 VACATED  REASON: WITHDRAWAL OF MOTION FLD 3/9/17

Tentative Ruling:

03/07/17

The Debtor's case was dismissed on February 9, 2017, therefore no stay is in place. However, the Movant has also requested relief under § 362(d)(4). As to this request, service is improper. The proof of service indicates that the Motion was served on the Debtor at "1925 Ridge Dr" instead of the correct mailing address "1925 Scenic Ridge Dr." On this basis, the Court is inclined to CONTINUE the hearing on the Motion to April 4, 2017, at 10:00 a.m. for Movant to re-serve the pleadings.

Docket 9

Tentative Ruling:

4/4/17

"It is appropriate for bankruptcy courts to avoid incursions into family law matters out of considerations of court economy, judicial restraint, and deference to our state court brethren and their established expertise in such matters." In re Stanwyck, 2008 WL 8448839 at *4 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2008) (quoting In re MacDonald, 755 F.2d 715, 717 (9th Cir. 1985)). Furthermore, 11 U.S.C. § 362(b)(2)(A)(ii)-(iv) provides exceptions to the automatic for certain matters that are within the scope of the motion.

There are, however, requests contained within the motion that extend beyond the scope of the exceptions and the Stanwyck decision, requests that involve "the division of property that is property of the estate." The appropriate balance is to allow the state court to conduct equitable distribution proceedings in state court, while this Court retains jurisdiction over distributions from, and claims against, the estate. See, e.g., In re Robbins, 964 F.2d 342, 345-46 (4th Cir. 1992) ("[T]he bankruptcy court correctly placed equitable distribution disputes in the category of cases in which state courts have a special expertise and for which federal courts owe significant deference Other courts that have considered the issue of lifting an automatic stay in order to let equitable distribution proceedings conclude in state court have sensibly done so while retaining jurisdiction to make the subsequent distributions from the estate."); In re

Roger, 539 B.R. 837, 845 (C.D. Cal. 2015) ("According to the court in Curtis, the most important factor in determining whether to grant relief from the automatic stay to permit litigation against the debtor in another forum is the effect of such litigation on the administration of the estate."). The factors the Court should consider on a motion for relief from stay to proceed in a non-bankruptcy forum are the Curtis factors. See, e.g., In re Roger, 539 B.R. 837, 844-45 (C.D. Cal. 2015). The application of these factors in a divorce dissolution proceeding, such as this, generally results in a finding that granting relief from stay is proper. See, e.g., In re Taub, 438 B.R. 39, 45-50 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 2010) (applying Sonnax factors, which are identical to the Curtis factors). Ultimately, Debtor provides no justification for why the divorce proceeding should be stayed, and, in accordance with MacDonald decision, the state court is the proper venue for the proceeding to occur. Furthermore, the evidence submitted by Movant indicates that staying the divorce proceedings may prejudice Movant, as there appears to be a possibility that Debtor is attempting to hide assets.

For the reasons described above, the Court is inclined to GRANT the alternative relief requested by Movant, listed in ¶ 5 of their attachment to the request for relief. Movant will be allowed to proceed in state court to a final judgment. The stay will remain in effect with respect to the enforcement of any judgment against Debtor or property of the bankruptcy estate, subject to the exceptions outlined in § 362(b)(2)(A)(ii)-(iv), and this Court retains jurisdiction over distributions from, and claims against property, property of the estate.

#9.00 Motion to Convert Case From Chapter 7 to 13

EH__

Docket 33

Tentative Ruling:

04/05/17

BACKGROUND

On August 30, 2016 ("Petition Date"), Efren Estrada ("Debtor"), filed his petition for chapter 7 relief. Charles Daff is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee"). On December 12, 2016, the Debtor received a chapter 7 discharge.

On March 14, 2017 (or approximately 7 months after the Petition Date and post-discharge), the Debtors filed their motion for conversion of their case to a case under chapter 13 ("Motion"). On March 22, 2017, the Trustee filed opposition to the Debtors' Motion ("Opposition"). On March 29, 2017, the Debtors filed their reply ("Reply").

DISCUSSION

The Trustee argues that the Debtor's Motion should be denied because it has been filed in bad faith and because the Debtor's chapter 7 discharge precludes conversion pursuant to this Court's holding in In re Santos, 561 B.R. 825, 829 (C.D. Cal. 2017).

In response, the Debtor asserts that he will propose a chapter 13 plan that would pay the creditors whose debts have presumably already been discharged in this case. The only basis advanced by the Debtor to support his contention that a Debtor can propose to pay already discharged debts in a post-discharge converted chapter 13 case is that a different Judge in the Central District permitted such conversion in another case known to Counsel for the Debtor. The Debtor, however, has not indicated the legal basis for this other court's ruling and such ruling would not be binding on this Court. Separately, the Court notes that although not expressly discussed in the Memorandum Decision on Santos, the Debtors in that case had also proposed to pay creditors whose debts had already been discharged at 100% through a confirmed chapter 13 plan. However, the bare promise that such a plan will be proposed where the Debtor's chapter 7 debts have already been discharged has no binding effect.

Having failed to distinguish Santos, the Court declines to reach the issues raised by the Trustee regarding alleged bad faith of the Debtor in failing to properly identify the nature of his interest in the Property.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, and following the Santos holding, the Court finds that "cause" exists to deny the Debtor's request for conversion because the Debtor has received the benefits of a chapter 7 discharge and now seeks to avoid the concomitant burden of allowing the Trustee to administer the Debtor's assets for the benefit of creditors.

BACKGROUND

On September 20, 2016, Jorge Lazaro and Yessenia Lazaro (collectively, "Debtors") filed their petition for chapter 7 relief. Todd Frealy is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee"). Among the assets of the bankruptcy estate is certain real property located at 2021 Adrienne Dr. in Corona, CA (the "Property").

On January 5, 2017, the Trustee filed his Application to Employ Keller Williams Realty & KW Commercial ("Broker") as Real Estate Broker ("Application") in order to appraise, market, and sell the Property.

On January 19, 2017, the Office of the United States Trustee ("UST") filed a limited opposition to the alternative compensation structure proposed by the Trustee. Specifically, the Trustee proposed that if the Debtors purchased the estate's equity in the Property, the Broker would receive 6% of the sum paid to the Trustee (the "Alternative Compensation").

On February 1, 2017, the Trustee filed his Reply to UST's Opposition and indicated that he would withdraw his request for approval of the Alternative Compensation.

DISCUSSION

Pursuant to § 327(a), the trustee, subject to the court's approval, may employ professional persons, such as auctioneers, to perform services for the estate so long as that representation is not adverse to the estate and the professional is a disinterested person. Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("F.R.B.P.") 2014 and Local Bankruptcy Rule ("L.B.R.") 2014-1 govern the employment of professional persons.

The Application is supported by the declaration of W. Darrow Fiedler, a licensed real estate broker with Broker. In his declaration, Mr. Fiedler sets forth the disinterestedness of the Broker and his acknowledgment that he cannot be paid without approval from the Bankruptcy Court. The evidence satisfies § 327(a). Additionally, the Court has evaluated the Notice of the Application and service and has determined that the Application complies with FRBP 2014 and LBR 2014.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Application in its entirety as amended by the Reply, subject to the UST's confirmation that its concerns have been adequately addressed.

BACKGROUND

On February 22, 2017, Marco and Grazia Ibarra (collectively, "Debtors") filed their petition for chapter 7 relief. The petition reflects that the Debtors were assisted in the filing of the bankruptcy case by Jonathan Preston ("Counsel").

On February 28, 2017, the case was dismissed for failure of the Debtors to file schedules.

On March 13, 2017, the Office of the United States Trustee ("UST") filed its Notice of Motion and Motion for Order Compelling Attorney to File Disclosure of compensation Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 329 ("Motion"). Service was proper and the Motion is unopposed.

#15.00 CONT Motion to Dismiss Second Amended Complaint

From: 3/22/17

Docket 41

Tentative Ruling:

04/05/2017

BACKGROUND

On July 29, 2016, Revere Financial Corporation ("RFC"), acting as Liquidating Trustee for the bankruptcy estate of Douglas J. Roger ("Debtor"), filed a complaint for avoidance and recovery of certain transfers made to Bank of Southern California, N.A. ("Defendant" or "BSC"), prepetition. On September 7, 2016, in response to a Motion to Dismiss filed by Defendant, RFC indicated its intent to exercise its right under FRCP 15 to file an amended complaint rather than file opposition to the Defendant's motion.

On September 21, 2016, RFC filed its First Amended Complaint (the "FAC"), alleging the following claims as to Defendant: (1) Intentional Fraudulent Transfer (Count One – Receiver Order); (2) Intentional Fraudulent Transfer (Count Two – Statutory); (3) Preferential Transfer; (4) Unjust Enrichment; and (5) Money Had and Received. At issue is a single August 28, 2013, transfer from OIC Medical Corporation ("OIC") to Defendant of $408,947 (the "Transfer"). On December 13, 2016, the Court dismissed the FAC with leave to amend. On February 1, 2017, RFC filed its Second Amended Complaint (the "SAC"). The SAC and FAC allege the same claims against BSC based on the premise that OIC - the Debtor's wholly-owned and controlled medical corporation, held the Transfer solely for the Debtor's benefit or was a mere conduit for the Debtor's attempt to shield the Transfer from the receivership order entered in state court as to Dr. Roger's assets.

On February 28, 2017, BSC filed its Motion to Dismiss the SAC ("Motion").

RFC filed opposition on March 8, 2017 ("Opposition") and a reply to the opposition was filed by BSC on March 15, 2017 ("Reply").

DISCUSSION

Consideration of Documents not attached to the FAC

BSC again asks this Court to take judicial notice of, or consider extrinsic documents, without converting the Motion into a motion for summary judgment. However, the Court reiterates the analysis set forth in the order granting the Motion to Dismiss the FAC (Docket No. 38) and again declines to consider the extrinsic documents referenced by BSC (as set forth below), and also for the reasons set forth in the Opposition:

Defendant urges this Court to consider certain extrinsic documents filed in connection with its Motion and provides authority for the proposition that such information may be considered without the need for conversion of the Motion to a motion for summary adjudication. However, the Court finds that RFC has adequately distinguished the cases cited by Defendant in support of its request for this Court to consider documents not attached to the FAC. In particular, Defendant has provided no evidence to support its assertion that RFC necessarily relied on the documents attached to its Motion in preparation of the FAC. RFC was also not a party to the documents and Defendant has otherwise failed to establish that RFC relied on the bank statements in crafting the FAC such that the documents may be considered without converting the Motion into a motion for summary judgment. Separately, the Court is disinclined at this early juncture to convert the Motion into a motion for summary judgment.

Likewise, the Court is unconvinced that the documents are of the type that are either "generally known" or "capable of accurate and ready determination" such that they are judicially noticeable documents under Rule 201 of the Federal Rules of Evidence.

In response to the arguments of RFC against permitting this Court to consider the extrinsic documents, Defendant asserts that Lee v. City of Los Angeles, 250 F.3d 668, 688 (9th Cir. 2001), supports the Court's consideration of the documents. Specifically, Defendant asserts that the documents may be considered because BSC's "transaction history of OIC and DJRI accounts were alluded to in the [FAC] by reference to the cashier's checks and bank deposits – much like the reference to the extradition process in Lee." (Reply at 4:11-13). Defendant, however, misapprehends Lee. In Lee, the trial court took judicial notice of the (1) fact of the extradition hearing; and (2) the fact that a Waiver of Extradition was signed by the defendant. The trial court also relied on the validity of the Waiver of Extradition in dismissing the plaintiff's claim at the pleading stage. Lee at 690. The Ninth Circuit explicitly found that this last step exceeded what was permissible based on judicial notice because the trial court did more than just consider the fact of the Waiver but also took notice of the facts recited in another court's opinion as true. In doing so, the trial court controverted the 12(b)(6) requirement that it accept all allegations in the complaint as true and draw all reasonable inferences in plaintiff's favor. Id.

Here, Defendant is asking this Court to accept more than the existence of the bank statements. Defendant is asking the Court to take judicial notice of the transactions set forth in the statements, accept them as true, and further, accept as true the conclusions drawn from the statements by the Bank's Executive Vice President, Mr. Marshall. This Lee does not permit. Based on the foregoing, the Court declines to take judicial notice of, or consider, the documents attached to the Motion.

Order Granting Motion to Dismiss FAC, December 13, 2016.

Civil Rule 12(b)(6) standards

Under Civil Rule 12(b)(6), made applicable in adversary proceedings through Rule 7012, a bankruptcy court may dismiss a complaint if it fails to "state a claim upon which relief can be granted." In reviewing a Civil Rule 12(b)(6) motion, the trial court must accept as true all facts alleged in the complaint and draw all reasonable inferences in favor of the plaintiff. Navarro v. Block, 250 F.3d 729, 732 (9th Cir.

2001). However, the trial court need not accept as true conclusory allegations in a complaint or legal characterizations cast in the form of factual allegations. Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555–56, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 167 L.Ed.2d 929 (2007); Hartman v. Gilead Scis., Inc. (In re Gilead Scis. Sec. Litig.), 536 F.3d 1049, 1055 (9th Cir. 2008).

To avoid dismissal under Civil Rule 12(b)(6), a plaintiff must aver in the complaint "sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to 'state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.'" Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678, 129 S.Ct. 1937, 173 L.Ed.2d 868 (2009) (quoting Twombly, 550 U.S. at 570, 127 S.Ct. 1955). It is axiomatic that a claim cannot be plausible when it has no legal basis. A dismissal under Civil Rule 12(b)(6) may be based either on the lack of a cognizable legal theory or on the absence of sufficient facts alleged under a cognizable legal theory. Johnson v. Riverside Healthcare Sys., 534 F.3d 1116, 1121 (9th Cir.2008).

Transfer of an Interest in the Debtor's Property and Liability

The Court, in its tentative ruling on BSC's prior Motion to Dismiss, found that RFC could not prevail on its First through Fifth Claims for Relief because it had not alleged sufficient facts to set forth plausible claims where the funds at issue in the Transfer were transferred to BSC by OIC, not by the Debtor. In its prior analysis, the Court agreed with BSC that because OIC is a distinct legal entity from the Debtor, absent facts indicating that OIC did not have legal dominion over the funds at issue, RFC could not prevail in its claims. In the SAC, RFC has now added allegations in an effort to establish that OIC acted as the Debtor's agent or seeking to demonstrate that because OIC was controlled by the Debtor and directed by him, that the money deposited with OIC never became property of OIC and instead remained property of the Debtor.

In support of this contention, RFC cites to In re Viola, 469 B.R. 1, 6 (9th Cir. BAP 2012). RFC argues that the bare fact of OIC's separate legal identity is insufficient to undermine the allegations that OIC was acting as a "mere conduit" for the Debtor. However, the analysis in Viola undercuts RFC's argument. In Viola, the BAP discussed in detail the distinction between the "dominion test" and "control test" which are used by courts to determine whether an entity is a "mere conduit". In Viola, the BAP explains that the Ninth Circuit has adopted the more restrictive dominion test and not the "more lenient" control test:

Chapter 7

Under the control test, an examining court must evaluate a transaction in its entirety and make a "logical and equitable" determination as to whether "the banks actually controlled the funds or merely served as conduits, holding money that was in fact controlled by either the transferor or the real transferee." Therefore, while similar, "[t]he dominion test focuses on whether the recipient of funds has legal title to them and the ability to use them as he sees fit. The control test takes a more gestalt view of the entire transaction to determine who, in reality, controlled the funds in question."

Id. Here, the fact-intensive analysis advocated by RFC more closely aligns with the control rule. BSC's citation to In re David L. Duckworth, 2013 Bankr. LEXIS 1396, sets forth the better view, consistent with the Ninth Circuit's more restrictive interpretation. In Duckworth, the court found that the distinct legal entity at issue was not a "mere conduit" because [it] was not a mere depository, agent, intermediary or trustee whose legal authority over the funds was limited by some agreement or statute ... As a validly formed and existing limited liability company, it had the authority to own and expend the funds for its own purposes. That the Debtor caused the funds to be expended for his personal benefit is not material to the dominion and control inquiry, which focuses on the entity's power over the funds.

Id. Similarly, here, RFC has advanced no factual allegation or legal theories to undercut the legal authority of OIC over the Transfer, irrespective of whether the Debtor as a principal of the company directed some improper use of the funds. RFC's remaining counter-examples similarly fail. The bank referenced in In re M. Blackburn Mitchell Inc., 164 B.R. 117, 131 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 1994), never held title to the funds at issue and its role was instead limited to issuance of a cashier's check. The law firm in In re Fabric Buys of Jericho, Inc., 33 B.R. 334 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 1983), never held title to the funds at issue in that case. Instead, the funds deposited into with the law firm were placed into an escrow account which by its nature would have prevented the law firm from exercising dominion over the funds. These examples all contrast with the facts of the instant case, wherein RFC has alleged no facts indicating a legal agreement or other restriction on OIC's dominion over the funds.

Finally, RFC references In re Incomnet, Inc., 463 F.3d 1064, 1071 (9th Cir. 2006), and based thereon argues (assuming, arguendo, that Dr. Roger gave explicit direction to Nicole Ebarb or other Roger Agents to deposit the funds in OIC's bank account on behalf of Dr. Roger and for his benefit) OIC would not have had "dominion" over the funds. (SAC, ¶¶ 24-25). However, the bare allegations in the SAC indicating that the funds deposited with OIC were being held on behalf of Dr. Roger by OIC are insufficient. The example which RFC hopes to illustrate is one which the Ninth Circuit described as "when an entity has legal title as a formal matter, but legally does not have discretion in the application of funds." Here, in contrast to the example of the bank which receives a direction from the client to deposit funds into a specific account, there are no facts to indicate that OIC received any direction to segregate the funds allegedly deposited by Ebarb for the benefit of Dr. Roger. Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to find that RFC has failed to assert sufficient facts to plausibly claim that the Debtor, and not OIC, had dominion over the funds at issue based on a "mere conduit" theory.

Resulting Trust Theory

Separately, in a footnote, RFC raised the possibility that a "resulting trust" was created as between OIC and the Debtor such that the Debtor retained an interest in the funds that were eventually transferred to BSC. (Opp'n at p. 13, fn 6). "A resulting trust arises by operation of law from a transfer of property under circumstances showing that the transferee was not intended to take the beneficial interest." Concorde Equity II, LLC v. Miller, 732 F. Supp. 2d 990, 1002 (N.D. Cal. 2010). Based on the Court's limited review of RFC's "resulting trust" theory, and the factual support contained in the SAC indicating that the Debtor directed funds deposited in OIC to be used on his behalf and that OIC held and then used the funds to pay BSC on the Debtor's behalf, it appears that RFC may be able to sufficiently allege a plausible legal theory on which RFC could demonstrate that despite OIC's legal title or dominion over the funds, the Debtor retained an equitable interest in the Property such that the SAC is plausible. BSC's response indicating that RFC's "resulting trust" theory has been waived is unsupported. Here, however, the SAC does not allege the existence of a resulting trust, and for that reason grounds exist to DISMISS the First, Second and Third Claims, albeit with leave to amend.

Earmarking Doctrine

BSC alleges that to the extent the Court finds that OIC held the Debtor's funds to pay down his debts, the earmarking doctrine applies. The earmarking doctrine essentially provides that where a third person makes a loan to a debtor to enable him to satisfy the claim of another creditor, the new creditor simply steps into the shoes of the old creditor and thus the funds exchanged can be found never to have become an asset of the estate. (Motion, p. 24). On this point, the Court agrees with RFC that the determination of whether the earmarking doctrine applies requires evidence and a factual determination regarding the character of the Transfer and specifically, whether it constitutes a loan to the Debtor or as alleged in the SAC, whether it was a transfer of property of the Debtor. BSC is free to raise the earmarking doctrine as an affirmative defense in its answer.

Unjust Enrichment

BSC asserts that RFC cannot maintain a claim for unjust enrichment because California courts do not recognize a standalone claim for unjust enrichment. However, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals recently interpreted California law on this point and held that, when faced with a claim for relief alleging unjust enrichment, district courts ordinarily should treat the claim for relief "as a quasi-contract claim seeking restitution." Astiana v. Hain Celestial Grp., Inc., 783 F.3d 753, 762 (9th Cir.2015).

Restitution may be awarded where the defendant obtained a benefit from the plaintiff by fraud, duress, conversion, or similar conduct. In such cases, the plaintiff may choose not to sue in tort, but instead to seek restitution on a quasi-contract theory (an election referred to at common law as "waiving the tort and suing in assumpsit"). In such cases, where appropriate, the law will imply a contract (or rather, a quasi-contract), without regard to the parties' intent, in order to avoid unjust enrichment. McBride v. Boughton, 123 Cal. App. 4th 379, 388 (2004) (internal citations omitted). As to the quasi-contract claim, the Court agrees with BSC that cases applying this equitable doctrine have typically found that the party that received the benefit was the party which perpetrated the fraud, duress, conversion etc. As RFC has not provided any authority that this claim may lie when the fraud is perpetrated by the party that deposited or paid out the money, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion as to the Fourth Claim for Unjust Enrichment because the SAC does not allege wrongdoing by BSC.

"A cause of action is stated for money had and received if the defendant is indebted to the plaintiff in a certain sum 'for money had and received by the defendant for the use of the plaintiff.'" Gutierrez v. Girardi, 194 Cal. App. 4th 925, 937, 125 Cal. Rptr. 3d 210, 219 (2011).

This common count is available in a great variety of and "lies wherever one person has received money which belongs to another, and which in equity and good conscience should be paid over to the latter." Id. (internal citations omitted). Here, the allegations of the SAC are sufficient to maintain a claim. Specifically, where RFC has alleged that BSC received funds which properly belong to the estate, the policies underlying the bankruptcy system support a plausible claim that equity would be satisfied by return of those funds to the Debtor's creditors for pro rata distribution. As such, the Court is inclined to DENY the Motion as to the Fifth Claim.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT in part and DENY in part as follows:

GRANT as to the First, Second and Third Claims, with leave to amend;

GRANT as to the Fourth Claim without leave to amend; and DENY as to the Fifth Claim.

BACKGROUND

On September 8, 2015, an involuntary bankruptcy petition was filed by Norman Musselman, Erwin Seifert, and Gouvis Engineering Consulting Group ("Petitioning Creditors") as against Manors San Bernardino Ave LLC ("Debtor"). John Pringle is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee"). The Debtor is a California Corporation.

On June 06, 2016, the Trustee filed an adversary complaint against O. Allen Alpay, Trustee of the Alpay Living Trust dated October 18, 1996 ("Alpay"); and Manors Construction and Development Co., Inc., a California Corporation ("MCD") (collectively, "Defendants"), to determine the validity, priority or extent of lien and for declaratory relief (the "Complaint").

The Complaint alleged that, prepetition, the Debtor owned real property comprising approximately 3.116 acres commonly referred to as 16803-16829 San Bernardino Ave in the City of Fontana (the "Property"). The Trustee further alleged that on April 12, 2012, a trust deed was recorded encumbering the Property in favor of Alpay as Doc. No. 2012-0140286 (the "Alpay DOT"). The dispute arises from the facts surrounding the validity of the Alpay DOT. Specifically, the Trustee alleged that the Alpay DOT indicates it was executed on behalf of the Debtor "By: Manors Development & Construction, Inc., a California corporation, Manager" (note: the individual signatory was Paul Minnick as "President"). However, the Trustee asserts that (1) at all times relevant, there was no entity registered with the California Secretary of State as "Manors Development & Construction, Inc." (2) that the correct entity intended to execute the Alpay Trust Deed was MCD; and (3) that MCD had been suspended by the California Franchise Tax Board, effective May 3, 2010, pursuant to a notice of suspension ("Suspension Notice") which provided that its "rights, powers, and privileges" were suspended or forfeited as of the date of the notice.

The Complaint was dismissed on October 11, 2016, with leave to amend. On October 24, 2016, the Trustee filed a First Amended Complaint (the "FAC"). Subsequently, Alpay filed a cross-complaint against the Debtor, Paul Minnick, MCD, MCG, Norman Musselman, Erwin Seifert, and "[p]ersons unknown, claiming any legal or equitable right, title, etc. in the Property", and moved to dismiss the FAC. On March 6, 2017, the Court granted the Motion to Dismiss but permitted the Trustee leave to amend the FAC. On the same date, the Court indicated its intent to deny the Motion to Dismiss Alpay's cross-complaint as moot based on the procedural impropriety of filing a cross-complaint prior to the filing of an answer. Separately, the Court continued the hearing on the Motion to Dismiss Alpay's cross-complaint for the parties to provide supplemental briefing on the Trustee's argument that Alpay's cross-complaint should be stricken as to the Trustee because such cross-complaint constitutes a violation of California's anti-SLAPP statute.

DISCUSSION

California's "anti-SLAPP statute was enacted to allow early dismissal of meritless first amendment cases aimed at chilling expression through costly, time-consuming litigation." Zamani v. Carnes, 491 F.3d 990, 994 (9th Cir. 2007). California's anti-SLAPP statute provides a burden-shifting mechanism to weed out "lawsuits that 'masquerade as ordinary lawsuits' but are brought to deter common citizens from exercising their political or legal rights or to punish them for doing so." Batzel v. Smith, 333 F.3d 1018, 1024 (9th Cir. 2003) (quoting Wilcox v. Superior Court, 27 Cal.App.4th 809, 816, 33 Cal.Rptr.2d 446 (1994)). In Makaeff v. Trump Univ., LLC, 715 F.3d 254, 261 (9th Cir. 2013), the Ninth Circuit explained that:

To prevail on an anti-SLAPP motion, the moving defendant must make a prima facie showing that the plaintiff's suit arises from an act in furtherance of the defendant's constitutional right to free speech.... The burden then shifts to the plaintiff, ... to establish a reasonable probability that it will prevail on its claim in order for that claim to survive dismissal. Cal. Civ. Proc. Code § 425.16(b)(1); Under this standard, the claim should be dismissed if the plaintiff presents an insufficient legal basis for it, or if, on the basis of the facts shown by the plaintiff, "no reasonable jury could find for the plaintiff." Metabolife Int'l, Inc. v. Wornick, 264 F.3d 832, 840 (9th Cir. 2001) (citation and internal quotation marks omitted). 715 F.3d at 261 (first citation omitted).

Manzari v. Associated Newspapers Ltd., 830 F.3d 881, 886–87 (9th Cir. 2016).

The basis for the Trustee's Anti-Slapp argument is that the Cross-complaint filed by Alpay essentially seeks to punish the Trustee for filing a lis pendens against the Property. The Court does not agree with the Trustee's interpretation of the Cross-complaint. Instead, the crux of Alpay's Cross-complaint focuses on the allegedly fraudulent nature of the deeds of trust/debts recorded by or in favor of Paul Minnick, Norman Musselman, and Erwin Seifert, as well as their efforts in filing the involuntary petition that brought the Debtor into bankruptcy. The primary support for the Trustee's Anti-Slapp argument is based on ¶ 49 of the Cross-Complaint which provides as follows:

49. Alpay is informed and believes and thereon alleges that the Adversary Complaint was advanced as a strategic effort to advance a fraudulent scheme in order to: (1) invalidate Alpay's deed in order for Minnick, Musselman and Seifert's deeds to take priority over payment; and/or (2) as a tool to be utilized to manipulate Alpay into capitulating to taking less money than the total debt owed ...).

Chapter 7

Here, in asserting that the filing of the Adversary Complaint was itself a part of the alleged fraudulent scheme, the Cross-complaint inartfully appears to insinuate the Trustee's actions were also a part of that fraud. However, that Alpay did not name the Trustee as a cross-defendant and that the remainder of the Cross-complaint centers on the actions of Musselman, Seifert, and Minnick indicates that the better reading of the Cross-Complaint is that Alpay did not intend to bring suit against the Trustee or otherwise attempt to chill lawful expression by the Trustee. Nor is the Court persuaded by Trustee that the naming of the Debtor in the Cross-complaint necessarily implicates the Trustee's postpetition actions in filing the adversary proceeding and lis pendens.

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to DENY the Trustee's Motion to the extent that it seeks to have this Court find that the Cross-Complaint violates California's anti-SLAPP statute.

The Court also finds that Alpay's inartful drafting prompted the Trustee's filings because ¶49 can be reasonably read to imply a fraudulent purpose in the filing of the instant adversary proceeding by the Trustee. On this basis, the Court denies Alpay's request for fees and sanctions against the Trustee based on its assertion that the Trustee's anti-SLAPP argument is an attempt to harass, annoy or cause delay.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to DENY the Trustee's Motion to Dismiss the Cross-complaint as moot for the reasons stated on the record at the prior hearing, and separately rules that the Trustee has failed to establish that the Cross-complaint of Alpay constitutes a violation of California's anti-SLAPP statute.

MOTION TO DISMISS CROSS-COMPLAINT

On November 17, 2016, Alpay filed a cross-complaint against Paul Minnick, the Debtor, Manors Construction & Development, Inc., Norman Musselman, and Erwin Seifert (the "Cross-Complaint"). The Cross-Complaint alleges, in pertinent part, that Paul Minnick abused his official positions at MCD/MDC and at MCG Development Co, Inc. (managers of the Debtor during the relevant period), to advance a conspiracy with Defendants Musselman and Seifert by which fraudulent liens were attached to the Property on the basis of fraudulent debts. On April 6, 2015, Alpay initiated a non-judicial foreclosure of the Property. Subsequently, on or about September 8, 2015, Defendants Musselman and Seifert initiated an involuntary chapter 7 petition as to the Debtor, thereby postponing the foreclosure sale. Alpay alleges that the bankruptcy filing was an attempt by the Defendants to postpone the sale to permit them additional time to attempt to market and sell the Property in order to profit from the fraudulent deeds of trust encumbering the Property. Finally, Alpay alleges that the filing of the Adversary Complaint is itself a part of the fraudulent scheme of Minnick Musselman and Seifert.

The Cross-Complaint alleges the following claims against all Cross-Defendants: (1) Fraud and Conspiracy; (2) Declaratory Relief; and (3) Cancellation of Deeds or Rescissions. On December 19, 2016, the Trustee filed his Motion to Dismiss, Strike or Stay Alpay's Cross-Claim. (the "Motion"). to a complaint is an "answer." FRCP 13(a)(1) & (b).

FRCP 7 lists each pleading permitted under the Federal Rules and does not include a standalone counterclaim or crossclaim as a pleading:

(a) Pleadings. Only these pleadings are allowed:

- (1) a complaint;
- (2) an answer to a complaint;
- (3) an answer to a counterclaim designated as a counterclaim;
- (4) an answer to a crossclaim;
- (5) a third-party complaint;
- (6) an answer to a third-party complaint; and
- (7) if the court orders one, a reply to an answer.

As such, the filing of a motion to dismiss (but where Alpay has not filed an answer) does not allow Alpay to file a counterclaim or crossclaim. See National Ass'n of Gov. Employees, Inc. v. National Emergency Med. Services Ass'n, Inc., 969 F.Supp.2d 59, 67(D. Mass. 2013); Bernstein v. IDT Corp., 582 F. Supp. 1079, 1089 (D. Del. 1984).

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to DENY the Motion to Dismiss the Cross-Complaint as moot, given the Court's determination that the filing of the Cross-Complaint (Docket No. 62) was prematurely filed by Alpay in contravention of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

BACKGROUND

On August 18, 2016 (the "Petition Date"), William Mark Eddington ("Debtor") filed his petition for chapter 7 relief. The deadline for objections to the Debtor's discharge was set as March 31, 2017.

On January 5, 2017, Bosnian Wand Airlines ("Plaintiff") filed a complaint objecting to the Debtor's discharge pursuant to § 727(d)(1) and § 523(a)(2) for fraud, or under § 523(a)(4) for fraud while acting in a fiduciary capacity, or for embezzlement (the "Complaint"). The Complaint alleges, in pertinent part, that:

1. Defendant Debtor interchangeably represented himself to Plaintiff as either LLFC Corporation or Laserline Lease Finance Corporation (Compl. ¶2);
2. Plaintiff and Debtor entered into a letter of intent, dated March 23, 2015, signed by Debtor as President of LLFC Corporation, located in Palm Springs, California. Pursuant to the terms of the Letter of Intent (LOI), Plaintiff provided Debtor with a $186,000 refundable deposit. (Id. at ¶3);
3. Contrary to the representations by Debtor, neither LLFC Corporation nor its alter ego, Laserline Lease Finance Corporation, were registered to do business in California (Id. at ¶4);
4. At Debtor's express request, relying upon Debtor's intentional fraudulent misrepresentations as to the Debtor's identity and his ability to perform under contract, Plaintiff provided Debtor with the $186,000 deposit for Debtor to hold in trust (Id. at ¶6);

5. Debtor as trustee of Plaintiff's deposit, owed Plaintiff a fiduciary duty to ensure that Plaintiff's funds were kept safe and separate from Debtor's various business accounts and not to use Plaintiff's funds for personal expenses, operating expenses, salaries, or other misuse (Id. at ¶8);
6. When it became apparent that the subject transaction would not be performed, Plaintiff requested that Debtor refund the deposit (Id. at ¶9);
7. Debtor ignored all requests for a refund and it was determined that Debtor had interchangeably held himself out as two entities ... neither of which was legally operating or otherwise registered to do business in California (Id. at ¶ 10);
8. Debtor verbally stated to Plaintiff's US agent, Mr. Ray Nazemi, that Debtor could not return Plaintiff's $186,000 refundable deposit because Debtor had used the funds to pay off other debts (Id. at ¶13).

On February 21, 2017, the Debtor filed a motion to dismiss the complaint or in the alternative to strike and for a more definite statement ("Motion").

On March 6, 2017, Plaintiff filed his opposition to the Motion ("Opposition"). On March 15, 2017, the Debtor replied ("Reply").

DISCUSSION

The arguments advanced by the Debtor as to why the Complaint should be dismissed are as follows: (1) that pursuant to California Civil Code, Section 1624, there was no written agreement obligating the Debtor to pay the obligations of LLFC and the Debtor was not a guarantor, thus there is no liability as to the Debtor; (2) allegations made on information and belief are insufficient; (3) allegations that the Debtor failed to give notice of the bankruptcy do not support revocation; (4) the Complaint is insufficient on its face because it fails to plead fraud with specificity; and (5) allegations related to § 548 should be stricken as immaterial and inappropriate.

Civil Rule 12(b)(6) standards

Under Civil Rule 12(b)(6), made applicable in adversary proceedings through Rule 7012, a bankruptcy court may dismiss a complaint if it fails to "state a claim upon which relief can be granted." In reviewing a Civil Rule 12(b)(6) motion, the trial court must accept as true all facts alleged in the complaint and draw all reasonable inferences in favor of the plaintiff. Navarro v. Block, 250 F.3d 729, 732 (9th Cir. 2001). However, the trial court need not accept as true conclusory allegations in a complaint or legal characterizations cast in the form of factual allegations. Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555–56, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 167 L.Ed.2d 929 (2007); Hartman v. Gilead Scis., Inc. (In re Gilead Scis. Sec. Litig.), 536 F.3d 1049, 1055 (9th Cir. 2008).

To avoid dismissal under Civil Rule 12(b)(6), a plaintiff must aver in the complaint "sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to 'state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.'" Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678, 129 S.Ct. 1937, 173 L.Ed.2d 868 (2009) (quoting Twombly, 550 U.S. at 570, 127 S.Ct. 1955). It is axiomatic that a claim cannot be plausible when it has no legal basis. A dismissal under Civil Rule 12(b)(6) may be based either on the lack of a cognizable legal theory or on the absence of sufficient facts alleged under a cognizable legal theory. Johnson v. Riverside Healthcare Sys., 534 F.3d 1116, 1121 (9th Cir.2008).

First Claim for Relief: § 727(d)(1)

Bankruptcy Code § 727(d)(1) provides:

- (d) On request of the trustee, a creditor, or the United States trustee, and after notice and a hearing, the court shall revoke a discharge granted under subsection (a) of this section if—
 - (1) such discharge was obtained through the fraud of the debtor, and the requesting party did not know of such fraud until after the granting of such discharge.

"As a general rule, to obtain relief under § 727(d)(1), the plaintiff must prove that the debtor committed fraud in fact The fraud must be proven in the procurement of the discharge and sufficient grounds must have existed which would have prevented the discharge." In re Bowman, 173 B.R. 922, 925 (9th Cir.BAP1994) (internal citations omitted).

On its face, the Plaintiff's first claim for relief must fail because the Debtor has not yet obtained a discharge and section 727(d)(1) specifically contemplates a situation in which the Debtor has already procured such discharge prior to the filing of the complaint. On this basis, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion as to the

First Claim for Relief and dismiss BWA's § 727 claim.

Section 1624: The Debtor's liability on a debt owed by LLFC

The Debtor asserts that since the LOI on which BWA brings its suit was between BWA and LLFC, and since the Debtor was not a guarantor on the debt, that BWA cannot assert there is liability as to the Debtor. BWA, in response, asserts that (1) the LOI is binding on the Debtor because he became a fiduciary when he requested the deposit; (2) LLFC and Laserline Lease Finance Corp. do not exist and cannot do business in California; and (3) California Civil Code § 2794 is an exception to noncompliance with Section 1624.

BWA's arguments fail for several reasons: First, there is no legal authority provided for the proposition that the Debtor became a "fiduciary" under California law as asserted by BWA. Second, the evidence attached to the State Court Complaint of BWA indicates that LLFC and Laserline Lease Finance Corp. did exist and the State Court Complaint includes an Affidavit of the Debtor in which he explains that LLFC was organized under Utah law but subsequently dissolved at the end of 2016. Thus, based on the existence of LLFC as a corporate entity, it appears that to prevail on its claims BWA must amend its Complaint to properly allege a basis or bases upon which the corporate fiction should be disregarded and liability held against the Debtor personally. Finally, as to section 2794, BWA has failed to provide authority or analysis of this code provision which would permit the Court to apply it to the facts of this case. Based on the foregoing, and finding primarily that the Complaint fails to adequately set forth a legal or factual basis to disregard the corporate fiction and hold the Debtor personally liable for funds paid to LLFC by BWA, under an alter ego theory or otherwise, the Court is inclined to find that the Motion should be GRANTED and the Complaint dismissed with leave to amend.

Second Claim for Relief: § 523(a)(2)(A), Fraud

Section 523(a)(2)(A) provides that

(a) A discharge under section 727 ... of this title does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt—

(2) for money, property, services, or an extension, renewal or refinancing of credit, to the extent obtained by—

(A) false pretenses, a false representation, or actual fraud, other than a statement respecting the debtor's or an insider's financial condition;

11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A).

It is well-settled that a creditor alleging actual fraud must prove five elements: (1) the debtor made a material misrepresentation, (2) with knowledge of its falsity, (3) with the intent to deceive, (4) on which the creditor relied, and (5) due to which the creditor sustained loss or damage. In re Kirsh, 973 F.2d 1454, 1456 (9th Cir.1992); In re Britton, 950 F.2d 602, 604 (9th Cir.1991); In re Rubin, 875 F.2d 755, 759 (9th Cir.1989).

Allegations regarding fraud are subject to a heightened pleading standard. Civil Rule 9(b), made applicable to adversary proceedings by Rule 7009, requires that a plaintiff must state "with particularity the circumstances constituting fraud...." The Ninth Circuit has provided guidance for the "with particularity" requirement by stating that to comport with Civil Rule 9(b) the complaint must (1) specify the averred fraudulent representations; (2) aver the representations were false when made; (3) identify the speaker; (4) state when and where the statements were made; and (5) state the manner in which the representations were false and misleading. Lancaster Cmty. Hosp. v. Antelope Valley Hosp. Dist., 940 F.2d 397, 405 (9th Cir.1991).

As a threshold matter, as set forth above, having failed to join LLFC and Laserline or to assert a claim that would establish personal liability as to the Debtor, the Complaint cannot sustain a claim under § 523 because BWA has not set forth the basis for a debt owed by the Debtor. Separately, as to fraud more generally, the Complaint sets forth allegations indicating that the Debtor misrepresented the authority of LLFC Corporation and/or Laserline Lease Finance Corporation (the "Companies") to conduct business in California as well as the ability of the Debtor to perform under the LOI. However, the Complaint does not draw a factual link between the Debtor's alleged misrepresentations regarding the Companies' ability to conduct business and the how those misrepresentations caused BWA to sustain a loss or damage. Nor does the Complaint allege the time and place of alleged misrepresentations with the specificity required by Rule 9(b). For this additional reason, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion and dismiss the Complaint with leave to amend.

Chapter 7

Third Claim for Relief: § 523(a)(4), Fraud while acting in a fiduciary capacity or embezzlement

The Complaint does not clearly set forth the bases for its claim under § 523(a)(4). However, based on the language of the prayer for relief, and the frequent references to fraud and to the Debtor's alleged fiduciary capacity, BWA appears to be proceeding under a claim for fraud while acting as a fiduciary and separately, as to embezzlement.

A. Fraud while acting in a fiduciary capacity

Section 523(a)(4) provides in relevant part that a discharge under section 727 does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt for fraud or defalcation while acting in a fiduciary capacity, embezzlement, or larceny. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(4).

First, whether a relationship is a "fiduciary" one within the meaning of section 523(a)(4) is a question of federal law. Ragsdale v. Haller, 780 F.2d 794, 795 (9th Cir.1986). The broad, general definition of "fiduciary" is inapplicable in the dischargeability context. Id. at 796. Instead, the fiduciary relationship must be one arising from an express or technical trust that was imposed before and without reference to the wrongdoing that caused the debt. Id. In other words, the debtor must have been a trustee before the alleged wrongdoing occurred. Here, BWA has failed to present sufficient facts or legal authority to indicate that any such fiduciary relationship existed between the Debtor and BWA.

B. Embezzlement

For purposes of the nondischargeability statute, a claim based on embezzlement requires proof of:

(1) property rightfully in the possession of a nonowner; (2) nonowner's appropriation of the property to a use other than that which it was entrusted, and (3) circumstances indicating fraud.

Transam. Comm'l Fin. Corp. v. Littleton (In re Littleton), 942 F.2d 551, 555 (9th Cir.1991).

As to embezzlement, the Complaint asserts that the Debtor was rightfully in possession of the deposited funds because he was a principal of LLFC at the time that funds were deposited by BWA in furtherance of the business dealing embodied in the LOI. BWA has also asserted that the Debtor appropriated the funds deposited by BWA for a use other than that which it was entrusted – namely, to pay other debts or corporate expenses. However, as with its other claims, the Complaint fails to adequately describe circumstances indicating fraud. For these reasons, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion and dismiss the Complaint with leave to amend.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, including the lack of clear notice as to which claims BWA is pursuing against the Debtor, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion. The Complaint shall be dismissed in its entirety with leave to amend, with any amended complaint to be filed within 30 days of entry of the order granting the Motion.

Separately, on a 12(b)(6) motion, the Court is called only to consider the plausibility of the Complaint, not the weight of the evidence. Such an analysis is inappropriate on a motion to dismiss. For this reason, the evidentiary objections to the declaration of John Geffen are overruled without prejudice. The Debtor may raise these objections again on a motion for summary judgment or at trial.

Movant did not provide telephonic notice of the hearing to the Debtor. The Judge's instructions on UD matters set on shortened time requires telephonic notice on all parties entitled to notice. LBR 4001(c) in turn requires that Relief from Stay Motions be served on the debtor and the debtor's attorney.

The instant case was dismissed on October 20, 2016, arising from a Trustee Motion to Dismiss for delinquency. While the case was dismissed, a foreclosure sale was held and the Movant was the successful bidder at the sale. Movant subsequently served a Notice to Quit and filed a Complaint for Unlawful Detainer. On March 1, 2017, the Court entered an order vacating the dismissal. (Docket No. 134). At the hearing on the Motion to Vacate Dismissal, held on January 12, 2017, the Court was not apprised of the fact that the foreclosure sale had occurred or that an unlawful detainer proceeding had been commenced against the Debtor. Instead, relying on the Trustee's withdrawal of their objection to the Motion to Vacate coupled with the Trustee's indication that if the Debtor did not cure within 30 days the Trustee would seek reconversion to a chapter 7, the Court vacated the dismissal.

Service is Improper

Opposition: Due at the hearing.

Service is improper because Movant did not serve the Debtors, in addition to Debtors' counsel, with the Notice and Motion as required by LBR 4001-1(c). Additionally, Movant has not provided any evidence that she provided telephonic notice of the hearing to all parties entitled to receive notice, as set forth in the Judge's self calendar instructions.

The Court also notes that Movant sets forth a basis for relief under § 362(d)(1) on page 3 of the Motion, but failed to request such relief on page 5 of the Motion. Thus, unless an amended motion is filed and served addressing such discrepancy, the Court would be inclined to deny any relief sought under § 362(d)(1).

Finally, it appears the underlying foreclosure sale may be void as occurring during the prior case filed by Natasha Kiehl.

BACKGROUND

On April 28, 2015, Home Security Stores, Inc. ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On May 28, 2015, the Court authorized the employment of Goe & Forsythe, LLP as general counsel to Trustee. On July 2, 2015, the Court authorized the employment of Hahn Fife & Co. LLP as accountants to Trustee.

At the initial meeting of creditors, Debtor's principals appeared on behalf of Debtor, along with Debtor's former counsel, Harry Histen ("Histen"). During the hearing, Histen admitted that he probably had possession of corporate records of Debtor. Trustee has repeatedly requested those documents and Histen has failed to respond. On January 26, 2016, the Court granted Trustee's motion for a 2004 examination of Histen. Afterwards, Histen was served with a subpoena requiring the production of documents and his attendance at an oral examination. The subpoena was ignored. The Trustee believes that Histen has recorded information related to the Debtor's assets and financial affairs. Trustee's requests "an order compelling Histen to turn over all recorded information regarding the Debtor's property, operations, and financial affairs pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 542(e)."

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 542(e) states:

(e) Subject to any applicable privilege, after notice and a hearing, the court may order an attorney, accountant, or other person that holds recorded information, including books, documents, records, and papers, relating to the debtor's property or financial affairs, to turn over or disclose such recorded information to the trustee.

"[T]he bankruptcy court may order turnover of the information when the information is necessary to the administration of the estate." Matter of Matassini, 90 B.R. 508, 509 (Bankr. M.D. Fla. 1988). Here, Trustee has indicated that the information is relevant to Trustee's investigation of undisclosed assets, establishing cause for granting the motion. Moreover, the Court deems Histen's failure to oppose as consent to the requested relief, pursuant to Local Rule 9013-1(h).

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion.

At the initial meeting of creditors, the Trustee learned that Debtor's two shareholders, Ralph and Stacy Winn (the "Winns"), had physically removed Debtor's servers and some computers, on which Debtor's financials were recorded. Trustee asserts that Debtor engaged in transfers to insiders after the cessation of its operations. After recovering the servers, Trustee learned that the information had been removed. Debtor's physical paper records are not useful. Trustee has requested corporate records from Debtor, and Debtor's various attorneys, but has received very few documents. Trustee obtained an order authorizing a 2004 examination of Debtor's non-bankruptcy attorney, Harry Histen ("Histen"). Histen failed to respond to the subpoena. sufficient information to enable him to properly analyze Debtor's financials.

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 546 requires that an avoidance action be brought within two years of the entry of the order for relief. That deadline, however, can be extended. See, e.g., In re United Ins. Mgmt., Inc., 14 F.3d 1380, 1384 (9th Cir. 1994). The current deadline in this case is April 28, 2017, which Trustee seeks to extend for six months to and including October 28, 2017.

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9006(b) states:

Except as provided in paragraphs (2) and (3) of this subdivision, when an act is required or allowed to be done at or within a specified period by these rules or by a notice given thereunder or by order of court, the court for cause shown may at any time in its discretion (1) with or without motion or notice order the period enlarged if the request therefor is made before the expiration of the period originally prescribed or as extended by a previous order or (2) on motion made after the expiration of the specified period permit the act to be done where the failure to act was the result of excusable neglect.

The Court adopts a "for cause" standard when determining whether to utilize Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9006(b) to extend a deadline. See In re Fundamental Long Term Care, Inc., 501 B.R. 784, 789 (Bankr. M.D. Fla. 2013). In this case, Trustee's motion indicates that Histén and Debtor have been uncooperative with, and possibly obstructive of, Trustee's attempt to investigate Debtor's financial affairs. Moreover, the Court deems lack of opposition as consent to the relief requested pursuant to Local Rule 9013-(1)(h).

From: 3/29/17

Docket 24

Tentative Ruling:

04/12/17

BACKGROUND

On October 3, 2016, Victor Salinas ("Petitioning Creditor") filed an involuntary Chapter 7 petition against Roderick Clignett ("Debtor"). On November 2, 2016, Debtor filed a motion to dismiss. On November 23, 2016, Petitioning Creditor filed his opposition and, five days later, attempted to amend the petition by filing an addendum. At a hearing on December 7, 2016, the Court continued the matter for further briefing.

After further briefing, the Court dismissed the involuntary petition and retained jurisdiction to adjudicate a motion for fees and costs pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 303(i). Debtor filed his § 303(i) motion on March 2, 2017. On March 24, 2017, Petitioning Creditor filed a motion to continue the hearing for thirty days. In support of his motion, he stated that he had fired his previous attorney, Stephen Wade, and had not received notice of the motion until March 17, 2017. On March 27, 2017, the Court continued the hearing for two weeks, to April 12, 2017. Petitioning Creditor filed his opposition on April 5, 2017. On April 10, 2017, Debtor filed a reply and evidentiary objections.

DISCUSSION

I. Legal Standard

11 U.S.C. § 303(i) states:

(i) If the court dismissed a petition under this section other than on consent of all petitioners and the debtor, and if the debtor does not waive the right to judgment under this subsection, the court may grant judgment –

(1) against the petitioners and in favor of the debtor for –

(A) costs; or

(B) a reasonable attorney's fee; or

(2) against any petitioner that filed the petition in bad faith, for –

(A) any damages proximately caused by such filing; or

(B) punitive damages

The Ninth Circuit has determined that a totality of the circumstances test applies when confronted with a motion for damages pursuant to § 303(i):

Although the totality of the circumstances test can be somewhat amorphous, the bankruptcy court, where relevant, should consider the following factors before awarding attorney's fees and costs under § 303(i): (1) the merits of the involuntary petition, (2) the role of any improper conduct on the part of the alleged debtor, (3) the reasonableness of the actions taken by the petitioning creditors, and (4) the motivation and objectives behind filing the petition.

Higgins v. Vortex Fishing Sys., Inc., 379 F.3d 701, 707 (9th Cir. 2004) (quotations omitted) (stating also that "[a]lthough definitive in most cases, this list is not exhaustive, and a bankruptcy court may, in its discretion, choose to consider other material factors it deems relevant."). It is "the petitioning creditors' burden to establish, under the totality of the circumstances, that factors exist which overcome the presumption that Debtor should receive fees and costs." In re C & C Jewelry Mfg., Inc., 373 Fed. Appx. 775 (9th Cir. 2010); see also Sofris v. Maple-Whitworth, Inc., 556

F.3d 642 (9th Cir. 2009) (upon dismissal of involuntary petition, presumption arises in favor of debtor for fees and costs; burden is on petitioning creditor(s) to rebut based on totality of the circumstances); In re Medpoint Mgmt., LLC, 2016 WL 3251581 at *6 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2016) ("The Higgins court held that its adoption of the totality of circumstances test did not abrogate the presumption that, upon dismissal, the petitioning creditors should be held liable for the fees the alleged debtor incurred in defending against the involuntary petition."); In re Macke Int'l Trade, Inc., 370 B.R. 236, 249 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2007) ("[A]lthough the Code has liberalized standards for instituting involuntary cases, because of the potential adverse impact on the debtor and the need to encourage discretion in filing such cases, unsuccessful involuntary petitioners should routinely expect to pay the debtor's legal expenses arising from the involuntary filing.").

II. Compensatory Damages

As described above, there is a presumption that Petitioning Creditor is liable for compensatory damages. Petitioning Creditor is entitled to an opportunity to rebut the presumption, and has filed an opposition. Therefore, the Court will apply the totality of circumstances test delineated in Higgins.

Regarding the merits of the involuntary petition, Petitioning Creditor essentially alleges that the petition was dismissed because of a technical mistake – but that the petition itself had merit. The Court notes that its decision discussed an alternative, albeit premature basis for dismissal, 11 U.S.C. § 303(b) and Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 1003(b), that may have produced additional litigation had the technical mistake not occurred. See In re Clignett, 2017 WL 548975 at *3-4 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017). Nevertheless, because the petition was dismissed at an early stage, the Court is unable to ascertain whether the involuntary petition was meritorious, and this factor does not clearly weigh in favor of either party.

Regarding the second factor, improper conduct on the part of the alleged debtor, Petitioning Creditor states that a state court judgment was entered against Debtor for fraud.¹ Petitioning Creditor also indicates that there may have been an attempt to hide assets by Debtor, although the extent of that attempt and its result are not elaborated. The bad faith at issue, however, was the subject of the state court action, which the Court views as sufficiently attenuated from the involuntary petition, and, therefore, this factor weighs in favor of an award of fees.

Regarding the third and fourth factors, the reasonableness of the actions taken by petitioning creditor, and the motives and objectives behind filing the petition, Petitioning Creditor states that Debtor had failed to make payments toward the judgment for an extended period of time. This does not support a finding of reasonableness. "Filing an involuntary petition should be a measure of last resort." Higgins, 379 F.3d 701, 707. Here, at the time of the filing of the involuntary petition, the parties were engaged in state court proceedings, and had a scheduled settlement conference in the near future. Filing an involuntary petition in the midst of state court litigation concerning the debt is objectively unreasonable. Furthermore, the fact that the involuntary petition was filed by Petitioning Creditor, while the state court litigation was being maintained by his father-in-law, casts doubt on the objectives and motives of the filing.²

Involuntary petitions are not an appropriate mechanism to resolve two-party disputes that are the subject of pending state court litigation. Here, Petitioning Creditor filed a technically flawed involuntary petition shortly before settlement discussions were to commence. Additionally, the fact that Petitioning Creditor, instead of the state court plaintiff, his father-in-law, filed the involuntary petition, may have been a tactic to avoid a realization by the bankruptcy court that his father-in-law failed to schedule the judgment during his own bankruptcy. All of these issues are problematic. While there is some evidence of improper conduct by Debtor, the totality of the circumstances weighs in favor of awarding fees.

Debtor has requested $49,531.91 in attorney's fees. Of those fees, $7,455 are attributable to work done by Dilip Vithlani ("Vithlani"), Debtor's counsel for state court proceedings involving the claim which led to the filing of the involuntary bankruptcy petition. While the standards for determining attorney's fees under § 303 (i) are not clearly delineated, within the Ninth Circuit, one court has stated the following:

Unlike fee awards under 11 U.S.C. § 330, the statute, rules, and case law interpreting § 303 have not delineated clear standards for finding whether a particular fee is justified. At a minimum, however, compensation should be reasonable. Any award should also be based on detailed accounts of services rendered. Although the type of fee application used for § 330 awards is not requisite, the records submitted in a § 303(i) setting should clearly identify the nature of work performed, its relevance to the defense to the involuntary petition, and the time expended.

In re Wavelength, Inc., 61 B.R. 614, 621 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1986). Of particular significance in the above quote is the requirement that the work be relevant to a defense to the involuntary petition. Petitioning Creditor appears to argue that the work must be related to the motion to dismiss, defense of an involuntary petition can include matter outside the motion to dismiss. The majority of the fees relating to services provided by Vithlani, however, are not relevant to the defense to the involuntary petition. Therefore, only the following entries of Vithlani will be allowed:

- (1) 10/17/16 T/c (x3) with Client and R Aronson to discuss strategy on the petition ($280)
- (2) 10/28/16 T/c with R Aronson to go over factual background and provide documentary support for motion to dismiss ($385)
- (3) 11/1/16 Review motion to dismiss for facts; provide edits and comments; revise declaration and fax signature to R Aronson ($315)
- (4) 12/27/16 Review 303(i) motion; revise declaration and prepare billing records related to the petition ($385)
- (5) 2/10.2017 Review section 303(i) motion and declaration; revise billing statement and present it to bankruptcy counsel ($175)

Therefore, with respect to Vithlani's fees, the Court will award a reduced amount of $1,540.

Debtor requests an additional $42,071.91 related to work done by Robert Aronson ("Aronson"), $1875 of which constitute anticipatory fees for work done between March 3 and March 22. According to Aronson's declaration, his invoices submitted total $40,201.91. There appears to be a substantial arithmetical error. The invoices submitted, which cover the entirety of the relevant dates, total $22,646.47. While Petitioning Creditor generally challenges the requested fees as excessive and unreasonable, Petitioning Creditor declines to present specific examples or evidence. The Court has reviewed time entries and finds them to be reasonable and properly documented. Therefore, the Court will award attorney's fees in favor of Debtor and against Petitioning Creditor in the reduced amount of $24,521.47.

III. Punitive Damages

Debtor finally requests $7,500 in punitive damages. A prerequisite to an award of punitive damages under § 303(i) is a bad faith finding by the Court. "The Bankruptcy Court does not define 'bad faith' for purposes of awarding punitive damages under § 303(i)." In re Wavelength, Inc., 61 B.R. 614, 619 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1986). Bad faith is recognized when a petition is "ill advised or motivated by spite, malice or a desire to embarrass the debtor." Id. Here, Petitioning Creditor filed an inaccurate voluntary petition based on a claim that his father in law was pursuing in state court. As was the case in Wavelength, the filing of a deficient Chapter 11 involuntary petition, coupled with the existence of a state court proceeding is an indication of possible bad faith. The timing of the involuntary petition, shortly before a mandatory settlement conference was to occur, supports the inference that Petitioning Creditor intended to use the legally deficient involuntary petition as negotiating leverage. The actions of Petitioning Creditor were, at the very least, ill-advised. Nonetheless, the Court does not find the actions at issue rise to the level that support a punitive damage award.

IV. Payment of Fees as Condition

Debtor requests that the Court order that the payment of the assessed fees be a condition "to any re-filing of an involuntary petition." The Court declines to impose such a condition. First of all, Debtor has not briefed the propriety of such a sanction. Additionally, the Court notes that the conduct of Petitioning Creditor does not appear to rise to the vexation that has caused other courts to impose similar requirements under § 105(a). See, e.g., In re Magers, 2003 WL 103400 at *3 (N.D. Cal. 2003). The Court notes that the failure to pay the assessed fees and damages may lead to further

MOVANT: WELLS FARGO BANK

EH__

Docket 63

Tentative Ruling:

4/11/17

Service: Proper

Opposition: Yes

Debtors request a continuance based on a pending application for a loan modification and assert a significant equity cushion. Based on the correspondence attached to the Debtors' Opposition, Wells Fargo indicated that a decision could take up to 30 days (or up to April 21) regarding the Debtors' requested loan modification. Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Debtors a short continuance.

MOVANT: WELLS FARGO BANK NA

EH__

Docket 71

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling:

4/25/2017

Service is Proper
Opposition: Yes

While it appears to the Court that Debtors may have missed several mortgage payments over the past few years, the evidence provided by Wells Fargo is inadequate to establish cause for relief. Wells Fargo's Exhibit 5 includes unexplained "co-mingled funds adjustments", totaling more than $20,000, and appears to document that Debtors have made their mortgage payments for at least eight months, in apparent contradiction of the motion's account of their post-confirmation delinquency. There is also a general incoherency in the organization of Exhibit 5's columns. As one example, payments made by Debtors for February and March 2016 appear on page 3, and are "applied" to payments due on June 2015, despite a payment being made in June 2015, documented on page 2, at a time when Debtors had a positive suspense balance. Wells Fargo's non-chronological organization of payment history is, at best, unclear.

EH__

Docket 9

Tentative Ruling:

TENTATIVE RULING:

4/25/17

The extent of the relief requested by Movant is unclear. Outside of a motion for a protective order, which was scheduled to be heard in state court last week, there are only general references to the conclusion of the dissolution proceeding as well as "miscellaneous issues". Furthermore, there are technical issues with the motion: (1) Debtor was not properly served; (2) the motion requests retroactive annulment of the stay but provides no cause or declaration; and (3) the request for relief does not even request relief from the automatic stay. Finally, the Court agrees with the Trustee that issues regarding adjudication of property of the estate appropriately belong within the Bankruptcy Court. Given the technical issues and the fact that the motion is unclear what Movant is requesting, the Court is inclined to DENY the motion without prejudice.

Debtor asserts that he is treating the Movant's claim in full through his chapter 13 plan. The Plan was confirmed on March 23, 2017, although the order confirming plan has not yet been entered. Docket 116

Tentative Ruling:

BACKGROUND

On September 21, 2014 ("Petition Date"), David J. Varela ("Debtor") filed his petition for chapter 7 relief. Howard Grobstein is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee"). Among the assets of the estate is real property located at 41150 Marseille Court in Murrieta, CA 92562 (the "Property").

On February 23, 2017, the Debtor filed motions to avoid the liens of Cal-West Equities, Inc. ("Cal-West") and LVNV Funding, LLC ("LVNV") pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 522(f). The Debtor subsequently withdrew the motions.

On March 9, 2017, the Debtor filed amended Schedules A, B and C. The initially filed schedules provided no basis for exemption of the Debtor's Property. However, the amended schedules specified that the Debtor was exempting $100,000 in the Property pursuant to CCP § 704.730(a)(2).

On March 20, 2017, the Debtor filed two new motions again seeking to avoid the liens of Cal-West and LVNV (the "Motions"). On April 10, 2017, Cal-West obtained an order granting it relief from stay as to the Property. On April 12, 2017, Cal-West filed opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition"). The Debtor replied on April 18, 2017, and filed objection to the declaration of Dan Townsend regarding the fair market value of the Property.

DISCUSSION

I. LIEN AVOIDANCE CALCULATION

Cal-West does not dispute that the calculation of the Debtor's interest in the Property should be limited to his 50% interest. As such, the only material issue in dispute appears to be regarding the total fair market value of the Property.

Section 522(f)(1)(A) provides in relevant part: "the debtor may avoid the fixing of a lien on an interest of the debtor in property to the extent that such lien impairs an exemption to which the debtor would have been entitled ... if such lien is (A) a judicial lien." 11 U.S.C. § 522(f)(1)(A) (emphasis supplied).

Section 522(f)(2) prescribes a formula for calculating whether an exemption is impaired:

(2)(A) For the purposes of this subsection, a lien shall be considered to impair an exemption to the extent that the sum of—

- (i) the lien;
- (ii) all other liens on the property; and
- (iii) the amount of the exemption that the debtor could claim if there were no liens on the property; exceeds the value that the debtor's interest in the property would have in the absence of any liens.

(B) In the case of a property subject to more than 1 lien, a lien that has been avoided shall not be considered in making the calculation under subparagraph (A) with respect to other liens.

(C) This paragraph shall not apply with respect to a judgment arising out of a mortgage foreclosure.

11 U.S.C. § 522(f)(2) (emphasis supplied). That is, an exemption is impaired if subtracting all of the unavoidable liens and the exemption (here, totaling $252,134.90) from the value of the debtor's half interest yields zero or less. See In re Meyer, 373 B.R. 84, 89 (9th Cir. BAP 2007).

The Debtor's valuation is $360,000. The Debtor's 50% interest in that amount is $180,000. Cal-West's valuation is $410,000. The Debtor's 50% interest in that amount is $205,000. Under either valuation, subtracting $252,134.90 results in a negative number. Thus, the Debtor is correct that Cal-West's valuation changes nothing. The liens of both LVNV and Cal-West impair the Debtor's claimed exemption and are thus avoidable pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 522(f).

II. LACHES

In Law v. Siegel, 134 S. Ct. 1188 (2014), the Supreme Court held that bankruptcy courts may not create non-statutory exceptions to the bankruptcy code. Law specifically addressed exemptions under § 522 and indicated that the bankruptcy code set forth the specific circumstances under which Congress determined that an exemption could be disallowed. Id. The Supreme Court then expressly found that a bankruptcy had no authority under federal law to disallow exemptions for reasons other than those set forth under § 522 or, alternatively, under any grounds applicable under state law. Id.

Cal-West has cited to Jefferson v. Tom, 52 Cal.App.2d 432 (1942), for the proposition that laches applies under California law as a basis to disallow a debtor's exemption. However, the Court need not reach Cal-West's argument because FRBP 4003(b) provides parties in interest with 30 days from the date of any amendment to a schedule to file an objection to property claimed as exempt. Here, the Debtor amended his schedules on March 9, 2017. Thus, the deadline to file an objection to the Debtor's exemption would have lapsed on or about April 8, 2017. Cal-West did not timely object to the claimed exemption. Instead, the objection to the Debtor's exemption comes in the form of an opposition to the Debtor's motions to avoid lien under § 522 (f). Based on the foregoing, the Court finds that Cal-West's laches argument and objection to the exemption is untimely and is otherwise not relevant to a determination of whether the lien of Cal-West impairs the Debtor's properly claimed exemption.

Docket 57

Tentative Ruling:

04/26/2017

BACKGROUND

On October 10, 2015 ("Petition Date"), Kai Lin Wu ("Debtor") filed a petition for chapter 7 relief.

On November 20, 2015, the Office of the United States Trustee ("UST") filed a motion for fine and/or disgorgement of fees against bankruptcy petition preparer Frank Osekowsky Frank's Paralegal Services (collectively, "Osekowsky"). Prior to the hearing, the UST and Osekowsky reached a stipulation. On January 7, 2016, the Court entered an order granting the UST's motion pursuant to the terms of the stipulation (the "Prior Order").

On March 28, 2017, the UST filed a motion for an order to show cause as to why bankruptcy petition preparer should not be held in contempt of Court ("Motion") for failure to comply with the terms of the BPP Order.

Service appears proper and no opposition has been filed.

DISCUSSION

The UST seeks issuance of an order to show cause why Osekowsky should not be held in civil contempt for failure to make payments due and owing under the terms of the Payment Schedule approved pursuant to the Prior Order. Per the Payment Schedule, at least two payments came due prior to the UST's filing of the instant Motion and the UST has provided evidence that no payments have been made by Osekowsky as of March 23, 2017. (Tehrani Decl. ¶6).

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the UST's evidence, in addition to the failure of Osekowsky to file opposition to the Motion, which this Court deems as consent to the granting of the Motion pursuant to LBR 9013-1(h), the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion.

Chapter 7

On May 16, 2016 ("Petition Date"), Jina Soo Choi ("Debtor") filed her petition for chapter 13 relief. On August 4, 2016, the case was converted to a case under chapter 7. On January 6, 2017, the Debtor moved the Court for an order dismissing her case. The case was dismissed on March 6, 2017.

On March 10, 2017, the Office of the United States Trustee ("UST") filed its Motion of United States Trustee For An Order Disgorging Fees, Assessing Damages, And Imposing Fines And Against Bankruptcy Petition Preparer Sandra Cooper Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 110 ("Motion"). The Motion was amended on March 29, 2017.

On April 5, 2017, Sandra Cooper ("Cooper") filed her opposition to the Motion ("Opposition"). On April 19, 2017, the UST filed its reply to the Opposition ("Reply").

DISCUSSION

The Motion asserts that Cooper violated 11 U.S.C. § 110 by failing to disclose her identity as required by statute, by executing the Debtor's signature, and by failing to furnish copies of the filed bankruptcy documents to the Debtor. Based thereon, the UST requests disgorgement of fees, statutory damages of $2,000 pursuant to § 110(i), and payment of fines to the UST in the total sum of $21,000 ($6,000 for individual violations in failing to disclose her identity as required under § 110(b)(1) and 110(c) (1), as tripled pursuant to §110(l)(1) for a total of $18,000, in addition to $3,000 for failing to furnish copies of the bankruptcy documents to the Debtor as required under §110(d)). (Note: the Reply indicates that the UST will not pursue an additional $3,000 in fines requested by the Motion for executing documents on behalf of the Debtor unless the Court determines that an evidentiary hearing is appropriate).

By her Opposition, Cooper disputes that she is a bankruptcy petition preparer (a "BPP"). Cooper asserts that her assistance was limited to filing the bankruptcy petition ("walking in his paperwork") on behalf of Hee Chang Choi (the Debtor's husband). (Opposition at ¶ 5). Cooper further asserts that she never met the Debtor and instead that she was asked to assist the Debtor's husband with obtaining a loan modification (Id. at ¶¶2-3). Cooper disputes the allegation that she received any money either from the Debtor or from the Debtor's husband (Id. at ¶ F) and instead repeatedly asserts that she was only assisting the Debtor's husband on the request of an unidentified third party who had been helping the Debtor's husband with a "Free and Clear" program. (Cooper Declaration).

In In re Reynoso, the Ninth Circuit provided examples of cases in which a party has been properly deemed a bankruptcy petition preparer. As the Ninth Circuit explained,

It goes without saying that the customer must provide data to the preparer, and the customer's role in printing or otherwise reproducing the forms before filing does not alter the role of the preparer. Moreover, § 110 does not require that bankruptcy petition preparers have in-person interactions with their customers. Cf. Ferm v. U.S. Trustee (In re Crowe), 243 B.R. 43, 49-50 (9th Cir. BAP 2000) (holding that the author of an instructional book on bankruptcy petitions who guaranteed buyers of the book that he would complete their forms for free if they were unable to do so themselves was, in fact, presenting himself as a bankruptcy petition preparer as defined by § 110(a)(1)), aff'd, 246 F.3d 673 (9th Cir.2000) (unpublished table decision); In re Doser, 281 B.R. 292, 303-04 (Bankr.D.Idaho 2002) (reasoning that a franchisor who receives information that was solicited in a face-to-face interaction between the franchisee and the customer and uses that information to prepare bankruptcy documents, but never meets with the customer directly, is a bankruptcy petition preparer), aff'd, 412 F.3d 1056.

In re Reynoso, 477 F.3d 1117, 1123–24 (9th Cir. 2007).

The Cooper Opposition and supporting declaration are vague as to the details of how or why Cooper was engaged to work with the Debtor's husband. Cooper repeatedly makes reference to a third party that was a point of contact between the Debtor's husband and her. However, this third party is never identified. Additionally, Cooper indicates she was only helping the alleged third party but disputes that she ever received money in connection with her assistance and disputes that she did anything other than "walk in" the petition documents to the Court. Cooper's assertions, however, are not credible. There is no indication of the nature of Cooper's relationship with the alleged third party and no detail as to why she would assist the Debtor's husband or the alleged third party agent without any compensation. Declaration provided by the UST makes reference to a third party who the Debtor asserted was a patient of the Debtor's husband. The Debtor's declaration asserts that the patient referred her husband to Cooper for the purpose of negotiating a loan modification. (Mot. at Exh. 1, Choi Decl. ¶7). Cooper correctly points out that the information regarding the third party/patient is hearsay. However, the remainder of the Choi declaration unequivocally identifies Cooper, and only Cooper, as the point of contact for all communications regarding the filing of the bankruptcy for the Debtor. (Id. at ¶¶8-19).

As to the remaining allegations of the Motion, Cooper by her Opposition has specifically denied all of the allegations of the Motion, including that she executed the petition documents for the Debtor. In an effort to controvert the allegation that she did not disclose her identity, Cooper notes that she was asked for a copy of her driver's license when filing the petition and provided it. Cooper's willingness to provide her Driver's license to the clerk when filing the petition, however, does not overcome her failure to provide specific identifying information on the petition itself as required pursuant to § 110, such as an address and social security number. Thus, assuming the Court finds that Cooper is a BPP within the meaning of the statute, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion pursuant to the reduced figure requested by the UST in its Reply.

#10.00 Motion to Dismiss Chapter 7 Case: Decl of Michael Kiralla

EH__

Docket 17

Tentative Ruling:

BACKGROUND

On December 20, 2016, Alpine Industries LLC ("Debtor") filed a petition for chapter 7 relief. Robert Whitmore is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee"). The bankruptcy petition is supported by an electronic filing declaration signed by the Debtor's prior counsel, Laleh Ensafi ("Ensafi") and also purportedly by the Debtor's principal, Michael Kiralla ("Kiralla"). (Docket No. 2).

On March 22, 2017, the Debtor filed a substitution, terminating the representation of Ensafi. On March 28, 2017, the Debtor filed a Motion to Dismiss its chapter 7 case ("Motion"). The Motion appears to have been properly served on the Trustee and all creditors. No opposition has been filed.

The Motion asserts as its primary basis for dismissal that (1) Kiralla was not fully informed of how the bankruptcy would affect the Debtor by Ensafi and (2) that the signature used to file the bankruptcy petition was not Kiralla's.

The electronic filing declaration certifies the accuracy of documents being filed by an attorney and certified an authorized signatory's permission to have the document filed by an attorney. Here, the allegations that form the basis for the dismissal can only be controverted by Ensafi. Notwithstanding, the Motion was not served on Ensafi.

Based on the foregoing the Court will CONTINUE the hearing to May 31, 2017, at 11:00 a.m. for service on Ensafi.

Docket 10

Tentative Ruling:

04/26/2017

The hearing on the Motion was continued from February 8, 2017. At the prior hearing, the Court continued the hearing for supplemental briefing on the issue of whether a claim that a state law statute of limitations defense may serve as a basis for the Debtor's determination of dischargeability complaint under § 523(a)(8).

The Debtor, in support of his Complaint, primarily relies on Banks v. Gill Distribution Centers, Inc., 263 F.3d 862, 868 (9th Cir. 2001), for his argument that on a complaint for determination of dischargeability of a student loan the court must first consider the establishment of the debt (which is subject to the applicable state statute of limitations) and second, make a determination as to the nature of the debt.

The Debtor's analysis of Banks v. Gill is unpersuasive. In that case, the Ninth Circuit was asked to examine the holding of the Tenth Circuit of Appeals in In re McKendry, 40 F.3d 331, 334 (10th Cir. 1994). The Tenth Circuit framed the question as follows: "where a debt has been reduced to judgment in state court, can the bankruptcy court be barred by a state statute of limitations from considering the underlying nature of the debt in determining whether that debt is dischargeable." In McKendry, a creditor had obtained a deficiency judgment against the debtor and the issue before the trial court was whether the creditor could attempt to prove that the debt established by the deficiency judgment was nondischargeable due to fraud. Id. at 334.

In considering the issue, the McKendry Court, quoted In re Moran, 152 B.R. 493 (Bankr.S.D.Oh.1993), and followed its reasoning:

[t]here is a fundamental flaw in the debtor's position in that it fails to recognize the distinction between a suit brought under state law to enforce state created rights and a suit filed in bankruptcy court to determine dischargeability issues under § 523(a) of the Bankruptcy Code. In bankruptcy court there are two separate and distinct causes of action:

One cause of action is on the debt and the other cause of action is on the dischargeability of that debt, a cause of action that arises solely by virtue of the Bankruptcy Code and its discharge provisions.

Until the debtor filed his petition for relief under the Bankruptcy Code, the plaintiffs obviously had no cause of action under § 523(a)(4).... The only relevant question with respect to Ohio's statute of limitations is whether the plaintiffs sought to enforce their "debt" against the debtor within the period prescribed by the statute of limitations. The debtor does not dispute that the plaintiffs did so. In the instant adversary proceeding, the nature of the alleged debt, i.e., whether the debt is of a type determined by Congress to be nondischargeable, is to be decided by this court. Moran, 152 B.R. at 495. (emphasis in the original).

In re McKendry, 40 F.3d 331, 336–37 (10th Cir. 1994)(internal citations omitted). Moran, McKendry and Banks all involve situations in which the plaintiffs were creditors of the estate seeking to enforce a prepetition claim (reduced to judgment or not) against a debtor. In order to enforce such claims, this line of cases holds that the creditor must first (1) establish that a debt exists (and such determination requires an evaluation of whether such a claim could exist under state law, including with reference to the applicable statute of limitations); and (2) must then establish that the debt is nondischargeable under the Bankruptcy Code.

Here, the Debtor is the plaintiff and is not seeking to enforce a debt but is instead seeking a determination that the debt is dischargeable based on the fact that the statute of limitations has run under state law. However, the debtor's argument belies the holding of McKendry of Banks because assuming, arguendo, that there is no debt due to the operation of the statute of limitations under state law, the Court need not reach the issue of whether the debt is nondischargeable under the Bankruptcy Code. In other words, by asserting that there is no debt because the California statute of limitations has lapsed, the Debtor's Complaint has addressed only the threshold issue in Banks – whether a debt exists under state law. The issue of dischargeability, however, requires (1) that there be a debt; (2) that it be a student loan debt; and (3) that the debtor demonstrate that payment would of the debt would constitute an undue hardship. Based on the foregoing, given that the Complaint is premised upon there being no debt, the Court cannot reach the issue of dischargeability.

APPEARANCES REQUIRED

BACKGROUND

On December 13, 2011, Allen Brandon Eley (the "Debtor") filed his petition for chapter 7 relief. The Debtor received a discharge of his debts on March 26, 2012. The Debtor's case was subsequently closed on December 17, 2013.

On March 30, 2016, the Debtor filed a complaint against National Collegiate Student Loan Trust ("Defendant"). He subsequently amended his complaint on July 5, 2016. The Debtor's amended complaint asserts that he is seeking a determination of dischargeability against the Defendant on the basis that the Statute of Limitations has lapsed and on this basis asserts his debt should be discharged (the "Complaint").

On December 23, 2016, Defendant filed a Motion for Summary Judgment (the "Motion") seeking a determination (1) that this Court lacks jurisdiction over the Debtor's claim; and (2) that having failed to assert "undue hardship" the Plaintiff's Complaint has failed to assert a claim that would render its claim dischargeable.

On January 18, 2017, the Debtor filed his Opposition to the Motion ("Opposition"). The Debtor primarily argues that the Motion is premature and that the Court should permit discovery to continue because the Debtor should be afforded an opportunity to demonstrate that the Defendant's claim is not enforceable.

DISCUSSION

I. SUMMARY JUDGMENT

The Motion is brought pursuant to FRBP 7056 (incorporating Fed R. Civ. P. 56). FRBP 7056. Under Fed R. Civ. P. 56, courts must view the evidence in the light most favorable to the non-moving party and "determine whether there are any genuine issues of material fact." Bagdadi v. Nazar, 84 F.3d 1194, 1197 (9th Cir.1996). A material fact is one that, "under the governing substantive law ... could affect the outcome of the case." Thrifty Oil Co. v. Bank of America Nat'l Trust & Savings Ass'n, 322 F.3d 1039, 1046 (9th Cir.2003) (citing *761 Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248 (1986)). A genuine issue of material fact exists when "the evidence is such that a reasonable jury could return a verdict for the nonmoving party." Anderson, 477 U.S. at 248. The party moving for summary judgment must initially identify "those portions of 'the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any,' which it believes demonstrate the absence of a genuine issue of material fact." Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323 (1986). Once the moving party meets its burden, the non-moving party must "set out specific facts showing a genuine issue for trial." Fed R. Civ. P. 56(e)(2).

If a moving party fails to carry its initial burden of production, the nonmoving party has no obligation to produce anything, even if the nonmoving party would have the ultimate burden of persuasion at trial. See Adickes v. S.H. Kress & Co., 398 U.S. 144, 160 (1970). In such a case, the nonmoving party may defeat the motion for summary judgment without producing anything. See High Tech Gays v. Defense Indus. Sec. Clearance Office, 895 F.2d 563, 574 (9th Cir.1990). If, however, a moving party carries its burden of production, the nonmoving party must produce evidence to support its claim or defense (denials in the pleadings are insufficient). See Bhan v. NME Hosps., Inc., 929 F.2d 1404, 1409 (9th Cir.1991). If the nonmoving party fails to produce enough evidence to create a genuine issue of material fact, the moving party wins the motion for summary judgment. See Celotex at 322 ("Rule 56(c) mandates the entry of summary judgment, after adequate time for discovery and upon motion, against a party who fails to make a showing sufficient to establish the existence of an element essential to that party's case, and on which that party will bear the burden of proof at trial."). But if the nonmoving party produces enough evidence to create a genuine issue of material fact, the nonmoving party defeats the motion. See id.

Dischargeability of Student Loans

It is well-settled law that student loan debts are presumptively nondischargeable in bankruptcy pursuant to § 523(a)(8). Tenn. Student Assistance Corp. v. Hood, 541 U.S. 440, 450 (2004) (holding that "unless the debtor affirmatively secures a hardship determination, the discharge order will not include a student loan debt").

The Court finds persuasive the Defendant's citation to In re Gustafson, 111 B.R. 282, 285 (9th Cir. BAP 1990), rev'd on other grounds, 934 F.2d 216 (9th Cir. 1991) which states the standards for a determination of dischargeability of student loans:

Section 523(a)(8) of the Bankruptcy Code provides that educational loan debts are nondischargeable unless the loan 1) first became due prior to five years before filing, or 2) not excepting the loan from discharge would cause undue hardship to the debtor. The effect of this section is to make student loans presumptively nondischargeable until a complaint is brought to determine dischargeability based on one of the two exceptions. Section 523(a)(8) is self-executing and the burden is on the debtor to bring a complaint to determine dischargeability of the debt. Buford v. Higher Educ. Assistance Foundation, 85 B.R. 579 (D.Kan.1988). The lender is not required to file a complaint to determine dischargeability. S.Rep. No. 989, 95th Cong., 2d Sess. 79 (1978), U.S.Code Cong. & Admin.News 1978, p. 5787.

Id. The Debtor's Complaint does not state a claim under § 523(a)(8), which is the only basis for a determination of dischargeability of a student loan debt. Here, there is no dispute that the debt at issue is a student loan debt and the Debtor's only claim for non-dischargeability is based on statute of limitation grounds. For these reasons, the Court finds that no material issues of fact remain to be determined which would prevent entry of summary judgment for the Defendant. Moreover, the Defendant has demonstrated that, as a matter of law, that the Debtor has not stated a claim for which relief is available in this Court.

Instead, the Court notes that the Debtor's statute of limitations defense is a matter of state law and this ruling is without prejudice to the Debtor's ability to assert his defense in the State Court Action brought by the Defendant and currently pending in the Superior Court of the County of Riverside.

Based on the foregoing, the Court declines to reach the issue of jurisdiction.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion on the bases that there are no material issues of fact to be determined at trial and that the Complaint fails to state a claim for dischargeability of the debt at issue. The case shall be dismissed

BACKGROUND

On August 29, 2016, Patricia Glenn Apostolakis ("Debtor or "Plaintiff") filed her petition for chapter 7 relief. On December 1, 2016, the Debtor filed a complaint against Patricia Neiderhiser ("Defendant") to avoid preferential and/or fraudulent transfers ("Complaint"). The Complaint generally seeks to avoid a judgment lien on improved real property known as 10132 Phelan Road, in Oak Hills, California (the "Property").

On December 6, 2016, the Plaintiff filed her executed service of summons (Docket No. 3) indicating that the summons and complaint was served on Defendant on December 6, 2016. The Summons provided Defendant with a deadline of January 4, 2017, to file her answer.

An amended complaint was filed by the Plaintiff on December 29, 2016 (the "FAC").

On February 2, 2017, the Plaintiff re-filed a copy of her executed service of summons (Docket No. 5).

On February 6, 2017, the Plaintiff filed a request for entry of default as to the Defendant which was entered by the Clerk on February 7, 2017.

On March 22, 2017, the Plaintiff filed her Motion for Default Judgment against the Defendant (the "MDJ").

On April 11, 2017, the Defendant filed a Motion to vacate (or "set aside") the default ("MSA") and to expedite a hearing on her motion to vacate. The Court entered an order setting the MSA to be heard concurrent with the Motion for Default Judgment.

On April 20, 2017, the Plaintiff filed opposition to the MSA ("Opposition").

Chapter 7

Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 55(c) (made applicable by Fed. R. Bankr.P. 7055) provides that "[f]or good cause shown the court may set aside an entry of default and, if a judgment by default has been entered, may likewise set it aside in accordance with Rule 60(b)". FRBP 7055.

To determine "good cause" under this Rule, a court must consider three factors:

- (1) whether the party seeking to set aside the default engaged in culpable conduct that led to the default;
- (2) whether it had no meritorious defense; or
- (3) whether reopening the default judgment would prejudice the other party.

United States v. Signed Personal Check No. 730 of Yubran S. Mesle, 615 F.3d 1085, 1091 (9th Cir. 2010) (citing Franchise Holding II v. Huntington Rests. Group, Inc., 375 F.3d 922, 925–26 (9th Cir. 2004), cert. denied 544 U.S. 949 (2005)). This test is disjunctive, such that a finding that any one of the factors is true is sufficient for the court to refuse to set aside the default. It is the same test used to determine whether a default judgment should be set aside under Civil Rule 60(b). Id. While a court has the discretion to refuse to set aside a default judgment for excusable neglect under Fed.R.Civ.P. 60(b) if it finds one of the enumerated factors present, it is not mandatory that it do so. See Brandt v. Am. Bankers Ins. Co. of Fla., 653 F.3d 1108 (9th Cir.2011). "Crucially, however, 'judgment by default is a drastic step appropriate only in extreme circumstances; a case should, whenever possible, be decided on the merits.' " Signed Personal Check No. 730 at 1091 (citing Falk v. Allen, 739 F.2d 461, 463 (9th Cir.1984)).

Defendant asserts that it appears the Complaint was served on her at her old address in Boron, California and as such she did not receive it. (Neiderhiser Decl. ¶3). The Defendant concedes that she received the FAC (but not the amended summons) at her address in Colorado on or about January 3 or 4 of 2017. The Defendant further asserts that the FAC did not indicate the time limit for the filing of a response. (Id. at ¶ 4). In response, the Plaintiff asserts that the Defendant has failed to corroborate her assertion that she has moved. Plaintiff suggests that the Defendant may own both properties and is simply asserting that she has moved in an effort to excuse her "sleeping on her rights" and lack of diligence. Here, Defendant may have engaged in "culpable conduct" regarding her address, and it does not appear Defendant has established a meritorious defense. However, any delay has been minor. Nevertheless, the Court is cognizant of the fact that as a direct result of Defendant's three month delay in seeking to set aside the default despite having been aware of the Complaint since January 3 or 4, Plaintiff has unnecessarily expended fees in preparation of the Motion for Default Judgment, and such fees would otherwise prejudice Movant.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT the MSA conditioned upon the Defendant's payment of Plaintiff's fees and costs associated with the filing of the Motion for Default Judgment.

The Court is further inclined to DENY the Motion for Default Judgment as moot based on the Court's granting of the MSA.

BACKGROUND

On October 5, 2016, Jiangmin Li ("Defendant") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition.

Chapter 7

On January 9, 2017, Dongxia Qiu ("Plaintiff") filed an adversary complaint against Defendant, seeking a non-dischargeability finding. On February 8, 2017, Defendant filed a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim. On February 22, 2017, Plaintiff filed her opposition. On March 3, 2017, Defendant filed a late reply.

The adversary complaint arises from state court litigation between the two parties. Plaintiff's state court complaint included ten causes of action: (1) intentional misrepresentation; (2) negligent misrepresentation; (3) rescission – fraud; (4) rescission – mistake; (5) conversion; (6) breach of fiduciary duty; (7) imposition of constructive trust; (8) accounting; (9) unjust enrichment; and (10) breach of written contract. The Court ruled in favor of Plaintiff on her fourth (rescission – mistake) and sixth (breach of fiduciary duty) causes of action. The Court ruled against Plaintiff on the first (intentional misrepresentation) and third (rescission – fraud) causes of action. The Court deemed the second, fifth, seventh, eighth, ninth, and ten causes of action to have been forfeited due to Plaintiff's failure to adequately brief the issues.

DISCUSSION

Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 12(b)(6) states:

(b) Every defense to a claim for relief in any pleading must be asserted in the responsive pleading if one is required. But a party may assert the following defenses by motion:

(6) failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted

Chapter 7

If, on a motion under Rule 12(b)(6) or 12(c), matters outside the pleadings are presented to and not excluded by the court, the motion must be treated as one for summary judgment under Rule 56. All parties must be given a reasonable opportunity to present all the material that is pertinent to the motion.

Here, Defendant has submitted a request for judicial notice, so the Court must initially determine whether to grant or deny the request. Pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 12(b)(6), granting a request for judicial notice may cause the Court to convert the motion to a motion for summary judgment. See, e.g., Jacobson v. AEG Capital Corp., 50 F.3d 1493, 1496 (9th Cir. 1995) ("In considering AEG's motion to dismiss, the district court took judicial notice of the extensive records and transcripts from the prior bankruptcy proceedings. We therefore review the district court's dismissal as an order granting summary judgment."). The Court may "consider unattached evidence on which the complaint 'necessarily relies' if: (1) the complaint refers to the document; (2) the document is central to the plaintiff's claim; and (3) no party questions the authenticity of the document," without converting the motion to a motion for summary judgment. See U.S. v. Corinthian Colls., 655 F.3d 984, 999 (9th Cir. 2011).

Here, the unattached evidence contained in Defendant's request for judicial notice satisfies the above test. Plaintiff necessarily relied on the documents. In fact, the Plaintiff appears to have erroneously omitted the documents when filing the complaint, since the complaint purports to attach the three documents and references the documents throughout. Therefore, the Court will grant the request for judicial notice, and evaluate the motion as a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim.

The standard for a Rule 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss is the following:

While a complaint attacked by a Rule 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss does not need detailed factual allegations, a plaintiff's obligation to provide the 'grounds' of his 'entitlement to relief' requires more than labels and conclusions, and a formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action will not do. Factual allegations must be enough to raise a right to relief above the speculative level, on the assumption that all the allegations in the complaint are true. . . . The need at the pleading stage for allegations plausibly suggesting agreement reflects the threshold requirement of Rule 8(a)(2) that the "plain statement" possesses enough heft to "show that the pleader is entitled to relief.

Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555-57 (2007) (quotations and parentheses omitted).

Here, Plaintiff states two causes of action, both relating to non-dischargeability, under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(4) and (6). Defendant alleges that both causes of action are barred by collateral estoppel.¹ The state court statement of decision found denied Plaintiff's claims for intentional fraud and for rescission based on fraud. That decision granted Plaintiff's claims for unilateral mistake of fact and breach of fiduciary duty. While Plaintiff's complaint contained other causes of action, the state court deemed those causes of action to be forfeited by Plaintiff's failure to brief the issues.

"Under collateral estoppel, once a court has decided an issue of fact or law necessary to its judgment, that decision may preclude relitigation of the issue in a suit on a different cause of action involving a party to the first case." Allen v. McCurry, 449 U.S. 90, 94 (1980). Collateral estoppel applies in dischargeability proceedings. See Grogan v. Garner, 498 U.S. 279, 284 n.11 (1991). And it is appropriate to consider a collateral estoppel argument at the motion to dismiss stage. See, e.g., Conopco, Inc. v. Roll Int't, 231 F.3d 82, 86 (2nd Cir. 2000).

In California, "collateral estoppel bars relitigation when (1) the issue decided in the prior action is identical to the issue presented in the second action; (2) there was a final judgment on the merits; and (3) the party against whom estoppel is asserted was a party . . . to the prior adjudication." Garrett v. City & Cnty. of San Francisco, 818 F.2d 1515, 1520 (9th Cir. 1987).

11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(4) states:

- (a) A discharge under section 727, 1141, 1228(a), 1228(b), or 1328(b) of this title does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt –
- (4) for fraud or defalcation while acting in a fiduciary capacity, embezzlement, or larceny

Plaintiff's complaint raises three disjunctive claims: (1) defalcation in a fiduciary capacity, (2) embezzlement, and (3) larceny. "To prevail in a § 523(a)(4) action, the creditor must establish that (1) a fiduciary relationship existed and (2) a defalcation occurred." Erde v. Moriarty, 2013 WL 12132069 at *6 (C.D. Cal. 2013). Defalcation under § 523(a)(4) was recently defined broadly and, somewhat vaguely, by the Supreme Court:

Thus, where the conduct at issue does not involve bad faith, moral turpitude, or other immoral conduct, the term requires an intentional wrong. We include as intentional not only conduct that the fiduciary knows is improper but also reckless conduct of the kind set forth in the Model Penal Code. Where actual knowledge of wrongdoing is lacking, we consider conduct as equivalent if the fiduciary "consciously disregards" "a substantial and unjustifiable risk" that his conduct will turn out to violate a fiduciary duty. That risk "must be of such a nature and degree that, considering the nature and purpose of the actor's conduct and the circumstances known to him, its disregard involves a gross deviation from the standard of conduct that a law-abiding person would observe in the actor's situation.

Bullock v. BankChampaign, N.A., 133 S. Ct. 1754, 1759-1760 (2013).

Embezzlement is the use of funds lawfully entrusted for an unauthorized purpose. In re Littleton, 942 F.2d 551, 555 (9th Cir. 1991). Larceny is the "felonious taking of another's personal property with intent to convert it or deprive the owner of the same." In re Ormsby, 591 F.3d 1199, 1205 (9th Cir. 2010). "Larceny is distinguished from embezzlement in that the original taking of the property was unlawful." In re Montes, 177 B.R. 325, 331 (Bankr C.D. Cal. 1994).

In ruling against Plaintiff's causes of action for fraud and rescission based on fraud, the state court found that, regarding the certain misrepresentations that were the basis of Plaintiff's claim, "Plaintiff did not rely on those misrepresentations in entering into the April agreement." In both cases, the state court found that Plaintiff failed to demonstrate that it relied on the alleged misrepresentations of Defendant in entering into the contract. This finding of the state court does not constitute a finding that Defendant did not commit defalcation. As the Supreme Court quotation above highlights, the issues are substantially different.

The issues are also substantially different with regard to Plaintiff's § 523(a)(6) claim. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6) states:

- (a) A discharge under section 727, 1141, 1228(a), 1228(b), or 1328(b) of this title does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt –
 - (6) for willful and malicious injury by the debtor to another entity or to the property of another entity

Again, the state court's finding that Plaintiff failed to demonstrate reliance on alleged misrepresentations of Defendant when entering into the contract at issue does not constitute a finding that Defendant did not commit a willful and malicious injury. The state court's findings underlining its ruling in Plaintiff's favor for rescission based on unilateral mistake of fact and breach of fiduciary duty could plausibly be considered to state a claim pursuant to § 523(a)(4) and (6).

TENTATIVE

- (1) Trinity requests additional time to obtain an appraisal of the Property; and
- (2) Trinity asserts that the loan payoff statement provided by the Debtors as Exhibit "A" which sets forth the amount of the first mortgage is hearsay and alternatively, that it indicates there may have been a loan modification with the potential for loan forgiveness as to a portion of the loan principal

First, the Court is inclined to grant Trinity's request for additional time. Separately, the Court overrules Trinity's hearsay objection but finds that Trinity's request for the Debtors to indicate whether any portion of the loan principal has been forgiven is reasonable.

Docket 117

Tentative Ruling:

4/27/17

Background:

On May 4, 2015, Vonetta Mays ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On August 8, 2015, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed. On December 28, 2015, Persolve LLC ("Creditor") filed a claim in the amount of $8,181.55 ("Claim 5"). On March 24, 2017, Debtor filed an objection to Claim 4. The Court notes that Debtor appears to not have used the mandatory forms.

The basis for Debtor's objection is that Debtor received a discharge on January 23, 2014. Claim 4 arises from debt incurred between 2008 and 2010. While Creditor recorded a lien on Debtor's home on May 17, 2013, the Court avoided that lien on January 30, 2017.

Applicable Law:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

The Motion indicates that the basis for relief is a lack of adequate protection and the declining value of the vehicle. However, no evidence is provided to support either basis for relief. Separately, based on the evidence provided and the attached declaration, it appears that Movant actually intended to seek relief based on a postpetition or post-confirmation default.

The original confirmed chapter 13 plan entered on December 8, 2016, made no mention of the 2010 Chevrolet Suburban or Movant. However, the January 11, 2017, Amended Order Confirming Chapter 13 Plan (entered after the Movant had already filed its Motion for Relief from Stay) specifically indicated that Debtor would make direct payments to Movant. The Debtor concedes that there was an error on his part in the drafting of the plan. However, it is not clear from the Debtor's response why the December payment which would have come due on December 28, 2016, was not made, although it appears implied that the December payment was included in the plan payment. Movant has established cause under § 362(d)(1) to lift the stay based on

Background:

On October 1, 2016, Chase Chung ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On November 21, 2016, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On February 14, 2017, Ocwen Loan Servicing ("Ocwen") filed a secured claim in the amount of $107,123.68 ("Claim 7"), which includes $52,722.19 in arrears. On March 28, 2017, Debtor filed an objection to Ocwen's secured claim. The Court notes that Debtor failed to use the mandatory claim objection form.

Debtor objects to the claim as late-filed and inaccurate. Nevertheless, Debtor consents to continuing to pay $20,030 through the plan, representing Debtor's estimate of the arrears at the petition date.

Applicable Law:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)).

"The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

Analysis:

Here, the claims bar date was February 1, 2017, and Ocwen did not file Claim 7 until February 14, 2017. Therefore, the claim was filed late.

11 U.S.C. § 502(b)(9) states:

(b) Except as provided in subsections (e)(2), (f), (g), (h) and (i) of this section, if such objection to a claim is made, the court, after notice and a hearing, shall determine the amount of such claim in lawful currency of the United States as of the date of the filing of the petition and shall allow such claim in such amount, except to the extent that –

(9) proof of such claim is not timely filed, except to the extent tardily filed as permitted under paragraph (1), (2), or (3) of section 726(a) of this title or under the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure . . .

There is no indication that the five subsections of § 502(b) are applicable here, and § 726 is not applicable to Chapter 13 proceedings. The Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure also do not provide an exception here. As noted by Debtor, "the Ninth Circuit has repeatedly held that the deadline to file a proof of claim in a Chapter 13 proceedings is 'rigid,' and the bankruptcy court lacks equitable power to extend this deadline after the fact." In re Barker, 839 F.3d 1189, 1197 (9th Cir. 2016). While there are limited exceptions relating to the informal proof of claim doctrine, Ocwen has not made any argument that those exceptions apply here.

Docket 51

Tentative Ruling:

4/27/17

BACKGROUND

On October 24, 2016, Patricia Morales ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On January 24, 2017, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On April 3, 2017, Trustee's motion to dismiss was granted after no opposition was properly filed. On April 6, 2017, Debtor filed a motion to vacate dismissal. Trustee filed his disapproval on April 10, 2017. On April 21, 2017, Debtor filed a late reply that was not served Trustee's comments are based on both technical and substantive issues. Trustee states that both service and notice are inadequate. Substantively, Trustee states that Debtor's assertion that she was current with plan payments is incorrect, and further states Debtor has never been current with plan payments. Furthermore, Trustee asserts that Debtor failed to provide tax returns.

As a preliminary matter, the Court notes that Debtor's motion contains numerous factual and legal deficiencies. The heading of the motion improperly cites a string of provisions, some of which are inapplicable to the case at issue. The motion itself contains a recitation of the factual background and a brief recitation of the string of legal provisions cited, but is devoid of any meaningful application of the law to the facts of this case.

Debtor states that her counsel notified her that a motion to dismiss was filed, but that she did not respond because she thought she had made all plan payments. This assertion is contradicted by the case's docket. Debtor did, in fact, file a late opposition, prior to the entry of the order, which contained a declaration by Debtor. The matter was not placed on calendar, however, because the opposition contained hearing information and Debtor did not respond to the notice to filer.

The second factual assertion made by Debtor, that she was current with her payments, is denied by Trustee, who states that her payments bounced, and that she appeared to have issued a "stop payment" on the funds. While Debtor has filed additional evidence of tendered payment in her reply, the Court cannot ascertain whether the funds were sent, or received, by Trustee. More importantly, however, there is no description of how those payments are relevant to the analysis for a Rule 60(b) motion.

Debtor's reply also states that Debtor has fixed the proof of service and notice issues. That assertion is not supported by a review of the Court's docket. There is no amended proof of service or notice docketed, and Debtor's reply does not itself include a proof of service.

The approach taken by Debtor and her counsel is concerning. While there may be merit in bringing a §60(b) motion based on the technical error in Debtor's opposition, that is not the path that was chosen. Instead, Debtor has asserted facts which are incompatible with, or, at the very least, misrepresent the record.

Additionally, Debtor's legal argument is unclear. Debtor appears to primarily rely on Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9023, which deals with amendments of judgments, and states that it would be a manifest injustice for the order to stand. This legal provision is not applicable in this situation. See Harrington v. City of Chicago, 433 F.3d 542, 546 (7th Cir. 2006) (in distinguishing between Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 59(e) and Rule 60(b), the Court stated "Rule 59(e) does not provide a vehicle for a party to undo its own procedural failures").

Finally, Debtor mechanically cites Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 60(b)(6) and § 105, and appears to argue that it would be manifestly unjust to subject Debtor to collection law suits and garnishments based on the facts of the case.

The Court finds Debtor's account of the facts of the case to lack credibility. Of the two factual assertions made by Debtor, one is contradicted by the docket and the other is denied by the Trustee. Because the motion contains no legal analysis and misrepresents facts, the Court will deny the motion.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion.

- (1) Trinity requests additional time to obtain an appraisal of the Property; and
- (2) Trinity asserts that the loan payoff statement provided by the Debtors as Exhibit "A" which sets forth the amount of the first mortgage is hearsay and alternatively, that it indicates there may have been a loan modification with the potential for loan forgiveness as to a portion of the loan principal

First, the Court is inclined to grant Trinity's request for additional time. Separately, the Court overrules Trinity's hearsay objection but finds that Trinity's request for the Debtors to indicate whether any portion of the loan principal has been forgiven is reasonable.

Docket 26

Tentative Ruling:

03/30/2017

BACKGROUND

On December 28, 2016, Frank and Barbara Horzen (collectively, "Debtors") filed their petition for chapter 13 relief. Rod Danielson is the duly appointed chapter 13 trustee ("Trustee").

On March 9, 2017, the Debtors filed a Motion for Appointment of Mrs. Horzen as the "Next Friend" of Debtor Frank Horzen ("Motion"). The Motion is based on the Debtors' assertion that Mr. Horzen lacks the capacity to make legal decisions and seeks authority for Mrs. Horzen to "execute all legal decisions" related to the bankruptcy, including permitting Mrs. Horzen to execute documents on behalf of Mr. Horzen. Notice was provided to all creditors and to the Trustee and United States Trustee. No opposition has been filed.

DISCUSSION

Fed. R. Bankr.P. 1004.1 allows "a representative, including a general guardian, committee, conservator, or similar fiduciary," to file a voluntary petition on behalf of an incompetent person.

The rule further provides that

[a]n infant or incompetent person who does not have a duly appointed representative may file a voluntary petition by next friend or guardian ad litem. The court shall appoint a guardian ad litem for an infant or incompetent person who is a debtor and is not otherwise represented or shall make any other order to protect the infant or incompetent debtor.

Rule 1004.1 is patterned after Fed.R.Civ.P. 17(c), which applies to adversary proceedings pursuant to Fed. R. Bankr.P. 7017. That rule provides that an incompetent person may sue "by a next friend or by a guardian ad litem" if the incompetent person does not have a duly appointed representative, and provides that "[t]he court must appoint a guardian ad litem—or issue another appropriate order—to protect a minor or incompetent person who is unrepresented in an action."

Cases interpreting Rule 17(c) look to the law of the state in which the subject is domiciled and follow the state's incompetency laws." In re Burchell, 2014 WL 1304635, at *1 (Bankr. N.D. Ohio 2014)(internal citations omitted). This court shall thus look to the California Probate Code's § 811 which outlines the possible bases for a determination that a person is of unsound mind or lacks capacity to make a decision or do a certain act, including for example, incapacity to contract or to execute wills or trusts.

In support of the Motion, the Debtors have attached the Declaration of Barbara Horzen in which she details the numerous diagnoses of Mr. Horzen made since June 2016 indicating his dementia diagnosis. Particularly persuasive is the correspondence attached as Exhibit E to the Motion, and authenticated by the declaration of Barbara Horzen, which indicates the opinion of Mr. Horzen's Doctor, Sophie K. Chwa, and states that Mr. Horzen is incompetent to make decisions "including those of legal consequence." Notwithstanding this diagnosis, § 811(d) provides that "the mere diagnosis of a mental or physical disorder shall not be sufficient in and of itself to support a determination that a person is of unsound mind or lacks the capacity to do a certain act." Instead, California law requires evidence of specific deficits and a link between the identified deficits and the acts that the allegedly incompetent person would otherwise have capacity to perform. The types of deficiencies are outlined in § 811 as follows:

- (1) Alertness and attention, including, but not limited to, the following:
 - (A) Level of arousal or consciousness.
 - (B) Orientation to time, place, person, and situation.
 - (C) Ability to attend and concentrate.

- (2) Information processing, including, but not limited to, the following:
 - (A) Short- and long-term memory, including immediate recall.
 - (B) Ability to understand or communicate with others, either verbally or otherwise.
 - (C) Recognition of familiar objects and familiar persons.
 - (D) Ability to understand and appreciate quantities.
 - (E) Ability to reason using abstract concepts.
 - (F) Ability to plan, organize, and carry out actions in one's own rational self-interest.
 - (G) Ability to reason logically.
- (3) Thought processes. Deficits in these functions may be demonstrated by the presence of the following:
 - (A) Severely disorganized thinking.
 - (B) Hallucinations.
 - (C) Delusions.
 - (D) Uncontrollable, repetitive, or intrusive thoughts.
- (4) Ability to modulate mood and affect. Deficits in this ability may be demonstrated by the presence of a pervasive and persistent or recurrent state of euphoria, anger, anxiety, fear, panic, depression, hopelessness or despair, helplessness, apathy or indifference, that is inappropriate in degree to the individual's circumstances.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to CONTINUE the hearing on the Motion for the Debtors to either provide (1) supplemental evidence establishing that the Mr. Horzen is unable to undertake the actions required in connection with the Debtors' duties in a chapter 13 case; or (2) evidence that Counsel has explained to Mr. Horzen that a bankruptcy is being filed in his name and that Mr. Horzen has consented to Mrs. Horzen's appointment as his representative.

As an aside, the Court notes that as the power of attorney provided is of general application and does not specifically permit actions to be taken by Mrs. Horzen in the event of a bankruptcy, the power of attorney does not necessarily provide Mrs. Horzen with the requisite authority.

On April 7, 2014, the IRS filed a notice of federal tax lien with the Los Angeles County Recorder's Office, and, on April 11, 2014, filed a notice of federal tax lien with the Riverside County Recorder's Office. This lien related to unpaid taxes for the periods 2006-2008 and 2012. On April 13, 2016, the IRS filed another notice of federal tax lien with the Riverside County Recorder's Office relating to unpaid taxes for the tax years 2011 and 2013.

On January 9, 201, Debtor filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On January 24, 2017, Debtor filed a lien avoidance motion pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 506(d) seeking to avoid the lien recorded in April 2016. After stipulating to a continuance, the IRS filed its opposition on March 9, 2017.

The IRS raises three arguments in its opposition. First, the IRS questions the legitimacy of Debtor's property valuation, noting that Zillow identifies the value of the real property as $555,661. Second, the IRS argues that § 506(d) only applies to invalid claims. The IRS raises a third argument that is unclear and does not appear to be relevant to this hearing.

Regarding its first argument, the IRS asserts that "[t]he Debtor may not seek to avoid a lien under Section 506(d) without first obtaining a valuation of the secured claim under Section 506(a)." The IRS cites Blendheim for its proposition, however, Blendheim does not support the proposition. Blendheim does not discuss valuation of at all. Additionally, Debtor has obtained a valuation of the subject real property. While the IRS has indicated it believes the valuation is low, the IRS has not provided any counter-evidence, nor did the IRS attach the Zillow valuation to its opposition. Furthermore, the valuation hinted at by the IRS is still nearly $250,000 lower than the value of the first trust deed. The Court will not entirely disregard Debtor's valuation under these circumstances.

Regarding its second argument, the IRS seems to argue, in an indirect manner, that the Supreme Court's reasoning in Dewsnup is applicable in the Chapter 13 context. While there is some language in Blendheim to support the IRS's contention, Blendheim did not resolve the issue. See In re Blendheim, 803 F.3d 477, 489-90 (9th Cir. 2015) ("Dewsnup's holding clarifies that § 506(d)'s avoidance mechanism turns on claim allowance."). First of all, Blendheim's holding does not distinguish between Chapter 7 and Chapter 13 cases: the conclusion that the lien could be avoided in Blendheim was a result of Dewsnup's consideration of when a lien could be avoided in a Chapter 7 case. Additionally, the authority for the Court's quoted language above is a Supreme Court case dealing with a Chapter 7 proceeding, Bank of America, N.A. v. Caulkett, 135 S. Ct. 1995 (2015). In Caulkett, the Supreme Court merely clarified that Dewsnup's holding applied to wholly underwater liens, as well as partly underwater liens. Id. at 1998-99. Courts have typically construed Caulkett narrowly. See, e.g., In re Larson, 544 B.R. 883, 885-86 (Bankr. W.D. Wis. 2016).

While the Supreme Court has settled the question of when § 506(d) can be used in Chapter 7 cases, the analysis in Chapter 13 proceedings is different. This is because 11 U.S.C. § 1322(b)(2) is applicable to Chapter 13 proceedings, and allows a debtor to: "modify the rights of holders of secured claims, other than a claim secured only by a security interest in real property that is the debtor's principal residence, or of holders of unsecured claims, or leave unaffected the rights of holders of any class of claims." While Dewsnup interpreted the meaning of secured claim in § 506(d) to be different than that used in § 506(a), see Caulkett, 135 S. Ct. 1995 at 1998, Dewsnup's interpretation has not been applied to § 1322(b)(2). See In re Zimmer, 313 F.3d 1220, 1223 (9th Cir. 2002) ("The position adopted by a majority of courts is that the antimodification clause does not apply to wholly unsecured homestead liens, but a substantial minority of courts has taken the contrary position"; Ninth Circuit followed the majority approach). Therefore, Chapter 13 debtors can use § 1322(b)(2) to avoid a wholly underwater junior lien on their principal residence.

As noted by the IRS, "[t]he lien strip procedure in a chapter 13 case is a two-step process." In re Boukatch, 533 B.R. 292, 295 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2015). The two-step process, however, is embodied in the form motion to avoid the lien. And here, while the IRS references Zillow to suggest that Debtor's valuation may not be accurate, the stated valuation referenced by the IRS makes it apparent that no part of the IRS's claim is secured under § 506(a).

 VACATED  REASON: OBJECTION WITHDRAWN 4/25/17

Tentative Ruling:

3/23/17

Background:

On January 9, 2017, Michael Rivera ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On February 2, 2017, the IRS filed Claim #1 in the amount of $45,102.99, of which $29,751.14 was characterized as secured, and $10,152.79 was characterized as priority. On February 13, 2017, Debtor filed a claim objection. On March 8, 2017, the IRS filed its opposition.

The IRS identifies unpaid income tax for the years 2006-2008, 2011-2013, and 2015-2016. The IRS additionally identifies taxes owing due to Debtor's failure to file Form 940 Employer's Annual Federal Unemployment ("FUTA") for tax years 2011-2017. Furthermore, the IRS identifies taxes owing due to Debtor's failure to file Form 41 Employer's Quarterly Federal Tax Return ("FICA") for 2011(1Q) to 2017 (1Q).

While Debtor concedes liability regarding the federal income taxes owing, Debtor disputes liability for the FUTA and FICA taxes. Specifically, Debtor states that the tax ID number listed on the IRS's proof of claim is not the tax identification number of himself or his corporation, that he was not individually obligated to file any FUTA or FICA taxes, and that his corporation filed the appropriate FUTA or FICA taxes during the time in question.

The IRS responds by indicating that Debtor's law office is referenced with the tax identification number provided, and that this law office is referenced with Debtor's social security number.

Applicable Law:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden of production shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74).

Analysis:

Local Rule 3007-1(c)(1) requires that: "An objection to claim must be supported by admissible evidence sufficient to overcome the evidentiary effect of a properly documented proof of claim executed and filed in accordance with FRBP 3001." In the context of tax claims, the Ninth Circuit has stated the following:

A bankruptcy court adjudicating a tax claim by the IRS must apply the burden-of-proof rubric normally applied under tax law. In an action to collect taxes, the government bears the initial burden of proof. That burden is satisfied by the IRS's deficiency determinations and assessments for unpaid taxes, which are presumed correct so long as they are supported by a minimal factual foundation. However, a showing by the taxpayer that a determination is arbitrary, excessive or without foundation shifts the burden of proof back to the IRS. Thus, once the debtor rebuts the presumption, the burden reverts to the IRS to show that its determination was correct.

In re Olshan, 356 F.3d 1078, 1084 (9th Cir. 2004) (quotations and citations omitted); see also Raleigh v. Ill. Dept. of Revenue, 530 U.S. 15, 21 (2000) ("[T]he very fact that the burden of proof has often been placed on the taxpayer indicates how critical the burden rule is, and reflects several compelling rationales: the vital interest of the government in acquiring its lifeblood, revenue; the taxpayer's readier access to the relevant information, and the importance of encouraging voluntary compliance by giving taxpayers incentives to self-report and to keep adequate records in case of dispute.").

Rebutting the claim of the IRS requires more than a blanket assertion that the assessment of the IRS is incorrect. See, e.g., In re Forte, 234 B.R. 607, 618 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 1999) ("The Debtor may not rebut the prima facie case merely by stating that the amount of taxes claimed by the Service is not correct; the Debtor must produce some evidence to support that statement."). Here, Debtor has stated that the tax identification number provided by the IRS is incorrect, and that the FICA and FUTA taxes were paid. Consistent with the Supreme Court's Raleigh holding, it is Debtor that has ready access to the evidence that supports those points, but he has failed to provide such evidence. In the context of a tax claim, an unadorned assertion that the IRS's assessment relates to the wrong entity does not constitute "facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves," Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039, especially when considering that Debtor has declined to provide documentary support for his assertion.

Case dismissed: 3/13/17

EH__

Docket 16

Tentative Ruling:

4/27/17

BACKGROUND

On February 21, 2017, Ernie Macias ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. The case was dismissed for failure to file information on March 13, 2017.

On March 24, 2017, UST filed a motion to disgorge attorney's fees under 11 U.S.C. § 329. The motion is based on the failure to Debtor's counsel, Alon Darvish ("Counsel") to file the required statement of attorney compensation, which UST asserts that Counsel has regularly failed to do.

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 329 states:

(a) Any attorney representing a debtor in a case under this title, or in connection with such a case, whether or not such attorney applies for compensation under this title, shall file with the court a statement of the compensation paid or agreed to be paid, if such payment or agreement was made after one year before the date of the filing of the petition, for services rendered or to be rendered in contemplation of or in connection with the case by such attorney, and the source of such compensation.

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 2016(b) states:

Every attorney for a debtor, whether or not the attorney applies for compensation, shall file and transmit to the United States trustee within 14 days after the order for relief, or at another time as the court may direct, the statement required by § 329 of the Code including whether the attorney has shared or agreed to share the compensation with any other entity. The statement shall include the particulars of any such sharing or agreement to share by the attorney, but the details of any agreement for the sharing of the compensation with a member or regular associate of the attorney's law firm shall not be required. A supplemental statement shall be filed and transmitted to the United States trustee within 14 days after any payment or agreement not previously discussed.

The Ninth Circuit has stated:

To facilitate the court's policing responsibilities, the Bankruptcy Code and Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure impose several disclosure requirements on attorneys who seek to represent a debtor and who seek to recover fees. . . . Thus, failure to comply with the disclosure rules is a sanctionable violation, even if proper disclosure would have shown that the attorney had not actually violated any Bankruptcy Code provision or any Bankruptcy Rule.

In re Park-Helena Corp., 63 F.3d 877, 880 (9th Cir. 1995). Furthermore, "[T]he disclosure rules are applied literally, even if the results are sometimes harsh. Negligent or inadvertent omissions 'do not vitiate the failure to disclose.'" Id. at 881.

Chapter 13

When an attorney fails to satisfy the disclosure requirements of § 329, the Court is authorized to order disgorgement of fees. See, e.g., In re Lewis, 113 F.3d 1040, 1045 (9th Cir. 1997) ("An attorney's failure to obey the disclosure and reporting requirements of the Bankruptcy Code and Rules gives the bankruptcy court the discretion to order disgorgement of attorney's fees. In reaching this conclusion, we do not mean to say that the excessiveness or reasonableness of those fees is irrelevant in all cases; in appropriate circumstances, a bankruptcy court should inquire into these subjects as part of deciding whether and to what extent to order disgorgement."); see also In re Lee, 1999 WL 61900 (9th Cir. 1999) ("An attorney's failure to obey the disclosure and reporting requirements of the Bankruptcy Code and Rules gives the bankruptcy court the discretion to order disgorgement of attorney's fees."). Here, UST states that Counsel has repeatedly violated the disclosure requirements in proceedings before this Court and, therefore, disgorgement is appropriate. Under 11 U.S.C. § 105 (a) (2010), the Court is empowered to "issue any order, process, or judgment that is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of this title." Therefore, the Court has the authority to issue an order directing disgorgement of fees and such an order is appropriate in this case.

Furthermore, the failure of Counsel to oppose may be deemed consent pursuant to Local Rule 9013-1(h).

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion, directing Counsel to file a statement of attorney compensation and ordering disgorgement of the entirety of the fees paid by Debtor.

#4.00 Notice of motion and motion for relief from the automatic stay with supporting declarations REAL PROPERTY RE: 760 Augusta Street, Hemet, CA 92545

MOVANT: US BANK NATIONAL ASSOCIATION

EH _____

Docket 57

Tentative Ruling:

05/02/2017
Opposition: Yes

Debtors' sole basis for opposition, without evidence, is that the Property is necessary to reorganization because it is a family home. However, the opposition fails to address the nonpayment of postpetition mortgage. Additionally, Debtors request that the request for waiver of the 14-day stay be denied for lack of cause. However, the failure of Debtors to pay Movant in approximately 11 months is a sufficient basis to warrant waiver of the 14-day stay. Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT relief from the stay under § 362(d)(1). GRANT waiver of 4001(a)(3) stay and GRANT the relief requested under ¶3. The request for an APO is DENIED as moot.

MOVANT: MAN THI NGUYEN aka WHITNEY NGUYEN

EH__

Docket 12

Tentative Ruling:

05/02/2017

Movant seeks relief from the automatic stay to obtain a judgment for dissolution of marriage, "status only". The Trustee has indicated his nonopposition with the caveat that he opposes any relief as to any determination by the state court as issues regarding separate/community property divisions. Based on the Motion, it appears Movant is not seeking such determinations be made at this time. On this basis, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion under 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) to the extent of seeking a judgment of divorce only and as to ¶6 of the request for relief.

The applications for compensation of the Trustee, Trustee's Accountant, Trustee's Attorney, and Trustee's Realtor have been set for hearing on the notice required by LBR 2016-1. Pursuant to the Trustee's Final Report and the applications of the associated professionals, the Court is inclined to APPROVE the following administrative expenses:

Trustee Fees: $23,408.83
Trustee Expenses: $148.60

Attorney Fees: $32,052.50
Attorney Costs: $2,275.33

Accountant Fees: $1,984.50
Accountant Costs: $ 232.20

Realtor Fees: $28,750.00

Trustee's computation of compensation included an unexplained increase from $17,658.83 to $18,588.24, the result of multiplying a portion of the requested fees by 20/19. The basis for this increase is unclear. Trustee's fees have been reduced by the amount of the resulting increase, $929.41.

Docket 31

Tentative Ruling:

5/3/17

BACKGROUND

On September 12, 2016, Debtor filed a Chapter 7 voluntary dismissal. A meeting of creditors was scheduled for October 18, 2016. On September 30, 2016, the case was dismissed for failure to file information, apparently because Debtor's certificate of credit counseling was filed late and her statement of financial affairs was not signed. Debtor filed a motion to reconsider dismissal on October 11, 2016, and that motion was granted on December 1, 2016. A new meeting of creditors was set for January 10, 2017. Prior to the meeting of creditors, on January 6, 2017, Debtor received a discharge.

Debtor did not provide her tax returns at the meeting of creditors, and Trustee discovered that Debtor was married, which was not disclosed on the petition. The meeting of creditors was continued to February 9, 2017, at which time Debtor, again, failed to provide her tax returns; she also had not amended her schedules to account for the financial information of her husband. The meeting of creditors was continued to March 22, 2017. Debtor did not appear. On March 30, 2017, Trustee filed a motion to dismiss case and vacate discharge.

DISCUSSION

I. Dismissal

11 U.S.C. § 707(a)(1) states:

- (a) The court may dismiss a case under this chapter only after notice and a hearing and only for cause, including –
 - (1) Unreasonable delay by the debtor that is prejudicial to creditors

Here, Debtor has repeatedly failed to provide her tax returns or amend her petition to accurately portray the households' financial situation. After being provided multiple opportunities to satisfy these obligations, Debtor failed to appear at the recent meeting of creditors. This constitutes unreasonable delay that is prejudicial to creditors, thus warranting dismissal.

II. Section 109(g) Bar

11 U.S.C. § 109(g)(1) states:

- (g) Notwithstanding any other provisions of this section, no individual or family farmer may be a debtor under this title who has been a debtor in a case pending under this title at any time in the preceding 180 days if –
 - (1) the case was dismissed by the court for willful failure of the debtor to abide by orders of the court, or to appear before the court in proper

#13.00 Motion by United States Trustee to Dismiss Case With A Re-Filing Bar

EH__

Docket 8

Tentative Ruling:

5/3/17

BACKGROUND

On March 9, 2017, Marco Bonilla ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. Debtor had previously filed two Chapter 7 petitions in the previous ninety days, both of which were dismissed for failure to file information. On March 24, 2017, UST filed a motion to dismiss case with a re-filing bar.

DISCUSSION

I. Dismissal

11 U.S.C. § 707(b)(1) permits the Court to dismiss a Chapter 7 case for abuse. 11 U.S.C. § 707(b)(3)(A) states:

(3) In considering under paragraph (1) whether the granting of relief would be an abuse of the provisions of this chapter in a case in which the presumption in paragraph (2)(A)(i) does not arise or is rebutted, the court shall consider –

(A) whether the debtor filed the petition in bad faith

In determining whether a case should be dismissed under § 707(b)(3)(A), the Court considers the totality of the circumstances, but is ultimately instructed to consider whether "the debtor's intention in filing a bankruptcy petition is inconsistent with the Chapter 7 goals of providing a 'fresh start' to debtors and maximizing the return to creditors." In re Mitchell, 357 B.R. 142, 154-55 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2006) (listing factors to be considered in making that determination).

The majority of the Mitchell factors are inapplicable when, as here, a debtor files a skeletal petition that does not provide the Court with sufficient information to apply the Mitchell test. Only factor seven (history of bankruptcy filings) and, possibly, factor nine (egregious behavior) can be assessed when a debtor files a skeletal petition. Both those factors weigh in favor of dismissal when, as here, a debtor repeatedly files skeletal petitions during a short period of time, and does not disclose previous filings. While § 707(a)(1) and (3) provide for dismissal when a debtor fails to fulfill his duties under the Bankruptcy Code, when a debtor repeatedly filed bankruptcy and fails to evince any attempt to comply with the filing requirements, it can be inferred, absent any indication to the contrary, that the debtor's purpose in filing bankruptcy is not to take advantage of the fresh start. See, e.g., In re Craighead, 377 B.R. 648, 655 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2007) ("Courts generally hold that when a debtor repeatedly files bankruptcy petitions and then repeatedly fails to file schedules or to comply with other requirements, this pattern of behavior is evidence of bad faith and an attempt to abuse the system."). Dismissal under § 707(b)(3) is appropriate in those circumstances.

II. Re-Filing Bar

The court is empowered to impose a refiling bar under 11 U.S.C. § 349(a). As Collier notes, courts' analysis of this section is somewhat confused due to confounding "dismissal with prejudice" with "dismissal with injunction against future filings." Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 349.02[3]; compare In re Garcia, 479 B.R. 488 (Bankr. N.D. Ind. 2012) (denying motion for dismissal with prejudice, but imposing three-year refiling bar) with In re Craighead, 377 B.R. 648 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2007) (appearing to equate dismissal with prejudice with an injunction against refiling).

There is also a circuit split concerning whether an injunction on refiling for more than 180 days is allowed under the Bankruptcy Code. Compare In re Frieouf, 938 F.2d 1099 (10th Cir. 1991) (180 days is maximum allowed length of refiling injunction) with Casse v. Key Bank Nat. Ass'n, 198 F.3d 327 (2nd Cir. 1999) (injunction against filing for more than 180 days permissible). 11 U.S.C. § 349(a) reads:

Unless, the court, for cause, orders otherwise, the dismissal of a case under this title does not bar the discharge, in a later case under this title, of debts that were dischargeable in the case dismissed; nor does the dismissal of a case under this title prejudice the debtor with regard to the filing of a subsequent petition under this title, except as provided in section 109(g) of this title.

The disagreement revolves around whether the qualifier "Unless, the court, for cause, orders otherwise" modifies the content after the semi-colon. In re Leavitt noted this disagreement, but since the court was dealing with a dismissal with prejudice, rather than an injunction against refiling, it did not resolve the issue. 209 B.R. 935, 942 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1997). Within the Ninth Circuit, it appears the trend is to adopt the reasoning of the Second Circuit and allow injunctions for more than 180 days. See e.g. In re Velasques, 2012 WL 8255582 at *3 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. 2012).

Here, Debtor has filed three skeletal bankruptcies in the previous three months and failed to disclose the previous filings. As noted above, the Court has determined that Debtor's behavior is sufficient to warrant dismissal for bad faith and the Court finds the requested one year refiling bar to be appropriate.

Moreover, Debtor's failure to oppose is deemed consent to the relief requested pursuant to Local Rule 9013-1(h).

#18.00 Motion to Amend Scheduling Order

Docket 36

Tentative Ruling:

5/3/17

BACKGROUND

On April 25, 2016, Yolanda Tyes ("Defendant") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On August 1, 2016, Chicago Title Insurance Company ("Plaintiff") filed a complaint to determine nondischargeability of debt against Defendant. On September 13, 2016, the clerk entered default against Defendant. On September 28, 2016, Defendant filed a motion to set aside the entry of default, which was granted on December 1, 2016. On January 23, 2017, a scheduling order was entered. On April 12, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion to amend the scheduling order.

The current discovery and dispositive motion deadlines in the case are May 15, 2017, and June 9, 2017, respectively. Plaintiff seeks a ninety-day extension of both deadlines. In support of its request, Plaintiff states that many of the parties upon which it has served discovery requests have failed to respond or offered incomplete responses, including Defendant. Plaintiff additionally states that because the facts underlying its state court judgment are over ten years old, it requires additional time to procure necessary information. Plaintiff states that Defendant rejected a ninety day extension, and has not been unresponsive regarding shorter extensions.

DISCUSSION

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 7016(a) incorporates Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 16. Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 16(b)(4) states: "A scheduled may be modified only for good cause and with the judge's consent." The Ninth Circuit has previously stated: "Rule 16(b)'s 'good cause' standard primarily considers the diligence of the party seeking the amendment. The district court may modify the pretrial schedule 'if it cannot reasonably be met despite the diligence of the party seeking the extension.'" Johnson v. Mammoth Recreations, Inc., 975 F.2d 604, 609 (9th Cir. 1992). In evaluating a motion to amend the scheduling order, a court may consider:

- (1) Whether the party was diligent in assisting the Court in creating a workable Rule 16 order;
- (2) whether the party's noncompliance with the Rule 16 order occurred due to the development of matters that were reasonable unforeseen or anticipated at the time of the Rule 16 scheduling conference; or
- (3) whether the party was diligent in seeking to amend the Rule 16 order, once it became clear that he could not comply with the order.

Los Feliz Ford, Inc. v. Chrysler Group, LLC, 2012 WL 12886961 at *2 (C.D. Cal. 2012).

Plaintiff's motion establishes that it has acted with diligence. The motion indicates that Plaintiff acted within a reasonable time after entry of the scheduling order, that some entities have been unresponsive or have delayed responding to discovery requests, and that in the process of completing discovery, Plaintiff has obtained new information that could reasonably be said to justify new discovery efforts, unanticipated at the time the scheduling order was entered.

BACKGROUND

On September 12, 2016, Douglas and Anne Goodman (collectively, "Debtors") filed their petition for chapter 13 relief.

On November 11, 2016, Mark and Natasha Reynoso (collectively, "Plaintiffs") filed a complaint seeking determination of the dischargeability of a debt pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A) (the "Complaint"). Specifically, Plaintiffs allege that in 2015, they purchased real property located at 1656 West Lisbon Street in Upland, CA (the "Property") from the Debtors, and that a sale was consummated on the misrepresentations of the Debtors' agent, Theresa Mann, that the Property was 3,231 square feet while Plaintiffs assert that the Property is actually 2,713 square feet (or a difference of 518 square feet). Plaintiffs also assert that they were led to believe that a water leak in the upstairs bathroom had been repaired. Plaintiffs allege that the Debtors knew or should have known that their agent was making false and misleading representations to Plaintiffs.

On December 14, 2016, the Debtors filed a Motion to Dismiss the Complaint for failure to state a claim. The Court dismissed the Complaint with leave to amend on February 3, 2017. On February 28, 2017, the Plaintiffs filed their First Amended Complaint (the "FAC"). On March 31, 2017, the Debtors filed a Motion to Dismiss the FAC (the "Motion"). The Plaintiffs filed opposition to the Motion on April 19, 2017 (the "Opposition").

Chapter 13

DISCUSSION

As a threshold matter, the issues related to any potential violation of the automatic stay shall not be addressed by the Court on a Motion to Dismiss under Rule 12(b)(6). The Debtors are free to seek relief in the main bankruptcy case in conformity with the Local Bankruptcy Rules, and as otherwise permitted by applicable law.

Civil Rule 12(b)(6) standards

Under Civil Rule 12(b)(6), made applicable in adversary proceedings through Rule 7012, a bankruptcy court may dismiss a complaint if it fails to "state a claim upon which relief can be granted." In reviewing a Civil Rule 12(b)(6) motion, the trial court must accept as true all facts alleged in the complaint and draw all reasonable inferences in favor of the plaintiff. Navarro v. Block, 250 F.3d 729, 732 (9th Cir. 2001). However, the trial court need not accept as true conclusory allegations in a complaint or legal characterizations cast in the form of factual allegations. Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555–56, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 167 L.Ed.2d 929 (2007); Hartman v. Gilead Scis., Inc. (In re Gilead Scis. Sec. Litig.), 536 F.3d 1049, 1055 (9th Cir. 2008).

To avoid dismissal under Civil Rule 12(b)(6), a plaintiff must aver in the complaint "sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to 'state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.'" Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678, 129 S.Ct. 1937, 173 L.Ed.2d 868 (2009) (quoting Twombly, 550 U.S. at 570, 127 S.Ct. 1955). It is axiomatic that a claim cannot be plausible when it has no legal basis. A dismissal under Civil Rule 12(b)(6) may be based either on the lack of a cognizable legal theory or on the absence of sufficient facts alleged under a cognizable legal theory. Johnson v. Riverside Healthcare Sys., 534 F.3d 1116, 1121 (9th Cir.2008).

Section 523(a)(2)(A) provides that: "A discharge ... does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt ... (2) for money, property, services, or an extension, renewal, or refinancing of credit, to the extent obtained, by—(A) false pretenses, a false representation, or actual fraud[.]" To demonstrate that a debt should be excepted from discharge under § 523(a)(2)(A), a creditor must prove five elements: (1) a misrepresentation, fraudulent omission or deceptive conduct by the debtor; (2) debtor's knowledge of the falsity or deceptiveness of the statement or conduct at the time it occurred; (3) debtor's intent to deceive; (4) justifiable reliance by the creditor on the debtor's statement or conduct; and (5) damage to the creditor proximately caused by its reliance on the debtor's statement or conduct. Ghomeshi v. Sabban (In re Sabban), 600 F.3d 1219, 1222 (9th Cir. 2010); Oney v. Weinberg (In re Weinberg), 410 B.R. 19, 35 (9th Cir.BAP 2009). All five elements must be asserted in the creditor's complaint for an exception to discharge, and the creditor bears the burden of proving each element by a preponderance of the evidence. Grogan v. Garner, 498 U.S. 279, 291 (1991); In re Weinberg, 410 B.R. at 35.

The facts of the instant case are straightforward. The FAC sets forth allegations that the Debtors, through their real estate agent, made false representations regarding the condition of the Property which the Plaintiffs relied on when they purchased the Property. The Debtors assert that dismissal is warranted because the FAC makes reference only to the agents of the Debtors and not to statements of the Debtors themselves. However, the Debtors have failed to provide any legal authority for the proposition that misrepresentations made by the Debtors' agents are legally insufficient as a basis for upholding a claim under § 523(a)(2)(A). See In re Paolino, 75 B.R. 641, 648 (Bankr. E.D.Penn. 1987)(holding that agent's fraud may be imputed to principal under § 523(a)(2)(A)). Moreover, the FAC alleges that Debtor Wife was present when the representation was made and verified/ratified the representation. On this basis, the Motion must be denied. The Court finds that, absent authority to the contrary, the facts are sufficient to state a plausible claim that the Debtors obtained money from the sale of the Property to Plaintiffs and that such sale was obtained by false representations made by the Debtors directly by verification/ratification and/or through their agents. The Court finds that the factual allegations are sufficiently clear to permit Debtors to respond and defend against the Plaintiffs' claim.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to DENY the Motion and permit the litigation to proceed.

The Motion indicates that the basis for relief is a lack of adequate protection and the declining value of the vehicle. However, no evidence is provided to support either basis for relief. Separately, based on the evidence provided and the attached declaration, it appears that Movant actually intended to seek relief based on a postpetition or post-confirmation default.

The original confirmed chapter 13 plan entered on December 8, 2016, made no mention of the 2010 Chevrolet Suburban or Movant. However, the January 11, 2017, Amended Order Confirming Chapter 13 Plan (entered after the Movant had already filed its Motion for Relief from Stay) specifically indicated that Debtor would make direct payments to Movant. The Debtor concedes that there was an error on his part in the drafting of the plan. However, it is not clear from the Debtor's response why the December payment which would have come due on December 28, 2016, was not made, although it appears implied that the December payment was included in the plan payment. Movant has established cause under § 362(d)(1) to lift the stay based on

On December 28, 2016, Frank and Barbara Horzen (collectively, "Debtors") filed their petition for chapter 13 relief. Rod Danielson is the duly appointed chapter 13 trustee ("Trustee").

On March 9, 2017, the Debtors filed a Motion for Appointment of Mrs. Horzen as the "Next Friend" of Debtor Frank Horzen ("Motion"). The Motion is based on the Debtors' assertion that Mr. Horzen lacks the capacity to make legal decisions and seeks authority for Mrs. Horzen to "execute all legal decisions" related to the bankruptcy, including permitting Mrs. Horzen to execute documents on behalf of Mr.

DISCUSSION

Fed. R. Bankr.P. 1004.1 allows "a representative, including a general guardian, committee, conservator, or similar fiduciary," to file a voluntary petition on behalf of an incompetent person.

The rule further provides that

[a]n infant or incompetent person who does not have a duly appointed representative may file a voluntary petition by next friend or guardian ad litem. The court shall appoint a guardian ad litem for an infant or incompetent person who is a debtor and is not otherwise represented or shall make any other order to protect the infant or incompetent debtor.

Rule 1004.1 is patterned after Fed.R.Civ.P. 17(c), which applies to adversary proceedings pursuant to Fed. R. Bankr.P. 7017. That rule provides that an incompetent person may sue "by a next friend or by a guardian ad litem" if the incompetent person does not have a duly appointed representative, and provides that "[t]he court must appoint a guardian ad litem—or issue another appropriate order—to protect a minor or incompetent person who is unrepresented in an action."

Cases interpreting Rule 17(c) look to the law of the state in which the subject is domiciled and follow the state's incompetency laws." In re Burchell, 2014 WL 1304635, at *1 (Bankr. N.D. Ohio 2014)(internal citations omitted). This court shall thus look to the California Probate Code's § 811 which outlines the possible bases for a determination that a person is of unsound mind or lacks capacity to make a decision or do a certain act, including for example, incapacity to contract or to execute wills or trusts.

In support of the Motion, the Debtors have attached the Declaration of Barbara Horzen in which she details the numerous diagnoses of Mr. Horzen made since June 2016 indicating his dementia diagnosis. Particularly persuasive is the correspondence attached as Exhibit E to the Motion, and authenticated by the declaration of Barbara Horzen, which indicates the opinion of Mr. Horzen's Doctor, Sophie K. Chwa, and states that Mr. Horzen is incompetent to make decisions "including those of legal consequence." Notwithstanding this diagnosis, § 811(d) provides that "the mere diagnosis of a mental or physical disorder shall not be sufficient in and of itself to support a determination that a person is of unsound mind or lacks the capacity to do a certain act." Instead, California law requires evidence of specific deficits and a link between the identified deficits and the acts that the allegedly incompetent person would otherwise have capacity to perform. The types of deficiencies are outlined in § 811 as follows:

- (1) Alertness and attention, including, but not limited to, the following:
 - (A) Level of arousal or consciousness.
 - (B) Orientation to time, place, person, and situation.
 - (C) Ability to attend and concentrate.
- (2) Information processing, including, but not limited to, the following:
 - (A) Short- and long-term memory, including immediate recall.
 - (B) Ability to understand or communicate with others, either verbally or otherwise.
 - (C) Recognition of familiar objects and familiar persons.
 - (D) Ability to understand and appreciate quantities.
 - (E) Ability to reason using abstract concepts.
 - (F) Ability to plan, organize, and carry out actions in one's own rational self-interest.
 - (G) Ability to reason logically.
- (3) Thought processes. Deficits in these functions may be demonstrated by the presence of the following:
 - (A) Severely disorganized thinking.
 - (B) Hallucinations.
 - (C) Delusions.
 - (D) Uncontrollable, repetitive, or intrusive thoughts.
- (4) Ability to modulate mood and affect. Deficits in this ability may be demonstrated by the presence of a pervasive and persistent or recurrent state of euphoria, anger, anxiety, fear, panic, depression, hopelessness or despair, helplessness, apathy or indifference, that is inappropriate in degree to the individual's circumstances.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to CONTINUE the hearing on the Motion for the Debtors to either provide (1) supplemental evidence establishing that

As an aside, the Court notes that as the power of attorney provided is of general application and does not specifically permit actions to be taken by Mrs. Horzen in the event of a bankruptcy, the power of attorney does not necessarily provide Mrs. Horzen with the requisite authority.

Applicable Law:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." United States v. Offord Fin., Inc., (In re Medina), 205 B.R. 216,222 (9th Cir. BAP 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. Ashford v. Consol. Pioneer Mort. (In re Consol. Pioneer Mort.), 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

Analysis:

is unenforceable against the debtor and property of the debtor under applicable law. The statute of limitations applicable to common counts is four years if the action is founded upon a contract or other writing (e.g., "book account" (§ 3:398), "account stated" (§ 3:400), or money lent on a note), and the statute of limitations is generally four years from the date of the last item in the account. CCP § 337(1),(2); Armstrong Petroleum Corp. v. Tri-Valley Oil & Gas Co., 116 CA 4th 1375, 1396, FN. 9 (Cal. App. 2004). Here, the "Account Detail" attached to Claim No. 7 by the Claimant indicates that the last payment on the account was made on November 12, 2008. Thus, the Debtor has met her burden of demonstrating that the claim is unenforceable under state law because it appears that the statute of limitations has lapsed. The burden now shifts to Claimant. Claimant, though properly served, has failed to offer any opposition which this Court deems as consent to the granting of the requested relief pursuant to LBR 9013-1(h).

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to SUSTAIN the Debtor's objection in its entirety on the bases that (1) the Claimant has failed to meet its burden to demonstrate the validity of the claim; and (2) that the Claimant's failure to file opposition is deemed consent to the granting of the Debtor's requested relief.

#13.00 Motion for Order Disallowing Claim Number 2

Also # 14

Docket 12

Tentative Ruling:

05/04/2017

Background:

On March 15, 2017 ("Petition Date"), Hari Ram (the "Debtor") filed for chapter 13 relief.

On March 31, 2017, the Debtor filed an Objection to Claim No. 2 (the "Objection") of the County of San Bernardino's Office of Tax Collector (the "County"). The County filed Opposition to the Objection on April 20, 2017 ("Opposition"). The Debtor filed his reply to the Opposition on April 27, 2017 ("Reply").

Amount: $25,695

Objection:

The Debtor objects to the claim on the grounds that the County has included projected tax amounts for 2017 in the claim. The Debtor indicates that he does not agree to the amounts projected by the County and that the inclusion of the projected taxes threatens to make the plan infeasible.

Applicable Law:

As a threshold matter, the docket reflects that the Objection was filed in conformity with the local rules, and served on the County thirty days prior to the hearing by certified mail.

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

In Opposition to the Objection, the County asserts that the "projected" $4,872.28 arose prepetition pursuant to California law and thus the Objection should be overruled because the amounts included in Claim No. 2 are for prepetition claims. In his Reply, the Debtor does not dispute that the claim arises on January 1 under State law but instead appears to argue that for equitable reasons, the Debtor should not be required to pay his 2017-2018 taxes prior to the April deadline that is provided for all other individuals owing taxes.

Here, the Debtor has failed to cite to any legal authority to support the proposition that a tax claim accrues when billed rather than on the date provided by statute. As such, the Debtor's request that this Court disallow the $4,872.28 in taxes owed for the 2017-2018 year must be overruled. However, the Court agrees that the Debtor should not be required to pay the interest rate of 18% on the 2017-2018 amount prior to any default. Given that this issue was raised by the Debtor in his Reply, the Court shall permit the County to respond to the Debtor's argument regarding the interest on the $4,872.28 at the hearing.

Opposition: Due at the hearing.

Service is improper because Movant did not serve the Debtors, in addition to Debtors' counsel, with the Notice and Motion as required by LBR 4001-1(c). Additionally, Movant has not provided any evidence that she provided telephonic notice of the hearing to all parties entitled to receive notice, as set forth in the Judge's self calendar instructions.

The Court also notes that Movant sets forth a basis for relief under § 362(d)(1) on page 3 of the Motion, but failed to request such relief on page 5 of the Motion. Thus, unless an amended motion is filed and served addressing such discrepancy, the Court would be inclined to deny any relief sought under § 362(d)(1).

Finally, it appears the underlying foreclosure sale may be void as occurring during the prior case filed by Natasha Kiehl.

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion without prejudice. Movant's request for relief only requests relief under § 362(d)(2). Section 362(d)(2) requires Movant to show that the property is unnecessary to an effective reorganization and that Debtors have no equity in the property. This case is a Chapter 13 proceeding and the property at issue is Debtors' primary residence. In this situation, absent any indication to the contrary, the property is necessary to an effective reorganization. Furthermore, Movant does not identify the fair market value of the property or whether there are any additional liens on the property, and, therefore, has not demonstrated that Debtors have no equity in the property.

Tentative Ruling:

5/9/17

BACKGROUND

On January 30, 2017, Bausman & Company, Incorporated ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. Debtor leased certain real property located in West Hollywood from Pacific Design Center I, LLC. On March 31, 2017, Debtor filed a motion for entry of an order authorizing nunc pro tunc rejection of non-residential real property lease located in West Hollywood, California pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 365. The Debtor also requests (1) that a deadline be set regarding the filing of a proof of claim in relation to the rejection of the executory contract, and (2) that any personal property of the Debtor be abandoned.

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 365(a) states:

Chapter 11

Except as provided in sections 765 and 766 of this title and in subsections (b), (c), and (d) of this section, the trustee, subject to the court's approval, may assume or reject any executory contract or unexpired lease of the debtor.

Pursuant to § 1107(a), a debtor in possession has the same rights as a trustee, and, therefore, can exercise a trustee's right to reject an executory contract or unexpired lease. See, e.g., In re Merchants Plaza, Inc., 35 B.R. 888, 891 (Bankr. E.D. Tenn. 1983). In analysis a motion to reject an executory contract or unexpired lease, the Court applies the business judgment rule. See In re G.I. Indus., Inc., 204 F.3d 1276, 1282 (9th Cir. 2000). Here, Debtor states that it has vacated the premises and that the lease is of no further use to Debtor. Debtor has provided a declaration from an officer that states that continued lease payments are not justified by property's returns. An executory contract or unexpired lease that is of negative utility to a business warrants rejection. The Court deems failure to oppose to be consent to the relief requested.

Nunc pro tunc rejection of an executory contract is permissible "when necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of § 365(d). In re At Home Corp., 392 F.3d 1064, 1071 (9th Cir. 2004). Nevertheless, the standard for authorization of nunc pro tunc rejection also imposes an "exceptional circumstance test." See In re New Meatco Provisions, LLC, 2014 WL 2446314 at *4 (citing id. at 1072-75). The test is as follows:

In deciding whether retroactive rejection is warranted, the bankruptcy court should consider the following nonexclusive factors: (1) the immediate filing of the debtor's motion to reject the lease; (2) the debtor's prompt action setting the motion for hearing; (3) the vacancy of the leased premises; and (4) the landlord's motivation in opposing retroactive rejection of the lease to the motion filing date.

Id. The first two factors, generally constituting delay, weigh against nunc pro tunc relief. Debtor waited two months before filing the motion to reject the lease, and set the matter for hearing on thirty-nine days notice, when there were two earlier dates available for self-calendaring. Nevertheless, factors three and four weigh in favor of nunc pro tunc rejection, since Debtor has already vacated the premises and the landlord has not opposed the motion. The failure of the landlord to oppose and the absence of any apparent prejudice resulting from Debtor's delay, combined with the fact that Debtor vacated the premises on March 31st, leads to a conclusion that nunc pro tunc rejection is warranted in this case.

Next, Debtor requests that any personal property left on the premises be determined to be abandoned pursuant to § 554(a). However, there is no evidence regarding the personal property that Debtor seeks to abandon.

Finally, Debtor requests the imposition of a deadline for filing claims related to the rejection of the unexpired lease. Debtor requests that the deadline be set at: "the later of (a) 30 days after entry of an order granting this Motion or (b) the deadline set by the Court for prepetition claims to be filed." The deadline for filing claims is August 31, 2017. Therefore, the deadline for filing claims arising from the rejection of the unexpired lease will be August 31, 2017.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion, subject to evidence regarding personal property left on the premises as of the date of rejection.

BACKGROUND

On January 30, 2017, Bausman & Company, Incorporated ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary proceeding. On February 14, 2017, Debtor filed an application to employ Procopio, Cory, Hargreaves & Savitch ("Counsel") as counsel to Debtor. The application, however, was not set for hearing, nor was it filed pursuant to Local Rule 9013-1(o). On April 5, 2017, Debtor filed an amended application to employ Counsel, and set the matter for hearing. Debtor's amended application also states that changes to the fee arrangement were made after consultation with the UST.

approval, may employ one or more attorneys, accountants, appraisers, auctioneers, or other professional persons, that do not hold or represent an interest adverse to the estate, and that are disinterested persons, to represent or assist the trustee in carrying out the trustee's duties under this title.

Regarding the standard for the employment of professional persons, one court has stated:

The trustee, subject to the court's approval, has broad discretion in his selection of counsel and the terms of employment. There are, however, two threshold requirements that the trustee must satisfy. First, the trustee must demonstrate that the attorney proposed to be employed meets certain statutory standards. Second, the employment must be reasonably necessary.

In re Computer Learning Ctrs., Inc., 272 B.R. 897, 903 (Bankr. E.D. Va. 2001) (citations omitted).

Regarding whether the proposed employment is reasonable and necessary, one court has stated:

Thus, once the trustee meets the burden of demonstrating that an applicant for professional employment is qualified under § 327, the discretion of the bankruptcy court must be exercised in a way that it believes best serves the objectives of the bankruptcy system. Among the ultimate considerations for the bankruptcy courts in making these decisions must be the protection of the interests of the bankruptcy estate and its creditors, and the efficient, expeditious, and economical resolution of the bankruptcy proceeding.

Docket 158

Tentative Ruling:

5/9/17

BACKGROUND

On October 28, 2016, Sam Daniel Dason DDS ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. Various first day motions of the Debtor were granted on November 3, 2016, and the Court entered an interim order regarding cash collateral on November 7, 2016. The employment of Kogan Law Firm as counsel was authorized on December 13, 2016.

On January 6, 2017, Debtor filed its Chapter 11 plan and disclosure statement. Objections to the disclosure statement were filed by Juddy Olivares ("Olivares"), UST, Bank of America, and the Trustee for the bankruptcy estate of Sam Daniel Dason. Continued hearings on use of cash collateral and Debtor's disclosure statement are currently scheduled for May 16, 2017.

On April 11, 2017, Debtor filed a motion to convert case to Chapter 7. On April 24, 2017, Olivares filed her opposition. On May 1, 2017, Debtor filed a reply.

Chapter 11

11 U.S.C. § 1112(a) states:

- (a) The debtor may convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 7 of this title unless—
 - (1) The debtor is not a debtor in possession;
 - (2) The case originally was commenced as an involuntary case under this chapter; or
 - (3) The case was converted to a case under this chapter other than on the debtor's request

Olivares uses § 1112(b) as a basis to object to conversion. Section 1112(b) does not provide the proper standard when Debtor voluntarily seeks conversion. One bankruptcy court, in addressing the approach taken by Olivares, has stated the following:

In opposing the debtor's motion, the landlord argues that the court should exercise its discretion under section 1112(b) to deny the conversion motion because such a denial would be in the best interest of the creditors. The fallacy in this argument is that the debtor is proceeding under section 1112(a), not section 1112(b). The former provision, by its terms, gives the debtor an absolute right to convert, unless the case is governed by one of the enumerated exceptions. The legislative history confirms Congress' intent to give debtors an absolute right to convert from chapter 11 to chapter 7.

In re Dieckhaus Stationers of King of Prussia, Inc., 73 B.R. 969, 971 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 1987). None of the three enumerated exceptions are applicable here. Nevertheless, § 1112(f) imposes a requirement that a debtor be eligible to be a debtor in a chapter to which it seeks conversion. In accordance with the Supreme Court's decision in Marrama, a debtor may be deemed ineligible to be a debtor under a different chapter when bad faith or other cause would justify reconversion. See Marrama v. Citizens Bank of Mass., 549 U.S. 365 (2007); see also 11 U.S.C. § 706(b) (providing for conversion from Chapter 7 to Chapter 11). Therefore, in opposing a motion under § 1112(a), a party in interest is limited to arguing the enumerated exceptions or challenging a debtor's eligibility under the new chapter.

Here, Olivares has simply not provided a plausible argument why Debtor's eligibility for a Chapter 7 case should be questioned. First, Olivares' opposition argues from an incorrect legal position that assumes it is Debtor's burden to demonstrate why conversion is warranted, as exemplified on page 2 of the opposition: "Here, Debtor offers no basis whatsoever for conversion of the case, and accordingly has failed to carry its burden." Second, to the extent that Olivares makes factual arguments, the arguments are framed to support the appointment of a Chapter 11 trustee. This is problematic for two reasons: (1) there are due process concerns related to raising this request in an opposition, instead of by motion, especially when that opposition does not provide for a full notice period; and (2) more importantly, unless Olivares can establish that Debtor is ineligible to be a debtor under Chapter 7, Debtor has the right to convert its case. Therefore, in order to prevent conversion, Olivares would have needed to present an argument that would have justified reconversion from Chapter 7 to Chapter 11. Here, however, Olivares' arguments tend towards depicting a Chapter 11 proceeding as inappropriate, rather than necessitating reconversion from Chapter 7 to Chapter 11.

Because Olivares has failed show that Debtor is ineligible for Chapter or that this case would need to be reconverted to Chapter 11, Debtor's "absolute" right to convert will not be circumscribed.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion and CONVERT the case to Chapter 7.

Docket 102

Tentative Ruling:

05/10/2017

Background:

On February 28, 2013 ("Petition Date"), Michael and Maricar Santos (collectively, the "Debtors") filed for chapter 7 relief. Larry Simons is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee").

On April 6, 2017, the Trustee filed Objection to Claims No. 5 and 8 (the "Objection") of the Capital Recovery V, LLC (the "Claimant"). Claimant, though properly served, has failed to file opposition to the Objection.

Claim #: 5 ($3,171.65) & 8 (12,031.86)

Objection:

The Trustee objects to the claim on the grounds that the Claimant has failed to establish its standing to seek payment on the claims, having failed to provide evidence of any assignment or other right to payment.

FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 3001(c)(3)(A) states:

(A) When a claim is based on an open-end or revolving consumer credit agreement – except one for which a security interest is claim in the debtor's real property – a statement shall be filed with the proof of claim, including all of the following information that applies to the account:

- (i) The name of the entity from whom the creditor purchased the account;
- (ii) The name of the entity to whom the debt was owed at the time of an account holder's last transaction on the account;
- (iii) The date of an account holder's last transaction;
- (iv) The date of the last payment on the account; and
- (v) The date on which the account was charged to profit and loss.

First, the Claimant has indicated that as to Claim No. 5 it cannot answer inquiry (ii) of FRBP 3001(c)(3)(A) (Exhibit 1), and that as to Claim No. 8, it cannot answer inquiries (ii) or (iii) (Exhibit 2). Revised Rule 3001 indicates that a creditor who fails to fully comply with the documentation requirements of Rule 3001(c), primarily faces the evidentiary sanction of being precluded from introducing its documents at a subsequent hearing on a substantive objection to its proof of claim under § 502(b). In re Reynolds, 470 B.R. 138 (Bankr.D.Colo.2012).

Here, the Trustee has challenged the standing of Claimant. A challenge to standing is a substantive objection under § 502(b)(1) because if a claimant has not proven it is the owner of a claim with a right to payment (i.e. the party with standing), the claim is unenforceable against the debtor under state law. In re Richter, 478 B.R. 30, 49 (Bankr. D. Colo. 2012). Accordingly, the Trustee has raised a sufficient substantive objection to Claimant's claims under § 502(b) and as indicated by the Trustee, the Claimant has provided no evidence of the assignment and, in fact, based on the FRBP 3001(c)(3)(A) statements filed in support of both claims, Claimant appears to be wholly unaware of the chain of title for the underlying debts other than its knowledge of the identity of the original creditors. As such, the Court cannot rely even on the basic information requested in the Bankruptcy Rule 3001 Statement to support Claimant's standing.

The facts before this Court closely resemble the facts in In re Richter, because Claimant has failed to comply with the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure (because it provided incomplete information in its Bankruptcy Rule 3001(c)(3)(A) Statement as set forth above, failed to attach any evidence of its claim or the assignment of the claim, and most importantly, failed to respond to the Trustee's Objection). See id. Under the holding in Reynolds and pursuant to Fed. R. Bankr.P. 3001(c), the Court determines the appropriate remedy for Claimant's failure to attach any documentation to its proof of claim is to preclude the introduction of documents to support the claim at any future hearing on this issue. In addition, due to its failure to timely respond to the Objection despite proper service, Claimant is deemed to consent to the granting of the relief requested by the Trustee under LBR 9013-1(h).

Tentative Ruling

The Court is inclined to SUSTAIN the objection.

BACKGROUND

On September 20, 2016, Jorge Lazaro and Yessenia Lazaro (collectively, "Debtors") filed their petition for chapter 7 relief. Todd Frealy is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee"). Among the assets of the bankruptcy estate is certain real property located at 2021 Adrienne Dr. in Corona, CA (the "Property").

DISCUSSION

Pursuant to § 327(a), the trustee, subject to the court's approval, may employ professional persons, such as auctioneers, to perform services for the estate so long as that representation is not adverse to the estate and the professional is a disinterested person. Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("F.R.B.P.") 2014 and Local Bankruptcy Rule ("L.B.R.") 2014-1 govern the employment of professional persons.

The Application is supported by the declaration of W. Darrow Fiedler, a licensed real estate broker with Broker. In his declaration, Mr. Fiedler sets forth the disinterestedness of the Broker and his acknowledgment that he cannot be paid without approval from the Bankruptcy Court. The evidence satisfies § 327(a). Additionally, the Court has evaluated the Notice of the Application and service and has determined that the Application complies with FRBP 2014 and LBR 2014.

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Application in its entirety as amended by the Reply, subject to the UST's confirmation that its concerns have been adequately addressed.

BACKGROUND

On February 2, 2012, Raymond & Gloria Ponce ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On April 9, 2012, their Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On April 4, 2017, Debtors filed a motion for hardship discharge. Debtors have been in the plan for sixty months. The basis for the hardship discharge is that Debtor-husband was a truck driver. The state of California passed a law that would have required Debtor-husband to obtain a diesel emission control device, at an approximate cost of $14,255.39. Debtor is currently seventy-two years old, and decided to retire rather than pay for the improvement. Debtors paid $54,158 to the plan, which had a base balance of $53,273. Trustee filed comments recommending conditional approval on April 25, 2017.

11 U.S.C. § 1328(b) states:

(b) Subject to subsection (d), at any time after the confirmation of the plan and after notice and a hearing, the court may grant a discharge to a debtor that has not completed payments under the plan only if –

(1) the debtor's failure to complete such payments is due to circumstances for which the debtor should not justly be held accountable;

(2) the value, as of the effective date of the plan, of property actually distributed under the plan on account of each allowed unsecured claim is not less than the amount that would have been paid on such claim if the estate of the debtor had been liquidated under chapter 7 of this title on such date; and

(3) modification of the plan under section 1329 of this title is not practicable.

The first and third standard are discretionary standards. The second standard is a mechanical standard referred to as the "best interests of creditors test". Debtors stated they have met the test because page 6 of their Chapter 13 plan says a Chapter 7 liquidation would not result in any payment to unsecured creditors. Specifically, Debtors state they "have no non-exempt equity in any assets to liquidate." This assertion is not supported by their schedules. Debtors listed unexempt equity in four vehicles, totaling $4,275. Nevertheless, even if any of these assets were to be administered in a hypothetical Chapter 7 liquidation, costs and priority claims would ensure that there would be no distribution to general unsecured creditors. Therefore, Debtors satisfy the second requirement.

Regarding, the first prong, Debtors have demonstrated that the failure to complete payments is due to circumstances beyond their control. Specifically, the state of California passed a law which would have required Debtor-husband to expend a significant amount of money to continue his employment. Notably, the expenditure required appears to exceed the payoff required to meet the plan, meaning that it

Debtor had sought a plan modification to account for the state law requirement, creditors would not have been paid more. No party, including the Trustee, has argued that Debtors have failed to satisfy the requirement imposed by § 1328(b)(1), and, therefore, the Court believes that this case presents circumstances for which Debtors "should not justly be held accountable."

Finally, Debtors must demonstrate the modification is impracticable. Debtors have not mentioned this requirement in their motion. The declaration included in the motion, however, indicates that Debtors do not have the ability to fund a plan at this payment. It is unclear what practical utility would exist in requiring Debtors to attempt to modify their plan so that it would be deemed completed. In fact, one bankruptcy court has considered such a modification to be improper. See In re Guernsey, 189 B.R. 477, 484 (Bankr. D. Minn. 1995) ("A debtor should not be allowed to modify a plan under 11 U.S.C. § 1329 to the amount already paid, in circumstances where the 'hardship discharge' afforded by 11 U.S.C. § 1328(b) is otherwise applicable; and, where the use of 11 U.S.C. § 1329 would result in a greater discharge than would be available under 11 U.S.C. § 1328(b)).

Furthermore, the Court deems failure to oppose to be consent to the relief requested pursuant to Local Rule 9013-(1)(h).

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion, subject to compliance with Trustee's comments.

Docket 96

Tentative Ruling:

5/11/17

BACKGROUND

On May 30, 2012, Sheldon & Margaret Chaffer (collectively, "Debtors", and, individually, "Sheldon" and "Margaret") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. Debtors' Chapter 13 plan was confirmed on August 21, 2012. The plan was modified once, on April 11, 2013.

On April 11, 2017, Margaret filed a motion for order to continue case administration of deceased debtor's bankruptcy estate and for waiver of certification requirements under 11 U.S.C. § 1328(a) and (h) and 11 U.S.C. § 522(q).

Chapter 13

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 1016 deals with "death or incompetency of debtor" and states, in pertinent part:

If a reorganization, family farmer's debt adjustment, or individual's debt adjustment case is pending under chapter 11, chapter 12, or chapter 13, the case may be dismissed; or if further administration is possible and in the best interest of the parties, the case may proceed and be concluded in the same manner, so far as possible, as though the death or incompetency had not occurred.

"Once the terms are defined and confirmed in a Chapter 13 plan, it might be possible to 'further administer' a bankruptcy case even though the debtor died if there is a source of payments or sufficient payments have been made such that a discharge may be warranted." In re Waring, 555 B.R. 754, 765 (Bankr. D. Colo. 2016) (collecting cases). Here, a Chapter 13 plan was confirmed prior to Sheldon's passing, and a source of payments remained – his joint-filer and wife, Margaret. Furthermore, Margaret did make those payments and appears to have maintained this plan to near completion.¹ Not only was further administration possible at the time of Sheldon's passing, further administration successfully occurred.

Furthermore, the Court notes that "[i]n the ordinary course, non-consensual dismissal of a bankruptcy case requires a formal motion, notice, and hearing." In re Erickson, 183 B.R. 189, 195 (Bankr. D. Minn. 1995). When, as here, no party filed a motion requesting dismissal, there is no need for a motion to "continue case administration" as that is the default absent a request for dismissal.

II. Waiver of Discharge Requirements

The material relief requested in the motion at issue is a request for certain discharge requirements, outlined in 11 U.S.C. § 1328, to be waived for Sheldon. One court, in considering the applicability of the § 1328 certification requirements to a deceased debtor, stated the following: "The fact that a debtor has died does not necessarily preclude entry of a discharge. However, for a discharge to be granted, a debtor must still meet the requirements of 11 U.S.C. § 1328." In re Bouton, 2013 WL 5536212 at *1 (Bankr. S.D. Ga. 2013). The Court in Bouton avoided the requirements by noting that the instructional course requirement is waived for deceased debtors pursuant to § 109(h)(4), and that domestic support certification requirement imposed by § 1328(a) is only applicable to debtors who do owe domestic support payments.

The request here is materially different from the request in Bouton. Debtor requests waiver of two requirements: (1) the domestic support payment certification imposed by § 1328(a); and (2) the felony disclosure requirement imposed by § 1328(h).

Regarding the former, Debtor did owe a domestic support obligation. 11 U.S.C. § 1328(a) states, in pertinent part:

- (a) Subject to subsection (d), as soon as practicable after completion by the debtor of all payments under the plan, and in the case of a debtor who is required by a judicial or administrative order, or by statute, to pay a domestic support obligation, after such debtor certifies that all amounts payable, after such debtor certifies that all amounts payable under such order or such statute that are due on or before the date of the certification (including amounts due before the petition was filed, but only to the extent provided for by the plan) have been paid . . .

There does appear to be at least one bankruptcy court that specifically addressed the applicability of the § 1328(a) and (h) requirements to a deceased debtor in a jointly filed Chapter 13 case, In re Levy, 2014 WL 1323165 (Bankr. N.D. Ohio 2014). Notably, the Court stated the following:

Only two documents now stand between the deceased debtor and a discharge: the certifications regarding DSO obligations and § 1328(h). Since further administration was possible, the question becomes whether there is anything either so personal or unique about the end-of-case requirements to prevent either waiver or satisfaction of the requirements by another on behalf [of] a deceased debtor.

Id. at *2. Summarily, the court in Levy reached the following conclusion:

Since the § 1328(a) certification appears to fall under the latter category [not altering liability on a debt], the court finds no reason that the DSO certification requirement cannot be undertaken by another in appropriate circumstances. The requirement therefore does not impede "further administration" contemplated under Rule 1016.

Similarly, the court reaches the same conclusion about § 1328(h), albeit along slightly divergent reasoning.

Id. at *3. The Court agrees with the result reached in Levy. If the certification requirements imposed by § 1328 (a) & (h) invariably required an action to be taken by the debtor personally, the purpose of Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 1016, which permits the continued administration of a Chapter 13 case when appropriate, would be frustrated.

Finally, the Levy stated the following:

For the purposes of filing end of the case documents, the court finds that a person with specific knowledge of the deceased debtor's finances may act on behalf of the debtor in completing the § 1328(a) and (h) certifications. To establish knowledge, the person must file an affidavit outlining a sufficient factual foundation in order to establish a fitting record.

Id. at *4. In accordance with Levy, the Court will not outright waive a requirement imposed by the Bankruptcy Code, but will allow the requirement to be satisfied by an individual with "specific knowledge of the deceased debtor's finances."

TENTATIVE RULING

In accordance with the above, the Court is inclined to GRANT the motion only to the extent of allowing a qualified individual to complete the § 1328 requirements on behalf of Debtor. The Court declines to enter an order continuing case administration, as administration will continue absent a request for dismissal and a subsequent order.

Chapter 13

#26.00 Motion to Disallow Claims

EH__

Docket 36

Tentative Ruling:

5/11/17

Background:

On December 28, 2016, Frank & Barbara Horzen ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On January 27, 2017, the IRS filed an unsecured claim ("Claim 1") in the amount of $49,892.04, of which $33,919.96 was claimed as priority debt. On April 11, 2017, the IRS amended its claim ("Amended Claim 1") reducing the total claim and the priority claim to $4,979.67 and $4,397.01, respectively. On April 18, 2017, Debtors filed a claim objection.

Debtors objection fails to acknowledge that the IRS amended its claim. The objection states that Debtors have filed all required taxes during the previous four years and do not have any tax debt. Debtors appear to provide redacted tax returns for 2010-2015, although the Court notes that the tax returns are not properly authenticated.

Applicable Law:

evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

Analysis:

The basis for Amended Claim #1 is unpaid income taxes assessed against debtor-wife for 2013 and 2014. The amount of Amended Claim #1 is identical to the amount shown on the applicable tax returns. Debtors have provided no evidence that those taxes were paid – the motion does not even allege that taxes were paid, but instead argues that returns were filed.

Chapter 13

It does not appear that Debtors were aware that the IRS amended their proof of claim. Instead of challenging the validity of Amended Claim 1, Debtors appear to challenge the validity of Claim 1, which has been superseded by Amended Claim 1. Because Debtors have not provided any argument or evidence to challenge the validity of Amended Claim 1, Debtors are not entitled to their requested relief.

Tentative Ruling

The Court is inclined to OVERRULE the objection.

Docket 57

Tentative Ruling:

05/02/2017
Opposition: Yes

Debtors' sole basis for opposition, without evidence, is that the Property is necessary to reorganization because it is a family home. However, the opposition fails to address the nonpayment of postpetition mortgage. Additionally, Debtors request that the request for waiver of the 14-day stay be denied for lack of cause. However, the failure of Debtors to pay Movant in approximately 11 months is a sufficient basis to warrant waiver of the 14-day stay. Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT relief from the stay under § 362(d)(1). GRANT waiver of 4001(a)(3) stay and GRANT the relief requested under ¶13. The request for an APO is DENIED as moot.

The Order Confirming Chapter 13 Plan entered on December 28, 2016, corroborates the Debtor's assertion that the Debtor's payments are being made to Movant by the Chapter 13 Trustee via conduit payments. Additionally, the Debtor has provided evidence of the Trustee's claim registry which shows payments being disbursed by the Trustee and also reimbursements being made by the Movant. Based on the Trustee's registry, the Debtor appears to have made payments of at least $6,000 postconfirmation. Further, the request for relief page of the Motion is blank. On that basis, the Court's tentative ruling is to DENY the Motion.

TENTATIVE RULING:

4/25/17

The extent of the relief requested by Movant is unclear. Outside of a motion for a protective order, which was scheduled to be heard in state court last week, there are only general references to the conclusion of the dissolution proceeding as well as "miscellaneous issues". Furthermore, there are technical issues with the motion: (1) Debtor was not properly served; (2) the motion requests retroactive annulment of the stay but provides no cause or declaration; and (3) the request for relief does not even request relief from the automatic stay. Finally, the Court agrees with the Trustee that issues regarding adjudication of property of the estate appropriately belong within the Bankruptcy Court. Given the technical issues and the fact that the motion is unclear what Movant is requesting, the Court is inclined to DENY the motion without prejudice.

The Debtor asserts that in the prior case she fell behind on payments due to a loss of social security income for her daughter. The I and J in the current case reflect a reduction. However, the declaration lacks specificity as to why the benefit was reduced. Additionally, although the Debtor also indicates she experienced "unexpected expenses" during the prior case, there is no explanation of what these expenses were, or how much they were, such that the Court cannot determine whether the expenses were incurred in good faith.

In support of their Motion to Continue/Impose, the Debtors vaguely assert that their new budget will ensure that payments can be made on time to avoid the situation that occurred in the last case where they did not have funds to tender to the Trustee. However, the I & J have not changed at all from one case to the next, the Debtors' budget is extremely lean for a family of six, and there is otherwise no explanation of why the funds were not "received" on time in the last case. On the basis of the foregoing, the tentative ruling is to DENY the Motion.

#21.00 Approval of Disclosure Statement

EH _____

Docket 89

Tentative Ruling:

5/16/17

Background

On November 10, 2016 ("Petition Date"), B & B Family, Incorporated ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. The Debtor is owned by Patricial Forte (who owns 50% of shares) and by Randall and Marianne Richey, husband and wife, who own the remaining 50% of shares in the Debtor (collectively, "Shareholders")

Debtor operates Oggi's Pizza and Brewing Company in Apple Valley, California. Debtor has fifty-five employees. The Debtor's Schedules show that it had approximately $114,662.50 in assets as of the Petition Date. The Debtor's assets consist primarily of leased equipment, business licenses, and liquid assets in the form of cash and accounts.

On March 31, 2017, Debtor filed its Disclosure Statement and Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization. On May 2, 2017, Comerica Bank filed a Limited Response to the Debtor's Disclosure Statement pointing simply to the Debtor's omission of its franchise agreement as an executory contract being assumed. In response, the Debtor amended its Disclosure Statement and Plan on May 2, 2017 (the "Amended DS and Plan"). Additionally, on May 3, 2017, the Debtor filed redline versions of the Amended DS and Plan reflecting the changes made since the March 31, 2017, filings.

Legal Analysis

A. Adequate Information

A Chapter 11 disclosure statement is required to contain "adequate information" pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1125(b). Section 1125(f)(2) provides that: "the court may approve a disclosure statement submitted on standard forms approved by the court or adopted under section 2075 of title 28." The United States Courts have devised a disclosure statement template for small businesses, Form B25B, which Debtor generally adopted as to format.

As to the substance of a disclosure statement, 11 U.S.C. § 1125(a)(1) defines "adequate information" as:

information of a kind, and in sufficient detail as far as is reasonably practicable in light of the nature and history of the debtor and the condition of the debtor's books and records, including a discussion of the potential material Federal tax consequences of the plan to the debtor, any successor to the debtor, and a hypothetical investor typical of the holders of claims or interests in the case, that would enable such a hypothetical investor of the relevant class to make an informed judgment about the plan, but adequate information need not include such information about any other possible or proposed plan and in determining whether a disclosure statement provides adequate information, the court shall consider the complexity of the case, the benefit of additional information to creditors and other parties in interest, and the cost of providing additional information

The type of information required varies with the circumstances. See, e.g., In re Jeppson, 66 B.R. 269, 292 (Bankr. D. Utah 1986) (listing nineteen categories of information commonly required); see also In re Malek, 35 B.R. 443, 443-44 (Bankr. E.D. Mich. 1983) (listing minimum requirements).

B. Plan Feasibility

"There are numerous decisions which hold that where a plan is on its face nonconfirmable, as a matter of law, it is appropriate for the court to deny approval of the disclosure statement describing the nonconfirmable plan." In re Silberkraus, 253 B.R. 890, 899 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2000) (collecting cases).

Here, the Debtor asserts that it needs a total of $10,630 on a monthly basis to make plan payments and projects that after ordinary course expenses, it has a disposable income of approximately $11,000 with which to make those payments.

ISSUES TO BE ADDRESSED AT HEARING ON APPROVAL OF DISCLOSURE STATEMENT

The Court has examined the Debtor's Amended DS and Plan to determine whether "adequate information has been provided and has identified the following issues to be addressed:

Minor Issues

United States Bankruptcy Court

Riverside

Courtroom 303 Calendar

Tuesday, May 16, 2017

Hearing Room 303

2:00 PM

CONT...

B & B Family, Incorporated

Chapter 11

- Page 6:9-15, reference to "Docket No. 88" should be changed to reference "Docket No. 98"
- In the Plan, where the Debtor describes Oggi's Corporate Debt, there appears to be a discrepancy regarding Oggi's Corporate's claim (i.e. $54,106.12 is the "balance owed" but the Debtor in the next sentence proposes a $88,963.76 allowed claim for this creditor)
- Patricia Forte is alternately referred to as "CEO" or as "President" in the DS and Plan. The Debtor should use terms consistently to avoid confusion.

Larger Issues (to be addressed at the hearing)

- The DS and Plan contemplate bifurcation of Comerica and FPL's claims and avoidance of remaining junior liens. However, the Docket does not reflect that any Motion to Value has yet been filed to determine the value of the collateral and notice to juniorlienholders that Debtor intends to avoid their liens on confirmation.
- There is currently no proposal for new value. Therefore, if Class 6 does not accept the plan, the Plan cannot be confirmed with Shareholders retaining any interest in the reorganized Debtor.
- Part 10, the Effect of Confirmation of Plan should clearly identify the lienholders whose liens shall be extinguished on confirmation of the Debtor's Plan.
- Part 9 is very lean on details regarding potential tax consequences on feasibility. Specifically, as to how Debtor determined the impact on feasibility, whether an accountant was consulted or otherwise how the Debtor is qualified to make a representation regarding the potential tax impact. Additionally, a question exists of the margin of potential increased tax liability.
- There is no evidence of the historical data referenced by Marianne Richey

#22.00 Motion By United States Trustee To Dismiss Or Convert Chapter 11 Case

Docket 20

Tentative Ruling:

05/16/2017

BACKGROUND

On January 9, 2017 ("Petition Date"), TNC, Inc. ("Debtor") filed its petition for chapter 11 relief. The Debtor is a single real estate brokerage located in Ontario, CA. The owner of the Debtor is Nasim Ahmed who is the sole shareholder.

On April 20, 2017, the Office of the United States Trustee ("UST") filed a Motion to Dismiss or Convert Chapter 11 Case (the "Motion"). The Motion, though properly served, is unopposed.

The basis for the Motion is the assertion of the UST that the Debtor has failed to comply with its debtor-in-possession duties because it has failed to file any of the three monthly operating reports due since the Petition Date. Additionally, the UST asserts that the Debtor's general liability insurance has expired as of March 16, 2017.

DISCUSSION

Section 1112(b)(1) provides:

Except as provided in paragraph (2) and subsection (c), on request of a party in interest, and after notice and a hearing, the court shall convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 7 or dismiss a case under this chapter, whichever is in the best interests of creditors and the estate, for cause unless the court determines that the appointment under section 1104(a) of a trustee or an examiner is in the best interests of creditors and the estate.

Section 1112(b)(4) sets forth a nonexhaustive list of what constitutes "cause" to convert or dismiss a case under § 1112(b)(1). In re Consol. Pioneer Mortg. Entities, 248 B.R. 368, 375 (9th Cir. BAP 2000), aff'd, 264 F.3d 803 (9th Cir. 2001). "The movant bears the burden of establishing by preponderance of the evidence that cause exists." Sullivan v. Harnisch (In re Sullivan), 522 B.R. 604, 614 (9th Cir. BAP 2014) (citing StellarOne Bank v. Lakewatch, LLC (In re Park), 436 B.R. 811, 815 (Bankr.W.D.Va.2010)).

If the bankruptcy court finds that cause exists to grant relief under § 1112(b)(1), it must then: "(1) decide whether dismissal, conversion, or the appointment of a trustee or examiner is in the best interest of creditors and the estate; and (2) identify whether there are unusual circumstances that establish that dismissal or conversion is not in the best interest of creditors and the estate." In re Sullivan, 522 B.R. at 612 (citing § 1112(b)(1), (b)(2), and Shulkin Hutton, Inc., P.S. v. Treiger (In re Owens), 552 F.3d 958, 961 (9th Cir.2009)). In choosing between dismissal or conversion, a bankruptcy court must consider the interests of all creditors. Id. (citing In re Owens, 552 F.3d at 961). "If cause is established, the decision whether to convert or dismiss the case falls within the sound discretion of the court." Id. (citing Mitan v. Duval (In re Mitán), 573 F.3d 237, 247 (6th Cir. 2009) and Nelson v. Meyer (In re Nelson), 343 B.R. 671, 675 (9th Cir. BAP2006)).

Here, the UST's asserted grounds for dismissal include the failure to comply with reporting requirements and the failure to maintain insurance which fall squarely within the list of items constituting "cause" to convert or dismiss: (1) unexcused failure to satisfy timely any filing or reporting requirement established by this title or by any rule applicable to a case under this chapter, and (2) failure to maintain appropriate insurance that poses a risk to the estate or to the public. 11 U.S.C. §§ 1112 (b)(4)(C) and (F). The UST has established cause. Moreover, as noted by the UST, the schedules do not reflect ownership of any real property or other significant assets. As such, it does not appear that liquidation would result in any benefit to creditors. For these reasons, the Court finds that dismissal is warranted. Finally, the Court notes that the Debtor has failed to oppose the Motion and deems its nonopposition as consent to the granting of the relief requested pursuant to LBR 9013-1(h).

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion and DISMISS the Debtor's case.

Chapter 13

#2.00 Motion to vacate Dismissal Pursuant to F.R.B.P sect 60(b)

Docket 57

Tentative Ruling:

5/18/17

BACKGROUND

On October 24, 2016, Patricia Morales ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On January 24, 2017, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On April 3, 2017, Trustee's motion to dismiss was granted after no opposition was properly filed. On April 6, 2017, Debtor filed a motion to vacate dismissal (the "First Motion"). Trustee filed his disapproval on April 10, 2017. On April 21, 2017, Debtor filed a late reply that was not served

The Court posted a tentative prior to the hearing on April 27, 2017, that outlined a variety of technical and substantive deficiencies, both legal and factual. At the hearing, Debtor's counsel withdrew the motion. On May 5, 2017, Debtor filed a new motion to vacate dismissal (the "Second Motion").

Chapter 13

While the Court notes that Debtor appears to have made some attempt to remedy the deficiencies noted in the Court's previous tentative ruling, the Second Motion still contains significant technical and substantive deficiencies, both legal and factual.

First of all, service of the Second Motion is improper. Debtor's service list abruptly cuts off at the letter "L" (creditors listed in alphabetical order).

Second of all, the Second Motion was not calendared and noticed correctly. The motion was set on "regular notice" but Debtor only provided thirteen days notice of the hearing. This is especially concerning because the reason the case was dismissed was because Debtor's opposition to the motion to dismiss was calendared incorrectly.

Third, the Second Motion contains the same general factual deficiencies as the First Motion. Once again, Debtor identifies her failure to file a responsive pleading to Trustee's motion for dismissal as the act to which a 60(b) analysis applies. As the Court noted in its previous tentative, however, Debtor did file an opposition to that motion, but a hearing was not set because Debtor selected incorrect hearing information. Yet, Debtor has opted to include the same assertions in the Second Motion.

Fourth, the majority of Debtor's motion discusses the payment history of Debtor, Debtor's account of which was disputed by Trustee in his opposition to the First Motion. Once again, the exhibits included are not authenticated. Additionally, the Second Motion removes the declaration of Debtor. Instead, in its place, is a declaration of Debtor's counsel, which is simply a verbatim copy of the motion, and otherwise lacks foundation and personal knowledge.

Fifth, while the Second Motion appears to make an attempt to remedy the legal deficiencies of the First Motion, that attempt is inadequate. While the Second Motion, unlike the First Motion, does identify the appropriate legal standard, it is still far from adequate. The motion appears to include two statements that could be characterized as legal, and that are relevant in this matter. The first sentence states: "[T]he court has the authority to grant the relief sought herein pursuant F.R.C.P. 60(b) States: (1) Mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect." The second statement, which occurs before the first, states: "Debtor respectfully requests the court to vacate dismissal and reinstate the bankruptcy case on the following grounds that the reason for her failure to file a responsive opposition to the motion to dismiss was excusable."

Regarding the first sentence, apart from the fact that it is clearly not a sentence, the motion contains no further discussion of the legal standard or how to apply 60(b) to the facts of this case. Regarding the second sentence, apart from the fact that it is grammatically defective, the Court notes, once again, that Debtor did file an opposition to Trustee's motion to dismiss. The second sentence simply misrepresents the record and lacks credibility.

Debtor's previous four filings in this case (the Second Motion, the First Motion and Debtor's reply, and the opposition to Trustee's motion to dismiss) contain numerous technical and substantive deficiencies, are far from legally adequate, and are factually inaccurate. Multiple filings were noticed incorrectly and multiple filings were served incorrectly. More importantly, despite the fact the Court posted a tentative that informed Debtor why the First Motion was inadequate, Debtor has, for the most part, repeated the deficiencies in the Second Motion. The two sentences outlined above appear to constitute the steps taken to respond to the Court's tentative, and those two sentences are simply inadequate.

Tentative Ruling:

For the foregoing reasons, the Court is inclined to CONTINUE the hearing for movant to file/serve amended pleadings and to coincide with a hearing on an order to show cause why Movant's counsel should not be sanctioned.

#4.00 Motion RE: Objection to Claim Number 6 by Claimant Internal Revenue Services

EH__

Docket 21

Tentative Ruling:

5/18/17

Background:

On February 16, 2016, Renard & Regina Hamilton ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On March 22, 2017, the IRS filed a claim ("Claim 6") in the amount of $42,251.29, of which $15,231.25 was identified as a priority claim. On April 19, 2017, Debtors filed an objection to Claim 6.

The claim of the IRS is based on Debtors' failure to file tax returns for 2012-2016. Debtors state that they filed the relevant returns on March 17, 2017. The docketed claim objection does not include an exhibit demonstrating that the returns were filed, although Debtors state that the Trustee's copy and the Judge's copy contain such an exhibit.

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

Analysis:

The evidence submitted by Debtors in support of their motion was not properly filed. Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 5005 governs the filing and transmittal of papers and generally requires that a filing be made with the clerk. Rule 5005(a) provides an exception to allow a party to file a paper with a bankruptcy judge, but it is a discretionary exception, which is not appropriate here.

11 U.S.C. § 107 provides a mechanism whereby filings can be made under seal. That approach was not adopted in this case. As a result, the motion that is part of the record does not contain sufficient evidence to comply with Local Rule 3007-(1).

Finally, the notice to the IRS at the address in Philadelphia is addressed to T. Smith, but, as the proof of claim indicates, that person's address is in San Diego.

Tentative Ruling

The Court is inclined to OVERRULE the objection without prejudice to Debtors re-filing the claim objection with proper evidence and utilizing the appropriate steps to protect Debtors' sensitive information, and for proper service.

#6.00 Motion to set aside RE: Dismissal

Docket 18

Tentative Ruling:

5/18/17

BACKGROUND

On March 1, 2017, Priscilla Bavadi ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. This was Debtor's sixth bankruptcy filing in eighteen months. Of the previous five, four were dismissed either for failure to file information or at the confirmation hearing. One result in a confirmed plan, however, the case was dismissed after the fifth month for failure to make plan payments. William Radcliffe ("Counsel") served as Debtor's attorney in all but the first filing.

On April 6, 2017, the Court held a confirmation hearing. The case was dismissed with a 180-day bar due to Debtor's failure to attend the meeting of creditors.

On April 13, 2017, Debtor filed a motion to vacate dismissal. On April 14, 2017, Trustee filed his objection to the motion.

Debtor's motion contains no legal analysis. It is limited to a declaration of Debtor stating that she did not attend the meeting of creditors because she believed the meeting was on April 12, 2017. It is true that when the case was originally filed it was assigned to Judge Johnson, and the date for the meeting of creditors was April 12, 2017, but immediately thereafter, the case was transferred to Judge Houle due to prior involvement with the Debtor, and the meeting of creditors was set for April 6, 2017. This assignment occurred the same day of the filing – in fact, the only meeting of creditors’ date noticed was April 6, 2017.

DISCUSSION

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9024 incorporates Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 60. Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 60(b) provides the grounds for relief from a final judgment. In general:

Fed. R. Civ. P. 60(b) seeks to balance the interest in the stability of judgments and orders with the interest in seeing they do not become instruments of oppression and fraud. Hence, the court may relieve a party . . . from a final judgment, order, or proceedings for . . . mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect. Relief under Rule 60(b) is extraordinary in nature and motions invoking that rule should be granted sparingly.

In re Teran Racamonde, 526 B.R. 89, 91 (Bankr. D.P.R. 2015). Here, Debtor has not cited any legal provision or indicated what provision she believes is applicable. The only factual argument made is that Debtor failed to attend the meeting of creditors because she noted the wrong date due to the judicial reassignment.

The Court finds Debtor’s proffered reason to be insufficient for the following reasons: (1) the meeting of creditors was changed less than two hours after the commencement of the bankruptcy; (2) the only notice sent regarding the meeting of creditors identified a date of April 6, 2016; (3) Debtor is familiar with the Court’s procedure of transferring cases to a judge who was previously involved – in each of Debtor’s two previous filings such a reassignment occurred; (4) Debtor has cited no legal provision and made no legal argument; and (5) Debtor’s indication that she believes the foreclosure would be set aside through the reinstatement of a bankruptcy case in which the automatic stay was not in effect lacks credibility. Furthermore, Debtor’s previous bankruptcy filings demonstrate a consistent lack of willingness or ability to

In support of their Motion to Continue/Impose, the Debtors vaguely assert that their new budget will ensure that payments can be made on time to avoid the situation that occurred in the last case where they did not have funds to tender to the Trustee. However, the I & J have not changed at all from one case to the next, the Debtors' budget is extremely lean for a family of six, and there is otherwise no explanation of why the funds were not "received" on time in the last case. On the basis of the foregoing, the tentative ruling is to DENY the Motion.

MOVANT: MARTHA E GUERRERO AND EDUARDO E GUERRERO

FROM: 4/25/17

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

5/30/17

Debtor's opposition argues that the real estate contract is an executory contract that can be rejected in bankruptcy. While providing an applicable citation for that assertion, Debtor does not apply the legal standard to the facts of this case.

Nevertheless, it appears that Debtor's characterization of the contract as "executory" may have merit. While Movant, in the motion, states that "all contingencies had been removed," and, in the reply, states that they "dutifully removed all their contractual contingencies," the state court complaint submitted to support their motion states, in paragraph 23: "Plaintiffs have fully performed all conditions, covenants, and promises required by them on their part to be performed in accordance with the terms and conditions of the contract, except the final payment for the purchase of the Property." (emphasis added). While Movants appear to have made the initial deposit into escrow, it does not appear that the final purchase price was tendered.

"[A]n 'executory contract' that can be rejected in bankruptcy is a contract on which performance remains due on both sides at the time of the bankruptcy petition." Matter of Newcomb, 744 F.2d 621, 624 (8th Cir. 1984); see also In re Texscan Corp., 976 F.2d 1269-1271-72 (9th Cir. 1992). In Newcomb, the Court held that when the funds had already been transferred into escrow, there was no executory contract – no material obligations remained on the part of the grantor. See id.

10:00 AM

CONT... AMANDO MORALES and ALICIA MALDONADO

Chapter 7

In the Ninth Circuit, a real estate sales contract remains executory until the full purchase price is deposited into escrow by the purchaser. See In re Hertz, 536 B.R. 434, 439-41 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2015) (an extended discussion on when a purchase contract loses its executory nature).

Given that the real estate purchase contract may be an executory contract that shortly will be rejected by operation of law under 11 U.S.C. § 365(d)(1), and that Movants are seeking a state court order for specific performance under the contract, granting relief from stay would be improper because the state court proceedings would interfere with the bankruptcy court proceedings. Interference with the administration of the estate is the most important consideration when considering a motion for relief from stay to proceed with state court litigation. See In re Roger, 539 B.R. 837, 845 C.D. Cal. 2015) ("According to the court in Curtis, the most importance factor in determining whether to grant relief from the automatic stay to permit litigation against the debtor in another forum is the effect of such litigation on the administration of the estate. Even slight interference with the administration may be enough to preclude relief in the absence of a commensurate benefit."). Here, there is a possibility of significant interference with the bankruptcy estate.

Tentative Ruling:

For the foregoing reasons, the Court is inclined to DENY the motion.

Docket 49

Tentative Ruling:

05/31/2017

BACKGROUND

On December 7, 2011, Resurreccion and Lynroy Gayle (collectively, "Debtors") filed for chapter 7 relief. The Debtors received a discharge and the case was closed on March 22, 2012. On April 8, 2014, the Debtors moved to reopen their case for the purpose of filing motions to avoid liens.

On June 6, 2014, the Debtors moved to avoid the lien of Steven Vanderhei (the "Prior Motion"). The Prior Motion was opposed by Steven Vanderhei ("Vanderhei"). Vanderhei opposed the Prior Motion and a hearing was held on August 20, 2014. At the hearing, the Court determined it appropriate to deny the Prior Motion with prejudice. An order denying the prior motion was entered on August 26, 2014 (the "Vanderhei Order"). The case was closed on January 28, 2015.

On March 30, 2017, the Debtors again moved to reopen the case to seek reconsideration of the Vanderhei Order and substituted new counsel, the Turoci Firm. The Court reopened the case on April 3, 2017. On April 17, 2017, the Debtors moved for reconsideration of the Vanderhei Order ("Motion"). Vanderhei filed Opposition to the Motion on April 28, 2017, and filed a Declaration of Vanderhei on May 1, 2017 ("Opposition"). On May 5, 2017, the Debtors set the matter for hearing and filed their reply on May 23, 2017. Additionally, the Debtors filed objection to the declaration of Vanderhei.

DISCUSSION

than one year after the order is entered, such as the Vanderhei Order, may only be made pursuant to 60(b)(6).

Rule 60(b)(6) has been used sparingly as an equitable remedy to prevent manifest injustice. The rule is to be utilized only where extraordinary circumstances prevented a party from taking timely action to prevent or correct an erroneous judgment. For example, in Klapprott v. United States, 335 U.S. 601, 69 S.Ct. 384, 93 L.Ed. 266 (1949), the Court upheld the use of the rule to set aside a default judgment in a denaturalization proceeding because the petitioner had been ill, incarcerated, and without counsel for the four years following the judgment. United States v. Alpine Land & Reservoir Co., 984 F.2d 1047, 1050 (9th Cir. 1993) Conversely, in Ackermann v. United States, 340 U.S. 193, 71 S.Ct. 209, 95 L.Ed. 207 (1950), the Court held that Rule 60(b)(6) should not be invoked where the petitioner bypassed his right to appeal for tactical reasons. Id. The Supreme Court has indicated that Rule 60(b)(6) relief may be had "to accomplish justice," but only under "extraordinary circumstances." Alpine Land at 1050.

The Ninth Circuit has indicated that the timeliness of a Rule 60(b)(6) motion "depends on the facts of each case," and relief may not be had where "the party seeking reconsideration has ignored normal legal recourses." In re Pacific Far East Lines, Inc., 889 F.2d 242, 249, 250 (9th Cir.1989) (holding relief appropriate where new legislation undermined the soundness of the judgment). See also United States v. Holtzman, 762 F.2d 720 (9th Cir.1985) (five year delay permissible where litigant reasonably interpreted an injunction to authorize litigant's conduct and timely relief was sought upon receipt of notice to the contrary); Rivera v. Puerto Rico Tel. Co., 921 F.2d 393 (1st Cir.1990) (twenty-three day delay permitted because party not properly notified of pending motion); J.D. Pharmaceutical Distrib., Inc. v. Save-On Drugs & Cosmetics Corp., 893 F.2d 1201, 1207 (11th Cir.1990) (relief from judgment granted because party never served with requests for admissions or motion for summary judgment). These cases demonstrate that Rule 60(b)(6) relief normally will not be granted unless the moving party is able to show both injury and that circumstances beyond its control prevented timely action to protect its interests.

Here, the Debtor's sole evidence in support of her 60(b)(6) request is that she relied on her prior counsel to correctly file the motions to avoid lien filed prior to the instant reopening of this case. However, the Debtor's declaration does not demonstrate circumstances beyond her control which prevented timely action to protect her interest. The Debtor has impermissibly delayed in seeking reconsideration. At most, excusable neglect might have been the basis for relief pursuant to Rule 60(b)(1) if the Debtors had sought such relief within a year of the entry of the Vanderhei Order. However, Rule 60(b)(6) is not a substitute for 60(b)(1). See Alpine Land at

In Tani, the Ninth Circuit held that "gross negligence" of counsel, in contrast to regular or ordinary negligence, could constitute grounds for reconsideration under 60(b)(6). Gross negligence, in turn, is traditionally used to signify a greater, and less excusable, degree of negligence, and typically requires parties alleging gross negligence to establish the existence of a more serious violation of the actor's duty. Id. In Tani, the record indicated that prior counsel had abandoned representation of the client by failing to comply with court orders requiring him to engage in settlement discussions, failed to file a stipulation permitting the late filing of an answer to a complaint, served the answer two weeks late, then after failing to serve the answer failed to file the answer on the plaintiff, failed to oppose plaintiff's motion to strike the answer, and failed to appear at numerous hearings. The result of the counsel's inaction was the entry of default judgment against his client. The Ninth Circuit found this failure of representation to constitute gross negligence sufficient to warrant reconsideration of the entry of a default judgment. Additionally, the Court's holding was bolstered by the principle that decisions on the merits are favored whenever possible. Id.

In this case, the Debtor has provided insufficient evidence of gross negligence. In her Reply, the Debtor points to a complaint of misconduct filed by the Debtor on February 24, 2015, against the Debtor's prior counsel (filed as an exhibit to the Opposition). However, there is no indication that a judgment has been entered against the Debtor's prior counsel and no evidence provided in support of the allegations made in the misconduct complaint. Moreover, Vanderhei is correct that the Debtor's misconduct complaint indicates clearly that she believed her prior counsel was negligent in the handling of the bankruptcy cases yet despite that fact she did not seek new counsel to rectify the Vanderhei Order timely. No excuse is provided for the Debtor's delay in seeking reconsideration of the Vanderhei Order in the bankruptcy court. Finally, based on the record of this case, the Debtor's prior counsel filed the Motion (albeit with clear deficiencies) and appeared at the hearing on the motion. The facts of this situation do not resemble the facts of Tani where the client was effectively abandoned by her counsel. Instead, the Debtor (without any apparent excuse) continued to rely on counsel that had already demonstrated deficient work product prior to the filing of the second bankruptcy and even after she realized he had made mistakes, waited more than two years to seek reconsideration in this Court.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to DENY the Motion.

Docket 61

Tentative Ruling:

05/31/2017

BACKGROUND

On July 25, 2013 ("Petition Date"), Jesus Tapia ("Debtor") filed his petition for chapter 7 relief. Robert Whitmore is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee").

The Debtor received his discharge and his case was closed on November 5, 2013. The case was reopened on April 27, 2016, for the Debtor to amend his schedules to disclose the existence of prepetition litigation. The lawsuit involved an abdominal wall mesh infection and abscess in the Debtor which the Debtor alleges were caused by the implantation of a Kugel Patch manufactured by the defendants (the "Lawsuit"). The UST subsequently moved for reappointment of the Trustee to investigate the potential that any settlement might be property of the estate.

On April 17, 2017, the Trustee filed his Motion to Approve Compromise under Rule 9019 (the "Motion"). No opposition was filed to the Motion. On May 3, 2017, having determined that the Motion contained insufficient evidence of the value of the claim underlying the proposed settlement, the Court set the matter for hearing to provide the Trustee an opportunity to provide supplemental evidence.

The Trustee provided supplemental evidence on May 17, 2017.

Chapter 7

APPROVAL OF COMPROMISE PURSUANT TO RULE 9019

Rule 9019(a) authorizes the bankruptcy court to approve a compromise or settlement on the trustee's motion and after notice and a hearing. The bankruptcy court must consider all "factors relevant to a full and fair assessment of the wisdom of the proposed compromise." Protective Comm. for Indep. Stockholders of TMT Trailer Ferry, Inc. v. Anderson, 390 U.S. 414, 424, 88 S. Ct. 1157, 20 L. Ed. 2d 1 (1968). In other words, the bankruptcy court must find that the settlement is "fair and equitable" in order to approve it. Martin v. Kane (In re A & C Props.), 784 F.2d 1377, 1381 (9th Cir. 1986).

In conducting this inquiry, the bankruptcy court must consider the following factors:

(a) the probability of success in the litigation; (b) the difficulties, if any, to be encountered in the matter of collection; (c) the complexity of the litigation involved, and the expense, inconvenience and delay necessarily attending it; and (d) the paramount interest of the creditors and a proper deference to their reasonable views in the premises.

Id.

The bankruptcy court enjoys broad discretion in approving a compromise because it "is uniquely situated to consider the equities and reasonableness [of it]" United States v. Alaska Nat'l Bank (In re Walsh Construction, Inc.), 669 F.2d 1325, 1328 (9th Cir. 1982). As stated in A & C Props.:

The purpose of a compromise agreement is to allow the trustee and the creditors to avoid the expenses and burdens associated with litigating sharply contested and dubious claims. The law favors compromise and not litigation for its own sake, and as long as the bankruptcy court amply considered the various factors that determined the reasonableness of the compromise, the court's decision must be affirmed.

Chapter 7

On the other hand, even though the bankruptcy court has wide latitude in approving compromises, its discretion is not completely unfettered. See Woodson v. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. (In re Woodson), 839 F.2d 610, 620 (9th Cir. 1988). The trustee bears the burden of proving to the bankruptcy court that the settlement is fair and equitable and should be approved. In re A&C Props., 784 F.2d at 1382.

a. Sufficiency of Evidence

The Court shall address the evidence in support of each of the A & C Props. factors.

1. The Probability of Success in the Underlying Litigation

In the supplement to the Motion, the Trustee provided the analysis of Troy Brenes in which he evaluated the specific difficulties involved in the Debtor's litigation and the benefits of settlement. (Brenes Decl. ¶4). This factor weighs in favor of the settlement.

2. Difficulty of Collection

The Motion did not present any definitive challenges to collection. As such, this factor is neutral.

3. Complexity, Cost, Inconvenience and Delay of Litigation

The supplement to the Motion underscores the complexity of the litigation involved, in particular the Court notes that significant expert testimony and substantial litigation appears likely to be required in order for the Trustee to prevail on the Debtor's claim and recover for the benefit of creditors. (Brenes Decl. ¶4). This factor weighs in favor of the settlement.

4. Interest of Creditors

The complexity of the pending litigation and the difficulties outlined by the Trustee in the Motion and supplement underscore that approval of the settlement rather than causing the Trustee to incur attorney fees in continued litigation outside of the bankruptcy court is in the best interest of creditors. Additionally, the Trustee has demonstrated that he has evaluated sufficient evidence of comparable jury verdicts in order to determine that the settlement figure of $400,000 being proposed is reasonable. (Trustee Supp. Decl. ¶3). Finally, the Trustee has indicated that based on claims filed in the bankruptcy case, after payment of attorney fees and costs, administrative costs, and payments to unsecured creditors, that the settlement award is sufficient to result in a surplus estate which will pay out funds to the Debtor. (Trustee Decl. ¶8).

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Trustee has demonstrated that the settlement is fair and equitable and the Motion is GRANTED and the settlement is APPROVED as follows:

- (1) approving settlement related to the matter entitled Jesus Tapia v. Davol Inc. et al, case no. 6:16-ap-01265-MH, pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 9019;
- (2) approving and authorizing payment to Trustee's special counsel for its costs; and
- (3) approving special counsel fees to be held in trust by Trustee's bankruptcy counsel, Reid & Hellyer, pending the resolution of a fee dispute.

Docket 29

Tentative Ruling:

05/31/2017

BACKGROUND

On October 30, 2013 ("Petition Date"), Ronald and Alicia Stearns (collectively, "Debtors") filed their petition for chapter 7 relief. Among the assets of the estate is real property located at 7573 Honeysuckle Street in Fontana, CA 92336 (the "Property"). The Debtors received a discharge and the case was closed on February 11, 2014.

On January 10, 2017, the Court granted the Debtors' request to reopen the case for the purpose of avoiding judgment liens recorded against the Property. On February 2, 2017, the Debtor filed motions to avoid the liens of Capital One Bank ("Capital One") and Merchants Financial Guardian ("Merchants") pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 522 (f). At the hearing on the Debtors initial motions, the Court denied both motions due to various technical issues with the motions. The tentative ruling indicated as follows:

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion without prejudice for a variety of technical reasons. Primarily, the filing that is actually set for hearing is Docket No. 17, which is simply a "notice" that does not attach, contain, incorporate, or reference a motion. Second, the earlier motion filed by Debtors, Docket No. 16, contains no admissible evidence regarding the value of the first lien as of the petition date. Third, the Court notes that Local Rule 4003-(2)(b)(1) prevents Debtors from bringing one motion to avoid two lines under 11 U.S.C. § 522(f).

Fourth, the earlier motion contains multiple, material factual inconsistencies, including the amount of the claimed exemption and the fair market value of the property.

Tentative Ruling on Motion to Avoid Liens, March 29, 2017.

On April 21, 2017, the Debtors refiled their motions to avoid the liens of Capital One Bank and Merchants. On May 18, 2017, the Debtors withdrew their motion to avoid the lien of Merchants. The only motion currently pending is the motion to avoid the lien of Capital One Bank (the "Motion").

DISCUSSION

As a threshold matter, the Motion was not properly served on Capital One via FRBP 7004(h) which requires service on a FDIC insured entity via certified mail and to the attention of an officer at the address indicated for the institution on the FDIC website. The Debtors did not comply with any of these requirements for service.

Section 522(f)(1)(A) provides in relevant part: "the debtor may avoid the fixing of a lien on an interest of the debtor in property to the extent that such lien impairs an exemption to which the debtor would have been entitled ... if such lien is (A) a judicial lien." 11 U.S.C. § 522(f)(1)(A) (emphasis supplied).

Section 522(f)(2) prescribes a formula for calculating whether an exemption is impaired:

- (2)(A) For the purposes of this subsection, a lien shall be considered to impair an exemption to the extent that the sum of—
 - (i) the lien;
 - (ii) all other liens on the property; and
 - (iii) the amount of the exemption that the debtor could claim if there were no liens on the property; exceeds the value that the debtor's interest in the property would have in the absence of any liens.
- (B) In the case of a property subject to more than 1 lien, a lien that has been avoided shall not be considered in making the calculation under subparagraph (A) with respect to other liens.

11 U.S.C. § 522(f)(2) (emphasis supplied). That is, an exemption is impaired if the sum of all of liens and the exemption yields a total that is greater than the fair market value of the property. See In re Meyer, 373 B.R. 84, 89 (9th Cir. BAP 2007).

Here, the Debtors assert that the first lien on the Property is $173,433.90, that the Property is next encumbered by the lien of Merchants in the amount of $48,351.02, and by the lien of Capital One in the amount of $3,928.15. The Debtors have asserted an exemption in the Property of $100,000. However, the Debtors Schedule C indicates that they have exempted $76,566.10 in the Property and have not sought to amend their schedules. Nevertheless, assuming the values are correct, the total of the liens and exemption is $302,279.17 which is greater than the fair market value of the Property of $270,000 as asserted by the appraisal obtained by the Debtors. These figures would indicate that the lien of Capital One impairs the exemption of the Debtors.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined CONTINUE the hearing on the Motion to June 28, 2017, at 11:00 a.m., for the Debtor to properly serve Capital One per FRBP 7004(h) with an amended Notice of Motion and Motion as indicated above.

Tentative Ruling:

Background:

On November 23, 2015 ("Petition Date"), James Lloyd Walker (the "Debtor") filed his petition for chapter 7 relief. Robert Whitmore is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee")

On April 12, 2017, the Trustee filed an Objection to Claim No. 1 (the "Objection") of Real Time Solutions ("Claimant"). Service was proper and no opposition has been filed.

Offord Fin., Inc., (In re Medina)*, 205 B.R. 216,222 (9th Cir. BAP 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). unenforceable against the debtor and property of the debtor under applicable law. The statute of limitations applicable to common counts is four years if the action is founded upon a contract or other writing (e.g., "book account" (§ 3:398), "account stated" (§ 3:400), or money lent on a note), and the statute of limitations is generally four years from the date of the last item in the account. CCP § 337(1),(2); Armstrong Petroleum Corp. v. Tri-Valley Oil & Gas Co., 116 CA 4th 1375, 1396, FN. 9 (Cal. App. 2004).

Here, the Trustee has provided evidence that the Property was sold at foreclosure extinguishing the secured claim of the Claimant. The documentation further indicates that the foreclosure occurred on April 25, 2011. Thus, assuming as does the Trustee, that the Claimant did not receive any payments following the foreclosure sale, the Trustee is correct that the statute of limitations under state law has lapsed. Moreover, Claimant, though properly served, has failed to respond, which may be deemed as consent to the relief requested under LBR 9013-1(h). Thus, as the ultimate burden of persuasion remains on the Claimant, the Objection must be sustained.

Tentative Ruling

The Objection is SUSTAINED. Claim #1 is disallowed in its entirety.

Tentative Ruling:

05/31/2017

BACKGROUND

On January 30, 2017 ("Petition Date"), Hiep Huu Phan ("Debtor") filed his petition for chapter 7 relief. Karl Anderson is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee").

On April 27, 2017, the Debtor filed a Motion for an order extending the deadline for the Trustee and/or the United States Trustee to file a motion to dismiss the Debtor's case and/or an adversary complaint pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 727 (the "Motion").

DISCUSSION

Under FRBP 4004(a) and 1017(e), on a motion of any party in interest, the court may for cause extend the time to object to discharge or to seek dismissal. Fed. R. Bankr. P. 4004, 1017.

As a matter of practice what constitutes "cause" rests within the discretion of the bankruptcy court. See In re James, 187 B.R. 395, 397 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. 1995). Also, Courts are generally unified in the view that the term "for cause" should receive a liberal construction. Id. Notwithstanding that fact, however, a creditor must exhibit some minimum degree of due diligence prior to seeking such an extension, and the Court should not allow the motion to serve as license for a baseless "fishing expedition." Id; See also In re Leary, 185 B.R. 405, 406 (Bankr. D. Mass. 1995). To establish cause movant must (1) show that he had, with reasonable diligence, attempted to investigate the facts and circumstances, and (2) offer a reasonable explanation of why that investigation could not be completed within the allotted time. See In re Bomarito, 448 B.R. 242, 251 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. 2011).

The Trustee provided evidence that he has been seeking documents from the Debtor related to the operation of a business. (Isaacson Decl. ¶4). The Trustee's counsel has determined that although the Debtor indicated that he earned no income from operation of a business in calendar years 2015 and 2016, the Debtor's tax returns demonstrate that the Debtor earned wages in both years and also earned wages which of no less than $14,003 that were not disclosed in his Statement of Financial Affairs (SOFA). (Id. at ¶6). The Trustee and UST would like to examine the Debtor regarding the inaccuracies at the continued 341(a) meeting of creditors.

In addition to the Trustee's showing of "cause", the Court notes that the Debtor, though properly served, has failed to file any opposition which the Court deems as consent to the granting of the Motion pursuant to LBR 9013-1(h).

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court will GRANT the relief requested and provide the Trustee and UST extensions of 60 days for the filing of a complaint under § 727 and/or for a motion to dismiss.

04/05/17

BACKGROUND

On August 30, 2016 ("Petition Date"), Efren Estrada ("Debtor"), filed his petition for chapter 7 relief. Charles Daff is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee"). On December 12, 2016, the Debtor received a chapter 7 discharge.

On March 14, 2017 (or approximately 7 months after the Petition Date and post-discharge), the Debtors filed their motion for conversion of their case to a case under chapter 13 ("Motion"). On March 22, 2017, the Trustee filed opposition to the Debtors' Motion ("Opposition"). On March 29, 2017, the Debtors filed their reply ("Reply").

DISCUSSION

The Trustee argues that the Debtor's Motion should be denied because it has been filed in bad faith and because the Debtor's chapter 7 discharge precludes conversion pursuant to this Court's holding in In re Santos, 561 B.R. 825, 829 (C.D. Cal. 2017).

Chapter 7

In response, the Debtor asserts that he will propose a chapter 13 plan that would pay the creditors whose debts have presumably already been discharged in this case. The only basis advanced by the Debtor to support his contention that a Debtor can propose to pay already discharged debts in a post-discharge converted chapter 13 case is that a different Judge in the Central District permitted such conversion in another case known to Counsel for the Debtor. The Debtor, however, has not indicated the legal basis for this other court's ruling and such ruling would not be binding on this Court. Separately, the Court notes that although not expressly discussed in the Memorandum Decision on Santos, the Debtors in that case had also proposed to pay creditors whose debts had already been discharged at 100% through a confirmed chapter 13 plan. However, the bare promise that such a plan will be proposed where the Debtor's chapter 7 debts have already been discharged has no binding effect.

Having failed to distinguish Santos, the Court declines to reach the issues raised by the Trustee regarding alleged bad faith of the Debtor in failing to properly identify the nature of his interest in the Property.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, and following the Santos holding, the Court finds that "cause" exists to deny the Debtor's request for conversion because the Debtor has received the benefits of a chapter 7 discharge and now seeks to avoid the concomitant burden of allowing the Trustee to administer the Debtor's assets for the benefit of creditors.

Docket 17

Tentative Ruling:

04/26/2017

BACKGROUND

On December 20, 2016, Alpine Industries LLC ("Debtor") filed a petition for chapter 7 relief. Robert Whitmore is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee"). The bankruptcy petition is supported by an electronic filing declaration signed by the Debtor's prior counsel, Laleh Ensafi ("Ensafi") and also purportedly by the Debtor's principal, Michael Kiralla ("Kiralla"). (Docket No. 2).

On March 22, 2017, the Debtor filed a substitution, terminating the representation of Ensafi. On March 28, 2017, the Debtor filed a Motion to Dismiss its chapter 7 case ("Motion"). The Motion appears to have been properly served on the Trustee and all creditors. No opposition has been filed.

The Motion asserts as its primary basis for dismissal that (1) Kiralla was not fully informed of how the bankruptcy would affect the Debtor by Ensafi and (2) that the signature used to file the bankruptcy petition was not Kiralla's.

The electronic filing declaration certifies the accuracy of documents being filed by an attorney and certified an authorized signatory's permission to have the document filed by an attorney. Here, the allegations that form the basis for the dismissal can only be controverted by Ensafi. Notwithstanding, the Motion was not served on Ensafi.

Based on the foregoing the Court will CONTINUE the hearing to May 31, 2017, at 11:00 a.m. for service on Ensafi.

BACKGROUND

On October 16, 2016 ("Petition Date"), Charles David Arthur and Claire Blanza Arthur (collectively, "Debtors") filed their petition for chapter 7 relief. Charles Daff is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee"). Among the assets of the Debtors' bankruptcy estate ("Estate") is real property located at 35965 Carlton Road in Wildomar, CA (the "Property").

On April 25, 2017, the Trustee filed a Motion seeking (1) authority for a short sale of the Estate's right, title, and interest in the Property free and clear of the interests; (2) approving payment of broker commission; and (3) granting related relief ("Motion").

No opposition has been filed.

U.S.C. § 363(b)(1); see also Commodity Futures Trading Comm'n v. Weintraub, 471 U.S. 343, 352 (1985). The sale must be in the best interests of the estate and the price must be fair and reasonable. In re Canyon Partnership, 55 B.R. 520 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1985); see also In re Wilde Horse Enterprises, Inc., 136 B.R. 830, 841 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1991)(sale must have fair/reasonable price, accurate/reasonable notice to creditors and sale made in good faith). The trustee must articulate some "business justification" for selling estate property out of the "ordinary course of business" before the court may approve the transaction. In re Lionel Corp., 722 F.2d 1063, 1071 (2d Cir. 1983); In re Ernst Home Ctr., Inc., 209 B.R. 974, 979 (Bankr. Here, the Trustee asserts that the short sale will result in the estate being paid a fee of approximately $21,750. The declarations of Karina Jimenez and Anthony Silva (the "Buyers") indicate that the estate will be paid a fee of $21,750, in addition to the purchase price of $350,000. However, the Motion is not clear as to what underlies the "fee" being paid. Instead, it appears that the "fee" is actually a part of the purchase price. The framework proposed by the Trustee appears to indicate bad faith because he provides no basis rooted in bankruptcy for the Estate to charge a fee in exchange for the sale of an asset of the Estate.

a) Sale Free and Clear of non-Debtor Interests

A trustee may sell estate property "free and clear" of third party interests in the property, such as co-ownership interest, liens, claims and encumbrances. See 11 U.S.C. § 363(f). A sale free and clear of third party interests pursuant to section 363 is authorized only if one of the following conditions is met: (1) sale authorized by applicable nonbankruptcy law; (2) third party whose interest will be affected consents; (3) the affected interest is a lien and the sale price is greater than total value of all liens on the property; (4) the affected interest is a bona fide dispute; or (5) the third party whose interest will be affected could be compelled to accept a money satisfaction of the interest. 11 U.S.C. § 363(f)(1)-(5).

The Trustee has not obtained consent from the first priority secured lender. Without such consent, the Court cannot grant the Motion free and clear of this lien. As to the remaining junior liens, the Trustee proposes that a hypothetical foreclosure sale situation satisfies Section 363(f)(5). However, the Court believes that the analysis provided in Dishi & Sons v. Bay Condos LLC, 510 B.R. 696, 711 (S.D.N.Y. 2014) provides the better view of whether a hypothetical foreclosure sale can be a basis for granting free and clear under 363(f)(5).

[A] narrow interpretation [of 363(f)(5)] provides a limited role for paragraph (5), but avoids rendering the remaining paragraphs mere surplusage. See In re PW, 391 B.R. 25, 44 (9th Cir. BAP 2008) ("[A]ny interpretation of paragraph (5) must satisfy the requirement that the various paragraphs of subsection (f) work harmoniously and with little overlap."). Other courts have therefore limited the scope of paragraph (5) to those scenarios where the trustee or debtor, not any third party, is the actor. See, e.g., In re Ricco, Inc., 2014 WL 1329292, *3 (Bankr.N.D.W.Va. Apr. 1, 2014) ("[T]he only logical interpretation of ... § 363(f)(5) is that the statute requires that the trustee or debtor be the party able to compel monetary satisfaction for the interest which is the subject of the sale.") (quoting In re Haskell, 321 B.R. at 9); In re Scott, 2013 WL 4498987, *2–3 (Bankr.E.D.Ky. Aug. 21, 2013) (paragraph (5) does not refer to foreclosure proceedings because they are initiated by creditors, not the debtor); In re Haskell, 321 B.R. at 9 (paragraph (5) does not encompass eminent domain proceedings because the trustee must be the party capable of compelling the interest holder to accept a money satisfaction). This Court agrees that paragraph (5) should be read to reach only those legal or equitable proceedings that could be brought by the trustee as owner of the property. A foreclosure by a third-party mortgagee is not such a proceeding. And as Dishi has not suggested any other hypothetical proceedings by which the trustee could compel TGM to accept a money satisfaction in exchange for extinguishment of its interest, the Court holds that paragraph (5) does not authorize a sale free and clear of TGM's rights. In re Daufuskie Island Props., LLC, 431 B.R. 626, 637 (Bankr.D.S.C.2010)

Dishi & Sons at 711 (S.D.N.Y. 2014)(emphasis added).

Here, the Court is inclined to agree with the rationale of Dishi & Sons that 363 (f)(5) should be read narrowly to encompass only legal or equitable proceedings that could be brought by the trustee as the owner of the property. For this reason, the Court is inclined to deny the Trustee's request to permit a sale free and clear of the junior liens against the Property.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing analysis, the Court is inclined to DENY the Motion.

Docket 49

Tentative Ruling:

05/31/2017

BACKGROUND

On February 9, 2016 ("Petition Date"), Bernard Joseph O'Kelly ("Debtor") filed his petition for chapter 7 relief. Charles Daff is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee"). Among the assets of the Debtor's bankruptcy estate ("Estate") is vacant land located at 0 State Line in Big Bear City, California APN: 0315-097-17 (the "Property").

On May 10, 2017, the Trustee filed a Motion for Order: (1) Approving the Sale of Real Property of the Estate Pursuant to Bankruptcy Code § 363(b)(1) and Subject to Overbids, Combined With Notice of Bidding Procedures and Request for Approval of the Bidding Procedures Utilized; (2) Approving Payment of Real Estate Commission and Other Costs; and (3) Granting Related Relief ("Motion").

No opposition has been filed.

Chapter 7

The trustee, after notice and a hearing, may sell property of the estate. 11 U.S.C. § 363(b)(1); see also Commodity Futures Trading Comm'n v. Weintraub, 471 U.S. 343, 352 (1985). The sale must be in the best interests of the estate and the price must be fair and reasonable. In re Canyon Partnership, 55 B.R. 520 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1985); see also In re Wilde Horse Enterprises, Inc., 136 B.R. 830, 841 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1991)(sale must have fair/reasonable price, accurate/reasonable notice to creditors and sale made in good faith). The trustee must articulate some "business justification" for selling estate property out of the "ordinary course of business" before the court may approve the transaction. In re Lionel Corp., 722 F.2d 1063, 1071 (2d Cir. 1983); In re Ernst Home Ctr., Inc., 209 B.R. 974, 979 (Bankr. W.D. Wash. 1997). Objections to sale that are based on inadequacy of price are often resolved the court ordering an auction, which may occur in open court. Simantrob v. Claims Prosecutor, LLC (In re Lahijani), 325 B.R. 282, 287 (9th Cir. BAP 2005) citing Fed. R. Bankr. P. 6004(f).¹

Here, the Trustee asserts that the proposed sale of $15,000, subject to overbids, constitutes a sale of the property at fair market value which will provide the best and highest value for the benefit of the Estate. (Trustee Decl. ¶8). The Trustee's calculation of proceeds is the following:

Sale Price ...	$15,000
Broker's Commission/costs of sale ...	$1,800
Property Taxes (estimated) ...	$430
Net Equity for the Estate:	$12,770

a) Sale Made in Good Faith

The proposed sale has been brought in good faith and has been negotiated on an "arms- length" basis. The court, in Wilde Horse Enterprises, set forth the factors in considering whether a transaction is in good faith. The court stated:

‘Good faith’ encompasses fair value, and further speaks to the integrity of the transaction. Typical 'bad faith' or misconduct, would include collusion between the seller and buyer, or any attempt to take unfair advantage of other potential purchasers. . . . And, with respect to making such determinations, the court and creditors must be provided with sufficient information to allow them to take a position on the proposed sale.

Id. at 842 (citations omitted).

Here, the Trustee has arranged for sale of the Property with overbidding at the hearing. Trustee employed a broker, Becki Wheeler of Re/Max Big Bear ("Broker"), to market and sell the Property. The Broker, in turn, marketed the Property and received one offer. The marketing of the Property coupled with the overbidding support a finding that the sale is untainted by self-dealing (i.e. sale proposed in good faith and at arm's length).

b) Sale Free and Clear of non-Debtor Interests

A trustee may sell estate property "free and clear" of third party interests in the property, such as co-ownership interest, liens, claims and encumbrances. See 11 U.S.C. § 363(f). A sale free and clear of third party interests pursuant to section 363 is authorized only if one of the following conditions is met: (1) sale authorized by applicable nonbankruptcy law; (2) third party whose interest will be affected consents; (3) the affected interest is a lien and the sale price is greater than total value of all liens on the property; (4) the affected interest is a bona fide dispute; or (5) the third party whose interest will be affected could be compelled to accept a money satisfaction of the interest. 11 U.S.C. § 363(f)(1)-(5).

Here, the only lien shown on the Title Report appears to be in favor of the San Bernardino County Tax Collector (the "County") for current and defaulted taxes in the amount of approximately $429.57. The Trustee proposes that this amount be paid through escrow with proceeds from the sale. Given that the County will receive full satisfaction of its claim, the Property may be sold free and clear of its interest.

c) Bidding Procedures

Generally, bidding procedures must be untainted by self-dealing, encourage bidding and be fair/reasonable/serve the best interests of the estate. See In re Crown Corp., 679 F.2d 774 (9th Cir. 1982).

The Court has reviewed the Trustee's overbid procedures and finds that they adequately provide for an orderly sale untainted by self-dealing. (Mot. at 5:1-28, 6:1-3). The Court finds the procedures to be fair and reasonable, and in the best interests of the estate.

d) Purchaser in "Good Faith" Pursuant to Section 363(m)

Section 363(m) provides that "[t]he reversal or modification on appeal of an authorization under subsection (b) or (c) of this section of a sale or lease of property does not affect the validity of a sale or lease under such authorization to an entity that purchased or leased such property in good faith...." 11 U.S.C. § 363(m).

The Trustee has attached the declaration of the Paul Stephens, establishing that the proposed sale is an arms-length transaction. On this basis, the Court is inclined to find that Paul Stephens is a good faith purchaser under § 363(m).

e) Compensation of Real Estate Broker

Here, the Trustee seeks authorization to pay from escrow, the following broker commissions, which together constitute 10% of the gross sale price or a total of approximately $1,500. The Court finds that the amounts requested are reasonable and are approved.

4. Providing that the Trustee is authorized to execute and deliver any documents necessary to effectuate the proposed sale;

Background:

On October 6, 2015, Miguel & Maria Vivar ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On December 2, 2015, Debtors' Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On February 12, 2016, Residential Mortgage Solution LLC ("Creditor") filed an unsecured claim in the amount of $39,838.55. On May 2, 2017, Debtors filed a claim objection.

Applicable Law:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). *See Lundell v. F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

Analysis:

#10.00 Motion RE: Objection to Claim Number 1 by Claimant Wescom Credit Union

EH__

Docket 16

Tentative Ruling:

6/1/17

Background:

On March 10, 2017, Jose & Erika Payan ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On March 14, 2017, Wescom Credit Union ("Creditor") filed a unsecured proof of claim in the amount of $12,553.51 on the basis of a personal line of credit. On April 19, 2017, Debtors filed a claim objection. On May 9, 2017, Debtors' Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

Applicable Law:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

Analysis:

Debtors argue that the statute of limitations is four years for Creditor's claim and that Creditor's claim is therefore barred. Cal. Code Civ. P. § 337(2) provides for a statute of limitations of four years for:

An action to recover (1) upon a book account whether consisting of one or more entries; (2) upon an account stated based upon an account in writing, but the acknowledgement of the account stated need not be in writing; (3) a balance due upon a mutual, open and current account, the items of which are in writing; provided, however, that where an account stated is based upon an account of one item, the time shall begin to run from the date of said item, and where an account stated is based upon an account of more than one item, the time shall begin to run from the date of the last item.

Chapter 13

Cal. Code Civ. P. § 337(1) provides that the statute of limitations is also four years for claims based upon a contract.

The Court has reviewed Creditor's proof of claim and it appears that the applicable statute of limitations is four years pursuant to Cal. Code Civ. P. § 337. It additionally appears that Debtors have not made a payment on the claim in nearly nine years, and, therefore, the statute of limitations has expired.

Tentative Ruling

The Court is inclined to SUSTAIN the objection.

APPEARANCES WAIVED. Movant to lodge order within seven days. If oral or written opposition is presented at the hearing, the hearing may be continued.

#13.00 Motion For Order Compelling Attorney To File Disclosure Of Compensation

EH__

Docket 15

Tentative Ruling:

6/1/17

BACKGROUND

On April 5, 2017, Meghan McConaghy ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On April 24, 2017, Debtor's case was dismissed for failure to file information.

On May 2, 2017, UST filed a motion to compel Debtor's attorney, Neil Hedtke ("Counsel"), to disclose compensation. On May 8, 2017, Counsel filed a disclosure of compensation. On May 11, 2017, Counsel filed his opposition to UST's motion.

DISCUSSION

UST's motion requests that the Court should order Counsel to file a statement of attorney compensation, and retain jurisdiction over any matter related to § 329.

Chapter 13

11 U.S.C. § 329(a) states:

- (a) Any attorney representing a debtor in a case under this title, or in connection with such a case, whether or not such attorney applies for compensation under this title, shall file with the court a statement of the compensation paid or agreed to be paid, if such payments or agreement was made after one year before the date of the filing of the petition, for services rendered or to be rendered in contemplation of or in connection with the case by such attorney, and the source of such compensation.

Counsel has filed the appropriate statement of attorney compensation. The Court will retain jurisdiction over any matter related to § 329.

TENTATIVE RULING

Counsel has filed the appropriate statement of attorney compensation. Subject to comments from the UST, the Court will retain jurisdiction over any matter related to § 329.

#7.00 Motion of Trustee for Order Approving Settlement with Debtor

EH__

Docket 36

Tentative Ruling:

6/7/2017

BACKGROUND

On April 26, 2010, Rochelle Lara ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On August 16, 2016, Debtor received a discharge, and three days later, the case was closed.

On February 3, 2017, the case was reopened to administer a settlement award in the amount of $174,349.78. On March 10, 2017, Debtor amended her schedules B & C to claim an exemption in the settlement awards pursuant to Cal. Code Civ. P. § 704.140. The Schedule C exemptions also removed exemptions of $7,100 in cash and $8,483 in anticipated tax refunds.

On May 1, 2017, Trustee filed a motion to approve compromise. Pursuant to the settlement, Trustee will receive $24,750 from the settlement proceeds to distribute to creditors of the estate, and will release and abandon any right to the remainder.

Chapter 7

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9019(a) states: "On motion by the trustee and after notice and a hearing, the court may approve a compromise or settlement. Notice shall be given to creditors, the United States trustee, the debtor, and indenture trustees as provided in Rule 2002 and to any other entity as the court may direct." The Court may grant approval if it determines that the compromise is "fair and equitable." See In re Berkeley Delaware Court, LLC, 834 F.3d 1036, 1039 (9th Cir. 2016). In determining whether the compromise is fair and equitable, the Court applies a four-factor test. See In re DiCostanzo, 399 Fed. Appx. 307, 308 (9th Cir. 2010). The test was originally outlined in In re A & C Props., and provides for consideration of

- (a) The probability of success in the litigation;
- (b) the difficulties, if any, to be encountered in the matter of collection;
- (c) the complexity of the litigation involved, and the expense, inconvenience and delay necessarily attending it;
- (d) the paramount interest of the creditors and a proper deference to their reasonable views in the premises.

784 F.2d 1377, 1381 (9th Cir. 1986) (quotation omitted). "The bankruptcy court has great latitude in approving compromise agreements." In re Woodson, 839 F.2d 610, 620 (9th Cir. 1988). Typically, "a compromise should be approved unless it falls below the lowest point in the range of reasonableness." In re Art & Architecture Books of the 21st Century, 2016 WL 1118742 at *25 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016) (quotation omitted).

Cal. Code Civ. P. § 704.140(b) provides that personal injury settlement awards can be exempted to the extent reasonably necessary for the support of the debtor. The primary argument raised by Trustee is that the extent to which Debtor's exemption may be reduced is highly uncertain, and that such a proceeding would involve complex facts and significant time and expenses. Given the complexity of the litigation required, and the consequent uncertainty regarding its prospects, in addition to the absence of any opposition to Trustee's motion, the Court finds that the proposed settlement is within the range of reasonableness.

#8.00 Motion to Disallow Claims #8 (Toyota Motor Credit Corporation)

EH__

Docket 97

Tentative Ruling:

6/7/17

Background:

On June 27, 2011, Roberta Clark ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On October 12, 2011, Debtor received a discharge.

On April 30, 2012, Toyota Motor Credit Corp. ("Creditor") filed an unsecured claim in the amount of $22,145.54 on the basis of a car loan. On July 18, 2012, Creditor amended its proof of claim, asserting an unsecured claim in the amount of $3,649.01.

On May 4, 2017, Trustee filed a claim objection. The Court notes that the Trustee did not use the mandatory claim objection form.

Applicable Law:

evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

Analysis:

Creditor's claim was filed on April 30, 2012. The claims bar date was December 27, 2011. Therefore, Creditor's claim was not timely filed pursuant to Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 3002(c). Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 726(a)(2), tardily filed claims are subordinated to timely filed claims.

Furthermore, the Court deems failure to oppose to be consent to the relief requested pursuant to Local Rule 9013-1(h).

Docket 46

Tentative Ruling:

6/7/2017

BACKGROUND

On August 27, 2009, William & Rebecca Graham ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On January 12, 2010, Debtors received a discharge, and seven days later the case was closed.

On July 29, 2016, the case was reopened to administer settlement proceeds.

On January 17, 2017, Trustee filed a motion to approve compromise. That motion was denied on March 17, 2017. On May 1, 2017, Trustee filed another motion to approve compromise.

Chapter 7

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9019(a) states: "On motion by the trustee and after notice and a hearing, the court may approve a compromise or settlement. Notice shall be given to creditors, the United States trustee, the debtor, and indenture trustees as provided in Rule 2002 and to any other entity as the court may direct." The Court may grant approval if it determines that the compromise is "fair and equitable." See In re Berkeley Delaware Court, LLC, 834 F.3d 1036, 1039 (9th Cir. 2016). In determining whether the compromise is fair and equitable, the Court applies a four-factor test. See In re DiCostanzo, 399 Fed. Appx. 307, 308 (9th Cir. 2010). The test was originally outlined in In re A & C Props., and provides for consideration of

- (a) The probability of success in the litigation;
- (b) the difficulties, if any, to be encountered in the matter of collection;
- (c) the complexity of the litigation involved, and the expense, inconvenience and delay necessarily attending it;
- (d) the paramount interest of the creditors and a proper deference to their reasonable views in the premises.

784 F.2d 1377, 1381 (9th Cir. 1986) (quotation omitted). "The bankruptcy court has great latitude in approving compromise agreements." In re Woodson, 839 F.2d 610, 620 (9th Cir. 1988). Typically, "a compromise should be approved unless it falls below the lowest point in the range of reasonableness." In re Art & Architecture Books of the 21st Century, 2016 WL 1118742 at *25 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016) (quotation omitted).

As occurred in the original 9019 motion, Trustee has requested that the Court approve the settlement agreement, without actually providing the Court with a copy of the settlement agreement, or attempting to file the settlement agreement under seal. Trustee has, however, clarified the details of the settlement agreement and, subsequent to the first hearing, obtained authorization to employ special counsel.

Because the settlement agreement would provide proceeds to pay allowed, unsecured claims in full, and in the absence of any opposition, the Court concludes that the A&C factors weigh in favor of approval of the settlement. Because creditors will be paid in full, the settlement is in the best interest of the estate, and there does not appear to be any plausible benefit of continuing to litigate the complex claim.

Docket 33

Tentative Ruling:

04/05/17

BACKGROUND

On August 30, 2016 ("Petition Date"), Efren Estrada ("Debtor"), filed his petition for chapter 7 relief. Charles Daff is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee"). On December 12, 2016, the Debtor received a chapter 7 discharge.

On March 14, 2017 (or approximately 7 months after the Petition Date and post-discharge), the Debtors filed their motion for conversion of their case to a case under chapter 13 ("Motion"). On March 22, 2017, the Trustee filed opposition to the Debtors' Motion ("Opposition"). On March 29, 2017, the Debtors filed their reply ("Reply").

DISCUSSION

The Trustee argues that the Debtor's Motion should be denied because it has been filed in bad faith and because the Debtor's chapter 7 discharge precludes conversion pursuant to this Court's holding in In re Santos, 561 B.R. 825, 829 (C.D. Cal. 2017).

Chapter 7

In response, the Debtor asserts that he will propose a chapter 13 plan that would pay the creditors whose debts have presumably already been discharged in this case. The only basis advanced by the Debtor to support his contention that a Debtor can propose to pay already discharged debts in a post-discharge converted chapter 13 case is that a different Judge in the Central District permitted such conversion in another case known to Counsel for the Debtor. The Debtor, however, has not indicated the legal basis for this other court's ruling and such ruling would not be binding on this Court. Separately, the Court notes that although not expressly discussed in the Memorandum Decision on Santos, the Debtors in that case had also proposed to pay creditors whose debts had already been discharged at 100% through a confirmed chapter 13 plan. However, the bare promise that such a plan will be proposed where the Debtor's chapter 7 debts have already been discharged has no binding effect.

Having failed to distinguish Santos, the Court declines to reach the issues raised by the Trustee regarding alleged bad faith of the Debtor in failing to properly identify the nature of his interest in the Property.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, and following the Santos holding, the Court finds that "cause" exists to deny the Debtor's request for conversion because the Debtor has received the benefits of a chapter 7 discharge and now seeks to avoid the concomitant burden of allowing the Trustee to administer the Debtor's assets for the benefit of creditors.

Docket 39

Tentative Ruling:

6/7/17

Background:

On August 30, 2016, Efren Estrada ("Debtor") filed a motion to vacate discharge. On Schedule A, Debtor listed certain real property located in Ontario, California (the "Property"), in which Debtor asserted an interest as joint tenant. Debtor estimated the value of the Property as $385,000. On Schedule C, Debtor claimed an exemption in the Property of $100,000 and, on Schedule D, Debtor listed Seterus as having a security interest in the Property in the amount of $207,757. Therefore, the information identified in Debtor's schedules suggested that there was $77,243 in equity in the property above Debtor's exemption.

On November 30, 2016, Trustee filed an application to employ general counsel. The application identified the potential sale of the Property as the primary justification for the employment of counsel. On December 12, 2016, Debtor received a discharge. On December 21, 2016, Trustee's application to employ general counsel was granted. Between January 17, 2017, and March 14, 2017, Debtor filed four substitutions of attorney. On February 21, 2017, the deadline for filing claims expired with no proofs of claim having been filed against the estate. Seven days later Trustee filed six

On March 14, 2017, Debtor filed a motion to convert to Chapter 13. On March 16, 2016, Debtor amended Schedules I & J, increasing monthly disposable income from $0 to $493. The increase was primarily attributable to a $900 monthly increase in family contributions, from $350 to $1250. On March 22, 2017, Trustee filed his opposition to Debtor's motion to convert. Debtor filed a reply on March 29, 2017, indicating that he was willing and able to pay a 100% plan and would consent to a conversion order containing a condition that dismissal of the case would be prohibited without a hearing and notice to the Chapter 7 Trustee.

At a hearing on Debtor's motion to convert, the Court informed Debtor that it had recently held that a post-discharge conversion to Chapter 13 was generally inappropriate. In re Santos, 561 B.R. 825 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017). Debtor indicated that he would file a motion to vacate discharge, and the Court continued the matter.

On April 26, 2017, Debtor filed a motion to vacate discharge. On May 3, 2017, Trustee filed his opposition to the motion.

Legal Analysis:

Debtor has relied upon Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 60(b). Rule 60(b), made applicable to bankruptcy proceedings by Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9024, states:

On motion and just terms, the court may relieve a party or its legal representative from a final judgment, order, or proceeding for the following reasons:

- (1) mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect;
- (2) newly discovered evidence that, with reasonable diligence, could not have been discovered in time to move for a new trial under Rule 59(b);
- (3) fraud (whether previously called intrinsic or extrinsic), misrepresentation, or misconduct by an opposing party;
- (4) the judgment is void;
- (5) the judgment has been satisfied, released, or discharged; it is based on an earlier judgment that has been reversed or vacated; or applying it prospectively is no longer equitable;
- (6) any other reason that justifies relief.

Debtor cites In re Starling for the proposition that Rule 60(b) can be utilized by a debtor to vacate a discharge. 359 B.R. 901 (Bankr. N.D. Ill. 2007). See also In re Mosby, 244 B.R. 79, 90 (Bankr. E.D. Va. 2000) ("The Court concurs with the reasoning in Cisneros and Jones and concludes that relief in the form of an order vacating a chapter 7 discharge may potentially be granted on motion of a debtor under Rule 60(b), Fed. R. Civ. P., as incorporated by Fed. R. Bankr. P. 9024."); In re Hauswirth, 242 B.R. 95, 97 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. 1999) ("Debtor's conversion to Chapter 13 before the Chapter 7 Trustee has completed the administration of the estate but after the discharge order is entered thwarts the proper operation of the Code, as it interrupts the complete administration intended by Congress. Pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9024, which incorporates FRCP 60, or, alternatively, pursuant to this court's authority under 11 U.S.C. § 105, the inconsistency of allowing a debtor two discharges in one case may be avoided by vacating a debtor's Chapter 7 discharge.").

As noted by In re Starling, there may be tension between the approach adopted by Debtor and the operation of 11 U.S.C. § 727(d), which provides the mechanism whereby a trustee, a creditor, or the United States Trustee can seek revocation of a debtor's discharge. While In re Starling concluded that the existence of § 727(d) does not foreclose the ability to vacate a discharge pursuant to Rule 60(b), other courts have held to the contrary. Compare 359 B.R. at 913 with In re Markovich, 207 B.R. 909, 913 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1997) ("We agree with the bankruptcy court that it did not have the inherent equitable power to revoke a discharge outside the framework of § 727(d). The equity power of the bankruptcy court cannot be used to override specific statutory provisions in the Code."). Therefore, this Court must determine: (1) whether it is legally permissible for a debtor to utilize Rule 60(b) to vacate a discharge; and, if it is permissible, (2) whether the facts of this case warrant granting Debtor's motion to vacate discharge.

I. Application of Rule 60(b) to Discharge

A. Markovich & Starling

As noted above, Markovich and Starling represent opposite interpretations of the applicability of Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 60(b) to discharge orders in light of § 727(d). Markovich, in concluding that § 727(d) precluded application of Rule 60(b) to discharge orders, summarily stated, after citing conflicting decisions, that: "[t]he equity powers of the bankruptcy court cannot be used to override specific statutory provisions in the Code." This statement, without greater legal analysis, is not compelling. Important in interpreting the discussion in Markovich is footnote 2 therein, which states, in part: "[t]he soundness of this argument is questionable since nothing was to be gained by moving to vacate the discharge in Debtor's chapter 7 case. The nondischargeable claim could be discharged in either a converted chapter 13 or a new chapter 13 case filed by Debtor." Contextually, the Markovich court believed that Debtor's request to vacate discharge was unnecessary,¹ an important consideration in interpreting the Court's decision to summarily affirm the bankruptcy court.

In re Starling, however, meticulously analyzes the same issues that the Court is confronted with here. First, Starling noted that the decision in Disch v. Rasmussen, 417 F.3d 769 (7th Cir. 2005), precluded the court from relying on § 105(a) to allow the debtor to vacate its discharge. 359 B.R. at 913. Nevertheless, the Disch court noted that it was legally permissible for a discharge order to be vacated through the use of Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 60:

Final bankruptcy orders can be set aside under Bankruptcy Rule 9024, see In re Met-L-Wood Corp., 861 F.2d 1012, 1018 (7th Cir. 1988), and nothing in the rule indicates that it does not apply to the revocation of discharges.

417 F.3d 769, 778 (7th Cir. 2005). Starling adopted the reasoning in Disch, stating: "based on the Seventh Circuit's decision in Rasmussen, it is within discretion here to vacate the order of discharge based on one of the reasons listed in Rule 60(b) Fed. R. Civ. P., should any be applicable." 359 B.R. at 913.

Notably, as identified in Disch, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has noted that Rule 60(b) could be used to vacate a discharge in a Chapter 13 case. In re Cisneros, 994 F.2d 1462, 1466 (9th Cir. 1993) ("Section 1328(e) therefore does not conflict with Rule 9024 as applied by the bankruptcy court. . . . The bankruptcy court and the BAP therefore properly rejected the Debtors' argument that section 1328(e) serves to limit the power conferred upon the court by Rule 60(b) through Bankruptcy Rule 9024.)² Trustee has not made an attempt to distinguish the discharge revocation provision in Chapter 13 from the discharge revocation provision in Chapter 7, but instead cites a case from the United States Bankruptcy Court, Eastern District of Pennsylvania, In re Nader, 1998 Bankr. LEXIS 1381 at *13-14 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 1998), which limited the scope of Cisneros based on a Third Circuit Court of Appeals decision, In re Fesq, 153 F.3d 113 (3rd Cir. 1998). This Court does not have the same discretion – Cisneros is binding on this court to the extent the analysis is applicable to a Chapter 7 case, and Fesq is merely persuasive. Therefore, the Court will not adopt a narrow reading of Cisneros in deference to Fesq.

B. Relationship Between Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 60(b) and 11 U.S.C. § 727(d)

The tension between the Markovich and Starling decisions rests in their conflicting

interpretations of whether the statutory interpretation doctrine of expression unius est exclusion alterius necessitates a conclusion that the operation of § 727(d) results in field pre-emption. More specifically, the reasoning illustrated by Markovich stands for the proposition that because Congress detailed procedures for the revocation of discharge in § 727(d), it is improper for a bankruptcy court to interpret the Fed. R. Civ. P. as providing additional grounds for the revocation of discharge. See generally 207 B.R. at 913.

On the other hand, Starling interprets the scope of § 727(d) more narrowly, concluding that while the statute provides the mechanism by which a trustee, creditor, or the United States Trustee may obtain a revocation of discharge, it does not govern or limit attempts by a debtor to revoke his or her own discharge. 359 B.R. at 914. Starling notes that the mechanism for revocation of discharge in the Bankruptcy Act of 1898 (11 U.S.C. § 33) explicitly included any party in interest, and that the phrase "any other party in interest" was deleted in the drafting of the Bankruptcy Code. Id. The removal of that phrase is not conclusive, however, because it could either be interpreted as implying a Congressional intent to eliminate the ability of a debtor to seek revocation of a discharge, or as simply implying that Congress no longer intended for that provision to apply to debtors.

The Court concludes that it is implausible to assert that § 727(d) is literally the only mechanism by which a discharge could be revoked. For instance, if the granting of a discharge was a clerical error, the Court could revoke the discharge pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 60(a). See, e.g., In re Ali, 219 B.R. 653, 655 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 1998). Therefore, it is not accurate that § 727(d) governs the entire universe of reversing a discharge. Instead, it is a question of scope, i.e., what mechanism(s) other than 727(d) can vacate or revoke a discharge? Without endeavoring to determine all such mechanisms, as shown below, a Rule 60(b) motion brought by a debtor appears to be one such mechanism.

The Court notes that there is a simple and logical reason that a debtor is not among the parties identified as having express standing to pursue a revocation of discharge pursuant to § 727(d): all of the enumerated grounds for such a request pertain to bad acts of the debtor. Indeed, § 727(d) appears designed for the sole purpose of punishing debtors who act in bad faith or fail to fulfill statutory duties. Clearly, implicit in the statute is an assumption that the provision will be utilized in cases where the debtor wishes to retain his discharge.

Therefore, § 727(d) is completely silent as to a situation where a debtor wishes to vacate his discharge. This situation is categorically distinct from the type of situation contemplated by § 727(d) in two important respects: (1) the debtor does not wish to retain his discharge; and (2) the debtor has not committed a bad faith act. These two distinctions create a fundamentally different situation. And while § 727(d) serves a coercive function, encouraging complying with statutory duties, Rule 60(b) serves a corrective function, ensuring that justice is equitably administered. Because § 727(d) serves a fundamentally different purpose and is applicable in fundamentally different situations, the Court concludes that, in accordance with Disch and Starling, § 727(d) does not preclude a debtor's use of Rule 60(b) to revoke a discharge.

This conclusion does not violate the canon of expressio unius est exclusio alterius because, as noted by Starling, the Supreme Court has stated:

[a]s we have held repeatedly, the canon expressio unius est exclusio alterius does not apply to every statutory listing or grouping; it has force only when the items expressed are members of an "associated group or series," justifying the inference that items not mentioned were excluded by deliberate choice, not inadvertence.

Barnhart v. Peabody Coal Co., 537 U.S. 149, 168 (2003). In the context of § 727(d), a debtor is not part of the same "associated group or series," as the expressed parties – when § 727(d) is invoked, the debtor's interests and goals are typically diametrically opposed. See generally 359 B.R. at 915 ("Moreover, one cannot reasonably argue that a debtor falls within the 'associated group or series' listed in the statute in order to apply the Expressio Unius doctrine. The interests of a Chapter 7 debtor are not identical or even remotely similar to those of a trustee, creditors or the United States trustee."). It simply bends logic to make a substantive legal inference that § 727 bars a debtor's request where a debtor is not among the parties identified as having standing to bring a § 727(d) motion, and a § 727(d) motion is only designed to punish or coerce a debtor.

Chapter 7

Certainly, strong policy considerations exist to ensure that debtors are free from any harassment or pressure to vacate a discharge. To find otherwise and to allow a debtor to vacate his discharge without close scrutiny would undermine the bedrock principle of a debtor's fresh start. As discussed below, the circumstances of this case do not present that situation.

II. Application of Rule 60(b) to Facts of Case

Debtor argues that Rule 60(b)(1), (5), and (6) justify vacation of discharge in this case. Rule 60(b)(1) provides four disjunctive grounds for relief: (1) mistake; (2) inadvertence; (3) surprise; and (4) excusable neglect. In referring to the Rule, Debtor mentions excusable neglect and surprise, although Debtor does not provide legal standards for either. In discussing Rule 60(b)(5), Debtor has identified the final provision, "or applying it [the judgment] prospectively is no longer equitable," but, again, there is no legal analysis. Factually, Debtor makes two arguments that he believes could support granting the motion in accordance with at least one of the legal provisions: (1) ineffective assistance of counsel; and (2) a belief that the post-discharge conversion was allowed. Ultimately, both Debtor and Trustee have primarily focused on briefing the issues presented in section I, supra, and the discussion of the application of Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 60(b) to the facts of this case is somewhat lacking.

A. Ineffective Assistance of Counsel

Courts disagree about whether, and in what circumstances, attorney error justifies relief under Fed. R. Civ. P. 60(b). Judge Easterbrook has held that attorney negligence is never an acceptable basis for relief under the rule. See U.S. v. 7108 West Grand Ave., Chicago, Ill., 15 F.3d 632, 633-35 (7th Cir. 1994) ("Yet why should the label 'gross' make a difference to the underlying principle: that the errors and misconduct of an agent rebound to the detriment of the principal rather than of the adversary in litigation?"). The Ninth Circuit has disagreed, holding that in cases of "gross negligence" relief is warranted under Fed. R. Civ. P. 60(b)(6). Cnty Dental Servs. V. Tani, 282 F.3d 1164 (9th Cir. 2002) ("While the above principles provide the general rule regarding the client-attorney relationship, several circuits have distinguished a client's accountability for his counsel's neglectful or negligent acts – too often a normal part of representation – and his responsibility for the more unusual circumstance of his attorney's extreme negligence or egregious conduct."). And, on the other hand, the Ninth Circuit has found ordinary carelessness to be grounds for relief when there exists an extraordinary or unusual extrinsic cause.³ See, e.g., Medina v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., 2016 WL 2944295 at *2 (C.D. Cal. 2016) (collecting cases). There is, however, much space on the spectrum between gross negligence (when an attorney is no longer acting on behalf of a client) and ordinary "carelessness" in which relief under 60(b) will be granted.

Furthermore, there is a tendency to distinguish between a deliberative mistake with unintended consequences and an inadvertent attorney error. Parks v. Armour Pharms., 1995 WL 13232 at *1 (N.D. Cal. 1995) ("This case is distinguishable from that in Nemaizer v. Baker, 793 F.2d 58 (2nd Cir. 1986), wherein the dismissal with prejudice was based upon a stipulation with defense counsel and an apparent misunderstanding by plaintiff of the effect of the stipulation. Here, plaintiffs' counsel and his secretary unilaterally and inadvertently filed a dismissal containing unintended 'with prejudice' language. They did not fail to appreciate the effect of the dismissal with prejudice; they failed to realize what they inadvertently filed.").

The distinction noted in Parks is illustrative of the problem here. As Parks notes, a party should not be allowed to modify past decisions that were deliberately chosen solely because the party did not comprehend the consequences of the decision. Alternatively, a party should not be forced to maintain a position it inadvertently adopted if there is little risk of significant prejudice to the other party. Here, it cannot be seriously contended that the filing of a Chapter 7 petition was an inadvertent action, as contrasted with an intentional act, the consequences of which Debtor did not entirely comprehend. Additionally, there is no indication that the alleged attorney negligence reached the level of gross negligence which would sever the agent-principal relationship. Finally, there is no indication that there were any acts that resemble the type of ordinary "carelessness" that courts have determined can be the basis for relief under Rule 60(b).

Chapter 7

B. Change in Law

While not adequately briefed, Debtor also seems to suggest that the Court's Santos decision constitutes an intervening change in law. [Dkt. 39, p. 6: "The intervening case of In re Santos, which expressly limited if not eliminated the Debtor's right to convert after discharge, is a further basis to rule that it is no longer equitable that the discharge order should have prospective effect, because it extremely limited the Debtor's ability to convert to Chapter 13 after receipt of a Chapter 7 discharge."]. Santos did not constitute a change in law, but, rather, the case applied the Supreme Court's Marrama decision to a motion to convert post-discharge. A trial court simply does not change law.

C. Miscellaneous: 60(b)(5) & 60(b)(6)

The Court interprets Debtor's invocation of Rule 60(b)(5) and (6) as not being solely constrained to the factual arguments made above.

The final prong of Rule 60(b)(5), a general equitable prong, is not applicable in the present situation because the rule applies to judgments that have prospective application, typically indicated by the potential for continuing supervision. See, e.g., Sys. Fed'n No. 91 v. Wright, 364 U.S. 642, 647-48 (1961) ("A balance must thus be struck between the policies of res judicata and the right of the court to apply modified measures to changed circumstances."); Normva v. Elkin, 849 F.Supp.2d 418, 423-24 (D. Del. 2012(collecting cases on prospective application). "The standard used in determining whether a judgment has prospective application is whether it is "executory" or involves the supervision of changing conduct or conditions." Maraziti v. Thorpe, 52 F.3d 252, 254 (9th Cir. 1995) (quotation omitted). A discharge is not a prospective judgment.

Finally, Debtor cites Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 60(b)(6), the equitable, catchall provision. "That clause gives the [] court power to vacate judgments 'whenever such action is appropriate to accomplish justice." U.S. v. Sparks, 685 F.2d 1128, 1130 (9th Cir. 1982) (quoting Klapprott v. U.S., 335 U.S. 601, 615 (1949)). "In order to obtain such relief from a judgment, however, 'extraordinary circumstances' must exist." Id. (quoting Ackerman v. U.S., 340 U.S. 193, 199 (1950)). Rule 60(b)(6) is, however, potentially applicable to the case here. See, e.g., Espinosa v. United Student Aid Fund, Inc., 553 F.3d 1193, 1199 (9th Cir. 2008) ("After a judgment (including a discharge) is finalized, and the time for appeal has run, the judgment can only be reconsidered in the limited circumstances provided by Rule 60(b).") (emphasis added).

As a preliminary matter, as to the Rule 60(b)(6) "exceptional" or "extraordinary circumstance" standard, Rule 60(b)(6) must be interpreted in its applicable context. The court in Santos stated that: "[T]here is no absolute prohibition on converting a case from Chapter 7 to Chapter 13 post-discharge, but pre-closing; rather there is a § 1307(c) 'for cause' review." 561 B.R. 825, 830 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017). The court noted its belief that a post-discharge conversion appeared to be presumptively an abuse of process. See generally id. at 830-31. Nevertheless, as discussed in Santos, certain factual situations could be considered sufficient to rebut the presumption that conversion is an abuse of process. Vacating the discharge, a procedure the debtors did not attempt in Santos, along with agreeing to procedures that eliminate or substantially reduce the potential prejudice to any other parties, indicate the absence of abuse of process.

In order to secure conversion in this case, however, Debtor must meet two standards. First, Debtors must satisfy the standard of Rule 60(b)(6) to vacate the discharge, then Debtors must overcome the presumption that conversion is an abuse of process. If the former standard is higher than the latter, the result is illogical: there would be a certain subset of cases in which the latter standard would be satisfied, but the Rule 60(b)(6) standard would not be satisfied. For instance, in this situation, assuming, arguendo, that Debtor failed to show the necessary extraordinary circumstances, it may be reasonable to conclude that the facts of the case and the conduct of Debtor overcome the presumption that post-discharge conversion would be an abuse of process, and the result would be that Debtor would be allowed to convert, and retain his discharge. That result is illogical and untenable.

Therefore, utilizing an interpretation of Rule 60(b)(6)'s "any other reason that justifies relief" that imposes a standard higher than that required to rebut the presumption that conversion is an abuse of process would frustrate the reasoning of Marrama as applied to these circumstances, and as thoroughly discussed in Santos. See generally id. at 829-31. Cognizant of that fact, the Court concludes that the Supreme Court's Marrama decision requires the Court to consider the interests of justice when considering a Rule 60(b)(6) motion to revoke a discharge, and that the "extraordinary circumstance" test must be interpreted in light of the reasoning in Marrama.

In the case at hand, there are three primary sets of facts that, in combination, the Court believes rise to the level of "extraordinary circumstances" and contribute to finding that vacating the discharge is necessary to further justice: (1) evidence that Debtor's alleges that his original counsel gave him inaccurate and incomplete legal advice regarding his choices in bankruptcy and the effect bankruptcy may have on his home; (2) no creditors have participated in this case, and the only claims filed were filed by the Trustee (the claims were also filed after the entry of discharge); and (3) Debtor has proposed a Chapter 13 plan which will pay creditors 100%.

This represents the rare situation in which the debtor is the party that seeks to revoke the discharge and thereafter pay all creditors in full, including Trustee for his professional fees. Thus, the revocation of the discharge will not meaningfully impair the rights of any other parties, but, instead would simply fulfill a prerequisite to Debtor's conversion to Chapter 13, thereby facilitating payment in full to creditors. Only the conversion of the case, not the vacation of discharge, may be said to modify the rights of any party in interest. And even then, any impairment would merely be that the creditors for whom Trustee filed a proof of claim will be paid over a longer period of time.

Based on the foregoing, the Court is left with the clear impression that revocation of the discharge is required to prevent manifest injustice pursuant to Rule 60(b)(6). Furthermore, the efforts undertaken by Debtor to remedy a situation apparently produced by ineffective legal counsel, namely Debtor's efforts to vacate his Chapter 7 discharge and propose a plan that pays 100 percent to creditors and minimizes, to the extent possible, any prejudice to other parties, establishes that conversion, after the discharge is vacated, would not be an abuse of process in this situation.

#14.00 Motion/Objection to Disallow Claim of Rosa Bryant (Claim No 2)

EH__

Docket 34

Tentative Ruling:

6/7/17

Background:

On September 16, 2016, YBF Tax, Inc. filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On January 24, 2017, Rosa Bryant ("Creditor") filed an unsecured claim in the amount of $2,500,000 on the basis of the pending lawsuit. On May 12, 2017, Debtor filed a claim objection.

The Court notes that Debtor did not use the mandatory claim objection form or the mandatory proof of service form. Additionally, Debtor's claim objection is not supported by any admissible evidence.

Applicable Law:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

Analysis:

Debtor objects to Creditor's claim on the basis that it "has not been litigated to a decision." That is not a valid basis to file a claim objection. 11 U.S.C. § 101(5)(A) states:

(5) The term "claim" means –

(A) right to payment, whether or not such right is reduced to judgment, liquidated, unliquidated, fixed, contingent, matured, unmatured,

#16.00 Motion for extension of time to file a complaint objecting to discharge

EH__

Docket 22

Tentative Ruling:

6/7/2017

BACKGROUND

On January 23, 2017, Robert & Brasenia Rubalcaba filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. The meeting of creditors was originally scheduled for March 2, 2017, and has been continued at least three times.

On May 1, 2017, Trustee filed a motion for an extension of time to file a complaint objecting to discharge.

DISCUSSION

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 4004(a) states:

- (1) In a chapter 7 case, a complaint, or a motion under § 727(a)(8) or (9) of the Code, objecting to the debtor's discharge shall be filed no later than 60 days after the first date set for the meeting of creditors under § 341(a). In a chapter 11 case, the complaint shall be filed no later than the first date set for the hearing on confirmation. In a chapter 13 case, a motion objecting to the debtor's discharge under § 1328(f) shall be filed no later than 60 days after the first date set for the meeting of creditors under § 341(a). At least 28 days' notice of the time so fixed shall be given to the United States trustee and all creditors as provided in Rule 2002(f) and (k) and to the trustee and the trustee's attorney.

And Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 4004(b) states:

- (1) On motion of any party in interest, after notice and hearing, the court may for cause extend the time to object to discharge. Except as provided in subdivision (b)(2), the motion shall be filed before the time has expired.
- (2) A motion to extent the time to object to discharge may be filed after the time for objection has expired and before discharge is granted if (A) the objection is based on facts that, if learned after the discharge, would provide a basis for revocation under § 727(d) of the Code, and (B) the movant did not have knowledge of those facts in time to permit an objection. The motion shall be filed promptly after the movant discovers the facts on which the objection is based.

Here, Debtor's delay in providing the requested information constitutes sufficient cause to extend the deadline. See Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 4004.03[2] (16th ed. 2013) ("A debtor's delays in responding to discovery may be sufficient cause. Obviously, a delay in the meeting of creditors to a date close to or after the deadline may constitute such cause.") (citing In re McCormack, 244 B.R. 203 (Bankr. D. Conn. 2000)).

Moreover, Debtor's failure to oppose may be deemed consent to the relief requested pursuant to Local Rule 9013-1(h).

3/8/17

BACKGROUND

On October 5, 2016, Jiangmin Li ("Defendant") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition.

On January 9, 2017, Dongxia Qiu ("Plaintiff") filed an adversary complaint against Defendant, seeking a non-dischargeability finding. On February 8, 2017, Defendant filed a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim. On February 22, 2017, Plaintiff filed her opposition. On March 3, 2017, Defendant filed a late reply.

The adversary complaint arises from state court litigation between the two parties. Plaintiff's state court complaint included ten causes of action: (1) intentional misrepresentation; (2) negligent misrepresentation; (3) rescission – fraud; (4) rescission – mistake; (5) conversion; (6) breach of fiduciary duty; (7) imposition of constructive trust; (8) accounting; (9) unjust enrichment; and (10) breach of written contract. The Court ruled in favor of Plaintiff on her fourth (rescission – mistake) and

The Court deemed the second, fifth, seventh, eighth, ninth, and ten causes of action to have been forfeited due to Plaintiff's failure to adequately brief the issues.

DISCUSSION

Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 12(b)(6) states:

(b) Every defense to a claim for relief in any pleading must be asserted in the responsive pleading if one is required. But a party may assert the following defenses by motion:

(6) failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted

Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 12(d) states:

If, on a motion under Rule 12(b)(6) or 12(c), matters outside the pleadings are presented to and not excluded by the court, the motion must be treated as one for summary judgment under Rule 56. All parties must be given a reasonable opportunity to present all the material that is pertinent to the motion.

Here, Defendant has submitted a request for judicial notice, so the Court must initially determine whether to grant or deny the request. Pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 12(b)(6), granting a request for judicial notice may cause the Court to convert the motion to a motion for summary judgment. See, e.g., Jacobson v. AEG Capital Corp., 50 F.3d 1493, 1496 (9th Cir. 1995) ("In considering AEG's motion to dismiss, the district court took judicial notice of the extensive records and transcripts from the prior bankruptcy proceedings. We therefore review the district court's dismissal as an order granting summary judgment."). The Court may "consider unattached evidence on which the complaint 'necessarily relies' if: (1) the complaint refers to the document; (2) the document is central to the plaintiff's claim; and (3) no party questions the authenticity of the document," without converting the motion to a motion for summary judgment. See U.S. v. Corinthian Colls., 655 F.3d 984, 999 (9th Cir. 2011).

Here, the unattached evidence contained in Defendant's request for judicial notice satisfies the above test. Plaintiff necessarily relied on the documents. In fact, the Plaintiff appears to have erroneously omitted the documents when filing the complaint, since the complaint purports to attach the three documents and references the documents throughout. Therefore, the Court will grant the request for judicial notice, and evaluate the motion as a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim.

The standard for a Rule 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss is the following:

While a complaint attacked by a Rule 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss does not need detailed factual allegations, a plaintiff's obligation to provide the 'grounds' of his 'entitlement to relief' requires more than labels and conclusions, and a formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action will not do. Factual allegations must be enough to raise a right to relief above the speculative level, on the assumption that all the allegations in the complaint are true. . . . The need at the pleading stage for allegations plausibly suggesting agreement reflects the threshold requirement of Rule 8(a)(2) that the "plain statement" possesses enough heft to "show that the pleader is entitled to relief.

Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555-57 (2007) (quotations and parentheses omitted).

Here, Plaintiff states two causes of action, both relating to non-dischargeability, under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(4) and (6). Defendant alleges that both causes of action are barred by collateral estoppel.¹ The state court statement of decision found denied Plaintiff's claims for intentional fraud and for rescission based on fraud. That decision granted Plaintiff's claims for unilateral mistake of fact and breach of fiduciary duty. While Plaintiff's complaint contained other causes of action, the state court deemed those causes of action to be forfeited by Plaintiff's failure to brief the issues.

"Under collateral estoppel, once a court has decided an issue of fact or law necessary to its judgment, that decision may preclude relitigation of the issue in a suit on a different cause of action involving a party to the first case." Allen v. McCurry, 449 U.S. 90, 94 (1980). Collateral estoppel applies in dischargeability proceedings. See Grogan v. Garner, 498 U.S. 279, 284 n.11 (1991). And it is appropriate to consider a collateral estoppel argument at the motion to dismiss stage. See, e.g., Conopco, Inc. v. Roll Int't, 231 F.3d 82, 86 (2nd Cir. 2000).

In California, "collateral estoppel bars relitigation when (1) the issue decided in the prior action is identical to the issue presented in the second action; (2) there was a final judgment on the merits; and (3) the party against whom estoppel is asserted was a party . . . to the prior adjudication." Garrett v. City & Cnty. of San Francisco, 818 F.2d 1515, 1520 (9th Cir. 1987).

11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(4) states:

- (a) A discharge under section 727, 1141, 1228(a), 1228(b), or 1328(b) of this title does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt –
 - (4) for fraud or defalcation while acting in a fiduciary capacity, embezzlement, or larceny

Plaintiff's complaint raises three disjunctive claims: (1) defalcation in a fiduciary capacity, (2) embezzlement, and (3) larceny. "To prevail in a § 523(a)(4) action, the creditor must establish that (1) a fiduciary relationship existed and (2) a defalcation occurred." Erde v. Moriarty, 2013 WL 12132069 at *6 (C.D. Cal. 2013). Defalcation under § 523(a)(4) was recently defined broadly and, somewhat vaguely, by the Supreme Court:

Chapter 7

Thus, where the conduct at issue does not involve bad faith, moral turpitude, or other immoral conduct, the term requires an intentional wrong. We include as intentional not only conduct that the fiduciary knows is improper but also reckless conduct of the kind set forth in the Model Penal Code. Where actual knowledge of wrongdoing is lacking, we consider conduct as equivalent if the fiduciary "consciously disregards" "a substantial and unjustifiable risk" that his conduct will turn out to violate a fiduciary duty. That risk "must be of such a nature and degree that, considering the nature and purpose of the actor's conduct and the circumstances known to him, its disregard involves a gross deviation from the standard of conduct that a law-abiding person would observe in the actor's situation.

Bullock v. BankChampaign, N.A., 133 S. Ct. 1754, 1759-1760 (2013).

Embezzlement is the use of funds lawfully entrusted for an unauthorized purpose. In re Littleton, 942 F.2d 551, 555 (9th Cir. 1991). Larceny is the "felonious taking of another's personal property with intent to convert it or deprive the owner of the same." In re Ormsby, 591 F.3d 1199, 1205 (9th Cir. 2010). "Larceny is distinguished from embezzlement in that the original taking of the property was unlawful." In re Montes, 177 B.R. 325, 331 (Bankr C.D. Cal. 1994).

In ruling against Plaintiff's causes of action for fraud and rescission based on fraud, the state court found that, regarding the certain misrepresentations that were the basis of Plaintiff's claim, "Plaintiff did not rely on those misrepresentations in entering into the April agreement." In both cases, the state court found that Plaintiff failed to demonstrate that it relied on the alleged misrepresentations of Defendant in entering into the contract. This finding of the state court does not constitute a finding that Defendant did not commit defalcation. As the Supreme Court quotation above highlights, the issues are substantially different.

Chapter 7

The issues are also substantially different with regard to Plaintiff's § 523(a)(6) claim. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6) states:

- (a) A discharge under section 727, 1141, 1228(a), 1228(b), or 1328(b) of this title does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt –
- (6) for willful and malicious injury by the debtor to another entity or to the property of another entity

Again, the state court's finding that Plaintiff failed to demonstrate reliance on alleged misrepresentations of Defendant when entering into the contract at issue does not constitute a finding that Defendant did not commit a willful and malicious injury. The state court's findings underlining its ruling in Plaintiff's favor for rescission based on unilateral mistake of fact and breach of fiduciary duty could plausibly be considered to state a claim pursuant to § 523(a)(4) and (6).

BACKGROUND

On September 26, 2016, Carlos & Maribelle Garrido ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On December 30, 2016, Maria Kercado ("Plaintiff") filed a non-dischargeability complaint against Carlos Garrido ("Defendant").

The clerk entered default against Defendant on February 10, 2017. Plaintiff filed a motion for default judgment on April 15, 2017.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

On May 13, 2013, Plaintiff and Defendant entered into a contract for a $50,000 loan. Defendant was to make $1,000 monthly payments to Plaintiff and Plaintiff was to take a security interest in a 1990 Arriva Boat. Defendant overestimated the value of the boat to Plaintiff, and Plaintiff states that the boat was in complete disrepair. In December 2013, Defendant stated that, every fourth month he would make a payment of $2,000 instead of the contractual $1,000. On February 2014, Defendant ceased making payments.

Chapter 7

On April 9, 2014, Plaintiff filed a state court lawsuit against Defendant for breach of contract, negligent misrepresentation, and conversion. On October 27, 2015, Plaintiff obtained a judgment against Defendant in the amount of $37,000.

DISCUSSION

A. Entry of Default

Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 55 states that "[w]hen a party against whom a judgment for affirmative relief is sought has failed to plead or otherwise defend as provided by these rules and that fact is made to appear by affidavit or otherwise, the clerk shall enter the party's default." Fed. R. Civ. P. 55(a). Local Rule 7055-1 provides further requirements regarding a motion for entry of default judgment, and those requirements have been substantially satisfied here.

B. Default Judgment

Factors which may be considered by courts in exercising discretion as to the entry of a default judgment include: (1) the possibility of prejudice to the plaintiff; (2) the merits of plaintiff's substantive claim; (3) the sufficiency of the complaint; (4) the sum of money at stake in the action; (5) the possibility of a dispute considering material facts; (6) whether the default was due to excusable neglect; and (7) the strong policy underlying the FRCP favoring decision on the merits. See NewGen, LLC v. Safe Cig, LLC, 840 F.3d 606, 616 (9th Cir. 2016) (quoting Eitel v. McCool, 782 F.2d 1470, 1471-72 (9th Cir. 1986)).

1. Proper Service of Summons and Complaint

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 7004(b)(1) states, in part:

[S]ervice may be made within the United States by first class mail postage prepaid as follows:

- (1) Upon an individual other than an infant or incompetent, by mailing a copy of the summons and complaint to the individual's dwelling house or usual place of abode or to the place where the individual regularly conducts a business or profession.

Here, Plaintiff served Debtors and their counsel at the addresses of record.

2. Merits of Plaintiff's claim

Upon default, the factual allegations of the complaint, except those relating to the amount of damages, will be taken as true. TeleVideo Systems, Inc. v. Heidenthal, 826 F.2d 915, 917 (9th Cir. 1987); see also Almog v. Golden Summit Investors Group, Ltd., 2012 WL 12867972 at *4 (C.D. Cal. 2012) ("When reviewing a motion for default judgment, the Court must accept the well-pleaded allegations of the complaint relating to liability as true.").

Here, the complaint includes three causes of action: § 523(a)(6) and § 523(a)(2)(A) twice.

Chapter 7

Regarding § 523(a)(2)(A), the elements are: (1) the debtor made the representations; (2) that at the time he knew they were false; (3) that he made them with the intention and purpose of deceiving the creditor; (4) that the creditor relied on such representation; and (5) that the creditor sustained the alleged loss and damage as the proximate result of the representations having been made. See, e.g., In re Britton, 950 F.2d 602, 604 (9th Cir. 1991). Plaintiff has adequately plead facts to satisfy the elements of § 523(a)(2)(A).

Regarding § 523(a)(6) the elements are: "(1) willful conduct, (2) malice, and (3) causation." See, e.g., In re Apte, 180 B.R. 223, 230 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1995). Plaintiff has adequately plead facts to satisfy the elements of § 523(a)(6)

3. Amount of Damages

Local Rule 7055-1(b)(1)(2) requires a declaration establishing the amount of damages when the amount claimed is unliquidated. Here, the amount claimed is liquidated. Therefore, the amount of damages has been adequately established.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court will GRANT the motion, and adjudicate that the debt represented by the state court judgment is nondischargeable pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A) and (a)(6).

I. PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

On April 31, 2016, Trustee filed a complaint against Nabeel Naiem Slaieh and Joanne Fraleigh (collectively, "Defendants") (individually, "Slaieh" and "Fraleigh") for avoidance and recovery of unauthorized post-petition transfer. After early disagreements regarding the sufficiency of service, the parties stipulated that Fraleigh was properly served and the Court ordered Defendants' response due December 16, 2016.

On December 16, 2016, Defendants filed an answer and "cross-claims"¹ (hereinafter, "counter-claims", and "counter-complaint") against Trustee and his professionals ("Counter-Defendants") for: (1) breach of contract; (2) fraud & deceit; (3) extortion; (4) conversion; (5) defamation and slander; (6) negligence; (7) breach of fiduciary duties; (8) violation of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200; (9) intentional infliction of emotional distress; and (10) wrongful eviction. On January 17, 2017, Counter-Defendants filed a motion to dismiss the counter-claims pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 12(b)(6). On January 18, 2017, Fraleigh filed a voluntary dismissal of her counter-complaint. On January 29, 2017, Slaieh filed his opposition to Counter-Defendants' motion to dismiss. On February 8, 2017, Counter-Defendants filed their reply and evidentiary objections. On March 6, 2017, the Court entered an order dismissing the counter-complaint with prejudice, with the exception of the fifth cause of action (defamation and slander).

On March 3, 2017, Slaieh filed a renewed counter claim ("Amended Counterclaim") against Trustee and his professionals for: (1) slander; (2) defamation; and (3) intentional infliction of emotion distress. On March 24, 2017, Trustee filed a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim. On May 4, 2017, Slaieh filed his opposition to the motion, and on May 30, 2017, Trustee filed a reply.

II. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

The fact patter that forms the basis of Slaieh's motion involves the enforcement of this Court's sale order regarding certain real property located in Temecula (the "Real Property"). That order, entered May 26, 2016, stated, in part:

13. Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 542(a) and 704(a)(1), Debtor, his non-debtor spouse, and all occupants of the Property are ordered to vacate the Property no later than June 7, 2016, at 9:00 a.m., and they shall surrender possession of the Property to Trustee's designated custodian at that time, and in turn, Trustee shall immediately deliver possession to Buyer;

14. If Debtor, his non-debtor spouse, or any other occupants of the Property fails to vacate the Property by 9:00 a.m. on June 7, 2016, then the Trustee may direct the United States Marshals Service to: (a) forcibly evict and lockout all occupants of the Property; and (b) surrender possession of the Property to the Trustee's designated custodian;

15. The Attorneys for the Chapter 7 Trustee may prepare a Write of Assistance consistent with this Order for the Clerk of the Court to issue;

16. If Debtor, his non-debtor spouse, or any other occupant of the Property fail to vacate the Property by 9:00 a.m. on June 7, 2016, then the Trustee is authorized to expend $1,500.00 to (a) rent a U-Haul (or similar) moving truck ("Moving Vehicle") and (b) hire an agent (without the need of filing an employment or fee application) to facilitate the removal of any personal property items left at the Property ("Personal Items");

17. On the same day that the Personal Items are removed from the Property, the Trustee may arrange with Debtor's counsel, for a three (3) hour time period whereby Debtor's non-debtor spouse may meet the Trustee's agent and remove whatever Personal Items they desire from the Moving Vehicle ("Removal Period");

18. Regardless of the reason as to why the Personal Items were not removed, at the end of the Removal Period, the Trustee may discard all Personal Items remaining in the Moving Vehicle at any time without further order of this Court;

19. When the procedure for removing Personal Items is completed, the Trustee, his agents, and Buyer will have been deemed to have satisfied any obligations they may have under California law (or other applicable law) relating to the removal and/or abandonment of Debtor's personal items;

Slaieh unsuccessfully appealed the sale order to United States District Court, Central District of California. On July 13, 2016, the United States Marshal Service posted a notice to vacate the Real Property, instructing the occupants to vacate by July 20, 2016. The day before eviction was to occur, Fralieggh filed a quiet title complaint in state court. Fralieggh also filed an ex parte application for a temporary restraining order. The basis for Fralieggh's complaint and application was that Slaiegh transferred the Real Property to Fralieggh on or around May 7, 2016. On July 20, 2016, the state court entered a stay of eviction until July 28, 2016. On July 21, 2016, Trustee filed an emergency motion with this Court, requesting that the state court stay be dissolved and that the Court find the state court was without jurisdiction to enter the stay. That motion was granted the same day.

Chapter 7

Later in July 2016, the United States Marshal Service evicted Slaieh. At the time of the eviction certain windows and doors were missing from the Real Property. Slaieh's Amended Counterclaim states that Trustee's attorney accused Slaieh of stealing the windows and doors from the home, and that certain individuals, namely Fraleigh and some "employees," were there at the time the statement was made.

III. DISCUSSION

Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 12(b)(6), incorporated by Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 7012(b), states:

(b) Every defense to a claim for relief in any pleading must be asserted in the responsive pleading if one is required. But a party may assert the following defenses by motion:

(6) failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.

Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009) (quoting Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544 (2007)), stated the following:

To survive a motion to dismiss, a complaint must contain sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to "state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face." A claim has facial plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged. The plausibility standard is not akin to a "probability requirement," but it asks for more than a sheer possibility, that a defendant has acted unlawfully. Where a complaint pleads facts that are "merely consistent with" a defendant's liability, it "stops short of the line between possibility and plausibility of "entitlement to relief."

Chapter 7

A. Evidentiary Objections

Slaieh has raised numerous evidentiary objections that will be disposed of summarily by the Court. All of Slaieh's "evidentiary objections" are overruled by the Court on the basis that they are vague. Specifically, the Court cannot ascertain what Slaieh is objecting to, since Slaieh appears to have invented an exhibit numbering system that does not resemble the actual numbering of the exhibits. Furthermore, all Slaieh's evidentiary objections merely state that he objects on relevancy grounds without any discussion or description of why the matter is irrelevant.

B. Slaieh's Causes of Actions

Counts 1 & 2: Slander & Defamation

Slaieh's first cause of action is slander. Slander is defined in California as:

a false and unprivileged publication, orally uttered, and also communications by radio or any mechanical or other means which:

1. Charges any person with crime, or with having been indicted, convicted, or punished for crime;
2. Imputes in him the present existence of an infectious, contagious, or loathsome disease;
3. Tends directly to injure him in respect to his office, profession, trade or business, either by imputing to him general disqualification in those respects which the office or other occupation peculiarly requires, or by imputing something with reference to his office, profession, trade, or business that has a natural tendency to lessen its profits;

4. Imputes to him impotence or a want of chastity; or
5. Which, by natural consequence, causes actual damage.

Cal. Civ. Code § 46 (1945). "To prevail in a defamation claim under California law, a plaintiff must allege '(a) a publication that is (b) false, (c) defamatory, and (d) unprivileged, and that (e) has a natural tendency to injure or that causes special damage.'" Bowen v. M. Caratan, Inc., 142 F. Supp. 3d 1007, 1033 (E.D. Cal. 2015) (quoting Taus v. Loftus, 40 Cal. 4th 683, 720 (Cal. 2007)). "Publication means communication to a third person who understands the defamatory meaning of the statement and its application to the person to whom reference is made." Arikat v. JP Morgan Chase, 430 F. Supp. 2d 1013, 1020 (N.D. Cal. 2006).

Here, Slaieh's first cause of action has sufficiently alleged the elements of slander/defamation to survive a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim. Specifically, Slaieh has described the alleged publication (the statement alleging theft), has alleged that the statement was false, the statement is presumptively defamatory, the statement is not clearly privilege, and the statement described has a natural tendency to injury. Slaieh's second cause of action appears to allege that Counter-Defendants have slandered Fraleigh. Fraleigh, however, is not a party to the Amended Counter-complaint and Slaieh cannot assert her rights in the counter-complaint. Therefore, Slaieh lacks standing to bring the second cause of action.

Counts 3: Intentional Infliction of Emotional Distress:

Slaieh's third of action is intentional infliction of emotional distress. This cause of action was dismissed with prejudice on March 6, 2017. Slaieh states in his opposition that:

Chapter 7

In addition to amending the causes of action for defamation and slander per se causes of action, Debtor kept the Intentional Inflictions of Emotional Distress since there was a confusion as to whether this cause of action was dismissed when the court initially held to grant the motion to dismiss in its entirety or whether that cause of action was dismissed because some other causes of action, but not the defamation and slander per se causes of action were dismissed.

The intentional infliction of emotional distress cause of action was dismissed with prejudice, and the order entered on March 6, 2017, is unambiguous in that respect. Slaieh also states: "The court's order as to the IIED claim is silent as to which claim that was sustained this IIED claim referred to, Debtor is entitled under California Law to seek IIED on each of the slander and defamation claims." This statement is confusing to the point of being incomprehensible, although it appears he may believe that intentional infliction of emotional distress is a component of damages, instead of a cause of action. Regardless, as noted above, Slaieh's third cause of action was previously dismissed with prejudice.

C. Trustee's Qualified Immunity

"Bankruptcy trustees are entitled to broad immunity from suit when acting within the scope of their authority and pursuant to court order." In re Harris, 590 F.3d 730, 742 (9th Cir. 2009) (quoting Bennett v. Williams, 892 F.2d 822, 823 (9th Cir. 1989)). "Additionally, 'court appointed officers who represent the estate are the functional equivalent of a trustee.'" Id. (quoting In re Crown Vantage, Inc., 4 F.3d 963, 973 (9th Cir. 2005)).

"For derived quasi-judicial immunity to apply, the defendants must satisfy the following four elements: (1) their acts were within the scope of their authority; (2) the debtor had notice of their proposed acts; (3) they candidly disclosed their proposed acts to the bankruptcy court; and (4) the bankruptcy court approved their acts." Id.

Furthermore, to support a claim against the Trustee, the Trustee's alleged actions must typically be willful and deliberate – negligence will not suffice. See, e.g., In re Hunter, 553 B.R. 866, 873 (Bankr. D.N.M. 2016) (quoting Sherr v. Winkler, 552 F.2d 1367, 1375 (10th Cir. 1977)).

Regarding Counter-Defendants' actions related to the sale of the Real Property, and the eviction of Slaieh, Trustee is entitled to quasi-immunity. The sale of the Real Property and the eviction are within the scope of a trustee's duties, were disclosed to the Court, and were subsequently approved by the Court. And Slaieh clearly had notice of the proposed acts, given that he vigorously contested their execution. Furthermore, a necessary component of Counter-Defendants' duty in executing the eviction in preparation of the sale is to investigate the sudden disappearance of necessary fixtures from the Real Property. See, e.g., In re Cedar Funding, Inc., 419 B.R. 807, 822 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2009) (immunity for "trustee's communications [that] occurred while he was performing his official statutory duties"). While, clearly, the specific alleged statements at issue here were not authorized by the Court, "quasi-judicial immunity attaches to [] those functions essential to the authoritative adjudication of private rights to the bankruptcy estate." In re Castillo, 297 F.3d 940, 951 (9th Cir. 2002). Here, the allegedly defamatory statements were made in direct response to the disappearance of estate property, the sale of which had been authorized pursuant to Court order, and the disappearance of which was the sole responsibility of the Trustee to investigate.

Policy also has a role in this analysis. Taking judicial notice of the record of this bankruptcy case, prior to the eviction there was, among other things, evidence of concern that Slaieh may destroy or damage the Real Property. [See, e.g., May 4th hearing transcript in case 13-bk-30133-MH and related declarations, including Dkt. 322, ex. 1]. The application of the doctrine of quasi-judicial immunity to bankruptcy trustees and their professionals is based on a policy of protecting the bankruptcy process. Given the circumstances evidenced by the record of this case, including the extensive lengths to which Slaieh went to prevent the Trustee from selling the Real Property and actions to frustrate the Trustee's efforts, and the stated concern by Trustee's broker of possible damage to the Real Property by Slaieh approximately two months prior to the eviction date, the Court concludes that the alleged defamatory statements are protected as within the reasonable exercise of Trustee's efforts to investigate and recover missing estate property, and, therefore are covered by Counter-Defendants' quasi-judicial immunity.

Chapter 7

Therefore, the Court holds that Counter-Defendants are entitled to quasi-judicial immunity with regard to the alleged slanderous statements, and that, therefore, Counter-Defendants are entitled to have the Amended Counterclaim dismissed.

D. Failure to Name Parties

As asserted by Counter-Defendants, the Amended Counterclaim does not allege any action by Counter Defendants Larry D. Simons and David A. Wood, nor has Plaintiff alleged with any specificity how liability attaches to those Counter Defendants. On that basis, the Amended Counterclaim shall be dismissed as to those Counter Defendants.

E. Leave to Amend

Trustee has requested that the complaint be dismissed without leave to amend. Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 15(a)(2), incorporated by Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 7015, provides that: "In all other cases, a party may amend its pleading only with the opposing party's written consent or the court's leave. The court should freely give leave when justice so requires." The Supreme Court has previously provided a non-exhaustive list of reasons why leave to amend should be denied. Forman v. Davis, 371 U.S. 178, 182 (1962) ("undue delay, bad faith or dilatory motive on the part of the movant, repeated failure to cure deficiencies by amendments previously allowed, undue prejudice to the opposing party by virtue of allowance of the amendment, futility of amendment, etc."); see also United Union of Roofers, Waterproofers, & Allied Trades No. 40 v. Ins. Corp. of Am., 919 F.2d 1398, 1402 (9th Cir. 1990) (denial when amendment would be "clearly frivolous, unduly prejudicial, cause undue delay or a finding of bad faith is made").

Chapter 7

The Court notes, however, that claims arising from the factual situation described by Slaieh are subject to quasi-judicial immunity, as noted in Section III.C, supra. See, e.g., In re Keenan, 339 Fed. Appx. 809, 810 (9th Cir. 2009) ("Dismissal with prejudice was proper because quasi-judicial immunity precludes the Keenans' claims."). All of the actions alleged by Slaieh arise from duties that are within the scope of Trustee's authority, were disclosed to, and approved by the Court, and of which Slaieh received proper notice. Finally, this is the third time that Slaieh has presented these claims against Counter-Defendants, and the third time Slaieh has failed to put forth a prima facie case. (See order denying Slaeih's Barton motion filed as Docket No. 453 in 13-bk-3011-MH and Docket No. 37 in 16-ap-1224-MH). For all of these reasons, the Court determines that it is appropriate to dismiss the counter-complaint with prejudice.

TENTATIVE RULING

For the reasons stated above, and otherwise as set forth in Trustee's motion to dismiss and his reply, the Court's tentative ruling is to GRANT the motion and DISMISS the counter-complaint with prejudice.

APPEARANCES REQUIRED.

#26.00 Motion in Individual Case for Order Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate Residence; Car; Motorcycle

MOVANT: MICHELLE MEREDITH

EH__

Docket 17

Tentative Ruling:

06/08/2017

Notice of the hearing was defective based on the following: The Debtor checked the wrong box for the Shortened Notice portion of the Notice of Motion. The Debtor should have checked the box indicating that the Order Setting Hearing on Shortened Notice was not required but instead checked the box indicating that an application for hearing was still pending and that a separate notice would be served if that Debtor's application was granted.

Separately, as to the merits, the prior case was filed as a chapter 13 case and was dismissed due to various deficiencies with the pro se filing and due to the Debtor's failure to tender her payment to the Chapter 13 trustee at the confirmation hearing. Based on the Debtor's filing of a chapter 7 case rather than a chapter 13 case, the grounds for dismissal in the prior case are not be reflected by the current filing. As such, the Court finds the presumption that this case was not filed in good faith has been rebutted.

APPEARANCES REQUIRED.

Docket 37

Tentative Ruling:

6/19/17

PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

On September 20, 2013, ASR Constructors, Inc. ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. On October 23, 2013, related entities Another Meridian Company, LLC ("Meridian") and Inland Machinery, Inc. ("Inland") (collectively, "Debtors") filed Chapter 11 voluntary petitions. On November 1, 2013, the Court ordered joint administration of the estates of Debtor, Meridian and Inland.

Prior to the filing of the bankruptcy petition, Gotte Electric, Inc. ("Gotte") filed a state court complaint against Debtors and Federal Insurance Company ("FIC") to set aside a fraudulent transfer. Upon Debtor's filing of a Chapter 11 petition, the action was removed to the bankruptcy court.

On November 17, 2015, Debtors filed a motion to approve compromise. On November 24, 2015, UST filed an objection. On December 1, 2015, Insurance Company of the West ("ICW") filed an objection. After further briefing, the Court granted the motion to approve the compromise, and an order was entered approving the compromise on December 30, 2015.

On January 8, 2016, Debtors' bankruptcy cases were dismissed. On February 13, 2017, Debtors' bankruptcy cases were reopened. On March 14, 2017, upon request by Debtors the Court modified the seventh paragraph of its dismissal order as follows:

~~7. Except for the claims asserted in the declaratory relief action filed by ICW and/or Gotte pursuant to the Settlement Agreement, this Court shall retain exclusive jurisdiction to enforce the provisions of the Settlement Agreement, 9019 Order and this Dismissal Order and to resolve any dispute(s) concerning the Settlement Agreement, the 9019 Order and/or this Dismissal Order or the rights and duties of the parties hereunder or thereunder or any issues relating to the Settlement Agreement, the 9019 Order and/or this Dismissal Order, including, interpretation of the terms, conditions and provisions thereof, and all issues and disputes arising in connection with the relief authorized under Settlement Agreement, the 9019 Order and/or this Dismissal Order.~~

On March 17, 2017, Debtors filed a complaint in interpleader against Gotte and other parties. On May 8, 2017, Debtors filed a motion for authorization to deposit disputed funds and for interpleader relief. At a status conference on May 16, 2017, the Court expressed some concerns with the relief requested, and Debtors filed a modification to motion on June 5, 2017.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Debtor was a general contractor. In connection with Debtor's work, FIC issues a number of surety performance and payment bonds on Debtor's behalf. Debtors and their principals, in return, executed various indemnity and collateral agreements in favor of FIC.

Chapter 11

Gotte was Debtor's sub-contractor on three projects. On May 28, 2013, Gotte obtained a state court judgment against Debtor in the amount of $6,655,486.47, and on July 1, 2013, Gotte filed a UCC judgment lien against Debtor. On February 1, 2010, while the state court litigation was pending, Debtor transferred certain real property (the "Meridian Property") to Meridian for $3,100,000 and certain equipment and machinery (the "Equipment") to Inland for $3,780,458. These transfers were the subject of the fraudulent transfer action commenced by Gotte. FIC has a lien on the Meridian Property, the Equipment, and Debtor's accounts receivable.

On December 17, 2013, the Court authorized the sale of that part of the Meridian Property located in the city of Riverside for a purchase price of $3,150,000. Net proceeds of the sale, totaling $1,790,000 were held in a DIP account, subject to the claims of Gotte, FIC, Berkley Regional Insurance Company ("BRIC") and ICW. Additionally, net proceeds of the sale of certain real property located in Phelan, totaling $50,000, were held in a DIP account subject to the claims of FIC and BRIC, and net proceeds of an auction sale of the Equipment, totaling $1,006,000, were held in a DIP account subject to the lien of FIC. The total amount of funds on hand at the time of the filing of the compromise motion was $3,152,360.28.

As part of the compromise motion, FIC agreed to grant a carve-out from its collateral in the amount of $200,000 plus 45% of net proceeds from the sale of the remainder of the Meridian Property. The various parties' respective rights to the FIC carve-out were not determined by the compromise motion.

On December 24, 2015, ICW filed a complaint in state court for declaratory relief and interpleader. On February 9, 2016, the IRS filed a notice of removal, removing the case to federal district court. On May 24, 2016, the district court dismissed the case upon motion of the IRS for lack of subject matter jurisdiction. As such, it is not clear that the interpleader action can be heard in either state court or federal district court.

DISCUSSION

Debtors request two categories of relief: (1) authority to deposit the funds constituting the FIC carve-out (the "Funds") into the court registry; and (2) various interpleader relief.

I. Deposit of Funds in Court Registry

Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 7067 incorporates Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 67. FRCP Rule 67(a) states:

If any part of the relief sought is a money judgment or the disposition of a sum of money or some other deliverable thing, a party – on notice to every other party and by leave of court – may deposit with the court all or part of the money or thing, whether or not that party claims any of it. The depositing party must deliver to the clerk a copy of the order permitting deposit.

FRCP Rule 67 is properly invoked when there is a live dispute regarding the entitlement to the funds in question. See generally Alstom Caribe, Inc. v. George P. Reintjes Co., Inc., 484 F.3d 106, 113 (1st Cir. 2007) ("The core purpose of Rule 67 is to relieve a party who holds a contested fund from responsibility for disbursement of that fund among those claiming some entitlement thereto."); see also Garrick v. Weaver, 888 F.2d 687, 694 (10th Cir. 1989) ("The language of Rule 67 leaves to the discretion of the district court the decision as to whether to permit the deposit of funds in court. . . . The magistrate acted well within his discretionary authority in allowing the funds to be paid into court and excusing the defendants. His decision both ensured that the settlement fund would be available for disbursement and facilitated judicial economy by permitting the defendants, who no longer had an interest in the funds or in these proceedings, to withdraw.").

Chapter 11

Here, there is clearly a live dispute regarding entitlement to the Funds.

II. Interpleader Relief

Debtors' original motion requested that the Court grant the following five forms of relief: (1) discharge Debtors from further liability to the named defendants; (2) dismissal of Debtors, with prejudice, from the adversary; (3) entry of a permanent injunction preventing Defendants from asserting claims against Debtor relating to the settlement funds; (4) requiring the named defendants to litigate between themselves; (5) an award of costs and reasonable attorney fees. Debtors' modification to the motion withdrew the last request, and modified the second request to reduce Debtors' role in the action to that of a monitoring capacity.

"In an interpleader action, the 'stakeholder' of a sum of money sues all those who might have claim to the money, deposits the money with the district court, and lets the claimants litigate who is entitled to the money." Cripps v. Life Ins. Co. of N. Am., 980 F.2d 1261, 1265 (9th Cir. 1992). Procedurally,

An interpleader action typically involves two stages. In the first stage, the district court decides whether the requirements for rule or statutory interpleader action have been met by determining if there is a single fund at issue and whether there are adverse claimants to that fund. If the district court finds that the interpleader action has been properly brought the district court will then make a determination of the respective rights of the claimants.

Rhoades v. Casey, 196 F.3d 592, 600 (5th Cir. 1999) (citations omitted).

Here, Debtors are relying on rule interpleader. Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 22(a)(1), incorporated into bankruptcy proceedings by Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 7022(a), states:

- (1) By a Plaintiff. Persons with claims that may expose a plaintiff to double or multiple liability may be joined as defendants and required to interplead. Joinder for interpleader is proper even though:
- (A) the claims of the several claimants, or the titles on which their claims depend, lack a common origin or are adverse and independent rather than identical; or
 - (B) the plaintiff denies liability in whole or in part to any or all of the claimants.

Here, the various defendants' actual or potential claims to the Funds may expose Debtors to multiple liability. Therefore, an interpleader action is appropriate.

In cases where an interpleader action is appropriate, Collier states the following:

By turning over the fund or the property as directed by the court, the plaintiff may be discharged from the proceeding and any further liability. There may be an injunction issued to prevent the adverse claimants from further pursuing the stakeholder. On a finding that interpleader is proper, the court will then enter an order requiring the claimants to the fund or property to interplead.

10 Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 7022.01 (16th ed. 2013); see also 28 U.S.C. § 2361. Here, Debtors' requests closely track the language identified in Collier's and, in the absence of opposition, appear appropriate here.

III. Jurisdictional Statement

A. Bankruptcy Court Jurisdiction

Chapter 11

Nevertheless, the Court must determine whether it has subject matter jurisdiction. See, e.g., In re Strawberry, 464 B.R. 443, 447 (Bankr. N.D. Fla. 2012). This complaint in interpleader was filed in a dismissed bankruptcy case and would result in litigation over non-bankruptcy claims between non-debtor parties.

28 U.S.C. § 157 provides for four categories of cases which the district court may refer to the bankruptcy court: (1) cases under title 11; (2) proceedings arising under title 11; (3) proceedings arising in a case under title 11; and (4) proceedings related to a case under title 11. See, e.g., In re S&M Constructors, Inc., 144 B.R. 855, 858 (Bankr. W.D. Mo. 1992). Additionally, 28 U.S.C. § 157(b) divides matters into core and non-core proceedings.

The first category, cases under title 11, refers to the bankruptcy case commenced by the filing of the petition. See, e.g., In re Wood, 825 F.2d 90, 92 (5th Cir. 1987). This category is inapplicable here, as the matter at issue is a complaint in interpleader.

The second category, proceedings arising under title 11, refers to those actions that are expressly created by title 11. See, e.g., In re Wolverine Radio Co., Inc., 930 F.2d 1132, 1141, n.14 (6th Cir. 1991). This category is inapplicable here – the underlying liability is premised upon state law claims.

The third category¹, proceedings arising in a case under title 11, refers to claims that, although not created by title 11, would have no existence absent the bankruptcy, such as administrative matters. See, e.g., In re Repository Techs., Inc., 601 F.3d 710, 719 (7th Cir. 2010). This category is inapplicable here.

The fourth category, proceedings related to a case under title 11, contains two different subsets: (1) causes of action owned by the debtor that become property of the estate under § 541; and (2) suits between third parties which in one way or another affect the administration of the bankruptcy case. Id. It is only the latter category that is potentially invoked by this proceeding.

Chapter 11

The primary test for related to jurisdiction is the Third Circuit's Pacor test:

The usual articulation of the test for determining whether a civil proceeding is related to bankruptcy is whether the outcome of that proceeding could conceivably have any effect on the estate being administered in bankruptcy. Thus, the proceeding need not necessarily be against the debtor or against the debtor's property. An action is related to bankruptcy if the outcome could alter the debtor's rights, liabilities, options, or freedom of action . . . and which in any way impacts upon the handling and administration of the bankrupt estate.

Pacor, Inc. v. Higgins, 743 F.2d 984, 994 (3rd Cir. 1984). The Supreme Court previously acknowledged the prevalence of the Pacor test:

In attempting to strike an appropriate balance, the Third Circuit in Pacor, Inc. v. Higgins, 743 F.2d 984 (1984), devised the following test for determining the existence of "related to" jurisdiction:

[Excerpt quoted above] . . .

The First, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth, and Eleventh Circuits have adopted the Pacor test with little or no variation. The Second and Seventh Circuits, on the other hand, seem to have adopted a slightly different test. But whatever test is used, these cases make clear that bankruptcy courts have no jurisdiction over proceedings that have no effect on the estate of the debtor.

Celotex Corp. v. Edwards, 514 U.S. 300, 308 n.6 (1995) (citations omitted).

Chapter 11

The Ninth Circuit has recently reiterated its approval of the Pacor test for pre-confirmation matters:

The test for post-confirmation "related to" jurisdiction was modified from the seminal pre-confirmation Pacor test for "related to" jurisdiction, which had been previously adopted by the Ninth Circuit in In re Fietz, 852 F.2d 455, 457 (9th Cir. 1988). Surveying the courts that had applied a limited version of the Pacor test in the post-confirmation context, we recognized that the Pacor test of whether the outcome of the proceeding could conceivably have any effect on the estate being administered in bankruptcy . . . If the outcome could alter the debtor's rights, liabilities, options, or freedom of action . . . and which in any way impacts upon the handling and administration of the bankruptcy estate was somewhat overbroad in the post-confirmation context.

In re Wilshire Courtyard, 729 F.3d 1279, 1287 (9th Cir. 2013) (citations and quotations omitted).

First, it is unclear whether the complaint in interpleader would affect the administration of the bankruptcy estate, if a bankruptcy estate was being administered. Second, the Court must consider whether it can ever have "related to" jurisdiction in an action filed in a dismissed case because there is no estate to administer, and, consequently, such an action cannot affect administration of the estate.

B. The Effect of Dismissal on "Related to" Jurisdiction

The Pacor test includes two requirements: (1) the action must alter the rights or obligations of the debtor; and (2) the action must have an effect on the administration of the estate. See, e.g., In re Bass, 171 F.3d 1016, 1022 (5th Cir. 1999). This second prong becomes an issue when an action is filed in a dismissed case. See, e.g., id. ("The second prong, however, is problematical. Although the injunction would have an impact on the Debtor, it could not have any effect whatsoever on his estate in bankruptcy or its administration. First and foremost, such an estate no longer exists.").

A different situation arises when, after an action is commenced, the underlying bankruptcy case is dismissed. Courts have generally concluded that in such a situation, retention of jurisdiction is discretionary, and based on principles of equity and judicial economy. See, e.g., In re Smith, 866 F.2d 576, 580 (3rd Cir. 1989) ("Drawing upon an analogy to the disposition of ancillary and pendent claims, the courts have held that they may consider a number of factors to determine whether jurisdiction should be retained."). Such a situation is, however, fundamentally different from the situation here. See id. ("Appellees fail, however, to distinguish between the determination of the existence of jurisdiction at the outset of these proceedings and the determination of whether 'related' claims should be dismissed with the dismissal of the bankruptcy case or the discharge of the debtor."); In re Fietz, 852 F.2d 455, 457 n.2 (9th Cir. 1988) ("Subject matter jurisdiction should be determined as of the date that the complaint, or in this case the cross-claim, was filed.").

In developing a standard for when a bankruptcy court should retain jurisdiction following the dismissal of the underlying case, courts have analogized the situation to a district court's retention of pendent state claims following dismissal of the federal claims. See, e.g., In re Porges, 44 F.3d 159, 162-63 (2nd Cir. 1995); In re Carraher, 971 F.2d 327, 328 (9th Cir. 1992); In re Casamont Investors, Ltd., 196 B.R. 517, 522 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1996) ("In determining whether the bankruptcy court abused its discretion by retaining jurisdiction over related proceedings, the Ninth Circuit and several other circuits have analogized to cases concerning the propriety of district courts retaining jurisdiction over pendent state law claims after federal claims have been dismissed."). Applying that analogy and the applicable standard to the matter at issue here reveals the fundamental problem: a district court can never exercise pendent jurisdiction over state law claims when, at their commencement, there is no existing federal claim for the state claims to supplement. In the bankruptcy context, the Court cannot exercise related to jurisdiction if there is no bankruptcy case for the complaint to relate to.

C. Ancillary or Retained Jurisdiction

Attempts have been made to avoid this issue by arguing for the existence of supplemental or retained jurisdiction. See In re Bass, 171 F.3d 1016, 1023-242 (5th Cir. 1999) (supplemental) ("Congress has gone to great lengths to determine what proceedings may be tried by bankruptcy courts, and the exercise of ancillary and pendent jurisdiction by bankruptcy courts could subsume the more restrictive 'related to' and 'arising in' jurisdiction, such that the latter would be rendered substantially, if not entirely, superfluous."); id. at 1025 (retained) ("[B]efore a court can exercise its discretion to 'retain' jurisdiction over a 'related proceeding,' the court must have had jurisdiction over that proceeding in the first place. The Denneys did not file their suit in Texas until after the bankruptcy case in Utah had been closed. From a purely temporal standpoint, there was no proceeding over which bankruptcy court jurisdiction could be 'retained.'"); see also In re Morris, 950 F.2d 1531, 1534 (11th Cir. 1992) (same). The Ninth Circuit has previously discussed the application of supplemental, or ancillary, jurisdiction in the context of interpreting a settlement agreement in a Chapter 11 structured dismissal:

Here, when Sea Hawk filed its adversary proceeding, VFDA's Chapter 11 case had been dismissed and a final decree entered. . . .

The bankruptcy court has no role in the resolution of the creditors' dispute, and it is involved only fortuitously because the dispute implicates the terms of a settlement agreement approved by the court as a precondition of the dismissal of VFDA's bankruptcy. . . .

The bankruptcy court did not consider dismissal of VFDA's bankruptcy to automatically divest it of jurisdiction over a related case. It reasoned that after dismissal, the court has discretion to retain jurisdiction over a related proceeding, citing In re Carraher, 971 F.2d 327, 328 (9th Cir. 1992). . . .

Chapter 11

Carraher does not support the bankruptcy court's decision. It stands for the proposition that a bankruptcy court may retain jurisdiction over a related proceeding pending at the time of the dismissal of the bankruptcy case. It does not support the assertion of bankruptcy jurisdiction over a proceeding initiated subsequent to the dismissal of the bankruptcy case.

In re Valdez Fisheries Dev. Ass'n, Inc., 439 F.3d 545, 547-48 (9th Cir. 2006). Valdez Fisheries, however, made clear that the result may have been different had the Court's dismissal order explicitly retained jurisdiction over the dispute in question. See id. at 549 ("Ancillary jurisdiction may rest on one of two bases: (1) to permit disposition by a single court of factually interdependent claims, and (2) to enable a court to vindicate its authority and effectuate its decrees.") (citing Kokkonen v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 511 U.S. 375, 79-80 (1994)). The second purpose of Kokkonen's retained, related-to jurisdiction is at issue here.

Nevertheless, the second prong of the Kokkonen test has its limits. See, e.g., In re Ray, 624 F.3d 1124, 1136 (9th Cir. 2010) ("In short, hearing a breach of contract claim predicated on evidence that came to light after a bankruptcy case had closed, its creditors paid, and the debtor discharged, stretches the limits of the bankruptcy court's ancillary jurisdiction too far, going beyond what is necessary for the bankruptcy court to 'effectuate its decrees.' . . . Reopening of the bankruptcy case is rare, and only used when necessary to resolve bankruptcy issues, not to adjudicate state law claims that can be adjudicated in state court.") (citation omitted). Importantly, an explicit retention of jurisdiction is only valid to the extent that jurisdiction is retained over claims that could have been heard at the time that jurisdiction was retained. See, e.g., In re Nobel Group, Inc., 529 B.R. 284, 292 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2015). To conclude otherwise would be to allow bankruptcy courts to craft their own jurisdictional authority. See, e.g., In re Resorts Int'l, Inc., 372 F.3d 154, 161 (3rd Cir. 2004) ("[N] either the bankruptcy court nor the parties can write their own jurisdictional ticket. When a court lacks subject matter jurisdiction over a dispute, the parties cannot create it by agreement even in a plan of reorganization.").

First, there appears to be a problem in that jurisdiction was not conferred until the time of the dismissal order. Here, the retention of jurisdiction over the interpleader action was concurrent with dismissal of the case, and, as such, the claim for which jurisdiction was retained could not have been filed until after the case was dismissed. As stated above, related to jurisdiction is determined at the time the claim is filed, but, importantly, is premised upon the existence of a case that the claim can be related to. Therefore, because the jurisdiction in question was only conferred in a dismissal order, there would no existing bankruptcy case at the time an interpleader action could have been filed, so as to confer related to jurisdiction. The Court is aware of the confusing nature of the issue.

Second, even if the retention of jurisdiction had been in the settlement order, and, as such, the retention of jurisdiction would have arisen in the context of an existing case, allowing related to jurisdiction to exist², it would be unclear, possibly unlikely, that the Court would have subject matter jurisdiction over the complaint in interpleader. As briefly alluded to in section B, supra, the Ninth Circuit has limited the Pacor "related to" test to pre-confirmation matters, and has imposed a more demanding test for post-confirmation matters. See In re Pegasus Gold Corp., 394 F.3d 1189, 1194 (9th Cir. 2005). The rationale for this distinction is that the bankruptcy estate ceases to exist post confirmation. See generally id. Pegasus Gold, therefore, replaced the more liberal Pacor test with a "close nexus" test after the dissolution of the bankruptcy estate. See id. The "close nexus" test requires that the matter be directly affect the bankruptcy proceeding for subject matter jurisdiction to be present. See id. It is difficult to ascertain how the "close nexus" test could be satisfied when the basis for the complaint in interpleader, the settlement agreement, also contemplates that the bankruptcy proceedings will cease.

Furthermore, even if Debtors had modified the settlement order and could show that the "close nexus" test was satisfied, the pendent jurisdiction test alluded to in section B, supra, may also merit consideration. This test instructs the Court to consider the interests of "economy, convenience, fairness and comity." See In re Carraher, 971 F.2d 327, 328 (9th Cir. 1992).

The Court need not reach the "close nexus" or pendent jurisdiction tests at this point, however, for the following two reasons: (1) the modification of the dismissal order does not properly appear to confer jurisdiction on the Court, and (2) the settlement order expressly disclaims jurisdiction over the interpleader action.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court believes dismissal of the adversary for lack of subject matter jurisdiction is appropriate. The Court will consider whether to, on its own motion, amend the dismissal order to delete the retention of jurisdiction, and at the request of the parties, may continue the hearing for further briefing in light of the foregoing.

While it appears to the Court that Debtors may have missed several mortgage payments over the past few years, the evidence provided by Wells Fargo is inadequate to establish cause for relief. Wells Fargo's Exhibit 5 includes unexplained "co-mingled funds adjustments", totaling more than $20,000, and appears to document that Debtors have made their mortgage payments for at least eight months, in apparent contradiction of the motion's account of their post-confirmation delinquency. There is also a general incoherency in the organization of Exhibit 5's columns. As one example, payments made by Debtors for February and March 2016 appear on page 3, and are "applied" to payments due on June 2015, despite a payment being made in June 2015, documented on page 2, at a time when Debtors had a positive suspense balance. Wells Fargo's non-chronological organization of payment history is, at best, unclear.

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion without prejudice. Movant's request for relief only requests relief under § 362(d)(2). Section 362(d)(2) requires Movant to show that the property is unnecessary to an effective reorganization and that Debtors have no equity in the property. This case is a Chapter 13 proceeding and the property at issue is Debtors' primary residence. In this situation, absent any indication to the contrary, the property is necessary to an effective reorganization. Furthermore, Movant does not identify the fair market value of the property or whether there are any additional liens on the property, and, therefore, has not demonstrated that Debtors have no equity in the property.

The Debtor's prior case was voluntarily dismissed. The Debtor's declaration indicates that prior counsel made mistakes and failed to provide materials to the trustee. In the instant case, the Debtor has retained new counsel and has provided her I and J, proposed plan, and evidence of family contributions to make the plan feasible. The feasibility issue will be further evaluated at the hearing on confirmation. However, the Debtor has provided sufficient evidence of good faith to warrant granting of the Motion.

Based on the foregoing, the Motion is granted. The stay is continued as to all creditors.

GRANT relief under § 362(d)(1) based on the following: (1) original trustee's perfected deed of sale from pre-petition foreclosure sale, (2) Movant's perfected grant deed acquired from original trustee pre-petition, and (3) Movant's subsequent pre-petition unlawful detainer judgment and writ of possession, which establish Movant's colorable claim to the Property. Further, because Debtor had no interest in the Property pre-petition, Cause under § 362(d)(1) is established. Bebensee-Wong v. Fed. Nat'l Mortgage Ass'n (In Re Bebensee-Wong), 248 B.R. 820, 822-23 (9th Cir. BAP 2000). The Court is also inclined to GRANT relief under § 362(d)(2) because according to the unlawful detainer judgment, Debtor no longer owns the Property, and as such, Debtor has no equity in the property, and the property is not necessary for an effective reorganization. GRANT relief under ¶2. GRANT waiver of 4001(a)(3) stay.

#35.00 Motion By United States Trustee To Dismiss Or Convert Chapter 11 Case

EH__

Docket 169

Tentative Ruling:

6/20/17

BACKGROUND

On May 9, 2016, Debtor filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. Debtor operates nine Fantastic Sam's hair salons.

On May 10, 2017, UST filed a motion to dismiss the Chapter 11 case for failure to pay the first quarter Chapter 11 fees of $4,875, which were delinquent as of May 1, 2017. On June 6, 2017, US Rep Retail I, LLC, filed a response supporting dismissal.

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 1112(b) provides that a case may be dismissed or converted for cause. Section 1112(b)(4) enumerates certain examples of cause, including "failure to pay any fees or charges required under chapter 123 of title 28." 28 USC § 1930(a)(6) imposed the statutory fees for Chapter 11 cases. Therefore, cause exists to convert the case.

Chapter 11

Once the Court determines cause for dismissal is present, the Court must determine whether conversion or dismissal is in the best interests of the creditors and the estate. See, e.g., In re AVI, Inc., 389 B.R. 721, 729 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2008). According to UST, Debtor's secured debt exceeds the value of its assets, and, therefore, there would likely not be any meaningful distribution to creditors if the case were converted to Chapter 7. Additionally, the most active creditor in the case has requested that the case be dismissed.

Furthermore, the Court deems failure to oppose to be consent to the relief requested pursuant to Local Rule 9013-(1)(h).

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion and DISMISS the case.

Docket 89

 VACATED  REASON: CONTINUED TO 7/25/17 AT 2:00 P.M.

Tentative Ruling:

5/16/17

Background

On November 10, 2016 ("Petition Date"), B & B Family, Incorporated ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. The Debtor is owned by Patricia Forte (who owns 50% of shares) and by Randall and Marianne Richey, husband and wife, who own the remaining 50% of shares in the Debtor (collectively, "Shareholders")

Debtor operates Oggi's Pizza and Brewing Company in Apple Valley, California. Debtor has fifty-five employees. The Debtor's Schedules show that it had approximately $114,662.50 in assets as of the Petition Date. The Debtor's assets consist primarily of leased equipment, business licenses, and liquid assets in the form of cash and accounts.

On March 31, 2017, Debtor filed its Disclosure Statement and Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization. On May 2, 2017, Comerica Bank filed a Limited Response to the Debtor's Disclosure Statement pointing simply to the Debtor's omission of its franchise agreement as an executory contract being assumed. In response, the Debtor amended its Disclosure Statement and Plan on May 2, 2017 (the "Amended DS and Plan"). Additionally, on May 3, 2017, the Debtor filed redline versions of the Amended DS and Plan reflecting the changes made since the March 31, 2017, filings.

Legal Analysis

A. Adequate Information

A Chapter 11 disclosure statement is required to contain "adequate information" pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1125(b). Section 1125(f)(2) provides that: "the court may approve a disclosure statement submitted on standard forms approved by the court or adopted under section 2075 of title 28." The United States Courts have devised a disclosure statement template for small businesses, Form B25B, which Debtor generally adopted as to format.

As to the substance of a disclosure statement, 11 U.S.C. § 1125(a)(1) defines "adequate information" as:

information of a kind, and in sufficient detail as far as is reasonably practicable in light of the nature and history of the debtor and the condition of the debtor's books and records, including a discussion of the potential material Federal tax consequences of the plan to the debtor, any successor to the debtor, and a hypothetical investor typical of the holders of claims or interests in the case, that would enable such a hypothetical investor of the relevant class to make an informed judgment about the plan, but adequate information need not include such information about any other possible or proposed plan and in determining whether a disclosure statement provides adequate information, the court shall consider the complexity of the case, the benefit of additional information to creditors and other parties in interest, and the cost of providing additional information

The type of information required varies with the circumstances. See, e.g., In re Jeppson, 66 B.R. 269, 292 (Bankr. D. Utah 1986) (listing nineteen categories of information commonly required); see also In re Malek, 35 B.R. 443, 443-44 (Bankr. E.D. Mich. 1983) (listing minimum requirements).

B. Plan Feasibility

"There are numerous decisions which hold that where a plan is on its face nonconfirmable, as a matter of law, it is appropriate for the court to deny approval of the disclosure statement describing the nonconfirmable plan." In re Silberkraus, 253 B.R. 890, 899 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2000) (collecting cases).

Here, the Debtor asserts that it needs a total of $10,630 on a monthly basis to make plan payments and projects that after ordinary course expenses, it has a disposable income of approximately $11,000 with which to make those payments.

ISSUES TO BE ADDRESSED AT HEARING ON APPROVAL OF DISCLOSURE STATEMENT

The Court has examined the Debtor's Amended DS and Plan to determine whether "adequate information has been provided and has identified the following issues to be addressed:

Chapter 11

Minor Issues

- Page 6:9-15, reference to "Docket No. 88" should be changed to reference "Docket No. 98"
- In the Plan, where the Debtor describes Oggi's Corporate Debt, there appears to be a discrepancy regarding Oggi's Corporate's claim (i.e. $54,106.12 is the "balance owed" but the Debtor in the next sentence proposes a $88,963.76 allowed claim for this creditor)
- Patricia Forte is alternately referred to as "CEO" or as "President" in the DS and Plan. The Debtor should use terms consistently to avoid confusion.

Larger Issues (to be addressed at the hearing)

- The DS and Plan contemplate bifurcation of Comerica and FPL's claims and avoidance of remaining junior liens. However, the Docket does not reflect that any Motion to Value has yet been filed to determine the value of the collateral and notice to juniorlienholders that Debtor intends to avoid their liens on confirmation.
- There is currently no proposal for new value. Therefore, if Class 6 does not accept the plan, the Plan cannot be confirmed with Shareholders retaining any interest in the reorganized Debtor.
- Part 10, the Effect of Confirmation of Plan should clearly identify the lienholders whose liens shall be extinguished on confirmation of the Debtor's Plan.
- Part 9 is very lean on details regarding potential tax consequences on feasibility. Specifically, as to how Debtor determined the impact on feasibility, whether an accountant was consulted or otherwise how the Debtor is qualified to make a representation regarding the potential tax impact. Additionally, a question exists of the margin of potential increased tax liability.

BACKGROUND

On May 8, 2017, Malik & Zobia Asif ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. A case management conference was scheduled for June 20, 2017. Debtors own several Baja Fresh restaurants in southern California and Nevada. Prior to filing this Chapter 11 case, Debtors dissolved the corporations and limited liability companies that operated the Baja Fresh locations, and assumed all the assets and liabilities.

On May 15, 2017, Debtors filed a motion for order authorizing interim use of cash collateral. On May 24, 2017, the motion was granted on an interim basis, and the matter was continued to June 20, 2017. On June 6, 2017, Debtors' franchisors, Fresh Enterprises, LLC and Triune, LLC (collectively, "Franchisor") filed an objection to the motion for cash collateral.

11 U.S.C. § 363(a) defines cash collateral as:

cash, negotiable instruments, documents of title, securities, deposit accounts, or other cash equivalents whenever acquired in which the estate and an entity other than the estate have an interest and includes the proceeds, products, offspring, rents, or profits of property and the fees, charges, accounts or other payments for the use or occupancy of rooms and other public facilities in hotels, motels, or other lodging properties subject to a security interest as provided in section 552(b) of this title, whether existing before or after the commencement of a case under this title.

11 U.S.C. § 363(c)(1)-(3) (2010) states:

(c)(1) If the business of the debtor is authorized to be operated under section 721, 1108, 1203, 1204, or 1304 of this title and unless the court orders otherwise, the trustee may enter into transactions, including the sale or lease of property of the estate, in the ordinary course of business, without notice or a hearing, and may use property of the estate in the ordinary course of business without notice or a hearing.

preliminary hearing or may be consolidated with a hearing under section (e) of this section, but shall be scheduled in accordance with the needs of the debtor. If the hearing under paragraph (2)(b) of this subsection is a preliminary hearing, the court may authorize such use, sale, or lease only if there is a reasonable likelihood that the trustee will prevail at the final hearing under subsection (e) of this section. The court shall act promptly on any request for authorization under paragraph (2)(B) of this subsection.

Moving on, the Court notes that Debtors have failed to comply with Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 4001(b) by failing to provide the required summary sheet. Debtors list the following "cash collateral assets": (1) security deposits with landlord ($41,541.40); (2) food and other inventory ($15,000); (3) checking accounts ($625); (4) cash ($500). Presumably, Debtors do not intend to use the security deposits.

Creditor offers a variety of assertions in support of its objection to the use of cash collateral: (1) the majority of the franchise agreements terminated pre-petition, and the remainder of the franchise agreements terminated post-petition on the basis of a termination notice sent pre-petition; (2) the franchise agreements contained an anti-alienation clause and, therefore, Debtors pre-petition transfers of the agreement to themselves individually are null and void; (3) Debtors have been reckless in the operation of the Baja Fresh locations and have failed multiple quality assurance tests post-petition; (4) at the meeting of creditors, Debtors admitted that their budget forecasts were optimistic and included rent reductions.

Debtors have not replied to Franchisor's objection. On May 24, 2017, this Court entered an order authorizing the use of cash collateral pursuant to a proposed budget. Franchisor's objection places the credibility, and future viability, of that proposed budget in serious doubt. Given the concerns raised by Franchisor, it does not appear that replacement liens, in and of themselves, constitute adequate protection.

Chapter 11

DISCUSSION

Use of cash collateral on an interim basis was approved on May 24, 2017. Debtors' prospective use of cash collateral is addressed in the tentative related to that matter.

During the first nine days after the filing of the petition, Debtors spent $77,887.90. Debtors assign the expenses to three categories: (1) necessary expenses for the continued operation of their business; (2) checks that were posted pre-petition, but cleared post-petition; and (3) necessary living expenses. Debtors request nunc pro tunc approval pursuant to § 105(a).

The Court has broad equitable discretionary power to approve a cash collateral motion nunc pro tunc and its decision is reviewed for abuse of discretion. See, e.g., Matter of Briscoe Enters., Ltd., II, 994 F.2d 1160, 1169-1170 (5th Cir. 1993). To the extent that the expenditures for which nunc pro tunc approval is sought are of the nature and amount (pro rata) as were approved for this Court's order granting interim use of cash collateral, the Court approves their use nunc pro tunc. Nevertheless, the Court warns Debtors that unauthorized use of cash collateral can constitute grounds for dismissal or conversion of the case. See, e.g., In re Visicon S'holders Trust, 478 B.R. 292, 312 (Bankr. S.D. Ohio 2012).

A further issue is implicated, however, by Debtors use of cash collateral for personal expenses. The Court's interim cash collateral motion states: "no insiders can receive compensation until after the appropriate timelines for served and filed Notices Setting Insider Compensation." The notices setting insider compensation were filed on May 19, 2017, and include a fifteen day objection period, meaning that insiders were precluded from receiving compensation before June 3, 2017. Compensation received before June 3, 2017, violates both the payment to insiders rule and the Court's cash collateral order.

Chapter 11

While Debtors' and their children may not have been paid a salary before June 3, 2017, they directly paid for their living expenses using cash collateral before that date. In accordance with the notices setting insider compensation and this Court's order granting interim use of cash collateral, such expenditures were prohibited and nunc pro tunc authorization is not granted.

Furthermore, the Court notes the following additional problems:

- (1) Debtors' exhibit 48 lists four bank accounts, including two DIP accounts. Neither of the two non-DIP accounts were disclosed on Debtors' schedules.
- (2) Debtors should have provided real bank statements, instead of the informal drafted excel sheet. Payroll is unorganized, includes individuals being paid twice on the same days, individuals with no last name, individuals with no first name, and individuals with names that make no sense.
- (3) Debtors appear to have withdrawn approximately $5,500 in cash, allegedly for business purposes.
- (4) Debtors appear to have made payments toward prepetition debts, possibly giving rise to avoidable preferences.
- (5) Debtors paid approximately $3,500 in credit card fees. It is unclear what these fees are for and why there are so many distinct entries.
- (6) Debtors have a list of Bank of America bank fees for $35 all within a few days of each other. It is unclear why there are so many. Debtors have 1-3 Bank of America accounts that have been explicitly or implicitly revealed.

As noted by Franchisor, it is difficult to determine the extent to which the listed expenditures were for personal use, and the extent to which the expenditures were for business operations.

BACKGROUND

On August 30, 2016, Armon Randolph Sharp ("Debtor") filed his petition for chapter 7 relief. Arturo Cisneros is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee").

On February 3, 2017, the Debtor filed a motion for turnover of $15,000 in cash and of a mobile home, both of which the Trustee asserts were received by the Debtor prepetition and were not scheduled ("Motion"). On February 15, 2017, the Debtor filed his opposition to the Motion ("Opposition"). On February 22, 2017, the Trustee filed his reply ("Reply").

DISCUSSION

According to § 542(a), an entity shall deliver to the Trustee the property of the estate in its possession, custody or control unless the property is of inconsequential value to the estate. 11 U.S.C. § 542(a).

TENTATIVE RULING

The primary relief requested by the Motion is that the Debtor turnover certain property obtained prepetition, consisting of cash and a mobile home. In opposition, the Debtor asserts that the original schedules contained errors and that he has since amended his schedules to claim an exemption in the mobile home. On February 22, 2017, the Trustee filed objection to the Debtor's homestead exemption. Due to the interrelated nature of the instant motion for turnover and the objection to the Debtor's exemption, the instant hearing shall be CONTINUED to March 22, 2017, at 11:00 a.m., to be heard concurrently with the hearing on the objection to the Debtor's homestead exemption.

Docket 266

Tentative Ruling:

06/21/2017

BACKGROUND

On October 13, 2015 ("Petition Date"), Jack Pryor ("Debtor") filed a chapter 11 petition. On February 25, 2016, the Court entered an order ("Conversion Order") converting Debtor's case to a chapter 7. Karl Anderson ("Trustee") is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee.

Debtor's Amended Schedule A listed an interest in real property located at 19024 Ruppert Street, Palm Springs, CA (the "Property"). Debtor's Amended Schedule B listed various assets/businesses, including but not limited to: (1) Diversified Product Industries, Inc. ("DPI"); (2) Access Solar, Inc. ("Access"); and (3) Cabazon Development Corp ("CBC") (collectively the "Companies").

On September 14, 2016, the Trustee filed a Motion for Turnover (the "Turnover Motion") which asserted the following facts:

1. That Trustee requested that Richard Halderman ("Broker") evaluate the Property. [Turnover Motion at Broker Dec. ¶ 3];
2. On or about March 1, 2016, the Broker inspected the property and he asked the Debtor about the large and unusual electric panels affixed to the interior of the building in one of the open storage spaces. [Id.].
3. Debtor informed the Broker that the Property had roof mounted solar panels. [Id.].
4. Debtor provided the Broker with a November 2014 appraisal of the Property, which "indicates that the Property has 96 solar panels on the roof which cost about $156,000.00 in 2012." [Id. ¶ 4].

5. Broker spoke to the Debtor in June 2016, and Debtor informed the Broker that the solar panels had been removed from the roof. [Id. ¶ 5].
6. Broker alleges that the removal of the solar panels from the Property will significantly decrease its value by at least $100,000.00. [Id. ¶ 6].

On October 19, 2016, the Court granted the Turnover Motion and specifically ordered the Debtor to turnover "the solar panels which appeared on the real property located at 19024 Ruppert Street, Palm Springs in approximately May 2016" within 30 days of entry of the order granting the Turnover Motion (the "Turnover Order"). The Debtor having failed to comply with the Turnover Order, the Trustee filed a Motion for Order to Show Cause re Contempt (the "First OSC Motion") on December 6, 2016. On January 12, 2017, the Court issued an order holding the Debtor in civil contempt for violation of the Turnover Order, ordering sanctions of $3,000, and again ordering turnover of the Solar Panels ("First OSC").

On April 11, 2017, the Trustee filed his Motion and Motion for OSC why the Debtor should not be held in further contempt and bodily detained until such time as he complies with the Court orders (the "Second OSC Motion"). The Debtor opposed the Second OSC Motion generally on the bases that: (1) he did not own the solar panels and that they were property of Access; (2) Access had already transferred the solar panels and it was thus impossible for him to comply with the Turnover Order and related OSCs; and (3) the Debtor is not a sophisticated party and did not believe he was doing anything wrong when he (as principal of Access) removed and transferred the solar panels.

On May 22, 2017, the Court issued an OSC for the Debtor to show cause why he should not be held in further contempt and bodily detained until such time as he complies with court orders ("Second OSC").

On May 30, 2017, the Debtor filed a Motion seeking relief from the Turnover Order and First OSC (the "Motion") pursuant to FRBP 9024 (incorporating FRCP 60). The Motion was opposed by the Office of the United States Trustee and, separately, by the Trustee (the "Oppositions"). On June 13, 2017, the Debtor filed a reply to the oppositions ("Reply").

Chapter 7

DISCUSSION

The Debtor seeks reconsideration of the Turnover Order and First OSC on the bases that (1) the Debtor was ordered to turn over the solar panels at a time when the solar panels had already been transferred by Access/Debtor to a third party thus it would have been impossible for the Debtor to comply with the Turnover Order at the time it was entered; (2) the solar panels always belonged to Access and were never part of the Debtor's estate; (3) there has been no showing that Access is an alter ego of the Debtor; (4) the Trustee knew prior to the filing of the First OSC Motion that the Debtor no longer had the solar panels; and (5) the Trustee sought a contempt order against the Debtor for failure to comply with the Turnover Order which the Trustee knew the Debtor could not comply with.

In addition to the foregoing, in the Debtor's declaration which was provided to the Trustee on or about November 29, 2016, the Debtor stated that the solar panels had been installed on the Property in December 2011 (Trustee Ex. 7, ¶4), that an agreement was reached in May 2015 for the sale of the solar panels (at the May 10, 2017, hearing, the Debtor indicated this was a verbal agreement)(id. at ¶6); the agreement for sale of the solar panels was then allegedly finalized in March 2016 for the sale price of $14,443.20 (id. at ¶7); and the solar panels were removed in April or May 2016 (id.).

As a threshold matter, the Court notes that any transfer of the solar panels by Access in March 2016 likely constituted a void transfer and violation of the automatic stay as to the Debtor's bankruptcy estate, as the solar panels were affixed to the Debtor's real property. In re Salov, 510 B.R. 720, 729 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2014) ("Courts in all ten circuits have found that the automatic stay protects a possessory interest in property")(internal citations omitted). The stay applies as to all legal and equitable interests in property at commencement of the bankruptcy case. 11 USC § 541(a)(1). The case was commenced on October 13, 2015, and the Trustee's Broker attested that at his inspection of the Property on March 1, 2016, the solar panels were affixed to the Debtor's Property. If the Debtor and Access believed that the solar panels belonged to Access then Access should have sought abandonment of the property and at a minimum, needed to seek relief from stay to proceed with removal of the solar panels from the Property. This is so because the automatic stay specifically "enjoins any act to obtain possession of property of the estate or of property from the estate or to exercise control over property of the estate". 11 U.S.C. §

Evidentiary Objections

The Court sustains the Trustee's specific objections to the declaration of Maxine Miller.

Due Process

As both the Trustee and United States Trustee have pointed out, the Debtor's initial Motion did not specify which of the six enumerated grounds for relief under Rule 60 would be the basis for the Motion. The Debtor indicated in his Reply (after it was pointed out that he had not indicated which rule he was proceeding under) that he was moving under Rule 60(b)(6). However, the Debtor's Reply does not cure the due process issues created by the failure to indicate the grounds for the Motion. Although the Trustee provided some argument under Rule 60(b)(6), had the Trustee known for a certainty that the Debtor was moving under Rule 60(b)(6), they might have provided additional arguments or they may have devoted more time to these arguments rather than expending energies unnecessarily on Rule 60(b)(1). The United States Trustee, for its part, assumed the Motion was brought under Rule 60(b)(1) and made its arguments only on that basis.

Here, the Debtor's failure to provide due process to interested parties, serves as a sufficient and independent basis for denial of the Motion.

Rule 60(b) Analysis

As to the merits, Rule 60(b)(6) has been used sparingly as an equitable remedy to prevent manifest injustice. The rule is to be utilized only where extraordinary circumstances prevented a party from taking timely action to prevent or correct an erroneous judgment. For example, in Klapprott v. United States, 335 U.S. 601, 69 S.Ct. 384, 93 L.Ed. 266 (1949), the Court upheld the use of the rule to set aside a default judgment in a denaturalization proceeding because the petitioner had been ill, incarcerated, and without counsel for the four years following the judgment. United States v. Alpine Land & Reservoir Co., 984 F.2d 1047, 1050 (9th Cir. 1993) Conversely, in Ackermann v. United States, 340 U.S. 193, 71 S.Ct. 209, 95 L.Ed. 207 (1950), the Court held that Rule 60(b)(6) should not be invoked where the petitioner bypassed his right to appeal for tactical reasons. Id. The Supreme Court has indicated that Rule 60(b)(6) relief may be had "to accomplish justice," but only under "extraordinary circumstances." Alpine Land at 1050.

The Ninth Circuit has indicated that the timeliness of a Rule 60(b)(6) motion "depends on the facts of each case," and relief may not be had where "the party seeking reconsideration has ignored normal legal recourses." In re Pacific Far East Lines, Inc., 889 F.2d 242, 249, 250 (9th Cir.1989) (holding relief appropriate where new legislation undermined the soundness of the judgment). See also United States v. Holtzman, 762 F.2d 720 (9th Cir.1985) (five year delay permissible where litigant reasonably interpreted an injunction to authorize litigant's conduct and timely relief was sought upon receipt of notice to the contrary); Rivera v. Puerto Rico Tel. Co., 921 F.2d 393 (1st Cir.1990) (twenty-three day delay permitted because party not properly notified of pending motion); J.D. Pharmaceutical Distrib., Inc. v. Save-On Drugs & Cosmetics Corp., 893 F.2d 1201, 1207 (11th Cir.1990) (relief from judgment granted because party never served with requests for admissions or motion for summary judgment). These cases demonstrate that Rule 60(b)(6) relief normally will not be granted unless the moving party is able to show both injury and that circumstances beyond its control prevented timely action to protect its interests.

The Docket reflects that the Debtor never filed any opposition to the Motion for Turnover as required by the Court's local rules. At the hearing on the Motion for Turnover on October 5, 2016, the Debtor appeared in opposition to the motion for turnover of the solar panels and argued that the solar panels belonged to Access, his corporation; that they were not property of his estate; and that he no longer had the solar panels. The Debtor further argued before the Court that he did not believe that the corporate assets were subject to turnover. Without the benefit of legal argument or evidence in opposition to the Motion for Turnover, the Court indicated it would grant the Trustee's motion and require turnover of the solar panels. The Court further indicated to the Debtor that the issue of the solar panels could be further dealt with in the contempt proceeding if he failed to turn over the solar panels. The Debtor did not appeal the Court's ruling and then failed to turn over the solar panels. The Trustee then filed the First OSC Motion by which it was seeking that the Court issue an order to show cause and the Debtor failed to file opposition. Subsequently, the Court issued the OSC and the Debtor again failed to file any response to the Court's OSC. Now, several months after the first hearing on the motion for turnover of the solar panels, the Debtor makes the same assertions that he made in October 2016. There has been no change in circumstances other than the Debtor's retention of counsel and no clear explanation as to why the Debtor delayed several months before seeking to set aside the Court's prior orders.

Separately, the evidence in the record supports an inference that the Debtor acted intentionally to remove the solar panels to undermine the Trustee's efforts to sell the Property. Specifically,

1. The Trustee sent his Broker to inspect the Property on March 1, 2016;
2. The Broker asked the Debtor about the solar panels at that inspection;
3. When the Broker spoke to the Debtor in June 2016, the Debtor indicated that the solar panels had been removed; and
4. The Debtor now indicates that the solar panels were removed from the Property and sold in March 2016 (shortly after the Broker's inspection);
5. In November 2016, Debtor's counsel emailed the Trustee a declaration of the Debtor which indicated that the solar panels were installed in December 2011 and that an agreement for sale of the solar panels was finalized in March 2016 for the sale price of $14,443.20 (well below the original cost of the solar panels of $156,000). (Lowe Decl. ¶19).

In addition to the foregoing, Maxine Miller, the secretary of Access submitted to the Court a declaration in which she indicated that net proceeds from the sale of the solar panels were used by Access to pay administrative and payroll for the Debtor and for herself. (Miller Decl. ¶6.a.). Based on the evidence that the Debtor may have acted intentionally to remove the solar panels for his own benefit, in addition to the Debtor having received notice of multiple motions by the Trustee seeking turnover which the Debtor ignored or failed to respond to, the Court finds that the Debtor has failed to demonstrate any extraordinary circumstances to justify setting aside of the prior orders pursuant to Rule 60(b)(6).

Chapter 7

In his Reply, the Debtor attempts to cast "confusion" regarding which attorneys were representing him at which times as a fact to meet the "extraordinary circumstances" test. This argument is unavailing. The Debtor's history managing and owning more than one business underscore the fact that he is not an unsophisticated debtor. During the October 5, 2016, hearing, the Debtor expressed frustration at having to respond to so many motions by the Trustee. However, this frustration did not then and does not now appear to have resulted from confusion on his part regarding representation. Moreover, to the extent any issues arose due to specific acts of prior counsel, as indicated by the US Trustee, parties are bound by litigation decisions of their counsel, even if the decisions are careless or negligent.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, given the due process failure to specify which grounds under Rule 60 the Debtor is moving under, and alternatively, having failed to demonstrate extraordinary circumstances warranting the granting of the Motion under Rule 60(b)(6), the Court is inclined to DENY the Motion in its entirety.

Docket 15

Tentative Ruling:

04/26/2017

BACKGROUND

On August 29, 2016, Patricia Glenn Apostolakis ("Debtor or "Plaintiff") filed her petition for chapter 7 relief. On December 1, 2016, the Debtor filed a complaint against Patricia Neiderhiser ("Defendant") to avoid preferential and/or fraudulent transfers ("Complaint"). The Complaint generally seeks to avoid a judgment lien on improved real property known as 10132 Phelan Road, in Oak Hills, California (the "Property").

On December 6, 2016, the Plaintiff filed her executed service of summons (Docket No. 3) indicating that the summons and complaint was served on Defendant on December 6, 2016. The Summons provided Defendant with a deadline of January 4, 2017, to file her answer.

An amended complaint was filed by the Plaintiff on December 29, 2016 (the "FAC").

On February 2, 2017, the Plaintiff re-filed a copy of her executed service of summons (Docket No. 5).

Chapter 7

On February 6, 2017, the Plaintiff filed a request for entry of default as to the Defendant which was entered by the Clerk on February 7, 2017.

On March 22, 2017, the Plaintiff filed her Motion for Default Judgment against the Defendant (the "MDJ").

On April 11, 2017, the Defendant filed a Motion to vacate (or "set aside") the default ("MSA") and to expedite a hearing on her motion to vacate. The Court entered an order setting the MSA to be heard concurrent with the Motion for Default Judgment.

On April 20, 2017, the Plaintiff filed opposition to the MSA ("Opposition").

DISCUSSION

Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 55(c) (made applicable by Fed. R. Bankr.P. 7055) provides that "[f]or good cause shown the court may set aside an entry of default and, if a judgment by default has been entered, may likewise set it aside in accordance with Rule 60(b)". FRBP 7055.

To determine "good cause" under this Rule, a court must consider three factors:

- (1) whether the party seeking to set aside the default engaged in culpable conduct that led to the default;
- (2) whether it had no meritorious defense; or
- (3) whether reopening the default judgment would prejudice the other party.

United States v. Signed Personal Check No. 730 of Yubran S. Mesle, 615 F.3d 1085, 1091 (9th Cir. 2010) (citing Franchise Holding II v. Huntington Rests. Group, Inc., 375 F.3d 922, 925–26 (9th Cir. 2004), cert. denied 544 U.S. 949 (2005)). This test is disjunctive, such that a finding that any one of the factors is true is sufficient for the court to refuse to set aside the default. It is the same test used to determine whether a default judgment should be set aside under Civil Rule 60(b). Id. While a court has the discretion to refuse to set aside a default judgment for excusable neglect under Fed.R.Civ.P. 60(b) if it finds one of the enumerated factors present, it is not mandatory that it do so. See Brandt v. Am. Bankers Ins. Co. of Fla., 653 F.3d 1108

(9th Cir.2011). "Crucially, however, 'judgment by default is a drastic step appropriate only in extreme circumstances; a case should, whenever possible, be decided on the merits.' " Signed Personal Check No. 730 at 1091 (citing Falk v. Allen, 739 F.2d 461, 463 (9th Cir.1984)).

Defendant asserts that it appears the Complaint was served on her at her old address in Boron, California and as such she did not receive it. (Neiderhiser Decl. ¶3). The Defendant concedes that she received the FAC (but not the amended summons) at her address in Colorado on or about January 3 or 4 of 2017. The Defendant further asserts that the FAC did not indicate the time limit for the filing of a response. (Id. at ¶ 4). In response, the Plaintiff asserts that the Defendant has failed to corroborate her assertion that she has moved. Plaintiff suggests that the Defendant may own both properties and is simply asserting that she has moved in an effort to excuse her "sleeping on her rights" and lack of diligence. Here, Defendant may have engaged in "culpable conduct" regarding her address, and it does not appear Defendant has established a meritorious defense. However, any delay has been minor. Nevertheless, the Court is cognizant of the fact that as a direct result of Defendant's three month delay in seeking to set aside the default despite having been aware of the Complaint since January 3 or 4, Plaintiff has unnecessarily expended fees in preparation of the Motion for Default Judgment, and such fees would otherwise prejudice Movant.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT the MSA conditioned upon the Defendant's payment of Plaintiff's fees and costs associated with the filing of the Motion for Default Judgment.

The Court is further inclined to DENY the Motion for Default Judgment as moot based on the Court's granting of the MSA.

First trust deed: $$386,163 with Fannie Mae

Second trust deed (to be avoided): $149,509 with Trinity Financial Services LLC

Fair market value: $337,362

TENTATIVE

- (1) Trinity requests additional time to obtain an appraisal of the Property; and
- (2) Trinity asserts that the loan payoff statement provided by the Debtors as Exhibit "A" which sets forth the amount of the first mortgage is hearsay and alternatively, that it indicates there may have been a loan modification with the potential for loan forgiveness as to a portion of the loan principal

First, the Court is inclined to grant Trinity's request for additional time. Separately, the Court overrules Trinity's hearsay objection but finds that Trinity's request for the Debtors to indicate whether any portion of the loan principal has been forgiven is reasonable.

Tentative Ruling:

I. Notice/Service

Local Rule 2016-(1)(c)(4)(A) requires thirty days notice of intent to file final report. Trustee provided twenty-eight days notice, and then set the hearing exactly twenty-one days after the filing of his final fee app. Aggregate notice period is therefore short by two days.

Local Rule 2016-(1)(c)(4)(B) requires professionals to file their fee application within twenty-one days of the filing of Trustee's notice of intent. Trustee filed his fee application seven days late.

It is not clear whether Local Rule 2016 should be applicable to this application because it is really designed for the filing of a Trustee's final report.

II. Background

This case was a Chapter 7 case that was converted to Chapter 13. The conversion order stated that both the chapter 7 trustee and his attorney were to file claims for administrative fees, subject to Debtor's right to object. The filing of fee applications by Trustee and Trustee's attorney followed.

Chapter 13

11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(3) (2005) provides factors to be considered in determining the reasonableness of requested compensation. The Court has reviewed the requested fees and expenses of Trustee and finds them to be generally reasonable. Furthermore, Debtor has declined to oppose the Trustee's application, and the Court deems the absence of opposition to be consent to the relief requested pursuant to Local Rule 9013-1(h).

III. Legal Analysis

11 U.S.C. § 326(a), however, imposes a statutory maximum on a Trustee's compensation in a Chapter 7 case. The statute states:

- (a) In a case under chapter 7 or 11, the court may allow reasonable compensation under section 330 of this title of the trustee for the trustee's services, payable after the trustee renders such services, not to exceed 25 percent on the first $5,000 or less, 10 percent on any amount in excess of $5,000 but not in excess of $50,000, 5 percent on any amount in excess of $50,000 but not in excess of $1,000,000, and reasonable compensation not to exceed 3 percent of such moneys in excess of $1,000,000, upon all moneys disbursed or turned over in the case by the trustee to parties in interest, excluding the debtor, but including holders of secured claims.

11 U.S.C. §326(a).

"Although the language of section 326(a) seems straightforward, it 'becomes the source of controversy when a former Chapter 7 Trustee seeks compensation in a case that is converted to one under Chapter 13 prior to the disbursement of any monies by the trustee in the Chapter 7 case.'" In re Pivinski, 366 B.R. 285, 289 (Bankr. D. Del. 2007) (quoting In re Silvus, 329 B.R. 193, 207 (Bankr. E.D. Va. 2005). As the Court noted in Pivinski, there are at least six different interpretations of the operation of § 326(a) when a case is converted to Chapter 13. See id. ((1) quantum meruit; (2) multiple trustee theory; (3) no award permitted; (4) separate cases; (5) constructive disbursement theory; (6) awarding fees pursuant to § 105(a)); see also In re Philips, 507 B.R. 2, 5 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. 2014) ("The Code is silent regarding how to calculate this cap when a case has been converted, as opposed to a fully administered Chapter 7 case. This silence has led to a variety of irreconcilable reported court decisions, which are based on as many as six different discernible theories."); 329 B.R. at 206-13 (providing an in-depth analysis of each of the six different theories).

As noted by the case law split, and in the absence of any binding authority, the Court is presented with the following legal questions: Is the Court allowed to award compensation to a Trustee outside of the confines of § 326(a)? If such an award is permissible, what is the appropriate legal standard for the award of compensation in such a situation? If such an award is not permissible, does § 326(a) allow compensation in this situation? In order to answer the posited questions, it is necessary to survey and evaluate the different approaches adopted by bankruptcy courts.

A. Quantum Meruit

Courts that have adopted the quantum meruit standard generally cited policy considerations. To wit:

We adopt the reasoning of In re Berry and hold that the chapter 7 trustee should be compensated on a quantum meruit basis in a case that is not fully administered, through no fault of the trustee, where the trustee performs substantial services that result in discovery of assets for the benefit of creditors. Conversely, the court does not envision windfalls for the trustee merely because a debtor converts for reasons unrelated to action by the trustee. We are further convinced that the effect of this decision will be to discourage a debtor's intentional concealment of assets and encourage a trustee's diligent discovery of assets.

In re Moore, 235 B.R. 414, 416-17 (Bankr. W.D. Ky. 1999). The Moore court determined that the award should be "based on the reasonable value of the actual and necessary services rendered by the trustee" and that the burden was on the trustee to justify the requested fee. Id. at 417.

While In re Moore approvingly cited the reasoning of In re Berry, its holding is technically distinct. While In re Berry does sound in quantum meruit, its holding falls into the "multiple trustee" approach discussed in section III.B, infra. See generally 166 B.R. 932, 935 (Bankr. D. Or. 1994) ("The court agrees with other courts that have considered this issue, the trustee is entitled to compensation based upon the reasonable value of the actual and necessary services which were rendered by the trustee on a quantum meruit basis."). This distinction illustrates the problem with the approach adopted by In re Moore: while other courts have advanced a quasi- quantum meruit philosophy to the issue, their reasoning has been grounded in an alternative approach. In re Moore, on the other hand, states the following:

A literal application of section 326(a) would appear to provide that if no funds were disbursed by the trustee to creditors, there are no funds to which the percentage formula may be applied. Most bankruptcy courts addressing this question, however, decline to apply a literal reading of § 326(a) and restrict application of the section to fully administered cases only. Rather, where a case is converted or dismissed, several courts have authorized compensation to the trustee upon a showing that the trustee has provided substantial services which benefit the estate. One court denied the trustee compensation, but explained that the denial of fees was premised on the minimal services actually performed by the trustee.

The above reasoning indicates that In re Moore, the primary source of the quantum meruit approach in In re Silvas's survey, did not intend to create a unique, distinct approach to the issue, as it did not advance any new legal theory or reasoning. In re Moore, furthermore, did not offer an explanation as to why quantum meruit would be uniquely available to a Chapter 7 trustee of a dismissed or converted case. This reasoning is critical, because the general consensus is that § 326(a) is not simply a guide, but a statutory maximum. See, e.g., In re Hance Meyer, Inc., 161 B.R. 839, 840 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 1993) ("The court's discretion ends at the maximum ceiling.") (citing In re Fin. Corp. of Am., 114 B.R. 221, 224 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1990); see also In re Wire Cloth Prods., Inc., 130 B.R. 798, 811 (Bankr. N.D. Ill. 1991) ("The maximum statutory fee is indeed a ceiling, not a floor."). Absent an explanation of why it is legally permissible to invoke quantum meruit despite the operation of § 326(a), the theory is not compelling.¹ And the cases that have offered such an explanation fall into the different approaches outlined in section III.B, infra.²

B. Multiple Trustees, Multiple Cases, and Constructive Disbursement

Chapter 13

The three approaches that were referred to by In re Silvus as "multiple or composite trustee theory," "separate and distinct case theory," and "constructive disbursement," all share one common theme: the disbursements made to or by the Chapter 13 trustee should be attributed, at least to some extent, and, possibly, with some deduction, to the Chapter 7 trustee. The multiple trustee theory invokes § 326(c), which states:

- (c) If more than one person serves as trustee in the case, the aggregate compensation of such persons for such service may not exceed the maximum compensation prescribed for a single trustee by subsection (a) or (b) of this section, as the case may be.

Thus, the court in In re Rodriguez, 240 B.R. 912 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1999) utilized this provision, attributed the disbursements made by the Chapter 13 trustee to the Chapter 7 trustee, and then subtracted the amount of compensation the Chapter 13 trustee would receive from the statutory calculation in § 326(a).

While it is true that § 326(c) simply applies to a case with multiple trustees, regardless of the chapter the case is proceeding under, application of the rule in converted cases is problematic. Section 326(c) states that the compensation cannot exceed the maximum "prescribed for a single trustee by subsection (a) or (b)." Technically, the request would be governed by § 326(b) if the case was, at the time under chapter 12 or 13, and governed by § 326(a), if the case was under chapter 7 or 11. Therefore, under this reading, the chapter 7 trustee would be eligible to receive the difference between the chapter 13 statutory cap, and the amount of compensation actually received by the chapter 13 trustee.

More importantly, section § 326(c) does not appear to be an independent source of awarding compensation. Its plain language serves to limit the amount of compensation trustees can receive in a single case, not provide an independent calculation for cases with multiple trustees. The chapter 7 trustee would still have to point to authority permitting the award of fees, and it is not clear that this interpretation resolves the inappropriateness of awarding fees under § 326(a) in this situation. Quite simply, this theory does not explain how any disbursements would be made "[i]n a case under chapter 7 or 11" as required by § 326(a).

The constructive disbursement approach also attributes disbursements made by the chapter 13 trustee to the chapter 7 trustee, but concludes that § 326(c) is inapplicable, and, therefore, no subtraction equivalent to the chapter 13 trustee's compensation is warranted. See generally In re Hages, 252 B.R. 789 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2000). This approach is subject to the same concerns as the multiple trustee theory: it is not clear what would be the basis for the award. By its language, § 326(a) applies to "a case under chapter 7 or 11," and this is not such a case.

The final approach is the separate case theory. Under this theory, the funds turned over to the second trustee by the first trustee are inputted into the statutory calculation of § 326(a). Notably, this theory appears to have been developed in a case that was converted to chapter 7 from chapter 11. See In re Fin. Corp. of Am., 114 B.R. 221, 222 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1990). In both a chapter 7 case and a chapter 11 case, § 326(a) serves as the basis for trustee compensation. Here, however, the case has been converted to chapter 13, and, therefore, is no longer a "a case under chapter 7 or 11." Nevertheless, under this theory it could be argued that disbursements were made (or money turned over) in a case under chapter 7 or 11 (the disbursements by the chapter 7 trustee to the chapter 13).

Ultimately, the Court finds that the multiple trustee, and constructive disbursement theories lack compelling legal justification. Section 326(a) is applicable in a "case under chapter 7 or 11," yet these two approaches input disbursements made by a chapter 13 trustee in a chapter 13 case into the § 326(a) calculation. The plain language of the status indicates that it is § 326(b), not § 326(a), that is applicable to disbursements made in a chapter 13 case.

Nevertheless, the Court finds that the multiple case approaches is not subjected to the above problem and provides a plausible basis upon which to award fees. It can be reasonably argued that a chapter 7 trustee is disbursing (or turning over) funds to a party in interest (the chapter 13 trustee) at the time of conversion, and that, therefore, such funds can be used in the § 326(a) statutory calculation.

C. Strict Interpretation

Finally, the bankruptcy courts that have declined to adopt any of the approaches outlined above have simply concluded that the plain language of the statute prohibits compensation of a chapter 7 trustee in these circumstances. See In re Silvus, 329 B.R. 193, 214 (Bankr. E.D. Va. 2005) ("Upon consideration of the numerous theories discussed above, this Court concludes the more compelling position is that which precludes awarding compensation based upon the plain language of Section 326(a). This Court finds, as did the courts in Fischer, Woodworth, Murphy, Celano, and Meadows, that Congress has spoken clearly in Section 326(a), and thus, it would be inappropriate for this Court to look beyond the bounds of the statute to formulate a basis upon which to award Ruby compensation.").

D. Analysis

Here, the chapter 7 trustee has not made any argument regarding which standard the Court should apply, and does not otherwise indicate what mechanism allows for payment to a Chapter 7 trustee in this situation where the distribution contemplated by § 326(a) is not done.

Notwithstanding, fee descriptions for services for 2/10/17 to 4/11/17 appear vague or otherwise describe services that were or should have been performed by counsel. Also, the Court inclined to reduced fees for the preparation of the form fee application to 0.6 hours. Therefore, subject to discussion as to an applicable legal basis to award trustee fees, the Court is inclined to grant the requested fees in the reduced amount of $1485, and costs of $2.06.

Background:

On February 13, 2017, Christopher and Theresa Murphy ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On March 21, 2017, the IRS filed a priority claim in the amount of $4,663 ("Claim 3"). On April 6, 2017, Debtors' Chapter 13 plan was confirmed. On May 4, 2017, Debtors filed a notice of submission of 2016 tax returns to Chapter 13 Trustee. On May 16, 2017, Debtors filed an objection to Claim 3 on the basis that their tax delinquency had been cured.

Applicable Law:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). Chapter 13

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

Analysis:

Claim 3 states that Debtors owed $4,663.40 in relation to their 2016 tax returns. Debtors do not dispute that they owed the amount stated on Claim 3 at the time that it was filed. Instead, Debtors' declaration states that they filed their tax return on April 17, 2017, and that, therefore, the claim should be amended or withdrawn. While the motion argues that no tax is due on account of the 2016 returns, there is no evidence presented to support this argument.

#4.00 CONT Motion for 2004 Examination -- Motion of USA Waste of California, Inc. for an Order Authorizing the Examination of Craig Johnson and the Issuance of Subpoenas Duces Tecum to Commodity Trucking Acquisition, LLC and Craig Johnson Pursuant to Fed.R. Bankr.P. 2004

EH__

Docket 46

Tentative Ruling:

06/28/2017

BACKGROUND

On August 30, 2016 ("Petition Date"), Dispatch Transportation LLC ("Debtor") filed its petition for chapter 7 relief. Charles Daff is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee").

On April 6, 2017, USA Waste of California, Inc. ("USA Waste") filed its Motion for an Order Authorizing the Examination of Craig Johnson and the Issuance of Subpoenas Duces Tecum to Commodity Trucking Acquisition, LLC ("CTA") and Craig Johnson Pursuant to Fed.R. Bankr.P. 2004 ("Motion"). USA Waste brings its Motion on the basis that it believes that the Debtor's case was filed in bad faith. Specifically, it appears that USA Waste believes the Debtor's asserts were transferred prepetition to CTA so that the Debtor could then file bankruptcy and discharge debts without having to liquidate its assets. In support, USA Waste asserts that CTA is run by the same managers, at the same location, with the same assets, and with representation of the same counsel as the Debtor.

The initially scheduled hearing was continued by stipulation of the parties and was subsequently continued by the Court to June 28, 2017. On May 3, 2017, oppositions to the Motion were filed by CTA and by Craig Johnson. A reply to the oppositions was filed on May 24, 2017.

Chapter 7

USA Waste asserts by its Motion that under the broad scope of FRBP 2004, examination of Craig Johnson and subpoena of records in CTA's and Craig Johnson's possession is justified because these parties have access to information that USA Waste requires to evaluate the Debtor's assets, liabilities, and prepetition activities in incurring the liabilities of the estate. (Motion at 3:25-28). Additionally, the initial Motion included a declaration from the Trustee indicating that he waived the Debtor's attorney-client privilege as to communications between the Debtor and Craig Johnson for purposes of the requested examinations. (Daff Decl. ¶3).

In opposition to the Motion, CTA generally asserts that the Motion should be denied because: (1) the Motion is moot because the Trustee retracted the waiver of the Debtor's attorney-client privilege with Mr. Johnson; (2) CTA obtained the Debtor's assets through a "commercially reasonable" Article 9 sale; (3) the Motion is itself only an attempt by USA Waste to obtain privileged information via the bankruptcy process that it could not otherwise obtain and use in connection with currently stayed state court litigation; (4) USA Waste is hoping to obtain privileged information in preparation for the filing of suit against CTA. The Court's Docket reflects that on May 3, 2017, the Trustee filed his Notice of Withdrawal of Waiver of Privilege. (Docket No. 59).

The Manning Pit dispute

In 2004, pursuant to a settlement agreement, the City of Irwindale was bound by a "Prioritization" provision which set forth the rules regarding which city quarries could be filled, when they could be filled, and by whom. In 2004, USA Waste obtained rights to fill a city quarry referred to by the parties as the "Arrow Pit". On or about 2007, the Debtor obtained a contract to fill a separate quarry – the "Manning Pit." A dispute subsequently arose about whether the Debtor's contract and work violated the Prioritization provision.

The Article 9 Sale

CTA alleges that it acquired the Debtor's assets via an Article 9 sale after the Debtor defaulted on debts owed to its first priority secured creditor, Comerica Bank. CTA asserts that Comerica effectuated a foreclosure sale on September 14, 2011 under Michigan law at which CTA was the buyer. CTA purchased the Debtor's assets for $12 million, which included its equipment, trade names, business names, leases, contracts etc. CTA notes that the individuals who shared management or ownership interests in both the Debtor and CTA did so because they made capital contributions for such interests. In support of their assertion that CTA's purchase of the Debtor's assets was proper, CTA and Mr. Johnson point to the decision of the San Bernardino Superior Court in which a different party attempted to bring suit against CTA as an alleged alter ego of the Debtor, and in which the Superior Court found no alter ego liability. This Court, however, notes that the decision of the Superior Court may have no preclusive effect in this case.

The Basis for USA Waste's claim against the Debtor

In 2013, USA Waste commenced a lawsuit against the Debtor for Intentional Interference with Contractual Relations and for Unfair Competition. Discover was conducted and a motion for summary judgment was filed by the Debtor which was denied by the trial court. The Superior Court scheduled trial for August 2016 but then trailed the trial to September 2016. The instant petition was filed on August 30, 2016 – staying USA Waste's litigation against the Debtor.

DISCUSSION

Bankruptcy Rule 2004 is a broadly construed discovery device which permits any party in interest in a bankruptcy proceeding to move for a court order to examine any entity so long as the examination relates to "acts, conduct, or property or to the liabilities and financial condition of the debtor, or to any matter which may affect the administration of the debtor's estate, or to the debtor's right to a discharge." Fed.R.Bankr.P. 2004(b). The scope of inquiry permitted under a Rule 2004 examination is generally very broad and can "legitimately be in the nature of a 'fishing expedition.'" In re Wilcher, 56 B.R. 428, 433 (Bankr.N.D.Ill.1985). Such an examination, however, cannot be " 'used for purposes of abuse or harassment' and it 'cannot stray into matters which are not relevant to the basic inquiry.'" In re Table Talk, 51 B.R. 143, 145 (Bankr.D.Mass.1985) (quoting In re Mitco, Inc., 44 B.R. 35, 36 (Bankr.E.D.Wis.1984)). If the party to be examined makes a motion to quash a Rule 2004 subpoena, the examiner must show that there is good cause for taking the requested discovery. In re Wilcher, 56 B.R. at 434.

The Court now turns to its analysis of whether production and examination under Rule 2004 are warranted:

As to CTA, USA Waste specifically requests production of the following:

Request 1

"... all data storage devices, including hard drives, containing information or documents concerning the Manning Pit, any former assets of the Debtor that were acquired by CTA, and/or the division of CTA referred to as "Dispatch Transportation" by CTA or CTA's agents, employees or managers such as Kim Pugmire."

The Court disagrees with CTA's objection that the requested documents do not relate to the administration of the bankruptcy estate. Specifically, the information regarding the Manning Pit is directly related to USA Waste's claim in the Debtor's bankruptcy. The remaining request appears to concern USA Waste's contention that CTA and the Debtor colluded to shield assets from USA Waste and to prevent it from being able to establish its claim against the Debtor. On this point, based on the evidence in the record, it does not appear that the Superior Court's prior adjudication of the Article 9 sale issues precludes USA Waste from potentially asserting alter ego claims against CTA, and its officers/managers or owners in connection with the Debtor's bankruptcy case for the benefit of the estate's creditors. However, the Court is inclined to limit the request to providing copies of the relevant documents rather than requiring provision of actual devices or hard drives.

As to Craig Johnson, USA Waste requests:

Request 1

All e-mails or other documents (excluding those documents which are part of the public record of proceedings) that you authored, transmitted, or received on behalf of Debtor concerning USA Waste of California, Inc. v. City of Irwindale, et al., Los Angeles Superior Court Case No. KC066276

Request 2

Transportation" by CTA or CTA's agents, employees or managers such as Kim Pugmire.

As to Craig Johnson, the Court is unpersuaded that the Pugmire testimony constitutes a waiver of the attorney-client privilege. Hernandez v. Tanninen, 604 F.3d 1095, 1100 (9th Cir. 2010). Disclosing a privileged communication or raising a claim that requires disclosure of a protected communication results in waiver as to all other communications on the same subject. United States v. Nobles, 422 U.S. 225, 239-40, 95 S.Ct. 2160, 45 L.Ed.2d 141 (1975); Weil v. Inv./Indicators, Research & Mgmt., 647 F.2d 18, 24 (9th Cir.1981) ("[V]oluntary disclosure of the content of a privileged attorney communication constitutes waiver of the privilege as to all other such communications on the same subject."); Chevron Corp. v. Pennzoil Co., 974 F.2d 1156, 1162 (9th Cir.1992) ("Where a party raises a claim which in fairness requires disclosure of the protected communication, the privilege may be implicitly waived."). The Court, having reviewed Exhibit E of the Pugmire testimony, finds that Mr. Pugmire was asked and frequently responded to general questions regarding who was representing the Debtor as to specific transactions, to which he frequently made reference to Mr. Johnson. However, it is not clear from the general questioning that Mr. Pugmire ever uttered a statement that would specifically waive the attorney-client privileges attached to communications with Mr. Johnson. Moreover, the rule regarding waiver as to disclosed communications is limited to "communications on the same subject." Nobles at 439-40. However, here, USA Waste's examination requests are broad and include no limitations as to subject, or otherwise. At a minimum, to prevail USA Waste would need to point to each specific statement in the deposition testimony that it contends effectuates a privilege waiver and separately identify which subject is not protected by the privilege. Having failed to go through this exercise, the Court finds the general references to Mr. Johnson's representation and to Mr. Pugmire's general statements regarding his interactions with Mr. Johnson unpersuasive as a basis to conclude that there has been a waiver of the attorney-client privilege.

Based on the foregoing, the Court finds that USA Waste's Motion must be denied as to all requests made to Mr. Johnson to the extent that the attorney-client privilege is asserted, so specifically as to requests 1 and 2. However, the Court agrees that the third and fourth requests generally request information regarding the Manning Pit and CTA's "Dispatch Transportation" division, which appears relevant. Mr.

On October 30, 2013 ("Petition Date"), Ronald and Alicia Stearns (collectively, "Debtors") filed their petition for chapter 7 relief. Among the assets of the estate is real property located at 7573 Honeysuckle Street in Fontana, CA 92336 (the "Property"). The Debtors received a discharge and the case was closed on February 11, 2014.

for the purpose of avoiding judgment liens recorded against the Property. On February 2, 2017, the Debtor filed motions to avoid the liens of Capital One Bank ("Capital One") and Merchants Financial Guardian ("Merchants") pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 522 (f). At the hearing on the Debtors initial motions, the Court denied both motions due to various technical issues with the motions. The tentative ruling indicated as follows:

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion without prejudice for a variety of technical reasons. Primarily, the filing that is actually set for hearing is Docket No. 17, which is simply a "notice" that does not attach, contain, incorporate, or reference a motion. Second, the earlier motion filed by Debtors, Docket No. 16, contains no admissible evidence regarding the value of the first lien as of the petition date. Third, the Court notes that Local Rule 4003-(2)(b)(1) prevents Debtors from bringing one motion to avoid two lines under 11 U.S.C. § 522(f). Fourth, the earlier motion contains multiple, material factual inconsistencies, including the amount of the claimed exemption and the fair market value of the property.

Tentative Ruling on Motion to Avoid Liens, March 29, 2017.

On April 21, 2017, the Debtors refiled their motions to avoid the liens of Capital One Bank and Merchants. On May 18, 2017, the Debtors withdrew their motion to avoid the lien of Merchants. The only motion currently pending is the motion to avoid the lien of Capital One Bank (the "Motion").

DISCUSSION

As a threshold matter, the Motion was not properly served on Capital One via FRBP 7004(h) which requires service on a FDIC insured entity via certified mail and to the attention of an officer at the address indicated for the institution on the FDIC website. The Debtors did not comply with any of these requirements for service.

Section 522(f)(1)(A) provides in relevant part: "the debtor may avoid the fixing of a lien on an interest of the debtor in property to the extent that such lien impairs an exemption to which the debtor would have been entitled ... if such lien is (A) a judicial lien." 11 U.S.C. § 522(f)(1)(A) (emphasis supplied).

Chapter 7

Section 522(f)(2) prescribes a formula for calculating whether an exemption is impaired:

(2)(A) For the purposes of this subsection, a lien shall be considered to impair an exemption to the extent that the sum of—

(i) the lien;

(ii) all other liens on the property; and

(iii) the amount of the exemption that the debtor could claim if there were no liens on the property; exceeds the value that the debtor's interest in the property would have in the absence of any liens.

(B) In the case of a property subject to more than 1 lien, a lien that has been avoided shall not be considered in making the calculation under subparagraph (A) with respect to other liens.

(C) This paragraph shall not apply with respect to a judgment arising out of a mortgage foreclosure.

11 U.S.C. § 522(f)(2) (emphasis supplied). That is, an exemption is impaired if the sum of all of liens and the exemption yields a total that is greater than the fair market value of the property. See In re Meyer, 373 B.R. 84, 89 (9th Cir. BAP 2007).

Here, the Debtors assert that the first lien on the Property is $173,433.90, that the Property is next encumbered by the lien of Merchants in the amount of $48,351.02, and by the lien of Capital One in the amount of $3,928.15. The Debtors have asserted an exemption in the Property of $100,000. However, the Debtors Schedule C indicates that they have exempted $76,566.10 in the Property and have not sought to amend their schedules. Nevertheless, assuming the values are correct, the total of the liens and exemption is $302,279.17 which is greater than the fair market value of the Property of $270,000 as asserted by the appraisal obtained by the Debtors. These figures would indicate that the lien of Capital One impairs the exemption of the Debtors.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined CONTINUE the hearing on the Motion to June 28, 2017, at 11:00 a.m., for the Debtor to properly serve Capital One per FRBP 7004(h) with an amended Notice of Motion and Motion as indicated above.

Docket 318

Tentative Ruling:

06/28/2017

PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

On October 20, 2013, Douglas Jay Roger, MD, Inc., ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On October 20, 2015, Trustee filed two complaints. The first complaint ("First Complaint") named OIC Medical Corp. ("OIC"), Liberty Orthopedic Corp. ("LOC"), and University Orthopaedic Group ("UOG") as defendants, and was for avoidance, recovery, and preservation of preferential and fraudulent transfers. The second complaint ("Second Complaint") named Douglas J. Roger, M.D., Inc. Defined Benefit Plan ("DJRI Benefit Plan") (OIC, LOC, UOG, and DJRI Benefit Plan, collectively, "Defendants") as defendant, and also was for avoidance, recovery, and preservation of preferential transfers.

On April 6, 2016, the Trustee filed two motions to approve compromise (collectively, the "Original Compromise Motions"), corresponding to the two complaints identified above. On April 18, 2016, Kajan Mather & Barish ("KMB") filed oppositions to the motions for compromise. On April 25, 2016, Revere Financial Corporation ("Revere") filed objections to the motions for compromise, joining the opposition of KMB. On May 4, 2016, Trustee filed replies to KMB's oppositions and Revere's objections. On May 9, 2016, KMB withdrew its opposition.

On May 11, 2016, a hearing was held on the matter, however, based on the representations of the parties, the hearing was continued. On May 25, 2016, Defendants filed joinders in the motions for compromise. The hearing was repeatedly continued to allow for discussions between Trustee and Revere.

On November 5, 2016, Defendants filed motions to enforce their respective settlement agreements with Trustee (collectively, the "Enforcement Motions"). Nevertheless, the Original Compromise Motions and the Enforcement Motions were again continued by stipulation.

On January 18, 2017, Revere filed oppositions to the motions to enforce, and Trustee joined in the oppositions. On January 19, 2017, KMB filed joinders to the motions to enforce.

On January 31, 2017, Revere and Trustee filed a joint motion to approve a settlement between Trustee and Revere (the "New Compromise Motion"). On February 1, 2017, hearings were held on the Original Compromise Motions and the Enforcement Motions. In light of the New Compromise Motion, the Court continued the matter.

On February 14, 2017, Bank of Southern California, N.A. ("BSC") filed an objection to the New Compromise Motion. On June 14, 2017, Defendants and KMB filed separate oppositions to the New Compromise Motion. On June 21, 2017, Revere filed a reply in support of the New Compromise Motion.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

There are two distinct settlement motions under consideration: (1) the New Compromise Motion; and (2) the Original Compromise Motions (and the corresponding Enforcement Motions).

A. New Compromise Motions

The New Compromise Motion¹ creates four categories of assets: (1) cash held by Trustee and in which Revere claims a security interest; (2) cash currently held by Revere, previously distributed by Trustee; (3) tax refunds; and (4) claims. Revere proposes to grant a carve-out of 100 percent of category one ($183,480.95) and $43,493 in category two, totaling $226,973.95, in addition to a carve out of any tax refunds.

Chapter 7

In return, the settlement agreement provides that Trustee will agree to allow Revere a claim of $5,500,000.00, of which $4,000,000.00 will be treated as secured. Trustee also waives the right to challenge the validity or priority of Revere's security interest, and abandons any remaining interest in Revere's collateral. Revere is also granted the right to prosecute all claims owned by the bankruptcy estate that are not prosecuted by the Trustee or the contemplated liquidating trustee, and Revere is granted relief from stay to prosecute all such actions.

The settlement agreement contemplates the creation of a liquidating trust. As part of the creation of such a trust, the Trustee is to withdraw from all pending settlements for avoidance actions. Revere (or its nominee) will act as trustee of the liquidating trust. The rights to pursue Debtor's causes of action will be assigned to the liquidating trust, and Revere will have full discretion to determine which claims to pursue. Revere will cover the costs incurred by the liquidating trust. With some caveats, any proceeds recovered by the liquidating trust will be split 75/25 between Revere and the bankruptcy estate.

The settlement agreement also contains a clause that it is voidable if it not approved as is.

B. Original Compromise Motions

The Original Compromise Motions consist of two separate compromises: (1) a compromise with OIC, LOC, and UOG; and (2) a compromise with DJRI Benefit Plan. The first compromise contemplated Trustee dismissing adversary proceeding 6:15-1307 in return for $30,000. The second compromise contemplated Trustee dismissing adversary proceeding 6:15-1309 in return for $50,000.

DISCUSSION

I. Legal Standard for Approving Compromise

Rule 9019(a) authorizes the bankruptcy court to approve a compromise or settlement on the trustee's motion and after notice and a hearing. The bankruptcy court must consider all "factors relevant to a full and fair assessment of the wisdom of the proposed compromise." Protective Comm. for Indep. Stockholders of TMT Trailer Ferry, Inc. v. Anderson, 390 U.S. 414, 424, 88 S. Ct. 1157, 20 L. Ed. 2d 1 (1968). In other words, the bankruptcy court must find that the settlement is "fair and equitable" in order to approve it. Martin v. Kane (In re A & C Props.), 784 F.2d 1377, 1381 (9th Cir. 1986).

In conducting this inquiry, the bankruptcy court must consider the following factors:

- (a) the probability of success in the litigation; (b) the difficulties, if any, to be encountered in the matter of collection; (c) the complexity of the litigation involved, and the expense, inconvenience and delay necessarily attending it; and (d) the paramount interest of the creditors and a proper deference to their reasonable views in the premises.

Id.

The bankruptcy court enjoys broad discretion in approving a compromise because it "is uniquely situated to consider the equities and reasonableness [of it]" United States v. Alaska Nat'l Bank (In re Walsh Construction, Inc.), 669 F.2d 1325, 1328 (9th Cir. 1982). As stated in A & C Props.:

The purpose of a compromise agreement is to allow the trustee and the creditors to avoid the expenses and burdens associated with litigating sharply contested and dubious claims. The law favors compromise and not litigation for its own sake, and as long as the bankruptcy court amply considered the various factors that determined the reasonableness of the compromise, the court's decision must be affirmed.

Id. (citations omitted).

On the other hand, even though the bankruptcy court has wide latitude in approving compromises, its discretion is not completely unfettered. See Woodson v. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. (In re Woodson), 839 F.2d 610, 620 (9th Cir. 1988). The trustee bears the burden of proving to the bankruptcy court that the settlement is fair and equitable and should be approved. In re A&C Props., 784 F.2d at 1382.

Chapter 7

The Court shall first apply the A&C factors to the Original Compromise Motion in isolation.

A. The OIC, LOC, and UOG Compromise

1. The Probability of Success in the Underlying Litigation

The record is neutral as to the probability of success. In particular, the Trustee has identified the arguments being made by OIC, LOC and UOG in defense of the avoidance actions but has provided scant information with which to gauge the strength of the respective positions. This factor is neutral.

2. Difficulty of Collection

The Trustee's Supplemental Declaration provides strong evidence underscoring the potential difficulty in collecting from OIC or LOC. In particular, the Trustee has determined that these entities are no longer going concerns and have no assets. This factor favors settlement.

3. Complexity, Cost, Inconvenience and Delay of Litigation

The difficulty in collection against OIC and LOC leaves UOG as the primary means for collection of any judgment. The action against UOG would require the Trustee to establish successor/alter ego liability. The Trustee concedes, however, that there is no evidence showing that any assets or customers were transferred to UOG from OIC, and UOG has indicated it acquired its contracts through a professional service. Further, the Trustee indicated that many of the transfers originally alleged to have been recoverable are either duplicative, were paid out on behalf of the Debtor by OIC, or were not paid by the Debtor to OIC at all, such that the remaining amount of the approximately $1.1 million is approximately $600,000. Based on this information, the Trustee has demonstrated that the complexity and costs of litigation weigh in favor of settlement.

4. Interest of Creditors

Chapter 7

Based on the Trustee's representation that the cost of litigation is likely to exceed any additional benefit to the Estate, the Trustee has established that settlement is in the best interests of creditors. This factor weighs in favor of settlement.

B. The DJRI Benefit Plan Compromise

1. The Probability of Success in the Underlying Litigation

The Trustee has provided evidence that success was predicated on a showing that DJRI Benefit Plan was an insider of the Debtor, and that DJRI Benefit Plan raised credible arguments to contest such a showing. This factor weighs in favor of settlement.

2. Difficulty of Collection

There are no specifics provided to indicate that collection would be particularly difficult. This factor is neutral.

3. Complexity, Cost, Inconvenience and Delay of Litigation

There is insufficient information provided to indicate that the litigation would be more complex, costly or inconvenient than what is customary. This factor is neutral.

4. Interest of Creditors

Based on the Trustee's representation that DJRI Benefit Plan possesses strong arguments diminishing the probability of success for the Trustee, coupled with the certainty of the Estate receiving $50,000 for the benefit of the estate through this settlement, the settlement appears to be fair and equitable. This factor weighs in favor of settlement.

II. Motions to Enforce & the New Compromise

Defendants filed motions to enforce the settlement and requested that the court grant the motions to compromise. Defendants contend that the settlement agreement constitutes a valid contract, that the contract is valid unless the court rejects it, and that Revere's involvement in the proceedings is for the purpose of harassment and to increase attorney's fees. Revere responded by contending that the settlement agreement does not constitute a valid contract, that Trustee can sell the adversary, and that Trustee has a duty to consider higher bids. Additionally, Revere has essentially offered its own bid by filing the New Compromise Motion.

Regarding, Revere's contention that Trustee has the ability to sell or assign an avoidance action to a creditor, the Courts findings that In re P.R.T.C., Inc., 177 F.3d 774, 781 (9th Cir. 1999) and In re Prof'l Inv. Props. of Am., 955 F.2d 623, 625 (9th Cir. 1992) support Revere's contention that the avoidance actions can be assigned. The limitations arguably imposed by these line of cases, that the assignment(s) occur pursuant to a plan of reorganization, or when a creditor is pursuing interests common to all creditors, does not bar assignment of the avoidance actions at issue, since the recovery of preferential or fraudulent transfers is an interest common to all creditors.

While Defendants raise a variety of arguments against the New Compromise Motion in their opposition, there is no contention that Trustee lacks the legal authority to transfer the avoidance action.

KMB has objected that the proposed assignment is legally prohibited, but its argument is largely inaccurate. Citing In re Lahjani, 325 B.R. 282, 285 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2005), KMB asserts that there are three requirements for such a sale, and then argues that two of those requirements have not been met. First, KMB argues that the sale must be for a sum certain. While KMB allots one page to a subsection on this argument, there is no authority justifying the assertion. While Lahjani stated that "trustee avoiding powers may be transferred for a sum certain," it did not impose such a requirement, and the case it cited with regards to the statement, In re P.R.T.C., Inc., 177 F.3d 781-82, did not mention such a requirement. Id. Therefore, the Court declines to read this statement by Lahjani as imposing a requirement. Likewise, KMB argues that that the assignment must benefit the entire estate. While it is true that such an assignment must benefit the estate, this argument does not assist the Court's analysis since if there is no benefit to the estate, the New Compromise Motion will clearly not be considered an "overbid."

Chapter 7

A more novel and complex issue is presented by the process that has led to the proposed assignment of the avoidance actions. Specifically, Trustee entered into a settlement with Defendants that would have resolved the actions, Defendants moved to enforce the actions, then Trustee entered into a second settlement, this time with Revere. To complicate matters further, the second settlement is much more expansive in the rights it affects.

First, as is noted by Defendants, the Court must approve the compromise of a claim before the agreement becomes enforceable. See Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9019. Nevertheless, there is case law that concludes Trustee does not have authority to unilaterally repudiate the settlement agreement. See, e.g., In re Seminole Walls & Ceilings Corp. 388 B.R. 386, 391-96 (Bankr. M.D. Fla. 2008) ("To the extent there is a split of authority, the Court finds the better-reasoned view is that the parties to a settlement agreement may not unilaterally repudiate it after approval of it has been sought pursuant to Rule 9019.") (collecting cases). The fact that Trustee cannot repudiate the settlement agreement does not mean that the Trustee must continue to actively support the agreement. See, e.g., In re Martin 91 F.3d 389, 394 (3rd Cir. 1996) ("The trustee may even opt not to argue in favor of the stipulation, as was done here, if she no longer believes the settlement to be in the best interest of the estate."). But the Court, nevertheless, has the authority to approve the settlement agreement over a trustee's objection. See id. ("The trustee does not breach any term of the stipulation by [not supporting the agreement], for the bankruptcy court may nonetheless approve the settlement.").

As argued by Revere, however, the Court must consider preferable alternative offers, despite the Original Compromise Motions. Revere primarily cites to In re Mickey Thompson Entm't Group, a case which stated:

We agree with the Third Circuit that the disposition by way of 'compromise' of a claim that is an asset of the estate is the equivalent of a sale of the intangible property represented by the claim, which transaction simultaneously implicates the 'sale' provisions under section 363 as implemented by Rule 6004 and the 'compromise procedure of Rule 9019(a).

292 B.R. 415, 421 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2003). By analogizing the Original Compromise Motions to sale motions, Revere is arguing that the proposed compromise be compared to other bids, instead of merely being compared to continuation of the underlying litigation. See, e.g., id. at 421-22 ("When confronted with a motion to approve a settlement under Rule 9019(a), a bankruptcy court is obliged to consider, as part of the 'fair and equitable' analysis, whether any property of the estate that would be disposed of in connection with the settlement might draw a higher price through a competitive process and be the proper subject of a section 363 sale. . . . The possibility that someone else may be willing to pay a higher price triggers the prospect of an auction that could yield an even higher price."). Nevertheless, the Court must be able to ascertain that the New Compromise Motion offered by Revere actually constitutes an overbid.

III. Comparison of the Original Compromise & the New Compromise

The majority of the briefing has, directly or indirectly, related to whether Revere has, in fact, tendered an overbid. As the Court said towards the beginning of the most recent hearing on the matter, on February 1, 2017:

Those [the Original Compromise Motions] were done I want to say nine, ten months ago, and then the motion was filed maybe seven, eight months ago roughly, and there's been all this delay, and then less than 24 hours ago we get a massive stack of a new settlement from the Trustee and Revere that I think everyone would agree is very much not apples to apples. We're now apples to oranges.

My preference would be, I mean, so much of this is coming very late. My preference would be that really given the time that's passed and this, we'll call it speculative nature of that new settlement, which I did not digest other than a very quick review, and it's certainly far more complex than what was initially proposed, was really just to open up the pending motions to overbidder, and the, I was involved the Mickey Thompson case. I do believe that 9019 is subject to a 363 overbidding. I think that's the right result. I'm not saying that a trustee can never, or a party can never, counter a straight dollar bid with a different more complex bid, and that's certainly in the Trustee's discretion or largely in the Trustee's discretion, but these circumstances are a little bit different. There's been such a passage of time, and the new settlement is so complex and speculative related to what's here, and as a backdrop against this, given the administrative expenses, I'm not comfortable that there's going to be anything for anyone under any of these scenarios. So I feel the cleanest way is just to open up the pending settlement and if Revere believes they're worth more, that's fine. I understand the settlement is more expansive than that. The settlement can be revised to carve those out.

[Dkt. #454, p. 5-6]. In addition to the Court's concern regarding the disparate nature of the New Compromise Motion compared to the Original Compromise Motions, the following concerns were among those raised at the hearing on February 1, 2017: (1) that the settlement agreement provided that it was voidable if modified by the Court; and (2) that the nature, extent, and priority of Revere's lien, from which a carve-out was to be granted, were possibly subject to disputed. The Court later expressed its concerns to the parties regarding the operation of § 550 if Revere was successful in an avoidance action. The opposition of KMB and Defendants have largely questioned the value of Revere's "overbid," and KMB has asserted that the Court does not have adequate information to compare the settlements.

Therefore, the Court must engage in the following two-step analysis: (1) does the New Compromise offer more value than the Original Compromise Motions; and (2) do concessions made to Revere in the New Compromise Motion sufficiently reduce the value provided by Revere as to prevent the New Compromise Motion from being an overbid.

There are also two secondary considerations that inform the Court's deliberations. First, as noted by KMB, in making its determination, the Court must be presented with sufficient evidence to formulate an informed and intelligent opinion. Nevertheless, as noted by Revere, the Court should not conduct a mini-trial on every disputed issue, for that would eliminate the utility of a settlement altogether.

Second, the Court is cognizant of the uniqueness of this situation. On one hand, the primary opposition to the New Compromise Motion comes from the Defendants, parties whose interest, if not exactly adverse to, are certainly not synonymous with the interests of the estate. On the other hand, if the New Compromise Motion provides a much greater benefit to the estate, as Revere contends, then it should have been relatively simple to bifurcate the New Compromise Motion to create two agreement: (1) an overbid on the subject matter of the Original Compromise Motions; and (2) a settlement governing the remainder of the material in the New Compromise Motion. Yet, despite exhortations from the Court to that effect at the hearing on February 1, 2017, Revere has declined to adjust its position. This is even more concerning because the Court expressed skepticism regarding the characterization of the New Compromise Motion as an "overbid" at the hearing on February 1, 2017, then, later, expressed additional concerns that made the New Compromise Motion even less palatable, yet Revere has offered no clear response to the issues raised by the Court.

Returning to the two-step analysis identified above, the first consideration for the Court is to address the proposed Revere "carve-out." Importantly, if this "carve-out" was instead cash, the analysis today would be simpler. Therefore, the Court must consider why this distinction is important, and determine the consequences of the distinction. As noted in page 8 of Defendants' opposition, there are two concerns in this respect: (1) whether Revere actually has a security interest in the carve-out funds; and (2) whether there is a senior security interest in those funds. Regarding the latter, page 7 of Revere's reply appears to contain a warranty that if there is a senior secured interest, then Revere will provide funds to replace any value lost to the estate.² This would appear to eliminate concerns regarding the priority of Revere's security interest in the carve-out, if any. Regarding the former, a cursory review of Revere's proof of claim (claim #11), establishes that Revere contends that it has a blanket lien on Debtor's assets. The only remaining dispute would be whether the underlying security agreement is valid and enforceable against the estate. If it is, assuming the Court's interpretation of Revere's guarantee, outlined in footnote 1, is correct, it would appear that Revere has demonstrated it is offering more value than offered in the Original Compromise Motions.

But Revere is also requesting more in return. Specifically, not only would the avoidance actions underlying the Original Compromise Motions be assigned to a liquidating trust controlled by Revere, but all causes of action would be assigned. Specifically, the New Compromise Motion, at § 4.25, defines "liquidating trust assets" as:

all causes of action, claims, choses in action, and any rights of recovery whatsoever that the DJRI Estate now owns or owns in the future, except the tax attributes of DJRI.

The New Compromise Motion also states that the Trustee will allow Revere a $5,500,000 claim, of which $4,000,000 will be treated as secured. Additionally, the New Compromise Motion states that the Trustee will not contest the validity, perfection, and scope of the DJRI Security Agreement. Furthermore, the agreement provides that the Trustee grants Revere relief from stay to prosecute any claims of the bankruptcy estate, as well as Revere's state-court action. Ultimately these three assets concessions are summarized as follows: (1) Revere's claim is fixed at a certain amount; (2) all recovery rights of Trustee are assigned to a liquidating trust controlled by Revere; and (3) Revere has full freedom to prosecute any claims of the estate.

Regarding the fixing of Revere's claim, Revere filed proof of claim number 11 which makes the contradictory statements that the amount of the claim is $2,935,429.17, that the secured claim is $4,768,638.29, and that the unsecured claim is $805,354.20. While not objected to in the instant case, a similar and overlapping claim was filed in Debtor's principal's individual case, and is currently subject to a claim objection. Trustee's claim objection requested that the Court reduce the claim to $527,910, and hold an evidentiary hearing to determine how much of the claim is secured. While Trustee's objection was withdrawn after reaching a resolution with Revere, the claim remains subject to dispute due to an objection filed by Debtor. While Debtor, or any other party, would appear to maintain the right to object to Revere's claim, the New Compromise Motion, by its terms, appears to attempt to give Revere a blanket, first priority lien over all the estate's assets by attempting to provide an adequate protection lien that relates back to 2007.

Second, regarding the prosecution of actions through the utilization of a liquidating trust, the open-ended nature of the settlement makes a valuation of such a right inherently speculative. The Court lacks sufficient evidence that would enable the formation of even a rough estimate.

Third, the blanket grant of relief from stay presents problems. For instance, the New Compromise Motion, at the first sentence of § III.A.3.d, states: "[t]he liquidating trustee has full discretion to decide which Liquidating Trust Assets to investigate, which Liquidating Trust Assets to advance litigation expenses/costs to pursue, and which Liquidating Trust Assets to liquidate." Then, the second clause of § III.B.8 states: "[t]he DJRI Trustee grants RFC relief from stay to prosecute all claims that the bankruptcy estate owns and that neither the Liquidating Trustee nor the DJRI Trustee choose to prosecute." These two statements, read in conjunction³, appear to indicate that Revere, in its unlimited discretion, would have the contractual right to decline to bring any actions through the liquidating trust, and then bring any action, in bankruptcy or state court, in its own name. In such a situation, the result would be that the Trustee agrees to receive $226,973.95 (all of which would likely go towards administrative claims, since, at the previous hearing, Trustee's counsel stated its fees were already over $400,000) in return for essentially abdicating its role as Trustee, while Revere would, for all intents and purposes, own Debtor. Essentially, the result would be that Revere purchased Debtor from Trustee.

Ignoring the myriad potential problems with the above scenario, the situation illustrates the dilemma at issue here. Given the unwieldy administrative claims in this case, in order for there to be any distribution to unsecured creditors, Revere would have to recover, at a minimum, in excess of approximately $1,000,000. If such an amount were recovered, the New Compromise Motion would represent a great bargain for Revere, and Revere would easily recoup its cost. If such an amount is not recovered, then the unsecured creditors other than Revere will not be paid a penny, which reflects Revere's apparent leverage over Trustee under the settlement. And, ultimately, the question becomes, what is being given up by Revere in the New Compromise Motion? A carve-out, representing approximately 5% of the collateral, based on a security agreement which is in dispute, a dispute the settlement attempts to close the door on.

While Revere, citing Lahijani, contends that the Court should estimate the value of each component of the New Compromise Motion, and that an "apples to oranges" overbid should be considered, the Court requires evidence upon which it can formulate an informed, intelligent estimate of the value of the different components. Here, the comprehensive and complicated nature of the settlement precludes such an estimate. While the Court acknowledges that it could attempt to evaluate an "apples to oranges" overbid, that is not what has been presented. Instead, the New Compromise Motion constitutes an "apples to kangaroos" overbid.

Finally, while Revere contends that deference to Trustee's business judgment is necessary, the Court's standard approach to settlement agreements is altered by the line of reasoning expressed in In re Seminole Walls & Ceilings Corp. 388 B.R. 386, 391-96 (Bankr. M.D. Fla. 2008). The Court concludes that, rather than simply deferring to Trustee's business judgment, the Court must determine whether the New Compromise Motion constitutes an overbid compared to the Original Compromise Motions. And, on the record before the Court, such a determination is infeasible.

Nevertheless, as the Court expressed at the previous hearing, if the New Compromise Motion is so clearly more beneficial to the bankruptcy estate than the Original Compromise Motions, Revere should have no trouble bifurcating the agreement to produce an overbid, and a remainder agreement, the latter of which, in the absence of a pre-existing competing settlement, would be assessed under the default, general Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9019 standards. Therefore, the Court is inclined to schedule an auction to allow Revere to overbid on the adversary proceedings related to the Original Compromise Motions. While such an overbid need not necessarily come in the form of "apples to apples," "apples to kangaroos" will be subject to the same concerns repeatedly expressed by the Court.

BACKGROUND

On August 30, 2016 ("Petition Date"), Efren Estrada ("Debtor"), filed his petition for chapter 7 relief. Charles Daff is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee"). On December 12, 2016, the Debtor received a chapter 7 discharge.

Chapter 7

On March 14, 2017 (or approximately 7 months after the Petition Date and post-discharge), the Debtors filed their motion for conversion of their case to a case under chapter 13 ("Motion"). On March 22, 2017, the Trustee filed opposition to the Debtors' Motion ("Opposition"). On March 29, 2017, the Debtors filed their reply ("Reply").

DISCUSSION

The Trustee argues that the Debtor's Motion should be denied because it has been filed in bad faith and because the Debtor's chapter 7 discharge precludes conversion pursuant to this Court's holding in In re Santos, 561 B.R. 825, 829 (C.D. Cal. 2017).

In response, the Debtor asserts that he will propose a chapter 13 plan that would pay the creditors whose debts have presumably already been discharged in this case. The only basis advanced by the Debtor to support his contention that a Debtor can propose to pay already discharged debts in a post-discharge converted chapter 13 case is that a different Judge in the Central District permitted such conversion in another case known to Counsel for the Debtor. The Debtor, however, has not indicated the legal basis for this other court's ruling and such ruling would not be binding on this Court. Separately, the Court notes that although not expressly discussed in the Memorandum Decision on Santos, the Debtors in that case had also proposed to pay creditors whose debts had already been discharged at 100% through a confirmed chapter 13 plan. However, the bare promise that such a plan will be proposed where the Debtor's chapter 7 debts have already been discharged has no binding effect.

Having failed to distinguish Santos, the Court declines to reach the issues raised by the Trustee regarding alleged bad faith of the Debtor in failing to properly identify the nature of his interest in the Property.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, and following the Santos holding, the Court finds that "cause" exists to deny the Debtor's request for conversion because the Debtor has received the benefits of a chapter 7 discharge and now seeks to avoid the concomitant burden of allowing the Trustee to administer the Debtor's assets for the benefit of creditors.

Dana Travis ("Applicant") substituted into the case at the time when Debtors were attempting to convert to Chapter 13 (on 1/31/17). The motion to convert was filed the same day, was opposed by the Chapter 7 trustee, and a hearing was set for March 1, 2017. The hearing was continued for Debtors to provide evidence of new employment that would enable a plan to be confirmed. Evidence was filed with the Court on March 7, 2017, and, after stipulation between Debtors and the Chapter 7 trustee, the case was converted to Chapter 13 on April 4, 2017.

On April 12, 2017, Debtors filed their Chapter 13 plan, and the plan was confirmed on May 22, 2017. On May 23, 2017, Applicant filed the instant fee application. On June 5, 2017, Trustee filed comments, taking no position on the application. On June 12, 2017, the Court set the matter for hearing.

11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(3) (2005) provides factors to be considered in determining the reasonableness of requested compensation.

First, the Court notes that Local Rule 3015-(1)(v)(5) and Local Rule 2016-(1) outline directions when filing a supplemental fee application. Here, Applicant has not filed an application that conforms with Local Rule 2016-(1), but has simply provided the Court with an itemized invoice and a cover sheet.

Second, the Court notes that adding up the itemized amounts (the final column) in the invoice produces a figure of $6,970, yet Applicant has requested $7,650. Therefore, the Court will reduce fees by $680.

Chapter 13

Finally, the Court has reviewed the fee application and finds the fees to be generally reasonable and necessary. Nevertheless, the Court makes the following reductions:

- 1) a reduction of $500 for two entries that simply state "consultation clients" (dated 1/30 and 2/20). In the absence of further information, the Court finds the entries to be vague;
- 2) a reduction of $200 related to preparation of the motion to convert (entry dated 1/30). The Court has reviewed the motion, which was relatively straightforward, and finds 1.5 hours to be excessive;
- 3) a reduction of $180 corresponding to the time entries related to the continued hearing on the motion to convert (dated 4/5 and 4/6). At the time of these two time entries, the hearing had been vacated and, therefore, these entries are unreasonable and unclear.

Tentative:

The Court is inclined to APPROVE the application in the reduced amount of $6,090.

Docket 64

Tentative Ruling:

7/6/17

11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(3) (2005) provides factors to be considered in determining the reasonableness of requested compensation.

Wells Fargo Bank filed a motion for relief from stay (real property), seeking relief under § 362(d)(1) because Debtors were six months behind on their post-confirmation payments. Debtors filed a standard opposition, stating that they would cure or enter into an adequate protection agreement. The hearing was continued twice, and then the parties entered into an adequate protection agreement.

Trustee's opposition is generic and does not identify any specific time entries which the Trustee believes are unreasonable or excessive. All of the entries are either for 0.1 or 0.2 hours, except for three entries regarding attendance at the two hearings and the filing of the opposition, all of which are either 0.3 or 0.35 hours. While there are a number of entries for 0.1 or 0.2 hours, the entries that relate to entering into an adequate protection payment appear reasonable.

There are also four entries, totaling 0.6 hours, which appear to reflect time Applicant spent helping the client make their monthly mortgage payments (on 4/11/17 and 5/15/17). The Court will reduce these entries by 0.3 hours, totaling $118.50, because it is unclear why Applicant needed to consult with their client about the mortgage payments, and it seems unreasonable to bill the client $39.50 for transmitting the monthly mortgage payment.

Background:

On July 15, 2016, Anthony & Cynthia Parker ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On July 18, 2016, Cavalry SPV II, LLC ("Creditor") filed proof of claim #1, an unsecured claim in the amount of $1,209.03 ("Claim 1"). On September 1, 2016, Debtors' Chapter 13 plan was confirmed. On November 18, 2016, Creditor filed proof of claim #10, an unsecured claim in the amount of $873.10 ("Claim 10").

On June 6, 2017, Debtors filed a claim objection to Claim 1 and Claim 10.

Applicable Law:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. *See In re Consol. of the date of the filing of the petition, and shall allow such claim in such amount, except to the extent that –

(1) such claim is unenforceable against the debtor and property of the debtor, under any agreement or applicable for a reason other than because such claim is contingent or unmatured.

Cal. Code Civ. P. § 337 provides a statute of limitations of four years for debts founded on written contracts, book accounts, accounts stated based upon account in writing, "balance of mutual, open and current account in writing," and rescission of written contract. Once the statute of limitations has passed, the claim is unenforceable.

Claim 1 and Claim 10 are both based on credit cards, and, therefore, fall within the scope of Cal Code Civ. P. § 337. The statement of account for Claim 1 states that the last payment was made on August 3, 2009, and that the account was charged off on March 12, 2010. The statement of account for Claim 10 states that the last payment was made on July 31, 2009, and that the account was charged off on March 3, 2010. No activity with regard to either claim occurred within the four years prior the filing of the bankruptcy petition, and, therefore, the statute of limitations has expired.

Furthermore, the Court deems failure to oppose to be consent to the relief requested pursuant to Local Rule 9013-(1)(h).

Tentative Ruling

The Court is inclined to SUSTAIN the objection.

BACKGROUND

On October 24, 2016, Patricia Morales ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On January 24, 2017, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On April 3, 2017, Trustee's motion to dismiss was granted after no opposition was properly filed. On April 6, 2017, Debtor filed a motion to vacate dismissal (the "First Motion"). Trustee filed his disapproval on April 10, 2017. On April 21, 2017, Debtor filed a late reply that was not served

The Court posted a tentative prior to the hearing on April 27, 2017, that outlined a variety of technical and substantive deficiencies, both legal and factual. At the hearing, Debtor's counsel withdrew the motion. On May 5, 2017, Debtor filed a new motion to vacate dismissal (the "Second Motion").

Chapter 13

DISCUSSION

While the Court notes that Debtor appears to have made some attempt to remedy the deficiencies noted in the Court's previous tentative ruling, the Second Motion still contains significant technical and substantive deficiencies, both legal and factual.

First of all, service of the Second Motion is improper. Debtor's service list abruptly cuts off at the letter "L" (creditors listed in alphabetical order).

Second of all, the Second Motion was not calendared and noticed correctly. The motion was set on "regular notice" but Debtor only provided thirteen days notice of the hearing. This is especially concerning because the reason the case was dismissed was because Debtor's opposition to the motion to dismiss was calendared incorrectly.

Third, the Second Motion contains the same general factual deficiencies as the First Motion. Once again, Debtor identifies her failure to file a responsive pleading to Trustee's motion for dismissal as the act to which a 60(b) analysis applies. As the Court noted in its previous tentative, however, Debtor did file an opposition to that motion, but a hearing was not set because Debtor selected incorrect hearing information. Yet, Debtor has opted to include the same assertions in the Second Motion.

Fourth, the majority of Debtor's motion discusses the payment history of Debtor, Debtor's account of which was disputed by Trustee in his opposition to the First Motion. Once again, the exhibits included are not authenticated. Additionally, the Second Motion removes the declaration of Debtor. Instead, in its place, is a declaration of Debtor's counsel, which is simply a verbatim copy of the motion, and otherwise lacks foundation and personal knowledge.

Fifth, while the Second Motion appears to make an attempt to remedy the legal deficiencies of the First Motion, that attempt is inadequate. While the Second Motion, unlike the First Motion, does identify the appropriate legal standard, it is still far from adequate. The motion appears to include two statements that could be characterized as legal, and that are relevant in this matter. The first sentence states: "[T]he court has the authority to grant the relief sought herein pursuant F.R.C.P. 60(b) States: (1) Mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect." The second statement, which occurs before the first, states: "Debtor respectfully requests the court to vacate dismissal and reinstate the bankruptcy case on the following grounds that the reason for her failure to file a responsive opposition to the motion to dismiss was excusable."

Regarding the first sentence, apart from the fact that it is clearly not a sentence, the motion contains no further discussion of the legal standard or how to apply 60(b) to the facts of this case. Regarding the second sentence, apart from the fact that it is grammatically defective, the Court notes, once again, that Debtor did file an opposition to Trustee's motion to dismiss. The second sentence simply misrepresents the record and lacks credibility.

Debtor's previous four filings in this case (the Second Motion, the First Motion and Debtor's reply, and the opposition to Trustee's motion to dismiss) contain numerous technical and substantive deficiencies, are far from legally adequate, and are factually inaccurate. Multiple filings were noticed incorrectly and multiple filings were served incorrectly. More importantly, despite the fact the Court posted a tentative that informed Debtor why the First Motion was inadequate, Debtor has, for the most part, repeated the deficiencies in the Second Motion. The two sentences outlined above appear to constitute the steps taken to respond to the Court's tentative, and those two sentences are simply inadequate.

Tentative Ruling:

For the foregoing reasons, the Court is inclined to CONTINUE the hearing for movant to file/serve amended pleadings and to coincide with a hearing on an order to show cause why Movant's counsel should not be sanctioned.

ACTION IN NON-BANKRUPTCY FORUM RE: Real Property

MOVANT: MARTHA E GUERRERO AND EDUARDO E GUERRERO

FROM: 4/25/17, 5/30/17

EH__

Docket 11

 VACATED  REASON: CONTINUED TO 7/25/17 AT 10:00 A.M.

Tentative Ruling:

5/30/17

Debtor's opposition argues that the real estate contract is an executory contract that can be rejected in bankruptcy. While providing an applicable citation for that assertion, Debtor does not apply the legal standard to the facts of this case.

Nevertheless, it appears that Debtor's characterization of the contract as "executory" may have merit. While Movant, in the motion, states that "all contingencies had been removed," and, in the reply, states that they "dutifully removed all their contractual contingencies," the state court complaint submitted to support their motion states, in paragraph 23: "Plaintiffs have fully performed all conditions, covenants, and promises required by them on their part to be performed in accordance with the terms and conditions of the contract, except the final payment for the purchase of the Property." (emphasis added). While Movants appear to have made the initial deposit into escrow, it does not appear that the final purchase price was tendered.

"[A]n 'executory contract' that can be rejected in bankruptcy is a contract on which performance remains due on both sides at the time of the bankruptcy petition." Matter of Newcomb, 744 F.2d 621, 624 (8th Cir. 1984); see also In re Texscan Corp., 976 F.2d 1269-1271-72 (9th Cir. 1992). In Newcomb, the Court held that when the funds had already been transferred into escrow, there was no executory contract – no material obligations remained on the part of the grantor. See id.

CONT... AMANDO MORALES and ALICIA MALDONADO

Chapter 7

In the Ninth Circuit, a real estate sales contract remains executory until the full purchase price is deposited into escrow by the purchaser. See In re Hertz, 536 B.R. 434, 439-41 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2015) (an extended discussion on when a purchase contract loses its executory nature).

Given that the real estate purchase contract may be an executory contract that shortly will be rejected by operation of law under 11 U.S.C. § 365(d)(1), and that Movants are seeking a state court order for specific performance under the contract, granting relief from stay would be improper because the state court proceedings would interfere with the bankruptcy court proceedings. Interference with the administration of the estate is the most important consideration when considering a motion for relief from stay to proceed with state court litigation. See In re Roger, 539 B.R. 837, 845 C.D. Cal. 2015) ("According to the court in Curtis, the most importance factor in determining whether to grant relief from the automatic stay to permit litigation against the debtor in another forum is the effect of such litigation on the administration of the estate. Even slight interference with the administration may be enough to preclude relief in the absence of a commensurate benefit."). Here, there is a possibility of significant interference with the bankruptcy estate.

Tentative Ruling:

For the foregoing reasons, the Court is inclined to DENY the motion.

CASE DISMISSED 5/26/17

From: 6/27/17

Docket 12

Tentative Ruling:

07/11/2017

Service: Improper

Opposition: None

Once improper service is remedied, the tentative ruling is to GRANT relief from the stay under §§ 362(d)(1) and 362(d)(4) based on the following: Debtor has not paid mortgage for over two years, Movant is one of two creditors listed in case commencement documents, Debtor filed only a few case commencement documents and schedules, and the statement of financial affairs have not been filed. Additionally, the Debtor's failure to file required documents resulted in dismissal of the case on May 26, 2017. Debtor has also filed two previous bankruptcies with respect to the property in 2016 which were dismissed. Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT relief pursuant to ¶2, ¶5, ¶7b, and ¶9b. Court is also inclined to GRANT relief that Movant may provide and enter into potential forbearance agreement; confirming that no stay is in effect pursuant to § 362(c)(4). GRANT waiver of 4001(a) (3) stay.

As reflected above, while the court is inclined to grant relief from stay, service was improper due to Movant's failure to serve Debtor. Specifically, the Debtor's address

Docket 13

Tentative Ruling:

July 11, 2017

Service: Ok

Opposition: Yes

The Debtor does not controvert the bases for relief from stay. She only requests that there be no lock out prior to September 1, 2017. Debtor further asserts that there was insufficient notice to her and that the Movant did not provide proof of service on the Debtor or Trustee. However, the Trustee receives notice via NEF which is noted on the Motion's proof of service. Additionally, the Motion indicates that Debtor was served at 2568 Baseline St, Apt 109 in Highland, CA (the same address indicated by the Debtor on her petition). In fact, Movant served Debtor on June 20 (although the Motion was not filed until June 23) and thus provided nearly three weeks notice of the hearing, and the Court's procedures permit an unlawful detainer relief from stay motion to be filed with only 5 days notice. As such, notice was sufficient.

Absent further evidence, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion in its entirety.

BACKGROUND

On May 11, 2016, Debtor filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. Debtor operated a medical account receivable collection service. On November 30, 2016, a Chapter 11 trustee was appointed.

On June 2, 2017, UST filed a motion to dismiss the Chapter 11 case for failure to pay quarterly fees of either $9,750 or $6,825, which were delinquent as of May 1, 2017. On June 13, 2017, the Chapter 11 trustee filed opposition to the motion to dismiss.

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 1112(b) provides that a case may be dismissed or converted for cause. Section 1112(b)(4) enumerates certain examples of cause, including "failure to pay

7/11/17

FACTUAL BACKGROUND:

Allied Injury Management, Inc. ("Debtor") provides billing and collection services to medical service providers, including Myelin Diagnostics and Dr. Silvia De La Llana, CEO of Myelin Diagnostics ("Defendants"). As part of the written business agreement ("Written Agreement") with Defendants, Debtor in the normal course of business opened a for-the- benefit-of account ("FBO Account") for Defendants in which Debtor would deposit the money collected ("Receivables"). Pursuant to the Written Agreement, Debtor is entitled to a monthly fixed fee of $12,800 and 45% of the monthly gross collection.

The Written Agreement has the following relevant clauses:

8.5 Governing Law. This Agreement shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of California.

8.10 Amendment. This Agreement may be amended only by a written instrument executed by each of the parties.

8.14.5 Notwithstanding anything to the contrary stated above in this section, the right to arbitration shall not apply to a claim of either party seeking specific performance, injunctive relief, or other equity remedy as specifically provided in this agreement.

Trustee alleges an oral agreement was entered into in which Debtor advanced the portion of the Receivables to which Defendant was entitled to and now Debtor is entitled to 100% of the receivables ("Oral Agreement").

On May 11, 2016, Debtor filed a Chapter 11 bankruptcy. As a result Debtor had to close all pre-bankruptcy petition FBO Accounts. Debtor requested documents from Defendants in order to open new FBO Accounts. Defendant failed to supply the requested documents. As a result Debtor was unable to open the FBO Account. Debtor was in possession of checks to be deposited into the FBO Account. Debtor was unable to deposit and distribute the receivables pursuant to the Written and Oral Agreement. Trustee now asserts that Debtor was able to open an FBO account for Defendants.

Debtor filed a Complaint for Interpleader and Declaratory Relief ("Complaint") on September 21, 2016. On October 27, 2016, the Court granted an order allowing Debtor to deposit $10,244.19 in the Court's Registry for Defendants.

Defendants were to file an Answer by October 24, 2016. To date, Defendants have not filed an Answer. On November 4, 2016, Default was entered against Defendants. On May 25, 2017, Chapter 11 Trustee ("Trustee") filed this Motion for Default Judgment ("Motion") and served Defendants.

Trustee requests that the Court establish (1) "Parties rights and obligations are governed by the [Written Agreement and Oral Agreement]" (2) Payment structure under the [Written Agreement and the Oral Agreement] and (3) a judgment authorizing Debtor to open an account and deposit the funds.

In support of this Motion, Trustee has filed a Declaration by Ms. Tina Shoemaker, employee of Debtor affiliate Titanium Resource Company.

Here, Defendants were to file an Answer by October 24, 2016. Defendants have not made an appearance in this case. Default was entered against Defendants on November 4, 2016.

III. Default Judgment

A court may grant default judgment after an entry of default. Fed. R. Civ. P. 55. A Motion for Default Judgment must also satisfy Local Bankruptcy Rule 7055-1 by identifying the party against whom default was entered, the date of entry of default, by stating if the defaulting party is an infant or incompetent person, by stating if the defaulting party is on active duty in the armed forces, and by serving the motion on the defaulting party pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 55(b)(2). LBR 7055-1.

Here, Defendants have not appeared in the case. Default was entered against Defendants on November 4, 2016. Motion for Default Judgment was filed on May 25, 2017. The Motion named Defendants, stated the date of entry of default, and stated Defendants are not infants, incompetent, or on active duty. Defendants were served with Motion for Default Judgment on May 25, 107.

A default judgment is not a right but rather the court has discretion to enter a default judgment. Aldabe v. Aldabe, 616 F.2d 1089, 1092 (9th Cir.1980). In exercising discretion the court may consider: (1) possibility of prejudice to the plaintiff, (2) merits of plaintiff's substantive claims, (3) sufficiency of complaint, (4) sum of money at stake in action, (5) possibility of dispute concerning material facts, (6) whether defendants default was product of excusable neglect, (7) strong public policy favoring decisions on the merits. Eitel v. McCool, 782 F.2d 1470, 1471-1472 (9th Cir 1986).

Chapter 11

1. Possibility of prejudice to the Plaintiff

To determine whether there is prejudice to the plaintiff the court should look at whether the plaintiff's ability to pursue his claim will be hindered by not granting a default judgment. Falk v. Allen, 739 F.2d 461, 462 (9th Cir. 1984).

Here, Trustee is unable to collect the money it has earned without declaratory relief. As a result the Trustee is unable to take possession of the money and administer the estate.

Debtor has successfully petitioned the Court to deposit the checks into the Court's Registry. Trustee has not been able to recover the money earned by Debtor from collecting the Receivables and will not be able to recover until the Court orders release of the funds to the appropriate parties. Therefore, the possibility of prejudice to the Trustee is high and warrants default judgment.

2. Merits of plaintiff's substantive claims and sufficiency of complaint

The general rule is that after default is entered, the factual allegations asserted in the complaint are taken as true, with the exception of facts regarding damages. Geddes v. United Fin. Grp., 559 F.2d 557, 560 (9th Cir. 1977). A pleading must contain a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief. Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(a)(2).

"Under the second and third Eitel factors the Court must examine whether the Plaintiff has plead facts sufficient to establish and succeed upon its claims." Craigslis, Inc. v. Naturemarket, Inc., 694 F. Supp. 2d 1039, 1055 (N.D. Cal. 2010).

A. Declaratory Relief

A court "may declare the rights and other legal relations of any interested party seeking such declaration" when there is a case of actual controversy regarding a matter within its jurisdiction. 28 U.S.C. § 2201. Declaratory relief was created to protect defendants from adversarial threats of impending litigation by giving parties an opportunity to prevent potential damages. Societe de Conditionnement en Aluminium v. Hunter Eng'g Co., Inc., 655 F.2d 938, 943 (9th Cir. 1981)(citing Japan Gas Lighter Assoc. v. Ronson Corp., 257 F. Supp. 219, 237 (D.N.J 1966).

An actual controversy exists if "the facts alleged, under all the circumstances; show that there is a substantial controversy, between parties having adverse legal interests, of sufficient immediacy and reality to warrant the issuance of a declaratory judgment." Md. Cas. Co. v. Pac. Coal & Oil Co., 312 U.S. 270, 273 (1941). Once the court has determined whether there is an actual controversy, the court must decide whether to exercise jurisdiction and grant declaratory relief. Principal Life Ins. Co. v. Robinson, 394 F.3d 665, 668 (9th Cir. 2005).

Declaratory relief is appropriate if the judgment would "serve a useful purpose in clarifying and settling the legal relation in issue" and "terminate and afford relief from the uncertainty, insecurity and controversy giving rise to the proceeding." Eureka Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Am. Cas. Co., 873 F.2d 229, 231 (9th Cir. 1989). Furthermore, the court should avoid needless determination of state law, discourage forum shopping, and avoid duplicate litigation. Gov't Emp. Ins. Co. v. Dizol, 133 F.3d 1220, 1225 (9th Cir. 1988).

Here, Trustee claims two controversies. The first is regarding the amount to be disbursed to each party from the Receivables collected by Debtor. The second controversy involves Defendants' assertion "that they have done all they are required to do under the agreements" and Debtor's assertion that "Defendants have failed to provide the necessary documents to open" the FBO Account.

When a plaintiff no longer wishes to or is no longer able to engage in the activity for which plaintiff seeks declaratory relief, no actual controversy exists. Gator.com Corp. v. L.L. Bean, Inc., 398 F.3d 1125, 1129 (9th Cir. 2005). Given that Trustee has successfully opened an FBO Account for Defendants, the second controversy alleged does not satisfy the actual controversy requirement and does not warrant declaratory relief.

Trustee alleges that an actual controversy has arisen regarding the portion of the Receivables due to each party. Trustee has provided a copy of the Written Agreement and evidence of an Oral Agreement modifying said Written Agreement. The agreements each provide a different distribution of the Receivables collected by Debtor. The Written Agreement awards only 45% to the Debtor, while the Oral Agreement would award 100%, a 55% difference. However, to satisfy the actual controversy requirement, a claim must present substantial controversy and also present sufficient immediacy and reality.

A substantial controversy is present when a substantial monetary amount will change hands and when a legal claim concededly worth at least that much will be foregone. Golden v. Cal. Emergency Physicians Med. Grp., 782 F.3d 1083, 1088-1089 (9th Cir. 2015).

A claim may present sufficient immediacy and reality when adjudicating an issue would end the lawsuit and would make the money be paid in the present. Golden at 1088-1089. In Principal Life, the Court found sufficient immediacy and reality was present when a party suffered an inability to make reasonable business decisions due to an unresolved lease agreement dispute. Principal Life Ins. Co. at 669.

Trustee's inability to dispose of the money earned by Debtor, currently deposited in the Court Registry appears to satisfy the "sufficient immediacy and reality" needed to order declaratory relief. Trustee is presently unable to pay itself the portion of the money Debtor has earned and cannot pay third parties. Similar to the plaintiff in Principal Life who could not make reasonable business decisions as a result of the dispute over the terms of the lease agreement, Trustee is unable to go on with daily business transactions due to the questions regarding the agreements. Trustee's effort to reorganize is being hindered by Defendants' failure to provide the documents requested in a timely manner so Trustee could open the FBO Account and by Defendants' subsequent failure to respond to the present Complaint.

Furthermore, under 11 U.S.C. § 704 (a)(1), it is the Trustee's duty to "close the estate as expeditiously as is compatible with the best interests of parties in interest." At this point the Trustee is unable to take possession of money which Debtor has earned and distribute the money among the parties in interest. Adjudicating this claim would allow for the money currently sitting in the Court Registry to be disbursed to the Trustee and subsequently to Debtor's creditors. Depending on the courts determination of whether Debtor is entitled to 45% or 100%, Trustee is unable to access between $4,609.88 and $10,244.19. By adjudicating this issue the Trustee could take control of the money, distribute the funds, and close the estate.

The Court finds that an actual controversy does exist and must now determine if it will exercise its discretion, based on the standard set in Eureka, and award declaratory relief.

A useful purpose may be served when declaratory relief would solve "a complex and long-lasting dispute over critical aspects of the parties rights and responsibilities under the treaty." U.S. v. State of Wash., 759 F.2d 1353, 1364 (9th Cir. 1985). In Newcal Indus., Inc., declaratory relief was found to have a useful purpose because it established a right to recover. Newcal Indus., Inc. v. Ikon Office Sol., 513 F.3d 1038, 1057 (9th Cir. 2008). Declaratory relief may afford relief from uncertainty, insecurity and controversy when relief would settle uncertainty regarding the validity of a legal theory. Newcal Indus., Inc. at 1057.

Here, declaratory relief would serve a useful purpose in determining whether Debtor should be paid and the Trustee able to access money which may belong to the Debtor's Estate in accordance with the Written Agreement or the Oral Agreement. While the dispute at hand is not presented as complex or long-lasting, the uncertainty regarding this agreement has had a negative effect on the Trustee's ability to carry out his statutory duties. Currently the Receivables collected by Debtor are sitting in the Court Registry. Declaratory relief would establish the rights of Debtor and Defendants. By granting declaratory relief the Court will allow for the Receivables to be disbursed appropriately, thus allowing the Trustee to take possession of the funds.

The Court finds that declaratory relief would afford relief from uncertainty, insecurity, and controversy by determining whether the Oral Agreement alleged by Trustee or the Written Agreement should be the basis for distribution of the Receivables.

Based on the foregoing, declaratory relief is appropriate. The Court now turns to the Plaintiff's claim that the Oral Agreement, and not the Written Agreement, should guide the distribution of the Receivables.

B. State Contract Law: Oral Modification of Written Agreement

A written contract may be modified by an executed oral agreement. Cal. Civ. Code § 1698 (b). An executed oral agreement will serve as a modification even if the original contract requires that all changes be approved in writing. Miller v. Brown, 136 Cal. App. 2d 763, 775 (1955). An oral modification to a written agreement must be proved by a preponderance of the evidence. Barrett v. Bank of Am., 183 Cal. App 3d 1362, 1371 (1980).

An executed contract is one which has been fully performed. Fannucchi & Limi Farms v. United Agri Prod., 414 F.3d 1075, 1080 (9th Cir. 2005). "To come within the provision permitting modification by an executed oral agreement the plaintiffs' evidence must be sufficient to establish all the elements of a contract and a contract which is capable of execution, at least unilaterally." Goodman v. Citizens Life & Cas. Ins. Co., 253 Cal. App. 2d 807, 817 (1967). Whether a written agreement has been modified by an executed oral agreement is a question of fact. Keeble v. Brown, 123 Cal. App. 2d 126, 132 (1954).

Here, Trustee presents the Written Agreement entered into by Debtor and Defendants. The Written Agreement states that Debtor will receive from Defendant monthly fixed fees totaling $12,800 plus an additional 45% of the monthly gross collection. The Written Agreement contains a clause stating that the written agreement may only be amended in writing.

Chapter 11

However, Trustee provides evidence that an Oral Agreement was entered into in which Debtor was to advance to Defendant the amount of Receivables to which Defendant was entitled. In turn Debtor would be entitled to 100% of the Receivables.

As set forth in Barrett, Trustee has failed to prove by a preponderance of the evidence that the Oral Agreement exists and that said agreement was executed in order to serve as a valid modification pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code § 1698. As evidence that the Oral Agreement exists Trustee provides a declaration from Titanium Resource Company employee, Ms. Tina Shoemaker. Titanium Resource Company is an affiliate of Debtor. Ms. Shoemaker asserts that she is aware that the Oral Agreement supersedes the Written Agreement because she spoke with Defendants "on this subject on multiple occasions..." Trustee asserts that Defendant was advanced the amount due to Defendant under the Oral Agreement. However, while an oral agreement may be enforceable even if the contract requires all changes to be in writing, Trustee failed to plead the allegation in the Complaint or provide evidence of the payment made to Defendant. As such, Trustee has not established the oral agreement was fully performed.

3. Sum of money at stake in action

Under this factor, "the court must consider the amount of money at stake in relation to the seriousness of Defendant's conduct." PepsiCo, Inc. v. Cal. Sec. Cans, 238 F.Supp.2d 1172, 1176 (C.D. Cal. 2002). When plaintiff only seeks damages proportional to the breach of the contract, the amount of money at stake does not preclude default judgment. NewGen, LLC v. SafeCig, LLC, 840 F.3d 606, 617 (9th Cir. 2016). "Default judgment is disfavored where the sum of money at stake is too large or unreasonable in relation to defendants conduct." Vogel v. Rite Aid Corp., 992 F.Supp.2d 998, 1012 (C.D. Cal. 2014)(citing Truong Giang Corp. v. Twinstar Tea Corp., No. C 06-03594 JSW, 2007 WL 1545173, *12 (N.D. Cal. 2007).

Here, although the Trustee is seeking declaratory relief there is still money at stake. The Court's declaration could result in a monetary award to the Trustee of anywhere between $4,609.88 and $10,244.19. This amount is what has been collected by the Debtor in Receivables for the Defendants. The proportionately minimal sum of money at stake weighs in favor of entry of default judgment.

4. Possibility of dispute concerning material facts

Chapter 11

The general rule is that after default is entered, all well-pleaded factual allegations are taken as true, with the exception of facts regarding damages. PepsiCo, Inc. at 1177.

Defendants' were properly served and had a full opportunity to respond to the factual allegations asserted in the Complaint. Thus, default judgment may be appropriate.

5. Whether defendants' default was product of excusable neglect

When a party is properly served and ignores the deadline to respond to the complaint there is no excusable neglect. NewGen, LLC v. SafeCig LLC, 840 F.3d 606, 616 (9th Cir. 2016).

Here, Defendants were properly served with the Complaint on September 30, 2016. Defendants were served with the Motion for Default Judgment on May 25, 2017. Defendants have had ample opportunity to be heard and has yet to make an appearance in the present case. Therefore, Defendants' default is unlikely to be a result of excusable neglect.

6. Strong public policy favoring decisions on the merits

Generally default judgments are disfavored and a case should be decided on the merits. Eitel, 728 F.2d at 1472. When the Defendant makes the termination of a case impossible or impracticable, default judgment is permitted. PepsiCo, Inc. at 1174.

Here, Defendants were properly served and have not made any appearance in the case. Defendants' failure to make an appearance and failure to file any response or opposition weigh in favor of the entry of default judgment.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT Trustee's Motion for Default Judgment. The Court finds that distribution of the Receivables should be in accordance with the Written Agreement.

Docket 71

Tentative Ruling:

I. Background Facts

On May 11, 2016, Allied Injury Management, Inc. ("Debtor") filed a voluntary petition under Chapter 11 commencing the current bankruptcy case. On September 21, 2016, the Debtor commenced this adversary proceeding seeking interpleader and declaratory relief (the "Complaint") against Dr. Javier Torres (the "Defendant"). The clerk entered default on November 4, 2016. On November 30, 2016, the Court ordered the appointment of a Chapter 11 Trustee, David M. Goodrich, (the "Trustee") to assume control of the estate. The Trustee was appointed on December 7, 2016, and filed this motion for default judgment only on the declaratory relief claim on May 25, 2017 (the "Motion"). No opposition has been filed.

According to the Complaint, the Debtor's business provided billing and collection services to medical providers pursuant to written and oral medical service agreements (collectively, "MSAs"). In this case, Debtor allegedly had an oral MSA with the Defendant to open a "for-the-benefit of account." The Debtor holds a security interest in and is the attorney-in-fact of this trust account, and it would deposit the Defendant's receivables into the account either before or after subtracting its fee. The Debtor collected $7,063.73 in receivables. Debtor asserts that it has advanced an amount equal to the portion of the receivables to which the Defendant would be entitled and that the estate is entitled to 100% of these receivables per its verbal MSA with the Defendant. Upon commencing the bankruptcy case, Debtor had to close these accounts and open new accounts that comported with debtor-in-possession requirements imposed by the Trustee. The Debtor was unable to open an account for the Defendant because he did not provide the documentation required by the bank. Meanwhile, the Debtor was still collecting receivables for these providers but could not deposit the checks. Therefore, the Debtor filed the Complaint to establish the estate's rights and obligations under the MSAs notwithstanding its inability to open the required Trustee-approved bank accounts, and on October 10, 2016, filed a motion to deposit the collected checks with the Court's registry pending the outcome of the Complaint in order to ensure that the checks did not expire. The Court approved the Court registry order, and now, the Trustee seeks a default judgment on the declaratory relief claim.

II. Service

Service of process is governed by FRBP 7004(b)(1), which states that service must be made within the US by first class mail postage prepaid as follows:

Upon an individual other than an infant or incompetent, by mailing a copy of the summons and complaint to the individual's dwelling house or usual place of abode or to the place where the individual regularly conducts a business or profession.

Notice was served on Dr. Javier Torres. Service is proper.

III. Default

Under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure ("FRCP") 55, a default judgment is granted after the entry of default. The rule states, "When a party against whom a judgment for affirmative relief is sought has failed to plead or otherwise defend, and that failure is shown by affidavit or otherwise, the clerk must enter the party's default."

As stated above, the clerk entered default on November 4, 2016, satisfying this requirement.

In addition, the relevant requirements of the Local Bankruptcy Rules ("LBR") 7055-1 must be satisfied: (A) identity of the party whom default was entered and the date of entry of default, (B) whether the defaulting party is an infant or incompetent person, (C) whether the individual defendant is currently on active duty, (D) when individual is debtor..., (E) that notice of the motion has been served on defaulting party, if required by FRCP 55(b)(2).

These requirements have all been met.

IV. Default Judgment

Factors which may be considered by courts in exercising discretion as to the entry of a default judgment include:

(a) the possibility of prejudice to the plaintiff, (b) the merits of the plaintiff's substantive claim [declaratory relief in this case as governed by FRCP 57 and 28 U.S.C § 2201(a)], (c) the sufficiency of the complaint, (d) the sum of money at stake in the action, (e) the possibility of dispute concerning material facts, (f) whether the default was due to excusable neglect, and (g) the strong policy disfavoring decisions on the merits underlying the FRCP. (Eitel v. McCool, 782 F.2d 1470, 1471-72 (9th Cir. 1986).

a. Merits of Plaintiff's Substantive Claim & Sufficiency of Complaint

The general rule is that upon default the factual allegations of the complaint, excepting those relating to the amount of damages, will be taken as true. TeleVideo Systems Inc.v. Heidenthal 826 F.2d 915, 917-18 (9th Cir. 1987); See also Geddes v. United Financial Group, 559 F.2d 557, 560 (9th Cir. 1977).

Further, a "default establishes the well-pleaded allegations of a complaint unless they are...contrary to facts judicially noticed or to uncontroverted material in the file. Facts that are not well pleaded include allegations that are 'made indefinite or erroneous by other allegations in the same complaint, allegations which are contrary to facts of which the court will take judicial notice, or which are not susceptible of proof by legitimate evidence, or which are contrary to uncontroverted material in the file of the case.'" In Re McGee, 359 B.R. 764, 772 (9th Cir. BAP 2006). Ultimately, claims that are not well-pleaded, meaning they allege no basis for liability, cannot support a default judgment. Marshall v. Baggett, 616 F.3d 849, 854 (8th Cir. 2010); See also Alan Neuman Productions Inc. v. Albright, 862 F.2d 1388, 1292 (9th Cir. 1988). In addition, failure to allege a valid claim against the defendant is not cured by evidence presented at a default "prove-up" hearing. Alan Neuman Productions 862 F.2d at 1393.

In this case, the Trustee is seeking declaratory relief in order to establish the estate's rights and obligations under the verbal MSA between Debtor and Defendant. Declaratory relief is governed by FRCP 57 and 28 U.S.C. § 2201(a), the Declaratory Judgment Act. There are two parts to achieving relief under the Declaratory Judgment Act.

First, the Trustee must demonstrate that it is entitled to relief by satisfying the elements of 28 U.S.C. § 2201(a). The Declaratory Judgment Act states, "In a case of actual controversy within its jurisdiction...any court of the US may declare the rights and other legal relations of any interested party seeking such declaration, whether or not further relief is or could be sought." Said case or controversy must refer to cases and controversies that are justiciable under Article III. American States Ins. Co v. Kearns, 15 F.3d 142, 143 (9th Cir. 1994). To demonstrate that a case or controversy exists, "a declaratory judgment plaintiff must prove that the facts alleged, 'under all the circumstances, show that there is a substantial controversy, between parties having adverse legal interests, of sufficient immediacy and reality to warrant the issuance of a declaratory judgment.'" (28 U.S.C 2201(a)). The issues presented must be "definite and concrete, not hypothetical or abstract." Thomas v. Anchorage Equal Rights Com'n, 220 F.3d 1134, 1139 (9th Cir. 2000). Where a dispute hangs on "future contingencies that may or may not occur," Clinton v. Acequia, Inc. 94 F.3d 568, 572 (9th Cir. 1996), it may be too "impermissibly speculative" to present a justiciable controversy. Portland Police Ass'n v. City of Portland, 658 F.2d1272, 1273 (9th Cir. 1981).

Sufficient immediacy is present when the value of an item, like a lease agreement, would be significantly diminished if the dispute were not promptly resolved by the courts, and any continued attempts to ascertain the value by the parties without declaratory relief would likely waste time and resources. Principal Life Ins. Co. v. Robinson, 394 F.3d 665, 671-72 (9th Cir. 2005). However, if "adjudicating the question presented...will determine whether the lawsuit ends and the money is paid in the present," then sufficient immediacy and reality to warrant resolution is established. Golden v. California Emergency Physicians Medical Group, 782 F.3d 1083, 1088 (9th Cir. 2015). Immediacy is not present, however, when the "Plaintiffs appear to seek judicial declaration not as a preventative measure, but as a remedial measure to address previously alleged...claims." United Safeguard Distributors Association, Inc. v. Safeguard Business Systems, Inc., 145 F.3d 932 (C.D.Ca 2015).

Second, the court must determine that it is appropriate to exercise its discretion by weighing certain factors. By doing so, the court essentially "balances the concerns of judicial administration, comity and fairness." Chamberlain v. Allstate Ins. Co., 931 F.2d 1361, 1367 (9th Cir. 1991). The factors are as follows: (a) whether the declaratory action will settle all aspects of the controversy, (b) whether the declaratory action will serve a useful purpose in clarifying the legal relations at issue, (c) whether the declaratory action is being sought merely for the purposes of procedural fencing or to obtain a 'res judicata' advantage, (d) or whether the use of a declaratory action will result in entanglement between the federal and state court systems. (e) In addition, the district court might also consider the convenience of the parties, and (f) the availability and relative convenience of other remedies. American States Ins. Co v. Kearns. 15 F.3d 142, 143 (9th Cir. 1994); See also Brillhart v. Excess Ins. Co., 316 U.S. 491, 62 S.Ct. 1173, 86 L.Ed 1620 (1942).

"Under California law, a binding oral contract may arise 'when all the terms are definitely understood' and agreed to by both parties." Errico v. Pacific Capital Bank, N.A., 753 F.Supp.2d 1034, 1045 (N.D.Ca 2010), quoting Khajavi v. Feather River Anesthesia Medical Group, 84 Cal.App.4th 61,100 Cal.Rptr.2d 627 (Cal.App.3d Dist.2000).

judgment" is shown in the Complaint stating that:

Defendants assert that they have done all they are required to do under the agreements and are entitled to a portion of the receivables. An actual controversy has arisen and now exists between Plaintiff and Defendants in that Plaintiff alleges Defendants have failed to provide Plaintiff the necessary documents to open the Unopened accounts and regarding the amounts to be disbursed to Defendants. (Complaint 6:6-11).

In Aetna Life Ins. Co. of Hartford, Conn. v. Haworth, an actual controversy was found because once the plaintiff presented its claim, the defendant responded with "an equally definite claim that the alleged basic fact did not exist." Aetna Life Ins. Co. of Hartford, Conn. v. Haworth, 300 U.S. 227, 242 (1937). The Court decided to grant declaratory relief because "such dispute is manifestly susceptible of judicial determination." Id. It calls, not for an advisory opinion upon a hypothetical basis, but for an adjudication of present right upon established facts." Id. In this case, the Trustee asserts that the Defendant has failed to provide the necessary documentation as required by the MSA in order to open the account. However, Defendant asserts, according to the Complaint, that he has done all that is required under the MSA and is entitled to his receivables. These facts evidence a dispute that is not hypothetical or abstract. Rather, according to the Complaint, the controversy is real, ongoing, and relates to the legal rights of the parties to the receivables due under the MSA. Therefore, a substantial controversy is present.

SUFFICIENT IMMEDIACY

In the Complaint, the only evidence of sufficient immediacy was the assertion that the checks would expire if accounts were not opened immediately. This would allegedly prevent the estate from getting certain fees from the receivables, and the Trustee indicated that he would dismiss the Debtor's case if the unopened accounts remained unopened. However, because the checks have been deposited with the Court's registry and the bank account has now been opened in the Defendant's name, as stated in the Motion, these allegations are no longer true.

Additionally, the Trustee is now in charge of this bankruptcy proceeding and adversary proceeding, so there is no longer a threat that the case will be dismissed by him. Therefore, there is no longer an immediacy based upon a fear that the checks will lose their value because they have all been deposited with the Court, a fact which could establish immediacy under the standard utilized by the Court in Principal Life Ins. Co. v. Robinson. Because these facts are no longer true and no other facts are alleged in the Complaint, there is no support for the entry of declaratory relief based on the Complaint because there is no other immediacy pleaded. Therefore, under the standard for pleading under In re McGee above, this is not well-pleaded.

However, the new cause for immediacy, although not explicitly claimed as such in the Motion, is that the Trustee cannot deliver Defendant's share of the receivables because he has not received a judicial determination of the respective rights of Plaintiff and Defendant. (Motion 4:10-13). This is an issue because once money is deposited into the Court's registry under 28 U.S.C. § 2041, a party cannot withdraw the money while the case is proceeding. According to 28 U.S.C. § 2042, money deposited with the court can only be removed by a court order to the rightful owner upon "full proof of the right thereto." (28 U.S.C. § 2042).

Under the sufficient immediacy standard utilized in Golden v. California Emergency Physicians Medical Group, sufficient immediacy is established if the granting of relief will end the lawsuit and ensure payment occurs in the present. Golden, 782 F.3d at 1088. According to the Complaint, this is exactly what a default judgment for declaratory relief in this case would do because once the default judgment is granted, the lawsuit would end and the Trustee would be able to collect the funds out of the Court's registry. Therefore, a substantial controversy of sufficient immediacy is present in this case.

WEIGHING THE DISCRETIONARY FACTORS FOR DECLARATORY RELIEF

Once the elements of declaratory relief are established, the court weighs the following discretionary factors in order to determine if it should grant relief. The factors are as follows:

- (a) whether the declaratory action will settle all aspects of the controversy, (b) whether the declaratory action will serve a useful purpose in clarifying the legal relations at issue, (c) whether the declaratory action is being sought merely for the purposes of procedural fencing or to obtain a 'res judicata' advantage, (d) or whether the use of a declaratory action will result in entanglement between the federal and state court systems. (e) In addition, the district court might also consider the convenience of the parties, and (f) the availability and relative convenience of other remedies. American States Ins.

Because there is evidence of a controversy, granting declaratory relief will likely settle this controversy and serve a useful purpose in clarifying the legal relations at issue. This judgment would establish the rights and obligations of each party under the MSA. In addition, it is convenient to the Trustee to receive a judgment now because it will provide access to the money deposited in the Court's registry after the time period for an appeal has passed. In re United Ins. Management, Inc., 14 F.3d 1380, 1386 (9th Cir. 1994) (A trustee "has a statutory obligation to 'investigate the financial affairs of the debtor, collect and reduce to money the property of the estate and close such estate as expeditiously as is compatible with the best interests of parties in interest.'") The judgment also does not appear to be sought merely for the purpose of procedural fencing because neither the Trustee nor the Debtor are a party to an action that involves the legal issues sought to be determined by this judgment. See Grand Trunk Western R. Co. v. Consolidated Rail Corp., 746 F.2d 323, 326 (6th Cir. 1984) (Holding that declaratory relief is not appropriate when it would interfere with state court litigation and is sought as a means to provide another arena for a race for res judicata). Therefore, these factors all weigh in favor of granting declaratory relief. Overall, the interests of judicial administration, comity, and fairness weigh in favor of GRANTING declaratory relief.

b. Amount of Damages

"The court does not have to presume the truth of any factual allegations related to the amount of damages." (TeleVideo Sys. Inc v. Heidenthal, 826 F.2d 915).

Further, According to FRCP 55, the amount of damages must be shown by affidavit.

Here, the amount of damages is supported by a declaration by Tina Shoemaker ("Shoemaker"), an employee of the Debtor, of the details of the oral MSA, which stipulates that the Trustee is entitled to $7,063.73, which also happens to be 100% of the receivables, because the Debtor has already advanced to the Defendant an amount equal to the portion of the receivables to which Defendant would be entitled.

- c. Possibility of prejudice to the plaintiff if relief is denied, possibility of dispute as to any material facts in the case, whether the default was due to excusable neglect, and strong policy of FRCP favoring decisions on the merits

There is the possibility of prejudice to the Trustee because without a judgment; he will be delayed from receiving and being able to distribute a portion of the bankruptcy estate. Further, the Trustee "has a statutory obligation to 'investigate the financial affairs of the debtor, collect and reduce to money the property of the estate and close such estate as expeditiously as is compatible with the best interests of parties in interest.'" In re United Ins. Management, Inc., 14 F.3d at 1386. Therefore, the possibility of prejudice to the Trustee in expeditiously closing the bankruptcy estate weighs in favor of granting a default judgment. In addition, there is no evidence that the entry of default was due to excusable neglect on the part of the Defendant. Therefore, this factor also weighs in favor of GRANTING default judgment.

TENATIVE RULING:

The Court will GRANT default judgment as the following discretionary factors weigh in favor of granting relief: (1) the possibility of prejudice to the plaintiff, (2) the merits of the plaintiff's substantive claim, (3) the sufficiency of the complaint, (4) the amount of damages and (5) whether the default was due to excusable neglect.

Docket 73

Tentative Ruling:

I. Background Facts

On May 11, 2016, Allied Injury Management, Inc. ("Debtor") filed a voluntary petition under Chapter 11 commencing the current bankruptcy case. On September 21, 2016, the Debtor commenced this adversary proceeding seeking interpleader and declaratory relief (the "Complaint") against Shoreline Medical Inc. (the "Defendant"). The clerk entered default on November 4, 2016. On November 30, 2016, the Court ordered the appointment of a Chapter 11 Trustee, David M. Goodrich, (the "Trustee") to assume control of the estate. The Trustee was appointed on December 7, 2016, and filed this motion for default judgment only on the declaratory relief claim on May 25, 2017 (the "Motion"). No opposition has been filed.

According to the Complaint, the Debtor's business provided billing and collection services to medical providers pursuant to written and oral medical service agreements (collectively, "MSAs"). In this case, Debtor allegedly had an oral MSA with the Defendant to open a "for-the-benefit of account." The Debtor holds a security interest in and is the attorney-in-fact of this trust account, and it would deposit the Defendant's receivables into the account either before or after subtracting its fee. The Debtor collected $2,400 in receivables. Debtor asserts it is entitled to 50% of these receivables per its verbal MSA with the Defendant. Upon commencing the bankruptcy case, Debtor had to close these accounts and open new accounts that comported with debtor-in-possession requirements imposed by the Trustee. The Debtor was unable to open an account for the Defendant because it did not provide the documentation required by the bank. Meanwhile, the Debtor was still collecting receivables for these providers but could not deposit the checks. Therefore, the Debtor filed the Complaint to establish the estate's rights and obligations under the MSAs notwithstanding its inability to open the required Trustee-approved bank accounts, and on October 10, 2016, filed a motion to deposit the collected checks with the Court's registry pending the outcome of the Complaint in order to ensure that the checks did not expire. The Court approved the Court registry order, and now, the Trustee seeks a default judgment on the declaratory relief claim.

II. Service

Service of process is governed by FRBP 7004(b)(3), which states that service must be made within the US by first class mail postage prepaid as follows:

Upon a domestic or foreign corporation or upon a partnership or other unincorporated association, by mailing a copy of the summons and complaint to the attention of an officer, a managing or general agent, or to any other agent authorized by appointment or by law to receive service of process and, if the agent is one authorized by statute to receive service and the statute so requires, by also mailing a copy to the defendant..

Notice was served on Shoreline Medical and upon Randolph Taylor who is the agent for service of process according to the California Secretary of State records. Service is proper.

III. Default

Under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure ("FRCP") 55, a default judgment is granted after the entry of default. The rule states, "When a party against whom a judgment for affirmative relief is sought has failed to plead or otherwise defend, and that failure is shown by affidavit or otherwise, the clerk must enter the party's default."

As stated above, the clerk entered default on November 4, 2016, satisfying this requirement.

In addition, the relevant requirements of the Local Bankruptcy Rules ("LBR")

7055-1 must be satisfied: (A) identity of the party whom default was entered and the date of entry of default, (B) whether the defaulting party is an infant or incompetent person, (C) whether the individual defendant is currently on active duty, (D) when individual is debtor..., (E) that notice of the motion has been served on defaulting party, if required by FRCP 55(b)(2).

These requirements have all been met.

IV. Default Judgment

Factors which may be considered by courts in exercising discretion as to the entry of a default judgment include:

(a) the possibility of prejudice to the plaintiff, (b) the merits of the plaintiff's substantive claim [declaratory relief in this case as governed by FRCP 57 and 28 U.S.C § 2201(a)], (c) the sufficiency of the complaint, (d) the sum of money at stake in the action, (e) the possibility of dispute concerning material facts, (f) whether the default was due to excusable neglect, and (g) the strong policy disfavoring decisions on the merits underlying the FRCP. (Eitel v. McCool, 782 F.2d 1470, 1471-72 (9th Cir. 1986).

a. Merits of Plaintiff's Substantive Claim & Sufficiency of Complaint

The general rule is that upon default the factual allegations of the complaint, excepting those relating to the amount of damages, will be taken as true. TeleVideo Systems Inc.v. Heidenthal 826 F.2d 915, 917-18 (9th Cir. 1987); See also Geddes v. United Financial Group, 559 F.2d 557, 560 (9th Cir. 1977).

Further, a "default establishes the well-pleaded allegations of a complaint unless they are...contrary to facts judicially noticed or to uncontroverted material in the file. Facts that are not well pleaded include allegations that are 'made indefinite or erroneous by other allegations in the same complaint, allegations which are contrary to facts of which the court will take judicial notice, or which are not susceptible of proof by legitimate evidence, or which are contrary to uncontroverted material in the file of the case.'" In Re McGee, 359 B.R. 764, 772 (9th Cir. BAP 2006). Ultimately, claims that are not well-pleaded, meaning they allege no basis for liability, cannot support a default judgment. Marshall v. Baggett, 616 F.3d 849, 854 (8th Cir. 2010); See also Alan Neuman Productions Inc. v. Albright, 862 F.2d 1388, 1292 (9th Cir. 1988). In addition, failure to allege a valid claim against the defendant is not cured by evidence presented at a default "prove-up" hearing. Alan Neuman Productions 862 F.2d at 1393.

In this case, the Trustee is seeking declaratory relief in order to establish the estate's rights and obligations under the verbal MSA between Debtor and Defendant. Declaratory relief is governed by FRCP 57 and 28 U.S.C. § 2201(a), the Declaratory Judgment Act. There are two parts to achieving relief under the Declaratory Judgment Act.

First, the plaintiff must demonstrate that it is entitled to relief by satisfying the elements of 28 U.S.C. § 2201(a). The Declaratory Judgment Act states, "In a case of actual controversy within its jurisdiction...any court of the US may declare the rights and other legal relations of any interested party seeking such declaration, whether or not further relief is or could be sought." Said case or controversy must refer to cases and controversies that are justiciable under Article III. American States Ins. Co v. Kearns, 15 F.3d 142, 143 (9th Cir. 1994). To demonstrate that a case or controversy exists, "a declaratory judgment plaintiff must prove that the facts alleged, 'under all the circumstances, show that there is a substantial controversy, between parties having adverse legal interests, of sufficient immediacy and reality to warrant the issuance of a declaratory judgment.'" (28 U.S.C 2201(a)). The issues presented must be "definite and concrete, not hypothetical or abstract." Thomas v. Anchorage Equal Rights Com'n, 220 F.3d 1134, 1139 (9th Cir. 2000). Where a dispute hangs on "future contingencies that may or may not occur," Clinton v. Acequia, Inc. 94 F.3d 568, 572 (9th Cir. 1996), it may be too "impermissibly speculative" to present a justiciable controversy. Portland Police Ass'n v. City of Portland, 658 F.2d1272, 1273 (9th Cir. 1981).

Sufficient immediacy is present when the value of an item, like a lease agreement, would be significantly diminished if the dispute were not promptly resolved by the courts, and any continued attempts to ascertain the value by the parties without declaratory relief would likely waste time and resources. Principal Life Ins. Co. v. Robinson, 394 F.3d 665, 671-72 (9th Cir. 2005). However, if "adjudicating the question presented...will determine whether the lawsuit ends and the money is paid in the present," then sufficient immediacy and reality to warrant resolution is established. Golden v. California Emergency Physicians Medical Group, 782 F.3d 1083, 1088 (9th Cir. 2015). Immediacy is not present, however, when the "Plaintiffs appear to seek judicial declaration not as a preventative measure, but as a remedial measure to address previously alleged...claims." United Safeguard Distributors Association, Inc. v. Safeguard Business Systems, Inc., 145 F.3d 932 (C.D.Ca 2015).

Second, the court must determine that it is appropriate to exercise its discretion by weighing certain factors. By doing so, the court essentially "balances the concerns of judicial administration, comity and fairness." Chamberlain v. Allstate Ins. Co., 931 F.2d 1361, 1367 (9th Cir. 1991). The factors are as follows: (a) whether the declaratory action will settle all aspects of the controversy, (b) whether the declaratory action will serve a useful purpose in clarifying the legal relations at issue, (c) whether the declaratory action is being sought merely for the purposes of procedural fencing or to obtain a 'res judicata' advantage, (d) or whether the use of a declaratory action will result in entanglement between the federal and state court systems. (e) In addition, the district court might also consider the convenience of the parties, and (f) the availability and relative convenience of other remedies. American States Ins. Co v. Kearns. 15 F.3d 142, 143 (9th Cir. 1994); See also Brillhart v. Excess Ins. Co., 316 U.S. 491, 62 S.Ct. 1173, 86 L.Ed 1620 (1942).

"Under California law, a binding oral contract may arise 'when all the terms are definitely understood' and agreed to by both parties." Errico v. Pacific Capital Bank, N.A., 753 F.Supp.2d 1034, 1045 (N.D.Ca 2010), quoting Khajavi v. Feather River Anesthesia Medical Group, 84 Cal.App.4th 61,100 Cal.Rptr.2d 627 (Cal.App.3d Dist.2000).

Further, the Trustee "has a statutory obligation to 'investigate the financial affairs of the debtor, collect and reduce to money the property of the estate and close such estate as expeditiously as is compatible with the best interests of parties in interest.'" In re United Ins. Management, Inc., 14 F.3d at 1386. Therefore, the possibility of prejudice to the Trustee in expeditiously closing the bankruptcy estate weighs in favor of granting a default judgment. In addition, there is no evidence that the entry of default was due to excusable neglect on the part of the Defendant. Therefore, this factor also weighs in favor of GRANTING default judgment.

TENTATIVE RULING:

07/11/2017

Service: Proper

The Court will GRANT default judgment as the following discretionary factors weigh in favor of granting relief: (1) the possibility of prejudice to the plaintiff, (2) the merits of the plaintiff's substantive claim, (3) the sufficiency of the complaint, (4) the amount of damages and (5) whether the default was due to excusable neglect.

Docket 69

Tentative Ruling:

7/11/2017

Factual Background:

Allied Injury Management, Inc. ("Debtor") provides billing and collection services to medical service providers, including Justin Paquette ("Defendant"). As part of the written business agreement ("Written Agreement") with Defendant, Debtor in the normal course of business opened a for-the-benefit-of account ("FBO Account") for Defendant in which Debtor would deposit the money collected ("Receivables"). Pursuant to the Written Agreement, Debtor is entitled to 50% of the monthly gross collection.

The Written Agreement has the following relevant clauses:

8.5 Governing Law. This Agreement shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of California.

8.14.5 Notwithstanding anything to the contrary stated above in this section, the right to arbitration shall not apply to a claim of either party seeking specific performance, injunctive relief, or other equity remedy as specifically provided in this agreement.

Exhibit E. Manager Compensation Items 1 through 5 above total an amount equal to FIFTY percent (50%) of the Gross Collections of the Licensee each month.

On May 11, 2016, Debtor filed a Chapter 11 bankruptcy. As a result Debtor had to close all pre-bankruptcy petition FBO Accounts. Debtor requested documents from Defendant in order to open a new FBO Account. Defendant failed to supply the requested documents. As a result Debtor was unable to open the FBO Account. Debtor was in possession of checks to be deposited into the FBO Account. Debtor was unable to deposit and distribute the receivables pursuant to the Written Agreement. Trustee now asserts that Debtor was able to open an FBO account for Defendant.

Debtor filed a Complaint for Interpleader and Declaratory Relief ("Complaint") on September 21, 2016. On October 27, 2016, the Court granted an order allowing Debtor to deposit $666.00 in the Court's Registry for Defendant.

Defendant was to file an Answer by October 24, 2016. To date, Defendant has not filed an Answer. On November 4, 2016, Default was entered against Defendant. On May 25, 2017, Chapter 11 Trustee ("Trustee") filed this Motion for Default Judgment ("Motion") and served Defendant.

Trustee requests that the Court establish (1) "Parties rights and obligations are governed by the [Written Agreement]" (2) Payment structure under the [Written Agreement] and (3) a judgment authorizing Debtor to open an account and deposit the funds.

In support of this Motion, Trustee has filed a Declaration by Ms. Tina Shoemaker, employee of Debtor affiliate Titanium Resource Company.

Discussion:

I. Subject Matter Jurisdiction

A court has subject matter jurisdiction over "all cases under title 11 and all core proceedings arising under title 11, or arising in a case under title 11" and may enter appropriate orders and judgments. 28 U.S.C. § 157. Core proceedings include any "matters concerning the administration of the estate." 28 U.S.C. § 157 (b)(2).

The matter before the Court is regarding a matter concerning the Debtor's Estate.

II. Default

"When a party against whom a judgment for affirmative relief is sought has failed to plead or otherwise defend, and that failure is shown by affidavit or otherwise, the clerk must enter the party's default." Fed. R. Civ. P. 55(a).

Here, Defendant was to file an Answer by October 24, 2016. Defendant has not made an appearance in this case. Default was entered against Defendant on November 4, 2016.

III. Default Judgment

A court may grant default judgment after an entry of default. Fed. R. Civ. P. 55. A Motion for Default Judgment must also satisfy Local Bankruptcy Rule 7055-1 by identifying the party against whom default was entered, the date of entry of default, by stating if the defaulting party is an infant or incompetent person, by stating if the defaulting party is on active duty in the armed forces, and by serving the motion on the defaulting party pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 55(b)(2). LBR 7055-1.

Here, Defendant has not appeared in the case. Default was entered against Defendant on November 4, 2016. Motion for Default Judgment was filed on May 25, 2017. The Motion named the Defendant, stated the date of entry of default, and stated Defendant is not an infant, incompetent, or on active duty. Defendant was served with Motion for Default Judgment on May 25, 107.

A default judgment is not a right but rather the court has discretion to enter a default judgment. Aldabe v. Aldabe, 616 F.2d 1089, 1092 (9th Cir.1980). In exercising discretion the court may consider: (1) possibility of prejudice to the plaintiff, (2) merits of plaintiff's substantive claims, (3) sufficiency of complaint, (4) sum of money at stake in action, (5) possibility of dispute concerning material facts, (6) whether defendants default was product of excusable neglect, (7) strong public policy favoring decisions on the merits. Eitel v. McCool, 782 F.2d 1470, 1471-1472 (9th Cir 1986).

1. Possibility of prejudice to the Plaintiff

To determine whether there is prejudice to the plaintiff the court should look at whether the plaintiff's ability to pursue his claim will be hindered by not granting a default judgment. Falk v. Allen, 739 F.2d 461, 462 (9th Cir. 1984).

Here, Trustee is unable to collect the money Debtor has earned without declaratory relief. As a result the Trustee is unable to take possession of the money and administer the estate.

Debtor has successfully petitioned the Court to deposit the checks into the Court's Registry. Trustee has not been able to recover the money earned by Debtor from collecting the Receivables and will not be able to recover until the Court orders release of the funds to the appropriate parties. Therefore, the possibility of prejudice to the Trustee is high and warrants default judgment.

2. Merits of plaintiff's substantive claims and sufficiency of complaint

The general rule is that after default is entered, the factual allegations asserted in the complaint are taken as true, with the exception of facts regarding damages. Geddes v. United Fin. Grp., 559 F.2d 557, 560 (9th Cir. 1977). A pleading must contain a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief. Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(a)(2).

"Under the second and third Eitel factors the Court must examine whether the Plaintiff has plead facts sufficient to establish and succeed upon its claims." Craigslis, Inc. v. Naturemarket, Inc., 694 F. Supp. 2d 1039, 1055 (N.D. Cal. 2010).

A. Declaratory Relief

A court "may declare the rights and other legal relations of any interested party seeking such declaration" when there is a case of actual controversy regarding a matter within its jurisdiction. 28 U.S.C. § 2201. Declaratory relief was created to protect defendants from adversarial threats of impending litigation by giving parties an opportunity to prevent potential damages. Societe de Conditionnement en Aluminium v. Hunter Eng'g Co., Inc., 655 F.2d 938, 943 (9th Cir. 1981)(citing Japan Gas Lighter Assoc. v. Ronson Corp., 257 F. Supp. 219, 237 (D.N.J 1966).

An actual controversy exists if "the facts alleged, under all the circumstances; show that there is a substantial controversy, between parties having adverse legal interests, of sufficient immediacy and reality to warrant the issuance of a declaratory judgment." Md. Cas. Co. v. Pac. Coal & Oil Co., 312 U.S. 270, 273 (1941). Once the court has determined whether there is an actual controversy, the court must decide whether to exercise jurisdiction and grant declaratory relief. Principal Life Ins. Co. v.

Robinson, 394 F.3d 665, 668 (9th Cir. 2005).

Declaratory relief is appropriate if the judgment would "serve a useful purpose in clarifying and settling the legal relation in issue" and "terminate and afford relief from the uncertainty, insecurity and controversy giving rise to the proceeding." Eureka Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Am. Cas. Co., 873 F.2d 229, 231 (9th Cir. 1989). Furthermore, the court should avoid needless determination of state law, discourage forum shopping, and avoid duplicate litigation. Gov't Emp. Ins. Co. v. Dizol, 133 F.3d 1220, 1225 (9th Cir. 1988).

Here, Trustee claims two controversies. The first is regarding the amount to be disbursed to each party from the Receivables collected by Debtor. The second controversy involves Defendant's assertion "that they have done all they are required to do under the agreements" and Debtor's assertion that "Defendants have failed to provide the necessary documents to open" the FBO Account.

When a plaintiff no longer wishes to or is no longer able to engage in the activity for which plaintiff seeks declaratory relief, no actual controversy exists. Gator.com Corp. v. L.L. Bean, Inc., 398 F.3d 1125, 1129 (9th Cir. 2005). Given that Trustee has successfully opened an FBO Account for Defendant, the second controversy alleged does not satisfy the actual controversy requirement and does not warrant declaratory relief.

In the Complaint, Debtor alleges that an actual controversy has arisen regarding the portion of the Receivables due to each party. Under Geddes, once default has been entered the factual allegations stated in the complaint are taken as true. Debtor has provided a copy of the Written Agreement, which states the compensation for Debtor's work is 50% of the Receivables.

A substantial controversy is present when a substantial monetary amount will change hands and when a legal claim concededly worth at least that much will be foregone. Golden v. Cal. Emergency Physicians Med. Grp., 782 F.3d 1083, 1088-1089 (9th Cir. 2015).

A claim may present sufficient immediacy and reality when adjudicating an issue would end the lawsuit and would make the money be paid in the present. Golden at 1088-1089. In Principal Life, the Court found sufficient immediacy and reality was present when a party suffered an inability to make reasonable business decisions due to an unresolved lease agreement dispute. Principal Life Ins. Co. at 669.

Trustee's inability to dispose of the money earned by Debtor, currently deposited in the Court Registry appears to satisfy the "sufficient immediacy and reality" needed to order declaratory relief. Trustee is presently unable to pay itself the portion of the money due to Debtor and cannot pay third parties. Similar to the plaintiff in Principal Life who could not make reasonable business decisions as a result of the dispute over the terms of the lease agreement, Trustee is unable to go on with daily business transactions due to the dispute over the portion of the Receivables due to each party. Trustee's effort to reorganize is being hindered by Defendant's failure to provide the documents requested in a timely manner so Trustee could open the FBO Account and by Defendant's subsequent failure to respond to the present Complaint.

Furthermore, under 11 U.S.C. § 704 (a)(1), it is the Trustee's duty to "close the estate as expeditiously as is compatible with the best interests of the parties in interest." At this point the Trustee is unable to take possession of money which Debtor has earned and distribute the money among the parties in interest. Adjudicating this claim would allow for the money currently sitting in the Court Registry to be disbursed to the Trustee and subsequently to Debtor's creditors. The Trustee is unable to access $333.00. By adjudicating this issue the Trustee could take control of the money, distribute the funds, and close the estate.

The Court finds that an actual controversy does exist and must now determine if it will exercise its discretion, based on the standard set in Eureka, and award declaratory relief.

A useful purpose may be served when declaratory relief would solve "a complex and long-lasting dispute over critical aspects of the parties rights and responsibilities under the treaty." U.S. v. State of Wash., 759 F.2d 1353, 1364 (9th Cir. 1985). In Newcal Indus., Inc., declaratory relief was found to have a useful purpose because it established a right to recover. Newcal Indus., Inc. v. Ikon Office Sol., 513 F.3d 1038, 1057 (9th Cir. 2008). Declaratory relief may afford relief from uncertainty, insecurity and controversy when relief would settle uncertainty regarding the validity of a legal theory. Newcal Indus., Inc. at 1057.

Here, declaratory relief would serve a useful purpose in determining whether Debtor should be paid according to the Written Agreement and by allowing Trustee to take possession of the money and the Trustee will be able to distribute the Receivables pursuant to the written agreement in the future. While the dispute at hand is not presented as complex or long-lasting, the uncertainty regarding this agreement has had a negative effect on the Trustee's ability to carry out his statutory duties. Currently the Receivables collected by Debtor are sitting in the Court Registry and will not be disbursed until a determination regarding the rights of each party is determined by the Court. By granting declaratory relief the Court will allow for the Receivables to be disbursed appropriately, thus allowing the Trustee to take possession of the funds.

Based on the foregoing, declaratory relief is appropriate. The Court now turns to determine if the Receivables should be distributed according to the Written Agreement.

Trustee has provided in support of this Motion a copy of the Written Agreement between Debtor and Defendant. The Written Agreement outlines a detailed payment schedule for Debtor's services. The payment schedule awards Debtor 50% of the monthly gross collection.

There are sufficient facts regarding the merits and potential success of the substantive claims. This weighs in favor of granting default judgment.

3. Sum of money at stake in action

Under this factor, "the court must consider the amount of money at stake in relation to the seriousness of Defendant's conduct." PepsiCo, Inc. v. Cal. Sec. Cans, 238 F.Supp.2d 1172, 1176 (C.D. Cal. 2002). When plaintiff only seeks damages proportional to the breach of the contract, the amount of money at stake does not preclude default judgment. NewGen, LLC v. SafeCig, LLC, 840 F.3d 606, 617 (9th Cir. 2016). "Default judgment is disfavored where the sum of money at stake is too large or unreasonable in relation to defendants conduct." Vogel v. Rite Aid Corp., 992 F.Supp.2d 998, 1012 (C.D. Cal. 2014)(citing Truong Giang Corp. v Twinstar Tea Corp., No. C 06-03594 JSW, 2007 WL 1545173, *12 (N.D. Cal. 2007).

Here, although Trustee is seeking declaratory relief there is still money at stake. The Court's declaration would award $333.00 to the Trustee. The proportionately minimal sum of money at stake weighs in favor of entry of default judgment.

4. Possibility of dispute concerning material facts

The general rule is that after default is entered, all well-pleaded factual allegations are taken as true, with the exception of facts regarding damages. PepsiCo, Inc. at 1177.

Defendant was properly served and had a full opportunity to respond to the factual allegations asserted in the Complaint. Thus, default judgment may be appropriate.

5. Whether defendant's default was product of excusable neglect

When a party is properly served and ignores the deadline to respond to the complaint there is no excusable neglect. NewGen, LLC v. SafeCig LLC, 840 F.3d 606, 616 (9th Cir. 2016).

Here, Defendant was properly served with the Complaint on September 30, 2016. Defendant was served with the Motion for Default Judgment on May 25, 2017. Defendant has had ample opportunity to be heard and has yet to make an appearance in the present case.

6. Strong public policy favoring decisions on the merits

Generally default judgments are disfavored and a case should be decided on the merits. Eitel, 728 F.2d at 1472. When the Defendant makes the termination of a case impossible or impracticable, default judgment is permitted. PepsiCo, Inc. at 1174.

Here, Defendant was properly served and has not made an appearance in the case. Defendant's failure to make an appearance and failure to file any response or opposition weigh in favor of the entry of default judgment.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT Trustee's Motion for Default Judgment.

Tentative Ruling:

07/11/17

FACTUAL BACKGROUND:

Allied Injury Management, Inc. ("Debtor") provides billing and collection services to medical service providers, including Sunkist Imaging Medical Center, a California professional corporation ("Defendant"). Debtor's business provided billing and collection services pursuant to written and oral medical service agreements (collectively, "MSAs"). Under the MSAs, the Debtor agreed to collect receivables owed to providers, retain a portion of the collected receivables as compensation, and remit the balance to the providers. The Debtor's principal assets are the MSAs and the receivables owed thereunder. On September 21, 2016, the Debtor commenced this adversary proceeding seeking interpleader and declaratory relief (the "Complaint") against the Defendant. The clerk entered default on November 4, 2016. On November 30, 2016, the Court ordered the appointment of a Chapter 11 Trustee, David M. Goodrich, (the "Trustee") to assume control of the estate. The Trustee was appointed on December 7, 2016, and filed this motion for default judgment only on the declaratory relief claim on May 25, 2017 (the "Motion"). No opposition has been filed.

Chapter 11

The Defendant and Debtor have a written MSA (the "Written Agreement). Pursuant to the Written Agreement, Debtor is entitled to 30% of the monthly gross receivables ("Receivables"). Presently, the Trustee has deposited the sum of $1,100 of the Defendant's Receivables in the Court's registry. Pursuant to the MSA, the Trustee asserts that the Estate is entitled to $330, or 30% of the Receivables.

The Trustee is seeking a judgment authorizing disbursement of the Receivables out of the Court's registry; permitting the Trustee to take possession of the Receivables and authorizing the Trustee to deposit the same in a for-the-benefit account associated with the Defendant; and authorizing the Trustee to administer the Receivables in accordance with the medical service agreement entered into between the Debtor and Defendant.

DISCUSSION:

I. Default

"When a party against whom a judgment for affirmative relief is sought has failed to plead or otherwise defend, and that failure is shown by affidavit or otherwise, the clerk must enter the party's default." Fed. R. Civ. P. 55(a).

Here, Defendant was to file an Answer by October 24, 2016. Defendant has not made an appearance in this case. Default was entered against Defendant on November 4, 2016.

II. Default Judgment

A court may grant default judgment after an entry of default. Fed. R. Civ. P. 55. A Motion for Default Judgment must also satisfy Local Bankruptcy Rule 7055-1 by identifying the party against whom default was entered, the date of entry of default, by stating if the defaulting party is an infant or incompetent person, by stating if the defaulting party is on active duty in the armed forces, and by serving the motion on the defaulting party pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 55(b)(2). LBR 7055-1.

Here, Defendant has not appeared in the case. Default was entered against Defendant on November 4, 2016. Motion for Default Judgment was filed on May 25, 2017. The Motion named Defendant, stated the date of entry of default, stated Defendant is not an infants, incompetent, or on active duty. Defendant was served with Motion for Default Judgment on May 25, 2017.

A default judgment is not a right but rather the court has discretion to enter a default judgment. Aldabe v. Aldabe, 616 F.2d 1089, 1092 (9th Cir.1980). In exercising discretion the court may consider: (1) possibility of prejudice to the plaintiff, (2) merits of plaintiff's substantive claims, (3) sufficiency of complaint, (4) sum of money at stake in action, (5) possibility of dispute concerning material facts, (6) whether defendants default was product of excusable neglect, (7) strong public policy favoring decisions on the merits. Eitel v. McCool, 782 F.2d 1470, 1471-1472 (9th Cir 1986).

1. Possibility of prejudice to the Plaintiff

To determine whether there is prejudice to the plaintiff the court should look at whether the plaintiff's ability to pursue his claim will be hindered by not granting a default judgment. Falk v. Allen, 739 F.2d 461, 462 (9th Cir. 1984).

Here, Trustee is unable to collect the money earned by the Debtor without declaratory relief. As a result the Trustee is unable to take possession of the money and administer the estate.

Trustee has successfully petitioned the Court to deposit the checks into the Court's Registry. Trustee has not been able to recover the money earned from collecting the Receivables and will not be able to recover until the Court orders release of the funds to the appropriate parties. Therefore, the possibility of prejudice to the Plaintiff is high and warrants default judgment.

2. Merits of plaintiff's substantive claims and sufficiency of complaint

The general rule is that after default is entered, the factual allegations asserted in the complaint are taken as true, with the exception of facts regarding damages. Geddes v. United Fin. Grp., 559 F.2d 557, 560 (9th Cir. 1977). A pleading must contain a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief. Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(a)(2).

"Under the second and third Eitel factors the Court must examine whether the Plaintiff has plead facts sufficient to establish and succeed upon its claims." Craigslis, Inc. v. Naturemarket, Inc., 694 F. Supp. 2d 1039, 1055 (N.D. Cal. 2010).

A court "may declare the rights and other legal relations of any interested party seeking such declaration" when there is a case of actual controversy regarding a matter within its jurisdiction. 28 U.S.C. § 2201. Declaratory relief was created to protect defendants from adversarial threats of impending litigation by giving parties an opportunity to prevent potential damages. Societe de Conditionnement en Aluminium v. Hunter Eng'g Co., Inc., 655 F.2d 938, 943 (9th Cir. 1981)(citing Japan Gas Lighter Assoc. v. Ronson Corp., 257 F. Supp. 219, 237 (D.N.J 1966)).

An actual controversy exists if "the facts alleged, under all the circumstances; show that there is a substantial controversy, between parties having adverse legal interests, of sufficient immediacy and reality to warrant the issuance of a declaratory judgment." Md. Cas. Co. v. Pac. Coal & Oil Co., 312 U.S. 270, 273 (1941). Once the court has determined whether there is an actual controversy, the court must decide whether to exercise jurisdiction and grant declaratory relief. Principal Life Ins. Co. v. Robinson, 394 F.3d 665, 668 (9th Cir. 2005).

Declaratory relief is appropriate if the judgment would "serve a useful purpose in clarifying and settling the legal relation in issue" and "terminate and afford relief from the uncertainty, insecurity and controversy giving rise to the proceeding." Eureka Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Am. Cas. Co., 873 F.2d 229, 231 (9th Cir. 1989). Dizol*, 133 F.3d 1220, 1225 (9th Cir. 1988).

Here, there is an existing controversy regarding the amount to be disbursed to each party from the Receivables collected by the Trustee/Debtor. A claim may present sufficient immediacy and reality when adjudicating an issue would end the lawsuit and would make the money be paid in the present. Golden at 1088-1089. In Principal Life, the Court found sufficient immediacy and reality was present when a party suffered an inability to make reasonable business decisions due to an unresolved lease agreement dispute. Principal Life Ins. Co. at 669.

Trustee's inability to dispose of the money earned, currently deposited in the Court Registry appears to satisfy the "sufficient immediacy and reality" needed to order declaratory relief. Trustee is presently unable to disburse to itself or to Defendant the portions of Receivables due under the Written Agreement. Similar to the plaintiff in Principal Life who could not make reasonable business decisions as a result of the dispute over the terms of the lease agreement, Trustee is unable to go on with daily business transactions due to the questions regarding the agreement.

Chapter 11

Furthermore, under 11 U.S.C. § 704 (a)(1), it is the Trustee's duty to "close the estate as expeditiously as is compatible with the best interests of parties in interest." At this point the Trustee is unable to take possession of money which Debtor has earned and distribute the money among the parties in interest. Adjudicating this claim would allow for the money currently sitting in the Court Registry to be disbursed to the Trustee and subsequently to Debtor's creditors.

The Court finds that an actual controversy does exist and that it should exercise its discretion to enter default judgment under the facts presently before the Court.

3. Sum of money at stake in action

Under this factor, "the court must consider the amount of money at stake in relation to the seriousness of Defendant's conduct." PepsiCo, Inc. v. Cal. Sec. Cans, 238 F.Supp.2d 1172, 1176 (C.D. Cal. 2002). When plaintiff only seeks damages proportional to the breach of the contract, the amount of money at stake does not preclude default judgment. NewGen, LLC v. SafeCig, LLC, 840 F.3d 606, 617 (9th Cir. 2016). "Default judgment is disfavored where the sum of money at stake is too large or unreasonable in relation to defendants conduct." Vogel v. Rite Aid Corp., 992 F.Supp.2d 998, 1012 (C.D. Cal. 2014)(citing Truong Giang Corp. v Twinstar Tea Corp., No. C 06-03594 JSW, 2007 WL 1545173, *12 (N.D. Cal. 2007).

Here, although the Plaintiff is seeking declaratory relief there is still money at stake. The Court's declaration could result in a monetary award to the Debtor's estate of $330. The proportionately minimal sum of money at stake weighs in favor of entry of default judgment.

4. Possibility of dispute concerning material facts

The general rule is that after default is entered, all well-pleaded factual allegations are taken as true, with the exception of facts regarding damages. PepsiCo, Inc. at 1177.

Defendant was properly served and had a full opportunity to respond to the factual allegations asserted in the Complaint. Thus, default judgment is appropriate.

5. Whether defendants' default was product of excusable neglect

When a party is properly served and ignores the deadline to respond to the complaint there is no excusable neglect. NewGen, LLC v. SafeCig LLC, 840 F.3d 606, 616 (9th Cir. 2016).

Here, Defendant was properly served with the Complaint on September 30, 2016. Defendant was served with the Motion for Default Judgment on May 25, 2017. Defendant has had ample opportunity to be heard and has yet to make an appearance in the present case. Therefore, Defendant's default is unlikely to be a result of excusable neglect.

6. Strong public policy favoring decisions on the merits

Generally default judgments are disfavored and a case should be decided on the merits. Eitel, 728 F.2d at 1472. When the Defendant makes the termination of a case impossible or impracticable, default judgment is permitted. PepsiCo, Inc. at 1174.

Here, Defendant was properly served and has not made any appearance in the case. Defendant's failure to make an appearance and failure to file any response or opposition weighs in favor of the entry of default judgment.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT Trustee's Motion for Default Judgment as requested in the Motion.

Docket 39

BACKGROUND

On October 16, 2016 ("Petition Date"), Charles David Arthur and Claire Blanza Arthur (collectively, "Debtors") filed their petition for chapter 7 relief. Charles Daff is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee"). Among the assets of the Debtors' bankruptcy estate ("Estate") is real property located at 35965 Carlton Road in Wildomar, CA (the "Property").

On April 25, 2017, the Trustee filed a Motion seeking (1) authority for a short sale of the Estate's right, title, and interest in the Property free and clear of the interests; (2) approving payment of broker commission; and (3) granting related relief ("Motion").

No opposition has been filed.

DISCUSSION

I. Sale of Estate Property Pursuant to Section 363(b)

The trustee, after notice and a hearing, may sell property of the estate. 11

U.S.C. § 363(b)(1); see also Commodity Futures Trading Comm'n v. Weintraub, 471 U.S. 343, 352 (1985). The sale must be in the best interests of the estate and the price must be fair and reasonable. In re Canyon Partnership, 55 B.R. 520 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1985); see also In re Wilde Horse Enterprises, Inc., 136 B.R. 830, 841 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1991)(sale must have fair/reasonable price, accurate/reasonable notice to creditors and sale made in good faith). The trustee must articulate some "business justification" for selling estate property out of the "ordinary course of business" before the court may approve the transaction. In re Lionel Corp., 722 F.2d 1063, 1071 (2d Cir. 1983); In re Ernst Home Ctr., Inc., 209 B.R. 974, 979 (Bankr. W.D. Wash. 1997). Objections to sale that are based on inadequacy of price are often resolved the court ordering an auction, which may occur in open court. Simantrob v. Claims Prosecutor, LLC (In re Lahijani), 325 B.R. 282, 287 (9th Cir. BAP 2005) citing Fed. R. Bankr. P. 6004(f).¹

Here, the Trustee asserts that the short sale will result in the estate being paid a fee of approximately $21,750. The declarations of Karina Jimenez and Anthony Silva (the "Buyers") indicate that the estate will be paid a fee of $21,750, in addition to the purchase price of $350,000. However, the Motion is not clear as to what underlies the "fee" being paid. Instead, it appears that the "fee" is actually a part of the purchase price. The framework proposed by the Trustee appears to indicate bad faith because he provides no basis rooted in bankruptcy for the Estate to charge a fee in exchange for the sale of an asset of the Estate.

a) Sale Free and Clear of non-Debtor Interests

A trustee may sell estate property "free and clear" of third party interests in the property, such as co-ownership interest, liens, claims and encumbrances. See 11 U.S.C. § 363(f). A sale free and clear of third party interests pursuant to section 363 is authorized only if one of the following conditions is met: (1) sale authorized by applicable nonbankruptcy law; (2) third party whose interest will be affected consents; (3) the affected interest is a lien and the sale price is greater than total value of all liens on the property; (4) the affected interest is a bona fide dispute; or (5) the third party whose interest will be affected could be compelled to accept a money satisfaction of the interest. 11 U.S.C. § 363(f)(1)-(5).

The Trustee has not obtained consent from the first priority secured lender. Without such consent, the Court cannot grant the Motion free and clear of this lien. As to the remaining junior liens, the Trustee proposes that a hypothetical foreclosure sale situation satisfies Section 363(f)(5). However, the Court believes that the analysis provided in Dishi & Sons v. Bay Condos LLC, 510 B.R. 696, 711 (S.D.N.Y. 2014) provides the better view of whether a hypothetical foreclosure sale can be a basis for granting free and clear under 363(f)(5).

[A] narrow interpretation [of 363(f)(5)] provides a limited role for paragraph (5), but avoids rendering the remaining paragraphs mere surplusage. See In re PW, 391 B.R. 25, 44 (9th Cir. BAP 2008) ("[A]ny interpretation of paragraph (5) must satisfy the requirement that the various paragraphs of subsection (f) work harmoniously and with little overlap."). Other courts have therefore limited the scope of paragraph (5) to those scenarios where the trustee or debtor, not any third party, is the actor. See, e.g., In re Ricco, Inc., 2014 WL 1329292, *3 (Bankr.N.D.W.Va. Apr. 1, 2014) ("[T]he only logical interpretation of ... § 363(f)(5) is that the statute requires that the trustee or debtor be the party able to compel monetary satisfaction for the interest which is the subject of the sale.") (quoting In re Haskell, 321 B.R. at 9); In re Scott, 2013 WL 4498987, *2–3 (Bankr.E.D.Ky. Aug. 21, 2013) (paragraph (5) does not refer to foreclosure proceedings because they are initiated by creditors, not the debtor); In re Haskell, 321 B.R. at 9 (paragraph (5) does not encompass eminent domain proceedings because the trustee must be the party capable of compelling the interest holder to accept a money satisfaction). This Court agrees that paragraph (5) should be read to reach only those legal or equitable proceedings that could be brought by the trustee as owner of the property. A foreclosure by a third-party mortgagee is not such a proceeding. And as Dishi has not suggested any other hypothetical proceedings by which the trustee could compel TGM to accept a money satisfaction in exchange for extinguishment of its interest, the Court holds that paragraph (5) does not authorize a sale free and clear of TGM's rights. In re Daufuskie Island Props., LLC, 431 B.R. 626, 637 (Bankr.D.S.C.2010)

(noting that the burden is on the proponent of the sale to identify the basis for the sale).

Dishi & Sons at 711 (S.D.N.Y. 2014)(emphasis added).

Here, the Court is inclined to agree with the rationale of Dishi & Sons that 363 (f)(5) should be read narrowly to encompass only legal or equitable proceedings that could be brought by the trustee as the owner of the property. For this reason, the Court is inclined to deny the Trustee's request to permit a sale free and clear of the junior liens against the Property.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing analysis, the Court is inclined to DENY the Motion.

Docket 465

Tentative Ruling:

07/12/2017

BACKGROUND

On December 18, 2013, Nabeel Slaieh ("Debtor" or "Defendant") filed for chapter 7 relief. Larry D. Simons is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee").

Among the assets of the bankruptcy estate is certain real property located at 40834 Baccarat Rd., Temecula, CA ("Property").

On August 29, 2014, the Office of the United States Trustee ("UST") filed a Complaint Objecting to Discharge or, Alternatively, Seeking Dismissal of the Case for Abuse ("Complaint"). An Answer was filed on October 21, 2014. On July 10, 2016, the UST sought Court authority to file a supplemental Complaint and extend the discovery and dispositive motion deadline. On September 10, 2015, the Court entered its order authorizing the filing of the Supplemental Complaint. The Supplemental Complaint was filed on September 16, 2015. The Supplemental Complaint added the Sixth and Seventh Claims for Relief under §§ 727(a)(2) and (d)(1). On June 28, 2016, the Court Granted the Defendant's Motion to Dismiss the Seventh Claim under § 727 (d)(1).

On July 8, 2016, the UST filed a Motion for Final Order to Enter Partial Summary Judgement or in the Alternative, Summary Adjudication of Material Facts as to the Sixth Claim for Relief. On October 21, 2016, the Court entered its order granting the UST's Motion for a Final Order and on October 25, 2016, entered final judgment on the Sixth Claim for Relief (the "Judgment"), denying the Debtor his discharge. The Debtor did not seek reconsideration and did not timely appeal the Court's Judgment.

On January 27, 2017, the UST filed a Motion to Dismiss Unresolved Claims Without Prejudice (the "Request to Dismiss Remaining Claims"). In its Request to Dismiss Remaining Claims, the UST indicated that the Debtor disputed whether the Court's Judgment was final because it did not address all of the claims raised by the Complaint and, relatedly, whether the time for Debtor to appeal the denial of discharge had lapsed. On March 22, 2017, the Court granted the UST's Request to Dismiss Remaining Claims. The Debtor then filed his Notice of Appeal of the Court's Judgment on April 1, 2017. The Debtor did not request a stay pending appeal.

On June 19, 2017, CFFC, Inc. and Brian Ostler, Sr., Esq. ("Movant") filed a motion for determination of whether stay in favor of the Debtor terminated pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(2)(C), upon entry of judgment denying discharge ("Motion"). The Motion indicates that Debtor's counsel and the Debtor were served by US Mail on June 14, 2017. Based on the proof of service, in addition to the correspondence between Mr. Saba and Movant, the Court finds that Debtor had sufficient due process. Despite having been served with the Motion, no opposition has been filed by the Debtor.

DISCUSSION

Movant indicates that he filed an action in Pomona Superior Court against the Debtor for fraudulent transfer, conspiracy to fraudulently transfer and recovery for violation of Business and Professions Code § 17200 et seq. (the "State Court Action") on November 30, 2016. The State Court Action was served on the Debtor on January 3, 2017, and a default was entered against the Debtor on February 21, 2017.

On June 5, 2017, the Movant received correspondence from Debtor's counsel demanding that the default in the State Court Action be set aside, and asserting that failure to do so would result in the Debtor filing an adversary action seeking damages for violation of the automatic stay. (Exhibit 3).

Movant further asserts and provides copies of email correspondences indicating that Debtor's counsel argued to Movant prior to the filing of the instant Motion that the Judgment denying the Debtor his discharge had been appealed and was "without any force and/or effect." (Exhibit 5).

Chapter 7

Movant requests that this Court confirm that the steps already taken in the State Court Action have not and will not violate the stay and that there is no stay in effect.

The automatic stay of acts against debtor in personam expires when the debtor is granted or denied a discharge. 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(2)(C). Acts against property of the estate remain stayed until the earliest of the time when the bankruptcy case is closed, dismissed, or the property ceases to be property of the estate. 11 U.S.C. § 362(c).

Here, the Movant is correct that the Court denied the Debtor his discharge pursuant to the October 25, 2016, Judgment. Thus, the Court finds that the automatic stay of acts against the Debtor, in personam, expired on the date the Judgment was entered.

In contrast, acts against property of the estate remain stayed. However, the State Court Action appears to clearly state that "it does not seek to obtain possession of property of the Bankruptcy Estate or of property from the Bankruptcy Estate or to exercise control over property of the Bankruptcy Estate, or to create, perfect, or enforce any lien against property of the Bankruptcy Estate." (Ex. 2 at 2, ¶3).

TENTATIVE RULING

As set forth above, the Court finds that pursuant to § 362(c)(2)(C), the automatic stay terminated as to Movant (as to non-estate property) as of October 25, 2016. As such, the actions initiated by the Movant against the Debtor as of November 2016 with respect to the State Court Action do not violate the automatic stay, and shall not violate the automatic stay as long as Movant makes no attempt to obtain possession/control of estate property.

From: 6/7/17

Docket 21

Tentative Ruling:

07/12/2017

At the prior hearing on the Defendant's motion to set aside default ("Motion"), the Court indicated it would grant the motion conditioned upon the Defendant paying Plaintiff's fees incurred for opposing the Motion and for preparation of the Motion for Default Judgment that would become moot as a result of the order setting aside the default, subject to any objection from Defendant as to the reasonableness of the fees.

The Court required that a declaration from Plaintiff re: fees would be due by June 28, 2017, and that any response/objection to the fees would be due by July 7, 2017. The Declaration re: Fees and Objection were timely filed.

The Court has reviewed the billing records provided by Plaintiff and finds several entries to be unreasonably high. Specifically,

1. The duplicative and excessive entries for research regarding elements, etc. of default judgments constitute two separate entries of approximately 7 hours each. The total for these two entries is thus approximately 14 hours regarding research for a default judgment motion on April 13 and April 14. The Court finds these research amounts unreasonably high. ($1,762.50 + $1,675 = $3,437.50)
2. A related conference between the associate preparing the motion and the partner on the case, Mr. Franklin Fraley, for a total of nearly 5 hours on April 19 appears excessive. ($1,237.50)

Chapter 7

3. The April 21 revisions and conference with Mr. Fraley for a total of 5.2 hours inappropriately lumps amounts for distinct tasks together and warrants striking as well. ($1,300)
4. The May 9 and 10 entries to review/analyze for preparation of the opposition to the Defendant's Motion are duplicative and should be stricken. ($1,250 + $1,125=$2,375)
5. The May 24 entries that total 7.75 hours improperly lump tasks making it difficult to gauge the reasonableness of the fees. Overall the Court finds that the amount billed for the tasks set forth appear unreasonably high. This entry shall be stricken. ($1,937.50)

Striking the above amounts, the Court finds that a reduction of $10,287.50 is appropriate.

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to find the remaining figure of $8,673.75 to be a reasonable amount of fees for the actions taken by Plaintiff in opposing the Motion and in drafting the Motion for Default Judgment.

#1.00 Motion RE: Objection to Claim Number 1 by Claimant Castle Credit Co Holdings, LLC

Also #2

EH__

Docket 100

Tentative Ruling:

7/13/17

Background:

On November 6, 2014, Liliana Gomez ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On November 13, 2014, Castle Credit Corporation ("Creditor") filed a claim in the amount of $6,461.71, of which $3,000 was secured ("Claim 1"). On January 8, 2015, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed. On April 10, 2017, Creditor amended Claim 1 to reduce the claim to $3,461.71, eliminating the secured portion. On June 8, 2017, Debtor filed a claim objection.

The basis of Creditor's claim is the sale of a Puronics water treatment system. Debtor states that she returned the system after two months. Furthermore, Debtor states that she paid Creditor $3,000 in settlement of the claim in February 2017. Finally, Debtor argues that Creditor has not provided sufficient evidence of its claim, because the contract underlying is in Spanish.

Chapter 13

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

Analysis:

Section 14 of contract underlying Creditor's claim contains a choice of law provision identifying North Dakota law as the controlling law. Debtor has not raised an argument regarding the validity of this choice of law provision, and, therefore, the Court will apply North Dakota law. North Dakota's version of UCC Article 2-209, N.D. Cent. Code § 41-02-16(3), governing the modification to a contract for the sale of goods, states : "The requirements of the statute of frauds of this chapter must be satisfied if the contract as modified is within its provision." UCC Article 2-201, adopted by North Dakota, includes an exception to the status of frauds for part performance, recognized by North Dakota. See Hofmann v. Stoller, 320 N.W.2d 786, 790 (N.D. 1982).

The part performance exception to the statute of frauds requirement has been subjected to different interpretations in different contexts and states. See, e.g., N.D. Cent. Code §9-09-06 (outside UCC, alteration of written contract by oral agreement requires that the agreement be "executed"); see also Cal. Com. Code § 2209, California Code Comment (describing California cases dealing with execution of oral agreements modifying written contracts within purview of UCC). Nevertheless, the Court need not reach the issue because Debtor has not satisfied its burden here. Debtor must demonstrate by a preponderance of the evidence that the alleged modification took place. See Hofmann v. Stoller, 320 N.W. 2d at 790. The only evidence provided by Debtor is hearsay – statements made to Debtor by her former attorney regarding conversations with Creditor. Furthermore, given the UCC fixture filing attached to Creditor's proof of claim, it is not clear to the Court that the $3,000 payment to Creditor through escrow is more consistent with the alleged oral modification than with the existing contract.

Debtor's remaining arguments lack merit. Absent a contractual provision providing a right of rescission, Debtor's obligations under the contract were not extinguished by returning the water treatment system. Furthermore, the fact that the underlying contract is written in Spanish is irrelevant; Debtor could have filed a translated copy. Therefore, the Court declines to hold that the contract is invalid as evidence of Creditor's claim.

#5.00 Application for Compensation for Dana Travis, Debtor's Attorney, Fee: $1135.00

EH__

Docket 87

Tentative Ruling:

Application: $1135 for opposition to motion for relief from stay and adequate protection order.

Opposition: Fees are unreasonable and excessive. Trustee recommends $525.

Analysis: 11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(3) (2005) provides factors to be considered in determining the reasonableness of requested compensation.

Wells Fargo Bank filed a motion for relief from stay (real property), seeking relief under § 362(d)(1) because Debtors were three months behind on their post-confirmation payments. Debtors filed a standard opposition, stating that they would cure or enter into an adequate protection agreement. The hearing was continued once, and then the parties entered into an adequate protection agreement.

Trustee's opposition does not identify any specific time entries which the Trustee believes are unreasonable or excessive. All of the entries are for fifteen minutes or less, except for one entry regarding the preparation of the opposition, which is listed at twenty-one minutes. There are multiple, somewhat generic time entries related to the motion for relief from stay and the adequate protection order, including for discussions with the client and opposing counsel. Those entries appear excessive given the simplicity of the relief from stay opposition and the adequate protection order, and given that the adequate protection order was prepared by Bank's counsel. As such, the Court will reduce the fees requested by $200 as an approximation in this regard.

There is also one entry, for $40, which appears to reflect time Applicant spent helping the client make their monthly mortgage payments (on 5/8/17). The Court will eliminate this entry, because it is unclear why Applicant needed to consult with their client about the mortgage payments, and it seems unreasonable to bill the client $40.00 for transmitting the monthly mortgage payment.

Tentative:

The Court is inclined to APPROVE the application in a reduced amount of $895.

#12.00 Notice of motion and motion for relief from automatic stay with supporting declarations ACTION IN NON-BANKRUPTCY FORUM RE: Action in non-bankruptcy forum

MOVANT: USA WASTE OF CALIFORNIA, INC

EH__

Docket 77

Tentative Ruling:

07/25/2017

BACKGROUND

On August 30, 2016 ("Petition Date"), Dispatch Transportation LLC ("Debtor") filed its petition for chapter 7 relief. Charles Daff is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee").

On April 6, 2017, USA Waste of California, Inc. ("USA Waste") filed its Motion for an Order Authorizing the Examination of Craig Johnson and the Issuance of Subpoenas Duces Tecum to Commodity Trucking Acquisition, LLC ("CTA") and Craig Johnson Pursuant to Fed.R. Bankr.P. 2004 ("2004 Motion"). USA Waste brought its Motion on the basis that it believes the Debtor's case was filed in bad faith. Specifically, USA Waste believes the Debtor's asserts were transferred prepetition to CTA so that the Debtor could then file bankruptcy and discharge debts without having to liquidate its assets. In support, USA Waste asserts that CTA is run by the same managers, at the same location, with the same assets, and with representation of the same counsel as the Debtor.

In 2013, USA Waste commenced a lawsuit against the Debtor for Intentional Interference with Contractual Relations and for Unfair Competition (the "State Court Action"). Discovery was conducted and a motion for summary judgment was filed by the Debtor which was denied by the trial court. The Superior Court scheduled trial for August 2016 but then trailed the trial to September 2016. The instant petition was filed on August 30, 2016 – staying USA Waste's litigation against the Debtor.

Chapter 7

On June 27, 2017, USA Waste filed its Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay – Action in Non-Bankruptcy Forum ("Motion") seeking an order modifying the automatic stay to permit USA Waste to proceed under nonbankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to proceed to final judgment in the State Court Action with the express limitation that enforcement of any final judgment shall be limited to proceeding against the Debtor as to property or earnings that are not property of the bankruptcy estate. (Docket No. 80, Proposed Order).

On July 11, 2017, the Debtor and CTA filed oppositions to the Motion. On July 18, 2017, USA Waste filed an Omnibus Reply. (Note: initially, an opposition had also been filed by interested party L.A. Arena Funding, LLC. However, that opposition was subsequently withdrawn.)

LEGAL STANDARD

To obtain relief from the automatic stay, the party seeking relief must first establish a prima facie case that "cause" exists for relief under § 362(d)(1). Id. Once a prima facie case has been established, the burden shifts to the debtor to show that relief from the stay is unwarranted. Id. If the movant fails to meet its initial burden to demonstrate cause, relief from the automatic stay should be denied. Id.

The Curtis Factors

Courts have identified various factors relevant to determining whether the stay should be lifted to allow a creditor to continue pending litigation in a non-bankruptcy forum. The bankruptcy court in the case of In re Curtis, 40 B.R. 795 (Bankr. D. Utah 1984) set forth a non-exclusive 12-factor test established to determine whether relief from stay to permit the pending litigation to continue in another forum is appropriate. Id. at 799-80 (cited with approval in In re Plumberex Specialty Prod., Inc., 311 B.R. 551, 559 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2004) and Kronemyer v. American Contractors Indem. Co. (In re Kronemyer), 405 B.R. 915, 921 (9th Cir. BAP 2009)).

The twelve factors include:

1. Whether the relief will result in a partial or complete resolution of the issues;
2. The lack of any connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case;
3. Whether the foreign proceeding involves the debtor

as a fiduciary;

4. Whether a specialized tribunal has been established to hear the particular cause of action and whether that tribunal has the expertise to hear such cases;

5. Whether the debtor's insurance carrier has assumed full financial responsibility for defending the litigation;

6. Whether the action essentially involves third parties, and the debtor functions only as a bailee or conduit for the goods or proceeds in question;

7. Whether the litigation in another forum would prejudice the interests of other creditors, the creditors' committee and other interested parties;

8. Whether the judgment claim arising from the foreign action is subject to equitable subordination under Section 510(c);

9. Whether movant's success in the foreign proceeding would result in a judicial lien avoidable by the debtor under Section 522(f);

10. The interests of judicial economy and the expeditious and economical determination of litigation for the parties;

11. Whether the foreign proceedings have progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial, and

12. The impact of the stay on the parties and the "balance of hurt."

In re Curtis, 40 B.R. at 799-80. Not all of the twelve Curtis factors are relevant in every case. In re Plumberex Specialty Prod., Inc., 311 B.R. at 560 (citations omitted). Nor is a court required to give each of the Curtis factors equal weight in making its determination. Id. Furthermore, the Ninth Circuit has held that grounds for granting relief to proceed in another forum are left to discretion of judge. In re Castlerock Properties, 781 F.2d 159,163 (9th Cir. 1986).

DISCUSSION

As a threshold matter, the Court need not resolve the factual disputes related to whether misrepresentations have been made about CTA's running of the Manning Pit and other related disputes. The Court shall instead turn to the Curtis factors to determine whether relief from stay is warranted at this juncture:

1. Whether the relief will result in a partial or complete resolution of the issues

As to this first factor, the Court finds that adjudication of the State Court Action is likely to result in a complete resolution of the issues between USA Waste and the bankruptcy estate. What will remain unresolved is the issue of enforcement of any judgment against third parties – including CTA. However, given that no cognizable argument has made that the dispute between CTA and USA Waste is likely to impact the bankruptcy estate other than by potentially reducing any potential claim it has against the estate, this factor weighs in favor of granting relief from stay.

2. The lack of any connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case

The Debtor asserts that there is no reason why the dispute between the parties cannot be resolved via the bankruptcy claims objection process. However, the Debtor's characterization of the dispute is not so simple. There has been no dispute that the dispute between USA Waste and the Debtor was at the trial stage in the Superior Court. As such, it is logical that the Superior Court is in a better position to finally resolve any issues related to the claim of USA Waste than the bankruptcy court. This factor weighs in favor of granting relief from stay.

3. Whether the foreign proceeding involves the debtor as a fiduciary

This factor is not applicable here.

4. Whether a specialized tribunal has been established to hear the particular cause of action and whether that tribunal has the expertise to hear such cases

The Superior Court has had the benefit of developing specific knowledge regarding the issues related to the dispute between the parties since the State Court Action was filed in 2013. Its specific knowledge of the issues in dispute weighs in favor of the granting of relief.

5. Whether the debtor's insurance carrier has assumed full financial responsibility for defending the litigation

There is no assertion that the Debtor has any insurance available to pay claims that are the subject of the dispute. However, USA Waste has agreed to limit enforcement of any judgment against only non-estate property. This factor weighs in favor of granting relief from stay.

6. Whether the action essentially involves third parties, and the debtor functions only as a bailee or conduit for the goods or proceeds in question;

The State Court Action directly involves the Debtor. This factor weighs against granting relief from stay. The Court is cognizant that as a defunct corporation with few, if any, assets available to the defense of the State Court Action, that the Debtor may be at a disadvantage at trial in the Superior Court. Additionally, at present it appears that the Trustee is unlikely to expend estate resources on the defense of the Debtor. However, given CTA's strong interest in defending the Debtor in the State Court Action to avoid future litigation as to any potential successor and/or alter ego claims by USA Waste, the Court finds that this factor weighs in favor of granting relief from the automatic stay.

7. Whether the litigation in another forum would prejudice the interests of other creditors, the creditors' committee and other interested parties

There has been no indication that any party would suffer legal prejudice from permitting the State Court Action to proceed.

8. Whether the judgment claim arising from the foreign action is subject to equitable subordination under Section 510(c)

Seemingly this factor is inapplicable.

9. Whether movant's success in the foreign proceeding would result in a judicial lien avoidable by the debtor under Section 522(f)

Seemingly this factor is inapplicable.

10. The interests of judicial economy and the expeditious and economical determination of litigation for the parties;

As noted above, the State Court Action is at an advanced stage of litigation whereas this Court is only now becoming familiar with the facts regarding the protracted dispute between the parties. As such, judicial economy weighs in favor of granting relief from the automatic stay.

11. Whether the foreign proceedings have progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial, and

Chapter 7

The parties were prepared for trial when the bankruptcy petition was filed. The Debtor's claims that no one will defend the Debtor in the State Court Action and that default judgment will be entered against it are unpersuasive. In fact, the Debtor and CTA have both filed numerous pleadings in opposition to motions by USA Waste in the bankruptcy case and as noted above, CTA has a substantial interest in defending the Debtor's interests given that USA Waste's arguments thus far invariably point to a looming successor or alter ego claim against CTA.

12. The impact of the stay on the parties and the "balance of hurt."

On balance, the Court perceives no harm to the bankruptcy estate from permitting the State Court Action to continue. As to the remaining parties, the Court expects that denial of the Motion would result in more litigation in the bankruptcy court between the parties which would likely increase the costs of litigation for all parties. This factor appears neutral.

In addition to the foregoing, CTA and the Debtor have argued that the alter ego/successor claims USA Waste seeks to bring against CTA are exclusively claims of the estate, and that in seeking to assert these claims USA Waste may be interfering with the rights that the Trustee is currently trying to sell to CTA. The Court is unpersuaded by the arguments of CTA and the Debtor. While not technically before the Court as USA Waste has not filed a proposed amended complaint for the Court to review asserting alter ego or successor theories, in Ahcom, Ltd. v. Smeding, the Ninth Circuit held that if there is injury to the corporation that gives the corporation a right of action against the shareholders (e.g., where a shareholder converts or fraudulently transfers corporate assets), that claim is property of the bankruptcy estate. But absent a corporate right of action, a claim that shareholders treated the corporation as their alter ego to the detriment of a corporate creditor may be asserted only by the injured creditor. (9th Cir. 2010) 623 F3d 1248, 1251-1252 (applying Calif. law). Here, there has been no indication that USA Waste intends to bring an alter ego action on the basis of a particularized injury to the Debtor corporation. As such, there is no basis on which to conclude that USA Waste's potential action against CTA will interfere with/ or otherwise prejudice rights in claims owned by the bankruptcy estate.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court's tentative ruling is to grant relief from the automatic stay to USA Waste as

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion without prejudice. Movant's request for relief only requests relief under § 362(d)(2). Section 362(d)(2) requires Movant to show that the property is unnecessary to an effective reorganization and that Debtors have no equity in the property. This case is a Chapter 13 proceeding and the property at issue is Debtors' primary residence. In this situation, absent any indication to the contrary, the property is necessary to an effective reorganization. Furthermore, Movant does not identify the fair market value of the property or whether there are any additional liens on the property, and, therefore, has not demonstrated that Debtors have no equity in the property.

Debtor's opposition argues that the real estate contract is an executory contract that can be rejected in bankruptcy. While providing an applicable citation for that assertion, Debtor does not apply the legal standard to the facts of this case.

Nevertheless, it appears that Debtor's characterization of the contract as "executory" may have merit. While Movant, in the motion, states that "all contingencies had been removed," and, in the reply, states that they "dutifully removed all their contractual contingencies," the state court complaint submitted to support their motion states, in paragraph 23: "Plaintiffs have fully performed all conditions, covenants, and promises required by them on their part to be performed in accordance with the terms and conditions of the contract, except the final payment for the purchase of the Property." (emphasis added). While Movants appear to have made the initial deposit into escrow, it does not appear that the final purchase price was tendered.

"[A]n 'executory contract' that can be rejected in bankruptcy is a contract on which performance remains due on both sides at the time of the bankruptcy petition." Matter of Newcomb, 744 F.2d 621, 624 (8th Cir. 1984); see also In re Texscan Corp., 976 F.2d 1269-1271-72 (9th Cir. 1992). In Newcomb, the Court held that when the funds had already been transferred into escrow, there was no executory contract – no material obligations remained on the part of the grantor. See id.

In the Ninth Circuit, a real estate sales contract remains executory until the full purchase price is deposited into escrow by the purchaser. See In re Hertz, 536 B.R. 434, 439-41 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2015) (an extended discussion on when a purchase contract loses its executory nature).

Given that the real estate purchase contract may be an executory contract that shortly will be rejected by operation of law under 11 U.S.C. § 365(d)(1), and that Movants are seeking a state court order for specific performance under the contract, granting relief from stay would be improper because the state court proceedings would interfere with the bankruptcy court proceedings. Interference with the administration of the estate is the most important consideration when considering a motion for relief from stay to proceed with state court litigation. See In re Roger, 539 B.R. 837, 845 C.D. Cal. 2015) ("According to the court in Curtis, the most importance factor in determining whether to grant relief from the automatic stay to permit litigation against the debtor in another forum is the effect of such litigation on the administration of the estate. Even slight interference with the administration may be enough to preclude relief in the absence of a commensurate benefit."). Here, there is a possibility of significant interference with the bankruptcy estate.

For the foregoing reasons, the Court is inclined to DENY the motion.

Docket 10

Tentative Ruling:

07/25/2017

BACKGROUND

On May 12, 2017, Osbaldo Martinez ("Debtor") filed for chapter 13 relief. The Debtor's case was dismissed on May 30, 2017, for failure to file information. On June 2, 2017, the San Bernardino County Treasurer & Tax Collector ("County") filed its Motion for Relief from Stay seeking in rem relief ("Motion") as to certain properties located at 1567 Riverside Drive, Barstow, CA 92311; 860 Nancy St., Barstow, CA 92311; 36891 Livingston Ln., Hinkley, CA 92347; 26484 Highway #58, Barstow, CA (the "Properties").

The Motion was set for hearing on July 11, 2017. Prior to the hearing on the Motion, the Court vacated the matter specifically given the filing of the Motion subsequent to the dismissal of the case. The County notified the Court that it intended to appear at the July 11, 2017, hearing to request a ruling. At the hearing, the County argued that the Court's dismissal order specifically retained its jurisdiction over issues arising under § 362. However, the Court indicated that it was problematic to permit motions to be filed after the case had been dismissed without any limiting factor as to when such a motion could be filed. The Court continued the hearing and required further briefing regarding whether the Court has jurisdiction to enter an order on a motion requesting in rem relief which is filed after the bankruptcy case has been dismissed.

DISCUSSION

The County has cited two cases in support of its position. The first case is In re Cruz, 516 B.R. 594 (9th Cir. BAP 2014), an appeal from a ruling of this Court. Here, the Court finds that Cruz is inapplicable to the facts of the case at bar. Although the BAP referenced the Court's retention of jurisdiction of issues arising under § 362 in its decision, the BAP's decision permitting the post-dismissal grant of relief from stay also considered that Cruz involved a request for annulment of the stay. In Cruz, a foreclosure sale of property that was potentially property of the debtor's estate had been sold in the short period between the filing of the case and dismissal. Thus, annulment was appropriate even after dismissal for the creditor to ensure that its actions taken while the stay was still pending, could be ratified by the Court. The instant Motion contains no request for annulment and makes no assertion that any actions were taken during the pendency of the bankruptcy case.

The other case cited by the County is Sinclair v. Bank of Am., N.A. (In re Sinclair), 2013 Bankr. LEXIS 4657, *4 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. May 28, 2013), similar to Cruz involves a post-dismissal request for annulment to address actions taken during the pendency of a bankruptcy. Again, this situation is plainly distinguishable from the instant Motion which involves no request for annulment. Moreover, Sinclair, undercuts the County's argument in that it recognizes that there must be limits on post-dismissal bankruptcy jurisdiction:

Post-dismissal bankruptcy jurisdiction is generally limited. The bankruptcy court retains jurisdiction to dispose of ancillary matters, including construing and interpreting its orders. [Aheong v. Mellon Mortgage Co. (In re Aheong), 276 B.R. 233, 241 (9th Cir. BAP 2002)]. It may not, however, "grant new relief independent of its prior rulings once the underlying action has been dismissed." Tsafaroff v. Taylor (In re Taylor), 884 F.2d 478, 481 (9th Cir. 1989) (citing Armel Laminates, Inc. v. Lomas & Nettleton Co. (In re Income Prop. Builders, Inc.), 699

The Court GRANTS Relief under § 362(d)(1) based on the following: (1) Debtor failed to pay rent, (2) Movant gave appropriate notice to Debtor of their intention to terminate Debtor's tenancy if Debtor did not pay overdue rent, (3) Debtor failed to pay overdue rent, and (4) Movant affirmed their intention to terminate the tenancy by filling a complaint for unlawful detainer. Therefore, "Cause" is established under § 362(d)(1) because Debtor's lease is terminated and the Debtor retains only a possessory interest with regard to the leased property. In re Windmill Farms, Inc., 841 F.2d 1467, 1469-71 (9th Cir. 1988) (Holding that a lease of real property is terminated under California law when the lessor affirms his election to terminate the lease as expressed in a notice to pay rent or quit which the lessor has previously served upon the lessee); See also In re Perl, 513 B.R. 566, 576 (9th Cir. BAP 2014) (Holding that physical occupation of a Residence constitutes a possessory interest under California law that is protected by the automatic stay, making a motion for relief from stay necessary). The Court is also inclined to GRANT relief under § 362(d)(2) as Debtor has no equity in the property. GRANT relief under ¶2. DENY relief under ¶4, ¶7a, ¶9a, ¶10 and ¶11 for lack of cause shown. Although Movant has obtained a judgment in the state court Unlawful Detainer action, the judgement was obtained post-bankruptcy petition without relief from stay. Relief from stay would not be proper without seeking annulment.

Movant has also failed to properly serve Debtor. Debtor was served on July 18, 2017 via overnight mail. Under the Court's rules, notice must be received five (5) court days prior to the hearing. Docket 89

Tentative Ruling:

07/25/2017

Background

On November 10, 2016 ("Petition Date"), B & B Family, Incorporated ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. The Debtor is owned by Patricia Forte (who owns 50% of shares) and by Randall and Marianne Richey, husband and wife, who own the remaining 50% of shares in the Debtor (collectively, "Shareholders")

Debtor operates Oggi's Pizza and Brewing Company in Apple Valley, California. Debtor has fifty-five employees. The Debtor's Schedules show that it had approximately $114,662.50 in assets as of the Petition Date. The Debtor's assets consist primarily of leased equipment, business licenses, and liquid assets in the form of cash and accounts.

On March 31, 2017, Debtor filed its Disclosure Statement and Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization. On May 2, 2017, Comerica Bank filed a Limited Response to the Debtor's Disclosure Statement pointing simply to the Debtor's omission of its franchise agreement as an executory contract being assumed. In response, the Debtor amended its Disclosure Statement and Plan on May 2, 2017 (the "Amended DS and Plan"). Additionally, on May 3, 2017, the Debtor filed redline versions of the Amended DS and Plan reflecting the changes made since the March 31, 2017, filings.

Following the May 2017, hearing on the Disclosure Statement, the Debtor filed amended pleadings on June 13, 2017. Service was proper and no objections to the Debtor's Second Amended Disclosure Statement have been filed.

Legal Standards

A. Adequate Information

A Chapter 11 disclosure statement is required to contain "adequate information" pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1125(b). Section 1125(f)(2) provides that: "the court may approve a disclosure statement submitted on standard forms approved by the court or adopted under section 2075 of title 28." The United States Courts have devised a disclosure statement template for small businesses, Form B25B, which Debtor generally adopted as to format.

As to the substance of a disclosure statement, 11 U.S.C. § 1125(a)(1) defines "adequate information" as:

information of a kind, and in sufficient detail as far as is reasonably practicable in light of the nature and history of the debtor and the condition of the debtor's books and records, including a discussion of the potential material Federal tax consequences of the plan to the debtor, any successor to the debtor, and a hypothetical investor typical of the holders of claims or interests in the case, that would enable such a hypothetical investor of the relevant class to make an informed judgment about the plan, but adequate information need not include such information about any other possible or proposed plan and in determining whether a disclosure statement provides adequate information, the court shall consider the complexity of the case, the benefit of additional information to creditors and other parties in interest, and the cost of providing additional information

The type of information required varies with the circumstances. See, e.g., In re Jeppson, 66 B.R. 269, 292 (Bankr. D. Utah 1986) (listing nineteen categories of information commonly required); see also In re Malek, 35 B.R. 443, 443-44 (Bankr. E.D. Mich. 1983) (listing minimum requirements).

B. Plan Funding and Feasibility

Debtor indicates it will have $60,000 cash on hand as of the Effective Date ($35,000 cash on hand and $25,000 to be accumulated between now and Effective date). This amount appears sufficient to cover payments due on the Effective Date.

Disposable income projection is $6,400 per month based on average net disposable income since December 2016 (and after payments of $2,204.17 to Comerica and $3,206.78 to Sysco Foods) for a total of $11,810.95 for plan payments. This amount appears sufficient to cover the proposed plan payments of approximately $10,632 per month

C. Management

Patricia Forte (50% owner) is current CEO and will step down as CEO

Randall Richey will remain Secretary

Marianne Richey, current CFO will become CEO and CFO post-confirmation with day-to-day responsibility for overseeing the financial affairs.

D. Other Terms

Liens

Liens of FC and Oggi's Corporate will be extinguished upon confirmation and liens of Comerica and FPL will be extinguished on payment in full of their allowed secured claims.

Tentative Ruling

The Court has examined the Debtor's Amended DS and Plan to determine whether "adequate information has been provided and has identified the following issues to be addressed:

- The DS and Plan contemplate bifurcation of Comerica and FPL's claims and avoidance of remaining junior liens. A Motion to Value was filed on July 24.
- The Declaration of Marianne Richey makes reference to Exhibit E and purports to authenticate this Exhibit as the "Annual Projected Cash Flow" for the Debtor based on monthly operating reports from December 2016 to April 2017. However, the "Annual Projected Cash Flow" is Exhibit D, not Exhibit E as indicated in the declaration.

There is no need for a further hearing. Once the Debtor has amended the disclosure statement the Debtor may lodge a proposed order approving the disclosure statement, as modified.

I. BACKGROUND

Rio Rancho Super Mall, LLC ("Debtor") is a California Limited Liability Corporation. Debtor owns and operates a commercial property, Rio Rancho Super Mall, located at 25211 Sunnymead Blvd., Moreno Valley, CA 92553 ("Property"). The Property is improved with a commercial building (approx. 100,750 sq. ft.) with retail space for 87 retail tenants. On February 13, 2017, Debtor filed a voluntary Chapter 11 Petition. This is the Debtor's second chapter 11 case. The Debtor's prior case was dismissed on December 27, 2016, based on the Debtor's material default in its compliance with the terms of the previously confirmed chapter 11 plan.

Related Documents:

- On June 13, 2017, Debtor filed its Disclosure Statement (Docket #69) and its Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization (Docket #70).

1. Eric Sang Yul Kim ("Mr. Kim") is the managing member and owns 87.5%
2. Kwang Sung Kim ("Mrs. Kim"), Debtor's wife, owns the remaining 12.5%

DSD:

Debtor's primary secured creditor is DSD Note Investors, Inc. ("DSD") which the Debtor asserts fully encumbers the Property. On January 31, 2017, DSD filed a complaint for breach of contract and foreclosure and also moved the Superior Court for the appointment of a receiver.

Motivation for filing a Chapter 11:

Debtor contends that the instant filing was precipitated by the dismissal of its prior case due, in part, to poor market conditions which did not sufficiently improve, and due also to problems with the Debtor's confirmed plan which failed to account for certain liens; and also due to the aggressive collection efforts of DSD.

II. DISCUSSION

Before a disclosure statement may be approved after notice and a hearing, the court must find that the proposed disclosure statement contains "adequate information" to solicit acceptance or rejection of a proposed plan of reorganization. 11 U.S.C. § 1125(b).

"Adequate information" means information of a kind, and in sufficient detail, so far as is reasonably practicable in light of the nature and history of the debtor and the condition of the debtor's books and records, that would enable a hypothetical reasonable investor typical of the holders of claims against the estate to make a decision on the proposed plan of reorganization. 11 U.S.C. § 1125(a).

There is no set list of required elements to provide adequate information per se. A case may arise where previously enumerated factors are not sufficient to provide adequate information. Conversely, a case may arise where previously enumerated factors are not required to provide adequate information. In re Metrocraft Pub. Services, Inc., 39 B.R. 567 (Bankr. N.D.Ga. 1984). "Adequate information" is a flexible concept that permits the degree of disclosure to be tailored to the particular situation, but there is an irreducible minimum, particularly as to how the plan will be

PLAN SUMMARY

The Debtor proposes an Effective Date of November 1, 2017

Funding

Debtor intends to fund the plan with regular business income estimated by the Debtor at approximately $110,920 per month.

Debtor asserts it will have $45,000 on the Effective Date from rental income and capital contributions

Administrative Claims: (Unimpaired)

Paid in full on Effective Date

· Law Offices of Langley & Chang:	$25,000
· Clerk's Office:	$0
· US Trustee Fees:	$975
Total:	$25,975

Priority Tax Claims: (Unimpaired)

Chapter 11

Class 1: DSD Note Investors, LLC (Impaired)

- Principal balance/allowed claim: $12,000,000
- Claim allowed per stipulation including agreement by DSD to extend loan maturity date
- Terms: $55,000 per month at 4.25% interest for 35 years
 - Additional quarterly payments of greater of $10,000 or net cash flow for quarter

Class 2: Riverside County Tax (Unimpaired)

- Principal balance/allowed claim: $45,000/$100,000
- Terms: $1,801.85 per month at 18% interest for 120 months

Class 5: General Unsecured Creditors (Impaired)

- Debtor proposes to pay 0% (i.e. no payments to general unsecured creditors)

Class 6: Equity Interest Holders

- Mr. Kim and Mrs. Kim will retain their interests

Liquidation Value

Debtor estimates its liquidation value is $7,533,400 and thus after payment of the secured claim of DSD in the amount of $12,000,000 and even assuming funds are available to pay administrative claims and priority tax claims, no funds would remain for other creditors.

Feasibility

Debtor will fund the plan through regular business income and the cash contribution. Debtor states it will have $45,000 on effective date to pay $29,486.88 due on Effective Date.

· Cash on hand:	$10,000 (DIP Account)
· Capital Contributions:	$35,000
Total:	$45,000

Balance remaining after paying initial amount of Effective Date: $15,513.12

III. OBJECTIONS

Chapter 11

DSD Objections

1. Inaccurate descriptions of property value, maturity date, and interest rate;
2. DSD asserts FMV of the Property should be 12 million in accordance with terms of the Stipulation and that as to the maturity date, the forbearance is for a period of 36 months, not 35 years;
3. DSD seeks to receive its Note interest rate of 8.625%, not the 4.25% indicated in the DS and Plan;
4. The Debtor's figures for the Riverside County Tax Collector's claim conflicts with the filed proofs of claim (Claim No. 2 and Claim No. 4), and the Stipulation of DSD and Debtor requires that Debtor remain current on property tax payments;
5. DSD asserts that Debtor has not fully disclosed its management/ownership structure and specifically points to its belief that Yeon Ju Kim and John Seung Kyun Lee are also members of the Debtor.

Pacific City Bank Objections

1. PCB contends that the maximum value that DSD can assert as a first priority lienholder is $10,422,000 and that PCB is in second priority once that cap is reached;
2. PCB further asserts that the DS's estimate of the fair market value of the Property is unsupported by any evidence and belies "basic knowledge of the trajectory of real estate prices in Southern California" considering the fact that in the prior case, Debtor asserted a fair market value of $8,060,000 (i.e. more than the current asserted value of $7,500,000) at a time when the real estate values were depressed in the area (PCB Obj. at Ex. A);
3. The proposed plan violates the absolute priority rule in that it allows equity to retain their ownership interests despite the fact that unsecured creditors will receive nothing and equity proposes no new value.

Butterfield Objections

1. The DS indicates at page 13 that the Debtor intends to reject the agreements between Butterfield and the Debtor. Butterfield asserts that these agreements run with the land and are not executory contracts capable of rejection under the bankruptcy code and has provided some authority for this proposition. Debtor, for its part has not rebutted Butterfield's contentions;

2. The Debtor's estimated expenses understates the estimated amount of CAM payments which are currently $9,3000, not $5,000 as set forth in the Debtor's projections;
3. Butterfield wants additional language added to indicate that any confirmed plan will not alter current or future obligations due under the terms of the CAM;
4. Butterfield also disputes that DSD can assert any claim greater than $10,422,000;
5. Butterfield objects to the valuation of the Property asserted by the Debtor;

Tentative Ruling:

Debtor's Disclosure Statement and Plan are defective for the following reasons:

1. Debtor's DS indicates in Section IV.A.2.b. that Classes 1 and 3 are impaired. However, Section III.C. indicates that Classes 1 and 5 are impaired. In fact, there appears to be no Class 3 and 4 at all;
2. In Section IV.A.8, Debtor indicates that it seeks cramdown on Classes 1-3 but makes no mention of Class 5, which is impaired, and then contradictorily indicates that it does not intend to cramdown as to Class 1;
3. The DS does not indicate the current tenancy rates of the Property. Additionally, the Debtor should indicate the risks, if any, associated with the proposed increase in rents, and how did the Debtor determine the appropriate percentage increase in rents. The Court notes that in its prior case, the Debtor disclosed that certain tenants were behind on rental payments. The Debtor should disclose whether it has encountered any difficulties in collecting rents and whether any tenants have exhibited a tendency to pay late or to miss payments;
4. The DS and Plan provide no information regarding the avoidance of junior liens and the impact of avoidance on the liabilities of the Debtor;
5. The Court otherwise concurs that the Debtor must fully disclose the management/ownership structure of the Debtor and amend its DS and Plan to properly account for properly filed claims, including the claims of the Riverside County Tax Authority noted by DSD;

6. The Court is concerned that the increase in the monthly CAM expense indicates that as proposed the Plan may be infeasible, and otherwise the historical information presented does not support the projected income;
7. The DS asserts that the Debtor will have $35,000 in "capital contributions" on the Effective Date. Does this figure represent "new value" from the equity interest holders? This is not disclosed.

In addition to the foregoing, the Court agrees with the creditors that many of the objections to language of the DS and Plan revolve around the Debtor's as-yet unfiled motion to value, although creditors will need to place their objections to DSD's claim before the Court. In any event, for the foregoing reasons, the Court's tentative ruling is to DENY approval of the Disclosure Statement as not containing adequate information.

BACKGROUND

On October 30, 2013 ("Petition Date"), Ronald and Alicia Stearns (collectively, "Debtors") filed their petition for chapter 7 relief. Among the assets of the estate is real property located at 7573 Honeysuckle Street in Fontana, CA 92336 (the "Property"). The Debtors received a discharge and the case was closed on February 11, 2014.

On January 10, 2017, the Court granted the Debtors' request to reopen the case for the purpose of avoiding judgment liens recorded against the Property. On February 2, 2017, the Debtor filed motions to avoid the liens of Capital One Bank ("Capital One") and Merchants Financial Guardian ("Merchants") pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 522 (f). At the hearing on the Debtors initial motions, the Court denied both motions due to various technical issues with the motions. The tentative ruling indicated as follows:

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion without prejudice for a variety of technical reasons. Primarily, the filing that is actually set for hearing is Docket No. 17, which is simply a "notice" that does not attach, contain, incorporate, or reference a motion. Second, the earlier motion filed by Debtors, Docket No. 16, contains no admissible evidence regarding the value of the first lien as of the petition date. Third, the Court notes that Local Rule 4003-(2)(b)(1) prevents Debtors from bringing one motion to avoid two lines under 11 U.S.C. § 522(f). Fourth, the earlier motion contains multiple, material factual inconsistencies, including the amount of the claimed exemption and the fair market value of the property.

Tentative Ruling on Motion to Avoid Liens, March 29, 2017.

On April 21, 2017, the Debtors refiled their motions to avoid the liens of Capital One Bank and Merchants. On May 18, 2017, the Debtors withdrew their motion to avoid the lien of Merchants. The only motion currently pending is the motion to avoid the lien of Capital One Bank (the "Motion").

DISCUSSION

As a threshold matter, the Motion was not properly served on Capital One via FRBP 7004(h) which requires service on a FDIC insured entity via certified mail and to the attention of an officer at the address indicated for the institution on the FDIC website. The Debtors did not comply with any of these requirements for service.

Section 522(f)(1)(A) provides in relevant part: "the debtor may avoid the fixing of a lien on an interest of the debtor in property to the extent that such lien impairs an exemption to which the debtor would have been entitled ... if such lien is (A) a judicial lien." 11 U.S.C. § 522(f)(1)(A) (emphasis supplied).

Chapter 7

Section 522(f)(2) prescribes a formula for calculating whether an exemption is impaired:

(2)(A) For the purposes of this subsection, a lien shall be considered to impair an exemption to the extent that the sum of—

(i) the lien;

(ii) all other liens on the property; and

(iii) the amount of the exemption that the debtor could claim if there were no liens on the property; exceeds the value that the debtor's interest in the property would have in the absence of any liens.

(B) In the case of a property subject to more than 1 lien, a lien that has been avoided shall not be considered in making the calculation under subparagraph (A) with respect to other liens.

(C) This paragraph shall not apply with respect to a judgment arising out of a mortgage foreclosure.

11 U.S.C. § 522(f)(2) (emphasis supplied). That is, an exemption is impaired if the sum of all of liens and the exemption yields a total that is greater than the fair market value of the property. See In re Meyer, 373 B.R. 84, 89 (9th Cir. BAP 2007).

Here, the Debtors assert that the first lien on the Property is $173,433.90, that the Property is next encumbered by the lien of Merchants in the amount of $48,351.02, and by the lien of Capital One in the amount of $3,928.15. The Debtors have asserted an exemption in the Property of $100,000. However, the Debtors Schedule C indicates that they have exempted $76,566.10 in the Property and have not sought to amend their schedules. Nevertheless, assuming the values are correct, the total of the liens and exemption is $302,279.17 which is greater than the fair market value of the Property of $270,000 as asserted by the appraisal obtained by the Debtors. These figures would indicate that the lien of Capital One impairs the exemption of the Debtors.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined CONTINUE the hearing on the Motion to June 28, 2017, at 11:00 a.m., for the Debtor to properly serve Capital One per FRBP 7004(h) with an amended Notice of Motion and Motion as indicated above.

Docket 39

Tentative Ruling:

05/31/2017

BACKGROUND

On October 16, 2016 ("Petition Date"), Charles David Arthur and Claire Blanza Arthur (collectively, "Debtors") filed their petition for chapter 7 relief. Charles Daff is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee"). Among the assets of the Debtors' bankruptcy estate ("Estate") is real property located at 35965 Carlton Road in Wildomar, CA (the "Property").

On April 25, 2017, the Trustee filed a Motion seeking (1) authority for a short sale of the Estate's right, title, and interest in the Property free and clear of the interests; (2) approving payment of broker commission; and (3) granting related relief ("Motion").

No opposition has been filed.

DISCUSSION

U.S.C. § 363(b)(1); see also Commodity Futures Trading Comm'n v. Weintraub, 471 U.S. 343, 352 (1985). The sale must be in the best interests of the estate and the price must be fair and reasonable. In re Canyon Partnership, 55 B.R. 520 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1985); see also In re Wilde Horse Enterprises, Inc., 136 B.R. 830, 841 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1991)(sale must have fair/reasonable price, accurate/reasonable notice to creditors and sale made in good faith). The trustee must articulate some "business justification" for selling estate property out of the "ordinary course of business" before the court may approve the transaction. In re Lionel Corp., 722 F.2d 1063, 1071 (2d Cir. 1983); In re Ernst Home Ctr., Inc., 209 B.R. 974, 979 (Bankr. W.D. Wash. 1997). Objections to sale that are based on inadequacy of price are often resolved the court ordering an auction, which may occur in open court. Simantrob v. Claims Prosecutor, LLC (In re Lahijani), 325 B.R. 282, 287 (9th Cir. BAP 2005) citing Fed. R. Bankr. P. 6004(f).¹

Here, the Trustee asserts that the short sale will result in the estate being paid a fee of approximately $21,750. The declarations of Karina Jimenez and Anthony Silva (the "Buyers") indicate that the estate will be paid a fee of $21,750, in addition to the purchase price of $350,000. However, the Motion is not clear as to what underlies the "fee" being paid. Instead, it appears that the "fee" is actually a part of the purchase price. The framework proposed by the Trustee appears to indicate bad faith because he provides no basis rooted in bankruptcy for the Estate to charge a fee in exchange for the sale of an asset of the Estate.

a) Sale Free and Clear of non-Debtor Interests

A trustee may sell estate property "free and clear" of third party interests in the property, such as co-ownership interest, liens, claims and encumbrances. See 11 U.S.C. § 363(f). A sale free and clear of third party interests pursuant to section 363 is authorized only if one of the following conditions is met: (1) sale authorized by applicable nonbankruptcy law; (2) third party whose interest will be affected consents; (3) the affected interest is a lien and the sale price is greater than total value of all liens on the property; (4) the affected interest is a bona fide dispute; or (5) the third party whose interest will be affected could be compelled to accept a money satisfaction of the interest. 11 U.S.C. § 363(f)(1)-(5).

The Trustee has not obtained consent from the first priority secured lender. Without such consent, the Court cannot grant the Motion free and clear of this lien. As to the remaining junior liens, the Trustee proposes that a hypothetical foreclosure sale situation satisfies Section 363(f)(5). However, the Court believes that the analysis provided in Dishi & Sons v. Bay Condos LLC, 510 B.R. 696, 711 (S.D.N.Y. 2014) provides the better view of whether a hypothetical foreclosure sale can be a basis for granting free and clear under 363(f)(5).

[A] narrow interpretation [of 363(f)(5)] provides a limited role for paragraph (5), but avoids rendering the remaining paragraphs mere surplusage. See In re PW, 391 B.R. 25, 44 (9th Cir. BAP 2008) ("[A]ny interpretation of paragraph (5) must satisfy the requirement that the various paragraphs of subsection (f) work harmoniously and with little overlap."). Other courts have therefore limited the scope of paragraph (5) to those scenarios where the trustee or debtor, not any third party, is the actor. See, e.g., In re Ricco, Inc., 2014 WL 1329292, *3 (Bankr.N.D.W.Va. Apr. 1, 2014) ("[T]he only logical interpretation of ... § 363(f)(5) is that the statute requires that the trustee or debtor be the party able to compel monetary satisfaction for the interest which is the subject of the sale.") (quoting In re Haskell, 321 B.R. at 9); In re Scott, 2013 WL 4498987, *2–3 (Bankr.E.D.Ky. Aug. 21, 2013) (paragraph (5) does not refer to foreclosure proceedings because they are initiated by creditors, not the debtor); In re Haskell, 321 B.R. at 9 (paragraph (5) does not encompass eminent domain proceedings because the trustee must be the party capable of compelling the interest holder to accept a money satisfaction). This Court agrees that paragraph (5) should be read to reach only those legal or equitable proceedings that could be brought by the trustee as owner of the property. A foreclosure by a third-party mortgagee is not such a proceeding. And as Dishi has not suggested any other hypothetical proceedings by which the trustee could compel TGM to accept a money satisfaction in exchange for extinguishment of its interest, the Court holds that paragraph (5) does not authorize a sale free and clear of TGM's rights. In re Daufuskie Island Props., LLC, 431 B.R. 626, 637 (Bankr.D.S.C.2010)

Dishi & Sons at 711 (S.D.N.Y. 2014)(emphasis added).

Here, the Court is inclined to agree with the rationale of Dishi & Sons that 363 (f)(5) should be read narrowly to encompass only legal or equitable proceedings that could be brought by the trustee as the owner of the property. For this reason, the Court is inclined to deny the Trustee's request to permit a sale free and clear of the junior liens against the Property.

Based on the foregoing analysis, the Court is inclined to DENY the Motion.

Docket 14

Tentative Ruling:

07/26/2017

Factual Background

On October 13, 2015, Jack C. Pryor ("Defendant") filed a voluntary Chapter 11 bankruptcy, case number 6:15-19998 ("Bankruptcy Case"). The case was subsequently converted to a Chapter 7. Defendant is being represented by Trent Thompson ("Thompson") in the Bankruptcy Case.

In the Bankruptcy Case, the Court ordered Defendant to turn over solar panels to the Trustee ("Turnover Order"). On January 12, 2017, the Court found Defendant was in contempt for violating the Turnover Order.

On February 28, 2017, the United States Trustee ("Plaintiff") filed a Complaint to Deny Discharge ("Complaint") pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 727(a)(2) and (a)(6). Defendant was served with the Complaint on March 9, 2017 and an answer, if any, was due by March 31, 2017. Default was entered against Defendant on April 17, 2017.

Defendant has now filed a Motion to Set Aside the Entry for Default ("Motion"). In support of this Motion, Defendant presents as evidence a declaration from Thompson, who asserts he was not Defendant's counsel at the time the Complaint was filed or when default was entered. Defendant alleges that Thompson acted with excusable neglect. Defendant alleges that he received the Complaint and Defendant's wife sent the Complaint to Thompson via e-mail on or about March 1, 2017. Thompson did not review the e-mail and alleges he was not aware of the Complaint until April 27, 2017, when he received another e-mail from Defendant's wife. This Motion was filed on July 3, 2017.

Opposition

On July 12, 2017, Plaintiff filed an opposition ("Opposition") with the Court. Plaintiff alleges Defendant has failed to meet his burden of proof to set aside entry of default. Plaintiff asserts that Defendant intentionally failed to respond to the Complaint and Defendant is attempting to manipulate the Court in order to avoid compliance. Furthermore, Plaintiff contends that Defendant has not raised any grounds which would present evidence of a meritorious defense. Plaintiff asserts that setting aside the entry of default would result in prejudice by allowing Defendant to continue to evade the Turnover Order.

Reply

On July 19, 2017, Defendant filed a reply ("Reply") to Plaintiff's Opposition, including a response to the evidentiary objections. Defendant alleges that Plaintiff's Opposition is erroneous and improper. Defendant asserts that Plaintiff has misinterpreted Thompson's declaration, particularly paragraph 11. Defendant attempts to clarify by stating that the paragraph was meant to convey that there was insufficient time to file this Motion before July and was not a strategic move to intentionally fail to respond to the Complaint. Defendant asserts that there was no decision to intentionally ignore the Complaint and that the necessary requirements for a motion to set aside entry of default have been met.

Discussion

A. Evidentiary Objections

Thompson's Declaration. Federal Rules of Evidence apply to bankruptcy court, cases, and proceedings. Fed. R. Evid. 1101.

1. Objection 1

Plaintiff objects to Thompson's testimony that, "On or about 3/1/2017, I received an email from Maxine Miller." [Dock. 23 quoting Thompson Dec. ¶4, lines 10-11] as hearsay (Fed. R. Evid. 801), for lack of foundation (Fed. R. Evid. 602), and based on the best evidence rule (Fed. R. Evid. 1003).

The objection is sustained.

2. Objection 2

Plaintiff objects to Thompson's testimony that:

"On or about 04/27/2017, I became aware of the email which had been sent to me on 03/01/2017. On or about 04/27/2017, I received another email from Ms. Miller discussing her proposed Answer to the Adversary Complaint which she had drafted for Jack Pryor."

[Dock. 23 quoting Thompson Dec. ¶6, lines 15-19]. Plaintiff objects to the testimony as hearsay (Fed. R. Evid. 801), for lack of foundation (Fed. R. Evid. 602), and based on the best evidence rule. (Fed. R. Evid. 1003).

This objection is sustained.

3. Objection 3

Plaintiff objects to Thompson's testimony that "The email message stated that Ms. Miller had forgotten a deadline for filing of the proposed Answer to the Adversary complaint, and she claimed that she has missed the deadline 'with so many things going on.'" [Dock. 23 quoting Thompson Dec. ¶7, lines 20-22]. Plaintiff objects to the testimony as hearsay (Fed. R. Evid. 801), for lack of foundation (Fed. R. Evid. 602), and under the best evidence rule (Fed. R. Evid. 1003).

The Objections are sustained.

4. Objection 4

Plaintiff objects to Thompson's testimony that, "Despite the communication from Ms. Miller, I take full responsibility for failing to timely respond to the Adversary complaint on Jack Pryor's behalf." [Dock. 23 quoting Thompson Dec. ¶8, lines 24-25]. Plaintiff objects to the testimony as hearsay (Fed. R. Evid. 801), for lack of foundation (Fed. R. Evid. 602), best evidence (Fed. R. Evid. 1003), and prejudice (Fed. R. Evid. 403).

This objection is sustained.

5. Objection 5

Plaintiff objects to Thompson's testimony declaring that "The Adversary Complaint was never served upon my office by the U.S. Trustee's Office." [Dock. 23 quoting Thompson Dec. ¶9, lines 1-2]. Plaintiff grounds the objection to the testimony as lacking relevance (Fed. R. Evid. 402).

The objection is sustained.

6. Objection 6

Plaintiff objects to Thompson's testimony asserting that "However, as stated above, I became aware of the Adversary Complaint on or about 04/27/2017." [Dock. 23 quoting Thompson Dec. ¶9, lines 2-3]. Plaintiff objects to the testimony as hearsay (Fed. R. Evid. 801), for lack of foundation (Fed. R. Evid. 602), and pursuant to the best evidence rule (Fed. R. Evid. 1003).

The objection is sustained.

[Dock. 23 quoting Thompson Dec. ¶10, lines 5-7]. Plaintiff objects to the testimony as being hearsay (Fed. R. Evid. 801), lacking foundation (Fed. R. Evid. 602), best evidence (Fed. R. Evid. 1003), speculation (Fed. R. Evid. 601 & 602), and as an improper opinion (Fed. R. Evid. 701).

The objection is sustained.

B. Motion to Set Aside Entry of Default

An entry of default may be set aside for good cause. Fed. R. Civ. P. 55(c). Fed. R. Civ. P. 55(c) is made applicable to bankruptcy proceedings by Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7055. Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7055. When setting aside an entry of default the court has "especially broad" discretion. Brady v. U.S., 211 F.3d 499, 504 (9th Cir. 2000). However, a case should be decided on the merits whenever possible. Falk v. Allen, 739 F.2d 461, 463 (9th Cir. 1984).

Good cause can be determined by evaluating three factors (1) whether the defaulting party engaged in culpable conduct leading to the default, (2) whether the defaulting party has failed to present a meritorious defense, or (3) whether the non-defaulting party would be prejudiced by setting aside the default. U.S. v. Signed Pers. Check No. 730 of Yubran S. Mesle, 615 F.3d 1085, 1091 (9th Cir. 2010) (citing Franchise Holding II, 375 F.3d at 925-926). These factors are in the disjunctive and thus the Court may deny this Motion if any one of the factors is present. Franchise Holding II, LLC. V. Huntington Rest. Grp. Inc., 375 F.3d 922, 926 (9th Cir. 2004) (citing Am. Ass'n of Naturopathic Physicians v. Hayhurst, 227 F.3d 1104, 1108 (9th Cir. 2000)).

1. Culpable Conduct

Culpable conduct may be found when the defendant has received actual or constructive notice of the complaint and intentionally failed to answer. Mesle, 615 F.3d at 1092. Intentional, in this context, means that the defendant had the "intention to take advantage of the opposing party, interfere with judicial decision making, or otherwise manipulate the legal process." Id. However, when a party is legally sophisticated, intention may be presumed because the party has an understanding of the consequences of its actions. Id. at 1093.

Here, Defendant asserts that failure to answer was the result of Thompson's excusable neglect. Defendant's wife e-mailed Thompson the Complaint or about the date it was filed with the Court but Thompson did not see the e-mail. A second e-mail was sent to Thompson in which Defendant's wife attached a proposed answer. Thompson, however, asserts he did not think of himself as Defendant's attorney.

Plaintiff counters that Defendant's conduct was culpable, as it was an attempt to manipulate the bankruptcy system. Plaintiff alleges Defendant and counsel are deliberately creating uncertainty regarding the Debtor's represented status. Plaintiff asserts that Defendant was aware of the consequences of failing to respond. Defendant instead of answering the Complaint chose to contest the Turnover Order in the Bankruptcy Case.

Both Defendant and Thompson assert that there was no agreement between them for representation in this proceeding. It is unclear at what point, if at any, Thompson was retained in this matter. Since no agreement was made between Defendant and Thompson, Thompson's conduct is of no significance given that it was up to Defendant to respond to the Complaint. Thus, the Court will look at the conduct of the Defendant in evaluating whether the Defendant engaged in culpable conduct leading to the entry of default.

The Ninth Circuit has made a distinction regarding culpable conduct between parties who are legally sophisticated and those which are not. A legally sophisticated party can be found when the party has access to outside counsel or "understands the dangers of failing to file an answer." Lakeview Cheese Co., LLC v. Nelson-Ricks Creamery Co., 296 F.R.D 649, 653 (D. Idaho 2013). In Meadows, the court found that a foreign entity was "sufficiently sophisticated" to protect its interests, where the party had been involved "in other actions in United States courts." Meadows v. Dominican Republic, 817 F.2d 517, 522 (9th Cir. 1987). Here, the Court finds Defendant to be a legally sophisticated party. Defendant has been involved in other court actions, has indicated in past proceedings before this Court that he has owned and/or managed more than one business, has filed four bankruptcy cases, and has filed pro per responses in his bankruptcy case (the Court takes judicial notices of responsive pleadings filed by Jack Pryor). At the time Defendant was served with this Complaint, Defendant had counsel representing him in the Bankruptcy Case (Stephen Wade substituted out of the case on May 2, 2017 per Docket No. 260). Furthermore, among other things, Debtor had been previously admonished by this Court for failing to observe deadlines. Pursuant to LBR 2090-1 (a)(3)(A), an attorney in a chapter 7 case "advises the debtor about the possibility of any additional proceedings related to or arising from the underlying bankruptcy case." Defendant thus presumably had access to counsel from Mr. Wade or could have engaged Mr. Thompson at the time the Complaint was filed. Notwithstanding even assuming the Defendant did not receive legal advice regarding the Complaint, the Court finds that as a legally sophisticated party, Defendant's intentional failure to answer can be presumed. Mesle, 615 F.3d at 1093.

Even assuming, arguendo, Defendant was not a legally sophisticated party, Defendant's culpable conduct led to the default. Defendant's actions are culpable when "there is no explanation of the default inconsistent with a devious, deliberate, willful, or bad faith failure to respond." TCI Grp. Life Ins. Plan v. Knoebber, 244 F.3d. 691, 698 (9th Cir. 2001). Here, Defendant provides no explanation as to why he failed to respond. Defendant only asserts via inadmissible evidence that his wife sent the Complaint to Thompson (who was not even engaged as counsel at the time), and appears to be attempting to couch the missed deadline in terms of a miscommunication between Thomson and Pryor regarding the scope of representation. However, assuming the Court accepts Defendant's argument, the Motion contains no evidence by the Defendant as to why he specifically did not respond to the Complaint and importantly, no statement by the Defendant as to whether and why he believed Thompson was responsible for representing him in the adversary proceeding.

Under Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7012, "[i]f a complaint is duly served, the defendant shall serve an answer within 30 days after the issuance of the summons, except when a different time is prescribed by the court. Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7012. The rule is clear Defendant "shall" serve an answer, serving and filing an answer is not an option but rather a requirement. The summons was issued on March

The Court finds that Defendant's culpable conduct led to the default. Therefore, pursuant to Franchise Holding II, this alone is a basis to deny the Motion.

2. Meritorious Defense

The meritorious defense factor is not "extraordinarily heavy," but rather requires only that defendant allege sufficient facts that, when taken as true, would create a defense. Mesle, 615 F.3d at 1094.

Plaintiff alleges that Defendant's refusal to comply with the Court's Turnover Order requires the court to deny discharge under 11 U.S.C. §727(a)(6). Defendant asserts that he has a meritorious defense in that it was impossible for Defendant to comply with the Turnover Order because the solar panels had been sold, and thus it was not an intentional violation of a court order. Furthermore, Defendant asserts that the Turnover Order did not call for turnover of the sale proceeds.

Plaintiff also alleged in the Complaint that Defendant concealed the sale of property of the estate with the intent to hinder, delay or defraud creditors or an officer of the estate. Therefore, arguing that the Court should deny discharge under 11 U.S.C. §727(a)(2)(B). Plaintiff must show that the Defendant held an actual intent to hinder, delay, or defraud. In re Devers, 759 F.2d 751, 753 (9th Cir. 1985). Thus, a meritorious defense would include facts demonstrating that Defendant had no actual intent.

Defendant asserts that he has a meritorious defense to this claim. Defendant asserts that he did not believe the solar panels were property of the estate, did not intend to defraud his personal creditors, and only removed the solar panels belonging to Access Solar to pay himself and his wife wages owed to them.

However, as Defendant has not provided any evidence whatsoever (merely allegations) in support of the Motion, the Court finds that Defendant has failed to establish facts that may create a defense as to Plaintiff's claims. As such, this factor supports denying the request to set aside of the entry of default.

3. Prejudice against non-defaulting party

In order for prejudice to bar setting aside an entry of default, the prejudice suffered by the non-defaulting party must be more than a delay of the resolution of the case. Mesle, 615 F.3d 1095. "The standard is whether [plaintiff's] ability to pursue his claim will be hindered." Falk, 739 F.2d at 463. However, a delay is prejudicial if it would result "in tangible harm such as loss of evidence, increased difficulties of discovery, or greater opportunity for fraud or collusions." TCI Grp., 244 F.3d. at 701.

Here, Defendant asserts that Plaintiff would not be prejudiced by setting aside the entry of default. However, Plaintiff counters he will suffer prejudice by allowing Defendant to continue to evade the Turnover Order.

Plaintiff's assertion that prejudice would be suffered by allowing Defendant to continue to evade the Turnover Order is not sufficient. To the contrary, the record of the case indicates that the chapter 7 trustee is competently pursuing enforcement of the Court's Turnover Order.

Chapter 7

The Court finds that the non-defaulting party would not suffer prejudice by setting aside the entry of default. However, the Mesle test is in the disjunctive.

Tentative Ruling

As set forth above, the Court is inclined to DENY the Motion based on the Defendant's culpable conduct which resulted in the entry of default against him, and because of Debtor's failure to establish a meritorious defense. In particular, the record supports a finding that the Debtor is a legally sophisticated party that knew or should have known that he had a duty to respond to the Complaint. Notwithstanding this knowledge, the Debtor failed to respond. In response, the Debtor has provided largely inadmissible evidence that there a response was contemplated but not effectuated due to a miscommunication regarding the scope of representation of the Debtor by his counsel, Thompson. Similarly, Debtor has failed to present any evidence to support the existence of a meritorious defense.

EH__

Docket 77

Tentative Ruling:

07/27/2017

DISCUSSION

Applicant seeks supplemental fees of $750, the standard no-look fee for work related to a Motion to Modify filed on January 27, 2017. The Trustee filed comments indicating his disapproval based on the following:

1. The case is in month 68 and payments under the plan have been completed;
2. On May 4, 2017, Trustee filed a Notice of Intent to File a Final Report and Account;
3. On April 21, 2017, Trustee issued the Debtors a refund of excess plan payments in the amount of $1,016.43;
4. Debtors have filed their Certificate of compliance (completion of plan payments); and
5. Trustee has no funds with which to pay allowed administrative claims.

Applicant requests that the Court approve the fees and permit the fees to be paid outside of the plan prior to the entry of discharge.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to allow the fees.

Docket 33

Tentative Ruling:

07/27/2017

Background:

On May 10, 2017 ("Petition Date"), Teresa and Michael Salvail (collectively, "Debtors") filed for chapter 13 relief. Rod Danielson is the duly appointed chapter 13 trustee ("Trustee").

On June 13, 2017, the California Franchise Tax Board (the "State") filed Claim No. 3-1 ("Claim No. 3") in the amount of $26,951.45. On June 26, 2017, the Debtors filed their Objection to the State's claim ("Objection"). On July 12, 2017, the State filed its Opposition to the Objection ("Opposition"). The Debtors have filed no reply.

Applicable Law:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

Chapter 13

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." United States v. Offord Fin., Inc., (In re Medina), 205 B.R. 216,222 (9th Cir. BAP 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. Ashford v. Consol. Pioneer Mort. (In re Consol. Pioneer Mort.), 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

Analysis

The Debtors assert that Claim No. 3 must be amended because the unsecured non-priority debt owed to the State was discharged in the Debtors' prior chapter 7 case, in which a discharge was received on May 10, 2017. In response, the State asserts that the underlying debts are for: (1) taxes that are not dischargeable pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(1) as to tax claims for 2012 and 2013 which were filed in 2016; and (2) for penalties which are not dischargeable under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(7).

Here, the Court finds that the Debtors failed to provide sufficient evidence to overcome the prima facie case that Claim No. 3 is valid at the outset. In particular, the Debtors' bare argument that the State's tax claims were discharged in the Debtor's prior case without any citation to applicable legal authority and with no reference to any specific aspects of the claims is insufficient to shift the burden back to the State. However, assuming, arguendo, the Debtors had succeeded in shifting the burden, the State has returned with sufficient evidence and legal authority for the Court to find that Claim No. 3 is valid and that the underlying claims were not discharged in the prior case pursuant to §§ 523(a)(1) and 523(a)(7), by a preponderance of the evidence. Moreover, when confronted with the State's evidence and legal authority, the Debtors failed to respond or otherwise to address the State's Opposition.

Tentative Ruling

For the foregoing reasons, the Objection is OVERRULED as to Claim No. 3.

Docket 12

Tentative Ruling:

07/27/2017

BACKGROUND

On June 12, 2017 ("Petition Date"), Maria Hurtado (the "Debtor") filed her petition for chapter 13 relief.

The docket reflects that the Debtor has filed numerous prior cases as follows:

1. Case Number 17-13778, Chapter 13 filed in California Central Bankruptcy on 05/05/2017 , Dismissed for Failure to File Information on 05/23/2017;
2. Case Number 17-10118, Chapter 13 filed in California Central Bankruptcy on 01/06/2017 , Dismissed for Failure to File Information on 01/24/2017;
3. Case Number 14-24995, Chapter 7 filed in California Central Bankruptcy on 12/16/2014, Standard Discharge on 03/30/2015; and
4. Case Number 01-10331, Chapter 7 filed in California Central Bankruptcy on 01/09/2001, Standard Discharge on 06/19/2001.

On June 30, 2017, the Debtor's instant case was dismissed for failure to file information. On the same date, the Office of the United States Trustee ("UST") filed a Motion to Dismiss Chapter 7 Case with a Re-Filing Bar (the "Motion"). No opposition has been filed.

As a threshold matter, the Court notes that the case has already been dismissed. As such the request for dismissal is moot. Nevertheless, the Court shall consider the UST's request for a bar to re-filing pursuant to §§ 349 and 105(a) to prevent further abuse of the bankruptcy system.

DISCUSSION

Here, the UST argues that dismissal of the Debtor's case is insufficient because the Debtor is a serial filer who filed three cases in 2017 alone, all of which were dismissed for failure to file documents. Additionally, in the Debtor's instant case she failed to disclose her prior cases in her sworn petition and is ineligible for a chapter 13 discharge due to her having received a chapter 7 discharge on March 30, 2015. Finally, the Debtor's petition indicates that the Debtor's purpose in filing the instant case is only to forestall a foreclosure. Coupled with the Debtor's ineligibility for a discharge under either chapter 7 or 13, the Court finds that the UST has established that the case was filed in bad faith.

Based on the foregoing facts, including a record of noncompliance with the duties of a debtor, the UST has established that a one-year bar under the Court's § 105 and § 349 authority is appropriate.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court's tentative ruling is to GRANT the request for a one-year re-filing bar. The request to dismiss the case is DENIED as moot.

APPEARANCES REQUIRED.

06/28/2017

BACKGROUND

On August 30, 2016 ("Petition Date"), Dispatch Transportation LLC ("Debtor") filed its petition for chapter 7 relief. Charles Daff is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee").

On April 6, 2017, USA Waste of California, Inc. ("USA Waste") filed its Motion for an Order Authorizing the Examination of Craig Johnson and the Issuance of Subpoenas Duces Tecum to Commodity Trucking Acquisition, LLC ("CTA") and Craig Johnson Pursuant to Fed.R. Bankr.P. 2004 ("Motion"). USA Waste brings its Motion on the basis that it believes that the Debtor's case was filed in bad faith. Specifically, it appears that USA Waste believes the Debtor's asserts were transferred prepetition to CTA so that the Debtor could then file bankruptcy and discharge debts without having to liquidate its assets. In support, USA Waste asserts that CTA is run by the same managers, at the same location, with the same assets, and with representation of the same counsel as the Debtor.

The initially scheduled hearing was continued by stipulation of the parties and was subsequently continued by the Court to June 28, 2017. On May 3, 2017, oppositions to the Motion were filed by CTA and by Craig Johnson. A reply to the

USA Waste asserts by its Motion that under the broad scope of FRBP 2004, examination of Craig Johnson and subpoena of records in CTA's and Craig Johnson's possession is justified because these parties have access to information that USA Waste requires to evaluate the Debtor's assets, liabilities, and prepetition activities in incurring the liabilities of the estate. (Motion at 3:25-28). Additionally, the initial Motion included a declaration from the Trustee indicating that he waived the Debtor's attorney-client privilege as to communications between the Debtor and Craig Johnson for purposes of the requested examinations. (Daff Decl. ¶3).

In opposition to the Motion, CTA generally asserts that the Motion should be denied because: (1) the Motion is moot because the Trustee retracted the waiver of the Debtor's attorney-client privilege with Mr. Johnson; (2) CTA obtained the Debtor's assets through a "commercially reasonable" Article 9 sale; (3) the Motion is itself only an attempt by USA Waste to obtain privileged information via the bankruptcy process that it could not otherwise obtain and use in connection with currently stayed state court litigation; (4) USA Waste is hoping to obtain privileged information in preparation for the filing of suit against CTA. The Court's Docket reflects that on May 3, 2017, the Trustee filed his Notice of Withdrawal of Waiver of Privilege. (Docket No. 59).

The Manning Pit dispute

In 2004, pursuant to a settlement agreement, the City of Irwindale was bound by a "Prioritization" provision which set forth the rules regarding which city quarries could be filled, when they could be filled, and by whom. In 2004, USA Waste obtained rights to fill a city quarry referred to by the parties as the "Arrow Pit". On or about 2007, the Debtor obtained a contract to fill a separate quarry – the "Manning Pit." A dispute subsequently arose about whether the Debtor's contract and work violated the Prioritization provision.

The Article 9 Sale

CTA alleges that it acquired the Debtor's assets via an Article 9 sale after the Debtor defaulted on debts owed to its first priority secured creditor, Comerica Bank. CTA asserts that Comerica effectuated a foreclosure sale on September 14, 2011 under Michigan law at which CTA was the buyer. CTA purchased the Debtor's assets for $12 million, which included its equipment, trade names, business names, leases, contracts etc. CTA notes that the individuals who shared management or ownership interests in both the Debtor and CTA did so because they made capital contributions for such interests. In support of their assertion that CTA's purchase of the Debtor's assets was proper, CTA and Mr. Johnson point to the decision of the San Bernardino Superior Court in which a different party attempted to bring suit against CTA as an alleged alter ego of the Debtor, and in which the Superior Court found no alter ego liability. This Court, however, notes that the decision of the Superior Court may have no preclusive effect in this case.

The Basis for USA Waste's claim against the Debtor

In 2013, USA Waste commenced a lawsuit against the Debtor for Intentional Interference with Contractual Relations and for Unfair Competition. Discovery was conducted and a motion for summary judgment was filed by the Debtor which was denied by the trial court. The Superior Court scheduled trial for August 2016 but then trailed the trial to September 2016. The instant petition was filed on August 30, 2016 – staying USA Waste's litigation against the Debtor.

DISCUSSION

Bankruptcy Rule 2004 is a broadly construed discovery device which permits any party in interest in a bankruptcy proceeding to move for a court order to examine any entity so long as the examination relates to "acts, conduct, or property or to the liabilities and financial condition of the debtor, or to any matter which may affect the administration of the debtor's estate, or to the debtor's right to a discharge." Fed.R.Bankr.P. 2004(b). The scope of inquiry permitted under a Rule 2004 examination is generally very broad and can "legitimately be in the nature of a 'fishing expedition.'" In re Wilcher, 56 B.R. 428, 433 (Bankr.N.D.Ill.1985). Such an examination, however, cannot be " 'used for purposes of abuse or harassment' and it 'cannot stray into matters which are not relevant to the basic inquiry.'" In re Table Talk, 51 B.R. 143, 145 (Bankr.D.Mass.1985) (quoting In re Mittco, Inc., 44 B.R. 35, 36 (Bankr.E.D.Wis.1984)). If the party to be examined makes a motion to quash a Rule 2004 subpoena, the examiner must show that there is good cause for taking the requested discovery. In re Wilcher, 56 B.R. at 434.

The Court now turns to its analysis of whether production and examination under Rule 2004 are warranted:

Chapter 7

As to CTA, USA Waste specifically requests production of the following:

Request 1

"... all data storage devices, including hard drives, containing information or documents concerning the Manning Pit, any former assets of the Debtor that were acquired by CTA, and/or the division of CTA referred to as "Dispatch Transportation" by CTA or CTA's agents, employees or managers such as Kim Pugmire."

The Court disagrees with CTA's objection that the requested documents do not relate to the administration of the bankruptcy estate. Specifically, the information regarding the Manning Pit is directly related to USA Waste's claim in the Debtor's bankruptcy. The remaining request appears to concern USA Waste's contention that CTA and the Debtor colluded to shield assets from USA Waste and to prevent it from being able to establish its claim against the Debtor. On this point, based on the evidence in the record, it does not appear that the Superior Court's prior adjudication of the Article 9 sale issues precludes USA Waste from potentially asserting alter ego claims against CTA, and its officers/managers or owners in connection with the Debtor's bankruptcy case for the benefit of the estate's creditors. However, the Court is inclined to limit the request to providing copies of the relevant documents rather than requiring provision of actual devices or hard drives.

As to Craig Johnson, USA Waste requests:

Request 1

All e-mails or other documents (excluding those documents which are part of the public record of proceedings) that you authored, transmitted, or received on behalf of Debtor concerning USA Waste of California, Inc. v. City of Irwindale, et al., Los Angeles Superior Court Case No. KC066276

Request 2

All documents for which Debtor invoked the attorney-client privilege in USA Waste of California, Inc. v. City of Irwindale, et al., Los Angeles Superior Court Case No. KC066276 as reflected in the Privilege Log attached hereto as Exhibit A.

Request 3

All documents concerning the Manning Pit.

Request 4

All documents concerning the division of CTA referred to as "Dispatch Transportation" by CTA or CTA's agents, employees or managers such as Kim Pugmire.

As to Craig Johnson, the Court is unpersuaded that the Pugmire testimony constitutes a waiver of the attorney-client privilege. Hernandez v. Tanninen, 604 F.3d 1095, 1100 (9th Cir. 2010). Disclosing a privileged communication or raising a claim that requires disclosure of a protected communication results in waiver as to all other communications on the same subject. United States v. Nobles, 422 U.S. 225, 239-40, 95 S.Ct. 2160, 45 L.Ed.2d 141 (1975); Weil v. Inv./Indicators, Research & Mgmt., 647 F.2d 18, 24 (9th Cir.1981) ("[V]oluntary disclosure of the content of a privileged attorney communication constitutes waiver of the privilege as to all other such communications on the same subject."); Chevron Corp. v. Pennzoil Co., 974 F.2d 1156, 1162 (9th Cir.1992) ("Where a party raises a claim which in fairness requires disclosure of the protected communication, the privilege may be implicitly waived."). The Court, having reviewed Exhibit E of the Pugmire testimony, finds that Mr. Pugmire was asked and frequently responded to general questions regarding who was representing the Debtor as to specific transactions, to which he frequently made reference to Mr. Johnson. However, it is not clear from the general questioning that Mr. Pugmire ever uttered a statement that would specifically waive the attorney-client privileges attached to communications with Mr. Johnson. Moreover, the rule regarding waiver as to disclosed communications is limited to "communications on the same subject." Nobles at 439-40. However, here, USA Waste's examination requests are broad and include no limitations as to subject, or otherwise. At a minimum, to prevail USA Waste would need to point to each specific statement in the deposition testimony that it contends effectuates a privilege waiver and separately identify which subject is not protected by the privilege. Having failed to go through this exercise, the Court finds the general references to Mr. Johnson's representation and to Mr. Pugmire's general statements regarding his interactions with Mr. Johnson unpersuasive as a basis to conclude that there has been a waiver of the attorney-client privilege.

Based on the foregoing, the Court finds that USA Waste's Motion must be denied as to all requests made to Mr. Johnson to the extent that the attorney-client privilege is asserted, so specifically as to requests 1 and 2. However, the Court agrees that the third and fourth requests generally request information regarding the Manning Pit and CTA's "Dispatch Transportation" division, which appears relevant. Mr. Johnson is free to provide a privilege log in response.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Motion is GRANTED IN PART and DENIED IN PART.

GRANTED (but limited) as to USA Waste's request to CTA for documents related to the Manning Pit, and to documents related to CTA's purchase of the Debtor's assets.

DENIED as to USA Waste's 1st and 2nd requests to Craig Johnson, and GRANTED as to requests 3 and 4.

BACKGROUND

On October 25, 2013, Douglas Jay Roger ("Debtor") filed his petition for chapter 7 relief. On September 22, 2014, Revere Financial Corporation ("Revere") and Jerry Wang ("Receiver") filed a complaint for determination of the dischargeability of debts pursuant to §§ 523(a)(2)(B), 523(a)(2)(A), 523(a)(4)(A), 523(a)(4) & 523(a)(6); and objecting to the Debtor's discharge pursuant to §§727(a)(3), 727(a)(4)(A), 727(a)(4)(B), 727(a)(5), & 727(a)(7) ("Complaint").

On October 6, 2014, the Debtor filed a Motion to Dismiss, to Strike, and for a More Definite Statement ("Motion"). The operative pleadings are as follows:

1. Memorandum by Jerry Wang in Opposition to Motion (Docket No. 13);
2. Memorandum by Secured Creditor Revere in Opposition to Motion (Docket No. 14);
3. Reply of Debtor to Jerry Wang's Opposition (Docket No. 15);
4. Reply of Debtor to Revere & Jerry Wang's Opposition (Docket No. 16);
5. Debtor's Supplemental Brief (Docket No. 19); and
6. Chapter 7 Trustee's Opposition to Motion (Docket No. 34).

Chapter 7

DISCUSSION

Civil Rule 12(b)(6) standards

Under Civil Rule 12(b)(6), made applicable in adversary proceedings through Rule 7012, a bankruptcy court may dismiss a complaint if it fails to "state a claim upon which relief can be granted." In reviewing a Civil Rule 12(b)(6) motion, the trial court must accept as true all facts alleged in the complaint and draw all reasonable inferences in favor of the plaintiff. Navarro v. Block, 250 F.3d 729, 732 (9th Cir. 2001). However, the trial court need not accept as true conclusory allegations in a complaint or legal characterizations cast in the form of factual allegations. Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555–56, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 167 L.Ed.2d 929 (2007); Hartman v. Gilead Scis., Inc. (In re Gilead Scis. Sec. Litig.), 536 F.3d 1049, 1055 (9th Cir. 2008).

To avoid dismissal under Civil Rule 12(b)(6), a plaintiff must aver in the complaint "sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to 'state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.'" Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678, 129 S.Ct. 1937, 173 L.Ed.2d 868 (2009) (quoting Twombly, 550 U.S. at 570, 127 S.Ct. 1955). It is axiomatic that a claim cannot be plausible when it has no legal basis. A dismissal under Civil Rule 12(b)(6) may be based either on the lack of a cognizable legal theory or on the absence of sufficient facts alleged under a cognizable legal theory. Johnson v. Riverside Healthcare Sys., 534 F.3d 1116, 1121 (9th Cir.2008).

The Debtor asserts primarily that (1) the Receiver has no "authority" to bring the action; and (2) to the extent that Revere's claim for damages includes fees and expenses incurred by the Receiver in its claim for damages, such claim is not proper because neither the Debtor nor Revere is obligated for the Receiver's fees and expenses. To the extent the Debtor prevails on this second argument, the Debtor also requests that the claim of Revere for fees and expenses incurred by the Receiver be stricken, and that Revere be required to set forth a more definite statement of its damages.

Once a court appoints a receiver, "[i]t is the rule that: 'The functions and powers of a receiver are controlled by statute, by the order appointing him, and by orders subsequently made by the court. He has no powers beyond those so conferred.' Downtown Sunnyvale Residential LLC v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., No. H038572, 2015 WL 263727, at *9 (Cal. Ct. App. Jan. 20, 2015) (citing 42 Cal.Jur.2d, Receivers, § 73; and see authority there collected.)" (Morand v. Superior Court (1974) 38 Cal.App.3d 347, 351 (Morand).) "Where a receiver's powers and duties are not directly prescribed by statute, they are dependent upon the court's order of appointment." (Nulaid Farmers Assn. v. LaTorre (1967) 252 Cal.App.2d 788, 791.) A receiver's powers " 'may be expanded or contracted by subsequent court order.' " (Resolution Trust Corp. v. Bayside Developers (9th Cir.1994) 43 F.3d 1230, 1242 (Resolution Trust Corp.), citing to Cal-American Income Property Fund VII v. Brown Development Corp. (1982) 138 Cal.App.3d 268, 273 (Cal-American).)

The Debtor cites to Cal. C.C.P. § 568 (CCP 568) and to Morand regarding the powers of receivers for the proposition that the Receiver has no authority to bring the instant action. CCP 568 provides, in pertinent part, that

The receiver has, under the control of the Court, power to bring and defend actions in his own name, as receiver; to take and keep possession of the property, to receive rents, collect debts, to compound for and compromise the same, to make transfers, and generally to do such acts respecting the property as the Court may authorize.

The Debtor argues that because the order appointing the Receiver did not enumerate the authority to file lawsuits as a power authorized by the Court, that the Receiver is without such authority until such time as he receives authorization from the Superior Court to file this action. Although authorities are scant, the authorities cited by the Debtor and found by this Court support the conclusion that for the Receiver to institute an action, the order appointing the Receiver must at a minimum contain language generally, if not specifically, authorizing/directing the commencement of actions. See e.g. Harting v. Cebrian, 10 Cal. App. 2d 10, 51 P.2d 195 (1935).

The Receiver, for his part, argues that he was directed to manage the receivership estate, including to "take possession, custody, and control" of various assets that comprise the "Receivership Estate" and to "[c]ollect all proceeds of the Receivership Estate, whether equity, income, payments, rents, revenue, sale, or otherwise." (Receiver Opp'n at 2). This language, however, is insufficient for the purpose of authorizing the Receiver to initiate legal actions. See e.g. Harting v. Cebrian, 10 Cal. App. 2d 10, 51 P.2d 195 (1935). In support of its position, the Receiver cites Title Ins. & Tr. Co. v. Grider, 152 Cal. 746, 94 P. 601 (1908). However, Grider dealt with two issues not present in the instant action – first, an attack on the underlying basis for the appointment of a receiver, and second, an assertion that the property at issue was not property that the Receiver was authorized to collect. Neither issue resolves the issue of whether the language of a receivership order authorizes the initiation of an action.

Based on the foregoing, the Court finds that the failure of the Receiver to allege that the receivership order provided him with the authority to initiate actions on behalf of the Receivership Estate is grounds for dismissal.

Although moot, assuming the Receiver did have authority to file the Complaint, as to the Receiver's claim for damages the Receiver has clarified that it does not seek its own fees, expenses, and costs. Instead, it seeks recovery of receivership assets. To the extent the Receiver's claim for damages is limited to recovery of assets of the receivership estate, such damages appear to fall squarely within the bounds of the Order Appointing Receiver. As such, the Receiver would need to amend the Complaint to clarify that its request for damages is limited to recovering assets of the receivership estate.

II. Revere is Not Liable to the Receiver for Fees and Costs and Thus Cannot Seek to Recover Such Fees and Costs as Damages

The Debtor argues that Revere has no basis to include fees and expenses of the Receiver. In response, Revere has cited to authorities indicating that in the event that the receivership estate is insufficient to pay the Receiver's fees and expenses, courts have, in some cases, found third parties liable to the receivers for the deficiency. The Debtor asserts that Atl. Tr. Co. v. Chapman, 208 U.S. 360, 374, 28 S. Ct. 406, 410, 52 L. Ed. 528 (1908), is dispositive of this issue.

The Supreme Court, in Atlantic Trust, acknowledged that third parties may be held liable in certain circumstances but indicated that such cases were rare. The Supreme Court stated, in pertinent part:

It is true that cases are cited in which the party bringing a suit in which a receiver is appointed has been held liable for expenses incurred by the receiver in excess of the proceeds arising from the sale of the property. But in most, if not in all, of those cases, the circumstances were peculiar and were such as to make it right and equitable, in the opinion of the court, that that should be done.

Id. As the Debtor acknowledges, the Supreme Court did not hold that a third party could under no circumstances be liable for a receiver's fees and expenses. Instead, the Debtor asserts only that the specific cases cited by Revere in which a third party was held liable are not applicable to the facts alleged in the instant case. Here, the Debtor does not address the broad language of the Commercial Security Agreement (Complaint at Ex. 3 at 42) in which Revere has pointed to provisions of Debtor's loan documentation, which may provide Revere with a basis to recover for fees and expenses owed to the Receiver for his services. However, notwithstanding this point, the Complaint does not include allegations that the receivership estate will not have funds to fully compensate the Receiver such that Revere could claim any liability for his costs and fees. Nor does the Complaint set forth a claim based on the contractual language cited by Revere in its opposition. As such, the Court finds that the Complaint does not contain sufficient factual allegations to support a plausible claim for damages based on the Receiver's fees and costs.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion as to dismissal of the Receiver, and as to striking Revere's claim for damages to the extent it includes fees and costs owed to the Receiver.

The Motion is DENIED as to its request for dismissal without leave to amend. There has been no showing by Debtor to justify dismissal with prejudice. The Receiver and Revere shall have 60 days from the date of entry of the order on the Motion to amend the Complaint.

Docket 114

Tentative Ruling:

08/01/2017

Opposition: Yes

Movant has established sufficient grounds to support relief from stay under § 362(d) (1) based on Debtor's failure to make required post-petition payments. Debtor alleges that more payments have been made to the Movant than the Motion accounts for and that some payments have been misapplied by the Movant, but provides no specificity or detail to support his assertions.

Service: Improper

Opposition: None

Once improper service is remedied, the tentative ruling is to GRANT relief from the stay under §§ 362(d)(1) and 362(d)(4) based on the following: Debtor has not paid mortgage for over two years, Movant is one of two creditors listed in case commencement documents, Debtor filed only a few case commencement documents and schedules, and the statement of financial affairs have not been filed. Additionally, the Debtor's failure to file required documents resulted in dismissal of the case on May 26, 2017. Debtor has also filed two previous bankruptcies with respect to the property in 2016 which were dismissed. Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT relief pursuant to ¶2, ¶5, ¶7b, and ¶9b. Court is also inclined to GRANT relief that Movant may provide and enter into potential forbearance agreement; confirming that no stay is in effect pursuant to § 362(c)(4). GRANT waiver of 4001(a) (3) stay.

As reflected above, while the court is inclined to grant relief from stay, service was improper due to Movant's failure to serve Debtor. Specifically, the Debtor's address

BACKGROUND

On May 11, 2016, Debtor filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. Debtor operated a medical account receivable collection service. On November 30, 2016, a Chapter 11 trustee was appointed.

On June 2, 2017, UST filed a motion to dismiss the Chapter 11 case for failure to pay quarterly fees of either $9,750 or $6,825, which were delinquent as of May 1, 2017. On June 13, 2017, the Chapter 11 trustee filed opposition to the motion to dismiss.

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 1112(b) provides that a case may be dismissed or converted for cause. Section 1112(b)(4) enumerates certain examples of cause, including "failure to pay any fees or charges required under chapter 123 of title 28." 28 USC § 1930(a)(6) imposed the statutory fees for Chapter 11 cases. Docket 318

Tentative Ruling:

06/28/2017

PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

On October 20, 2013, Douglas Jay Roger, MD, Inc., ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On October 20, 2015, Trustee filed two complaints. The first complaint ("First Complaint") named OIC Medical Corp. ("OIC"), Liberty Orthopedic Corp. ("LOC"), and University Orthopaedic Group ("UOG") as defendants, and was for avoidance, recovery, and preservation of preferential and fraudulent transfers. The second complaint ("Second Complaint") named Douglas J. Roger, M.D., Inc. Defined Benefit Plan ("DJRI Benefit Plan") (OIC, LOC, UOG, and DJRI Benefit Plan, collectively, "Defendants") as defendant, and also was for avoidance, recovery, and preservation of preferential transfers.

On April 6, 2016, the Trustee filed two motions to approve compromise (collectively, the "Original Compromise Motions"), corresponding to the two complaints identified above. On April 18, 2016, Kajan Mather & Barish ("KMB") filed oppositions to the motions for compromise. On April 25, 2016, Revere Financial Corporation ("Revere") filed objections to the motions for compromise, joining the opposition of KMB. On May 4, 2016, Trustee filed replies to KMB's oppositions and Revere's objections. On May 9, 2016, KMB withdrew its opposition.

Chapter 7

On May 11, 2016, a hearing was held on the matter, however, based on the representations of the parties, the hearing was continued. On May 25, 2016, Defendants filed joinders in the motions for compromise. The hearing was repeatedly continued to allow for discussions between Trustee and Revere.

On November 5, 2016, Defendants filed motions to enforce their respective settlement agreements with Trustee (collectively, the "Enforcement Motions"). Nevertheless, the Original Compromise Motions and the Enforcement Motions were again continued by stipulation.

On January 18, 2017, Revere filed oppositions to the motions to enforce, and Trustee joined in the oppositions. On January 19, 2017, KMB filed joinders to the motions to enforce.

On January 31, 2017, Revere and Trustee filed a joint motion to approve a settlement between Trustee and Revere (the "New Compromise Motion"). On February 1, 2017, hearings were held on the Original Compromise Motions and the Enforcement Motions. In light of the New Compromise Motion, the Court continued the matter.

On February 14, 2017, Bank of Southern California, N.A. ("BSC") filed an objection to the New Compromise Motion. On June 14, 2017, Defendants and KMB filed separate oppositions to the New Compromise Motion. On June 21, 2017, Revere filed a reply in support of the New Compromise Motion.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

There are two distinct settlement motions under consideration: (1) the New Compromise Motion; and (2) the Original Compromise Motions (and the corresponding Enforcement Motions).

A. New Compromise Motions

The New Compromise Motion¹ creates four categories of assets: (1) cash held by Trustee and in which Revere claims a security interest; (2) cash currently held by Revere, previously distributed by Trustee; (3) tax refunds; and (4) claims. Revere proposes to grant a carve-out of 100 percent of category one ($183,480.95) and $43,493 in category two, totaling $226,973.95, in addition to a carve out of any tax refunds.

In return, the settlement agreement provides that Trustee will agree to allow Revere a claim of $5,500,000.00, of which $4,000,000.00 will be treated as secured. Trustee also waives the right to challenge the validity or priority of Revere's security interest, and abandons any remaining interest in Revere's collateral. Revere is also granted the right to prosecute all claims owned by the bankruptcy estate that are not prosecuted by the Trustee or the contemplated liquidating trustee, and Revere is granted relief from stay to prosecute all such actions.

The settlement agreement contemplates the creation of a liquidating trust. As part of the creation of such a trust, the Trustee is to withdraw from all pending settlements for avoidance actions. Revere (or its nominee) will act as trustee of the liquidating trust. The rights to pursue Debtor's causes of action will be assigned to the liquidating trust, and Revere will have full discretion to determine which claims to pursue. Revere will cover the costs incurred by the liquidating trust. With some caveats, any proceeds recovered by the liquidating trust will be split 75/25 between Revere and the bankruptcy estate.

The settlement agreement also contains a clause that it is voidable if it not approved as is.

B. Original Compromise Motions

The Original Compromise Motions consist of two separate compromises: (1) a compromise with OIC, LOC, and UOG; and (2) a compromise with DJRI Benefit Plan. The first compromise contemplated Trustee dismissing adversary proceeding 6:15-1307 in return for $30,000. The second compromise contemplated Trustee dismissing adversary proceeding 6:15-1309 in return for $50,000.

Rule 9019(a) authorizes the bankruptcy court to approve a compromise or settlement on the trustee's motion and after notice and a hearing. The bankruptcy court must consider all "factors relevant to a full and fair assessment of the wisdom of the proposed compromise." Protective Comm. for Indep. Stockholders of TMT Trailer Ferry, Inc. v. Anderson, 390 U.S. 414, 424, 88 S. Ct. 1157, 20 L. Ed. 2d 1 (1968). In other words, the bankruptcy court must find that the settlement is "fair and equitable" in order to approve it. Martin v. Kane (In re A & C Props.), 784 F.2d 1377, 1381 (9th Cir. 1986).

In conducting this inquiry, the bankruptcy court must consider the following factors:

(a) the probability of success in the litigation; (b) the difficulties, if any, to be encountered in the matter of collection; (c) the complexity of the litigation involved, and the expense, inconvenience and delay necessarily attending it; and (d) the paramount interest of the creditors and a proper deference to their reasonable views in the premises.

Id.

The bankruptcy court enjoys broad discretion in approving a compromise because it "is uniquely situated to consider the equities and reasonableness [of it]" United States v. Alaska Nat'l Bank (In re Walsh Construction, Inc.), 669 F.2d 1325, 1328 (9th Cir. 1982). As stated in A & C Props.:

The purpose of a compromise agreement is to allow the trustee and the creditors to avoid the expenses and burdens associated with litigating sharply contested and dubious claims. The law favors compromise and not litigation for its own sake, and as long as the bankruptcy court amply considered the various factors that determined the reasonableness of the compromise, the court's decision must be affirmed.

Id. (citations omitted).

On the other hand, even though the bankruptcy court has wide latitude in approving compromises, its discretion is not completely unfettered. See Woodson v. Fireman's

Fund Ins. Co. (In re Woodson), 839 F.2d 610, 620 (9th Cir. 1988). The trustee bears the burden of proving to the bankruptcy court that the settlement is fair and equitable and should be approved. In re A&C Props., 784 F.2d at 1382.

The Court shall first apply the A&C factors to the Original Compromise Motion in isolation.

A. The OIC, LOC, and UOG Compromise

1. The Probability of Success in the Underlying Litigation

The record is neutral as to the probability of success. In particular, the Trustee has identified the arguments being made by OIC, LOC and UOG in defense of the avoidance actions but has provided scant information with which to gauge the strength of the respective positions. This factor is neutral.

2. Difficulty of Collection

The Trustee's Supplemental Declaration provides strong evidence underscoring the potential difficulty in collecting from OIC or LOC. In particular, the Trustee has determined that these entities are no longer going concerns and have no assets. This factor favors settlement.

3. Complexity, Cost, Inconvenience and Delay of Litigation

The difficulty in collection against OIC and LOC leaves UOG as the primary means for collection of any judgment. The action against UOG would require the Trustee to establish successor/alter ego liability. The Trustee concedes, however, that there is no evidence showing that any assets or customers were transferred to UOG from OIC, and UOG has indicated it acquired its contracts through a professional service. Further, the Trustee indicated that many of the transfers originally alleged to have been recoverable are either duplicative, were paid out on behalf of the Debtor by OIC, or were not paid by the Debtor to OIC at all, such that the remaining amount of the approximately $1.1 million is approximately $600,000. Based on this information, the Trustee has demonstrated that the complexity and costs of litigation weigh in favor of settlement.

Chapter 7

4. Interest of Creditors

Based on the Trustee's representation that the cost of litigation is likely to exceed any additional benefit to the Estate, the Trustee has established that settlement is in the best interests of creditors. This factor weighs in favor of settlement.

B. The DJRI Benefit Plan Compromise

1. The Probability of Success in the Underlying Litigation

The Trustee has provided evidence that success was predicated on a showing that DJRI Benefit Plan was an insider of the Debtor, and that DJRI Benefit Plan raised credible arguments to contest such a showing. This factor weighs in favor of settlement.

2. Difficulty of Collection

There are no specifics provided to indicate that collection would be particularly difficult. This factor is neutral.

3. Complexity, Cost, Inconvenience and Delay of Litigation

There is insufficient information provided to indicate that the litigation would be more complex, costly or inconvenient than what is customary. This factor is neutral.

4. Interest of Creditors

Based on the Trustee's representation that DJRI Benefit Plan possesses strong arguments diminishing the probability of success for the Trustee, coupled with the certainty of the Estate receiving $50,000 for the benefit of the estate through this settlement, the settlement appears to be fair and equitable. This factor weighs in favor of settlement.

Chapter 7

Defendants filed motions to enforce the settlement and requested that the court grant the motions to compromise. Defendants contend that the settlement agreement constitutes a valid contract, that the contract is valid unless the court rejects it, and that Revere's involvement in the proceedings is for the purpose of harassment and to increase attorney's fees. Revere responded by contending that the settlement agreement does not constitute a valid contract, that Trustee can sell the adversary, and that Trustee has a duty to consider higher bids. Additionally, Revere has essentially offered its own bid by filing the New Compromise Motion.

Regarding, Revere's contention that Trustee has the ability to sell or assign an avoidance action to a creditor, the Courts findings that In re P.R.T.C., Inc., 177 F.3d 774, 781 (9th Cir. 1999) and In re Prof'l Inv. Props. of Am., 955 F.2d 623, 625 (9th Cir. 1992) support Revere's contention that the avoidance actions can be assigned. The limitations arguably imposed by these line of cases, that the assignment(s) occur pursuant to a plan of reorganization, or when a creditor is pursuing interests common to all creditors, does not bar assignment of the avoidance actions at issue, since the recovery of preferential or fraudulent transfers is an interest common to all creditors.

While Defendants raise a variety of arguments against the New Compromise Motion in their opposition, there is no contention that Trustee lacks the legal authority to transfer the avoidance action.

KMB has objected that the proposed assignment is legally prohibited, but its argument is largely inaccurate. Citing In re Lahjani, 325 B.R. 282, 285 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2005), KMB asserts that there are three requirements for such a sale, and then argues that two of those requirements have not been met. First, KMB argues that the sale must be for a sum certain. While KMB allots one page to a subsection on this argument, there is no authority justifying the assertion. While Lahjani stated that "trustee avoiding powers may be transferred for a sum certain," it did not impose such a requirement, and the case it cited with regards to the statement, In re P.R.T.C., Inc., 177 F.3d 781-82, did not mention such a requirement. Id. Therefore, the Court declines to read this statement by Lahjani as imposing a requirement. Likewise, KMB argues that that the assignment must benefit the entire estate. While it is true that such an assignment must benefit the estate, this argument does not assist the Court's analysis since if there is no benefit to the estate, the New Compromise Motion will clearly not be considered an "overbid."

Chapter 7

A more novel and complex issue is presented by the process that has led to the proposed assignment of the avoidance actions. Specifically, Trustee entered into a settlement with Defendants that would have resolved the actions, Defendants moved to enforce the actions, then Trustee entered into a second settlement, this time with Revere. To complicate matters further, the second settlement is much more expansive in the rights it affects.

First, as is noted by Defendants, the Court must approve the compromise of a claim before the agreement becomes enforceable. See Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9019. Nevertheless, there is case law that concludes Trustee does not have authority to unilaterally repudiate the settlement agreement. See, e.g., In re Seminole Walls & Ceilings Corp. 388 B.R. 386, 391-96 (Bankr. M.D. Fla. 2008) ("To the extent there is a split of authority, the Court finds the better-reasoned view is that the parties to a settlement agreement may not unilaterally repudiate it after approval of it has been sought pursuant to Rule 9019.") (collecting cases). The fact that Trustee cannot repudiate the settlement agreement does not mean that the Trustee must continue to actively support the agreement. See, e.g., In re Martin 91 F.3d 389, 394 (3rd Cir. 1996) ("The trustee may even opt not to argue in favor of the stipulation, as was done here, if she no longer believes the settlement to be in the best interest of the estate."). But the Court, nevertheless, has the authority to approve the settlement agreement over a trustee's objection. See id. ("The trustee does not breach any term of the stipulation by [not supporting the agreement], for the bankruptcy court may nonetheless approve the settlement.").

As argued by Revere, however, the Court must consider preferable alternative offers, despite the Original Compromise Motions. Revere primarily cites to In re Mickey Thompson Entm't Group, a case which stated:

We agree with the Third Circuit that the disposition by way of 'compromise' of a claim that is an asset of the estate is the equivalent of a sale of the intangible property represented by the claim, which transaction simultaneously implicates the 'sale' provisions under section 363 as implemented by Rule 6004 and the 'compromise procedure of Rule 9019(a).

292 B.R. 415, 421 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2003). By analogizing the Original Compromise Motions to sale motions, Revere is arguing that the proposed compromise be compared to other bids, instead of merely being compared to continuation of the underlying litigation. See, e.g., id. at 421-22 ("When confronted with a motion to approve a settlement under Rule 9019(a), a bankruptcy court is obliged to consider, as part of the 'fair and equitable' analysis, whether any property of the estate that would be disposed of in connection with the settlement might draw a higher price through a competitive process and be the proper subject of a section 363 sale. . . . The possibility that someone else may be willing to pay a higher price triggers the prospect of an auction that could yield an even higher price."). Nevertheless, the Court must be able to ascertain that the New Compromise Motion offered by Revere actually constitutes an overbid.

III. Comparison of the Original Compromise & the New Compromise

The majority of the briefing has, directly or indirectly, related to whether Revere has, in fact, tendered an overbid. As the Court said towards the beginning of the most recent hearing on the matter, on February 1, 2017:

Those [the Original Compromise Motions] were done I want to say nine, ten months ago, and then the motion was filed maybe seven, eight months ago roughly, and there's been all this delay, and then less than 24 hours ago we get a massive stack of a new settlement from the Trustee and Revere that I think everyone would agree is very much not apples to apples. We're now apples to oranges.

My preference would be, I mean, so much of this is coming very late. My preference would be that really given the time that's passed and this, we'll call it speculative nature of that new settlement, which I did not digest other than a very quick review, and it's certainly far more complex than what was initially proposed, was really just to open up the pending motions to overbidder, and the, I was involved the Mickey Thompson case. I do believe that 9019 is subject to a 363 overbidding. I think that's the right result. I'm not saying that a trustee can never, or a party can never, counter a straight dollar bid with a different more complex bid, and that's certainly in the Trustee's discretion or largely in the Trustee's discretion, but these circumstances are a little bit different. There's been such a passage of time, and the new settlement is so complex and speculative related to what's here, and as a backdrop against this, given the administrative expenses, I'm not comfortable that there's going to be anything for anyone under any of these scenarios. So I feel the cleanest way is just to open up the pending settlement and if Revere believes they're worth more, that's fine. I understand the settlement is more expansive than that. The settlement can be revised to carve those out.

[Dkt. #454, p. 5-6]. In addition to the Court's concern regarding the disparate nature of the New Compromise Motion compared to the Original Compromise Motions, the following concerns were among those raised at the hearing on February 1, 2017: (1) that the settlement agreement provided that it was voidable if modified by the Court; and (2) that the nature, extent, and priority of Revere's lien, from which a carve-out was to be granted, were possibly subject to disputed. The Court later expressed its concerns to the parties regarding the operation of § 550 if Revere was successful in an avoidance action. The opposition of KMB and Defendants have largely questioned the value of Revere's "overbid," and KMB has asserted that the Court does not have adequate information to compare the settlements.

Therefore, the Court must engage in the following two-step analysis: (1) does the New Compromise offer more value than the Original Compromise Motions; and (2) do concessions made to Revere in the New Compromise Motion sufficiently reduce the value provided by Revere as to prevent the New Compromise Motion from being an overbid.

There are also two secondary considerations that inform the Court's deliberations. First, as noted by KMB, in making its determination, the Court must be presented with sufficient evidence to formulate an informed and intelligent opinion. Nevertheless, as noted by Revere, the Court should not conduct a mini-trial on every disputed issue, for that would eliminate the utility of a settlement altogether.

Second, the Court is cognizant of the uniqueness of this situation. On one hand, the primary opposition to the New Compromise Motion comes from the Defendants, parties whose interest, if not exactly adverse to, are certainly not synonymous with the interests of the estate. On the other hand, if the New Compromise Motion provides a much greater benefit to the estate, as Revere contends, then it should have been relatively simple to bifurcate the New Compromise Motion to create two agreement: (1) an overbid on the subject matter of the Original Compromise Motions; and (2) a settlement governing the remainder of the material in the New Compromise Motion. Yet, despite exhortations from the Court to that effect at the hearing on February 1, 2017, Revere has declined to adjust its position. This is even more concerning because the Court expressed skepticism regarding the characterization of the New Compromise Motion as an "overbid" at the hearing on February 1, 2017, then, later, expressed additional concerns that made the New Compromise Motion even less palatable, yet Revere has offered no clear response to the issues raised by the Court.

Returning to the two-step analysis identified above, the first consideration for the Court is to address the proposed Revere "carve-out." Importantly, if this "carve-out" was instead cash, the analysis today would be simpler. Therefore, the Court must consider why this distinction is important, and determine the consequences of the distinction. As noted in page 8 of Defendants' opposition, there are two concerns in this respect: (1) whether Revere actually has a security interest in the carve-out funds; and (2) whether there is a senior security interest in those funds. Regarding the latter, page 7 of Revere's reply appears to contain a warranty that if there is a senior secured interest, then Revere will provide funds to replace any value lost to the estate.² This would appear to eliminate concerns regarding the priority of Revere's security interest in the carve-out, if any. Regarding the former, a cursory review of Revere's proof of claim (claim #11), establishes that Revere contends that it has a blanket lien on Debtor's assets. The only remaining dispute would be whether the underlying security agreement is valid and enforceable against the estate. If it is, assuming the Court's interpretation of Revere's guarantee, outlined in footnote 1, is correct, it would appear that Revere has demonstrated it is offering more value than offered in the Original Compromise Motions.

But Revere is also requesting more in return. Specifically, not only would the avoidance actions underlying the Original Compromise Motions be assigned to a liquidating trust controlled by Revere, but all causes of action would be assigned. Specifically, the New Compromise Motion, at § 4.25, defines "liquidating trust assets" as:

all causes of action, claims, choses in action, and any rights of recovery whatsoever that the DJRI Estate now owns or owns in the future, except the tax attributes of DJRI.

The New Compromise Motion also states that the Trustee will allow Revere a $5,500,000 claim, of which $4,000,000 will be treated as secured. Additionally, the New Compromise Motion states that the Trustee will not contest the validity, perfection, and scope of the DJRI Security Agreement. Furthermore, the agreement provides that the Trustee grants Revere relief from stay to prosecute any claims of the bankruptcy estate, as well as Revere's state-court action. Ultimately these three assets concessions are summarized as follows: (1) Revere's claim is fixed at a certain amount; (2) all recovery rights of Trustee are assigned to a liquidating trust controlled by Revere; and (3) Revere has full freedom to prosecute any claims of the estate.

Regarding the fixing of Revere's claim, Revere filed proof of claim number 11 which makes the contradictory statements that the amount of the claim is $2,935,429.17, that the secured claim is $4,768,638.29, and that the unsecured claim is $805,354.20. While not objected to in the instant case, a similar and overlapping claim was filed in Debtor's principal's individual case, and is currently subject to a claim objection. Trustee's claim objection requested that the Court reduce the claim to $527,910, and hold an evidentiary hearing to determine how much of the claim is secured. While Trustee's objection was withdrawn after reaching a resolution with Revere, the claim remains subject to dispute due to an objection filed by Debtor. While Debtor, or any other party, would appear to maintain the right to object to Revere's claim, the New Compromise Motion, by its terms, appears to attempt to give Revere a blanket, first priority lien over all the estate's assets by attempting to provide an adequate protection lien that relates back to 2007.

Second, regarding the prosecution of actions through the utilization of a liquidating trust, the open-ended nature of the settlement makes a valuation of such a right inherently speculative. The Court lacks sufficient evidence that would enable the formation of even a rough estimate.

Third, the blanket grant of relief from stay presents problems. For instance, the New Compromise Motion, at the first sentence of § III.A.3.d, states: "[t]he liquidating trustee has full discretion to decide which Liquidating Trust Assets to investigate, which Liquidating Trust Assets to advance litigation expenses/costs to pursue, and which Liquidating Trust Assets to liquidate." Then, the second clause of § III.B.8 states: "[t]he DJRI Trustee grants RFC relief from stay to prosecute all claims that the bankruptcy estate owns and that neither the Liquidating Trustee nor the DJRI Trustee choose to prosecute." These two statements, read in conjunction³, appear to indicate that Revere, in its unlimited discretion, would have the contractual right to decline to bring any actions through the liquidating trust, and then bring any action, in bankruptcy or state court, in its own name. In such a situation, the result would be that the Trustee agrees to receive $226,973.95 (all of which would likely go towards administrative claims, since, at the previous hearing, Trustee's counsel stated its fees were already over $400,000) in return for essentially abdicating its role as Trustee, while Revere would, for all intents and purposes, own Debtor. Essentially, the result would be that Revere purchased Debtor from Trustee.

Ignoring the myriad potential problems with the above scenario, the situation illustrates the dilemma at issue here. Given the unwieldy administrative claims in this case, in order for there to be any distribution to unsecured creditors, Revere would have to recover, at a minimum, in excess of approximately $1,000,000. If such an amount were recovered, the New Compromise Motion would represent a great bargain for Revere, and Revere would easily recoup its cost. If such an amount is not recovered, then the unsecured creditors other than Revere will not be paid a penny, which reflects Revere's apparent leverage over Trustee under the settlement. And, ultimately, the question becomes, what is being given up by Revere in the New Compromise Motion? A carve-out, representing approximately 5% of the collateral, based on a security agreement which is in dispute, a dispute the settlement attempts to close the door on.

While Revere, citing Lahijani, contends that the Court should estimate the value of each component of the New Compromise Motion, and that an "apples to oranges" overbid should be considered, the Court requires evidence upon which it can formulate an informed, intelligent estimate of the value of the different components. Here, the comprehensive and complicated nature of the settlement precludes such an estimate. While the Court acknowledges that it could attempt to evaluate an "apples to oranges" overbid, that is not what has been presented. Instead, the New Compromise Motion constitutes an "apples to kangaroos" overbid.

Finally, while Revere contends that deference to Trustee's business judgment is necessary, the Court's standard approach to settlement agreements is altered by the line of reasoning expressed in In re Seminole Walls & Ceilings Corp. 388 B.R. 386, 391-96 (Bankr. M.D. Fla. 2008). The Court concludes that, rather than simply deferring to Trustee's business judgment, the Court must determine whether the New Compromise Motion constitutes an overbid compared to the Original Compromise Motions. And, on the record before the Court, such a determination is infeasible.

Nevertheless, as the Court expressed at the previous hearing, if the New Compromise Motion is so clearly more beneficial to the bankruptcy estate than the Original Compromise Motions, Revere should have no trouble bifurcating the agreement to produce an overbid, and a remainder agreement, the latter of which, in the absence of a pre-existing competing settlement, would be assessed under the default, general Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 9019 standards. Therefore, the Court is inclined to schedule an auction to allow Revere to overbid on the adversary proceedings related to the Original Compromise Motions. While such an overbid need not necessarily come in the form of "apples to apples," "apples to kangaroos" will be subject to the same concerns repeatedly expressed by the Court.

TENTATIVE RULING

Subject to discussion from the parties, the Court is inclined to schedule an auction.

#10.00 Motion to Disallow Claims #1 filed by Ford Motor Credit Company, LLC

EH__

Docket 33

Tentative Ruling:

8/2/17

Background:

On July 20, 2016, Ryan and Courtney Miller ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On December 8, 2016, Ford Motor Credit ("Creditor") filed a claim in the amount of $2,008.71 ("Claim 1"). On June 8, 2017, Trustee filed a "claim objection," which, instead of requesting that Claim 1 be disallowed, requested that Claim 1 be allowed as fully secure.

Applicable Law:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

Analysis:

11 U.S.C. § 502(a) states: "A claim or interest, proof of which is filed under section 501 of this title, is deemed allowed, unless a party in interest, including a creditor of a general partner in a partnership that is a debtor under chapter 7 of this title, objects." Therefore, Claim 1 is allowed in accordance with the proof of claim until an objection is filed with the Court.

Here, while Creditor indicated on Claim 1 that at least part of its claim was secured, it did not complete the portion of the proof of claim that would identify whether Claim 1 was wholly or partly secured. As a result, Claim 1 was entered in the claims register as an unsecured claim.

Now Trustee requests that the Court treat Claim 1 as a fully secured claim. Fed. R. Bankr. P. Rule 3012 states:

The court may determine the value of a claim secured by a lien on property in which the estate has an interest on motion of any party in interest and after a hearing on notice to the holder of the secured claim and any other entity as the court may direct.

Trustee seeks to have the claim treated as fully secured so no distribution need be paid. Despite being served with the objection, creditor has not objected, and thus is deemed to consent to the relief requested pursuant to Local Rule 9013-(1)(h).

#12.00 Notice of Trustee's Final Report and Applications for Compensation

EH__

Docket 105

Tentative Ruling:

8/2/2017

No opposition has been filed.
Service was Proper.

The applications for compensation of the Trustee, Counsel for the Trustee, and Accountant for the Trustee have been set for hearing on the notice required by LBR 2016-1. Pursuant to the Trustee's Final Report and the applications of the associated professionals, the Court is inclined to APPROVE the following administrative expenses:

Trustee Fees: $ 20,896.75

Trustee Expenses: $ 236.55

Attorney Fees: $ 65,098.08

Attorney Costs: $ 1,931.23

Accountant Fees: $ 4,017

Accountant Costs: $ 64.50

United States Bankruptcy Court: $600

United States Treasury: $361.05

The $1,670 reduction in accountant fees is due to the elimination of the following time entries:

- 1) $460 for 11/26/14. This entry includes lumping (the entry corresponds to four tasks), and appears unclear and possibly unnecessary. The entry appears to include 2.3 hours of review of calculations and related materials, despite the fact that the remainder of the time entries do not evidence any significant (possibly any) calculations occurring close in time to this review.

- 2) $500 for 1.30/17, $330 for 2/2/17, and $380 for 2/6/17. These three entries appear excessive or unnecessary. All three entries are for review of tax documents which were already prepared, and the length of time and hourly rate billed appear unreasonable, especially considering that there is no indication that any revisions were required or completed.

Movant may elect not to appear and submit on the tentative, or may appear to argue the reductions noted in the tentative.

#15.00 Chapter 7 Trustee's Motion for Order Compelling Turnover of Debtor's Books and Records

EH__

Docket 35

Tentative Ruling:

08/02/2017

Factual Background

On June 3, 2016 ("Petition Date"), Barbara Ellen Dunn-Leonard ("Debtor") filed a chapter 7 petition. Discharge was granted on September 12, 2016. Larry D. Simons ("Trustee") is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee.

Debtor's Schedule A/B lists Debtor's interest in a whole-life-policy-with-an-irrevocable-trust, Barbara Dunn-Leonard Insurance Trust ("Policy"). The beneficiaries to the Policy are listed as Ralph Edwards Production ("Ralph Edwards"), Daughter, and Son. The Policy has a cash value of $120,949.35. Debtor claims a $14,325.00 exemption pursuant to C.C.P. § 703.140 (b)(8) and a $18,149.00 exemption pursuant to C.C.P. § 703.140 (b)(5) on the Policy.

On October 7, 2016, Trustee sent an e-mail to Debtor's counsel, Leslie K. Kaufman. In said e-mail Trustee asked "if there were any documents which would evidence the security interest in the life insurance policy as asserted by the debtor?" ("October 7 E-mail"). Trustee alleges that no response was received. Trustee then e-mailed Debtor's counsel again on April 28, 2017 with a similar inquiry ("April 28 E-mail"). Trustee alleges no response was received from Debtor's counsel regarding the April 28 E-mail. Trustee concedes that he is in possession of the Policy.

On July 5, 2016, Trustee filed a Motion for Order Compelling Turnover of Debtor's Books and Records ("Motion"). Trustee alleges that Debtor has failed to comply with 11 U.S.C. §§ 521 and 542. Trustee requests that the Court compel Debtor to turnover books and records relating or pertaining to the Debtor's interest in the cash surrender value of the Property and books and records relating to or pertaining to the security interest of Ralph Edwards in and to the Policy and its cash surrender value.

Opposition

On July 19, 2017, Debtor filed an opposition ("Opposition") to Trustee's Motion. Debtor asserts that Trustee's Motion is improper and a misrepresentation of the events leading to the Motion. Debtor asserts that she has fully complied with each of Trustee's requests and there is no other information or documents to be turned over. Debtor asserts that, through counsel, she has spent more than a year trying to determine whether Debtor could do anything else to assist Trustee. Debtors attempts were ignored by Trustee and Trustee's counsel.

In support of Debtor's Opposition, Debtor provides as evidence a series of e-mails. The e-mails are outlined below:
