

Grant the motion under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(4) and (j): there is no automatic stay because (a) Debtor's prior cases (#2:20-bk-14575-NB and 2:20-bk-20747-NB) were dismissed (on 10/27/20 and 12/28/20) within one year before this case was filed (on 1/5/21), (b) that dismissal was not under 11 U.S.C. 707(b), and (c) no finding of good faith was timely sought and obtained. and (ii) a final ruling on any one issue could be reversed on appeal. Second, even if there is currently no stay, that could change - e.g., if there is no stay because of dismissal of this bankruptcy case, such dismissal could be vacated and that might reimpose the stay even if there is a lack of adequate protection, or other grounds why the stay should not apply, and therefore the movant will suffer cognizable harm unless the issues are addressed now (Judge Bason regularly vacates dismissals based on stipulations or other good cause). Termination

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

the subject property, so this cannot be a "hijacking" case; and, as stated in the motion, Debtor was the debtor in all three cases and has not denied claiming an interest in the subject property. Therefore this Court's order will state that the Court finds that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Docket 8

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant, subject to the following conditions.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

(3) Very limited ruling. This Court's tentative ruling to grant the foregoing relief is solely for purposes of this motion, and is not intended to have any binding effect with respect to any future

Docket 25

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 2/9/21:

Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, the tentative ruling is to grant relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Note regarding mootness: Judge Bason's standard tentative ruling is as follows. For three reasons the above tentative ruling that there is no stay does not moot requests for relief from whatever stay might apply. First, such alternative rulings are appropriate because (i) the very nature of tentative rulings is that this Court could be persuaded to depart from any one of them, and (ii) a final ruling on any one issue could be reversed on appeal. Second, even if there is currently no stay, that could change - e.g., if there is no stay because of dismissal of this bankruptcy case, such dismissal could be vacated and that might reimpose the stay even if there is a lack of adequate protection, or other grounds why the stay should not apply, and therefore the movant will suffer cognizable harm unless the issues are addressed now (Judge Bason regularly vacates dismissals based on stipulations or other good cause). Third, if the motion includes any request for relief as to past acts (annulment) or future cases (in rem relief), those things are still at issue even if there is no current automatic stay. See In re Aheong, 276 B.R. 233 (9th Cir. BAP 2002). For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to address the following issues.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Docket 16

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 2/9/21:

Continue to 3/2/21 at 11:00 a.m. for the reasons set forth below.

Appearances are not required on 2/9/21.

The parties have filed a stipulation (dkt. 24) continuing the hearing set for 2/9/21 to 3/2/21 because the parties are scheduled to proceed with mediation on 2/9/21. The tentative ruling is to continue this matter to the date and time set forth above.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing. Pursuant to Judge Bason's COVID-19 procedures, all appearances are via ZoomGov. For ZoomGov instructions for all matters on calendar, please see the tentative ruling for the first matter on today's calendar (i.e., page 1 of the posted tentative rulings). Unless otherwise stated, appearances via CourtCall are no longer permitted.

Tentative Ruling for 12/8/20:

Chapter 7

The tentative ruling is to order mandatory mediation for the reasons stated in calendar no. 4 (12/8/20 at 10:00 a.m.). Meanwhile, the tentative ruling is to order a continuance to 2/9/21 at 10:00 a.m., with a deadline of 12/22/20 to lodge a proposed order appointing a mediator and directing the parties to mediation, and a deadline of 12/15/20 to correct the following issue regarding service.

Service

The proof of service does not show service on both (i) Debtor's counsel and (ii) Debtor itself ("double service"), as required by Rules 7004(b)(9)&(g) and 9014(a), Fed. R. Bankr. P.). The tentative ruling is that this Court has neither the authority nor the inclination to excuse non-compliance with these rules. It is true that this double service requirement is the exact opposite of typical non-bankruptcy practice, in which it is generally impermissible to serve a represented party personally; but there are good reasons for the double service rule in bankruptcy. It helps protect Debtor and the bankruptcy estate (i.e., all parties in interest) from matters "falling through the cracks" given the high volume and speed of matters in typical bankruptcy cases, and the frequent use of service via U.S. mail.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Based on the arguments and representations of the parties at the hearing on 12/8/20, this Court continued this matter to this date to allow time for the parties to continue negotiating the terms of an adequate protection stipulation. Docket 20

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 2/9/21:

Continue to 3/2/21 at 11:00 a.m. for the reasons set forth below.

Appearances are not required on 2/9/21.

(1) Mandatory Mediation

At the 12/8/20 hearing, this Court ordered mandatory mediation and continued the hearing to 2/9/21. The Court has been informed that that mediation is scheduled for 2/9/21. See dkt. 65. The tentative ruling is to continue this matter to the date and time set forth above to be heard contemporaneously with the other matters ordered to mediation.

(2) Service

Debtor has filed an opposition to the motion for relief from automatic stay. Dkt. 60. The proof of service included with the opposition is blank (dkt. 60, PDF p. 4) and movant does not appear on the list of recipients of electronic notice. The tentative ruling is that Debtor must properly serve movant with the opposition, if she has not done so already, and to file with the Court a completed proof of service no later than February 16, 2021.

Meanwhile, the tentative ruling is to order a continuance to 2/9/21 at 10:00 a.m., with a deadline of 12/22/20 to lodge a proposed order appointing a mediator and directing the parties to mediation, and a deadline of 12/15/20 to correct the following issue regarding service.

The tentative ruling is that this Court has neither the authority nor the inclination to excuse non-compliance with these rules. PS FUNDING, INC.
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 33

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 2/9/21:
Appearances required.

(1) Background

At the hearing on 12/22/20 this Court ordered Debtor, no later than 1/12/21, to make adequate protection payments equal to the regular payments due for December and January for three properties. The combined monthly dollar amount for each property is set forth in dkt.50.

But, as of the hearing on 1/26/21, Debtor had made only one such payment. Although Debtor sought a further (very brief) extension of time, this Court was not persuaded that Debtor's promise of a belated payment two weeks after the deadline (and much longer after the postpetition payments were due) would constitute "adequate" protection as required by 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1). Alternatively, as to two of the properties, this Court was not persuaded that Debtor had any equity in those properties or that Debtor's hopes of potential contributions from family members or from her Mendez investment were sufficient to establish that either property was necessary for an effective reorganization (11 U.S.C. 362(d)(2)).

Therefore this Court was persuaded to grant relief as to two of the three properties (because the payment that was actually made would only cover one of the three properties). This Court set a deadline for Debtor to elect the property to which the payment would be applied. Debtor elected this Columbus Avenue property.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

#3.00 Status conference re: Complaint to deny/revoke debtor's discharge pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 727(a) (6) and (d)(3)

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

(A) Current issues

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv.dkt. 8) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(1) Sale or Refinance of Defendant/Debtor's Home

In the parties' joint status report, Defendant/Debtor contends that this proceeding should be postponed because it is likely to become moot when either the Plaintiff/Trustee sells her home or she refinances her home. Adv. dkt. 8, p. 4. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to discuss when they expect the sale or refinancing will be finalized.

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); *Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

(A) Current issues

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv.dkt. 5) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding. Certain key persons already have been ordered to mediation in the bankruptcy case as a whole, by oral order at the hearing on 1/26/21 commencing at 2:00 p.m. (see also Mem. Dec., dkt.276, p.30:20-21). But no proposed mediation has been lodged as of the preparation of this tentative ruling. Therefore, as a "belt and suspenders" precaution, the tentative ruling is to order mediation in this adversary proceeding as well (as set forth below).

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation

Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/23/21 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 12/7/20. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

#12.00 Hrg re: Motion to Set Aside Default Judgment

Docket 31

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required. For the reasons set forth below, the tentative ruling is to deny the motion.

Proposed order: Plaintiff/Trustee is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Plaintiff/Trustee's opposition (adv. dkt. 34), no reply is on file

Reasons for denial:

(a) Legal standard

Relief in this instance is governed by Rule 60(b) (Fed. R. Civ. P.), made applicable by Rule 9024 (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). Although Rule 60(b) contains six different grounds for relief, Defendants seek relief solely under Rule 60(b)(1). Adv. dkt. 31.

Rule 60(b)(1) allows relief from a judgment or order when the party establishes "mistake, inadvertence, surprise or excusable neglect." "In deciding whether to grant relief under this provision in the context of a default judgment, the trial court must examine three factors: (1) whether the defendant's culpable conduct led to the default, (2) whether the defendant had a meritorious defense or (3) whether reopening the default judgment would prejudice the plaintiff." In re Ruiz, 2006 Bankr. LEXIS 4893, at *13 (9th Cir. BAP Apr. 7, 2006) (citations omitted, emphasis added). "These factors are disjunctive, meaning that the bankruptcy court may properly deny the motion and refuse to grant relief if any one of the three factors [is] satisfied." Id. (citation omitted). The party seeking relief from judgment bears the burden of proof. Id.

(b) Analysis

(1) Culpability

"The concept of the defendant's 'culpability' is construed to be consistent with the Supreme Court's definition of 'excusable neglect' in the context of retroactive extensions of time under rules of procedure." In re Peralta, 317 B.R. 381, 388 (9th Cir. BAP 2004) (citation omitted); Fed. R. Bankr. P. 9006. "The embedded concept of excusable neglect is equitable and entails such considerations as 'prejudice to the debtor, the length of the delay and its potential impact on judicial proceedings, the reason for the delay, including whether it was within the reasonable control of the movant, and whether the movant acted in good faith." Id. (quoting Pioneer Inv. Servs. Co. v. Brunswick Assocs. Ltd P'Ship, 507 U.S. 380, 395 (1993)).

Defendants argue that they did not engage in culpable conduct that led to entry of the default judgment because they were in Korea at the time the adversary complaint was served upon them, via U.S. mail, at their California address, and that they did not discover Plaintiff/Trustee's claims against them until after default judgment was entered. Adv. Dkt. 31, pp.6:7-20, 8:7-11 & 9:8-12. But, as Plaintiff/Trustee highlights, Defendants have not presented any corroborating evidence in support of that assertion - only their bare declarations, unsupported by any copies of passport stamps etc. Adv. dkt. 34, p.12:13-16 & Ex.E.

Additionally, even if there were evidence to corroborate Defendants' assertions, those assertions are not enough. They do not explain why, both as a legal matter and as a factual matter, Plaintiff/Trustee's service was insufficient.

As a legal matter, there is no dispute as to service. Defendants do not dispute that Plaintiff/Trustee properly served the summons and complaint at their California residence in accordance with Rule 7004(b)(1) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) by mailing a copy of the summons and complaint to their dwelling house by first class U.S. mail. See adv. dkt. 4, p.4 (proof of service of summons and complaint) & adv. dkt. 31, pp.8:7-8, 15-17, 9:8-9 & Ex.A (Defendants' declarations confirming address served is their "California address"); see also Peralta, 317 B.R. 381, 386 (certificate of mailing creates a rebuttable presumption that the documents sent were properly mailed and received) (citations omitted); In re Safadi, 431 B.R. 478, 482 (Bankr. D. Ariz. 2010) (Rule 7004(b)(1) does not require receipt, only mailing, for service to be effective). Therefore, the tentative ruling is that Defendants have not established any procedural grounds to relieve them from default.

As a factual matter, Defendants also do not offer any explanation for their failure to arrange to have their mail forwarded to them or to permit someone else to collect and review their mail while they were out of the country. See Safadi, 431 B.R. 478 (rejecting defendant's argument that plaintiff's service of the summons and complaint on him and request for default judgment while he was out of the country on an extended vacation was sufficient excusable neglect under Rule 60(b)(1)); Peralta, 317 B.R. 381 (finding that defendant's conduct did not establish that he was free of neglect or that his actions were excusable based on defendant's alleged difficulties receiving mail).

Alternatively, even if Defendants' factual assertions were supported by evidence of those specific allegations, any such evidence would be insufficient to overcome the Plaintiff/Trustee's prima facie showing that they had knowledge of this proceeding. Although Defendants claim to have lacked such knowledge until after this Court entered default judgment against them, that is insufficient for two reasons.

First, Defendants fail to explain how they can overcome Plaintiff/Trustee's prima facie showing when, in addition to the issues noted above, Defendant Hyong Chan Kim is Debtor's brother. Defendants offer no explanation (let alone evidence) why their brother/brother in law would fail to notify them.

Second, Defendants' alleged lack of knowledge is contrary to the record. Specifically, there is evidence that Defendants were aware of Plaintiff/Trustee's claims against them at least as early as 11/19/20, because Debtor's counsel represented in a joint status report that "Defendants Hyong Chan Kim and Sunhee Kim are in the process of retaining this office to respond to the Trustee's complaint" Adv. dkt. 21, p.2, para. "(5)".

Defendants offer no excuse for not acting more swiftly in responding to Plaintiff/Trustee's motion for default judgment, or at least appearing in pro per by video conference at the 12/1/20 hearing on that motion to request additional time to respond. This Court's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) make such appearances easy and free.

For all of the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is that Defendants have not carried their burden on this factor. The tentative ruling is to deny the motion on this ground alone.

(2) Meritorious defense

To satisfy the 'meritorious defense' factor, the moving party must "allege sufficient facts that, if true, would constitute a defense: the question whether the factual allegation [i]s true is not to be determined by the court when it decides the motion to set aside default. Rather, that question would be the subject of the later litigation." U.S. v. Aguilar, 782 F.3d 1101, 1107 (9th Cir. 2015) (internal quotations and citations omitted).

In support of the motion, Defendants attach a proposed answer asserting sixteen boiler-plate affirmative defenses (dkt. 31, pp.15-20). But, as Plaintiff/Trustee highlights, Defendants fail to properly address how they might have a meritorious defense under any one of those affirmative defenses. Instead, Defendants focus on the purported lack of any fraudulent intent on Debtor's part and argue that transfers at issue in the complaint were only made to facilitate a refinance of the subject property at Debtor's mother's request. They argue that the equity in the property belongs to Debtor's mother, as the true owner, and not Debtor.

But Defendants do not dispute that Debtor was on record title for the property which, as Plaintiff/Trustee correctly notes, creates a rebuttable presumption that Debtor was the true owner. See Cal. Evid. Code 662 ("The owner of legal title to property is presumed to be the owner of the full beneficial title. This presumption may be rebutted only by clear and convincing proof"). Defendants have not made any offer of proof that they could produce evidence at trial sufficient to overcome California's title presumption or cited any legal authority that would provide a viable basis to overcome that presumption.

Nor have they made any offer of proof that they have evidence to support their assertion that the transfers were solely to facilitate a refinance – they do not state that they have written communications between themselves documenting their need to transfer the property for refinance purposes or communications from a mortgage broker or bank denying Debtor's mother's attempt to refinance the subject property. See Aguilar, 782, F.3d 1101, 1108 ("[A]lthough the burden of alleging a potentially meritorious defense is minimal, we will not manufacture" arguments for them") (internal quotations and citations omitted).

Nor have Defendants' addressed Plaintiff/Trustee's point that, if Debtor's mother really had asserted an ongoing ownership of the subject property and the purported transfers were only for refinancing purposes, then Debtor's mother would have perjured herself in her own bankruptcy case by failing to disclose her alleged interest in the property. This is an alternative reason why Defendants - even if they had provided evidence to support their assertions - would not have overcome Plaintiff/Trustee's prima facie showing.

Based on the foregoing, the tentative ruling is that Defendants have failed to assert a meritorious defense. The tentative ruling is that for this alternative reason the motion must be denied.

(3) Prejudice to Plaintiff/Trustee

Because Defendants have not carried their burden as to the first two factors, the tentative ruling is that this Court will not address whether this factor is satisfied.

Docket 16

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant, subject to the following conditions.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

(3) Very limited ruling. This Court's tentative ruling to grant the foregoing relief is solely for purposes of this motion, and is not intended to have any binding effect with respect to any future

#4.00 Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by Debtor(s) themselves.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's motion to continue the automatic stay (dkt. 16), no opposition is on file

The tentative ruling is to grant the motion, subject to the conditions set forth in the tentative ruling for that matter (Calendar No. 3, 2/9/21 at 1:00 p.m.).

(b) "First-Day" motions

If Debtor has not filed a budget motion or any other typical so-called "first-day" motion(s) by the time of this hearing, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/16/21 for Debtor to file any outstanding motion(s) with a hearing concurrent with the continued status conference. Debtor is directed to address at the hearing what motions are required or appropriate, including whether it is really true that, as Debtor has represented in the Status Report (dkt.22), there are no utilities for which a utility motion might be required, no cash that anyone could claim as cash collateral, and no executory contracts or unexpired leases (e.g., for pest control or cleaning services at the hotels?).

(c) Employment application (dkt.26)

Is the retainer $11,000.00, as stated in the Statement of Disinterestedness (dkt.26, at PDF p.17, para.4) or $12,000.00, as stated in Debtor's declaration (dkt.26, p.8) and in the retainer letter (dkt.26, Ex.2, at PDF p.14, para.4)?

In future, Debtor's counsel is encouraged to avoid such issues by following the posted "Procedures of Judge Bason":

Note: the judge prefers that local form F 2014-1 not repeat the employment application – instead simply say "see application" or the

Tentative Ruling for 2/9/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) 3d Amended Plan (dkt.100) and Disclosure Statement (dkt.99), Amendment to Stipulation re: Treatment of Creditor's Claim Under Debtor's
Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization and Non-Material Modification to Debtor's 3rd Amended Plan (the "Stipulation," dkt. 108, 109), Ballot Summary (dkt.
112); no objections on file

The tentative ruling is (a) to approve the Disclosure Statement on a final basis and (b) to confirm the proposed Plan under 11 U.S.C. 1129(b) ("cramdown"), as modified by the Stipulation, because the Plan is fair and equitable, and does not discriminate unfairly, with respect to the one impaired class that did not affirmatively vote to accept the Plan (Class 1B), and the Stipulation's modifications do not adversely affect other creditors so re-balloting is not required under Rule 3019(a) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). The tentative ruling is to set a post-confirmation status conference as set forth below.

Proposed orders: Debtor is directed to lodge (i) a proposed order approving the Disclosure Statement on a final basis and (ii) a proposed order confirming the Plan (with the language required by the LBR) and setting the post-confirmation status conference as provided below. Those proposed orders must be lodged via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. On 1/21/21, this Court entered a Status Conference and Scheduling Order in connection with Debtor's claim objection. The Scheduling Order set a pre-trial conference date for 7/27/21 at 1:00 p.m. The tentative ruling is not to set any additional hearings on the Claim Objection before then.

(b) Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs") (dkt. 298)

At the 1/5/21 hearing, Debtor's counsel stated that she would work with Debtor to ensure that future MORs are clearer. Upon review of the December MOR, all accounts remain labeled as general accounts. Debtor is directed to address why the accounts are not labeled according to the property to which each one relates as discussed at the 1/5/21 hearing.

Debtor is also directed to address where the rental income has been deposited. It is unclear where the amounts listed on the spreadsheets detailing the income for each property have been deposited. Dkt. 298, PDF pp. 61-69.

10/27/20, 11/10/20, 12/22/20

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 2/9/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 2/9/21.

(1) Current issues

(a) United States Trustee's motion to dismiss, convert or appoint a chapter 11 trustee (dkt. 58, "MTD"), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 70), UST's reply (dkt. 71), continuing compliance order (dkt. 76)

The tentative ruling is to continue this hearing to be concurrent with the continued status conference (see below, section "(2)(a)").

(b) Amended Disclosure Statement (dkt. 81) and Plan (dkt. 80), JPMC objection (dkt. 82), U.S. Trustee objection (dkt.88), Amended Plan (dkt.89), Amended Disclosure Statement (dkt.90)

Based on the arguments and representations of the parties at the hearing on 12/22/20, this Court was persuaded to continue this matter to this date to see whether Debtor's performance is consistent with its current projections (or not). This Court has reviewed Debtor's MORs for December 2020 (dkt. 93) and January 2021 (dkt.94), which reflect some improvement in Debtor's financial situation. The tentative ruling is to continue this matter to be concurrent with the continued status conference (see below, section "(2)(a)") to allow this Court and other parties in interest to continue to monitor Debtor's performance.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 5/21/20.

(a) Bar date: 7/30/20 per General Order 20-01 (70 days after petition date in Subchapter V cases) (DO NOT SERVE any notice: one has already been sent, see dkt. 12).

(b) Procedures order: dkt.7 (served one day late, dkt. 14)

Tentative Ruling for 12/22/20:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) United States Trustee's motion to dismiss, convert or appoint a chapter 11 trustee (dkt. 58, "MTD"), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 70), UST's reply (dkt. 71), continuing compliance order (dkt. 76)

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address whether Debtor is in full compliance with all of its reporting and disclosure obligations, and has been maintaining regular communications with the Subchapter V Trustee and creditors.

(b) Amended Disclosure Statement (dkt. 81) and Plan (dkt. 80), JPMC objection (dkt. 82), U.S. Trustee objection (dkt.88), Amended Plan (dkt.89), Amended Disclosure Statement (dkt.90)

(i) Agreement(s)?

The parties are directed to address whether the Plan reflects agreements with creditors, and whether it includes all secured and unsecured claims that are allowed, or untimely claims that might (or might not) be allowed. See dkt.82.

(ii) Feasibility?

The good news is that Debtor appears to have corrected its reporting of recent financial history. Compare Disclosure Statement (dkt.90-2), Ex.D (summary of prepetition books & MORs), with U.S. Trustee's Objection (dkt.88), Ex.1 (summary of MORs). In addition, Debtor's historical profit & loss statements (Disclosure Statement, dkt.90-14, Attachment 8) show considerable improvement from the losses in 2018 and 2019 to a modest income in the first part of 2020. The declaration of one of Debtor's principals, Joel Russell (id., dkt.90-15) also appears to show good reasons to anticipate continued improvement. Debtor projects net cash flow (before debt payments) starting at $6,665.00 for 12/20 and increasing initially to $7,706.25/mo. and eventually to over $9,000.00/mo. See Disclosure Statement, dkt.90-11, Attachment 5.

But Debtor's projected cash flows appear to be unrealistic because at present Debtor is barely breaking even, after monthly interest-only payments of $3,500/mo. to its principal secured creditor, First Home Bank (see, e.g., MOR for 11/20, dkt.86-2, p.2, and MOR for 10/20, dkt.83-5, p.2), whereas under the Plan Debtor would be paying $5,055.73/mo. to First Home Bank, plus an additional $519.61 to Chase and $916.67 to the Subchapter V Trustee or General Unsecured Creditors. See Plan (dkt.89) Ex.A, Classes 2A, 2B & 4A. Based on this apparent gap between projections and recent history, the tentative ruling is to continue the hearing on any Plan and Disclosure Statement until Debtor begins to demonstrate performance consistent with its current projections (or not).

Meanwhile, the tentative ruling is to direct Debtor's counsel not to expend time (and attorney fees) revising the Disclosure Statement to correct the issues noted below, but to be prepared to do so if directed at a future Status Conference (if Debtor's financial performance demonstrates feasibility).

(iii) Corrections to Disclosure Statement (for future reference)

When and if this Court directs, Debtor must prepare a further amended Disclosure Statement correcting formatting issues, such as blank pages (see, e.g., Disclosure Statement (dkt.90-1), Ex.C1 through C3, at PDF pp.2-4) and miniature pages. See id., Ex.E (dkt.90-3). In addition, Ex.C to the Disclosure Statement uses a single, unchanging projection of monthly net income, whereas Debtor's actual projections are much more variable (mostly projected increases). The tentative ruling is that Ex.C need not show every monthly variation, but should reflect the average projections for each of the periods in the Plan.

Again, the tentative ruling is to direct Debtor's attorneys not to correct any of the above-referenced issues unless and until Debtor demonstrates sufficient cash flow for feasibility purposes.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 5/21/20.

- (a) Bar date: 7/30/20 per General Order 20-01 (70 days after petition date in Subchapter V cases) (DO NOT SERVE any notice: one has already been sent, see dkt. 12).
- (b) Procedures order: dkt.7 (served one day late, dkt. 14)
- (c) PlanDisclosure Statement*: See above.
- (d) Continued status conference: 1/26/21 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report required.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's Status Report

This Court was persuaded to continue the 11/10/20 post-confirmation status conference to 2/9/21 at 1:00 p.m. In its tentative ruling for the 11/10/20 post-confirmation status conference, this Court directed Debtor to file a brief status report in advance of the continued hearing no later than 1/26/21. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, no status report has been filed, why not?

(2) Deadlines/dates

This case was filed on 2/20/19, and Debtor's plan was confirmed on 5/15/20 (dkt. 630). The tentative ruling is to set a continued post-confirmation status conference for 5/11/21 at 1:00 p.m., with a brief status report due 4/27/21.

#1.00 Hrg re: Motion to Set Aside State Court Default
Judgment for Violation of the Automatic Stay

Docket 24

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

The tentative ruling is to grant the motion and impose sanctions as set forth below.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b) (1)(B).

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers, dkt.24, 25):

Opposition of Jordan Jarvis and Dixon G. Kummer, Esq ("Respondents") (dkt. 30), Debtor's reply (dkt. 31), interim order (dkt. 32), Debtor's notice of errata (dkt. 34), as of the preparation of this tentative ruling no response has been filed by Jeff or Linda Jarvis.

Analysis:

(1) Background

Debtor moves for an order setting aside a state court default judgment and for damages arising from violations of the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(k). On 1/29/21, this Court entered an "Emergency Order: (1) Granting Partial Relief on Debtor's Motion to Set Aside Default Judgment on an Interim Basis, and (2) Directing Respondents to (I) Cease All Eviction Efforts and Related Acts, (II) Instruct Any Persons Aiding Them in Those Efforts to Cease all Such Efforts, and (III) Appear and Address the Stay Violation Issues and the Appropriate Amount of Damages" (dkt. 32, the "Interim Order"). The Interim Order sets forth the facts relevant to this dispute as well as the applicable law and this Court's interim findings and conclusions, which this Court incorporates by reference and will not repeat here. (Errata: This Court hereby corrects one non-material error in the Interim Order: the phrase "nearly a month later" (id., p.2:27) is amended to read "over two months later.")

(2) The default judgment is void

For the reasons stated in the Interim Order, the tentative ruling is to confirm that the Default Judgment is void and of no legal effect because it was entered on 12/8/20 in violation of the automatic stay that was in effect as of the date of entry of the judgment. See Dkt. 25, Ex.3; see also In re Wardrobe, 559 F.3d 932, 934 (9th Cir. 2009) (judicial proceedings in violation of the automatic stay are also void); In re Gruntz, 202 F.3d 1074, 1082 (9th Cir. 2000) (en banc) ("actions taken in violation of the automatic stay are void. Further, '[j]udicial proceedings in violation of th[e] automatic stay are void.' . . . As the Supreme Court explained in Kalb [v. Feuerstein], 308 U.S. 433, 443 (1940)], discussing the weaker predecessor statute to 11 U.S.C. § 362(a), '[b]ecause that State court had been deprived of all jurisdiction or power to proceed ... [all acts by creditor]-to the extent based upon the [State] court's actions-were all without authority of law.'" (citations omitted); In re Schwartz, 954 F.2d 569, 571 (9th Cir. 1992) ("It is well established that acts in violation of the automatic stay are void ab initio and have no force or effect").

(3) Debtor is entitled to recover damages arising from Respondents' willful violation of the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. § 362(k))

Section 362(k)(1) provides, "...an individual injured by any willful violation of a stay provided by this section shall recover actual damages, including costs and attorneys' fees, and, in appropriate circumstances, may recover punitive damages." 11 U.S.C. 362(k)(1).

A willful violation is satisfied if a party knew of the automatic stay, and that party's actions in violation of the automatic stay were intentional. In re Bruel, 533 B.R. 782, 787 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2015) (citation Eksanos & Adler, P.C. v. Leetien, 309 F.3d 1210, 1215 (9th Cir. 2002)). "Once a creditor has knowledge of the bankruptcy, it is deemed to have knowledge of the automatic stay." Id. Even if a party violates the stay inadvertently, once it becomes clear that a stay violation has occurred it is the duty of the party violating the stay to remedy the stay violation. In re Stefani, 2019 Bankr. LEXIS 481, at *21, 2019 WL 762661, at *8 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. Feb. 15, 2019) (citing In re Roman, 283 B.R. 1, 12 (9th Cir. BAP 2002) (creditor has the burden both to establish administrative safeguards to prevent stay violations and to restore the status quo by undoing them); In re Dyer, 322 F.3d 1178, 1192 (9th Cir. 2003) (knowledge of a stay violation created an "affirmative duty to remedy [the] automatic stay violation").

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's evidence is insufficient to establish that Respondents knew Debtor's bankruptcy case had been reinstated when they obtained the Default Judgment because the Certificate of Notice of the Order Reinstating the Case does not reflect service on Respondents (dkt. 21) and Debtor has not submitted any evidence establishing that Respondents received notice in some other way prior to 12/8/20 when the Default Judgment was entered.

But Respondents do not dispute that they were made aware of this Court's Order Reinstating Case on December 15, 2020 when Debtor's counsel e-mailed them to notify them that the Default Judgment was void as a violation of the automatic stay and to request that Respondents take steps to vacate the default judgment. Dkt. 25, Ex.4 & Dkt. 30, p.2:24-26. Therefore, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has shown by a preponderance of the evidence that Respondents had actual notice of Debtor's bankruptcy filing and of the automatic stay no later than December 15, 2020.

The tentative ruling is also that because the Default Judgment was void ab initio (Schwartz, 954 F.2d 569, 571), the real property that is the subject of that action is property of Debtor's bankruptcy estate and continues to be subject to the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(3), (6) and 541(a)(1). As a result, Respondents' efforts to enforce the Default Judgment were intentional, willful and in violation of the automatic stay. The tentative ruling, based on Debtor's unrefuted evidence, is that Respondents:

(a) failed to take any actions to have the Default Judgment vacated despite having an affirmative obligation to do so (dkt. 25, p.13:17-24; see also dkt. 30, p.3:5-13);

(b) engaged in efforts to lock out and evict Debtor and her daughter from the real property that is the subject of the Default Judgment by changing the locks and posting a 60-day notice to vacate and a notice of termination of tenancy for no-fault just cause (dkt. 25, pp. 13:25-14:3, 17:17-18:11 & Ex. 5, 8, 9);

(c) seized Debtor's and her daughter's personal property (dkt. 25, pp. 14:26-15:25 & 17:3-19:10); and

(d) threatened and harassed Debtor and her daughter with the specific intent of trying to intimidate them to vacate the subject property and turn over full possession to Mr. Jarvis. Dkt. 25, pp. 14:4-25, 15:15-20 & Ex.6 & 7. (Debtor and her daughter also allege harassment of the boyfriend of Debtor's daughter, but there is no declaration from him, and although there is no hearsay objection this Court has discretion to require non-hearsay evidence even when respondents have failed to raise any hearsay objection. See Rule 55(b)(2), Fed. R. Civ. P. (incorporated by Rules 7055 & 9014(c), Fed. R. Bankr. P.))

(4) Damages

"The words 'shall recover' indicate that Congress intended that the award of actual damages, costs and attorney's fees be mandatory upon a finding of willful violation of the stay." In re Ramirez, 183 B.R. 583, 589 (9th Cir. BAP 1995) (internal citations omitted).

(a) Actual damages/Attorney's fees

Section 362(k)(1) is a fee-shifting statute that entitles debtor not only to attorney's fees and costs incurred in ending a stay violation, but also to fees and costs incurred in prosecuting an action for damages from a stay violation and in successful defending a damages award on appeal. In re Schwartz-Tallard, 803 F.3d 1095, 1099-1101 (9th Cir. 2015) (internal citations omitted); see also In re Moon, 2021 Bankr. LEXIS 27 at *10, 2021 WL 62629 at *10 (9th Cir. BAP Jan. 7, 2021) ("attorney's fees and costs are 'incurred' even when the plaintiff is not personally liable for them") (citations omitted).

In support of her motion and reply papers, Debtor submitted evidence establishing $6,554 in damages as follows: (1) $1,700 to prepare and file the Stay Violation Motion (dkt. 25, p.15:11-13); (2) $500 to prepare and file her reply in support of the Stay Violation Motion and to file a notice of removal of the State Court Action (dkt. 31, p.6:13-15); (3) $1,500 in attorney's fees incurred having to defend against Department of Real Estate complaint Mr. Jarvis filed against Debtor (dkt. 25, p.15:15-20); and (4) $2,854 to reimburse Debtor's daughter and Debtor's daughter's boyfriend for theft of property that Debtor is responsible for reimbursing (dkt. 25, p.15:21-25).

The tentative ruling is that Debtor is entitled to an award of actual damages, including attorney's fees and costs, of $6,554, payable jointly and severally by the Respondents.

(b) Emotional distress damages

Chapter 7

To be entitled to damages for emotional distress under section 362(k), an individual must (1) suffer a significant harm, (2) clearly establish the significant harm, and (3) demonstrate a causal connection between that harm and the violation of the automatic stay. In re Dawson, 390 F.3d 1139, 1148-49 (9th Cir. 2004). "Fleeting or trivial anxiety or distress does not suffice to support an award; instead, an individual must suffer significant emotional harm." Id. (citations omitted).

An individual may establish emotional distress damages in a number of ways, such as by providing corroborating medical evidence or by submitting testimony or declarations from family members, friends or coworkers. Id. at 1149-50. Additionally, in some cases, "significant emotional distress may be readily apparent even without corroborative evidence" such as instances where the violator has engaged in egregious conduct. Id. Alternatively, "even if the violation of the automatic stay was not egregious, the circumstances may make it obvious that a reasonable person would suffer significant emotional harm." Id.

In support of the Stay Violation Motion, Debtor submitted her declaration in which she states "Emotional Distress/Punitive; It is hard to measure these. However, the emotional impact has been tremendous, while myself and my family are being harassed no end. I believe that emotional distress punitive damages are warranted" Dkt. 25, p.15:27-16:2. The tentative ruling is that this is insufficient to warrant the imposition of emotional distress damages.

(c) Punitive damages

Section 362(k) authorizes an award of punitive damages "in appropriate circumstances." 11 U.S.C. 362(k)(1). "An award of punitive damages requires some showing of reckless or callous disregard for the law or rights of others" or "where the conduct is malicious, wanton, or oppressive." In re Snowden, 769 F.3d 651, 657 (9th Cir. 2014). "Courts have also imposed punitive damages for arrogant defiance of the automatic stay." In re Stefani, 2019 Bankr. LEXIS 481, at * 22-23, 2019 WL 762661, at *8 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. Feb. 15, 2019) (emphasis added) (citing In re Jean-Francois, 532 B.R. 449, 459 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 2015); In re Diviney, 211 B.R. 951 (Bankr. N.D. Okla. 1997)). "The Court in considering an award of punitive damages, thus, needs to find that the violator did more than violate the stay through mere negligence or inattention." Id. at *8. "The amount of a punitive damage award is also fact-specific and within the discretion of a Bankruptcy Court." Id. (citation omitted). In determining whether to impose punitive damages under [section] 362(k), bankruptcy courts have considered the nature of the creditor's conduct, the creditor's ability to pay, the motives of the creditor, any provocation by the debtor, and the creditor's level of sophistication." Id. (emphasis added).

The tentative ruling is that punitive damages are appropriate for several reasons. First, Respondents' refusal to remedy the stay violation is ongoing and intentional. Second, Respondents' three-page opposition is not supported by any citation to legal authority and Respondents do not even attempt to deny Debtor's allegations or refute Debtor's evidence with declarations or other evidence. Their papers reflect a complete indifference to educate themselves on applicable bankruptcy law and/or a willful and callous disregard of the automatic stay and this Court's authority. Third and finally, their willful stay violations are numerous and malicious—they have willfully refused to take steps to vacate the Default Judgment and instead have changed the locks and posted notices of eviction on the property, they have sent threatening and intimidating messages to Debtor and her family members and attempted to enforce prepetition claims against Debtor, with the additional apparent intent to destroy Debtor's ability to earn an income, by filing lawsuits against her and contacting her employer.

Respondents should be prepared to address whether there are any grounds why this Court should not impose $7,000 in punitive damages against them, jointly and severally, for their egregious behavior.

(5) Caveat

As always, tentative rulings are just that - tentative. In addition, this Court's Interim Order (dkt.32, p.6:10-12) prohibited any further briefing. All rights are reserved to argue why this Court should or should not permit further briefing. In addition, this Court has the power to order mandatory mediation of parties before it, and the parties should be prepared to address whether this Court should do so.

tentative ruling is that the docket does not reflect any developments that would create any sufficient cause for restoration of possession of the family home and/or reconversion of this bankruptcy case, despite Debtor's long history of a lack of progress toward paying creditors, violations of her duties, and violations of this Court's orders, including turnover orders.

The parties are directed to update this Court on the status of this motion and address whether any additional relief is appropriate. The tentative ruling is to take this matter off calendar, without prejudice to the Chapter 7 Trustee placing it back on calendar on 14 days' notice. On the other hand, if continuance of this matter is appropriate, the tentative ruling is for such continuance to be concurrent with the continued status conference (see below, section "(2)(a)").

The tentative ruling is to deny the objection, without prejudice, for the procedural reasons stated in sections II.A & II.B of the opposition (dkt. 493) - namely, that an adversary proceeding is required, and that Debtor's cost/benefit analysis is unpersuasive. This Court adds that Debtor's claim objection appears to this Court to be nothing more than an impermissible collateral attack on this Court's order staying her pending adversary proceeding. Alternatively, even if this Court were to construe Debtor's claim objection as a motion for reconsideration of this Court's order staying the adversary proceeding (under Rule 9024, Fed. R. Bankr. P.), that motion would be unpersuasive.

There is no showing of any newly discovered evidence or other grounds for reconsideration. In addition, the same analysis that led this Court to stay the adversary proceeding continues to apply. Either (i) Debtor lacks standing, if this chapter 7 bankruptcy estate is insolvent, or alternatively (ii) if the estate is solvent then Oxygen's claim will be paid in full anyway, regardless whether that claim is secured or unsecured, so there does not appear to be any point in pursuing the claim litigation at this time.

Debtor incorrectly asserts that unsecured creditors have "no right under the [Bankruptcy] Code to accrue interest post-petition." Dkt.474, p.4:24. Interest is payable under 11 U.S.C. 726(a)(5).

True, the rate of interest might be different, but Debtor has not shown how that makes a sufficient difference to warrant the expense of her proposed litigation. In other words, assuming for the sake of discussion that the bankruptcy estate is solvent, there is a risk that it will become insolvent if expensive litigation were to be pursued, because of Debtor's attorney fees, or because of Oxygen's attorney fees (if it were to be successful), or both.

Debtor argues in the alternative that pursuing her claim litigation is appropriate because otherwise Oxygen can "block the refinancing" that she hopes to obtain. Dkt.474, p.5:4. But, as this Court has pointed out before, the Bankruptcy Code has tools to overcome any attempt by a lienholder to block a refinancing or sale if such refinancing or sale are warranted under all the facts and circumstances. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 363(f), 364(d).

In other words, Debtor has not established that the problem with any refinancing is Oxygen's (asserted) lien. The problem is that Debtor has yet to present any realistic refinancing or other options.

In sum, Debtor's claim objection appears to be an attempted end-run around this Court's order staying her adversary proceeding, which is barred as a collateral attack on that order. Alternatively, if Debtor's papers were construed as a motion for reconsideration, the same concerns that led this Court to stay that adversary proceeding apply to the claim objection. Pursuing either type of litigation at this time appears to be a waste of time and money for the estate, Oxygen, and all other parties in interest. Counsel for Debtor is cautioned against further attempts at collaterally attacking this Court's orders.

(f) Talasazan v. Oxygen Funding, Inc., et al (2:20-ap-01027-NB), joint status report (adv. dkt. 41)

On 9/15/20, this Court ordered this matter stayed and continued the hearing to this date to allow time for the Chapter 7 trustee to evaluate the merits of the claims and determine how to proceed. The trustee should be prepared to address where things stand with this litigation.

(g) Motion of Debtor's counsel to be relieved (dkt.492); Opposition of United States Trustee (dkt.501); Joinder of Chapter 7 Trustee (dkt.502)

Should this Bankruptcy Court set a hearing on this motion?

(h) Motion of Tremblay Trust for relief from automatic stay (the "Tremblay R/S Motion," dkt.9, 93), Opposition (dkt.95, 96, 129, 138), and Status Report/supplement (dkt.503)

The Tremblay Trust points out that this Court's order continuing the automatic stay (dkt.46) granted that relief only until further order of this Court, and included a caution to Debtor that lack of proper prosecution of this case could lead to further relief. It also notes that this Court has found a lack of proper prosecution and bad faith by Debtor; it points out that the liens asserted against the Laurel Avenue property exceed the offers received by the Chapter 7 Trustee; and it reports that Celtic Bank has not agreed to a short sale. The parties are directed to address whether this Court should place the Tremblay R/S Motion back on calendar.

Proposed orders: The Trustee is directed to lodge proposed orders reflecting any other disposition of the above items beyond mere continuance, and attach relevant portions of this tentative ruling, via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 11/20/19, converted from chapter 13 to chapter 11 on 1/2/20, designated by Debtor as a Subchapter V case on 3/2/20 (dkt.128), and converted to chapter 7 on 12/1/20 (dkt. 412).

filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

Current issues

(a) Apparent waste of resources and/or unwillingness to prosecute

This Court continues to have serious concerns why it makes any sense for Debtor to dispute the alleged security interest of Oxygen Funding, Inc. when (i) Debtor continues to assert that all creditors will be paid 100% of their allowed claims regardless whether those claims are or are not secured by any collateral, (ii) the Bankruptcy Code includes many tools to assure that disputed security interests do not block attempted refinancings, sales, or other uses of estate property (see, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 363(f), 1129(b)(1)), and (iii) the expense of this litigation to the bankruptcy estate appears very likely to exceed any possible future benefits (but cf. dkt.282 re unauthorized funding of Debtor's counsel by non-debtor husband). At prior hearings this Court was persuaded not to take any action on the foregoing concerns, pending mediation, but the parties report (adv.dkt.37) that mediation was unsuccessful.

Conversely, assuming for the sake of discussion that for some reason would make any sense to pursue this litigation, Debtor/Plaintiff appears to be unwilling to prosecute it unless and until she can obtain a different forum. She states, in the parties' joint status report (adv.dkt.37, p.4, para.G) that she will seek dismissal of this bankruptcy case and then pursue this litigation in State Court.

The parties are directed to address whether this Court should (i) stay this litigation indefinitely, pending the results of attempts by Debtor and the Subchapter V Trustee to sell or refinance the "Laurel" property, or confirm a chapter 11 plan, or implement other means of restructuring Debtor's finances, (ii) dismiss this adversary proceeding for lack of prosecution if Debtor/Plaintiff does not prosecute it pursuant to the deadlines tentatively set forth below, or (iii) establish some other deadlines or procedures regarding this matter.

There is no tentative ruling. The parties are directed to appear and address whether Debtor's supplemental declarations (dkt. 375, 276) provide sufficient evidence of feasibility, sufficient "new value" to satisfy the "new value corrolary" (aka "exception") to the absolute priority rule, good faith, and the other elements required for confirmation (see prior tentative rulings, reproduced below, on those issues). Debtor should be prepared to provide an update on the status of the Florida receivership.

Regarding the "new value" issues, please note the following excerpt from the posted "Procedures of Judge Bason" (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov):

§ 1129(b)(2)(B)(ii): absolute priority rule. The judge previously has made the following, both orally and in writing. See In re Lytle (Case No. 2:20-bk-12166-NB), dkt. 113. First, although this Court has an independent duty to examine the elements of cramdown under § 1129(a)(1) (*cf. United States v. confirmation of the plan is appropriate. Cf. In re Hamer, 138 S.Ct. 13, 17 n.1 (2017) (distinguishing forfeiture and waiver); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (holding, in different context, that consent need not be express); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (same, and analyzing presumed consent). Second, when cramdown is required under § 1129(a)(10) & (b) it is subject to the "new value" "exception" (corrolary) to the absolute priority rule (typically an individual debtor would contribute cash from an exempt retirement account, or from a relative or friend). Third, new value must be (among other things) "reasonably equivalent to the value or interest received" (In re Bonner Mall P'ship, 2 F.3d 899, 908 (9th Cir. 1993) (citations omitted)) but by definition $0 is "reasonably equivalent" to whatever residual value exists in fully encumbered property (which is what debtors often retain). Fourth, however, new value must be "necessary" and "substantial" (id.), which requires whatever cash is "necessary" to the success of the proposed reorganization, as opposed to a "token" cash infusion. In re Snyder, 967 F.2d 1126, 1131-32 (7th Cir. 1992) (cited in Bonner Mall, 2 F.3d at 908). When a debtor is devoting all or almost all disposable income to the plan then it may be "necessary" for feasibility (§ 1129(a)(11)) to have a cash infusion to cover the type of unanticipated emergency expenses that typically arise, and the judge has accepted this as "substantial" new value even if it does not increase the dividend to unsecured creditors. Note: the judge has questioned, but not ruled on, whether "bids or competing plans" are required, or what that would mean as applied to property that an individual debtor is entitled to exempt. Compare Bank of Am. Nat. Trust and Sav. Assn. v. 203 North LaSalle St. P'ship, 526 U.S. 434, 454-58 (1999) (limited partnership, not invidual, bankruptcy case); *Zachary v. Debtor's opposition (dkt. 86), UST's reply (dkt. 168, 170), Debtor's response (dkt. 179), Debtor's status report (dkt. 180), stipulation and order re pre-petition bank account (dkt. 212, 221)

The outcome of this motion may depend on whether this Court confirms Debtor's amended plan.

(b) Debtor's Amended plan (dkt. 313) (see also Disclosure Statement, dkt. 311), order setting confirmation hearing (dkt. 317), proof of service of solicitation package (dkt. 324), Debtor's confirmation brief (dkt. 329), ballot summary (dkt. 330), objection of Post Acute Care Partners, Inc. ("Post") (dkt. 332), objection of Shiv Raj & Saroj Gupta ("Guptas") (dkt. 333), Debtor's Reply (dkt. 335), Debtor's supplemental brief (dkt. 369), Guptas' supplemental response (dkt. 372), supplemental response of Verus Securitization Trust 2020-NPL1 ("Verus"), as successor to Patch of Land et al. (dkt. 373), Debtor's supplemental reply (dkt. 374)

The tentative ruling is that if Debtor can provide evidence, or an offer of proof, regarding removal of the appraisal contingency on the JSS Financial refinancing (see dkt.374, p.5:5-7), the imminent payment of Verus, and the alleged commitment of Janet Sexton to contribute $45,000, then Debtor will have presented sufficient evidence of feasibility, sufficient "new value" to satisfy the "new value corollary" (aka "exception") to the absolute priority rule, good faith, and the other elements required for confirmation. Although some significant uncertainties remain, and although it is possible that nonpriority unsecured creditors would receive a greater recovery in some scenarios, it is more likely on the present record that they would receive less in most scenarios, and as a matter of law Debtor is only required to show that the plan's treatment of non-consenting impaired classes is "fair and equitable" and does not discriminate unfairly - not that the plan is the best of all possible outcomes.

Tentative Ruling for 9/29/20:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of the U.S. Trustee ("UST") to dismiss (dkt. 65, "MTD"), debtor's opposition (dkt. 86), UST's reply (dkt. 168, 170), debtor's response (dkt. 179), debtor's status report (dkt. 180), stipulation and order re pre-petition bank account (dkt. 212, 221)

332), objection of Shiv Raj & Saroj Gupta ("Guptas") (dkt. 333), Debtor's Reply (dkt. 335)

The tentative ruling is that (x) Debtor has adequately addressed Post's objection; (y) Debtor has adequately addressed the non-materiality of her proposed minor modifications to the Plan (i.e., re-balloting is not required); and (z) Debtor has provided sufficient arguments and evidence to overrule most of the Guptas' objections. The Guptas' objections that Debtor has not yet sufficiently addressed are explained below.

(A) Best Interest Test (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(7)): Debtor's calculations require an adjustment, but even with an adjustment the Guptas have not rebutted Debtor's showing that the Plan satisfies the best interest test

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's alternative liquidation analysis (dkt.335, pp.11-12) should be adjusted to account for the possibility that the secured claim asserted by Patch Of Land ("Patch" or "POL") might be reduced to some extent, based on objections to default interest and other claims by the bankruptcy estate. But the tentative ruling - based on this Court's familiarity with numerous disputes in other cases regarding default rates of interest and other charges - is that the possibility of such reduction, discounted to present value, is less than shortfall in funds that would be available in any hypothetical chapter 7 case. See Debtor's Reply (dkt.335), p.12. See generally, e.g., East-West Bank v. Altadena Lincoln Crossing, LLC, 598 B.R. 633 (C.D. Cal. 2019)

The tentative ruling is that a precise dollar estimate is not required because the shortfall is hundreds of thousands of dollars; the discount to Patch's claim would not be greater than that. In other words, even with the adjustment to Patch's claim as described above, there would be $-0- for general unsecured creditors in a hypothetical chapter 7 case.

Alternatively, assuming for the sake of discussion that any adjustments to Debtor's liquidation analysis would be enough to provide any projected recovery for nonpriority unsecured creditors, that in itself does not establish that liquidation would be in the best interests of creditors. Rather, the issue would require further evidence because any such projected chapter 7 recovery still would have to exceed the projected recovery under Debtor's proposed Plan, and the latter requires more evidence (as noted below).

and feasibility (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(11))

Debtor is directed to address whether she has evidence of sufficient loan commitments and/or gift commitments from family and friends to make her proposed commitments in the Plan adequate and feasible. See, e.g., Debtor's Reply (dkt.335), p.14:2-8. The parties are directed to address whether any evidentiary hearing will be necessary to address the sufficiency of such evidence, and the possible scheduling of any such evidentiary hearing and any related matters.

Alternatively, if the Plan were to be confirmed at today's hearing, the tentative ruling would be to set a post-confirmation status conference for 1/12/21 at 2:00 p.m.

Chapter 13

#1.00 Hrg re: Motion under Local Bankruptcy Rule 3015-1
(n) and (w) to modify plan or suspend plan payments

Docket 89

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required. Debtor is directed to address the issues raised by the Chapter 13 Trustee (dkt. 95) and whether Debtor's response (dkt. 103) sufficiently addresses the Trustee's concerns.

On the one hand, Debtor's age, retirement status, extremely modest budget, and increases in monthly mortgage payments all favor some leeway in permitting Debtor's proposed modification of her confirmed chapter 13 plan. On the other hand, this Court is concerned that Debtor's math (and her allegations) do not entirely "add up."

In particular, although Debtor asserts (a) that she spends a "de minimis" amount on gambling and (b) that the $61,675.00 of winnings and $52,631.00 of losses on her tax returns are gross amounts that do not accurately reflect the netting of wins and losses, nevertheless (i) the net appears to be approximately $9,000 of winnings ($$61,675.00 - $52,631.00 = $9,044.00$) that were not used to pay creditors; and (ii) she admits (dkt.103, para.7) to visiting a casino "about 5 times" in 2019, and "load[ing] up the card" with approximately $300 or $400 each time (although there is some ambiguity about whether sometimes those dollar amounts are reduced by carrying over alleged winnings from prior gambling), which would appear to mean an admission that she spent approximately $1,500 to $2,000 on gambling instead of paying her creditors. In addition, Debtor appears to be asserting that she generally wins (to the extent she is asserting that her winnings are carried over), and yet her own evidence (dkt.103, Ex.C) is that the casino has the edge and gamblers generally lose. In addition, this Court is concerned that Debtor's extremely modest budget (dkt.103, Ex.B) does not appear to reflect any ability to use $300 or $400 on each visit to a casino, even supposing significant "belt tightening" by Debtor. All of this calls into question whether Debtor is hiding other sources of income, and/or otherwise being less than truthful.

#7.00 Hrg re: Motion to Avoid Lien Junior Lien with Trojan Capital Investments, LLC

Docket 58

Tentative Ruling:

Continue to 4/22/21 at 8:30 a.m. to address the following issues.
Appearances are not required on 2/18/21.

Reason:

Appraisal; date of valuation. The junior lienholder has requested (dkt. 63) additional time to obtain an appraisal. Debtor is directed to provide reasonable access for that purpose. The junior lienholder is directed to file and serve the appraisal at least 14 days before the continued hearing. Note: Judge Bason's tentative ruling is to require valuations at or near the petition date. See In re Gutierrez, 503 B.R. 458 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2013).

At the continued hearing the parties should address how they propose to resolve their disputes - e.g., (i) with an evidentiary hearing; (ii) with a court ruling based solely on the written record (to save costs, if all parties consent), (iii) through mediation, or (iv) through appointment of an appraiser (jointly selected by the parties/their appraisers) as the court's own expert under FRE 706.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(a) Counsel may charge a reduced fee of $300

This Court has reviewed Counsel's cost/benefit analysis requesting $300 for time spent in connection with this matter. Dkt. 32. Counsel appears to be correct that authorizing a reduced fee of $300 will result in a net benefit to the estate of $26.47, because Debtor's confirmed Plan proposes a 100% dividend to general unsecured creditors. See Dkt. 2 & 20.

This Court notes that even with that voluntary cap, a net benefit to the bankruptcy estate and Debtor are not assured. If circumstances were to change, and Debtor later seeks to modify his Plan due to a material change in his income or expenses, then it is possible that Counsel will have been paid 100% of his administrative claim and the net benefit of the Claim Objection might be de minimus or actually result in a lower payment to general unsecured creditors.

Nevertheless, on this record, this Court is prepared to find that the cost/benefit analysis sufficiently establishes some benefit to the estate for purposes of Judge Bason's posted Procedures regarding claim objections, so this Court's limitation on fees in the prior tentative ruling on this matter is hereby vacated and Counsel is authorized to charge $300 in fees.

Counsel is cautioned that in future, this Court will require a stronger showing of a benefit to the estate to justify any award of fees for claim objection(s).

Appearances are not required on 1/21/21.

Lack of cost/benefit analysis. The posted Procedures of Judge Bason (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) provide:

§ 502: claim objections & cost/benefit analysis. When objecting to claims, be sure to include an analysis of whether the costs of preparing and litigating the claim objection (administrative expenses) do not exceed the anticipated benefits (reductions in claims). For example, if the anticipated dividend is small or 0% then the attorney fees incurred in prosecuting your claim objection to any general unsecured claim probably will exceed the benefit to the bankruptcy estate/debtor, so filing that objection would be a waste of the bankruptcy estate's (and everyone else's) resources (unless, for example, the claim is nondischargeable, in which event the attorney fees might well be justified).

No later than 7 days after the date of this hearing the movant must file either:

(1) a supplemental declaration explaining why the attorney fees for this objection are justified (including supporting evidence, such as a copy of the plan showing the projected dividend to the claimant, and a calculation comparing that projected dividend against the attorney fees related to this

(2) a withdrawal of the claim objection.

No fees on this matter, absent specific authorization. Counsel is directed not to charge any fees on this matter (including all past, present and future work related to this claim objection), and to return any fees received on this matter, unless and until this Court expressly finds: "Counsel has provided a cost/benefit analysis that is sufficient for purposes of Judge Bason's posted Procedures regarding claim objections." It is counsel's responsibility to include the quoted phrase, if warranted, in the proposed order on this claim objection.

This Court does not have the capacity to monitor all fee applications to assure compliance with the foregoing limitation on fees. But if counsel is found to have disregarded this limitation then this Court may impose sanctions.

Docket 37

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 2/18/21:

Continue to 3/18/21 at 8:30 a.m. and set a deadline of 3/4/21 for Debtors to file a supplemental brief and declaration(s) addressing the issues set forth below. After the hearing this Court will issue an order memorializing this tentative ruling. Appearances are not required on 2/18/21.

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Amended Claim Objection (dkt. 41), Declaration re cost/benefit analysis (dkt. 43), no opposition is on file.

Analysis:

(a) Service

This matter was continued from 1/21/21 to allow Debtors an opportunity to cure the service deficiencies discussed in the tentative ruling for that hearing (copied below). Based on this Court's review of Debtors' amended proof of service (dkt. 41, PDF pp.36-27), the tentative ruling is that service is proper.

(b) Cost-benefit analysis

This Court's tentative ruling for 1/21/21 also required Debtors to submit a declaration addressing the cost/benefit analysis of filing the claim objection as required by Judge Bason's posted procedures ("Procedures") (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov). This Court expressly finds that Counsel has provided a cost/benefit analysis (dkt. 43) that is sufficient for purposes of the Procedures regarding claim objections, so any limitation on fees in the prior tentative ruling on this matter is hereby vacated.

(c) Legal standard

A proof of claim is "deemed allowed" unless an objection is made, and if such objection is made then "the court 'shall allow' the claim 'except to the extent that' the claim implicates any of the nine exceptions enumerated in 502(b)." Travelers Cas. & Sur. Co. of Am. V. Pac. Gas & Elec. Co., 549 U.S. 443, 449 (2007) (citing 11 U.S.C. 502(b)(1)-(9)). In other words, the burden is on the objecting party to provide a cognizable ground to disallow the claim.

(d) Merits

Debtors seek an order disallowing the secured and priority claims of the Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") (see Proof of Claim 6) and recharacterizing the entire debt as a general unsecured claim. The tentative ruling is that Debtors' arguments are confusing and largely unsupported by citations to applicable statutes and relevant legal authority.

Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to further continue this matter to the time and place stated at the start of this tentative ruling and direct Debtors to file a supplemental brief and any appropriate declaration(s) by 3/4/21 addressing the asserted grounds for the relief sought by Debtors, including but not limited to the following issues:

(i) Applicable statute of limitations, or similar alleged bar

Debtors argue that the "IRS tax lien is unenforceable as 10 years have passed since assessment of the tax" so the tax lien "has died of old age." (dkt. 41, p.2, para. "(2)"). But there is no citation to any statute to support Debtors' contention that an IRS tax lien becomes unenforceable ten years after the date of assessment (or ten years after the date the lien was recorded, or any other period of time). Nor have Debtors clearly set forth whatever dates are applicable.

To be clear, this Court recognizes that conceivably Debtors are entirely correct that a statute of limitations or repose, or a lien-expiration statute, or some similar bar might apply. But Debtors have not connected the dots to explain why that is so, as a factual and legal matter.

(ii) Retirement account

Debtors argue that the IRS cannot seize funds in the employer operated retirement account, because (w) the account is a qualified retirement plan under ERISA, (x) those funds are not property of the bankruptcy estate, and (y) Debtors do not have access to those funds because they are being held in trust with a restriction against any transfer of his beneficial interest.

Dkt. 41, pp.2, para. "(3)" & 3, para. "(9)". With the exception of a single reference to "U.S.C. 6334" (dkt. 41, p.2, para. "(3)") (which this Court presumes is a reference to 26 U.S.C. 6334), Debtors provide no legal authority explaining why any of these conclusory arguments have any merit.

Debtors do not include the text of 26 U.S.C. 6334 or any analysis of whether the Bankruptcy Code or some other State or Federal exemption scheme would apply to seizure of an asset that is not property of the bankruptcy estate. Nor do Debtors cite any subsection of 11 U.S.C. 541 excepting ERISA retirement accounts from becoming estate property, or any other authority prohibiting the transfer of protected trust res. This Court notes that Debtors attach an "account statement" (dkt. 41, PDF p.9) and printouts from a website (id., PDF pp.10-17), but neither is supported by a declaration purporting to establish their admissibility or otherwise explaining their relevance in the context of this claim objection.

Again, to be clear, this Court recognizes that conceivably Debtors are entirely correct that the funds in the retirement account are not property of the bankruptcy estate and/or cannot be subject to the IRS lien. But Debtors have not connected the dots to explain why that is so, as a factual and legal matter.

(iii) Debtors' argument that the IRS' secured claim impairs Debtors' exemption(s)

Debtors argue that "the property or estate is covered by bankruptcy exemptions USC section 6334" (dkt. 41, p.3, para. "(5)") and that the "claim is for tax assessed against property of the estate that exceeds the value of such property," (id., para. "(6)") but they cite no authority in support. This Court presumes Debtors are referring to 11 U.S.C. 502(b)(3), but it is not this Court's responsibility to make Debtors' arguments for them.

(iv) Alleged insufficiency of supporting documentation and alleged mismanagement

Debtors argue that the IRS has failed to attach sufficient documentation establishing that it holds a secured claim. Dkt. 41, p.3, para. "(5)". But lack of documentation, on its own, is not a sufficient basis to disallow a claim. See In re Heath, 331 B.R. 424 (9th Cir. BAP 2005).

Debtors also argue that claims of tax liability continue to be asserted by the IRS "despite their [sic] lack of knowledge, responsibility, financial control, and their best remedial efforts." Dkt. 41, p.3, para. "(7)." It is not clear what this means. Moreover, even if its is true that Debtors lack knowledge or "responsibility" in some broad sense, Debtors do not explain how any such facts would provide a viable legal basis to disallow and/or recharacterize the IRS's claim under 11 U.S.C. 502(b).

(v) Lack of grounds for treating entire claim as non-priority, or disallowing entire claim

Debtors appear to seek an order not only establishing that any IRS lien is unenforceable but also an order disallowing all claims of the IRS or, alternatively, treating them as nonpriority unsecured claims. It is unclear on what basis Debtors seek such relief.

Chapter 13

#22.00 Cont'd hrg re: Amended Motion in Individual Case
for Order Authorizing Use of Cash Collateral
fr. 12/17/20

Docket 32

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 2/18/21:
Appearances required.

Based on the arguments and representations of the parties on 12/17/20, this Court continued the matter to this date to allow time for them to negotiate the terms of a cash collateral stipulation. But after the hearing Debtor filed a motion to refinance the subject property and pay off First Commerce, LLC's lien in full, which this Court granted. See dkt. 36, 39. There is no tentative ruling. The parties should be prepared to address (1) whether the refinance transaction did or did not close; (2) whether, if the refinancing did close, there is a need for retroactive approval of Debtor's use of First Commerce, LLC's cash collateral prior to its payoff or whether that issue is now moot; and (3) whether there is a need for this Court to authorize prospective use of the new lender's cash collateral.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #1.00 Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor (pursuant to this Court's Procedures Order (dkt. 3), Debtor's principal is not required to appear at this Status Conference, but is required to appear at the status conference on 3/2/21 at 1:00 p.m.).

(1) Current issues

(a) Payroll motion (dkt. 19), order shortening time ("OST," dkt. 20), notice/proofs of service (dkt.22, 23)

On the one hand, service appears to be defective. On the other hand, subject to any opposition at the hearing, it appears that this Court can, and should, grant relief anyway.

(i) Defective service

As for service, the OST set this hearing on extremely short time - a hearing on 2/25/21 based on a telephonic request and motion on 2/22/21 - but in exchange Debtor was required to serve most creditors via overnight delivery, personal delivery, or other proper method of service, for receipt no later than 2/23/21. It appears that did not happen.

The proofs of service (dkt.22, 23) appear to show service on many creditors via U.S. mail, which is presumed to take 3 days (per Rule 9006(f), Fed. R. Bankr. P.) and therefore would arrive after the hearing. That is inadequate.

Many other creditors are shown as being served via email, and such service is ineffective absent consent (such as the consent provided by creditors who have agreed to be served via this Court's "NEF" system, by registering for CM/ECF privileges). The OST itself reminds litigants of that limitation. See dkt. 20, p.3 ("Service by electronic means (facsimile or email) requires compliance with F.R.Civ.P. 5(b)(2)(E)."); and see Rules 4(d) (waiving service) and 5(b)(2)(E) (regarding service via "electronic means that the person consented to in writing") (Fed. R. Civ. P.) (both incorporated by Rule 9014(b), Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

Chapter 11

Moreover, although it is not entirely clear what Bankruptcy Rules apply to a payroll motion, some sort of "notice and a hearing" or opportunity for a hearing are almost universally required for any sort of motions in bankruptcy cases. See generally 11 U.S.C. 102(1). Traditionally, payroll motions usually are required to be served on the 20 largest unsecured creditors and other types of key creditors, as the OST provides.

(ii) Granting relief anyway

Despite the foregoing concerns, this Court recognizes that paying employees usually is critical, both (A) for the benefit of all parties with a stake in maintaining a debtor's going concern value and (B) in fairness to the employees who are providing their labor in reliance on the promise of payment. In addition, this Court is authorized and required, "at any time" and "with or without a hearing," to condition the use of any property of the bankruptcy estate on whatever terms are necessary to provide adequate protection of any interest in such property (11 U.S.C. 363(e)); and in this instance the tentative ruling is that Debtor, as a debtor in possession acting as a trustee for the benefit of creditors and all parties in interest, is requesting the authority to use estate funds in a way that is necessary to protect the interests of persons with an interest in the bankruptcy estate, by paying employees and maintaining Debtor's going concern value. Therefore the tentative ruling is that this Court is authorized, and indeed required, to grant the payroll motion at this time, without a hearing or further notice; but with a warning to Debtor and its counsel that this is a truly exceptional type of motion and that usually the failure to serve papers as required by an OST and/or any applicable rules would result in denial of a motion.

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 2/5/21.

- (a) Bar date: 4/16/21 per General Order 20-01 (70 days after petition date in Subchapter V cases) (DO NOT SERVE any notice: one has already been sent, see dkt.16).
- (b) Procedures order: dkt.3 (timely served, dkt.9)
- (c) Plan/Disclosure Statement: file by 5/6/21 (DO NOT SERVE - except on the U.S. Trustee). See the revised "Procedures of Judge Bason" (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) (search for "Chapter 11: Plan").

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's refinance motion (dkt.1335, 1338); Opposition of Select Portfolio Servicing, Inc. The parties are directed to address the issues in the papers, including particularly (i) whether the "sub rosa" plan doctrine applies to Debtor's proposed refinancing and distribution of proceeds, and (ii) if an evidentiary hearing regarding valuation of the Paramour property is required, whether this Court should visit the property as requested by Debtor, and the schedule and procedures for any such evidentiary hearing.

(b) Debtor's transactions out of the ordinary course?

this Court (see the excerpts of the Tentative Ruling for that hearing, reproduced below). To memorialize this Court's oral ruling, the deadline for Debtor to file and serve her declaration(s) briefs is 3/2/21; the deadline for any response by parties in interest is 3/9/21; and the deadline for any reply by Debtor is 3/16/21. Thereafter this Court will determine whether to take the matter under submission, set a hearing, or take other action.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 3/6/18.

(a) Bar date: 8/24/18 (dkt. 367, timely served per dkt. 383)

(b) Plan/Disclosure Statement: TBD. See the revised "Procedures of Judge Bason" (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) (search for "Chapter 11: Plan").

(c) Continued status conference: 1/26/21 at 2:00 p.m. No written status report required.

(d) Limited Notice: A "Core Service List" has been established (see dkt.97, p.3:4-17, dkt.195), as modified by any updates (contact Debtor for latest list).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing. Pursuant to Judge Bason's COVID-19 procedures, all appearances are via ZoomGov. settlement agreement (dkt.547); ...
[Intentionally omitted.]

(b) Evidentiary rulings regarding Reconsideration Motion
[Intentionally omitted.]

(c) Debtor's transactions out of the ordinary course?

Debtor's status reports disclose that she has "restarted" her businesses of buying and selling antiques, clothing consulting, and design. See Stat.Rpts. (dkt.1296, p.4:8-11, and dkt. 1320, pp.4:22-5:1). See also Debtor Decl. (dkt.1322) p.9:1-6. Other papers filed by Debtor disclose that she is "manufacturing custom designer pillows (which typically sell between $500-$1,000 each)." Dkt. 1322, p.4:11-16 & 9:1-6. In addition, although renovations to the Paramour property (dkt.1322, p.8:22-28) might well qualify as "ordinary course," this Court has concerns about what Debtor means by "renovations" and whether they really are ordinary course.

As noted in the tentative ruling for the (continued) status conference on 12/8/20, Debtor is directed to address (i) how, if Debtor previously had ceased engaging in various lines of business, restarting those lines now would qualify as "ordinary course" (11 U.S.C. 363(b)) and (ii) the historical cost/benefit and risks of those businesses. This Court takes judicial notice that Debtor repeatedly has been warned that she and any affiliated businesses must not "reopen" businesses (or engage in any other transactions out of the ordinary course) without notice to parties in interest and prior approval by this Court.

In addition to the legal requirements, there are practical concerns about Debtor acting without notice. For example, reopening closed lines of business typically involves up-front costs that the estate might not recover if the business is not successful; and some lines of business could expose the estate to liabilities.

These concerns are heightened by the history of this case. This Court previously found and concluded that Debtor failed to notify parties in interest, even including the co-owner of the Cliff's Edge business, of her acts regarding that business. This Court also found and concluded that Debtor: ... has disregarded her duties as a trustee for the benefit of creditors by ... reopening the Bridge [Tavern, LLC, aka Villain's Tavern.] business without notice or authorization by this Court ...

[emphasis added]

Just as the debtor acknowledges that causing Bridge to sell its business is a transaction out of the ordinary course, so is causing Bridge to reopen its closed business [emphasis in original]. [Memorialization of [adopted] Tentative Rulings (dkt.239), at pp.13-14, para. "(d)"; see also id. (dkt.238, 239) passim.]

Alternatively, supposing for the sake of discussion that Debtor's reopening of businesses, renovations to the Paramour, and other activities can be shown to have been in the ordinary course of Debtor's business (which does not appear so, with the possible exception of renovations), at the very least Debtor was required to disclose the finances of every line of business. See Order (dkt.22), p.2:18-22 ("For all reporting purposes – including Monthly Operating Reports ('MORs'), disclosure statements, etc. – Debtor must disclose all income, expenses, assets, and liabilities of [any] affiliated businesses").

Contrary to that requirement, Debtor's MORs appear to provide only partial disclosure. Some individual items are listed - e.g., funds spent on "Items for resale." But there does not appear to be any separate accounting for different lines of the reopened business, nor any way to assess if any one line of business is losing money, making a profit, etc. Nor is it clear why some items are included in the DIP "general" account and others in the DIP "personal" account. Nor does Debtor's DIP Tax account appear to reflect any payment of sales taxes for any such businesses. See, e.g., MOR (11/30/20, dkt.1297), pp.2, 9 & 53; but cf. id. p.67 (P&L for Vintage Event Design, showing Nov. 2020 loss of $4,681.22).

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/2/21 for Debtor to file and serve papers responsive to the foregoing concerns, including:

(A) detailed statements of the historical and current profits or losses of each line of business engaged in by Debtor, including all associated expenses (except that, to the extent such information is already included in MORs or other filed documents, Debtor may incorporate specific information by reference);

(B) the exact time periods in which those business were operated historically and currently;

(C) what regulatory requirements apply to such businesses, including any permits, sales taxes, employment taxes, etc., and whether Debtor is in full compliance with all such regulatory requirements;

(D) whether Debtor is competent to run each line of business in which she is engaged;
(E) the potential risks of any such businesses; and
(F) what renovations have been performed at the Paramour, whether those renovations were performed by licensed contractors, whether permits were obtained for such renovations, the cost of such renovations, the increase in room rates or other revenues as a result of such renovations, and any other relevant information regarding such renovations.

For example, with respect to potential risks, the tentative ruling is that Debtor must address any liabilities to which the bankruptcy estate might be exposed if Debtor's pillows do not have fire-resistant filling or, conversely, if they have such filling but it causes allergic reactions. More broadly, Debtor must address whether she is competent to run her businesses - is she aware of issues such as fire retardance requirements, what furniture is or is not "antique," etc.?

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 2/11/21 for any other party in interest who chooses to file and serve response papers to address whether Debtor has violated her duties and what consequences should follow, and a deadline of 2/18/21 for any reply by Debtor. Then this Court anticipates determining whether to issue an order directing Debtor to show cause why this Court should not impose sanctions or other consequences, such as restricting or terminating her authorization to act as debtor in possession.

Grant.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

#12.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [PP]

MERCEDES-BENZ FINANCIAL SERVICES
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 14

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

#5.00 Cont'd hrg re: Motion to Approve Stipulation Among Chapter 7 Trustee, the United States of America on Behalf of its Agency, the Internal Revenue Service, and the California Franchise Tax Board, for Avoidance of Liens that Secure Claims of a Kind Specified in Bankruptcy Code Section 724(a) fr. 2/9/21

Docket 32

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 3/2/21:
Appearances required.

The tentative ruling is to (i) grant the Trustee's motion to approve stipulation with the IRS and FTB and overrule Debtor's opposition, and (ii) continue the hearing on the Trustee's objection to Debtor's amended homestead exemption to 6/1/21 at 11:00 a.m.

Proposed orders: The Trustee is directed to lodge proposed orders via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling to the order approving the stipulation, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Key documents reviewed:

Avoidance Motion: Trustee's Motion to approve stipulation among Chapter 7 Trustee, the United States on behalf of its agency, the Internal Revenue, and the California Franchise Tax Board, for avoidance of liens that secure claims of a kind specified in bankruptcy code section 724(a) (dkt. 32, "Avoidance Motion"), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 37), Trustee's reply (dkt. 41), Debtor's unauthorized sur-reply (dkt. 43), IRS's response (dkt. 44)

Amended Exemption"); Trustee's Motion for order disallowing Claim of Exemption (dkt. 38, "Homestead Objection"), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 45), Trustee's reply (dkt. 46)

Reasons:

(a) Background

Debtor filed this chapter 7 case on 7/2/19. Concurrent with the petition, Debtor filed her Schedule A disclosing her interest as "Trustee of the Morgan Family Trust" in real property located at 19911 Scobey Avenue, Carson, CA 90746 (the "Property") (dkt. 1, pdf p.12) and Schedule C asserting a homestead exemption in the Property, up to the fair market value, pursuant to "CCP 704.730(a)(3)(A); CCP 703.140(b)(1) and CCP 703.140(b)(5)" (id., p.22, the "Original Homestead Exemption").

On 8/19/19 Debtor filed an Amended Schedule C asserting a homestead exemption in the Property in the amount of $175,000 pursuant to CCP 704.730(a)(3) (dkt. 14, the "First Amended Homestead Exemption"). No party in interest timely objected to Debtor's First Amended Homestead Exemption within the time limits prescribed by Rule 4003(b)(1) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

On 1/5/21 the Trustee filed the Avoidance Motion. In response, Debtor filed an opposition and the Second Amended Exemption (dkt. 36). The Trustee then filed the Homestead Objection. Both matters have been fully briefed.

(b) Avoidance Motion

The Trustee seeks approval of a stipulation between the estate, on the one hand, and the Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") and Franchise Tax Board ("FTB"), on the other hand, pursuant to which the parties have stipulated to avoid and preserve certain portions of the IRS and FTB's secured claims for the benefit of the estate pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 724(a) provided that the Trustee market and sell the Property and distribute the sale proceeds in accordance with the terms of the parties agreement. Debtor argues that the proposed stipulation impairs her claimed homestead exemption on several grounds but, for the reasons set forth below, Debtor's arguments miss the point.

First, Debtor's right to receive sale proceeds pursuant to a claimed homestead exemption is not absolute; it is entirely dependent upon whether there is any equity in the homestead after deducting all secured claims (including both voluntary mortgage liens and involuntary tax liens). See 11 U.S.C. 522(b)(3)(C); see also In re Tillman, 2020 Bankr. LEXIS 1902, at *13 (Bankr. D. Ariz. July 17, 2020 (debtor could not use exemption because "[t]he value of Debtor's interest in the property, at all times, was no greater than the value of the Property, less the voluntary BofA lien ... and less the involuntary lien held by the IRS").

Accordingly, if Debtor's Property were to be sold for $650,000 as hypothesized in the Trustee's motion, but without the contemplated settlement, this Court has calculated that the sale proceeds would be distributed as follows:

Sale price:	$650,000
Less secured claim of Chase Bank:	($179,689)
Less secured claim of Bank of America:	($86,159)
Less secured claim of IRS:	($197,060.82)
Less secured claim of FTB:	($41,650.27)
Less 8% costs of sale:	($52,000)
Less anticipated capital gains tax:	($60,000)

Second, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. sections 724(a) and 551, the Trustee can avoid a tax lien and preserve the value of the avoided lien for the benefit of the estate. Once the tax lien is avoided, the Trustee inherits the position of the entity whose lien was avoided. Tillman, 2020 Bankr. LEXIS 1902, at *16-17.

Accordingly, if this Court approves the proposed settlement providing for the avoidance of certain portions of the IRS and FTB's liens and Debtor's property sells for $650,000, this Court has calculated that the sale proceeds would be distributed as follows:

Sale price:	$650,000
Less secured claim of Chase Bank:	($179,689)
Less secured claim of Bank of America:	($86,159)
Less reduced secured IRS claim:	($118,459.31)
Less estate's carve-out from avoided IRS claim:	($78,601.51)
Less reduced secured FTB claim:	($20,121.96)
Less estate's carve-out from avoided FTB claim:	($21,528.31)
Less 8% costs of sale:	($52,000)

Chapter 7

Less anticipated capital gains tax: ($60,000)

Under either of the above scenarios, Debtor's entitlement to any proceeds from her claimed homestead exemption would not exceed $33,441.91. (Caveat: This Court has obtained the above dollar amounts from various filed documents in this case, and believes they are accurate; but, supposing for the sake of discussion that there were a mistake in any of this Court's numbers, any error by this Court would not be binding on any party because this is only an illustration, and the overall point remains that Debtor is not entitled to funds covered by liens - under the Bankruptcy Code, the liens are for the benefit of either the tax authorities or the estate, not Debtor.)

Therefore, Debtor has failed to establish that the proposed stipulation would somehow prejudice her interests or is not in the best interest of the estate. Rather, pursuant to the terms of the stipulation, the parties have agreed to carve-out additional funds so that Debtor would receive at least $54,488.03 in funds. Dkt. 32, p.5:13-14.

In fact, as the above calculations show, Debtor arguably is receiving a windfall, and theoretically her creditors could object that she should receive less than what the stipulation provides. But it is in the nature of settlements that some leeway is appropriate. No party in interest has objected, let alone established that the Trustee has abused his discretion in his proposed allocation of the funds received by the estate among the IRS priority claim, general unsecured creditors, costs of administration (voluntarily reduced), and Debtor. To the contrary, the Trustee and his professionals appear to be reducing their own compensation to achieve an equitable result for Debtor and all creditors.

For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is to grant the Avoidance Motion and approve the stipulation.

(c) Homestead Objection

The Trustee also seeks an order disallowing Debtor's Second Amended Homestead Exemption on the grounds that Debtor does not qualify for an increased homestead exemption under the newly enacted California Assembly Bill 1885 because it was not in effect as of the petition date. But the Trustee does not appear to be objecting to Debtor retaining the $175,000 exemption claimed in her First Amended Homestead Exemption (dkt. 41, p.3:1-3) and based on this Court's calculations set forth above, if the Property sells for $650,000 Debtor would only be entitled to $33,441.91 from the sale proceeds (or $54,488.03 pursuant to the Stipulation). Therefore, it is unnecessary for this Court to decide whether Debtor is entitled to a $175,000 or $600,000 homestead exemption unless the net sale price after payment of all liens exceeds $175,000. For example, suppose the Property sells for $800,000:

Sale price:	$800,000
Less secured claim of Chase Bank:	($179,689)
Less secured claim of Bank of America:	($86,159)
Less reduced secured IRS claim:	($118,459.31)
Less estate's carve-out from avoided IRS claim:	($78,601.51)
Less reduced secured FTB claim:	($20,121.96)
Less estate's carve-out from avoided FTB claim:	($21,528.31)
Less 8% costs of sale:	($64,000)
Less anticipated capital gains tax:	(~ $60,000)
Total equity left for Debtor's homestead exemption:	$179,441

Under this hypothetical, it might make a difference whether Debtor were entitled to a greater homestead exemption than $175,000 because the net sales proceeds could exceed that amount depending upon the estimated capital gains taxes. The tentative ruling is to set a continued hearing as set forth at the start of this ruling to allow time for the Trustee to market and sell the Property.

(d) The pandemic, and housing concerns

Debtor notes that she is in her 70s, the Covid-19 pandemic is dangerous, family who potentially could take her in are not living nearby, and she might be exposed to health risks if she loses her home now. This Court is very much aware of and concerned by those issues; but this Court is not aware of any legal authority that would enable Debtor not to pay her creditors but to retain her home based on the issues she has highlighted.

The best this Court can do is to encourage the Trustee to work with Debtor to attempt to minimize any danger from the Trustee showing and selling the property, and Debtor moving out. In addition, this Court notes that

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

(A) Current issues

This Court has reviewed the status report (adv.dkt. 10) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(1) Informal settlement discussions; compliance with rules; deadlines

Defendant has signed the status report, without legal counsel. She has not filled in any of the information to be provided by defendants on the form.

If the parties have not reached a settlement by the time of this status conference, the tentative ruling is (a) to caution Defendant that in future she must follow applicable rules (e.g., filling out status reports) and (b) to direct both parties to address whether mediation would be helpful and whether this Court should adopt the discovery cutoff and other deadlines set forth below.

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation

Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/16/21 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 12/11/20. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 3/2/21:

Appearances required.

(A) Current issues

(1) Status of settlement negotiations

Based on the arguments and representations of the parties present at the hearing on 1/26/21, this Court continued the matter to this date to allow time for the nondefaulting parties to engage in potential settlement discussions. There is no tentative ruling. The parties should be prepared to provide an update on the status of any discussions and whether this Court should order the matter to mediation.

(2) Service on corporate defendant

Plaintiff/Debtor's status report (adv. dkt. 13) states that the corporate defendant's name has been changed and

Its address [sic] ... [was] not initially served [i.e., the right entity was served, but at the wrong address?] ... (a different entity with a confusingly similar name was served) [i.e., the wrong entity was served at the right defendant's address? or the wrong entity was served at a different address?] and accordingly the default entered against this party [which party? the actual corporate defendant, or the other entity with the similar name?] should be vacated [- but see below questioning whether or not default should be vacated]. * * * Several questions emerge which should be addressed at the status conference.

1. Should the default be vacated? [i.e., is Plaintiff/Debtor suggesting that the default against the wrong entity should be vacated, but the default against the right entity should be entered instead, on the theory that service on the right entity using its old name was good enough? or does Plaintiff/Debtor mean something different?]

2. Should the adversary complaint be amended to specifically name LOS ANGELES FARMERS, INC. [the current name of the corporate defendant]?

3. Is a new summons required?

4. Was service on LOS ANGELES FARMERS, INC. [i.e., the right entity] properly executed on February 10 despite the name change?

Counsel is eager to push the case forward and seeks the court's guidance on these issues. [Emphasis added.]

The tentative ruling is that this Bankruptcy Court cannot provide legal advice to any party, but that (a) the complaint must be amended to include the actual name of all defendants and (b) if counsel for Plaintiff wishes to obtain a default judgment against the corporate defendant (despite whatever facts might establish deficiencies in service) then counsel will need to cite authority that service using an old name (or other possible deficiency) is sufficient. The parties are invited to address these and the other issues raised by Plaintiff/Debtor.

Meanwhile, it appears that Plaintiff/Debtor is conceding that the clerk's default (adv. dkt. 9) was entered against the wrong entity, and therefore that clerk's default should be vacated. The tentative ruling is to direct Plaintiff/Debtor to lodge a proposed order vacating that clerk's default (without prejudice to seeking a new default as against the correct entity, if appropriate).

Counsel for Plaintiff/Debtor is requested in future to provide more specific descriptions in any status report of the actual facts and circumstances, so that other parties and this Court do not have to spend time attempting to understand the status that is being reported.

Proposed order: Plaintiff/Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order vacating the clerk's default via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 3/2/21:

Continue to 4/6/21 at 11:00 a.m. to allow time for Plaintiff/Trustee to implement the terms of the parties settlement resolving this dispute (see main case, dkt. 38 & 45), subject to being vacated if this proceeding is dismissed before that time. Appearances are not required on 3/2/21.

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); *Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. (2) Mediation

Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 11/10/20 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 7/24/20. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

The tentative ruling is that this Court has neither the authority nor the inclination to excuse non-compliance with these rules. It is true that this double service requirement is the exact opposite of typical non-bankruptcy practice, in which it is generally impermissible to serve a represented party personally; but there are good reasons for the double

Analysis:

This Court has reviewed the Motion for Relief from Stay (dkt. 26, 28), Debtor's Opposition (dkt. 30), Movant's reply (dkt. 35), and the other filed documents and records in this case, including Debtor's Bankruptcy Schedules (dkt. 10). It appears that the Movant (Alexander Rhodes) and similarly situated persons Aaron M. Minc and Donald L. Hilton, Jr. (collectively, "Plaintiffs") (see, e.g., dkt. 20-28) have long-running disputes including nonbankruptcy litigation with Debtor involving mutual accusations of false and harmful statements posted in various internet fora. See, e.g., dkt. 26, Ex. 1, pp. 6:15–28, 7:1–10.

It appears that Plaintiffs seek (1) nondischargeable monetary judgments under 11 U.S.C. 523 and/or (2) injunctive relief, including for alleged postpetition statements. See, e.g., Reply (dkt. 35), p.4:9-18 (alleged postpetition statements). Meanwhile, Debtor appears to allege that Plaintiffs have engaged in an ongoing scheme to defame and harass her, including alleged threats or encouragement of threats of violence against her.

Based on the foregoing summary, and the following additional analysis, this matter appears to be crying out for mediation.

(1) Cost/benefit for Plaintiffs

(a) Costs

Litigation is expensive. For Plaintiffs that expense now includes two motions for relief from the automatic stay that are each over 1,000 pages in length - which is extraordinary (and, as an aside, not very effective). Although those 1,000 pages might not have involved a lot of care and attention - they include a large volume of hearsay and repetition - nevertheless it must have taken more than a minimal amount of time for attorneys to assemble those 1,000 pages, and that is just one tiny aspect of the parties' litigation.

The parties have also engaged in discovery disputes and motion practice about jurisdiction and venue in nonbankruptcy courts. That is only the beginning. In other words, the costs of litigation are likely to be very substantial.

(b) Benefits

As for any monetary benefit, even if Plaintiffs were to prevail in their nondischargeability litigation, their judgments probably would be uncollectible. Debtor alleges that she has $-0- of current income, not much future earning capacity (based on her reported past income), and no assets that can be seized (nothing other than exempt retirement funds etc.). Dkt. 10, passim.

Of course, this Court recognizes that Plaintiffs believe Debtor has failed to report assets and earning capacity. But even if, for example, Debtor has omitted one or more grants to engage in research, that does not mean that Debtor ultimately could pay any nondischargeable judgment. This Court takes judicial notice that most such grants do not result in any great income - most of the grant tends to be spent on employees and other expenses, leaving only a modest income for the principal researcher(s).

In addition, even if (a) Plaintiffs were to obtain nondischargeable judgments and (b) Debtor's income were greater than it appears, either now or in future, that might not make the judgments any more collectible. Debtor might well be able to evade collection for a few years and then file a chapter 13 bankruptcy case and obtain the "superdischarge." That might well eliminate any nondischargeable debts of the type that Plaintiffs seek. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 523(a)(6) and 1328(a)(2)&(4) (superdischarge of debts even if they involved willful or malicious behavior).

As for any injunctive relief, Plaintiffs may face an uphill battle in any attempt to obtain a prior restraint on Debtor's rights of free speech. In addition, unless a court is willing to grant a sweeping restraint, there may be more litigation every time the parties post their views and one of them alleges defamation or similar claims.

In sum, if Plaintiffs pursue litigation they might well spend a lot, and get little or no effective monetary or injunctive relief.

(2) Cost/benefit for Debtor

(a) Costs

On the one hand, at least some of Debtor's litigation expenses appear to be covered under an insurance policy. But as Debtor has noted, the provider has cautioned that coverage might not extend to future litigation expenses and/or judgments. See dkt. 30, p.6:8-25 & Ex. B at PDF pp.68-70. In addition, some litigation expenses apparently are not covered even now, because Debtor alleges that defending against these actions pushed her into bankruptcy. Dkt. 30, p.5:14-17.

Moreover, costs are not measured in dollars and cents alone. Debtor's time is valuable, and it could be eaten up by Plaintiffs' multiple lawsuits, against which she will have to defend herself on multiple fronts, That will take away from her ability to gain a fresh start and move on with her life.

(b) Benefits

As for any counterclaims by Debtor against Plaintiffs, they would be expensive to litigate. In addition, on the (admittedly very limited) record presented to this Court, any such counterclaims appear to be unlikely to result in any financial recoveries or injunctive relief, for the reasons discussed below.

(3) Obstacles to either Debtor or Plaintiffs achieving "vindication"

No doubt both Debtor and the Plaintiffs hope to achieve vindication of their positions through litigation. That seems unlikely.

This Court has reviewed the more-than 1,000 pages filed by Movant, as well as Debtor's opposition, the complaints in the adversary proceedings, and the other filed documents in this case. Although this Court is not at this time reviewing the elements of any claims or defenses for defamation or other alleged acts or omissions - and although this Court does not in any way wish to pre-judge any issues - it seems likely that any judge or jury would have a great many ways in which to find a lack of intent, a lack of cognizable damage, or other missing elements or successful defenses to both sides' claims. The path to any truly satisfactory vindication seems very narrow and difficult.

To be clear, the parties' competing tweets and other communications might well include untrue accusations and very offensive statements. But some of those things might well be understandable in context, and others are ambiguous or might be based on justifiable misunderstandings or reactions in the heat of the moment. A clear vindication seems unlikely.

(4) Mediation is flexible and powerful

In this Court's experience, mediation can result in much more effective and useful resolution than litigation. That does not mean either side is happy. But often it is still the best result.

For example, perhaps Debtor could agree that, instead of posting her own comments regarding Movant or NoFap, she could instead notify Movant of whatever content she finds offensive or threatening and believes might be attributable to Movant or his affiliates, and then Movant would be obligated to post a comment reiterating the NoFap terms of use and stating that NoFap does not condone certain posts. Or perhaps the parties could agree that Tweets would be reported to Twitter, using agreed language of some sort.

These are only hypothetical examples, and perhaps they completely miss the mark. But that is actually the point. This Court, or any judge or jury, might well miss the mark in any litigation. In contrast, the parties themselves know best what they want, and mediation might help them achieve more of that than any judge or jury could award.

(5) Conclusion

The tentative ruling is to continue this hearing on the motion for relief from stay to 2/9/21 at 10:00 a.m., with a deadline of 12/22/20 to lodge a proposed order appointing a mediator and directing the parties to mediation.

If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing. Pursuant to Judge Bason's COVID-19 procedures, all appearances are via ZoomGov. (1) Mandatory Mediation

This Court continued the 2/9/21 hearing on this matter to allow the parties to participate in the mediation scheduled for the same time. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address the status of the mediation proceedings.

(2) Service

In its tentative ruling for the 2/9/21 hearing, this Court directed Debtor to file with the Court a completed proof of service for her opposition (dkt. 60) no later than February 16, 2021. As of the date this tentative ruling was prepared, no completed proof of service has been filed. The service issue notwithstanding, has Movant had an opportunity to review the opposition? If so, Movant is directed to reply to the opposition, which reply may be made orally at the hearing.

Tentative Ruling for 2/9/21:

Continue to 3/2/21 at 11:00 a.m. for the reasons set forth below.

Appearances are not required on 2/9/21.

(1) Mandatory Mediation

At the 12/8/20 hearing, this Court ordered mandatory mediation and continued the hearing to 2/9/21. The Court has been informed that that mediation is scheduled for 2/9/21. See dkt. 65. The tentative ruling is to continue this matter to the date and time set forth above to be heard contemporaneously with the other matters ordered to mediation.

(2) Service

Debtor has filed an opposition to the motion for relief from automatic stay. Dkt. 60. The proof of service included with the opposition is blank (dkt. 60, PDF p. 4) and movant does not appear on the list of recipients of electronic notice. The tentative ruling is that Debtor must properly serve movant with the opposition, if she has not done so already, and to file with the Court a completed proof of service no later than February 16, 2021.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 12/8/20:

Order mandatory mediation. Appearances required by Movant and (subject to any reservation of rights regarding service) by Debtor.

The tentative ruling is to order mandatory mediation for the reasons stated in calendar no. 4 (12/8/20 at 10:00 a.m.). Meanwhile, the tentative ruling is to order a continuance to 2/9/21 at 10:00 a.m., with a deadline of 12/22/20 to lodge a proposed order appointing a mediator and directing the parties to mediation, and a deadline of 12/15/20 to correct the following issue regarding service.

Service

The proof of service does not show service on both (i) Debtor's counsel and (ii) Debtor individually ("double service"), as required by Rules 7004(b)(9)&(g) and 9014(a), Fed. R. Bankr. P.). Although the proof of service (dkt. 25) lists Debtor's name, the corresponding address does not match the Debtor's mailing address. The tentative ruling is that this Court has neither the authority nor the inclination to excuse non-compliance with these rules. It is true that this double service requirement is the exact opposite of typical non-bankruptcy practice, in which it is generally impermissible to serve a represented party personally; but there are good reasons for the double service rule in bankruptcy. It helps protect Debtor and the bankruptcy estate (i.e., all parties in interest) from matters "falling through the cracks" given the high volume and speed of matters in typical bankruptcy cases, and the frequent use of service via U.S. mail.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #1.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case
fr. 02/25/21

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 3/2/21:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor and Debtor's principal.

(1) Current issues

(a) Budget motion

Debtor's status report states that a budget motion is not required by the presiding judge's procedures. Stat.Rpt. (dkt. 17), p.3. That is wrong (see posted "Procedures of Judge Bason," available at cacb.uscourts.gov).

Judge Bason recognizes that most transactions in the "ordinary course" do not require court approval. 11 U.S.C. 362(b)&(c). But debtors in bankruptcy have been known to misunderstand or mischaracterize what is "ordinary course." See generally In re Dant & Russell, Inc., 853 F.2d 700, 703-06 & nn.4-7 (9th Cir. 1988) (horizontal and vertical tests for what is "ordinary course").

Judge Bason also recognizes that Debtor claims to be operating at a loss because of "the cost of doing business in California" and the COVID-19 pandemic. Stat.Rpt. (dkt.17), Addendum, p.1:21-24 (at PDF p.13). But, as Debtor discloses in its attorneys' employment application, it shares services with affiliates "including" (but perhaps not limited to) "shared marketing, customer service, accounting, and staffing." Dkt.13, p.3:2-3. In such situations there is a danger that, for example, Debtor could be unintentionally or intentionally over-paying for such services (measured by the horizontal or vertical test), possibly as a way of (i) transferring funds to affiliates without having to make equity distributions and (ii) reducing its reported income.

Such concerns about potential under-disclosure of Debtor's income (and value) are heightened because Debtor contemplates that insiders will purchase substantially all of Debtor's assets as a going concern, apparently without overbids. Debtor claims that its business only has value to insiders, and that "the costs of conducting an auction sale to third parties" would be too

To be clear, this Court makes no presumption that Debtor is actually engaging in any overpayments to affiliates, nor whether any transfers to affiliates would be improper in any way (e.g., some tax planning is entirely legal and appropriate). The point is only that, without disclosure, there is no way to know.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/9/21 for Debtor to file and serve its budget motion, together with whatever briefing and declaration(s) are necessary or appropriate to address the foregoing issues.

(b) Affiliate reporting

Debtor requests to be excused from this Court's requirement that it disclose all income, expenses, assets, and liabilities of its affiliates because it is part of a larger structure and requiring such disclosure would be expensive and burdensome. Dkt. 17, PDF p.14:19-22. But Debtor fails to provide any meaningful discussion of what "larger structure" Debtor refers to, who its affiliates are, or how creditors can have an understanding of Debtor's shared services with affiliates (such as accounting, marketing, etc.), without disclosure of affiliates' finances. Debtor is directed at the Status Conference to provide further detail about its corporate structure and why this Court's reporting requirements would be overly burdensome, relative to the benefits to creditors of the additional disclosures.

The tentative ruling is that on an interim basis only partial disclosure will be required, but such partial disclosure must provide parties in interest, including the Subchapter V Trustee, with adequate information to assess the costs and benefits of Debtor's transfers to and from affiliates. The tentative ruling is that if such partial disclosure is inadequate, then full disclosure will be required.

For example, it would be insufficient to disclose that Debtor contributes no net income to its family of affiliates while receiving benefits such as accounting services (preparation of tax returns). That hypothetical disclosure would paint a picture of Debtor receiving far more than it gives; but the hypothetical fails to disclose all transfers to affiliates, including payments for supplies, shared services, etc. Nor would such a hypothetical disclosure provide any sense of whether the accounting services provided to Debtor are greater or less than such services provided to affiliates (either in absolute terms, or relative to the size of affiliates' budgets). In sum, such a hypothetical disclosure would not provide adequate information for any cost/benefit assessment.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/23/21 for whatever briefing and declaration(s) are necessary or appropriate to address the foregoing issues.

(c) Apparent non-disclosure of affiliate transactions

As noted above, Debtor's shared services with affiliates were disclosed in the employment application of its bankruptcy counsel. This Court is concerned that associated disclosures were not made in other documents that appear to require such disclosures.

(i) No prepetition transfers reported in Statement Of Financial Affairs ("SOFA")

Questions 3, 4, and 30 of Debtor's SOFA (dkt.1, p.11, at PDF p.49) require disclosure of all transfers of anything of value to creditors (whether or not they are affiliates) within 90 days prepetition and all transfers to insiders (which includes affiliates) within one year prepetition. Debtor does not disclose any such transfers, despite Debtor's extensive shared services with its affiliates, and despite well over $2 million owed to apparent affiliates with "Elite" in their name. See Bankruptcy Schedule E/F, dkt.1, p.6, at PDF p.26.

Is it really true that Debtor's affiliates provided millions of dollars of services over several years, but did not require any payments at all from Debtor during the year prepetition? If Debtor really was losing money at such a drastic rate, why did the affiliates continue to fund Debtor and why are they interested in purchasing Debtor's assets as a going concern?

(ii) No postpetition transfers reported in Status Reports

Similarly, despite the extensive shared services, Debtor's chapter 11 status report (dkt.17) asserts that Debtor has not made any postpetition transfers to insiders - which includes affiliates (11 U.S.C. 101(31)(E)). See Status Report (dkt.17), p.3, item B.3. Is that really true?

(iii) Postpetition loans, or equity contributions?

If Debtor's affiliates really have been subsidizing it postpetition, have they been extending credit to Debtor without notice and a hearing? See 11 U.S.C. 364. Alternatively, perhaps Debtor's affiliates have been making equity contributions rather than loans; but again that only heightens the concern that the affiliates' willingness to fund Debtor and purchase its assets as a going concern seems inconsistent with Debtor's assertion that it consistently operates at a loss.

In any event, neither any loans nor any equity contributions from affiliates are disclosed in the employment application of Debtor's proposed bankruptcy counsel. Why not?

(iv) Caveat

Again, this Court makes no presumptions regarding what actually has or has not occurred, or whether there is anything wrong with what Debtor and its affiliates and proposed bankruptcy counsel have done. On their face, Debtor's disclosures appear to show that its affiliates have been extraordinarily generous and forgiving when it comes to extending credit or equity contributions to Debtor, and perhaps a sale to affiliates is the only way to preserve jobs and maximize any recovery for creditors. But without further disclosures it is impossible to know if Debtor's representations are accurate.

(d) Funding of Debtor's proposed bankruptcy counsel by affiliates

The employment application of Debtor's counsel (dkt. 13, 14, 15) discloses such counsel received $50,000 in funds from Debtor's 63% member and general unsecured creditor, Elite GG&K Associates, LLC ("Elite GGK"). Empl.App. (dkt. 13), pp.6:26-7:13. Although Debtor and its proposed counsel assert that the $50,000 was a gift, there is no declaration from Elite GGK saying so, and verifying the other representations by Debtor's proposed counsel. In addition, Elite GGK has a prepetition claim of $857,000.00. See Bankruptcy Schedule E/F (dkt.1), p.6 (at PDF p.26).

As stated in the "Posted Procedures of Judge Bason" (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov):

Retainer paid by third party. Declarations and/or briefs generally are required to address the ethical concerns involved whenever a retainer is paid by a third party. See Cal. Rule of Prof'l Conduct 1.8.6; In re 9469 Beverly Crest, LLC (Case No. 2:19-bk-20000-NB, dkt.44).

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/9/21 for Debtor to file and serve whatever briefing and declaration(s) are necessary or appropriate to address the foregoing issues.

Tentative Ruling for 2/25/21:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor (pursuant to this Court's Procedures Order (dkt. 3), Debtor's principal is not required to appear at this Status Conference, but is required to appear at the status conference on 3/2/21 at 1:00 p.m.).

(1) Current issues

(a) Payroll motion (dkt. 19), order shortening time ("OST," dkt. 20), notice/proofs of service (dkt.22, 23)

On the one hand, service appears to be defective. On the other hand, subject to any opposition at the hearing, it appears that this Court can, and should, grant relief anyway.

(i) Defective service

Chapter 11

As for service, the OST set this hearing on extremely short time - a hearing on 2/25/21 based on a telephonic request and motion on 2/22/21 - but in exchange Debtor was required to serve most creditors via overnight delivery, personal delivery, or other proper method of service, for receipt no later than 2/23/21. It appears that did not happen.

The proofs of service (dkt.22, 23) appear to show service on many creditors via U.S. mail, which is presumed to take 3 days (per Rule 9006(f), Fed. R. Bankr. P.) and therefore would arrive after the hearing. That is inadequate.

Many other creditors are shown as being served via email, and such service is ineffective absent consent (such as the consent provided by creditors who have agreed to be served via this Court's "NEF" system, by registering for CM/ECF privileges). The OST itself reminds litigants of that limitation. See dkt. 20, p.3 ("Service by electronic means (facsimile or email) requires compliance with F.R.Civ.P. 5(b)(2)(E)."); and see Rules 4(d) (waiving service) and 5(b)(2)(E) (regarding service via "electronic means that the person consented to in writing") (Fed. R. Civ. P.) (both incorporated by Rule 9014(b), Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

Moreover, although it is not entirely clear what Bankruptcy Rules apply to a payroll motion, some sort of "notice and a hearing" or opportunity for a hearing are almost universally required for any sort of motions in bankruptcy cases. See generally 11 U.S.C. 102(1). Traditionally, payroll motions usually are required to be served on the 20 largest unsecured creditors and other types of key creditors, as the OST provides.

(ii) Granting relief anyway

Despite the foregoing concerns, this Court recognizes that paying employees usually is critical, both (A) for the benefit of all parties with a stake in maintaining a debtor's going concern value and (B) in fairness to the employees who are providing their labor in reliance on the promise of payment. In addition, this Court is authorized and required, "at any time" and "with or without a hearing," to condition the use of any property of the bankruptcy estate on whatever terms are necessary to provide adequate protection of any interest in such property (11 U.S.C. 363(e)); and in this instance the tentative ruling is that Debtor, as a debtor in possession acting as a trustee for the benefit of creditors and all parties in interest, is requesting the authority to use estate funds in a way that is necessary to protect the interests of persons with an interest in the bankruptcy estate, by paying employees and maintaining Debtor's going concern value. Therefore the tentative ruling is that this Court is authorized, and indeed required, to grant the payroll motion at this time, without a hearing or further notice; but with a warning to Debtor and its counsel that this is a truly exceptional type of motion and that usually the failure to serve papers as required by an OST and/or any applicable rules would result in denial of a motion.

Tentative Ruling for 11/10/20:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by Debtor's principal, Wayne Tsang.

(1) Current issues

This Court has reviewed Debtor's status reports (dkt.12, 13) and the other filed documents and records in this case.

(a) Executory contract(s)?

Debtor reports (dkt.12, p.2) that its "sole asset in an income producing contractual interest" and this bankruptcy case was precipitated by arbitration of a contract dispute and "lack of information/income from main asset." This implies that Debtor is a party to a contract that might be executory (although that is not necessarily so). Debtor also reports (dkt.12, p.7) that it has no executory contracts: is that accurate?

(b) Employment application (dkt.16)

In connection with the pending employment application of proposed bankruptcy counsel (dkt.16), Debtor's principal, Mr. Tsang, declares that Alkterra Capital "paid the pre-petition retainer of $76,717.00" to proposed bankruptcy counsel "as a gift" for which it will not seek reimbursement, and that "[o]ther than shared leadership/ownership, Alkterra Capital has no connections to, or claims against, the Debtor." Dkt.16, p.11:10-13 There is no disclosure about the business form of Alkterra Capital.

Chapter 11

Supposing that Alkterra Capital is a corporation or similar type of business subject to the laws of California or similar laws, this Court is concerned that investors in Alkterra Capital could in future seek to avoid its gift as a constructively fraudulent transfer, or bring similar claims. That possibility could be used as leverage to influence Mr. Tsang's management of this bankruptcy estate, or otherwise cause potential conflicts of interest.

Have any investors in Alkterra Capital been fully informed as to its gift to Debtor, and have they provided their written consent, and/or whatever else might be required (e.g., a vote)? Does the gift implicate bankruptcy-related concerns in any other ways?

Because it might take time to obtain any responses/authorizations, the tentative ruling is to set the employment application for hearing fairly far in the future, concurrent with the continued status conference (see below). The tentative ruling is not to alter the current deadline for any response to the employment application (14 days after it was filed/served), but to set a supplemental deadline of 12/8/20 for Debtor to file a declaration or other papers addressing this Court's concerns set forth above, and a deadline of 12/15/20 for the United States Trustee to file any response it may elect to file on that issue.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 3/2/21:

Appearances required.

(A) Current Issues

The parties are directed to address the scheduling and scope of this Bankruptcy Court's pretrial proceedings. That includes (1) procedures for entry of the final pretrial order, (2) whether this Bankruptcy Court should hear motions in limine, and (3) whether this Bankruptcy Court should address other pretrial issues such as objections to jury instructions.

(1) Procedures for entry of the final pretrial order

This Bankruptcy Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv. dkt. 29), District Judge Bernal's order partially withdrawing the reference (the "Withdrawal Order," adv. dkt. 15, Ex.1), this Bankruptcy Court's modified scheduling order (adv. dkt. 22), the District Court's minute order setting the trial and related deadlines (the "Bernal Minute Order," adv. dkt. 28, Ex.A), and the other filed papers and records of this Court. This Court has also reviewed Judge Bernal's posted form of Civil Trial Scheduling Order (the "Bernal Scheduling Form") and the District Court's posted form of Final Pretrial Conference Order (the "Local Pretrial Order").

This Court notes that the Withdrawal Order provides:

All pretrial proceedings, through approval and entry of the pretrial order, with the exception of dispositive motions ..., will remain with the Bankruptcy Court. The Bankruptcy Court will rule upon these matters in the first instance, and wherever necessary, issue findings of fact and conclusions of law for the District Court's review. [Adv. Dkt. 15, Ex.1, p.3:7-12 (emphasis added).]

This Bankruptcy Court also notes that trial is scheduled for 6/28/21 in the District Court, a final pretrial conference is scheduled for 6/4/21 in the District Court, and normally, pursuant to the Bernal Scheduling Form, the proposed final pretrial conference order would not be submitted until 14 days prior to the pretrial conference. But if this Bankruptcy Court is to enter a pretrial order, or propose a pretrial order for entry by Judge Bernal, then it appears that the parties will need to submit their proposed pretrial orders to this Bankruptcy Court well in advance of the pretrial conference in the District Court. The parties are directed to address whether this is a correct interpretation of Judge Bernal's directions to this Bankruptcy Court, and whether and how to verify the correct procedures with Judge Bernal.

(2) Motions in limine

Although the Bernal Scheduling Form provides for motions in limine to be filed at least 28 days prior to the final pretrial conference, and ruled on at that conference before Judge Bernal, those things arguably are within the Withdrawal Order's direction to this Bankruptcy Court to address all pretrial matters through entry of the pretrial order (which, in this Bankruptcy Court's experience, normally would occur after the pretrial conference and therefore after any rulings on motions in limine). Therefore this Bankruptcy Court is uncertain whether Judge Bernal intends for this Bankruptcy Court to rule on such motions in limine.

It might be that some such motions would deal with bankruptcy-related issues as to which this Bankruptcy Court might be able to assist Judge Bernal with pretrial rulings or proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law. On the other hand, other motions in limine might involve issues or procedures that would impinge on Judge Bernal's preferences regarding how to proceed with the trial, and perhaps Judge Bernal does not intend for this Bankruptcy Court to rule on such motions.

(3) Other issues, such as objections to jury instructions

More generally, this Bankruptcy Court is not entirely clear regarding what issues it should or should not address. For example, the Bernal Scheduling Form contemplates that objections to jury instructions will be resolved prior to issuance of the final pretrial order, and therefore arguably the Withdrawal Order directs this Bankruptcy Court to rule on any objections to proposed jury instructions, but that might not be what Judge Bernal intends.

(4) Conclusion regarding Current Issues

The tentative ruling is that, after hearing from the parties, this Bankruptcy Court will communicate with the chambers of Judge Bernal regarding any clarifications or confirmation of procedures that Judge Bernal is willing to provide. Thereafter, this Bankruptcy Court contemplates issuing an clarifying order, addressing any follow-up matters at the continued status conference (see below), or otherwise memorializing on the record any resolution of the foregoing issues.

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

Matters of venue, jurisdiction, and authority have been determined and/or waived or forfeited (see adv.dkt.15).

(2) Mediation: [Intentionally omitted]

(3) Deadlines

The pretrial conference and hearing on motions in limine has been set in the District Court for 6/4/21 at 11:00 a.m. (see adv. dkt. 28, Ex.A, p.2) and trial has been set for 6/28/21 at 8:30 a.m. (see id.). Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 3/2/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of U.S. Trustee ("UST") to dismiss or convert ("MTD," dkt. 132), Debtor's Opposition (dkt. 142), UST's Reply (dkt. 146), response of Secured Creditors Hillegass et al. ("Secured Creditor") in Support of MTD (dkt. 147).

Grant in part by issuing a continuing compliance order. The sole ground for the UST's MTD is failure to file MORs, and Debtor has now (very belatedly) filed the missing MORs. (Note: This relief will be mooted if, as provided in the tentative ruling below, this case is dismissed or converted anyway.)

Proposed order: If this motion is not mooted, the UST is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(b) Other cause for dismissal (or alternate remedies)

Under this Court's order establishing procedures at the commencement of this case (dkt. 56, timely served, dkt. 61), this Court may dismiss or convert this case at any status conference. The tentative ruling is to dismiss or convert this case based on (i) Debtor's late-filing of numerous MORs, (ii) Debtor's failure to make certain adequate protection payments to Secured Creditor, and (iii) Debtor's failure to make numerous other payments to creditors, in the admitted aggregate amount of $15,253.41, according to her MORs. See MOR for Jan. 2021 (dkt.141), p.4 (at PDF p.3).

The parties are directed to address whether dismissal or conversion is in the best interests of all parties, including Debtor. The tentative ruling is that any dismissal would not entail a bar under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1), because on balance the preponderance of the evidence appears to be that Debtor's trouble prosecuting this case and her prior case are based on financial troubles, rather than willfulness.

Proposed order: If this Court adopts the tentative ruling to dismiss or convert, the UST is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as the final ruling, subject to any modifications at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Tentative Ruling for 3/2/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Finance motion (dkt. 46), Opposition of Amit Tidhar (dkt. 54, 55), no reply is on file

Based on the arguments and representations of the parties at the hearing on 1/26/21, this Court was persuaded to continue this matter to allow time for Debtor to pursue a potential sale of the property in lieu of the proposed refinance. Debtor probably has only a very limited time in which to provide notice and a hearing on any sale motion, obtain approval of any proposed sale, and close any such sale, because this Court has granted relief from the automatic stay to creditor Amit Tidhar (dkt. 60), with the only limitation being that no foreclosure sale can take place prior to 4/30/21.

There is no tentative ruling, but Debtor should be prepared to provide an update on the status of any sale efforts, and address whether the proposed refinance motion should be withdrawn.

(b) Monthly operating reports ("MORs") & Missing status report

This Court's tentative rulings for 12/1/20 and 1/26/21 cautioned Debtor that failure to file MORs might be cause for dismissal, conversion of this case to chapter 7, or other relief. In addition, at the hearing on 1/26/21, this Court orally directed Debtor to file a status report by 2/16/21. Notwithstanding the foregoing, as of the preparation of this tentative ruling Debtor has not filed its January MOR or a status report.

The tentative ruling is to issue a continuing compliance order, with a deadline of 3/16/21 for Debtor to file all MORs through February of 2021, and with a caution to Debtor that this Court might convert or dismiss this case with a 180-day bar to being a Debtor in bankruptcy if Debtor fails to remain in

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 3/2/21:

Continue as set forth below, with a caveat that Debtor's counsel may need to redraft, refile, and reserve the budget motion for the reasons set forth below. Appearances are not required on 3/2/21.

(1) Current issues

(a) Budget motion (dkt. 27)

Debtor's budget motion lists net income from rental property or a business of $2,800.00, but ignores the instruction to "[a]ttach a statement for each property and business showing gross receipts, ordinary and necessary business expenses, and the total monthly net income." Dkt.27, at PDF p.11. The tentative ruling is that this Court will take no action at this time, because the motion is not on calendar, but that Debtor's counsel should amend the motion to add the missing information. That is critical because otherwise creditors (and this Court) have no way of knowing if, for example, the gross receipts are $22,800/mo. but Debtor pays her friend a $20,000/mo. consulting fee so that the net income is only $2,800/mo. (to provide an intentionally extreme hypothetical for illustrative purposes only).

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 3/2/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 3/2/21.

1) Current issues

This Court has reviewed Debtor's post confirmation status report (dkt. 231) and has no issues to raise sua sponte. This Court notes, however, that Debtor's status report and a pending motion (dkt.232) refer to closing this case on an "interim" basis; but that mechanism usually is used in individual cases when the discharge is often delayed by five years (per 11 U.S.C. 1141(d)(5)), but this Court's recollection and review of the Plan (dkt.188), confirmation order (dkt.216), and discharge order (dkt. 218) do not reflect any departure from the usual rule that a non-liquidating corporate debtor is discharged upon confirmation. See 11 U.S.C. 1141(d)(1), (3) & (6). Accordingly, this Court questions whether it would be appropriate to close this case only on an interim basis, and also questions what mechanism would be used to assure that this case does not stay in limbo forever.

(2) Deadlines/dates

This case was filed on 6/19/20, and Debtor's plan was confirmed on 10/28/20 (dkt. 216). The tentative ruling is to set a further continued Status Conference for 6/1/21 at 1:00 p.m. with a brief status report due 5/18/21, all subject to being vacated if the case is closed prior to those dates.

filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion for remand (adv. dkt. 7, "Remand Motion") and supporting declaration (adv. dkt. 8), Plaintiff's opposition (adv. dkt. 10), Movants' reply (adv. dkt. 12)

Defendants Dos Cabezas Properties, LLC, Criscione-Meyer Entitlement, LLC, and Michael Criscione (collectively, the "Movants") seek an order remanding this proceeding and for an award of attorneys fees and costs imposed against plaintiff Tarzana Crossing, a Merchant Faire, LLC ("Plaintiff").

For the reasons set forth below, the tentative ruling is to grant the request to remand this removed action, but perhaps defer the remand until after mediation, and deny the request for attorney fees.

(i) Jurisdiction

The parties dispute whether this Court has subject matter jurisdiction to hear this proceeding. The tentative ruling is that this Court has "related to" jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. 157(c)(1), because the parties' dispute arises from an alleged breach of contract for the sale of the estate's principal asset.

(ii) Mandatory abstention

The tentative ruling is that mandatory abstention applies as follows. Mandatory abstention under 28 U.S.C. 1334(c)(2) requires seven elements: (1) a timely motion; (2) a purely state law question; (3) a non-core proceeding under 28 U.S.C. 157(c)(1); (4) a lack of independent federal jurisdiction absent the petition under Title 11; (5) that an action is commenced in a state court; (6) the state court action may be timely adjudicated; (7) a state forum of appropriate jurisdiction exists. [In re Gen. Carriers Corp., 258 B.R. 181, 189 (9th Cir. BAP 2001) (internal quotation omitted).]

These elements are satisfied: (1) the motion was timely - the proceeding was removed on 1/22/20 and Movants filed the remand motion just 30 days later, on 2/21/20; (2) the complaint involves purely nonbankruptcy law questions (breach of fiduciary duty etc., adv. dkt. 7, p. 2:17-21) (Movants state that they amended their complaint on 8/30/19, but there is nothing in the record reflecting what was amended (id., p. 2:21), so this Court bases its ruling on the record presented); (3) the proceeding is noncore - the authorities cited by the removing party (dkt.10, pp.14:24-15:14) are distinguishable because they all involved alleged violations of fiduciary duties within the bankruptcy case itself, not prepetition and nonbankruptcy alleged violations; (4) no independent federal jurisdiction has been asserted; (5) the action was commenced prepetition, on 12/14/18, in Los Angeles Superior Court; (6) there is no evidence that the proceeding cannot be timely adjudicated in the State Court; and (7) neither party has contested in this Court the State Court's jurisdiction over the proceeding.

(iii) Discretionary abstention

Alternatively, and in addition, the tentative ruling is that discretionary abstention is appropriate.

Discretionary abstention under 28 U.S.C. 1334(c)(1) requires consideration of the following twelve factors:

- (1) the effect of lack thereof on the efficient administration of the estate if a Court recommends abstention, (2) the extent to which state law issues predominate over bankruptcy issues, (3) the difficulty or unsettled nature of the applicable law, (4) the presence of a related proceeding commenced in state court or other nonbankruptcy court, (5) the jurisdictional basis, if any, other than 28 U.S.C. 1334, (6) the degree of relatedness or remoteness of the proceeding to the main bankruptcy case, (7) the substance rather than form of an asserted "core" proceeding, (8) the feasibility of severing state law claims from core bankruptcy matters to allow judgments to be entered in state court with enforcement left to the bankruptcy court, (9) the burden of the bankruptcy court's docket, (10) the likelihood that the commencement of the proceeding in bankruptcy court involves forum shopping by one of the parties, (11) the existence of a right to a jury trial, and (12) the presence in the proceeding of nondebtor parties.

Several of the Tucson factors weigh in favor of abstention. First, the Complaint involves purely state-law issues. Second, this Court would not have jurisdiction over the Complaint but for the Debtor's bankruptcy petition, because the claims arise under state law and there is no diversity between the parties. Third, the Complaint involves several non-debtor parties who have asserted a right to a jury trial. Fourth, permitting the Complaint to proceed in state court will contribute to the efficient administration of the bankruptcy case because the State Court is the best tribunal to adjudicate the parties' state law claims. Fifth, although the Complaint is related to the main bankruptcy case because it involves claims relating to the primary asset of the estate, deferring to the State Court to adjudicate the parties' claims will not unduly interfere with this Bankruptcy Court's determination of other matters in the bankruptcy case.

(iv) Movants' request for attorneys' fees is denied

The tentative ruling is to deny Movant's request for attorneys' fees because this Court is not persuaded that Plaintiff lacked an objectively reasonable basis for seeking removal of this action because the dispute is related to the primary asset of Debtor's bankruptcy estate.

Proposed order: Movants are directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1) (B).

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(2) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally *Stern v. Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 3/2/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 3/2/21.

(1) Current issues

(a) Tarzana Crossing v. 110 West Properties, LLC et al. (2:20-ap-01012-NB)

A joint stipulation for a continuance, filed in this adversary proceeding appears to relate not just to that adversary proceeding but also to the entire case, and it has been executed by the key litigating parties in this case. See Stip. (adv. dkt. 36). A proposed order approving that stipulation has been lodged, but it is ambiguous about whether to continue only the matters in the adversary proceeding or all matters in both the adversary proceeding and in the bankruptcy case. At the very least, the parties' intent appears to be to continue this matter as set forth below.

Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to continue the status conference in this adversary proceeding to the same date at the continued status conference in the bankruptcy case (see below).

(b) Motion of Doz Cabezas Properties, LLC ("Dos Cabezas") to dismiss case (dkt. 145, 166, the "MTD"), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 168), Dos Cabezas's reply (173), Dos Cabezas's supplemental papers (dkt. 179, 182), Debtor's supplemental papers (dkt. 181, 183), Debtor's status report (dkt. 188), Doz Cabezas's supplemental papers (dkt. 193), Debtor's supplemental response (dkt. 197)

This matter was continued to allow the parties to engage in settlement discussions (dkt. 203, 204). As set forth above, there is some ambiguity whether the parties intended to stipulate to continuing this matter, but that appears to be the parties' intent, and this Court is not aware of any reason to do otherwise.

Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to continue this matter to the same date as the continued status conference in this bankruptcy case, set forth below.

(c) Debtor's applications to retain and compensate ordinary course professionals (dkt. 186, "Ordinary Course Application"), and employ BBG, Inc., as its appraiser (dkt. 187, "Appraisal Application") (together, the "Applications"), Omnibus opposition of Dos Cabezas (dkt. 194), Debtor's reply (dkt. 198)

As set forth above, there is some ambiguity whether the parties intended to stipulate to continuing this matter, but that appears to be the parties' intent, and this Court is not aware of any reason to do otherwise. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to continue this matter to the same date as the continued status conference in this bankruptcy case, set forth below.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 11/29/19.

(a) Bar date: 3/31/20 (dkt.46, timely served, dkt.49).

(b) Procedures order: dkt. 2 (timely served, dkt. 8, 9)

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement*: N/a

(d) Continued status conference: 4/6/21 at 1:00 p.m., Brief status report due 3/23/21.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Chapter 11

Tentative Ruling for 12/8/20:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of Doz Cabezas Properties, LLC ("Dos Cabezas") to dismiss case (dkt. 145, 166), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 168), Dos Cabezas's reply (173), Dos Cabezas's supplemental papers (dkt. 179, 182), Debtor's supplemental papers (dkt. 181, 183)

The tentative ruling is not to strike the latest, unauthorized briefs. In any event, with or without considering them, the tentative ruling is to deny the motion to dismiss this case, without prejudice, for the reasons stated in this Court's tentative ruling for 10/27/20 (copied below), with the following caveats.

First, Debtor is directed to address why the flyer distributed by Collier included the banner "Bankruptcy Court Approved" (dkt.180, Ex.1, and dkt.183, Ex.1). This Court has not approved any sale (although this Court has approved the employment of Colliers to market of the subject property). In fact, there are open questions about whether Debtor even has the ability to sell the subject property without Dos Cabezas' consent.

Second, Debtor is directed to address how it proposes to disclose to prospective purchasers of the properties the fact that Debtor is seeking to sell the subject property before the State Court has determined the underlying disputes with Dos Cabezas. True, as noted in the tentative ruling for 10/27/20, it is possible that Debtor can distinguish In re Popp, 323 B.R. 260, 268 (9th Cir. BAP 2005), and In re Owens-Johnson, 118 B.R. 780 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1990). But the tentative ruling is that Debtor has to disclose to prospective purchasers that (as this Court understands the issues) Dos Cabezas is asserting that (i) Debtor does not own the subject property, and therefore cannot sell it, and alternatively (ii) a sale under 11 U.S.C. 363(b) and (f) should not, or cannot, be used to defeat a claim for specific performance.

In other words, Debtor is directed to address (in consultation with Colliers) how it will disclose to prospective purchasers the potential obstacles to selling the property, without either misleading purchasers or unduly chilling any potential bidding. Of course, this Court recognizes that in chapter 11 there is a certain degree of deference to the business judgment of Debtor, in consultation with Colliers, regarding how best to market the subject property and when and how to provide disclosures. This Court also recognizes that Dos Cabezas might decide that it is in its own interest to consent to the sale (while preserving whatever interests or claims it might have regarding the proceeds of sale), so as to (i) maximize the value of the bankruptcy estate's assets, (ii) stop the running of interest - especially any default interest - owed to the senior lienholder, and thereby (iii) maximize the funds from which its claim and/or equity interests could receive distributions.

But Debtor's flyer ("Bankruptcy Court Approved," dkt.183, Ex.1, at PDF p.9), combined with Debtor's apparently cavalier attitude toward employment and compensation of professionals (see below), raise concerns about whether Debtor and Colliers are not exercising their business judgment appropriately. Debtor is cautioned that failure to exercise proper business judgment, and act as a trustee for the benefit of creditors, might lead to adverse consequences.

(b) Apparently unauthorized retention and payment of professionals

Debtor is directed to address the apparently unauthorized employment and payment of persons who appear to be professionals: Hammonds & Frey (accounting/tax services), Hunter & Co. (management), and BBG, Inc. (appraisal). See dkt.179, p.4:3-23. Debtor alleges (dkt.181, pp.4:23-5:27) that none of these services are "central to the administration of the estate," and instead are "ordinary course" payments that purportedly do not require Court authorization. But, first, there is no evidence to support those allegations and, second, Debtor's explanation raises its own concerns - for example, it is potentially troubling if Debtor is relying on someone to do accounting and tax services who is not addressing the bankruptcy-specific aspects of accounting and tax issues (i.e., if they do not qualify as professionals, that in itself might be problematic).

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 1/5/21 for Debtor and/or those persons to file and serve on all parties in interest either (i) applications for employment, including any authority for retroactive authorization, or (ii) briefs and evidence as to why such persons are not professionals and/or why the payments to them are "ordinary course" and/or whatever other arguments they assert as to why notice, a hearing, and this Court's prior authorization for employment and payment allegedly were not required. The tentative ruling is to set deadlines of 1/12/21 for any responses, and 1/19/21 for any replies.

Tentative Ruling for 10/27/20:
Appearances required.

- (1) Current issues
- (a) Doz Cabezas Properties, LLC's ("Dos Cabezas") motion to dismiss case (dkt. 145, 166), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 168), Dos Cabezas's reply (173)

The tentative ruling is to deny the motion without prejudice on the grounds that this Court is not persuaded that, on the present record, sufficient "cause" exists under 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4) to convert or dismiss this case.

First, litigation takes time and Dos Cabezas has not presented sufficient evidence to persuade this Court that Debtor is not diligently prosecuting this bankruptcy case and the State Court action. To the contrary, Debtor's prosecution of this case appears to be reasonable in light of the uncertainty and challenges presented by COVID-19, the resulting backlog in state courts, and the great deal of latitude afforded to debtors exercising their business judgment about matters of case administration.

Second, Dos Cabezas' reliance on In re Popp, 323 B.R. 260, 268 (9th Cir. BAP 2005), and In re Owens-Johnson, 118 B.R. 780 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1990), is not dispositive. True, it is likely that Debtor's anticipated motion to sell the subject property will be subject to objections based on arguments that (i) Debtor cannot sell what it does not own and (ii) a sale under 11 U.S.C. 363(b) and (f) should not, or cannot, be used to defeat a claim for specific performance. But (x) this Court cannot presume, in advance, that those anticipated objections will prevail, (y) even if a sale were blocked, Debtor has other options (e.g., proposing a plan of reorganization, or waiting until a determination in the State Court litigation that Debtor has an ownership interest in the subject property, and therefore can sell it), and (z) even if all of those things were to turn out in future not to be viable options, it is premature to dismiss this case based on that future possibility.

(b) Dos Cabezas Properties, LLC, Criscione-Meyer Entitlement, Michael Criscione and Michael Meyer's ("Movants") omnibus objection to proofs of claim (dkt. 121, "Claim Objections") 4-1/4-2, 6-1, 7-1, 8-1, 9-1, 10-1, 11-1, 12-1, 13-1, 14-1, 15-1, 16-1, 17-1, 18-1, 19-1, 20-1, 22-1, 23-1/23-2, 24-1, 25-1, 26-1, 27-1, 29-1, 31-1, 32-1, 33-1, 34-1, 35-1, 36-1 and 37-1 ("the Claims"), stipulation & order continuing hearing (dkt. 129, 131), Tarzana Crossing, a Merchant Faire, LLC's ("Tarzana Crossing") opposition (dkt. 137), no reply is on file

Tentative Ruling for 9/15/20:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's application to employ Colliers International Greater Los Angeles, Inc., dba Colliers International ("Colliers") (dkt. 138-140, 142, the "Employment Application"), Criscione-Meyer Parties' opposition (dkt. 144), Tarzana Crossing's opposition (dkt. 146, 149), Debtor's replies (dkt. 150, 151, 152, 157)

The tentative ruling is (i) to overrule the objections for the reasons stated in Debtor's reply papers (except to the extent of Debtor's and Colliers' accession to the 6-month term in Debtor's reply papers) but (ii) to prohibit dual agency as set forth below. The "Posted Procedures of Judge Bason" (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) provide notice that Judge Bason's standard employment order prohibits dual agency, and refer to an explanation of the problems with dual agency as set forth in another case. See In re Ebuehi, Case No. 2:18-bk-20704-NB, dkt. 281, at PDF pp.9-10). Nothing in the Employment Application provides any reason to depart from that policy.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, the tentative ruling is that the dangers inherent in dual agency are substantially ameliorated if (i) the individual(s) who represent the bankruptcy estate as seller operate out of a different branch office from the office of any individual(s) who represent prospective buyers and (ii) the compensation structure is structured in a way that does not implicate the concerns raised in Ebuehi. The tentative ruling is that, if Debtor and Colliers wish to attempt to meet these conditions, then this Court will set a deadline of 9/22/20 to file declaration(s) addressing these conditions (including a detailed disclosure of the compensation structure), and serve such declarations on the United States Trustee and all parties in interest who attend this hearing. (1) Current issues

(a) Omnibus claim objection ("Claim Objection," dkt.121) by Dos Cabezas Properties, LLC, Criscione-Meyer Entitlement, Michael Criscione and Michael Meyer's ("Claim Objectors"); stipulation & order continuing hearing (dkt. 129, 131); opposition (dkt.137) of Tarzana Crossing, a Merchant Faire, LLC ("Tarzana Crossing"); no reply is on file

Claim Objectors seek disallowance of the following Claims in full: Claim Nos. 4, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 29, 31, 33, 34, 35, 36 and 37 (the "Claims"). The Claim Objectors assert three grounds for disallowance of all Claims:

(w) the Claims are "interests," not "claims" entitled to a pro rata distribution with other creditors,

(x) the Claims fail to state an amount that is purportedly claimed, and

(y) the Claims are not supported by a copy of a writing as required by Rule 3001(c)(1) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). Dkt. 40, p.39.

The Claim Objectors also object to claims 24, 25, 26, and 37 on an additional ground:

(z) that they are duplicative of claims previously filed by the holders of those claims. Id., p.40.

The tentative ruling is to sustain the Claim Objection as to all claims on ground "(w)." In addition, the tentative ruling, as to ground "(z)," is to sustain the objection insofar as disallowing the earlier version of each duplicative claim.

whether or not such right is reduced to judgment, liquidated, unliquidated, fixed, contingent, matured, unmatured, disputed, undisputed, legal, equitable, secure, or unsecured" 11 U.S.C. 101(5)(A) (emphasis added). The term also broadly includes a "right to an equitable remedy for breach of performance" 11 U.S.C. 101(5)(B). "The Code utilizes this 'broadest possible definition' of claim to ensure that 'all legal obligations of the debtor, no matter how remote or contingent, will be able to be dealt with in the bankruptcy case." In re SNTL Corp., 571 F.3d 826, 838 (9th Cir. 2009). Furthermore, "a claim may exist for bankruptcy and discharge purposes long before a cause of action accrues under nonbankruptcy law." Id., at 839. "It is only necessary that the creditor be able to fairly or reasonably contemplate the claim's existence as of the petition date." Id.

The exclusive grounds under which a debtor may successfully object to a claim are listed in 11 U.S.C. 502(b). In re Campbell, 336 B.R. 430 (9th Cir. BAP 2005); In re Heath, 331 B.R. 424, 435 (9th Cir. BAP 2005).

(ii) The Claims, apart from the Claim of Tarzana Crossing

With the exception of the Tarzana Crossing Claim (Claim No. 23-1/23-2) (discussed separately below), the tentative ruling is as follows.

(A) The Claims are "equity interests" subject to mandatory subordination (11 U.S.C. 510(b))

Claim Objectors assert that the Claims should be disallowed because they are "interests" rather than "claims." The tentative ruling is that this is correct: the Claims are, by their own admission, equity interests and, as such, must be subordinated to general unsecured claims pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 510(b). See e.g. In re Tristar Esperanza Props., LLC, 782 F.3d 492 (9th Cir. 2015) (a claim arising from an equity interest in a limited liability company is subordinated to general unsecured creditors). See also dkt. 1, PDF pp.11-15 (Debtor's listing of alleged claims as equity interests on bankruptcy schedules).

(B) Duplicate claims are properly disallowed

Claim Objectors assert that claim 24-1 is a duplicate of claim 19-1, that claim 25-1 is a duplicate of claim 20-1, that claim 26-1 is a duplicate of claim 18-1, and that claim 37-1 is a duplicate of claim 35-1. The tentative ruling is to grant the objection in substance by treating the later filed claims as amendments to the earlier filed claims, and then disallowing the earlier filed claims as duplicative (i.e., disallow claims 18-1, 19-1, 20-1, and 35-1).

(C) The fact that a claim is contingent is not a proper basis to disallow a claim under section 502(b)(1)

Section 502(b)(1) provides that a claim is not allowable if it is unenforceable under the applicable agreement or law "for a reason other than because such claim is contingent or unmatured." 11 U.S.C. 502(b)(1). "Under section 502(b)(1), [] contingent claims cannot be disallowed simply because the contingency occurred postpetition." SNTL Corp., 571 F.3d at 838.

Therefore, the tentative ruling is to overrule Claim Objectors' request to disallow the Claims based on the fact that fail to state the amount of their respective claims.

(D) Failure to attach supporting documentation is not a sufficient basis to disallow a claim

Under Heath, "a request for complete disallowance of the claim merely because of inadequate documentation" is not a proper objection. 331 B.R. 424, 435. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to overrule the Claim Objectors' request to disallow the Claims on the grounds they are not supported by copies of the operating agreement.

(iii) The Tarzana Crossing Claim

Tarzana Crossing opposes the Claim Objection on the grounds that its claim (Claim 23-2) "is not based on an equity interest in [Debtor] alone," but is also "based on the same pre-petition claims for which Tarzana Crossing filed suit long before this bankruptcy case was filed . . ." Dkt. 137, p.6:3-5 (emphasis added). But the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit (the "Ninth Circuit") considered and rejected similar arguments in Tristar, 782 F.3d 492.

In Tristar, the Ninth Circuit affirmed the lower courts' determination that 11 U.S.C. 510(b)'s mandatory subordination applied to the claim of a former member of the debtor limited liability company (the "LLC") who obtained a judgment valuing her equity interest after the LLC did not honor a provision in its operating agreement requiring a buy-back of the withdrawing member's interest. Id. The Ninth Circuit confirmed that § 510(b) "sweeps broadly" (id. at 495) and held that "the critical question for purposes of § 510(b) . . . is not whether the claim is debt or equity at the time of the petition, but rather whether the claim arises from the purchase or sale of a security" and concluded that the "claim must be subordinated if there is a sufficient 'nexus or causal relationship between the claim and the purchase' or sale of securities." Id. at 497 (citation omitted).

The tentative ruling is that Tarzana Crossing's State Court claims are all directly related to and "arise from" its purchase of "security of the debtor" and Tarzana Crossing has not demonstrated that any damages it might recover from the State Court action against the Debtor would be anything but "damages arising from the purchase . . . of such a security." See 11 U.S.C. 510(b).

Therefore, the tentative ruling is to sustain the Claim Objectors' objection to the Tarzana Crossing Claim and order Claim 23-2 subordinated to general unsecured claims pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 510(b).

The tentative ruling is to deny the Claim Objectors' objection to this claim on all other grounds, for the reasons stated above.

Proposed order: The Claim Objectors are directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby adopting it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 3/2/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor and Debtor in Possession Motion for Order Disallowing Claim Number 18 Pursuant to FRBP 3003(c)(2) and 11 U.S.C. Section 502(b)(9) (dkt. 292); notice and amended notice of hearing (dkt.294, 297)

Oddly, the proofs of service of the motion and the notices of hearing all omit the claimant. The tentative ruling is to continue the motion as set forth below, with a deadline of 3/5/21 for Debtor to serve the motion and notice of the continued hearing date.

(b) Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs"): continuing compliance stip. (dkt. 232); order approving same (dkt. 234); lack of breakdown of gross revenues, expenses, and net revenues in past MORs (see Tentative Ruling for 2/9/21); lack of MOR for January, 2021

Debtor is directed to address why Debtor continues to be out of compliance with MORs, and what action this Court should take.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 2/6/20.

(a) Bar date: 5/1/20 (dkt. 50; timely served, dkt. 55).

Tentative Ruling for 2/9/21:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion (Claim Objection) re 2009 taxes in Proof of Claim Number 5 (dkt. 155), Opposition of U.S./IRS (dkt. 268), Debtor's reply (dkt.269), Status Conference and Scheduling Order (dkt. 284).

On 1/21/21, this Court entered a Status Conference and Scheduling Order in connection with Debtor's claim objection. The Scheduling Order set a pre-trial conference date for 7/27/21 at 1:00 p.m. The tentative ruling is not to set any additional hearings on the Claim Objection before then.

(b) Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs") (dkt. 298)

At the 1/5/21 hearing, Debtor's counsel stated that she would work with Debtor to ensure that future MORs are clearer. Upon review of the December MOR, all accounts remain labeled as general accounts. Debtor is directed to address why the accounts are not labeled according to the property to which each one relates as discussed at the 1/5/21 hearing.

Debtor is also directed to address where the rental income has been deposited. It is unclear where the amounts listed on the spreadsheets detailing the income for each property have been deposited. Dkt. 298, PDF pp. 61–69.

Tentative Ruling for 9/15/20:

Appearances required.

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (dkt. 37) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

Current issues

(a) Apparent waste of resources and/or unwillingness to prosecute

This Court continues to have serious concerns why it makes any sense for Debtor to dispute the alleged security interest of Oxygen Funding, Inc. when (i) Debtor continues to assert that all creditors will be paid 100% of their allowed claims regardless whether those claims are or are not secured by any collateral, (ii) the Bankruptcy Code includes many tools to assure that disputed security interests do not block attempted refinancings, sales, or other uses of estate property (see, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 363(f), 1129(b)(1)), and (iii) the expense of this litigation to the bankruptcy estate appears very likely to exceed any possible future benefits (but cf. dkt.282 re unauthorized funding of Debtor's counsel by non-debtor husband). At prior hearings this Court was persuaded not to take any action on the foregoing concerns, pending mediation, but the parties report (adv.dkt.37) that mediation was unsuccessful.

Conversely, assuming for the sake of discussion that for some reason would make any sense to pursue this litigation, Debtor/Plaintiff appears to be unwilling to prosecute it unless and until she can obtain a different forum. She states, in the parties' joint status report (adv.dkt.37, p.4, para.G) that she will seek dismissal of this bankruptcy case and then pursue this litigation in State Court.

The parties are directed to address whether this Court should (i) stay this litigation indefinitely, pending the results of attempts by Debtor and the Subchapter V Trustee to sell or refinance the "Laurel" property, or confirm a chapter 11 plan, or implement other means of restructuring Debtor's finances, (ii) dismiss this adversary proceeding for lack of prosecution if Debtor/Plaintiff does not prosecute it pursuant to the deadlines tentatively set forth below, or (iii) establish some other deadlines or procedures regarding this matter.

(A) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

Tentative Ruling for 3/2/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Subchapter V Trustee's motion for turnover of Laurel Property (dkt. 280), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 285), Michael Tremblay's response (dkt. 291), Interim Turnover Order (dkt. 300)

The parties are directed to update this Court on the status of this motion and address whether any additional relief is appropriate. The tentative ruling is to take this matter off calendar, without prejudice to the Chapter 7 Trustee placing it back on calendar on 14 days' notice (and direct the Trustee to lodge a proposed order memorializing such shortened notice). On the other hand, if continuance of this matter is appropriate, the tentative ruling is for such continuance to be concurrent with the continued status conference (see below, section "(2)(a)").

Appearances required.

(d) Talasazan v. Oxygen Funding, Inc., et al (2:20-ap-01027-NB)

On 9/15/20, this Court ordered this matter stayed and has continued the hearing several times to allow time for the Chapter 7 trustee to evaluate the merits of the claims and determine how to proceed. The trustee should be prepared to address where things stand with this litigation.

Proposed orders: The Trustee is directed to lodge proposed orders reflecting any other disposition of the above items beyond mere continuance, and attach relevant portions of this tentative ruling, via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 11/20/19, converted from chapter 13 to chapter 11 on 1/2/20, designated by Debtor as a Subchapter V case on 3/2/20 (dkt.128), and converted to chapter 7 on 12/1/20 (dkt. 412).

Tentative Ruling for 2/9/21:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's finance motion (dkt. 390, "Finance Motion") & supporting declarations (dkt. 391, 392, 394, 396, 397, 398, 399, 401, 410), notice of hearing (dkt. 404), proof of service (dkt. 406); Celtic Bank opposition (dkt. 415); Oxygen Funding opposition (dkt. 428); Trustee's joinder (dkt. 430); Michael Tremblay opposition (dkt. 433), East West Bank opposition (dkt. 444), Debtor's reply (dkt. 445)

This Court continued this hearing on the condition that Debtor satisfy certain requirements set forth in dkt. 456. First, the parties should be prepared to address whether Debtor has satisfied those requirements. Second, if so, the docket does not reflect any update that would make this latest proposed refinancing more realistic than Debtor's prior attempts, so the tentative ruling is to deny the motion without prejudice.

(b) Debtor's latest motion to reconsider Turnover Order [dkt. 300], Eviction Order [dkt. 333] and Conversion Order [dkt. 412] (dkt. 402, "Reconsideration Motion") & Orantes decl (dkt. 403), notice of hearing (dkt. 404), proof of service (dkt. 406), Celtic Bank's opposition (dkt. 416), Trustee's joinder (dkt. 423); Michael Tremblay's joinder (dkt. 432), Debtor's reply (dkt. 445)

This Court continued this hearing on the condition that Debtor satisfy certain requirements set forth in dkt. 456. First, the parties are directed to address whether Debtor has satisfied those requirements. Second, if so, the tentative ruling is that the docket does not reflect any developments that would create any sufficient cause for restoration of possession of the family home and/or reconversion of this bankruptcy case, despite Debtor's long history of a lack of progress toward paying creditors, violations of her duties, and violations of this Court's orders, including turnover orders.

(e) Debtor's objection to Oxygen Funding, Inc.'s proof of claim (dkt. 474, 475, 476), Oxygen's opposition (dkt. 493), Debtor's reply (dkt. 500)

The tentative ruling is to deny the objection, without prejudice, for the procedural reasons stated in sections II.A & II.B of the opposition (dkt. 493) - namely, that an adversary proceeding is required, and that Debtor's cost/benefit analysis is unpersuasive. This Court adds that Debtor's claim objection appears to this Court to be nothing more than an impermissible collateral attack on this Court's order staying her pending adversary proceeding. Alternatively, even if this Court were to construe Debtor's claim objection as a motion for reconsideration of this Court's order staying the adversary proceeding (under Rule 9024, Fed. R. Bankr. P.), that motion would be unpersuasive.

There is no showing of any newly discovered evidence or other grounds for reconsideration. In addition, the same analysis that led this Court to stay the adversary proceeding continues to apply. Either (i) Debtor lacks standing, if this chapter 7 bankruptcy estate is insolvent, or alternatively (ii) if the estate is solvent then Oxygen's claim will be paid in full anyway, regardless whether that claim is secured or unsecured, so there does not appear to be any point in pursuing the claim litigation at this time.

Debtor incorrectly asserts that unsecured creditors have "no right under the [Bankruptcy] Code to accrue interest post-petition." Dkt.474, p.4:24. Interest is payable under 11 U.S.C. 726(a)(5).

True, the rate of interest might be different, but Debtor has not shown how that makes a sufficient difference to warrant the expense of her proposed litigation. In other words, assuming for the sake of discussion that the bankruptcy estate is solvent, there is a risk that it will become insolvent if expensive litigation were to be pursued, because of Debtor's attorney fees, or because of Oxygen's attorney fees (if it were to be successful), or both.

Debtor argues in the alternative that pursuing her claim litigation is appropriate because otherwise Oxygen can "block the refinancing" that she hopes to obtain. Dkt.474, p.5:4. But, as this Court has pointed out before, the Bankruptcy Code has tools to overcome any attempt by a lienholder to block a refinancing or sale if such refinancing or sale are warranted under all the facts and circumstances. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 363(f), 364(d).

In other words, Debtor has not established that the problem with any refinancing is Oxygen's (asserted) lien. The problem is that Debtor has yet to present any realistic refinancing or other options.

In sum, Debtor's claim objection appears to be an attempted end-run around this Court's order staying her adversary proceeding, which is barred as a collateral attack on that order. Alternatively, if Debtor's papers were construed as a motion for reconsideration, the same concerns that led this Court to stay that adversary proceeding apply to the claim objection. Pursuing either type of litigation at this time appears to be a waste of time and money for the estate, Oxygen, and all other parties in interest. Counsel for Debtor is cautioned against further attempts at collaterally attacking this Court's orders.

status report (adv. dkt. 41)

On 9/15/20, this Court ordered this matter stayed and continued the hearing to this date to allow time for the Chapter 7 trustee to evaluate the merits of the claims and determine how to proceed. The trustee should be prepared to address where things stand with this litigation.

(g) Motion of Debtor's counsel to be relieved (dkt.492); Opposition of United States Trustee (dkt.501); Joinder of Chapter 7 Trustee (dkt.502)

Should this Bankruptcy Court set a hearing on this motion?

(h) Motion of Tremblay Trust for relief from automatic stay (the "Tremblay R/S Motion," dkt.9, 93), Opposition (dkt.95, 96, 129, 138), and Status Report/supplement (dkt.503)

The Tremblay Trust points out that this Court's order continuing the automatic stay (dkt.46) granted that relief only until further order of this Court, and included a caution to Debtor that lack of proper prosecution of this case could lead to further relief. It also notes that this Court has found a lack of proper prosecution and bad faith by Debtor; it points out that the liens asserted against the Laurel Avenue property exceed the offers received by the Chapter 7 Trustee; and it reports that Celtic Bank has not agreed to a short sale. The parties are directed to address whether this Court should place the Tremblay R/S Motion back on calendar.

Proposed orders: The Trustee is directed to lodge proposed orders reflecting any other disposition of the above items beyond mere continuance, and attach relevant portions of this tentative ruling, via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1), (d)(2), and (d)(4).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is not sufficient evidence and notice.

No prejudice to Debtor intended. Based on the record, it appears that this might be a "hijacked" case, and that Debtor might be innocent of any involvement. See e.g., In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017) (describing hijacking); In re Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) (same). In a hijacking case, the Debtor faces the legitimate concern of being subject to a 180-day bar and other adverse consequences if, for example, Debtor later requests and obtains a voluntary dismissal and subsequently needs to file another bankruptcy petition. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(2), 362(b)(21)(A). There is authority that section 109 "eligibility issues" are nonjurisdictional, can be waived, forfeited, or subject to estoppel, and should not be applied if that would produce an "illogical, unjust, or capricious result, or when the benefit of dismissal would inure to a bad faith creditor." In re Leaffy, 489 B.R. 545, 550-51 (9th Cir. BAP 2012) (citing cases including under 109(g)(2)). See also In re Mendez, 367 B.R. 109, 116-17 (9th Cir. BAP 2007); In re Luna, 122 B.R. 575, 577 (9th Cir. BAP 1991); Dorsey, 476 B.R. 261, 270. The same principles apply to any other adverse consequences from a hijacking. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to condition the relief from the automatic stay granted in this tentative ruling such that no adverse consequences apply to Debtor from the hijacking, including under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(2) or 362(b)(21)(A). Note: None of the foregoing will shield Debtor if it turns out that Debtor was not, in fact, innocent of any involvement in the

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

#2.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

HSBC BANK USA, NATIONAL ASSOC
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 16

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing. Pursuant to Judge Bason's COVID-19 procedures, all appearances are via ZoomGov. For ZoomGov

#4.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order
Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic
Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 90

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

Grant, subject to the following conditions, and also subject to any opposition at the hearing because, contrary to this Court's order shortening time (dkt. 93, pp.2-3), which set a deadline of 3/3/21 for any opposition, Debtor's notice (dkt. 95, p.2:3) states that any opposition must be filed "by the hearing date of March 9, 2021." The tentative ruling is to deny Debtor's counsel any attorney fees for appearing at this hearing, and to caution Debtor's counsel in future not to disregard the terms of this Court's orders.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies because this case erroneously was closed without avoiding a junior lien; the junior lienholder has scheduled an imminent foreclosure sale; and relief appears to be appropriate due to "mistake" or "excusable neglect" under Rule 60(b)(1) Fed. R. Civ. P. (incorporated by Rule 9024, Fed. R. Bankr. P.). See also In re Gledhill, 76 F.3d 1070, 1078-80 (10th Cir. 1996), and In re Camacho, 361 B.R. 294, 299-300 (1st Cir. BAP 2007).

The imposition of the stay is subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

(3) Very limited ruling. This Court's tentative ruling to grant the foregoing relief is solely for purposes of this motion, and is not intended to have any binding effect with respect to any future assertions by any party in interest regarding the existence or lack of existence of good faith, excusable neglect, or mistake warranting relief in any other context.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Appearances required.

(A) Current issues

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv.dkt. 6) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding and is not aware of any issues to raise sua sponte at this time.

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); *Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. (3) Deadlines

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 3/9/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Plan of reorganization (dkt. 59, amended by dkt. 61)

The tentative ruling is to continue this matter as set forth below (see Section (2)(d)).

Debtor's Plan contemplates paying creditors from the sale of 33 Quincy Avenue, Long Beach, CA 90803 (dkt. 61, p.1). But Debtor has very limited time in which to close a sale, because this Court has granted relief from the automatic stay to creditor Access Investment, LLC ("Access") (dkt. 55), with the only limitation that Debtor would have until 3/31/21 to close the contemplated sale of the Property as set forth in Debtor's response (dkt. 48) or, if that sale falls through, an equivalent sale to a backup buyer.

There is no tentative ruling, but Debtor should be prepared to provide an update on the status of any sale efforts, and address whether Debtor has obtained consent from Access to an extension of time to close the sale, and/or whether this Court should shorten time for a hearing on any motion to approve a sale of the Property, or for a hearing on confirmation of Debtor's proposed Plan, or for any other appropriate request for relief.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 3/9/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 3/9/21.

(1) Current issues

(a) Future of this case

At the hearing on 12/22/20, Debtor represented that it intended to continue pursuing efforts to sell the property, notwithstanding this Court's entry of an order granting NVSI, Inc. relief from stay (dkt. 149). As of the preparation of this tentative ruling no sale motion is on file, and Debtor's January MOR indicated that a foreclosure sale had been scheduled for 2/24/21 (dkt. 153, p.16, para. ("4")).

This Court is not aware of any additional issues that need to be addressed currently, and in an effort to minimize administrative expenses this Court's tentative ruling is to continue this matter without requiring appearances at this time.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 8/26/19.

(a) Bar date: 11/25/19 (dkt. 29; timely served, dkt. 31).

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 5/4/20 and converted from chapter 7 to chapter 11 on 7/1/20 (dkt.17). The petition was amended to elect Subchapter V on 7/14/20 (dkt.27). On 9/4/20 this Court ordered joint administration with affiliated debtors (dkt.64).

(a) Bar date: (i) Investment 9/9/20 (dkt. 40; timely served, dkt. 43);
Affiliated Debtors 11/10/20.

(b) Procedures order: dkt.18 (timely served, dkt.20) (also timely served in each jointly administered case).

Tentative Ruling for 1/26/21:

Appearances required by Debtor's counsel.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motions of Baodi Zhou ("Zhou") for relief from automatic stay or dismissal of the Investment case (dkt.49, 50, 59); Debtors' opposition (dkt.62), reply (dkt.68)

At the 12/22/20 hearing, this Court continued the hearing to address the possibility of a "comfort order" explaining that the automatic stay is inapplicable as to Debtors' principal. The Court also gave Debtors an opportunity to submit a supplemental opposition. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, no such supplemental opposition appears on the docket.

The tentative ruling is to grant Movant Zhou's request to clarify that the automatic stay is inapplicable to the non-debtor defendants in the nonbankruptcy action. But the tentative ruling is to deny any other relief from the automatic stay and to deny Zhou's request to dismiss this bankruptcy case, all without prejudice to renewing such requests if Debtors fail to make sufficient progress in this case, or for other cause.

(b) Debtors' Application to Employ Enenstein Pham & Glass as Special Litigation Counsel (dkt. 146); objection by United States Trustee ("UST") (dkt. 148), and withdrawal thereof (dkt.163)

Although the UST's objection has been withdrawn based on Debtors' communications with the UST, those communications are not in the record and the issues raised by the UST are of concern to this Court. Debtor is directed to address those concerns at the hearing. If they are addressed to the satisfaction of this Court, the tentative ruling is to grant the application subject to the standard terms in the posted "Procedures of Judge Bason" (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov).

Debtors' status report (dkt. 158) alludes to some concerns raised by the Subchapter V Trustee and possible amendments to the proposed Plan. Debtor is directed to address the current status of negotiations. The tentative ruling, if Debtors assert, and this Court is persuaded, that the Plan quickly can be made ready to be mailed to all creditors as part of a voting package, is to set a deadline of 2/2/21 for Debtor to file a "blacklined" version of the Plan showing any changes, and lodge a proposed order substantially in the form posted on Judge Bason's portion of this Court's website (www.cacb.uscourts.gov), setting a confirmation hearing concurrent with the continued Status Conference set forth below.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 3/9/21:

Continue to 3/23/21 at 2:00 p.m. Appearances are not required on 3/9/21.

(A) Current issues

(1) Background

Plaintiff/Debtor's complaint (adv. no. 2:20-ap-01656-NB, dkt.1) seeks:

(a) tax adjudication: an order or judgment under 11 U.S.C. 505 disallowing the $71,521.41 claim no.3 of Defendant (a California tax authority) as "invalid and unconstitutional" or, in the alternative,

(b) discharge: a determination under 11 U.S.C. 1328 that the claim is dischargeable. See id., p.6 (prayer for relief).

Defendant's tax claim apparently is founded on a sales tax assessment made under Cal. Code. Regs. tit. 18, §1702.6, which provides for personal liability of corporate officers and stockholders in certain circumstances.

(2) Defendant's Motion to Dismiss ("MTD," adv. dkt. 4),

Plaintiff/Debtor's Opposition (adv. dkt. 7), Defendant's Reply (adv. dkt. 8, 9), Defendant's Supplemental Brief (adv. dkt. 12), Plaintiff/Debtor's Supplemental Opposition (adv. dkt. 15), Defendant's Supplemental Reply (adv. dkt. 16).

At the 1/26/21 hearing, this Court continued this hearing and directed the parties to submit their supplemental briefing on the distinction between a facial challenge and an as-applied challenge to the constitutionality of a state regulation. This Court has reviewed the supplemental papers.

Plaintiff/Debtor requests that this Court not permit further oral argument on this matter. See Plaintiff/Debtor's Opposition to the Supplemental Brief (adv. dkt. 15), p. 7:24–28. For the reasons set forth below, this Court does not anticipate that further oral arguments are necessary at this time.

In its supplemental briefing, Defendant makes six arguments that this Court lacks jurisdiction and/or should, in its discretion, decline to exercise jurisdiction. This will Court address each of these arguments in turn.

(a) Mr. Kintner Purportedly Received an Adjudication of Tax Due During Pre-Bankruptcy Proceedings

Defendant reiterates the arguments made in its initial motion to dismiss that Plaintiff/Debtor's disputed tax was adjudicated during the pre-bankruptcy proceedings. As this Court stated in its written tentative ruling for the 1/26/21 hearing, Plaintiff/Debtor's challenge was not adjudicated because none of the prior proceedings reached the merits of Plaintiff/Debtor's challenge to Regulation § 1702.6.

The Ninth Circuit has ruled that the contested and adjudicated requirements for the exception under § 505(a)(2)(A) are intended to protect a debtor from being bound by a "pre-bankruptcy tax liability determination that, because of a lack of financial resources, he or she was unable to contest." In re Mantz, 343 F.3d 1207, 1211 (9th Cir. 2003). The California constitution's "pay-first" provision requires that any taxpayer that intended to challenge a tax assessed against them must, at a minimum, have the financial resources to pay the tax.

If this Court were to adopt Defendant's interpretation, a debtor without the means to pre-pay and contest a tax would be barred from contesting the tax in precisely the circumstance that section 505 was intended to address. Defendant's argument on this issue is not persuasive.

(b) This Court Purportedly Lacks Jurisdiction to Decide a Facial Challenge to the Validity of a State Tax Regulation

Defendant argues that this Court lacks jurisdiction to determine the constitutionality of Regulation § 1702.6 because Plaintiff/Debtor does not challenge the adjudication of the tax, but actually challenges the constitutionality of the regulation by seeking declaratory relief, and such an action for declaratory relief must be brought pursuant to state law. How does that deprive this Court of jurisdiction?

Section 505 gives this Court jurisdiction to "determine the amount or legality of any tax." § 505(a)(1) (emphasis added). Virtually all adversary proceedings before a bankruptcy court under § 505 will seek declaratory relief establishing the amount of a tax or whether the tax was legally assessed. Moreover, Defendant cites no authority for its proposition that this Court has no jurisdiction because Plaintiff/Debtor has asserted a facial challenge to the regulation.

(c) The CDTFA has Found No Authority Holding that Section 505 Confers Jurisdiction over the Constitutional Grounds of a Tax

Defendant argues that there is no authority conferring jurisdiction to this Court under § 505 because the challenge is on constitutional grounds. But, to the contrary, the CDTFA has not cited any authority that, just because Plaintiff/Debtor's challenge to the legality of the tax is on constitutional grounds, this Court lacks jurisdiction under § 505.

Section 505 permits this Court to "determine the amount or legality of any tax . . . whether or not paid." § 505(a)(1) (emphasis added). Section 505 does not limit this Court's jurisdictions to non-constitutional legal challenges to a tax. In fact, section 505 (a)(2) sets forth specific limitations on the bankruptcy courts' jurisdiction to determine the amount or legality of a tax, and none of the exceptions refers to constitutional challenges.

(d) The Purported Lack of Discharge Grounds

Defendant reiterates its argument made in its initial motion that Plaintiff/Debtor has failed to state a claim for dischargeability. Construing the Complaint in the light most favorable to Plaintiff/Debtor, he is seeking a declaratory judgment, before committing to devoting all of his disposable income for five years, that such lengthy commitment will not be in vain. Indeed, it would make little practical sense for Plaintiff/Debtor to commit to a five year plan when there is no chance of him obtaining a discharge, despite his complying with the plan. Defendant has not shown how there is anything wrong with that approach.

(e) The CDTFA has Moved to Dismiss Plaintiff/Debtor's Chapter 13 Case

Defendant argues that it has filed a motion to dismiss Plaintiff/Debtor's chapter 13 case and that the dismissal of the bankruptcy case would deprive this Court of jurisdiction under § 505. The tentative ruling is that this is Defendant's only persuasive argument in favor of dismissal.

Chapter 13

If Plaintiff/Debtor's chapter 13 case is dismissed, it appears that this Court would have no jurisdiction over this case pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1334. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to continue this hearing to the date and time set forth above, concurrent with this Court's hearing on Defendant's motion to dismiss Plaintiff/Debtor's chapter 13 case.

(f) Defendant's Abstention Argument

Defendant argues that even if this Court determines it has jurisdiction, it should decline to exercise its discretion because the review of a state regulation is not a core matter. This argument is unpersuasive for two alternative reasons.

First, this is a core matter. It arises under section 505 of the Code (and, to the extent dischargeability issues are involved, section 1328 of the Code). Those are unambiguously core proceedings. See 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(2)(B), (I).

Second, there is no non-bankruptcy proceeding to which this Court can abstain. If Debtor truly is unable to comply with the "pay-first" requirement, he cannot obtain an adjudication of his claims outside of a bankruptcy case. If he were to return to the nonbankruptcy CDTFA forum or the State Courts, he would be barred. So abstention would be a fiction: any "abstention" would be denial of any relief.

(g) Conclusion as to Defendant's MTD

If Debtor truly is unable to satisfy California's pay-first requirement, then his claims appear to be precisely what section 505 was intended to address. This Court presumably will address that issue at the hearing on Defendant's motion to dismiss Debtor's bankruptcy case. Therefore the tentative ruling is to continue this hearing to be concurrent with the hearing on that motion.

Chapter 13

(A) Current issues

(1) Background

Plaintiff/Debtor's complaint (adv. no. 2:20-ap-01656-NB, dkt.1) seeks:

(a) tax adjudication: an order or judgment under 11 U.S.C. 505 disallowing the $71,521.41 claim no.3 of Defendant (a California tax authority) as "invalid and unconstitutional" or, in the alternative,

(b) discharge: a determination under 11 U.S.C. 1328 that the claim is dischargeable. See id., p.6 (prayer for relief).

Defendant's tax claim apparently is founded on a sales tax assessment made under Cal. Code. Regs. tit. 18, §1702.6, which provides for personal liability of corporate officers and stockholders in certain circumstances.

(2) Defendant's Motion to Dismiss (dkt. 4), Plaintiff's Opposition (dkt. 7) and Defendant's Reply (dkt. 8, 9).

Defendant moves to dismiss Plaintiff's claim under 11 U.S.C. 505, asserting that this Bankruptcy Court lacks jurisdiction to hear the proceeding pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 505(a)(2)(A). In the alternative Defendant asserts that if this Bankruptcy Court rules that it does have jurisdiction, then based on discretionary abstention and comity this claim should not be heard. The tentative ruling is to DENY the request to dismiss the Plaintiff's claim under 11 U.S.C. 505 for the reasons stated below.

Defendant also moved to dismiss Plaintiff/Debtor's claim under 11 U.S.C. 1328. The tentative ruling is to DENY that request as well, for the reasons stated below.

The tentative ruling is that much of Defendant's objection (adv.dkt.9) to Plaintiff/Debtor's request for judicial notice ("RJN," adv.dkt.7) is well taken. But the tentative ruling is that this makes no difference to the outcome of the MTD.

(a) 11 U.S.C. § 505(a)(2)(A) does not Deprive this Bankruptcy Court of Jurisdiction, nor has Defendant established that dismissal is appropriate as a matter of discretionary abstention, comity, or other principles

Under 11 U.S.C. § 505(a)(2)(A) a bankruptcy court may not determine the legality of a tax if the legality of the tax previously was contested before and adjudicated by a judicial or administrative tribunal. 11 U.S.C. § 505(a)(2)

Chapter 13

(A) is a statutory embodiment of the principles of res judicata. See Cent. Valley Agric. Enters. v. United States, 531 F.3d 750, 755 (9th Cir. 2008). Plaintiff argues that res judicata cannot apply here because none of the prior proceedings addressed the merits of Plaintiff's challenge to the legality of the tax assessment.

On the one hand, Defendant points out that this adversary proceeding is the latest among numerous administrative hearings and State Court cases for much of the past a decade in which Plaintiff/Debtor challenged his tax liability, including raising the same challenges he now makes. It is certainly frustrating to have such long-running litigation.

On the other hand, the tentative ruling is that Plaintiff/Debtor is correct that none of these proceedings resulted in a final adjudication on the merits of his current claims - in fact, the administrative tribunals and the State Court expressly declined to reach those merits, at the request of Defendant (or its predecessor agency). The hearing panels convened by the administrative agency refused to question the legality of its own regulation, and the State Courts dismissed Plaintiff/Debtor's cases as they were barred by the requirement that Plaintiff/Debtor "pay first" and then sue for a refund, under Article XIII, Section 32 of the California Constitution. Adv.dkt. 4-1, PDF pp. 57-58. Without a final adjudication there is no res judicata, and the exception in 11 U.S.C. 505(a)(2)(A) does not apply.

True, Article XIII, Section 32 of the California Constitution normally would bars Plaintiff/Debtor's complaint because it requires that challenged tax assessments must be paid and can only be challenged via a postpayment refund action. But bankruptcy courts are vested with the authority to decide tax issues pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 505, without requiring debtors to pay the tax liability first.

The policy behind this statutory scheme is to "protect[] a debtor from being bound by a pre-bankruptcy tax liability determination that, because of a lack of financial resources, he or she was unable to contest." In re Mantz, 343 F.3d 1207, 1211 (9th Cir. 2003) (emphasis added). See also Cent. Valley AG Enter. v. U.S., 531 F.3d 750, 755 (quoting and following Mantz).

As for principles of comity, Plaintiff/Debtor has cited authority that California itself would not apply res judicata to bar his claims. Nor does it appear that discretionary abstention is appropriate when the claims that Plaintiff/Debtor now seeks to assert have never been addressed, because of the "pay first" requirement.

Chapter 13

True, Defendant asserts that Plaintiff/Debtor has resources that he has not disclosed, and that perhaps, unlike a typical debtor in bankruptcy, other creditors would not be harmed by enforcing the "pay first" requirement, and there would be no unfairness to Plaintiff/Debtor. But the tentative ruling is that (i) such evidentiary issues cannot be adjudicated in the context of a motion to dismiss; (ii) there is insufficient evidence presented; (iii) there are other remedies, such as dismissal of Plaintiff/Debtor's bankruptcy case, and possibly the imposition of a bar under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1), if it turns out that he is omitting assets or otherwise misusing the bankruptcy system; and (iv) any such considerations of the facts of this particular case do not bear on the interpretation of 11 U.S.C. 505.

For all of the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is that this Court has jurisdiction to hear this case, because none of the prior proceedings concluded with an "adjudication" as set forth in 11 U.S.C. § 505(a)(2)(A). Nor, in this motion to dismiss context, is this Bankruptcy Court persuaded that principles of comity or discretionary abstention prevent the consideration of Plaintiff/Debtor's claims under the "pay first" rule. Conceivably, if the record is further developed, such issues could be revisited in a motion to abstain or some other motion or proceeding, but that is not the subject of today's hearing and this Bankruptcy Court expresses no view on these issues.

(b) Dischargeability

Defendant asserts that a discharge is only granted upon completion of payments under 11 U.S.C. 1328, and no plan has yet been confirmed, so Plaintiff/Debtor fails to state a claim on which relief can be granted. But, construing the Complaint in the light most favorable to Plaintiff/Debtor (as this Bankruptcy Court must in the MTD context), he is seeking a declaratory judgment, before committing to devoting all of his disposable income for five years, that such commitment will not be in vain.

The tentative ruling is that this is a proper use of a complaint for declaratory relief. Defendant has not cited any contrary authority.

(3) Future proceedings

The parties should be prepared to address anticipated future proceedings, and whether this Court should set deadlines or procedures. As a starting point, Plaintiff/Debtor is directed to clarify his theory of this adversary proceeding.

Chapter 13

He acknowledges that Cal. Rev. & Tax. Code § 6829 provides for liability for corporate officers "or other person having control or supervision of, or who is charged with the responsibility for the filing of returns or the payment of tax," for unremitted sales and use taxes upon the "termination, dissolution or abandonment of the business of a corporation." See RJN (adv.dkt.7) Ex.5 at PDF p.55 (emphasis added), and see also id. at 162:21-25. His theory appears to be that Defendant (or its predecessor agency) acted beyond its authority when it promulgated a regulation (Cal. Code. Regs. tit. 18 §1702.6, RJN (adv.dkt.7) Ex.9 at PDF pp.85-87) interpreting the "termination" or "abandonment" of a "business" to include periods when the corporation was suspended and thus prohibited by law from conducting any business. Complaint (adv.dkt.1), pp. 3:16–19, 4:1–5. Plaintiff/Debtor is directed to clarify whether that is his theory.

Proposed order: Plaintiff/Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); *In re Bellingham Ins. #4.00 Hrg re: Motion to Dismiss with a Bar to Refiling

Docket 41

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as set forth below. Appearances are not required.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The tentative ruling is to grant the motion for the reasons set forth in the motion (dkt. 41) and reply (dkt. 46) of the California Department of Tax and Fee Administration (the "Tax Authority"), except for the assertion that "[a] bankruptcy filing by a solvent debtor is improper." Motion (dkt.41), p.2:21 (citations omitted).

Most importantly, and without limiting the considerations stated in the Tax Authority's papers:

- (1) Debtor has failed to establish that he is unable to meet the "pay first" requirement of California law;
- (2) Debtor has failed to establish that he has any other purpose in filing this bankruptcy case except to evade the "pay first" requirement; and
- (3) his proposed chapter 13 plan fails to include either a "pay first" provision or - supposing for the sake of discussion that Debtor were unable to pay his tax debts up front - a provision for a disputed claims reserve that would include
 - (a) as much as he can afford to pay up front and
 - (b) payment of the remainder out of his disposable income (and, if that were insufficient, perhaps Debtor would need to explore whether he could make such payments in a chapter 11 case, so that his bankruptcy petition would not be simply a method of evading California's pay first rule).

Based on these issues, and the other facts and circumstances, the Tax

Tentative Ruling for 3/18/21:

Continue to 4/22/21 at 8:30 a.m. in view of the parties' settlement reported by the mediator (dkt. 42). The continuance is intended to provide the parties time to do whatever is needed to implement that settlement (e.g., documenting their settlement, filing any amended proof of claim, and/or filing and serving any motion to approve a compromise, if one were to be required under Rule 9019, Fed. R. Bankr. P. - this Court expresses no view which of these acts, if any, might be required). Appearances are not required on 3/18/21.

Note: This Court anticipates that the continued hearing might well go off calendar if whatever the parties do moots this claim objection (or if Debtor files a withdrawal of this claim objection).

Tentative Ruling for 3/18/21:

Based on the arguments and representations of the Trustee on 2/18/21, this Court continued the matter to allow time for the Trustee to review Debtor's gambling records. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to provide an update on the status of that review, and address the merits of the motion.

Tentative Ruling for 2/18/21:

Appearances required. Debtor is directed to address the issues raised by the Chapter 13 Trustee (dkt. 95) and whether Debtor's response (dkt. 103) sufficiently addresses the Trustee's concerns.

On the one hand, Debtor's age, retirement status, extremely modest budget, and increases in monthly mortgage payments all favor some leeway in permitting Debtor's proposed modification of her confirmed chapter 13 plan. On the other hand, this Court is concerned that Debtor's math (and her allegations) do not entirely "add up."

In particular, although Debtor asserts (a) that she spends a "de minimis" amount on gambling and (b) that the $61,675.00 of winnings and $52,631.00 of losses on her tax returns are gross amounts that do not accurately reflect the netting of wins and losses, nevertheless (i) the net appears to be approximately $9,000 of winnings ($61,675.00 - $52,631.00 = $9,044.00) that were not used to pay creditors; and (ii) she admits (dkt.103, para.7) to visiting a casino "about 5 times" in 2019, and "load[ing] up the card" with approximately $300 or $400 each time (although there is some ambiguity about whether sometimes those dollar amounts are reduced by carrying over alleged winnings from prior gambling), which would appear to mean an admission that she spent approximately $1,500 to $2,000 on gambling instead of paying her creditors. In addition, Debtor appears to be asserting that she generally wins (to the extent she is asserting that her winnings are carried over), and yet her own evidence (dkt.103, Ex.C) is that the casino has the edge and gamblers generally lose. In addition, this Court is concerned that Debtor's extremely modest budget (dkt.103, Ex.B) does not appear to reflect any ability to use $300 or $400 on each visit to a casino, even supposing significant "belt tightening" by Debtor. All of this calls into question whether Debtor is hiding other sources of income, and/or otherwise being less than truthful.

At the hearing on 2/18/21, this Court was persuaded to continue the matter to this date so that Debtor could file an amended motion, which she has now done (dkt.58). Debtor previously sought 6 months of suspension and extension, and now she seeks 9 months (although, confusingly, her amended motion states that the last proposed payment would be only 36 months after the initial payment, which this Court presumes is a typographical error).

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address whether the issues raised by the Chapter 13 Trustee (dkt. 48) have been resolved.

Appearances required.

Based on the arguments and representations of the parties on 2/18/21, this Court continued the matter for Debtor to pursue a refinance of the property. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to provide an update on the status of any refinance.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 2/18/21:

Based on the arguments and representations of the parties on 12/17/20, this Court continued the matter to this date to allow time for them to negotiate the terms of a cash collateral stipulation. But after the hearing Debtor filed a motion to refinance the subject property and pay off First Commerce, LLC's lien in full, which this Court granted. See dkt. 36, 39. There is no tentative ruling. The parties should be prepared to address (1) whether the refinance transaction did or did not close; (2) whether, if the refinancing did close, there is a need for retroactive approval of Debtor's use of First Commerce, LLC's cash collateral prior to its payoff or whether that issue is now moot; and (3) whether there is a need for this Court to authorize prospective use of the new lender's cash collateral.

Docket 41

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Chapter 13

#10.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order
Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic
Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 17

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following. Appearance required by Debtor's counsel.

(A) No fees for appearance at hearing

This Court notes that the motion originally was filed on 3/9/21 (dkt. 8) with an incorrect hearing date and time and on shorter notice than permitted by the "Posted Procedures of Judge Bason" (the "Procedures," available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov). This Court further notes that the amended motion (dkt. 17) was also filed on shorter notice than is permitted (3/23/21 - 14 days = 3/9/21 deadline to file motion). Furthermore, the amended motion fails to attach the declaration from Debtor that was attached to the original motion (compare dkt. 8, pp.12-13 with dkt. 17).

All of the foregoing issues provide shorter and less adequate notice to creditors, and might result in denial of the motion if any creditor establishes undue prejudice. If Debtor's counsel had not made these errors, this Court would have excused his appearance. Therefore, the tentative ruling is that Counsel is directed not to charge any fees for appearing at this hearing.

(B) Form of order

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

(3) Very limited ruling. This Court's tentative ruling to grant the foregoing relief is solely for purposes of this motion, and is not intended to have any binding effect with respect to any future assertions by any party in interest regarding the existence or lack of existence of good faith in any other context.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing. #8.00 Status conference re: Complaint to determine non-dischargeability of debt [11 U.S.C. section 523(a)(4) and (6)]

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

(A) Current issues

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv.dkt. 8) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. See generally Stern v. Marshall, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2608 (2011) (if litigant "believed that the Bankruptcy Court lacked the authority to decide his claim...then he should have said so – and said so promptly."); Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S.Ct. 1932 (2015) (consent must be knowing and voluntary but need not be express); In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc., 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012) (implied consent), aff'd on other grounds, 134 S. Ct. 2165 (2014); In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447 (9th Cir. BAP 2013) (rebuttable presumption that failure to challenge authority to issue final order is intentional and indicates consent); In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1028 (9th Cir. 2014) (authority to adjudicate nondischargeability encompasses authority to liquidate debt and enter final judgment). See generally In re AWTR Liquidation, Inc., 548 B.R. 300 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016).

(2) Mediation

Is there is any reason why this Court should not order the parties to mediation before one of the volunteer mediators (not a Bankruptcy Judge), and meanwhile set the deadlines set forth below? The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/6/21 for the parties to lodge a proposed mediation order (the parties are directed to use the time between now and that deadline to find a mutually agreeable mediator whose schedule can accommodate the needs of this matter; and if the parties cannot even agree on a mediator they may lodge separate orders and Judge Bason will chose among them, or issue his own order).

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 1/21/21. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following.

Chapter 11

#2.00 Status conference re: Chapter 11 case

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor and by Debtor herself.

(1) Current issues

(a) Budget motion

Debtor's status report states that a budget motion is not required by the presiding judge's procedures. Dkt. 32, p.3. That is wrong (see posted "Procedures of Judge Bason," available at www.uscourts.gov). The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/30/21 for Debtor to file a budget motion with a hearing concurrent with the continued status conference. Counsel is cautioned not to mis-state the applicable procedures in future.

(b) Gambling

Debtor has a serious gambling problem, according to at least two sources. First, this Court's records (from a hearing on 6/13/19, and associated filed documents in case no. 2:14-bk-20138-NB) indicate that Debtor's previous bankruptcy case was dismissed due to problems caused by Debtor's gambling. Second, in this current case Debtor's Statement Of Financial Affairs ("SOFA") states on line 5 that Debtor has had substantial gross income from gambling in 2019 ($48,306.00 gross income) and 2020 ($50,108.00 gross income). See SOFA (dkt.6), p.2. It is unclear what net income (or loss) Debtor has had from gambling, although in her papers filed in her prior case she vaguely asserted that her gross income was artificially inflated by the way that casinos report winnings, and she implied that her net income was small (or perhaps she had a net loss).

Based on the limited information available from Debtor's filed documents, it appears that either (i) she failed to devote her gambling winnings to paying her creditors, or alternatively (ii) she actually suffering losses, which were being funded somehow, and thus she must have been under-reporting her income. In any event, Debtor failed to "do the math" in her prior bankruptcy case to explain her true financial picture.

Is Debtor still gambling? Is she receiving treatment for her apparent gambling addiction? How can creditors have any assurance that, in this latest bankruptcy case, Debtor either has stopped gambling or is keeping her gambling to a very low amount that is taken out of funds that would not otherwise go to creditors? How can creditors have any assurance that Debtor has been truthful and will in future devote all disposable income to paying her debts? What tangible remedies could be imposed to provide assurances to creditors?

(c) Bankruptcy schedules (dkt.21)

Debtor's Bankruptcy Schedule J (dkt.21 at PFD p.43) does not list any gambling expense. Has Debtor entirely stopped gambling? If she alleges so, how can that be verified?

(d) Attorney fees

Debtor's SOFA states on line 16 that Debtor paid $-0- to her proposed bankruptcy counsel. See SOFA (dkt. 6), at PDF p.4. That is inconsistent with other filed documents, and not credible; but Debtor signed the SOFA under penalty of perjury. Again, how can creditors rely on anything that Debtor says if she is prepared to sign false documents?

(e) Lawsuit

What is the nature and status of the lawsuit identified in line 9 of the SOFA? Debtor reports that she disputes the allegations and has filed a response. Will Debtor be seeking authorization to hire special counsel?

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 3/2/21.

(a) Bar date: 6/16/21 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

(b) Procedures order: dkt.18 (timely served, dkt.25)

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement: TBD

(d) Continued status conference: 4/27/21 at 1:00 p.m. No written status report required.

Chapter 11

#3.00 Status conference re: Chapter 11 case

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor and by Debtor himself.

(1) Current issues

This is Debtor's eighth bankruptcy case since 2000. This latest case is off to a bad start, as detailed below. Debtor is directed to address whether this Court should dismiss this case with a permanent bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy, or impose other relief.

(a) Status report

Debtor has ignored this Court's order to file a status report. See Procedures Order, dkt. 14. If this case is not dismissed, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/30/21 to file the required status report and serve it on all creditors.

(b) "First Day" motions

Debtor has failed to file any so-called "first day" motions. For example, (i) although Debtor's prior case (Case No. 2:20-bk-17479-NB) was dismissed on 2/11/21, Debtor has failed to file a motion in this case to continue the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3), so it appears that the automatic stay has expired; (ii) Debtor has not filed a budget motion, which is particularly important because in Debtor's prior case there were allegations that Debtor was hiding income; and (iii) Debtor has not filed a payroll motion (which might be needed if his "part time contract laborer" or any other persons are employed/hired by Debtor, as distinguished from being employed by Debtor's business in its ordinary course, see dkt.12, at PDF p.13), etc. The damage from not having filed such motions might be irreparable.

For example, as noted above, the automatic stay appears to have expired, with no opportunity to extend it (per section 362(c)(3)). This means that (x) Debtor and the bankruptcy estate appear to be exposed to the risk that lienholders will foreclose on the principal asset of the estate (Debtor's home), (y) creditors might be free to seek to levy on bank accounts and otherwise collect debts, which presumably could interfere with any effort to reorganize, and (z) if creditors are free to pursue their remedies that can be a "race to collect," which is potentially unfair to creditors. For all of these reasons, this Court questions whether this bankruptcy case should be dismissed.

If this case is not dismissed, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/30/21 to file whatever "first day" motions are appropriate, with a hearing concurrent with the continued status conference. Debtor is directed to address at the hearing what motions are required or appropriate.

(c) Unreported income/expenses

Debtor apparently has income from a property or business but has failed to provide a breakdown of gross receipts, ordinary and necessary business expenses, and calculation of the resulting monthly net income as directed by the form. See dkt. 12 at PDF p.24 (bankruptcy schedule "I" line 8a).

Debtor is reminded that this Court's Procedures Order (dkt.14) requires him to report all income and expenses from his business as if it were a co-debtor in bankruptcy, including on Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs").

If this case is not dismissed, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/30/21 for Debtor to file an amended Schedule I with a comprehensive breakdown of gross revenues, expenses, and net income. The tentative ruling is that such a breakdown must be accompanied by Debtor's declaration under penalty of perjury, with copies of receipts and other documentation to establish an accurate picture of Debtor's typical monthly income and expenses.

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 3/3/21. If this case is not dismissed, the tentative ruling is to set the following dates/deadlines:

(a) Bar date: 6/16/21 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

(b) Procedures order: dkt.14 (timely served, dkt.21, amended by dkt. 22)

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement: TBD

(d) Continued status conference: 4/27/21 at 1:00 p.m.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

#4.00 Status conference re: Chapter 11 case

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor and by Debtor's principal.

(1) Current issues

(a) Untimely Status report

Debtor filed its status report (dkt. 15) four days late, on 3/13/21, without providing any explanation for the late filing. Debtor/counsel are cautioned that failure to timely comply with this Court's orders in future may result in adverse consequences.

(b) First-day motions

Debtor's status report states that a budget motion is not required by the presiding judge's procedures. Dkt. 15, p.3. That is wrong (see posted "Procedures of Judge Bason," available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov), but the tentative ruling is to excuse this requirement with a caution to counsel not to mis-state the applicable procedures.

If Debtor has not filed an employment application or any other typical so-called "first-day" motion(s) by the time of this hearing, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/30/21 for Debtor to file any outstanding motion(s) with a hearing concurrent with the continued status conference. Debtor is directed to address at the hearing what other motions are required or appropriate.

(c) Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs")

As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, Debtor has not filed its February MOR. Why not?

(d) Only two creditors?

Debtor's creditor matrix includes only two creditors. Is that really true? How about the City of Fontana which, according to Debtor's Status Report (dkt.15), is considering citations for alleged "violations" of some sort? How about former employees, tax authorities, and other typical creditors?

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 3/23/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issue: Debtor's objection to Claim 2 filed by Yunuen Campos (dkt. 257), Ms. Campos' opposition (dkt. 261), Debtor's reply (dkt. 266)

The tentative ruling to sustain the claim objection either in full or subject only to relatively simple additional proceedings if required. Capitalized terms have the meaning in the parties papers, unless otherwise defined below.

(a) Section 502(d) does not yet apply, but it will require that Ms. Campos either pay the Fuller Judgments to Debtor or reduce her claim, so in determining what Debtor must pay her, it is appropriate to reduce her claim in the dollar amount of the Fuller Judgments

Section 502(d) provides, in relevant part:

...the court shall disallow any claim of any entity from which property is recoverable under section 542 ...unless such entity or transferee has paid the amount ... for which such entity or transferee is liable under section ...542.... [11 U.S.C. 502(d) (emphasis added)].

Section 542(b) provides that (with inapplicable exceptions), any person that "owes a debt that is property of the estate" and that is payable "shall pay such debt" to the debtor in possession, "except to the extent that such debt may be offset under section 553 of this title against a claim against the debtor." (Emphasis added.) Section 553 permits a creditor to "offset a mutual debt owing by such creditor to the debtor ... against a claim of such creditor against the debtor"

Debtor has acquired rights to the Fuller Judgments against Ms.

Campos. But, as this Court understands the current arrangements between Debtor and Mr. Fuller, those judgments are not yet payable to Debtor. Rather, those judgments will be assigned to Debtor on the Effective Date of Debtor's proposed Plan. See Plan (dkt. 250) (redlined version) at PDF pp.23-24.

Therefore, under the foregoing statutory provisions, section 502(d) is not yet applicable, but if the Plan is confirmed then it will apply. In other words, if the Plan is confirmed and Debtor holds the Fuller Judgments (i.e., as of the Effective Date), Ms. Campos either would have to pay the Fuller Judgments or she would have to exercise her right to setoff with respect to whatever allowed claim she may have against Debtor. If Ms. Campos were to fail to do either of those things, her full claim would be disallowed. So it is appropriate, for purposes of determining the allowed amount of Ms. Campos' claim that will need to be paid if the Plan is confirmed, to reduce that claim by the dollar amount she owes under the Fuller Judgments.

Alternatively, Ms. Campos is not the only party who can elect to apply setoff. Debtor also can do so, because that is a permissible treatment of any claim, and that is what Debtor contemplates for purposes of his proposed Plan. See Claim Obj. (dkt. 257), pp. 9:11-11:1. In other words, this is an alternative reason why, for purposes of the upcoming hearing on whether or not to confirm Debtor's proposed Plan, it is appropriate for Debtor to elect to calculate the dollar amount that would be remaining based on setoff (or payment by Ms. Campos), which is what Debtor has done. See id.

Ms. Campos has not established any error in Debtor's calculations. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to sustain the claim objection and determine that Ms. Campos has $751,856.36 claim for purposes of Debtor's proposed Plan. All of the foregoing is subject to any accounting that might be required with respect to any prepetition setoffs - see part "(1)(d)" of this Tentative Ruling, below.

(b) No adversary proceeding is required

An adversary proceeding would be required if this Court had to determine the "validity, priority, or extent" of any lien or other interest in property of the estate. Rules 3007(b), 7001(1) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). But the parties do not appear to be actually contesting any such validity, priority, or extent, either as to accounts receivable generated prepetition or any such accounts generated postpetition.

Chapter 11

It is true that Debtor argues (dkt. 257, pp. 18:22-19:3) that his earlier chapter 7 bankruptcy case (Case No. 2:17-bk-15115-ER) has terminated any interest Ms. Campos in subsequent accounts. This Court expresses no opinion on that issue. The only point is that, as to prepetition accounts, Debtor is not pressing his argument that Ms. Campos purportedly has no interest in those accounts. To the contrary, Debtor appears to be acceding to Ms. Campos' collection and application of prepetition accounts (apparently so as not to expend time and money on litigating over relatively minor dollar amounts). In any event, whatever Debtor's motivations, there does not appear to be any actual controversy over the validity, priority, or extent of Ms. Campos' asserted interests in prepetition accounts.

As for postpetition accounts, it appears from Ms. Campos' opposition to Debtor's claim objection that she is not pressing her earlier claims to an interest in such accounts. In her Opposition papers, she refers only to an interest in "pre-petition Accounts Receivable," and she does not specifically mention postpetition accounts. Opp., (dkt.261) p.7:1-2 (footnote omitted, emphasis added).

Therefore, it appears that there is no actual controversy as to the "validity, priority, or extent" of any lien or other interest in property (Rule 7001, Fed. R. Bankr. P.), as to either prepetition or postpetition accounts, and no adversary proceeding is required. At the hearing, the parties are directed to confirm whether this is so.

(c) Alternatively, if any adversary proceeding is required, the issues can be addressed quickly in the existing adversary proceeding, without delaying the confirmation hearing

Alternatively, if Ms. Campos wishes to renew her prior assertions that she has either an absolute ownership of Debtor's postpetition accounts, or a security interest in those accounts, it appears that any such assertions can be briefed and argued without undue delay for three reasons. First, those issues have already been discussed on a preliminary basis at prior hearings and briefed in Debtor's claim objection. Second, the parties and this Court can use the current hearing to clarify any remaining issues to be addressed. Third, as discussed below, any litigation over these issues does not need to delay the confirmation hearing.

The tentative ruling, if Ms. Campos wishes to pursue this option, is to modify this Court's prior order staying Ms. Campos' existing adversary proceeding (Adv. No. 2:20-ap-01626-NB, adv. dkt. 10) to provide Ms. Campos with an opportunity to file a motion for partial summary judgment or other appropriate papers in that adversary proceeding. In that event, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/6/20 for Ms. Campos to file and serve her papers, a deadline of 4/13/21 for any response by Debtor, a dealine of 4/20/21 for any reply by Ms. Campos, and a hearing on 4/27/21 at 1:00 p.m.

In addition, the tentative ruling is that any such proceedings need not delay the confirmation hearing. Debtor's proposed Plan will pay Ms. Campos 100% of her claim (in the reduced dollar amount to which she agreed, which this Court has determined is binding). Debtor's proposed Plan provides that Debtor is not impairing that claim at all, and that "to the extent valid, enforceable and perfected, the Plan leaves unaltered the rights, if any, to which Campos is entitled pursuant to the Campos Assignment Order, all subject to all of Debtor's defenses" Plan (dkt. 251, Ex.1), at PDF p. 43.

In other words, it does not appear to matter, for purposes of the confirmation hearing, whether Ms. Campos' claim is or is not secured: either way, her rights will not be changed by the Plan. Therefore, as a matter of calendar management, the tentative ruling is that any litigation regarding Ms. Campos' alleged security interest need not delay the hearing on whether or not to confirm Debtor's proposed Plan.

(d) Estimation under Section 502(c) is unnecessary, and would make no difference in any event

Under 11 U.S.C. 502(c)(1), "there shall be estimated" any "contingent or unliquidated claim, the fixing or liquidation of which, as the case may be, would unduly delay the administration of the case." The tentative ruling is that no aspect of Ms. Campos' claim falls under this statutory provision because for purposes of determining the dollar amount of Ms. Campos' claim to be paid in Debtor's proposed Plan, there are no remaining "contingent" or "unliquidated" aspects of the claim.

(i) The dollar amount is no longer contingent

As of the petition date the dollar amount of Ms. Campos' claim was contingent: it depended on whether the preconditions to her settlement with Debtor would or would not be satisfied. But that will not be so if Debtor's proposed Plan is confirmed, so for purposes of determining what Debtor must pay under that Plan there is no cognizable contingency.

This Court has already determined that the parties' settlement embodied in the Mediation Term Sheet can be enforced, so the starting point for Ms. Campos' claim is the reduced dollar amount under that settlement. Although that issue is on appeal, there is no stay pending appeal.

Ms. Campos appears to argue that this Court must ignore the satisfaction of the contingency that will occur if the Plan is confirmed, because that will occur postpetition. Ms. Campos cites 11 U.S.C. 502(b), under which this Court must determine the dollar amount of her claim "as of the date of the filing of the petition, and ... allow such claim in such amount." See Campos Opp. (dkt. 261), p. 4:15-25 (citations omitted).

The tentative ruling is that Ms. Campos misconstrues the statute. If this Court were to adopt her interpretation that postpetition events are irrelevant then, for example, any creditor who was granted relief from the automatic stay and foreclosed on its collateral would still have a secured claim for the entire dollar amount, because the foreclosure occurred postpetition so it would not be considered.

That is not what the statute requires. Claims must be determined as of the petition date, but postpetition events can affect the dollar amount. Ms. Campos cites no contrary authority on point.

(ii) Any uncertainty from the appeal goes to feasibility, which can be addressed at the confirmation hearing

Of course, even though Ms. Campos has not obtained any stay pending appeal, the outcome of that appeal has the potential to affect the dollar amount of Ms. Campos' claim. This Court recognizes that the risk of reversal could affect the feasibility of Debtor's plan - i.e., whether the possibility of a reversal would render it "likely" that confirmation would be followed by liquidation or the need for further financial reorganization. 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(10). But that is an issue that can be addressed at any confirmation hearing, so this issue will not "unduly delay the administration of the case." 11 U.S.C. 502(c)(1).

(iii) Alternatively, if estimation were required, the tentative ruling is to estimate Ms. Campos' claim pursuant to the Mediation Term Sheet

Supposing for the sake of discussion that estimation were required (although the tentative ruling is that it is not), Ms. Campos has not established any reason why this Court would apply a different analysis to estimation under section 502(c) from this Court's analysis in prior proceedings holding that the Mediation Term Sheet is enforceable. Accordingly, even if section 502(c) were to apply, the tentative ruling is that the result would be the same.

Chapter 11

For all of the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is that nothing in section 502(c) changes this Court's analysis.

(d) Accounting

To the extent there is any issue as to the proper dollar amount of prepetition accounts receivable, that can be resolved by an accounting. See Claim Obj. (dkt. 257), pp. 9:11-11:1 (Debtor has not independently verified Ms. Campos' accounting); Campos Opp. (dkt. 261) p. 7:2-7 (Ms. Campos has not verified Debtor's accounting and suspects that outstanding payments from Medicare have not been accounted for). To the extent that any discovery is required on that issue, the parties are directed to address a schedule for such discovery.

In any event, any such accounting need not delay this Court's consideration of whether to confirm Debtor's proposed plan. It is very common for claim objections to be resolved post-confirmation.

Chapter 11

Tentative Ruling for 1/26/21:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues
(a) [Intentionally omitted]

(b) Campos v. Kennedy (Adv. No. 2:20-ap-01626-NB)

This Court has reviewed the parties joint status report (adv. dkt. 8) and the other filed documents in the adversary proceeding and the bankruptcy case. The tentative ruling is that, purely as a scheduling matter - and without making any binding determinations on the merits of the adversary proceeding - it is appropriate to stay the adversary proceeding and move forward with Debtor's attempts to confirm his proposed Plan, including his contemplated motion to disallow Ms. Campos' claimed security interest or ownership interest in Debtor's receivables, because Debtor asserts that his motion and/or confirmation of the Plan would moot the adversary proceeding. If this Court ultimately were to rule against Debtor on these issues, all rights would be preserved to litigate the (not-mooted) adversary proceeding.

This Court's understanding of Debtor's theory is as follows, based largely on the parties' prior oral arguments and the proposed Disclosure Statement, Exhibit "L" (dkt.230 at PDF pp.52-54). If the Mediation Term Sheet is an assumed, binding agreement between Debtor and Ms. Campos then, under Debtor's theory, it would be inconsistent with that agreement to treat Debtor's obligations to Ms. Campos as a secured claim, or to treat 25% of Debtor's earnings (or any other percentage) as belonging to Ms. Campos. In other words, either of those things would be contrary to the carefully negotiated settlement of the parties.

The tentative ruling is that there is enough support for this argument that it makes sense, in the interests of efficiency, to stay the adversary proceeding while Debtor is pursuing this theory. Specifically, this Court takes judicial notice that the Mediation Term Sheet expressly provides for a schedule of payments and states that the obligations shall be nondischargeable, but does not provide for such obligations to be secured by any collateral, or for any of Debtor's future earnings to belong to Ms. Campos. Therefore Debtor has at least a colorable argument that permitting Ms.

Campos to assert ownership of Debtor's future earnings, or a security interest in those earnings, would be inconsistent with the carefully balanced give-and-take of their settlement, embodied in the Mediation Term Sheet.

True, prior to the petition date, when the parties were disputing whether or not the Mediation Term Sheet was binding and whether either of them breached it, Ms. Campos was free to pursue collection from Dr. Kennedy (Debtor), subject to whatever defenses and counterclaims he had at that time. But now, as this Court understands Debtor's position, under the Supremacy Clause of the United States Constitution and the provisions of the Bankruptcy Code including the automatic stay and the Code's provisions for assumption of executory contracts, Ms. Campos is barred from pursuing collection attempts or asserting any interest in Debtor's postpetition earnings that would be contrary to her agreement embodied in the Mediation Term Sheet.

For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is to stay all matters in this adversary proceeding until further order of this Bankruptcy Court, and meanwhile proceed with Debtor's attempts to disallow some of Ms. Campos' claim, and his attempt to confirm the proposed Plan. Again, this is purely a scheduling issue, and if Debtor fails in those attempts then all rights are reserved regarding the issues in the adversary proceeding.

The tentative ruling is to set a continued status conference in this adversary proceeding for 4/27/21 at 1:00 p.m.

Tentative Ruling for 11/10/20:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor and by Debtor's principal, Wayne Tsang.

(1) Current issues

This Court has reviewed Debtor's status reports (dkt.12, 13) and the other filed documents and records in this case.

(a) Executory contract(s)?

Debtor reports (dkt.12, p.2) that its "sole asset in an income producing contractual interest" and this bankruptcy case was precipitated by arbitration of a contract dispute and "lack of information/income from main asset." This implies that Debtor is a party to a contract that might be executory (although that is not necessarily so). Debtor also reports (dkt.12, p.7) that it has no executory contracts: is that accurate?

(b) Employment application (dkt.16)

In connection with the pending employment application of proposed bankruptcy counsel (dkt.16), Debtor's principal, Mr. Tsang, declares that Alkterra Capital "paid the pre-petition retainer of $76,717.00" to proposed bankruptcy counsel "as a gift" for which it will not seek reimbursement, and that "[o]ther than shared leadership/ownership, Alkterra Capital has no connections to, or claims against, the Debtor." Dkt.16, p.11:10-13 There is no disclosure about the business form of Alkterra Capital.

Supposing that Alkterra Capital is a corporation or similar type of business subject to the laws of California or similar laws, this Court is concerned that investors in Alkterra Capital could in future seek to avoid its gift as a constructively fraudulent transfer, or bring similar claims. That possibility could be used as leverage to influence Mr. Tsang's management of this bankruptcy estate, or otherwise cause potential conflicts of interest.

Have any investors in Alkterra Capital been fully informed as to its gift to Debtor, and have they provided their written consent, and/or whatever else might be required (e.g., a vote)? Does the gift implicate bankruptcy-related concerns in any other ways?

Because it might take time to obtain any responses/authorizations, the tentative ruling is to set the employment application for hearing fairly far in the future, concurrent with the continued status conference (see below). The tentative ruling is not to alter the current deadline for any response to the employment application (14 days after it was filed/served), but to set a supplemental deadline of 12/8/20 for Debtor to file a declaration or other papers addressing this Court's concerns set forth above, and a deadline of 12/15/20 for the United States Trustee to file any response it may elect to file on that issue.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed, as a Subchapter V case, on 10/19/20.

This Court continued the 1/26/21 post-confirmation status conference to allow the broker for the Honolulu Terrace property an opportunity to market the property. Dkt. 208, p. 3. The tentative ruling is to continue the status conference again, to 6/1/21 at 1:00 p.m., to allow escrow to close on the Honolulu Terrace property pursuant to the debtor's status report. Dkt. 211. No written status report is required prior to the continued status conference.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 3/23/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 3/23/21.

(1) Current issues

(a) United States Trustee's motion to dismiss, convert or appoint a chapter 11 trustee (dkt. 58, "MTD"), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 70), UST's reply (dkt. 71), continuing compliance order (dkt. 76)

The tentative ruling is to continue this hearing to be concurrent with the continued status conference (see below, section "(2)(a)").

(b) Amended Disclosure Statement (dkt. 81) and Plan (dkt. 80), JPMC objection (dkt. 82), U.S. Trustee objection (dkt.88), Amended Plan (dkt.89), Amended Disclosure Statement (dkt.90)

Based on the arguments and representations of the parties at the hearing on 12/22/20, this Court was persuaded to continue this matter to this date to see whether Debtor's performance is consistent with its current projections (or not). Debtor's MORs for December 2020 (dkt. 93) and January 2021 (dkt. 94) reflect some improvement in Debtor's financial situation. But Debtor's MOR for February 2021 (dkt. 100) reflects (i) a $10,000 decrease in cash receipts for the month (id. p.2) as compared to the prior month (dkt. 94, p.2), (ii) a reduction in staff (id., p.3, section 5, line items 26 & 27), and (iii) increasing accounts payable (dkt. 100, pdf p.11). However, Debtor represents in its status report (dkt. 101) that it anticipates an increase in future income as a result of new business deals.

The tentative ruling is to further continue this matter to be concurrent with the continued status conference (see below, section "(2)(a)") to allow this Court and other parties in interest to continue to monitor Debtor's performance and see whether Debtor can establish a more reliable and

(1) Current issues

(a) United States Trustee's motion to dismiss, convert or appoint a chapter 11 trustee (dkt. 58, "MTD"), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 70), UST's reply (dkt. 71), continuing compliance order (dkt. 76)

There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to address whether Debtor is in full compliance with all of its reporting and disclosure obligations, and has been maintaining regular communications with the Subchapter V Trustee and creditors.

(b) Amended Disclosure Statement (dkt. 81) and Plan (dkt. 80), JPMC objection (dkt. 82), U.S. Trustee objection (dkt.88), Amended Plan (dkt.89), Amended Disclosure Statement (dkt.90)

(i) Agreement(s)?

The parties are directed to address whether the Plan reflects agreements with creditors, and whether it includes all secured and unsecured claims that are allowed, or untimely claims that might (or might not) be allowed. See dkt.82.

(ii) Feasibility?

The good news is that Debtor appears to have corrected its reporting of recent financial history. Compare Disclosure Statement (dkt.90-2), Ex.D (summary of prepetition books & MORs), with U.S. Trustee's Objection (dkt.88), Ex.1 (summary of MORs). In addition, Debtor's historical profit & loss statements (Disclosure Statement, dkt.90-14, Attachment 8) show considerable improvement from the losses in 2018 and 2019 to a modest income in the first part of 2020. The declaration of one of Debtor's principals, Joel Russell (id., dkt.90-15) also appears to show good reasons to anticipate continued improvement. Debtor projects net cash flow (before debt payments) starting at $6,665.00 for 12/20 and increasing initially to $7,706.25/mo. and eventually to over $9,000.00/mo. See Disclosure Statement, dkt.90-11, Attachment 5.

But Debtor's projected cash flows appear to be unrealistic because at present Debtor is barely breaking even, after monthly interest-only payments of $3,500/mo. to its principal secured creditor, First Home Bank (see, e.g., MOR for 11/20, dkt.86-2, p.2, and MOR for 10/20, dkt.83-5, p.2), whereas under the Plan Debtor would be paying $5,055.73/mo. to First Home Bank, plus an additional $519.61 to Chase and $916.67 to the Subchapter V Trustee or General Unsecured Creditors. See Plan (dkt.89) Ex.A, Classes 2A, 2B & 4A. Based on this apparent gap between projections and recent history, the tentative ruling is to continue the hearing on any Plan and Disclosure Statement until Debtor begins to demonstrate performance consistent with its current projections (or not).

Meanwhile, the tentative ruling is to direct Debtor's counsel not to expend time (and attorney fees) revising the Disclosure Statement to correct the issues noted below, but to be prepared to do so if directed at a future Status Conference (if Debtor's financial performance demonstrates feasibility).

(iii) Corrections to Disclosure Statement (for future reference)

When and if this Court directs, Debtor must prepare a further amended Disclosure Statement correcting formatting issues, such as blank pages (see, e.g., Disclosure Statement (dkt.90-1), Ex.C1 through C3, at PDF pp.2-4) and miniature pages. See id., Ex.E (dkt.90-3). In addition, Ex.C to the Disclosure Statement uses a single, unchanging projection of monthly net income, whereas Debtor's actual projections are much more variable (mostly projected increases). The tentative ruling is that Ex.C need not show every monthly variation, but should reflect the average projections for each of the periods in the Plan.

Again, the tentative ruling is to direct Debtor's attorneys not to correct any of the above-referenced issues unless and until Debtor demonstrates sufficient cash flow for feasibility purposes.

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 5/21/20.

- (a) Bar date: 7/30/20 per General Order 20-01 (70 days after petition date in Subchapter V cases) (DO NOT SERVE any notice: one has already been sent, see dkt. 12).

#20.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 3/23/21 (revised as noted below):
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of Moss Atkinson Family Trust ("Lessor") for Relief from Stay (dkt. 30), Debtor's Opposition (dkt. 45), Lessor's Reply (dkt. 50)

[Original tentative ruling:] The Court has continued the hearing on Lessor's motion from 1/26/21 to 2/9/21, 3/2/21 and now this current hearing, based on the stipulations filed by the parties. See dkts. 53, 57, 63. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to discuss the status of their negotiations regarding the premises at 24901 W. Avenue Stanford, in Valencia, California (the "Premises").

[Revised ruling:] This matter has been continued to 4/6/21 at 1:00 p.m. by further stipulation of the parties and this Court's order thereon. See dkt. 69, 71.

(b) Debtors' proposed Plan (dkt. 68)

The tentative ruling is to address the following issues with Debtor's counsel and set a deadline to file an amended proposed Plan. The issues to be addressed are:

(i) Background

Based solely on Debtor's bankruptcy schedules, Debtor appears solvent. Total assets are listed at $1,036,013.07 and total claims at $980,585.66. But, as set forth below, that appears to be inaccurate.

As for assets, Debtor's bankruptcy Schedule A/B lists $934,283.07 in accounts receivable, with no deduction for doubtful or uncollectible accounts, despite the fact that those accounts are listed as being over 90 days old. Debtor's only other listed assets are $1,730.00 in the bank and a claim against Lessor estimated at $100,000.00.

As for liabilities, Debtor apparently has two secured claims aggregating just under $90,000 or just under $140,000 - it is unclear which. See Plan (dkt. 68), p. 16 ($$79,404.04 + $9,625.68 = $89,029.72$ secured claims) and compare id. at p. 31:12 ($$139,039$ secured claims). Bankruptcy Schedule E/F lists $$934,073.07$ in unsecured claims, and the Plan lists $$1,068,892.00$. The principal unsecured claims listed on Schedule E/F include over $$500,000.00$ in unpaid shipping charges and, in line 3.3, Lessor's claim at $$398,686.20$ (purportedly without offset, although that appears to be inconsistent with the alleged $$100,000.00$ claim against Lessor and the Plan lists Lessor's claim at $$541,474.20$, which is disputed by Debtor).

As this Court understands Debtor's background, its business previously included storage at the Premises of tens of thousands of original motion picture "films in the can," weighing approximately 50 pounds each, which major film studios entrusted to Debtor. The Premises allegedly have unique and special qualities for that purpose. There is no explanation whether Debtor is still engaged in other lines of business, or the possible value of any such ongoing businesses, by the Plan implies that there is no such value, and the Plan proposes to liquidate Debtor.

Debtor's bankruptcy Schedule G lists no executory contracts for storage of the films, so apparently Debtor has spun off that business. In 2019 Debtor formed HFC Media Services Corporation ("Affiliate"), which promised to take over all obligations under the lease of the Premises including back rent (for an estimated total obligation of $$935,283.07$) in exchange for a license to use the Premises, the right to Debtor's security deposit of $$395,855.80$, $$70,000$ in cash, and, apparently, approximately $$395,885.80$ of accounts receivable transferred to it by Debtor. Under Affiliate's Agreement with Debtor, if rights to the Premises are terminated or lost then Affiliate is obligated to pay Debtor $$400,000.00$.

In actuality, despite the alleged value of Debtor's accounts receivable as stated in Schedule A/B, Debtor's Plan appears to treat those accounts as having no value in excess of the liens against them, and Debtor's Plan states that its primary asset is the license Agreement with Affiliate, pursuant to which Affiliate has already paid $$150,771.98$ to Lessor on Debtor's behalf (not including rent payments). That appears to be deducted from the presumptive $$400,000.00$ that will be owed to Debtor by Affiliate.

Debtor calculates that this leaves a balance owed by Affiliate, once the lease is terminated, of $$249,228.05$, less any payments that Affiliate pays to Lessor on Debtor's behalf through the Effective Date. Debtor's Plan proposes that Affiliate will pay Debtor that balance in 36 monthly installments commencing on the first month following the Effective Date.

Those payments will be used to fund an estimated $50,000.00 in administrative expenses, payment of the secured claims with no interest, and then a pro rata distribution to nonpriority unsecured claims. Debtor's liquidation analysis and projection of distributions under the Plan states: "[a]ssuming a liquidation value of $250,000 ... Class 3 [unsecured] claims should expect to receive approximately ... 10% of the allowed amount of their respective claims" under the Plan and approximately 3% in a hypothetical chapter 7 liquidation. Plan (dkt. 68), p. 31:10-16.

Some of the forgoing information is not in the Plan. It is derived from other filed documents. See generally Stat.Rpt. (dkt.20) at PDF p.13:1-14; Bankruptcy Schedules (dkt. 19) (passim) and Statement Of Financial Affairs ("SOFA") (dkt. 19), p.3, line 13.1 (PDF p.18). See also Plan (dkt. 68), Part IV.A. (history of Debtor), pp. 8:5-9:5 & 10:19-28; and Agreement between Debtor and Affiliate (Ex.1 to Plan, dkt. 68, at PDF pp. 43-46).

Debtor and Lessor have been attempting to settle their claims, but without success so far. Affiliate apparently has been paying Debtor's monthly postpetition leasehold obligations, which have been set off against the anticipated $400,000.00 obligation of Affiliate to Debtor. Debtor's proposed Plan includes the following provision:

V. Retention of Premises to Accommodate Orderly Relocation of Films.

[Affiliate] shall retain its rights to occupy the [Premises] for a period of six-months after the Effective Date to accommodate the relocation of third-party films that are located at the premises and shall pay [Lessor] the amount of $26,050.00 on the 21st day of each month during this period. [Plan (dkt.68), p.29:12-17]

Based on the foregoing background, and this Court's review of the Plan and other filed documents, Debtor is directed to address the following issues at the hearing, and Lessor or other parties in interest are invited to do the same.

(ii) Lease of Premises

The Plan does not specify the legal basis for the above-quoted provision regarding post-confirmation occupancy of the Premises. Is Debtor proposing a deferred rejection of the lease under 11 U.S.C. 365? This might be a confirmation issue; but before the expense and possible confusion of mailing out a proposed Plan to all creditors, it makes sense to address whether there are any "gating" issues.

(iii) Notice to film owners?

This Court recognizes that the major film studios that own the films located at the Premises might not qualify as creditors of Debtor (although, without knowing the parties' contractual arrangements that is unclear). But the tentative ruling is that Debtor must provide them with notice of the confirmation hearing so that they have an opportunity to be heard if they believe that they are creditors or other parties in interest whose rights might be affected by the Plan.

(iv) Cost of moving film cans?

The Plan does not appear to address the costs of moving the film cannisters. See Plan (dkt. 68), p. 31:10-16. Will that be borne entirely by Affiliate?

(v) Other

The foregoing "background" section includes some issues that are not addressed in Debtor's summary of its business, liquidation analysis, and projections. For example, (w) who owes Debtor the dollar amounts included in Debtor's accounts receivable, and what are the chances of collection; (x) what is the actual dollar amount of secured claims; (y) what happened to Debtor's other lines of business, and what are the potential revenues and values of those businesses (if any); and (z) what are the details of any transaction in which Debtor spun off its film storage business to Affiliate (i.e., how does Debtor analyze that transaction from the perspective of a potential claim for voidable transfer)? The tentative ruling is that the proposed Plan must be amended to address those things.

In addition, Debtor is cautioned that various Plan provisions might exceed this Court's authority, or might not be approved for other reasons, even in the absence of any objection by parties in interest. For example, this Court anticipates reviewing carefully the Plan's proposed exculpation, retention of claims against creditors that are not specifically described, and prohibition on new or amended claims by creditors, etc. See Plan (dkt. 68), [Revised tentative ruling:] The tentative ruling is to address these issues at the continued status conference (see below).

Tentative Ruling for 3/23/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Subchapter V Trustee's motion for turnover of Laurel Property (dkt. 280), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 285), Michael Tremblay's response (dkt. 291), Interim Turnover Order (dkt. 300)

The parties are directed to update this Court on the status of this motion and address whether any additional relief is appropriate. The tentative ruling is to take this matter off calendar, without prejudice to the Chapter 7 Trustee placing it back on calendar on 14 days' notice (and direct the Trustee to lodge a proposed order memorializing such shortened notice). On the other hand, if continuance of this matter is appropriate, the tentative ruling is for such continuance to be concurrent with the continued status conference (see below, section "(2)(a)").

(b) Subchapter V Trustee's motion re eviction/contempt (dkt. 318, 319, the "Eviction/OSC Motion"), 319), Debtor & Orantes declarations (dkt. 320, 322), Orantes declaration (dkt. 322), Order shortenting time (dkt. 323) and POS (dkt. 326), Trustee declaration (dkt. 328), Debtor & Orantes declarations & opposition (dkt. 329, 330, 331), Trustee's declaration re compensatory sanctions (dkt. 335), order imposing compensatory sanctions (dkt. 400); further declarations re compensatory sanctions (dkt.573, 574)

The tentative ruling is to overrule Debtor's opposition, grant the motion, and set a deadline of 3/30/21 for Debtor and any other persons in possession, custody or control of property of the estate to comply with the Trustee's requests in the motion (for turn over and to provide an accounting etc.).

If they fail to do so, the Trustee may file a declaration and any other appropriate papers and lodge a proposed order setting a hearing concurrent with the continued status conference (see below, section "(2)(a)") directing Debtor and any other persons believed to be in possession, custody or control of property of the estate to appear and show cause why they should not be held in contempt and sanctioned for their failure to comply with this Court's turnover order.

vs
DEBTOR

Docket 82

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

#3.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [RP]

U.S. BANK NA
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 229

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Key documents reviewed (in addition to motion papers): Debtor's Opposition (dkt. 238), Movant's reply (dkt. 243), Debtor's untimely evidentiary objections (dkt. 243)

Movant has established standing to seek relief from stay

The tentative ruling is that Movant has standing to seek relief from the automatic stay as the assignee of the deed of trust. See In re Gallagher, 2012 WL 2900477 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. July 12, 2012) (following In re Veal, 450 B.R. 897 (9th Cir. BAP 2011)); In re Dahl (Case No. 2:11-bk-11028-NB), Memorandum Decision (dkt. 75) at p.2 n.1.

The automatic stay does not apply to acts affecting the abandoned Property, but does apply as to other acts

The tentative ruling is that this Court's order (dkt. 220) authorizing the Trustee to abandon the estate's interest in the real property located at 9219 Robin Drive, Los Angeles, CA 90069 (the "Property") terminated the automatic stay with respect to acts affecting the Property pursuant to 11

U.S.C. 362(c)(1). But under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(2) the stay continues with respect to any other acts (including as to the Debtor, individually) until the earlier of (i) the time the case is closed, (ii) the time the case is dismissed, or (iii) entry or denial of a discharge. The tentative ruling is that none of those three things have occurred in this case, so the stay continues to apply as to acts against the Debtor (i.e. in personam acts), but that it is appropriate to grant relief from the automatic stay as set forth below.

Movant has established cause to lift the stay

The tentative ruling is that Movant has not established that its equity cushion is less than 20% or any different percentage that might constitute a lack of adequate protection (see In re Mellor, 734 F.2d 1396, 1400 (9th Cir. 1984)), but has established "cause" under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) based on Debtor's bad faith filing including, but not limited to, Debtor's forum shopping and litigious filings which appear to have been intended to drag out this bankruptcy proceeding despite the absence of any reasonable ability to reorganize.

In addition and alternatively, Movant has established "cause" under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(2) because (i) the Property is not necessary for an effective reorganization because Debtor's case was converted to chapter 7 and the Property has been abandoned and (ii) Debtor lacks any equity in the Property.

For clarification, Debtor seems to be under the misimpression that granting relief from stay to allow Movant to continue litigating in the pre-petition State Court actions and/or pursue foreclosure could somehow be construed as this Court adjudicating those issues in some way. But, as Movant correct notes (dkt. 240, p.2:7-9 & 3:4-9), Debtor is incorrect. The only issues before this Court are whether the automatic stay applies and whether cause exists to lift the stay. For the reasons set forth above, the tentative ruling is that, to the extent the automatic stay applies, "cause" exists to lift the stay so that the parties may pursue any state-law rights and remedies available to them in the state court actions and with respect to the Property.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Deny, without prejudice to any other types of relief granted herein (or previously granted), for the following reasons.

The motion requests requests "in rem" relief (i.e., relief applicable notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases (under 11 U.S.C. 105(a), 362(d)(4) and/or In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31)). The tentative ruling is to deny that request because Movant has not established an adequate basis for granting in rem relief - i.e., Movant does not argue that the Property has been affected by multiple bankruptcy filings, or that there has been an unauthorized transfer of interest in the Property, or any comparable conduct, and this Court is not persuaded to grant such relief under 11 U.S.C. 105(a) or any other authority.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Evidentiary Objections

The tentative ruling is to overrule Debtor's evidentiary objections (dkt. 243) to the evidence submitted in support of the motion as untimely. Debtor waived and/or forfeited her right to challenge the admissibility of the documents at issue by waiting until after Movant submitted its reply papers to assert her objections. See In re Hamer, 138 S.Ct. 13, 17, n.1 (2017) (distinguishing waiver and forfeiture).

Alternatively and in addition, the tentative ruling is to overrule objections 1-5 as they rely on arguments previously rejected by this Court. Moreover, this Court's tentative ruling does not rely on the documents that are the subject of objections 6-8, so it is immaterial whether this Court rules on those objections.

Docket 31

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, the tentative ruling is to grant relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Note regarding mootness: Judge Bason's standard tentative ruling is as follows. For three reasons the above tentative ruling that there is no stay does not moot requests for relief from whatever stay might apply. First, such alternative rulings are appropriate because (i) the very nature of tentative rulings is that this Court could be persuaded to depart from any one of them, and (ii) a final ruling on any one issue could be reversed on appeal. Second, even if there is currently no stay, that could change - e.g., if there is no stay because of dismissal of this bankruptcy case, such dismissal could be vacated and that might reimpose the stay even if there is a lack of adequate protection, or other grounds why the stay should not apply, and therefore the movant will suffer cognizable harm unless the issues are addressed now (Judge Bason regularly vacates dismissals based on stipulations or other good cause). Third, if the motion includes any request for relief as to past acts (annulment) or future cases (in rem relief), those things are still at issue even if there is no current automatic stay. See In re Aheong, 276 B.R. 233

(9th Cir. BAP 2002). For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to address the following issues.

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Chapter 13

#9.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [PP]

DAIMLER TRUST
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 28

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #10.00 Hrg re: Motion in Individual Case for Order
Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic
Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 5

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the following conditions. Appearances are not required.

After the hearing date this Court will prepare an order and the tentative ruling is to include the following language in that order:

The stay of 11 U.S.C. 362(a) applies subject to the following modifications and conditions:

(1) Service and reconsideration. Any party in interest who was not timely served in accordance with FRBP 7004 (incorporated by FRBP 9014(b)) is hereby granted through 14 days after proper service to seek reconsideration, including retroactive relief (under FRBP 9023 and/or 9024). Any such person (a) may set a hearing on 14 days' notice, (b) may appear by telephone (if arrangements are made per Judge Bason's posted procedures), and (c) may present all arguments orally at the hearing (i.e., no written argument is required). If written arguments appear necessary then this court will set a briefing schedule at the hearing.

(2) Reasons. (a) It appears appropriate to impose the automatic stay, and to impose it as to all persons rather than just as to selected persons, because one purpose of the automatic stay is to preventing a "race to collect" that could unfairly advantage some creditors at the expense of others. (b) To prevent possible abuse, this Court provides the foregoing simple process for reconsideration.

(3) Very limited ruling. This Court's tentative ruling to grant the foregoing relief is solely for purposes of this motion, and is not intended to have any binding effect with respect to any future assertions by any party in interest regarding the existence or lack of existence of good faith in any other context.

Chapter 13

Tentative Ruling for 1/12/21:
Appearances required.

At the 12/22/20 hearing, the Court was persuaded to continue the hearing to allow the debtor to provide evidence of the forbearance application, evidence of sufficient equity in the property to support a finding of adequate protection, and/or motion for authority to sell the subject property. Debtor has now provided a real estate broker's price opinion (dkt.58, the "BPO") estimating the property's value at $413,000. According to Debtor's prior calculations, that would result in an equity cushion of over $100,000.

Although BPOs are not the best evidence of value, they are some evidence, and based on the apparent equity cushion the tentative ruling is that there is adequate protection of the movant's interest in the property to warrant additional time for Debtor (a) to seek a forbearance agreement, (b) to attempt to negotiate repayment of the postpetition arrears over a period of months pursuant to an adequate protection order ("APO"), (c) to attempt to modify the confirmed chapter 13 plan to address both prepetition and postpetition arrears, (d) to attempt to sell the subject property, or (e) to address the defaults and pre- and postpetition arrears in some other way. The inclusion of each of the foregoing hypothetical alternatives should not be construed as a ruling that any one of them would be acceptable in this particular case. The parties are directed to address whether Debtor realistically can pursue one or more alternatives, and how long a continuance this Court should provide for that, and/or for Movant to obtain its own valuation of the subject property, and/or for any other course of action by either party.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/6/21:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor.

(1) Current issues

(a) Budget motion (dkt. 37), no opposition is on file
The tentative ruling is to grant the motion.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(b) Affiliate reporting

Based on this Court's review of the supplemental declaration of Mark Berlin (dkt. 38), the tentative ruling is to excuse Debtor from this Court's requirement that it disclose all income, expenses, assets, and liabilities of its affiliates at this time, with the caveat that this Court might required such disclosures in future if appropriate.

(c) Insurance

Debtor's Monthly Operating Report ("MOR") for February 2021 (dkt. 40, p.1, In 9) states that Debtor has not timely paid all of its insurance premiums. Why not? Debtor is directed to appear to address what premiums have not been paid and what remedies this Court should impose to ensure property of the estate is being adequately protected.

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 2/5/21.

(a) Bar date: 4/16/21 per General Order 20-01 (70 days after petition date in Subchapter V cases) (DO NOT SERVE any notice: one has already been sent, see dkt.16).

Tentative Ruling for 3/2/21:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor and Debtor's principal.

(1) Current issues

(a) Budget motion

Debtor's status report states that a budget motion is not required by the presiding judge's procedures. Stat.Rpt. (dkt. 17), p.3. That is wrong (see posted "Procedures of Judge Bason," available at cacb.uscourts.gov).

Judge Bason recognizes that most transactions in the "ordinary course" do not require court approval. 11 U.S.C. 362(b)&(c). But debtors in bankruptcy have been known to misunderstand or mischaracterize what is "ordinary course." See generally In re Dant & Russell, Inc., 853 F.2d 700, 703-06 & nn.4-7 (9th Cir. 1988) (horizontal and vertical tests for what is "ordinary course").

Judge Bason also recognizes that Debtor claims to be operating at a loss because of "the cost of doing business in California" and the COVID-19 pandemic. Stat.Rpt. (dkt.17), Addendum, p.1:21-24 (at PDF p.13). But, as Debtor discloses in its attorneys' employment application, it shares services with affiliates "including" (but perhaps not limited to) "shared marketing, customer service, accounting, and staffing." Dkt.13, p.3:2-3. In such situations there is a danger that, for example, Debtor could be unintentionally or intentionally over-paying for such services (measured by the horizontal or vertical test), possibly as a way of (i) transferring funds to affiliates without having to make equity distributions and (ii) reducing its reported income.

Such concerns about potential under-disclosure of Debtor's income (and value) are heightened because Debtor contemplates that insiders will purchase substantially all of Debtor's assets as a going concern, apparently without overbids. Debtor claims that its business only has value to insiders, and that "the costs of conducting an auction sale to third parties" would be too great. Stat.Rpt. (dkt.17), Addendum, p.2:2-9 (at PDF p.14).

To be clear, this Court makes no presumption that Debtor is actually engaging in any overpayments to affiliates, nor whether any transfers to affiliates would be improper in any way (e.g., some tax planning is entirely legal and appropriate). The point is only that, without disclosure, there is no way to know.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/9/21 for Debtor to file and serve its budget motion, together with whatever briefing and declaration(s) are necessary or appropriate to address the foregoing issues.

(b) Affiliate reporting

Debtor requests to be excused from this Court's requirement that it disclose all income, expenses, assets, and liabilities of its affiliates because it is part of a larger structure and requiring such disclosure would be expensive and burdensome. Dkt. 17, PDF p.14:19-22. But Debtor fails to provide any meaningful discussion of what "larger structure" Debtor refers to, who its affiliates are, or how creditors can have an understanding of Debtor's shared services with affiliates (such as accounting, marketing, etc.), without disclosure of affiliates' finances. Debtor is directed at the Status Conference to provide further detail about its corporate structure and why this Court's reporting requirements would be overly burdensome, relative to the benefits to creditors of the additional disclosures.

The tentative ruling is that on an interim basis only partial disclosure will be required, but such partial disclosure must provide parties in interest, including the Subchapter V Trustee, with adequate information to assess the costs and benefits of Debtor's transfers to and from affiliates. The tentative ruling is that if such partial disclosure is inadequate, then full disclosure will be required.

For example, it would be insufficient to disclose that Debtor contributes no net income to its family of affiliates while receiving benefits such as accounting services (preparation of tax returns). That hypothetical disclosure would paint a picture of Debtor receiving far more than it gives; but the hypothetical fails to disclose all transfers to affiliates, including payments for supplies, shared services, etc. Nor would such a hypothetical disclosure provide any sense of whether the accounting services provided to Debtor are greater or less than such services provided to affiliates (either in absolute terms, or relative to the size of affiliates' budgets). In sum, such a hypothetical disclosure would not provide adequate information for any cost/benefit assessment.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/23/21 for whatever briefing and declaration(s) are necessary or appropriate to address the foregoing issues.

(c) Apparent non-disclosure of affiliate transactions

As noted above, Debtor's shared services with affiliates were disclosed in the employment application of its bankruptcy counsel. This Court is concerned that associated disclosures were not made in other documents that appear to require such disclosures.

(i) No prepetition transfers reported in Statement Of Financial Affairs ("SOFA")

Questions 3, 4, and 30 of Debtor's SOFA (dkt.1, p.11, at PDF p.49) require disclosure of all transfers of anything of value to creditors (whether or not they are affiliates) within 90 days prepetition and all transfers to insiders (which includes affiliates) within one year prepetition. Debtor does not disclose any such transfers, despite Debtor's extensive shared services with its affiliates, and despite well over $2 million owed to apparent affiliates with "Elite" in their name. See Bankruptcy Schedule E/F, dkt.1, p.6, at PDF p.26.

Is it really true that Debtor's affiliates provided millions of dollars of services over several years, but did not require any payments at all from Debtor during the year prepetition? If Debtor really was losing money at such a drastic rate, why did the affiliates continue to fund Debtor and why are they interested in purchasing Debtor's assets as a going concern?

(ii) No postpetition transfers reported in Status Reports

Similarly, despite the extensive shared services, Debtor's chapter 11 status report (dkt.17) asserts that Debtor has not made any postpetition transfers to insiders - which includes affiliates (11 U.S.C. 101(31)(E)). See Status Report (dkt.17), p.3, item B.3. Is that really true?

(iii) Postpetition loans, or equity contributions?

If Debtor's affiliates really have been subsidizing it postpetition, have they been extending credit to Debtor without notice and a hearing? See 11 U.S.C. 364. Alternatively, perhaps Debtor's affiliates have been making equity contributions rather than loans; but again that only heightens the concern that the affiliates' willingness to fund Debtor and purchase its assets as a going concern seems inconsistent with Debtor's assertion that it consistently operates at a loss.

In any event, neither any loans nor any equity contributions from affiliates are disclosed in the employment application of Debtor's proposed bankruptcy counsel. Why not?

(iv) Caveat

Again, this Court makes no presumptions regarding what actually has or has not occurred, or whether there is anything wrong with what Debtor and its affiliates and proposed bankruptcy counsel have done. On their face, Debtor's disclosures appear to show that its affiliates have been extraordinarily generous and forgiving when it comes to extending credit or equity contributions to Debtor, and perhaps a sale to affiliates is the only way to preserve jobs and maximize any recovery for creditors. But without further disclosures it is impossible to know if Debtor's representations are accurate.

(d) Funding of Debtor's proposed bankruptcy counsel by affiliates

The employment application of Debtor's counsel (dkt. 13, 14, 15) discloses such counsel received $50,000 in funds from Debtor's 63% member and general unsecured creditor, Elite GG&K Associates, LLC ("Elite GGK"). Empl.App. (dkt. 13), pp.6:26-7:13. Although Debtor and its proposed counsel assert that the $50,000 was a gift, there is no declaration from Elite GGK saying so, and verifying the other representations by Debtor's proposed counsel. In addition, Elite GGK has a prepetition claim of $857,000.00. See Bankruptcy Schedule E/F (dkt.1), p.6 (at PDF p.26).

Tentative Ruling for 2/25/21:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor (pursuant to this Court's Procedures Order (dkt. 3), Debtor's principal is not required to appear at this Status Conference, but is required to appear at the status conference on 3/2/21 at 1:00 p.m.).

(1) Current issues

(a) Payroll motion (dkt. 19), order shortening time ("OST," dkt. 20), notice/proofs of service (dkt.22, 23)

On the one hand, service appears to be defective. On the other hand, subject to any opposition at the hearing, it appears that this Court can, and should, grant relief anyway.

(i) Defective service

As for service, the OST set this hearing on extremely short time - a hearing on 2/25/21 based on a telephonic request and motion on 2/22/21 - but in exchange Debtor was required to serve most creditors via overnight delivery, personal delivery, or other proper method of service, for receipt no later than 2/23/21. It appears that did not happen.

The proofs of service (dkt.22, 23) appear to show service on many creditors via U.S. mail, which is presumed to take 3 days (per Rule 9006(f), Fed. R. Bankr. P.) and therefore would arrive after the hearing. That is inadequate.

Many other creditors are shown as being served via email, and such service is ineffective absent consent (such as the consent provided by creditors who have agreed to be served via this Court's "NEF" system, by registering for CM/ECF privileges). The OST itself reminds litigants of that limitation. See dkt. 20, p.3 ("Service by electronic means (facsimile or email) requires compliance with F.R.Civ.P. 5(b)(2)(E)."); and see Rules 4(d) (waiving service) and 5(b)(2)(E) (regarding service via "electronic means that the person consented to in writing") (Fed. R. Civ. P.) (both incorporated by Rule 9014(b), Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

Moreover, although it is not entirely clear what Bankruptcy Rules apply to a payroll motion, some sort of "notice and a hearing" or opportunity for a hearing are almost universally required for any sort of motions in bankruptcy cases. See generally 11 U.S.C. 102(1). Traditionally, payroll motions usually are required to be served on the 20 largest unsecured creditors and other types of key creditors, as the OST provides.

(ii) Granting relief anyway

Despite the foregoing concerns, this Court recognizes that paying employees usually is critical, both (A) for the benefit of all parties with a stake in maintaining a debtor's going concern value and (B) in fairness to the employees who are providing their labor in reliance on the promise of payment. In addition, this Court is authorized and required, "at any time" and "with or without a hearing," to condition the use of any property of the bankruptcy estate on whatever terms are necessary to provide adequate protection of any interest in such property (11 U.S.C. 363(e)); and in this instance the tentative ruling is that Debtor, as a debtor in possession acting as a trustee for the benefit of creditors and all parties in interest, is requesting the authority to use estate funds in a way that is necessary to protect the interests of persons with an interest in the bankruptcy estate, by paying employees and maintaining Debtor's going concern value. Therefore the tentative ruling is that this Court is authorized, and indeed required, to grant the payroll motion at this time, without a hearing or further notice; but with a warning to Debtor and its counsel that this is a truly exceptional type of motion and that usually the failure to serve papers as required by an OST and/or any applicable rules would result in denial of a motion.

Tentative Ruling for 4/6/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Clarification of Debtor's Proposed Plan (dkt. 57)

Debtor is directed to clarify the treatment of class 3 claims. The Plan states:

Class 3 claims are impaired and will be paid their pro rata share of up to 100% of their allowed claim to be paid from Net Proceeds received from the Participation Agreement and/or proceeds from the sale of the Participation Agreement. If the Participation Agreement is not sold by the Effective Date, and no Net Proceeds have been received, the Debtor's Manager, Wayne Tsang, will fund $10,000 to be paid on a pro-rata basis to Class 3 creditors resulting in a payout of between .09% and .14 % of their claims, depending on the outcome of the objection to the March Entities claim. [Plan (dkt. 57), section 4.01, at PDF p.6 (emphasis added).]

The above-quoted language might be read to mean that Debtor is proposing that the $10,000 payment would be the only payment that class 3 claims will ever receive if as of the Effective Date there is no recovery from the Participation Agreement. Debtor is directed to confirm if, to the contrary, the $10,000 payment would be intended as an interim payment until there is a recovery from the Participation Agreement?

(b) Revised Plan and service of voting package

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/8/21 for Debtor to file a redlined version of the proposed Plan, incorporating any changes discussed at the hearing, and lodge a proposed order, substantially in the form of the order posted on Judge Bason's portion of the Court's website (www.cacb.uscourts.gov), authorizing the service of a voting package and

(1) Current issues

(a) Unauthorized borrowing

This Court has reviewed the status report of the Subchapter V Trustee (dkt. 195) and is concerned about apparent postpetition borrowing that should not have been done without notice, a hearing, and an order of this Court approving such borrowing. See 11 U.S.C. 364; Rule 4001(c) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). Debtors are directed to provide full disclosure at the hearing of what has occurred, and their position regarding whether any such borrowing is purportedly in the ordinary course or otherwise defensible.

(b) Discovery dispute regarding Claim 6

This Court has reviewed the joint statement of Debtors and Creditor Baodi Zhou regarding their discovery dispute (dkt.194). The tentative ruling is to set a briefing schedule regarding that dispute as follows: Zhou to file and serve a motion to compel (limited to the issues already set forth in the joint statement) by a deadline of 4/8/21 at noon; Debtors' response due 4/14/21; Zhou reply due 4/20/21; hearing contemporaneous with the continued hearing on the claim objection and the continued Status Conference (see below).

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 5/4/20 and converted from chapter 7 to chapter 11 on 7/1/20 (dkt.17). The petition was amended to elect Subchapter V on 7/14/20 (dkt.27). On 9/4/20 this Court ordered joint administration with affiliated debtors (dkt.64).

(a) Bar date: (i) Investment 9/9/20 (dkt. 40; timely served, dkt. 43);
Affiliated Debtors 11/10/20.

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/6/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's Motion to Extend Time to File Case Opening Documents
(dk. 158)

There is no tentative ruling, but Debtor is directed to address what steps she has taken to find a new bankruptcy attorney, and whether her finances will improve enough to support a plan of reorganization.

(b) Debtor's Monthly Operating Report ("MOR") (#11, 2/21) (dk.157)

First, the United States Trustee ("UST") is requested to address whether Debtor's apparent combination of multiple accounts into one MOR is adequate. Second, this Court notes that Debtor reports a decrease from a beginning balance of $1,794.69 to an ending balance of $1,194.68 (dk.157, p.1), and such losses are not sustainable. Third, the MOR reports that insurance coverage on two vehicles expired on 2/26/21 and 2/28/21 (dk.157, p.4) - is that so, and if so, should this case be dismissed or converted on that basis? If insurance has not expired, and if it is month-to-month, why is it not possible to include information about those things in the MORs? Fourth, Debtor reports $15,116.07 in unpaid adequate protection payments (id.) - again, should this case be dismissed or converted?

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of U.S. Trustee ("UST") to dismiss or convert ("MTD," dkt. 132), Debtor's Opposition (dkt. 142), UST's Reply (dkt. 146), response of Secured Creditors Hillegass et al. ("Secured Creditor") in Support of MTD (dkt. 147).

Grant in part by issuing a continuing compliance order. The sole ground for the UST's MTD is failure to file MORs, and Debtor has now (very belatedly) filed the missing MORs. (Note: This relief will be mooted if, as provided in the tentative ruling below, this case is dismissed or converted anyway.)

Proposed order: If this motion is not mooted, the UST is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(b) Other cause for dismissal (or alternate remedies)

Under this Court's order establishing procedures at the commencement of this case (dkt. 56, timely served, dkt. 61), this Court may dismiss or convert this case at any status conference. The tentative ruling is to dismiss or convert this case based on (i) Debtor's late-filing of numerous MORs, (ii) Debtor's failure to make certain adequate protection payments to Secured Creditor, and (iii) Debtor's failure to make numerous other payments to creditors, in the admitted aggregate amount of $15,253.41, according to her MORs. See MOR for Jan. 2021 (dkt.141), p.4 (at PDF p.3).

The parties are directed to address whether dismissal or conversion is in the best interests of all parties, including Debtor. The tentative ruling is that any dismissal would not entail a bar under 11 U.S.C. 109(g)(1), because on balance the preponderance of the evidence appears to be that Debtor's trouble prosecuting this case and her prior case are based on financial troubles, rather than willfulness.

Proposed order: If this Court adopts the tentative ruling to dismiss or convert, the UST is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as the final ruling, subject to any modifications at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Debtor's February Monthly Operating Report states that secured creditor NVSI foreclosed on its collateral (essentially Debtor's only asset) in February 2021 (dkt. 155, p.11), so it appears there is no longer any purpose for Debtor to remain in bankruptcy. The tentative ruling is (i) to direct Debtor to pay any outstanding UST fees (see MOR, dkt.155, p.12, listing $50.09 owed), and retain jurisdiction to enforce that order, (ii) not to impose any other conditions on dismissal (unless a party in interest seeks conditions pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 349 or other applicable law), and (ii) to dismiss this case (while retaining limited jurisdiction as provided in the LBR) without further notice or a hearing, pursuant to this Court's order at the inception of this case (served on all parties in interest), providing notice that this Court may take case-dispositive acts at any status conference. Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/6/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of Yunuen Campos for stay pending appeal (dkt. 280, the "Stay Motion"), application for hearing on shortened time (dkt. 279, "Application for OST"), Order shortening time (dkt. 288, "OST"), Notice of hearing (dkt. 291) & proof of service (dkt. 292), Debtor's opposition to Application for OST (dkt. 293)

Subject to oral argument at the hearing, the tentative ruling is to grant a stay during appellate proceedings before the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel for the Ninth Circuit (the "BAP"), but only impose any such stay after any ruling on whether or not to confirm Debtor's proposed chapter 11 Plan.

The reasons are:

(i) although it appears to this Court that Ms. Campos is unlikely to succeed on the merits of her pending appeal or any future appeal from any confirmation order, nevertheless the legal questions she raises are serious and the facts and circumstances presented are unique in this Court's experience;

(ii) although it is unclear whether Ms. Campos would suffer any harm, let alone irreparable harm -- and to the contrary she would appear to benefit if this Court were to confirm Debtor's proposed Plan and she were to start receiving payments from Debtor -- nevertheless it is conceivable that any confirmation order might have a preclusive effect, and thereby limit the dollar amount of her claim if these proceedings were not stayed, and that issue has not been briefed nor is it clear that this Court could determine the preclusive effect of its own orders, so it is conceivable that Ms. Campos would suffer irreparable harm absent a stay, and the dollar amounts are very large so the potential prejudice to Ms. Campos is substantial;

(iii) on the one hand, it is true that if any confirmation order is stayed then other parties in interest will be delayed in receiving payments under the proposed Plan, but on the other hand it appears that any delay will probably not be very long given the pace of proceedings before the BAP, both in this case and in general;

(iv) the public interest does not appear to cut either way.

The tentative ruling is that the stay would only last through the conclusion of proceedings before the BAP, not any subsequent appeals (which could take long enough to cause substantial prejudice to Debtor and other parties).

In addition, the tentative ruling is that this Court would reserve jurisdiction and authority to terminate any stay at any future time (e.g., if proceedings before the BAP were to turn out to be protracted for any reason, and if the resulting delay were long enough to cause significant prejudice to Debtor and other parties in interest). But, of course, all of the foregoing is subject to any appellate court's authority to grant a stay pending appeal, or other relief.

(b) Debtor's amended chapter 11 plan of reorganization & disclosure statement (dkt. 250, 251, 265 "Plan") & disclosure statement (251, "DS"), related Orders (dkt. 247, 255), Opposition of Yunuen Campos (dkt. 272), Proof of service of voting package (dkt. 281), Ballot summary/analysis (dkt. 282, 283), Debtor's reply (dkt. 284, 287) & supporting declarations (dkt. 285, 286), related Memorandum Decision (dkt. 121) and interim Order (dkt. 144) re assumption of Mediation Term Sheet (dkt.251, Ex.D, at PDF pp.54-56), Debtor's notice re same (dkt. 227), notice of appeal (dkt. 147), and claim objection Order (dkt. 277) (sustaining Debtor's objection to Ms. Campos' claim above dollar amount in Mediation Term Sheet)

The tentative ruling is to overrule Ms. Campos' objections, confirm the Plan and approve the Disclosure Statement on a final basis for the reasons set forth below.

(i) Impairment

The tentative ruling is to overrule Ms. Campos' objection that the Plan improperly characterizes her claim as unimpaired because Debtor argues persuasively that the whole concept of impairment does not apply to Ms.

Chapter 11

Campos' claim. The Meditation Term Sheet is an assumable executory contract that need not be classified under the Plan, and the fact that Debtor has opted to label the claim as if it were classified (as a precautionary measure) does not create voting rights where none exist under the Bankruptcy Code. See Reply (dkt. 284) p. 8:25-27.

Additionally and alternatively, the tentative ruling is that if Ms. Campos' claim were required to be classified, the Plan's separate classification of her claim is proper and her claim is not impaired for the reasons stated in Debtor's reply papers (dkt. 284, pp.9:3-14:18).

Additionally and alternatively, the tentative ruling is that even if Ms. Campos' claim is impaired, and even if the requirements of cramdown under 11 U.S.C. 1129(b) were to apply, the Plan can be confirmed because it meets all the requirements of 11 U.S.C. 1129(a) (as set forth below) and the Plan does not unfairly discriminate and is fair and equitable with respect to Ms. Campos' claim. The amended Plan provides for Ms. Campos to receive everything to which she is entitled to under the Mediation Term Sheet. See Reply (dkt. 284) pp.14:19-17:1, and Declaration of Samiel R. Biggs (dkt. 285) p.3:4-18.

(ii) Good faith

The tentative ruling is that Ms. Campos' arguments under the good faith test of 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(3) are not persuasive.

(A) Legal standards

On the one hand, the statute is not a general inquiry into whether everything a debtor has ever done was in good faith. By its terms, section 1129(a)(3) only addresses whether a chapter 11 plan is "proposed" in good faith. In re Garvin, 922 F.3d 1031 (9th Cir. 2019).

On the other hand, if there were to be any abuse of the bankruptcy process, that could establish that the plan has not been proposed in good faith. See, e.g., In re Sylmar Plaza, 314 F.3d 1070, 1074 (9th Cir. 2002) (cited in Garvin, 922 F.3d 1031, 1036 n.3). Therefore this Court agrees with Ms. Campos to the following limited extent: Debtor's prepetition acts are relevant, as part of the "totality of circumstances" that this Court must consider in evaluating whether the Plan has been proposed in good faith. See Obj. (dkt. 272), pp. 12:5-14:14.

(B) The parties' long and contentious disputes do not establish a lack of good faith

Chapter 11

The tentative ruling is that Ms. Campos is off the mark in asserting that a lack of good faith is established by the history of the parties' disputes. True, there was an underlying judgment for sexual battery (and attorney fees), and Debtor has vigorously defended himself including appeals and prior bankruptcy cases. But, for three reasons that is not persuasive evidence of any lack of good faith.

First, in general parties are entitled to fight vigorously to defend their position (provided they do not overstep the ethical and legal limitations, such as Rule 9011, Fed. R. Bankr. P.). There is no evidence that Debtor has overstepped those bounds.

Second, supposing for the sake of discussion that there were such evidence (which there is not), even a wrongdoer can "propose" a chapter 11 plan in "good faith." An attempt to pay debts over time, even (or especially) if those debts are based on wrongdoing, is the essence of a chapter 11 bankruptcy case.

Third, Ms. Campos voluntarily entered into a settlement with Debtor, and Debtor's Plan simply proposes to enforce that settlement by the only means apparently available to him: the power to assume that settlement in bankruptcy (using his proposed Plan). It is legitimate to use 11 U.S.C. 365 to cure defaults that might not be curable outside of bankruptcy - e.g., the ability to cure payments that were due months ago. There is no lack of good faith in using the provisions of the Bankruptcy Code to hold Ms. Campos to the deal to which she agreed.

(C) Paying Mr. Fuller less than 100% of the purchase price for his claims, before knowing if this Court will confirm the proposed Plan, is not a lack of good faith

Ms. Campos has not established any lack of good faith in Debtor's decision to risk paying only part of what is required for him to purchase Mr. Fuller's claims (which he is purchasing so as to moot or satisfy the condition that Mr. Fuller's claims against Ms. Campos be resolved, as part of the parties' Mediation Term Sheet). See Obj. (dkt. 272), pp. 14:15-15:22. Debtor is entitled not to risk everything all at once, by paying even more to Mr. Fuller than he already has, prior to confirmation of the Plan.

In addition, as Debtor points out, there is no evidence of any attempt to "gerrymander" a consenting impaired class. If Ms. Campos were to be classified with other claims, Debtor still would have at least one requisite consenting impaired class, and thereby would satisfy 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(10)

Chapter 11

(iii) Feasibility

The tentative ruling is to reject Ms. Campos' argument that the Plan is not feasible, which is based on the risk that this Court's prior rulings might be reversed. See Obj. (dkt. 272), pp. 15:23-16:13. As she concedes, the issue is whether confirmation is "likely" to be followed by liquidation or the need for further financial reorganization (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(10), emphasis added), and all that is required is for Debtor to show that the Plan has a "reasonable prospect of success and is workable." Id. (quoting In re Pizza of Hawaii, Inc., 761 F.2d 1374, 1382 (9th Cir. 1985) (emphasis added, internal quotation marks omitted)).

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has met this test. This Court recognizes that reversal is always a possibility, and is very much aware that assumption of the Mediation Term Sheet involves interesting questions of law. But Debtor has established that confirmation of the Plan would not "likely" be followed by the need for liquidation or further financial reorganization, for the same reasons that this Court found persuasive in the Memorandum Decision (dkt. 121) and interim Order (dkt. 144) regarding assumption of the parties' Mediation Term Sheet. Ms. Campos has not rebutted that showing.

(iv) Assumption of the Mediation Term Sheet

Ms. Campos argues that five conditions to assumption have not been met. See Obj. (dkt. 272), pp. 16:14-17:9. Taking each one in turn:

(A) Life insurance. Section "7" of the Mediation Term Sheet (dkt.251, Ex.D, at PDF pp.55) requires that Debtor obtain life insurance in a dollar amount equal to 120% of the Settlement Sum (as defined therein). The Plan proposes that Debtor will obtain such insurance on the Effective Date or "as soon as practicable thereafter." See Plan, Ex.B to Art.I (dkt.251), Part "B" under "Class 2A," at PDF pp.43-44 (emphasis added).

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's proposal to obtain insurance after confirmation is insufficient. True, it is arguably within the requirement that he "promptly" cure defaults under 11 U.S.C. 365(b)(1)(A) (incorporated by 1123(b)(2)). But the tentative ruling is that, for "good faith," "feasibility," and (if applicable) the "fair and equitable" test (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(3), (a)(11) & (b)), it is appropriate to require that Debtor obtain insurance prior to confirming the Plan. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is that entry of any confirmation order will be conditioned on Debtor filing a declaration with evidence of the required life insurance.

(B) Mutual release. Section "12" of the Mediation Term Sheet provides, "Except for obligations under the settlement agreement, the parties will trade mutual releases." See Mediation Term Sheet (dkt.251, Ex.D), at PDF p.56. Exhibit B to the Amended Plan contains Debtor's release of Ms. Campos (dkt. 250, Ex. B, Section B (Class 2A), at PDF pp.44-45). Ms. Campos does not raise any objection to the language of Debtor's proposed of release. But she appears to contemplate that she will not execute any mutual release.

The tentative ruling is that Ms. Campos need not execute any release because Debtor will be automatically released through the chapter 11 discharge and Debtor's Plan provides his release to Ms. Campos. In other words, if the Plan is confirmed and becomes effective, and if the confirmation order becomes a final order, then there will be mutual releases.

True, Debtor's release of Ms. Campos is not effective until her appeal(s) are finally resolved. But she cannot have it both ways.

If the order(s) confirming the Plan and approving assumption of the Mediation Term Sheet were to be reversed then Debtor would not qualify for a discharge under 11 U.S.C. 1141(d)(5), so it would be inappropriate for Ms. Campos to obtain a release from Debtor. Conversely, if that order becomes a final order then Debtor's release of Ms. Campos becomes effective. The tentative ruling is that Ms. Campos has not shown how this is improper, or any barrier to confirmation of the Plan.

(C) Mutual nondisparagement. Section "8" of the Mediation Term Sheet requires "reasonable, mutual non-disparagement" terms. Ms. Campos did not argue in connection with Debtor's motion to assume the Mediation Term Sheet that it is impossible to know what this means; nor is this Court aware of any reason to suppose that the parties intended anything other than standard non-disparagement terms.

The tentative ruling is that entry of any confirmation order will be conditioned on Debtor and Ms. Jayanna Howerton submitting reasonable proposed mutual non-disparagement terms. The tentative ruling is to provide Ms. Campos with a brief period in which to file and serve any objection she might have to such terms, and after any objection is resolved then those terms, like all the other terms of the Plan, will "bind" both Debtor and Ms.

Campos pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 1141(a).

(D) Cure of prior payments. Section "1" of the Mediation Term Sheet (dkt.251, Ex.D, at PDF p.55) provides a schedule of payments, starting "upon dismissal of the debtor's [prior] Chapter 13 bankruptcy case ... following receipt of funds by the Chapter 13 trustee" and then on "the first calendar day" of every month following the dismissal of that prior bankruptcy case. A condition for assumption of any executory contract is to cure, or provide adequate assurance that the debtor in possession "will promptly cure," any payment defaults. 11 U.S.C. 365(b)(1)(A) (incorporated by 1123(b)(2)), 1101(1), 1107.

The tentative ruling is that Debtor is entitled to set off any outstanding amounts Ms. Campos received pre-petition or that Ms. Campos owes under the Fuller Judgment(s) against any outstanding payments owing under the Mediation Term Sheet, and that this plus his proposed schedule to cure the balance satisfies the requirement to "promptly cure" the default. The tentative ruling is that Debtor has provided evidence establishing adequate assurance of his ability to do those things. See Dkt. 251, Ex. J&K.

(E) Nondischargeability. Section "6" of the Mediation Term Sheet provides that Debtor's "obligation to pay the Settlement Sum shall remain non-dischargeable" and "[s]imilarly, the Judgment including all attorneys' fees and costs shall remain non-dischargeable." This appears to resolve any issues of nondischargeability. But Ms. Campos argues, without explanation or citation, that "[n]ondischargeability must be determined before confirmation." Ms. Campos appears to mean that the issues currently pending before Judge Robles (in proceedings in Debtor's previously-filed chapter 7 case) must be litigated to a final judgment. The tentative ruling is that this disregards the Mediation Term Sheet, which supersedes the need to litigate any other nondischargeability issues.

Alternatively, to the extent that there could be any ambiguity in the scope of the Mediation Term Sheet's nondischargeability provisions, the tentative ruling is that this Court need not and should not issue advisory rulings on the scope of those provisions. Put differently, confirmation of a proposed plan is different from the scope of any discharge, and this Court is not aware of any authority that rulings on the latter must precede the former. To the contrary, it is common for various issues such as claim objections, nondischargeability actions, and other matters to be litigated post-confirmation. So if those things were still relevant (which it appears they are not) they can be litigated post-confirmation.

(v) Debtor's Plan Modification (dkt. 265) does not require more disclosure and re-balloting

Debtor's proposed Modification notes several new developments since this Court's approval of Debtor's Disclosure Statement; but he argues that no changes to the Disclosure Statement are required, and re-balloting is not required. Debtor has served his proposed Modification on all creditors, and it lists the confirmation hearing date in the caption. See Modification (dkt. 265).

Only Ms. Campos has filed any response. She argues that a new disclosure statement and balloting are required due to a change in the terms by which Debtor agrees to purchase Mr. Fuller's judgments against Ms. Campos. See Obj. (dkt. 272), pp. 17:10-18:2. The tentative ruling is that Ms. Campos has not established any reason why re-service and re-balloting are required.

Under 11 U.S.C. 1125(a)(1), "adequate information" for purposes of Debtor's Disclosure Statement means information "of a kind, and in sufficient detail, as far as is reasonably practicable in light of the nature and history of the debtor ... that would enable [a] hypothetical investor of the relevant class to make an informed judgment about the plan ... [and] in determining whether a disclosure statement provides adequate information, the court shall consider the complexity of the case, the benefit of additional information to creditors and other parties in interest, and the cost of providing additional information." (Emphasis added.) Under Rule 3019(a) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.), if this Court finds, after notice to any trustee (i.e., Debtor as debtor in possession), any committee (there is none), and "any other entity designated by the court" that "the proposed modification does not adversely change the treatment of the claim of any creditor ... who has not accepted in writing the modification, it shall be deemed accepted by all creditors ... who have previously accepted the plan." (Emphasis added.)

The tentative ruling is that Ms. Campos has not established that Debtor's minor changes in his deal with Mr. Fuller warrant more disclosure or re-balloting. Nor has she established any adverse change in the treatment of her claim (or, for that matter, any other claim).

(vi) Conclusion

For the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is (x) to overrule Ms.

Campos' objections, (y) to approve the adequacy of the amended Disclosure Statement on a final basis, and (z) to confirm the amended Plan, subject to Debtor filing and serving on Ms. Campos his evidence of life insurance and proposed non-disparagement terms, after which Ms. Campos would have seven calendar days to file and serve her objections to those things. If any such objections are filed, this Court would determine whether further briefing and a hearing are required. Once all such issues are resolved, this Court would issue order(s) confirming the Plan and authorizing assumption of the Mediation Term Sheet (probably as a single order), subject only to any stay pending appeal as set forth at the start of this tentative ruling.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/6/21:

Appearances required by counsel for the debtor.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of Moss Atkinson Family Trust ("Lessor") for Relief from Stay (dkt. 30), Debtor's Opposition (dkt. 45), Lessor's Reply (dkt. 50)

The Court has continued the hearing on Lessor's motion from 1/26/21 to 2/9/21, 3/2/21, 3/23/21, and now this current hearing, based on the stipulations filed by the parties. See dks. 53, 57, 63, 69. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to discuss the status of their negotiations regarding the premises at 24901 W. Avenue Stanford, in Valencia, California (the "Premises").

(b) Debtors' proposed Plan (dkt. 68)

The tentative ruling is to address the following issues with Debtor's counsel and set a deadline to file an amended proposed Plan. The issues to be addressed are:

(i) Background

Based solely on Debtor's bankruptcy schedules, Debtor appears solvent. Total assets are listed at $1,036,013.07 and total claims at $980,585.66. But, as set forth below, that appears to be inaccurate.

As for assets, Debtor's bankruptcy Schedule A/B lists $934,283.07 in accounts receivable, with no deduction for doubtful or uncollectible accounts, despite the fact that those accounts are listed as being over 90 days old. Debtor's only other listed assets are $1,730.00 in the bank and a claim against Lessor estimated at $100,000.00.

As for liabilities, Debtor apparently has two secured claims aggregating just under $90,000 or just under $140,000 - it is unclear which. See Plan (dkt. 68), p. 16 ($79,404.04 + $9,625.68 = $89,029.72 secured claims) and compare id. at p. 31:12 ($139,039 secured claims). Bankruptcy Schedule E/F lists $934,073.07 in unsecured claims, and the Plan lists $1,068,892.00. The principal unsecured claims listed on Schedule E/F include over $500,000.00 in unpaid shipping charges and, in line 3.3, Lessor's claim at $398,686.20 (purportedly without offset, although that appears to be inconsistent with the alleged $100,000.00 claim against Lessor and the Plan lists Lessor's claim at $541,474.20, which is disputed by Debtor).

As this Court understands Debtor's background, its business previously included storage at the Premises of tens of thousands of original motion picture "films in the can," weighing approximately 50 pounds each, which major film studios entrusted to Debtor. The Premises allegedly have unique and special qualities for that purpose. There is no explanation whether Debtor is still engaged in other lines of business, or the possible value of any such ongoing businesses, by the Plan implies that there is no such value, and the Plan proposes to liquidate Debtor.

Debtor's bankruptcy Schedule G lists no executory contracts for storage of the films, so apparently Debtor has spun off that business. In 2019 Debtor formed HFC Media Services Corporation ("Affiliate"), which promised to take over all obligations under the lease of the Premises including back rent (for an estimated total obligation of $935,283.07) in exchange for a license to use the Premises, the right to Debtor's security deposit of $395,855.80, $70,000 in cash, and, apparently, approximately $395,885.80 of accounts receivable transferred to it by Debtor. Under Affiliate's Agreement with Debtor, if rights to the Premises are terminated or lost then Affiliate is obligated to pay Debtor $400,000.00.

In actuality, despite the alleged value of Debtor's accounts receivable as stated in Schedule A/B, Debtor's Plan appears to treat those accounts as having no value in excess of the liens against them, and Debtor's Plan states that its primary asset is the license Agreement with Affiliate, pursuant to which Affiliate has already paid $150,771.98 to Lessor on Debtor's behalf (not including rent payments). That appears to be deducted from the presumptive $400,000.00 that will be owed to Debtor by Affiliate.

Debtor calculates that this leaves a balance owed by Affiliate, once the lease is terminated, of $249,228.05, less any payments that Affiliate pays to Lessor on Debtor's behalf through the Effective Date. Debtor's Plan proposes that Affiliate will pay Debtor that balance in 36 monthly installments commencing on the first month following the Effective Date.

Those payments will be used to fund an estimated $50,000.00 in administrative expenses, payment of the secured claims with no interest, and then a pro rata distribution to nonpriority unsecured claims. Debtor's liquidation analysis and projection of distributions under the Plan states: "[a]ssuming a liquidation value of $250,000 ... Class 3 [unsecured] claims should expect to receive approximately ... 10% of the allowed amount of their respective claims" under the Plan and approximately 3% in a hypothetical chapter 7 liquidation. Plan (dkt. 68), p. 31:10-16.

Some of the forgoing information is not in the Plan. It is derived from other filed documents. See generally Stat.Rpt. (dkt.20) at PDF p.13:1-14; Bankruptcy Schedules (dkt. 19) (passim) and Statement Of Financial Affairs ("SOFA") (dkt. 19), p.3, line 13.1 (PDF p.18). See also Plan (dkt. 68), Part IV.A. (history of Debtor), pp. 8:5-9:5 & 10:19-28; and Agreement between Debtor and Affiliate (Ex.1 to Plan, dkt. 68, at PDF pp. 43-46).

Debtor and Lessor have been attempting to settle their claims, but without success so far. Affiliate apparently has been paying Debtor's monthly postpetition leasehold obligations, which have been set off against the anticipated $400,000.00 obligation of Affiliate to Debtor. Debtor's proposed Plan includes the following provision:

V. Retention of Premises to Accommodate Orderly Relocation of Films.

[Affiliate] shall retain its rights to occupy the [Premises] for a period of six-months after the Effective Date to accommodate the relocation of third-party films that are located at the premises and shall pay [Lessor] the amount of $26,050.00 on the 21st day of each month during this period. [Plan (dkt.68), p.29:12-17]

Based on the foregoing background, and this Court's review of the Plan and other filed documents, Debtor is directed to address the following issues at the hearing, and Lessor or other parties in interest are invited to do the same.

(ii) Lease of Premises

The Plan does not specify the legal basis for the above-quoted provision regarding post-confirmation occupancy of the Premises. Is Debtor proposing a deferred rejection of the lease under 11 U.S.C. 365? This might be a confirmation issue; but before the expense and possible confusion of mailing out a proposed Plan to all creditors, it makes sense to address whether there are any "gating" issues.

(iii) Notice to film owners?

This Court recognizes that the major film studios that own the films located at the Premises might not qualify as creditors of Debtor (although, without knowing the parties' contractual arrangements that is unclear). But the tentative ruling is that Debtor must provide them with notice of the confirmation hearing so that they have an opportunity to be heard if they believe that they are creditors or other parties in interest whose rights might be affected by the Plan.

(iv) Cost of moving film cans?

The Plan does not appear to address the costs of moving the film cannisters. See Plan (dkt. 68), p. 31:10-16. Will that be borne entirely by Affiliate?

(v) Other

The foregoing "background" section includes some issues that are not addressed in Debtor's summary of its business, liquidation analysis, and projections. For example, (w) who owes Debtor the dollar amounts included in Debtor's accounts receivable, and what are the chances of collection; (x) what is the actual dollar amount of secured claims; (y) what happened to Debtor's other lines of business, and what are the potential revenues and values of those businesses (if any); and (z) what are the details of any transaction in which Debtor spun off its film storage business to Affiliate (i.e., how does Debtor analyze that transaction from the perspective of a potential claim for voidable transfer)? The tentative ruling is that the proposed Plan must be amended to address those things.

In addition, Debtor is cautioned that various Plan provisions might exceed this Court's authority, or might not be approved for other reasons, even in the absence of any objection by parties in interest. For example, this Court anticipates reviewing carefully the Plan's proposed exculpation, retention of claims against creditors that are not specifically described, and prohibition on new or amended claims by creditors, etc. See Plan (dkt. 68), pp.20:24-22:6, 26:8-14, 27:14-28, 28:13-20.

(b) Debtors' proposed Plan (dkt. 68)

The tentative ruling is to address the following issues with Debtor's counsel and set a deadline to file an amended proposed Plan. The issues to be addressed are:

(i) Background

Based solely on Debtor's bankruptcy schedules, Debtor appears solvent. Total assets are listed at $1,036,013.07 and total claims at $980,585.66. But, as set forth below, that appears to be inaccurate.

Debtor's only other listed assets are $1,730.00 in the bank and a claim against Lessor estimated at $100,000.00.

As for liabilities, Debtor apparently has two secured claims aggregating just under $90,000 or just under $140,000 - it is unclear which. See Plan (dkt. 68), p. 16 ($79,404.04 + $9,625.68 = $89,029.72 secured claims) and compare id. at p. 31:12 ($139,039 secured claims). Bankruptcy Schedule E/F lists $934,073.07 in unsecured claims, and the Plan lists $1,068,892.00. The principal unsecured claims listed on Schedule E/F include over $500,000.00 in unpaid shipping charges and, in line 3.3, Lessor's claim at $398,686.20 (purportedly without offset, although that appears to be inconsistent with the alleged $100,000.00 claim against Lessor and the Plan lists Lessor's claim at $541,474.20, which is disputed by Debtor).

As this Court understands Debtor's background, its business previously included storage at the Premises of tens of thousands of original motion picture "films in the can," weighing approximately 50 pounds each, which major film studios entrusted to Debtor. The Premises allegedly have unique and special qualities for that purpose. There is no explanation whether Debtor is still engaged in other lines of business, or the possible value of any such ongoing businesses, by the Plan implies that there is no such value, and the Plan proposes to liquidate Debtor.

Debtor's bankruptcy Schedule G lists no executory contracts for storage of the films, so apparently Debtor has spun off that business. In 2019 Debtor formed HFC Media Services Corporation ("Affiliate"), which promised to take over all obligations under the lease of the Premises including back rent (for an estimated total obligation of $935,283.07) in exchange for a license to use the Premises, the right to Debtor's security deposit of $395,855.80, $70,000 in cash, and, apparently, approximately $395,885.80 of accounts receivable transferred to it by Debtor. Under Affiliate's Agreement with Debtor, if rights to the Premises are terminated or lost then Affiliate is obligated to pay Debtor $400,000.00.

In actuality, despite the alleged value of Debtor's accounts receivable as stated in Schedule A/B, Debtor's Plan appears to treat those accounts as having no value in excess of the liens against them, and Debtor's Plan states that its primary asset is the license Agreement with Affiliate, pursuant to which Affiliate has already paid $150,771.98 to Lessor on Debtor's behalf (not including rent payments). That appears to be deducted from the presumptive $400,000.00 that will be owed to Debtor by Affiliate.

Debtor calculates that this leaves a balance owed by Affiliate, once the lease is terminated, of $249,228.05, less any payments that Affiliate pays to Lessor on Debtor's behalf through the Effective Date. Debtor's Plan proposes that Affiliate will pay Debtor that balance in 36 monthly installments commencing on the first month following the Effective Date.

Those payments will be used to fund an estimated $50,000.00 in administrative expenses, payment of the secured claims with no interest, and then a pro rata distribution to nonpriority unsecured claims. Debtor's liquidation analysis and projection of distributions under the Plan states: "[a]ssuming a liquidation value of $250,000 ... Class 3 [unsecured] claims should expect to receive approximately ... 10% of the allowed amount of their respective claims" under the Plan and approximately 3% in a hypothetical chapter 7 liquidation. Plan (dkt. 68), p. 31:10-16.

Some of the forgoing information is not in the Plan. It is derived from other filed documents. See generally Stat.Rpt. (dkt.20) at PDF p.13:1-14; Bankruptcy Schedules (dkt. 19) (passim) and Statement Of Financial Affairs ("SOFA") (dkt. 19), p.3, line 13.1 (PDF p.18). See also Plan (dkt. 68), Part IV.A. Debtor and Affiliate (Ex.1 to Plan, dkt. 68, at PDF pp. 43-46).

Debtor and Lessor have been attempting to settle their claims, but without success so far. Affiliate apparently has been paying Debtor's monthly postpetition leasehold obligations, which have been set off against the anticipated $400,000.00 obligation of Affiliate to Debtor. Debtor's proposed Plan includes the following provision:

V. Retention of Premises to Accommodate Orderly Relocation of Films.

[Affiliate] shall retain its rights to occupy the [Premises] for a period of six-months after the Effective Date to accommodate the relocation of third-party films that are located at the premises and shall pay [Lessor] the amount of $26,050.00 on the 21st day of each month during this period. [Plan (dkt.68), p.29:12-17]

Based on the foregoing background, and this Court's review of the Plan and other filed documents, Debtor is directed to address the following issues at the hearing, and Lessor or other parties in interest are invited to do the same.

(ii) Lease of Premises

The Plan does not specify the legal basis for the above-quoted provision regarding post-confirmation occupancy of the Premises. Is Debtor proposing a deferred rejection of the lease under 11 U.S.C. 365? This might be a confirmation issue; but before the expense and possible confusion of mailing out a proposed Plan to all creditors, it makes sense to address whether there are any "gating" issues.

(iii) Notice to film owners?

This Court recognizes that the major film studios that own the films located at the Premises might not qualify as creditors of Debtor (although, without knowing the parties' contractual arrangements that is unclear). But the tentative ruling is that Debtor must provide them with notice of the confirmation hearing so that they have an opportunity to be heard if they believe that they are creditors or other parties in interest whose rights might be affected by the Plan.

(iv) Cost of moving film cans?

The Plan does not appear to address the costs of moving the film cannisters. See Plan (dkt. 68), p. 31:10-16. Will that be borne entirely by Affiliate?

(v) Other

The foregoing "background" section includes some issues that are not addressed in Debtor's summary of its business, liquidation analysis, and projections. For example, (w) who owes Debtor the dollar amounts included in Debtor's accounts receivable, and what are the chances of collection; (x) what is the actual dollar amount of secured claims; (y) what happened to Debtor's other lines of business, and what are the potential revenues and values of those businesses (if any); and (z) what are the details of any transaction in which Debtor spun off its film storage business to Affiliate (i.e., how does Debtor analyze that transaction from the perspective of a potential claim for voidable transfer)? The tentative ruling is that the proposed Plan must be amended to address those things.

In addition, Debtor is cautioned that various Plan provisions might exceed this Court's authority, or might not be approved for other reasons, even in the absence of any objection by parties in interest. For example, this Court anticipates reviewing carefully the Plan's proposed exculpation, retention of claims against creditors that are not specifically described, and prohibition on new or amended claims by creditors, etc. See Plan (dkt. 68), pp.20:24-22:6, 26:8-14, 27:14-28, 28:13-20.

(vi) Conclusion as to Plan

[Original tentative ruling:] The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/14/21 for Debtor to file an amended proposed Plan (but NOT serve it on anyone except Lessor and the UST).

[Revised tentative ruling:] The tentative ruling is to address these issues at the continued status conference (see below).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 12/13/20. Debtor elected to proceed under Subchapter V.

(a) Bar date: 2/22/21 per General Order 20-01 (70 days after petition date in Subchapter V cases) (DO NOT SERVE any notice: one has already been sent, see dkt.23).

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/6/21:
Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's Sale/Settlement Motion (dkt. 212, amended by dkt. 217), opposition of Tarzana Crossing (dkt. 219), Debtor's reply (dkt. 224)

The tentative ruling is to deny the motion for the following reasons.

(i) Proposed sale of Properties

Debtor seeks approval of a sale of substantially all of its assets to Criscione-Meyer Entitlement ("Buyer") for $22,000,000 pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 363(b) & (f). The proposed purchase price is to be paid as follows. Debtor will receive an immediate cash payment of $10,000,000 and a promissory note due in full in 24 months at 3% annual percentage rate, a deed of trust securing the remaining $12,000,000, and a guaranty. Dkt. 217, pp.8:17-9:19.

(A) Legal standard

Under 11 U.S.C. 363(b), the Debtor may sell estate property out of the ordinary course of business, subject to court approval. The Debtor must articulate a sufficient business reason for the sale. In re Wilde Horse Enters., Inc., 136 B.R. 830, 841 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1991). In determining whether a sale satisfies the business judgment standard, courts must find that the sale "is in the best interests of the estate, i.e., that it is fair and reasonable, that it has been given adequate marketing, that it has been negotiated and proposed in good faith, that the purchaser is proceeding in good faith, and that it is an 'arms length' transaction." Id. at 841-42. Whether the articulated business justification is sufficient "depends on the case," in view of "all salient factors pertaining to the proceeding." In re Walter, 83 B.R. 14, 19-20 (9th Cir. BAP 1988). In proposing a sale outside of the ordinary course, Debtor has the burden of demonstrating that the sale is in the best interests of the estate.

Wilde Horse, 136 B.R. at 841.

(B) Debtor has not carried its burden of demonstrating that the sale is in the best interests of the estate

(1) Sound business purpose/adequate disclosures

The "key to the reorganization Chapter ... is disclosure" Wilde Horse, 136 B.R. at 841 (emphasis in original). "The essential purpose served by disclosure is to ensure that parties in interest are not left entirely at the mercy of the debtor and others having special influence over debtor." Id. Accordingly, "[a] sale of substantially all of debtor's property outside the ordinary course of business, and without a Chapter 11 disclosure statement and plan, must be closely scrutinized." Id. (citation omitted); In re Lionel Corp., 722 F.2d 1063, 1069 (2d Cir. 1983) (reversing a approval of asset sale after holding that 11 U.S.C. 363 does not "gran[t] the bankruptcy judge carte blanche" or "swallo[w] up Chapter 11's safeguards"); In re Braniff Airways, Inc., 700 F.2d 935, 940 (5th Cir. 1983) (prohibiting an attempt "to short circuit the requirements of Chapter 11 for confirmation of a reorganization plan by establishing the terms of the plan sub rosa in connection with a sale of assets").

For the reasons stated in Tarzana Crossing's opposition papers (dkt. 219, p.7:2-19) and this Court's own review of the sale ballots (dkt. 224, Ex.A), this Court has concerns that Debtor may be intentionally or inadvertently circumventing important procedural safeguards by failing to provide its members with meaningful and comprehensive disclosures about the proposed sale and settlement with one of the prior defaulting buyers. This includes, but is not limited to, whether Debtor's members were adequately informed of their ability to vote "no" on the sale ballot, the potentially significant adverse tax consequences, and the identity and current financial wherewithal of the proposed Buyer.

Debtor also balks at Tarzana Crossing's assertion that Debtor was obligated to disclose potentially adverse tax consequences arising from the sale (dkt. 224, pp.3:19-4:3). But Debtor offers no explanation for why that should not have been disclosed prior to any voting. By electing to proceed under section 363(b), Debtor appears to be depriving creditors from receiving "adequate information" as required by 11 U.S.C. 1125(a)(1), which provides for disclosure of:

information of a kind, and in sufficient detail, as far as is reasonably practicable in light of the nature and history of the debtor and the condition of the debtor's books and records, including a discussion of the potential material Federal tax consequences of the plan to the debtor, any successor to the debtor, and a hypothetical investor of the relevant class to make an informed judgment about the plan [11 U.S.C. 1125(a)(1)]

For the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has not sufficiently articulated a sound business justification for electing to sell the Properties through section 363 in lieu of a plan.

(2) Fair and reasonable sale price

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has not presented sufficient evidence for this Court to find that the $22,000,000 sale price is fair and reasonable. True, the sale price greatly exceeds any other offers Debtor has received, but this Court questions why Debtor would so willingly repackage a sale to one of the defaulting buyers, at a $13,000,000 discount, despite the parties' contentious past.

Debtor has not presented evidence establishing that the Properties were adequately marketed to justify a private sale to one of the prior defaulting buyers.

Debtor's alleged marketing efforts are broadly described as consisting of Colliers International (x) "distributing marketing materials to prospective potential purchasers of the Properties," (y) "engaging in multiple discussions with prospective potential purchasers," and (z) "initiating a call for offers to thousands of prospective potential investors, developers, real estate agents, buyers, etc.," on 11/16/20." Dkt. 217, p.6:22-27 & Dkt. 183. Debtor further states that in response to the call for offers, Colliers received three offers, ranging from $8,000,000 to $13,300,000, which have now all expired. Id. pp.6:28-7:2.

But this Court's 12/8/20 tentative ruling expressed concerns with the adequacy of the marketing efforts up to that point:

First, Debtor is directed to address why the flyer distributed by Collier included the banner "Bankruptcy Court Approved" (dkt.180, Ex.1, and dkt.183, Ex.1). This Court has not approved any sale (although this Court has approved the employment of Colliers to market of the subject property). In fact, there are open questions about whether Debtor even has the ability to sell the subject property without Dos Cabezas' consent.

Second, Debtor is directed to address how it proposes to disclose to prospective purchasers of the properties the fact that Debtor is seeking to sell the subject property before the State Court has determined the underlying disputes with Dos Cabezas. True, as noted in the tentative ruling for 10/27/20, it is possible that Debtor can distinguish In re Popp, 323 B.R. 260, 268 (9th Cir. BAP 2005), and In re Owens-Johnson, 118 B.R. 780 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1990). But the tentative ruling is that Debtor has to disclose to prospective purchasers that (as this Court understands the issues) Dos Cabezas is asserting that (i) Debtor does not own the subject property, and therefore cannot sell it, and alternatively (ii) a sale under 11 U.S.C. 363(b) and (f) should not, or cannot, be used to defeat a claim for specific performance.

In other words, Debtor is directed to address (in consultation with Colliers) how it will disclose to prospective purchasers the potential obstacles to selling the property, without either misleading purchasers or unduly chilling any potential bidding. Of course, this Court recognizes that in chapter 11 there is a certain degree of deference to the business judgment of Debtor, in consultation with Colliers, regarding how best to market the subject property and when and how to provide disclosures. This Court also recognizes that Dos Cabezas might decide that it is in its own interest to consent to the sale (while preserving whatever interests or claims it might have regarding the proceeds of sale), so as to (i) maximize the value of the bankruptcy estate's assets, (ii) stop the running of interest - especially any default interest - owed to the senior lienholder, and thereby (iii) maximize the funds from which its claim and/or equity interests could receive distributions.

But Debtor's flyer ("Bankruptcy Court Approved," dkt.183, Ex.1, at PDF p.9), combined with Debtor's apparently cavalier attitude toward employment and compensation of professionals (see below), raise concerns about whether Debtor and Colliers are not exercising their business judgment appropriately. Debtor is cautioned that failure to exercise proper business judgment, and act as a trustee for the benefit of creditors, might lead to adverse consequences. Chapter 11

At the hearing on 12/8/20, this Court orally directed Debtor to file supplemental declaration(s) addressing the foregoing issues. On 1/5/21, Debtor timely filed a status report, but the only additional information Debtor provided in connection with its marketing efforts was that "[t]he proposed buyers who submitted offers for the Properties were advised of the State Court litigation and lis pendens affecting the Properties." Dkt. 188, p.5:24-25. Debtor's status report only raises further questions. Did Collier conduct any further marketing efforts following its November 2020 call for offers? What disclosures were provided to the three interested buyers and/or any other interested buyers? Could such disclosures have had the opposite affect of what this Court was concerned might happen, and instead chilled bidding? If Debtor's $22,000,000 appraisal is accurate, why were the offers Debtor received (prior to disclosing its existing litigation) so low?

For the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has not carried its burden as to this factor.

(ii) Proposed settlement with mutual releases

In conjunction with the proposed sale Debtor also seeks approval of a global settlement with mutual releases between Debtor, the proposed Buyer, Dos Cabezas, Michael Criscione and Michael Meyer that would resolve outstanding litigation. Dkt. 217, pp.18:16-22:3. The tentative ruling is that without further disclosures, this Court is skeptical about the propriety of the proposed settlement. The Debtor's papers do not make clear what consideration Dos Cabezas, Michael Criscione and Michael Meyer are receiving in exchange for the consideration being provided to the estate and execution of the mutual releases. Nor is it clear whether the mutual releases attempt to circumvent 11 U.S.C. 524(e)'s prohibition against third-party releases by dismissing any claims against non-settling third-parties, such as RU, LLC, who is also a defendant in the Derivative Action. See Adv. No. 2:20-ap-01012-NB, dkt. 1.

(b) Motion of Doz Cabezas Properties, LLC ("Dos Cabezas") to dismiss case (dkt. 145, 166, the "MTD"), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 168), Dos Cabezas's reply (173), Dos Cabezas's supplemental papers (dkt. 179, 182), Debtor's supplemental papers (dkt. 181, 183), Debtor's status report (dkt. 188), Doz Cabezas's supplemental papers (dkt. 193), Debtor's supplemental first matter on today's calendar (i.e., page 1 of the posted tentative rulings). Unless otherwise stated, appearances via CourtCall are no longer permitted.

Tentative Ruling for 3/2/21:

[Intentionally omitted]

Tentative Ruling for 12/8/20:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Motion of Doz Cabezas Properties, LLC ("Dos Cabezas") to dismiss case (dkt. 145, 166), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 168), Dos Cabezas's reply (173), Dos Cabezas's supplemental papers (dkt. 179, 182), Debtor's supplemental papers (dkt. 181, 183)

The tentative ruling is not to strike the latest, unauthorized briefs. In any event, with or without considering them, the tentative ruling is to deny the motion to dismiss this case, without prejudice, for the reasons stated in this Court's tentative ruling for 10/27/20 (copied below), with the following caveats.

First, Debtor is directed to address why the flyer distributed by Collier included the banner "Bankruptcy Court Approved" (dkt.180, Ex.1, and dkt.183, Ex.1). This Court has not approved any sale (although this Court has approved the employment of Colliers to market of the subject property). In fact, there are open questions about whether Debtor even has the ability to sell the subject property without Dos Cabezas' consent.

Second, Debtor is directed to address how it proposes to disclose to prospective purchasers of the properties the fact that Debtor is seeking to sell the subject property before the State Court has determined the underlying disputes with Dos Cabezas. True, as noted in the tentative ruling for 10/27/20, it is possible that Debtor can distinguish In re Popp, 323 B.R. 260, 268 (9th Cir. BAP 2005), and In re Owens-Johnson, 118 B.R. 780 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1990). But the tentative ruling is that Debtor has to disclose to prospective purchasers that (as this Court understands the issues) Dos Cabezas is asserting that (i) Debtor does not own the subject property, and therefore cannot sell it, and alternatively (ii) a sale under 11 U.S.C. 363(b) and (f) should not, or cannot, be used to defeat a claim for specific performance.

In other words, Debtor is directed to address (in consultation with Colliers) how it will disclose to prospective purchasers the potential obstacles to selling the property, without either misleading purchasers or unduly chilling any potential bidding. Of course, this Court recognizes that in chapter 11 there is a certain degree of deference to the business judgment of Debtor, in consultation with Colliers, regarding how best to market the subject property and when and how to provide disclosures. This Court also recognizes that Dos Cabezas might decide that it is in its own interest to consent to the sale (while preserving whatever interests or claims it might have regarding the proceeds of sale), so as to (i) maximize the value of the bankruptcy estate's assets, (ii) stop the running of interest - especially any default interest - owed to the senior lienholder, and thereby (iii) maximize the funds from which its claim and/or equity interests could receive distributions.

But Debtor's flyer ("Bankruptcy Court Approved," dkt.183, Ex.1, at PDF p.9), combined with Debtor's apparently cavalier attitude toward employment and compensation of professionals (see below), raise concerns about whether Debtor and Colliers are not exercising their business judgment appropriately. Debtor is cautioned that failure to exercise proper business judgment, and act as a trustee for the benefit of creditors, might lead to adverse consequences.

(b) Apparently unauthorized retention and payment of professionals

Debtor is directed to address the apparently unauthorized employment and payment of persons who appear to be professionals: Hammonds & Frey (accounting/tax services), Hunter & Co. (management), and BBG, Inc. (appraisal). See dkt.179, p.4:3-23. Debtor alleges (dkt.181, pp.4:23-5:27) that none of these services are "central to the administration of the estate," and instead are "ordinary course" payments that purportedly do not require Court authorization. But, first, there is no evidence to support those allegations and, second, Debtor's explanation raises its own concerns - for example, it is potentially troubling if Debtor is relying on someone to do accounting and tax services who is not addressing the bankruptcy-specific aspects of accounting and tax issues (i.e., if they do not qualify as professionals, that in itself might be problematic).

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 1/5/21 for Debtor and/or those persons to file and serve on all parties in interest either (i) applications for employment, including any authority for retroactive authorization, or (ii)

briefs and evidence as to why such persons are not professionals and/or why the payments to them are "ordinary course" and/or whatever other arguments they assert as to why notice, a hearing, and this Court's prior authorization for employment and payment allegedly were not required. Tentative Ruling for 10/27/20:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Doz Cabezas Properties, LLC's ("Dos Cabezas") motion to dismiss case (dkt. 145, 166), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 168), Dos Cabezas's reply (173)

"cause" exists under 11 U.S.C. 1112(b)(4) to convert or dismiss this case.

First, litigation takes time and Dos Cabezas has not presented sufficient evidence to persuade this Court that Debtor is not diligently prosecuting this bankruptcy case and the State Court action. To the contrary, Debtor's prosecution of this case appears to be reasonable in light of the uncertainty and challenges presented by COVID-19, the resulting backlog in state courts, and the great deal of latitude afforded to debtors exercising their business judgment about matters of case administration.

Second, Dos Cabezas' reliance on In re Popp, 323 B.R. 260, 268 (9th Cir. BAP 2005), and In re Owens-Johnson, 118 B.R. 780 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1990), is not dispositive. True, it is likely that Debtor's anticipated motion to sell the subject property will be subject to objections based on arguments that (i) Debtor cannot sell what it does not own and (ii) a sale under 11 U.S.C. 363(b) and (f) should not, or cannot, be used to defeat a claim for specific performance. But (x) this Court cannot presume, in advance, that those anticipated objections will prevail, (y) even if a sale were blocked, Debtor has other options (e.g., proposing a plan of reorganization, or waiting until a determination in the State Court litigation that Debtor has an ownership interest in the subject property, and therefore can sell it), and (z) even if all of those things were to turn out in future not to be viable options, it is premature to dismiss this case based on that future possibility.

(b) Dos Cabezas Properties, LLC, Criscione-Meyer Entitlement, Michael Criscione and Michael Meyer's ("Movants") omnibus objection to proofs of claim (dkt. 121, "Claim Objections") 4-1/4-2, 6-1, 7-1, 8-1, 9-1, 10-1, 11-1, 12-1, 13-1, 14-1, 15-1, 16-1, 17-1, 18-1, 19-1, 20-1, 22-1, 23-1/23-2, 24-1, 25-1, 26-1, 27-1, 29-1, 31-1, 32-1, 33-1, 34-1, 35-1, 36-1 and 37-1 ("the Claims"), stipulation & order continuing hearing (dkt. 129, 131), Tarzana Crossing, a Merchant Faire, LLC's ("Tarzana Crossing") opposition (dkt. 137), no reply is on file imposed against plaintiff Tarzana Crossing, a Merchant Faire, LLC ("Plaintiff").

Appearances required. At the hearing on 8/18/20 this Court was persuaded to continue this matter, rather than adopt the tentative ruling (reproduced below). The parties should be prepared to address the issues set forth in that tentative ruling and their filed papers.

For the reasons set forth below, the tentative ruling is to grant the request to remand this removed action, but perhaps defer the remand until after mediation, and deny the request for attorney fees.

(i) Jurisdiction

The parties dispute whether this Court has subject matter jurisdiction to hear this proceeding. The tentative ruling is that this Court has "related to" jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. 157(c)(1), because the parties' dispute arises from an alleged breach of contract for the sale of the estate's principal asset.

(ii) Mandatory abstention

The tentative ruling is that mandatory abstention applies as follows. Mandatory abstention under 28 U.S.C. 1334(c)(2) requires seven elements: (1) a timely motion; (2) a purely state law question; (3) a non-core proceeding under 28 U.S.C. 157(c)(1); (4) a lack of independent federal jurisdiction absent the petition under Title 11; (5) that an action is commenced in a state court; (6) the state court action may be timely adjudicated; (7) a state forum of appropriate jurisdiction exists. [In re Gen. Carriers Corp., 258 B.R. 181, 189 (9th Cir. BAP 2001) (internal quotation omitted).]

These elements are satisfied: (1) the motion was timely - the proceeding was removed on 1/22/20 and Movants filed the remand motion just 30 days later, on 2/21/20; (2) the complaint involves purely nonbankruptcy law questions (breach of fiduciary duty etc., adv. dkt. 7, p. 2:17-21) (Movants state that they amended their complaint on 8/30/19, but there is nothing in the record reflecting what was amended (id., p. 2:21), so this Court bases its ruling on the record presented); (3) the proceeding is noncore - the authorities cited by the removing party (dkt.10, pp.14:24-15:14) are distinguishable because they all involved alleged violations of fiduciary duties within the bankruptcy case itself, not prepetition and nonbankruptcy alleged violations; (4) no independent federal jurisdiction has been asserted; (5) the action was commenced prepetition, on 12/14/18, in Los Angeles Superior Court; (6) there is no evidence that the proceeding cannot be timely adjudicated in the State Court; and (7) neither party has contested in this Court the State Court's jurisdiction over the proceeding.

(iii) Discretionary abstention

Chapter 11

Alternatively, and in addition, the tentative ruling is that discretionary abstention is appropriate.

Discretionary abstention under 28 U.S.C. 1334(c)(1) requires consideration of the following twelve factors:

(1) the effect of lack thereof on the efficient administration of the estate if a Court recommends abstention, (2) the extent to which state law issues predominate over bankruptcy issues, (3) the difficulty or unsettled nature of the applicable law, (4) the presence of a related proceeding commenced in state court or other nonbankruptcy court, (5) the jurisdictional basis, if any, other than 28 U.S.C. 1334, (6) the degree of relatedness or remoteness of the proceeding to the main bankruptcy case, (7) the substance rather than form of an asserted "core" proceeding, (8) the feasibility of severing state law claims from core bankruptcy matters to allow judgments to be entered in state court with enforcement left to the bankruptcy court, (9) the burden of the bankruptcy court's docket, (10) the likelihood that the commencement of the proceeding in bankruptcy court involves forum shopping by one of the parties, (11) the existence of a right to a jury trial, and (12) the presence in the proceeding of nondebtor parties.

In re Tucson Estates, Inc., 912 F.2d 1162, 1167 (9th Cir. 1990).

Several of the Tucson factors weigh in favor of abstention. First, the Complaint involves purely state-law issues. Second, this Court would not have jurisdiction over the Complaint but for the Debtor's bankruptcy petition, because the claims arise under state law and there is no diversity between the parties. Third, the Complaint involves several non-debtor parties who have asserted a right to a jury trial. Fourth, permitting the Complaint to proceed in state court will contribute to the efficient administration of the bankruptcy case because the State Court is the best tribunal to adjudicate the parties' state law claims. Fifth, although the Complaint is related to the main bankruptcy case because it involves claims relating to the primary asset of the estate, deferring to the State Court to adjudicate the parties' claims will not unduly interfere with this Bankruptcy Court's determination of other matters in the bankruptcy case.

(iv) Movants' request for attorneys' fees is denied

The tentative ruling is to deny Movant's request for attorneys' fees because this Court is not persuaded that Plaintiff lacked an objectively reasonable basis for seeking removal of this action because the dispute is

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

(2) Venue/jurisdiction/authority.

The parties are directed to address any outstanding matters of (a) venue, (b) jurisdiction, (c) this Bankruptcy Court's authority to enter final orders or judgment(s) in this proceeding and, if consent is required, whether the parties do consent, or have already expressly or impliedly consented. #1.00 Cont'd hrg re: Trustee's Objection to Amended Claim of Wyndham Vacation Resorts, Inc.
fr 3/23/21

Docket 522

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/6/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

The tentative ruling is (a) to sustain the Trustee's objections to Wyndham's Claims, without leave for Wyndham to renew its claims for liquidated damages, but (b) to refrain from issuing any order memorializing that ruling, so that this Court can direct the parties to mandatory mediation in an attempt to avoid the expense and delay of any appeals or other proceedings. This Court will address at the continued status conference (see below) when to use and enter any order(s) implementing this tentative ruling.

(a) Terminology

This Court's terminology is as previously memorialized (MacCase, dkt.485).

(b) Key documents reviewed

Wyndham's Proof of Claim 3-4 filed in the MacCase (the "Wyndham-Mac Claim") and Wyndham's Proof of Claim 1-2 filed in the AttitudeCase (the "Wyndham-Attitude Claim," and together, the "Claims"); 2015 Settlement Agreement (MacCase dkt. 516, Ex. H, at PDF pp. 151 et seq.); 2020 Settlement Agreement (MacCase dkt. 512, Ex. A); Motion to approve settlement (MacCase dkt. 512); Trustee's limited objection to settlement (MacCase dkt. 515); Reply re settlement (MacCase dkt. 516; AttitudeCase dkt. 191); Order approving settlement subject to Trustee's right to object to claim (MacCase dkt. 518); Trustee's Claim objection (MacCase dkt. 522; AttitudeCase dkt. 191); Wyndham's Response (MacCase dkt. 528; AttitudeCase, dkt. 196), MacMillan declaration in support of Wyndham's

Response (MacCase dkt. 530; AttitudeCase, dkt. 197), Stipulations and orders extending filing deadlines (MacCase, dkt. 532, 533, 535, 536; AttitudeCase, dkt. 198, 199, 201, 202), Trustee's reply (MacCase, dkt. 538; AttitudeCase, dkt. 204), Trustee's declaration in support of reply (MacCase dkt. 539; AttitudeCase, dkt. 205), Trustee's request for judicial notice (MacCase dkt. 540; AttitudeCase, dkt. 206)

(c) Legal standards for objections to claim.

Under the statute, a proof of claim is "deemed allowed" unless an objection is made, and if such an objection is made then the court "shall" allow such claim "except to the extent that" it is unenforceable under the agreement itself or applicable law (or other, inapplicable grounds). 11 U.S.C. 502(a) & (b). In other words, the burden is on the objecting party to provide a cognizable ground to disallow the claim.

(i) There must be some factual or legal basis to disallow the claim, not just an alleged non-compliance with Rule 3001

Pursuant to Rule 3001(f) a proof of claim must be "executed and filed in accordance with these rules" in order to automatically "constitute prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim." But a rule cannot supersede a statute, and an objecting party must do more than simply point to a lack of compliance with Rule 3001 in order to obtain an order disallowing a claim: the objecting party must establish an actual basis to contest the liability or amount of the claim. See In re Campbell, 336 B.R. 430 (9th Cir. BAP 2005); In re Heath, 331 B.R. 424 (9th Cir. BAP 2005). See also Travelers Cas. & Sur. Co. of Am. v. Pac. Gas & Elec. Co., 549 U.S. 443, 449, 127 S. Ct. 1199, 167 L. Ed. 2d 178 (2007) ("the court 'shall allow' the claim 'except to the extent that' the claim implicates any of the nine exceptions enumerated in [section] 502(b)").

(ii) Non-compliance with Rule 3001 only means that the "usual burdens of proof" apply

If a proof of claim does not comply with Rule 3001(f) then it does not automatically constitute prima facie evidence of the "validity and amount" of the claim and "the usual burdens of proof associated with claims litigation apply." Campbell, 336 B.R. 430, 436 (emphasis added). But the proof of claim can still be prima facie evidence of the claim's validity and amount if the evidence attached to the proof of claim is "sufficient to support the claim." In that situation the objecting party "must produce evidence tending to defeat the claim that is of probative force equal to that of the creditors' proof of claim." In re Consolidated Pioneer Mortgage, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995) (citations and internal quotation marks omitted).

(b) The Claims are not entitled to prima facie validity as against the Trustee under Rule 3001(f)

On 12/16/20, Wyndham filed the amended Claims (which appear in all respects to be identical) asserting general unsecured claims against the MacMillan and Attitude estates in the amount of $25,000,000. Although it is not clear from a review of the documents filed in support of the Claims, it appears the Claims are comprised of (w) damages arising out of the Debtors' alleged failures to transfer timeshares to Wyndham and pay an agreed-upon $375 per unit transferred as well as unpaid maintenance fees, (x) attorneys' fees, (y) interest, and (z) liquidated damages arising from alleged breaches of a 2015 Settlement Agreement (the "2015 Settlement Agreement") executed in connection with pre-petition litigation in the Middle District of Tennessee captioned Wyndham Vacation Resorts, Inc. et al. v. Property Relief, LLC, et al., Case No. 3:13-cv-434 (the "WVR Lawsuit") (MacCase dkt. 516, Ex. H, at PDF pp. 151 et seq.).

In support of the Claims, Wyndham relies on a four-page summary of the history of its bankruptcy litigation with MacMillan and Cynthia Martin which concluded with the execution of a new settlement agreement (the "2020 Settlement Agreement") (MacCase dkt. 512-1, Ex. A), as well as this Court's order approving that agreement and the related nondischargeability judgment (none of which is attached, but all of which have been reviewed by this Court). But, as the Trustee highlights, the Claims are not supported by the 2015 Settlement Agreement or any kind of summary explaining the various components of the Claims or how Wyndham arrived at the $25,000,000 figure (MacCase dkt. 522, pp.1:28-2:4 & 17:23-19:4 & AttitudeCase dkt. 191, p.2:1-5 & 18:7-20:25).

As against Debtors themselves, Wyndham's Claims might be entitled to prima facie validity because Debtors were parties to the underlying 2020 Settlement Agreement. But as against the Trustee, there is insufficient information to determine the components of the claim including anything about how the settling parties arrived at $10,000 for liquidated damages.

Chapter 7

Therefore, the tentative ruling is that the Claims lack sufficient information to give them prima facie validity under Rule 3001(c)(1) & (f) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.). See e.g., In re Heath, 331 B.R. at 433 (claim can be based on summary rather than complete documentation but, among other things, "if the claim includes charges such as interest, late fees and attorney's fees, the summary should include a statement giving a breakdown of those elements").

Alternatively, even if the Claims had prima facie validity under Rule 3001(f) (which they do not), that would not change the outcome. The Trustee has rebutted any such initial showing by Wyndham, thereby shifting the burden to Wyndham. Wyndham has not carried that burden, for the reasons set forth below.

(c) Wyndham has not carried its initial burden of proof

The Trustee objects to the Claims on the grounds that the lion's share of the $25,000,000 figure is premised on an unenforceable liquidated damages provision in the 2015 Settlement Agreement under applicable law (i.e., that the Claims must be disallowed under 11 U.S.C. 502(b)(1)) (MacCase dkt. 522, pp.14:14-17:21 & AttitudeCase dkt. 191, pp.15:1-18:5).

(i) Tennessee law applies

Neither party has briefed whether this Court should apply Tennessee or California law. But the tentative ruling is that Tennessee law applies pursuant to paragraph 13 of the 2015 Settlement Agreement, which states in relevant part: "[s]hould any question arise as to the construction or interpretation of this Agreement, this Agreement shall be construed and interpreted according to the laws of the State of Tennessee" (see 2:17-ap-01229-NB, dkt. 80, p.14, para. "(13)") (emphasis added).

Under Tennessee law, "the term 'liquidated damages' refers to an amount determined by the parties to be just compensation for damages, should a contract breach occur." Guesthouse Int'l Franchise Sys., Inc., v. British Am. Props. MacArthur Inn, LLC, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 8570, at *30-31, 2009 WL 278214, at *9-10 (M.D. Tenn. 2009) (quoting Vanderbilt Univ. v. DiNardo, 174 F.3d 751, 755 (6th Cir. 1999)). "The fundamental purpose of a liquidated damages provision is to provide a means of compensation in the event of a breach where damages would be indeterminable or otherwise difficult to prove." Id. (citing Guiliano v. Cleo, Inc., 995 S.W.2d 88, 98 (Tenn. 1999)). "Tennessee courts 'have long recognized the freedom of parties to agree upon terms that may not appear desirable to outsiders and the duty of the courts to refrain from interfering with the parties' agreement unless to enforce it would violate established public policy." Id. (quoting Anesthesia Med. Group v. Chandler, 2007 Tenn. App. LEXIS 73, 2007 WL 412323, at *9 (Tenn. Ct. App. Feb. 6, 2007)).

Tennessee courts "will uphold a liquidated damages provision if 'the liquidated damages specified were a reasonable prediction of what a breach would cost the injured party in light of circumstances at the time the contract was formed.'" Id. (quoting U.S. v. Ponnappa, 246 F.3d 576, 584 (6th Cir. 2001)) (emphasis added). "Therefore, 'the amount of actual damages at the time of breach is of little or no relevance to whether the clause is an impermissible penalty.'" Id. "Courts will not, however, enforce a liquidated damages provision 'if the stipulated amount constitutes a penalty.'" Id. (quoting Vanderbilt Univ., 174 F.3d at 755). "A penalty is 'designed to coerce performance by punishing default.'" Id. "Any doubt as to the character of a contract provision 'will be resolved in favor of finding it a penalty.'" Id.

(ii) Wyndham has the burden to establish that the liquidated sum was a reasonable prediction of damages

The parties also have not briefed which of them bears the burden of establishing the enforceability of the liquidated damages provision and, based on this Court's own research, it appears Tennessee Courts are split on the issue. This Court has found at least three Tennessee Court of Appeals decisions that placed the burden on the party seeking to enforce a liquidated damages clause to establish that the liquidated sum was a reasonable prediction of damages. See Patterson v. Anderson Motor Co., 45 Tenn. App. 35, 55-56 (1958) ("it is at least conceivable that had defendants elected to put on proof, they might have established as a fact that $2,000 was a reasonable sum to be allowed as liquidated damages ..."), Eatherly Construction Co. v. HTI Memorial Hospital, 2005 Tenn. App. LEXIS 575, at *28, 2005 WL 2217078, at *9 (Tenn. Ct. App. Sept. 12, 2005) (citing Guiliano v. Cleo, Inc., 995 S.W.2d 88, 100-101 (Tenn. 1999)) ("In the trial court, [the party seeking to enforce the liquidated damages provision] had the burden to establish that the liquidated sum was a reasonable estimate of potential damages"); Bachour v. Mason, 2013 Tenn. App. LEXIS 366, at *12-13, 2013 WL 2395027, at *5 (Tenn. Ct. App. May 30, 2013) ("It thus appears to us that the $75,000 was not based on any estimate of potential damages, but was just an arbitrary figure that Buyer plucked from thin air. There is no evidence to support his contention that the figure bears any relation to the potential damages he would likely have suffered").

And other courts have agreed that "any doubt as to the character of the [liquidated damages] provision will be resolved in favor of finding it a penalty." DiNardo, supra (citing Beasley v. Horrell, 864 S.W.2d 45, 48 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1993), overruled on other grounds by Guiliano, supra); see also Goggin Truck Line Co. v. Brake Pro, Inc. 2000 Tenn. App. LEXIS 563, at *10, 2000 WL 1183058, at *3 (Tenn. Ct. App. Aug. 22, 2000) (same).

But some courts have held that a challenge to the enforceability of a liquidated damages provision is an affirmative defense which places the burden on the party seeking to avoid the clause to prove that it is a penalty. See e.g. Shelbyville Hosp. Corp. v. Mosley, 2017 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 191466, at *44, 2017 WL 5586729, at *14 (E.D. Tenn. Nov. 20, 2017) (citing Anesthesia Med. Grp., P.C. v. Buras, 2006 Tenn. App. LEXIS 618, at *8, 2006 WL 2737829, at *3 (Tenn. Ct. App. Sept. 25, 2006)) (issue of enforceability of liquidated damages provision was held to be an affirmative defense).

In the absence of clear authority on the issue, the tentative ruling is that the better reasoned decisions put the burden on the party seeking to enforce a liquidated damages provision because that party is in the best position to establish that its liquidated damages provision was intended to be a reasonable prediction of damages and not to serve as a penalty.

(A) Wyndham has not established that the liquidated sum was a reasonable prediction of damages

In its opposition papers Wyndham argues that its Claims are well supported and that its evidence clearly establishes the enforceability of the liquidated damages provision. But, as discussed below, the tentative ruling is that Wyndham has not presented any evidence establishing that the $10,000 liquidated damages figure was a reasonable prediction of damages. In addition, Wyndham has not sufficiently established the basis for any multiplier that would transform $10,000 per breach of the 2015 Settlement Agreement into $25 million of damages.

As noted above, the 2015 Settlement Agreement is not attached in support of the Claims and nothing in the 2015 Settlement Agreement explains how the parties arrived at the $10,000 liquidated damages figure. The best evidence Wyndham offers to support its contention that $10,000 was a reasonable measure of its compensatory damages is that the parties agreed to that amount.

Wyndham highlights that paragraphs 4(c), 4(d), 4(e) and 4(f) of the 2015 Settlement Agreement provide for $10,000 in liquidated damages for each separate breach and violation and that the agreement specifically states: "[t]he parties agree that the liquidated damages provision is necessary and appropriate due to the difficulty in quantifying the degree of losses, damages or harm posed by a violation of this provision with any mathematical certainty." MacCase dkt. 528, pp.20:25-26:9 & AttitudeCase dkt. 196, pp.20:25-26:9. But the tentative ruling is that this evidence, on its own, is not enough to satisfy Wyndham's burden. See e.g. Eatherly Construction Co. v. HTI Memorial Hospital, 2005 Tenn. App. LEXIS 575, at *27-28, 2005 WL 2217078, at *9 (Tenn. Ct. App. Sept. 12, 2005) ("While the fact the parties 'agreed' to the amount is relevant, and it is a factor to be considered in order to determine whether the amount was a reasonable estimate at the time the parties entered into the contract, that evidence – the parties' agreement – standing alone does not preponderate against the trial court's specific finding to the contrary").

For the same reasons the tentative ruling is also that Wyndham's 2020 Settlement Agreement with MacMillan and Martin is insufficient. In addition and alternatively, the tentative ruling is that such evidence carries little to no evidentiary weight for the reasons articulated by the Trustee in the claim objections (MacCase dkt. 522, pp.5:26-8:22 & AttitudeCase, dkt. 191, pp.6:5-8:26).

Wyndham also offers the declarations of its vice president, Michael Lazinsk, and David MacMillan in support of its opposition papers. But, as the Trustee highlights, Mr. Lazinski has not established that he has personal knowledge to testify about the subject matter in his declaration (MacCase, dkt. 538, p.9:5-27) and neither declaration offers anything more than legal conclusions regarding the reasonableness of the $10,000 liquidated damages figure. MacCase, dkt. 528 at PDF p.91, para. "(6)", dkt. 530, p.3, para. "(4)" & AttitudeCase dkt. 196 at PDF p.91, para. "(6)" & dkt. 197, p.3, para. "(4)". Neither of the parties to the settlement testifies to any facts that show how the parties arrived at the $10,000 figure or how that figure was a reasonable prediction of damages.

There is no testimony from Mr. Lazinsk that, for example, relying on past experience Wyndham calculated that each breach of the 2015

Settlement Agreement would result in an average of X months of non-payment to Wyndham of $Y in time share fees per month when one of its unit owners utilized MacMillan's services to transfer their timeshare interests to a so-called "Viking ship" entity, plus $Z of attorney fees or other damages per breach, all adding up to a "reasonable prediction" of $10,000 per breach of the 2015 Settlement Agreement. On its face, $10,000 of damages from every single time Debtors or their affiliates "solicit, contact or communicate with any Wyndham owners" regarding possible transfer of their timeshare interest appears to be an unbelievably high dollar amount. See 2015 Settlement Agreement, ¶ 4(c) (MacCase dkt. 516, Ex. H, at PDF pp. 151 et seq.).

This Court notes that Wyndham attempts to justify its $25,000,000 claim by highlighting that MacMillan previously testified that he successfully orchestrated the transfer of over 100,000 timeshare interests and generated fees estimated at more than $300,000,000. MacCase, dkt. 528, p.4, Fn.6, AttitudeCase, dkt. 196, p.4, Fn.6. But Wyndham's reliance on these figures is misplaced. Wyndham is improperly attempting to conflate the potential damages MacMillan's actions might have inflicted on consumers with Wyndham's own damages. Standing alone, these figures are meaningless because Wyndham does not include evidence tying those figures to its own damages.

Wyndham does not offer evidence establishing that, for example, but for MacMillan's interference, unit owners would have paid all of that money to Wyndham. Nor does Wyndham account for the fact that many of the alleged 100,000 timeshare interests about which MacMillan bragged were with timeshare businesses other than Wyndham.

Finally, Wyndham argues that a District Court's findings issued in connection with a default judgment Wyndham obtained against TimeShare Relief, Inc. in a different action (Cal. Dist. Ct. case no. 2:18-cv-09036-CJC-AFM) are preclusive on the Trustee's ability to challenge the enforceability of the liquidated damages provision. But Wyndham does not cite to any authority for that proposition. Among other things, Wyndham presumably would have to establish privity between the defendant in that action (TimeShare Relief) and the Trustee or the individual creditors of the MacMillan and Attitude estates, and this Court is not aware of any basis to find such privity, particularly when the Trustee apparently was not served with critical papers and was not on notice of any intent by Wyndham to use the default judgment in that case as a basis for preventing any challenge to its claim in this bankruptcy case.

For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that Wyndham has not carried its burden.

(B) Even if the Trustee bears the initial burden of proving that the liquidated damages provision is an unenforceable penalty, he has carried that burden

Alternatively, even if the Trustee bears the initial burden to prove that the liquidated damages provision is an unenforceable penalty, the tentative ruling is that he has satisfied that burden. This Court notes the difficulty for any party in having to prove a negative and in doing so parties often rely exclusively on circumstantial arguments and evidence to carry their burden. In this case, the Trustee highlights that Wyndham's own proofs of claim have grown exponentially over time and there is nothing in the 2015 Settlement Agreement or any evidence filed in support of the Claims explaining how the parties arrived at the $10,000 liquidated damages figure. The Trustee further highlights several facts and circumstances that call into question the reasonableness of that figure. MacCase, dkt. 522, pp.14:14-17:21 & AttitudeCase, dkt. 191, pp.15:1-18:5.

The tentative ruling is that this is sufficient to cast grave doubt about whether the $10,000 liquidated damages provision was simply a figure pulled from thin air and/or intended to punish parties for any future breaches. See Beasley, 864 S.W.2d at 48 ("when there is doubt whether a provision is intended to be liquidated damages or a penalty, the court must construe it as a penalty"). The tentative ruling is that the burden then shifted back to Wyndham to prove that it was not intended to be a penalty and, for the reasons set forth above, Wyndham has not carried that burden.

Therefore, the tentative ruling is to sustain the Trustee's objections and disallow damages arising from the liquidated damages provision without leave to amend.

(C) Wyndham has not carried its burden as to the other possible components of the Claims

As noted above, it is not clear from a review of the documents filed in support of the Claims whether Wyndham also seeks to recover (i) damages arising out of the Debtors' alleged failures to transfer timeshares to Wyndham and to pay the agreed-upon $375 per unit transferred along with unpaid maintenance fees, (ii) attorneys' fees, and (iii) interest. Wyndham's opposition papers do little to clarify these ambiguities. But, because the Trustee does not appear to object to allowance of these categories in some dollar amount but does object to the lack of evidence establishing what that amount should be (MacCase dkt. 522, pp.19:6-20:11 & AttitudeCase, dkt. 191, pp.19:17-20:24), the tentative ruling is to order the parties to mandatory mediation to address these unresolved issues and to discuss the possibility of a global resolution of the Claim Objections.

(1) Background

Debtor moves for an order setting aside a state court default judgment and for damages arising from violations of the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(k). On 1/29/21, this Court entered an "Emergency Order: (1) Granting Partial Relief on Debtor's Motion to Set Aside Default Judgment on an Interim Basis, and (2) Directing Respondents to (I) Cease All Eviction Efforts and Related Acts, (II) Instruct Any Persons Aiding Them in Those Efforts to Cease all Such Efforts, and (III) Appear and Address the Stay Violation Issues and the Appropriate Amount of Damages" (dkt. 32, the "Interim Order"). The Interim Order sets forth the facts relevant to this dispute as well as the applicable law and this Court's interim findings and conclusions, which this Court incorporates by reference and will not repeat here. (Errata: This Court hereby corrects one non-material error in the Interim Order: the phrase "nearly a month later" (id., p.2:27) is amended to read "over two months later.")

(2) The default judgment is void

For the reasons stated in the Interim Order, the tentative ruling is to confirm that the Default Judgment is void and of no legal effect because it was entered on 12/8/20 in violation of the automatic stay that was in effect as of the date of entry of the judgment. See Dkt. 25, Ex.3; see also In re Wardrobe, 559 F.3d 932, 934 (9th Cir. 2009) (judicial proceedings in violation of the automatic stay are also void); In re Gruntz, 202 F.3d 1074, 1082 (9th Cir. 2000) (en banc) ("actions taken in violation of the automatic stay are void. Further, '[j]udicial proceedings in violation of th[e] automatic stay are void.' . . . As the Supreme Court explained in Kalb [v. Feuerstein], 308 U.S. 433, 443 (1940)], discussing the weaker predecessor statute to 11 U.S.C. § 362(a), '[b]ecause that State court had been deprived of all jurisdiction or power to proceed ... [all acts by creditor]-to the extent based upon the [State] court's actions-were all without authority of law.'" (citations omitted); In re Schwartz, 954 F.2d 569, 571 (9th Cir. 1992) ("It is well established that acts in violation of the automatic stay are void ab initio and have no force or effect").

(3) Debtor is entitled to recover damages arising from Respondents' willful violation of the automatic stay (11 U.S.C. § 362(k))

Section 362(k)(1) provides, "...an individual injured by any willful violation of a stay provided by this section shall recover actual damages, including costs and attorneys' fees, and, in appropriate circumstances, may recover punitive damages." 11 U.S.C. 362(k)(1).

A willful violation is satisfied if a party knew of the automatic stay, and that party's actions in violation of the automatic stay were intentional. In re Bruel, 533 B.R. 782, 787 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2015) (citation Eksanos & Adler, P.C. v. Leetien, 309 F.3d 1210, 1215 (9th Cir. 2002)). "Once a creditor has knowledge of the bankruptcy, it is deemed to have knowledge of the automatic stay." Id. Even if a party violates the stay inadvertently, once it becomes clear that a stay violation has occurred it is the duty of the party violating the stay to remedy the stay violation. In re Stefani, 2019 Bankr. LEXIS 481, at *21, 2019 WL 762661, at *8 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. Feb. 15, 2019) (citing In re Roman, 283 B.R. 1, 12 (9th Cir. BAP 2002) (creditor has the burden both to establish administrative safeguards to prevent stay violations and to restore the status quo by undoing them); In re Dyer, 322 F.3d 1178, 1192 (9th Cir. 2003) (knowledge of a stay violation created an "affirmative duty to remedy [the] automatic stay violation")).

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's evidence is insufficient to establish that Respondents knew Debtor's bankruptcy case had been reinstated when they obtained the Default Judgment because the Certificate of Notice of the Order Reinstating the Case does not reflect service on Respondents (dkt. 21) and Debtor has not submitted any evidence establishing that Respondents received notice in some other way prior to 12/8/20 when the Default Judgment was entered.

But Respondents do not dispute that they were made aware of this Court's Order Reinstating Case on December 15, 2020 when Debtor's counsel e-mailed them to notify them that the Default Judgment was void as a violation of the automatic stay and to request that Respondents take steps to vacate the default judgment. Dkt. 25, Ex.4 & Dkt. 30, p.2:24-26. Therefore, the tentative ruling is that Debtor has shown by a preponderance of the evidence that Respondents had actual notice of Debtor's bankruptcy filing and of the automatic stay no later than December 15, 2020.

The tentative ruling is also that because the Default Judgment was void ab initio (Schwartz, 954 F.2d 569, 571), the real property that is the subject of that action is property of Debtor's bankruptcy estate and continues to be subject to the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(3), (6) and 541(a)(1). As a result, Respondents' efforts to enforce the Default Judgment were intentional, willful and in violation of the automatic stay. The tentative ruling, based on Debtor's unrefuted evidence, is that Respondents:

(a) failed to take any actions to have the Default Judgment vacated despite having an affirmative obligation to do so (dkt. 25, p.13:17-24; see also dkt. 30, p.3:5-13);

(b) engaged in efforts to lock out and evict Debtor and her daughter from the real property that is the subject of the Default Judgment by changing the locks and posting a 60-day notice to vacate and a notice of termination of tenancy for no-fault just cause (dkt. 25, pp. 13:25-14:3, 17:17-18:11 & Ex. 5, 8, 9);

(c) seized Debtor's and her daughter's personal property (dkt. 25, pp. 14:26-15:25 & 17:3-19:10); and

(d) threatened and harassed Debtor and her daughter with the specific intent of trying to intimidate them to vacate the subject property and turn over full possession to Mr. Jarvis. Dkt. 25, pp. 14:4-25, 15:15-20 & Ex.6 & 7. (Debtor and her daughter also allege harassment of the boyfriend of Debtor's daughter, but there is no declaration from him, and although there is no hearsay objection this Court has discretion to require non-hearsay evidence even when respondents have failed to raise any hearsay objection. See Rule 55(b)(2), Fed. R. Civ. P. (incorporated by Rules 7055 & 9014(c), Fed. R. Bankr. P.))

(4) Damages

"The words 'shall recover' indicate that Congress intended that the award of actual damages, costs and attorney's fees be mandatory upon a finding of willful violation of the stay." In re Ramirez, 183 B.R. 583, 589 (9th Cir. BAP 1995) (internal citations omitted).

(a) Actual damages/Attorney's fees

Section 362(k)(1) is a fee-shifting statute that entitles debtor not only to attorney's fees and costs incurred in ending a stay violation, but also to fees and costs incurred in prosecuting an action for damages from a stay violation and in successful defending a damages award on appeal. In re Schwartz-Tallard, 803 F.3d 1095, 1099-1101 (9th Cir. 2015) (internal citations omitted); see also In re Moon, 2021 Bankr. LEXIS 27 at *10, 2021 WL 62629 at *10 (9th Cir. BAP Jan. 7, 2021) ("attorney's fees and costs are 'incurred' even when the plaintiff is not personally liable for them") (citations omitted).

In support of her motion and reply papers, Debtor submitted evidence establishing $6,554 in damages as follows: (1) $1,700 to prepare and file the Stay Violation Motion (dkt. 25, p.15:11-13); (2) $500 to prepare and file her reply in support of the Stay Violation Motion and to file a notice of removal of the State Court Action (dkt. 31, p.6:13-15); (3) $1,500 in attorney's fees incurred having to defend against Department of Real Estate complaint Mr. Jarvis filed against Debtor (dkt. 25, p.15:15-20); and (4) $2,854 to reimburse Debtor's daughter and Debtor's daughter's boyfriend for theft of property that Debtor is responsible for reimbursing (dkt. 25, p.15:21-25).

The tentative ruling is that Debtor is entitled to an award of actual damages, including attorney's fees and costs, of $6,554, payable jointly and severally by the Respondents.

(b) Emotional distress damages

To be entitled to damages for emotional distress under section 362(k), an individual must (1) suffer a significant harm, (2) clearly establish the significant harm, and (3) demonstrate a causal connection between that harm and the violation of the automatic stay. In re Dawson, 390 F.3d 1139, 1148-49 (9th Cir. 2004). "Fleeting or trivial anxiety or distress does not suffice to support an award; instead, an individual must suffer significant emotional harm." Id. (citations omitted).

An individual may establish emotional distress damages in a number of ways, such as by providing corroborating medical evidence or by submitting testimony or declarations from family members, friends or coworkers. Id. at 1149-50. Additionally, in some cases, "significant emotional distress may be readily apparent even without corroborative evidence" such as instances where the violator has engaged in egregious conduct. Id. Alternatively, "even if the violation of the automatic stay was not egregious, the circumstances may make it obvious that a reasonable person would suffer significant emotional harm." Id.

In support of the Stay Violation Motion, Debtor submitted her declaration in which she states "Emotional Distress/Punitive; It is hard to measure these. However, the emotional impact has been tremendous, while myself and my family are being harassed no end. I believe that emotional distress punitive damages are warranted" Dkt. 25, p.15:27-16:2. The tentative ruling is that this is insufficient to warrant the imposition of emotional distress damages.

Section 362(k) authorizes an award of punitive damages "in appropriate circumstances." 11 U.S.C. 362(k)(1). "An award of punitive damages requires some showing of reckless or callous disregard for the law or rights of others" or "where the conduct is malicious, wanton, or oppressive." In re Snowden, 769 F.3d 651, 657 (9th Cir. 2014). "Courts have also imposed punitive damages for arrogant defiance of the automatic stay." In re Stefani, 2019 Bankr. LEXIS 481, at * 22-23, 2019 WL 762661, at *8 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. Feb. 15, 2019) (emphasis added) (citing In re Jean-Francois, 532 B.R. 449, 459 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 2015); In re Diviney, 211 B.R. 951 (Bankr. N.D. Okla. 1997)). "The Court in considering an award of punitive damages, thus, needs to find that the violator did more than violate the stay through mere negligence or inattention." Id. at *8. "The amount of a punitive damage award is also fact-specific and within the discretion of a Bankruptcy Court." Id. (citation omitted). In determining whether to impose punitive damages under [section] 362(k), bankruptcy courts have considered the nature of the creditor's conduct, the creditor's ability to pay, the motives of the creditor, any provocation by the debtor, and the creditor's level of sophistication." Id. (emphasis added).

The tentative ruling is that punitive damages are appropriate for several reasons. First, Respondents' refusal to remedy the stay violation is ongoing and intentional. Second, Respondents' three-page opposition is not supported by any citation to legal authority and Respondents do not even attempt to deny Debtor's allegations or refute Debtor's evidence with declarations or other evidence. Their papers reflect a complete indifference to educate themselves on applicable bankruptcy law and/or a willful and callous disregard of the automatic stay and this Court's authority. Third and finally, their willful stay violations are numerous and malicious—they have willfully refused to take steps to vacate the Default Judgment and instead have changed the locks and posted notices of eviction on the property, they have sent threatening and intimidating messages to Debtor and her family members and attempted to enforce prepetition claims against Debtor, with the additional apparent intent to destroy Debtor's ability to earn an income, by filing lawsuits against her and contacting her employer.

Respondents should be prepared to address whether there are any grounds why this Court should not impose $7,000 in punitive damages against them, jointly and severally, for their egregious behavior.

(a) Subchapter V Trustee's motion for turnover of Laurel Property (dkt. 280), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 285), Michael Tremblay's response (dkt. 291), Interim Turnover Order (dkt. 300)

The parties are directed to update this Court on the status of this motion and address whether any additional relief is appropriate. The tentative ruling is to take this matter off calendar, without prejudice to the Chapter 7 Trustee placing it back on calendar on 14 days' notice (and direct the Trustee to lodge a proposed order memorializing such shortened notice). On the other hand, if continuance of this matter is appropriate, the tentative ruling is for such continuance to be concurrent with the continued status conference (see below, section "(2)(a)").

(b) Subchapter V Trustee's motion re eviction/contempt (dkt. 318, 319, the "Eviction/OSC Motion"), 319, Debtor & Orantes declarations (dkt. 320,

The parties are directed to update this Court on the status of this motion and address whether any additional relief is appropriate. The tentative ruling is to continue this matter to be concurrent with the continued status conference (see below, section "(2)(a)", with a deadline of 3/30/21 for Debtor to respond to the latest declarations re compensatory sanctions (dkt.573, 574), and a deadline of 4/6/21 for the Trustee's reply.

(c) Subchapter V Trustee's Motion for turnover of 35th Street Properties, accounting re Jefferson property, etc. (dkt. 543, 544), Debtor's response (dkt. 562), Oxygen's joinder (dkt. 568), Subchapter V Trustee's reply (dkt. 569, 570)

The tentative ruling is to overrule Debtor's opposition, grant the motion, and set a deadline of 3/30/21 for Debtor and any other persons in possession, custody or control of property of the estate to comply with the Trustee's requests in the motion (for turn over and to provide an accounting etc.).

If they fail to do so, the Trustee may file a declaration and any other appropriate papers and lodge a proposed order setting a hearing concurrent with the continued status conference (see below, section "(2)(a)") directing Debtor and any other persons believed to be in possession, custody or control of property of the estate to appear and show cause why they should not be held in contempt and sanctioned for their failure to comply with this Court's turnover order.

Proposed orders: The Trustee is directed to lodge proposed orders reflecting any other disposition of the above items, beyond mere continuance, via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(2) Deadlines/dates. This case was filed on 11/20/19, converted from chapter 13 to chapter 11 on 1/2/20, designated by Debtor as a Subchapter V case on 3/2/20 (dkt.128), and converted to chapter 7 on 12/1/20 (dkt. 412).

Chapter 13

#4.00 Hrg re: Motion for Debtor's Objection to the Proof of Claims #5-1
Filed by Nationstar Mortgage LLC d/b/a Mr. Cooper

Docket 31

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

Grant in part and deny in part as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

At the hearing, counsel for Debtor is directed to address the following issues:

(1) No copy of claim

Debtor failed to attach a copy of the claim, as required by LBR 3007-1(c)(2). Why did Debtor's counsel fail to comply with that rule?

(2) Dollar amounts do not match

Debtor's objection includes a copy of a check for $1,340.00 (dkt. 31, Ex.1, at PDF p.18). But the proof of claim (Claim No. 5-1) asserts that as of the petition date the arrears were $2,108.60. How can Debtor assert that $1,340.00 cures $2,108.60?

(3) Illegible endorsements

Whatever endorsements might or might not appear on the back of Debtor's copy of the check are illegible, so it is unclear whether the check cleared and whether claimant has received the funds at issue (and is holding those funds in a suspense account). Why did Debtor's counsel not provide a legible copy of the back of the check?

(4) Fees

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's counsel should not charge any fees for appearing at this hearing, because such appearance would not be necessary if counsel had prepared the claim objection in a manner that did not violate the LBR and otherwise addressed the foregoing deficiencies.

Chapter 13

(5) Sustain in part; overrule in part

Notwithstanding the foregoing, this Court notes the following:

(a) Request for $0.00 arrears

Debtor's claim objection requests an order deeming the proof of claim amended "to reflect the 'Cure Default Amount' claim as $0.00" (dkt.31, p.3:13-14).

(b) No objection by claimant

No response has been filed by the claimant, so apparently it does not object to having its arrears treated as $0.00 (or, at least, any objection would not be worth the cost of the attorney fees).

(c) Ability to amend the claim later

It is typical in this district for the holders of secured claims to amend their proofs of claim after confirmation of any plan. Therefore, the tentative ruling is that there will be no prejudice if the arrears are determined to be $0.00 for present purposes (i.e., so that Debtor can obtain confirmation of his proposed chapter 13 plan), without prejudice to the claimant later amending its proof of claim, after it has determined what deficiency might exist, to add any such deficiency to its proof of claim (e.g., so that any shortfall is paid at the end of the term).

(6) Conclusion

To the foregoing extent, the tentative ruling is to sustain the claim objection - i.e., the arrears will be treated as $0.00 for present purposes. To the extent that Debtor seeks any additional relief, the tentative ruling is to overrule the claim objection.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Chapter 13

#5.00 Hrg re: East West Bank's Motion To Dismiss This Case

Docket 25

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant the motion and dismiss this case with a permanent bar against being a debtor in any future bankruptcy case, absent an order of this Court lifting that bar (also known as a dismissal "with prejudice") for the reasons set forth in the motion papers (dkt. 25, 26) and Debtor's lack of opposition.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Further analysis

Without limiting the foregoing reasons, dismissal with a bar is warranted by Debtor's failure properly to list Movant's lien in his bankruptcy schedules and proposed chapter 13 plan, his failure properly to list his debt to the People of the State of California in the same documents, his inability to fund any plan (in chapter 11 or 13) due to negative income, and his ineligibility for chapter 13. Those things establish that Debtor has misrepresented facts, unfairly manipulated the Bankruptcy Code, has otherwise filed his petition and plan in an inequitable manner, is attempting to use this bankruptcy case to defeat state court litigation, and has exhibited egregious behavior.

The foregoing relief is warranted pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a), 109(e) & (g)(1), 349(a), 1307(c) and, alternatively, pursuant to this court's inherent powers to manage its own docket. See In re Glover, 537 Fed.Appx. 741 (9th Cir. 2013) (affirming dismissal with a five-year bar to refiling under 11 U.S.C. § 105(a); In re Leavitt, 171 F.3d 1219 (9th Cir. 1999) (affirming dismissal with prejudice based on finding of bad faith, considering whether debtor misrepresented facts, unfairly manipulated Code, or otherwise filed his petition or plan in inequitable manner; debtor's history of filings and dismissals; whether the debtor intended to defeat state court litigation; and

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/22/21:

A continued hearing on this matter was previously set for 3/18/21, but was continued due to the parties' apparent settlement (see dkt. 42). The tentative ruling is to direct Debtor no later than 4/29/21 either (a) to file a withdrawal of this claim objection or (b) to lodge a proposed order denying this objection to claim #1 without prejudice, pursuant to the parties' settlement reflected in the mediator's certificate (dkt. 42) and Debtor's subsequent proposed chapter 13 plan (dkt. 43 at PDF p.8). Appearances are not required.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." If appearances are required, and you fail to appear without adequately resolving this matter by consent, then you may waive your right to be heard on matters that are appropriate for disposition at this hearing. Pursuant to Judge Bason's COVID-19 procedures, all appearances are via ZoomGov. For ZoomGov instructions for all matters on calendar, please see the tentative ruling for the first matter on today's calendar (i.e., page 1 of the posted tentative rulings). Unless otherwise stated, appearances via CourtCall are no longer permitted.

Tentative Ruling for 3/18/21:

Continue to 4/22/21 at 8:30 a.m. in view of the parties' settlement reported by the mediator (dkt. 42). The continuance is intended to provide the parties time to do whatever is needed to implement that settlement (e.g.,

Note: This Court anticipates that the continued hearing might well go off calendar if whatever the parties do moots this claim objection (or if Debtor files a withdrawal of this claim objection).

Docket 58

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/22/21:

Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

This Court continued the 2/18/21 hearing on this matter to give the junior lienholder an opportunity to obtain and file an appraisal of the subject property no later than April 8, 2021. As of the date this tentative ruling was prepared, this deadline has passed and no appraisal has been filed. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is to GRANT the motion.

Chapter 13

Appearances are not required on 2/18/21.

Reason:

Appraisal; date of valuation. The junior lienholder has requested (dkt. 63) additional time to obtain an appraisal. Debtor is directed to provide reasonable access for that purpose. The junior lienholder is directed to file and serve the appraisal at least 14 days before the continued hearing. Note: Judge Bason's tentative ruling is to require valuations at or near the petition date. See In re Gutierrez, 503 B.R. 458 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2013).

At the continued hearing the parties should address how they propose to resolve their disputes - e.g., (i) with an evidentiary hearing; (ii) with a court ruling based solely on the written record (to save costs, if all parties consent), (iii) through mediation, or (iv) through appointment of an appraiser (jointly selected by the parties/their appraisers) as the court's own expert under FRE 706.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 4/22/21:

Appearances required.

This matter has been continued multiple times (since 12/17/20) for Debtor either to reach an agreement regarding the use of cash collateral or to refinance the debt owed to First Commerce, LLC ("First Commerce"). On 4/13/21, however, Debtor filed a proposed chapter 13 plan (dkt.48) that appears to have abandoned any refinancing, and proposes to pay First Commerce its arrears of $69,519.35 (see POC 7-1, p.2, line 9) with 0% interest. Plan (dkt.48), p.6. Meanwhile, have the parties reached any agreement regarding the use of cash collateral?

Based on the arguments and representations of the parties on 2/18/21, this Court continued the matter for Debtor to pursue a refinance of the property. There is no tentative ruling, but the parties should be prepared to provide an update on the status of any refinance.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Tentative Ruling for 2/18/21:
Appearances required.

Based on the arguments and representations of the parties on 12/17/20, this Court continued the matter to this date to allow time for them to negotiate the terms of a cash collateral stipulation. But after the hearing Debtor filed a motion to refinance the subject property and pay off First Commerce, LLC's lien in full, which this Court granted. See dkt. 36, 39. There is no tentative ruling. The parties should be prepared to address (1) whether the refinance transaction did or did not close; (2) whether, if the refinancing did close, there is a need for retroactive approval of Debtor's use of First Commerce, LLC's cash collateral prior to its payoff or whether that issue is now moot; and (3) whether there is a need for this Court to authorize prospective use of the new lender's cash collateral.

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Deny the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3) for lack of sufficient cause shown.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

MORGAN STANLEY MORTGAGE LOAN TRUST 2006-17XS,
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 7

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

The automatic stay does not apply

This case has been dismissed, which terminates the automatic stay. See 11 U.S.C. 349(b)(3) & 362(c).

In the alternative and in addition, the tentative ruling is to grant relief from the automatic stay as follows.

Note regarding mootness: Judge Bason's standard tentative ruling is as follows. For three reasons the above tentative ruling that there is no stay does not moot requests for relief from whatever stay might apply. First, such alternative rulings are appropriate because (i) the very nature of tentative rulings is that this Court could be persuaded to depart from any one of them, and (ii) a final ruling on any one issue could be reversed on appeal. Second, even if there is currently no stay, that could change - e.g., if there is no stay because of dismissal of this bankruptcy case, such dismissal could be vacated and that might reimpose the stay even if there is a lack of adequate protection, or other grounds why the stay should not apply, and therefore the movant will suffer cognizable harm unless the issues are addressed now (Judge Bason regularly vacates dismissals based on stipulations or other good cause). Third, if the motion includes any request for relief as to past acts (annulment) or future cases (in rem relief), those things are still at issue even if there is no current automatic stay. See In re Aheong, 276 B.R. 233 (9th Cir. BAP 2002). For all of these reasons, the tentative ruling is that it is appropriate to address the following issues.

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

The motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in any pending bankruptcy cases purporting to affect the Property which was filed on or before the date the motion was filed (dkt. 7, pdf p.19, para. "(5)"). The tentative ruling is to deny such relief on the present record. If Movant wants to pursue that sort of relief Movant is directed to appear to address appropriate grounds for granting such relief. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Relief notwithstanding future bankruptcy cases.

Grant the following relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(4) and the legal analysis in In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017), and/or In re Choong (case no. 2:14-bk-28378-NB, docket no. 31), as applicable:

If this order is duly recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in the property at issue, then no automatic stay shall apply to such property in any bankruptcy case purporting to affect such property and filed within two years after the date of entry of this order, unless otherwise ordered by the court presiding over that bankruptcy case.

For the avoidance of doubt, any acts by the movant to obtain exclusive possession of such property shall not be stayed, including any eviction actions, through and including any lockout or other enforcement by the Sheriff or other authorized legal authority.

Note: Per Judge Bason's posted procedures (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) this Court's order will state that the Court "does not make" a finding that Debtor was involved in the "scheme" referenced in section 362(d)(4), unless there is sufficient evidence that Debtor was involved and Debtor is given clear notice that the movant seeks an express finding that Debtor was involved. The tentative ruling in this particular case is that there is sufficient evidence and notice.

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a) (3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

#12.00 Hrg re: Motion for relief from stay [PP]

BMW BANK OF NORTH AMERICA
vs
DEBTOR

Docket 22

Tentative Ruling:

Appearances are not required.

Grant as set forth below.

Proposed order: Movant is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

Termination

Terminate the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

To the extent, if any, that the motion seeks to terminate the automatic stay in other past or pending bankruptcy cases, such relief is denied on the present record. See In re Ervin (Case No. 14-bk-18204-NB, docket no. 311).

Effective date of relief

Grant the request to waive the 14-day stay provided by FRBP 4001(a)(3).

Co-debtor stay

Any co-debtor stay (11 U.S.C. 1301(c)) has not been shown to have any basis for any different treatment from the stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(a), so the tentative ruling is to grant the identical relief regarding any co-debtor stay.

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." #2.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Complaint Objecting to Discharge
fr. 12/1/20

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/27/21:

Appearances required.

(A) Current issues

This Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report (adv.dkt. 28) and the other filed documents and records in this adversary proceeding.

(1) The deadline to complete discovery has passed

Defendants/Debtors state that they anticipate propounding interrogatories on Plaintiff/UST and completing discovery by 5/30/21. Adv.Dkt. 28, p.2. But this Court's prior scheduling order (adv. dkt. 23, p.1, para. "(3)(f)") set 3/2/21 as the "last day for discovery to be completed, including receiving responses to discovery requests," and Defendants/Debtors have not filed any motion for reconsideration of that deadline. The tentative ruling is that the Status Report cannot be treated as such a motion.

This Court notes that Plaintiff/UST asserts that Defendants/Debtors have "[not] responded (timely or otherwise) to written discovery served by Plaintiff, including interrogatories, requests for production of documents and requests for admissions." Adv. dkt. 28, p.4. The tentative ruling is that this Court will not take any action on that non-responsiveness sua sponte (without prejudice to any evidentiary or other consequences that might be requested by Plaintiff/UST at trial or any other time).

(B) Standard requirements

The following are Judge Bason's standard requirements for status conferences. (To the extent that the parties have already addressed these issues in their status report, they need not repeat their positions at the status conference.)

Chapter 7

(1) Venue/jurisdiction/authority

Matters of venue, jurisdiction, and authority have been determined and/or waived or forfeited (adversary docket number 19).

(2) Mediation

Plaintiff/UST does not wish to have this matter sent to mediation. Stat.Rpt. (adv.dkt.28), p.3. Defendants/Debtors request mediation and state that they seek a chapter 7 discharge and to "obtain the homestead exemption funds." Stat.Rpt. (adv.dkt.28), pp.3-4. The tentative ruling is that (a) mediation would not appear to be productive, given the lack of participation in discovery by Defendants/Debtors and the opposition of Plaintiff/UST; and (b) whether and when Defendants/Debtors are or are not entitled to any homestead exemption funds is not within the scope of this adversary proceeding.

(3) Deadlines

This adversary proceeding has been pending since 9/29/20. On 12/2/20, this Court entered a scheduling order (adv.dkt.23) memorializing certain dates and deadlines which have now passed and have been omitted below. Pursuant to LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B), plaintiff is directed to lodge a proposed amended scheduling order via LOU within 7 days after the status conference, attaching a copy of this tentative ruling or otherwise memorializing the following new dates and deadlines.

Lodge Joint Proposed Pre-Trial Order: 7/20/21

Pretrial conference: 8/3/21 at 11:00 a.m.

#2.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case
fr. 02/25/21, 03/02/21, 4/6/21

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/27/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Penske Truck Leasing Co.'s motion for relief from stay (dkt. 48), stipulation and order continuing briefing deadlines (dkt. 52, 54), Debtor's opposition (dkt. 58), Penske's reply (emailed to Debtor and chambers while CM/ECF was down)

The tentative ruling is that if the automatic stay applies at all, it only barely does so, and in any event Penske must be given very speedy relief. Moreover, for its interests to be adequately protected, Penske must be paid in cash, even for a very minor delay in turning over the subject trucks, in addition to whatever administrative claim or other remedies it has.

(i) A debtor in bankruptcy has no right to illegal possession of property; but that is a different question from whether the automatic stay applies

A debtor in possession "shall manage and operate the property in [its] possession ... according to the requirements of valid laws of the State in which such property is situated, in the same manner that the owner or possessor thereof would be bound to do if in possession thereof." 28 U.S.C. 959(b). Debtor has no nonbankruptcy right to keep Penske's trucks.

On the other hand, there is a distinction between a violation of nonbankruptcy law and what remedies might apply within the bankruptcy case. Most creditors are at least temporarily frustrated by the automatic stay, but the larger goal of the Bankruptcy Code is to preserve the debtor's going concern value, for the benefit of all creditors, and to give the debtor a breathing spell, even from the exercise of legitimate nonbankruptcy remedies.

Within the bankruptcy case, there are numerous remedies whenever a debtor violates nonbankruptcy law. Those remedies can include everything from, for example, (A) admonishment to adhere to nonbankruptcy law to (B) possible removal as debtor in possession (11 U.S.C. 1104) or dismissal or conversion of the case (11 U.S.C. 1112) to (C) relief from the automatic stay to permit the nondebtor party to exercise its rights under nonbankruptcy law.

This Bankruptcy Court must be cautious in deciding which of these remedies to apply. Not every violation of nonbankruptcy law requires an immediate, drastic response. As has been held in a different context, there is "no need to convert the bankruptcy judge into an ombudsman without portfolio ... a result that would be inimical to the basic function of bankruptcy judges in bankruptcy proceedings." In re Garvin, 922 F.3d 1031, 1036 (9th Cir. 2019) (citation and internal quotation marks omitted).

In keeping with this cautious approach, this tentative ruling examines whether the automatic stay applies at all and, if it does, what bankruptcy remedies should apply. The tentative ruling is that, although if this Bankruptcy Court were writing on a clean slate, it would hold that the automatic stay applies, binding precedent of the Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit (the "Ninth Circuit") mandates that there is no automatic stay. But Penske might not want to exercise any self-help remedies immediately, because an appellate court might disagree; and in any event, the tentative ruling is that if the automatic stay does apply then relief from it must be granted very soon.

(ii) Plain meaning

If this Bankruptcy Court were writing on a clean slate, it would hold that the automatic stay applies under the plain meaning of the statute. Although Debtor lacks any cognizable property interest in Penske's trucks, due to prepetition expiration of the subject leases, nevertheless the stay is broader than just property of the estate. The automatic stay applies to "any act to obtain possession [A] of property of the estate or [B] of property from the estate" 11 U.S.C. 362(a)(3) (emphasis added).

The plain meaning appears to be that, beyond property in which the estate has a legally cognizable interest - property "of" the estate - the statute also protects the estate against any acts to seize property "from" the estate - i.e., any property in which the estate has a bare possessory interest. Penske has not suggested any other reason why Congress would distinguish property "of" the estate and property "from" the estate.

Chapter 11

(iii) Statutory context - the rest of section 362

In addition to the plain meaning of section 362(a)(3), the statutory context appears to support the foregoing reading. Section 362 provides that in some circumstances the automatic stay will not apply when there is a prepetition judgment for eviction, but this implies that the automatic stay does apply absent those circumstances.

Specifically, Congress provided in the analogous provisions of 11 U.S.C. 362(b)(22) that the automatic stay does not apply to the continuation of any eviction proceeding against a debtor under a residential lease of real property as to which the lessor has obtained a prepetition judgment for possession, but this exception to the automatic stay is "subject to" its own exceptions, in 11 U.S.C. 362(l). Those exceptions arise if the debtor deposit 30 days of postpetition rent with the clerk of court and files a "certification under penalty of perjury" that, under the debtor's understanding of the facts and applicable nonbankruptcy law, the debtor can still cure "the entire monetary default" and stay in possession of the leasehold. 11 U.S.C. 362(l)(1). If the lessor objects to the debtor's certification and the Bankruptcy Court upholds that objection then, from that moment forward, the automatic stay no longer applies - "subsection (b)(22) shall apply immediately" (i.e., not retroactively to the petition date) - and relief from the stay provided under subsection (a)(3) [11 U.S.C. 362(a)(3)] shall not be required" 11 U.S.C. 362(l)(3)(B)(i) (emphasis added). The emphasized language implies that there is a stay under section 362(a)(3), unless section 362(b)(22) and (l) apply.

(iv) Broader statutory context

The broader purposes of the Bankruptcy Code also appear to support the above reading. In particular, the Code focuses on protecting the interests of other creditors, so long as the interests of creditors like Penske can be protected.

Consider what a contrary interpretation of the statute could mean. A creditor with legal title to assets (such as Penske) could ignore the bankruptcy petition, exercise self-help remedies, and seize everything to which the creditor held legal title - all trucks and, if the creditor's legal title extended further, potentially all equipment, all raw materials, all inventory, etc. - regardless of the harm caused to other creditors, and without any supervision by the Bankruptcy Court to assure an orderly transition.

Meanwhile, the statute provides multiple protections for Penske or any other entity with an interest in any property held by the estate. Such creditors are entitled to "adequate protection," which "shall" be granted "on request of" such party "at any time ... with or without a hearing," even on an ex parte basis if necessary. 11 U.S.C. 363(e); and see Rule 4001(a)(2) (Fed. R. Bankr. P.) (ex parte relief).

If there is a lack of adequate protection, or other cause or grounds for relief, then the Bankruptcy Court "shall" grant relief from the automatic stay. 11 U.S.C. 362(d). These protections for creditors like Penske appear to go hand in hand with protection of the interests of all other creditors and debtors, whose going concern value may be destroyed if the automatic stay were not to apply to creditors like Penske.

(v) The Ninth Circuit's binding authority

This Bankruptcy Court is, of course, bound by decisions of the Ninth Circuit. It turns out that, in the decision most on point, the Ninth Circuit reversed this Bankruptcy Court; but even if a different court were involved, the Ninth Circuit's decision is binding. See In re Perl, 811 F.3d 1120 (9th Cir. 2016).

In Perl, the purchaser at a foreclosure sale ("Eden Place") obtained a prepetition judgment for possession and a writ of possession. At a hearing in State Court the day before the bankruptcy petition the debtor, Mr. Perl, was granted conditions to stay of eviction, but he failed to satisfy those conditions. Id., p. 1123.

Mr. Perl "never filed anything further in his bankruptcy case"; and the case was dismissed for his failure to appear at the meeting of creditors under 11 U.S.C. 341(a). Id., p.1124. (This Bankruptcy Court understands, from the record before it, that by then Mr. Perl had retrieved his audio equipment and other personal property from the premises, so apparently he took no further interest in any bankruptcy-related proceedings.)

Despite the dismissal of the bankruptcy case, and Mr. Perl's lack of ongoing involvement, the appellate proceedings continued. They did so because this Bankruptcy Court had held that Eden Place had violated the automatic stay by continuing eviction proceeding postpetition, and therefore Eden Place remained potentially "subject to a claim for damages" based on that holding. Id., p. 1125.

Chapter 11

The Ninth Circuit held, "the question in this case is whether Perl had any remaining legal or equitable possessory interest in ... the real property at issue." Id., p. 1128 (emphasis added). The Ninth Circuit concluded that the flaw in this Bankruptcy Court's analysis with respect to the real property was that any "conclusion that the occupying resident retains an equitable possessory interest is inconsistent with [Cal. Code of Civil Procedure] § 1161a, which contemplates a final and binding adjudication of legal title and rights of immediate possession." Id., p. 1130 (citation omitted). This Bankruptcy Court stands corrected on that issue.

The Ninth Circuit also held that "the Sheriff's lockout did not violate the automatic stay because no legal or equitable interests in the property remained to become part of the bankruptcy estate." Id. (citation omitted). Again, this Bankruptcy Court stands corrected. As this Bankruptcy Court understands the Ninth Circuit's decision, although Mr. Perl had an ownership interest in personal property at the premises, he did not have any possessory interest in the real property itself, so he could be locked out (subject to any rights he might have to require turnover of the personal property under, e.g., 11 U.S.C. 542).

True, Perl does not expressly address what difference Congress might have intended between staying any act to obtain possession of property "of" the estate or "from" the estate. But Perl quoted both clauses of section 362(a)(3), and its holding is that the automatic stay did not apply.

It is also true that arguably there is a distinction between Eden Place changing the locks, thereby locking out Mr. Perl, and Penske exercising its nonbankruptcy rights to actively seize its trucks. But the tentative ruling is that this Bankruptcy Court cannot distinguish Perl on that basis, because locking out a debtor immediately after the petition date (without obtaining relief from the automatic stay) appears to be just as much a seizure of the (real) property as any lawful repossession by Penske of its trucks.

For all of the foregoing reasons, although this Bankruptcy Court would reach a different conclusion if writing on a clean slate, the tentative ruling is that under Perl no automatic stay applies. Alternatively, the tentative ruling is that cause exists to grant relief from any automatic stay that does apply.

(vi) Cause exists to grant relief from the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1).

The tentative ruling is that Penske's ownership interest in the trucks and pre-petition lease termination provide sufficient "cause" that this Court "shall" grant relief from the automatic stay, "such as" by modifying or terminating the stay. 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1). Debtor argues that Penske is adequately protected by approximately $17,500 in security deposits and an additional $9,160.26 check that it tendered on 3/31/20 (representing one month's lease payment). Dkt. 58, p.1:3-17. But the tentative ruling is that, even if the automatic stay applies, this Bankruptcy Court can only decline to lift the stay for a very short period of time, to attempt to prevent irreparable harm to the estate, to the detriment of other creditors.

The tentative ruling is that, if the automatic stay applies, it must be terminated, and only the 14 day stay that presumptively applies under Rule 4001(a)(3) is appropriate to make that ruling effective. Again, this alternative analysis assumes that the automatic stay does apply; but Debtor has had since the petition date to determine how to deal with the fact that it has no right to continued possession of Penske's trucks; and if that were not enough Debtor has had since the filing of Penske's motion for relief from the automatic stay (on 3/31/21) to address this issue.

Of course, it will be very unfortunate if Debtor cannot afford replacement leases, or cannot find truck lessors willing to lease it trucks. But this Bankruptcy Court is not aware of any authority to force a lessor into extending or entering into a contractual arrangement with a debtor. The most that this Bankruptcy Court can do, consistent with the Congressional mandate that this Court "shall" grant relief from the automatic stay, is to grant Debtor a limited window of time in which to comply with nonbankruptcy law.

Debtor has not disputed that applicable nonbankruptcy law directs it to return the trucks. Debtor argues that any affirmative order directing it to turn over the trucks would require a separate motion (or adversary proceeding) (see LBR 4001-1(c)(4)); but that is not the point. Debtor also points out that, although Penske includes in its motion a request for an administrative expense reimbursement, there was no separate notice or motion seeking such relief, but again that is not the point.

The point is that Debtor is already under an affirmative obligation to comply with applicable nonbankruptcy law, once any automatic stay is determined not to apply. See 28 U.S.C. 959(b). Therefore, this Bankruptcy Court presumes that Debtor will comply with such nonbankruptcy law once the automatic stay is determined not to apply or is lifted, without the necessity for Penske to file a separate motion or adversary proceeding to force such compliance. In any event, Penske will be free, at that point, to exercise its nonbankruptcy rights to recover possession, and it can assert a right to any administrative expense it seeks.

In addition, Debtor must maintain adequate insurance coverage and otherwise adequately protect Penske's interests in the trucks during the short time prior to the vehicles being returned by Debtor or recovered by Penske. The tentative ruling is that a daily rate equivalent to the prepetition lease rate is appropriate for each truck.

The tentative ruling is that, although Penske has established that Debtor lacks any equity in the trucks, Debtor has established a colorable basis to find that the trucks are necessary for an effective reorganization under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(2). Therefore, the tentative ruling is that, if the automatic stay were to apply, section 362(d)(2) would not provide an alternative basis for granting relief from the stay. But that does not change the outcome, or give Debtor any additional rights to retain property in which it has no legal interest.

(viii) Conclusion regarding Penske's motion for relief from the automatic stay

The tentative ruling is to grant Penske's motion by ruling that the automatic stay does not apply, under Perl, and alternatively, even if the stay does apply, there is "cause" to terminate it very quickly under 11 U.S.C. 362(d)(1). But the tentative ruling is that because of (A) the risk that an appellate court might adopt a different view of the applicability of the automatic stay, (B) the 14 day period to appeal, and (C) the presumptive 14 day stay under Rule 4001(a)(3), it is appropriate to stay the order granting Penske's motion for 14 days. In addition, the tentative ruling is that Debtor must maintain insurance, and pay Penske in cash for the daily equivalent of the lease rate for each truck until such truck is returned by Debtor in accordance with nonbankruptcy law, or recovered by Penske.

Proposed order: Penske is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date, and attach a copy of this tentative ruling, thereby incorporating it as this Court's final ruling, subject to any changes ordered at the hearing. See LBR 9021-1(b)

(b) Plan filing deadline

The Bankruptcy Code imposes a deadline of 5/6/21 to file a plan. 11 U.S.C. 1189(b). An extension is permissible, "if the need for the extension is attributable to circumstances for which the debtor should not justly be held accountable" (id.), but Debtor has not asserted any such circumstances.

Nevertheless, in its capacity as debtor in possession, with the duties of a trustee for the benefit of creditors, Debtor is cautioned to exercise business judgment and billing discretion in not expending excessive resources in preparing a proposed plan. Any such plan might well be mooted, or might need to be changed radically, in view of Debtor's pending motion to sell substantially all of its assets and any disposition of that motion. This Bankruptcy Court is flexible in terms of what plan is proposed, and the national form of small business plan should be capable of being filled out quickly without necessarily addressing every contingency - that is what amendments to plans are for.

Tentative Ruling for 4/6/21:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor.

(1) Current issues

(a) Budget motion (dkt. 37), no opposition is on file
The tentative ruling is to grant the motion.

Proposed order: Debtor is directed to lodge a proposed order via LOU within 7 days after the hearing date. See LBR 9021-1(b)(1)(B).

(b) Affiliate reporting

Based on this Court's review of the supplemental declaration of Mark Berlin (dkt. 38), the tentative ruling is to excuse Debtor from this Court's requirement that it disclose all income, expenses, assets, and liabilities of its affiliates at this time, with the caveat that this Court might require such disclosures in future if appropriate.

(c) Insurance

Debtor's Monthly Operating Report ("MOR") for February 2021 (dkt. 40, p.1, In 9) states that Debtor has not timely paid all of its insurance premiums. Why not? Debtor is directed to appear to address what premiums have not been paid and what remedies this Court should impose to ensure property of the estate is being adequately protected.

Tentative Ruling for 3/2/21:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor and Debtor's principal.

(1) Current issues

(a) Budget motion

Debtor's status report states that a budget motion is not required by the presiding judge's procedures. Stat.Rpt. (dkt. 17), p.3. That is wrong (see posted "Procedures of Judge Bason," available at cacb.uscourts.gov).

Judge Bason recognizes that most transactions in the "ordinary course" do not require court approval. 11 U.S.C. 362(b)&(c). But debtors in bankruptcy have been known to misunderstand or mischaracterize what is "ordinary course." See generally In re Dant & Russell, Inc., 853 F.2d 700, 703-06 & nn.4-7 (9th Cir. 1988) (horizontal and vertical tests for what is "ordinary course").

Judge Bason also recognizes that Debtor claims to be operating at a loss because of "the cost of doing business in California" and the COVID-19 pandemic. Stat.Rpt. (dkt.17), Addendum, p.1:21-24 (at PDF p.13). But, as Debtor discloses in its attorneys' employment application, it shares services with affiliates "including" (but perhaps not limited to) "shared marketing, customer service, accounting, and staffing." Dkt.13, p.3:2-3. In such situations there is a danger that, for example, Debtor could be unintentionally or intentionally over-paying for such services (measured by the horizontal or vertical test), possibly as a way of (i) transferring funds to affiliates without having to make equity distributions and (ii) reducing its reported income.

Such concerns about potential under-disclosure of Debtor's income (and value) are heightened because Debtor contemplates that insiders will purchase substantially all of Debtor's assets as a going concern, apparently without overbids. Debtor claims that its business only has value to insiders, and that "the costs of conducting an auction sale to third parties" would be too great. Stat.Rpt. (dkt.17), Addendum, p.2:2-9 (at PDF p.14).

To be clear, this Court makes no presumption that Debtor is actually engaging in any overpayments to affiliates, nor whether any transfers to affiliates would be improper in any way (e.g., some tax planning is entirely legal and appropriate). The point is only that, without disclosure, there is no way to know.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/9/21 for Debtor to file and serve its budget motion, together with whatever briefing and declaration(s) are necessary or appropriate to address the foregoing issues.

(b) Affiliate reporting

Debtor requests to be excused from this Court's requirement that it disclose all income, expenses, assets, and liabilities of its affiliates because it is part of a larger structure and requiring such disclosure would be expensive and burdensome. Dkt. 17, PDF p.14:19-22. But Debtor fails to provide any meaningful discussion of what "larger structure" Debtor refers to, who its affiliates are, or how creditors can have an understanding of Debtor's shared services with affiliates (such as accounting, marketing, etc.), without disclosure of affiliates' finances. Debtor is directed at the Status Conference to provide further detail about its corporate structure and why this Court's reporting requirements would be overly burdensome, relative to the benefits to creditors of the additional disclosures.

The tentative ruling is that on an interim basis only partial disclosure will be required, but such partial disclosure must provide parties in interest, including the Subchapter V Trustee, with adequate information to assess the costs and benefits of Debtor's transfers to and from affiliates. The tentative ruling is that if such partial disclosure is inadequate, then full disclosure will be required.

For example, it would be insufficient to disclose that Debtor contributes no net income to its family of affiliates while receiving benefits such as accounting services (preparation of tax returns). That hypothetical disclosure would paint a picture of Debtor receiving far more than it gives; but the hypothetical fails to disclose all transfers to affiliates, including payments for supplies, shared services, etc. Nor would such a hypothetical disclosure provide any sense of whether the accounting services provided to Debtor are greater or less than such services provided to affiliates (either in absolute terms, or relative to the size of affiliates' budgets). In sum, such a hypothetical disclosure would not provide adequate information for any cost/benefit assessment.

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/23/21 for whatever briefing and declaration(s) are necessary or appropriate to address the foregoing issues.

(c) Apparent non-disclosure of affiliate transactions

As noted above, Debtor's shared services with affiliates were disclosed in the employment application of its bankruptcy counsel. This Court is concerned that associated disclosures were not made in other documents that appear to require such disclosures.

(i) No prepetition transfers reported in Statement Of Financial Affairs ("SOFA")

Questions 3, 4, and 30 of Debtor's SOFA (dkt.1, p.11, at PDF p.49) require disclosure of all transfers of anything of value to creditors (whether or not they are affiliates) within 90 days prepetition and all transfers to insiders (which includes affiliates) within one year prepetition. Debtor does not disclose any such transfers, despite Debtor's extensive shared services with its affiliates, and despite well over $2 million owed to apparent affiliates with "Elite" in their name. See Bankruptcy Schedule E/F, dkt.1, p.6, at PDF p.26.

Is it really true that Debtor's affiliates provided millions of dollars of services over several years, but did not require any payments at all from Debtor during the year prepetition? If Debtor really was losing money at such a drastic rate, why did the affiliates continue to fund Debtor and why are they interested in purchasing Debtor's assets as a going concern?

(ii) No postpetition transfers reported in Status Reports

Similarly, despite the extensive shared services, Debtor's chapter 11 status report (dkt.17) asserts that Debtor has not made any postpetition transfers to insiders - which includes affiliates (11 U.S.C. 101(31)(E)). See Status Report (dkt.17), p.3, item B.3. Is that really true?

(iii) Postpetition loans, or equity contributions?

If Debtor's affiliates really have been subsidizing it postpetition, have they been extending credit to Debtor without notice and a hearing? See 11 U.S.C. 364. Alternatively, perhaps Debtor's affiliates have been making equity contributions rather than loans; but again that only heightens the concern that the affiliates' willingness to fund Debtor and purchase its assets as a going concern seems inconsistent with Debtor's assertion that it consistently operates at a loss.

In any event, neither any loans nor any equity contributions from affiliates are disclosed in the employment application of Debtor's proposed bankruptcy counsel. Why not?

(iv) Caveat

Again, this Court makes no presumptions regarding what actually has or has not occurred, or whether there is anything wrong with what Debtor and its affiliates and proposed bankruptcy counsel have done. On their face, Debtor's disclosures appear to show that its affiliates have been extraordinarily generous and forgiving when it comes to extending credit or equity contributions to Debtor, and perhaps a sale to affiliates is the only way to preserve jobs and maximize any recovery for creditors. But without further disclosures it is impossible to know if Debtor's representations are accurate.

(d) Funding of Debtor's proposed bankruptcy counsel by affiliates

The employment application of Debtor's counsel (dkt. 13, 14, 15) discloses such counsel received $50,000 in funds from Debtor's 63% member and general unsecured creditor, Elite GG&K Associates, LLC ("Elite GGK"). Empl.App. (dkt. 13), pp.6:26-7:13. Although Debtor and its proposed counsel assert that the $50,000 was a gift, there is no declaration from Elite GGK saying so, and verifying the other representations by Debtor's proposed counsel. In addition, Elite GGK has a prepetition claim of $857,000.00. See Bankruptcy Schedule E/F (dkt.1), p.6 (at PDF p.26).

Chapter 11

Tentative Ruling for 2/25/21:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor (pursuant to this Court's Procedures Order (dkt. 3), Debtor's principal is not required to appear at this Status Conference, but is required to appear at the status conference on 3/2/21 at 1:00 p.m.).

(1) Current issues

(a) Payroll motion (dkt. 19), order shortening time ("OST," dkt. 20), notice/proofs of service (dkt.22, 23)

On the one hand, service appears to be defective. On the other hand, subject to any opposition at the hearing, it appears that this Court can, and should, grant relief anyway.

(i) Defective service

As for service, the OST set this hearing on extremely short time - a hearing on 2/25/21 based on a telephonic request and motion on 2/22/21 - but in exchange Debtor was required to serve most creditors via overnight delivery, personal delivery, or other proper method of service, for receipt no later than 2/23/21. It appears that did not happen.

The proofs of service (dkt.22, 23) appear to show service on many creditors via U.S. mail, which is presumed to take 3 days (per Rule 9006(f), Fed. R. Bankr. P.) and therefore would arrive after the hearing. That is inadequate.

Many other creditors are shown as being served via email, and such service is ineffective absent consent (such as the consent provided by creditors who have agreed to be served via this Court's "NEF" system, by registering for CM/ECF privileges). The OST itself reminds litigants of that limitation. See dkt. 20, p.3 ("Service by electronic means (facsimile or email) requires compliance with F.R.Civ.P. 5(b)(2)(E)."); and see Rules 4(d) (waiving service) and 5(b)(2)(E) (regarding service via "electronic means that the person consented to in writing") (Fed. R. Civ. P.) (both incorporated by Rule 9014(b), Fed. R. Bankr. P.).

Moreover, although it is not entirely clear what Bankruptcy Rules apply to a payroll motion, some sort of "notice and a hearing" or opportunity for a hearing are almost universally required for any sort of motions in bankruptcy cases. See generally 11 U.S.C. 102(1). Traditionally, payroll motions usually are required to be served on the 20 largest unsecured creditors and other types of key creditors, as the OST provides.

(ii) Granting relief anyway

Despite the foregoing concerns, this Court recognizes that paying employees usually is critical, both (A) for the benefit of all parties with a stake in maintaining a debtor's going concern value and (B) in fairness to the employees who are providing their labor in reliance on the promise of payment. In addition, this Court is authorized and required, "at any time" and "with or without a hearing," to condition the use of any property of the bankruptcy estate on whatever terms are necessary to provide adequate protection of any interest in such property (11 U.S.C. 363(e)); and in this instance the tentative ruling is that Debtor, as a debtor in possession acting as a trustee for the benefit of creditors and all parties in interest, is requesting the authority to use estate funds in a way that is necessary to protect the interests of persons with an interest in the bankruptcy estate, by paying employees and maintaining Debtor's going concern value. Therefore the tentative ruling is that this Court is authorized, and indeed required, to grant the payroll motion at this time, without a hearing or further notice; but with a warning to Debtor and its counsel that this is a truly exceptional type of motion and that usually the failure to serve papers as required by an OST and/or any applicable rules would result in denial of a motion.

fr. 3/23/21

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/27/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Order to show cause re conversion, dismissal or other remedies (dkt. 52, the "OSC"), proof of service (dkt. 55), Debtor's declaration (dkt. 57)

Based on this Court's review of Debtor's declaration, the tentative ruling is to discharge the OSC. After the hearing, this Court will prepare the order.

(b) Budget motion (dkt. 36), no opposition on file

The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 5/4/21 for Debtor to file and serve an amended budget motion to account for (i) giving up her 2002 vehicle, (ii) no longer receiving a contribution to rent from her boyfriend, (iii) receiving rent from her brother, starting at $200 per month, and (iv) any expenses associated with Gamblers Anonymous.

(c) Late service of bar date order

This Court's bar date order (dkt. 39) set a deadline of 3/30/21 for Debtor to serve all interested parties and file a proof of service. On 4/13/21 Debtor filed a proof of service (dkt. 46) and a declaration from Debtor's Counsel (dkt. 48) explaining that Counsel overlooked this Court's entry of the bar date order and did not serve creditors until presumably 4/13/21. This Court notes that even such delayed service will still provide creditors with 64 days' notice of the claims bar date so, in the absence of any evidence of prejudice, the tentative ruling is that such service is sufficient. But Counsel is cautioned that failure to timely comply with this Court's orders in future may result in the imposition of sanctions or other adverse consequences.

(d) Lawsuit

This Court's 3/23/21 Tentative Ruling noted that Debtor listed a lawsuit in line 9 of the SOFA and directed her to address the nature and status of the lawsuit at the prior hearing. But it appears this issue was not addressed at the 3/23/21 hearing. Accordingly, if this Court is persuaded to adopt its tentative ruling on the OSC, Debtor should be prepared to address the nature and status of the litigation and whether she intends to seek authorization to hire special counsel.

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 3/2/21.

(a) Bar date: 6/16/21 (dkt. 39) (not timely served, dkt. 46)

(b) Procedures order: dkt.18 (timely served, dkt.25)

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement: TBD

Chapter 11

Debtor's status report states that a budget motion is not required by the presiding judge's procedures. Dkt. 32, p.3. That is wrong (see posted "Procedures of Judge Bason," available at www.uscourts.gov). The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/30/21 for Debtor to file a budget motion with a hearing concurrent with the continued status conference. Counsel is cautioned not to mis-state the applicable procedures in future.

(b) Gambling

Debtor has a serious gambling problem, according to at least two sources. First, this Court's records (from a hearing on 6/13/19, and associated filed documents in case no. 2:14-bk-20138-NB) indicate that Debtor's previous bankruptcy case was dismissed due to problems caused by Debtor's gambling. Second, in this current case Debtor's Statement Of Financial Affairs ("SOFA") states on line 5 that Debtor has had substantial gross income from gambling in 2019 ($48,306.00 gross income) and 2020 ($50,108.00 gross income). See SOFA (dkt.6), p.2. It is unclear what net income (or loss) Debtor has had from gambling, although in her papers filed in her prior case she vaguely asserted that her gross income was artificially inflated by the way that casinos report winnings, and she implied that her net income was small (or perhaps she had a net loss).

Based on the limited information available from Debtor's filed documents, it appears that either (i) she failed to devote her gambling winnings to paying her creditors, or alternatively (ii) she actually suffering losses, which were being funded somehow, and thus she must have been under-reporting her income. In any event, Debtor failed to "do the math" in her prior bankruptcy case to explain her true financial picture.

Is Debtor still gambling? Is she receiving treatment for her apparent gambling addiction? How can creditors have any assurance that, in this latest bankruptcy case, Debtor either has stopped gambling or is keeping her gambling to a very low amount that is taken out of funds that would not otherwise go to creditors? How can creditors have any assurance that Debtor has been truthful and will in future devote all disposable income to paying her debts? What tangible remedies could be imposed to provide assurances to creditors?

(c) Bankruptcy schedules (dkt.21)

Debtor's Bankruptcy Schedule J (dkt.21 at PFD p.43) does not list any gambling expense. Has Debtor entirely stopped gambling? If she alleges so, how can that be verified?

(d) Attorney fees

Debtor's SOFA states on line 16 that Debtor paid $-0- to her proposed bankruptcy counsel. See SOFA (dkt. 6), at PDF p.4. That is inconsistent with other filed documents, and not credible; but Debtor signed the SOFA under penalty of perjury. Again, how can creditors rely on anything that Debtor says if she is prepared to sign false documents?

(e) Lawsuit

What is the nature and status of the lawsuit identified in line 9 of the SOFA? Debtor reports that she disputes the allegations and has filed a response. Will Debtor be seeking authorization to hire special counsel?

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 3/2/21.

to adequately report income/expenses as directed by the form. Notwithstanding this Court's directions to Debtor to file amended schedules, Debtor's budget motion attaches his original schedules. See dkt. 28 at PDF pp.6-9. The tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 4/6/21 for Debtor to file and serve (i) corrected bankruptcy schedules I & J and (ii) an amended budget motion with those corrected schedules attached.

(c) Transcription errors and inaccurate representations

Debtor's status report (dkt. 29, p.2) states that this case was filed on 3/4/202[1] (emphasis added), but the actual date is 3/3/2021. Additionally, Debtor's notices of hearings (dkt. 30, p.1 & dkt. 33, p.1) incorrectly state in the caption that Judge Bason's courtroom is located in "Woodland Hills, CA 91367." Debtor's Counsel is encouraged to review filed papers carefully to avoid unnecessary confusion to creditors and this Court.

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 3/3/21. If this case is not dismissed, the tentative ruling is to set the following dates/deadlines:

(a) Bar date: 6/16/21 (dkt. 35, 3/30/21 deadline to file proof of service)

(b) Procedures order: dkt.14 (timely served, dkt.21, amended by dkt. 22)

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement: TBD

(d) Continued status conference: 4/27/21 at 1:00 p.m.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

If appearances are not required at the start of this tentative ruling but you wish to dispute the tentative ruling, or for further explanation of "appearances required/are not required," please see Judge Bason's Procedures (posted at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) then search for "tentative rulings." Chapter 11

Tentative Ruling for 3/23/21:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor and by Debtor himself.

(1) Current issues

This is Debtor's eighth bankruptcy case since 2000. This latest case is off to a bad start, as detailed below. Debtor is directed to address whether this Court should dismiss this case with a permanent bar against being a debtor in bankruptcy, or impose other relief.

(a) Status report

Debtor has ignored this Court's order to file a status report. See Procedures Order, dkt. 14. If this case is not dismissed, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/30/21 to file the required status report and serve it on all creditors.

(b) "First Day" motions

Debtor has failed to file any so-called "first day" motions. For example, (i) although Debtor's prior case (Case No. 2:20-bk-17479-NB) was dismissed on 2/11/21, Debtor has failed to file a motion in this case to continue the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3), so it appears that the automatic stay has expired; (ii) Debtor has not filed a budget motion, which is particularly important because in Debtor's prior case there were allegations that Debtor was hiding income; and (iii) Debtor has not filed a payroll motion (which might be needed if his "part time contract laborer" or any other persons are employed/hired by Debtor, as distinguished from being employed by Debtor's business in its ordinary course, see dkt.12, at PDF p.13), etc. The damage from not having filed such motions might be irreparable.

For example, as noted above, the automatic stay appears to have expired, with no opportunity to extend it (per section 362(c)(3)). This means that (x) Debtor and the bankruptcy estate appear to be exposed to the risk that lienholders will foreclose on the principal asset of the estate (Debtor's home), (y) creditors might be free to seek to levy on bank accounts and otherwise collect debts, which presumably could interfere with any effort to reorganize, and (z) if creditors are free to pursue their remedies that can be a "race to collect," which is potentially unfair to creditors. For all of these reasons, this Court questions whether this bankruptcy case should be dismissed.

Chapter 11

If this case is not dismissed, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/30/21 to file whatever "first day" motions are appropriate, with a hearing concurrent with the continued status conference. Debtor is directed to address at the hearing what motions are required or appropriate.

(c) Unreported income/expenses

Debtor apparently has income from a property or business but has failed to provide a breakdown of gross receipts, ordinary and necessary business expenses, and calculation of the resulting monthly net income as directed by the form. See dkt. 12 at PDF p.24 (bankruptcy schedule "I" line 8a).

Debtor is reminded that this Court's Procedures Order (dkt.14) requires him to report all income and expenses from his business as if it were a co-debtor in bankruptcy, including on Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs").

If this case is not dismissed, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/30/21 for Debtor to file an amended Schedule I with a comprehensive breakdown of gross revenues, expenses, and net income. The tentative ruling is that such a breakdown must be accompanied by Debtor's declaration under penalty of perjury, with copies of receipts and other documentation to establish an accurate picture of Debtor's typical monthly income and expenses.

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 3/3/21. If this case is not dismissed, the tentative ruling is to set the following dates/deadlines:

(a) Bar date: 6/16/21 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

(b) Procedures order: dkt.14 (timely served, dkt.21, amended by dkt. 22)

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement: TBD

(d) Continued status conference: 4/27/21 at 1:00 p.m.

*Warning: special procedures apply (see order setting initial status conference).

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/27/21:

Appearances required.

(1) Current issues

(a) Service of bar date order

This Court's bar date order (dkt. 18) set a deadline of 3/30/21 for Debtor to serve all interested parties. As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, there is no proof of service reflecting that Debtor timely complied. Have creditors been served with the bar date order? If so, when did that occur and why has Debtor not filed a proof of service?

(b) Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs")

As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, Debtor has not filed its March MOR. Why not?

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 2/19/21.

(a) Bar date: 5/28/21 (dkt. 18, no proof of service on file)

(b) Procedures order: dkt.3 (timely served, dkt.5)

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement: TBD

(d) Continued status conference: 6/1/21 at 1:00 p.m. Brief status report due 5/18/21.

Tentative Ruling for 3/23/21:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor and by Debtor's principal.

(1) Current issues

(a) Untimely Status report

Debtor filed its status report (dkt. 15) four days late, on 3/13/21, without providing any explanation for the late filing. Debtor/counsel are cautioned that failure to timely comply with this Court's orders in future may result in adverse consequences.

(b) First-day motions

Debtor's status report states that a budget motion is not required by the presiding judge's procedures. Dkt. 15, p.3. That is wrong (see posted "Procedures of Judge Bason," available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov), but the tentative ruling is to excuse this requirement with a caution to counsel not to mis-state the applicable procedures.

If Debtor has not filed an employment application or any other typical so-called "first-day" motion(s) by the time of this hearing, the tentative ruling is to set a deadline of 3/30/21 for Debtor to file any outstanding motion(s) with a hearing concurrent with the continued status conference. Debtor is directed to address at the hearing what other motions are required or appropriate.

(c) Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs")

As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, Debtor has not filed its February MOR. Why not?

(d) Only two creditors?

Debtor's creditor matrix includes only two creditors. Is that really true? How about the City of Fontana which, according to Debtor's Status Report

There is no tentative ruling. Appearances required.

(b) Monthly Operating Reports ("MORs")

As of the preparation of this tentative ruling, Debtor has not filed her March MOR. Why not?

This Court also notes that Debtor has consistently filed her MORs late. See January MOR (dkt. 31, filed 4 days late); February MOR (dkt. 45, filed 5 days late); March MOR (not filed as of preparation of this tentative ruling). Debtor is cautioned that failure to timely satisfy her reporting obligations creates more work for this Court and parties in interest. Tentative Ruling for 4/6/21:

Continue as set forth below. Appearances are not required on 4/6/21.

(1) Current issues

(a) Status of sale efforts

As of the preparation of this tentative ruling the docket does not reflect any motion to approve any sale of Debtor's principal asset, as Debtor has been hoping. Nevertheless, it is possible that a sale might materialize, and meanwhile this Court wishes to avoid the expense of a hearing if no hearing is necessary, so the tentative ruling is to continue this Status Conference as provided below. The continued date is the last regularly scheduled hearing date before any foreclosure sale can occur under this Court's order (dkt.60) granting relief from the automatic stay to creditor Amit Tidhar.

Chapter 11

#20.00 Cont'd Status Conference re: Chapter 11 Case
fr. 3/31/21

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling for 4/27/21:

Appearances required by counsel for Debtor and by Debtor's principal.

(1) Current issues

(a) Debtor's Emergency Motion for Order Authorizing Interim Use of Cash Collateral (dkt. 6), Debtor's Supplemental Declaration (dkt. 31), Pravati Credit Fund III LP's Opposition (dkt. 46), Debtor's Reply (dkt. 58), Debtor's Motion for Order Approving Budget for Use of the Debtor's Cash and Postpetition Income (dkt. 7)

The tentative ruling is to grant the motion on a further interim basis. While this Court agrees with Pravati that the evidence to support Debtor's actual and projected budgets falls short of what should have been provided, and that Debtor's proposed $15,000 monthly payments do not appear even to cover the statutory interest accruing on its claim, nevertheless Pravati's position is weakened in two respects.

First, Debtor has provided strong evidence that Pravati's lien is avoidable under 11 U.S.C. § 547 and has indicated that it will initiate an adversary proceeding to avoid that lien, changing Pravati's asserted secured claim to an unsecured claim. Dkt. 58, pp. 2:17–20, 3:23–26. Second, this Court is also concerned that denying the motion would run the risk of undermining Debtor's ability to generate revenues for the benefit of all creditors, thereby reducing the potential distribution to creditors, including Pravati, under any plan. Both of these factors favor granting the motion on a further interim basis, with a continued hearing concurrent with the continued status conference (see below), while also permitting Pravati to engage in reasonable, fairly limited discovery to (i) verify past expenditures and (ii) support Debtor's projected future expenditures. The parties are reminded to review the "Posted Procedures of Judge Bason" (available at www.cacb.uscourts.gov) regarding discovery disputes (and any other relevant matters).

Chapter 11

(b) Proof of Service of the Court's Order Setting (A) Principal Status Conference and (B) Procedures (dks. 4, 15).

On 3/30/21, this Court issued its Order Setting (A) Principal Status Conference and (B) Procedures (the "Procedures Order"). The Procedures Order directed Debtor to serve all parties in interest via U.S. Mail and to file a proof of service with the Court.

On 3/31/21, Debtor's counsel submitted a declaration of one of his employees (the "Employee Declaration") stating that he caused the Procedures Order to be served on a list of parties. A proof of service was attached as Exhibit A to the Employee Declaration, but the proof of service does not list any parties served via U.S. Mail. The tentative ruling is to direct Debtor, no later than 4/29/21, either (x) to serve a corrected Employee Declaration showing the missing names or (y) to serve the Procedures Order on all parties who have not been served and file a supplemental proof of service.

(2) Dates/procedures. This case was filed on 3/29/21.

(a) Bar date: 7/6/21 (DO NOT SERVE notice yet - court will prepare an order after the status conference).

(b) Procedures order: dkt. 4 (not timely served, dkt. 8, see above)

(c) Plan/Disclosure Statement: TBD

(d) Continued status conference: 5/11/21 at 1:00 p.m., brief status report due 5/18/21.

Subject to oral argument at the hearing, the tentative ruling is to grant a stay during appellate proceedings before the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel for the Ninth Circuit (the "BAP"), but only impose any such stay after any ruling on whether or not to confirm Debtor's proposed chapter 11 Plan.

The reasons are:

(i) although it appears to this Court that Ms. Campos is unlikely to succeed on the merits of her pending appeal or any future appeal from any confirmation order, nevertheless the legal questions she raises are serious and the facts and circumstances presented are unique in this Court's experience;

(ii) although it is unclear whether Ms. Campos would suffer any harm, let alone irreparable harm -- and to the contrary she would appear to benefit if this Court were to confirm Debtor's proposed Plan and she were to start receiving payments from Debtor -- nevertheless it is conceivable that any confirmation order might have a preclusive effect, and thereby limit the dollar amount of her claim if these proceedings were not stayed, and that issue has not been briefed nor is it clear that this Court could determine the preclusive effect of its own orders, so it is conceivable that Ms. Campos would suffer irreparable harm absent a stay, and the dollar amounts are very large so the potential prejudice to Ms. Campos is substantial;

(iii) on the one hand, it is true that if any confirmation order is stayed then other parties in interest will be delayed in receiving payments under the proposed Plan, but on the other hand it appears that any delay will probably not be very long given the pace of proceedings before the BAP, both in this case and in general;

(iv) the public interest does not appear to cut either way.

The tentative ruling is that the stay would only last through the conclusion of proceedings before the BAP, not any subsequent appeals (which could take long enough to cause substantial prejudice to Debtor and other parties).

In addition, the tentative ruling is that this Court would reserve jurisdiction and authority to terminate any stay at any future time (e.g., if proceedings before the BAP were to turn out to be protracted for any reason, and if the resulting delay were long enough to cause significant prejudice to Debtor and other parties in interest). But, of course, all of the foregoing is subject to any appellate court's authority to grant a stay pending appeal, or other relief.

(b) Debtor's amended chapter 11 plan of reorganization & disclosure statement (dkt. 250, 251, 265 "Plan") & disclosure statement (251, "DS"), related Orders (dkt. 247, 255), Opposition of Yunuen Campos (dkt. 272), Proof of service of voting package (dkt. 281), Ballot summary/analysis (dkt. 282, 283), Debtor's reply (dkt. 284, 287) & supporting declarations (dkt. 285, 286), related Memorandum Decision (dkt. 121) and interim Order (dkt. 144) re assumption of Mediation Term Sheet (dkt.251, Ex.D, at PDF pp.54-56), Debtor's notice re same (dkt. 227), notice of appeal (dkt. 147), and claim objection Order (dkt. 277) (sustaining Debtor's objection to Ms. Campos' claim above dollar amount in Mediation Term Sheet)

The tentative ruling is to overrule Ms. Campos' objections, confirm the Plan and approve the Disclosure Statement on a final basis for the reasons set forth below.

(i) Impairment

The tentative ruling is to overrule Ms. Campos' objection that the Plan improperly characterizes her claim as unimpaired because Debtor argues persuasively that the whole concept of impairment does not apply to Ms. Campos' claim. The Mediation Term Sheet is an assumable executory contract that need not be classified under the Plan, and the fact that Debtor has opted to label the claim as if it were classified (as a precautionary measure) does not create voting rights where none exist under the Bankruptcy Code. See Reply (dkt. 284) p. 8:25-27.

Additionally and alternatively, the tentative ruling is that if Ms. Campos' claim were required to be classified, the Plan's separate classification of her claim is proper and her claim is not impaired for the reasons stated in Debtor's reply papers (dkt. 284, pp.9:3-14:18).

Additionally and alternatively, the tentative ruling is that even if Ms. Campos' claim is impaired, and even if the requirements of cramdown under 11 U.S.C. 1129(b) were to apply, the Plan can be confirmed because it meets all the requirements of 11 U.S.C. 1129(a) (as set forth below) and the Plan does not unfairly discriminate and is fair and equitable with respect to Ms.

Campos' claim. The amended Plan provides for Ms. Campos to receive everything to which she is entitled to under the Mediation Term Sheet. See Reply (dkt. 284) pp.14:19-17:1, and Declaration of Samiel R. Biggs (dkt. 285) p.3:4-18.

(ii) Good faith

The tentative ruling is that Ms. Campos' arguments under the good faith test of 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(3) are not persuasive.

(A) Legal standards

On the one hand, the statute is not a general inquiry into whether everything a debtor has ever done was in good faith. By its terms, section 1129(a)(3) only addresses whether a chapter 11 plan is "proposed" in good faith. In re Garvin, 922 F.3d 1031 (9th Cir. 2019).

On the other hand, if there were to be any abuse of the bankruptcy process, that could establish that the plan has not been proposed in good faith. See, e.g., In re Sylmar Plaza, 314 F.3d 1070, 1074 (9th Cir. 2002) (cited in Garvin, 922 F.3d 1031, 1036 n.3). Therefore this Court agrees with Ms. Campos to the following limited extent: Debtor's prepetition acts are relevant, as part of the "totality of circumstances" that this Court must consider in evaluating whether the Plan has been proposed in good faith. See Obj. (dkt. 272), pp. 12:5-14:14.

(B) The parties' long and contentious disputes do not establish a lack of good faith

The tentative ruling is that Ms. Campos is off the mark in asserting that a lack of good faith is established by the history of the parties' disputes. True, there was an underlying judgment for sexual battery (and attorney fees), and Debtor has vigorously defended himself including appeals and prior bankruptcy cases. But, for three reasons that is not persuasive evidence of any lack of good faith.

First, in general parties are entitled to fight vigorously to defend their position (provided they do not overstep the ethical and legal limitations, such as Rule 9011, Fed. R. Bankr. P.). There is no evidence that Debtor has overstepped those bounds.

Second, supposing for the sake of discussion that there were such evidence (which there is not), even a wrongdoer can "propose" a chapter 11 plan in "good faith." An attempt to pay debts over time, even (or especially) if those debts are based on wrongdoing, is the essence of a chapter 11 bankruptcy case.

Third, Ms. Campos voluntarily entered into a settlement with Debtor, and Debtor's Plan simply proposes to enforce that settlement by the only means apparently available to him: the power to assume that settlement in bankruptcy (using his proposed Plan). It is legitimate to use 11 U.S.C. 365 to cure defaults that might not be curable outside of bankruptcy - e.g., the ability to cure payments that were due months ago. There is no lack of good faith in using the provisions of the Bankruptcy Code to hold Ms. Campos to the deal to which she agreed.

(C) Paying Mr. Fuller less than 100% of the purchase price for his claims, before knowing if this Court will confirm the proposed Plan, is not a lack of good faith

Ms. Campos has not established any lack of good faith in Debtor's decision to risk paying only part of what is required for him to purchase Mr. Fuller's claims (which he is purchasing so as to moot or satisfy the condition that Mr. Fuller's claims against Ms. Campos be resolved, as part of the parties' Mediation Term Sheet). See Obj. (dkt. 272), pp. 14:15-15:22. Debtor is entitled not to risk everything all at once, by paying even more to Mr. Fuller than he already has, prior to confirmation of the Plan.

In addition, as Debtor points out, there is no evidence of any attempt to "gerrymander" a consenting impaired class. If Ms. Campos were to be classified with other claims, Debtor still would have at least one requisite consenting impaired class, and thereby would satisfy 11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(10) and (b).

(iii) Feasibility

The tentative ruling is to reject Ms. Campos' argument that the Plan is not feasible, which is based on the risk that this Court's prior rulings might be reversed. See Obj. (dkt. 272), pp. 15:23-16:13. As she concedes, the issue is whether confirmation is "likely" to be followed by liquidation or the need for further financial reorganization (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(10), emphasis added), and all that is required is for Debtor to show that the Plan has a "reasonable prospect of success and is workable." Id. (quoting In re Pizza of Hawaii, Inc., 761 F.2d 1374, 1382 (9th Cir. 1985) (emphasis added, internal quotation marks omitted)).

The tentative ruling is that Debtor has met this test. This Court recognizes that reversal is always a possibility, and is very much aware that assumption of the Mediation Term Sheet involves interesting questions of law. But Debtor has established that confirmation of the Plan would not "likely" be followed by the need for liquidation or further financial reorganization, for the same reasons that this Court found persuasive in the Memorandum Decision (dkt. 121) and interim Order (dkt. 144) regarding assumption of the parties' Mediation Term Sheet. Ms. Campos has not rebutted that showing.

(iv) Assumption of the Mediation Term Sheet

Ms. Campos argues that five conditions to assumption have not been met. See Obj. (dkt. 272), pp. 16:14-17:9. Taking each one in turn:

(A) Life insurance. Section "7" of the Mediation Term Sheet (dkt.251, Ex.D, at PDF pp.55) requires that Debtor obtain life insurance in a dollar amount equal to 120% of the Settlement Sum (as defined therein). The Plan proposes that Debtor will obtain such insurance on the Effective Date or "as soon as practicable thereafter." See Plan, Ex.B to Art.I (dkt.251), Part "B" under "Class 2A," at PDF pp.43-44 (emphasis added).

The tentative ruling is that Debtor's proposal to obtain insurance after confirmation is insufficient. True, it is arguably within the requirement that he "promptly" cure defaults under 11 U.S.C. 365(b)(1)(A) (incorporated by 1123(b)(2)). But the tentative ruling is that, for "good faith," "feasibility," and (if applicable) the "fair and equitable" test (11 U.S.C. 1129(a)(3), (a)(11) & (b)), it is appropriate to require that Debtor obtain insurance prior to confirming the Plan. Accordingly, the tentative ruling is that entry of any confirmation order will be conditioned on Debtor filing a declaration with evidence of the required life insurance.

(B) Mutual release. Section "12" of the Mediation Term Sheet provides, "Except for obligations under the settlement agreement, the parties will trade mutual releases." See Mediation Term Sheet (dkt.251, Ex.D), at PDF p.56. Exhibit B to the Amended Plan contains Debtor's release of Ms. Campos (dkt. 250, Ex. B, Section B (Class 2A), at PDF pp.44-45). Ms. Campos does not raise any objection to the language of Debtor's proposed of release. But she appears to contemplate that she will not execute any mutual release.

The tentative ruling is that Ms. Campos need not execute any release because Debtor will be automatically released through the chapter 11 discharge and Debtor's Plan provides his release to Ms. Campos. In other words, if the Plan is confirmed and becomes effective, and if the confirmation order becomes a final order, then there will be mutual releases.

True, Debtor's release of Ms. Campos is not effective until her appeal(s) are finally resolved. But she cannot have it both ways.

If the order(s) confirming the Plan and approving assumption of the Mediation Term Sheet were to be reversed then Debtor would not qualify for a discharge under 11 U.S.C. 1141(d)(5), so it would be inappropriate for Ms. Campos to obtain a release from Debtor. Conversely, if that order becomes a final order then Debtor's release of Ms. Campos becomes effective. The tentative ruling is that Ms. Campos has not shown how this is improper, or any barrier to confirmation of the Plan.

(C) Mutual nondisparagement. Section "8" of the Mediation Term Sheet requires "reasonable, mutual non-disparagement" terms. Ms. Campos did not argue in connection with Debtor's motion to assume the Mediation Term Sheet that it is impossible to know what this means; nor is this Court aware of any reason to suppose that the parties intended anything other than standard non-disparagement terms.

The tentative ruling is that entry of any confirmation order will be conditioned on Debtor and Ms. Jayanna Howerton submitting reasonable proposed mutual non-disparagement terms. The tentative ruling is to provide Ms. Campos with a brief period in which to file and serve any objection she might have to such terms, and after any objection is resolved then those terms, like all the other terms of the Plan, will "bind" both Debtor and Ms. Campos pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 1141(a).

(D) Cure of prior payments. Section "1" of the Mediation Term Sheet (dkt.251, Ex.D, at PDF p.55) provides a schedule of payments, starting "upon dismissal of the debtor's [prior] Chapter 13 bankruptcy case ... following receipt of funds by the Chapter 13 trustee" and then on "the first calendar day" of every month following the dismissal of that prior bankruptcy case. A condition for assumption of any executory contract is to cure, or provide adequate assurance that the debtor in possession "will promptly cure," any payment defaults. 11 U.S.C. 365(b)(1)(A) (incorporated by 1123(b)(2)), 1101(1), 1107.

The tentative ruling is that Debtor is entitled to set off any outstanding amounts Ms. Campos received pre-petition or that Ms. Campos owes under the Fuller Judgment(s) against any outstanding payments owing under the Mediation Term Sheet, and that this plus his proposed schedule to cure the balance satisfies the requirement to "promptly cure" the default. The tentative ruling is that Debtor has provided evidence establishing adequate assurance of his ability to do those things. See Dkt. 251, Ex. J&K.

(E) Nondischargeability. Section "6" of the Mediation Term Sheet provides that Debtor's "obligation to pay the Settlement Sum shall remain non-dischargeable" and "[s]imilarly, the Judgment including all attorneys' fees and costs shall remain non-dischargeable." This appears to resolve any issues of nondischargeability. But Ms. Campos argues, without explanation or citation, that "[n]ondischargeability must be determined before confirmation." Ms. Campos appears to mean that the issues currently pending before Judge Robles (in proceedings in Debtor's previously-filed chapter 7 case) must be litigated to a final judgment. The tentative ruling is that this disregards the Mediation Term Sheet, which supersedes the need to litigate any other nondischargeability issues.
