Please contact me at your earliest convenience so that we may discuss the above referenced bankruptcy matter."

Each e-mail sent by Debtor's counsel was sent to the attorney of record for Trustee as well as to the Trustee. Debtor's counsel also requested to be advised if there had been a change of counsel or if it was best to communicate directly with Trustee.

Furthermore, Debtor asserts that Trustee's representation that Debtor never responded to the request made via the October 7 E-mail is incorrect. Debtor responded to the request on October 11, 2017. Debtor also contends that the April 28 E-mail presented by Trustee in the Motion, was in fact a response to an e-mail sent by Debtor's counsel and not a stand-alone inquiry made by Trustee.

Debtor requests that the Court award attorney fees and costs needed to oppose the Motion.

Reply

On July 26, 2017, the Trustee filed his reply to the Opposition asserting, correctly, that no direct evidence has been provided to support the explanations

Chapter 7

Discussion

A. Motion for Order Compelling Turnover of Records

A debtor must cooperate with the trustee as necessary to enable the trustee to perform his statutory duties. 11 U.S.C. § 521(a)(3). Among those duties is the trustee's duty to "collect and reduce to money the property of the estate for which the trustee serves, and close the estate as expeditiously as is compatible with the best interests of parties in interest." 11 U.S.C. § 704 (a)(1). Furthermore the trustee must "investigate the financial affairs of the debtor." 11 U.S.C § 704 (a)(4).

A debtor must surrender to the trustee all property of the estate and any recorded information, including books, documents, records, and papers relating to the property of the estate. 11 U.S.C. § 521(a)(4). Property of the estate includes "all legal or equitable interests of the debtor is property as of the commencement of the case." 11 U.S.C. § 541(a)(1). Life insurance policies are not excluded from becoming part of the bankruptcy estate. Gladstone v. U.S. Bancorp, 811 F.3d 1133, 1140 (9th Cir. 2016).

Here, Debtor has presented in her Schedule A/B the Policy with a cash value of $120,949.35. Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 541(a)(1), the Policy is property of the estate. Debtor must surrender all books, document, records and papers relating to the Policy pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 521(a)(4). Debtor asserts all documents have been surrendered.

Under 11 U.S.C. § 542(a), an entity in "possession, custody, or control, during the case, of property that the trustee may use, sell, or lease under section 363 of this title or that the debtor may exempt under section 522 of this title, shall deliver to the trustee, and account for, such property or the value of such property, unless such property is of inconsequential value or benefit to the estate." 11 U.S.C. § 542(a). Trustee asserts that Debtor has failed comply with § 542 in that she has failed to deliver to Trustee the records pertaining to the Policy, Debtor's interest in the cash value, and Ralph Edwards' interest in the Policy.

Chapter 7

Trustee concedes that he is in possession of the Policy and the irrevocable trust. However, Trustee alleges that he needs to review any records pertaining to Ralph Edwards' interest in the Policy in order to determine the validity of Ralph Edwards' interest in the Policy. According to Trustee, Debtor has failed to cooperate with Trustee and those documents have been denied to him. Furthermore, Trustee needs the additional records to determine if Ralph Edwards' interest is a preferential transfer or a fraudulent conveyance. This information is relevant to a determination of whether Ralph Edwards' interest may be avoided for the benefit of the estate.

Debtor alleges that all documents requested by Trustee were turned over to Trustee on July 8, 2017. Debtor contends that there are no other documents which can be provided to Trustee and Trustee was informed of this on October 11, 2017. However, the Trustee correctly points out that the Debtor has not provided direct evidence from the Debtor regarding the underlying facts asserted in the Opposition. Specifically, the Opposition provides only second-hand hearsay evidence by Debtor's counsel regarding the non-existence of documents responsive to the Trustee's request for turnover and although the Opposition purports to provide an explanation of the facts surrounding the grant of a security interest to Ralph Edwards Productions by the Debtor in her Life Insurance Trust, there is no declaration by the Debtor to support these facts nor is Counsel able to testify to their veracity.

B. Debtor's Request for Attorney's Fees and Cost

Debtor fails to provide any statutory authority under which attorney's fees and costs may be awarded. Thus, this request is denied.

Tentative Ruling

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Trustee's Motion and order turnover of the documents. Alternatively, the Court may set the matter for an evidentiary hearing for the Debtor to testify regarding the facts described in the Opposition.

#16.00 Motion to Compel the Debtor to Appear at 341(a) Meeting of Creditors and Cooperate with the Trustee

Docket 18

Tentative Ruling:

Background
08/02/2017

On April 18, 2017, Gloria Carmen Bolanos ("Debtor") filed a voluntary petition under Chapter 7 commencing the current bankruptcy case. Lynda T. Bui ("Trustee") was appointed as the Chapter 7 trustee.

On April 20, 2017, the Trustee received a letter from Wells Fargo identifying a bank account owned by the Debtor with a value of $6,075.33. No bank account was identified in the Debtor's bankruptcy schedules. On May 23, 2017, the Debtor failed to appear at the initial 341(a) meeting of creditors. The Debtor also failed to appear at the continued meetings on June 2, 2017 and June 20, 2017.

On June 28, 2017, the Trustee filed this motion to compel the Debtor's attendance at a continued 341(a) meeting of creditors and cooperate with the Trustee ("Motion"). Currently, a continued 341(a) meeting is scheduled for July 25, 2017, and the Trustee has indicated that she would dismiss the motion if the Debtor attended. No opposition has been filed.

Discussion

The Bankruptcy Code and Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") impose several duties on Chapter 7 debtors. The debtor's general duties in a bankruptcy case are set forth in Bankruptcy Code section 521. Federal and local bankruptcy rules specify how these duties are to be carried out.

Chapter 7

Bankruptcy Code section 343 states that "the debtor shall appear and submit to examination under oath at the meeting of creditors under section 341(a) of this title." 11 U.S.C. § 343 (emphasis added). FRBP 4002 also provides that a "debtor shall: (1) attend and submit to an examination at the times ordered by the court" and "(4) cooperate with the trustee in ... the administration of the estate". FRBP 4002 (emphasis added). In other words, the debtor has a mandatory obligation to submit to examination at the 341(a) meeting of creditors and to cooperate with the Trustee in administration of the estate.

In this case, the Trustee has presented evidence in the form of a declaration that Debtor has failed to attend the initial 341(a) meeting and two continued 341(a) meetings. Further, the Trustee needs to examine the Debtor in order to determine if the Wells Fargo account is available for administration. As such, the Debtor has violated her duty to cooperate with the Trustee in her administration of the estate. Accordingly, the Debtor will be compelled to appear at the next scheduled 341(a) meeting, assuming the Debtor has failed to attend the meeting currently scheduled for July 25, 2017.

Tentative Ruling

Based on the foregoing, the Motion is GRANTED, and the Debtor is ordered to appear at the next 341(a) meeting of creditors scheduled by the Trustee.

CASE DISMISSED 3/6/17

Docket 70

Tentative Ruling:

04/26/2017

BACKGROUND

On May 16, 2016 ("Petition Date"), Jina Soo Choi ("Debtor") filed her petition for chapter 13 relief. On August 4, 2016, the case was converted to a case under chapter 7. On January 6, 2017, the Debtor moved the Court for an order dismissing her case. The case was dismissed on March 6, 2017.

On March 10, 2017, the Office of the United States Trustee ("UST") filed its Motion of United States Trustee For An Order Disgorging Fees, Assessing Damages, And Imposing Fines And Against Bankruptcy Petition Preparer Sandra Cooper Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 110 ("Motion"). The Motion was amended on March 29, 2017.

On April 5, 2017, Sandra Cooper ("Cooper") filed her opposition to the Motion ("Opposition"). On April 19, 2017, the UST filed its reply to the Opposition ("Reply").

DISCUSSION

The Motion asserts that Cooper violated 11 U.S.C. § 110 by failing to disclose her identity as required by statute, by executing the Debtor's signature, and by failing to furnish copies of the filed bankruptcy documents to the Debtor. Based thereon, the UST requests disgorgement of fees, statutory damages of $2,000 pursuant to § 110(i), and payment of fines to the UST in the total sum of $21,000 ($6,000 for individual violations in failing to disclose her identity as required under § 110(b)(1) and 110(c)(1), as tripled pursuant to §110(l)(1) for a total of $18,000, in addition to $3,000 for failing to furnish copies of the bankruptcy documents to the Debtor as required under §110(d)). (Note: the Reply indicates that the UST will not pursue an additional $3,000 in fines requested by the Motion for executing documents on behalf of the Debtor unless the Court determines that an evidentiary hearing is appropriate).

By her Opposition, Cooper disputes that she is a bankruptcy petition preparer (a "BPP"). Cooper asserts that her assistance was limited to filing the bankruptcy petition ("walking in his paperwork") on behalf of Hee Chang Choi (the Debtor's husband). (Opposition at ¶ 5). Cooper further asserts that she never met the Debtor and instead that she was asked to assist the Debtor's husband with obtaining a loan modification (Id. at ¶¶2-3). Cooper disputes the allegation that she received any money either from the Debtor or from the Debtor's husband (Id. at ¶ F) and instead repeatedly asserts that she was only assisting the Debtor's husband on the request of an unidentified third party who had been helping the Debtor's husband with a "Free and Clear" program. (Cooper Declaration).

In In re Reynoso, the Ninth Circuit provided examples of cases in which a party has been properly deemed a bankruptcy petition preparer. As the Ninth Circuit explained,

It goes without saying that the customer must provide data to the preparer, and the customer's role in printing or otherwise reproducing the forms before filing does not alter the role of the preparer. Moreover, § 110 does not require that bankruptcy petition preparers have in-person interactions with their customers. Cf. Ferm v. U.S. Trustee (In re Crowe), 243 B.R. 43, 49-50 (9th Cir. BAP 2000) (holding that the author of an instructional book on bankruptcy petitions who guaranteed buyers of the book that he would complete their forms for free if they were unable to do so themselves was, in fact, presenting himself as a bankruptcy petition preparer as defined by § 110(a)(1)), aff'd, 246 F.3d 673 (9th Cir.2000) (unpublished table decision); In re Doser, 281 B.R. 292, 303-04 (Bankr.D.Idaho 2002) (reasoning that a franchisor who receives information that was solicited in a face-to-face interaction between the franchisee and the customer and uses that information to prepare bankruptcy documents, but never meets with the customer directly, is a bankruptcy petition preparer), aff'd, 412 F.3d 1056.

In re Reynoso, 477 F.3d 1117, 1123–24 (9th Cir. 2007).

The Cooper Opposition and supporting declaration are vague as to the details of how or why Cooper was engaged to work with the Debtor's husband. Cooper repeatedly makes reference to a third party that was a point of contact between the Debtor's husband and her. However, this third party is never identified. Additionally, Cooper indicates she was only helping the alleged third party but disputes that she ever received money in connection with her assistance and disputes that she did anything other than "walk in" the petition documents to the Court. Cooper's assertions, however, are not credible. There is no indication of the nature of Cooper's relationship with the alleged third party and no detail as to why she would assist the Debtor's husband or the alleged third party agent without any compensation. The Choi Declaration provided by the UST makes reference to a third party who the Debtor asserted was a patient of the Debtor's husband. The Debtor's declaration asserts that the patient referred her husband to Cooper for the purpose of negotiating a loan modification. (Mot. at Exh. 1, Choi Decl. ¶7). Cooper correctly points out that the information regarding the third party/patient is hearsay. However, the remainder of the Choi declaration unequivocally identifies Cooper, and only Cooper, as the point of contact for all communications regarding the filing of the bankruptcy for the Debtor. (Id. at ¶¶8-19).

As to the remaining allegations of the Motion, Cooper by her Opposition has specifically denied all of the allegations of the Motion, including that she executed the petition documents for the Debtor. In an effort to controvert the allegation that she did not disclose her identity, Cooper notes that she was asked for a copy of her driver's license when filing the petition and provided it. Cooper's willingness to provide her Driver's license to the clerk when filing the petition, however, does not overcome her failure to provide specific identifying information on the petition itself as required pursuant to § 110, such as an address and social security number. Thus, assuming the Court finds that Cooper is a BPP within the meaning of the statute, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion pursuant to the reduced figure requested by the UST

BACKGROUND

On September 11, 2014 David Joe Strait ("Debtor") filed his petition for chapter 7 relief. On December 14, 2014, a suit was filed by Brenda Leong ("Plaintiff") against the Debtor. The Plaintiff's original suit was amended on May 29, 2015, and that pleading now constitutes the operative complaint (the "Complaint"). The Complaint alleges that:

1. Debtor has engaged in a pattern of fraud, deceit, and breach of fiduciary duty.
2. Debtor is owner of Double O Academy, LLC, Cal Arms Inc., and Spygear4less, Inc.
3. Debtor has used the assets of these corporations for his personal use without regard to the existence of the corporate entity. These LLCs and corporation are "mere shells."
4. In reliance on Debtor's representations, Plaintiff invested $125,000 into Cal Arms and Spygear after Debtor proposed verbal and written agreements offering a percentage of shares to Plaintiff. Debtor was Plaintiff's business partner. Plaintiff also invested an additional $50,000 with Debtor.

profits of Double O and 45% of net profits of Cal Arms and Spygear as promised.

6. Plaintiff has received no net profits or return on her investments or refund of her initial investment.
7. Debtor has fraudulently transferred assets of the Corporations in an effort to avoid the enforcement of any judgment.
8. Plaintiff holds an aggregate of 4,500 common share of stock in both Cal Arms and Spygear. Both have 10,000 outstanding shares each. Plaintiff owns 33.5% of both Cal Arms and Spygear.
9. Plaintiff seeks money damages in the amount of $175,000 plus interest, an accounting of all of Debtor's corporations, attorney's fees and costs, and a determination that the debt is nondischargeable.

On June 18, 2015, the case was dismissed for Plaintiff's failure to prosecute. Plaintiff filed a motion to reopen the adversary proceeding on January 7, 2016. Plaintiff lodged an order to reopen the case on June 9, 2016. On January 6, 2017, the Court set aside the default and reinstated the adversary proceeding. On February 7, 2017, Plaintiff filed a Motion for Default Judgment. Said motion was denied without prejudice based on the following: (1) Plaintiff's failure to file a memorandum of points and authorities and (2) Plaintiff's failure to properly serve the Debtor with notice of the motion and hearing. On June 21, 2017, the Plaintiff filed the current Motion for Default Judgment ("Motion"). The Motion is unopposed.

DISCUSSION

A. Entry of Default

Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 55 states that "[w]hen a party against whom a judgment for affirmative relief is sought has failed to plead or otherwise defend as provided by these rules and that fact is made to appear by affidavit or otherwise, the clerk shall enter the party's default." Fed. R. Civ. P. 55(a). Per LBR 7055-1(b)(1), a motion for entry of default judgment shall contain the following:

Chapter 7

1. When and against what party default was entered

Plaintiff has requested entry of default against the Debtor by this Motion which the Court now enters based on the Debtor's failure to file any responsive pleading despite having been properly served.

2. Whether defaulting party is an infant or incompetent person – ✓ (N/A)
3. Whether the defaulting party is currently on active duty – ✓ (N/A)
4. Whether notice has been served on defaulting party, if required by FRCP 55(b)(2) ✓

B. Admissions

Pursuant to FRBP 7008(b)(6), failure to deny an allegation of the Complaint where a responsive pleading is required constitutes an admission of the allegation.

C. Default Judgment

Factors which may be considered by courts in exercising discretion as to the entry of a default judgment include: (1) the possibility of prejudice to the plaintiff; (2) the merits of plaintiff's substantive claim; (3) the sufficiency of the complaint; (4) the sum of money at stake in the action; (5) the possibility of a dispute considering material facts; (6) whether the default was due to excusable neglect; and (7) the strong policy underlying the FRCP favoring decision on the merits. See Eitel v. McCool, 782 F.2d 1470, 1471-72 (9th Cir. 1986).

1. Proper Service of Summons and Complaint

The Motion was served on the Debtor at the address specified on the Court's Docket on June 21, 2017. (See Motion at ¶3). Further, Debtor was also served at his personal email on June 21, 2017. Therefore, service is proper

2. Whether the Default was due to Excusable Neglect

No opposition to the motion has been filed. Therefore, there is no evidence before the Court to suggest that Default has been entered due to excusable neglect.

3. Sufficiency of the Complaint & Merits of Plaintiff's claim

Upon default, the factual allegations of the complaint, except those relating to the amount of damages, will be taken as true. TeleVideo Systems, Inc. v. Heidenthal, 826 F.2d 915, 917 (9th Cir. 1987); "The defendant, by his default, admits the plaintiff's well-pleaded allegations of facts, is concluded on those facts by the judgment, and is barred from contesting on appeal the facts thus established." Nishimatsu Construction Co., Ltd. v. Houston Nat'l Bank, 515 F.2d 1200, 1206 (5th Cir. 1975) (emphasis added); Danning v. Lavine, 572 F.2d 1386, 1388 (9th Cir. 1978); Cotton v. Massachusetts Mut. Life Ins. Co., 402 F.3d 1267, 1278(11th Cir. 2005) (do not have to take as true facts that are not well-pleaded or conclusions of law). The Complaint generally alleges claims against the Debtor pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A) and 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(4). In the Motion, the Plaintiff only alleges a claim under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A). Under § 532(a)(2)(A), a debt for services obtained by the debtor under "false pretenses, a false representation, or actual fraud" is nondischargeable. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A). The movant bears the burden of proving the applicability of § 523(a)(2)(A) by a preponderance of the evidence. In re Sabban, 600 f.3d 1219, 1222 (9th Cir. 2010) (citing Turtle Rock Meadows Homeowners Ass'n v. Slyman (In re Slyman), 234 F.3d 1081, 1085 (9th Cir. 2000)). The elements of a claim under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A) are:

- (1) the debtor made representations;
- (2) that at the time the debtor knew were false;
- (3) the debtor made those representations with the intention and purpose of deceiving the creditor;

(4) the creditor justifiably relied on these representations; and

(5) the creditor sustained losses as a proximate result of the debtor's representations.

Am. Express Travel Related Servs. Co. v. Hashemi (In re Hashemi), 104 F.3d 1122, 1125 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Britton v. Price (In re Britton), 950 F.2d 602, 604 (9th Cir. 1991)). A debtor's knowledge and intent to deceive may be inferred by circumstantial evidence and from the debtor's conduct. Edelson v. Comm'r of Internal Revenue, 829 F.2d 828, 832 (9th Cir.1987); Donaldson v. Hayes (In re Hayes), 315 B.R. 579, 587 (Bankr.C.D.Cal.2004). The alleged misrepresentation must have occurred at the inception of the debt as an inducement for the debt. See New Falls Corp. v. Boyajian (In re Boyajian), 367 B.R. 138, 147 (B.A.P. 9th Cir.2007). In the Ninth Circuit, there is no requirement that the debtor "have received a direct or indirect benefit from his or her fraudulent activity in order to make out a violation of § 523(a)(2)(A)." Muegler v. Bening, 413 F.3d 980, 983-84 (9th Cir. 2005).

According to Plaintiff's Motion, Plaintiff's Complaint alleges that "the Debtor misrepresented the nature and extent of his business operations for the sole purpose of obtaining her money." (See Memorandum of Points and Authorities 5:4-5). Plaintiff is most likely referring to the following allegation: "At all times Debtor has used the assets of these corporations for his personal use without regard to the existence of the corporate entity," (See Complaint at ¶4). The Plaintiff provides more evidence of the Debtor's fraudulent representations in the form of her Declaration, alleging that the Debtor purported to be an experienced business man with expertise in creating and operating successful and profitable businesses. (See Declaration at ¶3). Plaintiff alleges that the Debtor promised her that he would operate the businesses in a profitable manner and, at a minimum, repay the Plaintiff for the total amount of her investment, $175,000.00. (Declaration at ¶16). The Debtor also provided the Plaintiff with a "profit and loss" statement, which showed an anticipated profit level which would provide the funds sufficient to pay the Plaintiff back for her investment (See Exhibit 5 from Declaration). Debtor relied on these statements and later found out that Debtor's representations were false and intended to induce the Plaintiff to provide Debtor funds for his personal use. (Declaration at ¶19). Plaintiff has received no net profits, return on investment, or refund on initial investment.

These allegations are sufficiently pled to establish the elements of fraud under § 523(a)(2)(A).

4. The possibility of a dispute considering material facts

No opposition to the motion has been filed. Therefore, there is no evidence before the Court to suggest that there is the possibility of a dispute considering material facts nor do the allegations of the Complaint contain discrepancies to indicate any inconsistency or dispute in the facts.

5. Sum of money at stake in the action

According to the Complaint, Motion, and Declaration, the Plaintiff invested $50,000 in Double O Academy LLC for a 40% interest in the company and $125,000 in Cal Arms, Inc. and Spygear4less, Inc. for an aggregate of 4,500 shares of stock in both. This information is supported by a copy of Plaintiff's check to Double O Academy LLC (See Exhibit 3 from Memo of Points and Authorities), a copy of the Double O Operating Agreement naming Plaintiff as the owner of a 40% interest, (See Exhibit 4 from Memo of Points and Authorities), and a copy of Plaintiff's 4,500 shares in Cal Arms, Inc. (See Exhibit 6 from Memo of Points and Authorities).

Therefore, the Plaintiff requests a non-dischargeable default judgment in the amount of $175,000.00. This amount is not de minimus and weighs against the granting of default judgment.

6. The strong policy underlying the FRCP favoring decisions on the merits

The federal rules of civil procedure favor a decision on the merits. Here, the Motion though properly served on the Debtor, was unopposed. Additionally, prior to entering default judgment, the Court required that the Debtor submit a memorandum of points and authorities as well as evidence in support of the request for default judgment. The prove-up provided has sufficiently established that the Debtor is liable to the Plaintiff in the amount of $175,000 and that the Debtor procured funds from the Plaintiff by means of fraud. Based on the foregoing, the Court's decision is on the merits and this factor weighs in favor of entering default judgment.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court's tentative ruling is to GRANT the Motion and enter default and default judgment in favor of Plaintiff in the amount of $175,000.

The Plaintiff must lodge a proposed order granting the motion and a proposed judgment.

APPEARANCES REQUIRED.

#2.00 Motion to vacate Conversion of Case From Chapter 13 to Chapter 7 and Supporting Declaration

Docket 42

Tentative Ruling:

8/3/17

BACKGROUND

On November 9, 2016, Fonda Cormier ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On December 28, 2016, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed, and was modified twice subsequently.

On June 30, 2017, Debtor filed a notice of conversion to Chapter 7, and the case was converted approximately two hours and fifteen minutes later. Approximately one hour and thirty minutes later, Debtor filed a motion to vacate the conversion order. The motion was filed on negative notice. On July 20, 2017, the Court set the matter for hearing.

Debtor's argument is, essentially, that Debtor changed its mind and no longer wants to be in Chapter 7. Specifically, Debtor states that after it filed the notice of conversion it had discussions with Trinity Financial, a lienholder on Debtor's principal residence, and learned that Trinity Financial would likely file a motion for relief from stay if the case were converted to Chapter 7.

Chapter 7

DISCUSSION

As a preliminary matter, the proof of service included in Debtor's motion is not signed, and Debtor has not served all parties in interest pursuant to Local Rule 1017.

Additionally, Debtor's motion contains no legal standard or analysis. Relief from a judgment or order is governed by Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 60, incorporated into bankruptcy proceedings by Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9024. Debtor has not provided any argument relating to that standard.

Furthermore, the declaration of Debtor's attorney appears to misrepresent the factual situation. First, the reasons for Debtor converting to Chapter 7 are not given. The primary argument presented by Debtor in support of this motion is that counsel learned, after filing a notice of conversion and having further discussions with Trinity Financial, that Trinity Financial would likely file a motion for relief from stay if the case was converted to Chapter 7. Trinity Financial had, however, in fact filed a motion for relief from stay on May 9, 2017, and an order approving the stipulation of the parties was entered on June 27, 2017. Section 10 of that order states: "This order is binding and effective despite any conversion of this bankruptcy case to a case under any other chapter of the Bankruptcy Code." The parties chose not to include language that would provide for relief from stay upon conversion of the case. Therefore, it is unclear how the conversion of the case could have any effect on the automatic stay as it relates to Trinity Financial.

As an aside, the Court notes that Debtor is ineligible for a Chapter 7 discharge under § 727(a)(8) by virtue of a Chapter 7 discharge on September 25, 2009.

Tentative Ruling:

06/28/2017

BACKGROUND

On August 30, 2016 ("Petition Date"), Dispatch Transportation LLC ("Debtor") filed its petition for chapter 7 relief. Charles Daff is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee").

On April 6, 2017, USA Waste of California, Inc. ("USA Waste") filed its Motion for an Order Authorizing the Examination of Craig Johnson and the Issuance of Subpoenas Duces Tecum to Commodity Trucking Acquisition, LLC ("CTA") and Craig Johnson Pursuant to Fed.R. Bankr.P. 2004 ("Motion"). USA Waste brings its Motion on the basis that it believes that the Debtor's case was filed in bad faith. Specifically, it appears that USA Waste believes the Debtor's asserts were transferred prepetition to CTA so that the Debtor could then file bankruptcy and discharge debts without having to liquidate its assets. In support, USA Waste asserts that CTA is run by the same managers, at the same location, with the same assets, and with representation of the same counsel as the Debtor.

The initially scheduled hearing was continued by stipulation of the parties and was subsequently continued by the Court to June 28, 2017. On May 3, 2017, oppositions to the Motion were filed by CTA and by Craig Johnson. A reply to the oppositions was filed on May 24, 2017.

USA Waste asserts by its Motion that under the broad scope of FRBP 2004, examination of Craig Johnson and subpoena of records in CTA's and Craig Johnson's possession is justified because these parties have access to information that USA Waste requires to evaluate the Debtor's assets, liabilities, and prepetition activities in incurring the liabilities of the estate. (Motion at 3:25-28). Additionally, the initial Motion included a declaration from the Trustee indicating that he waived the Debtor's attorney-client privilege as to communications between the Debtor and Craig Johnson for purposes of the requested examinations. (Daff Decl. ¶3).

In opposition to the Motion, CTA generally asserts that the Motion should be denied because: (1) the Motion is moot because the Trustee retracted the waiver of the Debtor's attorney-client privilege with Mr. Johnson; (2) CTA obtained the Debtor's assets through a "commercially reasonable" Article 9 sale; (3) the Motion is itself only an attempt by USA Waste to obtain privileged information via the bankruptcy process that it could not otherwise obtain and use in connection with currently stayed state court litigation; (4) USA Waste is hoping to obtain privileged information in preparation for the filing of suit against CTA. The Court's Docket reflects that on May 3, 2017, the Trustee filed his Notice of Withdrawal of Waiver of Privilege. (Docket No. 59).

The Manning Pit dispute

In 2004, pursuant to a settlement agreement, the City of Irwindale was bound by a "Prioritization" provision which set forth the rules regarding which city quarries could be filled, when they could be filled, and by whom. In 2004, USA Waste obtained rights to fill a city quarry referred to by the parties as the "Arrow Pit". On or about 2007, the Debtor obtained a contract to fill a separate quarry – the "Manning Pit." A dispute subsequently arose about whether the Debtor's contract and work violated the Prioritization provision.

The Article 9 Sale

CTA alleges that it acquired the Debtor's assets via an Article 9 sale after the Debtor defaulted on debts owed to its first priority secured creditor, Comerica Bank. CTA asserts that Comerica effectuated a foreclosure sale on September 14, 2011 under Michigan law at which CTA was the buyer. CTA purchased the Debtor's assets for $12 million, which included its equipment, trade names, business names, leases, contracts etc. CTA notes that the individuals who shared management or ownership interests in both the Debtor and CTA did so because they made capital contributions for such interests. In support of their assertion that CTA's purchase of the Debtor's assets was proper, CTA and Mr. Johnson point to the decision of the San Bernardino Superior Court in which a different party attempted to bring suit against CTA as an alleged alter ego of the Debtor, and in which the Superior Court found no alter ego liability. This Court, however, notes that the decision of the Superior Court may have no preclusive effect in this case.

The Basis for USA Waste's claim against the Debtor

In 2013, USA Waste commenced a lawsuit against the Debtor for Intentional Interference with Contractual Relations and for Unfair Competition. Discovery was conducted and a motion for summary judgment was filed by the Debtor which was denied by the trial court. The Superior Court scheduled trial for August 2016 but then trailed the trial to September 2016. The instant petition was filed on August 30, 2016 – staying USA Waste's litigation against the Debtor.

DISCUSSION

Bankruptcy Rule 2004 is a broadly construed discovery device which permits any party in interest in a bankruptcy proceeding to move for a court order to examine any entity so long as the examination relates to "acts, conduct, or property or to the liabilities and financial condition of the debtor, or to any matter which may affect the administration of the debtor's estate, or to the debtor's right to a discharge." Fed.R.Bankr.P. 2004(b). The scope of inquiry permitted under a Rule 2004 examination is generally very broad and can "legitimately be in the nature of a 'fishing expedition.'" In re Wilcher, 56 B.R. 428, 433 (Bankr.N.D.Ill.1985). Such an examination, however, cannot be " 'used for purposes of abuse or harassment' and it 'cannot stray into matters which are not relevant to the basic inquiry.'" In re Table Talk, 51 B.R. 143, 145 (Bankr.D.Mass.1985) (quoting In re Mittco, Inc., 44 B.R. 35, 36 (Bankr.E.D.Wis.1984)). If the party to be examined makes a motion to quash a Rule 2004 subpoena, the examiner must show that there is good cause for taking the requested discovery. In re Wilcher, 56 B.R. at 434.

The Court now turns to its analysis of whether production and examination under Rule 2004 are warranted:

As to CTA, USA Waste specifically requests production of the following:

Request 1

"... all data storage devices, including hard drives, containing information or documents concerning the Manning Pit, any former assets of the Debtor that were acquired by CTA, and/or the division of CTA referred to as "Dispatch Transportation" by CTA or CTA's agents, employees or managers such as Kim Pugmire."

The Court disagrees with CTA's objection that the requested documents do not relate to the administration of the bankruptcy estate. Specifically, the information regarding the Manning Pit is directly related to USA Waste's claim in the Debtor's bankruptcy. The remaining request appears to concern USA Waste's contention that CTA and the Debtor colluded to shield assets from USA Waste and to prevent it from being able to establish its claim against the Debtor. On this point, based on the evidence in the record, it does not appear that the Superior Court's prior adjudication of the Article 9 sale issues precludes USA Waste from potentially asserting alter ego claims against CTA, and its officers/managers or owners in connection with the Debtor's bankruptcy case for the benefit of the estate's creditors. However, the Court is inclined to limit the request to providing copies of the relevant documents rather than requiring provision of actual devices or hard drives.

As to Craig Johnson, USA Waste requests:

Request 1

All e-mails or other documents (excluding those documents which are part of the public record of proceedings) that you authored, transmitted, or received on behalf of Debtor concerning USA Waste of California, Inc. v. City of Irwindale, et al., Los Angeles Superior Court Case No. KC066276

Request 2

All documents concerning the division of CTA referred to as "Dispatch Transportation" by CTA or CTA's agents, employees or managers such as Kim Pugmire.

As to Craig Johnson, the Court is unpersuaded that the Pugmire testimony constitutes a waiver of the attorney-client privilege. Hernandez v. Tanninen, 604 F.3d 1095, 1100 (9th Cir. 2010). Disclosing a privileged communication or raising a claim that requires disclosure of a protected communication results in waiver as to all other communications on the same subject. United States v. Nobles, 422 U.S. 225, 239-40, 95 S.Ct. 2160, 45 L.Ed.2d 141 (1975); Weil v. Inv./Indicators, Research & Mgmt., 647 F.2d 18, 24 (9th Cir.1981) ("[V]oluntary disclosure of the content of a privileged attorney communication constitutes waiver of the privilege as to all other such communications on the same subject."); Chevron Corp. v. Pennzoil Co., 974 F.2d 1156, 1162 (9th Cir.1992) ("Where a party raises a claim which in fairness requires disclosure of the protected communication, the privilege may be implicitly waived."). The Court, having reviewed Exhibit E of the Pugmire testimony, finds that Mr. Pugmire was asked and frequently responded to general questions regarding who was representing the Debtor as to specific transactions, to which he frequently made reference to Mr. Johnson. However, it is not clear from the general questioning that Mr. Pugmire ever uttered a statement that would specifically waive the attorney-client privileges attached to communications with Mr. Johnson. Moreover, the rule regarding waiver as to disclosed communications is limited to "communications on the same subject." Nobles at 439-40. However, here, USA Waste's examination requests are broad and include no limitations as to subject, or otherwise. At a minimum, to prevail USA Waste would need to point to each specific statement in the deposition testimony that it contends effectuates a privilege waiver and separately identify which subject is not protected by the privilege. Having failed to go through this exercise, the Court finds the general references to Mr. Johnson's representation and to Mr. Pugmire's general statements regarding his interactions with Mr. Johnson unpersuasive as a basis to conclude that there has been a waiver of the attorney-client privilege.

Based on the foregoing, the Court finds that USA Waste's Motion must be denied as to all requests made to Mr. Johnson to the extent that the attorney-client privilege is asserted, so specifically as to requests 1 and 2. However, the Court agrees that the third and fourth requests generally request information regarding the Manning

#3.00 Motion RE: Objection to Claim Number 5 by Claimant JPMorgan Chase Bank, N.A..

EH__

Docket 72

Tentative Ruling:

08/17/17

Claim No.: 5-2

Claimant: JPMorgan Chase ("Claimant")

Claim Amount: $61,418.32

Objection:

The Debtors' case was commenced on April 20, 2012. On July 24, 2012, the Claimant filed Claim 5-1 in the amount of $0.00. The Debtors' chapter 13 plan was confirmed on August 8, 2012. On December 8, 2014, the Claimant filed a notice of withdrawal of proof of claim indicating that its withdrawal was "without prejudice to refile at a later date". (Docket No. 51). On October 14, 2015, Claimant filed an "amended" Claim No. 5-2 asserting a claim in the amount of $61,418.32.

On May 24, 2017, the chapter 13 trustee, Amrane Cohen (the "Trustee"), filed objection to Claim No. 5 (the "Objection"). The Trustee objects on the grounds that: (1) the Objection was extinguished when withdrawn; and (2) the "amended" Claim No. 5-2 is untimely because it was filed after the claims bar date of August 29, 2012.

Claimant, for its part, despite having been properly served with the Objection has failed to file any opposition or response.

Discussion:

As a threshold matter, the Court deems the failure of the Claimant to file a response or opposition as consent to sustaining of the Objection. LBR 9013-1(f)

Chapter 13

Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 3001(f) and 11 U.S.C. § 502(a) provide that a claim or interest as to which proof is filed is "deemed allowed," the burden of initially going forward with the evidence as to the validity and the amount of the claim is that of the objector to that claim. In short, the allegations of the proof of claim are taken as true. If those allegations set forth all the necessary facts to establish a claim and are not self-contradictory, they prima facie establish the claim. In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620 (9th Cir. 1991).

Should objection be taken, the objector is then called upon to produce evidence and show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves. But the ultimate burden of persuasion is always on the claimant. Thus, it may be said that the proof of claim is some evidence as to its validity and amount. It is strong enough to carry over a mere formal objection without more. Id. at 623 (emphasis added).

Further, "creditors have an obligation to respond to formal or informal requests for information." Id. at 436. The request for information can "come in the form of a claims objection, if it is sufficiently specific about the information required." Id.

The Trustee asserts correctly that the Advisory Committee Notes to FRBP 3006, which governs withdrawal of claims, indicates that it has been generally held that FRCP 41 regarding dismissal of actions, governs the withdrawal of a proof of claim. Pursuant to FRCP 41, dismissal of a complaint before an answer is filed (or in the bankruptcy context, before the filing of an objection to claim or related complaint), is without prejudice. However, nothing in rule 41 or FRBP 3006 indicates that the claims bar deadline is tolled by a withdrawal nor has the Claimant filed any response or opposition indicating any legal basis permitting the filing of a late-filed claim. Here, the Court finds that when Claimant withdrew Claim No. 5-1, that claim was terminated. When the Claimant filed the "amended" claim, the claims bar deadline had lapsed. Absent authority indicating that the "amended" claim relates back to the original (but withdrawn claim), the Court is inclined to treat the amended Claim No. 5-2 as a new claim which does not relate back to the original Claim No. 5-1 and which was filed by the Claimant beyond the deadline for filing proofs of claim.

Docket 121

Tentative Ruling:

08/17/2017

Summary of the Motion:

Notice: Proper

Opposition: Trustee Comments recommending Disapproval

Address: 80781 Canyon Trail, Indio, CA 92201

First trust deed: $373,320.10 (Proof of Claim No. 7)

Second trust deed (to be avoided): $46,392.63 (Proof of Claim No. 8)

Fair market value: $197,500 (Debtor Decl. ¶5)

TENTATIVE

The Debtors' case was filed on May 30, 2012. On August 21, 2012, the Debtors' plan was confirmed. The plan provided, in pertinent part, "Bank of America, N.A.: Debtor (s) intend to avoid lien." (Plan at V.F. Miscellaneous provisions). A proof of claim indicating that the secured junior lien scheduled by Debtors as BOFA was actually held by Bank of New York Mellon. (Proof of Claim No. 8, filed 10/17/2012).

On May 30, 2017, the Trustee filed a Motion to Dismiss due to Material Default based on the Debtors' failure to file the lien avoidance motion indicated in the plan.

In response, five years after they said they would, Debtors filed their Motion to Avoid the Lien of Bank of New York Mellon ("Motion"). The Motion seeks to avoid the lien of Bank of New York Mellon ("Bank"). The Motion is deficient in that it contains insufficient evidence of the fair market value of the Property which is supported only by the opinion (without foundation) of the Debtor.

The Debtors assert that they should be permitted to avoid the lien at issue because the confirmed plan contemplated such avoidance and because the Bank agreed to its treatment at the time (the Bank's counsel has since indicated that the servicer has changed since the time of the Bank's original consent and as such no stipulation is currently forthcoming). Separately, Debtor underscores that the Bank has not opposed the Motion and that such failure to file opposition should be deemed consent.

On August 4, 2017, the Trustee filed comments recommending disapproval of the Motion based on (1) unreasonable delay by the Debtors; (2) the plan would be rendered infeasible by an order avoiding the lien of the Bank (it appears that Trustee treated the Bank's claim as secured due to the lack of an order avoiding the lien and has thus only paid the Bank's arrears through the plan (or $1,924.18), however, if the lien is now avoided, the estate would need to pay 69.64% of the Bank's claim or approx. $29,043.33, plus trustee's fees; (3) the plan is already in month 62; (3) between 2012 and 2014, Debtors received Proof of Claim No. 8, and "several notices" from the Trustee indicating that the Trustee was only making the payments on the Bank's arrears through the plan but delayed until the end of the plan to take action.

In Reply, the Debtors assert that (1) the Trustee has no standing to object to the Motion; (2) the Bank has already received more than it would have received as an unsecured creditor (presumably, had the Trustee not increased the dividend to the other creditors based on the failure by Debtors to timely avoid the Bank's lien); and (3) the Trustee never sought to modify the chapter 13 plan to propose a higher dividend be paid to unsecured creditors.

Here, the Court has reviewed the holding in In re Chagolla, 544 B.R. 676 (9th Cir. BAP 2016) and finds that it persuasively provides support for the untimely filing of a motion to avoid lien. Moreover, where here, the Motion appears to have been filed prior to the entry of discharge or the closing of the case, avoidance appears to be legally permissible. Additionally, as pointed out by the Debtors, the Bank has filed no opposition or response. However, the Motion is insufficient on its face because there is insufficient evidence as to the fair market value of the Property.

Separately, although the Trustee's comments do not provide a sufficient basis upon which to deny the Motion itself, the Trustee's may suffice to support dismissal of the case, which the Court shall consider separately in connection with Matter No. 4.

evidence of the assignment from the original creditor to the claimant.

Applicable Law:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." United States v. Offord Fin., Inc., (In re Medina), 205 B.R. 216,222 (9th Cir. BAP 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. Ashford v. Consol. Pioneer Mort. (In re Consol. Pioneer Mort.), 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

Chapter 13

Here, the Court has examined Proof of Claim No. 9-1 and has compared it to the Debtor's schedules wherein the Debtor listed a claim of Capital One (the predecessor in interest to Claimant per the Proof of Claim) for $1,948 (where Claim No. 9 is for $1,984.37), and which both the Debtor and Claimant confirmed was last active on February 18, 2016. Based on the corroborating evidence contained in the Debtor's schedules, the Court finds that Proof of Claim No. 9 is prima facie valid and the Debtor has not come forward with evidence to overcome that validity.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to OVERRULE the Debtor's objection in its entirety.

evidence of the assignment from the original creditor to the claimant.

Applicable Law:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." United States v. Offord Fin., Inc., (In re Medina), 205 B.R. 216,222 (9th Cir. BAP 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. Ashford v. Consol. Pioneer Mort. (In re Consol. Pioneer Mort.), 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

Chapter 13

Here, the Court has examined Proof of Claim No. 10-1 and has compared it to the Debtor's schedules wherein the Debtor listed a claim of Comenity Bank (the predecessor in interest to Claimant per the Proof of Claim). Given that the amounts indicated by the Debtor in his schedules and the account number do not match the information in Claim No. 10, it appears that these two debts represent distinct claims. As such, having failed to file opposition or response, the Court finds that Claimant has failed to provide sufficient information to establish their standing to file Claim No. 10-1.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to SUSTAIN the Debtor's objection in its entirety.

#30.00 Motion For Order Compelling Attorney To File Disclosure Of Compensation Pursuant To 11 U.S.C. § 329 And Federal Rule Of Bankruptcy Procedure 2016

EH__

Docket 35

Tentative Ruling:

08/17/2017

BACKGROUND

On May 22, 2017, Jane Mary Engel ("Debtor") filed for chapter 13 relief.

The petition reflects that the Debtor was assisted in the filing of the bankruptcy case by Peter Nisson of Nisson & Nisson ("Counsel").

On May 26, 2017, the case was dismissed for failure of the Debtor to file schedules.

On July 12, 2017, the Office of the United States Trustee ("UST") filed its Notice of Motion and Motion for Order Compelling Attorney to File Disclosure of compensation Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 329 ("Motion"). Service was proper and the Motion is unopposed.

DISCUSSION

Section 329(a) provides, in pertinent part that:

Any attorney representing a debtor in a case under this title, or in connection with such a case, whether or not such attorney applies for compensation under this title, shall file with the court a statement of the compensation paid or agreed to be paid, if such payment or agreement was made after one year before the date of the filing of the petition, for services rendered or to be rendered in contemplation of or in connection with the case by such attorney, and the source of such compensation

11 U.S.C. § 329(a).

Subsequent to dismissal of the case, the Debtor filed her Opposition to Case Dismissal as Docket No. 32 (the "Opposition"). The Opposition was filed by the Debtor without the assistance of counsel. In her Opposition, the Debtor indicated that Counsel had abandoned her despite having received a promissory note in the amount of $5,000 from the Debtor's sister in exchange for representing the Debtor. (Ex.4). The UST has established that Counsel failed to file a Statement of Attorney Compensation despite evidence indicating that he received undisclosed compensation from the Debtor's sister. Counsel, for his part, has failed to file any opposition or response. The UST has correctly pointed out that although the case has been dismissed, the Court reserves jurisdiction over issues related to fees and compensation.

TENTATIVE RULING

For the foregoing reasons, the Motion is GRANTED in its entirety. Counsel is ordered to file a Statement of Attorney Compensation and the Court shall continue to retain jurisdiction over issues relating to § 329 arising from the instant Motion.

#32.00 Motion By United States Trustee To Bar The Debtor From Filing Another Bankruptcy Petition

CASE DISMISSED 7/5/17

EH__

Docket 8

Tentative Ruling:

08/17/2017

BACKGROUND

On June 16, 2017 ("Petition Date"), Christopher Grosey (the "Debtor") filed his petition for chapter 13 relief. On July 5, 2017, the Debtor's case was dismissed for failure to file information. Subsequent to dismissal, on July 7, 2017, the Office of the United States Trustee ("UST") filed a Motion to impose a Re-Filing Bar (the "Motion"). No opposition has been filed.

The docket reflects and the UST has confirmed that the Debtor has filed two prior cases: (1) Case Number 17-14183 filed on May 18, 2017, and dismissed on June 5, 2017, for failure to file information; and (2) Case Number 17-13153 filed on April 17, 2017, and dismissed on May 5, 2017, for failure to file information.

As a threshold matter, the Court notes that the case has already been dismissed and the UST's request is limited to imposition of a bar to re-filing pursuant to §§ 349 and 105(a) to prevent further abuse of the bankruptcy system.

DISCUSSION

Here, the UST argues that dismissal of the Debtor's case is insufficient and requests a one year bar to re-filing because the Debtor is abusing the bankruptcy process. Specifically, the UST underscores that the Debtor has now filed three consecutive cases between April and June of 2017, all of which have been dismissed for failure to file schedules. Additionally, the Debtor failed to disclose his prior cases in the current case. The UST argues that the Debtor's conduct indicates an attempt to frustrate creditors which warrants a finding of bad faith and imposition of a refile bar.

In light of the foregoing facts, and taking judicial notice of the dockets of the two prior cases, the Court agrees with the UST that the Debtor should not be permitted to abuse the bankruptcy system by consecutive filing of bankruptcy cases without any indication that he is seeking to reorganize his debts and otherwise to comply with the duties imposed on debtors by the bankruptcy code. The UST has established that a one-year bar under the Court's § 105 and § 349 authority is appropriate.

However, it is unclear if the Court has jurisdiction where the Motion was filed after the case was dismissed. Query, how long after a case is dismissed does the Court have jurisdiction to entertain such a motion?

TENTATIVE RULING

Movant to address the foregoing points at the hearing.

Docket 17

Tentative Ruling:

08/17/2017

Summary of the Motion:

Notice: Improper

Opposition: None

Address: 41880 Lakefront Dr, Aguanga, CA 92536

First trust deed: $477,763.49 with US Bank NA

Second trust deed (to be avoided): $101,668.75 with DreamBuilder Investments LLC

Fair market value: $465,000 (Appraisal)

TENTATIVE

The Motion is deficient for the following reasons:

1. Service of the Motion was improper because the Debtors failed to serve the Motion to the attention of an officer for both Trojan and Dreambuilder Investments pursuant to FRBP 7004; and
2. The appraisal attached to the Motion as Exhibit "4" is not supported by a declaration of the appraiser, without which the appraisal is hearsay.

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to CONTINUE the hearing for the Debtor to obtain a declaration of the appraiser and for the Debtor to file and properly serve notice of the continuance and the moving papers on Trojan and Dreambuilder.

The hearing shall be continued to September 21, 2017, at 12:30 p.m. The amended motion and notice of continuance must be filed on or before August 31, 2017.

Debtor asserts that Movant is not the actual holder or current assignee of the Note, is not the real party in interest, and has no legal standing to bring this Motion. Debtor further disputes the amount owing to Movant of $98,319.99 as no evidence was provided by Movant, and Debtor has not received a mortgage statement in years. There is no declaration by the Debtor or Debtor's attorney provided nor any evidence provided in support thereof.

A party seeking relief from the stay "need only establish that it has a colorable claim to enforce a right against property of the estate." In re Pak, 2011 WL 7145763 (9th Cir.BAP (Cal.) 2011). A showing by a party that it is a person entitled to enforce the note at issue or that it holds some ownership or other interest in the note translates to a colorable claim. Id. In this case, the Deed of Trust and Assignment of Deed of Trust were both recorded on September 23, 2014 and both show the original lender as "Val-Chris Investments Inc., a California Corporation." The Trust Deed assignment shows all beneficial interest under the Deed of Trust was transferred to Movant. The Note Secured By A Deed of Trust dated 9/9/14 also shows the same original lender, and the Promissory Note Endorsement indicates all beneficial interest under the Note was transferred to Movant. Based on this evidence attached to the Motion, Movant has established that it has a colorable claim sufficient to provide it standing to seek relief from stay.

A motion for stay relief is a summary proceeding. In re Santa Clara County Fair Ass'n, Inc., 180 B.R. 564 (9th Cir.BAP (Cal.) 1995) (citing In re Computer Communications, Inc., 824 F.2d 725, 729 (9th Cir.1987)). In a summary proceeding, the court's discretion is broad. Courts may consider the factor of judicial economy when deciding lift stay issues. Id.

The only triable issues in a Motion for Relief from Stay are (1) lack of adequate protection; (2) the debtor's equity in the property; and (3) the necessity of the property to an effective reorganization of the debtor, or (4) the existence of other cause for relief from the stay. In re Computer Communications, Inc., 824 F.2d 725, 729.

Here, the issues and defenses surrounding the validity of the underlying security do not directly relate to the lifting of the stay, and accordingly they are not issues that are before the bankruptcy court. The irregularities raised by the Debtor are more properly considered by a state court in the determination of an unlawful detainer action.

The Movant, for its part, has demonstrated that "cause" exists to lift the stay based on the Debtor's continuing nonpayment of the regular mortgage payments. The Court's tentative ruling is to GRANT relief from the stay under § 362(d)(1). GRANT waiver of 4001(a)(3) stay and GRANT authority for Movant to offer loan workout options.

Debtor's opposition argues that the real estate contract is an executory contract that can be rejected in bankruptcy. While providing an applicable citation for that assertion, Debtor does not apply the legal standard to the facts of this case.

Nevertheless, it appears that Debtor's characterization of the contract as "executory" may have merit. While Movant, in the motion, states that "all contingencies had been removed," and, in the reply, states that they "dutifully removed all their contractual contingencies," the state court complaint submitted to support their motion states, in paragraph 23: "Plaintiffs have fully performed all conditions, covenants, and promises required by them on their part to be performed in accordance with the terms and conditions of the contract, except the final payment for the purchase of the Property." (emphasis added). While Movants appear to have made the initial deposit into escrow, it does not appear that the final purchase price was tendered.

"[A]n 'executory contract' that can be rejected in bankruptcy is a contract on which performance remains due on both sides at the time of the bankruptcy petition." Matter of Newcomb, 744 F.2d 621, 624 (8th Cir. 1984); see also In re Texscan Corp., 976 F.2d 1269-1271-72 (9th Cir. 1992). In Newcomb, the Court held that when the funds had already been transferred into escrow, there was no executory contract – no material obligations remained on the part of the grantor. See id.

Chapter 7

In the Ninth Circuit, a real estate sales contract remains executory until the full purchase price is deposited into escrow by the purchaser. See In re Hertz, 536 B.R. 434, 439-41 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2015) (an extended discussion on when a purchase contract loses its executory nature).

Given that the real estate purchase contract may be an executory contract that shortly will be rejected by operation of law under 11 U.S.C. § 365(d)(1), and that Movants are seeking a state court order for specific performance under the contract, granting relief from stay would be improper because the state court proceedings would interfere with the bankruptcy court proceedings. Interference with the administration of the estate is the most important consideration when considering a motion for relief from stay to proceed with state court litigation. See In re Roger, 539 B.R. 837, 845 C.D. Cal. 2015) ("According to the court in Curtis, the most importance factor in determining whether to grant relief from the automatic stay to permit litigation against the debtor in another forum is the effect of such litigation on the administration of the estate. Even slight interference with the administration may be enough to preclude relief in the absence of a commensurate benefit."). Here, there is a possibility of significant interference with the bankruptcy estate.

Tentative Ruling:

For the foregoing reasons, the Court is inclined to DENY the motion.

08/22/17

The hearing on the Motion was continued for the Movant to file and serve the Motion and Notice of Continued hearing to the Debtor at the correct address. Service: Improper

Opposition: None

Once improper service is remedied, the tentative ruling is to GRANT relief from the stay under §§ 362(d)(1) and 362(d)(4) based on the following: Debtor has not paid mortgage for over two years, Movant is one of two creditors listed in case commencement documents, Debtor filed only a few case commencement documents and schedules, and the statement of financial affairs have not been filed. Additionally, the Debtor's failure to file required documents resulted in dismissal of the case on May 26, 2017. Debtor has also filed two previous bankruptcies with respect to the Court is also inclined to GRANT relief that Movant may provide and enter into potential forbearance agreement; confirming that no stay is in effect pursuant to § 362(c)(4). GRANT waiver of 4001(a)(3) stay.

As reflected above, while the court is inclined to grant relief from stay, service was improper due to Movant's failure to serve Debtor. Specifically, the Debtor's address of record is 3865 Vermont St., San Bernardino, CA 92407, however, Movant served the Debtor at 865 Vermont St., San Bernardino, CA 92407. Based on the foregoing, the hearing will be continued to August 1, 2017, at 10:00 a.m.

Docket 13

Tentative Ruling:

08/22/2017

Service: Proper

The Debtor responds to the Motion with arguments that indicate misapprehensions of the bankruptcy system. In particular, while the Debtor has correctly pointed to the policy reasons underlying the bankruptcy stay, section 362(d) provides creditors with a legal basis to seek the lifting of the automatic stay. Here, as a threshold matter, the Debtor had a prior case dismissed on July 28, 2016, and thus had a case pending within the previous year. Pursuant to § 362(c)(3), the Debtor had a thirty day period following the filing of the instant case within which to seek continuation of the automatic stay. Having failed to seek a continuance of the automatic stay, the stay terminated as a matter of law on or about July 30, 2017. On this basis, the Movant's request for termination of the stay may be denied as moot because the stay has already terminated.

The Court now turns to the request for prospective relief based on bad faith. As to the Movant's requests for prospective relief, the Court notes that the Debtor filed no declaration in support of his assertions that the prior filings were based on recommendations of prior counsel. There is additionally no detail contained in his arguments and no detail or explanation provided as to why his prior cases were dismissed. Here, given the lack of evidence, the Court finds that the record sufficiently demonstrates a history of the Debtor's abusing the bankruptcy process to

On May 11, 2016, Debtor filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. Debtor operated a medical account receivable collection service. On November 30, 2016, a Chapter 11 trustee was appointed.

On June 2, 2017, UST filed a motion to dismiss the Chapter 11 case for failure to pay quarterly fees of either $9,750 or $6,825, which were delinquent as of May 1, 2017. On June 13, 2017, the Chapter 11 trustee filed opposition to the motion to dismiss.

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 1112(b) provides that a case may be dismissed or converted for cause. Section 1112(b)(4) enumerates certain examples of cause, including "failure to pay any fees or charges required under chapter 123 of title 28." 28 USC § 1930(a)(6) imposed the statutory fees for Chapter 11 cases. BACKGROUND

On November 10, 2016 ("Petition Date"), B&B Family, Incorporated (the "Debtor") filed for chapter 11 relief. The Debtor has three loans that are secured by essentially all personal property assets owned by the Debtor (the "Property"). The following is a list of secured claims in order of priority:

1. Comerica Bank: $494,123.90;
2. FC Marketplace: $88,963.76;
3. Oggie's Corporate: $54,106.12

On July 31, 2017, the Debtor filed its Motion to Value Personal Property and Modify Lien of Comerica Bank and Extinguish Liens of Pioneer Park, LLC aka FC Marketplace, LLC aka Funding Circle Partners, LLC ("FC Marketplace") and Oggie's Pizza & Brewing Co., Inc. Chapter 11

DISCUSSION

Section 506(a) ‘operates to bifurcate [an under] secured creditor's allowed claim into secured and unsecured interests based upon the bankruptcy court's valuation of the secured property. 11 U.S.C. § 506; In re 1441 Veteran Street Co., 144 F.3d 1288, 1291 (9th Cir.1998); Shook v. CBIC (In re Shook), 278 B.R. 815, 822 (9th Cir. BAP 2002).

The Debtor has provided evidence to establish that the current fair market auction value of the Property is $20,000 ($50,000 - $60,000 if the restaurant is sold as a going concern, not including the franchise agreement). (Pope Decl. ¶4). Separately, the Debtor has provided evidence of its CFO, Marianne Richey, by which she approximates the value of the franchise agreement at $90,000 - $100,000. (Richey Decl. ¶3). Based on these figures, the Debtor seeks an order:

(1) setting the value of its assets (assuming a sale as a going concern) at $150,000;

(2) bifurcating the claim of Comerica into a secured claim in the amount of $150,000 and an unsecured claim in the amount of $344,123.90;

(3) extinguishing the liens of FC Marketplace and Oggie’s Corporate on confirmation of the plan;

(4) treating the claims of FC Marketplace and Oggie’s Corporate as general unsecured non-priority claims in accordance with the terms of the proposed plan; and

(5) providing that on payment of the $150,000 in full of Comerica’s claim, that the lien of Comerica will become void and will no longer constitute an encumbrance against the Property.

CONT... B & B Family, Incorporated

Here, the Debtor has provided sufficient evidence to establish a value of $150,000 for all of its assets. Comerica, Oggie’s Corporate and FC Marketplace, though properly served, have not filed any response or opposition to the proposed valuation. Based on the foregoing, the Court finds that the Debtor’s proposed valuation is appropriate pursuant to § 506(a), that pursuant to § 502, the claims of Oggie’s Corporate and FC Marketplace are allowed as fully unsecured claims only, and that the claim of Comerica is allowed as a secured claim in the amount of $150,000 and as an unsecured claim in the amount of $344,123.90 .

TENTATIVE RULING

For the foregoing reasons, the Motion is GRANTED in its entirety.

Tentative Ruling:

Background:

On November 10, 2016 ("Petition Date"), B&B Family, Incorporated (the "Debtor") filed for chapter 11 relief.

On July 19, 2017, the Debtor filed an Objection to Claim No. 6 (the "Objection") of Commerce & Industry Insurance Company, Lexington Insurance Company, and Other Subsidiaries of AIG Property Casualty, Inc. ("Claimant"). The Objection was served on Claimant at the address it has provided on Claim No. 7 where notices should be sent and pursuant to FRBP 7004. No opposition has been filed.

Chapter 11

The Debtor objects to the claim on the grounds that the claim is beyond the statute of limitations under state law.

Applicable Law:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." United States v. Offord Fin., Inc., (In re Medina), 205 B.R. 216,222 (9th Cir. BAP 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. Ashford v. Consol. Pioneer Mort. (In re Consol. Pioneer Mort.), 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

Rebuttal of the Prima Facie Proof of Claim

In this case, the Debtor asserts that Claims No. 6 should be disallowed as time barred. Section 502(b)(1) provides that a claim is deemed allowed, unless such claim is unenforceable against the debtor and property of the debtor under applicable law. The statute of limitations applicable to common counts is four years if the action is founded upon a contract or other writing (e.g., "book account" (§ 3:398), "account stated" (§ 3:400), or money lent on a note), and the statute of limitations is generally four years from the date of the last item in the account. CCP § 337(1),(2); Armstrong Petroleum Corp. v. Tri-Valley Oil & Gas Co., 116 CA 4th 1375, 1396, FN. 9 (Cal. App. 2004). Here, page 7 attached to Claim No. 6, indicates that at least two of the policies expired or were otherwise terminated in 2008 and 2009. As two these two policies, the Debtor has met its burden of demonstrating that the claim is unenforceable under state law because it appears that Claimant is seeking to enforce the claims for these terminated policies after the statute of limitations has lapsed. The burden now shifts to Claimant. Claimant, however, though properly served, has failed to offer any opposition which this Court deems as consent to the granting of the requested relief pursuant to LBR 9013-1(h).

As to the third policy, it is does not appear that Claimant is asserting any prepetition claim. The Court's review of the Claim indicates that the amounts asserted by Claimant as unpaid related only to the 2008 and 2009 policies ($9,633 + $7,074 = 16,707). (Claim No. 6 at pp 8-9). Thus, the objection appears unnecessary as to any 2016 policy.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to SUSTAIN the Debtor's objection as to the $16,707 related to the 2008 and 2009 policies. Claim No. 6 is disallowed in its entirety.

I. BACKGROUND

Rio Rancho Super Mall, LLC ("Debtor") is a California Limited Liability Corporation. Debtor owns and operates a commercial property, Rio Rancho Super Mall, located at 25211 Sunnymead Blvd., Moreno Valley, CA 92553 ("Property"). The Property is improved with a commercial building (approx. 100,750 sq. ft.) with retail space for 87 retail tenants. On February 13, 2017, Debtor filed a voluntary Chapter 11 Petition. This is the Debtor's second chapter 11 case. The Debtor's prior case was dismissed on December 27, 2016, based on the Debtor's material default in its compliance with the terms of the previously confirmed chapter 11 plan.

Related Documents:

- On August 2, 2017, Debtor filed its First Amended Disclosure Statement (Redlined) (Docket #88) and its First Amended Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization (Redlined) (Docket #89).

Debtor has two owners

1. Eric Sang Yul Kim ("Mr. Kim") is the managing member and owns 87.5%
2. Kwan Sung Kim ("Mrs. Kim"), Debtor's wife, owns the remaining 12.5%

The Debtor is managed by Dennis Park and Kwang Sung Kim. Mrs. Hyang Hwa Kim is the sister of Eric Sang Yul Kim and is providing uncompensated services to the Debtor. The Debtor proposes to begin paying Mrs. Hyang Kim a regular salary of $3,000 per month "if the market is stable".

DSD:

Debtor's primary secured creditor is DSD Note Investors, Inc. ("DSD") which the Debtor asserts fully encumbers the Property. On January 31, 2017, DSD filed a complaint for breach of contract and foreclosure and also moved the Superior Court for the appointment of a receiver.

Motivation for filing a Chapter 11:

Debtor contends that the instant filing was precipitated by the dismissal of its prior case due, in part, to poor market conditions which did not sufficiently improve, and due also to problems with the Debtor's confirmed plan which failed to account for certain liens; and also due to the aggressive collection efforts of DSD.

II. DISCUSSION

Before a disclosure statement may be approved after notice and a hearing, the court must find that the proposed disclosure statement contains "adequate information" to solicit acceptance or rejection of a proposed plan of reorganization. 11 U.S.C. § 1125(b).

"Adequate information" means information of a kind, and in sufficient detail, so far as is reasonably practicable in light of the nature and history of the debtor and the condition of the debtor's books and records, that would enable a hypothetical reasonable investor typical of the holders of claims against the estate to make a decision on the proposed plan of reorganization. 11 U.S.C. § 1125(a).

There is no set list of required elements to provide adequate information per se. A case may arise where previously enumerated factors are not sufficient to provide adequate information. Conversely, a case may arise where previously enumerated factors are not required to provide adequate information. In re Metrocraft Pub. Services, Inc., 39 B.R. 567 (Bankr. N.D.Ga. 1984). "Adequate information" is a flexible concept that permits the degree of disclosure to be tailored to the particular situation, but there is an irreducible minimum, particularly as to how the plan will be implemented. In re Michelson, 141 B.R. 715, 718-19 (Bankr. E.D.Cal. 1992).

Courts have developed lists of relevant factors for the determination of adequate disclosure. See, e.g., In re A.C. Williams Co., 25 B.R. 173, 176 (Bankr. N.D. Ohio 1982), In re Ferretti, 128 B.R. 16, 18–19 (Bankr. D.N.H. 1991), In re Malek, 10 C.B.C.2d 189, 35 B.R. 443, 443–44 (Bankr. E.D. Mich. 1983), In re Metrocraft, 39 B.R. 567, 568 (Bankr. This Court should determine what factors are relevant and required in light of the facts and circumstances surrounding each particular case. In re East Redley Corp., 16 B.R. 429 (Bankr. E.D.Pa. 1982).

PLAN SUMMARY

The Debtor proposes an Effective Date of November 1, 2017

Funding

Debtor intends to fund the plan with regular business income estimated by the Debtor at approximately $110,920 per month. As of August 1, 2017, Debtor anticipates generating monthly gross rental income of $123,197 from an increase in rent.

Debtor asserts it will have $45,000 on the Effective Date from rental income and capital contributions

- Secured claim allowed per stipulation including agreement by DSD to extend loan maturity date (notwithstanding Debtor assertion that Property value is $7,000,000).
- Terms: $55,000 per month at 5.75% interest for 48 months
 - Additional quarterly payments of $7,500 per quarter for 48 months, thereafter loan is due in full.

Class 2: Riverside County Tax (Impaired)

- Terms: $5,330.11 per month at 18% interest for 120 months

Class 3: General Unsecured Creditors (Impaired)

- Debtor proposes to pay 0% (i.e. no payments to general unsecured creditors).

Class 4: Equity Interest Holders

- Mr. Kim and Mrs. Kim will retain their interests

New Value

At confirmation, the equity holders will make a one-time capital contribution of $35,000

Liquidation Value

Debtor estimates its liquidation value is $7,028,400 and thus after payment of the secured claim of DSD in the amount of $12,000,000 and even assuming funds are available to pay administrative claims and priority tax claims, no funds would remain for other creditors.

Debtor will fund the plan through regular business income and the cash contribution. Debtor states it will have $45,000 on effective date to pay $29,486.88 due on Effective Date.

· Capital Contributions:	$35,000
Total:	$45,000

Balance remaining after paying initial amount of Effective Date: $15,513.12

2. FEASIBILITY THROUGHOUT LIFE OF PLAN

The Debtor asserts it will have $123,197 in gross monthly income from rents. It estimates expenses plus plan payments will cost Debtor $123,152.11 per month. At this level, the Debtor is expected to have an approximate shortfall of $44.89 per month.

III. OBJECTIONS

All objections were timely filed. The Debtor has filed no replies.

Butterfield Objections

1. Butterfield disputes that DSD can assert any claim greater than $10,422,000 per the limitations contained in the DSD Deed of Trust;
2. Butterfield seeks additional language to make clear that the Plan will not place limits on the "ongoing effectiveness of the CAM Agreement"
3. Objects to being classified as a "unsecured" claimant where the motion to value has not yet been resolved and objects because the Plan makes no reference to the claim of Butterfield asserted in its proof of claim - $741,664.74 (the Redline DS, Exhibit F fails to indicate the amounts of filed claims although several have been filed since the drafting of the original DS)
4. Butterfield also appears to object to any DS which does not provide for the contingency that at least some junior lienholders, including itself, may be fully or partially secured depending on the outcome of the motion to value.

Pacific City Bank Objections

1. PCB joins Butterfield's objection that the maximum value that DSD can assert as a first priority lienholder is $10,422,000

Chapter 11

Tentative Ruling:

08/22/2017

Debtor's Disclosure Statement and Plan are defective for the following reasons:

1. The Debtor refers to Mrs. Kwang Sung Kim as "Kwan Sun Kim" in the introductory paragraph to the DS. One of these spellings contains typos;
2. Based on the terms indicated by the Debtor for payment of DSD's claim, it appears that the Debtor anticipates making a balloon payment to DSD at the end of the plan. The Plan should clearly indicate the Debtor's estimate of how large this payment will be and the source of funding to pay the balloon payment;
3. On page 20, under the section entitled "C. Feasibility", the DS did not indicate that priority tax claims will also be paid on the Effective Date, which would alter the Debtor's calculation of the balance of cash after making payment due on the Effective Date.
4. The current projections of the plan indicate there will be a monthly shortfall of approximately $44.89 per month (not including the 18% interest due to Riverside County on a monthly basis which is not accounted for in the Debtor's 5-Year Projection). This shortfall is particularly problematic where the Debtor is expected to make an additional quarterly payment to DSD of $7,500 until the end of the plan, plus a balloon payment of as yet unspecified amount at the end of the plan.

Based on the foregoing, the Court's tentative ruling is to CONTINUE the hearing on approval of the First Amended DS to the date of the expected evidentiary hearing on the related Motion to Value for: (1) Debtor to address the issues raised by the Court; (2) for a determination of how the outcome of the Motion to Value hearing will impact the need for further revisions to the DS.

BACKGROUND

On June 29, 2017, Denise Valeski ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On July 5, 2017, the case was dismissed for failure to file a creditor's matrix. Subsequently, on July 21, 2017, Debtor filed a motion to reconsider dismissal, which is set for hearing on August 30, 2017.

On July 14, 2017, UST filed a motion for an order compelling attorney to file disclosure of compensation pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 329.

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 2016(b) provides further details regarding the requirements imposed by § 329. Here, Debtor's counsel has failed to file the required disclosure of compensation. The Court has authority to enter an order directing the disclosure of such compensation, and will direct Debtor's counsel to file the required disclosure. See, e.g., In re Shuma, 124 B.R. 668, 677 (Bankr. PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

On June 19, 2017, Claudia Acevedo ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On July 7, 2017, the case was dismissed for failure to file case commencement documents. On July 31, 2017, Debtor filed a motion for remedies for violation of stay by GW San Diego Properties, LLC ("GW"), and Wells Fargo Bank, National Association ("Wells Fargo"). On August 9, 2017, Wells Fargo filed its opposition.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

The motion at issue relates to the foreclosure sale of certain property located at 16462 Ridge Field Drive, Riverside, CA 92503 (the "Property"). A brief history of the property is necessary to understand the respective rights in the Property.

On June 23, 2006, Carlos Vera ("Vera") obtained the property through a loan from Wells Fargo. On October 20, 2006, Vera executed a grant deed, conveying the Property to Jose Guerrero ("Guerrero"). The deed was recorded on May 25, 2007. A notice of default was issued on January 26, 2009, and recorded on January 29, 2009. During the first half of 2010, Guerrero filed three bankruptcies, all of which were summarily dismissed, and Vera filed one, in which Wells Fargo obtained relief from stay.

On May 23, 2012, Guerrero executed a grant deed, conveying the Property to himself and Jose Jimenez ("Jimenez") as joint tenants, one day before a scheduled foreclosure sale. Jimenez had, at the time, a pending Chapter 13 bankruptcy. On August 8, 2012, Guerrero executed another grant deed, conveying his interest to HACBED, Inc. ("HACBED"). The grant deed was recorded on January 19, 2013.

On October 16, 2016, Guerrero filed another bankruptcy, which was, again, summarily dismissed. A second foreclosure sale was later scheduled for June 19, 2017. Earlier, on May 14, 2017, HACBED executed a warranty deed, transferring a 10% interest in the Property to Debtor. The warranty deed was recorded on June 29, 2017. Less than three weeks later, Debtor filed the instant bankruptcy case the same day as the foreclosure, which was summarily dismissed. The bankruptcy case was filed a matter of minutes after the recording of the deed from HACBED and a matter of minutes before the scheduled foreclosure sale. Debtor faxed a notice of the bankruptcy filing to Wells Fargo three minutes before the scheduled foreclosure sale. Debtor also states that telephonic notice was provided to Wells Fargo prior to the sale, but a specific time is not provided.

After the foreclosure sale was held, on June 27, 2017, GW filed an unlawful detainer case in state court. Debtor requests the reconveyance of the property, dismissal of the unlawful detainer action, $10,000 in punitive damages, and $2,755 in actual damages.

(a) Except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, a petition filed under section 301, 302, or 303 of this title, or an application filed under section 5(a)(3) of the Securities Investor Protection Act of 1970, operates as a stay, applicable to all entities, of –

(3) any act to obtain possession of property of the estate or of property from the estate or to exercise control over property of the estate

(5) any act to create, perfect, or enforce any lien against property of the estate

Debtor argues that Wells Fargo and GW violated the automatic stay through holding a post-petition foreclosure sale, and, subsequently filing an unlawful detainer action, respectively. Wells Fargo raises the following four arguments in opposition to Debtor's motion: (1) that Debtor did not have an interest in the Property; (2) there is cause for annulment of the automatic stay; (3) Wells Fargo's actions were not willful; and (4) no damages were suffered.

I. Property Interest

The basis for Wells Fargo's argument that Debtor did not have an interest in the Property is unclear. It appears to hinge on the following assertion, from page 7 of the opposition: "Vera transferred his entire interest to Guerrero, who in turn transferred his entire interest to himself and Jimenez as joint tenants. Therefore, Guerrero could not transfer the entire interest to HACBED without Jimenez also transferring his joint tenant interest." The grant deed transferring an interest in the Property to HACBED does not, however, purport to transfer the entire interest in the Property, but, instead, states that the grantor, Guerrero, is transferring the entirety of his interest. Even if Guerrero had attempted to also transfer the interest of Jimenez, that would not render the entire grant deed void, but would simply result in a finding that the attempt to transfer Jimenez's interest was void.

II. Annulment of Automatic Stay

11 U.S.C. § 362(d) permits a court to retroactively annul, modify, or condition the automatic stay. See, e.g., In re Schwartz, 954 F.2d 569, 572-73 (9th Cir. 1992). As Wells Fargo asserts, if a court retroactively annuls the automatic stay with respect to specific actions, then those actions would cease to be a violation of the automatic stay.

Wells Fargo sets forth, in detail, its argument why cause exists for annulment of the automatic stay. An opposition to a motion is not, however, the appropriate place to request that relief. Because of due process concerns, the Court will continue Debtor's motion for sanctions and equitable relief to allow Wells Fargo to file, and set for hearing, a motion to annul the stay.

III. GW

GW has not filed any opposition to the motion under consideration. Debtor contends that GW violated the automatic stay through the filing of an unlawful detainer action eight days after Debtor's commencement of the instant bankruptcy proceeding. If the filing of the unlawful detainer action is, in fact, a violation of the automatic stay, and, therefore, void, the consequence would not be a reconveyance of the Property. To obtain a reconveyance of the Property, Debtor must establish that the foreclosure sale conducted by Wells Fargo was a violation of the automatic stay. Nevertheless, the remainder of Debtor's requested remedies may be applicable if Debtor is successful in its motion with regard to GW, but unsuccessful in its motion with regard to Wells Fargo.

As noted by Wells Fargo, however, § 362(k) imposes a requirement that a violation be willful in order for an aggrieved debtor to recover damages. 11 U.S.C. § 362(k)(1). Generally, the willfulness requires the presence of two factors: (1) the party knows of the automatic stay; and (2) the actions taken in violation of the automatic were intentional. See, e.g., Eskanos & Adler, P.C. v. Leetien, 309 F.3d 1210, 1215 (9th Cir.

2002). Here, there is no evidence in the record that GW knew of the bankruptcy filing. Instead it appears that Debtor only notified Wells Fargo of the commencement of the bankruptcy. Therefore, Debtor has failed to provide evidence establishing that the requirements of § 362(k)(1) are satisfied.

Debtor also requests that GW "be ordered to dismiss the unlawful detainer case." As noted by Debtor, an act that violates the automatic stay is void. See, e.g., In re Schwartz, 954 F.2d 569, 571 (9th Cir. 2002). "This rule applies to judicial proceedings." Leetien, 309 F.3d at 1215; see also In re Gruntz, 202 F.3d 1074, 1082 (9th Cir. 2000). Therefore, GW's filing of the unlawful detainer action may be void, and the state court may have lacked jurisdiction over the unlawful detainer action. See In re Gruntz, 202 F.3d at 1083 ("[A] reverse Rooker-Feldman situation is presented when state courts decide to proceed in derogation of the stay, because it is the state court which is attempting impermissibly to modify the federal court's injunction.). If the state court lacked jurisdiction to hear the unlawful detainer, then the unlawful detainer action must be dismissed.

If Wells Fargo is successful, however, in annulling the stay, however, then the foreclosure sale of June 19, 2017, will be valid. If the foreclosure sale is valid, then it would appear that the automatic stay provisions cited by Debtor, § 363(a)(3) & (5), would not be applicable, since the Property, at the time of the filing of the unlawful detainer action, would not have been property of the debtor or property of the estate. Furthermore, § 362(a)(1) would be inapplicable, because the foreclosure sale having been held post-petition, GW's unlawful detainer action is not an action that "could have been commenced before the commencement" of the bankruptcy case. Therefore, the validity of the unlawful detainer action filed by GW depends upon Wells Fargo's success in obtaining annulment of the automatic stay.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to CONTINUE the matter for Wells Fargo to file a motion to annul the automatic stay.

BACKGROUND

On May 23, 2017, Lyne Aguilar ("Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 7 petition.

On July 28, 2017, UST filed a motion for the entry of an order disgorging fees and imposing fines against bankruptcy petition preparers Michael Landrum ("Landrum") and Time Lawyers, requesting an aggregate of $22,100. According to UST's motion, Landrum failed to identify himself on the prepared documents, provided Debtor legal advice, and engaged in prohibited advertising using the word "legal".

11 U.S.C. § 110(a)(1) defines "bankruptcy petition preparer" as "a person, other than an attorney for the debtor or an employee of such attorney under the direct supervision of such attorney, who prepares for compensation a document for filing." "Document for filing" is defined as "a petition or any other document prepared for filing by a debtor in a United States bankruptcy court or a United States district court in connection with a case under this title. Id.

Here, UST has provided the declaration of Debtor stating that Landrum prepared a document for filing, and was compensated for such preparation. Furthermore, there is no direct evidence that Landrum is an attorney, or works under the supervision of an attorney. Therefore, Landrum is a bankruptcy petition preparer subject to the requirements of § 110.

II. Identification of BPP

11 U.S.C. § 110(b)(1) requires bankruptcy petition preparers to place their name and address on documents they prepare for filing. Furthermore, 11 U.S.C. § 110(c) requires individual bankruptcy petition preparers to include their social security number on documents they prepare for filing. Finally, 11 U.S.C. § 110(h)(2) provides that a bankruptcy petition preparer must disclose compensation received from the debtor within the previous twelve months.

Here, UST has provided the declaration of Debtor which suggests¹ that Landrum prepared the entirety of the bankruptcy paperwork in this case. Furthermore, UST has provided authenticated copies of the filed documents, establishing that Landrum did not identify himself in any form on the filed documents, or disclose the compensation he received.

III. Misleading Advertising

11 U.S.C. § 110(f) states: "[a] bankruptcy petition preparer shall not use the word 'legal' or any similar term in any advertisements, or advertise under any category that includes the word 'legal' or any similar term."

Here, UST has provided Landrum's business card which is titled "Time Lawyers," identifies Landrum as a "license paralegal," identifies his email as timelawyers@aol.com, and states "Trial Lawyers Association Member" and "Bar License by American Bar Association." This egregiously false advertising is clearly a violation of § 110(f).

IV. Legal Advice

11 U.S.C. § 110(e)(2)(A) states: "[a] bankruptcy petition preparer may not offer a potential bankruptcy debtor any legal advice, including any legal advice described in subparagraph (B)." 11 U.S.C. § 110(e)(2)(B) identifies several common categories of advice that fit within the definition of legal advice in the context of § 110(e)(2).

Here, UST states that "Landrum unlawfully provided legal advice by completing the documents for the Debtor, explaining them, and then instructing her to sign the petition even though she did not understand the documents." It is not clear whether the last two categories, explaining documents and instructing Debtor to sign documents, constitute legal advice in this case. Furthermore, it is not clear that completing the documents for Debtor constitutes "advice" in any sense. Nevertheless, it would be illogical to conclude that a bankruptcy petition preparer is prohibited from advising a debtor regarding how to characterize property, but is permitted to unilaterally characterize the property. Therefore, the Court interprets Landrum's completion of the documents as legal advice, and Debtor's signing of the documents to be Debtor's acceptance of Landrum's legal advice.

First, Section 110(i)(1) states:

(i)(1) If a bankruptcy petition preparer violates this section or commits any act that that the court finds to be fraudulent, unfair, or deceptive, on the motion of the debtor, trustee, United States trustee (or the bankruptcy administrator, if any), and after notice and a hearing, the court shall order the bankruptcy petition preparer to pay to the debtor-

(A) the debtor's actual damages;

(B) the greater of—

(i) $2,000; or

(ii) twice the amount paid by the debtor to the bankruptcy petition preparer for the preparer's services; and

(C) reasonable attorneys' fees and costs in moving for damages under this subsection.

The use of the word 'shall' in § 110(i)(1) indicates that the bankruptcy court has no discretion in deciding whether to impose statutory damages of $2,000 once it found a violation of § 110. First, however, the Court must determine that Ortega committed a "fraudulent, unfair, or deceptive" act. See, e.g., In re Doser, 412 F.3d 1056, 1064 (9th Cir. 1005); see also In re Kangaroo, 250 B.R. 115 (Bankr. C.D. Cal 2000). Engaging in the unauthorized practice of law has routinely been held to be a "fraudulent, unfair, or deceptive" act under the statute. See, e.g., In re Monson, 522 B.R. 340, 355 (Bankr. D. Utah 2014) ("Offering legal advice to debtors can constitute a fraudulent, unfair or deceptive act within the context of § 110(i)(1).") (collecting cases); In re Bagley, 433 B.R. 325, 334 (Bankr. D. Mont. 2010). Furthermore, given that Landrum provided Debtor with a business card blatantly misrepresenting his credentials, the Court concludes that Landrum has engaged in a "fraudulent, unfair, or deceptive" act," and, therefore, the $2,000 damages requested are appropriate.

Second, 11 U.S.C. § 110(h)(3)(B) states: "[a]ll fees charged by a bankruptcy petition preparer may be forfeited in any case in which the bankruptcy petition preparer fails to comply with this subsection or subsection (b), (c), (d), (e), (f), or (g)."

Here, UST has requested the disgorgement of $600, $300 received by Landrum for this case, and $300 received by Landrum for the filing of a previous case, within the prior twelve months. The plain language of the statute is not unambiguous regarding whether the Court can order disgorgement of compensation received in an earlier case. Courts have previously utilized the provision to order disgorgement of fees received in other cases. See, e.g., In re Bagley, 433 B.R. 325, 334 (Bankr. D. Mont. 2010). Here, however, the Court will reach the same result through a more clearly applicable provision, § 110(h)(3)(A)(i), which allows the Court to order disgorgement of fees received in the previous twelve months which were defective in light of the services provided. Here, Landrum received $300 for filing a facially defective petition that was summarily dismissed. The Court considers the value of Landrum's services in the previous case to be worth $0, and, therefore, disgorgement is appropriate. See, e.g., In re Pilot, 286 B.R. 157, 162 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2002) ("Because of the unauthorized practice of law, the reasonable value of the services provided is zero.").

Third, 11 U.S.C. § 110(l)(1) provides: "[a] bankruptcy petition preparer who fails to comply with any provision of subsection (b), (c), (d), (e), (f), (g), or (h) may be fined not more than $500 for each such failure." The quoted provision instructs the Court to determine how many violations of the enumerated subsections have occurred, and multiply the number of violations by $500. UST asserts that, in this case, there are thirteen such violations. Implicit in UST's calculation is that multiple violations of the same subsection are aggregate, as is one document's violation of multiple subsections.

The statute is unclear regarding the method by which the number of violations is to be determined. There are two questions critical to the resolution of this issue: (1) whether multiple documents or acts that violate the same provision constitute multiple violations; and (2) whether one document or act that violates multiple provisions constitutes multiple violations. Some courts have answered in the affirmative to both questions, rapidly multiplying the assessed fine. See, e.g., In re Bowyer, 489 B.R. 798, 814 (Bankr. N.D. Ind. 2013) (fifty-four violations); In re Bradshaw, 233 B.R. 315, 332-34 (Bankr. D.N.J. 1999) (193 total violations). Other courts seem to have answered in the negative to both questions, and based their finding on the number of enumerated subsections violated, regardless of how many times it may have been violated. See, e.g., In re France, 271 B.R. 748, 757 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 2002); In re Chamberland, 190 B.R. 972, 977 (Bankr. M.D. Fla. 1996); see also In re Kangaroo, 250 B.R. 115, 125 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2000) ("In accordance with the authorities, this court orders Arotionians to pay a fine of $500 for each subsection violated.").

Endorsing the principle that one document can constitute multiple violations, and one provision can be violated multiple times, would create a situation where the number of violations is essentially uncountable. While the number of documents filed can be easily ascertained, the other primary subsections, relating to providing legal advice and legal advertising, are more difficult to assess. See, e.g., In Monson, 522 B.R. 340, 355 (Bankr. D. Utah 2014) (each instance of providing legal advice is a separate violation). Here, as noted above, the Court has concluded that the completion of the case commencement documents constituted the providing of legal advice. Under the theory that a subsection can be violated multiple times, the case commencement documents filed in this case could be considered to constitute hundreds of violations. And it is plausible to speculate that § 110(f), relating to misleading advertising, could have been violated on dozens, if not hundreds, of occasions. While the Court does not believe the requested relief to be necessarily excessive in this case, the reasonableness of the relief requested does not, a priori, determine the reasonableness of the principle upon which the relief is based. The principle implicitly adopted here is simply untenable.

The Court acknowledges that 11 U.S.C. § 110 was designed to remedy the perceived abuses committed by bankruptcy petition preparers. 2 Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 110.01 (16th ed. 2015) ("[S]ection 110 was enacted to remedy what was perceived to be widespread fraud and unauthorized practice of law by non-attorneys who prepared bankruptcy documents for consumer debtors.") (citing In re Crawford, 194 F.3d 954 (9th Cir. 1999)). Yet, ballooning the fees to be paid to UST does not seem to be the appropriate remedy. Therefore, the Court concludes that the number of violations is equivalent to the number of subsections violated (in this case five). The Court finds that UST has demonstrated the applicability of § 110(l)(2)(d), and, therefore, the statutory fine will be tripled, resulting in a fine of $7,500. Furthermore, in light of the egregious misrepresentations by Landrum on his business card, the Court will issue an order to show cause why Landrum should not be enjoined from serving as a bankruptcy petition preparer in the future.

Docket 10

Tentative Ruling:

8/23/17

BACKGROUND

On May 15, 2017, Mayra Huerta ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. The initial case documents included a declaration of bankruptcy petition preparer and a disclosure of compensation of bankruptcy petition preparer, both completed by Ricardo Lopez ("Lopez").

On July 26, 2017, UST filed a motion for an order disgorging fees, assessing damages, and imposing fines against Lopez and the Paralegal Group pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 110, requesting an aggregate of $3,200. According to UST's motion, Lopez prepared Debtor's bankruptcy documents and provided Debtor legal advice regarding classification of claims and selection of exemptions. UST further asserts that Lopez has been enjoined as a bankruptcy petition preparer since July 27, 2016.

I. Bankruptcy Petition Preparer

11 U.S.C. § 110(a)(1) defines "bankruptcy petition preparer" as "a person, other than an attorney for the debtor or an employee of such attorney under the direct supervision of such attorney, who prepares for compensation a document for filing." "Document for filing" is defined as "a petition or any other document prepared for filing by a debtor in a United States bankruptcy court or a United States district court in connection with a case under this title.

Here, Lopez's completion and filing of the declaration of bankruptcy petition preparer and the disclosure of compensation of bankruptcy petition preparer establish that he is a bankruptcy petition preparer subject the requirements of § 110.

II. Advertisement of Legal Services

11 U.S.C. § 110(f) states: "[a] bankruptcy petition preparer shall not use the word 'legal' or any similar term in any advertisements, or advertise under any category that includes the word 'legal' or any similar term." Here, UST argues that Lopez's use of the name "Paralegal Group" on his business card constitutes a violation of § 110(f).

The Bankruptcy Appellate Panel of the Ninth Circuit has previously stated"

Several courts, including the Panel, have held that a BPP's use of the word "paralegal" violates § 100(f), not only because it actually contains the prohibited word "legal," but also because it promotes the BPP's specialized legal expertise or knowledge and misleads lay persons into believing legal services are being provided.

In re Wojcik, 560 B.R. 763, 770 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2016) (collecting cases). The Court agrees, and finds that the use of "paralegal" in advertising violates the requirements of § 110(f). Furthermore, the Court finds that the distribution of business cards constitutes an advertisement. Therefore, Lopez has violated § 110(f).

III. Legal Advice

11 U.S.C. § 110(e)(2)(A) states: "[a] bankruptcy petition preparer may not offer a potential bankruptcy debtor any legal advice, including any legal advice described in subparagraph (B)." 11 U.S.C. § 110(e)(2)(B) identifies several common categories of advice that fit within the definition of legal advice in the context of § 110(e)(2). The authenticated transcript of Debtor's meeting of creditors establishes that UST questioned Debtor concerning whether Lopez has provided the advice prohibited by § 110(e)(2)(B). Debtor, in response to the several of the questions, stated that Lopez had, in fact, provided the prohibited advice. Therefore, Lopez has violated § 110(e).

11 U.S.C. § 110(l)(1) provides for a discretionary fine of up to $500 for a violation of § 110(e). Given that Lopez provided a variety of prohibited legal advice, and given the lack of any opposition to the motion, the Court finds the requested fine to be reasonable.

IV. Disgorgement of Compensation

11 U.S.C. § 110(h)(3)(B) provides the Court with discretion to order disgorgement of compensation received when a bankruptcy petition fails to comply with § 110(b)-(g). Here, as noted above, Lopez failed to comply with the statutory requirements. Given that this is not Lopez's first violation of the requirements for bankruptcy petition preparers, and given the lack of opposition to UST's motion, the Court finds disgorgement of the $200 received to be appropriate.

(ii) twice the amount paid by the debtor to the bankruptcy petition preparer for the preparer's services; and

(C) reasonable attorneys' fees and costs in moving for damages under this subsection.

The use of the word 'shall' in § 110(i)(1) indicates that the bankruptcy court has no discretion in deciding whether to impose statutory damages of $2,000 once it found a violation § 110(f). First, however, the Court must determine that Ortega committed a "fraudulent, unfair, or deceptive" act. See, e.g., In re Doser, 412 F.3d 1056, 1064 (9th Cir. 1005). Engaging in the unauthorized practice of law has routinely been held to be a "fraudulent, unfair, or deceptive" act under the statute. See, e.g., In re Monson, 522 B.R. 340, 355 (Bankr. D. Utah 2014) ("Offering legal advice to debtors can constitute a fraudulent, unfair or deceptive act within the context of § 110(i)(1).") (collecting cases); In re Bagley, 433 B.R. 325, 334 (Bankr. D. Mont. 2010). Given that Lopez provided Debtor with a business card advertising his association with the Paralegal Group and listing a variety of legal topics, the Court concludes that Lopez has engaged in a "fraudulent, unfair, or deceptive" act," and, therefore, the $2,000 damages requested are appropriate.

#13.00 Motion to Convert Case From Chapter 7 to Chapter 13

EH__

Docket 92

Tentative Ruling:

8/23/17

BACKGROUND

Debtor obtained a discharge in a Chapter 7 case filed on November 30, 2010. Between February 14, 2013 and September 18, 2015, Debtor filed four Chapter 13 cases, all of which were dismissed within one year.

On August 5, 2016, Elizabeth Baker ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On October 26, 2016, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed. On June 9, 2017, unaware that she was ineligible for a Chapter 7 discharge, Debtor converted her case to Chapter 7. On July 24, 2017, Debtor filed a motion to reconvert to Chapter 13.

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 706(a) states: "The debtor may convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 11, 12, or 13 of this title at any time, if the case has not been converted under section 1112, 1208, or 1307 of this title." Here, Debtor's case was previously converted under § 1307.

"Courts are divided as to whether the debtor can re-convert a case that has been previously converted." Ginsberg & Martin on Bankruptcy § 12.13[A] (5th ed. 2017-2); see also In re Masterson, 141 B.R. 84, 87 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 1992) ("The courts appear to be evenly divided on the issue of whether a 'second conversion' of a case previously converted to Chapter 7 is ever permissible.") (collecting cases). The courts that have determined that § 706(a) bars subsequent reconversion have primarily relied upon the plain language of the statute, but have also considered the legislative history. See In re Banks, 252 B.R. 399, 400 (Bankr. E.D. Mich. 2000). One court has stated the following:

Unfortunately, for the debtor, the language of Section 706 clearly bars a debtor from converting a case from Chapter 7 to Chapter 13 more than once. Subsection (a) of that section states in relevant part that a "debtor may convert a case under this chapter to a case under Chapter 11 or 13 of this title at any time, if the case has not been converted under Section 1112 or 1307 of this title. The language of this statute is not discretionary. By its plain meaning it bars the debtor from this second attempt at conversion. Moreover, there is no case law supporting a discretionary right. At least one other bankruptcy court has arrived at this conclusion, In re Bumpass, 28 B.R. 597 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 1983), and this Court shares that view.

In re Nimai Kumar Ghosh, 38 B.R. 600, 603 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 1984) (footnote omitted).

As the court implicitly concluded in Nimai Kumar Ghosh, the phrase appears "if the case has not been converted" appears to modify the entirety of the first clause, not simple the language "at any time." The phrase "at any time" is not set off from the remainder of the clause in any fashion. Therefore, §706(a) is only applicable if the case has not been converted previously. The remaining question is, if § 706(a) is inapplicable, can the Debtor resort to any other mechanism in order to convert her case?

Courts that have permitted a reconversion appear to fall into two categories. First, some courts appear to believe that, when § 706(a) is inapplicable, the default position is that the Court has discretion to allow conversion based on policy grounds. See, e.g., In re Masterson, 141 B.R. at 88. Other courts have turned to § 706(c). See, e.g., Matter of Johnson, 116 B.R. 224, 225 (Bankr. Idaho 1990); In re Sensibaugh, 9 B.R. 45, 46 (Bankr. E.D. Va. 1981). Section 706(c) states: "[t]he court may not convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 12 or 13 of this title unless the debtor requests or consents to such conversion." While the plain language of § 706(c) indicates that it operates as a restraint on the court's authority, not as a source of authority, courts that have utilized this provision appear to conclude that if the debtor consents to or requests conversion, the court has discretion to permit such conversion.

A third possibility is that a debtor could seek voluntary dismissal or conversion under § 707, consent to conversion, and allow the Court to determine whether dismissal or conversion was more appropriate in the circumstances. This approach would have the disadvantage of possibly resulting in dismissal of the case, but it would seem to solve the statutory interpretation issues encountered by the alternative approaches.

Nevertheless, the Court need not determine whether reconversion is permitted under § 706(a) because, if the Court were to conclude that reconversion is discretionary, Debtor has not demonstrated that the exercise of such discretion would be appropriate. Debtor has had four Chapter 13 cases dismissed in the previous five years. More importantly, at the time Debtor converted to Chapter 7, there was an outstanding motion to dismiss pending for failure to make plan payments. Debtor appears to have chosen to convert the case to Chapter 7 rather than resolve the Chapter 13 Trustee's pending motion to dismiss.

Given Debtor's history in bankruptcy, the absence of any legal argument in Debtor's motion, and the absence of any evidence suggesting a change in circumstances which would allow Debtor to be successful in a Chapter 13 proceeding, the reconversion of the case, even if the Court were to conclude that such reconversion was legally permissible, would be inappropriate.

#14.00 Motion to Approve Compromise of Controversy

EH__

Docket 36

Tentative Ruling:

8/23/17

BACKGROUND

On April 6, 2016, Luz Castro ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On January 9, 2017, Trustee filed an adversary proceeding against Enrique Castro ("Defendant") for: (1) avoidance of fraudulent transfer; and (2) recovery of avoided transfer. The subject of the adversary proceeding was certain real property located at 2035 Caseros Drive, San Jacinto, California 92592 (the "Property").

According to Trustee, Defendant acquired the Property shortly before the marriage of Defendant and Debtor. During the marriage, however, community property income was used to make mortgage payments, causing the community estate to acquire an interest in the Property. On March 31, 2015, Debtor transferred her interest in the property to Defendant. Trustee asserts that Debtor did not receive reasonably equivalent value for the transfer.

On July 6, 2017, Trustee filed a motion to approve compromise pursuant to Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9019. Trustee proposes to settle the adversary proceeding for $10,000. On July 28, 2017, the matter was set for hearing.

DISCUSSION

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9019 provides that:

On motion by the trustee and after notice and a hearing, the court may approve a compromise or settlement. Notice shall be given to creditors, the United States trustee, the debtor, and indenture trustees as provided in Rule 2002 and to any other entity as the court may direct.

The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals have previously outlined the factors to be considered in approving a compromise pursuant to Rule 9019: (1) the probability of success in the litigation; (2) the difficulties to be encountered in the matter of collection; (3) the complexity, expense, inconvenience and delay of litigation; and (4) the interest of creditors with deference to their reasonable. See In re A&C Props., 784 F.2d 1377, 1381 (9th Cir. 1986). The listed factors assist the Court in determining "the fairness, reasonableness and adequacy of a proposed settlement agreement." Id.

Trustee's compromise motion does not provide the information the Court requires to apply the A&C Properties factors or to assess the reasonableness of the settlement. First and foremost, the motion fails to identify the value of the Property or the value of the community estate's interest in the property, rendering it impossible to determining the reasonableness of the settlement amount. Additionally, the motion addresses the A&C Properties factors in cursory, boiler-plate language. Regarding factor (1), the motion simply states that success in the adversary is not guaranteed. Regarding factor (2), the motion states that Trustee would have to sell the Property if the adversary proceeding were successful. Regarding factor (3), the motion states that the adversary is "not overly complex" but additional fees would result. Regarding factor (4), the motion states that the settlement would provide funds for creditors.

EH__

Docket 134

Tentative Ruling:

8/23/17

BACKGROUND

On March 13, 2014, Erma Dorn ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. Prior to the filing of the petition, Debtor was involved in state court litigation in Riverside. Debtor retained the Southwick Law Firm ("Southwick") to assist in the state court litigation, and, according to Trustee, at the time of the filing of the petition, Southwick held $10,000 in a client trust account.

After more than a year of attempting to reach a resolution with Southwick, Trustee filed a motion for order directing Southwick to turn over property of the estate pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 542 on July 24, 2017. On August 9, 2017, Southwick filed its opposition. Southwick makes three arguments in opposition: (1) Trustee is required to bring an adversary proceeding; (2) Southwick has earned the funds in the client trust account and the funds are no longer property of the estate; and (3) the motion should be denied on the basis of laches and estoppel.

11 U.S.C. § 542(a) states:

Except as provided in subsection (c) or (d) of this section, an entity, other than a custodian, in possession, custody, or control, during the case, of property that the trustee may use, sell, or lease under section 363 of this title, or that the debtor may exempt under section 522 of this title, shall deliver to the trustee, and account for, such property or the value of such property, unless such property is of inconsequential value or benefit to the estate.

Procedurally, Southwick argues that an adversary proceeding is required to secure turnover of property. Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 7001(1) states that an adversary proceeding is required for "a proceeding to recover money or property other than a proceeding to compel the debtor to deliver property to the trustee, or a proceeding under § 554(b) or § 725 of the Code, Rule 2017, or Rule 6002." Courts have held that Rule 7001(1) mandates that an adversary proceeding be commenced when a trustee seeks § 542 turnover from a party other than the debtor. For example, the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals has previously stated:

A turnover action is an adversary proceeding which must be commenced by a properly filed and served complaint. The Roukas, however, entered the matter by filing a motion. A turnover proceeding commenced by motion rather than by complaint will be dismissed; and a turnover order entered in an action commenced by motion will be vacated.

Matter of Perkins, 902 F.2d 1254, 1258 (7th Cir. 1990); see also In re Wheeler Tech., Inc., 139 B.R. 235, 239 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1992) ("Bankruptcy Rule 7001 explicitly states that an action to recover money or property is an adversary proceeding, subject to the procedural rules therein.").

Here, because Trustee is attempting to secure turnover of estate property from a party other than Debtor, Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 7001(1) requires the commencement of an adversary proceeding. DISCUSSION

I. Sale of Estate Property

11 U.S.C. § 363(b)(1) allows a trustee to sell property of the estate outside of the ordinary course, after notice and a hearing. A sale pursuant to § 363(b) requires a demonstration that the sale has a valid business justification. In re 240 North Brand Partners, Ltd., 200 B.R. 653, 659 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1996). "In approving any sale outside the ordinary course of business, the court must not only articulate a sufficient business reason for the sale, it must further find it is in the best interest of the estate, i.e. it is fair and reasonable, that it has been given adequate marketing, that it has been negotiated and proposed in good faith, that the purchaser is proceeding in good faith, and that it is an "arms-length" transaction." In re Wilde Horse Enters., Inc., 136 B.R. 830, 841 (Bankr. C.D. Cal.).

Trustee asserts that the sale price represents the fair market value of the property and the estate will receive approximately $16,738 and, therefore, sound business reasons exist for the sale. Because the sale will generate proceeds for distribution to unsecured creditors, the Court finds that Trustee has met his burden of demonstrating a valid business justification.

(f) The trustee may sell property under subsection (b) or (c) of this section free and clear of any interest in such property of an entity other than the estate, only if-

- (1) applicable nonbankruptcy law permits sale of such property free and clear of such interest;
- (2) such entity consents;
- (3) such interest is a lien and the price at which such property is to be sold is greater than the aggregate value of all liens on such property;
- (4) such interest is in bona fide dispute; or
- (5) such entity could be compelled, in a legal or equitable proceeding, to accept a money satisfaction of such interest.

Trustee contends that the Tax Liens and Lis Pendens were recorded post-petition, in violation of the automatic stay, and, therefore, are in bona fide dispute. 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(4) stays "any act to create, perfect, or enforce any lien against property of the estate." 11 U.S.C. § 362(b)(18) contains one of the exceptions to the automatic stay:

(b) The filing of a petition under section 301, 302, or 303 of this title, or of an application under section 5(a)(3) of the Securities Investor Protection Act of 1970, does not operate as a stay –

- (18) under subsection (a) of the creation or perfection of a statutory lien for an ad valorem property tax, or a special tax or special assessment on real property whether or not ad valorem, imposed by a governmental unit, if such tax or assessment comes due after the date of the filing of the petition.

Chapter 7

The Seventh Circuit has previously explained the purpose of the § 362(b)(18) exception:

The exception's intent was to reverse decisions that had held that the automatic stay blocked local governments from attaching statutory liens for property taxes that accrued subsequent to a bankruptcy filing. Because local governments rely on such taxes as one of their principal sources of revenue usually secured via statutory liens, certain court decisions created a windfall for secured lenders, who otherwise be subordinated to such tax liens, and significantly impaired revenue collection. Congress intended this section to overrule such cases and allow local municipalities to use their property tax liens to secure payment of property taxes.

Here, the evidence before the Court is not conclusive regarding the applicability of the § 362(b)(18) exception. The tax lien certificate relating to the lien sold to US Bank as custodian for FFS Financial 1, is illustrative of the lack of clarity. The certificate states that the rights being sold arise from "an unpaid tax, special ad valorem levy, special assessment or other charge imposed upon certain real property."

"The trustee has the burden of establishing the existence of a bona fide dispute." In re Terrace Chalet Apartments, Ltd., 159 B.R. 821, 828 (N.D. Ill. 1993). "[C]ourts must determine 'whether there is an objective basis for either a factual or legal dispute as to the validity of the debt.'" In re Gaylord Grain L.L.C., 306 B.R. 624, 627 (B.A.P. 8th Cir. 2004) (quoting In re Busick, 831 F.2d 745, 750 (7th Cir. 1987)). "Courts utilizing this definition have held the parties to an evidentiary standard and evidence must be provided to show factual grounds that there is an objective basis for the dispute." Id. Here, while Trustee has provided evidence to suggest that it is plausible the tax lien were recorded in violation of the automatic stay, that same evidence suggests that it is plausible the tax liens fit within the exception to the automatic stay outlined above. The uncertainty arises not from a factual dispute, but from the absence of any evidence regarding the specific character of the lien. Because it not the evidence that creates the ambiguity, but the lack thereof, the Court concludes that a bona fide dispute has not been established.

Trustee advances an alternative argument under § 362(f): that the purchase price of the property exceeds the aggregate value of all liens on the property, satisfying § 363(f)(3). Here, Trustee has provided evidence that establishes that the purchase price of the Property is $25,000, and that the aggregate value of the liens on the property is less than $25,000. Therefore, § 363(f)(3) has been satisfied, and the sale shall be free and clear of liens with such liens to attach to sale proceeds to the same extent, validity and priority as such liens attached to the property prior to the sale.

III. Overbid Procedures & Brokers Commission

The Court has reviewed the proposed overbid procedures finds the procedures to be reasonable. See, e.g., In re Fridman, 2016 WL 3961303 at *8 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2016) (reviewing overbid procedures for reasonableness). The Court has also reviewed the proposed real estate brokers' commission and finds it to be reasonable.

IV. 14-Day Stay

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 6004(h) states: "An order authorizing the use, sale, or lease of property other than cash collateral is stayed until the expiration of 14 days after entry of the order, unless the court orders otherwise." The Court deems the absence of objections to be consent to the relief requested, pursuant to Local Rule 9013-(1)(h), and, therefore, will waive the stay of Rule 6004(h).

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion in its entirety.

Tentative Ruling:

8/23/17

BACKGROUND

On June 23, 2016, Revere Financial Corporation ("Revere") filed a complaint against Don Burns ("Burns"), and, on June 30, 2016, the complaint was amended. After Burns failed to answer or otherwise respond to the complaint, the clerk entered default against Burns on November 16, 2016.

On April 21, 2017, Revere filed a motion for default judgment. On May 4, 2017, Burns filed a motion to set aside default and an answer. On May 24, 2017, Revere filed its opposition to the motion to set aside default. At a hearing on June 7, 2017, the Court instructed the parties that it would conditionally grant the motion to set aside default upon payment of reasonable costs, and requested further briefing regarding Revere's costs incurred as a result of Burns's delay. At a continued hearing on July 12, 2017, after the Court posted a tentative ruling reducing the fees requested by Revere, the Court continued the motion to set aside default to allow further briefing from parties. The fee dispute has not yet been resolve and no order has been entered related to the motion to set aside default.

Chapter 7

On June 30, 2017, Burns filed a motion to dismiss. On August 9, 2017, Revere filed their opposition to the motion to dismiss.

DISCUSSION

Despite the fact that Burns is still in default, neither party has briefed the impact of that status on Burns's motion to dismiss. A legal scholar previous wrote that "the defaulting party loses his standing to contest the truth of all facts that are 'well-pleaded' in the non-defaulting party's complaint." Peter H. Bresnan & James P. Cornelio, Relief from Default Judgments Under Rule 60(b) – A Study of Federal Case Law, 49 Fordham L. Rev. 956, 959-60 (1981) (collecting cases); see also Thomson v. Wooster, 114 U.S. 104, 112-14 (1885) ("From the authorities cited, and the express language of our own rules in equity, it seems clear that the defendants, after the entry of the decree pro confesso, and while it stood unrevoked, were absolutely barred and precluded from alleging anything in derogation of, or in opposition to, the said decree, and that they are equally barred, and precluded from questioning its correctness here on appeal, unless on the face of the bill it appears manifest that it was erroneous and improperly granted."). Burns's motion to dismiss raises a legal argument, however, not a factual argument.

Courts appear willing to simultaneously grant motions to set aside default and dismiss the case. See, e.g., Mineo Yoshida v. Daikokuya Co., Ltd., 2008 WL 11338257 (C.D. Cal. 2007). Other courts have been more specific with regard to the order in which the motion to set aside default and the motion to dismiss must be considered. See Everest Indem. Ins. Co. v. Demarco, 2013 WL 12136578 at *2 (C.D. Cal. 2013) ("Before the Court can consider their motion to dismiss, the default must be set aside pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 55(c)."). Where, as is the case here, the Court has merely orally indicated that it will set aside default upon the occurrence of a condition which has not yet been defined, and may or may not come to pass, the Court considers it improper to rule on the motion to dismiss. Therefore, the Court will continue the matter for Burns to obtain a setting aside of the default.

Docket 21

Tentative Ruling:

8/23/2017

Background

At a hearing on the Defendant's motion to set aside default ("Motion"), the Court indicated it would grant the motion conditioned upon the Defendant paying Plaintiff's fees incurred for opposing the Motion and for preparation of the Motion for Default Judgment that would become moot as a result of the order setting aside the default, subject to any objection from Defendant as to the reasonableness of the fees.

The Court required that a declaration from Plaintiff regarding fees would be due by June 28, 2017, and that any response or objection to the fees would be due by July 7, 2017. On June 28, 2017, Plaintiff filed a declaration regarding fees, and, on July 7, 2017, Defendant filed its objection. At the hearing on July 12, 2017, the Court continued the matter to August 23, 2017, to allow for supplemental briefing to be filed by Plaintiff and Defendant. On July 26, 2017, Plaintiff filed a supplemental declaration in support of its requested fees. On August 9, 2017, Defendant filed a

Summary of Fees

Since the last hearing, and in light of supplemental briefing on the issue, the Court has supplemented its review of the billing records provided by Plaintiff and finds several entries to be unreasonably high. Specifically,

1. The duplicative and excessive entries for research regarding elements, etc. of default judgments constitute two separate entries of approximately 7 hours each. The total for these two entries is thus approximately 14 hours regarding research for a default judgment motion on April 13 and April 14. The Court finds these research amounts unreasonably high. ($$1,762.50 + $1,675 = $3,437.50$)
2. A related conference between the associate preparing the motion and the partner on the case, Mr. Franklin Fraley, for a total of nearly 5 hours on April 19 appears excessive. ($$1,237.50$)
3. The April 21 revisions and conference with Mr. Fraley for a total of 5.2 hours inappropriately lumps amounts for distinct tasks together and warrants striking as well. ($$1,300$)
4. The May 9 and 10 entries to review/analyze for preparation of the opposition to the Defendant's Motion are duplicative and should be stricken. ($$1,250 + $1,125 = $2,375$)
5. The May 24 entries that total 7.75 hours improperly lump tasks making it difficult to gauge the reasonableness of the fees. Overall the Court finds that the amount billed for the tasks set forth appear unreasonably high. This entry shall be stricken. ($$1,937.50$)
6. The entry of October 20, 2016, that totals .8 hours including lumping of multiple tasks and appears excessive. Given that the other entry that date implies that the conference was for .05 hours, the Court interprets the other task, researching the procedure for entering a default, to be for the remaining 0.75 hours. Given that the procedure is relatively straightforward, and there are multiple other entries for the same task, the entry appears unreasonable and will be stricken. ($180).

Chapter 7

7. The entry of November 3, 2016, for 2 hours improperly lumps several tasks making it difficult to gauge the reasonableness of the fees. Furthermore, the entry appears vague and duplicative of other entries. This entry shall be stricken ($450)
8. The entry of May 11, 2017, for 2.5 hours improperly lumps several tasks making it difficult to gauge the reasonableness of the fees. This entry shall be stricken ($625)
9. The entry of May 12, 2017, for 4.25 hours appears unreasonable excessive. Plaintiff's opposition memorandum [Dkt No. 26] was relatively straightforward, and, therefore, this entry will be stricken. ($1,062.50).
10. The entry of May 23, 2017, for 2.45 hours contains impermissible lumping of several tasks, is duplicative of the previous entries, and appears excessive. This entry shall be stricken ($612.50)
11. The entry of June 2, 2017, for 1.1 hours appears unreasonable excessive. Specifically, the reply of Defendant [Dkt. 30] was less than four pages long and contained no legal argument or legal citations. This entry shall be stricken ($275)
12. The entry of June 28, 2017, for 1.75 hours was outside the scope of the Court's order allowing reasonable costs for bringing the motion for default judgment and opposing the motion to set aside default. This entry shall be stricken ($875)

Striking the above amounts, the Court finds that a reduction of $14,367.50 is appropriate.

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to find the remaining figure of $4,593.75 to be a reasonable amount of fees for the actions taken by Plaintiff in opposing the Motion and in drafting the Motion for Default Judgment.

Chapter 7

Plaintiff's supplemental declaration argues, in part, that the Court: (1) lacks the authority to review Plaintiff's fee award altogether; and (2) improperly reduced Plaintiff's fee award. The Court will briefly address Plaintiff's arguments.

In support of its argument that the Court lacks the authority to reduce attorney fees sua sponte, Plaintiff cites U.S. v. Eleven Vehicles, 200 F.3d 203, 211 (3rd Cir. 2000), and two non-bankruptcy cases in this district. This situation is wholly distinguishable from the Eleven Vehicles case. First, in the Eleven Vehicles case, the party requesting fees made the request on the basis of a fee-shifting statute that stated, in part, that "a court shall award." See id.; 28 U.S.C. § 2412(d)(1)(A). In contrast, there is no statute in the present case directing the Court to award Plaintiff fees, rather the Court has found it equitable to provide Plaintiff some reimbursement for the costs incurred.

Additionally, the bankruptcy statute dealing with compensation, 11 U.S.C. § 330, clearly instructs the Court to consider "all relevant factors" when determining "reasonable compensation" and prohibits the Court from awarding compensation in certain circumstances. 11 U.S.C. § 330 (3)-(4). Plaintiff's argument that the Court cannot award fees conflicts with the statutory directive that the Court is to consider the reasonableness of fees. And the Court is to undertake this review even when no party has objected, because it is well established that it is the applicant's burden to demonstrate the reasonableness of the fees. See, e.g., In re Fibermark, Inc., 349 B.R. 385, 395 (Bankr. D. Vt. 2006); see also 3 Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 330.03[2] (16th ed. 2015) ("Once services are determined to be compensable, the applicant must demonstrate that his work was necessary and reasonable.").

Furthermore, Plaintiff is requesting fees not according to a statutory fee shifting provision or 11 U.S.C. § 330, but only upon the tentative conditions imposed by the Court. Plaintiff's argument that the Court cannot review the fees amounts to an argument that the Court lacks the authority to interpret its own instructions, and such an argument lacks merit.

Plaintiff also offers a variety of arguments as to why each of the reductions noted in the Court's previous tentative ruling was mistaken. Plaintiff offers three arguments as to why the various reductions were inappropriate: (1) that the Court misunderstood the entries; (2) that block-billing is not a reason to reduce or strike a fee entry; and (3) that excessive or duplicative fees should not be stricken in their entirety. The Court will briefly address Plaintiff's arguments.

The Court will address the first two arguments in conjunction. Regarding (1), the Court did not misunderstand Plaintiff's billing entries, but, rather, because of the extent of lumping in Plaintiff's time entries, the Court chose to identify the entries in its tentative ruling by reference to the first task listed in the entry. Regarding (2), Plaintiff argues that block-billing refers to entries that document the total daily time working on a case and (a) that Plaintiff did not block bill; but (b) that block billing is not a reason to strike fees nevertheless. While the Court agrees that block billing, or lumping, should not invariably result in a fee reduction or elimination, the Court notes that, in bankruptcy, a fee applicant has the burden of demonstrating that its requested fees are reasonable. Given that lumping may prevent a Court from being able to ascertain the reasonableness of the fees requested, lumping may be cause for reduction or elimination of fees in bankruptcy. See, e.g., In re Thomas, 2009 WL 7751299 at *5 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2009) ("Lumping services in a single billing entry in a fee application is universally disapproved by bankruptcy courts.") (quotation omitted); In re Baker, 374 B.R. 489, 494 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 2007) ("Also the billing of practice of aggregating multiple tasks into one billing entry, typically referred to as 'block billing,' is routinely disallowed. This is because the practice of block billing makes it exceedingly difficult for a Court to determine the reasonableness of the time spent on each of the individual services or tasks provided. Consequently, courts will summarily disallow time for discrete legal services merged together in a fee application.").

Plaintiff also argues that the elimination of fee entries that the Court concluded were duplicative or excessive was incorrect. Once again, Plaintiff cites a non-bankruptcy case that dealt with a mandatory fee-shifting statute. In bankruptcy, the Court is clearly directed by statute to disallow duplicative time entries under 11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(4)(a)(i) and to review the reasonableness of the requested fees under 11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(3). Therefore, this argument lacks merit.

Ultimately, Plaintiff's rigorous defense of its requested fees fails as a matter of law because of the following: (1) there is no mandatory fee-shifting statute; (2) the Bankruptcy Code directs the Court to review the reasonableness of fees; and (3) Plaintiff is requesting fees pursuant to the discretionary condition of the Court. This final point merits brief elaboration. In reviewing the Motion, the Court thought it equitable to condition the setting aside of default on the reimbursement by Defendant of reasonable costs incurred as a result of Defendant's delay. Instead of simply selecting a figure that the Court thought was fair, the Court made the decision to allow the parties to submit evidence and brief the issue of the appropriate payment. The Court could have decided to simply grant the motion or choose a figure itself. There is no mandatory fee-shifting statute and the Plaintiff has no entitlement to any fees.

In light of the highly adversarial nature of the briefing surrounding this fee dispute, and in consideration of the evidence and arguments of both parties, the Court elects to modify its previous instructions and will, instead, condition the setting aside of Defendant's default on Defendant's payment of $5,000 to Plaintiff. The Court believes that this number represents equitable and just compensation given Defendant's delay in seeking to set aside default.

APPEARANCES REQUIRED.

The Court required that a declaration from Plaintiff re: fees would be due by June 28, 2017, and that any response/objection to the fees would be due by July 7, 2017. The Declaration re: Fees and Objection were timely filed.

The Court has reviewed the billing records provided by Plaintiff and finds several entries to be unreasonably high. Specifically,

15. The April 21 revisions and conference with Mr. Fraley for a total of 5.2 hours inappropriately lumps amounts for distinct tasks together and warrants striking as well. ($$1,300$)
16. The May 9 and 10 entries to review/analyze for preparation of the opposition to the Defendant's Motion are duplicative and should be stricken. ($$1,250 + $1,125 = $2,375$)
17. The May 24 entries that total 7.75 hours improperly lump tasks making it difficult to gauge the reasonableness of the fees. Overall the Court finds that the amount billed for the tasks set forth appear unreasonably high. This entry shall be stricken. ($$1,937.50$)

Striking the above amounts, the Court finds that a reduction of $10,287.50 is appropriate.

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to find the remaining figure of $8,673.75 to be a reasonable amount of fees for the actions taken by Plaintiff in opposing the Motion and in drafting the Motion for Default Judgment.

"It is appropriate for bankruptcy courts to avoid incursions into family law matters out of considerations of court economy, judicial restraint, and deference to our state court brethren and their established expertise in such matters." In re Stanwyck, 2008 WL 8448839 at *4 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2008) (quoting In re MacDonald, 755 F.2d 715, 717 (9th Cir. 1985)). Furthermore, 11 U.S.C. § 362(b)(2)(A)(ii)-(iv) provides exceptions to the automatic for certain matters that are within the scope of the motion.

There are, however, requests contained within the motion that extend beyond the scope of the exceptions and the Stanwyck decision, requests that involve "the division of property that is property of the estate." The appropriate balance is to allow the state court to conduct equitable distribution proceedings in state court, while this Court retains jurisdiction over distributions from, and claims against, the estate. See, e.g., In re Robbins, 964 F.2d 342, 345-46 (4th Cir. 1992) ("[T]he bankruptcy court correctly placed equitable distribution disputes in the category of cases in which state courts have a special expertise and for which federal courts owe significant deference Other courts that have considered the issue of lifting an automatic stay in order to let equitable distribution proceedings conclude in state court have sensibly done so while retaining jurisdiction to make the subsequent distributions from the estate."); In re Roger, 539 B.R. 837, 845 (C.D. The factors the Court should consider on a motion for relief from stay to proceed in a non-bankruptcy forum are the Curtis factors. See, e.g., In re Roger, 539 B.R. 837, 844-45 (C.D. Cal. 2015). The application of these factors in a divorce dissolution proceeding, such as this, generally results in a finding that granting relief from stay is proper. See, e.g., In re Taub, 438 B.R. 39, 45-50 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 2010) (applying Sonnax factors, which are identical to the Curtis factors).

In accordance with the legal standard outlined above, the Court is inclined to GRANT the motion. Movant will be allowed to proceed in state court to a final judgment. The stay will remain in effect with respect to the enforcement of any judgment against Debtor or property of the bankruptcy estate, subject to the exceptions outlined in § 362(b)(2)(A)(ii)-(iv), and this Court retains jurisdiction over distributions from, and claims against property, property of the estate.

Movant's motion does not make clear, however, what steps Movant seeks to take if granted relief from stay. Parties to discuss status of divorce proceeding.

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion. First of all, the Court notes that a motion to continue the automatic stay requires fourteen days notice, but, here, Debtor has only provided twelve days notice. Second, the motion does not provide clear and convincing evidence regarding Debtor's financial situation, specifically with regard to: (1) how much money was sent to Debtor's brother and whether further money might be sent; (2) whether Debtor may continue to assist her children (Debtor's schedules state that her adult son and daughter in law live with her, along with two grandchildren); (3) when she stopped work (evidence presented indicates May 17, 2017, however Trustee's motion to dismiss was filed prior to May 17); and (4) why Debtor did not oppose Trustee's motion to dismiss.

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion, as the subject property was sold at foreclosure prior to the petition date and the deed was recorded timely pursuant to state law. Movant's alternative request, that the automatic is not applicable under § 362(b)(22)-(23), lacks merit because Movant has not commenced any eviction, unlawful detainer action, or similar proceeding, nor do Debtors reside at the property under a lease or rental agreement, and, therefore, the alternative request is DENIED.

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion. Debtor bears the burden to prove, through clear and convincing evidence, that the case was not filed in bad faith. As is outlined in U.S. Bank's opposition, certain real property located at 16462 Ridge Field Dr., Riverside, CA 92503, has been the subject of multiple unauthorized grant deeds and at least seven bankruptcy cases since 2010. Moreover, secured creditors were not served pursuant to Rule 7004. For those reasons, and as otherwise set forth in the opposition, Debtor has failed to demonstrate that this case was filed in good faith pursuant to § 362(c)(3)(B).

Docket 23

Tentative Ruling:

8/29/2017

This matter is related to matters #9 and 11. Please see the corresponding tentative rulings for further information.

8The motion at issue relates to the foreclosure sale of certain property located at 16462 Ridge Field Drive, Riverside, CA 92503 (the "Property"). A brief history of the property is necessary to understand the respective rights in the Property.

On June 23, 2006, Carlos Vera ("Vera") obtained the property through a loan from Wells Fargo. On October 20, 2006, Vera executed a grant deed, conveying the Property to Jose Guerrero ("Guerrero"). The deed was recorded on May 25, 2007. A notice of default was issued on January 26, 2009, and recorded on January 29, 2009. During the first half of 2010, Guerrero filed three bankruptcies, all of which were summarily dismissed, and Vera filed one, in which Wells Fargo obtained relief from stay.

On May 23, 2012, Guerrero executed a grant deed, conveying the Property to himself and Jose Jimenez ("Jimenez") as joint tenants, one day before a scheduled foreclosure sale. Jimenez had, at the time, a pending Chapter 13 bankruptcy. On August 8, 2012, Guerrero executed another grant deed, conveying his interest to HACBED, Inc. ("HACBED"). The grant deed was recorded on January 19, 2013.

On October 16, 2016, Guerrero filed another bankruptcy, which was, again, summarily dismissed. A second foreclosure sale was later scheduled for June 19, 2017. Earlier, on May 14, 2017, HACBED executed a warranty deed, transferring a 10% interest in the Property to Debtor. The warranty deed was recorded on June 29, 2017. Less than three weeks later, Debtor filed the instant bankruptcy case the same day as the foreclosure, which was summarily dismissed. The bankruptcy case was filed a matter of minutes after the recording of the deed from HACBED and a matter of minutes before the scheduled foreclosure sale. Debtor faxed a notice of the bankruptcy filing to Wells Fargo three minutes before the scheduled foreclosure sale. Debtor also states that telephonic notice was provided to Wells Fargo prior to the sale, but a specific time is not provided.

After the foreclosure sale was held, on June 27, 2017, GW filed an unlawful detainer case in state court. Debtor requests the reconveyance of the property, dismissal of the unlawful detainer action, $10,000 in punitive damages, and $2,755 in actual damages.

11 U.S.C. § 362(d) states:

(emphasis added); see also In re Schwartz, 954 F.2d 569, 573 (9th Cir. 1992) ("If a creditor obtains retroactive relief under section 362(d), there is no violation of the automatic stay, and whether violations of the stay are void or voidable is not at issue.").

The BAP, in In re Fjeldsted, noted the absence of a clear standard for annulment of the automatic stay. 293 B.R. 12, 21 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2003) ("There is less appellate clarity, however, in enunciating a test for retroactive stay relief. Inconsistent standards have thus developed, which run the gamut from such relief being justified only in 'extreme circumstances' to giving the court 'wide latitude' to 'balance the equities' on a case-by-case basis."). The BAP's most recent announcement of the standard for annulment of the automatic stay stated the following:

Determining whether cause exists to annul the stay is a case-by-case inquiry based on a balance of the equities. In conducting this inquiry the bankruptcy court, among other factors, should consider whether the creditor knew of the bankruptcy when violating the stay and whether the debtor's conduct was unreasonable, inequitable or prejudicial to the creditor.

In Fjeldsted, we approved additional factors for consideration in assessing the equities. The twelve nonexclusive factors are: (1) number of filings; (2) whether, in a repeat filing case, the circumstances indicate an intention to delay and hinder creditors; (3) a weighing of the extent of prejudice to creditors or third parties if the stay relief is not made retroactive, including whether harm exists to a bona fide purchaser; (4) the debtor's overall good faith (totality of circumstances test); (5) whether creditors knew of stay but nonetheless took action, thus compounding the problem; (6) whether the debtor has complied, and is otherwise complying, with the Bankruptcy Code and Rules; (7) the relative ease of restoring parties to the status quo ante; (8) the costs of annulment to debtors and creditors; (9) how quickly creditors moved for annulment, or how quickly debtor moved to set aside the sale or violative conduct; (10) whether, after learning of the bankruptcy, creditors proceeded to take steps in continued violation of the stay, or whether they moved expeditiously to gain relief; (11) whether annulment of the stay will cause irreparable injury to the debtor; and (12) whether stay relief will promote judicial economy or other efficiencies. The Panel in Fjeldsted cautioned that the twelve factors are merely a framework for analysis and not a scorecard, and that in any given case, one factor may so outweigh the others as to be dispositive.

In re Estavan Capital LLC, 2015 WL 7758494 at *5 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2015) (citations and quotations omitted).

While Fjeldsted cautioned that the enumerated factors are not a scorecard, it is clear that the majority of the factors, including, in particular, Debtor's lack of good faith, weigh in favor of annulling the stay. One factor that is not entirely clear is when, and by what method, Wells Fargo learned of the bankruptcy filing. According to Wells Fargo, it did not learn of the bankruptcy until eighteen days after dismissal of the bankruptcy (coincidentally, the day the case was dismissed) and Wells Fargo asserts that it learned of the bankruptcy from the third-party purchaser. On the other hand, Debtor has asserted that she faxed notice of the bankruptcy to Wells Fargo three minutes before the scheduled foreclosure sale. Finally, "Wells Fargo Home Mortgage" was listed on Debtor's creditors matrix and received various notices in the case, while the third-party purchaser was not listed and does not appear to have received any direct notice of the bankruptcy.

Putting aside the issue whether Wells Fargo learned of the bankruptcy, at most, a few minutes before the scheduled foreclosure, the remainder of the factors strongly lean towards annulment of the stay. First and foremost, Debtor's actions in receiving a fractionalized interest, recording the transfer, and faxing Wells Fargo minutes before the foreclosure sale were clearly "unreasonable, inequitable or prejudicial to the creditor." These actions indicate an intention to "hinder and delay" creditors, are indicative of bad faith, and, if allowed to stand, would cause prejudice to the bona fide purchaser. Furthermore, the instant bankruptcy case, as well as several previous bankruptcy cases affecting the property after a notice of default was first recorded (in 2009), was summarily dismissed for failure to comply with the Bankruptcy Code and Rules. Overall, this web of transfers and bankruptcy filings have helped to delay foreclosure on the subject property for nearly eight years. Weighing against these considerations is Debtor's assertion that a fax was sent to Wells Fargo alerting them of the bankruptcy three minutes before the foreclosure sale. It is not clear that this fax was directly to an appropriate department or individual, and, even if it was, it is not clear that the fax was sent early enough for any appropriate action to be taken. Moreover, the evidence presented by Debtor as to telephonic notice of the bankruptcy filing is lacking in detail and is not reliable. Therefore, after considering the Fjeldsted factors asserted above, the Court is inclined to ANNUL the automatic stay.

To the extent Movant requests further relief that is not retroactive in nature, the Court will DENY that relief, including in rem relief, because the case has already been dismissed. The Court does not have jurisdiction to entertain prospective requests for relief filed after the dismissal of the bankruptcy case.

#11.00 CONT Motion For Sanctions for Violation of the Automatic Stay By GW San Diego Properties, LLC and Wells Fargo Bank, National Association

From: 8/23/17

EH__

Docket 15

Tentative Ruling:

8/23/17

PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

On June 19, 2017, Claudia Acevedo ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On July 7, 2017, the case was dismissed for failure to file case commencement documents. On July 31, 2017, Debtor filed a motion for remedies for violation of stay by GW San Diego Properties, LLC ("GW"), and Wells Fargo Bank, National Association ("Wells Fargo"). On August 9, 2017, Wells Fargo filed its opposition.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

The motion at issue relates to the foreclosure sale of certain property located at 16462 Ridge Field Drive, Riverside, CA 92503 (the "Property"). A brief history of the property is necessary to understand the respective rights in the Property.

On June 23, 2006, Carlos Vera ("Vera") obtained the property through a loan from Wells Fargo. On October 20, 2006, Vera executed a grant deed, conveying the Property to Jose Guerrero ("Guerrero"). The deed was recorded on May 25, 2007. A notice of default was issued on January 26, 2009, and recorded on January 29, 2009. During the first half of 2010, Guerrero filed three bankruptcies, all of which were summarily dismissed, and Vera filed one, in which Wells Fargo obtained relief from stay.

On May 23, 2012, Guerrero executed a grant deed, conveying the Property to himself and Jose Jimenez ("Jimenez") as joint tenants, one day before a scheduled foreclosure sale. Jimenez had, at the time, a pending Chapter 13 bankruptcy. On August 8, 2012, Guerrero executed another grant deed, conveying his interest to HACBED, Inc. ("HACBED"). The grant deed was recorded on January 19, 2013.

On October 16, 2016, Guerrero filed another bankruptcy, which was, again, summarily dismissed. A second foreclosure sale was later scheduled for June 19, 2017. Earlier, on May 14, 2017, HACBED executed a warranty deed, transferring a 10% interest in the Property to Debtor. The warranty deed was recorded on June 29, 2017. Less than three weeks later, Debtor filed the instant bankruptcy case the same day as the foreclosure, which was summarily dismissed. The bankruptcy case was filed a matter of minutes after the recording of the deed from HACBED and a matter of minutes before the scheduled foreclosure sale. Debtor faxed a notice of the bankruptcy filing to Wells Fargo three minutes before the scheduled foreclosure sale. Debtor also states that telephonic notice was provided to Wells Fargo prior to the sale, but a specific time is not provided.

After the foreclosure sale was held, on June 27, 2017, GW filed an unlawful detainer case in state court. Debtor requests the reconveyance of the property, dismissal of the unlawful detainer action, $10,000 in punitive damages, and $2,755 in actual damages.

11 U.S.C. § 362(a)(3), (4) states

(a) Except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, a petition filed under section 301, 302, or 303 of this title, or an application filed under section 5(a)(3) of the Securities Investor Protection Act of 1970, operates as a stay, applicable to all entities, of –

(3) any act to obtain possession of property of the estate or of property from the estate or to exercise control over property of the estate

(5) any act to create, perfect, or enforce any lien against property of the estate

Debtor argues that Wells Fargo and GW violated the automatic stay through holding a post-petition foreclosure sale, and, subsequently filing an unlawful detainer action, respectively. Wells Fargo raises the following four arguments in opposition to Debtor's motion: (1) that Debtor did not have an interest in the Property; (2) there is cause for annulment of the automatic stay; (3) Wells Fargo's actions were not willful; and (4) no damages were suffered.

I. Property Interest

The basis for Wells Fargo's argument that Debtor did not have an interest in the Property is unclear. It appears to hinge on the following assertion, from page 7 of the opposition: "Vera transferred his entire interest to Guerrero, who in turn transferred his entire interest to himself and Jimenez as joint tenants. Therefore, Guerrero could not transfer the entire interest to HACBED without Jimenez also transferring his joint tenant interest." The grant deed transferring an interest in the Property to HACBED does not, however, purport to transfer the entire interest in the Property, but, instead, states that the grantor, Guerrero, is transferring the entirety of his interest. Even if Guerrero had attempted to also transfer the interest of Jimenez, that would not render the entire grant deed void, but would simply result in a finding that the attempt to transfer Jimenez's interest was void.

II. Annulment of Automatic Stay

11 U.S.C. § 362(d) permits a court to retroactively annul, modify, or condition the automatic stay. See, e.g., In re Schwartz, 954 F.2d 569, 572-73 (9th Cir. 1992). As Wells Fargo asserts, if a court retroactively annuls the automatic stay with respect to specific actions, then those actions would cease to be a violation of the automatic stay.

Wells Fargo sets forth, in detail, its argument why cause exists for annulment of the automatic stay. An opposition to a motion is not, however, the appropriate place to request that relief. Because of due process concerns, the Court will continue Debtor's motion for sanctions and equitable relief to allow Wells Fargo to file, and set for hearing, a motion to annul the stay.

III. GW

GW has not filed any opposition to the motion under consideration. Debtor contends that GW violated the automatic stay through the filing of an unlawful detainer action eight days after Debtor's commencement of the instant bankruptcy proceeding. If the filing of the unlawful detainer action is, in fact, a violation of the automatic stay, and, therefore, void, the consequence would not be a reconveyance of the Property. To obtain a reconveyance of the Property, Debtor must establish that the foreclosure sale conducted by Wells Fargo was a violation of the automatic stay. Nevertheless, the remainder of Debtor's requested remedies may be applicable if Debtor is successful in its motion with regard to GW, but unsuccessful in its motion with regard to Wells Fargo.

As noted by Wells Fargo, however, § 362(k) imposes a requirement that a violation be willful in order for an aggrieved debtor to recover damages. 11 U.S.C. § 362(k)(1). Generally, the willfulness requires the presence of two factors: (1) the party knows of the automatic stay; and (2) the actions taken in violation of the automatic were intentional. See, e.g., Eskanos & Adler, P.C. v. Leetien, 309 F.3d 1210, 1215 (9th Cir. 2002). Here, there is no evidence in the record that GW knew of the bankruptcy filing. Instead it appears that Debtor only notified Wells Fargo of the commencement of the bankruptcy. Therefore, Debtor has failed to provide evidence establishing that the requirements of § 362(k)(1) are satisfied.

Debtor also requests that GW "be ordered to dismiss the unlawful detainer case." As noted by Debtor, an act that violates the automatic stay is void. See, e.g., In re Schwartz, 954 F.2d 569, 571 (9th Cir. 2002). "This rule applies to judicial proceedings." Leetien, 309 F.3d at 1215; see also In re Gruntz, 202 F.3d 1074, 1082 (9th Cir. 2000). Therefore, GW's filing of the unlawful detainer action may be void, and the state court may have lacked jurisdiction over the unlawful detainer action. See In re Gruntz, 202 F.3d at 1083 ("[A] reverse Rooker-Feldman situation is presented when state courts decide to proceed in derogation of the stay, because it is the state court which is attempting impermissibly to modify the federal court's injunction.). If the state court lacked jurisdiction to hear the unlawful detainer, then the unlawful detainer action must be dismissed.

If Wells Fargo is successful, however, in annulling the stay, however, then the foreclosure sale of June 19, 2017, will be valid. If the foreclosure sale is valid, then it would appear that the automatic stay provisions cited by Debtor, § 363(a)(3) & (5), would not be applicable, since the Property, at the time of the filing of the unlawful detainer action, would not have been property of the debtor or property of the estate. Furthermore, § 362(a)(1) would be inapplicable, because the foreclosure sale having been held post-petition, GW's unlawful detainer action is not an action that "could have been commenced before the commencement" of the bankruptcy case. Therefore, the validity of the unlawful detainer action filed by GW depends upon Wells Fargo's success in obtaining annulment of the automatic stay.

TENTATIVE RULING

BACKGROUND

On May 11, 2016, Debtor filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. Debtor operated a medical account receivable collection service. On November 30, 2016, a Chapter 11 trustee was appointed.

On June 2, 2017, UST filed a motion to dismiss the Chapter 11 case for failure to pay quarterly fees of either $9,750 or $6,825, which were delinquent as of May 1, 2017. On June 13, 2017, the Chapter 11 trustee filed opposition to the motion to dismiss.

On May 16, 2016 ("Petition Date"), Jina Soo Choi ("Debtor") filed her petition for chapter 13 relief. On August 4, 2016, the case was converted to a case under chapter 7. On January 6, 2017, the Debtor moved the Court for an order dismissing her case. The case was dismissed on March 6, 2017.

On March 10, 2017, the Office of the United States Trustee ("UST") filed its Motion of United States Trustee For An Order Disgorging Fees, Assessing Damages, And Imposing Fines And Against Bankruptcy Petition Preparer Sandra Cooper Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 110 ("Motion"). The Motion was amended on March 29, 2017.

On April 5, 2017, Sandra Cooper ("Cooper") filed her opposition to the Motion ("Opposition"). On April 19, 2017, the UST filed its reply to the Opposition ("Reply").

DISCUSSION

The Motion asserts that Cooper violated 11 U.S.C. § 110 by failing to disclose her identity as required by statute, by executing the Debtor's signature, and by failing to furnish copies of the filed bankruptcy documents to the Debtor. Based thereon, the UST requests disgorgement of fees, statutory damages of $2,000 pursuant to § 110(i), and payment of fines to the UST in the total sum of $21,000 ($6,000 for individual violations in failing to disclose her identity as required under § 110(b)(1) and 110(c)(1), as tripled pursuant to § 110(l)(1) for a total of $18,000, in addition to $3,000 for failing to furnish copies of the bankruptcy documents to the Debtor as required under § 110(d)). (Note: the Reply indicates that the UST will not pursue an additional $3,000 in fines requested by the Motion for executing documents on behalf of the Debtor unless the Court determines that an evidentiary hearing is appropriate).

By her Opposition, Cooper disputes that she is a bankruptcy petition preparer (a "BPP"). Cooper asserts that her assistance was limited to filing the bankruptcy petition ("walking in his paperwork") on behalf of Hee Chang Choi (the Debtor's husband). (Opposition at ¶ 5). Cooper further asserts that she never met the Debtor and instead that she was asked to assist the Debtor's husband with obtaining a loan modification (Id. at ¶¶2-3). Cooper disputes the allegation that she received any money either from the Debtor or from the Debtor's husband (Id. at ¶ F) and instead repeatedly asserts that she was only assisting the Debtor's husband on the request of an unidentified third party who had been helping the Debtor's husband with a "Free and Clear" program. (Cooper Declaration).

In In re Reynoso, the Ninth Circuit provided examples of cases in which a party has been properly deemed a bankruptcy petition preparer. As the Ninth Circuit explained,

It goes without saying that the customer must provide data to the preparer, and the customer's role in printing or otherwise reproducing the forms before filing does not alter the role of the preparer. Moreover, § 110 does not require that bankruptcy petition preparers have in-person interactions with their customers. Cf. Ferm v. U.S. Trustee (In re Crowe), 243 B.R. 43, 49-50 (9th Cir. BAP 2000) (holding that the author of an instructional book on bankruptcy petitions who guaranteed buyers of the book that he would complete their forms for free if they were unable to do so themselves was, in fact, presenting himself as a bankruptcy petition preparer as defined by § 110(a)(1)), aff'd, 246 F.3d 673 (9th Cir.2000) (unpublished table decision); In re Doser, 281 B.R. 292, 303-04 (Bankr.D.Idaho 2002) (reasoning that a franchisor who receives information that was solicited in a face-to-face interaction between the franchisee and the customer and uses that information to prepare bankruptcy documents, but never meets with the customer directly, is a bankruptcy petition preparer), aff'd, 412 F.3d 1056.

In re Reynoso, 477 F.3d 1117, 1123–24 (9th Cir. 2007).

The Cooper Opposition and supporting declaration are vague as to the details of how or why Cooper was engaged to work with the Debtor's husband. Cooper repeatedly makes reference to a third party that was a point of contact between the Debtor's husband and her. However, this third party is never identified. Additionally, Cooper indicates she was only helping the alleged third party but disputes that she ever received money in connection with her assistance and disputes that she did anything other than "walk in" the petition documents to the Court. Cooper's assertions, however, are not credible. There is no indication of the nature of Cooper's relationship with the alleged third party and no detail as to why she would assist the Debtor's husband or the alleged third party agent without any compensation. The Choi Declaration provided by the UST makes reference to a third party who the Debtor asserted was a patient of the Debtor's husband. The Debtor's declaration asserts that the patient referred her husband to Cooper for the purpose of negotiating a loan modification. (Mot. at Exh. 1, Choi Decl. ¶7). Cooper correctly points out that the information regarding the third party/patient is hearsay. However, the remainder of the Choi declaration unequivocally identifies Cooper, and only Cooper, as the point of contact for all communications regarding the filing of the bankruptcy for the Debtor. (Id. at ¶¶8-19).

As to the remaining allegations of the Motion, Cooper by her Opposition has specifically denied all of the allegations of the Motion, including that she executed the petition documents for the Debtor. In an effort to controvert the allegation that she did not disclose her identity, Cooper notes that she was asked for a copy of her driver's license when filing the petition and provided it. Cooper's willingness to provide her Driver's license to the clerk when filing the petition, however, does not overcome her failure to provide specific identifying information on the petition itself as required pursuant to § 110, such as an address and social security number. Thus, assuming the Court finds that Cooper is a BPP within the meaning of the statute, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion pursuant to the reduced figure requested by the UST in its Reply.

Docket 56

Tentative Ruling:

08/30/2017

BACKGROUND

On March 6, 2017, Armando Morales and Alicia Maldonado Jimenez (collectively, the "Debtors") filed their petition for chapter 7 relief. Charles Daff is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee"). Among the assets of the Debtors' estate is their ownership interest in real property located at 9288 Martha Way, Riverside, CA 92503 (the "Property"). Prepetition, the Property was the subject of a lawsuit (the "State Court Action") commenced by Martha and Eduardo Guerrero (the "Guerreros"). The State Court Action concerns a disputed contract for the sale of the Property. The Guerreros filed for relief from the automatic stay to pursue the State Court Action where they have obtained entry of defaults against the Debtors. The Debtors opposed the Guerreros' Motion for Relief from Stay, which the Trustee joined. In his Joinder, the Trustee asserted that he had reached an agreement with the Debtors to sell the Property in exchange for a carve-out to the Estate from the Debtors' Homestead Exemption (in exchange for a waiver from the Trustee of the requirement that the Debtors reinvest homestead proceeds). The hearing on the Motion for Relief from Stay is currently set for October 24, 2017, at 11:00 a.m.

Now, the Debtors, the Guerreros, and the Trustee seek to resolve their disputes by way of settlement. On August 9, 2017, the Trustee filed his Motion to Approve Compromise under Rule 9019 (the "Motion"). Service was proper and no opposition has been filed.

Chapter 7

DISCUSSION

APPROVAL OF COMPROMISE PURSUANT TO RULE 9019

Rule 9019(a) authorizes the bankruptcy court to approve a compromise or settlement on the trustee's motion and after notice and a hearing. The bankruptcy court must consider all "factors relevant to a full and fair assessment of the wisdom of the proposed compromise." Protective Comm. for Indep. Stockholders of TMT Trailer Ferry, Inc. v. Anderson, 390 U.S. 414, 424, 88 S. Ct. 1157, 20 L. Ed. 2d 1 (1968). In other words, the bankruptcy court must find that the settlement is "fair and equitable" in order to approve it. Martin v. Kane (In re A & C Props.), 784 F.2d 1377, 1381 (9th Cir. 1986).

In conducting this inquiry, the bankruptcy court must consider the following factors:

(a) the probability of success in the litigation; (b) the difficulties, if any, to be encountered in the matter of collection; (c) the complexity of the litigation involved, and the expense, inconvenience and delay necessarily attending it; and (d) the paramount interest of the creditors and a proper deference to their reasonable views in the premises.

Id.

The bankruptcy court enjoys broad discretion in approving a compromise because it "is uniquely situated to consider the equities and reasonableness [of it]" United States v. Alaska Nat'l Bank (In re Walsh Construction, Inc.), 669 F.2d 1325, 1328 (9th Cir. 1982). As stated in A & C Props.:

The purpose of a compromise agreement is to allow the trustee and the creditors to avoid the expenses and burdens associated with litigating sharply contested and dubious claims. The law favors compromise and not litigation for its own sake, and as long as the bankruptcy court amply considered the various factors that determined the reasonableness of the compromise, the court's decision must be

Id. (citations omitted).

On the other hand, even though the bankruptcy court has wide latitude in approving compromises, its discretion is not completely unfettered. See Woodson v. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. (In re Woodson), 839 F.2d 610, 620 (9th Cir. 1988). The trustee bears the burden of proving to the bankruptcy court that the settlement is fair and equitable and should be approved. In re A&C Props., 784 F.2d at 1382.

a. Sufficiency of Evidence

The Court shall address the evidence in support of each of the A & C Props. factors.

1. The Probability of Success in the Underlying Litigation

At the hearing on the Motion for Relief from Stay on May 30, 2017, the Court and the parties discussed the Debtors' arguments that the Guerreros' purchase and sale agreement for the Property may be an executory contract capable of rejection in the bankruptcy. The Court indicated that additional facts were needed to make a determination as to whether the purchase and sale agreement met the Ninth Circuit requirements for an executory contract. The need for additional evidence and argument, and the uncertainty surrounding the arguments as to the Motion for Relief from Stay support the Trustee's request for approval of settlement of the issues between the Estate and the Guerreros. Additionally, as indicated by the Trustee, absent settlement there is a possibility of extended litigation regarding the amount of the Debtors' homestead exemption.

2. Difficulty of Collection

The Trustee indicates that the risk that the Debtors may spend the exempt funds may hamper collection efforts. The Court is not persuaded that the Trustee could not obtain a legal mechanism to prevent such expenditure such that collection would be difficult. This factor weighs against settlement.

Chapter 7

3. Complexity, Cost, Inconvenience and Delay of Litigation

Although the issues involved in the litigation do not appear overly complex, the Court acknowledges that the amounts involved and the potential net benefit to the Estate from the settlement outweighs the potential benefits of engaging in costly litigation over a relatively small amount of funds for the Estate. This factor weighs heavily in favor of settlement.

4. Interest of Creditors

The proposed settlement is estimated by the Trustee to yield approximately $35,000 in funds available for the Estate. The Property represents the only asset of the Estate likely to yield any distribution in this case. Given the anticipated costs of continued litigation, the Trustee's agreement with the Debtors for 50% of the net proceeds from the sale of the Property is reasonable and in the best interests of creditors.

5. Sale of the Property

The trustee, after notice and a hearing, may sell property of the estate. 11 U.S.C. § 363(b)(1); see also Commodity Futures Trading Comm'n v. Weintraub, 471 U.S. 343, 352 (1985). The sale must be in the best interests of the estate and the price must be fair and reasonable. In re Canyon Partnership, 55 B.R. 520 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1985); see also In re Wilde Horse Enterprises, Inc., 136 B.R. 830, 841 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1991)(sale must have fair/reasonable price, accurate/reasonable notice to creditors and sale made in good faith). The trustee must articulate some "business justification" for selling estate property out of the "ordinary course of business" before the court may approve the transaction. In re Lionel Corp., 722 F.2d 1063, 1071 (2d Cir. 1983); In re Ernst Home Ctr., Inc., 209 B.R. 974, 979 (Bankr. W.D. Wash. 1997).

The Trustee's proposed justification for the sale of the Property is that the Property and net proceeds from a sale represents likely the only source of funds for distribution to creditors. Based on the Trustee's representations, a sale of the Property

a) Bidding Procedures

Generally, bidding procedures must be untainted by self-dealing, encourage bidding and be fair/reasonable/serve the best interests of the estate. See In re Crown Corp., 679 F.2d 774 (9th Cir. 1982).

Here, as part of his compromise motion with the Guerreros, the Trustee contemplates a sale not subject to overbidding. Given that the Court has found the resolution of the legal issues between the Guerreros and the Estate is warranted under Rule 9019, the Court finds that the sale to the Guerreros, not subject to overbidding, is in the best interests of the estate under the specific circumstances of this case.

b) Sale Made in Good Faith

The proposed sale has been brought in good faith and has been negotiated on an "arms- length" basis. The court, in Wilde Horse Enterprises, set forth the factors in considering whether a transaction is in good faith. The court stated:

‘Good faith’ encompasses fair value, and further speaks to the integrity of the transaction. Typical ‘bad faith’ or misconduct, would include collusion between the seller and buyer, or any attempt to take unfair advantage of other potential purchasers. . . . And, with respect to making such determinations, the court and creditors must be provided with sufficient information to allow them to take a position on the proposed sale.

Id. at 842 (citations omitted).

The Court finds that the sale encompasses fair value based on the added risk of litigation which is likely to diminish the value of net proceeds absent a sale to the

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Trustee has demonstrated that the settlement is fair and equitable and the Motion is GRANTED and the settlement is APPROVED as follows:

- (1) Approving the Agreement attached as Exhibit 1 to the Motion;
- (2) Authorizing sale of the Property to the Guerreros pursuant to the terms and conditions of the Agreement;
- (3) Authorizing the Trustee to execute any and all necessary documents to carry out the provisions contemplated in the Agreement as set forth in ¶4 of the prayer for relief; and

Docket 17

Tentative Ruling:

08/30/2017

BACKGROUND

On June 29, 2017, Denise Valeski ("Debtor") filed her petition for chapter 7 relief. On June 30, 2017, the Debtor was issued a Notice of Dismissal if Required Documents are Not Filed (Docket No. 5) for failure to provide a master mailing list of creditors. The Debtor was given 72 hours to cure the deficiency. On July 5, 2017, the Debtor's case was dismissed for failure to file the require document.

On July 21, 2017, the Debtor filed a Motion to Reconsider the Dismissal ("Motion"). The Motion is unopposed.

DISCUSSION

FRBP 9024 (incorporating FRCP 60), permits the filing of a motion for reconsideration.

In support of the Motion, the Debtor has provided a declaration of Gordon Dayton, the Debtor's counsel, acknowledging the failure to file the Creditor Matrix and indicating that the failure to cure the deficiency prior to the dismissal was owing to the issuance of the Notice on Friday, June 30, 2017, preceding the July 4th holiday.

Here, the Court finds that the failure to file the Creditor Matrix is excusable under the circumstances.

#14.00 Motion to Dismiss Third Amended Complaint

EH__

Docket 61

Tentative Ruling:

08/30/2017

BACKGROUND

On July 29, 2016, Revere Financial Corporation ("RFC" or "Revere"), acting as Liquidating Trustee for the bankruptcy estate of Douglas J. Roger ("Debtor"), filed a complaint for avoidance and recovery of certain transfers made to Bank of Southern California, N.A. ("Defendant" or "BSC"), prepetition. On September 7, 2016, in response to a Motion to Dismiss filed by Defendant, RFC indicated its intent to exercise its right under FRCP 15 to file an amended complaint rather than file opposition to the Defendant's motion.

On September 21, 2016, RFC filed its First Amended Complaint (the "FAC"), alleging the following claims as to Defendant: (1) Intentional Fraudulent Transfer (Count One – Receiver Order); (2) Intentional Fraudulent Transfer (Count Two – Statutory); (3) Preferential Transfer; (4) Unjust Enrichment; and (5) Money Had and Received. At issue is a single August 28, 2013, transfer from OIC Medical Corporation ("OIC") to Defendant of $408,947 (the "Transfer"). On December 13, 2016, the Court dismissed the FAC with leave to amend. On February 1, 2017, RFC filed its Second Amended Complaint (the "SAC"). On April 7, 2017, the Court granted BSC's Motion to Dismiss the SAC as to all causes of action, with leave to amend as to the First, Second, and Third Causes of Action, and without leave to amend as to the Fourth and Fifth Causes of Action. On July 5, 2017, Revere filed its Third Amended Complaint (the "TAC"). The TAC is again based on the premise that OIC - the Debtor's wholly-owned and controlled medical corporation, held the Transfer solely for the Debtor's benefit or was a mere conduit for the Debtor's attempt to shield the Transfer from the receivership order entered in state court as to Dr. Roger's assets.

On August 4, 2017, BSC filed its Motion to Dismiss the TAC ("Motion"). RFC filed opposition on August 16, 2017 ("Opposition") and a reply to the opposition was filed by BSC on August 23, 2017 ("Reply").

DISCUSSION

Civil Rule 12(b)(6) standards

Under Civil Rule 12(b)(6), made applicable in adversary proceedings through Rule 7012, a bankruptcy court may dismiss a complaint if it fails to "state a claim upon which relief can be granted." In reviewing a Civil Rule 12(b)(6) motion, the trial court must accept as true all facts alleged in the complaint and draw all reasonable inferences in favor of the plaintiff. Navarro v. Block, 250 F.3d 729, 732 (9th Cir. 2001). However, the trial court need not accept as true conclusory allegations in a complaint or legal characterizations cast in the form of factual allegations. Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555–56, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 167 L.Ed.2d 929 (2007); Hartman v. Gilead Scis., Inc. (In re Gilead Scis. Sec. Litig.), 536 F.3d 1049, 1055 (9th Cir. 2008).

To avoid dismissal under Civil Rule 12(b)(6), a plaintiff must aver in the complaint "sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to 'state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.'" Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678, 129 S.Ct. 1937, 173 L.Ed.2d 868 (2009) (quoting Twombly, 550 U.S. at 570, 127 S.Ct. 1955). It is axiomatic that a claim cannot be plausible when it has no legal basis. A dismissal under Civil Rule 12(b)(6) may be based either on the lack of a cognizable legal theory or on the absence of sufficient facts alleged under a cognizable legal theory. Johnson v. Riverside Healthcare Sys., 534 F.3d 1116, 1121 (9th Cir.2008).

Transfer of an Interest in the Debtor's Property and Liability

The Court, in its tentative rulings on BSC's prior Motions to Dismiss, found that RFC could not prevail on its First through Fifth Claims for Relief because it had not alleged sufficient facts to set forth plausible claims where the funds at issue in the Transfer were transferred to BSC by OIC, not by the Debtor. In its prior analysis, the Court agreed with BSC that because OIC is a distinct legal entity from the Debtor, absent facts indicating that OIC did not have legal dominion over the funds at issue, RFC could not prevail in its claims. Exhibit 1 to the Motion is a redline version of the TAC which sets forth the allegations added to the SAC by RFC in an attempt to address the Court's concerns.

The Ninth Circuit has adopted the more restrictive dominion test and not the "more lenient" control test regarding the theory of whether an entity is a "mere conduit":

Under the control test, an examining court must evaluate a transaction in its entirety and make a "logical and equitable" determination as to whether "the banks actually controlled the funds or merely served as conduits, holding money that was in fact controlled by either the transferor or the real transferee." Therefore, while similar, "[t]he dominion test focuses on whether the recipient of funds has legal title to them and the ability to use them as he sees fit. The control test takes a more gestalt view of the entire transaction to determine who, in reality, controlled the funds in question."

Id. Here, the Court agrees that many of RFC's additions to the TAC are conclusory and are thus not helpful. However, RFC has made some specific allegations, which if true, may support a theory that OIC did not have "dominion" over the funds deposited by Roger/Ebarb because it would not have had the ability to use the funds in any way it wanted. Specifically, the TAC now includes allegations that:

1. Roger instructed OIC that OIC could not use the money that comprised the Roger Conduit Transfers for any corporate purpose, but only for Roger's personal purposes as and when Roger would instruct OIC (TAC at ¶28.r);
2. Roger instructed OIC that OIC could not use the money that comprised the OIC/BSC Transfer for any corporate purpose, but only for Roger's personal purposes as [sic] and when Roger would instruct OIC (Id. at ¶28.t); and
3. Roger instructed OIC, as Roger's agent/depository, to use the money that comprised the OIC/BSC Transfer, which came from the Roger Conduit Transfers to pay Roger's alleged personal debt to BSC.

Although the Court questions whether RFC has information to support these allegations, the Court recognizes that the credibility of RFC's amendments is not at issue on a motion to dismiss. Instead, based on the allegations added in the TAC, it appears at least plausible that OIC could not exercise dominion over the funds at issue because it had received specific instructions on how to and how not to dispose of the funds.

However, even assuming the Court finds that the TAC alleges facts to support the "mere conduit" theory, Martinez v. Hutton (In re Harwell), 628 F.3d 1312, 1323 (11th Cir. 2010) cited by BSC, undercuts the legal theory that OIC is a "mere conduit" and not a transferee under § 550. Specifically, Harwell describes the "mere conduit" theory as an exception to the statutory language of § 550 and indicates that "the conduit rule presumes that the facilitator of funds acts without bad faith, and is simply an innocent participant to the underlying fraud." Id. The Harwell Court goes on to hold that a party with "intimate and thorough knowledge of the transactions and their desired effect" cannot be classified as a mere conduit. Id.

On this point, the allegations of the TAC actually contradict the claim that OIC is a mere conduit because in Section E, ¶28 of the TAC, RFC asserts that:

- OIC was 100% controlled by Roger;
- OIC had no corporate officers other than Roger;
- OIC had no employees other than Roger;
- Roger personally made all decisions regarding OIC's receiving and holding the Roger Conduit Transfers as agent and depository for Roger, and solely for Roger's benefit, not OIC's.

These facts indicate that OIC could not have been an innocent participant to the underlying fraud and that instead based on the allegations of the TAC it is not plausible that OIC was a mere conduit, because it had intimate and thorough knowledge of the transactions and their desired effect. (TAC, Section E, ¶28).

The Opposition fails to address or distinguish the Harwell case, or any of the other cases cited by BSC in its Motion/Reply regarding the requirement that OIC act in good faith to qualify as a "mere conduit". Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion because RFC has again failed to set forth a plausible claim that property of the Debtor was transferred to BSC where the Transfer was made by the distinct legal entity, OIC.

Chapter 7

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion and DISMISS the TAC in its entirety. Additionally, RFC has amended the complaint three times since the filing of the initial complaint by the Trustee on July 29, 2016.

RFC has now had numerous opportunities to advance a plausible legal theory on which to pursue the Transfer made to BSC and has failed to cure the issues which have been repeatedly addressed by this Court. The Court finds that amendment would be futile at this juncture and that further amendments would inequitably prejudice BSC, and as such, the Court is inclined to dismiss without leave to amend.

Docket 15

Tentative Ruling:

08/30/2017

BACKGROUND

On January 12, 2017 ("Petition Date"), Ever Ramirez Barreto ("Debtor") filed his petition for chapter 7 relief. Howard Grobstein is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee"). Among the assets of the Debtor's bankruptcy estate is certain real property located at 5592 Ivanhoe Avenue in Riverside, CA (the "Property"). On April 6, 2017, the Trustee filed his Complaint for avoidance of transfer of the Property against Magdalena and Iban Barreto (collectively, "Defendants") pursuant to § 548(a)(1)(A) for actual fraud, and pursuant to § 548(a)(1)(B) as constructive fraud, for recovery of the same pursuant to § 550, and for turnover of the Property pursuant to § 542(a) (the "Complaint"). The Court's Docket reflects that the summons and Complaint were executed on April 7, 2017. Service appears proper. An answer by the Defendants was due on or before May 8, 2017. No answer was filed. The Clerk entered default against both Defendants on May 15, 2017.

On August 8, 2017, the Trustee filed his Motion for Default Judgment ("Motion") and Request for Judicial Notice. The Motion is unopposed.

DISCUSSION

A. Entry of Default

Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 55 states that "[w]hen a party against whom a judgment for affirmative relief is sought has failed to plead or otherwise defend as provided by these rules and that fact is made to appear by affidavit or otherwise, the clerk shall enter the party's default." Fed. R. Civ. P. 55(a). Per LBR 7055-1(b)(1), a motion for entry of default judgment shall contain the following:

1. When and against what party default was entered

By her Motion, Plaintiff has also requested entry of default against the Debtor.

2. Whether defaulting party is an infant or incompetent person – ✓ (N/A)
3. Whether the defaulting party is currently on active duty – ✓ (N/A)
4. Whether notice has been served on defaulting party, if required by FRCP 55(b)(2) ✓

B. Admissions

Pursuant to FRBP 7008(b)(6), failure to deny an allegation of the Complaint where a responsive pleading is required constitutes an admission of the allegation.

C. Default Judgment

Factors which may be considered by courts in exercising discretion as to the entry of a default judgment include: (1) the possibility of prejudice to the plaintiff; (2) the merits of plaintiff's substantive claim; (3) the sufficiency of the complaint; (4) the sum of money at stake in the action; (5) the possibility of a dispute considering material facts; (6) whether the default was due to excusable neglect; and (7) the strong policy underlying the FRCP favoring decision on the merits. See Eitel v. McCool, 782 F.2d 1470, 1471-72 (9th Cir. 1986).

1. Proper Service of Summons and Complaint

The Motion and Summons and Complaint were served on the Defendants at the address of the Property which was transferred to them via Grant Deed by the Debtor on November 10, 2016.

Chapter 7

2. Whether the Default was due to Excusable Neglect

Here, no opposition to the Motion has been filed and as such, there is no evidence before the Court to suggest that Default has been entered due to excusable neglect.

3. Sufficiency of the Complaint & Merits of Plaintiff's claim

Upon default, the factual allegations of the complaint, except those relating to the amount of damages, will be taken as true. TeleVideo Systems, Inc. v. Heidenthal, 826 F.2d 915, 917 (9th Cir. 1987); "The defendant, by his default, admits the plaintiff's well-pleaded allegations of facts, is concluded on those facts by the judgment, and is barred from contesting on appeal the facts thus established." Nishimatsu Construction Co., Ltd. v. Houston Nat'l Bank, 515 F.2d 1200, 1206 (5th Cir. 1975) (emphasis added); Danning v. Lavine, 572 F.2d 1386, 1388 (9th Cir. 1978); Cotton v. Massachusetts Mut. Life Ins. Co., 402 F.3d 1267, 1278(11th Cir. 2005) (do not have to take as true facts that are not well-pleaded or conclusions of law).

Here, the facts of the Complaint support the entry of default judgment against the Defendants under either a § 548(a)(1)(B) or 548(a)(1)(A) theory. As set forth more fully in the Motion, the Defendants are close relations of the Debtor, the Debtor transferred the entirety of her interest in the Property to the Defendants a short three months prior to the Petition Date, the transfer of the Property was made as a gift for no consideration, and the timing and form of the transfer indicate an intent to divert assets away from the Debtor's creditors. Based on the facts asserted by the Trustee, the documents filed in support of the Motion, and the failure of the Defendants to file any opposition or response, the Court finds that the Trustee has met his burden in establishing that the Complaint and the merits of the claims warrant the entry of default judgment against the Defendants.

4. The possibility of a dispute considering material facts

The documents provided by the Trustee unequivocally support the inference that the Debtor transferred her interest in the Property, prepetition, in an effort to delay, hinder or defraud her creditors by denying her bankruptcy estate access to the only asset of value to potentially provide for a distribution to creditors.

5. The strong policy underlying the FRCP favoring decision on the merits

Although default judgments are ordinarily disfavored, termination of a case before hearing the merits is allowed when a defendant fails to defend an action under Fed. R. Civ. P. 55. Here, there has been no defense advanced by the Defendants to this action and the record before this Court strongly favors the entry of default judgment to prevent an injustice worked upon the Debtor's creditors by the Debtor's actions in attempting to divert valuable assets from the bankruptcy estate.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the Memorandum of Points and Authorities submitted by the Trustee, the evidence filed in support of the Motion, and the analysis set forth above, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion in its entirety. The Trustee is to lodge an order granting the Motion, and separately, a proposed judgment in his favor.

#4.00 Application for Compensation Motion for Order Allowing and Authorizing Payment of Attorneys' Fees and Expenses to Shulman Hodges & Bastian LLP as an Administrative Expense

EH__

Docket 73

Tentative Ruling:

8/31/17

BACKGROUND

On August 30, 2016, Efren Estrada ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On December 12, 2016, Estrada received a discharge.

On December 21, 2016, the Court granted Trustee's application to employ Shulman Hodges & Bastian ("SHB") as general counsel.

On June 13, 2017, the Court granted Debtor's motion to vacate discharge, and, on July 11, 2017, the case was converted to Chapter 13.

On August 10, 2017, SHB filed its motion for order allowing and authorizing payment of attorney's fees and expenses to SHB as an administrative expense pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 503(b)(1). SHB requests $24,339 in fees and $1,141.31 in expenses.

Chapter 13

DISCUSSION

SHB's motion appears to indicate that it is requesting treatment as an administrative claim pursuant to § 503(b)(1)(A), although its legal argument is vague and somewhat unclear. SHB asserts that its services preserved assets for the benefit of creditors, were a substantial contribution, and that its requested fees are reasonable. SHB's arguments appear to meld a variety of different legal standards without clearly delineating what legal standard it believes to be appropriate.

SHB's reference to and reliance on § 503(b)(1)(A) appears misplaced. The standard for an administrative claim under § 503(b)(1)(A) is that the claim "(1) arose from a transaction with the debtor-in-possession as opposed to the preceding entity (or alternatively, that the claim gave consideration to the debtor-in-possession); and (2) directly and substantially benefitted the estate."

In re DAK Indus., Inc., 66 F.3d 1091, 1094 (9th Cir. 1995) (quoting In re White Motor Corp., 831 F.2d 106, 110 (6th Cir. 1987)). "The purpose of administrative priority status is to encourage third parties to contract with the bankruptcy estate for the benefit of the estate as a whole." In re Ybarra, 424 F.3d 1018, 1026 (9th Cir. 2005). In re Weibel, Inc. stated:

If compensation cannot be awarded under Section 503(b)(2), then the question is whether it can be awarded under Section 503(b)(1). McCutchen argues that it can. However, such an interpretation of Section 503 renders Section 503(b)(2), as well as Section 327, nugatory. Indeed, the language behind both Sections is remarkably similar. Section 503(b)(2) essentially incorporates the language of Section 330, that reasonable compensation can be allowed for actual, necessary services rendered by the attorney based on the nature, extent and value of such services. Section 503(b)(1) provides for payment, as administrative claim, of the actual necessary costs and expenses of preserving the estate, including wages, salaries, or commissions for services rendered after the commencement of the case.

For an attorney, the test for receiving compensation would appear nearly identical under both Sections. It is reasonable then, to construe Section 503(b)(2), with its specific reference to compensation to professionals under Section 330, as the only part of Section 503(b) under which such professional can receive compensation.

176 B.R. 209, 213 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1994). See also In re Marshall, 2015 WL 5735220 at *3 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2015) (attorney's fees inappropriate under § 503(b)(1)(A)); 4 Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 503.06[2] (16th ed. 2015) (providing examples of services that are within the scope of § 503(b)(1)(A). Therefore, SHB is not entitled to an administrative award pursuant to § 503(b)(1)(A). And the Ninth Circuit has explicitly stated that until a fee award is made under § 330, an applicant is not entitled to an administrative claim pursuant to § 503(b)(2). See In re Riverside-Linden Inv. Co., 945 F.2d 320, 324 (9th Cir. 1991).

Here, Movant moves under § 503(b)(1), when it first needs to seek approval of compensation under § 330, and then seek an administrative expense under § 503(b)(2). Parties to discuss deeming Movant's request as being made pursuant to § 330.

TENTATIVE RULING

Subject to discussion, the Court is inclined to DENY the motion without prejudice.

Docket 41

Tentative Ruling:

8/31/17

BACKGROUND

On September 9, 2016, Marc Meisenheimer ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On October 26, 2016, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On June 28, 2017, Trustee filed a motion to dismiss for delinquency. On July 12, 2017, Debtor filed his opposition. No appearance was made on behalf of Debtor at the hearing on July 27, 2017, and the case was dismissed.

On August 10, 2017, Debtor filed a motion to vacate and set aside order dismissing Debtor's Chapter 13 case and reinstate the Debtor's Chapter 13 bankruptcy case nunc pro tunc. On August 15, 2017, Trustee filed a conditional approval, on the condition that Debtor tender $804 by the hearing and submit copies of his 2016 tax returns. Additionally, Trustee disagrees with nunc pro tunc relief.

Debtor asserts that no appearance was made at the hearing on July 27, 2017, because Debtor had cured the delinquency by the hearing and thought that the matter was resolved. The Court finds that the conditions outlined in Trustee's condition approval of Debtor's motion to be reasonable, and, therefore, will vacate the dismissal order pursuant to Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9024, on the grounds of excusable neglect, assuming that Debtor has complied with the applicable provisions.

Regarding Debtor's request that the vacation of the dismissal order be nunc pro tunc, however, the Court agrees with the Trustee that such relief is not appropriate. Debtor's motion does not contain legal authorities that directly support the proposition that the reinstatement of a case can, or should, be ordered nunc pro tunc. It is also not clear why Debtor has made such a request, although Trustee appears to assume that Debtor wishes to have the automatic stay retroactively imposed.

The general rule is "that the reinstatement of a dismissed bankruptcy case does not retroactively reimpose the automatic stay." In re Lomagno, 320 B.R. 473, 479 (B.A.P. 1st Cir. 2005) (collecting cases); see also In re Nagel, 245 B.R. 657, 662 (D. Ariz. 1999) ("By 'undoing' the return to the status quo ante through the retroactive application of the stay, the bankruptcy court engaged in a kind of judicial time travel that cannot be reconciled with the law.")

As discussed in In re Lomagno, courts have recognized an exception when there is a violation of due process rights. See generally 320 B.R. at 480 ("Several courts have concluded that reinstatement of a dismissed bankruptcy case does not affect the validity of a creditor's actions taken during the period the case was dismissed, unless there was a violation of due process rights.") (emphasis in original). Here, there is no indication that the situation fits within the exception to the general rule.

Docket 57

BACKGROUND

On March 6, 2015, Leslie Larson ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On May 11, 2015, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On July 10, 2017, Trustee filed a motion to dismiss for failure to submit tax returns/refunds. That same day, Debtor filed her opposition, indicating that Debtor had mailed her tax returns to Trustee.

On July 24, 2017, a hearing was held on Trustee's motion to dismiss. No appearance was made on behalf of Debtor and the case was dismissed. Debtor's counsel indicates that he had two clients with the last name "Larson" with hearings on motions to dismiss for failure to submit tax returns/refunds. Debtor's counsel additionally asserts that when the hearing for his other client was called, and Trustee withdrew the motion, he erroneously believed that the motion to dismiss for Debtor had been withdrawn.

On July 27, 2017, Debtor filed a motion to vacate dismissal. On July 31, 2017, Trustee filed comments indicating conditional approval, on the condition that Debtor make payment to become current with plan payments ($2,169).

DISCUSSION

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9024, incorporating Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 60(b)(1), provides for relief from an order for, among other things, "mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect." Debtor's counsel states that it is his recollection that Trustee stated he would withdraw the motion to dismiss on the date of the hearing.

Given the conditional approval of the Trustee and the evidence submitted by Debtor, the Court finds that the requested relief is proper assuming that the condition has been satisfied.

#9.00 CONT Motion to Vacate Conversion of Case From Chapter 13 to Chapter 7

From: 8/3/17

EH__

Docket 42

Tentative Ruling:

8/3/17

BACKGROUND

On November 9, 2016, Fonda Cormier ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On December 28, 2016, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed, and was modified twice subsequently.

On June 30, 2017, Debtor filed a notice of conversion to Chapter 7, and the case was converted approximately two hours and fifteen minutes later. Approximately one hour and thirty minutes later, Debtor filed a motion to vacate the conversion order. The motion was filed on negative notice. On July 20, 2017, the Court set the matter for hearing.

Debtor's argument is, essentially, that Debtor changed its mind and no longer wants to be in Chapter 7. Specifically, Debtor states that after it filed the notice of conversion it had discussions with Trinity Financial, a lienholder on Debtor's principal residence, and learned that Trinity Financial would likely file a motion for relief from stay if the case were converted to Chapter 7.

Chapter 7

DISCUSSION

As a preliminary matter, the proof of service included in Debtor's motion is not signed, and Debtor has not served all parties in interest pursuant to Local Rule 1017.

Additionally, Debtor's motion contains no legal standard or analysis. Relief from a judgment or order is governed by Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 60, incorporated into bankruptcy proceedings by Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9024. Debtor has not provided any argument relating to that standard.

Furthermore, the declaration of Debtor's attorney appears to misrepresent the factual situation. First, the reasons for Debtor converting to Chapter 7 are not given. The primary argument presented by Debtor in support of this motion is that counsel learned, after filing a notice of conversion and having further discussions with Trinity Financial, that Trinity Financial would likely file a motion for relief from stay if the case was converted to Chapter 7. Trinity Financial had, however, in fact filed a motion for relief from stay on May 9, 2017, and an order approving the stipulation of the parties was entered on June 27, 2017. Section 10 of that order states: "This order is binding and effective despite any conversion of this bankruptcy case to a case under any other chapter of the Bankruptcy Code." The parties chose not to include language that would provide for relief from stay upon conversion of the case. Therefore, it is unclear how the conversion of the case could have any effect on the automatic stay as it relates to Trinity Financial.

As an aside, the Court notes that Debtor is ineligible for a Chapter 7 discharge under § 727(a)(8) by virtue of a Chapter 7 discharge on September 25, 2009.

Background:

On January 27, 2017, Xiomara Swiatkowski filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On March 15, 2017, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On March 8, 2017, Peter Swiatkowski filed a claim in the amount of $118,291, of which $61,741 was classified as secured ("Claim 2"). On July 24, 2017, Debtor filed an objection to Claim 2. The Court notes that the claim objection contains no proof of service.

Analysis:

First of all, Debtor's claim of objection does not appear to have been properly served. Additionally, Debtor's claim objections contains no legal argument, but instead simply states that it is based on various exhibits, exhibits which are not properly authenticated. Therefore, Debtor has failed to submit the required evidence, pursuant to Local Rule 3007, in order for the Court to find that Debtor has satisfied its burden of proof under the legal standards recited above.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

Analysis:

Debtors argue that the statute of limitations is four years for Creditor's claim and that Creditor's claim is therefore barred. Cal. Code Civ. P. § 337(2) provides for a statute of limitations of four years for:

Cal. Code Civ. P. § 337(1) provides that the statute of limitations is also four years for claims based upon a contract.

American Express's response is that the Cash Rebate Cardmember Agreement includes a choice of law provision that identifies Utah as the governing law. American Express further asserts that the statute of limitations for its claim is six years under Utah law, and that, therefore, its claim is not barred. The Cash Rebate Cardmember Agreement states, under the section applicable law:

This Agreement and your Account, and all questions about their legality, enforceability and interpretation, are governed by the laws of the State of Utah (without regard to internal principles of conflicts of law), and by applicable federal law. We are located in Utah, hold your Account in Utah, and entered into this Agreement with you in Utah.

As is noted by American Express, the Ninth Circuit, relying on the Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 142, previously stated:

Chapter 13

The application of § 142 compels the conclusion that California's shorter statute of limitations does not apply here, because the case presents the sort of "exceptional circumstances" under which the 1988 version of the Second Restatement looks past the law of the forum, and applies a longer foreign limitations period. The Restatement, to be sure, does not provide an exhaustive or technical definition of an exceptional circumstance. Nevertheless, the comment to the 1988 version of § 142 makes clear that the present case comes within that category. Indeed, this case is on all fours with the Restatement's only example of what would constitute such a "special," "unjust" circumstance: "[W]hen through no fault of the plaintiff an alternative forum is not available as, for example, where jurisdiction could not be obtained over the defendant in any [other] state . . ."

In re Sterba, 852 F.3d 1175, 1180 (9th Cir. 2017). In the absence of any argument to the contrary, the Court finds that Utah law provides the applicable statute of limitations.

While American Express argues that the statute of limitations in Utah for credit card debt is six years, Utah's statutes are unclear. The Court of Appeals of Utah has recently stated:

As both parties agree, the question of which limitations period applies to actions on credit card accounts is an issue of first impression in Utah. Stocks argues that the four-year period applicable to "open store account[s] for [the purchase of] any good, wares, or merchandise" and to "open account[s] for work, labor or services rendered, or materials furnished," see Utah Code Ann. § 78B-2-307, is the correct one; Asset Acceptance contends that it should be the six-year period applicable to "any contract, obligation, or liability founded upon an instrument in writing," see id. § 78B-2-309. In other jurisdictions where a similar issue has been addressed, the results have been mixed and often involve statutory language that differs from our own in ways that may or may not be significant. And the question presented here is an important one that deserves attention, whether judicial or legislative, given the universality of credit cards in our society and the number of collection cases involving credit card debt that make their way into our courts. But precisely because the issue is important and may have widespread impact, we decline to attempt to resolve an issue of first impression in a case with the sort of procedural deficits this one contains.

Asset Acceptance LLC v. Stocks, 376 P.3d 322, 327 (Ct. App. Utah 2016) (footnotes omitted). Utah Code Ann. § 78B-2-307(1) states:

An action may be brought within four years:

(1) after the last charge is made or the last payment is received:

(a) upon a contract, obligation, or liability not founded upon an instrument in writing

(b) on an open store account for any goods, wares, or merchandise; or

(c) on an open account of work, labor or services rendered, or materials furnished.

And Utah Code. Ann. § 78B-2-309(2) states:

An action may be brought within six years:

(2) upon any contract, obligation, or liability founded upon an instrument in writing, except those mentioning in Section 78B-2-

Chapter 13

In equivocating upon the statute of limitations, the Court of Appeals of Utah left a footnote identifying several states that had addressed the situation. Stocks, 376 P.3d 322, 327 n.3. The split identified by the Court of Appeals of Utah appears to center on whether the reviewing court believed that a credit card agreement should be interpreted as a written contract or an oral contract; i.e. whether a credit card agreement was sufficient to satisfy the formalities of contract formation. Compare, e.g., Portfolio Acquisitions LLC v. Feltman, 391 Ill. App. 3d. 642, 651-52 (App. Ct. Ill. 2009) ("Accordingly, the contract at issue is considered to be an oral contract for purpose of the statute of limitations and the five-year period of section 13-205 applies.") with Hill v. Am. Express, 289 Ga. App. 576, 577-78 (Ct. App. Ga. 2008) (credit card agreement is written contract).

Despite not alerting the Court to the unsettled nature of the question in Utah, American Express appears to have anticipated this analysis, including in its opposition a brief argument that Utah law recognizes a credit card agreement as a written contract. See In re Cluff, 313 B.R. 323, 334 (Bankr. D. Utah. 2004) ("Under the test this Court has articulated, these credit card debts are based on writing."). This argument is unconvincing, primarily because In re Cluff was not interpreting Utah law, but, rather, the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure.¹ Id.

The Court notes, however, that Utah Code Ann. § 25-5-4(2)(e) states:

(e) A credit agreement is binding and enforceable without any signature by the party to be charged if:

(i) the debtor is provided with a written copy of the terms of the agreement;

(ii) the agreement provides that any use of the credit offered shall constitute acceptance of those terms;

(iii) after the debtor receives the agreement, the debtor, or a person authorized by the debtor, requests funds pursuant to the credit agreement or otherwise uses the credit offered.

Here, the agreement clearly satisfied the second requirement. The Court lacks an evidentiary record to determine whether the debtor was provided with a written copy of the agreement and requested funds after receiving the agreement. If the requirements of Utah Code Ann. § 25-5-4(2)(e) were satisfied, the Court concludes that a Utah court would find the credit agreement enforceable, per the statute. See MBNA Am. Bank, N.A. v. Goodman, 140 P.3d 589, 592 (Ct. App. Utah 2006). If the credit agreement is enforceable, then the claim of American Express would appear to be founded upon an instrument in writing, and the six year statute of limitations would apply.

Exhibit A provided by American Express, however, indicates that on April 18, 2011, there was a $15 agency remittance, which is referred to by American Express as a "payment." It is unclear if this is in fact a payment. If it is not a payment, to adopt American Express's argument that this "agency remittance" tolls the statute of limitations would allow a creditor the means to unilaterally toll the statute of limitations indefinitely.

Furthermore, the Court notes that Exhibit A to American Express's opposition is not the same form as is included in the proof of claim. Claim 10 shows activity for 2012, indicates that the last transaction was in June 2008, that the account was charged off in January 2009, and that the last payment was made in April 2011.

8/31/17

BACKGROUND

On February 13, 2017, Ryan & Theresa Murphy ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On April 6, 2017, Debtors' Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On March 21, 2017, the IRS filed a priority claim in the amount of $4,663 ("Claim 3"). On May 16, 2017, Debtors filed an objection to Claim 3. On June 22, 2017, approximately one hour before the hearing, and after the Court had published a tentative ruling indicating that it was inclined to overrule the objection for lack of evidence, Debtors withdrew the objection.

On June 28, 2017, Debtors' counsel, Jenny Doling ("Counsel"), filed an application for compensation, requesting $950 for the preparation of the claim objection. The next day, Trustee filed comments objecting to the requested compensation, and asserting that the services rendered were of no benefit to the estate. On July 31, 2017, Doling filed a reply and set the matter for hearing. Doling's reply states that "the work was still completed at the request and representation of the Debtors and Counsel should be compensated for such work." In the alternative, Doling requests the Court to enter an order, granting the fees to be paid outside the plan.

Chapter 13

DISCUSSION

The language of 11 U.S.C. § 329(b) instructs the court to reduce requested compensation if such compensation exceeds the reasonable value of the provided services. See also Hale v. U.S. Trustee, 509 F.3d 1139, 1147 (9th Cir. 2007) ("Under § 329(b), a bankruptcy court may examine the reasonableness of a debtor's attorney fees and, '[i]f such compensation exceeds the reasonable value of any such services, the court may cancel agreement, or order the return of any such payment, to the extent excessive.") "In making the 'reasonable value' determination, the bankruptcy court is to be guided by section 330 of the Bankruptcy Code, which sets forth a number of factors that Congress deemed relevant to an assessment of the value of professional services." Matter of Geraci, 138 F.3d 314, 318 (7th Cir. 1998).

Here, the Court agrees with Trustee that the services provided by Counsel did not have ANY benefit to the estate. The claim objection, as outlined by the Court previously, did not contain evidence suggesting that the IRS's claim was inaccurate. Further, there is no evidence as to the basis for the withdrawal of the claim objection; i.e., that Debtor called Counsel the day of the hearing and stated the tax returns now needed to be amended. As such, the claim objection did not satisfy the evidentiary standard of Local Rule 3007. It is not that the filing of an objection to Claim 3 could not have had any benefit to the estate – rather the claim objection that was filed was inadequate on its face.

Counsel's request that the Court enter an order granting the fees, but instructing that the fees be paid outside the plan, lacks legal foundation. Whether the fees are to be paid directly by Debtor or through the plan does not affect the legal standard applied by the Court. Instead, Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 2017(b) suggests that the two situations are to be analyzed the same. Therefore, the Court declines to grant this alternative request.

Debtors argue that the statute of limitations is four years for Creditor's claim and that Creditor's claim is therefore barred. Cal. Code Civ. P. § 337(2) provides for a statute of limitations of four years for:

Cal. Code Civ. P. § 337(1) provides that the statute of limitations is also four years for claims based upon a contract.

The Court has reviewed Creditor's proof of claim and it appears that the applicable statute of limitations is four years pursuant to Cal. Code Civ. P. § 337. It additionally appears that Debtors have not made a payment on the claim in more than six years, and, therefore, the statute of limitations has expired.

On July 12, 2017, a Chapter 7 involuntary petition was filed against Integrated Wealth Management Inc. ("Debtor"). On August 11, 2017, the Court, upon stipulation of Debtor and the Petitioning Creditors, extended the deadline for Debtor to respond to the involuntary petition until September 12, 2017.

On August 21, 2017, the Irvine Company (the "Landlord") filed a motion for relief from stay.

On September 7, 2017, the Landlord and Debtor filed a stipulation resolving the motion, which obligates Debtor to turn over possession of leased premises, and for relief from stay to permit setoff of security deposit and termination of lease. The Court is inclined to APPROVE the stipulation, EXCEPT for the setoff provision, which the Court believes is improvident, given Debtor's status as an involuntary debtor, until a Chapter 7 Trustee is appointed.

GRANT relief from the stay under §§ 362(d)(1), (d)(2), and (d)(4). GRANT waiver of 4001(a)(3) stay. As to the Movant's request for an order confirming the stay is not in effect, the Court finds that the stay terminated on September 1, 2017, when the instant case was dismissed. As to whether a stay was in effect prior to dismissal, the order granting in rem relief in Case No. 2:17-17471-NB was entered on August 15, 2017, but Movant has not provided that the order was recorded so as to effectuate the grant of in rem relief therein, and Movant has not otherwise presented argument as to why the stay would not be in effect.

As to annulment, the Movant has not identified any action taken prior to the entry of the order dismissing the case to warrant such relief. The request for annulment is therefore DENIED.

Court finds that bankruptcy case was part of a scheme to hinder, delay and defraud creditors based on multiple bankruptcy filings and unauthorized transfers affecting this property.

The Debtor's case was dismissed on 07/07/2017 and the stay terminated on that date. Debtor asserts that the Motion should be denied on this basis as moot. However, the Motion seeks annulment of the stay to validate acts undertaken postpetition and prior to the dismissal. On 09/11/2017, the Court entered a related order annulling the stay as to US Bank to validate the sale of the Property to Movant. To the extent the Property was still subject to the stay after annulment was granted to US Bank, granting of the instant Motion to validate the postpetition Unlawful Detainer acts of Movant is appropriate and consistent with the 09/11/2017 order. The Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion under § 362(d)(1), GRANT Waiver of the 14-day stay, GRANT as to ¶¶ 3, 4, and 11. The Motion is DENIED as to ¶¶ 7, 9 and 10 for lack of cause shown.

BACKGROUND

On May 11, 2016, Debtor filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. Debtor operated a medical account receivable collection service. On November 30, 2016, a Chapter 11 trustee was appointed.

On June 2, 2017, UST filed a motion to dismiss the Chapter 11 case for failure to pay quarterly fees of either $9,750 or $6,825, which were delinquent as of May 1, 2017. On June 13, 2017, the Chapter 11 trustee filed opposition to the motion to dismiss.

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 1112(b) provides that a case may be dismissed or converted for cause. Section 1112(b)(4) enumerates certain examples of cause, including "failure to pay

#2.00 Motion to vacate dismissal order and reinstate chapter 7 case

EH__

Docket 19

Tentative Ruling:

9/13/17

BACKGROUND

On August 4, 2017, Steven Arzola ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. That same day, Debtor's attorney, Paul Lee, filed an electronic filing declaration and a statement about social security number, however, the two documents included information for a different debtor. On August 7, 2017, the court issued a notice of dismissal if required documents are not filed within 72 hours. The case was dismissed on August 11, 2017.

On August 14, 2017, Debtor filed a motion to vacate dismissal. The next day, Debtor filed the correct copies of the electronic filing declaration and the statement about your social security number.

DISCUSSION

While Debtor has requested the dismissal be vacated pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 60(b) or 61, or 11 U.S.C. § 105(a), the Central District of California has a local rule governing this situation. Local Rule 1017-(2)(c)(1) states:

- (1) Any motion requesting that the dismissal of a case for failure to timely file a required document or for failure to appear at the meeting of creditors be vacated must include as exhibits to the motion all of the documents that were not timely filed and must be supported by a declaration under penalty of perjury establishing a sufficient explanation why the documents were not timely filed. The motion may be ruled on without further notice or hearing pursuant to LBR 9013-1(q).

Here, while Debtor did not abide by the applicable rule, the documents were separately uploaded. Under Local Rule 1017-(2)(c)(1), a motion to vacate dismissal in this situation can be ruled on without a hearing. For the same rationale as the above rule is founded upon, and in the absence of any opposition, the Court is inclined to grant the motion.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion.

BACKGROUND

On July 25, 2017, Laura Montoya ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. Debtor had previously filed four bankruptcies in the previous two years, all of which were summarily dismissed. On August 9, 2017, UST filed a motion to dismiss case with a re-filing bar.

DISCUSSION

I. Dismissal

11 U.S.C. § 707(b)(1) permits the Court to dismiss a Chapter 7 case for abuse. 11 U.S.C. § 707(b)(3)(A) states:

Chapter 7

paragraph (2)(A)(i) does not arise or is rebutted, the court shall consider –

(A) whether the debtor filed the petition in bad faith

In determining whether a case should be dismissed under § 707(b)(3)(A), the Court considers the totality of the circumstances, but is ultimately instructed to consider whether "the debtor's intention in filing a bankruptcy petition is inconsistent with the Chapter 7 goals of providing a 'fresh start' to debtors and maximizing the return to creditors." In re Mitchell, 357 B.R. 142, 154-55 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2006) (listing factors to be considered in making that determination).

The majority of the Mitchell factors are inapplicable when, as here, a debtor files a skeletal petition that does not provide the Court with sufficient information to apply the Mitchell test. Only factor seven (history of bankruptcy filings) and, possibly, factor nine (egregious behavior) can be assessed when a debtor files a skeletal petition. Both those factors weigh in favor of dismissal when, as here, a debtor repeatedly files skeletal petitions during a short period of time, and does not disclose previous filings. While § 707(a)(1) and (3) provide for dismissal when a debtor fails to fulfill his duties under the Bankruptcy Code, when a debtor repeatedly filed bankruptcy and fails to evince any attempt to comply with the filing requirements, it can be inferred, absent any indication to the contrary, that the debtor's purpose in filing bankruptcy is not to take advantage of the fresh start. See, e.g., In re Craighead, 377 B.R. 648, 655 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2007) ("Courts generally hold that when a debtor repeatedly files bankruptcy petitions and then repeatedly fails to file schedules or to comply with other requirements, this pattern of behavior is evidence of bad faith and an attempt to abuse the system."). Dismissal under § 707(b)(3) is appropriate in those circumstances.

II. Re-Filing Bar

notes, courts' analysis of this section is somewhat confused due to confounding "dismissal with prejudice" with "dismissal with injunction against future filings." Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 349.02[3]; compare In re Garcia, 479 B.R. 488 (Bankr. N.D. Ind. 2012) (denying motion for dismissal with prejudice, but imposing three-year refiling bar) with In re Craighead, 377 B.R. 648 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2007) (appearing to equate dismissal with prejudice with an injunction against refiling).

There is also a circuit split concerning whether an injunction on refiling for more than 180 days is allowed under the Bankruptcy Code. Compare In re Frieouf, 938 F.2d 1099 (10th Cir. 1991) (180 days is maximum allowed length of refiling injunction) with Casse v. Key Bank Nat. Ass'n, 198 F.3d 327 (2nd Cir. 1999) (injunction against filing for more than 180 days permissible). 11 U.S.C. § 349(a) reads:

Unless, the court, for cause, orders otherwise, the dismissal of a case under this title does not bar the discharge, in a later case under this title, of debts that were dischargeable in the case dismissed; nor does the dismissal of a case under this title prejudice the debtor with regard to the filing of a subsequent petition under this title, except as provided in section 109(g) of this title.

The disagreement revolves around whether the qualifier "Unless, the court, for cause, orders otherwise" modifies the content after the semi-colon. In re Leavitt noted this disagreement, but since the court was dealing with a dismissal with prejudice, rather than an injunction against refiling, it did not resolve the issue. 209 B.R. 935, 942 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1997). Within the Ninth Circuit, it appears the trend is to adopt the reasoning of the Second Circuit and allow injunctions for more than 180 days. See e.g. In re Velasques, 2012 WL 8255582 at *3 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. 2012).

Here, Debtor has filed four skeletal bankruptcies in the previous two years and failed to disclose the previous filings. As noted above, the Court has determined that Debtor's behavior is sufficient to warrant dismissal for bad faith and the Court finds the requested two year refiling bar to be appropriate.

Moreover, Debtor's failure to oppose is deemed consent to the relief requested pursuant to Local Rule 9013-1(h).

BACKGROUND

On April 4, 2017, William & Shawna Mendez ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On June 13, 2017, the Court authorized the employment of Levene, Neale, Bender, Yoo & Brill L.L.P. as counsel for Trustee.

On July 12, 2017, the Court approved the stipulation of Trustee and Debtors to extend the deadline to file a complaint objecting to discharge until September 1, 2017. On August 23, 2017, Trustee filed a motion for extension of time to file a complaint objecting to discharge. The basis for Trustee's motion is that, despite three continuances of the meeting of creditors, Debtors have not yet fully complied with Trustee's requests for information.

- (1) In a chapter 7 case, a complaint, or a motion under § 727(a)(8) or (9) of the Code, objecting to the debtor's discharge shall be filed no later than 60 days after the first date set for the meeting of creditors under § 341(a). In a chapter 11 case, the complaint shall be filed no later than the first date set for the hearing on confirmation. In a chapter 13 case, a motion objecting to the debtor's discharge under § 1328(f) shall be filed no later than 60 days after the first date set for the meeting of creditors under § 341(a). At least 28 days' notice of the time so fixed shall be given to the United States trustee and all creditors as provided in Rule 2002(f) and (k) and to the trustee and the trustee's attorney.

And Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 4004(b) states:

- (1) On motion of any party in interest, after notice and hearing, the court may for cause extend the time to object to discharge. Except as provided in subdivision (b)(2), the motion shall be filed before the time has expired.
- (2) A motion to extent the time to object to discharge may be filed after the time for objection has expired and before discharge is granted if (A) the objection is based on facts that, if learned after the discharge, would provide a basis for revocation under § 727(d) of the Code, and (B) the movant did not have knowledge of those facts in time to permit an objection. The motion shall be filed promptly after the movant discovers the facts on which the objection is based.

Here, Debtor's delay in providing the requested information constitutes sufficient cause to extend the deadline. See Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 4004.03[2] (16th ed. 2013) ("A debtor's delays in responding to discovery may be sufficient cause. On August 23, 2017, Trustee filed a motion seeking authorization to release Debtors' documents and records to Plaintiffs. Trustee appears to have filed the motion because, at a continued meeting of creditors on July 17, 2017, Debtors indicated that they objected to the release of the documents. EH__

Tentative Ruling:

9/13/17

BACKGROUND

On March 28, 2017, Javier Olivas & Gloria Olguin ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On July 10, 2017, Debtors received a discharge, and the case was closed on July 11, 2017. On July 24, 2017, Alan Gatto ("Gatto") filed a motion for relief from stay. Gatto received a notice to filer stating that the motion was filed in a closed case and no action would be taken. On August 15, 2017, Gatto filed a motion to reopen the case, and amended the motion the next day.

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 350(b) states: "A case may be reopened in the court in which such case was closed to administer assets, to accord relief to the debtor, or for other cause." Paragraph six of Gatto's declaration appears to indicate that he wishes to file a motion to annul the stay to validate the a state court judgment in an unlawful detainer case. Gatto's declaration states that the judgment was entered on June 28, 2016, however, his attached exhibit indicates that the judgment was entered on June 8, 2017.

Here, Gatto attempted to file a motion for relief from stay shortly after the case was closed, it does not appear Gatto was noticed of the bankruptcy filing, and this Court is the only court that can provide the requested relief.

Furthermore, the Court deems failure to oppose to be consent to the requested relief.

EH__

Docket 74

Tentative Ruling:

9/13/17

PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

On January 11, 2016, Ferdinand Castillo ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On April 25, 2016, Debtor received a discharge.

On November 3, 2016, the Court authorized the employment of Malcolm Cisneros as Trustee's counsel. On December 14, 2016, Trustee filed a motion to approve compromise. On December 21, 2016, Trustee filed a motion to sell certain real property located at 2326 Canyon Park Dr., Diamond Bar, CA 91765 (the "Diamond Bar Property"). On January 9, 2017, the Court granted Trustee's motion to approve compromise and on January 13, 2017, Trustee's sale motion was granted.

On August 11, 2017, Trustee filed a motion for turnover of property of the estate pursuant to §§ 521(a)(4) and 542(a). Specifically, Trustee requests turnover of rental payments totaling $23,400 and copies of twelve months of bank statements leading up to the petition date.

Chapter 7

Initially, Debtor did not list the Diamond Bar Property on Schedules A/B, however, the Diamond Bar Property was referenced through the identification of a Schedule D claim, in the amount of $288,000, secured by the Diamond Bar Property. After Trustee learned that Debtor was on the title to the Diamond Bar Property, Debtor amended Schedules A/B to include the Diamond Bar Property. Debtor included an attachment to the amended schedules that stated the Diamond Bar Property was owned by his son, who resided there, that Debtor was on the title "for purposes of loan application and security only" and that the down payment on the Diamond Bar Property came from his son's personal injury settlement. Debtor claimed an exemption of $83,600 in the Diamond Bar Property.

Later, after further investigation by Trustee, Debtor indicated that he and his would surrender the Diamond Bar Property for the Trustee to sell. On August 23, 2016, Debtor amended Schedule C, removing the claimed exemption in the Diamond Bar Property. On January 13, 2017, the Court approved a sale of the Diamond Bar Property for $380,000.

Later, Trustee became aware that Debtor's son did not reside at the Diamond Bar Property, but, instead, Debtor had renting the property to tenants since August 2015, collecting said rents, and concealing the rents from Trustee. Trustee requests turnover of thirteen monthly rental payments of $1,800, and disclosure of Debtor's bank statements for the year prior to the petition date.

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 541(a)(1) states:

Under § 541(a)(1), Debtor's interest in the Diamond Bar Property because property of the estate, and, under § 541(a)(6), the monthly rent payments became property of the estate.

11 U.S.C. § 521(a)(4) states:

(a) The debtor shall –

Here, as is noted above, the rental payments are property of the estate. Pursuant to § 521(a)(4), Debtor is required to turn over property of the estate and recorded information related thereto. From: 7/26/17

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

09/13/2017

On August 16, 2017, the Court entered its Order Imposing Sanctions ("Sanctions Order") as to Defendant/Cross-Defendants Continental Capital, LLC, Stephen Collias, and their Counsel, for failure to comply with the deadlines imposed by the Court in its May 16, 2017, Order to Show Cause ("OSC"). The Sanctions Order included: (1) a sanction payable to the Court of $500; and (2) attorney's fees for time spent attending the July 26, 2017, hearing and for time spent preparing declarations in support of the fee sanctions. The Court docketed receipt of the $500 sanctions due to the Court on August 28, 2017.

On August 16, 2017, the sanctioned parties filed their request that the Court reverse its Sanctions Order as to attorney fees, and their alternative opposition to the reasonableness of the fees sought by Bojorquez and Morschauser. The fees sought by each party is set forth below:

BOJORQUEZ FEE BREAKDOWN

Chapter 7

Hourly Rate for Lawrence Kuhlman: $350/hr

Preparation for Status Conference, including call with client re: same – 1.7 hours

Travel to/Attendance at Status Conference – 3.9 hours

Draft Declaration re: Fees - .3 hours

Total: 5.9 hour x 350 = $2,065

MORSCHAUSER FEE BREAKDOWN

Hourly Rate for Reid Winthrop: $595

Preparation for Status Conference, including call with client re: same – 2.8 hours

Travel to/Attendance at Status Conference - 4.3 hours

Draft Declaration re: Fees - .5 hours

Total: 7.6 hours x $595 = $4,522 (Note: a miscalculation of the summation resulted in a request of $4,581.50 for 7.7 hours in the Winthrop Declaration).

As a threshold matter, the sanctioned parties seek reversal of the fee sanctions award. However, there is no authority or analysis provided as to why the modification of the Court's sanctions award is appropriate under Rule 60. Separately, the Court is not satisfied that the explanation for why the error occurred would warrant setting aside of the sanctions award. Additionally, although the sanctioned parties argue that the "Status Conference" on the OSC would have occurred with or without the error, the Court disagrees that no time was wasted. In particular, the late filing of the responsive pleading by the sanctioned parties necessitated a further hearing for the other parties to reply in order to provide the Court and parties with all of the briefing to permit an informed discussion regarding the bounds of an evidentiary hearing.

Finally, as to the fees requested, the Court finds that the billing rates are reasonable and the sanctioned parties have provided no evidence to controvert the reasonableness of the hourly rates. However, the Court shall reduce the fee requests for travel time and time expended in preparation for the July 26 hearing, based on reasonableness of the time entries, reducing 3 hours for Mr. Winthrop and 1.5 hours for Mr. Kuhlman, for a total reduction of $1,758 as to Mr. Winthrop's fees and a reduction of $525 as to Mr. Kuhlman.

Thus, Mr. Kuhlman's fee shall be reduced by $525 to $1,540, and Mr. Winthrop's fee shall be reduced by $1,785 to $2,737.

Docket 66

Tentative Ruling:

09/14/2017

Background:

On April 13, 2012 ("Petition Date"), Domingo and Maria Solorzano (collectively, the "Debtors") filed for chapter 13 relief. Amrane Cohen is the duly appointed chapter 13 trustee ("Trustee").

On July 11, 2017, the Trustee filed an Objection to Claim No. 6 (the "Objection") of Navient CFC (the "Claimant"). Claimant filed no opposition.

Claim #: 6

Amount: $5,821.56

Objection:

The Trustee objects on the basis that the proof of claim of Claimant was filed more than four years after the claims bar date and after payments under the plan have been completed.

Chapter 13

Applicable Law:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

Here, the docket reflects that the claims bar date was August 22, 2012. Claimant filed its proof of claim on June 5, 2017.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court agrees with the Trustee's Objection that the claim must be disallowed based on the Claimant's failure to timely file a proof of claim. Additionally, the failure of Claimant to file any response or opposition is deemed as consent to the granting of the relief requested pursuant to LBR 9013-1(h).

BACKGROUND

On May 31, 2012, Edgar Villegas ("Debtor") filed for chapter 13 relief. Amrane Cohen is the duly appointed chapter 13 trustee ("Trustee"). On December 28, 2016, the Trustee filed a motion to dismiss the case due to a material default ("MTD"). Specifically, the MTD was based on the failure to provide tax returns and any net refunds for 2012, 2013, 2014, and 2015. The Debtor filed no opposition. At the hearing, the Trustee indicated there had been no opposition and noted that the Debtor's plan was now entering month 65 (i.e. beyond the statutory period permitted for a chapter 13 plan's completion). Based thereon, the Court dismissed the case. On August 11, 2017, the Debtor moved this Court to vacate the dismissal ("Motion").

The Debtor asserts that his prior counsel did not inform him of the need to submit tax returns and indicates that around the time that the case was dismissed, his wife passed away and he did not learn of the dismissal until he received notice of the dismissal from the Court. Since learning of the dismissal, Debtor's counsel asserts that he has the outstanding tax returns which reflects no refunds have been received by the Debtor and that he is prepared to forward those to the Trustee. Additionally, the Debtor's counsel is holding certified funds in the amount of $5,660.95 to tender towards completion of the plan.

On August 17, 2017, the Trustee filed comments indicating his recommendation that the Motion be granted conditioned on the following:

1. Debtor providing the 2012, 2013, 2014, and 2015 tax returns; and
2. Payment of the remaining plan base balance of $3,805.38 (separate from the $5,660.95 in certified funds which is also necessary to pay the plan off).

#5.00 Motion for Authority to Refinance Real Property

Also #6

EH__

Docket 160

Tentative Ruling:

09/14/2017

Service: Improper. The Motion does not reflect service on Fannie Mae, to which JPMorgan transferred its interest in the lien on the Property as reflected in the claims register on March 25, 2014. Fannie Mae should have been served at the address indicated on the claims register and in accordance with FRBP 7004. Additionally, Wells Fargo was also not served with the Motion.

Separately, the Notice of Motion incorrectly indicates that service was in accordance with LBR 9013-1(q) which regards motions to convert or dismiss, and not, motions to refinance which requires notice under LBR 9013-1(p) and (w). Finally, affected parties are not named in the Notice of Motion.

Background:

Debtor seeks authority to refinance the real property located at 1454 Sycamore Lane in San Bernardino, CA 92408 ("Property"). By his Motion, the Debtor seeks authority to borrow $90,000 from Private Money Lenders, Inc. The following will be paid from proceeds of the loan: a portion of the Wells Fargo lien ($4,432.02) on the Property which was bifurcated pursuant to this Court's 6/19/2017 Order on Motion to Value (Docket No. 152). There will remain $60,566.45 after payment of the Wells Fargo lien.

Trustee Comments:

The Trustee recommends disapproval for the following reasons:

The Trustee believes based on documents filed in the case that the Debtor still owes

Debtors' Response

The Debtor has made no response to the Trustee's concern.

The Court's tentative ruling is to DENY the Motion without prejudice based on the foregoing.

#8.00 CONT Application for Compensation/Supplemental Fees for Sundee M Teeple, Debtor's Attorney, Fee: $600.00

From: 8/17/17

EH__

Docket 106

Tentative Ruling:

09/14/2017

The hearing on this Supplemental Fee Application was continued for the Applicant to provide supplemental evidence in support of its fee request. The Court notes at the outset that the supplement, which is not admissible evidence, includes 1 hour for "attorney representation at hearing" for the May 2, 2017, hearing. However, the Court reviewed the record of the May 2, 2017, hearing and found that there was, in fact, no appearance by counsel for the Debtor at that hearing. For that reason, and as otherwise noted on the record at the 8/17/17 hearing on the Application, the Court is inclined to DENY the Application in its entirety.

APPEARANCES REQUIRED, or Applicant may not appear and be deemed to submit to the tentative.

Docket 40

Tentative Ruling:

09/14/2017

BACKGROUND

On September 12, 2016, Douglas and Anne Goodman (collectively, "Debtors") filed their petition for chapter 13 relief.

On November 11, 2016, Mark and Natasha Reynoso (collectively, "Plaintiffs") filed a complaint seeking determination of the dischargeability of a debt pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A) (the "Complaint"). Specifically, Plaintiffs allege that in 2015, they purchased real property located at 1656 West Lisbon Street in Upland, CA (the "Property") from the Debtors, and that a sale was consummated on the misrepresentations of the Debtors' agent, Theresa Mann, that the Property was 3,231 square feet while Plaintiffs assert that the Property is actually 2,713 square feet (or a difference of 518 square feet). Plaintiffs also assert that they were led to believe that a water leak in the upstairs bathroom had been repaired. Plaintiffs allege that the Debtors knew or should have known that their agent was making false and misleading representations to Plaintiffs. The initial Complaint was dismissed on March 31, 2017, and a first amended complaint filed on April 19, 2017 (the "FAC").

On June 5, 2017, the Debtors filed a Cross-Complaint against Jose Pastora and Theresa Mann (collectively, "Cross-Defendants"), their former real estate agents who they allege were hired to handle the sales transactions and who made the alleged misrepresentations (the "Cross-Complaint").

Chapter 13

On July 18, 2017, the Cross-Defendants filed a Motion to Dismiss the Cross-Complaint ("Motion"). On August 31, 2017, the Debtors filed opposition to the Motion ("Opposition"), and on September 7, 2017, the Cross-Defendants filed their reply ("Reply").

Civil Rule 12(b)(6) standards

Under Civil Rule 12(b)(6), made applicable in adversary proceedings through Rule 7012, a bankruptcy court may dismiss a complaint if it fails to "state a claim upon which relief can be granted." In reviewing a Civil Rule 12(b)(6) motion, the trial court must accept as true all facts alleged in the complaint and draw all reasonable inferences in favor of the plaintiff. Navarro v. Block, 250 F.3d 729, 732 (9th Cir. 2001). However, the trial court need not accept as true conclusory allegations in a complaint or legal characterizations cast in the form of factual allegations. Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555–56, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 167 L.Ed.2d 929 (2007); Hartman v. Gilead Scis., Inc. (In re Gilead Scis. Sec. Litig.), 536 F.3d 1049, 1055 (9th Cir. 2008).

To avoid dismissal under Civil Rule 12(b)(6), a plaintiff must aver in the complaint "sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to 'state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.'" Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678, 129 S.Ct. 1937, 173 L.Ed.2d 868 (2009) (quoting Twombly, 550 U.S. at 570, 127 S.Ct. 1955). It is axiomatic that a claim cannot be plausible when it has no legal basis. A dismissal under Civil Rule 12(b)(6) may be based either on the lack of a cognizable legal theory or on the absence of sufficient facts alleged under a cognizable legal theory. Johnson v. Riverside Healthcare Sys., 534 F.3d 1116, 1121 (9th Cir.2008).

DISCUSSION

The primary thrust of the Motion is that a settlement agreement between the Plaintiffs and Cross-Defendants was approved by the Superior Court of San Bernardino ("State Court") on April 4, 2017 (the "Settlement Order"). The Settlement Order purports to bind the Debtors to an agreement that the Cross-Defendants cannot be sued for indemnity in the instant matter.

of process, of a judicial, administrative, or other action or proceeding against the debtor that was or could have been commenced before the commencement of the case under this title, or to recover a claim against the debtor that arose before the commencement of the case under this title. 11 U.S.C. § 362(a)(1); and

- Any act to obtain possession of property of the estate or of property from the estate or to exercise control over property of the estate. 11 U.S.C. § 362(a)(3).

Violations of the automatic stay are void. In re Schwartz, 954 F.2d 569, 571 (9th Cir. 1992). Here, the Court finds that the continuation of the State Court litigation by the Plaintiffs and Respondents without first having sought relief from stay from this Court to continue the litigation resulted in a violation of the stay under both §§ 362(a)(1) and (a)(3). Moreover, the Application for, and thus, entry of the Settlement Order, effectuated deprivation of the estate's right to pursue an indemnity claim against Respondents in violation of 11 U.S.C. § 362(a)(3). Based on these violations and the failure of Plaintiffs and Respondents to seek obtain relief from stay, the Settlement Order appears to violate the automatic stay, notwithstanding the fact that the Debtors may have received notice of the Application to the State Court. The plain fact is that whether or not the Debtors received notice that Respondents and Plaintiffs were seeking to enter into a settlement in State Court, that Debtors' rights to respond/object cannot have been abridged by State law because the automatic stay operated to toll any rights of the Debtors under state law during the pendency of the bankruptcy case. Thus, to the extent that the Settlement Order purported to curtail the Debtors' rights to pursue indemnification, the Settlement Order must be void.

Additionally, the Court underscores that the docket reflects no motion for relief from stay by either the Plaintiffs or the Cross-Defendants seeking to permit them to continue the action against the Debtors in the State Court. Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to DENY the Motion to the extent it seeks to dismiss the Cross-Complaint as violative of the Settlement Order.

As to the alternative grounds for dismissal, the Cross-Defendants assert that the Cross-Complaint does not contain sufficient facts to maintain actions for indemnification. However, although the Cross-Defendants are correct that read in isolation the Cross-Complaint does not contain sufficient factual content to survive a motion to dismiss, the Cross-Complaint references the allegations of the FAC regarding false representations made by Theresa Mann regarding the Property.

Separately, as to Joe Pastora, the Court notes that neither the FAC nor the Cross-Complaint make any specific allegations regarding Joe Pastora's actions or conduct to sustain any cause of action against him.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to DENY the Motion as to Respondent's argument that the Settlement Order bars litigation against the Respondents.

Separately, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion without prejudice as to Joe Pastora for failure to state a claim; and GRANT the Motion as to Theresa Mann, without prejudice to Debtors right to amend the Cross-Complaint to more specifically incorporate or otherwise restate the allegations contained in the FAC regarding Ms. Mann's alleged misrepresentations to the Plaintiffs.

Docket 51

Tentative Ruling:

09/14/2017

BACKGROUND

On June 2, 2015, Anita Giroth ("Debtor") filed her petition for chapter 13 relief. Rod Danielson is the duly appointed chapter 13 trustee ("Trustee"). On July 6, 2017, a hearing was held on the Trustee's Motion to Dismiss the Debtor's Case ("MTD"). The MTD requested dismissal for failure by the Debtor to submit 2016 state tax returns to the Trustee. At the hearing, there was no appearance on behalf of the Debtor and no opposition to the MTD. An order dismissing the case was entered on July 25, 2017.

On August 11, 2017, the Debtor filed her motion to vacate dismissal ("Motion"). On August 15, 2017, the Trustee filed comments recommending approval on the following conditions:

1. Immediate forwarding to the Trustee of a copy of the 2016 return; and
2. Debtor to be fully current by the hearing date where Debtor's counsel must be able to certify he is holding the $2,714.80 necessary to come current (funds to be forwarded to the Trustee after the order vacating the dismissal is entered)

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court finds the Trustee's conditions reasonable. On representation by the Debtor at the hearing that the Debtor has complied with the Trustee's conditions, the Court's tentative ruling is to GRANT the Motion and reinstate the case.

APPEARANCES REQUIRED.

Docket 39

Tentative Ruling:

09/14/2017

DISCUSSION

Applicant seeks $750 in fees for opposing and reaching an APO on a motion for relief from stay. The Chapter 13 Trustee recommends that Applicant receive $525 as the usual and customary fee for similar tasks. The Court notes that there is no set "no look fee" for an opposition to a motion for relief from stay. However, the Trustee has previously recommended $550 as the usual and customary fee for similar tasks and in the interests of consistency the Court is amenable to allowing fees in the amount of $550.

Here, the Court finds that $550 is reasonable. In particular, when comparing the opposition and stipulation on a motion for relief from stay to similar tasks set forth in the "No Look Fee" schedule, the schedule contemplates $750 or more for motions filed by the Debtor such as a motion to extend/impose stay and a motion to avoid lien under §522(f). The schedule provides only one "no look fee" for an opposition - $350 for opposing a motion to dismiss. In recommending $550/$525, the Trustee has properly recognized that opposing a motion for relief from stay and coming to agreement with opposing counsel on terms of an APO requires more than opposition to a motion to dismiss but less than the work required to file and serve a motion seeking affirmative relief. Finally, the Application itself contains no explanation to indicate that resolution of the Motion for Relief from Stay was out of the ordinary such as to justify a fee above the usual and customary fee being awarded by the Trustee for opposition to motions for relief from stay.

CASE DISMISSED 8/31/17

Docket 12

Tentative Ruling:

09/14/2017

BACKGROUND

On July 18, 2017, Conchita Ang ("Debtor") filed her petition for chapter 13 relief. The Debtor's petition commenced her second case pending within the same year as Case No. 16-16362 which was dismissed for abuse on October 12, 2016.

On August 15, 2017, the Debtor filed her Application for Legal Determination/Clarification of Automatic Stay ("Application") apparently seeking an advisory opinion of the Court regarding the extent of the automatic stay in her case. The question appears to arise from the Debtor's receipt of a "Notice of Bankruptcy Case Filing" from the Court which indicates to debtors that "[u]nder certain circumstances, the stay may be limited to 30 days or not exist at all, although the debtor can request the court to extend or impose a stay."

As a threshold matter, the Application does not appear to request relief that the Court can grant. In particular, the Court is not permitted to provide litigants with advisory opinions. Golden v. Zwickler, 394 U.S. 103, 108, 89 S. Ct. 956, 959, 22 L. Ed. 2d 113 (1969) ((T)he federal courts established pursuant to Article III of the Constitution do not render advisory opinions.). Alternatively, even if the Court were to construe the Application as a request to continue or impose the automatic stay, the Application would be deficient in that it was not served on any creditors and did not

Tentative Ruling:

09/14/2017

BACKGROUND

On July 18, 2017 ("Petition Date"), Conchita Ang ("Debtor") filed her petition for chapter 13 relief. The Debtor's petition commenced her second case pending within the same year as Case No. 16-16362, which was dismissed for abuse on October 12, 2016.

On August 18, 2017, the Debtor filed her Motion and Notice of Motion for Turnover of Property and: (I) To Enforce the Automatic Stay; (II) For an Order to Show Cause (OSC); (III) To Compel Compliance with the Court Order; (IV) For Sanctions ("Motion").

By her Motion, the Debtor asserts that Clear Recon Corp. and Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. violated the automatic stay by holding a foreclosure sale on the Petition Date. Although it is not clear from the Motion, the foreclosure appears to regard the property located at 2150 Horse Trail Drive in Redlands, CA 92373 (the "Property").

On August 31, 2017, Wells Fargo Bank and Clear Recon Corp. ("Respondents") filed their opposition to the Motion ("Opposition"). The Opposition asserts, in pertinent part, that: (1) a motion for relief from stay which included in rem relief was granted on May 18, 2017, (2) that order was recorded on August 10, 2017; and (3) that the Debtor has not asserted any actual damages.

DISCUSSION

As a threshold matter, the Court concurs that the Debtor's service of her Motion was deficient in that Respondents were not served in accordance with Rule 7004. Nevertheless, Respondents had the opportunity to file their opposition and did so timely. There appearing to be no prejudice to Respondents stemming from the deficiency in service, the Court is disinclined to deny the Motion on this basis.

The Motion seeks issuance of an OSC based on the alleged foreclosure of the Property in violation of the automatic stay.

"A 'willful violation' does not require a specific intent to violate the automatic stay. Rather, the statute provides for damages upon a finding that the defendant knew of the automatic stay and that the defendant's actions which violated the stay were intentional. Whether the party believes in good faith that it had a right to the property is not relevant to whether the act was 'willful' or whether compensation must be awarded."

Pinkstaff v. United States (In re Pinkstaff), 974 F.2d at 115 (quoting Goichman v. Bloom (In re Bloom), 875 F.2d 224, 227 (9th Cir.1989)) (emphasis added).

Here, the record indicates that the petition was filed at approximately 12:50 p.m. on July 18, 2017. The foreclosure sale was scheduled to begin at 1:00 p.m. that same day (although the Court notes that the Exhibit O which purportedly indicates the sale date and time was not filed with the Court). The Debtor's declaration is vague as to when she provided notice of the filing to Respondents. Her inauthenticated and inadmissible exhibits do not necessarily help her because they appear to indicate that notice was faxed by her at 1:04 p.m. at the earliest, which is after the sale began. Nevertheless, the foreclosure sale appears to be a technical violation of the stay.

In response to the Motion, the Respondents indicate an in rem order was entered in May 2017 by Judge Zurzolo. However, Respondents did not take appropriate steps to record the order in the county where the Property is located prior to the Petition Date (the In Rem Order was not recorded until August 10, 2017, postpetition), and as such the automatic stay was in place at the time of the foreclosure. Based on this failure by the Respondents, issuance of an OSC re: Violation of the Automatic Stay is appropriate because, notwithstanding that holding the foreclosure sale may not have been a willful violation (given the ambiguity surrounding whether Respondents received effective notice prior to holding the sale), the failure to restore title to the Property to the Debtor or to otherwise seek annulment likely constitutes a continuing violation of the stay which Respondents did not cure during the remaining pendency of the Debtor's case (Respondents do not acknowledge when they had notice of the bankruptcy but also do not dispute that they received notice at some point). In re Wallace, 2014 WL 1244792, at *6 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. Mar. 26, 2014)(discussing the interplay between an action for damages under 362 (k) with related orders annulling the stay).

Based on the foregoing, the Court's tentative ruling is to issue an Order to Show Cause Why:

1. The foreclosure sale should not be set aside as a void act taken in violation of the automatic stay; and
2. Why the Debtor should not be awarded actual damages under either § 362(k) or § 105(a) to compensate her for damages stemming from the violation.

Docket 10

Tentative Ruling:

09/14/2017

BACKGROUND

On July 24, 2017 ("Petition Date"), Jose Guadalupe Rodriguez (the "Debtor") filed his petition for chapter 13 relief.

On August 11, 2017, the Office of the United States Trustee ("UST") filed a Motion to Dismiss Chapter 13 Case with a Re-Filing Bar (the "Motion"). No opposition has been filed.

DISCUSSION

As set forth by the Ninth Circuit in In re Leavitt, 171 F.3d 1219, 1224 (9th Cir. 1999), bad faith, as cause for the dismissal of a Chapter 13 petition with prejudice, involves the application of the "totality of the circumstances" test. In re Eisen, 14 F.3d 469, 470 (9th Cir.1994). The Ninth Circuit has instructed courts deciding whether to dismiss a Chapter 13 petition to consider the following factors:

1. whether the debtor "misrepresented facts in his [petition or] plan, unfairly manipulated the Bankruptcy Code, or otherwise [filed] his Chapter 13 [petition or] plan in an inequitable manner," id. (citing In re Goeb, 675 F.2d 1386, 1391 (9th Cir.1982));
2. "the debtor's history of filings and dismissals," id. (citing In re Nash, 765 F.2d 1410, 1415 (9th Cir.1985));
3. whether "the debtor only intended to defeat state court litigation," id. (citing In re Chinichian, 784 F.2d 1440, 1445-46 (9th Cir.1986)); and
4. whether egregious behavior is present, In re Tomlin, 105 F.3d 933, 937 (4th Cir.1997); In re Bradley, 38 B.R. 425, 432 (Bankr.C.D.Cal.1984).

A finding of bad faith does not require fraudulent intent by the debtor.

[N]either malice nor actual fraud is required to find a lack of good faith. The bankruptcy judge is not required to have evidence of debtor ill will directed at creditors, or that debtor was affirmatively attempting to violate the law-malfeasance is not a prerequisite to bad faith.

In re Powers, 135 B.R. 980, 994 (Bankr.C.D.Cal.1991) (relying on In re Waldron, 785 F.2d 936, 941 (11th Cir.1986)).

Here, the UST asserts as grounds for dismissal that:

1. The Debtor filed a skeletal petition on July 24, 2017;
2. The Debtor filed three prior cases: Case No. 16-18169, Case No. 17-15323, and Case No. 99-15080, which the Debtor failed to disclose in his instant petition;
3. The Debtor's most recent prior case, Case No. 17-15323 was dismissed for failure to file information;
4. The Debtor received a discharge on December 27, 2016 and is not eligible to receive a discharge in the current case; and
5. The Debtor's master mailing matrix lists only one mortgage/foreclosure related creditor.

The UST asserts that based on the Debtor's ineligibility to a discharge, the dismissal of his prior case for failure to file documents, the failure of the Debtor to disclose prior filings in sworn statements, and the filing of the instant case seemingly for no other purpose than to frustrate creditors seeking foreclosure, dismissal with a bar is warranted.

Here, for the reasons set forth by the UST, the Court finds that cause exists to dismiss the Debtor's case. Additionally, the Debtors ineligibility for discharge and apparent attempts to file bankruptcy for the sole purpose of forestalling a foreclosure warrants a one-year bar under the Court's § 105 and § 349 authority as requested by the UST.

Docket 23

Tentative Ruling:

09/14/2017

BACKGROUND

On August 3, 2017 ("Petition Date"), Adriana Brodie ("Debtor") filed her petition for chapter 13 relief. Rod Danielson is the duly appointed chapter 13 trustee ("Trustee").

On August 8, 2017, the case was dismissed for failure by the Debtor to file initial schedules by the Court imposed deadline. Specifically, the Court had issued a notice on August 4, 2017, that the case would be dismissed if the Debtor did not provide a statement of social security number, electronic filing declaration, and master mailing matrix list of creditors within 72 hours. The Court clarified in a Notice to Filer that although the Statement of Social Security and Declaration of Electronic Filing had been filed, that they had not been signed. The Debtor did not correct the deficiencies and the case was dismissed.

The Debtor attempted to cure the deficiencies and filed an "Emergency Motion to Vacate Dismissal" on August 8, 2017 (the same date as the dismissal). On August 11, 2017, the Court denied the Debtor's Emergency Motion because the Debtor only cured two of the deficiencies for which the case was dismissed – having filed an amended Statement of Social Security and Electronic Filing Declaration but no creditor mailing matrix.

On August 14, 2017, the Debtor filed a second Emergency Motion to Vacate Dismissal (the "Motion"). The Trustee filed comments on August 15, 2017, recommending disapproval and indicated that Counsel for the Debtor has failed to provide an explanation which would warrant vacating the dismissal.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court has confirmed with the Clerk's office that the three deficiencies which resulted in the dismissal have now been cured. However, the Debtor's case was filed as skeletal on the Petition Date and since the dismissal of the case the balance of schedules has come due.

The Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion conditioned on the Debtor filing all remaining schedules which have come due since the case was dismissed.

APPEARANCES REQUIRED.

Docket 24

Tentative Ruling:

9/19/17

Discussion:

On June 29, 2017, at 7:48 a.m., Meghan McConaghy ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. At 9:00 a.m. of the same day, Debtor's residence was foreclosed upon. At 9:58 a.m., Debtor faxed notice of her bankruptcy filing to the Riverside County Sheriff. At 3:04 p.m., Debtor faxed notice of her bankruptcy filing to Movant's counsel. The instant bankruptcy case was the second time in six months that Debtor filed bankruptcy within twenty-four hours of a scheduled foreclosure sale.

On August 11, 2017, Movant filed a motion to annul the automatic stay. On September 5, 2017, Debtor filed her opposition to the motion.

Chapter 13

(d) On request of a party in interest and after notice and a hearing, the court shall grant relief from the stay provided, under subsection (a) of this section such as by terminating, annulling, modifying, or condition such stay –

(emphasis added); see also In re Schwartz, 954 F.2d 569, 573 (9th Cir. 1992) ("If a creditor obtains retroactive relief under section 362(d), there is no violation of the automatic stay, and whether violations of the stay are void or voidable is not at issue.").

The BAP, in In re Fjeldsted, noted the absence of a clear standard for annulment of the automatic stay. 293 B.R. 12, 21 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2003) ("There is less appellate clarity, however, in enunciating a test for retroactive stay relief. Inconsistent standards have thus developed, which run the gamut from such relief being justified only in 'extreme circumstances' to giving the court 'wide latitude' to 'balance the equities' on a case-by-case basis."). The BAP's most recent announcement of the standard for annulment of the automatic stay stated the following:

Determining whether cause exists to annul the stay is a case-by-case inquiry based on a balance of the equities. In conducting this inquiry the bankruptcy court, among other factors, should consider whether the creditor knew of the bankruptcy when violating the stay and whether the debtor's conduct was unreasonable, inequitable or prejudicial to the creditor.

In Fjeldsted, we approved additional factors for consideration in assessing the equities. The twelve nonexclusive factors are: (1) number of filings; (2) whether, in a repeat filing case, the circumstances indicate an intention to delay and hinder creditors; (3) a weighing of the extent of prejudice to creditors or third parties if the stay relief is not made retroactive, including whether harm exists to a bona fide purchaser; (4) the debtor's overall good faith (totality of circumstances test); (5) whether creditors knew of stay but nonetheless took action, thus compounding the problem; (6) whether the debtor has complied, and is otherwise complying, with the Bankruptcy Code and Rules; (7) the relative ease of restoring parties to the status quo ante; (8) the costs of annulment to debtors and creditors; (9) how quickly creditors moved for annulment, or how quickly debtor moved to set aside the sale or violative conduct; (10) whether, after learning of the bankruptcy, creditors proceeded to take steps in continued violation of the stay, or whether they moved expeditiously to gain relief; (11) whether annulment of the stay will cause irreparable injury to the debtor; and (12) whether stay relief will promote judicial economy or other efficiencies. The Panel in Fjeldsted cautioned that the twelve factors are merely a framework for analysis and not a scorecard, and that in any given case, one factor may so outweigh the others as to be dispositive.

In re Estavan Capital LLC, 2015 WL 7758494 at *5 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2015) (citations and quotations omitted).

While Fjeldsted cautioned that the enumerated factors are not a scorecard, it is clear that the majority of the factors, including, in particular, Debtor's lack of good faith, weigh in favor of annulling the stay. Specifically, this is a repeat filing case, with both bankruptcy filings occurring shortly before a scheduled foreclosure sale. The evidence indicates that Movant was not informed of the bankruptcy filing prior to the foreclosure sale, and that Movant did not take further steps in violation of the automatic stay after the foreclosure sale. Finally, the property was purchased at a foreclosure sale, and harm will exist to the purchaser if the stay is not annulled.

In its opposition, Debtor cites and applies an incorrect legal standard. Relying on In re Am. Spectrum Realty, Inc., 540 B.R. 730 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2015), Debtor argues that the Curtis factors apply and that the factors weigh in favor of denying the motion. The Curtis factors do not apply to a motion to annul the automatic stay. The case relied upon by Debtor contains two different sections, one dealing with relief from the automatic stay, and the other dealing with annulment of the automatic stay. In the former, the Court cites the Curtis factors and, in the latter, the Court cites the Fjeldsted factors. Debtor's reliance on the Curtis factors here is misplaced.

In light of the absence of any pre-sale notice to Movant of Debtor's bankruptcy filing, and Debtor's multiple bankruptcy filings on the eve of foreclosure sales, among other reasons, the Court is inclined to GRANT the motion and ANNUL the automatic stay retroactive to the petition date.

Tentative Ruling:

9/19/17

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion for lack of cause shown. Specifically, Debtor's previous Chapter 13 case was dismissed because: (1) Debtor was incarcerated at the time of the confirmation hearing; and (2) Debtor's proposed plan was clearly infeasible. While Debtor is no longer incarcerated, she has not yet obtained employment. As a substitution, Debtor has provided declarations from her mother and brother indicating that they will contribute more than $7,000/month to fund her plan. The evidence submitted, however, does not substantiate the amount identified. Regarding Debtor's mother, the statement of contribution lists $5,000/month from working as a real estate broker and $1,000/month from music royalties. The payment statements attached, however, indicate that Debtor's receives approximately $1,100/month from broker services and approximately $245/month from music royalties. Regarding Debtor's brother, the statement of contribution lists net income of $2,900/month, however, the payment statements attached, while varying in amount, indicates Debtor's brother receives less than half that amount. Therefore, Debtor has failed to establish she has the means to propose a feasible plan.

Analysis: 11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(3) (2005) provides factors to be considered in determining the reasonableness of requested compensation.

Tentative:

On January 30, 2017, Bausman & Company, Incorporated ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. On April 5, 2017, Procopio, Cory, Hargreaves & Savitch LLP ("Applicant") filed an employment application seeking authorization of its employment nunc pro tunc as of January 30, 2017. Applicant's employment application was approved by the Court on May 18, 2017.

On June 30, 2017, Applicant filed the instant fee application.

The Court has reviewed the requested fees and, noting that the absence of any opposition, considers the fees to be generally reasonable. The Court notes the following three issues with the fee application:

- 1) Applicant requested that its employment be approved nunc pro tunc to January 30, 2017. Nevertheless, Applicant has billed $1,494.30 for services provided before the authorization of its employment. These entries have been eliminated below.
- 2) Applicant has billed for the preparation of a few motions that do not appear to have been filed. In addition to three time entries on January 29, 2017, which were already counted above, Applicant lists a 1.7 hour entry on May 3, 2017, for preparation of "multiple procedural motions" and 2.5 hours on May 4, 2017, for preparation of a motion to convert. The former entry is vague and unclear; the latter entry appears excessive since the conversion motion is a form motion that required simply checking a few boxes. These two entries, totaling $1,205, have been eliminated below.
- 3) The majority of the early billing entries of Applicant's paralegal contain lumping. While this practice appears to have been corrected in early April, the court notes that for each of the following thirteen time entries, the reasonableness of the entry cannot be ascertained, or it appears that the requested fee is unreasonable:
 - a) February 1, 2017 ($652.50)
 - b) February 3, 2017 ($922.50)
 - c) February 6, 2017 ($843.75)
 - d) February 7, 2017 ($472.50)
 - e) February 7, 2017 ($720.00)

Docket 36

Tentative Ruling:

09/20/2017

BACKGROUND

On April 6, 2016, Luz Castro ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On January 9, 2017, Trustee filed an adversary proceeding against Enrique Castro ("Defendant") for: (1) avoidance of fraudulent transfer; and (2) recovery of avoided transfer. The subject of the adversary proceeding was certain real property located at 2035 Caseros Drive, San Jacinto, California 92592 (the "Property").

According to Trustee, Defendant acquired the Property shortly before the marriage of Defendant and Debtor. During the marriage, however, community property income was used to make mortgage payments, causing the community estate to acquire an interest in the Property. On March 31, 2015, Debtor transferred her interest in the property to Defendant. Trustee asserts that Debtor did not receive reasonably equivalent value for the transfer.

At the hearing on August 23, 2017, the Court required supplemental evidence regarding the value of the Property or the value of the community estate's interest in the Property to evaluate the reasonableness of the proposed settlement. On August 29, 2017, the Trustee filed his supplemental points and authorities. No opposition has been filed.

DISCUSSION

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9019 provides that:

On motion by the trustee and after notice and a hearing, the court may approve a compromise or settlement. Notice shall be given to creditors, the United States trustee, the debtor, and indenture trustees as provided in Rule 2002 and to any other entity as the court may direct.

The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals have previously outlined the factors to be considered in approving a compromise pursuant to Rule 9019: (1) the probability of success in the litigation; (2) the difficulties to be encountered in the matter of collection; (3) the complexity, expense, inconvenience and delay of litigation; and (4) the interest of creditors with deference to their reasonable. See In re A&C Props., 784 F.2d 1377, 1381 (9th Cir. 1986). The listed factors assist the Court in determining "the fairness, reasonableness and adequacy of a proposed settlement agreement." Id.

The Court has reviewed the Trustee's supplemental declaration. Based on the Trustee's calculation of the estate's interest in the Property at the time of the transfer of $17,387, and accounting for the fact that the Debtor received $2,100 from the refinance of the Property, it appears that the Debtor's estate is entitled to approximately $15,287 from the Property. The Trustee has indicated that the proposed settlement shall yield $10,000 for the estate within 60 days of the Court's entry of an order approving the settlement. Here, given the likelihood that attorney's fees for prosecution of the adversary would likely exceed the difference between the settlement amount and the $15,287 figure, the Court finds that the Trustee's judgment is reasonable and the Motion comports with the standard set forth in In re A&C Props, 784 F.2d 1377, 1381.

BACKGROUND

On April 6, 2016, Luz Castro ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On January 9, 2017, Trustee filed an adversary proceeding against Enrique Castro ("Defendant") for: (1) avoidance of fraudulent transfer; and (2) recovery of avoided transfer. The subject of the adversary proceeding was certain real property located at 2035 Caseros Drive, San Jacinto, California 92592 (the "Property").

According to Trustee, Defendant acquired the Property shortly before the marriage of Defendant and Debtor. Chapter 7

On July 6, 2017, Trustee filed a motion to approve compromise pursuant to Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9019. Trustee proposes to settle the adversary proceeding for $10,000. On July 28, 2017, the matter was set for hearing.

DISCUSSION

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9019 provides that:

On motion by the trustee and after notice and a hearing, the court may approve a compromise or settlement. Notice shall be given to creditors, the United States trustee, the debtor, and indenture trustees as provided in Rule 2002 and to any other entity as the court may direct.

The listed factors assist the Court in determining "the fairness, reasonableness and adequacy of a proposed settlement agreement." Id.

Trustee's compromise motion does not provide the information the Court requires to apply the A&C Properties factors or to assess the reasonableness of the settlement. First and foremost, the motion fails to identify the value of the Property or the value of the community estate's interest in the property, rendering it impossible to determining the reasonableness of the settlement amount. Additionally, the motion addresses the A&C Properties factors in cursory, boiler-plate language. Regarding factor (1), the motion simply states that success in the adversary is not guaranteed. Regarding factor (2), the motion states that Trustee would have to sell the Property if the adversary proceeding were successful. Regarding factor (3), the motion states that the adversary is "not overly complex" but additional fees would result. Regarding factor (4), the motion states that the settlement would provide funds for creditors.

In the absence of any evidence regarding the value of the Property or the value of the community estate's interest in the Property, the Court cannot approve the compromise when only general arguments have made in its support.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion or CONTINUE for supplemental pleading to allow the Court to evaluate the reasonableness of the proposed settlement amount.

On April 15, 2016, Alberto & Martina Plascencia ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On June 1, 2016, Debtors' Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On June 13, 2017, Trustee filed a motion to dismiss for failure to submit 2016 tax returns/refunds. On June 16, 2016, Debtors filed an opposition. The case was dismissed on July 25, 2017.

Debtors state that their tax "refunds" were sent in around June 16, 2016, but that their state returns were not processed until July 26, 2017. Trustee has filed comments indicating approval of the motion, if Debtors cure delinquency in the amount of $612.08.

Docket 35

Tentative Ruling:

9/21/17

Background:

On November 30, 2016, Diana Cescolini ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On January 24, 2017, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On April 12, 2017, Real Time Resolutions, Inc. ("Creditor") filed an unsecured proof of claim in the amount of $46,776.25 ("Claim 17"). On August 15, 2017, Debtors filed an objection to Claim 17.

Applicable Law:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). Analysis:

Debtors argue that the statute of limitations is four years for Creditor's claim and that Creditor's claim is therefore barred. Cal. Code Civ. P. § 337(2) provides for a statute of limitations of four years for:

more entries; (2) upon an account stated based upon an account in writing, but the acknowledgement of the account stated need not be in writing; (3) a balance due upon a mutual, open and current account, the items of which are in writing; provided, however, that where an account stated is based upon an account of one item, the time shall begin to run from the date of said item, and where an account stated is based upon an account of more than one item, the time shall begin to run from the date of the last item.

Cal. Code Civ. P. § 337(1) provides that the statute of limitations is also four years for claims based upon a contract.

The Court has reviewed Creditor's proof of claim and it appears that the applicable statute of limitations is four years pursuant to Cal. Code Civ. P. § 337. Creditor's proof of claim does not provide any evidence regarding the date of the last payment on the claim. Debtor's objection to claim indicates that she has not made payment on the claim since 2007, and, therefore, that the claim is barred by the statute of limitations.

Furthermore, the Court deems failure to oppose to be consent to the relief requested pursuant to Local Rule 9013-(1)(h).

Tentative Ruling

The Court is inclined to SUSTAIN the objection.

TENTATIVE

The Court having reviewed the motion, finding notice and service to be proper and reviewed the opposition, the Court is inclined to DENY the motion without prejudice. Specifically, as is noted in the opposition, Debtors have not submitted evidence which clearly establishes the amount owing on the senior security interest. Debtors have submitted a payoff quote, dated July 20, 2017, which states that the total amount due is $347,890.95. Debtors have additionally submitted a letter, dated May 17, 2017, which states that the remaining deferred principal amount is $129,872.54. Debtors' motion adds the two above amounts together, and asserts that the sum is the total amount due.

Nevertheless, the relationship between the two documents submitted by Debtors is unclear. The payoff quote submitted is dated approximately two months later than the letter, and, therefore, the letter cannot refer to the payoff quote. Because of this lack of clarity, Debtors have not established the amount owing on the senior security interest.

MOVANT: GW SAN DIEGO PROPERTIES, LLC

EH__

Docket 21

Tentative Ruling:

09/26/2017
Service is Proper
Opposition: None

As noted in the Court's prior tentative ruling of 8/29/2017, when considering the Debtor's Motion to Impose/Continue Stay in the instant case (Docket No. 8), the Property has been the subject of multiple unauthorized grant deeds and at least seven bankruptcy cases since 2010. Additionally, the Trustee's Deed of Sale following foreclosure was recorded on 6/29/2017. Based on the history of unauthorized transfers and bankruptcy filings, the Court finds that Movant has demonstrated sufficient bad faith grounds to justify granting relief from the stay under §§ 362(d)(1) and (d)(2) and (d)(4). The Court further GRANTS waiver of 4001(a)(3) stay and GRANTS Movant's requests under ¶¶ 7, 9 and 11, except that the request under ¶¶ 7 and 9 are modified to require recordation. Movant's requests under ¶¶ 3 and 10 are DENIED for lack of cause shown.

Docket 12

Tentative Ruling:

09/26/2017

In her prior case, Debtor fell behind in payments owed to the First and Second lienholders on her primary residence (lienholders had obtained APOs as to each). Relief from stay was entered as to the Second Priority lienholder immediately prior to the Debtor voluntarily dismissing the case. Debtor has now paid off her car which has increased her disposable income for the current plan. Her disposable income in the current plan is $795. In her prior chapter 13, she was only able to pledge $584.35. Based on her increase in disposable income Debtor seeks to pledge into her plan, the Debtor has demonstrated that the current plan is filed in good faith.

Additionally, service on the secured creditors in the case complies with Rule 7004 and no opposition to the Motion has been filed

Based on the foregoing, the Court's tentative ruling is to GRANT the Motion and continue the stay as to all creditors.

PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

On September 20, 2013, ASR Constructors, Inc. ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. On October 23, 2013, related entities Another Meridian Company, LLC ("Meridian") and Inland Machinery, Inc. ("Inland") (collectively, "Debtors") filed Chapter 11 voluntary petitions. On November 1, 2013, the Court ordered joint administration of the estates of Debtor, Meridian and Inland.

Prior to the filing of the bankruptcy petition, Gotte Electric, Inc. ("Gotte") filed a state court complaint against Debtors and Federal Insurance Company ("FIC") to set aside a fraudulent transfer. Upon Debtor's filing of a Chapter 11 petition, the action was removed to the bankruptcy court.

On November 17, 2015, Debtors filed a motion to approve compromise. On November 24, 2015, UST filed an objection. On December 1, 2015, Insurance Company of the West ("ICW") filed an objection. After further briefing, the Court granted the motion to approve the compromise, and an order was entered approving the compromise on December 30, 2015.

On January 8, 2016, Debtors' bankruptcy cases were dismissed. On February 13, 2017, Debtors' bankruptcy cases were reopened. On March 14, 2017, upon request by Debtors the Court modified the seventh paragraph of its dismissal order as follows:

7. ~~Except for the claims asserted in the declaratory relief action filed by ICW and/or Gotte pursuant to the Settlement Agreement,~~ this Court shall retain exclusive jurisdiction to enforce the provisions of the Settlement Agreement, 9019 Order and this Dismissal Order and to resolve any dispute(s) concerning the Settlement Agreement, the 9019 Order and/or this Dismissal Order or the rights and duties of the parties hereunder or thereunder or any issues relating to the Settlement Agreement, the 9019 Order and/or this Dismissal Order, including, interpretation of the terms, conditions and provisions thereof, and all issues and disputes arising in connection with the relief authorized under Settlement Agreement, the 9019 Order and/or this Dismissal Order.

On March 17, 2017, Debtors filed a complaint in interpleader against Gotte and other parties. On May 8, 2017, Debtors filed a motion for authorization to deposit disputed funds and for interpleader relief. At a status conference on May 16, 2017, the Court expressed some concerns with the relief requested, and Debtors filed a modification to motion on June 5, 2017.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Debtor was a general contractor. In connection with Debtor's work, FIC issues a number of surety performance and payment bonds on Debtor's behalf. Debtors and their principals, in return, executed various indemnity and collateral agreements in favor of FIC.

Gotte was Debtor's sub-contractor on three projects. On May 28, 2013, Gotte obtained a state court judgment against Debtor in the amount of $6,655,486.47, and on July 1, 2013, Gotte filed a UCC judgment lien against Debtor. On February 1, 2010, while the state court litigation was pending, Debtor transferred certain real property (the "Meridian Property") to Meridian for $3,100,000 and certain equipment and machinery (the "Equipment") to Inland for $3,780,458. These transfers were the subject the of the fraudulent transfer action commenced by Gotte. FIC has a lien on the Meridian Property, the Equipment, and Debtor's accounts receivable.

On December 17, 2013, the Court authorized the sale of that part of the Meridian Property located in the city of Riverside for a purchase price of $3,150,000. Net proceeds of the sale, totaling $1,790,000 were held in a DIP account, subject to the claims of Gotte, FIC, Berkley Regional Insurance Company ("BRIC") and ICW. Additionally, net proceeds of the sale of certain real property located in Phelan, totaling $50,000, were held in a DIP account subject to the claims of FIC and BRIC, and net proceeds of an auction sale of the Equipment, totaling $1,006,000, were held in a DIP account subject to the lien of FIC. The total amount of funds on hand at the time of the filing of the compromise motion was $3,152,360.28.

As part of the compromise motion, FIC agreed to grant a carve-out from its collateral in the amount of $200,000 plus 45% of net proceeds from the sale of the remainder of the Meridian Property. The various parties' respective rights to the FIC carve-out were not determined by the compromise motion.

On December 24, 2015, ICW filed a complaint in state court for declaratory relief and interpleader. On February 9, 2016, the IRS filed a notice of removal, removing the case to federal district court. On May 24, 2016, the district court dismissed the case upon motion of the IRS for lack of subject matter jurisdiction. As such, it is not clear that the interpleader action can be heard in either state court or federal district court.

DISCUSSION

Debtors request two categories of relief: (1) authority to deposit the funds constituting the FIC carve-out (the "Funds") into the court registry; and (2) various interpleader relief.

I. Deposit of Funds in Court Registry

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 7067 incorporates Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 67. FRCP Rule 67(a) states:

If any part of the relief sought is a money judgment or the disposition of a sum of money or some other deliverable thing, a party – on notice to every other party and by leave of court – may deposit with the court all or part of the money or thing, whether or not that party claims any of it. The depositing party must deliver to the clerk a copy of the order permitting deposit.

FRCP Rule 67 is properly invoked when there is a live dispute regarding the entitlement to the funds in question. See generally Alstom Caribe, Inc. v. George P. Reintjes Co., Inc., 484 F.3d 106, 113 (1st Cir. 2007) ("The core purpose of Rule 67 is to relieve a party who holds a contested fund from responsibility for disbursement of that fund among those claiming some entitlement thereto."); see also Garrick v. Weaver, 888 F.2d 687, 694 (10th Cir. 1989) ("The language of Rule 67 leaves to the discretion of the district court the decision as to whether to permit the deposit of funds in court. . . . The magistrate acted well within his discretionary authority in allowing the funds to be paid into court and excusing the defendants. His decision both ensured that the settlement fund would be available for disbursement and facilitated judicial economy by permitting the defendants, who no longer had an interest in the funds or in these proceedings, to withdraw.").

Here, there is clearly a live dispute regarding entitlement to the Funds.

II. Interpleader Relief

Debtors' original motion requested that the Court grant the following five forms of relief: (1) discharge Debtors from further liability to the named defendants; (2) dismissal of Debtors, with prejudice, from the adversary; (3) entry of a permanent injunction preventing Defendants from asserting claims against Debtor relating to the settlement funds; (4) requiring the named defendants to litigate between themselves; (5) an award of costs and reasonable attorney fees. Debtors' modification to the motion withdrew the last request, and modified the second request to reduce Debtors' role in the action to that of a monitoring capacity.

"In an interpleader action, the 'stakeholder' of a sum of money sues all those who might have claim to the money, deposits the money with the district court, and lets the claimants litigate who is entitled to the money." Cripps v. Life Ins. Co. of N. Am., 980 F.2d 1261, 1265 (9th Cir. 1992). Procedurally,

An interpleader action typically involves two stages. In the first stage, the district court decides whether the requirements for rule or statutory interpleader action have been met by determining if there is a single fund at issue and whether there are adverse claimants to that fund. If the district court finds that the interpleader action has been properly brought the district court will then make a determination of the respective rights of the claimants.

Here, Debtors are relying on rule interpleader. Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 22(a)(1), incorporated into bankruptcy proceedings by Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 7022(a), states:

- (1) By a Plaintiff. Persons with claims that may expose a plaintiff to double or multiple liability may be joined as defendants and required to interplead. Joinder for interpleader is proper even though:
 - (A) the claims of the several claimants, or the titles on which their claims depend, lack a common origin or are adverse and independent rather than identical; or
 - (B) the plaintiff denies liability in whole or in part to any or all of the claimants.

Here, the various defendants' actual or potential claims to the Funds may expose Debtors to multiple liability. Therefore, an interpleader action is appropriate.

In cases where an interpleader action is appropriate, Collier states the following:

By turning over the fund or the property as directed by the court, the plaintiff may be discharged from the proceeding and any further liability. There may be an injunction issued to prevent the adverse claimants from further pursuing the stakeholder. On a finding that interpleader is proper, the court will then enter an order requiring the claimants to the fund or property to interplead.

10 Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 7022.01 (16th ed. 2013); see also 28 U.S.C. § 2361. Here, Debtors' requests closely track the language identified in Collier's and, in the absence of opposition, appear appropriate here.

A. Bankruptcy Court Jurisdiction

Nevertheless, the Court must determine whether it has subject matter jurisdiction. See, e.g., In re Strawberry, 464 B.R. 443, 447 (Bankr. N.D. Fla. 2012). This complaint in interpleader was filed in a dismissed bankruptcy case and would result in litigation over non-bankruptcy claims between non-debtor parties.

28 U.S.C. § 157 provides for four categories of cases which the district court may refer to the bankruptcy court: (1) cases under title 11; (2) proceedings arising under title 11; (3) proceedings arising in a case under title 11; and (4) proceedings related to a case under title 11. See, e.g., In re S&M Constructors, Inc., 144 B.R. 855, 858 (Bankr. W.D. Mo. 1992). Additionally, 28 U.S.C. § 157(b) divides matters into core and non-core proceedings.

The first category, cases under title 11, refers to the bankruptcy case commenced by the filing of the petition. See, e.g., In re Wood, 825 F.2d 90, 92 (5th Cir. 1987). This category is inapplicable here, as the matter at issue is a complaint in interpleader.

The second category, proceedings arising under title 11, refers to those actions that are expressly created by title 11. See, e.g., In re Wolverine Radio Co., Inc., 930 F.2d 1132, 1141, n.14 (6th Cir. 1991). This category is inapplicable here – the underlying liability is premised upon state law claims.

The third category¹, proceedings arising in a case under title 11, refers to claims that, although not created by title 11, would have no existence absent the bankruptcy, such as administrative matters. See, e.g., In re Repository Techs., Inc., 601 F.3d 710, 719 (7th Cir. 2010). This category is inapplicable here.

Chapter 11

The fourth category, proceedings related to a case under title 11, contains two different subsets: (1) causes of action owned by the debtor that become property of the estate under § 541; and (2) suits between third parties which in one way or another affect the administration of the bankruptcy case. Id. It is only the latter category that is potentially invoked by this proceeding.

The primary test for related to jurisdiction is the Third Circuit's Pacor test:

The usual articulation of the test for determining whether a civil proceeding is related to bankruptcy is whether the outcome of that proceeding could conceivably have any effect on the estate being administered in bankruptcy. Thus, the proceeding need not necessarily be against the debtor or against the debtor's property. An action is related to bankruptcy if the outcome could alter the debtor's rights, liabilities, options, or freedom of action . . . and which in any way impacts upon the handling and administration of the bankrupt estate.

Pacor, Inc. v. Higgins, 743 F.2d 984, 994 (3rd Cir. 1984). The Supreme Court previously acknowledged the prevalence of the Pacor test:

In attempting to strike an appropriate balance, the Third Circuit in Pacor, Inc. v. Higgins, 743 F.2d 984 (1984), devised the following test for determining the existence of "related to" jurisdiction:

The First, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth, and Eleventh Circuits have adopted the Pacor test with little or no variation. The Second and Seventh Circuits, on the other hand, seem to have adopted a slightly different test. But whatever test is used, these cases make clear that bankruptcy courts have no jurisdiction over proceedings that have no effect on the estate of the debtor.

Celotex Corp. v. Edwards, 514 U.S. 300, 308 n.6 (1995) (citations omitted).

The Ninth Circuit has recently reiterated its approval of the Pacor test for pre-confirmation matters:

The test for post-confirmation "related to" jurisdiction was modified from the seminal pre-confirmation Pacor test for "related to" jurisdiction, which had been previously adopted by the Ninth Circuit in In re Fietz, 852 F.2d 455, 457 (9th Cir. 1988). Surveying the courts that had applied a limited version of the Pacor test in the post-confirmation context, we recognized that the Pacor test of whether the outcome of the proceeding could conceivably have any effect on the estate being administered in bankruptcy . . . If the outcome could alter the debtor's rights, liabilities, options, or freedom of action . . . and which in any way impacts upon the handling and administration of the bankruptcy estate was somewhat overbroad in the post-confirmation context.

In re Wilshire Courtyard, 729 F.3d 1279, 1287 (9th Cir. 2013) (citations and quotations omitted).

First, it is unclear whether the complaint in interpleader would affect the administration of the bankruptcy estate, if a bankruptcy estate was being administered, Second, the Court must consider whether it can ever have "related to" jurisdiction in an action filed in a dismissed case because there is no estate to administer, and, consequently, such an action cannot affect administration of the estate.

The Pacor test includes two requirements: (1) the action must alter the rights or obligations of the debtor; and (2) the action must have an effect on the administration of the estate. See, e.g., In re Bass, 171 F.3d 1016, 1022 (5th Cir. 1999). This second prong becomes an issue when an action is filed in a dismissed case. See, e.g., id. ("The second prong, however, is problematical. Although the injunction would have an impact on the Debtor, it could not have any effect whatsoever on his estate in bankruptcy or its administration. First and foremost, such an estate no longer exists.").

A different situation arises when, after an action is commenced, the underlying bankruptcy case is dismissed. Courts have generally concluded that in such a situation, retention of jurisdiction is discretionary, and based on principles of equity and judicial economy. See, e.g., In re Smith, 866 F.2d 576, 580 (3rd Cir. 1989) ("Drawing upon an analogy to the disposition of ancillary and pendent claims, the courts have held that they may consider a number of factors to determine whether jurisdiction should be retained."). Such a situation is, however, fundamentally different from the situation here. See id. ("Appellees fail, however, to distinguish between the determination of the existence of jurisdiction at the outset of these proceedings and the determination of whether 'related' claims should be dismissed with the dismissal of the bankruptcy case or the discharge of the debtor."); In re Fietz, 852 F.2d 455, 457 n.2 (9th Cir. 1988) ("Subject matter jurisdiction should be determined as of the date that the complaint, or in this case the cross-claim, was filed.").

In developing a standard for when a bankruptcy court should retain jurisdiction following the dismissal of the underlying case, courts have analogized the situation to a district court's retention of pendent state claims following dismissal of the federal claims. See, e.g., In re Porges, 44 F.3d 159, 162-63 (2nd Cir. 1995); In re Carraher, 971 F.2d 327, 328 (9th Cir. 1992); In re Casamont Investors, Ltd., 196 B.R. 517, 522 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1996) ("In determining whether the bankruptcy court abused its discretion by retaining jurisdiction over related proceedings, the Ninth Circuit and several other circuits have analogized to cases concerning the propriety of district courts retaining jurisdiction over pendent state law claims after federal claims have been dismissed."). Applying that analogy and the applicable standard to the matter at issue here reveals the fundamental problem: a district court can never exercise pendent jurisdiction over state law claims when, at their commencement, there is no existing federal claim for the state claims to supplement. In the bankruptcy context, the Court cannot exercise related to jurisdiction if there is no bankruptcy case for the complaint to relate to.

C. Ancillary or Retained Jurisdiction

Attempts have been made to avoid this issue by arguing for the existence of supplemental or retained jurisdiction. See In re Bass, 171 F.3d 1016, 1023-242 (5th Cir. 1999) (supplemental) ("Congress has gone to great lengths to determine what proceedings may be tried by bankruptcy courts, and the exercise of ancillary and pendent jurisdiction by bankruptcy courts could subsume the more restrictive 'related to' and 'arising in' jurisdiction, such that the latter would be rendered substantially, if not entirely, superfluous."); id. at 1025 (retained) ("[B]efore a court can exercise its discretion to 'retain' jurisdiction over a 'related proceeding,' the court must have had jurisdiction over that proceeding in the first place. The Denneys did not file their suit in Texas until after the bankruptcy case in Utah had been closed. From a purely temporal standpoint, there was no proceeding over which bankruptcy court jurisdiction could be 'retained.'"); see also In re Morris, 950 F.2d 1531, 1534 (11th Cir. 1992) (same). The Ninth Circuit has previously discussed the application of supplemental, or ancillary, jurisdiction in the context of interpreting a settlement agreement in a Chapter 11 structured dismissal:

Here, when Sea Hawk filed its adversary proceeding, VFDA's Chapter 11 case had been dismissed and a final decree entered. . . .

The bankruptcy court has no role in the resolution of the creditors' dispute, and it is involved only fortuitously because the dispute implicates the terms of a settlement agreement approved by the court as a precondition of the dismissal of VFDA's bankruptcy. . . .

The bankruptcy court did not consider dismissal of VFDA's bankruptcy to automatically divest it of jurisdiction over a related case. It reasoned that after dismissal, the court has discretion to retain jurisdiction over a related proceeding, citing In re Carraher, 971 F.2d 327, 328 (9th Cir. 1992). . . .

Carraher does not support the bankruptcy court's decision. It stands for the proposition that a bankruptcy court may retain jurisdiction over a related proceeding pending at the time of the dismissal of the bankruptcy case. It does not support the assertion of bankruptcy jurisdiction over a proceeding initiated subsequent to the dismissal of the bankruptcy case.

In re Valdez Fisheries Dev. Ass'n, Inc., 439 F.3d 545, 547-48 (9th Cir. 2006). Valdez Fisheries, however, made clear that the result may have been different had the Court's dismissal order explicitly retained jurisdiction over the dispute in question. See id. at 549 ("Ancillary jurisdiction may rest on one of two bases: (1) to permit disposition by a single court of factually interdependent claims, and (2) to enable a court to vindicate its authority and effectuate its decrees.") (citing Kokkonen v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 511 U.S. 375, 79-80 (1994)). The second purpose of Kokkonen's retained, related-to jurisdiction is at issue here.

Nevertheless, the second prong of the Kokkonen test has its limits. See, e.g., In re Ray, 624 F.3d 1124, 1136 (9th Cir. 2010) ("In short, hearing a breach of contract claim predicated on evidence that came to light after a bankruptcy case had closed, its creditors paid, and the debtor discharged, stretches the limits of the bankruptcy court's ancillary jurisdiction too far, going beyond what is necessary for the bankruptcy court to 'effectuate its decrees.' . . . Reopening of the bankruptcy case is rare, and only used when necessary to resolve bankruptcy issues, not to adjudicate state law claims that can be adjudicated in state court.") (citation omitted). Importantly, an explicit retention of jurisdiction is only valid to the extent that jurisdiction is retained over claims that could have been heard at the time that jurisdiction was retained. See, e.g., In re Nobel Group, Inc., 529 B.R. 284, 292 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2015). To conclude otherwise would be to allow bankruptcy courts to craft their own jurisdictional authority. See, e.g., In re Resorts Int'l, Inc., 372 F.3d 154, 161 (3rd Cir. 2004) ("[N] either the bankruptcy court nor the parties can write their own jurisdictional ticket. When a court lacks subject matter jurisdiction over a dispute, the parties cannot create it by agreement even in a plan of reorganization.").

First, there appears to be a problem in that jurisdiction was not conferred until the time of the dismissal order. Here, the retention of jurisdiction over the interpleader action was concurrent with dismissal of the case, and, as such, the claim for which jurisdiction was retained could not have been filed until after the case was dismissed. As stated above, related to jurisdiction is determined at the time the claim is filed, but, importantly, is premised upon the existence of a case that the claim can be related to. Therefore, because the jurisdiction in question was only conferred in a dismissal order, there would no existing bankruptcy case at the time an interpleader action could have been filed, so as to confer related to jurisdiction. The Court is aware of the confusing nature of the issue.

Second, even if the retention of jurisdiction had been in the settlement order, and, as such, the retention of jurisdiction would have arisen in the context of an existing case, allowing related to jurisdiction to exist², it would be unclear, possibly unlikely, that the Court would have subject matter jurisdiction over the complaint in interpleader. As briefly alluded to in section B, supra, the Ninth Circuit has limited the Pacor "related to" test to pre-confirmation matters, and has imposed a more demanding test for post-confirmation matters. See In re Pegasus Gold Corp., 394 F.3d 1189, 1194 (9th Cir. 2005). The rationale for this distinction is that the bankruptcy estate ceases to exist post confirmation. See generally id. Pegasus Gold, therefore, replaced the more liberal Pacor test with a "close nexus" test after the dissolution of the bankruptcy estate. See id. The "close nexus" test requires that the matter be directly affect the bankruptcy proceeding for subject matter jurisdiction to be present. See id. It is difficult to ascertain how the "close nexus" test could be satisfied when the basis for the complaint in interpleader, the settlement agreement, also contemplates that the bankruptcy proceedings will cease.

Furthermore, even if Debtors had modified the settlement order and could show that the "close nexus" test was satisfied, the pendent jurisdiction test alluded to in section B, supra, may also merit consideration. This test instructs the Court to consider the interests of "economy, convenience, fairness and comity." See In re Carraher, 971 F.2d 327, 328 (9th Cir. 1992).

Chapter 11

The Court need not reach the "close nexus" or pendent jurisdiction tests at this point, however, for the following two reasons: (1) the modification of the dismissal order does not properly appear to confer jurisdiction on the Court, and (2) the settlement order expressly disclaims jurisdiction over the interpleader action.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court believes dismissal of the adversary for lack of subject matter jurisdiction is appropriate. The Court will consider whether to, on its own motion, amend the dismissal order to delete the retention of jurisdiction, and at the request of the parties, may continue the hearing for further briefing in light of the foregoing.

Background

On November 10, 2016 ("Petition Date"), B & B Family, Incorporated ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. The Debtor is owned by Patricia Forte (who owns 50% of shares) and by Randall and Marianne Richey, husband and wife, who own the remaining 50% of shares in the Debtor (collectively, "Shareholders")

Debtor operates Oggi's Pizza and Brewing Company in Apple Valley, California. Debtor has fifty-five employees. The Debtor's Schedules show that it had approximately $114,662.50 in assets as of the Petition Date. The Debtor's assets consist primarily of leased equipment, business licenses, and liquid assets in the form of cash and accounts.

On March 31, 2017, Debtor filed its Disclosure Statement and Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization. On May 2, 2017, Comerica Bank filed a Limited Response to the Debtor's Disclosure Statement pointing simply to the Debtor's omission of its franchise agreement as an executory contract being assumed. In response, the Debtor amended its Disclosure Statement and Plan on May 2, 2017 (the "Amended DS and Plan"). Additionally, on May 3, 2017, the Debtor filed redline versions of the Amended DS and Plan reflecting the changes made since the March 31, 2017, filings.

Following the May 2017, hearing on the Disclosure Statement, the Debtor filed amended pleadings on June 13, 2017. Service was proper and no objections to the Debtor's Second Amended Disclosure Statement have been filed.

Legal Standards

A. Adequate Information

A Chapter 11 disclosure statement is required to contain "adequate information" pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1125(b). Section 1125(f)(2) provides that: "the court may approve a disclosure statement submitted on standard forms approved by the court or adopted under section 2075 of title 28." The United States Courts have devised a disclosure statement template for small businesses, Form B25B, which Debtor generally adopted as to format.

As to the substance of a disclosure statement, 11 U.S.C. § 1125(a)(1) defines "adequate information" as:

information of a kind, and in sufficient detail as far as is reasonably practicable in light of the nature and history of the debtor and the condition of the debtor's books and records, including a discussion of the potential material Federal tax consequences of the plan to the debtor, any successor to the debtor, and a hypothetical investor typical of the holders of claims or interests in the case, that would enable such a hypothetical investor of the relevant class to make an informed judgment about the plan, but adequate information need not include such information about any other possible or proposed plan and in determining whether a disclosure statement provides adequate information, the court shall consider the complexity of the case, the benefit of additional information to creditors and other parties in interest, and the cost of providing additional information

The type of information required varies with the circumstances. See, e.g., In re Jeppson, 66 B.R. 269, 292 (Bankr. D. Utah 1986) (listing nineteen categories of information commonly required); see also In re Malek, 35 B.R. 443, 443-44 (Bankr. E.D. Mich. 1983) (listing minimum requirements).

Tentative Ruling

The Court has examined the Debtor's Amended DS and Plan to determine whether "adequate information has been provided and has identified the following issues to be addressed:

- The DS and Plan contemplate bifurcation of Comerica and FPL's claims and avoidance of remaining junior liens. A Motion to Value was filed on July 24.

- The Declaration of Marianne Richey makes reference to Exhibit E and purports to authenticate this Exhibit as the "Annual Projected Cash Flow" for the Debtor based on monthly operating reports from December 2016 to April 2017. However, the "Annual Projected Cash Flow" is Exhibit D, not Exhibit E as indicated in the declaration.

There is no need for a further hearing. Once the Debtor has amended the disclosure statement the Debtor may lodge a proposed order approving the disclosure statement, as modified.

BACKGROUND

Debtor obtained a discharge in a Chapter 7 case filed on November 30, 2010. Between February 14, 2013 and September 18, 2015, Debtor filed four Chapter 13 cases, all of which were dismissed within one year.

On August 5, 2016, Elizabeth Baker ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On October 26, 2016, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed. On June 9, 2017, unaware that she was ineligible for a Chapter 7 discharge, Debtor converted her case to Chapter 7. On July 24, 2017, Debtor filed a motion to reconvert to Chapter 13.

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 706(a) states: "The debtor may convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 11, 12, or 13 of this title at any time, if the case has not been converted under section 1112, 1208, or 1307 of this title." Here, Debtor's case was previously converted under § 1307.

"Courts are divided as to whether the debtor can re-convert a case that has been previously converted." Ginsberg & Martin on Bankruptcy § 12.13[A] (5th ed. 2017-2); see also In re Masterson, 141 B.R. 84, 87 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 1992) ("The courts appear to be evenly divided on the issue of whether a 'second conversion' of a case previously converted to Chapter 7 is ever permissible.") (collecting cases). The courts that have determined that § 706(a) bars subsequent reconversion have primarily relied upon the plain language of the statute, but have also considered the legislative history. See In re Banks, 252 B.R. 399, 400 (Bankr. E.D. Mich. 2000). One court has stated the following:

Unfortunately, for the debtor, the language of Section 706 clearly bars a debtor from converting a case from Chapter 7 to Chapter 13 more than once. Subsection (a) of that section states in relevant part that a "debtor may convert a case under this chapter to a case under Chapter 11 or 13 of this title at any time, if the case has not been converted under Section 1112 or 1307 of this title. The language of this statute is not discretionary. By its plain meaning it bars the debtor from this second attempt at conversion. Moreover, there is no case law supporting a discretionary right. At least one other bankruptcy court has arrived at this conclusion, In re Bumpass, 28 B.R. 597 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 1983), and this Court shares that view.

In re Nimai Kumar Ghosh, 38 B.R. 600, 603 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 1984) (footnote omitted).

As the court implicitly concluded in Nimai Kumar Ghosh, the phrase appears "if the case has not been converted" appears to modify the entirety of the first clause, not simple the language "at any time." The phrase "at any time" is not set off from the remainder of the clause in any fashion. Therefore, §706(a) is only applicable if the case has not been converted previously. The remaining question is, if § 706(a) is inapplicable, can the Debtor resort to any other mechanism in order to convert her

Courts that have permitted a reconversion appear to fall into two categories. First, some courts appear to believe that, when § 706(a) is inapplicable, the default position is that the Court has discretion to allow conversion based on policy grounds. See, e.g., In re Masterson, 141 B.R. at 88. Other courts have turned to § 706(c). See, e.g., Matter of Johnson, 116 B.R. 224, 225 (Bankr. Idaho 1990); In re Sensibaugh, 9 B.R. 45, 46 (Bankr. E.D. Va. 1981). Section 706(c) states: "[t]he court may not convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 12 or 13 of this title unless the debtor requests or consents to such conversion." While the plain language of § 706(c) indicates that it operates as a restraint on the court's authority, not as a source of authority, courts that have utilized this provision appear to conclude that if the debtor consents to or requests conversion, the court has discretion to permit such conversion.

A third possibility is that a debtor could seek voluntary dismissal or conversion under § 707, consent to conversion, and allow the Court to determine whether dismissal or conversion was more appropriate in the circumstances. This approach would have the disadvantage of possibly resulting in dismissal of the case, but it would seem to solve the statutory interpretation issues encountered by the alternative approaches.

Nevertheless, the Court need not determine whether reconversion is permitted under § 706(a) because, if the Court were to conclude that reconversion is discretionary, Debtor has not demonstrated that the exercise of such discretion would be appropriate. Debtor has had four Chapter 13 cases dismissed in the previous five years. More importantly, at the time Debtor converted to Chapter 7, there was an outstanding motion to dismiss pending for failure to make plan payments. Debtor appears to have chosen to convert the case to Chapter 7 rather than resolve the Chapter 13 Trustee's pending motion to dismiss.

Given Debtor's history in bankruptcy, the absence of any legal argument in Debtor's motion, and the absence of any evidence suggesting a change in circumstances which would allow Debtor to be successful in a Chapter 13 proceeding, the reconversion of the case, even if the Court were to conclude that such reconversion was legally

Docket 35

 VACATED  REASON: ORDER ENTERED 9/20/17

Tentative Ruling:

08/02/2017

Factual Background

On June 3, 2016 ("Petition Date"), Barbara Ellen Dunn-Leonard ("Debtor") filed a chapter 7 petition. Discharge was granted on September 12, 2016. Larry D. Simons ("Trustee") is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee.

Debtor's Schedule A/B lists Debtor's interest in a whole-life-policy-with-an-irrevocable-trust, Barbara Dunn-Leonard Insurance Trust ("Policy"). The beneficiaries to the Policy are listed as Ralph Edwards Production ("Ralph Edwards"), Daughter, and Son. The Policy has a cash value of $120,949.35. Debtor claims a $14,325.00 exemption pursuant to C.C.P. § 703.140 (b)(8) and a $18,149.00 exemption pursuant to C.C.P. § 703.140 (b)(5) on the Policy.

On October 7, 2016, Trustee sent an e-mail to Debtor's counsel, Leslie K. Kaufman. In said e-mail Trustee asked "if there were any documents which would evidence the security interest in the life insurance policy as asserted by the debtor?" ("October 7 E-mail"). Trustee alleges that no response was received. Trustee then e-mailed Debtor's counsel again on April 28, 2017 with a similar inquiry ("April 28 E-mail"). Trustee alleges no response was received from Debtor's counsel regarding the April 28 E-mail. Trustee concedes that he is in possession of the Policy.

On July 5, 2016, Trustee filed a Motion for Order Compelling Turnover of Debtor's Books and Records ("Motion"). Trustee alleges that Debtor has failed to Trustee requests that the Court compel Debtor to turnover books and records relating or pertaining to the Debtor's interest in the cash surrender value of the Property and books and records relating to or pertaining to the security interest of Ralph Edwards in and to the Policy and its cash surrender value.

Opposition

On July 19, 2017, Debtor filed an opposition ("Opposition") to Trustee's Motion. Debtor asserts that Trustee's Motion is improper and a misrepresentation of the events leading to the Motion. Debtor asserts that she has fully complied with each of Trustee's requests and there is no other information or documents to be turned over. Debtor asserts that, through counsel, she has spent more than a year trying to determine whether Debtor could do anything else to assist Trustee. Debtors attempts were ignored by Trustee and Trustee's counsel.

In support of Debtor's Opposition, Debtor provides as evidence a series of e-mails. The e-mails are outlined below:

Date	Sender	Content
07/08/2016	Debtor's Counsel	E-mail containing letter explaining Ralph Edwards' interest in the trust, as well as the 2015 Policy statement
10/07/2016	Trustee	Request for any further information about the Policy/Trust
10/11/2016	Debtor's Counsel	Debtor is unaware of any security interest documents outside those set forth in the Trust
11/29/2016	Debtor's Counsel	Request for call to discuss the Trust
11/29/2016	Trustee's Counsel	Counsel states "I will reach out to you in the next day or so"
12/13/2016	Debtor's Counsel	Counsel states "I have still not received any communication from you other than your email of November 29th. Please call me at your earliest convenience."

12/13/2016	Debtor's Counsel	Counsel writes "There was no voicemail message. My November 28 th email appears at the bottom of this chain below. Please call me at your earliest convenience."
04/28/2016	Debtor's Counsel	Counsel writes " Despite the passage of almost six months I have still not received any substantive communication from you. I left messages on your voicemail on March 15, 2017 at 4:40 PM; and on April 26,2017 at 12:01 PM, but have yet to receive a return call. Please contact me at your earliest convenience so that we may discuss the above referenced bankruptcy matter."

Each e-mail sent by Debtor's counsel was sent to the attorney of record for Trustee as well as to the Trustee. Debtor's counsel also requested to be advised if there had been a change of counsel or if it was best to communicate directly with Trustee.

Furthermore, Debtor asserts that Trustee's representation that Debtor never responded to the request made via the October 7 E-mail is incorrect. Debtor responded to the request on October 11, 2017. Debtor also contends that the April 28 E-mail presented by Trustee in the Motion, was in fact a response to an e-mail sent by Debtor's counsel and not a stand-alone inquiry made by Trustee.

Debtor requests that the Court award attorney fees and costs needed to oppose the Motion.

Reply

On July 26, 2017, the Trustee filed his reply to the Opposition asserting, correctly, that no direct evidence has been provided to support the explanations

Chapter 7

Discussion

A. Motion for Order Compelling Turnover of Records

A debtor must cooperate with the trustee as necessary to enable the trustee to perform his statutory duties. 11 U.S.C. § 521(a)(3). Among those duties is the trustee's duty to "collect and reduce to money the property of the estate for which the trustee serves, and close the estate as expeditiously as is compatible with the best interests of parties in interest." 11 U.S.C. § 704 (a)(1). Furthermore the trustee must "investigate the financial affairs of the debtor." 11 U.S.C § 704 (a)(4).

A debtor must surrender to the trustee all property of the estate and any recorded information, including books, documents, records, and papers relating to the property of the estate. 11 U.S.C. § 521(a)(4). Property of the estate includes "all legal or equitable interests of the debtor is property as of the commencement of the case." 11 U.S.C. § 541(a)(1). Life insurance policies are not excluded from becoming part of the bankruptcy estate. Gladstone v. U.S. Bancorp, 811 F.3d 1133, 1140 (9th Cir. 2016).

Here, Debtor has presented in her Schedule A/B the Policy with a cash value of $120,949.35. Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 541(a)(1), the Policy is property of the estate. Debtor must surrender all books, document, records and papers relating to the Policy pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 521(a)(4). Debtor asserts all documents have been surrendered.

Under 11 U.S.C. § 542(a), an entity in "possession, custody, or control, during the case, of property that the trustee may use, sell, or lease under section 363 of this title or that the debtor may exempt under section 522 of this title, shall deliver to the trustee, and account for, such property or the value of such property, unless such property is of inconsequential value or benefit to the estate." 11 U.S.C. § 542(a). Trustee asserts that Debtor has failed comply with § 542 in that she has failed to deliver to Trustee the records pertaining to the Policy, Debtor's interest in the cash value, and Ralph Edwards' interest in the Policy.

Trustee concedes that he is in possession of the Policy and the irrevocable trust. However, Trustee alleges that he needs to review any records pertaining to Ralph Edwards' interest in the Policy in order to determine the validity of Ralph Edwards' interest in the Policy. According to Trustee, Debtor has failed to cooperate with Trustee and those documents have been denied to him. Furthermore, Trustee needs the additional records to determine if Ralph Edwards' interest is a preferential transfer or a fraudulent conveyance. This information is relevant to a determination of whether Ralph Edwards' interest may be avoided for the benefit of the estate.

Debtor alleges that all documents requested by Trustee were turned over to Trustee on July 8, 2017. Debtor contends that there are no other documents which can be provided to Trustee and Trustee was informed of this on October 11, 2017. However, the Trustee correctly points out that the Debtor has not provided direct evidence from the Debtor regarding the underlying facts asserted in the Opposition. Specifically, the Opposition provides only second-hand hearsay evidence by Debtor's counsel regarding the non-existence of documents responsive to the Trustee's request for turnover and although the Opposition purports to provide an explanation of the facts surrounding the grant of a security interest to Ralph Edwards Productions by the Debtor in her Life Insurance Trust, there is no declaration by the Debtor to support these facts nor is Counsel able to testify to their veracity.

B. Debtor's Request for Attorney's Fees and Cost

Debtor fails to provide any statutory authority under which attorney's fees and costs may be awarded. Thus, this request is denied.

Tentative Ruling

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Trustee's Motion and order turnover of the documents. Alternatively, the Court may set the matter for an evidentiary hearing for the Debtor to testify regarding the facts described in the Opposition.

EH__

Docket 29

Tentative Ruling:

9/27/17

BACKGROUND

On July 12, 2017, an involuntary Chapter 7 petition was filed against Integrated Wealth Management, Inc. ("Debtor"). After an extension of the applicable deadline, Debtor filed its answer on September 12, 2017.

Prior to the answer being filed, One El Paseo North, LLC ("Landlord") filed a motion for immediate payment of its gap rent claim pursuant to § 502(f). Landlord asserts that it holds a gap rent claim totaling $27,776.73, covering the time period between the filing of the involuntary petition, on July 12, 2017, and the time Debtor abandoned the premises, on August 18, 2017.

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 502(f) states:

Chapter 7

(f) In an involuntary case, a claim arising in the ordinary course of the debtor's business or financial affairs after the commencement of the case but before the earlier of the appointment of the appointment of a trustee and the order for relief shall be determined as of the date such claim arises, and shall be allowed under subsection (a), (b), or (c) of this section or disallowed under subsection (d) or (e) of this section, the same as if such claim had arisen before the date of the filing of the petition.

While Landlord is correct that the Bankruptcy Code allows payment of ordinary course business claims that accrue during the gap period, it is unclear what the legal justification is for Landlord's request that the Court order the gap claim to be paid immediately. 11 U.S.C. § 507(a)(3) specifically affords debts incurred pursuant to § 502(f) third-priority status. If the estate is administratively insolvent, or does not have funds to pay all first, second, and third-priority claims, then Landlord would not receive full payment of its claim. Because Landlord may not receive full payment of its claim, it would be inappropriate to order immediate payment of its claim.

Debtor further objects to the issuance of an order allowing Landlord's claim, asserting that a motion to allow a claim for an unpaid § 502(f) claim is procedurally improper. The Court disagrees with Debtor's contention that a party cannot seek allowance of an administrative claim separate from filing a proof of claim. As an order for relief has not yet been entered, however, the relief requested is premature, since, among other things, a Chapter 7 trustee has not had the opportunity to vet the request. As an aside, the Court notes that Landlord has filed a proof of claim, but it did not request administrative priority.

The Court will DENY the motion.

BACKGROUND

On September 30, 2013, Charles Biehl ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On September 21, 2015, Trustee filed an adversary proceeding against Rene Clements-Biehl ("Defendant") for: (1) avoidance and recovery of intentional fraudulent transfer; (2) avoidance and recovery of constructively fraudulent transfer; (3) avoidance and recovery of preferential transfer; (4) disallowance of claims; (5) unjust enrichment; (6) declaratory relief. The subject of the adversary proceeding was certain real property located at 6 Dover Ct., Rancho Mirage, CA 92270 and 3338 Tempe Dr., Huntington Beach, CA 92649, and certain furniture located therein.

According to Trustee, pursuant to a marital settlement agreement, a state court entered a judgment confirming a property division on October 30, 2012. Later, on November 21, 2012, Debtor transferred to Defendant the real property located in Huntington Beach pursuant to an interspousal grant deed.

On August 15, 2017, Trustee filed a motion to approve compromise pursuant to Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9019. Trustee proposes to settle the adversary proceeding for either payment of $229,000 within four months, or payment of $256,000 over four years. On

DISCUSSION

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9019 provides that:

On motion by the trustee and after notice and a hearing, the court may approve a compromise or settlement. Notice shall be given to creditors, the United States trustee, the debtor, and indenture trustees as provided in Rule 2002 and to any other entity as the court may direct.

The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals have previously outlined the factors to be considered in approving a compromise pursuant to Rule 9019: (1) the probability of success in the litigation; (2) the difficulties to be encountered in the matter of collection; (3) the complexity, expense, inconvenience and delay of litigation; and (4) the interest of creditors with deference to their reasonable. See In re A&C Props., 784 F.2d 1377, 1381 (9th Cir. 1986). The listed factors assist the Court in determining "the fairness, reasonableness and adequacy of a proposed settlement agreement." Id.

Trustee's compromise motion does not provide the information the Court requires to apply the A&C Properties factors or to assess the reasonableness of the settlement because the motion fails to identify the value of the Property or estimate the value of Debtor's interest in the property, rendering it impossible to determining the reasonableness of the settlement amount.

In the absence of any evidence regarding the value of the Property or the value of the community estate's interest in the Property, the Court cannot approve the compromise

Docket 98

Tentative Ruling:

09/28/2017

BACKGROUND

On August 5, 2016, Elizabeth Baker ("Debtor") filed her petition for chapter 13 relief. The Debtor's chapter 13 plan was confirmed on October 26, 2016. Rod Danielson was the duly appointed chapter 13 trustee ("Trustee"). On June 9, 2017, the Debtor filed a motion to convert the case from a chapter 13 to a case under chapter 7. The case was converted by the Court on the same date, pursuant to §1307(a) (the "Conversion Order").

On July 11, 2017, the Court issued to the Debtor a Notice of non-entitlement to discharge pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(8) or (9) because the Debtor had received a chapter 7 discharge in March 2011.

On July 24, 2017, the Debtor filed a motion to reconvert the case to a case under chapter 13. At the hearing on the Motion to Reconvert, the Court noted that courts are divided regarding a Debtor's ability to reconvert and, separately, noted that even assuming the Court was convinced that reconversion was authorized under §706, that the Debtor's filing history and the absence of a change in financial circumstances weighed against conversion. The Court, however, permitted the Debtor an opportunity to file a motion to seek to vacate the conversion order.

On September 6, 2017, the Debtor filed a motion to vacate the Conversion

Order ("Motion"). The Motion includes a declaration by the Debtor's counsel in which she concedes that in filing the motion to convert, she did not take into account the Debtor's prior filings and as a result did not realize that the Debtor would not be entitled to a discharge in a chapter 7 case.

DISCUSSION

The Court may find grounds to vacate the Conversion Order based on the Debtor's counsel's declaration and a finding that "excusable neglect" resulted in the conversion. However, the Court is concerned that the Debtor is not able to continue making payments in a reconverted chapter 13. Specifically, when the Debtor's case was converted, a motion to dismiss was already pending for a $576 delinquency as of May 31, 2017. Additionally, on June 13, 2017 (presumably before realizing the case had been converted), the Trustee filed a Motion to Dismiss the chapter 13 case for failure to submit 2016 Federal and State Tax Returns and any corresponding refunds due to the Trustee.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion conditioned on the Debtor curing the issues raised by the Trustee in his prior motions to dismiss and in the Debtor's counsel holding sufficient certified funds to bring the plan current.

However, the Court notes that the Motion was not served on any of the Debtor's creditors. As such, the Court is inclined to CONTINUE the hearing for proper service on creditors and for Debtor to file a supplemental declaration indicating it is prepared to cure the issues outlined herein.

BACKGROUND

Debtor obtained a discharge in a Chapter 7 case filed on November 30, 2010. Between February 14, 2013 and September 18, 2015, Debtor filed four Chapter 13 cases, all of which were dismissed within one year.

On August 5, 2016, Elizabeth Baker ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On October 26, 2016, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed. On June 9, 2017, unaware that she was ineligible for a Chapter 7 discharge, Debtor converted her case to Chapter 7. On July 24, 2017, Debtor filed a motion to reconvert to Chapter 13.

DISCUSSION

under chapter 11, 12, or 13 of this title at any time, if the case has not been converted under section 1112, 1208, or 1307 of this title." Here, Debtor's case was previously converted under § 1307.

"Courts are divided as to whether the debtor can re-convert a case that has been previously converted." Ginsberg & Martin on Bankruptcy § 12.13[A] (5th ed. 2017-2); see also In re Masterson, 141 B.R. 84, 87 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 1992) ("The courts appear to be evenly divided on the issue of whether a 'second conversion' of a case previously converted to Chapter 7 is ever permissible.") (collecting cases). The courts that have determined that § 706(a) bars subsequent reconversion have primarily relied upon the plain language of the statute, but have also considered the legislative history. See In re Banks, 252 B.R. 399, 400 (Bankr. E.D. Mich. 2000). One court has stated the following:

Unfortunately, for the debtor, the language of Section 706 clearly bars a debtor from converting a case from Chapter 7 to Chapter 13 more than once. Subsection (a) of that section states in relevant part that a "debtor may convert a case under this chapter to a case under Chapter 11 or 13 of this title at any time, if the case has not been converted under Section 1112 or 1307 of this title. The language of this statute is not discretionary. By its plain meaning it bars the debtor from this second attempt at conversion. Moreover, there is no case law supporting a discretionary right. At least one other bankruptcy court has arrived at this conclusion, In re Bumpass, 28 B.R. 597 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 1983), and this Court shares that view.

In re Nimai Kumar Ghosh, 38 B.R. 600, 603 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 1984) (footnote omitted).

As the court implicitly concluded in Nimai Kumar Ghosh, the phrase appears "if the case has not been converted" appears to modify the entirety of the first clause, not simple the language "at any time." The phrase "at any time" is not set off from the remainder of the clause in any fashion. Therefore, §706(a) is only applicable if the case has not been converted previously. The remaining question is, if § 706(a) is inapplicable, can the Debtor resort to any other mechanism in order to convert her

Courts that have permitted a reconversion appear to fall into two categories. First, some courts appear to believe that, when § 706(a) is inapplicable, the default position is that the Court has discretion to allow conversion based on policy grounds. See, e.g., In re Masterson, 141 B.R. at 88. Other courts have turned to § 706(c). See, e.g., Matter of Johnson, 116 B.R. 224, 225 (Bankr. Idaho 1990); In re Sensibaugh, 9 B.R. 45, 46 (Bankr. E.D. Va. 1981). Section 706(c) states: "[t]he court may not convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 12 or 13 of this title unless the debtor requests or consents to such conversion." While the plain language of § 706(c) indicates that it operates as a restraint on the court's authority, not as a source of authority, courts that have utilized this provision appear to conclude that if the debtor consents to or requests conversion, the court has discretion to permit such conversion.

A third possibility is that a debtor could seek voluntary dismissal or conversion under § 707, consent to conversion, and allow the Court to determine whether dismissal or conversion was more appropriate in the circumstances. This approach would have the disadvantage of possibly resulting in dismissal of the case, but it would seem to solve the statutory interpretation issues encountered by the alternative approaches.

Nevertheless, the Court need not determine whether reconversion is permitted under § 706(a) because, if the Court were to conclude that reconversion is discretionary, Debtor has not demonstrated that the exercise of such discretion would be appropriate. Debtor has had four Chapter 13 cases dismissed in the previous five years. More importantly, at the time Debtor converted to Chapter 7, there was an outstanding motion to dismiss pending for failure to make plan payments. Debtor appears to have chosen to convert the case to Chapter 7 rather than resolve the Chapter 13 Trustee's pending motion to dismiss.

Given Debtor's history in bankruptcy, the absence of any legal argument in Debtor's motion, and the absence of any evidence suggesting a change in circumstances which would allow Debtor to be successful in a Chapter 13 proceeding, the reconversion of the case, even if the Court were to conclude that such reconversion was legally

Tentative Ruling:

09/28/2017

BACKGROUND

On November 9, 2016, Fonda Cormier ("Debtor") filed her petition for chapter 13 relief. Rod Danielson was the duly appointed chapter 13 trustee ("Trustee"). The Debtor's chapter 13 plan was confirmed on December 28, 2016. On June 30, 2017, the Debtor filed a notice to conversion and the Court converted the case on the same date pursuant to § 1307(a) ("Conversion Order"). At approximately 4:23 p.m. of the same day, the Debtor sought to vacate the Conversion Order.

The Court set a hearing on the Debtor's motion to vacate the Conversion Order and issued a tentative ruling prior to the hearing indicating as follows:

As a preliminary matter, the proof of service included in Debtor's motion is not signed, and Debtor has not served all parties in interest pursuant to Local Rule 1017.

Additionally, Debtor's motion contains no legal standard or analysis. Relief from a judgment or order is governed by Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 60, incorporated into bankruptcy proceedings by Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9024. Debtor has not provided any argument relating to that standard.

Furthermore, the declaration of Debtor's attorney appears to misrepresent the factual situation. First, the reasons for Debtor converting to Chapter 7 are not given. The primary argument presented by Debtor in support of this motion is that counsel learned, after filing a notice of conversion and having further discussions with Trinity Financial, that Trinity Financial would likely file a motion for relief from stay if the case was converted to Chapter 7. Trinity Financial had, however, in fact filed a motion for relief from stay on May 9, 2017, and an order approving the stipulation of the parties was entered on June 27, 2017. Section 10 of that order states: "This order is binding and effective despite any conversion of this bankruptcy case to a case under any other chapter of the Bankruptcy Code." The parties chose not to include language that would provide for relief from stay upon conversion of the case. Therefore, it is unclear how the conversion of the case could have any effect on the automatic stay as it relates to Trinity Financial.

As an aside, the Court notes that Debtor is ineligible for a Chapter 7 discharge under § 727(a)(8) by virtue of a Chapter 7 discharge on September 25, 2009.

Tentative Ruling, August 31, 2017.

On June 6, 2017, the Debtor filed a new Motion to Vacate Order or to Reconvert to Original Chapter 13 ("Motion"). The Motion was filed by the Debtor's new counsel. The Motion indicates that the conversion was a mistake of prior counsel and that it was one which could have severe consequences for the Debtor.

DISCUSSION

The Court is cognizant, here, that the Debtor's chapter 13 plan was already confirmed and the mistake was clearly negligent on the part of her prior counsel. However, the Court further notes that a motion to dismiss filed by the Trustee was pending at the time of conversion for a delinquency of $1,147.50.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the request to vacate the conversion order conditioned upon the Debtor's ability to bring her plan current.

Docket 18

Tentative Ruling:

Background:

On May 10, 2017 ("Petition Date"), John Empey and Madeleine Tappe (collectively, the "Debtors") filed their petition for chapter 13 relief.

On August 23, 2017, the Debtors filed an Objection to Claim No. 4 (the "Objection") of Bank of America ("Claimant"). Service was proper and no opposition has been filed.

Analysis:

Rebuttal of the Prima Facie Proof of Claim

In this case, the Debtors assert that the Claim should be disallowed as time barred. Section 502(b)(1) provides that a claim is deemed allowed, unless such claim is unenforceable against the debtor and property of the debtor under applicable law. The statute of limitations applicable to common counts is four years if the action is founded upon a contract or other writing (e.g., "book account" (§ 3:398), "account stated" (§ 3:400), or money lent on a note), and the statute of limitations is generally four years from the date of the last item in the account. CONT... John Empey and Madeleine Tappe App. 2004).

Chapter 13

Here, the Debtors have asserted under penalty of perjury that they have made no payments on the Claim since September 2012. Thus, the statute of limitations appears to have expired. Moreover, Claimant, though properly served, has failed to respond, which may be deemed as consent to the relief requested under LBR 9013-1(h). Thus, as the ultimate burden of persuasion remains on the Claimant, the Objection must be sustained.

Tentative Ruling

The Objection is SUSTAINED. Claim #4 is disallowed in its entirety.

APPEARANCES WAIVED. If written or oral opposition is presented at the hearing, the hearing may be continued. Movant to lodge order within 7 days.

Docket 25

Tentative Ruling:

09/28/2017

The Court has reviewed the Errata Stipulation filed as Docket No. 38 and is satisfied that the Creditor shall receive payments pro rata with other creditors during the pendency of the Debtors' chapter 13 plan and that the amount to be paid thereafter is consistent with the $400 in disposable income being paid now. Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to approve the Stipulation except that the Court finds the language excepting the debt from discharge unnecessary and duplicative given that a prior court has already approved language excepting the debt from discharge in future cases. The Stipulation is otherwise approved. Movant may lodge an order. APPEARANCES WAIVED.

Docket 33

Tentative Ruling:

09/28/2017

BACKGROUND

On July 12, 2017, Alfredo and Veronica Loera (collectively, the "Debtors") filed their petition for chapter 13 relief. The Debtors' chapter 13 plan was confirmed on August 29, 2017. On September 11, 2017, the Court dismissed the Debtors' case for a failure to file copies of payment advices required under § 521(i)(1).

On September 14, 2017, the Debtors filed a Motion to Vacate Dismissal ("Motion") and an Application for Order Setting the hearing on shortened time. On September 15, 2017, the Court set the Motion for hearing on shortened time ("OST").

The Court notes several issues with the Notice of Hearing documents filed with the Court. Given the numerous notice filed, it is apparent that counsel for the Debtors realized that the creditors had not been properly served in accordance with the Court's OST. Nevertheless, the supplemental declaration of Paul Lee filed on September 26, 2017, indicates that creditors were served via overnight mail with the papers on September 21, 2017. The OST required service by overnight mail by September 15, 2017. However, given the nature of the dismissal based solely on the mistaken filing of pay advices, the Court is inclined to accept the service as sufficient under the circumstances.

DISCUSSION

Debtors' counsel, Paul Yee, by his declaration has indicated that as a result of his office's failure to choose the correct event code when filing the Debtors' pay stubs, the case was dismissed. The Court has confirmed that the pay advices were filed by the Debtors prior to the case dismissal on July 20, 2017 as Docket No. 22. As a result of the mistake indicated by the Debtors' counsel, Docket No. 22, references a

EH__

Docket 56

Tentative Ruling:

10/04/2017

BACKGROUND

On May 19, 2017 ("Petition Date"), Michelle Meredith ("Debtor") filed her petition for chapter 7 relief. Howard Grobstein is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee"). Among the assets of the bankruptcy estate is the Debtor's beneficial interest in distributions from the trusts of her grandparents, George J. Heath and Margaret J. Heath. The original trust established by her grandparents was the Heath Family Trust (the "Heath Trust"). In 2002, following the death of George Heath, Margaret created the Margaret J Heath Revocable Living Trust, 2002 (the "Margaret Trust") (collectively, the "Trusts"). Pursuant to the terms of the Margaret Trust, on the death of Margaret Heath the trustee of the Margaret Trust was directed to distribute all assets without restriction. In March 2017, prepetition, Margaret Heath passed away.

On September 13, 2017, the Trustee filed his Motion for Order: (1) Requiring Turnover of Property of the Estate Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 542; and (2) Compelling the Debtor's Cooperation with the Trustee Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 521 ("Motion"). The Motion was properly served on the Debtor and no opposition has been filed.

DISCUSSION

Under the Bankruptcy Code, a debtor has a duty to surrender property of the estate to the trustee. § 521(4). Furthermore, a trustee has the duty to "collect and reduce to money the property of the estate for which such trustee serves" § 704(1). Finally, "any entity, other than a custodian, in possession, custody or control of property that the trustee may use, sell, or lease under section 363 of this title ... shall deliver to the trustee, and account for, such property or the value of such property"

Id. § 542(a).

Chapter 7

The Trustee seeks an order directing the Debtor to turn over to him distributions received from the Trusts since the Petition Date, directing the Debtor to turn over any future distributions from the Trusts, and ordering the Debtor to turn over the following documents within five days of entry of the order: (1) a full copy of the trust documents and all amendments, (2) an accounting of distributions from the Trusts from the Petition Date to the present, and (3) copies of the Debtor's bank statements for the period of January 2017 through the present.

In support of the Motion, the Trustee asserts that he sought turnover of Trusts' distributions but the Debtor asserted that Trusts' distributions were not part of the bankruptcy estate because they were shielded by the Trusts' valid spendthrift provisions. (Ex. 7 and Ex. 9). To the extent a debtor holds a beneficial interest in a trust, that beneficial interest becomes property of the estate, unless it is protected by a valid spendthrift provision. 11 U.S.C. § 541(a)(1) and (c)(2). "Assets transferred to an irrevocable trust do not become part of a bankruptcy estate unless the transfer or the trust is invalid." United States v. Lawrence, 189 F.3d 838, 845 (9th Cir.1999). The Trustee asserts that the Heath Trust contained a spendthrift provision but that such provision did not apply to the Debtor and instead specifically indicates that it applies to the "principal beneficiary" of the Heath Trust – which are defined in Article 2 of the Heath Trust as "Class composed of the settlors for their joint lives" (i.e. Margaret and George Heath). Additionally, although the Trustee did not have a copy of the Margaret Trust at the time of the filing of the Motion, Debtor has since provided a copy of the Margaret Trust to the Trustee which was filed with this Court on September 28, 2017 and is Exhibit "1" of the Trustee's Supplemental Declaration. The Trustee notes that the Margaret Trust also appears to contain no spendthrift provision which would apply to Debtor and to the contrary appears to contemplate full distribution of the Margaret Trust principal on the death of Margaret Heath. The Court has reviewed the Trust documents and agrees with the Trustee's legal analysis. Based on these facts and arguments asserted by the Trustee, there appears to be no remaining legal issue which would prevent distributions from the Trusts from coming into the Debtor's bankruptcy estate. Additionally, the Debtor has failed to file opposition to the Trustee's Motion which this Court deems as consent to the granting of the relief requested pursuant to LBR 9013-1(h).

2. Directing the Debtor to turn over any future distributions from the Trust, and
3. Ordering the Debtor to turn over the documents requested by the Trustee to the extent not already produced (as set forth in the Trustee's supplemental declaration filed on September 28, 2017 as Docket No. 65.).

#7.00 Motion to Extend Dismissal and Discharge Deadline pursuant to 11 USC sect 707-727 & Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure 1017 & 4004

EH__

Docket 12

Tentative Ruling:

10/04/2017

BACKGROUND

On June 4, 2017 ("Petition Date"), Timothy and Lisa Lambert (collectively, the "Debtors") filed for chapter 7 relief.

On September 7, 2017, the Office of the United States Trustee ("UST") filed a Motion for Extension of Time to File a Complaint Objecting to Discharge ("Motion"). In support of the Motion, the UST asserts that the Debtors' schedules indicate that they did not earn income in 2017 and earned less than $7,500 in 2016. The UST further asserts that the Debtors did not appear at the July 10 or August 10, 2017, meetings of creditors. The UST seeks an extension of time to file a complaint objecting to discharge while it investigates the Debtors' financial condition and specifically issues related to the Debtors' limited liability corporation, Rainbow Recovery, LLC.

Service of the Motion was proper and no opposition has been filed.

DISCUSSION

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 4004 and 1017, Trustee seeks to extend the deadline for Trustee and U.S. Trustee to file a complaint objecting to Debtor's discharge under 11 U.S.C. § 727 and the deadline to seek dismissal under § 707, for an additional 60 days to November 7, 2017..

Under FRBP 4004(a) and 1017(e), on a motion of any party in interest, the court may for cause extend the time to object to discharge or to seek dismissal. Fed. R. Bankr. P. 4004, 1017.

Chapter 7

As a matter of practice what constitutes "cause" rests within the discretion of the bankruptcy court. See In re James, 187 B.R. 395, 397 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. 1995). Also, Courts are generally unified in the view that the term "for cause" should receive a liberal construction. Id. Notwithstanding that fact, however, a creditor must exhibit some minimum degree of due diligence prior to seeking such an extension, and the Court should not allow the motion to serve as license for a baseless "fishing expedition." Id.; See also In re Leary, 185 B.R. 405, 406 (Bankr. D. Mass. 1995). To establish cause movant must (1) show that he had, with reasonable diligence, attempted to investigate the facts and circumstances, and (2) offer a reasonable explanation of why that investigation could not be completed within the allotted time. See Bomarito, 448 B.R. at 251.

The Trustee has presented evidence that Debtors have not presented themselves for examination, and that issues regarding the Debtors' income in the years preceding the bankruptcy filing have yet to be fully investigated. Without such information, the UST and Trustee cannot determine whether the filing of either a motion to dismiss the case or a complaint to deny discharge are appropriate. For these reasons, the UST's request for extension constitutes sufficient "cause" for granting of the Motion.

TENTATIVE RULING

Accordingly, the Court is inclined to GRANT the relief requested and provide the UST an extension of 60 days for the filing of a complaint under § 727, and/or for the filing of a motion to dismiss under § 707.

On September 22, 2014, Revere Financial Corporation ("Revere") and Jerry Wang ("Receiver") filed a complaint for determination of the dischargeability of debts pursuant to §§ 523(a)(2)(B), 523(a)(2)(A), 523(a)(4)(A), 523(a)(4) & 523(a)(6); and objecting to the Debtor's discharge pursuant to §§727(a)(3), 727(a)(4)(A), 727(a)(4)(B), 727(a)(5), & 727(a)(7) ("Complaint").

On October 6, 2014, the Debtor filed a Motion to Dismiss, to Strike, and for a More Definite Statement ("Motion"). The operative pleadings are as follows:

3. Reply of Debtor to Jerry Wang's Opposition (Docket No. 15);
4. Reply of Debtor to Revere & Jerry Wang's Opposition (Docket No. 16);
5. Debtor's Supplemental Brief (Docket No. 19); and

DISCUSSION

Civil Rule 12(b)(6) standards

Under Civil Rule 12(b)(6), made applicable in adversary proceedings through Rule 7012, a bankruptcy court may dismiss a complaint if it fails to "state a claim upon which relief can be granted." In reviewing a Civil Rule 12(b)(6) motion, the trial court must accept as true all facts alleged in the complaint and draw all reasonable inferences in favor of the plaintiff. Navarro v. Block, 250 F.3d 729, 732 (9th Cir. 2001). However, the trial court need not accept as true conclusory allegations in a complaint or legal characterizations cast in the form of factual allegations. Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555–56, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 167 L.Ed.2d 929 (2007); Hartman v. Gilead Scis., Inc. (In re Gilead Scis. Sec. Litig.), 536 F.3d 1049, 1055 (9th Cir. 2008).

To avoid dismissal under Civil Rule 12(b)(6), a plaintiff must aver in the complaint "sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to 'state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.'" Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678, 129 S.Ct. 1937, 173 L.Ed.2d 868 (2009) (quoting Twombly, 550 U.S. at 570, 127 S.Ct. 1955). It is axiomatic that a claim cannot be plausible when it has no legal basis. A dismissal under Civil Rule 12(b)(6) may be based either on the lack of a cognizable legal theory or on the absence of sufficient facts alleged under a cognizable legal theory. Johnson v. Riverside Healthcare Sys., 534 F.3d 1116, 1121 (9th Cir.2008).

The Debtor asserts primarily that (1) the Receiver has no "authority" to bring the action; and (2) to the extent that Revere's claim for damages includes fees and expenses incurred by the Receiver in its claim for damages, such claim is not proper because neither the Debtor nor Revere is obligated for the Receiver's fees and expenses. To the extent the Debtor prevails on this second argument, the Debtor also requests that the claim of Revere for fees and expenses incurred by the Receiver be stricken, and that Revere be required to set forth a more definite statement of its damages.

Once a court appoints a receiver, "[i]t is the rule that: 'The functions and powers of a receiver are controlled by statute, by the order appointing him, and by orders subsequently made by the court. He has no powers beyond those so conferred.' Downtown Sunnyvale Residential LLC v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., No. H038572, 2015 WL 263727, at *9 (Cal. Ct. App. Jan. 20, 2015) (citing 42 Cal.Jur.2d, Receivers, § 73; and see authority there collected.)" (Morand v. Superior Court (1974) 38 Cal.App.3d 347, 351 (Morand).) "Where a receiver's powers and duties are not directly prescribed by statute, they are dependent upon the court's order of appointment." (Nulaid Farmers Assn. v. LaTorre (1967) 252 Cal.App.2d 788, 791.) A receiver's powers " 'may be expanded or contracted by subsequent court order.' " (Resolution Trust Corp. v. Bayside Developers (9th Cir.1994) 43 F.3d 1230, 1242 (Resolution Trust Corp.), citing to Cal-American Income Property Fund VII v. Brown Development Corp. (1982) 138 Cal.App.3d 268, 273 (Cal-American).)

The Debtor cites to Cal. C.C.P. § 568 (CCP 568) and to Morand regarding the powers of receivers for the proposition that the Receiver has no authority to bring the instant action. CCP 568 provides, in pertinent part, that

The receiver has, under the control of the Court, power to bring and defend actions in his own name, as receiver; to take and keep possession of the property, to receive rents, collect debts, to compound for and compromise the same, to make transfers, and generally to do such acts respecting the property as the Court may authorize.

The Debtor argues that because the order appointing the Receiver did not enumerate the authority to file lawsuits as a power authorized by the Court, that the Receiver is without such authority until such time as he receives authorization from the Superior Court to file this action. Although authorities are scant, the authorities cited by the Debtor and found by this Court support the conclusion that for the Receiver to institute an action, the order appointing the Receiver must at a minimum contain language generally, if not specifically, authorizing/directing the commencement of actions. See e.g. Harting v. Cebrian, 10 Cal. App. 2d 10, 51 P.2d 195 (1935).

The Receiver, for his part, argues that he was directed to manage the receivership estate, including to "take possession, custody, and control" of various assets that comprise the "Receivership Estate" and to "[c]ollect all proceeds of the Receivership Estate, whether equity, income, payments, rents, revenue, sale, or otherwise." (Receiver Opp'n at 2). This language, however, is insufficient for the purpose of authorizing the Receiver to initiate legal actions. See e.g. Harting v. Cebrian, 10 Cal. App. 2d 10, 51 P.2d 195 (1935). In support of its position, the Receiver cites Title Ins. & Tr. Co. v. Grider, 152 Cal. 746, 94 P. 601 (1908). However, Grider dealt with two issues not present in the instant action – first, an attack on the underlying basis for the appointment of a receiver, and second, an assertion that the property at issue was not property that the Receiver was authorized to collect. Neither issue resolves the issue of whether the language of a receivership order authorizes the initiation of an action.

Based on the foregoing, the Court finds that the failure of the Receiver to allege that the receivership order provided him with the authority to initiate actions on behalf of the Receivership Estate is grounds for dismissal.

Although moot, assuming the Receiver did have authority to file the Complaint, as to the Receiver's claim for damages the Receiver has clarified that it does not seek its own fees, expenses, and costs. Instead, it seeks recovery of receivership assets. To the extent the Receiver's claim for damages is limited to recovery of assets of the receivership estate, such damages appear to fall squarely within the bounds of the Order Appointing Receiver. As such, the Receiver would need to amend the Complaint to clarify that its request for damages is limited to recovering assets of the receivership estate.

II. Revere is Not Liable to the Receiver for Fees and Costs and Thus Cannot Seek to Recover Such Fees and Costs as Damages

The Debtor argues that Revere has no basis to include fees and expenses of the Receiver. In response, Revere has cited to authorities indicating that in the event that the receivership estate is insufficient to pay the Receiver's fees and expenses, courts have, in some cases, found third parties liable to the receivers for the deficiency. The Debtor asserts that Atl. Tr. Co. v. Chapman, 208 U.S. 360, 374, 28 S. Ct. 406, 410, 52 L. Ed. 528 (1908), is dispositive of this issue.

The Supreme Court, in Atlantic Trust, acknowledged that third parties may be held liable in certain circumstances but indicated that such cases were rare. The Supreme Court stated, in pertinent part:

It is true that cases are cited in which the party bringing a suit in which a receiver is appointed has been held liable for expenses incurred by the receiver in excess of the proceeds arising from the sale of the property. But in most, if not in all, of those cases, the circumstances were peculiar and were such as to make it right and equitable, in the opinion of the court, that that should be done.

Id. As the Debtor acknowledges, the Supreme Court did not hold that a third party could under no circumstances be liable for a receiver's fees and expenses. Instead, the Debtor asserts only that the specific cases cited by Revere in which a third party was held liable are not applicable to the facts alleged in the instant case. Here, the Debtor does not address the broad language of the Commercial Security Agreement (Complaint at Ex. 3 at 42) in which Revere has pointed to provisions of Debtor's loan documentation, which may provide Revere with a basis to recover for fees and expenses owed to the Receiver for his services. However, notwithstanding this point, the Complaint does not include allegations that the receivership estate will not have funds to fully compensate the Receiver such that Revere could claim any liability for his costs and fees. Nor does the Complaint set forth a claim based on the contractual language cited by Revere in its opposition. As such, the Court finds that the Complaint does not contain sufficient factual allegations to support a plausible claim for damages based on the Receiver's fees and costs.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion as to dismissal of the Receiver, and as to striking Revere's claim for damages to the extent it includes fees and costs owed to the Receiver.

The Motion is DENIED as to its request for dismissal without leave to amend. There has been no showing by Debtor to justify dismissal with prejudice. The Receiver and Revere shall have 60 days from the date of entry of the order on the Motion to amend the Complaint.

balance due upon a mutual, open and current account, the items of which are in writing; provided, however, that where an account stated is based upon an account of one item, the time shall begin to run from the date of said item, and where an account stated is based upon an account of more than one item, the time shall begin to run from the date of the last item.

Cal. Code Civ. P. § 337(1) provides that the statute of limitations is also four years for claims based upon a contract.

The Court has reviewed Creditor's proof of claim and it appears that the applicable statute of limitations is four years pursuant to Cal. Code Civ. P. § 337. It additionally appears that Debtor had not made a payment on the claim in more than eight years at the time of the petition, and, therefore, the statute of limitations has expired.

Furthermore, the Court deems failure to oppose to be consent to the relief requested pursuant to Local Rule 9013-(1)(h).

Tentative Ruling

The Court is inclined to SUSTAIN the objection.

TENTATIVE

The Court having reviewed the motion, finding notice and service to be proper and reviewed the opposition, the Court is inclined to DENY the motion without prejudice. Specifically, as is noted in the opposition, Debtors have not submitted evidence which clearly establishes the amount owing on the senior security interest. Debtors have submitted a payoff quote, dated July 20, 2017, which states that the total amount due is $347,890.95. Debtors have additionally submitted a letter, dated May 17, 2017, which states that the remaining deferred principal amount is $129,872.54. Debtors' motion adds the two above amounts together, and asserts that the sum is the total amount due.

Nevertheless, the relationship between the two documents submitted by Debtors is unclear. The payoff quote submitted is dated approximately two months later than the letter, and, therefore, the letter cannot refer to the payoff quote. Because of this lack of clarity, Debtors have not established the amount owing on the senior security interest.

From: 9/14/17

Docket 23

Tentative Ruling:

09/14/2017

BACKGROUND

On August 3, 2017 ("Petition Date"), Adriana Brodie ("Debtor") filed her petition for chapter 13 relief. Rod Danielson is the duly appointed chapter 13 trustee ("Trustee").

On August 8, 2017, the case was dismissed for failure by the Debtor to file initial schedules by the Court imposed deadline. Specifically, the Court had issued a notice on August 4, 2017, that the case would be dismissed if the Debtor did not provide a statement of social security number, electronic filing declaration, and master mailing matrix list of creditors within 72 hours. The Court clarified in a Notice to Filer that although the Statement of Social Security and Declaration of Electronic Filing had been filed, that they had not been signed. The Debtor did not correct the deficiencies and the case was dismissed.

The Debtor attempted to cure the deficiencies and filed an "Emergency Motion to Vacate Dismissal" on August 8, 2017 (the same date as the dismissal). On August 11, 2017, the Court denied the Debtor's Emergency Motion because the Debtor only cured two of the deficiencies for which the case was dismissed – having filed an amended Statement of Social Security and Electronic Filing Declaration but no creditor mailing matrix.

On August 14, 2017, the Debtor filed a second Emergency Motion to Vacate Dismissal (the "Motion"). The Trustee filed comments on August 15, 2017, recommending disapproval and indicated that Counsel for the Debtor has failed to provide an explanation which would warrant vacating the dismissal.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court has confirmed with the Clerk's office that the three deficiencies which resulted in the dismissal have now been cured. However, the Debtor's case was filed as skeletal on the Petition Date and since the dismissal of the case the balance of schedules has come due.

The Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion conditioned on the Debtor filing all remaining schedules which have come due since the case was dismissed.

#18.10 CONT Motion to vacate order or Reconvert to original Chapter 13

From: 9/28/17

EH__

Docket 61

Tentative Ruling:

09/28/2017

BACKGROUND

On November 9, 2016, Fonda Cormier ("Debtor") filed her petition for chapter 13 relief. Rod Danielson was the duly appointed chapter 13 trustee ("Trustee"). The Debtor's chapter 13 plan was confirmed on December 28, 2016. On June 30, 2017, the Debtor filed a notice to conversion and the Court converted the case on the same date pursuant to § 1307(a) ("Conversion Order"). At approximately 4:23 p.m. of the same day, the Debtor sought to vacate the Conversion Order.

The Court set a hearing on the Debtor's motion to vacate the Conversion Order and issued a tentative ruling prior to the hearing indicating as follows:

As a preliminary matter, the proof of service included in Debtor's motion is not signed, and Debtor has not served all parties in interest pursuant to Local Rule 1017.

Additionally, Debtor's motion contains no legal standard or analysis. Relief from a judgment or order is governed by Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 60, incorporated into bankruptcy proceedings by Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9024. Debtor has not provided any argument relating to that standard.

Furthermore, the declaration of Debtor's attorney appears to misrepresent the factual situation. First, the reasons for Debtor converting to Chapter 7 are not given. The primary argument presented by Debtor in support of this motion is that counsel learned, after filing a notice of conversion and having further discussions with Trinity Financial, that Trinity Financial would likely file a motion for relief from stay if the case was converted to Chapter 7. Trinity Financial had, however, in fact filed a motion for relief from stay on May 9, 2017, and an order approving the stipulation of the parties was entered on June 27, 2017. Section 10 of that order states: "This order is binding and effective despite any conversion of this bankruptcy case to a case under any other chapter of the Bankruptcy Code." The parties chose not to include language that would provide for relief from stay upon conversion of the case. Therefore, it is unclear how the conversion of the case could have any effect on the automatic stay as it relates to Trinity Financial.

As an aside, the Court notes that Debtor is ineligible for a Chapter 7 discharge under § 727(a)(8) by virtue of a Chapter 7 discharge on September 25, 2009.

Tentative Ruling, August 31, 2017.

On June 6, 2017, the Debtor filed a new Motion to Vacate Order or to Reconvert to Original Chapter 13 ("Motion"). The Motion was filed by the Debtor's new counsel. The Motion indicates that the conversion was a mistake of prior counsel and that it was one which could have severe consequences for the Debtor.

DISCUSSION

The Court is cognizant, here, that the Debtor's chapter 13 plan was already confirmed and the mistake was clearly negligent on the part of her prior counsel. However, the Court further notes that a motion to dismiss filed by the Trustee was pending at the time of conversion for a delinquency of $1,147.50.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the request to vacate the conversion order conditioned upon the Debtor's ability to bring her plan current.

I. BACKGROUND

Rio Rancho Super Mall, LLC ("Debtor") is a California Limited Liability Corporation. Debtor owns and operates a commercial property, Rio Rancho Super Mall, located at 25211 Sunnymead Blvd., Moreno Valley, CA 92553 ("Property"). The Property is improved with a commercial building (approx. 100,750 sq. ft.) with retail space for 87 retail tenants. On February 13, 2017, Debtor filed a voluntary Chapter 11 Petition. This is the Debtor's second chapter 11 case. The Debtor's prior case was dismissed on December 27, 2016, based on the Debtor's material default in its compliance with the terms of the previously confirmed chapter 11 plan.

Related Documents:

- On August 2, 2017, Debtor filed its First Amended Disclosure Statement (Redlined) (Docket #88) and its First Amended Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization (Redlined) (Docket #89).

Debtor has two owners

1. Eric Sang Yul Kim ("Mr. Kim") is the managing member and owns 87.5%
2. Kwan Sung Kim ("Mrs. Kim"), Debtor's wife, owns the remaining 12.5%

The Debtor is managed by Dennis Park and Kwang Sung Kim. Mrs. Hyang Hwa Kim is the sister of Eric Sang Yul Kim and is providing uncompensated services to the Debtor. The Debtor proposes to begin paying Mrs. Hyang Kim a regular salary of $3,000 per month "if the market is stable".

DSD:

Debtor's primary secured creditor is DSD Note Investors, Inc. ("DSD") which the Debtor asserts fully encumbers the Property. On January 31, 2017, DSD filed a complaint for breach of contract and foreclosure and also moved the Superior Court for the appointment of a receiver.

Motivation for filing a Chapter 11:

Debtor contends that the instant filing was precipitated by the dismissal of its prior case due, in part, to poor market conditions which did not sufficiently improve, and due also to problems with the Debtor's confirmed plan which failed to account for certain liens; and also due to the aggressive collection efforts of DSD.

II. DISCUSSION

Before a disclosure statement may be approved after notice and a hearing, the court must find that the proposed disclosure statement contains "adequate information" to solicit acceptance or rejection of a proposed plan of reorganization. 11 U.S.C. § 1125(b).

"Adequate information" means information of a kind, and in sufficient detail, so far as is reasonably practicable in light of the nature and history of the debtor and the condition of the debtor's books and records, that would enable a hypothetical reasonable investor typical of the holders of claims against the estate to make a decision on the proposed plan of reorganization. 11 U.S.C. § 1125(a).

Conversely, a case may arise where previously enumerated factors are not required to provide adequate information. In re Metrocraft Pub. Services, Inc., 39 B.R. 567 (Bankr. N.D.Ga. 1984). "Adequate information" is a flexible concept that permits the degree of disclosure to be tailored to the particular situation, but there is an irreducible minimum, particularly as to how the plan will be implemented. In re Michelson, 141 B.R. 715, 718-19 (Bankr. Courts have developed lists of relevant factors for the determination of adequate disclosure. See, e.g., In re A.C. Williams Co., 25 B.R. 173, 176 (Bankr. N.D. PLAN SUMMARY

Funding

Debtor intends to fund the plan with regular business income estimated by the Debtor at approximately $110,920 per month. As of August 1, 2017, Debtor anticipates generating monthly gross rental income of $123,197 from an increase in rent.

Debtor asserts it will have $45,000 on the Effective Date from rental income and capital contributions

- Secured claim allowed per stipulation including agreement by DSD to extend loan maturity date (notwithstanding Debtor assertion that Property value is $7,000,000).
- Terms: $55,000 per month at 5.75% interest for 48 months
 - Additional quarterly payments of $7,500 per quarter for 48 months, thereafter loan is due in full.

Class 2: Riverside County Tax (Impaired)

- Terms: $5,330.11 per month at 18% interest for 120 months

Debtor estimates its liquidation value is $7,028,400 and thus after payment of the secured claim of DSD in the amount of $12,000,000 and even assuming funds are available to pay administrative claims and priority tax claims, no funds would remain for other creditors.

1. EFFECTIVE DATE

Debtor will fund the plan through regular business income and the cash contribution. Debtor states it will have $45,000 on effective date to pay $29,486.88 due on Effective Date.

· Cash on hand:	$10,000 (DIP Account)
· Capital Contributions:	$35,000
Total:	$45,000

Balance remaining after paying initial amount of Effective Date: $15,513.12

2. FEASIBILITY THROUGHOUT LIFE OF PLAN

The Debtor asserts it will have $123,197 in gross monthly income from rents. It estimates expenses plus plan payments will cost Debtor $123,152.11 per month. At this level, the Debtor is expected to have an approximate shortfall of $44.89 per month.

III. OBJECTIONS

All objections were timely filed. The Debtor has filed no replies.

Butterfield Objections

1. Butterfield disputes that DSD can assert any claim greater than $10,422,000 per the limitations contained in the DSD Deed of Trust;
2. Butterfield seeks additional language to make clear that the Plan will not place limits on the "ongoing effectiveness of the CAM Agreement"
3. Objects to being classified as a "unsecured" claimant where the motion to value has not yet been resolved and objects because the Plan makes no reference to the claim of Butterfield asserted in its proof of claim - $741,664.74 (the Redline DS, Exhibit F fails to indicate the amounts of filed claims although several have been filed since the drafting of the original DS)
4. Butterfield also appears to object to any DS which does not provide for the contingency that at least some junior lienholders, including itself, may be fully or partially secured depending on the outcome of the motion to value.

Pacific City Bank Objections

1. PCB joins Butterfield's objection that the maximum value that DSD can assert as a first priority lienholder is $10,422,000

Chapter 11

Tentative Ruling:

08/22/2017

Debtor's Disclosure Statement and Plan are defective for the following reasons:

1. The Debtor refers to Mrs. Kwang Sung Kim as "Kwan Sun Kim" in the introductory paragraph to the DS. One of these spellings contains typos;
2. Based on the terms indicated by the Debtor for payment of DSD's claim, it appears that the Debtor anticipates making a balloon payment to DSD at the end of the plan. The Plan should clearly indicate the Debtor's estimate of how large this payment will be and the source of funding to pay the balloon payment;
3. On page 20, under the section entitled "C. Feasibility", the DS did not indicate that priority tax claims will also be paid on the Effective Date, which would alter the Debtor's calculation of the balance of cash after making payment due on the Effective Date.
4. The current projections of the plan indicate there will be a monthly shortfall of approximately $44.89 per month (not including the 18% interest due to Riverside County on a monthly basis which is not accounted for in the Debtor's 5-Year Projection). This shortfall is particularly problematic where the Debtor is expected to make an additional quarterly payment to DSD of $7,500 until the end of the plan, plus a balloon payment of as yet unspecified amount at the end of the plan.

Based on the foregoing, the Court's tentative ruling is to CONTINUE the hearing on approval of the First Amended DS to the date of the expected evidentiary hearing on the related Motion to Value for: (1) Debtor to address the issues raised by the Court; (2) for a determination of how the outcome of the Motion to Value hearing will impact the need for further revisions to the DS.

BACKGROUND

On January 28, 2011, Brad & Deborah Stoddard ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On May 24, 2011, Debtors' Chapter 13 plan was confirmed. The plan contained the following provision, section V.F.: "The debt of American Education Services will be discharged; the school has been stripped of accreditation and is on probation." On December 5, 2016, Debtors received a discharge, and, on January 13, 2017, the case was closed.

On May 11, 2017, Debtors filed a motion for an order to show cause why creditor American Educational Services ("AES") should not be held in contempt court, and for damages and attorney's fees, for intentionally violating the discharge injunction. Because of inadequate service, the motion was originally denied without prejudice, and Debtors refiled the motion on June 1, 2017. AES filed its opposition on June 8, 2017. At a hearing on the matter on July 27, 2017, the Court continued the matter to

On July 31, 2017, the Court issued its Order to Show Cause why Matthew Resnik ("Resnik"), Brad Stoddard, and Deborah Stoddard should not be sanctioned for including a prohibited provision in a Chapter 13 plan (the "OSC"). Debtors filed their opposition on August 14, 2017. Resnik filed his opposition on August 17, 2017. AES filed its reply on August 24, 2017. Resnick filed supplemental responses on September 21 and 22, 2017.

DISCUSSION

I. Introduction

The OSC is issued in light of, and accordance with, the Supreme Court's decision in United Student Aid Funds, Inc. v. Espinosa, 559 U.S. 260 (2010). In Espinosa, the bankruptcy court had confirmed a Chapter 13 plan which purported to discharge student loan debt without complying with the applicable procedural requirements. After intercepting debtor's income tax refund to use towards payment of student loans, the creditor argued that the bankruptcy court's order confirming the debtor's Chapter 13 plan should be declared void. The Supreme Court held that, absent a jurisdictional or due process violation (which was not present) the bankruptcy court's legal error in confirming the Chapter 13 plan with a provision that impermissibly discharged student loan debt, did not render the order void. At the conclusion of its opinion, the Supreme Court opined:

We acknowledge the potential for bad-faith litigation tactics. But expanding the availability of relief under Rule 60(b)(4) is not an appropriate prophylaxis. As we stated in Taylor v. Freeland & Kronz, 503 U.S. 638 (1992), "debtors and their attorneys face penalties under various provisions for engaging in improper conduct in bankruptcy proceedings." Id. at 644; see also Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9011. The specter of such penalties should deter bad-faith attempts to discharge student loan debt without the undue hardship finding

Espinosa, 559 U.S. at 278. Here, the Court is tasked with interpreting and implementing the guidance provided by the Supreme Court in Espinosa.

Debtors and Resnick have filed separate responses to the Court's OSC. Debtors have raised five arguments in their opposition: (1) that the Court already found that the plan was filed in good faith; (2) that the plan must be given res judicata effect; (3) that the Court is exceeding its discretionary sanctioning authority; (4) that the OSC is an illegal ex post facto law; and (5) that Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9011 is inapplicable. Resnick offers the following categories of arguments in his opposition: (1) use of the Court's inherent sanctioning authority is inappropriate here; (2) Rule 9011 sanctions require a contempt finding; (3) Section 105 is inapplicable; and (4) the plan provision at issue is not prohibited. The Court will analyze the respondents' arguments separately.

II. Debtors' Opposition

A. The Court's Good Faith Finding

11 U.S.C. § 1325(a)(3) states:

- (a) Except as provided in subsection (b), the court shall confirm a plan if –
 - (3) the plan has been proposed in good faith and not by any means forbidden by law

Debtors argue that: "[i]t necessarily follows [from § 1325(a)(3)] that the Court has already made an express finding that the Plan was filed in good faith." This result does not necessarily follow from the language of the statute. The plain language of § 1325 (a) operates to eliminate the discretion of the court if the court finds that the debtor has satisfied the nine subsections of § 1325(a); the provision does not state the consequences of a finding that some, but not all, of the § 1325(a) subsections have been satisfied. As is stated by the leading bankruptcy treatise:

The standards set forth in section 1325(a), however, are not requirements that must be met in every case before a plan can be confirmed. Unlike section 1322 (a), section 1325(a) does not state that "the plan shall" comply with its listed criteria. Nor does it state, as does section 1129(a), that the court shall confirm the plan only if certain requirements are met. Instead it states only that if its criteria are met the court must confirm the plan. Therefore, the court has discretion to confirm a plan that does not comply with all of the standards of section 1325(a), particularly if no party objects.

8 Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 1325.01 (16th ed. 2016) (footnotes omitted).

Despite the plain language of the statute, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, without any independent analysis, and relying on an out of circuit bankruptcy court decision, has determined that the requirements of § 1325(a) are mandatory for Chapter 13 plan confirmation. See In Chinichian, 784 F.2d 1440, 1443-44 (9th Cir. 1986) ("For a court to confirm a plan, each of the requirements of section 1325 must be present and the debtor has the burden of proving that each element has been met.") (citing In re Elkind, 11 B.R. 473, 476 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1981)). While it remains unclear from where the mandatory characterization of § 1325(a) arose, a variety of courts have, in passing, assumed that the § 1325(a) standards are mandatory for plan confirmation. See, e.g., Assocs. Comm. Corp. v. Rash, 520 U.S. 953, 956 (1997) ("To qualify for confirmation under Chapter 13, the Rashes' plan had to satisfy the requirements set forth in § 1325(a) of the Code."); Shaw v. Aurgroup Fin. Credit Union, 552 F.3d 447, 459 (6th Cir. 2009) ("Numerous district and bankruptcy courts outside the Fifth, Ninth, Tenth, and Eleventh Circuits, including courts within this circuit, have also held, suggested, or assumed that the provision in § 1325(a) are mandatory.") (collecting cases). But see In re Szostek, 886 F.2d 1405, 1411 (3rd Cir. 1989) ("On the other hand, if the conditions of § 1325 are not met, although the requirements of § 1322 are fulfilled, the court has the discretion to confirm the plan. § 1325(a) to be mandatory, it could have included that requirement with the requirements already listed in § 1322); see also Matter of Escobedo, 28 F.3d 34, 34 (7th Cir. 1994) ("We note, however, as did the court in Szostek, that while the provisions of § 1325(a)(5) may be discretionary[,] the requirements of § 1322(a)(2) are mandatory.). Indeed, even Espinosa appears to implicitly assume that the § 1325(a) requirements are mandatory. See 559 U.S. 260, 277 ("That is because § 1325(a) instructs a bankruptcy court to confirm a plan only if the court finds, inter alia, that the plan complies with the 'applicable provisions' of the Code.") (emphasis added). Therefore, it would appear that binding case law suggests that the § 1325(a) requirements, including good faith, are mandatory requirements for confirmation.

B. Res Judicata

While the Court accepts Debtors' argument that, by confirming their Chapter 13 plan, the Court implicitly found that the plan was filed in good faith, the Court rejects Debtors' argument that that finding is res judicata with regard to the Court. 11 U.S.C. § 1327(a) states: "The provisions of a confirmed plan bind the debtor and each creditor, whether or not the claim of such creditor is provided for by the plan, and whether or not such creditor has objected to, has accepted, or has rejected the plan." The Court is not a creditor and Debtors have advanced no argument as to how § 1327(a) would prevent the Court from revisiting its finding of good faith. In fact, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals opinion that concluded the § 1325(a) requirements were mandatory stated the following: "Because section 1325(a)(3) of Title 11 requires the Chinichians to propose their plan in good faith, the bankruptcy court has jurisdiction to revoke a plan if the plan was not filed in good faith." In re Chinichian, 784 F.2d 1440, 1442 (9th Cir. 1986). The Ninth Circuit's further comments indicate that it believed such powers were expansive:

The Chinichians argue, however, that because section 1330 is a specific statute it should govern the more general section 105. The Mancari rationale that a specific statute cannot be nullified by a more general one is only applicable where a conflict exists.

Section 1330 provides a method of revoking a confirmation order "on request of a party in interest." While it does not specifically authorize such a revocation by the court sua sponte, it does not prohibit such action. Section 105 constitutes authority for the court to issue any order necessary to carry out the provisions of the Code. That reservoir of power in no manner conflicts with the authority to act upon the request of an interested party, but constitutes a supplemental method of revocation in the event of fraud. It would be absurd to hold that the bankruptcy court is powerless to correct a fraud unless first requested by an interested party, and that is not what section 1330 provides.

Section 105 sets out the power of the bankruptcy court to fashion orders as necessary pursuant to the purposes of the Bankruptcy Code.

Further, a bankruptcy court is a court of equity. As a court of equity, it may look through form to the substance of a transaction and devise new remedies where those at law are inadequate. Further, it can modify or vacate its order so long as no intervening right has become vested in reliance thereon. Thus, the bankruptcy court had equitable power to revoke its order partially confirming the Chinichians' plan once it recognized the Chinichians did not file their plan in good faith as required by section 1325(a)(3).

Id. at 1442-43 (citations omitted).

Debtors' argument that § 1327 operates to prevent the Court from modifying its implicit good faith finding when confirming the plan lacks merit. The statute states that the terms of the provisions of a confirmed plan are binding on the debtor and creditors. The Court is not a creditor or a debtor nor is the Court's good faith finding a provision of a confirmed plan. Nor does res judicata prevent a court from revoking or amending its own order. Such a principle would eliminate the ability to revoke or modify a judgment altogether, rendering obsolete Fed. R. Civ. P. Rules 59 & 60, in addition to many others legal provisions. Debtors' argument that the Court is bound by its own previous finding due to res judicata is not compelling.

Chapter 13

C. The Court Lacks Authority to Issue Sanctions

Debtors' argument that the Court lacks authority to issue sanctions can be summarized in the following: (1) the Court is precluded from finding that the plan was proposed in bad faith due to res judicata; and (2) the Court must find that the plan was proposed in bad faith for sanctions to be warranted. Because the Court rejects (1), as outlined above, Debtors' argument must fail.

D. The OSC is an "Illegal Ex Post Facto Law"

In their fourth argument, Debtors argue that this OSC is an ex post facto law. As noted by Debtors, Art. 1 §§ 9 & 10 of the Constitution prohibit ex post facto laws. Article 1 of the Constitution deals with the legislative branch – the branch of the government that makes laws. The Judicial Branch does not make laws. Debtors' argument that a court order is an ex post facto law is therefore, necessarily, invalid.

E. Rule 9011 is Inapplicable

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9011(b)(2) states:

By presenting to the court (whether by signing, filing, submitting, or later advocating) a petition, pleading, written motion, or other paper, an attorney or unrepresented party is certifying that to the best of the person's knowledge, information, and belief, formed after an inquiry reasonable under the circumstances, --

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9011(c)(1)(B) states: "[O]n its own initiative, the court may enter an order describing the specific conduct that appears to violate subdivision (b) and directing an attorney, law firm, or party to show cause why it has not violated subdivision (b) with respect thereto."

Debtors' nine subsection argument why Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9011 is inapplicable is rather chaotic and disorganized. Regardless, the Court acknowledges that, as to Debtors, Rule 9011 sanctions are inapplicable due to the operation of Rule 9011(c)(2) (A). Therefore, the Court agrees that Rule 9011 cannot operate as the source of sanctions against Debtors.

III. Resnick's Opposition

A. Inherent Sanctioning Authority

The Supreme Court has stated: "it is firmly established that the power to punish for contempts is inherent in all courts." Chambers v. NASCO, Inc., 501 U.S. 32, 44 (1991) (quoting Ex parte Robinson, 19 Wall. 505, 510 (1874)); see also Fink v. Gomez, 239 F.3d 989, 992 (9th Cir. 2001) ("[T]he district court has the inherent authority to impose sanctions for bad faith, which includes a broad range of willful improper conduct."). The Ninth Circuit has stated: "Itel teaches that sanctions are justified when a party acts for an improper purpose – even if the act consists of making a truthful statement or a non-frivolous argument or objection. Fink, 239 F.3d at 922; see also In re Dyer, 322 F.3d 1178, 1196 (9th Cir. 2003) (discussing bad faith and willful misconduct).

Nevertheless, as Resnick states: "when there is bad-faith conduct in the course of litigation that could be adequately sanctioned under the Rules, the court ordinarily should rely on the Rules rather than the inherent power." Chambers, 501 U.S. at 50. Because the Court believes that the existing framework provides an adequate basis for sanctions in this type of situation, the Court need not rely on its inherent sanctioning authority.

B. Rule 9011

When imposing sanctions, sua sponte, under Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9011, "sanctions 'will ordinarily be imposed only in situations that are akin to a contempt of court.'" United Nat'l Ins. Co. v. R&D Latex Corp., 242 F.3d 1102, 1116 (9th Cir. 2001) (citing Barber v. Miller, 146 F.3d 707, 711 (9th Cir. 1998); see also Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 11, Advisory Committee Notes ("Since show cause orders will ordinarily be issued only in situations that are akin to a contempt of court, the rule does not provide a 'safe harbor' to a litigant for withdrawing a claim, defense, etc., after a show cause has been issued on the court's own initiative.")). "[P]rior to imposing court-initiated sanctions, the district court is required to determine whether counsel's conduct is 'akin to contempt.'" Gonzalez v. Texaco Inc., 344 Fed. Appx. 304, 308 (9th Cir. 2009) (quoting R&D Latex Corp., 242 F.3d 1102, 1118)).

In this situation, the Court defers to Bankruptcy Judge TeSelle:

At the hearing on the motions to dismiss conducted by the Court in these cases on May 2, 2000, it was clear to the Court that debtors' counsel included these plan provisions in the hope that they would trap an unwary student loan creditor. If a plan containing a student loan discharge provision is confirmed, debtors and their counsel argue that the student loan obligation is discharged under the theory of res judicata, improperly relying on a skewed interpretation of the opinion of the Tenth Circuit Court of Appeals in In re Andersen, 179 F.3d 1253 (10th Cir. 1999) to support their position. If an objection to confirmation is raised by either the Trustee or the student loan creditor, the offending language is simply removed from the plan, and debtors are no worse off for their attempt. The Court will not permit this type of gamesmanship on the part of debtors and their counsel to continue. Conduct such as this has no place in the practice of bankruptcy law, and will not be tolerated by this Court.

The citation of the opinion of the Tenth Circuit in Andersen, supra, as authority for the practice of intentionally inserting language in a chapter 13 plan that violates the Bankruptcy Code and Rules, and as authorizing counsel to stand by silently and thereby induce the Court to confirm a plan that contains a provision that counsel knows violates the Bankruptcy Code and Rules, is at once offensive and specious. Counsel appearing before this Court are officers of the Court and are ethically obligated to inform the Court if they are aware of the existence of a plan provision that renders the plan non-confirmable.

Rather than recognizing their obligations to the Court and to opposing counsel, counsel for debtors in these cases go so far as to suggest that they are compelled by Andersen to recommend that their clients include these unlawful plan provisions, implying that their failure to do so might be an act of professional negligence. The Court does not believe that a fair reading of the opinion of the Tenth Circuit in Andersen can reasonably lead one to conclude that the Tenth Circuit intended to encourage the practice of intentionally inserting unlawful plan provisions in the hope that confirmation of the plan will occur and the time for appeal will pass before such provisions are noticed so that debtors and their counsel can then claim res judicata. Such a skewed reading of Andersen fails to account for the ethical obligations owed by members of the bar to the Court and to each other.

This is particularly true given the volume of chapter 13 filings in this district, and the fact that the Court does not have the time to independently review every chapter 13 plan and confirmation order to determine whether an attempt to unlawfully discharge a student loan obligation is being made. Because the Court has apparently been unable to rely on the ethical conduct of some of the counsel representing chapter 13 debtors appearing before it, the Court, up to his point in time, has been forced to rely on a party in interest other than the debtor to point out those instances in which such student loan discharges have been attempted through plan provisions. Where the Court has become aware of such attempts, either through objections by the student loan creditor or through the inclusion of such a provision in the order confirming the chapter 13 plan, the Court has refused to confirm the plan containing such language, and has stricken language from confirmation orders attempting to effect a discharge of student loan indebtedness in this manner.

In light of the existing case law concerning the impropriety of the inclusion of such student loan discharge provisions in chapter 13 plans, and the unambiguous language of the Bankruptcy Code and Rules, the Court believes that the inclusion of such a provision in a chapter 13 plan and/or order confirming a chapter 13 plan is both unethical and sanctionable conduct pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9011. Bankruptcy Rule 9011(b) concerns representations made to the Court. It states that by presenting a paper to the Court, an attorney or unrepresented party certifies to the best of his or her knowledge, information and belief, formed after a reasonable inquiry under the circumstances, that the legal contentions therein are warranted by existing law or by a nonfrivolous argument for the extension, modification, or reversal of existing law or the establishment of new law. See Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9011 (b)(2).

The Court refuses to allow counsel for debtors to turn the inclusion of a student loan discharge provision in a chapter 13 plan into a "can't lose" proposition. The Court therefore concludes that Andersen provides no protection from the imposition of sanctions under Rule 9011(b) in cases in which a student loan discharge provision is included in a confirmed chapter 13 plan.

C. Section 105

11 U.S.C. § 105(a) states:

- (a) The court may issue any order, process, or judgment that is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of this title. No provision of this title providing for the raising of an issue by a party in interest shall be construed to preclude the court from, sua sponte, taking any action or making any determination necessary to enforce or implement court orders or rules, or to prevent an abuse of process.

Resnick offers a single argument in support of his position that § 105(a) is inapplicable: that the provision only applies to violations of a specific court order. Resnick cites In re Dyer in support of this statement. 322 F.3d 1178, 1196 (9th Cir. 2003) ("Civil contempt authority allows a court to remedy a violation of a specific order (including 'automatic' orders, such as the automatic stay or discharge injunction).").

Dyer does not explicitly state that § 105(a) is strictly limited to remedying violations of specific court orders, nor does it cite any authority from which it could be inferred that the Dyer court had such an opinion. Indeed § 105(a) explicitly mentions, in addition to court orders, rules and "abuse of process"; the latter might be invoked in the absence of a specific court order.

The Supreme Court, on two occasions after Dyer, has written an opinion which indicates that § 105 is not strictly limited to correcting violations of specific court orders. First, in Marrama v. Citizens Bank of Mass., the Supreme Court wrote:

On the contrary, the broad authority granted to bankruptcy judges to take any action that is necessary or appropriate to prevent an abuse of process described in § 105(a) of the Code, is surely adequate to authorize an immediate denial of a motion to convert filed under § 706 in lieu of a conversion order that merely postpones the allowance of equivalent relief and may provide a debtor with an opportunity to take action prejudicial to creditors.

549 U.S. 365, 375 (2007) (footnote omitted). The "abuse of process" referenced in Marrama was not a violation of a specific court order, but, rather, "an unmeritorious attempt to qualify as a debtor under Chapter 13." Id.

Second, in Law v. Siegel, the Supreme Court stated: "Section 105(a) confers authority to 'carry out' the provisions of the Code." This statement is natural, since the first sentence of § 105(a) states: "[t]he court may issue any order, process, or judgment that is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of this title."

Here, the Court concludes that a specific and definite court order has not been violated. Nevertheless, the reconciliation of Dyer and Marrama helps illustrate the proper approach forward. The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeal's instructions that sanctions under § 105(a) are appropriate for violation of a specific and definite court order is derived from the non-bankruptcy standard for civil contempt. See F.T.C. v. Affordable Media, 179 F.3d 1228, 1239 (9th Cir. 1999) (quoting Stone v. City & Cnty. of S.F., 968 F.2d 850, 856 n.9 (9th Cir. 1992)) ("The moving party has the burden of showing by clear and convincing evidence that the contemnors violated a specific and definite order of the court. The burden then shifts to the contemnors to demonstrate why they were unable to comply."). Nevertheless, as illustrated by Marrama, the Court's authority under § 105(a) is not strictly limited to issuing sanctions for civil contempt. While a civil contempt finding under § 105(a) may not be appropriate in these circumstances, it does not follow that the Court lacks the ability to adequately and equitably resolve this situation.

I. BACKGROUND

On January 28, 2011, Brad & Deborah Stoddard ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition and plan. Debtors' plan contained a provision, in section V.F, that stated: "The debt of American Education Services will be discharged; the school has been stripped of accreditation and is on probation." The plan was served on American Education Services at P.O. Box 2461, Harrisburg, PA 17105-2461.

On March 14, 2011, "Brazos/US Bank Natnl" filed a proof of claim ("Claim 5") for an unsecured claim in the amount of $35,080.90 on the basis of a student loan. The proof of claim indicating that notices should be sent to "AES/PHEAA, PO Box 8181, Harrisburg, PA 17105." On March 17, 2011, the Court summarily confirmed Debtors' plan on the basis of the trustee's recommendation. On March 30, 2011, AES/PHEAA filed a transfer of claim agreement, stating that Claim 5 was being transferred to AEA/PHEAA, and that notices should be sent to "AES/PHEAA, PO Box 8147,

Harrisburg, PA 17105." On May 24, 2011, the Court entered an order confirming Debtors' plan.

On December 5, 2016, Debtors received a discharge. On June 1, 2017, Debtors filed a motion for an order to show cause why American Educational Services ("AES") should not be held in contempt for violating the discharge injunction. On June 8, 2017, AES filed its opposition. Debtors allege that the AES violated the discharge injunction through various attempts to collect on Claim 5 after Debtors received a discharge. AES asserts that they did not violate the discharge injunction because: (1) AES was not a creditor at the time Debtor filed their plan; (2) the provision at issue in Debtors' plan was unclear; and (3) Debtors' failure to utilize the appropriate procedure precludes the relief sought.

After a hearing on July 27, 2017, the Court issued an order to show cause why Debtors and their former counsel, Matthew Resnik ("Resnik"), should not be sanctioned for including a prohibited provision in a Chapter 13 plan (the "OSC"). On August 14, 2017, Debtors filed their opposition. On August 17, 2017, Resnik filed his opposition. On August 24, 2017, AES filed a reply. After a hearing on August 31, 2017, the Court continued the matter to October 2, 2017. On September 21 & 22, 2017, Resnik supplemented his response.

II. DISCUSSION

A person who knowingly violates the discharge injunction can be held in contempt under § 105(a) of the Bankruptcy Code. See In re Bennett, 298 F.3d 1059, 1069 (9th Cir. 2002). The moving party has the burden of showing by clear and convincing evidence that the contemnors knowingly and willfully violated a specific and definite order of the court. Id. In addition, the moving party must prove that the creditor: (1) knew the discharge injunction was applicable; and (2) intended the actions which violated the injunction in order to justify sanctions. Id.

Chapter 13

Here, the critical issue is whether Debtors' plan effectively resulted in a discharge of the debt upon which AES subsequently attempted to collect. There are three distinct issues that warrant attention in connection with the above issue: (1) whether Debtors' plan was sufficiently clear regarding the debt to be discharged; (2) whether holding that Claim 5 was discharged would violate principles of due process; and (3) whether, and to what extent, it would be appropriate for the Court to exercise its equitable remedies.

I. The Plan Provision

The plan provision at issue states: "The debt of American Education Services will be discharged; the school has been stripped of accreditation and is on probation." It is crucial that a miscellaneous provision included within a Chapter 13 plan both identify the creditor and claim to be affected by the plan, and explain the proposed treatment of the debtor's claim. Here, it is not clear that the above provision was adequate in either respect.

First, at the time of the petition date, at the time of the filing of the plan containing the above provision, and at the time of the confirmation hearing, AES was not the holder of Claim 5, but was merely the servicer of Claim 5. While AES subsequently acquired the claim, after the confirmation hearing but before the confirmation order was entered, that subsequent acquisition does not change the fact that AES was not a creditor of Debtors at the time of confirmation, or at the time that service of the plan was made. Although AES did acquire a claim against Debtor between the confirmation hearing and the entry of the confirmation order, such acquisition occurred too late for AES to have an opportunity to timely object to the subject plan provision.

Nor does the fact that Claim 5 identified AES as the party to be noticed affect who was the actual creditor of Debtors. While that identification affects the propriety of the notice given, it does not affect the characterization of AES as a loan servicer, rather than a creditor. A loan servicer is not a proper defendant in a non-dischargeability adversary proceeding, see In re Kleckner, 560 B.R. 172, 177 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 2016), and, likewise, it is not the proper party in a "discharge by declaration."

Furthermore, the contractual interpretation canon that ambiguous language is to be construed against the drafter is appropriate in this circumstance. See generally Maryland Cas. Co. v. Knight, 96 F.3d 1284, 1291 (9th Cir. 1996) (identifying canon). The actual holder of the claim, "Brazos/US Bank Natnl," had no reason to object to the proposed plan, because they were not identified in the plan. Even if "Brazos/US Bank Natnl" were aware that AES was the loan servicer, AES services many loans, and it is entirely possible, indeed probably common, that AES services multiple loans for many individuals. See, e.g., In re Kleckner, 560 B.R. 172, 173 n.1 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 2016) (AES was servicer for loans held by six different entities). Furthermore, "Brazos/US Bank Natnl" was not served with the plan or noticed of the confirmation hearing, and, therefore, was denied due process. AES meanwhile was not a creditor at the time the plan was served, and would have had no reason to object to plan confirmation; indeed, it is not even clear that AES was a party in interest with standing to object.

Finally, the subject plan provision is unclear regarding the proposed treatment of the "claim." While the plan provision indicates that the claim "will be discharged" it does not indicate any timeframe or conditions for discharge.

While at first glance it may seem that the phrase means the claim is to be discharged upon plan completion, the situation is not so simple. What would have been the effect if Debtors had stated that the claim was to be discharged immediately upon plan confirmation? While such a premature discharge violates the Code, a discharge of a student loan debt at plan completion, without an adversary proceeding and an "undue hardship" determination, also violates the Code. But by using the word "will," a future tense verb, Debtors appear to have intended that the claim would be discharged at some future time, after some further event. Is that future event the completion of plan payments? Or is that event the successful prosecution of an adversary proceeding? Given such ambiguity, in construing such ambiguous language against the draft, the Court determines that it is appropriate to adopt the most legally appropriate interpretation, that discharge here is subject to an unperformed condition precedent (i.e. the filing of a non-dischargeability complaint), and the condition has not been

In accordance with the above, the Court finds that the subject plan provision, in the absence of a subsequent adversary proceeding, was inadequate to discharge Claim 5.

II. Notice & Due Process

As is noted in section I, supra, there are three different PO boxes in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania that are relevant here: (1) PO Box 8181, the address located on Claim 5; (2) PO Box 8147, the address located on the claim transfer filed with the Court; and (3) PO Box 2461, the address where Debtors served their plan. The record does not detail the precise function of each of these PO boxes, but, presumably, each PO Box is associated with a different department at AES.¹

Assuming, arguendo, AES was a creditor at the time of the service of the plan, or if Debtors' plan provision were to have properly identified the debt, would AES have received due process through the service effectuated by Debtors? The Supreme Court, in Espinosa, deferred to the traditional recitation of due process in this situation: "[d]ue process requires notice 'reasonable calculated, under all the circumstances, to apprise interested parties of the pendency of the action and afford them an opportunity to present their objections.'" United Student Aid Funds, Inc. v. Espinosa, 559 U.S. 260, 272 (2010) (quoting Mullane v. Cent. Hanover Bank & Trust Co., 339 U.S. 306, 314 (1950)). In Espinosa, the Supreme Court concluded that the creditor had received actual notice ostensibly because United Student Aid Funds, Inc. filed a proof of claim. Id. at 265. Here, the same situation is present – Claim 5 was filed prior to the confirmation hearing and appears to be evidence that the holder of Claim 5 had actual notice of the bankruptcy filing prior to confirmation.

Chapter 13

Even before the Supreme Court decided Espinosa, the Ninth Circuit was of the position that a creditor was precluded from challenging a confirmation order, even if the confirmation order contained an illegal provision, if that creditor failed to object during the confirmation process. See, e.g., In re Pardee, 193 F.3d 1083, 1086 (9th Cir. 1999) (citing Trulis v. Barton, 107 F.3d 685, 691 (9th Cir. 1995); In re Gregory, 705 F.2d 1118, 1121 (9th Cir. 1983)). The Ninth Circuit's approach was the minority approach. See, e.g., In re Escobedo, 28 F.3d 34, 35 (7th Cir. 1994) (confirmed plan that failed to comply with Code's requirements was "nugatory"); see also 8 Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 1325.01 (16th ed. 2016) (endorsing the Ninth Circuit's approach, but collecting cases which indicate that the Second, Fourth, Sixth, and Seventh Circuits disagreed).

While Espinosa declared that a confirmation order was not void simply because it contained an illegal provision, and Ninth Circuit precedent indicates that a creditor is estopped from challenging a confirmation order after the fact, a review of the case law from the previously dissenting circuits illustrates the procedural mechanisms available to the Court, rather than a creditor. For instance, one court, in reconsidering and vacating a confirmed Chapter 13 plan stated the following:

Relief from judgment under Rule 60(b) may be granted sua sponte by the court. A decision under Rule 60(b) is a matter of the court's discretion. The Rule's requirement that relief be granted within a 'reasonable time' also rests within the sound discretion of the court. While relief under Rule 60(b) is discretionary, it is warranted only upon a showing of extraordinary circumstances that create a substantial danger that the underlying judgment was unjust. The court should also look to whether any intervening rights have been affected by the passage of time since entry of the original judgment.

Chapter 13

The Court is cognizant of the fact that, unlike most of the cases above, in this situation the Chapter 13 plan was completed, Debtors received a discharge, and the case was closed. The length of time that has elapsed would be a critical factor in any analysis considering whether to revoke or modify the Chapter 13 confirmation order pursuant to Rule 60(b)(6). Currently, there is no motion filed by AES pending before the Court implicating a Rule 60(b)(6) analysis, and because the Court finds that Debtors' drafting errors precludes a finding that Claim 5 was discharged, the Court declines to undertake such analysis at the current time.

IV. CONCLUSION

In accordance with Section II.I, supra, the Court concludes that Claim 5 was not discharged. Because Claim 5 was not discharged, there can be no violation of the discharge injunction, and, therefore, the motion is DENIED.

TENTATIVE

The Debtors' case was filed on May 30, 2012. On August 21, 2012, the Debtors' plan was confirmed. The plan provided, in pertinent part, "Bank of America, N.A.: Debtor (s) intend to avoid lien." (Plan at V.F. Miscellaneous provisions). A proof of claim indicating that the secured junior lien scheduled by Debtors as BOFA was actually held by Bank of New York Mellon. (Proof of Claim No. 8, filed 10/17/2012).

On May 30, 2017, the Trustee filed a Motion to Dismiss due to Material Default based on the Debtors' failure to file the lien avoidance motion indicated in the plan.

In response, five years after they said they would, Debtors filed their Motion to Avoid the Lien of Bank of New York Mellon ("Motion"). The Motion seeks to avoid the lien of Bank of New York Mellon ("Bank"). The Motion is deficient in that it contains insufficient evidence of the fair market value of the Property which is supported only by the opinion (without foundation) of the Debtor.

The Debtors assert that they should be permitted to avoid the lien at issue because the confirmed plan contemplated such avoidance and because the Bank agreed to its treatment at the time (the Bank's counsel has since indicated that the servicer has changed since the time of the Bank's original consent and as such no stipulation is currently forthcoming). Separately, Debtor underscores that the Bank has not opposed the Motion and that such failure to file opposition should be deemed consent.

On August 4, 2017, the Trustee filed comments recommending disapproval of the Motion based on (1) unreasonable delay by the Debtors; (2) the plan would be rendered infeasible by an order avoiding the lien of the Bank (it appears that Trustee treated the Bank's claim as secured due to the lack of an order avoiding the lien and has thus only paid the Bank's arrears through the plan (or $1,924.18), however, if the lien is now avoided, the estate would need to pay 69.64% of the Bank's claim or approx. $29,043.33, plus trustee's fees; (3) the plan is already in month 62; (3) between 2012 and 2014, Debtors received Proof of Claim No. 8, and "several notices" from the Trustee indicating that the Trustee was only making the payments on the Bank's arrears through the plan but delayed until the end of the plan to take action.

In Reply, the Debtors assert that (1) the Trustee has no standing to object to the Motion; (2) the Bank has already received more than it would have received as an unsecured creditor (presumably, had the Trustee not increased the dividend to the other creditors based on the failure by Debtors to timely avoid the Bank's lien); and (3) the Trustee never sought to modify the chapter 13 plan to propose a higher dividend be paid to unsecured creditors.

Here, the Court has reviewed the holding in In re Chagolla, 544 B.R. 676 (9th Cir. BAP 2016) and finds that it persuasively provides support for the untimely filing of a motion to avoid lien. Moreover, where here, the Motion appears to have been filed prior to the entry of discharge or the closing of the case, avoidance appears to be legally permissible. Additionally, as pointed out by the Debtors, the Bank has filed no opposition or response. However, the Motion is insufficient on its face because there is insufficient evidence as to the fair market value of the Property.

BACKGROUND

On September 21, 2012, Jesse & Rocio Delgado ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On December 11, 2012, Debtors' Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

The plan has been modified four time since confirmation.

On August 29, 2017, Trustee filed a motion to dismiss for material default. On the same day, Debtors amended their Schedule D. On September 13, 2017, Debtors filed opposition to the Trustee's motion to dismiss, stating that, pursuant to the terms of the confirmed plan, Debtors were to file a lien avoidance motion, avoiding a lien with Springleaf Financial, which would resolve Trustee's motion to dismiss. On September 13, 2017, Debtors also filed their lien avoidance motion.

Debtors' motion seeks to avoid a lien in amount of $3,807. The collateral for this lien is not completely clear. Debtors' declaration states that the security is "household goods and furnishings." Exhibit C of Debtors' motion, titled Personal Property Appraisal Form, seems to indicate that the lien is secured by two televisions, with an aggregate value of $2,500. The actual Loan Agreement references the Personal Property Appraisal Form, and it appears that the extent of the collateral is the two televisions.

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 522(f)(1)(B)(i) states:

(f)(1) Notwithstanding any waiver of exemptions but subject to paragraph (3), the debtor may avoid the fixing of a lien on an interest of the debtor in property to the extent such lien impairs an exemption to which the debtor would have been entitled under subsection (b) of this section, if such lien is –

(B) a nonpossessory, nonpurchase-money security interest in any –

(i) household furnishings, household goods, wearing apparel, appliances, books, animals, crops, musical instruments, or jewelry that are held primarily for the personal, family, or household of the debtor or dependent of the debtor

There are several issues in applying the above provision to the situation here. First of all, the lien to be avoided must impair an exemption of the Debtors. Debtors' motion states that they have exempted the property pursuant to Cal. Code Civ. P. § 703.140 (b)(3), which states:

(b) The following exemptions may be elected as provided in subdivision (a):

(3) The debtor's interest, not to exceed six hundred dollars ($600) in value in any particular item, in household furnishings, household goods, wearing apparel, appliances, books, animals, crops, or musical instruments, that are held primarily for the personal, family, or household use of the debtor or a dependent of the debtor.

Chapter 13

Debtors have listed the value of the televisions at $525 each. 11 U.S.C. § 522(f)(4)(A) (v), however, specifically states that the term "household goods," for purposes of § 522(f)(1)(B)(i), is limited to one television. Debtors' attempt to avoid the lien with respect to multiple televisions would appear to be statutorily impermissible.

As such, Debtors may only avoid the lien as to one television, but have not identified either television with any specificity (i.e., serial number).

Finally, Debtors' Schedule D specifically refers to the secured claim of Springleaf Financial as a "purchase money security," which appears to prevent the lien from being avoidable under § 522(f)(1)(B), because that provision only applies to "nonpossessory, nonpurchase-money security interest(s)."

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion.

interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

Analysis:

Debtors argue that the statute of limitations is four years for Creditor's claim and that Creditor's claim is therefore barred. Cal. Code Civ. P. § 337(2) provides for a statute of limitations of four years for:

An action to recover (1) upon a book account whether consisting of one or more entries; (2) upon an account stated based upon an account in writing, but the acknowledgement of the account stated need not be in writing; (3) a balance due upon a mutual, open and current account, the items of which are in writing; provided, however, that where an account stated is based upon an account of one item, the time shall begin to run from the date of said item, and where an account stated is based upon an account of more than one item, the time shall begin to run from the date of the last item.

Cal. Code Civ. P. § 337(1) provides that the statute of limitations is also four years for claims based upon a contract.

American Express's response is that the Cash Rebate Cardmember Agreement includes a choice of law provision that identifies Utah as the governing law. American Express further asserts that the statute of limitations for its claim is six years under Utah law, and that, therefore, its claim is not barred. The Cash Rebate Cardmember Agreement states, under the section applicable law:

This Agreement and your Account, and all questions about their legality, enforceability and interpretation, are governed by the laws of the State of Utah (without regard to internal principles of conflicts of law), and by applicable federal law. We are located in Utah, hold your Account in Utah, and entered into this Agreement with you in Utah.

As is noted by American Express, the Ninth Circuit, relying on the Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 142, previously stated:

Chapter 13

The application of § 142 compels the conclusion that California's shorter statute of limitations does not apply here, because the case presents the sort of "exceptional circumstances" under which the 1988 version of the Second Restatement looks past the law of the forum, and applies a longer foreign limitations period. The Restatement, to be sure, does not provide an exhaustive or technical definition of an exceptional circumstance. Nevertheless, the comment to the 1988 version of § 142 makes clear that the present case comes within that category. Indeed, this case is on all fours with the Restatement's only example of what would constitute such a "special," "unjust" circumstance: "[W]hen through no fault of the plaintiff an alternative forum is not available as, for example, where jurisdiction could not be obtained over the defendant in any [other] state . . ."

In re Sterba, 852 F.3d 1175, 1180 (9th Cir. 2017). In the absence of any argument to the contrary, the Court finds that Utah law provides the applicable statute of limitations.

While American Express argues that the statute of limitations in Utah for credit card debt is six years, Utah's statutes are unclear. The Court of Appeals of Utah has recently stated:

As both parties agree, the question of which limitations period applies to actions on credit card accounts is an issue of first impression in Utah. Stocks argues that the four-year period applicable to "open store account[s] for [the purchase of] any good, wares, or merchandise" and to "open account[s] for work, labor or services rendered, or materials furnished," see Utah Code Ann. § 78B-2-307, is the correct one; Asset Acceptance contends that it should be the six-year period applicable to "any contract, obligation, or liability founded upon an instrument in writing," see id. § 78B-2-309. where a similar issue has been addressed, the results have been mixed and often involve statutory language that differs from our own in ways that may or may not be significant. And the question presented here is an important one that deserves attention, whether judicial or legislative, given the universality of credit cards in our society and the number of collection cases involving credit card debt that make their way into our courts. But precisely because the issue is important and may have widespread impact, we decline to attempt to resolve an issue of first impression in a case with the sort of procedural deficits this one contains.

Asset Acceptance LLC v. Stocks, 376 P.3d 322, 327 (Ct. App. Utah 2016) (footnotes omitted). Utah Code Ann. § 78B-2-307(1) states:

An action may be brought within four years:

(1) after the last charge is made or the last payment is received:

- (a) upon a contract, obligation, or liability not founded upon an instrument in writing
- (b) on an open store account for any goods, wares, or merchandise; or
- (c) on an open account of work, labor or services rendered, or materials furnished.

And Utah Code. Ann. § 78B-2-309(2) states:

An action may be brought within six years:

- (2) upon any contract, obligation, or liability founded upon an instrument in writing, except those mentioning in Section 78B-2-311

In equivocating upon the statute of limitations, the Court of Appeals of Utah left a footnote identifying several states that had addressed the situation. Stocks, 376 P.3d 322, 327 n.3. The split identified by the Court of Appeals of Utah appears to center on whether the reviewing court believed that a credit card agreement should be interpreted as a written contract or an oral contract; i.e. whether a credit card agreement was sufficient to satisfy the formalities of contract formation. Compare, e.g., Portfolio Acquisitions LLC v. Feltman, 391 Ill. App. 3d. 642, 651-52 (App. Ct. Ill. 2009) ("Accordingly, the contract at issue is considered to be an oral contract for purpose of the statute of limitations and the five-year period of section 13-205 applies.") with Hill v. Am. Express, 289 Ga. App. 576, 577-78 (Ct. App. Ga. 2008) (credit card agreement is written contract).

Despite not alerting the Court to the unsettled nature of the question in Utah, American Express appears to have anticipated this analysis, including in its opposition a brief argument that Utah law recognizes a credit card agreement as a written contract. See In re Cluff, 313 B.R. 323, 334 (Bankr. D. Utah. 2004) ("Under the test this Court has articulated, these credit card debts are based on writing."). This argument is unconvincing, primarily because In re Cluff was not interpreting Utah law, but, rather, the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure.¹ Id.

The Court notes, however, that Utah Code Ann. § 25-5-4(2)(e) states:

(e) A credit agreement is binding and enforceable without any signature by the party to be charged if:

- (i) the debtor is provided with a written copy of the terms of the agreement;
- (ii) the agreement provides that any use of the credit offered shall constitute acceptance of those terms;
- (iii) after the debtor receives the agreement, the debtor, or a person authorized by the debtor, requests funds pursuant to the credit agreement or otherwise uses the credit offered.

Here, the agreement clearly satisfied the second requirement. The Court lacks an evidentiary record to determine whether the debtor was provided with a written copy of the agreement and requested funds after receiving the agreement. If the requirements of Utah Code Ann. § 25-5-4(2)(e) were satisfied, the Court concludes that a Utah court would find the credit agreement enforceable, per the statute. See MBNA Am. Bank, N.A. v. Goodman, 140 P.3d 589, 592 (Ct. App. Utah 2006). If the credit agreement is enforceable, then the claim of American Express would appear to be founded upon an instrument in writing, and the six year statute of limitations would apply.

Exhibit A provided by American Express, however, indicates that on April 18, 2011, there was a $15 agency remittance, which is referred to by American Express as a "payment." It is unclear if this is in fact a payment. If it is not a payment, to adopt American Express's argument that this "agency remittance" tolls the statute of limitations would allow a creditor the means to unilaterally toll the statute of limitations indefinitely.

Furthermore, the Court notes that Exhibit A to American Express's opposition is not the same form as is included in the proof of claim. Claim 10 shows activity for 2012, indicates that the last transaction was in June 2008, that the account was charged off in January 2009, and that the last payment was made in April 2011.

On September 15, 2017, Debtor filed an objection to Claim 1. Debtor argued that the deferred principal balance should not be included in the amount to cure default, and requested that Claim 1 be amended. On October 4, 2017, Creditor amended Claim 1 to satisfy Debtor's request.

Analysis:

Claim 2 appears to indicate that it is based on projected 2017 property taxes. Debtors have provided two documents in its claim objection: (1) a mortgage statement, which is not directly relevant; and (2) a tax bill for what appears to be 2014 or 2015, although the header of the tax bill states that it is "as of 8/28/2017."

On the other hand Claim 2 is unclear. Claim 2 references a projected indebtedness; it is not clear whether the claim evidences a pre-petition debt or whether Debtors currently owe any money to Creditor. Furthermore, the evidence submitted by Debtors does indicate that Debtors have an impound account and are current on their mortgage.

Furthermore, the Court deems failure to oppose to be consent to the relief requested pursuant to Local Rule 9013-1(h).

Docket 13

Tentative Ruling:

10/19/2017

BACKGROUND

On September 11, 2017, Judy Ortega ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. The case was dismissed for failure to file case commencement documents on September 19, 2017.

On September 26, 2017, UST filed a motion to disgorge attorney's fees under 11 U.S.C. § 329. The motion is based on the failure to Debtor's counsel, Alon Darvish ("Counsel") to file the required statement of attorney compensation, which UST asserts that Counsel has regularly failed to do. On October 17, 2017, Counsel filed a disclosure of compensation.

Chapter 13

11 U.S.C. § 329 states:

- (a) Any attorney representing a debtor in a case under this title, or in connection with such a case, whether or not such attorney applies for compensation under this title, shall file with the court a statement of the compensation paid or agreed to be paid, if such payment or agreement was made after one year before the date of the filing of the petition, for services rendered or to be rendered in contemplation of or in connection with the case by such attorney, and the source of such compensation.

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 2016(b) states:

Every attorney for a debtor, whether or not the attorney applies for compensation, shall file and transmit to the United States trustee within 14 days after the order for relief, or at another time as the court may direct, the statement required by § 329 of the Code including whether the attorney has shared or agreed to share the compensation with any other entity. The statement shall include the particulars of any such sharing or agreement to share by the attorney, but the details of any agreement for the sharing of the compensation with a member or regular associate of the attorney's law firm shall not be required. A supplemental statement shall be filed and transmitted to the United States trustee within 14 days after any payment or agreement not previously discussed.

The Ninth Circuit has stated:

To facilitate the court's policing responsibilities, the Bankruptcy Code and Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure impose several disclosure requirements on attorneys who seek to represent a debtor and who seek to recover fees. . . . Thus, failure to comply with the disclosure rules is a sanctionable violation, even if proper disclosure would have shown that the attorney had not actually violated any Bankruptcy Code provision or any Bankruptcy Rule.

Chapter 13

In re Park-Helena Corp., 63 F.3d 877, 880 (9th Cir. 1995). Furthermore, "[T]he disclosure rules are applied literally, even if the results are sometimes harsh. Negligent or inadvertent omissions 'do not vitiate the failure to disclose.'" Id. at 881.

When an attorney fails to satisfy the disclosure requirements of § 329, the Court is authorized to order disgorgement of fees. See, e.g., In re Lewis, 113 F.3d 1040, 1045 (9th Cir. 1997) ("An attorney's failure to obey the disclosure and reporting requirements of the Bankruptcy Code and Rules gives the bankruptcy court the discretion to order disgorgement of attorney's fees. In reaching this conclusion, we do not mean to say that the excessiveness or reasonableness of those fees is irrelevant in all cases; in appropriate circumstances, a bankruptcy court should inquire into these subjects as part of deciding whether and to what extent to order disgorgement."); see also In re Lee, 1999 WL 61900 (9th Cir. 1999) ("An attorney's failure to obey the disclosure and reporting requirements of the Bankruptcy Code and Rules gives the bankruptcy court the discretion to order disgorgement of attorney's fees."). Here, UST states that Counsel has repeatedly violated the disclosure requirements in proceedings before this Court and, therefore, disgorgement is appropriate. Under 11 U.S.C. § 105 (a) (2010), the Court is empowered to "issue any order, process, or judgment that is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of this title." Therefore, the Court has the authority to issue an order directing disgorgement of fees and such an order is appropriate in this case.

Furthermore, the failure of Counsel to oppose may be deemed consent pursuant to Local Rule 9013-1(h).

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion, ordering disgorgement of the entirety of the fees paid by Debtor.

Tentative Ruling:

10/23/17

BACKGROUND

On October 13, 2015, Jack Pryor ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. On February 25, 2016, Debtor's case was converted to Chapter 7. The Court extended the time to file a complaint objecting to discharge on three occasions: (1) on June 8, 2016 (Dkt. No. 135); (2) on July 12, 2016 (Dkt. No. 141); and (3) on February 3, 2017 (Dkt. No. 245).

On February 28, 2017, UST filed a complaint against Debtor for denial of discharge pursuant to § 727(a)(6) and 727(a)(2)(B). On April 17, 2017, default was entered against Debtor. On July 3, 2017, Debtor filed a motion to set aside default. UST filed their opposition on July 12, 2017. On August 21, 2017, Debtor's motion was denied. On September 19, 2017, UST filed a motion for default judgment.

UST's complaint arises out of Debtor's removal of solar panels from certain real property located at 19024 Ruppert St., Palm Springs, CA (the "Property"). According to UST, the Chapter 7 trustee inspected the property on March 1, 2016, and identified approximately 96 solar panels affixed to the Property. In June 2016, Debtor notified Trustee that he had removed the solar panels. On October 19, 2016, after motion by the Trustee, the Court entered an order directing Debtor to turn over the solar panels. Debtor did not file opposition to the motion for turnover, and, after entry of the order, did not comply with the Court's order. On December 6, 2016, Trustee filed a motion for contempt, and, on December 15, 2016, the Court issued an order to show cause. Debtor did not respond to the order to show cause, and, on January 12, 2017, the Court entered an order holding Debtor in civil contempt.

DISCUSSION

A. Entry of Default

Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 55 states that "[w]hen a party against whom a judgment for affirmative relief is sought has failed to plead or otherwise defend as provided by these rules and that fact is made to appear by affidavit or otherwise, the clerk shall enter the party's default." Fed. R. Civ. P. 55(a). Local Rule 7055-1 provides further requirements relating to a motion for entry of default judgment, and those requirements have been substantially satisfied here.

B. Motion for Default Judgment

- (1) Upon an individual other than an infant or incompetent, by mailing a copy of the summons and complaint to the individual's dwelling house or usual place of abode or to the place where the individual regularly conducts a business or profession.

Here, Plaintiff properly served Debtor and his counsel at their addresses of record.

2. Merits of Plaintiff's claim

Upon default, the factual allegations of the complaint, except those relating to the amount of damages, will be taken as true. TeleVideo Systems, Inc. v. Heidenthal, 826 F.2d 915, 917 (9th Cir. 1987); see also Almog v. Golden Summit Investors Group, Ltd., 2012 WL 12867972 at *4 (C.D. Cal. 2012) ("When reviewing a motion for default judgment, the Court must accept the well-pleaded allegations of the complaint relating to liability as true.").

Here, the complaint includes two causes of action: § 727(a)(2)(B) and § 727(a)(6)

Regarding § 727(a)(2)(B), that provision states:

- a) The court shall grant the debtor a discharge, unless –
 - (2) The debtor, with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud a creditor or an officer of the estate charged with custody of property under this title, has transferred, removed, destroyed, mutilated, or concealed, or has permitted to be transferred, removed destroyed, mutilated, or concealed –

(B) property of the estate, after the date of the filing of the petition

Here, UST has asserted that the solar panels were property of the estate, that the solar panels were removed or sold by Debtor after the petition date, and that Debtor concealed his actions with the intent to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors or an officer of the estate. As such, UST has satisfied the elements of § 727(a)(2)(B).

Regarding § 727(a)(6), that provision states:

(a) The court shall grant the debtor a discharge, unless –

(6) the debtor has refused in the case –

Section 727(a)(6) contains three further disjunctive provisions, and UST has not cited a specific provision. Section 727(a)(6)(A) relates to the failure to a debtor to obey a lawful order of the court, and UST asserts that Debtor "refused to obey a lawful order of the court." Specifically, UST asserts that Debtor failed to comply with the Court's turnover order entered on October 19, 2016. This Court, in its order finding Debtor in civil contempt, has already held that Debtor willfully violated its Court order. Therefore, the elements of § 727(a)(6) have been satisfied.

3. Amount of Damages

Here, UST is not requesting any damages, and, therefore, no evidence is required

Debtors had a previous bankruptcy case dismissed on June 8, 2017, for failure to make plan payments. The instant case was filed on August 9, 2017. On August 16, 2017, Debtors filed a motion for an order continuing the automatic stay, and, at a hearing on August 31, 2017, the Court orally denied the motion.

11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3) provides that if a debtor had a previous case dismissed within a year of the instant case, then, absent court order, the automatic stay terminates thirty days after the petition date. Here, the Court did not continue the automatic stay, and, therefore, the automatic stay terminated on September 8, 2017. Therefore, the Court is inclined to GRANT the motion, confirming that the automatic stay is not in effect.

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion. Movant did not serve the motion on the Chapter 7 Trustee, the United States Trustee, or the Debtor pursuant to Local Rule 4001-(1)(c)(1)(C). Furthermore, Movant's attorney's declaration requests annulment of the automatic stay to validate certain post-petition acts, however, there is no description of what acts were taken in violation of the automatic stay. Finally, the details of the state court action are unclear. Specifically, it is not clear what role Debtor has in the litigation, and, while Movant appears to wish to proceed against applicable insurance, the motion also seems to indicate that it is unclear whether there is any applicable insurance.

MOVANT: WELLS FARGO BANK, N.A.

CASE DISMISSED 8/31/17

EH__

Docket 31

Tentative Ruling:

10/24/2017

On July 18, 2017, Conchita Ang ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. Debtor had a previous bankruptcy case dismissed on October 12, 2016. As such, pursuant to § 362(c)(3), the automatic stay was to terminate thirty days after the petition absent an order from the Court.

On August 15 and 18, respectively, Debtor filed an "application for legal determination/clarification of automatic stay" (the "Application") and a motion to, in part, enforce the automatic stay (the "Enforcement Motion"). On August 31, 2017, Debtor's case was dismissed with a six-month refiling bar. On September 14, 2017, Debtor's Application was denied, and the Court continued the Enforcement Motion.

On September 22, 2017, Wells Fargo Bank filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay (the "Annulment Motion"), requesting, in part, retroactive annulment of the automatic stay. Because Wells Fargo's motion was filed after the case was dismissed, the Court deems all Wells Fargo's requests that are not retroactive in nature to be moot. On October 10, 2017, Debtor filed her opposition to the Annulment Motion.

11 U.S.C. § 362(d) states:

(d) On request of a party in interest and after notice and a hearing, the court shall grant relief from the stay provided, under subsection (a) of this section such as by terminating, annulling, modifying, or condition such stay –

(emphasis added); see also In re Schwartz, 954 F.2d 569, 573 (9th Cir. 1992) ("If a creditor obtains retroactive relief under section 362(d), there is no violation of the automatic stay, and whether violations of the stay are void or voidable is not at issue.").

The BAP, in In re Fjeldsted, noted the absence of a clear standard for annulment of the automatic stay. 293 B.R. 12, 21 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2003) ("There is less appellate clarity, however, in enunciating a test for retroactive stay relief. Inconsistent standards have thus developed, which run the gamut from such relief being justified only in 'extreme circumstances' to giving the court 'wide latitude' to 'balance the equities' on a case-by-case basis."). The BAP's most recent announcement of the standard for annulment of the automatic stay stated the following:

Determining whether cause exists to annul the stay is a case-by-case inquiry based on a balance of the equities. In conducting this inquiry the bankruptcy court, among other factors, should consider whether the creditor knew of the bankruptcy when violating the stay and whether the debtor's conduct was unreasonable, inequitable or prejudicial to the creditor.

Chapter 13

In Fjeldsted, we approved additional factors for consideration in assessing the equities. The twelve nonexclusive factors are: (1) number of filings; (2) whether, in a repeat filing case, the circumstances indicate an intention to delay and hinder creditors; (3) a weighing of the extent of prejudice to creditors or third parties if the stay relief is not made retroactive, including whether harm exists to a bona fide purchaser; (4) the debtor's overall good faith (totality of circumstances test); (5) whether creditors knew of stay but nonetheless took action, thus compounding the problem; (6) whether the debtor has complied, and is otherwise complying, with the Bankruptcy Code and Rules; (7) the relative ease of restoring parties to the status quo ante; (8) the costs of annulment to debtors and creditors; (9) how quickly creditors moved for annulment, or how quickly debtor moved to set aside the sale or violative conduct; (10) whether, after learning of the bankruptcy, creditors proceeded to take steps in continued violation of the stay, or whether they moved expeditiously to gain relief; (11) whether annulment of the stay will cause irreparable injury to the debtor; and (12) whether stay relief will promote judicial economy or other efficiencies. The Panel in Fjeldsted cautioned that the twelve factors are merely a framework for analysis and not a scorecard, and that in any given case, one factor may so outweigh the others as to be dispositive.

In re Estavan Capital LLC, 2015 WL 7758494 at *5 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2015) (citations and quotations omitted).

While Fjeldsted cautioned that the enumerated factors are not a scorecard, it is clear that the majority of the factors, including, in particular, Debtor's lack of good faith, weigh in favor of annulling the stay. Specifically, as is noted by Wells Fargo, this is the sixteenth bankruptcy affecting the property, and this is also the tenth bankruptcy filed by Debtor. Debtor commenced the instant bankruptcy case several minutes before a scheduled foreclosure sale. And Debtor's bankruptcy case was dismissed at the confirmation hearing, with a re-filing bar, after Debtor failed to satisfy her basic obligations as a debtor.

Chapter 13

Furthermore, there is no evidence that Wells Fargo was aware of the bankruptcy filing at the time it undertook the acts in question, nor is there any evidence that Wells Fargo violated the automatic stay once it learned of the filing. Furthermore, Wells Fargo has at least a colorable argument that the automatic stay was not effective in this case. Certainly, if Wells Fargo had not made an error in the location in which it recorded a previous in rem order granting relief from the automatic stay, there would have been no need to seek annulment.

Given the history of Debtor's bankruptcy filings, the history of filings affecting the property, the timing of the filing in this case, Debtor's non-fulfillment of her legal obligations, the absence of timely notice of the bankruptcy filing to Wells Fargo, Wells Fargo's previous obtainment of an in rem order and recording (albeit incorrectly) of that order, Wells Fargo's prompt action in seeking annulment of the automatic stay, and Debtor's overall bad faith, the Court is inclined to GRANT the motion, annulling the automatic stay.

Because Wells Fargo filed its motion after dismissal of the instant bankruptcy case, all requests other than retroactive § 362(d)(1) relief are DENIED as moot.

The Court is inclined to CONTINUE the matter for Movant to file a supplemental declaration. Specifically, while Movant has checked the appropriate box stating that post-petition acts taken in violation of the automatic stay were taken before Movant knew of the bankruptcy filing, there is no supplemental declaration explaining when and how Movant obtained knowledge of the bankruptcy filing. Section 12 of the form motion explicitly contemplates the inclusion of a supplemental declaration when filing a motion to annul the automatic stay.

Tentative Ruling:

Debtor's opposition argues that the real estate contract is an executory contract that can be rejected in bankruptcy. While providing an applicable citation for that assertion, Debtor does not apply the legal standard to the facts of this case.

Nevertheless, it appears that Debtor's characterization of the contract as "executory" may have merit. While Movant, in the motion, states that "all contingencies had been removed," and, in the reply, states that they "dutifully removed all their contractual contingencies," the state court complaint submitted to support their motion states, in paragraph 23: "Plaintiffs have fully performed all conditions, covenants, and promises required by them on their part to be performed in accordance with the terms and conditions of the contract, except the final payment for the purchase of the Property." (emphasis added). While Movants appear to have made the initial deposit into escrow, it does not appear that the final purchase price was tendered.

"[A]n 'executory contract' that can be rejected in bankruptcy is a contract on which performance remains due on both sides at the time of the bankruptcy petition." Matter of Newcomb, 744 F.2d 621, 624 (8th Cir. 1984); see also In re Texscan Corp., 976 F.2d 1269-1271-72 (9th Cir. 1992). In Newcomb, the Court held that when the funds had already been transferred into escrow, there was no executory contract – no material obligations remained on the part of the grantor. See id.

In the Ninth Circuit, a real estate sales contract remains executory until the full purchase price is deposited into escrow by the purchaser. See In re Hertz, 536 B.R. 434, 439-41 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2015) (an extended discussion on when a purchase contract loses its executory nature).

Given that the real estate purchase contract may be an executory contract that shortly will be rejected by operation of law under 11 U.S.C. § 365(d)(1), and that Movants are seeking a state court order for specific performance under the contract, granting relief from stay would be improper because the state court proceedings would interfere with the bankruptcy court proceedings. Interference with the administration of the estate is the most important consideration when considering a motion for relief from stay to proceed with state court litigation. See In re Roger, 539 B.R. 837, 845 C.D. Cal. 2015) ("According to the court in Curtis, the most importance factor in determining whether to grant relief from the automatic stay to permit litigation against the debtor in another forum is the effect of such litigation on the administration of the estate. Even slight interference with the administration may be enough to preclude relief in the absence of a commensurate benefit."). Here, there is a possibility of significant interference with the bankruptcy estate.

Tentative Ruling:

For the foregoing reasons, the Court is inclined to DENY the motion.

Debtors had two bankruptcy cases dismissed in the year prior to filing the instant case. The first case was dismissed on July 25, 2016, for failure to make plan payments. The second case was dismissed on October 24, 2016, for failure to file information.

11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(4)(A)(ii) provides that if a debtor had two previous cases dismissed within a year of the instant case, then, absent court order, the automatic stay does not go into effect. Here, the Court did not impose the automatic stay, and, therefore, the automatic stay was never effective in this case. Therefore, the Court is inclined to GRANT the motion, confirming that the automatic stay is not in effect.

PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

On September 20, 2013, ASR Constructors, Inc. ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. On October 23, 2013, related entities Another Meridian Company, LLC ("Meridian") and Inland Machinery, Inc. ("Inland") (collectively, "Debtors") filed Chapter 11 voluntary petitions. On November 1, 2013, the Court ordered joint administration of the estates of Debtor, Meridian and Inland.

Prior to the filing of the bankruptcy petition, Gotte Electric, Inc. ("Gotte") filed a state court complaint against Debtors and Federal Insurance Company ("FIC") to set aside a fraudulent transfer. Upon Debtor's filing of a Chapter 11 petition, the action was removed to the bankruptcy court.

On November 17, 2015, Debtors filed a motion to approve compromise. On November 24, 2015, UST filed an objection. On December 1, 2015, Insurance Company of the West ("ICW") filed an objection. After further briefing, the Court granted the motion to approve the compromise, and an order was entered approving the compromise on December 30, 2015.

On January 8, 2016, Debtors' bankruptcy cases were dismissed. On February 13, 2017, Debtors' bankruptcy cases were reopened. On March 14, 2017, upon request by Debtors the Court modified the seventh paragraph of its dismissal order as follows:

7. ~~Except for the claims asserted in the declaratory relief action filed by ICW and/or Gotte pursuant to the Settlement Agreement,~~ this Court shall retain exclusive jurisdiction to enforce the provisions of the Settlement Agreement, 9019 Order and this Dismissal Order and to resolve any dispute(s) concerning the Settlement Agreement, the 9019 Order and/or this Dismissal Order or the rights and duties of the parties hereunder or thereunder or any issues relating to the Settlement Agreement, the 9019 Order and/or this Dismissal Order, including, interpretation of the terms, conditions and provisions thereof, and all issues and disputes arising in connection with the relief authorized under Settlement Agreement, the 9019 Order and/or this Dismissal Order.

On March 17, 2017, Debtors filed a complaint in interpleader against Gotte and other parties. On May 8, 2017, Debtors filed a motion for authorization to deposit disputed funds and for interpleader relief. At a status conference on May 16, 2017, the Court expressed some concerns with the relief requested, and Debtors filed a modification to motion on June 5, 2017.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Debtor was a general contractor. In connection with Debtor's work, FIC issues a number of surety performance and payment bonds on Debtor's behalf. Debtors and their principals, in return, executed various indemnity and collateral agreements in favor of FIC.

Gotte was Debtor's sub-contractor on three projects. On May 28, 2013, Gotte obtained a state court judgment against Debtor in the amount of $6,655,486.47, and on July 1, 2013, Gotte filed a UCC judgment lien against Debtor. On February 1, 2010, while the state court litigation was pending, Debtor transferred certain real property (the "Meridian Property") to Meridian for $3,100,000 and certain equipment and machinery (the "Equipment") to Inland for $3,780,458. These transfers were the subject the of the fraudulent transfer action commenced by Gotte. FIC has a lien on the Meridian Property, the Equipment, and Debtor's accounts receivable.

On December 17, 2013, the Court authorized the sale of that part of the Meridian Property located in the city of Riverside for a purchase price of $3,150,000. Net proceeds of the sale, totaling $1,790,000 were held in a DIP account, subject to the claims of Gotte, FIC, Berkley Regional Insurance Company ("BRIC") and ICW. Additionally, net proceeds of the sale of certain real property located in Phelan, totaling $50,000, were held in a DIP account subject to the claims of FIC and BRIC, and net proceeds of an auction sale of the Equipment, totaling $1,006,000, were held in a DIP account subject to the lien of FIC. The total amount of funds on hand at the time of the filing of the compromise motion was $3,152,360.28.

As part of the compromise motion, FIC agreed to grant a carve-out from its collateral in the amount of $200,000 plus 45% of net proceeds from the sale of the remainder of the Meridian Property. The various parties' respective rights to the FIC carve-out were not determined by the compromise motion.

On December 24, 2015, ICW filed a complaint in state court for declaratory relief and interpleader. On February 9, 2016, the IRS filed a notice of removal, removing the case to federal district court. On May 24, 2016, the district court dismissed the case upon motion of the IRS for lack of subject matter jurisdiction. As such, it is not clear that the interpleader action can be heard in either state court or federal district court.

DISCUSSION

Debtors request two categories of relief: (1) authority to deposit the funds constituting the FIC carve-out (the "Funds") into the court registry; and (2) various interpleader relief.

I. Deposit of Funds in Court Registry

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 7067 incorporates Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 67. FRCP Rule 67(a) states:

If any part of the relief sought is a money judgment or the disposition of a sum of money or some other deliverable thing, a party – on notice to every other party and by leave of court – may deposit with the court all or part of the money or thing, whether or not that party claims any of it. The depositing party must deliver to the clerk a copy of the order permitting deposit.

FRCP Rule 67 is properly invoked when there is a live dispute regarding the entitlement to the funds in question. See generally Alstom Caribe, Inc. v. George P. Reintjes Co., Inc., 484 F.3d 106, 113 (1st Cir. 2007) ("The core purpose of Rule 67 is to relieve a party who holds a contested fund from responsibility for disbursement of that fund among those claiming some entitlement thereto."); see also Garrick v. Weaver, 888 F.2d 687, 694 (10th Cir. 1989) ("The language of Rule 67 leaves to the discretion of the district court the decision as to whether to permit the deposit of funds in court. . . . The magistrate acted well within his discretionary authority in allowing the funds to be paid into court and excusing the defendants. His decision both ensured that the settlement fund would be available for disbursement and facilitated judicial economy by permitting the defendants, who no longer had an interest in the funds or in these proceedings, to withdraw.").

Here, there is clearly a live dispute regarding entitlement to the Funds.

II. Interpleader Relief

Debtors' original motion requested that the Court grant the following five forms of relief: (1) discharge Debtors from further liability to the named defendants; (2) dismissal of Debtors, with prejudice, from the adversary; (3) entry of a permanent injunction preventing Defendants from asserting claims against Debtor relating to the settlement funds; (4) requiring the named defendants to litigate between themselves; (5) an award of costs and reasonable attorney fees. Debtors' modification to the motion withdrew the last request, and modified the second request to reduce Debtors' role in the action to that of a monitoring capacity.

"In an interpleader action, the 'stakeholder' of a sum of money sues all those who might have claim to the money, deposits the money with the district court, and lets the claimants litigate who is entitled to the money." Cripps v. Life Ins. Co. of N. Am., 980 F.2d 1261, 1265 (9th Cir. 1992). Procedurally,

An interpleader action typically involves two stages. In the first stage, the district court decides whether the requirements for rule or statutory interpleader action have been met by determining if there is a single fund at issue and whether there are adverse claimants to that fund. If the district court finds that the interpleader action has been properly brought the district court will then make a determination of the respective rights of the claimants.

Rhoades v. Casey, 196 F.3d 592, 600 (5th Cir. 1999) (citations omitted).

Here, Debtors are relying on rule interpleader. Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 22(a)(1), incorporated into bankruptcy proceedings by Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 7022(a), states:

- (1) By a Plaintiff. Persons with claims that may expose a plaintiff to double or multiple liability may be joined as defendants and required to interplead. Joinder for interpleader is proper even though:
 - (A) the claims of the several claimants, or the titles on which their claims depend, lack a common origin or are adverse and independent rather than identical; or
 - (B) the plaintiff denies liability in whole or in part to any or all of the claimants.

Here, the various defendants' actual or potential claims to the Funds may expose Debtors to multiple liability. Therefore, an interpleader action is appropriate.

In cases where an interpleader action is appropriate, Collier states the following:

By turning over the fund or the property as directed by the court, the plaintiff may be discharged from the proceeding and any further liability. There may be an injunction issued to prevent the adverse claimants from further pursuing the stakeholder. On a finding that interpleader is proper, the court will then enter an order requiring the claimants to the fund or property to interplead.

10 Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 7022.01 (16th ed. 2013); see also 28 U.S.C. § 2361. Here, Debtors' requests closely track the language identified in Collier's and, in the absence of opposition, appear appropriate here.

A. Bankruptcy Court Jurisdiction

Nevertheless, the Court must determine whether it has subject matter jurisdiction. See, e.g., In re Strawberry, 464 B.R. 443, 447 (Bankr. N.D. Fla. 2012). This complaint in interpleader was filed in a dismissed bankruptcy case and would result in litigation over non-bankruptcy claims between non-debtor parties.

28 U.S.C. § 157 provides for four categories of cases which the district court may refer to the bankruptcy court: (1) cases under title 11; (2) proceedings arising under title 11; (3) proceedings arising in a case under title 11; and (4) proceedings related to a case under title 11. See, e.g., In re S&M Constructors, Inc., 144 B.R. 855, 858 (Bankr. W.D. Mo. 1992). Additionally, 28 U.S.C. § 157(b) divides matters into core and non-core proceedings.

The first category, cases under title 11, refers to the bankruptcy case commenced by the filing of the petition. See, e.g., In re Wood, 825 F.2d 90, 92 (5th Cir. 1987). This category is inapplicable here, as the matter at issue is a complaint in interpleader.

The second category, proceedings arising under title 11, refers to those actions that are expressly created by title 11. See, e.g., In re Wolverine Radio Co., Inc., 930 F.2d 1132, 1141, n.14 (6th Cir. 1991). This category is inapplicable here – the underlying liability is premised upon state law claims.

The third category¹, proceedings arising in a case under title 11, refers to claims that, although not created by title 11, would have no existence absent the bankruptcy, such as administrative matters. See, e.g., In re Repository Techs., Inc., 601 F.3d 710, 719 (7th Cir. 2010). This category is inapplicable here.

Chapter 11

The fourth category, proceedings related to a case under title 11, contains two different subsets: (1) causes of action owned by the debtor that become property of the estate under § 541; and (2) suits between third parties which in one way or another affect the administration of the bankruptcy case. Id. It is only the latter category that is potentially invoked by this proceeding.

The primary test for related to jurisdiction is the Third Circuit's Pacor test:

The usual articulation of the test for determining whether a civil proceeding is related to bankruptcy is whether the outcome of that proceeding could conceivably have any effect on the estate being administered in bankruptcy. Thus, the proceeding need not necessarily be against the debtor or against the debtor's property. An action is related to bankruptcy if the outcome could alter the debtor's rights, liabilities, options, or freedom of action . . . and which in any way impacts upon the handling and administration of the bankrupt estate.

Pacor, Inc. v. Higgins, 743 F.2d 984, 994 (3rd Cir. 1984). The Supreme Court previously acknowledged the prevalence of the Pacor test:

In attempting to strike an appropriate balance, the Third Circuit in Pacor, Inc. v. Higgins, 743 F.2d 984 (1984), devised the following test for determining the existence of "related to" jurisdiction:

The First, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth, and Eleventh Circuits have adopted the Pacor test with little or no variation. The Second and Seventh Circuits, on the other hand, seem to have adopted a slightly different test. But whatever test is used, these cases make clear that bankruptcy courts have no jurisdiction over proceedings that have no effect on the estate of the debtor.

Celotex Corp. v. Edwards, 514 U.S. 300, 308 n.6 (1995) (citations omitted).

The Ninth Circuit has recently reiterated its approval of the Pacor test for pre-confirmation matters:

The test for post-confirmation "related to" jurisdiction was modified from the seminal pre-confirmation Pacor test for "related to" jurisdiction, which had been previously adopted by the Ninth Circuit in In re Fietz, 852 F.2d 455, 457 (9th Cir. 1988). Surveying the courts that had applied a limited version of the Pacor test in the post-confirmation context, we recognized that the Pacor test of whether the outcome of the proceeding could conceivably have any effect on the estate being administered in bankruptcy . . . If the outcome could alter the debtor's rights, liabilities, options, or freedom of action . . . and which in any way impacts upon the handling and administration of the bankruptcy estate was somewhat overbroad in the post-confirmation context.

In re Wilshire Courtyard, 729 F.3d 1279, 1287 (9th Cir. 2013) (citations and quotations omitted).

First, it is unclear whether the complaint in interpleader would affect the administration of the bankruptcy estate, if a bankruptcy estate was being administered. Second, the Court must consider whether it can ever have "related to" jurisdiction in an action filed in a dismissed case because there is no estate to administer, and, consequently, such an action cannot affect administration of the estate.

Chapter 11

The Pacor test includes two requirements: (1) the action must alter the rights or obligations of the debtor; and (2) the action must have an effect on the administration of the estate. See, e.g., In re Bass, 171 F.3d 1016, 1022 (5th Cir. 1999). This second prong becomes an issue when an action is filed in a dismissed case. See, e.g., id. ("The second prong, however, is problematical. Although the injunction would have an impact on the Debtor, it could not have any effect whatsoever on his estate in bankruptcy or its administration. First and foremost, such an estate no longer exists.").

A different situation arises when, after an action is commenced, the underlying bankruptcy case is dismissed. Courts have generally concluded that in such a situation, retention of jurisdiction is discretionary, and based on principles of equity and judicial economy. See, e.g., In re Smith, 866 F.2d 576, 580 (3rd Cir. 1989) ("Drawing upon an analogy to the disposition of ancillary and pendent claims, the courts have held that they may consider a number of factors to determine whether jurisdiction should be retained."). Such a situation is, however, fundamentally different from the situation here. See id. ("Appellees fail, however, to distinguish between the determination of the existence of jurisdiction at the outset of these proceedings and the determination of whether 'related' claims should be dismissed with the dismissal of the bankruptcy case or the discharge of the debtor."); In re Fietz, 852 F.2d 455, 457 n.2 (9th Cir. 1988) ("Subject matter jurisdiction should be determined as of the date that the complaint, or in this case the cross-claim, was filed.").

In developing a standard for when a bankruptcy court should retain jurisdiction following the dismissal of the underlying case, courts have analogized the situation to a district court's retention of pendent state claims following dismissal of the federal claims. See, e.g., In re Porges, 44 F.3d 159, 162-63 (2nd Cir. 1995); In re Carraher, 971 F.2d 327, 328 (9th Cir. 1992); In re Casamont Investors, Ltd., 196 B.R. 517, 522 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1996) ("In determining whether the bankruptcy court abused its discretion by retaining jurisdiction over related proceedings, the Ninth Circuit and several other circuits have analogized to cases concerning the propriety of district courts retaining jurisdiction over pendent state law claims after federal claims have been dismissed."). Applying that analogy and the applicable standard to the matter at issue here reveals the fundamental problem: a district court can never exercise pendent jurisdiction over state law claims when, at their commencement, there is no existing federal claim for the state claims to supplement. In the bankruptcy context, the Court cannot exercise related to jurisdiction if there is no bankruptcy case for the complaint to relate to.

C. Ancillary or Retained Jurisdiction

Attempts have been made to avoid this issue by arguing for the existence of supplemental or retained jurisdiction. See In re Bass, 171 F.3d 1016, 1023-242 (5th Cir. 1999) (supplemental) ("Congress has gone to great lengths to determine what proceedings may be tried by bankruptcy courts, and the exercise of ancillary and pendent jurisdiction by bankruptcy courts could subsume the more restrictive 'related to' and 'arising in' jurisdiction, such that the latter would be rendered substantially, if not entirely, superfluous."); id. at 1025 (retained) ("[B]efore a court can exercise its discretion to 'retain' jurisdiction over a 'related proceeding,' the court must have had jurisdiction over that proceeding in the first place. The Denneys did not file their suit in Texas until after the bankruptcy case in Utah had been closed. From a purely temporal standpoint, there was no proceeding over which bankruptcy court jurisdiction could be 'retained.'"); see also In re Morris, 950 F.2d 1531, 1534 (11th Cir. 1992) (same). The Ninth Circuit has previously discussed the application of supplemental, or ancillary, jurisdiction in the context of interpreting a settlement agreement in a Chapter 11 structured dismissal:

Here, when Sea Hawk filed its adversary proceeding, VFDA's Chapter 11 case had been dismissed and a final decree entered. . . .

The bankruptcy court has no role in the resolution of the creditors' dispute, and it is involved only fortuitously because the dispute implicates the terms of a settlement agreement approved by the court as a precondition of the dismissal of VFDA's bankruptcy. . . .

The bankruptcy court did not consider dismissal of VFDA's bankruptcy to automatically divest it of jurisdiction over a related case. It reasoned that after dismissal, the court has discretion to retain jurisdiction over a related proceeding, citing In re Carraher, 971 F.2d 327, 328 (9th Cir. 1992). . . .

Carraher does not support the bankruptcy court's decision. It stands for the proposition that a bankruptcy court may retain jurisdiction over a related proceeding pending at the time of the dismissal of the bankruptcy case. It does not support the assertion of bankruptcy jurisdiction over a proceeding initiated subsequent to the dismissal of the bankruptcy case.

In re Valdez Fisheries Dev. Ass'n, Inc., 439 F.3d 545, 547-48 (9th Cir. 2006). Valdez Fisheries, however, made clear that the result may have been different had the Court's dismissal order explicitly retained jurisdiction over the dispute in question. See id. at 549 ("Ancillary jurisdiction may rest on one of two bases: (1) to permit disposition by a single court of factually interdependent claims, and (2) to enable a court to vindicate its authority and effectuate its decrees.") (citing Kokkonen v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 511 U.S. 375, 79-80 (1994)). The second purpose of Kokkonen's retained, related-to jurisdiction is at issue here.

Nevertheless, the second prong of the Kokkonen test has its limits. See, e.g., In re Ray, 624 F.3d 1124, 1136 (9th Cir. 2010) ("In short, hearing a breach of contract claim predicated on evidence that came to light after a bankruptcy case had closed, its creditors paid, and the debtor discharged, stretches the limits of the bankruptcy court's ancillary jurisdiction too far, going beyond what is necessary for the bankruptcy court to 'effectuate its decrees.' . . . Reopening of the bankruptcy case is rare, and only used when necessary to resolve bankruptcy issues, not to adjudicate state law claims that can be adjudicated in state court.") (citation omitted). Importantly, an explicit retention of jurisdiction is only valid to the extent that jurisdiction is retained over claims that could have been heard at the time that jurisdiction was retained. See, e.g., In re Nobel Group, Inc., 529 B.R. 284, 292 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2015). To conclude otherwise would be to allow bankruptcy courts to craft their own jurisdictional authority. See, e.g., In re Resorts Int'l, Inc., 372 F.3d 154, 161 (3rd Cir. 2004) ("[N] either the bankruptcy court nor the parties can write their own jurisdictional ticket. When a court lacks subject matter jurisdiction over a dispute, the parties cannot create it by agreement even in a plan of reorganization.").

First, there appears to be a problem in that jurisdiction was not conferred until the time of the dismissal order. Here, the retention of jurisdiction over the interpleader action was concurrent with dismissal of the case, and, as such, the claim for which jurisdiction was retained could not have been filed until after the case was dismissed. As stated above, related to jurisdiction is determined at the time the claim is filed, but, importantly, is premised upon the existence of a case that the claim can be related to. Therefore, because the jurisdiction in question was only conferred in a dismissal order, there would no existing bankruptcy case at the time an interpleader action could have been filed, so as to confer related to jurisdiction. The Court is aware of the confusing nature of the issue.

Second, even if the retention of jurisdiction had been in the settlement order, and, as such, the retention of jurisdiction would have arisen in the context of an existing case, allowing related to jurisdiction to exist², it would be unclear, possibly unlikely, that the Court would have subject matter jurisdiction over the complaint in interpleader. As briefly alluded to in section B, supra, the Ninth Circuit has limited the Pacor "related to" test to pre-confirmation matters, and has imposed a more demanding test for post-confirmation matters. See In re Pegasus Gold Corp., 394 F.3d 1189, 1194 (9th Cir. 2005). The rationale for this distinction is that the bankruptcy estate ceases to exist post confirmation. See generally id. Pegasus Gold, therefore, replaced the more liberal Pacor test with a "close nexus" test after the dissolution of the bankruptcy estate. See id. The "close nexus" test requires that the matter be directly affect the bankruptcy proceeding for subject matter jurisdiction to be present. See id. It is difficult to ascertain how the "close nexus" test could be satisfied when the basis for the complaint in interpleader, the settlement agreement, also contemplates that the bankruptcy proceedings will cease.

Furthermore, even if Debtors had modified the settlement order and could show that the "close nexus" test was satisfied, the pendent jurisdiction test alluded to in section B, supra, may also merit consideration. This test instructs the Court to consider the interests of "economy, convenience, fairness and comity." See In re Carraher, 971 F.2d 327, 328 (9th Cir. 1992).

The Court need not reach the "close nexus" or pendent jurisdiction tests at this point, however, for the following two reasons: (1) the modification of the dismissal order does not properly appear to confer jurisdiction on the Court, and (2) the settlement order expressly disclaims jurisdiction over the interpleader action.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court believes dismissal of the adversary for lack of subject matter jurisdiction is appropriate. The Court will consider whether to, on its own motion, amend the dismissal order to delete the retention of jurisdiction, and at the request of the parties, may continue the hearing for further briefing in light of the foregoing.

EH__

Docket 22

Tentative Ruling:

10/25/17

BACKGROUND

On January 24, 2010, Scott & Karen Bosco ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On May 11, 2011, Debtors received a discharge, and on May 26, 2011, the case was closed.

On October 19, 2016, the case was reopened upon motion of UST. On March 14, 2017, Trustee filed an application to employ Aylstock, Witkin, Kreis & Overholtz ("Aylstock") as special counsel. On July 28, 2017, Trustee amended the application to request the employment of the Pulaski Law Firm, Osborne & Associates, and Anapol Weiss in addition to Aylstock. After originally filing the application on negative notice, the matter was set for hearing on August 23, 2017.

DISCUSSION

Trustee's application refers to § 327(e), which states:

While Trustee has included the required statements of disinterestedness, it is unclear why it is necessary to employ four law firms. Specifically, the application does not delineate the tasks and responsibility of the different law firms; indeed, each declaration is identical in so far as it describes the tasks to be accomplished. Nor does the application discuss the history of the litigation or each of the law firms' previous roles. Additionally, each of the four declarations states that the law firm of the declarant shall be entitled to a 40% contingency fee, which is obviously impossible.

TENTATIVE RULING

Trustee to explain the nature of the proposed employment, the need for four separate counsel, and allocation of fees between counsel.

Docket 213

Tentative Ruling:

9/27/17

BACKGROUND

On September 30, 2013, Charles Biehl ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On September 21, 2015, Trustee filed an adversary proceeding against Rene Clements-Biehl ("Defendant") for: (1) avoidance and recovery of intentional fraudulent transfer; (2) avoidance and recovery of constructively fraudulent transfer; (3) avoidance and recovery of preferential transfer; (4) disallowance of claims; (5) unjust enrichment; (6) declaratory relief. The subject of the adversary proceeding was certain real property located at 6 Dover Ct., Rancho Mirage, CA 92270 and 3338 Tempe Dr., Huntington Beach, CA 92649, and certain furniture located therein.

According to Trustee, pursuant to a marital settlement agreement, a state court entered a judgment confirming a property division on October 30, 2012. Later, on November 21, 2012, Debtor transferred to Defendant the real property located in Huntington Beach pursuant to an interspousal grant deed.

On August 15, 2017, Trustee filed a motion to approve compromise pursuant to Fed.

DISCUSSION

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9019 provides that:

On motion by the trustee and after notice and a hearing, the court may approve a compromise or settlement. Notice shall be given to creditors, the United States trustee, the debtor, and indenture trustees as provided in Rule 2002 and to any other entity as the court may direct.

The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals have previously outlined the factors to be considered in approving a compromise pursuant to Rule 9019: (1) the probability of success in the litigation; (2) the difficulties to be encountered in the matter of collection; (3) the complexity, expense, inconvenience and delay of litigation; and (4) the interest of creditors with deference to their reasonable. See In re A&C Props., 784 F.2d 1377, 1381 (9th Cir. 1986). The listed factors assist the Court in determining "the fairness, reasonableness and adequacy of a proposed settlement agreement." Id.

Trustee's compromise motion does not provide the information the Court requires to apply the A&C Properties factors or to assess the reasonableness of the settlement because the motion fails to identify the value of the Property or estimate the value of Debtor's interest in the property, rendering it impossible to determining the reasonableness of the settlement amount.

Docket 170

Tentative Ruling:

BACKGROUND

On November 14, 2013, Josue & Fabiola Luna ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On January 31, 2014, Debtors' Chapter 13 plan was confirmed. After three plan modifications, Debtors converted their case to Chapter 7 on June 21, 2017.

On September 25, 2017, the Chapter 7 Trustee filed a motion for an extension of time to file a complaint objecting to discharge. Trustee states that at the initial Chapter 7 meeting of creditors he discovered that Debtor-husband transferred a 25% share in a closely held corporation to his father during the Chapter 13 case. Trustee states that, after continuing the meeting of creditors, Debtors failed to appear at the next two meetings. Trustee seeks an extension of the deadline to allow for further investigation into Debtors' finances and to acquire additional documentation.

Chapter 7

- (1) In a chapter 7 case, a complaint, or a motion under § 727(a)(8) or (9) of the Code, objecting to the debtor's discharge shall be filed no later than 60 days after the first date set for the meeting of creditors under § 341(a). In a chapter 11 case, the complaint shall be filed no later than the first date set for the hearing on confirmation. In a chapter 13 case, a motion objecting to the debtor's discharge under § 1328(f) shall be filed no later than 60 days after the first date set for the meeting of creditors under § 341(a). At least 28 days' notice of the time so fixed shall be given to the United States trustee and all creditors as provided in Rule 2002(f) and (k) and to the trustee and the trustee's attorney.

And Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 4004(b) states:

- (1) On motion of any party in interest, after notice and hearing, the court may for cause extend the time to object to discharge. Except as provided in subdivision (b)(2), the motion shall be filed before the time has expired.
- (2) A motion to extent the time to object to discharge may be filed after the time for objection has expired and before discharge is granted if (A) the objection is based on facts that, if learned after the discharge, would provide a basis for revocation under § 727(d) of the Code, and (B) the movant did not have knowledge of those facts in time to permit an objection. The motion shall be filed promptly after the movant discovers the facts on which the objection is based.

Here, Debtors' delay in providing the information requested by the Trustee, and their absence at the last two meetings of creditors, constitutes sufficient cause to extend the deadline. See Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 4004.03[2] (16th ed. 2013) ("A debtor's delays in responding to discovery may be sufficient cause. Obviously, a delay in the meeting of creditors to a date close to or after the deadline may constitute such cause.") (citing In re McCormack, 244 B.R. 203 (Bankr. D. Conn. 2000)).

Moreover, Debtor's failure to oppose shall be deemed consent to the relief requested pursuant to Local Rule 9013-1(h).

Docket 25

Tentative Ruling:

10/25/2017

Background:

On January 28, 2015, Crossfire Marketing Group ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On September 14, 2015, Durham Commercial Cleaning ("Creditor") filed a priority unsecured claim in the amount of $850.00 ("Claim 3"). On September 12, 2017, Trustee filed an objection to Claim 3, contending that Claim 3 is not entitled to priority status.

Applicable Law:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

Analysis:

Claim 3 states that it is entitled to priority status under 11 U.S.C. § 507(a)(7). 11 U.S.C. § 507(a)(7) states:

(a) The following expenses and claims have priority in the following order:

(7) Seventh, allowed unsecured claims of individuals, to the extent of $2,850 for each such individual, arising from the deposit, before the commencement of the case, of money in connection with the purchase, lease, or rental of property, or the purchase of services, for the personal, family, or household use of such individuals, that were not delivered or provided.

The above priority provision is clearly inapplicable here. First of all, Creditor is not an individual. Additionally, it appears that Creditor provided services to Debtor without receiving compensation. Section 507(a)(7) is applicable when a Creditor makes a payment towards property or services that are to be provided or performed by Debtor, which is not the case here.

Finally, the Court deems failure to oppose to be consent to the relief requested pursuant to Local Rule 9013-(1)(h).

Tentative Ruling

The Court is inclined to SUSTAIN the objection. Claim 3 is allowed as a general unsecured claim not entitled to priority status.

On January 28, 2015, Crossfire Marketing Group ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On January 25, 2016, JP Upland ("Creditor") filed a general unsecured claim in the amount of $1,920.70 ("Claim 8"). The claims bar deadline was November 30, 2015. On September 12, 2017, Trustee filed an "objection" to Claim 8, contending that Claim 8 should be allowed as a timely filed claim.

Applicable Law:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). (B) timely filed under section 501(b) or 501(c) of this title; or

(i) the creditor that holds such claim did not have notice or actual knowledge of the case in time for timely filing of a proof of such claim under section 501(a) of this title; and

(ii) proof of such claim is filed in time to permit payment of such claim

(3) third, in payment of any allowed unsecured claim proof of which is tardily filed under section 501(a) of this title, other than a claim of the kind specified in paragraph (2)(C) of this subsection

Here, there are two issues with Trustee's request. First, Trustee's request, made without reference to specific authority, that the claim be treated as timely filed is precluded by the above statute. While § 726(a)(2) allows tardily filed claims to be treated equally with timely filed claims in certain circumstances, here Trustee is asking the Court to allow an untimely claim as timely, when her presumably should be requesting the untimely claim be paid pro rata pursuant to § 726(a)(2)(C)(i). Second, to that point, there is no evidence upon which the Court could conclude that the requirements of § 726(a)(2)(C)(i) have been satisfied. Specifically, Creditor clearly received notice of the bankruptcy filing at some point prior to the filing of the proof of claim. The record does not establish whether the time when Creditor received actual knowledge of the case was early enough to permit Creditor to file a timely proof of claim.

Rather, without more, it appears this claim should be subordinated pursuant to § 726(a)(3).

EH__

Docket 93

Tentative Ruling:

10/25/17

BACKGROUND

On April 28, 2015, Home Security Stores, Inc. ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On May 28, 2015, the Court authorized the employment of Goe & Forsythe, LLP as general counsel to Trustee. On July 2, 2015, the Court authorized the employment of Hahn Fife & Co. LLP as accountants for Trustee. On July 17, 2015, the Court authorized the employment of Credit Management Association as auctioneer for Trustee.

On April 20, 2016, the Court extended the deadline for Trustee to file avoidance actions by six months, to October 28, 2017. On April 28, 2017, the Trustee filed an avoidance action. On October 4, 2017, Trustee filed another motion to extend the deadline for Trustee to file avoidance actions, requesting an additional six months.

At the initial meeting of creditors, the Trustee learned that Debtor's two shareholders, Ralph and Stacy Winn (the "Winns"), had physically removed Debtor's servers and some computers, on which Debtor's financials were recorded. Trustee asserts that Debtor engaged in transfers to insiders after the cessation of its operations. After recovering the servers, Trustee learned that the information had been removed.

Chapter 7

Trustee has requested corporate records from Debtor, and while such records appear to have been received, Trustee contends that the records are vast, yet incomplete. Trustee obtained an order authorizing a 2004 examination of Debtor's non-bankruptcy attorney, Harry Histen ("Histen"), however, according to Trustee, it is not clear that Histen fully complied with the order. Trustee requests additional time to continue his investigation of Debtor's finances.

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 546 requires that an avoidance action be brought within two years of the entry of the order for relief. That deadline, however, can be extended. See, e.g., In re United Ins. Mgmt., Inc., 14 F.3d 1380, 1384 (9th Cir. 1994). The current deadline in this case is April 28, 2017, which Trustee seeks to extend for six months to and including October 28, 2017.

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9006(b) states:

Except as provided in paragraphs (2) and (3) of this subdivision, when an act is required or allowed to be done at or within a specified period by these rules or by a notice given thereunder or by order of court, the court for cause shown may at any time in its discretion (1) with or without motion or notice order the period enlarged if the request therefor is made before the expiration of the period originally prescribed or as extended by a previous order or (2) on motion made after the expiration of the specified period permit the act to be done where the failure to act was the result of excusable neglect.

The Court adopts a "for cause" standard when determining whether to utilize Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9006(b) to extend a deadline. See In re Fundamental Long Term Care, Inc., 501 B.R. 784, 789 (Bankr. M.D. Fla. 2013). In this case, Trustee's motion indicates that Histen and Debtor have not been fully cooperative with, and possibly obstructive of, Trustee's attempt to investigate Debtor's financial affairs. Trustee indicates that he does not yet have the information necessary to assess whether further

Tentative Ruling:

10/25/17

BACKGROUND

On February 26, 2016, Sam & Greeta Dason ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On Schedule A, Debtors listed certain commercial real property located at 944 Via Lata, Colton, California 92324 (the "Property"). On February 22, 2017, the Court approved Trustee's application to employ Ramsaur Law Office as general insolvency counsel. On March 6, 2017, the Court approved Trustee's application to employ Glassratner Brokerage Services ("Broker") as real estate broker. On March 7, 2017, the Court approved Trustee's application to employ Karl Anderson as accountant. On April 5, 2017, the Court approved a compromise between Debtors and Trustee relating to certain non-exempt assets.

On September 28, 2017, Trustee filed a motion for an order: (1) approving the sale of estate property free and clear of liens pursuant to Bankruptcy Code § 363(b)(1) and (f), subject to overbids; (2) approving payment of real estate commission and other costs; and (3) granting related relief. The proposed sale price is $1,250,000. Trustee proposes to pay $100,000 as costs of sale, approximately $560,000 to Bank of America on the first trust deed (paying it off in full), approximately $90,000 to Bank of America on the second trust deed (paying it off in full), and approximately $50,000 on account of Bank of America's cross-collateralization provision securing the total amount of $700,000.¹ The remaining $450,000 will accrue to the bankruptcy estate.

DISCUSSION

I. Sale of Estate Property

11 U.S.C. § 363(b)(1) allows a trustee to sell property of the estate outside of the ordinary course, after notice and a hearing. A sale pursuant to § 363(b) requires a demonstration that the sale has a valid business justification. In re 240 North Brand Partners, Ltd., 200 B.R. 653, 659 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1996). "In approving any sale outside the ordinary course of business, the court must not only articulate a sufficient business reason for the sale, it must further find it is in the best interest of the estate, i.e. it is fair and reasonable, that it has been given adequate marketing, that it has been negotiated and proposed in good faith, that the purchaser is proceeding in good faith, and that it is an "arms-length" transaction." In re Wilde Horse Enters., Inc., 136 B.R. 830, 841 (Bankr. C.D. Cal.).

While Broker originally attempted to sell the property for $1,599,000, after more than six months of marketing the property, the best offer received by Broker is for $1,250,000. Given the extensive marketing of the property, the fact that the sale appears to be a good faith, arms-length transaction, and the fact that the estate would receive $450,000 for distribution to unsecured creditors, the Court concludes that Trustee has articulated an adequate business reason for the sale.

II. Sale Free & Clear of Liens

(f) The trustee may sell property under subsection (b) or (c) of this section free and clear of any interest in such property of an entity other than the estate, only if-

- (1) applicable nonbankruptcy law permits sale of such property free and clear of such interest;
- (2) such entity consents;
- (3) such interest is a lien and the price at which such property is to be sold is greater than the aggregate value of all liens on such property;
- (4) such interest is in bona fide dispute; or
- (5) such entity could be compelled, in a legal or equitable proceeding, to accept a money satisfaction of such interest.

Trustee contends that § 363(f)(3)-(4) are applicable. First, Trustee contends that aggregate value of all liens on the property is $700,000, which is exceeded by the purchase price of $1,250,000. Furthermore, Trustee contends that to the extent there are remaining unidentified and unresolved liens at closing, those liens are in bona fide dispute.

Because Trustee has established that § 363(f)(3) is applicable, and in the absence of any objection, Trustee has met its burden in securing a sale free and clear of liens.

III. 14-Day Stay

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 6004(h) states: "An order authorizing the use, sale, or lease of property other than cash collateral is stayed until the expiration of 14 days after entry of the order, unless the court orders otherwise." The Court deems the absence of objections to be consent to the relief requested, pursuant to Local Rule 9013-(1)(h), and, therefore, will waive the stay of Rule 6004(h).

IV. Miscellaneous

The Court has reviewed the remainder of Trustee's miscellaneous requests, including for a determination that the buyer is a good faith purchaser under § 363(m). The Court is inclined to grant all requests, however, the Court notes that there is no evidence in the motion to support a § 363(m) determination.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion in its entirety conditioned on Movant filing a declaration establishing that the purchaser is a good-faith purchaser under § 363(m).

Docket 70

Tentative Ruling:

10/25/17

BACKGROUND

On May 19, 2017, Michelle Meredith ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On September 13, 2017, Trustee filed a motion for turnover, and, on September 28, 2017, Trustee's attorney, Noreen Madoyan filed a supplemental declaration in support of the turnover motion. Trustee's motion was granted at a hearing on October 4, 2017, and an order was entered to that effect on October 10, 2017.

On October 13, 2017, Debtor filed a motion to reconsider the supplemental declaration of Noreen Madoyan. On October 17, 2017, Trustee filed his opposition.

As a preliminary matter, the Court notes that service and notice of this motion is improper. Regarding notice, Debtor has scheduled this hearing on twelve days notice, instead of the twenty-one days required by Local Rule 9013-(1)(d)(2). Furthermore, Debtor has signed the proof of service herself, despite the fact that the proof of service begins by stating: "I am over the age of 18 and not a party to this bankruptcy case."

Chapter 7

DISCUSSION

Debtor's motion primarily provides a detailed description of Debtor's recent personal and financial circumstances, and an account that would appear to depict a pattern of negligent or unprofessional conduct by her attorney, Patricia Ashcraft. At the conclusion of Debtor's motion, she requests that the court "reconsider any rulings made or orders issued based on the false allegations and misstatements made regarding my conduct, regard for this court and instructions issued by all parties involved with this case."

For several reasons, the Court deems it appropriate to continue this matter. First, Debtor has scheduled this hearing on shortened time without filing an application shortening time. Second, it is not clear what Debtor is requesting, and it appears Debtor is not sure herself. More specifically, the only docket entry that is explicitly objected to by Debtor is a declaration of Trustee's attorney and, clearly, the Court's cannot "reconsider" a declaration. While the Court could construe Debtor's motion as a request to reconsider the turnover order, the Court declines to do so at this time for two reasons: (1) Debtor's motion admits that she has not seen the order, at least as of the time of the filing of the motion, and thus, necessarily, it would be unclear what parts Debtor wants reconsidered; and (2) Debtor's motion indicates that she is attempting to obtain new counsel.

TENTATIVE RULING

In light of the foregoing, the Court is inclined to continue the matter for Debtor to obtain new counsel or, alternatively, for Debtor to file a supplemental declaration explaining what ruling she wants the Court to reconsider.

#17.00 Motion for fine and/or disgorgement of fees against bankruptcy petition preparer United States Trustees Notice Of Motion And Motion To Fine And Enjoin Bankruptcy Petitioner Preparer Hugo Laguna

EH__

Docket 40

Tentative Ruling:

10/25/17

BACKGROUND

On August 15, 2016, Jesus & Yovana Guillen ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On November 23, 2016, UST filed a motion for order requiring Hugo Laguna ("Laguna") to pay fines to the UST, pay damages to Debtor, and disgorge fees received. On December 16, 2016, Debtors filed a declaration clarifying answers that were provided at the meeting of creditors. On December 22, 2016, Hugo Laguna ("Laguna") filed a late declaration. After continuing the hearing, Laguna and UST eventually stipulated to a resolution of the matter. The Court entered an order on April 19, 2017, requiring Laguna to pay $100 to Debtors within thirty days, and to pay $250 to UST within sixty days. Laguna was to file a compliance declaration regarding the former within forty-five days.

On May 23, 2017, the case was closed. On September 22, 2017, the case was reopened, and on September 25, 2017, UST filed a motion to fine and enjoin Laguna. UST asserts that Laguna has not complied with the Court order of April 19, 2017. On October 20, 2017, Laguna filed a late response. Laguna asserts that he paid $250 to UST shortly after filing the instant motion.

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 110(j)(3) states: "The court, as part of its contempt power, may enjoin a bankruptcy petition preparer that has failed to comply with a previous order issued under this section. The injunction under this paragraph may be issued on the motion of the court, the trustee, or the United States trustee."

As noted by UST, in order to obtain civil contempt sanctions, a movant must demonstrate: (1) violation of a court order; (2) beyond substantial compliance; (3) not based on a good faith and reasonable interpretation of the order; and (4) by clear and convincing evidence. See Labor/Cnty. Strategy Ctr. V. L.A. Cnty. Metro. Transp. Auth., 564 F.3d 1115, 1123 (9th Cir. 2009). As is evidenced by the docket and UST's motion, Laguna has failed to comply with the Court's order. The Court's order was simple and unambiguous, and there is clear and convincing evidence that Laguna has not complied. Therefore, the Court will issue the requested injunction.

11 U.S.C. § 110(h)(5) states: "A bankruptcy petition preparer shall be fined not more than $500 for each failure to comply with a court order to turn over funds within 30 days of service of such order." Here, the Court's order was entered over six months ago, and was straightforward, requiring payment of a total of $350. The order was entered in response to a stipulation between UST and Laguna, and, therefore, Laguna was certainly aware of the order.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion to the extent that the motion seeks an injunction enjoining Laguna from providing bankruptcy preparer services. Parties to address Laguna's compliance with payment obligations.

Docket 46

Tentative Ruling:

10/25/17

BACKGROUND

On January 11, 2017, Ariel Flores ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On January 30, 2017, the case was dismissed for failure to file case commencement documents. On February 10, 2017, the dismissal was vacated. On June 30, 2017, Debtor obtained a discharge. On August 11, 2017, the Court approved Trustee's application to employ Neiman Realty as real estate broker.

On October 2, 2017, Trustee filed a motion for turnover of property. Trustee states that he e-mailed Debtor's counsel on September 20, 2017 inquiring regarding access to certain real property located at 1254 Hardt Street, San Bernardino, CA 92408 (the "Property"). Trustee states that, in response, he received an e-mail stating that the employment application was not properly served, and that Debtor's wife's community property interest in the Property was not part of the bankruptcy estate. Based upon this response, Trustee requests authorization to put a lockbox on the Property.

On October 19, 2017, Debtor filed a late objection to Trustee's motion.

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 542(a) states:

Except as provided in subsection (c) or (d) of this section, an entity, other than a custodian, in possession, custody, or control, during the case, of property that the trustee may use, sell, or lease under section 363 of this title, or that the debtor may exempt under section 522 of this title, shall deliver to the trustee, and account for, such property or the value of such property, unless such property is of inconsequential value or benefit to the estate.

The standard for a turnover action is well established:

"To prevail in a turnover action under § 542, the party seeking turnover must establish (1) that the property is or was in the possession, custody or control of an entity during the pendency of the case, (2) that the property may be used by the trustee in accordance with § 363 or exempted by the debtor under § 522; and (3) that the property has more than inconsequential value or benefit to the estate."

In re Bailey, 380 B.R. 486, 490 (B.A.P. 6th Cir. 2008); see also In re Newman, 487 B.R. 193 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2013). Here, it is clear that Debtor is in possession of the property, and Debtor has in fact exempted the property in part. The last prong is less than clear from the evidence before the Court. Debtor has claimed an exemption of $20,000 in the property and identified a secured claim in the amount of $93,000. Debtor interest in the Property is identified in Schedules A, C, and D, as $110,339, $123,000, and $145,000 respectively. Given the assertions in Trustee's motion, it is unclear if that amount reflects only Debtor's interest in the property or instead reflects the interests of Debtor and his wife.

In any event, the most accurate determination of the value of an asset is established through marketing the asset. While the evidence before the Court does not conclusively establish that the Property has consequential value to the estate, there appears to be sufficient equity to warrant a sale. Therefore, the Court is inclined to grant Trustee's request.

The exact nature of Trustee's request is unclear. In his conclusion, Trustee requests "access" and "cooperation." In the motion, Trustee provides more detail, however, that detail is not abundantly clear. While the Court is inclined to issue an order granting Trustee's motion, further discussion about the contents of that order is required.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion to allow Trustee sufficient access to market the property. Parties to further discuss details of the access requested.

Docket 29

Tentative Ruling:

10/25/17

BACKGROUND

On March 9, 2017, David & Carol Norwood ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On July 12, 2017, the Court approved Trustee's application to employ Shulman Hodges & Bastian as counsel. On August 14, 2017, Debtors received a discharge.

On October 4, 2017, Trustee filed a motion for sale of property of the estate under Section 363(b). Trustee proposes to sell 10,000 shares (the "Shares") in a privately held penny stock company called Shades Unlimited back to Shades Unlimited for $37,500.

Chapter 7

11 U.S.C. § 363(b)(1) allows a trustee to sell property of the estate outside of the ordinary course, after notice and a hearing. A sale pursuant to § 363(b) requires a demonstration that the sale has a valid business justification. In re 240 North Brand Partners, Ltd., 200 B.R. 653, 659 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1996). "In approving any sale outside the ordinary course of business, the court must not only articulate a sufficient business reason for the sale, it must further find it is in the best interest of the estate, i.e. it is fair and reasonable, that it has been given adequate marketing, that it has been negotiated and proposed in good faith, that the purchaser is proceeding in good faith, and that it is an "arms-length" transaction." In re Wilde Horse Enters., Inc., 136 B.R. 830, 841 (Bankr. C.D. Cal.).

Here, the unique nature of the asset to be sold renders makes a § 363(b) analysis implausible. Trustee concedes that there was no attempt to market the Shares, and that no appraisal of the shares was undertaken. The only evidence in the motion relating to the value of the shares is that Debtors purchased the Shares in 1992 for $10,000.¹

Nevertheless, Trustee has notified creditors of the sale, has posted the sale on the Court's website, and has opened up the sale to potential overbids. These actions appear appropriate and adequate for the circumstances. Furthermore, given that general unsecured claims presently total $27,281.24, it would appear that an increase in sale price may result in a surplus accruing to Debtors, who have been notified of the sale. Therefore, the Court finds that Trustee has articulated an adequate business reason for the sale.

II. 14-Day Stay

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 6004(h) states: "An order authorizing the use, sale, or lease of property other than cash collateral is stayed until the expiration of 14 days after entry of the order, unless the court orders otherwise." The Court deems the absence of objections to be consent to the relief requested, pursuant to Local Rule 9013-(1)(h), and, therefore, will waive the stay of Rule 6004(h).

#20.00 Motion to Extend Time to file Reaffirmation Agreement

EH__

Docket 19

Tentative Ruling:

10/25/17

BACKGROUND

On April 28, 2017, Paula Ayon ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On August 7, 2017, Debtor obtained a discharge, and the case was closed the following day.

On September 27, 2017, the case was reopened. On October 4, 2017, Ally Bank filed a motion to extend time to file a reaffirmation agreement.

DISCUSSION

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 4008(a) states:

A reaffirmation agreement shall be filed no later than 60 days after the first date set for the meeting of creditors under §341(a) of the Code. The reaffirmation agreement shall be accompanied by a cover sheet, prepared as prescribed by the appropriate Official Form. The court may, at any time and in its discretion, enlarge the time to file a reaffirmation agreement.

Here, the initial meeting of creditors was scheduled for June 2, 2017, making the deadline to file a reaffirmation agreement August 1, 2017.

11 U.S.C. § 524(c)(1), however, states:

(c) An agreement between a holder of a claim and the debtor, the consideration for which, in whole or in part, is based on a debt that is dischargeable in a case under this title is enforceable only to any extent enforceable under applicable nonbankruptcy law, whether or not discharge of such debt is waived, only if –

(1) such agreement was made before the granting of the discharge under section 727, 1141, 1228, or 1328 of this title;

The Court's ability to extend the time to file a reaffirmation agreement, pursuant to Rule 4008(a), is circumscribed by § 524(c)(1), which renders a reaffirmation non-enforceable if entered into after discharge. Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 4004(c)(1)(J) provides for an automatic delay of a discharge if a motion to enlarge the time to file a reaffirmation agreement is pending. The Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure are subordinate to the Bankruptcy Code, and Rule 4008(a) must be interpreted as allowing the Court to extend the deadline stated in that rule, not the directive in the Bankruptcy Code that reaffirmation agreements must be entered into before discharge. Furthermore, if Rule 4008(a) were to be interpreted to permit a court to approve a reaffirmation agreement entered into after discharge, Rule 4004(c)(1)(J) would be nonsensical.

#26.00 Motion Of Plaintiffs For Order Granting Leave To File Amended Adversary Complaint

EH__

Docket 9

Tentative Ruling:

10/25/17

BACKGROUND

On April 11, 2017, Issa & Amal Musharbash ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On July 17, 2017, Phillip & Violette Musharbash ("Plaintiffs") filed a non-dischargeability complaint against Debtors. On August 16, 2017, Debtors filed an answer. On September 20, 2017, an initial status conference was held.

On September 29, 2017, Plaintiffs filed a motion for leave to file an amended complaint.

DISCUSSION

Chapter 7

- (1) A party may amend its pleading once as a matter of course within:
 - (A) 21 days after serving it, or
 - (B) if the pleading is one to which a responsive pleading is required, 21 days after service of a responsive pleading or 21 days after service of a motion under Rule 12(b), (e), or (f) whichever is earlier
- (2) In all other cases, a party may amend its pleading only with the opposing party's written consent or the court's leave. The court should freely give leave when justice so requires.

Here, Debtors' answer was filed on August 12, 2017, and, therefore, the standard of Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 15(a)(2) applies.

As is noted by Plaintiffs, "leave to amend should be granted unless amendment would cause prejudice to the opposing party, is sought in bad faith, is futile, or creates undue delay." Johnson v. Mammoth Recreations, Inc., 975 F.2d 604, 607 (9th Cir. 1992).

Here, Plaintiffs timely moved to amend their complaint after the initial status conference. There is no indication of bad faith on the part of Plaintiffs and Debtors have not argued that leave to amend would be prejudicial. The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure instruct the Court to "freely give leave when justice so requires." Here, in litigation between two pro se parties, when Plaintiff has promptly moved to amend the complaint early in litigation, and soon after learning of the pleading's deficiency, justice requires leave to amend.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion.

#27.00 Trustee's Motion for Summary Judgment or, Alternatively, Partial Summary Judgment

EH__

Docket 90

Tentative Ruling:

10/25/17

PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

On December 18, 2013, Nabeel Slaieh ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On August 31, 2016, Trustee filed a complaint against Debtor and Joanne Fraleigh (collectively, "Defendants") (Joanne Fraleigh individually, "Fraleigh") for avoidance and recovery of an unauthorized post-petition transfer. On December 16, 2016, Defendants filed an answer, as well as a counter-claim against Trustee and various of Trustee's professionals (collectively, "Counter-Defendants"). On January 17, 2017, Counter-Defendants filed a motion to dismiss the counter-claim, which was granted on March 6, 2017. Prior to entry of the order, Debtor filed another, more limited counter-claim, on March 3, 2017. On March 24, 2017, the remaining Counter-Defendants filed another motion to dismiss, and that motion was granted on June 28, 2017.

On September 13, 2017, Trustee filed a motion for summary judgment. On October 2, 2017, Debtor filed his opposition. On October 11, 2017, Trustee filed a reply.

Chapter 7

On May 7, 2016, while Debtor's bankruptcy case was still proceeding, and with a sale motion of the Trustee pending¹, Debtor transferred his interest in certain real property located at 40834 Baccarat Rd., Temecula, California (the "Property") to Fraleigh via grant deed (the "Grant Deed").

DISCUSSION

Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 56(a), incorporated into bankruptcy proceedings by Fed. R. Bankr. Rule 7056, states:

A party may move for summary judgment, identifying each claim or defense – or the part of each claim or defense – on which summary judgment is sought. The court shall grant summary judgment if the movant shows that there is no genuine dispute as to any material fact and the movant is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. The court should state on the record the reasons for granting or denying the motion.

Here, Trustee's complaint contains a single cause of action: avoidance, recovery, and preservation of an unauthorized post-petition transfer pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 549-551. 11 U.S.C. § 549(a) states:

- (a) Except as provided in subsection (b) or (c) of this section, the trustee may avoid a transfer of property of the estate –
 - (1) That occurs after the commencement of the case; and
 - (2) (A) that is authorized only under section 303(f) or 542(c) of this title;or

(B) that is not authorized under this title or by the court.

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 6001 states: "Any entity asserting the validity of a transfer under § 549 of the Code shall have the burden of proof."

As a preliminary matter, in order for a transfer to be avoidable, there must be: (1) a transfer of (2) property of the estate that (3) occurs after the commencement of the case. 11 U.S.C. § 101(54) defines a "transfer" expansively. Here, the Grant Deed constitutes a transfer of property pursuant to the Code. Likewise, the Property was clearly property of the estate at the time of the transfer – Debtor listed himself as sole owner of the Property on Schedule A and no meaningful argument has made that the Property was not property of the estate.² Finally, the face of the Grant Deed indicates that the transfer occurred on May 7, 2016 – after the commencement of the case. Therefore, it is abundantly clear that the preliminary requirements for an avoidance action under § 549 have been satisfied.

Furthermore, the Grant Deed was not made pursuant to court or Code authorization; no argument has been presented asserting that court authorization was obtained, or that the Grant Deed was authorized by the Code. Additionally, the exceptions outlined in § 549(b)-(c) are inapplicable because: (1) the case is not an involuntary case; and (2) Fraleigh clearly had knowledge of the commencement of the case because she was ordered to appear, and did appear, at a Rule 2004 examination in 2014, more than a year and a half prior to the execution of the Grant Deed.³

Instead of advancing an argument relating to the above factors, Debtor has provided evidence that Fraleigh transferred the property back to Debtor, via a second grant deed (the "Second Transfer"), on June 16, 2017. Debtor appears to argue that Trustee's § 549 action is now moot because of the Second Transfer. In Trustee's reply, Trustee argues that the Second Transfer does not change the fact that the Grant Deed is avoidable, and that absent a judgment, Debtor may attempt to argue that the Property is post-petition property, and, therefore, not property of the estate. It is clear that the Second Transfer does not nullify the Grant Deed and that the Grant Deed, despite the

Second Transfer, still meets the requirements for avoidance pursuant to § 549.

11 U.S.C. § 550(a)(1) provides that the Trustee may recover, for the benefit of the estate, from the initial transferee of the transfer avoided. Here, Fraleigh is initial transferee of the Grant Deed, and, therefore, the Property can be recovered.⁴ Finally, 11 U.S.C. § 551 provides that property recovered is preserved for the benefit of the estate.

Trustee has also requested summary judgment on Defendants' three affirmative defenses. Affirmative defenses are not separately litigated, and it is not clear what Trustee is requesting. Trustee must overcome Defendants' affirmative defenses, and, for the reasons outlined above, such a showing has been made. More specifically, Defendants' three affirmative defenses are: (1) failure to state a claim; (2) lack of subject matter jurisdiction in removing Fraleigh's state court action; and (3) the bona fide purchaser exception. Regarding (1), Trustee has clearly proven each element of a § 549(a) avoidance action. Defendants' second affirmative defense is irrelevant to this action. Regarding (3), as outlined above, the evidence clearly demonstrates that Fraleigh had knowledge of the commencement of the case more than a year and a half prior to the execution of the Grant Deed. Therefore, Defendants' affirmative defenses have been overcome.

Trustee has also presented eight evidentiary objections to the declaration of Debtor's counsel. The Court declines to rule on the evidentiary objections, because the subject declaration simply does not affect the Court's ruling on the matter.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion and issue a judgment AVOIDING the Grant Deed.

BACKGROUND

On May 30, 2013, James & Kathern Kenley ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On September 17, 2013, Debtors' Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On June 13, 2017, Trustee filed a motion to dismiss for failure to provide tax returns/receipts. Debtors did not file an opposition, Trustee's motion was granted, and the case was dismissed on July 25, 2017.

Debtors motion asserts that copies of the tax returns were faxed to Trustee on June 19, 2017, and were faxed again, although to the wrong number, on July 24, 2017.

Trustee has approves vacating dismissal, conditioned on Debtors making the Chapter 13 payments that came due when the case was dismissed, totaling $3,618.34.

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9024, incorporating Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 60(b)(1), provides for relief from an order for, among other things, "mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect." Debtors state that the tax returns were faxed to Trustee shortly after the Trustee filed a motion to dismiss, and that Debtors attempted to fax the returns again on July 24, 2017.

Given the conditional approval of the Trustee and the evidence submitted by Debtor, the Court finds that the requested relief is proper assuming that the condition has been satisfied.

Docket 98

Tentative Ruling:

09/28/2017

BACKGROUND

On August 5, 2016, Elizabeth Baker ("Debtor") filed her petition for chapter 13 relief. The Debtor's chapter 13 plan was confirmed on October 26, 2016. Rod Danielson was the duly appointed chapter 13 trustee ("Trustee"). On June 9, 2017, the Debtor filed a motion to convert the case from a chapter 13 to a case under chapter 7. The case was converted by the Court on the same date, pursuant to §1307(a) (the "Conversion Order").

On July 11, 2017, the Court issued to the Debtor a Notice of non-entitlement to discharge pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(8) or (9) because the Debtor had received a chapter 7 discharge in March 2011.

On July 24, 2017, the Debtor filed a motion to reconvert the case to a case under chapter 13. At the hearing on the Motion to Reconvert, the Court noted that courts are divided regarding a Debtor's ability to reconvert and, separately, noted that even assuming the Court was convinced that reconversion was authorized under §706, that the Debtor's filing history and the absence of a change in financial circumstances weighed against conversion. The Court, however, permitted the Debtor an opportunity to file a motion to seek to vacate the conversion order.

On September 6, 2017, the Debtor filed a motion to vacate the Conversion

Order ("Motion"). The Motion includes a declaration by the Debtor's counsel in which she concedes that in filing the motion to convert, she did not take into account the Debtor's prior filings and as a result did not realize that the Debtor would not be entitled to a discharge in a chapter 7 case.

DISCUSSION

The Court may find grounds to vacate the Conversion Order based on the Debtor's counsel's declaration and a finding that "excusable neglect" resulted in the conversion. However, the Court is concerned that the Debtor is not able to continue making payments in a reconverted chapter 13. Specifically, when the Debtor's case was converted, a motion to dismiss was already pending for a $576 delinquency as of May 31, 2017. Additionally, on June 13, 2017 (presumably before realizing the case had been converted), the Trustee filed a Motion to Dismiss the chapter 13 case for failure to submit 2016 Federal and State Tax Returns and any corresponding refunds due to the Trustee.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion conditioned on the Debtor curing the issues raised by the Trustee in his prior motions to dismiss and in the Debtor's counsel holding sufficient certified funds to bring the plan current.

However, the Court notes that the Motion was not served on any of the Debtor's creditors. As such, the Court is inclined to CONTINUE the hearing for proper service on creditors and for Debtor to file a supplemental declaration indicating it is prepared to cure the issues outlined herein.

BACKGROUND

Debtor obtained a discharge in a Chapter 7 case filed on November 30, 2010. Between February 14, 2013 and September 18, 2015, Debtor filed four Chapter 13 cases, all of which were dismissed within one year.

Chapter 7

11 U.S.C. § 706(a) states: "The debtor may convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 11, 12, or 13 of this title at any time, if the case has not been converted under section 1112, 1208, or 1307 of this title." Here, Debtor's case was previously converted under § 1307.

"Courts are divided as to whether the debtor can re-convert a case that has been previously converted." Ginsberg & Martin on Bankruptcy § 12.13[A] (5th ed. 2017-2); see also In re Masterson, 141 B.R. 84, 87 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 1992) ("The courts appear to be evenly divided on the issue of whether a 'second conversion' of a case previously converted to Chapter 7 is ever permissible.") (collecting cases). The courts that have determined that § 706(a) bars subsequent reconversion have primarily relied upon the plain language of the statute, but have also considered the legislative history. See In re Banks, 252 B.R. 399, 400 (Bankr. E.D. Mich. 2000). One court has stated the following:

Unfortunately, for the debtor, the language of Section 706 clearly bars a debtor from converting a case from Chapter 7 to Chapter 13 more than once. Subsection (a) of that section states in relevant part that a "debtor may convert a case under this chapter to a case under Chapter 11 or 13 of this title at any time, if the case has not been converted under Section 1112 or 1307 of this title. The language of this statute is not discretionary. By its plain meaning it bars the debtor from this second attempt at conversion. Moreover, there is no case law supporting a discretionary right. At least one other bankruptcy court has arrived at this conclusion, In re Bumpass, 28 B.R. 597 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 1983), and this Court shares that view.

As the court implicitly concluded in Nimai Kumar Ghosh, the phrase appears "if the case has not been converted" appears to modify the entirety of the first clause, not simple the language "at any time." The phrase "at any time" is not set off from the remainder of the clause in any fashion. Therefore, §706(a) is only applicable if the case has not been converted previously. The remaining question is, if § 706(a) is inapplicable, can the Debtor resort to any other mechanism in order to convert her case?

Courts that have permitted a reconversion appear to fall into two categories. First, some courts appear to believe that, when § 706(a) is inapplicable, the default position is that the Court has discretion to allow conversion based on policy grounds. See, e.g., In re Masterson, 141 B.R. at 88. Other courts have turned to § 706(c). See, e.g., Matter of Johnson, 116 B.R. 224, 225 (Bankr. Idaho 1990); In re Sensibaugh, 9 B.R. 45, 46 (Bankr. E.D. Va. 1981). Section 706(c) states: "[t]he court may not convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 12 or 13 of this title unless the debtor requests or consents to such conversion." While the plain language of § 706(c) indicates that it operates as a restraint on the court's authority, not as a source of authority, courts that have utilized this provision appear to conclude that if the debtor consents to or requests conversion, the court has discretion to permit such conversion.

A third possibility is that a debtor could seek voluntary dismissal or conversion under § 707, consent to conversion, and allow the Court to determine whether dismissal or conversion was more appropriate in the circumstances. This approach would have the disadvantage of possibly resulting in dismissal of the case, but it would seem to solve the statutory interpretation issues encountered by the alternative approaches.

Nevertheless, the Court need not determine whether reconversion is permitted under § 706(a) because, if the Court were to conclude that reconversion is discretionary, Debtor has not demonstrated that the exercise of such discretion would be appropriate. Debtor has had four Chapter 13 cases dismissed in the previous five years. More importantly, at the time Debtor converted to Chapter 7, there was an outstanding motion to dismiss pending for failure to make plan payments. Debtor appears to have chosen to convert the case to Chapter 7 rather than resolve the Chapter 13 Trustee's pending motion to dismiss.

Given Debtor's history in bankruptcy, the absence of any legal argument in Debtor's motion, and the absence of any evidence suggesting a change in circumstances which would allow Debtor to be successful in a Chapter 13 proceeding, the reconversion of

#4.00 Motion to Disallow Claims # 10 First Valley Credit Union

EH__

Docket 28

Tentative Ruling:

10/26/17

Background:

On March 8, 2017, Larry & Elizabeth Egan ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On May 9, 2017, Debtors' Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On June 1, 2017, 1st Valley Credit Union ("Creditor") filed a proof of claim for an unsecured claim in the amount of $8,780.14 ("Claim 10"). On September 19, 2017, Creditor amended Claim 10, increasing the amount to $18,948.70. On September 21, 2017, Debtors filed an objection to Claim 10. On October 12, 2017, Creditor filed its opposition to Debtors' claim objection.

Debtors argue that the amendment is not properly an amendment to Claim 10, but rather a second, distinct claim held by Creditor which was filed late. Creditor attempts to argue that the timely filing of the original claim 10 constitutes an informal proof of claim that Creditor subsequently amended.

Chapter 13

Applicable Law:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

Analysis:

As is noted by Debtors, the claims bar date in this case was July 19, 2017, while Creditor amended Claim 10 on September 19, 2017. Creditor argues that Claim 10 is an informal proof of claim, which it is entitled to amend, and, alternatively, that Debtors are not prejudiced by the late amendment.

Claim 10 is clearly not an informal proof of claim. It is a formal proof of claim for the amount of $8,780.14. As is noted by Creditor, the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel has repeatedly laid out the elements required for an informal proof of claim: (1) presentment of a writing; (2) within the time for the filing of claims; (3) by or on behalf of the creditor; (4) bringing to the attention of the court; (5) the nature and amount of a claim asserted against the estate. See, e.g., In re Gianulias, 2013 WL 1397430 at *9 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2013).

Creditor's attempt to have this Court construe the proof of claim as a formal claim with regard to $8,780.14 and an informal proof of claim with regard to other similar claims held by Creditor, while creative, is unpersuasive. It is simply impossible to conclude that the timely filed proof of claim brought to the attention of the Court the amount that Creditor would later assert against the estate. If the Court were to accept Creditor's invitation, then the timely filed Claim 10 would evidence a formal proof of claim for $8,780.14 and an informal proof of claim for $0.¹

Creditor's second argument is that it should be allowed to amend its timely filed proof of claim, and, in support of its argument, Creditor generally avers that Debtors cannot demonstrate legal prejudice. This argument, however, fails to address the fact that an amendment to a claim is only appropriate when such amendment clarifies the earlier filed claim; an "amendment" is not appropriate when the Creditor wishes to assert a second, different claim. See generally In re Roberts Farms Inc., 980 F.2d 1248, 1252 (9th Cir. 1992); see also In re Metro Transp. Co., 117 B.R. 143, 147 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 1990) ("In other words, 'if a new claim is being asserted subsequent to the bar date, an objection to its filing must be sustained.'" (collecting cases.)

BACKGROUND

On July 18, 2017 ("Petition Date"), Conchita Ang ("Debtor") filed her petition for chapter 13 relief. The Debtor's petition commenced her second case pending within the same year as Case No. 16-16362, which was dismissed for abuse on October 12, 2016.

On August 18, 2017, the Debtor filed her Motion and Notice of Motion for Turnover of Property and: (I) To Enforce the Automatic Stay; (II) For an Order to Show Cause (OSC); (III) To Compel Compliance with the Court Order; (IV) For Sanctions ("Motion").

By her Motion, the Debtor asserts that Clear Recon Corp. and Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. violated the automatic stay by holding a foreclosure sale on the Petition Date. Although it is not clear from the Motion, the foreclosure appears to regard the property located at 2150 Horse Trail Drive in Redlands, CA 92373 (the "Property").

On August 31, 2017, Wells Fargo Bank and Clear Recon Corp. ("Respondents") filed their opposition to the Motion ("Opposition"). The Opposition asserts, in pertinent part, that: (1) a motion for relief from stay which included in rem relief was granted on May 18, 2017, (2) that order was recorded on August 10, 2017; and (3) that the Debtor has not asserted any actual damages.

DISCUSSION

As a threshold matter, the Court concurs that the Debtor's service of her Motion was deficient in that Respondents were not served in accordance with Rule 7004. Nevertheless, Respondents had the opportunity to file their opposition and did so timely. There appearing to be no prejudice to Respondents stemming from the deficiency in service, the Court is disinclined to deny the Motion on this basis.

The Motion seeks issuance of an OSC based on the alleged foreclosure of the Property in violation of the automatic stay.

"A 'willful violation' does not require a specific intent to violate the automatic stay. Rather, the statute provides for damages upon a finding that the defendant knew of the automatic stay and that the defendant's actions which violated the stay were intentional. Whether the party believes in good faith that it had a right to the property is not relevant to whether the act was 'willful' or whether compensation must be awarded."

Pinkstaff v. United States (In re Pinkstaff), 974 F.2d at 115 (quoting Goichman v. Bloom (In re Bloom), 875 F.2d 224, 227 (9th Cir.1989)) (emphasis added).

Here, the record indicates that the petition was filed at approximately 12:50 p.m. on July 18, 2017. The foreclosure sale was scheduled to begin at 1:00 p.m. that same day (although the Court notes that the Exhibit O which purportedly indicates the sale date and time was not filed with the Court). The Debtor's declaration is vague as to when she provided notice of the filing to Respondents. Her inauthenticated and inadmissible exhibits do not necessarily help her because they appear to indicate that notice was faxed by her at 1:04 p.m. at the earliest, which is after the sale began. Nevertheless, the foreclosure sale appears to be a technical violation of the stay.

In response to the Motion, the Respondents indicate an in rem order was entered in May 2017 by Judge Zurzolo. However, Respondents did not take appropriate steps to record the order in the county where the Property is located prior to the Petition Date (the In Rem Order was not recorded until August 10, 2017, postpetition), and as such the automatic stay was in place at the time of the foreclosure. Based on this failure by the Respondents, issuance of an OSC re: Violation of the Automatic Stay is appropriate because, notwithstanding that holding the foreclosure sale may not have been a willful violation (given the ambiguity surrounding whether Respondents received effective notice prior to holding the sale), the failure to restore title to the Property to the Debtor or to otherwise seek annulment likely constitutes a continuing violation of the stay which Respondents did not cure during the remaining pendency of the Debtor's case (Respondents do not acknowledge when they had notice of the bankruptcy but also do not dispute that they received notice at some point). In re Wallace, 2014 WL 1244792, at *6 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. Mar. 26, 2014)(discussing the interplay between an action for damages under 362(k) with related orders annulling the stay).

Based on the foregoing, the Court's tentative ruling is to issue an Order to Show Cause Why:

1. The foreclosure sale should not be set aside as a void act taken in violation of the automatic stay; and
2. Why the Debtor should not be awarded actual damages under either § 362(k) or § 105(a) to compensate her for damages stemming from the violation.

Docket 19

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling:

10/31/2017

On July 27, 2017, Maria Trinidad ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. Debtor had a previous bankruptcy case dismissed two days earlier for failure to file case commencement documents. As such, pursuant to § 362(c)(3), the automatic stay was to terminate thirty days after the petition absent an order from the Court. The Court did not issue such an order, and, therefore, the automatic stay terminated on August 26, 2017.

On October 5, 2017, Wells Fargo Bank filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay (the "Annulment Motion"), requesting, in part, retroactive annulment of the automatic stay.

11 U.S.C. § 362(d) states:

(d) On request of a party in interest and after notice and a hearing, the court shall grant relief from the stay provided, under subsection (a) of this section such as by terminating, annulling, modifying, or condition such stay –

(emphasis added); see also In re Schwartz, 954 F.2d 569, 573 (9th Cir. 1992) ("If a creditor obtains retroactive relief under section 362(d), there is no violation of the automatic stay, and whether violations of the stay are void or voidable is not at issue.").

The BAP, in In re Fjeldsted, noted the absence of a clear standard for annulment of the automatic stay. 293 B.R. 12, 21 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2003) ("There is less appellate clarity, however, in enunciating a test for retroactive stay relief. Inconsistent standards have thus developed, which run the gamut from such relief being justified only in 'extreme circumstances' to giving the court 'wide latitude' to 'balance the equities' on a case-by-case basis."). The BAP's most recent announcement of the standard for annulment of the automatic stay stated the following:

Determining whether cause exists to annul the stay is a case-by-case inquiry based on a balance of the equities. In conducting this inquiry the bankruptcy court, among other factors, should consider whether the creditor knew of the bankruptcy when violating the stay and whether the debtor's conduct was unreasonable, inequitable or prejudicial to the creditor.

In Fjeldsted, we approved additional factors for consideration in assessing the equities. The twelve nonexclusive factors are: (1) number of filings; (2) whether, in a repeat filing case, the circumstances indicate an intention to delay and hinder creditors; (3) a weighing of the extent of prejudice to creditors or third parties if the stay relief is not made retroactive, including whether harm exists to a bona fide purchaser; (4) the debtor's overall good faith (totality of circumstances test); (5) whether creditors knew of stay but nonetheless took action, thus compounding the problem; (6) whether the debtor has complied, and is otherwise complying, with the Bankruptcy Code and Rules; (7) the relative ease of restoring parties to the status quo ante; (8) the costs of annulment to debtors and creditors; (9) how quickly creditors moved for annulment, or how quickly debtor moved to set aside the sale or violative conduct; (10) whether, after learning of the bankruptcy, creditors proceeded to take steps in continued violation of the stay, or whether they moved expeditiously to gain relief; (11) whether annulment of the stay will cause irreparable injury to the debtor; and (12) whether stay relief will promote judicial economy or other efficiencies. The Panel in Fjeldsted cautioned that the twelve factors are merely a framework for analysis and not a scorecard, and that in any given case, one factor may so outweigh the others as to be dispositive.

In re Estavan Capital LLC, 2015 WL 7758494 at *5 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2015) (citations and quotations omitted).

While Fjeldsted cautioned that the enumerated factors are not a scorecard, it is clear that the majority of the factors, including, in particular, Debtor's lack of good faith, weigh in favor of annulling the stay. Specifically, as is noted by Wells Fargo, this is the eight bankruptcy affecting the property, and the property has been the subject of multiple unauthorized transfers. Debtor commenced the instant bankruptcy case five days before a scheduled foreclosure sale, and received the subject property via an unauthorized transfer the same day she filed the petition. Furthermore, there is no evidence that Wells Fargo was aware of the bankruptcy filing at the time it undertook the acts in question, nor is there any evidence that Wells Fargo violated the automatic stay once it learned of the filing.

Given all of the factors noted above, the Court is inclined to GRANT annulment of the automatic stay retroactive to the petition date, and otherwise GRANT the motion in its entirety, with the exception of ¶ 14, which is DENIED as moot.

The Court is inclined to CONTINUE the matter for Movant to file a supplemental declaration. Specifically, while Movant has checked the appropriate box stating that post-petition acts taken in violation of the automatic stay were taken before Movant knew of the bankruptcy filing, there is no supplemental declaration explaining when and how Movant obtained knowledge of the bankruptcy filing. Section 12 of the form motion explicitly contemplates the inclusion of a supplemental declaration when filing a motion to annul the automatic stay.

BACKGROUND

On November 10, 2016, B&B Family, Incorporated ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. On March 31, 2017, Debtor filed its Chapter 11 plan and disclosure statement. On April 7, 2017, Debtor filed a motion to extend the deadline to obtain plan confirmation, which was, at the time, set for May 15, 2017. On May 2, 2017, after receiving an objection to plan confirmation, Debtor filed an amended Chapter 11 plan and disclosure statement.

Debtor did not lodge a proposed order for its motion to extend the deadline for plan confirmation until May 18, 2017. After the order was lodged, the Court denied the motion, noting that an order extending the deadline for plan confirmation must be signed before the expiration of the existing deadline. Nevertheless, the Court noted that the filing of an amended Chapter 11 plan may restart the plan confirmation deadline.

Chapter 11

On June 13, 2017, Debtor filed another amended Chapter 11 plan (the "Plan") and disclosure statement. On July 10, 2017, Debtor filed another motion to extend the deadline for plan confirmation. The Court granted that motion, and extended the deadline for plan confirmation to October 26, 2017.

On July 31, 2017, Debtor filed another amended disclosure statement, which was approved on August 3, 2017. On August 25, 2017, Debtor filed a motion to continue the plan confirmation hearing, which was granted on August 28, 2017.¹ On October 11, 2017, Debtor filed a brief in support of plan confirmation. No objections to confirmation have been received by the Court.

DISCUSSION

I. Ballots

Pursuant to declaration filed September 1, 2017, Debtor timely transmitted its disclosure statement, Chapter 11 plan, ballots, and notice of all relevant dates. Debtor provides ballots received from: (1) Comerica Bank; (2) High Desert Prime LLC; (3) Pawnee Leasing Corporation; (4) a second ballot from Comerica Bank; (5) a ballot from Financial Pacific Leasing; and (6) a final ballot which appears to have not been submitted to the Court. Debtor's ballot summary lists a seventh ballot received, which is not identified in Debtor's brief or in Exhibit 2. Debtor asserts that all classes have voted to accept the plan, although the evidence submitted to the Court, namely Exhibit 2 of Debtor's confirmation brief, without more, demonstrates Class 6 rejecting the plan.

II. Classes

Class 1: senior secured claim of Comerica Bank, secured by Debtor's assets.

Class 7: "interest holders of Debtor."

III. Plan Confirmation

"The bankruptcy court must confirm a Chapter 11 debtor's plan of reorganization if the debtor provides by a preponderance of the evidence either (1) that the Plan satisfies all thirteen requirements of 11 U.S.C. § 1129(a), or (2) if the only condition not satisfied is the eighth requirement, 11 U.S.C. § 1129(a)(8), the Plan satisfies the 'cramdown' alternative to this condition found in 11 U.S.C. § 1129(b), which requires that the Plan 'does not discriminate unfairly' against and 'is fair and equitable' towards each impaired class that has not accepted the plan." In re Ambanc La Mesa Ltd. P'ship, 115 F.3d 650, 653 (9th Cir. 1997).

As a preliminary matter, the Court notes that Debtor has not directly provided any evidence in support of confirmation. Neither Debtor's confirmation brief nor Debtor's proposed plan contains a declaration or any authentication of the attached exhibits.

Debtor's disclosure statement, which has been approved by this Court, contains a declaration of Debtor's principal, however, the exhibits appended to that declaration are not authenticated either.

A. 11 U.S.C. § 1129(a) requirements

1129(a)(1): "The plan complies with the applicable provisions of this title." The legislative history indicates that this requirement primarily refers to the requirements of 11 U.S.C. §§ 1122 and 1123. See In re Multiut Corp., 449 B.R. 323, 333 (Bankr. N.D. Ill. 1984). Section 1122 deals with the classification of claims, and requires that claims in a single class be substantially similar. Here, Debtor has formed five distinct classes: (1) senior secured creditor; (2) junior secured creditor; (3) landlord; (4) general unsecured; and (5) Debtor's interest holders. The Court finds that the demarcation of classes is proper. Section 1123 deals with the contents of a plan, and identifies certain mandatory and permissive provisions. It appears that Debtor is in compliance with § 1123(a)(1)-(4), (7)-(8). Regarding § 1123(a)(6), Debtor's confirmation brief seems to concede that an explicit provision conforming to the Code is required, and Debtor has agreed to insert such a provision into any plan confirmation order. Regarding § 1123(a)(5), the absence of admissible evidence precludes the Court from addressing whether Debtor has demonstrated that there are adequate means provided for the plan's implementation.

1129(a)(2): "The proponent of the plan complies with the applicable provisions of this title." The legislative history indicates that this requirement primarily refers to the disclosure requirements in § 1125. See In re Capitol Lakes, Inc., 2016 WL 3598536 at *2 (Bankr. W.D. Wis. 2016). Here, the Court has approved Debtor's disclosure statement, and Debtor has provided a service declaration indicating that the required documents were served on creditors, and, therefore, it appears that this requirement has been satisfied.

1129(a)(3): Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 3020(b)(2) provides that: "If no objection is timely filed, the court may determine that the plan has been proposed in good faith and not by any means forbidden by law without receiving evidence on such issues." Here, no objection has been timely filed, and, as such, the Court deems the Plan to have been filed in good faith and not by any means forbidden by law. Therefore, this requirement is satisfied.

1129(a)(4): Article 1(A) of the Plan states: "Professional fees may only be paid upon application to an approval by the court." Therefore, it appears that this requirement has been satisfied.

1129(a)(5): Article V(B) of the Plan describes the proposed post-confirmation management of Debtor, and, as such, it appears that this requirement has been satisfied.

1129(a)(6): This requirement deals with government regulation of the rates of the Debtor and is not applicable to the instant case.

1129(a)(7): Debtor's confirmation brief asserts that, if the case were converted to Chapter 7, the case would be a no-asset case. Furthermore, Debtor has provided ballots accepting the Plan from all creditors other than Class 6 creditors, who are unsecured creditors. Therefore, it would appear that all creditors have either accepted the Plan or will receive at least as much as would be received in a Chapter 7 liquidation.

1129(a)(8): Based upon the ballot summary provided by Debtor, Classes 1, 4, and 5 (each of which contains a single creditor) have accepted the Plan. As is noted in the Ballot section above, the Ballot results of Class 6 are unclear. The ballot summary (and confirmation brief) provided by Debtor assert that Class 6 has accepted the Plan, while the individual ballots appended to the brief, without more, indicate Class 6 has rejected the Plan. As such, Debtor has failed to demonstrate that § 1129(a)(8) has been satisfied.

1129(a)(9): Article I of the Plan appears to state that all administrative claims and priority claims will either be paid in full on the Effective Date of the Plan, or that the holder of the claim has consented to different treatment. The only administrative or priority claim (other than the fees for Debtor's counsel) that is not to be paid immediately upon the effective date of the Plan is the tax claim held by the California State Board of Equalization, which is to be paid over four years with 7% interest. Debtor asserts that the California State Board of Equalization's failure to object to the proposed treatment constitutes acceptance.

1129(a)(10): The ballot summary and ballots submitted by Debtor appear to indicate that at least one impaired class has accepted the Plan, and, therefore, it appears that this requirement is satisfied.

1129(a)(11): This provision requires Debtor to demonstrate that "[c]onfirmation of the plan is not likely to be followed by the liquidation, or the need for further financial reorganization." Debtor has not provided any admissible evidence to the Court that would enable the Court to undertake the required review.

1129(a)(12): Article V(B) of the Plan provides that the quarterly fees of UST will be paid on the effective date of the Plan, and, as such, this provision appears to be satisfied.

1129(a)(13): Debtor has not addressed this provision, ostensibly because it is inapplicable in the instant case.

1129(a)(14): Debtor has not addressed this provision, ostensibly because it is inapplicable in the instant case.

1129(a)(15): Debtor is not an individual, and, therefore, this provision is inapplicable in the instant case.

1129(a)(16): Debtor asserts that the Plan does not contemplate any transfer of property (other than money), and, as such, that this provision has been satisfied.

Summary of Confirmation Issues:

-First and foremost, Debtor has not provided any evidence in support of confirmation. To the extent that that lack of evidence is particularly important, the absence of supporting evidence is noted below.

-There is no evidence of any confirmation requirements under § 1129.

-Debtor has not provided any evidence of the cash on hand available to make the payments the Plan contemplates being made immediately upon the effective date, which appears to total $58,251.48.

-Debtor has not provided any evidence of its historical financials. As a result, the Court is unable to effectively review the feasibility of the Plan.

-The Plan appears to have incorrectly labelled Exhibit A and Exhibit B.

-Because of the absence of evidence in support of confirmation, Debtor has not demonstrated that it possesses adequate means for the Plan's confirmation.

-The ballots submitted to the Court indicate that Class 6 has rejected the Plan. Debtor has only submitted two ballots from Class 6, one indicating acceptance and one indicating rejection. § 1126(c) requires that a majority of the claim holders in a class accept the plan, and that has not occurred here.

-Debtor has not addresses the alternative cram-down mechanism, much less satisfied it.

#4.00 Motion for Default Judgment Against Defendant Fernando Fabrigas, Jr.

Docket 13

Tentative Ruling:

11/01/2017

BACKGROUND

On May 1, 2017 ("Petition Date"), Fernando Fabrigas Sr. and Estela Fabrigas (collectively, the "Debtors") filed their petition for chapter 7 relief. Charles Daff is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee"). Among the potential assets of the Debtors' bankruptcy estate on the Petition Date is certain real property located at 231 Arden Street in Hemet, CA (the "Property").

On July 31, 2017, the Trustee filed a complaint for avoidance of transfer pursuant to §§ 544, 548, 550, and 551 as intentional and constructive transfers; for disallowance of claims pursuant to § 502, to prevent unjust enrichment pursuant to § 105, for declaratory relief pursuant to §§ 541, 544, and 548, and for turnover of the Property pursuant to § 542 ("Complaint") against Fernando Fabrigas Jr. ("Defendant"). On October 11, 2017, default was entered as against the Defendant. On that same date, the Trustee filed and served his Motion for Default Judgment. Service appears proper and no opposition has been filed.

DISCUSSION

A. Entry of Default

Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 55 states that "[w]hen a party against whom a judgment for affirmative relief is sought has failed to plead or otherwise defend as provided by these rules and that fact is made to appear by affidavit or otherwise, the clerk shall enter the party's default." Fed. R. Civ. P. 55(a). Per LBR 7055-1(b)(1), a motion for entry of default judgment shall contain the following:

1. When and against what party default was entered ✓
2. Whether defaulting party is an infant or incompetent person – ✓
3. Whether the defaulting party is currently on active duty – ✓
4. Whether notice has been served on defaulting party, if required by FRCP 55(b)(2) ✓

(Daff Decl. ¶8).

B. Admissions

Pursuant to FRBP 7008(b)(6), failure to deny an allegation of the Complaint where a responsive pleading is required constitutes an admission of the allegation.

The Complaint alleges, in pertinent part, that:

1. Debtors testified at the initial June 8, 2017, 341(a) Meeting of Creditors that they owned the real property located at 231 Arden Street in Hemet, California, 92543 (Compl. at ¶12);
2. Title in the Property was vested in the Debtors as "Wife and Husband as Community Property," Document Number 2013-0291659 as of June 19, 2013 (Id. at ¶11);
3. Pursuant to a Quitclaim Deed recorded in connection with the Property on May 11, 2015 in the Riverside County Recorder's Office as Document Number 2015-0194114, the Trustee is informed and believes that the Defendant acquired and took title to the Property a first time (Id. at ¶14, Ex 3);
4. On February 25, 2016, Defendant transferred the Property back to the Debtors pursuant to a Grant Deed recorded in the Riverside County Recorder's Office as Document Number 2016-0075152 (Id. at ¶15, Ex. 4);

5. A Quitclaim Deed was recorded in connection with the Property on October 14, 2016, in the Riverside County Recorder's Office as Document Number 2016-0451368 by which Trustee is informed and believes that Defendant acquired and took title to the Property a second time (Id. at ¶16, Ex. 5) (the "Transfer");
6. The Trustee is informed and believes that no or nominal consideration was paid in connection with the Transfer. Trustee is further informed and believed and thereon alleges that the Debtors received no or nominal value in exchange for the Transfer (Id. at ¶17).

C. Default Judgment

Factors which may be considered by courts in exercising discretion as to the entry of a default judgment include: (1) the possibility of prejudice to the plaintiff; (2) the merits of plaintiff's substantive claim; (3) the sufficiency of the complaint; (4) the sum of money at stake in the action; (5) the possibility of a dispute considering material facts; (6) whether the default was due to excusable neglect; and (7) the strong policy underlying the FRCP favoring decision on the merits. See Eitel v. McCool, 782 F.2d 1470, 1471-72 (9th Cir. 1986).

1. Proper Service of Summons and Complaint

Trustee served the Defendant at the address of the Property and asserts in his declaration that the Defendant, at all relevant times, resided at the Property. (Iskander Decl. ¶4).

2. Merits of Plaintiff's claim

Upon default, the factual allegations of the complaint, except those relating to the amount of damages, will be taken as true. TeleVideo Systems, Inc. v. Heidenthal, 826 F.2d 915, 917 (9th Cir. 1987); "The defendant, by his default, admits the plaintiff's well-pleaded allegations of facts, is concluded on those facts by the judgment, and is barred from contesting on appeal the facts thus established." *Nishimatsu Construction Co., Ltd. v. a. First Claim: Intentional Fraudulent Transfer under § 548(a)(1)(A)

The Trustee has the burden of proving, by preponderance of the evidence, that the Property was property of the Debtors, that the transfer of such Property occurred within one year prior to the filing of the Debtors' bankruptcy petition, and that such transfer was made with the actual intent to hinder, delay, or defraud the Debtors' creditors. In re Brobeck, Phleger & Harrison LLP, 408 B.R. 318, 338-339 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2009)(internal citations omitted).

As to the Trustee's First Claim for relief, based on the allegations of the Complaint indicating that the transfer was made to the Defendant – an insider of the Debtors and their son (Daff Decl. ¶4), that the Debtors retained possession or control of the Property, that the timing of the second transfer in October 2016, was less than one year prior to Petition Date, that Debtors schedules indicate that their non-real property assets are de minimis (Ex. B), and finally based on the allegations that the Debtors have received less than reasonably equivalent value for the Transfer, the Trustee has demonstrated that the badges of fraud are sufficient to permit a finding that the Property was transferred with an actual intent to hinder, delay or defraud the Debtors' creditors. Further, the Transfer occurred within one year prior to the filing of the petition. Based on the foregoing, the Court GRANTS the Motion as to the First Claim.

b. Second Claim: Constructive Fraudulent Transfer under § 548(a)(1)(B)

At trial, and on his motion, the Trustee has the burden of proving, by preponderance of the evidence, that: (1) Debtors had an interest in the Property; (2) a transfer of that interest occurred within one year of the filing of the bankruptcy petition; (3) Debtors were insolvent at the time of the transfer or became insolvent as a result thereof; and (4) Debtors received "less than a reasonably equivalent value in exchange for" the Property. Brobeck at 340–41.

Chapter 7

As to the Second Claim, the Trustee's Complaint and Motion demonstrate that the Debtors had a prepetition interest in the Property, that the Transfer occurred within one year of the filing of the petition, that Debtors were insolvent at the time of the transfer or likely became insolvent as a result thereof given that absent the real property, the Debtors debts exceed their assets by approximately $21,522. Finally, the Trustee has alleged and the grant deeds attached to the Complaint support a finding that the Transfer was for less than reasonably equivalent value. Based on the foregoing findings, the Court GRANTS the Motion as to the Second Claim.

c. Recovery of Property pursuant to § 550

Section 550 provides in relevant part that:

[T]o the extent that a transfer is avoided under section 544, 545, 547, 548, 549, 553(b), or 724(a) of this title, the trustee may recover, for the benefit of the estate, the property transferred, or, if the court so orders, the value of such property, from

- (1) the initial transferee of such transfer or the entity for whose benefit such transfer was made; or
- (2) any immediate or mediate transferee of such initial transferee.

11 U.S.C. § 550(a)(1)-(2). Put simply, § 550 identifies the parties liable for repayment of the avoided or avoidable transfer, and empowers the trustee to recover the property transferred or its value for the benefit of the estate. See Crafts Plus+, Inc. v. Foothill Capital Corp. (In re Crafts Plus+), 220 B.R. 331, 334 (Bankr.W.D.Tex.1998).

Here, it is undisputed that the Defendant is the initial transferee and, having found that the Defendant's October 14, 2016, Quitclaim Deed is avoidable under § 548, the Trustee may recover, for the benefit of the estate, the Property pursuant to § 550.

d. Third Claim: Disallowance of Claim pursuant to §502(d)

Section 502(d) provides that ... "the court shall disallow any claim of any entity from which property is recoverable under section 542, 543, 550, or 553 of this title or that is a transferee of a transfer avoidable under section 522(f), 522(h), 544, 545, 547, 548, 549, or 724(a) of this title, unless such entity or transferee has paid the amount, or turned over any such property, for which such entity or transferee is liable under section 522(i), 542, 543, 550, or 553 of this title.

Chapter 7

The plain language of § 502(d) contemplates the filing of a proof of claim by the Defendant in the Debtors' bankruptcy estate. It is the Court's ruling that disallowance such a claim is premature at this juncture and the Trustee has not demonstrated cause for the granting of such prospective relief. The Motion is DENIED as to the Third Claim.

e. Fifth Claim: Declaratory Relief re Community Property

The Trustee seeks an adjudication that the Property is community property and property of the estate. This claim is duplicative of the findings necessary to a ruling as to the Trustee's Sixth Claim for turnover. As such, the Court is inclined to DENY the Fifth Claim as moot.

f. Sixth Claim: Turnover under § 542

Section 542 of the Bankruptcy Code provides in pertinent part the following:

(a) ... an entity, other than a custodian, in possession, custody, or control, during the case, of property that the trustee may use, sell, or lease under section 363 of this title, or that the debtor may exempt under section 522 of this title, shall deliver to the trustee, and account for, such property or the value of such property, unless such property is of inconsequential value or benefit to the estate.

11 U.S.C. § 542(a). To support a cause of action for turnover pursuant to Section 542 of the Bankruptcy Code, the bankruptcy trustee has the burden of proof, by a preponderance of the evidence, to establish that: (1) the property is in the possession, custody or control of a noncustodial third party entity; (2) the property constitutes property of the estate; (3) the property is of the type that the trustee could use, sell or lease pursuant to Code Section 363 or that the debtor could exempt under section 522, and (4) that the property is not of inconsequential value or benefit to the estate. In re Shapphire Res., LLC, No. 2:10-BK-57493-RK, 2016 WL 320823, at *5 (Bankr. Chapter 7

Here, the Property is in the possession of the Defendant because the Trustee has alleged that Defendant also resides at the Property. Additionally, based on the allegations of the Complaint, the Property constitutes property of the estate based on the chain of title and also based on the testimony of the Debtors as set forth in the Complaint. Further, the Property is real property that could be sold by the Trustee pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 363. Finally, the Trustee has provided evidence that the value of the Property is approximately $310,000 which exceeds the secured amount owed on the Property of $228,534. Based on the foregoing, the Court finds that the Trustee has met his burden as to turnover. The Motion is GRANTED as to the Sixth Claim.

3. The possibility of a dispute considering material facts

Defendant was properly served with the summons and complaint. Defendant has failed to respond or to otherwise provide evidence to support any dispute as to material facts. Additionally, here, the Trustee has provided declaratory evidence and judicially noticeable documents (which this court deems admitted), which support the Trustee's factual assertions. Therefore, no dispute of material facts exists to preclude granting default judgment.

4. Whether the default was due to excusable neglect

Defendant was properly served with summons and complaint. Defendant failed to respond. Furthermore, Defendant had the opportunity to file opposition to the instant Motion and failed to do so. Finally, Defendant has not filed a motion to set aside the entry of default, nor responded with any written objection. Thus, the Court finds that the default was not due to excusable neglect.

5. The strong policy underlying the FRCP favoring decision on the merits

Although default judgments are ordinarily disfavored, termination of a case before hearing the merits is allowed when a defendant fails to defend an action under Fed. R. Civ. P. 55. Here, the Defendant's apparent lack of interest in defending

R. Bankr. P. 2004

Also #1

EH__

Docket 172

Tentative Ruling:

11/01/2017

On October 6, 2017, USA Waste renewed its request for a 2004 examination (the "Motion"). In connection with its Motion, USA Waste seeks an order under Rule 2004 permitting it: (a) to issue subpoenas duces tecum to Commodity Trucking Acquisition, LLC ("CTA") and Craig Johnson; (b) to conduct examinations of Craig Johnson and John Sullivan, III; and (c) to conclude the examination of Kim Pugmire. Kim Pugmire is the president of both the Debtor and CTA. Craig Johnson is an attorney who is alleged to have represented and provided advice to the Debtor, CTA and their principals. John Sullivan III is the CFO/COO of CTA.

The request directed to CTA seeks five categories of documents:

1. Documents related to the Manning Pit operations;
2. Documents concerning the Article 9 sale;
3. Documents related to corporate ownership and running of CTA;
4. Documents related to CTA's relationship and "contribution payment" to the City of Irwindale; and
5. Documents/Communications related to the bankruptcy specifically.

The request directed to Craig Johnson ("Johnson") includes requests related to:

1. Documents concerning the Article 9 sale;

2. Documents related to the Manning Pit;
3. Documents regarding payments made to Johnson by Pugmire, Degler and their affiliates;
4. Documents related to and Communications regarding the bankruptcy;
5. Communications with the City of Irwindale related to the Manning Pit;
6. Communications concerning the settlement of the Dispatch Action; and
7. Common interest agreements or conflict waivers between Johnson, Debtor, CTA, Pugmire, Degler, or Pugmire and Degler's affiliates.

Oppositions to the Motion were timely filed by CTA, Johnson, and the Debtor (collectively, the "Oppositions"). USA Waste timely filed its reply to the Oppositions on October 25, 2017 ("Reply").

DISCUSSION

As a threshold matter, the Court examines the Motion cognizant of the existence of a parallel proceeding in Superior Court. On August 15, 2017, this Court granted USA Waste relief from the automatic stay to proceed with its action in state court, titled USA Waste of California, Inc. v. City of Irwindale, et al., Los Angeles Superior Court Case No. KC066276 (the "Dispatch Action"). Following the entry of relief from stay, USA Waste filed and served an amended complaint in the Dispatch Action naming CTA as a party to that action. (Beehler Decl., Ex. 6).

Whether there Exists Good Cause to Conduct Proposed Rule 2004 Examinations

The purpose of a Bankruptcy Rule 2004 examination is "to allow inquiry into the debtor's acts, conduct or financial affairs so as to discover the existence and location of assets of the estate." In re Dinubilo, 177 B.R. 932, 940 (E.D. Cal. 1993); see also In re Fearn, 96 B.R. 135, 138 (Bankr. S.D. Ohio 1989) (rule's primary purpose is to ascertain "the extent and location of the estate's assets [and] such examination is not limited to the debtor or his agents, but may properly extend to creditors and third parties who have had dealings with the debtor") (internal citations omitted). The scope of an examination permitted under Bankruptcy Rule 2004 is broader than discovery allowed under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and may be in the nature of a "fishing expedition." In re Duratech Industries, Inc., 241 B.R. 283, 289 (E.D.N.Y. 1999). This broad inquiry extends to "unearthing frauds" and "determining whether wrongdoing has occurred." See In re N. Plaza LLC, 395 B.R. 113, 122 n. 9 (S.D. Cal. 2008) (purpose of Rule 2004 examination is "discovering assets and unearthing frauds"); In re Strecker, 251 B.R. 878, 882 (Bankr. D. Colo. 2000) ("[E]xaminations under Rule 2004 are allowed for the purpose of discovering assets, examining transactions, and determining whether wrongdoing has occurred."). Indeed, Bankruptcy Rule 2004 examinations are often used to investigate potential fraudulent transfer claims and related issues. See, e.g., In re Washington Mut., Inc., 408 B.R. 45, 49 (Bankr. D. Del. 2009) (granting motion to conduct Rule 2004 examination of third party regarding potential claims for business tort, fraudulent transfer, turnover, and preferential transfer); In re Irwin, 2010 WL 4976226, at *1-2 (Bkrcty. E.D. Pa. 2010) (authorizing Rule 2004 examinations seeking "information relating to asset transfers that may be avoidable as fraudulent transfers"); Matter of Sun Medical Management, Inc., 104 B.R. 522, 524 (Bkrcty. M.D. Ga. 1989) (authorizing 2004 examinations to investigate potential fraudulent transfer claims).

USA Waste indicates that good cause exists to conduct the proposed examinations because (1) the examinations are necessary to investigate the value of the estate and its claims, (2) the examinations are necessary to unearth any fraud or wrongdoing in connection with Debtor's pre-2011 operations, the Article 9 Sale, assets of the estate, and potentially the bankruptcy itself, (3) the availability of discovery in the Dispatch Action does not bar the examinations, and (4) denial of the examinations would cause USA Waste undue hardship and injustice. (Reply at 6:15-20). As to "good cause", the Court is not persuaded that USA Waste has demonstrated that the information sought in the Motion preserves its rights or is otherwise likely to bring assets back into the estate. The Motion makes frequent reference to "bad faith" and "fraud". However, it is not clear what USA Waste seeks to accomplish in the bankruptcy context should it succeed in uncovering evidence to support its allegations. Assuming that USA Waste's allegations are proven to be true, it appears that CTA and its principals/officers may be liable for USA Waste's claims against the Debtor. These are issues, however, being addressed in the Dispatch Action. Further, the Article 9 Sale which resulted in the transfer of the Debtor's assets to CTA occurred in 2011 and USA Waste has not articulated under which legal theory, or bankruptcy code provision, it could unravel the sale to bring assets back into the bankruptcy estate for the benefit of the Debtor's creditors. Without more, the Court finds that USA Waste has failed to demonstrate good cause exists to permit further discovery via Rule 2004 at this point.

The Availability of Discovery via a Pending Proceeding

Next, the Court has reviewed the Oppositions and is persuaded that under the "pending proceeding" rule, the Motion should be DENIED as to those factual issues being addressed in the Dispatch Action. In particular, a review of USA Waste's Second Amended Complaint ("SAC") as provided by CTA indicates that the litigation in the Dispatch Action shall address factual issues related to the Manning Pit operations, the Article 9 sale, the corporate ownership and running of CTA (which the SAC refers to as an alter ego of the Debtor), and the relationships between CTA, the Debtor, and their principals with the City of Irwindale (specifically with regard to the settlement and contribution payment made to the City of Irwindale).

In its Reply to the Oppositions, USA Waste argues that the availability of discovery in the Dispatch Action does not bar the proposed examinations. In support, USA Waste argues that discovery in the Dispatch Action is (1) "limited to the two discrete commercial tort claims in the timeframe alleged and matters relevant to those claims or otherwise admissible in the action" and (2) that "financial discovery would not be permitted in the Dispatch Action absent a finding of liability." (Reply at 9:5-16; 10:2-14). In support of its position, USA Waste cites to In re International Fibercom, Inc., 283 B.R. 290, 292-293 (Bankr. D. Ariz. 2002), In re Analytical Sys., Inc., 71 B.R. 408, 413 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. 1987), In re Buick, 174 B.R. 299, 305 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1994), and Kerner v. Superior Court, 206 Cal. App. 4th 84, 119 (2012) (pretrial discovery of a defendant's financial condition is prohibited absent a court order permitting such discovery under California Civil Code § 3295).

International Fibercom simply reiterates the general rule that where pending litigation exists, a court should consider whether the information sought under rule 2004 "relates to" the pending litigation. If the information sought relates not to the pending litigation, but to another matter, then the "pending proceeding" rule does not apply. International Fibercom at 292. Further, the court holds the ultimate discretion whether to permit the use of Rule 2004, and courts have for various reasons done so despite the existence of other pending litigation. Id. Here, the Court acknowledges that it is not compelled to follow the "pending proceeding" rule. Nevertheless, the striking similarity between the allegations of the SAC and the documents/communications sought by the Motion, indicate that USA Waste is attempting to obtain by means of the bankruptcy, documents and communications which it cannot or is unlikely to obtain via the more narrow discovery rules in the California courts. Strategically, this makes perfect sense. This Court, however, is not persuaded that USA Waste has provided a sufficient basis to permit it to obtain discovery in the bankruptcy at this time.

The Court is further not persuaded that the documents and communications sought regarding the Article 9 sale, the Manning Pit, the City of Irwindale, and corporate ownership of CTA are "beyond the scope" of the issues in the Dispatch Action. See Buick at 305. In fact, USA Waste's tort claims specifically reference an "active" alleged conspiracy between the City of Irwindale, CTA, and its principals as well as the alleged fraudulent and intentional disposition of valuable assets from Debtor to CTA as bases for its first cause of action for intentional interference with contractual relations. (SAC at ¶93). Finally, USA Waste's argument that financial documents are not available via the Dispatch Action is unavailing. In Kerner v. Superior Court, 206 Cal. App. 4th 84, 119, 141 Cal. Rptr. 3d 504, 531 (2012), as modified (May 21, 2012), the rule prohibiting such discovery specifically relates to discovery of a defendant's financial condition in connection with a claim for punitive damages. Kerner, however, is distinguishable from the instant case, where USA Waste has placed the financial transactions between the Proposed Examinees at issue in the Dispatch Action as supportive of their claim for intentional interference with contractual relations.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to DENY the Motion without prejudice for lack of good cause shown and, alternatively, the Court has determined USA Waste may instead pursue discovery in connection with the Dispatch Action and with the due process safeguards that the California rules of evidence and civil procedure provide.

Tentative Ruling:

11/2/17

Tentative Ruling:

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion. Section 362(c)(3)(C) creates a presumption that this case was not filed in good faith, and Debtor has not rebutted the presumption by clear and convincing evidence. Specifically, while Debtor has indicated that his previous Chapter 13 case was dismissed for failure to make plan payments, and while Debtor has provided evidence of his current income, there is no evidence regarding Debtor's income during his previous case. In the absence of this evidence, the Court is precluded from determining whether there is a material change in Debtor's financial circumstances.

Docket 118

10/31/2017

BACKGROUND

On November 10, 2016, B&B Family, Incorporated ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. On March 31, 2017, Debtor filed its Chapter 11 plan and disclosure statement. On April 7, 2017, Debtor filed a motion to extend the deadline to obtain plan confirmation, which was, at the time, set for May 15, 2017. On May 2, 2017, after receiving an objection to plan confirmation, Debtor filed an amended Chapter 11 plan and disclosure statement.

Debtor did not lodge a proposed order for its motion to extend the deadline for plan confirmation until May 18, 2017. After the order was lodged, the Court denied the motion, noting that an order extending the deadline for plan confirmation must be signed before the expiration of the existing deadline. Nevertheless, the Court noted that the filing of an amended Chapter 11 plan may restart the plan confirmation deadline.

Chapter 11

On June 13, 2017, Debtor filed another amended Chapter 11 plan (the "Plan") and disclosure statement. On July 10, 2017, Debtor filed another motion to extend the deadline for plan confirmation. The Court granted that motion, and extended the deadline for plan confirmation to October 26, 2017.

On July 31, 2017, Debtor filed another amended disclosure statement, which was approved on August 3, 2017. On August 25, 2017, Debtor filed a motion to continue the plan confirmation hearing, which was granted on August 28, 2017.¹ On October 11, 2017, Debtor filed a brief in support of plan confirmation. No objections to confirmation have been received by the Court.

DISCUSSION

I. Ballots

Pursuant to declaration filed September 1, 2017, Debtor timely transmitted its disclosure statement, Chapter 11 plan, ballots, and notice of all relevant dates. Debtor provides ballots received from: (1) Comerica Bank; (2) High Desert Prime LLC; (3) Pawnee Leasing Corporation; (4) a second ballot from Comerica Bank; (5) a ballot from Financial Pacific Leasing; and (6) a final ballot which appears to have not been submitted to the Court. Debtor's ballot summary lists a seventh ballot received, which is not identified in Debtor's brief or in Exhibit 2. Debtor asserts that all classes have voted to accept the plan, although the evidence submitted to the Court, namely Exhibit 2 of Debtor's confirmation brief, without more, demonstrates Class 6 rejecting the plan.

II. Classes

Class 1: senior secured claim of Comerica Bank, secured by Debtor's assets.

Class 4: secured claim of Financial Pacific Leasing, secured by specific equipment.

Class 5: landlord's claim for arrears.

Class 6: non-priority, non-insider unsecured claims, including the unsecured portions of the claims held by the entities in Class 1 and 4. This class includes Pawnee Leasing Corporation, Comerica Bank, Financial Pacific Leasing (ostensibly), and a fourth unsecured creditor not identified in the confirmation brief or ballot summary.

Class 7: "interest holders of Debtor."

III. Plan Confirmation

"The bankruptcy court must confirm a Chapter 11 debtor's plan of reorganization if the debtor provides by a preponderance of the evidence either (1) that the Plan satisfies all thirteen requirements of 11 U.S.C. § 1129(a), or (2) if the only condition not satisfied is the eighth requirement, 11 U.S.C. § 1129(a)(8), the Plan satisfies the 'cramdown' alternative to this condition found in 11 U.S.C. § 1129(b), which requires that the Plan 'does not discriminate unfairly' against and 'is fair and equitable' towards each impaired class that has not accepted the plan." In re Ambanc La Mesa Ltd. P'ship, 115 F.3d 650, 653 (9th Cir. 1997).

As a preliminary matter, the Court notes that Debtor has not directly provided any evidence in support of confirmation. Neither Debtor's confirmation brief nor Debtor's proposed plan contains a declaration or any authentication of the attached exhibits.

Debtor's disclosure statement, which has been approved by this Court, contains a declaration of Debtor's principal, however, the exhibits appended to that declaration are not authenticated either.

A. 11 U.S.C. § 1129(a) requirements

1129(a)(1): "The plan complies with the applicable provisions of this title." The legislative history indicates that this requirement primarily refers to the requirements of 11 U.S.C. §§ 1122 and 1123. See In re Multiut Corp., 449 B.R. 323, 333 (Bankr. N.D. Ill. 1984). Section 1122 deals with the classification of claims, and requires that claims in a single class be substantially similar. Here, Debtor has formed five distinct classes: (1) senior secured creditor; (2) junior secured creditor; (3) landlord; (4) general unsecured; and (5) Debtor's interest holders. The Court finds that the demarcation of classes is proper. Section 1123 deals with the contents of a plan, and identifies certain mandatory and permissive provisions. It appears that Debtor is in compliance with § 1123(a)(1)-(4), (7)-(8). Regarding § 1123(a)(6), Debtor's confirmation brief seems to concede that an explicit provision conforming to the Code is required, and Debtor has agreed to insert such a provision into any plan confirmation order. Regarding § 1123(a)(5), the absence of admissible evidence precludes the Court from addressing whether Debtor has demonstrated that there are adequate means provided for the plan's implementation.

1129(a)(2): "The proponent of the plan complies with the applicable provisions of this title." The legislative history indicates that this requirement primarily refers to the disclosure requirements in § 1125. See In re Capitol Lakes, Inc., 2016 WL 3598536 at *2 (Bankr. W.D. Wis. 2016). Here, the Court has approved Debtor's disclosure statement, and Debtor has provided a service declaration indicating that the required documents were served on creditors, and, therefore, it appears that this requirement has been satisfied.

1129(a)(3): Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 3020(b)(2) provides that: "If no objection is timely filed, the court may determine that the plan has been proposed in good faith and not by any means forbidden by law without receiving evidence on such issues." Here, no objection has been timely filed, and, as such, the Court deems the Plan to have been filed in good faith and not by any means forbidden by law. Therefore, this requirement is satisfied.

1129(a)(4): Article 1(A) of the Plan states: "Professional fees may only be paid upon application to an approval by the court." Therefore, it appears that this requirement has been satisfied.

1129(a)(5): Article V(B) of the Plan describes the proposed post-confirmation management of Debtor, and, as such, it appears that this requirement has been satisfied.

1129(a)(6): This requirement deals with government regulation of the rates of the Debtor and is not applicable to the instant case.

1129(a)(7): Debtor's confirmation brief asserts that, if the case were converted to Chapter 7, the case would be a no-asset case. Furthermore, Debtor has provided ballots accepting the Plan from all creditors other than Class 6 creditors, who are unsecured creditors. Therefore, it would appear that all creditors have either accepted the Plan or will receive at least as much as would be received in a Chapter 7 liquidation.

1129(a)(8): Based upon the ballot summary provided by Debtor, Classes 1, 4, and 5 (each of which contains a single creditor) have accepted the Plan. As is noted in the Ballot section above, the Ballot results of Class 6 are unclear. The ballot summary (and confirmation brief) provided by Debtor assert that Class 6 has accepted the Plan, while the individual ballots appended to the brief, without more, indicate Class 6 has rejected the Plan. As such, Debtor has failed to demonstrate that § 1129(a)(8) has been satisfied.

1129(a)(9): Article I of the Plan appears to state that all administrative claims and priority claims will either be paid in full on the Effective Date of the Plan, or that the holder of the claim has consented to different treatment. The only administrative or priority claim (other than the fees for Debtor's counsel) that is not to be paid immediately upon the effective date of the Plan is the tax claim held by the California State Board of Equalization, which is to be paid over four years with 7% interest. Debtor asserts that the California State Board of Equalization's failure to object to the proposed treatment constitutes acceptance.

1129(a)(10): The ballot summary and ballots submitted by Debtor appear to indicate that at least one impaired class has accepted the Plan, and, therefore, it appears that this requirement is satisfied.

1129(a)(11): This provision requires Debtor to demonstrate that "[c]onfirmation of the plan is not likely to be followed by the liquidation, or the need for further financial reorganization." Debtor has not provided any admissible evidence to the Court that would enable the Court to undertake the required review.

1129(a)(12): Article V(B) of the Plan provides that the quarterly fees of UST will be paid on the effective date of the Plan, and, as such, this provision appears to be satisfied.

1129(a)(13): Debtor has not addressed this provision, ostensibly because it is inapplicable in the instant case.

1129(a)(14): Debtor has not addressed this provision, ostensibly because it is inapplicable in the instant case.

1129(a)(15): Debtor is not an individual, and, therefore, this provision is inapplicable in the instant case.

1129(a)(16): Debtor asserts that the Plan does not contemplate any transfer of property (other than money), and, as such, that this provision has been satisfied.

Summary of Confirmation Issues:

-First and foremost, Debtor has not provided any evidence in support of confirmation. To the extent that that lack of evidence is particularly important, the absence of supporting evidence is noted below.

-There is no evidence of any confirmation requirements under § 1129.

-Debtor has not provided any evidence of the cash on hand available to make the payments the Plan contemplates being made immediately upon the effective date, which appears to total $58,251.48.

-Debtor has not provided any evidence of its historical financials. As a result, the Court is unable to effectively review the feasibility of the Plan.

-The Plan appears to have incorrectly labelled Exhibit A and Exhibit B.

-Because of the absence of evidence in support of confirmation, Debtor has not demonstrated that it possesses adequate means for the Plan's confirmation.

-The ballots submitted to the Court indicate that Class 6 has rejected the Plan. Debtor has only submitted two ballots from Class 6, one indicating acceptance and one indicating rejection. § 1126(c) requires that a majority of the claim holders in a class accept the plan, and that has not occurred here.

-Debtor has not addresses the alternative cram-down mechanism, much less satisfied it.

From: 10/25/17

EH__

Docket 40

Tentative Ruling:

10/25/17

BACKGROUND

On August 15, 2016, Jesus & Yovana Guillen ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On November 23, 2016, UST filed a motion for order requiring Hugo Laguna ("Laguna") to pay fines to the UST, pay damages to Debtor, and disgorge fees received. On December 16, 2016, Debtors filed a declaration clarifying answers that were provided at the meeting of creditors. On December 22, 2016, Hugo Laguna ("Laguna") filed a late declaration. After continuing the hearing, Laguna and UST eventually stipulated to a resolution of the matter. The Court entered an order on April 19, 2017, requiring Laguna to pay $100 to Debtors within thirty days, and to pay $250 to UST within sixty days. Laguna was to file a compliance declaration regarding the former within forty-five days.

On May 23, 2017, the case was closed. On September 22, 2017, the case was reopened, and on September 25, 2017, UST filed a motion to fine and enjoin Laguna. UST asserts that Laguna has not complied with the Court order of April 19, 2017. On October 20, 2017, Laguna filed a late response. Laguna asserts that he paid $250 to UST shortly after filing the instant motion.

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 110(j)(3) states: "The court, as part of its contempt power, may enjoin a bankruptcy petition preparer that has failed to comply with a previous order issued under this section. The injunction under this paragraph may be issued on the motion of the court, the trustee, or the United States trustee."

As noted by UST, in order to obtain civil contempt sanctions, a movant must demonstrate: (1) violation of a court order; (2) beyond substantial compliance; (3) not based on a good faith and reasonable interpretation of the order; and (4) by clear and convincing evidence. See Labor/Cnty. Strategy Ctr. V. L.A. Cnty. Metro. Transp. Auth., 564 F.3d 1115, 1123 (9th Cir. 2009). As is evidenced by the docket and UST's motion, Laguna has failed to comply with the Court's order. The Court's order was simple and unambiguous, and there is clear and convincing evidence that Laguna has not complied. Therefore, the Court will issue the requested injunction.

11 U.S.C. § 110(h)(5) states: "A bankruptcy petition preparer shall be fined not more than $500 for each failure to comply with a court order to turn over funds within 30 days of service of such order." Here, the Court's order was entered over six months ago, and was straightforward, requiring payment of a total of $350. The order was entered in response to a stipulation between UST and Laguna, and, therefore, Laguna was certainly aware of the order.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion to the extent that the motion seeks an injunction enjoining Laguna from providing bankruptcy preparer services. Parties to address Laguna's compliance with payment obligations.

#19.00 CONT Motion to Dismiss Adversary Proceeding re First Amended Complaint

From: 8/2/17, 8/23/17

Docket 36

Tentative Ruling:

8/23/17

BACKGROUND

On June 23, 2016, Revere Financial Corporation ("Revere") filed a complaint against Don Burns ("Burns"), and, on June 30, 2016, the complaint was amended. After Burns failed to answer or otherwise respond to the complaint, the clerk entered default against Burns on November 16, 2016.

On April 21, 2017, Revere filed a motion for default judgment. On May 4, 2017, Burns filed a motion to set aside default and an answer. On May 24, 2017, Revere filed its opposition to the motion to set aside default. At a hearing on June 7, 2017, the Court instructed the parties that it would conditionally grant the motion to set aside default upon payment of reasonable costs, and requested further briefing regarding Revere's costs incurred as a result of Burns's delay. At a continued hearing on July 12, 2017, after the Court posted a tentative ruling reducing the fees requested by Revere, the Court continued the motion to set aside default to allow further briefing from parties. The fee dispute has not yet been resolve and no order has been entered related to the motion to set aside default.

Chapter 7

On June 30, 2017, Burns filed a motion to dismiss. On August 9, 2017, Revere filed their opposition to the motion to dismiss.

DISCUSSION

Despite the fact that Burns is still in default, neither party has briefed the impact of that status on Burns's motion to dismiss. A legal scholar previous wrote that "the defaulting party loses his standing to contest the truth of all facts that are 'well-pleaded' in the non-defaulting party's complaint." Peter H. Bresnan & James P. Cornelio, Relief from Default Judgments Under Rule 60(b) – A Study of Federal Case Law, 49 Fordham L. Rev. 956, 959-60 (1981) (collecting cases); see also Thomson v. Wooster, 114 U.S. 104, 112-14 (1885) ("From the authorities cited, and the express language of our own rules in equity, it seems clear that the defendants, after the entry of the decree pro confesso, and while it stood unrevoked, were absolutely barred and precluded from alleging anything in derogation of, or in opposition to, the said decree, and that they are equally barred, and precluded from questioning its correctness here on appeal, unless on the face of the bill it appears manifest that it was erroneous and improperly granted."). Burns's motion to dismiss raises a legal argument, however, not a factual argument.

Courts appear willing to simultaneously grant motions to set aside default and dismiss the case. See, e.g., Mineo Yoshida v. Daikokuya Co., Ltd., 2008 WL 11338257 (C.D. Cal. 2007). Other courts have been more specific with regard to the order in which the motion to set aside default and the motion to dismiss must be considered. See Everest Indem. Ins. Co. v. Demarco, 2013 WL 12136578 at *2 (C.D. Cal. 2013) ("Before the Court can consider their motion to dismiss, the default must be set aside pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 55(c)."). Where, as is the case here, the Court has merely orally indicated that it will set aside default upon the occurrence of a condition which has not yet been defined, and may or may not come to pass, the Court considers it improper to rule on the motion to dismiss. Therefore, the Court will continue the matter for Burns to obtain a setting aside of the default.

#1.00 Motion Re: Objection to Claim #7 by Claimant Tidewater Finance Company T/A
Tidewater Motor Credit & Tidewater Credit Services

EH__

Docket 76

Tentative Ruling:

11/09/2017

Background:

On November 30, 2012 ("Petition Date"), Jacquelyn Anna Palmer ("Debtor") filed for chapter 13 relief. Amrane Cohen is the duly appointed chapter 13 trustee ("Trustee"). On September 27, 2017, Debtor filed her Objection to Claims # 7-1 of Tidewater Finance Company ("Claimant").

Service was proper and no opposition or response has been filed.

Applicable Law:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." United States v. Offord

Chapter 13

Fin., Inc., (In re Medina), 205 B.R. 216,222 (9th Cir. BAP 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. Ashford v. Consol. Pioneer Mort. (In re Consol. Pioneer Mort.), 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

Analysis:

The Debtor objects only to the "secured" portion of Claim No. 7-1. Specifically, the Debtor asserts, without legal citation or authority, that because she "gave her furniture to a co-worker who had lost everything in a fire" and is "no longer in possession of the furniture" the secured amount should be disallowed.

Tentative Ruling

Having failed to provide legal authority for the proposition that the gifting of property subject to a security interest suffices to extinguish such lien, the tentative ruling is that the Objection be OVERRULED.

Docket 24

Tentative Ruling:

11/09/2017

BACKGROUND

On November 18, 2016, Javier and Carmen Lopez (collectively, "Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On March 6, 2017, Amarillo College of Hairdressing, Inc. ("Plaintiff") filed a non-dischargeability complaint against Debtors. No answer has been filed.

Plaintiff specifically seeks to amend the complaint to join the Javier Lopez's wife as a co-defendant and asserts that the amendment will not include changes to the factual allegations or claims. Service of the Motion was proper and no opposition has been filed.

DISCUSSION

Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 15(a)(1)-(2) states:

(1) A party may amend its pleading once as a matter of course within:

(A) 21 days after serving it, or

(B) if the pleading is one to which a responsive pleading is required, 21 days after service of a responsive pleading or 21 days after service of a motion under Rule 12(b), (e), or (f) whichever is earlier

(2) In all other cases, a party may amend its pleading only with the opposing party's written consent or the court's leave. The court should freely give leave when justice so requires.

Here, the standard of Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 15(a)(2) applies.

As is noted by Plaintiff, "leave to amend should be granted unless amendment would cause prejudice to the opposing party, is sought in bad faith, is futile, or creates undue delay." Johnson v. Mammoth Recreations, Inc., 975 F.2d 604, 607 (9th Cir. 1992).

Here, Plaintiff has timely moved to amend its complaint. There is no indication of bad faith on the part of Plaintiff and Debtors have not argued that leave to amend would be prejudicial. The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure instruct the Court to "freely give leave when justice so requires." Here, where Plaintiff has promptly moved to amend the complaint prior to the filing of any responsive pleading by the Defendant, justice requires the Court grant leave to amend.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion. Plaintiff to lodge an order indicating that the Motion is granted and that the Clerk of Court shall issue an alias summons to be served on Carmen Lopez by the Plaintiff.

Tentative Ruling:

9/21/17

TENTATIVE

The Court having reviewed the motion, finding notice and service to be proper and reviewed the opposition, the Court is inclined to DENY the motion without prejudice. Specifically, as is noted in the opposition, Debtors have not submitted evidence which clearly establishes the amount owing on the senior security interest. Debtors have submitted a payoff quote, dated July 20, 2017, which states that the total amount due is $347,890.95. Debtors have additionally submitted a letter, dated May 17, 2017, which states that the remaining deferred principal amount is $129,872.54. Debtors' motion adds the two above amounts together, and asserts that the sum is the total amount due.

Nevertheless, the relationship between the two documents submitted by Debtors is unclear. The payoff quote submitted is dated approximately two months later than the letter, and, therefore, the letter cannot refer to the payoff quote. Because of this lack of clarity, Debtors have not established the amount owing on the senior security interest.

APPEARANCES REQUIRED.

#14.00 Motion For Order Compelling Attorney To File Disclosure Of Compensation Pursuant To 11 U.S.C. § 329 And Federal Rule Of Bankruptcy Procedure 2016
CASE DISMISSED 9/26/17

EH__

Docket 24

Tentative Ruling:

11/09/2017

BACKGROUND

On September 6, 2017, Oracio Hernandez ("Debtor") filed for chapter 13 relief.

The petition reflects that Debtor was assisted with the instant filing by the Law Office of Aalok Sikand ("Counsel"). On September 26, 2017, the case was dismissed for failure of the Debtor to file schedules.

On October 2, 2017, the Office of the United States Trustee ("UST") filed its Notice of Motion and Motion for Order Compelling Attorney to File Disclosure of compensation Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 329 ("Motion"). Service was proper and the Motion is unopposed.

DISCUSSION

Section 329(a) provides, in pertinent part that:
Any attorney representing a debtor in a case under this title, or in connection with such a case, whether or not such attorney applies for compensation under this title, shall file with the court a statement of the compensation paid or agreed to be paid, if such payment or agreement was made after one year before the date of the filing of the petition, for services rendered or to be rendered in contemplation of or in connection with the case by such attorney, and the source of such compensation

11 U.S.C. § 329(a).

The UST indicates that Counsel failed to file a Statement of Attorney Compensation (Ex. 3), which thereby prevents the Court and parties in interest an opportunity to review the reasonableness of the fees charged. Moreover, section 329 is a mandatory provision of the code.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Motion is GRANTED in its entirety. Counsel is ordered to file a Statement of Attorney Compensation and the Court shall continue to retain jurisdiction over issues relating to § 329 arising from the instant Motion.

REAL PROPERTY RE: 4990 Padre Ave, Rancho Cucamonga, CA

MOVANT: WELLS FARGO BANK NA

From: 8/1/17, 9/12/17, 10/31/17

EH__

Docket 114

Tentative Ruling:

08/01/2017

Service: Proper

Opposition: Yes

Movant has established sufficient grounds to support relief from stay under § 362(d) (1) based on Debtor's failure to make required post-petition payments. Debtor alleges that more payments have been made to the Movant than the Motion accounts for and that some payments have been misapplied by the Movant, but provides no specificity or detail to support his assertions.

APPEARANCES REQUIRED.

Docket 45

Tentative Ruling:

10/24/2017

Service is Proper
Opposition: Yes

Debtors had two bankruptcy cases dismissed in the year prior to filing the instant case. The first case was dismissed on July 25, 2016, for failure to make plan payments. The second case was dismissed on October 24, 2016, for failure to file information.

11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(4)(A)(ii) provides that if a debtor had two previous cases dismissed within a year of the instant case, then, absent court order, the automatic stay does not go into effect. Here, the Court did not impose the automatic stay, and, therefore, the automatic stay was never effective in this case. Therefore, the Court is inclined to GRANT the motion, confirming that the automatic stay is not in effect.

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion. Movant did not serve the motion on the Chapter 7 Trustee, the United States Trustee, or the Debtor pursuant to Local Rule 4001-(1)(c)(1)(C). Furthermore, Movant's attorney's declaration requests annulment of the automatic stay to validate certain post-petition acts, however, there is no description of what acts were taken in violation of the automatic stay. Finally, the details of the state court action are unclear. Specifically, it is not clear what role Debtor has in the litigation, and, while Movant appears to wish to proceed against applicable insurance, the motion also seems to indicate that it is unclear whether there is any applicable insurance.

EH__

Docket 120

Tentative Ruling:

11/15/17

Amounts Requested:

Fees: $18,130

Costs: $538.65

Service of the Application was Proper. The US Trustee filed objection to the Application on 10/31/17. In particular, the US Trustee argues that Applicant's fees should be reduced by 50% where the mismanagement of the case from its inception undercuts any benefit conferred by Applicant's services.

In support of the UST's Objection, the Court takes judicial notice of the record of the June 20, 2017, hearing at which the Debtors' motions regarding cash collateral were denied. At that same hearing, the Court, primarily on the objections to the use of cash collateral, found that the conduct of the Debtors in using cash collateral without authorization as well as the overall record of the problems with the Debtors' gross management of the franchises warranted sua sponte conversion of the case. Applicant conceded at the hearing that the case was filed quickly and without a full understanding of the financial situation of the Debtors.

Further, Applicant for its part has opted not to respond to the UST's objection. Based on the foregoing, the Court tentatively finds that the 50% reduction in fees is appropriate.

Docket 23

Tentative Ruling:

11/15/17

BACKGROUND

On April 28, 2015, Home Security Stores, Inc. ("Debtor") filed its petition for chapter 7 relief. Ralph and Stacy Winn (the "Winns") are the sole shareholders and officers of the Debtor company. Prepetition, the Debtor also employed the Winns' daughter and their nephew, Stephen Knoch. John P. Pringle is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee").

On April 28, 2017, the Trustee filed a Complaint for avoidance of transfers, for breach of fiduciary duty for declaratory relief as to ownership of certain property, for violations of the automatic stay, for trademark infringement, and for disallowance of claims (the "Complaint"). The Complaint names the Winns, certain of their relatives, and Sterling Security Products, Inc., as defendants.

On October 19, 2017, the Winns filed a motion to quash (the "Motion"), or, in the alternative, to modify subpoena served upon Accent Computer Solutions, Inc. ("ACS"). ACS is a company the Debtor paid for off-site data storage and backup of the Debtor's servers, prepetition. The Motion generally asserts that the Trustee has subpoenaed documents from ACS which are protected by the attorney-client privilege. On this basis, the Winns request that the Court quash the subpoena, or in the alternative, that it modify the subpoena to direct ACS to produce any correspondence related to Mr. Winn his counsel to review and redact and/or withhold as necessary (subject to the Winns' counsel providing a detailed privilege log setting forth the specific basis for any redaction or withholding of a particular document).

On November 1, 2017, the Trustee filed his opposition to the Motion and evidentiary objections to the declaration of Ralph Winn (the "Opposition"). On November 8, 2017, the Winns filed their reply ("Reply").

DISCUSSION

As a threshold matter, the Court notes that the Motion to Quash fails to adequately provide the Court with facts supportive of the Motion. Additionally, the Motion is itself inadequate in terms of stating the applicable law.

In the absence of authority to the contrary, it appears that the federal common law of attorney-client privilege applies. In an action based on federal law, the federal common law of attorney-client privilege applies. See FED.R.EVID. 501; Admiral Insurance Co. v. United States District Court, 881 F.2d 1486, 1492 (9th Cir.1989). In particular, the allegations of the Complaint specifically set forth several allegations regarding postpetition conduct of the defendants. Thus, the action appears to be based in federal law. In re Mortg. & Realty Tr., 212 B.R. 649, 652 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1997).

Under Ninth Circuit law, the attorney-client privilege under Rule 501 of the Federal Rules of Evidence applies if the following conditions are met:

- (1) legal advice of any kind is sought
- (2) from a professional legal adviser in his capacity as such,
- (3) the communications relating to that purpose,
- (4) made in confidence
- (5) by the client,

- (6) are at this instance permanently protected
- (7) from disclosure by himself or by the legal adviser,
- (8) unless the protection has been waived.

Admiral Insurance, 881 F.2d at 1492. The claimant of the attorney-client privilege must carry the burden of establishing the applicability of the privilege. United States v. Osborn, 561 F.2d 1334, 1339 (9th Cir.1977).

The attorney-client privilege is waived when the communication between the attorney and client is made in the presence of a third party. United States v. Landof, 591 F.2d 36 (9th Cir.1978) (holding that the attorney-client privilege was waived as to a conversation, where an attorney for a third party attended the meeting). Similarly, the voluntary delivery of a privileged communication by a holder of the privilege to someone not a party to the privilege waives the privilege. United States v. Zolin, 809 F.2d 1411, 1415 (9th Cir.1987) (holding that the contents of certain tapes were privileged because the non-party present at the time the tapes were recorded had a common interest with the party involved in litigation), aff'd in relevant part, 491 U.S. 554, 109 S.Ct. 2619, 105 L.Ed.2d 469 (1989).

In support of the Motion, the only first-hand evidence to establish the applicability of the privilege is a declaration of Ralph Winn. In his declaration, Mr. Winn states generally that there is a "strong possibility" that he sent and/or received emails on his desktop computer at the Debtor from Harry Histen and William Simon, both attorneys representing him. (Winn Decl. ¶4). He further states that as a result of his telephone conversations with Mr. Knoch, and on information and belief, there is a substantial possibility that the emails sent to and/or received from Harry Histen and William Simon are stored by ACS and will be produced by ACS pursuant to the Trustee's subpoena. In Opposition, the Trustee has provided evidence that the Winns identified both Histen and Simon as attorneys for the Debtor.

As to whether Mr. Winn has provided sufficient evidence to establish that he was the "client" when sending communications to the named attorneys through his desktop computer at the offices of the Debtor, US v. Graf is instructive. 610 F.3d

1148, 1155 (9th Cir. 2010). In Graf, the Ninth Circuit specifically evaluated a trial court's finding regarding the fifth element of the eight-part test – the identity of the client in a corporate context:

"The administration of the attorney-client privilege in the case of corporations ... presents special problems. As an inanimate entity, a corporation must act through agents. A corporation cannot speak directly to its lawyers." Commodity Futures Trading Comm'n v. Weintraub, 471 U.S. 343, 348, 105 S.Ct. 1986, 85 L.Ed.2d 372 (1985); accord Admiral Ins. Co. v. U.S. Dist. Court, 881 F.2d 1486, 1492 (9th Cir.1989) ("As fictitious entities, corporations can seek and receive legal advice and communicate with counsel only through individuals empowered to act on behalf of the corporation."). One of these special problems is that corporate officers, directors, and employees who communicate with corporate counsel on behalf of the corporation may later attempt to claim a personal attorney-client privilege regarding those communications after the corporation has waived its own privilege.

Id. at 1155. In Graf, the trial court determined that the principal of a corporation did not have a reasonable subjective belief, communicated to the named attorneys, that he was represented by the attorneys in his individual capacity. The Ninth Circuit in Graf, indicated that the appropriate test to determine whether a corporate employee sought personal legal advice from the corporate attorneys is the "Bevill test," which it has adopted in situations such as the assertion of attorney-client privilege asserted by the Winns. Id. citing Matter of Bevill, Bresler & Schulman Asset Mgmt. Corp., 805 F.2d 120 (3d Cir. 1986). Under the Bevill test, individual corporate officers or employees seeking to assert a personal claim of attorney-client privilege must affirmatively show five factors:

1. They must show they approached counsel for the purpose of seeking legal advice.
2. They must demonstrate that when they approached counsel they made it clear that they were seeking legal advice in their individual rather than in their representative capacities.
3. They must demonstrate that the counsel saw fit to communicate with them in their individual capacities, knowing that a possible conflict

4. They must prove that their conversations with counsel were confidential.

5. And they must show that the substance of their conversations with counsel did not concern matters within the company or the general affairs of the company.

Bevill at 123, 125 (internal citations omitted).

Here, there is no dispute that the Winns as sole shareholders and officers of the Debtor also acted as its agents in their communications with third parties. The declaration of Mr. Winn broadly describes all of his communications with Messrs Histen and Simon as establishing the privilege. However, Mr. Winn's statements are overbroad and do not specify the type of legal advice being sought nor are his statements supported by declarations of the professionals to corroborate his claims that the communications between himself and Messrs Histen and Simon were related to personal representation as opposed to communications regarding the Debtor or general affairs of the Debtor (for which the Trustee now holds the privilege).

Finally, although the Court need not reach the issue of whether the Winns waived any privilege by using the Debtor's computers, the Court is inclined to agree with the authorities cited by the Winns which indicate that absent an internal policy by the Debtor indicating that the company could disclose the email communications of its employees, use of the Debtor's equipment to communicate with the attorneys does not of itself establish a waiver of the attorney-client privilege.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court's tentative ruling is that under the Bevill test, the Winns have not established that a personal attorney-client privilege exists over any of Mr. Winn's communications with the above attorneys and the Motion should be DENIED on that basis.

11/15/17

BACKGROUND

On April 25, 2016, Yolanda Yvette Tyes ("Debtor" or "Defendant") filed her petition for chapter 7 relief. Among the creditors of the Debtor's estate is Chicago Title Insurance Company ("Plaintiff"), the holder of a default judgment obtained against the Debtor, prepetition. On August 1, 2016, Plaintiff filed its complaint for determination of nondischargeability of debt against the Debtor under § 523(a)(2) (the "Complaint").

On October 16, 2009, prepetition, Plaintiff filed a complaint against the Debtor in the Superior Court of California ("State Court Action"). Subsequently, upon Debtor's default and Plaintiff's prove-up, the State Court entered a default judgment in favor of the Plaintiff and against the Debtor on January 25, 2010 (the "Judgment"). Plaintiff initially sought relief in this Court by motion for default judgment and collateral estoppel. However, the Court granted the Debtor's request to set aside the entry of default prior to ruling on the Plaintiff's default judgment motion. Debtor filed her answer to the Complaint on November 16, 2016. The Debtor has at all times throughout the course of the instant litigation represented herself in pro per.

On September 11, 2017, the Plaintiff filed a Motion for Summary Judgment ("the Motion"). The Debtor, though properly served, has failed to file response or

Chapter 7

DISCUSSION

A. Summary Judgment

Summary judgment should be granted if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment as a matter of law. Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c) (made applicable to adversary proceedings by Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7056).

The moving party has the burden of establishing the absence of a genuine issue of material fact. Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323 (1986). If the moving party shows the absence of a genuine issue of material fact, the nonmoving party must go beyond the pleadings and identify facts that show a genuine issue for trial. Id. at 324. The court must view the evidence in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party. Bell v. Cameron Meadows Land Co., 669 F.2d 1278, 1284 (9th Cir. 1982). All reasonable doubt as to the existence of a genuine issue of fact should be resolved against the moving party. Hector v. Wiens, 533 F.2d 429, 432 (9th Cir. 1976). The inference drawn from the underlying facts must be viewed in the light most favorable to the party opposing the motion. Valadingham v. Bojorquez, 866 F.2d 1135, 1137 (9th Cir. 1989). Where different ultimate inferences may be drawn, summary judgment is inappropriate. Sankovich v. Insurance Co. of N. Am., 638 F.2d 136, 140 (9th Cir. 1981).

If the moving party meets its initial burden, the non-moving party must set forth, by affidavit or as otherwise provided in Rule 56, specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial. Id. However, the non-moving party "must do more than simply show that there is some metaphysical doubt as to the material fact...." Matsushita Electrical Industry Co. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 586-587 (1986).

A fact is material if it "might affect the outcome of the suit under the governing law." Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248 (1986). A dispute about a material fact is genuine "if the evidence is such that a reasonable jury could return a verdict for the nonmoving party." Id.

B. Fraud and/or misrepresentation pursuant to § 523(a)(2)

The primary thrust of Plaintiff's Complaint is that the Debtor in 2006, fraudulently obtained two loans in her name and her then-husband's name from Washington Mutual Bank (for $360,000 and $90,000), by among other things, forging her husband's name on the loan documents, and then keeping all of the refinancing proceedings, to refinance her then property located at 428 Daisy Avenue, Unit #2, in Long Beach, CA ("Subject Property"). After paying the prior liens on the Property, the Debtor received the difference between the amount of the new loans and the payoff of the prior loans. The result is that the Debtor received a windfall of approximately $118,500 to the detriment of her ex-husband who then recovered the $118,500 from the Plaintiff. This action was commenced by the Plaintiff to recover those funds from the Debtor.

Section 523(a)(2)(A) provides in relevant part that a discharge under section 727 does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt for obtaining money, property, services, or an extension, renewal, or refinance of credit by false pretenses, a false representation, or actual fraud, other than a statement respecting the debtor's or an insider's financial condition. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A). In order to maintain a claim for actual fraud, the plaintiff must provide sufficient factual content from which a court can derive that:

- (1) the debtor made the representations; (2) that at the time he knew they were false; (3) that he made them with the intention and purpose of deceiving the creditor; (4) that the creditor relied on such representations, and (5) that the creditor sustained the alleged loss and damage as the proximate result of the representations having been made.

In re Taylor, 514 F.2d 1370, 1373 (9th Cir.1975).

The evidence filed in connection with the Motion, and in particular the deposition excerpts of Victor Johnson, Janine Soule-Washington, and the Debtor support the following findings of fact:

1. The refinance loans paid off the then existing loans on the Subject Property and the surplus amounts served as a cash-out that was deposited into escrow for the benefit of the borrowers;
2. Plaintiff issued a lender's title insurance policy to Washington Mutual Bank in connection with both refinance loans consummated on August 31, 2006;

4. The Deed of Trust dated August 31, 2006, securing a loan for $360,000.00 with Washington Mutual Bank against the Subject Property, contained Defendant's genuine signature and initials;
5. Plaintiff issued payment to Victor Johnson in the amount of $118,500.00 in order to settle any claims he had against lender Washington Mutual Bank, which represents the approximate difference between the amount of the then existing loans on the Subject Property and the two August 31, 2006 Washington Mutual Bank refinance loans;

18. Defendant admitted to Victor Johnson that she was involved in the two August 31, 2006 Washington Mutual Bank loan refinance transactions;
19. Notary public Janine Soule-Washington has never personally notarized any documents for either Defendant or Victor Johnson;
20. Notary public Janine Soule-Washington let Alvin Colbert borrow her notary journal for purposes of notarizing the August 31, 2006 loan documents, and she was not present when the August 31, 2006 loan documents were executed and notarized;
21. Alvin Colbert was Defendant's ex-boyfriend going back to the 1980's and with whom Defendant had two children prior to meeting Victor Johnson;
22. Defendant likely forged Victor Johnson's signature in the two August 31, 2006 Washington Mutual Bank loan refinance transactions because Victor Johnson had good credit;

25. On January 25, 2010, Judge Geoffrey T. Glass of the California Superior Court, County of Orange, entered a Judgment in favor of Plaintiff and against Debtor in the 2009 State Court Action in the amount of $118,500;
 26. The allegations of the State Court Action are incorporated into Plaintiff's Complaint for nondischargeability and are supported by the evidence filed in connection with the instant Motion.

Based on the above findings of fact, the Court concludes that (1) the Debtor made false representations to Plaintiff and the associated lending institutions when she knowingly submitted refinance paperwork containing forgeries of her ex-husband Victor Johnson; (2) that at the time the loan documents were submitted, the Debtor knew that her ex-husband's signature and consent to the refinance had been falsified; (3) that the Debtor worked in concert with her ex-boyfriend, Alvin Colbert, to forge Victor Johnson's signature and employed the notary journal of Alvin Colbert's then girlfriend, Janine Soule Washington with the intent and purpose of deceiving the Plaintiff and associated lending institutions; (4) that the Plaintiff and associated lending institutions relied on such representations, assuming them to be true and accurate, when they approved the loans and when Plaintiff extended its title insurance in connection with the transactions, and (5) that the Plaintiff sustained the loss and damage in the amount of $118,500 as the proximate result of the Debtor's false representations and forgeries having been made.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court finds that the pleadings, depositions, failure to answer interrogatories, and additional evidence filed in connection with the Motion show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the Plaintiff is entitled to a judgment as a matter of law. On this basis, the Court GRANTS Summary Judgment in favor of the Plaintiff on the § 523(a)(2)(A) claim in the amount of $118,500.

I. BACKGROUND

On January 28, 2011, Brad & Deborah Stoddard ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition and plan. Debtors' plan contained a provision, in section V.F, that stated: "The debt of American Education Services will be discharged; the school has been stripped of accreditation and is on probation." The plan was served on American Education Services at P.O. Box 2461, Harrisburg, PA 17105-2461.

On March 14, 2011, "Brazos/US Bank Natnl" filed a proof of claim ("Claim 5") for an unsecured claim in the amount of $35,080.90 on the basis of a student loan. The proof of claim indicating that notices should be sent to "AES/PHEAA, PO Box 8181, Harrisburg, PA 17105." On March 17, 2011, the Court summarily confirmed Debtors' plan on the basis of the trustee's recommendation. On March 30, 2011, AES/PHEAA filed a transfer of claim agreement, stating that Claim 5 was being transferred to AEA/PHEAA, and that notices should be sent to "AES/PHEAA, PO Box 8147,

Chapter 13

Harrisburg, PA 17105." On May 24, 2011, the Court entered an order confirming Debtors' plan.

On December 5, 2016, Debtors received a discharge. On June 1, 2017, Debtors filed a motion for an order to show cause why American Educational Services ("AES") should not be held in contempt for violating the discharge injunction. On June 8, 2017, AES filed its opposition. Debtors allege that the AES violated the discharge injunction through various attempts to collect on Claim 5 after Debtors received a discharge. AES asserts that they did not violate the discharge injunction because: (1) AES was not a creditor at the time Debtor filed their plan; (2) the provision at issue in Debtors' plan was unclear; and (3) Debtors' failure to utilize the appropriate procedure precludes the relief sought.

After a hearing on July 27, 2017, the Court issued an order to show cause why Debtors and their former counsel, Matthew Resnik ("Resnik"), should not be sanctioned for including a prohibited provision in a Chapter 13 plan (the "OSC"). On August 14, 2017, Debtors filed their opposition. On August 17, 2017, Resnik filed his opposition. On August 24, 2017, AES filed a reply. After a hearing on August 31, 2017, the Court continued the matter to October 2, 2017. On September 21 & 22, 2017, Resnik supplemented his response.

II. DISCUSSION

A person who knowingly violates the discharge injunction can be held in contempt under § 105(a) of the Bankruptcy Code. See In re Bennett, 298 F.3d 1059, 1069 (9th Cir. 2002). The moving party has the burden of showing by clear and convincing evidence that the contemnors knowingly and willfully violated a specific and definite order of the court. Id. In addition, the moving party must prove that the creditor: (1) knew the discharge injunction was applicable; and (2) intended the actions which violated the injunction in order to justify sanctions. Id.

Chapter 13

Here, the critical issue is whether Debtors' plan effectively resulted in a discharge of the debt upon which AES subsequently attempted to collect. There are three distinct issues that warrant attention in connection with the above issue: (1) whether Debtors' plan was sufficiently clear regarding the debt to be discharged; (2) whether holding that Claim 5 was discharged would violate principles of due process; and (3) whether, and to what extent, it would be appropriate for the Court to exercise its equitable remedies.

I. The Plan Provision

The plan provision at issue states: "The debt of American Education Services will be discharged; the school has been stripped of accreditation and is on probation." It is crucial that a miscellaneous provision included within a Chapter 13 plan both identify the creditor and claim to be affected by the plan, and explain the proposed treatment of the debtor's claim. Here, it is not clear that the above provision was adequate in either respect.

First, at the time of the petition date, at the time of the filing of the plan containing the above provision, and at the time of the confirmation hearing, AES was not the holder of Claim 5, but was merely the servicer of Claim 5. While AES subsequently acquired the claim, after the confirmation hearing but before the confirmation order was entered, that subsequent acquisition does not change the fact that AES was not a creditor of Debtors at the time of confirmation, or at the time that service of the plan was made. Although AES did acquire a claim against Debtor between the confirmation hearing and the entry of the confirmation order, such acquisition occurred too late for AES to have an opportunity to timely object to the subject plan provision.

Nor does the fact that Claim 5 identified AES as the party to be noticed affect who was the actual creditor of Debtors. While that identification affects the propriety of the notice given, it does not affect the characterization of AES as a loan servicer, rather than a creditor. A loan servicer is not a proper defendant in a non-dischargeability adversary proceeding, see In re Kleckner, 560 B.R. 172, 177 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 2016), and, likewise, it is not the proper party in a "discharge by declaration."

Furthermore, the contractual interpretation canon that ambiguous language is to be construed against the drafter is appropriate in this circumstance. See generally Maryland Cas. Co. v. Knight, 96 F.3d 1284, 1291 (9th Cir. 1996) (identifying canon). The actual holder of the claim, "Brazos/US Bank Natnl," had no reason to object to the proposed plan, because they were not identified in the plan. Even if "Brazos/US Bank Natnl" were aware that AES was the loan servicer, AES services many loans, and it is entirely possible, indeed probably common, that AES services multiple loans for many individuals. See, e.g., In re Kleckner, 560 B.R. 172, 173 n.1 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 2016) (AES was servicer for loans held by six different entities). Furthermore, "Brazos/US Bank Natnl" was not served with the plan or noticed of the confirmation hearing, and, therefore, was denied due process. AES meanwhile was not a creditor at the time the plan was served, and would have had no reason to object to plan confirmation; indeed, it is not even clear that AES was a party in interest with standing to object.

Finally, the subject plan provision is unclear regarding the proposed treatment of the "claim." While the plan provision indicates that the claim "will be discharged" it does not indicate any timeframe or conditions for discharge.

While at first glance it may seem that the phrase means the claim is to be discharged upon plan completion, the situation is not so simple. What would have been the effect if Debtors had stated that the claim was to be discharged immediately upon plan confirmation? While such a premature discharge violates the Code, a discharge of a student loan debt at plan completion, without an adversary proceeding and an "undue hardship" determination, also violates the Code. But by using the word "will," a future tense verb, Debtors appear to have intended that the claim would be discharged at some future time, after some further event. Is that future event the completion of plan payments? Or is that event the successful prosecution of an adversary proceeding? Given such ambiguity, in construing such ambiguous language against the draft, the Court determines that it is appropriate to adopt the most legally appropriate interpretation, that discharge here is subject to an unperformed condition precedent (i.e. the filing of a non-dischargeability complaint), and the condition has not been satisfied, as a complaint has not been filed..

Chapter 13

In accordance with the above, the Court finds that the subject plan provision, in the absence of a subsequent adversary proceeding, was inadequate to discharge Claim 5.

II. Notice & Due Process

As is noted in section I, supra, there are three different PO boxes in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania that are relevant here: (1) PO Box 8181, the address located on Claim 5; (2) PO Box 8147, the address located on the claim transfer filed with the Court; and (3) PO Box 2461, the address where Debtors served their plan. The record does not detail the precise function of each of these PO boxes, but, presumably, each PO Box is associated with a different department at AES.¹

Assuming, arguendo, AES was a creditor at the time of the service of the plan, or if Debtors' plan provision were to have properly identified the debt, would AES have received due process through the service effectuated by Debtors? The Supreme Court, in Espinosa, deferred to the traditional recitation of due process in this situation: "[d]ue process requires notice 'reasonable calculated, under all the circumstances, to apprise interested parties of the pendency of the action and afford them an opportunity to present their objections.'" United Student Aid Funds, Inc. v. Espinosa, 559 U.S. 260, 272 (2010) (quoting Mullane v. Cent. Hanover Bank & Trust Co., 339 U.S. 306, 314 (1950)). In Espinosa, the Supreme Court concluded that the creditor had received actual notice ostensibly because United Student Aid Funds, Inc. filed a proof of claim. Id. at 265. Here, the same situation is present – Claim 5 was filed prior to the confirmation hearing and appears to be evidence that the holder of Claim 5 had actual notice of the bankruptcy filing prior to confirmation.

Chapter 13

Even before the Supreme Court decided Espinosa, the Ninth Circuit was of the position that a creditor was precluded from challenging a confirmation order, even if the confirmation order contained an illegal provision, if that creditor failed to object during the confirmation process. See, e.g., In re Pardee, 193 F.3d 1083, 1086 (9th Cir. 1999) (citing Trulis v. Barton, 107 F.3d 685, 691 (9th Cir. 1995); In re Gregory, 705 F.2d 1118, 1121 (9th Cir. 1983)). The Ninth Circuit's approach was the minority approach. See, e.g., In re Escobedo, 28 F.3d 34, 35 (7th Cir. 1994) (confirmed plan that failed to comply with Code's requirements was "nugatory"); see also 8 Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 1325.01 (16th ed. 2016) (endorsing the Ninth Circuit's approach, but collecting cases which indicate that the Second, Fourth, Sixth, and Seventh Circuits disagreed).

While Espinosa declared that a confirmation order was not void simply because it contained an illegal provision, and Ninth Circuit precedent indicates that a creditor is estopped from challenging a confirmation order after the fact, a review of the case law from the previously dissenting circuits illustrates the procedural mechanisms available to the Court, rather than a creditor. For instance, one court, in reconsidering and vacating a confirmed Chapter 13 plan stated the following:

Relief from judgment under Rule 60(b) may be granted sua sponte by the court. A decision under Rule 60(b) is a matter of the court's discretion. The Rule's requirement that relief be granted within a 'reasonable time' also rests within the sound discretion of the court. While relief under Rule 60(b) is discretionary, it is warranted only upon a showing of extraordinary circumstances that create a substantial danger that the underlying judgment was unjust. The court should also look to whether any intervening rights have been affected by the passage of time since entry of the original judgment.

In re Burgess, 138 B.R. 56, 59 (Bankr. W.D. Wis. 1991); see also In re Carr, 318 B.R. 517 (Bankr. W.D. Wis. 2004) (utilizing the Court's discretion to revoke, on equitable grounds, a confirmation order that violated the Code). There is no strict timeline for relief from a judgment or order pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 60(b)(4)-(6). See, e.g., In re Hanson, 397 F.3d 482 (7th Cir. 2005) (modifying discharge order to exclude student loan creditor nearly six years later).

Chapter 13

The Court is cognizant of the fact that, unlike most of the cases above, in this situation the Chapter 13 plan was completed, Debtors received a discharge, and the case was closed. The length of time that has elapsed would be a critical factor in any analysis considering whether to revoke or modify the Chapter 13 confirmation order pursuant to Rule 60(b)(6). Currently, there is no motion filed by AES pending before the Court implicating a Rule 60(b)(6) analysis, and because the Court finds that Debtors' drafting errors precludes a finding that Claim 5 was discharged, the Court declines to undertake such analysis at the current time.

IV. CONCLUSION

In accordance with Section II.I, supra, the Court concludes that Claim 5 was not discharged. Because Claim 5 was not discharged, there can be no violation of the discharge injunction, and, therefore, the motion is DENIED.

On January 28, 2011, Brad & Deborah Stoddard ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On May 24, 2011, Debtors' Chapter 13 plan was confirmed. The plan contained the following provision, section V.F.: "The debt of American Education Services will be discharged; the school has been stripped of accreditation and is on probation." On July 31, 2017, the Court issued its Order to Show Cause why Matthew Resnik ("Resnik"), Brad Stoddard, and Deborah Stoddard should not be sanctioned for including a prohibited provision in a Chapter 13 plan (the "OSC"). Debtors filed their opposition on August 14, 2017. Resnik filed his opposition on August 17, 2017. AES filed its reply on August 24, 2017. Resnick filed supplemental responses on September 21 and 22, 2017.

DISCUSSION

I. Introduction

The OSC is issued in light of, and accordance with, the Supreme Court's decision in United Student Aid Funds, Inc. v. Espinosa, 559 U.S. 260 (2010). In Espinosa, the bankruptcy court had confirmed a Chapter 13 plan which purported to discharge student loan debt without complying with the applicable procedural requirements. After intercepting debtor's income tax refund to use towards payment of student loans, the creditor argued that the bankruptcy court's order confirming the debtor's Chapter 13 plan should be declared void. The Supreme Court held that, absent a jurisdictional or due process violation (which was not present) the bankruptcy court's legal error in confirming the Chapter 13 plan with a provision that impermissibly discharged student loan debt, did not render the order void. At the conclusion of its opinion, the Supreme Court opined:

We acknowledge the potential for bad-faith litigation tactics. But expanding the availability of relief under Rule 60(b)(4) is not an appropriate prophylaxis. As we stated in Taylor v. Freeland & Kronz, 503 U.S. 638 (1992), "debtors and their attorneys face penalties under various provisions for engaging in improper conduct in bankruptcy proceedings." Id. at 644; see also Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9011. The specter of such penalties should deter bad-faith attempts to discharge student loan debt without the undue hardship finding

Espinosa, 559 U.S. at 278. Here, the Court is tasked with interpreting and implementing the guidance provided by the Supreme Court in Espinosa.

Debtors and Resnick have filed separate responses to the Court's OSC. Debtors have raised five arguments in their opposition: (1) that the Court already found that the plan was filed in good faith; (2) that the plan must be given res judicata effect; (3) that the Court is exceeding its discretionary sanctioning authority; (4) that the OSC is an illegal ex post facto law; and (5) that Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9011 is inapplicable. Resnick offers the following categories of arguments in his opposition: (1) use of the Court's inherent sanctioning authority is inappropriate here; (2) Rule 9011 sanctions require a contempt finding; (3) Section 105 is inapplicable; and (4) the plan provision at issue is not prohibited. The Court will analyze the respondents' arguments separately.

II. Debtors' Opposition

A. The Court's Good Faith Finding

11 U.S.C. § 1325(a)(3) states:

- (a) Except as provided in subsection (b), the court shall confirm a plan if –
- (3) the plan has been proposed in good faith and not by any means forbidden by law

Debtors argue that: "[i]t necessarily follows [from § 1325(a)(3)] that the Court has already made an express finding that the Plan was filed in good faith." This result does not necessarily follow from the language of the statute. The plain language of § 1325 (a) operates to eliminate the discretion of the court if the court finds that the debtor has satisfied the nine subsections of § 1325(a); the provision does not state the consequences of a finding that some, but not all, of the § 1325(a) subsections have been satisfied. As is stated by the leading bankruptcy treatise:

The standards set forth in section 1325(a), however, are not requirements that must be met in every case before a plan can be confirmed. Unlike section 1322 (a), section 1325(a) does not state that "the plan shall" comply with its listed criteria. Nor does it state, as does section 1129(a), that the court shall confirm the plan only if certain requirements are met. Instead it states only that if its criteria are met the court must confirm the plan. Therefore, the court has discretion to confirm a plan that does not comply with all of the standards of section 1325(a), particularly if no party objects.

8 Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 1325.01 (16th ed. 2016) (footnotes omitted).

Despite the plain language of the statute, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, without any independent analysis, and relying on an out of circuit bankruptcy court decision, has determined that the requirements of § 1325(a) are mandatory for Chapter 13 plan confirmation. See In Chinichian, 784 F.2d 1440, 1443-44 (9th Cir. 1986) ("For a court to confirm a plan, each of the requirements of section 1325 must be present and the debtor has the burden of proving that each element has been met.") (citing In re Elkind, 11 B.R. 473, 476 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1981)). While it remains unclear from where the mandatory characterization of § 1325(a) arose, a variety of courts have, in passing, assumed that the § 1325(a) standards are mandatory for plan confirmation. See, e.g., Assocs. Comm. Corp. v. Rash, 520 U.S. 953, 956 (1997) ("To qualify for confirmation under Chapter 13, the Rash's plan had to satisfy the requirements set forth in § 1325(a) of the Code."); Shaw v. Aurgroup Fin. Credit Union, 552 F.3d 447, 459 (6th Cir. 2009) ("Numerous district and bankruptcy courts outside the Fifth, Ninth, Tenth, and Eleventh Circuits, including courts within this circuit, have also held, suggested, or assumed that the provision in § 1325(a) are mandatory.") (collecting cases). But see In re Szostek, 886 F.2d 1405, 1411 (3rd Cir. 1989) ("On the other hand, if the conditions of § 1325 are not met, although the requirements of § 1322 are fulfilled, the court has the discretion to confirm the plan. If Congress had intended for § 1325(a) to be mandatory, it could have included that requirement with the requirements already listed in § 1322); see also Matter of Escobedo, 28 F.3d 34, 34 (7th Cir. 1994) ("We note, however, as did the court in Szostek, that while the provisions of § 1325(a)(5) may be discretionary[,] the requirements of § 1322(a)(2) are mandatory.). Indeed, even Espinosa appears to implicitly assume that the § 1325(a) requirements are mandatory. See 559 U.S. 260, 277 ("That is because § 1325(a) instructs a bankruptcy court to confirm a plan only if the court finds, inter alia, that the plan complies with the 'applicable provisions' of the Code.") (emphasis added). Therefore, it would appear that binding case law suggests that the § 1325(a) requirements, including good faith, are mandatory requirements for confirmation.

B. Res Judicata

While the Court accepts Debtors' argument that, by confirming their Chapter 13 plan, the Court implicitly found that the plan was filed in good faith, the Court rejects Debtors' argument that that finding is res judicata with regard to the Court. 11 U.S.C. § 1327(a) states: "The provisions of a confirmed plan bind the debtor and each creditor, whether or not the claim of such creditor is provided for by the plan, and whether or not such creditor has objected to, has accepted, or has rejected the plan." The Court is not a creditor and Debtors have advanced no argument as to how § 1327(a) would prevent the Court from revisiting its finding of good faith. In fact, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals opinion that concluded the § 1325(a) requirements were mandatory stated the following: "Because section 1325(a)(3) of Title 11 requires the Chinichians to propose their plan in good faith, the bankruptcy court has jurisdiction to revoke a plan if the plan was not filed in good faith." In re Chinichian, 784 F.2d 1440, 1442 (9th Cir. 1986). The Ninth Circuit's further comments indicate that it believed such powers were expansive:

The Chinichians argue, however, that because section 1330 is a specific statute it should govern the more general section 105. The Mancari rationale that a specific statute cannot be nullified by a more general one is only applicable where a conflict exists.

Section 1330 provides a method of revoking a confirmation order "on request of a party in interest." While it does not specifically authorize such a revocation by the court sua sponte, it does not prohibit such action. Section 105 constitutes authority for the court to issue any order necessary to carry out the provisions of the Code. That reservoir of power in no manner conflicts with the authority to act upon the request of an interested party, but constitutes a supplemental method of revocation in the event of fraud. It would be absurd to hold that the bankruptcy court is powerless to correct a fraud unless first requested by an interested party, and that is not what section 1330 provides.

Section 105 sets out the power of the bankruptcy court to fashion orders as necessary pursuant to the purposes of the Bankruptcy Code.

Further, a bankruptcy court is a court of equity. As a court of equity, it may look through form to the substance of a transaction and devise new remedies where those at law are inadequate. Further, it can modify or vacate its order so long as no intervening right has become vested in reliance thereon. Thus, the bankruptcy court had equitable power to revoke its order partially confirming the Chinichians' plan once it recognized the Chinichians did not file their plan in good faith as required by section 1325(a)(3).

Id. at 1442-43 (citations omitted).

Debtors' argument that § 1327 operates to prevent the Court from modifying its implicit good faith finding when confirming the plan lacks merit. The statute states that the terms of the provisions of a confirmed plan are binding on the debtor and creditors. The Court is not a creditor or a debtor nor is the Court's good faith finding a provision of a confirmed plan. Nor does res judicata prevent a court from revoking or amending its own order. Such a principle would eliminate the ability to revoke or modify a judgment altogether, rendering obsolete Fed. R. Civ. P. Rules 59 & 60, in addition to many others legal provisions. Debtors' argument that the Court is bound by its own previous finding due to res judicata is not compelling.

C. The Court Lacks Authority to Issue Sanctions

Debtors' argument that the Court lacks authority to issue sanctions can be summarized in the following: (1) the Court is precluded from finding that the plan was proposed in bad faith due to res judicata; and (2) the Court must find that the plan was proposed in bad faith for sanctions to be warranted. Because the Court rejects (1), as outlined above, Debtors' argument must fail.

D. The OSC is an "Illegal Ex Post Facto Law"

In their fourth argument, Debtors argue that this OSC is an ex post facto law. As noted by Debtors, Art. 1 §§ 9 & 10 of the Constitution prohibit ex post facto laws. Article 1 of the Constitution deals with the legislative branch – the branch of the government that makes laws. The Judicial Branch does not make laws. Debtors' argument that a court order is an ex post facto law is therefore, necessarily, invalid.

E. Rule 9011 is Inapplicable

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9011(b)(2) states:

By presenting to the court (whether by signing, filing, submitting, or later advocating) a petition, pleading, written motion, or other paper, an attorney or unrepresented party is certifying that to the best of the person's knowledge, information, and belief, formed after an inquiry reasonable under the circumstances, --

(2) the claims, defenses, and other legal contentions therein are warranted by existing law or by a nonfrivolous argument for the extension, modification, or reversal of existing law or the

Chapter 13

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9011(c)(1)(B) states: "[O]n its own initiative, the court may enter an order describing the specific conduct that appears to violate subdivision (b) and directing an attorney, law firm, or party to show cause why it has not violated subdivision (b) with respect thereto."

Debtors' nine subsection argument why Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9011 is inapplicable is rather chaotic and disorganized. Regardless, the Court acknowledges that, as to Debtors, Rule 9011 sanctions are inapplicable due to the operation of Rule 9011(c)(2) (A). Therefore, the Court agrees that Rule 9011 cannot operate as the source of sanctions against Debtors.

III. Resnick's Opposition

A. Inherent Sanctioning Authority

The Supreme Court has stated: "it is firmly established that the power to punish for contempts is inherent in all courts." Chambers v. NASCO, Inc., 501 U.S. 32, 44 (1991) (quoting Ex parte Robinson, 19 Wall. 505, 510 (1874)); see also Fink v. Gomez, 239 F.3d 989, 992 (9th Cir. 2001) ("[T]he district court has the inherent authority to impose sanctions for bad faith, which includes a broad range of willful improper conduct."). The Ninth Circuit has stated: "Itel teaches that sanctions are justified when a party acts for an improper purpose – even if the act consists of making a truthful statement or a non-frivolous argument or objection. Fink, 239 F.3d at 922; see also In re Dyer, 322 F.3d 1178, 1196 (9th Cir. 2003) (discussing bad faith and willful misconduct).

Nevertheless, as Resnick states: "when there is bad-faith conduct in the course of litigation that could be adequately sanctioned under the Rules, the court ordinarily should rely on the Rules rather than the inherent power." Chambers, 501 U.S. at 50. Because the Court believes that the existing framework provides an adequate basis for sanctions in this type of situation, the Court need not rely on its inherent sanctioning authority.

B. Rule 9011

When imposing sanctions, sua sponte, under Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9011, "sanctions 'will ordinarily be imposed only in situations that are akin to a contempt of court.'" United Nat'l Ins. Co. v. R&D Latex Corp., 242 F.3d 1102, 1116 (9th Cir. 2001) (citing Barber v. Miller, 146 F.3d 707, 711 (9th Cir. 1998); see also Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 11, Advisory Committee Notes ("Since show cause orders will ordinarily be issued only in situations that are akin to a contempt of court, the rule does not provide a 'safe harbor' to a litigant for withdrawing a claim, defense, etc., after a show cause has been issued on the court's own initiative.")). "[P]rior to imposing court-initiated sanctions, the district court is required to determine whether counsel's conduct is 'akin to contempt.'" Gonzalez v. Texaco Inc., 344 Fed. Appx. 304, 308 (9th Cir. 2009) (quoting R&D Latex Corp., 242 F.3d 1102, 1118)).

In this situation, the Court defers to Bankruptcy Judge TeSelle:

At the hearing on the motions to dismiss conducted by the Court in these cases on May 2, 2000, it was clear to the Court that debtors' counsel included these plan provisions in the hope that they would trap an unwary student loan creditor. If a plan containing a student loan discharge provision is confirmed, debtors and their counsel argue that the student loan obligation is discharged under the theory of res judicata, improperly relying on a skewed interpretation of the opinion of the Tenth Circuit Court of Appeals in In re Andersen, 179 F.3d 1253 (10th Cir. 1999) to support their position. If an objection to confirmation is raised by either the Trustee or the student loan creditor, the offending language is simply removed from the plan, and debtors are no worse off for their attempt. The Court will not permit this type of gamesmanship on the part of debtors and their counsel to continue. Conduct such as this has no place in the practice of bankruptcy law, and will not be tolerated by this Court.

The citation of the opinion of the Tenth Circuit in Andersen, supra, as authority for the practice of intentionally inserting language in a chapter 13 plan that violates the Bankruptcy Code and Rules, and as authorizing counsel to stand by silently and thereby induce the Court to confirm a plan that contains a provision that counsel knows violates the Bankruptcy Code and Rules, is at once offensive and specious. Counsel appearing before this Court are officers of the Court and are ethically obligated to inform the Court if they are aware of the existence of a plan provision that renders the plan non-confirmable.

Rather than recognizing their obligations to the Court and to opposing counsel, counsel for debtors in these cases go so far as to suggest that they are compelled by Andersen to recommend that their clients include these unlawful plan provisions, implying that their failure to do so might be an act of professional negligence. The Court does not believe that a fair reading of the opinion of the Tenth Circuit in Andersen can reasonably lead one to conclude that the Tenth Circuit intended to encourage the practice of intentionally inserting unlawful plan provisions in the hope that confirmation of the plan will occur and the time for appeal will pass before such provisions are noticed so that debtors and their counsel can then claim res judicata. Such a skewed reading of Andersen fails to account for the ethical obligations owed by members of the bar to the Court and to each other.

This is particularly true given the volume of chapter 13 filings in this district, and the fact that the Court does not have the time to independently review every chapter 13 plan and confirmation order to determine whether an attempt to unlawfully discharge a student loan obligation is being made. Because the Court has apparently been unable to rely on the ethical conduct of some of the counsel representing chapter 13 debtors appearing before it, the Court, up to his point in time, has been forced to rely on a party in interest other than the debtor to point out those instances in which such student loan discharges have been attempted through plan provisions. Where the Court has become aware of such attempts, either through objections by the student loan creditor or through the inclusion of such a provision in the order confirming the chapter 13 plan, the Court has refused to confirm the plan containing such language, and has stricken language from confirmation orders attempting to effect a discharge of student loan indebtedness in this manner.

In light of the existing case law concerning the impropriety of the inclusion of such student loan discharge provisions in chapter 13 plans, and the unambiguous language of the Bankruptcy Code and Rules, the Court believes that the inclusion of such a provision in a chapter 13 plan and/or order confirming a chapter 13 plan is both unethical and sanctionable conduct pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9011. Bankruptcy Rule 9011(b) concerns representations made to the Court. It states that by presenting a paper to the Court, an attorney or unrepresented party certifies to the best of his or her knowledge, information and belief, formed after a reasonable inquiry under the circumstances, that the legal contentions therein are warranted by existing law or by a nonfrivolous argument for the extension, modification, or reversal of existing law or the establishment of new law. See Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9011 (b)(2).

The Court refuses to allow counsel for debtors to turn the inclusion of a student loan discharge provision in a chapter 13 plan into a "can't lose" proposition. The Court therefore concludes that Andersen provides no protection from the imposition of sanctions under Rule 9011(b) in cases in which a student loan discharge provision is included in a confirmed chapter 13 plan.

Chapter 13

C. Section 105

11 U.S.C. § 105(a) states:

- (a) The court may issue any order, process, or judgment that is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of this title. No provision of this title providing for the raising of an issue by a party in interest shall be construed to preclude the court from, sua sponte, taking any action or making any determination necessary to enforce or implement court orders or rules, or to prevent an abuse of process.

Resnick offers a single argument in support of his position that § 105(a) is inapplicable: that the provision only applies to violations of a specific court order. Resnick cites In re Dyer in support of this statement. 322 F.3d 1178, 1196 (9th Cir. 2003) ("Civil contempt authority allows a court to remedy a violation of a specific order (including 'automatic' orders, such as the automatic stay or discharge injunction).").

Dyer does not explicitly state that § 105(a) is strictly limited to remedying violations of specific court orders, nor does it cite any authority from which it could be inferred that the Dyer court had such an opinion. Indeed § 105(a) explicitly mentions, in addition to court orders, rules and "abuse of process"; the latter might be invoked in the absence of a specific court order.

The Supreme Court, on two occasions after Dyer, has written an opinion which indicates that § 105 is not strictly limited to correcting violations of specific court orders. First, in Marrama v. Citizens Bank of Mass., the Supreme Court wrote:

CONT... Brad Stoddard and Deborah Ann Stoddard

On the contrary, the broad authority granted to bankruptcy judges to take any action that is necessary or appropriate to prevent an abuse of process described in § 105(a) of the Code, is surely adequate to authorize an immediate denial of a motion to convert filed under § 706 in lieu of a conversion order that merely postpones the allowance of equivalent relief and may provide a debtor with an opportunity to take action prejudicial to creditors.

549 U.S. 365, 375 (2007) (footnote omitted). The "abuse of process" referenced in Marrama was not a violation of a specific court order, but, rather, "an unmeritorious attempt to qualify as a debtor under Chapter 13." Id.

Second, in Law v. Siegel, the Supreme Court stated: "Section 105(a) confers authority to 'carry out' the provisions of the Code." This statement is natural, since the first sentence of § 105(a) states: "[t]he court may issue any order, process, or judgment that is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of this title."

Here, the Court concludes that a specific and definite court order has not been violated. Nevertheless, the reconciliation of Dyer and Marrama helps illustrate the proper approach forward. The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeal's instructions that sanctions under § 105(a) are appropriate for violation of a specific and definite court order is derived from the non-bankruptcy standard for civil contempt. See F.T.C. v. Affordable Media, 179 F.3d 1228, 1239 (9th Cir. 1999) (quoting Stone v. City & Cnty. of S.F., 968 F.2d 850, 856 n.9 (9th Cir. 1992)) ("The moving party has the burden of showing by clear and convincing evidence that the contemnors violated a specific and definite order of the court. The burden then shifts to the contemnors to demonstrate why they were unable to comply."). Nevertheless, as illustrated by Marrama, the Court's authority under § 105(a) is not strictly limited to issuing sanctions for civil contempt. While a civil contempt finding under § 105(a) may not be appropriate in these circumstances, it does not follow that the Court lacks the ability to adequately and equitably resolve this situation.

BACKGROUND

On June 8, 2017, Gail Stump ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On July 26, 2017, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On September 12, 2017, Trustee filed a motion to dismiss for delinquency. On September 27, 2017, Debtor filed her opposition, stating that she would cure the delinquency or file a motion to modify plan. Debtor did not appear at the hearing on the motion to dismiss, Trustee's motion was granted, and the case was dismissed on October 5, 2017.

On October 13, 2017, Debtor filed a motion to vacate dismissal. On October 16, 2017, Trustee filed comments recommending approval if Debtor cured the plan delinquency. Trustee's comments identify a delinquency of $1,533.48, although the comments were filed one month ago.

Debtor's attorney states that the failure to appear at the hearing on the motion to dismiss was a result of attorney neglect.

Given the conditional approval of the Trustee and the evidence submitted by Debtor, the Court finds that the requested relief is proper assuming that the condition has been satisfied.

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion conditioned on Debtor curing the plan delinquency in full.

Docket 62

Tentative Ruling:

BACKGROUND

On June 22, 2016, Dexter Humphrey ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On August 3, 2016, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On July 5, 2017, Trustee filed a motion to dismiss for failure to provide tax returns/receipts. On July 14, 2017, Debtor filed his opposition, stating that he had received an extension on his federal tax returns, and would submit the returns when completed. Debtor did not appear at the hearing on the motion to dismiss, Trustee's motion was granted, and the case was dismissed on July 25, 2017. Debtor states that he e-mailed the tax returns to Trustee that same day.

On August 3, 2017, Debtor filed a motion to vacate dismissal. On September 28, 2017, Trustee filed comments recommending approval if the motion was properly noticed and if Debtor cured the plan delinquency. Trustee's comments identify a delinquency of $8,539, although the comments were filed more than one month ago.

Chapter 13

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9024, incorporating Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 60(b)(1), provides for relief from an order for, among other things, "mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect." Debtors state that the tax returns were e-mailed to Trustee the day the case was dismissed, and that Debtor miscalendared the hearing date.

Given the conditional approval of the Trustee and the evidence submitted by Debtor, the Court finds that the requested relief is proper assuming that the condition has been satisfied.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion conditioned on Debtor curing the plan delinquency in full.

#2.00 Motion for Order Determining that Defendants have Consented to the Bankruptcy Court's Entry of a Final Order

Advanced From: 11/29/17

Also #3

EH__

Docket 424

Tentative Ruling:

11/27/2017

On April 23, 2010, the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee for the estate of Empire Land, LLC (the "Debtor"), Richard K Diamond (the "Trustee") filed the instant adversary proceeding ("EPI 2"). The complaint asserts claims for breach of fiduciary duty, avoidance of fraudulent conveyances, respondeat superior liability, professional negligence, aiding and abetting breach of fiduciary duty ("Complaint") against Larry Day, Empire Partners, Inc., Neil Miller, James Previti, and Paul Roman (collectively, "Defendants").

On October 18, 2017, the Trustee filed a Motion for Order Determining that Defendants have Consented to the Bankruptcy Court's Entry of a Final Order ("Motion"). On November 13, 2017, Defendants filed their opposition to the Motion ("Opposition"). A reply to the Opposition was filed on November 21, 2017 ("Reply").

The Court notes the following dates and facts and filings in the EPI 2 case for the record:

1. Defendants filed a Motion to Dismiss ("MTD") on July 2, 2010. That motion indicated that Defendants would not consent to the entry of final orders or judgments by the bankruptcy judge. (MTD at 2:17-19);

2. On January 9, 2012, Defendants filed their motion to withdraw the reference with the District Court ("First Withdrawal Motion").
3. Defendants filed their answer to the Complaint on April 6, 2012 ("Answer"). The Answer indicates at ¶ 31 that they do not consent to the entry of final orders or judgment by the Bankruptcy Court;
4. On March 7, 2014, Defendants filed a Motion for Order Barring the Trustee from Seeking Damages and to Compel the Trustee to Respond Further to Interrogatories and to Produce Communications with a Third Party ("First Discovery Motion");
5. On June 12, 2014, Defendants filed a Motion to Enforce Court's May 15, 2014, Order on the First Discovery Motion ("Motion to Compel");
6. On July 17, 2014, Defendants filed their Motion for Summary Judgment (the "MSJ");
7. On September 10, 2014, Defendants filed their Motion to Bar Trustee from Using Jeffrey E. Brandlin as an Expert Witness ... "at any trial or hearing" (the "Second Discovery Motion");
8. On May 27, 2015, the District Court denied the First Withdrawal Motion without prejudice and instructing that any renewed motion by Defendants address the effect of Wellness Int'l Network, Ltd. v. Sharif, 135 S. Ct. 1932, 1948 (2015) on the ability to seek withdrawal in EPI 2;
9. On June 29, 2015, Defendants filed their renewed Motion for Withdrawal (the "Second Withdrawal Motion");
10. The Second Withdrawal Motion was denied by the District Court on October 7, 2016.

Separately, the Court takes judicial notice of the motions for summary judgment also filed in the Trustee's related cases against Defendants (EPI 1 and EPI 3). The Defendants filed a request for summary judgment in EPI 1 on July 30, 2014, and in EPI 3 on August 13, 2014.

DISCUSSION

The issue of Defendants' right to a jury trial is not properly before this Court and as such the Court need not address it here.

I. Procedural Posture of the Motion

As a threshold matter, the Opposition correctly points out that a bankruptcy court may not hear or determine a motion to withdraw the reference. The Trustee in his Reply agrees with this point. However, the Trustee does not address or provide authority to support the procedural posture of its request for relief. The District Court certainly indicated that this Court was the proper forum to conduct the analysis regarding the issue of implied consent but did not remand this issue to the bankruptcy court for determination. Moreover, the Trustee has not couched his Motion as a request for declaratory relief or as any other cognizable request for relief. Instead, the request itself appears premature absent a request for a final order by the Trustee such as the filing of a summary judgment motion, or as a pretrial motion. In the absence of such a request for specific relief, the Trustee's Motion appears procedurally improper and may be denied on this basis.

II. Implied Consent

Parties' consent to the issuance of a final judgment by a bankruptcy court may be express or implied. In Wellness, the Supreme Court found that "nothing in the Constitution requires that consent to adjudication by a bankruptcy court be express. Nor does the relevant statute, 28 U.S.C. § 157, mandate express consent." Wellness, 135 S. Ct. at 1947–48. However, the Supreme Court stated that "a litigant's consent—whether express or implied—must still be knowing and voluntary." Id. at 1948. The key inquiry that the bankruptcy court must make is whether "the litigant or counsel was made aware of the need for consent and the right to refuse it, and still voluntarily appeared to try the case" before the bankruptcy court. Roell v. Withrow, 538 U.S. 580, 590 (2003). This standard reflects multiple "pragmatic virtues," including the increasing of judicial efficiency, the limiting of gamesmanship among the parties involved in the proceeding, and the honoring of the Article III right to have claims decided before judges free from potential domination by other branches of government. Wellness, 135 S. Ct. at 1948; Roell, 538 U.S. at 590–91. Passive and unwitting participation is not sufficient to find consent. In re Pringle, 495 B.R. 447, 461 (9th Cir. BAP 2013). Overall, a determination of whether a party consented to the bankruptcy court's jurisdiction requires "a deeply factbound analysis of the procedural history" in the proceeding. Wellness, 135 S. Ct. at 1949; In re Empire Land, LLC v. Empire Partners, Inc., 2016 WL 5890062, at *2 (C.D. Cal. Oct. 7, 2016); In re Saenz, 2016 WL 9021733, at *4 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. Dec. 19, 2016).

The Trustee cites to various cases in support of the argument that Defendants have impliedly consented to the Court's entry of final judgment in the instant case. The Court shall evaluate the Trustee's foremost cases. First, In re Clean Burn Fuels, LLC ("Conti"), 540 B.R. 195, 211 (Bankr. M.D.N.C. 2015), amended, No. 11-80562, 2016 WL 5874964 (Bankr. M.D.N.C. Oct. 7, 2016), amended, No. 11-80562, 2017 WL 1194452 (Bankr. M.D.N.C. Mar. 30, 2017), the Conti court provided the following analysis as to the effect of filing of a summary judgment motion on the issue of consent:

In its Amended Answer, Perdue did not consent to this Court's entry of a final judgment. See Perdue's Amended Answer, ¶ [Doc. No. 17]. However, Perdue later requested this Court to enter final judgment in its Motion for Summary Judgment. The Supreme Court, in allowing parties to impliedly consent to bankruptcy courts' jurisdiction, noted that such a rule promotes the "pragmatic virtue[]" of "checking gamesmanship." Wellness, 135 S.Ct. at 1948; see also Haley v. Barlays Bank Del. (In re Carter), 506 B.R. 83, 88 (Bankr.D.Ariz.2014) ("If a Stern objection were not deemed waived by the party making it seeking summary judgment, then the party could seek or permit a substantive ruling by the Bankruptcy Court, and then waive that objection if the ruling is favorable but insist on it if unfavorable, and get a second bite at the apple."). To prevent the gamesmanship described in Haley, this Court will interpret Perdue's Motion for Summary Judgment as its consent to this Court's entry of a final judgment.

Conti at n. 2. The Haley Court, in turn, found that the filing of the summary judgment amounted to sandbagging and found implied consent on that basis. Haley at 88. In Haley, the Court opined that:

Obviously if judgment is favorable to the objector he will then waive it, but will insist upon it if judgment is unfavorable. That strategy would be available even if the Stern objector is vociferously making the objection, as loudly as Bre'r Rabbit, even while trying the case to the Bankruptcy Court. Perhaps to avoid such litigation strategy it will be necessary for courts to adopt a rule that the Stern objection is waived or forfeited unless the objector promptly moves for withdrawal of the reference and prosecutes that motion to conclusion in the District Court, as the Bellingham defendant apparently failed to do.

Haley at 88-89. Here, Defendants' conduct (notwithstanding their statements to the contrary) evinces implied consent. Thus, by their conduct, Defendants must have waived or forfeited their right to have the District Court hear the case in order for this Court to assert jurisdiction for entry of final orders. See Pringle, 495 B.R. at 462.

In Pringle, the Ninth Circuit BAP concluded that while "sandbagging" may be sufficient for consent, it is not necessary to find implied consent. Id. at 458. In Pringle, the BAP evaluated whether in the absence of sandbagging, implied consent under Bellingham requires a finding that a party forfeited or waived its right to have an Article III court hear the case. Here, it cannot be argued that the Defendants forfeited their objection because they raised their non-consent early on. Instead, pursuant to Pringle, the issue before this Court is whether the Defendants, by their conduct, waived their right to have their case heard by an Article III court – i.e., whether they intentionally relinquished or abandoned a known right. Id. at 460. In Pringle, the record was "replete with instances of ... conscious engagement and use of the bankruptcy court and the services of [the] Panel to resolve the Trustee's claim ... undertaken against an almost unavoidable backdrop which called the bankruptcy court's authority into question. Id. at 459. In this case, the Court is not persuaded that the Defendants impliedly waived their objection to this Court's authority to enter final orders. In particular, unlike the situation described in Pringle, the Defendants demanded an Article III judge soon after the case was filed. The District Court then took the matter under submission for an extended period of time. During that time, the Court acknowledges that the Defendants could have sought a stay of the proceedings in this Court. However, neither Stern, Bellingham Wellness, nor 28 U.S.C. § 157 requires such action by Defendants. To the contrary, § 157 permits a bankruptcy judge to hear a proceeding that is not a core proceeding (as here). The statute only prohibits the entry of a final order or judgment. 28 U.S.C. § 157(c)(1). Defendants did seek summary judgment in this case. However, none of the cases cited by the Trustee involves a situation where the party objecting to the court's authority did so expressly in their summary judgment or motion to dismiss moving papers.

Defendants motion for summary judgment (although at times inconsistent in its usage of the correct verbiage) more than once mentioned that their request for relief was limited to what they believed this Court was empowered to grant – namely, the issuance of proposed findings and conclusions for consideration by the District

Court. Additionally, apart from the statements made in the moving papers, the transcript of the hearing underscores the fact that both sides and the Judge all agreed that granting of the motion for summary judgment could and would only result in the issuance of a recommendation to the District Court. (Mot. at Ex. 5, pp 582-585). This is in stark contrast to the facts True Traditions, LC v. Wu, 552 B.R. 826 (N.D. Cal. 2015), appeal dismissed (Aug. 29, 2016):

Appellant then filed a cross-motion for summary judgment affirmatively seeking judgment in its favor. The motion did not raise the issue of consent. See ER Exh. 12. Indeed, no party mentioned consent until the bankruptcy court revived the issue sua sponte on the record at the May 5, 2014 hearing on the parties' cross-motions for summary judgment. There, the bankruptcy court queried whether Appellant had impliedly consented to the bankruptcy court's entry of final judgment by filing a cross-motion for summary judgment.

Id at 837. Further, the Court is not persuaded by the Trustee's argument that any motion brought under Rule 56 in a non-core matter necessarily compels implied consent by waiver. Such a holding would appear to conflict with the plain language of § 157(c)(1) which accords bankruptcy courts the ability to hear non-core matters but submit proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law to the district court for the entry of a final order or judgment – which is precisely what Defendants requested in their motion for summary judgment. Indeed, all of Defendants actions up to this point, including the discovery motions referenced by the Trustee and the summary judgment motion, constitute pretrial matters which a bankruptcy court may hear notwithstanding that the case may eventually end up in the district court. See In re Healthcentral.com, 504 F.3d 775, 788 (9th Cir.2007) (holding that even where there is a Seventh Amendment right to a jury trial in the district court, the bankruptcy court may retain jurisdiction over the case for pretrial matters).

The strongest support of the Trustee's argument is the Haley Court's dictum suggesting a rule requiring parties objecting to bankruptcy court authority to wait to proceed in trying a case until their motion to withdraw the reference has been filed and ruled on by a district court. Haley at 88-89. Under this view, the Defendants' filing of a summary judgment (notwithstanding their statements that their request was limited to seeking findings of fact and recommendations for the District Court) would likely constitute implied consent because Defendants could have sought a stay of proceedings in this Court or in the District Court pending the resolution of the Motion to Withdraw the Reference. Instead, Defendants chose to continue to litigate in EPI I, II and III not merely in a defensive capacity but also, as indicated by the Trustee, by seeking affirmative relief in all three cases. This Court, however, is not persuaded that the policies underlying § 157, or the policy of judicial efficiency, would be served by the rule suggested in Haley. As has been acknowledged by Ninth Circuit, the current system promotes judicial economy and efficiency by making use of the bankruptcy court's unique knowledge of Title 11 and familiarity with the actions before them ... [and] ... only by allowing the bankruptcy court to retain jurisdiction over the action until trial is actually ready do we ensure that our bankruptcy system is carried out. Healthcentral.com at 788.

For these reasons, the Court finds that Defendants have not impliedly consented to the entry of final orders by this Court and the Court's tentative ruling is to DENY the Motion.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court's tentative ruling is to DENY the Motion as procedurally improper, and on alternative grounds on the merits because the record does not evince implied consent under Bellingham and Roell.

MOVAN: JOSE E TOLEDO AND ANTONIA TOLEDO

EH__

Docket 6

Tentative Ruling:

11/28/2017

The Movant improperly checked the box under ¶3(b)(3) in the Notice of Motion. This box indicates to parties that may oppose that an application for order shortening time is pending before the Court and that notice of a time and place of the hearing with an opposition deadline will be served at a later time. No such application is pending as to the instant motion. As such, parties opposing the motion would not have known that they needed to file opposition or appear at the hearing.

Based on the lack of due process, the Motion must be denied. Separately, the prior case was dismissed because the Debtors failed to provide 2016 tax returns, several creditors were omitted from the mailing matrix, and multiple other deficiencies in the filing. Additionally, Counsel for the Debtors in the second case is also current counsel, and the Motion makes no reference to the mistakes that led to dismissal of the second case, and further, provides no explanation as to why he made no appearance at the confirmation hearing where the second case was dismissed on the Trustee's recommendation.

The Movant has simply not established via competent evidence that the current case was filed in good faith.

#25.00 Notice of Motion and Motion in Individual Case for Order Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate Chevrolet Tahoe and Cruz

MOVANT: ANTONIO SILVERIA LOURENCO

EH__

Docket 14

Tentative Ruling:

11/28/2017

The Notice of Motion improperly indicates that the Motion was filed on regular notice under ¶3(a). Regular notice requires a motion be filed 21 days prior to the scheduled hearing. The instant motion was filed 15 days before the hearing and as such, the Notice of Motion incorrectly indicates to creditors that opposition was due the day after the Motion was filed. The Notice is further deficient in that it does not specifically name the creditors affected by the Motion – Alaska USA Federal Credit Union and Chase. Last, the Motion was not served per FRBP 7004 because it was not served on an officer/director of the credit union.

As to the merits, the prior case was voluntarily dismissed prior to the confirmation hearing because the Debtor had failed to include a contribution being made by the Debtor's girlfriend which is used to make payments on the second vehicle. Schedule I now reflects that Debtor is receiving $500 in monthly contributions from his girlfriend.

The Court finds that the evidence is sufficient to demonstrate good faith. However, the Court is inclined to DENY the Motion based on the notice deficiencies identified above.

APPEARANCES REQUIRED.

Docket 13

Tentative Ruling:

11/28/2017
Service is Proper
Opposition: Yes

The Debtor opposes the Motion on the basis that Movant allegedly illegally foreclosed on her interest in the Property. She requests a continuance to hire an attorney who is currently out of town for the holidays.

The Debtor has provided no evidence to support the request. Additionally, the Judgment on Movant's Unlawful Detainer was entered prepetition and Debtor has provided no support for the proposition that the estate has retained any interest in the Property. For these reasons, the Court is inclined to GRANT relief from the stay under §§ 362(d)(1) and (d)(2) based on the prepetition judgment as well as based on the filing of two prior cases affecting the Property which provide support for Movant's argument that the instant case has been filed in bad faith. GRANT waiver of 4001(a)(3) stay. Also, GRANTED as to ¶¶7b, 9b and 11 of the prayer for relief.

Docket 55

Tentative Ruling:

11/29/2017

No opposition has been filed.
Service was Proper.

The applications for compensation of the Trustee and Counsel for the Trustee, have been set for hearing on the notice required by LBR 2016-1.

The only receipts in this case were generated through a settlement approved by the Court on June 13, 2017 [Dkt No. 49; settlement motion, Dkt. No. 46] Paragraph 11 of the settlement motion's statement of facts states the following:

The application also provided that payment of the Fees and Expenses shall be subject to the terms of the application and the approval of the Bankruptcy Court after the filing of either a combined motion for Bankruptcy Court approval of the settlement and the payments of the Fees and Expenses or a separate fee application in accordance with 11 U.S.C. §§ 328 and 330 and Local Bankruptcy Rules.

Paragraph 12 of the settlement motion states the following:

By an order entered on April 20, 2017, the Court granted the application but modified the terms of employment by providing that the payments of the Fees and Expenses shall be subject to the approval of the Bankruptcy Court after the filing of a separate fee application in accordance with 11 U.S.C. §§ 328 and 330 and Local Bankruptcy Rules.

Chapter 7

As acknowledged by Trustee, this Court's order authorizing the employment of the Phillips Law Firm as special counsel explicitly required, through the Court's modification of Trustee's proposed order, the filing of a separate fee application if Trustee was to make any payments to the firm. Yet, such an application was not filed.

In the absence of the required fee application, the Court cannot approve the Trustee's proposed distribution to the extent that that proposed distribution includes payments to the Phillips Law Firm. The Trustee's final report, however, does not appear to contemplate payments to the Phillips Law Firm, but, rather, it appears that such payments have already been made in violation of this Court's order.

Given that the majority of the gross receipts in this case appear to have already been paid from the estate in violation of Court order, no further distributions can be authorized at this time.

EH__

Docket 88

Tentative Ruling:

11/29/17

BACKGROUND

On October 26, 2009, Pamela Carmichael ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On January 13, 2010, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed. On April 23, 2010, the case was converted to Chapter 7. On August 16, 2010, Debtor received a discharge, and, three days later, the case was closed.

On March 21, 2016, the case was reopened to administer assets upon the motion of UST. Specifically, the asset to be administered was the proceeds from a class action judgment. After payment of all claims in Debtor's case, there was a surplus of $28,825.67 to be returned to Debtor. According to Debtor's attorney, she received a check from Trustee in the amount of $28,825.67 on July 11, 2017. Debtor's attorney states that she had "numerous conversations" with the class-action attorney and the trustee, and that, "[u]ltimately, it was determined that new checks needed to be issued. Specifically, Debtor's attorney requests three checks: (1) $3,000 for Doling Shaw & Hanover, APC (of which $1,500 is for "work completed to assist the bankruptcy estate in distributing the surplus funds"); (2) $12,912.84 to George Charles Carmichael; and (3) $12,912.84 to Pamela Ehrlich. The Court notes that the total amount of the three checks is $28,825.68 – essentially the same amount as the originally issued check.

On November 7, 2017, the Trustee filed a notice of non-opposition.

DISCUSSION

The division of Debtor’s probate estate as between successors, and resolution of claims against the probate estate, are matters of probate law, not bankruptcy law. The Trustee’s responsibility, and this Court’s supervisory duty, is limited to assuring that the Trustee issues the surplus check to Debtor. The subsequent division of those funds does not appear to be a matter for the bankruptcy court, but is a matter for probate law. While it is unclear whether Court approval of fees is required, no such approval is requested here. Last, importantly, it does not appear the motion has been noticed to or served upon a representative of the probate estate or upon Debtor’s heirs.

The Court is inclined to allow the parties the opportunity to obtain appraisals or other valuations of the subject property.

Alternatively, Debtor's evidence of the amount of the lien of Wells Fargo refers to the balance as of the filing of the motion. On March 22, 2017, Denny Rinehart ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On June 8, 2017, the Court approved the employment application of Shulman Hodges & Bastian LLP ("Applicant") to serve as Trustee's counsel effective May 4, 2017.

On September 14, 2017, the Court approved a settlement between Debtor and the bankruptcy estate whereby the Debtor would pay $50,000 to the estate in order to retain $75,000 in unexempt equity in certain real property located in Montclair, California, and $13,144.02 in certain unexempt insurance policies.

On November 6, 2017, the Court authorized the employment of Donald Fife as accountant for the estate. On November 8, 2017, Applicant filed the instant fee application. Docket 27

Tentative Ruling:

11/29/17

BACKGROUND

On July 27, 2017, Martha Jimenez ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition.

On September 8, 2017, Trustee filed a complaint against Debtor and three other individuals for: (1) declaratory relief; (2) avoidance of voidable transfer; (3) recovery of avoided transfer; (4) sale of interest of co-owner in property of the estate; and (5) turnover of property. On October 3, 2017, the Court approved the employment of Levene, Neal, Bender, Yoo & Brill as bankruptcy counsel for the estate.

On October 30, 2017, the Chapter 7 Trustee filed a motion for an extension of time to file a complaint objecting to discharge. The Court notes that the meeting of creditors has been continued five times. Trustee notes that Debtor has not appeared at the last two meetings of creditors, and has not substantially complied with Trustee's requests for documents. Trustee requests that the deadline to file a complaint objecting to discharge be extended to January 29, 2018.

At least 28 days' notice of the time so fixed shall be given to the United States trustee and all creditors as provided in Rule 2002(f) and (k) and to the trustee and the trustee's attorney.

And Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 4004(b) states:

- (1) On motion of any party in interest, after notice and hearing, the court may for cause extend the time to object to discharge. Except as provided in subdivision (b)(2), the motion shall be filed before the time has expired.
- (2) A motion to extent the time to object to discharge may be filed after the time for objection has expired and before discharge is granted if (A) the objection is based on facts that, if learned after the discharge, would provide a basis for revocation under § 727(d) of the Code, and (B) the movant did not have knowledge of those facts in time to permit an objection. The motion shall be filed promptly after the movant discovers the facts on which the objection is based.

Here, Debtors' delay in providing the information requested by the Trustee, and their absence at the last two meetings of creditors, constitutes sufficient cause to extend the deadline. See Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 4004.03[2] (16th ed. 2013) ("A debtor's delays in responding to discovery may be sufficient cause. Obviously, a delay in the meeting of creditors to a date close to or after the deadline may constitute such cause.") (citing In re McCormack, 244 B.R. 203 (Bankr. D. Conn. 2000)).

BACKGROUND

On September 29, 2017, Shannon Harrell ("Debtor") filed a skeletal Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On October 11, 2017, Debtor filed the balance of her case commencement documents. The second page of Form 122A-1, however, was missing. On October 17, 2017, the Court dismissed the case for failure to file required documents.

On October 31, 2017, Debtor filed a motion to vacate dismissal.

DISCUSSION

Local Rule 1017-(2)(c) states:

Any motion requesting that the dismissal of a case for failure to timely file a required document or for failure to appear at the meeting of creditors be vacated must include as exhibits to the motion all of the documents that were Here, Debtor did not comply with the above rule and has not yet filed the missing second page of Form 122A-1. Given that Debtor has substantially complied with the filing requirements, and has not previously had any bankruptcy case dismissed, the Court is inclined to waive the requirements of Local Rule 1017-(2)(c).

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion conditioned on Debtor's filing of the second page of Form 122A-1 within fourteen days.

Here, Debtor did not comply with the above rule. Nor has Debtor filed any of the required documents in the twenty-nine days since he filed the motion to vacate dismissal. For those reasons, and because of Debtor's previous bankruptcy filing history, the Court will not vacate the dismissal.

#14.00 Chapter 7 Trustees Motion to Approve Compromise of Controversy with Setareh Abbasi, the Debtor Jaison Vally Surace, and Walie Qadir and Marym Qadir

EH__

Docket 36

Tentative Ruling:

11/29/2017

BACKGROUND

On November 2, 2016, Jaison Surace ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On December 15, 2016, Setareh Abbasi ("Plaintiff") filed a complaint against Debtor, and Walie & Marym Qadir (collectively, the "Qadirs") for: (1) determination that debt is non-dischargeable (523(a)(2) & (4)); (2) breach of contract; (3) quiet title; (4) cancellation of instrument based on voidable transfer; (5) false promise; (6) violation of Penal Code 496; (7) unjust enrichment; and (8) money had and received.¹ On March 27, 2017, Plaintiff filed an unsecured claim in the amount of $311,564 ("Claim 17").

On November 7, 2017, the Trustee filed a motion to approve compromise. A brief summary of the factual background is necessary to understand the details of the settlement.

Prior to the petition date, Debtor owned certain real property located in Corona, California (the "Corona Property") and Lake Elsinore, California (the "Lake Elsinore Property"). In the year prior to the petition date, both the Corona Property and the Lake Elsinore Property were transferred to the Qadirs. In May 2016, however,

Chapter 7

Plaintiff failed a state court complaint against the Qadirs on the basis that Plaintiff had entered into an agreement with Debtor to purchase the Corona Property. The state court complaint was not resolved prior to Debtor's filing of bankruptcy.

Trustee, by adversary proceeding filed January 11, 2017, sought, and obtained, avoidance and recovery of the transfers of the Corona Property and Lake Elsinore Property. Trustee has indicated that he intends to market and sell both properties.

In August 2017, Plaintiff and the Qadirs went to mediation and reached a settlement of this adversary proceeding. The settlement provides that Claim 17 will be allowed as a secured claim in the amount of $155,000 to be paid after sale of the Corona Property, that both Plaintiff and the Qadirs will cooperate with the sale of the Corona Property, and that Plaintiff, who is currently residing in the Corona Property, will be responsible for the homeowners' association dues and property taxes until the property is sold. The Trustee has estimated that the net proceeds to the estate for the sale of the Corona Property will be $70,400 (after subtracting the payment to be made pursuant to this settlement agreement), and that the net proceeds to the estate after the sale of the Lake Elsinore Property will be $369,400.

DISCUSSION

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9019(a) states: "On motion by the trustee and after notice and a hearing, the court may approve a compromise or settlement. Notice shall be given to creditors, the United States trustee, the debtor, and indenture trustees as provided in Rule 2002 and to any other entity as the court may direct." The Court may grant approval if it determines that the compromise is "fair and equitable." See In re Berkeley Delaware Court, LLC, 834 F.3d 1036, 1039 (9th Cir. 2016). In determining whether the compromise is fair and equitable, the Court applies a four-factor test. See In re DiCostanzo, 399 Fed. Appx. 307, 308 (9th Cir. 2010). The test was originally outlined in In re A & C Props., and provides for consideration of

- (a) The probability of success in the litigation;
- (b) the difficulties, if any, to be encountered in the matter of collection;
- (c) the complexity of the litigation involved, and the expense, inconvenience and delay necessarily attending it;

784 F.2d 1377, 1381 (9th Cir. 1986) (quotation omitted). "The bankruptcy court has great latitude in approving compromise agreements." In re Woodson, 839 F.2d 610, 620 (9th Cir. 1988). Typically, "a compromise should be approved unless it falls below the lowest point in the range of reasonableness." In re Art & Architecture Books of the 21st Century, 2016 WL 1118742 at *25 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016) (quotation omitted).

Regarding the first three factors, it would appear that Plaintiff and the Trustee are settling the dispute for approximately half of the amount claimed by Plaintiff, as reflected by Claim 17. A review of the complaint in the adversary proceeding reveals that this case is factually complicated and potentially involves significant evidence and events that occurred outside this country, specifically, in Afghanistan. Given the uncertainty and apparent complexity of the litigation, the Court finds that settling the claim for approximately half the amount claimed is reasonable. Regarding the final factor, the interests of creditors, Trustee has represented that unsecured creditors will be paid in full if both the Corona Property and Lake Elsinore Property are sold. Therefore, this factor also weighs in favor of approval.

TENTATIVE RULING

Notice being proper and no opposition having been filed, the Court will GRANT the motion approving the compromise.

#1.00 Motion to vacate order Confirming Plan

EH__

Docket 70

Tentative Ruling:

11/30/2017

On November 9, 2016, Fonda Cormier ("Debtor") filed her petition for chapter 13 relief. Rod Danielson was the duly appointed chapter 13 trustee ("Trustee"). The Debtor's chapter 13 plan was confirmed on December 28, 2016.

On May 9, 2017, Trinity Financial Services LLC ("Trinity") filed a motion for relief from stay ("MFR"). An adequate protection order on the stipulation of the Debtor and Trinity was filed resolving the MFR on June 27, 2017. On June 30, 2017, the Debtor filed a notice to conversion and the Court converted the case on the same date pursuant to § 1307(a) ("Conversion Order").

On September 6, 2017, the Debtor filed a Motion to Vacate Order or to Reconvert to Original Chapter 13. The reconversion request was granted by the Court and the case reconverting the case to a case under chapter 13 was entered on October 6, 2017.

On October 27, 2017, Trinity filed its motion to vacate, in part, the order confirming plan (the "Motion"). Specifically, Trinity objects to receipt of payments via the Trustee through conduit payments and instead seeks an order permitting the Debtor to make direct payments.

DISCUSSION

The Court has reviewed the arguments by both sides regarding the applicability of conduit payments. The Court agrees with the Trustee that this case presents a situation where conduit payments were appropriate given the extent of Debtor's history of nonpayment to Trinity based on the filed proof of claim. The Court does not find that the Trustee's recommendation to require conduit payments was adverse to Trinity based on the history of nonpayment. At this point, however, given that Trinity has asserted that direct payments are in its best interest - whether because their accounting system is not able to track conduit payments or because, as Trinity indicates it may want to take a less aggressive tack with respect to delinquent payments – the Court finds that a request by Trinity to receive direct payments going forward is justified.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is not inclined to vacate the confirmation – which would purportedly have a retroactive effect. Instead, it appears more appropriate to construe the instant motion as a motion to modify and modify the confirmation order such that payments to Trinity shall be paid directly by the Debtor on a prospective basis.

EH__

Docket 0

Tentative Ruling:

11/30/17

BACKGROUND

On February 21, 2017, Ernie Macias ("Debtor") filed his petition for chapter 13 relief. The Debtor's case was filed by Alon Darvish ("Darvish"). On March 13, 2017, the Debtor's case was dismissed for failure to file information.

On March 24, 2017, the Office of the United States Trustee ("UST") filed a Motion to Disgorge Attorney's Fees ("Disgorgement Motion"). On June 13, 2017, the Court granted in part and denied in part the UST's Disgorgement Motion (the "Disgorgement Order"). The Disgorgement Order required Darvish to file his disclosure of compensation, and to disgorge fees received from the Debtor back to him.

On September 20, 2017, the UST filed its Motion For An Order To Show Cause Why Alon Darvish Should Not Be Held In Contempt Of Court Pursuant To 11 U.S.C. § 105 And Federal Rule Of Bankruptcy Procedure 9020 (the "Motion for OSC"). The Motion for OSC specifically asserted that Darvish had failed to comply with any part of the Disgorgement Order. The UST's Motion for OSC further asserted that Darvish had repeatedly failed to disclose compensation and had been sanctioned for such conduct under similar circumstances in at least 6 other cases. (Motion for OSC at 9).

On October 20, 2017, the Court granted the Motion for OSC and ordered Darvish to show cause why he should not be held in contempt (the "OSC"). Darvish filed his response to the OSC on November 16, 2017 ("Response"). On November 21, 2017, the UST replied to the Response.

Chapter 13

DISCUSSION

In his Response, Darvish indicated that his practice includes the filing of skeletal petitions for chapter 13 debtors for the purpose of stopping foreclosures. He indicated that when such skeletal petitions are filed, his software does not file the Disclosure of Compensation. Darvish asserts that he is a solo practitioner who is overwhelmed and understaffed and who is trying to rectify the issues in his practice. In Reply, the UST objects particularly to Darvish's failure to outline specific steps he intends to take to remedy the issues at his firm. The UST is also concerned that Darvish has essentially admitted that his practice includes the filing of abusive petitions intended solely to avoid foreclosures. The UST requests that the Court continue the matter for Darvish to set forth specific remedial actions as ordered. The UST also requests that the Court separately consider whether a separate order to show cause is justified based on Darvish's inherently abusive prevention practice.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court agrees with the UST that Darvish's explanation is insufficient. Darvish's Response indicates clearly the reason for the failure to file disclosure of compensation forms. Despite this fact, he does not explain the ongoing failure to file these forms, particularly where he has previously been sanctioned for failing to disclose his compensation. The ongoing failure to file required documents, despite having already been sanctioned, supports the UST's request for a specific plan of remediation. Absent such plan, Darvish may simply continue to rely on his thus far unreliable bankruptcy filing software.

Separately, the UST's concern regarding Darvish's practice of filing skeletal petitions is well-taken. In particular, if Darvish is advising his clients to file abusive petitions to delay foreclosure, such conduct may warrant further sanctions/discipline.

#3.00 Motion to vacate dismissal

Docket 30

Tentative Ruling:

11/30/2017

DISCUSSION

On September 2, 2017 ("Petition Date"), Jeffrey Elkins ("Debtor") filed his petition for chapter 13 relief. Rod Danielson is the duly appointed chapter 13 trustee ("Trustee"). The Debtor's petition was initially filed as incomplete. As such, the Docket reflects that a Case Commencement Deficiency Notice was issued on the Petition Date indicating "YOUR CASE MAY BE DISMISSED IF YOU FAIL TO CURE THE FOLLOWING DEFICIENCIES." Among the documents indicated was the Declaration regarding income received within 60 days of the Petition Date pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 521(a)(1)(B)(iv). (Docket 1-2). The deadline to file the deficient documents was September 18, 2017. On September 11, 2017, the Debtor filed the § 521 declaration but incorrectly attached the pay advices for Megan Elkins, and not for the Debtor.

On October 23, 2017, the case was dismissed for failure of the Debtor to file the pay advices required pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 521(a)(1)(B)(iv).

On October 26, 2017, the Debtor filed a motion to vacate the dismissal ("Motion") and on the same date filed the Debtor's pay advice. On October 27, 2017, the Trustee filed comments indicating his conditional approval of the Motion. Specifically, the Trustee recommended approval on the following conditions:

1. Due process (i.e. notice) to all creditors pursuant to LBR 9013-1; and
2. Debtor must be able to certify that he is holding all outstanding plan payments at the time of the hearing to be tendered to the Trustee on entry of the order granting the Motion.

MOVANT: ANTHONY J MCPIKE

EH__

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

11/30/2017

The Motion seeks to continue the stay as to all creditors. However, the proof of service appears to indicate that only the secured creditors were served with the Motion.

1. The Court finds that service on Toyota was not proper. Rule 7004 requires service to the attention of an officer. Although Debtor employed a PO Box indicated in a proof of claim filed in a prior case, the creditor has not yet made an appearance in the instant case and must thus be served at its corporate office to the attention of an officer.
2. Service on Carrington Mortgage Services is not proper. Carrington should have been served per FRBP 7004 at its address as indicated on the California Secretary of State Website. That address is in Anaheim, CA. Instead, Carrington was served at a PO Box indicated on correspondence it sent to the Debtor prepetition. Additionally, the Service List does not reflect service on Carrington to the attention of an officer.
3. The California Secretary of State Website indicates an address for Bungalows at Old School House Association in Murrieta, CA. Service on Bungalows is also improper.

As to the merits, the Debtor has explained why it did not have sufficient funds to tender a plan payment on the date of the confirmation hearing. However, the Debtor's Motion does not indicate why the Debtor was late on his October postpetition mortgage payment. The postpetition mortgage delinquency was a second basis for dismissal of the case at the confirmation hearing.

Nor has Debtor named any of the secured creditors in the caption of the notice.

Regardless of the merits, failure to give notice per Rule 7004 is fatal, and there is an insufficient notice period remaining to continue the hearing. On that basis, the Court's tentative ruling is to DENY the Motion.

#5.00 Motion for relief from automatic stay with supporting declarations ACTION IN NON-BANKRUPTCY FORUM RE: State Court Judgment

MOVANT: JUDDY OLIVARES

EH__

Docket 148

Tentative Ruling:

12/5/17

On January 24, 2013, Juddy Olivares ("Olivares") filed state court litigation against Sam Dason ("Debtor") and his dental practice. Trial was held on February 25, 2016, and Olivares obtained judgment against Debtor and his dental practice. On February 26, 2016, three material events occurred: (1) the state court signed the proposed judgment; (2) Debtor filed bankruptcy; and (3) the state court docketed the proposed judgment. The evidence indicates that Debtor filed bankruptcy at 12:23 p.m. and that the state court judgment was docketed at 2:43 p.m. It is unclear when the state court judgment was signed, but, clearly it was signed prior to the judgment being docketed.

On August 22, 2016, Olivares filed an adversary complaint against Debtor and his dental practice for non-dischargeability under § 523(a)(6).

On November 14, 2017, Olivares filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay. Olivares appears to request an order holding that that the entry of judgment by the state court was merely a ministerial act, or, in the alternative, an order annulling the automatic stay, or, in the alternative, relief from the automatic stay to, presumably, obtain a new judgment. On November 20, 2017, Debtor filed his opposition to the motion as well as evidentiary objections. The following day, Debtor filed an amended opposition to the automatic stay. Debtor argues that annulment of the automatic stay is not warranted, and that there is no cause for relief from the automatic stay because the state court judgment will not be preclusive on Olivares's adversary proceeding.

Olivares cites In re Pettit for the proposition that ministerial acts do not violate the automatic stay. 217 F.3d 1072, 1080 (9th Cir. 2000) ("We now adopt the ministerial act exception for this circuit and apply it the case before us."). While the Court acknowledges that there is a ministerial act exception, it is less than clear that this exception applies to the case at hand. Pettit states: "Applying the logic of the exception, the judicial proceeding in this case ended once Judge Illston signed the order to release the funds. The clerk of the court had no discretion as to whether to issue the check to the Trust Funds and her act was, therefore, purely ministerial." Id. Therefore, while Pettit concluded that various administrative actions taken after the signing of the order were ministerial, it is implied that the signing of the order itself was not ministerial. As Pettit stated: "Ministerial acts or automatic occurrences that entail no deliberation, discretion, or judicial involvement do not constitute continuations of such a proceeding." Id. The signing of the judgment, however, does entail deliberation, discretion, and judicial involvement. Therefore, the signing of the order is not a ministerial act.

Debtor has not provided adequate evidence establishing that the judgment was signed prior to Debtor's filing of bankruptcy. Debtor provides a transcript of the state court hearing which includes the following:

The Court: All right. Prepare everything for the Court's signature.

Mr. Panitz: I will do that. And if I submit it overnight, will the Court sign and enter it first thing in the morning?

The Court: Sure.

This evidence simply does not establish that the state court judgment was, in fact, signed before 12:23 p.m. In the absence of evidence establishing that the state court judgment was in fact signed before 12:23 p.m., Olivares cannot establish that the ministerial act exception applies.¹

Olivares alternatively argues that grounds exist for the Court to annul the automatic stay. In determining whether cause exists to retroactively annul the automatic stay, this Court looks to the equities and the Fjelsted factors:

Determining whether cause exists to annul the stay is a case-by-case inquiry based on a balance of the equities. In conducting this inquiry the bankruptcy court, among other factors, should consider whether the creditor knew of the bankruptcy when violating the stay and whether the debtor's conduct was unreasonable, inequitable or prejudicial to the creditor.

In Fjelsted, we approved additional factors for consideration in assessing the equities. The twelve nonexclusive factors are: (1) number of filings; (2) whether, in a repeat filing case, the circumstances indicate an intention to delay and hinder creditors; (3) a weighing of the extent of prejudice to creditors or third parties if the stay relief is not made retroactive, including whether harm exists to a bona fide purchaser; (4) the debtor's overall good faith (totality of circumstances test); (5) whether creditors knew of stay but nonetheless took action, thus compounding the problem; (6) whether the debtor has complied, and is otherwise complying, with the Bankruptcy Code and Rules; (7) the relative ease of restoring parties to the status quo ante; (8) the costs of annulment to debtors and creditors; (9) how quickly creditors moved for annulment, or how quickly debtor moved to set aside the sale or violative conduct; (10) whether, after learning of the bankruptcy, creditors proceeded to take steps in continued violation of the stay, or whether they moved expeditiously to gain relief; (11) whether annulment of the stay will cause irreparable injury to the debtor; and (12) whether stay relief will promote judicial economy or other efficiencies. The Panel in Fjelsted cautioned that the twelve factors are merely a framework for analysis and not a scorecard, and that in any given case, one factor may so outweigh the others as to be dispositive.

As noted in the first paragraph of the above excerpt, the two most prominent factors considered by the Court are the good faith of the party violating the automatic stay, and the good faith of the debtor. Here, the party that potentially violated the automatic stay was the state court – and we can presume that the state court did not have notice of the automatic stay when the violation occurred. Furthermore, the timing of the filing of Debtor’s bankruptcy petition, which was filed after trial was concluded but before judgment was docketed, is clearly "unreasonable, inequitable or prejudicial to the creditor."

The totality of the circumstances here are strongly in favor of granting annulment: the violation of the automatic stay, if any, was done by the state court, a party whose good faith can be presumed, while the timing of Debtor’s filing indicates that the bankruptcy petition was clearly intended to frustrate the collection efforts of Olivares. Furthermore, given the status of the state court proceedings at the time of the bankruptcy filing (post-trial), and the nature of the underlying suit (non-bankruptcy related), Olivares has clearly established cause for relief from the automatic stay distinct from demonstrating cause for annulment. Requiring Olivares to return to state court to obtain a new signed judgment is a grossly inefficient use of judicial resources.

Therefore, the Court is inclined to GRANT annulment of the automatic stay and waiver of the 4001(a)(3) stay and DENY request under ¶ 2 as moot.

Tentative Ruling:

Debtors had two bankruptcy cases dismissed in the year prior to filing the instant case. The first case was dismissed on June 26, 2017, for failure to file case commencement documents. The second case was dismissed on October 23, 2017, for failure to file case commencement documents. This case was dismissed on November 27, 2017, for failure to file case commencement documents.

11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(4)(A)(ii) provides that if a debtor had two previous cases dismissed within a year of the instant case, then, absent court order, the automatic stay does not go into effect. Here, the Court did not impose the automatic stay, and, therefore, the automatic stay was never effective in this case. Therefore, the Court is inclined to GRANT the motion.

This matter was set on shortened notice pursuant to the Court's self-scheduling procedures. The self-scheduling procedures require that telephonic notice be provided at least five court days prior to the hearing, and that proof of telephonic notice be filed at least three court days prior to the hearing. Here, rather than file a separate declaration of telephonic notice, Movant has indicated on its proof of service that telephonic notice was provided to Debtor. Movant has listed an incorrect phone number, however, and, therefore, it is unclear whether effective telephonic notice was provided. Movant further indicated on the proof of service that telephonic notice was given on February 21, 2017, which is clearly incorrect. The Court is inclined to CONTINUE the matter for proper service on Debtor.

EH__

Docket 179

Tentative Ruling:

12/5/17

On November 10, 2016, B&B Family, Inc. ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. On November 30, 2016, the Court entered an order authorizing the employment of The Turoci Firm ("Applicant") as Debtor's general bankruptcy counsel effective November 10, 2016. On November 14, 2016, Debtor's second amended Chapter 11 plan was confirmed.

On November 8, 2016, Applicant filed a final fee application. The Court notes that Local Rule 2016-1(c)(3)(A) states that the final fee application should be filed promptly after confirmation, although the Court will waive the requirement because Applicant is not requesting fees for any work done during that six day period.

The Court has reviewed Applicant's final fee application and notes that Applicant has numerous time entries for which it has waived any charge to Debtor, and, while not set forth explicitly in the application, it also appears that Applicant likely waived many expense charges. Nevertheless, in reviewing the final fee application, the Court notes two areas of concern that apply to the reasonableness of many of the entries: (1) billing for repetitive activities; (2) billing rate for non-substantive activities or form documents.

Regarding (1), the Court notes that for those filings that required revisions or periodic filings, the time entries for the later entry often appear excessive given the amount of revision that occurred. For example, Applicant has a time entry on January 19, 2017, in the amount of $1,520 (3.8 hours), for "draft Motion to continue use of cash collateral." This was not the first cash collateral motion in the case, however, and after comparing the motion from January 2017 with the motion from November 2016, the two motions appear almost identical. As another example, Applicant has two time entries, totaling $1,920 (4.8 hours), on May 1 and 2, 2017, for revisions to the Chapter 11 plan and disclosure statement. Those revisions, however, were minimal, as evidenced by the redlined versions [Docket Nos. 100 & 101].

Regarding (2), the courts notes that, according to Applicant's timekeeper summary, 77% of the hours worked in this case were worked by Julie Philippi, an attorney. As a result of the high percentage of entries billing at the hourly rate of an attorney, rather than a paralegal, there are a number of entries that appear to be excessive, given the work required. For instance, an entry on March 6, 2017, indicates that Applicant billed $200 for "Amend[ing] Schedule F to add Creditor Joseph Miranda." Likewise, on June 6, 2017, Applicant billed $200 for "Prepar [ing] Notice of continued CMC," which included a sentence identifying the continued hearing date and time.

Given the complexity of Chapter 11 proceedings and the difficult in assessing the most significant billing entries, the drafting and revising of the Chapter 11 plan and disclosure statement, the Court is inclined to propose a 20% reduction in fees – a reduction in the amount of $11,097.50 – and approve the remaining $44,390 in requested fees.

Applicant may consent to the above reduction and upload a proposed order, or the Court will continue the hearing to issue a detailed tentative ruling addressing individual time entries.

Docket 43

Tentative Ruling:

12/06/2017

BACKGROUND

On January 30, 2017, Hiep Huu Phan ("Debtor") filed his petition for chapter 7 relief. Karl Anderson is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee"). Among the assets of the Debtor's estate is certain real property located at 3073 Coventry Street in Corona, CA (the "Property").

On November 10, 2017, the Trustee filed a motion seeking court authorization to sell the Property ("Motion"). The Motion indicates that the Property is held by the Debtor and his wife, Whitney Nguyen, husband and wife as joint tenants. In response to the Motion, the nonfiling spouse filed an opposition indicating that she does not oppose sale of the Property but that she has a pending divorce action and seeks to have any funds payable to her segregated into a Trust Fund pending resolution in family court regarding her "rightful share" of the $75,000 proposed payment to the Debtor in exempt funds.

DISCUSSION

In reviewing the Motion, the Court notes that the Debtor's nonfiling spouse is indicated as holding a joint tenancy with the Debtor as to the Property. (Motion at 7:8-9). Notwithstanding this fact, the Court has no indication from the Trustee that he has sought to sell the Property free of the nonfiling spouse's interest in compliance with 11 U.S.C. § 363(h) and no adversary has been filed by the Trustee. In re Reed, 940 F.2d 1317, 1323-32 (9th Cir. 1991) (In bankruptcy a trustee can sell the entire property rather than just the joint-tenant's interest, provided certain conditions are met)(citing 11 U.S.C. § 363(h)). To the contrary, the Motion appears to indicate that the Trustee contemplates paying the Debtor and his nonfiling spouse the total amount of the exemption claimed by the Debtor in his amended Schedule C, without paying the nonfiling spouse the value of a joint tenancy interest in the Property. (Mot. at 12). Based on the opposition of the nonfiling spouse, it appears that she is not clear about what amount she may be owed from the sale of the Property. To avoid a potential future dispute regarding the funds, the Trustee should follow the customary procedure of seeking a sale consistent with the requirements of § 363(h).

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to DENY the Motion for the Trustee to demonstrate compliance with the requirements of 11 U.S.C. § 363(h).

From: 11/29/17

EH__

Docket 88

Tentative Ruling:

11/29/17

BACKGROUND

On October 26, 2009, Pamela Carmichael ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On January 13, 2010, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed. On April 23, 2010, the case was converted to Chapter 7. On August 16, 2010, Debtor received a discharge, and, three days later, the case was closed.

On March 21, 2016, the case was reopened to administer assets upon the motion of UST. Specifically, the asset to be administered was the proceeds from a class action judgment. After payment of all claims in Debtor's case, there was a surplus of $28,825.67 to be returned to Debtor. According to Debtor's attorney, she received a check from Trustee in the amount of $28,825.67 on July 11, 2017. Debtor's attorney states that she had "numerous conversations" with the class-action attorney and the trustee, and that, "[u]ltimately, it was determined that new checks needed to be issued. Specifically, Debtor's attorney requests three checks: (1) $3,000 for Doling Shaw & Hanover, APC (of which $1,500 is for "work completed to assist the bankruptcy estate in distributing the surplus funds"); (2) $12,912.84 to George Charles Carmichael; and (3) $12,912.84 to Pamela Ehrlich. The Court notes that the total amount of the three checks is $28,825.68 – essentially the same amount as the originally issued check.

On November 7, 2017, the Trustee filed a notice of non-opposition.

DISCUSSION

The division of Debtor's probate estate as between successors, and resolution of claims against the probate estate, are matters of probate law, not bankruptcy law. The Trustee's responsibility, and this Court's supervisory duty, is limited to assuring that the Trustee issues the surplus check to Debtor. The subsequent division of those funds does not appear to be a matter for the bankruptcy court, but is a matter for probate law. While it is unclear whether Court approval of fees is required, no such approval is requested here. Last, importantly, it does not appear the motion has been noticed to or served upon a representative of the probate estate or upon Debtor's heirs.

#13.00 Notice of Trustee's Final Report and Applications for Compensation

EH__

Docket 45

Tentative Ruling:

12/13/2017

No opposition has been filed.

Service was Proper.

The applications for compensation of the Trustee and Counsel for the Trustee have been set for hearing on the notice required by LBR 2016-1. Pursuant to the Trustee's Final Report and the applications of the associated professionals, the Court is inclined to APPROVE the following administrative expenses:

Trustee Fees: $ 3,225

Trustee Expenses: $ 4.75

Attorney Fees: $ 10,300

Attorney Costs:$ 382.71

The approved attorney fees incorporate two reductions. First, there is a reduction in $1,032.50 corresponding to the amount requested for an appearance at the hearing on December 13, 2017. Counsel is not permitted to be reimbursed for defending their requested fees, and the defense of their requested fees is the only reason why an appearance would be made at the hearing on December 13, 2017. Second, there is a reduction of $1,698.50 related to two time entries on March 1, 2017 for the drafting of a settlement motion. No settlement motion, however, was filed until May 2017, and there are future time entries documenting the time spent drafting the settlement motion. Because it is unclear what the March 1, 2017, time entries are for, or how those efforts could have benefited the estate, and given that the attorney's fees are noticeably higher than distributions to unsecured creditors, the Court will disallow these entries as unreasonable.

#14.00 Motion for extension of time to file a complaint objecting to discharge

EH__

Docket 18

Tentative Ruling:

12/13/17

BACKGROUND

On August 4, 2017, Julio Negrete ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On October 18, 2017, the Court authorized a Rule 2004 examination of Debtor by Daniel's Jewelers ("Creditor"). On November 7, 2017, Creditor filed a motion to extend the § 523 deadline for filing a non-dischargeability complaint and postpone discharge.

Creditor's motion asserts that in September 2016 Debtor purchased a pair of Movado watches and certain earrings for a total of $3,445.15. Debtor made the purchase on credit and Creditor retained a security interest in the jewelry. Debtor did not, however, list the jewelry on his schedules, nor did he identify the jewelry as gifted or lost on his schedules.

Creditor states that at the Rule 2004 examination, Debtor stated he made the purchase for, and on behalf of, his cousin. Creditor states that Debtor did not provide any accurate information that would allow Creditor to contact Debtor's cousin or verify Debtor's account. Creditor requests a 45 day extension of the §§ 523 & 727 deadlines to allow Creditor to attempt to verify Debtor's account of the location of the jewelry.

DISCUSSION

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 4007(c) states:

Except as otherwise provided in subdivision (d), a complaint to determine the dischargeability of a debt under § 523(c) shall be filed no later than 60 days after the first date set for the meeting of creditors under § 341(a). The court shall give all creditors no less than 30 days' notice of the time so fixed in the manner provided in Rule 2002. On motion of a party in interest, after hearing on notice, the court may for cause extend the time fixed under this subdivision. The motion shall be filed before the time has expired.

Here, Creditor timely filed a motion to extend the deadline. The Court finds that Creditor has established cause for an extension under Rule 4007(c). Specifically, Creditor has established that it moved promptly to determine the location and status of the jewelry identified in the background section above. Nevertheless, despite those efforts, Creditor has not provided adequate information that would enable Creditor to locate the jewelry in which it retains a security interest. Debtor's lack of full cooperation in Creditor's discovery efforts constitutes cause for a brief extension. See, e.g., In re McCormack, 244 B.R. 203, 208 (Bankr. D. Conn. 2000). Therefore, the Court finds that Creditor's requested forty-five day extension is warranted.

Regarding Creditor's additional request that Debtor's discharge be postponed, the Court finds Creditor's request lacks a proper legal basis. Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 4004 (c) provides a list of situations and events that will result in a delay of the granting of a discharge. Here, the fact that Debtor is contemplating the filing of a non-dischargeability complaint does not warrant the postponement of Debtor's discharge. Bankruptcy courts routinely adjudicate non-dischargeability complaints after a discharge has been granted and, therefore, Creditor's contention that an extension of the deadline to file a non-dischargeability complaint should naturally postpone the granting of a discharge, is unwarranted.

EH__

Docket 44

Tentative Ruling:

12/14/2017

BACKGROUND

On July 18, 2017 ("Petition Date"), Conchita Ang ("Debtor") filed her petition for chapter 13 relief. Rod Danielson was the duly appointed chapter 13 trustee ("Trustee"). On August 18, 2017, the Debtor filed a Motion for Turnover of Property (I) to Enforce the Automatic Stay; (II) for an Order to Show Cause (OSC); (III) to Compel Compliance with the Court Order; (IV) and for Sanctions (the "Turnover Motion") as to Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. ("Wells") based on its alleged wrongful foreclosure of the Debtor's real property located at 2150 Horse Trail Drive in Redlands, CA (the "Property").

On August 31, 2017, a confirmation hearing was held as to the Debtor's chapter 13 plan of reorganization. For the reasons stated on the record in open court, the Court dismissed the Debtor's chapter 13 case with a 180 day bar ("Dismissal Order").

An initial hearing on the Turnover Motion was held on September 14, 2017, at which the Court indicated that although it appeared a violation of the automatic stay occurred, continuance was warranted based on the representation by Wells that it would seek annulment of the stay. The hearing on the Turnover was continued to October 26, 2017.

On September 22, 2017, Wells filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay (the "RFS Motion") as to the Property. A hearing on the RFS Motion was held on October 24, 2017, at which the Court's oral ruling was to grant the RFS Motion, in part and deny it in part. On October 26, 2017, at the continued hearing on the Debtor's Turnover Motion, the Court denied the Turnover Motion as moot based on its October 24, 2017, oral ruling granting Wells's request for annulment. On November 6, 2017, the Court entered its order granting the RFS Motion (the "RFS Order"). On November 17, 2017, the Court entered its Order Denying Motion for Turnover of Property ("Turnover Order").

On November 16, 2017, the Debtor filed her "Motion with Notice to Reconsider The Material Facts and Order of the Hearing Held by Movant on October 24, 2017; For Sanctions on Respondents; To Reopen this Case and Allow Filing an Adversary Proceeding and Evidentiary Hearing to Disclose Fraud on the Court" (the "Motion"). Subsequently, the Court issued an order setting a hearing on the Debtor's Motion for December 14, 2017.

On November 27, 2017, Wells timely filed opposition to the Motion ("Opposition"). Debtor filed no reply.

DISCUSSION

As a threshold matter, the Debtor makes various allegations regarding alleged misconduct and/or bias on the part of the Court. However, the Debtor provides no evidence to substantiate her allegations and as such, the Court disregards and otherwise strikes the Debtor's allegations of judicial misconduct/bias.

MOTION TO REOPEN CASE

The Debtor seeks to reopen her case. However, the case has remained open due to various pending motions in the case since dismissal and, as of December 14, 2017, remains open. Thus, the Court's tentative ruling is to DENY the Debtor's request to reopen the case as moot.

Alternatively, to the extent that the Court construes the Motion as seeking an order vacating the dismissal rather than an order simply reopening the case, the Motion does not address the bases for dismissal of the Debtor's chapter 13 case or why reconsideration of the Dismissal Order is warranted. As such, any request to vacate dismissal of the case is also DENIED and is not properly before the Court.

MOTION FOR SANCTIONS

The basis advanced for issuance of sanctions against Wells is the Debtor's assertion that Wells failed to comply with an issued order to show cause. (Mot. at 5:4-6, 7:3-6) However, as indicated in the above background section, the Debtor's request for an order to show cause was encapsulated within her Turnover Motion. The Turnover Motion was denied on November 17, 2017, and in connection with that denial, no order to show cause ever issued as to Wells. Moreover, the Court notes that the Debtor made no appearance at the continued hearing on the Turnover Motion which took place on October 26, 2017. [FN.1]. Based on the foregoing, the Debtor's instant request for sanctions based on alleged noncompliance is misplaced because the Debtor has failed to demonstrate that Wells failed to comply with any Court order.

FN.1: It appears that the Debtor misapprehended the Court's tentative ruling for an actual order. The Court's tentative ruling issued prior to the September 14, 2017, hearing had indicated that the Court was inclined to issue an order to show cause. However, a tentative ruling is "tentative" (i.e. "not fixed or certain") until and unless it is adopted by the Court as its final ruling and attached to the Court's final order.

Alternatively, to the extent that the instant Motion can be construed as a renewed motion for sanctions against Wells based on allegations that Wells violated the automatic stay, such a request is not properly before the Court because the Court previously denied the Debtor's request for an order to show cause in the Turnover Order. Thus, based on the prior denial, the Debtor must comply with LBR 9013-1(l) regarding "Motions Previously Denied", and has failed to do so. Alternatively, the Debtor could have sought reconsideration of the Court's Turnover Order which the Debtor also has not done.

provides that the bankruptcy court may relieve a party from an order for the following reasons:

- (1) mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect;
- (2) newly discovered evidence that, with reasonable diligence, could not have been discovered in time to move for a new trial under [Civil] Rule 59(b);
- (3) fraud (whether previously called intrinsic or extrinsic), misrepresentation, or misconduct by an opposing party;
- (4) the judgment is void;

- (6) any other reason that justifies relief.

FRBP 60(b). Debtor's Motion fails to indicate which enumerated basis for reconsideration underlies her Motion. However, the Court construes the Debtor's Motion as falling within Rule 60(b)(3) based on the Debtor's allegations that Wells has "perpetrated a fraud on this Court" and "misled the Court" (Mot. at 4:5-9) and that Wells's foreclosure actions constitute a "total misrepresentation and fraud perpetrated on this Court" (Mot. at 6:1-2).

To prevail on a motion under Rule 60(b)(3), the moving party must prove by clear and convincing evidence that the [order] was obtained through fraud, misrepresentation, or other misconduct and the conduct complained of prevented the losing party from fully and fairly presenting the defense. De Saracho v. Custom Food Mach., Inc., 206 F.3d 874, 880 (9th Cir. 2000). Rule 60(b)(3) "is aimed at judgments which were unfairly obtained, not at those which are factually incorrect." Id.

Here, the crux of Debtor's allegation of fraud is that Wells "persuaded and wrongfully influence[d] this Court to believe they are the real party in interest." As to the Debtor's allegations of fraud generally, the Court agrees with the Opposition that the Debtor's allegations of fraud are not pled with specificity as required under FRCP 9 and those allegations are thus insufficient to establish fraud to justify relief under Rule 60(b)(3). Separately, as to Wells's standing (which the Debtor now contests), Exhibit 5 to the RFS Motion is a copy of the Trustee's Deed Upon Sale which clearly identifies Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. as the successful purchaser at the foreclosure sale of the Property held on July 18, 2017. Notwithstanding the fact that the Debtor did not object to Wells's standing in her opposition to the RFS Motion, the Court notes that the Trustee's Deed Upon Sale conferred standing on Wells for purposes of the RFS Motion. In re Pak, 2011 WL 7145763 (9th Cir. BAP (Cal.) 2011) (A party seeking relief from the stay "need only establish that it has a colorable claim to enforce a right against property of the estate.". A showing by a party that it is a person entitled to enforce the note at issue or that it holds some ownership or other interest in the note translates to a colorable claim.).

REQUEST TO SET ASIDE THE FORECLOSURE SALE

Section V of the Motion seeks an order setting aside the foreclosure sale. However, when the Court granted Wells's RFS Motion, it specifically granted the request for annulment of the stay to validate the postpetition actions of Wells in purchasing the Property and in recordation of the Trustee's Deed Upon Sale. In re Fjeldsted, 293 B.R. 12, 21 (9th Cir. BAP 2003) (holding that the bankruptcy court's authority to make exceptions to the general operation of the stay includes authority to annul the stay thereby providing retroactive relief, which, if granted, moots any issue as to whether the violating sale was void because, then, there would have been no actionable stay violation.).

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to DENY the Motion in its entirety.

#3.00 Motion for Disgorgement of Attorneys' Fees

Docket 123

Tentative Ruling:

12/14/2017

BACKGROUND

On May 8, 2012, John and Nancy Elbers (collectively, "Debtors") filed their petition for chapter 13 relief. Amrane Cohen is the duly appointed chapter 13 trustee ("Trustee"). At the inception of the case, the Debtors were represented by Samuel Kelsall ("Kelsall"). On behalf of the Debtors, Kelsall filed the petition and took various actions in the case on behalf of the Debtors, including prosecution of a motion to avoid lien through an evidentiary hearing. The Trustee's records indicate that Kelsall incurred and received $12,000 in total for his bankruptcy services on behalf of the Debtors.

On November 14, 2017, the Debtors filed a Motion For Sanctions/Disgorgement of Attorneys' Fees re Samuel Kelsall (the "Motion"). The Motion asserts that:

1. Kelsall received $1,460 from Hyatt Legal Plans ("Hyatt") on behalf of the Debtors, and that check is dated August 17, 2012 (the "Hyatt Payment");
2. Kelsall received an additional $40 from Hyatt which Kelsall asserts was for a consultation;
3. Kelsall filed a Disclosure of Compensation of Attorney for Debtor on May 8, 2012;
4. Kelsall did not file a supplement to his disclosed compensation at any time during the pendency of the case; and

Chapter 13

5. At a hearing on August 17, 2012, on a Trustee's Motion to Dismiss, the Debtors represented to the Trustee that Kelsall had received an additional $1,500 from Hyatt which Kelsall had failed to disclose.

Based on the alleged nondisclosure by Kelsall of the Hyatt Payment, the Trustee seeks an order requiring him to disgorge $13,500 (or the total amount paid by the Debtors for the bankruptcy-related services). The requested disgorgement is sought under FRBP 2016(b) which requires disclosure of compensation and supplemental statements regarding amounts paid but not previously disclosed.

On December 5, 2017, Kelsall filed opposition to the Motion ("Opposition"). As regards the merits of the Motion, Kelsall asserts that the Trustee's evidence of the Hyatt Payment is deficient in that the records produced by Hyatt are not accompanied by a record or other documentation indicating which case the payment was made on (i.e. does not identify the Debtors or their case). Kelsall further argues that the numbers do not add up. In support, he asserts that the fee for a couples' bankruptcy filing would be a total of $1,500, not including the additional $40 for the consultation. Thus, the check for $1,460 plus the $40 consultation fee cannot have been for payment towards the Debtors' case because the actual amount owed by Hyatt on behalf of the Debtors would have been $1,500 plus $40.

In reply to Kelsall, the Trustee notes that Kelsall has indicated he cannot identify on whose behalf the Hyatt Payment was made. The Trustee argues that Kelsall's response further compounds the problems identified in the Motion because it demonstrates Kelsall's failure to properly account for funds received by his firm on behalf of his clients as required by the California Rules of Professional Conduct.

DISCUSSION

There is no legal dispute regarding the applicability of FRBP 2016. Instead, the instant matter is solely a factual dispute regarding whether or not Kelsall received the Hyatt Payment on behalf of the Debtors which would have triggered his duty to disclose compensation. Kelsall disputes that he received funds from Hyatt on behalf of the Debtors. Although Kelsall is correct that the check proffered by the Trustee does not identify the Debtors on the check, he does not provide evidence to indicate that the check was definitively received by his office on behalf of other clients. Moreover, the evidence indicates that the check was issued in 2012. Thus, several years have lapsed in the interim and the Trustee correctly points out that during that time it was Kelsall's duty to properly account for the Hyatt Payment. Finally, the letter from Hyatt dated April 26, 2017 provides evidence the funds were paid to Kelsall (and Kelsall has failed to object to this evidence). As such, Kelsall failed in his duty to disclose all compensation received.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined GRANT the Motion and order disgorgement.

#4.00 Objection to Notice of Intent to File Trustee's Final Report and Obtain Discharge of the Trustee

Also #3

EH__

Docket 118

Tentative Ruling:

12/14/2017

BACKGROUND

As a threshold matter, the Court incorporates and takes judicial notice of the pleadings filed in connection with Docket No. 123, the Trustee's Motion for Disgorgement, and of the factual allegations made therein as they may regard the instant matter.

On September 26, 2017, the Trustee filed his Notice of Intent to File Trustee's Final Report and Account (the "Notice"). On October 25, 2017, the Debtors filed their objection to the Notice ("Objection"). The Debtors' objection specifically argues that (1) Kelsall's fees received in the case exceeded reasonable and customary fees and should not have been awarded, (2) Debtors did not receive service by mail (purportedly of the Fee Applications) filed by Kelsall and therefore did not have an opportunity to object, and (3) that Kelsall failed to disclose the $1,500 received from Hyatt on behalf of the Debtors. Based on these allegations, the Debtors seek disgorgement.

DISCUSSION

As a threshold matter, the Debtors' Objection is not properly before the Court because the Debtors are seeking affirmative relief from Mr. Kelsall in an objection to the Trustee's Notice of Intent to File his Final Report. However, given that Mr. Kelsall filed a response and that the Debtors are in pro per, the Court will briefly address the arguments made.

Chapter 13

The mailbox rule provides that the proper and timely mailing of a document raises a rebuttable presumption that the document has been received by the addressee in the usual time. It is a settled feature of the federal common law. Hagner v. United States, 285 U.S. 427, 430, 52 S.Ct. 417, 76 L.Ed. 861 (1932); Rosenthal v. Walker, 111 U.S. 185, 193, 4 S.Ct. 382, 28 L.Ed. 395 (1884); Lewis v. United States, 144 F.3d 1220, 1222 (9th Cir.1998).

Because the common law mailbox rule operates as a rebuttable presumption, the factfinder must determine whether Mr. Kelsall has presented sufficient evidence of mailing to invoke the presumption of receipt and, if so, whether the Debtors have presented sufficient evidence of non-receipt to rebut the presumption. Schikore v. BankAmerica Supplemental Ret. Plan, 269 F.3d 956, 963 (9th Cir. 2001).

Here, Mr. Kelsall has provided Ex. 10, the Application for Supplemental Fees, Ex. 12, the Notice of Hearing on Application for Payment of Interim or Final Fees, both with corresponding proofs of service. Both documents are signed under penalty of perjury and contain attached mailing lists which indicate that the Debtors were served at their residence. In contrast, the Debtors have provided no evidence to controvert the proofs of service. As such, the Court must find that the Debtors have failed to rebut Mr. Kelsall's evidence of mailing and therefore that the Debtors are presumed to have received Mr. Kelsall's applications for fees.

Next, having found that the Debtors received proper notice and service of Mr. Kelsall's fee applications, the Debtors cannot now object to Mr. Kelsall's fees. The time to object to the reasonableness of fees was when they received notice of the applications. As such, the Court need not address whether Mr. Kelsall's fees were reasonable.

Finally, the Debtors have raised the issue of Mr. Kelsall's nondisclosure of the $1,500 in payments from Hyatt. This matter is being concurrently addressed by the

Docket 76

Tentative Ruling:

11/09/2017

Background:

On November 30, 2012 ("Petition Date"), Jacquelyn Anna Palmer ("Debtor") filed for chapter 13 relief. Amrane Cohen is the duly appointed chapter 13 trustee ("Trustee"). On September 27, 2017, Debtor filed her Objection to Claims # 7-1 of Tidewater Finance Company ("Claimant").

Service was proper and no opposition or response has been filed.

Applicable Law:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing

Chapter 13

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." United States v. Offord Fin., Inc., (In re Medina), 205 B.R. 216,222 (9th Cir. BAP 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. Ashford v. Consol. Pioneer Mort. (In re Consol. Pioneer Mort.), 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

Analysis:

The Debtor objects only to the "secured" portion of Claim No. 7-1. Specifically, the Debtor asserts, without legal citation or authority, that because she "gave her furniture to a co-worker who had lost everything in a fire" and is "no longer in possession of the furniture" the secured amount should be disallowed.

Tentative Ruling

Having failed to provide legal authority for the proposition that the gifting of property subject to a security interest suffices to extinguish such lien, the tentative ruling is that the Objection be OVERRULED.

12/19/2017

Service: Improper

Opposition: None

The Court has reviewed the motion and notes that service is improper. Specifically, creditors, including the main secured creditor, were served at PO boxes, instead of pursuant to FRBP 7004. Therefore, the Court is inclined to DENY the motion.

Docket 15

Tentative Ruling:

12/19/2017

Service: Improper
Opposition: None

First, the Court notes that notice of the motion was improper. The Court's self-calendaring procedures allow a motion to continue the automatic stay to be set on shortened notice only if fourteen days notice is provided to creditors. Here, however, Debtor did not provide fourteen days notice. Additionally, pursuant to § 362(c)(3)(C) (i)(II)(cc) this case was presumptively filed in bad faith as to all creditors, and Debtor has not provided clear and convincing evidence to the contrary. Specifically, Debtor's previous Chapter 13 case was dismissed less than one year into the plan for failure to make plan payments, and Debtor has not provided any evidence that she is currently in a better financial situation. Therefore, the Court is inclined to DENY the motion.

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion. Specifically, Debtor's previous Chapter 13 case was dismissed approximately one year into the plan for failure to make plan payments. Debtor has generally averred that her income has increased and that she is capable of making plan payments, and that her income will increase once she passes the state bar examination. Such a general assertion, however, fails to satisfy the "clear and convincing" standard of § 362(c)(3)(C).

Docket 4

Tentative Ruling:

12/19/2017

Service: Proper
Opposition: None

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion. First, notice to the law firm that represented the secured creditor (the primary party at whom the motion is directed) does not include the handling lawyers' names. As such notice is problematic as it will be delayed getting into the proper hands. Second, the prior case was not dismissed because of an ordinary payment default, as the motion implies, but because of failure to turn over tax refunds. Third, Debtor does not need the stay to seek a loan modification. Last, any equity in the Debtor's residence will be recovered, on sale by the Trustee (not the Debtor) for the benefit of the estate, and the Trustee has not joined this request. Thus, Debtor has failed to rebut the presumption of lack of good faith as to U.S. Bank pursuant to § 362(c)(3)(C)(ii).

EH__

Docket 42

Tentative Ruling:

12/19/17

BACKGROUND

On December 1, 2017, Auto Strap Transport, LLC ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. On the same day, Debtor filed a motion to use cash collateral and an application for a hearing on shortened notice. The Court held a hearing on Debtor's motion to use cash collateral on December 6, 2017, and, on December 14, 2017, the Court entered an order granting Debtor's motion on an interim basis. A continued hearing on Debtor's motion to use cash collateral is currently set for January 9, 2018.

Pursuant to the Court's instructions at the hearing on December 6, 2016, Debtor filed a stipulation regarding use of cash collateral and adequate protection between Debtor and Nations Fund I ("Creditor") on December 11, 2017. The deadline for opposition was December 15, 2017, and no timely opposition was received.

According to the stipulation, Creditor has a perfected security interest in all of Debtor's assets, securing a debt of $9,930,645.47. The stipulation provides that Debtor make adequate protection payments to Creditor in the amount of $65,000 twice a month. Furthermore, Debtor has agreed to provide Creditor with replacement

DISCUSSION

A. Cash Collateral

11 U.S.C. § 363(c)(1)-(2) (2010) states:

(c)(1) If the business of the debtor is authorized to be operated under section 721, 1108, 1203, 1204, or 1304 of this title and unless the court orders otherwise, the trustee may enter into transactions, including the sale or lease of property of the estate, in the ordinary course of business, without notice or a hearing, and may use property of the estate in the ordinary course of business without notice or a hearing.

(2) The trustee may not use, sell, or lease cash collateral under paragraph (1) of this subsection unless-

(A) each entity that has an interest in such cash collateral consents; or

(B) the court, after notice and a hearing, authorizes such use, sale, or lease in accordance with the provisions of this section.

11 U.S.C. § 363(a) defines cash collateral as:

cash, negotiable instruments, documents of title, securities, deposit accounts, or other cash equivalents whenever acquired in which the estate and an entity other than the estate have an interest and includes the proceeds, products, offspring, rents, or profits of property and the fees, charges, accounts or other payments for the use or occupancy of rooms and other public facilities in hotels, motels, or other lodging properties subject to a security interest as provided in section 552(b) of this title, whether existing before or after the commencement of a case under this title.

Here, as evidenced by the stipulation presented to the Court, Creditor has consented to the use of its cash collateral. Because Creditor is a party to the stipulation, the Court declines to analyze whether Creditor is adequately protected under the standard of 11 U.S.C. § 361.

The Court notes that the stipulation between Debtor and Creditor does not waive, modify, or alter the rights of any other secured creditor. To the extent any other secured creditor has an interest in cash collateral, Debtor must secure the consent of such entity, or authorization from the Court, before using the applicable cash collateral.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to APPROVE the stipulation between Auto Strap Transport, LLC and Nations Fund I, LLC.

From: 12/6/17

EH__

Docket 132

Tentative Ruling:

12/20/17

Although the lodestar approach is customary for attorney fee calculations, the Ninth Circuit has held that it is not required in the bankruptcy context where it would "not realistically quantify to numerical precision" the fee award. Unsecured Creditors' Comm. v. Puget Sound Plywood, Inc., 924 F.2d 955, 960 (9th Cir.1991).

The records of Trustee's Counsel contains numerous examples of "lumping". LBR 2016 specifically indicates that fee applications may not lump tasks performed. Lumping is prohibited specifically because it makes the task of determining reasonableness of counsel's time spent on specific tasks more difficult to achieve.

Here, the entries on February 23, 2016, March 11, 2016, April 5, 2016, April 14, 2016, and April 28, 2016, are samples of unacceptable lumping contained in the application. The difficulty in ascertaining reasonableness of fees when balanced against the amount recovered by Counsel for the Estate warrants a 10% further reduction (the Court acknowledges that fees were already reduced by stipulation with the Trustee by 7%) in fees of $6,385.40 for a total fee award of $57,469.10. While the Court believes there are other issues of reasonableness, given the totality of the circumstances, the Court is satisfied with a 10% reduction.

The applications for compensation of the Trustee, Counsel for the Trustee, and Accountant for the Trustee have been set for hearing on the notice required by LBR 2016-1. #6.00 Motion Objecting to Debtor's Claimed Exemptions

EH__

Docket 54

Tentative Ruling:

12/20/2017

BACKGROUND

On January 11, 2017 ("Petition Date"), Ariel Flores ("Debtor") filed her petition for chapter 7 relief. Larry Simons is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee"). On October 26, 2017, the Debtor amended schedules A/B and C [Docket Numbers 51 and 52] (the "Amended Schedules"). The Debtor's Amended Schedules seek to exempt $8,336 for 2016 Tax Returns as well as the $13,117 asserted value of a 2012 Honda Civic.

On November 21, 2017, the Trustee filed his Objection to Debtor's Claimed Exemptions ("Objection"). The Objection is timely and no opposition has been filed. Service appears proper under the circumstances.

DISCUSSION

I. The Tax Refunds

The Debtor claimed an exemption in 2016 tax refunds under California Code of Civil Procedure §§ 704.080, 704.070 and 706.051. Here, the Court is persuaded by the Trustee that § 704.080 (which applies to public benefits), § 704.070 (which applies to "paid earnings"), and § 706.051 (exempting from levy earnings necessary for support) are inapplicable to tax refunds. Additionally, the Debtor, for his part has not filed opposition or come forward with any legal authority indicating that the exemption is proper under either of the three subsections asserted in Amended Schedule C. For these reasons, the Court is inclined to SUSTAIN the Objection of the Trustee as to the claimed exemption in tax refunds.

II. The 2012 Honda Civic

The Debtor claimed an exemption in the 2012 Honda Civic under California Code of Civil Procedure §§ 704.010 and 704.060. First, although § 704.010 applies to the value of motor vehicles, the Trustee has pointed out that this exemption is capped at $3,050, and the Debtor has already claimed this exemption to cover two other vehicles – a 2000 Hyundai Accent and a 2015 Mazda SUV – for which the combined value of these vehicles totals $5,033. Thus, the Debtor's § 704.010 cap for motor vehicles has been reached and cannot be applied to safeguard the 2012 Honda Civic. Second, the Debtor attempts to exempt the Civic under § 704.060 (applicable to commercial vehicles). As to this second exemption, the Trustee correctly points out that the Debtor has provided no evidence that the Civic classifies as a "commercial vehicle" or that it can otherwise qualify as a "tool of the trade" vehicle such that this exemption would apply. Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to SUSTAIN the Objection of the Trustee as to the claimed exemption in the 2012 Honda Civic.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to SUSTAIN the Trustee's Objection in its entirety.

BACKGROUND

On July 27, 2017, Martha Lorena Soto Jimenez ("Debtor") filed her petition for chapter 7 relief. Todd Frealy is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee").

On November 28, 2017, the Trustee filed his Motion to Compel the Debtor to Appear for Her Meeting of Creditors and to Produce Documents Requested by Trustee ("Motion"). Service was proper and no opposition has been filed.

continued meetings of creditors. Additionally, the Debtor has failed to provide any of the documents requested by the Trustee at the initial meeting in August 2017.

Based on the foregoing, the Trustee seeks an order compelling the Debtor's appearance at her Section 341(a) meeting of creditors, and compelling the Debtor to produce the requested documents to the Trustee within 10 days of entry of an order granting the Motion.

Section 521(a)(3) of the Bankruptcy Code requires a Debtor's cooperation with the Trustee and §§ 521(a)(4) and 542 require the Debtor to turn over records relating to estate property. Here, the Debtor's failure to cooperate or turn over documents requested by the Trustee constitute represent an unacceptable unwillingness to comply with the duties concomitant to entitlement to a chapter 7 discharge.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion in its entirety.

BACKGROUND

On January 28, 2011, Brad & Deborah Stoddard ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On May 24, 2011, Debtors' Chapter 13 plan was confirmed. The plan contained the following provision, section V.F.: "The debt of American Education Services will be discharged; the school has been stripped of accreditation and is on probation." On December 5, 2016, Debtors received a discharge, and, on January 13, 2017, the case was closed.

On May 11, 2017, Debtors filed a motion for an order to show cause why creditor American Educational Services ("AES") should not be held in contempt court, and for damages and attorney's fees, for intentionally violating the discharge injunction. Because of inadequate service, the motion was originally denied without prejudice, and Debtors refiled the motion on June 1, 2017. AES filed its opposition on June 8, 2017. At a hearing on the matter on July 27, 2017, the Court continued the matter to

On July 31, 2017, the Court issued its Order to Show Cause why Matthew Resnik ("Resnik"), Brad Stoddard, and Deborah Stoddard should not be sanctioned for including a prohibited provision in a Chapter 13 plan (the "OSC"). Debtors filed their opposition on August 14, 2017. Resnik filed his opposition on August 17, 2017. AES filed its reply on August 24, 2017. Resnick filed supplemental responses on September 21 and 22, 2017.

DISCUSSION

I. Introduction

The OSC is issued in light of, and accordance with, the Supreme Court's decision in United Student Aid Funds, Inc. v. Espinosa, 559 U.S. 260 (2010). In Espinosa, the bankruptcy court had confirmed a Chapter 13 plan which purported to discharge student loan debt without complying with the applicable procedural requirements. After intercepting debtor's income tax refund to use towards payment of student loans, the creditor argued that the bankruptcy court's order confirming the debtor's Chapter 13 plan should be declared void. The Supreme Court held that, absent a jurisdictional or due process violation (which was not present) the bankruptcy court's legal error in confirming the Chapter 13 plan with a provision that impermissibly discharged student loan debt, did not render the order void. At the conclusion of its opinion, the Supreme Court opined:

We acknowledge the potential for bad-faith litigation tactics. But expanding the availability of relief under Rule 60(b)(4) is not an appropriate prophylaxis. As we stated in Taylor v. Freeland & Kronz, 503 U.S. 638 (1992), "debtors and their attorneys face penalties under various provisions for engaging in improper conduct in bankruptcy proceedings." Id. at 644; see also Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9011. The specter of such penalties should deter bad-faith attempts to discharge student loan debt without the undue hardship finding

Espinosa, 559 U.S. at 278. Here, the Court is tasked with interpreting and implementing the guidance provided by the Supreme Court in Espinosa.

Debtors and Resnick have filed separate responses to the Court's OSC. Debtors have raised five arguments in their opposition: (1) that the Court already found that the plan was filed in good faith; (2) that the plan must be given res judicata effect; (3) that the Court is exceeding its discretionary sanctioning authority; (4) that the OSC is an illegal ex post facto law; and (5) that Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9011 is inapplicable. Resnick offers the following categories of arguments in his opposition: (1) use of the Court's inherent sanctioning authority is inappropriate here; (2) Rule 9011 sanctions require a contempt finding; (3) Section 105 is inapplicable; and (4) the plan provision at issue is not prohibited. The Court will analyze the respondents' arguments separately.

II. Debtors' Opposition

A. The Court's Good Faith Finding

11 U.S.C. § 1325(a)(3) states:

- (a) Except as provided in subsection (b), the court shall confirm a plan if –
- (3) the plan has been proposed in good faith and not by any means forbidden by law

Debtors argue that: "[i]t necessarily follows [from § 1325(a)(3)] that the Court has already made an express finding that the Plan was filed in good faith." This result does not necessarily follow from the language of the statute. The plain language of § 1325 (a) operates to eliminate the discretion of the court if the court finds that the debtor has satisfied the nine subsections of § 1325(a); the provision does not state the consequences of a finding that some, but not all, of the § 1325(a) subsections have been satisfied. As is stated by the leading bankruptcy treatise:

The standards set forth in section 1325(a), however, are not requirements that must be met in every case before a plan can be confirmed. Unlike section 1322 (a), section 1325(a) does not state that "the plan shall" comply with its listed criteria. Nor does it state, as does section 1129(a), that the court shall confirm the plan only if certain requirements are met. Instead it states only that if its criteria are met the court must confirm the plan. Therefore, the court has discretion to confirm a plan that does not comply with all of the standards of section 1325(a), particularly if no party objects.

8 Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 1325.01 (16th ed. 2016) (footnotes omitted).

Despite the plain language of the statute, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, without any independent analysis, and relying on an out of circuit bankruptcy court decision, has determined that the requirements of § 1325(a) are mandatory for Chapter 13 plan confirmation. See In Chinichian, 784 F.2d 1440, 1443-44 (9th Cir. 1986) ("For a court to confirm a plan, each of the requirements of section 1325 must be present and the debtor has the burden of proving that each element has been met.") (citing In re Elkind, 11 B.R. 473, 476 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1981)). While it remains unclear from where the mandatory characterization of § 1325(a) arose, a variety of courts have, in passing, assumed that the § 1325(a) standards are mandatory for plan confirmation. See, e.g., Assocs. Comm. Corp. v. Rash, 520 U.S. 953, 956 (1997) ("To qualify for confirmation under Chapter 13, the Rash's plan had to satisfy the requirements set forth in § 1325(a) of the Code."); Shaw v. Aurgroup Fin. Credit Union, 552 F.3d 447, 459 (6th Cir. 2009) ("Numerous district and bankruptcy courts outside the Fifth, Ninth, Tenth, and Eleventh Circuits, including courts within this circuit, have also held, suggested, or assumed that the provision in § 1325(a) are mandatory.") (collecting cases). But see In re Szostek, 886 F.2d 1405, 1411 (3rd Cir. 1989) ("On the other hand, if the conditions of § 1325 are not met, although the requirements of § 1322 are fulfilled, the court has the discretion to confirm the plan. § 1325(a) to be mandatory, it could have included that requirement with the requirements already listed in § 1322); see also Matter of Escobedo, 28 F.3d 34, 34 (7th Cir. 1994) ("We note, however, as did the court in Szostek, that while the provisions of § 1325(a)(5) may be discretionary[,] the requirements of § 1322(a)(2) are mandatory.). Indeed, even Espinosa appears to implicitly assume that the § 1325(a) requirements are mandatory. See 559 U.S. 260, 277 ("That is because § 1325(a) instructs a bankruptcy court to confirm a plan only if the court finds, inter alia, that the plan complies with the 'applicable provisions' of the Code.") (emphasis added). Therefore, it would appear that binding case law suggests that the § 1325(a) requirements, including good faith, are mandatory requirements for confirmation.

B. Res Judicata

While the Court accepts Debtors' argument that, by confirming their Chapter 13 plan, the Court implicitly found that the plan was filed in good faith, the Court rejects Debtors' argument that that finding is res judicata with regard to the Court. 11 U.S.C. § 1327(a) states: "The provisions of a confirmed plan bind the debtor and each creditor, whether or not the claim of such creditor is provided for by the plan, and whether or not such creditor has objected to, has accepted, or has rejected the plan." The Court is not a creditor and Debtors have advanced no argument as to how § 1327(a) would prevent the Court from revisiting its finding of good faith. In fact, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals opinion that concluded the § 1325(a) requirements were mandatory stated the following: "Because section 1325(a)(3) of Title 11 requires the Chinichians to propose their plan in good faith, the bankruptcy court has jurisdiction to revoke a plan if the plan was not filed in good faith." In re Chinichian, 784 F.2d 1440, 1442 (9th Cir. 1986). The Ninth Circuit's further comments indicate that it believed such powers were expansive:

The Chinichians argue, however, that because section 1330 is a specific statute it should govern the more general section 105. The Mancari rationale that a specific statute cannot be nullified by a more general one is only applicable where a conflict exists.

Section 1330 provides a method of revoking a confirmation order "on request of a party in interest." While it does not specifically authorize such a revocation by the court sua sponte, it does not prohibit such action. Section 105 constitutes authority for the court to issue any order necessary to carry out the provisions of the Code. That reservoir of power in no manner conflicts with the authority to act upon the request of an interested party, but constitutes a supplemental method of revocation in the event of fraud. It would be absurd to hold that the bankruptcy court is powerless to correct a fraud unless first requested by an interested party, and that is not what section 1330 provides.

Section 105 sets out the power of the bankruptcy court to fashion orders as necessary pursuant to the purposes of the Bankruptcy Code.

Further, a bankruptcy court is a court of equity. As a court of equity, it may look through form to the substance of a transaction and devise new remedies where those at law are inadequate. Further, it can modify or vacate its order so long as no intervening right has become vested in reliance thereon. Thus, the bankruptcy court had equitable power to revoke its order partially confirming the Chinichians' plan once it recognized the Chinichians did not file their plan in good faith as required by section 1325(a)(3).

Id. at 1442-43 (citations omitted).

Debtors' argument that § 1327 operates to prevent the Court from modifying its implicit good faith finding when confirming the plan lacks merit. The statute states that the terms of the provisions of a confirmed plan are binding on the debtor and creditors. The Court is not a creditor or a debtor nor is the Court's good faith finding a provision of a confirmed plan. Nor does res judicata prevent a court from revoking or amending its own order. Such a principle would eliminate the ability to revoke or modify a judgment altogether, rendering obsolete Fed. R. Civ. P. Rules 59 & 60, in addition to many others legal provisions. Debtors' argument that the Court is bound by its own previous finding due to res judicata is not compelling.

Chapter 13

C. The Court Lacks Authority to Issue Sanctions

Debtors' argument that the Court lacks authority to issue sanctions can be summarized in the following: (1) the Court is precluded from finding that the plan was proposed in bad faith due to res judicata; and (2) the Court must find that the plan was proposed in bad faith for sanctions to be warranted. Because the Court rejects (1), as outlined above, Debtors' argument must fail.

D. The OSC is an "Illegal Ex Post Facto Law"

In their fourth argument, Debtors argue that this OSC is an ex post facto law. As noted by Debtors, Art. 1 §§ 9 & 10 of the Constitution prohibit ex post facto laws. Article 1 of the Constitution deals with the legislative branch – the branch of the government that makes laws. The Judicial Branch does not make laws. Debtors' argument that a court order is an ex post facto law is therefore, necessarily, invalid.

E. Rule 9011 is Inapplicable

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9011(b)(2) states:

By presenting to the court (whether by signing, filing, submitting, or later advocating) a petition, pleading, written motion, or other paper, an attorney or unrepresented party is certifying that to the best of the person's knowledge, information, and belief, formed after an inquiry reasonable under the circumstances, --

Chapter 13

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9011(c)(1)(B) states: "[O]n its own initiative, the court may enter an order describing the specific conduct that appears to violate subdivision (b) and directing an attorney, law firm, or party to show cause why it has not violated subdivision (b) with respect thereto."

Debtors' nine subsection argument why Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9011 is inapplicable is rather chaotic and disorganized. Regardless, the Court acknowledges that, as to Debtors, Rule 9011 sanctions are inapplicable due to the operation of Rule 9011(c)(2) (A). Therefore, the Court agrees that Rule 9011 cannot operate as the source of sanctions against Debtors.

III. Resnick's Opposition

A. Inherent Sanctioning Authority

The Supreme Court has stated: "it is firmly established that the power to punish for contempts is inherent in all courts." Chambers v. NASCO, Inc., 501 U.S. 32, 44 (1991) (quoting Ex parte Robinson, 19 Wall. 505, 510 (1874)); see also Fink v. Gomez, 239 F.3d 989, 992 (9th Cir. 2001) ("[T]he district court has the inherent authority to impose sanctions for bad faith, which includes a broad range of willful improper conduct."). The Ninth Circuit has stated: "Itel teaches that sanctions are justified when a party acts for an improper purpose – even if the act consists of making a truthful statement or a non-frivolous argument or objection. Fink, 239 F.3d at 922; see also In re Dyer, 322 F.3d 1178, 1196 (9th Cir. 2003) (discussing bad faith and willful misconduct).

Nevertheless, as Resnick states: "when there is bad-faith conduct in the course of litigation that could be adequately sanctioned under the Rules, the court ordinarily should rely on the Rules rather than the inherent power." Chambers, 501 U.S. at 50. Because the Court believes that the existing framework provides an adequate basis for sanctions in this type of situation, the Court need not rely on its inherent sanctioning authority.

B. Rule 9011

When imposing sanctions, sua sponte, under Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9011, "sanctions 'will ordinarily be imposed only in situations that are akin to a contempt of court.'" United Nat'l Ins. Co. v. R&D Latex Corp., 242 F.3d 1102, 1116 (9th Cir. 2001) (citing Barber v. Miller, 146 F.3d 707, 711 (9th Cir. 1998); see also Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 11, Advisory Committee Notes ("Since show cause orders will ordinarily be issued only in situations that are akin to a contempt of court, the rule does not provide a 'safe harbor' to a litigant for withdrawing a claim, defense, etc., after a show cause has been issued on the court's own initiative.")). "[P]rior to imposing court-initiated sanctions, the district court is required to determine whether counsel's conduct is 'akin to contempt.'" Gonzalez v. Texaco Inc., 344 Fed. Appx. 304, 308 (9th Cir. 2009) (quoting R&D Latex Corp., 242 F.3d 1102, 1118)).

In this situation, the Court defers to Bankruptcy Judge TeSelle:

At the hearing on the motions to dismiss conducted by the Court in these cases on May 2, 2000, it was clear to the Court that debtors' counsel included these plan provisions in the hope that they would trap an unwary student loan creditor. If a plan containing a student loan discharge provision is confirmed, debtors and their counsel argue that the student loan obligation is discharged under the theory of res judicata, improperly relying on a skewed interpretation of the opinion of the Tenth Circuit Court of Appeals in In re Andersen, 179 F.3d 1253 (10th Cir. 1999) to support their position. If an objection to confirmation is raised by either the Trustee or the student loan creditor, the offending language is simply removed from the plan, and debtors are no worse off for their attempt. The Court will not permit this type of gamesmanship on the part of debtors and their counsel to continue. Conduct such as this has no place in the practice of bankruptcy law, and will not be tolerated by this Court.

The citation of the opinion of the Tenth Circuit in Andersen, supra, as authority for the practice of intentionally inserting language in a chapter 13 plan that violates the Bankruptcy Code and Rules, and as authorizing counsel to stand by silently and thereby induce the Court to confirm a plan that contains a provision that counsel knows violates the Bankruptcy Code and Rules, is at once offensive and specious. Counsel appearing before this Court are officers of the Court and are ethically obligated to inform the Court if they are aware of the existence of a plan provision that renders the plan non-confirmable.

Rather than recognizing their obligations to the Court and to opposing counsel, counsel for debtors in these cases go so far as to suggest that they are compelled by Andersen to recommend that their clients include these unlawful plan provisions, implying that their failure to do so might be an act of professional negligence. The Court does not believe that a fair reading of the opinion of the Tenth Circuit in Andersen can reasonably lead one to conclude that the Tenth Circuit intended to encourage the practice of intentionally inserting unlawful plan provisions in the hope that confirmation of the plan will occur and the time for appeal will pass before such provisions are noticed so that debtors and their counsel can then claim res judicata. Such a skewed reading of Andersen fails to account for the ethical obligations owed by members of the bar to the Court and to each other.

This is particularly true given the volume of chapter 13 filings in this district, and the fact that the Court does not have the time to independently review every chapter 13 plan and confirmation order to determine whether an attempt to unlawfully discharge a student loan obligation is being made. Because the Court has apparently been unable to rely on the ethical conduct of some of the counsel representing chapter 13 debtors appearing before it, the Court, up to his point in time, has been forced to rely on a party in interest other than the debtor to point out those instances in which such student loan discharges have been attempted through plan provisions. Where the Court has become aware of such attempts, either through objections by the student loan creditor or through the inclusion of such a provision in the order confirming the chapter 13 plan, the Court has refused to confirm the plan containing such language, and has stricken language from confirmation orders attempting to effect a discharge of student loan indebtedness in this manner.

In light of the existing case law concerning the impropriety of the inclusion of such student loan discharge provisions in chapter 13 plans, and the unambiguous language of the Bankruptcy Code and Rules, the Court believes that the inclusion of such a provision in a chapter 13 plan and/or order confirming a chapter 13 plan is both unethical and sanctionable conduct pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9011. Bankruptcy Rule 9011(b) concerns representations made to the Court. It states that by presenting a paper to the Court, an attorney or unrepresented party certifies to the best of his or her knowledge, information and belief, formed after a reasonable inquiry under the circumstances, that the legal contentions therein are warranted by existing law or by a nonfrivolous argument for the extension, modification, or reversal of existing law or the establishment of new law. See Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9011 (b)(2).

The Court refuses to allow counsel for debtors to turn the inclusion of a student loan discharge provision in a chapter 13 plan into a "can't lose" proposition. The Court therefore concludes that Andersen provides no protection from the imposition of sanctions under Rule 9011(b) in cases in which a student loan discharge provision is included in a confirmed chapter 13 plan.

C. Section 105

11 U.S.C. § 105(a) states:

- (a) The court may issue any order, process, or judgment that is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of this title. No provision of this title providing for the raising of an issue by a party in interest shall be construed to preclude the court from, sua sponte, taking any action or making any determination necessary to enforce or implement court orders or rules, or to prevent an abuse of process.

Resnick offers a single argument in support of his position that § 105(a) is inapplicable: that the provision only applies to violations of a specific court order. Resnick cites In re Dyer in support of this statement. 322 F.3d 1178, 1196 (9th Cir. 2003) ("Civil contempt authority allows a court to remedy a violation of a specific order (including 'automatic' orders, such as the automatic stay or discharge injunction).").

Dyer does not explicitly state that § 105(a) is strictly limited to remedying violations of specific court orders, nor does it cite any authority from which it could be inferred that the Dyer court had such an opinion. Indeed § 105(a) explicitly mentions, in addition to court orders, rules and "abuse of process"; the latter might be invoked in the absence of a specific court order.

The Supreme Court, on two occasions after Dyer, has written an opinion which indicates that § 105 is not strictly limited to correcting violations of specific court orders. First, in Marrama v. Citizens Bank of Mass., the Supreme Court wrote:

On the contrary, the broad authority granted to bankruptcy judges to take any action that is necessary or appropriate to prevent an abuse of process described in § 105(a) of the Code, is surely adequate to authorize an immediate denial of a motion to convert filed under § 706 in lieu of a conversion order that merely postpones the allowance of equivalent relief and may provide a debtor with an opportunity to take action prejudicial to creditors.

549 U.S. 365, 375 (2007) (footnote omitted). The "abuse of process" referenced in Marrama was not a violation of a specific court order, but, rather, "an unmeritorious attempt to qualify as a debtor under Chapter 13." Id.

Second, in Law v. Siegel, the Supreme Court stated: "Section 105(a) confers authority to 'carry out' the provisions of the Code." This statement is natural, since the first sentence of § 105(a) states: "[t]he court may issue any order, process, or judgment that is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of this title."

Here, the Court concludes that a specific and definite court order has not been violated. Nevertheless, the reconciliation of Dyer and Marrama helps illustrate the proper approach forward. The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeal's instructions that sanctions under § 105(a) are appropriate for violation of a specific and definite court order is derived from the non-bankruptcy standard for civil contempt. See F.T.C. v. Affordable Media, 179 F.3d 1228, 1239 (9th Cir. 1999) (quoting Stone v. City & Cnty. of S.F., 968 F.2d 850, 856 n.9 (9th Cir. 1992)) ("The moving party has the burden of showing by clear and convincing evidence that the contemnors violated a specific and definite order of the court. The burden then shifts to the contemnors to demonstrate why they were unable to comply."). Nevertheless, as illustrated by Marrama, the Court's authority under § 105(a) is not strictly limited to issuing sanctions for civil contempt. While a civil contempt finding under § 105(a) may not be appropriate in these circumstances, it does not follow that the Court lacks the ability to adequately and equitably resolve this situation.

#10.00 Motion of Cross-Defendants Jose Pastora and Theresa Mann to Dismiss First Amended Cross Complaint

Docket 54

Tentative Ruling:

12/21/17

BACKGROUND

On December 21, 2016, Mark & Natasha Reynoso ("Plaintiffs") filed a complaint to determine non-dischargeability of debt pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A) against Douglas & Anne Goodman ("Debtors"). On February 3, 2017, the complaint was dismissed with leave to amend, and, on February 28, 2017, Plaintiffs filed an amended complaint. On March 31, 2017, Debtors filed another motion to dismiss, which was orally denied on May 4, 2017, although it does not appear that an order was ever lodged by Plaintiffs.

On June 5, 2017, Debtors filed an answer ("Answer") and what was characterized as a "cross-claim" against Jose Pastora ("Pastora") and Theresa Mann ("Mann"). On July 18, 2017, Mann & Pastora filed a motion to dismiss the "cross-complaint," and, on September 25, 2017, the "cross-complaint" was dismissed with leave to amend. On October 16, 2017, Debtors filed an amended "cross-complaint". On November 6, 2017, Pastora & Mann filed another motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim based on a variety of technical legal arguments. On December 6, 2017, Debtors filed their opposition to the motion to dismiss.

The factual basis of the non-dischargeability complaint is as follows: on February 12, 2015, Plaintiffs purchased certain real property located in Upland, California from Debtors. Mann and Remax Masters Realty worked as "dual agents" for Plaintiffs and Debtors. Plaintiffs contend that Mann represented that the square footage of the real property was 3,231 square feet, when in fact the actual square footage was only 2,713. Plaintiffs contend that Debtors (or at least Ms. Goodman) ratified this representation. Plaintiffs also allege that Ms. Goodman represented that a water leak in the bathroom had been repaired, but that the leak was not repaired. Debtors contend that no misrepresentations were made, and, alternatively, that if any misrepresentations were made, those misstatements were only made by Mann or Pastora.

DISCUSSION

I. Motion to Dismiss

Mann & Pastora make three arguments in their motion to dismiss: (1) that the amended third-party complaint should be dismissed based on binding admissions of Debtors; (2) that the amended complaint should be dismissed as a matter of state law; and (3) that Pastora is not a proper third-party defendant.

Regarding the first argument, Mann & Pastora identify portions of Debtors' Answer to the first amended complaint where Debtors generally denied Plaintiff's allegations, including denying that any misrepresentations were made to Plaintiffs. Mann & Pastora then provide the following analysis in their motion:

Chapter 13

¶¶¶ 8-10 cites what is alleged in the First Amended Complaint, but what a plaintiff alleges are merely inadmissible allegations, but what a party alleges are legally binding on said party. ¶¶¶ 11, 18, 28, and 35, claim that GOODMAN never made any such misrepresentations. This does establish wrongdoing by Cross-Defendants, as GOODMAN has admitted that Plaintiffs do not have a case.

There are a variety of problems with the above line of argument. First, the analysis provided by Mann & Pastora is nonsensical to the extent it can be comprehended. Second, the argument of Mann & Pastora, that "[s]tatements made in any pleading, [sic] are judicial admissions that bind the party making the admission throughout the litigation," is overly broad. This is especially true given that the final sentence of Mann & Pastora's analysis begins with: "[t]his does establish wrongdoing by Cross-Defendants," a statement which, under the interpretation advanced by Mann & Pastora, would appear to conclusively resolve the third-party complaint against them.

Apart from the serious drafting errors in the motion to dismiss, the argument is fundamentally flawed for several reasons –most notably because the denials in Debtors' answer are not admissions. An admission is defined as: "A statement in which someone admits that something is true or that he or she has done something wrong; any statement or assertion made by a party to a case and offered against that party; an acknowledgment that facts are true." Black's Law Dictionary (10th ed. 2014). Here the alleged admissions in the answer do not admit the truth of a fact, do not admit wrongdoing, and are not directed against the party making the statement. In fact, the statements are quite the opposite of an admission – they are a denial.

To illustrate why an admission and a denial are different, the Court points to the pertinent and thoughtful opinion on the matter in In re Applin, 108 B.R. 253, 258 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. 1989), which included the following:

Thus, the statement is no more than an argumentative assertion of a defense in a paper that, taken in its context, has the tenor of merely announcing that the debtors intended to put the moving party to its proof. It was the equivalent of an inconsistent plea.

Judicial admissions are not made upon ambiguous, 'assuming arguendo' comments by counsel and are not made upon inconsistent pleas.

See also id. at n.7 (providing a clear description of judicial admissions).

Finally, the Court notes that "[a] trial has discretion whether to accept a judicial admission." Singer v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 116 F.3d 373, 376 (9th Cir. 1997). If there remains any doubt whether the subject statements are a judicial admission, the Court notes that it, alternatively, exercises its discretion to not accept the statements as a judicial admission.

Mann & Pastora's second argument is that the third-party complaint should be dismissed pursuant to California law, specifically Cal. Civ. Code § 1088. This argument lacks a valid legal basis because California law is not at issue in this proceeding. As noted above, Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 14(a)(1) allows a defending party to bring a third-party complaint against "a nonparty who is or may be liable to it for all or part of the claim against it." There is no claim under California law against Debtors at this time, and, therefore, no claim under California law against Mann & Pastora at this time. Therefore, the elements and defenses that may arise under California law are irrelevant.

The third argument is that Pastora should be dismissed from the action. Among other things, the arguments point out that the amended third-party complaint does not raise any allegations against Pastora, but, instead, merely states that Pastora was involved in the sale and worked with Mann. The amended third-party complaint appears to contend that because Pastora worked with Mann he is also responsible for any statements Mann made. Specifically, the amended third-party complaint states: "[t]hese representations, and any alleged misrepresentations, were made by MANN, Remax Masters Realty, and therefore PASTORA as well since PASTORA was also working through Remax Masters Realty on this particular transaction."

To avoid dismissal under Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 12(b)(6), a plaintiff must aver in the complaint 'sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to 'state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.'" Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009) (quoting Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007)). It is axiomatic that a claim cannot be plausible when it has no legal basis. A dismissal under Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 12(b)(6) may be based either on the lack of a cognizable legal theory or on the absence of sufficient facts alleged under a cognizable legal theory. Johnson v. Riverside Healthcare Sys., 534 F.3d 1116, 1121 (9th Cir.2008).

Here, the amended third-party complaint lacks a cognizable legal theory to support a cause of action against Pastora. The assertions in the amended third-party complaint, if taken as true, do not support a cause of action against Pastora. Therefore, the Court is inclined to dismiss Pastora from the action.

II. Jurisdictional Issues

Additionally, the Court notes that there are significant, complicated jurisdictional concerns related to this "cross-complaint." As will be outlined below, the case law on the issue is sparse and does not directly resolve the issue.

As a preliminary matter, Plaintiffs complaint against Debtor was filed under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A) states:

- (a) A discharge under section 727, 1141, 1228(a), 1228(b), or 1328(b) of this title does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt –
 - (2) for money, property, services, or an extension, renewal, or

Chapter 13

refinancing of credit, to the extent obtained by –

(A) false pretenses, a false representation, or actual fraud, other than a statement respecting the debtor's or an insider's financial condition;

Therefore, Plaintiffs are requesting that the Court determine that their claim against Debtors is excepted from Debtor's discharge, if a discharge is received by Debtors, because their claim falls under the above exception. Additionally, Plaintiffs appear to be requesting a money judgment against Debtors.¹ The Court notes that while there is a split in authority regarding a bankruptcy's jurisdiction to enter a money judgment in a non-dischargeability proceeding, within the Ninth Circuit that question is answered in the affirmative. See In re Kennedy, 108 F.3d 1015 (9th Cir. 1997). But see 4 Collier's on Bankruptcy ¶ 523.32 (16th 3d. 2009) ("Courts are divided as to whether the bankruptcy court has subject matter jurisdiction to enter a money judgment in a nondischargeability determination."). The Ninth Circuit has been persuaded that the determination of dischargeability and the fixing of the amount of the non-dischargeable debt are inseparable functions. See id. at 1017-18 (quoting In re Devitt, 126 B.R. 212, 215 (Bankr. D. Md. 1991) ("If it is acknowledge as beyond question that a complaint to determine dischargeability of a debt is exclusively within the equitable jurisdiction of the bankruptcy court, then it must follow that the bankruptcy court may also render a money judgment in an amount certain without the assistance of a jury. This is true not merely because equitable jurisdiction attaches to the entire cause of action but more importantly because it is impossible to separate the determination of dischargeability function from the function of fixing the amount of the non-dischargeable debt.")).

As a second preliminary matter, the "cross-complaint" at issue here is not a cross-complaint. The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, unlike the California Code of Civil Procedure, explicitly distinguishes between counter-claims (FRCP 13(a)-(e)), cross-claims (FRCP 13(g)), and third-party complaints (FRCP 14(a)). But see Cal. Code Civ. P. § 428.10 (referring to them all as "cross-claims"). Fed. R. Civ. P. Rules 13 and 14 are applicable in adversary proceedings. See Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 7013-7014. The "cross-complaint" at issue here is actually a third-party complaint. Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 14(a)(1) states:

Chapter 13

A defending party may, as third-party plaintiff, serve a summons and complaint on a nonparty who is or may be liable to it for all or part of the claim against it. But the third-party plaintiff must, by motion, obtain the court's leave if it files the third-party complaint more than 14 days after serving its original answer.

The concept of a third-party complaint in a non-dischargeability proceeding raises immediate issues. First and foremost, that part of Plaintiffs' complaint that requests that their claim be excepted from Debtor's discharge is clearly not the appropriate subject for a third-party complaint. See, e.g., In re Narumanchi, 221 B.R. 311, 315 n.9 (Bankr. D. Conn. 1998) ("Indeed the Court questions whether an entity could ever be secondarily liable to a bankruptcy debtor in connection with a determination of the dischargeability of a debt, given that pure dischargeability actions are declaratory in nature."). Furthermore, it is unclear if this Court has jurisdiction to consider the third-party complaint even where the non-dischargeability complaint also seeks a money judgment.

There appear to be only three cases that cite Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 7014 in the context of a non-dischargeability proceeding. In the first, In re Narumanchi, 221 B.R. 311 (Bankr. D. Conn.), the bankruptcy court abstained from hearing that part of the non-dischargeability complaint which requested a money judgment, limiting its review to the dischargeability of the debt. The bankruptcy court then, sua sponte, dismissed the third-party complaint as improper. In the second, In re McCarter, 289 B.R. 759 (Bankr. D.N.M. 2002), the bankruptcy court noted that the debtors had received a discharge and their Chapter 7 case had been fully administered. The bankruptcy court then reasoned that it either could not or would not exercise jurisdiction to hear the request for a money judgment, and consequently dismissed the third-party complaint as improper. And, in the third, In re Pompa, 2013 WL 2286080 (Bankr. W.D. Pa. 2013), the bankruptcy court noted that the non-dischargeability complaint did not include a request for a money judgment, and it dismissed the third-party complaint as improper. None of these three cases clearly resolves the issue here, and the jurisdictional question requires a more nuanced analysis.

A return to the nature of the non-dischargeability complaint and the third-party complaint is necessary to more thoroughly articulate the jurisdictional issues. The non-dischargeability complaint was filed pursuant to § 523(a)(2)(A), and the elements of that provision are well established: (1) the debtor made a false representation to deceive the creditor; (2) the creditor relief on the misrepresentation; (3) the reliance was justified; and (4) the plaintiff sustained a loss as a result of the misrepresentation. See, e.g., In re White, 550 B.R. 615, 620 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. 2016).

Therefore, in the absence of a false representation attributable to Debtors, the non-dischargeability complaint would not be successful, and there would no need for a third-party complaint. If there is a false representation attributable to Debtors, the implication would be that Debtors could be characterized as intentional tortfeasors. See 4 Collier's on Bankruptcy ¶ 523.08[1][d] (16th ed. 2016) ("The frauds included in the portion of section 523(a)(2)(A) under discussion are those that in fact involve moral turpitude or intentional wrong; fraud implied in law, which may be established without imputation or immorality, is insufficient."). This raises an additional issue because "third-party complaints for indemnification routinely are dismissed where the defendant/third-party plaintiff may be liable on the primary complaint only if he or she is an intentional wrongdoer." In re Pompa at *4 (citing United Orient Bank, et. al. v. Green, 207 B.R. 762 (S.D.N.Y. 1997)). In California, however, comparative equitable indemnification is permitted, at least in some circumstances, among joint intentional tortfeasors. See In re First Alliance Mortg. Co., 471 F.3d 977 (9th Cir. 2006); State Compensation Ins. Fund v. Drobot, 2015 WL 12712320 (C.D. Cal. 2015); Baird v. Jones, 21 Cal. App.4th 684 (Cal. Ct. App. 1993).

California's allowance of comparative equitable indemnification in the context of joint intentional tortfeasors does not, however, definitely resolve the jurisdictional question. As discussed above, the Ninth Circuit has recognized a bankruptcy court's jurisdiction to enter a money judgment on a state law claim in conjunction with a non-dischargeability proceeding, but the legal basis for that jurisdiction is somewhat unclear. In re Kennedy, 108 F.3d 1015 (9th Cir. 1997) (primarily focusing on practical concerns); see also 4 Collier's on Bankruptcy ¶ 523.32 (16th ed. 2009) (outlining the conflicting opinions on a bankruptcy court's jurisdiction to enter a money judgment). While liquidating the amount of Plaintiffs' claim may be necessary in the non-dischargeability proceeding, determining the liability of Mann & Pastora, and assigning comparative fault appear to go beyond the scope of a typical non-dischargeability proceeding. A determination of the latter issues would require the Court to hold a trial on the interactions between two non-debtor parties (Plaintiffs and Mann), and to review the statements made by a non-debtor party, when only the statements of the Debtors are clearly relevant in a non-dischargeability proceeding.

The pragmatic considerations that have been referenced in decisions affording bankruptcy courts jurisdiction to enter a money judgment in a non-dischargeability proceeding do not appear to be present here.

More importantly, however, while Plaintiffs have requested a money judgment in their first amended complaint, they do not appear to have provided any legal basis for their request – i.e. there is no state law basis to enter a money judgment. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2) is not a basis to enter a money judgment; the plain language of the statute provides that it is a basis for finding a debt to be non-dischargeable. If Plaintiffs want a money judgment, they need to provide a non-bankruptcy law basis for their request.² Without that basis, it is impossible to determine what comparative equitable indemnification laws apply (or, as identified above, what state law affirmative defenses may apply), and, therefore, whether the third-party complaint is legally permissible.

Because Plaintiffs' amended complaint only contains a cause of action pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A), it would appear that there is no legal basis for a money judgment to be entered in the non-dischargeability complaint. Because there appears to be no legal basis for a money judgment to be entered in the non-dischargeability complaint, it would appear that the third-party complaint is improper.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion to the extent the motion seeks to have Pastora dismissed from the action and DENY the motion otherwise. In connection with any future motion to dismiss, parties to include briefing on the jurisdictional and procedural issues raised in this tentative ruling.

#3.00 Motion RE: Objection to Claim Number 5 by Claimant Internal Revenue Service.

EH__

Docket 186

Tentative Ruling:

12/21/17

Background:

On October 24, 2014, Vivian Munson ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On December 5, 2014, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed. Six days later, the case was dismissed for failure to file copies of payment advices. The next day, Debtor filed a motion to vacate dismissal. On January 6, 2015, dismissal was vacated, and, three days later, another order confirming plan was entered. The plan has been modified once since confirmation.

On March 13, 2015, the IRS filed a claim in the amount of $73,494.83, of which amount $28,652.56 was identified as secured ("Claim 5"). On May 15, 2015, the IRS amended Claim 5 to assert a claim of $37,350.59, of which $20,231.20 was identified as secured. On March 4, 2016, the IRS again amended Claim 5, this time to assert a claim of $28,880.97, of which $20,761.34 was identified as secured. On November 2, 2017, Debtor filed an objection to Claim 5. On December 7, 2017, the IRS filed its opposition.

Debtor previously received a Chapter 7 discharge on September 2, 2014, and Debtor argues that the personal liability for Claim 5 was eliminated by that discharge. The IRS has responded by stating that Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 7001(6) requires Debtor to bring an adversary proceeding to determine the dischargeability of Claim 5.

Applicable Law:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

Chapter 13

Analysis:

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 7001(6) states:

An adversary proceeding is governed by the rules of this Part VII. The following are adversary proceedings:

(6) a proceeding to determine the dischargeability of debt.

The above provision not only applies to creditors who wish to have a debt determined to be non-dischargeable, it also applies to debtors who wish to secure a determination that a debt is dischargeable. See, e.g., In re Galey, 230 B.R. 898 (Bankr. S.D. Ga. 1999); In re Horn, 169 B.R. 218 (Bankr E.D. Okla. 1994) (pre-petition tax liability); see also 10 Collier's on Bankruptcy ¶ 7001.07 (16th ed. 2016) ("Similarly, if there is a question as to whether a particular debt is excepted from discharge, the debtor may desire to have the court determine its dischargeability. In either instance, the Bankruptcy Rules require that the request for such a determination take the form of an adversary proceeding.").

Here, the IRS has asserted Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 7001(6) in its opposition and, therefore, the procedural requirement is not waived. If Debtor wishes to have Claim 5 deemed to have been previously discharged, Debtor is required to file an adversary proceeding.

Docket 22

Tentative Ruling:

12/21/2017

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion for a variety of reasons. First, the motion identifies the hearing time as "12:30 a.m.". Second, while the proof of services states "[c]ertified mail required for service on a national bank," Debtor has served national banks by regular mail. Third, Debtor has not served the secured creditors pursuant to Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 7004. Finally, section 3 of the motion, which identifies the liens, states that the junior lien "is not to be avoided," meaning that the motion technically does not request any relief.

#43.00 CONT Motion in Individual Case for Order Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate 79039 Lake Club Dr, Bermuda Dunes, CA 92203; Decl of Simon E Williams

MOVANT: SIMON E WILLIAMS

From: 12/19/17

EH__

Docket 4

Tentative Ruling:

12/19/2017

Service: Proper
Opposition: None

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion. First, notice to the law firm that represented the secured creditor (the primary party at whom the motion is directed) does not include the handling lawyers' names. As such notice is problematic as it will be delayed getting into the proper hands. Second, the prior case was not dismissed because of an ordinary payment default, as the motion implies, but because of failure to turn over tax refunds. Third, Debtor does not need the stay to seek a loan modification. Last, any equity in the Debtor's residence will be recovered, on sale by the Trustee (not the Debtor) for the benefit of the estate, and the Trustee has not joined this request. Thus, Debtor has failed to rebut the presumption of lack of good faith as to U.S. Bank pursuant to § 362(c)(3)(C)(ii).

MOVANT: KATRINA RENEE MCDOWELL

From: 12/19/17

EH__

Docket 12

Tentative Ruling:

12/19/2017

Service: Proper
Opposition: None

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion. The Court notes that pursuant to § 362(c)(3)(C)(i)(II)(cc) this case was presumptively filed in bad faith as to all creditors, and Debtor has not provided clear and convincing evidence to the contrary. Specifically, Debtor's previous Chapter 13 case was dismissed approximately one year into the plan for failure to make plan payments. Debtor has generally averred that her income has increased and that she is capable of making plan payments, and that her income will increase once she passes the state bar examination. Such a general assertion, however, fails to satisfy the "clear and convincing" standard of § 362(c)(3)(C).

APPEARANCES REQUIRED.
