MOVANT: DEUTSCHE BANK TRUST COMPANY AMERICAS

CASE DISMISSED 10/9/18

EH__

Docket 16

Tentative Ruling:

1/8/2019

On September 21, 2018, Jingyi Luo ("Debtor") filed a skeletal, pro se, Chapter 13 voluntary petition. The case was dismissed on October 9, 2018, for failure to file case commencement documents.

On December 13, 2018, Deutsche Bank Trust Company Americas ("Purchaser") filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay (the "Annulment Motion"), requesting, in part, retroactive annulment of the automatic stay. Because the case was dismissed, the Court deems all Purchaser's requests that are not retroactive or in rem in nature to be moot. The Court will also deny Purchaser's request for in rem relief from stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(4) because the instant motion was filed more than two months after the case was dismissed.

Regarding Purchaser's request for annulment of the automatic stay, the following are the pertinent facts. Purchaser purchased the subject real property at a foreclosure sale held on September 24, 2018 at 11:00 a.m. According to the declaration of a manager for the foreclosing trustee, the foreclosing trustee did not receive notice of the instant bankruptcy filing until nine minutes after the foreclosure sale began. Purchaser has also submitted a declaration stating that it did not have notice of the bankruptcy filing at the time of the foreclosure. Purchaser also asserts that the property has been the subject of twenty unauthorized transfers (nineteen of which occurred in 2015 or later) and nineteen bankruptcies affecting the property since April 2015. The Court takes judicial notice of the docket in this case, and notes that it does not appear either the foreclosing trustee or Purchaser was listed on the mailing list of creditors.

11 U.S.C. § 362(d) states:

(d) On request of a party in interest and after notice and a hearing, the court shall grant relief from the stay provided, under subsection (a) of this section such as by terminating, annulling, modifying, or condition such stay –

(emphasis added); see also In re Schwartz, 954 F.2d 569, 573 (9th Cir. 1992) ("If a creditor obtains retroactive relief under section 362(d), there is no violation of the automatic stay, and whether violations of the stay are void or voidable is not at issue.").

The BAP, in In re Fjeldsted, noted the absence of a clear standard for annulment of the automatic stay. 293 B.R. 12, 21 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2003) ("There is less appellate clarity, however, in enunciating a test for retroactive stay relief. Inconsistent standards have thus developed, which run the gamut from such relief being justified only in 'extreme circumstances' to giving the court 'wide latitude' to 'balance the equities' on a case-by-case basis."). The BAP's most recent announcement of the standard for annulment of the automatic stay stated the following:

Chapter 13

Determining whether cause exists to annul the stay is a case-by-case inquiry based on a balance of the equities. In conducting this inquiry the bankruptcy court, among other factors, should consider whether the creditor knew of the bankruptcy when violating the stay and whether the debtor's conduct was unreasonable, inequitable or prejudicial to the creditor.

In Fjeldsted, we approved additional factors for consideration in assessing the equities. The twelve nonexclusive factors are: (1) number of filings; (2) whether, in a repeat filing case, the circumstances indicate an intention to delay and hinder creditors; (3) a weighing of the extent of prejudice to creditors or third parties if the stay relief is not made retroactive, including whether harm exists to a bona fide purchaser; (4) the debtor's overall good faith (totality of circumstances test); (5) whether creditors knew of stay but nonetheless took action, thus compounding the problem; (6) whether the debtor has complied, and is otherwise complying, with the Bankruptcy Code and Rules; (7) the relative ease of restoring parties to the status quo ante; (8) the costs of annulment to debtors and creditors; (9) how quickly creditors moved for annulment, or how quickly debtor moved to set aside the sale or violative conduct; (10) whether, after learning of the bankruptcy, creditors proceeded to take steps in continued violation of the stay, or whether they moved expeditiously to gain relief; (11) whether annulment of the stay will cause irreparable injury to the debtor; and (12) whether stay relief will promote judicial economy or other efficiencies. The Panel in Fjeldsted cautioned that the twelve factors are merely a framework for analysis and not a scorecard, and that in any given case, one factor may so outweigh the others as to be dispositive.

In re Estavan Capital LLC, 2015 WL 7758494 at *5 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2015) (citations and quotations omitted).

While Fjeldsted cautioned that the enumerated factors are not a scorecard, it is clear that the Fjeldsted factors weigh in favor of annulling the stay. Specifically, as is noted by Purchaser, this is the nineteenth bankruptcy affecting the property, and there have been twenty unauthorized transfers affecting the property. Furthermore, the instant filing was a skeletal petition and Debtor took no further action to comply with the duties of a debtor in bankruptcy. Finally, there is no evidence that the foreclosing trustee or Purchaser were aware of the bankruptcy filing at the time of the foreclosure.

Given the history of bankruptcy filings and unauthorized transfers affecting the property, the timing of the filing in this case, Debtor's non-fulfillment of her duties as a debtor in bankruptcy, and the absence of timely notice of the bankruptcy filing to the foreclosing trustee or Purchaser, the Court is inclined to GRANT the motion, annulling the automatic stay retroactive to the petition date.

Because Purchaser filed its motion after dismissal of the instant bankruptcy case, all substantive requests other than retroactive § 362(d)(1) relief are DENIED as moot. The Court is inclined to GRANT waiver of the Rule 4001(a)(3) stay.

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion for lack of cause shown. While Movant indicates that there is a relatively small equity cushion on page 8 of the motion, Movant made a math error which resulted in the equity cushion being understated by $100,000. As a result, it appears that Debtor actually has substantial equity in the subject real property. Additionally, the motion only indicates that there was a relatively small pre-petition delinquency; in fact, not a single postpetition payment had come due by the time the motion had been filed. Given that the equity cushion is approximately $157,000 and the delinquency is only $3,204.70, the Court concludes that Movant is adequately protected. Finally, Movant is the junior lienholder and does not appear to have served the senior lienholder as required by Local Rule 4001-1(c)(1)(C)(iv).

MOVANT: WILMINGTON TRUST, NATIONAL ASSOCIATION

CASE DISMISSED 11/26/18

EH__

Docket 13

Tentative Ruling:

1/8/2019

On November 5, 2018, Vanessa Alexander ("Debtor") filed a skeletal, pro se, Chapter 13 voluntary petition. The case was dismissed on November 26, 2018, for failure to file case commencement documents.

On December 10, 2018, Wilmington Trust, National Association ("Creditor") filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay (the "Annulment Motion"), requesting, in part, retroactive annulment of the automatic stay. Because the case was dismissed, the Court deems all Creditor's requests that are not retroactive or in rem in nature to be moot. The Court will also deny Creditor's request for in rem relief from stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(4) because the instant motion was filed after the case was dismissed.

Regarding Creditor's request for annulment of the automatic stay, the following are the pertinent facts. Creditor asserts that it received a call from Legal Stop Sale Group at 12:08 p.m. on November 5, 2018, advising Creditor of a possible bankruptcy filing.

Chapter 13

Creditor states, however, that at that time it could not identify a bankruptcy filing affecting the property. The instant case was ultimately filed at 12:23 p.m.; three minutes later, the foreclosure was complete. Creditor asserts that Debtor was 119 months delinquent for a total delinquency of $283,676.06.

11 U.S.C. § 362(d) states:

(d) On request of a party in interest and after notice and a hearing, the court shall grant relief from the stay provided, under subsection (a) of this section such as by terminating, annulling, modifying, or condition such stay –

(emphasis added); see also In re Schwartz, 954 F.2d 569, 573 (9th Cir. 1992) ("If a creditor obtains retroactive relief under section 362(d), there is no violation of the automatic stay, and whether violations of the stay are void or voidable is not at issue.").

The BAP, in In re Fjeldsted, noted the absence of a clear standard for annulment of the automatic stay. 293 B.R. 12, 21 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2003) ("There is less appellate clarity, however, in enunciating a test for retroactive stay relief. Inconsistent standards have thus developed, which run the gamut from such relief being justified only in 'extreme circumstances' to giving the court 'wide latitude' to 'balance the equities' on a case-by-case basis."). The BAP's most recent announcement of the standard for annulment of the automatic stay stated the following:

Determining whether cause exists to annul the stay is a case-by-case inquiry based on a balance of the equities. In conducting this inquiry the bankruptcy court, among other factors, should consider whether the creditor knew of the bankruptcy when violating the stay and whether the debtor's conduct was unreasonable, inequitable or prejudicial to the creditor.

In Fjeldsted, we approved additional factors for consideration in assessing the equities. The twelve nonexclusive factors are: (1) number of filings; (2) whether, in a repeat filing case, the circumstances indicate an intention to delay and hinder creditors; (3) a weighing of the extent of prejudice to creditors or third parties if the stay relief is not made retroactive, including whether harm exists to a bona fide purchaser; (4) the debtor's overall good faith (totality of circumstances test); (5) whether creditors knew of stay but nonetheless took action, thus compounding the problem; (6) whether the debtor has complied, and is otherwise complying, with the Bankruptcy Code and Rules; (7) the relative ease of restoring parties to the status quo ante; (8) the costs of annulment to debtors and creditors; (9) how quickly creditors moved for annulment, or how quickly debtor moved to set aside the sale or violative conduct; (10) whether, after learning of the bankruptcy, creditors proceeded to take steps in continued violation of the stay, or whether they moved expeditiously to gain relief; (11) whether annulment of the stay will cause irreparable injury to the debtor; and (12) whether stay relief will promote judicial economy or other efficiencies. The Panel in Fjeldsted cautioned that the twelve factors are merely a framework for analysis and not a scorecard, and that in any given case, one factor may so outweigh the others as to be dispositive.

In re Estavan Capital LLC, 2015 WL 7758494 at *5 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2015) (citations and quotations omitted).

While Fjeldsted cautioned that the enumerated factors are not a scorecard, the Fjeldsted factors weigh in favor of annulling the stay here. Specifically, as is noted by Creditor, Debtor filed a skeletal, pro se, Chapter 13 bankruptcy three minutes prior to the completion of the foreclosure sale, and, subsequently, made no effort to comply with the duties of a debtor in bankruptcy. Additionally, at the time of the foreclosure Debtor was 119 months delinquent on Creditor's claim. Given the apparent bad faith of Debtor, as is evidenced by the timing of the instant filing and the failure to made any effort to maintain the instant bankruptcy case, the Court concludes that annulment of the automatic stay, including the co-debtor stay, is warranted in this situation.

BACKGROUND

On December 1, 2017, Auto Strap Transport, LLC ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. On June 26, 2018, Debtor filed a motion to sell substantially all assets free and clear of liens. After one continuance, the Court granted the sale motion by order entered August 29, 2018. Pursuant to the terms of the sale, Nations Fund I, LLC, the purchaser of Debtor's assets, provided the following consideration: (1) a credit bid of $2.85 million; (2) the assumption of certain liabilities of Debtor; and (3) $250,000 in cash. The sale ultimately closed on December 7, 2018. As a result of the sale, Debtor is no longer operating; the only meaningful asset remaining in the estate is the $250,000 obtained through the sale.

On December 5, 2018, Debtor filed a motion to dismiss the Chapter 11 case, which also requested authorization to pay the four administrative claims. Those four administrative claims are: (1) CIT Group, Inc. in the amount of $36,323.10; (2) Commercial Credit Group, Inc. in the amount of $94,878; (3) UST's outstanding quarterly fees in the amount of $4,875; and (4) attorney's fees for Debtor's counsel, for which an application has been filed requesting $164,937.77. On December 7, 2018, Commercial Credit Group, Inc. filed a response requesting that the administrative claims be paid prior to dismissal of the underlying bankruptcy case.

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 1112(b)(1) states:

Except as provided in paragraph (2) and subsection (c), on request of a party in interest, and after notice and a hearing, the court shall convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 7 or dismiss a case under this chapter, whichever is in the best interests of creditors and the estate, for cause unless the court determines that the appointment under section 1104(a) of a trustee or an examiner is in the best interests of creditors and the estate.

Section 1112(b)(4) provides a non-exhaustive list of examples of cause. Included in the list is § 1112(b)(4)(A) which provides that "substantial or continuing loss to or diminution of the estate and the absence of a reasonable likelihood of rehabilitation" constitutes cause. Here, Debtor is no longer operating and there appears to be no reasonable possibility that Debtor could successfully rehabilitate; the continued maintenance of the Chapter 11 case would only operate to accumulate fees which would deplete the funds available for creditors. Therefore, Debtor has established that cause exists pursuant to § 1112(b)(4)(A). Furthermore, as noted by Debtor, the best interests of creditors would be served by dismissing this case, rather than converting the case to Chapter 7, because the only asset remaining in the estate is liquid, and conversion of the case would simply result in a Chapter 7 trustee distributing money to administrative claimants after deducting the statutory trustee commission. Finally, the Court notes that the exception outlined in § 1112(b)(2) is inapplicable to the instant case.

Therefore, the Court is inclined to grant the motion, dismissing Debtor's case after Debtor makes a pro rata distribution to administrative claimants, and pay the outstanding UST's fees in full. The specifics of such distribution are dependent upon the outcome of the fee application of Debtor's counsel, which has not yet been decided on the merits.

EH__

Docket 71

Tentative Ruling:

01/09/2019

BACKGROUND

On July 12, 2017 ("Petition Date"), Beatrice Diaz ("Debtor") filed her petition for chapter 7 relief. Arturo Cisneros is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee"). Among the assets of the Debtor's estate is the Debtor's principal residence located at 619 Calle Cuesta in Watsonville, CA (the "Property").

On May 22, 2018, in a related adversary proceeding with Case No. 6:17-01287-MH, the Trustee obtained a default judgment (the "Judgment") against the Debtor's non-filing spouse, Jose Diaz ("Diaz"), adjudicating the Property as community property, property of the Debtor's estate, and requiring Diaz to turn the Property over to the Trustee. The Trustee believes there is $300,000 in equity in the Property. The Court's Claims Register currently shows claims filed in the case totaling $123,261.04.

On June 21, 2018, the Debtor filed a motion to convert her case to a case under chapter 13. The Court set a hearing on the Debtor's motion to convert which was denied at the hearing based on the Debtor's failure to appear and for the reasons indicated in the Trustee's opposition to the Motion.

On December 12, 2018, the Trustee filed a Motion for Order: (1) Requiring Debtor to Immediately Turn Over the Real Property Located at 619 Calle Cuesta, Watsonville, California 95076; and (2) Provide Unfettered Access to Said Real Property (the "Motion"). The Trustee asserts that his counsel and real estate broker have been unsuccessful in their attempts to obtain access to the Property. The failure of cooperation prompted the filing of the instant Motion. Service appears proper and no opposition has been filed.

DISCUSSION

The Trustee seeks an order directing the Debtor and any third parties under the Debtor's control to immediately turn over the Property, and requiring the Debtor to provide the Trustee and/or his real estate agents with unfettered access to the Property for marketing of the Property during reasonable hours 7 days a week.

Bankruptcy Code Section 542(a) provides that:

Except as provided in subsection (c) or (d) of this section, an entity other than a custodian, in possession, custody, or control during the case, of property that the trustee may use, sell, or lease under section 363 of this title, or that the debtor may exempt under section 522 of this title, shall deliver to the trustee, and account for, such property or the value of such property, unless such property is of inconsequential value or benefit to the estate.

11 U.S.C. § 542(a).

Here, the Debtor has filed no opposition or response to the Motion. There is no dispute that the Property is property of the Debtor's estate and that the Trustee is entitled to access to the Property in order to carry out his statutory duty to administer the asset. Based on the Trustee's Motion, in conjunction with the Trustee's declaration establishing the failure of the Debtor to respond to communications regarding the Property, the Judgment also ordering turnover by the Debtor's non-filing spouse, the Trustee has sufficiently established the need for a turnover order.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to order turnover on the terms

Docket 14

Tentative Ruling:

01/09/2019

TENTATIVE RULING

James Gorman ("Debtor") filed his chapter 7 petition on August 31, 2018. The deadline to object to the Debtor's discharge was set for December 3, 2018. On November 30, 2018, the Office of the United States Trustee ("UST") filed the instant motion to extend time for filing of discharge and dismissal deadlines to February 28, 2019 ("Motion"). In support, the UST has provided evidence demonstrating that the UST requested financial records from the Debtor. The Debtor submitted a partial response and had not fully complied with the request prior to the filing of the Motion. Pursuant FRBP 4004(b), the UST has established that cause exists to permit an extension of the discharge and dismissal deadlines.

Based on the foregoing, including the failure to file any opposition or response by the Debtor, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion in its entirety, extending the discharge and dismissal deadlines for approximately ninety days, to February 28, 2019.

APPEARANCES WAIVED. Movant to lodge an order within 7 days.

Docket 29

Tentative Ruling:

01/09/2019

BACKGROUND

On July 12, 2017 ("Petition Date"), Beatrice Diaz ("Debtor") filed her petition for chapter 7 relief. Arturo Cisneros is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee"). Among the assets of the Debtor's estate is the Debtor's principal residence located at 619 Calle Cuesta in Watsonville, CA (the "Property").

On May 22, 2018, the Trustee obtained a default judgment (the "Judgment") against the Debtor's non-filing spouse, Jose Diaz ("Diaz"), adjudicating the Property as community property, property of the Debtor's estate, and requiring Diaz to turn the Property over to the Trustee. The Trustee believes there is $300,000 in equity in the Property. The Court's Claims Register currently shows claims filed in the case totaling $123,261.04.

On December 12, 2018, the Trustee filed the instant Motion for Issuance of Writ of Possession against Diaz ("Motion"). Service appears proper and no opposition was filed.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Trustee has provided sufficient evidence to establish that Diaz has not responded to requests from the Trustee to effectuate this Court's Judgment requiring turnover of the Property. Based on the failure of Diaz to comply with the Court's Judgment and failure to file any opposition or response to the Motion, the Court finds that an order authorizing issuance of a writ of possession authorizing the Trustee to engage the United States Marshal to enforce the Judgment falls squarely within the § 105 language authorizing bankruptcy courts to issue any order necessary to carry out the provisions of the Code. Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Trustee's request.

Docket 56

Tentative Ruling:

01/09/2019

BACKGROUND

On June 20, 2018, Steven Speier, the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee") for the estate of John and Ellen Tackett (collectively, "Debtors" or "Tacketts"), filed a complaint alleging claims for breach of written contract, rescission and restitution for fraud, money had and received, unjust enrichment, fraud, negligent misrepresentation, negligence, rescission and restitution for sale of unqualified securities, damages for sale of unqualified securities, rescission for securities misrepresentation, damages for securities misrepresentation, contempt for willful violation of the stay, and elder financial abuse (the "Complaint") against various defendants, inclusive of Defendants DE LEON WASHBURN & WARD, P.C. f/k/a DE LEON & WASHBURN, P.C., THOMAS WASHBURN, and HECTOR DE LEON (collectively, the "De Leon Defendants").

On October 15, 2018, the De Leon Defendants file their answer to the Complaint ("Answer"), and on November 27, 2018, the filed a motion for judgment on the pleadings (the "MJOP"). The Trustee filed his opposition on December 26, 2018, and the De Leon Defendants filed their reply on January 2, 2019 ("Reply").

The Complaint generally alleges the following:

- The majority of the Debtors' savings comprised $250,000 received from the sale of Ellen Tackett's mother's house, which Ellen Tackett had inherited;
- The Debtors sold Amway products;

Chapter 7

- During one of their trips to an Amway convention, the Debtors met Jeff Converse;
- Jeff Converse spoke to the Debtors about opportunities to make investments with Conestoga;
- Conestoga is in the business of entering into life settlement contracts to acquire life insurance policies. When the insureds die, the purchaser receives the death benefit and investors are paid out the positive returns, if any;
- Converse had conversations with the Tacketts to persuade them to invest in the Conestoga business;
- The Tacketts were asked to sign the contract without having been given sufficient time to read or review the documents. The Tacketts eventually paid the full amount of their $250,000 savings into the Conestoga investment;
- The De Leon Defendants are alleged to have acted in their capacity as counsel to Conestoga for the structuring of the transactions which Trustee alleges were improper, and that they conspired with Conestoga to facilitate non-accredited investors to sign disclosures concerning their accreditator-investor status and that such acts were undertaken with the intent to deceive or defraud

DISCUSSION

The De Leon Defendants assert that the one-year statute of limitations period under California Civil Procedure Code § 340.6 applies to the claims brought against the De Leon Defendants in the Complaint, and on that basis argue that the claims are time-barred.

Judgment on the Pleadings

Chapter 7

Dupont de Nemours & Co., 431 F.3d 353, 360 (9th Cir.2005). In other words, a motion for judgment on the pleadings is evaluated under the same standards as a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim under Civil Rule 12(b)(6), and dismissal pursuant to Civil Rule 12(c) is inappropriate if the facts as pled would entitle the plaintiff to a remedy. Merchs. Home Delivery Serv., Inc. v. Hall & Co., 50 F.3d 1486, 1488 (9th Cir.1995).

In ruling on a motion for a judgment on the pleadings, the bankruptcy court need not accept as true unreasonable inferences or conclusory legal allegations cast in the form of factual allegations. See W. Mining Council v. Watt, 643 F.2d 618, 624 (9th Cir.1981). In addition, the court does not have to accept as true conclusory allegations that contradict facts that may be judicially noticed or that are contradicted by documents referred to in the complaint. See, e.g., Steckman v. Hart Brewing Inc., 143 F.3d 1293, 1295–96 (9th Cir.1998).

The bankruptcy court may dispose of a case under Civil Rule 12 by reference to documents "whose contents are alleged in a complaint and whose authenticity no party questions" without treating the motion as one for summary judgment. Parrino v. FHP, Inc., 146 F.3d 699, 705–06 (9th Cir.1998).

Finally, when considering a motion for judgment on the pleadings, the bankruptcy court "may consider facts that 'are contained in materials of which the court may take judicial notice.'" Heliotrope Gen., Inc. v. Ford Motor Co., 189 F.3d 971, 981 n. 18 (9th Cir.1999); see also MGIC Indem. Corp. v. Weisman, 803 F.2d 500, 504 (9th Cir.1986) (court may take judicial notice of "matters of public record" without converting a motion to dismiss into a motion for summary judgment).

Application of Section 340.6

Code of Civil Procedure section 340.6, subdivision (a) (hereafter section 340.6(a)) provides: "An action against an attorney for a wrongful act or omission, other than for actual fraud, arising in the performance of professional services shall be commenced within one year after the plaintiff discovers, or through the use of reasonable diligence should have discovered, the facts constituting the wrongful act or omission...."

The De Leon Defendants argue that §340.6 applies when, as here, the acts of the attorneys which are alleged to be improper depend upon a showing that the attorneys breached their professional obligations.

Chapter 7

The Court agrees with the parties that the resolution to this issue turns on the Court's examination of the facts of this case, in light of Lee v. Hanley, 61 Cal. 4th 1225, 1229, 354 P.3d 334, 336 (2015) (holding that § 340.6 did not bar plaintiff's fee dispute claim that attorney refused to return unearned attorney's fees, because the claim could also be construed as conversion), and ESG Capital Partners, LP v. Stratos, 828 F.3d 1023, 1036 (9th Cir. 2016) (holding that one-year statute of limitations for conduct falling within scope of legal services applied only to breach of fiduciary duty claim). In ESG, the Ninth Circuit explained the scope of § 340.6, as set forth by the Supreme Court of California as follows:

The California Supreme Court has explained that § 340.6 does not apply merely because an attorney's alleged misconduct "occurs during the period of legal representation or because the representation brought the parties together and thus provided the attorney the opportunity to engage in the misconduct." ... The court in Lee recognized that attorneys often have the same obligations as nonattorneys and explained that the question is "not simply whether a claim alleges misconduct that entails the violation of a professional obligation. Rather, the question is whether the claim, in order to succeed, necessarily depends on proof that an attorney violated a professional obligation."

ESG, F.3d at 1023, 1036 (internal citations omitted).

ESG, in turn, considered whether claims for conversion, breach of fiduciary duty, unjust enrichment, and unfair competition "necessarily depend on proof that [the attorneys] violated a professional obligation in the course of providing professional services." Id. at 1037. The Ninth Circuit considered each claim and whether the claims necessarily involved the violation of a professional obligation before determining that only the breach of fiduciary duty claim was subject to the one-year statute of limitations. The Ninth Circuit also indicated that it was not dispositive whether the claims arise from the attorney-client relationship itself. Here, the state law claims asserted against the De Leon Defendants are the Eighth Claim for Relief (damages for sale of unqualified securities), the Ninth Claim for Relief (rescission: securities: misrepresentation), and the Tenth Claim for Relief (damages: securities: misrepresentation).

Here, the De Leon Defendants assert that the state law claims must be time barred because they "are based entirely on the De Leon Defendants' performance of professional services for their client, Conestoga ... and that they provided material assistance through structuring the transactions for Conestoga." (Mot. at 6:9-14).

Chapter 7

However, the De Leon Defendants ignore that the Complaint goes further than alleging mere preparation of documents and furnishing of professional services. The Complaint alleges that beyond simply structuring the transactions, that the De Leon Defendants knew Conestoga's practice was to sell unregistered securities through unregistered agents and knew that the victims would be induced to sign disclosures concerning accredited-investor status, and finally, that the De Leon Defendants conspired with Conestoga to facilitate non-accredited investors signing the documents. (Compl. at ¶¶ 112, 118, and 125). A review of the California Corporation codes at issue underscore that the claims asserted by the Trustee provide relief related to the unlawful sale of securities based on misrepresentations. That the services provided by the De Leon Defendants were legal in nature are not dispositive because the claims themselves do not necessarily depend on proof that the De Leon Defendants violated a professional obligation. Instead, the securities claims asserted by the Trustee are focused on the misrepresentations related to the sale of securities, and the allegations of the Complaint appear to also focus on the De Leon Defendants' knowledge that misrepresentations were made, as well as their alleged conspiratorial relationship with Conestoga in structuring the life settlement contracts. Absent from the Motion is any analysis of the actual claims asserted by the Trustee and discussion of whether the claims depend upon a showing that an attorney violated a professional obligation.

TENTATIVE RULING

For the foregoing reasons, finding that the Trustee's claims do not fall within California's § 340.6 statute of limitations, the Court is inclined to DENY the Motion in its entirety. The Court need not determine at this time when the applicable statute of limitations under the California Corporations Code began to run as to the Debtors and declines to do so.

Docket 21

Tentative Ruling:

01/09/2019

BACKGROUND

On April 6, 2016, Tarek and Gabriela Ayoub (collectively, "Debtors") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. On April 12, 2016, Debtors' case was dismissed for failure to file initial petition documents. On April 13, 2016, Debtors filed a motion to vacate dismissal; that motion was granted on April 15, 2016. On May 4, 2016, Debtors' case was again dismissed for failure to file schedules, statements, and/or plan. Two days later, Debtors filed a second motion to vacate dismissal; on May 26, 2016, the second motion to vacate dismissal was granted. On October 27, 2016, the Debtors moved to convert their case to a case under chapter 7. The case was converted on October 31, 2016. Among the creditors of the Debtors' estate are Keith Candee and Original Thurber Ranch, LLC (collectively, "Candee Parties" or "Plaintiffs").

On August 26, 2016, the Candee Parties filed a complaint to determine dischargeability of debt pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6) ("Complaint"). The Complaint generally alleges that the Candee Parties held validly recorded easements which burdened the Debtors' property. The Complaint further alleges that despite their knowledge of the validity of the easements, the Debtors interfered with the Candee Parties' use of the easements, trespassed on the Plaintiffs' property, committed unlawful acts of violence, threatened the Plaintiffs, and placed a fence to attempt to exercise domain over the disputed property.

Chapter 7

On June 10, 2015, the Superior Court of California in the County of Riverside (the "State Court") rendered Judgment ("Judgment") in favor of the Plaintiffs in the state court action entitled Gabriela Ayoub v. Keith H. Candee and related cross-action, Case No. MCC1301436 (the "State Court Action"). The Debtors both participated in the State Court Action and were represented by counsel. The State Court's Judgment was supported by a statement of decision setting forth its factual findings and conclusions of law (the "Decision"). The Decision makes clear that the grounds for damages was based on findings that the Debtors committed intentional torts of conversion, trespass, and private nuisance interfering with easements.

On November 21, 2018, the Plaintiffs filed a Motion for Summary Judgment (the "Motion"). The Debtors filed their response on December 19, 2018 ("Response"), and the Plaintiffs filed their reply to the Response on December 26, 2018 ("Reply").

DISCUSSION

Issue preclusion may provide a proper basis for granting summary judgment. San Remo Hotel, L.P. v. San Francisco City and Cnty., 364 F.3d 1088, 1094 (9th Cir.2004). To meet its burden on a motion for summary judgment based on issue preclusion, the proponent must have pinpointed the exact issues litigated in the prior action and introduced a record establishing the controlling facts. Honkanen v. Hopper (In re Honkanen), 446 B.R. 373, 382 (9th Cir. BAP2011); Kelly v. Okoye (In re Kelly), 182 B.R. 255, 258 (9th Cir. BAP1995).

Issue preclusion may apply in bankruptcy discharge proceedings. Grogan v. Garner, 498 U.S. 279, 284 (1991). The preclusive effect of a state court judgment in a subsequent federal lawsuit generally is determined by the Full Faith and Credit Act, 28 U.S.C. § 1738, which provides that state judicial proceedings "shall have the same full faith and credit in every court within the United States ... as they have by law or usage in the courts of such State ... from which they are taken." Marrese v. Am. Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons, 470 U.S. 373, 380 (1985). When state preclusion law controls, the decision to apply the doctrine is made in accordance with state law. Khaligh v. Hadegh (In re Khaligh), 338 B.R. 817, 823 (9th Cir. BAP2006), aff'd, 506 F.3d 956 (9th Cir.2007).

Chapter 7

Under California law, the party asserting issue preclusion has the burden of establishing the following threshold requirements:

- (1) The issue sought to be precluded from relitigation must be the identical issue to that decided in a former proceeding;
- (2) This issue must have been actually litigated in the former proceeding;
- (3) It must have been necessarily decided in the former proceeding;
- (4) The decision in the former proceeding must be final and on the merits; and
- (5) The party against whom preclusion is sought must be the same party as, or in privity with, the party to the former proceeding.

Harmon v. Kobrin (In re Harmon), 250 F.3d 1240, 1245 (9th Cir.2001) (citing Lucindo v. Super. Ct., 795 P.2d 1223, 1225 (Cal.1990))(emphasis added). These are known as the "Harmon" factors. But even if these five requirements are met, application of issue preclusion under California law requires a "mandatory 'additional' inquiry into whether imposition of issue preclusion would be fair and consistent with sound public policy." Khaligh, 338 B.R. at 824–25. "The purposes of the doctrine are to promote judicial economy by minimizing repetitive litigation, preventing inconsistent judgments which undermine the integrity of the judicial system and to protect against vexatious litigation." Younan v. Caruso, 51 Cal.App. 4th 401, 407 (1996).

I. WILLFUL INJURY (State of Mind)

To show that a debtor's conduct is willful requires proof that the debtor deliberately or intentionally injured the creditor, and that in doing so, the debtor intended the consequences of his act, not just the act itself. Kawaauhau v. Geiger, 523 U.S. 57, 60–61 (1998); Carrillo v. Su (In re Su), 290 F.3d 1140, 1143 (9th Cir.2002). The debtor must act with a subjective motive to inflict injury, or with a belief that injury is substantially certain to result from the conduct. In re Su, 290 F.3d at 1143. "Debts arising from recklessly or negligently inflicted injuries do not fall within the compass of § 523(a)(6)." Plyam at 463 (quoting Kawaauhau v. Geiger)(emphasis added).

Chapter 7

Here, Exhibit 2 to the Motion contains the Decisions of the State Court. In that decision, the State Court Judge specifically determined that the Debtors committed intentional torts with malice and oppression towards Candee. The Decision goes on to state that the torts, which acts are detailed in the Decision itself, were committed with the specific "intent to cause injury to Candee". (Lieberg Decl. at Ex. 2, p 030, ¶ 49). It was further determined by the State Court that the damages awarded to Candee were reasonably related to the injury and harm caused by Debtors. Here, based on the Court's review of the State Court Decision and the Complaint filed in connection with the Debtors' bankruptcy, the Court finds that:

- The issue sought to be precluded from relitigation is identical to that decided in the State Court Action because the State Court specifically considered the Debtors' subjective intent in seeking to prevent Plaintiff's use of his easements and in connection with the state law causes of action (trespass, conversion, and private nuisance) identified above;
- The issue was actually litigated in the former proceeding and the Debtors were represented by counsel and both testified at the hearing;
- Willfulness was necessarily decided in the former proceeding as set forth in the State Court's Decision, there was a specific finding made as to the Debtors' intent to injure Candee;
- The decision in the former proceeding was final and on the merits and Plaintiffs provided evidence that on appeal, the Judgment was reversed as to a narrow issue not relevant here (Lieberg Decl. at Ex. 6) and that an amended judgment was entered by the Superior Court which did not change the amount of damages or disturb the findings related to the Debtors' intent or to the findings that the Debtors were liable for intentional torts of conversion and trespass (Note: California law regards private nuisance as a theory of damages that can be based in negligence or willfulness but here, the State Court's findings indicate clearly that underlying all of the causes of action was the intent to injure); and
- The party against whom preclusion is sought is the same party as, or in privity with, the party to the former proceeding.

Additionally, as required by California law, the Court has considered whether application of issue preclusion is fair and consistent with sound public policy and answers this question in the affirmative. The Debtors have advanced no argument that would justify setting aside the carefully considered findings of the State Court when they had a full and fair opportunity to litigate these issues in the State Court Action. The Debtors' currently pending action against their prior counsel for malpractice is insufficient to disturb the requirement that the Court afford full faith and credit to the State Court's Judgment. Indeed, should the Debtors prevail in their action they shall have remedies available to them as against their prior counsel. Issue preclusion is appropriate as to the issue of "willfulness" and the Court finds willfulness for purposes of § 523(a)(6) has been established.

II. MALICIOUS INJURY

For conduct to be malicious, the creditor must prove that the debtor: (1) committed a wrongful act; (2) done intentionally; (3) which necessarily causes injury; and (4) was done without just cause or excuse. In re Su, 290 F.3d at 1143.

Here, the Decision amply supports a finding that the Debtors actions were committed wrongfully, that they were done intentionally, that they caused injury to Candee, and that they were done without just cause or excuse. Indeed, the State Court found expressly that the Debtors committed various wrongful acts in an attempt to injure Plaintiff Candee and that their testimony at the trial was not credible. Having reviewed, the Decision in its entirety, the Court concludes that the Judgment resolved the issue of maliciousness and that for the reasons stated above with respect to the willfulness analysis, that the requirements for application of collateral estoppel are met regarding this issue. Issue preclusion is appropriate as to the issue of "malicious injury" and the Court finds that malice for purposes of § 523(a)(6) has been established.

III. DEBTOR OPPOSITION

The Debtors dispute the validity of the Judgment. However, their stated rationale that their prior counsel's signature on the Judgment renders it invalid because they have asserted a malpractice suit against her is insufficient as a matter of law. There is no legal argument or case presented to support a finding that the malpractice action would have any impact on the finality of the State Court's Judgment. To the contrary, the Court concurs with the Plaintiffs that the Judgment became final when the Court of Appeals made its ruling and after the time for appeal of the Court of Appeals' ruling lapsed. Next, the Debtors attempt to excise Gabriela Ayoub from the Decision. However, although the majority of findings regard Tarek Ayoub's wrongful acts, the Decision is clear that the State Court considered the Debtors to be acting in concert and as such, it makes repeated reference to the acts of the "Ayoub Parties" defined as including both Gabriela and Tarek Ayoub. Thus, the Debtors' argument that the Decision makes insufficient findings regarding Gabriela Ayoub is unavailing. Finally, the Debtors raise issues related to the Plaintiffs' forced sale of the Debtors' residence, however, these issues do not implicate or raise any cognizable basis to deny the motion which narrowly seeks a judgment declaring the State Court Judgment nondischargeable pursuant to § 523(a)(6).

Tentative Ruling:

1/10/19

BACKGROUND

On December 22, 2017, Felipe Gerardo ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On March 6, 2018, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On November 16, 2018, Todd Turoci & Luis Torres (collectively, "Plaintiffs") filed an adversary complaint against Jamie Alberto Cuevas Jr., Gloria Valenzuela, Wagner Segura, and the Law Offices of Jamie A. Cuevas Jr. Inc. (collectively, "Defendants") for (1) tortious interference with business relations; (2) intentional interference with prospective economic relations; (3) negligent interference with prospective economic relations; (4) violations of Business and Professions Code § 17200 et. seq.; and (5) slander per se.

On December 12, 2018, Defendants filed a motion to dismiss pursuant to FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 12(b)(1), (6)¹, incorporated into bankruptcy proceedings by FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 7012. Defendants argue that the Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction, and also assert that Plaintiffs committed fraud on the Court and should be sanctioned. On December 27, 2018, Plaintiffs filed their opposition.

DISCUSSION

I. Subject Matter Jurisdiction

Prior to considering the merits of a complaint, this Court has an independent obligation to consider whether subject matter jurisdiction exists. See, e.g., Steel Co. v. Citizens for a Better Env't, 523 U.S. 83, 93-95 (1998). If the Court concludes that it lacks subject matter jurisdiction, the Court must dismiss the complaint in its entirety. See Arbaugh v. Y&H Corp., 546 U.S. 500, 514 (2006). As conceded by Plaintiffs, the burden of demonstrating subject matter jurisdiction rests with Plaintiffs. See, e.g., Kokkonen v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 511 U.S. 375, 378 (1994). Plaintiffs have clearly failed to carry that burden.

Defendants have taken the unusual, although not necessarily inappropriate, approach of primarily focusing on the subject matter jurisdiction of federal courts generally, rather than the more limited jurisdiction of bankruptcy courts. As noted by Defendants, the Constitution outlines the subject matter jurisdiction of federal courts. See U.S. CONST. art. III, § 2. The primary categories of jurisdiction are commonly referred to as "federal question" and "diversity of citizenship."

28 U.S.C. §§ 1331-1332 provides further guidance to federal courts jurisdiction over "federal questions" and cases involving "diversity of citizenship." Because it appears that all individuals subject to this litigation are citizens of California, or at least that Plaintiffs have not carried their burden in demonstrating otherwise, there is no federal jurisdiction on the basis of diversity of citizenship. Because none of the claims arise under federal law, there is no federal jurisdiction on the basis of federal question jurisdiction. While the Court is skeptical that it would be appropriate to find supplemental jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1367 in this adversary proceeding, the Court will assume, arguendo, that such jurisdiction exists and consider the jurisdiction of bankruptcy courts.

28 U.S.C. § 157 provides for four categories of cases which the district court may refer to the bankruptcy court: (1) cases under title 11; (2) proceedings arising under title 11; (3) proceedings arising in a case under title 11; and (4) proceedings related to a case under title 11. See, e.g., In re S&M Constructors, Inc., 144 B.R. 855, 858 (Bankr. W.D. Mo. 1992). Additionally, 28 U.S.C. § 157(b) divides matters into core and non-core proceedings.

The first category, cases under title 11, refers to the bankruptcy case commenced by the filing of the petition. See, e.g., In re Wood, 825 F.2d 90, 92 (5th Cir. 1987). This category is inapplicable here, as the matter at issue is an adversary proceeding.

The second category, proceedings arising under title 11, refers to those actions that are expressly created by title 11. See, e.g., In re Wolverine Radio Co., Inc., 930 F.2d 1132, 1141, n.14 (6th Cir. 1991). This category is inapplicable here – the adversary proceeding is premised upon state law claims.

The third category², proceedings arising in a case under title 11, refers to claims that, although not created by title 11, would have no existence absent the bankruptcy, such as administrative matters. See, e.g., In re Repository Techs., Inc., 601 F.3d 710, 719 (7th Cir. 2010). This category is inapplicable here.

The fourth category, proceedings related to a case under title 11, contains two different subsets: (1) causes of action owned by the debtor that become property of the estate under § 541; and (2) suits between third parties which in one way or another affect the administration of the bankruptcy case. Id. It is only the latter category that is potentially invoked by this proceeding.

The primary test for related to jurisdiction is the Third Circuit's Pacor test:

Chapter 13

The usual articulation of the test for determining whether a civil proceeding is related to bankruptcy is whether the outcome of that proceeding could conceivably have any effect on the estate being administered in bankruptcy. Thus, the proceeding need not necessarily be against the debtor or against the debtor's property. An action is related to bankruptcy if the outcome could alter the debtor's rights, liabilities, options, or freedom of action . . . and which in any way impacts upon the handling and administration of the bankrupt estate.

Pacor, Inc. v. Higgins, 743 F.2d 984, 994 (3rd Cir. 1984). The Supreme Court previously acknowledged the prevalence of the Pacor test:

In attempting to strike an appropriate balance, the Third Circuit in Pacor, Inc. v. Higgins, 743 F.2d 984 (1984), devised the following test for determining the existence of "related to" jurisdiction:

[Excerpt quoted above] . . .

The First, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth, and Eleventh Circuits have adopted the Pacor test with little or no variation. The Second and Seventh Circuits, on the other hand, seem to have adopted a slightly different test. But whatever test is used, these cases make clear that bankruptcy courts have no jurisdiction over proceedings that have no effect on the estate of the debtor.

Celotex Corp. v. Edwards, 514 U.S. 300, 308 n.6 (1995) (citations omitted).

The Ninth Circuit has recently reiterated its approval of the Pacor test for pre-confirmation matters:

Chapter 13

The test for post-confirmation "related to" jurisdiction was modified from the seminal pre-confirmation Pacor test for "related to" jurisdiction, which had been previously adopted by the Ninth Circuit in In re Fietz, 852 F.2d 455, 457 (9th Cir. 1988). Surveying the courts that had applied a limited version of the Pacor test in the post-confirmation context, we recognized that the Pacor test of whether the outcome of the proceeding could conceivably have any effect on the estate being administered in bankruptcy . . . If the outcome could alter the debtor's rights, liabilities, options, or freedom of action . . . and which in any way impacts upon the handling and administration of the bankruptcy estate was somewhat overbroad in the post-confirmation context.

In re Wilshire Courtyard, 729 F.3d 1279, 1287 (9th Cir. 2013) (citations and quotations omitted).

Here, the instant adversary proceeding does not have an "effect on the administration of the estate," as that phrase is defined by caselaw, because this action could not "alter the debtor's rights, liabilities, options, or freedom of action." Pacor, Inc. at 994. The instant adversary proceeding simply has no effect on Debtor whatsoever, and, as a result, is not related to the bankruptcy case under the Pacor test, let alone the more stringent post-confirmation test, the "close nexus" test, which requires that the action affect the interpretation, implementation, consummation, execution, or administration of the confirmed plan. See In re Wilshire Courtyard, 729 F.3d 1279, 1287 (9th Cir. 2013) (citing In re Pegasus Gold Corp., 394 F.3d 1189, 1193-94 (9th Cir. 2005)).

In its opposition to the motion to dismiss, Plaintiffs raise, explicitly or implicitly, three arguments in support of their content that subject matter jurisdiction. First, to the extent that Plaintiffs argue that this adversary proceeding arises under title 11, such an argument is incorrect. A case arising under title 11 refers to those action which are expressly created by title 11. See, e.g., In re Wolverine Radio Co., Inc., 930 F.2d 1132, 1141 n.14 (6th Cir. 1991). None of the claims brought by Plaintiffs are expressly created by title 11. Second, Plaintiffs argue that this Court has subject matter jurisdiction because the action affects the administration of Debtor's estate and is, therefore, related to a case arising under title 11. For the reasons stated in the above paragraph, the Court rejects this interpretation of related-to jurisdiction.

Finally, Plaintiffs argue that the Court has inherent jurisdiction over attorneys, citing Local Bankruptcy Rule 2090-2 in support of that contention. While it is true that the Court has jurisdiction over the employment of attorneys in bankruptcy cases, and possesses the jurisdiction to order certain coercive sanctions, the instant adversary proceeding simply does not fall within such jurisdiction. This action is a lawsuit between two attorneys. The fact that those attorneys practice in this Court does not provide the Court with jurisdiction to resolve their litigation over a business dispute which does not affect the bankruptcy case. Therefore, the Court is inclined to dismiss the action pursuant to FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 12(b)(1).

II. Fraud on the Court

In its motion to dismiss the complaint, Defendants request that the Court sanction Plaintiffs pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 105(a) for committing fraud on the court.

11 U.S.C. § 105(a) states:

- (a) The court may issue any order, process, or judgment that is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of this title. No provision of this title providing for the raising of an issue by a party in interest shall be construed to preclude the court from, sua sponte, taking any action or making any determination necessary to enforce or implement court orders or rules, or to prevent an abuse of process.

The Ninth Circuit in Dyer stated that "[c]ivil contempt authority allows a court to remedy a violation of a specific order." 322 F.3d 1178, 1196 (9th Cir. 2003). This Court has in the past, however, expressed skepticism that Dyer intended to limit the Court's § 105(a) power to only remedying violations of specific court orders because of the following.

The Supreme Court, on two occasions after Dyer, has written an opinion which indicates that § 105 is not strictly limited to correcting violations of specific court orders. First, in Marrama v. Citizens Bank of Mass., the Supreme Court wrote:

On the contrary, the broad authority granted to bankruptcy judges to take any action that is necessary or appropriate to prevent an abuse of process described in § 105(a) of the Code, is surely adequate to authorize an immediate denial of a motion to convert filed under § 706 in lieu of a conversion order that merely postpones the allowance of equivalent relief and may provide a debtor with an opportunity to take action prejudicial to creditors.

549 U.S. 365, 375 (2007) (footnote omitted). The "abuse of process" referenced in Marrama was not a violation of a specific court order, but, rather, "an unmeritorious attempt to qualify as a debtor under Chapter 13." Id.

Second, in Law v. Siegel, the Supreme Court stated: "Section 105(a) confers authority to 'carry out' the provisions of the Code." This statement is natural, since the first sentence of § 105(a) states: "[t]he court may issue any order, process, or judgment that is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of this title."

Here, Defendants have not pointed to a specific and definite court order that has been violated. Nevertheless, the reconciliation of Dyer and Marrama helps illustrate the proper approach forward. The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeal's instructions that sanctions under § 105(a) are appropriate for violation of a specific and definite court order is derived from the non-bankruptcy standard for civil contempt. See F.T.C. v. Affordable Media, 179 F.3d 1228, 1239 (9th Cir. 1999) (quoting Stone v. City & Cnty. of S.F., 968 F.2d 850, 856 n.9 (9th Cir. 1992)) ("The moving party has the burden of showing by clear and convincing evidence that the contemnors violated a specific and definite order of the court. The burden then shifts to the contemnors to demonstrate why they were unable to comply."). Nevertheless, as illustrated by Marrama, the Court's authority under § 105(a) is not strictly limited to issuing sanctions for civil contempt.

Here, however, Defendants are requesting sanctions pursuant to § 105(a). The Court is not persuaded that § 105(a) is the appropriate mechanism for Defendants' request. Therefore, the Court is inclined to deny Defendants request without prejudice to Defendants ability to renew the request, or file a separate motion under a different legal provision, requesting sanctions for the conduct described in the motion.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion to the extent of dismissing the complaint for lack of subject matter jurisdiction pursuant to FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 12(b)(1). The Court is inclined to DENY Defendants' request for sanctions without prejudice.

#3.00 Motion to Vacate Order Dismissing Bankruptcy Case

EH ____

Docket 72

Tentative Ruling:

1/10/19

BACKGROUND

On December 12, 2014, Jesus Simental ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On February 26, 2015, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On May 31, 2018, Trustee filed a motion to dismiss for failure to submit tax returns or refunds. Debtor did not file an opposition to the motion. After a continuance, no appearance was made on behalf of Debtor at the continued hearing on the motion to dismiss, and the case was dismissed on November 8, 2018.

On November 26, 2018, Debtor filed a motion to vacate the dismissal order on the grounds of mistake, inadvertence and/or excusable neglect. On November 27, 2018, Trustee filed comments indicating disapproval, although the comments could also be characterized as recommending conditional approval. On December 3, 2018, Debtor set the matter for hearing and, on December 4, 2018, Debtor filed a supplemental declaration.

Chapter 13

Debtor relies on FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 60(b)(1), incorporated into bankruptcy proceedings by FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 9024, which allows for relief from an order based on "mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect."

The legal basis for Debtor's assertion that the dismissal order should be vacated is that Debtor's counsel inadvertently did not appear at the hearing due to an office error. It is well established, however, that "an attorney's ignorance and carelessness does not provide grounds for Rule 60(b) relief." In re Mercado, 144 B.R. 879, 886 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1992) (citing Bershad v. McDonough, 469 F.2d 1333, 1337 (7th Cir. 1972)). And the mere assertion that counsel did not fulfill its duties, but that such carelessness was inadvertent, is clearly inadequate to support Rule 60(b) relief. See, e.g., In re ACME Motors, Inc., 125 B.R. 702, 703 (Bankr. D.R.I. 1991).

"Rule 60(b) relief is extraordinary." Id. Yet, in this Court, a request for relief from a Chapter 13 dismissal order has become ordinary. On occasion, the requests are legally sound. Here, however, the evidence provided simply indicates that Debtor's counsel did not attend the hearing due to an internal error.

The Supreme Court has stated that:

There is certainly no merit to the contention that dismissal of petitioner's claim because of his counsel's unexcused conduct imposes an unjust penalty on the client. Petitioner voluntarily chose this attorney as his representative in the action, and he cannot now avoid the consequences of the acts or omissions of this freely selected agent. Any other notion would be wholly inconsistent with our system of representative litigation, in which each party is deemed bound by the acts of his lawyer-agent.

The rule is that all of the attorney's misconduct (except in the cases where the act is outside the scope of employment or in cases of excusable neglect) becomes the problem of the client. A lawyer who inexcusably neglects his client's obligations does not present exceptional circumstances."). "Although attorney carelessness can [in certain circumstances] constitute 'excusable neglect' under Rule 60(b)(1), attorney inattentiveness to litigation is not excusable, no matter what the resulting consequences the attorney's somnolent behavior may have on a litigant." Easley v. Kirmsee, 382 F.3d 693, 698 (7th Cir. 2004) (collecting cases).

Docket 7

Tentative Ruling:

11/29/2018

The evidence that the tax issue which resulted in the dismissal of the Debtor's second case is insufficient. At minimum, the Debtor should have provided a declaration of the tax preparer she hired to give the Court an opinion regarding the likelihood that the IRS would again file a claim of a similar amount, which would render the Debtor's case infeasible.

As to service, the Order Setting Hearing on Shortened time required that a Written Notice of the Hearing AND a copy of the Court's Order Setting the Hearing be sent to the creditors indicated. Instead, Docket No. 15 is a stand-alone proof of service which indicates that the Order and a Notice of Hearing were mailed to the foreclosing creditor. However, Docket reflects a failure by Debtor to file a Notice of Hearing indicating the date, time and place of the hearing. The stand-alone proof of service is insufficient for the Court to have certainty that a Notice of Hearing which satisfies due process requirements was mailed to the foreclosing creditor.

As such, the tentative ruling is to DENY the Motion.

Docket 24

Tentative Ruling:

1/10/2019

BACKGROUND

On October 31, 2018, Charles Lester ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. Among the assets of the estate is a 2009 Honda Accord (the "Property"). Bridgecrest Credit Company, LLC ("Creditor") has a security interest in the Property. On November 6, 2018, Creditor filed a proof of claim in the amount of $14,337.52, identifying $7,050 as secured by the Property. On December 19, 2018, Debtor filed a motion to determine the value of the property. Debtor requests that the Property be valued at $4,650, leaving the balance of the claim, $9,687.52, unsecured.

DISCUSSION

One of the benefits of filing a Chapter 13 bankruptcy is that under § 506(a) the debtor can bifurcate a secured, unavoidable debt, with one part representing the amount of the value of the collateral, and the deficiency being treated as an unsecured claim. See In re Penrod, 636 F.3d 1175, 1177 (9th Cir. 2011).

Presently the Ninth Circuit has not established a uniform method for valuations. See In re Ayres, 2010 WL 652825 at *5 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2010) (collecting cases detailing vehicle valuation and describing the state of the law in the Ninth Circuit). In In re Morales, however, which this Court has previously cited with approval, it was determined that retail value should be calculated "by adjusting the Kelley Blue Book or N.A.D.A. Guide retail value for a like vehicle by a reasonable amount in light of the evidence presented regarding the condition of the vehicle or any other relevant factors." In re Morales, 387 B.R. 36, 45 (Bankr.C.D.Cal.2008).

According to the court in In re Morales, the retail values, and not the private party values, are the appropriate starting points because the text of § 506(a)(2) refers to "the price a retail merchant would charge" and does not refer to the price a private party would charge. Morales at 46.

Here, Debtor has simply asserted that the value of the Property is $4,650 based on his knowledge of comparable sales. Debtor has not submitted any secondary evidence to support this assertion. Because Debtor has not provided adequate evidence to support his proffered assessment of the Property's retail value, the Court is inclined to continue the matter for supplemental evidence.

Tentative Ruling:

The Court is inclined to CONTINUE the matter for supplemental evidence.

APPEARANCES REQUIRED.

Docket 62

Tentative Ruling:

01/15/2019
Service: Proper
Opposition: Yes

The Debtor, after seemingly failing to make payments to Movant for several months, now seeks a continuance based on a loan modification request that she has not yet submitted for review. The Court is inclined to GRANT relief from the stay under § 362(d)(1). GRANT waiver of 4001(a)(3) stay. DENY request for termination of the co-debtor stay based on lack of service on any co-debtor and lack of evidence as to identity of alleged co-debtor. GRANT request under ¶3. DENY request for APO as moot.

Docket 19

Tentative Ruling:

01/15/2019

The Debtors have a foreclosure sale scheduled for February 18, 2019. However, here, the Debtors have failed entirely to address the reasons for the prior dismissal. The Court is aware that a failure to file documents resulted in the dismissal but the Debtors fail to explain why they failed to file the documents and more importantly, how the Court and creditors can have confidence that the same errors which resulted in the prior dismissal will not recur in the current case.

In addition to the foregoing, despite the Debtors' declaration indicating that the Motion was served pursuant to Rule 7004 as required by the Court's OST, the proof of service indicates that US Bank was not served to the attention of an officer and was not served at its address as indicated on the FDIC website. As such, the Court finds that service on the secured creditor did not comply with the Court's OST.

Docket 15

Tentative Ruling:

TENTATIVE RULING:

01/15/2019

At the prior hearing the case was dismissed at confirmation based on the Trustee's objections regarding:

- No evidence the December mortgage payment was made
- No proof of income
- No DSO declaration
- Lack of feasibility

Additionally, the secured creditor indicated their records indicated a failure to pay the December mortgage payment as of the date of the hearing.

In support of the instant Motion, the Debtors acknowledge they were not prepared to provide proof of income to the Trustee in a timely manner. The Debtors assert that they are now able to do so. Exhibit 2 provides profit and loss statements broken down by business (the Debtors run three separate businesses/income earning activities to support themselves). Additionally, the Debtors have provided copies of documents indicating that they are current with their payment obligations in the current case and that they have filed the DSO declaration. Exhibit 3.

Based on the evidence of the Debtors' efforts to resolve the issues flagged in the prior case, in addition to the proof of service which indicates that Debtors have properly served creditors, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion.

The Motion addresses issues in the prior case related to a lack of sufficient income in the prior case which made it difficult to remain current. However, the Motion provides no evidence or argument to address the actual cause for dismissal – the failure to submit 2017 Federal and State tax returns and refunds to the Chapter 13 Trustee. Having failed to address the basis for dismissal, the Court is inclined to DENY the Motion.

Docket 154

Tentative Ruling:

BACKGROUND

On August 15, 2018, Visiting Nurse Association of the Inland Counties ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. Debtor is a not-for-profit home health services organization with approximately 160 employees and 360 patients. At the time of filing, Debtor had three patients centers: Riverside, Palm Desert, and Murrieta.

On October 23, 2018, the Debtor filed a Motion for Order Approving Services Agreement with Force 10 Partners, LLC ("Motion"), pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 363(b). On November 6, 2018, the H.N. and Frances C. Berger Foundation ("Foundation") filed opposition to the Motion. The Debtor filed a reply to the Foundations' opposition on November 20, 2018. Subsequently, the parties, including the United States Trustee ("UST") filed a stipulation to continue the hearing and provide new deadlines for supplemental/amended filings. The Court approved the stipulation and continued the hearing.

Per the Court's order, the Debtor was required to file any amendments or revisions by December 11, 2018. Instead, the Debtor delayed in filing its amended motion until December 27, 2018 (the "Amended Motion"). No opposition to the Motion has been

DISCUSSION

The Amended Motion seeks approval of a Management Agreement between the Debtor and Force 10, LLC (the "Agreement"). Pursuant to the terms of the Agreement, the Debtor would retain the services of Adam Meislik as Chief Restructuring Officer (CRO) and support services from Force 10 which would be compensated on a monthly basis with Force 10 submitting monthly fee statements on a monthly basis, filed with the Court and served on the UST and other parties in interest. In its prior Opposition, the Foundation was concerned with (1) potential conflicts because Force 10 potentially had a relationship with the Creditor's Committee which would conflict with its duties to the Debtor, (2) the Foundation believed that Force 10 should seek employment under § 327 instead of § 363(b), (3) the original motion did not address the need for nunc pro tunc relief, (4) there was insufficient information regarding the potential impact of the fees or budget as it relates to a case which the Foundation characterized as administratively insolvent, (5) will the hiring of Force 10 impact the salary of the controller; (6) concerns related to the power of the Debtor's Board over the Force 10.

TENTATIVE RULING

Here, given the Debtor's delay in filing the Amended Motion, given that legal issues related to § 327 and § 363(b) have also been raised with regard to employment of Healthsure Management Services, LLC ("HMS"), which is set for hearing on January 29, 2018, and given the issues regarding the estate's capacity to pay the various professionals sought to be employed are related to both motions, the Court is inclined to CONTINUE the hearing on the Amended Motion re: Force 10 to January 29, 2019, at 2:00 p.m., to be heard concurrently with the Motion to Approve Employment of HMS as Management Consultant.

The Court also notes that the Amended Motion was filed and served with insufficient time to be set on regular notice.

Tentative Ruling:

BACKGROUND

On July 23, 2018, Richard Garavito ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. Debtor previously filed a Chapter 13 case on April 17, 2018, which was dismissed on July 19, 2018.

On August 29, 2018, the Taylor Family Trust of June 16, 2004 ("Creditor"), the primary creditor in the instant case, filed a motion to confirm that the automatic stay terminated pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3)(A). On September 7, 2018, Debtor filed a motion to continue/impose the automatic stay. Because Debtor has not offered a cognizable legal argument as to why the automatic stay has not terminated, or why Debtor can obtain a continuation of the automatic stay after the statutory deadline, the Court has posted tentative rulings indicating that it intends to grant Creditor's motion and deny Debtor's motion.

On September 11, 2018, Debtor filed a motion to dismiss the case and an application shortening time. On September 13, 2018, the Court approved the application shortening time, and set a hearing for September 25, 2018.

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 1112(b)(1) states:

Except as provided in paragraph (2) and subsection (c), on request of a party in interest, and after notice and a hearing, the court shall convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 7 or dismiss a case under this chapter, whichever is in the best interests of creditors and the estate, for cause unless the court determines that the appointment under section 1104(a) of a trustee or an examiner is in the best interests of creditors and the estate.

11 U.S.C. § 1112(b)(4) provides a non-exclusive list of sixteen examples of cause – most of which are more appropriately considered when the moving party is an entity other than the debtor.

Here, Debtor’s motion is unclear, at best. The entire argument why the case should be dismissed is reproduced, verbatim, as follows:

In the present case, since the motion to impose and/or continue the stay was not timely filed, the stay will no longer be in effect with the pending motion to terminate the stay filed by secured creditor Taylor Family Trust.

The Debtor should not be penalized due to counsel’s inadvertent calendaring error of the 30 days rule of filing a motion to impose and/or continue the stay. However, an argument can be made that under the majority approach a motion to impose or continue the stay shall be filed as to the Debtor individually and not as to the property of the estate. Here, the Subject Property is property of the estate and the automatic stay should be in effect as to the Subject Property.

However, due to circumstances surrounding the possible termination of the stay, the Debtor requests dismissal of this case as there is no purpose if the stay is not in effect as to the Subject Property.

[Dkt. No. 37, pg. 5]. In summary, Debtor acknowledges that the stay has statutorily terminated and the deadline to continue the automatic stay has lapsed, but then argues that such stay termination is with regards to the Debtor only, not property of the estate. Despite the argument, the Debtor then asserts that due to "circumstances" the Debtor requests dismissal because there is "no purpose" if the stay has also terminated as to property of the estate.

There are multiple issues with the above line of argument. First, Debtor does not appear to have raised any coherent cause for dismissal – the only argument made in favor of dismissal, that the "Subject Property" is not protected by the automatic stay, (and thus this Chapter 11 case cannot be successful) is also explicitly rejected by Debtor. Second, § 1112(b) requires the Court to consider whether dismissal or conversion to Chapter 7 is in the best interests of creditors and the estate. Here, Debtor's schedules filed in the instant case indicate that all creditors would likely be paid in full if this case was converted to Chapter 7. Therefore, pursuant to the analysis required by § 1112(b), it is unclear why this case would be dismissed rather than converted to Chapter 7.

Finally, the Court acknowledges that, in a reply relating to its motion to confirm that the automatic stay has terminated, Creditor has requested that, if the case is dismissed, Debtor be restricted from re-filing by a bar. While raising this argument in a reply relating to a different motion is procedurally improper, the Court need not address the request at the current time given the issues above.

#4.00 Notice of Trustee's Final Report and Applications for Compensation

EH__

Docket 116

Tentative Ruling:

1/16/2019

On December 30, 2010, Brian & Delia Gudets ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On April 20, 2011, Debtors received a discharge. On October 6, 2011, the case was closed.

On November 27, 2017, UST filed a motion to reopen the case to potentially administer a settlement award arising from prepetition litigation. On January 4, 2018, Debtors amended Schedules B and C to schedule a personal injury claim in the amount of $50,000, and claim an exemption in the property of $50,000. The Court notes that this amendment may have been in violation of FED. R. BANKR. P. Rules 1009(a) and 9006(b)(1), however, the Trustee declined to object to the amended exemptions. On February 13, 2018, the IRS filed a proof of claim ("Claim 4") in the amount of $92,398.37, identifying $34,307.73 as secured and $57,990.64 as entitled to priority.

On April 9, 2018, Trustee filed a motion to approve compromise, which was approved by this Court on May 3, 2018. After receiving, $50,000 from the approved settlement, Trustee's general and special counsel filed applications for compensation.

Trustee filed the instant final report on December 11, 2018. The final report proposes to pay $41,488.74 to Trustee and his counsels for administrative expenses, and to pay the remaining $6,011.26 on account of Claim 4. In essence, Trustee's proposed distribution pays the Chapter 7 administrative expenses first, the priority tax claim of the IRS second, and the Debtor's exemption third (although there are no funds available at this point). After reviewing the compromise motion, it appears that the Trustee's rationale is as follows. First, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 522(c)(2)(B), exempt property of the Debtor is liable for Claim 4. Second, pursuant to § 724(b), payments made on behalf of IRS are only to be made after payment of the administrative expenses of the estate. Trustee appears to miss, however, § 522(k), which provides that exempt property cannot be used to pay administrative expenses, except under limited circumstances which are not applicable here. This provision would seem to preclude Trustee's attempt to jump ahead of Debtor's exemption in the order of distribution.

At first glance, the three cited provisions above would seem paradoxical. According to Trustee, 11 U.S.C. § 522(c)(2)(B) places Claim 4 above Debtor's exemption. According to Trustee, 11 U.S.C. § 724(b) appears clear that payment on behalf of Claim 4 is subordinated to payment of administrative expenses. And 11 U.S.C. § 522(k) appears clear that payment of administrative expenses is subordinated to payment of Debtor's exemption.

The Court's resolution of this paradox is the following. 11 U.S.C. § 724(b) is only applicable to "[p]roperty in which the estate has an interest." Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 522(b)(1), the settlement proceeds at issue are subject to an exemption and therefore have been "exempt[ed] from property of the estate." See also Schwab v. Reilly, 560 U.S. 770, 775 (2010) ("If an interested party fails to object within the time allowed, a claimed exemption will exclude the subject property from the estate."). Therefore, the estate does not have an interest in the settlement proceeds and § 724(b) is inapplicable. Because § 724(b) is inapplicable, the remaining provisions place Claim 4 ahead of the exemption and the exemption ahead of the administrative expenses. As a result, Trustee's is precluded from jumping Claim 4 and Debtor's exemption in the order of distribution. Therefore, the proper distribution appears to be to pay the secured portion of Claim 4, and to return the balance to the Debtor on account of Debtor's exemption in the proceeds.

Given the novelty of this legal issue, however, the Court will afford Trustee an opportunity to brief the issue if so desired.

From: 11/28/18, 12/12/18

Docket 133

Tentative Ruling:

01/16/2019

BACKGROUND

On October 25, 2013, Douglas Jay Roger ("Debtor" or "Defendant") filed his petition for chapter 7 relief. On September 22, 2014, Revere Financial Corporation ("Revere") and Jerry Wang ("Receiver") (collectively, "Plaintiffs") filed a complaint for determination of the dischargeability of debts pursuant to §§ 523(a)(2)(B), 523(a)(2)(A), 523(a)(4)(A), 523(a)(4) & 523(a)(6); and objecting to the Debtor's discharge pursuant to §§727(a)(3), 727(a)(4)(A), 727(a)(4)(B), 727(a)(5), & 727(a)(7) ("Complaint" or "Dischargeability Action").

On October 6, 2014, the Debtor filed a motion to dismiss which resulted in dismissal of the original Complaint. On February 20, 2018, the Plaintiffs filed their First Amended Complaint (the "FAC"). A motion to dismiss the FAC was filed on April 24, 2018. The Court's order denying the motion to dismiss the FAC was entered on July 9, 2018. The Defendant filed his answer to the FAC on October 12, 2018 ("Answer").

On November 2, 2018, the Plaintiffs filed a Motion to Strike Affirmative Defenses in the Answer ("Motion"). An opposition to the Motion was filed on November 12, 2018 ("Opposition"), and a reply to the Opposition was filed on December 5, 2018 ("Reply"). Since the filing of the Motion, the hearing has been continued twice. First, by stipulation of the parties and then a second time on the Court's initiative.

DISCUSSION

"Motions to strike are 'generally disfavored because they are often used as delaying tactics and because of the limited importance of pleadings in federal practice.' " Cortina v. Goya Foods, Inc., 94 F. Supp. 3d 1174, 1182 (S.D. Cal. 2015) (quoting Rosales v. Citibank, 133 F. Supp. 2d 1177, 1180 (N.D. Cal. 2001)). "[M]otions to strike should not be granted unless it is clear that the matter to be stricken could have no possible bearing on the subject matter of the litigation." Colaprico v. Sun Microsystems, Inc., 758 F. Supp. 1335, 1339 (N.D. Cal. 1991). "When ruling on a motion to strike, this Court 'must view the pleading under attack in the light most favorable to the pleader.' " Id. (citing RDF Media Ltd. v. Fox Broad. Co., 372 F. Supp. 2d 556, 561 (C.D. Cal. 2005)).

Rule 12(f) provides that the court "may strike from a pleading an insufficient defense or any redundant, immaterial, impertinent, or scandalous matter." Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(f). "The function of a 12(f) motion to strike is to avoid the expenditure of time and money that must arise from litigating spurious issues by dispensing with those issues prior to trial..." Whittlestone, Inc. v. Handi-Craft Co., 618 F.3d 970, 973 (9th Cir. 2010) (quoting Fantasy, Inc. v. Fogerty, 984 F.2d 1524, 1527 (9th Cir. 1993), rev'd on other grounds, 510 U.S. 517 (1994)). Accordingly, "[a] defense may be struck if it fails to provide 'fair notice' of the basis of the defense." Qarbon.com Inc. v. eHelp Corp., 315 F. Supp. 2d 1046, 1048 (N.D. Cal. 2004); see also Wyshak v. City Nat'l Bank, 607 F.2d 824, 826 (9th Cir. 1979).

As a threshold matter, the parties urge the Court to consider the appropriate standard of review applicable to motions to dismiss affirmative defenses under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. The Court has examined the authorities cited by the parties and finds the reasoning of cases in line with Vogel v. Huntington Oaks Delaware Partners, LLC, 291 F.R.D. 438, 440 (C.D. Cal. 2013) and Rahman v. San Diego Accounts Serv., 2017 WL 1387206, at *2 (S.D. Cal. Apr. 18, 2017), persuasive. Specifically, the Court agrees with courts which have held that Wyshak relied on Conley v. Gibson, 355 U.S. 41, 47-48, 78 S.Ct. 99, 2 L.Ed.2d 80 (1957) in determining the sufficiency of pleading an affirmative defense. Accordingly, when Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 562, 127 S. Ct. 1955, 1969, 167 L. Ed. 2d 929 (2007) abrogated the standard set forth in Conley, it followed logically that Wyshak necessarily now encompasses the "plausibility" standard; whatever standard "fair notice" previously encompassed no longer exists. Rahman at *2. Moreover, as other courts have noted, this Court agrees that the ability of defendants to amend the answer to assert an omitted affirmative defense on the written consent of the adverse party or by leave of the district court renders the imposition of the plausibility standard not overly burdensome. 5 Fed. Prac. & Proc. Civ. § 1274 (3d ed.).

Application to the Affirmative Defenses asserted in the Answer

First, the Court agrees with the Plaintiffs that the First and Fourth Affirmative Defenses must be stricken. Given that Defendant does not contest the Motion as to these defenses, the Motion is GRANTED as to the First and Fourth Affirmative Defenses.

The Court now turns to the remaining affirmative defenses: the Second Defense (Laches), the Third Defense (Unclean Hands), the Fifth Defense (Good Faith), the Sixth Defense (Failure to Mitigate), the Seventh Affirmative Defense (Offset), and the Eighth Affirmative Defense (Acts of Third Parties). As to these affirmative defenses, the Court follows the approach of Vogel as it applies to the facts of the instant case. Here, as in Vogel, the Defendant's affirmative defenses provide no grounds for the defenses. The Defendant asks the Court and Plaintiffs to read certain portions of the Answer and Complaint in conjunction and, in turn, to infer and ascribe meaning to the proffered defenses. The Defendant's request, however, is misplaced. As indicated above, Twombly and Wyshak require that affirmative defenses be plausible. Given the conclusory nature of the Defendant's affirmative defenses as pled, there is insufficient factual support to determine that any of the remaining defenses are plausible.

#22.00 Motion to Dismiss Second Amended Complaint

Docket 24

Tentative Ruling:

1/16/19

BACKGROUND

On March 21, 2018, Frank Valderrama ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On July 2, 2018, Debtor received a discharge.

On June 25, 2018, Elizabeth Balderas & Jose Carrillo (collectively, "Plaintiffs") filed a complaint against Debtor for non-dischargeability pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2) (A).

On July 17, 2018, Debtor filed a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim. On August 10, 2018, Plaintiffs filed their opposition. On September 10, 2018, the Court granted the motion, dismissing the complaint with leave to amend.

On September 28, 2018, Plaintiffs filed an amended complaint (the "FAC"). On October 19, 2018, Debtor filed another motion to dismiss. On October 31, 2018, Plaintiffs filed their opposition. The Court held a hearing on the matter on November 14, 2018. At the hearing of November 14, 2018, the Court stated that Elizabeth Balderas lacked standing to bring the claims that were the subject of the FAC. The Court also noted that the FAC needed to be revised because parts of the FAC were unclear to the extent of being incomprehensible. The Court dismissed the complaint with leave to amend until December 7, 2018.

On December 7, 2018, Plaintiffs filed a second amended complaint (the "SAC"). The Court notes that while the SAC has dropped the reference to Elizabeth Balderas in the body of the complaint, the caption page of the complaint and the adversary proceeding cover sheet still include reference to Elizabeth Balderas. On December 19, 2018, Debtor filed a motion to dismiss. On January 2, 2019, Plaintiffs filed their opposition.

DISCUSSION

I. MOTION TO DISMISS STANDARD

In order to avoid dismissal pursuant to Civil Rule 12(b)(6), a complaint must allege sufficient factual matter, which if accepted as true, would "state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face." Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009) (quoting Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007)). A claim is facially plausible when a court can draw a reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for misconduct. Id. The plaintiff must provide "more than labels and conclusions, and a formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action will not do." Id.

II. NON-DISCHARGEABILITY STANDARD

As a preliminary note, the Court notes that the format and opposition of the FAC is rather confusing. The adversary proceeding cover sheet and the first page of the complaint identify the complaint as a non-dischargeability complaint under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2) [not itself an actual provision] and § 523(a)(2)(A); three causes of action are likewise identified: (1) breach of written contract; (2) breach of fiduciary duty; and

(3) fraud.

Chapter 7

The adversary cover sheet, in the section titled "nature of suit," also checks § 523(a)(4). As was made clear in the previous motion to dismiss tentative rulings, the Court will not address a cause of action which is not clearly asserted in the complaint. Here, once again, Plaintiffs have not actually mentioned § 523(a)(4) in the entirety of the complaint, and, therefore, the Court will construe the FAC as solely a request under § 523(a)(2)(A). As a result, the Court will not address Debtor's argument that Plaintiffs are time-barred from bringing a § 523(a)(4) claim.

11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A) states:

- (a) A discharge under section 727, 1141, 1228(a), 1228(b), or 1328(b) of this title does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt –
 - (2) for money, property, services, or an extension, renewal, or refinancing of creditor, to the extent obtained by –
 - (A) false pretenses, a false representation, or actual fraud, other than a statement respecting the debtor's or an insider's financial condition;

The elements of a § 523(a)(2)(A) claim are well-established: (a) the debtor made representations; (b) which were known to be false; (c) the representations were made with the intention and purpose of deceiving the creditor; (d) the creditor relied on such representations; (e) the creditor sustained loss and damage as a proximate result of the representations. See, e.g., In re Sabban, 600 F.3d 1219, 1222 (9th Cir. 2010).

As noted by Debtor, FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 9(b) is applicable to a § 523(a)(2)(A) non-dischargeability proceeding. See, e.g., In re Kimmel, 2008 WL 5076380 at *1 (9th Cir. 2008). "In order to properly plead fraud with particularity, the complaint must allege the time, place, and content of the fraudulent representation such that a defendant can prepare an adequate response to the allegations." Id.

Here, while its organization remains confusing, the FAC does appear to contain allegations which, if liberally construed, amount to a false representation of a material fact. For example, paragraph 35 states:

Each time Plaintiffs made a payment, Debtor assured Plaintiff Carrillo that progress was being made on the project. Debtor assured Plaintiff Carrillo that materials and labor were being expended with the money Plaintiff Carrillo paid Debtor. Debtor's representations were false, in that, at the meeting of the creditors, Debtor testified under oath that he did not use any money he received by Plaintiff Carrillo to pay for material or labor.

The FAC also contains different variations, in different locations, of the following assertion, found in ¶ 40: "Debtor intentionally withheld the true information from Plaintiff Carrillo so that Plaintiff Carrillo and other [sic] would continue to pay Debtor money." Regarding the element of reliance, the Court notes that ¶ 32 concludes by stating: "Plaintiff Carrillo would not have paid Debtor additional funds had he known that Debtor was keeping the money for himself," which could be construed as alleging reliance on the part of Plaintiff. Debtor has not argued that Plaintiff have failed to adequately allege damages, and it seems clear that the element of damages had been adequately asserted.

Turning to the heightened pleading standard of FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 9(b), it would appear that the FAC, if liberally construed, does contain allegations of fraudulent representations with sufficient particularity. Specifically, for example, paragraph 35, reproduced above, appears to allege that Debtor asserted he was spending the money on materials and constructions each time that a payment was made. Given that paragraph ¶ 36 identifies a list of dates when payments were made, it would appear that, taking the FAC as a whole, there are adequate assertions of a particular representation, made by a particular person, on a particular date.

In Debtor's motion to dismiss, Debtor appears to assert that the FAC fails to plead fraud with particularity because "[t]here is no allegation that any payment was made as a result of any specific misrepresentation." [Dkt. No. 24, pg. 9]. As the Court noted above, there are certain sections of the FAC, such as ¶ 32, which assert that Debtor would not have made payments to Debtor, if not for Debtor's representation that the money was being spent on materials and construction. It would appear that such allegations are adequate to allege fraud with particularity.

Debtor also argues that the first cause of action, breach of contract, should be dismissed as a matter of law because the cause of action is not a basis to hold a debt to be non-dischargeable. The Court notes, however, that the tentative ruling of August 29, 2018, pointed out that if Plaintiffs wished to obtain a money judgment, Plaintiffs would need to articulate the legal basis for that debt so that the Court would have a basis to liquidate the debt. While it is not clear from the face of the FAC, it would appear that the cause of action for breach of contract was not intended to serve as a basis for non-dischargeability, but, rather, a basis for a money judgment. Furthermore, given the references to state law and the absence of any reference to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(4), it appears that the second cause of action, for breach of fiduciary duty, also may serve the same purpose. While it is debatable whether "breach of contract" and "breach of fiduciary duty" should serve as independent causes of action, the Court understands them to serve as simply providing the legal basis of the alleged debt, which would only be relevant if Plaintiffs were to prevail on the § 523(a)(2)(A) claim.

Debtor argues that the retention of Elizabeth Balderas on the caption page of the complaint and on the adversary proceeding cover sheet is "frivolous and included in bad faith." [Dkt. No. 24, pg. 7]. As noted above, Elizabeth Balderas has been removed from the body of the complaint. The Court notes that, given that this is the third motion to dismiss, both parties have retained language from prior pleadings in their instant pleadings, some of which is inappropriate given the previous tentative rulings.

Docket 23

Tentative Ruling:

BACKGROUND

On August 1, 2017, Robert Mills ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On November 6, 2017, Liquid Capital Exchange, Inc. ("Plaintiff") filed a complaint against Debtor for nondischargeability pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A) & (a)(6). On December 6, 2017, Debtor filed his answer. On October 1, 2018, after a stipulation between the parties was approved by the Court, Debtor filed an amended answer.

On November 27, 2018, Debtor filed a motion for summary judgment. Debtor argues that Plaintiff's claims for relief are barred by the applicable statute of limitations. On December 26, 2018, Plaintiff filed its opposition.

On January 3, 2019, Debtor's counsel, Todd Turoci, filed a motion to withdraw as attorney. Given the date of the filing of the motion, the Court will not rule on the motion to withdraw until after the summary judgment hearing.

The pertinent facts, which are detailed in the respective pleadings and the complaint, are not much in dispute and will only be concisely summarized here. On September 24, 2014, Plaintiff filed state court litigation against Debtor and other parties in relation to previous business dealings. The claims for relief in the state court complaint were: (a) breach of written PSA; (b) breach of guarantee; (c) breach of validity certificate; (d) breach of workout agreement; (e) money due; (f) account stated; (7) two counts of conversion. Only the second, third, fourth, and sixth claims for relief were brought against Debtor. On November 18, 2014, Debtor filed a countercomplaint. After Debtor filed bankruptcy, Plaintiff filed the instant adversary proceeding and, on December 22, 2017, Plaintiff withdrew its state court complaint.

Debtor now argues that the voluntary dismissal of the state court complaint results in the application of a statute of limitations period calculated as if the state court litigation had never been brought. Debtor further argues that such a calculation would result in the instant adversary proceeding being barred.

DISCUSSION

I. Summary Judgment Standard

Summary judgment should be granted if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment as a matter of law. FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 56(a) (incorporated into bankruptcy proceedings by FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 7056).

The moving party has the burden of establishing the absence of a genuine issue of material fact. Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323 (1986). If the moving party shows the absence of a genuine issue of material fact, the nonmoving party must go beyond the pleadings and identify facts that show a genuine issue for trial. Id. at 324. The court must view the evidence in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party. Bell v. Cameron Meadows Land Co., 669 F.2d 1278, 1284 (9th Cir. 1982). All reasonable doubt as to the existence of a genuine issue of fact should be resolved against the moving party. Hector v. Wiens, 533 F.2d 429, 432 (9th Cir. 1976).

If the moving party meets its initial burden, the non-moving party must set forth, by affidavit or as otherwise provided in Rule 56, specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial. Id. However, the non-moving party "must do more than simply show that there is some metaphysical doubt as to the material fact...." Matsushita Electrical Industry Co. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 586-587 (1986).

A fact is material if it "might affect the outcome of the suit under the governing law." Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248 (1986). A dispute about a material fact is genuine "if the evidence is such that a reasonable jury could return a verdict for the nonmoving party." Id.

II. Statute of Limitations

CAL. CIV. PROC. CODE § 338(d) provides for a statute of limitations of three years for "[a]n action for relief on the ground of fraud or mistake. The cause of action in that case is not deemed to have accrued until the discovery, by the aggrieved party, of the facts constituting the fraud or mistake." Debtor argues that because Plaintiff did not timely bring a claim for fraud, the nondischargeability proceeding is time barred.

Debtor's argument is unsuccessful for the reasons articulated in In re Banks, 263 F.3d 862, 868-69 (9th Cir. 2001). As is noted by Plaintiff, the Ninth Circuit in Banks arrived at the conclusion that the filing of a state court lawsuit, which does not include a claim for fraud, can properly preserve and establish a claim, and that that claim can then constitute the debt which is the basis of the nondischargeability complaint.

Here, Plaintiff filed a state court complaint which includes claims for relief against Debtor on the grounds of: (a) breach of guarantee; (b) breach of validity certificate; (c) breach of workout agreement; and (d) account stated. Therefore, Plaintiff timely established those claims against Debtor. Those timely established claims can then constitute the "debt" underlying a § 523(a)(2)(A) claim. In summary, it is not a firm requirement that a creditor timely establish a claim for fraud in order to bring a § 523(a)(2)(A) claim. Timely establishing a claim based on a different theory of liability, if such claim fits within the § 523(a)(2)(A), is sufficient.¹

In the reply, Debtor attempts to distinguish the instant situation based on the fact that Plaintiff voluntarily dismissed its state court litigation. This distinction is without merit here, however, because such voluntary dismissal occurred after the instant adversary proceeding was filed. The operative date for determining whether a complaint is barred by the statute of limitations is the date of the filing of that complaint. When the instant adversary proceeding was filed, the state court litigation was still pending, and, therefore, this action was timely filed.

For the reasons stated above, the Court finds that the state court complaint filed by Plaintiff timely established a debt, and that Plaintiff is entitled to attempt to fit that timely established debt within the statutory nondischargeability provisions identified in the complaint.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion.

#1.00 Motion to Reopen Chapter 13 Case to obtain an order, after receipt of a chapter 13 discharge, to avoid a junior lien that was the subject of a successful motion under 11 U.S.C. §506(d)

EH__

Docket 84

Tentative Ruling:

01/17/2019

BACKGROUND

Debtors filed their petition for bankruptcy relief on September 23, 2011 and received a discharge on February 22, 2017. During the pendency of the case, the Debtors sought and obtained a motion to avoid a junior lien encumbering their principal residence located at 2628 S. Goldcrest Ave, Ontario, CA ("Property"), which motion was granted conditioned upon receipt of a chapter 13 discharge. Debtors failed to obtain an order finally avoiding the lien post-discharge and the case was closed on March 31, 2017. On December 27, 2018, Debtors filed a Motion to Reopen Chapter 13 Case ("Motion"). The filing fee has been paid, service was proper, and the Motion is unopposed.

DISCUSSION

A bankruptcy judge may consider a number of nonexclusive factors in determining whether to reopen, including (1) the length of time that the case has been closed; (2) whether the debtor would be entitled to relief if the case were reopened; and (3) the availability of nonbankruptcy courts, such as state courts, to entertain the claims. In re Antonious, 373 B.R. 400, 405-06 (Bankr.E.D.Pa.2007); see 11 U.S.C. § 350.

Here, Debtors' case has been closed since for nearly two years. The lapse in time since case closing is substantial. However, the Debtors have offered evidence that the extended lapse in time arose from potentially excusable neglect on the part of their prior counsel. Evidence that the Debtors' prior counsel misplaced their file and failed to file a declaration and order militates in favor of granting the Motion to avoid prejudicing the Debtors for the actions of prior counsel.

The Debtors have requested relief that can be obtained in a reopened bankruptcy case and which is unique to the bankruptcy court's powers under Title 11. Based on the foregoing, Debtors' request for relief weighs in favor of granting the Motion.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion and reopen the case for a period of 45 days to permit the Debtors to seek and obtain a final order avoiding the junior lien encumbering their Property.

APPEARANCES WAIVED. If written or oral opposition is presented at the hearing, the hearing may be continued. Movant to lodge order within 7 days.

#4.00 Motion to Disallow Claims of CACH, LLC its successors and assigns as assignee of Capital One Bank (USA), N.A.

EH__

Docket 47

Tentative Ruling:

01/17/2019

BACKGROUND:

On June 16, 2017, Ruben and Jessica Lopez (collectively, "Debtors") filed their petition for chapter 13 relief. On December 10, 2018, the Debtors filed objection to Claim No. 8 (the "Claim") of CACH, LLC, as successor-in-interest to Capital One Bank, N.A ("Claimant"). Service was proper, and no opposition has been filed.

APPLICABLE LAW:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." United States v. Offord Fin., Inc., (In re Medina), 205 B.R. 216,222 (9th Cir. BAP 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. Ashford v. Consol. Pioneer Mort. (In re Consol. Pioneer Mort.), 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

ANALYSIS:

Rebuttal of the Prima Facie Proof of Claim

In this case, the Debtors assert that the Claim should be disallowed as time barred. Section 502(b)(1) provides that a claim is deemed allowed, unless such claim is unenforceable against the debtor and property of the debtor under applicable law. The statute of limitations applicable to common counts is four years if the action is founded upon a contract or other writing (e.g., "book account" (§ 3:398), "account stated" (§ 3:400), or money lent on a note), and the statute of limitations is generally four years from the date of the last item in the account. CCP § 337(1),(2); Armstrong Petroleum Corp. v. Tri-Valley Oil & Gas Co., 116 CA 4th 1375, 1396, FN. 9 (Cal. App. 2004).

Here, the Debtors have provided evidence that the last transaction between Debtors and the original creditor took place on January 30, 2013. The Debtors have established that over four years have lapsed since the last item in the account. Thus, the burden to show the validity of Claim No. 8 must shift to Claimant. Claimant, however, though properly served, has failed to respond, which may be deemed as consent to the relief requested under LBR 9013-1(h). Thus, as the ultimate burden of persuasion remains on the Claimant, the Objection must be sustained.

DISCUSSION

On November 16, 2018, John Saxton ("Debtor") filed his petition for chapter 13 relief. The Debtor's schedules indicated total property assets valued at no more than $43,072. The primary assets of the estate are a 2013 Pleasure Way Traverse Motorhome (the "Motorhome") and a Ford E150 and a 1972 Viking (the "Vehicles").

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 522(f), judicial or nonpossessory, nonpurchase money security interest liens are avoided only to the extent they impair an exemption claimed by the debtor in the bankruptcy case.

A lien "impairs" an exemption to the extent that:

- the amount of the lien,
- plus the amount of all other liens on the property,
- plus the amount the debtor could claim as exempt if there were no liens on the property, exceeds the value the debtor's interest in the property would have in the absence of any liens.

In re Higgins, 201 BR 965, 967 (9th Cir. BAP 1996).

Here, the Debtor has filed three motions to avoid lien:

1. Motion to Avoid the Lien of Capital One Bank in the amount of $3,248.66;
2. Motion to Avoid the Lien of Capital One Bank in the amount of $3,895.57;
- and
3. Motion to Avoid the Lien of Synchrony Bank in the amount of $4,242.35

Chapter 13

The Motions indicate that the creditors identified by the Debtor hold liens against the Debtor's personal property, not against any real property. First, it is not clear from the Abstracts of Judgments what, if any, property the recorded judgments attach to. Second, a review of the leading California practice guide regarding enforcement of judgments indicates that the judgments obtained by the Debtor's creditors cannot attach to the Debtors' interests in the Vehicles or Motorhome. Cal. Prac. Guide Enf. J. & Debt Ch. 6C-2, Types of Property Subject to JLPP, and that judgment liens against personal property, generally, can only attach to:

- Accounts receivable and the judgment debtor is located in this state;
- Tangible chattel paper (as defined in Comm'l C. § 9102(a)(79)) and the judgment debtor is located in this state;
- Equipment located within this state;
- Farm products located within this state;
- Inventory located within this state (but not including retail inventory items with a unit retail value of less than $500; CCP § 697.530(d)(3)); and
- Negotiable documents of title located within this state. [CCP § 697.530(a)].

Id. A review of the Debtor's schedules A & B indicates that the Debtor's assets do not fall within any of the categories of personal property upon which a judgment lien on personal property can attach.

TENTATIVE RULING

For the foregoing reasons, the tentative ruling is to DENY the Motion without prejudice.

#42.00 Motion By United States Trustee To Dismiss Chapter 13 Case With A Re-Filing Bar

CASE DISMISSED 12/21/18

EH__

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

01/17/2019

BACKGROUND

On December 6, 2018 ("Petition Date"), John Ryan (the "Debtor") filed a petition for chapter 13 relief.

The Debtor's case was dismissed on December 21, 2018, for failure to file the balance of schedules which were due on December 20, 2018. On the date of the dismissal, the Office of the United States Trustee ("UST") filed a Motion to Dismiss Chapter 13 Case with A Re-Filing Bar ("Motion"). Having previously entered a dismissal order, the Court will narrowly consider the propriety of amending the dismissal order to include a re-filing bar. Service was proper and no opposition has been filed.

DISCUSSION

The UST asserts that a bar of up to three years is warranted. The UST's Motion includes evidence that the Debtor filed 6 cases in 2018. Five cases, including the instant case, were dismissed for failure to file information. The sixth case was dismissed for failure to pay the filing fee. In addition to the serial filings, the UST has provided evidence that the Debtor likely used another person's social security number in at least one of his prior filings. Based on the dismissal of the Debtor's prior cases for failure to file documents, the failure of the Debtor to comply with the duties of a debtor, the history of dismissed filings, and the filing of the instant case seemingly for no other purpose than to frustrate creditors, dismissal with a bar is warranted.

Chapter 13

The Court finds that Debtors apparent attempts to file bankruptcy for the sole purpose of forestalling creditors, and in particular, the egregious conduct in using a false social security number, warrants a three-year bar under the Court's § 105 and § 349 authority as requested by the UST.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, including the Debtor's failure to file opposition which this Court deems as consent to the granting of the Motion under LBR 9013-1(h), the Court is inclined to DENY the request for dismissal as moot and GRANT the Motion as to the request for a refiling bar.

APPEARANCES WAIVED. UST is to lodge an order amending the dismissal order to include a bar as soon as resources permit such order to be lodged.

#25.00 Motion for an Order Granting an Extension of the Deadline for Plan Confirmation in a Small Business Case Pursuant to Bankruptcy Code Section 1129(e)

EH__

Docket 158

Tentative Ruling:

1/29/19

BACKGROUND

On July 12, 2018, LA Steel Services, Inc. ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. On August 30, 2018, the Court entered a scheduling order imposing a deadline of January 8, 2019, for Debtor file its plan and disclosure statement. On January 8, 2019, Debtor filed its Chapter 11 disclosure statement and plan, as well as a motion for approval of the disclosure statement. That same day, Debtor filed the instant motion to extend the deadline for plan confirmation in a small business case. On January 15, 2019, Pacific Steel Group ("Creditor") filed a limited opposition. Creditor's limited opposition requests that the Court limit its review to the § 1129(e) deadline to confirm a Chapter 11 plan in a small business case, and not address the exclusivity deadline imposed by § 1121(e)(1), to the extent that the latter provision is invoked by the motion. While the motion does not appear to address § 1121(e)(1), it appears that the limited opposition may have been filed because Debtor selected an incorrect event code when docketing the motion. On January 22, 2019, Debtor filed its reply, conceding that the motion did not seek to extend the exclusivity, while reserving the right to disagree with certain legal conclusions raised in the opposition.

11 U.S.C. § 1129(e) states:

In a small business case, the court shall confirm a plan that complies with the applicable provisions of this title and that is filed in accordance with section 1121(e) not later than 45 days after the plan is filed unless the time for confirmation is extended in accordance with section 1121(e)(3).

And 11 U.S.C. § 1121(e)(3) states:

(3) the time periods specific in paragraphs (1) and (2), and the time fixed in section 1129(e) within which the plan shall be confirmed, may be extended only if –

(A) the debtor, after providing notice to parties in interest (including the United States trustee), demonstrates by a preponderance of the evidence that it is more likely than not that the court will confirm a plan within a reasonable period of time;

(B) a new deadline is imposed at the time the extension is granted; and

(C) the order extending time is signed before the existing deadline has expired

Here, it appears that service was proper and there are no unresolved objections to the instant motion. Additionally, the most active opposing party in this case, Creditor, has stated that it does not oppose the relief sought in the motion. Furthermore, the Court has reviewed the contents of the motion and concludes that it meets the relatively low burden of "demonstrate[ing] by a preponderance of the evidence that it is more likely than not" that a plan will be confirmed in a reasonable amount of time. Finally, the existing deadline under § 1129(e) is currently February 22, 2019, and, therefore, the Court anticipates that the order will be timely entered pursuant to § 1121(e)(3)(C).

Docket 154

Tentative Ruling:

BACKGROUND

On August 15, 2018, Visiting Nurse Association of the Inland Counties ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. Debtor is a not-for-profit home health services organization with approximately 160 employees and 360 patients. At the time of filing, Debtor had three patients centers: Riverside, Palm Desert, and Murrieta.

On October 23, 2018, the Debtor filed a Motion for Order Approving Services Agreement with Force 10 Partners, LLC ("Motion"), pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 363(b). On November 6, 2018, the H.N. and Frances C. Berger Foundation ("Foundation") filed opposition to the Motion. The Debtor filed a reply to the Foundations' opposition on November 20, 2018. Subsequently, the parties, including the United States Trustee ("UST") filed a stipulation to continue the hearing and provide new deadlines for supplemental/amended filings. The Court approved the stipulation and continued the hearing.

Per the Court's order, the Debtor was required to file any amendments or revisions by December 11, 2018. Instead, the Debtor delayed in filing its amended motion until December 27, 2018 (the "Amended Motion"). No opposition to the Motion has been filed.

Chapter 11

DISCUSSION

The Amended Motion seeks approval of a Management Agreement between the Debtor and Force 10, LLC (the "Agreement"). Pursuant to the terms of the Agreement, the Debtor would retain the services of Adam Meislik as Chief Restructuring Officer (CRO) and support services from Force 10 which would be compensated on a monthly basis with Force 10 submitting monthly fee statements on a monthly basis, filed with the Court and served on the UST and other parties in interest. In its prior Opposition, the Foundation was concerned with (1) potential conflicts because Force 10 potentially had a relationship with the Creditor's Committee which would conflict with its duties to the Debtor, (2) the Foundation believed that Force 10 should seek employment under § 327 instead of § 363(b), (3) the original motion did not address the need for nunc pro tunc relief, (4) there was insufficient information regarding the potential impact of the fees or budget as it relates to a case which the Foundation characterized as administratively insolvent, (5) will the hiring of Force 10 impact the salary of the controller; (6) concerns related to the power of the Debtor's Board over the Force 10.

TENTATIVE RULING

Here, given the Debtor's delay in filing the Amended Motion, given that legal issues related to § 327 and § 363(b) have also been raised with regard to employment of Healthsure Management Services, LLC ("HMS"), which is set for hearing on January 29, 2018, and given the issues regarding the estate's capacity to pay the various professionals sought to be employed are related to both motions, the Court is inclined to CONTINUE the hearing on the Amended Motion re: Force 10 to January 29, 2019, at 2:00 p.m., to be heard concurrently with the Motion to Approve Employment of HMS as Management Consultant.

The Court also notes that the Amended Motion was filed and served with insufficient time to be set on regular notice.

At the time of filing, Debtor had three patients centers: Riverside, Palm Desert, and Murrieta.

On December 20, 2018, the Debtor filed a Motion for Order Approving Management Agreement with Healthsure Management Services, LLC (HMS) ("Motion"), pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 363(b). The Motion seeks an order approving the management agreement with HMS, to provide "management, financial, technology and healthcare services" to the Debtor (the "Agreement"). CONT... Visiting Nurse Association of the Inland Counties

Chapter 11

H.N. and Frances C. Berger Foundation ("Foundation"), and the PCO filed their stipulation to continue the hearing (the "Stipulation"). The Court approved the Stipulation. On January 14, 2019, the Foundation timely filed its opposition to the Motion ("Opposition"). On January 22, 2019, the Debtor timely replied ("Reply").

As a threshold matter, the PCO asserts that HMS has (1) failed to implement corrective actions required under a 2017 Accreditation Report, and (2) is failing to provide adequate care delivery for hospice patients. The PCO recommends that the Court defer a ruling on the Motion until the California Department of Public Health (CDPH) concludes its review of the Debtor's operation and issues a Statement of Deficiencies. The Court notes that the PCO cannot provide certainty that such a statement will be issued. The PCO separately requests that the Court require the Debtor to provide information regarding staffing levels and ratios, and requests that the Board of Visiting Nurse Association of the Inland Counties should complete a thorough review of any such report.

The Foundation argues that HMS must be employed pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 327, but if employed under § 327 the Motion does not meet requirements for employment under applicable law, and the Debtor has not established "exceptional circumstances" to justify nunc pro tunc relief as requested.

DISCUSSION

Employment pursuant to § 363 versus §327

First, as to the Foundation's arguments that HMS should be employed pursuant to § 327 in lieu of § 363, the Court has evaluated and agrees with the Debtor that the weight of authority supports the availability of § 363 as a vehicle for retention of management professionals and/or consultants. In re Nine W. Holdings, Inc., 588 B.R. 678, 686 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2018). Further, as indicated by the Debtor, such retentions have long been authorized by the courts of the Central District of California. (Mot. at 4:4-13). In this case, where the evidence indicates that has provided management services to the Debtor since 2016, the Court agrees with the analysis of the Nine West Court, inter alia, that "rehabilitating a debtor and preserving the value of the debtor's business—significant Code-related objectives—can be best accomplished here by permitting the Debtors to utilize their estate assets under section 363 of the Code to hire the advisory services firm and its personnel who played key management roles at the company prepetition, thus ensuring the continuity of such services." Nine West at 691.

Nunc Pro Tunc Employment

Nunc pro tunc employment is limited to "exceptional circumstances where an applicant can show both [1] a satisfactory explanation for the failure to receive prior judicial approval and [2] that he or she has benefited the bankruptcy estate in some significant manner" (collectively, these two factors is referred to as the "THC Factors"). Okamoto v. THC Fin'l Corp. (In re THC), 837 F.2d 389, 392 (9th Cir. 1988). As to nunc pro tunc employment, the Foundation's evidentiary objections are well-taken. Specifically, the Debtor has provided a de minimis declaration attesting to the business justification for the retention of HMS. Moreover, the Court is concerned that there is a lack of clarity distinguishing the contours of the Agreement with HMS from the services being provided by Force 10. The Court is inclined to permit the Debtor an opportunity to provide supplemental evidence outlining the management structure of the Debtor assuming both entities are employed. This is particularly important given the potential costs of permitting the Debtor to enter into agreements with two separate management-type entities.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to CONTINUE the hearing for supplemental evidence.

DISCUSSION

"[I]t is clear that the bankruptcy court has broad discretion over the appointment of professionals." In re Seeburg Prods. Corp., 215 B.R. 175, 178 (Bankr. N.D. Ill. 1997). A violation of the rules of professional responsibility can be sufficient reason to disqualify a proposed counsel from being employed in a case. See, e.g., In re Universal Bldg. Prods., 486 B.R. 650, 661 (Bankr. D. Del. 2010) (collecting cases).

"An attorney retained by the trustee, or debtor in possession, who assists with the collection of the assets of the estate, must abide by the highest professional standards." In re Wilde Horse Enters., Inc., 136 B.R. 830, 840 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1991) "Not honesty alone, but the punctilio of an honor the most sensitive, is the standard of behavior." Meinhard v. Salmon, 164 N.E. 545, 546 (N.Y. 1928).

and creditors the relationship between the buyer and seller, as well as the circumstances under which the negotiations have taken place, any marketing efforts, and the factual basis upon which the debtor determined that the price was reasonable." In re Wilde Horse Enters., Inc., 136 B.R. at 842. In re Wilde Horse Enters., Inc., continued on to state:

The Court finds from the evidence before it that Ms. Bernstein either (1) knew of the collusive and undisclosed relationships in this case and knowingly participated in misleading the Court and creditors; or (2) didn't know of the collusive and undisclosed relationships in this case, and is therefore wholly incompetent because she insisted on remaining ignorant of the facts and law applicable to her case notwithstanding the numerous indicia of questionable conduct along the way. Whether Ms. Bernstein's acts were wrongful, willfully incompetent or grossly negligent is not important to the determination here. Under either case, the Court concludes her fees must be denied in their entirety [sic], she should not be permitted to represent debtors in possession before any bankruptcy court, and her conduct in this case must be referred to the State Bar of California for disciplinary proceedings.

Id. at 847.

In the instant case, it appears Applicant failed to act with honesty and candor in relation to the sale of substantially all of the estate's assets. Specifically, notwithstanding Applicant's duty to the Court, Applicant failed to disclose a material side deal which was pertinent to the terms of the sale under review, and Applicant even stated at the hearing it was not Applicant's job to make such disclosure. Applicant's conduct in this case has fallen short of complying with the rules of professional conduct and has obstructed the Court's review of the primary matter in this case, the sale of substantially all of Debtor's assets. Given that such conduct is clearly adequate to disallow Applicant's fees in their entirety, the Court is inclined to find that authorizing the employment of Applicant would be a frivolous exercise.

#1.00 Motion For Order Denying Discharge Or Dismissing Case

EH__

Docket 172

Tentative Ruling:

1/31/19

BACKGROUND

On May 17, 2013, Rigoberto Baez ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On June 25, 2013, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed. Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was subsequently amended on two occasions.

On December 6, 2018, Trustee filed a notice of final cure mortgage payment. On December 27, 2018, Wells Fargo Bank N.A. filed a response, stating that Debtor was $11,338.57 delinquent in post-confirmation payments.

On December 28, 2018, Trustee filed a motion to deny discharge or, in the alternative, dismiss the case. Because Trustee has only provided legal analysis support dismissal of the case, not citing any legal basis to deny a discharge in this situation, the Court will consider the motion as a motion to dismiss. On January 16, 2019, Debtor filed his opposition. The opposition asserts that Debtor disputes Wells Fargo's accounting, and that Debtor will work with Wells Fargo to resolve the situation.

As noted by Trustee, 11 U.S.C. § 1307(c)(6) states:

(c) Except as provided in subsection (f) of this section, on request of a party in interest or the United States trustee and after notice and a hearing, the court may convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 7 of this title, or may dismiss a case under this chapter, whichever is in the best interests of creditors and the estate, for cause, including ---

(6) material default by the debtor with respect to a term of a confirmed plan

Trustee asserts that direct payments to Wells Fargo are payments under the plan, and the default in this case is material. Debtor has not provided any contrary legal authority on either point. The Court agrees with Trustee that direct payments to a lender are still considered payments under the plan. See, e.g., In Matter of Kessley, 655 Fed. Appx. 242, 244 (5th Cir. 2016); see also In re Evans, 543 B.R. 213 (Bankr. E.D. Va. 2016) (collecting cases). The Court also agrees that the post-confirmation default of $11,338.57 is material, assuming that that figure is accurate.

TENTATIVE RULING

Debtor to apprise the Court of the status of the post-confirmation delinquency and any efforts to resolve the situation with Wells Fargo. Absent resolution, the Court is inclined to GRANT the motion.

#2.00 CONT Motion to Vacate Order Dismissing Bankruptcy Case

From: 1/10/19

EH ____

Docket 72

Tentative Ruling:

1/10/19

BACKGROUND

On December 12, 2014, Jesus Simental ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On February 26, 2015, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On May 31, 2018, Trustee filed a motion to dismiss for failure to submit tax returns or refunds. Debtor did not file an opposition to the motion. After a continuance, no appearance was made on behalf of Debtor at the continued hearing on the motion to dismiss, and the case was dismissed on November 8, 2018.

On November 26, 2018, Debtor filed a motion to vacate the dismissal order on the grounds of mistake, inadvertence and/or excusable neglect. On November 27, 2018, Trustee filed comments indicating disapproval, although the comments could also be characterized as recommending conditional approval. On December 3, 2018, Debtor set the matter for hearing and, on December 4, 2018, Debtor filed a supplemental declaration.

Chapter 13

DISCUSSION

Debtor relies on FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 60(b)(1), incorporated into bankruptcy proceedings by FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 9024, which allows for relief from an order based on "mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect."

The legal basis for Debtor's assertion that the dismissal order should be vacated is that Debtor's counsel inadvertently did not appear at the hearing due to an office error. It is well established, however, that "an attorney's ignorance and carelessness does not provide grounds for Rule 60(b) relief." In re Mercado, 144 B.R. 879, 886 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1992) (citing Bershad v. McDonough, 469 F.2d 1333, 1337 (7th Cir. 1972)). And the mere assertion that counsel did not fulfill its duties, but that such carelessness was inadvertent, is clearly inadequate to support Rule 60(b) relief. See, e.g., In re ACME Motors, Inc., 125 B.R. 702, 703 (Bankr. D.R.I. 1991).

"Rule 60(b) relief is extraordinary." Id. Yet, in this Court, a request for relief from a Chapter 13 dismissal order has become ordinary. On occasion, the requests are legally sound. Here, however, the evidence provided simply indicates that Debtor's counsel did not attend the hearing due to an internal error.

The Supreme Court has stated that:

There is certainly no merit to the contention that dismissal of petitioner's claim because of his counsel's unexcused conduct imposes an unjust penalty on the client. Petitioner voluntarily chose this attorney as his representative in the action, and he cannot now avoid the consequences of the acts or omissions of this freely selected agent. Any other notion would be wholly inconsistent with our system of representative litigation, in which each party is deemed bound by the acts of his lawyer-agent.

The rule is that all of the attorney's misconduct (except in the cases where the act is outside the scope of employment or in cases of excusable neglect) becomes the problem of the client. A lawyer who inexcusably neglects his client's obligations does not present exceptional circumstances."). "Although attorney carelessness can [in certain circumstances] constitute 'excusable neglect' under Rule 60(b)(1), attorney inattentiveness to litigation is not excusable, no matter what the resulting consequences the attorney's somnolent behavior may have on a litigant." Easley v. Kirmsee, 382 F.3d 693, 698 (7th Cir. 2004) (collecting cases).

#3.00 Motion RE: Objection to Claim Number 5 by Claimant Phillips Chiropractic, Inc..

EH__

Docket 44

Tentative Ruling:

1/31/2019

BACKGROUND:

On May 9, 2016, Sally Greene ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On June 30, 2016, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On October 19, 2017, Phillips Chiropractic, Inc. ("Creditor") filed a proof of claim for an unsecured claim in the amount of $5,000 ("Claim 5"). On January 3, 2019, Debtor filed an objection to Claim 5. Debtor argues that the Claim 5 was late-filed and must be disallowed. The Court notes that the claims bar deadline in the instant case was September 13, 2016.

APPLICABLE LAW:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

ANALYSIS:

Claim 5 was filed more than one year after the claims bar deadline and, as a result, is not timely filed. 11 U.S.C. § 502(b)(9) provides:

(b) Except as provide in subsections (c)(2), (f), (g), (h) and (i) of this section, if such objection to a claim is made, the court, after notice and a hearing, shall determine the amount of such claim in lawful currency of the United States as of the date of the filing of the petition, and shall allow such claim in such amount, except to the extent that –

(9) proof of such claim is not timely filed, except to the extent tardily filed as permitted under paragraph (1), (2), or (3) of section 726(a) of this title or under the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure, except that a claim of a governmental unit shall be timely filed if it is filed before 180 days after the date of the order for relief or such later time as the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure may provide, and except that in a case under chapter 13, a claim of a governmental unit for a tax with respect to a return filed under section 1308 shall be timely if the claim is filed on or before the date that is 60 days after the date on which such return was filed as required.

Here, the claims deadline was September 21, 2016. None of the enumerated exceptions being applicable to the instant situation, Claim 5 was filed untimely and must be disallowed pursuant to § 502.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to SUSTAIN the objection, DISALLOWING Claim 5 in its entirety.

Docket 9

Tentative Ruling:

1/31/2019

The Court notes that the instant motion indicates that it is being heard on regular notice, yet the matter was set on shortened (16 days) notice. Regarding the merits of the motion, it does appear that Debtor has provided clear and convincing evidence of a change in financial circumstances sufficient to rebut the statutory presumption of bad faith.

#5.00 Motion for Order Determining Value of Collateral

Also #5.1

EH__

Docket 26

Tentative Ruling:

1/31/2019

BACKGROUND

On November 13, 2018, Reynaldo Perez & Gatziry Zeledon ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. Among the assets of the estate is a 2008 Lincoln Navigator (the "Property"). Wells Fargo Dealer Services ("Creditor") has a security interest in the Property. On December 27, 2018, Debtor filed a motion to determine the value of the property. Debtor requests that the Property be valued at $8,950, leaving the balance of the claim, $7,699, unsecured. On January 22, 2019, Creditor filed a proof of claim in the amount of $15,384.63, identifying $13,375 as secured by the Property.

DISCUSSION

One of the benefits of filing a Chapter 13 bankruptcy is that under § 506(a) the debtor can bifurcate a secured, unavoidable debt, with one part representing the amount of the value of the collateral, and the deficiency being treated as an unsecured claim. See In re Penrod, 636 F.3d 1175, 1177 (9th Cir. 2011).

Chapter 13

Presently the Ninth Circuit has not established a uniform method for valuations. See In re Ayres, 2010 WL 652825 at *5 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2010) (collecting cases detailing vehicle valuation and describing the state of the law in the Ninth Circuit). In In re Morales, however, which this Court has previously cited with approval, it was determined that retail value should be calculated "by adjusting the Kelley Blue Book or N.A.D.A. Guide retail value for a like vehicle by a reasonable amount in light of the evidence presented regarding the condition of the vehicle or any other relevant factors." In re Morales, 387 B.R. 36, 45 (Bankr.C.D.Cal.2008).

According to the court in In re Morales, the retail values, and not the private party values, are the appropriate starting points because the text of § 506(a)(2) refers to "the price a retail merchant would charge" and does not refer to the price a private party would charge. Morales at 46.

Here, Debtor has provided a Kelly Blue Book report indicating that the private party value of the Property is $8,950. Pursuant to the above discussion, the Court requires evidence of the Property's retail value, and adequate evidence to justify any deviations therefrom.

Tentative Ruling:

The Court is inclined to CONTINUE the matter for supplemental evidence.

Docket 9

Tentative Ruling:

02/05/2019

Service: Proper

The Debtor has provided sufficient evidence that he has made efforts to correct the issues which resulted in the dismissal of his prior case. Specifically, the Debtor has provided evidence that the dismissal was, in large part, a consequence of ineffective assistance of counsel. The Debtor's retention of new counsel for the instant case and the additional evidence of feasibility are sufficient to warrant continuance of the stay.

The Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion.

Docket 12

Tentative Ruling:

02/05/2019
Opposition: None

At the confirmation hearing in their prior case, the Debtors requested ten days to convert their case to a case under chapter 7. The Court ordered that the case be converted within ten days otherwise the case would be dismissed. On September 24, 2018, having failed to convert the case, the case was dismissed.

In his declaration, the Debtor Husband explains that the claims came in higher than anticipated and he was not able to propose a feasible plan. Subsequent to dismissal, the Debtor Husband settled a workman's compensation case and was awarded $50,000. The Debtors have used the funds to cure the arrears owed to the mortgage lender. With the arrears on the secured claim eliminated, the Debtors assert they are now able to propose a feasible plan.

The Debtors have presented sufficient evidence to warrant continuance of the automatic stay.

Docket 7

Tentative Ruling:

02/05/2019

Opposition: None

The Debtor's declaration and schedules in the current and prior case indicate that the Debtor has found new employment, and that the Debtor's new position results in higher net disposable income than in the prior case. Based on the foregoing, the Debtor has met his burden to demonstrate cause for continuance of the stay by clear and convincing evidence and the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion.

There is, however, separately a service issue. Debtor served Wells Fargo at the correct address for the institution but instead of serving it to the attention of an officer as required under FRBP 7004(h), the Debtor indicated that he was serving the document on CSC, the agent for service of process for Wells Fargo. CSC has its own separate institutional address.

Tentative Ruling:

9/25/2018

BACKGROUND

On July 23, 2018, Richard Garavito ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. Debtor previously filed a Chapter 13 case on April 17, 2018, which was dismissed on July 19, 2018.

On August 29, 2018, the Taylor Family Trust of June 16, 2004 ("Creditor"), the primary creditor in the instant case, filed a motion to confirm that the automatic stay terminated pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3)(A). On September 7, 2018, Debtor filed a motion to continue/impose the automatic stay. Because Debtor has not offered a cognizable legal argument as to why the automatic stay has not terminated, or why Debtor can obtain a continuation of the automatic stay after the statutory deadline, the Court has posted tentative rulings indicating that it intends to grant Creditor's motion and deny Debtor's motion.

On September 11, 2018, Debtor filed a motion to dismiss the case and an application shortening time. On September 13, 2018, the Court approved the application shortening time, and set a hearing for September 25, 2018.

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 1112(b)(1) states:

Except as provided in paragraph (2) and subsection (c), on request of a party in interest, and after notice and a hearing, the court shall convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 7 or dismiss a case under this chapter, whichever is in the best interests of creditors and the estate, for cause unless the court determines that the appointment under section 1104(a) of a trustee or an examiner is in the best interests of creditors and the estate.

11 U.S.C. § 1112(b)(4) provides a non-exclusive list of sixteen examples of cause – most of which are more appropriately considered when the moving party is an entity other than the debtor.

Here, Debtor’s motion is unclear, at best. The entire argument why the case should be dismissed is reproduced, verbatim, as follows:

In the present case, since the motion to impose and/or continue the stay was not timely filed, the stay will no longer be in effect with the pending motion to terminate the stay filed by secured creditor Taylor Family Trust.

The Debtor should not be penalized due to counsel’s inadvertent calendaring

error of the 30 days rule of filing a motion to impose and/or continue the stay. However, an argument can be made that under the majority approach a motion to impose or continue the stay shall be filed as to the Debtor individually and not as to the property of the estate. Here, the Subject Property is property of the estate and the automatic stay should be in effect as to the Subject Property.

However, due to circumstances surrounding the possible termination of the stay, the Debtor requests dismissal of this case as there is no purpose if the stay is not in effect as to the Subject Property.

[Dkt. No. 37, pg. 5]. In summary, Debtor acknowledges that the stay has statutorily terminated and the deadline to continue the automatic stay has lapsed, but then argues that such stay termination is with regards to the Debtor only, not property of the estate. Despite the argument, the Debtor then asserts that due to "circumstances" the Debtor requests dismissal because there is "no purpose" if the stay has also terminated as to property of the estate.

There are multiple issues with the above line of argument. First, Debtor does not appear to have raised any coherent cause for dismissal – the only argument made in favor of dismissal, that the "Subject Property" is not protected by the automatic stay, (and thus this Chapter 11 case cannot be successful) is also explicitly rejected by Debtor. Second, § 1112(b) requires the Court to consider whether dismissal or conversion to Chapter 7 is in the best interests of creditors and the estate. Here, Debtor's schedules filed in the instant case indicate that all creditors would likely be paid in full if this case was converted to Chapter 7. Therefore, pursuant to the analysis required by § 1112(b), it is unclear why this case would be dismissed rather than converted to Chapter 7.

Finally, the Court acknowledges that, in a reply relating to its motion to confirm that the automatic stay has terminated, Creditor has requested that, if the case is dismissed, Debtor be restricted from re-filing by a bar. While raising this argument in a reply relating to a different motion is procedurally improper, the Court need not address the request at the current time given the issues above.

I. PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

On January 26, 2018, Markus Boyd ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. On February 13, 2018, the Court entered an interim order approving use of cash collateral. On March 6, 2018, the Court entered orders (1) authorizing Debtor to provide adequate assurance of payment to utility service providers and; (2) approving a budget. On March 26, 2018, the Court authorized the employment of Nicholas Gebelt as counsel for Debtor. On April 26, 2018, the Court disallowed four claims of American Express (claim numbers 2 and 4-6).

On June 22, 2018, Debtor filed its disclosure statement and Chapter 11 plan. On August 7, 2018, UST filed a limited objection to Debtor's disclosure statement.

Chapter 11

In addition to the disclosure statement, the following exhibits are included: (1) "Treatment of Claims/Interests" (Exhibit A); (2) "Executory Contracts & Unexpired Leases" (Exhibit B); (3) "Cash Flow Projections" (Exhibit C); (4) "Recent Financial History" (Exhibit D); (5) "Secured Claims" (Exhibit E); (6) "General Unsecured Claims, in Class 4A or 4B" (Exhibit F); "Liquidating Analysis" (Exhibit G); "Endnotes/Continuation Sheets" (which includes a supplement) (Exhibit H). Debtor has used the Court's optional disclosure statement form and worksheets, and, therefore, the format of the disclosure statement is adequate.

The Chapter 11 Plan's proposed effective date is October 21, 2018. There are four classes of claims and four listed categories of unclassified claims¹:

- 1) Class 1: Arrears secured by real property -- $174,971.67 claim, Debtor proposes to pay over 60 months. Debtor's Exhibit A contains a row for arrears on the second and third deeds of trust, but does not identify any amount owing.
- 2) Class 2: Additional claims secured by real property – Debtor lists three different claims within this class. Debtor proposes to continue paying his mortgage (identified as $772,733.45)², over 230 months and at 2% interest. Debtor proposes to cure his delinquency on HOA dues over 60 months. Debtor has included a row for, presumably, future HOA dues but no amount is listed. Nor is it clear that this class is truly unimpaired.
- 3) Class 3: Priority claims: Debtor's plan does not list any claims in class 3
- 4) Class 4: General Unsecured – $45,151.20, Debtor proposes to pay over 60 months.
 - 1) Type 1: UST fees ($650) – paid in full on effective date
 - 2) Type 2: Taxes (IRS) – approximately $80k, paid over 51 months
 - 3) Type 3: Taxes (FTB) –$5,651.86, paid over 51 months

III. LEGAL ANALYSIS

A. Adequate Information

A Chapter 11 disclosure statement is required to contain "adequate information" pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1125(b). Section 1125(f)(2) provides that: "the court may approve a disclosure statement submitted on standard forms approved by the court or adopted under section 2075 of title 28." The Central District of California has devised a disclosure statement template, Form 3017-1.CH11.DISCLSR.STMT, which Debtor generally adopted as to format.

As to the substance of a disclosure statement, 11 U.S.C. § 1125(a)(1) defines "adequate information" as:

information of a kind, and in sufficient detail as far as is reasonably practicable in light of the nature and history of the debtor and the condition of the debtor's books and records, including a discussion of the potential material Federal tax consequences of the plan to the debtor, any successor to the debtor, and a hypothetical investor typical of the holders of claims or interests in the case, that would enable such a hypothetical investor of the relevant class to make an informed judgment about the plan, but adequate information need not include such information about any other possible or proposed plan and in determining whether a disclosure statement provides adequate information, the court shall consider the complexity of the case, the benefit of additional information to creditors and other parties in interest, and the cost of providing additional information

The type of information required varies with the circumstances. See, e.g., In re Jeppson, 66 B.R. 269, 292 (Bankr. D. Utah 1986) (listing nineteen categories of information commonly required); see also In re Malek, 35 B.R. 443, 443-44 (Bankr. E.D. Mich. 1983) (listing minimum requirements).

While Debtor has utilized Court approved forms and has clearly delineated the treatment of the varying claims, the disclosure statement simply lacks the information necessary to evaluate Debtor's financial situation and determine the probability of the plan's success. First of all, as noted by UST, Debtor's practice appears to have been not to withhold taxes on earned income. Second of all, the limited financial information provided by Debtor indicates his income fluctuates drastically. The four months of "recent financial history" (Exhibit D) including in the disclosure statement note the following monthly receipts:

- 1) $4,559 (February) (the corresponding monthly operating report lists receipts of $51.89)
- 2) $32,591 (March)
- 3) $15,541 (April)
- 4) $35,626 (May)

Additionally, a monthly operating report for June, filed after the disclosure statement, identifies receipts in the amount of $1,801.11. The limited financial history provided supports UST's assertion that: "Debtor's tax liabilities are a significant risk factor given that the monthly operating reports reflect that the Debtor averages between $18-$19,000 in monthly net income – much less than the $30,000 reported in the Disclosure Statement's cash flow projections." Indeed, using that $18-$19,000 figure, if one assumes that the receipts are before tax and that Debtor will ultimately be unsuccessful in the pending adversary proceeding, it would appear that the proposed plan may be infeasible. In any event, the financial information provided in the disclosure statement is grossly inadequate for an evaluation of the prospects of the

From: 12/5/18, 12/11/18

Docket 41

Tentative Ruling:

12/11/2018

No opposition has been filed.
Service was Proper.

11 U.S.C. § 326(a) states:

In a case under chapter 7 or 11, the court may allow reasonable compensation under section 330 of this title of the trustee for the trustee's services, payable after the trustee renders such services, not to exceed 25 percent on the first $5,000 or less, 10 percent on any amount in excess of $5,000 but not in excess of $50,000, 5 percent on any amount in excess of $50,000 but not in excess of $1,000,000, and reasonable compensation not to exceed 3 percent of any moneys in excess of $1,000,000, upon all moneys disbursed or turned over in the case by the trustee to parties in interest, excluding the debtor, but including holders of secured claims.

Trustee is basing his requested compensation in this case on $185,000 in "receipts," but that amount includes $72,908.11 paid to Aylstock, Witkin, Kreis & Overholtz, PLLC which does not appear properly categorized as a receipt because these moneys were not, at any time, held or administered by Trustee, let alone received by Trustee, or disbursed by Trustee. Specifically, paragraph 8 of the motion to approve settlement [Dkt. No. 2] indicates that the costs and expenses of certain status litigation were to be paid directly by the settlement fund trustee, and only the remaining funds would actually be received by the Chapter 7 Trustee. To wit:

Subject to the terms of the settlement being satisfied, the balance of the remaining settlement proceeds, after the Settlement Fund Trustee pays and/or withholds the necessary expenses, fees, costs, holdbacks, and deductions from the Gross Settlement Amount, anticipated to be in the amount of $97,897.75 (the "Remaining Proceeds") shall be disbursed from the Settlement Fund Trustee to the Trustee.

Not only are the requested fees simply incompatible with the plain language of the statute, which calculates fees based on moneys disbursed or turned over by the trustee, the fees cannot be reasonably justified on policy grounds. In this case, the state court counsel incurred significant legal fees litigating a state court matter while the instant bankruptcy was closed. The state court counsel's work on this matter was, in no matter whatsoever, related to the administration of the bankruptcy estate, and Trustee did not participate in, direct, or even have an awareness of the fees incurred. Case law notes that important distinction:

The reported decisions construing section 326(a) have recognized a distinction between funds that are constructively received and funds that are actually received. These cases stand for the proposition that a commission can only be calculated upon the funds actually received by the trustee. In this particular case, the trustee never received any settlement proceeds that were paid directly to the debtor's personal injury counsel in fees and expenses or to the worker's compensation carrier.

In re Guido, 237 B.R. 562, 564-65 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 1999) (citations omitted); see also Kandel v. Alexander Leasing Corp., 107 B.R. 548 (N.D. Ohio 1988) (proceeds of settlement were not "money disbursed" where the trustee cannot point to any time at which the moneys actually passed through his hands); In re New England Fish Co., 34 B.R. 899, 902 (Bankr. W.D. Wash. 1983) ("[I]n view of the majority of the cases under prior law and the plain and unambiguous wording of section 326(a), this Court concludes that the trustee's compensation must be based on actual monies disbursed to parties in interest, and not on assets or settlements which can be construed as a constructive disbursement.").

In light of the foregoing, the Court is inclined to reduce the basis upon which Trustee's statutory fee is calculated, eliminating those amounts which were at no time administered, held, received, or disbursed by Trustee. The remaining cognizable disbursements appear to be a bank service fee of $117.34, Trustee's expenses in the amount of $778.22, and payments to creditors in the amount of $4,027.61, for an aggregate amount of $4,923.17. Therefore, the Court is inclined to approve Trustee's fees in the reduced amount of $1,230.79. The Court has reviewed the itemized expenses filed by Trustee, and finding them reasonable, the Court is inclined to approve the expenses in the amount of $778.22

#3.00 Motion to Reopen Chapter 7 Case

Docket 37

Tentative Ruling:

2/6/19

BACKGROUND

On April 25, 2014, Laura Castillo ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On August 4, 2014, Debtor received a discharge, and the case was closed the next day.

On February 17, 2015, Debtor filed a motion to reopen. The motion was granted, and the case was reopened on April 21, 2015. On June 19, 2015, Debtor filed a motion to avoid lien. On August 28, 2015, the motion was denied for failure to provide adequate evidence regarding the validity and amount of the first lien on the subject real property. On September 14, 2015, the case was closed again. On November 2, 2015, Debtor filed another motion to reopen case, although the document filed with the Court was actually just an attachment to a proof of service. The next day, Debtor filed an amended motion, but attempted to set the matter for hearing in the wrong courtroom, resulting in no hearing being set. On November 30, 2015, Debtor amended the motion again. Ultimately, on January 12, 2016, the case was reopened again. On April 4, 2016, Debtor filed another motion to avoid lien. On May 20, 2016, this second motion to avoid lien was denied for improper service. The Court also noted that on the merits, the motion could not be granted in its entirety. On June 22, 2016, the case was closed again.

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 350(b) states: "A case may be reopened in the court in which such case was closed to administer assets, to accord relief to the debtor, or for other cause." Debtor's motion indicates that she wishes to reopen the case to attempt to file another motion to avoid lien.

Motions to reopen bankruptcy cases "should be routinely granted." In re Dodge, 138 B.R. 602, 605 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. 1992). "While the Code does not define 'other cause' for purposes of reopening a case under section 350(b), the decision to reopen is discretionary with the court, which may consider numerous factors, including equitable concerns, and ought to emphasize substance over technical considerations." 3 COLLIER ON BANKRUPTCY ¶ 350.03[5] (16th ed. 2016). This Court routinely grants motions to reopen to allow debtors to file motions to avoid liens, as the avoidance of such lien could be characterized as affording relief to the debtor.

Nevertheless, the Court is concerned with the fact that repeated delays and errors have resulted in Debtor attempting to avoid the lien of Cach, LLC, over a period of three and a half years. While the Court is inclined to grant the instant motion to reopen, counsel is cautioned to carefully and competently review the subsequent motion to avoid lien.

The Court notes that the motion does not request authority to amend the schedules, and it is not clear if such amendment is necessary for the relief sought.

BACKGROUND

On September 12, 2016, Douglas and Anne Goodman ("Debtors" or "Defendants") filed their Chapter 13 voluntary petition.

On November 11, 2016, Mark and Natasha Reynoso ("Plaintiffs") filed a complaint seeking determination of the dischargeability of a debt pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A) (the "Complaint"). Specifically, Plaintiffs allege that in 2015, they purchased real property located at 1656 West Lisbon Street in Upland, CA (the "Property") from the Debtors, and that a sale was consummated on the alleged misrepresentations of the Debtors' agent, Theresa Mann, that the Property was 3,231 square feet while Plaintiffs assert that the Property is actually 2,713 square feet (or a difference of 518 square feet). Plaintiffs also assert that they were led to believe that a water leak in the upstairs bathroom had been repaired. Plaintiffs allege that the Debtors knew or should have known that their agent was making false and misleading representations to Plaintiffs.

On February 3, 2017, the Court entered an order granting Defendants first motion to dismiss the Complaint, with leave to amend. A First Amended Complaint (the "FAC") was filed on February 28, 2017. On April 19, 2017, the Plaintiffs filed a First Amended Complaint captioned "Corrected" which indicated it had been corrected for typographical errors. (the "Corrected Complaint" or the "SAC"). The Court denied Defendants' second motion to dismiss at a hearing on May 4, 2017. On June 5, 2017, the Defendants filed their Answer to the FAC ("Answer").

On March 9, 2018, the Defendants moved to dismiss the SAC. The Court granted the motion to dismiss the SAC, with leave to amend. A third amended complaint was then filed on May 23, 2018 (the "TAC"). [Note: there is a dispute regarding whether the operative complaint is a second or third amended complaint due to the filing of the "corrected complaint" indicated above. For purposes of this hearing, the operative complaint is Docket No. 93, the TAC].

On June 25, 2018, Defendants filed a motion to dismiss the TAC. This motion was orally granted after a hearing on August 2, 2018, after Plaintiffs failed to file opposition to the motion, and neither party appeared at the hearing. On August 29, 2018, the Court's oral ruling was set aside based upon stipulation of the parties. On October 9, 2018, Defendants filed opposition to the instant motion to dismiss. This matter has been continued on multiple occasions to afford the parties the opportunity to settle the matter.

DISCUSSION

As a threshold matter, while noting that Defendants have filed an answer in this adversary proceeding, that answer was filed in response to a now dismissed complaint. There being no other responsive pleading related to the TAC, the Court construes the instant motion as a FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss.

FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 12(b)(6), made applicable in adversary proceedings through FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 7012, a bankruptcy court may dismiss a complaint if it fails to "state a claim upon which relief can be granted." In reviewing a FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 12(b)(6) motion, the trial court must accept as true all facts alleged in the complaint and draw all reasonable inferences in favor of the plaintiff. Navarro v. Block, 250 F.3d 729, 732 (9th Cir. 2001). The trial court need not, however, accept as true conclusory allegations in a complaint or legal characterizations cast in the form of factual allegations. Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555–56, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 167 L.Ed.2d 929 (2007); Hartman v. Gilead Scis., Inc. (In re Gilead Scis. Sec. Litig.), 536 F.3d 1049, 1055 (9th Cir. 2008).

To avoid dismissal under FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 12(b)(6), a plaintiff must aver in the complaint "sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to 'state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.'" Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678, 129 S.Ct. 1937, 173 L.Ed.2d 868 (2009) (quoting Twombly, 550 U.S. at 570, 127 S.Ct. 1955). It is axiomatic that a claim cannot be plausible when it has no legal basis. A dismissal under FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 12(b)(6) may be based either on the lack of a cognizable legal theory or on the absence of sufficient facts alleged under a cognizable legal theory. Johnson v. Riverside Healthcare Sys., 534 F.3d 1116, 1121 (9th Cir.2008).

The crux of Defendants' argument for dismissal of the TAC is that Plaintiffs have not set forth the basis for a money judgment under state law. In the Court's tentative ruling on the motion to dismiss the FAC, the Court stated the following:

The Ninth Circuit has held that a bankruptcy court may enter a monetary judgment on a disputed state law fraud claim in the course of determining that the debt is nondischargeable. Cowen v. Kennedy (In re Kennedy), 108 F.3d 1015 (9th Cir.1997). Shawn Deitz v. Wayne Ford, Patricia Ford (In re Wayne Ford, Patricia Ford), 469 B.R. 11, 21 (9th Cir. BAP 2012), aff'd, 760 F.3d 1038 (9th Cir. 2014). Here, although the Complaint is not explicit regarding the state law causes of action at issue, it appears implicit in the allegations that the Plaintiffs seek a monetary judgment as to a fraud or misrepresentation claim. Nonetheless, Plaintiffs should not have to guess at the state law basis of the debt for a money judgment.

Here, the TAC has added bases for calculation of damages under state law but has still not set forth the state law basis for the monetary judgment. Thus, the Plaintiffs have still not addressed the concerns raised by the Court and Defendants that they do not have sufficient notice of the basis for a monetary judgment such that the Defendants can adequately defend themselves in the action.

Given the contents of the opposition to the motion to dismiss, and noting the discussion at previous hearings to dismiss, it appears there is significant confusion regarding the required contents of a complaint in this situation.

Importantly, the instant situation is unique. There is a parallel, outstanding claim objection which could serve as a forum to litigate the validity of the underlying debt. Instead of maintaining two parallel, and overlapping, courses of litigation, the claim objection proceeding has been converted to a "holding date" so that both issues, the validity of the underlying debt and, if established, the non-dischargeability of that debt, can be more efficiently litigated in a single proceeding. Because this adversary proceeding is functioning as more than just a proceeding to determine the non-dischargeability of a pre-determined debt, Plaintiffs need to articulate the state law basis for the debt with the precision and clarity that would be required in, for instance, a state court proceeding. This is even more critical because, at a previous hearing, state law affirmative defenses of limited applicability were raised, and the Court is unable to assess the validity of such defenses when it is unclear what Plaintiff has raised as a theory of debt.

For the reasons stated in the preceding paragraphs, the Court is inclined to GRANT the motion, with leave to amend. Plaintiffs are reminded that this instant adversary proceeding serves two functions: (1) to litigate the validity of the debt; and (2) to litigate the non-dischargeability of that debt, if established. The former is really the preliminary issue in this situation, and the court expects the former to be pled with sufficient detail to enable the Court and Defendants to clearly ascertain Plaintiff's theory of the debt.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion, DISMISSING the second amended complaint [Dkt. No. 93] with leave to amend.

Docket 6

Tentative Ruling:

I. PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

On March 26, 2018, Paul Pound ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On July 2, 2018, April Lloyd ("Plaintiff") filed a complaint against Debtor to determine dischargeability of debt pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(a), (a)(4), and (a)(6). On July 9, 2018, Debtor obtained a discharge and, four days later, the case was closed.

On July 31, 2018, Debtor filed his answer. On October 3, 2018, Plaintiff filed a motion for summary judgment. After a stipulated continuance of the hearing, Debtor filed his opposition on October 31, 2018.

II. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

On November 13, 2016, Marcus Lloyd, Plaintiff's brother entered into a purchase agreement with Debtor on behalf of Juanita Lloyd ("Juanita"), Plaintiff's mother, which was intended to be structured, according to Plaintiff, to "retrieve the equity in Juanita's home and lower her mortgage payments." Instead, according to Plaintiff, the agreement "was constructed to deprive Juanita of her home without receiving value from the Debtor." Plaintiff's account of the details of the purchase agreement, recited on page 12 of the motion for summary judgment, are as follows:

The Purchase Agreement stated that the purchase price was $670,000. The purchase price comprised of 75% in financing, 20% in seller carry back, and a 5% cash down payment. After closing, the seller was to release the seller carry back, and receive equity in return, and the seller was to reimburse the buyer the 5% cash down payment, and receive equity in return. Once the seller carry back was released, and the down payment reimbursed, all equity was to belong to the seller. Furthermore, the Purchase Agreement required that rental payments, equal to the amount of the mortgage payment, be made each month. In addition, at the time of closing, the Debtor was entitled to 3% of the purchase price as a real estate fee. Per the Purchase Agreement, Juanita deposited monthly payments into to [sic] the Debtor's Bank of American account starting around December 2006. She continued to make these payments until May 2007, when the Debtor requested that Juanita submit payments to a new account with Washington Mutual.

[Dkt. No. 6, pg 12].

Ultimately, on November 16, 2009, Juanita filed a complaint against Debtor in state court, asserting causes of action for fraud, conversion, and breach of contract. On August 30, 2011, Debtor and Juanita entered into a stipulated judgment which provided that Debtor would make periodic payments to Juanita totaling $60,000. In the event that Debtor failed to comply with the payment schedule, the state court would enter judgment for the remaining balance.¹

In January 2014, Debtor stopped adhering to the periodic payment schedule. On October 14, 2016, Plaintiff moved for entry of judgment in state court and, on December 20, 2016, the state court entered judgment in the amount of $42,000.

III. DISCUSSION

Plaintiff moves to have this debt deemed nondischargeable pursuant to three different provisions: (1) 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A); (2) 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(4); and (3) 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6).

11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A), (a)(4), and (a)(6) state:

- (a) A discharge under section 727, 1141, 1228(a), 1228(b), or 1328(b) of this title does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt –
 - (2) for money, property, services, or an extension, renewal, or refinancing of creditor, to the extent obtained by –
 - (A) false pretenses, a false representation, or actual fraud, other than a statement respecting the debtor's or an insider's financial condition;
 - (4) for fraud or defalcation while acting in a fiduciary capacity, embezzlement, or larceny;
 - (6) for willful and malicious injury by the debtor to another entity or to the property of another entity

The elements of a § 523(a)(2)(A) claim are well-established: (a) the debtor made representations; (b) which were known to be false; (c) the representations were made with the intention and purpose of deceiving the creditor; (d) the creditor relied on such representations; (e) the creditor sustained loss and damage as a proximate result of the representations. See, e.g., In re Sabban, 600 F.3d 1219, 1222 (9th Cir. 2010).

11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(4) contains three different exceptions to dischargeability: (1) fraud or defalcation while acting in a fiduciary capacity; (2) larceny; and (3) embezzlement. Regarding fraud or defalcation while acting in a fiduciary capacity, the elements are:

(1) the existence of an express trust; (2) the debt was caused by fraud or defalcation; and (3) the debtor acted as a fiduciary to the creditor at the time the debt was created. See, e.g., In re Niles, 106 F.3d 1456, 1459 (9th Cir. 1997). "Larceny is the fraudulent and wrongful taking and carrying away of the property of another with intent to convert the property to the taker's use without the consent of the owner." 4 COLLIER'S ON BANKRUPTCY ¶ 523.10[2] (16th ed. 2009). Finally, embezzlement, contains three elements: "(1) property rightfully in the possession of a nonowner; (2) nonowner's appropriation of the property to a use other than which it was entrusted; and (3) circumstances indicating fraud." In re Littleton, 942 F.2d 551, 555 (9th Cir. 1991).

To prevail on a claim under § 523(a)(6), a creditor must demonstrate three elements: (1) willful conduct; (2) malice; and (3) causation. See In re Butcher, 200 B.R. 675, 680 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1996) (quoting In re Apte, 180 B.R. 223, 230 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1995)). A willful injury is a "deliberate or intentional injury, not merely a deliberate or intentional act that leads to injury." Kawaauhau v. Geiger, 523 U.S. 57, 61 (1998). "A malicious injury involves (1) a wrongful act, (2) done intentionally, (3) which necessarily causes injury, and (4) is done without just cause or excuse." In re Barboza, 545 F.3d 702, 706 (9th Cir. 2008) (quoting In re Jercich, 238 F.3d 1202, 1209 (9th Cir. 2001)).

Summary judgment should be granted if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment as a matter of law. See FED. R. CIV. P. 56(c) (incorporated into bankruptcy proceedings by FED. R. BANKR. P. 7056). This required the moving party to "affirmatively demonstrate that no reasonable trier of fact could find other than for the moving party." Soremkun v. Thrifty Payless, Inc., 509 F.3d 978, 984 (9th Cir. 2007).

The moving party has the burden of establishing the absence of a genuine issue of material fact. See Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323 (1986). If the moving party shows the absence of a genuine issue of material fact, the nonmoving party must go beyond the pleadings and identify facts that show a genuine issue for trial. See id. at 324. The court must view the evidence in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party. See Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 255 (1986). All reasonable doubt as to the existence of a genuine issue of fact should be resolved against the moving party. See id.

If the moving party meets its initial burden, the non-moving party must set forth, by affidavit or as otherwise provided in Rule 56, specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial. See id. The non-moving party, however, "must do more than simply show that there is some metaphysical doubt as to the material fact...." Matsushita Electrical Industry Co. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 586-587 (1986).

A fact is material if it "might affect the outcome of the suit under the governing law." Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248 (1986). A dispute about a material fact is genuine "if the evidence is such that a reasonable jury could return a verdict for the nonmoving party." Id.

A. Issue Preclusion on Plaintiff's Claim under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6)

Issue preclusion applies in nondischargeability proceedings to bar the relitigation of factual issues that were determined in a prior state court action. See, e.g., Grogan v. Garner, 498 U.S. 279, 284-85, n.11 (1991). To determine the issue-preclusive effect of a California state court's judgment, California preclusion law must be applied. See 28 U.S.C. § 1738; Marrese v. Am. Acad. of Orthopaedic Surgeons, 470 U.S. 373, 380 (1985); Gayden v. Nourbakhsh (In re Nourbakhsh), 67 F.3d 798, 800 (9th Cir. 1995). Under California law, the party asserting issue preclusion has the burden of establishing the following "threshold" requirements:

- (1) the issue sought to be precluded must be identical to that decided in a former proceeding;
- (2) the issue must have been actually litigated in the former proceeding;
- (3) it must have been necessarily decided in the former proceeding;
- (4) the decision in the former proceeding must be final and on the merits; and,
- (5) the party against whom preclusion is sought must be the same as, or in privity with, the party to the former proceeding.

Harmon v. Kobrin (In re Harmon), 250 F.3d 1240, 1245 (9th Cir.2001).

Additionally, the application of issue preclusion requires a "mandatory 'additional'

inquiry into whether imposition of issue preclusion would be fair and consistent with sound public policy." In re Khaligh, 338 B.R. 817, 824–25 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2006). As stated by the California Supreme Court

We have repeatedly looked to the public policies underlying the doctrine before concluding that collateral estoppel should be applied in a particular setting.... Accordingly, the public policies underlying collateral estoppel—preservation of the integrity of the judicial system, promotion of judicial economy, and protection of litigants from harassment by vexatious litigation—strongly influence whether its application in a particular circumstance would be fair to the parties and constitutes sound judicial policy.

Lucido v. Super. Ct., 51 Cal. 3d 335, 342–43 (Cal. 1990) (internal citations omitted).

As noted by Plaintiff, it is true that, in some situations, a stipulated judgment can form the basis for collateral estoppel. "The parties need only 'manifest an intent to be collaterally bound by' the terms of the stipulated judgment." In re Boyce, 2016 WL 6247612 at *3 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2016) (quoting Cal. State Auto. Ass'n Inter-Ins. Bureau v. Super. Ct., 50 Cal. 3d 658, 664 (Cal. 1990)).

Here, Debtor has filed a declaration which states that "[t]he judgment was never intended to be dispositive of the facts of the case." [Dkt. No. 17, ¶ 11]. This is sufficient to create a genuine issue of material fact and defeat Plaintiff's argument as to issue preclusion at the summary judgment stage. See In re Jun Ho Yang, 698 Fed. Appx. 374 (9th Cir. 2017) ("Here, Jun Ho Yang submitted a declaration that he did not intend the stipulated facts in the Settlement Agreement and Stipulation for Entry of Judgment in the prior state court action to have a preclusive effect in future proceedings. Such a declaration (even if self-serving) creates a genuine issue of material fact as to the parties' intent.")

B. Absence of a Genuine Issue of Material Fact

Plaintiff's alternative argument is that summary judgment is warranted because uncontroverted facts establish that the debt is non-dischargeable. The Court disagrees with this argument.

Chapter 7

Regarding § 523(a)(2)(A), Debtor denies, inter alia, that he had the intent to deceive Plaintiff, and supports such denial with factual assertions establishing that possibility. "The intent to deceive is a factual question and largely depends upon the credibility of witnesses and the weight to be given to their testimony." In re Sutton, 2015 WL 7776658 at *6 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2015). In this case, "where different ultimate inferences may be drawn from the parties' differing characterization of the facts, summary judgment is inappropriate." In re Allen, 2018 WL 909876 at *3 (Bankr. C.D. Cal 2018) (citing Sankovich v. Ins. Co of N. Am., 638 F.2d 136, 140 (9th Cir. 1981); see also In re Lucas, 386 B.R. 332 (Bankr. D.N.M. 2008) ("Rarely is it appropriate to grant summary judgment on a claim for nondischargeability based on 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A) because intent to defraud often depends on the credibility of witnesses."). Here, Debtor asserts that it was Plaintiff that first breached the purchase agreement, and that, upon such breach, Debtor continued to act in accordance with the purchase agreement for several months after the breach. The Court concludes that Debtor has established, at the least, a genuine issue of material fact with regard to whether Debtor had an intent to deceive Plaintiff.

Regarding § 523(a)(4), Plaintiff argues that the payments her mother made pursuant to the purchase agreement were ultimately embezzled by Debtor. In support of such argument, Plaintiff relies upon extrinsic evidence about the parties' intent when entering into the purchase agreement. Debtor has presented a different account of the parties' intent regarding the purchase agreement which, if true, would not allow for Debtor's actions to be characterized as embezzlement. Therefore, the Court concludes that Debtor has entitled a genuine issue of material fact with regard to Plaintiff's claim pursuant to § 523(a)(4).

Regarding § 523(a)(6), the Court concludes that Debtor has established a genuine issue of material fact for the same reason as noted in the two preceding paragraphs – namely that Debtor has asserted that it was Plaintiff's mother who first breached the purchase agreement, and that Debtor made a good-faith effort to comply with the terms of the purchase agreement for several months after the original breach.

Tentative Ruling:

02/07/2019

The hearing on the Motion was continued to this date because the real property declaration previously filed was illegible. Movant has now corrected the issue. Based on the evidence provided, the Court is inclined to: GRANT relief from the stay under §§ 362(d)(1) and (d)(2). GRANT waiver of 4001(a)(3) stay. GRANT Movant's request for authority to offer loan workout options. DENIED as to § 362(d)(4) for lack of cause shown.

Docket 72

Tentative Ruling:

1/10/19

BACKGROUND

On December 12, 2014, Jesus Simental ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On February 26, 2015, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On May 31, 2018, Trustee filed a motion to dismiss for failure to submit tax returns or refunds. Debtor did not file an opposition to the motion. After a continuance, no appearance was made on behalf of Debtor at the continued hearing on the motion to dismiss, and the case was dismissed on November 8, 2018.

On November 26, 2018, Debtor filed a motion to vacate the dismissal order on the grounds of mistake, inadvertence and/or excusable neglect. On November 27, 2018, Trustee filed comments indicating disapproval, although the comments could also be characterized as recommending conditional approval. On December 3, 2018, Debtor set the matter for hearing and, on December 4, 2018, Debtor filed a supplemental declaration.

Chapter 13

DISCUSSION

Debtor relies on FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 60(b)(1), incorporated into bankruptcy proceedings by FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 9024, which allows for relief from an order based on "mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect."

The legal basis for Debtor's assertion that the dismissal order should be vacated is that Debtor's counsel inadvertently did not appear at the hearing due to an office error. It is well established, however, that "an attorney's ignorance and carelessness does not provide grounds for Rule 60(b) relief." In re Mercado, 144 B.R. 879, 886 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1992) (citing Bershad v. McDonough, 469 F.2d 1333, 1337 (7th Cir. 1972)). And the mere assertion that counsel did not fulfill its duties, but that such carelessness was inadvertent, is clearly inadequate to support Rule 60(b) relief. See, e.g., In re ACME Motors, Inc., 125 B.R. 702, 703 (Bankr. D.R.I. 1991).

"Rule 60(b) relief is extraordinary." Id. Yet, in this Court, a request for relief from a Chapter 13 dismissal order has become ordinary. On occasion, the requests are legally sound. Here, however, the evidence provided simply indicates that Debtor's counsel did not attend the hearing due to an internal error.

The Supreme Court has stated that:

There is certainly no merit to the contention that dismissal of petitioner's claim because of his counsel's unexcused conduct imposes an unjust penalty on the client. Petitioner voluntarily chose this attorney as his representative in the action, and he cannot now avoid the consequences of the acts or omissions of this freely selected agent. Any other notion would be wholly inconsistent with our system of representative litigation, in which each party is deemed bound by the acts of his lawyer-agent.

The rule is that all of the attorney's misconduct (except in the cases where the act is outside the scope of employment or in cases of excusable neglect) becomes the problem of the client. A lawyer who inexcusably neglects his client's obligations does not present exceptional circumstances."). "Although attorney carelessness can [in certain circumstances] constitute 'excusable neglect' under Rule 60(b)(1), attorney inattentiveness to litigation is not excusable, no matter what the resulting consequences the attorney's somnolent behavior may have on a litigant." Easley v. Kirmsee, 382 F.3d 693, 698 (7th Cir. 2004) (collecting cases).

Tentative Ruling:

02/07/2019

BACKGROUND

On July 28, 2016, the Luevina Henry ("Debtor") filed her petition for chapter 13 relief (the "Main Case"). Rod Danielson was the duly appointed chapter 13 trustee ("Trustee"). On June 18, 2018, the Trustee filed a motion to dismiss the Debtor's case (the "MTD"). The Trustee asserted failure to submit 2017 federal and state tax returns as grounds for dismissal. A hearing on the MTD was held on July 23, 2018, following which the case was dismissed. An order dismissing the case was entered on July 25, 2018 (the "Dismissal Order"). On August 6, 2018, Debtor filed a Motion to Vacate the Dismissal Order, which was ultimately denied on September 14, 2018. On September 17, 2018, the Debtor filed a second Motion to Vacate the Dismissal Order (the "Second MTV"). After multiple hearings, the Second MTV was denied at the hearing held on December 20, 2018. An order denying the Second MTV was entered on January 3, 2019.

Separate from events in the Main Case, the Debtor filed a complaint on August 25, 2017, alleging a claim for damages for violation of the automatic stay, violations of various civil rights statutes, and generally seeking to have Claim No. 3 of Real Time Resolutions, Inc. disallowed (the "Complaint"). The Complaint initiated an adversary proceeding related to the Main Case.

On January 14, 2019, the Debtor filed her Motion and Notice for Reconsideration; (2) Clarification on Dismissal as to what party; (3) Order to Show Cause as to why the Adversary Proceeding should not be Dismissed. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled on the Adversary Proceeding. Rule 60(b)(3) for Fraud on the Court by Rod Danielson and other parties (the "Motion"). The Motion appears to seek reconsideration of the Court's order denying the MTV. However, the Motion was improperly filed in the Debtor's adversary proceeding as opposed to being filed in the Main Case. On January 25, 2019, Defendant JPMorgan Chase Bank filed its opposition to the Motion.

DISCUSSION

As a threshold matter, the Motion was filed in the wrong case because the primary relief sought by the Debtor appears to be a request for reconsideration of the Court's order denying the MTV which was entered as to the Main Case and not as to the instant adversary proceeding. On that basis, the Court will deny the motion without prejudice as procedurally improper. However, the Court will nonetheless attempt to address some of the Debtor's concerns. First, The Debtor's Motion indicates that she lacks clarity about that the Main Case and adversary proceeding are distinct, but related, proceedings.

The Main Case

The Main Case is the chapter 13 proceeding wherein debtors propose plans of repayment to their creditors. In the Debtor's chapter 13 proceeding, Rod Danielson is the chapter 13 trustee. As such he has various statutory duties. Specifically, the chapter 13 trustee serves the interests of all creditors primarily by collecting payments from debtors and disbursing them to creditors.

.... But a chapter 13 trustee "is no mere disbursing agent." ... § 1302 grants the chapter 13 trustee various powers to ensure that such collections and disbursements occur equitably, according to the dictates of Congress. Under subsection (b)(1) of § 1302, the chapter 13 trustee has the power contained in § 704(5) to "examine proofs of claims and object to the allowance of any claim that is improper." And under subsection (b)(2) of § 1302 that trustee is granted standing to "appear and be heard" in a hearing to confirm a Chapter 13 plan.

Andrews, 49 F.3d 1404, 1408 (9th Cir. 1995)).

The Debtor's Motion indicates that she is not clear when the Main Case was dismissed. As set forth above, the Main Case was dismissed on July 25, 2018. The Dismissal Order is Docket No. 159 and the Debtor can obtain a copy of the Dismissal of the Order from the Clerk's Office. When the Main Case was terminated, the Debtor's chapter 13 proceeding for reorganization and payment of the Debtor's prepetition debts was terminated.

Next, the Debtor has provided an unauthenticated copy of a January 3, 2019, letter from the Trustee wherein he states that that he does not represent the debtor or creditors and cannot provide legal advice. The Debtor interprets this letter to mean that Mr. Danielson is not the "Trustee of the debtor or the creditor" and on that basis, the Debtor asserts that Mr. Danielson had no standing to take any actions in her case and generally that he has misrepresented himself and perpetuated some alleged fraud on the Court.

The Debtor, however, does understand Mr. Danielson's letter and his role in the bankruptcy proceedings. The Trustee is simply stating to the Debtor that he cannot provide legal representation for the Debtor or for the Debtor's creditors. That is correct. Mr. Danielson is the trustee for the estate's of debtors in chapter 13 bankruptcies within the jurisdiction of the Riverside Division of the Central District of California. His duties as trustee are outlined in the Bankruptcy Code and as indicated above, serve the interest of the creditors (without specifically representing any individual creditor's interests) by collecting payments from debtors and disbursing them to creditors, while also ensuring that monies are disbursed in accordance with the requirements of the Bankruptcy Code. Matter of Maddox, at 1355. The trustee does not represent individual creditors and does not represent the debtor but has a significant role in the debtor's bankruptcy as required under the Bankruptcy Code. And the Debtor has provided no evidence of any wrongdoing as to the Trustee.

Further, the Debtor disputes that payments were owed to creditors in the Main Case and asks who the Debtor owed money to. The Debtor is free to seek copies from the Clerk's office of the claims register for her case. Seven claims were filed amounting to a total of $594,423. The Debtor only objected to one of the claims and never obtained an order disallowing any claims. The Trustee calculated the monthly plan payment based on claims filed in the case and as indicated on the record at the hearing on the MTV, the Debtor would have had to bring her plan current by paying a sum of $5,600 in order to reinstate the Main Case. The Debtor indicated at the hearing that she did not have the funds to cure this deficiency and that was a primary reason why her MTV was denied.

Chapter 13

Finally, the Debtor asserts that she is entitled to a discharge in her Main Case but asserts no facts or authority to support such request.

The Adversary Case

As to the Adversary Case, the Debtor makes various references to a Ninth Circuit ruling in her favor, which is irrelevant to the Main Case. However, a review of the Court's docket reveals only one appeal determined by the Ninth Circuit BAP. Specifically, on October 30, 2017, Judge Jury entered an order granting a motion to dismiss the adversary complaint as to Sandy Garza. The Debtor appealed the ruling. The BAP sent the Debtor a letter indicating that the order on appeal did not appear final and requiring a response. The Debtor's response was interpreted by the Panel as confirming that the order on appeal was interlocutory and requesting dismissal without prejudice. On February 21, 2018, the BAP dismissed the appeal and, in its ruling, stated that the Debtor would have an opportunity to challenge any final judgment of the bankruptcy court. The Debtor has attached no evidence of any other ruling or statement by the BAP or Ninth Circuit impacting the adversary proceeding.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to DENY the Motion as improperly filed in the adversary case, without prejudice to any rights the Debtor may have to seek relief in the Main Case.

As an aside, the Court finds patent merit in Chase's argument as to the procedural impropriety of the Motion. However, the Court shall defer deeper consideration of this argument until such time as the Debtor properly brings the Motion in the Main Case.

The prior case was dismissed on voluntary request for dismissal by the Debtor. The Motion indicates that the dismissal resulted from the fact that Debtor's intended sale of certain real property located at 27447 Eagles Nest Drive in Corona, CA ("Property") fell out of escrow. Attached to the Motion is evidence of a new residential purchase agreement signed on January 25, 2019. Debtor asserts that he intends to sell the Property with court approval, pay off secured creditors, and use the proceeds to fund a feasible chapter 13 plan. The evidence is sufficient to warrant continuance of the automatic stay.

Docket 14

Tentative Ruling:

The Debtor's first 2018 case had a plan confirmed on April 20, 2018. By May 1, 2018, the Trustee had already filed a Motion to Dismiss for delinquency. The case was dismissed on June 19, 2018 for failure to make plan payments. The Debtor's second 2018 case was dismissed on request of the Debtor at confirmation. The Debtor requested 10 days to convert his case to a case under chapter 7 but never effectuated the conversion.

The Motion indicates and the Court's records confirm that the Debtor's prior two cases sought reorganization, in part, to pay arrears owed on a loan secured by real property. The Motion indicates that since the filing of the prior two filings, the Debtor has allowed the secured lender to foreclose on his residence. In lieu of the approximately $1,700 in mortgage expense, the Debtor will now be paying approximately $500 in monthly rent. The significant change in the Debtor's financial condition has increased his disposable income sufficiently to demonstrate by clear and convincing evidence that the instant case was filed in good faith.

The Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion.

#3.00 CONT Motion of the Debtor and Debtor-in- Possession for Order Approving Management Agreement

From: 1/15/19, 1/29/19

EH__

Docket 290

Tentative Ruling:

02/13/2019

The Court has evaluated the PCO's Amended Second Statement and the Debtor's response. The PCO opposes employment of HMS due to what he asserts is evidence of a material compromise in patient care. The PCO's position is supported by his own declaration and review, as well as by the declaration and report of David R. Hoffman.

Of note, the Court agrees with the PCO that there are documented deficiencies in the Debtor's and, by extension, HMS's oversight of the Debtor's staff. The various reports certainly point to evidence of lapses in documentation and failure to update patient plans of care (POCs) to provide up-to-date information regarding patients' prescribed medications and the frequency with which such medications must be administered. The Court does not dispute that such issues are problematic and must be addressed. However, on the other hand, the Court agrees with the Debtor that it has already been evaluated by state regulatory authorities, and while the CDPH report corroborates the lapses in documentation and care, the same report of the CDPH determined the Debtor to be in compliance with CoPs (Conditions of Participation), notwithstanding its findings.

Moreover, the PCO provided the Court a copy of its correspondence with CHAP (the organization which typically provides the Debtor with its accreditations). Here, notwithstanding the nonpayment of CHAP fees, the PCO's correspondence with CHAP similarly resulted in a response by CHAP that given the CDPH's finding that the Debtor was in compliance with CoPs, it "would not typically pursue review of the organization." This is presumably despite the PCO having provided CHAP with documentation evidencing an alleged material compromise in patient care.

In sum, both the State and the third party accreditation agency apparently reviewed the concerns raised by the PCO and found them insufficiently egregious to warrant official corrective action. Separately, the Debtor has provided convincing evidence that the Debtor's position in 2016 was far worse than it is today and the improvement in the Debtor's financial situation and future prospects appears to be, at least in part, attributable to HMS.

Weighing the PCO's concern against the Debtor's evidence that it has exercised good business judgment, the Court ultimately finds that there is insufficient evidence that the lapses in care are so egregious as to compel the Court to deny the Debtor's motion to approve the agreement with HMS. However, as discussed at the prior hearing, the Court intends to condition approval of the agreement with a provision in the order for Court review of HMS's fees under a reasonableness standard. As a part of this review, the Court will take into consideration HMS's efforts to address the deficiencies noted in the CDPH report.

Finally, the Court sees no reason to deny the Debtor's request for an order approving the Agreement nunc pro tunc to the petition date. In particular, as this Court has acknowledged, the problems occasioned by the Debtor's need to change counsel early in the case warrant exception for some of the delay in bringing the Motion.

APPEARANCES REQUIRED.

01/29/2019

BACKGROUND

On August 15, 2018, Visiting Nurse Association of the Inland Counties ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. Debtor is a not-for-profit home health services organization with approximately 160 employees and 360 patients. At the time of filing, Debtor had three patients centers: Riverside, Palm Desert, and Murrieta.

On December 20, 2018, the Debtor filed a Motion for Order Approving Management Agreement with Healthsure Management Services, LLC (HMS) ("Motion"), pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 363(b). The Motion seeks an order approving the management agreement with HMS, to provide "management, financial, technology and healthcare services" to the Debtor (the "Agreement"). The Agreement provides for HMS to manage the daily operations of the Debtor with compensation to be paid on a monthly basis, except for a portion that shall be deferred so that the Debtor remains solvent postpetition. (Motion at 2:11-16). HMS has provided management services to the Debtor since October 2016. (Furman Decl. ¶2). Debtor believes approval of the Motion is necessary and appropriate to provide continuity of management of the Debtor. (Id. at ¶3). The Debtor seeks approval of the Agreement pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 363(b).

On January 2, 2019, Jerry Seelig, the Patient Care Ombudsman ("PCO"), filed a statement related to the Motion. On January 2, 2019, the Debtor, Committee, the H.N. and Frances C. Berger Foundation ("Foundation"), and the PCO filed their stipulation to continue the hearing (the "Stipulation"). The Court approved the Stipulation. On January 14, 2019, the Foundation timely filed its opposition to the Motion ("Opposition"). On January 22, 2019, the Debtor timely replied ("Reply").

As a threshold matter, the PCO asserts that HMS has (1) failed to implement corrective actions required under a 2017 Accreditation Report, and (2) is failing to provide adequate care delivery for hospice patients. The PCO recommends that the Court defer a ruling on the Motion until the California Department of Public Health (CDPH) concludes its review of the Debtor's operation and issues a Statement of Deficiencies. The Court notes that the PCO cannot provide certainty that such a statement will be issued. The PCO separately requests that the Court require the Debtor to provide information regarding staffing levels and ratios, and requests that the Board of Visiting Nurse Association of the Inland Counties should complete a thorough review of any such report.

The Foundation argues that HMS must be employed pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 327, but if employed under § 327 the Motion does not meet requirements for employment under applicable law, and the Debtor has not established "exceptional circumstances" to justify nunc pro tunc relief as requested.

Employment pursuant to § 363 versus §327

First, as to the Foundation's arguments that HMS should be employed pursuant to § 327 in lieu of § 363, the Court has evaluated and agrees with the Debtor that the weight of authority supports the availability of § 363 as a vehicle for retention of management professionals and/or consultants. In re Nine W. Holdings, Inc., 588 B.R. 678, 686 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2018). Further, as indicated by the Debtor, such retentions have long been authorized by the courts of the Central District of California. (Mot. at 4:4-13). In this case, where the evidence indicates that has provided management services to the Debtor since 2016, the Court agrees with the analysis of the Nine West Court, inter alia, that "rehabilitating a debtor and preserving the value of the debtor's business—significant Code-related objectives—can be best accomplished here by permitting the Debtors to utilize their estate assets under section 363 of the Code to hire the advisory services firm and its personnel who played key management roles at the company prepetition, thus ensuring the continuity of such services." Nine West at 691.

Nunc Pro Tunc Employment

Nunc pro tunc employment is limited to "exceptional circumstances where an applicant can show both [1] a satisfactory explanation for the failure to receive prior judicial approval and [2] that he or she has benefited the bankruptcy estate in some significant manner" (collectively, these two factors is referred to as the "THC Factors"). Okamoto v. THC Fin'l Corp. (In re THC), 837 F.2d 389, 392 (9th Cir. 1988). As to nunc pro tunc employment, the Foundation's evidentiary objections are well-taken. Specifically, the Debtor has provided a de minimis declaration attesting to the business justification for the retention of HMS. Moreover, the Court is concerned that there is a lack of clarity distinguishing the contours of the Agreement with HMS from the services being provided by Force 10. The Court is inclined to permit the Debtor an opportunity to provide supplemental evidence outlining the management structure of the Debtor assuming both entities are employed. This is particularly important given the potential costs of permitting the Debtor to enter into agreements with two separate management-type entities.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to CONTINUE the hearing for

#8.00 Notice of motion and motion for relief from automatic stay with supporting declarations ACTION IN NON-BANKRUPTCY FORUM RE: Jennifer M vs Karl Detlefsen, docket number BC701876 Superior Court of California, LA - Stanley Mosk Courthouse

MOVANT: JENNIFER MASLAR

EH__

Docket 7

Tentative Ruling:

2/26/19

On December 27, 2018, Karl Detlefsen ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On Schedule F, Debtor listed Jennifer Maslar ("Creditor") as the holder of an unsecured claim in the amount of $2,250,000.

On January 29, 2019, Creditor filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay, seeking to continue pending state court litigation relating to claims for sexual battery and intentional infliction of emotional distress.

When considering a motion for relief from the automatic stay to pursue a non-bankruptcy action, the Court considers the Curtis factors:

- (1) Whether the relief will result in a partial or complete resolution of the issues;
- (2) the lack of any connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case;
- (3) whether the foreign proceeding involves the debtor as fiduciary; (4) whether a specialized tribunal has been established to hear the particular cause of action and whether that tribunal has the expertise to hear such cases; (5) whether the debtor's insurance carrier has assumed full financial responsibility for defending the litigation; (6) whether the action essentially involves third parties, and the debtor functions only as a bailee or conduit for the good or proceeds in question; (7) whether the litigation in another forum would prejudice the interests of other creditors, the creditor's committee and other interested parties; (8) whether the judgment claim arising from the foreign action is subject to equitable subordination; (9) whether movant's success in the foreign proceeding would result in a judicial lien avoidable by the debtor under Section 522(f); (10) the interests of judicial economy and the expeditious and economical determination of litigation for the parties; (11) whether the foreign proceedings have progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial; and (12) the impact of the stay and the "balance of hurt."

In re Roger, 539 B.R. 837, 844-45 (C.D. Cal. 2015). In Roger, the Court further stated:

The Ninth Circuit has recognized that the Curtis factors are appropriate, nonexclusive, factors to consider in deciding whether to grant relief from the automatic stay to allow pending litigation to continue in another forum. While the Curtis factors are widely used to determine the existence of cause, not all of the factors are relevant in every case, nor is a court required to give each factor equal weight. According to the court in Curtis, the most important factor in determining whether to grant relief from the automatic stay to permit litigation against the debtor in another forum is the effect of such litigation on the administration of the estate. Even slight interference with the administration may be enough to preclude relief in the absence of a commensurate benefit. That said, some cases involving the automatic stay provision do not mention the Curtis factors at all.

Here, the Court agrees with Creditor that the above-enumerated factors appear to weigh in favor of granting Creditor relief from the automatic stay. Specifically, the instant bankruptcy case is a no-asset, Chapter 7 case, the state court proceeding includes state law claims and would not have any effect on the administration of the estate (which appears to have been essentially completed), and the state court litigation has pending for nearly a year.

Chapter 7

Furthermore, Creditor has argued that abstention is mandatory under 28 U.S.C. § 1334(c)(2). Additionally, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(5), it is unclear whether the bankruptcy court could even exercise subject matter jurisdiction over Creditor's state law intentional tort claims. For this reason, the Court finds it to be necessary to grant relief from the automatic stay.

Nevertheless, Creditor makes reference to the non-dischargeability of any resulting judgment secured in state court. It appears that in order to secure non-dischargeability, Creditor would be required to file an adversary complaint more than three months prior to the currently scheduled state court trial. On the record before the Court, it is unclear whether such an adversary proceeding would require the relevant issues to be relitigated. Therefore, notwithstanding the above, this Court does have some concerns that it is possible that Creditor could ultimately end up with two simultaneous, or sequential, courses of litigation.

Docket 28

Tentative Ruling:

Regarding Movant's argument that the automatic stay has terminated in the instant case, Movant's assertion is incorrect because 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3) only applies when a previous case has been dismissed. Here, Debtors' only previous case in the year prior to the petition date of the instant case resulted in a discharge. Therefore, the Court will DENY the request for relief under ¶ 14.

Regarding Movant's argument that the case was filed in bad faith due to previous bankruptcy filings, the Court notes that Debtors have two previous filings, both Chapter 7 cases which resulted in discharge. The instant case is a Chapter 13 proceeding, making this case what is commonly referred to as a Chapter 20 case. It has been uniformly established that the filing of a Chapter 13 case shortly after receiving a Chapter 7 discharge does not constitute bad faith. Therefore, the Court will DENY the request for relief pursuant to § 362(d)(4).

Regarding the remainder of Movant's requests, the parties are to apprise the Court regarding the status of the arrears and adequate protection discussions, if any.

Movant: HYPERION ENERGY MARKETING INC

EH__

Docket 25

Tentative Ruling:

2/26/19

On July 12, 2018, Restart Solar, LLC ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On Schedule F, Debtor listed Hyperion Energy Marketing Inc. ("Creditor") as the holder of an unsecured claim in the amount of $400,000.

On January 23, 2019, Creditor filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay, seeking to continue pending state court litigation relating to claims for breach of contract, account stated, services rendered, quantum meruit, fraud, and negligent representation.

When considering a motion for relief from the automatic stay to pursue a non-bankruptcy action, the Court considers the Curtis factors:

- (1) Whether the relief will result in a partial or complete resolution of the issues;
- (2) the lack of any connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case;
- (3) whether the foreign proceeding involves the debtor as fiduciary; (4) whether a specialized tribunal has been established to hear the particular cause of action and whether that tribunal has the expertise to hear such cases; (5) whether the debtor's insurance carrier has assumed full financial responsibility for defending the litigation; (6) whether the action essentially involves third parties, and the debtor functions only as a bailee or conduit for the good or proceeds in question; (7) whether the litigation in another forum would prejudice the interests of other creditors, the creditor's committee and other interested parties; (8) whether the judgment claim arising from the foreign action is subject to equitable subordination; (9) whether movant's success in the foreign proceeding would result in a judicial lien avoidable by the debtor under Section 522(f); (10) the interests of judicial economy and the expeditious and economical determination of litigation for the parties; (11) whether the foreign proceedings have progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial; and (12) the impact of the stay and the "balance of hurt."

In re Roger, 539 B.R. 837, 844-45 (C.D. Cal. 2015). In Roger, the Court further stated:

The Ninth Circuit has recognized that the Curtis factors are appropriate, nonexclusive, factors to consider in deciding whether to grant relief from the automatic stay to allow pending litigation to continue in another forum. While the Curtis factors are widely used to determine the existence of cause, not all of the factors are relevant in every case, nor is a court required to give each factor equal weight. According to the court in Curtis, the most important factor in determining whether to grant relief from the automatic stay to permit litigation against the debtor in another forum is the effect of such litigation on the administration of the estate. Even slight interference with the administration may be enough to preclude relief in the absence of a commensurate benefit. That said, some cases involving the automatic stay provision do not mention the Curtis factors at all.

Here, the Court agrees that the above-enumerated factors appear to weigh in favor of granting Creditor relief from the automatic stay. Specifically, the state court proceeding includes state law claims and has been pending for more than a year. Additionally, it appears that the state court litigation will not have any effect on the administration of the estate, especially because it appears that Creditor is primarily concerned with attempting to collect from Debtor's principals. Furthermore, Creditor has argued that abstention is mandatory under 28 U.S.C. § 1334(c)(2), and the Court agrees that it appears that abstention is statutorily required, further weighing in favor of relief from stay being granted. Therefore, the Court is inclined to GRANT relief from stay pursuant to § 362(d)(1), GRANT Creditor's request under ¶ 2, and GRANT waiver of the Rule 4001 stay.

The Court will DENY Creditor's request for relief from the co-debtor stay, because this is a Chapter 7 proceeding. The Court will DENY Creditor's request for annulment of the automatic stay because Creditor has not provided any evidence or justification to support the relief requested. Finally, the Court is inclined to DENY the request for relief under ¶¶ 6 and 7 because Creditor has not provided any evidence or rationale to support the granting of these unusual requests.

As noted in the motion, Debtors received a discharge on August 15, 2018, which, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(2), terminated the automatic stay as to Debtors. While Movant indicates that it is seeking relief from stay as to the estate, the Court notes that the subject property was abandoned by Trustee on May 21, 2018, thereby terminating the automatic stay as to the estate pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 361(c)(1). As a result, there is no automatic stay in effect, and the Court will DENY the motion as moot.

BACKGROUND

On August 15, 2018, Visiting Nurse Association of the Inland Counties ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. On November 2, 2018, The H.N. and Frances C. Berger Foundation ("Berger Foundation") filed its motion to compel payment of administrative rent or immediate rejection of lease and related relief. On November 13, 2018, Debtor filed its opposition.

The subject of the motion is a lease dated August 15, 2008, for certain nonresidential real property located in Palm Desert, California. According to Berger Foundation, "[p]ursuant to the terms of lease, should the Debtor continue to occupy the premises after August 14, 2018, the lease obligation increases to approximately $91,216.50 per month," [Dkt. No. 194, pg. 2] a doubling of the contractual monthly rental obligation. Berger Foundation requests: (1) that Debtor be compelled to cure the default on the lease or surrender the premises; and (2) allowance of an administrative expense claim in the amount of $3,040.55 per day.

Debtor's opposition argued that: (1) the lease cannot be assumed or rejected because the lease expired the day before the petition date; and (2) because the lease expired prepetition, the legal basis for the requested administrative expense claim is invalid.

On November 27, 2018, the Court held a hearing on the matter, and continue the hearing for three weeks for supplemental briefing. On December 18, 2018, the Court posted a tentative ruling prior to the continued hearing, indicating that it was inclined to hold that the lease terminated pre-petition, and, therefore, the lease was not an executory contract. The Court continued the matter again, allowing the parties the opportunity to further brief the matter, and to enable the parties to supplement the record to afford the Court the opportunity to assess Berger Foundation's request for administrative rent.

On January 18, 2019, Berger Foundation filed a supplement. On February 1, 2019, Debtor filed a response. Because Berger Foundation has not presented any new argument relating to 11 U.S.C. § 365, the Court is not inclined to modify its tentative, which is outlined in the first portion of the discussion section. Instead, the Court will address the parties' arguments relating to 11 U.S.C. § 503.

DISCUSSION

I. 11 U.S.C. § 365

The critical legal question at issue is whether the operative lease expired prepetition. Berger Foundation relies on 11 U.S.C. § 365(d)(3) as the basis for both its requests, and that provision states:

Chapter 11

The trustee shall timely perform all the obligations of the debtor, except those specified in section 365(b)(2), arising from and after the order for relief under any unexpired lease of nonresidential real property, until such lease is assumed or rejected, notwithstanding section 503(b)(1) of this title. The court may extend, for cause, the time for performance of any such obligation that arises within 60 days after the date of the order for relief, but the time for performance shall not be extended beyond such 60-day period. This subsection shall not be deemed to affect the trustee's obligations under the provisions of subsection (b) or (f) of the section. Acceptance of any such performance does not constitute waiver or relinquishment of the lessor's rights under such lease or under this title.

(emphasis added).

As a general rule, an expired lease is no longer executory, and, therefore, is no longer assumable, if the lease expired prepetition. See, e.g., In re Acorn Invs., 8 B.R. 506, 509-10 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1981). Therefore, the Court must determine whether the lease at issue expired prepetition. See Robinson v. Chicago Hous. Auth., 54 F.3d 316, 320 (7th Cir. 1995) ("the federal law allowing 'unexpired' leases to be assumed calls for a determination whether a lease has ended under state law."). Here, Debtor argues that the lease expired pre-petition, resulting in a holdover tenancy, in which no privity of contract exists, while Berger Foundation argues that the lease became a month to month tenancy and, therefore, was not expired. While the parties appear to be agree on the operative legal standard, the parties disagree regarding how that standard applies to the facts here

Both parties refer to CAL. CIV. CODE § 1945, which states:

If a lessee of real property remains in possession thereof after the expiration of the hiring, and the lessor accepts rent from him, the parties are presumed to have renewed the hiring on the same terms and for the same time, not exceeding one month when the rent is payable monthly, nor in any case one year.

Chapter 11

As a preliminary matter, the Court notes that it appears the above legal provision should not actually be applicable to the instant situation. Specifically, CAL. CIV. CODE § 1940(a), (c) states the following:

- (a) Except as provided in subdivision (b), this chapter shall apply to all persons who hire dwelling units located within this state included tenants, boarders, lodgers, and others, however denominated.
- (c) "Dwelling unit" means a structure or the part of a structure that is used as a home, residence, or sleeping place by one person who maintains a household or by two or more persons who maintain a common household.

Here, the lease at issue was a commercial lease which would remove the lease from the purview of § 1945 based upon the plain language of § 1940. Nevertheless, the Court notes that there is ample caselaw, some of which is cited by the parties, in which California courts have applied § 1945 to commercial property. Although it is not clear to this Court why that section is inapplicable to the instant situation, the Court will defer to the state law courts on this issue of state law.

Ultimately, the argument of Berger Foundation boils down to the following:

In this case, after the expiration of the Lease terms (August 14, 2018), Debtor continued to occupy the Premises. Berger continued to accept the Debtor as a tenant and took no action to terminate the Debtor's leasehold interest in the Premises. To the contrary, as this Court's record reflects, from the outset, Berger has been focusing on receiving rent payments and, in fact, received post-petition payments of not less than $15,000 as of the date of this Reply. Clearly, pursuant to Civil Code § 1945 and applicable California authority, the Lease converted to a month-to-month tenancy after August 14, 2018.

[Dkt. No. 278, pg. 3]. Debtor's argument, on the other hand, appears to be that Berger Foundation's actions in this case simply do not reflect clear consent to Debtor's continued possession of the premises.

First, there appears to be a timing issue which has not been identified by the parties. The operative lease expired, by its own terms, on August 14, 2018. The instant bankruptcy was filed on August 15, 2018. Therefore, assuming, arguendo, that rent was paid and accepted in a matter which would trigger the statutory presumption in CAL. CIV. CODE § 1945, such event would have occurred after the petition date. City v. Hart, 175 Cal. App. 3d 92, 94 (Cal. Ct. App. 1985) ("The statute provides the landlord's consent to the holding over is implied if he accepts rent from the tenant after the expiration of the lease. This consent to the holding over must be established before the statutory presumption of the same terms becomes effective.") (emphasis added). Therefore, the lease at issue would have been, as of the petition date, expired and not assumable. Quite simply, on the record before the Court, it is implausible that Berger Foundation could have undertaken any action in the fraction of the day before the instant bankruptcy filing which would have indicated consent to the creation of a month-to-month tenancy.

Furthermore, outside of the bankruptcy law issues raised above, Berger Foundation's position does not seem to be compatible with state law. Quite simply, the presumptions outlined in CAL. CIV. CODE § 1945 are analogous to contractual principles in common law. By remaining in possession of the property, and tendering a rental payment, a holdover tenant is making an offer; by accepting such tender, the landlord manifests his assent to such offer. Berger Foundation seems to be positing that the payment of any rent whatsoever, even a single dollar, subsequently accepted by the landlord, results in the extension of the lease terms on the original contractual terms.

Berger Foundation's argument, however, is inconsistent with fundamental contractual principles, for, in the case of a minimal rental payment, it cannot be said that either party has made an offer, accepted by the other party, to renew the original lease terms. At best, the landlord's implied acquiescence may be construed as an offer, yet the tenant's tender of a minimal rental payment can only be interpreted as a counter-offer, since such a tender would be materially inconsistent with the terms of the offer. If the landlord accepts this reduced tender, the terms agreed upon must be construed as those set forth in the counter-offer, a principle codified in CAL. CIV. PRO. § 2076:

United States Bankruptcy Court

Judge Mark Houle, Presiding
Courtroom 303 Calendar

Tuesday, February 26, 2019

Hearing Room 303

CONT... Visiting Nurse Association of the Inland Counties

Chapter 11

The person to whom a tender is made must, at the time, specify any objection he may have to the money, instrument, or property, or he must be deemed to have waived it; and if the objection be to the amount of money, the terms of the instrument, or the amount or kind of property, he must specify the amount, terms, or kind which he requires, or be precluded from objecting afterwards.

See also Taylor v. Taylor, 39 Cal. App. 2d 518, 521 (Cal. Ct. App. 1940) ("It is now settled by these cases that where the tenant tenders, and the landlord accepts, as full payment of the rent, a less monthly rental than that reserved in the lease, he cannot later recover the unpaid balance of the rent reserved.")

While the above principle, a principle of estoppel, is properly subject to the Court's consideration of equities, such consideration would simply not change the fact that a reduced monthly rental payment cannot be considered acquiescence to a renewal of the original contractual terms. In the absence of such mutual agreement to be bound to the original terms, there simply cannot be contractual privity.

Finally, the Court notes that the operation of CAL. CIV. CODE § 1945 is to create a rebuttable presumption that the lease has been extended. Assuming, arguendo, that the bankruptcy and contract law issues noted above were not present, it appears probable that such a presumption would be rebutted in the instant case. The Court is not aware of any action taken by Debtor that would support a conclusion that Debtor intended to renew the lease on the original terms, and Berger Foundation has made repeated statements which would be incompatible with the presumption in § 1945. For instance, in the instant motion Berger Foundation made the following statements, which are implicitly and explicitly more compatible with a holdover tenancy than a month-to-month tenancy:

- "Since the filing of this case, the Debtor has continued, and continues, to occupy the Premises, yet has failed to pay the rental obligation due and owing." [Dkt. No 194, pg. 2 and 4]

Chapter 11

- "Based on the fact that the Debtor remained as a holdover tenant, and pursuant to the terms of the Lease, the rental obligation increases to approximately $91,216.50 per month." [Dkt. No. 194, pg. 4 and 10] (emphasis added).

- "Here, the Debtor has made no payments while continuing to occupy the Premises." [Dkt. No. 194, pg. 6].

For the reasons outlined above, the Court concludes that the lease in question was expired as of the petition date because nothing in the record indicates that Berger Foundation provided consent to continued possession of the premises in the less than one-day period between the expiration of the lease and the instant bankruptcy filing. To the extent that Berger Foundation argues that postpetition acts retroactively revived the original lease terms, such retroactive revival would seem to be incompatible with City v. Hart, 175 Cal. App. 3d 92, 94 (Cal. Ct. App. 1985). Furthermore, because Debtor did not remotely act in accordance with the original lease terms, it cannot be said that Debtor actions constituted a renewal of those terms; if any lease was entered into postpetition, it must have been on substantially different terms, which would require notice and a hearing. Additionally, even if the statutory presumption of CAL. CIV. CODE § 1945 were applicable in the instant situation, the Court concludes that such presumption would likely be rebutted based on the fact that Debtor did not act in accordance with the original terms, and based on Berger Foundation's explicit characterization of Debtor as a holdover tenant.

II. 11 U.S.C. § 503

11 U.S.C. § 503(b)(1)(A) states:

Chapter 11

"An administrative rent claim under this standard is value 'under an objective worth standard that measures the fair and reasonable value of the lease.'" In re Pac.-Atl. Trading Co., 27 F.3d 401, 403 (9th Cir. 1994) (quoting In re Dant & Russell, Inc., 853 F.2d 700, 707 (9th Cir. 1988)). "The rent reserved in the lease is presumptive evidence of fair and reasonable value, but the presumption may be rebutted by demonstrating that the reasonable worth of the lease differs from the contract rate." In re Thompson, 788 F.2d 560, 563 (9th Cir. 1986). "Where the debtor or trustee only uses a portion of the lease property, however, he must pay an administrative expense only for that portion of the property." Id. at 562. The Court continued the previous hearing for the parties to provide evidence and argument regarding the objective value of the portion of the leased property utilized by Debtor.

Debtor first, very briefly, argues that the parties have implicitly agreed to a rental rate of $5,000 per month, and that that amount should be used in calculating Berger Foundation's administrative claim. Debtor appears to base this argument on the Court's tentative ruling for the hearing of December 18, 2018; specifically, Debtor refers to Taylor v. Taylor, 39 Cal. App. 2d 518, 521 (Cal. Ct. App. 1940). The Court rejects Debtor's approach. The relevant language in the Court's tentative ruling is used to illustrate that, in the context of a holdover tenancy, the original contractual terms do not necessarily control when the parties have acted in a manner which is materially inconsistent with those terms. Importantly, here, the $5,000 payment discussed by Debtor is not necessarily a "rental" payment, but is more accurately characterized as an "adequate protection" payment. Adequate protection payments may be in amounts substantially different than the actual amount due – for instant, an adequate protection payment may be interest only, or may attempt to estimate the depreciation of the estate, in order to protect the secured creditor's interest. Furthermore, it would not be equitable to apply the estoppel principle codified in CAL. CIV. PRO. § 2076 in the context of bankruptcy, where the lender does have the ability to reject the payment and, without constraint, exercise its traditional state law rights.

Debtor's primary argument is that the contract rate of the lease is an "inappropriate measure" of the objective worth of the lease because Debtor did not use the entirety of the leased premises. Specifically, Debtor argues that it only utilized 4,000 square feet of the leased premises. Berger Foundation, on the other hand, makes two arguments in response: (1) that the entirety of the premises were necessary for Debtor to maintain its CMS license; and (2) that Debtor actually utilized the majority of the premises. In support of its argument, Debtor has provided declarations attesting that Debtor only used 4,000 square feet, and that, after moving into a smaller space, Debtor did not lose any funding, or, presumably, its license. Berger Foundation has provided a declaration which includes the vague statement that Debtor "continued to utilize the majority of the Premises."

The record provided to the Court is, unfortunately, unclear and incapable of providing the necessary evidentiary framework for a precise mathematical calculation. First, there is conflicting evidence regarding whether Debtor used only 4,000 square feet. Second, and more importantly, the evidence seems to suggest, but is still unclear, that the Debtor required all the space to maintain its license (or at least thought it had to). Debtor's response states the following: "Although it is true the Debtor was concerned it might lose funding if it lost its physical address in Palm Desert by hastily vacating the Premises, a belief that the Debtor needed a physical address for funding does not trump the Ninth Circuit requirement that the Debtor actually use the entirety of the Premises. In fact, Berger does not cite to any authority for this proposition." [Dkt. No. 323, pg. 10, lines 6-10].

On the record before it, the Court concludes Debtor has failed to demonstrate it did not use the entirety of the premises. More specifically, the Court concludes that there are a variety of ways that a space can be "used," and that that term is not limited to physical occupancy by the tenant. While, again, the record before the Court is less than clear, it appears that Debtor represented that it had control over, and occupancy of, the entirety of the premises for purposes of its licensing and funding. As a result, it appears Debtor continued to "use" the leased premises for some purposes, even if such use did not necessarily amount to physical use of the entirety of the premises for normal business operations. Because Debtor has not established that the use of the full premises was not reasonably necessary to preserve the estate, the Court rejects Debtor's attempt to reduce the space used to 4,000 square foot. As a result, the Court concludes that Debtor has not rebutted the presumption that the contract rate represents the reasonable value of the leased premises used.

#2.00 CONT Notice of Trustee's Final Report and Applications for Compensation

From: 1/30/19

EH__

Docket 52

Tentative Ruling:

02/27/2019

In his declaration filed in support of the Trustee's Final Report and in support of the Application for Compensation of Levene, Neale, Bender, Yoo & Brill LLP ("LNBYB"), the Trustee indicates that he enlisted the assistance of LNBYB for investigation and administration of assets. In connection with their assistance, LNBYB filed an adversary complaint (the "Adversary") against Michael and Linda Rizzo to avoid and recover transfer of certain real property located in Carlsbad, CA (the "Kalpati Property"). The Trustee asserts that documents provided by the Defendants during the discovery period supported the Defendants' assertions that there was consideration on account of the transfer. The Trustee dismissed the Adversary on May 15, 2018.

On October 12, 2018, subsequent to LNBYB's filing of its Fee Application, the Debtors filed objection to LNBYB's fees. The Debtors assert in their Objection that had LNBYB conducted initial investigation of the claims underlying the Adversary, there would not have been a need to prepare and file the Adversary complaint. Debtors request that LNBYB's fees be reduced by $9,525 (the amounts expended in connection with the Adversary).

As to the Debtors' assertion that there was insufficient initial investigation done by LNBYB prior to preparing the Adversary, LNBYB responds that it had sufficient information to believe the transfer was voidable prior to preparation of the Adversary because the Debtors had been threatened with suit around the same time of the transfer at issue, and importantly, because "the Debtors received less than reasonably equivalent consideration for the Transfer as the Grant Deed evidencing the Transfer stated on its face: 'This is a bonafide gift and the grantor received nothing in return, R&T 11911.'" (Reply at 3). Additionally, the Court notes that Page 18 of the Fee Application indicates that "analysis of the transfer deeds re RP" occurred prior to the preparation of the actual complaint, and finally, the Trustee asserts that it took the Rizzo defendants over six months to provide a complete explanation concerning the transfer. (Pagay Decl. ¶6). In sum, the evidence supports a conclusion that LNBYB took reasonable steps to ensure that the value of the Kalpati Property was preserved for the benefit of creditors in the event that the transfer turned out to be avoidable.

The Court is inclined to find that Debtors' Opposition provides insufficient factual analysis to justify the requested reduction in LNBYB's fees. As indicated above and for the reasons stated in LNBYB's reply, the Court is inclined to overrule Debtors' objections.

The applications for compensation of Counsel for the Trustee has been set for hearing on the notice required by LBR 2016-1. Pursuant to the Trustee's Final Report and the Application of the associated professional, the following administrative claims will be allowed:

#3.00 Objection to Debtor's Claimed Homestead Exemption

EH__

Docket 72

Tentative Ruling:

02/27/2019

BACKGROUND

On September 15, 2017, an involuntary petition was filed by Creditor Cleo Sonnenfeld ("Petitioner") as to Joshua Cord Richardson ("Debtor"). By stipulation of the parties, the Order for relief was entered on November 8, 2017. Todd Frealy is the duly appointed chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee").

The filing was precipitated by a dispute between Debtor and Petitioner related to Petitioner's loaning Debtor $225,000 between April and July 2012 (the "Loan"). The money was loaned to permit Debtor to purchase real property located at 13710 Oakley Dr. in Moreno Valley, California ("Property"). Debtor allegedly promised Petitioner (who is Debtor's elderly uncle), a first priority lien on the Property to secure the Loan. Debtor allegedly never provided the Deed of Trust and subsequently defaulted on the Loan. Debtor subsequently also borrowed $65,000 from Val-Chris Investments, Inc. which loan was secured by a deed of trust; and $200,000 from the Samir and Mona Sanghani Living Trust 2014 which loan was secured by a deed of trust against the Property. The Petitioner filed an action against the Debtor in state court on January 11, 2017, which he removed to the bankruptcy court following the entry of the order for relief (the "Removed Action"). The Trustee subsequently settled the claims against the Debtor's estate via FRBP 9019. As part of the settlement, judgment was entered against the Debtor in the Removed Action and the Petitioner agreed to object to the exemption of the Debtor in the Property.

On February 6, 2019, Petitioner filed his objection to the Debtor's claimed homestead exemption (the "Objection"). No opposition was filed by the Debtor. The Trustee filed a notice of joinder on February 21, 2019.

Chapter 7

TENTATIVE RULING

The Petitioner's arguments that the constructive trust should supersede the Debtor's rights to a homestead exemption are persuasive. However, the petition date was in 2017 and Petitioner is filing an objection to the homestead exemption in 2019. The Objection does not squarely address the interaction of state law regarding the effect of a constructive trust with FRBP 4003(b) which requires that written objection to a claim of exemption be filed by an interested party within 30 days after the meeting of creditors is concluded. Here, there appears to have been no amendment to schedule C since that schedule was originally filed with the Court in 2017. As such, the deadline for filing this Objection appears to have lapsed.

The Court is inclined to continue the hearing to permit the Petitioner to address the FRBP 4003(b) deadline issue.

#4.00 CONT Motion to Avoid Judicial Lien with County of San Bernardino

From: 1/30/19

EH__

Docket 57

Tentative Ruling:

02/27/2019

Service: Proper

Opposition: None

The Debtor's motion was set for hearing because it appeared that the County of San Bernardino's judgment lien might have stemmed from the Western Riverside Council of Governments assessment. The Debtor has now provided evidence that the County's judgment lien is unrelated to the WRCOG assessment (which is an unavoidable statutory lien). Instead, the County's lien is based on a state court complaint for recovery of monies owed to the County by virtue of its provision of emergency services to the Debtor. Based on the Motion and supplemental pleadings, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion in accordance with the Debtor's attachment to her 522f Motion. The secured claim of the County shall be limited to $4,479.79. The County's lien is avoided as to any amount in excess of $4,479.79. The remainder of the County's lien shall be treated as a nonpriority unsecured claim to be paid pro rata with other nonpriority unsecured claims.

Also #6

EH__

Docket 29

Tentative Ruling:

02/27/2019

Service: Proper

Opposition: None

The Court has reviewed the authorities cited by the Debtor and agrees that under California law, the statutory lien of the Western Riverside Council of Governments constitutes a first priority lien on the Property regardless of the date of its recording. As such, when adding together the liens of the WRCOG and Pennymac, plus the Debtor's claimed exemption, the calculation under § 522(f) yields an amount in excess of the Property's fair market value. Thus, there is no equity for the liens of the HOA to attach to and these liens are avoidable.

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT the motions. The HOA's liens are avoided as impairing fully the Debtors' claimed exemption.

Docket 117

Tentative Ruling:

02/27/2019

BACKGROUND

On June 23, 2016, Liquidating Trustee Revere Financial Corporation ("Revere" or "Plaintiff") filed the instant adversary proceeding against non-debtor Don Cameron Burns ("Defendant" or "Burns"). Revere's complaint asserts generally that the Defendant was an insider of Douglas Jay Roger (the "Debtor"), that Defendant and Debtor were engaged in a scheme to hinder, delay and defraud the Debtor's creditors, by making transfers of Debtor's assets to Debtor-related entities, including to Defendant, for the purpose of avoiding those assets becoming subject to either the prepetition Receivership or to the Debtor's chapter 7 filing. Among the claims alleged by Revere are claims of intentional fraudulent transfers, constructive fraudulent transfers, preferential transfers, and unauthorized postpetition transfers of the Debtor's prepetition assets.

On November 7, 2018, the University Orthopaedic Group, Liberty Orthopedic Corporation, and OIC Medical Corporation (collectively, "Movants") filed a Motion for Protective Order. On the same date, the Debtor and interested party, Nicole Ebarb filed a Motion for Protective Order. Both the OIC and Debtor/Ebarb Motions were denied on standing grounds under FRCP 45. To cure this defect, OIC and Debtor/Ebarb had Don Burns file the instant Motion for Protective Order on February 13, 2018 ("Motion"). Revere filed opposition to the Motion on January 16, 2019 ("Opposition"). Burns filed no reply to the Opposition.

DISCUSSION

Rule 26(c)

Burns in his Motion asserts that unlike the OIC and Debtor/Ebarb Motions, the instant Motion is brought under FRCP 26. FRCP(c) provides, in pertinent part, that

A party or any person from whom discovery is sought may move for a protective order in the court where the action is pending -- or as an alternative on matters relating to a deposition, in the court for the district where the deposition will be taken. The motion must include a certification that the movant has in good faith conferred or attempted to confer with other affected parties in an effort to resolve the dispute without court action. The court may, for good cause, issue an order to protect a party or person from annoyance, embarrassment, oppression, or undue burden or expense

Fed. R. Civ. P. 26.

Revere opposes the Motion partially on the grounds that Burns has no standing. Chief among Revere's arguments is that Burns does not assert any personal interest in the subpoenaed materials. In support of this contention, Revere has expanded upon the cases cited by Burns to demonstrate that even under Rule 26(c), the party seeking a protective order as to a third-party subpoena must demonstrate a person interest that may be harmed if a protective order does not issue. Specifically, in In re REMEC, Inc. Sec. Litig., the District Court held that '[a] party can move for a protective order in regard to a subpoena issued to a non-party if it believes its own interests are jeopardized by discovery sought from a third party and has standing under Rule 26(c) to seek a protective order regarding subpoenas issued to non-parties which seek irrelevant information. No. CIV 04CV1948 JLS AJB, 2008 WL 2282647, at *1 (S.D. Cal. May 30, 2008)(emphasis added). Similarly, the District Court for the District of Columbia found that '[a] party generally lacks standing to challenge a subpoena issued to a third party absent a claim of privilege, proprietary interest, or personal interest in the subpoenaed matter... A motion to quash, or for a protective order, should generally be made by the person from whom the documents or things are requested.' Washington v. Thurgood Marshall Acad., 230 F.R.D. 18, 21 (D.D.C.), on reconsideration, 232 F.R.D. 6 (D.D.C. 2005)(internal citations omitted).

As to these citations which Burns initially proffered, Revere is correct. Burns has not asserted any personal interest implicated by the subpoenaed materials. Indeed, the Motion itself is not even supported by so much as a declaration.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, and for the other reasons stated in Revere's Opposition, the Court is inclined to DENY the Motion.

Adv#: 6:18-01020 SCE Federal Credit Union v. Durham

#29.00 CONT Motion for Default Judgment

From: 1/30/19

Also #30

EH__

Docket 39

Tentative Ruling:

02/27/2019

On October 30, 2017, Sara Durham ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On January 8, 2018, SCE Federal Credit Union ("Plaintiff") filed a non-dischargeability complaint against Debtor. On February 8, 2018, Debtor filed her answer to the complaint.

On January 8, 2018, SCE Federal Credit Union filed a complaint asserting claims under §§ 523(a)(1), (a)(2), and (a)(14) against Sarah Durham (the "Complaint"). On May 2, 2018, Plaintiff filed a motion to compel Debtor to respond to discovery. The Court granted the motion pursuant to an order entered June 6, 2018 (the "Production Order"). The Production Order further required Debtor to pay $1,013.50 to Plaintiff if she failed to produce documents. On September 26, 2018, Plaintiff filed a motion to strike the answer of Debtor and for entry of default. On October 29, 2018, the Court granted Plaintiff's Motion and issued an order striking the Debtor's Answer. The Clerk of Court then entered default on October 31, 2018, on request of Plaintiff.

On November 30, 2018, the Plaintiff filed its Motion for Default Judgment (the "Motion"). The initially set hearing was continued as a result of the federal government shutdown. On February 12, 2019, the Debtor filed a response to the Motion. The Debtor asserts, in pertinent part, that she has been receiving mental health treatment for depression, anxiety and stress since September 2017; that she relapsed into use of drugs and alcohol which resulted in her failure to respond to requests from Plaintiff and failure to attend hearings. Debtor further asserts that she has been in an inpatient treatment facility and was set to exit the facility on February 14, 2019. The Debtor requests additional time but does not specify what actions she will undertake to remedy the deficiencies that resulted in the striking of her Answer. The Debtor's response is also not filed under penalty of perjury and attaches no evidence to corroborate the Debtor's assertions.

DISCUSSION

The Court shall not rule on the Motion at this juncture. This Court requires a Memorandum of Points and Authorities in support of any request for entry of default judgment. In particular, where as here, the Plaintiff presumably seeks judgment on the three asserted claims in the Complaint it is insufficient to submit evidence to the Court with no analysis of how the evidence supports entry of judgment on all three claims. The Plaintiff provides no case authority and no analysis of the burdens and elements correspondent to each of the claims in the Complaint.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to CONTINUE the hearing on the Motion for Plaintiff to supplement the Motion with Points and Authorities. Plaintiff to provide the Court with an estimate of time for when the pleadings can be filed.

02/27/2019

BACKGROUND

On March 14, 2018, Richard M. Thomas, III & Raquel Young (collectively "Debtors"; individually "Richard III" and "Raquel") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On June 25, 2018, Debtors received a discharge.

On July 18, 2018, Trustee filed a complaint against Amy Williams and Richard M. Thomas, Jr. (collectively "Defendants"; individually "Amy" and "Richard Jr.") for (1) avoidance and recovery of fraudulent transfer; (2) declaratory relief as to ownership of real property; and (3) authorization to sell property owned in part by non-debtor. On August 22, 2018, default was entered against Debtors. On October 15, 2018, Trustee filed a motion for default judgment ("MDJ")

Trustee's complaint relates to certain real property located at 17232 Lakeview Ct., Fontana, CA 92336 (the "Property"). Trustee asserts that the Property was acquired by Richard III and Richard Jr. on September 9, 2014, and was transferred to Amy, for no consideration, thirty-seven days prior to the petition date. Trustee's complaint contains seven claims for relief: (a) avoidance of fraudulent transfer – actual intent; (b) three claims for avoidance of fraudulent transfer – constructive intent; (c) recovery of avoided transfer; (d) declaratory relief against Richard Jr.; and (e) approval for sale of real property owned, in part, by a non-debtor. Regarding the avoidance of a fraudulent transfer, Trustee's motion for default judgment appears to rest on the second claim for relief. Subsequent to the entry of default, Trustee and Defendant Amy stipulated to continuance of the hearing on the MDJ to permit the Defendant to seek to set aside the default.

On February 6, 2019, Defendant Amy filed a Motion to Set Aside Default ("MSA"). The Trustee opposes the MSA.

DISCUSSION

THE MOTION TO SET ASIDE

Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 55(c) (made applicable by Fed. R. Bankr.P. 7055) provides that "[f]or good cause shown the court may set aside an entry of default and, if a judgment by default has been entered, may likewise set it aside in accordance with Rule 60(b)". FRBP 7055.

To determine "good cause" under this Rule, a court must consider three factors:

- (1) whether the party seeking to set aside the default engaged in culpable conduct that led to the default;
- (2) whether it had no meritorious defense; or
- (3) whether reopening the default judgment would prejudice the other party.

United States v. Signed Personal Check No. 730 of Yubran S. Mesle, 615 F.3d 1085, 1091 (9th Cir. 2010) (citing Franchise Holding II v. Huntington Rests. Group, Inc., 375 F.3d 922, 925–26 (9th Cir. 2004), cert. denied 544 U.S. 949 (2005)). This test is disjunctive, such that a finding that any one of the factors is true is sufficient for the court to refuse to set aside the default. It is the same test used to determine whether a default judgment should be set aside under Civil Rule 60(b). Id. While a court has the discretion to refuse to set aside a default judgment for excusable neglect under Fed.R.Civ.P. 60(b) if it finds one of the enumerated factors present, it is not mandatory that it do so. See Brandt v. Am. Bankers Ins. Co. of Fla., 653 F.3d 1108 (9th Cir.2011). "Crucially, however, 'judgment by default is a drastic step appropriate only in extreme circumstances; a case should, whenever possible, be decided on the merits.' " Signed Personal Check No. 730 at 1091 (citing Falk v. Allen, 739 F.2d 461,

- (1) whether the party seeking to set aside the default engaged in culpable conduct that led to the default

First, the Court does not credit Amy's assertion that she did not understand that she was being sued when she received the Complaint. Nevertheless, Amy appeared at the September 26, 2018, Status Conference and was advised by the Court to seek assistance of counsel. Less than one month later, the Trustee filed a Motion for Default Judgement. Neither the Trustee nor Amy communicated with the other prior to the Trustee's filing of the Motion for Default Judgment. The Trustee certainly moved aggressively, but on balance, the Court is persuaded that the entry of the default was due to the Amy's inexcusable failure to take the initial summons and Complaint seriously.

- (2) whether it had no meritorious defense

The Defendant provided evidence that she paid $7,500 to the Debtor for the Subject Property with a promise to pay more after the Subject Property was flipped. The Trustee provides analysis of why the consideration and promise to pay constituted less than reasonably equivalent value. However, the Court finds that the payment is sufficiently more than a nominal amount of money which when coupled with the promise to pay at least indicates there is a possibility that Defendant Amy may have a defensible position.

- (3) whether reopening the default judgment would prejudice the other party.

As indicated in the Court's analysis regarding culpable conduct, Defendant Amy's inexcusable failure to read and take seriously the Complaint resulted in the default at issue. Her decision to take no action prior to the September Status Conference plus the additional time she took to find counsel after the Status Conference, coupled with her failure to communicate with Trustee regarding her efforts to find counsel, resulted in the filing of the instant MDJ. The Court finds that based on Defendant's unexcused delays, setting aside of the default should be conditioned on her payment of the Trustee's attorneys fees and costs incurred in connection with preparation of the MDJ.

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion. Specifically, the existence of a potentially meritorious defense coupled with the public policy favoring decisions on the merits warrants setting aside of the default, conditioned however on Defendant Amy likely paying some amount of the Trustee's fees and costs incurred within a reasonable period after the September 26, 2018 Status Conference, and associated with preparation of the MDJ.

Tentative Ruling:

Given the Court's ruling on the MSA, the MDJ is conditionally moot as to Defendant Amy. As to Richard Jr., the motion was served on Richard Jr. at the Property. The motion for default judgment, however, contends that Richard Jr. does not have any equitable ownership in the Property. While residency is not clear from the motion, the motion specifically states "[t]he Trustee believes that Defendant Thomas is not currently residing in the Subject Property." The Court also notes that at various points in the motion, Trustee has confused the identity of Richard III and Richard Jr. For instance, paragraph 2 of the declaration states: "The debtor Richard M. Thomas aka Richard M. Thomas, Jr. initiated this Bankruptcy case by filing a voluntary petition" when, in fact, it was Richard III, not Richard Jr., who filed bankruptcy. Given this apparent confusion, and Trustee's explicit contention that Richard Jr. is not residing at the Property, the Court will require further service on Richard Jr. or clear evidence establishing that service was proper.

Docket 172

Tentative Ruling:

1/31/19

BACKGROUND

On May 17, 2013, Rigoberto Baez ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On June 25, 2013, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed. Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was subsequently amended on two occasions.

On December 6, 2018, Trustee filed a notice of final cure mortgage payment. On December 27, 2018, Wells Fargo Bank N.A. filed a response, stating that Debtor was $11,338.57 delinquent in post-confirmation payments.

On December 28, 2018, Trustee filed a motion to deny discharge or, in the alternative, dismiss the case. Because Trustee has only provided legal analysis support dismissal of the case, not citing any legal basis to deny a discharge in this situation, the Court will consider the motion as a motion to dismiss. On January 16, 2019, Debtor filed his opposition. The opposition asserts that Debtor disputes Wells Fargo's accounting, and that Debtor will work with Wells Fargo to resolve the situation.

DISCUSSION

As noted by Trustee, 11 U.S.C. § 1307(c)(6) states:

(c) Except as provided in subsection (f) of this section, on request of a party in interest or the United States trustee and after notice and a hearing, the court may convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 7 of this title, or may dismiss a case under this chapter, whichever is in the best interests of creditors and the estate, for cause, including ---

(6) material default by the debtor with respect to a term of a confirmed plan

Trustee asserts that direct payments to Wells Fargo are payments under the plan, and the default in this case is material. Debtor has not provided any contrary legal authority on either point. The Court agrees with Trustee that direct payments to a lender are still considered payments under the plan. See, e.g., In Matter of Kessley, 655 Fed. Appx. 242, 244 (5th Cir. 2016); see also In re Evans, 543 B.R. 213 (Bankr. E.D. Va. 2016) (collecting cases). The Court also agrees that the post-confirmation default of $11,338.57 is material, assuming that that figure is accurate.

TENTATIVE RULING

Debtor to apprise the Court of the status of the post-confirmation delinquency and any efforts to resolve the situation with Wells Fargo. Absent resolution, the Court is inclined to GRANT the motion.

BACKGROUND:

On July 6, 2017, Jemill Humphrey ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On August 29, 2017, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On October 4, 2017, LVNV Funding, LLC ("LVNV") filed a proof of the claim in the amount of $980.29 ("Claim 11"). On November 14, 2017, Cavalry SPV I, LLC ("Cavalry") filed a proof of claim in the amount of $35,962.95 ("Claim 20"). On January 29, 2019, Debtor filed claim objections to Claim 11 and Claim 20. Debtor argues that both claims are barred by the statute of limitations.

APPLICABLE LAW:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See *Lundell v. (1) such claim is unenforceable against the debtor and property of the debtor, under any agreement or applicable law for a reason other than because such claim is contingent or unmatured;

CAL. CODE CIV. P. § 337 (2016) provides a statute of limitations of four years for debts founded on written contracts, book accounts, accounts stated based upon account in writing, "balance of mutual, open and current account in writing," and rescission of written contract. Once the statute of limitations has passed, the claim is unenforceable. See e.g., Guaranty Trust Co. v. United States, 304 U.S. 126 (1938).

Claim 11 is based on "credit card" debt. This appears to fit within the category established by CAL. CODE CIV. P. § 337. Therefore, the statute of limitations is four years. The proof of claim identifies a last transaction date of May 22, 2007. This is more than four years prior to the filing of the bankruptcy case, and, therefore, Claim 11 is unenforceable.

Claim 20 is based on a "consumer loan." This appears to fit within the category established by CAL. CODE CIV. P. § 337. Therefore, the statute of limitations is four years. The proof of claim identified a last transaction date of June 2, 2008. This is more than four years prior to the filing of the bankruptcy case, and, therefore, Claim 20 is unenforceable.

Furthermore, the Court deems failure to oppose to be consent to the relief requested pursuant to Local Rule 9013-(1)(h).

(1) such claim is unenforceable against the debtor and property of the debtor, under any agreement or applicable law for a reason other than because such claim is contingent or unmatured;

CAL. CODE CIV. P. § 337 (2016) provides a statute of limitations of four years for debts founded on written contracts, book accounts, accounts stated based upon account in writing, "balance of mutual, open and current account in writing," and rescission of written contract. Once the statute of limitations has passed, the claim is unenforceable. See e.g., Guaranty Trust Co. v. United States, 304 U.S. 126 (1938).

Claim 11 is based on "credit card" debt. This appears to fit within the category established by CAL. CODE CIV. P. § 337. Therefore, the statute of limitations is four years. The proof of claim identifies a last transaction date of May 22, 2007. This is more than four years prior to the filing of the bankruptcy case, and, therefore, Claim 11 is unenforceable.

Claim 20 is based on a "consumer loan." This appears to fit within the category established by CAL. CODE CIV. P. § 337. Therefore, the statute of limitations is four years. The proof of claim identified a last transaction date of June 2, 2008. This is more than four years prior to the filing of the bankruptcy case, and, therefore, Claim 20 is unenforceable.

Furthermore, the Court deems failure to oppose to be consent to the relief requested pursuant to Local Rule 9013-(1)(h).

BACKGROUND:

On September 18, 2018, Norberto & Araceli Jimenez ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On December 7, 2018, Debtors' Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

Bank of America, N.A. ("Creditor") has filed three claims in the instant case. The first claim was filed on October 12, 2018, and is in the amount of $18,471.67 ("Claim 5"). The second claim was filed on October 15, 2018, and is in the amount of $11,596.76 ("Claim 6"). The final claim was filed October 30, 2018, and is in the amount of $5,385.31 ("Claim 7"). On January 10, 2019, Debtors filed claim objections to all three claims.

The Court notes that Debtors previously filed a Chapter 13 petition on December 26, 2013, and that case was dismissed on December 27, 2016. Then, Debtors filed another Chapter 13 petition on July 5, 2018, and that case was dismissed on September 13, 2018.

APPLICABLE LAW:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

(1) such claim is unenforceable against the debtor and property of the debtor, under any agreement or applicable law for a reason other than because such claim is contingent or unmatured;

CAL. CODE CIV. Once the statute of limitations has passed, the claim is unenforceable. See e.g., Guaranty Trust Co. v. United States, 304 U.S. 126 (1938).

Claim 5 is based on "consumer credit card" debt. This appears to fit within the category established by CAL. CODE CIV. P. § 337. Therefore, the statute of limitations is four years. The proof of claim identifies a last transaction date of September 25, 2009. This is more than four years prior to the filing of the bankruptcy case, and, therefore, Claim 5 is unenforceable.

Claim 6 is based on "consumer credit card" debt. This appears to fit within the category established by CAL. CODE CIV. P. § 337. Therefore, the statute of limitations is four years. The proof of claim identifies a last transaction date of September 2, 2011.

This is more than four years prior to the filing of the bankruptcy case. Nevertheless, CAL. CODE CIV. P. § 356 states: "[w]hen the commencement of an action is stayed by injunction or statutory prohibition, the time of the continuance of the injunction or prohibition is not part of the time limited for the commencement of the action." This provision has the effect of excluding those time periods when Debtors had an active Chapter 13 case. The Court notes that, as of September 18, 2018, the petition date in the instant case, it appears that 3 years and 310 days had elapsed since the last transaction, after excluding those days during which the automatic stay was in effect. Therefore, the statute of limitations has not expired with regard to Claim 6.

Claim 7 is based on "consumer credit card" debt. This appears to fit within the category established by CAL. CODE CIV. P. § 337. Therefore, the statute of limitations is four years. The proof of claim identifies a last transaction date of April 2, 2013. For the reasons recited in the previous paragraph, the statute of limitations has not expired with regard to Claim 7.

BACKGROUND:

On September 18, 2018, Norberto & Araceli Jimenez ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On December 7, 2018, Debtors' Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

Bank of America, N.A. ("Creditor") has filed three claims in the instant case. The first claim was filed on October 12, 2018, and is in the amount of $18,471.67 ("Claim 5"). The second claim was filed on October 15, 2018, and is in the amount of $11,596.76 ("Claim 6"). The final claim was filed October 30, 2018, and is in the amount of $5,385.31 ("Claim 7"). On January 10, 2019, Debtors filed claim objections to all three claims.

The Court notes that Debtors previously filed a Chapter 13 petition on December 26, 2013, and that case was dismissed on December 27, 2016. Then, Debtors filed another Chapter 13 petition on July 5, 2018, and that case was dismissed on September 13, 2018.

APPLICABLE LAW:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

Chapter 13

ANALYSIS:

11 U.S.C. § 502(b)(1) (2005) states:

(b) Except as provided in subsections (e)(2), (f), (g), (h) and (i) of this section, if such objection to a claim is made, the court, after notice and a hearing, shall determine the amount of such claim in lawful currency of the United States as of the date of the filing of the petition, and shall allow such claim in such amount, except to the extent that—

(1) such claim is unenforceable against the debtor and property of the debtor, under any agreement or applicable law for a reason other than because such claim is contingent or unmatured;

CAL. CODE CIV. P. § 337 (2016) provides a statute of limitations of four years for debts founded on written contracts, book accounts, accounts stated based upon account in writing, "balance of mutual, open and current account in writing," and rescission of written contract. Once the statute of limitations has passed, the claim is unenforceable. See e.g., Guaranty Trust Co. v. United States, 304 U.S. 126 (1938).

Claim 5 is based on "consumer credit card" debt. This appears to fit within the category established by CAL. CODE CIV. P. § 337. Therefore, the statute of limitations is four years. The proof of claim identifies a last transaction date of September 25, 2009. This is more than four years prior to the filing of the bankruptcy case, and, therefore, Claim 5 is unenforceable.

Claim 6 is based on "consumer credit card" debt. This appears to fit within the category established by CAL. CODE CIV. P. § 337. Therefore, the statute of limitations is four years. The proof of claim identifies a last transaction date of September 2, 2011.

Hearing Room 303

11:00 AM

This is more than four years prior to the filing of the bankruptcy case. Nevertheless, CAL. CODE CIV. P. § 356 states: "[w]hen the commencement of an action is stayed by injunction or statutory prohibition, the time of the continuance of the injunction or prohibition is not part of the time limited for the commencement of the action." This provision has the effect of excluding those time periods when Debtors had an active Chapter 13 case. The Court notes that, as of September 18, 2018, the petition date in the instant case, it appears that 3 years and 310 days had elapsed since the last transaction, after excluding those days during which the automatic stay was in effect. Therefore, the statute of limitations has not expired with regard to Claim 6.

Claim 7 is based on "consumer credit card" debt. This appears to fit within the category established by CAL. CODE CIV. P. § 337. Therefore, the statute of limitations is four years. The proof of claim identifies a last transaction date of April 2, 2013. For the reasons recited in the previous paragraph, the statute of limitations has not expired with regard to Claim 7.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion to the extent of DISALLOWING Claim 5 in its entirety and DENY the motion for disallowance of Claim 6 and Claim 7.

BACKGROUND

On January 14, 2019, Miguel & Holly Padilla ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. Among the assets of the estate are a 2015 Dodge Journey (the "Dodge") and a 2014 Ram 1500 (the "Ram"). Santander Consumer USA Inc. d/b/a Chrysler Capital ("Creditor") holds a security interest in both the Dodge and the Ram. On January 29, 2019, Creditor filed a proof of claim in the amount of $29,088.26, identifying $19,225 as secured by the Ram. On January 31, 2019, Creditor filed an additional proof of claim in the amount of $20,147.58, identifying $13,025 as secured by the Dodge.

On February 6, 2019, Debtors filed motions to value regarding both the Dodge and the Ram. Debtors assert that the Dodge should be valued at $11,219 and that the Ram should be valued at $17,476.

Chapter 13

One of the benefits of filing a Chapter 13 bankruptcy is that under § 506(a) the debtor can bifurcate a secured, unavoidable debt, with one part representing the amount of the value of the collateral, and the deficiency being treated as an unsecured claim. See In re Penrod, 636 F.3d 1175, 1177 (9th Cir. 2011).

Presently the Ninth Circuit has not established a uniform method for valuations. See In re Ayres, 2010 WL 652825 at *5 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2010) (collecting cases detailing vehicle valuation and describing the state of the law in the Ninth Circuit). In In re Morales, however, which this Court has previously cited with approval, it was determined that value should be calculated "by adjusting the Kelley Blue Book or N.A.D.A. Guide retail value for a like vehicle by a reasonable amount in light of the evidence presented regarding the condition of the vehicle or any other relevant factors." In re Morales, 387 B.R. 36, 45 (Bankr.C.D.Cal.2008).

According to the court in In re Morales, the retail values, and not the private party values, are the appropriate starting points because the text of § 506(a)(2) refers to "the price a retail merchant would charge" and does not refer to the price a private party would charge. Morales at 46.

Here, Debtor has provided a Kelly Blue Book report identifying the private party values of the Dodge and the Ram. Pursuant to the above discussion, the Court requires evidence of the Property's retail value, and adequate evidence to justify any deviations therefrom.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to CONTINUE the hearings for supplemental evidence.

Chapter 13

#65.00 Motion for Setting Property Value Collateral Held by Northrop Grumman Federal Credit Union

EH__

Docket 12

Tentative Ruling:

2/28/19

BACKGROUND

On January 18, 2019, Abidan & Cindy Aceves ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. Among the assets of the estate is a 2006 Chevrolet Silverado (the "Property"). Northrop Grumman Federal Credit Union ("Creditor") holds a security interest in the Property. On January 28, 2019, Creditor filed a proof of claim in the amount of $16,229.83, identifying $10,507 as secured by the Property.

On January 31, 2019, Debtors filed a motion to value the Property. Debtors assert that the Property should be valued at $7,856.

DISCUSSION

One of the benefits of filing a Chapter 13 bankruptcy is that under § 506(a) the debtor can bifurcate a secured, unavoidable debt, with one part representing the amount of the value of the collateral, and the deficiency being treated as an unsecured claim. See In re Penrod, 636 F.3d 1175, 1177 (9th Cir. 2011).

CONT... Abidan Aceves and Cindy Aceves

Chapter 13

Presently the Ninth Circuit has not established a uniform method for valuations. See In re Ayres, 2010 WL 652825 at *5 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2010) (collecting cases detailing vehicle valuation and describing the state of the law in the Ninth Circuit). In In re Morales, however, which this Court has previously cited with approval, it was determined that value should be calculated "by adjusting the Kelley Blue Book or N.A.D.A. Guide retail value for a like vehicle by a reasonable amount in light of the evidence presented regarding the condition of the vehicle or any other relevant factors." In re Morales, 387 B.R. 36, 45 (Bankr.C.D.Cal.2008).

According to the court in In re Morales, the retail values, and not the private party values, are the appropriate starting points because the text of § 506(a)(2) refers to "the price a retail merchant would charge" and does not refer to the price a private party would charge. Morales at 46.

Here, Debtor has provided a Kelly Blue Book report identifying the private party values of the Dodge and the Ram. Pursuant to the above discussion, the Court requires evidence of the Property's retail value, and adequate evidence to justify any deviations therefrom.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to CONTINUE the hearings for supplemental evidence.

APPEARANCES REQUIRED.

#4.00 Motion for relief from the automatic stay with supporting declarations REAL PROPERTY RE: 79706 Parkway Esplanade South, La Quinta, CA 92253

MOVANT: CHARLES W. MORGAN REVOCABLE LIVING TRUST

EH ____

Docket 46

Tentative Ruling:

03/05/2019

Service: Proper

Opposition: Yes

Reply: Yes

The Debtor opposes the Motion on the grounds that (1) the Motion does not provide evidence of post-petition arrears and does not provide evidence of attorney fees and costs; (2) the Debtor has equity in the Property; and (3) the attorneys fees and costs are unreasonable.

In reply, the Movant asserts that (1) the declaration of the James Morgan as custodian records is evidence of the arrears; (2) § 362(d)(2) and the related issue of equity in the Property are not a basis for relief from stay by the Movant; and (3) Movant has provided in the Reply a breakdown of the costs incurred in connection with the Debtor's failure to make postpetition payments.

Having reviewed the pleadings, the Court agrees with the authorities and arguments of Movant. The postpetition arrears are sufficiently evidenced in the Motion and the failure to make those postpetition payments are cause for lifting of the stay under § 362(d)(1). The Debtor has failed to dispute the alleged failure to make postpetition payments and in fact, Debtor concedes he is in default. The issue regarding whether costs incurred by Movant are reasonable is not actually before this Court. A finding that the postpetition payments were not made suffices to grant the Motion.

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion, including the

MOVANT: FREEDOM MORTGAGE CORPORATION

Docket 34

Tentative Ruling:

03/05/2019
Service: Proper
Opposition: Yes

The Debtor asserts more payments were made than were accounted for by the Movant. Certainly, a comparison of the Debtor's Supplement, the Movant's Declaration and Exhibit 4 indicate that at least one $2,300 payment was made after the Movant received the $2,369.11 payment in October. Much of the confusion is caused by the irregularity of the date the payments are sent out by the Debtors. The due date is the 18th of each month. However, payments are sent by the Debtors alternately at the beginning, middle and end of months. Nevertheless, based on the Debtor's evidence it appears that when the Motion was filed on February 6, 2019, Debtors would only have been late on their January payment.

MOVANT: MIDFIRST BANK

Docket 41

Tentative Ruling:

03/05/2019
Service: Proper
Opposition: Yes

The Debtor's opposition offers evidence that the Debtor fell behind on her mortgage payments due to costs incurred as a result of a legal custody dispute. Debtor asserts that the dispute has now been resolved. Debtor further asserts that she expects a tax refund, additional income from a part time job, and increased child support payments which will enable her to come current within 90 days. While stay relief is warranted, the Court is inclined to enter an APO to permit the Debtor an opportunity to cure the post-petition arrears and to protect Movant from the expense of having to file additional motions for relief from stay. Parties to update the Court on APO discussions.

MOVANT: DAVID AND MARY CELINE SANDOVAL

EH__

Docket 20

Tentative Ruling:

03/05/2019

Service: Proper

Opposition: Yes

As a threshold matter, the Debtors indicated that the Motion was served on regular notice. It was not. The Motion was filed on February 13, 2019. Regular notice on a Motion filed on that date would not have run until March 6, 2019. The opposition was then filed on February 25, 2019, by Secured Creditor Wilmington Trust ("Creditor").

Creditor asserts that the Debtors' prior case was dismissed due to the Debtors' inability to perform as to the terms of the confirmed plan. The dismissal was precipitated by Wilmington Trust's notification to the Trustee that the Debtors were not current on their post-petition payments which eventually formed the basis for the dismissal of the prior case.

The presumption that the case was not filed in good faith arises due to the failure to perform the terms of the confirmed plan in their prior case. To overcome the presumption, the Debtors assert they now have sufficient income to fund a feasible plan because (1) Debtor Wife has experienced an increase in income of $700 per month, (2) Debtor Wife's parents are contributing $1,200 per month to the Debtors; (3) Debtors are no longer supporting their children because they have now graduated from college. The Motion is supported only by the declaration of the Debtor.

Chapter 13

Creditor in its opposition asserts that the statements regarding the Debtors' family contributions are unsupported by any evidence and the Court agrees. Section 362(c)(3) explicitly requires clear and convincing evidence to overcome the presumption that the case was not filed in good faith. In reply, the Debtors have provided a declaration from the Debtors' family members asserting that they will contribute $1,200 monthly for 60 months towards the Debtors' plan. The Declaration further indicates that the Robert and Ann Sroufe are currently residing with the Debtors.

Based on the supplemental evidence, the Court is inclined to find that the Debtors have sufficiently improved their financial condition to warrant a finding that by clear and convincing evidence the presumption under § 362(c)(3) has been overcome. However, the Court believes a stay-current APO is warranted under the circumstances.

MOVANT: DAVID VOGEL

EH__

Docket 12

Tentative Ruling:

03/05/2019

The prior case was dismissed at the confirmation hearing. The Trustee indicated on the record that the case should be dismissed based on the following: (1) No funds were tendered, (2) the Debtor did not appear at the 341(a) Meeting of Creditors, (3) no declaration regarding postpetition mortgage payments was filed, and (4) Debtor did not provide Trustee with addresses for conduit payments. The Trustee requested a straight dismissal.

To address the dismissal of the prior case, Debtor's motion asserts that he did not have sufficient funds to make both the initial plan payment and the postpetition mortgage payment at the same time. Debtor asserts in his declaration that this time around he has sufficient funds on hand to make the initial required payments.

The Debtor's declaration is consistent with the record of the dismissal at the confirmation hearing. Here, the presumption that the case was not filed in good faith does not arise and Debtor has provided sufficient evidence to warrant continuance of the stay.

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to GRANT the Motion continuing the automatic stay as to AmeriHome Mortgage only as it was the only creditor served.

MARCH 5, 2019

BACKGROUND

On March 27, 2018, G Hurtado Construction, Inc. ("Debtor") filed its petition for chapter 11 relief. The bankruptcy was precipitated by a wage and hour lawsuit brought by two and possibly more former employees. Catana and Faustino v. G Hurtado Construction, Inc. On May 9, 2018, the Debtor issued a Notice of Bar Date indicating that the Court set a deadline of July 13, 2018 ("Bar Date"), for creditors to file proofs of claims against the Debtor's estate.

On July 16, 2018, the following claims were filed: Claim #9 by Donahoo & Associates, PC in the amount of $134,475.02, Claim #10 by Juan Catano in the amount of $230,081.64, Claim #11 by Faustino Magana in the amount of $101,240.04 (collectively, "Litigation Claimants")

On August 29, 2018, the Litigation Claimants filed a motion to allow their late-filed claims. On October 10, 2018, the Court granted the motion and entered its order allowing Claims 9, 10, and 11 (the "Disputed Claims"). Following the allowance of the Disputed Claims, the Debtor filed an amended disclosure statement and plan to provide for treatment of the Disputed Claims on October 9, 2018. Following comments from the Court regarding the Debtor's First Amended Disclosure Statement, the Debtor filed the Second Amended Disclosure Statement and Plan on November 16, 2018. On November 27, 2018, the Litigation Claimants filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay ("RFS Motion") seeking to have the Disputed Claims determined via an arbitration proceeding which had been commenced prepetition. On December 3, 2018, the Debtor filed a complaint against the Litigation Claimants objecting to their claims (the "Objection"). On December 18, 2018, a hearing was held at which the Court approved the Debtor's Second Amended DS and granted in part and denied in part the RFS Motion. On January 2, 2019, the Court entered its Order approving the Second Amended DS and providing deadlines for balloting and objections (the "Order"). The Order required that objections to the plan be filed no later than February 19, 2019, and that completed ballots were due returned by January 22, 2019. On January 3, 2019, the Litigation Claimants and Debtor stipulated to holding the Objection proceeding in abeyance pending the conclusion of the arbitration. The Court entered its order approving the stipulation on February 4, 2019. On February 4, 2019, the Debtor filed its Brief in Support of Confirmation (the "Brief"). The Brief indicated, in pertinent part, that Class 6 members, the Class designated for treatment of the Litigation Claimants' Disputed Claims were not eligible to vote under § 1126 based on the filing of the Objection.

On February 12, 2019, a Motion to Temporarily Allow the Disputed Claims under FRBP 3018(a) followed (the "Motion"). Opposition to the Motion was filed on February 19, 2019 ("Opposition"), and a reply to the Opposition was filed on February 26, 2019 ("Reply").

DISCUSSION

Section 1126(a) of the Bankruptcy Code provides that only holders of allowed claims or interests may vote to accept or reject a plan. Section 502(a) of the Bankruptcy Code provides that a claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. A creditor whose claim is objected to "is therefore disenfranchised from voting on the plan unless the objection is adjudicated prior to plan voting, or a mechanism, such as temporary allowance, is provided for." In re Stone Hedge Props. v. Phoenix Capital Corp. (In re Stone Hedge Props.), 191 B.R. 59, 63 (Bankr.M.D.Pa.1995). The mechanism for temporary allowance is provided by Bankruptcy Rule 3018. The policy behind temporary allowance is to prevent possible abuse by plan proponents who might ensure acceptance of a plan by filing last minute objections to the claims of dissenting creditors. In re Armstrong, 294 B.R. 344 (10th Cir.BAP2003), aff'd 97 Fed. Appx. 285 (10th Cir.2004). The ultimate determination of whether to temporarily allow a claim for voting purposes is within the Court's sound discretion. Id.; In re Ralph Lauren Womenswear, Inc., 197 B.R. 771, 775 (Bankr.S.D.N.Y.1996). Like estimation under section 502, neither the Bankruptcy Code nor the Bankruptcy Rules provide guidance on a methodology to be used but commend the determination to the court's discretion. In re Pac. Sunwear of California, Inc., 2016 WL 4250681, at *3 (Bankr. D. Del. Aug. 8, 2016) (internal citations omitted). Courts tend to look at the debtor's schedules, the proof of claim, and the objection filed to the proof of claim. Id. At least one court has suggested that a determination under Rule 3018 "should ensure that the voting power is commensurate with the creditor's economic interests in the case." Id.

Chapter 11

As a threshold matter, FRBP 3018 is silent regarding the appropriate deadline for parties to bring a motion to temporarily allow a claim for purposes of voting. In In re M. Long Arabians, the trial court had indicated that since a creditor did not seek temporary allowance of its claim, pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 3018(a)(2), prior to the confirmation hearing, that creditor's claim was deemed not allowed under Section 502(a). 103 B.R. 211, 214 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1989). On appeal, the BAP affirmed the trial court's finding and stated that the creditor could not have voted on the Plan unless it sought a timely allowance of its claims under Bankruptcy Rule 3018. Id. at 215 (internal citations omitted). Similarly, in Jacksonville Airport, Inc. v. Michkeldel, Inc., the Fourth Circuit considered the issue of timing where a motion for temporary allowance of a claim was not filed until after the deadline for voting on the plan. 434 F.3d 729, 732 (4th Cir. 2006). In that case, the Fourth Circuit affirmed the trial court's order denying a motion to reconsider the confirmation order finding that the creditor did not have a right to vote on the debtor's plan, and implicitly finding that the motion for temporary allowance must be filed prior to the deadline for voting. See id.

For their part, the Litigation Claimants have cited to cases outside the Ninth Circuit in which trial court judges focused heavily on the equities facing the creditors seeking temporary allowance rather than any strict timelines. Debtor, however, responds that Stone Hedge Properties v. Phoenix Capital Corp. (In re Stone Hedge Properties), 191 B.R. 59 (Bankr. M.D. Pa. 1995) ("Stone Hedge") and In re Goldstein, 114 BR 430, 434 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 1990) both dealt with situations where the creditors were being ambushed by the debtors.

Here, the Court is simply not persuaded that the Litigation Claimants' position is defensible. As an aside, the Court was indulgent when the Litigations Claimants filed their Disputed Claims after the bar date and, in that situation, found sufficient cause existed to excuse the failure to timely file the claims. However, where here, the Litigation Claimants have actively participated in objecting to their treatment by the Debtor from the inception of the case and where they filed oppositions to Debtor's proposed disclosure statements and a RFS Motion, there is no apparent basis to excuse the Litigation Claimants from their responsibility to have apprised themselves of their own duties with respect to voting – a vote that they undoubtedly always intended to exercise. Further, unlike the cases cited by the Litigation Claimants, the Objection was filed in early December and it was the Litigations Claimants' responsibility to apprise themselves of the consequences engendered by the filing of the Objection. Having considered the equities presented by both sides and the legal authorities, the Court is persuaded that (1) absent evidence that a debtor's objection was filed so close in time to the confirmation hearing such that the effect would have been to ambush the creditor, a motion to temporarily allow a claim must be filed and heard prior to the deadline to cast a vote; and (2) here, the record indicates that the

"[I]t is clear that the bankruptcy court has broad discretion over the appointment of professionals." In re Seeburg Prods. Corp., 215 B.R. 175, 178 (Bankr. N.D. Ill. 1997). A violation of the rules of professional responsibility can be sufficient reason to disqualify a proposed counsel from being employed in a case. See, e.g., In re Universal Bldg. Prods., 486 B.R. 650, 661 (Bankr. D. Del. 2010) (collecting cases).

"An attorney retained by the trustee, or debtor in possession, who assists with the collection of the assets of the estate, must abide by the highest professional standards." In re Wilde Horse Enters., Inc., 136 B.R. 830, 840 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1991) "Not honesty alone, but the punctilio of an honor the most sensitive, is the standard of behavior." Meinhard v. Salmon, 164 N.E. 545, 546 (N.Y. 1928).

and creditors the relationship between the buyer and seller, as well as the circumstances under which the negotiations have taken place, any marketing efforts, and the factual basis upon which the debtor determined that the price was reasonable." In re Wilde Horse Enters., Inc., 136 B.R. at 842. In re Wilde Horse Enters., Inc., continued on to state:

The Court finds from the evidence before it that Ms. Bernstein either (1) knew of the collusive and undisclosed relationships in this case and knowingly participated in misleading the Court and creditors; or (2) didn't know of the collusive and undisclosed relationships in this case, and is therefore wholly incompetent because she insisted on remaining ignorant of the facts and law applicable to her case notwithstanding the numerous indicia of questionable conduct along the way. Whether Ms. Bernstein's acts were wrongful, willfully incompetent or grossly negligent is not important to the determination here. Under either case, the Court concludes her fees must be denied in their entirety [sic], she should not be permitted to represent debtors in possession before any bankruptcy court, and her conduct in this case must be referred to the State Bar of California for disciplinary proceedings.

Id. at 847.

In the instant case, it appears Applicant failed to act with honesty and candor in relation to the sale of substantially all of the estate's assets. Specifically, notwithstanding Applicant's duty to the Court, Applicant failed to disclose a material side deal which was pertinent to the terms of the sale under review, and Applicant even stated at the hearing it was not Applicant's job to make such disclosure. Applicant's conduct in this case has fallen short of complying with the rules of professional conduct and has obstructed the Court's review of the primary matter in this case, the sale of substantially all of Debtor's assets. Given that such conduct is clearly adequate to disallow Applicant's fees in their entirety, the Court is inclined to find that authorizing the employment of Applicant would be a frivolous exercise.

#17.00 Motion to Vacate Discharge Order To Approve Reaffirmation Agreement

EH__

Docket 20

Tentative Ruling:

3/13/2019

BACKGROUND

On June 15, 2018, Bruce & Geraldine Bestul ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On September 24, 2018, Debtors received a discharge, and their case was closed the next day.

On October 31, 2018, Debtors filed a motion to reopen case in order to amend their schedules. On November 26, 2018, Debtors' case was reopened. Debtors never filed amended schedules but, one day before their case was set to be closed again, Debtors filed a motion to vacate discharge to approve reaffirmation agreement. On February 13, 2019, the Court set the matter for hearing.

DISCUSSION

As noted by the Court in its order setting hearing, the clear majority of the caselaw holds that a debtor cannot vacate a discharge to enter into a reaffirmation agreement. See, e.g., In re Judson, 586 B.R. 771, 773 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2018); In re Mardy, 2011 WL 917545 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 2011); In re Wilhelm, 369 B.R. 882 (Bankr. M.D.N.C. 2007); In re Rigal, 254 B.R. 145, 147-48 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 2000). The caselaw cited by Debtors in their motion does not indicate otherwise. Disch v. Rasmussen, 417 F.3d 769 (7th Cir. 2005) does not deal with reaffirmation agreements at all, and In re Solomon, 15 B.R. 105 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 1981) has been generally disagreed with by subsequent caselaw.

The Court provided Debtors with an opportunity to file a supplemental brief in support of their request. Debtors have not filed any supplemental brief. Therefore, the Court is inclined to hold, as a matter of law, that Debtors are not permitted to vacate their discharge to enter into a reaffirmation agreement.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion.

Docket 124

Tentative Ruling:

3/13/19

BACKGROUND

On October 17, 2012, Sergio & Maria Reyes ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On February 13, 2013, Debtors' Chapter 13 plan was confirmed. When Debtors reached the end of their Chapter 13 plan, the plan had not been completed according to its terms, and the Chapter 13 trustee filed a motion to dismiss if the payoff amount of $4,137 was not received. On October 6, 2017, one week after the filing of the motion to dismiss, Debtors filed a notice of conversion to Chapter 7. On November 28, 2017, Debtors filed a motion to convert back to Chapter 13; that motion was denied on December 27, 2017.

On June 6, 2018, the Court approved a compromise between Debtors and the Chapter 7 Trustee. Pursuant to the terms of the compromise, Debtors were to purchase the estate's interest in certain property, including certain real property located at 600 N. Hollow Ave., West Covina, CA 91790 (the "Property"), for the amount of $108,500, payable within ninety days of the entry of the order. Ultimately, Debtors did not tender the settlement payment.

Chapter 7

On February 20, 2019, Trustee filed a motion for an order: (1) authorizing sale of estate' right, title and interest in real property free and clear of liens; (2) approving overbid procedures; (3) approving payment of real estate commissions; and (4) finding purchaser is a good faith purchaser. Trustee proposes to sell the property to Trung Le (the "Purchaser") for $525,000. Proposed payments from the proceeds include: (1) $42,000 for closing costs; and (2) $275,472.11 for World Savings (i.e. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A.), leaving $207,527.89 for the bankruptcy estate. On February 25, 2019, Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., filed a conditional non-opposition, requesting certain language be included in the sale order.

DISCUSSION

I. Sale of Estate Property

11 U.S.C. § 363(b)(1) allows a trustee to sell property of the estate outside of the ordinary course, after notice and a hearing. A sale pursuant to § 363(b) requires a demonstration that the sale has a valid business justification. In re 240 North Brand Partners, Ltd., 200 B.R. 653, 659 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1996). "In approving any sale outside the ordinary course of business, the court must not only articulate a sufficient business reason for the sale, it must further find it is in the best interest of the estate, i.e. it is fair and reasonable, that it has been given adequate marketing, that it has been negotiated and proposed in good faith, that the purchaser is proceeding in good faith, and that it is an "arms-length" transaction." In re Wilde Horse Enters., Inc., 136 B.R. 830, 841 (Bankr. C.D. Cal.).

The motion contains some evidence of the Property's marketing. Given the fact that the sale appears to be a good faith, arms-length transaction, and the fact that it appears that the sale will result in a surplus estate, the Court concludes that Trustee has articulated an adequate business reason for the sale.

II. Sale Free & Clear of Liens

11 U.S.C. § 363(f) (2010) states:

(f) The trustee may sell property under subsection (b) or (c) of this section free and clear of any interest in such property of an entity other than the estate, only if-

- (1) applicable nonbankruptcy law permits sale of such property free and clear of such interest;
- (2) such entity consents;
- (3) such interest is a lien and the price at which such property is to be sold is greater than the aggregate value of all liens on such property;
- (4) such interest is in bona fide dispute; or
- (5) such entity could be compelled, in a legal or equitable proceeding, to accept a money satisfaction of such interest.

Here, the only lien on the Property is the first mortgage originally held by World Savings Bank, FSB, now held by Wells Fargo Bank, N.A.. The amount of this lien, $275,472.11, is far less than the sale price of the Property and, therefore, § 363(f)(3) permits Trustee to sell the Property free and clear of liens.

III. 14-Day Stay

FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 6004(h) states: "An order authorizing the use, sale, or lease of property other than cash collateral is stayed until the expiration of 14 days after entry of the order, unless the court orders otherwise." The Court deems the absence of objections to be consent to the relief requested, pursuant to Local Rule 9013-(1)(h), and, therefore, will waive the stay of Rule 6004(h).

IV. Miscellaneous Provisions

The Court has reviewed the remainder of Trustee's miscellaneous requests. The Court has reviewed the proposed overbidding procedures and finds such procedures to be reasonable. The Court has reviewed the requested Broker compensation of 6% of the sale price (totaling $31,500) and finds such compensation to be reasonable and customary. The Court has reviewed Trustee's proposed distribution of sale proceeds, and the Court finds that such distribution is reasonable and proper.

Finally, the Court has reviewed the declaration of the Purchaser, and finds the declarations sufficient for a determination that Purchaser is a good faith purchaser pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 363 (m).

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion in its entirety. Specifically, the Court is inclined to authorize the sale of the Property free and clear of liens, approve the overbid procedures, approve the Broker's compensation, determine that the Purchasers are good faith purchasers, waive the 14-day stay under Rule 6004(h), and authorize the proposed payments from the sale proceeds. Docket 22

Tentative Ruling:

3/13/19

BACKGROUND

On July 24, 2012, Joanna Canfield ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On November 5, 2012, Debtor received a discharge, and the case was subsequently closed.

On March 13, 2019, Debtor filed a motion to reopen case in order to file a motion to avoid lien. No opposition to the motion has been received by the Court.

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 350(b) states: "A case may be reopened in the court in which such case was closed to administer assets, to accord relief to the debtor, or for other cause." Debtor's motion indicates that she wishes to reopen the case to attempt to file a motion to avoid lien.

Motions to reopen bankruptcy cases "should be routinely granted." In re Dodge, 138

B.R. 602, 605 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. 1992). This Court routinely grants motions to reopen to allow debtors to file motions to avoid liens, as the avoidance of such lien could be characterized as affording relief to the debtor.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion and REOPEN the case for a period of ninety days.

BACKGROUND

On April 6, 2016, Tarek and Gabriela Ayoub ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. On April 12, 2016, Debtors' case was dismissed for failure to file initial petition documents. On April 13, 2016, Debtors filed a motion to vacate dismissal; that motion was granted on April 15, 2016. On May 4, 2016, Debtors' case was again dismissed for failure to file schedules, statements, and/or plan. Two days later, Debtors filed a second motion to vacate dismissal; on May 26, 2016, the second motion to vacate dismissal was granted. On October 27, 2016, the Debtors moved to convert their case to a case under chapter 7. The case was converted on October 31, 2016. Among the creditors of the Debtors' estate are Keith Candee and Original Thurber Ranch, LLC (collectively, the "Candee Parties" or "Plaintiffs").

On August 26, 2016, the Candee Parties filed a complaint to determine dischargeability of debt pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6) ("Complaint"). The Complaint generally alleges that the Candee Parties held validly recorded easements which burdened the Debtors' property. The Complaint further alleges that despite their knowledge of the validity of the easements, the Debtors interfered with the Candee Parties' use of the easements, trespassed on the Plaintiffs' property, committed unlawful acts of violence, threatened the Plaintiffs, and placed a fence to attempt to exercise domain over the disputed property.

Chapter 7

On June 10, 2015, the Superior Court of California in the County of Riverside (the "State Court") rendered Judgment ("Judgment") in favor of the Plaintiffs in the state court action entitled Gabriela Ayoub v. Keith H. Candee and related cross-action, Case No. MCC1301436 (the "State Court Action"). The State Court's Judgment was supported by a statement of decision setting forth its factual findings and conclusions of law (the "Decision"). The Decision makes clear that the grounds for damages was based on findings that the Debtors committed intentional torts of conversion, trespass, and private nuisance interfering with easements.

On November 21, 2018, the Plaintiffs filed a motion for summary judgment. The Debtors filed their response on December 19, 2018. On January 18, 2019, the Court granted the motion for summary judgment and entered a non-dischargeability judgment in favor of Plaintiffs.

On February 1, 2019, Plaintiffs filed a motion for reasonable attorney fees, requesting $115,703.91 in relation to the prosecution of the adversary proceeding and related disputes in Debtors' main bankruptcy cases. On February 27, 2019, Debtors filed their opposition, arguing that Plaintiffs have not provided a valid legal basis for their claim.

DISCUSSION

Plaintiffs argue that that Court has "the power to award attorney fees under state laws." [Dkt. 41, ¶ 21]. In support of this contention, Plaintiffs provide two cases which include examples of federal courts awarding attorney fees under "state law". The first, Travelers Cas. & Sur. Co. of Am. v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co., 549 U.S. 443 (2007) involved a contractual provision which provided for payment of attorney fees in the situation. Here, however, Plaintiffs have not alleged that a contractual agreement is the source of their attorney fee request. In the second case, Ryan v. Editions Ltd. West, Inc., 786 F.3d 754 (9th Cir. 2015), the Ninth Circuit upheld an award of attorney fees based on a California statute. As noted in the second, in appropriate circumstances a federal court can authorize an award of attorney fees based on a state statute.

Chapter 7

Here, Plaintiffs' argument appears to be the following: (1) the state court awarded attorney fees under CAL. CIV. CODE §§ 1021.9 and 2033.420; and (2) Plaintiffs should be entitled to attorney fees for defending the judgment. In support of the latter, Plaintiffs offer the following:

When a party is entitled to an award of attorney fees in the court of first instance, that party is ordinarily entitled to recover fees incurred in successfully defending the judgment on appeal. Although this was not an appeal, this was an attempt to overturn a final state court judgment.

[Dkt. No 41, ¶ 26] (citation omitted). The Court notes that the Ninth Circuit in Voice v. Stormans Inc., 757 F.3d 1015, 1016 (9th Cir. 2014) cited a number of Ninth Circuit cases which stand for the proposition that "a party that is entitled to an award of attorneys' fees in the district court is also entitled to an award of attorneys' fees on appeal."

As conceded by Plaintiffs, however, the instant action was not an appeal. Nor is the filing of a bankruptcy case "an attempt to overturn a final state court judgment." While an appeal and a bankruptcy filing may both represent attempts to extinguish liability on a judgment, there are legal differences between the two situations which are material here.

CAL. CIV. P. CODE § 1021.9 provides:

In any action to recover damages to personal or real property resulting from trespassing on lands either under cultivation or intended or used for the raising of livestock, the prevailing plaintiff shall be entitled to reasonable attorney's fees in addition to other costs, and in addition to any liability for damages imposed by law.

Chapter 7

And the other state law basis for attorney fees cited by Plaintiffs, CAL. CIV. P. CODE § 2033.420 relates to attorney fees arising out of non-cooperation during the discovery state of litigation.

Technically, while Plaintiffs' defense of its state court judgment on appeal would likely be considered to fall within the purview of CAL. CIV. P. CODE § 1021.9, as it would stem from the same action that was heard in the state trial court, the non-dischargeability proceeding represents a different action – an action to declare the state court judgment to be non-dischargeable. This is an important distinction. Typically, in a non-dischargeability proceeding a creditor is not entitled to an award of attorney fees. See In re Butcher, 200 B.R. 675, 678 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1996) ("Attorneys fees are not recoverable by a creditor in a dischargeability action under the Code."); see also In re Johnson, 756 F.2d 738 (9th Cir. 1985) (state law attorney fees not allowed for litigating questions of pure bankruptcy law).

In Travelers Cas. & Sur. Co. of Am. v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co., 549 U.S. 443 (2007), the Supreme Court, overruled the Ninth Circuit's Fobian rule, and provided a clearer avenue for creditors to seek attorney fees, based on state law, for litigation which occurs in bankruptcy court. Nevertheless, there still must be a valid state law basis for the claim of attorney fees. See, e.g., GINSBERG & MARTIN ON BANKRUPTCY § 11.07 (5th ed. 2019) ("A creditor who prevails on a nondischargeability action under § 523 is entitled to recover its attorneys' fees and have them held nondischargeable along with the debt if the prevailing creditor has a statutory or contractual right to recover attorneys' fees.") (collecting cases). And courts have continued to conservatively apply state law attorney fee statutes to non-dischargeability proceedings. See, e.g., In re Levitt, 2008 WL 8448069 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2008); see also In re Dinan, 448 B.R. 775 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2011).

Here, neither of the state law bases for attorney fees are applicable to this proceeding. Plaintiffs did not request a monetary judgment, but rather relied on their state court judgment and collateral estoppel, and, therefore CAL. CIV. P. CODE § 1021.9 is inapplicable since there was "no action to recover damages." And CAL. CIV. P. CODE § 2033.420 is inapplicable because the relevant discovery violation did not occur in

#31.00 Motion to Dismiss Adversary Proceeding

Docket 47

Tentative Ruling:

03/13/19

BACKGROUND

On December 8, 2017, Mark Bastorous & Bernadette Shenouda ("Debtors" or "Defendants") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition.

On March 12, 2018, Mina Farah ("Plaintiff" or "Creditor") filed a complaint against Mark Bastorous, Bernadette Shenouda, and Does 1-10, inclusive ("Defendants") for nondischargeability pursuant to § 523(a)(2)(A). On April 11, 2018, the Defendants filed a motion to dismiss. The Plaintiff subsequently amended her complaint on May 3, 2018. On June 4, 2018, Defendants filed a second motion to dismiss. Ultimately, on October 22, 2018, the Court granted the motion, requiring Plaintiff to provide more detail to meet the heightened pleading requirements for fraud. The next day, Plaintiff filed a second amended complaint. On November 6, 2018, Defendants filed a third motion to dismiss. On January 2, 2019, the Court granted the motion, requiring Plaintiff to clearly articulate the state law basis of the debt if Plaintiff was going to request a judgment which included monetary and punitive damages.

On January 11, 2019, Plaintiff filed her third amended complaint (the "TAC"). On January 25, 2019, Defendants filed the instant motion to dismiss (the "MTD"), arguing that Plaintiff improperly requested monetary and punitive damages and failed to plead her state law claim with requisite particularity. On February 26, 2019, Plaintiff filed her opposition.

Chapter 7

The TAC alleges the Plaintiff gave the Defendants $241,912.00 to invest in improvements to their real estate firm's commercial office building. Plaintiff alleges the Defendants intentionally concealed other, pending senior liens on the property during negotiations. Plaintiff further contends that her note and deed of trust from Defendants were intentionally recorded in an untimely manner. The property became over-encumbered, as its fair market value was $2,360,000, but held a total debt of over $3,106,156, providing evidence of no intention to repay creditors. The Plaintiff believes her loan was used to buy a large parcel of property in Hesperia for Defendants' personal use.

Plaintiff contends she relied on the Defendants' misrepresentations when offering the loan, and would not have offered a loan but for the false promises. Her numerous repayment demands in 2016 and 2017 were unsuccessful. Plaintiff further asserts that the Defendants made false representations in a similar manner to another lender, Anis Khalil. Plaintiff asks for compensatory damages in the amount of $386,452, and punitive damages in the amount of $772,904.

DISCUSSION

I. MOTION TO DISMISS STANDARD

To avoid dismissal pursuant to Civil Rule 12(b)(6), a complaint must allege sufficient factual matter, which if accepted as true, would "state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face." Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009) (quoting Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007)). A claim is facially plausible when a court can draw a reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for misconduct. Id. The plaintiff must provide "more than labels and conclusions, and a formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action will not do." Id.

II. NON-DISCHARGEABILITY

Under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A), a debt is not discharged for money obtained by false pretenses, a false representation, or actual fraud. The elements of a § 523(a)(2)(A) claim are well-established: (1) a representation; (2) that the debtor knew was false; (3) that the debtor made with the intention of deceiving the creditor; (4) reliance on the representation by the creditor; (5) and damages as a proximate result of reliance on the representations. See, e.g., In re Eashai, 87 F.3d 1082, 1086 (9th Cir. 1996).

Here, at the hearing on December 12, 2018, the Court granted Defendants' motion to dismiss on the specific grounds that Plaintiff needed to adequately articulate a state law claim to serve as the basis for the request for compensatory and punitive damages. The TAC now includes a second cause of action which is entitled "fraud, deceit, and/or false promise."

Defendants argue that this amendment is inadequate for two reasons. First, Defendants argues that the cause of action merely contains conclusory allegations and is insufficiently plead. As noted by Plaintiff in her opposition, however, Defendants appear to ignore the fact that the second cause of action incorporates the first twenty-seven paragraphs of the complaint into the second cause of action. While the Court agrees with Defendants that, absent that incorporation, the second cause of action may be insufficiently plead, the Court, at an earlier hearing, has already ruled that those first twenty-seven paragraphs adequately meet the heightened pleading standards for claims sounding in fraud. Therefore, the Court rejects this argument.

Second, Defendants argue that it is unclear what type of fraud Plaintiff is pleading. As noted by Plaintiff in her opposition, a plaintiff is typically permitted to plead legal theories in the alternative, and the failure to specify a specific legal theory is not fatal to the complaint. As noted by Plaintiff, and as implicitly recognized by this Court during the hearing of December 12, 2018, Plaintiff has adequately articulated the elements of an intentional misrepresentation, and, therefore, the Court is not inclined to dismiss the second cause of action for failure to state a claim.

Finally, Defendants argue that Plaintiff has improperly requested monetary and punitive damages in the first cause of action. While the Court agrees that it is confusing that Plaintiff has included identical requests for relief for both causes of action, even though the two causes of action should have different requests for relief, the Court cannot conclude that such inartful drafting justifies dismissal of the complaint. It is abundantly clear that the second cause of action is intended to serve as the basis for a monetary judgment, and that the first cause of action is intended to serve as the basis for determining such judgment to be non-dischargeable.

#1.00 CONT Motion For Order Denying Discharge Or Dismissing Case

From: 1/31/19, 2/28/19

Docket 172

Tentative Ruling:

1/31/19

BACKGROUND

On May 17, 2013, Rigoberto Baez ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On June 25, 2013, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed. Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was subsequently amended on two occasions.

On December 6, 2018, Trustee filed a notice of final cure mortgage payment. On December 27, 2018, Wells Fargo Bank N.A. filed a response, stating that Debtor was $11,338.57 delinquent in post-confirmation payments.

On December 28, 2018, Trustee filed a motion to deny discharge or, in the alternative, dismiss the case. Because Trustee has only provided legal analysis support dismissal of the case, not citing any legal basis to deny a discharge in this situation, the Court will consider the motion as a motion to dismiss. On January 16, 2019, Debtor filed his opposition. The opposition asserts that Debtor disputes Wells Fargo's accounting, and that Debtor will work with Wells Fargo to resolve the situation.

DISCUSSION

As noted by Trustee, 11 U.S.C. § 1307(c)(6) states:

(c) Except as provided in subsection (f) of this section, on request of a party in interest or the United States trustee and after notice and a hearing, the court may convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 7 of this title, or may dismiss a case under this chapter, whichever is in the best interests of creditors and the estate, for cause, including ---

(6) material default by the debtor with respect to a term of a confirmed plan

Trustee asserts that direct payments to Wells Fargo are payments under the plan, and the default in this case is material. Debtor has not provided any contrary legal authority on either point. The Court agrees with Trustee that direct payments to a lender are still considered payments under the plan. See, e.g., In Matter of Kessley, 655 Fed. Appx. 242, 244 (5th Cir. 2016); see also In re Evans, 543 B.R. 213 (Bankr. E.D. Va. 2016) (collecting cases). The Court also agrees that the post-confirmation default of $11,338.57 is material, assuming that that figure is accurate.

TENTATIVE RULING

Debtor to apprise the Court of the status of the post-confirmation delinquency and any efforts to resolve the situation with Wells Fargo. Absent resolution, the Court is inclined to GRANT the motion.

Docket 122

Tentative Ruling:

3/14/19

BACKGROUND

On March 28, 2014, Annie Estrada ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On August 6, 2014, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed. On August 12, 2014, the Court granted a § 506(d) lien avoidance motion, avoiding the junior lien of E*Trade Bank, in the amount of $204,000, upon receipt of a Chapter 13 discharge. There have been two orders to modify the plan in this case.

On February 21, 2019, Debtor filed a motion for hardship discharge. The basis for the hardship discharge is that Debtor's household financial situation has gradually declined since 2016. Debtor also notes that March 2019 would have been the last month in the plan had Debtor remained current, and Debtor appears to assert that she has the ability to pay off the plan if given some additional time.

11 U.S.C. § 1328(b) states:

(b) Subject to subsection (d), at any time after the confirmation of the plan and after notice and a hearing, the court may grant a discharge to a debtor that has not completed payments under the plan only if –

(1) the debtor's failure to complete such payments is due to circumstances for which the debtor should not justly be held accountable;

(2) the value, as of the effective date of the plan, of property actually distributed under the plan on account of each allowed unsecured claim is not less than the amount that would have been paid on such claim if the estate of the debtor had been liquidated under chapter 7 of this title on such date; and

(3) modification of the plan under section 1329 of this title is not practicable.

The first and third standard are discretionary standards. The second standard is a mechanical standard referred to as the "best interests of creditors test". Regarding this second standard, the Court notes that a review of the Debtor's schedules in this case demonstrates that Debtor had no unexempt equity in any property to distribute to creditors in a hypothetical liquidation. Therefore, Debtor has satisfied 11 U.S.C. § 1328(b)(2).

Regarding 11 U.S.C. § 1328(b)(3), the Court notes that modification of the plan is not practical due to the operation of 11 U.S.C. § 1329(c), which provides that a plan modification cannot extend the plan commitment period past five years. For this reason, it appears that plan modification is not feasible in the instant case.

Regarding 11 U.S.C. § 1328(b)(1), the motion for hardship discharge states that Debtor's spouse was the primary earner in the household, but his income (from sales work as an independent contractor) began to diminish in 2016. Subsequently, Debtor's spouse has taken on additional employment as an Uber/Lyft driver, but Debtor and her husband are unable to pay their household bills, let alone the plan payment. The Court notes that the expenses identified in the attachment to the instant motion depicts lean expenses, although the cost of Debtor's home is extraordinarily high compared to the household income.

On the record before the Court, the Court is unable to determine whether "the debtor's failure to complete such payments is due to circumstances for which the debtor should not justly be held accountable." Specifically, the earning potential of Debtor's spouse, and the ability of Debtor to financially contribute to the family, are less than clear. The Court also notes that upon receipt of discharge in the instant case, Debtor will extinguish a junior lien of $204,000 on Debtor's home. Furthermore, pursuant to the motion, it appears that Debtor only owes $27.98 in outstanding prepetition arrears and $200 to unsecured creditors under the plan. Given the lack of specificity in the instant motion, the amount of the junior lien to be avoided, and Debtor's assertion that she could "scrape together enough to pay unsecured claims" pursuant to the plan, the Court is inclined to CONTINUE this matter and the hearing on the motion to dismiss for Debtor to attempt to complete the plan.

Docket 85

Tentative Ruling:

3/14/19

BACKGROUND

On January 17, 2016, Adolfo & Angelica Gonzalez ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On April 28, 2017, Debtors' Chapter 13 plan was confirmed. The plan was subsequently modified once.

On January 7, 2019, Trustee filed a motion to dismiss for failure to make plan payments. On February 7, 2019, the Court held a hearing on the matter, no appearance was made on behalf of Debtors, and the Court dismissed the case.

On February 11, 2019, Debtor filed a motion to vacate dismissal arguing that the case was dismissed due to the excusable neglect of Debtors because Adolfo Gonzalez fractured his foot in January 2019 and was preoccupied with medical care and expenses. This being the case, it appears that the proximate cause of the dismissal on February 7, 2019 was the failure to Debtors' attorney to promptly take action to address the situation, or to appear at the hearing and advocate for Debtors. The motion contains no explanation as to why Debtors' counsel did not appear at the hearing.

Chapter 13

DISCUSSION

Debtor relies on FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 60(b)(1), incorporated into bankruptcy proceedings by FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 9024, which allows for relief from an order based on "mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect."

While Debtors' argue that the case was dismissed due to excusable neglect after Adolfo Gonzalez fractured his foot, the Court is also concerned that Debtors' counsel did not appear at the hearing on Trustee's motion to dismiss. It is well established that "an attorney's ignorance and carelessness does not provide grounds for Rule 60(b) relief." In re Mercado, 144 B.R. 879, 886 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1992) (citing Bershad v. McDonough, 469 F.2d 1333, 1337 (7th Cir. 1972)). And the mere assertion that counsel did not fulfill its duties, but that such carelessness was inadvertent, is clearly inadequate to support Rule 60(b) relief. See, e.g., In re ACME Motors, Inc., 125 B.R. 702, 703 (Bankr. D.R.I. 1991).

"Rule 60(b) relief is extraordinary." Id. Yet, in this court, a request for relief from a Chapter 13 dismissal order has become semi-ordinary. On occasion, the requests are legally sound. Here, however, the evidence provided simply indicates that Debtor's counsel did not attend the hearing for reasons that do not appear to be credible.

The Seventh Circuit has stated that:

[T]he clients are principals, the attorney is an agent, and under the law of agency the principal is bound by his chosen agent's deeds. The rule is that all of the attorney's misconduct (except in the cases where the act is outside the scope of employment or in cases of excusable neglect) becomes the problem of the client. A lawyer who inexcusably neglects his client's obligations does not present exceptional circumstances.

BACKGROUND

On April 19, 2017, Gerald Bauer ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On June 13, 2017, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On December 13, 2018, Trustee filed a motion to dismiss for plan infeasibility. On January 31, 2019, the Court held a hearing on the matter, and continued Trustee's motion for one week for Debtor to lodge an order on his proposed plan modification. During that one-week period, Debtor did not lodge an order on the motion to modify plan, and no appearance was made on behalf of Debtor at the continued hearing. On February 7, 2019, the Court dismissed Debtor's case.

On February 8, 2019, Debtor filed a motion to vacate dismissal arguing that the case was dismissed due to attorney mistake. Among other things, Debtor's counsel states that he was informed by Trustee that the motion to dismiss would be withdrawn prior to the hearing. On February 11, 2019, Trustee filed comments indicating conditional approval. Trustee also states that the statement of Debtor's counsel that regarding withdrawal of the motion to dismiss "is not credible and makes no sense." [Dkt. No. 46, ¶ 1].

The legal basis for Debtor's assertion that the dismissal order should be vacated is that Debtor's counsel inadvertently did not appear at the hearing due miscommunication with Trustee, an assertion which the Trustee states is not credible. Docket 80

Tentative Ruling:

3/14/2019

BACKGROUND

On September 21, 2017, Ignacio & Nadia Figueroa ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On November 13, 2017, Debtors' Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On June 11, 2018, Alderson Law Firm ("Creditor") filed a proof of claim for an unsecured claim in the amount of $240,402.04 ("Claim 5"). On June 29, 2018, Debtors filed an objection to Claim 5, arguing that the claim was filed late because the claims bar deadline was January 24, 2018. On September 4, 2018, the Court sustained the objection, and disallowed Claim 5 in its entirety.

On October 16, 2018, Trustee filed the notice of intent to file final report. On October 19, 2018, Debtors filed their certificates of compliance and applications for entry of discharge. Creditor objected to these applications on November 5, 2018. It is not clear what happened in the interim, but, ultimately, Debtors refiled their certificates of compliance and applications for entry of discharge on January 29, 2019. On February 13, 2019, Creditor objected again. On February 20, 2019, the Court set the matter for hearing. On March 6, 2019, Debtors filed an opposition to Creditor's objection.

Chapter 13

DISCUSSION

Part of Creditor's objection relates to its assertion that Claim 5 should not have been disallowed. Creditor raises a variety of arguments in relation to this assertion. The Court notes that if Creditor wishes to bring a motion to reconsider or vacate the order disallowing Claim 5, the instant objection to entry of discharge was not the proper method of bring such a request to the Court. Furthermore, the arguments made by Creditor demonstrate a fundamental misunderstanding of bankruptcy law. As noted by the Court at the hearing of August 23, 2018, 11 U.S.C. § 502(b)(9) provides that failure to timely file a claim is grounds for disallowance of the claim. Creditor has not offered any argument which would excuse compliance with that unambiguous statute.

The remainder of Creditor's objection contains fundamental misstatements of bankruptcy law or relates to state law litigation which does not appear to have any direct relevance to the discharge of Debtors. Furthermore, Creditor's objection contains no admissible evidence at all, and, as such, does not provide this Court with any evidentiary basis to rule in Creditor's favor. Finally, as noted by Debtors, Creditor has not actually provided any viable argument, grounded in bankruptcy law, which would allow this Court to sustain the objection.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to OVERRULE the objection.

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion for several reasons. First of all, the motion is internally contradictory regarding the identity of the mortgagee. Pages 1 and 3 of the motion identify U.S. Bank National Association as the relevant secured creditor, while page 4 identifies Nationstar Mortgage LLC as the secured creditor instead. Furthermore, the Court notes that while both entities were served with the motion, only Nationstar Mortgage LLC was served pursuant to FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 7004. Second, the Court notes that the motion incorrectly identifies the case number of Debtors' previous case, and falsely states that relief from stay was not granted in the previous case.

Finally, the Court notes that the motion fails to provide sufficiently detailed evidence to meet the "clear and convincing" standard of 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3)(C), which is required to overcome the presumption that this case was filed in bad faith.

Docket 12

Tentative Ruling:

2/28/19

BACKGROUND

On January 18, 2019, Abidan & Cindy Aceves ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. Among the assets of the estate is a 2006 Chevrolet Silverado (the "Property"). Northrop Grumman Federal Credit Union ("Creditor") holds a security interest in the Property. On January 28, 2019, Creditor filed a proof of claim in the amount of $16,229.83, identifying $10,507 as secured by the Property.

On January 31, 2019, Debtors filed a motion to value the Property. Debtors assert that the Property should be valued at $7,856.

DISCUSSION

One of the benefits of filing a Chapter 13 bankruptcy is that under § 506(a) the debtor can bifurcate a secured, unavoidable debt, with one part representing the amount of the value of the collateral, and the deficiency being treated as an unsecured claim. See In re Penrod, 636 F.3d 1175, 1177 (9th Cir. 2011).

Presently the Ninth Circuit has not established a uniform method for valuations. See In re Ayres, 2010 WL 652825 at *5 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2010) (collecting cases detailing vehicle valuation and describing the state of the law in the Ninth Circuit). In In re Morales, however, which this Court has previously cited with approval, it was determined that value should be calculated "by adjusting the Kelley Blue Book or N.A.D.A. Guide retail value for a like vehicle by a reasonable amount in light of the evidence presented regarding the condition of the vehicle or any other relevant factors." In re Morales, 387 B.R. 36, 45 (Bankr.C.D.Cal.2008).

According to the court in In re Morales, the retail values, and not the private party values, are the appropriate starting points because the text of § 506(a)(2) refers to "the price a retail merchant would charge" and does not refer to the price a private party would charge. Morales at 46.

Here, Debtor has provided a Kelly Blue Book report identifying the private party values of the Dodge and the Ram. Pursuant to the above discussion, the Court requires evidence of the Property's retail value, and adequate evidence to justify any deviations therefrom.

The Court is inclined to CONTINUE the hearings for supplemental evidence.

Docket 18

Tentative Ruling:

3/14/2019

BACKGROUND:

On December 28, 2019, Terry Randolph ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On January 3, 2019, CarMax Auto Finance ("Creditor") filed a proof of claim for a secured claim in the amount of $30,730.76 ("Claim 2"). On February 7, 2019, Debtor filed an objection to Claim 2. Creditor argues that the collateral for Claim 2, a vehicle, was repossessed.

APPLICABLE LAW:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

ANALYSIS:

Here, Debtor has not provided any evidence that the subject vehicle was repossessed. Debtor has provided a bankruptcy credit report which indicates that the claim was identified at $20,284 on November 30, 2018. Given that the evidence submitted by Creditor appears to be a simple text file print-off, with limited information, and given that Creditor has failed to oppose the instant claim objection, which the Court deems consent to the relief requested pursuant to Local Rule 9013-(1)(h), the Court is inclined to accept Debtor's proposed reduction of the claim to $20,284. On the current record, however, the Court has no evidentiary basis to determine that the collateral was repossessed and sold.

BACKGROUND:

On December 6, 2018, Robert Townsend ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On January 25, 2019, Santander Consumer USA ("Creditor") filed a proof of claim for an unsecured claim in the amount of $4,183.41 ("Claim 1"). On January 29, 2019, Debtor filed an objection to Claim 1. Debtor argues that Claim 1 is barred by the statute of limitations.

ANALYSIS:

11 U.S.C. § 502(b)(1) (2005) states:

(b) Except as provided in subsections (e)(2), (f), (g), (h) and (i) of this section, if such objection to a claim is made, the court, after notice and a hearing, shall determine the amount of such claim in lawful currency of the United States as of the date of the filing of the petition, and shall allow such claim in such amount, except to the extent that—

(1) such claim is unenforceable against the debtor and property of the debtor, under any agreement or applicable law for a reason other than because such claim is contingent or unmatured;

Chapter 13

CAL. CODE CIV. P. § 337 (2016) provides a statute of limitations of four years for debts founded on written contracts, book accounts, accounts stated based upon account in writing, "balance of mutual, open and current account in writing," and rescission of written contract. Once the statute of limitations has passed, the claim is unenforceable. See e.g., Guaranty Trust Co. v. United States, 304 U.S. 126 (1938).

Claim 1 is based on a retail installment contract for a vehicle. This appears to fit within the category established by CAL. CODE CIV. P. § 337. Therefore, the statute of limitations is four years. The proof of claim appears to indicate that the last activity on the account was on September 22, 2014. This is more than four years prior to the filing of the bankruptcy case, and, therefore, Claim 1 is unenforceable.

Furthermore, Creditor has not opposed the claim objection and the Court deems failure to oppose to be consent to the relief requested pursuant to Local Rule 9013-(1)(h).

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to SUSTAIN the objection, DISALLOWING Claim 1 in its entirety.

APPEARANCES WAIVED. Movant to lodge order within seven days. If oral or written opposition is presented at the hearing, the hearing may be continued.

Docket 62

Tentative Ruling:

01/15/2019
Service: Proper
Opposition: Yes

The Debtor, after seemingly failing to make payments to Movant for several months, now seeks a continuance based on a loan modification request that she has not yet submitted for review. The Court is inclined to GRANT relief from the stay under § 362(d)(1). GRANT waiver of 4001(a)(3) stay. DENY request for termination of the co-debtor stay based on lack of service on any co-debtor and lack of evidence as to identity of alleged co-debtor. GRANT request under ¶3. DENY request for APO as moot.

#15.00 Notice of motion and motion for relief from automatic stay with supporting declarations ACTION IN NON-BANKRUPTCY FORUM RE: Family Law Litigation

MOVANT: JOANA JOHNSON

EH__

Docket 177

Tentative Ruling:

3/26/2019

On February 7, 2018, Vance Johnson ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. On July 3, 2018, Debtor's case was converted to Chapter 7. Debtor's ex-wife, Joana Johnson ("Movant"), now brings the instant motion for relief from the automatic stay, seeking to return to family court to collect spousal support and, although the details are somewhat unclear, possibly request the suspension or revocation of Debtor's medical license. More specifically, the motion requests an order stating the following:

- (1) the Non-Debtor Spouse, the California Department of Child Support Services, the Riverside County Department of Child Support Services, the Medical Board of California and any appropriate government agencies are authorized to pursue collection remedies against the earnings of the Debtor from the petition date of February 7, 2018 to present to the fullest extent of the law;
- (2) the Non-Debtor Spouse, the California Department of Child Support Services, the Riverside County Department of Child Support Services, the Medical Board of California and any appropriate government agency have the authority to suspend and/or revoke Debtor's medical license for failure to pay domestic support obligations, including child support and spousal support, to the full extent allowed by law;
- (3) that the Non-Debtor spouse may proceed in any governmental entity, including the Superior Court of California, to commence or continue any proceeding relating to child support and/or spousal support over or alleged to be owed by [Dkt. No. 177, Memo. of P's and A's, pg. 2-3]. The Court notes that Debtor has not filed any opposition to the instant motion.

In support of her motion, Movant invokes three statutory provisions to argue that the automatic stay is not applicable to her requests for relief. First, Movant cites 11 U.S.C. § 362(b)(2)(D), which provides that the automatic stay does not apply to "the withholding, suspension, or restriction of a driver's license, a professional or occupational license, or a recreational license under state law." The Court is not aware of any legal provision which would exclude a medical license from the category of professional licenses. As a result, it appears clear that the second request stated above is not stayed by § 362. While Movant has provided brief argumentation as to why the suspension or revocation of Debtor's medical license may be warranted, this Court's review of those arguments does not appear appropriate.

Next, Movant cites § 362(b)(2)(C), which states that the automatic stay does not apply "with respect to the withholding of income that is property of the estate or property of the debtor for payment of a domestic support obligation under a judicial or administrative order or a statute." Movant has not really briefed how she believes this provision applies to the instant case, but it does not appear to be directly relevant. See, e.g., 3 COLLIER'S ON BANKRUPTCY ¶ 362.05[2] (16th ed. 2016) ("Section 362(b)(2)(C) provides an exception to the stay with respect to the withholding of income that is property of the estate or property of the debtor for payment of a domestic support obligation under a judicial or administrative order or a statute. The effect of this amendment is primarily seen in chapter 11 cases filed by an individual debtor and chapter 13 proceedings.").

Finally, Movant cites § 362(b)(2)(B) which provides that the automatic stay does not apply to "the collection of a domestic support obligation from property that is not property of the estate." Due to the operation of § 541, § 362(b)(2)(B) provides a clear avenue for Movant to collect on property, including "earnings from services performed," acquired by Debtor after conversion of the case.

Movant further argues that the earnings from services performed postpetition but preconversion, which were property of the estate prior to conversion due to the operation of 11 U.S.C. § 1115(a), were no longer property of the estate once the case was converted. Movant cites In re Markosian, 506 B.R. 273 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2014) in support of the argument. The Court notes that In re Markosian is the minority position on the issue. For the reasons stated in In Matter of Freeman, 527 B.R. 780 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. 2015), In re Meier, 528 B.R. 162 (Bankr. N.D. Ill. 2015), and In re Gorniak, 549 B.R. 721 (Bankr. W.D. Wis. 2016), all of which explicitly rejected In re Markosian and the statutory interpretation contained therein, the Court is inclined to disagree with Movant's position on this issue. Recognizing the relative novelty of the issue, however, the Movant will be permitted an opportunity to file a supplemental brief on this narrow issue if so desired.

Tentative Ruling:

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion with the modification that Movant is only permitted to pursue collection remedies against property that is not property of the estate. Furthermore, as a matter of law the Court is inclined to find that earnings from services performed postpetition but preconversion are property of the estate.

The Debtor asserts more payments were made than were accounted for by the Movant. Certainly, a comparison of the Debtor's Supplement, the Movant's Declaration and Exhibit 4 indicate that at least one $2,300 payment was made after the Movant received the $2,369.11 payment in October. Much of the confusion is caused by the irregularity of the date the payments are sent out by the Debtors. The due date is the 18th of each month. However, payments are sent by the Debtors alternately at the beginning, middle and end of months. Nevertheless, based on the Debtor's evidence it appears that when the Motion was filed on February 6, 2019, Debtors would only have been late on their January payment.

Docket 28

 VACATED  REASON: ORDER ENTERED 3/12/19

Tentative Ruling:

2/26/2019

Service is Proper
Opposition: Yes

Regarding Movant's argument that the automatic stay has terminated in the instant case, Movant's assertion is incorrect because 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3) only applies when a previous case has been dismissed. Here, Debtors' only previous case in the year prior to the petition date of the instant case resulted in a discharge. Therefore, the Court will DENY the request for relief under ¶ 14.

Regarding Movant's argument that the case was filed in bad faith due to previous bankruptcy filings, the Court notes that Debtors have two previous filings, both Chapter 7 cases which resulted in discharge. The instant case is a Chapter 13 proceeding, making this case what is commonly referred to as a Chapter 20 case. It has been uniformly established that the filing of a Chapter 13 case shortly after receiving a Chapter 7 discharge does not constitute bad faith. Therefore, the Court will DENY the request for relief pursuant to § 362(d)(4).

Regarding the remainder of Movant's requests, the parties are to apprise the Court regarding the status of the arrears and adequate protection discussions, if any.

Docket 20

 VACATED  REASON: ORDER ENTERED 3/21/19

Tentative Ruling:

03/05/2019

Service: Proper
Opposition: Yes

As a threshold matter, the Debtors indicated that the Motion was served on regular notice. It was not. The Motion was filed on February 13, 2019. Regular notice on a Motion filed on that date would not have run until March 6, 2019. The opposition was then filed on February 25, 2019, by Secured Creditor Wilmington Trust ("Creditor").

Creditor asserts that the Debtors' prior case was dismissed due to the Debtors' inability to perform as to the terms of the confirmed plan. The dismissal was precipitated by Wilmington Trust's notification to the Trustee that the Debtors were not current on their post-petition payments which eventually formed the basis for the dismissal of the prior case.

The presumption that the case was not filed in good faith arises due to the failure to perform the terms of the confirmed plan in their prior case. To overcome the presumption, the Debtors assert they now have sufficient income to fund a feasible plan because (1) Debtor Wife has experienced an increase in income of $700 per month, (2) Debtor Wife's parents are contributing $1,200 per month to the Debtors;

(3) Debtors are no longer supporting their children because they have now graduated from college. The Motion is supported only by the declaration of the Debtor.

Creditor in its opposition asserts that the statements regarding the Debtors' family contributions are unsupported by any evidence and the Court agrees. Section 362(c)(3) explicitly requires clear and convincing evidence to overcome the presumption that the case was not filed in good faith. In reply, the Debtors have provided a declaration from the Debtors' family members asserting that they will contribute $1,200 monthly for 60 months towards the Debtors' plan. The Declaration further indicates that the Robert and Ann Sroufe are currently residing with the Debtors.

Based on the supplemental evidence, the Court is inclined to find that the Debtors have sufficiently improved their financial condition to warrant a finding that by clear and convincing evidence the presumption under § 362(c)(3) has been overcome. However, the Court believes a stay-current APO is warranted under the circumstances.

Service is Proper

Opposition: Yes

The Court is inclined to GRANT relief from the automatic stay pursuant to § 362(d) (1). DENY requests for confirmation that stay is not in effect because Movants have not demonstrated that either § 362(b)(22) or § 362(b)(23) is applicable to the instant situation. DENY request for annulment of automatic stay because motion does not cite any grounds in support of the request. GRANT waiver of Rule 4001(a) stay. DENY requests under ¶¶ 7, 9, 10, and 11 for lack of cause shown. DENY alternative request under ¶ 12 as moot.

On March 7, 2018, Rick's Patio, Inc. ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. On May 4, 2018, the Court approved the application to employ Rosenstein & Associates ("Counsel") as bankruptcy counsel. On August 7, 2018, the Court approved the application to employ Shafer & MacRae ("Accountant") as accountant. After an extension of the applicable deadline, Debtor's Chapter 11 disclosure statement was approved on October 3, 2018, and Debtor's Chapter 11 plan was confirmed on December 17, 2018.

On February 28, 2019, two applications for approval of fees were filed. First, Accountant filed an application requesting $3,300 in fees. Additionally, Counsel filed an application requesting an aggregate of $12,256.41 in fees and costs. The Court notes that notice and service appear proper, no party has filed an opposition, and the applications contain a declaration from one of Debtor's principals stating that Debtor supports the fees as requested.

The Court notes, however, that the applications fail to comply with various provisions of the Local Rules. For instance, the applications do not disclose the current cash on hand as required by Local Rule 2016-(1)(a)(1)(A)(iii). Additionally, the applications do not contain a description of the education/experience of each of the relevant professionals, as required by Local Rule 2016-1(a)(1)(H).

Regarding the substance of the fee applications, the Court, having reviewed the applications, finds that the amounts requested are generally reasonable pursuant to the factors set forth in 11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(3). The Court specifically notes that Counsel has "no-costed" a significant amount of the work performed in the instant case, due to events that transpired in a previous case. On that basis, the Court will waive the compliance failures noted above.

The Court is inclined to APPROVE the applications in the amounts requested.

Tentative Ruling:

MARCH 5, 2019

BACKGROUND

On March 27, 2018, G Hurtado Construction, Inc. ("Debtor") filed its petition for chapter 11 relief. The bankruptcy was precipitated by a wage and hour lawsuit brought by two and possibly more former employees. Catana and Faustino v. G Hurtado Construction, Inc. On May 9, 2018, the Debtor issued a Notice of Bar Date indicating that the Court set a deadline of July 13, 2018 ("Bar Date"), for creditors to file proofs of claims against the Debtor's estate.

On July 16, 2018, the following claims were filed: Claim #9 by Donahoo & Associates, PC in the amount of $134,475.02, Claim #10 by Juan Catano in the amount of $230,081.64, Claim #11 by Faustino Magana in the amount of $101,240.04 (collectively, "Litigation Claimants")

On August 29, 2018, the Litigation Claimants filed a motion to allow their late-filed claims. On October 10, 2018, the Court granted the motion and entered its order allowing Claims 9, 10, and 11 (the "Disputed Claims"). Following the allowance of the Disputed Claims, the Debtor filed an amended disclosure statement and plan to provide for treatment of the Disputed Claims on October 9, 2018. Following comments from the Court regarding the Debtor's First Amended Disclosure Statement, the Debtor filed the Second Amended Disclosure Statement and Plan on November 16, 2018. On November 27, 2018, the Litigation Claimants filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay ("RFS Motion") seeking to have the Disputed Claims determined via an arbitration proceeding which had been commenced prepetition. On December 3, 2018, the Debtor filed a complaint against the Litigation Claimants objecting to their claims (the "Objection"). On December 18, 2018, a hearing was held at which the Court approved the Debtor's Second Amended DS and granted in part and denied in part the RFS Motion. On January 2, 2019, the Court entered its Order approving the Second Amended DS and providing deadlines for balloting and objections (the "Order"). The Order required that objections to the plan be filed no later than February 19, 2019, and that completed ballots were due returned by January 22, 2019. On January 3, 2019, the Litigation Claimants and Debtor stipulated to holding the Objection proceeding in abeyance pending the conclusion of the arbitration. The Court entered its order approving the stipulation on February 4, 2019. On February 4, 2019, the Debtor filed its Brief in Support of Confirmation (the "Brief"). The Brief indicated, in pertinent part, that Class 6 members, the Class designated for treatment of the Litigation Claimants' Disputed Claims were not eligible to vote under § 1126 based on the filing of the Objection.

On February 12, 2019, a Motion to Temporarily Allow the Disputed Claims under FRBP 3018(a) followed (the "Motion"). Opposition to the Motion was filed on February 19, 2019 ("Opposition"), and a reply to the Opposition was filed on February 26, 2019 ("Reply").

DISCUSSION

Section 1126(a) of the Bankruptcy Code provides that only holders of allowed claims or interests may vote to accept or reject a plan. Section 502(a) of the Bankruptcy Code provides that a claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. A creditor whose claim is objected to "is therefore disenfranchised from voting on the plan unless the objection is adjudicated prior to plan voting, or a mechanism, such as temporary allowance, is provided for." In re Stone Hedge Props. v. Phoenix Capital Corp. (In re Stone Hedge Props.), 191 B.R. 59, 63 (Bankr.M.D.Pa.1995). The mechanism for temporary allowance is provided by Bankruptcy Rule 3018. The policy behind temporary allowance is to prevent possible abuse by plan proponents who might ensure acceptance of a plan by filing last minute objections to the claims of dissenting creditors. In re Armstrong, 294 B.R. 344 (10th Cir.BAP2003), aff'd 97 Fed. Appx. 285 (10th Cir.2004). The ultimate determination of whether to temporarily allow a claim for voting purposes is within the Court's sound discretion. Id.; In re Ralph Lauren Womenswear, Inc., 197 B.R. 771, 775 (Bankr.S.D.N.Y.1996). Like estimation under section 502, neither the Bankruptcy Code nor the Bankruptcy Rules provide guidance on a methodology to be used but commend the determination to the court's discretion. In re Pac. Sunwear of California, Inc., 2016 WL 4250681, at *3 (Bankr. D. Del. Aug. 8, 2016) (internal citations omitted). Courts tend to look at the debtor's schedules, the proof of claim, and the objection filed to the proof of claim. Id. At least one court has suggested that a determination under Rule 3018 "should ensure that the voting power is commensurate with the creditor's economic interests in the case." Id.

As a threshold matter, FRBP 3018 is silent regarding the appropriate deadline for parties to bring a motion to temporarily allow a claim for purposes of voting. In In re M. Long Arabians, the trial court had indicated that since a creditor did not seek temporary allowance of its claim, pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 3018(a)(2), prior to the confirmation hearing, that creditor's claim was deemed not allowed under Section 502(a). 103 B.R. 211, 214 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1989). On appeal, the BAP affirmed the trial court's finding and stated that the creditor could not have voted on the Plan unless it sought a timely allowance of its claims under Bankruptcy Rule 3018. Id. at 215 (internal citations omitted). Similarly, in Jacksonville Airport, Inc. v. Michkeldel, Inc., the Fourth Circuit considered the issue of timing where a motion for temporary allowance of a claim was not filed until after the deadline for voting on the plan. 434 F.3d 729, 732 (4th Cir. 2006). In that case, the Fourth Circuit affirmed the trial court's order denying a motion to reconsider the confirmation order finding that the creditor did not have a right to vote on the debtor's plan, and implicitly finding that the motion for temporary allowance must be filed prior to the deadline for voting. See id.

For their part, the Litigation Claimants have cited to cases outside the Ninth Circuit in which trial court judges focused heavily on the equities facing the creditors seeking temporary allowance rather than any strict timelines. Debtor, however, responds that Stone Hedge Properties v. Phoenix Capital Corp. (In re Stone Hedge Properties), 191 B.R. 59 (Bankr. M.D. Pa. 1995) ("Stone Hedge") and In re Goldstein, 114 BR 430, 434 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 1990) both dealt with situations where the creditors were being ambushed by the debtors.

Here, the Court is simply not persuaded that the Litigation Claimants' position is defensible. As an aside, the Court was indulgent when the Litigations Claimants filed their Disputed Claims after the bar date and, in that situation, found sufficient cause existed to excuse the failure to timely file the claims. However, where here, the Litigation Claimants have actively participated in objecting to their treatment by the Debtor from the inception of the case and where they filed oppositions to Debtor's proposed disclosure statements and a RFS Motion, there is no apparent basis to excuse the Litigation Claimants from their responsibility to have apprised themselves of their own duties with respect to voting – a vote that they undoubtedly always intended to exercise. Further, unlike the cases cited by the Litigation Claimants, the Objection was filed in early December and it was the Litigations Claimants' responsibility to apprise themselves of the consequences engendered by the filing of the Objection. Having considered the equities presented by both sides and the legal authorities, the Court is persuaded that (1) absent evidence that a debtor's objection was filed so close in time to the confirmation hearing such that the effect would have been to ambush the creditor, a motion to temporarily allow a claim must be filed and heard prior to the deadline to cast a vote; and (2) here, the record indicates that the creditor was not ambushed.

#3.00 Motion to Dismiss Debtor's Chapter 7 Bankruptcy Case Pursuant to 11 USC 707(A)

EH ____

Docket 14

Tentative Ruling:

3/27/2019

BACKGROUND

On December 14, 2018, Connie Gutierrez ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On February 5, 2019, Trustee filed a complaint to avoid a fraudulent transfer. The defendants in the adversary proceeding are Daniel Gutierrez ("Daniel") and Toby Gutierrez ("Toby"), Debtor's sons, who are apparently estranged from each other. On February 6, 2019, the Court entered a temporary restraining order (the "TRO"), and set a hearing on a preliminary injunction. The TRO was issued to prohibit Daniel and Toby from transferring certain proceeds of the sale of real property, which they received from Debtor in 2017.

On February 20, 2019, Daniel filed a motion to dismiss the main bankruptcy case pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 707(A). Daniel's primary argument in support of dismissal is that the instant bankruptcy case was filed by Toby, and that Toby lacked the authority to file the case. Daniel also briefly argues that Debtor has not adequately performed her duties as a debtor. On March 13, 2019, Trustee filed his opposition to the motion to dismiss. In support of the opposition, Trustee argues that: (1) Daniel lacks standing to bring the instant motion; (2) Toby had authority to file the bankruptcy, or, alternatively, that the filing was subsequently ratified; (3) dismissal would be prejudicial to creditors; and (4) dismissal would be prejudicial to Debtor.

Chapter 7

Of additional note is that Debtor filed a motion to appoint Toby as her next friend on December 31, 2018. No action has been taken on the motion, however, and the motion appears to be procedurally improper.

DISCUSSION

I. PREJUDICE TO CREDITORS/DEBTOR

Trustee has not cited to any legal provision or case law in support of its contention that the Court should consider prejudice to creditors in this situation. While prejudice to creditors is certainly relevant in the context of some motions to dismiss, the factor is wholly inappropriate when the validity of the bankruptcy filing itself is at issue. In the absence of any legal support for this proposition, the Court is inclined to summarily reject the argument.

Similarly, the Court finds it inappropriate to separately analyze whether dismissal of the bankruptcy would be prejudicial to Debtor, at least on the record before the Court. Regardless of whether the prosecution of the bankruptcy case would be beneficial to Debtor, it is Debtor, or Debtor's appropriate representative, who is entitled to make that determination, not Trustee. If a determination is ultimately made that it is in the best interests of Debtor to continue with the case, Debtor may ratify the instant filing, as more fully stated below.

II. STANDING

An additional argument made by Trustee in opposition to the motion to dismiss is that Daniel lacks standing to bring the motion. Trustee appropriately cites the recitation of constitutional standing contained in In re Sherman, 493 F.3d 948, 970 (9th Cir. 2007) for the legal standard. As stated in In re Sherman, "[t]o establish standing under Article III, a party must demonstrate that (1) it has suffered an injury in fact that is (a) concrete and particularized and (b) actual or imminent, not conjectural or hypothetical; (2) the injury is fairly traceable to the challenged action of the defendant; and (3) it is likely, as opposed to merely speculative, that the injury will be redressed by a favorable decision."

In support of its contention that Daniel lacks standing to bring the instant motion, Trustee includes a footnote, which states: "Daniel is a party in interest in the Adversary Case but that does not make him a party in interest in this underlying chapter 7 case." The Court is not convinced that this is a priori true. The Sherman standard outlined above requires that the injury be "fairly traceable." Here, the injury which would be suffered by Daniel as a defendant in the adversary proceeding seems traceable to the maintenance of the main bankruptcy case, and dismissal of the main bankruptcy case would ultimately result in dismissal of the adversary proceeding. While neither party has provided any case law to guide the Court's analysis of standing in the instant situation, the "fairly traceable" standard would seem to impart standing to Daniel. For example, in In re Alvarado, 496 B.R. 200, 206 (N.D. Cal. 2013), the court ruled that an attorney had independent standing to challenge the dismissal of the bankruptcy case, when that dismissal resulted in an order requiring the disgorgement of attorney fees. In that case, the attorney was not a party in interest in the bankruptcy proceeding, yet the dismissal of the case caused an injury to the attorney, satisfying the standards for standing. See also In re Azam, 2014 WL 12689267 at *4 (C.D. Cal. 2014) (Appellee had standing to move for dismissal because "Appellee had a pecuniary interest and practical stake in the bankruptcy case, at least because it is the current plaintiff in an unlawful detainer action against Appellant and is a defendant in an adversary proceeding filed by Appellant.") (emphasis added). Put another way, "standing in bankruptcy is determined under the 'person aggrieved' test, under which only one who is directly and adversely affected pecuniarily has standing to appeal a bankruptcy court's order." In re Aheong, 276 B.R. 233, 238 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2002) (quotation omitted). In any event, the Court notes Daniel has filed a proof of claim.

Nevertheless, it is unclear whether it is necessary for the Court to determine that Daniel has standing to bring the instant motion because it is clear that the same issue could be raised by the Court, sua sponte, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 105(a). See, e.g., In re Hurt, 234 B.R. 1, 2 (Bankr. D.N.H. 1999) ("[T]he Court, sua sponte, issued an order to show cause why the case should not be dismissed for failure to provide evidence that Ms. O'Neil is the debtor's attorney in fact and that Ms. O'Neil has been given specific authority to file a bankruptcy petition on behalf of Ms. Hurt and to take action incident to the bankruptcy filing."); see also, In re Brown, 163 B.R. 596, 597 (Bankr. N.D. Fla. 1993) ("The validity of a petition is a threshold question in determining a bankruptcy court's jurisdiction over a case.").

For the reasons stated above, the Court is inclined to find that Daniel has standing to bring the instant motion. Alternatively, Trustee may be afforded an opportunity to file a supplemental brief containing appropriate legal support for its contention that Daniel lacks standing to bring the instant motion. If the latter option is preferred, however, the Court will also enter an order to show cause why the case should not be dismissed as a legal nullity, to be heard simultaneously with a continued hearing.

III. RATIFICATION OF FILING

The primary argument raised by Trustee is that: "[t]he Motion should be denied because Toby had the authority to file the petition, Debtor has ratified the filing by assisting in the filing, and any other procedural deficiencies can be cured through the appointment of a next friend or guardian ad litem." [Dkt. No. 21, pg 4, lines 3-5]. These are three distinct arguments which will be addressed separately.

The first contention, that Toby had authority to file the petition, while possibly true in a technical sense, cannot render the instant filing valid because, as conceded by Trustee, "even if the Court finds the power of attorney gave Toby the authority to commence this case, he did not sign in his representative capacity." [Dkt. No. 21, pg. 4, lines 11-12].

The second contention, that Debtor subsequently ratified the filing, lacks affirmative evidence in the record. Nevertheless, ratification typically does not require an affirmative act. See, e.g., Hager v. Gibson, 108 F.3d 35 (4th Cir. 1997); In re Ballard, 1987 WL 191320 *1 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 1987) ("debtor may be estopped from denying validity of petition once he has knowingly accepted the benefits"); see also Rakestraw v. Rodriguez, 8 Cal.3d 67, 73 (Cal. 1972) ("A purported agent's act may be adopted expressly or it may be adopted by implication based on conduct of the purported principal from which an intention to consent to or adopt the act may be fairly inferred."). The record submitted by Trustee is, however, simply inadequate to support a finding of ratification at the present time.

The ratification issues becomes even more problematic because of the implication that Debtor is sufficiently incompetent to justify the appointment of a next friend. FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 1004.1 allows "a representative, including a general guardian, committee, conservator, or similar fiduciary," to file a voluntary petition on behalf of an incompetent person.

The rule further provides that:

[a]n infant or incompetent person who does not have a duly appointed representative may file a voluntary petition by next friend or guardian ad litem. The court shall appoint a guardian ad litem for an infant or incompetent person who is a debtor and is not otherwise represented or shall make any other order to protect the infant or incompetent debtor.

Rule 1004.1 is patterned after FED.R.CIV.P. Rule 17(c), which applies to adversary proceedings pursuant to FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 7017. That rule provides that an incompetent person may sue "by a next friend or by a guardian ad litem" if the incompetent person does not have a duly appointed representative, and provides that "[t]he court must appoint a guardian ad litem—or issue another appropriate order—to protect a minor or incompetent person who is unrepresented in an action."

Cases interpreting Rule 17(c) look to the law of the state in which the subject is domiciled and follow the state's incompetency laws." In re Burchell, 2014 WL 1304635, at *1 (Bankr. N.D. Ohio 2014)(internal citations omitted). This Court looks to the California Probate Code's § 811 which outlines the possible bases for a determination that a person is of unsound mind or lacks capacity to make a decision or do a certain act, including for example, incapacity to contract or to execute wills or trusts.

The motion for appointment of a next friend, however, is not before the Court, and there is no evidence as to Debtor's incompetence. There is also no evidence before the Court that Debtor has affirmatively ratified the filing, or knowingly accepted the benefits of the bankruptcy.

BACKGROUND

On August 15, 2018, Visiting Nurse Association of the Inland Counties ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. On November 2, 2018, The H.N. and Frances C. Berger Foundation ("Berger Foundation") filed its motion to compel payment of administrative rent or immediate rejection of lease and related relief. On November 13, 2018, Debtor filed its opposition.

The subject of the motion is a lease dated August 15, 2008, for certain nonresidential real property located in Palm Desert, California. According to Berger Foundation, "[p]ursuant to the terms of lease, should the Debtor continue to occupy the premises after August 14, 2018, the lease obligation increases to approximately $91,216.50 per month," [Dkt. No. 194, pg. 2] a doubling of the contractual monthly rental obligation. Berger Foundation requests: (1) that Debtor be compelled to cure the default on the lease or surrender the premises; and (2) allowance of an administrative expense claim

Debtor's opposition argued that: (1) the lease cannot be assumed or rejected because the lease expired the day before the petition date; and (2) because the lease expired prepetition, the legal basis for the requested administrative expense claim is invalid.

On November 27, 2018, the Court held a hearing on the matter, and continue the hearing for three weeks for supplemental briefing. On December 18, 2018, the Court posted a tentative ruling prior to the continued hearing, indicating that it was inclined to hold that the lease terminated pre-petition, and, therefore, the lease was not an executory contract. The Court continued the matter again, allowing the parties the opportunity to further brief the matter, and to enable the parties to supplement the record to afford the Court the opportunity to assess Berger Foundation's request for administrative rent.

On January 18, 2019, Berger Foundation filed a supplement. On February 1, 2019, Debtor filed a response. Because Berger Foundation has not presented any new argument relating to 11 U.S.C. § 365, the Court is not inclined to modify its tentative, which is outlined in the first portion of the discussion section. Instead, the Court will address the parties' arguments relating to 11 U.S.C. § 503.

DISCUSSION

I. 11 U.S.C. § 365

The critical legal question at issue is whether the operative lease expired prepetition. Berger Foundation relies on 11 U.S.C. § 365(d)(3) as the basis for both its requests, and that provision states:

Chapter 11

The trustee shall timely perform all the obligations of the debtor, except those specified in section 365(b)(2), arising from and after the order for relief under any unexpired lease of nonresidential real property, until such lease is assumed or rejected, notwithstanding section 503(b)(1) of this title. The court may extend, for cause, the time for performance of any such obligation that arises within 60 days after the date of the order for relief, but the time for performance shall not be extended beyond such 60-day period. This subsection shall not be deemed to affect the trustee's obligations under the provisions of subsection (b) or (f) of the section. Acceptance of any such performance does not constitute waiver or relinquishment of the lessor's rights under such lease or under this title.

(emphasis added).

As a general rule, an expired lease is no longer executory, and, therefore, is no longer assumable, if the lease expired prepetition. See, e.g., In re Acorn Invs., 8 B.R. 506, 509-10 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1981). Therefore, the Court must determine whether the lease at issue expired prepetition. See Robinson v. Chicago Hous. Auth., 54 F.3d 316, 320 (7th Cir. 1995) ("the federal law allowing 'unexpired' leases to be assumed calls for a determination whether a lease has ended under state law."). Here, Debtor argues that the lease expired pre-petition, resulting in a holdover tenancy, in which no privity of contract exists, while Berger Foundation argues that the lease became a month to month tenancy and, therefore, was not expired. While the parties appear to be agree on the operative legal standard, the parties disagree regarding how that standard applies to the facts here

Both parties refer to CAL. CIV. CODE § 1945, which states:

If a lessee of real property remains in possession thereof after the expiration of the hiring, and the lessor accepts rent from him, the parties are presumed to have renewed the hiring on the same terms and for the same time, not exceeding one month when the rent is payable monthly, nor in any case one year.

As a preliminary matter, the Court notes that it appears the above legal provision should not actually be applicable to the instant situation. Specifically, CAL. CIV. CODE § 1940(a), (c) states the following:

- (a) Except as provided in subdivision (b), this chapter shall apply to all persons who hire dwelling units located within this state included tenants, boarders, lodgers, and others, however denominated.
- (c) "Dwelling unit" means a structure or the part of a structure that is used as a home, residence, or sleeping place by one person who maintains a household or by two or more persons who maintain a common household.

Here, the lease at issue was a commercial lease which would remove the lease from the purview of § 1945 based upon the plain language of § 1940. Nevertheless, the Court notes that there is ample caselaw, some of which is cited by the parties, in which California courts have applied § 1945 to commercial property. Although it is not clear to this Court why that section is inapplicable to the instant situation, the Court will defer to the state law courts on this issue of state law.

Ultimately, the argument of Berger Foundation boils down to the following:

In this case, after the expiration of the Lease terms (August 14, 2018), Debtor continued to occupy the Premises. Berger continued to accept the Debtor as a tenant and took no action to terminate the Debtor's leasehold interest in the Premises. To the contrary, as this Court's record reflects, from the outset, Berger has been focusing on receiving rent payments and, in fact, received post-petition payments of not less than $15,000 as of the date of this Reply. Clearly, pursuant to Civil Code § 1945 and applicable California authority, the

Chapter 11

Lease converted to a month-to-month tenancy after August 14, 2018.

[Dkt. No. 278, pg. 3]. Debtor's argument, on the other hand, appears to be that Berger Foundation's actions in this case simply do not reflect clear consent to Debtor's continued possession of the premises.

First, there appears to be a timing issue which has not been identified by the parties. The operative lease expired, by its own terms, on August 14, 2018. The instant bankruptcy was filed on August 15, 2018. Therefore, assuming, arguendo, that rent was paid and accepted in a matter which would trigger the statutory presumption in CAL. CIV. CODE § 1945, such event would have occurred after the petition date. City v. Hart, 175 Cal. App. 3d 92, 94 (Cal. Ct. App. 1985) ("The statute provides the landlord's consent to the holding over is implied if he accepts rent from the tenant after the expiration of the lease. This consent to the holding over must be established before the statutory presumption of the same terms becomes effective.") (emphasis added). Therefore, the lease at issue would have been, as of the petition date, expired and not assumable. Quite simply, on the record before the Court, it is implausible that Berger Foundation could have undertaken any action in the fraction of the day before the instant bankruptcy filing which would have indicated consent to the creation of a month-to-month tenancy.

Furthermore, outside of the bankruptcy law issues raised above, Berger Foundation's position does not seem to be compatible with state law. Quite simply, the presumptions outlined in CAL. CIV. CODE § 1945 are analogous to contractual principles in common law. By remaining in possession of the property, and tendering a rental payment, a holdover tenant is making an offer; by accepting such tender, the landlord manifests his assent to such offer. Berger Foundation seems to be positing that the payment of any rent whatsoever, even a single dollar, subsequently accepted by the landlord, results in the extension of the lease terms on the original contractual terms.

Berger Foundation's argument, however, is inconsistent with fundamental contractual principles, for, in the case of a minimal rental payment, it cannot be said that either party has made an offer, accepted by the other party, to renew the original lease terms. At best, the landlord's implied acquiescence may be construed as an offer, yet the tenant's tender of a minimal rental payment can only be interpreted as a counter-offer, since such a tender would be materially inconsistent with the terms of the offer. If the landlord accepts this reduced tender, the terms agreed upon must be construed as those set forth in the counter-offer, a principle codified in CAL. CIV. PRO. § 2076:

The person to whom a tender is made must, at the time, specify any objection he may have to the money, instrument, or property, or he must be deemed to have waived it; and if the objection be to the amount of money, the terms of the instrument, or the amount or kind of property, he must specify the amount, terms, or kind which he requires, or be precluded from objecting afterwards.

See also Taylor v. Taylor, 39 Cal. App. 2d 518, 521 (Cal. Ct. App. 1940) ("It is now settled by these cases that where the tenant tenders, and the landlord accepts, as full payment of the rent, a less monthly rental than that reserved in the lease, he cannot later recover the unpaid balance of the rent reserved.")

While the above principle, a principle of estoppel, is properly subject to the Court's consideration of equities, such consideration would simply not change the fact that a reduced monthly rental payment cannot be considered acquiescence to a renewal of the original contractual terms. In the absence of such mutual agreement to be bound to the original terms, there simply cannot be contractual privity.

Finally, the Court notes that the operation of CAL. CIV. CODE § 1945 is to create a rebuttable presumption that the lease has been extended. Assuming, arguendo, that the bankruptcy and contract law issues noted above were not present, it appears probable that such a presumption would be rebutted in the instant case. The Court is not aware of any action taken by Debtor that would support a conclusion that Debtor intended to renew the lease on the original terms, and Berger Foundation has made repeated statements which would be incompatible with the presumption in § 1945. For instance, in the instant motion Berger Foundation made the following statements, which are implicitly and explicitly more compatible with a holdover tenancy than a month-to-month tenancy:

- "Since the filing of this case, the Debtor has continued, and continues, to occupy the Premises, yet has failed to pay the rental obligation due and owing." [Dkt. No 194, pg. 2 and 4]

- "Based on the fact that the Debtor remained as a holdover tenant, and pursuant to the terms of the Lease, the rental obligation increases to approximately $91,216.50 per month." [Dkt. No. 194, pg. 4 and 10] (emphasis added).

- "Here, the Debtor has made no payments while continuing to occupy the Premises." [Dkt. No. 194, pg. 6].

For the reasons outlined above, the Court concludes that the lease in question was expired as of the petition date because nothing in the record indicates that Berger Foundation provided consent to continued possession of the premises in the less than one-day period between the expiration of the lease and the instant bankruptcy filing. To the extent that Berger Foundation argues that postpetition acts retroactively revived the original lease terms, such retroactive revival would seem to be incompatible with City v. Hart, 175 Cal. App. 3d 92, 94 (Cal. Ct. App. 1985). Furthermore, because Debtor did not remotely act in accordance with the original lease terms, it cannot be said that Debtor actions constituted a renewal of those terms; if any lease was entered into postpetition, it must have been on substantially different terms, which would require notice and a hearing. Additionally, even if the statutory presumption of CAL. CIV. CODE § 1945 were applicable in the instant situation, the Court concludes that such presumption would likely be rebutted based on the fact that Debtor did not act in accordance with the original terms, and based on Berger Foundation's explicit characterization of Debtor as a holdover tenant.

II. 11 U.S.C. § 503

11 U.S.C. § 503(b)(1)(A) states:

(1)(A) the actual, necessary costs and expenses of preserving the estate including –

"An administrative rent claim under this standard is value 'under an objective worth standard that measures the fair and reasonable value of the lease.'" *In re Pac.-Atl. "The rent reserved in the lease is presumptive evidence of fair and reasonable value, but the presumption may be rebutted by demonstrating that the reasonable worth of the lease differs from the contract rate." In re Thompson, 788 F.2d 560, 563 (9th Cir. 1986). "Where the debtor or trustee only uses a portion of the lease property, however, he must pay an administrative expense only for that portion of the property." Id. at 562. The Court continued the previous hearing for the parties to provide evidence and argument regarding the objective value of the portion of the leased property utilized by Debtor.

Debtor first, very briefly, argues that the parties have implicitly agreed to a rental rate of $5,000 per month, and that that amount should be used in calculating Berger Foundation's administrative claim. Debtor appears to base this argument on the Court's tentative ruling for the hearing of December 18, 2018; specifically, Debtor refers to Taylor v. Taylor, 39 Cal. App. 2d 518, 521 (Cal. Ct. App. 1940). The Court rejects Debtor's approach. The relevant language in the Court's tentative ruling is used to illustrate that, in the context of a holdover tenancy, the original contractual terms do not necessarily control when the parties have acted in a manner which is materially inconsistent with those terms. Importantly, here, the $5,000 payment discussed by Debtor is not necessarily a "rental" payment, but is more accurately characterized as an "adequate protection" payment. Adequate protection payments may be in amounts substantially different than the actual amount due – for instant, an adequate protection payment may be interest only, or may attempt to estimate the depreciation of the estate, in order to protect the secured creditor's interest. Furthermore, it would not be equitable to apply the estoppel principle codified in CAL. CIV. PRO. § 2076 in the context of bankruptcy, where the lender does have the ability to reject the payment and, without constraint, exercise its traditional state law rights.

Debtor's primary argument is that the contract rate of the lease is an "inappropriate measure" of the objective worth of the lease because Debtor did not use the entirety of the leased premises. Specifically, Debtor argues that it only utilized 4,000 square feet of the leased premises. Berger Foundation, on the other hand, makes two arguments in response: (1) that the entirety of the premises were necessary for Debtor to maintain its CMS license; and (2) that Debtor actually utilized the majority of the premises. In support of its argument, Debtor has provided declarations attesting that Debtor only used 4,000 square feet, and that, after moving into a smaller space, Debtor did not lose any funding, or, presumably, its license. Berger Foundation has provided a declaration which includes the vague statement that Debtor "continued to utilize the majority of the Premises."

The record provided to the Court is, unfortunately, unclear and incapable of providing the necessary evidentiary framework for a precise mathematical calculation. First, there is conflicting evidence regarding whether Debtor used only 4,000 square feet. Second, and more importantly, the evidence seems to suggest, but is still unclear, that the Debtor required all the space to maintain its license (or at least thought it had to). Debtor's response states the following: "Although it is true the Debtor was concerned it might lose funding if it lost its physical address in Palm Desert by hastily vacating the Premises, a belief that the Debtor needed a physical address for funding does not trump the Ninth Circuit requirement that the Debtor actually use the entirety of the Premises. In fact, Berger does not cite to any authority for this proposition." [Dkt. No. 323, pg. 10, lines 6-10].

On the record before it, the Court concludes Debtor has failed to demonstrate it did not use the entirety of the premises. More specifically, the Court concludes that there are a variety of ways that a space can be "used," and that that term is not limited to physical occupancy by the tenant. While, again, the record before the Court is less than clear, it appears that Debtor represented that it had control over, and occupancy of, the entirety of the premises for purposes of its licensing and funding. As a result, it appears Debtor continued to "use" the leased premises for some purposes, even if such use did not necessarily amount to physical use of the entirety of the premises for normal business operations. Because Debtor has not established that the use of the full premises was not reasonably necessary to preserve the estate, the Court rejects Debtor's attempt to reduce the space used to 4,000 square foot. As a result, the Court concludes that Debtor has not rebutted the presumption that the contract rate represents the reasonable value of the leased premises used.

BACKGROUND

On October 16, 2017, Christy Hammond ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On January 29, 2018, Debtor received her discharge. On April 23, 2018, Trustee filed a notice of assets.

On February 4, 2019, Trustee filed an application to employ real estate broker to market certain real property located at 5918 Ridgeway Dr., Chino Hills, CA 91709 (the "Property"). On February 18, 2019, Debtor filed her opposition to the application. Debtor's opposition raises four arguments: (1) that there is no equity in the Property; (2) broker is charging excessive commission fee; (3) broker is not a qualified broker but is rather an agent; and (4) only the Debtor's half joint interest is property of the estate. On March 20, 2019, Trustee filed its reply.

the following reasons:

Chapter 7

- 1) While Debtor argues that Trustee's sales price is unreasonably high, Debtor has not provided any persuasive evidence to support that assertion. The only evidence referenced by Debtor, Debtor's statement of the value of the Property in the schedules, is inadequate to defeat an application to employ a real estate broker.
- 2) Debtor has not provided any admissible evidence in support of her contention that the proposed broker's fees are unreasonably high. Regardless, the Court retains jurisdiction to review the proposed compensation of the broker at the appropriate time.
- 3) Debtor has not provided any admissible evidence in support of her contention that the proposed broker is not a qualified broker.
- 4) Finally, Debtor's argument that only a fractional interest in the Property is property of the estate, if true, is inadequate to defeat an application to employ real estate broker. Furthermore, there is no evidence in the record to suggest that the Property is anything but community property, which would appear to be property of the estate pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 541(a)(2).

For the reasons stated above, the Court is inclined to APPROVE the application.

1. Background

On December 30, 2010, Brian & Delia Gudets ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On April 20, 2011, Debtors received a discharge. On October 6, 2011, the case was closed.

On November 27, 2017, UST filed a motion to reopen the case to potentially administer a settlement award arising from prepetition litigation. On January 4, 2018, Debtors amended Schedules B and C to schedule a personal injury claim in the amount of $50,000, and claim an exemption in the property of $50,000. The Court notes that this amendment may have been in violation of FED. R. BANKR. P. Rules 1009(a) and 9006(b)(1), however, the Trustee declined to object to the amended exemptions. On February 13, 2018, the IRS filed a proof of claim ("Claim 4") in the amount of $92,398.37, identifying $34,307.73 as secured and $57,990.64 as entitled to priority.

On April 9, 2018, Trustee filed a motion to approve compromise, which was approved by this Court on May 3, 2018. After receiving, $50,000 from the approved settlement, Trustee's general and special counsel filed applications for compensation.

Trustee filed the instant final report on December 11, 2018. The final report proposes to pay $41,488.74 to Trustee and his counsels for administrative expenses, and to pay the remaining $6,011.26 on account of Claim 4.

The Court held a hearing on the matter on January 16, 2019, and continued the matter for Trustee to file a supplemental brief. On March 5, 2019, Trustee filed a supplemental brief, and then amended the brief on March 20, 2019.

2. The Court's Previous Tentative Ruling

The Court's previous tentative included the following:

In essence, Trustee's proposed distribution pays the Chapter 7 administrative expenses first, the priority tax claim of the IRS second, and the Debtor's exemption third (although there are no funds available at this point). After reviewing the compromise motion, it appears that the Trustee's rationale is as follows. First, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 522(c)(2)(B), exempt property of the Debtor is liable for Claim 4. Second, pursuant to § 724(b), payments made on behalf of IRS are only to be made after payment of the administrative expenses of the estate. Trustee appears to miss, however, § 522(k), which provides that exempt property cannot be used to pay administrative expenses, except under limited circumstances which are not applicable here. This provision would seem to preclude Trustee's attempt to jump ahead of Debtor's exemption in the order of distribution.

At first glance, the three cited provisions above would seem paradoxical. According to Trustee, 11 U.S.C. § 522(c)(2)(B) places Claim 4 above Debtor's exemption. According to Trustee, 11 U.S.C. § 724(b) appears clear that payment on behalf of Claim 4 is subordinated to payment of administrative expenses. And 11 U.S.C. § 522(k) appears clear that payment of administrative expenses is subordinated to payment of Debtor's exemption.

Chapter 7

The Court's resolution of this paradox is the following. 11 U.S.C. § 724(b) is only applicable to "[p]roperty in which the estate has an interest." Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 522(b)(1), the settlement proceeds at issue are subject to an exemption and therefore have been "exempt[ed] from property of the estate." See also Schwab v. Reilly, 560 U.S. 770, 775 (2010) ("If an interested party fails to object within the time allowed, a claimed exemption will exclude the subject property from the estate."). Therefore, the estate does not have an interest in the settlement proceeds and § 724(b) is inapplicable. Because § 724(b) is inapplicable, the remaining provisions place Claim 4 ahead of the exemption and the exemption ahead of the administrative expenses. As a result, Trustee's is precluded from jumping Claim 4 and Debtor's exemption in the order of distribution. Therefore, the proper distribution appears to be to pay the secured portion of Claim 4, and to return the balance to the Debtor on account of Debtor's exemption in the proceeds.

3. Applicable Statutes

11 U.S.C. § 724(b)(1)-(3) state the following:

(b) Property in which the estate has an interest and that is subject to a lien that is not avoidable under this title (other than to the extent that there is a properly perfected unavoidable tax lien arising in connection with an ad valorem tax on real or personal property of the estate) and that secures an allowed claim for a tax, or proceeds of such property, shall be distributed –

- (1) first, to any holder of an allowed claim secured by a lien on such property that is not avoidable under this title and that is senior to such tax lien
- (2) second, to any holder of a claim of a kind specified in section 507(a)(1)(C) or 507(a)(2) (except that such expenses under each such section, other than claims for wages, salaries, or commissions that arise after the date of the filing of the petition, shall be limited to expenses incurred under this chapter and shall not include expenses, incurred under chapter 11 of this title), 507(a)(1)(A), 507(a)(1)(B), 507(a)(3), 507(a)(4), 507(a)(5), 507(a)(6), or 507(a)(7) of this title, to the extent of the amount of such allowed tax claim that is secured by such tax lien;
- (3) third, to the holder of such tax lien, to any extent that such holder's allowed tax claim that is secured by such tax lien exceeds any amount distributed under paragraph (2) of this subsection.

11 U.S.C. § 522(c)(2)(B) states the following:

(c) Unless the case is dismissed, property exempted under this section is not liable during or after the case for any debt of the debtor that arose, or that is determined under section 502 of this title as if such debt had arisen, before the commencement of the case, except –

(2) a debt secured by a lien that is –

(B) a tax lien, notice of which is properly filed

11 U.S.C. § 522(k) states the following: "Property that the debtor exempts under this section is not liable for payment of any administrative expense except . . ." (exceptions inapplicable to instant situation).

4. Analysis

In support of its proposed distribution scheme, Trustee extensively cites three cases: (1) In re Fearing, 2008 WL 4690967 (C.D. Cal. 2008); (2) In re Laredo, 334 B.R. 401 (Bankr. N.D. Ill. 2005); and (3) In re Bolden, 327 B.R. 657 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2005).

The Court does not find In re Fearing to be helpful. The district court's affirmance was summary, and the bankruptcy court opinion was not published. Furthermore, to the extent In re Fearing engaged in any analysis, it appears to have simply adopted the rationale of the other two cases referenced above.

Additionally, the Court does not find In re Laredo to be particularly helpful. First, the Court notes that In re Laredo does not appear to make an effort to resolve the apparent conflict between the three statutes cited above; 11 U.S.C. § 522(k) is not cited anywhere in the decision. Second, the Court notes that the extensive excerpt quoted in Trustee's supplemental brief has been rejected by the majority of the courts that have quoted that section.

The Court does, however, find In re Bolden to contain helpful analysis. Specifically, the following statement from the bankruptcy court in In re Bolden has the potential to resolve the conflict between the three, ostensibly incompatible statutory provisions:

Chapter 7

"Generally, a debtor is not entitled to claim a homestead exemption on property that is subject to an IRS levy." In re Bolden, 327 B.R. 657, 663 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2005). In other words, if Debtors' exemption is not valid to the extent the underlying property is encumbered by an IRS lien, then the prohibition of § 522(k) does not apply to the extent of the IRS lien. See also GINSBERG & MARTIN ON BANKRUPTCY § 6.02[D][2] (5th ed. 2019) ("Section 522(c)(2)(B) gives special protection to taxes by providing that the debtor cannot claim an exemption in property subject to a properly filed tax lien."). Here, the Court concludes that Debtors are unable to claim an exemption in the settlement proceeds to the extent of the properly noticed tax lien. See, e.g., Owen v. Owen, 500 U.S. 305, 308-09 (1991); see also In re Hannon, 514 B.R. 69 (Bankr. D. Mass. 2014).

To the extent that there are proceeds available above and beyond the amount of the tax lien, however, Debtors' exemption is valid and those funds cannot be used to pay administrative costs due to the unambiguous prohibition included within § 522(k). See In re Selander, 592 B.R. 729, 735 (Bankr. W.D. Wash. 2018) ("In the absence of the IRS lien, the Trustee's request would amount to the naked use of exempt funds to pay costs of the sale and his fees – a result prohibited by § 522(k)."). Of particular note is the fact that all of the cases relied upon by Trustee pre-date Law v. Siegel, 571 U.S. 415, 422 (2014). Prior to Law v. Siegel, courts not infrequently used various equitable powers to essentially surcharge a debtor's exemption to pay administrative costs. See, e.g., 4 COLLIER'S ON BANKRUPTCY ¶ 522.12[7] (16th ed. 2014) ("Despite the protection provided for exemptions in section 522(k), a number of courts had held that a debtor's exempt property could be surcharged for administrative expenses in circumstances beyond those provided for in the statute."). Now, however, the Court is left with no discretion over the application of § 522(k) to the extent Debtors have an allowed exemption in equity in the proceeds. Trustee having failed to object to Debtors' claimed exemption, Debtors' exemption is valid to the extent that there is equity in the proceeds.

The Court notes that on March 19, 2019, the IRS amended Claim 4 to reduce its claim to $4,255.91. Therefore, Debtors' exemption applies to the remaining $45,744.09, and Trustee can use the framework of 11 U.S.C. §724(b) to distribute the remaining $4,255.91 for administrative costs.

Chapter 7

Trustee next argues that the state court counsel has an equitable attorney lien on the settlement proceeds. The Court rejects this argument for the following reason. Any attorney lien created in this case would have been created postpetition because the underlying state court litigation was not commenced until twenty-one months after the petition date. 11 U.S.C. § 541 (a)(1) provides that property of the estate includes all "legal or equitable interests of the debtor in property as of the commencement of the case." (emphasis added). Because the alleged attorney lien did not exist as of the commencement of the case, it would not have impaired Debtors' interest in the litigation claim (or its proceeds pursuant to § 541(a)(6)), and therefore, subject to other liens, Debtors' exemption is valid against the entirety of the proceeds. Because Debtors' exemption is valid in bankruptcy including as to any interest that state court counsel now has a lien against, those proceeds cannot be used to pay the administrative expenses.

The Court need not reach the issue of whether state court counsel has a valid, postpetition lien against the proceeds which may be enforceable pursuant to state law. For the reasons stated in the above paragraph, satisfaction of the postpetition lien, if valid, cannot occur through distribution in bankruptcy court.

The Court is inclined to APPROVE the following distribution: $45,744.09 to Debtors on account of their valid exemption, and the remaining $4,255.91 for administrative costs. Parties to file a supplement or stipulate as to the distribution of funds available for administrative costs.

Tentative Ruling:

3/27/2019

On November 23, 2015, James Walker ("Debtor") filed a chapter 7 voluntary petition. On May 25, 2016, the Court ordered Debtor to turn over certain books and records to Trustee. That same day, the Court authorized the employment of Best Best & Krieger ("Counsel") as general counsel for Trustee.

On July 28, 2016, UST filed a complaint against Debtor objecting to discharge. The adversary was quickly resolved, resulting in the entry of a judgment denying discharge on September 7, 2016.

On March 6, 2017, the Court entered an order authorizing the employment of Century 21- Lois Lauer Realty as real estate broker for Trustee, to facilitate the marketing of certain real property located in Hesperia, California (the "Property"). Between June and November 2017, all of the claims filed in Debtor's case were either disallowed via Court order, withdrawn, or amended to zero, leaving only administrative creditors.

On March 9, 2018, Trustee filed a motion for turnover of the Property. The motion was continued three times by stipulation of the parties. On October 2, 2018, the Court granted the motion for turnover. On December 21, 2018, Trustee filed a motion for an OSC why Debtor should not be held in contempt for failure to comply with the turnover order. This motion was denied for procedural reasons on January 3, 2019. On January 10, 2019, the motion was refiled, and the Court issued an order to show cause on January 24, 2019. A further interim order on the order to show cause was entered on February 11, 2019.

On February 15, 2019, Counsel filed an application for compensation, requesting an aggregate of $43,123.69 in fees and costs. The application was amended on February 28, 2019 (amended application referred to as the "Application"). The Court notes that it did receive any timely opposition to the amended application.

The Court notes that the Application fails to comply with the Local Rules in two immaterial respects. First, the Court notes that the Application does not contain a disclosure of the amount of money on hand in the estate or the estimated accrued expenses of other professionals pursuant to Local Rule 2016-(1)(a)(1)(A)(iii), although the Court presumes that the amount is zero for both. Second, the Court notes that because there is a second professional employed in this case, the real estate broker, this hearing should have technically been set on 45 days' notice pursuant to Local Rule 2016-(1)(a)(2). Given that the real estate broker is not the sort of professional who would file an interim fee application, however, the Court will waive this requirement.

The Court notes that Counsel has voluntarily reduced its fees by $9,610 in the instant application, and that the remaining fees arise from 125.9 hours of work at a blended hourly rate of $326.40/hour.

There are extensive issues with the Application. These issues are summarized as follows:

- (1) Billing practices related to the Order to Show Cause. The original order to show cause filed with the Court was denied for technical and procedural reasons as briefly described in the relevant Court order [Dkt. No. 129]. While the amended motion, filed on January 10, 2019, was not substantially identical to the original motion, it is materially similar. Page 37 of docket number 152 indicates that Counsel spent 11.4 hours on the original motion, and then spent 6.7 hours on the new, materially similar motion, excluding related time entries that have been placed in a different billing category. Given that the denial of the first motion was based on its technical and procedural inadequacy, the Court is inclined to disallow all time entries that were related to the preparation of the first order to show cause. This includes $1,050 billed between December 19, 2018, and January 8, 2019, and identified as administrative fees, and $2,847 billed between November 9, 2018, and December 20, 2018, and identified in the asset analysis and recovery category. The Court concludes that these fees did not, and, given the clear technical and procedural deficiencies, could not, have produced any benefit for the estate.

- (2) Billing related to the denial of discharge. The Court notes that in August 2016 of the litigation section of Counsel's application, Counsel has billed $1,565 for work related to a complaint to deny (actually revoke) discharge. The Court notes that these billing entries occurred: (1) after the deadline for Trustee to file a complaint objecting to Debtor's discharge; and (2) after UST filed its own complaint objecting to Debtor's discharge. The Court finds that Counsel's work relating to a potential adversary proceeding to revoke discharge, while UST is prosecuting an adversary proceeding to deny discharge, was not reasonable or necessary, especially given the context of this case and the high probability of success for UST. Therefore, the Court is inclined to deny these entries in their entirety.
- (3) Miscellaneous. The Court notes that there is a single entry under the category of negotiations with Trustee, which includes 5.2 hours of billed time and is lumped. First, it is not exactly clear what this billing entry refers to, but, nevertheless, the Court is unable to ascertain the reasonableness of this entry given the lumping. Therefore, the Court is inclined to disallow this entry in the amount of $1,274.

The Court also notes its displeasure with Counsel's practice of separating closely related work entries into multiple categories, obscuring the record, and unnecessarily complicating the Court's review and analysis of the time sheets.

Based on the reasons stated above, and noting the lack of any written opposition to the Application, the Court is inclined to ALLOW reduced fees in the amount of $34,358.50 and costs in the amount of $2,029.19.

Docket 33

Tentative Ruling:

MARCH 27TH, 2019

PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

On December 31, 2013, John & Livier Mata ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On April 14, 2014, Debtors received a discharge, and the following day their case was closed.

On April 18, 2018, Debtors filed a complaint against National Collegiate Student Loan Trust 2006-1, National Collegiate Student Loan Trust 2006-4, and National Collegiate Student Loan Trust 2007-1 (collectively, "Defendants") seeking for determination of dischargeability. Specifically, Debtors seek a declaratory judgment that their loans were discharged. On May 18, 2018, Defendants filed their answer.

On January 9, 2019, Defendants filed a motion for summary judgment. On February 5, 2019, Debtors filed their opposition. Defendants filed their reply to Debtor's opposition on February 13, 2019. This matter has been continued once by the Court.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

The background of the extant case is simple, but the underlying context is far more complex.

First Marblehead Corporation is a formerly NYSE listed private company that, in the mid-2000's, was a dominant player in the private student loan business. In early 2001, it purchased the operating assets of The Education Resources Institute (hereinafter "TERI"), a nonprofit group primarily involved in the guaranteeing of private student loans. Beginning in 2001, First Marblehead established a financial plan under which banks would offer private student loans, which would then be collected and repackaged into National Collegiate Student Loan Trusts (hereinafter "NCSLT"), which would all be, at least ostensibly, guaranteed by TERI, intended to grant the loans protection from discharge, and were finally offered on the open market for investment. The banks involved in the funding of these loans include JP Morgan, HSBC, Citizens, PNC, and, in this particular case, Charter One, among many others. There were 15 NCSLTs in total, owning more than 800,000 private loans worth billions of dollars.¹

Beginning in 2005, First Marblehead became increasingly aggressive in expanding loan volume to riskier debtors and increasing the value of those loans. As the economy began its downturn in 2007, default rates began rapidly increasing, resulting in the eventual bankruptcy of TERI in 2008.

The question of the nature of the dischargeability of the NCSLT loans has since been taken on by bankruptcy courts across the country. This is one of those cases.

John Mata took out three $30,000 loans as part of his graduate studies in counseling at Loma Linda University. These occurred in January of 2006, September of 2006, and August of 2007. Each loan was cosigned by Livier Mata, and carried a respective interest rate of 9, 12, and 14%. The loan agreements each stated that the loan was explicitly limited to the costs of attending the school, and one of the loans, that of January 2006 said that TERI was guaranteeing the loan, while the latter two stated that TERI had the option to guarantee the loan. Each of these loans was allegedly then repackaged into the one of the three trusts who are currently the Defendants in this matter (NCSLT 2006-1, 2006-4, 2007-1).

LEGAL STANDARD

Summary judgment should be granted if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment as a matter of law. FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 56(a) (incorporated into bankruptcy proceedings by FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 7056).

The moving party has the burden of establishing the absence of a genuine issue of material fact. Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323 (1986). If the moving party shows the absence of a genuine issue of material fact, the nonmoving party must go beyond the pleadings and identify facts that show a genuine issue for trial. Id. at 324. The court must view the evidence in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party. Bell v. Cameron Meadows Land Co., 669 F.2d 1278, 1284 (9th Cir. 1982). All reasonable doubt as to the existence of a genuine issue of fact should be resolved against the moving party. Hector v. Wiens, 533 F.2d 429, 432 (9th Cir. 1976).

If the moving party meets its initial burden, the non-moving party must set forth, by affidavit or as otherwise provided in Rule 56, specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial. Id. However, the non-moving party "must do more than simply show that there is some metaphysical doubt as to the material fact...." Matsushita Electrical Industry Co. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 586-587 (1986).

A fact is material if it "might affect the outcome of the suit under the governing law." Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248 (1986). A dispute about a material fact is genuine "if the evidence is such that a reasonable jury could return a verdict for the nonmoving party." Id.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

Defendants are seeking to show that Debtors' debts are exempt from discharge under 11 U.S.C. § 523.

11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(8) states:

(a) A discharge under section 727, 1141, 1228(a), or 1328(b) of this title does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt –

(8) unless excepting such debt from discharge would impose an undue hardship on the debtor and the debtor's dependents, for –

(A)(i) an educational benefit overpayment or loan made, insured or guaranteed by a governmental unit, or made under any program funded in whole or in part by a governmental unit or nonprofit institution; or

(ii) an obligation to repay funds received as an educational benefit, scholarship or stipend; or

(B) any other educational loan that is a qualified education loan, as defined in section 221(d)(1) of the Internal Revenue

Chapter 7

Code of 1986, incurred by a debtor who is an individual

Defendants have stated that their motion for summary judgment is based purely nondischargeability of the debt under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(8)(A)(i), and the Court will treat Defendants' and Debtors' argument accordingly. In order for Defendants to establish that Debtors' debts aren't dischargeable under § 523(a)(8)(A)(i), they must prove two elements:

- 1 that the loans to the Debtors were "educational loans" and;
- 2 that the loans were made under any program funded in whole or in part by a nonprofit institution.

It is important to note that discussion of the determination of the dischargeability of student debts, including the discussions that occurred within the court cases cited, all occurs under the shadow of the general rule that exceptions to discharge are to be construed narrowly in favor of the debtor. 4 COLLIER ON BANKRUPTCY P 523.05 (Richard Levin & Henry J. Sommer eds., 16th ed.).

I. Whether Debtors' loans were "educational loans."

Courts analyze whether loans are "educational loans" separately from considering whether they are "qualified educational loans" under 26 U.S.C. § 221. In re Oliver, 499 B.R. 617, 623-4 (Bankr. S.D.In. 2013). § 523(a)(8)(A)(i) requires that the loans be "educational loans", while § 523(a)(8)(B) has a higher standard, requiring that the loans be "qualified educational loans." Id. (finding that all qualified educational loans are educational loans, but not all educational loans are qualified). The 9th Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel has followed this approach, holding that an "educational loan" was distinct from an "educational benefit" or a "qualified educational loan." See Kashikar v. Turnstile Capital Mgmt., LLC (In re Kashikar), 567 B.R. 160, 166 (9th Cir. BAP 2017).

The question of whether a loan is an "educational loan" is determined by its stated purpose, not its actual use. See Busson-Sokolik v. Milwaukee Sch. of Eng'g (In re Busson-Sokolik), 635 F.3d 261, 266 (7th Cir. 2011). The fact that a debtor spent loan proceeds in excess of tuition and expenses does not except debt from discharge. Murphy v. Pa. Higher Educ. Assistance Agency, 282 F.3d 868, 873 (5th Cir. 2002). Educational purpose encompasses both tuition and fees, as well as room, board, and miscellaneous personal expenses, as part of the school's general cost of attendance as calculated by statute. Id. at 872-3 (citing 20 U.S.C. § 1087II(2)-(3)). It is up to the individual schools to calculate their reasonable costs of attendance, which determines the disbursement by lenders (with debtors having the choice of how much of said disbursement to accept and use).

Each of the respective loans in this matter was explicitly restricted to the costs of attending Linda Loma University. (Decl. Bradley Luke, ECF 33, Exhibit A-1 (page 12) (January 2006 loan), Exhibit A-5 (page 57) (September 2006 loan), Exhibit A-9 (page 98) (August 2007 loan)). This appears to clearly state their purpose.

Debtors seeks to challenge the status of the loans as "educational loans" on three grounds. The first is that the amounts disbursed were far in excess of Linda Loma's graduate cost of attendance. The second is that the loans carry an unusually high interest rate, have high origination fees, and required a cosigner and credit check. The third is that the loans are not educational loans because they were provided directly to the consumer and ignored the school's financial aid office.

While limitation to the cost of attendance is an aspect of "qualified educational loans" not "educational loans", disbursement in great excess of the actual amount needed for educational purpose does argue against a finding that the loan was intended for educational purposes and for a purpose closer to a "student credit card" as the Debtors argue. However, Debtors inexcusably attempts to present the mere tuition cost and mandatory fees of the cost of attending Linda Loma, while completely ignoring the room and board and other miscellaneous expenses explicitly included in the calculations of the true cost of attendance. See Plaintiff's Opposition to Motion for Summary Judgment, Exh. 3 at 25, ECF No. 46 (finding a cost of attendance for Loma Linda of 19,640 purely through the addition of the average full-time graduate tuition of 17,760 and the required fees of 1,880, as reported by Institutional Characteristics). By contrast, Debtors have shown that the amounts were in line with Linda Loma's stated cost of attendance for graduate students. Supplemental Request for Judicial Notice Exh. 1-3, ECF No. 565 (showing that the tuition costs of Debtor's program rose from between $33,480-$47,895 to $39,960-57-160 over the course of his three years of attendance, while also showing room and board calculations of more than $15,000 for each year that Debtor attended).

On the second, the Court finds, as other courts have, that commercial features cannot disqualify a loan from being educational, with the sole test being its purpose. Page v. JP Morgan Chase Bank (In re Page), 592 B.R. 334, 336 (8th Cir. BAP 2018). On the third, the Court repeats its finding that purpose controls over form, while also noting that other courts have analyzed direct to consumer loans and the question of whether the loan was disbursed directly to the consumer was a complete non-factor in their decision as to whether they were "educational loans" or not. See id.; see also McDaniel v. Navient Solutions Inc. (In re McDaniel), 590 B.R. 537, 542, 546-551 (Bankr. D.Colo. 2018).

In view of the above, the Court cannot find, even after drawing all reasonable

inferences for the Debtors' that they have established any genuine issues of material fact, or questions of law, as to the question of whether these loans were "educational loans."

II. Whether the loans were "funded, in whole or in part, by a nonprofit institution."

In the current case, Defendants' claim to exemption from discharge under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(8)(A)(i) is dependent on their showing that a nonprofit has funded the loan program under which the loan was made, either in whole, or in part. Defendants argue that the guarantee of the loan program through which Debtors' loan was made by The Education Resources Institute (TERI), a nonprofit institution, satisfies this requirement. This splits the question into two elements. First, whether TERI's guarantee is considered to have legally "funded" the loan program in question. Secondly, whether TERI did in fact guarantee the loans at issue, an issue of factual, not legal, controversy. Debtors raises a third issue, by arguing that the TERI's alleged voiding of the guarantees of the loans in question should strip the loans retroactively of their status as being guaranteed by a nonprofit institution.

A. Whether a nonprofit can "fund" a loan program through guaranteeing the loans.

This question has been litigated throughout several districts, often involving the NCSLTs, with the general consensus of the courts being that a nonprofit guaranteeing a loan functions is the nonprofit funding, in whole or in part, the loan program under which the educational loan was made. See O'Brien v. First Marblehead Educ. Res., Inc. (In re O'Brien), 419 F.3d 104, 106 (2nd Cir. 2005); see also Educ. Res. Inst. Inc. v. Taratuska (In re Taratuska), 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 93206 at *17-18 (D. MA 2008) (reversing In re Taratuska, 374 B.R. 24, 29 (Bankr. D.MA 2007), the only case cited by Debtors supporting their position that guaranteeing and funding are two separate actions, meaning that nonprofits aren't "funding" the loan through their guarantee). The 9th Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel agrees with this line of reasoning, interpreting (A)(i) as covering "an educational benefit overpayment or loan made, insured, or guaranteed by a governmental unit or nonprofit institution." Inst. of Imaginal Studies v. Christoff (In re Christoff), 527 B.R. 624, 632 (9th Cir. BAP 2015). However, the BAP's interpretation of (A)(i) has never been litigated.

In contrast to the general trend cited above, the District of Maine reached an opposite conclusion, finding that the guarantee of a loan by a nonprofit did not constitute the "funding" of the loan. Wiley v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. (In re Wiley), 579 B.R. 1, 6-7 (Bankr. D.Me. 2017). The Wiley court built this finding on their interpretation of O'Brien, stating that it required the nonprofit to both guarantee the loan and fund the loan program, as well as on Educ. Res. Inst., Inc. v. Hammarstrom (In re Hammarstrom), 95 B.R. 160, 165 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 1989). In re Wiley, 579 B.R. at 6-7. However, there are two problems with there interpretation. The first is that Hammerstrom's requirement of the direct funding of the loan, as received by the debtor, by the nonprofit was explicitly challenged by the 9th Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel in HEMAR Service Corp., Inc. v. Pilcher, 149 B.R. 595, 600 (9th Cir. BAP 1993) (reversing the bankruptcy court's holding that a student loan could be discharged due to lack of a nonprofit providing the actual funds that debtor received, and finding that Hammarstrom's requirement was a pure judicial construction, with the real test being whether the nonprofit had played "any meaningful part" in making the funds available under the program). Secondly, the Wiley court's interpretation of O'Brien is deeply flawed at best. The 2nd Circuit in O'Brien did state that the nonprofit had to "fund" the program, however, it defined "funding" using the bankruptcy court's test which required that the nonprofit actually pay out the guarantees when the triggering event occurred, and that the loan program's existence was causally linked to the nonprofit's provision of a guarantee to the for-profit lender for the loan. See O'Brien, 419 F.3d at 105-6 (specifically adopting the test created by the S.D.N.Y. Bankruptcy Court in In re O'Brien, 318 B.R. 258, 260-1 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2005)).

The Court finds persuasive the consensus of courts around the country that a nonprofit's guaranteeing of a loan program satisfies the requirement of "funding" under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(8)(A)(i) for the purposes of exempting a loan from discharge, including that of the 9th Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel, and also adopts this interpretation. As such, the Court agrees with Defendants that, if TERI has in fact guaranteed the loan program in question, they are entitled to judgment as a matter of law.

B. Whether Defendant has established that there is no genuine issue of material fact that TERI actually guaranteed the loan.

1. Did TERI, on paper, guarantee the loans?

Debtors argue that there is a material issue of fact concerning whether or not TERI was the actual guarantor of the September 2006 and August 2007 loans. This is based in part on two related grounds: the first is that two of the three loan agreement do not explicitly state that TERI will guarantee the loans, merely that they have the option to do so. The mere existence of an option, rather than direct proof that TERI in fact guaranteed the loan program in question, has been found sufficient to create a genuine issue of material fact. See Golden et. al v. JP Morgan Chase Bank, et. al., 596 B.R. 239, 266 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 2019). The second issue raised by Debtors is that the NSCLT trust agreement schedules does not specifically list the NextStudent Graduate

Loan as one of the programs transferred or sold to the Trusts (listing instead NextStudent Alternative Loan Program). This has also been found sufficient to create a material issue of fact. See National Coll. Student Loan Trust 2007-4 v. Watson, 2016 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 5116 at *7 (N.Y.City Civ.Ct. 2016).

However, it is clear within this case that Debtor's loans were in fact guaranteed by TERI, and that they were each sold to the respective trusts that make up the defendants. Defendants have disclosed the Loan Financial Activity pages, which identify Debtors by name, and also state that the loans were guaranteed by TERI. Decl. Luke ¶15; Id. Exh. A-3 (page 18 within the declaration). It also includes the identification by social security number of Debtor within the trusts' contained loans, as well as guarantee agreements between TERI and each of the individual trusts. By contrast, in Golden, the genuine issue of material fact was due to the Defendants only providing the loan documentation stating that the loan potentially could be guaranteed by TERI. In short, the Court cannot find that there is a genuine issue of fact as to whether TERI, on paper, guaranteed the loan program which provided Debtors' loans.

2. Was TERI actually guarantee the loans?

In order to fund a loan program through guaranteeing the loans, the guarantee must actually come into effect, instead of just being a paper promise to render the debt exempt from discharge. See O'Brien, 419 F.3d at 105-6. Debtors' student loan servicer has declared that Debtors' student loans were guaranteed by TERI, but Debtors allege that the guarantees did not actually occur. Decl. Luke ¶¶ 17, 25, 34 (ECF No. 33-4). As noted by Debtors, evidence demonstrating the actual guarantee by TERI of the loans within the loan program would include guarantee agreements between TERI and the loan originators and, evidence that the loan originators actually paid TERI guarantee fees as agreed upon. See Plaintiff's Opposition to Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment, Exh. 4, Defendants Responses and Objections to Requests for Production No. 7, ECF No. 46 (Debtors requesting "all documents demonstrating that TERI guaranteed the loans" including checks payable by the loan originators to TERI for the guarantee fees and guarantee agreements between TERI and the loan originators).

However, Debtors appear to have answered this question themselves, when they showed that Defendants had refunded the Royal Bank of Scotland (who wholly owned, at the time of Debtors' loan creation Citizens Bank, who owned Charter One, the loan originator) $46,000,000 in guarantee fees as part of resolving RBS secured claims against TERI concerning loans extended prior to TERI's bankruptcy. Id. at Exh. 6, Fourth Amended Joint Plan of Reorganization of The Education Resources Institute, Inc at page 65; Id. at 11 (defining "collateral account" as a pledged account, victory fund, pool account, or joint pool account—all of which were accounts containing guarantee fees intended for the payment of guarantees should the conditions be triggered); see also Supplementary Request for Judicial Notice, Exh. 4, Disclosure Statement for Fourth Amended Joint Plan of Reorganization of The Education Resources Institute at pages 3-7, ECF No. 55 (explaining how the myriad banks decided how TERI should segregate or not segregate the guarantee fees they paid in view of paying out guarantees on the loan). The massive balances on the collateral accounts of the NCSLTs, including all three trusts in question, revealed by the disclosure statement to the confirmed Fourth Amended Plan, shows that the combined guarantee fees sequestered for guarantee payments, as well as the recoveries collected, numbered in the hundreds of millions of dollars. Disclosure Statement at page 11.

It is difficult for this Court to find that Debtors have raised a genuine question of fact as to the substance of TERI's guarantees, when the Debtors themselves have put forward clear evidence that tens of millions of dollars were being paid in guarantee fees to TERI, including tens of millions by Charter One, and TERI was simultaneously shelling out tens of millions of dollars in loan purchases as part of the guarantee.

- C. Whether TERI has voided their guarantee of the loan program in question, and whether, if shown, this would retroactively change whether the loans were funded by a nonprofit institution.

Debtors correctly assert that TERI's debt guarantees for loans extended prior to TERI's petition were voided as a part of their confirmed plan for reorganization. Fourth Amended Plan at page 40, ECF No. 46. Defendants appear to be trying to confuse the Court by pointing to the transition agreement between TERI and RBS through which RBS agreed to accept the transfer of "pipeline" loans (loans applied for before, or on TERI's petition, but extended by the lender after). See Plaintiff's Opposition, Exh. 5, Transition Agreement Between TERI and RBS at pages 3-4. However, it is clear that the settling of the guarantees for loans prior to bankruptcy, as illustrated above, was the foundation of TERI's reorganization, and the Court proceeds accordingly.

However, even if the guarantee is no longer extant, the Court does not find that this changes the fundamental nature of how the loans were funded in the first place. § 523(a)(8)(A)(i) states that the exemption of a loan from discharge is dependent on the loan program under which it was made, not the context under which it still exists. The exemptions under § 523 look at actions of the debtor at the time that they took the action in question, not the status of those actions at the time of the current proceedings. Debtor should not be allowed to discharge a debt that he knew was intended to be exempt at the time he made the loan, was made under a program clearly intended to protect the loans from discharge, and would still be exempt at the current time, barring the fact that the guarantor collapsed because too many other debtors had defaulted on their loans.

As such, the Court finds unpersuasive the argument that the rejection of TERI's argument that TERI's bankruptcy has retroactively changed the status of Debtors' debt.

TENTATIVE RULING

THE COURT FINDS THAT DEFENDANTS ARE ENTITLED TO JUDGMENT AS A MATTER OF LAW, AND THAT THERE ARE NO GENUINE DISPUTES OF MATERIAL FACT. DEFENDANTS' MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT IS HEREBY GRANTED.

I. PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

On March 26, 2018, Paul Pound ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On July 2, 2018, April Lloyd ("Plaintiff") filed a complaint against Debtor to determine dischargeability of debt pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(a), (a)(4), and (a)(6). On July 9, 2018, Debtor obtained a discharge and, four days later, the case was closed.

On July 31, 2018, Debtor filed his answer. On October 3, 2018, Plaintiff filed a motion for summary judgment. After a stipulated continuance of the hearing, Debtor filed his opposition on October 31, 2018.

II. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

On November 13, 2016, Marcus Lloyd, Plaintiff's brother entered into a purchase agreement with Debtor on behalf of Juanita Lloyd ("Juanita"), Plaintiff's mother, which was intended to be structured, according to Plaintiff, to "retrieve the equity in Juanita's home and lower her mortgage payments." Instead, according to Plaintiff, the agreement "was constructed to deprive Juanita of her home without receiving value from the Debtor." Plaintiff's account of the details of the purchase agreement, recited on page 12 of the motion for summary judgment, are as follows:

The Purchase Agreement stated that the purchase price was $670,000. The purchase price comprised of 75% in financing, 20% in seller carry back, and a 5% cash down payment. After closing, the seller was to release the seller carry back, and receive equity in return, and the seller was to reimburse the buyer the 5% cash down payment, and receive equity in return. Once the seller carry back was released, and the down payment reimbursed, all equity was to belong to the seller. Furthermore, the Purchase Agreement required that rental payments, equal to the amount of the mortgage payment, be made each month. In addition, at the time of closing, the Debtor was entitled to 3% of the purchase price as a real estate fee. Per the Purchase Agreement, Juanita deposited monthly payments into to [sic] the Debtor's Bank of American account starting around December 2006. She continued to make these payments until May 2007, when the Debtor requested that Juanita submit payments to a new account with Washington Mutual.

[Dkt. No. 6, pg 12].

Ultimately, on November 16, 2009, Juanita filed a complaint against Debtor in state court, asserting causes of action for fraud, conversion, and breach of contract. On August 30, 2011, Debtor and Juanita entered into a stipulated judgment which provided that Debtor would make periodic payments to Juanita totaling $60,000. In the event that Debtor failed to comply with the payment schedule, the state court would enter judgment for the remaining balance.¹

In January 2014, Debtor stopped adhering to the periodic payment schedule. On October 14, 2016, Plaintiff moved for entry of judgment in state court and, on December 20, 2016, the state court entered judgment in the amount of $42,000.

III. DISCUSSION

Plaintiff moves to have this debt deemed nondischargeable pursuant to three different provisions: (1) 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A); (2) 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(4); and (3) 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6).

11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A), (a)(4), and (a)(6) state:

- (a) A discharge under section 727, 1141, 1228(a), 1228(b), or 1328(b) of this title does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt –
 - (2) for money, property, services, or an extension, renewal, or refinancing of creditor, to the extent obtained by –
 - (A) false pretenses, a false representation, or actual fraud, other than a statement respecting the debtor's or an insider's financial condition;
 - (4) for fraud or defalcation while acting in a fiduciary capacity, embezzlement, or larceny;
 - (6) for willful and malicious injury by the debtor to another entity or to the property of another entity

The elements of a § 523(a)(2)(A) claim are well-established: (a) the debtor made representations; (b) which were known to be false; (c) the representations were made with the intention and purpose of deceiving the creditor; (d) the creditor relied on such representations; (e) the creditor sustained loss and damage as a proximate result of the representations. See, e.g., In re Sabban, 600 F.3d 1219, 1222 (9th Cir. 2010).

11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(4) contains three different exceptions to dischargeability: (1) fraud or defalcation while acting in a fiduciary capacity; (2) larceny; and (3) embezzlement. Regarding fraud or defalcation while acting in a fiduciary capacity, the elements are:

Finally, embezzlement, contains three elements: "(1) property rightfully in the possession of a nonowner; (2) nonowner's appropriation of the property to a use other than which it was entrusted; and (3) circumstances indicating fraud." In re Littleton, 942 F.2d 551, 555 (9th Cir. 1991).

To prevail on a claim under § 523(a)(6), a creditor must demonstrate three elements: (1) willful conduct; (2) malice; and (3) causation. See In re Butcher, 200 B.R. 675, 680 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1996) (quoting In re Apte, 180 B.R. 223, 230 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1995)). A willful injury is a "deliberate or intentional injury, not merely a deliberate or intentional act that leads to injury." Kawaauhau v. Geiger, 523 U.S. 57, 61 (1998). "A malicious injury involves (1) a wrongful act, (2) done intentionally, (3) which necessarily causes injury, and (4) is done without just cause or excuse." In re Barboza, 545 F.3d 702, 706 (9th Cir. 2008) (quoting In re Jercich, 238 F.3d 1202, 1209 (9th Cir. 2001)).

Summary judgment should be granted if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment as a matter of law. See FED. R. CIV. P. 56(c) (incorporated into bankruptcy proceedings by FED. R. BANKR. P. 7056). This required the moving party to "affirmatively demonstrate that no reasonable trier of fact could find other than for the moving party." Soremkun v. Thrifty Payless, Inc., 509 F.3d 978, 984 (9th Cir. 2007).

The moving party has the burden of establishing the absence of a genuine issue of material fact. See Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323 (1986). If the moving party shows the absence of a genuine issue of material fact, the nonmoving party must go beyond the pleadings and identify facts that show a genuine issue for trial. See id. at 324. The court must view the evidence in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party. See Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 255 (1986). All reasonable doubt as to the existence of a genuine issue of fact should be resolved against the moving party. See id.

If the moving party meets its initial burden, the non-moving party must set forth, by affidavit or as otherwise provided in Rule 56, specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial. See id. The non-moving party, however, "must do more than simply show that there is some metaphysical doubt as to the material fact...." Matsushita Electrical Industry Co. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 586-587 (1986).

A fact is material if it "might affect the outcome of the suit under the governing law." Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248 (1986). A dispute about a material fact is genuine "if the evidence is such that a reasonable jury could return a verdict for the nonmoving party." Id.

A. Issue Preclusion on Plaintiff's Claim under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6)

Issue preclusion applies in nondischargeability proceedings to bar the relitigation of factual issues that were determined in a prior state court action. See, e.g., Grogan v. Garner, 498 U.S. 279, 284-85, n.11 (1991). To determine the issue-preclusive effect of a California state court's judgment, California preclusion law must be applied. See 28 U.S.C. § 1738; Marrese v. Am. Acad. of Orthopaedic Surgeons, 470 U.S. 373, 380 (1985); Gayden v. Nourbakhsh (In re Nourbakhsh), 67 F.3d 798, 800 (9th Cir. 1995). Under California law, the party asserting issue preclusion has the burden of establishing the following "threshold" requirements:

- (1) the issue sought to be precluded must be identical to that decided in a former proceeding;
- (2) the issue must have been actually litigated in the former proceeding;
- (3) it must have been necessarily decided in the former proceeding;
- (4) the decision in the former proceeding must be final and on the merits; and,
- (5) the party against whom preclusion is sought must be the same as, or in privity with, the party to the former proceeding.

Harmon v. Kobrin (In re Harmon), 250 F.3d 1240, 1245 (9th Cir.2001).

Additionally, the application of issue preclusion requires a "mandatory 'additional'

inquiry into whether imposition of issue preclusion would be fair and consistent with sound public policy." In re Khaligh, 338 B.R. 817, 824–25 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2006). As stated by the California Supreme Court

We have repeatedly looked to the public policies underlying the doctrine before concluding that collateral estoppel should be applied in a particular setting.... Accordingly, the public policies underlying collateral estoppel—preservation of the integrity of the judicial system, promotion of judicial economy, and protection of litigants from harassment by vexatious litigation—strongly influence whether its application in a particular circumstance would be fair to the parties and constitutes sound judicial policy.

Lucido v. Super. Ct., 51 Cal. 3d 335, 342–43 (Cal. 1990) (internal citations omitted).

As noted by Plaintiff, it is true that, in some situations, a stipulated judgment can form the basis for collateral estoppel. "The parties need only 'manifest an intent to be collaterally bound by' the terms of the stipulated judgment." In re Boyce, 2016 WL 6247612 at *3 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2016) (quoting Cal. State Auto. Ass'n Inter-Ins. Bureau v. Super. Ct., 50 Cal. 3d 658, 664 (Cal. 1990)).

Here, Debtor has filed a declaration which states that "[t]he judgment was never intended to be dispositive of the facts of the case." [Dkt. No. 17, ¶ 11]. This is sufficient to create a genuine issue of material fact and defeat Plaintiff's argument as to issue preclusion at the summary judgment stage. See In re Jun Ho Yang, 698 Fed. Appx. 374 (9th Cir. 2017) ("Here, Jun Ho Yang submitted a declaration that he did not intend the stipulated facts in the Settlement Agreement and Stipulation for Entry of Judgment in the prior state court action to have a preclusive effect in future proceedings. Such a declaration (even if self-serving) creates a genuine issue of material fact as to the parties' intent.")

B. Absence of a Genuine Issue of Material Fact

Plaintiff's alternative argument is that summary judgment is warranted because uncontroverted facts establish that the debt is non-dischargeable. The Court disagrees with this argument.

Chapter 7

Regarding § 523(a)(2)(A), Debtor denies, inter alia, that he had the intent to deceive Plaintiff, and supports such denial with factual assertions establishing that possibility. "The intent to deceive is a factual question and largely depends upon the credibility of witnesses and the weight to be given to their testimony." In re Sutton, 2015 WL 7776658 at *6 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2015). In this case, "where different ultimate inferences may be drawn from the parties' differing characterization of the facts, summary judgment is inappropriate." In re Allen, 2018 WL 909876 at *3 (Bankr. C.D. Cal 2018) (citing Sankovich v. Ins. Co of N. Am., 638 F.2d 136, 140 (9th Cir. 1981); see also In re Lucas, 386 B.R. 332 (Bankr. D.N.M. 2008) ("Rarely is it appropriate to grant summary judgment on a claim for nondischargeability based on 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A) because intent to defraud often depends on the credibility of witnesses."). Here, Debtor asserts that it was Plaintiff that first breached the purchase agreement, and that, upon such breach, Debtor continued to act in accordance with the purchase agreement for several months after the breach. The Court concludes that Debtor has established, at the least, a genuine issue of material fact with regard to whether Debtor had an intent to deceive Plaintiff.

Regarding § 523(a)(4), Plaintiff argues that the payments her mother made pursuant to the purchase agreement were ultimately embezzled by Debtor. In support of such argument, Plaintiff relies upon extrinsic evidence about the parties' intent when entering into the purchase agreement. Debtor has presented a different account of the parties' intent regarding the purchase agreement which, if true, would not allow for Debtor's actions to be characterized as embezzlement. Therefore, the Court concludes that Debtor has entitled a genuine issue of material fact with regard to Plaintiff's claim pursuant to § 523(a)(4).

Regarding § 523(a)(6), the Court concludes that Debtor has established a genuine issue of material fact for the same reason as noted in the two preceding paragraphs – namely that Debtor has asserted that it was Plaintiff's mother who first breached the purchase agreement, and that Debtor made a good-faith effort to comply with the terms of the purchase agreement for several months after the original breach.

Docket 43

Tentative Ruling:

3/14/19

BACKGROUND

On April 19, 2017, Gerald Bauer ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On June 13, 2017, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On December 13, 2018, Trustee filed a motion to dismiss for plan infeasibility. On January 31, 2019, the Court held a hearing on the matter, and continued Trustee's motion for one week for Debtor to lodge an order on his proposed plan modification. During that one-week period, Debtor did not lodge an order on the motion to modify plan, and no appearance was made on behalf of Debtor at the continued hearing. On February 7, 2019, the Court dismissed Debtor's case.

On February 8, 2019, Debtor filed a motion to vacate dismissal arguing that the case was dismissed due to attorney mistake. Among other things, Debtor's counsel states that he was informed by Trustee that the motion to dismiss would be withdrawn prior to the hearing. On February 11, 2019, Trustee filed comments indicating conditional approval. Trustee also states that the statement of Debtor's counsel that regarding withdrawal of the motion to dismiss "is not credible and makes no sense." [Dkt. No.

Chapter 13

DISCUSSION

Debtor relies on FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 60(b)(1), incorporated into bankruptcy proceedings by FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 9024, which allows for relief from an order based on "mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect."

The legal basis for Debtor's assertion that the dismissal order should be vacated is that Debtor's counsel inadvertently did not appear at the hearing due miscommunication with Trustee, an assertion which the Trustee states is not credible. Additionally, it is well established that "an attorney's ignorance and carelessness does not provide grounds for Rule 60(b) relief." In re Mercado, 144 B.R. 879, 886 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1992) (citing Bershad v. McDonough, 469 F.2d 1333, 1337 (7th Cir. 1972)). And the mere assertion that counsel did not fulfill its duties, but that such carelessness was inadvertent, is clearly inadequate to support Rule 60(b) relief. See, e.g., In re ACME Motors, Inc., 125 B.R. 702, 703 (Bankr. D.R.I. 1991).

"Rule 60(b) relief is extraordinary." Id. Yet, in this court, a request for relief from a Chapter 13 dismissal order has become semi-ordinary. On occasion, the requests are legally sound. Here, however, the evidence provided simply indicates that Debtor's counsel did not attend the hearing for reasons that do not appear to be credible.

The Seventh Circuit has stated that:

[T]he clients are principals, the attorney is an agent, and under the law of agency the principal is bound by his chosen agent's deeds. The rule is that all of the attorney's misconduct (except in the cases where the act is outside the scope of employment or in cases of excusable neglect) becomes the problem of the client. A lawyer who inexcusably neglects his client's obligations does

Bakery Mach. & Fabrication, Inc. v. Traditional Baking, Inc., 570 F.3d 845, 848 (7th Cir. 2009). "Although attorney carelessness can [in certain circumstances] constitute 'excusable neglect' under Rule 60(b)(1), attorney inattentiveness to litigation is not excusable, no matter what the resulting consequences the attorney's somnolent behavior may have on a litigant." Easley v. Kirmsee, 382 F.3d 693, 698 (7th Cir. 2004) (collecting cases).

Docket 18

Tentative Ruling:

3/14/2019

BACKGROUND:

On December 28, 2019, Terry Randolph ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On January 3, 2019, CarMax Auto Finance ("Creditor") filed a proof of claim for a secured claim in the amount of $30,730.76 ("Claim 2"). On February 7, 2019, Debtor filed an objection to Claim 2. Creditor argues that the collateral for Claim 2, a vehicle, was repossessed.

APPLICABLE LAW:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

Chapter 13

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

ANALYSIS:

Here, Debtor has not provided any evidence that the subject vehicle was repossessed. Debtor has provided a bankruptcy credit report which indicates that the claim was identified at $20,284 on November 30, 2018. Given that the evidence submitted by Creditor appears to be a simple text file print-off, with limited information, and given that Creditor has failed to oppose the instant claim objection, which the Court deems consent to the relief requested pursuant to Local Rule 9013-(1)(h), the Court is inclined to accept Debtor's proposed reduction of the claim to $20,284. On the current record, however, the Court has no evidentiary basis to determine that the collateral was repossessed and sold.

Docket 17

Tentative Ruling:

3/28/19

BACKGROUND

On January 13, 2019, Maisha Ghant-Elie ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. Among the assets of the estate is a 2013 Hyundai Sonata (the "Property"). Santander Consumer USA Inc. ("Creditor") holds a security interest in the Property. On February 1, 2019, Creditor filed a proof of claim in the amount of $18,891.87, identifying $8,950 as secured by the Property.

On February 18, 2019, Debtor filed a motion to value the Property. Debtor asserts that the Property should be valued at $6,427.

DISCUSSION

One of the benefits of filing a Chapter 13 bankruptcy is that under § 506(a) the debtor can bifurcate a secured, unavoidable debt, with one part representing the amount of the value of the collateral, and the deficiency being treated as an unsecured claim. See

Chapter 13

In re Penrod, 636 F.3d 1175, 1177 (9th Cir. 2011).

Presently, the Ninth Circuit has not established a uniform method for valuations. See In re Ayres, 2010 WL 652825 at *5 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2010) (collecting cases detailing vehicle valuation and describing the state of the law in the Ninth Circuit). In In re Morales, however, which this Court has previously cited with approval, it was determined that value should be calculated "by adjusting the Kelley Blue Book or N.A.D.A. Guide retail value for a like vehicle by a reasonable amount in light of the evidence presented regarding the condition of the vehicle or any other relevant factors." In re Morales, 387 B.R. 36, 45 (Bankr.C.D.Cal.2008).

According to the court in In re Morales, the retail values, and not the private party values, are the appropriate starting points because the text of § 506(a)(2) refers to "the price a retail merchant would charge" and does not refer to the price a private party would charge. Morales at 46.

Here, Debtor has provided a Kelly Blue Book report identifying the private party values of the Dodge and the Ram. Pursuant to the above discussion, the Court requires evidence of the Property's retail value, and adequate evidence to justify any deviations therefrom.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to CONTINUE the hearings for supplemental evidence.

#55.00 Notice of Motion and Motion in Individual Case for Order Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate 150 W. Highland Ave San Bernardino CA 92405

MOVANT: FERNANDO AND MARIA CORONEL

EH__

Docket 16

Tentative Ruling:

3/26/2019

The Court, having reviewed the motion, is inclined to DENY the motion for lack of cause shown and for the reasons stated in the opposition. The Court notes that the motion does not contain the level of detail and specificity required to meet the "clear and convincing" necessary to rebut the presumption of bad faith contained in 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3)(C). Specifically, the motion does not provide the Court with any detailed information which would enable the Court to assess the relevant changes in Debtor's financial situation. The Court further notes that while Debtors' previous case may have been dismissed due to a mistaken understanding of the necessary payments, Creditor obtained relief from stay before dismissal.

Docket 74

Tentative Ruling:

4/10/2019

BACKGROUND:

On November 27, 2018, LC Stahl LLC ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. On December 6, 2018, Debtor's case was dismissed for failure to file case commencement documents. On December 11, 2018, the dismissal order was vacated.

On December 17, 2018, the Court approved the application of Lauren Newman to appear pro hac vice on behalf of Loan Funder, LLC Series 1829 ("Creditor"). On February 27, 2019, the Court approved the application of Stuart Wald to serve as bankruptcy counsel for Debtor.

On March 15, 2019, Creditor filed a proof of claim for a secured claim in the amount of $1,320,655.61 ("Claim 5"). Prior to Claim 5 even having been filed, Debtor filed a objection to Creditor's claim. Given that the claim objection was filed prematurely, the objection is deficient in several technical respects, including: (1) the claim objection does not list the claim number; (2) the claim objection was not served to the address specified in Claim 5; and (3) while the claim objection was set for hearing on thirty days' notice, only twenty-six days have passed since Claim 5 was even filed. Nevertheless, on March 27, 2019, Creditor filed its opposition.

The primary basis of Debtor's objection is that the underlying note is usurious and, therefore, all interest charged by Creditor should be disallowed. Creditor's opposition asserts that New York law is the governing law and that the note underlying Claim 5 is not usurious under New York law.

APPLICABLE LAW:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

ANALYSIS:

I. Usury

"In a bankruptcy case, the court must apply federal choice of law rules. Federal choice of law rules follow the approach of the Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws." In re Vortex Fishing Sys., Inc., 277 F.3d 1057, 1069 (9th Cir. 2002). The Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws (the "Restatement") § 187 provides that the contractual choice of law provision is effective unless either one of two conditions are met:

- (a) the chosen state has no substantial relationship to the parties or the transaction and there is no other reasonable basis for the parties' choice, or
- (b) application of the law of the chosen state would be contrary to a fundamental policy of a state which has a materially greater interest than the chosen state in the determination of the particular issue and which, under the rule of § 188, would be the state of the applicable law in the absence of an effective choice of law by the parties.

Here, section 7.12 of the loan agreement identifies New York law as the governing law. Because the loan agreement identifies Creditor's principal place of business as being in New York, it would appear New York has a substantial relationship to Creditor, satisfying subsection (a). See, e.g., the Restatement, cmt. f. ("When the state of the chosen law has some substantial relationship to the parties or the contract, the parties will be held to have had a reasonable basis for their choice. This will be the case, for example, when this state is that where performance by one of the parties is to take place or where one of the parties is domiciled or has his principal place of business.").

The application of subsection (b), however, is less clear, but it does not appear to compel the choice of California law. First, it is uncertain whether California would be the "state of applicable law under the rule of § 188." The Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 188(3) provides a default rule: "If the place of negotiating the contract and the place of performance are in the same state, the local law of this state will usually be applied." This default rule, to some extent, is subject to § 188(2), which enumerates five factors for the Court to consider when determining the contract's contacts with specific states: (1) the place of contracting; (2) the place of negotiation of the contract; (3) the place of performance; (4) the location of the subject matter of the contract; and (5) the domicile, residence, nationality, place of incorporation, and place of business of the parties. Section 7.13 of the loan agreement evidences the parties' agreement that the agreement was negotiated and formed in New York, and that performance would occur in New York. Therefore, section 188(3) would create a presumption that the law applicable in the absence of an effective choice by the parties would be the law of New York; it is not clear that the factors enumerated in § 188(2) compel a different result.

Second, even if California were properly to provide the applicable law under Restatement § 188, this Court cannot conclude that California has a "materially greater interest" than New York in the resolution of this issue. For instance, in Shannon-Vail Five, Inc. v. Busch, 270 F.3d 1207 (9th Cir. 2001), the Ninth Circuit upheld the contractual choice of the law of Nevada – where there was no usury law in place – despite the plaintiff-borrowers being residents of California, and taking out loans for development of real estate located in California. While in Shannon-Vail Five, the defendants were citizens of Nevada, and, in this case, Creditor is incorporated in Delaware, with a principal place of business in New York, the effective interest in Shannon-Vail Five was more than double the effective interest rate here. See id. Reviewing the four applicable Restatement provisions -- §§ 187, 188, 195, and 203 – the Ninth Circuit concluded that "the invalidating power of the 'unless' clause of § 195 should thus be limited to situations where the location of repayment is selected solely to circumvent a state's usury laws, or when the place of repayment otherwise has a very tangential relationship to the contract." The Ninth Circuit also rejected the contention that California's fundamental policy against usury should invalidate the choice of law provision: "But the lack of a usury law does not mean that Nevada has a less substantial concern than California about interest rates; rather, it appears to reflect a choice to favor individual contract decisions and the free flow of capital."

Debtor has not provided legal argumentation sufficient to distinguish the Ninth Circuit's approach in Shannon-Vail Five; indeed, the only two cases cited by Debtor are cases where the contractual choice of law provision was upheld. Given the relative similarity between the facts of this case and the facts of Shannon-Vail Five, and the high showing necessary to invalidate a contractual choice of law provision under the Ninth Circuit precedent and the Restatement, the Court is inclined to conclude that New York law applies to determine whether the instant contract is usurious.

Applying New York law, Creditor argues that N.Y. GEN. OBLIG. LAW § 1104 precludes a limited liability company from raising a usury defense. Notwithstanding Creditor's inaccurate statutory citation, it does appear that such a restriction is contained in N.Y. LTD. LIAB. CO. LAW § 1104(a). N.Y. LTD. LIAB. CO. LAW § 1104(b), does, however, provides an exception:

The provisions of subdivision (a) of this section shall not apply to a domestic or foreign limited liability company, the principal asset of which is the ownership of a one or two family dwelling, where it appears either that such limited liability company was formed, or that the controlling interest therein was acquired, within a period of six months prior to the execution by such limited liability company of a bond or a note evidencing indebtedness, and a mortgage creating a lien for such indebtedness on such one or two family dwelling.

Chapter 11

While it is not clear, it does not appear that this exception is applicable to the instant situation. Similarly, while N.Y. GEN. OBLIG. LAW § 5-501(6)(a) provides that usury only has limited applications to loans of $250,000 or more, there is also an exception for loans secured by a family residence.

More importantly, Creditor also argues that, under New York law, usury laws do not apply to defaulted obligations. See, e.g., Urban Commc'n PCS Ltd. P'ship v. Gabriel Capital, L.P., 394 B.R. 325, 341 (S.D.N.Y. 2008). The Court agrees with this contention. Therefore, if the contractual rate of interest was below the threshold for usury, but the defaulted rate of interest exceeds the threshold for usury, then a defense of usury is unavailable. None of the declarations or briefs actually contain a statement of the contractual rate of interest. A review of the exhibits attached to the declaration of Maskim Stavinsky makes clear that the contractual rate of interest was 10%. Debtor has argued that the effective interest rate, once certain fees are added, was approximately 13%. Either way, the New York threshold for usury is 16%. See N.Y. GEN. OBLIG. LAW § 5-501. Therefore, under New York law, the note securing Claim 5 is not usurious.

TENTATIVE RULING

Because the effective rate of interest was not usurious under New York law, and because an increased interest rate triggered by a default cannot render a loan agreement usurious, the Court is inclined to OVERRULE the objection.

4/10/2019

BACKGROUND

On August 31, 2018, James Gorman ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. The meeting of creditors was originally set for October 3, 2018. On November 30, 2018, UST filed a motion for an extension of time to file a complaint objecting to discharge. On February 1, 2019, the Court entered an order granting the motion and extending the deadline to object to discharge until February 28, 2019.

On February 27, 2019, UST filed another motion for an extension of time to file a complaint objecting to discharge. UST asserts that Debtor has connections to several business entities which were involved in prepetition litigation, and that in such litigation, judgment creditors raised allegations that Debtor had concealed assets and engaged in other sanctionable conduct. UST further asserts that Debtor has not cooperated fully with UST's requests for financial records despite repeated contact from UST's office.

FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 4004(a) states:

- (1) In a chapter 7 case, a complaint, or a motion under § 727(a)(8) or (9) of the Code, objecting to the debtor's discharge shall be filed no later than 60 days after the first date set for the meeting of creditors under § 341(a). In a chapter 11 case, the complaint shall be filed no later than the first date set for the hearing on confirmation. In a chapter 13 case, a motion objecting to the debtor's discharge under § 1328(f) shall be filed no later than 60 days after the first date set for the meeting of creditors under § 341(a). At least 28 days' notice of the time so fixed shall be given to the United States trustee and all creditors as provided in Rule 2002(f) and (k) and to the trustee and the trustee's attorney.

And FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 4004(b) states:

- (1) On motion of any party in interest, after notice and hearing, the court may for cause extend the time to object to discharge. Except as provided in subdivision (b)(2), the motion shall be filed before the time has expired.
- (2) A motion to extent the time to object to discharge may be filed after the time for objection has expired and before discharge is granted if (A) the objection is based on facts that, if learned after the discharge, would provide a basis for revocation under § 727(d) of the Code, and (B) the movant did not have knowledge of those facts in time to permit an objection. The motion shall be filed promptly after the movant discovers the facts on which the objection is based.

Here, the delay in providing information necessary to assess the financial circumstances and prepetition conduct of Debtor constitutes sufficient cause to extend the deadline. See COLLIER ON BANKRUPTCY ¶ 4004.03[2] (16th ed. 2013) ("A debtor's delays in responding to discovery may be sufficient cause. Obviously, a delay in the meeting of creditors to a date close to or after the deadline may constitute such cause.") (citing In re McCormack, 244 B.R. 203 (Bankr. D. Conn. 2000)).

In a case under chapter 7 or 11, the court may allow reasonable compensation under section 330 of this title of the trustee for the trustee's services, payable after the trustee renders such services, not to exceed 25 percent on the first $5,000 or less, 10 percent on any amount in excess of $5,000 but not in excess of $50,000, 5 percent on any amount in excess of $50,000 but not in excess of $1,000,000, and reasonable compensation not to exceed 3 percent of any moneys in excess of $1,000,000, upon all moneys disbursed or turned over in the case by the trustee to parties in interest, excluding the debtor, but including holders of secured claims.

(emphasis added).

Trustee is basing his requested compensation in this case on $185,000 in "receipts," but that amount includes $72,908.11 paid to Aylstock, Witkin, Kreis & Overholtz, PLLC which does not appear properly categorized as a receipt because these moneys were not, at any time, held or administered by Trustee, let alone received by Trustee, or disbursed by Trustee. actually be received by the Chapter 7 Trustee. To wit:

Subject to the terms of the settlement being satisfied, the balance of the remaining settlement proceeds, after the Settlement Fund Trustee pays and/or withholds the necessary expenses, fees, costs, holdbacks, and deductions from the Gross Settlement Amount, anticipated to be in the amount of $97,897.75 (the "Remaining Proceeds") shall be disbursed from the Settlement Fund Trustee to the Trustee.

Not only are the requested fees simply incompatible with the plain language of the statute, which calculates fees based on moneys disbursed or turned over by the trustee, the fees cannot be reasonably justified on policy grounds. In this case, the state court counsel incurred significant legal fees litigating a state court matter while the instant bankruptcy was closed. The state court counsel's work on this matter was, in no matter whatsoever, related to the administration of the bankruptcy estate, and Trustee did not participate in, direct, or even have an awareness of the fees incurred. Case law notes that important distinction:

The reported decisions construing section 326(a) have recognized a distinction between funds that are constructively received and funds that are actually received. These cases stand for the proposition that a commission can only be calculated upon the funds actually received by the trustee. In this particular case, the trustee never received any settlement proceeds that were paid directly to the debtor's personal injury counsel in fees and expenses or to the worker's compensation carrier.

In re Guido, 237 B.R. 562, 564-65 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 1999) (citations omitted); see also Kandel v. Alexander Leasing Corp., 107 B.R. 548 (N.D. Ohio 1988) (proceeds of settlement were not "money disbursed" where the trustee cannot point to any time at which the moneys actually passed through his hands); In re New England Fish Co., 34 B.R. 899, 902 (Bankr. W.D. Wash. 1983) ("[I]n view of the majority of the cases under prior law and the plain and unambiguous wording of section 326(a), this Court concludes that the trustee's compensation must be based on actual monies disbursed to parties in interest, and not on assets or settlements which can be construed as a constructive disbursement.").

In light of the foregoing, the Court is inclined to reduce the basis upon which Trustee's statutory fee is calculated, eliminating those amounts which were at no time administered, held, received, or disbursed by Trustee. The remaining cognizable disbursements appear to be a bank service fee of $117.34, Trustee's expenses in the amount of $778.22, and payments to creditors in the amount of $4,027.61, for an aggregate amount of $4,923.17. Therefore, the Court is inclined to approve Trustee's fees in the reduced amount of $1,230.79. The Court has reviewed the itemized expenses filed by Trustee, and finding them reasonable, the Court is inclined to approve the expenses in the amount of $778.22

Tentative Ruling:

Given the Court's ruling on the MSA, the MDJ is conditionally moot as to Defendant Amy. As to Richard Jr., the motion was served on Richard Jr. at the Property. The motion for default judgment, however, contends that Richard Jr. does not have any equitable ownership in the Property. While residency is not clear from the motion, the motion specifically states "[t]he Trustee believes that Defendant Thomas is not currently residing in the Subject Property." The Court also notes that at various points in the motion, Trustee has confused the identity of Richard III and Richard Jr. For instance, paragraph 2 of the declaration states: "The debtor Richard M. Thomas aka Richard M. Thomas, Jr. initiated this Bankruptcy case by filing a voluntary petition" when, in fact, it was Richard III, not Richard Jr., who filed bankruptcy. Given this apparent confusion, and Trustee's explicit contention that Richard Jr. is not residing at the Property, the Court will require further service on Richard Jr. or clear evidence establishing that service was proper.

APPEARANCES REQUIRED.

Docket 41

 VACATED  REASON: ORDER ENTERED 3/21/19

Tentative Ruling:

03/05/2019

Opposition: Yes

The Debtor's opposition offers evidence that the Debtor fell behind on her mortgage payments due to costs incurred as a result of a legal custody dispute. Debtor asserts that the dispute has now been resolved. Debtor further asserts that she expects a tax refund, additional income from a part time job, and increased child support payments which will enable her to come current within 90 days. While stay relief is warranted, the Court is inclined to enter an APO to permit the Debtor an opportunity to cure the post-petition arrears and to protect Movant from the expense of having to file additional motions for relief from stay. Parties to update the Court on APO discussions.

APPEARANCES REQUIRED.

Opposition: None.

Debtor's motion was improperly served under Judge Houle's self-scheduling rule III.D, which requires 14 days' notice through service on all interested parties, including creditors and their counsel, pursuant to FRBP 7004. FRBP 7004 requires service by certified mail on a party's officer or general agent for service of process. Debtor appears to have done so on all parties, except for Polaris Consumer Finance and Citizen's Bank, North America. Debtor failed to direct service to those parties' agent for service of process, and, in the case of Polaris, the location given is now closed.

As to the merits, the Court finds that Debtor has present sufficient evidence to rebut the presumption that this case was not filed in good faith and is inclined to GRANT Debtor's motion for an imposition of the automatic stay.

11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3)(C)(i)(II)(cc) establishes a presumption of bad faith for a Chapter 13 petition if a Debtor has had a previous plan dismissed within the past year for failure to perform the plan as confirmed. Defeating this presumption requires a showing of clear and convincing evidence of good faith. Here, Debtors have seen an increase in net monthly income since their original petition, and it appears that they are capable of paying the plan payments. The Court is inclined to GRANT Debtor's motion to continue the stay.

Docket 37

Tentative Ruling:

9/25/2018

BACKGROUND

On July 23, 2018, Richard Garavito ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. Debtor previously filed a Chapter 13 case on April 17, 2018, which was dismissed on July 19, 2018.

On August 29, 2018, the Taylor Family Trust of June 16, 2004 ("Creditor"), the primary creditor in the instant case, filed a motion to confirm that the automatic stay terminated pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3)(A). On September 7, 2018, Debtor filed a motion to continue/impose the automatic stay. Because Debtor has not offered a cognizable legal argument as to why the automatic stay has not terminated, or why Debtor can obtain a continuation of the automatic stay after the statutory deadline, the Court has posted tentative rulings indicating that it intends to grant Creditor's motion and deny Debtor's motion.

On September 11, 2018, Debtor filed a motion to dismiss the case and an application shortening time. On September 13, 2018, the Court approved the application shortening time, and set a hearing for September 25, 2018.

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 1112(b)(1) states:

Except as provided in paragraph (2) and subsection (c), on request of a party in interest, and after notice and a hearing, the court shall convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 7 or dismiss a case under this chapter, whichever is in the best interests of creditors and the estate, for cause unless the court determines that the appointment under section 1104(a) of a trustee or an examiner is in the best interests of creditors and the estate.

11 U.S.C. § 1112(b)(4) provides a non-exclusive list of sixteen examples of cause – most of which are more appropriately considered when the moving party is an entity other than the debtor.

Here, Debtor’s motion is unclear, at best. The entire argument why the case should be dismissed is reproduced, verbatim, as follows:

In the present case, since the motion to impose and/or continue the stay was not timely filed, the stay will no longer be in effect with the pending motion to terminate the stay filed by secured creditor Taylor Family Trust.

The Debtor should not be penalized due to counsel’s inadvertent calendaring error of the 30 days rule of filing a motion to impose and/or continue the stay. However, an argument can be made that under the majority approach a motion to impose or continue the stay shall be filed as to the Debtor individually and not as to the property of the estate. Here, the Subject Property is property of the estate and the automatic stay should be in effect as to the Subject Property.

However, due to circumstances surrounding the possible termination of the stay, the Debtor requests dismissal of this case as there is no purpose if the stay is not in effect as to the Subject Property.

[Dkt. No. 37, pg. 5]. In summary, Debtor acknowledges that the stay has statutorily terminated and the deadline to continue the automatic stay has lapsed, but then argues that such stay termination is with regards to the Debtor only, not property of the estate. Despite the argument, the Debtor then asserts that due to "circumstances" the Debtor requests dismissal because there is "no purpose" if the stay has also terminated as to property of the estate.

There are multiple issues with the above line of argument. First, Debtor does not appear to have raised any coherent cause for dismissal – the only argument made in favor of dismissal, that the "Subject Property" is not protected by the automatic stay, (and thus this Chapter 11 case cannot be successful) is also explicitly rejected by Debtor. Second, § 1112(b) requires the Court to consider whether dismissal or conversion to Chapter 7 is in the best interests of creditors and the estate. Here, Debtor's schedules filed in the instant case indicate that all creditors would likely be paid in full if this case was converted to Chapter 7. Therefore, pursuant to the analysis required by § 1112(b), it is unclear why this case would be dismissed rather than converted to Chapter 7.

Finally, the Court acknowledges that, in a reply relating to its motion to confirm that the automatic stay has terminated, Creditor has requested that, if the case is dismissed, Debtor be restricted from re-filing by a bar. While raising this argument in a reply relating to a different motion is procedurally improper, the Court need not address the request at the current time given the issues above.

#1.00 Motion to Avoid Lien Real Property with Craig S. Nelson and Beverly Nelson

EH__

Docket 12

Tentative Ruling:

4/17/2019

On December 11, 2018, Ronald Russell ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. Among the assets listed on Schedules A/B was certain real property located at 3 Volta Del Tintori, Lake Elsinore, CA 92532 (the "Property"), which Debtor valued at $431,300. On Schedule C, Debtor claimed an exemption in the Property in the amount of $85,491.49.

On February 5, 2019, Debtor filed a motion to avoid the judgment lien of Craig & Beverly Nelson ("Creditors"). On February 22, 2019, Creditors filed a response. The matter was set for hearing on April 17, 2019. Debtor subsequently filed an appraiser's declaration and a reply.

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion, without prejudice, for lack of cause shown. Specifically, the Court notes that 11 U.S.C. § 522(f), in part, states the following: "Notwithstanding any waiver of exemptions but subject to paragraph (3), the debtor may avoid the fixing of a lien on an interest of the debtor in property to the extent that such lien impairs an exemption . . ." (emphasis added). Here, it is not clear what interest Debtor has in the Property.

California law does now explicitly provide that judgment liens can attach to equitable interests. See CAL. CODE CIV. P. § 697.340. Nevertheless, whether Debtor has an equitable interest in the Property, and to what extent, is not clear. This is especially true in light of the fact that the mortgage statement provided in support of the motion is addressed to a Deborah Russell, and the deed of trust identifies the borrower as "Deborah Lee Russell, a married woman, as her [s]ole and [s]eparate [p]roperty."

Furthermore, the recorded abstract of judgment for Debtor lists two addresses, neither of which is the address of the Property.

The Court also notes that there further deficiencies or issues with the instant motion. First, Debtor has improperly deducted costs of sale from the appraised fair market value. See, e.g., In re Barrett, 370 B.R. 1, 3 (Bankr. D. Me. 2007) ("a bevy of courts have opted against including hypothetical sales costs and other transaction costs in the valuation of collateral for the purpose of determining the fate of a judicial lien") (collecting cases). Because Debtor's reduction of the property's fair market value is not permitted, even if Debtor could resolve the issue stated above, Creditor's lien could not be avoided in full. Second, it appears that, pursuant to FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 4003(b)(1), the deadline to object to Debtor's exemption has not passed; given the contents of Creditor's opposition, the Court deems it necessary to wait for the expiration of that deadline. Third, the Court notes that none of the exhibits to the motion are properly authenticated. Finally, because Debtor has not filed out the proposed order attachment to the motion, the motion technically does not request any relief.

Docket 132

Tentative Ruling:

4/17/2019

BACKGROUND

On September 12, 2016, Douglas and Anne Goodman (collectively, "Debtors" or "Defendants") filed their Chapter 13 voluntary petition.

On November 11, 2016, Mark and Natasha Reynoso ("Plaintiffs") filed a complaint seeking determination of the dischargeability of a debt pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a) (2)(A) (the "Complaint"). Specifically, Plaintiffs allege that, in 2015, they purchased real property located at 1656 West Lisbon Street in Upland, CA (the "Property") from the Debtors, and that a sale was consummated upon a misrepresentation of Debtors' agent, Theresa Mann, regarding the square footage of the Property. Plaintiffs also assert that they were led to believe that a water leak in the upstairs bathroom had been repaired. Plaintiffs allege that the Debtors knew or should have known that their agent was making false and misleading representations to Plaintiffs.

On February 3, 2017, the Court entered an order granting Defendants first motion to dismiss the Complaint, with leave to amend. A First Amended Complaint (the "FAC") was filed on February 28, 2017. On April 19, 2017, the Plaintiffs filed a First Amended Complaint captioned "Corrected" which indicated it had been corrected for typographical errors. (the "Corrected Complaint" or the "SAC"). The Court denied Defendants' second motion to dismiss at a hearing on May 4, 2017. On June 5, 2017, the Defendants filed their Answer to the FAC ("Answer").

On March 9, 2018, the Defendants moved to dismiss the SAC. The Court granted the motion to dismiss the SAC, with leave to amend. A third amended complaint was then filed on May 23, 2018 (the "TAC"). [Note: there is a dispute regarding whether the operative complaint is a second or third amended complaint due to the filing of the "corrected complaint" indicated above. For purposes of this hearing, the operative complaint is Docket No. 93, the TAC].

On June 25, 2018, Defendants filed a motion to dismiss the TAC. This motion was orally granted after a hearing on August 2, 2018, after Plaintiffs failed to file opposition to the motion, and neither party appeared at the hearing. On August 29, 2018, the Court's oral ruling was set aside based upon stipulation of the parties. On October 9, 2018, Defendants filed opposition to the instant motion to dismiss. The matter was then continued on multiple occasions to afford the parties the opportunity to settle the matter. Finally, after a hearing, the Court dismissed the TAC, with leave to amend, on February 20, 2019.

On February 25, 2019, Plaintiffs filed a fourth amended complaint (the "4th AC"). On March 20, 2019, Defendants filed a motion to dismiss the 4th AC. Defendants argue that the 4th AC: (1) fails to set forth a basis for a money judgment under state law; (2) fails to state a claim upon which relief may be granted; and (3) fails to state a claim of false representation attributable to Defendants. On April 3, 2019, Plaintiffs filed their opposition.

DISCUSSION

I. STANDARD FOR MOTION TO DISMISS

FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 12(b)(6), made applicable in adversary proceedings through FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 7012, a bankruptcy court may dismiss a complaint if it fails to "state a claim upon which relief can be granted." In reviewing a FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 12(b)(6) motion, the trial court must accept as true all facts alleged in the complaint and draw all reasonable inferences in favor of the plaintiff. Navarro v. Block, 250 F.3d 729, 732 (9th Cir. 2001). The trial court need not, however, accept as true conclusory allegations in a complaint or legal characterizations cast in the form of factual allegations. Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555–56, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 167

To avoid dismissal under FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 12(b)(6), a plaintiff must aver in the complaint "sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to 'state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.'" Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678, 129 S.Ct. 1937, 173 L.Ed.2d 868 (2009) (quoting Twombly, 550 U.S. at 570, 127 S.Ct. 1955). It is axiomatic that a claim cannot be plausible when it has no legal basis. A dismissal under FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 12(b)(6) may be based either on the lack of a cognizable legal theory or on the absence of sufficient facts alleged under a cognizable legal theory. Johnson v. Riverside Healthcare Sys., 534 F.3d 1116, 1121 (9th Cir.2008).

II. FAILURE TO STATE A LEGAL BASIS FOR A MONEY JUDGMENT

The Court notes that this is the fourth amended complaint, and that the Court has previously held several hearings on the motions to dismiss filed by Defendants. The primary issue during those hearings was the failure of Plaintiffs to assert a legal basis which could serve as the basis of a debt and a money judgment. The following excerpt is from the Court's tentative ruling at a hearing on February 6, 2019:

The crux of Defendants' argument for dismissal of the TAC is that Plaintiffs have not set forth the basis for a money judgment under state law. In the Court's tentative ruling on the motion to dismiss the FAC, the Court stated the following:

The Ninth Circuit has held that a bankruptcy court may enter a monetary judgment on a disputed state law fraud claim in the course of determining that the debt is nondischargeable. Cowen v. Kennedy (In re Kennedy), 108 F.3d 1015 (9th Cir.1997). Shawn Deitz v. Wayne Ford, Patricia Ford (In re Wayne Ford, Patricia Ford), 469 B.R. 11, 21 (9th Cir. BAP 2012), aff'd, 760 F.3d 1038 (9th Cir. 2014). Here, although the Complaint is not explicit regarding the state law causes of action at issue, it appears implicit in the allegations that the Plaintiffs seek a monetary judgment as to a fraud or misrepresentation claim. Nonetheless, Plaintiffs should not have to guess at the state law basis of the debt for a money judgment.

Here, the TAC has added bases for calculation of damages under state law but has still not set forth the state law basis for the monetary judgment. Thus, the Plaintiffs have still not addressed the concerns raised by the Court and

Defendants that they do not have sufficient notice of the basis for a monetary judgment such that the Defendants can adequately defend themselves in the action.

Given the contents of the opposition to the motion to dismiss, and noting the discussion at previous hearings to dismiss, it appears there is significant confusion regarding the required contents of a complaint in this situation. Importantly, the instant situation is unique. There is a parallel, outstanding claim objection which could serve as a forum to litigate the validity of the underlying debt. Instead of maintaining two parallel, and overlapping, courses of litigation, the claim objection proceeding has been converted to a "holding date" so that both issues, the validity of the underlying debt and, if established, the non-dischargeability of that debt, can be more efficiently litigated in a single proceeding. Because this adversary proceeding is functioning as more than just a proceeding to determine the non-dischargeability of a pre-determined debt, Plaintiffs need to articulate the state law basis for the debt with the precision and clarity that would be required in, for instance, a state court proceeding. This is even more critical because, at a previous hearing, state law affirmative defenses of limited applicability were raised, and the Court is unable to assess the validity of such defenses when it is unclear what Plaintiff has raised as a theory of debt.

For the reasons stated in the preceding paragraphs, the Court is inclined to GRANT the motion, with leave to amend. Plaintiffs are reminded that this instant adversary proceeding serves two functions: (1) to litigate the validity of the debt; and (2) to litigate the non-dischargeability of that debt, if established. The former is really the preliminary issue in this situation, and the court expects the former to be pled with sufficient detail to enable the Court and Defendants to clearly ascertain Plaintiff's theory of the debt.

Defendants continue to argue that Plaintiffs have failed to set forth a basis for a money judgment under state law. Specifically, Defendants inartfully state:

Here, although the Complaint is not explicit regarding the state law causes of action at the issue, it appears implicit in allegations that the Plaintiff seeks a monetary judgment as to fraud or misrepresentation claim. Nonetheless, Plaintiffs should not have to guess at the state law basis of the debt for a money judgment.

[Dkt. No. 132, pg. 8]. This argument is not well taken. The 4th AC's first claim for relief explicitly states that it is for fraud/misrepresentation of material facts pursuant to CAL. CIV. CODE §§ 1709-10. Therefore, the Court concludes that Plaintiffs have set forth a valid state law basis for a money judgment.

III. FAILURE TO STATE A CLAIM

While Defendants' motion to dismiss contains two different sections addressed to this issue, sections three and four, the sections actually overlap. The crux of Defendants' argument is that it was not Defendants themselves who made the misrepresentations at issue, but, rather, third-parties.

The Court need not resolve whether Plaintiffs can use the misrepresentations of an agent as a basis for non-dischargeability because the 4th AC contains allegations that defendant Anne Goodman also made misrepresentations. Specifically, paragraph 20 of the 4th AC contains an allegation that Anne Goodman stated "that the upstairs water leak had been repaired." And paragraph 14 of the 4th AC contains an assertion that Anne Goodman verified the real estate agent's misrepresentations regarding the square footage of the property. Therefore, it is not accurate to assert that the 4th AC only contains allegations that misrepresentations were made by third parties.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion to dismiss.

BACKGROUND

On June 3, 2014, Dean & Tami Springer ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. Debtors' case led to substantial investigation by Trustee, ultimately producing ten adversary proceedings filed by Trustee.

As part of its investigation, Trustee requested documents from Hilder & Associates ("Hilder"), Debtors' criminal defense counsel. Trustee learned that Hilder received a retainer of $117,500 (the "Retainer"), on the eve of bankruptcy, for the provision of criminal defense services. Trustee argues that the entirety of the Retainer is subject to disgorgement and turnover because Hilder did not comply with the disclosure requirements of 11 U.S.C. § 329(a). Trustee alternatively argues that $43,500 of the Retainer is property of the estate because it was unearned as of the petition date.

Extended settlement discussions did not result in a compromise. On November 7, 2018, Trustee filed a motion for disgorgement of funds. Trustee decided to set the matter for hearing on January 30, 2019, to allow the parties to conduct discovery prior to the hearing. Pursuant to a stipulation, the hearing on the matter was continued to February 27, 2019. On February 13, 2019, Hilder filed its opposition. The Court then continued the matter to April 17, 2019. Also on calendar is a discovery dispute related to certain discovery requests propounded by Hilder on January 29, 2019.

According to Trustee, Hilder advised "Debtor [Dean Springer] to assert his 5th Amendment rights in connection with his meeting of creditors and regarding the adversary to deny discharge." [Dkt. No. 192, pg. 21, lines 12-13].

DISCUSSION

A. 11 U.S.C. § 329 & DISGORGEMENT

11 U.S.C. § 329(a) provides:

Any attorney representing a debtor in a case under this title, or in connection with a such a case, whether or not such attorney applies for compensation under this title, shall file with the court a statement of the compensation paid or agreed to be paid, if such payment or agreement was made after one year before the date of the filing of the petition, for services rendered or to be rendered in contemplation of or in connection with the case by such attorney, and the source of such compensation.

Furthermore, FED. R. BANKR. P. Rules 2016 and 2017 provide additional rules regarding the disclosure and examination of compensation for attorneys.

The most critical dispute between the parties is whether Hilder represented Debtors

"in connection with [the bankruptcy] case." Both Trustee and Hilder have presented caselaw which unambiguously supports their position. Trustee cites In re Rheuban, 121 B.R. 368, 377 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1990), which stated, in part:

It cannot be disputed that regulatory and criminal proceedings focused on Debtor's relationship with FNSB is currently having and will continue to have a substantial impact on this bankruptcy case. The clearest example of this is Debtor's refusal to respond to any questions regarding his business affairs at the 11 U.S.C. § 341(a) meeting of creditors conducted in this bankruptcy case. O & L represented Debtor at these meetings and apparently advised Debtor regarding his invocation of this Fifth Amendment.

The Court in In re Rheuban offered the following conclusion:

Thus I conclude that the "in connection with" language used in § 329 extends the scope of the Court's review to compensation paid by the debtor to an attorney any time after one year prior to the commencement of the debtor's bankruptcy case, whether or not the court can make a subjective determination that the debtor was contemplating bankruptcy, if it can be objectively determined that the services rendered or to be rendered by the attorney have or will have an impact on the bankruptcy case.

121 B.R. at 378. The relatively broad legal standard endorsed in In re Rheuban directly conflicts with the standard adopted in the case emphasized by Hilder, In re Bressman, 327 F.3d 229, 240-41 (3rd Cir. 2003), which stated:

[R]epresentation of a debtor in a criminal case during the period of bankruptcy would not normally require a report any more than would representation of the debtor in a divorce proceeding during that period. While acknowledging this, the Trustee nevertheless insists that this case is different because of three alleged connections between Newman & Schwartz's representation of the Debtor and the bankruptcy proceeding. First, the Debtor pled guilty in the criminal proceeding and agreed to cooperate with the District Attorney, and those decisions of the Debtor "led to" a settlement of civil claims which benefitted the estate. Second, Newman & Schwartz advised the Debtor to claim the Fifth Amendment in the bankruptcy proceedings and reviewed a brief filed in those proceedings which relied upon the Debtor having to assert the Fifth Amendment in the criminal proceedings. Finally, the Trustee points to three entries in Newman & Schwartz's billing records that refer to an attorney having reviewed "bankruptcy related" documents, as well as a small number of telephonic conferences with bankruptcy counsel.

We find no § 329 violation. Nothing in the record suggests that Newman & Schwartz did anything other than provide representation to the Debtor in the criminal proceedings against him. It advised him to assert his Fifth Amendment privilege in those proceedings and, when he decided to do so, it advised him on what he must do to preserve the privilege, including asserting it in the bankruptcy proceeding. While its fee sheets indicate that it spent a minimal amount of time reviewing "bankruptcy related" documents and speaking to the Debtor's bankruptcy counsel, nothing suggests that this was for any purpose other than providing effective representation in the criminal proceedings. . . . Actions taken by a client in the course of a representation will normally have a multitude of side effects, with respect to which counsel has assumed no responsibility and, indeed, of which counsel may have no knowledge. If § 329 were held to sweep so broadly, it is difficult to understand how even the most conscientious of counsel could assure compliance.

[Citation omitted]. While the parties make some attempt to factually and procedurally distinguish the cases mentioned above, it appears clear that applying the two standards adopted in In re Rheuban and In re Bressman would result in two different holdings in this situation.

While the Court is aware that numerous citations could be offered in support of either the broad or narrow interpretation of the "in connection with" clause contained in § 329(a), the Court is inclined to conclude that FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 2017 supports the narrower reading adopted by In re Bressman. Specifically, the Court notes that FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 2017 states the following:

- (a) Payment or Transfer to Attorney Before Order for Relief. On motion by any party in interest or on the court's own initiative, the court after notice and a hearing may determine whether any payment of money or any transfer of property by the debtor, made directly or indirectly and in contemplation of the filing of a petition under the Code by or against the debtor or before entry of the order for relief in an involuntary case, to an attorney for services rendered or to be rendered is excessive.
- (b) Payment or Transfer to Attorney After Order for Relief. On motion by the debtor, the United States trustee, or on the court's own initiative, the court after notice and a hearing may determine whether any payment of money or any transfer of property, or any agreement therefor, by the debtor to an attorney after entry of an order for relief in a case under the Code is excessive, whether the payment or transfer is made or is to be made directly or indirectly, if the payment, transfer, or agreement therefor is for services in any way related to the case.

In the instant motion, Trustee asserts the following:

All in all, bankruptcy courts are empowered to examine and disgorge all fees paid within the one year prior to bankruptcy and after the petition date, irrespective of the nature of the services rendered, in order to determine whether they were paid in connection or in contemplation of bankruptcy and whether they are reasonable.

[Dkt. No. 192, pg. 12, lines 9-12]. While this assertion is somewhat convoluted due to its use of a number of conjunctions, it would appear that the assertion conflicts somewhat with FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 2017. Rule 2017 distinguishes between prepetition and postpetition payments. Regarding the former, the rule provides for examination of payments made "in contemplation of the filing of a petition." Regarding the latter, the rules provides for examination of payments made "for services in any way related to the case." This latter standard seems to reflect the broader rule, which was endorsed by In re Rheuban; the former seems to reflect the narrower rule, favored by In re Bressman.

Chapter 7

Here, the payment at issue was a prepetition payment, and thus would fall under the more restricting subsection, FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 2017(a). While 11 U.S.C. § 329(a) requires disclosure of payment received for services rendered "in contemplation of or in connection with" (emphasis added) a bankruptcy case, such disclosure would seem to be of limited practical significance if those payments are not included within the scope of the Court's review under Rule 2017(a). While the Court does not read "in connection with" as interchangeable with "in contemplation of," the Court concludes that the phrases should be similarly limiting, at least in the context of prepetition arrangements, and that the narrower reading of the phrase "in connection with," is more appropriate given the language of Rule 2017(a).

While Trustee's motion includes a subsection discussing the "in contemplation of" standard, after a paragraph which recites the applicable standard, the subsection reverts back to using the "in connection with" phrase. Furthermore, the record before the Court is devoid of any evidence which would suggest that the Retainer at issue was executed in contemplation of bankruptcy, or that the services contracted for were sufficiently connected to this bankruptcy proceeding as to bring the Retainer within the purview of 11 U.S.C. § 329.

B. THE RETAINER & PROPERTY OF THE ESTATE

Trustee's alternative argument is that $43,500 of the Retainer was not earned as of the petition date and constitutes property of the estate subject to turnover. Hilder argues that the Retainer was a non-refundable, earned upon receipt retainer, and that, as a result, no portion of the Retainer can be characterized as property of the estate. Hilder's principal place of business is in Texas, and the parties appear to agree that Texas law applies to determine the respective property interests.

The only relevant evidence provided by Trustee in its motion is found at paragraph eight of the attached declaration, which provides:

Chapter 7

The rules in Texas regarding "true" or "earned upon receipt" retainers seem to align with the rules in California. A true and correct copy is attached as Exhibit "2.", which found that "any payment for services not yet completed does not meet the strict requirements for a non-refundable retainer (as that term is used in this opinion) and must be deposited in the lawyer's trust or escrow account.

[Dkt. No. 192, pg. 8, lines 2-6]. Regarding Trustee's legal argument, Trustee primarily relies upon a Texas Ethics Opinion, but also cites In re Dixon, 143 B.R. 671 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 1992), which Trustee asserts stands for the proposition that the Retainer remained property of the estate until the attorney applies the funds against charges incurred.

Hilder's primary argument in response is that the Retainer is a "classic retainer" which "involves fees paid as consideration for employment of counsel, as opposed to compensation for services rendered." [Dkt. No 205, pg. 16, lines 24-26].

There are extensive problems with the current procedural posture. First, as briefly noted above, the instant motion contains virtually no supporting evidence; the relevant evidence is only presented to the Court in the opposition and the reply, and the evidence is materially redacted. Second, Trustee appears to have shifted its argument in the reply. The motion appears to argue that funds not earned as of the petition date are property of the estate, although the motion does not contain evidence which would allow the Court to determine whether the funds were earned. The reply, however, seems to shift, apparently conceding that a non-refundable retainer is appropriate in some circumstances, while arguing that it is not appropriate in these circumstances. In order to support that argument, Trustee presents new evidence not included in the underlying motion, an approach disfavored by Local Rule 9013-1(g)(4).

While not raised by the parties, FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 7001(1) provides that "a proceeding to recover money or property, other than a proceeding to compel the debtor to deliver property of the trustee, or a proceeding under § 554(b) or § 725 of the Code, Rule 2017, or Rule 6002" is an adversary proceeding. While Trustee's argument for disgorgement pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 329 and FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule

2017 is explicitly excepted from those proceedings characterized as adversary proceedings, Trustee's argument that the unearned portion of the Retainer is property of the estate fits within the scope of Rule 7001(1). Bankruptcy courts differ regarding when waiver of the Rule 7001(1) adversary proceeding requirement is appropriate. See, e.g., 10 COLLIER'S ON BANKRUPTCY ¶ 7001.01 (16th ed. 2018) ("Failure to commence an adversary proceeding when seeking the relief of the kind listed in Rule 7001 has resulted in denial of the motion or dismissal of the proceeding. However, in cases where no prejudice to the parties has arisen or where no objection to the procedural defect has been lodged, certain courts allow matters to proceed by way of motions under Rule 9014 rather than as adversary proceedings.") (footnote omitted) (collecting cases).

Here, it may not be appropriate to waive the requirements of an adversary proceeding for several reasons. First, the failure to commence an adversary proceeding has directly contributed to the discovery dispute also currently at issue. Second, the evidentiary record has not been fully developed; to the extent it has been developed, such development primarily occurred in Trustee's reply. Third, Trustee's argument that a portion of the Retainer constitutes property of the estate still seems to be evolving as the briefing progresses.

In light of the problems caused by proceeding under Rule 9014, rather than through an adversary proceeding, the Court is inclined to require an adversary proceeding.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion in its entirety, or, alternatively, to allow further briefing on the issues of whether the unearned portion of the Retainer constitutes property of the estate and whether an adversary proceeding is warranted.

APPEARANCES REQUIRED.

 VACATED  REASON: ADVERSARY DISMISSED 4/3/19

Tentative Ruling:

02/27/2019

On October 30, 2017, Sara Durham ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On January 8, 2018, SCE Federal Credit Union ("Plaintiff") filed a non-dischargeability complaint against Debtor. On February 8, 2018, Debtor filed her answer to the complaint.

On January 8, 2018, SCE Federal Credit Union filed a complaint asserting claims under §§ 523(a)(1), (a)(2), and (a)(14) against Sarah Durham (the "Complaint"). On May 2, 2018, Plaintiff filed a motion to compel Debtor to respond to discovery. The Court granted the motion pursuant to an order entered June 6, 2018 (the "Production Order"). The Production Order further required Debtor to pay $1,013.50 to Plaintiff if she failed to produce documents. On September 26, 2018, Plaintiff filed a motion to strike the answer of Debtor and for entry of default. On October 29, 2018, the Court granted Plaintiff's Motion and issued an order striking the Debtor's Answer. The Clerk of Court then entered default on October 31, 2018, on request of Plaintiff.

On November 30, 2018, the Plaintiff filed its Motion for Default Judgment (the "Motion"). The initially set hearing was continued as a result of the federal government shutdown. On February 12, 2019, the Debtor filed a response to the Motion. The Debtor asserts, in pertinent part, that she has been receiving mental health treatment for depression, anxiety and stress since September 2017; that she relapsed into use of drugs and alcohol which resulted in her failure to respond to requests from Plaintiff and failure to attend hearings. Debtor further asserts that she has been in an inpatient treatment facility and was set to exit the facility on February 14, 2019. The Debtor requests additional time but does not specify what actions she will undertake to remedy the deficiencies that resulted in the striking of her Answer. The Debtor's response is also not filed under penalty of perjury and attaches no evidence to corroborate the Debtor's assertions.

DISCUSSION

The Court shall not rule on the Motion at this juncture. This Court requires a Memorandum of Points and Authorities in support of any request for entry of default judgment. In particular, where as here, the Plaintiff presumably seeks judgment on the three asserted claims in the Complaint it is insufficient to submit evidence to the Court with no analysis of how the evidence supports entry of judgment on all three claims. The Plaintiff provides no case authority and no analysis of the burdens and elements correspondent to each of the claims in the Complaint.

TENTATIVE RULING

Based on the foregoing, the Court is inclined to CONTINUE the hearing on the Motion for Plaintiff to supplement the Motion with Points and Authorities. Plaintiff to provide the Court with an estimate of time for when the pleadings can be filed.

APPEARANCES REQUIRED.

Docket 172

Tentative Ruling:

1/31/19

BACKGROUND

On May 17, 2013, Rigoberto Baez ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On June 25, 2013, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed. Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was subsequently amended on two occasions.

On December 6, 2018, Trustee filed a notice of final cure mortgage payment. On December 27, 2018, Wells Fargo Bank N.A. filed a response, stating that Debtor was $11,338.57 delinquent in post-confirmation payments.

On December 28, 2018, Trustee filed a motion to deny discharge or, in the alternative, dismiss the case. Because Trustee has only provided legal analysis support dismissal of the case, not citing any legal basis to deny a discharge in this situation, the Court will consider the motion as a motion to dismiss. On January 16, 2019, Debtor filed his opposition. The opposition asserts that Debtor disputes Wells Fargo's accounting, and that Debtor will work with Wells Fargo to resolve the situation.

DISCUSSION

As noted by Trustee, 11 U.S.C. § 1307(c)(6) states:

(c) Except as provided in subsection (f) of this section, on request of a party in interest or the United States trustee and after notice and a hearing, the court may convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 7 of this title, or may dismiss a case under this chapter, whichever is in the best interests of creditors and the estate, for cause, including ---

(6) material default by the debtor with respect to a term of a confirmed plan

Trustee asserts that direct payments to Wells Fargo are payments under the plan, and the default in this case is material. Debtor has not provided any contrary legal authority on either point. The Court agrees with Trustee that direct payments to a lender are still considered payments under the plan. See, e.g., In Matter of Kessley, 655 Fed. Appx. 242, 244 (5th Cir. 2016); see also In re Evans, 543 B.R. 213 (Bankr. E.D. Va. 2016) (collecting cases). The Court also agrees that the post-confirmation default of $11,338.57 is material, assuming that that figure is accurate.

TENTATIVE RULING

Debtor to apprise the Court of the status of the post-confirmation delinquency and any efforts to resolve the situation with Wells Fargo. Absent resolution, the Court is inclined to GRANT the motion.

APPEARANCES REQUIRED.

Service: Proper

The Court has reviewed Applicant's requested compensation for fees in the amount of $2,128.50 and finds it excessive in light of the lack of complexity of the relief from stay motion and the opposition. The Court is thus inclined to grant Applicant's request for compensation for fees in the reduced amount of $1,728.50.

The Court has also reviewed Applicant's requested compensation for expenses in the amount of $108.34 and finds it generally reasonable.

The Court is inclined to GRANT Applicant's request for fees in the reduced amount of $1,728.50, and expenses in the amount of $108.34, for a total of $1,836.84.

Chapter 13

#13.00 Application for Compensation for Dana Travis, Debtor's Attorney, Period: to, Fee: $950.00, Expenses: $.0.00

EH__

Docket 50

Tentative Ruling:

4/25/2019

Opposition: Yes

Under 11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(3)(III) the benefit or necessity of services to the estate is determined in light of their benefit at the time that the services were provided. At the time that Debtors filed their motion through Applicant the only evidence they had that the statute of limitations had passed on the claim was the Debtors' declaration as to when they had last made payment. This is clearly insufficient to meet the burden of proof, even when viewed at the time of the filing of the objection. Debtors alleged that the claim was suspicious, as the date of last transaction on the account was exactly one day within the four-year statute of limitations for credit card debt. However, even in light of this, the objection was still deficient. As such, the Court finds that the service to the estate for which compensation for fees is being requested served no benefit to the estate at the time of filing.

The Court is inclined to DENY Applicant's request for compensation in the amount of $950.

Docket 25

Tentative Ruling:

According to the court in In re Morales, 387 B.R. 36 (Bankr.C.D.Cal.2008), the retail values, and not the private party values, are the appropriate starting points for property valuation because the text of 11 U.S.C. § 506(a)(2) refers to "the price a retail merchant would charge" and does not refer to the price a private party would charge. Morales at 46.

Here, Debtor has provided a Kelly Blue Book report identifying the private party value of the Chrysler 200. Pursuant to the above discussion, the Court requires evidence of the Property's retail value, and adequate evidence to justify any deviations therefrom.

SERVICE: PROPER

OPPOSITION: NONE

The Court is inclined to CONTINUE the hearings for supplemental evidence.

APPEARANCES REQUIRED.

The Court, having reviewed the motion, finds the evidence submitted in support of the motion, in the form of a declaration of Debtor, to be lacking the detail and specificity necessary to rebut the statutory presumption that the case is filed in bad faith. Specifically, the Court notes that 11 U.S.C. § 363(c)(3)(C) requires that the presumption of bad faith be rebutted by "clean and convincing" evidence; Debtor's declaration is cursory and devoid of details.

Noting that the instant case was dismissed on April 15, 2019, the Court is inclined to GRANT the request under ¶ 4, confirming that the automatic stay is not in effect. The Court is also inclined to GRANT relief from stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(4) because (1) the instant case is the third bankruptcy filing by the borrowers which was summarily dismissed in the last seven months; and (2) Movant is the only creditor listed on the schedules. Docket 15

Tentative Ruling:

4/30/2019

Opposition: None

The instant bankruptcy case was filed on March 7, 2019. Postpetition, Movant caused a notice to quit to be served on Debtor, and also commenced an unlawful detainer proceeding. The Court notes that in multiple sections of the instant motion, Movant has misrepresented the date that the unlawful detainer was filed, incorrectly stating that it was filed on March 2 (prepetition), when the attached exhibits indicate that the action was filed on March 27 (postpetition). Because both the notice to quit and the unlawful detainer action were executed in violation of the automatic stay, these acts are void and of no effect; the void acts cannot serve as the basis for relief from the automatic stay. Furthermore, because the time to assume or reject the lease pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 365 has not yet expired, a postpetition breach of the lease cannot constitute grounds for relief from stay. For all of the above reasons, the Court is inclined to DENY the motion in its entirety.

From: 4/16/19

EH__

Docket 38

Tentative Ruling:

4/30/2019

Opposition: Yes.

On February 19, 2019, Anthony Yue Ming Liu ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. On Schedule F, Debtor listed Andrzej Luczynski ("Movant") as the holder of an unsecured claim of $1,380,000 relating to a civil lawsuit.

On March 12, 2019, Movant filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay, seeking to continue pending state court litigation relating to claims for tortious exclusion of joint venturer, breach of fiduciary duty, breach of contract, and wrongful eviction. A state court hearing on Debtor's objections to the tentative decision and proposed judgment had been scheduled for February 20, 2019, but was ultimately postponed due to the instant bankruptcy filing. It appears from the contents of the motion that Movant is only requesting to have the state court enter judgment, thereby liquidating Movant's claim.

On April 2, 2019, Debtor filed his opposition. The crux of Debtor's opposition is that the relief from the automatic stay is unnecessary because Movant's claim has been effectively liquidated. Debtor notes that "[t]he only issue remaining is a determination of any costs and attorney's fees, which Debtor has attempted to review for reasonableness in hopes that the parties could avoid unnecessary litigation and expenses regarding the same." [Dkt. No. 49, pg. 4, lines 10-12]. On April 9, 2019, Movant filed a reply, effectively arguing that Debtor's opposition does not contain a legal basis upon which relief from stay could be denied.

When considering a motion for relief from the automatic stay to pursue a non-bankruptcy action, the Court considers the Curtis factors:

- (1) Whether the relief will result in a partial or complete resolution of the issues;
- (2) the lack of any connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case;
- (3) whether the foreign proceeding involves the debtor as fiduciary; (4) whether a specialized tribunal has been established to hear the particular cause of action and whether that tribunal has the expertise to hear such cases; (5) whether the debtor's insurance carrier has assumed full financial responsibility for defending the litigation; (6) whether the action essentially involves third parties, and the debtor functions only as a bailee or conduit for the good or proceeds in question; (7) whether the litigation in another forum would prejudice the interests of other creditors, the creditor's committee and other interested parties; (8) whether the judgment claim arising from the foreign action is subject to equitable subordination; (9) whether movant's success in the foreign proceeding would result in a judicial lien avoidable by the debtor under Section 522(f); (10) the interests of judicial economy and the expeditious and economical determination of litigation for the parties; (11) whether the foreign proceedings have progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial; and (12) the impact of the stay and the "balance of hurt."

In re Roger, 539 B.R. 837, 844-45 (C.D. Cal. 2015). In Roger, the Court further stated:

The Ninth Circuit has recognized that the Curtis factors are appropriate, nonexclusive, factors to consider in deciding whether to grant relief from the automatic stay to allow pending litigation to continue in another forum. While the Curtis factors are widely used to determine the existence of cause, not all of the factors are relevant in every case, nor is a court required to give each factor equal weight. According to the court in Curtis, the most important factor in determining whether to grant relief from the automatic stay to permit litigation against the debtor in another forum is the effect of such litigation on the administration of the estate. Even slight interference with the administration may be enough to preclude relief in the absence of a commensurate benefit. That said, some cases involving the automatic stay provision do not mention the Curtis factors at all.

Here, the Curtis factors weigh in favor of granting relief from the automatic stay. First, the relief requested would result in a complete resolution of the issues. Debtor's argument that relief from stay is not necessary to resolve the issue, because the issue could be resolved through the claim objection process in bankruptcy court, is not persuasive to the Court because it does not directly address the first Curtis factor and because, presumably, the state court is in a better position to assess the reasonableness of the fees and costs incurred in its own proceedings. Likewise, the second factor weighs in favor of the relief requested because the entry of a judgment in state court will not interfere with the administration of the bankruptcy estate. Debtor has not raised a plausible argument contending otherwise. A choice by Debtor to possibly incur attorney fees arguing the amount of Movant's fees and costs incurred in the state court proceeding does not constitute interference with the administration of the bankruptcy estate. Finally, the Court finds that the tenth through twelfth Curtis factors weigh in favor of granting relief from stay, because the state court proceeding progressed to the point where it was ready for trial, and the state court is in a better position to judge the reasonableness of the fees and costs incurred in its own proceeding.

The Court finds that the third through ninth Curtis factors are largely irrelevant in this situation and do not materially affect the Court's analysis. Additionally, the Court is not inclined to find that the instant bankruptcy was filed in bad faith. Movant's only argument made to support a bad faith finding is that the instant case was filed on the eve of the anticipated state court judgment. Noting that Debtor scheduled Movant's claim and does not appear to be attempting to undermine the state court proceeding, the Court cannot conclude that Debtor is acting on bad faith simply because he is attempting to satisfy Movant's claim through a Chapter 11 plan of reorganization.

The Court is inclined to GRANT request for relief pursuant to § 362(d)(1). GRANT waiver of Rule 4001(a) stay. GRANT request under ¶ 2. DENY request for relief under ¶ 7 for lack of cause shown.

Docket 240

Tentative Ruling:

4/30/2019

BACKGROUND:

On October 2, 2018, Technology Solutions and Services, Inc. ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. Debtor's first amended disclosure statement was approved on March 11, 2019; the Chapter 11 plan confirmation hearing is currently set for May 7, 2019

On November 2, 2018, Julio Garcia Jr., a manager of Debtor, and Julio Garcia Sr., the CFO of Debtor (collectively, "Claimants"), filed proof of claims for $725,758.59 ("Claim 22") and $555,787.43 ("Claim 23"), respectively. On March 27, 2019, Debtor filed an objection to Claim 22 and Claim 23. The basis of Debtor's objection to both claims is that, after request by Debtor, Claimants have failed to provide sufficient documentation or information to enable Debtor to verify the validity and amount of the claims. Neither Claim 22 nor Claim 23 includes any supporting information.

APPLICABLE LAW:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 3001(c)(1) states:

Except for a claim governed by paragraph (3) of this subdivision, when a claim, or an interest in property of the debtor securing the claim, is based on a writing, a copy of the writing shall be filed with the proof of claim. If the writing has been lost or destroyed, a statement of the circumstances of the loss or destruction shall be filed with the claim.

In 2011, FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 3001(c)(2)(D) was added, providing that failure to submit the required information may result in (i) the claimant being precluded from submitting such information in an adversary proceeding or claim objection; or (ii) other appropriate relief. Notably, Rule 3001(c)(2) only applies to individual cases. This has led to some confusion regarding the appropriate response to the failure to file supporting information for a proof of claim in a non-individual case. See 9 COLLIER'S ON BANKRUPTCY ¶ 3001.01[2] (16th ed. 2015) ("Before the rule was amended in 2011, the effect of failure to provide proper documentation of a proof of claim resulted in the claim either being disallowed or losing its prima facie validity. A court may determine that these results are still proper since the revised rule clearly establishes explicit sanctions for individual cases. However, it seems logical to assume that courts, in exercise of their right to control evidence and to sanction improper behavior, may apply the Rule 3001(c)(2)(D) sanctions in non-individual debtor cases.").

The Court simply relies on FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 3001(f), which states: "A proof of claim executed and filed in accordance with these rules shall constitute prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim." Here, Claim 22 and Claim 23 are identified as being based on a loan, and Debtor has provided evidence indicating that these claims were based on a writing. Claimants have failed to file the information required by FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 3001(c)(1) for claims based on a writing. Therefore, Claim 22 and Claim 23 are not entitled to prima facie validity, and the burden is on Claimants to establish the validity of those claims by a preponderance of the evidence. Claimants have not opposed the instant objections, and, therefore, have not satisfied their burden.

The Court also deems Claimant's failure to oppose the claim objections to be consent to the relief requested pursuant to Local Rule 9013-1(h).

the operation of 11 U.S.C. § 1111(a) and FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 3003(b)(1), but not actually filed in the Court's claim register, creates certain unique issues. The purpose of § 1111(a) is to streamline the Chapter 11 process when certain claims are uncontested by the debtor. See 7 COLLIER'S ON BANKRUPTCY ¶ 1111.02[1] (16th ed. 2018) ("Section 1111(a) changes this general procedure for the limited case of uncontested claims and interests, allowing the holder of such a claim or interest to participate in the chapter 11 case notwithstanding the failure to file a proof of claim or interest."). It is inherently paradoxical for Debtor to file schedules indicating that it does not contest a certain claim, then object to its own schedules on the basis that it contests its own characterization of the claim. Instead, it would seem that the more appropriate procedural approach is illustrated as follows:

The second alternative would have been for debtor to amend its schedules and designate the Varela "deemed allowed" claim as "disputed" so that it would lose its "deemed allowed" status. Debtor would then have had to give notice of the amendment to Varela and Inter Mountain as entities "affected thereby." Varela would have likely responded by filing a proof of claim. If the claims bar date had passed, the court would have had to exercise its authority under Rule 3003(c)(3) to extend the deadline for "cause." While a finding of "cause" is obviously discretionary, refusal to find "cause" in such circumstances would risk eviscerating § 1111(a) and creating a major opportunity to lull creditors into complacency by scheduling them with § 1111(a) "deemed allowed" status and then amending schedules after it is too late to file a claim. The proof of claim would then restore Varela's "deemed allowed" status unless debtor were to file a Rule 3007 objection.

In re Dynamic Brokers, Inc., 293 B.R. 489, 497-98 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2003) (citations omitted).

The problem with the approach selected by Debtor is that the supporting information requirements, and corresponding evidentiary effects of FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 3002(c) and (f), do not apply when a claim is deemed allowed because it was scheduled by a Debtor. Debtor's brief is unclear – the relevant legal analysis is identical to the analysis provided in a second claim objection, which was based on lack of supporting information under Rule 3002(c). As a result, Debtor's contention that Claimant has not provided adequate information or evidence to establish the nature and amount of its debt is irrelevant; the claim is prima facie valid, and Debtor has not provided any evidence or coherent argument to rebut the prima facie validity.

Finally, the Court does not find it appropriate to construe the instant claim objection as a disavowal of Schedule F and Debtor's previous acknowledgement of the scheduled claim. While a properly amended Schedule F may trigger the procedure outlined in In re Dynamic Brokers, construing the claim objection as obviating the statutory prima facie validity of the scheduled claim erodes Claimant's due process. If Debtor had amended Schedule F, then Claimant would need to be notified of such amendment, and, presumably, provided a time frame to file a properly documented proof of claim. If Debtor objected to that filed claim, then Claimant would be afforded a second time period to provide further evidence establishing the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. Here, Debtor has attempted to collapse those two time periods into a single, shortened period.

Noting that the plan confirmation hearing is currently scheduled for May 7, 2019, it seems to the Court that the restriction of those time periods may have prompted this unique, inherently paradoxical approach.

BACKGROUND

On August 15, 2018, Visiting Nurse Association of the Inland Counties ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. On November 2, 2018, The H.N. and Frances C. Berger Foundation ("Berger Foundation") filed its motion to compel payment of administrative rent or immediate rejection of lease and related relief. On November 13, 2018, Debtor filed its opposition.

The subject of the motion is a lease dated August 15, 2008, for certain nonresidential real property located in Palm Desert, California. According to Berger Foundation, "[p]ursuant to the terms of lease, should the Debtor continue to occupy the premises after August 14, 2018, the lease obligation increases to approximately $91,216.50 per month," [Dkt. No. 194, pg. 2] a doubling of the contractual monthly rental obligation. Berger Foundation requests: (1) that Debtor be compelled to cure the default on the lease or surrender the premises; and (2) allowance of an administrative expense claim

Debtor's opposition argued that: (1) the lease cannot be assumed or rejected because the lease expired the day before the petition date; and (2) because the lease expired prepetition, the legal basis for the requested administrative expense claim is invalid.

On November 27, 2018, the Court held a hearing on the matter, and continue the hearing for three weeks for supplemental briefing. On December 18, 2018, the Court posted a tentative ruling prior to the continued hearing, indicating that it was inclined to hold that the lease terminated pre-petition, and, therefore, the lease was not an executory contract. The Court continued the matter again, allowing the parties the opportunity to further brief the matter, and to enable the parties to supplement the record to afford the Court the opportunity to assess Berger Foundation's request for administrative rent.

On January 18, 2019, Berger Foundation filed a supplement. On February 1, 2019, Debtor filed a response. Because Berger Foundation has not presented any new argument relating to 11 U.S.C. § 365, the Court is not inclined to modify its tentative, which is outlined in the first portion of the discussion section. Instead, the Court will address the parties' arguments relating to 11 U.S.C. § 503.

DISCUSSION

I. 11 U.S.C. § 365

The critical legal question at issue is whether the operative lease expired prepetition. Berger Foundation relies on 11 U.S.C. § 365(d)(3) as the basis for both its requests, and that provision states:

Chapter 11

The trustee shall timely perform all the obligations of the debtor, except those specified in section 365(b)(2), arising from and after the order for relief under any unexpired lease of nonresidential real property, until such lease is assumed or rejected, notwithstanding section 503(b)(1) of this title. The court may extend, for cause, the time for performance of any such obligation that arises within 60 days after the date of the order for relief, but the time for performance shall not be extended beyond such 60-day period. This subsection shall not be deemed to affect the trustee's obligations under the provisions of subsection (b) or (f) of the section. Acceptance of any such performance does not constitute waiver or relinquishment of the lessor's rights under such lease or under this title.

(emphasis added).

As a general rule, an expired lease is no longer executory, and, therefore, is no longer assumable, if the lease expired prepetition. See, e.g., In re Acorn Invs., 8 B.R. 506, 509-10 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1981). Therefore, the Court must determine whether the lease at issue expired prepetition. See Robinson v. Chicago Hous. Auth., 54 F.3d 316, 320 (7th Cir. 1995) ("the federal law allowing 'unexpired' leases to be assumed calls for a determination whether a lease has ended under state law."). Here, Debtor argues that the lease expired pre-petition, resulting in a holdover tenancy, in which no privity of contract exists, while Berger Foundation argues that the lease became a month to month tenancy and, therefore, was not expired. While the parties appear to be agree on the operative legal standard, the parties disagree regarding how that standard applies to the facts here

Both parties refer to CAL. CIV. CODE § 1945, which states:

If a lessee of real property remains in possession thereof after the expiration of the hiring, and the lessor accepts rent from him, the parties are presumed to have renewed the hiring on the same terms and for the same time, not exceeding one month when the rent is payable monthly, nor in any case one year.

As a preliminary matter, the Court notes that it appears the above legal provision should not actually be applicable to the instant situation. Specifically, CAL. CIV. CODE § 1940(a), (c) states the following:

- (a) Except as provided in subdivision (b), this chapter shall apply to all persons who hire dwelling units located within this state included tenants, boarders, lodgers, and others, however denominated.
- (c) "Dwelling unit" means a structure or the part of a structure that is used as a home, residence, or sleeping place by one person who maintains a household or by two or more persons who maintain a common household.

Here, the lease at issue was a commercial lease which would remove the lease from the purview of § 1945 based upon the plain language of § 1940. Nevertheless, the Court notes that there is ample caselaw, some of which is cited by the parties, in which California courts have applied § 1945 to commercial property. Although it is not clear to this Court why that section is inapplicable to the instant situation, the Court will defer to the state law courts on this issue of state law.

Ultimately, the argument of Berger Foundation boils down to the following:

In this case, after the expiration of the Lease terms (August 14, 2018), Debtor continued to occupy the Premises. Berger continued to accept the Debtor as a tenant and took no action to terminate the Debtor's leasehold interest in the Premises. To the contrary, as this Court's record reflects, from the outset, Berger has been focusing on receiving rent payments and, in fact, received post-petition payments of not less than $15,000 as of the date of this Reply. Clearly, pursuant to Civil Code § 1945 and applicable California authority, the Lease converted to a month-to-month tenancy after August 14, 2018.

[Dkt. No. 278, pg. 3]. Debtor's argument, on the other hand, appears to be that Berger Foundation's actions in this case simply do not reflect clear consent to Debtor's continued possession of the premises.

First, there appears to be a timing issue which has not been identified by the parties. The operative lease expired, by its own terms, on August 14, 2018. The instant bankruptcy was filed on August 15, 2018. Therefore, assuming, arguendo, that rent was paid and accepted in a matter which would trigger the statutory presumption in CAL. CIV. CODE § 1945, such event would have occurred after the petition date. City v. Hart, 175 Cal. App. 3d 92, 94 (Cal. Ct. App. 1985) ("The statute provides the landlord's consent to the holding over is implied if he accepts rent from the tenant after the expiration of the lease. This consent to the holding over must be established before the statutory presumption of the same terms becomes effective.") (emphasis added). Therefore, the lease at issue would have been, as of the petition date, expired and not assumable. Quite simply, on the record before the Court, it is implausible that Berger Foundation could have undertaken any action in the fraction of the day before the instant bankruptcy filing which would have indicated consent to the creation of a month-to-month tenancy.

Furthermore, outside of the bankruptcy law issues raised above, Berger Foundation's position does not seem to be compatible with state law. Quite simply, the presumptions outlined in CAL. CIV. CODE § 1945 are analogous to contractual principles in common law. By remaining in possession of the property, and tendering a rental payment, a holdover tenant is making an offer; by accepting such tender, the landlord manifests his assent to such offer. Berger Foundation seems to be positing that the payment of any rent whatsoever, even a single dollar, subsequently accepted by the landlord, results in the extension of the lease terms on the original contractual terms.

Berger Foundation's argument, however, is inconsistent with fundamental contractual principles, for, in the case of a minimal rental payment, it cannot be said that either party has made an offer, accepted by the other party, to renew the original lease terms. At best, the landlord's implied acquiescence may be construed as an offer, yet the tenant's tender of a minimal rental payment can only be interpreted as a counter-offer, since such a tender would be materially inconsistent with the terms of the offer. If the landlord accepts this reduced tender, the terms agreed upon must be construed as those set forth in the counter-offer, a principle codified in CAL. CIV. PRO. § 2076:

The person to whom a tender is made must, at the time, specify any objection he may have to the money, instrument, or property, or he must be deemed to have waived it; and if the objection be to the amount of money, the terms of the instrument, or the amount or kind of property, he must specify the amount, terms, or kind which he requires, or be precluded from objecting afterwards.

See also Taylor v. Taylor, 39 Cal. App. 2d 518, 521 (Cal. Ct. App. 1940) ("It is now settled by these cases that where the tenant tenders, and the landlord accepts, as full payment of the rent, a less monthly rental than that reserved in the lease, he cannot later recover the unpaid balance of the rent reserved.")

While the above principle, a principle of estoppel, is properly subject to the Court's consideration of equities, such consideration would simply not change the fact that a reduced monthly rental payment cannot be considered acquiescence to a renewal of the original contractual terms. In the absence of such mutual agreement to be bound to the original terms, there simply cannot be contractual privity.

Finally, the Court notes that the operation of CAL. CIV. CODE § 1945 is to create a rebuttable presumption that the lease has been extended. Assuming, arguendo, that the bankruptcy and contract law issues noted above were not present, it appears probable that such a presumption would be rebutted in the instant case. The Court is not aware of any action taken by Debtor that would support a conclusion that Debtor intended to renew the lease on the original terms, and Berger Foundation has made repeated statements which would be incompatible with the presumption in § 1945. For instance, in the instant motion Berger Foundation made the following statements, which are implicitly and explicitly more compatible with a holdover tenancy than a month-to-month tenancy:

Chapter 11

- "Since the filing of this case, the Debtor has continued, and continues, to occupy the Premises, yet has failed to pay the rental obligation due and owing." [Dkt. No 194, pg. 2 and 4]

- "Based on the fact that the Debtor remained as a holdover tenant, and pursuant to the terms of the Lease, the rental obligation increases to approximately $91,216.50 per month." [Dkt. No. 194, pg. 4 and 10] (emphasis added).

- "Here, the Debtor has made no payments while continuing to occupy the Premises." [Dkt. No. 194, pg. 6].

For the reasons outlined above, the Court concludes that the lease in question was expired as of the petition date because nothing in the record indicates that Berger Foundation provided consent to continued possession of the premises in the less than one-day period between the expiration of the lease and the instant bankruptcy filing. To the extent that Berger Foundation argues that postpetition acts retroactively revived the original lease terms, such retroactive revival would seem to be incompatible with City v. Hart, 175 Cal. App. 3d 92, 94 (Cal. Ct. App. 1985). Furthermore, because Debtor did not remotely act in accordance with the original lease terms, it cannot be said that Debtor actions constituted a renewal of those terms; if any lease was entered into postpetition, it must have been on substantially different terms, which would require notice and a hearing. Additionally, even if the statutory presumption of CAL. CIV. CODE § 1945 were applicable in the instant situation, the Court concludes that such presumption would likely be rebutted based on the fact that Debtor did not act in accordance with the original terms, and based on Berger Foundation's explicit characterization of Debtor as a holdover tenant.

"An administrative rent claim under this standard is value 'under an objective worth standard that measures the fair and reasonable value of the lease.'" *In re Pac.-Atl. "The rent reserved in the lease is presumptive evidence of fair and reasonable value, but the presumption may be rebutted by demonstrating that the reasonable worth of the lease differs from the contract rate." In re Thompson, 788 F.2d 560, 563 (9th Cir. 1986). "Where the debtor or trustee only uses a portion of the lease property, however, he must pay an administrative expense only for that portion of the property." Id. at 562. The Court continued the previous hearing for the parties to provide evidence and argument regarding the objective value of the portion of the leased property utilized by Debtor.

Debtor first, very briefly, argues that the parties have implicitly agreed to a rental rate of $5,000 per month, and that that amount should be used in calculating Berger Foundation's administrative claim. Debtor appears to base this argument on the Court's tentative ruling for the hearing of December 18, 2018; specifically, Debtor refers to Taylor v. Taylor, 39 Cal. App. 2d 518, 521 (Cal. Ct. App. 1940). The Court rejects Debtor's approach. The relevant language in the Court's tentative ruling is used to illustrate that, in the context of a holdover tenancy, the original contractual terms do not necessarily control when the parties have acted in a manner which is materially inconsistent with those terms. Importantly, here, the $5,000 payment discussed by Debtor is not necessarily a "rental" payment, but is more accurately characterized as an "adequate protection" payment. Adequate protection payments may be in amounts substantially different than the actual amount due – for instant, an adequate protection payment may be interest only, or may attempt to estimate the depreciation of the estate, in order to protect the secured creditor's interest. Furthermore, it would not be equitable to apply the estoppel principle codified in CAL. CIV. PRO. § 2076 in the context of bankruptcy, where the lender does have the ability to reject the payment and, without constraint, exercise its traditional state law rights.

Debtor's primary argument is that the contract rate of the lease is an "inappropriate measure" of the objective worth of the lease because Debtor did not use the entirety of the leased premises. Specifically, Debtor argues that it only utilized 4,000 square feet of the leased premises. Berger Foundation, on the other hand, makes two arguments in response: (1) that the entirety of the premises were necessary for Debtor to maintain its CMS license; and (2) that Debtor actually utilized the majority of the premises. In support of its argument, Debtor has provided declarations attesting that Debtor only used 4,000 square feet, and that, after moving into a smaller space, Debtor did not lose any funding, or, presumably, its license. Berger Foundation has provided a declaration which includes the vague statement that Debtor "continued to utilize the majority of the Premises."

The record provided to the Court is, unfortunately, unclear and incapable of providing the necessary evidentiary framework for a precise mathematical calculation. First, there is conflicting evidence regarding whether Debtor used only 4,000 square feet. Second, and more importantly, the evidence seems to suggest, but is still unclear, that the Debtor required all the space to maintain its license (or at least thought it had to). Debtor's response states the following: "Although it is true the Debtor was concerned it might lose funding if it lost its physical address in Palm Desert by hastily vacating the Premises, a belief that the Debtor needed a physical address for funding does not trump the Ninth Circuit requirement that the Debtor actually use the entirety of the Premises. In fact, Berger does not cite to any authority for this proposition." [Dkt. No. 323, pg. 10, lines 6-10].

On the record before it, the Court concludes Debtor has failed to demonstrate it did not use the entirety of the premises. More specifically, the Court concludes that there are a variety of ways that a space can be "used," and that that term is not limited to physical occupancy by the tenant. While, again, the record before the Court is less than clear, it appears that Debtor represented that it had control over, and occupancy of, the entirety of the premises for purposes of its licensing and funding. As a result, it appears Debtor continued to "use" the leased premises for some purposes, even if such use did not necessarily amount to physical use of the entirety of the premises for normal business operations. Because Debtor has not established that the use of the full premises was not reasonably necessary to preserve the estate, the Court rejects Debtor's attempt to reduce the space used to 4,000 square foot. As a result, the Court concludes that Debtor has not rebutted the presumption that the contract rate represents the reasonable value of the leased premises used.

#4.00 Motion for Partial Judgment on Pleadings re Answer by Bank of Southern California to Second Amended Complaint

Docket 133

Tentative Ruling:

5/1/2019

BACKGROUND

On October 25, 2013, Douglas Roger ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On May 10, 2016, the Court entered an order approving a settlement between Trustee and Revere Financial Corporation ("Plaintiff"). The settlement included a liquidating trust agreement, pursuant to which Trustee would transfer certain assets to a liquidating trust controlled directly or indirectly by Plaintiff.

On July 29, 2016, Plaintiff, in its capacity as liquidating trustee, filed a complaint against Bank of Southern California, N.A. ("Defendant"). The complaint included causes of action for: (a) intentional fraudulent transfer (two claims); (b) constructive fraudulent transfer; (c) preferential transfer; (d) unjust enrichment; and (e) money had and received. On August 31, 2016, Defendant filed a motion to dismiss. The morning of the scheduled hearing, Plaintiff filed a first amended complaint, rendering the motion to dismiss moot. On October 5, 2016, Defendant filed a second motion to dismiss. After one continuance, the Court granted the motion to dismiss the amended complaint, with leave to amend. On February 1, 2017, Plaintiff filed a second amended complaint; on February 28, 2017, Defendant filed a third motion to dismiss. On April 7, 2017, after one continuance, the Court granted the motion to dismiss; the dismissal was with prejudice as to the claims for unjust enrichment and money had

On July 5, 2017, Plaintiff filed a third amended complaint. On August 4, 2017, Defendant filed a fourth motion to dismiss. On September 7, 2017, the Court dismissed the third amended complaint, in its entirety, with prejudice. On September 21, 2017, Plaintiff appealed the dismissal to the district court.

On April 13, 2018, the district court reversed this Court's orders relating to both the second and third amended complaints, reinstating the second amended complaint as the operative complaint. On July 31, 2018, the Court entered an amended order vacating dismissal of the case and clarifying that the second amended complaint was the operative complaint.

On July 31, 2018, Defendant also filed an answer. The answer contained the following twenty-three affirmative defenses:

- (1) Failure to state a cause of action;
- (2) Estoppel
- (3) Laches
- (4) Waiver
- (5) Setoff/Recoupment
- (6) Unclean Hands
- (7) No Recovery

After a brief discovery dispute between the parties, Plaintiff filed a motion for partial judgment on the pleadings (the "Motion") on April 10, 2019, seeking an order striking all the affirmative defenses in the operative answer. The Motion contains two categories of argument. First, Plaintiff argues that eight of the twenty-three affirmative defenses are insufficient as a matter of law. Second, Plaintiff argues that the remaining fifteen affirmative defenses are insufficient as a matter of pleading.

LEGAL DISCUSSIONS

FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 12(c) & (f), incorporated into bankruptcy proceeds by FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 7012(b), state the following:

(c) Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings. After the pleadings are closed – but early enough not to delay trial – a party may move for judgment on the pleadings.

(f) Motion to Strike. The Court may strike from a pleading an insufficient defense or any redundant, immaterial, impertinent, or scandalous matter. The court may act:

(1) on its own; or

(2) on motion made by a party either before responding to the pleading or, if a response is not allowed, within 21 days after being served with the pleading.

There are several potentially applicable definitions of "judgment." For instance, FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 54(a) states, in pertinent part: " 'Judgment' as used in these rules includes a decree and any order from which an appeal lies." FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 9001(7) includes an additional definition of judgment. The most specific, and therefore, most appropriate, definition of judgment is contained in FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 9002(5), which provides:

Chapter 7

The following words and phrases used in the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure made applicable to cases under the Code by these rules have the meaning indicated unless that are inconsistent with the context:

(5) "Judgment" includes any order appealable to an appellate court.

Here, it is unclear how Plaintiff can request a "judgment," while simultaneously stating that "BSC may amend BSC's answer to actually allege facts to support BSC's affirmative defenses in an operative answer." [Dkt. No. 137, pg. 3, lines 24-26]. Regardless, because leave to amend pleadings is to be granted liberally, and because of the unsettled nature of the law on this issue, the Court would not prohibit Defendant from amending its answer, even if so requested by Plaintiff. See FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 15(a)(2), incorporated into bankruptcy proceedings by FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 7015, ("The Court should freely give leave when justice so requires."). As a result, it does not appear that the relief requested by Plaintiff could be construed as a judgment.

This conclusion is supported by the case law cited by Plaintiff in its argument section, which begins on page 11 of docket number 133. [The Court notes that while this section begins with section (III)(A), docket number 133 contains multiple sections (III), the latter of which contains two subsections (A)]. The Court takes issue with Plaintiff's fundamental misrepresentation of the caselaw it is citing. There are two sentences in the argument section of docket number 133 which stand for the proposition that a motion for judgment on the pleadings as to affirmative defenses is a proper procedural approach, neither of which are adequately supported by relevant caselaw.

The first sentence is on lines 12-14 of page 11, and states: "A court will grant a motion for judgment pleadings against a defendant's affirmative defenses if the affirmative defenses are insufficiently pled." This statement is followed by the following citation: Westport Ins. Corp. v. N. Cal. Relief, 76 F. Supp. 3d 869, 882 (N.D. Cal. 2014); Nyberg v. Portfolio Recovery Assocs., LLC, 2016 WL 3176585 at *2 (D. Or. 2016); *see also Pac. W. Grp. v. the pleadings. . . ."); Savage v. Council on Am.-Islamic Relations, Inc., 2008 WL 2951281, at *2 (N.D. Cal. 2008). Three of these four cases appear irrelevant to the issue before the Court. The district court in Westport Ins. concluded that standard judgment on the pleadings (i.e. judgment on the Plaintiff's own causes of action) was appropriate in that case notwithstanding the existence of affirmative defenses raised in the answer. The Ninth Circuit in Pac. W. dealt with a defendant's motion for partial judgment on the pleadings, yet Plaintiff has decided to arbitrarily include the citation with a quotation that "[t]he district court properly granted partial judgment on the pleadings." Likewise, the district court in Savage dealt with a defendant's motion for partial judgment on the pleadings. Nyberg does stand for the assertion made by Plaintiff, but the district court in that case engaged in no analysis of the characterization and simply decided to defer to the characterization adopted by the plaintiff.

The second sentence is at lines 26-27 of page 11, and states: "A court should grant judgment on the pleadings if the answer contains insufficient affirmative defenses." This statement cites Westport and FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 12(f). Westport does support the quoted sentence, but is not applicable to a motion for judgment as to affirmative defenses. And Plaintiff is not moving under Rule 12(f) so that citation is inapposite.

Presumably, the reason that Plaintiff has adopted this questionable procedural approach is that a motion under Rule 12(f) is no longer available, absent permission of the Court, because the deadline for that motion has passed. Nevertheless, Plaintiff then shifts to cases applying Rule 12(f) without disclosing the same. In presenting the applicable legal standard, Plaintiff next cites Ross v. White, 2018 WL 3419647 (C.D. Cal. 2018), Ganley v. Cnty. of San Mateo, 2007 WL 902551 (N.D. Cal. 2007), and Barnes v. AT&T Pension Benefit Plan-Nonbargained Program, 718 F. Supp. 2d 1167 (N.D. Cal. 2010). All of these cases deal with Rule 12(f) and contain no mention of Rule 12(c). Likewise, CTF Dev., Inc. v. Penta Hosp., LLC, 2009 WL 3517617 (N.D. Cal. 2009), Hayne v. Green Ford Sales, Inc., 263 F.R.D. 647 (D. Kan. 2009), and Microsoft Corp. v. Jesse's Computers & Repairs, Inc., 211 F.R.D. 681 (M.D. Fla. 2002) all deal with Rule 12(f) motions.

Given that Plaintiff has filed a Rule 12(c) motion, but declined to support the motion with adequate caselaw, it is somewhat unclear how this Court should proceed. The Court finds the following well-reasoned analysis, from Jou v. Adalian, 2017 WL

3624340 at *2-*4 (D. Hi. 2017) to be particularly helpful:

The court next addresses whether the Motion is timely. If filed as a motion to strike an "insufficient defense" under Rule 12(f), then it is barred by Rule 12(f)(2), which requires that a Rule 12(f) motion be filed "within 21 days after being served with the pleading." But if filed as a motion for failure "to state a legal defense to a claim under Rule 12(h)(2)(B), then it is timely.

As a starting point, most courts appear to assume that any motion to strike an affirmative defense must be brought under Rule 12(f).

But these cases largely ignore Rule 12's second method of challenging an affirmative defense – Rule 12(h)(2)(B). As stated, this rule permits the filing of a Rule 12(c) motion for failure to state a legal defense to a claim. So, the question becomes how to reconcile Rule 12(f) and Rule 12(h)(2)(B). More specifically, what is the difference between challenging an "insufficient defense" under Rule 12(f) and challenging the failure to state a "legal defense" to a claim under Rule 12(h)(2)(B)? In answering this question, the court follows some general rules of statutory constructions. The court starts, of course, with plain meaning. And an interpretation that gives effect to every clause is generally preferable to one that does not. As a corollary rule, no provision should be construed to be entirely redundant. Thus, a statute should be construed so that effect is given to all its provisions, so that no part will be inoperative or superfluous, void or insignificant.

As an initial matter, the court rejects the view that Rule 12(h)(2)(B) simply allows a Rule 12(f) motion to be filed beyond the deadline set forth in Rule 12(f). This interpretation renders meaningless Rule 12(f)(2)'s requirement that a Rule 12(f) motion be filed within twenty-one days of service of the complaint. And, it fails to recognize the difference between an "insufficient" and a "legal" defense.

The court concludes that the difference between an "insufficient defense" and the failure to "state a legal defense to a claim" is based on the type of challenge being made. A claim of an "insufficient defense" covers a broader array of possible challenges than one claiming failure to state a "legal defense." In fact, while every failure to state a "legal defense" would also likely be an "insufficient defense," the reverse isn't true – some defenses can be insufficient but still state a legal defense. This follows from the definition of "legal defense" as a complete and adequate defense in a court of law. If a defense is not a complete and adequate one, it is not a legal defense. So, for example, if an affirmative defense of laches is not available as a matter of law in a particular case, then the plaintiff could move under Rule 12(h)(2)(B) (via Rule 12(c)) for judgment on the pleadings as to that defense. But if a Plaintiff simply claims that an affirmative defense as pled is too conclusory or boilerplate, then that claim does not challenge legal adequacy; instead, it asserts that the defense is insufficient as pled. This reading of Rule 12(f) and 12(h)(2)(B) gives meaning to both provisions and avoids finding any provision superfluous.

Here, Plaintiff simply claims that the majority of affirmative defenses are boilerplate and conclusory – i.e., they are insufficient as pled. The court thus construes the Motion as being brought pursuant to Rule 12(f). And because it was filed many months late, it is untimely.

[Citations, quotations, and footnotes omitted]. The Court also notes that the thorough analysis provided by the district court in Jou also resolves this Court's earlier-stated concerns about the definition of "judgment"; if an affirmative defenses is truly unavailable as a matter of law, then there would be no reason to permit leave to amend.

Therefore, in line with the reasoning outlined above, the Court is inclined to DENY the motion with respects to the fifteen affirmatives defenses that Plaintiff contends were inadequately pled. The proper remedy for Plaintiff was to file a Rule 12(f) motion, which, at present, would be untimely. Without needing to decide the issue, the Court notes that Plaintiff's contention, in the reply, that this Court has already decided that the heightened pleading standards apply to affirmative defenses, is simply inaccurate. The attached tentative ruling is simply not relevant to a Rule 12(f) analysis.

The Court will, however, consider whether the remaining eight affirmative defenses are unavailable as a matter of law. Those eight defenses are: (1) failure to state a claim; (2) no recovery; (3) not insolvent; (4) the bank did not receive more than it would have in a Chapter 7; (5) non debtor's assets; (6) accord and satisfaction; (7) earmarking doctrine; and (8) reservation of rights and non-waiver.

The Court agrees with Plaintiff that "reservation of rights and non-waiver" is not a legal, affirmative defense, and is properly stricken as a matter of law. See, e.g., A.K.C. v. City of Santa Ana, 2010 WL 11469021 at *2 (C.D. Cal. 2010). The Court further agrees with Plaintiff, for the reasons set forth in the Motion, that the first, seventh, thirteenth, fourteenth, seventeenth, and twenty-first affirmative defenses simply negate an element of the claims that Plaintiff is already required to provide. As a result, these six affirmative defenses are not properly characterized as affirmative defenses because Plaintiff is already required to prove the opposite. See, e.g., Zivkovic v. S. Cal. Edison Co., 302 F.3d 1080, 1088 (9th Cir. 2002) ("A defense which demonstrates that plaintiff has not met its burden of proof is not an affirmative defense."). Finally, the Court disagrees with Plaintiff regarding the remaining affirmative defense, accord and satisfaction. While accord and satisfaction may not be a valid affirmative defense to a claim for fraudulent transfer, the second amended complaint also contains claims for unjust enrichment and money had and received. While it is not clear what facts Defendant could allege in support of an affirmative defense of accord and satisfaction, the Court, restricting its analysis to the legal adequacy of the affirmative defenses, cannot conclude that accord and satisfaction is an improper legal defense to the second amended complaint as a whole.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion IN PART, striking the First, Seventh, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Seventeenth, Twenty-Second, and Twenty-Third affirmative defenses, with prejudice, and DENY the remainder of the Motion without prejudice.

Tentative Ruling:

5/1/2019

PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

On September 15, 2017, Cleo Sonnenfeld, as Trustee of the Sonnenfeld Family Trust ("Plaintiff") filed an involuntary petition against Joshua Richardson, his nephew ("Defendant"). On November 6, 2017, Defendant stipulated to the entry of an order for relief, and the order for relief was entered two days later.

On June 29, 2018, Plaintiff filed a complaint against Defendant to determine dischargeability of debt pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A), (a)(4) and (a)(6), and to deny discharge pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(3) and (5). On July 30, 2018, Defendant filed his answer. After the parties stipulated to a continuance of the scheduling order, Plaintiff filed an amended complaint (the "Amended Complaint"), adding a claim under § 727(a)(4), on January 13, 2019.

After a second stipulation to amend the scheduling order, Plaintiff filed the instant motion for summary judgment on March 18, 2019. On April 9, 2019, Defendant filed its opposition (as well as an amended answer). The Court notes that Defendant's opposition does not contain a single citation to bankruptcy law and only purports to controvert nine of Plaintiff's sixty-six statements of fact. On April 17, 2019, Plaintiff filed a reply

In the Amended Complaint, Plaintiff alleges that, in 2012, Defendant fraudulent induced Plaintiff to loan Defendant funds totaling $225,000. Plaintiff asserts that the purpose of this loan was to enable Defendant to purchase certain real property located at 13710 Oakley Dr., Moreno Valley, CA (the "Property"), and further asserts that the loan was intended to be secured by a first priority deed of trust. Plaintiff asserts that Defendant never provided Plaintiff with a deed of trust, while subsequently recording deeds of trust, totaling $265,000, in favor of other entities; Plaintiff further contends that Defendant stopped paying the loan in April 2015.

By way of background, on January 11, 2017, Plaintiff filed a state court complaint against Defendant for breach of contract, fraud, unjust enrichment, constructive trust, and declaratory relief. On February 6, 2018, this lawsuit was removed to the bankruptcy court; the Chapter 7 Trustee ultimately substituted in as the defendant after removal. After multiple hearings, the Court ultimately approved a compromise between Plaintiff and the Chapter 7 Trustee [Dkt No. 69]. The compromise provided that Plaintiff would receive a money judgment in the amount of $318,778.12 and a judgment holding that the estate was holding the Property in constructive trust for Plaintiff; a judgment to that effect was entered by the Court.

Also relevant to this proceeding is Plaintiff's detailed contentions that Defendant materially misrepresented certain financial information in his case commencement documents and at the meeting of creditors, and that Defendant professed a lack of information regarding certain other significant financial details. These contentions are concisely detailed in Plaintiff's statement of proposed findings of fact [Dkt. No. 19].

LEGAL STANDARD

Summary judgment should be granted if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment as a matter of law. FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 56(a) (incorporated into bankruptcy proceedings by FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 7056).

The moving party has the burden of establishing the absence of a genuine issue of material fact. Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323 (1986). If the moving party shows the absence of a genuine issue of material fact, the nonmoving party must go beyond the pleadings and identify facts that show a genuine issue for trial. Id. at 324. The court must view the evidence in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party. Bell v. Cameron Meadows Land Co., 669 F.2d 1278, 1284 (9th Cir. 1982). All reasonable doubt as to the existence of a genuine issue of fact should be resolved against the moving party. Hector v. Wiens, 533 F.2d 429, 432 (9th Cir. 1976).

If the moving party meets its initial burden, the non-moving party must set forth, by affidavit or as otherwise provided in Rule 56, specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial. Id. However, the non-moving party "must do more than simply show that there is some metaphysical doubt as to the material fact...." Matsushita Electrical Industry Co. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 586-587 (1986).

A fact is material if it "might affect the outcome of the suit under the governing law." Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248 (1986). A dispute about a material fact is genuine "if the evidence is such that a reasonable jury could return a verdict for the nonmoving party." Id.

(5) the debtor has failed to explain satisfactorily, before determination of denial of discharge under this paragraph, any loss of assets or deficiency of assets to meet the debtor's liabilities

FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 4005 places the burden of proof on the Plaintiff for all claims in this complaint.

A. 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(5)

The Court begins its analysis with § 727(a)(5). Under § 727(a)(5), the Plaintiff is first required to make a showing of the required elements. In re Retz, 606 F.3d 1189, 1205 (9th Cir. 2010) ("Once the creditor has made a prima facie case [under § 727(a)(5)], the debtor must offer credible evidence regarding the disposition of the missing assets."). Specifically, "[t]he objecting party must demonstrate: (1) debtor at one time, not too remote from the bankruptcy petition date, owned identifiable assets; (2) debtor no longer owned the assets on the petition date; and (3) the bankruptcy pleadings or statement of affairs do not reflect an adequate explanation for the disposition of the assets." In re Poole, 2017 WL 3598050 at *6 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2017).

Regarding the first element, Plaintiff has established that Defendant took a $65,000 loan from Val-Christ Investments, Inc. around December 21, 2015, and, additionally, took a $200,000 loan from the Samir and Mona Sanghani Living Trust 2014 around September 15, 2016. [Dkt No. 18, Exhibits 12 and 13]. This is certainly sufficient to establish "identifiable assets." While neither party has provided case law providing guidance on the appropriate look-back period, the Court notes that the case law seems to support a two-year period, at a minimum, with a longer period when warranted by the facts. See, e.g., In re Self, 325 B.R. 224, 250 (Bankr. N.D. Ill. 2005) ("A focus on the two years prior to the bankruptcy filing is common. Inquiries beyond the two-year period may be warranted.") (citations omitted) (collecting cases). The Court notes that both of the loans at issue occurred within two years prior to the entry of the order for relief, and the Court finds that these transactions were not too remote to be excepted from § 727(a)(5).

Regarding the second and third elements, the schedules filed by Defendant demonstrate that Defendant is no longer in possession of the loan proceeds. Furthermore, Plaintiff has established that, despite several requests, Plaintiff has failed to offer any evidence or clear, consistent account of what happened to the $265,000 received. [Dkt. No 19, pg. 7-10]. Therefore, the Court concludes that Plaintiff has made prima facie showing under § 727(a)(5).

Defendant's opposition contains no objection or argumentation to refute the statements offered by Plaintiff. "A debtor's failure to offer a satisfactory explanation when called on by the court is a sufficient ground for denial of discharge under § 727(a)(5)." In re Devers, 759 F.2d 751, 754 (9th Cir. 1985). Because Plaintiff has made a prima facie case under § 727(a)(5), and Defendant has failed to offer any admissible evidence to rebut any of the elements of the Claim, the Court is inclined to GRANT summary judgment, DENYING Defendant's discharge pursuant to § 727(a)(5).

B. 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(3)-(4)

Because the Court is inclined to deny Defendant a discharge pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 725(a)(5), the Court will only briefly address the claims pursuant to § 727(a)(3)-(4).

Regarding 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(3), the Court notes that Plaintiff has provided little case law related to this subsection. The only case cited by Plaintiff, In re Caneva, 550 F.3d 755 (9th Cir. 2008), related to a debtor who "owned or controlled numerous business entities, recreational vehicles and mobile home parks in Florida, and an airplane." The facts of the case in In re Caneva were substantially different than the facts in this case.

While § 727(a)(3) is not expressly limited to non-consumer debtors, the Court questions its application to consumer debtors. See 6 COLLIER'S ON BANKRUPTCY ¶ 727.03[3][b], [g] (16th ed. 2018) ("There are cases in which no duty to keep books arises; in general consumer debtors have no obligation to keep books. . . . Few consumer debtors maintain anything more than, at most, a collection of bills, receipts and canceled checks, and, absent a sudden and large dissipation of assets, a discharge should not be denied in a typical consumer bankruptcy case due to a lack of books or records."). This is especially true because the lack of records is primarily relevant because of the obstruction of the investigation of the use of the loan proceeds. Section 727(a)(5), however, provides an independent, more factually appropriate basis to deny discharge in these circumstances.

Ultimately, the Court deems it inappropriate to conclude that the Defendant "failed to maintain and preserve adequate records" given: (a) the excerpts from COLLIER'S; (b) the caselaw's focus on sophisticated business debtors or individuals with complicated financial situations; and (c) the Court's knowledge that many consumer debtors do not have thorough records. To the extent that a typical consumer debtor has been dissipating assets or has been uncooperative with the Trustee's, or a creditor's, investigation, there are more appropriate avenues than § 727(a)(3) to redress that issue.

Regarding 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(4), Plaintiff relies on § 724(a)(4)(A) and (D). The Court notes that the elements of a claim under § 727(a)(4)(A) are: "(1) the debtor made a false oath in connection with the case; (2) the oath related to a material fact; (3) the oath was made knowingly; and (4) the oath was made fraudulently." In re Roberts, 331 B.R. 876, 882 (B.A.P. 9th Cir 2005). Paragraphs 49 through 57 of Plaintiff's statement of proposed facts establish several instances of false statements made by Defendant. These statements relate to material facts given that the subject of the statement is assets or financial transactions of the Defendant of, in some instances, relatively significant value.

Nevertheless, the evidence is unclear regarding the third and, more importantly, the fourth element of a § 727(a)(4)(A) claim. A false oath is made fraudulently if the Defendant made the oath knowing it was false and with the intent and purpose of deceiving creditors. See, e.g., In re Murtaza, 2018 WL 1599755 at *4 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2018). Here, the motion for summary judgment and the accompanying statement of proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law do not contain any direct evidence or argument concerning Defendant's state of mind or intent. Certainly, the Court could analyze whether the pattern of conduct is sufficient to permit an inference that Defendant acted fraudulently. Nevertheless, given the current evidentiary record, and noting that the Court is inclined to deny discharge pursuant to § 727(a)(5), the Court does not intend to engage in such analysis.

Chapter 7

The adversary complaint also contains three causes of action pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523. While these causes of action are of reduced importance if Defendant's discharge is denied, the Court is aware that a non-dischargeability judgment under § 523 may be res judicata in a future bankruptcy filing, while a judgment under § 727 may not be res judicata. Therefore, the Court will quickly analyze the § 523 claims.

Plaintiff's motion for summary judgment on the § 523 claims depends upon the use of res judicata and the stipulated judgment obtained in adversary case 6:18-ap-01035-MH. The Court rejects the use of res judicata in this situation on the basis that Defendant was not a party to adversary proceeding 6:18-ap-01035-MH and Defendant was not in privity with the Chapter 7 Trustee.

The Court is aware that Plaintiff argues, in footnote 16 of the motion for summary judgment, that Defendant was in privity with the Chapter 7 Trustee. In support of this contention, Plaintiff cites In re Andrews, 2014 WL 2547808 at *8 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2014), which stated: "a bankruptcy trustee stands in privity with a debtor for purposes of preclusion in cases involving a debtor's property rights." The holding in In re Andrews is logical because a Chapter 7 Trustee, as representative of the bankruptcy estate, is incentivized to maximize the estate's property interests (which would be the Defendant's property interests in the absence of a bankruptcy); therefore, the Chapter 7 Trustee's interests are aligned with the Debtor. That alignment of interests, however, is not present when the Chapter 7 Trustee stipulates to a judgment intended to delineate property rights, and a creditor then attempts to use that judgment to secure a judgment of non-dischargeability. While Trustee had motive to maximize Defendant's, and minimize Plaintiff's, interest in the Property, Trustee had no motive to shield Defendant from a non-dischargeability judgment.

In the absence of aligned interests between Trustee and Defendant with regard to this non-dischargeability complaint, the requirements for privity are not met. See Taylor v. Sturgell, 553 U.S. 880, 893-95 (2008) (outlining the six categories of privity). Because it appears that, on the current record, summary judgment on Plaintiff's § 523 claims require the use of res judicata, the Court is inclined to DENY the motion with respect to the § 523 claims.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion for summary judgment on the sixth claim for relief, DENYING Defendant a discharge pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(5). The

Service: Improper
Opposition: None.

Debtor's motion was improperly served under Judge Houle's self-calendar rule III.D, which requires 14 days' notice through service on all interested parties, including creditors and their counsel, pursuant to FRBP 7004. FRBP 7004 requires service by certified mail on a party's officer or general agent for service of process. Debtor appears to have done so on all parties, except for Polaris Consumer Finance and Citizen's Bank, North America. Debtor failed to direct service to those parties' agent for service of process, and, in the case of Polaris, the location given is now closed.

As to the merits, the Court finds that Debtor has present sufficient evidence to rebut the presumption that this case was not filed in good faith and is inclined to GRANT Debtor's motion for an imposition of the automatic stay.

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3)(C)(i)(II)(aa), this case was presumptively filed in bad faith because Debtors had a previous case dismissed in the last year after failing to file the required case commencement documents. 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3)(C) requires that Debtors rebut this presumption with "clear and convincing" evidence. Here, Debtors have failed to file any separate declaration or otherwise provide any clear or substantiated evidence explaining the reasons that the prior case was dismissed. Moreover, the motion is not served on Wells Fargo in accordance with FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 7004, as required by Judge Houle's self-calendaring procedures. Therefore, the Court is inclined to DENY the motion.

Docket 8

Tentative Ruling:

Service is Proper
Opposition: None

The Court is inclined to GRANT relief from the automatic stay pursuant to § 362(d) (4) based on an unauthorized, unrecorded alleged transfer of a fractionalized interest in the subject real property three days prior to the petition date, and based on Debtor's failure to file the balance of the case commencement documents. GRANT waiver of Rule 4001 stay. GRANT requests under ¶¶ 2, 10, and 12. Noting that the instant case was dismissed on April 26, 2019, the Court is inclined to GRANT ¶ 4, confirming that there is no automatic stay in effect pursuant to § 362(c)(2)(B), and DENY requests for relief pursuant to § 362(d)(1) and (2) and § 1301(a) (¶ 6), and request under ¶ 13 as moot. The Court is inclined to DENY request for relief under ¶¶ 8 and 11 for lack of cause shown.

In relation to Movant's request that the automatic stay be annulled retroactive to the petition date, the Court considers the Fjeldsted factors. The BAP, in In re Fjeldsted, noted the absence of a clear standard for annulment of the automatic stay. 293 B.R. 12, 21 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2003) ("There is less appellate clarity, however, in enunciating a test for retroactive stay relief. the court ‘wide latitude’ to ‘balance the equities’ on a case-by-case basis.”). A recent description of the standard for annulment of the automatic stay stated the following:

Determining whether cause exists to annul the stay is a case-by-case inquiry based on a balance of the equities. In conducting this inquiry the bankruptcy court, among other factors, should consider whether the creditor knew of the bankruptcy when violating the stay and whether the debtor’s conduct was unreasonable, inequitable or prejudicial to the creditor.

In Fjeldsted, we approved additional factors for consideration in assessing the equities. The twelve nonexclusive factors are: (1) number of filings; (2) whether, in a repeat filing case, the circumstances indicate an intention to delay and hinder creditors; (3) a weighing of the extent of prejudice to creditors or third parties if the stay relief is not made retroactive, including whether harm exists to a bona fide purchaser; (4) the debtor’s overall good faith (totality of circumstances test); (5) whether creditors knew of stay but nonetheless took action, thus compounding the problem; (6) whether the debtor has complied, and is otherwise complying, with the Bankruptcy Code and Rules; (7) the relative ease of restoring parties to the status quo ante; (8) the costs of annulment to debtors and creditors; (9) how quickly creditors moved for annulment, or how quickly debtor moved to set aside the sale or violative conduct; (10) whether, after learning of the bankruptcy, creditors proceeded to take steps in continued violation of the stay, or whether they moved expeditiously to gain relief; (11) whether annulment of the stay will cause irreparable injury to the debtor; and (12) whether stay relief will promote judicial economy or other efficiencies. The Panel in Fjeldsted cautioned that the twelve factors are merely a framework for analysis and not a scorecard, and that in any given case, one factor may so outweigh the others as to be dispositive.

While Fjeldsted cautioned that the enumerated factors are not a scorecard, the Fjeldsted factors weigh in favor of annulling the stay here. Specifically, as is noted by Creditor, Debtor filed a skeletal, pro se, Chapter 13 bankruptcy the day before the completion of the foreclosure sale, and, subsequently, made no effort to comply with the duties of a debtor in bankruptcy. Additionally, four days before the scheduled foreclosure, Garegin Hovhannisyanyan, who did not even appear to be the legal owner of the subject real property at the time, purportedly transferred a 5% interest in the real property to Debtor, although the grant deed was never recorded. Finally, the Court has received a declaration from Movant that generally declares Movant lacked knowledge of the instant bankruptcy proceeding. Because the transfer and subsequent bankruptcy filing were clearly a fraudulent scheme intended to delay or defraud creditors, because Debtor made no effort to comply with his duties under the Bankruptcy Code, and because there is no evidence that Movant was aware of the automatic stay, the Court is inclined to GRANT the motion, ANNULING the automatic stay retroactive to the petition date.

11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3)(C)(i)(II)(cc) creates a rebuttable presumption that this case was filed in bad faith because Debtor failed to perform the terms of her previously confirmed plan. Section 362(c)(3)(C) requires that Debtor submit "clear and convincing" evidence to rebut this presumption. Here, Debtor has only provided general evidence that she experienced a significant and temporary decrease in income, and increase in expenses, without include the supporting details necessary to clearly and convincingly rebut the presumption of bad faith. Therefore, the Court is inclined to CONTINUE the hearing to May 9, 2019, for Debtor to file a supplemental declaration.

EH__

Docket 356

Tentative Ruling:

5/7/2019

BACKGROUND

On August 15, 2018, Visiting Nurse Association of the Inland Counties ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. Debtor has yet filed a disclosure statement or Chapter 11 plan; the exclusivity period has been extended to June 11, 2019.

On April 15, 2019, Debtor filed a motion for authorization to reject an insurance contract (the "Policy") with Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. There has been no opposition to the motion.

Chapter 11

Except as provided in sections 765 and 766 of this title and in subsections (b), (c), and (d) of this section, the trustee, subject to the court's approval, may assume or reject any executory contract or unexpired lease of the debtor.

Pursuant to § 1107(a), a debtor in possession has the same rights as a trustee, and, therefore, can exercise a trustee's right to reject an executory contract or unexpired lease. When analyzing a motion to reject an executory contract or unexpired lease, the Court applies the business judgment rule. See, e.g., In re Pomona Valley Med. Group, Inc., 476 F.3d 665, 670 (9th Cir. 2007) ("In making its determination, a bankruptcy court need engage in only a cursory review of debtor-in-possession's decision to reject the contract. Specifically, a bankruptcy court applies the business judgment rule to evaluate a debtor-in-possession's rejecting decision . . .") (quotation omitted).

Here, Debtor asserts that it has additional insurance coverage through Guardian, and that, as a result, the Policy is duplicative and constitutes an unnecessary expense. Based upon that evidence, the Court finds that rejection of the Policy is within the sound discretion of Debtor's business judgment.

Noting the lack of any opposition, which the Court deems consent to the relief requested pursuant to Local Rule 9013-1(h), and good cause appearing,

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion, authorizing Debtor to reject the MetLife Policy.

ANALYSIS:

FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 9019 provides that:

On motion by the trustee and after notice and a hearing, the court may approve a compromise or settlement. Notice shall be given to creditors, the United States trustee, the debtor, and indenture trustees as provided in Rule 2002 and to any other entity as the court may direct.

The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals have previously outlined the factors to be considered in approving a compromise pursuant to Rule 9019: (1) the probability of success in the litigation; (2) the difficulties to be encountered in the matter of collection; (3) the complexity, expense, inconvenience and delay of litigation; and (4) the interest of creditors with deference to their reasonable views. See In re A&C Props., 784 F.2d 1377, 1381 (9th Cir. 1986). The listed factors assist the Court in determining "the fairness, reasonableness and adequacy of a proposed settlement agreement." Id.

Chapter 11

The A&C Properties elements have limited direct applicability when the proposed compromise is a compromise relating to the treatment of a claim. In this situation, Bhatia is receiving a significant payment immediately from Debtor's principal, as well as pre-confirmation adequate protection, paid by the principal, and the bankruptcy estate is substantially decreasing its liability on Claim 3. Clearly, the compromise is in the best interests of the bankruptcy estate. In particular, and as set for the in Debtor's supplement, the A&C Properties elements have been satisfied.

Creditor, however, implicitly argues that, as the senior secured creditor, it should receive adequate protection payments prior to Bhatia. It does not appear that Creditor has requested adequate protection payments at any point in this case. The Court specifically notes that Creditor declined to request adequate protection payments when it brought a motion for relief from the automatic stay.

In the absence of a properly filed request for adequate protection, the Court is reluctant to deny the compromise motion on the basis that Creditor has not yet been offered or received adequate protection payments. The A&C Properties test having been satisfied, and because it does not appear that the compromise motion would impair the rights of Creditor, or otherwise cause legal prejudice to Creditor, the Court is inclined to GRANT the motion, APPROVING the compromise as fair and reasonable and in the best interests of the bankruptcy estate.

APPEARANCES REQUIRED.

#6.00 Notice of Trustee's Final Report and Applications for Compensation

EH__

Docket 62

Tentative Ruling:

The lack of objection to Trustee's Final Report and Application for Compensation will be interpreted as consent under LBR 9013-1(f)(3).

11 U.S.C. § 326(a) states that the Court may allow reasonable compensation of the Chapter 7 Trustee. The maximum limit of reasonable compensation is defined as a factor of the moneys disbursed or turned over in the case by the trustee to the parties in interest, excluding the debtor, but including secured creditors. Id. This percentage is not to exceed 25% of the first $5,000, 10% of any amount in between $5,000 and $50,000, 5% of any amount between $50,000 and $1,000,000, and not more than 3% for any amount over $1,000,000. These statutory maximums are to serve as caps on fees, and the Court must still review the application for fees to determine whether the request is reasonable.

Here, Trustee has properly calculated their fees according to the percentages provided by § 326(a). Upon review of Trustee's services, the Court finds that the statutory maximum is a reasonable request in this matter. The Court has also reviewed Trustee's accounting of their expenses and finds them reasonable.

The Court has reviewed Counsel for Trustee's application for compensation, and the agreed upon stipulation entered by Trustee and the United States Trustee, and finds that the reduced amount for compensation agreed upon within the stipulation for the compensation of Counsel for Trustee is generally reasonable for the services for provided.

The Court has also reviewed Trustee's application for compensation for the Trustee's services as accountant for the estate, and finds that the amount stipulated upon by Trustee and the United States trustee for the compensation of Trustee acting in the role of account for the estate is also generally reasonable for the services provided.

#18.00 Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings re Answer by Don C. Burns

EH__

Docket 137

Tentative Ruling:

FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 12(c) & (f), incorporated into bankruptcy proceeds by FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 7012(b), state the following:

(c) Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings. After the pleadings are closed – but early enough not to delay trial – a party may move for judgment on the pleadings.

(f) Motion to Strike. The Court may strike from a pleading an insufficient defense or any redundant, immaterial, impertinent, or scandalous matter. The court may act:

(1) on its own; or

(2) on motion made by a party either before responding to the pleading or, if a response is not allowed, within 21 days after being served with the pleading.

There are several potentially applicable definitions of "judgment." For instance, FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 54(a) states, in pertinent part: " 'Judgment' as used in these rules includes a decree and any order from which an appeal lies." FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 9001(7) includes an additional definition of judgment. The most specific, and therefore, most appropriate, definition of judgment is contained in FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 9002(5), which provides:

Chapter 7

The following words and phrases used in the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure made applicable to cases under the Code by these rules have the meaning indicated unless that are inconsistent with the context:

(5) "Judgment" includes any order appealable to an appellate court.

Leave to amend pleadings is to be granted liberally, and the law on the issue is unsettled, meaning that the Court would not prohibit Defendant from amending its answer. See FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 15(a)(2), incorporated into bankruptcy proceedings by FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 7015, ("The Court should freely give leave when justice so requires."). As a result, even if the Court did strike Defendants' affirmative defenses for being insufficiently pled, it does not appear that the relief requested by Plaintiff could be construed as a judgment, since Defendant would be free to amend their answer in response.

This conclusion is supported by the case law cited by Plaintiff in its argument section. The Court takes issue with Plaintiff's fundamental misrepresentation of the caselaw it is citing. There are two sentences in the argument section of docket number 137 which stand for the proposition that a motion for judgment on the pleadings as to affirmative defenses is a proper procedural approach, neither of which are adequately supported by relevant caselaw.

The first sentence is on lines 12-14 of page 10, and states: "A court will grant a motion for judgment pleadings against a defendant's affirmative defenses if the affirmative defenses are insufficiently pled." This statement is followed by the following citation: Westport Ins. Corp. v. N. Cal. Relief, 76 F. Supp. 3d 869, 882 (N.D. Cal. 2014); Nyberg v. Portfolio Recovery Assocs., LLC, 2016 WL 3176585 at *2 (D. Or. 2016); see also Pac. W. Grp. v. Real Time Solutions, 2008 U.S. App. LEXIS 27037, *1-3 (9th Cir. 2008) ("The district court properly granted partial judgment on the pleadings. . . ."); Savage v. Council on Am.-Islamic Relations, Inc., 2008 WL 2951281, at *2 (N.D. Cal. 2008). Three of these four cases appear irrelevant to the issue before the Court. The district court in Westport Ins. concluded that standard judgment on the pleadings (i.e. judgment on the Plaintiff's own causes of action) was appropriate in that case notwithstanding the existence of affirmative defenses raised in the answer. The Ninth Circuit in Pac. W. dealt with a defendant's motion for partial judgment on the pleadings, yet Plaintiff has decided to arbitrarily include the citation with a quotation that "[t]he district court properly granted partial judgment on the pleadings." Likewise, the district court in Savage dealt with a defendant's motion for partial judgment on the pleadings. Nyberg does stand for the assertion made by Plaintiff, but the district court in that case engaged in no analysis of the characterization and simply decided to defer to the characterization adopted by the plaintiff.

The second sentence is at lines 3-4 of page 11, and states: "A court should grant judgment on the pleadings if the answer contains insufficient affirmative defenses." This statement cites Westport and FED. R. CIV. P. Rule 12(f). Westport does support the quoted sentence, but is not applicable to a motion for judgment as to affirmative defenses. And Plaintiff is not moving under Rule 12(f) so that citation is inapposite.

Presumably, the reason that Plaintiff has adopted this questionable procedural approach is that a motion under Rule 12(f) is no longer available, absent permission of the Court, because the deadline for that motion has passed. Nevertheless, Plaintiff then shifts to cases applying Rule 12(f) without disclosing the same. In presenting the applicable legal standard, Plaintiff next cites Ross v. White, 2018 WL 3419647 (C.D. Cal. 2018) and Ganley v. Cnty. of San Mateo, 2007 WL 902551 (N.D. Cal. 2007). Both of these cases deal with Rule 12(f) and contain no mention of Rule 12(c).

Given that Plaintiff has filed a Rule 12(c) motion, but declined to support the motion with adequate caselaw, it is somewhat unclear how this Court should proceed. The Court finds the following well-reasoned analysis, from Jou v. Adalian, 2017 WL 3624340 at *2-*4 (D. Hi. 2017) to be particularly helpful:

The court next addresses whether the Motion is timely. If filed as a motion to strike an "insufficient defense" under Rule 12(f), then it is barred by Rule 12(f)(2), which requires that a Rule 12(f) motion be filed "within 21 days after being served with the pleading." But if filed as a motion for failure "to state a legal defense to a claim under Rule 12(h)(2)(B), then it is timely.

Chapter 7

As a starting point, most courts appear to assume that any motion to strike an affirmative defense must be brought under Rule 12(f).

But these cases largely ignore Rule 12's second method of challenging an affirmative defense – Rule 12(h)(2)(B). As stated, this rule permits the filing of a Rule 12(c) motion for failure to state a legal defense to a claim. So, the question becomes how to reconcile Rule 12(f) and Rule 12(h)(2)(B). More specifically, what is the difference between challenging an "insufficient defense" under Rule 12(f) and challenging the failure to state a "legal defense" to a claim under Rule 12(h)(2)(B)? In answering this question, the court follows some general rules of statutory constructions. The court starts, of course, with plain meaning. And an interpretation that gives effect to every clause is generally preferable to one that does not. As a corollary rule, no provision should be construed to be entirely redundant. Thus, a statute should be construed so that effect is given to all its provisions, so that no part will be inoperative or superfluous, void or insignificant.

As an initial matter, the court rejects the view that Rule 12(h)(2)(B) simply allows a Rule 12(f) motion to be filed beyond the deadline set forth in Rule 12(f). This interpretation renders meaningless Rule 12(f)(2)'s requirement that a Rule 12(f) motion be filed within twenty-one days of service of the complaint. And, it fails to recognize the difference between an "insufficient" and a "legal" defense.

The court concludes that the difference between an "insufficient defense" and the failure to "state a legal defense to a claim" is based on the type of challenge being made. A claim of an "insufficient defense" covers a broader array of possible challenges than one claiming failure to state a "legal defense." In fact, while every failure to state a "legal defense" would also likely be an "insufficient defense," the reverse isn't true – some defenses can be insufficient but still state a legal defense. This follows from the definition of "legal defense" as a complete and adequate defense in a court of law. If a defense is not a complete and adequate one, it is not a legal defense. So, for example, if an affirmative defense of laches is not available as a matter of law in a particular case, then the plaintiff could move under Rule 12(h)(2)(B) (via Rule 12(c)) for judgment on the pleadings as to that defense. But if a

Plaintiff simply claims that an affirmative defense as pled is too conclusory or boilerplate, then that claim does not challenge legal adequacy; instead, it asserts that the defense is insufficient as pled. This reading of Rule 12(f) and 12(h)(2)(B) gives meaning to both provisions and avoids finding any provision superfluous.

Here, Plaintiff simply claims that the majority of affirmative defenses are boilerplate and conclusory – i.e., they are insufficient as pled. The court thus construes the Motion as being brought pursuant to Rule 12(f). And because it was filed many months late, it is untimely.

[Citations, quotations, and footnotes omitted]. The Court also notes that the thorough analysis provided by the district court in Jou also resolves this Court's earlier-stated concerns about the definition of "judgment"; if an affirmative defense is truly unavailable as a matter of law, then there would be no reason to permit leave to amend.

Therefore, in line with the reasoning outlined above, the Court is inclined to DENY the motion with respects to the six affirmatives defenses that Plaintiff contends were inadequately pled. The proper remedy for Plaintiff was to file a Rule 12(f) motion, which, at present, would be untimely.

The Court will, however, consider whether the remaining six affirmative defenses are unavailable as a matter of law. Those six defenses are: (1) failure to state a claim; (2) Business Judgment Rule; (3) Setoff/Recoupment; (4) Unlawful restrain from engaging in a lawful profession under Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 16600; (5) Indemnification; (6) No damage. While not explicitly stated as an affirmative defense, the Court will also consider Defendant's reservation of rights to assert other affirmative defenses, and non-waiver of any defenses not plead.

The Court first, using its authority to strike sua sponte under FRCP 12(f)(1), finds that "reservation of rights and non-waiver" is not a legal, affirmative defense, and is properly stricken as a matter of law. See, e.g., A.K.C. v. City of Santa Ana, 2010 WL 11469021 at *2 (C.D. Cal. 2010). The Court further agrees with Plaintiff, for the reasons set forth in the Motion, that the first and ninth defenses, failure to state and claim and no damage, simply negate an element of the claims that Plaintiff is already required to provide. As a result, these two affirmative defenses are not properly characterized as affirmative defenses because Plaintiff is already required to prove the opposite. See, e.g., Zivkovic v. S. Cal. Edison Co., 302 F.3d 1080, 1088 (9th Cir. 2002) ("A defense which demonstrates that plaintiff has not met its burden of proof is not an affirmative defense.").

The Court agrees with Plaintiff that Defendant's second affirmative defense, the Business Judgment Rule, is insufficient as a matter of law in this matter. The Business Judgment Rule only protects the directors of a corporation from shareholder or creditor action based on the soundness of their business decisions. Tindall v. First Solar, 892 F.3d 1043, 1047 (9th Cir. 2018). Here, Defendant, an attorney, is attempting to use the rule to justify his legal services to his client. Unlike in the case of corporate directors, this Court is, by its nature, very well positioned to evaluate the wisdom of legal decisions. See Id. Accordingly, the Court strikes this defense.

The Court also agrees with Plaintiff that the third affirmative defense, setoff, is unavailable in the context of fraudulent and preferential transfer claims. Calvert v. Erdman (In re Northwest Terr. Mint, LLC), 591 B.R. 852, 867 (W.D. Wa. Bankr. 2018) (citing In re Acequia, Inc., 34 F.3d 800, 817 (9th Cir. 1994)). Accordingly, the Court strikes this defense.

Defendant's sixth defense claims that Plaintiff's action is barred by Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 16600, which voids contracts restraining anyone from engaging in a lawful profession, trade, or business. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 16600 (2019). Defendant appears to be trying to use § 16600 to allege that Plaintiff's complaint is an attempt to unlawfully restrain Defendant from engaging in an unlawful profession. As § 16600 only covers contracts, the Court finds this defense insufficient as a matter of law and strikes the defense.

Defendant's seventh affirmative defense is for indemnification, claiming that debtor's bankruptcy estate is obligated to indemnify Defendant for any damages awarded to Plaintiff. Indemnification is not an affirmative defense, but a claim that must be "pleaded and proven." Norddeutscher Lloyd v. Jones Stevedoring Co., 490 F.2d 648, 650 (9th Cir. 1973). The Court accordingly strikes Defendant's affirmative defense of indemnification as insufficient as a matter of law.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion IN PART, striking the First, Second, Third, Sixth, Seventh, and Ninth affirmative defenses with prejudice, and DENY the remainder of the Motion without prejudice.

Docket 33

Tentative Ruling:

MARCH 27TH, 2019

PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

On December 31, 2013, John & Livier Mata ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On April 14, 2014, Debtors received a discharge, and the following day their case was closed.

On April 18, 2018, Debtors filed a complaint against National Collegiate Student Loan Trust 2006-1, National Collegiate Student Loan Trust 2006-4, and National Collegiate Student Loan Trust 2007-1 (collectively, "Defendants") seeking for determination of dischargeability. Specifically, Debtors seek a declaratory judgment that their loans were discharged. On May 18, 2018, Defendants filed their answer.

On January 9, 2019, Defendants filed a motion for summary judgment. On February 5, 2019, Debtors filed their opposition. Defendants filed their reply to Debtor's opposition on February 13, 2019. This matter has been continued once by the Court.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

The background of the extant case is simple, but the underlying context is far more complex.

First Marblehead Corporation is a formerly NYSE listed private company that, in the mid-2000's, was a dominant player in the private student loan business. In early 2001, it purchased the operating assets of The Education Resources Institute (hereinafter "TERI"), a nonprofit group primarily involved in the guaranteeing of private student loans. Beginning in 2001, First Marblehead established a financial plan under which banks would offer private student loans, which would then be collected and repackaged into National Collegiate Student Loan Trusts (hereinafter "NCSLT"), which would all be, at least ostensibly, guaranteed by TERI, intended to grant the loans protection from discharge, and were finally offered on the open market for investment. The banks involved in the funding of these loans include JP Morgan, HSBC, Citizens, PNC, and, in this particular case, Charter One, among many others. There were 15 NCSLTs in total, owning more than 800,000 private loans worth billions of dollars.¹

Beginning in 2005, First Marblehead became increasingly aggressive in expanding loan volume to riskier debtors and increasing the value of those loans. As the economy began its downturn in 2007, default rates began rapidly increasing, resulting in the eventual bankruptcy of TERI in 2008.

The question of the nature of the dischargeability of the NCSLT loans has since been taken on by bankruptcy courts across the country. This is one of those cases.

John Mata took out three $30,000 loans as part of his graduate studies in counseling at Loma Linda University. These occurred in January of 2006, September of 2006, and August of 2007. Each loan was cosigned by Livier Mata, and carried a respective interest rate of 9, 12, and 14%. The loan agreements each stated that the loan was explicitly limited to the costs of attending the school, and one of the loans, that of January 2006 said that TERI was guaranteeing the loan, while the latter two stated that TERI had the option to guarantee the loan. Each of these loans was allegedly then repackaged into the one of the three trusts who are currently the Defendants in this matter (NCSLT 2006-1, 2006-4, 2007-1).

LEGAL STANDARD

Summary judgment should be granted if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment as a matter of law. The moving party has the burden of establishing the absence of a genuine issue of material fact. Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323 (1986). If the moving party

A fact is material if it "might affect the outcome of the suit under the governing law." Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248 (1986). A dispute about a material fact is genuine "if the evidence is such that a reasonable jury could return a verdict for the nonmoving party." Id.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

Defendants are seeking to show that Debtors' debts are exempt from discharge under 11 U.S.C. § 523.

11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(8) states:

(a) A discharge under section 727, 1141, 1228(a), or 1328(b) of this title does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt –

(8) unless excepting such debt from discharge would impose an undue hardship on the debtor and the debtor's dependents, for –

(A)(i) an educational benefit overpayment or loan made, insured or guaranteed by a governmental unit, or made under any program funded in whole or in part by a governmental unit or nonprofit institution; or

(ii) an obligation to repay funds received as an educational benefit, scholarship or stipend; or

(B) any other educational loan that is a qualified education loan, as defined in section 221(d)(1) of the Internal Revenue

Code of 1986, incurred by a debtor who is an individual

Defendants have stated that their motion for summary judgment is based purely nondischargeability of the debt under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(8)(A)(i), and the Court will treat Defendants' and Debtors' argument accordingly. In order for Defendants to establish that Debtors' debts aren't dischargeable under § 523(a)(8)(A)(i), they must prove two elements:

- 1 that the loans to the Debtors were "educational loans" and;
- 2 that the loans were made under any program funded in whole or in part by a nonprofit institution.

It is important to note that discussion of the determination of the dischargeability of student debts, including the discussions that occurred within the court cases cited, all occurs under the shadow of the general rule that exceptions to discharge are to be construed narrowly in favor of the debtor. 4 COLLIER ON BANKRUPTCY P 523.05 (Richard Levin & Henry J. Sommer eds., 16th ed.).

I. Whether Debtors' loans were "educational loans."

Courts analyze whether loans are "educational loans" separately from considering whether they are "qualified educational loans" under 26 U.S.C. § 221. In re Oliver, 499 B.R. 617, 623-4 (Bankr. S.D.In. 2013). § 523(a)(8)(A)(i) requires that the loans be "educational loans", while § 523(a)(8)(B) has a higher standard, requiring that the loans be "qualified educational loans." Id. (finding that all qualified educational loans are educational loans, but not all educational loans are qualified). The 9th Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel has followed this approach, holding that an "educational loan" was distinct from an "educational benefit" or a "qualified educational loan." See Kashikar v. Turnstile Capital Mgmt., LLC (In re Kashikar), 567 B.R. 160, 166 (9th Cir. BAP 2017).

The question of whether a loan is an "educational loan" is determined by its stated purpose, not its actual use. See Busson-Sokolik v. Milwaukee Sch. of Eng'g (In re Busson-Sokolik), 635 F.3d 261, 266 (7th Cir. 2011). The fact that a debtor spent loan proceeds in excess of tuition and expenses does not except debt from discharge. Murphy v. Pa. Higher Educ. Assistance Agency, 282 F.3d 868, 873 (5th Cir. 2002). Educational purpose encompasses both tuition and fees, as well as room, board, and miscellaneous personal expenses, as part of the school's general cost of attendance as calculated by statute. Id. at 872-3 (citing 20 U.S.C. § 1087II(2)-(3)). It is up to the individual schools to calculate their reasonable costs of attendance, which determines the disbursement by lenders (with debtors having the choice of how much of said disbursement to accept and use).

Each of the respective loans in this matter was explicitly restricted to the costs of attending Linda Loma University. (Decl. Bradley Luke, ECF 33, Exhibit A-1 (page 12) (January 2006 loan), Exhibit A-5 (page 57) (September 2006 loan), Exhibit A-9 (page 98) (August 2007 loan)). This appears to clearly state their purpose.

Debtors seeks to challenge the status of the loans as "educational loans" on three grounds. The first is that the amounts disbursed were far in excess of Linda Loma's graduate cost of attendance. The second is that the loans carry an unusually high interest rate, have high origination fees, and required a cosigner and credit check. The third is that the loans are not educational loans because they were provided directly to the consumer and ignored the school's financial aid office.

While limitation to the cost of attendance is an aspect of "qualified educational loans" not "educational loans", disbursement in great excess of the actual amount needed for educational purpose does argue against a finding that the loan was intended for educational purposes and for a purpose closer to a "student credit card" as the Debtors argue. However, Debtors inexcusably attempts to present the mere tuition cost and mandatory fees of the cost of attending Linda Loma, while completely ignoring the room and board and other miscellaneous expenses explicitly included in the calculations of the true cost of attendance. See Plaintiff's Opposition to Motion for Summary Judgment, Exh. 3 at 25, ECF No. 46 (finding a cost of attendance for Loma Linda of 19,640 purely through the addition of the average full-time graduate tuition of 17,760 and the required fees of 1,880, as reported by Institutional Characteristics). By contrast, Debtors have shown that the amounts were in line with Linda Loma's stated cost of attendance for graduate students. Supplemental Request for Judicial Notice Exh. 1-3, ECF No. 565 (showing that the tuition costs of Debtor's program rose from between $33,480-$47,895 to $39,960-57-160 over the course of his three years of attendance, while also showing room and board calculations of more than $15,000 for each year that Debtor attended).

On the second, the Court finds, as other courts have, that commercial features cannot disqualify a loan from being educational, with the sole test being its purpose. Page v. JP Morgan Chase Bank (In re Page), 592 B.R. 334, 336 (8th Cir. BAP 2018). On the third, the Court repeats its finding that purpose controls over form, while also noting that other courts have analyzed direct to consumer loans and the question of whether the loan was disbursed directly to the consumer was a complete non-factor in their decision as to whether they were "educational loans" or not. See id.; see also McDaniel v. Navient Solutions Inc. (In re McDaniel), 590 B.R. 537, 542, 546-551 (Bankr. D.Colo. 2018).

In view of the above, the Court cannot find, even after drawing all reasonable

inferences for the Debtors' that they have established any genuine issues of material fact, or questions of law, as to the question of whether these loans were "educational loans."

II. Whether the loans were "funded, in whole or in part, by a nonprofit institution."

In the current case, Defendants' claim to exemption from discharge under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(8)(A)(i) is dependent on their showing that a nonprofit has funded the loan program under which the loan was made, either in whole, or in part. Defendants argue that the guarantee of the loan program through which Debtors' loan was made by The Education Resources Institute (TERI), a nonprofit institution, satisfies this requirement. This splits the question into two elements. First, whether TERI's guarantee is considered to have legally "funded" the loan program in question. Secondly, whether TERI did in fact guarantee the loans at issue, an issue of factual, not legal, controversy. Debtors raises a third issue, by arguing that the TERI's alleged voiding of the guarantees of the loans in question should strip the loans retroactively of their status as being guaranteed by a nonprofit institution.

A. Whether a nonprofit can "fund" a loan program through guaranteeing the loans.

This question has been litigated throughout several districts, often involving the NCSLTs, with the general consensus of the courts being that a nonprofit guaranteeing a loan functions is the nonprofit funding, in whole or in part, the loan program under which the educational loan was made. See O'Brien v. First Marblehead Educ. Res., Inc. (In re O'Brien), 419 F.3d 104, 106 (2nd Cir. 2005); see also Educ. Res. Inst. Inc. v. Taratuska (In re Taratuska), 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 93206 at *17-18 (D. MA 2008) (reversing In re Taratuska, 374 B.R. 24, 29 (Bankr. D.MA 2007), the only case cited by Debtors supporting their position that guaranteeing and funding are two separate actions, meaning that nonprofits aren't "funding" the loan through their guarantee). The 9th Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel agrees with this line of reasoning, interpreting (A)(i) as covering "an educational benefit overpayment or loan made, insured, or guaranteed by a governmental unit or nonprofit institution." Inst. of Imaginal Studies v. Christoff (In re Christoff), 527 B.R. 624, 632 (9th Cir. BAP 2015). However, the BAP's interpretation of (A)(i) has never been litigated.

In contrast to the general trend cited above, the District of Maine reached an opposite conclusion, finding that the guarantee of a loan by a nonprofit did not constitute the "funding" of the loan. Wiley v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. (In re Wiley), 579 B.R. 1, 6-7 (Bankr. D.Me. 2017). The Wiley court built this finding on their interpretation of O'Brien, stating that it required the nonprofit to both guarantee the loan and fund the loan program, as well as on Educ. Res. Inst., Inc. v. Hammarstrom (In re Hammarstrom), 95 B.R. 160, 165 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 1989). In re Wiley, 579 B.R. at 6-7. However, there are two problems with there interpretation. The first is that Hammerstrom's requirement of the direct funding of the loan, as received by the debtor, by the nonprofit was explicitly challenged by the 9th Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel in HEMAR Service Corp., Inc. v. Pilcher, 149 B.R. 595, 600 (9th Cir. BAP 1993) (reversing the bankruptcy court's holding that a student loan could be discharged due to lack of a nonprofit providing the actual funds that debtor received, and finding that Hammarstrom's requirement was a pure judicial construction, with the real test being whether the nonprofit had played "any meaningful part" in making the funds available under the program). Secondly, the Wiley court's interpretation of O'Brien is deeply flawed at best. The 2nd Circuit in O'Brien did state that the nonprofit had to "fund" the program, however, it defined "funding" using the bankruptcy court's test which required that the nonprofit actually pay out the guarantees when the triggering event occurred, and that the loan program's existence was causally linked to the nonprofit's provision of a guarantee to the for-profit lender for the loan. See O'Brien, 419 F.3d at 105-6 (specifically adopting the test created by the S.D.N.Y. Bankruptcy Court in In re O'Brien, 318 B.R. 258, 260-1 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2005)).

The Court finds persuasive the consensus of courts around the country that a nonprofit's guaranteeing of a loan program satisfies the requirement of "funding" under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(8)(A)(i) for the purposes of exempting a loan from discharge, including that of the 9th Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel, and also adopts this interpretation. As such, the Court agrees with Defendants that, if TERI has in fact guaranteed the loan program in question, they are entitled to judgment as a matter of law.

B. Whether Defendant has established that there is no genuine issue of material fact that TERI actually guaranteed the loan.

1. Did TERI, on paper, guarantee the loans?

Debtors argue that there is a material issue of fact concerning whether or not TERI was the actual guarantor of the September 2006 and August 2007 loans. This is based in part on two related grounds: the first is that two of the three loan agreement do not explicitly state that TERI will guarantee the loans, merely that they have the option to do so. The mere existence of an option, rather than direct proof that TERI in fact guaranteed the loan program in question, has been found sufficient to create a genuine issue of material fact. See Golden et. al v. JP Morgan Chase Bank, et. al., 596 B.R. 239, 266 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 2019). The second issue raised by Debtors is that the NSCLT trust agreement schedules does not specifically list the NextStudent Graduate

Loan as one of the programs transferred or sold to the Trusts (listing instead NextStudent Alternative Loan Program). This has also been found sufficient to create a material issue of fact. See National Coll. Student Loan Trust 2007-4 v. Watson, 2016 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 5116 at *7 (N.Y.City Civ.Ct. 2016).

However, it is clear within this case that Debtor's loans were in fact guaranteed by TERI, and that they were each sold to the respective trusts that make up the defendants. Defendants have disclosed the Loan Financial Activity pages, which identify Debtors by name, and also state that the loans were guaranteed by TERI. Decl. Luke ¶15; Id. Exh. A-3 (page 18 within the declaration). It also includes the identification by social security number of Debtor within the trusts' contained loans, as well as guarantee agreements between TERI and each of the individual trusts. By contrast, in Golden, the genuine issue of material fact was due to the Defendants only providing the loan documentation stating that the loan potentially could be guaranteed by TERI. In short, the Court cannot find that there is a genuine issue of fact as to whether TERI, on paper, guaranteed the loan program which provided Debtors' loans.

2. Was TERI actually guarantee the loans?

In order to fund a loan program through guaranteeing the loans, the guarantee must actually come into effect, instead of just being a paper promise to render the debt exempt from discharge. See O'Brien, 419 F.3d at 105-6. Debtors' student loan servicer has declared that Debtors' student loans were guaranteed by TERI, but Debtors allege that the guarantees did not actually occur. Decl. Luke ¶¶ 17, 25, 34 (ECF No. 33-4). As noted by Debtors, evidence demonstrating the actual guarantee by TERI of the loans within the loan program would include guarantee agreements between TERI and the loan originators and, evidence that the loan originators actually paid TERI guarantee fees as agreed upon. See Plaintiff's Opposition to Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment, Exh. 4, Defendants Responses and Objections to Requests for Production No. 7, ECF No. 46 (Debtors requesting "all documents demonstrating that TERI guaranteed the loans" including checks payable by the loan originators to TERI for the guarantee fees and guarantee agreements between TERI and the loan originators).

However, Debtors appear to have answered this question themselves, when they showed that Defendants had refunded the Royal Bank of Scotland (who wholly owned, at the time of Debtors' loan creation Citizens Bank, who owned Charter One, the loan originator) $46,000,000 in guarantee fees as part of resolving RBS secured claims against TERI concerning loans extended prior to TERI's bankruptcy. Id. at Exh. 6, Fourth Amended Joint Plan of Reorganization of The Education Resources Institute, Inc at page 65; Id. at 11 (defining "collateral account" as a pledged account, victory fund, pool account, or joint pool account—all of which were accounts containing guarantee fees intended for the payment of guarantees should the conditions be triggered); see also Supplementary Request for Judicial Notice, Exh. 4, Disclosure Statement for Fourth Amended Joint Plan of Reorganization of The Education Resources Institute at pages 3-7, ECF No. 55 (explaining how the myriad banks decided how TERI should segregate or not segregate the guarantee fees they paid in view of paying out guarantees on the loan). The massive balances on the collateral accounts of the NCSLTs, including all three trusts in question, revealed by the disclosure statement to the confirmed Fourth Amended Plan, shows that the combined guarantee fees sequestered for guarantee payments, as well as the recoveries collected, numbered in the hundreds of millions of dollars. Disclosure Statement at page 11.

It is difficult for this Court to find that Debtors have raised a genuine question of fact as to the substance of TERI's guarantees, when the Debtors themselves have put forward clear evidence that tens of millions of dollars were being paid in guarantee fees to TERI, including tens of millions by Charter One, and TERI was simultaneously shelling out tens of millions of dollars in loan purchases as part of the guarantee.

- C. Whether TERI has voided their guarantee of the loan program in question, and whether, if shown, this would retroactively change whether the loans were funded by a nonprofit institution.*

Debtors correctly assert that TERI's debt guarantees for loans extended prior to TERI's petition were voided as a part of their confirmed plan for reorganization. Fourth Amended Plan at page 40, ECF No. 46. Defendants appear to be trying to confuse the Court by pointing to the transition agreement between TERI and RBS through which RBS agreed to accept the transfer of "pipeline" loans (loans applied for before, or on TERI's petition, but extended by the lender after). See Plaintiff's Opposition, Exh. 5, Transition Agreement Between TERI and RBS at pages 3-4. However, it is clear that the settling of the guarantees for loans prior to bankruptcy, as illustrated above, was the foundation of TERI's reorganization, and the Court proceeds accordingly.

However, even if the guarantee is no longer extant, the Court does not find that this changes the fundamental nature of how the loans were funded in the first place. § 523(a)(8)(A)(i) states that the exemption of a loan from discharge is dependent on the loan program under which it was made, not the context under which it still exists. The exemptions under § 523 look at actions of the debtor at the time that they took the action in question, not the status of those actions at the time of the current proceedings. Debtor should not be allowed to discharge a debt that he knew was intended to be exempt at the time he made the loan, was made under a program clearly intended to protect the loans from discharge, and would still be exempt at the current time, barring the fact that the guarantor collapsed because too many other debtors had defaulted on their loans.

As such, the Court finds unpersuasive the argument that the rejection of TERI's argument that TERI's bankruptcy has retroactively changed the status of Debtors' debt.

TENTATIVE RULING

THE COURT FINDS THAT DEFENDANTS ARE ENTITLED TO JUDGMENT AS A MATTER OF LAW, AND THAT THERE ARE NO GENUINE DISPUTES OF MATERIAL FACT. DEFENDANTS' MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT IS HEREBY GRANTED.

BACKGROUND

On May 17, 2013, Rigoberto Baez ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On June 25, 2013, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed. Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was subsequently amended on two occasions.

On December 6, 2018, Trustee filed a notice of final cure mortgage payment. On December 27, 2018, Wells Fargo Bank N.A. filed a response, stating that Debtor was $11,338.57 delinquent in post-confirmation payments.

On December 28, 2018, Trustee filed a motion to deny discharge or, in the alternative, dismiss the case. Because Trustee has only provided legal analysis support dismissal of the case, not citing any legal basis to deny a discharge in this situation, the Court will consider the motion as a motion to dismiss. On January 16, 2019, Debtor filed his opposition. The opposition asserts that Debtor disputes Wells Fargo's accounting, and that Debtor will work with Wells Fargo to resolve the situation.

DISCUSSION

As noted by Trustee, 11 U.S.C. § 1307(c)(6) states:

(c) Except as provided in subsection (f) of this section, on request of a party in interest or the United States trustee and after notice and a hearing, the court may convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 7 of this title, or may dismiss a case under this chapter, whichever is in the best interests of creditors and the estate, for cause, including ---

(6) material default by the debtor with respect to a term of a confirmed plan

Trustee asserts that direct payments to Wells Fargo are payments under the plan, and the default in this case is material. Debtor has not provided any contrary legal authority on either point. The Court agrees with Trustee that direct payments to a lender are still considered payments under the plan. See, e.g., In Matter of Kessley, 655 Fed. Appx. 242, 244 (5th Cir. 2016); see also In re Evans, 543 B.R. 213 (Bankr. E.D. Va. 2016) (collecting cases). The Court also agrees that the post-confirmation default of $11,338.57 is material, assuming that that figure is accurate.

TENTATIVE RULING

Debtor to apprise the Court of the status of the post-confirmation delinquency and any efforts to resolve the situation with Wells Fargo. Absent resolution, the Court is inclined to GRANT the motion.

Docket 137

Tentative Ruling:

5/9/19

BACKGROUND

On March 28, 2014, Annie Estrada ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On August 6, 2014, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed. The Chapter 13 plan was subsequently modified twice.

On January 7, 2019, Trustee filed a motion to dismiss for delinquency, identifying a delinquency of approximately two months. After two continuances, the Court granted the motion to dismiss, allowing Debtor a ten-day period to convert to Chapter 7 in lieu of dismissal. On April 15, 2019, Debtor filed a notice to conversion to Chapter 7; that notice, however, was withdrawn approximately two hours later. On April 22, 2019, Debtor's case was dismissed.

On April 24, 2019, Debtor filed a motion to vacate dismissal, asserting that Debtor had obtained funds to cure the delinquency on April 15, 2019. The funds do not appear to have been received by Trustee until the day after dismissal, but Debtor's counsel states that he spoke with the Chapter 13 Trustee on April 15, 2019, and that Counsel was under the impression that the case was not going to be dismissed. On April 25, 2019, Trustee filed comments indicating approval, subject to proper notice being given and Debtor submitting copies of her 2018 tax returns.

Chapter 13

On April 26, 2019, Debtor filed an amended motion to vacate dismissal.

DISCUSSION

The Court notes that Debtor has set this matter for hearing on shortened noticed without filing an application shortening time. Debtor's notice of hearing sets an opposition deadline of April 25, 2019, the day before the notice was filed. Therefore, notice is improper.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to CONTINUE the matter to May 30, 2019. Debtor to give notice of the continuance to all parties in interest.

EH__

Docket 114

Tentative Ruling:

5/9/19

BACKGROUND

On August 22, 2017, Luis & Sarah Andrade ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On September 28, 2017, the Court approved a stipulation between Cab West, LLC ("Cab West") and Debtors, which provided for Debtors to assume a lease with Cab West for a 2017 Ford F150 and to make direct payments to Cab West. On October 4, 2017, Debtors' Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On April 5, 2019, Cab West filed a motion for allowance of an administrative expense. According to the motion, the lease of the Ford F150 matured in February 2019, and Debtors incurred unpaid charges of $1,512.62. Cab West requests an administrative priority expense pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 503(b)(1)(A).

(b) After notice and hearing, there shall be allowed administrative expenses, other claims allowed under section 502(f) of this title, including –

(1)(A) the actual, necessary costs and expenses of preserving the estate including ---

Among other cases, Cab West cites In re Masek in supports of its argument. In re Masek stated, in pertinent part, that:

A debtor’s assumption of a lease or executory contract changes the posture of the relationship between the parties to the contract. Some courts have explained the act of assuming a least as an act of administration that created an obligation of the postpetition bankruptcy estate which is legally distinct from the obligations of the parties prior to the assumption. A breach of the assumed obligations therefore constitutes a post-petition breach of post-petition obligations under 11 U.S.C. § 365(g)(2)(A), and is afforded administrative expense priority. Allowance of administrative expenses under § 503(b)(1)(A), combined with the power to assume an executory contract or unexpired lease in a Chapter 13 plan under § 1322(b)(7), renders claims resulting from assumption of a lease actual and necessary costs of preserving the bankruptcy estate. Pearson was a Chapter 13 case in which the debtors assumed, then defaulted on, a vehicle lease. The court allowed an administrative claim for the $6,000 balance due under the lease after the car was surrendered and sold.

301 B.R. 336, 337-38 (Bankr. D. Neb. 2003) (citations and quotations omitted). But see Ford Motor Credit Co. v. Benn, 362 B.R. 1, 6 (E.D. Mich. 2007) (affirming bankruptcy court’s disagreement with Masek).

For the reasons articulated in In re Masek, 301 B.R. 336 (Bankr D. Neb. 2003) and In re Michalek, 393 B.R. 642, (Bankr. E.D. Wis. 2008), and noting that service appears proper and no party has objected, which the Court deems consent to the relief requested pursuant to Local Rule 9013-1(h),

BACKGROUND

On September 11, 2017, Ryan & Jennifer McHugh ("Debtors") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On November 9, 2017, Debtors' Chapter 13 plan was confirmed. The plan has subsequently been modified twice.

On April 7, 2019, Debtors filed a motion for turnover, requesting turnover from Wexler Wallace LLP of certain funds received from a confidential personal injury settlement.

DISCUSSION

The Court notes that service appears improper for several reasons. First, it does not appear that Wexler Wallace LLP has been served with the instant motion at all. Second, a motion for turnover is, at the least, a contested matter under FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 9014 and, therefore, the Rule 7004 service requirements apply. 5/9/19

BACKGROUND:

On August 21, 2018, Ronald Carter ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. The claims bar date was October 30, 2018. On November 13, 2018, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed.

On April 10, 2019, U.S. Bank Trust National Association ("Creditor") filed a proof of claim for a secured claim in the amount of $312,650.60 ("Claim 2"), as well as a motion to allow Claim 2. Creditor's argues that because it did not receive notice of the bankruptcy, and because it is in the Debtor's best interest, Claim 2 should be allowed. The Court notes that Creditor has not provided any legal argument in support of its position.

ANALYSIS:

FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 3003(c)(3) provides for the creation of a claim bar deadline, and FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 3002(c) provides certain exceptions to the rule that claims must be timely filed. Creditor has not argued that any of these exceptions apply. The Court notes that recent amendments resulted in the creation of FED. R. BANKR. P. Rule 3002(c)(6)(A). While case law on the recent amendment is sparse, it does not appear that the amendment is applicable to this situation. See 9 COLLIER'S ON BANKRUPTCY ¶ 3002.03[7] (16th ed. 2017) ("A creditor may not argue under Rule 3002(c)(6)(A) that the notice was insufficient for reasons other than those caused by the untimely filing of the list of creditors.").

"[T]he Ninth Circuit has repeatedly held that the deadline to file a proof of claim in a Chapter 13 proceeding is 'rigid,' and the bankruptcy court lacks equitable power to extent this deadline after the fact." In re Barker, 839 F.3d 1189, 1197 (9th Cir. 2016). "By virtue of Rule 9006(b)(3), a bankruptcy court does not have discretion to enlarge the time periods fixed by Rule 3002(c) nor permit an untimely claim when none of Rule 3002(c)'s five exceptions is applicable." In re Hayes, 327 B.R. 453, 458 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2005) (footnote omitted); see also In re Edelman, 237 B.R. 146, 152 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1999). Here, none of Rule 3002(c)'s exceptions apply.

In response to Creditor's argument that allowance of Claim 2 is in the Debtor's best interests, the Court notes that 11 U.S.C. § 502(a) provides that a proof of claim is deemed allowed until a party in interest objects. While the Court will not affirmatively deem the late-filed Claim 2 to be allowed, in the absence of any objection Claim is deemed allowed.

The Court is inclined to DENY the motion.

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

11 U.S.C. § 502(b)(1) (2005) states:

(b) Except as provided in subsections (e)(2), (f), (g), (h) and (i) of this section, if such objection to a claim is made, the court, after notice and a hearing, shall determine the amount of such claim in lawful currency of the United States as of the date of the filing of the petition, and shall allow such claim in such amount, except to the extent that—

(1) such claim is unenforceable against the debtor and property of the debtor, under any agreement or applicable law for a reason other than because such claim is contingent or unmatured;

CAL. CODE CIV. P. § 337 (2016) provides a statute of limitations of four years for debts founded on written contracts, book accounts, accounts stated based upon account in writing, "balance of mutual, open and current account in writing," and rescission of written contract. Once the statute of limitations has passed, the claim is unenforceable. See e.g., Guaranty Trust Co. v. United States, 304 U.S. 126 (1938).

Claim 4 is based on a credit card debt. This appears to fit within the category established by CAL. CODE CIV. P. § 337. Therefore, the statute of limitations is four years. The proof of claim identifies a last payment date of February 2010. This is more than four years prior to the filing of the bankruptcy case, and, therefore, Claim 4 is unenforceable.

Claim 5 is based on a credit card debt. This appears to fit within the category established by CAL. CODE CIV. P. § 337. Therefore, the statute of limitations is four years. On November 1, 2018, Erik Morales ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On January 30, 2019, Debtor's Chapter 13 plan was confirmed

On December 31, 2018, American Express National Bank filed two proofs of claim: (1) an unsecured claim in the amount of $658.39 ("Claim 4"); and (2) an unsecured claim in the amount of $4,658.03 ("Claim 5"). On January 7, 2019, LVNV Funding, LLC filed a proof of claim for an unsecured claim in the amount of $866.99 ("Claim 8").

On April 8, 2019, Debtor filed objections to Claim 4, Claim 5, and Claim 8. Debtor argues that all three claims are unenforceable due to the statute of limitations.

Chapter 13

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954 F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

11 U.S.C. § 502(b)(1) (2005) states:

(b) Except as provided in subsections (e)(2), (f), (g), (h) and (i) of this section, if such objection to a claim is made, the court, after notice and a hearing, shall determine the amount of such claim in lawful currency of the United States as of the date of the filing of the petition, and shall allow such claim in such amount, except to the extent that—

(1) such claim is unenforceable against the debtor and property of the debtor, under any agreement or applicable law for a reason other than because such claim is contingent or unmatured;

CAL. CODE CIV. P. § 337 (2016) provides a statute of limitations of four years for debts founded on written contracts, book accounts, accounts stated based upon account in writing, "balance of mutual, open and current account in writing," and rescission of written contract. Once the statute of limitations has passed, the claim is unenforceable. See e.g., Guaranty Trust Co. v. United States, 304 U.S. 126 (1938).

Claim 4 is based on a credit card debt. This appears to fit within the category established by CAL. CODE CIV. P. § 337. Therefore, the statute of limitations is four years. The proof of claim identifies a last payment date of February 2010. This is more than four years prior to the filing of the bankruptcy case, and, therefore, Claim 4 is unenforceable.

Claim 5 is based on a credit card debt. This appears to fit within the category established by CAL. CODE CIV. P. § 337. Therefore, the statute of limitations is four years. The proof of claim identifies a last payment date of February 2010. This is more than four years prior to the filing of the bankruptcy case, and, therefore, Claim 5 is unenforceable.

Claim 8 is based on "retail." This appears to fit within the category established by CAL. CODE CIV. P. § 337. Therefore, the statute of limitations is four years. The proof of claim identifies a last payment date of September 6, 2004. This is more than four years prior to the filing of the bankruptcy case, and, therefore, Claim 8 is unenforceable.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motions, DISALLOWING Claim 4, Claim 5, and Claim 8.

#47.00 CONT Motion for Order Determining Value of Collateral [11 U.S.C. § 506(a), FRBP 3012]: 2015 Chrysler 200

From: 4/25/19

EH__

Docket 25

Tentative Ruling:

According to the court in In re Morales, 387 B.R. 36 (Bankr.C.D.Cal.2008), the retail values, and not the private party values, are the appropriate starting points for property valuation because the text of 11 U.S.C. § 506(a)(2) refers to "the price a retail merchant would charge" and does not refer to the price a private party would charge. Morales at 46.

Here, Debtor has provided a Kelly Blue Book report identifying the private party value of the Chrysler 200. Pursuant to the above discussion, the Court requires evidence of the Property's retail value, and adequate evidence to justify any deviations therefrom.

#49.00 Motion for Setting Property Value of 2015 Chevrolet Cruze

Also #50 & #51

EH__

Docket 14

Tentative Ruling:

5/9/19

BACKGROUND

On February 22, 2019, Michael Wright ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. On March 12, 2019, Debtor filed two motions to value collateral. The first motion deals with a 2015 Chevrolet Cruze (the "Chevrolet Cruze Motion"); the second motions relates to a 2013 Land Rover Range Rover (the "Land Rover Motion").

DISCUSSION

Regarding the Chevrolet Cruze, the Court notes that Altura CU filed a proof of claim on March 7, 2019, which itself identifies the value of the collateral as $7,469. Therefore, based upon the express agreement of Altura CU, the Court will GRANT the Chevrolet Cruze Motion.

Regarding the Land Rover Motion, the Court notes that Arrowhead Credit Union filed

11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3)(C)(i)(II)(cc) creates a rebuttable presumption that this case was filed in bad faith because Debtor failed to perform the terms of her previously confirmed plan. Section 362(c)(3)(C) requires that Debtor submit "clear and convincing" evidence to rebut this presumption. Here, Debtor has only provided general evidence that she experienced a significant and temporary decrease in income, and increase in expenses, without include the supporting details necessary to clearly and convincingly rebut the presumption of bad faith. Therefore, the Court is inclined to CONTINUE the hearing to May 9, 2019, for Debtor to file a supplemental declaration.

#1.00 Notice of Motion and Motion in Individual Case for Order Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate 1244 Euclid Avenue Ontario, CA 91762

MOVANT: MICHAEL RAY SANDOVAL

EH__

Docket 9

Tentative Ruling:

TENTATIVE RULING:

May 21, 2019

Service: Proper
Opposition: None

The failure by creditors to oppose this motion will be treated as consent under LBR 9013-1(f)(3). However, the Court must still come to an independent conclusion as to whether the stay should be continued under 11 U.S.C. § 362(c).

11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3)(C)(i)(II)(cc) establishes a presumption of bad faith for a Chapter 13 petition if a Debtor has had a previous plan dismissed within the past year for failure to perform the plan as confirmed. § 362(c)(3)(C)(i)(III)(cc) states that the question of bad faith includes the failure to provide evidence that the new plan will be confirmed and fully completed. Defeating this presumption requires a showing of clear and convincing evidence of good faith, including evidence that the Debtor will be able to confirm and complete the new plan.

A review of the motion indicates clear and convincing evidence sufficient to rebut the presumption of bad faith. The Court is thus inclined to GRANT Debtor's motion to continue the stay.

From: 4/16/19, 4/30/19

EH__

Docket 38

Tentative Ruling:

4/30/2019

Opposition: Yes.

On February 19, 2019, Anthony Yue Ming Liu ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. On Schedule F, Debtor listed Andrzej Luczynski ("Movant") as the holder of an unsecured claim of $1,380,000 relating to a civil lawsuit.

On March 12, 2019, Movant filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay, seeking to continue pending state court litigation relating to claims for tortious exclusion of joint venturer, breach of fiduciary duty, breach of contract, and wrongful eviction. A state court hearing on Debtor's objections to the tentative decision and proposed judgment had been scheduled for February 20, 2019, but was ultimately postponed due to the instant bankruptcy filing. It appears from the contents of the motion that Movant is only requesting to have the state court enter judgment, thereby liquidating Movant's claim.

On April 2, 2019, Debtor filed his opposition. The crux of Debtor's opposition is that the relief from the automatic stay is unnecessary because Movant's claim has been effectively liquidated. Debtor notes that "[t]he only issue remaining is a determination of any costs and attorney's fees, which Debtor has attempted to review for reasonableness in hopes that the parties could avoid unnecessary litigation and expenses regarding the same." [Dkt. No. 49, pg. 4, lines 10-12]. On April 9, 2019, Movant filed a reply, effectively arguing that Debtor's opposition does not contain a legal basis upon which relief from stay could be denied.

When considering a motion for relief from the automatic stay to pursue a non-bankruptcy action, the Court considers the Curtis factors:

- (1) Whether the relief will result in a partial or complete resolution of the issues;
- (2) the lack of any connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case;
- (3) whether the foreign proceeding involves the debtor as fiduciary; (4) whether a specialized tribunal has been established to hear the particular cause of action and whether that tribunal has the expertise to hear such cases; (5) whether the debtor's insurance carrier has assumed full financial responsibility for defending the litigation; (6) whether the action essentially involves third parties, and the debtor functions only as a bailee or conduit for the good or proceeds in question; (7) whether the litigation in another forum would prejudice the interests of other creditors, the creditor's committee and other interested parties; (8) whether the judgment claim arising from the foreign action is subject to equitable subordination; (9) whether movant's success in the foreign proceeding would result in a judicial lien avoidable by the debtor under Section 522(f); (10) the interests of judicial economy and the expeditious and economical determination of litigation for the parties; (11) whether the foreign proceedings have progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial; and (12) the impact of the stay and the "balance of hurt."

In re Roger, 539 B.R. 837, 844-45 (C.D. Cal. 2015). In Roger, the Court further stated:

The Ninth Circuit has recognized that the Curtis factors are appropriate, nonexclusive, factors to consider in deciding whether to grant relief from the automatic stay to allow pending litigation to continue in another forum. While the Curtis factors are widely used to determine the existence of cause, not all of the factors are relevant in every case, nor is a court required to give each factor equal weight. According to the court in Curtis, the most important factor in determining whether to grant relief from the automatic stay to permit litigation against the debtor in another forum is the effect of such litigation on the administration of the estate. Even slight interference with the administration may be enough to preclude relief in the absence of a commensurate benefit. That said, some cases involving the automatic stay provision do not mention the Curtis factors at all.

Here, the Curtis factors weigh in favor of granting relief from the automatic stay. First, the relief requested would result in a complete resolution of the issues. Debtor's argument that relief from stay is not necessary to resolve the issue, because the issue could be resolved through the claim objection process in bankruptcy court, is not persuasive to the Court because it does not directly address the first Curtis factor and because, presumably, the state court is in a better position to assess the reasonableness of the fees and costs incurred in its own proceedings. Likewise, the second factor weighs in favor of the relief requested because the entry of a judgment in state court will not interfere with the administration of the bankruptcy estate. Debtor has not raised a plausible argument contending otherwise. A choice by Debtor to possibly incur attorney fees arguing the amount of Movant's fees and costs incurred in the state court proceeding does not constitute interference with the administration of the bankruptcy estate. Finally, the Court finds that the tenth through twelfth Curtis factors weigh in favor of granting relief from stay, because the state court proceeding progressed to the point where it was ready for trial, and the state court is in a better position to judge the reasonableness of the fees and costs incurred in its own proceeding.

The Court finds that the third through ninth Curtis factors are largely irrelevant in this situation and do not materially affect the Court's analysis. Additionally, the Court is not inclined to find that the instant bankruptcy was filed in bad faith. Movant's only argument made to support a bad faith finding is that the instant case was filed on the eve of the anticipated state court judgment. Noting that Debtor scheduled Movant's claim and does not appear to be attempting to undermine the state court proceeding, the Court cannot conclude that Debtor is acting on bad faith simply because he is attempting to satisfy Movant's claim through a Chapter 11 plan of reorganization.

The Court is inclined to GRANT request for relief pursuant to § 362(d)(1). GRANT waiver of Rule 4001(a) stay. GRANT request under ¶ 2. DENY request for relief under ¶ 7 for lack of cause shown.

Debtor's failure to oppose will be treated as consent under LBR 9013-1(f)(3). However, the Court must still come to an independent conclusion as to Ms. Hooks' (Hooks) motion.

On August 15, 2018, Visiting Nurse Association of the Inland Counties ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. Debtor did not list Hooks as a claim holder, as she filed her suit post-petition.

On April 25, 2019, Hooks filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay, seeking to continue pending state court litigation relating to claims for Negligence on behalf of Michelle Hooks, Negligence on behalf of Anthony Hooks, Dependent Adult Abuse/Neglect, Loss of Consortium, Dependent Adult Abuse/Financial (Wrongful Advantage).

When considering a motion for relief from the automatic stay to pursue a non-bankruptcy action, the Court considers the Curtis factors:

harm to a debtor's reorganization plans if a third party may pay the full amount of a creditor's claim and seek indemnification from the debtor at a later date. See UI LLC v. Sturgeon Sevs.Int'l, 2017 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 1777 at *3 (E.D. Cal. 2017) (citing In re All Seasons Resorts, Inc., 79 B.R. 901, 904 (C.D. Cal. Bankr. 1987)). Here, Hooks has stated her clear intent to solely pursue the Debtor's liability insurance policy (Sedgewick Claims Management Services, Inc., Policy No.: 2019665200) and has also waived any deficiency in the judgment against the Debtor or the Debtor's estate. In addition, counsel for Hooks has declared that Debtor's insurance carrier has retained defense counsel for Debtor. When the lack of harm to Debtor's reorganization is balanced with the clear interests of the judicial system in seeking a rapid and efficient resolution to Creditor's pending case, the Court finds sufficient grounds to GRANT Creditor's motion for relief from the stay to pursue pending litigation in a non-bankruptcy forum, and also GRANTS Creditor's request to pursue Debtor's insurance policy.

#33.00 Application for Compensation First Amended Application For Compensation And Reimbursement Of Final Fees And Expenses Of Lozano Law Center, Inc.; Declarations Of David Lozano, Esq. And Joe Ruvalcava Support There for David Lozano, General Counsel, Period: 7/7/2017 to 11/27/2018, Fee: $107196.25, Expenses: $1128.12.

Docket 186

Tentative Ruling:

Application: $90,837 in fees ($103,367.20 fees performed post-petition, minus $12,530.25 remaining advanced fee payment), $1,128.12 in expenses.

Opposition: No.

Analysis: 11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(3) (2005) provides factors to be considered in determining the reasonableness of requested compensation.

Tentative:

On July 7, 2017, AMJ Plumbing Specialists Corp. ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 11 voluntary petition. On October 10, 2017, the Court approved the employment application of Lozano Law Center, Inc. ("Applicant") to serve as counsel to Debtor. Debtor's first amended disclosure statement was approved on June 6, 2018, and Debtor's first amended plan of reorganization was confirmed on August 3, 2018. No interim fee applications have been filed by Applicant.

On November 5, 2018, Applicant filed an application for compensation, requesting allowance and payment of $119,279 in fees (less a retainer of $26,000) and $988.60 in expenses. The Court denied this application without prejudice on November 30, 2018 due to lumping and Applicant's request for fees for work done before Debtor had filed their petition. Applicant subsequently moved the Court on December 14, 2018 to amend the October 10, 2017 employment order to retroactively move their date of initial employment to pre-petition. However, this meant that Applicant was stating that Debtor owed them legal fees for work done prior to petition, meaning that Applicant was a creditor of Debtor. On December 19, 2018, the U.S. Trustee ("UST") filed their opposition to Applicant's motion to amend the initial employment order.

In the UST's opposition, they argued that Applicant was ineligible for any compensation, as Applicant had a prepetition claim against Debtor, due to the unpaid prepetition legal fees owed, meaning that Applicant was an interested party in the matter and thus ineligible to serve as an officer of Debtor's estate under 11 U.S.C. § 327(a). In addition, UST also argued that Applicant's employment disclosures were inaccurate, as Applicant had sworn in its disclosures that they were not a creditor of the estate or owed any funds by the estate.

On April 30, 2018, Applicant voluntarily dismissed their motion to modify their employment order and filed their current application for compensation and reimbursement of fees and expenses. The U.S. Trustee has not filed an opposition to the current application and has not renewed their argument that Applicant was ineligible to receive any compensation in the matter.

1. Whether Applicant is entitled to compensation in the first place.

The Court has discretion under 11 U.S.C. § 328(c) to independently review, and potentially deny, allowance of compensation for any professional person if, at any time during the professional's employment under § 327, the professional was not a disinterested person, or held an interest adverse to the interest of the estate with the respect to the matter on which they were employed. The Court does agree with the UST that Applicant's $3,829.00 claim against Debtor for legal work performed pre-petition rendered Applicant into an interested person in the matter, with their interest being adverse to the interests of the estate. However, the Court, upon review of the work performed by Applicant, and taking into account the small amount of Applicant's pre-petition claim, the UST's decision not to renew their objection to Applicant's compensation, and Applicant's waiver of the pre-petition fees, finds that Applicant's adverse interest does not rise to the level where denial of compensation is warranted.

Chapter 11

2. Whether the compensation request is reasonable.

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(1), the court may award reasonable compensation for actual, necessary services. The court has an independent duty to review the fee application in the absence of objections. See 11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(2). The court "will not indulge in extensive labor and guesswork to justify a fee for an attorney who has not done so himself." In re Taylor, 66 B.R. 390 (Bankr. W.D. Pa. 1986).

11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(3) provides factors to be considered in determining the reasonableness of requested compensation. These factors include time spent, rates charged, necessity of the service, reasonableness of the service, expertise of attorney, and comparable market rates.

The Court first begins by noting that Applicant's services for Debtor appear to have been, overall, generally reasonable and necessary. Applicant's work resulted in Debtor's Chapter 11 reorganization plan being confirmed, as well as the striking or reduction of several major claims against Debtor. Applicant's rates were also reasonable, when compared to comparable market rates and the expertise of the attorneys involved. In addition, Debtor has declared their satisfaction with Applicant's services. However, there are several problems with Applicant's application.

a. Deficiencies caused by a lack of a proper narrative statement.

However, Applicant's application has several major deficiencies, in particular, the barebones nature of the narrative statement of the services rendered during this case, as required by LBR 2016-1(a)(D). While the Court recognizes that the narrative statement is intended to be brief, Applicant has failed to give any guidance to the Court as to the course of the case and the result of the services provided. This lack of detail has forced the Court to engage in extensive guesswork to justify fees, in direct contradiction to the principles set out in Taylor. Taylor, 66 B.R. 390.

For example, Applicant requests a combined $8,051 for 27 time entries, totaling 18.4 hours, relating to Ferguson Supplies, a major vendor for Applicant. Firstly, the only reason the Court discovered Ferguson's importance to Applicant was through its own initiative in analyzing prior documents filed in this matter. In addition, despite the services performed in relation to Ferguson Supplies approaching 10% of the total compensation request, the Court remains puzzled as to what happened over the course of these services, including the end result. This is heightened by the fact that the bulk of the fees requested are for telephonic conversations and negotiations, and the fact that Ferguson Supplies was not treated under the plan, with it being listed in Debtor's amended schedule F solely to provide it notice. The Court, with solely the information provided before it, cannot justify the $8,051 request for services performed in regard to Ferguson Supplies at this time.

b. Excessive time expenditure.

In addition, the Court finds issue with the seemingly excessive time spent on some of the entries, as well as the use of attorneys to perform what appears to be clerical work in others. These entries include:

8/11/2017: $3,825 combined request for nine hours of work, four and a half hours for Frank Alverado and David Lazano each, concerning the amending of multiple schedules, the Debtor's statements of prior cases and financial affairs as well as their summary of assets and liabilities (ECF 48). The Court, upon review of the filing, is inclined to reduce the fees here by 33% to $2525 due to the excessive time spent.

8/17/2017, 8/18/2017, 8/21/2017, 8/22/2017: Four time entries requesting $1,596 for four hours of work concerning the preparation and filing of Applicant's motion to employ Applicant as a professional, as well as declaration in support thereof (ECF 58). In light of the relatively short and simple nature of the motion and declaration, the Court finds the time spent here excessive, and is inclined to reduce the fees requested by 50% to $798.

8/28/2017, 8/29/2017: Two times entries requesting $1,424 for 3.56 hours of work for brief 3-page motion for joint check agreement, simple declaration in support thereof, and notice of hearing (ECF 59-60). In light of the excessive time spent, the Court is inclined to reduce the fees here by 33% to $940.

6/8/2018: $440 request for a 2-page draft order approving amended Disclosure Statement and Plan (ECF 139). The Court is inclined to reduce the fees here by 50% to $220 due to the excessive time spent.

6/11/2018: $880 request for attorney work preparing ballots and packages for mailing, as well as service of objection bar date (ECF 155). Upon review of the ballots, the work here appears to be of clerical nature, not that which would require the full services of an attorney. The Court is inclined to reduce the fees requested by 50% to $440.

6/29/2018: $360 request for preparing filing 2-page proof of service for ballots, order, plan and disclosure statement (ECF 149). In view of the work required, the Court finds the time excessive and is inclined to reduce this request by $260 to $100.

7/17/2018: $944 request for completing and filing the summary of completed ballots (ECF 155). In view of the excessive time spent on a simple matter, the Court is inclined to reduce this request by $744 to $200.

The Court is inclined to reduce the fees requested by Applicant by $4,246 for excessive time spent.

c. Severely flawed or non-fully-performed services.

In a time entry dated 6/11/2018, Applicant requests $1,000 for a "supplemental to motion seeking approval of disclosure statement and plan with new dates" which appears to have never been filed with the Court. Instead, Applicant seems to have filed a wholly different motion for an order confirming the plan on July 17, 2018, which has been accounted for in different time entries. The Court is inclined to deny this request for fees.

Next, Applicant requests $1,600 for four-time entries dated 10/17/2018, 11/05/2018, 11/27/2018, related to the preparation and filing of their fee applications. In light of the severely flawed nature of Applicant's original fee application, the Court is inclined to deny this request.

The Court is inclined to reduce the fees requested by Applicant by $2,600 for services that were either severely flawed, or do not appear to have been fully performed.

In total, the Court, in view of the materials submitted before it at this time, is inclined to reduce Applicant's fee request by $14,897 to $75,940.

d. Compensation for expenses

Finally, the Court takes issue with Applicant's request for compensation of $1,128.12 in expenses, as they have only provided a detailed accounting for $562.22 in expenses. As such, the Court is inclined to grant Applicant's expenses in the reduced amount of $562.22.

3. Conclusion

The Court is inclined to GRANT Applicant's request for compensation and reimbursement for fees and expenses in the reduced amount of $75,940 in fees, and $562.22 in expenses, which the Court understands is the Applicant's final fee request. The Applicant may submit to this tentative ruling, or the matter may be continued for a supplemental declaration by Applicant as to their narrative of the services they performed, and their explanation as to the time spent, or the purpose of, the entries challenged above.

Tentative Ruling:

5/21/2019

Opposition: None

Service: Proper

The failure of any party to oppose Debtor's motion will be treated as consent under LBR 9013-1(f)(3).

The Court should enter a final decree closing a case when a Chapter 11 estate has been fully administered. 11 U.S.C. § 350. Full administration of a case requires there are no unresolved matters concerning the case that remain to be decided, such as motions, contested matters, or adversary proceedings. Greenfield Drive Storage Park v. California Para-Professional Servs. (In re Greenfield Storage Park), 207 B.R. 913, 918 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1997). The question then turns to whether the case has been substantially consummated, as defined under 11 U.S.C. § 1101(2). In re Wade, 991 F.2d 402, 406 fn. 2 (7th Cir. 1993). § 1101(2) defines "substantial consummation" as when:

- 1- All, or substantially all of the property to be transferred under the plan has been transferred;
- 2- The debtor, or the successor to the debtor, has assumed management of the debtor's business under the plan and/or all or substantially all of the property dealt with by the plan; and

3- The distribution under the plan has commenced.

Here, there are no remaining motions, contested matters, or adversary proceedings remaining in this case. The Court thus finds that the matter has been fully administered. In addition, the Court finds that the case has been substantially consummated. There was no property that needed to be distributed under the plan, Debtor has assumed the management of their business and control of their assets, and distributions have begun under the plan and are being carried out under the schedule.

Tentative Ruling:

The Court is inclined to GRANT Debtor's motion, GRANT request that a Final Decree be entered, and GRANT request that this Chapter 11 case be closed.

BACKGROUND

On January 21, 2019, Shannon Koivisto ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On January 24, 2019, Debtor amended Schedules B and C. On Amended Schedule B, Debtor listed a bank account with Wells Fargo holding funds in the amount of $5,107.46 (the "Funds"). On Amended Schedule C, Debtor claim the funds exempt pursuant to CAL. CIV. P. CODE § 704.070-704.080. On March 8, 2019, Debtor amended Schedules B and C again, although the amendment did not change the amount of the Funds or the legal provision upon which Debtor was claiming an exemption.

On April 26, 2019, Trustee filed an objection to exemption. Debtor did not file an opposition.

Except as provided in paragraphs (2) and (3), a party in interest may file an objection to the list of property claimed as exempt within 30 days after the meeting of creditors held under § 341(a) is concluded or within 30 days after any amendment to list or supplemental schedules is filed, whichever is later.

Here, the meeting of creditors had not concluded by the time Trustee filed the instant objection to exemptions.

CAL. CIV. P. CODE § 704.070(b) outlines exemptions for "paid earnings." Section 704.070(a)(2) defines "paid earnings" by reference to § 706.011, while also specifying that the earnings must have been paid during the previous thirty-day period. Section 706.011 defines "earnings" as "compensation payable by an employer to an employee for personal services performed by such employee, whether denominated as wages, salary, commission, bonus, or otherwise." (emphasis added). Debtor's filings in this case indicate that she is disability and did not receive income from an employer within sixty-days of the petition date. Therefore, the Court agrees with Trustee that Debtor is not eligible to exempt the Funds under § 704.070.

CAL. CIV. P. CODE § 704.080(b) provides for exemptions for "deposit accounts." Section 704.080(a)(1) defines "deposit account" for purposes of the exemption provision as "a deposit account in which payments of public benefits or social security benefits are directly deposited by the government or its agent." Trustee's declaration asserts that Debtor testified that the Funds were from a private disability policy. Therefore, the unrefuted evidence establishes that Debtor is ineligible to claim an exemption pursuant to § 704.080(b).

Finally, the Court deems failure to file opposition to be consent to the relief requested pursuant to Local Rule 9013-1(h).

Chapter 7

motion, Trustee seeks to sell the Property, free and clear, to Buyer, and Buyer will then dismiss the pending state court litigation with prejudice.

DISCUSSION

The Court notes three different issues with the Motion.

First, the Motion does not contain any detailed evidence which would enable the Court to assess the reasonableness of the underlying compromise and sale of the Property. The only evidence relating to the fair market value of the Property is Trustee's unsubstantiated assertion that "the Sales Price represents the fair market value for the Real Property considering the unique characteristics of the Real Property and the State Court Action that affects the marketability of the Real Property." [Dkt No. 27, pg 22, lines 18-21]. Regarding the compromise of the state court litigation, the Court has no meaningful evidence which would allow the Court to analyze the reasonableness of the compromise.

Second, while the Court is aware that the proposed sale is the result of a compromise with Buyer, the Court notes that there appears to have been minimal marketing or noticing of the sale. If the Motion had been primarily styled as a compromise motion, which included a sale, rather than a sale motion, which included a compromise, then it may have been appropriate to simply inquire whether there was a reasonable possibility of overbids. As a sale motion, however, the Motion falls materially short of the typical marketing and notice requirements.

Third, if the Court were to construe the motion as a compromise motion, the Motion fails to provide adequate notice. Specifically, the Motion utilizes the standard sale motion notice procedures, which include serving notice on all creditors, but only serving the actual motion on certain parties. An actual compromise motion, on the

Pursuant to the previous two paragraphs, the Motions, a hybrid compromise-sale motion, does not satisfy the marketing requirements necessary for a sale motion nor does it satisfy the notice requirements necessary for a compromise motion.

#6.00 Motion of United States Trustee for an Order Disgorging Fees, Assessing Damages, and Imposing Fines Against BBP Albert Knowles DBA The Bankruptcy Clinic

EH__

Docket 13

Tentative Ruling:

5/22/19

BACKGROUND

On January 25, 2019, Francis Garcia ("Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 7 petition.

On April 15, 2019, UST filed a motion for the entry of an order disgorging fees and imposing fines against bankruptcy petition preparer Albert Knowles ("BPP") dba The Bankruptcy Clinic, requesting the disgorgement of $200, fines of $2,000 to be paid to Debtor, and fines of $500 to be paid to UST. According to UST's motion, BPP provided unauthorized legal advice to Debtor. On May 17, 2019, BPP filed a late opposition. On May 21, 2019, UST filed a reply.

DISCUSSION

I. BANKRUPTCY PETITION PREPARER

United States Bankruptcy Court
Central District of California

Judge Mark Houle, Presiding
Courtroom 303 Calendar

Wednesday, May 22, 2019

Chapter 7

11 U.S.C. § 110(a)(1) defines "bankruptcy petition preparer" as "a person, other than an attorney for the debtor or an employee of such attorney under the direct supervision of such attorney, who prepares for compensation a document for filing." "Document for filing" is defined as "a petition or any other document prepared for filing by a debtor in a United States bankruptcy court or a United States district court in connection with a case under this title." Id.

Here, UST has provided the declaration of Debtor stating that Knowles prepared a document for filing, and was compensated for such preparation. Furthermore, there is no evidence that BPP is an attorney, or works under the supervision of an attorney. Therefore, BPP is a bankruptcy petition preparer subject to the requirements of § 110.

II. LEGAL ADVICE

11 U.S.C. § 110(e)(2)(A) states: "[a] bankruptcy petition preparer may not offer a potential bankruptcy debtor any legal advice, including any legal advice described in subparagraph (B)." 11 U.S.C. § 110(e)(2)(B) identifies several common categories of advice that fit within the definition of legal advice in the context of § 110(e)(2).

Here, UST states that Knowles explained the differences between bankruptcy chapters and advised the Debtor on retaining her home and car." [Dkt. No. 13, pg. 6, lines 2-3]. This advice fits is prohibited legal advice pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 110(e)(2)(B)(i) (II) and § 110(e)(2)(B)(iii).

III. DAMAGES

First, Section 110(i)(1) states:

Chapter 7

(i)(1) If a bankruptcy petition preparer violates this section or commits any act that that the court finds to be fraudulent, unfair, or deceptive, on the motion of the debtor, trustee, United States trustee (or the bankruptcy administrator, if any), and after notice and a hearing, the court shall order the bankruptcy petition preparer to pay to the debtor-

(A) the debtor's actual damages;

(B) the greater of—

(i) $2,000; or

(ii) twice the amount paid by the debtor to the bankruptcy petition preparer for the preparer's services; and

(C) reasonable attorneys' fees and costs in moving for damages under this subsection.

The use of the word 'shall' in § 110(i)(1) indicates that the bankruptcy court has no discretion in deciding whether to impose statutory damages of $2,000 once it found a violation of § 110. First, however, the Court must determine that Ortega committed a "fraudulent, unfair, or deceptive" act. See, e.g., In re Doser, 412 F.3d 1056, 1064 (9th Cir. 1005); see also In re Kangaroo, 250 B.R. 115 (Bankr. C.D. Cal 2000). Engaging in the unauthorized practice of law has routinely been held to be a "fraudulent, unfair, or deceptive" act under the statute. See, e.g., In re Monson, 522 B.R. 340, 355 (Bankr. D. Utah 2014) ("Offering legal advice to debtors can constitute a fraudulent, unfair or deceptive act within the context of § 110(i)(1).") (collecting cases); In re Bagley, 433 B.R. 325, 334 (Bankr. D. Mont. 2010). Furthermore, given that Knowles appeared to provide advice relating to "ride-through," an unsettled question of law, the legal advice given appears to be fairly characterized as "unfair" or "deceptive." Therefore, the Court finds that statutory damages of $2,000 are appropriate.

Second, 11 U.S.C. § 110(h)(3)(B) provides for forfeiture of fees received if a bankruptcy petition preparer fails to comply with § 110(b)-(h). The Court deems forfeiture of the $200 paid by Debtor to be appropriate in this case.

Chapter 7

Third, 11 U.S.C. § 110(l)(1) provides for a fine of up to $500 for each violation of § 110(b)-(h). For the reasons stated in the motion, in the reply, and in this tentative ruling, the Court finds an additional $500 fine to be appropriate.

TENTATIVE RULING

The Court is inclined to GRANT the motion, ordering disgorgement of $200 compensation to Debtor, statutory fines in the amount of $2,000, payable to Debtor, and statutory fines in the amount of $500, payable to UST.

#7.00 Motion to Reopen Discovery

EH__

Docket 284

Tentative Ruling:

5/22/19

On April 18, 2013, Narinder Sangha ("Defendant") filed a Chapter 7 voluntary petition. On April 25, 2013, Charles Schrader ("Plaintiff") filed an adversary complaint against Defendant for non-dischargeability pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a) (6).

On August 12, 2013, the Court entered its first scheduling order, directing the parties to complete mediation by October 16, 2013; that deadline was ultimately continued to October 29, 2013. On December 4, 2013, the Court entered a second scheduling order, directing the parties to complete mediation by January 31, 2014. There have been no further scheduling orders in this case.

Notwithstanding the fact that Defendant has failed to: (1) serve his motion; (2) set the motion for hearing on adequate notice; or (3) include any admissible evidence in support of his motion, the Court notes that it does not appear that any discovery deadline has been imposed by the Court in this case. Therefore, there is no need to "reopen" discovery.

DISCUSSION

Counsel for Debtor states that no motion to sell the property was filed because the title company had opined that it was not necessary as the property in question was entering Debtor's possession after they had filed their petition for bankruptcy. 11 U.S.C. § 1115(a)(1) states that the property of the estate includes any property obtained by the Debtor following their petition, but prior to the close of the case, that would have formed part of the estate under § 541.

Here, Debtor had a legal interest in the entirety of Mr. Rimes estate, including

Chapter 13

On November 22, 2017 (the "Petition Date"), Wasantha Leonidas ("Debtor") filed a Chapter 13 voluntary petition. Previously, on March 7, 2012, Debtor obtained a discharge in a Chapter 7 proceeding. On January 5, 2018, Debtor filed a motion to avoid lien with "Real Time Resolutions Inc." This lien predated the Petition Date. On May 1, 2018, the Court entered an order granting the motion. The hanging paragraph included within section 4 of the Attachment to Motion/Order provides: "Unless otherwise ordered, any allowed claim in excess of this Secured Claim Amount is to be treated as a nonpriority unsecured claim and is to be paid pro rata with all other nonpriority unsecured claims in Class 5A of the Plan." [Dkt. 34]. Additionally, sections 5 and 6 of the Attachment to Motion/Order state that: (1) the effective date of lien avoidance is upon (presumably, the earlier of) completion of the Chapter 13 plan or receipt of a discharge; and (2) the underlying lien is retained until the effective date of avoidance. That order was not appealed and became final.

On February 8, 2018, Debtor's Chapter 13 case was confirmed. On March 29, 2018, Real Time Resolutions, Inc. ("Creditor") filed a secured claim in the amount of $69,815.31 ("Claim 6"). On April 5, 2018, Debtor filed an objection to Claim 6. The basis for Debtor's objection is that her personal liability on Claim 6 was discharged in a previous bankruptcy case, and the Court's order avoiding the lien of Creditor means that the claim should no longer be treated as secured.

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a proof of claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. Absent an objection, a proof of claim constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(f). See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000). When a party files an objection to a proof of claim, that filing "creates a dispute which is a contested matter" within the meaning of FRBP 9014 and the Court must resolve the matter after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief. Id.

When a creditor has filed a proof of claim that complies with the rules (thereby giving rise to the presumption of validity), the burden shifts to the objecting party who must "present evidence to overcome the prima facie case." In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996). To defeat the claim, the objecting party must provide sufficient evidence and "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). "The objector must produce evidence, which, if believed, would refute at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1040 (quoting In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173-74 (3d Cir. 1992)). If the objecting party produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Consol. Pioneer Mort, 178 B.R. 222, 226 (9th Cir. BAP 1995), aff'd, 91 F.3d 151 (9th Cir. 1996) (quoting Allegheny Int'l, 954

F.2d at 173-74). The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times on the claimant. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039; see also Holm, 931 F.2d at 623.

B. Summary of Analysis

The avoidance of a consensual lien in a Chapter 13 case is effectuated by a two-step process. First, the Court engages in a § 506(a) valuation, bifurcating the claim into secured and unsecured portions. Then the Court applies § 1322(b)(2). If the § 506(a) valuation results in either a (1) "secured claim[s], other than a claim secured only by a security interest in real property that is the debtor's principal residence"; or (2) an unsecured claim, then the plan may modify the rights of the creditor under § 1322(b)(2), avoiding the lien. This is because the Supreme Court has concluded that after a § 506(a) valuation, a wholly underwater junior lien is to be treated as an unsecured claim, and unsecured claims are subject to modification under § 1322(b)(2).

If the debtor's personal liability on the underlying debt has been discharged in a previous bankruptcy case, however, the issue is more complex. Because there is no in personam liability on the underlying debt, it could be argued that there is no unsecured claim after the § 506(a) valuation. But if the lienholder is not left with any unsecured claim, as shown in detail below, the debtor would be ineligible to use § 1322(b)(2) to avoid the lien or otherwise modify the rights of the creditor.

Therefore, lien avoidance can only be statutorily permissible if § 506(a) is interpreted as "creating" an unsecured claim for the purposes of the Chapter 13 bankruptcy. As outlined below, this result is logically necessary, and case law, this district's
