#49.00 Order to show cause why debtors' counsel should not be sanctioned for failure to appear at hearing on trustee's motion to dismiss

Docket 70

Tentative Ruling:

On August 31, 2017, the chapter 13 trustee (the "Trustee") filed a motion to dismiss the debtors' case ("Motion to Dismiss") [doc. 63]. On October 2, 2017, the debtors filed an opposition to the Motion to Dismiss [doc. 65]. On November 2, 2017, the debtors filed a motion to modify their chapter 13 plan ("Motion to Modify") [doc. 67].

On November 7, 2017, the Court held an initial hearing on the Motion to Dismiss. In light of the pending Motion to Modify, the Court continued the hearing to December 12, 2017. On November 8, 2017, the Trustee filed her comments on the Motion to Modify [doc. 68]. On December 11, 2017, the debtors filed a declaration of non-opposition to the Motion to Modify [doc. 69].

On December 12, 2017, the Court held a continued hearing on the Motion to Dismiss. Although an order granting the Motion to Modify had not been entered, the debtors' counsel did not appear.

On December 14, 2017, the Court issued an Order to Show Cause Why Debtors' Counsel Should Not Be Sanctioned for Failure to Appear at Hearing on Trustee's Motion to Dismiss (the "OSC") [doc. 70], on the grounds that the debtors' counsel failed to appear at the hearing on the chapter 13 trustee's motion to dismiss as required by Local Bankruptcy Rule 3015-1(u)(1). The debtors' counsel was ordered to explain his failure to appear and to file and serve on the debtor a written response to the OSC no later than December 26, 2017.

The debtors' counsel filed his response [doc. 73]. In the response, the debtors' counsel stated that he had a scheduling conflict on December 12, 2017 and only became aware of this conflict the day before. The debtors' counsel filed the declaration of non-opposition to the Motion to Modify and uploaded an order on the Motion to Modify, in which the debtors' agreed to the Trustee's request for an additional $5.00. The debtors' counsel did not have time to arrange for appearance counsel and hoped that the Court would check the docket and see that the matter had been resolved.

It is this Court's policy that if the chapter 13 trustee files a motion to dismiss, the Court will grant only one continuance of the hearing on the motion to dismiss without requiring an appearance by the debtor's counsel. If an order granting the motion to modify has not been entered, and the chapter 13 trustee has not agreed beforehand to withdraw a motion to dismiss, the debtor's counsel must appear at any continued hearing thereon. These policies are designed to encourage counsel to obtain Court approval of a motion to modify in a timely manner.

If the debtors' counsel or an appearance attorney appears at the continued motion to dismiss hearing on January 9, 2018 at 11:00 a.m., then the Court may discharge the OSC. However, if no appearance is made at the continued motion to dismiss hearing, and an order granting the Motion to Dismiss has not been entered, the Court may consider imposing sanctions on the debtors' counsel.

I. BACKGROUND

A. The First Bankruptcy Case

On August 10, 2012, Brian Sullivan ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 7 case (the "First Bankruptcy Case") [1:12-bk-17247-VK]. In the First Bankruptcy Case, Debtor listed a total of $1,235,410.47 in secured debt in his schedule D, a total of $8,000 in unsecured priority debt in his schedule E and a total of $59,848 in unsecured debt in his schedule F [1:12-bk-17247-VK, doc. 1]. Of these debts, Debtor scheduled a total of $418,111.47 in secured debt owed to creditors Daniel Sherlock and Jason Blaylock ("Creditors").

Creditors and Debtor had several disputes in the First Bankruptcy Case, including a motion to avoid Creditors' lien filed by Debtor [1:12-bk-17247-VK, doc. 13], motions for Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 2004 examinations filed by Creditors [1:12-bk-17247-VK, docs. 42, 83, 103], a motion for contempt against Debtor and his husband filed by Creditors [1:12-bk-17247-VK, doc. 98], a motion to disqualify Debtor's then-counsel filed by Creditors [1:12-bk-17247-VK, doc. 173] and a motion to transfer the Second Bankruptcy Case to this Court [1:12-bk-17247-VK, doc. 220]. All of these matters were contested.

In connection with the First Bankruptcy Case, Creditors also filed an adversary proceeding requesting revocation of Debtor's discharge [1:14-ap-01084-VK]. On July 17, 2015, after extensive hearings on Creditors' motion for summary judgment and a trial, the Court entered a judgment revoking Debtor's discharge [1:14-ap-01084-

Chapter 13

B. The Second Bankruptcy Case

On July 30, 2015, Debtor filed this chapter 13 petition (the "Second Bankruptcy Case") in the Northern Division. In the Second Bankruptcy Case, Debtor listed a total of $1,080,469 in secured debt in his latest-amended schedule D [doc. 23] and a total of $812,171.35 in unsecured debt in his latest-amended schedule F [doc. 28]. Of these amounts, Debtor listed a total of $708,754.19 in unsecured debt owed to Creditors, but indicated that the debts were disputed.

On September 4, 2015, Creditors filed a motion to transfer the Second Bankruptcy Case to this Court [1:12-bk-17247-VK, doc. 220]. After opposition by Debtor, the Court entered an order transferring the Second Bankruptcy Case to this Court [1:12-bk-17247-VK, doc. 225].

On September 1, 2015, Creditors filed an objection to Debtor's chapter 13 plan and a request to dismiss the Second Bankruptcy Case (the "Motion to Dismiss") [doc. 18]. On December 9, 2015, the Court held a hearing on the Motion to Dismiss. At that time, the Court issued a ruling dismissing the Second Bankruptcy Case on the basis that Debtor is ineligible to be a chapter 13 debtor [doc. 48]. On January 6, 2016, the Court entered an order dismissing the Second Bankruptcy Case [doc. 58] and subsequently closed the Second Bankruptcy Case.

C. The Third Bankruptcy Case

On October 17, 2017, in connection with their efforts to collect from Debtor, Creditors obtained an Order to Appear for Examination (the "Order to Appear") from state court. Motion, Exhibit 2. The Order to Appear required Debtor's husband, Dr. David Levin, to appear for examination on November 16, 2017. Id.

On November 9, 2017, Debtor filed another voluntary chapter 7 petition (the "Third Bankruptcy Case") [9:17-bk-12038-PC]. In his petition, Debtor stated that he lives in Pismo Beach, California. In the Third Bankruptcy Case, Debtor listed a total of $2,978.28 in assets [9:17-bk-12038-PC, doc. 11], all of which Debtor claimed as exempt [9:17-bk-12038-PC, doc. 12]. Debtor indicated he has no secured creditors

In his schedule E/F, Debtor listed a total of $546,246.58 in unsecured debt, of which $466,806.83 was listed as owing to Creditors [9:17-bk-12038-PC, doc. 14]. Again, Debtor indicated the debt to Creditors is disputed. Other than government units and corporations with headquarters out of state, Debtor indicated that seven of his creditors were closer to the San Fernando Valley Division, whereas three of his creditors are located closer to the Northern Division. Of these three creditors, one is Debtor's husband and one is Debtor's father.

On December 4, 2017, Creditors filed a motion to reopen the Second Bankruptcy Case [doc. 68]. On the same day, Creditors filed a motion requesting a transfer of the Third Bankruptcy Case to this Court (the "Motion") [doc. 70], based on this Court's history with Debtor's prior two cases and the proximity of creditors to this Court.

On December 15, 2017, Debtor filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 75], asserting that he lives in Pismo Beach, California and will be inconvenienced by the distance between his residence and this Court.

II. ANALYSIS

Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1404(a)—

For the convenience of parties and witnesses, in the interest of justice, a district court may transfer any civil action to any other district or division where it might have been brought or to any district or division to which all parties have consented.

As a preliminary matter, Debtor asserts that Debtor could have only filed his case in the Northern Division, based on Debtor's current residence, and that Creditors cannot show that the Third Bankruptcy Case "might have been brought" in the San Fernando Valley Division. 28 U.S.C. § 1404(a). However, the Court need not refer to 28 U.S.C. § 1404(a). Instead, the statute covering transfers within the same district is 28 U.S.C. § 1404(b). Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1404(b)—

Upon motion, consent or stipulation of all parties, any action, suit or proceeding of a civil nature or any motion or hearing thereof, may be transferred, in the discretion of the court, from the division in which [it is] pending to any other division in the same district. Transfer of proceedings in rem brought by or on behalf of the United States may be transferred under this section without the consent of the United States where all other parties request transfer.

The plain language of § 1404(b) does not require that the Court transfer to a division where the bankruptcy case might have been brought. Rather, the Court may transfer from one division to another in its discretion (assuming venue is otherwise proper in the district).

The Local Bankruptcy Rules and the Court Manual also do not include such a requirement. Under Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 1071-1(a)(1), debtors must file a petition in the "applicable division," which is "determined by the location of the debtor's residence, principal offices, officers, and books and records, or where the majority of the debtor's assets are located based on a book value determination as set forth on the debtor's most current balance sheet." Nothing in this Rule prevents a court from reassigning a case to a different division. Instead, the Rule only covers a debtor's initial filing.

The language in the Court Manual makes clear that courts have discretion to transfer cases to a different division. Pursuant to Court Manual § 2.1(a)(4)(A), "[u]nless otherwise ordered by the court, a petition commencing a case under the Bankruptcy Code must be filed in the 'applicable division.'" (emphasis added).

A similar analysis is provided in General Order ("GO") 11-01, dated June 8, 2011. Pursuant to GO 11-01, if a debtor files a "related case," as defined by Local Bankruptcy Rule 1015-2(a), and "if the judge to whom such Related Case was most recently assigned is still in office," then the case is reassigned to that judge. However, "[i]f the new petition was properly filed in a division of this District different from the division in which the judge to whom the prior case was assigned now sits, the new case will be assigned to a judge in the division in which it was filed and not to the judge to whom the prior case was assigned."

If there is a request to reassign a related case, GO 11-01 states that the following procedure shall apply:

The judge to whom a Related Case or proceeding has been assigned may, by mutual consent, or in the absence of such consent, with the approval of the Chief Judge, order the reassignment of a Related Case or proceeding to the judge to whom a Related case or proceeding has been assigned for good cause based upon the convenience of the parties or where justice otherwise requires.

Pursuant to LBR 1015-2(a)(1), "cases are deemed 'related cases' if the earlier bankruptcy case was filed or pending at any time before the filing of the new petition, and the debtors in such cases... [a]re the same."

Here, the Second Bankruptcy Case and Third Bankruptcy Case are "related cases" as defined by LBR 1015-2(a)(1) because Debtor is the debtor in both cases. Under GO 11-01, although a new case by a debtor will not be automatically assigned to a judge presiding over that debtor's prior cases if the judge is in a different division, the case may still be reassigned to the former judge "for good cause based upon the convenience of the parties or where justice otherwise requires." In light of the authorities above, even if Debtor could have only filed in the Northern Division, the Court is not barred from transferring Debtor's case to this Court "for good cause."

"Intradistrict transfers pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1404(b) are discretionary transfers subject to the same analysis as under 28 U.S.C. § 1404(a) but are judged by a less rigorous standard." Cheval Farm LLC v. Chalon, 2011 WL 13047301, at *2 (D. Ariz. Jan. 19, 2011) (citing Edwards v. Sanyo Mfg. Corp., 2007 WL 641412, at *1 (E.D.Ark. Feb. 27, 2007); see also White v. ABCO Eng'g Corp., 199 F.3d 140, 143-44 (3d Cir. 1999) (noting that a § 1404(b) transfer "is much less cumbersome than its inter-district counterpart").

Section 1412 "is essentially the bankruptcy counterpart to § 1404(a)." In re B.L. of Miami, Inc., 294 B.R. 325, 329 (Bankr. D. Nev. 2003). Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1412, "[a] district court may transfer a case or proceeding under title 11 to a district court for another district, in the interest of justice or for the convenience of the parties."

"Adjudication of a request for a transfer of venue under Section 1412 requires a case-by-case analysis that is subject to the broad discretion of the court." In re TIG Ins. Co., 264 B.R. 661, 668 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2001). "The party that seeks to transfer venue bears the burden of showing by a preponderance of the evidence that transfer would be appropriate." Id.

"The § 1412 statutory standards for transferring a bankruptcy case invoke the 'interest of justice' and 'convenience of the parties,' but, unlike the general federal transfer statute, do not expressly include convenience of witnesses." In re Donald, 328 B.R. 192, 204 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2005). Nevertheless, "[t]he analysis of any combination of 'interest of justice' and 'convenience of parties' under § 1412 is inherently factual and necessarily entails the exercise of discretion based on the totality of the circumstances, which may include considerations regarding witnesses and the presentation of evidence." Id.

The following "list of non-exclusive factors" are generally considered by courts when analyzing whether to transfer a case:

- (1) proximity of creditors to Court;
- (2) proximity of debtor to Court;
- (3) proximity of witnesses necessary to administration of estate;
- (4) location of assets;
- (5) economic and efficient administration of case;
- (6) need for further administration if liquidation ensues.

Id.

Because both parties do not consent to the transfer of the Third Bankruptcy Case from the Northern Division to this Court, the Court must consider whether there is "good cause based upon the convenience of the parties or where justice otherwise requires." GO 11-01. This is identical to the analysis under 28 U.S.C. § 1412, which also requires the Court to determine whether the "interest of justice" and "convenience of parties" warrants transfer of a case. Donald, 328 B.R. at 204.

Here, there is good cause to transfer the Third Bankruptcy Case to this Court.

First, and most importantly, this Court has significant background regarding the history between these parties. The Court heard several contested motions in the First Bankruptcy Case related to the dispute between these parties, including a motion to avoid Creditors' lien [1:12-bk-17247-VK, doc. 13], motions for Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 2004 examinations filed by Creditors [1:12-bk-17247-VK, docs. 42, 83, 103], a motion for contempt against Debtor and his husband filed by Creditors [1:12-bk-17247-VK, doc. 98], a motion to disqualify Debtor's then-counsel filed by Creditors [1:12-bk-17247-VK, doc. 173] and a motion to transfer the Second Bankruptcy Case to this Court [1:12-bk-17247-VK, doc. 220].

In addition, the Court presided over Creditors' revocation of discharge action against Debtor [1:14-ap-01084-VK]. In that adversary proceeding, the Court presided over Creditors' motion for summary judgment [1:14-ap-01084-VK, doc. 70] and a trial, as a result of which the Court was exposed to an extensive record of the history between the parties.

The Court also has significant background related to the Second Bankruptcy Case. In the Second Bankruptcy Case, the Court heard the Motion to Dismiss as well as a motion for relief from the automatic stay filed by Creditors [doc. 36]. In light of the above, this Court is best situated to ensure the economic and efficient administration of case, and the Court's history with Debtor's prior two cases weighs heavily in favor of transferring the Third Bankruptcy Case to this Court.

In addition, a majority of the creditors listed in Debtor's schedule E/F, filed in the Third Bankruptcy case, are closer to this Court than to the Northern Division (excluding government creditors and lenders with corporate headquarters listed out of state). This includes Creditors, with whom Debtor is likely to have the most disputes in light of their history from the prior two cases. Creditors have already indicated that they intend to file another motion to dismiss. Moreover, Debtor continues to list the debt owed to Creditors as "disputed." If the Court will need to adjudicate issues concerning the debt owed to Creditors, at least part of the witnesses related to those disputes (Creditors) are located closer to this Court. As such, the proximity of creditors and witnesses to this Court also weighs in favor of transfer.

Although Debtor's assets appear to be located in Pismo Beach, California, Debtor has claimed as exempt all of his assets. As such, it is possible that the assets will not be liquidated, such that their location is not as important to the Court's determination regarding transfer of the Third Bankruptcy Case. The majority of the factors weighing in favor of transfer, the Court will order the transfer of the Third Bankruptcy Case to this Court.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will grant the Motion and transfer the Third Bankruptcy Case to this Court. Upon entering the order granting the Motion, the Court will close this bankruptcy case. As such, the request to dismiss this case, filed by Debtor on December 15, 2017 [doc. 77], is moot.

Creditors must submit a proposed order within seven (7) days.

Docket 50

Tentative Ruling:

On December 14, 2017, the Court issued the Order to Show Cause Why Debtor's Counsel Should Not Disgorge Fees for Failure to Perform Services ("OSC") [doc. 50], on the grounds that Ms. Richards failed to do the following: (i) timely file a RARA; (ii) timely file the debtor's November 2017 declaration regarding deed of trust payments; and (iii) sufficiently prepare the appearance attorney to allow for proper representation of the debtor. Ms. Richards was ordered to file and serve on the debtor a written response to the OSC no later than December 26, 2017.

The debtor's counsel filed a response [doc. 55]. However, contrary to the OSC, the debtor's counsel did not serve her response on the debtor. Nor is the response supported by a declaration signed under penalty of perjury.

Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 4003(b)(4) states that "a copy of any objection shall be delivered or mailed to the trustee, the debtor and the debtor's attorney, and the person filing the list and that person's attorney." In accordance with this provision, notice of the objection was served on the debtor's attorney via NEF on November 14, 2017. However, the chapter 13 trustee served notice of the objection on the debtor at "11856 Balboa Blvd #8, Granada Hills, CA 91344" and not the debtor's correct address, which is "11856 Balboa Blvd #108, Granada Hills, CA 91344" (emphasis added).

Movant (and any successors or assigns) may proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to obtain possession of the property.

Deny the movant's request for an order confirming that the automatic stay does not apply pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(l). Section 362(l) is inapplicable here, as the movant has not obtained a prepetition judgment for possession as required by 11 U.S.C. § 362(b)(22).

The Court will not annul the automatic stay. Movant has not identified what, if any, acts were taken postpetition in violation of the stay.

("Movant") filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay ("First RFS Motion") as to the real property located at 22247 Criswell St., Woodland Hills, CA 91303-2406 (the "Property") [doc. 240]. On January 31, 2017, the Court entered an order granting the First RFS Motion pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(2) [doc. 283].

On December 15, 2017, Movant filed the pending motion for relief from stay as to the Property ("Second RFS Motion") [doc. 385]. In the Second RFS Motion, Movant argues that relief from the automatic stay is warranted pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 362(d)(1) and (d)(2). As noted above, the Court previously granted relief from the automatic stay to Movant pursuant to § 362(d)(2).

Given the Court's prior termination of the stay as to Movant and the Property, what is the purpose of Movant filing the Second RFS Motion?

#9.00 Motion for relief from stay [RP]

U.S. BANK TRUST N.A.
VS
DEBTOR

Tentative Ruling:

There is cause to grant relief from the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. §§ 362(d)(1) and (d)(4). The debtor filed a timely opposition [doc. 24] to the motion. However, the debtor did not attach a declaration signed under penalty of perjury attesting to the statements made in the opposition. Accordingly, the debtor has not met his burden of proof to rebut the existence of "cause" to grant relief from stay.

Movant is the beneficiary of a trust deed encumbering the real property at issue, located at 4234 Canoga Dr., Woodland Hills, CA 91364 (the "Property"). As of the filing of its motion, movant held a secured claim in the amount of $945,716.14. Mohammed Reza Izadmehr ("Mr. Izadmehr") is the identified borrower on movant's trust deed and promissory note.

On April 22, 2011, Mr. Izadmehr filed case no. 1:11-bk-15011-GM. Mr. Izadmehr listed the Property as his residence address. On May 17, 2011, Mr. Izadmehr's case was dismissed for his failure to file schedules, statements, and/or a plan.

On June 20, 2014, Mr. Izadmehr filed case no. 1:14-bk-13061-VK. Mr. Izadmehr listed the Property as his residence address. On November 3, 2014, Mr. Izadmehr received a chapter 7 discharge.

On July 13, 2016, a notice of default was recorded against the Property. On October 17, 2016, a notice of sale was recorded, scheduling a trustee's sale for November 14, 2016.

On November 10, 2016, a few days before the scheduled trustee's sale, Mr. Izadmehr filed case no. 1:16-bk-13238-MT. Mr. Izadmehr listed the Property as his residence address. On February 6, 2017, Mr. Izadmehr's case was dismissed for his failure to appear at the 341(a) meeting of creditors and/or make pre-confirmation payments.

On February 23, 2017, Mr. Izadmehr filed case no. 1:17-bk-10461-MB. Mr. Izadmehr listed the Property as his residence address. On August 21, 2017, relief from automatic stay was granted as to the Property [case no. 1:17-bk-10461-MB, doc. 31]. On October 17, 2017, Mr. Izadmehr's case was dismissed after a chapter 13 plan confirmation hearing.

On September 7, 2017, shortly after relief from the automatic stay was granted as to the Property in case no. 1:17-bk-10461-MB, Mr. Izadmehr executed a grant deed purporting to transfer to himself an 80% interest in the Property and to the debtor a 20% interest in the Property, as tenants in common. (See Exh. 6.)

On September 8, 2017, one day after the foregoing grant deed was executed, the debtor filed the pending case. The debtor listed the Property as his residence address.

11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(4) provides:

On request of a party in interest and after notice and a hearing, the court shall grant relief from the stay provided under subsection (a) of this section, such as by terminating, annulling, modifying, or conditioning such stay—

(4) with respect to a stay of an act against real property under subsection (a), by a creditor whose claim is secured by an interest in such real property, if the court finds that the filing of the petition was part of a scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors that involved either—

(A) transfer of all or part ownership of, or other interest in, such real property without the consent of the secured creditor or court approval; or

(B) multiple bankruptcy filings affecting such real property.

If recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in real property, an order entered under paragraph

(4) shall be binding in any other case under this title purporting to affect such real property filed not later than 2 years after the date of the entry of such order by the court, except that a debtor in a subsequent case under this title may move for relief from such order based upon changed circumstances or for good cause shown, after notice and a hearing. Any Federal, State, or local governmental unit that accepts notices of interests or liens in real property shall accept any certified copy of an order described in this subsection for indexing and recording."

The Court concludes that the debtor's filing of the petition in this chapter 13 case was part of a scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors. The recent transfer of a fractional interest in the property to the debtor, the multiple bankruptcy filings by Mr. Izadmehr and the debtor, and the dismissal of three prior bankruptcy cases affecting the Property, justify relief from the automatic stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) and the provision of in rem relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(4).

The 14-day stay prescribed by FRBP 4001(a)(3) is waived.

Movant must submit an order within seven (7) days.

I. BACKGROUND

A. The Parties' Agreements

In 1999, Dr. John Chaves, the managing member of Jocelinda Investments, LLC ("Jocelinda"), La Bella Investments, LLC ("La Bella") and Comercio, LLC ("Comercio") (collectively, "Plaintiffs"), met Michael Anthony Rhomateo Mabugat ("Defendant"). Declaration of Dr. John Chaves (the "Chaves Declaration"), ¶¶ 1-2; Statement of Uncontroverted Facts ("SUF") 1-2; Request for Judicial Notice ("RJN"), Exhibit 7. Defendant told Dr. Chaves that he was a real estate developer. Chaves Declaration, ¶ 2; SUF 3; RJN, Exhibit 7.

In 2006, Defendant told Dr. Chaves that he was looking for investors for his real estate projects in Gulf Shores, Alabama and Palm Desert, California. Chaves Declaration, ¶ 3. Defendant also told Dr. Chaves that his entity, Westlake Development of Alabama, LLC ("Westlake"), owned real property in Gulf Shores, Alabama. Chaves Declaration, ¶ 3; SUF 8, RJN, Exhibit 3.

Defendant told Dr. Chaves that Defendant would guarantee payment of any money that Dr. Chaves invested, including any money Dr. Chaves would invest through one of Dr. Chaves' entities. Chaves Declaration, ¶ 3; SUF 6; RJN, Exhibit 7. Defendant also told Dr. Chaves that he and his wife had an $88 million trust, and the trust would guarantee Dr. Chaves' investments. Chaves Declaration, ¶ 4; SUF 5; RJN, Exhibit 7. Although Defendant represented he would put these terms in writing, Defendant never gave Dr. Chaves a written guarantee. SUF 7; RJN, Exhibit 7.

On March 17, 2006, based on Defendant's representations, Jocelinda entered into an agreement with Westlake whereby Jocelinda agreed to loan $2 million to Westlake to participate in the proceeds of Westlake's condominium construction project in Gulf Shores, Alabama. Chaves Declaration, ¶ 5. At Defendant's request, Jocelinda funded the Westlake loan by transferring $2 million to Defendant's other entity, Praetorian Development and Acquisitions, LLC ("Praetorian"), rather than paying Westlake directly. Chaves Declaration, ¶ 6; SUF 12; RJN, Exhibit 7.

In May 2006, La Bella signed an agreement with Jurassic Ventures, LLC ("Jurassic"), another entity owned by Defendant, whereby La Bella agreed to loan Jurassic $600,000 to participate in another condominium project. Chaves Declaration, ¶ 7. Thereafter, La Bella funded the loan by transferring $600,000 to Praetorian as requested by Defendant. Chaves Declaration, ¶ 8; SUF 13; RJN, Exhibit 7.

Comercio entered into an oral agreement to loan $150,000 to Jurassic. Chaves Declaration, ¶ 9. Comercio later funded the loan to Jurassic by transferring $150,000 to Praetorian as requested by Defendant. Chaves Declaration, ¶ 10; SUF 13; RJN, Exhibit 7.

B. The State Court Litigation

In 2008, Defendant told Dr. Chaves that the Gulf Shores project was not going to be built. SUF 14; RJN, Exhibit 7. In response, Dr. Chaves asked for Plaintiffs' money back. SUF 15; RJN, Exhibit 7. Despite telling Dr. Chaves he would refund Plaintiffs' money, Defendant never returned the funds. SUF 15; RJN, Exhibit 7.

On July 10, 2009, Plaintiffs filed a state court action against Defendant and his entities to recover damages from the unpaid loans. SUF 16; RJN, Exhibit 1. On September 7, 2011, Plaintiffs filed a first amended complaint in state court, alleging breach of fiduciary duty, fraudulent misrepresentations and fraudulent concealment, among other causes of action. SUF 17; RJN, Exhibit 2.

C. The State Court's Findings

On June 10, 2014, the state court read its findings into the record (the "Oral Ruling").
SUF 18; RJN Exhibit 3. In relevant part, the state court found:

1. The Findings Regarding Fraud

There are different kinds of fraud as the court just acknowledged. And the complaint – the first amended complaint breaks it down into two different types of fraud plus a related breach of fiduciary duty as to [Defendant], fraud and concealment of material facts and fraud in the inducement....

The court has no difficulty whatsoever in finding that there was a misrepresentation of a material fact relied upon by Dr. Chaves, the plaintiff, and through him his related entities that this reliance occurred to his detriment and that he suffered damage thereby.

The first issue the court will discuss is the so-called family trust fund. The court is convinced by a wide margin, far beyond the preponderance of the evidence that those statements were made by [Defendant], that there was some sort of family trust....

First of all, there is no trust, apparently, because if there was I assume someone would have brought it to the court's attention. I'm going to assume there is no trust. Why is this important? Because [Defendant's] ability to make good on the promises he was making. And Dr. Chaves so testified, was material in Dr. Chaves's decision to go forth with this investment. If he had known that there was no family trust and, again, he testified to this fact, if he had known that I don't believe he would have made these investments. As far as – so, in [and] of itself is sufficient.

When we're talking about the Gulf Shores project there is another species – I shouldn't say, "species" it's the same general type of fraud, material misrepresentation, another example of it let us say. At the time he was entering into agreements on behalf of Westlake he didn't own Westlake. He was – he had signed over all the interest in that company to a third party, to this Southbrook. He didn't own this. It's no different than if I purported to buy General motors in a contract. I don't own General motors. I can't buy General Motors. If I would be so rash as to represent that I did in dealing with somebody to induce them to part with their money, that would be prima facie evidence in the court's eyes of fraud.

He's representing that he owned something that he doesn't own. It's the classic story of selling the Brooklyn Bridge. You don't own the Brooklyn Bridge. You can't sell it. You don't have title to it.

He had nothing to sell, at least not with that entity.

As far as the misrepresentations go, I think that covers it.

The concealment that is alleged, I think is more appropriately directed to the Desert Gold project, which it appears as if virtually [the] entire thing had been signed away to other investors. And again, [Defendant] signed personal guarantees that all of which seemed to operate to the recovery of anything by Dr. Chaves, if there was ever unlikely except under the most rosy of propositions.

Now, the argument is made that the economy is to blame. There's certain amount of truth to that. The economy did take a mighty crash back in 2007, 2008 from which we're still trying to recover, apparently not entirely successful. "We" meaning the United States of America.

But that's not really the point. You might have gotten away with these misrepresentations, [Defendant], if the economy had been better, but that's not the point. The point is the concealment and the misrepresentations were made. They were relied upon to the detriment of the investors and they were damaged. And that's in a nutshell the essence of the cause of action fraud under either of the two theories proposed.

2. The Findings Regarding Misappropriation of Funds

As to the breach of fiduciary duty, the court made some comments at the motion for nonsuit at the close of plaintiff's case in chief. And I don't see any reason to reiterate them, other than to say that it appears to the court that based on the evidence [Defendant] did have a fiduciary relationship at the point he decided to take custody of this two million dollars and hold it for the benefit of other entities and for this project that he had contracted. However, whatever his authorization to do so might have been or not been. At that point he entered into a fiduciary relationship.

It's clear that Dr. Chaves placed a great deal of trust in [Defendant]. And these are a result of representations made by [Defendant] to Dr. Chaves. These did not happen accidentally. And at the point that he represented – [Defendant] represented to Dr. Chaves that he would hold these funds he was essentially acting in a fiduciary capacity basically as a trustee for those funds.

What happened to those funds is not really in dispute. Those funds were squandered on personal related items, and for no other purpose. Mr. Buckley, the plaintiff's expert, was clear and concise and to the point. And no substantial progress was made in the court's eyes in impeaching his testimony or challenging the basis for his opinion. That based on his examination of these, I would assume, hundreds or possibly thousands of transactions in that six-month period, that essentially none of it went to the project. And all of it went to various personal expenditures by [Defendant].

Now, a lot of emphasis was placed on the fact that other funds came in after the fact. That [Defendant] may have intended and had the ability even to make good on these losses. Well, that's all well and good. But – it is irrelevant, as counsel for the plaintiff pointed out, it's irrelevant to what happened to the actual money that was entrusted to him.

Telling me that later on many months after the money was in essence, I don't want to say stolen, but I'm almost incapable of coming up with a better words. We'll just say missing – after the money went missing due to [Defendant's] actions, that at some later point he might have come in and made that good. ... The crime occurs when you walk out the door with the money. Your good intentions on what you plan to do tomorrow once you win the race or what have you, it really makes no difference. And it's an embezzlement, which is very similar to the criminal counterpart that happens civilly, in this case. I'm really unmoved by the statements of intent. And the fact that – actually, there was a lot of economic activity after this money was taken.

But the money that was entrusted to him was in expectation stolen by this defendant.

And the court is clear on that.

We had bank statements and a bunch of canceled checks and nothing else. And this would have been the time to show the court if there was any substantial use of these funds for the purpose they were entrusted to. And the fact that that didn't occur, compels the court to conclude that they were squandered, just as alleged by the plaintiffs.

SUF 18; RJN Exhibit 3. On September 18, 2014, the state court entered the first amended judgment (the "State Court Judgment"). SUF 20; RJN, Exhibit 5. In relevant part, the State Court Judgment provided that:

As to the defendant Michael Mabugat, evidence, both oral and documentary, having been presented by all parties, the cause having been argued and submitted for decision, the court rendered its decision, finding that plaintiffs have sustained their burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence against Michael Mabugat on the First Cause of Action (Breach of Fiduciary Duty), Fourth Cause of Action (Fraud – Concealment) [and] Fifth Cause of Action (Fraud).... court further found that defendant Michael Mabugat did not sustain his burden of proof on any of the Affirmative Defenses set forth in his Answer to the First Amended Complaint.

The court hereby grants a money judgment in favor of [Jocelinda] and against defendants [Westlake], [Praetorian] and [Defendant], jointly and severally, in the principal amount of $2,000,000.00... for a grand total of principal and pre-judgment interest in the amount of $3,673,987.25.

The court hereby grants a money judgment in favor of [La Bella] and against defendants [Jurassic], [Praetorian] and [Defendant], jointly and severally, in the principal amount of $600,000.00... for a grand total of principal and pre-judgment interest in the amount of $1,087,715.46.

The court hereby grants a money judgment in favor of [Comercio] and against defendants [Jurassic], [Praetorian] and [Defendant], jointly and severally, in the principal amount of $150,000.00... for a grand total of principal and pre-judgment interest in the amount of $269,148.90.

D. The State Court Appeal

Defendant appealed the State Court Judgment. SUF 22; RJN Exhibit 7. On August 9, 2017, the appellate court issued its decision and held, in relevant part:

of (1) a fiduciary relationship between [Defendant] and [Dr.] Chaves, and (2) actual reliance by [Dr.] Chaves on [Defendant's] nondisclosure of Northstar's entitlement to payment of $25 million on the Palm Desert project. We conclude that any such deficiency was harmless.

The first amended complaint alleged fraud based on two theories: concealment of the Northstar agreement and false representations concerning [Defendant's] alleged $80 million family trust. In its oral ruling, the trial court found in favor of plaintiffs and against [Defendant] on both theories. Moreover, in the absence of a written statement of decision, "[t]he doctrine of implied findings requires the appellate court to infer the trial court made all factual findings necessary to support the judgment." (Fladeboe v. American Isuzu Motors Inc. (2007) 150 Cal.App.4th 42, 58.) Thus, even without the trial court's oral ruling, we would have to infer that the court resolved the fraud claim concerning the family trust against [Defendant].

On appeal, [Defendant] presents no arguments concerning the fraud claim concerning the family trust, so we must affirm the finding against him on that claim. He also does not argue that plaintiffs recovered more on the fiduciary duty and fraud by concealment claims than they were entitled to recover on the fraud claim concerning the family trust alone, and we are not aware of any potential basis for such an argument. Thus, even if we agreed that the fiduciary duty and fraud by concealment claims were not supported by substantial evidence, we would have to affirm the judgment on the basis of the fraud claim concerning the family trust.

The judgment is affirmed.

Plaintiffs filed a complaint requesting nondischargeability of the debt owed to them pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2)(A), (a)(4) and (a)(6) (the "Complaint").

On October 25, 2017, Plaintiffs filed a motion for summary judgment, requesting entry of judgment in their favor on all of their claims (the "Motion") [doc. 34]. Defendant has not timely filed a response to the Motion.

II. LEGAL STANDARDS

A. General Motion for Summary Judgment Standard

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 56, applicable to this adversary proceeding under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 7056, the Court shall grant summary judgment if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 247, 106 S.Ct. 2505, 2509-10, 91 L.Ed.2d 202 (1986); Rule 56; FRBP 7056. "By its very terms, this standard provides that the mere existence of some alleged factual dispute between the parties will not defeat an otherwise properly supported motion for summary judgment; the requirement is that there be no genuine issue of material fact." 477 U.S. at 247-48 (emphasis in original).

As to materiality, the substantive law will identify which facts are material. Only disputes over facts that might affect the outcome of the suit under the governing law will properly preclude the entry of summary judgment. Factual disputes that are irrelevant or unnecessary will not be counted. . . . [S]ummary judgment will not lie if the dispute about a material fact is "genuine," that is, if the evidence is such that a reasonable jury could return a verdict for the nonmoving party. . . .

Id. at 248-50 (internal citations omitted). Additionally, issues of law are appropriate to be decided in a motion for summary judgment. See Camacho v. Du Sung Corp., 121 F.3d 1315, 1317 (9th Cir. 1997).

The initial burden is on the moving party to show that no genuine issues of material fact exist based on "the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with affidavits, if any." Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323, 106 S.Ct. 2548, 2553, 91 L.Ed. 265 (1986). Once the moving party meets its initial burden, the nonmoving party bearing "the burden of proof at trial on a dispositive issue" must identify facts beyond what is contained in the pleadings that show genuine issues of fact remain. Id., at 324; see also Anderson, 477 U.S. at 256 ("Rule 56(e) itself provides that a party opposing a properly supported motion for summary judgment may not rest upon mere allegation or denials of his pleading, but must set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial.").

The nonmoving party meets this burden through the presentation of "evidentiary materials" listed in Rule 56, such as depositions, documents, electronically stored information, affidavits or declarations, stipulations, admissions, and interrogatory answers. Id. To establish a genuine issue, the non-moving party "must do more than simply show that there is some metaphysical doubt as to the material facts." Matsushita Electrical Industry Co. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 586, 106 S.Ct. 1348, 1356, 89 L.Ed.2d 538 (1986); see also Anderson, 477 U.S. at 252 ("The mere existence of a scintilla of evidence in support of the [non-moving party's] position will be insufficient."). Rather, the nonmoving party must provide "evidence of such a caliber that 'a fair-minded jury could return a verdict for the [nonmoving party] on the evidence presented.'" U.S. v. Wilson, 881 F.2d 596, 601 (9th Cir. 1989) (quoting Anderson, 477 U.S. at 266).

Here, there are no genuine issue as to any material fact and, as discussed below, Plaintiffs are entitled to judgment as a matter of law pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2)(A) and (a)(4).

B. Issue Preclusion

"A bankruptcy court may rely on the issue preclusive effect of an existing state court judgment .... In so doing, the bankruptcy court must apply the forum state's law of issue preclusion." In re Plyam, 530 B.R. 456, 462 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2015); see also 28 U.S.C. § 1738 (federal courts must give "full faith and credit" to state court judgments). C. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A)

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A), a bankruptcy discharge does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt "for money, property, services, or an extension, renewal, or refinancing of credit, to the extent obtained by – false pretenses, a false representation, or actual fraud, other than a statement respecting a debtor's or an insider's financial condition."

To prevail on a § 523(a)(2)(A) claim, the plaintiff must demonstrate, by a preponderance of the evidence, the following five elements:

- (1) misrepresentation, fraudulent omission or deceptive conduct by the debtor;
- (2) knowledge of the falsity or deceptiveness of his statement or conduct;
- (3) an intent to deceive;
- (4) justifiable reliance by the creditor on the debtor's statement or conduct; and

D. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(4)

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(4), a bankruptcy discharge does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt "for fraud or defalcation while acting in a fiduciary capacity, embezzlement, or larceny."

1. Fraud or Defalcation while Acting in a Fiduciary Capacity

A debt is nondischargeable for fraud or defalcation while acting in a fiduciary capacity "where (1) an express trust existed, (2) the debt was caused by fraud or defalcation, and (3) the debtor acted as a fiduciary to the creditor at the time the debt was created." In re Niles, 106 F.3d 1456, 1459 (9th Cir. 1997).

Whether a relationship is a fiduciary one within the meaning of § 523(a)(4) is a question of federal law. Ragsdale v. Haller, 780 F.2d 794, 795 (9th Cir. 1986); see also In re Cantrell, 269 B.R. 413, 420 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2001) ("The definition of 'fiduciary capacity' under § 523(a)(4) is governed by federal law."). In the context of dischargeability, the fiduciary relationship must arise from an express or technical trust that was imposed before and without reference to the wrongdoing that caused the debt. Ragsdale, 780 F.2d at 796. Under § 523(a)(4), the "scope of the term 'fiduciary capacity' is a question of federal law," but "the Ninth Circuit has considered state law to ascertain whether the requisite trust relationship exists." In re Honkanen, 446 B.R. 373, 379 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2011); Ragsdale, 780 F.2d at 796.

"A trust under California law may be formed by express agreement, by statute, or by case law." Cantrell, 269 B.R. at 420. An express trust under California law requires the following five elements: (1) present intent to create a trust; (2) a trustee; (3) trust property; (4) a proper legal purpose; and (5) a beneficiary. Honkanen, at 379 fn. 6 (citing Cal. Prob. Code §§ 15201–15205). A technical trust under California law is one "arising from the relation of attorney, executor, or guardian, and not to debts due by a bankrupt in the character of an agent, factor, commission merchant, and the like."

2. Embezzlement

"Federal law and not state law controls the definition of embezzlement for purposes of section 523(a)(4)." In re Wada, 210 B.R. 572, 576 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1997).

"Embezzlement is defined as 'the fraudulent appropriation of property by a person to whom such property has been [e]ntrusted or into whose hands it has lawfully come.'" Id. (quoting Moore v. United States, 160 U.S. 268, 269, 16 S.Ct. 294, 295, 40 L.Ed. 422 (1895)).

"Embezzlement" within the meaning of § 523(a)(4) requires three elements: (1) property rightfully in the possession of the non-owner debtor, (2) the non-owner's misappropriation of the property to a use other than that for which it was entrusted, and (3) circumstances indicating fraud. In re Littleton, 942 F.2d 551, 555 (9th Cir. 1991). For purposes of embezzlement, a fiduciary relationship is not required. Id., at 555.

E. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6)

11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6) states that a discharge under 11 U.S.C. § 727 does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt "for willful and malicious injury by the debtor to another entity or to the property of another entity."

Demonstrating willfulness requires a showing that defendant intended to cause the injury, not merely the acts leading to the injury. Kawaauhau v. Geiger, 523 U.S. 57, 61–62, 118 S.Ct. 974, 977 (1998). Debts "arising from recklessly or negligently inflicted injuries do not fall within the compass of § 523(a)(6)." Id., 523 U.S. at 64. ### III. ANALYSIS

A. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A)

Plaintiffs have met their burden of proving that they are entitled to summary judgment on their 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A) claim based on the Oral Ruling and the State Court Judgment.

1. The Issues are Identical to the Issues from the State Court Action

Through both the Oral Ruling and the State Court Judgment, the state court held that Defendant was liable for fraud in the inducement and fraudulent concealment, two types of fraud under California law. The Oral Ruling and the State Court Judgment were based on the same facts alleged in the Complaint.

With respect to § 523(a)(2)(A), "Ninth Circuit case law confirms that the elements of fraud under California law match the ones under § 523(a)(2)(A)." In re Davis, 486 B.R. 182, 191 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2013) (citing to In re Younie, 211 B.R. 367, 373-74 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1997) ("The elements of § 523(a)(2)(A) 'mirror the elements of common law fraud' and match those for actual fraud under California law.")). The same elements apply to the two subsets of fraud at issue in the state court action: fraud in the inducement and fraudulent concealment of material facts. See Bank of Am. Corp. v. Superior Court, 198 Cal.App.4th 862, 870 (Ct. App. 2011) (regarding fraud based on concealment); and Parino v. BidRack, Inc., 838 F.Supp.2d 900, 906 (N.D. Cal. 2011) (applying California law on fraudulent in the inducement). Based on these authorities, the issues are identical to the issues before this Court.

The "actually litigated" requirement addresses whether the issues were "properly raised, submitted for determination, and determined in that proceeding." Happy Nails & Spa of Fashion Valley, L.P. v. Su, 159 Cal. Rptr. 3d 503, 512 (Ct. App. 2013). As noted in the Oral Ruling and the State Court Judgment, all parties appeared at trial and presented evidence, both oral and documentary. Based on the Oral Ruling, the issues related to fraud were extensively litigated. The state court rendered its final decision based on the evidence at trial. Consequently, this element is satisfied.

3. The Issues were Necessarily Decided in the State Court Action

"In order for the determination of an issue to be given preclusive effect, it must have been necessary to a judgment." Creative Ventures, LLC v. Jim Ward & Assocs., 126 Cal. Rptr. 3d 564, 580 (Ct. App. 2011). The issues present here were necessarily decided in the state court action. The state court could not have entered a judgment holding that Defendant is liable for fraud unless the state court decided all of the issues under § 523(a)(2)(A). This element is also satisfied.

4. The State Court Judgment is Final and on the Merits

Here, the State Court Judgment is final because it was affirmed on appeal and no further appeals are pending. The State Court Judgment was also on the merits, as evidenced by the Oral Ruling, which includes detailed findings about why Defendant is liable on the various causes of action asserted in state court. This element is satisfied.

5. The Parties to this Proceeding are the Same as the Parties from the State Court Action

The parties to this proceeding are identical to the parties from the state court action. Plaintiffs were the plaintiffs in the state court action, and defendant was one of the defendants in the state court action. As such, this element is also satisfied.

express, statutory or technical trust. The state court did not find that the fiduciary duties owed by Defendant arose from a trust at all. As such, the issues related to fraud or defalcation while acting in a fiduciary capacity are not identical.

However, the state court did find that Defendant embezzled funds. As noted above, to show embezzlement under § 523(a)(4), a plaintiff must show that: (1) the property was rightfully in the possession of the non-owner debtor; (2) the non-owner's misappropriation of the property to a use other than that for which it was entrusted; and (3) circumstances indicating fraud. Littleton, 942 F.2d at 555. For the same reasons as above, the state court found that Defendant's actions were fraudulent.

The state court also noted that the funds were rightfully in the possession of Defendant once Defendant took custody of the funds for the benefit of other entities and the projects Defendant represented the money would fund. Oral Ruling, 68:22-69:4. Finally, the state court extensively detailed Defendant's misappropriation of the funds to a use other than that for which the funds were entrusted. Oral Ruling, 69:12-70:7, 71:5-27.

Consequently, the issues about which the state court made extensive findings are identical to the issues regarding embezzlement in this adversary proceeding. As such, this element is met.

2. The Issues were Actually Litigated in the State Court Action

The "actually litigated" requirement addresses whether the issues were "properly raised, submitted for determination, and determined in that proceeding." *Happy Nails & Spa of Fashion Valley, L.P. v. Based on the Oral Ruling, the issues related to Defendant's fraudulent misappropriation of funds were extensively litigated. The state court rendered its final decision based on the evidence at trial. Consequently, this element is satisfied.

For the same reasons as above, this element is satisfied.

C. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6)

The Oral Ruling and the State Court Judgment are silent as to whether Defendant's conduct was willful or malicious. In the Motion, Plaintiffs assert that the Oral Ruling and the State Court Judgment establish a claim under § 523(a)(6) because the state court found that Defendant defrauded Plaintiffs and because the state court awarded punitive damages to Plaintiffs.

As to the first argument, a finding of fraud is insufficient for purposes of § 523(a)(6). Although a finding of fraud requires a finding that a defendant possessed intent to deceive, it does not require a finding that a defendant's conduct was willful, as that term is defined above, or malicious. As such, the findings regarding fraud are not identical to the intent elements required for § 523(a)(6).

As to the latter argument, the findings required to award punitive damages are not identical to the elements required to demonstrate a claim under § 523(a)(6). To award punitive damages, a state court must find clear and convincing evidence that a defendant is guilty of "oppression, fraud, or malice." Cal. Civ. Code § 3294(a) (emphasis added); see also Plyam, 530 B.R. at 464-65. "Fraud" for purposes of Cal. Civ. Code § 3294 is defined differently than the California cause of action or 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A). Compare Cal. Civ. Code § 3294(c)(3) ("'Fraud' means an intentional misrepresentation, deceit, or concealment of a material fact known to the defendant with the intention on the part of the defendant of thereby depriving a person of property or legal rights or otherwise causing injury.") (emphasis added); with

Weinberg, 410 B.R. at 35 (holding that the intent element of a § 523(a)(2)(A) requires a finding that the defendant possessed intent to deceive).

Here, the state court did not make findings regarding fraud under Cal. Civ. Code § 3294. In fact, the state court did not express the basis for its punitive damages award at all. Pursuant to Plyam, while a punitive award damage based on intentional malice or fraud (as defined in Cal. Civ. Code § 3294) satisfies the "willfulness" requirement of § 523(a)(6), the other bases do not. Plyam, 530 B.R. at 464-65. Because the state court did not identify the basis for its punitive damages award, this Court cannot find that the issue of willfulness was decided by the state court. Consequently, Plaintiffs have not met their burden of proof under § 523(a)(6).

IV. CONCLUSION

The Court will enter judgment in favor of Plaintiffs on Plaintiffs' claims under 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2)(A) and (a)(4). The Court will not enter judgment on Plaintiffs' claim under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6).

Plaintiffs must submit a proposed judgment within seven (7) days.

I. BACKGROUND

A. Plaintiff's and Defendant's Meeting

On October 11, 2003, Craig Gordon ("Plaintiff") was injured in a vehicle accident and left in a coma. Statement of Uncontroverted Facts ("SUF") 2; Request for Judicial Notice ("RJN"), Exhibit 3. As a result of his injuries, Plaintiff could no longer practice dentistry and sold his dental practice to another dentist named John Chaves. SUF 4; RJN, Exhibit 3. Dr. Chaves introduced Plaintiff to Michael Anthony Rhomateo Mabugat ("Defendant"). SUF 5; RJN, Exhibit 3.

Plaintiff was not an experienced investor. SUF 6, RJN; Exhibit 3. Defendant told Plaintiff that Dr. Chaves had previously made substantial sums of money investing with Defendant, and that Defendant could do the same for Plaintiff. SUF 7; RJN, Exhibit 3. Defendant also told Plaintiff about Defendant's extravagant lifestyle and exotic cars. SUF 8; RJN, Exhibit 3.

Plaintiff later met Defendant at Defendant's office, at which time Defendant told Plaintiff that he had made millions in real estate, that he controlled and was the beneficiary of an $80 million family trust, that he was a vice president at GE Capital working in its real estate acquisitions department and that his wife was a vice president at Sony. SUF 9-10; RJN, Exhibit 3. In reliance on Defendant's representations, Plaintiff transferred $1,300,000 to Defendant's entities. SUF 11; RJN,

B. The Gulf Shores Project

In the spring of 2005, Plaintiff transferred $200,000 to Defendant's wholly owned limited liability company, Praetorian Development and Acquisitions, LLC ("Praetorian") to develop a multimillion dollar condominium project in Gulf Shores, Alabama (the "Gulf Shores Project"). SUF 12; RJN, Exhibit 3. Defendant told Plaintiff that "in a worst-case scenario," he would repay Plaintiff's investment with money from Defendant's $80 million family trust. SUF 25; RJN, Exhibit 3. Defendant also told Plaintiff his funds would be used for the acquisition of property only, and "shall not be used for any other transaction or property owned or acquired by Praetorian." SUF 26, RJN, Exhibit 3. Plaintiff timely paid the $200,000 under the parties' Gulf Shores Project agreement. SUF 28; RJN, Exhibit 3.

Unbeknownst to Plaintiff, the account which Defendant represented belonged to Praetorian was actually Defendant's personal account. SUF 30; RJN, Exhibit 3. Defendant did not use any of Plaintiff's investment for the Gulf Shores Project. SUF 31; RJN, Exhibit 3. Instead, Defendant diverted Plaintiff's investment to pay his personal expenses, including for expensive trips, jewelry, cars, homes and education for Defendant's daughters. SUF 31; RJN, Exhibit 3. Defendant also fabricated the existence of a family trust. SUF 32; RJN, Exhibit 3.

C. The Vacant Land Project

In late 2005, Plaintiff transferred another $400,000 to Praetorian for an investment in 97 acres of vacant land (the "Vacant Land Project"). SUF 13, 33; RJN, Exhibit 3. Defendant presented to Plaintiff an agreement which stated that: (A) if Praetorian failed to purchase the vacant land, it would use Plaintiff's investment to fund another project entitled Fantasy Springs; and (B) the $400,000 could only be used for the Vacant Land Project or finance Fantasy Springs. SUF 34; RJN, Exhibit 3. Plaintiff timely paid the $400,000 under the parties' Vacant Land Project agreement. SUF 35; RJN, Exhibit 3.

Unbeknownst to Plaintiff, the account which Defendant represented belonged to Praetorian was actually Defendant's personal account. SUF 36; RJN, Exhibit 3.

Defendant diverted the $400,000 to pay fees and costs for an unrelated development company in which Plaintiff had no interest. SUF 38; RJN, Exhibit 3. Defendant also used the funds to support his expensive lifestyle. SUF 38; RJN, Exhibit 3.

D. The Delfino Project

In mid-2007, Plaintiff transferred $600,000 to Praetorian for the purchase and development of property in Palm Springs, known as the Delfino Resort (the "Delfino Project"). SUF 14; RJN Exhibit 3. Defendant told Plaintiff he would allow Plaintiff to invest in the Delfino Project as a favor to Plaintiff. SUF 40; RJN, Exhibit 3. Plaintiff timely paid $600,000 to Praetorian under the parties' Delfino Project agreement. SUF 41; RJN, Exhibit 3.

The parties' agreement provided that the $600,000 would be used only to acquire the Delfino Resort and "shall not be used for any other transaction or property owned or acquired by Praetorian." SUF 42; RJN, Exhibit 3. Instead, Plaintiff's $600,000 investment was commingled with Defendant's personal funds and used to fund Defendant's lifestyle. SUF 43; RJN, Exhibit 3.

E. The Avanterra Project

In January 2008, Defendant told Plaintiff that he was looking for funds to finish a project because he was temporarily unable to access his $80 million trust. SUF 45; RJN, Exhibit 3. As a result, Plaintiff transferred another $100,000 to an account designated as belonging to Praetorian for a participation interest in Avanterra, a Delfino Resort (the "Avanterra Project"). SUF 15, 46; RJN, Exhibit 3. The Avanterra Project agreement stated that Plaintiff's investment was for the acquisition of Avanterra only and was not to be used for any other transaction or property. SUF 47; RJN, Exhibit 3.

Instead, Plaintiff's $100,000 investment was commingled with Defendant's personal funds and to fund Defendant's lifestyle. SUF 48; RJN, Exhibit 3. As noted above, Defendant did not actually have a family trust worth $80 million. SUF 49; RJN, Exhibit 3.

On July 28, 2017, the state court entered a judgment with findings of fact and conclusions of law (the "State Court Judgment"). RJN, Exhibit 3. Aside from the findings of fact already outlined above, the state court made the following relevant findings and conclusions:

6. Conclusions

From the foregoing, the Court determines that (a) the Bankruptcy Case does not prevent the entry of judgment in the instant case; (b) [Defendant] fabricated the existence of a family trust as part of his scheme to defraud [Plaintiff]; and (c) [Plaintiff's] investment in Praetorian is worthless.

[Defendant] engaged in a calculated scheme to gain [Plaintiff's] confidence and to defraud him. Because [Plaintiff's] disabling injuries and his inability to earn a living other than through the investment of the proceeds from the sale of his dental practice and his relative lack of investment experience, he was particularly vulnerable to [Defendant's] predations, which the court finds to have been willful and malicious in that [Defendant] acted intentionally, knowing and intending that [Plaintiff] would be harmed.

[Defendant] solicited $1.3 million from [Plaintiff] under false pretenses, knowing that all of $1.3 million of [Plaintiff's] investments would be diverted and commingled with [Defendant's] personal funds and spent on [Defendant's] personal expenses and that none of it would be invested as represented.

Having considered [Defendant's] representations, [Plaintiff's] vulnerability and lack of relevant experience, and the tactics with which [Defendant] manipulated [Plaintiff], the Court finds that [Plaintiff's] reliance on [Defendant's] false representations to have been both justifiable and reasonable.

Based on [Defendant's] intentional, willful, malicious conduct and fraudulent misrepresentations described above, the Court finds

G. Defendant's Bankruptcy Case and the Adversary Proceeding

On April 2, 2015, Defendant filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On July 2, 2015, Plaintiff filed a complaint against Defendant, requesting nondischargeability of the debt owed to him under 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2)(A), (a)(4) and (a)(6) (the "Complaint").

On November 14, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for summary judgment (the "Motion") [doc. 42], requesting that the Court enter judgment in favor of Plaintiff on Plaintiff's 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2)(A) and (a)(6) claims based on the State Court Judgment. Defendant did not timely oppose the Motion.

II. LEGAL STANDARDS

A. General Motion for Summary Judgment Standard

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 56, applicable to this adversary proceeding under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 7056, the Court shall grant summary judgment if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 247, 106 S.Ct. 2505, 2509-10, 91 L.Ed.2d 202 (1986); Rule 56; FRBP 7056. "By its very terms, this standard provides that the mere existence of some alleged factual dispute between the parties will not defeat an otherwise properly supported motion for summary judgment; the requirement is that there be no genuine issue of material fact." 477 U.S. at 247-48 (emphasis in original).

As to materiality, the substantive law will identify which facts are material. Only disputes over facts that might affect the outcome of the suit under the governing law will properly preclude the entry of summary judgment. Factual disputes that are irrelevant or unnecessary will not be counted. . . . [S]ummary judgment will not lie if the dispute about a material fact is "genuine," that is, if the evidence is such that a reasonable jury could return a verdict for the nonmoving party. . . .

Id. at 248–50 (internal citations omitted). Additionally, issues of law are appropriate to be decided in a motion for summary judgment. See Camacho v. Du Sung Corp., 121 F.3d 1315, 1317 (9th Cir. 1997).

The initial burden is on the moving party to show that no genuine issues of material fact exist based on "the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with affidavits, if any." Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323, 106 S.Ct. 2548, 2553, 91 L.Ed. 265 (1986). Once the moving party meets its initial burden, the nonmoving party bearing "the burden of proof at trial on a dispositive issue" must identify facts beyond what is contained in the pleadings that show genuine issues of fact remain. Id., at 324; see also Anderson, 477 U.S. at 256 ("Rule 56(e) itself provides that a party opposing a properly supported motion for summary judgment may not rest upon mere allegation or denials of his pleading, but must set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial.").

The nonmoving party meets this burden through the presentation of "evidentiary materials" listed in Rule 56, such as depositions, documents, electronically stored information, affidavits or declarations, stipulations, admissions, and interrogatory answers. Id. To establish a genuine issue, the non-moving party "must do more than simply show that there is some metaphysical doubt as to the material facts." Matsushita Electrical Industry Co. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 586, 106 S.Ct. 1348, 1356, 89 L.Ed.2d 538 (1986); see also Anderson, 477 U.S. at 252 ("The mere existence of a scintilla of evidence in support of the [non-moving party's] position will be insufficient."). Rather, the nonmoving party must provide "evidence of such a caliber that 'a fair-minded jury could return a verdict for the [nonmoving party] on the evidence presented.'" U.S. v. Wilson, 881 F.2d 596, 601 (9th Cir. 1989) (quoting Anderson, 477 U.S. at 266).

Here, there are no genuine issue as to any material fact and, as discussed below, Plaintiff is entitled to judgment as a matter of law pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2) (A) and (a)(6).

The requirements for issue preclusion in California are:

- (1) the issue sought to be precluded from relitigation is identical to that decided in a former proceeding;
- (2) the issue was actually litigated in the former proceeding;
- (3) the issue was necessarily decided in the former proceeding;
- (4) the decision in the former proceeding is final and on the merits; and
- (5) the party against whom preclusion is sought was the same as, or in privity with, the party to the former proceeding.

11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6) states that a discharge under 11 U.S.C. § 727 does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt "for willful and malicious injury by the debtor to another entity or to the property of another entity."

Demonstrating willfulness requires a showing that defendant intended to cause the injury, not merely the acts leading to the injury. Kawaauhau v. Geiger, 523 U.S. 57, 61–62, 118 S.Ct. 974, 977 (1998). Debts "arising from recklessly or negligently inflicted injuries do not fall within the compass of § 523(a)(6)." Id., 523 U.S. at 64. It suffices, however, if the debtor knew that harm to the creditor was "substantially certain." In re Su, 290 F.3d 1140, 1145–46 (9th Cir. 2002); In re Jercich, 238 F.3d 1202, 1208 (9th Cir. 2001) ("[T]he willful injury requirement of § 523(a)(6) is met when it is shown either that the debtor had a subjective motive to inflict the injury or that the debtor believed that injury was substantially certain to occur as a result of his conduct.") (emphasis in Jercich).

Under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6), the injury must also be the result of maliciousness. Su, 290 F.3d at 1146. Maliciousness requires (1) a wrongful act; (2) done intentionally; (3) which necessarily causes injury; (4) without just cause or excuse. Id., at 1147. Chapter 7

III. ANALYSIS

As a preliminary matter, the State Court Judgment notes that Defendant did not appear at trial. Under California law, even default judgments are afforded preclusive effect as long as the defendant is aware of the litigation and the relevant issues were "actually litigated." In re Sung Ho Cha, 483 B.R. 547, 552 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2012). Here, the state court found that Defendant was properly noticed. State Court Judgment, p. 1. Moreover, Defendant was aware of the action because he filed an answer to the state court complaint. RJN, Exhibit 1. In addition, as discussed below, the relevant issues were "actually litigated" in state court. As such, Defendant's non-appearance at trial does not bar the application of issue preclusion.

A. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A)

Plaintiff has met his burden of proving that he is entitled to summary judgment on his 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A) claim based on the State Court Judgment.

1. The Issues are Identical to the Issues from the State Court Action

Through the State Court Judgment, the state court held that Defendant was liable for fraud. The State Court Judgment was based on the same facts alleged in the Complaint.

With respect to § 523(a)(2)(A), "Ninth Circuit case law confirms that the elements of fraud under California law match the ones under § 523(a)(2)(A)." In re Davis, 486 B.R. 182, 191 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2013) (citing to In re Younie, 211 B.R. 367, 373-74 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1997) ("The elements of § 523(a)(2)(A) 'mirror the elements of common law fraud' and match those for actual fraud under California law.")).

Here, aside from finding Defendant liable for fraud, the state court also made specific findings as to each element of § 523(a)(2)(A). The state court found that Defendant made the following misrepresentations to Plaintiff:

- (A) Defendant represented to Plaintiff that Plaintiff's $200,000 investment into the Gulf Shores Project would be placed into an account belonging to Praetorian, and that the funds would be used only for the acquisition of property and nothing else. Instead, Defendant placed the funds into his personal account and used the funds to pay personal expenses. State Court Judgment, pp. 3-4.

(B) Defendant represented to Plaintiff that Plaintiff's $400,000 investment into the Vacant Land Project would be placed into an account belonging to Praetorian, and that the funds would be used only for the purchase of the vacant land or, in the alternative, a project known as Fantasy Springs. Instead, Defendant placed the funds into his personal account and used the funds to pay personal expenses. State Court Judgment, pp. 4-5.

(C) Defendant represented to Plaintiff that Plaintiff's $600,000 investment into the Delfino Project would be placed into an account belonging to Praetorian, and that the funds would be used only for the acquisition of the Delfino Resort. Instead, Defendant placed the funds into his personal account and used the funds to pay personal expenses. State Court Judgment, pp. 6-7.

(D) Defendant represented to Plaintiff that Plaintiff's $100,000 investment into the Avanterra Project would be placed into an account belonging to Praetorian, and that the funds would be used only for the acquisition of Avanterra. Instead, Defendant placed the funds into his personal account and used the funds to pay personal expenses. State Court Judgment, pp. 6-7.

(E) Defendant told Plaintiff that, if Plaintiff was not paid back his investment, he would be paid back from Defendant's family trust. Defendant fabricated the existence of a family trust as part of his scheme to defraud Plaintiff. State Court Judgment, pp. 3, 9.

The state court also explicitly found that Defendant knew his representations were false and that Defendant intended to deceive Plaintiff. State Court Judgment, pp. 4-5, 7-8. The state court also found that Plaintiff justifiably relied on Defendant's representations. State Court Judgment, pp. 4-5, 7-8, 9. Finally, the state court found that Plaintiff's damages were proximately caused by Plaintiff's reliance on Defendant's misrepresentations. State Court Judgment, p. 10. Based on the foregoing, Plaintiff has met his burden of proving that the issues are identical.

2. The Issues were Actually Litigated in the State Court Action

The "actually litigated" requirement addresses whether the issues were "properly raised, submitted for determination, and determined in that proceeding." Happy Nails & Spa of Fashion Valley, L.P. v. Su, 159 Cal. Rptr. 3d 503, 512 (Ct. App. 2013). Based on the State Court Judgment, the state court heard and considered evidence regarding the relevant issues and made its determination in light of that evidence. As such, this element is satisfied.

3. The Issues were Necessarily Decided in the State Court Action

"In order for the determination of an issue to be given preclusive effect, it must have been necessary to a judgment." Creative Ventures, LLC v. Jim Ward & Assocs., 126 Cal. Rptr. 3d 564, 580 (Ct. App. 2011). Here, the state court could not have entered a judgment holding that Defendant is liable for fraud unless the state court decided all of the issues under § 523(a)(2)(A). This element is also satisfied.

4. The State Court Judgment is Final and on the Merits

Here, the State Court Judgment is final because it was entered in July 2017 and there does not appear to be an appeal. The State Court Judgment was also on the merits, as evidenced by the findings of fact and conclusions of law. This element is satisfied.

5. The Parties to this Proceeding are the Same as the Parties from the State Court Action

The parties to this proceeding are identical to the parties from the state court action. Plaintiff was the plaintiff in the state court action, and defendant was one of the defendants in the state court action. As such, this element is also satisfied.

B. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6)

Plaintiff has also met his burden of proving his claim under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6) based on the State Court Judgment.

Through the State Court Judgment, the state court held that Defendant's conduct was "willful and malicious in that [Defendant] acted intentionally, knowing and intending that [Plaintiff] would be harmed." State Court Judgment, p. 9. The state court's findings were based on the same facts alleged in the Complaint. Because the state court specifically concluded that Defendant's conduct was both "willful" and "malicious," the issues are identical to § 523(a)(6), which requires a finding that a debtor's conduct is both "willful" and "malicious." This element is satisfied.

2. The Issues were Actually Litigated in the State Court Action

For the same reasons as above, this element is satisfied.

3. The Issues were Necessarily Decided in the State Court Action

The issues present here were necessarily decided in the state court action, as evidenced by the state court's explicit finding that Defendant's conduct was willful and malicious. As a result, this element is satisfied.

4. The State Court Judgment is Final and on the Merits

For the same reasons as above, this element is satisfied.

5. The Parties to this Proceeding are the Same as the Parties from the State Court Action

For the same reasons as above, this element is satisfied.

I. BACKGROUND

On October 27, 2009, petitioning creditors Joseph Fahs, Steven Chapnick and Elizabeth Tagle filed an involuntary chapter 11 petition against Georges Marciano ("Debtor"). On December 28, 2010, the Court entered an Order for Relief [doc. 161]. Prepetition, Alain Bonavida had represented Mr. Fahs in a state court action against Debtor. Declaration of Alain V. Bonavida ("Bonavida Declaration") [doc. 2983], ¶ 2.

The Court set a claims bar date of May 15, 2012. To date, Mr. Bonavida has not filed a claim against the estate, nor has Debtor indicated that Mr. Bonavida has a claim against the estate.

On May 16, 2013, David K. Gottlieb, as the chapter 11 trustee (the "Trustee"), filed a motion for an order approving a settlement agreement (the "Settlement Agreement") [docs. 2073, 2123] with Debtor, certain entities under Debtor's control and various third parties, including Mr. Fahs. On May 30, 2013, the Court entered an order approving the Settlement Agreement [doc. 2122]. Mr. Bonavida was not a party to the Settlement Agreement. In relevant part, the Settlement Agreement provided for a $10 million distribution from the estate to Mr. Fahs. Settlement Agreement, p. 47.

On May 23, 2013, Alain Bonavida, Mr. Fahs' prior state court counsel, filed a notice of an attorneys' lien in this case (the "Notice of Lien") [doc. 2091].

On October 29, 2013, the Trustee filed a fourth amended chapter 11 plan of liquidation (the "Plan") [doc. 2413]. The Trustee had previously filed the related disclosure statement (the "Disclosure Statement") [doc. 2007]. On December 2, 2013, the Court entered an order confirming the Plan [doc. 2471]. Neither the Plan nor the Disclosure Statement provides for any distribution to Mr. Bonavida. The Plan and the Disclosure Statement also do not refer to Mr. Bonavida as a holder of a claim against the estate.

After confirmation of the Plan, David K. Gottlieb, as the plan administrator (the "Administrator"), routinely filed post-confirmation status reports (collectively, the "Status Reports") [docs.2749, 2855, 2915, 2944, 2966, 2970, 2976]. The Administrator noted in the Status Reports that he was withholding 40% of the funds owed to Mr. Fahs based on a dispute between Mr. Bonavida and Mr. Fahs. Specifically, Mr. Bonavida asserted a lien against the funds owed to Mr. Fahs based on an alleged prepetition fee agreement between the parties. In the Status Report, the Administrator repeatedly noted that he was attempting to obtain the parties' cooperation in interpleading the disputed funds to state court, where the parties were litigating their dispute. Apparently, the parties did not reach an agreement [doc. 2976].

On July 3, 2014, Mr. Bonavida filed a complaint against Mr. Fahs in state court. Declaration of David C. Wheeler ("Wheeler Declaration") [doc. 2979], ¶ 2. Mr. Bonavida dismissed this action before the case went to trial. Wheeler Declaration, ¶ 3. On April 21, 2017, Mr. Bonavida filed another complaint against Mr. Fahs. Wheeler Declaration, ¶ 4. On November 29, 2017, the court entered a judgment in this action (the "State Court Judgment"), finding that Mr. Bonavida "shall recover nothing" from Mr. Fahs. Wheeler Declaration, ¶ 5, Exhibit 2. Mr. Bonavida appealed the State Court Judgment. Bonavida Declaration, ¶ 17.

On December 13, 2017, Mr. Fahs filed a motion requesting disbursement of the remaining funds held by the Administrator (the "Motion") [doc. 2979]. On December 28, 2017, Mr. Bonavida filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 2983], requesting an order keeping the funds under the control of the Administrator until the appeal between the parties is resolved. Mr. Bonavida asserts that the State Court Judgment is not final because it is on appeal, and, as a result, the Court cannot rely on the State Court Judgment to distribute the funds. Mr. Bonavida also states that Mr. Fahs cannot avoid his lien through the Motion and requests that the funds remain in the reserve account until the appeal is resolved under equitable grounds pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 105(a). On January 3, 2018, the Administrator filed a response to the Motion [doc. 2985], noting that the distribution to Mr. Fahs is the final matter to be resolved prior to closing this bankruptcy case. On January 4, 2018, Mr. Fahs filed a reply to the Opposition (the "Reply") [doc. 2986].

II. ANALYSIS

A. This Court Does Not Have Subject Matter Jurisdiction Over the Parties' Underlying Dispute

28 U.S.C. § 1334(b), with regard to bankruptcy cases and proceedings, provides that:

Except as provided by subsection (e)(2) and notwithstanding any Act of Congress that confers exclusive jurisdiction on a court or courts other than the district courts, the district courts shall have original but not exclusive jurisdiction of all civil proceedings arising under title 11, or arising in or related to cases under title 11.

i. Arising Under Jurisdiction

"A matter arises under the Bankruptcy Code if its existence depends on a substantive provision of bankruptcy law, that is, if it involves a cause of action created or determined by a statutory provision of the Bankruptcy Code." In re Ray, 624 F.3d 1124, 1131 (9th Cir. 2010).

ii. Arising In Jurisdiction

"A proceeding 'arises in' a case under the Bankruptcy Code if it is an administrative matter unique to the bankruptcy process that has no independent existence outside of bankruptcy and could not be brought in another forum, but whose cause of action is not expressly rooted in the Bankruptcy Code." Id.

Matters that "arise under or in Title 11 are deemed to be 'core' proceedings . . . ." In re Harris Pine Mills, 44 F.3d 1431, 1435 (9th Cir. 1995). Title 28, United States Code, section 157(b)(2) sets out a non-exclusive list of core proceedings, including "matters concerning the administration of the estate," "allowance or disallowance of claims," "objections to discharges," "motions to terminate, annul, or modify the Bankruptcy courts have the authority to hear and enter final judgments in "all core proceedings arising under title 11, or arising in a case under title 11 . . . ." 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(1); Stern v. Marshall, 564 U.S. 462, 475-76, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2604, 180 L.Ed.2d 475 (2011).

iii. Related to Jurisdiction

Bankruptcy courts also have jurisdiction over proceedings that are "related to" a bankruptcy case. 28 U.S.C. § 1334(b); In re Pegasus Gold Corp., 394 F.3d 1189, 1193 (9th Cir. 2005). A proceeding is "related to" a bankruptcy case if:

[T]he outcome of the proceeding could conceivably have any effect on the estate being administered in bankruptcy. Thus, the proceeding need not necessarily be against the debtor or against the debtor's property. An action is related to bankruptcy if the outcome could alter the debtor's rights, liabilities, options, or freedom of action (either positively or negatively) and which in any way impacts upon the handling and administration of the bankrupt estate.

Pegasus Gold Corp., 394 F.3d at 1193 (quoting Pacor, Inc. v. Higgins, 743 F.2d 984, 994 (3d Cir. 1984) (emphasis omitted)).

A bankruptcy court's "related to" jurisdiction "cannot be limitless." Celotex Corp. v. Edwards, 514 U.S. 300, 308, 115 S.Ct. 1493, 1499, 131 L.Ed. 2d 403 (1995). "[C]ivil proceedings are not within 28 U.S.C. § 1334(b)'s grant of jurisdiction if they... 'are so tangential to the title 11 case or the result of which would have so little impact on the administration of the title 11 case... Put another way, litigation that would not have an impact upon the administration of the bankruptcy case, or on property of the estate, or on the distribution to creditors, cannot find a home in the district court based on the court's bankruptcy jurisdiction.'" In re Wisdom, 2015 WL 2128830, at *10 (Bankr. D. Idaho May 5, 2015) (quoting 1 Collier on Bankruptcy, ¶ 3.01[3][e][v] (Alan N. Resnick & Henry J. Sommer eds., 16th ed. 2014)).

Regarding third party disputes, "[c]ases that find 'related to' jurisdiction in the context of third party disputes do so when the subject of the claim 'is property of the estate, or because the dispute over the asset would have an effect on the estate.'" In re Camp Arrowhead, Ltd., 451 B.R. 678, 697 (Bankr. 131 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2010). "Shared facts between a third-party conflict and a debtor-creditor conflict are said to be insufficient to confer jurisdiction; additionally, judicial economy alone likewise cannot confer jurisdiction." Id.

Here, under any of the types of jurisdiction outlined above, this Court does not have jurisdiction over the disputes between Mr. Fahs and Mr. Bonavida, two non-debtor parties. Mr. Bonavida is not a creditor of this estate. As a result, the Plan did not provide for a distribution to Mr. Bonavida. Rather, if he is successful on appeal, Mr. Bonavida will be a creditor of Mr. Fahs. Whether or not Mr. Bonavida eventually has a claim against Mr. Fahs or proves the validity of a lien against Mr. Fahs' recovery from this estate will not have any effect on the administration of this estate pursuant to the Plan.

The fact that Mr. Bonavida filed the Notice of Lien in this case does not create subject matter jurisdiction where subject matter jurisdiction does not exist. To the extent Mr. Bonavida has a valid lien, which this Court cannot decide for lack of jurisdiction, the lien is against funds designated for Mr. Fahs. The alleged lien does not have any effect on property of the estate, nor does it impact distribution under the Plan. The Court notes that the Motion is not requesting avoidance of any lien asserted by Mr. Bonavida. Again, this Court does not have jurisdiction over the validity of liens in favor of Mr. Bonavida, whether through a motion or an adversary proceeding. Mr. Bonavida may argue for the validity of his lien against the funds in state court.

In addition, Mr. Bonavida is not a party to the Settlement Agreement. The Settlement Agreement provides for distribution of the full $10 million to Mr. Fahs. The Settlement Agreement does not include any provision creating an obligation owed to Mr. Bonavida. Consequently, the dispute between Mr. Fahs and Mr. Bonavida also does not have any effect on the Settlement Agreement. Pursuant to both the Plan and the Settlement Agreement, the estate's obligation towards Mr. Fahs is fulfilled upon distribution of the full amount of Mr. Fahs' allowed claim against the estate to Mr. Fahs.

In light of the fact that the parties' dispute does not have any impact on the administration of the estate under the Plan or the Settlement Agreement, this Court does not have subject matter jurisdiction to make any determinations regarding the validity or scope of Mr. Bonavida's alleged claim against Mr. Fahs or Mr. Bonavida's

B. There is No Legal Basis for Ordering the Administrator to Withhold the Funds where the Court Does Not Have Subject Matter Jurisdiction over the Underlying Dispute

Given that this Court does not have subject matter jurisdiction over the parties' underlying dispute, Mr. Bonavida has not provided any authority that stands for the proposition that this Court can order a plan administrator to act as an escrow account for two non-debtor entities. Both the Plan and the Settlement Agreement provide for distribution to Mr. Fahs, who was a party to the Settlement Agreement and is a creditor of this estate. Under both the Plan and the Settlement Agreement, the Administrator must distribute the total amount owed to Mr. Fahs to Mr. Fahs. As noted above, nothing in the Plan or the Settlement Agreement provides that the Administrator is to withhold funds from Mr. Fahs based on a dispute between Mr. Fahs and one of his creditors.

The parties discuss the finality of the State Court Judgment. However, whether or not the State Court Judgment is final is irrelevant to the matter at hand. Neither the Plan nor the Settlement Agreement included any provision regarding withholding the disputed funds from Mr. Fahs until the litigation between Mr. Fahs and Mr. Bonavida was resolved. It appears that the Administrator and the parties kept the funds in a reserve account under the control of the Administrator for the sake of convenience while the state court action was pending. Nevertheless, the record before the Court does not establish that the Administrator was legally bound to keep the funds in a reserve account under his control at all, let alone until the litigation between Mr. Fahs and Mr. Bonavida is final. In fact, as noted in the Status Reports, the Administrator apparently attempted several times to move the funds to an account under the control of the state court.

The Court also cannot order the funds withheld pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 105(a). The Court's inherent powers under 11 U.S.C. § 105(a) cannot stretch beyond what is allowed under the Bankruptcy Code, nor can 11 U.S.C. § 105(a) be read to confer subject matter jurisdiction onto bankruptcy courts where subject matter jurisdiction does not otherwise exist. See Law v. Siegel, 134 S.Ct. 1188, 188 L.Ed.2d 146 (2014). The Bankruptcy Code expressly provides that a chapter 11 plan is binding, 11 U.S.C.

§ 1141, and that the entity tasked with carrying out the plan (here, the Administrator) "shall carry out the plan." 11 U.S.C. § 1142. The Court cannot rely on 11 U.S.C. § 105(a) to contravene these statutes or the Plan.

There is no legal basis for compelling the Administrator to hold the funds until these non-debtor parties' appeal is resolved. According to the Administrator, the distribution to Mr. Fahs is the final matter to be resolved before closing this case. As such, the Court will order the distribution of the funds to Mr. Fahs.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will grant the Motion and order the Administrator to distribute the remaining funds to Mr. Fahs.

Mr. Fahs must submit a proposed order within seven (7) days.

fr. 1/10/18

Docket 18

Tentative Ruling:

The parties should be prepared to discuss a date and time for an evidentiary hearing on this matter.

Tentative ruling from 1/10/17

Based on the movant's evidence, unless timely controverted by the debtor, the Court will grant relief from stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 362(d)(1) and (d)(2), and annul the automatic stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1).

If that relief is granted, movant (and any successors or assigns) may proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to repossess and sell the property.

The 14-day stay prescribed by FRBP 4001(a)(3) will be waived.

Movant must submit the order within seven (7) days.

VS

Docket 13

Grant relief from stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

Movant is the beneficiary of a trust deed encumbering the real property at issue, located at 14339 Osborne St., Panorama City, CA 91402-2524 (the "Property"). Movant asserts that it holds a secured claim in the approximate amount of $453,064. Benjawan Rachapaetayakom (the "Debtor") and his spouse, Yuthana Singruang, are the identified borrowers on movant's trust deed and promissory note.

On July 8, 2009, the Debtor and the Debtor's spouse executed a loan modification agreement with movant's predecessor-in-interest. Attached to the motion is a payment history which indicates that the Debtor had not made any prepetition deed of trust payments since December 2015.

On November 15, 2016, the Debtor's spouse filed case no. 1:16-bk-13271-VK. The Debtor's spouse listed the Property as her residence address. On March 15, 2017, after a chapter 13 plan confirmation hearing, this case of the Debtor's spouse was dismissed.

On May 11, 2017, the Debtor's spouse filed case no. 1:17-bk-11247-MB. The Debtor's spouse again listed the Property as her residence address. On June 26, 2017, this case of the Debtor's spouse was dismissed for failure to make required plan payments.

On September 5, 2017, the Debtor filed case no. 1:17-bk-12368-MB. The Debtor listed the Property as his residence address. On November 8, 2017, this prior case of the Debtor was dismissed for failure to appear at the 341(a) meeting of creditors and/or to make required plan payments.

On November 14, 2017, the Debtor filed the pending case and listed the Property on the schedules [doc. 8]. In his schedule I, the Debtor describes monthly income in the amount of $3,550, of which $1,800 is identified as "help from family." In his schedule J, the Debtor set forth monthly expenses in the amount of $3,489, leaving net monthly income of $61.00.

Debtor has filed an opposition [doc. 15] to the motion. Attached to the opposition is a copy of a cashier's check, dated January 2, 2018, in the amount of $2,728.53. The Debtor allegedly sent this check to movant by certified mail. Because the Debtor did not include a declaration signed under penalty of perjury with his opposition, there is no evidence that the Debtor actually sent this check to movant, or when he did so.

On November 28, 2017, the Debtor filed a chapter 13 plan (the "Plan") [doc. 9]. The Plan is missing required pages and does not include any discussion of the treatment of movant's secured claim. On January 10, 2018, movant filed an objection to the Plan [doc. 16]. In the objection, movant argues that the Debtor's monthly net income of $61.00 is insufficient to fund a chapter 13 plan that will cure the prepetition arrearages of $63,089.15 within a 5-year plan term.

11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(4) provides:

On request of a party in interest and after notice and a hearing, the court shall grant relief from the stay provided under subsection (a) of this section, such as by terminating, annulling, modifying, or conditioning such stay—

(4) with respect to a stay of an act against real property under subsection (a), by a creditor whose claim is secured by an interest in such real property, if the court finds that the filing of the petition was part of a scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors that involved either—

(A) transfer of all or part ownership of, or other interest in, such real property without the consent of the secured creditor or

(B) multiple bankruptcy filings affecting such real property.

If recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in real property, an order entered under paragraph (4) shall be binding in any other case under this title purporting to affect such real property filed not later than 2 years after the date of the entry of such order by the court, except that a debtor in a subsequent case under this title may move for relief from such order based upon changed circumstances or for good cause shown, after notice and a hearing. Any Federal, State, or local governmental unit that accepts notices of interests or liens in real property shall accept any certified copy of an order described in this subsection for indexing and recording."

The Court concludes that the Debtor's filing of the petition in this chapter 13 case was part of a scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors. The Debtor filed his pending case on November 14, 2017. In his opposition, the Debtor did not address the arrearages owing to movant since December 2015. Since the petition date, two deed of trust payments have come due. If the Debtor has made the single postpetition payment to movant noted in his opposition, the Debtor still would be delinquent on his postpetition deed of trust payments.

The multiple bankruptcy filings by the Debtor and the Debtor's spouse, the dismissal of three prior bankruptcy cases affecting the Property, the filing of the incomplete Plan, and the Debtor's apparent inability to fund a feasible chapter 13 plan justify relief from the automatic stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) and the provision of in rem relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(4).

Upon entry of the order, for purposes of Cal. Civ. Code § 2923.5, the Debtor is a borrower as defined in Cal. Civ. Code § 2920.5(c)(2)(C).

The 14-day stay prescribed by FRBP 4001(a)(3) is waived.

Any other request for relief is denied.

I. BACKGROUND

On June 6, 2017, Ralph L. Ferguson ("Defendant") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On June 8, 2017, the Court sent notice of the bankruptcy case and the deadline to object to Debtor's discharge or request nondischargeability of a debt (the "Notice") [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 7]. The Notice specified that the applicable deadline by which to file an objection to discharge or a request for nondischargeability of a debt (collectively, the "Discharge Deadlines") was September 8, 2017. The Notice was served on Theresa Quinones ("Plaintiff").

On August 28, 2017, the chapter 7 trustee (the "Trustee"), the U.S. Trustee and Debtor entered into a stipulation to extend the deadline by which to file an objection to discharge "for the Trustee and the Office of the United States Trustee" and "only to commence actions pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 727" (the "Stipulation") [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 23]. On the same day, the Court entered an order approving the Stipulation (the "Extension Order") [doc. 26]. In the Extension Order, the Court explicitly stated that the Court was extending the deadline "for the Trustee and the Office of the United States Trustee" and that the extension was for filing "objections to discharge." After the Court extended the deadline for the Trustee and the U.S. Trustee, Debtor's bankruptcy docket noted the following: "Deadline for objecting to discharge: 10/27/2017." (emphasis added).

On October 11, 2017, Plaintiff filed a complaint against Defendant (the "Complaint"), requesting nondischargeability of the debt owed to her pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 523

(a)(2)(A) and (a)(6). The Complaint was filed over one month after the deadline in the Notice.

On November 14, 2017, Defendant filed a motion to dismiss the Complaint (the "Motion") [doc. 8], on the basis that the Complaint was not timely filed. On January 3, 2018, Plaintiff filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 13], on the basis that Debtor's bankruptcy case docket reflected a deadline of October 27, 2017. On the same day, Plaintiff also filed a motion to extend the deadline by which Plaintiff may file a nondischargeability complaint (the "Motion to Extend") [doc. 11].

II. ANALYSIS

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 4007(c)—

Except as otherwise provided in subdivision (d), a complaint to determine the dischargeability of a debt under § 523(c) shall be filed no later than 60 days after the first date set for the meeting of creditors under § 341(a). The court shall give all creditors no less than 30 days' notice of the time so fixed in the manner provided in Rule 2002. On motion of a party in interest, after hearing on notice, the court may for cause extend the time fixed under this subdivision. The motion shall be filed before the time has expired.

According to FRBP 9006(b)(3), "[t]he court may enlarge the time for taking action under Rules ... 4004(a), 4007(c)... only to the extent and under the conditions stated in those rules." "This requirement distinguishes FRBP 4007(c)'s deadline from most others set by the bankruptcy rules, which bankruptcy courts may extend at any time upon a showing of good cause or excusable neglect." Anwar v. Johnson, 720 F.3d 1183, 1187 (9th Cir. 2013) (citing FRBP 9006(b)(1)).

"Consistent with the plain language of FRBP 4007(c) and 9006(b)(3), we have repeatedly held that the sixty-day time limit for filing nondischargeability complaints under 11 U.S.C. § 523(c) is 'strict' and, without qualification, 'cannot be extended unless a motion is made before the 60-day limit expires.'" Id. (quoting In re Kennerley, 995 F.2d 145, 146 (9th Cir. 1993)). Bankruptcy courts "lack[] equitable power to grant [plaintiffs] relief from... untimely filings." Id.

"On occasion, we have suggested that 'unique or extraordinary circumstances' might allow an untimely § 523(a)(2) complaint to stand." Willms v. Sanderson, 723 F.3d 1094, 1103 (9th Cir. 2013) (citing Kennerley, 995 F.2d at 147); see also Anwar, 720 F.3d at 1188 ("[A]bsent unique and exceptional circumstances ..., we do not inquire into the reason a party failed to file on time in assessing whether she is entitled to an equitable exception from [Bankruptcy Rule] 4007(c)'s filing deadline...."). The Court of Appeals has not conclusively decided whether "unique or extraordinary circumstances" could serve to extend the deadline found in FRBP 4007(c); rather, in Anwar, the Court of Appeals stated that such circumstances might serve to extend the deadline, but did not reach a holding on the issue:

We acknowledge that the U.S. Supreme Court has not expressly addressed whether FRBP 4007(c)'s filing deadline admits of any equitable exceptions and that lower courts are divided on the issue. See Kontrick v. Ryan, 540 U.S. 443, 457 & nn. 11–12, 124 S.Ct. 906, 157 L.Ed.2d 867 (2004) (declining to decide question and noting circuit split). We need not, and do not, reach the question of whether external forces that prevented any filings—such as emergency situations, the loss of the court's own electronic filing capacity, or the court's affirmative misleading of a party—would warrant such an exception. See, e.g., In re Kennerley, 995 F.2d at 147–48; see also Ticknor v. Choice Hotels Intern., Inc., 275 F.3d 1164, 1165 (9th Cir.2002).

Anwar, 720 F.3d at 1188 n.6. The Anwar court relied on Kennerley to propose certain situations that might serve to extend the FRBP 4007(c) deadline. Id. ("emergency situations, the loss of the court's own electronic filing capacity, or the court's affirmative misleading of a party"). In Willms, also decided by the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals in 2013, the Court of Appeals reiterated this notion: "But 'the validity of the doctrine remains doubtful' and 'would appear to be limited to situations where a court explicitly misleads a party.'" Willms, 723 F.3d at 1103 (quoting Kennerley, 995 F.2d at 147–48) (emphasis in Kennerley); see, e.g. In re Anwiler, 958 F.2d 925, 929 (9th Cir. 1992) (permitting an untimely § 523 complaint because the bankruptcy court sent creditors a notice containing the incorrect deadline).

In light of the authorities above, it is unclear whether this court has the power to extend the FRBP 4007(c) deadline even if Plaintiff presented a "unique or extraordinary circumstance" to the Court. However, even if the Court has such power, Plaintiff has not demonstrated the type of "unique or extraordinary circumstance" that would justify an extension of the Discharge Deadlines.

Here, the Notice sent to Plaintiff reflected the correct deadline by which Plaintiff had to file a nondischargeability complaint. Plaintiff did not timely file the Complaint, nor did Plaintiff file a request for an extension of the Discharge Deadlines prior to the expiration of the Discharge Deadlines.

Plaintiff asserts the deadline should be extended because the Court's docket reflected a deadline of October 27, 2017. However, the date on the docket on which Plaintiff relied was the date by which to file objections to discharge, not the date by which to file nondischargeability complaints. The Notice, which was served on Plaintiff, accurately reflected the deadline by which Plaintiff had to file an action requesting nondischargeability of the debt owed to her.

Moreover, the extended deadline on the Court's docket referred to an extension granted only to the Trustee and the U.S. Trustee, not to all creditors. That the Court extended the deadline only for the Trustee and the U.S. Trustee is evident from the language on the docket, as well as the language within the Stipulation and the Extension Order. In light of these facts, Plaintiff has not shown that the Court affirmatively or explicitly misled Plaintiff, or that Plaintiff faced the type of "unique or extraordinary circumstance" that might warrant the extension of the FRBP 4007(c) deadline. Consequently, the Court must dismiss the Complaint pursuant to the authorities above.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will grant the Motion and dismiss the Complaint with prejudice.

Defendant must submit a proposed order within seven (7) days.

Tentative Ruling:

The Court had concerns about the chapter 7 trustee's administration of this case and the amount of chapter 7 trustee and professional fees that were incurred. After assessing the specifics, the Court has concluded that the reduced fees sought to be paid are appropriate for approval on a final basis.

BACKGROUND

On August 8, 2016 (the "Petition Date"), Alfredo Velasco Palma (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. In his petition, the Debtor listed his residence address as "7702 Oakdale Avenue, Winnetka, CA 91306." (Doc. 1, at p. 2.) In his schedules, the Debtor listed his interest in the real property located at 962 N. Hunters Hill Drive, Walnut, California, 91789 (the "Property"), stating he owned the Property in joint tenancy and that the Property was community property. (Doc. 1, at p. 8.) Pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure § 704.730, the Debtor claimed a homestead exemption in the Property in the amount of $175,000. (Doc. 1, at p. 18.)

On March 14, 2016, the Debtor finalized the divorce from his spouse, Mary Palma. (Declaration of David Seror ("Seror Decl."), doc. 31, ¶ 5.) Pursuant to the state court dissolution judgment, the Property had been ordered to be sold, and Mary Palma was entitled to receive half of the sale proceeds, plus a $60,000 equalization payment to be

David Seror (the “Trustee”) was appointed chapter 7 trustee. On October 27, 2016, the Trustee filed a motion to sell the Property (“Sale Motion”) [doc. 31]. The associated purchase agreement was negotiated and executed prepetition. (Id., ¶ 9.) The Trustee requested that the sale be approved as a private sale, i.e., not subject to overbid. (Id., ¶ 10.) Ms. Palma consented to the sale of the Property pursuant to the Sale Motion. (Seror Decl., ¶ 6.)

On October 27, 2016, the Trustee filed an objection to the Debtor’s homestead exemption (“Objection to Exemption”) [doc. 30], on the grounds that the Debtor did not live at the Property as of the Petition Date and thus the Property did not qualify as a homestead under California law. On November 3, 2016, the Debtor filed an opposition to the Objection to Exemption [doc. 38]. On November 10, 2017, the Trustee filed a reply [doc. 42]. On November 28, 2016, the Court entered an order sustaining the Objection to Exemption and disallowing the Debtor’s homestead exemption in its entirety [doc. 52].

On November 22, 2016, the Court entered an order granting the Sale Motion and authorizing the sale of the Property (“Sale Order”) [doc. 49]. The sale proceeds were distributed as follows:

Payee	Amount
Seller Credit Buyer Closing Costs	$2,700.00
Chase Payoff	$361,511.89
Payoff to Capital One	$5,719.92

On July 6, 2017, Brutzkus Gubner LLP (“Brutzkus”), counsel for the Trustee, filed an application for compensation [doc. 65], requesting approval of $12,443.00 in fees and $503.96 in costs.

On November 3, 2017, the Trustee filed a final report and application for compensation (“Final Report”) [doc. 72]. The Final Report states that the estate has $36,166.64 cash in hand. (Doc. 72, at p. 13.) The Trustee requests approval of $31,795.27 in trustee fees and $10.41 in costs. The Final Report sets forth additional fees and costs, to be paid as follows:

(Id.) The Trustee also proposes to make a payment of $8,321.22 to pay postpetition taxes to the Franchise Tax Board (the total postpetition taxes owed are $9,826.01). After the proposed payment of trustee and professional fees, Court fees, and postpetition taxes, the Final Report states that claims of timely, allowed general unsecured creditors in the total amount of $62,940 will receive $0.00. (Id., at 14.) On the other hand, the Final Report reflects that Ms. Palma's unsecured claim, in the amount of $60,000, was "already paid through escrow." (Doc. 72, at p. 11.) Tardily filed claims of general unsecured creditors, in the total amount of $6,465.70, will receive $0.00. (Id.)

DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(1)(A) provides that a court may award to a professional person employed under § 327 "reasonable compensation for actual, necessary services" rendered by the professional person. 11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(2) provides that the court may, on its own motion, award compensation that is less than the amount of the compensation that is requested.

Absent extraordinary circumstances, chapter 7 trustee fees are presumed reasonable pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 326 and 330(a)(7). See Hopkins v. Asset Acceptance LLC (In re Salgado-Nava), 473 B.R. 911, 921 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2012).

On the other hand, if extraordinary circumstances exist . . . the bankruptcy court may be called upon in those cases to determine whether there exists a rational relationship between the amount of the commission and the type and level of services rendered. . . . As for chapter 7, 12, and 13 trustee fees, when confronted with extraordinary circumstances, the bankruptcy court's examination of the relationship between the commission rate and the services rendered may, but need not necessarily include, the § 330(a)(3) factors and a lodestar analysis.

"Extraordinary circumstances" may include the following:

- (1) Case administration falls below acceptable standards;
- (2) Trustee duties are delegated to an attorney or other professional;
- (3) Trustee fees are greater than the amount left for unsecured claims;
- (4) Disbursements are high in relation to trustee services performed, e.g., a case filed with a lot of cash or liquid assets;
- (5) Disbursements are high in relation to trustee services performed, e.g., a case in which the trustee operates the business;
- (6) Disbursements are high in relation to trustee services performed, e.g., in cases in which there are significant disbursements without proportionate effort by the trustee; and
- (7) Artificial inflation of the estate by way of carve out or short sale.

See In re Scoggins, 517 B.R. 206, 217 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. 2014). "A maximum commission on a sale in which the trustee merely assumes and completes a sale contract that was executed before bankruptcy may exceed reasonable compensation" and may be considered an "extraordinary" circumstance. Id. (citing In re McKinney, 383 B.R. 490, 492 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2008)).

In In re McKinney, the chapter 7 debtor signed a contract to sell his real property while his bankruptcy case was pending. The trustee learned about the sale before it closed and contacted a broker, who advised the trustee that the sale price was reasonable. The trustee's counsel then obtained an order authorizing the sale and the trustee closed the sale on behalf of the estate, receiving net proceeds of $210,636 after all liens were paid. When she submitted her fee application and proposed distribution, the trustee sought compensation in the maximum statutory amount of $35,891. Her counsel sought compensation in the amount of $20,556, and her accountant sought compensation in the amount of $3,432. Allowed unsecured and priority claims, other than professional fees, totaled $34,990. 383 B.R. at 492. The bankruptcy court reduced the trustee's fee award to $15,000, on the grounds that the amount the trustee requested pursuant to the statutory cap under 11 U.S.C. § 326(a)—$35,891—was disproportionate to the work the trustee was required to perform. The court also discounted the trustee's fees because of errors in her fee application. Id. at 496.

The facts of the pending case are similar to those in In re McKinney. Prepetition, Mary Palma entered into an agreement to sell the Property. Based on this prepetition sale agreement, the Trustee filed the Sale Motion. The Trustee did not hire a broker or negotiate the sale agreement. Brutzkus prepared the Sale Motion, the Objection to Exemption and the supporting reply. Because the Debtor did not reside at the Property on the petition date, the legal issues in the Objection to Exemption were relatively straightforward.

Three nonpriority unsecured claims were filed: two were filed by Mary Palma, and one was untimely filed by Christine Palma. Mary Palma's $60,000 unsecured claim was paid out of the Property's sale proceeds. The other filed claims will not be receiving any distribution from the Debtor's estate.

The Debtor's case shows "extraordinary circumstances" of the sort identified in In re Scoggins. The Trustee has voluntarily reduced his payable fees to $14,000. In light of the voluntary reductions in fees to be paid and the specific facts of the Debtor's case, the Court will allow the fees as follows:

Trustee – approve fees of $14,000 and reimbursement of expenses of $8.82.

Brutzkus, counsel to chapter 7 trustee – approve fees of $10,537.43 and reimbursement of expenses of $426.78.

LEA, accountant to chapter 7 trustee – approve fees of $2,611.28 and reimbursement of expenses of $112.06.

The chapter 7 trustee must submit the order within seven (7) days of the hearing.

Note: No response has been filed. Accordingly, no court appearance by the chapter 7 trustee or his/her professionals is required. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the Court will determine whether further hearing

Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 3020-1(b) provides that a postconfirmation status report must include:

- (1) A schedule listing for each debt and each class of claims: the total amount required to be paid under the plan; the amount required to be paid as of the date of the report; the amount actually paid as of the date of the report; and the deficiency, if any, in required payments; [and a]
- (2) A schedule of any and all postconfirmation tax liabilities that have accrued or come due and a detailed explanation of payments thereon[.]

In his Amended Post-Confirmation Status Report [doc. 124], the reorganized debtor did not include a schedule of plan payments pursuant to LBR 3020-1(b)(1) or a schedule of postconfirmation tax liabilities pursuant to LBR 3020-1(b)(2).

The reorganized debtor acknowledges that he has not made required payments to priority tax claimant(s). Because the reorganized debtor does not discuss the amount paid, and the amount due, it also is not clear if he has made all required plan payments to nonpriority unsecured creditors.

When will the reorganized debtor become current with these payments? The Court does not intend to enter a final decree unless and until the debtor is current with his plan payments.

Deny.

I. BACKGROUND

On July 18, 2014, Gingko Rose Ltd. ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition.

On March 19, 2015, the Court entered an order suspending this chapter 11 case (the "Stay Order") [doc. 255]. In the Stay Order, the Court stated that this case "is suspended until completion of the State Court Malicious Prosecution Case... or until further order of the court (the 'Interim Period') pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 305(a)...." The Stay Order provided that Debtor must comply with the provisions of 11 U.S.C. § 364.

On December 18, 2017, Debtor filed a motion to incur postpetition secured debt (the "Motion") [doc. 429] and the Declaration of David Darwish (the "Darwish Declaration") [doc. 430]. In the Motion, Debtor requests authority to execute a promissory note and deeds of trust in favor of Foirs, Inc. ("Foirs") in the amount of $3,321,781.05, which Debtor asserts is the amount Foirs paid to satisfy a judgment against Debtor.

In the Darwish Declaration, Mr. Darwish, a principal of Debtor, provides that Foirs is owned by his son and daughter. Darwish Declaration, ¶¶ 1-2. Mr. Darwish also attached several deeds of trust in favor of Foirs, dated December 1, 2017. Darwish Declaration, Exhibit B. Debtor has not provided a promissory note between Debtor and Foirs.

On January 3, 2018, judgment creditors Jack Vaughn, Esmeralda Hernandez, Wayne Hart, Carlos Rodriguez and Ernest Johnson ("Judgment Creditors") filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 434]. Judgment Creditors assert that Debtor cannot seek authorization by the Court to enter into a postpetition financing agreement after entering into that agreement. On January 12, 2018, Debtor filed a reply to the Opposition (the "Reply") [doc. 437]. In the Reply, Debtor states that the promissory note between Foirs and Debtor includes a provision that states that authorization by the Court is a condition precedent to executing the promissory note and that Foirs is entitled to equitable subrogation of its alleged lien.

II. ANALYSIS

Under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 4001(c)(1)(A), "[a] motion for authority to obtain credit... shall be accompanied by a copy of the credit agreement and a proposed form of order." Debtor has not provided the Court with a copy of the promissory note between Debtor and Foirs. Under FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B), a motion must include "all material provisions of the proposed credit agreement" as well as "describe the nature and extent of each provision" provided in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B). Debtor has also not provided this information, and, as a result, the Motion is procedurally improper. Nevertheless, the Court will address the merits below.

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 364(c)—

If the trustee is unable to obtain unsecured credit allowable under section 503(b)(1) of this title as an administrative expense, the court, after notice and a hearing, may authorize the obtaining of credit or the incurring of debt—

- (1) with priority over any or all administrative expenses of the kind specified in section 503(b) or 507(b) of this title;
- (2) secured by a lien on property of the estate that is not otherwise subject to a lien; or
- (3) secured by a junior lien on property of the estate that is subject to a lien.

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 364(d)(1)—

The court, after notice and a hearing, may authorize the obtaining of credit or the incurring of debt secured by a senior or equal lien on property of the estate that is subject to a lien only if—

(A) the trustee is unable to obtain such credit otherwise; and

(B) there is adequate protection of the interest of the holder of the lien on the property of the estate on which such senior or equal lien is proposed to be granted.

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 364(d)(2), "[i]n any hearing under this subsection, the trustee has the burden of proof on the issue of adequate protection." Courts have articulated a three-part test to determine whether a debtor is entitled to § 364(c) financing: (1) the trustee or the debtor is unable to obtain unsecured credit under § 364(b); (2) the credit transaction is necessary to preserve the assets of the estate; and (3) the terms of the transaction are fair, reasonable, and adequate given the circumstances of debtor and the proposed lender. In re Crouse Grp., Inc., 71 B.R. 544, 549 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 1987).

First, Debtor has not shown that it was unable to obtain unsecured credit. See In re Photo Promotion Assocs., Inc., 89 B.R. 328, 333 (S.D.N.Y. 1988) ("Section 364(c), therefore, is unavailable unless a prospective creditor has refused to extend credit under section 364(a)."). In fact, it appears Foirs was willing to extend credit (by paying off the judgment) without first obtaining a security interest in Debtor's property. As such, this element not being satisfied, the Motion may be denied on this basis alone.

Next, Debtor has not shown that the transaction is necessary to preserve the assets of the estate. In fact, Foirs apparently already paid Judgment Creditors. Debtor has not stated that Foirs intends to take any action against the estate if the Court does not approve this transaction. Consequently, this element is also not satisfied.

Moreover, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has "interpreted section 364(c)(2) as requiring a debtor to obtain the bankruptcy court's authorization before incurring secured debt." In re Harbin, 486 F.3d 510, 521 (9th Cir. 2007) (emphasis in Harbin). "[I]f the debtor fails to obtain prior authorization, the bankruptcy court may exercise its corrective power to rescind the transaction." Id. (citing In re McConville, 110 F.3d 47, 50 (9th Cir. 1997)). "[N]othing in the language of the Bankruptcy Code precludes the court from considering nunc pro tunc authorization of the refinancing as one possible remedy in response to the 'equities of the situation' before it." Id., at 522.

Here, Debtor asserts that the promissory note includes a condition precedent that conditions the effectiveness of the promissory note and deeds of trust on the Court's approval of the postpetition financing. However, Debtor has not attached the promissory note. The deeds of trust attached to the Darwish Declaration include no such language. As such, the evidence before the Court suggests that Debtor encumbered property of the estate without prior approval of the Court. Consequently, the Court may rescind the transaction. Harbin, at 521. In light of the above, the Court will deny Debtor's request to incur postpetition secured debt.

B. Equitable Subrogation

"[S]ubrogation is the substitution of one party in place of another with reference to a lawful claim, demand or right. It is a derivative right, acquired by satisfaction of the loss or claim that a third party has against another.... [W]hen the doctrine of subrogation applies, the subrogee succeeds to the legal rights and claims of the subrogor with respect to the loss or claim." In re Hamada, 291 F.3d 645, 649 (9th Cir. 2002). In Hamada, the court referred to California law on subrogation, "which provides for equitable subrogation if the party seeking subrogation meets five specific criteria." Id., at 651.

First, the claimant must have paid the debt owed to the lienholder in order to protect the claimant's own interest. Second, the claimant must not have acted as a volunteer. Third, the claimant could not have been primarily liable for the debt he paid. Fourth, the claimant must have paid the entire debt owed to the lienholder. And, fifth, the subrogation must not work an injustice to the rights of others.

Id. (quoting Fidelity Nat. Title Ins. Co. v. U.S. Dept. of the Treasury, I.R.S., 907 F.2d 868, 870 (9th Cir. 1990)).

First, the doctrine of equitable subrogation is a separate issue from Debtor's authority to incur postpetition debt. Debtor brings up equitable subrogation for the first time in the Reply, such that Judgment Creditors have not been given an opportunity to respond to this argument.

Nevertheless, equitable subrogation does not apply here. Nothing in the record demonstrates that Foirs paid the judgment to Judgment Creditors in order to protect Foirs' own interest or that the judgment was secured. Next, it is unclear if Foirs has paid the entire debt owed to Judgment Creditors, because Judgment Creditors are litigating appeals against Debtor, which Judgment Creditors assert may result in additional liability. Finally, it is unclear if Foirs acted as a volunteer. As a result, Debtor may not rely on equitable subrogation as a basis for the Court to grant Foirs any liens against property of the estate.

#11.00 U.S. Trustee's motion to amend order dismissing case to include a one-year bar to re-filing pursuant to 11 U.S.C.

fr. 1/11/18

Docket 15

Tentative Ruling:

If the debtor does not appear for cross-examination, or the Court determines after the debtor's cross-examination that the debtor did not file this case in good faith, the Court will grant the motion to amend the dismissal order to include a 180-day bar to re-filing.

Here, the case was dismissed because the debtor did not timely file his schedules and statements. 11 U.S.C. § 707(a). In addition to the debtor's noncompliance with 11 U.S.C. § 707(a), the U.S. Trustee seeks to amend the dismissal order to include the debtor's bad faith as another basis for dismissal of this case. Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 707(b)(3)—

(3) In considering under paragraph (1) whether the granting of relief would be an abuse of the provisions of this chapter in a case in which the presumption in paragraph (2)(A)(i) does not arise or is rebutted, the court shall consider—

- (A) whether the debtor filed the petition in bad faith; or
- (B) the totality of the circumstances (including whether the debtor seeks to reject a personal services contract and the financial need for such rejection as sought by the debtor) of the debtor's financial situation demonstrates abuse.

The following factors are generally considered when making a determination under § 707(b)(3)(A):

1. Whether the chapter 7 debtor has a likelihood of sufficient future income to fund a chapter 11, 12, or 13 plan which would pay a substantial portion of the unsecured claims;

2. Whether debtor's petition was filed as a consequence of illness, disability, unemployment, or other calamity;
3. Whether debtor obtained cash advances and consumer goods on credit exceeding his or her ability to repay;
4. Whether debtor's proposed family budget is excessive or extravagant;
5. Whether debtor's statement of income and expenses misrepresents debtor's financial condition;
6. Whether debtor made eve of bankruptcy purchases;
7. Whether debtor has a history of bankruptcy petition filings and dismissals;
8. Whether debtor has invoked the automatic stay for improper purposes, such as to delay or defeat state court litigation;
9. Whether egregious behavior is present.

In re Mitchell, 357 B.R. 142, 154-55 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2006); see also In re Siegenberg, 2007 WL 6371956, at *4 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. Jul. 30, 2007). No single factor is dispositive. Mitchell, 357 B.R. at 155.

Here, based on the debtor's repeated, dismissed bankruptcy cases and apparent inaccuracies in his latest petition, it appears that the motion is based on the seventh and ninth factors. Unless the debtor provides a reasonable explanation of his conduct, the Court is inclined to dismiss this case with a 180-day bar. 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a), 109 (g).

#3.00 Motion for relief from stay [AN]

WHITE, ZUCKERMAN, WARSAVSKY, LUNA & HUNT
VS
DEBTOR

fr. 1/10/17

Docket 68

Tentative Ruling:

On January 6, 2014, Oksana Grigorieva (the "Debtor") filed a chapter 13 petition. On October 10, 2014, the Court entered an order confirming the Debtor's chapter 13 plan [doc. 50]. Under the Debtor's chapter 13 plan (the "Plan"), the Debtor must pay a 14% dividend to nonpriority unsecured creditors. (Doc. 47, at p. 5.) The Plan also provides that: "[t]he Debtor shall incur no debt greater than $500.00 without prior court approval unless the debt is incurred in the ordinary course of business pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §1304(b) or for medical emergencies." (Id., at p. 5.)

On April 8, 2015, the Debtor retained White, Zuckerman, Warsavsky, Luna & Hunt ("Movant"), a forensic accounting firm, to obtain an increase in her monthly child support award. (Declaration of Lucie Mahserejian, ¶ 6.) According to Movant, in connection with Movant's services, the Debtor incurred a substantial bill in the amount of $230,887.24. A significant portion of the bill has been paid by the Debtor's child's father. However, there remains an unpaid postpetition balance of $108,887.24. (Id., ¶ 10k.)

In its reply, Movant describes the above debt as a "post-petition accounting debt." (Doc. 77, at p. 2.) However, despite the provisions of the Plan, neither the Debtor nor Movant sought or obtained Court approval to incur the debt allegedly owed to Movant. Because the Court did not authorize the retention of Movant, and the Debtor incurring a debt to Movant, the Court questions whether it is appropriate to grant relief from the automatic stay to allow Movant to pursue payment from the Debtor, outside of filing a claim to be paid through the Plan (if and to the extent that the claim is allowed).

Because the parties have not discussed the impact of the relevant Plan provision on Movant's request for relief, the Court intends to continue the hearing for the parties to provide briefing on this issue.

In addition, if Movant were permitted to seek a judgment against the Debtor from a nonbankruptcy court, and obtained such a judgment, it is unclear whether Movant intends to levy against the child support payments. Movant's pleadings contain conflicting representations regarding how Movant intends to collect on any judgment it obtains, prior to the Debtor's completion of the Plan.

The parties should be prepared to discuss a continued hearing date and associated briefing schedule.

Docket 29

Tentative Ruling:

Deny. Movant has not shown sufficient cause under 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) to warrant relief from the automatic stay to proceed with the nonbankruptcy action against the debtor. The Court also will not annul the automatic stay. Movant has not identified what, if any, acts were taken postpetition in violation of the stay.

On December 19, 2017, movant filed an adversary proceeding against the debtor, asserting claims for relief under 11 U.S.C. §§ 727(a) and 523(a)(2)(A), (a)(4) and (a)(6). This Court will adjudicate these claims in the pending adversary proceeding.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, movant may proceed against the non-debtor defendants in the nonbankruptcy action. Movant also retains any right to file a proof of claim in the debtor's bankruptcy case under 11 U.S.C. § 501.

Respondent must submit the order within seven (7) days.

Tentative Ruling:

11/15/2017 Tentative:

In accordance with the Court's order entered on October 30, 2017 [doc. 22], the parties should be prepared to discuss the following issues:

The plaintiff did not timely file the motion to compel. The discovery deadline expired on September 1, 2017, and the plaintiff did not file this motion until September 22, 2017.

The allegations in the complaint are based on the defendant's alleged misrepresentations regarding payroll and employee identification from the period between September 20, 2013 and September 20, 2014. In its interrogatories, the plaintiff requests information about the defendant's business for the past ten years. In light of the limited time period at issue in the complaint, the plaintiff should be prepared to discuss why these requests are not overbroad. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(1) ("Parties may obtain discovery regarding any nonprivileged matter that is relevant to any party's claim or defense and is proportional to the needs of the case....) (emphasis added); and Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(2)(C)(iii) ("On motion or on its own, the court must limit the frequency or extent of discovery otherwise allowed by these rules or by local rule if it determines that... the proposed discovery is outside the scope permitted by [Fed. R. Civ. P.] 26(b)(1).") (emphasis added).

In addition, the plaintiff did not timely lodge a scheduling order. The Court previously set a mediation deadline of September 15, 2017. Did the parties attend mediation?

fr. 4/19/17; 11/1/17; 11/15/17; 12/13/17

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

The plaintiff should be prepared to address whether the parties have set a date to depose the defendant and whether the plaintiff now has received the defendant's discovery responses. See Declaration of Carlo O. Reyes [doc. 34]. If the plaintiff has received the defendant's discovery responses, does the plaintiff intend to proceed with the pending motion to compel?

When do the parties intend to attend mediation? Have they been in touch with the mediator to set a mediation date?

Because the plaintiff did not timely submit the scheduling order, and in light of the discovery delays, the Court will set new dates and deadlines, as follows:

Deadline to complete one day of mediation: 2/28/18.

Deadline to file pretrial motions: 3/14/18.

Deadline to complete and submit pretrial stipulation in accordance with Local Bankruptcy Rule 7016-1: 3/28/18.

Pretrial: 1:30 p.m. on 4/11/18.

The Court will prepare the scheduling order.

If any of these deadlines are not satisfied, the Court will consider imposing sanctions against the party at fault pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule 7016-1(f) and (g).

fr. 6/7/17; 11/15/17

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

The Court will set this matter for trial for two days between February 28 and March 1, 2018 or during the week of June 25, 2018.

TRIAL BRIEFS:

The plaintiff's trial brief must be filed and served 28 days before trial.

The defendants' trial brief must be filed and served 21 days before trial.

Any reply brief by the plaintiff must be filed and served 14 days before trial.

WITNESS TESTIMONY:

Other than the debtors (as witnesses for the chapter 7 trustee and on their own behalf), and any other witness if and to the extent that witness would qualify as a hostile witness for the party which is calling that witness, the Court will evaluate all direct testimony by declaration. Witnesses may be cross-examined live at trial.

The declarations of the plaintiff's witnesses, in lieu of live direct testimony, must be filed and served 28 days before trial.

The declarations of the defendants' witnesses, in lieu of live direct testimony, and any evidentiary objections to the declarations filed by the plaintiff must be filed and served 21 days before trial.

Any evidentiary objections to the declarations filed by the defendants must be filed and served 14 days before trial.

Fourteen (14) days before trial, the parties also must file a joint witness schedule setting forth the time and date (e.g., which day and a.m. or p.m.) for the direct examination (if applicable) and cross-examination of each witness.

Any responses to the evidentiary objections must be filed and served 7 days before trial.

The Court will NOT consider the testimony of any witnesses who were not identified on a party's witness list, and will not consider the testimony of any witness which is not relevant to the issues of fact and law for trial.

EXHIBITS:

All trial exhibits must be numbered and marked as required by Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 9070-1(a).

The Court will NOT consider any exhibit that was not identified on a party's exhibit list, and will not consider any exhibit which is not relevant to the issues of fact and law for trial.

One week prior to trial, each party must deliver to the chambers of Judge Victoria S. Kaufman the original and one copy of a notebook containing all of that party's trial exhibits, or the parties may deliver a joint exhibit notebook.

The Court will issue an order incorporating its trial procedures, the related deadlines and the trial dates.

fr. 1/10/18

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

The parties have filed an updated joint status report consenting to entry of a final judgment by this Court.

At the last status conferece, the Court ordered the plaintiff's counsel, Farrah Mirabel, to appear personally at this continued status conference. Ms. Mirabel should be prepared to discuss the dates and deadlines proposed in the tentative ruling from the last status conference, below.

1/10/2018 Tentative:

In her answer [doc. 3], filed on December 19, 2017, the defendant requested a jury trial. The parties do not have a right to a jury trial in a nondischargeability action under 11 U.S.C. § 523. In re Hashemi, 104 F.3d 1122, 1124-25 (9th Cir. 1996); In re Sasson, 424 F.3d 864, 869-70 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2005); and In re Valle, 469 B.R. 35 (Bankr. D. Idaho 2012).

In the parties' joint status report [doc. 4], the plaintiff did not indicate whether he consents to entry of a final judgment by this Court. If the plaintiff does not consent, does the plaintiff contend that the Court requires the plaintiff's consent to enter a final judgment regarding an action based on 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2), (a)(4) and/or (a)(6)? See Stern v. Marshall, 564 U.S. 462, 131 S.Ct. 2594 (2011).

Parties should be prepared to discuss the following:

Deadline to complete discovery: 3/15/18.

In accordance with Local Bankruptcy Rule 7016-1(a)(4), within seven (7) days after this status conference, the plaintiff must submit a Scheduling Order.

If any of these deadlines are not satisfied, the Court will consider imposing sanctions against the party at fault pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule 7016-1(f) and (g).

#4.00 U.S. Trustee's motion to dismiss or convert case with an order directing payment of quarterly fees and for judgment thereon

fr. 12/14/17

Docket 124

Tentative Ruling:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1112(b)(1) and (4)(F) and (K), this case will be dismissed

On November 16, 2017, the United States Trustee filed a motion to dismiss or convert the reorganized debtors' pending chapter 11 case (the "Motion") [doc. 124]. On December 14, 2017, the Court held an initial hearing on the Motion. The reorganized debtors did not appear.

On December 19, 2017, the Court issued a Notice of Continued Hearing on the United States Trustee's Motion Under 11 U.S.C. § 1112(b) to Dismiss or Convert Case ("Notice") [doc. 128]. The Notice informed the reorganized debtors of possible adverse consequences that could result from the dismissal or conversion of this case. The Notice instructed the reorganized debtors to file a response to the Motion no later than January 11, 2018 and directed the reorganized debtors to appear on January 25, 2018 at 1:00 p.m. for a continued hearing on the Motion.

The reorganized debtors have not filed a response to the Motion.

Based on the approved Disclosure Statement [doc. 50], it appears that the conversion of this case to chapter 7 will not generate a return to unsecured creditors. Thus, rather than converting this case to one under chapter 7, the Court will dismiss this case.

Movant must submit an order within seven (7) days.

Note: No response has been filed. Accordingly, no court appearance by movant is required. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the Court will determine whether further hearing is required and movant will be so notified.

Ruling from 12/14/17

Based on the issues discussed below, the Court intends to continue this hearing in order for further written notice to be provided to Alexander and Maria Benavides (the "Reorganized Debtors") about the potential economic consequences of dismissal or conversion of their chapter 11 case.

On November 11, 2015, the Reorganized Debtors filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. At that time, the Court was concerned that the Reorganized Debtors were better suited to effectuate their financial reorganization under chapter 13. After that issue was addressed by the Reorganized Debtors, the Court did not interfere with their choice to reorganize under chapter 11.

On January 5, 2016, the Deutsche Bank National Trust Company ("Deutsche Bank") filed a Motion to Approve Stipulation for Plan Treatment on First Lien Secured by Real Property at 1722 South Berendo Street, Los Angeles, CA 90006 ("Motion to Approve Stipulation") [doc. 24]. Under the terms of the stipulation ("Stipulation"), the Reorganized Debtors' real property, located at 1722 South Berendo Street, Los Angeles, CA 90006 (the "Property"), was to be valued at $325,000. Under the chapter 11 plan, Deutsche Bank would have a secured claim of $325,000 and an unsecured claim of approximately $244,503.07, and the unsecured claim would be reduced to $0 upon plan confirmation. Monthly payments to Deutsche Bank would be made pursuant to the Stipulation. (Doc. 24-1, at ¶¶ 2–8.) The Stipulation further provided that if the Reorganized Debtors' case is dismissed or converted, Deutsche Bank's lien shall remain a valid secured lien for the full amount due under the original promissory note, and that all payments received under the Stipulation will be applied contractually under the original terms of the deed of trust and original promissory note. (Id., ¶ 18.) On January 28, 2016, the Court entered an order granting the Motion to Approve Stipulation [doc. 42].

On March 25, 2016, the Reorganized Debtors filed an Individual Debtor's Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization ("Plan") [doc. 51]. The Plan incorporated the terms of the Stipulation. On September 27, 2016, the Court entered an order confirming the Plan ("Plan Confirmation Order") [doc. 98]. The Plan Confirmation Order provided that the Reorganized Debtors would not be entitled to receive a discharge until they make all required payments to the holders of unclassified claims, priority claims, and general unsecured claims. (Plan Confirmation Order, ¶ 5.)

On October 5, 2017, the Reorganized Debtors filed a Debtors-in-Possession's Post Confirmation Report on Status of Reorganization ("Status Report") [doc. 119]. In the declaration attached to the Status Report, the Reorganized Debtors stated that they are current on payments to all creditors and that they had completed all their payments to unsecured creditors. The Reorganized Debtors also stated their intent to file a motion for discharge and final decree on or before January 15, 2018. (Declaration of Alexander Benavides and Maria Enriqueta Benavides, doc. 119, ¶¶ 5, 7, 10.)

On November 13, 2017, the Reorganized Debtors' counsel filed a Motion to Withdraw as Counsel of Record for Debtor[s] and Debtor[s]-in-Possession ("Motion to Withdraw") [doc. 121]. Following the hearing held on December 7, 2017, the Court granted the Motion to Withdraw.

On November 16, 2017, the United States Trustee ("UST") filed the pending motion to dismiss or convert the Reorganized Debtors' chapter 11 case ("Motion to Dismiss or Convert") [doc. 124]. Contrary to UST requirements, the Reorganized Debtors have not filed post-confirmation quarterly reports for the second and third quarters of 2017. UST fees are also due in the amount of $650 for the third quarter of 2017. If the case is dismissed or converted, the Reorganized Debtors will own a minimum of $325 in UST fees for 4Q of 2017.

Given that the Reorganized Debtors' counsel is no longer representing them, the Court is concerned that the Reorganized Debtors may be unaware of the possible ramifications of the Motion to Dismiss or Convert, i.e., despite the Court having confirmed the Plan, the Stipulation will become ineffective, the terms of their secured debt will revert to the pre-petition terms, and, if the case is dismissed at this time, the Reorganized Debtors may not get a discharge.

In order to provide a written notice to the Reorganized Debtors that discusses the potential consequences of dismissal or conversion of their chapter 11 case, before the Court rules on the Motion to Dismiss or Convert, the Court will continue the hearing.

#5.00 Confirmation of Third Amended Chapter 11 Plan

Docket 196

Tentative Ruling:

The Court will continue the hearing to March 22, 2018 at 1:00 p.m. to allow the debtor to serve correctly, on the Internal Revenue Service, notice of the plan confirmation hearing and the solicitation package. No later than January 26, 2018, the debtor must file and serve notice of the continued plan confirmation hearing and associated deadlines on the Internal Revenue Service (the "IRS") and rectify the following service errors:

The debtor's Third Amended Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization Filed by Debtor As Revised on November 15, 2017 (the "Plan") [doc. 209] lists the IRS as a priority tax claimant to be paid through the Plan. (Plan, at p. 5.) Pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 2002(b), the IRS is entitled to notice of the Plan confirmation hearing.

On December 13, 2017, the debtor filed a proof of service of the solicitation package [doc. 216]. The proof of service indicates that the debtor did not serve the solicitation package on the Internal Revenue Service in accordance with Local Bankruptcy Rule 2002-2(c) and Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 5003(e) and use the addresses set forth in the "Register of Federal and State Government Unit Addresses [F.R.B.P. 5003(e)]" listed in the Court Manual under Appendix D, available on the Court's website, www.cacb.uscourts.gov, under "Rules & Procedures." On February 9, 2017, after noting the debtor's deficient service method, the Court previously instructed the debtor on how to serve the IRS.

The debtor must serve the notice and the other materials on the IRS at the addresses noted above. The notice of continued confirmation hearing sent to the IRS must contain the following deadlines:

- Continued hearing on confirmation of the Plan: March 15, 2018 at 1:00 p.m.
- Deadline for the debtor to mail to the IRS the approved disclosure statement, the Plan, and to file and serve notice of: (1) the continued confirmation hearing and (2) the deadline to file objections to confirmation: January 26, 2018.
- Deadline to file and serve any objections to confirmation: February 23, 2018.

On December 11, 2017, the Court entered an Order Setting (1) Deadlines Concerning Amended Chapter 11 Plan and Disclosure Statement and (2) Continued Status Conference ("Scheduling Order") [doc. 107]. Pursuant to the Scheduling Order, the debtor was to file an amended chapter 11 plan and disclosure statement no later than January 12, 2018. The debtor also was instructed to appear at a continued status conference on January 25, 2018 at 1:00 p.m. If no amended chapter 11 plan and disclosure statement were filed by January 12, 2018, the debtor was instructed to file a status report no later than January 11, 2018.

On January 11, 2018, the debtor filed an amended chapter 11 plan and disclosure statement [docs. 113, 114]. The Court intends to set a hearing on the approval of the debtor's amended disclosure statement for March 8, 2018 at 1:00 p.m. No later than January 25, 2018, the debtor must serve notice of the amended disclosure statement hearing and the deadline to file any objections to the amended disclosure statement.

The Court will continue this status conference to March 8, 2018 at 1:00 p.m., to coincide with the hearing on the approval of the debtor's amended disclosure statement. #7.00 Motion of United States Trustee to appoint a chapter 11 trustee

Grant.

I. BACKGROUND

On October 6, 2017, five days before filing her chapter 11 petition, Mehri Akhlaghpour ("Debtor") executed six promissory notes in favor of Emymac, Inc. ("Emymac") in the amount of $1,164,750. Declaration of Mehri Akhlaghpour ("Akhlaghpour Declaration") [doc. 60], Exhibits 1-6. On the same day, Debtor executed a deed of trust in favor of Emymac, encumbering all of her real properties. Akhlaghpour Declaration, Exhibit 7.

On October 11, 2017, Debtor filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. On October 25, 2017, Debtor filed her schedules and statements [doc. 11]. In her schedule A/B, Debtor indicated she has an interest in six real properties. In her schedule D, Debtor listed first priority liens against each real property. Debtor also listed six second priority liens in varying amounts in favor of Emymac, totaling $1,164,750. Debtor did not list the proceeds from the promissory notes anywhere in her schedules. Debtor also did not indicate how the proceeds were used in her Statement of Financial Affairs.

In her latest-amended schedule A/B [doc. 59], Debtor indicated she has an interest in a trust and noted that the value of the trust is "largely duplicative" of the value listed in her schedule A/B. On December 13, 2017, Debtor provided a copy of the trust documents. Akhlaghpour Declaration, Exhibit 8. The trust agreement reflects that the trust is revocable trust, and that the trust holds all of Debtor's scheduled real properties. Id.

In her schedule I, Debtor represented that she is an accountant and the Chief Executive Officer of MBA Tax Consultant, Inc. ("MBA"). Aside from MBA, Debtor listed an interest in seven other corporations in her schedule A/B. In her latest-amended schedule I [doc. 59], Debtor scheduled $20,666.67 in monthly gross wages, salary and commissions. Debtor also listed $8,000 in monthly payments of interest and dividends. Debtor did not list any income generated from rental properties. In contrast, in her most recent monthly operating report, for December 2017 [doc. 85], Debtor indicated she receives a total of $10,375 in rental income from five of her real properties. It is unclear if Debtor's scheduled $20,666.67 in gross wages, salary and commissions includes the rental income generated from her rental properties.

On November 10, 2017, Mehrdad Vafi filed a complaint against Debtor, requesting nondischargeability of the debt owed to him pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2)(A), (a)(4) and (a)(6) based on Mr. Vafi's allegations that Debtor embezzled funds and defrauded Mr. Vafi [1:17-ap-01091-VK]. Attached to the complaint is a decision by the state court (the "State Court Decision"), issued after trial, in which the state court indicated its intention to enter a judgment finding that Debtor is liable for breach of fiduciary duty, conversion and fraud and awarding Mr. Vafi $1,164,780.28. The State Court Decision is dated September 11, 2017, i.e., less than one month before Debtor filed her chapter 11 petition.

In the State Court Decision, the state court noted that Debtor was Mr. Vafi's accountant and tax preparer, and that Debtor had a power of attorney allowing Debtor to file Mr. Vafi's returns. State Court Decision, p. 3. The state court also noted that Mr. Vafi would provide blank checks to Debtor, believing that Debtor would use the checks to pay Mr. Vafi's taxes. Id. The state court found that, instead of using the checks to pay Mr. Vafi's taxes, Debtor would deposit the checks into MBA's account and keep the funds for her own use. State Court Decision, p. 4.

On December 5, 2017, Kamboozia Zarrabi and Farideh Akhlaghpour filed a complaint against Debtor, requesting nondischargeability of the debt owed to them pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2)(A), (a)(4) and (a)(6) based on their allegations that Debtor embezzled funds and defrauded them [1:17-ap-01102-VK]. On January 3, 2018, TJ's Metal Manufacturing, Inc. ("TJ's") filed a complaint against Debtor, also requesting nondischargeability of the debt owed to it pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2)(A), (a)(4) and (a)(6) based on its allegations that Debtor embezzled funds and defrauded TJ's [1:18-ap-01002-VK].

On December 29, 2017, the U.S. Trustee (the "UST") filed a motion to appoint a chapter 11 trustee (the "Motion") [doc. 68]. On January 11, 2018, Debtor filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 84]. In the Opposition, Debtor asserts that Emymac made loans to her between 2015 and 2017, based on a verbal agreement between the parties; according to Debtor, Debtor executed the promissory notes and the deed of trust to put the verbal loan agreements into writing. Debtor also states that she and MBA have repaid some of the debt owed to Emymac. On January 18, 2018, the UST filed a reply to the Opposition (the "Reply") [doc. 88]. In the Reply, the UST notes that Debtor previously told the UST that NBS Medical Management, Inc. paid Emymac, not MBA.

II. ANALYSIS

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1104—

- (a) At any time after the commencement of the case but before confirmation of a plan, on request of a party in interest or the United States trustee, and after notice and a hearing, the court shall order the appointment of a trustee—
  - (1) for cause, including fraud, dishonesty, incompetence, or gross mismanagement of the affairs of the debtor by current management, either before or after the commencement of the case, or similar cause, but not including the number of holders of securities of the debtor or the amount of assets or liabilities of the debtor; or
  - (2) if such appointment is in the interests of creditors, any equity security holders, and other interests of the estate, without regard to the number of holders of securities of the debtor or the amount of assets or liabilities of the debtor.

"The parties seeking appointment of a Chapter 11 trustee under 11 U.S.C. § 1112(b) (1) and/or 1104(a) have the burden of proving appropriate grounds exist for such appointment by the preponderance of the evidence." In re Corona Care Convalescent Corp., 527 B.R. 379, 384 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2015). "Cause and best interest of creditors and other parties are separate and independent bases for granting a motion to appoint a trustee under 11 U.S.C. § 1104(a)." Id. "The list of the enumerated 'causes' under Section 1104(a)(1) of the Bankruptcy Code, 11 U.S.C., is nonexhaustive." In re Pasadena Adult Residential Care, Inc., 2015 WL 6443216, at *14 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. Oct. 23, 2015) (citing In re Bellevue Place Assocs., 171 B.R. 615, 622-623 (Bankr. N.D. Ill. 1994)).

Here, there is cause to appoint a chapter 11 trustee pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1104(a)(1). In addition, appointment of a chapter 11 trustee is in the best interests of creditors pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1104(a)(2).

First, Debtor has not been forthcoming regarding the scheduled secured debt in favor of Emymac. Debtor executed the promissory notes and the deed of trust in favor of Emymac five days before filing her bankruptcy petition. To date, Debtor has not amended her schedules and/or statements to disclose whether she has the loan proceeds (if there were any) or, if not, to which entity she has transferred the alleged loan proceeds.

In the Opposition, Debtor asserts that Emymac loaned her the subject funds between 2015 and 2017 and that Debtor has repaid some of the loans. Debtor indicated in her schedule D that she owes Emymac a total of $1,164,750, the same amount reflected in the promissory notes. [FN1]

According to Debtor, Emymac entered into verbal agreements to loan over $1.6 million to Debtor and to refrain from recording any deeds of trust against Debtor's real properties. There is no corresponding testimony by a representative of Emymac. Debtor's characterization of these transactions is not credible. Why would Emymac loan Debtor in excess of $1 million without concurrently obtaining a written agreement or promissory notes and without concurrently recording a security interest in Debtor's property? A chapter 11 trustee should investigate such issues as whether Emymac actually made such loans and whether Emymac is an independent party or is related to Debtor.

Although Debtor asserts in her declaration that she may have to file an action to avoid the transfers to Emymac, she does not state that she intends to file such actions. A chapter 11 trustee is in the best position to investigate the alleged loans and the transfers and to file an action avoiding them, if such an action is warranted. Only a bankruptcy trustee or a debtor in possession may file an avoidance action; creditors cannot pursue these actions themselves. 11 U.S.C. § 544.

Aside from the questions raised on account of Debtor's significant, recent transfers to Emymac, Debtor also has provided inconsistent numbers regarding her income and expenses. To date, it is unclear how much income Debtor receives from operating her businesses and how much she receives from renting her real properties. Finally, at least one of Debtor's creditors, Mr. Vafi, obtained a ruling by the state court indicating that Debtor misappropriated Mr. Vafi's funds. Two other creditors have filed complaints against Debtor for embezzlement, misappropriation and fraud. In light of the above, the UST has met its burden of proving, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the Court should appoint a chapter 11 trustee.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will grant the Motion and order the appointment of a chapter 11 trustee.

The UST must submit an order within seven (7) days.

FOOTNOTES

1. Less than one month prior to Debtor's execution of the promissory notes, the state court issued a tentative ruling awarding Mr. Vafi $1,164,780.28. Debtor's assertion that she owes Emymac an amount that is almost identical to what she owes Mr. Vafi raises questions that are appropriately investigated by a chapter 11 trustee.

I. BACKGROUND

On October 27, 2009, petitioning creditors Joseph Fahs, Steven Chapnick and Elizabeth Tagle filed an involuntary chapter 11 petition against Georges Marciano ("Debtor"). On December 28, 2010, the Court entered an Order for Relief [doc. 161]. Prepetition, Alain Bonavida had represented Mr. Fahs in a state court action against Debtor. Declaration of Alain V. Bonavida ("Bonavida Declaration") [doc. 2983], ¶ 2.

The Court set a claims bar date of May 15, 2012. To date, Mr. Bonavida has not filed a claim against the estate, nor has Debtor indicated that Mr. Bonavida has a claim against the estate. On May 16, 2013, David K. Gottlieb, as the chapter 11 trustee (the "Trustee"), filed a motion for an order approving a settlement agreement (the "Settlement Agreement") [docs. 2073, 2123] with Debtor, certain entities under Debtor's control and various third parties, including Mr. Fahs. On May 30, 2013, the Court entered an order approving the Settlement Agreement [doc. 2122]. Mr. Bonavida was not a party to the Settlement Agreement. In relevant part, the Settlement Agreement provided for a $10 million distribution from the estate to Mr. Fahs. Settlement Agreement, p. 47.

On May 23, 2013, Alain Bonavida, Mr. Fahs' prior state court counsel, filed a notice of an attorneys' lien in this case (the "Notice of Lien") [doc. 2091]. On October 29, 2013, the Trustee filed a fourth amended chapter 11 plan of liquidation (the "Plan") [doc. 2413]. The Trustee had previously filed the related disclosure statement (the "Disclosure Statement") [doc. 2007]. On December 2, 2013, the Court entered an order confirming the Plan (the "Confirmation Order") [doc. 2471]. Neither the Plan nor the Disclosure Statement provides for any distribution to Mr. Bonavida. The Plan and the Disclosure Statement also do not refer to Mr. Bonavida as a holder of a claim against the estate.

After confirmation of the Plan, David K. Gottlieb, as plan administrator (the "Plan Administrator") routinely filed post-confirmation status reports (collectively, the "Status Reports") [docs.2749, 2855, 2915, 2944, 2966, 2970, 2976]. The Plan Administrator noted in the Status Reports that he was withholding 40% of the funds owed to Mr. Fahs based on a dispute between Mr. Bonavida and Mr. Fahs. Specifically, Mr. Bonavida asserted a lien against the funds owed to Mr. Fahs based on an alleged prepetition fee agreement between the parties. In the Status Report, the Plan Administrator repeatedly noted that he was attempting to obtain the parties' cooperation in interpleading the disputed funds to state court, where the parties were litigating their dispute. Apparently, the parties did not reach an agreement [doc. 2976].

On July 3, 2014, Mr. Bonavida filed a complaint against Mr. Fahs in state court. Declaration of David C. Wheeler ("Wheeler Declaration") [doc. 2979], ¶ 2. Mr. Bonavida dismissed this action before the case went to trial. Wheeler Declaration, ¶ 3. On April 21, 2017, Mr. Bonavida filed another complaint against Mr. Fahs. Wheeler Declaration, ¶ 4. On November 29, 2017, the Court entered a judgment in this action (the "State Court Judgment"), finding that Mr. Bonavida "shall recover nothing" from Mr. Fahs. Wheeler Declaration, ¶ 5, Exhibit 2. Mr. Bonavida appealed the State Court Judgment. Bonavida Declaration, ¶ 17.

On December 13, 2017, Mr. Fahs filed a motion for an order directing the disbursement of the reserve funds to Mr. Fahs (the "Disbursement Motion") [doc. 2979]. On December 28, 2017, Mr. Bonavida filed an opposition to the Motion [doc. 2983]. On January 3, 2018, the Plan Administrator filed a response to the Motion [doc. 2985]. The Plan Administrator did not take sides, but noted that this is the last issue remaining before this case may be closed.

On January 11, 2018, the Court held a hearing on the Disbursement Motion. At that time, the Court issued a ruling granting the Disbursement Motion and instructing Mr. Fahs to submit a proposed order within seven days. On January 12, 2018, Mr. Fahs lodged a proposed order (the "Proposed Order") [doc. 2987]. On January 18, 2018, Mr. Bonavida opposed the Proposed Order [doc. 2988], asserting that the Court ruled that Mr. Bonavida could post a bond to stay the Proposed Order. On the same day, Mr. Bonavida filed an ex parte application requestin a stay of the Proposed Order (the "Application") [doc. 2990] and an application for an order setting the hearing on the Application on shortened notice [doc. 2992]. In the Application, Mr. Bonavida requests an opportunity to post a bond in order to stay the Proposed Order.

On January 18, 2018, the Court entered an order setting the hearing on the Application on shortened notice (the "OST Order") [doc. 2995]. In the OST Order, the Court instructed any opposing party to file and serve an opposition no later than January 23, 2018 at 12:00 p.m.

On January 23, 2018, Mr. Fahs timely filed an opposition to the Application (the "Opposition") [doc. 3004]. In the Opposition, Mr. Fahs states that this Court does not have jurisdiction over the underlying dispute between the parties. On the same day, Mr. Fahs filed evidentiary objections to Mr. Bonavida's declaration attached to the Application [doc. 3005].

II. ANALYSIS

A. The Court Will Approve Entry of the Proposed Order

Mr. Bonavida's opposition to the Proposed Order provides that the Proposed Order should include language providing that the Proposed Order is stayed if Mr. Bonavida posts a bond. However, at the hearing on the Disbursement Motion, the Court did not state that the Proposed Order would only be entered if Mr. Bonavida did not post a bond. The Proposed Order will be entered in its current form. If Mr. Bonavida were entitled to post a bond, which he is not, the Court would enter a separate order staying the Proposed Order.

B. Mr. Bonavida Cannot Post a Bond as a Matter of Right under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 62(d)

As a preliminary matter, Mr. Fahs' arguments in the Opposition are inapposite. First, whether this Court has jurisdiction over the underlying dispute is not at issue in the Application. At the hearing on the Disbursement Motion, the Court ruled that this Court does not have jurisdiction over the underlying dispute between Mr. Fahs and

Mr. Bonavida. In light of that, the Court held that Mr. Bonavida had not provided legal authority that would compel this Court to order the Plan Administrator to continue holding funds. However, the Court does have jurisdiction over its own orders, including regarding whether to order a stay of the Proposed Order. Mr. Fahs has not provided any legal basis that would prevent this Court from issuing a stay of one of its own orders. The Court will also not treat the Application as a motion for reconsideration. Mr. Bonavida is not asking the Court to reevaluate its decision on the Disbursement Motion. Mr. Bonavida is requesting a stay until he can appeal the Proposed Order. Nevertheless, Mr. Bonavida is not entitled to post a bond as a matter of right.

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 7062, Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("FRCP") 62 applies in adversary proceedings. Pursuant to FRCP 62 (d), "[i]f an appeal is taken, the appellant may obtain a stay by supersedeas bond.... The bond may be given upon or after filing the notice of appeal or after obtaining the order allowing the appeal. The stay takes effect when the court approves the bond."

"The posting of a supersedeas bond under Rule 7062(d) in an amount approved by the court gives the [appellant] an absolute right to a stay pending appeal." In re Byrd, 172 B.R. 970, 974 (Bankr. W.D. Wash. 1994) (citing In re Swift Aire Lines, Inc., 21 B.R. 12 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1982)). However, courts dispute which types of judgments or orders give rise to an absolute right to a stay pending appeal. FRCP 62(a) and 62(d) exempt only two types of orders or judgments from being subject to a stay pending appeal: (1) "an interlocutory or final judgment in an action for an injunction or a receivership;" and (2) "a judgment or order that directs an accounting in an action for patent infringement." FRCP 62(a)(1), (a)(2).

Nevertheless, courts have consistently stated that FRCP 62(d) "pertains primarily, if not exclusively, to monetary judgments." In re Fullmer, 323 B.R. 287, 291 (Bankr. D. Nev. 2005); see also In re Capital West Investors, 180 B.R. 240, 242–43 (N.D. Cal. 1995) (holding that a plan confirmation order did not qualify as a money judgment giving rise to a stay as a matter of right under FRCP 62(d)); Government Guarantee Fund of Finland v. Hyatt Corp., 167 F.R.D. 399, 400 (D. Va. 1996) (same as to an injunction order). "The Seventh and Ninth Circuits have given clear effect to the limitation (of the stay of right to appeals from money judgments)...." Capital West, 180 B.R. at 242–43; see also National Labor Relations Board v. Westphal, 859 F.2d 818, 819 (9th Cir. 1988) (appeal from an order directing subpoena compliance).

There appears to be no bright line rule regarding which orders or judgments count as "money judgments" for purposes of FRCP 62(d). The Bankruptcy Appellate Panel of the Ninth Circuit has held that FRCP 62(d) applies to money judgments "from which a writ of execution can issue." Swift Aire Lines, 21 B.R. at 13-14; In re Wymer, 5 B.R. 802, 804 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1980).

Most other cases do not include the specific language regarding writs of execution. In Capital West, the court summarized the general approach of courts as follows: "When an appeal is taken from a judgment that is not a money judgment or an exception of Rule 62(a) within the strict meaning of those terms, but is comparable to one or the other of these judgments, most of the few courts that have addressed the issue appear (for purposes for Rule 62) to treat that judgment like the judgment to which it is comparable." Capital West, 180 B.R. at 243. Under this reasoning, the relevant question is whether the Proposed Order is comparable to a money judgment or to an action for an injunction.

Although there are no cases with facts exactly similar to the facts here, there are several analogous cases within this circuit. For instance, in In re Hatten, 2012 WL 1205865, at *1 (Bankr. D. Alaska Apr. 10, 2010), the bankruptcy court held that a judgment authorizing a trustee to disburse funds in the bankruptcy estate in accordance with 11 U.S.C. § 726 is not a money judgment. The bankruptcy court did not provide any reasoning for this holding, but the judgment authorizing distribution is the most analogous order to the Proposed Order.

In addition, in In re Commercial Money Ctr., Inc., 2005 WL 6479803, at *3 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. Aug. 1, 2005), the bankruptcy court found that a turnover portion of a judgment, which required turnover of bonds and other collateral, was more analogous to a mandatory injunction than to a money judgment. Other courts have also held that turnover orders are more similar to mandatory injunctions than to money judgments. See, e.g., Diaz-Barbra v. Kismet Acquisition, LLC, 2008 WL 4093802, at *2 (S.D. Cal. Sep. 3, 2008) (holding that turnover of real property is not equivalent to a money judgment); In re Great Western Coal, Inc., 146 B.R. 702, 704 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 1992) (holding that an order for turnover of funds in the court's registry was not a money judgment); and In re Wildlife Center, Inc., 102 B.R. 321, 322 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 1989) (holding that order requiring turnover of stallion certificate similar to an injunction).

Under these authorities, the Proposed Order is more comparable to a mandatory injunction (ordering the Plan Administrator to do something) than a money judgment. See Mandatory Injunction, Black's Law Dictionary (10th ed. 2014) (defining "mandatory injunction" as "[a]n injunction that orders an affirmative act or mandates a specified course of conduct"). The Proposed Order does not award Mr. Fahs any money. That amount had already been awarded to Mr. Fahs pursuant to the Settlement Agreement. Instead, the Proposed Order merely instructs the Plan Administrator to release the funds to Mr. Fahs.

Moreover, in Capital West, the court provided a detailed analysis of why a plan confirmation order did not qualify as a "money judgment" for purposes of FRCP 62 (d). Capital West, 180 B.R. at 241-45. In relevant part, the court found:

Where, like the typical order of confirmation in bankruptcy, an order makes multiple provisions, e.g., for both injunctive and monetary relief, the Court may (or may be required to) stay execution of the order as to some of its provisions but not others. See 11 Wright & Miller § 2905, at 325-26 (indicating that "[i]f a judgment includes both a money award and the grant or denial of an injunction, a supersedeas stays the money award but not that the part of the judgment that deals with injunctive relief"). Thus, a portion of the Order comparable to a money judgment may be subject to a stay as a matter of right, whereas a portion comparable to an injunction may not be subject to a stay at all.

Whatever the merits of such an approach in the ordinary case, separate analysis of the components of an order is inappropriate in analyzing a bankruptcy order confirming a plan of reorganization. Unlike the components of a garden-variety order, the components of an order confirming a plan of reorganization are interdependent. While execution on one component of a garden-variety order can generally be stayed pending appeal without affecting those components that are not stayed, the same is not true of an order confirming a plan of reorganization in bankruptcy.

Whether or not more like the one than the other, an order confirming a plan of reorganization, taken as an aggregate of its components, however multi-varied, is not comparable to a money judgment or a judgment in an action for an injunction or receivership, or an order directing an accounting in an action for infringement of letters of patent. An order confirming a Chapter 11 plan simply represents the court's determination that the plan passes muster under 11 U.S.C. § 1129, e.g., that the plan is fair and equitable, does not unfairly discriminate, and is not proposed by any means forbidden by law.

Id., at 244–45. Here, the Proposed Order instructed the Plan Administrator to release funds in accordance with the Plan. It would be incongruous to deem the Proposed Order a "money judgment" if the Confirmation Order giving rise to the Proposed Order would not be considered a money judgment. Because the Proposed Order is not a "money judgment" as that phrase is defined in this circuit, Mr. Bonavida does not have a right to an automatic stay of the Proposed Order pursuant to FRCP 62(d).

C. Mr. Bonavida is Also Not Entitled to a Discretionary Stay Pending Appeal

Pursuant to FRBP 8007(a)(1)(A), "[o]rdinarily, a party must move first in the bankruptcy court for...a stay of judgement, order, or decree of the bankruptcy court pending appeal."

"A court has considerable discretion when determining whether to issue a stay pending appeal." In re GGW Brands, LLC, 2013 WL 6906375, at *10 (Bankr. C.D. Cal Nov. 15, 2013) (citing to Nken v. Holder, 556 U.S. 418, 433-34, 129 S.Ct. 1749, 1761, 173 L.Ed.2d 550 (2009)). "Although the decision whether to stay proceedings is dependent on the circumstances of the particular case, '[a] discretionary stay should be sparingly employed and reserved for the exceptional situation.'" GGW Brands, at *10 (citing In re O'Kelley, 2010 WL 3984666, at *4 (D. Haw. 2010)). The party requesting a stay { "pageset": "S63 bears the burden of "showing that the circumstances justify an exercise of that discretion." Nken, at 556 U.S. at 433-34.

The court considers four factors when determining whether to issue a stay pending appeal:

1. Whether the stay applicant has a made a strong showing that he is likely to succeed on the merits
2. Whether the applicant will be irreparably harmed
3. Whether the issuance of the stay will substantially injure the other parties interested in the proceeding; and
4. Where the public interest lies

Id., at 434 (quoting Hilton v. Braunskill, 481 U.S. 770, 776 (1987)); see also In re N. Plaza, LLC, 395 B.R. 113, 119 (S.D. Cal. 2008)

The four factors may be weighed in a sliding scale, "where a stronger showing of one element may offset a weaker showing of another" All. for the Wild Rockies v. Cottrell, 632 F.3d 1127, 1131 (9th Cir. 2011).

1. Whether Mr. Bonavida is Likely to Succeed on the Merits

"While it is not necessary for [movant] to show that it is more likely than not that it will win on the merits, 'at a minimum' the petitioner must show that there is a 'substantial case for relief on the merits.'" In re Blixseth, 509 B.R. 701, 706 (Bankr. D. Mont. 2014) (quoting Lair v. Bullock, 697 F.3d 1200, 1204 (9th Cir. 2012)). "[I]t is not enough that the likelihood of success on the merits is 'better than negligible' or that there is a 'mere possibility of relief.'" Lair, 697 F.3d at 1204 (quoting Nken, 556 U.S. at 434).

Mr. Bonavida has not demonstrated that he is likely to succeed on an appeal of the Proposed Order. In arguing against the Distribution Motion, Mr. Bonavida did not cite any legal authority that would compel this Court to order the Plan Administrator to hold the subject funds despite the language in the Plan and the Settlement Agreement mandating distribution to Mr. Fahs. Without such authority, the Court was bound to order the parties to comply with the requirements of the Plan and the Settlement Agreement. Mr. Bonavida does not address the likelihood of his success on appeal in the Application. Consequently, this factor weighs against staying the Proposed Order.

2. Whether Mr. Bonavida Will Be Irreparably Harmed

Following the Supreme Court’s ruling in Nken, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals held that the movant has a higher burden regarding the second factor, irreparable injury. Leiva-Perez v. Holder, 640 F.3d 962, 968 (9th Cir. 2011). In Leiva-Perez, the Ninth Circuit explained that “on a stay application, a court often cannot reasonably determine whether the petitioner is more likely than not to win on the merits, but typically it is easier to anticipate what would happen as a practical matter following the denial of a stay.” Id.

As a threshold requirement, the movant must always show that irreparable harm is probable. Id., at 965 (It is a “bedrock requirement that stays must be denied to all petitioners who did not meet the applicable irreparable harm threshold, regardless of their showing on the other stay factors.”). Conversely, however, “even certainty of irreparable harm has never entitled one to a stay.” Id. (emphasis in original).

Mr. Bonavida asserts that he will be irreparably harmed by the distribution to Mr. Fahs because Mr. Fahs will immediately incur a tax liability amounting to 50% of the funds and because Mr. Fahs will dissipate the funds. As to the tax liability, Mr. Bonavida provides no legal authority that Mr. Fahs would have to pay 50% of the funds in taxes. In addition, Mr. Bonavida does not demonstrate that he would not incur the same tax liability if the funds are eventually distributed to Mr. Bonavida. As such, Mr. Bonavida has not shown irreparable harm based on tax liability.

Regarding Mr. Bonavida’s assertion that Mr. Fahs will dissipate the funds, the Court cannot speculate as to whether or how Mr. Fahs will use the funds. Even if Mr. Fahs spends the funds, there is no evidence that Mr. Fahs would not be able to otherwise satisfy a judgment entered in favor of Mr. Bonavida. Thus, Mr. Bonavida has not demonstrated that he will be irreparably harmed without a stay.

3. Whether the Stay Will Substantially Injure Other Parties

A stay of the Proposed Order will substantially injure Mr. Fahs because it will further delay distribution that is owed to Mr. Fahs pursuant to the Plan. Here, the Court entered the Confirmation order in December 2013. Over four years has passed since that time, and Mr. Fahs has yet to receive the full distribution owed to him pursuant to the Plan. Moreover, a stay of the Proposed Order will further delay closure of this case, and the Plan Administrator will continue to incur administrative fees. As such, a stay will substantially injure other parties.

4. *Where the Public Interest Lies

To the extent that the public interest factor is applicable, prompt administration is a “chief purpose” of the bankruptcy laws, and generally, the public interest weighs against a stay, and in favor of moving forward with the case. Fed. R. Bankr. P. 1001 (stating that the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure “shall be construed to secure the just, speedy, and inexpensive determination of every case and proceeding”); Katchen v. Landy, 382 U.S. 323, 328, 86 S.Ct. 467, 472, 15 L.Ed.2d 391 (1966) (“[T]his Court has long recognized that a chief purpose of the bankruptcy laws is ‘to secure a prompt and effectual administration and settlement of estate of all bankrupts within a limited period.’”); Dynamic Fin. Corp. v. Kipperman, 395 B.R. 113, 127 (S.D. Cal. 2008) (finding that the “public interest in speedy and accurate bankruptcy proceedings warrants denying the application for stay of the bankruptcy court’s Order”) (emphasis omitted); In re Trident Shipworks, Inc., 243 B.R. 130 (Bankr. M.D. Fla. 1999) (noting the “well recognized principle” that requires an expeditious administration of bankruptcy estates); In re Porter, 54 B.R. 81, 82 (Bankr. D. Ok. 1985) (“[T]he public interest, though difficult to measure in a case involving primarily private rights, is generally served by moving forward.”); In re GHR Cos., 41 B.R. 666, 668 (Bankr. D. Mass. 1984) (finding that a stay pending appeal would be contrary to the public interest because “creditors have a very strong interest in seeing that further delay is not encountered in what already have been protracted proceedings”).

Based on the authorities above, the public interest weighs in favor of "prompt administration" and closure of this case. The public has an interest in ensuring that creditors are paid without significant delay. Here, ordering a further stay of a distribution to a creditor pursuant to a confirmed plan would work against the public interest. Consequently, this factor also weighs in favor of denying Mr. Bonavida’s request for a stay of the Proposed Order.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will enter the Proposed Order in its current form. The Court also will deny the Application.

I. BACKGROUND

A. The Whitman Project

Darin Davis ("Defendant") was a developer of small real estate projects. Declaration of Darin Davis ("Davis Declaration") [doc. 189], ¶ 2. [FN1]. In 1998, Defendant and Stephen Bock formed D&S Development, LLC ("D&S Development") for the purpose of developing small real estate projects. Davis Declaration, ¶ 7. In 2001, D&S Development constructed homes on a project called the Yolanda Project. Davis Declaration, ¶ 8. The Yolanda Project was the first time Defendant built more than four homes in a single project. Id.

On August 30, 2002, Defendant and Mr. Bock also formed T.O. Ix, LLC ("T.O."). Davis Declaration, ¶ 2. Defendant and Mr. Bock created T.O. to develop nine single family residences at Whitman Court, in Thousand Oaks, California (the "Whitman Project"). Id. T.O. did not have a California general contractor's license. Davis Declaration, ¶ 3. However, from January 20, 1989 to January 31, 2015, Defendant had a personal California General Builder Contractor's license. Id. Relying on counsel, Defendant believed it was unnecessary for T.O. to have a contractor's license. Davis Declaration, ¶ 9.

In 2003, Defendant and an architect obtained the initial site building permits for the Whitman Project from the City of Thousand Oaks, California (the "City"). Davis Declaration, ¶ 10. The City listed either Defendant, D&S Development or T.O. as the Whitman Project contractor. Id.

B. Plaintiff's Contract with Defendant

On June 2, 2004, Asphalt Professionals, Inc. ("Plaintiff") signed a construction contract (the "2004 Agreement") with T.O. Davis Declaration, ¶ 5; Declaration of Ray B. Bowen ("Bowen Declaration") [doc. 165], ¶ 15; Declaration of Michael S. Poles ("Poles Declaration") [doc. 167], Exhibit 15, p. 2. [FN2]. Defendant, a member of T.O., signed the 2004 Agreement. Statement of Undisputed Fact ("SUF") [doc. 191] no. 3; Davis Declaration, ¶ 3. In the 2004 Agreement, T.O. was listed as the "owner/builder" of a new housing development project, i.e., the Whitman Project. Bowen Declaration, ¶ 15; Poles Declaration, Exhibit 15, p. 2. Plaintiff was the subcontractor that agreed to perform asphalt and concrete street improvement services for the Whitman Project. Id.

At the time T.O. and Plaintiff entered into the 2004 Agreement, Defendant did not disclose to certain employees of Plaintiff that T.O. was not licensed. Declaration of Matthew Ludlow, ¶ 5; Declaration of Tom Hodge, ¶ 5. Defendant also did not disclose to certain employees of Plaintiff that he was relying on a 33 year old as-built survey for the Whitman Project. Declaration of Matthew Ludlow, ¶ 8; Declaration of Tom Hodge, ¶ 7. The Ludlows and Mr. Hodge testified that, had Defendant disclosed that T.O. was not licensed or that Defendant was relying on a 33 year old as-built survey, Plaintiff would not have conducted business with T.O. Declaration of Jeffrey Ludlow, ¶¶ 6, 9-10; Declaration of Matthew Ludlow, ¶¶ 6, 9-10; Declaration of Tom Hodge, ¶¶ 6, 8-9.

C. Citations against Defendant and His Entities

In April 2004, the Contractors State License Board ("CSLB") responded to a complaint by a homeowner regarding a title issue on the Yolanda Project. Davis Declaration, ¶ 13. During the course of CSLB's investigation, Defendant first learned that he had to attach his personal contractor's license to the contracting entity when developing more than four homes. Id. [FN3]. On September 8, 2004, Defendant formed Fairland Construction, Inc. ("Fairland") to act as the management company for T.O. Davis Declaration, ¶ 15. However, Defendant was not able to associate his contractor's license to Fairland immediately; Fairland did not receive its license until May 19, 2005. Davis Declaration, ¶ 16.

At that time, Defendant believed that he had remedied the licensing issue. Id. On May 21, 2005, T.O. entered into a construction management agreement with Fairland. Id. Neither Defendant nor Mr. Bock informed the City that Fairland was acting as the construction manager on the Whitman Project, nor did Defendant believe it was necessary to inform the City. Davis Declaration, ¶ 17.

In late 2004, another homeowner on the Yolanda Project complained to CSLB about D&S Development. Davis Declaration, ¶ 18. As a result, on January 31, 2005, CSLB issued a citation to T.O., noting the need for a contractor's license when constructing a project with more than four homes. Id. On April 27, 2005, D&S Development signed a stipulation to resolve the citation. Davis Declaration, ¶ 19. The stipulation required D&S Development to "disclose that [it] is not licensed by the [CSLB] by providing a Notice to Unlicensed Person to said purchaser." Id.

The City eventually inspected the Whitman Project on at least 10 occasions, issuing a Final Clearance for Occupancy on each of the nine homes in the Whitman Project. Davis Declaration, ¶ 11. According to Defendant, all of the homes on the Whitman Project were built entirely by qualified, licensed and insured subcontractors, and all of the required permits and plans were approved by the City. Davis Declaration, ¶ 6.

During construction on the Whitman Project, D and S Homes, Inc. ("D&S Homes"), a small corporation formed by Defendant and Stephen Bock, sent a number of modifications, or "change orders," to the 2004 Agreement to Plaintiff. Id. Defendant and Mr. Bock had been partners in the construction business from prior to 2003 until after 2005. Id.; SUF no. 7. In 2005, Defendant, Mr. Bock and Jose Leon owned 84% of D&S Homes. Bowen Declaration, ¶ 15; Poles Declaration, Exhibit 15, p. 2. D&S Homes, in turn, owned 60% of T.O. Id.

On August 11, 2005, D&S Homes gave notice to Plaintiff that it had violated provisions of the 2004 Agreement. Id.; SUF no. 15. In that letter, D&S Homes referred to the 2004 Agreement as "our contract," and notified Plaintiff that it had "no option... but to terminate" the 2004 Agreement. Id. The termination letter did not mention T.O. Id. The letter was signed by Defendant, as president of D&S Homes. Id.

T.O. did not pay Plaintiff for all the work it performed on the Whitman Project. Bowen Declaration, ¶ 15; Poles Declaration, Exhibit 15, p. 2. As such, on September 29, 2005, Plaintiff sued T.O., Defendant and others in state court (the "State Court Action"), alleging breach of contract and foreclosure on a mechanic's lien. Id.; SUF no. 17; Defendant's MSJ's Statement of Uncontroverted Fact [doc. 176] no. 6. Plaintiff later amended the complaint, joining additional defendants to the action and adding causes of action for fraud, conspiracy and quantum meruit. Bowen Declaration, ¶ 15; Poles Declaration, Exhibit 15, p. 2; SUF no. 18.

In the operative complaint in the State Court Action, Plaintiff's breach of contract and fraud causes of action were based on the same facts. Request for Judicial Notice ("RJN") [doc. 164], Exhibit 2. One of Plaintiff's fraud counts from the State Court Action is based on Defendant's failure to pay Plaintiff the amount owed under the 2004 Agreement. RJN, Exhibit 2, pp. 12-14. The other fraud count is based on Defendant's failure to disclose that T.O. was an unlicensed entity at the time the parties entered into the 2004 Agreement. RJN, Exhibit 2, pp. 14-15. In the operative complaint, Plaintiff requested specific damages based on Defendant's failure to pay Plaintiff under the 2004 Agreement. RJN, Exhibit 2, pp. 18-20. With respect to the fraud counts, Plaintiff requested "general damages" and punitive damages.

The trial court bifurcated the State Court Action into two trial phases. Bowen Declaration, ¶ 15; Poles Declaration, Exhibit 15, p. 2. The first phase involved Plaintiff's causes of action for breach of contract, foreclosure on a mechanic's lien and quantum meruit. Id. In 2010, the trial court conducted a bench trial on the first phase. Id. On October 29, 2010, the trial court entered an interlocutory judgment as to the first phase of trial (the "Phase One Judgment"). Bowen Declaration, ¶ 15; Poles Declaration, Exhibit 12. [FN4]. In relevant part, the Phase One Judgment reads:

The Court, after a bench trial on the Breach of Contract, Foreclosure of Mechanic's Lien and Quantum Meruit counts only, leaving the remaining Fraud and Deceit (Misrepresentation of Fact) count and the alter ego issues yet to be tried, made findings and orders as follows:

IT IS ORDERED, ADJUDGED AND DECREED that:

Judgment is granted in favor of plaintiff...and against... [T.O.] on the breach of contract, foreclosure on mechanic's lien and quantum meruit counts in the sum of $79,831.18 principal and $207.50 costs of recording the claims of lien on the foreclosure on mechanic's count, together with interest at the legal rate of 10 percent per year from and after August 11, 2005, for the additional amount of $40,019.30 through October 11, 2010, and, thereafter, for the additional per diem amount of $21.92.

Judgment is granted in favor of plaintiff...and against [T.O.] on the breach of contract count only in the additional statutory bad faith retention sum of two percent (2%) per month calculated on the sum of $79,831.18, pursuant to sections 3260 and 3260.1 of the Civil Code, which shall accrue from and after August 11, 2005 for the additional amount of $98,990.60 through October 11, 2010, and, thereafter, for the additional per diem amount of $53.22.

7108.5 of the Civil Code shall be reserved for plaintiff's motions for attorney fees and any such motions shall be and are without prejudice to plaintiff also filing subsequent motions for attorney fees and costs incurred after each hearing on each such motion.

Judgment is granted in favor of plaintiff...and against [T.O.] on the quantum meruit count for delay damages in the additional amount of $98,990.60 through October 11, 2010, and, thereafter, for the additional per diem amount of $53.22.

Bowen Declaration, ¶ 15; Poles Declaration, Exhibit 12. After entry of the Phase One Judgment, Plaintiff filed a motion for an award of attorneys' fees. Bowen Declaration, ¶ 15; Poles Declaration, Exhibit 13, p. 3. [FN5]. The trial court awarded Plaintiff $1.65 million in attorneys' fees (the "Fee Award"), stating that the sum was for the reasonable value of services rendered to date. Id.

E. The Appeal of the Fee Award

T.O. appealed the Fee Award. Id. On appeal, T.O. argued that, in light of the bifurcation of the State Court Action, the trial court erred by awarding fees to Plaintiff without apportioning counsel's work on the contract cause of action from the work on the other issues in the State Court Action. Id. Plaintiff argued that apportionment was not appropriate because the trial court could reasonably find that the contract and fraud issues were "intextricably intertwined." Bowen Declaration, ¶ 15; Poles Declaration, Exhibit 13, p. 4. The appellate court agreed with Plaintiff. Id. In relevant part, the appellate court found:

Here the trial court found that the various causes of action were based on proof of underlying transactional facts. It said [Plaintiff] was "the prevailing party on the core issue in this case—the contract work that [it] performed for the developer in this case...."

There is a connection between the contract and fraud issues and [Plaintiff's] services. [Plaintiff] claimed [T.O.'s] promises and false representations induced it to sign the agreement and perform its services. [T.O.] has not shown why the trial court could not reasonably find that [Plaintiff's] counsel properly worked on these closely connected issues together instead of segregating the pretrial work. The court did not decide the fraud issues at this trial, but that does not mandate a different result.

[T.O.] suggests that the trial court erred by considering claims for fees on fraud and alter ego issues. It notes these issues will be decided in the second phase of the bifurcated trial. But the court was not deciding future attorney's fees. It was only awarding fees for the work performed up to and including the judgment on the first trial. The court found that the services that were compensated were reasonably incurred "in order for plaintiff to prevail upon the counts adjudicated."

Bowen Declaration, ¶ 15; Poles Declaration, Exhibit 13, pp. 4-6. The appellate court upheld the Fee Award. Bowen Declaration, ¶ 15; Poles Declaration, Exhibit 13, p. 12.

F. The Alter Ego Trial

The second phase of trial was to involve Plaintiff's fraud and alter ego claims. Bowen Declaration, ¶ 15; Poles Declaration, Exhibit 15, p. 2. Apparently, the court first decided the alter ego claims without addressing Plaintiff's fraud claims. Bowen Declaration, ¶ 15; Poles Declaration, Exhibits 14-15. On December 23, 2011, the state court issued a statement of decision after phase two of trial (the "Phase Two Decision"). Bowen Declaration, ¶ 15; Poles Declaration, Exhibit 14. In relevant part, the Phase Two Decision reads:

Defendant [T.O.] failed to disclose to [Plaintiff] the entities that were actually involved in the construction contract;

Defendant [T.O.] failed to disclose to [Plaintiff] that it was not a licensed contractor and has never been a licensed contractor;

There is such a unity of interest and ownership that the separateness of [T.O.], [D&S Homes], [D&S Development] and [Defendant, Mr. Bock and Mr. Leon, among others]... has ceased;

Adherence to the separate existence of defendants [D&S Homes], [D&S Development] and [Defendant, Mr. Bock and Mr. Leon, among others], would, under the particular circumstances of this case, sanction a fraud or promote injustice; that is, if the acts are treated as those of [T.O.] alone, an inequitable result will follow;

Bowen Declaration, ¶ 15; Poles Declaration, Exhibit 14, p. 7. As to D&S Homes, the state court found:

The parent corporation or "Mother Ship." Once [D&S Development] was cited, fined, and censured by and stipulated with [CSLB] for contracting without a license, [D&S Homes] became the vehicle that owned, controlled, and manipulated the other business organizations.... From approximately 2004 until the present, literally millions of dollars have been transferred into and out of [D&S Homes] without documentation. Further, this company (1) used the same offices and business locations as the other entities related [to D&S Homes], (2) commingled its assets with those of the other related entities, (3) had no regard for legal formalities and failed to maintain an arms' length relationship among related business entities, and (4) used its business form as a subterfuge for an illegal transaction, to wit, contracting without a license.

Id. As to D&S Development, the state court said:

Initially, [D&S Development] was the vehicle that owned, controlled, and manipulated the other related business organizations. [D&S Development] represented itself as the project developer of the various D&S projects. [Mr.] Bock and [Defendant] used the personal contractor's license of [Defendant] to pull permits and obtain entitlements to proceed with the LLC projects. Once permits and entitlements were obtained, [D&S Development] represented that it was an "owner/builder" and was not bound by the contractor license laws. [D&S Development] was also used interchangeably with [T.O.], [D&S Homes] and [Defendant]. After [D&S Development] was cited, fined, and censured by and stipulated with [CSLB] for contracting

Bowen Declaration, ¶ 15; Poles Declaration, Exhibit 14, p. 8. Finally, as to Defendant, the state court found:

[Defendant] represented himself to be an experienced builder with a general contractor's license. Once [D&S Development] was cited, fined, and censured by and stipulated with [CSLB] for contracting without a license, [Defendant] formed [Fairland], and in 2005 obtained a general contractor's license. [Defendant] and [Mr.] Bock admit that Fairland was formed to satisfy the demands of the [CSLB] and in order to comply with the contractor license laws. [Defendant] admits that after Fairland was formed and licensed "nothing changed." [Defendant] and [Mr.] Bock continued to build as "owner/builder," notified no one of the formation or licensure of Fairland, and continued to contract with the personal contractor's license of [Defendant]. Fairland was used solely as a vehicle to receive [Defendant's] portion of revenue generated by his admitted "partnership" with [Mr.] Bock and [Mr.] Leon, and then pay the personal obligations of [Defendant] and his wife Carolyn Davis, who was neither an owner nor an employee of Fairland.

Id. The state court entered a judgment conforming to the Phase Two Decision (the "Phase Two Judgment"). Bowen Declaration, ¶ 15; Poles Declaration, Exhibit 17.

G. The Appeal of the Phase Two Judgment

Defendant appealed the Phase Two Judgment. Bowen Declaration, ¶ 15; Poles Declaration, Exhibit 15. The appellate court upheld the Phase Two Judgment, except as against two defendants not involved in this adversary proceeding. Bowen Declaration, ¶ 15; Poles Declaration, Exhibit 15, p. 1. H. The Bustamante Lawsuit

On April 18, 2008, Edmundo Bustamante and Tiffany Bustamante (the "Bustamantes") filed a complaint against Defendant, T.O., D&S Homes, D&S Development and other entities (the "Bustamante Lawsuit"). RJN, Exhibit 3. The Bustamantes were also represented by Mr. Bowen, Plaintiff's counsel. Id.

In their complaint, the Bustamantes alleged that, in September 2005, the Bustamantes purchased real property from T.O., D&S Homes and D&S Development. The Bustamantes further alleged that these entities, through Defendant, Mr. Bock and others, falsely represented to the City that T.O., D&S Homes and D&S Development were licensed. The Bustamantes alleged that the defendants had a duty to disclose that T.O., D&S Homes and D&S Development were unlicensed because the Bustamantes were purchasers of the subject real property and would not have purchased the subject property had they known that the entities were unlicensed.

On the same day the Bustamantes initiated the Bustamante Lawsuit, the Bustamantes filed a Notice of Related Case. RJN, Exhibit 4. In the Notice of Related Case, the Bustamantes indicated that the Bustamante Lawsuit was related to the State Court Action. Id. The Bustamantes also checked the boxes on the form Notice of Related Case indicating that the Bustamante Lawsuit: "involves the same parties and is based on the same or similar claims;" "arises from the same or substantially identical transactions, incidents, or events requiring the determination of the same or substantially identical questions of law or fact;" "involves claims against, title to, possession of, or damages to the same property;" and "is likely for other reasons to

The Bustamantes and the defendants in the Bustamante Lawsuit attended arbitration. RJN, Exhibit 5. On October 13, 2011, the arbitrator entered an award in favor of the defendants (the "Bustamante Award"). Id. In the Bustamante Award, the arbitrator found that the Bustamantes had not proven a case for "indirect misrepresentation" based on the Bustamantes' allegations that they relied on representations made to the City. The arbitrator further found that Defendant did not have a duty to disclose T.O.'s (or other entities') unlicensed status to purchasers of the real property.

I. Defendant's Satisfaction of Judgments

On June 26, 2013, Plaintiff filed an Acknowledgment of Satisfaction of Judgment (the "Satisfaction of Judgment") in state court. RJN, Exhibit 13. Through the Satisfaction of Judgment and the stipulation attached thereto, Plaintiff acknowledged that the Phase One Judgment and any attorneys' fees incurred litigating the first two phases of trial had been paid in full. Id. The Satisfaction of Judgment included an explicit release of Defendant. Id.

J. Defendant's Bankruptcy Case

On June 15, 2010, Defendant filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On January 12, 2011, Plaintiff filed a claim against the estate, asserting an unsecured claim in the amount of $3 million (the "Claim"). The proof of claim was signed by Plaintiff's counsel, Mr. Bowen. Mr. Bowen did not attach any documentation or analysis in support of Plaintiff's claim. Rather, in the proof of claim, Mr. Bowen noted that the damages were based on litigation in state court.

On September 17, 2014, Defendant filed an objection to the Claim (the "Objection to Claim") [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 89]. In the Objection to Claim, Defendant asserted that Defendant had paid the total $1,869,048.05 owed to Plaintiff pursuant to the Phase One Judgment and the Phase Two Judgment. Defendant also noted that Plaintiff had not provided evidence regarding any remaining damages.

On October 2, 2014, Plaintiff filed an opposition to the Objection to Claim [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 95], arguing that the state court had not yet tried Plaintiff's fraud cause of action and that Plaintiff may obtain an additional award of damages after that trial. [FN6]. Plaintiff did not attach any evidence supporting its claim to its opposition to the Objection to Claim; instead, Plaintiff attached a string of status reports filed in this adversary proceeding in which the parties acknowledged that the parties were awaiting completion of the state court fraud action. On October 30, 2014, the Court held a hearing on the Objection to Claim. On November 20, 2014, the Court entered an order disallowing $1,869,048.05 of Plaintiff's claim because that portion of the claim had already been paid (the "Claim Order") [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 101].

As to the remaining $1,130,951.42, the Court found that this amount "is allowed... pending the outcome of [the fraud phase of the State Court Action], presently pending in the Superior Court of the State of California for the County of Ventura." (emphasis added). The Court never decided whether Plaintiff was entitled to the remaining $1,130,951.42. In fact, the Court could not calculate any such number because Plaintiff did not provide the Court with any evidence of outstanding damages. The Court merely refrained from deciding whether to disallow the remaining portion of Plaintiff's claim until the State Court Action concluded.

K. The Adversary Proceeding

On August 16, 2010, Plaintiff filed a complaint against Defendant, objecting to Defendant's discharge pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 727(a)(2) and (a)(4) and requesting nondischargeability of any debt owed to it pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A). The Court bifurcated this proceeding, such that the Court first heard Plaintiff's claims under 11 U.S.C. § 727. On December 23, 2014, the Court entered judgment in favor of Defendant on Plaintiff's claims under 11 U.S.C. § 727 [doc. 113].

The Court initially stayed this adversary proceeding to await conclusion of the State Court Action. On April 19, 2017, Plaintiff and Defendant appeared for a status conference, at which time the Court informed the parties that it would no longer delay prosecution of this adversary proceeding until the State Court Action was resolved. The Court subsequently set a pretrial conference and instructed the parties to file a joint pretrial stipulation.

On October 4, 2017, the parties appeared at a continued pretrial conference. At that time, the Court informed the parties that they could file motions for summary judgment before trial. On October 13, 2017, the Court entered an order instructing the parties to file and serve their motions for summary judgment no later than November 6, 2017 [doc. 156].

On November 6, 2017, Plaintiff timely filed its motion for summary judgment ("Plaintiff's MSJ") [doc. 165]. Through Plaintiff's MSJ, Plaintiff requested the Court enter judgment in its favor on Plaintiff's § 523(a)(2)(A) claim based on: (A) Defendant's failure to disclose that T.O. was unlicensed; (B) Defendant's failure to disclose that Defendant relied on an as-built survey; and (C) Defendant's alleged manipulation of the construction drawings to appear as though a recent survey had been performed. To prove its damages, Plaintiff referred to the Claim Order, asserting that the Claim Order established that Plaintiff was damaged in the amount of $1,130,951.42.

On the same day, Defendant timely filed its motion for summary judgment ("Defendant's MSJ") [doc. 162]. Through Defendant's MSJ, Defendant requested the Court enter judgment in its favor on the following bases: (A) the Bustamante Lawsuit precludes this Court's litigation of the issues in this adversary proceeding; and (B) all of Plaintiff's damages have been paid and Plaintiff cannot establish additional damages related to its fraud cause of action. Defendant opposes Plaintiff's MSJ [doc. 188] and Plaintiff opposes Defendant's MSJ [doc. 175].

A. *General Motion for Summary Judgment Standard

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 56, applicable to this adversary proceeding under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 7056, the Court shall grant summary judgment if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 247, 106 S.Ct. 2505, 2509-10, 91 L.Ed.2d 202 (1986); Rule 56; FRBP 7056. summary judgment; the requirement is that there be no genuine issue of material fact." 477 U.S. at 247–48 (emphasis in original).

As to materiality, the substantive law will identify which facts are material. Only disputes over facts that might affect the outcome of the suit under the governing law will properly preclude the entry of summary judgment. Factual disputes that are irrelevant or unnecessary will not be counted. . . . [S]ummary judgment will not lie if the dispute about a material fact is "genuine," that is, if the evidence is such that a reasonable jury could return a verdict for the nonmoving party. . . .

Id. at 248–50 (internal citations omitted). Additionally, issues of law are appropriate to be decided in a motion for summary judgment. See Camacho v. Du Sung Corp., 121 F.3d 1315, 1317 (9th Cir. 1997).

The initial burden is on the moving party to show that no genuine issues of material fact exist based on "the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with affidavits, if any." Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323, 106 S.Ct. 2548, 2553, 91 L.Ed. 265 (1986). Once the moving party meets its initial burden, the nonmoving party bearing "the burden of proof at trial on a dispositive issue" must identify facts beyond what is contained in the pleadings that show genuine issues of fact remain. Id., at 324; see also Anderson, 477 U.S. at 256 ("Rule 56(e) itself provides that a party opposing a properly supported motion for summary judgment may not rest upon mere allegation or denials of his pleading, but must set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial.").

The nonmoving party meets this burden through the presentation of "evidentiary materials" listed in Rule 56, such as depositions, documents, electronically stored information, affidavits or declarations, stipulations, admissions, and interrogatory answers. Id. To establish a genuine issue, the non-moving party "must do more than simply show that there is some metaphysical doubt as to the material facts." Matsushita Electrical Industry Co. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 586, 106 S.Ct. 1348, 1356, 89 L.Ed.2d 538 (1986); see also Anderson, 477 U.S. at 252 ("The mere existence of a scintilla of evidence in support of the [non-moving party's] position will be insufficient."). Rather, the nonmoving party must provide "evidence of such a caliber that 'a fair-minded jury could return a verdict for the [nonmoving

B. Burden of Proof

The plaintiff's burden of proof in a nondischargeability action under 11 U.S.C. § 523 (a) is "the ordinary preponderance-of-the-evidence standard." Grogan v. Garner, 498 U.S. 279, 291, 111 S.Ct. 654, 661, 112 L.Ed.2d 755 (1991). "Proof by the preponderance of the evidence means that it is sufficient to persuade the finder of fact that the proposition is more likely true than not." In re Arnold & Baker Farms, 177 B.R. 648, 654 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1994), aff'd sub nom. In re Arnold & Baker Farms, 85 F.3d 1415 (9th Cir. 1996) (citing In re Winship, 397 U.S. 358, 371, 90 S.Ct. 1068, 1076, 25 L.Ed.2d 368 (1970)).

C. Issue Preclusion

"A bankruptcy court may rely on the issue preclusive effect of an existing state court judgment .... In so doing, the bankruptcy court must apply the forum state's law of issue preclusion." In re Plyam, 530 B.R. 456, 462 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2015); see also 28 U.S.C. § 1738 (federal courts must give "full faith and credit" to state court judgments). The requirements for issue preclusion in California are:

- (1) the issue sought to be precluded from relitigation is identical to that decided in a former proceeding;
- (2) the issue was actually litigated in the former proceeding;
- (3) the issue was necessarily decided in the former proceeding;
- (4) the decision in the former proceeding is final and on the merits; and
- (5) the party against whom preclusion is sought was the same as, or in privity with, the party to the former proceeding.

1. Whether the Bustamante Award Precludes this Action

In Defendant's MSJ, Defendant asserts that he is entitled to summary judgment based on the Bustamante Award.

Defendant first states that the issue sought to be precluded from relitigation is identical to the issues from the Bustamante Lawsuit. In their complaint, the Bustamantes alleged that, in September 2005, the Bustamantes purchased real property from T.O., D&S Homes and D&S Development. The Bustamantes further alleged that these entities, through Defendant, Mr. Bock and others, falsely represented to the City that T.O., D&S Homes and D&S Development were licensed. The Bustamantes alleged that the defendants had a duty to disclose that T.O., D&S Homes and D&S Development were unlicensed because the Bustamantes were purchasers of the subject real property and would not have purchased the subject property had they known that the entities were unlicensed.

In the Bustamante Award, the arbitrator found that the Bustamantes had not proven a case for "indirect misrepresentation" based on the Bustamantes' allegations that they relied on representations made to the City. The arbitrator further found that Defendant did not have a duty to disclose T.O.'s (or other entities') unlicensed status to purchasers of the real property.

These issues from the Bustamante Lawsuit are not identical to the issues here. First, this adversary proceeding does not involve "indirect misrepresentations" to the City. The Complaint and Plaintiff's MSJ both request a finding of fraud based on alleged representations or omissions made directly to Plaintiff. Further, the fraud issue in the Bustamante Lawsuit involved whether a general contractor had a duty to disclose its unlicensed status to a purchaser of real property, not to a subcontractor involved with the building of that property. Based on this fact, the Bustamantes were in a different position than Plaintiff. In addition, the subject purchase agreement with T.O. was executed long after the 2004 Agreement involving Plaintiff. As such, the Bustamante Lawsuit did not involve the same transaction at issue here, nor did that lawsuit involve the same legal issues. Consequently, the Court cannot find that the issues in the Bustamante Lawsuit were identical to the issues here.

Moreover, the Bustamantes are not in privity with Plaintiff. Defendant asserts that the parties are in privity because Plaintiff's agents worked with the Bustamantes' legal counsel to litigate against Defendant. Defendant also relies on the Notice of Related Case filed by the Bustamantes' attorney. First, as to the Notice of Related Case, Defendant has not provided any authority that stands for the proposition that a party can create legal privity simply by filing a notice that two cases are related.

Defendant also asserts that, because the Ludlows aided the Bustamantes in their litigation against Plaintiff, and because both parties were represented by Mr. Bowen, the two actions were sufficiently close to warrant a finding of privity. The cases cited by Defendant do not compel this result.

Defendant first cites Rodgers v. Sargent Controls & Aerospace, 136 Cal.App.4th 82 (Ct. App. 2006). In Rodgers, the plaintiff sued the defendant entity for exposure to asbestos. Rodgers, 136 Cal.App.4th at 86. However, the defendant had previously been sued by other plaintiffs alleging asbestos exposure, and the courts presiding over those actions found that the defendant was not subject to successor liability based on its predecessor entity's actions. Id., at 89-92. Part of the Rodgers opinion rested on policy; the appellate court found that imposing issue preclusion "would further the cognizable interests of avoiding harassment of [the defendant] with repeated litigation, reducing the possibility of inconsistent judgments, and promoting judicial economy." Id., at 91-92. There, several plaintiffs were attempting to impose successor liability on the defendant despite the fact that a court had already held that successor liability did not apply to that defendant as concerns asbestos litigation. Id.

The same concerns are not present here. The issues in the Bustamante Lawsuit are different from the issues presented in this proceeding. There has been no repeated harassment of Defendant based on an identical issue that has been conclusively decided by another court. In addition, regarding the fact that Mr. Bowen represented both the Bustamantes and Plaintiff, the Rodgers court explicitly held that: "We also conclude that representation of different plaintiffs in different cases by the same attorneys is not a factor that justifies imposition of collateral estoppel to preclude litigation of an issue by appellant as a non-party to the prior actions, at least without evidence that through his attorney he participated in or controlled the adjudication of the issue sought to be relitigated." Id., at 93 (emphasis added). "To find that an identity of attorneys presenting the same issue on behalf of different parties results in issue preclusion would promote attorney shopping, and tend to prevent parties from obtaining representation by chosen counsel familiar with an issue or matter in litigation." Id., at 93-94.

Defendant has not presented sufficient evidence to show that Plaintiff was controlling the Bustamante Lawsuit through Mr. Bowen. That the Ludlows attended certain hearings or aided the Bustamantes with their lawsuit does not rise to the level of control. Plaintiff should not be barred from its choice of counsel, an attorney who is familiar with the defendants and subject real properties, by application of issue preclusion, especially where the issues in this proceeding are not identical to the issues in the Bustamante Lawsuit.

The next case cited by Defendant is Garcia v. Rehrig Int'l, Inc., 99 Cal.App.4th 869 (Ct. App. 2002). In Garcia, the issue was whether a five year old child was in privity with his parents based on a prior action where the parents sued the defendant for their own injuries arising from the same incident. Garcia, 99 Cal.App.4th at 878. There, the court found privity, noting that: "We daresay that a five-year-old child (the child's age at the time of the first trial) ordinarily has no cognizable independent interest in relitigating a liability claim that has been determined adversely to his parents." Id. The parties here are not in the same position as a child with his parents, nor were the parties here injured in the same incident. As such, Garcia also does not help Defendant's argument regarding privity.

"The concept of privity for the purposes of ... collateral estoppel refers to a mutual or successive relationship to the same rights of property, or to such an identification in interest of one person with another as to represent the same legal rights and, more recently, to a relationship between the party to be estopped and the unsuccessful party in the prior litigation which is sufficiently close so as to justify application of the doctrine of collateral estoppel." Rodgers, 136 Cal.App.4th at 90-91.

The Bustamante Lawsuit did not involve the same rights of property or a "mutual or successive relationship." The Court also cannot find that the Bustamantes and Plaintiff had a relationship "sufficiently close" so as to justify applying issue preclusion. The Bustamantes and Plaintiff happen to be suing the same defendants, but the parties are suing the defendants on different theories and there is no other connection between the parties.

In light of the above, Defendant has not shown that the issues in this proceeding are identical to the issues in the Bustamante Lawsuit, or that the parties are in privity. As such, the Court is not precluded by the Bustamante Award.

2. Whether Any of the State Court Decisions Preclude this Action

It is unclear from Plaintiff's MSJ if Plaintiff is attempting to use any of the state trial or appellate court decisions to preclude issues in this adversary proceeding. As both parties admit, the state court has not yet tried Plaintiff's fraud cause of action. Consequently, the issues before the state court were not identical to the issues before this Court.

To the extent that Plaintiff's expert, Mr. Poles, uses the state trial and appellate courts' decisions to conclude that Defendant had fraudulent intent in his dealings with Plaintiff, (1) Mr. Poles is not qualified to make such a determination; and (2) none of the state court opinions make findings regarding Defendant's intent.

In addition, the state courts' opinions are silent as to whether Defendant had a duty to disclose any of the omissions raised by Plaintiff. The closest any of the decisions get to any of the issues is in the Phase Two Judgment, where the state trial court noted that T.O. "failed to disclose to [Plaintiff] that it was not a licensed contractor and has never been a licensed contractor." Poles Declaration, Exhibit 14, p. 2. The court did not, however, find that Defendant had a duty to disclose T.O.'s unlicensed status. As such, to the extent Plaintiff is attempting to use any of the state court decisions to foreclose this Court's litigation of those issues, Plaintiff has not directed this Court to any findings that would preclude this Court's adjudication of the issues.

To prevail on a § 523(a)(2)(A) claim, the plaintiff must demonstrate, by a preponderance of the evidence, the following five elements:

- (2) knowledge of the falsity or deceptiveness of his statement or conduct;
- (3) an intent to deceive;

1. Has Plaintiff Shown a Misrepresentation or Fraudulent Omission?

Here, Plaintiff asserts that Defendant made two fraudulent omissions and one misrepresentation. First, Plaintiff asserts that Defendant did not disclose to Plaintiff that T.O. was not a licensed contractor. Second, Plaintiff asserts that Defendant did not disclose to Plaintiff that the survey used for the construction drawings and engineering plans was based on a 33 year old as-built survey. Finally, Plaintiff asserts that Defendant fraudulently caused the construction drawings to appear as though a recent survey had been performed. Each of these omissions or representations is discussed separately below.

a. The Omission Regarding T.O.'s Unlicensed Status

Defendant admits that T.O. was not licensed at the time he entered into the 2004 Agreement with Plaintiff. As noted above, to meet its burden of proof, Plaintiff must demonstrate that Defendant's failure to disclose T.O.'s unlicensed status was a material fact that Defendant was under a duty to disclose, and that Defendant's omission was motivated by an intent to deceive Plaintiff. Harmon, 250 F.3d at 1246

In Plaintiff's MSJ, Plaintiff does not provide any legal authority regarding whether Defendant had a duty to disclose to Plaintiff that T.O. was not licensed, or that the omission of this fact was material. For the first time in the Reply, Plaintiff cites California Business & Professions Code ("B&P") §§ 7030, 7030.1, 7030.5, 7031 and 7031.5.

Pursuant to B&P § 7030(a), "every person licensed pursuant to this chapter shall include the following statement in at least 10-point type on all written contracts with respect to which the person is a prime contractor: 'Contractors are required by law to be licensed and regulated by the [CSLB]....'" However, this statute does not require contractors to disclose whether they are licensed; the statute only requires that written contracts include the language above. Moreover, the required language under B&P § 7030(a) was included in the 2004 Agreement. Davis Declaration, ¶ 5, Exhibit 1. The next statute cited by Plaintiff, B&P § 7030.1(a), states:

A contractor, who has his or her license suspended or revoked two or more times within an eight-year period, shall disclose either in capital letters in 10-point roman boldface type or in contrasting red print in at least 8-point roman boldface type, in a document provided prior to entering into a contract to perform work on residential property with four or fewer units, any disciplinary license suspension, or license revocation during the last eight years resulting from any violation of this chapter by the contractor, whether or not the suspension or revocation was stayed.

Plaintiff has not shown that T.O. had its license suspended or revoked two or more times within an eight-year period prior to the parties' entering into the 2004 Agreement. The only citations on the record are from 2005, after the parties executed the 2004 Agreement. As such, Defendant did not have a duty to disclose T.O.'s unlicensed status under this statute either.

B&P § 7031 does not discuss disclosure at all; rather, that statute prohibits unlicensed contractors from filing actions to recover compensation based on any contract where a license is required. Further, B&P § 7031.5 requires contractors to give their license number to the county or city from where the contractor will obtain permits. As such, these statutes are not applicable to contractors making disclosures regarding their license to subcontractors.

The only potentially applicable statute is B&P § 7030.5, which states that "[e]very person licensed pursuant to this chapter shall include his license number in: (a) all construction contracts; (b) subcontracts and calls for bid; and (c) all forms of advertising, as prescribed by the registrar of contractors, used by such a person." [FN7]. This statute does create a duty to disclose a license number on "all construction contracts" and "subcontracts." B&P § 7030.5. However, by its plain language, this statute applies to "[e]very person licensed pursuant to this chapter..." B&P § 7030.5. Both parties acknowledge that T.O. was not licensed at the time T.O. and Plaintiff entered into the 2004 Agreement.

The other source of a duty to disclose raised by Plaintiff in the Reply is that, after CSLB cited D&S Development, D&S Development agreed to "include a statement in all advertisements that he/she is unlicensed." Reply, p. 3. However, neither the timing nor the language of this citation is properly before the Court. [FN8]. Even if the record established that the citation included this language and that Defendant was cited before T.O. entered into the 2004 Agreement with Plaintiff, the statement to which Plaintiff refers instructs D&S Development to include a statement in advertisements that D&S Development is unlicensed. As such, any duty arising from this document concerns advertisements, and does not create a duty related to construction or subcontractor agreements.

Nevertheless, that Plaintiff has not referred the Court to an applicable duty to disclose does not mean that Defendant did not have a duty to disclose T.O.'s unlicensed status to Plaintiff. Under federal law, "[i]n determining the duty to disclose in the context of fraud under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A), we look to the common law concept of fraud at the time such language was added to the statute." In re Apte, 96 F.3d 1319, 1324 (9th Cir. 1996) (citing Field v. Mans, 516 U.S. 59, 116 S.Ct. 437, 133 L.Ed.2d 351 (1995)). "The Supreme Court in Field looked to the Restatement (Second) of Torts (1976) (the 'Restatement') as 'the most widely accepted distillation of the common law of torts' at the relevant time." Id. Pursuant to the Restatement, the common law of torts recognizes a duty to disclose in the following circumstances:

- (1) One who fails to disclose to another a fact that he knows may justifiably induce the other to act or refrain from acting in a business transaction is subject to the same liability to the other as though he had represented the nonexistence of the matter that he has failed to disclose, if, but only if, he is under a duty to the other to exercise reasonable care to disclose the matter in question.

- (2) One party to a business transaction is under a duty to exercise reasonable care to disclose to the other before the transaction is consummated,
  - (a) matters known to him that the other is entitled to know because of a fiduciary or other similar relation of trust and confidence between them; and
  - (b) matters known to him that he knows to be necessary to prevent his partial or ambiguous statement of the facts from being misleading; and
  - (c) subsequently acquired information that he knows will make untrue or misleading a previous representation that when made was true or believed to be so; and
  - (d) the falsity of a representation not made with the expectation that it would be acted upon, if he subsequently learns that the other is about to act in reliance upon it in a transaction with him; and
  - (e) facts basic to the transaction, if he knows that the other is about to enter into it under a mistake as to them, and that the other, because of the relationship between them, the customs of the trade or other objective circumstances, would reasonably expect a disclosure of those facts.

Restatement § 551; see also In re Tolman, 491 B.R. 138, 152 (Bankr. D. Idaho 2013) (adopting the Restatement duties to disclose in light of Field). California law also provides for similar duties to disclose:

Chapter 7

For an omission to be actionable under section 523(a)(2)(A), the defendant must be under a duty to disclose the omitted information. Under California law, there are four circumstances in which a duty to disclose material facts may arise: (1) when the defendant is in a fiduciary relationship with the plaintiff; (2) when the defendant had exclusive knowledge of material facts not known to the plaintiff; (3) when the defendant actively conceals a material fact from the plaintiff; or (4) when the defendant makes partial representations but also suppresses some material facts. The last three circumstances do not require a fiduciary relationship, so long as there exists some relationship between the defendant and plaintiff, such as one between seller and buyer, employer and prospective employee, doctor and patient, or parties entering into any kind of contractual agreement.

In re Carroll, 549 B.R. 375, 382 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2016), aff'd, 2017 WL 3122613 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. July 21, 2017).

Here, under the Restatement, subsection (a) does not apply because Plaintiff has not demonstrated that there was a fiduciary relationship between the parties. Subsection (b) does not apply because Plaintiff has not asserted that Defendant made "partial" or "ambiguous" statements regarding licensure; according to Plaintiff, Defendant did not make any representations at all. Subsection (c) does not apply because subsequent information did not make a previous representation untrue. Again, according to Plaintiff, there was no representation at all. Subsection (d) also does not apply because Defendant did not make any representations regarding licensure. Consequently, the only possible subsection is (e).

To show that Defendant had a duty to disclose T.O.'s unlicensed status under subsection (e), Plaintiff has to show that: (A) whether T.O. was licensed was a "fact basic to the transaction;" (B) Defendant knew that Plaintiff was going to enter into the 2004 Agreement under a mistaken belief as to the "basic fact;" and (C) Plaintiff, because of the relationship between Plaintiff and Defendant, the customs of the trade or other objective circumstances, would reasonably expect a disclosure of those facts. According to the Restatement:

A basic fact is a fact that is assumed by the parties as a basis for the transaction itself. It is a fact that goes to the basis, or essence, of the transaction, and is an important part of the substance of what is bargained for or dealt with. Other facts may serve as important and persuasive inducements to enter into the transaction, but not go to its essence. These facts may be material, but they are not basic.

Restatement § 551, comm. j; see also In re Craciun, 2014 WL 2211742, at *5-6 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. May 28, 2014).

Here, Plaintiff must show that T.O.'s unlicensed status was a "fact that goes to the... essence... of the transaction" or that it was "an important part of the substance of what is bargained for or dealt with." The only relevant evidence submitted by Plaintiff is the testimony from the Ludlows and Mr. Hodge, noting that Plaintiff would not have entered into the 2004 Agreement had Defendant informed Plaintiff that T.O. was not licensed. This evidence may be persuasive for a determination of materiality, discussed below, but it is not sufficient to deem the information a "basic fact."

However, even assuming this information was a basic fact, Plaintiff has not shown that Defendant knew that Plaintiff was entering into the 2004 Agreement under the mistaken belief that T.O. was licensed. There is no reason to assume, for instance, that Defendant did not believe that Plaintiff may have independently researched whether T.O. was licensed. Finally, Plaintiff has made no showing regarding whether the relationship between the parties, the customs of the trade or other circumstances would lead Plaintiff to reasonably expect a disclosure of T.O.'s unlicensed status. Plaintiff's expert, Mr. Poles, only provides a conclusory statement that Defendant should have disclosed T.O.'s unlicensed status. Mr. Poles does not state that such disclosure is a custom of the trade, or provide any other basis for why Defendant should have disclosed this information.

As for California law, the first duty is inapplicable because Plaintiff has not shown that the parties were in a fiduciary relationship. The second duty is inapplicable because Plaintiff has not shown that Defendant had exclusive knowledge of T.O.'s unlicensed status. In other words, Plaintiff has not shown that Plaintiff could not have learned this information elsewhere. The fourth duty is also inapplicable because Defendant did not make any partial representations.

The only potentially applicable duty is the third: if Defendant actively concealed a material fact from Plaintiff. Regarding "active concealment," "[m]ere nondisclosure does not constitute active concealment. Rather, to state a claim for active concealment, Plaintiff must allege specific 'affirmative acts on the part of the [D]efendants in hiding, concealing or covering up the matters complained of.'" Herron v. Best Buy Co. Inc., 924 F.Supp.2d 1161, 1176 (E.D. Cal. 2013) (quoting Lingsch v. Savage, 213 Cal.App.2d 729, 734 (Ct. App. 1963)). Here, Plaintiff has not demonstrated that Defendant affirmatively acted to conceal T.O.'s status as an unlicensed entity. Rather, the record shows "mere nondisclosure."

Even if the Court were to find that Defendant had a duty to disclose T.O.'s status as an unlicensed entity, which Plaintiff has not shown, Plaintiff has not met its burden of proving that Defendant's omission of T.O.'s unlicensed status was motivated by an intent to deceive Plaintiff. Harmon, 250 F.3d at 1246 n.4. Plaintiff relies on its expert witness, Mr. Poles, to show that Defendant acted with an intent to deceive. However, Mr. Poles does not have personal knowledge of Defendant's intent. Based on a reading of the decisions and judgments from the state trial and appellate courts, Mr. Poles offers legal conclusions as to Defendant's intent. The Court would not admit such testimony even if Mr. Poles qualified as a legal expert. See United States v. Diaz, 876 F.3d 1194, 1197 (9th Cir. 2017) ("Consistent with [Federal Rule of Evidence] 704 (a), this court has repeatedly affirmed that an expert witness cannot give an opinion as to her legal conclusion, i.e., an opinion on an ultimate issue of law.") (internal quotation omitted). At this time, Plaintiff has not met its burden of showing that Defendant's omissions were motivated by an intent to deceive Plaintiff.

b. The Omission Regarding the As-Built Survey

Plaintiff has not cited any authority, in Plaintiff's MSJ or the its reply, providing that a contractor has a duty to disclose whether a survey is an as-built survey or a recent survey. Plaintiff again relies on the Poles Declaration, in which Mr. Poles states that Defendant "should have disclosed the fact that the plans and specifications he provided to [Plaintiff] for preparation of its bid for construction work, prior to entering into the contract with [T.O.], were based upon an approximately 33-year old as built survey." Poles Declaration, ¶ 11. However, Mr. Poles has based his opinions on the state trial and appellate court decisions, and those decisions did not find that Defendant had a legal duty to disclose that the survey was an as-built survey.

Moreover, Mr. Poles is not qualified to interpret the legal opinions set forth by the state trial and appellate courts. Based on Mr. Poles' qualifications, Mr. Poles could have provided insight regarding, for example, whether disclosing the age of a survey is a custom in his trade. The Poles Declaration contains no such information.

The various duties to disclose from the Restatement and under California law are also inapplicable as to this omission. With respect to Restatement § 551, subsections (a), (b), (c) and (d) are inapplicable for the same reasons as noted above. Again, the only potentially applicable subsection is (e), but Plaintiff has not demonstrated that the age of the survey is a "basic fact" that is essential to the transaction. Plaintiff has also offered no evidence on whether the relationship between the parties, the customs of the trade or other objective circumstances gave rise to a duty to disclose.

Plaintiff offers inadmissible exhibits for the proposition that Defendant had a duty to disclose the age of the survey. Bowen Declaration, Exhibits 4-6. Some of these exhibits may be read to relate to customs of the trade, however: (A) they are inadmissible; and (B) they do not serve to establish either customs of the trade or a duty to disclose the age of surveys. The first exhibit is a letter signed by Dale Ortmann of the Haaland Group, Inc. and sent to a man named Ruben Robles at D&S Homes. Bowen Declaration, Exhibit 4. The letter is not authenticated by either Mr. Robles or Mr. Ortmann, and qualifies as hearsay. [FN9]. Even if the Court were to admit this exhibit into evidence, nothing in the letter establishes a duty to disclose to Plaintiff that Defendant relied on an as-built survey. The letter merely discusses D&S Homes' initial decision not to authorize a design survey; whether Defendant had a duty to obtain a new survey or disclose to subcontractors that Defendant relied on an as-built survey is not mentioned.

The excerpt from Mr. Ortmann's deposition is also hearsay, and will not be admitted as evidence. [FN10]. The excerpt is also incomplete; Plaintiff offers a very small portion of Mr. Ortmann's deposition without any context as to what Mr. Ortmann is testifying about. Even if the Court were to admit this testimony from Mr. Ortmann, Mr. Ortmann does not say anything regarding a duty to disclose to Plaintiff whether the survey Defendant used was an as-built survey. The same is true for state court testimony offered by Mohammad Fatemi. Again, this testimony is hearsay and offered without any context. [FN11]. The Court does not have any evidence of Mr. Fatemi's identity. Even if the Court were to admit this testimony, Mr. Fatemi does not offer any insight into whether Defendant had a duty to disclose that he was relying on an as-built survey. Mr. Fatemi states only that as-built surveys are sometimes inaccurate.

As for duties under California law, the first, third and fourth duties are inapplicable for the same reasons offered under the omission regarding T.O.'s unlicensed status. As for the second circumstance that may create a duty to disclose, where a defendant has exclusive knowledge of material facts not known to the plaintiff, Plaintiff has not demonstrated that Defendant had exclusive knowledge.

Based on the above, Plaintiff has not met its burden of proving that Defendant had a duty to disclose that the survey Defendant used was an as-built survey. However, even if Defendant had such a duty, Plaintiff has not demonstrated that Defendant's omission was motivated by an intent to deceive. As noted above, Mr. Poles is not qualified to testify as to Defendant's intent. In addition, none of the inadmissible exhibits, were they to be admitted, establish that Defendant had any reason to believe the as-built survey was unreliable prior to the 2004 Agreement. The letter from Mr. Ortmann is dated after the 2004 Agreement and the testimony by Mr. Ortmann and Mr. Fatemi does not provide any insight into what Defendant knew or should have known prior to entering into the 2004 Agreement. In addition, Defendant stated that he did not prepare the plans or have any knowledge that the plans were not accurate. Davis Declaration, ¶ 27. There is no other evidence establishing that Defendant possessed deceptive intent.

c. The Alleged Representation Regarding the Construction Drawings

In Plaintiff's MSJ, Plaintiff requests a finding that Defendant made an affirmative misrepresentation regarding the drawings.

There is no evidence that Defendant made any kind of representations regarding the construction drawings or plans at all. The declarations of Jeffrey Ludlow, Matthew Ludlow and Tom Hodge include the exact same testimony: that Defendant did not disclose that the survey was a 33 year old as-built survey, and that Plaintiff would not have entered into the 2004 Agreement if it knew that Defendant had not commissioned an updated survey. Neither Jeffrey Ludlow, Matthew Ludlow nor Mr. Hodge testified that Defendant misrepresented the age of the survey or made the constructing drawings appear as if a recent survey had been performed. It is unclear how Plaintiff used the testimony by the Ludlows and Mr. Hodge, all of whom only stated that Defendant did not disclose the age of the survey, to assert to the Court that Defendant manipulated the construction drawings or otherwise made an affirmative misrepresentation regarding the nature of the survey. There is no evidence of a misrepresentation regarding the construction drawings or the age of the survey at all. Consequently, Plaintiff has not met its burden as to this alleged representation.

d. Defendant's Representations to the City

In Defendant's MSJ, Defendant asserts he did not make any fraudulent representations to the City. Neither the Complaint nor the record before this Court at this time indicate that Plaintiff is basing part of its 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A) claim on representations made to the City. As noted above, these representations were at issue in the Bustamante Lawsuit, but are not at issue here. As such, the Court will not enter judgment one way or another on this issue.

2. Has Plaintiff Shown Knowledge of Falsity or Intent to Deceive?

Plaintiff has not met its burden of demonstrating that Defendant had knowledge of falsity or an intent to deceive. For the reasons stated above, Plaintiff has not shown that Defendant knew he had any duty to disclose the omissions noted by Plaintiff.

As for an intent to deceive, Plaintiff offers Mr. Poles' testimony. Again, Mr. Poles does not have personal knowledge regarding Defendant's knowledge or intent. Instead, Mr. Poles refers to the state trial or appellate courts' legal findings. Neither of those courts made any findings as to Defendant's intent.

Other than Mr. Poles' testimony and the state court decisions, the evidence offered by Plaintiff is either vague as to time or dated after Plaintiff and T.O. entered into the 2004 Agreement, such that it is irrelevant to Defendant's intent at the time of contracting. Plaintiff has offered no other circumstantial evidence establishing an intent to deceive. Consequently, Plaintiff has not met its burden of demonstrating that, at the time T.O. entered into the 2004 Agreement with Plaintiff, Defendant intended to deceive Plaintiff.

3. Has Plaintiff Shown Nondisclosure of a Material Fact?

When a fraud case involves a failure to disclose instead of an affirmative misrepresentation, "positive proof of reliance is not a prerequisite to recovery." Affiliated Ute Citizens v. United States, 406 U.S. 128, 153-54, 92 S.Ct. 1456, 1472, 31 L.Ed.2d 741 (1972); see Apte, 96 F.3d at 1323. "[T]he nondisclosure of a material fact in the face of a duty to disclose has been held to establish the requisite reliance and causation for actual fraud under the Bankruptcy Code." Apte, 96 F.3d at 1323. "A fact is considered material if a hypothetical reasonable person would have considered it important to know before entering into the transaction." In re Thomas, 2017 WL 1160868, at *5 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. Mar. 28, 2017).

As to Defendant's omission regarding T.O.'s unlicensed status, Plaintiff has not offered any authority as to whether this information was material. Nevertheless, the state court apparently gave weight to Defendant's failure to disclose that T.O. was not a licensed contractor. Phase Two Judgment, p. 2 ("Defendant [T.O.] failed to disclose to [Plaintiff] that it was not a licensed contractor and has never been a licensed contractor."). T.O.'s unlicensed status also led to a citation by CSLB. Davis Declaration, ¶ 18. In addition, some courts have held that a party's failure to disclose whether it is licensed is a material omission. See, e.g., U.S. S.E.C. v. Levine, 671 F.Supp.2d 14, 29 ("Surely, a reasonable investor would want to know that the 'escrow agent' he/she is sending their money to is not even licensed to be engaged in that type of business activity."); and SEC v. Randy, 38 F.Supp.2d 657, 669 (N.D. Ill. 1999) (holding that the fact that bank whose securities were being sold was unlicensed was material).

Moreover, the California statutes cited by Plaintiff in the Reply, as well as the policy behind requiring licensing of contractors, indicates that information about a contractor's unlicensed status is material. See, e.g., Rinaldi v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd., 199 Cal.App.3d 217, 225 (Ct. App. 1988) ("The purpose of the Contractors' State License Law is to protect the public by prohibiting dishonest, incompetent, inexperienced or financially irresponsible persons from acting as building contractors. Accordingly, contractors are required by law to be licensed.") (internal quotations and citations omitted); see also B&P § 7028(a)(1) ("Unless

In light of this authority, the Court will find that information about T.O.'s unlicensed status was material.

The same cannot be said regarding the fact that Defendant did not disclose to Plaintiff that he relied on an as-built survey. The state trial and appellate courts do not discuss whether this is a material fact. Plaintiff has not directed the Court to any authority requiring Defendant to use recent as opposed to as-built surveys. Moreover, if disclosures regarding the age of the survey were so material that Plaintiff would not have entered into the 2004 Agreement had Plaintiff known the age of the survey, Plaintiff's personnel presumably would have inquired about the age of the survey during the parties' negotiations. There is no evidence that Plaintiff's personnel did so. Consequently, Plaintiff has not met its burden of proving that the omission regarding the as-built survey was material.

4. Has Plaintiff Shown Damages Proximately Caused by Fraudulent Omissions?

Even if Plaintiff could meet its burden of proving the elements above, Plaintiff has not met its burden of providing any evidence regarding damages. Both parties request summary adjudication of this issue in their respective motions for summary judgment. In Plaintiff's MSJ, Plaintiff asserts that it has shown damages by reference to the Claim Order. In Defendant's MSJ, Defendant asserts that Plaintiff cannot show damages because all of Plaintiff's damages have been paid and Plaintiff has not demonstrated that it is entitled to further damages based on its claim of fraud.

First, Plaintiff has not met its burden of proving damages. That the Court withheld determination of whether Plaintiff was entitled to the remaining amount of damages it asserted in the Claim does not establish that Plaintiff is entitled to those damages. At the time the Court entered the Claim Order, the Court temporarily allowed the Claim pending the outcome of the state court's decision on Plaintiff's fraud cause of action. Subsequently, the Court decided it would no longer stay this adversary proceeding to await the outcome of the state court fraud action. Because this Court instructed the parties that it would be trying Plaintiff's § 523(a)(2)(A) claim here instead of waiting for the state court's decision, Plaintiff now has a burden of proving each element of § 523(a)(2)(A), including damages (as opposed to, for instance, relying on issue preclusion to demonstrate damages). Plaintiff has offered no evidence on damages at all. Consequently, Plaintiff's MSJ must be denied.

Here, Defendant has also requested summary judgment on the issue of damages. For his part, Defendant has provided the Satisfaction of Judgment, demonstrating that all amounts owed to Plaintiff from the Phase One Judgment, the Phase Two Judgment and any awards of attorneys' fees and costs have been paid. Plaintiff has not provided any evidence refuting this evidence. Plaintiff relies only on the Claim Order, and implies there might be additional damages arising from Plaintiff's claim of fraud.

Again, Plaintiff cannot rely on the Claim Order. The Court never established that Plaintiff is entitled to the $1,130,951.42 remaining on the Claim. The Court merely withheld deciding the issue until a determination could be made regarding Plaintiff's fraud claim. The Claim Order is not evidence of Plaintiff's damages. Consequently, Plaintiff must demonstrate that it incurred damage separate and apart from the damages already awarded to Plaintiff as a result of the Phase One Judgment, the Phase Two Judgment and the attorneys' fees award.

Plaintiff has not provided any evidence of damages. Even if Plaintiff's damages depend on a finding that Defendant defrauded Plaintiff, Plaintiff has the burden of showing how Plaintiff was damaged by the alleged fraud. In other words, Plaintiff must demonstrate that it incurred monetary damages (that would be subject to nondischargeability) as a result of the fraud, and that these damages have not already been satisfied by the Satisfaction of Judgment.

The operative complaint in the State Court Action, filed by Plaintiff, reflects that Plaintiff's breach of contract and fraud causes of action were based on the same facts. RJN, Exhibit 2. One of Plaintiff's fraud counts from the State Court Action is based on Defendant's failure to pay Plaintiff the amount owed under the 2004 Agreement. RJN, Exhibit 2, pp. 12-14. The other fraud count is based on Defendant's failure to disclose that T.O. was an unlicensed entity at the time the parties entered into the 2004 Agreement. RJN, Exhibit 2, pp. 14-15. Plaintiff did not allege additional damages based on these fraud counts. The only damages specifically alleged by Plaintiff in the state court complaint were based on Defendant's failure to pay Plaintiff under the 2004 Agreement. Defendant has shown that these damages have already been paid.

In light of the fact that the fraud and breach of contract causes of action were based on the same set of facts, Plaintiff has not shown that it is entitled to different actual damages under its fraud counts. In fact, Plaintiff itself represented to the state appellate court that separating attorneys' fees incurred prosecuting the breach of contract cause of action from the attorneys' fees incurred prosecuting the fraud cause of action was "not appropriate because the trial court could reasonably find that the contract and fraud issues were 'inextricably intertwined.'" Poles Declaration, Exhibit 13. Because Plaintiff took the position that the two causes of action are "inextricably intertwined" in the State Court Action, Plaintiff is judicially estopped from taking a different position at this time. According to the Supreme Court—

Where a party assumes a certain position in a legal proceeding, and succeeds in maintaining that position, he may not thereafter, simply because his interests have changed, assume a contrary position, especially if it be to the prejudice of the party who has acquiesced in the position formerly taken by him. This rule, known as judicial estoppel, generally prevents a party from prevailing in one phase of a case on an argument and then relying on a contradictory argument to prevail in another phase.

Although we have not had occasion to discuss the doctrine elaborately, other courts have uniformly recognized that its purpose is to protect the integrity of the judicial process, by prohibiting parties from deliberately changing positions according to the exigencies of the moment.

New Hampshire v. Maine, 532 U.S. 742, 749-50, 121 S.Ct. 1808, 1814, 148 L.Ed.2d 968 (2001) (internal quotations omitted). "The doctrine extends to incompatible statements and positions in different cases." In re Associated Vintage Grp., Inc., 283 B.R. 549, 566 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2002) (citing to Risetto v. Plumbers & Steamfitters Local 343, 94 F.3d 597, 605 (9th Cir. 1996)). Courts consider the following factors when applying the doctrine of judicial estoppel:

First, a party's later position must be clearly inconsistent with its earlier position. Second, courts regularly inquire whether the party has succeeded in persuading a court to accept that party's earlier position, so that judicial acceptance of an inconsistent position in a later proceeding would create the perception that either the first or the second court was misled. Absent success in a prior proceeding, a party's later inconsistent position introduces no risk of inconsistent court determinations, and thus poses little threat to judicial integrity. A third consideration is whether the party seeking to assert an inconsistent position would derive an unfair advantage or impose an unfair detriment on the opposing party if not estopped. In enumerating these factors, we do not establish inflexible prerequisites or an exhaustive formula for determining the applicability of judicial estoppel. Additional considerations may inform the doctrine's application in specific factual contexts.

New Hampshire, 523 U.S. at 750-51 (internal quotations omitted).

Here, should Plaintiff assert that the two causes of action are not "inextricably intertwined" and that Plaintiff is entitled to different actual or compensatory damages, Plaintiff's position will be clearly inconsistent with its position in state court. In addition, Plaintiff succeeded in persuading the state appellate court that the two causes of action are "inextricably intertwined," because the state appellate court approved the trial court's award of attorneys' fees based, in part, on the concept that the two causes of action were "inextricably intertwined." Because the two causes of action are "inextricably intertwined," and because Plaintiff has submitted no evidence at all regarding Plaintiff's entitlement to additional general, actual or compensatory damages, Plaintiff has not met its burden of proving actual damages.

Nevertheless, both in state court and through its opposition to Defendant's MSJ, Plaintiff has also requested punitive damages. Neither the state court nor this Court has yet made a determination regarding whether Plaintiff is entitled to punitive damages, which requires "clear and convincing evidence that defendant has been guilty of oppression, fraud, or malice." Cal. Civ. Code § 3294(a). At this time, because neither party has prevailed on its motion for summary judgment, a finding regarding whether Plaintiff is entitled to punitive damages is premature. If Plaintiff successfully proves fraud at trial, Plaintiff may then show its entitlement to punitive damages. Because there is a genuine issue of material fact regarding whether Plaintiff is entitled to punitive damages, the Court cannot enter judgment in favor of Defendant at this time.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will grant summary adjudication in favor of Plaintiff only on the following issue: the Court finds that Defendant's nondisclosure of T.O.'s status as an unlicensed entity was material. Otherwise, the Court denies both Plaintiff's MSJ and Defendant's MSJ.

Plaintiff must submit an order within seven (7) days.

1. This background section includes only statements of undisputed fact and portions of declarations to which there are no sustained evidentiary objections.
2. The Bowen Declaration authenticates Exhibit 15 to the Poles Declaration. Exhibit 15 is the California Court of Appeals' decision in *Asphalt Professionals, Inc. v. fr. 11/15/17; 12/20/17(stip); 12/21/17

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Trial has been set to take place from March 19-21, 2018. The Court also has available for trial the dates of March 22-23, 2018. If the plaintiff's health requires that the trial dates be continued, the Court could continue the trial to the week of June 18, 2018.

Having reviewed the parties' revised Joint Pre-Trial Stipulation, filed on January 25, 2018 [doc. 90] (the "Revised Pre-Trial Stipulation"), the Court will determine the following issues of law, as set forth in the Revised Pre-Trial Stipulation: Plaintiff's issues nos. 1, 2, 6, 7, 8 and 11 and Defendant's issue no. 4.

The Ninth Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel (the "BAP") did not remand for this Court to determine whether the element of malice had been conclusively established. As stated in the BAP's Memorandum, "Comparing the elements of the California intentional tort of malicious prosecution with the requirements to establish a willful and malicious injury excepted from the debtor's discharge under § 523(a)(6), we have no quarrel with the bankruptcy court's conclusion that the 'malicious' element was established . . ." Consequently, the Court will treat the element of malice as having been conclusively established.

The Revised Pre-Trial Stipulation, like the prior version, suggests that the defendant has not completed discovery. What discovery does the defendant seek to take - given that the issues to be determined by this Court primarily concern whether the defendant

The Court will take all direct testimony by declaration, with the exception of an opposing party called as an adverse witness. Witnesses may be cross-examined live at trial.

The declaration of plaintiff in lieu of live direct testimony must be filed and served 35 days before trial.

Defendant's declarations in lieu of live direct testimony must be filed and served 28 days before trial.

Any evidentiary objections to the declarations and any opposition to testimony on the basis that the testimony is precluded by judicial estoppel or that the related issue has been preclusively determined must be filed and served 21 days before trial.

Any responses to the evidentiary objections and to the issues of estoppel and preclusion must be filed and served 14 days before trial.

The Court will NOT consider the testimony of any witnesses who were not identified on a party's witness list, and will not consider the testimony of any witness which is not relevant to the issues of fact and law for trial.

The Court will NOT consider any exhibit that was not identified on a party's exhibit list, and will not consider any exhibit which is not relevant to the issues of fact and law for trial.

One week prior to trial, each party must deliver to the chambers of Judge Victoria S. Kaufman the original and one copy of a notebook containing all of that party's trial exhibits, or the parties may deliver a joint exhibit notebook.

POST-TRIAL BRIEFS:

The Court will require the parties to file post-trial briefs concerning the evidence from trial. The Court will not require pretrial briefing.

The plaintiff's post-trial brief must be filed and served 21 days after trial.

The defendant's post-trial brief must be filed and served 35 days after trial.

Any reply brief by the plaintiff must be filed and served 42 days after trial.

In light of the decision from the Ninth Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel, In re Arden, 2015 WL 4068962 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2015), the only legal issue for trial is whether the defendant's conduct was willful. The parties' joint pretrial stipulation (the "JPS") [doc. 81] includes facts and law unrelated to the issue of willfulness. The parties also include legal arguments in the JPS.

As a result, the Court will continue this pretrial conference to 1:30 p.m. on February 1, 2018, to give the parties an opportunity to edit the JPS to omit issues of fact and law unrelated to the element of willfulness under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6) and to omit any legal argument from the JPS. The parties must submit a revised joint pretrial stipulation no later than January 22, 2018.

In addition, in Section G of the JPS, the defendant states that "[n]o discovery has been conducted by either party as determinative motions were filed at the onset of this adversary proceeding. The statement that all discovery is complete may not be correct." Is the defendant asserting that he needs additional discovery prior to trial?

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part, deny in part.

I. BACKGROUND

On July 12, 2013, Marilyn S. Scheer ("Plaintiff") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On November 1, 2013, Plaintiff filed a complaint against the State Bar of California (the "State Bar"), Luis J. Rodriguez, Joseph Dunn, Joanna Remke and Kenneth E. Bacon ("Defendants"), alleging violation of the automatic stay and the discharge injunction under 11 U.S.C. §§ 362 and 524 and discriminatory treatment under § 525 (a).

On November 28, 2016, Plaintiff filed the first amended complaint (the "FAC") [doc. 95]. This time, Plaintiff named only the State Bar, Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon. In relevant part, the FAC alleges:

The State Bar's refusal to lift Plaintiff's involuntary inactive enrollment was a violation of the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362 and constituted discriminatory treatment under 11 U.S.C. § 525.

Plaintiff requests damages for her loss of livelihood from July 12, 2013 through July 16, 2014. Plaintiff also requests costs of suit, including attorneys' fees, interest and other relief as the Court deems appropriate.

On December 19, 2016, Defendants filed a motion to dismiss the FAC (the "Motion to Dismiss") [doc. 96]. In the Motion to Dismiss, Defendants asserted that: (A) the FAC does not include sufficient allegations as to Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon; (B) Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon are immune based on quasi-judicial immunity; (C) Plaintiff has not alleged that she suffered an injury or damages; and (D) the FAC does not make sufficient allegations regarding Plaintiff's request for punitive damages against Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon.

On April 19, 2017, the Court issued a ruling on the Motion to Dismiss (the "Ruling") [doc. 118]. In the Ruling, the Court dismissed Mr. Bacon on the basis that Mr. Bacon is immune, also finding that Plaintiff's reference to a State Bar's Arbitration Advisory (the "Advisory") regarding immunity was irrelevant to the Court's decision because "the Court is not bound by publications by the State Bar" and the Advisory discussed pending arbitrations, not enforcement of existing arbitration awards. The Court also dismissed Mr. Dunn on the basis that Plaintiff had not sufficiently stated a claim against Mr. Dunn. Further, the Court ruled that Plaintiff could not take discovery on issues of immunity. Finally, the Court denied the Motion to Dismiss as to the State Bar.

On May 8, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the Motion to Dismiss [doc. 124]. On April 26, 2017, the Court entered a scheduling order [doc. 122], setting August 30, 2017 as the deadline by which to complete discovery.

On May 10, 2017, the State Bar filed an answer to the FAC (the "Answer") [doc. 125]. In the Answer, the State Bar denied all relevant allegations in the FAC and asserted six affirmative defenses: (A) failure to state a claim; (B) Plaintiff's damages were caused in whole or in part by Plaintiff's own actions; (C) Plaintiff's damages were caused in whole or in part by third parties; (D) failure to mitigate losses; (E) the State Bar was not the cause of any losses alleged by Plaintiff; and (F) the Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction.

On August 4, 2017, the State Bar and Plaintiff filed a joint stipulation to extend deadlines [doc. 133]. On August 8, 2017, the Court entered an order approving the joint stipulation (the "Order Extending Deadlines") [doc. 135]. In the Order Extending Deadlines, the Court set the following dates and deadlines: (A) December 15, 2017 as the discovery cutoff date; (B) January 11, 2018 as the deadline to file pretrial motions; (C) January 31, 2018 as the deadline to file a joint pretrial stipulation; and (D) February 14, 2018 as the pretrial conference date.

On July 28, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion to compel the State Bar to provide interrogatory responses (the "First Motion to Compel") [doc. 130]. On August 21, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion for a protective order, asking the Court to strike certain deposition categories (the "First Motion for Protective Order") [doc. 140]. On September 13, 2017, the Court held a hearing on the First Motion to Compel and the First Motion for Protective Order. At that time, the Court issued rulings setting forth which deposition categories were appropriate and the interrogatories to which the State Bar had to respond [docs. 152, 153]. In both rulings, the Court held that the Advisory is irrelevant to the issues in this adversary proceeding, and that Plaintiff may not depose the State Bar regarding the Advisory or compel the State Bar to respond to interrogatories about the Advisory. On September 18, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the First Motion to Compel [doc. 155]. On October 6, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the First Motion for Protective Order [doc. 165].

On September 20, 2017, the parties appeared for a status conference. On September 28, 2017, in light of the parties' contentions at the status conference, the Court entered an order regarding the parties' depositions of each other and providing a deadline for the parties to exchange initial disclosures pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26 (the "Deposition Order") [doc. 165]. In the Deposition Order, the Court set October 10, 2017 as the date each party would depose the other. The Deposition Order provided that the Plaintiff's deposition should be first, followed by the State Bar's deposition, "which shall be continued from day to day, excluding holidays and weekends until completed."

The Deposition Order also stated that Suzanne Grandt is the only attorney allowed to conduct the deposition of Plaintiff, and that Ms. Grandt will be Plaintiff's sole contact person at the State Bar throughout the course of this litigation. The Court set a deadline of October 2, 2017 for the parties to make their initial disclosures.

On October 20, 2017, the State Bar produced Elizabeth Lew, an administrative assistant in the Mandatory Fee Arbitration Department as its designated Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 30(b)(6) deponent [doc. 231, Transcript of Lew's Deposition].

Plaintiff objected at the deposition to the witness because Plaintiff believed Ms. Lew was not prepared to testify to the deposition categories. Over the next few weeks, the parties exchanged communications regarding a joint stipulation. See [doc. 176, Scheer Declaration, ¶¶ 7-8, 16] [doc. 190, Grandt Declaration, ¶¶ 3-7]. The parties did not reach an agreement and did not sign a joint stipulation. See [doc. 176, Scheer Declaration, ¶ 16] [doc. 190, Grandt Declaration, ¶ 7].

On November 7, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to extend the deadlines provided in the Order Extending Deadlines (the "State Bar's Motion to Extend") [doc. 172]. Plaintiff did not oppose the State Bar's Motion to Extend. On December 11, 2017, the State Bar voluntarily dismissed the State Bar's Motion to Extend [doc. 187]. On December 14, 2017, Plaintiff filed her own motion to extend deadlines ("Plaintiff's Motion to Extend") [doc. 192].

In the meanwhile, both parties filed several discovery related motions. On November 22, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for an order requiring the State Bar to comply with Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 30(b)(6) by designating a knowledgeable person and allowing an amendment to Plaintiff's deposition topics ("Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance") [doc. 176]. Plaintiff is asking the Court to order the State bar to produce a knowledgeable witness. On December 14, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to strike Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance (the "Motion to Strike") [doc. 189], asking the Court to strike Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance on the basis that Plaintiff did not enter into a joint stipulation with the State Bar in accordance with Local Bankruptcy Rule 7026-1(c).

On December 7, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to compel the continued deposition of Plaintiff (the "State Bar's Motion to Compel") [doc. 181], asserting that Plaintiff refused to answer questions regarding her law practice. On December 15, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for a protective order requesting the Court prohibit the State Bar from questioning Plaintiff about her law practice (the "Motion for Deposition Order") [doc. 194].

On December 27, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for leave to join additional defendants to this action (the "Motion to Join") [doc. 205]. On January 4, 2018, Plaintiff filed a motion for a protective order requesting the Court seal Plaintiff's medical records and tax returns (the "Motion for Records Order") [doc. 209].

On January 11, 2018, the State Bar filed seven motions in limine to exclude certain evidence at trial (the "Motions in Limine") [doc. 213]. Finally, on January 17, 2018, the State Bar filed another protective order, requesting a global protective order to govern this adversary proceeding (the "Motion for Global Protective Order") [doc. 225].

II. ANALYSIS

A. The Motion to Strike

Prior to filing a motion to compel, a party must comply with Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 7026-1(c). Under LBR 7026-1(c)—

- (1) General. Unless excused from complying with this rule by order of the court for good cause shown, a party must seek to resolve any dispute arising under FRBP 7026-7037 or FRBP 2004 in accordance with this rule.
- (2) Meeting of Counsel. Prior to the filing of any motion relating to discovery, counsel for the parties must meet in person or by telephone in a good faith effort to resolve a discovery dispute. It is the responsibility of counsel for the moving party to arrange the conference. Unless altered by agreement of the parties or by order of the court for cause shown, counsel for the opposing party must meet with counsel for the moving party within 7 days of service upon counsel of a letter requesting such meeting and specifying the terms of the discovery order to be sought.
- (3) Moving Papers. If counsel are unable to resolve the dispute, the party seeking discovery must file and serve a notice of motion together with a written stipulation by the parties.
  - (A) The stipulation must be contained in 1 document and must identify, separately and with particularity, each disputed issue that remains to be determined at the hearing and the contentions and points and authorities of each party as to each issue.

Chapter 7

- (B) The stipulation must not simply refer the court to the document containing the discovery request forming the basis of the dispute. For example, if the sufficiency of an answer to an interrogatory is in issue, the stipulation must contain, verbatim, both the interrogatory and the allegedly insufficient answer, followed by each party's contentions, separately stated.
- (C) In the absence of such stipulation or a declaration of counsel of noncooperation by the opposing party, the court will not consider the discovery motion.
- (4) Cooperation of Counsel; Sanctions. The failure of any counsel either to cooperate in this procedure, to attend the meeting of counsel, or to provide the moving party the information necessary to prepare the stipulation required by this rule within 7 days of the meeting of counsel will result in the imposition of sanctions, including the sanctions authorized by FRBP 7037 and LBR 9011-3.

Here, it appears the parties did attempt to meet and confer in accordance with LBR 7026-1(c). Despite their meet and confer, the parties apparently could not agree to a joint stipulation. The LBRs provide that the Court will not entertain a discovery motion "[i]n the absence of [a joint stipulation] or a declaration of counsel of noncooperation..." LBR 7026-1(c)(3)(C). Here, both parties have filed declarations asserting that the other party did not cooperate. The Court will not strike Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance based on both parties' inability to agree to a joint stipulation.

B. Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 7030, "Rule 30 F.R.Civ.P. applies in adversary proceedings." According to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 30 (b)(6): "[A] party may ... name as the deponent ... a ... corporation ... and describe with reasonable particularity the matters on which examination is requested.... endeavor to designate the persons having knowledge of the matters sought by [the party noticing the deposition] and to prepare those persons in order that they can answer fully, completely, unequivocally, the questions posed ... as to the relevant subject matters.'" Sony Elecs., Inc. v. Soundview Techs., Inc., 217 F.R.D. 104, 111–12 (D. Conn. 2002) (citing Bank of New York v. Meridien BIAO Bank Tanzania Ltd., 171 F.R.D. 135, 151 (S.D.N.Y. 1997)).

"Indeed, the corporation 'is expected to create a witness or witnesses with responsive knowledge,' and in doing so must make a good faith effort to 'find out the relevant facts—to collect information, review documents, and interview employees with personal knowledge.'" Coryn Group II, LLC v. O.C. Seacrets, Inc., 265 F.R.D. 235, 238 (D. Md. 2010) (citing Wilson v. Lakner, 228 F.R.D. 524, 528–29 (D. Md. 2005)) (emphasis added).

If it appears at the deposition that the witness designated by the corporation is unable to answer questions on matters specified in the deposition notice, a corporate party must immediately designate a new witness. Marker v. Union Fidelity Life Ins. Co., 125 F.R.D. 121, 126 (M.D.N.C. 1989). "Where a corporate deponent fails to provide an adequately prepared designee for deposition, sanctions are proper." Coryn Group II, 265 F.R.D. at 239.

"On the other hand, a corporation that engages in good faith efforts to prepare and whose witness provides 'substantial testimony concerning the subject areas of their designation[ ]' despite inadequate preparation may not be subject to sanctions. Id. at 240 (citing Wilson, 228 F.R.D. at 530). "Nonetheless, where 'unanswered information is significant enough, the 30(b)(6) deposition may have to be reconvened, possibly with a new witness,' at the corporation's expense." Id. (citing Wilson, 228 F.R.D. at 530).

Here, in light of the authorities above, the State Bar has not complied with its obligation to produce one or more witnesses knowledgeable about the subject matter of the noticed topics. The State Bar does not dispute the fact that Plaintiff served a Rule 30(b)(6) deposition notice describing the subject matters about which Plaintiff was to depose the State Bar's witness. In its opposition to Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance, the State Bar asserts that Ms. Lew was properly designated as a Rule 30(b)(6) designee and that she answered questions to the extent she could recall.

The transcript of Ms. Lew's deposition testimony [doc. 231], however, reveals gaps in Ms. Lew's knowledge as well as evasive answers regarding specific topics included in Plaintiff's Rule 30(b)(6) notice. "Although the rule is not designed to be a memory contest...", Ms. Lew should have been able to provide answers to questions that were reasonably available to the State Bar on the noticed topics. In re Minamoto, 12-01410, 2015 WL 5025472, at *1 (Bankr. D. Haw. Aug. 24, 2015).

The State Bar did not meet its obligation to make a conscientious, good faith effort to produce a thoroughly educated witness about the noticed deposition topics and facts known to the State Bar or its counsel. Ms. Lew was unable to provide complete and knowledgeable answers on the subjects of examination described in the Rule 30(b)(6) deposition notice. Throughout her deposition, Ms. Lew repeatedly stated that she did not know the answers to questions posed by Plaintiff, which questions should have been anticipated because of Plaintiff's notice to the State Bar of the deposition categories. See, e.g. Deposition Transcript of Elizabeth Lew [doc. 231], 15:11-14, 16:10-15, 17:4-10, 18:1-10, 19: 7-14, 35:7-11, 37:24-35:1, 49:16-23, 51:22-25, 52:1-2, 54:13-21, 55:10-13.

The State Bar has objected to producing another Rule 30(b)(6) deponent because another deposition will not provide Plaintiff with information she does not already have through interrogatories and discovery documents. "Producing documents and responding to written discovery is not a substitute for providing a thoroughly educated Rule 30(b)(6) deponent." Great Am. Ins. Co. of New York v. Vegas Const. Co., Inc., 251 F.R.D. 534, 541 (D. Nev. 2008). "[T]he two forms of discovery are not equivalent,... and depositions provide a more complete means to obtain information and are, therefore, favored." Id.

The State Bar was required to educate an appropriate Rule 30(b)(6) designee to provide knowledgeable answers reasonably available to the State Bar, which includes information ascertainable from files and documents, information from past and present employees, witness testimony and exhibits or any other sources available to the State Bar, including factual information learned through or from its counsel. See id. The State Bar must take steps to gain information from reasonably available sources in order to educate its future designated witness. The Court will order the State Bar to produce a fully prepared designee (or designees) capable of responding appropriately at a Rule 30(b)(6) deposition on noticed topics.

C. Plaintiff's Request to Amend the Deposition Categories

It is unclear which specific amendments Plaintiff wishes to make to the deposition categories related to the future deposition of the State Bar's Rule 30(b)(6) witness. To the extent Plaintiff wants to depose the State Bar's witness regarding the Advisory, the Court has already ruled that Plaintiff cannot do that. In its rulings on the First Motion to Compel and the First Motion for Protective Order, the Court explicitly ruled that the Advisory is irrelevant and that Plaintiff is not entitled to discovery regarding the Advisory. The Court will not change its ruling.

D. Sanctions

Because the Court is also granting the State Bar's Motion to Compel, through which the State Bar is requesting an order compelling Plaintiff to continue her deposition, the Court will not award sanctions to either party. Both parties did not meet their discovery obligations. As a result, the Court will not reward either party with an award of sanctions against the opposing party.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will compel the State Bar to produce another witness to be deposed pursuant to Rule 30(b)(6). The Court will deny the Motion to Strike. The Court also will deny Plaintiff's request to amend the deposition categories and Plaintiff's request for sanctions. The parties should be ready to discuss a time and date for the State Bar's witness's continued deposition.

Plaintiff must submit an order within seven (7) days.

Dunn and Mr. Bacon.

Chapter 7

On April 19, 2017, the Court issued a ruling on the Motion to Dismiss (the "Ruling") [doc. 118]. In the Ruling, the Court dismissed Mr. Bacon on the basis that Mr. Bacon is immune, also finding that Plaintiff's reference to a State Bar's Arbitration Advisory (the "Advisory") regarding immunity was irrelevant to the Court's decision because "the Court is not bound by publications by the State Bar" and the Advisory discussed pending arbitrations, not enforcement of existing arbitration awards. The Court also dismissed Mr. Dunn on the basis that Plaintiff had not sufficiently stated a claim against Mr. Dunn. Further, the Court ruled that Plaintiff could not take discovery on issues of immunity. Finally, the Court denied the Motion to Dismiss as to the State Bar.

On May 8, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the Motion to Dismiss [doc. 124]. On April 26, 2017, the Court entered a scheduling order [doc. 122], setting August 30, 2017 as the deadline by which to complete discovery.

On May 10, 2017, the State Bar filed an answer to the FAC (the "Answer") [doc. 125]. In the Answer, the State Bar denied all relevant allegations in the FAC and asserted six affirmative defenses: (A) failure to state a claim; (B) Plaintiff's damages were caused in whole or in part by Plaintiff's own actions; (C) Plaintiff's damages were caused in whole or in part by third parties; (D) failure to mitigate losses; (E) the State Bar was not the cause of any losses alleged by Plaintiff; and (F) the Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction.

On August 4, 2017, the State Bar and Plaintiff filed a joint stipulation to extend deadlines [doc. 133]. On August 8, 2017, the Court entered an order approving the joint stipulation (the "Order Extending Deadlines") [doc. 135]. In the Order Extending Deadlines, the Court set the following dates and deadlines: (A) December 15, 2017 as the discovery cutoff date; (B) January 11, 2018 as the deadline to file pretrial motions; (C) January 31, 2018 as the deadline to file a joint pretrial stipulation; and (D) February 14, 2018 as the pretrial conference date.

On July 28, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion to compel the State Bar to provide interrogatory responses (the "First Motion to Compel") [doc. 130]. On August 21, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion for a protective order, asking the Court to strike certain deposition categories (the "First Motion for Protective Order") [doc. 140]. On September 13, 2017, the Court held a hearing on the First Motion to Compel and the First Motion for Protective Order. At that time, the Court issued rulings setting forth which deposition categories were appropriate and the interrogatories to which the State Bar had to respond [docs. 152, 153]. In both rulings, the Court held that the Advisory is irrelevant to the issues in this adversary proceeding, and that Plaintiff may not depose the State Bar regarding the Advisory or compel the State Bar to respond to interrogatories about the Advisory. On September 18, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the First Motion to Compel [doc. 155]. On October 6, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the First Motion for Protective Order [doc. 165].

On September 20, 2017, the parties appeared for a status conference. On September 28, 2017, in light of the parties' contentions at the status conference, the Court entered an order regarding the parties' depositions of each other and providing a deadline for the parties to exchange initial disclosures pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26 (the "Deposition Order") [doc. 165]. In the Deposition Order, the Court set October 10, 2017 as the date each party would depose the other. The Deposition Order provided that the Plaintiff's deposition should be first, followed by the State Bar's deposition, "which shall be continued from day to day, excluding holidays and weekends until completed."

The Deposition Order also stated that Suzanne Grandt is the only attorney allowed to conduct the deposition of Plaintiff, and that Ms. Grandt will be Plaintiff's sole contact person at the State Bar throughout the course of this litigation. The Court set a deadline of October 2, 2017 for the parties to make their initial disclosures.

On November 7, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to extend the deadlines provided in the Order Extending Deadlines (the "State Bar's Motion to Extend") [doc. 172]. Plaintiff did not oppose the State Bar's Motion to Extend. On December 11, 2017, the State Bar voluntarily dismissed the State Bar's Motion to Extend [doc. 187]. On December 14, 2017, Plaintiff filed her own motion to extend deadlines ("Plaintiff's Motion to Extend") [doc. 192].

In the meanwhile, both parties filed several discovery related motions. On November 22, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for an order requiring the State Bar to comply with Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 30(b)(6) by designating a knowledgeable person and allowing an amendment to Plaintiff's deposition topics ("Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance") [doc. 176]. Plaintiff is asking the Court to order the State bar to produce a knowledgeable witness. On December 14, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to strike Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance (the "Motion to Strike") [doc. 189], asking the Court to strike Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance on the basis that Plaintiff did not enter into a joint stipulation with the State Bar in accordance with Local Bankruptcy Rule 7026-1(c).

On December 7, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to compel the continued deposition of Plaintiff (the "State Bar's Motion to Compel") [doc. 181], asserting that Plaintiff refused to answer questions regarding her law practice, Marilyn Scheer Law Group PC ("MSLG"). On December 15, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for a protective order (the "Motion for Deposition Order") [doc. 194], asking the Court to prohibit the State Bar from questioning Plaintiff about MSLG. On January 23, 2018, Plaintiff filed an opposition to the State Bar's Motion to Compel (the "Opposition to the State Bar's Motion to Compel") [doc. 236]. On January 24, 2018, the State Bar filed an opposition to the Motion for Deposition Order (the "Opposition to the Motion for Deposition Order") [doc. 237].

On December 27, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for leave to join additional defendants to this action (the "Motion to Join") [doc. 205]. On January 4, 2018, Plaintiff filed a motion for a protective order requesting the Court seal Plaintiff's medical records and tax returns (the "Motion for Records Order") [doc. 209].

On January 11, 2018, the State Bar filed seven motions in limine to exclude certain evidence at trial (the "Motions in Limine") [doc. 213]. Finally, on January 17, 2018, the State Bar filed another protective order, requesting a global protective order to govern this adversary proceeding (the "Motion for Global Protective Order") [doc. 225].

Unless otherwise limited by court order, the scope of discovery is as follows: Parties may obtain discovery regarding any nonprivileged matter that is relevant to any party's claim or defense and proportional to the needs of the case, considering the importance of the issues at stake in the action, the amount in controversy, the parties' relative access to relevant information, the parties' resources, the importance of the discovery in resolving the issues, and whether the burden or expense of the proposed discovery outweighs its likely benefit. Information within this scope of discovery need not be admissible in evidence to be discoverable.

Pursuant to Rule 26(b)(2)(C)(iii), "the court must limit the frequency or extent of discovery otherwise allowed by these rules or by local rule if it determines that...the proposed discovery is outside the scope permitted by Rule 26(b)(1)." Under Rule 26(c)(1)—

A party or any person from whom discovery is sought may move for a protective order in the court where the action is pending -- or as an alternative on matters relating to a deposition, in the court for the district where the deposition will be taken. The motion must include a certification that the movant has in good faith conferred or attempted to confer with other affected parties in an effort to resolve the dispute without court action. The court may, for good cause, issue an order to protect a party or person from annoyance, embarrassment, oppression, or undue burden or expense....

"Rule 26(c) confers broad discretion on the trial court to decide when a protective order is appropriate and what degree of protection is required." Seattle Times Co. v. Rhinehart, 467 U.S. 20, 36, 104 S.Ct. 2199, 81 L.Ed.2d 17 (1984). The party seeking the protective order has the burden "to 'show good cause' by demonstrating harm or prejudice that will result from the discovery." Rivera v. NIBCO, Inc., 364 F.3d 1057, 1063 (9th Cir.2004).

"Broad allegations of harm, unsubstantiated by specific examples or articulated reasoning, do not satisfy the Rule 26(c) test." Beckman Indus., Inc. v. Int'l Ins. Co., 966 F.2d 470, 475 (9th Cir. 1992) (citing Cipollone v. Liggett Group, Inc., 785 F.2d 1108, 1121 (3rd Cir. 1986)). Rather, "[t]he party opposing disclosure has the burden of proving 'good cause,' which requires a showing 'that specific prejudice or harm will result' if the protective order is not granted." In re Roman Catholic Archbishop of Portland in Oregon, 661 F.3d 417, 424 (9th Cir.2011) (quoting Foltz v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 331 F.3d 1122, 1130 (9th Cir.2003)).

Here, the State Bar's inquiries regarding MSLG are highly relevant to Plaintiff's request for damages based on lost wages and emotional distress. As to Plaintiff's claim for lost wages, Plaintiff asserts she is willing to stipulate that she made no money from MSLG. However, Plaintiff refused to answer other questions regarding MSLG, such as why Plaintiff was winding down MSLG and what kind of work she was doing for MSLG. These questions are also relevant to Plaintiff's claim of lost wages because Plaintiff is asserting, had it not been for the State Bar placing her on involuntary inactive enrollment, Plaintiff would have been hired by other law firms. Plaintiff's experience at MSLG is relevant to the type of firm and/or practice for which Plaintiff would qualify.

In addition, although Plaintiff briefly mentions that certain information is privileged, Plaintiff has not specified what kind of privileged information the State Bar sought. It does not appear that the State Bar has asked for Plaintiff's work product or attorney-client communications.

Moreover, the information about Plaintiff's state of mind at the time she was winding down her firm is also relevant to Plaintiff's emotional distress damages. If Plaintiff is to argue that the State Bar's refusal to lift Plaintiff's involuntary inactive enrollment caused her emotional distress, the State Bar is entitled to obtain discovery that may show other factors caused Plaintiff's emotional distress.

In light of the above, all of the information sought by the State Bar is relevant. The next issue is whether there is "good cause" to protect Plaintiff from "annoyance, embarrassment, oppression, or undue burden or expense...." Rule 26(c)(1). At this time, it does not appear the State Bar has asked inappropriate questions that would result in annoyance, embarrassment or oppression. Plaintiff has refused to answer relevant questions regarding MSLG, which questions go at the heart of the remaining issue in this adversary proceeding, namely, damages. As such, there is no good cause to enter a protective order.

#13.00 Plaintiff's motion to extend discovery cut-off and other pretrial deadlines for purposes of allowing plaintiff to join parties under rule 20

Docket 192

Tentative Ruling:

Because the Court is granting the plaintiff's motion to compel the defendant to produce a properly designated witness pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 30(b)(6), and the defendant indicated it intends to continue its deposition of the plaintiff if the deadlines are extended, the Court will extend the dates and deadlines from the Court's prior scheduling order [doc. 135].

In its now-withdrawn motion to extend [doc. 172], the defendant had asked the Court to extend the current dates and deadlines to the following proposed dates: (A) March 15, 2018 as the discovery cutoff date; (B) June 11, 2018 as the deadline to file pretrial motions; (C) July 1, 2018 as the deadline to file a joint pretrial stipulation; and (D) July 15, 2018 as the pretrial conference date.

Given that the Court is hearing the parties' discovery motions in February, the Court will extend the dates and deadlines that had been proposed by the defendant by an additional month. The Court will set new dates and deadlines as follows: (A) April 16, 2018 as the discovery cutoff date; (B) July 16, 2018 as the deadline to file pretrial motions; (C) August 1, 2018 as the deadline to file a joint pretrial stipulation; and (D) August 15, 2018 as the pretrial conference date.

In light of the extended dates and deadlines, including the discovery cutoff date, the parties should be prepared to discuss a hearing date for the defendant's motion for summary judgment [doc. 220].

I. BACKGROUND

On July 12, 2013, Marilyn S. Scheer ("Plaintiff") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On November 1, 2013, Plaintiff filed a complaint against the State Bar of California (the "State Bar"), Luis J. Rodriguez, Joseph Dunn, Joanna Remke and Kenneth E. Bacon ("Defendants"), alleging violation of the automatic stay and the discharge injunction under 11 U.S.C. §§ 362 and 524 and discriminatory treatment under § 525 (a).

On November 28, 2016, Plaintiff filed the first amended complaint (the "FAC") [doc. 95]. This time, Plaintiff named only the State Bar, Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon. In relevant part, the FAC alleges:

The State Bar's refusal to lift Plaintiff's involuntary inactive enrollment was a violation of the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362 and constituted discriminatory treatment under 11 U.S.C. § 525.

Plaintiff requests damages for her loss of livelihood from July 12, 2013 through July 16, 2014. Plaintiff also requests costs of suit, including attorneys' fees, interest and other relief as the Court deems appropriate.

On December 19, 2016, Defendants filed a motion to dismiss the FAC (the "Motion to Dismiss") [doc. 96]. In the Motion to Dismiss, Defendants asserted that: (A) the FAC does not include sufficient allegations as to Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon; (B) Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon are immune based on quasi-judicial immunity; (C) Plaintiff has not alleged that she suffered an injury or damages; and (D) the FAC does not make sufficient allegations regarding Plaintiff's request for punitive damages against Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon.

On April 19, 2017, the Court issued a ruling on the Motion to Dismiss (the "Ruling") [doc. 118]. In the Ruling, the Court dismissed Mr. Bacon on the basis that Mr. Bacon is immune, also finding that Plaintiff's reference to a State Bar's Arbitration Advisory (the "Advisory") regarding immunity was irrelevant to the Court's decision because "the Court is not bound by publications by the State Bar" and the Advisory discussed pending arbitrations, not enforcement of existing arbitration awards. The Court also dismissed Mr. Dunn on the basis that Plaintiff had not sufficiently stated a claim against Mr. Dunn. Further, the Court ruled that Plaintiff could not take discovery on issues of immunity. Finally, the Court denied the Motion to Dismiss as to the State Bar.

On May 8, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the Motion to Dismiss [doc. 124]. On April 26, 2017, the Court entered a scheduling order [doc. 122], setting August 30, 2017 as the deadline by which to complete discovery.

On May 10, 2017, the State Bar filed an answer to the FAC (the "Answer") [doc. 125]. In the Answer, the State Bar denied all relevant allegations in the FAC and asserted six affirmative defenses: (A) failure to state a claim; (B) Plaintiff's damages were caused in whole or in part by Plaintiff's own actions; (C) Plaintiff's damages were caused in whole or in part by third parties; (D) failure to mitigate losses; (E) the State Bar was not the cause of any losses alleged by Plaintiff; and (F) the Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction.

On August 4, 2017, the State Bar and Plaintiff filed a joint stipulation to extend deadlines [doc. 133]. On August 8, 2017, the Court entered an order approving the joint stipulation (the "Order Extending Deadlines") [doc. 135]. In the Order Extending Deadlines, the Court set the following dates and deadlines: (A) December 15, 2017 as the discovery cutoff date; (B) January 11, 2018 as the deadline to file pretrial motions; (C) January 31, 2018 as the deadline to file a joint pretrial stipulation; and (D) February 14, 2018 as the pretrial conference date.

On July 28, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion to compel the State Bar to provide interrogatory responses (the "First Motion to Compel") [doc. 130]. On August 21, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion for a protective order, asking the Court to strike certain deposition categories (the "First Motion for Protective Order") [doc. 140]. On September 13, 2017, the Court held a hearing on the First Motion to Compel and the First Motion for Protective Order. At that time, the Court issued rulings setting forth which deposition categories were appropriate and the interrogatories to which the State Bar had to respond [docs. 152, 153]. In both rulings, the Court held that the Advisory is irrelevant to the issues in this adversary proceeding, and that Plaintiff may not depose the State Bar regarding the Advisory or compel the State Bar to respond to interrogatories about the Advisory. On September 18, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the First Motion to Compel [doc. 155]. On October 6, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the First Motion for Protective Order [doc. 165].

On September 20, 2017, the parties appeared for a status conference. On September 28, 2017, in light of the parties' contentions at the status conference, the Court entered an order regarding the parties' depositions of each other and providing a deadline for the parties to exchange initial disclosures pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26 (the "Deposition Order") [doc. 165]. In the Deposition Order, the Court set October 10, 2017 as the date each party would depose the other. In the meanwhile, both parties filed several discovery related motions. On December 7, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to compel the continued deposition of Plaintiff (the "State Bar's Motion to Compel") [doc. 181], asserting that Plaintiff refused to answer questions regarding her law practice. On December 15, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for a protective order requesting the Court prohibit the State Bar from questioning Plaintiff about her law practice (the "Motion for Deposition Order") [doc. 194].

On December 27, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for leave to join additional defendants to this action (the "Motion to Join") [doc. 205]. On January 4, 2018, Plaintiff filed a motion for a protective order requesting the Court seal Plaintiff's medical records and tax returns (the "Motion for Records Order") [doc. 209].

On January 11, 2018, the State Bar filed seven motions in limine (the "Motions in Limine") [doc. 213], asking the Court to prevent Plaintiff from introducing evidence of damages at trial. Plaintiff opposes the Motions in Limine [doc. 233]. Finally, on January 17, 2018, the State Bar filed another protective order (the "Motion for Global Protective Order") [doc. 225], requesting a global protective order to govern this adversary proceeding. On January 24, 2018, Plaintiff filed a response to the Motion for Global Protective Order [doc. 244].

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 20(a), applicable to this adversary proceeding through Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 7020—

(a) Persons Who May Join or Be Joined.

(2) Defendants. Persons--as well as a vessel, cargo, or other property subject to admiralty process in rem--may be joined in one action as defendants if:

(A) any right to relief is asserted against them jointly, severally, or in the alternative with respect to or arising out of the same transaction, occurrence, or series of transactions or occurrences; and

(B) any question of law or fact common to all defendants will arise in the action.

"Rule 20 is designed to promote judicial economy, and reduce inconvenience, delay, and added expense ." Coughlin v. Rogers, 130 F.3d 1348, 1351 (9th Cir. 1997). Courts construe the requirements of Rule 20 liberally to promote trial convenience and to expedite determination of disputes. See United Mine Workers of America v. Gibbs, 383 U.S. 715, 724, 86 S.Ct. 1130, 1138, 16 L.Ed.2d 218 (1966) ("Under the Rules, the impulse is toward entertaining the broadest possible scope of action consistent with fairness to the parties; joinder of claims, parties and remedies is strongly encouraged.").

Here, both conditions to joinder are met. First, the proposed second amended complaint is requesting relief against all defendants jointly and severally, and Plaintiff's alleged right to relief from the defendants arises out of the same occurrence, namely, the refusal to lift Plaintiff's involuntary inactive enrollment. In addition, any question of law or fact common to all defendants will arise in this adversary proceeding. As such, joining the additional defendants named by Plaintiff is appropriate.

B. Rule 15

The State Bar does not oppose joinder pursuant to Rule 20. Rather, the State Bar asserts that Plaintiff cannot amend the FAC on account of Rule 16(b)(4), which states that "[a] schedule may be modified only for good cause and with the judge's consent." Rule 16(b)(4) is inapplicable. The Court did not enter a scheduling order providing a deadline by which Plaintiff may amend the FAC or join parties. In addition, based on the Plaintiff's pending motion to extend dates and deadlines, the Court will be modifying the current scheduling order.

The Rule controlling amendments to complaints is Rule 15. Pursuant to Rule 15(a), applicable to this adversary proceeding through Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 7015—

(1) Amending as a Matter of Course.

A party may amend its pleading once as a matter of course within:

(A) 21 days after serving it, or

(B) if the pleading is one to which a responsive pleading is required, 21 days after service of a responsive pleading or 21 days after service of a motion under Rule 12(b), (e), or (f), whichever is earlier.

(2) Other Amendments.

In all other cases, a party may amend its pleading only with the opposing party's written consent or the court's leave. The court should freely give leave when justice so requires.

Courts have the discretion to grant or deny leave to amend a complaint. Swanson v. U.S. Forest Serv., 87 F.3d 339, 343 (9th Cir. 1996). "In exercising this discretion, a court must be guided by the underlying purpose of Rule 15 to facilitate decision on the merits, rather than on the pleadings or technicalities." United States v. Webb, 655 F.2d 977, 979 (9th Cir. 1981). The factors courts commonly consider when determining whether to grant leave to amend are:

1. Bad faith;
2. Undue delay;
3. Prejudice to the opposing party; and
4. Futility of amendment.

Chapter 7

Ditto v. McCurdy, 510 F.3d 1070, 1079 (9th Cir. 2007) (internal citations omitted).
Based on this standard, the Court will grant Plaintiff leave to amend the FAC.

1. Plaintiff is Not Acting in Bad Faith

"Bad faith in filing a motion for leave to amend exists when the addition of new legal theories are baseless and presented for the purpose of prolonging the litigation." Paz v. City of Aberdeen, 2013 WL 6163016, at *5 (W.D. Wash. Nov. 25, 2013).

The State Bar asserts that Plaintiff is acting in bad faith because the caption to the proposed second amended complaint includes Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon as defendants. However, it appears this is a mistake; Plaintiff does not include allegations against Mr. Dunn or Mr. Bacon in the proposed second amended complaint. Regarding the Plaintiff's allegations in the proposed second amended complaint regarding the defendants' legal arguments, as discussed below, the Court will strike these paragraphs from the proposed second amended complaint.

2. There is No Undue Delay

Here, Plaintiff notes that she learned the identities of the six new defendants after receiving the State Bar's responses to the first and second set of interrogatories. Plaintiff received these responses on October 10, 2017 and November 8, 2017, respectively. Plaintiff filed the Motion to Join approximately a month and a half later. As such, there was no undue delay in filing the Motion to Join. In addition, the Court is extending all deadlines in this adversary proceeding, including the discovery cutoff date. In light of this fact, allowing the amendment will not cause undue delay to the proceeding.

3. Prejudice to Opposing Party

Although granting the Motion to Join may result in additional filings, such as another motion to dismiss, the State Bar will not be significantly prejudiced by the delay because the Court is extending deadlines for the parties to complete discovery. The State Bar states that Plaintiff's amendment will not have any impact on the amount of damages. However, the amendment may have an impact regarding which parties are liable for the damages. The State Bar has not provided that it will be prejudiced in any other way.

4. *The Proposed Second Amended Complaint is Only Partially Futile

"A proposed amendment is futile only if no set of facts can be proved under the amendment to the pleadings that would constitute a valid and sufficient claim or defense." Paz, 2013 WL 6163016 at *5.

The State Bar asserts that the amendments are futile because: (A) the individual defendants have qualified immunity; and (B) Plaintiff has failed to state a claim for punitive damages.

Regarding the State Bar's assertion about qualified immunity, the Court cannot yet determine whether the individual defendants are immune. Government employees are entitled to qualified immunity "unless their conduct violates 'clearly established statutory or constitutional rights of which a reasonable person would have known.'" Jeffers v. Gomez, 267 F.3d 895, 910 (9th Cir. 2001) (quoting Harlow v. Fitzgerald, 457 U.S. 800, 818, 102 S.Ct. 2727, 2738, 73 L.Ed.2d 396 (1982)); see also Hirsh v. Justices of Supreme Court of State of Cal., 67 F.3d 708, 715 (9th Cir. 1995) (finding that employees of the State Bar of California are state agency officials); and Melek v. State Bar of California, 230 F.3d 1367 (9th Cir. 2000) (holding that a state bar employee is an official who may be entitled to qualified immunity). "Determining whether a public official is entitled to qualified immunity 'requires a two-part inquiry: (1) Was the law governing the state official's conduct clearly established? (2) Under that law could a reasonable state official have believed his conduct was lawful?'" Id. (quoting Browning v. Vernon, 44 F.3d 818, 822 (9th Cir. 1995)). Without additional briefing by the parties, the Court does not have enough information or legal authority at this time to ascertain whether the individual defendants' conduct was equivalent to the conduct of "reasonable state officials."

The Court also cannot determine at this time if the individual defendants are liable for damages. Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(k)(1), "an individual injured by any willful violation of a stay provided by this section shall recover actual damages, including costs and attorneys' fees, and, in appropriate circumstances, may recover punitive damages." A stay violation is willful "if a party knew of the automatic stay, and its actions in violation of the stay were intentional." In re Stanwyck, 450 B.R. 181, 191-

92 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2011) (quoting Eskanos & Adler, P.C. v. Leetien, 309 F.3d 1210, 1215 (9th Cir. 2002)). On the other hand, "[a]n award of punitive damages requires 'some showing of reckless or callous disregard for the law or rights of others.'" In re Snowden, 769 F.3d 651, 657 (9th Cir. 2014) (quoting In re Bloom, 875 F.2d 224, 228 (9th Cir. 1989)). Again, the Court does not have enough information to make the pertinent determination at this time.

The Court will, however, strike the portions of the proposed second amended complaint that request relief based on the defendants' legal arguments to the Court. Proposed Second Amended Complaint [doc. 205, Exhibit A], ¶¶ 41-43, 49-51 and ¶ 3 of pp. 16-17 as to the following language: "under Section 105, for their deliberate, willful and intentional actions to misrepresent [Plaintiff's] administrative suspension to the bankruptcy court as disciplinary, when it clearly was not, and they knew it was not." The Court will strike these paragraphs (or portions of paragraphs) because the Court has already ruled that Plaintiff's request for punitive damages or sanctions cannot be based on the defendants' legal arguments to this Court. Ruling, pp. 12-13.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will grant the Motion to Join and allow Plaintiff to file the proposed second amended complaint, with the following modifications: (A) Plaintiff must exclude Kenneth Bacon and Joseph Dunn from the caption; and (B) Plaintiff must delete the following paragraphs or portions of paragraphs: paragraphs 41-43, 49-51 and paragraph 3 of pages 16-17 as to the following language: "under Section 105, for their deliberate, willful and intentional actions to misrepresent [Plaintiff's] administrative suspension to the bankruptcy court as disciplinary, when it clearly was not, and they knew it was not."

Plaintiff must submit an order within seven (7) days.

Docket 209

Tentative Ruling:

Grant.

I. BACKGROUND

On July 12, 2013, Marilyn S. Scheer ("Plaintiff") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On November 1, 2013, Plaintiff filed a complaint against the State Bar of California (the "State Bar"), Luis J. Rodriguez, Joseph Dunn, Joanna Remke and Kenneth E. Bacon ("Defendants"), alleging violation of the automatic stay and the discharge injunction under 11 U.S.C. §§ 362 and 524 and discriminatory treatment under § 525 (a).

On November 28, 2016, Plaintiff filed the first amended complaint (the "FAC") [doc. 95]. This time, Plaintiff named only the State Bar, Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon. In relevant part, the FAC alleges:

The State Bar's refusal to lift Plaintiff's involuntary inactive enrollment was a violation of the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362 and constituted discriminatory treatment under 11 U.S.C. § 525.

Plaintiff requests damages for her loss of livelihood from July 12, 2013 through July 16, 2014. Plaintiff also requests costs of suit, including attorneys' fees, interest and other relief as the Court deems appropriate.

On December 19, 2016, Defendants filed a motion to dismiss the FAC (the "Motion to Dismiss") [doc. 96]. In the Motion to Dismiss, Defendants asserted that: (A) the FAC does not include sufficient allegations as to Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon; (B) Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon are immune based on quasi-judicial immunity; (C) Plaintiff has not alleged that she suffered an injury or damages; and (D) the FAC does not make sufficient allegations regarding Plaintiff's request for punitive damages against Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon.

On April 19, 2017, the Court issued a ruling on the Motion to Dismiss (the "Ruling") [doc. 118]. In the Ruling, the Court dismissed Mr. Bacon on the basis that Mr. Bacon is immune, also finding that Plaintiff's reference to a State Bar's Arbitration Advisory (the "Advisory") regarding immunity was irrelevant to the Court's decision because "the Court is not bound by publications by the State Bar" and the Advisory discussed pending arbitrations, not enforcement of existing arbitration awards. The Court also dismissed Mr. Dunn on the basis that Plaintiff had not sufficiently stated a claim against Mr. Dunn. Further, the Court ruled that Plaintiff could not take discovery on issues of immunity. Finally, the Court denied the Motion to Dismiss as to the State Bar.

On May 8, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the Motion to Dismiss [doc. 124]. On April 26, 2017, the Court entered a scheduling order [doc. 122], setting August 30, 2017 as the deadline by which to complete discovery.

On May 10, 2017, the State Bar filed an answer to the FAC (the "Answer") [doc. 125]. In the Answer, the State Bar denied all relevant allegations in the FAC and asserted six affirmative defenses: (A) failure to state a claim; (B) Plaintiff's damages were caused in whole or in part by Plaintiff's own actions; (C) Plaintiff's damages were caused in whole or in part by third parties; (D) failure to mitigate losses; (E) the State Bar was not the cause of any losses alleged by Plaintiff; and (F) the Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction.

On August 4, 2017, the State Bar and Plaintiff filed a joint stipulation to extend deadlines [doc. 133]. On August 8, 2017, the Court entered an order approving the joint stipulation (the "Order Extending Deadlines") [doc. 135]. In the Order Extending Deadlines, the Court set the following dates and deadlines: (A) December 15, 2017 as the discovery cutoff date; (B) January 11, 2018 as the deadline to file pretrial motions; (C) January 31, 2018 as the deadline to file a joint pretrial stipulation; and (D) February 14, 2018 as the pretrial conference date.

On July 28, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion to compel the State Bar to provide interrogatory responses (the "First Motion to Compel") [doc. 130]. On August 21, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion for a protective order, asking the Court to strike certain deposition categories (the "First Motion for Protective Order") [doc. 140]. On September 13, 2017, the Court held a hearing on the First Motion to Compel and the First Motion for Protective Order. At that time, the Court issued rulings setting forth which deposition categories were appropriate and the interrogatories to which the State Bar had to respond [docs. 152, 153]. In both rulings, the Court held that the Advisory is irrelevant to the issues in this adversary proceeding, and that Plaintiff may not depose the State Bar regarding the Advisory or compel the State Bar to respond to interrogatories about the Advisory. On September 18, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the First Motion to Compel [doc. 155]. On October 6, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the First Motion for Protective Order [doc. 165].

On September 20, 2017, the parties appeared for a status conference. On September 28, 2017, in light of the parties' contentions at the status conference, the Court entered an order regarding the parties' depositions of each other and providing a deadline for the parties to exchange initial disclosures pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26 (the "Deposition Order") [doc. 165]. In the Deposition Order, the Court set October 10, 2017 as the date each party would depose the other. The Deposition Order provided that the Plaintiff's deposition should be first, followed by the State Bar's deposition, "which shall be continued from day to day, excluding holidays and weekends until completed."

The Deposition Order also stated that Suzanne Grandt is the only attorney allowed to conduct the deposition of Plaintiff, and that Ms. Grandt will be Plaintiff's sole contact person at the State Bar throughout the course of this litigation. The Court set a deadline of October 2, 2017 for the parties to make their initial disclosures.

On November 7, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to extend the deadlines provided in the Order Extending Deadlines (the "State Bar's Motion to Extend") [doc. 172]. Plaintiff did not oppose the State Bar's Motion to Extend. On December 11, 2017, the State Bar voluntarily dismissed the State Bar's Motion to Extend [doc. 187]. On December 14, 2017, Plaintiff filed her own motion to extend deadlines ("Plaintiff's Motion to Extend") [doc. 192].

In the meanwhile, both parties filed several discovery related motions. On November 22, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for an order requiring the State Bar to comply with Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 30(b)(6) by designating a knowledgeable person and allowing an amendment to Plaintiff's deposition topics ("Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance") [doc. 176]. Plaintiff is asking the Court to order the State bar to produce a knowledgeable witness. On December 14, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to strike Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance (the "Motion to Strike") [doc. 189], asking the Court to strike Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance on the basis that Plaintiff did not enter into a joint stipulation with the State Bar in accordance with Local Bankruptcy Rule 7026-1(c).

On December 7, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to compel the continued deposition of Plaintiff (the "State Bar's Motion to Compel") [doc. 181], asserting that Plaintiff refused to answer questions regarding her law practice. On December 15, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for a protective order requesting the Court prohibit the State Bar from questioning Plaintiff about her law practice (the "Motion for Deposition Order") [doc. 194].

On December 27, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for leave to join additional defendants to this action (the "Motion to Join") [doc. 205]. On January 4, 2018, Plaintiff filed a motion for a protective order requesting the Court seal Plaintiff's medical records and tax returns (the "Motion for Records Order") [doc. 209]. On January 24, 2018, the State Bar opposed the Motion for Records Order [doc. 242], on the basis that discovery is now closed.

On January 11, 2018, the State Bar filed seven motions in limine (the "Motions in Limine") [doc. 213], asking the Court to prevent Plaintiff from introducing evidence of damages at trial. Plaintiff opposes the Motions in Limine [doc. 233]. Finally, on January 17, 2018, the State Bar filed another protective order (the "Motion for Global Protective Order") [doc. 225], requesting a global protective order to govern this adversary proceeding. On January 24, 2018, Plaintiff filed a response to the Motion for Global Protective Order [doc. 244].

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 26(b)(1)—

Unless otherwise limited by court order, the scope of discovery is as follows: Parties may obtain discovery regarding any nonprivileged matter that is relevant to any party's claim or defense and proportional to the needs of the case, considering the importance of the issues at stake in the action, the amount in controversy, the parties' relative access to relevant information, the parties' resources, the importance of the discovery in resolving the issues, and whether the burden or expense of the proposed discovery outweighs its likely benefit. Information within this scope of discovery need not be admissible in evidence to be discoverable.

Pursuant to Rule 26(b)(2)(C)(iii), "the court must limit the frequency or extent of discovery otherwise allowed by these rules or by local rule if it determines that...the proposed discovery is outside the scope permitted by Rule 26(b)(1)." Under Rule 26(c)(1)—

A party or any person from whom discovery is sought may move for a protective order in the court where the action is pending -- or as an alternative on matters relating to a deposition, in the court for the district where the deposition will be taken. The motion must include a certification that the movant has in good faith conferred or attempted to confer with other affected parties in an effort to resolve the dispute without court action. The court may, for good cause, issue an order to protect a party or person from annoyance, embarrassment, oppression, or undue burden or expense....

"Rule 26(c) confers broad discretion on the trial court to decide when a protective order is appropriate and what degree of protection is required." Seattle Times Co. v. Rhinehart, 467 U.S. 20, 36, 104 S.Ct. 2199, 81 L.Ed.2d 17 (1984). The party seeking the protective order has the burden "to 'show good cause' by demonstrating harm or prejudice that will result from the discovery." Rivera v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 331 F.3d 1122, 1130 (9th Cir.2003)).

A. Whether Plaintiff's Medical Records and Tax Returns Should be Sealed

Although there is generally a "strong presumption of access to judicial records," the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has "carved out an exception to the presumption of access to judicial records for a sealed discovery document [attached] to a non-dispositive motion, such that the usual presumption of the public's right of access is rebutted." Kamakana v. City of Honolulu, 447 F.3d 1172, 1179 (9th Cir. 2006) (internal quotations omitted) (emphasis in Kamakana).

Regarding medical records, "courts have consistently granted protective orders that prevent disclosure of many types of information, such as... medical and psychiatric records confidential under state law..." Phillips ex rel. Estates of Byrd v. Gen. Motors Corp., 307 F.3d 1206, 1212 (9th Cir. 2002); see also 45 C.F.R. § 164.508 (prohibiting disclosure of confidential medical information); Cal. Civ. Code §§ 56 et seq. (same under California law); and Williams v. Nevada Dep't of Corr., 2014 WL 3734287, at *1–2 (D. Nev. Jul. 29, 2014) (holding that "the need to protect medical privacy has qualified as a compelling reason for sealing records" even in connection with dispositive motions). Pursuant to these authorities, there is good cause to seal Plaintiff's medical records and information.

Courts have also found that litigants may seal their tax returns. See, e.g., Palaniappan v. Norton Health Sound Corp., 2012 WL 13032959, at *3 (D. Alaska Mar. 7, 2012) ("As a matter of public policy, discovery of tax returns and other sensitive financial information is disfavored."); Ross v. Bar None Enterprises, Inc., 2014 WL 2700901, at *2 (E.D. Cal. June 13, 2014); and Moskowitz v. Superior Court, 137 Cal.App.3d 313, 315 (Ct. The Court will not sanction Plaintiff in accordance with Local Bankruptcy Rule 7026-1(c), on the basis that Plaintiff noted in her declaration that the parties were unable to reach a stipulation regarding the protective order.

B. The Form of Plaintiff's Proposed Protective Order

The State Bar objects to Plaintiff's proposed protective order [doc. 242, Exhibit A] on four bases. First, the State Bar asserts that the Court should enter a blanket protective order instead of limiting Plaintiff's proposed protective order to her medical records and tax returns. The Court has addressed why it will not enter a blanket protective order in its tentative ruling on the Motion for Global Protective Order [Cal #19].

Next, the State Bar disputes the language in the proposed protective order that states that "the medical records to be produced and the testimony to be given by Dr. Paul Benson, shall be limited to the emotional distress and related damages caused by [Plaintiff] by the State Bar and its agents in this action." Proposed Protective Order, ¶ 1. The Court will strike this language for two reasons: (A) first, the language drafted by Plaintiff implies that the State Bar caused Plaintiff's emotional distress damages, which is a legal conclusion to be made by the Court; and (B) second, Plaintiff has not provided any legal argument as to why certain documents or testimony should be withheld from the State Bar (as opposed to sealed). The Court cannot assess whether specific demands for production of documents or specific questions asked at a deposition are beyond the scope of discovery or privileged without having access to those demands and/or questions.

Third, the State Bar requests that the Court include paralegals and clerical and secretarial staff employed by the State Bar's counsel as "qualified persons" to whom confidential disclosures may be made. Proposed Protective Order, ¶ 6. As it stands, the proposed protective order includes three attorneys from the State Bar, experts/consultants retained by the State Bar, court reports and "any other person as to whom the parties agree in writing." Id. The Court will include the designated counsel's staff as "qualified persons" for purposes of the protective order.

Finally, the State Bar disputes the liquidating damages clause in Plaintiff's proposed protective order, through which Plaintiff is requesting $10,000 per violation of the protective order. Plaintiff has not presented legal authority regarding whether a liquidated damages clause is appropriate in this case or whether $10,000 per violation is an appropriate amount of damages if the State Bar violates the protective order. Courts have been hesitant to include liquidated damages clauses in protective orders. As explained by one court:

This Court has broad authority to fashion a protective order that serves the interests of the parties and the administration of justice. Fed.R.Civ.P. 26(c). To be sure, there is also non-binding caselaw indicating that other courts have, on a rare occasion or two, hinted that confidentiality orders might include liquidated damages provisions in the event of a breach. See Wendt v. Walden Univ., Inc., 1996 WL 84668, at *3 (D.Minn.1996) (unpub.op.); cf. Denison v. Oregon, 211 F.R.D. 408, 410 (D.Or.2002).

Those authorities provide scant support for Defendants' position since there is no case that is squarely and expressly on point; in fact, the case most favorable to Defendants, and the one cited in their reply brief, only goes so far as to conclude that the parties might agree to include a liquidated damages provision in a proposed order. Wendt, supra. Defendants have not cited-nor has this Court found-any case in which a valid and binding confidentiality order requires the imposition of liquidated damages without regard to the circumstances surrounding the breach, to say nothing of a confidentiality order that sets a stiffer penalty for one party's breach in order to ensure that both parties are similarly deterred from committing an unauthorized disclosure.

The record is devoid of any indication (1) that SCEA is particularly inclined to flout an Order of this Court; (2) that this Court lacks the enforcement authority to appropriately penalize a breach of the confidentiality order by SCEA; or (3) that this Court cannot fashion adequate sanctions to deter future violations. It is simply not necessary at the present juncture to replace the Court's flexibility to address either party's non-compliance of a Court Order by examining the surrounding circumstances on a case-by-case basis with a liquidated damages provision.

2011 WL 1833026, at *4 n.1 (E.D. Cal. May 12, 2011) ("The Court and the parties to this motion had considered providing liquidated damages for a violation of the Stipulated Protective Order. However, the parties were unable to reach an agreement as to the appropriate amount of such damages. The Court does not have evidence before it at this time to enable it to determine reasonable damages. If necessary, in the event there is a breach, an appropriate measure of sanctions to compensate Community can be determined.")

Here, Plaintiff has not provided an analysis as to why a liquidated damages clause is necessary and has not supported her calculation of $10,000 in damages per violation. If the State Bar violates the protective order, the Court will calculate an appropriate amount of sanctions at that time. The Court will strike the liquidated damages clause from the protective order.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will enter a protective order requiring the parties to seal Plaintiff's medical records and tax returns and to mark as confidential testimony regarding these topics. The Court will modify the language from Plaintiff's proposed protective order as outlined above.

The Court will prepare an order based on Plaintiff's proposed order.

I. BACKGROUND

On July 12, 2013, Marilyn S. Scheer ("Plaintiff") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On November 1, 2013, Plaintiff filed a complaint against the State Bar of California (the "State Bar"), Luis J. Rodriguez, Joseph Dunn, Joanna Remke and Kenneth E. Bacon ("Defendants"), alleging violation of the automatic stay and the discharge injunction under 11 U.S.C. §§ 362 and 524 and discriminatory treatment under § 525 (a).

On November 28, 2016, Plaintiff filed the first amended complaint (the "FAC") [doc. 95]. This time, Plaintiff named only the State Bar, Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon. In relevant part, the FAC alleges:

The State Bar's refusal to lift Plaintiff's involuntary inactive enrollment was a violation of the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362 and constituted discriminatory treatment under 11 U.S.C. § 525.

Plaintiff requests damages for her loss of livelihood from July 12, 2013 through July 16, 2014. Plaintiff also requests costs of suit, including attorneys' fees, interest and other relief as the Court deems appropriate.

On December 19, 2016, Defendants filed a motion to dismiss the FAC (the "Motion to Dismiss") [doc. 96]. In the Motion to Dismiss, Defendants asserted that: (A) the FAC does not include sufficient allegations as to Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon; (B) Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon are immune based on quasi-judicial immunity; (C) Plaintiff has not alleged that she suffered an injury or damages; and (D) the FAC does not make sufficient allegations regarding Plaintiff's request for punitive damages against Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon.

On April 19, 2017, the Court issued a ruling on the Motion to Dismiss (the "Ruling") [doc. 118]. In the Ruling, the Court dismissed Mr. Bacon on the basis that Mr. Bacon is immune, also finding that Plaintiff's reference to a State Bar's Arbitration Advisory (the "Advisory") regarding immunity was irrelevant to the Court's decision because "the Court is not bound by publications by the State Bar" and the Advisory discussed pending arbitrations, not enforcement of existing arbitration awards. The Court also dismissed Mr. Dunn on the basis that Plaintiff had not sufficiently stated a claim against Mr. Dunn. Further, the Court ruled that Plaintiff could not take discovery on issues of immunity. Finally, the Court denied the Motion to Dismiss as to the State Bar.

On May 8, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the Motion to Dismiss [doc. 124]. On April 26, 2017, the Court entered a scheduling order [doc. 122], setting August 30, 2017 as the deadline by which to complete discovery.

On May 10, 2017, the State Bar filed an answer to the FAC (the "Answer") [doc. 125]. In the Answer, the State Bar denied all relevant allegations in the FAC and asserted six affirmative defenses: (A) failure to state a claim; (B) Plaintiff's damages were caused in whole or in part by Plaintiff's own actions; (C) Plaintiff's damages were caused in whole or in part by third parties; (D) failure to mitigate losses; (E) the State Bar was not the cause of any losses alleged by Plaintiff; and (F) the Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction.

On August 4, 2017, the State Bar and Plaintiff filed a joint stipulation to extend deadlines [doc. 133]. On August 8, 2017, the Court entered an order approving the joint stipulation (the "Order Extending Deadlines") [doc. 135]. In the Order Extending Deadlines, the Court set the following dates and deadlines: (A) December 15, 2017 as the discovery cutoff date; (B) January 11, 2018 as the deadline to file pretrial motions; (C) January 31, 2018 as the deadline to file a joint pretrial stipulation; and (D) February 14, 2018 as the pretrial conference date.

On July 28, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion to compel the State Bar to provide interrogatory responses (the "First Motion to Compel") [doc. 130]. On August 21, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion for a protective order, asking the Court to strike certain deposition categories (the "First Motion for Protective Order") [doc. 140]. On September 13, 2017, the Court held a hearing on the First Motion to Compel and the First Motion for Protective Order. At that time, the Court issued rulings setting forth which deposition categories were appropriate and the interrogatories to which the State Bar had to respond [docs. 152, 153]. In both rulings, the Court held that the Advisory is irrelevant to the issues in this adversary proceeding, and that Plaintiff may not depose the State Bar regarding the Advisory or compel the State Bar to respond to interrogatories about the Advisory. On September 18, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the First Motion to Compel [doc. 155]. On October 6, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the First Motion for Protective Order [doc. 165].

On September 20, 2017, the parties appeared for a status conference. On September 28, 2017, in light of the parties' contentions at the status conference, the Court entered an order regarding the parties' depositions of each other and providing a deadline for the parties to exchange initial disclosures pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26 (the "Deposition Order") [doc. 165]. In the Deposition Order, the Court set October 10, 2017 as the date each party would depose the other. The Deposition Order provided that the Plaintiff's deposition should be first, followed by the State Bar's deposition, "which shall be continued from day to day, excluding holidays and weekends until completed."

The Deposition Order also stated that Suzanne Grandt is the only attorney allowed to conduct the deposition of Plaintiff, and that Ms. Grandt will be Plaintiff's sole contact person at the State Bar throughout the course of this litigation. The Court set a deadline of October 2, 2017 for the parties to make their initial disclosures.

On November 7, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to extend the deadlines provided in the Order Extending Deadlines (the "State Bar's Motion to Extend") [doc. 172]. Plaintiff did not oppose the State Bar's Motion to Extend. On December 11, 2017, the State Bar voluntarily dismissed the State Bar's Motion to Extend [doc. 187]. On December 14, 2017, Plaintiff filed her own motion to extend deadlines ("Plaintiff's Motion to Extend") [doc. 192].

In the meanwhile, both parties filed several discovery related motions. On November 22, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for an order requiring the State Bar to comply with Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 30(b)(6) by designating a knowledgeable person and allowing an amendment to Plaintiff's deposition topics ("Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance") [doc. 176]. Plaintiff is asking the Court to order the State bar to produce a knowledgeable witness. On December 14, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to strike Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance (the "Motion to Strike") [doc. 189], asking the Court to strike Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance on the basis that Plaintiff did not enter into a joint stipulation with the State Bar in accordance with Local Bankruptcy Rule 7026-1(c).

On December 7, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to compel the continued deposition of Plaintiff (the "State Bar's Motion to Compel") [doc. 181], asserting that Plaintiff refused to answer questions regarding her law practice. On December 15, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for a protective order requesting the Court prohibit the State Bar from questioning Plaintiff about her law practice (the "Motion for Deposition Order") [doc. 194].

On December 27, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for leave to join additional defendants to this action (the "Motion to Join") [doc. 205]. On January 4, 2018, Plaintiff filed a motion for a protective order requesting the Court seal Plaintiff's medical records and tax returns (the "Motion for Records Order") [doc. 209].

On January 11, 2018, the State Bar filed seven motions in limine (the "Motions in Limine") [doc. 213], asking the Court to prevent Plaintiff from introducing evidence of damages at trial. Plaintiff opposes the Motions in Limine [doc. 233]. Finally, on January 17, 2018, the State Bar filed another protective order, requesting a global protective order to govern this adversary proceeding (the "Motion for Global Protective Order") [doc. 225].

Supp. 2d 1036, 1046 (D. Nev. 2013) (citing to Luce v. United States, 469 U.S. 38, 41 n. 4 (1984)). "A motion in limine is a request for the court's guidance concerning an evidentiary question. Judges have broad discretion when ruling on motions in limine." Id.

"A motion in limine is a procedural mechanism to limit in advance testimony or evidence in a particular area. In the case of a jury trial, a court's ruling "at the outset" gives counsel advance notice of the scope of certain evidence so that admissibility is settled before attempted use of the evidence before the jury. Because the judge rules on this evidentiary motion, in the case of a bench trial, a threshold ruling is generally superfluous." United States v. Heller, 551 F.3d 1108, 1111-12 (9th Cir. 2009). "A motion in limine is not the proper vehicle for seeking a dispositive ruling on a claim, particularly after the deadline for filing such motions has passed." *Hana Fin., Inc. v. Jan. 20, 2015) ("[A] motion in limine should not be used to resolve factual disputes or weigh evidence.").

"In light of their limited purpose, motions in limine should not be used to resolve whether certain claims should survive. Rather, parties should target their arguments to demonstrating why certain items or categories of evidence should (or should not) be introduced at trial, and direct the trial judge to specific evidence in the record that would favor or disfavor the introduction of those particular items or categories of evidence." Strickholm v. Evangelical Lutheran Good Samaritan Soc., 2013 WL 788096, at *4 (D. Idaho Mar. 1, 2013).

"To exclude evidence on a motion in limine the evidence must be inadmissible on all potential grounds. Unless evidence meets this high standard, evidentiary rulings should be deferred until trial so that questions of foundation, relevancy and potential prejudice may be resolved in proper context. This is because although rulings on motions in limine may save time, costs, effort and preparation, a court is almost always better situated during the actual trial to assess the value and utility of evidence." Goodman, at 1047 (internal citations omitted). "[I]n limine rulings are not binding on the trial judge, and the judge may always change his mind during the course of a trial." Ohler v. United States, 529 U.S. 753, 758 n. 3 (2000).

As a preliminary matter, the Court has not set trial in this adversary proceeding. In fact, the Court is extending the deadlines previously set in this matter, including the discovery cutoff date, such that discovery is not even complete. As such, the Motions in Limine are premature. If the State Bar believes Plaintiff has not provided documents or information to the State Bar, the State Bar may file a motion to compel. Nevertheless, the Court will discuss each of the Motions in Limine below.

B. Motion in Limine No. 1

The State Bar requests an order barring Plaintiff from introducing any documents except those identified in Plaintiff's initial disclosures. Plaintiff made her initial disclosures on October 2, 2017, but, according to the State Bar, did not include any exhibits regarding her calculation of damages. According to the State Bar, Plaintiff has failed to identify a single document on which her computation of damages is based. In her opposition, Plaintiff provides that she intends to use oral testimony to establish damages. In addition, Plaintiff will provide her 2009 tax returns and medical records if the Court enters a protective order. As for the remaining tax returns, Plaintiff asserts the State Bar already has the documents.

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 26(a)(1)(A), as incorporated by Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 7026, a party must, without awaiting a discovery request, provide to other parties:

- (i) the name and, if known, the address and telephone number of each individual likely to have discoverable information—along with the subjects of that information—that the disclosing party may use to support its claims or defenses, unless the use would be solely for impeachment;
- (ii) a copy—or a description by category and location—of all documents, electronically stored information, and tangible things that the disclosing party has in its possession, custody, or control and may use to support its claims or defenses, unless the use would be solely for impeachment

Pursuant to Rule 26(a)(2), a party must disclose to the other parties the identity of any witness it may use at trial to present evidence. Pursuant to Rule 26(e)(1), a party who has made a disclosure under Rule 26(a)—or who has responded to an interrogatory, request for production, or request for admission—must supplement or correct its disclosure or response:

- (A) in a timely manner if the party learns that in some material respect the disclosure or response is incomplete or incorrect, and if the additional or corrective information has not otherwise been made known to the other parties during the discovery process or in writing; or
- (B) as ordered by the court.

Under Rule 37(c), as incorporated by FRBP 7037—

- (1) Failure to Disclose or Supplement. If a party fails to provide information or identify a witness as required by Rule 26(a) or (e), the party is not allowed to use that information or witness to supply evidence on a motion, at a hearing, or at a trial, unless the failure was substantially justified or is harmless. In addition to or instead of this sanction, the court, on motion and after giving an opportunity to be heard:
  - (A) may order payment of the reasonable expenses, including attorney's fees, caused by the failure;
  - (B) may inform the jury of the party's failure; and
  - (C) may impose other appropriate sanctions, including any of the orders listed in Rule 37(b)(2)(A)(i)-(vi).

Other sanctions provided by Rule 37(b)(2)(A) include—

- (i) directing that the matters embraced in the order or other designated facts be taken as established for purposes of the action, as the prevailing party claims;
- (ii) prohibiting the disobedient party from supporting or opposing designated claims or defenses, or from introducing designated matters

- in evidence;
- (iii) striking pleadings in whole or in part;
- (iv) staying further proceedings until the order is obeyed;
- (v) dismissing the action or proceeding in whole or in part;
- (vi) rendering a default judgment against the disobedient party; or
- (vii) treating as contempt of court the failure to obey any order except an order to submit to a physical or mental examination.

"The party facing sanctions bears the burden of proving that its failure to disclose the required information was substantially justified or is harmless." R & R Sails, Inc. v. Ins. Co. of Pennsylvania, 673 F.3d 1240, 1246 (9th Cir. 2012). "[I]n the ordinary case, violations of Rule 26 may warrant evidence preclusion. Yet evidence preclusion is, or at least can be, a 'harsh' sanction." Id., at 1247 (quoting Yeti by Molly, Ltd. v. Deckers Outdoor Corp., 259 F.3d 1101, 1106 (9th Cir. 2001)). If a sanction under the Rules amounts to a dismissal of a claim, "the district court [is] required to consider whether the claimed noncompliance involved willfulness, fault, or bad faith, and also to consider the availability of lesser sanctions." Id.

Here, Plaintiff asserts that she will use witness testimony to establish damages, and that, aside from certain medical records and tax returns with respect to which Plaintiff has filed a motion for a protective order, the State Bar has all other documents in their possession. First, Plaintiff filed her motion for a protective order before the State Bar filed the Motions in Limine. In other words, Plaintiff requested that the Court seal her medical records and tax returns before she turns them over to the State Bar, and only after this request did the State Bar request that Plaintiff be barred from using these documents as evidence. Because Plaintiff intends to provide these documents to the State Bar once the Court enters a protective order, the Court will not prohibit Plaintiff from using these documents at trial.

If Plaintiff does not provide all of the relevant documents in her possession to the State Bar after the Court enters a protective order, the State Bar may file a motion to compel. The State Bar has already moved for an order compelling Plaintiff to attend a continued deposition. If the State Bar does not receive all of the information and documents it needs after discovery closes, the State Bar may then move to bar Plaintiff from using evidence (other than impeachment evidence) she did not disclose to the State Bar during discovery.

Finally, even if the Court were to entertain the Motions in Limine at this time, barring Plaintiff from introducing any evidence on damages would essentially result in dismissal of this adversary proceeding. In accordance with the authorities above, this is too harsh a result.

C. Motion in Limine No. 2

The State Bar asks the Court to bar Plaintiff from introducing any evidence at trial bearing on the computation of Plaintiff's economic damages because Plaintiff has not provided any documents evidencing the nature and extent of her injuries. As to this request, the State Bar notes that Plaintiff did not file a motion for protective order until after the discovery cutoff. However, the State Bar filed its own motion for protective order after the discovery cutoff date. In addition, Plaintiff has moved to extend the discovery cutoff date.

As to the remaining arguments regarding Plaintiff's production of documents, the analysis above applies here as well. The State Bar should have brought a motion to compel instead of requesting what will amount to a dismissal of this action.

D. Motion in Limine No. 3

The State Bar asks the Court to bar Plaintiff from introducing any evidence regarding any diagnosis, treatment or symptoms related to her emotional distress claim. The State Bar asserts that Plaintiff refused to sign the release and protective order to allow Plaintiff's doctor, Dr. Paul Benson, to testify at his scheduled deposition. However, Plaintiff did file a motion for protective order to obtain a protective order from this Court. Upon entry of that protective order, the State Bar may move forward with its deposition of Dr. Benson.

E. Motion in Limine No. 4

The State Bar requests that the Court bar Plaintiff from testifying at trial or, in the alternative, to limit Plaintiff's testimony to the subjects covered during Plaintiff's October 10, 2017 deposition. The State Bar asserts that Plaintiff has failed to disclose herself as a witness pursuant to Rule 26(a). First, the State Bar has not cited any authority that provides that parties have to list themselves as witnesses in their initial disclosures. The scarce authority on this subject appears to indicate that a party does not necessarily have to list itself as a percipient witness in its Rule 26(a) initial disclosures. See Murray v. Birmingham Bd. of Educ., 172 F.Supp.3d 1225, 1232 (N.D. Ala. 2016) ("[O]bviously, the parties do not have to disclose their own names as potential witnesses."); and Christian v. Vought Aircraft Indus., Inc., 2010 WL 4065482, at *5 (E.D.N.C. Oct. 15, 2010) ("Plaintiff's failure to disclose himself as a witness does not, without more, foreclose the court's consideration of his statements. Plaintiff's failure was harmless where defendants knew that he was likely to have discoverable information with respect to his...claim, see [Rule] 26(a)(1)(A)(i), and indeed had the opportunity to depose plaintiff."). Under these authorities, it is debatable whether Plaintiff had to disclose herself as a witness with discoverable information; the State Bar already knew that Plaintiff is a witness with discoverable information.

Even if Plaintiff was required to disclose herself as a witness under Rule 26(a), barring or limiting Plaintiff's testimony at trial when the parties are still in the discovery phase (and, with the possibility that Plaintiff may yet amend the FAC to add additional parties) is unwarranted and would be an extremely harsh sanction that will amount to dismissal of this proceeding. The Court will deny this request.

F. Motion in Limine No. 5

The State Bar asks the Court to prohibit Plaintiff from introducing any evidence withheld from discovery. The arguments in this section largely repeat the arguments from above. It does not appear the State Bar is referring to any other documents or information (aside from the documents and information covered above) withheld by Plaintiff. As such, the analysis above applies here and the Court will also deny this request.

G. Motion in Limine No. 6

The State Bar requests an order establishing, for purposes of this action, that Plaintiff has received the maximum amount of disability insurance benefits allowed by the State of California between August 2013 and August 2014. The State Bar argues that because Plaintiff failed to provide specific information about disability payments received by Plaintiff, if any, the Court should deem that Plaintiff received the maximum amount of disability.

Again, the appropriate response to a lack of disclosure by Plaintiff would have been for the State Bar to file a motion to compel. At this time, before discovery is complete, it is premature to make any determination regarding Plaintiff's disability payments or lack thereof. Even if discovery were complete and Plaintiff had not provided information about her disability payments, the State Bar did not provide any authority that would compel this Court to enter an order establishing that Plaintiff received the maximum amount of disability payments for one year as opposed to sanctioning Plaintiff in other ways.

H. Motion in Limine No. 7

As their final request, the State Bar asks the Court to enter an order establishing, for purposes of this action, that any and all emotional distress suffered by Plaintiff is the result of the failure and dissolution of Plaintiff's law firm. Through this request, the State Bar is essentially requesting that the Court make a causation determination before discovery is complete. These arguments are appropriately made at trial or through a motion for summary judgment, not through premature motions in limine. In addition, it appears the State Bar bases this request on Plaintiff's failure to provide medical records. However, Plaintiff has agreed to provide the medical records upon the entry of a protective order. This request will also be denied.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will deny the Motions in Limine.

Plaintiff must submit an order within seven (7) days.

#19.00 Defendant's motion for a protective order governing exchange of confidential information; request for sanctions

Docket 225

Tentative Ruling:

Deny.

I. BACKGROUND

On July 12, 2013, Marilyn S. Scheer ("Plaintiff") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On November 1, 2013, Plaintiff filed a complaint against the State Bar of California (the "State Bar"), Luis J. Rodriguez, Joseph Dunn, Joanna Remke and Kenneth E. Bacon ("Defendants"), alleging violation of the automatic stay and the discharge injunction under 11 U.S.C. §§ 362 and 524 and discriminatory treatment under § 525 (a).

On November 28, 2016, Plaintiff filed the first amended complaint (the "FAC") [doc. 95]. This time, Plaintiff named only the State Bar, Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon. In relevant part, the FAC alleges:

The State Bar's refusal to lift Plaintiff's involuntary inactive enrollment was a violation of the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362 and constituted discriminatory treatment under 11 U.S.C. § 525.

Plaintiff requests damages for her loss of livelihood from July 12, 2013 through July 16, 2014. Plaintiff also requests costs of suit, including attorneys' fees, interest and other relief as the Court deems appropriate.

On December 19, 2016, Defendants filed a motion to dismiss the FAC (the "Motion to Dismiss") [doc. 96]. In the Motion to Dismiss, Defendants asserted that: (A) the FAC does not include sufficient allegations as to Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon; (B) Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon are immune based on quasi-judicial immunity; (C) Plaintiff has not alleged that she suffered an injury or damages; and (D) the FAC does not make sufficient allegations regarding Plaintiff's request for punitive damages against Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon.

On April 19, 2017, the Court issued a ruling on the Motion to Dismiss (the "Ruling") [doc. 118]. In the Ruling, the Court dismissed Mr. Bacon on the basis that Mr. Bacon is immune, also finding that Plaintiff's reference to a State Bar's Arbitration Advisory (the "Advisory") regarding immunity was irrelevant to the Court's decision because "the Court is not bound by publications by the State Bar" and the Advisory discussed pending arbitrations, not enforcement of existing arbitration awards. The Court also dismissed Mr. Dunn on the basis that Plaintiff had not sufficiently stated a claim against Mr. Dunn. Further, the Court ruled that Plaintiff could not take discovery on issues of immunity. Finally, the Court denied the Motion to Dismiss as to the State Bar.

On May 8, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the Motion to Dismiss [doc. 124]. On April 26, 2017, the Court entered a scheduling order [doc. 122], setting August 30, 2017 as the deadline by which to complete discovery.

On May 10, 2017, the State Bar filed an answer to the FAC (the "Answer") [doc. 125]. In the Answer, the State Bar denied all relevant allegations in the FAC and asserted six affirmative defenses: (A) failure to state a claim; (B) Plaintiff's damages were caused in whole or in part by Plaintiff's own actions; (C) Plaintiff's damages were caused in whole or in part by third parties; (D) failure to mitigate losses; (E) the State Bar was not the cause of any losses alleged by Plaintiff; and (F) the Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction.

On August 4, 2017, the State Bar and Plaintiff filed a joint stipulation to extend deadlines [doc. 133]. On August 8, 2017, the Court entered an order approving the joint stipulation (the "Order Extending Deadlines") [doc. 135]. In the Order Extending Deadlines, the Court set the following dates and deadlines: (A) December 15, 2017 as the discovery cutoff date; (B) January 11, 2018 as the deadline to file pretrial motions; (C) January 31, 2018 as the deadline to file a joint pretrial stipulation; and (D) February 14, 2018 as the pretrial conference date.

On July 28, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion to compel the State Bar to provide interrogatory responses (the "First Motion to Compel") [doc. 130]. On August 21, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion for a protective order, asking the Court to strike certain deposition categories (the "First Motion for Protective Order") [doc. 140]. On September 13, 2017, the Court held a hearing on the First Motion to Compel and the First Motion for Protective Order. At that time, the Court issued rulings setting forth which deposition categories were appropriate and the interrogatories to which the State Bar had to respond [docs. 152, 153]. In both rulings, the Court held that the Advisory is irrelevant to the issues in this adversary proceeding, and that Plaintiff may not depose the State Bar regarding the Advisory or compel the State Bar to respond to interrogatories about the Advisory. On September 18, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the First Motion to Compel [doc. 155]. On October 6, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the First Motion for Protective Order [doc. 165].

On September 20, 2017, the parties appeared for a status conference. On September 28, 2017, in light of the parties' contentions at the status conference, the Court entered an order regarding the parties' depositions of each other and providing a deadline for the parties to exchange initial disclosures pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26 (the "Deposition Order") [doc. 165]. In the Deposition Order, the Court set October 10, 2017 as the date each party would depose the other. The Deposition Order provided that the Plaintiff's deposition should be first, followed by the State Bar's deposition, "which shall be continued from day to day, excluding holidays and weekends until completed."

The Deposition Order also stated that Suzanne Grandt is the only attorney allowed to conduct the deposition of Plaintiff, and that Ms. Grandt will be Plaintiff's sole contact person at the State Bar throughout the course of this litigation. The Court set a deadline of October 2, 2017 for the parties to make their initial disclosures.

On November 7, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to extend the deadlines provided in the Order Extending Deadlines (the "State Bar's Motion to Extend") [doc. 172]. Plaintiff did not oppose the State Bar's Motion to Extend. On December 11, 2017, the State Bar voluntarily dismissed the State Bar's Motion to Extend [doc. 187]. On December 14, 2017, Plaintiff filed her own motion to extend deadlines ("Plaintiff's Motion to Extend") [doc. 192].

In the meanwhile, both parties filed several discovery related motions. On November 22, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for an order requiring the State Bar to comply with Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 30(b)(6) by designating a knowledgeable person and allowing an amendment to Plaintiff's deposition topics ("Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance") [doc. 176]. Plaintiff is asking the Court to order the State bar to produce a knowledgeable witness. On December 14, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to strike Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance (the "Motion to Strike") [doc. 189], asking the Court to strike Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance on the basis that Plaintiff did not enter into a joint stipulation with the State Bar in accordance with Local Bankruptcy Rule 7026-1(c).

On December 7, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to compel the continued deposition of Plaintiff (the "State Bar's Motion to Compel") [doc. 181], asserting that Plaintiff refused to answer questions regarding her law practice. On December 15, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for a protective order requesting the Court prohibit the State Bar from questioning Plaintiff about her law practice (the "Motion for Deposition Order") [doc. 194].

On December 27, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for leave to join additional defendants to this action (the "Motion to Join") [doc. 205]. On January 4, 2018, Plaintiff filed a motion for a protective order requesting the Court seal Plaintiff's medical records and tax returns (the "Motion for Records Order") [doc. 209].

On January 11, 2018, the State Bar filed seven motions in limine (the "Motions in Limine") [doc. 213], asking the Court to prevent Plaintiff from introducing evidence of damages at trial. Plaintiff opposes the Motions in Limine [doc. 233]. Finally, on January 17, 2018, the State Bar filed another protective order (the "Motion for Global Protective Order") [doc. 225], requesting a global protective order to govern this adversary proceeding. On January 24, 2018, Plaintiff filed a response to the Motion for Global Protective Order [doc. 244].

Unless otherwise limited by court order, the scope of discovery is as follows: Parties may obtain discovery regarding any nonprivileged matter that is relevant to any party's claim or defense and proportional to the needs of the case, considering the importance of the issues at stake in the action, the amount in controversy, the parties' relative access to relevant information, the parties' resources, the importance of the discovery in resolving the issues, and whether the burden or expense of the proposed discovery outweighs its likely benefit. Information within this scope of discovery need not be admissible in evidence to be discoverable.

Pursuant to Rule 26(b)(2)(C)(iii), "the court must limit the frequency or extent of discovery otherwise allowed by these rules or by local rule if it determines that...the proposed discovery is outside the scope permitted by Rule 26(b)(1)." Under Rule 26(c)(1)—

A party or any person from whom discovery is sought may move for a protective order in the court where the action is pending -- or as an alternative on matters relating to a deposition, in the court for the district where the deposition will be taken. The motion must include a certification that the movant has in good faith conferred or attempted to confer with other affected parties in an effort to resolve the dispute without court action. The court may, for good cause, issue an order to protect a party or person from annoyance, embarrassment, oppression, or undue burden or expense....

"Rule 26(c) confers broad discretion on the trial court to decide when a protective order is appropriate and what degree of protection is required." Seattle Times Co. v. Rhinehart, 467 U.S. 20, 36, 104 S.Ct. 2199, 81 L.Ed.2d 17 (1984). The party seeking the protective order has the burden "to 'show good cause' by demonstrating harm or prejudice that will result from the discovery." Rivera v. NIBCO, Inc., 364 F.3d 1057, 1063 (9th Cir.2004).

"Broad allegations of harm, unsubstantiated by specific examples or articulated reasoning, do not satisfy the Rule 26(c) test." Beckman Indus., Inc. v. Int'l Ins. Co., 966 F.2d 470, 475 (9th Cir. 1992) (citing Cipollone v. Liggett Group, Inc., 785 F.2d 1108, 1121 (3rd Cir. 1986)). Rather, "[t]he party opposing disclosure has the burden of proving 'good cause,' which requires a showing 'that specific prejudice or harm will result' if the protective order is not granted." In re Roman Catholic Archbishop of Portland in Oregon, 661 F.3d 417, 424 (9th Cir.2011) (quoting Foltz v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 331 F.3d 1122, 1130 (9th Cir.2003)).

To the extent the State Bar is seeking a protective order related to Plaintiff's "Document Demands Numbers 16-18," the request is moot because Plaintiff asserts in her response that she is not seeking production of these documents.

The State Bar also requests entry of a global protective order governing the exchange of all confidential information in this adversary proceeding. It is unclear if Plaintiff is willing to stipulate to entry of a global protective order, or if Plaintiff agrees to all of the terms in the State Bar's proposed global protective order [doc. 228].

Unless Plaintiff will stipulate to the entry of a global protective order, the Court will deny the Motion for Global Protective Order.

Normally, a blanket protective order requires that counsel for a producing party review the information to be disclosed and designate the information it believes, in good faith, is confidential or otherwise entitled to protection. The designated information is thereafter entitled to the protections afforded by the blanket protective order unless the designation is objected to by an opposing party. Judicial review of a party's designation as confidential occurs only when there is such an objection which the parties cannot resolve by agreement.

Gillard v. Boulder Valley Sch. Dist. Re.-2, 196 F.R.D. 382, 386 (D. Colo. 2000). "Blanket protective orders routinely are approved by courts in civil cases, frequently on the stipulated request of the parties. The agreement of all parties is not required for the entry of a blanket protective order, however, so long as certain conditions are met." Id. Those conditions include:

First, a party must make some threshold showing of good cause to believe that discovery will involve confidential or protected information. This may be done on a generalized as opposed to a document-by-document basis. Moreover, even though a blanket protective order permits all documents to be designated as confidential, a party must agree to only invoke the designation in good faith. After receiving documents, the opposing party has the right to contest those documents which it believes not to be confidential. At this stage, the party seeking the protection shoulders the burden of proof in justifying retaining the confidentiality designation. Thus, the burden of proving confidentiality never shifts from the party asserting that claim—only the burden of raising that issue.

Id. (quoting Parkway Gallery Furniture, Inc. v. Kittinger/Pennsylvania House Grp., Inc., 121 F.R.D. 264, 268 (M.D.N.C. 1988)).

Here, the State Bar has not made a threshold showing of good cause. The State Bar asserts only that its request for a global protective order is reasonable and that the State Bar cannot produce "certain documents" unless a global protective order is in place. Again, to the extent the State Bar is referring to the Document Demands Numbers 16-18, it appears Plaintiff is no longer requesting these documents. The State Bar has not informed the Court why any document the State Bar intends to produce is confidential. In Gillard, for example, the defendants noted that discovery would involve the disclosure of confidential information such as "personnel records, school records with personally identifiable information about students, and juvenile delinquency records, all of which normally are required to be maintained confidentially." Gillard, 195 F.R.D. at 386. The State Bar has not indicated it intends to produce any such information.

Moreover, an important function of blanket protective orders is to "serve the interests of a just, speedy, and less expensive determination of complex disputes by alleviating the need for and delay occasioned by extensive and repeated judicial intervention." Id. When a court enters a blanket protective order, the parties agree to first attempt to resolve a dispute over confidentiality before seeking judicial intervention. Here, the history between the parties reflects that the parties are unable to resolve discovery disputes without intervention by the Court. As such, entry of a blanket protective order is futile, especially if Plaintiff is not stipulating to entry of such an order. See also San Jose Mercury News, Inc. v. U.S. Dist. Court--N. Dist., 187 F.3d 1096, 1103 (9th Cir. 1999) ("[B]lanket [protective] orders are inherently subject to challenge and

Tentative Ruling:

How are the debtors (in the jointly administered chapter 11 cases) going to fund the $10,000 postpetition retainer to Jeffrey S. Shinbrot, APLC, as their new bankruptcy counsel?

When do the debtors anticipate filing the contemplated motion to approve the sale of the debtors' assets?

If the debtors' sale of assets to Joyfully Gifted, LLC is consummated, what is the anticipated treatment of the debtors' nonpriority unsecured creditors under a chapter 11 plan? How are sale proceeds going to be allocated among the different estates?

Sustain objection of Ally Financial, Inc. to confirmation.

I. BACKGROUND

On March 16, 2014, Jonas B. Magcase (the "Debtor") and Ally Financial Inc. ("Creditor") entered into a motor vehicle lease agreement (the "Lease") [doc. 30, Exh. A]. Under the Lease, the Debtor was obligated to pay Creditor $625.76 a month for thirty-nine months.

On March 13, 2017, the Debtor filed a chapter 13 petition and a chapter 13 plan [docs. 1, 2]. On May 16, 2017, the Lease expired. Under the Lease, the Debtor had the option to buy the vehicle for a lump-sum payment of $31,964.00, plus fees and costs. The Debtor did not exercise this option.

On May 22, 2017, the Debtor filed an amended chapter 13 plan (the "Plan") [doc. 18]. Through the Plan, the Debtor proposes to purchase the vehicle for $31,964.80 payable at 5% interest with a monthly payment of $774.60.

On September 13, 2017, Creditor filed an objection to confirmation of the Plan (the "Objection") [doc. 23]. On November 21, 2017, the Debtor filed a response to the Objection [doc. 29]. On February 6, 2018, Creditor filed a reply [doc. 30].

determination necessary or appropriate to enforce or implement court orders or rules, or to prevent an abuse of process.

(c) The trustee may not assume or assign any executory contract or unexpired lease of the debtor, whether or not such contract or lease prohibits or restricts assignment of rights or delegation of duties, if—

...

(2) such contract is a contract to make a loan, or extend other debt financing or financial accommodations, to or for the benefit of the debtor, or to issue a security of the debtor;

In support of his Plan proposal, the Debtor cites Till v. SCS Credit Corp., 541 U.S. 465 (2004). The Debtor's reliance on Till is misplaced. "Till, which applies to both consensual and nonconsensual liens, instructs the bankruptcy courts, when dealing with the 'cram down' provision of § 1325(a)(5)(B)(ii), to set an interest rate by increasing the national prime rate by an appropriate amount to account for the increased risk of default for that particular creditor (referred to as the 'prime-plus' method)." In re Jones, 368 B.R. 602, 605 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 2007).

"'Cram down' refers to the power of a bankruptcy court to force a creditor to accept less than or something different from what that creditor was originally entitled to receive from the debtor." In re Weske, 203 B.R. 694, 695 (Bankr. E.D. Wis. 1996), abrogation on other grounds recognized by In re Pokrzywinski, 311 B.R. 846 (Bankr. E.D. Wis. 2004). "A plan which alters the method and time of payment of the purchase option from what had been set forth in the lease and which is not consented to by the lessor is a form of cram down." Id.

At least one court has held that a court's "cram down" power does not apply to a lease agreement to be assumed by a chapter 13 debtor. In In re Weske, the debtors sought to assume an unexpired vehicle lease agreement under their chapter 13 plan. The lease agreement at issue contained an option to purchase the vehicle for a lump sum payment. The debtors' chapter 13 plan proposed to pay the option price in monthly installments with interest over the 60-month plan period. 203 B.R. at 695. The court found that the lessor was not a holder of a secured claim subject to modification under 11 U.S.C. §§ 1322(b) or 1325. In addition, the court noted that § 1322(b)(7) allows chapter 13 debtors to assume unexpired leases subject to § 365, but the lease terms may not be modified. Id. at 695–96. Accordingly, the court sustained the lessor’s objection to the debtors’ plan.

Here, the Lease calls for a lump-sum payment of $31,964.00 plus fees and costs at the end of the lease term, which expired on May 16, 2017. Like the debtors in In re Weske, the Debtor is proposing in the Plan to exercise the purchase option in the Lease by paying monthly payments over time with interest. The Creditor is a lessor, rather than a secured claimant whose claim may be modified pursuant to Till. Pursuant to § 1322(b)(7), a debtor cannot assume an unexpired lease and modify its terms. However, the Lease at issue here has expired. The Debtor has not addressed whether the expiration of the Lease bars the proposed treatment of the vehicle under the Plan.

In In re Blackburn, the court denied confirmation of a chapter 13 plan, in part, because the debtors attempted to finance the residual purchase price of a leased vehicle through their plan, which violated § 365(c). 88 B.R. 273 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1988). In relevant part the court noted:

By way of their plan, debtors are attempting to obtain that which the lease agreement does not provide them—financing beyond the stated term of the lease. The lease agreement makes no provision whatever for debtor to finance the residual purchase price of the vehicle upon expiration of the lease term. Debtors’ lease agreement expired by its own terms the day after debtors filed their Chapter 13 petition. According to the terms of the lease, at expiration of the lease, absent purchase of the vehicle, the debtors must return it to Security Pacific.

Inasmuch as debtors’ proposed plan violates the provisions of § 365(c), it cannot be confirmed.

Id. at 276.

A similar set of facts arose in In re Ward, Case No. 12-60662-13, 2012 WL 2501182 (Bankr. D. Mont. June 28, 2012). The court in In re Ward denied the debtor’s proposed plan because the treatment proposed by the debtor was contrary to the terms of the lease, which expired prepetition. Id. at *3–4.

Here, the Lease expired on May 16, 2017. After the Lease expired, the Debtor had the option of purchasing the vehicle through a lump-sum payment or returning the vehicle to Creditor. The Debtor did neither. Allowing the Debtor to pay the purchase option price through the Plan modifies the terms of the Lease because it provides for a payment over forty-six months rather than a lump-sum. By varying the terms of the Lease, the Debtor is attempting to obtain financing beyond the stated term of the Lease, in violation of §§ 1322(b)(7) and 365(c)(2). Under § 105, the Court does not have discretion to allow the Debtor to pay the purchase price in the Lease through the Plan because §§ 1322(b)(7) and 365(c)(2) bar such treatment of the vehicle.

III. CONCLUSION

In light of the foregoing, the Court will sustain the Objection.

Docket 87

Tentative Ruling:

Deny.

On August 9, 2012, Bibliana Lucia Boverly (the "Debtor") filed a chapter 13 petition. On August 22, 2012, the Debtor filed a chapter 13 plan [doc. 11]. On October 29, 2012, the Debtor filed an amended chapter 13 plan (the "Plan") [doc. 19]. On November 29, 2012, the Court entered an order confirming the Plan [doc. 24]. The Plan expired on August 9, 2017.

On October 12, 2017, the chapter 13 trustee (the "Trustee") filed a motion to dismiss the Debtor's case (the "Motion to Dismiss") [doc. 87]. In the Motion to Dismiss, the Trustee argued that the Debtor's case should be dismissed because the plan expired pursuant to its terms, and because a balance of $2,450 remained to be paid through the Plan.

On October 23, 2017, the Debtor filed an opposition to the Motion to Dismiss (the "Opposition"). In support of the Opposition, the Debtor's counsel stated that the Debtor has made all her Plan payments, in the total amount of $46,417.39. (Declaration of Richard Garber, ¶ 5.) As of October 23, 2017, the Debtor's balance to pay off her case was $1,687.33. (Id., ¶ 4.) With additional attorney's fees and trustee's fees to be incurred, the Debtor may require $2,800 to pay off her plan. (Id., ¶ 13.) It will take four more months for the Debtor to pay off her plan by continuing to make her regular Plan payment of $729.50. (Id., ¶ 14.)

In support of her position, the Debtor relies on In re Hill, 374 B.R. 745 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 2007). In In re Hill, the chapter 13 trustee moved to dismiss two cases on the grounds that they had exceeded 60 months in length. In the both cases, the debtors asked that they be allowed to continue making their plan payments past the 60-month period until their plans were paid off. One debtor asked for 53 additional months, and the other debtor asked for 33 additional months. Neither debtor could increase their income to increase plan payments. The court held that 11 U.S.C. § 1307 does not specify that failure to complete a plan within 60 months is in itself grounds for dismissal. The court noted that the debtors had each agreed to complete their respective plans within 60 months, and that each debtor had materially breached their agreement. Such breach was not mandatory grounds for dismissal, because that the debtors had consistently performed during the 60-month plan period, and that all additional payments were going to pay the chapter 13 trustee fees, unsecured creditors, and the debtors' attorneys' fees.

Here, the facts of the Debtor's case are similar to those in In re Hill. The Debtor has made her Plan payments for 60 months, and is willing to make four additional monthly payments to pay the remaining balance of her Plan, which consists solely of Trustee fees and attorney's fees. The four additional months requested by Debtor is a far shorter period than the 53-month and 33-month extensions granted in In re Hill.

In light of the foregoing, the Court will deny the Motion to Dismiss.

The Debtor must submit the order within seven (7) days.

#52.00 Order to show cause why debtors' counsel should not be sanctioned for failure to appear at hearing on trustee's motion to dismiss

fr. 1/9/18;

Docket 70

Tentative Ruling:

On January 9, 2018, the Court held an initial hearing on this order to show cause ("OSC"). The debtors' counsel appeared as directed. The Court continued the hearing on the OSC to February 13, 2018 to allow the debtors' counsel to lodge an order on the motion to modify the debtors' chapter 13 plan ("Motion to Modify"). On January 12, 2018, the Court entered an order granting the Motion to Modify [doc. 78].

In light of the foregoing, the Court will discharge the OSC.

Appearances on February 13, 2018 are excused.

#53.00 Application for final fees and costs for David A Tilem

Docket 102

Tentative Ruling:

Continue hearing to March 13, 2018 at 11:30 a.m.

No later than February 27, 2018, applicant must submit a supplemental declaration attaching billing statements that include only fees and costs incurred after October 31, 2016 (the end of the period covered by the second fee application). The supplemental declaration must clearly state the total amount of fees and costs previously approved and disapproved, and the total amount of fees and costs incurred after October 31, 2016. The pending application contains unnecessary billing time entries and costs from time periods already covered by the first and second fee applications.

In addition, applicant must explain the following discrepancies in its application. The pending application seeks approval of $26,166.25 in total fees. However, this amount does not match the sum of the fees requested in the prior fee applications and the new fees incurred during the period covered by the pending Application, which equals $25,248.75.

1st Fee App	$8,386.25
2nd Fee App	$8,727.50
Final Fee App	$8,135.00
	$25,248.75

Applicant also appears to be requesting approval of fees that were previously disapproved by the Court in its order on the second fee application.

#56.00 Motion for order disallowing in part the amended proof of claim of Citizens Bank NA F/K/A RBS Citizens NA [Claim No.4-4]

Docket 73

Tentative Ruling:

Unless an appearance is made at the hearing on February 13, 2018, the hearing is continued to April 10, 2018 at 11:30 a.m., and the debtors must cure the service deficiencies noted below on or before March 11, 2018.

The debtors did not properly serve the objection on claimant. Claimant is an insured depository institution. The debtors served claimant at its address listed on proof of claim 4-4, pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3007(a). Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 3007-1(b)(2) provides that "[t]he claim objection must be served on the claimant at the address disclosed by the claimant in its proof of claim and at such other addresses and upon such parties as may be required by FRBP 7004 and other applicable rules."

Although claimant was served at the address listed on its proof of claim, the debtors did not address service to an officer of the institution, as required by FRBP 7004(h). In addition, a tracking number is provided on the proof of service, but it is unclear if the tracking number is a certified mail tracking number. Claimant's address is listed under "Served by United States Mail" without any indication that service was effectuated via certified mail.

Aside from the service issues, it is unclear why the debtors are seeking the requested relief. In the objection, the debtors argue that the unsecured portion of the claim was discharged in their first bankruptcy case. According to the debtors, the debtors seek the disallowance of the unsecured portion of the claim in order for the debtors to file a motion to modify their plan, in response to the chapter 13 trustee's motion to dismiss. Based on the motion to dismiss, the debtors are delinquent on plan payments in the amount of $7,014.00.

The confirmed chapter 13 plan provides for 0% to be paid to general unsecured creditors, including the $251,143.50 unsecured portion of the claim at issue. It is not Sustain objection and disallow claims of exemption based on California Code of Civil Procedure (“C.C.P”) § 704.950 in a total amount of $71,842.19 of equity in one checking account, two savings accounts, funds withheld for levy by Los Angeles Sheriff Office, and a security deposit for rent, as set forth in the debtor’s Schedule C filed on October 20, 2017 [doc. 11]. C.C.P. § 704.950 concerns the attachment of judgment liens to a declared homestead. The code section does not authorize a bankruptcy debtor to claim an exemption in personal property in any amount.

The Court will overrule the chapter 13 trustee's objection as moot.

In response to the chapter 13 trustee's objection, the debtors filed an amended Schedule C [doc. 29] to claim an exemption in the amount of $24,975 under California Code of Civil Procedure ("C.C.P.") § 703.140(b)(5) in the real property located at 6943 Jamieson Ave., Reseda, CA, 91335, and an exemption in the amount of $3,250 under C.C.P. § 703.140(b)(5) in a checking account. The total amount debtors now claim exempt under C.C.P. § 703.140(b)(5) is $28,225, which is the maximum amount allowed under the statute.

The chapter 13 trustee must submit the order within seven (7) days.

I. BACKGROUND

On January 29, 2016, Mauricio Betancur ("Plaintiff") filed a complaint against Kandy Kiss, Inc. ("Debtor"), alleging breach of written contract (the "State Court Action"). Notice of Removal, Exhibit 5. On September 20, 2016, Plaintiff filed the second amended complaint (the "Complaint"), which is the operative complaint. Notice of Removal, Exhibit 14. In relevant part, the Complaint alleges:

Plaintiff is a former employee of Debtor. Plaintiff worked for Debtor for several years and eventually entered into a written employment agreement with Debtor. Through his corporate entities, Plaintiff worked, among other positions, as Senior Vice President, Sales and Acquisitions. Kucuhed, Inc. ("Kucuhed") the entity through which Plaintiff worked for Debtor, has assigned Plaintiff any rights it is owed under the agreement.

Plaintiff's compensation was multi-faceted and included a payroll salary, a consulting payment to Kucuhed, bonuses, auto and travel expenses, insurance and bonuses pursuant to a commission schedule. Plaintiff and Debtor eventually got into a dispute regarding Plaintiff's compensation. On January 1, 2014, the parties memorialized their understanding in a written settlement agreement.

Plaintiff performed all covenants and conditions of the settlement agreement. As of October 5, 2015, the parties to this dispute released one another. Debtor promised to pay Plaintiff end of the month consulting fees through December 31, 2015. Debtor also promised to pay Plaintiff for 1.5% of the gross of shipments from Target Corporation ("Target") in 2016. Debtor breached the settlement agreement by: (A) failing to pay Plaintiff all commissions; and (B) failing to pay Plaintiff all salary amounts.

Plaintiff seeks damages from the date of the settlement agreement, because any other claims among the parties were resolved by the written contract at issue in this lawsuit. The settlement agreement affirms that Debtor agreed to forebear from bringing any future claims, actions or proceedings against Plaintiff related to or arising out of the prior employment agreement. Plaintiff has been damaged by Debtor's breach of the settlement agreement, and seeks the balance owing on the fully-executed settlement agreement of approximately $1 million.

Id. Plaintiff demanded a jury trial. Id.

On February 14, 2017, petitioning creditors Apex Logistics International LAX Inc., High Hope Trading Ltd., IDFIX, Inc., Kucuehead, Shol Inc., Texking Trading Ltd. and Tu Pacific, LLC filed an involuntary chapter 7 petition against the Alleged Debtor. On March 14, 2017, RM Global Textile, Inc. joined as a petitioning creditor (collectively with other petitioning creditors, "Petitioning Creditors") [doc. 20].

On February 22, 2017, as a result of the involuntary petition, Plaintiff filed a notice of a stay of the State Court Action. Notice of Removal, Exhibit 16. On February 23, 2017, the state court entered minutes staying the State Court Action and vacating all future dates. Notice of Removal, Exhibit 22.

On July 31, 2017, Debtor filed a cross-complaint against Plaintiff and 18 other cross-defendants (the "Cross-Complaint"). Notice of Removal, Exhibit 31. The Cross-Complaint asserted 15 causes of action under California law: (1) Breach of Employment Agreement; (2) Intentional Interference with Existing Contract; (3) Fraudulent Inducement; (4) Rescission Based on Economic Duress; (5) Breach of Contract; (6) Conversion and Embezzlement; (7) Breach of Fiduciary Duty; (8) Aiding and Abetting Breach of Fiduciary Duty; (9) Fraud; (10) Conspiracy to Defraud; (11) Intentional Interference with Existing Contract; (12) Interference with Prospective Economic Advantage; (13) Unfair Business Practices; (14) Fraud; and (15) Negligent Misrepresentation. Id. In relevant part, the Cross-Complaint alleges:

The cross-defendants conspired to destroy and interfere with Debtor's business by stealing Debtor's confidential information and diverting the business relationship between Debtor and its largest customer, Target, to Plaintiff and Plaintiff's new employer, Secret Charm, LLC ("Secret Charm"). Secret Charm and Adir Haroni have a long history of establishing new businesses to raid competitors through use of wrongful and unfair business practices. With the assistance of Target employees named as cross-defendants in this Cross-Complaint, Secret Charm and Mr. Haroni caused Target to transfer Target's business with Kandy Kiss to Secret Charm, where they now work. The Target employees received substantial bribes from Plaintiff and others.

Debtor also believes Kucuhead and Contractor's Management Corporation, Inc. ("Contractor's Management") are alter egos of Plaintiff, and that Plaintiff used these companies as his personal pocketbooks. Debtor believes Plaintiff used Kucuhead and Contractor's Management to evade his own duties and obligations owed to, among others, Debtor. Plaintiff was the sole shareholder of Kucuhead and Contractor's Management.

During his time with Debtor, Plaintiff was an executive and the "face" of Debtor with Target. Plaintiff took advantage of his position and began making unreasonable and extortionate demands upon Debtor for payment, expressly threatening to ruin the relationship between Debtor and Target if Debtor did not acquiesce to his demands. In January 2014, Debtor entered into an employment agreement with Plaintiff, effective through December 31, 2015 (the "Employment Agreement"). Through the Employment Agreement, Debtor was required to pay Plaintiff a salary, certain expenses and allowances and other bonuses. For his part, Plaintiff was required to "oversee, manage, and grow the business of [Debtor] in the design, marketing and production of clothing within the clothing industry...." Plaintiff also agreed to "perform faithfully, industriously, and to the best of [Plaintiff's] ability, experience and talents, all of the duties that may be required by the express and implicit terms of the [Employment Agreement]."

In the summer of 2015, Plaintiff began threatening to leave Debtor unless Debtor executed a new employment agreement with substantially higher compensation. While discussing these issues, Debtor learned that Plaintiff had sought and obtained from Debtor reimbursement for non-work related expenses, and that Debtor had overpaid Plaintiff hundreds of thousands of dollars in commissions, expense reimbursements and other payments to which he was not entitled. In response to Debtor's demands for repayment of these sums, Plaintiff threatened to quit Debtor, to inform Target that he was terminating his relationship with Debtor and to interfere with the business relationship between Debtor and Target. In August or September 2015, Plaintiff stopped coming to work regularly and stopped performing his duties for Debtor. Shortly thereafter, Plaintiff notified Debtor that he was going to breach the terms of the Employment Agreement and would leave Debtor.

Debtor and Plaintiff began discussions about termination of their relationship and how to effect a seamless transition from Plaintiff to his replacement. To lull Debtor into believing he would not disclose to Target any information about his dispute with Debtor, Plaintiff represented to Debtor that he intended to leave the apparel business entirely and follow a career in entertainment. On October 1, 2015, Plaintiff sent an email to Debtor stating that he had not informed Target of the dispute between Debtor and Plaintiff, and that Plaintiff had not told anyone at Target that he intended to leave Debtor so that the business relationship with Target would remain intact. Debtor now knows these representations were false.

Plaintiff also told Debtor that, unless Debtor settled its dispute with Plaintiff, Plaintiff would inform Target about his dispute with Debtor.

Moments before Plaintiff was to meet with Target to introduce his replacement, Plaintiff presented a settlement agreement to Debtor's representative, and told the representative that unless the parties entered into a settlement agreement, Plaintiff would not meet with Target. Debtor's representative signed the settlement agreement under duress. At this time, Plaintiff had already informed Target that he would be leaving and created doubt about Debtor's ability to continue its business with Target. After leaving Debtor, Debtor began working for Secret Charm, a direct competitor of Debtor.

Between September 22, 2015 and October 22, 2015 (the date of Plaintiff's departure), several employees of Debtor resigned in concert with Plaintiff. A total of 12 of Debtor's employees began working for Secret Charm after their departure. Moreover, Target has confirmed that it knew about the departure of Debtor's employees even before Debtor.

During Debtor's meeting with Target, Target informed Debtor that it was placing its business with Debtor on a temporary "pause" to assess whether Debtor could continue servicing Target without its employees. However, Target did not have a temporary "pause" procedure, and Target falsely represented that it was pausing its business with Debtor while it was building up its business with Plaintiff and Secret Charm. During the "pause" period, Debtor excelled in its business with Target and received glowing reviews from Target. Despite the glowing reviews, Target terminated its relationship with Debtor. Afterwards, Debtor learned that Plaintiff was bribing Target employees by, among other things, taking the employees out to lavish dinners, in violation of Target's own code of conduct.

Plaintiff also represented to Debtor that he had been able to secure an agreement with Bella Thorne, an actress, to be the celebrity face of Dazzle Deal, an agreement between Plaintiff (through one of his entities) and Debtor to merchandise and sell to Target apparel, accessories and gaming. In reliance on Plaintiff's representations, Debtor agreed to enter into an agreement regarding the Dazzle Deal and manufactured the products required by the agreement. Debtor shipped the units to Target and paid Plaintiff and/or Contractor's Management $0.50 per unit that Debtor shipped to Target pursuant to the Dazzle Deal.

Under these facts, Plaintiff breached the Employment Agreement and fraudulently induced Debtor to settle with Plaintiff. Plaintiff also embezzled and fraudulently misappropriated funds belonging to Debtor. Moreover, as a result of Debtor entering into the settlement agreement under duress, Debtor is entitled to rescind the settlement agreement. Plaintiff also breached the settlement agreement. The cross-defendants conspired to interfere with Debtor's business with Target. The employees who left Debtor to work for Secret Charm breached fiduciary duties owed to Debtor. The Target employees aided and abetted this breach. Plaintiff also breached the parties' Dazzle Deal agreement.

Id. Debtor is seeking damages in excess of $70 million. Notice of Removal, Exhibit 38. Subsequently, Debtor filed an answer to the Complaint, Notice of Removal, Exhibit 35, and the cross-defendants filed answers to the Cross-Complaint. Notice of Removal, Exhibits 36, 39-43, 46-47, 51. The answers include equitable affirmative defenses under California law. Id. Target and Janis Volk filed a demurrer to the Cross-Complaint. Notice of Removal, Exhibit 55. The parties have also filed several motions in state court, including discovery motions. Notice of Removal, Exhibits 17, 24, 53, 57, 68.

On September 19, 2017, pursuant to a stipulation between Petitioning Creditors and Debtor, the Court entered an Order for Relief against Debtor [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 62]. Subsequently, Howard M. Ehrenberg was appointed the chapter 7 trustee (the "Trustee"). On the same day, Plaintiff filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay (the "RFS Motion") [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 64], requesting relief from the automatic stay to prosecute and defend the state court action and remove the state court action to this Court. On November 22, 2017, the Court entered an order granting the RFS Motion [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 101].

On January 10, 2018, Plaintiff and cross-defendants Kucuhhead and Haven Entertainment Group, LLC filed an opposition to the Motion ("Plaintiff's Opposition") [doc. 15]. On the same day, cross-defendants Secret Charm, Mr. Haroni, Cathy King, Lauri Hamer and Melissa Krupa filed a joinder to Plaintiff's Opposition [doc. 17]. Cross-defendant Target also filed an opposition to the Motion [doc. 18]. On January 17, 2018, the Trustee filed an omnibus reply to the oppositions (the "Reply") [doc. 19].

On January 31, 2018, the parties filed a joint status report (the "Status Report") [doc. 20]. In the Status Report, all parties consent to this Court's entry of a final judgment in this action, with the Trustee noting that his consent is "only given to the extent this Court retains jurisdiction over the removed action...." Status Report, p. 5. The Trustee did not state that he consents to this Court conducting a jury trial.

II. ANALYSIS

A. Subject Matter Jurisdiction

Removal of state court actions to federal district court is governed by 28 U.S.C. §§ 1441 – 1455. Removal and remand of actions related to bankruptcy cases is governed by § 1452.

- (a) A party may remove any claim or cause of action in a civil action . . . to the district court for the district where such civil action is pending, if such district court has jurisdiction of such claim or cause of action under section 1334 of this title.
- (b) The court to which such claim or cause of action is removed may remand such claim or cause of action on any equitable ground. . . .

28 U.S.C. § 1452. The party seeking removal bears the burden of establishing federal jurisdiction. Id.

As set forth in § 1452, removal to a bankruptcy court requires that the court have jurisdiction of such claim or cause of action under 28 U.S.C. § 1334. 28 U.S.C. §

1334(b), with regard to bankruptcy cases and proceedings, provides that:

Except as provided by subsection (e)(2) and notwithstanding any Act of Congress that confers exclusive jurisdiction on a court or courts other than the district courts, the district courts shall have original but not exclusive jurisdiction of all civil proceedings arising under title 11, or arising in or related to cases under title 11.

i. Arising Under Jurisdiction

"A matter arises under the Bankruptcy Code if its existence depends on a substantive provision of bankruptcy law, that is, if it involves a cause of action created or determined by a statutory provision of the Bankruptcy Code." In re Ray, 624 F.3d 1124, 1131 (9th Cir. 2010).

ii. Arising In Jurisdiction

"A proceeding 'arises in' a case under the Bankruptcy Code if it is an administrative matter unique to the bankruptcy process that has no independent existence outside of bankruptcy and could not be brought in another forum, but whose cause of action is not expressly rooted in the Bankruptcy Code." Id.

Matters that "arise under or in Title 11 are deemed to be 'core' proceedings . . ." In re Harris Pine Mills, 44 F.3d 1431, 1435 (9th Cir. 1995). Title 28, United States Code, section 157(b)(2) sets out a non-exclusive list of core proceedings, including "matters concerning the administration of the estate," "allowance or disallowance of claims," "objections to discharges," "motions to terminate, annul, or modify the automatic stay," and "confirmation of plans." Bankruptcy courts have the authority to hear and enter final judgments in "all core proceedings arising under title 11, or arising in a case under title 11 . . ." 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(1); Stern v. Marshall, 564 U.S. 462, 475-76, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2604, 180 L.Ed.2d 475 (2011).

iii. Related to Jurisdiction

Bankruptcy courts also have jurisdiction over proceedings that are "related to" a bankruptcy case. 28 U.S.C. § 1334(b); In re Pegasus Gold Corp., 394 F.3d 1189, 1193 (9th Cir. 2005). A proceeding is "related to" a bankruptcy case if:

Chapter 7

[T]he outcome of the proceeding could conceivably have any effect on the estate being administered in bankruptcy. Thus, the proceeding need not necessarily be against the debtor or against the debtor's property. An action is related to bankruptcy if the outcome could alter the debtor's rights, liabilities, options, or freedom of action (either positively or negatively) and which in any way impacts upon the handling and administration of the bankrupt estate.

Pegasus Gold Corp., 394 F.3d at 1193 (quoting Pacor, Inc. v. Higgins, 743 F.2d 984, 994 (3d Cir. 1984) (emphasis omitted)).

"[C]ivil proceedings are not within 28 U.S.C. § 1334(b)'s grant of jurisdiction if they... 'are so tangential to the title 11 case or the result of which would have so little impact on the administration of the title 11 case... Put another way, litigation that would not have an impact upon the administration of the bankruptcy case, or on property of the estate, or on the distribution to creditors, cannot find a home in the district court based on the court's bankruptcy jurisdiction.'" In re Wisdom, 2015 WL 2128830, at *10 (Bankr. D. Idaho May 5, 2015) (quoting 1 Collier on Bankruptcy, ¶ 3.01[3][e][v] (Alan N. Resnick & Henry J. Sommer eds., 16th ed. 2014)).

Here, the Court does not have "arising under" or "arising in" jurisdiction. There is no "arising under" jurisdiction because the matter does not involve any statutory provisions of the Bankruptcy Code. This matter also does not "arise in" the bankruptcy case because it can independently exist outside of bankruptcy and be brought in another forum.

However, this Court does have "related to" jurisdiction over this matter. The Trustee, in his capacity as representative of the bankruptcy estate, is both a defendant to this action as well as the cross-complainant. If the Trustee is successful in this action, the Trustee may obtain a substantial judgment in favor of the estate, thereby increasing the amount of cash available for distribution. On the other hand, if Plaintiff obtains a breach of contract judgment, the size of the estate may be diminished on account of that liability. Consequently, both the Complaint and the Cross-Complaint have the potential to impact administration of this estate.

In the Reply, the Trustee asserts that this Court does not have "related to" jurisdiction because "[b]reach of contract claims that arose before and independent of the administration of [the] bankruptcy estate are not 'related to' the bankruptcy." The Trustee cites In re Castlerock Properties, 781 F.2d 159, 161 (9th Cir. 1986), for this proposition. However, in Castlerock Properties, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals did not decide whether the bankruptcy court had "related to" jurisdiction; rather, the question before the Court of Appeals was whether the bankruptcy court could enter final judgment. Castlerock Properties, 781 F.2d at 161. Thus, Castlerock Properties is inapposite. Whether this Court may enter final judgment is a different issue from whether this Court has subject matter jurisdiction. Based on the facts above, this Court has "related to" subject matter jurisdiction over this action.

B. Mandatory Abstention

Citing to bankruptcy court decisions between 1989 and 1994, the Trustee asserts that mandatory abstention is applicable to removed actions. However, in 2001, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals held that neither mandatory nor permissive abstention applies to removed proceedings because there is no pending state proceeding upon removal. In re Lazar, 237 F.3d 967, 981-82 (9th Cir. 2001) (citing Sec. Farms v. Int'l Bhd. of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen & Helpers, 124 F.3d 999, 1009-10 (9th Cir. 1997)). This Court is bound by the Court of Appeals' holding. As a result, neither mandatory nor permissive abstention applies to this proceeding.

C. Remand

"Bankruptcy courts have broad discretion to remand cases over which they otherwise have jurisdiction on any equitable ground." In re Enron Corp., 296 B.R. 505, 508 (C.D. Cal. 2003). 28 U.S.C. § 1452(b) provides, in pertinent part: "The court to which such claim or cause of action is removed may remand such claim or cause of action on any equitable ground." "[E]ven where federal jurisdiction attaches in actions 'related to' bankruptcy proceedings, Congress has explicitly provided for courts to find that those matters are more properly adjudicated in state court." Parke v. Cardsystem Solutions, Inc., 2006 WL 2917604 (N.D. Cal. October 11, 2006) (quoting Williams v. Shell Oil Co., 169 B.R. 684, 690 (S.D. Cal. 1994)).

Courts generally consider up to fourteen factors in deciding whether to remand a case to state court. Enron, 296 B.R. at 508. Factors courts should consider in deciding whether to remand are:

- (1) the effect or lack thereof on the efficient administration of the estate if the Court recommends [remand or] abstention;
- (2) extent to which state law issues predominate over bankruptcy issues;
- (3) difficult or unsettled nature of applicable law;
- (4) presence of related proceeding commenced in state court or other nonbankruptcy proceeding;
- (5) jurisdictional basis, if any, other than [section] 1334;
- (6) degree of relatedness or remoteness of proceeding to main bankruptcy case;
- (7) the substance rather than the form of an asserted core proceeding;
- (8) the feasibility of severing state law claims from core bankruptcy matters to allow judgments to be entered in state court with enforcement left to the bankruptcy court;
- (9) the burden on the bankruptcy court's docket;
- (10) the likelihood that the commencement of the proceeding in bankruptcy court involves forum shopping by one of the parties;
- (11) the existence of a right to a jury trial;
- (12) the presence in the proceeding of nondebtor parties;
- (13) comity; and
- (14) the possibility of prejudice to other parties in the action.

Id., 508 n.2; see also In re Cytodyn of New Mexico, Inc., 374 B.R. 733, 738 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2007).

As a preliminary matter, Plaintiff's argument regarding unclean hands reaches the merits of this action. Plaintiff asserts that Debtor acted unfairly and inequitably in refusing to honor the parties' settlement agreement and that Debtor's economic duress claim against the cross-defendants is "galling." Plaintiff's Opposition, p. 15. Plaintiff contends that Debtor and its counsel acted in bad faith in connection with the negotiation of the settlement agreement and that, as a result, their unclean hands are imputed onto the Trustee. These arguments do not establish unclean hands as relates to the Trustee's request for a remand of the action. Rather, Plaintiff is effectively asking the Court to decide an affirmative defense to the Cross-Complaint. Whether the affirmative defense has merit or not has no bearing on this Court's decision to remand this action.

In weighing the factors above, the Court finds that remand is appropriate. First, although the outcome of this proceeding may impact the size of this estate, litigation of the State Court Action will not otherwise have an effect on the bankruptcy case. The liability arising from the State Court Action will determine the amount of distribution available to creditors, but that determination will not hinder the Trustee and other parties in interest from proceeding with Debtor's bankruptcy case. Plaintiff asserts that remanding the State Court Action will cause delay because the state court will not be able to try the State Court Action faster than this Court. However, even if this is true, a brief delay will not necessarily impact administration of this estate. At this time, the parties are still investigating Debtor's assets and liabilities.

Moreover, both the Complaint and the Cross-Complaint allege exclusively California causes of action, including allegations of breach of contract, breach of fiduciary duty, intentional interference with an existing contract and unfair business practices. The answers filed by the parties also assert affirmative defenses under California law, including equitable defenses such as laches and unclean hands. Although the issues may not be particularly difficult or complex, unlike the state court, this Court does not routinely adjudicate these issues.

Next, the only basis for bankruptcy jurisdiction over this proceeding is 28 U.S.C. § 1334, and neither the Complaint nor the Cross-Complaint present "core" issues. As a result, this Court is unable to enter final judgment without the parties' consent. Although the Trustee noted in the Status Report that he will consent to this Court's entry of a final judgment, that consent is contingent on the Court denying the Motion. Both parties have also requested a jury trial. While the Trustee stated that he would consent to this Court's entry of a final judgment if the Court denies the Motion, the Trustee has not signaled any consent to this Court presiding over a jury trial. As a result, for a jury trial to take place, it may be necessary for the United States District Court to withdraw the reference, and then the parties will have to wait for a jury trial to take place there.

Further, as noted above, the State Court Action has a limited relationship to the main bankruptcy case. While the extent of damages may have an effect on future distribution to creditors, the State Court Action does not otherwise deal with any bankruptcy issues or impede the Trustee's administration of the estate. As there are no core bankruptcy matters at issue in this proceeding, severability of any bankruptcy issues from state law causes of action is also not an option.

The Court is not concerned about the burden on its docket of retaining this proceeding (possibly for pre-trial matters only). That factor is neutral.

The State Court Action includes 19 nondebtor parties, all of whom are either based in California or have significant business contact with California. The agreements and transactions at issue also took place in California, and the parties have agreed to California as their choice of forum. As a result, comity also dictates that the parties litigate in a California state court.

Finally, the parties will not face any prejudice if the Court remands the State Court Action to state court. At the time Plaintiff filed the Complaint, he chose the state court as the appropriate forum. The Trustee, as representative of Debtor's estate, also chose the state court as the appropriate forum to file the Cross-Complaint. Remanding this proceeding will allow the state court to continue adjudicating the issues.

Although the record does not demonstrate that Plaintiff removed this action for the purpose of forum shopping (as opposed to, for example, complying with the deadlines provided in Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 9027(a)(2)), and there does not appear to be a related proceeding in state court, most of the other factors weigh in favor of remanding this proceeding to state court. Consequently, the Court will grant the Motion.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will grant the Motion and remand this proceeding to state court.

The Trustee must submit an order within seven (7) days.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

The Court will enter judgment in favor of Dean Albert Maury Cazares ("Defendant").

I. BACKGROUND

Defendant, Burton Bell, and Raymond Herrera were founding members of the band known as "Fear Factory." From 1994 through 2003, the band Fear Factory consisted of Defendant, Mr. Bell, Mr. Herrera, and Christian Olde Wolbers. Defendant, Mr. Bell, Mr. Herrera, and Mr. Wolbers were each 25% owners of Fear Factory, Inc. ("Fear Factory"), an entity that owned the rights in and to the trade name and trademark of Fear Factory. (Doc. 39, Joint Pre-Trial Stipulation (the "Pre-Trial Stipulation"), ¶ 1.) [FN1] [FN2]

Oxidizer, Inc. ("Oxidizer") is a Delaware corporation, incorporated on February 19, 2009. (Exh. 18.) The Certificate of Incorporation lists Defendant and Mr. Bell as directors of Oxidizer. (Id.) Defendant is a 50% owner of Oxidizer. (Exh. 3, at p. 4; Exh. 11, at p. 43.) Oxidizer is the entity that oversees the music recording, licensing, and publishing agreements for the band Fear Factory. (Exh. 9, at p. 10.) Defendant receives income from Oxidizer. (Id., at p. 34.)

Fear Campaign, Inc. ("Fear Campaign") is a Delaware corporation, incorporated on May 19, 2009. (Exh. 17.) The Certificate of Incorporation lists Defendant and Mr. Bell as directors of Fear Campaign. (Id.) Defendant is a 50% owner of Fear Campaign. (Exh. 3, at p. 4; Exh. 11, at p. 43.) Fear Campaign is the entity that operates Fear Factory's tours, live performances, and merchandise sales. (Exh. 9, at pp. 12, 30, 35.) Defendant receives income from Fear Campaign. (Id., at p. 34.)

Defendant stated that he did not know that he was an officer or director of Fear Campaign and Oxidizer. (Exh. 11, at pp. 43–44.) Defendant stated that he attended board meetings of and signed documents on behalf of both Fear Campaign and Oxidizer, but he not remember exactly when. (Exh. 12, at p. 16.) Defendant also was unaware of the financial condition of either Fear Campaign or Oxidizer. (Id., at p. 45–46.) Defendant stated that he is a signatory on the bank accounts for Fear Campaign and Oxidizer, although he had never written a check on either corporation's accounts. (Id., at p. 46.)

Scott Koenig is Defendant's manager and a manager of Fear Factory. (Exh. 10, at p. 2.) On at least one occasion, Mr. Koenig signed documents on behalf of Fear Campaign. (Exh. 11, at p. 32.) Defendant stated his belief that Mr. Koenig has the authority to write checks from the Oxidizer and Fear Campaign accounts. (Id., at p. 47.) Defendant also stated that Mr. Koenig had copies of contracts and agreements relating to Defendant and Fear Factory. (Id., at pp. 16, 51.)

A. Settlement Agreement and Stipulated Judgment

On March 24, 2009, Mr. Bell, Defendant, and Oxidizer sued Mr. Herrera, Mr. Wolbers, and other defendants for declaratory relief claiming they were entitled to use "Fear Factory" and the rights that go along with that name. On March 15, 2011, the parties entered into an agreement signed on March 15, 2011 (the "Settlement Agreement"). (Pre-Trial Stipulation, ¶ 2.) Pursuant to the terms of the Settlement Agreement, Defendant, among others, agreed to pay the following monies to Mr. Herrera and Mr. Wolbers (together, "Plaintiffs"):

- 20% of net recording advances and net record royalties arising from the "Mechanize" album;
- 20% of net recording advances and net record royalties arising from the two Fear Factory albums following the "Mechanize" album;
- 15% of net recording advances and net record royalties arising from the third and fourth Fear Factory albums following the "Mechanize" album;

- A percentage of net recording advances and net record royalties arising from any live Fear Factory albums or re-recorded Fear Factory songs;
- 50% of all net income from the sale of Fear Factory merchandise;
- 8.5% of all net touring income for a period of seven years until December 8, 2016; and
- $83,657.62 due as of the date of the Settlement Agreement, payable within 12 months (the "Prior Monies Due").

(Exh. 49, at pp. 2–9.) The Settlement Agreement also provides:

In the event of a breach of this Agreement or an action for Declaratory Relief regarding an interpretation of any provision in this Agreement, the prevailing party, in addition to all other legal or equitable remedies, shall be entitled to recover all reasonable costs and expenses, including reasonable attorney's fees, incurred by reason of such action.

(Exh. 49, at p. 17.) The Settlement Agreement further states that "[p]rovided that Bell and [Defendant] have timely paid the Prior Monies Due in full in accordance with this Agreement, in the event of any breach of this agreement hereunder, Herrera, Wolbers, and/or Priske's sole remedy shall be an action for damages at law[.]" (Exh. 49, at p. 18.) Within 12 months after executing the Settlement Agreement, Defendant paid in excess of $90,000 to Plaintiffs. (Pre-Trial Stipulation, ¶ 4.)

On December 17, 2013, Plaintiffs sued Mr. Bell, Defendant, and Oxidizer in state court for breach of written contract, breach of fiduciary duty, accounting, conversion, and violation of California Business and Professions Code § 17200 et seq. (the "State Court Action"). (Id., ¶ 5.) On October 16, 2015, Defendant, Mr. Bell, and Oxidizer entered into a Stipulation for Entry of Judgment, whereby the Settlement Agreement was to remain in full force and effect, and judgment in the amount of $214,307.24 was to be entered, jointly and severally, against Defendant, Mr. Bell, and Oxidizer (the "Stipulated Judgment"). (Id., ¶ 6.)

On December 16, 2015, the state court entered judgment in favor of Plaintiffs pursuant to the terms of the Stipulated Judgment, specifically holding that the Settlement Agreement remained in full force and effect (the "Judgment"). The state court also retained jurisdiction to award Plaintiffs their attorney's fees and costs. (Id., ¶ 7.)

On February 17, 2016, Plaintiffs filed a motion for attorney's fees (the "Attorney's Fees Motion"). In the Attorney's Fees Motion, Plaintiffs sought to amend the Judgment to include $681,060 in attorney's fees and costs Plaintiffs allegedly incurred in prosecuting the State Court Action. The hearing on the Attorney's Fees Motion was scheduled for March 28, 2016. (Id., ¶ 8.)

B. Defendant's Bankruptcy Filing

On February 25, 2016—before the hearing on the Attorney's Fees Motion—Defendant filed a chapter 7 petition. At the petition date, Ian Landsberg and Casey Donoyan were Defendant's bankruptcy counsel. On March 10, 2016, Defendant filed a Statement of Financial Affairs ("SOFA") and schedules (together, "March 2016 Schedules") [Exh. 1]. On April 21, 2016, Defendant filed amended schedules A, B, C and I ("April 21, 2016 Schedules") [Exh. 3]. On April 25, 2016, Defendant filed an amended Schedule C and SOFA [Exh. 5]. On March 2, 2017, Defendant filed an amended SOFA ("March 2017 Schedules") [Exh. 7]. The foregoing schedules were filed by Mr. Landsberg on behalf of Defendant.

On April 7, 2017, Defendant filed a Substitution of Attorney, replacing Mr. Landsberg with Andrew Smyth as his bankruptcy counsel of record [case no. 1:16-bk-10543-VK, doc. 87]. On August 29, 2017, Defendant filed amended schedules A/B and C ("August 2017 Schedules") [Exh. 8]. The August 2017 Schedules were filed by Mr. Smyth on behalf of Defendant.

Several meetings of creditors were held in Defendant's case. (Exhs. 9–12.) [FN3] The meeting of creditors was continued several times, in part because Defendant was performing on tour in Europe with Fear Factory during August 2016, and in part because the parties sought to mediate their disputes. (Exh. 56.) The mediation date was set for October 5, 2016. (Case no. 1:16-bk-10543-VK, doc. 72 at p. 3.) The mediation was unsuccessful.

In his March 2016 Schedules, Defendant indicated in Schedule I that his current monthly gross income as of the petition date was $4,281.57. Defendant did not provide a breakdown of his income sources in his Schedule I. (Exh. 1, at pp. 20, 24–25.) In his Statement of Current Monthly Income, Defendant disclosed his sources of income as follows:

- Monthly income of $78.01 from American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers ("ASCAP")
- Monthly income of $3,285.93 from Fear Campaign
- Monthly income of $133.33 from Oxidizer
- Monthly income of $215.34 from Sound Exchange
- Monthly income of $568.96 from Universal Music Publishing Group ("Universal")

(Id., at pp. 36–37.)

In his April 21, 2016 Schedules, Defendant included a breakdown of income sources in his Schedule I, disclosing the same income as before from ASCAP, Fear Campaign, Oxidizer, and Universal. Defendant amended his monthly income from Sound Exchange from $215.34 to $215.40. Defendant's amended aggregate monthly income was $4,281.63. (Exh. 3, at p. 49.)

In his declaration [doc. 57], Mr. Wolbers alleged that Defendant received income from the following sources:

Defendant testified that he disclosed his ASCAP and Sound Exchange income in his schedules. (Declaration of Dean Cazares for Direct Testimony at Trial ("Cazares Decl."), [doc. 54], ¶ 11.) Universal appears to be the successor-in-interest to BMG, and the entity who currently pays publishing royalties to Defendant. (See, e.g., Exhs. 20–26, 44–48.) As noted above, Defendant disclosed royalty income from Universal in his March 2016 and April 21, 2016 Schedules.

Defendant also disclosed his endorsement agreements to the chapter 7 trustee, Diane C. Weil ("Trustee"), and stated that such endorsement agreements were canceled. (Cazares Decl., ¶ 7.) Defendant further stated that he has complied with all discovery requests by the Trustee. (Id., ¶ 15.) Defendant had "turned over to the Trustee a huge amount of material completely disclosing [his] financial condition prior to and after bankruptcy," including three years of individual bank statements, three years of individual income tax returns, and profit and loss statements for Fear Campaign and Oxidizer. (Cazares Decl., ¶ 14.)

On June 19, 2017, the Trustee filed a motion for turnover by Defendant of $9,122.21, comprised of the following postpetition royalty payments from Warner Music Group Services ("Warner"):

- On September 26, 2016, Defendant received $4,133.51 (attributable to Fear Factory) and $552.50 (attributable to Brujeria [a different band with which Defendant performed]); and
- On March 27, 2017, Defendant received $3,789.33 (Fear Factory) and $646.87 (Brujeria).

(Declaration of Diane C. Weil ("Trustee Decl."), doc. 109, ¶ 12.) The Court granted the motion for turnover and entered an order directing Defendant to turn over $9,122.21 to the Trustee ("Turnover Order") [Case no. 1:16-bk-10543-VK, docs. 89, 95.] On August 9, 2017, Defendant complied with the Turnover Order by delivering to the Trustee the payments he had received. (Cazares Decl., ¶¶ 8–9.) Defendant testified that the Trustee has been collecting his ASCAP and BMG/Universal royalties since June 2016.

D. Defendant's Copyrights and Trademarks

In his March 2016 Schedules, under item no. 26 of his Schedule A/B (Patents, copyrights, trademarks, trade secrets, and other intellectual property), Defendant stated, "All band members have trademarked the band[']s name: Fear Factory." The value of Defendant's interest was listed as "Unknown." (Exh. 1, at p. 9.)

In his April 21, 2016 Schedules, under item no. 26 of his Schedule A/B, Defendant disclosed a 50% interest in the "Fear Factory" trademark and his interest in copyrights to approximately 180 song compositions. These copyright interests were listed as having an "Unknown" value. (Exh. 3, at p. 5 and Attachment 26.1.)

In his August 2017 Schedules, under item no. 19 of his Schedule A/B (Non-publicly traded stock and interests in incorporated and unincorporated businesses), Defendant listed "Trade Mark and Fear Factory" with a value of $7,175.00. (Exh. 8, at p. 4.) Under item no. 25 (trusts, equitable, or future interests in property), Defendant listed "Song Books and copy rights" with a value of $13,000. (Id., at p. 5.) Defendant did not list any property under item no. 26 (patents, copyrights, trademarks, etc.) and did not attach a list of his song compositions. (Id.) To his Schedule C, Defendant added a claim of exemption in the amount of $10,179.42 in "Song Books and copy rights," valued at $13,000. (Id., at p. 8.)

In his declaration, Mr. Wolbers stated he received approximately $3,000 bi-annually in royalties arising from his copyright interests in the songs he co-created with Defendant under the Fear Factory name. (Wolbers Decl., ¶ 14.)

Defendant testified that he never discussed the total value of his copyrighted songs with his new counsel, Mr. Smyth. Mr. Smyth had told Defendant that an appraiser would need to assess their value. Defendant further stated that he did not have money to afford an appraiser, so he did not hire one. Defendant did not know whether $13,000 was the total value of his copyrighted songs, and testified that "$13,000" was a value that Mr. Smyth had put in his schedules.

E. Defendant's Interests in Fear Campaign and Oxidizer

In his March 2016 Schedules, under item no. 19 of his Schedule A/B (Non-publicly traded stock and interests in incorporated and unincorporated businesses), Defendant stated he had no interest in any non-publicly traded stock and interests in incorporated and unincorporated businesses, or any interest in an LLC, partnership, and joint venture. (Exh. 1, at p. 8.) Defendant indicated under item no. 27 of his SOFA that within four years before he filed for bankruptcy, he did not own or manage a business. (Exh. 1, at p. 29.)

In his April 21, 2016 Schedules, under item no. 19 of his Schedule A/B, Defendant disclosed a 50% ownership interest in each of the following entities: Fear Factory, Oxidizer, and Fear Campaign. Each ownership interest was listed as having an "Unknown" value. (Exh. 3, at p. 4.)

At the July 17, 2017 meeting of creditors, Defendant admitted that he had participated in Fear Campaign and Oxidizer board meetings and had signed documents as an officer or director of Fear Campaign and Oxidizer. (Exh. 12, at pp. 16–18.)

In his August 2017 Schedules, Defendant's amended Schedule A/B omitted from item no. 19 his 50% ownership interests in Fear Factory, Oxidizer, and Fear Campaign. (Exh. 8, at p. 4.)

F. Defendant's Executory Contracts

In his March 2016 Schedules, Defendant listed on his Schedule G an unexpired apartment lease. Defendant listed no other unexpired leases or executory contracts. (Exh. 1, at p. 17.) In their adversary complaint, Plaintiffs alleged that Defendant omitted a "wealth of executory contracts from which Defendant derives thousands of dollars each month." (Doc. 1, at ¶ 19(b).)

Included in the exhibits admitted into evidence are copies of the following agreements:

- Soulfood Music Distribution ("Soulfood") (music distribution agreement) (Exh. 19),
- Nuclear Blast USA ("Nuclear Blast") (music licensing agreement) (Exh. 37);
- Tanglade LTD ("Tanglade") (music licensing agreement) (Exh. 39);
- Riot Entertainment Australia ("Riot") (music licensing agreement) (Exh. 40);
- BMG/Universal (co-publishing agreements) (Exhs. 47, 48);
- Ibanez (guitar endorsement agreement) (Exh. 82); and
- Freibank Musiksverlag ("Freibank") (music publishing agreement) (Exh. 83).

Oxidizer is the counterparty to the agreements with Soulfood, Nuclear Blast, Tanglade, Riot, and Freibank. The copies of agreements with Soulfood, Nuclear Blast, and Tanglade admitted into evidence do not contain signatures. Defendant and Mr. Bell signed the Riot agreement on behalf of Oxidizer. Defendant's manager Mr. Koenig signed the Freibank agreement on behalf of Oxidizer.

Defendant personally signed the agreements with BMG/Universal and Ibanez. Defendant signed the BMG/Universal agreements in 2001 and 2003. At the May 27, 2016 meeting of creditors, Defendant acknowledged that he received royalty income from BMG/Universal. (Exh. 9, at p. 18.)

In his declaration, Mr. Wolbers testified that Defendant has had endorsement deals with Seymour Duncan and Ibanez since 1997. (Wolbers Decl., ¶¶ 16, 17.) At the March 17, 2017, Defendant testified that he had entered into prepetition endorsement deals with Hoshino Gakki Co., the maker of Ibanez guitars. Defendant stated that he signed a prepetition Ibanez endorsement deal in April 2014. Defendant's counsel stated that the April 2014 agreement had expired after a one-year term. (Exh. 11, at pp. 26–27.) Postpetition, on August 2, 2016, Defendant signed an Ibanez agreement. (Exh. 82.)

At the March 17, 2017 meeting of creditors, Defendant stated that he had a prepetition endorsement deal with Seymour Duncan, a manufacturer of guitar pickups. Defendant stated that this prepetition agreement with Seymour Duncan had expired. (Exh. 11, at pp. 29–30.) Defendant also disclosed that he signed a postpetition endorsement agreement with Seymour Duncan. (Id., at p. 30.) However, no copy of the Seymour Duncan agreement was admitted into evidence.

At the March 17, 2017 meeting of creditors, Defendant stated that TKO was the booking agent for the venues at which he performed. Defendant did not have copies of the venue booking agreements and assumed that his manager Mr. Koenig, John Brand (Defendant's tour manager), or TKO would have such copies. Defendant stated that he never reviewed these venue booking agreements. (Exh. 11, at p. 51.)

At the March 17, 2017 meeting of creditors, Defendant also stated he was familiar with Manhead, LLC ("Manhead"), a merchandising company. Defendant further stated that he did not sign the Manhead agreement and was not familiar with that agreement. He had no knowledge of the $100,000 allegedly paid by Manhead to Fear Campaign. (Exh. 11, at pp. 31–33.)

G. Defendant's Guitars

In his March 2016 Schedules under "Equipment for Sports and Hobbies," Defendant listed "5 guitars 2 Snowboards" with a total value of $2,200. (Exh. 1, p. 7.) At the July 18, 2016 meeting of creditors, Defendant testified that one of the guitars was a Ibanez Cazares signature line guitar and that none of the guitars had been modified for Defendant's use. (Exh. 10, at p. 3.)

In their declarations, Plaintiffs testified that Defendant's customized Ibanez guitar is more expensive than the "Dean Cazares" guitar commercially available from Ibanez. (Wolbers Decl., ¶ 19; Herrera Decl., ¶ 19.) Defendant disputed Plaintiffs' valuation of the custom guitar. Although Ibanez may have custom-built the guitar for Defendant, Defendant testified that guitars similar to his guitar are now manufactured by Ibanez and not custom. As a result, Defendant testified that his guitar is presently not more valuable than the manufactured guitars.

In his March 2016 Schedules, under item no. 7 of his SOFA (payments on debts to insiders), Defendant stated that within one year before the petition date, he did not make any payments on a debt owed to an insider. (Exh. 1, at p. 25.) At the May 27, 2016 meeting of creditors, Defendant disclosed to the Trustee that he had transferred $13,000 to his sister Gina Cazares. (Exh. 9, at pp. 2, 7–8.) In his March 2017 Schedules, Defendant amended his SOFA by adding under item no. 7 a payment in the amount of $13,000 to Gina Cazares in January 2016, which he described as repayment of a loan. (Exh. 7, at p. 4.)

I. Other Alleged Omissions by Defendant

At the July 17, 2017 meeting of creditors, Defendant disclosed that Jacek Sikora is an owner of a restaurant and guitar store in Poland and a friend of Defendant. In return for monies loaned, Defendant provided Mr. Sikora with free backstage passes to concerts. (Exh. 12, at p. 15.) Although Defendant characterized this exchange as a "loan," he did not provide further details about the nature of the transaction. It is not clear if the money provided by Mr. Sikora is a loan or income received by Defendant. Nor did Defendant state whether this alleged transaction occurred prepetition or postpetition.

In an email dated June 27, 2017, the Trustee's counsel, John Melissinos, wrote to Defendant's counsel, Mr. Smyth, that "With respect to documents, it appears we have all that has been requested except for the item described in my May 31, 2017 letter asking for 'any and all of the Debtor's agreements with "Stitching on Tour."' Please supply this information." (Exh. D.)

J. Errors of Defendant's Successor Bankruptcy Counsel

As noted above, Defendant's present counsel Mr. Smyth filed the August 2017 Schedules. In these schedules, Defendant listed the value of his "Song Books and copy rights" as "$13,000." (Exh. 8, at p. 5.) Mr. Smyth stated that the $13,000 "valuation" was his mistake and not intended to be a statement of value. Mr. Smyth also stated that he listed Defendant's copyright interests under the wrong subsection, omitted Defendant's list of copyrighted songs, and omitted Defendant's interests in Fear Campaign and Oxidizer, and noted that such property still was disclosed in the

K. The Adversary Proceeding

On May 24, 2016, Plaintiffs filed a complaint against Defendant, seeking a determination that the debt owed by Defendant is nondischargeable pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2), and a denial of Defendant's discharge pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 727(a)(2) and (a)(4) (the "Complaint"). In the Complaint, Plaintiffs alleged Defendant omitted from his schedules certain income, executory contracts, his equity interests in Oxidizer and Fear Campaign, and his copyrights. (Complaint, ¶ 19.) On November 16, 2016, Defendant filed his answer [doc. 19].

On November 28 and 29, 2017, the Court held trial in this matter. The parties appeared as noted on the record. For the reasons set forth below, Plaintiffs did not meet their burden of demonstrating that the debt owed to them is nondischargeable under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A). Plaintiffs also did not meet their burden of demonstrating that Defendant's discharge should be denied under 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(2) or (a)(4).

II. LEGAL STANDARDS

A. Burden Of Proof

The plaintiff's burden of proof in a nondischargeability action under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a) is "the ordinary preponderance-of-the-evidence standard." Grogan v. Garner, 498 U.S. 279, 291, 111 S.Ct. 654, 661, 112 L.Ed.2d 755 (1991). "Proof by the preponderance of the evidence means that it is sufficient to persuade the finder of fact that the proposition is more likely true than not." In re Arnold & Baker Farms, 177 B.R. 648, 654 (9th Cir. B. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A)

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A), a bankruptcy discharge does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt "for money, property, services, or an extension, renewal, or refinancing of credit, to the extent obtained by—false pretenses, a false representation, or actual fraud, other than a statement respecting a debtor's or an insider's financial condition."

To prevail on a § 523(a)(2)(A) claim, the plaintiff must demonstrate, by a preponderance of the evidence, the following five elements:

- (1) misrepresentation, fraudulent omission or deceptive conduct by the debtor;
- (2) knowledge of the falsity or deceptiveness of his statement or conduct;
- (3) an intent to deceive;
- (4) justifiable reliance by the creditor on the debtor's statement or conduct; and
- (5) damage to the creditor proximately caused by its reliance on the debtor's statement or conduct

Representations made without an intent to perform satisfy the first three requirements of § 523(a)(2)(A). In re Rubin, 875 F.2d 755, 759 (9th Cir. 1989). A promise can also be considered fraudulent when the promisor knew or should have known of his inability to perform. In re Barrack, 217 B.R. 598, 606 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1998). A promise to perform in the future is not a false representation or false pretense unless the debtor did not have an intent to perform at the time he made the representation. Matter of Bercier, 934 F.2d 689, 691–92 (5th Cir. 1991) ("A mere promise to be executed in the future is not sufficient to make a debt nondischargeable, even though there is no excuse for the subsequent breach.") "Turning to the Restatement, proximate cause entails (1) causation in fact, which requires a defendant's misrepresentations to be a 'substantial factor in determining the course of conduct that results in [the plaintiff's] loss,' § 546; and (2) legal causation, which requires the plaintiff's loss to have been 'reasonably expected to result from the reliance,' § 548A." Id. (citing In re Siriani, 967 F.2d 302, 306 (9th Cir. 1992), as amended June 29, 1992).

Section 727(a)(2)(A)–(B) provides that a court shall grant a debtor a discharge unless "the debtor, with intent to hinder, delay or defraud a creditor or an officer of the estate charged with custody of property . . . has transferred, removed, destroyed, mutilated, or concealed . . . In examining the circumstances of a transfer under § 727(a)(2), certain "badges of fraud" may support a finding of fraudulent intent. These factors, not all of which need be present, include (1) a close relationship between the transferor and the transferee; (2) that the transfer was in anticipation of a pending suit; (3) that the transferor Debtor was insolvent or in poor financial condition at the time; (4) that all or substantially all of the Debtor's property was transferred; (5) that the transfer so completely depleted the Debtor's assets that the creditor has been hindered or delayed in recovering any part of the judgment; and (6) that the Debtor received inadequate consideration for the transfer. Retz v. Samson (In re Retz), 606 F.3d 1189, 1200 (9th Cir. 2010).

Section 727(a)(4)(A) denies a discharge to a debtor who "knowingly and fraudulently" made a false oath or account in the course of the bankruptcy proceedings. In order to bring a successful § 727(a)(4)(A) claim for false oath, the plaintiff must show: (1) the debtor made a false oath in connection with the case; (2) the oath related to a material fact; (3) the oath was made knowingly; and (4) the oath was made fraudulently. In re Wills, 243 B.R. 58, 62 (9th Cir. The failure to comply with their affirmative duty to cooperate by opening all records for inspection is grounds for denial of discharge." Id. (citations omitted).

III. DISCUSSION

Defendant and Mr. Wolbers were the only individuals who testified at trial. The Court found Mr. Wolbers' and Defendant's testimony credible in light of the supporting documents admitted into evidence. For the reasons stated below, Plaintiffs have not met their burden of proof pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2), 727(a)(2), or 727(a)(4).

A. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A)

Plaintiffs have not met their burden of proving that the debt owed to Plaintiffs is nondischargeable pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A). [FN5]

The evidence shows that Defendant made a payment to Plaintiffs in partial satisfaction of his obligation under the Settlement Agreement. In the Pre-Trial Stipulation, the parties stipulated that Defendant paid approximately $90,000 to Plaintiffs within twelve months after the Settlement Agreement was executed. (Pre-Trial Stipulation, ¶ 4.) Such partial performance militates against a finding that Defendant entered into the Settlement Agreement without an intent to perform.

In addition, Plaintiffs have not established that Defendant had no intent of performing under the subsequent Stipulated Judgment. Under the terms of the Stipulated Judgment, the Settlement Agreement was to remain in full force and effect, and judgment in the amount of $214,307.24 was to be entered against Defendant, Mr. Bell, and Oxidizer, along with an award of attorney's fees to Plaintiffs. On February 17, 2016, Plaintiffs filed the Attorney's Fees Motion, seeking $681,060. Instead of contesting the Attorney's Fees Motion in state court, Defendant filed his bankruptcy petition.

At trial, Plaintiffs argued that Defendant's failure to contest the Attorney's Fees Motion and his subsequent bankruptcy petition demonstrates that Defendant agreed to the entry of the Stipulated Judgment without an intent to pay. Defendant responded that, when he agreed to the entry of the Stipulated Judgment, Defendant intended to pay the $214,307.24 by going on tour. According to Defendant, he filed his bankruptcy petition only after Plaintiffs' state court counsel filed the Attorney's Fees Motion, seeking approximately $681,000, at which time Defendant realized he would be incapable of paying that amount. (Cazares Decl., ¶ 5.) Plaintiffs have not established that Defendant had an intent to deceive Plaintiffs at the time Defendant agreed to the entry of the Stipulated Judgment.

Furthermore, Plaintiffs have not established detrimental reliance or damages arising from Defendant's actions. Plaintiffs did not show that they gave up valuable collection remedies after the Settlement Agreement or the entry of the Stipulated Judgment, or that such remedies later became worthless. See Siriani, 967 F.2d at 305.

Plaintiffs have not met their burden of proving under 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(2) that Defendant transferred $13,000 to his sister Gina Cazares with the intent to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors or the Trustee.

Regarding Defendant's transfer to his sister, the transfer was made in January 2016, less than two months before the petition date. There is a close relationship between the transferor and transferee. However, Plaintiff did not establish any of the other badges of fraud to support a finding that Defendant made the transfer to his sister with an intent to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors or the Trustee. Defendant testified, and the March 2017 Schedules indicate, that the transfer was a repayment of a loan. Plaintiffs presented no evidence to the contrary.

Plaintiffs also contend that Defendant "finally admitted that he concealed [his income] from Plaintiffs on October 16, 2015," the date of the Stipulated Judgment. (Plaintiffs' Trial Brief, Doc. 55, at p. 8.) Plaintiffs did not make the required showing that, in breaching the Settlement Agreement, Defendant had the subjective intent to hinder, delay, or defraud Plaintiffs or the Trustee.

C. 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(4)

1. False Oath (11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(4)(A))

The evidence presented shows inconsistencies between, and material omissions from, the several sets of schedules filed by Defendant. However, such inconsistencies and omissions do not warrant a denial of discharge under 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(4).

Executory contracts. At trial, Plaintiffs alleged that Defendant did not list certain executory contracts in his schedules. The agreements with Soulfood Music Distribution, Nuclear Blast, Tanglade LTD, Riot Entertainment Australia, and Freibank show Oxidizer as a counterparty, not Defendant. As such, Defendant was not required to disclose these Oxidizer agreements in his schedules.

Plaintiffs also alleged that Defendant did not disclose in his schedules the venue booking agreements relating to TKO, or the merchandising agreement with Manhead. At the March 17, 2017 meeting of creditors, Defendant stated that he did not have copies of the TKO or Manhead agreements and that he never reviewed them. At trial, Plaintiffs did not establish that Defendant personally entered into the venue booking agreements or the Manhead agreement.

However, Defendant personally did enter into the endorsement agreements with Ibanez and Seymour Duncan, and the BMG/Universal co-publishing agreements. The April 2014 Ibanez agreement expired in April 2015, which was prepetition. This expired agreement did not have to be disclosed in Defendant's schedules. Defendant entered into the August 2016 Ibanez agreement postpetition; this postpetition agreement did not need to be disclosed in Defendant's schedules.

Defendant stated that he had entered into an agreement with Seymour Duncan prepetition and that such agreement had expired. Plaintiffs did not demonstrate that this agreement was still in force as of the petition date. Regarding the postpetition

Seymour Duncan agreement, postpetition agreements do not need to be disclosed in a debtor's schedules.

Defendant entered into the BMG/Universal co-publishing agreements prepetition in 2001 and 2003, and he should have disclosed them in his schedules. Although not listing the BMG/Universal co-publishing agreements in his schedules was a material omission, Plaintiffs have not shown that Defendant knowingly or fraudulently omitted these agreements from his schedules. Defendant did not deny the existence of these agreements when questioned by the Trustee at the May 27, 2016 meeting of creditors. Moreover, Defendant disclosed his income from BMG/Universal in his Statement of Current Monthly Income and in Schedule I of his April 21, 2016 Schedules. Any omissions from his Schedule G appear to have been inadvertent.

Defendant's Royalty Payments from Warner. After the Trustee filed a motion for turnover, Defendant was ordered to turn over to the Trustee $9,122.21 in postpetition royalty payments made by Warner. (See case no. 1:16-bk-10543-VK, docs. 89, 95.) [FN6] Notwithstanding the motion for turnover, Plaintiffs have not shown that Defendant knowingly or fraudulently omitted from his schedules any prepetition income from Warner. If Defendant received royalty payments from Warner prepetition, which has not been demonstrated, any omission of such prepetition income, appears to have been inadvertent. [FN7]

Defendant's Copyright Interests and Interests in Fear Campaign and Oxidizer. At trial, Plaintiffs argued that Defendant's August 2017 Schedules listed Defendant's copyright interests under the wrong subsection, omitted Defendant's list of copyrighted songs, and omitted Defendant's interests in Fear Campaign and Oxidizer. Andrew Smyth—who became Defendant's counsel before Defendant filed the August 2017 Schedules—stated at trial that he was responsible for these errors. In his April 21, 2016 Schedules, Defendant disclosed his interest in copyrights to approximately 180 song compositions and listed these copyright interests as having an "Unknown" value. (Exh. 3, at p. 5 and Attachment 26.1.) Defendant also disclosed his 50% ownership interest in Oxidizer and Fear Campaign. (Exh. 3, at p. 4.) Throughout numerous meetings of creditors, Defendant acknowledged his copyright interests and his equity interests in Oxidizer and Fear Campaign. Although Mr. Smyth's preparation and filing of the August 2017 Schedules is representative of carelessness, the Court concludes that Defendant did not fraudulently omit his copyright interests and interests in Fear Campaign and Oxidizer from his August 2017 Schedules.

Defendant's Guitars. Plaintiffs argued that Defendant intentionally undervalued his custom-built Ibanez guitar, which they alleged is more expensive than the retail model available in stores. However, Defendant credibly testified that Ibanez currently manufactures non-custom guitars similar to his guitar. Therefore, Defendant does not believe his custom-built guitar is presently more valuable than the manufactured guitars. At trial, Plaintiffs presented no evidence to rebut Defendant's testimony regarding the value of Defendant's guitars. Accordingly, the Court finds that Defendant did not knowingly or fraudulently undervalue his guitars in his schedules.

Monies Paid to Defendant by Mr. Sikora. At the July 17, 2017 meeting of creditors, Mr. Melissinos questioned Defendant specifically regarding money allegedly loaned from Jacek Sikora. Defendant answered Mr. Melissinos's questions regarding Mr. Sikora's identity and whether Defendant had given Mr. Sikora anything in return for the alleged loans. Mr. Melissinos did not ask any further questions regarding the amount of money exchanged or the dates of such transactions. Plaintiffs did not establish if Mr. Sikora transferred the money to Defendant within one year before the petition date, or after the petition date. Nor did Plaintiffs establish whether such monies were loans or income.

Defendant's Alleged "False Claims." Plaintiffs argued that (i) after he paid $90,000 to Plaintiffs, Defendant made a false claim to the state court; (ii) Defendant made a false claim that he would pay them the remaining amount owing under the Settlement Agreement; and (iii) Defendant made a false claim when he said he would pay under the Stipulated Judgment. These do not constitute "false claims" within the context of § 727(a)(4)(B).

Plaintiffs also argued that Defendant's valuation of "Song Books and copy rights" in his August 2017 Schedules was a false claim warranting denial of Defendant's discharge under 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(4)(B). Plaintiffs apparently mean that Defendant's valuation constitutes a false oath under § 727(a)(4)(A).

In his declaration, Mr. Wolbers stated that he receives approximately $3,000 biannually in royalties arising from his copyright interests in the songs he co-created with Defendant under the Fear Factory name. At trial, Plaintiffs argued that because Defendant created more songs under the Fear Factory name, Defendant would have more bi-annual royalty income. As a result, Defendant's valuation of his copyrighted songs in the amount of $13,000 is much less than their actual value.

Defendant testified that he never discussed the total value of his copyrighted songs with his counsel and could not afford to hire an appraiser. Defendant did not know whether $13,000 was the total value of his copyrighted songs. Defendant's counsel, Mr. Smyth, stated that the $13,000 "valuation" was his mistake.

In U.S. Trustee v. Pynn (In re Pynn), 546 B.R. 425 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016), the debtor listed in his schedules a 1966 Porsche 911 ("Porsche") and multiple guitars and bicycles. The debtor listed the value of the Porsche as $5,000, the collective value of the guitars as $2,750, and the collective value of the bicycles as $2,600. A subsequent appraisal valued the Porsche at between $20,000 and $45,000, the bicycles at $7,710, and the guitars at $6,200. The debtor initially testified at his 341(a) meeting that his valuations were "yard-sale" or "quick-sale" liquidation prices. When questioned further about the guitars and the bicycles, the debtor admitted that on eBay the bicycles would sell for between $5,350 and $7,450, and the guitars would sell for between $5,500 to $6,400. The chapter 7 trustee ultimately sold the Porsche at auction for $83,000, sold the bicycles to the debtor for $5,450, and sold the guitars and other musical equipment to the debtor for $3,900. Id. at 427–28. At trial, the debtor testified that he was meticulous collector who kept careful records of his bicycles and guitars, along with their component parts. Id. at 429. Although the debtor claimed the valuations in his schedules were an honest mistake, the court found that the debtor was not credible and that he had intentionally, knowingly, and fraudulently undervalued the Porsche, guitars, and bicycles. Id. at 430, 432.

Unlike the debtor in Pynn, Defendant did not initially undervalue his songs and copyrights. In his April 21, 2016 Schedules, Defendant listed his copyright interests as having an "Unknown" value. These schedules were prepared by Mr. Landsberg, Defendant's former bankruptcy counsel. Mr. Smyth filed the August 2017 Schedules, where he erroneously listed the "Song Books and copy rights" under the incorrect category (trusts, equitable, or future interests in property) and did not attach the previous list of song compositions. Defendant credibly testified that his copyrights were never appraised, and that he did not know the value of his copyrights. Defendant's testimony is consistent with the "Unknown" value of the copyrights as stated in his April 21, 2016 Schedules. Based on the evidence submitted, with respect to the value of his copyrights, Defendant did not knowingly or fraudulently make a false oath with intent to defraud.

In light of the foregoing, the Court will not deny Defendant's discharge pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(4)(A).

2. Withholding of Documents (11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(4)(D))

Plaintiffs have not established that Defendant knowingly and fraudulently withheld documents from the Trustee relating to Defendant's property or financial affairs. Several meetings of creditors and repeated requests from the Trustee were required before Defendant provided sufficient documentation to the Trustee. However, as noted above, on June 27, 2017, Mr. Melissinos sent an email to Mr. Smyth stating that Defendant had complied with all documents requests save for agreements relating to the entity Stitching on Tour. (Exh. D.) At the July 17, 2017 meeting of creditors, Defendant agreed to provide any agreements relating to Stitching on Tour. (Exh. 12, at p. 20–21.) Defendant also testified that he has completely disclosed his financial condition to the Trustee. (Cazares Decl., ¶ 14.)

In some circumstances and absent evidence of bad faith, a debtor's belated disclosure of documents to a bankruptcy trustee may not warrant denial of discharge pursuant to § 727(a)(4)(D). In Silverman v. Katz (In re Katz), 146 B.R. 617 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 1992), involuntary chapter 7 petitions were filed against the debtors, who were not represented by counsel in their bankruptcy until approximately eight months after the order for relief was entered. Id. at 618. Although there was a delay of nearly a year before the debtors fully complied with the trustee's document requests, the court found that summary judgment was not warranted on the trustee's § 727(a)(4)(D) claim. Id. at 619, 621. Because the debtors had complied with the trustee's requests in good faith once represented by counsel, the court found that an issue of material fact existed as to whether debtors' conduct constituted a knowing and fraudulent failure to turn over documents to the trustee. Id. at 621.

In Bay State Milling Co. v. Martin (In re Martin), 141 B.R. 986 (Bankr. N.D. Ill. 1992), an examiner was appointed to investigate an individual chapter 11 debtor's financial affairs. The examiner's preliminary report found that the debtor had failed to preserve adequate recorded information from which the debtor's financial condition and business transactions might be ascertained. At trial, the examiner stated that he ultimately received all the documents he requested from the debtor. Id. at 991. The debtor maintained throughout the proceeding that his records were adequate. Id. at 998. Despite the "need for prodding" by the examiner, the court found that no material documents were actually withheld from the examiner because such documents were eventually produced. Id. at 998-99.

Although Defendant did not expeditiously comply with all of the Trustee's document requests, Plaintiffs did not present evidence that the Trustee requested documents, and that Defendant denied their existence or withheld them. Defendant introduced into evidence the email from Mr. Melissinos stating that Defendant had complied with all other document requests apart from the Stitching on Tour documents, which Defendant agreed to produce. Based on the evidence submitted, Plaintiffs have not established that Defendant knowingly and fraudulently withheld documents from the Trustee relating to Defendant's property or financial affairs.

Accordingly, the Court will not deny Defendant's discharge pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(4)(D).

IV. CONCLUSION

The debt owed to Plaintiffs arising from the 2015 Stipulated Judgment, to the extent that such debt exists, is not nondischargeable pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A). Defendant will not be denied a chapter 7 discharge pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 727(a)(2) or (a)(4).

1. The Court may take judicial notice of the bankruptcy and adversary proceeding dockets. Unless this decision references a document from these dockets or an exhibit, the facts are derived from testimony provided at trial.
2. At trial, the parties stipulated to the admission of all Exhibits 1 through 94. The parties further stipulated to the admission of Exhibits A through D as follows:
  - Exhibit A: A copy of a July 18, 2016 email from Defendant to former counsel Casey Donoyan re: music publishing income from 2013 through 2015;
  - Exhibit B: A copy of a June 29, 2017 email from John Melissinos to Andrew Smyth re: status of Defendant's compliance with the Trustee's request for bank statements;

Cohen is not applicable to the facts of this case. The debtor in Cohen had charged his tenants excessive rents, which the local rent administrator ordered him to refund. Instead, the debtor filed a chapter 7 petition. The tenants filed an adversary proceeding against the debtor, seeking a determination that the debt owed to them was nondischargeable under § 523(a)(2)(A), along with treble damages, attorney's fees, and costs pursuant to state statute. The Supreme Court held that a finding of nondischargeability under § 523(a)(2)(A) prevented discharge of all liability arising from the debtor's fraud, including the requested treble damages and attorney's fees and costs. Cohen does not address whether partial performance under a settlement agreement or filing a bankruptcy petition after agreeing to entry of a stipulated judgment constitutes fraud within the context of § 523(a)(2)(A).

6. On February 22, 2017, the Trustee filed adversary proceeding no. 1:17-ap-01017-VK against Defendant, Fear Campaign, Oxidizer, and other parties. In her amended complaint, the Trustee seeks, among other relief, recovery of postpetition transfers to Defendant and other parties. (Case no. 1:17-ap-01017-VK, doc. 36.)
7. Defendant disclosed his co-publishing agreements with BMG/Universal. If Warner is a successor-in-interest to BMG/Universal—as Plaintiffs suggest in their reply trial brief—then Defendant disclosed this prepetition income in his schedules.

Docket 51

Tentative Ruling:

The Court will order the appointment of a chapter 11 trustee.

I. BACKGROUND

On September 12, 2017, AAA Nursing Services Inc. (the “Debtor”) filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. The Debtor is a health care provider that offers home care services to patients.

On September 15, 2017, the United States Trustee (the “UST”) and the Debtor filed a Stipulation for the Appointment of a Patient Care Ombudsman (the “Ombudsman Stipulation”) [doc. 4-1]. On September 29, 2017, the Court entered an order approving the Ombudsman Stipulation [doc. 40]. Constance Doyle was appointed the patient care ombudsman (the “Ombudsman”) in the Debtor’s case [doc. 42].

On September 15, 2017, the Internal Revenue Services (the “IRS”) filed proof of claim 1-1, reflecting a secured claim in the amount of $255,482.02. The IRS’s claim arose from eight Notices of Federal Tax Lien (the “Notices”) covering the period between 2016 and 2017. The IRS recorded the Notices with the Los Angeles County Recorder between January and August 2017.

On September 15, 2017, the Debtor and the IRS filed a stipulation for adequate protection and use of cash collateral (the “IRS Stipulation”) [doc. 10]. The IRS Stipulation provided that the Debtor was permitted to use the IRS’s cash collateral, subject to certain restrictions and payment of adequate protection payments to the IRS. The IRS Stipulation further provided that “The Debtor must remain post-petition current on all tax filing requirements and pay all post-petition taxes as they come due, including timely making federal payroll tax deposits and estimated income tax payments." (IRS Stipulation, ¶ 18.) On September 29, 2017, the Court entered an order approving the IRS Stipulation [doc. 33].

On October 20, 2017, the UST filed a Motion Under 11 U.S.C. § 1112(b) to Dismiss or Convert Case with an Order Directing Payment of Quarterly Fees and for Judgment Thereon (the "Motion") [doc. 51]. In the Motion, the UST alleged that in violation of UST requirements, the Debtor has not provided the following documents and/or reports:

- A. Sufficient evidence of closing of all pre-petition bank accounts including: closing bank statements and all bank account information required by the Declaration Regarding Compliance;
- B. Sufficient evidence of opening and maintenance of debtor-in-possession bank accounts including: a voided debtor-in-possession check;
- C. Proof of appropriate workers compensation insurance coverage including declaration pages and evidence that the Office of the U.S. Trustee has been added to receive notice regarding each insurance policy;
- D. Proof of required certificates and licenses, including a city business license;
- E. Employee Benefit Plan Questionnaire (Form USTLA-8);
- F. Copies of the debtor's 2016 federal tax return; and
- G. The Monthly Operating Report ("MOR") for September 2017.

On November 2, 2017, the Debtor filed an opposition to the Motion [doc. 65] and its September 2017 MOR [doc. 64]. On November 16, 2017, the Debtor filed its October 2017 MOR [doc. 69] and the Declaration of Gary L. Jarvis II, which attached a copy of a workers compensation insurance declarations page [doc. 68].

At the November 16, 2017 hearing, the Court continued the hearing on the Motion to December 14, 2017. At the December 14, 2017 hearing, the Court further continued the hearing to February 15, 2018 and instructed the UST to file further evidence in

On January 17, 2018, the Debtor filed its November 2017 MOR [doc. 93]. The Debtor reported no expenses paid for November 2017, and $244,434.12 in apparent accounts receivables from insurance companies and government programs. (Doc. 93, Exh. D.)

On January 25, 2018, the UST filed a Supplement to Motion to Dismiss or Convert Case (“Supplement”) [doc. 96]. In the Supplement, the UST stated that the Debtor did not timely file a December 2017 MOR. Also, the Debtor has not provided a “list of unpaid bills” in its November 2017 MOR, and the UST has not waived this requirement. The Debtor has 36 employees and reports that it did not pay any expenses in November. (Declaration of Russell Clementson, ¶¶ 3–4; Exh. 1.) As a result of the failure to timely file MORs, the UST has not been able to evaluate the Debtor’s financial condition. The UST requests conversion of the Debtor’s case, or, in the alternative, the appointment of a chapter 11 trustee.

On February 5, 2018, the Ombudsman filed a Revised Professional Fee Statement [doc. 97], indicating that a check tendered by the Debtor to the Ombudsman in the amount of $3,335 was returned unpaid.

II. DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 1112(b) provides in pertinent part:

(1) Except as provided in paragraph (2) and subsection (c), and after notice and a hearing, the court shall convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 7 or dismiss a case under this chapter, whichever is in the best interests of creditors and the estate, for cause unless the court determines that the appointment under section 1104(a) of a trustee . . . is in the best interests of creditors and the estate.

(H) failure timely to provide information or attend meetings reasonably requested by the United States trustee (or the bankruptcy administrator, if any) . . . .

The movant bears the burden of establishing by a preponderance of the evidence that cause exists. In re Sullivan, 522 B.R. 604, 614 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2014).

Motions to dismiss under 11 U.S.C. § 1112(b) require a two-step analysis. “First, it must be determined that there is ‘cause’ to act. Second, once a determination of ‘cause’ has been made, a choice must be made between conversion and dismissal based on the ‘best interests of the creditors and the estate.’” In re Nelson, 343 B.R. 671, 675 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2006).

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1104,

(a) At any time after the commencement of the case but before confirmation of a plan, on request of a party in interest or the United States trustee, and after notice and a hearing, the court shall order the appointment of a trustee—management, either before or after the commencement of the case, or similar cause, but not including the number of holders of securities of the debtor or the amount of assets or liabilities of the debtor; or

(2) if such appointment is in the interests of creditors, any equity security holders, and other interests of the estate, without regard to the number of holders of securities of the debtor or the amount of assets or liabilities of the debtor.

"Cause and best interest of creditors and other parties are separate and independent bases for granting a motion to appoint a trustee under 11 U.S.C. § 1104(a)." Id. "The list of the enumerated 'causes' under Section 1104(a)(1) of the Bankruptcy Code, 11 U.S.C., is nonexhaustive." In re Pasadena Adult Residential Care, Inc., 2015 WL 6443216, at *14 (Bankr. Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 105(a),

The court may issue any order, process, or judgment that is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of this title. No provision of this title providing for the raising of an issue by a party in interest shall be construed to preclude the court from, sua sponte, taking any action or making any determination necessary or appropriate to enforce or implement court orders or rules, or to prevent an abuse of process.

Here, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1112(b)(4)(A), (B), (F) and (H), there is cause to dismiss or convert this case. There appears to be "substantial or continuing loss to or diminution of the estate and the absence of a reasonable likelihood of rehabilitation" and "gross mismanagement of the estate." The Debtor is a health care provider subject to periodic monitoring by the Ombudsman. The Debtor has 36 employees, yet the November 2017 MOR reflects that the Debtor paid no expenses that month. Among other things, this indicates that the Debtor has not acted in accordance with the IRS Stipulation. Moreover, the Debtor's check to the Ombudsman in the amount of $3,335 was returned unpaid. If the Debtor is not paying its expenses, its nursing staff may seek other employment and the quality of patient care may deteriorate. In addition, the Debtor has not timely complied with reporting requirements and has not timely provided information reasonably requested by the UST.

For the reasons stated above, there also appears to be cause to appoint a chapter 11 trustee pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1104(a)(1). In addition, appointment of a chapter 11 trustee is in the best interests of creditors pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1104(a)(2). The Debtor appears to have $244,434.12 in outstanding accounts receivable from insurance companies and government programs. An appointed chapter 11 trustee could operate the Debtor's business, ensure the Debtor's compliance with UST reporting requirements, the IRS Stipulation, and post-petition tax obligations, and potentially reorganize the Debtor.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will appoint a chapter 11 trustee.

Movant must submit the order within seven (7) days.

as Trustee of the Arh Trust (Claim No. 18-1)

fr. 11/2/17; 11/9/17; 2/8/18

Docket 197

Tentative Ruling:

The Court will sustain the chapter 7 trustee's objection to the claim (the "Objection") [doc. 197] filed by ARH Trust ("ARH").

I. BACKGROUND

On November 9, 2017, the Court held a hearing on the Objection and issued a tentative ruling sustaining the Objection (see below). At that time, ARH requested a continuance of the hearing to give ARH an opportunity to submit additional documentation in support of its claim against the estate. As a result, the Court continued the hearing for three months.

Following that hearing ARH could have obtained discovery pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 9014(c), which provides that the rules governing discovery in adversary proceedings also apply in contested matters, such as the Objection. As such, ARH's contention that ARH was not permitted to take depositions of pertinent witnesses at Wells Fargo is inaccurate.

On January 11, 2018, ARH filed a supplemental brief (the "Supplemental Brief") [doc 205]. To the Supplemental Brief, ARH attached documentation evidencing a loan between ARH and Opus Bank as well as an assignment of ARH's deposit account to Opus Bank. ARH also attached emails, but did not properly lay a foundation regarding the origin and substance of the emails. ARH did not provide any agreement between Wells Fargo and ARH, or between the debtor and ARH. On January 25, 2018, the chapter 7 trustee (the "Trustee") filed his supplemental brief [doc. 206], asserting that ARH did not provide any documentation establishing a claim against the estate.

On February 7, 2018, ARH filed an additional reply (the "Reply") [doc. 207]. On February 8, 2018, the Trustee filed a motion to strike the Reply (the "Motion to Strike") [doc. 208]. For the reasons set forth below, the Court will sustain the Objection and incorporate the tentative ruling from November 9, 2017 into this ruling.

II. ANALYSIS

11 U.S.C. § 502(a) provides that a proof of claim is deemed allowed, unless a party in interest objects. Fed. R. Bankr. P. 3001(f) provides that a proof of claim executed and filed in accordance with the rules constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim. See also Local Bankruptcy Rule 3007-1(c) ("an objection to claim must be supported by admissible evidence sufficient to overcome the evidentiary effect of a properly documented proof of claim").

"To defeat the claim, the objector must come forward with sufficient evidence and show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell v. Anchor Const. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000) (internal citation omitted). "If the objector produces sufficient evidence to negate one or more of the sworn facts in the proof of claim, the burden reverts to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times upon the claimant." Id. (internal citations omitted); In re Laptops Etc. Corp., 164 B.R. 506, 522 (Bankr. D. Md. 1993) (burden shifts to claimant, who has ultimate burden of persuasion as to validity of its claim, only "upon objection to the claim coupled with the admission of probative evidence which tends to sufficiently rebut the prima facie validity of the claim"); see also In re Campbell, 336 B.R. 430, 436 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2005) ("[o]bjections without substance are inadequate to disallow claims, even if those claims lack the documentation required by Rule 3001(c).").

Here, the Trustee came forward with sufficient evidence and argument to defeat the claim filed by ARH. The Trustee supported the objection with declarations from the debtor's General Manager, the debtor's Certified Public Accountant and the debtor's Chief Financial Officer. Objection, Exhibit B. Each of these witnesses testified that they had never seen any documents, agreements, correspondence, checks or wire transfers involving ARH. Id. The burden then reverted to ARH to prove the validity of its claim by a preponderance of the evidence. Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039. ARH did not meet this burden, and did not meet its "ultimate burden of persuasion." Id.

Despite the opportunity to present new evidence and clarify the record through the Supplemental Brief, ARH's arguments remain unclear and the documents provided to the Court do not establish a claim against the debtor's estate. ARH alternates between calling itself a guarantor, a secondary applicant to the letter of credit issued by Wells Fargo (the "LOC") and a party whose account at Opus Bank was offered as security for the LOC.

In its original opposition to the Objection, ARH asserted that it guaranteed the LOC. The Court provided a detailed ruling regarding why ARH had not satisfied the Statute of Frauds or otherwise established that a guaranty agreement existed between ARH, the debtor and Wells Fargo.

The new argument presented by ARH in the Supplemental Brief is that ARH is a second applicant to the LOC. Pursuant to Cal. Comm. Code § 5102(a)(2), an applicant "means a person at whose request or for whose account a letter of credit is issued. The term includes a person who requests an issuer to issue a letter of credit on behalf of another if the person making the request undertakes an obligation to reimburse the issuer." ARH asserts that, as a "secondary applicant," it is subrogated to the rights of Wells Fargo pursuant to Cal. Comm. Code § 5117(b), which provides: "An applicant that reimburses an issuer is subrogated to the rights of the issuer against any beneficiary, presenter, or nominated person to the same extent as if the applicant were the secondary obligor of the obligations owed to the issuer and has the rights of subrogation of the issuer to the rights of the beneficiary stated in subdivision (a)."

ARH is correct that secondary applicants/obligors, as contemplated by Cal. Comm. Code §§ 5102(a)(2) and 5117(b), may have subrogation and equitable rights of reimbursement under California law. For instance, in F.D.I.C. v. Yacoobian, 2010 WL 2731293 (C.D. Cal. Jul. 7, 2010), the defendant requested a letter of credit from Security Pacific Bank ("SPB") in favor of Credit Suisse Premium Finance LLC ("Credit Suisse") as beneficiary. Yacoobian, 2010 WL 2731293, at *1. However, Credit Suisse requested a letter of credit from a better capitalized bank than SPB. Id., at *2. As such, both the defendant and SPB applied to City National Bank ("City National"), which agreed to issue a letter of credit in favor of Credit Suisse. Id.

As part of the application, both SPB and the defendant signed an "Irrevocable Standby Letter of Credit Application at the Request of Another Bank" and a "Letter of Credit Agreement." Id. City National required SPB to enter into the agreement as a condition to issuing the letter of credit, and the agreement provided that SPB and the defendant were jointly and severally liable to immediately reimburse City National for all amounts paid by City National on a demand on the letter of credit. Id.

Subsequently, after Credit Suisse drew down on the letter of credit issued by City National, City National sought and obtained reimbursement from SPB. Id., at *2-3. The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (the "FDIC"), acting as receiver for SPB, sued the defendant to recover the amount SPB paid to City National. Id., at *3. The court found that, by paying City National, SPB "satisfied [the defendant's] obligation to [City National]" and that SPB's "reimbursement obligation under the Letter of Credit Agreement was merely secondary, while [the defendant's] was primary." Id., at *4. As a result, the court held that the defendant was liable to reimburse the FDIC under the doctrine of equitable indemnity. Id. The court also held that the defendant was liable to the FDIC under the theory of contribution because SPB and the defendant were joint obligors, but SPB's payment to City National was more than its share of joint liability. Id.

The court then addressed subrogation under Cal. Comm. Code § 5117(b). Id. The court found that "the roles of the parties to the [letter of credit] were as follows: 1) SPB and [the defendant] were each an 'applicant'; 2) [City National] was the 'issuer'; and 3) [Credit Suisse] was the 'beneficiary.'" Id. (citing Cal. Comm. Code §§ 5102(a)(2), (a)(3) and (a)(9)). In light of SPB's role as a secondary applicant, the court found that the FDIC, as receiver for SPB, obtained subrogation rights under Cal. Comm. Code § 5117(b) once SPB reimbursed City National for the payments City National made pursuant to the letter of credit agreement. Id. The court further held that, although the letter of credit agreement did not have explicit language regarding SPB's rights of reimbursement, California law provided rights of indemnity, contribution and subrogation for secondary obligors like SPB. Id., at *5.

Here, if ARH was in a similar position to SPB, it also would have the same rights under California law. However, ARH's characterization of the transaction(s) at issue here has been inconsistent and unsupported by the evidence provided by ARH.

Although ARH now claims it is a "secondary obligor" like SPB, the LOC does not designate ARH (or any other party) as a secondary applicant. The only indication that ARH had any involvement with the LOC is the document titled "Irrevocable Standby Letter of Credit Invoice Settlement Advice," attached to ARH's original opposition to the Trustee's objection to its claim. Opposition [doc. 201], Exhibit 4. That document, however, does not reflect that ARH is an applicant or an obligor. Instead, the document merely includes Opus Bank's name and address. There is no information about the nature of the transaction with Opus Bank, if any. ARH is not mentioned at all. The inclusion of Opus Bank's name and address is not conclusive evidence of ARH's role as a secondary obligor. As far as the Court can tell, ARH did not sign any letter of credit agreement, as SPB did in Yacobian, and there is no evidence regarding the precise nature of ARH's involvement with arranging the LOC with Wells Fargo.

The new evidence provided by ARH in support of the Supplemental Brief also does not support a finding that ARH entered into an agreement with either Wells Fargo or the debtor, or the nature of any such agreement. Supplemental Brief, Exhibit A. This time, ARH provides a "Disbursement Request and Authorization," which reflects a loan from Opus Bank to ARH. Id. Although this document states that the purpose of the loan is for the "Stand-by Letter of Credit for the benefit of" the debtor, the document is not signed by the debtor or Wells Fargo, nor does the transaction involve either the debtor or Wells Fargo. ARH also attaches an "Assignment of Deposit Account," through which ARH apparently designated its deposit account as collateral securing the loan from Opus Bank to ARH. Id. Again, this transaction does not involve the debtor or Wells Fargo.

Moreover, it is unclear who sent or received the new emails provided by ARH. The emails are not appropriately authenticated, and even if they were, the emails refer to a letter of credit that is secured by a deposit account belonging to ARH. Id. Rather than demonstrate that ARH was a party to the LOC or a guarantor of the LOC, the emails appear to imply that ARH placed its account as security for the LOC. However, based on the "Assignment of Deposit Account," it appears ARH's account was actually securing the loan from Opus Bank to ARH, the proceeds of which may or may not have reimbursed Wells Fargo for the LOC. To the extent the arrangement was to put up ARH's account as security for the LOC, ARH has not provided a security agreement involving either the debtor or Wells Fargo.

In its conclusion of the Supplemental Brief, ARH asserts that the debtor was not involved in its agreement (the nature of which agreement remains unclear) with Wells Fargo. Supplemental Brief, p. 8. However, in the Reply, ARH likens the transaction at issue as a loan to the debtor, which falls outside the Statute of Frauds. There, ARH argues that: "In its most simplistic form the agreement between [the debtor] and James Slattery was that Slattery would arrange a letter of credit on behalf of [the debtor] in favor of LAWA, so that [the debtor] could continue to operate its FBO at the Van Nuys Airport. In turn, [the debtor] promised that the Letter of Credit would never be utilized, and if it were, [the debtor] would repay Slattery." Reply, p. 9. There is insufficient evidence at this time to base any claim in favor of ARH on this theory.

In light of the above, ARH has not met its burden of proving its claim by a preponderance of the evidence, because the documentation provided by ARH does not establish a claim against the estate. Consequently, the Court will disallow ARH's claim against the estate.

III. CONCLUSION

Based on the reasons above and the Court's tentative ruling from November 9, 2017, the Court will sustain the Objection. The Court will deny the Motion to Strike. Although the Reply was not timely filed, the Court continued the hearing on the Objection and had time to consider the Reply in its analysis above.

The Trustee must submit an order within seven (7) days.

I. BACKGROUND

On November 7, 2013, Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. ("Wells Fargo") issued a letter of credit (the "LOC") in the amount of $143,093, with an expiration date of November 1, 2014. Opposition [doc. 201], Exhibit 4. The LOC indicated that the beneficiary was Los Angeles World Airports ("LAWA") and the applicant was BaseNet, LLC

On September 17, 2014, LAWA informed Wells Fargo that Debtor had violated the terms of its lease and that LAWA would be drawing down on the LOC in the amount of $47,707.93. Objection, Exhibit A. On September 25, 2014, $47,707.93 was withdrawn from an Opus Bank account belonging to ARH Trust ("ARH"). Id. The description of the withdrawal stated: "LTR OF CREDIT IS0104745U DEMAND." Id. On the same day, $300 was withdrawn from ARH's Opus Bank account, described as: "DRAW FEE LTR OF CREDIT ISO104745U." Id.

On October 18, 2014, Debtor filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. On October 20, 2014, LAWA again informed Wells Fargo that Debtor had violated the terms of its lease and that LAWA would be drawing down on the LOC in the amount of $95,385.07. Objection, Exhibit A. On October 23, 2014, $95,685.07 was withdrawn from ARH's Opus Bank account. Id. The description of the withdrawal stated: "LTR OF CREDIT IS0104745U DEMAND." Id.

On December 18, 2014, the Court entered an order converting this case to a chapter 7 [doc. 57]. David K. Gottlieb was appointed the chapter 7 trustee (the "Trustee").

On January 13, 2017, Jack N. Rudel, as trustee of ARH, filed proof of claim no. 18-1 in the amount of $165,647.12. In the proof of claim, ARH indicated its claim is based on "[m]oney loaned." An attachment to the proof of claim itemized the claim as follows:

1. First Claim: Arising from $47,703.93 account transfer dated September 25, 2014, plus $7,468.53 in accrued interest between September 25, 2014 and December 27, 2016, plus reimbursement of $300 draw fee.
2. Second Claim: Arising from $95,685.07 account transfer dated October 23, 2014, plus $14,489.59 in accrued interest between October 23, 2014 and December 27, 2016.

Objection, Exhibit A.

On October 2, 2017, the Trustee filed an objection to ARH's claim (the "Objection")

[doc. 197], on the basis that ARH has no evidence of a guaranty agreement between Debtor and ARH. On October 19, 2017, ARH filed an opposition to the Objection (the "Opposition") [doc. 201]. To the Opposition, ARH attached a string of emails between Finn Moller, Debtor's principal, and James Slattery, the beneficiary of ARH, as well as emails between Mr. Moller and Heidi Smith, Mr. Slattery's colleague. In relevant part, the emails provide:

- On October 17, 2013, prior to the issuance of the LOC, Mr. Moller writes Mr. Slattery informing him that he's attached the "Los Angeles World Airport Letter regarding the Standby Letter of Credit." Mr. Moller also states that he and Robert Hoover, another individual purportedly working for Debtor, are "very very [sic] thankful." Opposition, Exhibit 1.
- On January 13, 2014, after the issuance of the LOC, Mr. Moller writes Ms. Smith giving her an "update on the lease renewal efforts that [Debtor] has going with LAWA." In this email, Mr. Moller states that "[i]f [Debtor] is not selected by LAWA to be qualified to bid, the LC will be returned. If [Debtor] does qualify, [Debtor] will substitute the standby LC. As you can see, in either instance the Standby LC will be returned to Mr. Slattery shortly." Opposition, Exhibit 5.
- On May 7, 2014, also after the issuance of the LOC, Mr. Moller again emails Ms. Smith to update her on the lease with LAWA. In relevant part, Mr. Moller states that "[t]he Letter of Credit (LC) is in place to secure against a possible failure to pay LAWA rent for 3 months.... Since the LC was placed as security, [Debtor] has always paid the rent to LAWA in the month due and is current with the rent. We very much appreciate the kindness of Mr. Slattery [sic] financial assistance. [Debtor] has explored with several lenders the idea of using one of the company aircraft as security for a replacement LC." Opposition, Exhibit 6.
- On July 11, 2014, Mr. Moller emails Mr. Slattery. This is the only email that contains the word "guarantee." Specifically, Mr. Moller states: "We appreciate the help you were so kind to render by issuing the rent guarantee to LAWA." Mr. Moller then details his plan to cancel Mr. Slattery's "$141 K Standby Letter of Credit." Mr. Moller also wrote that Mr. Slattery

"stated [he] will notify LAWA in August that [his] LC will not be renewed when it expires in 90 days. [Mr. Slattery] informed [Mr. Moller] that [he] want[s] a cancellation of [his] LC right away, but no later than 90 days." Opposition, Exhibit 7.

- On July 11, 2014, in response to this prior email, Mr. Slattery responded to Mr. Moller, asking: "If none of the above happens, then what?" Opposition, Exhibit 7.
- On September 21, 2014, Mr. Moller emailed Mr. Slattery, asking him to "not accept information received from third parties about the status of [Debtor] as it relates to [Mr. Slattery's] Letter of Credit with LAWA." Mr. Moller also stated: "I have not told you or anyone else that we wanted you to extend the LC beyond the November termination date. You may recall our phone conversation, where I specifically suggested for you not to renew and extend the LC, which you had so kindly offered. I did respond YES, to a question from Brian Cochran in our office on Thursday 'is Jim Slattery's LC exposed.' [Debtor] is behind one month in its rent payment to LAWA. This is partly due to a Sales Tax overpayment of $40,000." Opposition, Exhibit 8.

Opposition, Exhibit 1, 5-8. In the Opposition, ARH asserts that the emails and deposition testimony by Mr. Moller establish a guaranty agreement between ARH and Debtor, and that a written guaranty agreement is not required under California law. On October 26, 2017, the Trustee filed a reply to the Opposition [doc. 202] and evidentiary objections to the declarations in support of the Opposition [docs. 203, 204].

Two statutes provide that surety agreements must be in writing. Pursuant to California Civil Code ("CCC") § 1624(a),

The following contracts are invalid, unless they, or some note or memorandum thereof, are in writing and subscribed by the party to be charged or by the party's agent:

(2) A special promise to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of another, except in the cases provided for in Section 2794.

CCC § 2793 repeats the writing requirement found in CCC § 1624(a), and adds additional requirements regarding surety agreements. Pursuant to CCC § 2793, "[e]xcept as prescribed by the next section, a suretyship obligation must be in writing, and signed by the surety; but the writing need not express a consideration." CCC § 2794, in turn, provides a list of exceptions to CCC § 2793 not applicable to this case.

Here, ARH acknowledges that ARH's suretyship obligation is not in writing. As such, to enforce the alleged "informal" agreement between ARH and Debtor regarding the repayment by Debtor of the funds transferred to LAWA, ARH must provide the Court with authority that excepts the alleged agreement from the confines of CCC §§ 1624(a) and 2793.

ARH cites only to CCC § 2847, which provides for reimbursement of a surety by the principal:

If a surety satisfies the principal obligation, or any part thereof, whether with or without legal proceedings, the principal is bound to reimburse what he has disbursed, including necessary costs and expenses; but the surety has no claim for reimbursement against other persons, though they may have been benefited by his act, except as prescribed by the next section.

Although ARH does not expressly state this, ARH appears to assert that CCC § 2847 is an exception to CCC § 2793. In the Opposition, ARH asserts: "No writing is required, and the principal is bound to reimburse the surety. Civil Code § 2847." This assertion, combined with a citation to CCC § 2847, is misleading. As is evident from the language of the statute, CCC § 2847 does not include any language stating that satisfying the principal obligation excepts the agreement from the requirement that it be in writing.

ARH also cites to Berrington v. Williams, 244 Cal.App.2d 130 (Ct. App. 1966), in support of his proposition that the agreement need not be in writing. However, Berrington is inapplicable to the facts of this case. In Berrington, the defendant executed a promissory note to a bank. Berrington, 244 Cal.App.2d at 132. The defendant's brother signed the written promissory note as guarantor. Id. Thereafter, the defendant defaulted and the guarantor paid the bank the amount owed by the defendant. Id. Subsequently, the guarantor assigned his rights under the guaranty agreement to the plaintiff. Id.

The parties disputed from which funds the defendant was to reimburse the plaintiff. Id., at 132-33. The defendant asserted that, in a series of previous notes culminating in the final promissory notes, the parties had agreed that the guarantor would be reimbursed from the sale of three lots. Id., at 132. The original guarantor testified that he never agreed to obtain reimbursement solely from the sale of these lots, and that the guarantor believed that the defendant would pay the plaintiff "on his general credit" in the event the guarantor paid off the debt to the bank. Id., at 133.

In assessing the facts, the Berrington court first found that the guarantor's payment of the debt under the promissory note extinguished the debt, and the guarantor's remedies were not based on the original obligation. Id., at 134-35. Specifically, the court found that the "plaintiff's suit is on the implied agreement of defendant to reimburse, not upon the promissory note which was extinguished by the guarantor's payment." Id., at 135. The court further held that, unless the parties to a guaranty agreement explicitly agree on different terms, a general right to reimbursement controls. Id. The court then held that an agreement about the source of reimbursement need not be in writing. Id. The court never held that the guaranty agreement itself need not be in writing.

Here, the parties appear to acknowledge that there is no written guaranty agreement between the parties. As such, neither CCC § 2847 nor Berrington helps ARH's case.

ARH also attaches a string of emails and deposition testimony (from a state court case) by Mr. Moller to the Opposition in support of its claim. ARH asserts that, through these documents, Debtor subsequently confirmed the guaranty agreement, making the alleged guaranty agreement enforceable despite CCC § 2793. ARH provides no authority for the assertion that a subsequent affirmance of an oral guaranty brings the agreement outside the reach of the Statute of Frauds. Further, neither the emails nor the portions of the deposition provided to the Court include language by Mr. Moller that can be construed as confirming the existence of a guaranty agreement between the parties. At best, the emails and the deposition testimony refer to a letter of credit (without any identifying information as to which letter of credit) and discuss replacement or cancellation of the letter of credit. In other words, the emails do not establish the creation or existence of a guaranty agreement; rather, they discuss conditions triggering the replacement or cancellation of a letter of credit.

To the extent ARH is attempting to argue that the emails constitute a "memorandum" in writing sufficient to satisfy the Statute of Frauds, the emails do not include enough material terms to serve this purpose. Pursuant to CCC § 1624(a) and (b) and authorities interpreting the same, emails between parties may be sufficient as "note[s] or memorand[a]... in writing." CCC § 1624(a); see Piveg, Inc. v. Gen. Star Indem.

Co., 193 F.Supp.3d 1138, 1146 (S.D. Cal. 2016) ("[U]nder California law, several emails may collectively constitute a memorandum that satisfies the statute of frauds.") (internal quotations and citations omitted).

"The statute of frauds does not require a written contract; a 'note or memorandum... subscribed by the party to be charged' is adequate." Sterling v. Taylor, 40 Cal.4th 757, 765 (2007). "A written memorandum is not identical with a written contract; it is merely evidence of it and usually does not contain all of the terms." Crowley v. Modern Faucet Mfg. Co., 44 Cal.2d 321, 323 (1955). "[I]n most instances, it is not even necessary that the parties intended the memorandum to serve a contractual purpose." Sterling, 40 Cal.4th at 766.

"A memorandum satisfies the statute of frauds if it identifies the subject of the parties' agreement, shows that they made a contract, and states the essential contract terms with reasonable certainty." Id. "Only the essential terms must be stated, details or particulars need not be. What is essential depends on the agreement and its context and also on the subsequent conduct of the parties." Id. (internal quotations and citations omitted).

"Because the memorandum itself must include the essential contractual terms, it is clear that extrinsic evidence cannot supply those requirements. It can, however, be used to explain essential terms that were understood by the parties but would otherwise be unintelligible to others." Id., at 767 (emphases in original).

Here, it is unclear if ARH has attached the entirety of the parties' email correspondence with each other. The email exhibits attached to the Opposition appear to be only part of the email chain between the parties. As it stands, the selected emails provided to the Court do not satisfy the Statute of Frauds, in that the essential terms of the alleged surety agreement are not included in the emails. Crucially, there is no statement by Mr. Slattery (or his representatives) acknowledging a surety agreement.

This is the relevant language provided to the Court:

- Prior to the issuance of the LOC, Mr. Moller writes Mr. Slattery informing him that he's attached the "Los Angeles World Airport Letter regarding the Standby Letter of Credit." Mr. Moller also states that he and Mr. Hoover are "very very [sic] thankful." Opposition, Exhibit 1.

- After the issuance of the LOC, Mr. Moller writes Ms. Smith, who works with Mr. Slattery, giving her an "update on the lease renewal efforts that [Debtor] has going with LAWA." In this email, Mr. Moller states that "[i]f [Debtor] is not selected by LAWA to be qualified to bid, the LC will be returned. If [Debtor] does qualify, [Debtor] will substitute the standby LC. As you can see, in either instance the Standby LC will be returned to Mr. Slattery shortly." Opposition, Exhibit 5.
- On May 7, 2014, also after the issuance of the LOC, Mr. Moller again emails Ms. Smith to update her on the lease with LAWA. In relevant part, Mr. Moller states that "[t]he Letter of Credit (LC) is in place to secure against a possible failure to pay LAWA rent for 3 months.... Since the LC was placed as security, [Debtor] has always paid the rent to LAWA in the month due and is current with the rent. We very much appreciate the kindness of Mr. Slattery [sic] financial assistance. [Debtor] has explored with several lenders the idea of using one of the company aircraft as security for a replacement LC." Opposition, Exhibit 6.
- On July 11, 2014, Mr. Moller emails Mr. Slattery. This is the only email that contains the word "guarantee." Specifically, Mr. Moller states: "We appreciate the help you were so kind to render by issuing the rent guarantee to LAWA." Mr. Moller then details his plan to cancel Mr. Slattery's "$141 K Standby Letter of Credit." Mr. Moller also wrote that Mr. Slattery "stated [he] will notify LAWA in August that [his] LC will not be renewed when it expires in 90 days. [Mr. Slattery] informed [Mr. Moller] that [he] want[s] a cancellation of [his] LC right away, but no later than 90 days." Opposition, Exhibit 7.
- On July 11, 2014, in response to this prior email, Mr. Slattery responded to Mr. Moller, asking: "If none of the above happens, then what?" Opposition, Exhibit 7.
- Finally, on September 21, 2014, Mr. Moller emailed Mr. Slattery, asking him to "not accept information received from third parties about the status of [Debtor] as it relates to [Mr. Slattery's] Letter of Credit with LAWA." Mr. Moller also stated: "I have not told you or anyone else that we wanted you to extend the LC beyond the November termination date. You may recall our phone conversation, where I specifically suggested for you not to renew and extend the LC, which you had so kindly offered. I did respond YES, to a question from Brian Cochran in our office on Thursday 'is Jim Slattery's LC exposed.' [Debtor] is behind one month in its rent payment to LAWA. This is partly due to a Sales Tax overpayment of $40,000." Opposition, Exhibit 8.

As a preliminary matter, none of the emails mention ARH. The emails only mention Mr. Slattery. The emails also raise several questions. First, there is no mention of a guaranty except for Mr. Moller's statement that Mr. Slattery "issu[ed] the rent guarantee to LAWA." Opposition, Exhibit 7. This language does not confirm that Mr. Slattery and/or ARH guaranteed the LOC. Instead, Mr. Moller generally states that Mr. Slattery is guaranteeing the rent.

This is important because there are several ways for a party to guaranty rent payments other than by entering into guaranty agreements. One such method is by issuing a letter of credit, which has a similar function to a guaranty but is treated differently under California law. Pursuant to CCC § 2787, "[a] letter of credit is not a form of suretyship obligation." In the emails, the parties keep referring to the document as a "LC" or "letter of credit" instead of a guaranty. As such, the emails themselves do not establish the existence of a guaranty agreement in such a way as to satisfy the Statute of Frauds.

In addition, the Court is only able to glean few of the terms of the alleged guaranty agreement. For one, the emails indicate that the amount provided by Mr. Slattery was $141,000. Opposition, Exhibit 7. This does not match the amount in the LOC. The only other fact the Court may infer from the emails is that LAWA was a beneficiary to a letter of credit. There is nothing about interest or repayment of draw fees. There is also no language conclusively establishing that Mr. Slattery and/or ARH entered into an agreement to guarantee the LOC. Nothing in the emails specifies the underlying obligation which is being guaranteed, other than vague references to LAWA and a bidding process. Consequently, the emails are insufficient as a "note or memorandum" in satisfaction of CCC § 1624(a).

Moreover, even if the emails could be read to establish a guaranty agreement, none of the pertinent emails are signed by Mr. Slattery or another representative of ARH. Neither Mr. Slattery nor his representatives sign off on any of the emails containing actual terms of an agreement. All of the relevant language is written and signed by Mr. Moller. The emails by Mr. Slattery cannot be read to incorporate Mr. Moller's terms or accept them. As such, even if Mr. Moller's statement of the terms was sufficient to count as a memorandum satisfying the Statute of Frauds, the emails are not "signed by the surety" as required by CCC § 2793. Consequently, Court will disallow ARH's claim against the estate.

At the prior hearing, the Court continued the hearing to February 21, 2018. The debtors were instructed to file a proposed adequate protection order (the "Proposed APO") and a motion to modify their chapter 13 plan (the "Proposed Motion to Modify") by February 7, 2018. Movant was instructed to file a response by February 14, 2018. On February 7, 2018, the debtors filed the Proposed APO and Proposed Motion to Modify [doc. 100. Exhs. A, B]. As of February 20, 2018, movant has not filed its response.

The Court will enter the Proposed APO, modified to reflect that the motion for relief from stay was "opposed," rather than "settled by stipulation."

Docket 24

Tentative Ruling:

I. Background

On January 5, 2017, the debtor filed her chapter 7 bankruptcy petition. The debtor filed the petition on the eve of trial in a state court lawsuit dealing with fraud and breach of contract related to the debtor's joint business venture with the plaintiff.

On April 4, 2017, the plaintiff initiated the instant adversary proceeding by filing an adversary complaint under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2), (a)(4), and (a)(6) (the "Complaint"). The Court sent electronic notice of the Complaint to the debtor's counsel for her bankruptcy case, Alon Darvish. On April 5, 2017, the Court issued a summons (doc. 4, the "Summons"), and sent notice of the Summons to the debtor at 3822 Sunshine Ct., Studio City, CA 91604 (the "Sunshine Ct. Address") via BNC. This is the address of record for the debtor in her main bankruptcy case.

The Summons states that the deadline for the debtor to file an answer or responsive pleading was May 5, 2017. The debtor did not file a response by that deadline. On May 24, 2017, the plaintiff filed a Unilateral Status Report (doc. 6), detailing that on April 5, 2017, the plaintiff's counsel mailed copies of the Summons, Notice of Status Conference and Complaint to the debtor at the Sunshine Ct. Address.

On June 2, 2017, the plaintiff filed a proof of service document (doc. 7), signed on June 2, indicating that the plaintiff served the debtor with a copy of the Summons and Complaint on April 5, 2017 (the "June Proof of Service"). Also on June 2, 2017, the plaintiff filed a request for entry of default (doc. 8), which was served on the debtor at the Sunshine Ct. Address. On June 6, 2017, the Clerk of the Court entered default (doc. 9), which the Court also served on the debtor at the Sunshine Ct. Address via BNC (doc. 10).

On July 26, 2017, the plaintiff filed a motion for default judgment (doc. 11) and served it on the debtor at the Sunshine Ct. Address. The debtor did not file an opposition to the motion for default judgment. On August 25, 2017, the Court entered an order for default judgment (doc. 14), which the Court served on the debtor at the Sunshine Ct. Address via BNC (doc. 15). On October 6, 2017, the Court closed the adversary proceeding.

From October 16-18, 2017, the California state court held a trial regarding the debtor's dispute with the plaintiff. Both the debtor and her son are parties to that litigation. The debtor/defendant was present. However, as a result of the default judgment, the plaintiff was precluded from trying the case against the debtor.

On October 18, 2017, the debtor filed a motion to reopen the adversary proceeding (doc. 19). On November 8, 2017, the Court reopened the case (doc 22). On November 13, 2017, the debtor filed her Motion to vacate the default judgment (doc. 24, the "Motion"). The Motion includes a declaration by the debtor, stating that she had been in Canada for health and financial reasons since June 2015. In June 2017, the debtor had surgery, and her doctor advised her not to travel for a period of three months thereafter (doc. 24, p. 9). In addition, the debtor explains that she "became aware" that there "may have been an objection" to her bankruptcy discharge, but she only received the documents associated with the default judgment, even though her son lived at the Sunshine Ct. Address at all relevant times. She states that she "mistakenly believed that [she] could address any issues regarding an objection to [her] bankruptcy discharge from plaintiff by communicating with the Bankruptcy Court and/or the Chapter 7 Trustee" (doc. 24, p. 9). The debtor's declaration also includes facts tending to support her defense in this adversary proceeding, including that she contributed her own money for reasonable and necessary business supplies, and that the plaintiff was in charge of the accounting for their joint business venture (doc. 24, pp. 9-10).

On December 11, 2017, the plaintiff filed its opposition to the Motion (doc. 25, the "Opposition").

Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 7004(b)(1) states:

(b) Service by first class mail. Except as provided in subdivision (h), in addition to the methods of service authorized by Rule 4(e)–(j) F.R.Civ.P., service may be made within the United States by first class mail postage prepaid as follows:

(1) Upon an individual other than an infant or incompetent, by mailing a copy of the summons and complaint to the individual's dwelling house or usual place of abode or to the place where the individual regularly conducts a business or profession.

Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7004(b)(1).

Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 7004(b)(9) states in relevant part:

(9) Upon the debtor, after a petition has been filed by or served upon the debtor and until the case is dismissed or closed, by mailing a copy of the summons and complaint to the debtor at the address shown in the petition or to such other address as the debtor may designate in a filed writing.

Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7004(b)(9).

Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 7004(g) states:

(g) Service on Debtor's Attorney. If the debtor is represented by an attorney, whenever service is made upon the debtor under this Rule, service shall also be made upon the debtor's attorney by any means authorized under Rule 5(b) F.R.Civ.P.

B.R. 193, 196 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1998). In DeVore, a debtor relocated from her address of record during her bankruptcy case, yet did not change her address of record until three years later. The trustee served a motion to reopen the case on the debtor's address of record. Despite the debtor's relocation from that address, the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel held that the debtor was on notice of the motion to reopen the case. Similarly, in In re Vincze, 230 F.3d 297, 298 (7th Cir. 2000), the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals held that a debtor was properly served with an adversary summons and complaint by mail at the address listed on the petition, although the debtor was out of the country and did not actually receive the documents. The Court of Appeals held that the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure do not require that the recipients of a complaint and summons actually receive the mailed documents.

In the Motion, the debtor argues that the Court should vacate the default judgment because she was not properly served. However, the docket in this case bears multiple signed declarations attesting to service of the Summons and Complaint on the debtor at the Sunshine Ct. Address, the last address she provided to the Court, including the unilateral status report (doc. 6) and the signed proof of service (doc. 7). Mailing a copy of the summons and complaint to the address the debtor listed on her petition constitutes adequate service. Fed. R. Civ. P. 7004.

Fed. R. Civ. P. 7004 indicates that if the debtor is represented by counsel, then the plaintiff also must serve that counsel with a copy of the Summons and Complaint. Here, the debtor's attorney for her bankruptcy case, Alon Darwish, is not her attorney for this adversary proceeding, and when the Summons and Complaint were served, the debtor was not yet represented by an attorney in this adversary proceeding. Nonetheless, Mr. Darwish was given notice of the Complaint via NEF. In accordance with the ruling in Gregory, that notice was sufficient.

B. Rule 60(b)

Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 60(b), applicable pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 9024, provides that "[o]n motion and just terms, the court may relieve a party its legal representative from a final judgment, order, or proceeding for the following reasons: (1) mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect."

Chapter 7

60(b). Although courts generally have broad discretion when ruling on 60(b) motions, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has noted that Rule 60(b) is remedial in nature and should be liberally applied. Default judgments are generally disfavored. "[W]henver it is reasonably possible, cases should be decided upon their merits." Pena v. Seguros La Comercial, S.A., 770 F.2d 811, 814 (9th Cir.1985). As between competing interests of promoting finality for judgments and of resolving cases on their merits, "the finality interest should give way fairly readily." In re Peralta, 317 B.R. 381, 388 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2004).

Courts in the Ninth Circuit use a three-factor analysis in considering whether to vacate a default judgment which is not procedurally defective: "(1) whether the defendant's culpable conduct led to the default; (2) whether the defendant has a meritorious defense; and (3) whether reopening the default judgment would prejudice the plaintiff." Peralta, 317 B.R. at 385; see also TCI Group Life Ins. Plan v. Knoebber, 244 F.3d 691, 696 (9th Cir.2001) and Falk v. Allen, 739 F.2d 461, 463 (9th Cir.1984). The party seeking the relief from the default judgment bears the burden of demonstrating that the three factors weigh in favor of relief. Peralta, 317 B.E. at 388.

Here, the debtor has the burden of proof to demonstrate that the Peralta factors weigh in favor of vacating the dismissal. Given this circuit's prevailing policy in favor of resolving cases on their merits, and given the debtor's assertions in the Motion, this Court is persuaded that the factors justify relief from the default judgment.

Culpability: Courts in the Ninth Circuit have construed the "culpable conduct" factor as consistent with the Supreme Court's test for "excusable neglect" set forth in the Pioneer case. Peralta 317 B.R. at 388. In Pioneer, the Supreme Court considered "prejudice to the [opponent], the length of the delay and its potential impact on judicial proceedings, the reason for the delay, including whether it was in the reasonable control of the movant, and whether the movant acted in good faith" in assessing whether to grant relief. Pioneer Inv. Servs. Co., 507 U.S. 380, 395 (1993).

For the purpose of the factors, a defendant's conduct is culpable where there is "no explanation of the default inconsistent with a devious, deliberate, willful, or bad faith failure to respond. TCI Group Life Ins. Plan, 244 F.3d at 698. Here, the debtor's situation is analogous to a number of cases in which the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals held that the party moving for relief was acting in good faith. For example, in

Bateman v. U.S. Postal Serv., 231 F.3d 1220, 1225 (9th Cir. 2000), an attorney left the United States for a family emergency, missing the deadline to answer a motion for summary judgment, and did not contact the district court or opposing counsel until over two weeks after his return. The Court of Appeals held that the reasons for the delay were not the result of "deviousness or willfulness," and did not indicate anything less than good faith. Similarly, in Falk, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals vacated a default judgment although the defendant did not move to set aside the judgment for five months; the defendant failed to appear at the hearing because she was leaving the country for medical treatment the following day, she did not return to the United States until two months after the judgment, and she had difficulty obtaining legal assistance. Falk v. Allen, 739 F.2d 461, 463 (9th Cir.1984). The Court of Appeals held that the defendant's knowing failure to answer was for understandable reasons and not designed to obtain strategic advantage in the litigation. See TCI Group Life Ins. Plan, 244 F.3d at 698.

Here, the debtor's actions have caused some prejudice to the plaintiff, in that the plaintiff already has spent resources pursuing the default judgment. In addition, the debtor has caused delay in the prosecution of the plaintiff's claim, first with her bankruptcy filing and now with her delayed response to the adversary complaint. However, pursuing a default judgment is not as costly as pursuing a judgment on the merits, so vacating the default judgment would not effectively force the plaintiff to try the case a second time. In addition, the debtor will be significantly more prejudiced by a judgment against her on which she did not present a defense.

Although the plaintiff has experienced a delay in prosecuting this case, the debtor's declaration attached to the Motion reflects that at least some of the delay may have been beyond the debtor's control. At the time the plaintiff filed the Complaint, the debtor was in Canada addressing her medical issues. The debtor had surgery in June, after which her doctor instructed her not to travel for a period of three months.

The debtor purports to have acted in good faith. In her declaration, she states that she never received the complaint that was mailed to the Sunshine Ct. Address, and when she did become aware of an objection to her bankruptcy discharge, she "mistakenly believed" that she could "address any issues regarding [the] objection" by communicating with the Bankruptcy Court or Chapter 7 Trustee. (doc. 24, p. 9). In light of the debtor's medical issues, as well as her statement that she was out of the country and was not at home to receive notices mailed to her, it does not appear her conduct was in bad faith.

On balance, this Court's analysis of the Pioneer factors and its comparison with other cases in the Ninth Circuit indicate that the debtor's conduct amounted to excusable neglect and did not rise to the level of culpability.

Meritorious Defense: To make a showing of a meritorious defense, a defendant must present "specific facts that would constitute a defense" or substantially alter the liability at stake. United States v. Signed Pers. Check No. 730 of Yubran S. Mesle, 615 F.3d 1085, 1094 (9th Cir. 2010). General objections to or refutations of the allegations made in the complaint are not sufficient to satisfy the requirement. Id. The Court must determine whether there is "some possibility" that the outcome of the suit after a full trial would be different than the result due to the default. Hawaii Carpenters' Trust Funds v. Stone, 794 F.2d 508, 513 (9th Cir. 1986). The movant must "allege sufficient facts that, if true, would constitute a defense." Mesle, 615 F.3d at 1094.

The debtor has the burden of proof to present facts which constitute her defense. The debtor presented some facts in her declaration and attached a copy of her proposed answer to the Motion. The debtor's facts, including that she contributed her own money for reasonable and necessary business supplies, and that the plaintiff was in charge of the accounting for their joint business venture, taken as true, present a defense to the plaintiff's claims that the debtor appropriated business investment funds for her own use.

The debtor did not provide specific facts in defense against some of the plaintiff's other claims, including that the debtor provided the plaintiff with multiple fraudulent documents, as well as that she filed a series of fraudulent documents with the California Secretary of State. However, the relevant case law does not require that the debtor present a complete defense, only some possibility that the outcome of the suit after a full trial would be different than the result due to the default. The debtor has met her burden to present a meritorious defense.

Prejudice to Plaintiff: As discussed above, although the plaintiff has already experienced a delay in the resolution of its claims against the debtor, relief from the default judgment will not force the plaintiff to "relitigate" any matter, because neither this Court, nor the state court, has held trial on the merits of this matter. The prejudice to the plaintiff is outweighed by the prejudice to the debtor and the Ninth Circuit's prevailing preference for judgments on the merits of a case over default judgments.

In light of the foregoing, the Court will grant the Motion.

I. BACKGROUND

A. *The First State Court Action

On October 26, 2009, Tessie Cleveland Community Services Corp. ("Plaintiff") filed a state court action against Mohsen Loghmani entitled Tessie Cleveland Community Services Corp. v. Loghmani, et al., Los Angeles Superior Court, Case No. TC023641 (the "First State Court Action"). (Complaint, ¶ 12; Plaintiff's Statement of Uncontroverted Facts and Conclusions of Law ("Statement"), ¶ 3.) In the First State Court Action, Plaintiff alleged claims including negligence, four counts of breach of contract, and intentional misrepresentation in connection with Mr. Loghmani's services as a general contractor and engineer in remodeling some of Plaintiff's corporate facilities. (Request for Judicial Notice ("RJN"), Exh. 1.)

On December 28, 2011, the jury returned a verdict in favor of Plaintiff. (Statement, ¶ 4.) In its special verdict form on Plaintiff's intentional misrepresentation claim, the jury found the following:

- Mr. Loghmani represented to Plaintiff that an important fact was true;
- Mr. Loghmani's representation was false;
- Mr. Loghmani knew that the representation was false when he made it, or made the representation recklessly and without regard for its truth;

- Mr. Loghmani intended that Plaintiff rely on the representation;
- Plaintiff reasonably relied on Mr. Loghmani's representation;
- Plaintiff was harmed;
- Plaintiff's reliance on Mr. Loghmani's representation was a substantial factor in causing it harm; and
- Plaintiff was damaged in the amount of $242,695.25.

(Statement, ¶ 5; RJN, Exh. 1, p. 16–18.) The jury did not find by clear and convincing evidence that Mr. Loghmani "engaged in [his] conduct with malice, oppression, or fraud." (RJN, Exh. 1, at p. 18.)

On March 29, 2012, before judgment was entered in the First State Court Action, Mr. Loghmani filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition, commencing case no. 1:12-bk-12998-VK (the "Prior Bankruptcy Case"). On March 7, 2013, after Plaintiff obtained relief from the automatic stay in the Prior Bankruptcy Case, judgment was entered in the First State Court Action (the "First State Court Judgment"). (Statement, ¶ 6; RJN, Exh. 1.) On August 6, 2013, the state court entered an order granting to Plaintiff attorney's fees in the amount of $1,458,101.25, pursuant to the contracts between Plaintiff and Mr. Loghmani, which permitted recovery of fees under contract and tort theories. (Statement, ¶ 7; RJN, Exh. 2.)

On July 23, 2013, Mr. Loghmani appealed the First State Court Judgment. (Complaint, ¶ 24.) On November 13, 2014, Mr. Loghmani's appeal was dismissed as untimely. (Statement, ¶ 8; RJN, Exh. 3; RJN, Exh. 4, p.2 n.1.)

On October 4, 2013, Mr. Loghmani appealed the attorney's fees award in the First State Court Action. On January 29, 2015, the attorney's fees award was affirmed on appeal. (Statement, ¶ 9; RJN, Exh. 4.)

Mahshid Loghmani (together, "Defendants"), entitled Tessie Cleveland Community Services Corp. v. Loghmani, et al., Los Angeles Superior Court, Case No. EC05714 (the "Second State Court Action"). [FN1] (Statement, ¶ 10; RJN, Exh. 5.) The Second State Court Action concerned a fraudulent transfer of property from Mr. Loghmani to Mrs. Loghmani, including real property located at 8212 Laurel Canyon Blvd., North Hollywood, CA (the "Laurel Canyon Property"). (RJN, Exh. 5.) Plaintiff alleged that these transfers were effectuated in order to conceal Mr. Loghmani's assets from creditors, including Plaintiff. (RJN Exh. 5.)

On February 25, 2015, judgment was entered in favor of Plaintiff on its claims for intentional fraudulent transfer and constructive fraudulent transfer (the "Second State Court Judgment"). (Statement, ¶ 11; RJN, Exh. 6.) The state court also made special findings that

- Mr. Loghmani "transfer[ed] property to Mahshid Loghmani with the express agreement that Mohsen Loghmani would retain an equitable interest in the property";
- Mr. Loghmani "transfer[ed] to Mahshid Loghmani under circumstances showing that Mohsen Loghmani intended to retain an equitable interest in the same"; and
- Ms. Loghmani "conspire[d] with Mohsen Loghmani to purchase property in her name using the assets of Mohsen Loghmani for the purpose of protecting and concealing said assets from Mohsen Loghmani's creditors."

(Statement, ¶ 12; RJN, Exh. 6, at p. 3.) The Second State Court Judgment also stated that Plaintiff did not "prove by clear and convincing evidence that [Mr. Loghmani] is guilty of fraud, malice, and/or oppression[.]" because "[n]o evidence [was] presented." (RJN, Exh. 6, at p. 4.) The Second State Court Judgment is silent as to whether Ms. Loghmani was guilty of fraud, malice, and/or oppression.

In the Second State Court Judgment, the state court ordered as follows:

C. *The Prior Bankruptcy Case and Prior Adversary Proceedings

As noted above, on March 29, 2012, Mr. Loghmani filed the Prior Bankruptcy Case. At the time Mr. Loghmani filed the Prior Bankruptcy Case, both the First State Court Action and Second State Court Action (together, the "Prepetition State Court Actions") were pending. (Statement, ¶¶ 16, 17; RJN, Exh. 9.) Mr. Loghmani listed the Prepetition State Court Actions in his Statement of Financial Affairs ("SOFA"). (RJN, Exh. 10, p. 20.)

Plaintiff's Prior Adversary Proceeding re: Denial of Discharge and Nondischargeability. On July 2, 2012, Plaintiff filed an adversary complaint against Mr. Loghmani, seeking denial of discharge under 11 U.S.C. §§ 727(a)(3) and (a)(4)(A), and nondischargeability of debt under 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2)(A) and 523(a)(4) ("Plaintiff's Prior Adversary Proceeding") [adv. no 1:12-ap-01223-VK, doc. 1]. On January 28, 2014, the Court entered an order dismissing Plaintiff's Prior Adversary Proceeding without prejudice [adv. no 1:12-ap-01223-VK, doc. 31].

The UST Adversary Proceeding. On November 30, 2012, the United States Trustee ("UST") filed an adversary complaint against Mr. Loghmani, seeking denial of discharge pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 727(a)(2)(A) and (a)(4)(A) (the "UST Adversary Proceeding"). After trial, on January 7, 2014, the Court entered its Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law ("727 Findings") [adv. no. 1:12-ap-01419-VK, doc. 48]. On January 7, 2014, the Court also entered a judgment in favor of the UST and against Mr. Loghmani, denying Mr. Loghmani his discharge pursuant to §§ 727(a)(2)(A) and (a)(4)(A) (the "727 Judgment") [adv. no. 1:12-ap-01419-VK, doc. 47]. The Court found that, among other things, Mr. Loghmani had failed to disclose in his schedules the transfer of land in San Bernardino (the "San Bernardino Land") to his son, Ciavash Loghmani. In addition, the Court found that the [San Bernardino transfer] was fraudulent, including that, inter alia, (i) "[a]fter the verdict [in the First State Court Action], and before judgment was entered against Mr. Loghmani, on February 2, 2011, the Loghmanis transferred the San Bernardino Land to their son, Ciavash Loghmani, by quit claim deed"; (ii) Mohsen Loghmani "testified that he valued the San Bernardino Land at $10,000.00 at the time of the transfer, but did not receive any money from his son at the time of the transfer"; and (iii) Mohsen Loghmani "with the intent to hinder, delay, or defraud a creditor and/or the Trustee, transferred property of the debtor, specifically, the San Bernardino Land, within one year before the date of the filing of the petition in violation of 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(2)(A).

(Statement, ¶ 25; RJN, Exh. 11, p. 2–3, ¶¶ 8–9, p. 6, ¶ 8.)

On January 21, 2014, Mr. Loghmani filed an appeal of the 727 Judgment with the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel for the Ninth Circuit (the "BAP") [adv. no. 1:12-ap-01419-VK, doc. 50]. On February 2, 2015, the BAP affirmed the 727 Judgment [adv. no. 1:12-ap-01419-VK, doc. 65].

On August 3, 2016, the Prior Bankruptcy Case was closed [case no. 1:12-bk-12998-VK, doc. 89].

D. The Third State Court Action

On September 23, 2014, Plaintiff filed an action in state court entitled Tessie Cleveland Community Services Corp. v. Loghmani, et al., Los Angeles Superior Court, Case No. BC558489 (the "Third State Court Action"). Plaintiff alleged eight causes of action against multiple defendants, including Defendants and their children, Ciavash and Ciamack Loghmani. (Statement, ¶ 23; RJN, Exh. 14.) Plaintiff also alleged that on February 2, 2012, Defendants transferred property located in San Bernardino with an intent to hinder, delay, and defraud creditors (the "San Bernardino Transfer"). (Statement, ¶ 24; RJN, Exh. 14, ¶¶ 40–43.)

E. Defendants' Pending Bankruptcy Case and the Pending Adversary Proceeding

On August 1, 2016, Defendants filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On November 1, 2016, Plaintiff filed a complaint requesting nondischargeability of the debts owed to it pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(6) and (a)(10), and denial of discharge pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 727(a)(2), (3), (4), and (5) (the "Complaint") [doc. 1].

On October 25, 2017, an order was entered granting Plaintiff's motion for leave to file a first amended complaint (the "FAC") [doc. 28]. The order provided that Defendants' answer to the FAC was due on or before November 15, 2017. On October 27, 2017, Plaintiff filed the FAC, which contained an additional claim for relief under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A) [doc. 30]. On November 21, 2017, Defendants filed an untimely answer to the FAC [doc. 37].

On November 17, 2017, Plaintiff filed the Motion [doc. 33] and a Request for Judicial Notice ("RJN") in support of the Motion [doc. 34]. The hearing on the Motion was initially set for January 10, 2018. On January 5, 2018, orders were entered transferring the Defendants' bankruptcy case [case no. 1:16-bk-12214, doc. 49] and the pending adversary proceeding to this Court [doc. 38]. The hearing on the Motion was continued to February 14, 2018 [doc. 42]. As of February 12, 2018, Defendants have not timely filed a response to the Motion.

II. LEGAL STANDARDS

A. General Motion for Summary Judgment Standard

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 56, applicable to this adversary proceeding under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 7056, the Court shall grant summary judgment if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 247, 106 S.Ct. 2505, 2509-10, 91 L.Ed.2d 202 (1986); Rule 56; FRBP 7056. "By its very terms, this standard provides that the mere existence of some alleged factual dispute between the parties will not defeat an otherwise properly supported motion for summary judgment; the requirement is that there be no genuine issue of material fact." 477 U.S. at 247-48 (emphasis in original).

As to materiality, the substantive law will identify which facts are material. Only disputes over facts that might affect the outcome of the suit under the governing law will properly preclude the entry of summary judgment. Factual disputes that are irrelevant or unnecessary will not be counted. . . . [S]ummary judgment will not lie if the dispute about a material fact is "genuine," that is, if the evidence is such that a reasonable jury could return a verdict for the nonmoving party. . . .

Id. at 248-50 (internal citations omitted). Additionally, issues of law are appropriate to be decided in a motion for summary judgment. See Camacho v. Du Sung Corp., 121 F.3d 1315, 1317 (9th Cir. 1997).

The initial burden is on the moving party to show that no genuine issues of material fact exist based on "the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with affidavits, if any." Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323, 106 S.Ct. 2548, 2553, 91 L.Ed. 265 (1986). Once the moving party meets its initial burden, the nonmoving party bearing "the burden of proof at trial on a dispositive issue" must identify facts beyond what is contained in the pleadings that show genuine issues of fact remain. Id. at 324; see also Anderson, 477 U.S. at 256 ("Rule 56(e) itself provides that a party opposing a properly supported motion for summary judgment may not rest upon mere allegation or denials of his pleading, but must set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial.").

The nonmoving party meets this burden through the presentation of "evidentiary materials" listed in Rule 56, such as depositions, documents, electronically stored information, affidavits or declarations, stipulations, admissions, and interrogatory answers. Id. To establish a genuine issue, the non-moving party "must do more than simply show that there is some metaphysical doubt as to the material facts." Matsushita Elec. Indus. Co. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 586, 106 S.Ct. 1348, 1356, 89 L.Ed.2d 538 (1986); see also Anderson, 477 U.S. at 252 ("The mere existence of a scintilla of evidence in support of the [non-moving party's] position will be insufficient."). Rather, the nonmoving party must provide "evidence of such a caliber that 'a fair-minded jury could return a verdict for the [nonmoving party] on the evidence presented.'" U.S. v. Wilson, 881 F.2d 596, 601 (9th Cir. 1989) (quoting Anderson, 477 U.S. at 266).

Here, Defendants have not opposed the Motion and there are no genuine issues as to any material fact. As discussed below, Plaintiff is entitled to judgment as a matter of law pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A) based on the First State Court Judgment as to Mr. Loghmani. Plaintiff is also entitled to summary judgment as a matter of law pursuant to § 523(a)(10). Plaintiff is not entitled to summary judgment as a matter of law pursuant to § 523(a)(2)(A) based on the Second State Court Judgment or on the 727 Judgment, or pursuant to § 523(a)(6).

In so doing, the bankruptcy court must apply the forum state's law of issue preclusion." In re Plyam, 530 B.R. 456, 462 (9th Cir. - (1) the issue sought to be precluded from relitigation is identical to that decided in a former proceeding;
- (2) the issue was actually litigated in the former proceeding;
- (3) the issue was necessarily decided in the former proceeding;
- (4) the decision in the former proceeding is final and on the merits; and
- (5) the party against whom preclusion is sought was the same as, or in privity with, the party to the former proceeding.

C. 11 U.S.C. 523(a)(2)(A)

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A), a bankruptcy discharge does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt "for money, property, services, or an extension, renewal, or refinancing of credit, to the extent obtained by—false pretenses, a false representation, or actual fraud, other than a statement respecting a debtor's or an insider's financial condition."

To prevail on a § 523(a)(2)(A) claim, the plaintiff must demonstrate, by a preponderance of the evidence, the following five elements:

- (1) misrepresentation, fraudulent omission or deceptive conduct by the debtor;
- (2) knowledge of the falsity or deceptiveness of his statement or conduct;
- (3) an intent to deceive;
- (4) justifiable reliance by the creditor on the debtor's statement or

D. 11 U.S.C. 523(a)(6)

11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6) states that a discharge under 11 U.S.C. § 727 does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt "for willful and malicious injury by the debtor to another entity or to the property of another entity."

Demonstrating willfulness requires a showing that defendant intended to cause the injury, not merely the acts leading to the injury. Kawaauhau v. Geiger, 523 U.S. 57, 61–62, 118 S.Ct. 974, 977 (1998). Debts "arising from recklessly or negligently inflicted injuries do not fall within the compass of § 523(a)(6)." Id. at 64. It suffices, however, if the debtor knew that harm to the creditor was "substantially certain." In re Su, 290 F.3d 1140, 1145–46 (9th Cir. 2002); In re Jercich, 238 F.3d 1202, 1208 (9th Cir. 2001) ("[T]he willful injury requirement of § 523(a)(6) is met when it is shown either that the debtor had a subjective motive to inflict the injury or that the debtor believed that injury was substantially certain to occur as a result of his conduct.") (emphasis in Jercich).

Under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6), the injury must also be the result of maliciousness. Su, 290 F.3d at 1146. Maliciousness requires (1) a wrongful act; (2) done intentionally; (3) which necessarily causes injury; (4) without just cause or excuse. Id. at 1147. Maliciousness does not require "personal hatred, spite, or will-will." In re Bammer, 131 F.3d 788, 791 (9th Cir. 1997).

11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(10) states that a discharge under 11 U.S.C. § 727 does not discharge an individual debtor from a debt "that was or could have been listed or scheduled by the debtor in a prior case concerning the debtor under this title . . . in which the debtor waived discharge, or was denied a discharge under section 727(a)(2), (3), (4), (5), (6), or (7) of this title[.]"

A debtor's "failure to obtain a discharge in [a prior] bankruptcy case [generally] renders debts then existing nondischargeable in a subsequent case even though a discharge is obtained in the subsequent case." In re Belmore, 68 B.R. 889, 892 (Bankr. M.D. Pa. 1987). "A determination denying the debtor a discharge is, in effect, res judicata, with respect to the debts in existence." Id. Section 523(a)(10) "protect bankruptcy from itself, by preserving denial of discharge through successive bankruptcies. Royal Am. Oil & Gas Co. v. Szafranski (In re Szafranski), 147 B.R. 976, 981 (Bankr. N.D. Okla. 1992) (emphasis in original).

"When section 523(a)(10) bars the discharge of debts that existed in an earlier case, it does so only when the discharge in the earlier case was denied due to dishonesty or uncooperativeness on the part of the debtor. The discharge exception of section 523(a)(10) therefore serves to prevent debtors from circumventing the deterrent effect of a discharge denial under section 727."

III. DISCUSSION

A. Request for Judicial Notice

As an initial matter, pursuant to Federal Rule of Evidence 201(b)(2), the Court should grant Plaintiff's unopposed request for judicial notice of documents attached to its RJN. The judicially noticeable documents are copies of court records. See, e.g., Rosales-Martinez v. Palmer, 753 F.3d 890, 894 (9th Cir. 2014) ("It is well established that we may take judicial notice of judicial proceedings in other courts."); Golden Gate v. Marincovich, 286 F. 105, 106 (9th Cir. 1923) ("Every court takes judicial notice of its own records in the same case.").

B. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A)

Chapter 7

Loghmani. However, Plaintiff has not met its burden of proving that it is entitled to summary judgment on its § 523(a)(2)(A) claim based on the Second State Court Judgment or on the 727 Judgment.

1. The First State Court Judgment

a. The Issues Are Identical to the Issues from the First State Court Action

In the First State Court Judgment, the state court held that Mr. Loghmani was liable for fraud. The First State Court Judgment was based on the same facts alleged in the Complaint.

With respect to § 523(a)(2)(A), "Ninth Circuit case law confirms that the elements of fraud under California law match the ones under § 523(a)(2)(A)." In re Davis, 486 B.R. 182, 191 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2013) (citing to In re Younie, 211 B.R. 367, 373–74 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1997) ("The elements of § 523(a)(2)(A) 'mirror the elements of common law fraud' and match those for actual fraud under California law.")). In light of these authorities, the issues from state court were identical to the issues here.

Here, aside from finding Mr. Loghmani liable for fraud, the state court also made specific findings as to each element of § 523(a)(2)(A). The First State Court Judgment adopted the jury's findings as to intentional misrepresentation by Mr. Loghmani as follows:

- Mr. Loghmani represented to Plaintiff that an important fact was true;
- Mr. Loghmani's representation was false;
- Mr. Loghmani knew that the representation was false when he made it, or made the representation recklessly and without regard for its truth;
- Mr. Loghmani intended that Plaintiff rely on the representation;
- Plaintiff reasonably relied on Mr. Loghmani's representation;
- Plaintiff was harmed;

Mahshid Loghmani

Chapter 7

- Plaintiff's reliance on Mr. Loghmani's representation was a substantial factor in causing it harm; and
- Plaintiff was damaged in the amount of $242,695.25.

(Statement, ¶ 5; RJN, Exh. 1, p. 16–18.)

The state court explicitly found that Mr. Loghmani made a false representation, that he knew his representations were false, and that he intended to deceive Plaintiff. The state court also found that Plaintiff "reasonably" relied on Mr. Loghmani representations. Section 523(a)(2)(A) requires only "justifiable" reliance, which is an intermediate level of reliance between actual reliance and reasonable reliance. Field, 516 U.S. at 72–73. Because the state court found that Plaintiff "reasonably" relied on Mr. Loghmani's statements, such a finding of reasonable reliance is sufficient to establish the lesser standard of "justifiable" reliance required under § 523(a)(2)(A). Finally, the state court found that Plaintiff's damages were proximately caused by Plaintiff's reliance on Mr. Loghmani's misrepresentations. Based on the foregoing, Plaintiff has met his burden of proving that the issues are identical.

b. The Issues Were Actually Litigated in the First State Court Action

The "actually litigated" requirement addresses whether the issues were "properly raised, submitted for determination, and determined in that proceeding." Happy Nails & Spa of Fashion Valley, L.P. v. Su, 159 Cal. Rptr. 3d 503, 512 (Ct. App. 2013). Based on the First State Court Judgment, the state court heard and considered evidence regarding the relevant issues and made its determination in light of that evidence. As such, this element is satisfied.

c. The Issues Were Necessarily Decided in the First State Court Action

"In order for the determination of an issue to be given preclusive effect, it must have been necessary to a judgment." Creative Ventures, LLC v. Jim Ward & Assocs., 126 Cal. Rptr. 3d 564, 580 (Ct. App. 2011). Here, the state court could not have entered the First State Court Judgment holding that Mr. Loghmani is liable for fraud unless the state court decided all of the issues under § 523(a)(2)(A). This element is also satisfied.

d. The First State Court Judgment is Final and on the Merits

The First State Court Judgment is final because it was entered on March 7, 2013. On November 13, 2014, Mr. Loghmani's appeal of the First State Court Judgment was dismissed as untimely. On January 29, 2015, the attorney's fees award in the First State Court Action was affirmed on appeal. The First State Court Judgment was also on the merits, as evidenced by the findings of the jury. (RJN, Exh. 1.) This element is satisfied.

e. The Parties to this Proceeding are the Same as the Parties from the First State Court Action

The parties to this proceeding are identical to the parties from the state court action. Plaintiff was the plaintiff in the First State Court Action, and Mr. Loghmani was one of the defendants in the First State Court Action. As such, this element is also satisfied.

2. The Second State Court Judgment

Plaintiff has not met its burden of proving that it is entitled to summary judgment on its § 523(a)(2)(A) claim based on the Second State Court Judgment.

In the Second State Court Judgment, the state court entered judgment against Defendants on its claims for intentional fraudulent transfer and constructive fraudulent transfer. Plaintiff argues that the Second State Court Judgment has preclusive effect as to its § 523(a)(2)(A) claim against Defendants.

In support of its position, Plaintiff relies on McClellan v. Cantrell, 217 F.3d 890 (7th Cir. 2000), which holds that "actual fraud" need not be based on a misrepresentation, but could be based on a fraudulent transfer of property. In McClellan, a creditor sold his business assets to a debtor's brother for $200,000. The creditor retained a security interest in the assets. The brother defaulted, owing the creditor more than $100,000. The creditor sued the brother in state court, seeking an injunction against transferring the assets. While the state court action was pending, the brother "sold" the machinery to his sister for $10. The complaint alleged that the sister knew about the lawsuit and knew that she was colluding with her brother to thwart the creditor's collection of the debt. The sister then sold the machinery for $160,000. The creditor added the sister as a defendant in the state court action, and the sister subsequently filed a chapter 7 petition. The creditor filed an adversary proceeding, seeking nondischargeability of the debt pursuant to § 523(a)(2)(A). The bankruptcy court dismissed the adversary proceeding on the grounds that the debt was dischargeable. Id. at 892. The Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals reversed, finding that the debt at issue was the debt owed by the sister to the creditor if she committed a fraud against him. If she was an active participant in the scheme against the creditor, the sister had committed actual fraud, and the resulting debt that arose was not dischargeable in her bankruptcy case. Id. at 895.

The Supreme Court has also held that "[t]he term 'actual fraud' in § 523(a)(2)(A) encompasses forms of fraud, like fraudulent conveyance schemes, that can be effected without a false representation." Husky Int'l Elecs., Inc. v. Ritz, — U.S. —, 136 S.Ct. 1581, 1586, 194 L.Ed.2d 655 (2016). In Husky, Husky International Electronics, Inc. ("Husky") sold products to Chrysalis Manufacturing Corp. ("Chrysalis"), and Chrysalis incurred a debt of $163,99.38. Daniel Ritz was a director of Chrysalis. Between 2006 and 2007, Mr. Ritz drained Chrysalis of assets that it could have used to pay its creditors and transferred such monies to other entities he controlled. Husky sued Mr. Ritz to hold him personally responsible for the Chrysalis debt. Mr. Ritz filed a chapter 7 petition, and Husky filed an adversary proceeding against Mr. Ritz to hold the Chrysalis debt nondischargeable under § 523(a)(2)(A). Although the lower courts found the debt to be dischargeable because Mr. Ritz did not make an actual misrepresentation to Husky, the Supreme Court reversed. Under certain circumstances, a fraudulent transfer could give rise to a nondischargeability determination under § 523(a)(2)(A):

It is of course true that the transferor does not "obtai[n]" debts in a fraudulent conveyance. But the recipient of the transfer—who, with the requisite intent, also commits fraud—can "obtai[n]" assets "by" his or her participation in the fraud. See, e.g., McClellan v. Cantrell, 217 F.3d 890 (C.A.7 2000); see also supra, at 1587 – 1588. If that recipient later files for bankruptcy, any debts "traceable to" the fraudulent conveyance, see Field, 516 U.S., at 61, 116 S.Ct.

437; post, at 1591, will be nondischarg[e]able under § 523(a)(2)(A). Thus, at least sometimes a debt "obtained by" a fraudulent conveyance scheme could be nondischargeable under § 523(a)(2)(A). Such circumstances may be rare because a person who receives fraudulently conveyed assets is not necessarily (or even likely to be) a debtor on the verge of bankruptcy, but they make clear that fraudulent conveyances are not wholly incompatible with the "obtained by" requirement.

Husky, 136 S. Ct. at 1589.

Plaintiff's reliance on McClellan is unavailing. In McClellan, the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the bankruptcy court's dismissal of an adversary complaint. Although there was no misrepresentation, the facts of the fraudulent transfer at issue were sufficient to state a claim for actual fraud under § 523(a)(2)(A). In so holding, the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals noted that § 523(a)(2)(A) was confined to actual fraud and excluded constructive fraud. McClellan, 217 F.3d at 894.

In Hunt v. Spencer (In re Spencer), Case No. 16-02175-JMC-7, 2017 WL 745592 (Bankr. S.D. Ind. Feb. 24, 2017), the plaintiff argued that a state court judgment of conversion constituted "actual fraud" that would be nondischargeable under § 523(a)(2)(A). The plaintiff relied on McClellan and Schroeder v. Busick (In re Busick), 264 B.R. 518 (Bankr. N.D. Ind. 2001) (granting summary judgment and holding that a state court's express finding of home improvement fraud had issue preclusive effect as to plaintiff's § 523(a)(2)(A) claim). The court denied the plaintiff's motion for summary judgment because, unlike the state court judgment in Busick, the state court judgment at issue made no express findings of fraud. Spencer, 2017 WL 745592, at *2.

Here, as in Spencer, the Second State Court Judgment contains no express findings of "actual fraud" that could be construed as having issue preclusive effect as to Plaintiff's § 523(a)(2)(A) claim. The state court stated that Plaintiff did not "prove by clear and convincing evidence that [Mr. Loghmani] is guilty of fraud, malice, and/or oppression [.]" because "[n]o evidence [was] presented." (RJN, Exh. 6, at p. 4.) In addition, the state court was silent as to whether Ms. Loghmani was guilty of fraud, malice, and/or oppression. As such, McClellan is inapplicable to the Second State Court Judgment.

Plaintiff has not met its burden of proving that it is entitled to summary judgment on its § 523(a)(2)(A) claim as to the transfer of the San Bernardino Land, based on the Third State Court Action and the 727 Judgment.

The Third State Court Action is still pending and Plaintiff has not introduced evidence of any order or ruling in the Third State Court Action regarding the San Bernardino Transfer. As such, Plaintiff has not established the preclusive effect of any issues decided in the Third State Court Action.

As for the issues decided in the UST Adversary Proceeding, such issues are not identical to the Plaintiff's claim under § 523(a)(2)(A). In the UST Adversary Proceeding, the Court found that Mr. Loghmani made the San Bernardino Transfer within one year of the petition date with the intent to hinder, delay, or defraud Plaintiff, and that Mr. Loghmani failed to disclose such transfer in his schedules. Such conduct warranted denial of Mr. Loghmani's discharge under §§ 727(a)(2)(A) and (a)(4). However, these issues addressed by those denial of discharge statutes are different from the issues arising under § 523(a)(2)(A), which concerns the nondischargeability of specific debts "obtained by . . . false pretenses, a false representation, or actual fraud."

Plaintiff has not met its burden of proving that it is entitled to summary judgment on its claim under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6) based on the State Court Actions and the 727 Judgment. [FN2]

Plaintiff argues that Mr. Loghmani's "tortious conduct" addressed in the First State Court Judgment is grounds for nondischargeability under § 523(a)(6) for "willful and malicious injury." A finding of fraud, by itself, is insufficient for purposes of § 523(a)(6). Although a finding of fraud requires a finding that a defendant possessed intent to deceive, it does not require a finding that a defendant's conduct was willful, as that term is defined above, or malicious. As such, the findings regarding fraud are not identical to the intent elements required for § 523(a)(6).

The First State Court Judgment is silent as to whether Mr. Loghmani's conduct was "willful" or "malicious" as required under § 523(a)(6). The First State Court Judgment also stated that the jury did not find by clear and convincing evidence that Mr. Loghmani "engaged in [his] conduct with malice, oppression, or fraud." (RJN, Exh. 1, at p. 18.)

Similarly, the Second State Court Judgment is silent as to whether Defendants' conduct was "willful" or "malicious" as required under § 523(a)(6). The Second State Court Judgment also stated that Plaintiff did not "prove by clear and convincing evidence that [Mr. Loghmani] is guilty of fraud, malice, and/or oppression[.]" because "[n]o evidence [was] presented." (RJN, Exh. 6, at p. 4.) The Second State Court Judgment is silent as to whether Ms. Loghmani was guilty of fraud, malice, and/or oppression.

As for the Third State Court Action, there does not appear to be any evidence of any ruling or judgment yet from the state court. Accordingly, the Court cannot apply issue preclusion based on the Third State Court Action.

The 727 Judgment also does not contain the required findings as to "willful" or "malicious" conduct required under § 523(a)(6). The 727 Judgment stated that "Mr. Loghmani, with the intent to hinder, delay, or defraud a creditor and/or the Trustee, transferred property of the debtor . . . within one year before the date of the filing of the petition in violation of 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(2)(A)." Although such conduct may have been the grounds for denial of discharge under § 727(a)(2)(A) in the Prior Bankruptcy Case, such findings are insufficient for a determination that the San Bernardino Transfer was willful and malicious conduct under § 523(a)(6).

Accordingly, the Court will deny summary judgment on Plaintiff's claim under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6).

D. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(10)

Plaintiff has met its burden of proving that it is entitled to summary judgment on its 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(10) claim based on the Prepetition State Court Actions and the 727 Judgment.

On October 26, 2009, Plaintiff filed the First State Court Action against Mr. Loghmani and other defendants. On October 28, 2011, Plaintiff filed and the Second State Court Action against Defendants and other defendants. On March 29, 2012, Mr. Loghmani filed the Prior Bankruptcy Case, listing the Prepetition State Court Actions in his SOFA.

On November 30, 2012, the UST filed the UST Adversary Proceeding against Mr. Loghmani. On January 7, 2014, this Court entered the 727 Judgment. Because Mr. Loghmani listed the debts arising from the Prepetition State Court Actions in his schedules in the Prior Bankruptcy Case, the 727 Judgment denied Mr. Loghmani's discharge as to all debts, including the Prepetition State Court Actions. Therefore, the debts arising from the Prepetition State Court Actions are nondischargeable in this case pursuant to § 523(a)(10).

Accordingly, Plaintiff is entitled to summary judgment on its claim for relief under § 523(a)(10) as to Mr. Loghmani.

IV. CONCLUSION

The Court will enter judgment in favor of Plaintiff as follows:

- Judgment for Plaintiff on Plaintiff's claim under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A) based on the First State Court Judgment as to Mr. Loghmani;
- Judgment for Plaintiff on Plaintiff's claim under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(10) as to Mr. Loghmani.

The Court will not enter judgment as to Plaintiff's remaining claims under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A) or on Plaintiff's claim under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6).

Plaintiff must submit a proposed judgment within seven (7) days.

Footnotes

1. On October 31, 2012, Plaintiff removed the Second State Court Action to this Court, commencing adversary proceeding no. 1:12-ap-01386-VK against Mr. Loghmani. On May 3, 2013, the Court entered an order remanding the Second State Court Action [adv. no. 1:12-ap-01386-VK, doc. 6.].

Except in circumstances not relevant to this chapter 7 case, "the court shall not allow compensation for—(i) unnecessary duplication of services; or (ii) services that were not—(I) reasonably likely to benefit the debtor's estate; or (II) necessary to the administration of the case." 11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(4)(A).

11 U.S.C. § 328(b) provides that an attorney may not receive compensation for the performance of any trustee's duties that are generally performed by a trustee without the assistance of an attorney. In re Garcia, 335 B.R. 717, 725 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2005) (holding that bankruptcy court did not abuse its discretion in refusing to compensate chapter 7 trustee's counsel for services rendered in connection with the sale of property of the estate and for preparing routine employment applications).

In Garcia, the Ninth Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel (the "BAP") upheld the bankruptcy court's refusal to approve fees for the following services performed by the trustee's counsel with respect to the debtors' real property: "negotiating with the debtors' attorney regarding the sale of the equity to the debtors; [and] reviewing the title report." Garcia, 335 B.R. at 726.

With respect to its holding, the BAP explained that "a case trustee may only employ professionals for tasks that require special expertise beyond that expected of an ordinary trustee. Routine negotiations regarding the sale of real property are properly within the trustee's province. . . . Employment of counsel to assist in the sale did not give counsel a free rein to step into the trustee's shoes and undertake efforts statutorily assigned to the trustee." Id. at 727.

Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 2016-2(e)(2) provides a "nonexclusive list of services that the court deems 'trustee services.'" This list includes, among other activities: conduct 11 U.S.C. § 341(a) examination; routine investigation regarding location and status of assets; turnover or inspection of documents; recruit and contract appraisers, brokers, and professionals; routine collection of accounts receivable; routine documentation of notice of abandonment; prepare motions to abandon or destroy books and records; routine claims review and objection; monitor litigation; answer routine creditor correspondence and phone calls; review and comment on professional fee applications; and additional routine work necessary for administration of the estate.

In Garcia, the BAP upheld the bankruptcy court's refusal to approve fees for preparation of employment applications, observing that "absent a showing by applicant to the contrary, routine employment applications remain a trustee duty." Garcia, 335 B.R. at 726. With respect to its holding, the BAP explained "a case trustee may only employ professionals for tasks that require special expertise beyond that expected of an ordinary trustee." Id. at 727.

In accordance with Garcia and LBR 2016-2(f), the Court does not approve the fees billed for the services identified below. It appears that these fees are for services that are duplicative of those that could and should be performed by the chapter 7 trustee, as a trustee.

#10.00 Debtor's motion to reconsider order granting motion amend filed by U.S. Trustee pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure

Docket 31

Tentative Ruling:

The Court will deny the debtor's motion for reconsideration.

I. Background

On November 15, 2017, the debtor filed this bankruptcy petition, his sixth since 2009. Each of the debtor's prior cases was dismissed either for his failure to file his schedules or for his failure to make plan payments [doc. 15, pp. 3-4].

The debtor's November 15 filing included only the petition, statement of related cases, and mailing list. On November 15, the Court served the debtor with a Case Commencement Deficiency Notice and an Order to Comply with Bankruptcy Rule 1007 and Notice of Intent to Dismiss Case [doc. 6]. The order directed the debtor to file complete schedules on or before November 29, 2017. The debtor failed to file complete schedules. On December 4, 2017, the Court entered an order dismissing the debtor's case [doc. 10].

On December 15, 2017, the United States Trustee ("UST") filed a motion to amend the order dismissing this case to include a one-year bar to re-filing (the "Motion to Amend") based on the debtor's repeated, dismissed bankruptcy cases [doc. 12]. On December 28, 2017, the debtor filed an opposition to the Motion to Amend, stating that he is unable to pay attorney's fees and was unable to timely file his schedules due to "medical conditions" [doc. 23, p. 2]. On December 29, 2017, the UST filed a reply to the debtor's opposition, citing apparent inaccuracies in the debtor's November 15 petition, including a statement that he had not filed a bankruptcy case in the past 8 years [doc. 24].

Prior to the hearing on the Motion to Amend on January 18, 2017, the Court issued a tentative ruling discussing the UST's request under 11 U.S.C. § 707(b)(3).

Chapter 7

The Court stated that the debtor's noncompliance with 11 U.S.C. § 707(a), history of filings and dismissals and apparent inaccuracies in his schedules persuaded it that dismissal with a 180 day bar pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 109(g) was appropriate. The Court specifically cautioned the debtor:

if the debtor does not appear for cross-examination, or the Court determines after the debtor's cross-examination that the debtor did not file this case in good faith, the Court will grant the motion to amend the dismissal order to include a 180-day bar to refiling.

Unless the debtor provides a reasonable explanation of his conduct, the Court is inclined to dismiss this case with a 180-day bar. 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a), 109 (g).

The debtor did not appear at the hearing, despite the Court's warning. On January 25, 2018, the Court issued an order granting the UST's Motion to Amend [doc. 28]. The debtor's motion for reconsideration [doc. 31], seeks relief from that order.

The debtor's motion for reconsideration states that the Court dismissed his case due to his "mistake, inadvertence and excusable neglect" [doc 31, p. 3]. However, the debtor does not explain the circumstances of his mistake, inadvertence and excusable neglect, and only states that he filed without an attorney and was working to find an attorney at the time the case was dismissed.

II. Discussion

The debtor correctly identifies the standard for reconsideration and excusable neglect in this Circuit. Motions for reconsideration are governed by Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 60(b), which provides that "[o]n motion and just terms, the court may relieve a party its legal representative from a final judgment, order, or proceeding for the following reasons: (1) mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect."

Because Congress has provided no other guideposts for determining what sorts of neglect will be considered "excusable," we conclude that the determination is at bottom an equitable one, taking account of all relevant circumstances surrounding the party's omission. These include . . . [1] the danger of prejudice to the [Debtor], [2] the length of the delay and its potential impact on judicial proceedings, [3] the reason for the delay, including whether it was within the reasonable control of the movant, and [4] whether the movant acted in good faith.

Pioneer Inv. Servs. Co., 507 U.S. 380, 395 (1993). The debtor argues that all of the factors from Pioneer should be resolved in his favor, but this Court finds that the factors weigh against revising the Court's decision to include the 180-day bar, as follows:

Prejudice to the Debtor: The debtor correctly states that denying the pending motion would be prejudicial to him because he will be barred from filing another bankruptcy petition for 180 days. Consequently, this factor weighs in favor of the Court reconsidering the Order.

Length of Delay and its Potential Impact: The debtor brought the motion within a reasonable time after the Court entered the Order. The delay in filing is not an issue here.

However, in order to be present for cross-examination by the UST, the debtor was ordered to appear at the hearing on January 18, 2018. The debtor had an opportunity to explain his opposition to the Motion to Amend to the Court. The debtor chose not to attend the hearing. The debtor has provided no additional evidence in the Motion to explain why the debtor was not at the hearing.

Additionally, if the Court vacates the Motion to Amend, the debtor would be able to file a bankruptcy petition earlier than 180 days. The debtor has had five prior bankruptcy filings, three within the last three years. This behavior suggests that the debtor will continue to fail to prosecute any future bankruptcy case he may file.

Reason for the Delay: As stated above, the debtor did not cause any significant delay in filing the motion. However, the debtor's failure to appear at the hearing caused delay in the resolution of the Motion to Amend.

The debtor does not explain why he did not attend the January 18, 2018, hearing when the Court's tentative ruling instructed him to attend. Based on the tentative ruling, the debtor was aware that the Court's decision regarding the Motion to Amend would likely depend on his appearance at the hearing. The debtor had the opportunity to present more evidence in support of his position at the hearing and chose not to attend. Now, the debtor would like another bite at the apple, but has not explained what "mistake, surprise, inadvertence or excusable neglect" prevented him from appearing at the hearing. The debtor failed to meet his burden on this factor.

Whether Movant Acted in Good Faith: According to the debtor, he is acting in good faith to reorganize his finances. However, the debtor's five prior incomplete filings or chapter 13 cases that were dismissed for failure to make plan payments suggest otherwise. Furthermore, the debtor's failure to attend a hearing contrary to the Court's instructions causes further delay and suggests that he is not committed to proper prosecution of a bankruptcy case.

The debtor presented no new evidence or explanation in the motion that is relevant to the Court's decision to grant the Motion to Amend. The debtor's conduct, history of filings and failure to explain himself in the motion suggest that he is not fully committed to prosecuting a bankruptcy case, and therefore the debtor must be engaging in these activities willfully in order to delay creditors. The "bad faith" factor weighs against granting the motion.

III. Conclusion

For the reasons stated above, the Court will deny the motion for reconsideration. The UST must submit the order within seven (7) days.

I. BACKGROUND

Between the years 2009 and 2015, Mitchell S. Cohen (the “Debtor”) filed five prior bankruptcy cases that were subsequently dismissed.

A. First Bankruptcy Case

On November 2, 2009, the Debtor filed case no. 1:09-bk-24597-VK (the “First Bankruptcy Case”). On April 26, 2010, the Court entered an order confirming the Debtor’s first amended chapter 13 plan [case no. 1:09-bk-24597-VK, doc. 33]. On August 20, 2010, the chapter 13 trustee (the “Trustee”) filed a motion to dismiss the First Bankruptcy Case after the Debtor failed to make the required plan payments [case no. 1:09-bk-24597-VK, doc. 38]. On August 25, 2010, OneWest Bank, FSB (“OneWest Bank”) filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay as to the real property located at 12435 Kagel Canyon Rd., Sylmar, California 91342 (the “Property”), after the Debtor failed to make postpetition payments to OneWest Bank [case no. 1:09-bk-24597-VK, doc. 39]. On September 21, 2010, the Court entered an order dismissing the First Bankruptcy Case [case no. 1:09-bk-24597-VK , doc. 43]. On September 22, 2010, the Court entered an order granting OneWest Bank relief from the automatic stay as to the Property [case no. 1:09-bk-24597-VK, doc. 42].

On September 23, 2010, two days after the First Bankruptcy Case was dismissed, the Debtor filed case no. 1:10-bk-22001-VK (the “Second Bankruptcy Case”). On February 8, 2011, the Court entered an order confirming the Debtor’s first amended chapter 13 plan [case no. 1:10-bk-22001-VK, doc. 33]. On January 18, 2012, the Court entered an order dismissing the Second Bankruptcy Case after the Debtor failed to make his plan payments [case no. 1:10-bk-22001-VK, doc. 57].

C. Third Bankruptcy Case

On January 19, 2012, one day after the Second Bankruptcy Case was dismissed, the Debtor filed case no. 1:12-bk-10560-VK (the “Third Bankruptcy Case”). On September 26, 2012, the Court entered an order confirming the Debtor’s first amended chapter 13 plan [case no. 1:12-bk-10560-VK, doc. 44]. On November 14, 2013, the Court entered an order dismissing the Third Bankruptcy Case after the Debtor failed to make plan payments [case no. 1:12-bk-10560-VK, doc. 95].

D. Fourth Bankruptcy Case

On November 19, 2013, five days after the Third Bankruptcy Case was dismissed, the Debtor filed case no. 1:13-bk-17300-MB (the “Fourth Bankruptcy Case”). On September 29, 2014, OneWest Bank N.A. (the successor to OneWest Bank, FSB) filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay as to the Property after the Debtor failed to make postpetition payments to OneWest Bank N.A. [case no. 1:13-bk-17300-MB, doc. 67]. On October 20, 2014, the Court entered an order granting the motion for relief from the automatic stay as settled by stipulation [case no. 1:13-bk-17300-MB, doc. 72]. On February 17, 2015, the Court entered an order confirming the Debtor’s third amended chapter 13 plan [case no. 1:13-bk-17300-MB, doc. 91]. On September 4, 2015, the Court entered an order dismissing the Fourth Bankruptcy Case after the Debtor failed to make plan payments [case no. 1:13-bk-17300-MB, doc. 111].

1. CIT Bank's Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay

On December 16, 2015, CIT Bank, N.A. ("CIT Bank," the successor in interest to OneWest Bank N.A.) filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay after the Debtor failed to make postpetition payments to CIT Bank [case no. 1:15-bk-13714-VK, doc. 21]. On January 5, 2016, the Court entered an order granting the motion for relief from the automatic stay as settled by stipulation [case no. 1:15-bk-13714-VK, doc. 26]. On June 24, 2016, the Court entered an order confirming the Debtor's first amended chapter 13 plan [case no. 1:15-bk-13714-VK, doc. 71]. Under the first amended plan, the Debtor was to pay $500.00 per month for the first 12 months, then $2,159 per month for months 13 through 60. (Case no. 1:15-bk-13714-VK, doc. 65, at p. 2.)

2. CIT Bank's Default Declaration

On October 26, 2017, after the Debtor failed to make postpetition payments pursuant to Court order, CIT Bank filed a declaration of default (the "Default Declaration") [case no. 1:15-bk-13714-VK, doc. 97]. On November 3, 2017, the Debtor filed an opposition to the Default Declaration, stating that he had cured the default [case no. 1:15-bk-13714-VK, doc. 99]. On November 4, 2017, the Court entered an order setting a hearing on the Default Declaration [case no. 1:15-bk-13714-VK, doc. 109]. At the hearing on December 20, 2017, the Court continued the matter to January 17, 2018 to allow the parties to review whether the Debtor was current on his payments to CIT Bank.

3. The Chapter 13 Trustee's Motion to Dismiss

On May 9, 2017, the chapter 13 trustee (the "Trustee") filed a motion to dismiss the Fifth Bankruptcy Case because of the Debtor's failure to make plan payments in the total amount of $9,374 (the "Motion to Dismiss") [doc. 87]. On May 16, 2017, the Debtor filed an opposition to the Motion to Dismiss [doc. 88], in which he stated he would bring the receipts of his payments to CIT Bank to the hearing and/or file a motion to modify his plan. The hearing on the Motion to Dismiss was continued several times. At the August 8, 2017 hearing on the Motion to Dismiss, the Trustee stated that the Debtor's plan delinquency had increased to $12,351, but that the Debtor had paid the Trustee $6,000 on that day. At the November 7, 2017 hearing, the Trustee stated that the Debtor's plan delinquency was $12,828, but the Debtor

On January 10, 2018—before the continued hearing on the Default Declaration—the Court entered an order dismissing the Fifth Bankruptcy Case [case no. 1:15-bk-13714-VK, doc. 110].

F. The Pending Bankruptcy Case and Motion to Continue Stay

On February 1, 2018, the Debtor filed the pending case. In his schedules, the Debtor lists monthly income of $7,040 and monthly expenses of $6,539.02, leaving net monthly income of $500.98. (Doc. 12, at p. 30.) In his chapter 13 plan (the "Plan"), the Debtor proposes a $500 monthly payment for the first twelve months, followed by a step-up payment of $2,899.32 for months 13 through 60. (Doc. 15, at p. 2.)

On February 2, 2018, the Debtor filed a Motion for Order Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic Stay (the "Motion to Continue Stay") [doc. 6]. In support of the Motion to Continue Stay, the Debtor states that during the Fifth Bankruptcy Case, he was injured in a serious car accident and had his driver's license temporarily suspended. As a result, the Debtor was unable to work and fell behind on his plan payments. (Declaration of Mitchell S. Cohen, doc. 6, ¶ 2.) Since then, the Debtor was cleared to drive again and he was contracted for three major projects that will keep him employed throughout the year and provide sufficient, stable income to fund the Plan. (Id., at ¶ 3.)

On February 14, 2018, CIT Bank filed an opposition to the Motion to Continue Stay [doc. 17]. CIT Bank argues that the Debtor's case was filed in bad faith and is the latest in a series of cases impeding CIT Bank's efforts to obtain possession of the Property. According to CIT Bank, the Debtor has not provided sufficient evidence of good faith, or evidence that he can afford to pay the step-up payments after the initial 12 months of the Plan.

The Fifth Bankruptcy Case was dismissed on January 10, 2018. The Debtor filed his pending bankruptcy case on February 1, 2018. Pursuant to § 362(c)(3)(C)(i)(II)(cc), there is a presumption that the Debtor's pending bankruptcy case was not filed in good faith as to all creditors, because the Debtor's Fifth Bankruptcy Case was dismissed for failure to perform the terms of his confirmed plan. In addition, pursuant to § 362(c)(3)(C)(ii), there is a presumption that the Debtor's pending bankruptcy case was not filed in good faith as to CIT Bank, because in the Fifth Bankruptcy Case, CIT Bank had filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay that was resolved by stipulation.

In support of the Motion to Continue Stay, the Debtor has provided some evidence of an improvement in his financial situation since the dismissal of the Fifth Bankruptcy Case. The Debtor's driver's license was reinstated and the Debtor appears to have steady employment and sufficient income to pay his Plan payments for the next twelve

However, the Debtor has not provided clear and convincing evidence to rebut the presumption that the pending bankruptcy case was filed in bad faith. Since 2009, the Debtor has not been able to perform under the terms of his prior confirmed chapter 13 plans. CIT Bank and its predecessors have filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay as to the Property in three different bankruptcy cases filed by the Debtor. In the Fifth Bankruptcy Case, the Debtor defaulted under the terms of the stipulation resolving CIT's motion for relief from the automatic stay.

In addition, in the Fifth Bankruptcy Case, the Court confirmed a step-up plan where the Debtor was to pay $500 per month for the first 12 months, then $2,159 per month for months 13 through 60. When the Fifth Bankruptcy Case was dismissed, the Debtor had a plan delinquency in the amount of $14,146. As CIT Bank notes, the Debtor has not shown by clear and convincing evidence that he will be able to afford the $2,899.32 monthly payment for months 13 through 60 under the present Plan.

III. CONCLUSION

In light of the foregoing, the Court will deny the Motion to Continue Stay.

CIT Bank must submit the order within seven (7) days.

I. BACKGROUND

On July 12, 2013, Marilyn S. Scheer ("Plaintiff") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On November 1, 2013, Plaintiff filed a complaint against the State Bar of California (the "State Bar"), Luis J. Rodriguez, Joseph Dunn, Joanna Remke and Kenneth E. Bacon ("Defendants"), alleging violation of the automatic stay and the discharge injunction under 11 U.S.C. §§ 362 and 524 and discriminatory treatment under § 525 (a).

On November 28, 2016, Plaintiff filed the first amended complaint (the "FAC") [doc. 95]. This time, Plaintiff named only the State Bar, Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon. In relevant part, the FAC alleges:

The State Bar's refusal to lift Plaintiff's involuntary inactive enrollment was a violation of the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362 and constituted discriminatory treatment under 11 U.S.C. § 525.

Plaintiff requests damages for her loss of livelihood from July 12, 2013 through July 16, 2014. Plaintiff also requests costs of suit, including attorneys' fees, interest and other relief as the Court deems appropriate.

On December 19, 2016, Defendants filed a motion to dismiss the FAC (the "Motion to Dismiss") [doc. 96]. In the Motion to Dismiss, Defendants asserted that: (A) the FAC does not include sufficient allegations as to Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon; (B) Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon are immune based on quasi-judicial immunity; (C) Plaintiff has not alleged that she suffered an injury or damages; and (D) the FAC does not make sufficient allegations regarding Plaintiff's request for punitive damages against Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon.

On April 19, 2017, the Court issued a ruling on the Motion to Dismiss (the "Ruling") [doc. 118]. In the Ruling, the Court dismissed Mr. Bacon on the basis that Mr. Bacon is immune, also finding that Plaintiff's reference to a State Bar's Arbitration Advisory (the "Advisory") regarding immunity was irrelevant to the Court's decision because "the Court is not bound by publications by the State Bar" and the Advisory discussed pending arbitrations, not enforcement of existing arbitration awards. The Court also dismissed Mr. Dunn on the basis that Plaintiff had not sufficiently stated a claim against Mr. Dunn. Further, the Court ruled that Plaintiff could not take discovery on issues of immunity. Finally, the Court denied the Motion to Dismiss as to the State Bar.

On May 8, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the Motion to Dismiss [doc. 124]. On April 26, 2017, the Court entered a scheduling order [doc. 122], setting August 30, 2017 as the deadline by which to complete discovery.

On May 10, 2017, the State Bar filed an answer to the FAC (the "Answer") [doc. 125]. In the Answer, the State Bar denied all relevant allegations in the FAC and asserted six affirmative defenses: (A) failure to state a claim; (B) Plaintiff's damages were caused in whole or in part by Plaintiff's own actions; (C) Plaintiff's damages were caused in whole or in part by third parties; (D) failure to mitigate losses; (E) the State Bar was not the cause of any losses alleged by Plaintiff; and (F) the Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction.

On August 4, 2017, the State Bar and Plaintiff filed a joint stipulation to extend deadlines [doc. 133]. On August 8, 2017, the Court entered an order approving the joint stipulation (the "Order Extending Deadlines") [doc. 135]. In the Order Extending Deadlines, the Court set the following dates and deadlines: (A) December 15, 2017 as the discovery cutoff date; (B) January 11, 2018 as the deadline to file pretrial motions; (C) January 31, 2018 as the deadline to file a joint pretrial stipulation; and (D) February 14, 2018 as the pretrial conference date.

On July 28, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion to compel the State Bar to provide interrogatory responses (the "First Motion to Compel") [doc. 130]. On August 21, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion for a protective order, asking the Court to strike certain deposition categories (the "First Motion for Protective Order") [doc. 140]. On September 13, 2017, the Court held a hearing on the First Motion to Compel and the First Motion for Protective Order. At that time, the Court issued rulings setting forth which deposition categories were appropriate and the interrogatories to which the State Bar had to respond [docs. 152, 153]. In both rulings, the Court held that the Advisory is irrelevant to the issues in this adversary proceeding, and that Plaintiff may not depose the State Bar regarding the Advisory or compel the State Bar to respond to interrogatories about the Advisory. On September 18, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the First Motion to Compel [doc. 155]. On October 6, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the First Motion for Protective Order [doc. 165].

On September 20, 2017, the parties appeared for a status conference. On September 28, 2017, in light of the parties' contentions at the status conference, the Court entered an order regarding the parties' depositions of each other and providing a deadline for the parties to exchange initial disclosures pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26 (the "Deposition Order") [doc. 165]. In the Deposition Order, the Court set October 10, 2017 as the date each party would depose the other. The Deposition Order provided that the Plaintiff's deposition should be first, followed by the State Bar's deposition, "which shall be continued from day to day, excluding holidays and weekends until completed."

The Deposition Order also stated that Suzanne Grandt is the only attorney allowed to conduct the deposition of Plaintiff, and that Ms. Grandt will be Plaintiff's sole contact person at the State Bar throughout the course of this litigation. The Court set a deadline of October 2, 2017 for the parties to make their initial disclosures.

On November 7, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to extend the deadlines provided in the Order Extending Deadlines (the "State Bar's Motion to Extend") [doc. 172].

Plaintiff did not oppose the State Bar's Motion to Extend. On December 11, 2017, the State Bar voluntarily dismissed the State Bar's Motion to Extend [doc. 187]. On December 14, 2017, Plaintiff filed her own motion to extend deadlines ("Plaintiff's Motion to Extend") [doc. 192].

In the meanwhile, both parties filed several discovery related motions. On November 22, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for an order requiring the State Bar to comply with Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 30(b)(6) by designating a knowledgeable person and allowing an amendment to Plaintiff's deposition topics ("Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance") [doc. 176]. Plaintiff is asking the Court to order the State bar to produce a knowledgeable witness. On December 14, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to strike Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance (the "Motion to Strike") [doc. 189], asking the Court to strike Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance on the basis that Plaintiff did not enter into a joint stipulation with the State Bar in accordance with Local Bankruptcy Rule 7026-1(c).

On December 7, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to compel the continued deposition of Plaintiff (the "State Bar's Motion to Compel") [doc. 181], asserting that Plaintiff refused to answer questions regarding her law practice. On December 15, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for a protective order requesting the Court prohibit the State Bar from questioning Plaintiff about her law practice (the "Motion for Deposition Order") [doc. 194].

On December 27, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for leave to join additional defendants to this action (the "Motion to Join") [doc. 205]. On January 4, 2018, Plaintiff filed a motion for a protective order requesting the Court seal Plaintiff's medical records and tax returns (the "Motion for Records Order") [doc. 209].

On January 11, 2018, the State Bar filed seven motions in limine (the "Motions in Limine") [doc. 213], asking the Court to prevent Plaintiff from introducing evidence of damages at trial. Plaintiff opposes the Motions in Limine [doc. 233]. Finally, on January 17, 2018, the State Bar filed another protective order (the "Motion for Global Protective Order") [doc. 225], requesting a global protective order to govern this adversary proceeding. On January 24, 2018, Plaintiff filed a response to the Motion for Global Protective Order [doc. 244].

Chapter 7

II. ANALYSIS

A. Rule 20

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 20(a), applicable to this adversary proceeding through Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 7020—

(a) Persons Who May Join or Be Joined.

(2) Defendants. Persons--as well as a vessel, cargo, or other property subject to admiralty process in rem--may be joined in one action as defendants if:

(A) any right to relief is asserted against them jointly, severally, or in the alternative with respect to or arising out of the same transaction, occurrence, or series of transactions or occurrences; and

(B) any question of law or fact common to all defendants will arise in the action.

"Rule 20 is designed to promote judicial economy, and reduce inconvenience, delay, and added expense ." Coughlin v. Rogers, 130 F.3d 1348, 1351 (9th Cir. 1997). Courts construe the requirements of Rule 20 liberally to promote trial convenience and to expedite determination of disputes. See United Mine Workers of America v. Gibbs, 383 U.S. 715, 724, 86 S.Ct. 1130, 1138, 16 L.Ed.2d 218 (1966) ("Under the Rules, the impulse is toward entertaining the broadest possible scope of action consistent with fairness to the parties; joinder of claims, parties and remedies is strongly encouraged.").

Here, both conditions to joinder are met. First, the proposed second amended complaint is requesting relief against all defendants jointly and severally, and Plaintiff's alleged right to relief from the defendants arises out of the same occurrence, namely, the refusal to lift Plaintiff's involuntary inactive enrollment. In addition, any question of law or fact common to all defendants will arise in this adversary proceeding. As such, joining the additional defendants named by Plaintiff is appropriate.

The State Bar does not oppose joinder pursuant to Rule 20. Rather, the State Bar asserts that Plaintiff cannot amend the FAC on account of Rule 16(b)(4), which states that "[a] schedule may be modified only for good cause and with the judge's consent." Rule 16(b)(4) is inapplicable. The Court did not enter a scheduling order providing a deadline by which Plaintiff may amend the FAC or join parties. In addition, based on the Plaintiff's pending motion to extend dates and deadlines, the Court will be modifying the current scheduling order.

The Rule controlling amendments to complaints is Rule 15. Pursuant to Rule 15(a), applicable to this adversary proceeding through Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 7015—

(1) Amending as a Matter of Course.

A party may amend its pleading once as a matter of course within:

(A) 21 days after serving it, or

(B) if the pleading is one to which a responsive pleading is required, 21 days after service of a responsive pleading or 21 days after service of a motion under Rule 12(b), (e), or (f), whichever is earlier.

(2) Other Amendments.

In all other cases, a party may amend its pleading only with the opposing party's written consent or the court's leave. The court should freely give leave when justice so requires.

Courts have the discretion to grant or deny leave to amend a complaint. Swanson v. U.S. Forest Serv., 87 F.3d 339, 343 (9th Cir. 1996). "In exercising this discretion, a court must be guided by the underlying purpose of Rule 15 to facilitate decision on the merits, rather than on the pleadings or technicalities." United States v. Webb, 655 F.2d 977, 979 (9th Cir. 1981). The factors courts commonly consider when determining whether to grant leave to amend are:

1. Bad faith;
2. Undue delay;
3. Prejudice to the opposing party; and
4. Futility of amendment.

Ditto v. McCurdy, 510 F.3d 1070, 1079 (9th Cir. 2007) (internal citations omitted).
Based on this standard, the Court will grant Plaintiff leave to amend the FAC.

1. Plaintiff is Not Acting in Bad Faith

"Bad faith in filing a motion for leave to amend exists when the addition of new legal theories are baseless and presented for the purpose of prolonging the litigation." Paz v. City of Aberdeen, 2013 WL 6163016, at *5 (W.D. Wash. Nov. 25, 2013).

The State Bar asserts that Plaintiff is acting in bad faith because the caption to the proposed second amended complaint includes Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon as defendants. However, it appears this is a mistake; Plaintiff does not include allegations against Mr. Dunn or Mr. Bacon in the proposed second amended complaint. Regarding the Plaintiff's allegations in the proposed second amended complaint regarding the defendants' legal arguments, as discussed below, the Court will strike these paragraphs from the proposed second amended complaint.

2. There is No Undue Delay

Here, Plaintiff notes that she learned the identities of the six new defendants after receiving the State Bar's responses to the first and second set of interrogatories. Plaintiff received these responses on October 10, 2017 and November 8, 2017, respectively. Plaintiff filed the Motion to Join approximately a month and a half later. As such, there was no undue delay in filing the Motion to Join. In addition, the Court is extending all deadlines in this adversary proceeding, including the discovery cutoff date. In light of this fact, allowing the amendment will not cause undue delay to the proceeding.

3. Prejudice to Opposing Party

Although granting the Motion to Join may result in additional filings, such as another motion to dismiss, the State Bar will not be significantly prejudiced by the delay because the Court is extending deadlines for the parties to complete discovery. The State Bar states that Plaintiff's amendment will not have any impact on the amount of damages. However, the amendment may have an impact regarding which parties are liable for the damages. The State Bar has not provided that it will be prejudiced in any other way.

4. *The Proposed Second Amended Complaint is Only Partially Futile

"A proposed amendment is futile only if no set of facts can be proved under the amendment to the pleadings that would constitute a valid and sufficient claim or defense." Paz, 2013 WL 6163016 at *5.

The State Bar asserts that the amendments are futile because: (A) the individual defendants have qualified immunity; and (B) Plaintiff has failed to state a claim for punitive damages.

Regarding the State Bar's assertion about qualified immunity, the Court cannot yet determine whether the individual defendants are immune. Government employees are entitled to qualified immunity "unless their conduct violates 'clearly established statutory or constitutional rights of which a reasonable person would have known.'" Jeffers v. Gomez, 267 F.3d 895, 910 (9th Cir. 2001) (quoting Harlow v. Fitzgerald, 457 U.S. 800, 818, 102 S.Ct. 2727, 2738, 73 L.Ed.2d 396 (1982)); see also Hirsh v. Justices of Supreme Court of State of Cal., 67 F.3d 708, 715 (9th Cir. 1995) (finding that employees of the State Bar of California are state agency officials); and Melek v. State Bar of California, 230 F.3d 1367 (9th Cir. 2000) (holding that a state bar employee is an official who may be entitled to qualified immunity). "Determining whether a public official is entitled to qualified immunity 'requires a two-part inquiry: (1) Was the law governing the state official's conduct clearly established? (2) Under that law could a reasonable state official have believed his conduct was lawful?'" Id. (quoting Browning v. Vernon, 44 F.3d 818, 822 (9th Cir. 1995)). Without additional briefing by the parties, the Court does not have enough information or legal authority at this time to ascertain whether the individual defendants' conduct was equivalent to the conduct of "reasonable state officials."

The Court also cannot determine at this time if the individual defendants are liable for damages. Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(k)(1), "an individual injured by any willful violation of a stay provided by this section shall recover actual damages, including costs and attorneys' fees, and, in appropriate circumstances, may recover punitive damages." A stay violation is willful 'if a party knew of the automatic stay, and its actions in violation of the stay were intentional.'" In re Stanwyck, 450 B.R. 181, 191-92 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2011) (quoting Eskanos & Adler, P.C. v. Leetien, 309 F.3d 1210, 1215 (9th Cir. 2002)). On the other hand, "[a]n award of punitive damages requires 'some showing of reckless or callous disregard for the law or rights of others.'" In re Snowden, 769 F.3d 651, 657 (9th Cir. 2014) (quoting In re Bloom, 875 F.2d 224, 228 (9th Cir. 1989)). Again, the Court does not have enough information to make the pertinent determination at this time.

The Court will, however, strike the portions of the proposed second amended complaint that request relief based on the defendants' legal arguments to the Court. Proposed Second Amended Complaint [doc. 205, Exhibit A], ¶¶ 41-43, 49-51 and ¶ 3 of pp. 16-17 as to the following language: "under Section 105, for their deliberate, willful and intentional actions to misrepresent [Plaintiff's] administrative suspension to the bankruptcy court as disciplinary, when it clearly was not, and they knew it was not." The Court will strike these paragraphs (or portions of paragraphs) because the Court has already ruled that Plaintiff's request for punitive damages or sanctions cannot be based on the defendants' legal arguments to this Court. Ruling, pp. 12-13.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will grant the Motion to Join and allow Plaintiff to file the proposed second amended complaint, with the following modifications: (A) Plaintiff must exclude Kenneth Bacon and Joseph Dunn from the caption; and (B) Plaintiff must delete the following paragraphs or portions of paragraphs: paragraphs 41-43, 49-51 and paragraph 3 of pages 16-17 as to the following language: "under Section 105, for their deliberate, willful and intentional actions to misrepresent [Plaintiff's] administrative suspension to the bankruptcy court as disciplinary, when it clearly was not, and they knew it was not."

Plaintiff must submit an order within seven (7) days.

I. BACKGROUND

On July 12, 2013, Marilyn S. Scheer ("Plaintiff") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On November 1, 2013, Plaintiff filed a complaint against the State Bar of California (the "State Bar"), Luis J. Rodriguez, Joseph Dunn, Joanna Remke and Kenneth E. Bacon ("Defendants"), alleging violation of the automatic stay and the discharge injunction under 11 U.S.C. §§ 362 and 524 and discriminatory treatment under § 525 (a).

On November 28, 2016, Plaintiff filed the first amended complaint (the "FAC") [doc. 95]. This time, Plaintiff named only the State Bar, Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon. In relevant part, the FAC alleges:

The State Bar's refusal to lift Plaintiff's involuntary inactive enrollment was a violation of the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362 and constituted discriminatory treatment under 11 U.S.C. § 525.

Plaintiff requests damages for her loss of livelihood from July 12, 2013 through July 16, 2014. Plaintiff also requests costs of suit, including attorneys' fees, interest and other relief as the Court deems appropriate.

On December 19, 2016, Defendants filed a motion to dismiss the FAC (the "Motion to Dismiss") [doc. 96]. In the Motion to Dismiss, Defendants asserted that: (A) the FAC does not include sufficient allegations as to Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon; (B) Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon are immune based on quasi-judicial immunity; (C) Plaintiff has not alleged that she suffered an injury or damages; and (D) the FAC does not make sufficient allegations regarding Plaintiff's request for punitive damages against Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon.

On April 19, 2017, the Court issued a ruling on the Motion to Dismiss (the "Ruling") [doc. 118]. In the Ruling, the Court dismissed Mr. Bacon on the basis that Mr. Bacon is immune. The Court also dismissed Mr. Dunn on the basis that Plaintiff had not sufficiently stated a claim against Mr. Dunn. The Court denied the Motion to Dismiss as to the State Bar.

On May 8, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the Motion to Dismiss [doc. 124]. On April 26, 2017, the Court entered a scheduling order [doc. 122], setting August 30, 2017 as the deadline by which to complete discovery. On May 10, 2017, the State Bar filed an answer to the FAC (the "Answer") [doc. 125].

On August 4, 2017, the State Bar and Plaintiff filed a joint stipulation to extend deadlines [doc. 133]. On August 8, 2017, the Court entered an order approving the joint stipulation (the "Order Extending Deadlines") [doc. 135]. In the Order Extending Deadlines, the Court set the following dates and deadlines: (A) December 15, 2017 as the discovery cutoff date; (B) January 11, 2018 as the deadline to file pretrial motions; (C) January 31, 2018 as the deadline to file a joint pretrial stipulation; and (D) February 14, 2018 as the pretrial conference date.

On September 20, 2017, the parties appeared for a status conference. On September 28, 2017, in light of the parties' contentions at the status conference, the Court entered an order regarding the parties' depositions of each other and providing a deadline for the parties to exchange initial disclosures pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26 (the "Deposition Order") [doc. 165]. In the Deposition Order, the Court set October 10, 2017 as the date each party would depose the other. The Deposition Order provided that the Plaintiff's deposition should be first, followed by the State Bar's deposition, "which shall be continued from day to day, excluding holidays and weekends until completed."

On November 7, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to extend the deadlines provided in the Order Extending Deadlines (the "State Bar's Motion to Extend") [doc. 172]. Plaintiff did not oppose the State Bar's Motion to Extend. On December 11, 2017, the State Bar voluntarily dismissed the State Bar's Motion to Extend [doc. 187]. On December 14, 2017, Plaintiff filed her own motion to extend deadlines ("Plaintiff's Motion to Extend") [doc. 192].

In the meanwhile, both parties filed several discovery related motions. On November 22, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for an order requiring the State Bar to comply with Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 30(b)(6) by designating a knowledgeable person and allowing an amendment to Plaintiff's deposition topics ("Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance") [doc. 176]. Plaintiff is asking the Court to order the State bar to produce a knowledgeable witness. On December 14, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to strike Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance (the "Motion to Strike") [doc. 189], asking the Court to strike Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance on the basis that Plaintiff did not enter into a joint stipulation with the State Bar in accordance with Local Bankruptcy Rule 7026-1(c).

On December 27, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for leave to join additional defendants to this action (the "Motion to Join") [doc. 205], attaching a proposed second amended complaint. In the proposed second amended complaint, Plaintiff adds six individuals as defendants: (A) Starr Babcock, who served as General Counsel of State Bar; (B) Thomas A. Miller, who served as the General Counsel of the State Bar after Mr. Babcock; (C) Lawrence Yee, who served as Deputy General Counsel of the State Bar; and (D) three additional defendants who the State Bar identified as being involved with Plaintiff's involuntary inactive enrollment.

As to Mr. Babcock, Mr. Miller and Mr. Yee, Plaintiff alleges that these individuals did not implement policies and procedures to ensure that the State Bar did not violate the automatic stay or discharge injunction. Proposed Second Amended Complaint, ¶ 34. Plaintiff also alleges that Mr. Babcock, Mr. Miller and Mr. Yee refused to reinstate Plaintiff's license and were responsible for approving the State Bar's refusal to honor bankruptcy stays. Id., ¶¶ 38-40. In addition, Plaintiff alleges that the Court should sanction all of the defendants, and award Plaintiff punitive damages, based on the defendants' legal argument to this Court that Plaintiff's involuntary inactive enrollment was "disciplinary." Id., ¶¶ 41-43, 49-51, pp. 16-17, ¶ 3.

II. ANALYSIS

A. Rule 20

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 20(a), applicable to this adversary proceeding through Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 7020—

(a) Persons Who May Join or Be Joined.

(2) Defendants. Persons--as well as a vessel, cargo, or other property subject to admiralty process in rem--may be joined in one action as defendants if:

(A) any right to relief is asserted against them jointly, severally, or in the alternative with respect to or arising out of the same transaction, occurrence, or series of transactions or occurrences; and

(B) any question of law or fact common to all defendants will arise in the action.

"Rule 20 is designed to promote judicial economy, and reduce inconvenience, delay, and added expense." Coughlin v. Rogers, 130 F.3d 1348, 1351 (9th Cir. 1997). Courts construe the requirements of Rule 20 liberally to promote trial convenience and to expedite determination of disputes. See United Mine Workers of America v. Gibbs, 383 U.S. 715, 724, 86 S.Ct. 1130, 1138, 16 L.Ed.2d 218 (1966) ("Under the Rules, the impulse is toward entertaining the broadest possible scope of action consistent with fairness to the parties; joinder of claims, parties and remedies is strongly encouraged.").

Here, both conditions to joinder are met. First, the proposed second amended complaint is requesting relief against all defendants jointly and severally, and Plaintiff's alleged right to relief from the defendants arises out of the same occurrence, namely, the refusal to lift Plaintiff's involuntary inactive enrollment. In addition, any question of law or fact common to all defendants will arise in this adversary proceeding. As such, joining the additional defendants named by Plaintiff is appropriate.

B. Rule 15

The State Bar does not oppose joinder pursuant to Rule 20. Rather, the State Bar asserts that Plaintiff cannot amend the FAC on account of Rule 16(b)(4), which states that "[a] schedule may be modified only for good cause and with the judge's consent." Rule 16(b)(4) is inapplicable. The Court did not enter a scheduling order providing a deadline by which Plaintiff may amend the FAC or join parties. In addition, based on the Plaintiff's pending motion to extend dates and deadlines, the Court will be modifying the current scheduling order.

The Rule controlling amendments to complaints is Rule 15. Pursuant to Rule 15(a), applicable to this adversary proceeding through Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 7015—

(1) Amending as a Matter of Course.

A party may amend its pleading once as a matter of course within:

(A) 21 days after serving it, or

(B) if the pleading is one to which a responsive pleading is required, 21 days after service of a responsive pleading or 21 days after service of a motion under Rule 12(b), (e), or (f), whichever is earlier.

(2) Other Amendments.

In all other cases, a party may amend its pleading only with the opposing party's written consent or the court's leave. The court should freely give leave when justice so requires.

Courts have the discretion to grant or deny leave to amend a complaint. Swanson v. U.S. Forest Serv., 87 F.3d 339, 343 (9th Cir. 1996). "In exercising this discretion, a court must be guided by the underlying purpose of Rule 15 to facilitate decision on the merits, rather than on the pleadings or technicalities." United States v. Webb, 655 F.2d 977, 979 (9th Cir. 1981). The factors courts commonly consider when determining whether to grant leave to amend are:

1. Bad faith;
2. Undue delay;
3. Prejudice to the opposing party; and
4. Futility of amendment.

Ditto v. McCurdy, 510 F.3d 1070, 1079 (9th Cir. 2007) (internal citations omitted). Based on this standard, the Court will grant Plaintiff leave to amend the FAC.

1. Plaintiff is Not Acting in Bad Faith

"Bad faith in filing a motion for leave to amend exists when the addition of new legal theories are baseless and presented for the purpose of prolonging the litigation." Paz v. City of Aberdeen, 2013 WL 6163016, at *5 (W.D. Wash. Nov. 25, 2013).

Chapter 7

The State Bar asserts that Plaintiff is acting in bad faith because the caption to the proposed second amended complaint includes Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon as defendants. However, it appears this is a mistake; Plaintiff does not include allegations against Mr. Dunn or Mr. Bacon in the proposed second amended complaint. Regarding the Plaintiff's allegations in the proposed second amended complaint regarding the defendants' legal arguments, as discussed below, the Court will strike these paragraphs from the proposed second amended complaint.

2. There is No Undue Delay

Here, Plaintiff notes that she learned the identities of three of the new defendants after receiving the State Bar's responses to the first and second set of interrogatories. Plaintiff received these responses on October 10, 2017 and November 8, 2017, respectively. Plaintiff filed the Motion to Join approximately a month and a half later. As such, there was no undue delay in filing the Motion to Join. In addition, the Court is extending all deadlines in this adversary proceeding, including the discovery cutoff date. In light of this fact, allowing the amendment will not cause undue delay to the proceeding.

3. Prejudice to Opposing Party

Although granting the Motion to Join may result in additional filings, such as another motion to dismiss, the State Bar will not be significantly prejudiced by the delay because the Court is extending deadlines for the parties to complete discovery. The State Bar states that Plaintiff's amendment will not have any impact on the amount of damages. However, the amendment may have an impact regarding which parties are liable for the damages. The State Bar has not provided that it will be prejudiced in any other way.

4. The Proposed Second Amended Complaint is Only Partially Futile

"A proposed amendment is futile only if no set of facts can be proved under the amendment to the pleadings that would constitute a valid and sufficient claim or defense." Paz, 2013 WL 6163016 at *5.

The State Bar asserts that the amendments are futile because: (A) the individual defendants have qualified immunity; and (B) Plaintiff has failed to state a claim for punitive damages.

Regarding the State Bar's assertion about qualified immunity, the Court cannot yet determine whether the individual defendants are immune. Government employees are entitled to qualified immunity "unless their conduct violates 'clearly established statutory or constitutional rights of which a reasonable person would have known.'" Jeffers v. Gomez, 267 F.3d 895, 910 (9th Cir. 2001) (quoting Harlow v. Fitzgerald, 457 U.S. 800, 818, 102 S.Ct. 2727, 2738, 73 L.Ed.2d 396 (1982)); see also Hirsh v. Justices of Supreme Court of State of Cal., 67 F.3d 708, 715 (9th Cir. 1995) (finding that employees of the State Bar of California are state agency officials); and Melek v. State Bar of California, 230 F.3d 1367 (9th Cir. 2000) (holding that a state bar employee is an official who may be entitled to qualified immunity). "Determining whether a public official is entitled to qualified immunity 'requires a two-part inquiry: (1) Was the law governing the state official's conduct clearly established? (2) Under that law could a reasonable state official have believed his conduct was lawful?'" Id. (quoting Browning v. Vernon, 44 F.3d 818, 822 (9th Cir. 1995)). Without additional briefing by the parties, the Court does not have enough information or legal authority at this time to ascertain whether the individual defendants' conduct was equivalent to the conduct of "reasonable state officials."

The Court also cannot determine at this time if the individual defendants are liable for damages. Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(k)(1), "an individual injured by any willful violation of a stay provided by this section shall recover actual damages, including costs and attorneys' fees, and, in appropriate circumstances, may recover punitive damages." A stay violation is willful "if a party knew of the automatic stay, and its actions in violation of the stay were intentional." In re Stanwyck, 450 B.R. 181, 191-92 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2011) (quoting Eskanos & Adler, P.C. v. Leetien, 309 F.3d 1210, 1215 (9th Cir. 2002)). On the other hand, "[a]n award of punitive damages requires 'some showing of reckless or callous disregard for the law or rights of others.'" In re Snowden, 769 F.3d 651, 657 (9th Cir. 2014) (quoting In re Bloom, 875 F.2d 224, 228 (9th Cir. 1989)). Again, the Court does not have enough information to make the pertinent determination at this time.

With respect to Mr. Babcock, Mr. Miller and Mr. Yee, the proposed second amended complaint does not include sufficient allegations which, if proven true, would establish a claim for violation of the automatic stay or the discharge injunction, a violation of 11 U.S.C. § 525 or sanctionable conduct pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 9011 or 11 U.S.C. § 105(a). In the second amended complaint, Plaintiff alleges that Mr. Babcock, Mr. Miller and Mr. Yee "failed to implement policies and procedures to ensure that the State Bar complied with the requirements of Sections 362(a) and 524(a) of the Bankruptcy Code." Proposed Second Amended Complaint, ¶ 34. However, to show a willful violation of the stay, Plaintiff must show that these defendants "knew of the automatic stay," and that their "actions in violation of the stay were intentional." Stanwyck, 450 B.R. at 191-92. Plaintiff has not articulated how failing to implement policies and procedures qualifies as a willful violation of the automatic stay. Plaintiff also has not cited any authority providing that individuals in supervisory roles violate the stay if they fail to implement policies and procedures to prevent their employees from violating the automatic stay.

Other than this allegation, the allegations against Mr. Babcock, Mr. Miller and Mr. Yee are conclusive statements of liability based on their positions overseeing the Office of General Counsel. As it stands, these allegations do not satisfy Rule 8(a)(2). When a theory of vicarious liability is unavailable, "a plaintiff must plead that each [individual] defendant, through the official's own individual actions, has violated the" law. Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 676, 129 S.Ct. 1937, 1948, 173 L.Ed.2d 868 (2009).

For instance, in Iqbal, the Supreme Court held that the plaintiff had not alleged a plausible claim against Attorney General John Ashcroft and FBI Director Robert Mueller where the plaintiff alleged only that these defendants "knew of, condoned, and willfully and maliciously agreed to subject" the plaintiff to confinement "as a matter of policy...." Id., at 680. These allegations "amount[ed] to nothing more than a formulaic recitation of the elements...." Id., at 681 (internal quotations omitted). See also Blantz v. California Dep't of Corr. & Rehab., Div. of Corr. Health Care Servs., 727 F.3d 917, 927 (9th Cir. 2013) ("[C]ommon sense requires us to reject the allegation that the Chief Medical Officer for the state-wide prison system, who sits on the Governing Body, was personally involved in the decision to terminate Blantz as an independent contractor nurse at Calipatria state prison or to give her a negative job reference."). Here, the State Bar's interrogatories did not include Mr. Babcock, Mr. Miller or Mr. Yee as individuals involved with Plaintiff's involuntary inactive enrollment. Rather, Plaintiff appears to be including these parties as defendants solely on account of their roles as General Counsel or Deputy General Counsel.

Nevertheless, because the Court is requiring the State Bar to produce another witness pursuant to Rule 30(b)(6), the Court will allow Plaintiff to supplement or amend the proposed second amended complaint to include additional allegations against Mr. Babcock, Mr. Miller and Mr. Yee if Plaintiff discovers additional information about these parties at the State Bar's continued Rule 30(b)(6) deposition.

The Court also will strike the portions of the proposed second amended complaint that request relief based on the defendants' legal arguments to the Court. Proposed Second Amended Complaint [doc. 205, Exhibit A], ¶¶ 41-43, 49-51 and ¶ 3 of pp. 16-17 as to the following language: "under Section 105, for their deliberate, willful and intentional actions to misrepresent [Plaintiff's] administrative suspension to the bankruptcy court as disciplinary, when it clearly was not, and they knew it was not." The Court will strike these paragraphs (or portions of paragraphs) because the Court already has ruled that Plaintiff's request for punitive damages or sanctions cannot be based on the defendants' legal arguments to this Court. Ruling, pp. 12-13.

The Court previously has denied [doc. 49] a motion for sanctions filed by Plaintiff [doc. 14]. In that motion, Plaintiff requested the same relief she is requesting in the proposed second amended complaint. Plaintiff again alleges that the defendants' conduct is sanctionable pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 9011 and 11 U.S.C. § 105(a) because the defendants argued that Plaintiff's inactive involuntary enrollment was "disciplinary." The Court already has ruled that the defendants' presentation of this argument to the Court is not sanctionable. The defendants believed Plaintiff's inactive involuntary enrollment was "disciplinary" because the State Bar is a state regulatory agency that protects the rights of others. This Court agreed.

Rather than assess the issue based on the function of the agency, the Court of Appeals looked to the nature of the underlying transaction that led to Plaintiff's involuntary inactive enrollment. In re Scheer, 819 F.3d 1206, 1209 (9th Cir. 2016). Looking through that lens, the Court of Appeals held that the debt owed by Plaintiff was not "a fine, penalty, or forfeiture" or "payable to and for the benefit of a governmental unit" but rather "an arbitration award for a debt between two private parties." Id. That the Court of Appeals ruled against the defendants does not mean that the defendants' arguments were frivolous or sanctionable. The Court of Appeals acknowledged that the Supreme Court's precedent on this issue "led to considerable confusion among federal courts and practitioners about section 523(a)(7)'s scope." Id., at 1210. For this reason, the Court has dismissed Plaintiff's repeated requests for sanctions based on the defendants' legal argument that Plaintiff's involuntary inactive enrollment was "disciplinary." Because the Court already ruled on this issue, Plaintiff's inclusion of these allegations in the proposed second amended complaint is futile.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will grant the Motion to Join and allow Plaintiff to file the proposed second amended complaint, with the following modifications: (A) Plaintiff must exclude Kenneth Bacon and Joseph Dunn from the caption; and (B) Plaintiff must delete the following paragraphs or portions of paragraphs: paragraphs 41-43, 49-51 and paragraph 3 of pages 16-17 as to the following language: "under Section 105, for their deliberate, willful and intentional actions to misrepresent [Plaintiff's] administrative suspension to the bankruptcy court as disciplinary, when it clearly was not, and they knew it was not."

As to Mr. Babcock, Mr. Miller and Mr. Yee, the Court will defer deciding on whether to strike these defendants from the amended complaint until Plaintiff deposes the State Bar's Rule 30(b)(6) witness. If Plaintiff supplements the proposed second amended complaint with additional allegations against Mr. Babcock, Mr. Miller and Mr. Yee, the Court will reassess whether Plaintiff's allegations against these parties satisfy Rule 8(a)(2).

Plaintiff must submit an order within seven (7) days.

I. BACKGROUND

On July 12, 2013, Marilyn S. Scheer ("Plaintiff") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On November 1, 2013, Plaintiff filed a complaint against the State Bar of California (the "State Bar"), Luis J. Rodriguez, Joseph Dunn, Joanna Remke and Kenneth E. Bacon ("Defendants"), alleging violation of the automatic stay and the discharge injunction under 11 U.S.C. §§ 362 and 524 and discriminatory treatment under § 525 (a).

On November 28, 2016, Plaintiff filed the first amended complaint (the "FAC") [doc. 95]. This time, Plaintiff named only the State Bar, Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon. In relevant part, the FAC alleges:

The State Bar's refusal to lift Plaintiff's involuntary inactive enrollment was a violation of the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362 and constituted discriminatory treatment under 11 U.S.C. § 525.

Plaintiff requests damages for her loss of livelihood from July 12, 2013 through July 16, 2014. Plaintiff also requests costs of suit, including attorneys' fees, interest and other relief as the Court deems appropriate.

On December 19, 2016, Defendants filed a motion to dismiss the FAC (the "Motion to Dismiss") [doc. 96]. In the Motion to Dismiss, Defendants asserted that: (A) the FAC does not include sufficient allegations as to Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon; (B) Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon are immune based on quasi-judicial immunity; (C) Plaintiff has not alleged that she suffered an injury or damages; and (D) the FAC does not make sufficient allegations regarding Plaintiff's request for punitive damages against Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon.

On April 19, 2017, the Court issued a ruling on the Motion to Dismiss (the "Ruling") [doc. 118]. In the Ruling, the Court dismissed Mr. Bacon on the basis that Mr. Bacon is immune, also finding that Plaintiff's reference to a State Bar's Arbitration Advisory (the "Advisory") regarding immunity was irrelevant to the Court's decision because "the Court is not bound by publications by the State Bar" and the Advisory discussed pending arbitrations, not enforcement of existing arbitration awards. The Court also dismissed Mr. Dunn on the basis that Plaintiff had not sufficiently stated a claim against Mr. Dunn. Further, the Court ruled that Plaintiff could not take discovery on issues of immunity. Finally, the Court denied the Motion to Dismiss as to the State Bar.

On May 8, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the Motion to Dismiss [doc. 124]. On April 26, 2017, the Court entered a scheduling order [doc. 122], setting August 30, 2017 as the deadline by which to complete discovery.

On May 10, 2017, the State Bar filed an answer to the FAC (the "Answer") [doc. 125]. In the Answer, the State Bar denied all relevant allegations in the FAC and asserted six affirmative defenses: (A) failure to state a claim; (B) Plaintiff's damages were caused in whole or in part by Plaintiff's own actions; (C) Plaintiff's damages were caused in whole or in part by third parties; (D) failure to mitigate losses; (E) the State Bar was not the cause of any losses alleged by Plaintiff; and (F) the Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction.

On August 4, 2017, the State Bar and Plaintiff filed a joint stipulation to extend deadlines [doc. 133]. On August 8, 2017, the Court entered an order approving the joint stipulation (the "Order Extending Deadlines") [doc. 135]. In the Order Extending Deadlines, the Court set the following dates and deadlines: (A) December 15, 2017 as the discovery cutoff date; (B) January 11, 2018 as the deadline to file pretrial motions; (C) January 31, 2018 as the deadline to file a joint pretrial stipulation; and (D) February 14, 2018 as the pretrial conference date.

On July 28, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion to compel the State Bar to provide interrogatory responses (the "First Motion to Compel") [doc. 130]. On August 21, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion for a protective order, asking the Court to strike certain deposition categories (the "First Motion for Protective Order") [doc. 140]. On September 13, 2017, the Court held a hearing on the First Motion to Compel and the First Motion for Protective Order. At that time, the Court issued rulings setting forth which deposition categories were appropriate and the interrogatories to which the State Bar had to respond [docs. 152, 153]. In both rulings, the Court held that the Advisory is irrelevant to the issues in this adversary proceeding, and that Plaintiff may not depose the State Bar regarding the Advisory or compel the State Bar to respond to interrogatories about the Advisory. On September 18, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the First Motion to Compel [doc. 155]. On October 6, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the First Motion for Protective Order [doc. 165].

On September 20, 2017, the parties appeared for a status conference. On September 28, 2017, in light of the parties' contentions at the status conference, the Court entered an order regarding the parties' depositions of each other and providing a deadline for the parties to exchange initial disclosures pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26 (the "Deposition Order") [doc. 165]. In the Deposition Order, the Court set October 10, 2017 as the date each party would depose the other. The Deposition Order provided that the Plaintiff's deposition should be first, followed by the State Bar's deposition, "which shall be continued from day to day, excluding holidays and weekends until completed."

The Deposition Order also stated that Suzanne Grandt is the only attorney allowed to conduct the deposition of Plaintiff, and that Ms. Grandt will be Plaintiff's sole contact person at the State Bar throughout the course of this litigation. The Court set a deadline of October 2, 2017 for the parties to make their initial disclosures.

On October 20, 2017, the State Bar produced Elizabeth Lew, an administrative assistant in the Mandatory Fee Arbitration Department as its designated Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 30(b)(6) deponent [doc. 231, Transcript of Lew's Deposition]. Plaintiff objected at the deposition to the witness because Plaintiff believed Ms. Lew was not prepared to testify to the deposition categories. Over the next few weeks, the parties exchanged communications regarding a joint stipulation. See [doc. 176, Scheer Declaration, ¶¶ 7-8, 16] [doc. 190, Grandt Declaration, ¶¶ 3-7]. The parties did not reach an agreement and did not sign a joint stipulation. See [doc. 176, Scheer Declaration, ¶ 16] [doc. 190, Grandt Declaration, ¶ 7].

On November 7, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to extend the deadlines provided in the Order Extending Deadlines (the "State Bar's Motion to Extend") [doc. 172]. Plaintiff did not oppose the State Bar's Motion to Extend. On December 11, 2017, the State Bar voluntarily dismissed the State Bar's Motion to Extend [doc. 187]. On December 14, 2017, Plaintiff filed her own motion to extend deadlines ("Plaintiff's Motion to Extend") [doc. 192].

In the meanwhile, both parties filed several discovery related motions. On November 22, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for an order requiring the State Bar to comply with Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 30(b)(6) by designating a knowledgeable person and allowing an amendment to Plaintiff's deposition topics ("Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance") [doc. 176]. Plaintiff is asking the Court to order the State bar to produce a knowledgeable witness. On December 14, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to strike Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance (the "Motion to Strike") [doc. 189], asking the Court to strike Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance on the basis that Plaintiff did not enter into a joint stipulation with the State Bar in accordance with Local Bankruptcy Rule 7026-1(c).

On December 7, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to compel the continued deposition of Plaintiff (the "State Bar's Motion to Compel") [doc. 181], asserting that Plaintiff refused to answer questions regarding her law practice. On December 15, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for a protective order requesting the Court prohibit the State Bar from questioning Plaintiff about her law practice (the "Motion for Deposition Order") [doc. 194].

On January 11, 2018, the State Bar filed seven motions in limine to exclude certain evidence at trial (the "Motions in Limine") [doc. 213]. Finally, on January 17, 2018, the State Bar filed another protective order, requesting a global protective order to govern this adversary proceeding (the "Motion for Global Protective Order") [doc. 225].

II. ANALYSIS

A. The Motion to Strike

Prior to filing a motion to compel, a party must comply with Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 7026-1(c). Under LBR 7026-1(c)—

- (1) General. Unless excused from complying with this rule by order of the court for good cause shown, a party must seek to resolve any dispute arising under FRBP 7026-7037 or FRBP 2004 in accordance with this rule.
- (2) Meeting of Counsel. Prior to the filing of any motion relating to discovery, counsel for the parties must meet in person or by telephone in a good faith effort to resolve a discovery dispute. It is the responsibility of counsel for the moving party to arrange the conference. Unless altered by agreement of the parties or by order of the court for cause shown, counsel for the opposing party must meet with counsel for the moving party within 7 days of service upon counsel of a letter requesting such meeting and specifying the terms of the discovery order to be sought.
- (3) Moving Papers. If counsel are unable to resolve the dispute, the party seeking discovery must file and serve a notice of motion together with a written stipulation by the parties.

(A) The stipulation must be contained in 1 document and must identify, separately and with particularity, each disputed issue that remains to be determined at the hearing and the contentions and points and authorities of each party as to each issue.

(B) The stipulation must not simply refer the court to the document containing the discovery request forming the basis of the dispute. For example, if the sufficiency of an answer to an interrogatory is in issue, the stipulation must contain, verbatim, both the interrogatory and the allegedly insufficient answer, followed by each party's contentions, separately stated.

(C) In the absence of such stipulation or a declaration of counsel of noncooperation by the opposing party, the court will not consider the discovery motion.

- (4) Cooperation of Counsel; Sanctions. The failure of any counsel either to cooperate in this procedure, to attend the meeting of counsel, or to provide the moving party the information necessary to prepare the stipulation required by this rule within 7 days of the meeting of counsel will result in the imposition of sanctions, including the sanctions authorized by FRBP 7037 and LBR 9011-3.

Here, it appears the parties did attempt to meet and confer in accordance with LBR 7026-1(c). Despite their meet and confer, the parties apparently could not agree to a joint stipulation. The LBRs provide that the Court will not entertain a discovery motion "[i]n the absence of [a joint stipulation] or a declaration of counsel of noncooperation..." LBR 7026-1(c)(3)(C). Here, both parties have filed declarations asserting that the other party did not cooperate. The Court will not strike Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance based on both parties' inability to agree to a joint stipulation.

B. Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 7030, "Rule 30 F.R.Civ.P. applies in adversary proceedings." According to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 30 (b)(6): "[A] party may ... name as the deponent ... a ... corporation ... and describe with reasonable particularity the matters on which examination is requested.... so designated shall testify as to matters known or reasonably available to the organization."

"Pursuant to Rule 30(b)(6), the deponent 'must make a conscientious good-faith endeavor to designate the persons having knowledge of the matters sought by [the party noticing the deposition] and to prepare those persons in order that they can answer fully, completely, unevasively, the questions posed ... as to the relevant subject matters.'" Sony Elecs., Inc. v. Soundview Techs., Inc., 217 F.R.D. 104, 111–12 (D. Conn. 2002) (citing Bank of New York v. Meridien BIAO Bank Tanzania Ltd., 171 F.R.D. 135, 151 (S.D.N.Y. 1997)).

"Indeed, the corporation 'is expected to create a witness or witnesses with responsive knowledge,' and in doing so must make a good faith effort to 'find out the relevant facts—to collect information, review documents, and interview employees with personal knowledge.'" Coryn Group II, LLC v. O.C. Seacrets, Inc., 265 F.R.D. 235, 238 (D. Md. 2010) (citing Wilson v. Lakner, 228 F.R.D. 524, 528–29 (D. Md. 2005)) (emphasis added).

If it appears at the deposition that the witness designated by the corporation is unable to answer questions on matters specified in the deposition notice, a corporate party must immediately designate a new witness. Marker v. Union Fidelity Life Ins. Co., 125 F.R.D. 121, 126 (M.D.N.C. 1989). "Where a corporate deponent fails to provide an adequately prepared designee for deposition, sanctions are proper." Coryn Group II, 265 F.R.D. at 239.

"On the other hand, a corporation that engages in good faith efforts to prepare and whose witness provides 'substantial testimony concerning the subject areas of their designation[ ]' despite inadequate preparation may not be subject to sanctions. Id. at 240 (citing Wilson, 228 F.R.D. at 530). Here, in light of the authorities above, the State Bar has not complied with its obligation to produce one or more witnesses knowledgeable about the subject matter of the noticed topics. The State Bar does not dispute the fact that Plaintiff served a Rule 30(b)(6) deposition notice describing the subject matters about which Plaintiff was to depose the State Bar's witness. In its opposition to Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance, the State Bar asserts that Ms. Lew was properly designated as a Rule 30(b)(6) designee and that she answered questions to the extent she could recall.

The transcript of Ms. Lew's deposition testimony [doc. 231], however, reveals gaps in Ms. Lew's knowledge as well as evasive answers regarding specific topics included in Plaintiff's Rule 30(b)(6) notice. "Although the rule is not designed to be a memory contest...", Ms. Lew should have been able to provide answers to questions that were reasonably available to the State Bar on the noticed topics. In re Minamoto, 12-01410, 2015 WL 5025472, at *1 (Bankr. D. Haw. Aug. 24, 2015).

The State Bar did not meet its obligation to make a conscientious, good faith effort to produce a thoroughly educated witness about the noticed deposition topics and facts known to the State Bar or its counsel. Ms. Lew was unable to provide complete and knowledgeable answers on the subjects of examination described in the Rule 30(b)(6) deposition notice. Throughout her deposition, Ms. Lew repeatedly stated that she did not know the answers to questions posed by Plaintiff, which questions should have been anticipated because of Plaintiff's notice to the State Bar of the deposition categories. See, e.g. Deposition Transcript of Elizabeth Lew [doc. 231], 15:11-14, 16:10-15, 17:4-10, 18:1-10, 19: 7-14, 35:7-11, 37:24-35:1, 49:16-23, 51:22-25, 52:1-2, 54:13-21, 55:10-13.

The State Bar has objected to producing another Rule 30(b)(6) deponent because another deposition will not provide Plaintiff with information she does not already have through interrogatories and discovery documents. "Producing documents and responding to written discovery is not a substitute for providing a thoroughly educated Rule 30(b)(6) deponent." Great Am. Ins. Co. of New York v. Vegas Const. Co., Inc., 251 F.R.D. 534, 541 (D. Nev. 2008). "[T]he two forms of discovery are not equivalent,... and depositions provide a more complete means to obtain information and are, therefore, favored." Id.

The State Bar was required to educate an appropriate Rule 30(b)(6) designee to provide knowledgeable answers reasonably available to the State Bar, which includes information ascertainable from files and documents, information from past and present employees, witness testimony and exhibits or any other sources available to the State Bar, including factual information learned through or from its counsel. See id. The State Bar must take steps to gain information from reasonably available sources in order to educate its future designated witness. The Court will order the State Bar to produce a fully prepared designee (or designees) capable of responding appropriately at a Rule 30(b)(6) deposition on noticed topics.

C. Plaintiff's Request to Amend the Deposition Categories

It is unclear which specific amendments Plaintiff wishes to make to the deposition categories related to the future deposition of the State Bar's Rule 30(b)(6) witness. To the extent Plaintiff wants to depose the State Bar's witness regarding the Advisory, the Court has already ruled that Plaintiff cannot do that. In its rulings on the First Motion to Compel and the First Motion for Protective Order, the Court explicitly ruled that the Advisory is irrelevant and that Plaintiff is not entitled to discovery regarding the Advisory. The Court will not change its ruling.

D. Sanctions

Because the Court is also granting the State Bar's Motion to Compel, through which the State Bar is requesting an order compelling Plaintiff to continue her deposition, the Court will not award sanctions to either party. Both parties did not meet their discovery obligations. As a result, the Court will not reward either party with an award of sanctions against the opposing party.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will compel the State Bar to produce another witness to be deposed pursuant to Rule 30(b)(6). The Court will deny the Motion to Strike. The Court also will deny Plaintiff's request to amend the deposition categories and Plaintiff's request for sanctions. The parties should be ready to discuss a time and date for the State Bar's witness's continued deposition.

Plaintiff must submit an order within seven (7) days.

Chapter 7

I. BACKGROUND

On July 12, 2013, Marilyn S. Scheer ("Plaintiff") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On November 1, 2013, Plaintiff filed a complaint against the State Bar of California (the "State Bar"), Luis J. Rodriguez, Joseph Dunn, Joanna Remke and Kenneth E. Bacon ("Defendants"), alleging violation of the automatic stay and the discharge injunction under 11 U.S.C. §§ 362 and 524 and discriminatory treatment under § 525 (a).

On November 28, 2016, Plaintiff filed the first amended complaint (the "FAC") [doc. 95]. This time, Plaintiff named only the State Bar, Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon. In relevant part, the FAC alleges:

The State Bar's refusal to lift Plaintiff's involuntary inactive enrollment was a violation of the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362 and constituted discriminatory treatment under 11 U.S.C. § 525.

Plaintiff requests damages for her loss of livelihood from July 12, 2013 through July 16, 2014. Plaintiff also requests costs of suit, including attorneys' fees, interest and other relief as the Court deems appropriate.

On December 19, 2016, Defendants filed a motion to dismiss the FAC (the "Motion to Dismiss") [doc. 96]. In the Motion to Dismiss, Defendants asserted that: (A) the FAC does not include sufficient allegations as to Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon; (B) Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon are immune based on quasi-judicial immunity; (C) Plaintiff has not alleged that she suffered an injury or damages; and (D) the FAC does not make sufficient allegations regarding Plaintiff's request for punitive damages against Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon.

On April 19, 2017, the Court issued a ruling on the Motion to Dismiss (the "Ruling") [doc. 118]. In the Ruling, the Court dismissed Mr. Bacon on the basis that Mr. Bacon is immune, also finding that Plaintiff's reference to a State Bar's Arbitration Advisory (the "Advisory") regarding immunity was irrelevant to the Court's decision because "the Court is not bound by publications by the State Bar" and the Advisory discussed pending arbitrations, not enforcement of existing arbitration awards. The Court also dismissed Mr. Dunn on the basis that Plaintiff had not sufficiently stated a claim against Mr. Dunn. Further, the Court ruled that Plaintiff could not take discovery on issues of immunity. Finally, the Court denied the Motion to Dismiss as to the State Bar.

On May 8, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the Motion to Dismiss [doc. 124]. On April 26, 2017, the Court entered a scheduling order [doc. 122], setting August 30, 2017 as the deadline by which to complete discovery.

On August 4, 2017, the State Bar and Plaintiff filed a joint stipulation to extend deadlines [doc. 133]. On August 8, 2017, the Court entered an order approving the joint stipulation (the "Order Extending Deadlines") [doc. 135]. In the Order Extending Deadlines, the Court set the following dates and deadlines: (A) December 15, 2017 as the discovery cutoff date; (B) January 11, 2018 as the deadline to file pretrial motions; (C) January 31, 2018 as the deadline to file a joint pretrial stipulation; and (D) February 14, 2018 as the pretrial conference date.

On July 28, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion to compel the State Bar to provide interrogatory responses (the "First Motion to Compel") [doc. 130]. On August 21, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion for a protective order, asking the Court to strike certain deposition categories (the "First Motion for Protective Order") [doc. 140]. On September 13, 2017, the Court held a hearing on the First Motion to Compel and the First Motion for Protective Order. At that time, the Court issued rulings setting forth which deposition categories were appropriate and the interrogatories to which the State Bar had to respond [docs. 152, 153]. In both rulings, the Court held that the Advisory is irrelevant to the State Bar's liability. On September 18, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the First Motion to Compel [doc. 155]. On October 6, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the First Motion for Protective Order [doc. 165].

On September 20, 2017, the parties appeared for a status conference. On September 28, 2017, in light of the parties' contentions at the status conference, the Court entered an order regarding the parties' depositions of each other and providing a deadline for the parties to exchange initial disclosures pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26 (the "Deposition Order") [doc. 165]. In the Deposition Order, the Court set October 10, 2017 as the date each party would depose the other. The Deposition

The parties did not reach an agreement and did not sign a joint stipulation. See [doc. 176, Scheer Declaration, ¶ 16] [doc. 190, Grandt Declaration, ¶ 7].

On November 7, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to extend the deadlines provided in the Order Extending Deadlines (the "State Bar's Motion to Extend") [doc. 172]. Plaintiff did not oppose the State Bar's Motion to Extend. On December 11, 2017, the State Bar voluntarily dismissed the State Bar's Motion to Extend [doc. 187]. On December 14, 2017, Plaintiff filed her own motion to extend deadlines ("Plaintiff's Motion to Extend") [doc. 192].

In the meanwhile, both parties filed several discovery related motions. On November 22, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for an order requiring the State Bar to comply with Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 30(b)(6) by designating a knowledgeable person and allowing an amendment to Plaintiff's deposition topics ("Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance") [doc. 176]. Plaintiff is asking the Court to order the State bar to produce a knowledgeable witness. On December 14, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to strike Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance (the "Motion to Strike") [doc. 189], asking the Court to strike Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance on the basis that Plaintiff did not enter into a joint stipulation with the State Bar in accordance with Local Bankruptcy Rule 7026-1(c).

II. ANALYSIS

A. The Motion to Strike

Prior to filing a motion to compel, a party must comply with Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 7026-1(c). Under LBR 7026-1(c)—

- (1) General. Unless excused from complying with this rule by order of the court for good cause shown, a party must seek to resolve any dispute arising under FRBP 7026-7037 or FRBP 2004 in accordance with this rule.
- (2) Meeting of Counsel. Prior to the filing of any motion relating to discovery, counsel for the parties must meet in person or by telephone in a good faith effort to resolve a discovery dispute. It is the responsibility of counsel for the moving party to arrange the conference. Unless altered by agreement of the parties or by order of the court for cause shown, counsel for the opposing party must meet with counsel for the moving party within 7 days of service upon counsel of a letter requesting such meeting and specifying the terms of the discovery order to be sought.
- (3) Moving Papers. If counsel are unable to resolve the dispute, the party seeking discovery must file and serve a notice of motion together with a written stipulation by the parties.
  - (A) The stipulation must be contained in 1 document and must identify, separately and with particularity, each disputed issue that remains to be determined at the hearing and the contentions and points and authorities of each party as to each issue.

interrogatory and the allegedly insufficient answer, followed by each party's contentions, separately stated.

(C) In the absence of such stipulation or a declaration of counsel of noncooperation by the opposing party, the court will not consider the discovery motion.

- (4) Cooperation of Counsel; Sanctions. The failure of any counsel either to cooperate in this procedure, to attend the meeting of counsel, or to provide the moving party the information necessary to prepare the stipulation required by this rule within 7 days of the meeting of counsel will result in the imposition of sanctions, including the sanctions authorized by FRBP 7037 and LBR 9011-3.

Here, it appears the parties did attempt to meet and confer in accordance with LBR 7026-1(c). Despite their meet and confer, the parties apparently could not agree to a joint stipulation. The LBRs provide that the Court will not entertain a discovery motion "[i]n the absence of [a joint stipulation] or a declaration of counsel of noncooperation..." LBR 7026-1(c)(3)(C). Here, both parties have filed declarations asserting that the other party did not cooperate. The Court will not strike Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance based on both parties' inability to agree to a joint stipulation.

Here, in light of the authorities above, the State Bar has not complied with its obligation to produce one or more witnesses knowledgeable about the subject matter of the noticed topics. The State Bar does not dispute the fact that Plaintiff served a Rule 30(b)(6) deposition notice describing the subject matters about which Plaintiff was to depose the State Bar’s witness. In its opposition to Plaintiff’s Motion for Deposition Compliance, the State Bar asserts that Ms. Lew was properly designated as a Rule 30(b)(6) designee and that she answered questions to the extent she could recall.

The transcript of Ms. Lew’s deposition testimony [doc. 231], however, reveals gaps in Ms. Lew’s knowledge as well as evasive answers regarding specific topics included in Plaintiff's Rule 30(b)(6) notice. "Although the rule is not designed to be a memory contest...", Ms. Lew should have been able to provide answers to questions that were reasonably available to the State Bar on the noticed topics. In re Minamoto, 12-01410, 2015 WL 5025472, at *1 (Bankr. D. Haw. Aug. 24, 2015).

The State Bar did not meet its obligation to make a conscientious, good faith effort to produce a thoroughly educated witness about the noticed deposition topics and facts known to the State Bar or its counsel. Ms. Lew was unable to provide complete and knowledgeable answers on the subjects of examination described in the Rule 30(b)(6) deposition notice. Throughout her deposition, Ms. Lew repeatedly stated that she did not know the answers to questions posed by Plaintiff, which questions should have been anticipated because of Plaintiff's notice to the State Bar of the deposition categories. See, e.g. Deposition Transcript of Elizabeth Lew [doc. 231], 15:11-14, 16:10-15, 17:4-10, 18:1-10, 19: 7-14, 35:7-11, 37:24-35:1, 49:16-23, 51:22-25, 52:1-2, 54:13-21, 55:10-13.

The State Bar has objected to producing another Rule 30(b)(6) deponent because another deposition will not provide Plaintiff with information she does not already have through interrogatories and discovery documents. "Producing documents and responding to written discovery is not a substitute for providing a thoroughly educated Rule 30(b)(6) deponent." Great Am. Ins. Co. of New York v. Vegas Const. Co., Inc., 251 F.R.D. 534, 541 (D. Nev. 2008). "[T]he two forms of discovery are not equivalent,... and depositions provide a more complete means to obtain information and are, therefore, favored." Id.

The State Bar was required to educate an appropriate Rule 30(b)(6) designee to provide knowledgeable answers reasonably available to the State Bar, which includes information ascertainable from files and documents, information from past and present employees, witness testimony and exhibits or any other sources available to the State Bar, including factual information learned through or from its counsel. See id. The State Bar must take steps to gain information from reasonably available sources in order to educate its future designated witness. The Court will order the State Bar to produce a fully prepared designee (or designees) capable of responding appropriately at a Rule 30(b)(6) deposition on noticed topics.

Plaintiff requests an amendment to the deposition categories to include questions regarding the State Bar's policies and procedures in dealing with members' bankruptcy filing after receiving notice of the member's bankruptcy. Previously, the Court ruled that Plaintiff's questions regarding the Advisory were irrelevant because the State Bar had already admitted liability and the Court had ruled that the State Bar was not subject to punitive damages. As such, the only remaining issue was the extent of the State Bar's liability. As to the issue of damages, the Court ruled the Advisory was not relevant. Now, Plaintiff seeks to amend the FAC to add individual defendants who have not admitted to liability and from whom Plaintiff may attempt to obtain punitive damages. As such, if the Court allows Plaintiff to amend the FAC to add individual defendants, the State Bar's policies and procedures regarding a member's bankruptcy filing (including the Advisory) may be relevant to the issues in this proceeding. Consequently, if the Court allows Plaintiff to join the individual defendants to this action, the Court also will allow Plaintiff to amend the deposition categories to include questions regarding the Advisory and the State Bar's general policies and procedures regarding bankruptcy.

D. Sanctions

Because the Court also is granting the State Bar's Motion to Compel, through which the State Bar is requesting an order compelling Plaintiff to continue her deposition, the Court will not award sanctions to either party. Both parties did not meet their discovery obligations. As a result, the Court will not reward either party with an award of sanctions against the opposing party.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will compel the State Bar to produce another witness to be deposed pursuant to Rule 30(b)(6). The Court will deny the Motion to Strike. The Court also will deny Plaintiff's request for sanctions.

Plaintiff must submit an order within seven (7) days.

of Marilyn S. Scheer

fr. 2/7/18

Docket 185

Judge:

2/7/2018 Tentative:

I. BACKGROUND

On July 12, 2013, Marilyn S. Scheer ("Plaintiff") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On November 1, 2013, Plaintiff filed a complaint against the State Bar of California (the "State Bar"), Luis J. Rodriguez, Joseph Dunn, Joanna Remke and Kenneth E. Bacon ("Defendants"), alleging violation of the automatic stay and the discharge injunction under 11 U.S.C. §§ 362 and 524 and discriminatory treatment under § 525 (a).

On November 28, 2016, Plaintiff filed the first amended complaint (the "FAC") [doc. 95]. This time, Plaintiff named only the State Bar, Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon. In relevant part, the FAC alleges:

The State Bar's refusal to lift Plaintiff's involuntary inactive enrollment was a violation of the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362 and constituted discriminatory treatment under 11 U.S.C. § 525.

Plaintiff requests damages for her loss of livelihood from July 12, 2013 through July 16, 2014. Plaintiff also requests costs of suit, including attorneys' fees, interest and other relief as the Court deems appropriate.

On December 19, 2016, Defendants filed a motion to dismiss the FAC (the "Motion to Dismiss") [doc. 96]. In the Motion to Dismiss, Defendants asserted that: (A) the FAC does not include sufficient allegations as to Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon; (B) Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon are immune based on quasi-judicial immunity; (C) Plaintiff has not alleged that she suffered an injury or damages; and (D) the FAC does not make sufficient allegations regarding Plaintiff's request for punitive damages against Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bacon.

On April 19, 2017, the Court issued a ruling on the Motion to Dismiss (the "Ruling") [doc. 118]. In the Ruling, the Court dismissed Mr. Bacon on the basis that Mr. Bacon is immune, also finding that Plaintiff's reference to a State Bar's Arbitration Advisory (the "Advisory") regarding immunity was irrelevant to the Court's decision because "the Court is not bound by publications by the State Bar" and the Advisory discussed pending arbitrations, not enforcement of existing arbitration awards. The Court also dismissed Mr. Dunn on the basis that Plaintiff had not sufficiently stated a claim against Mr. Dunn. Further, the Court ruled that Plaintiff could not take discovery on issues of immunity. Finally, the Court denied the Motion to Dismiss as to the State Bar.

On May 8, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the Motion to Dismiss [doc. 124]. On April 26, 2017, the Court entered a scheduling order [doc. 122], setting August 30, 2017 as the deadline by which to complete discovery.

On May 10, 2017, the State Bar filed an answer to the FAC (the "Answer") [doc. 125]. In the Answer, the State Bar denied all relevant allegations in the FAC and asserted six affirmative defenses: (A) failure to state a claim; (B) Plaintiff's damages were caused in whole or in part by Plaintiff's own actions; (C) Plaintiff's damages were caused in whole or in part by third parties; (D) failure to mitigate losses; (E) the State Bar was not the cause of any losses alleged by Plaintiff; and (F) the Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction.

On August 4, 2017, the State Bar and Plaintiff filed a joint stipulation to extend deadlines [doc. 133]. On August 8, 2017, the Court entered an order approving the joint stipulation (the "Order Extending Deadlines") [doc. 135]. In the Order Extending Deadlines, the Court set the following dates and deadlines: (A) December 15, 2017 as the discovery cutoff date; (B) January 11, 2018 as the deadline to file pretrial motions; (C) January 31, 2018 as the deadline to file a joint pretrial stipulation; and (D) February 14, 2018 as the pretrial conference date.

On July 28, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion to compel the State Bar to provide interrogatory responses (the "First Motion to Compel") [doc. 130]. On August 21, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion for a protective order, asking the Court to strike certain deposition categories (the "First Motion for Protective Order") [doc. 140]. On September 13, 2017, the Court held a hearing on the First Motion to Compel and the First Motion for Protective Order. At that time, the Court issued rulings setting forth which deposition categories were appropriate and the interrogatories to which the State Bar had to respond [docs. 152, 153]. In both rulings, the Court held that the Advisory is irrelevant to the issues in this adversary proceeding, and that Plaintiff may not depose the State Bar regarding the Advisory or compel the State Bar to respond to interrogatories about the Advisory. On September 18, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the First Motion to Compel [doc. 155]. On October 6, 2017, the Court entered an order granting in part and denying in part the First Motion for Protective Order [doc. 165].

On September 20, 2017, the parties appeared for a status conference. On September 28, 2017, in light of the parties' contentions at the status conference, the Court entered an order regarding the parties' depositions of each other and providing a deadline for the parties to exchange initial disclosures pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26 (the "Deposition Order") [doc. 165]. In the Deposition Order, the Court set October 10, 2017 as the date each party would depose the other. The Deposition Order provided that the Plaintiff's deposition should be first, followed by the State Bar's deposition, "which shall be continued from day to day, excluding holidays and weekends until completed."

The Deposition Order also stated that Suzanne Grandt is the only attorney allowed to conduct the deposition of Plaintiff, and that Ms. Grandt will be Plaintiff's sole contact person at the State Bar throughout the course of this litigation. The Court set a deadline of October 2, 2017 for the parties to make their initial disclosures.

On November 7, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to extend the deadlines provided in the Order Extending Deadlines (the "State Bar's Motion to Extend") [doc. 172]. Plaintiff did not oppose the State Bar's Motion to Extend. On December 11, 2017, the State Bar voluntarily dismissed the State Bar's Motion to Extend [doc. 187]. On December 14, 2017, Plaintiff filed her own motion to extend deadlines ("Plaintiff's Motion to Extend") [doc. 192].

In the meanwhile, both parties filed several discovery related motions. On November 22, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for an order requiring the State Bar to comply with Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 30(b)(6) by designating a knowledgeable person and allowing an amendment to Plaintiff's deposition topics ("Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance") [doc. 176]. Plaintiff is asking the Court to order the State bar to produce a knowledgeable witness. On December 14, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to strike Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance (the "Motion to Strike") [doc. 189], asking the Court to strike Plaintiff's Motion for Deposition Compliance on the basis that Plaintiff did not enter into a joint stipulation with the State Bar in accordance with Local Bankruptcy Rule 7026-1(c).

On December 7, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to compel the continued deposition of Plaintiff (the "State Bar's Motion to Compel") [doc. 181], asserting that Plaintiff refused to answer questions regarding her law practice, Marilyn Scheer Law Group PC ("MSLG"). On December 15, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for a protective order (the "Motion for Deposition Order") [doc. 194], asking the Court to prohibit the State Bar from questioning Plaintiff about MSLG. On January 23, 2018, Plaintiff filed an opposition to the State Bar's Motion to Compel (the "Opposition to the State Bar's Motion to Compel") [doc. 236]. On January 24, 2018, the State Bar filed an opposition to the Motion for Deposition Order (the "Opposition to the Motion for Deposition Order") [doc. 237].

On December 27, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for leave to join additional defendants to this action (the "Motion to Join") [doc. 205]. On January 4, 2018, Plaintiff filed a motion for a protective order requesting the Court seal Plaintiff's medical records and tax returns (the "Motion for Records Order") [doc. 209].

On January 11, 2018, the State Bar filed seven motions in limine to exclude certain evidence at trial (the "Motions in Limine") [doc. 213]. Finally, on January 17, 2018, the State Bar filed another protective order, requesting a global protective order to govern this adversary proceeding (the "Motion for Global Protective Order") [doc. 225].

II. ANALYSIS

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 26(b)(1)—

Unless otherwise limited by court order, the scope of discovery is as follows: Parties may obtain discovery regarding any nonprivileged matter that is relevant to any party's claim or defense and proportional to the needs of the case, considering the importance of the issues at stake in the action, the amount in controversy, the parties' relative access to relevant information, the parties' resources, the importance of the discovery in resolving the issues, and whether the burden or expense of the proposed discovery outweighs its likely benefit. Information within this scope of discovery need not be admissible in evidence to be discoverable.

Pursuant to Rule 26(b)(2)(C)(iii), "the court must limit the frequency or extent of discovery otherwise allowed by these rules or by local rule if it determines that...the proposed discovery is outside the scope permitted by Rule 26(b)(1)." Under Rule 26(c)(1)—

A party or any person from whom discovery is sought may move for a protective order in the court where the action is pending -- or as an alternative on matters relating to a deposition, in the court for the district where the deposition will be taken. The motion must include a certification that the movant has in good faith conferred or attempted to confer with other affected parties in an effort to resolve the dispute without court action. The court may, for good cause, issue an order to protect a party or person from annoyance, embarrassment, oppression, or undue burden or expense....

"Rule 26(c) confers broad discretion on the trial court to decide when a protective order is appropriate and what degree of protection is required." Seattle Times Co. v. Rhinehart, 467 U.S. 20, 36, 104 S.Ct. 2199, 81 L.Ed.2d 17 (1984). The party seeking the protective order has the burden "to 'show good cause' by demonstrating harm or prejudice that will result from the discovery." Rivera v. NIBCO, Inc., 364 F.3d 1057, 1063 (9th Cir.2004).

"Broad allegations of harm, unsubstantiated by specific examples or articulated reasoning, do not satisfy the Rule 26(c) test." Beckman Indus., Inc. v. Int'l Ins. Co., 966 F.2d 470, 475 (9th Cir. 1992) (citing Cipollone v. Liggett Group, Inc., 785 F.2d 1108, 1121 (3rd Cir. 1986)). Rather, "[t]he party opposing disclosure has the burden of proving 'good cause,' which requires a showing 'that specific prejudice or harm will result' if the protective order is not granted." In re Roman Catholic Archbishop of Portland in Oregon, 661 F.3d 417, 424 (9th Cir.2011) (quoting Foltz v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 331 F.3d 1122, 1130 (9th Cir.2003)).

Here, the State Bar's inquiries regarding MSLG are highly relevant to Plaintiff's request for damages based on lost wages and emotional distress. As to Plaintiff's claim for lost wages, Plaintiff asserts she is willing to stipulate that she made no money from MSLG. However, Plaintiff refused to answer other questions regarding MSLG, such as why Plaintiff was winding down MSLG and what kind of work she was doing for MSLG. These questions are also relevant to Plaintiff's claim of lost wages because Plaintiff is asserting, had it not been for the State Bar placing her on involuntary inactive enrollment, Plaintiff would have been hired by other law firms. Plaintiff's experience at MSLG is relevant to the type of firm and/or practice for which Plaintiff would qualify.

In addition, although Plaintiff briefly mentions that certain information is privileged, Plaintiff has not specified what kind of privileged information the State Bar sought. It does not appear that the State Bar has asked for Plaintiff's work product or attorney-client communications.

Moreover, the information about Plaintiff's state of mind at the time she was winding down her firm is also relevant to Plaintiff's emotional distress damages. If Plaintiff is to argue that the State Bar's refusal to lift Plaintiff's involuntary inactive enrollment caused her emotional distress, the State Bar is entitled to obtain discovery that may show other factors caused Plaintiff's emotional distress.

In light of the above, all of the information sought by the State Bar is relevant. The next issue is whether there is "good cause" to protect Plaintiff from "annoyance, embarrassment, oppression, or undue burden or expense...." Rule 26(c)(1). At this time, it does not appear the State Bar has asked inappropriate questions that would result in annoyance, embarrassment or oppression. Plaintiff has refused to answer relevant questions regarding MSLG, which questions go at the heart of the remaining issue in this adversary proceeding, namely, damages. As such, there is no good cause to enter a protective order.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will grant the State Bar's Motion to Compel and deny the Motion for Deposition Order. The parties should be ready to discuss a time and date for the Plaintiff's continued deposition.

The State Bar must submit an order within seven (7) days.

#6.00 Motion for relief from stay [RP]

PROF-2013-S3 LEGAL TITLE TRUST BY U.S. BANK NA
VS
DEBTOR

Docket 106

Tentative Ruling:

Grant relief from the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. §§ 362(d)(1) and (d)(2). If movant wishes to pursue relief from the automatic stay under § 362(d)(4), the Court will set an evidentiary hearing on that issue.

I. BACKGROUND

Movant is the beneficiary of a trust deed encumbering the real property at issue, located at 17977 Medley Drive, Encino, CA 91316-4377 (the "Property"). As of the filing of its motion, movant held a secured claim in the amount of $1,560,944.20. Movant also is the holder of a promissory note endorsed in blank as to the Property.

Steven Nia (the "Debtor") is the identified borrower on movant's deed of trust and promissory note. In his schedules, the Debtor stated that the value of the Property is $1,400,000. The Debtor also listed approximately $2,499,607 in claims secured by the Property.

On January 30, 2015, movant recorded a notice of default as to the Property. (Real Property Declaration, ¶ 9a.) On December 7, 2016, movant recorded a notice of sale as to the Property. (Id., ¶ 9b.) A foreclosure sale was scheduled for January 9, 2017 and for January 9, 2018. (Id., ¶¶ 9c, d.)

On September 9, 2015, the Debtor allegedly executed a grant deed, purporting to grant a 5% interest in the Property to Edmundo Cornejo. On September 10, 2015, Edmundo Cornejo filed case no. 2:15-bk-24078-VZ. On September 29, 2015, this case was dismissed for failure to schedules, statements, and/or plan. (Exh. 5.)

On November 8, 2015, the Debtor allegedly executed a grant deed, purporting to grant a 5% interest in the Property to Angela Malone. On November 30, 2015, Angela Malone filed case no. 2:15-bk-27171-NB. On November 30, 2015, this case was dismissed for failure to schedules, statements, and/or plan. (Exh. 7.)

On February 29, 2016, the Debtor allegedly executed a grant deed, purporting to grant a 5% interest in the Property to Griselda Vega De Guevara. On March 1, 2016, Griselda Vega De Guevara filed case no. 6:16-bk-11808-MJ. On March 21, 2016, this case was dismissed for failure to schedules, statements, and/or plan. (Exh. 8.)

On April 28, 2016, the Debtor allegedly executed a grant deed, purporting to grant a 5% interest in the Property to Florencio Burquez. On April 29, 2016, Florencio Burquez filed case no. 1:16-bk-11302-MB. On May 17, 2016, this case was dismissed for failure to schedules, statements, and/or plan. (Exh. 9.)

On June 29, 2016, the Debtor allegedly executed a grant deed, purporting to grant a 5% interest in the Property to Mi Kyung Hur. On June 30, 2016, Mi Kyung Hur filed case no. 2:16-bk-18732-NB. On July 18, 2016, this case was dismissed for failure to schedules, statements, and/or plan. (Exh. 10.)

On January 5, 2017, the Debtor allegedly executed a grant deed, purporting to grant a 5% interest in the Property to Rachel Malone. On January 6, 2017, Rachel Malone filed case no. 2:17-bk-10225-SK. On January 24, 2017, this case was dismissed for failure to schedules, statements, and/or plan. (Exh. 11.)

case no. 2:17-bk-15845-WB. On May 30, 2017, this case was dismissed for failure to schedules, statements, and/or plan. (Exh. 13.)

On June 4, 2017, the Debtor filed a chapter 11 petition, commencing this case. On July 24, 2017, this case was converted from chapter 11 to chapter 7. David K. Gottlieb (the “Trustee”) was appointed chapter 7 trustee.

On February 12, 2018, movant filed the pending motion for relief from the automatic stay as to the Property, seeking relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 362(d)(1), (d)(2), and (d)(4) (the “Motion”) [doc. 106]. As of the date of the Motion, the Trustee had not filed a notice of abandonment of the Property. The Trustee has not opposed or otherwise responded to the Motion.

On February 21, 2018, the Debtor filed his opposition to the Motion (the “Opposition”) [doc. 108]. In the Opposition, the Debtor states that the grant deeds at issue were never recorded. The grant deeds were all notarized by the same notary, whose commission appears to have expired. The Debtor denies signing any of the grant deeds. The Debtor also states that he and movant previously had entered into a short sale to a purchaser for $1.1 million, but that this sale did not close. The Debtor further states that he would like to effectuate a short sale of the Property.

II. DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) provides for relief from the automatic stay “for cause, including the lack of adequate protection of an interest in property of such party in interest[.]”

11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(2) provides for relief from the automatic stay “with respect to a stay of an act against property under subsection (a) of this section, if . . . (A) the debtor does not have an equity in such property; and (B) such property is not necessary to an effective reorganization[.]”

11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(4) provides for relief from the automatic stay:

with respect to a stay of an act against real property under subsection (a), by a creditor whose claim is secured by an interest in such real property, if the court finds that the filing of the petition was part of a scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors that involved either—

(A) transfer of all or part ownership of, or other interest in, such real property without the consent of the secured creditor or court approval; or

(B) multiple bankruptcy filings affecting such real property.

If recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in real property, an order entered under paragraph (4) shall be binding in any other case under this title purporting to affect such real property filed not later than 2 years after the date of the entry of such order by the court, except that a debtor in a subsequent case under this title may move for relief from such order based upon changed circumstances or for good cause shown, after notice and a hearing. Any Federal, State, or local governmental unit that accepts notices of interests or liens in real property shall accept any certified copy of an order described in this subsection for indexing and recording.

Relief from the automatic stay appears warranted under § 362(d)(1). There appears to be an insufficient equity cushion as to movant's interest in the Property. The Debtor's schedules identify approximately $2,499,606.96 in claims secured by the Property, which has a scheduled value of $1,400,000. In the Opposition, the Debtor alleges that the value of the Property is $1,100,000, less than the amount stated in his schedules. In the motion, movant asserts a claim in the total amount of $1,560,944.20, which exceeds both the scheduled value of the Property and the Debtor's latest opinion of value.

Relief from the automatic stay appears warranted under § 362(d)(2). As noted above, there appears to be no equity in the Property. In addition, because this is a chapter 7 case, the Property is not necessary to an effective reorganization.

Regarding relief under § 362(d)(4), at this time the Court will not conclude that the Debtor's filing of the petition in this case was part of a scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors. In the Opposition, the Debtor alleges that he did not sign the grant deeds purporting to transfer fractional interests in the Property to the various transferees. Movant has not responded to these allegations. If Movant wishes to obtain relief under § 362(d)(4), the Court will set an evidentiary hearing on this issue.

Regarding the Debtor's pursuit of a short sale, the Debtor's case was converted to chapter 7. As noted above, the Trustee has not abandoned the Property, and the Property remains property of the bankruptcy estate. Therefore, as of now, the Debtor does not have the ability to sell the Property.

III. CONCLUSION

In light of the foregoing, the Court will grant relief from the automatic stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

Movant (and any successors or assigns) may proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to foreclose upon and obtain possession of the Property.

Upon entry of the order, for purposes of Cal. Civ. Code § 2923.5, the Debtor is a borrower as defined in Cal. Civ. Code § 2920.5(c)(2)(C).

The 14-day stay prescribed by FRBP 4001(a)(3) is waived.

Movant must submit the order within seven (7) days.

Grant as to the § 523(a) causes of action, with leave to amend the claim of defalcation under § 523(a)(4), and deny in part and grant in part as to the § 727(a)(4)(A) cause of action.

I. BACKGROUND

On August 21, 2017, Yegiya Kutyan and Haykush Helen Kutyan ("Defendants") filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition.

On November 27, 2017, Pogo Araik Melkonian ("Plaintiff") filed a complaint against Defendants (the "Complaint"), seeking nondischargeability of the debt owed to him pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2), (a)(4) and (a)(6) and for denial of discharge pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(4)(A). Through the Complaint, Plaintiff makes a number of allegations regarding Defendants' misconduct. The central thrust of these allegations is that Defendants were co-conspirators with George Pilavjian ("Pilavjian") and Sona Chukhyan ("Chukhyan") (Pilavjian and Chukhyan together, "Criminals") in a scheme to induce loans fraudulently from Plaintiff and others.

According to Plaintiff, between June 2008 and August 2008, Defendants solicited him for multiple loans for their real estate investment business. The Defendants repaid the loans Plaintiff made during that period on time and with profit. Between September 2008 and March 2009, Defendants solicited further loans from Plaintiff in the amounts of $165,000, $260,000, $100,000 and $55,000, respectively, for the alleged purpose of purchasing properties. On December 6, 2008, Defendant Haykush made interest-only payments to Plaintiff in the amount of $9,000 and $5,000 (Complaint, Exh. 1).

On January 16, 2009, JBA Company, LLC ("JBA"), a company owned and operated by Pilavjian, made a partial repayment on the loans in the amount of $160,000 (Complaint, Exh. 2). Plaintiff's bank rejected the check for insufficient funds. Plaintiff contacted Defendant Yegiya who told him to redeposit the check. Plaintiff's son redeposited the check on two different occasions and both times it was returned for insufficient funds. On June 25, 2010, Plaintiff discovered the account from which the check was drawn had been closed.

Plaintiff alleges that in oral conversations with Plaintiff about the dishonored check, Defendants represented to Plaintiff that there was a mistake and that his money was secure. Defendants promised to execute and deliver a promissory note evidencing the debt owed to Plaintiff by Defendants. Plaintiff alleges that Defendants made similar assurances that his loan was secure and safe and would be repaid with interest throughout the period from when the loans were made to approximately June 2010.

On July 30, 2009, Defendants allegedly organized a meeting where Defendant Yegiya, Criminals, Plaintiff and his son were present. Chukhyan presented a portfolio of real estate properties that they represented were on the market. Defendant Yegiya and Criminals represented to Plaintiff that when a property sold, Plaintiff would be repaid.

On September 3, 2009, Plavjian executed a "Note Secured by Deed of Trust" wherein he promised to pay Plaintiff's son $600,000 with 6.5% interest by September 3, 2011 (Complaint, Exh. 3). On December 23, 2009, Plavjian, on behalf of JBA and allegedly at Defendant Yegiya's direction, executed a second note secured by a deed of trust promising to pay Plaintiff's son $600,000 by December 23, 2010 (Complaint, Exh. 4). On May 14, 2010, Defendant Yegiya executed a promissory note promising to pay Plaintiff $600,000, but which did not specify a due date (Complaint, Exh. 5-6).

On June 5, 2010, Plaintiff contends that Defendants invited Plaintiff to their home to discuss repayment of Plaintiff's loans. On June 7, 2010, Defendants filed a civil harassment restraining order against Plaintiff.

Plaintiff alleges that he was not aware that Defendants and Criminals had defrauded him until October 17, 2013. Plaintiff contends that he became aware through the local news that Chukhyan had been arrested and charged for felony fraud charges for operating a Ponzi scheme in which Plavjian and JBA were identified as co-schemers.

Plaintiff argues that he could not have discovered the fraud and deceit earlier.

On May 15, 2014, Plaintiff filed a suit against Defendants, Criminals and JBA in the Los Angeles County Superior Court. The state court has not entered a judgment in that action.

On August 21, 2017, Defendants filed a chapter 11 petition. Through the Complaint, Plaintiff argues that the Defendants made the following materially false statements in the petition: (1) failing to identify themselves as "small business debtors" and failing to attach the required documentation; (2) stating false values for their electronics, jewelry and ownerships interests in their businesses; (3) stating a false monthly income for their businesses; (4) stating false expenses for their mortgage, utilities and health insurance; and (5) stating that JP Morgan Chase Bank's claim is "unliquidated," "contingent" and "disputed" when it is not.

On January 3, 2018, Defendants filed the Motion to Dismiss the Adversary Complaint with Prejudice (the "Motion") [doc. 10]. Defendants argue first that Plaintiff's claims under 11 U.S.C. § 523 are barred by the California statute of limitations for actions alleging fraud. Because Plaintiff could have discovered his injury through reasonable diligence in 2010, filing his action in 2014 was not within California's three year statute of limitations. Defendants also argue that the causes of action under § 523 should be dismissed because the Plaintiff has not alleged specific facts beyond legal conclusions in their support.

As for the 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(4) cause of action, Defendants argue that Plaintiff has failed to allege that Defendants knew any of the information was inflated or false and that they had any intention of deceiving their creditors.

On February 21, 2018, Plaintiff filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 15]. In the Opposition, among other things, Plaintiff presents a series of new facts, including that Defendants had agents deliver checks to Plaintiffs [doc. 15, p. 8, lines 10-16] and elaborating on facts stated in the Complaint [doc. 15, p. 10, lines 2-3, 6-15].

Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6)

Chapter 11

Defendants argue that all four causes of action in the complaint should be dismissed for failure to state a claim pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("FRCP") 12(b)(6).

Courts grant motions to dismiss under FRCP 12(b)(6) where the Complaint fails to state enough factual content to allow the court to "draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged." Fayer v. Vaughn, 649 F.3d 1061, 1064 (9th Cir. 2011) (internal quotation marks omitted) (citing, inter alia, Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 547 (2007); Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678, (2009)). In addition, courts do not "assume the truth of legal conclusions merely because they are cast in the form of factual allegations." Id. When ruling on a Rule 12(b)(6) motion, the court  cannot consider "new" facts alleged in a plaintiff's opposition papers. See Schneider v. California Dept. of Corrections, 151 F.3d 1194, 1197 (9th Cir. 1998).

Pursuant to FRCP 9(b), "[i]n alleging fraud or mistake, a party must state with particularity the circumstances constituting fraud or mistake. Malice, intent, knowledge, and other conditions of a person's mind may be alleged generally." Allegations must be "specific enough to give defendants notice of the particular misconduct which is alleged to constitute the fraud charged..." Neubronner v. Milken, 6 F.3d 666, 671 (9th Cir. 1993). "[M]ere conclusory allegations of fraud are insufficient." Moore v. Kayport Package Exp., Inc., 885 F.2d 531, 540 (9th Cir. 1989).

Where a complaint is insufficient under FRCP 12(b)(6), a court has discretion to grant the plaintiff leave to amend. Under FRCP 15(a)(2) "the court should freely give leave [to amend] when justice so requires." However, dismissal without leave to amend is appropriate when the court is satisfied that the deficiencies in the complaint could not possibly be cured by amendment. Jackson v. Carey, 353 F.3d 750, 758 (9th Cir. 2003).

- (3) an intent to deceive;
- (4) justifiable reliance by the creditor on the debtor’s statement or conduct; and Representations made without an intent to perform satisfy the first three requirements of a claim under § 523(a)(2)(A). In re Rubin, 875 F.2d 755, 759 (9th Cir. 1989). A promise can also be considered fraudulent when the promisor knew or should have known of his inability to perform. In re Barrack, 217 B.R. 598, 606 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1998). A promise to perform in the future is not a false representation or false pretense unless the debtor did not have intent to perform at the time he made the representation. Matter of Bercier, 934 F.2d 689, 691-92 (5th Cir. 1991) ("A mere promise to be executed in the future is not sufficient to make a debt nondischargeable, even though there is no excuse for the subsequent breach.") "The courts interpret discovery in this context to mean not when the plaintiff became aware of the specific wrong alleged, but when the plaintiff suspected or should have suspected that an injury was caused by wrongdoing." Kline, 87 Cal. App. 4th at 1374. "The statute of limitations begins to run when the plaintiff has information which would put a reasonable person on inquiry." Id.

A complaint that shows on its face facts suggesting that it is barred must "specifically plead facts to show (1) the time and manner of discovery and (2) the inability to have made earlier discovery despite reasonable diligence." E-Fab, Inc. v. Accountants, Inc. Servs., 153 Cal. App. 4th 1308, 1319 (2007).

Plaintiff asserts that Defendants' constant reassurances and their personal friendship with him (e.g. inviting him to family gatherings) led Plaintiff to trust Defendants, and not discover their fraud until years later. However, the Complaint contains facts indicating that Plaintiff was on inquiry notice in 2010. The Complaint alleges that in January 2009 Plavjian issued a $160,000 check to Plaintiff which was rejected twice and which Plaintiff discovered was from a closed account in June 2010 [doc. 1, ¶ 18]. Also in June 2010, Defendants filed for a civil harassment restraining order against Plaintiff in order to prevent Plaintiff from contacting Defendants [doc. 1, ¶29]. In December 2010, payments on Plavjian's note came due, and Plaintiff was not paid [doc. 1, ¶22].

A reasonable person could not ignore the events detailed in the Complaint, even with Defendants' oral reassurances and former personal friendship. Plaintiff alleges that he took numerous steps throughout 2010 to recover some of his loans, and Defendants and Criminals responded with evasion. This conduct would, at the very least, raise a reasonable person's suspicion that he would not be paid back. Even if the statute did not start running until Plavjian's note came due in December 2010, the May 15, 2014 state court complaint was filed beyond the California statute of limitations. Plaintiff has not provided any plausible explanation as to why he took no action while his sizeable loans were outstanding for three years.

Because he was on inquiry notice of his injury in 2010, Plaintiff cannot show that he filed his May 2014 state court action within the California statute of limitations. Accordingly the 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2) and (a)(6) causes of action, which are based on fraud, are time barred. The Court will grant the Motion as to those causes of action.

11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(4)

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(4), a bankruptcy discharge does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt "for fraud or defalcation while acting in a fiduciary capacity, embezzlement, or larceny." A debt is nondischargeable for fraud or defalcation while acting in a fiduciary capacity "where (1) an express trust existed, (2) the debt was caused by fraud or defalcation, and (3) the debtor acted as a fiduciary to the creditor at the time the debt was created." In re Niles, 106 F.3d 1456, 1459 (9th Cir. 1997).

Whether a relationship is a fiduciary one within the meaning of § 523(a)(4) is a question of federal law. Ragsdale v. Haller, 780 F.2d 794, 795 (9th Cir. 1986); see also In re Cantrell, 269 B.R. 413, 420 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2001) In the context of dischargeability, the fiduciary relationship must arise from an express or technical trust that was imposed before and without reference to the wrongdoing that caused the debt. Ragsdale, 780 F.2d at 796; see also In re Stern, 403 B.R. 58, 66 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2009) ("In order for the debt to be actionable for nondischargeability, the debtor must have been a trustee before the alleged wrong and without reference thereto; the debtor must have already been a trustee before the debt was created."); Cantrell, 269 B.R. at 420 ("Only relationships arising from express or technical trusts qualify as fiduciary relationships under § 523(a)(4)."). Under § 523(a)(4), the "scope of the term 'fiduciary capacity' is a question of federal law," but "the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has considered state law to ascertain whether the requisite trust relationship exists." In re Honkanen, 446 B.R. 373, 379 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2011); Ragsdale, 780 F.2d at 796.

"A trust under California law may be formed by express agreement, by statute, or by case law." Cantrell, 269 B.R. at 420. An express trust under California law requires the following five elements: (1) present intent to create a trust; (2) a trustee; (3) trust property; (4) a proper legal purpose; and (5) a beneficiary. Honkanen, at 379 fn. 6 (citing Cal. Prob. Code §§ 15201–15205). A technical trust under California law is one "arising from the relation of attorney, executor, or guardian, and not to debts due by a bankrupt in the character of an agent, factor, commission merchant, and the like." Id., at fn. 7 (quoting Royal Indemnity Co. v. Sherman, 269 P.2d 123, 125 (Cal. Ct. App. 1954). Additionally, "[t]rusts arising as remedial devices to breaches of implied or express contracts—such as resulting or constructive trusts—are excluded, while statutory trusts that bear the hallmarks of an express trust are not." Id. (citing In re Pedrazzini, 644 F.2d 756, 759 (9th Cir. 1981)).

The Complaint does not include sufficient allegations to state a cause of action under § 523(a)(4). Under the authorities above, Plaintiff did not allege a fiduciary relationship as defined under § 523(a)(4). The fiduciary relationship must arise from an express or technical trust. Plaintiff's arguments in the Opposition that a trust relationship arose when Defendants befriended and solicited loans from him are inapposite, because these allegations do not show the existence of an express or technical trust. In addition, Plaintiff consistently refers to his interactions with Defendants as loans. A loan, without more, does not create a fiduciary relationship. See In re Mbunda, 484 B.R. 344 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2012).

Further, Plaintiff fails to allege larceny or embezzlement as defined under § 523(a)(4). "Embezzlement" within the meaning of § 523(a)(4) requires three elements: (1) property rightfully in the possession of the non-owner debtor, (2) the non-owner's misappropriation of the property to a use other than that for which it was entrusted, and (3) circumstances indicating fraud. In re Littleton, 942 F.2d 551, 555 (9th Cir. 1991). "The elements of larceny differ only in that a larcenous debtor has come into possession of funds wrongfully." In re Mickens, 312 B.R. 666, 680 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2004).

Plaintiff fails to allege sufficient facts to show embezzlement because he does not allege that Defendants misappropriated the loans to a use other than that of buying real property. Similarly, Plaintiff fails to allege that Defendants came into possession of the money wrongfully, so a claim of larceny is inappropriate. Plaintiff admits he loaned the money the Defendants.

As discussed above, to the extent that Plaintiff presents any cause of action based on fraud, that cause of action is time barred. However, Plaintiff may have knowledge of facts tending to support a claim of defalcation in a fiduciary capacity under § 523(a)(4). Accordingly, the Court will grant leave to amend with respect to Plaintiff's § 523

(a)(4) claim, in the context of defalcation in a fiduciary capacity.

Plaintiff also fails to include sufficient allegations to state a claim under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6). Section 523(a)(6) states that a discharge under 11 U.S.C. § 727 does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt "for willful and malicious injury by the debtor to another entity or to the property of another entity." Under FRCP 9(b), "[m]alice, intent, knowledge, and other conditions of a person's mind may be alleged generally."

A simple breach of contract is not the type of injury intended to be covered by § 523(a)(6). In re Jercich, 238 F.3d 1202, 1205 (9th Cir. 2001); In re Riso, 978 F.2d 1151, 1154 (9th Cir. 1992); see also Lockerby v. Sierra, 535 F.3d 1038, 1041 (9th Cir. 2008) (breach of contract not "willful and malicious" under § 523(a)(6) unless accompanied by conduct that constitutes a tort under state law).

Defendants' mere failure to pay back Plaintiff's loans is not sufficient to support a claim under § 523(a)(6). Thus, Plaintiff must assert a claim under § 523(a)(6) based on Defendants' allegedly fraudulent conduct. As discussed above, Plaintiff's claims based on fraud are barred by the California statute of limitations.

Section 727(a)(4)(A) denies a discharge to a debtor who "knowingly and fraudulently" made a false oath or account in the course of the bankruptcy proceedings. In order to bring a successful § 727(a)(4)(A) claim for false oath, the plaintiff must show: (1) the debtor made a false oath in connection with the case; (2) the oath related to a material fact; (3) the oath was made knowingly; and (4) the oath was made fraudulently. In re Wills, 243 B.R. 58, 62 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1999). "[A] false oath may involve a false statement or omission in the debtor's schedules." In re Roberts, 331 B.R. 876, 882 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2005), aff'd and remanded on other grounds, 241 F. App'x 420 (9th Cir. 2007).

disposition of the debtor's property." Retz v. Samson (In re Retz), 606 F.3d 1189, 1198 (9th Cir. 2010)(quoting Khalil, 379 B.R. at 173). "A debtor acts knowingly if he or she acts deliberately and consciously." Retz, 606 F.3d at 1198 (quoting In re Khalil, 379 B.R. at 173) (internal quotation omitted).

The fraud provision of § 727(a)(4) is similar to common law fraud, which the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has described as follows:

The creditor must show that (1) the debtor made the representations; (2) that at the time he knew they were false; (3) that he made them with the intention and purpose of deceiving the creditors; (4) that the creditors relied on such representations; (5) that the creditors sustained loss and damage as the proximate result of the representations having been made.

In re Roberts, 331 B.R. 876, 884 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2005), aff'd and remanded on other grounds, 241 F. App'x 420 (9th Cir. 2007).

Intent must usually be established by circumstantial evidence or inferences drawn from the debtor's course of conduct. Khalil v. Developers Sur. & Indem. Co. (In re Khalil), 379 B.R. 163, 174 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2007) (circumstances might include multiple omissions or failure to clear up omissions), aff'd, 578 F.3d 1167. "(T)he cumulative effect of false statements may, when taken together, evidence a reckless disregard for the truth sufficient to support a finding of fraudulent intent" under § 727 (a)(4). Stamat v. Neary, 635 F3d 974, 982 (7th Cir. 2011).

Plaintiff alleges that Defendants knowingly and fraudulently failed to indicate that they are "small business debtors" as defined in 11 U.S.C. § 101(51D). Pursuant to § 101(51D)—

The term "small business debtor"--
(A) subject to subparagraph (B), means a person engaged in commercial or business activities (including any affiliate of such person that is also a debtor under this title and excluding a person whose primary activity is the business of owning or operating real property or activities incidental thereto) that has aggregate noncontingent liquidated secured and unsecured debts as of the date of the filing of the petition or the date of the order for relief in an amount not more than $2,566,050 (excluding debts owed to 1 or more affiliates or insiders) for a case in which the United States trustee has not appointed under section 1102(a)(1) a committee of unsecured creditors or where the court has determined that the committee of unsecured creditors is not sufficiently active and representative to provide effective oversight of the debtor; and

(B) does not include any member of a group of affiliated debtors that has aggregate noncontingent liquidated secured and unsecured debts in an amount greater than $2,566,0501 (excluding debt owed to 1 or more affiliates or insiders).

The small business debtor designation is not an election. If a debtor qualifies § 101 (51D), the debtor must indicate that on their petition. See In re Roots Rents, Inc., 420 B.R. 28, 35 (Bankr. D. Idaho 2009). The small business debtor designation requires a debtor to provide extra disclosures in a case and changes certain case deadlines. Regarding those disclosures, in the Central District of California, the United States Trustee requires that all debtors provide substantially the same disclosures in a "seven day package." Here, Defendants also have provided such information in their disclosure statement.

Assuming that Defendants' case qualifies as a small business case, because Defendants were required to provide similar disclosures regardless of a small business debtor designation, it is unlikely that Defendants had the requisite fraudulent intent. However, given Plaintiff's other allegations regarding misstatements in the petition, the Court will not make that determination for purposes of the Motion.

The Complaint also alleges that Defendants misstated values for their electronics and jewelry. Defendants argue that any misstatement of the value of these items is not material because they are exempt under California Code of Civil Procedure §§ 704.020 and 704.040. Pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure § 704.020 household furnishings and other personal effects are exempt if they are "ordinarily and reasonably necessary to and personally used or procured by the judgment debtor and members of the judgment debtor's family at the judgment debtor's principal place of residence." An item is not ordinarily and reasonably necessary if the item has "extraordinary value as compared to the value of items of the same type found in other households." Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 704.020. Under California Code of Civil Procedure § 704.040, jewelry, heirlooms, and works of art are exempt to the extent that the aggregate equity therein does not exceed $8,000. Cal. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 704.020 and 703.150.

Of Defendants' electronics, the Complaint states:

Defendants state that they own a [sic] "iPhone 6; iPhone 7; Macbook Air; iPad; 6 televisions; DVD player" with a total value of $700. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and on that basis alleges, that Defendants have purposefully understated the value of their electronics.

[doc. 1, p. 10]. A misstatement of the values of these items is only material to Defendants' bankruptcy case if these items have extraordinary values as compared to other households. Plaintiff has not asserted why he thinks the electronics are of extraordinary value. Consequently, the Complaint does not provide enough factual content to draw the reasonable inference that Defendants are liable for the misconduct alleged.

Of Defendants' jewelry, the Complaint states:

Defendants state they own a [sic] "2 wedding bands and 1 engagement ring" with a total value of "$1,000." Plaintiff is informed and believes, and on that basis alleges, that Defendants have purposefully understated the value of their jewelry and have failed to disclose additional jewelry that they own."

[doc. 1, p. 10]. A misstatement of the value of the jewelry that Defendants own is only material to the Defendants' bankruptcy case if the aggregate value of these items exceeds $8,000. Plaintiff has not alleged any reason aside from that he believes the Defendants own jewelry with an aggregate value in excess of that amount. Again, the Complaint does not provide enough factual content to draw the reasonable inference that Defendants' representations concerning their jewelry constitute material omissions under § 727(a)(4)(A).

Plaintiff additionally alleges that Defendants made false statements regarding the amount of their expenses for their mortgage, utilities and health insurance. The amounts of these expenses are material because they are used to calculate Defendants' disposable income. See In re Song, No. ADV RS 08-01291-MJ, 2011 WL 6934462, at *7 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. Sept. 30, 2011).

Plaintiff states that Defendants' Schedule J lists "inflated" figures of $550 for utilities and $966 for health insurance. Plaintiff does not explain why he believes that these expenses are inflated figures. Plaintiff has not presented sufficient factual allegations to base a § 727(a)(4)(A) claim on these alleged misstatements.

Plaintiff further asserts that Defendants have grossly undervalued their business assets and understated the monthly income for their business. Plaintiff points to the Defendants' Statement of Financial Affairs, which states much higher yearly gross income for the businesses in 2015 and 2016 than the monthly income the Defendants reported on their Schedule I. In light of the prior yearly income, the current value of Defendants' businesses may be higher than Defendants allege. Disclosures concerning the value of Defendants' businesses are material because they may be significant assets of the estate.

The question before the Court is whether the Complaint included sufficient facts, if taken as true, to support a cause of action under §727(a)(4)(A). Under the Rule 12(b)(6) standard, the Court takes these allegations as true. Because Plaintiff has provided sufficient factual allegations to state a claim under § 727(a)(4)(A) about the valuation of Defendants' businesses, the Court will deny the Motion as to that claim. However, as to Plaintiff's allegations regarding Defendants' Schedule J expenses, current business income, electronics and jewelry, the Court will grant the Motion, with leave to amend.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will grant the Motion, without leave to amend, as to Plaintiff's causes of action under § 523(a)(2) and (a)(6). The Court will grant with leave to amend as to Plaintiff's cause of action for defalcation under § 523(a)(4).

The Court will deny the Motion as to Plaintiff's allegations regarding the valuation of Defendants' businesses under § 727(a)(4)(A), but will grant with leave to amend regarding Defendants' allegedly false oaths concerning their Schedule J expenses, current business income, electronics and jewelry.

The Motion to Dismiss or Convert

On October 20, 2017, the United States Trustee (the "UST") filed a motion to dismiss or convert this case pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1112(b) (the "Motion to Dismiss or Convert") [doc. 51]. On January 17, 2018, AAA Nursing Services Inc. (the "Debtor") filed its November 2017 MOR [doc. 93]. The Debtor reported no expenses paid for November 2017. (Doc. 93, Exh. D.)

On January 25, 2018, the UST filed a Supplement to Motion to Dismiss or Convert Case (the "Supplement") [doc. 96]. In the Supplement, the UST stated that the Debtor did not timely file a December 2017 MOR. The Debtor did not provide a "list of unpaid bills" in its November 2017 MOR, and the UST did not waive this requirement. The Debtor has 36 employees and reported that it did not pay any expenses in November 2017. (Declaration of Russell Clementson, doc. 96, ¶¶ 3–4; Exh. 1.) As a result of the failure to timely file MORs, the UST was not able to evaluate the Debtor's financial condition. The UST requested conversion of the Debtor's case, or, in the alternative, the appointment of a chapter 11 trustee.

On February 5, 2018, the patient care ombudsman (the "Ombudsman") appointed in the Debtor's case filed a Revised Professional Fee Statement [doc. 97], indicating that a check tendered by the Debtor to the Ombudsman in the amount of $3,335 was returned unpaid. On February 21, 2018, the Court entered an order granting the Motion to Dismiss or Convert and converting the Debtor's case to chapter 7 [doc. 105].

*The Pending Fee Application

Chapter 11

On January 16, 2018, applicant filed its first interim application for compensation and reimbursement of expenses (the "Application") [doc. 89]. On February 15, 2018, the Court entered an order granting the Application in part and authorizing applicant to draw down on its prepetition retainer in partial payment of its fees and expenses, in the amount of $12,449.41 [doc. 101]. The Court also instructed applicant to file a declaration regarding the Debtor's ability to pay the remaining balance of applicant's fees and expenses. The Court continued the hearing to March 8, 2018.

As of March 7, 2018, the applicant has not filed such a declaration. In light of the conversion of the Debtor's case to chapter 7 and the Debtor's present financial condition, the Court will not rule on the balance of applicant's requested fees at this time.

Appearances on March 8, 2018 are excused.

#2.10 Application for interim fees and/or expenses by Giovanni Orantes, debtor's attorney from: 2/22/18

Docket 230

Tentative Ruling:

The Orantes Law Firm, P.C. ("Applicant"), counsel for the debtor – approve fees of $71,270.50 and reimbursement of expenses of $6,342.53, on an interim basis. In light of the cash currently available in the estate, Applicant may collect 60% of the approved fees and 100% of the approved expenses at this time. The Court has not approved $10,497.50 in fees and $61.93 in expenses for the reasons stated below.

11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(1)(A) provides that a court may award to a professional person employed under § 327 "reasonable compensation for actual, necessary services" rendered by the professional person. "In determining the amount of reasonable compensation to be awarded to the professional person, the court shall consider the nature, the extent and the value of such services, taking into account all relevant factors, including—(A) the time spent on such services; (B) the rates charged for such services; (C) whether the services were necessary to the administration of, or beneficial at the time at which the service was rendered toward the completion of, a case under this title; [and] (D) whether the services were performed within a reasonable amount of time commensurate with the complexity, importance, and nature of the problem, issue, or task addressed . . .". 11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(3). Except in circumstances not relevant to this chapter 11 case, "the court shall not allow compensation for—(i) unnecessary duplication of services; or (ii) services that were not—(I) reasonably likely to benefit the debtor's estate; or (II) necessary to the administration of the case." 11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(4)(A).

11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(2) provides that the court may, on its own motion, award compensation that is less than the amount of the compensation that is requested.

In light of the foregoing, the Court will not approve the following fees because they

Case Administration	11/9/17	Appear at Status Conference	2.6	$1,300.00	Duplicative of entry on Exh. 4, page 13 (Appear at Continued Hearing on Disclosure Statement)

Applicant requests approval of $35,742.00 in fees for services performed on the debtor's disclosure statement and plan. These fees appear to be excessive in light of the quality of Applicant's work. For example, Applicant (i) did not properly serve the disclosure statement and plan on two occasions; (ii) did not attach the correct stipulations to the plan or incorporate their terms into the plan; and (iii) did not provide accurate financial projections based on the debtor's historical income. These and other issues with the disclosure statement and plan necessitated multiple continued hearings. Based on the foregoing, the Court will reduce Applicant's fees in this category by 25%, and approve $26,806.50 in fees for services performed on the debtor's disclosure statement and plan.

Secretarial/clerical work is noncompensable under 11 U.S.C. § 330. See In re Schneider, 2008 WL 4447092, *11 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. Sept. 26, 2008) (court disallowed billing for services including: monitoring and reviewing the docket; electronically distributing documents; preparing services packages, serving pleadings, updating service lists and preparing proofs of service; and e-filing and uploading pleadings); In re Ness, 2007 WL 1302611, *1 (Bankr. I. BACKGROUND

On August 1, 2016, Mahshid & Moshen Loghmani ("Debtors") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. David Keith Gottlieb was appointed the chapter 7 trustee (the "Trustee").

On August 24, 2016, Debtors filed their schedules [doc. 14]. In their Statement of Financial Affairs ("SOFA"), Debtors listed two lawsuits, Loghmani v. James Jeffery Little, et al. ("Lawsuit 1") and Loghmani v. Jan B. Tucker et al. ("Lawsuit 2"), and wrote in "plus few more" in Part 4. Debtors also noted that Tessie Cleveland Community Service Corp ("Tessie") had attached, seized, or levied their single family residence located at 8212 Laurel Canyon Blvd. North Hollywood, CA 91601 (the "Laurel Canyon Property"). Debtors' SOFA did not list a Qui Tam action against Tessie also in progress at the time of filing, United States of America, et al ex rel Mohsen Loghmani v. Tessie Cleveland Community Services Corp. (the "Qui Tam Action") (Lawsuit 1, Lawsuit 2, and the Qui Tam Action collectively, the "Lawsuits")

Tessie is a non-profit corporation which provides mental health services to children and young adults. Its primary funding source is the Los Angeles County Department of Mental Health, which is funded by the federal and state governments. Moses Chadwick, Carolyn Chadwick (the "Chadwicks") are the executive director and chief operations officers of Tessie, respectively.

In Lawsuit 1, Mohsen Loghmani asserted claims against James Little, his associated LLCs, his associated trusts, Michael Thompson, the Chadwicks, and Tessie for malicious prosecution, fraudulent conveyance and other causes of action. That action arose from an action filed by the Chadwicks to remove Moshen Loghmani's mechanic's lien from their residence. The Trustee believes this Lawsuit is time-barred because it was filed two years after the dismissal of the Chadwicks' action.

In Lawsuit 2, Mr. Loghmani filed a complaint against the County of Los Angeles and a number of other defendants, including the Chadwicks and Tessie, alleging waste of public funds. On November 2, 2017 the court dismissed Lawsuit 2, and Mr. Loghmani did not timely appeal.

In the Qui Tam action, Mr. Loghmani filed a complaint for violation of the federal and California False Claims Act against Tessie in the United States District Court, Central District of California. The complaint alleged misappropriation of government funds for the personal benefit of the Chadwicks. Mr. Loghmani pointed to Tessie's form 990 in their tax returns to assert that Tessie charges "excessive occupancy" for its property in Compton, California. The Trustee believes that Mr. Loghmani's claim is based on erroneous assumptions.

On December 4, 2017, counsel for Tessie contacted the Trustee and made an offer to purchase all of the rights, titles, claims and interest of Debtors in Lawsuit 1, Lawsuit 2, and the Qui Tam Action.

On February 14, 2018, the Trustee filed a motion to sell the Lawsuits (the "Motion") [doc. 56]. On February 22, 2018, Debtors filed their opposition (the "Opposition") [doc. 60]. On March 1, 2018, the Trustee filed his reply to the opposition (the "Reply"). On March 6, 2018, the Debtors filed their supplemental response to the Trustee's motion (the "Supplemental Response") [doc. 64].

II. DISCUSSION

Debtors do not have standing to bring the Opposition. "To have standing to object to a bankruptcy order, a person must have a pecuniary interest in the outcome of the bankruptcy proceedings." In re Cult Awareness Network, Inc., 151 F.3d 605, 607 (7th Cir. 1998). If a debtor can show a "reasonable possibility of a surplus after satisfying all debtors, then the debtor has shown a pecuniary interest and has standing to object to a bankruptcy order. Id. Unless the chapter 7 estate contains surplus funds to distribute to the debtor, a debtor may not object settlement of a lawsuit pursued by the trustee. In re Peoples, 764 F.3d 817, 820-821 (8th Cir. 2014).

In Cult Awareness Network, the debtor objected to the chapter 7 trustee's sale of its trade name on the basis that its trade name gave it standing in litigation against the Church of Scientology. The Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals held that the debtor did not show favorable chances of prevailing on complex litigation, nor that it was likely that the debtor would collect on its judgements, pay its litigation costs and attorney's fees and then have anything left over, considering the extent to which its debts far outweighed its assets. Consequently, that case did not present the kind of reasonable possibility of a surplus of assets that give a debtor standing to object to a trustee's asset sale.

Similarly, Debtors do not have standing to object to the Trustee's sale. Tessie, their largest creditor, has enormous claims against them [see doc. 33, p. 12-13], and Debtors state in the Opposition that they believe these claims have increased [doc. 60, p. 4]. Based on the Trustee's analysis of the Lawsuits, the possibility that Debtors could prevail on the claims and then recover sufficient funds to pay their creditors is extremely remote.

Debtors have not presented much in the way of evidence or coherent argument establishing that their Lawsuits are of any value to the estate aside from the sale. The Trustee's counsel, in her declaration, stated that Lawsuit 1 is likely time-barred, and even if it is not, the recovery for the malicious prosecution claim is tenuous because of the voluntary dismissal of the underlying action [doc. 56, p. 19]. Though Debtors state that the Trustee's assertion is incorrect in the Opposition, they do not provide any argument or evidence to that effect.

In the Opposition, Debtors argue that Lawsuit 2 consists of solely equitable claims, and should not be considered property of the estate. Debtors do not present any authority for that conclusion, which is inconsistent with the Ninth Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel's broad construction of 11 U.S.C. § 541(a). See In re Lahijani, 325 B.R. 282 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2005) (stating that "property of the estate" is broadly construed and causes of action that exist independent of the bankruptcy can be, and often are, sold by bankruptcy trustees under section 363(b)). Because, as Debtors argue, Lawsuit 2 is based solely on declaratory relief, the only recovery to the estate on Lawsuit 2 would be from its sale.

Finally, in the Supplemental Response, Debtors present a letter from Parker Strauss, LLP [doc. 64, Ex. B] stating that firm's willingness to take on the Qui Tam Action. There are several problems with this evidence. First, the letter explicitly declines to guarantee actual recovery from the suit. Second, Debtors have not provided the firm's proposed retainer agreement. The retainer agreement would provide additional information about whether the firm was willing to take the case on a contingency basis, or whether the estate must have cash on hand to litigate the Qui Tam Action. Overall, the letter does not demonstrate that pursuit of the action is in the best interest of the estate.

III. CONCLUSION

In light of the foregoing, Debtors have not presented sufficient evidence of the value of the Lawsuits to suggest that they have adequate standing to bring the Opposition. Accordingly, the Court will grant the Motion.

The Trustee must submit the order within seven (7) days.

- #8.00 Trustee's motion for order:
(A) Authorizing sale of assets of the debtor's bankruptcy estate free and clear of liens, claims and encumbrances;
(B) Approving overbid procedure; and
(C) Approving compromise of controversy

Docket 104

Tentative Ruling:

Taking into account the debtor's overbid [doc. 117], the Court will grant the motion - with the exception of the request to waive the 14 day-stay prescribed by Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("Rule") 6004(h) - and will allow the sale to proceed subject to the procedures and terms of sale set forth in the motion.

In his opposition [doc. 110], the debtor requests: (1) that that any order approving the sale should decline to rule on the extent, validity or priority to Illusion Ventures' interest in the property and in the claims against the Chings; (2) that the 14 day-stay prescribed by Rule 6004(h) not be waived; (3) that if the Chings are not purchasers at the sale, the Court not authorize any releases in favor of the Chings; (4) that if the Chings are the purchasers, any releases with respect to them constitute releases on behalf of the estate only; and (5) that the Court not determine summarily the question of contempt for violating the automatic stay.

With the exception of the debtor's opposition to the waiver of the 14-day stay, all of the debtor's requests appear to be in accord with the procedures and terms set forth in the Trustee's motion to sell the assets [doc. 104]. Although the Trustee requests that the Court waive the 14-day stay, he has not provided a compelling reason for the Court to do so. Consequently, the Court will not grant that request.

The Trustee must submit the order within seven (7) days.

#11.00 Motion to withdraw as debtor's bankruptcy counsel

Docket 98

Tentative Ruling:

The Court will continue the hearing to April 12, 2018 at 2:00 p.m.

Pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule 9011-2(a), a corporation may not file a petition or otherwise appear without counsel in any case or proceeding. Consequently, the Court has concerns about the impact of granting the motion, as concerns the administration of this case.

On September 12, 2017, AAA Nursing Services Inc. (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. On October 20, 2017, the United States Trustee filed a motion to dismiss or convert the Debtor's case pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1112(b) (the "Motion to Dismiss or Convert") [doc. 51]. On February 21, 2018, the Court entered an order granting the Motion to Dismiss or Convert and converting the Debtor's case to chapter 7 [doc. 105]. On February 21, 2018, David K. Gottlieb was appointed the chapter 7 trustee (the "Trustee") [doc. 106].

On February 14, 2018, movant filed the pending motion to withdraw as counsel (the "Motion to Withdraw") [doc. 98]. In light of the subsequent conversion of the Debtor's case to chapter 7, the Court will continue the hearing to allow movant to serve notice of the Motion to Withdraw, the continued hearing thereon, and the deadline to file any response thereto, on the Trustee.

Appearances on March 8, 2018 are excused.

Docket 20

Tentative Ruling:

Grant to the extent as set forth below.

On January 18, 2018, the debtor filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. In its petition, the debtor indicated that it is a single asset real estate ("SARE") debtor as defined in 11 U.S.C. § 101(51B). Because the debtor is a SARE, 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(3) applies to the debtor's case. Section 362(d)(3) provides:

On request of a party in interest and after notice and a hearing, the court shall grant relief from the stay provided under subsection (a) of this section, such as by terminating, annulling, modifying, or conditioning such stay—

(3) with respect to a stay of an act against single asset real estate under subsection (a), by a creditor whose claim is secured by an interest in such real estate, unless, not later than the date that is 90 days after the entry of the order for relief (or such later date as the court may determine for cause by order entered within that 90-day period) or 30 days after the court determines that the debtor is subject to this paragraph, whichever is later—

(A) the debtor has filed a plan of reorganization that has a reasonable possibility of being confirmed within a reasonable time; or

(B) the debtor has commenced monthly payments that—

(i) may, in the debtor's sole discretion, notwithstanding section 363(c)(2), be made from rents or other income generated before, on, or after the date of the commencement of the case by or from the property to each creditor whose claim is secured by such real estate (other than a claim secured by a judgment lien or by an unmatured statutory lien); and

(ii) are in an amount equal to interest at the then applicable nondefault contract rate of interest on the value of the creditor's interest in the real estate[.]

Under the terms of the promissory note dated November 14, 2006, the debtor and DG Staples, LLC agreed to pay Principal Life Insurance Company the sum of $2,230,000 together with interest on the unpaid balance at the rate of 6.04% per annum. The debtor's valuation of the property at issue is $1,600,000. This amount also appears to be the value of Wells Fargo Bank, N.A.'s secured interest in the property at issue. 6.04% of $1,600,000 is $96,640 per annum in interest, which equals $8,053.33 per month.

In light of the provisions of 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(3)(B)(ii), it appears that an appropriate adequate protection payment to the secured creditor would be $8,053.33 per month, to be paid from the rents generated by the debtor's encumbered real property.

No later than 14 days after entry of this order, the debtor must commence monthly payments in the amount of $8,053.33 to Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. In addition, the debtor may use cash collateral to maintain the property, as specified in the debtor's proposed cash collateral budget. "[C]ourts have found that a debtor's use of cash collateral to maintain properties from which rents are being generated is a sufficient form of adequate protection." In re Las Vegas Monorail Co., 429 B.R. 317, 341 (Bankr. D. Nev. 2010) (collecting cases).

As for the balance of the cash collateral, the debtor must sequester and account for such cash collateral until further order of this Court. At this time, the Court will not rule on the use of cash collateral for the payment of professional fees.

#48.00 Motion for order discharging debtors pursuant to the hardship discharge provisions of 11 USC 1328

Docket 82

Tentative Ruling:

For the reasons described below, the Court will continue this hearing to April 10, 2018 at 11:30 a.m. Debtors must file and serve any supplemental documents they wish to present no later than March 27, 2018.

I. BACKGROUND

On October 7, 2013, Mark Pinsker and Melanie Pinsker ("Debtors") filed a chapter 13 petition. Debtors are the sole employees of their wholly owned corporation, Special Projects Productions, Inc.

On February 18, 2014, the Court entered an order confirming Debtors' chapter 13 plan [doc. 20]. The Debtor's plan was for a 5 year term and paid out 18% to general unsecured creditors, with a monthly plan payment of $900 for the first four months, then stepping up to $919 for the remaining life of the plan. There is approximately one year left in the plan.

On November 16, 2017, the Debtor filed the Motion [doc. 82]. On February 20, 2018 the chapter 7 trustee (the "Trustee") filed her comments on the Motion (the "Comments") [doc. 86]. On February 28, 2018, Debtors filed their response to the Comments (the "Response") [doc. 90].

II. DISCUSSION

Although Debtors initially styled this Motion as one for a hardship discharge, the relief they request is to modify their plan under 11 U.S.C. § 1329. Debtors wish to obtain a postconfirmation loan to satisfy their plan payments in a lump sum as opposed to over the remaining term of the plan.

Chapter 13

Modifications to a confirmed chapter 13 plan must be proposed in good faith under 11 U.S.C. § 1325(a)(3). In re Mattson, 468 B.R. 361, 367 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2012). The burden of establishing that a plan is submitted in good faith is on the debtor. In re Warren, 89 B.R. 87, 93 (9th Cir. BAP 1988). The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has articulated a test for good faith in which a court must consider the (1) substantiality of proposed plan payments; (2) whether the debtor has misrepresented facts in the plan; (3) whether the debtor has unfairly manipulated the Bankruptcy Code; and (4) whether the plan is proposed in an equitable manner. In re Matteson, 468 B.R. at 371-372.

Debtors do not acknowledge the Trustee's alternative calculation of the aggregate amount of their remaining plan payments, nor suggest that they are able to borrow the higher sum. Debtors also state that their 2014 tax debt will be paid, but do not clearly indicate if that payment will be via their intended lump sum payment or if they intend to pay any remaining IRS postpetition obligations separately.

On the other hand, Debtors do not propose to pay any less than the full amount of their confirmed plan, and there is no suggestion that they have unfairly manipulated the Bankruptcy Code. Debtors have made the majority of their confirmed chapter 13 plan payments, and in the face of their alleged declined income. it appears that they propose this modification in an effort to complete the obligations under their confirmed plan. Modification may be appropriate, but Debtors have not provided adequate disclosure.

III. CONCLUSION

Debtors need to present further evidence that they have the good faith required for the requested early pay-off of their confirmed chapter 13 plan. At a minimum, Debtors should submit their amended Schedules I and J showing their current budget and an explanation of the way in which they will pay their outstanding income tax liabilities. In addition, Debtors should submit proof of their ability to obtain the proposed loan for the full amount of their aggregate remaining plan payments, as calculated by the Trustee (such as loan documents or a declaration).

Accordingly, the Court will continue this hearing to April 10, 2018 at 11:30 a.m. Debtors must file and serve any supplemental documents they wish to present no later than March 27, 2018.

Docket 95

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part and deny in part.

I. BACKGROUND

Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. ("Wells Fargo") is the beneficiary of the first deed of trust encumbering 23842 Erin Place, Canoga Park, California 91304 (the "Property"), recorded on September 2, 2005 (the "First Trust Deed"). Jose P. Ginez and Corazon S. Ginez (together, "Respondents") are the original borrowers under the corresponding note and the trustors under the First Trust Deed. (Doc. 60, Exh. D.)

Wells Fargo is the beneficiary of the second deed of trust encumbering the Property, recorded on March 28, 2006 (the "Second Trust Deed"). Respondents are the original borrowers under the corresponding note and the trustors under the Second Trust Deed. (Doc. 60, Exh. C.)

On December 31, 2009, Romulo Gramata Bernardino and Ladinila Aspiras Bernardino (the "Debtors") purchased the Property from Respondents, pursuant to an "All-Inclusive Deed of Trust and Assignment of Rents" (the "Third Trust Deed"). Respondents are the beneficiaries and the Debtors are the trustors of the Third Trust Deed. On January 6, 2010, the Third Trust Deed was recorded. (Doc. 60, Exh. F.)

On March 24, 2014, the Debtors filed a chapter 13 petition. On December 17, 2014, the Court confirmed the Debtor's chapter 13 plan (the "Plan") [doc. 35]. The Plan provides for direct payment by the Debtors to Wells Fargo for arrearages owing on the First and Second Trust Deeds. Respondents were served with notice of the hearing on confirmation of the Plan.

On September 21, 2015, Ms. Ginez contacted the Debtor's bankruptcy attorney stating that she was a creditor of the estate and inquired as to how she would get paid through the bankruptcy. (Declaration of Kevin T. Simon ("Simon Decl."), ¶ 6.) On September 24, 2015, the Debtors filed a motion to avoid the Third Trust Deed (the "Lam Motion") [doc. 60]. On November 13, 2015, the Court entered an order approving the Lam Motion (the "Lam Order") [doc. 69]. The Lam Order provided that "no payments are to be made on the secured claim of the junior lienholder," and that the "claim of the junior lienholder is to be treated as an unsecured claim and is to be paid through the plan pro rata with all other unsecured claims." (Doc. 69, at p. 2.)

Because the Debtors purchased the Property with the Third Trust Deed, Respondents' name and address are on all loan documentation and statements from the First Trust Deed and the Second Trust Deed. (Simon Decl., ¶ 8.) The Debtors fell behind on the payment for the First Trust Deed, but continued to remit funds to Wells Fargo. After the Debtors defaulted on the First Trust Deed, Wells Fargo returned the mortgage payments to Respondents rather than the Debtors. (Id., ¶ 9.)

On February 16, 2016, Wells Fargo issued a statement reflecting unapplied funds and a payment reversal of $7,065.55, as well as unapplied funds of $2,000.00. (Simon Decl., Exh. B.) On February 26, 2016, Wells Fargo mailed Respondents a letter with a check enclosed for $1,000.00 advising Respondents the funds were returned because it was an insufficient amount to reinstate the loan. (Simon Decl., Exh. D.) On March 1, 2016, Respondents cashed the $1,000.00 check from Wells Fargo. (Simon Decl., Exh. E.)

During the bankruptcy case, Respondents provided the Debtors with an "IOU" note reflecting payments received from returned checks from Wells Fargo in the amount of $8,065.55 and crediting the Third Trust Deed with the same amount. (Simon Decl., Exh. F.)

II. RELEVANT LAW

A. Property of the Estate

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 541(a)(1),

The commencement of a case under section 301, 302, or 303 of this title creates an estate. Such estate is comprised of all the following property, wherever located and by whomever held:

Chapter 13

- (1) Except as provided in subsections (b) and (c)(2) of this section, all legal or equitable interests of the debtor in property as of the commencement of the case.

In addition, for chapter 13 debtors, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1306(a):

Property of the estate includes, in addition to the property specified in section 541 of this title—

- (1) all property of the kind specified in such section that the debtor acquires after the commencement of the case but before the case is closed, dismissed, or converted to a case under chapter 7, 11, or 12 of this title, whichever occurs first; and
- (2) earnings from services performed by the debtor after the commencement of the case but before the case is closed, dismissed, or converted to a case under chapter 7, 11, or 12 of this title, whichever occurs first.

B. Turnover of Estate Property

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 542—

- (a) Except as provided in subsection (c) or (d) of this section, an entity, other than a custodian, in possession, custody, or control, during the case, of property that the trustee may use, sell, or lease under section 363 of this title, or that the debtor may exempt under section 522 of this title, shall deliver to the trustee, and account for, such property or the value of such property, unless such property is of inconsequential value or benefit to the estate.

Turnover rights are effective against an entity that possesses or controls estate property at any point during pendency of the bankruptcy case. Shapiro v. Henson, 739 F.3d 1198, 1199 (9th Cir. 2014). An entity need not actually possess the property when the turnover action is filed, provided the entity possessed estate property at some time during the bankruptcy case. See In re Newman, 487 B.R. at 202 (ordering a debtor who received and spent a tax refund postpetition to pay the chapter 7 trustee prorated portion of refund attributable to income earned prepetition).

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1327(a), "[t]he provisions of a confirmed plan bind the debtor and each creditor, whether or not the claim of such creditor is provided for by the plan, and whether or not such creditor has objected to, has accepted, or has rejected the plan."

D. *Violation of the Automatic Stay

11 U.S.C. § 362 provides in pertinent part:

(a) Except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, a petition filed under section 301, 302, or 303 of this title...operates as a stay, applicable to all entities, of—

Upon obtaining notice, the creditor did nothing to reverse the prohibited actions taken while the automatic stay was in effect. Id. The bankruptcy court found a violation of the automatic stay:

That being said, there is no dispute that Teran knew about the bankruptcy and the automatic stay when he received the letter from the Debtors' attorney about two weeks after the Judgment was entered. At that point, Teran had an affirmative duty to "unwind" what had happened in the small claims court, but he failed to take any remedial action. Teran contends that he did not respond to the letter because he did not know what to do. However, that does not change the fact that the failure to act was itself a violation of the automatic stay.

III. DISCUSSION

A. Turnover of Estate Property

Under § 541(a)(1) and § 1306(a)(2), the funds at issue are identifiable bankruptcy estate property and subject to turnover. In addition, the amount of the funds received by Respondents is not of inconsequential value to the estate. Respondents possessed and controlled estate property that the Debtors may use, sell, or lease during the pendency of the bankruptcy case.

In addition, Respondents had actual knowledge of the Debtors' bankruptcy case. On September 21, 2015, Ms. Ginez contacted the Debtors' attorney to inquire "how she should go about getting paid through the bankruptcy." Respondents also received actual notice of the Debtors' bankruptcy case because they were served notice of the Plan confirmation hearing, the Lam Motion and the Lam Order. As such, the turnover requirements under § 542 apply to Respondents.

The Plan was confirmed on December 17, 2014 and provided that the Debtors would pay Wells Fargo through the Plan to cure arrearages on the First Trust Deed and Second Trust Deed. Pursuant to § 1327, the provisions of the confirmed Plan bind each creditor, including Respondents. As such, pursuant to the confirmed Plan, Respondents were not entitled to retain the monies paid by the Debtors to Wells Fargo pursuant to the Plan.

Furthermore, pursuant to the Lam Order, no monies were to be paid to Respondents after the Third Trust Deed was avoided. Respondents' claim was to be paid through the Plan pro rata with all other unsecured claims. Thus, Respondents were not entitled to any of the monies returned by Wells Fargo.

The Motion seeks turnover of funds totaling $10,065.55. However, the evidence attached to the Motion shows that Respondents cashed checks totaling $8,065.55. Although there is a bank statement showing $2,000 in unapplied funds, it is unclear whether Wells Fargo ever sent those funds to Respondents. Consequently, if Debtors seek turnover of this additional $2,000, the Debtors must submit evidence showing that Respondents obtained possession of the other $2,000.

B. Violation of the Automatic Stay

Here, Respondents violated the automatic stay by exercising control over property of the estate. It appears from the "IOU" note that Respondents were under the impression they could retain the money and credit it towards the debt owed to them. However, by retaining the checks and subsequently cashing them, Respondents exercised control over estate property in violation of § 362(a)(3). See In re Lyle, 324 B.R. 128; In re Carlsen, 63 B.R. 706, 711 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1986) (finding that the IRS violated both the automatic stay and the turnover requirements when it failed to return a check to the County after learning of the debtor's bankruptcy).

The violation of the automatic stay was willful because Respondents had actual knowledge of the Debtors' bankruptcy case at the time they retained the funds. "[T]he failure to return property of the estate with knowledge of the bankruptcy is a violation of both the automatic stay and of the turnover requirements of the Bankruptcy Code." Abrams v. Sw. Leasing and Rental Inc. (In re Abrams), 127 B.R. 239, 241-43 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1991) (continuing retention by the creditor of repossessed vehicle after receiving notice of bankruptcy violated automatic stay); see also In re Treasures, Inc., Case No. SC-13-1304, 2015 WL 925957, at *21 (9th Cir. B.A.P. Mar. 3, 2015) (continuing retention of property of the bankruptcy estate violated the automatic stay). To preserve the "status quo" of the bankruptcy, Respondents would have had to return the funds to the Debtors or to Wells Fargo in order to relieve their violation. Respondents did not do so.

Accordingly, the Court will grant the Debtor's request for damages pursuant to § 362(k)(1). The Debtors do not include a breakdown of damages incurred as a result of the willful violation of the stay. The Debtors must supplement the Motion with an statement of actual damages, fees, and costs incurred.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, it does not appear that Respondents' conduct warrants punitive damages. The Court will deny the Debtors' request for punitive damages.

IV. CONCLUSION

In light of the foregoing, the Court will grant in part and deny in part the Motion. No later than March 27, 2018, the Debtors must file a supplemental declaration with (i) evidence that Respondents possessed monies in excess of $8,065.55, and (ii) evidence regarding actual damages, fees, and costs incurred while litigating this matter.

The Debtors must submit the order within seven (7) days.

All amounts approved on an interim basis are approved on a final basis. Applicant is authorized to receive the remaining balance of $11,679.92 for fees and reimbursement of expenses. The Court has not allowed fees in the amount of $825.00 for the reasons below.

11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(1)(A) provides that a court may award to a professional person employed under § 327 "reasonable compensation for actual, necessary services" rendered by the professional person. "In determining the amount of reasonable compensation to be awarded to the professional person, the court shall consider the nature, the extent and the value of such services, taking into account all relevant factors, including—(A) the time spent on such services; (B) the rates charged for such services; (C) whether the services were necessary to the administration of, or beneficial at the time at which the service was rendered toward the completion of, a case under this title; [and] (D) whether the services were performed within a reasonable amount of time commensurate with the complexity, importance, and nature of the problem, issue, or task addressed . . .". 11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(3). Except in circumstances not relevant to this chapter 13 case, "the court shall not allow compensation for—(i) unnecessary duplication of services; or (ii) services that were not—(I) reasonably likely to benefit the debtor's estate; or (II) necessary to the administration of the case." 11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(4)(A).

11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(2) provides that the court may, on its own motion, award compensation that is less than the amount of the compensation that is requested.

Tentative Ruling:

On February 22, 2018, the Court issued an Order to Show Cause Why Debtors' Counsel Should Not be Sanctioned for Failure to Appear at Confirmation Hearing (the "OSC") [doc. 26], on the grounds that the debtors' counsel failed to appear at the confirmation hearing as required by LBR 3015-1(d). The debtors' counsel was ordered to explain her failure to appear, and file and serve on the debtors a written response to the OSC no later than February 27, 2018.

The debtors' counsel has not timely filed and served a response. If the debtors' counsel appears at the hearing on the OSC, and the debtors' counsel serves the response on the debtors, then the Court may discharge the OSC. However, if no appearance is made at OSC hearing, the Court may consider imposing sanctions on the debtors' counsel.

#6.00 Motion for relief from stay [RP]

U.S. BANK TRUST, N.A.
VS
DEBTOR

Docket 10

Tentative Ruling:

Grant relief from stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 362(d)(1) and (d)(4) and annulment of the stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1).

Movant (and any successors or assigns) may proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to foreclose upon and obtain possession of the property.

If recorded in compliance with applicable state laws governing notices of interests or liens in real property, the order is binding in any other case under this title purporting to affect the property filed not later than 2 years after the date of the entry of the order by the court, except that a debtor in a subsequent case under this title may move for relief from the order based upon changed circumstances or for good cause shown, after notice and hearing.

Grant movant's request to annul the automatic stay. "Many courts have focused on two factors in determining whether cause exists to grant [retroactive] relief from the stay: (1) whether the creditor was aware of the bankruptcy petition; and (2) whether the debtor engaged in unreasonable or inequitable conduct, or prejudice would result to the creditor." In re National Environmental Waste Corp., 129 F.3d 1052, 1055 (9th Cir. 1997). "[T]his court, similar to others, balances the equities in order to determine whether retroactive annulment is justified." Id.

Here, movant was unaware of the debtor's bankruptcy petition before the foreclosure sale, and the debtor acted unreasonably in a way that has prejudiced movant. Regarding the movant's awareness, movant submitted a declaration testifying that it was not notified of the debtor's bankruptcy case until after the sale. Movant alleges that on January 16, 2018, it conducted a foreclosure sale of the property. Movant further alleges that on January 17, 2018, movant was faxed a copy of a quitclaim deed purporting to transfer the property from Deborah Beck Fidelman to the debtor. Such quitclaim deed was purportedly executed on February 17, 2012. There is no evidence that this quitclaim deed was recorded.

Three prior cases have affected the property. On May 16, 2012, Deborah Beck filed chapter 7 case no. 1:12-bk-14567-AA. As her residence address, Ms. Beck listed "22055 Ballinger Street, Los Angeles, CA 91311," which is also the address of the property at issue. Ms. Beck appears to be the individual who executed the quitclaim deed purportedly transferring the property to the debtor. On May 21, 2012, case no. 1:12-bk-14567-AA was dismissed.

On June 18, 2012, Ms. Beck filed chapter 7 case no. 1:12-bk-15585-AA, again listing "22055 Ballinger Street, Los Angeles, CA 91311" as her residence address. On February 22, 2013, Ms. Beck received a chapter 7 discharge.

On December 5, 2017, the debtor filed chapter 7 case no. 2:17-bk-24939-ER. The debtor listed its address as "11500 Olympic Boulevard, Suite 400, Los Angeles, CA 90064." On December 27, 2017, case no. 2:17-bk-24939-ER was dismissed.

With respect to the debtor's conduct in the pending case, in its petition the debtor listed its address as "7912 Ventura Canyon Avenue, Panorama City, CA 91402." The debtor did not list movant or the property in its schedules. The debtor has not opposed the pending motion. Based on the foregoing, it appears that the quitclaim deed faxed to movant one day after the foreclosure sale was part of an effort to hinder movant's foreclosure proceedings. For these reasons, the Court finds that annulment of the automatic stay is appropriate.

The 14-day stay prescribed by FRBP 4001(a)(3) is waived.

Movant must submit the order within seven (7) days.

Note: No response has been filed. Accordingly, no court appearance by movant is required. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the Court will determine whether further hearing is required and movant will be so notified.

I. BACKGROUND

A. *The Foreclosure Sale

On November 4, 2016, HSBC Bank USA, N.A. ("HSBC") conducted a foreclosure sale of the real property located at 7730 Quakertown Avenue, Los Angeles, California 91306 (the "Property"). The trustee's deed upon sale provided:

This conveyance is made in compliance with the terms and provisions of the Deed of Trust executed by Olga Campos, A Single Woman, as Trustor, dated 12/07/2005 of the Official Records in the office of the Recorder of Los Angeles, California under the authority and powers vested in the Trustee designated in the Deed of Trust or as the duly appointed Trustee, default having occurred under the Deed of Trust pursuant to the Notice of Default and Election to Sell under the Deed of Trust recorded on 12/16/2005, instrument number 05 3101853, Book ---, Page --- and modified by that certain Loan Modification Agreement recorded on 03/31/2009 as Instrument Number 20090462020 of official records. Trustee having complied with all applicable statutory requirements of the State of California and performed all duties required by the Deed of Trust including, among other things, as applicable, the mailing of copies of notices or the publication of a copy of the Notice of Default or the personal delivery of the copy of the Notice of Default or the posting of copies of the Notice of Sale or the publication of a copy thereof.

(Doc. 7, Exh. 1 to Exh. 3, at p. 2.)

B. The First Bankruptcy Case

On December 9, 2016, the debtor filed chapter 13 case no. 1:16-bk-13500-MB (the "First Bankruptcy Case"). On February 8, 2017, the First Bankruptcy Case was dismissed because the debtor did not appear at the § 341(a) meeting and/or did not make the required preconfirmation payments. (Case no. 1:16-bk-13500-MB, doc. 22.)

C. The Debtor's State Court Action Against HSBC

On March 28, 2017, the debtor filed an action in state court against HSBC and other defendants (the "State Court Action"). (Doc. 7, Exh. 1.) In the State Court Action, the debtor alleged causes of action including wrongful foreclosure, negligence, unfair trade practices, cancellation of note, quiet title, and fraud in the initial loan processing and failure to provide truthful disclosure. On July 6, 2017, HSBC and the other defendants filed a demurrer in the State Court Action. On August 17, 2017, the state court entered a tentative ruling on the demurrer in the defendants' favor. On August 22, 2017, the debtor filed a request for dismissal of the State Court Action.

D. The Second Bankruptcy Case

On May 16, 2017, the debtor filed chapter 13 case no. 1:17-bk-11292-VK (the "Second Bankruptcy Case"). On June 16, 2017, the Second Bankruptcy Case was converted to chapter 7 at the debtor's request. (Case no. 1:17-bk-11292-VK, docs. 13, 14.) On September 5, 2017, the Second Bankruptcy Case was dismissed because the debtor did not appear at the § 341(a) meeting. (Case no. 1:17-bk-11292-VK, doc. 22.)

E. Movant Purchases the Property and Initiates Unlawful Detainer Proceedings Against the Debtor

On December 18, 2017, movant purchased the Property at a lender-arranged auction. On December 29, 2017, the grant deed transferring the Property to movant was recorded. (Doc. 7, Exh. 2 to Exh. 3.) On December 31, 2017, movant served the debtor with a three-day notice to quit. (Doc. 7, Exh. 3 to Exh. 3.) On January 5, 2018, movant filed an unlawful detainer action against the debtor. Trial in the unlawful detainer action was scheduled for February 16, 2018.

F. The Pending Case

On February 15, 2018—one day before the unlawful detainer trial—the debtor filed the pending case. In her petition, the debtor listed the Property's address as her residence address. (Doc. 1, at p. 2.) The debtor listed the Property in her Schedule A/B. (Id., at p. 12.) The debtor did not list any creditors with claims secured by the Property. (Id., at p. 23.) The debtor listed the following unsecured claims in her Schedule E/F:

- HSBC, $15,000
- KS Enterprise, $10,000
- Movant, $1,500
- HSBC, $75,000

(Id., at pp. 24–25.) In addition, in her Schedule J, the debtor disclosed that she pays $750 per month for rental or home ownership expenses. (Id., at p. 32.)

On February 16, 2018, movant filed the pending motion (the "Motion") [doc. 7] and a supporting memorandum of points and authorities (the "Memorandum") [doc. 18]. Movant notes that pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3)(A), because the Second Bankruptcy Case was pending within the preceding one-year period and was dismissed, the automatic stay in the pending case will expire 30 days after the petition date. Movant argues that the pending case was filed in bad faith and that the debtor is unlawfully occupying the Property. According to movant, the timing of the pending case was designed to hinder movant's attempt to gain possession of the Property. The debtor's incomplete and inconsistent schedules are further evidence of the debtor's bad faith.

On March 5, 2018, the debtor filed an untimely opposition (the "Opposition") [doc. 21]. In the Opposition, the debtor argues that she "can prove that the matter before the state court and this district court is constructive fraud brought under the disguise of a non-judicial foreclosure and illegal sale of said property to a third party to more cover the alleged fraud scheme." (Doc. 21, at p. 2.) According to the debtor, HSBC had filed an illegal unlawful detainer action against the debtor, to which the debtor responded. To cover up "their unclean hands," HSBC sold the Property to movant, who purchased a "stolen property." (Id., at p. 3.) HSBC lacked standing to sell the Property to movant, and thus movant's claim to title is void. (Id., at pp. 3–4.) The Opposition was not supported by a declaration signed under penalty of perjury or any other evidence. The proof of service attached to the Opposition is incomplete, with no address provided for the individual purportedly executing service, and no date of service.

On March 6, 2018, movant filed his reply (the "Reply") [doc. 22]. In the Reply, movant objected to service of the Opposition and reiterated his arguments from the Memorandum.

II. DISCUSSION

11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) provides for relief from the automatic stay "for cause, including the lack of adequate protection of an interest in property of such party in interest[.]"

As an initial matter, movant's underlying state court proceeding is an unlawful detainer action. Movant did not use the mandatory form for a relief from stay motion based on an unlawful detainer action, Form F 4001-1.RFS.UD.MOTION.

Notwithstanding movant's use of the incorrect form, there are grounds for granting relief from the automatic stay based on the debtor's bad faith. On November 4, 2016, HSBC held a foreclosure sale of the Property. Subsequently, the debtor filed two bankruptcy cases that were dismissed. The debtor also filed the State Court Action, which she voluntarily dismissed after the state court issued an adverse tentative ruling. On December 18, 2017, movant purchased the Property at auction. Movant filed an unlawful detainer action against the debtor. On the eve of the unlawful detainer trial, the debtor filed the pending case.

The debtor opposes the Motion on the grounds that HSBC purportedly conducted a fraudulent foreclosure, and that such foreclosure was void. However, the proof of service attached to the Opposition is defective. In addition, the debtor's statements in the Opposition are not supported by a declaration or other evidence. Even if the debtor had provided competent evidence, her requests for affirmative relief are not proper in a relief from stay proceeding. See Johnson v. Righetti (In re Johnson), 756 F.2d 738, 740 (9th Cir. 1985) (“Stay litigation is limited to issues of the lack of adequate protection, the debtor’s equity in the property, and the necessity of the property to an effective reorganization. Hearings on relief from the automatic stay are thus handled in a summary fashion.”).

III. CONCLUSION

In light of the foregoing, the Court will grant relief from stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1).

Movant (and any successors or assigns) may proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to obtain possession of the property.

The 14-day stay prescribed by FRBP 4001(a)(3) is waived.

The Court will not annul the automatic stay. Movant has not identified what, if any, acts were taken postpetition in violation of the stay.

The Court will deny movant’s request for attorney’s fees, because movant has not provided any statutory or contractual basis for such fees.

Any other request for relief is denied.

Movant must submit the order within seven (7) days.

#12.00 Motion in Individual Case for Order Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

Grant motion on an interim basis and continue hearing to April 18, 2018 at 9:30 a.m. No later than March 21, 2018, the debtor must file and serve an amended motion and correct the issues noted below.

- The debtor did not sign the declaration attached to the motion. Pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule 9013-1(i): "Factual contentions involved in any motion . . . must be presented, heard, and determined upon declaration and other written evidence."
- The notice of the deadline to file a response to the motion is incorrect. In accordance with Judge Kaufman's self-calendaring procedures, a response to a motion to continue the automatic stay, if the motion is being heard on shortened notice, must be filed and served two (2) court days before the hearing - not seven (7) days, as inaccurately indicated in the notice.
- Also, it is unclear whether the debtor is asking the Court to continue the automatic stay as to all secured creditors, or only regarding the secured creditor OneWest Bank. If the debtor is requesting the Court to continue the automatic stay as to all secured creditors, the debtor did not properly serve all affected creditors. There appears to be more than one lienholder as to the debtor's real property. The debtor served the motion only on Onewest Bank and Barrett Daffin Frappier Treder.

Under 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3), in order to extend the automatic stay in a case filed within one year of another case which was pending within the same year but was dismissed, the debtor must show that the present case was filed in good faith as to the creditors to be stayed.

On September 1, 2017, the debtor filed a prior chapter 13 petition [case no. 1:17-bk-12354-MT]. (Case no. 1:17-bk-12354-MT, doc. 13, at p. 21.) In her prior chapter 13 plan, the debtor's proposed plan payment was $555 for 12 months, then $1,110 per month for 48 months. (Case no. 1:17-bk-12354-MT, doc. 14, at p. 2.)

In her pending case, the debtor's monthly income is $4,500 and her monthly expenses are $3,918.60, leaving net monthly income of $581.40. (Doc. 17.) In her proposed chapter 13 plan, the debtor proposes a monthly payment of $555 for 12 months, then $1,364.96 for 48 months. (Doc. 13, at p. 2.)

In light of the foregoing, the Court will grant the motion on an interim basis up to the date of the continued hearing, provided that no later than April 13, 2018, the debtor (i) tenders her April 2018 deed of trust payment to OneWest Bank in the amount of $2,378.60 (as stated in her current Schedule I) as to the real property located at 5240 Wilkinson Avenue, Valley Village, CA 91606, and (ii) tenders her April 2018 plan payment in the amount of $555 to the chapter 13 trustee. No later than April 16, 2018, the debtor must file a declaration to demonstrate that she made these payments. No later than March 21, 2018, the debtor also must file and serve notice of the continued hearing, and the deadline to file any response 14 days prior thereto, on all secured creditors.

#16.00 Status conference re: complaint for non-dischargeability of debt pursuant to 11 USC 523(a)(4) and 11 USC 523(a)(6)

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

On February 9, 2018, the defendant filed an answer and demand for jury trial [doc. 3]. Defendant does not have a right to a jury trial in a nondischargeability action under 11 U.S.C. § 523. In re Hashemi, 104 F.3d 1122, 1124-25 (9th Cir. 1996); In re Sasson, 424 F.3d 864, 869-70 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2005); and In re Valle, 469 B.R. 35 (Bankr. D. Idaho 2012).

Parties should be prepared to discuss the following:

Within seven (7) days after this status conference, the plaintiff must submit an Order Assigning Matter to Mediation Program and Appointing Mediator and Alternate Mediator using Form 702. During the status conference, the parties must inform the Court of their choice of Mediator and Alternate Mediator. The parties should contact their mediator candidates before the status conference to determine if their candidates can accommodate the deadlines set forth below.

Deadline to complete discovery: April 30, 2018.

Deadline to complete one day of mediation: 5/18/18

Deadline to file pretrial motions: 6/1/18.

Continued status conference: 6/20/18 at 1:30 p.m.

In accordance with Local Bankruptcy Rule 7016-1(a)(4), within seven (7) days after this status conference, the plaintiff must submit a Scheduling Order.

If any of these deadlines are not satisfied, the Court will consider imposing sanctions against the party at fault pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule 7016-1(f) and (g).

Adv#: 1:17-01096 Rosenberg v. Deutsche Bank National Trust Company, As Trustee F

#18.00 Motion of Cit Bank, N.A. to dismiss adversary complaint

Docket 6

Tentative Ruling:

Deny as moot.

On June 30, 2017, Steven Mark Rosenberg ("Debtor") filed his voluntary chapter 7 petition. On November 27, 2017, Debtor filed an adversary complaint against Deutsche Bank National Trust Company, Ocwen Loan Servicing, Inc., Alliance Bancorp, Inc. ("Alliance"), Alliance Bancorp Estate Trustee Charles A. Stanziale, Jr., MERS Mortgage Electronic Registration Systems, Inc., One West Bank ("One West"), and Does 1-25.

On December 29, 2017, CIT Bank, N.A. (f/k/a One West Bank, N.A.) ("CIT Bank"), erroneously sued as One West Bank, filed a motion to dismiss the adversary complaint [doc. 6] (the "Motion"). On January 23, 2018 Debtor filed a notice of voluntary dismissal of the adversary complaint as to CIT Bank and Alliance [doc. 13].

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("FRCP") 41, a plaintiff may voluntarily dismiss an action without a court order if the notice of dismissal is filed before the opposing party files either an answer or a motion for summary judgment. Here, CIT Bank has filed neither an answer nor a motion for summary judgment, so it appears Debtor may voluntarily dismiss it without moving for an order. Consequently, CIT Bank is no longer a defendant in this action, and its motion to dismiss is moot.

Appearances on March 14, 2018 are excused.

The Court will prepare the order.

Chapter 11

#7.00 Status conference re: chapter 11 case

Docket 14

Tentative Ruling:

The debtor has not yet filed any monthly operating reports.

The parties should address the following:

Deadline to file proof of claim (“Bar Date”): May 11, 2018.

Deadline to mail notice of Bar Date: March 19, 2018.

The debtor(s) must use the mandatory court-approved form Notice of Bar Date for Filing Proofs of Claim in a Chapter 11 Case, F 3003-1.NOTICE.BARDATE.

Deadline for debtor(s) and/or debtor(s) in possession to file proposed plan and related disclosure statement: June 29, 2018.

Continued chapter 11 case status conference to be held at 1:00 p.m. on July 19, 2018.

The debtor(s) in possession or any appointed chapter 11 trustee must file a status report, to be served on the debtor’s(s’) 20 largest unsecured creditors, all secured creditors, and the United States Trustee, no later than 14 days before the continued status conference. The status report must be supported by evidence in the form of declarations and supporting documents.

The Court will prepare the order setting the deadlines for the debtor(s) and/or debtor (s) in possession to file a proposed plan and related disclosure statement.

#1.00 Motion in Individual Case for Order Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

Docket 14

Tentative Ruling:

Grant motion on an interim basis and continue hearing to May 2, 2018 at 9:30 a.m.

I. BACKGROUND

Previously, the debtor filed the following six bankruptcy cases:

Case No.	Chapter	Disposition
97-25708	13	Dismissed on 1/27/98 for failure to make plan payments
98-10704	7	Converted on 4/20/98; standard discharge on 8/3/98
10-11404	13	Dismissed on 7/29/11 for failure to make plan payments
11-20540	7	Converted on 11/9/11; standard discharge on 3/14/12
16-12629	11	Dismissed on 1/19/17 on motion by the United States Trustee
17-11847	11	Dismissed on 1/5/18 on motion by the United States Trustee

The Fifth Bankruptcy Case

On September 9, 2016, the debtor filed chapter 11 case no. 1:16-bk-12629-VK (the "Fifth Bankruptcy Case"). In her Schedules I & J, the debtor listed her monthly income as $11,050.00 and her monthly expenses as $5,685.00, leaving a net monthly income of $5,365.00. The debtor stated that she was employed as a registered nurse for three weeks, but did not give a name or address for her employer. (Case no. 1:16-bk-12629-VK, doc. 19, at pp. 20–24.)

On December 2, 2016, the United States Trustee ("UST") filed a motion under 11 U.S.C. § 1112(b) to dismiss or convert the Fifth Bankruptcy Case (the "First Motion to Dismiss") [case no. 1:16-bk-12629-VK, doc. 37]. The UST alleged that the debtor had not properly prepared her monthly operating reports and attached required bank statements, and was paying professional fees without Court approval. The debtor did not oppose the First Motion to Dismiss. On January 19, 2017, the Court entered an order granting the First Motion to Dismiss and dismissing the Fifth Bankruptcy Case [case no. 1:16-bk-12629-VK, doc. 46.]

The Sixth Bankruptcy Case

On July 12, 2017, the debtor filed case no. 1:17-bk-11847-VK (the "Sixth Bankruptcy Case"). In her Schedules I & J, the debtor listed her monthly income as $5,500.00 and her monthly expenses as $5,335.00, leaving a net monthly income of $165.00. The debtor indicated that she was employed as a registered nurse for Senior Hospice Care for two years. (Case no. 1:17-bk-11847-VK, doc. 10, at pp. 19–22.)

On August 6, 2017, the debtor filed a motion to continue the automatic stay (the "First Motion to Continue Stay") [case no. 1:17-bk-11847-VK, doc. 20]. The Court twice continued the hearing on the First Motion to Continue Stay so that the debtor could cure her service errors. On September 20, 2017, the Court issued a ruling granting the First Motion to Continue Stay and directing the debtor to submit an appropriate order within seven days. The debtor did not submit the order.

On November 16, 2017, the UST filed a motion under 11 U.S.C. § 1112(b) to dismiss or convert the Sixth Bankruptcy Case (the "Second Motion to Dismiss") [case no. 1:17-bk-11847-VK, doc. 48]. The UST alleged that the debtor had not provided evidence of vehicle insurance coverage or monthly operating reports for August and September 2017. On January 5, 2018, the Court entered an order granting the Second Motion to Dismiss and dismissing the Sixth Bankruptcy Case [case no. 1:17-bk-11847-VK, doc. 57.]

The Pending Bankruptcy Case

On February 21, 2018, the debtor filed the pending case. In her pending case, the debtor's Schedules I & J indicate monthly income is $7,350.00 and monthly expenses of $5,825.00, leaving net monthly income of $1,525.00. The debtor states that she has been self-employed as a registered nurse for ten years. (Doc. 1, at pp. 29–32.)

On March 9, 2018, the debtor filed a motion to continue the automatic stay (the "Second Motion to Continue Stay") [doc. 14] and an application for an order shortening time to hear the Second Motion to Continue Stay (the "Application") [doc. 15]. The Court entered an order granting the Application and setting a hearing for March 21, 2018 (the "OST") [doc. 16].

In the Second Motion to Continue Stay, the debtor alleges that in the Sixth Bankruptcy Case, she was initially compliant with UST requirements. However, the debtor became ill and could not remain compliant. In addition, the debtor states that she lost 90% of her income. The debtor states that she is substantially compliant in the pending case and "has arranged backup" in the form of family contributions to remain compliant. The debtor further states that her income has increased and stabilized. The debtor states that she is willing to provide monthly adequate protection payments to her secured lender.

II. DISCUSSION

As an initial matter, in the OST, the Court instructed the debtor to provide telephonic notice to the UST by March 13, 2018. In the debtor's declaration regarding service, the debtor does not state that she gave telephonic notice to the UST [doc. 19].

Under 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3), in order to extend the automatic stay in a case filed within one year of another case which was pending within the same year but was dismissed, the debtor must show that the present case was filed in good faith as to the creditors to be stayed. Under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3)(C)(i)(III), a case is presumptively filed not in good faith if there has not been a substantial change in the financial or personal affairs of the debtor since the dismissal of the next most previous case, or any other reason to conclude that the later case will be concluded with a chapter 7 discharge, or a confirmed chapter 11 or 13 plan that will be fully performed.

In the Second Motion to Continue Stay, the debtor states that her income has increased and stabilized since the dismissal of the Sixth Bankruptcy Case. In the Sixth Bankruptcy Case, the debtor's schedules showed monthly income of $5,500 and monthly expenses of $5,335.00, leaving net monthly income of $165.00. In her pending case, the debtor's monthly income is $7,350.00 and her monthly expenses are $5,825.00, leaving net monthly income of $1,525.00. In addition, the debtor states that she is compliant with UST requirements and has "arranged backup" to ensure compliance.

Notwithstanding these assertions and the lack of an opposition to her motion, the debtor has not provided at this time clear and convincing evidence that her financial affairs have improved since her prior case, such that the pending chapter 11 case will result in a confirmed plan that will be fully performed. The debtor has made inconsistent statements regarding her work history. In the Fifth Bankruptcy Case, the debtor stated that she was employed as a registered nurse for three weeks, but did not state her employer. In the Sixth Bankruptcy Case, the debtor stated that she was employed as a registered nurse for Senior Hospice Care for two years. In her pending case, the debtor states that she has been self-employed as a registered nurse for ten years.

In light of the foregoing, the Court will grant the motion on an interim basis up to the date of the continued hearing. No later than March 28, 2018, the debtor must file and serve notice of the continued hearing on all secured creditors. No later than April 13, 2018, the debtor must (i) tender her April 2018 deed of trust payment to Deutsche Bank/Nationstar in the amount of $3,500.00 (as stated in her current Schedule J) as to the real property located at 11922 Louise Ave., Granada Hills, CA 91344; and (ii) file a declaration supported by admissible evidence of her employment status and her family members' ability to make contribution payments. No later than April 25, 2018, the debtor must file a declaration to demonstrate that she made her April 2018 deed of trust payment.

The Court will prepare the order.

Tentative Ruling:

As discussed below, the Court will deny in part and continue in part the Motion to Exclude Plaintiff's Evidence (the "Motion").

I. BACKGROUND

On February 13, 2015, Ernest Charles Barreca ("Defendant") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition.

On April 18, 2013, Gerson and Gertrude Fox ("Plaintiffs") filed a complaint in the Los Angeles County Superior Court seeking damages against Defendant on several causes of action, including Elder Abuse, Fraud, Deceit and Conversion (the "State Court Action") [doc. 108, Exh. E]. On July 8, 2014, the court in the State Court Action entered a default judgment against Defendant in the amount of $7,958,622.62 [doc. 108, Exh. F].

On May 15, 2015, Plaintiffs filed a complaint against Defendant, requesting nondischargeability of the debt owed to them pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(4) and (6) [doc. 1]. On July 27, 2015, Plaintiffs filed a first amended complaint, which added claims under 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2)(A) and (a)(2)(B) (the "FAC") [doc. 12].

The FAC alleged that Mr. Fox agreed to go into business with Michael Kamen, who had a real estate business that acquired and sold commercial properties. These investments took the form of several single purpose entity limited liability companies or limited partnerships (the "Real Estate LLCs"). In October 2006, Defendant became the Chief Executive Officer of Mika Realty Group and took responsibility for managing the Real Estate LLCs. The FAC alleged that Defendant drove SPEs into default by failing to pay obligations and enabled his friends to buy the SPEs' promissory notes at a steep discount.

On August 5, 2016, Plaintiffs provided Defendant with their Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("FRCP") 26 initial disclosures of witnesses and evidence. Plaintiffs never amended or supplemented their initial disclosures [doc. 159, Declaration of Jeff Katofsky, Esq., ¶ 2].

On April 27, 2017, the Court entered a scheduling order (the "Scheduling Order") [doc. 79], setting the following deadlines: (A) April 26, 2017 as the discovery cutoff date; (B) May 5, 2017 as the last day to file pretrial motions; (C) May 24, 2017 as the date by which the parties must file a joint pretrial stipulation; and (D) June 7, 2017 as the pretrial conference.

On May 5, 2017, Defendant timely filed a motion for summary judgment (the "MSJ") [doc. 86]. On May 31, 2017, the parties filed an initial pretrial stipulation (the "IPS") [doc. 99]. On June 21, 2017, Plaintiffs filed an opposition to the MSJ [doc. 107]. On June 28, 2017, Defendant filed a reply to the opposition to the MSJ [doc. 117]. Defendant did not object to the use of any exhibits in the opposition to the MSJ pursuant to FRCP 26(a)(1) and 37(c). On July 12, 2017, the Court denied the MSJ [doc. 121].

On July 12, 2017, at a pretrial conference in this case, the Court adopted a pretrial briefing and witness testimony schedule. The Court stated that it would take all direct testimony by declaration, except to the extent that any hostile witness would be questioned by an adverse party, the Court would take that testimony at trial. Specifically the Court referenced hostile witnesses Defendant, Kevin Golshan, Michael Kamen, Mohamed Islam, Edwin Kaftal and Peter Mehrian. Otherwise, the declarations of Plaintiffs' witnesses were required to be filed 28 days before trial, and declarations of Defendant's witnesses were to be filed 21 days prior to trial. The Court also set deadlines of 14 days before trial for evidentiary objections to the declarations, and seven days before trial for responses to those evidentiary objections.

On December 20, 2017, at a pretrial conference, the Court set a pretrial schedule in this proceeding. During the hearing, the Court decided to bifurcate this proceeding.

Pursuant to the Court's decision, the first phase of this proceeding will pertain to Plaintiffs' nondischargeability causes of action. After trial on those causes of action has concluded, and depending on the Court's decisions regarding those issues, it will hold trial to assess the issue of damages.

On January 5, 2018, the Court entered another scheduling order (the "Final Scheduling Order") [doc. 143], this time setting the date by which the parties must file a joint pretrial stipulation as February 5, 2018, setting a pretrial conference for February 14, 2018 and trial for the week of May 29, 2018.

On February 5, 2018, the parties filed a joint pretrial stipulation (the "JPS") [doc. 145]. The parties attached their respective exhibit and witness lists to the JPS. On February 8, 2018, Defendant filed the Motion, outlining objections to each of Plaintiffs' JPS exhibits largely on the grounds of relevance, lack of foundation, and failure to provide FRCP 26 disclosures [doc. 155]. On February 15, 2018, Defendant filed a supplemental motion to exclude witnesses in the JPS which Plaintiffs did not previously disclose pursuant to FRCP 26 (the "Supplemental Motion") [doc. 159]. The Supplemental Motion attached Plaintiffs' initial disclosures (the "Initial Disclosures") as an exhibit. On February 21, 2018, Plaintiff filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 160].

II. DISCUSSION

A. Special Issues

In the Opposition, Plaintiffs state that they do not object to their Exhibits 56, 57 and 82 being excluded from trial. Plaintiffs also have withdrawn Exhibit 72 (it is duplicative of Exhibit 73). These exhibits are no longer at issue.

Defendant objected to Exhibits 88-90, which are partial deposition transcript of Defendant's deposition, on the grounds that Plaintiffs sought to only include selections of the transcript in evidence. In the Opposition, Plaintiffs state that they stipulate to include the whole transcript.

In the Motion, Defendant objects to Exhibit 71, which he states is an operating agreement of York Square, LLC, on several grounds including relevance, hearsay, mischaracterization and that it was not included in the initial disclosures. Plaintiffs contend that their Exhibit 71 is actually a blank document which was left blank for technical reasons. If Plaintiffs believe that document to be blank, presumably they do not intend to submit any document as Exhibit 71. Plaintiffs should withdraw the document if this is the case.

Due to what appears to be a typographical error, Defendant labeled his objection to Plaintiffs' Exhibit 23 ("Bank Statement of Broadway Workman, LLC Operating Account, month ending 5/31/10") as an objection to Exhibit 26. Plaintiffs mistakenly interpreted this typographical error as a lack of objection to Exhibit 23 and did not provide any response to Defendant's evidentiary objections or explanation for why the omission of Exhibit 23 from their disclosures was harmless.

B. Defendant's Evidentiary Objections

1. Motion in Limine

Although Defendant does not refer to the Motion as a "motion in limine," to the extent that the Motion argues that Plaintiffs' evidence should be excluded based on the Federal Rules of Evidence ("FRE"), this Court should address it as such. "A motion in limine is a request for the court's guidance concerning an evidentiary question. Judges have broad discretion when ruling on motions in limine." Goodman v. Las Vegas Metro. Police Dep't, 963 F.Supp.2d 1036, 1046 (D. Nev. 2013) (citing to Luce v. United States, 469 U.S. 38, 41 n.4 (1984)).

"To exclude evidence on a motion in limine the evidence must be inadmissible on all potential grounds. Unless evidence meets this high standard, evidentiary rulings should be deferred until trial so that questions of foundation, relevancy and potential prejudice may be resolved in proper context. This is because although rulings on motions in limine may save time, costs, effort and preparation, a court is almost always better situated during the actual trial to assess the value and utility of evidence." Goodman, 963 F.Supp.2d at 1047 (internal citations omitted). "[I]n limine rulings are not binding on the trial judge, and the judge may always change his mind during the course of a trial." Ohler v. United States, 529 U.S. 753, 758 n.3, 120 S.Ct. 1851, 1854 n.3, 146 L.Ed.2d 826 (2000).

"Denial of a motion in limine does not necessarily mean that all evidence contemplated by the motion will be admitted to trial. Denial merely means that without the context of trial, the court is unable to determine whether the evidence in question should be excluded." Ellsworth v. Prison Health Servs. Inc., 2014 WL 1493018, at *2 (D. Ariz. Apr. 16, 2014).

1. Relevance

Defendant has objected to Plaintiffs' Exhibits 1-88 on the grounds that they "do not provide evidence that tends to prove any fact of consequence." Plaintiff has presented a relevance argument for all exhibits except Exhibits 23, 56, 57, 71, 72 and 82. As explained below, each of Plaintiffs' exhibits appear to be relevant to at least one of their claims. It is premature for the Court to rule that any of Plaintiffs' exhibits are irrelevant at this time. (EN1)

- i. Exhibits 1, 2, 58: LLC Agreements: Plaintiffs argue that the LLC agreements establish Defendant's fiduciary duties as Chief Operating/Executive Officer of Mika Realty, which managed the Real Estate LLCs. Plaintiffs may use this evidence to establish Defendant's fiduciary duties, which is relevant to Plaintiffs' claim under 11 U.S.C. §523(a)(4). The Court will not exclude this evidence on relevance grounds at this time.
- ii. Exhibits 3, 4: Tax Returns: Plaintiffs assert that these tax returns show that Plaintiffs held an interest in the Real Estate LLCs and that Defendant therefore owed them a fiduciary duty, which appears relevant to support their § 523(a)(4) claim. The Court will not exclude this evidence on relevance grounds at this time.
- iii. Exhibits 5, 6, 73: Property Management Agreements: These agreements likely present further evidence of Defendants' fiduciary duties to members of the Real Estate LLCs. As such, they could be relevant to support Plaintiffs' 523(a)(4) claim. The Court will not exclude this evidence on relevance grounds at this time.

This information appears to support a claim of defalcation under § 523(a)(4). The Court will not exclude this evidence on relevance grounds at this time.

- v. Exhibit 8: Recorded Deed of Trust/Security Agreement/Fixture Filing: Plaintiffs plan to rely on this exhibit as evidence of Star News' liability to Wells Fargo, as well as information about the nature and substance of default, which Plaintiffs could use to support a claim of defalcation under § 523(a)(4). The Court will not exclude this evidence on relevance grounds at this time.

- vi. Exhibit 20: Printout from website of LA County Collector: Plaintiffs present this information to show Defendant's failure to pay LLC taxes, which they argue is a breach of his fiduciary duty and further evidence of defalcation. The Court will not exclude this evidence on relevance grounds at this time.

- vii. Exhibits 24-26: Promissory Note; Deed of Trust of Rents, Security Agreement; Assignment of Leases and Rents: Plaintiffs provide these exhibits as evidence of Star News' liability to Telesis, and the nature and substance of the default, which could support their defalcation claim. The Court will not exclude this evidence on relevance grounds at this time.

argue that these exhibits demonstrate that funds which Mika Realty was supposed to use to pay the mortgage on the Star News building instead were used for other purposes. This evidence tends to support Plaintiffs' claim under § 523(a)(4). The Court will not exclude this evidence on relevance grounds at this time.

- ix. Exhibit 32: Promissory Note between Mohammed Islam and Mika Realty Group: Plaintiffs claim that this note shows that Mika Realty used funds that should have been used for the benefit of Star News to cover liabilities not belonging to Star News. This evidence could support Plaintiffs' claims that Defendant committed fraud while acting in a fiduciary capacity. The Court will not exclude this evidence on relevance grounds at this time.

This evidence could be relevant to Plaintiffs' claim of defalcation. The Court will not exclude this evidence on relevance grounds at this time.
- xi. Exhibits 47-52: Construction Loan Agreement; Promissory Note; Assignment of Rents; Commercial Security Agreement; Assignment of Loans: Plaintiffs submit this exhibit to create a basis of liability for Covina Palms Center and the nature and substance of its default. Trust; Amendments to Promissory Note and Construction Loan Agreement; Assignment of Loans and Liens; Absolute Assignment of Mortgage and Loan Documents: Plaintiffs assert that these documents present the basis of liability for York Square, and the nature and substance of its default. Such evidence could be used to support Plaintiff's claim of defalcation because it tends to demonstrate Defendant's mismanagement of the Real Estate LLCs. The Court will not exclude this evidence on relevance grounds at this time.

- xiii. Exhibits 18-22, 27-29, 41-45: Bank Statements; Preliminary Payoff Quote; Year to Date Ledgers; Tax Returns; Monthly Management Report: Plaintiffs plan to use this evidence to demonstrate that Defendant diverted funds away from the Real Estate LLCs and allowed them to go into default. Such evidence appears relevant to a § 523(a) (4) claim because it could demonstrate mismanagement of the Real Estate LLCs and defalcation. The Court will not exclude this evidence on relevance grounds at this time.
- xiv. Exhibits 53-55: Check Registers; Summary of Payments Unrelated to the Property: Plaintiffs argue that these records support their claims that Defendant diverted money held by the Real Estate LLCs to pay unrelated parties. This evidence could be used to support Plaintiffs' defalcation claim. The Court will not exclude this evidence on relevance grounds at this time.
- xv. Exhibit 46: Wells Fargo Bank Wire Receipts: Plaintiffs wired $1,000,000 to pay for Covina Palms: Plaintiffs argue that this transfer draws a causal connection between their loss and Defendant's fraud. fraud in modifying the LLC agreement to reduce Plaintiffs' share. This evidence of fraud could be used to support a claim of fraud in a fiduciary capacity under § 523(a)(4), or willful and malicious injury under § 523(a)(6). The Court will not exclude this evidence on relevance grounds at this time.

- xvii. Exhibit 60-61: Grant Deed; Buyer's Closing Statement: Plaintiffs assert that these documents demonstrate that Defendant's fraud included attempting to transfer interest in a property owned by one of the Real Estate LLCs to another entity. This evidence appears relevant because it tends to support a claim of fraud under § 523(a)(4). The Court will not exclude this evidence on relevance grounds at this time.
- xviii. Exhibits 62-63: Check; Namco Exchange Corp. Account Quick Report: Plaintiffs argue that these documents show that Mr. Fox made a transfer that he believed was a loan. It is unclear which claim this information relates to, and whether these documents relate to any fact of consequence. Before hearing how Plaintiffs will use these exhibits, the Court will not exclude them.
- xix. Exhibits 64-67: Grant Deed; Agreement of Purchase and Sale of Real Property; Email Thread; Receipt of Wire Transfer: Plaintiffs plan to use these documents to demonstrate Defendant's attempt to transfer a property out of one of the Real Estate LLCs without their consent. Such evidence could support Plaintiffs' § 523(a)(4) claim. The Court will not exclude this evidence on relevance grounds at this time.
- xx. Exhibit 68: Complaint for Damages: Plaintiffs wish to present evidence that Kevin Golshan filed a complaint for damages against Mr. Fox. - xxiii. Exhibit 83: 22 Colt Lane Investors, LLC Limited Liability Operating Agreement: Plaintiffs claim that Defendant forged Mr. Fox's signature on this document to establish an LLC for the purchase of his own home. It is unclear which claim this information relates to, but it could be relevant to support a claim that Defendant willfully and maliciously harmed Plaintiffs under § 523(a)(6). or defalcation. The Court will not exclude this evidence on relevance grounds at this time.

xxvi. Exhibits 88-90: Transcript of Deposition of Ernest Charles Barreca: Plaintiffs plan to use the deposition transcript to demonstrate that Defendant was responsible for reviewing the transactions of the Real Estate LLCs. This evidence tends to demonstrate Defendant's responsibilities as a fiduciary, and could be relevant to Plaintiffs' § 523 (a)(4) claim. The Court will not exclude this evidence on relevance grounds at this time.

2. Lack of Foundation

Defendant has objected to Exhibits 1-88 on the ground that they lack foundation and are unauthenticated. For the reasons explained below, the Court will defer any decision regarding admissibility based on lack of foundation until trial.

Pursuant to FRE 901, a proponent of an item of evidence must provide sufficient evidence to support a finding that the item is what the proponent claims it is. Such establishing evidence includes (but is not limited to): (1) testimony that the item is what it is claimed to be; (2) nonexpert opinion that handwriting is genuine, based on a familiarity with it that was not acquired for the current litigation; (3) comparison with an authenticated specimen by an expert witness or the trier of fact; and (4) evidence that a document was recorded or filed in a public office as authorized by law or a purported public record or statement is from the office where items of this kind are kept. FRE 901(b).

A document also may be self-authenticating pursuant to FRE 902. Such documents include: (1) copies of public records which are certified as correct by a custodian or other person who is authorized to make the certification; (2) acknowledged documents which are executed by a notary public or other officer who is authorized to take acknowledgement; and (3) certified records generated by an electronic process or system. FRE 902 includes an exhaustive list of 14 kinds of documents which are self-authenticating.

As set forth in the Opposition, Plaintiffs intend to provide authentication for Exhibits

3-19, 21-22, 24-35, 41-50, 53-55, 63-70, 73-80, 83-87 through testimony at trial or via declaration. Because the Court cannot currently evaluate whether those exhibits are properly authenticated, it would be premature to rule on the related objections at this time.

Plaintiffs assert that Exhibits 1-2 and 58-59 can be authenticated by Mr. Fox's admission that he signed and entered into the agreements in those documents. Plaintiffs do not explain whether Plaintiff has already made this admission during discovery or if Plaintiff will need to submit a declaration to this effect. If Plaintiffs cannot provide such testimony, there may be another party who can authenticate these documents, and it is premature to exclude them for lack of foundation at this time.

Plaintiffs argue that Exhibits 10-17, 20, 25-26, 34-40, 49, 51-52, 60, 64, 75 and 81 are matters of public record, and are therefore self-authenticating pursuant to FRE 902(5). The majority of these documents appear to be grant deeds, assignments of rents, assignments of deeds of trust, and other documents which are likely recorded with a county recorder's office. Plaintiffs may be able to authenticate the documents as public records. Consequently, at this time, it is premature to exclude them for lack of foundation.

Plaintiffs also assert that they can obtain self-authenticating copies of Exhibits 48-52, 60-62, 67 and 74-79. These exhibits appear to include records such as loan documents, assignments of loans, promissory notes, a check and a wire transfer. Plaintiffs claim that they can subpoena the bank which keeps records of these documents to produce self-authenticating copies, presumably from their electronic records. Until the Court sees these records, it cannot rule on whether they are properly self-authenticating. The admissibility of these exhibits can be more easily determined at trial.

3. Other Evidentiary Objections

Defendant has objected to Plaintiffs' Exhibits 54-56, 66, 69-72, 82 and 88-90 on grounds other than relevance or lack of foundation.

i. Argumentative/Mischaracterization of Exhibit

Friday, March 23, 2018

Chapter 7

Exhibit 54 is titled "Check Register by the Name of Payee in Order to Identify Payments which were Unrelated to the Property and which Represented Outright Theft of Rent"; Exhibit 55 is titled "Summary of All Payments which were Unrelated to the Property and which Represented Outright Theft of Rent"; and Exhibit 70 is titled "Forged Promissory Note." Defendant objects to Exhibits 54 and 55 on the grounds that each document is "argumentative in that it identifies payments unrelated to the subject property and asks the finder of fact to make conclusions unsupported by the evidence and, thus, serves to confuse or mislead the jury" [doc. 155, pp. 97-99]. Defendant objects to Exhibit 70 on the grounds that it "is argumentative in that it identifies an alleged forged signature without support and asks the finder of fact to make conclusions unsupported by the evidence, i.e. it identifies an apparent forgery without showing any nexus between the alleged forgery and Defendant's purported fraud, thus serving to confuse or mislead the jury" [doc. 155, pp. 121-122]. Defendant also states that these exhibits are "misidentified in name and content."

There is no jury in this case, and the Court is not concerned that it will be confused by Plaintiffs' exhibit titles. To the extent that Defendant takes issue with these titles, they can be revised to exclude the conclusory allegations. For example, Exhibit 54 can be re-named "Check Register Organized by the Name of Payee," Exhibit 55 can be re-named "Summary of Payments" and Exhibit 70 can be renamed "Putative Promissory Note." In any event, the Court will not exclude these exhibits based on Defendant's objection to their titles. As to Defendant's other articulated concerns, the Court will take them into account when it weighs the evidence.

ii. Mischaracterization

Defendant also contends that Plaintiffs mischaracterized Exhibits 66, 71, and 72. Exhibit 66 is titled "Email thread between Rick Barreca and Dwayne Butler." Defendant does not explain how this title is a mischaracterization of the exhibit. Exhibit 71 is titled "Left Blank," and Plaintiffs contend that it is blank for technical reasons. Defendant asserts that the exhibit is actually an operating agreement. The Court does not know the contents of the exhibit at this time, and consequently cannot determine whether the exhibit has been mischaracterized. Document 72 is titled "Operating Agreement of York Square LLC Dated as of November 19, 1996." Defendant contends that this exhibit actually includes a property management agreement. Again, the Court cannot determine the contents of an exhibit which has not been provided to it.

iii. Argumentative

Defendant objects to Exhibits 56 and 82 on the grounds that they are argumentative, are based on speculation, and present improper expert opinion. Plaintiff has withdrawn both Exhibit 56 and Exhibit 82, and these objections are therefore moot.

iv. Improper Opinion

Defendant also objects to Exhibits 69 and 70 on the grounds of improper opinion. Defendant claims that Exhibit 69, which includes an appraisal report, fails to set forth admissible evidence as to the principals or methods used for the appraisal and does not show any cognizable method used in developing accurate appraisal values. The Court is not in possession of this exhibit. At trial, the Court will rule on whether the appraisal report is admissible as an expert's opinion.

Similarly, Defendant objects to Exhibit 70, which allegedly constitutes a promissory note signed with Mr. Fox's name. Defendant anticipates that Mr. Fox will testify that the signature on the document is not his. Although Defendant contends that the accuracy of the signature requires the opinion of a handwriting expert, he has not cited any authority for this contention, and the Court will not exclude Exhibit 70 on this basis.

v. Document Modified

Defendant objects to Exhibit 70 because he states that the promissory note has been modified from the original document and its accuracy is in question. Plaintiffs do not respond to this allegation. The question of whether the document is in its original form goes to authentication. Prior to trial, it is premature for the Court to rule on the authentication of this document.

vi. Hearsay/Incompleteness

Deposition testimony generally is inadmissible hearsay at trial, but will be allowed under certain circumstances pursuant to FRCP 32. Deposition testimony is admissible: (1) as impeachment evidence; (2) if the deponent is unavailable to testify; or (3) if the deposition is an adverse party's testimony.

Defendant objects to Exhibits 88-90, which are portions of Defendant's deposition transcripts, on the grounds of hearsay and incompleteness. Plaintiffs have stated that they are willing to submit the entire deposition transcript as evidence. The entire deposition transcript appears to be admissible as an adverse party's former testimony under FRCP 32. Consequently, the Court will not exclude it as hearsay.

C. Defendant's FRCP 26 Objections

Pursuant to FRCP 26(a)(1), parties have a duty to disclose initially:

(i) the name and, if known, the address and telephone number of each individual likely to have discoverable information--along with the subjects of that information--that the disclosing party may use to support its claims or defenses, unless the use would be solely for impeachment;

(ii) a copy--or a description by category and location--of all documents, electronically stored information, and tangible things that the disclosing party has in its possession, custody, or control and may use to support its claims or defenses, unless the use would be solely for impeachment....

Pursuant to FRCP 26(a)(1)(E)—

A party must make its initial disclosures based on the information then reasonably available to it. A party is not excused from making its disclosures because it has not fully investigated the case or because it challenges the sufficiency of another party's disclosures or because another party has not made its disclosures.

on the facts that are alleged with particularity in the pleadings." Adv. Comm. Notes on 1993 Amendments to FRCP 26(a).

Pursuant to FRCP 26(e)(1)(A), "[a] party who has made a disclosure under FRCP 26 (a) – or who has responded to an interrogatory, request for production, or request for admission – must supplement or correct its disclosure or response...in a timely manner if the party learns that in some material respect the disclosure or response is incomplete or incorrect, and if the additional or corrective information has not otherwise been made known to the other parties during the discovery process or in writing"(emphasis added).

"There is, however, no obligation to provide supplemental or corrective information that has been otherwise made known to the parties in writing or during the discovery process, as when a witness not previously disclosed is identified during the taking of a deposition or when an expert during a deposition corrects information contained in an earlier report." Adv. Comm. Notes on 1993 Amendments to FRCP 26. The disclosure requirements of FRCP 26(a)(1)(A) are designed to accelerate the exchange of basic information and "help focus the discovery that is needed, and facilitate preparation for trial or settlement." If a party fails to provide information or identify a witness as required by FRCP 26(a) or (e), the party is not allowed to use that information or witness to supply evidence on a motion, at a hearing, or at trial unless the failure was substantially justified or harmless. The Court has discretion to determine if a violation of FRCP 26(a) is "justified" or "harmless" based on several factors:

- (1) the surprise to the party against whom the evidence would be offered;
- (2) the ability of that party to cure the surprise;
- (3) the extent to which allowing the evidence would disrupt the trial;

The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has held that a party's failure to disclose witnesses who are submitted merely to identify and authenticate documents at trial was harmless. See Lam v. City of San Francisco, 565 Fed. Appx. 641 (9th Cir. 2014).

Where evidence preclusion is extensive enough to amount to dismissal of a claim, the trial court must consider whether the claimed noncompliance involved willfulness, fault, or bad faith, and to consider whether lesser sanctions are available. R & R Sails, Inc. v. Ins. Co. of Pennsylvania, 673 F.3d 1240, 1247–48 (9th Cir. 2012). All that is required to demonstrate willfulness, fault or bad faith is "disobedient conduct not shown to be outside the control of the litigant." Henry v. Gill Indus., Inc., 983 F.2d 943, 948 (9th Cir. 1993).

A document's public availability does not excuse a party's failure to identify the documents during FRCP 26 disclosures. See Low v. Trump Univ., LLC, No. 310CV00940GPCWVG, 2016 WL 6647793, at *8 (S.D. Cal. Nov. 10, 2016) ("Although a number of these exhibits were identified as publically available by [the] defendants, the fact that exhibits were publicly available does not justify [the] defendants' untimely disclosure"). Similarly, a party's awareness of a document or person does not justify nondisclosure under FRCP 26. Ishow.com, Inc. v. Lennar Corp., No. C15-1550RSL, 2017 WL 2964875, at *1–2 (W.D. Wash. July 12, 2017). In Ishow, the defendants did not identify seven of their potential witnesses until one month before trial. Although the plaintiff may have been aware of the existence of these individuals, the district court found that was irrelevant. To enable the plaintiff to craft its discovery efforts, the defendants were required to disclose their intention to rely on the testimony of these witnesses at trial.

In addition, although a person may be mentioned during discovery in a way that suggests their possession of relevant information ("Jones was also present during my conversation with defendant"), such a reference does not take the place of disclosing that the party may use that person to support their claims or defenses. See Adv. Comm. Notes to 1993 Amendments to FRCP 26(a), and Ollier v. Sweetwater Union High School Dist., 267 FRD 339, 343 (S.D. Cal. 2010).

Rather than excluding evidence, some courts have allowed less drastic sanctions, such as reopening discovery to permit the opposing side to conduct the discovery they otherwise would have performed, i.e., to provide the opposing side with an opportunity to gather rebuttal evidence. Bonzani v. Shinseki, No. 2:11-CV-0007-EFB, 2014 WL 66529, at *4–5 (E.D. Cal. Jan. 8, 2014) (reopening discovery and ordering the nondisclosing party to pay reasonable expenses incurred in bringing the motion to exclude evidence); Rhodes v. Sutter Health, 949 F. Supp. 2d 997, 1010–11 (E.D. Cal. 2013); see also CCR/AG Showcase Phase I Owner, L.L.C. v. United Artists Theatre Circuit, Inc., No. 208-CV-00984-R CJ-GWF, 2010 WL 1947016, at *12 (D. Nev. May 13, 2010) (ordering defendant to pay court reporter fees and plaintiffs' attorney's fees to prepare and to conduct further depositions). This remedy may be appropriate where reopening discovery is in the interests of a full and fair proceeding. See City of Inglewood v. Time Warner NY Cable LLC, No. CV1309464BROCWX, 2015 WL 12803767, at *5 (C.D. Cal. June 9, 2015).

1. Exhibits

Defendant objects to Plaintiffs' Exhibits 1-56 and 58-87 (i.e. all except 57, 88-90) because they were not properly identified at the FRCP 26 disclosure conference or at any time during discovery. Plaintiffs admit that they failed to provide supplemental disclosures as required by FRCP 26(a), but argue that this failure was harmless. According to Plaintiffs, there is no surprise to Defendant because Plaintiffs identified their exhibits to the Defendant in or before June 2017, and Defendant has been aware of them for several months. In addition, Plaintiffs argue that precluding the evidence would essentially eviscerate Plaintiffs' claims.

Plaintiffs also state that they are "merely presenting evidence that [they have] already presented in the State Court Action that led to Plaintiffs obtaining a default Judgment" [doc. 145, p. 4]. Plaintiffs have not presented the Court with their motion for default judgment from the State Court Action and the related proof of service. Thus the Court cannot evaluate whether that motion sufficiently disclosed the intended use of the exhibits at issue to Defendant.

Plaintiffs argue that they otherwise have identified most, if not all, of the evidence to Defendant earlier in the adversary proceeding, as follows:

i. Delivered at Defendant's Deposition on April 25, 2017

Plaintiffs contend that they delivered Exhibits 28 (2010 Year to Date Ledger for Star News) and 42 (La Vergne Food Lion Partners 2010 Year to Date Ledger) to Defendant during Defendant's deposition on April 25, 2017. If these documents were delivered during discovery, and in writing, Plaintiffs were not required to supplement their disclosures with Exhibits 28 and 42. However, Plaintiffs have not presented the Court with any evidence that they delivered the documents as they contend.

ii. Identified on May 20, 2017 in Plaintiff's Initial Exhibit List

Plaintiffs state that they identified Exhibits 1-22, 24-27, 29-41, 43-55, 58-70, 73-81 and 83-87 in their initial exhibit list on May 20, 2017, after discovery closed on April 26, 2018. As discussed above, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has held that where a party identified documents after the close of discovery, the failure to provide disclosure earlier is not harmless. The purpose of FRCP 26 is to help parties shape their discovery efforts. Moreover, Plaintiffs have not presented an adequate argument that their lack of timely disclosure was substantially justified.

iii. Delivered to Plaintiffs by Richard Laski

Plaintiffs assert that Exhibits 3-4, 21-22, 27, 41, 44-45, 83-84 are documents that Richard Laski delivered to Defendant, pursuant to Plaintiffs' request. Plaintiffs do not specify when these documents were delivered, nor do they put forth any evidence to this effect.

iv. Included in the IPS on May 31, 2017 [doc. 99]

Plaintiffs also assert that they identified Exhibits 2, 8, 11, 14, 17, 24, 32-33, 46, 48, 56, 61-62, 64-65, 67-70, 80, 83 and 85 in the IPS. A side-by-side comparison of the

Although Plaintiffs state that certain exhibits were referenced in both documents, the inconsistency in the exhibits' titles impedes this argument. Based on the descriptions, it appears that the following exhibits identified in the JPS also were included in the IPS: Exhibits 2, 56, 61, 65, 69, and 83. If these documents were included in the IPS in May 2017, that date was after discovery closed on April 26, 2018. Consequently, such a failure is not "harmless."

v. Included in Plaintiffs' Opposition to the MSJ on June 21, 2017

Plaintiffs argue that Exhibits 2, 4, 18, 29, 30, 31, 32, 43, 53-55 and 58, as described in the chart below, were served on the Defendant through the Plaintiffs' opposition to the MSJ and declaration in support of that opposition (filed on June 21, 2017). Plaintiffs state that Defendant has had possession of the actual exhibits since that time.

Plaintiffs also claim that Exhibits 33-40 and 47-52 were included in the opposition to the MSJ. However, these exhibits were not included in either docket 104 or 105. It appears these documents were exhibits to a motion filed in the La Vergne Food Lions Partners, LLC bankruptcy case. Although that motion was included in docket 104 as Exhibit Q, the exhibits to the motion were not attached.

Exhibits 2, 5, 29, 31, 32, 43 and 53-55 appear to have been included in Plaintiffs' opposition to the MSJ. These documents were not identified to Defendant in compliance with FRCP 26, and Plaintiffs' failure to disclose them explicitly before the close of discovery was not harmless. However, when the opposition to the MSJ was filed, Defendant did not object to the use of these exhibits or subsequently move to reopen discovery.

vi. Matter of Public Record

Plaintiffs argue that Defendant should have been aware of Exhibits 7-17, 19, 24-26, 29-40, 47-55, 68, 74-79, 81 and 86-87 because these exhibits each are a matter of public record [doc. 160, example on p. 4, lines 20-23]. The purpose of FRCP 26 is for parties to inform each other of the evidence they intend to use to support their cases in order to promote efficiency in trying or settling cases. The fact that a document is a public record does not provide such notice. See Trump Univ., 2016 WL 6647793, at * 8. However, as noted above, Plaintiffs included Exhibits 29, 31, 32, 53, 54 and 55 in their opposition to the MSJ. Because Defendant could have been properly prepared as to those exhibits, as discussed below, the Court will not exclude them.

vii. Documents which Defendant Signed, Created, or Received

Plaintiffs argue that the Defendant should be aware of Exhibits 64-70, 80 and 83-85 because they are documents he created, signed, or received or were prepared at his direction. As discussed above, such an argument is inconsistent with the congressional intention behind FRCP 26. The rule is intended to encourage parties to identify the evidence on which they plan to rely to present their case. Defendant's knowledge of the existence of these documents did not relieve Plaintiffs from their FRCP 26 obligations. However, as noted above, Plaintiffs included Exhibits 65, 69 and 83 in the IPS. Consequently, the Court concludes that Defendant could have been properly prepared as to those exhibits, and, as discussed below, it will not exclude them.

viii. Defendant Should be Aware of Certain Documents

Plaintiffs argue that it is disingenuous for the Chief Operating/Executive Officer of the company which created Exhibits 3-4, 6, 46 and 84-85 to argue that he did not have access to these documents. Defendant's knowledge of these documents does not absolve Plaintiffs of the FRCP 26 disclosure requirement. Plaintiffs did not include any of these exhibits in their opposition to the MSJ or the IPS. Absent further evidence that Plaintiffs pointed them out to Defendant earlier in this proceeding, the Court will exclude them.

ix. Evidence Will Identify Transfers Denoted in Other Exhibits

Plaintiffs state that Exhibits 21, 22, 27 and 41, which include a year to date ledger from 2010, and 2010 tax returns for Broadway/Workman LLC, Star News LP, and La Vergne Food Lion Partners LLC (the "Supportive Exhibits"), will identify transfers evidenced by other exhibits. According to Plaintiffs, Exhibits 21 and 22 identify transfers already described in Exhibit 18, Exhibit 27 identifies transfers evidenced in Exhibits 28 and 29, and Exhibit 41 identifies transfers evidenced in Exhibits 42 and 43.

The Supportive Exhibits were neither identified in the IPS or the opposition to the MSJ, and Defendant would not have been alerted that Plaintiffs intended to rely on them. Consequently, absent further evidence that Plaintiffs sufficiently identified them to Defendant earlier in the proceeding, the Court will exclude them.

x. Documents Available through PACER

Plaintiffs assert that Exhibit 81, the voluntary petition for relief in the York Square, LLC bankruptcy, is available via PACER and Defendant has had access to it for the duration of the case. For reasons similar to those discussed above, a document's availability through PACER does not excuse disclosure of the document under FRCP 26. This exhibit was not included in the IPS or the opposition to the MSJ. Absent further evidence that Plaintiffs pointed it out to Defendant earlier in the proceeding, the Court will exclude it.

2. Witnesses

Defendant objects to the use of Kevin Golshan, Jack Garrett, Richard Laski, Benjamin Nachimson, David Frank, Mohammed Islam and Peter Meherian (the "Disputed Witnesses") as witnesses because the Disputed Witnesses were not included in Plaintiffs' initial disclosures. In the Opposition, Plaintiffs contend that Defendant had notice that some of the Disputed Witnesses were important to the case, though Plaintiffs do not deny that they did not provide Defendant with their names through FRCP 26 disclosures.

The IPS [doc. 99, pp. 48-49] listed Kevin Golshan, Jack Garret, David Frank, Mohammad Islam and Peter Meharian as potential witnesses for Plaintiffs. According to the JPS, Plaintiffs intend to use each of these witnesses to provide substantive information. Well before trial, Defendant was aware of their identities and potential status as witnesses. Because Defendant had ample time to request that discovery be reopened in this case, lesser sanctions are appropriate.

The other two witnesses, Benjamin Nachimson, Plaintiffs' attorney, and Richard Laski, were not identified as witnesses in any document on the docket prior to the JPS. It appears that Plaintiffs intend to use both Nachimson and Laski's testimony only to identify certain documents. As such, pursuant to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals' holding in Lam v. City of San Francisco, allowing these witnesses to provide this testimony, despite Plaintiffs' failure to disclose them earlier, is harmless. Consequently, the Court will allow the testimony of Nachimson and Laski for the purpose of identifying and authenticating documents.

3. Appropriate Sanctions

The purpose of FRCP 26 is to help facilitate discovery to expedite the process of collecting evidence, and it should not be viewed as a procedural weapon through which parties seek to gain a tactical litigation advantage. Silvagni v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., 320 F.R.D. 237, 243 (D. Nev. 2017), see also Advisory Committee Notes to 1993 Amendments to Fed.R.Civ.P. 26(a). Defendant has objected to seven of Plaintiffs' nine witnesses and Exhibits 1-56 and 58-87 (i.e. all except 57, 88-90). If the Court sustains Defendant's objection and precludes the evidence on FRCP 26 grounds, the result would be tantamount to a dismissal of Plaintiffs' case. Given the likely dispositive nature of such a sanction, the Court must consider whether a lesser remedy is available.

Other courts have looked unfavorably upon litigants who had knowledge of a party's proposed use of exhibits but waited months before filing their FRCP 26 objections. In Perfumania, Inc. v. Fashion Outlet of Las Vegas, LLC, the defendant waited a year after discovery closed, and well after the plaintiff made certain documents available to the defendant, to try to preclude the plaintiff from relying on those documents as evidence. Perfumania, Inc. v. Fashion Outlet of Las Vegas, LLC, No. 2:05-CV-00054-ECR, 2006 WL 3040914, at *1-2 (D. Nev. Oct. 26, 2006). There, the district court found that defendant could not blame the plaintiff for their own lack of diligence in seeking the discovery they needed.

Here, Plaintiffs state that nondisclosure was a procedural oversight, and claim to have identified the vast majority of their exhibits in or before June 2017. Although this was after the close of discovery, it was long before trial was set in this case. Of the exhibits and witnesses Defendant has objected to on FRCP 26 grounds, Plaintiffs identified and/or provided Exhibits 2, 5, 29, 31, 32, 43, 53-56, 61, 65, 69 and 83 in the IPS or in Plaintiffs' opposition to the MSJ, and witnesses Jack Garret, David Frank, Kevin Golshan, Mohammad Islam and Peter Meharian were identified in the IPS. As to the exhibits and witnesses that Plaintiffs identified in or before June 2017, it appears disingenuous for Defendant to argue that he was deprived of discovery. After becoming aware of Plaintiffs' use or intended use of these exhibits or witnesses, Defendant did not move to reopen discovery or object to the use of the exhibits in connection with the MSJ. If he had, the Court could have dealt with the situation without disrupting the trial schedule. Consequently, Defendant's delay appears to be a litigation tactic.

In light of Defendant's apparent gamesmanship, and because Plaintiffs claim that, in or before June 2017, they identified a vast majority of their exhibits to Defendant for this proceeding, the Court will impose lesser sanctions. First, the Court will not exclude the Disputed Witnesses. Second, if Plaintiffs present evidence that Plaintiffs sufficiently identified or provided exhibits to Defendant in or before June 2017, the Court will not exclude those exhibits. Because Plaintiffs' conduct led to Defendant incurring the expense of bringing the Motion, the Court will award Defendant his reasonable attorney's fees in bringing the Motion. See Bonzani, 2014 WL 66529, at * 5.

III. CONCLUSION

As discussed above, at this time the Court will not rule that any of Plaintiffs' evidence is inadmissible pursuant to Defendant's evidentiary objections.

Plaintiffs have demonstrated that they sufficiently identified Exhibits 2, 5, 29, 31, 32, 43, 53-55, 61, 65, 69, 83 through the ISP or the opposition to the MSJ. Plaintiffs assert that they also sufficiently identified Exhibits 1, 3-4, 6-28, 30, 33-42, 44-52, 58-60, 62-64, 66-68, 70, 73-81 and 84-87 (the "Additional Exhibits"). (EN2)

March 30, 2018, Plaintiffs must submit a supplemental declaration evidencing that, in or before June 2017, they identified or provided the Additional Exhibits to Defendant in connection with this proceeding. No later than April 3, 2018, Defendant must file any response to the supplemental declaration.

Plaintiffs failed to make proper disclosures with regard to the Disputed Witnesses. Plaintiffs' failure to identify Mr. Nachimson and Mr. Laski was harmless, and the Court will allow their authentication testimony. Regarding Plaintiffs' failure to provide FRCP 26 disclosures as to Kevin Golshan, Jack Garrett, David Frank, Mohammed Islam and Peter Meherian, the Court will reopen discovery prior to trial solely to allow Defendant to depose these individuals.

In addition, Plaintiffs must pay Defendant's attorney's fees incurred in preparing the Motion. No later than March 30, 2018, Defendant must submit evidence of the attorney's fees which he incurred to do so.

ENDNOTES

1. However, based on Defendant's FRCP 26 objections, evidence which may be relevant may nevertheless be excluded.
2. Plaintiffs have withdrawn Exhibits 56, 57, 72 and 82, and contend that Exhibit 71 was left blank. Defendant did not object to Exhibits 88-90 on FRCP 26 grounds.

At the prior hearing, the Court instructed movant to serve notice of the continued hearing on the chapter 11 trustee (the "Trustee"). On February 28, 2018, movant served notice of the continued hearing on the Trustee [doc. 128].

On February 22, 2018, the Trustee filed a notice of non-opposition to the motion and submission to the Court's ruling [doc. 123].

In light of the foregoing, the Court will grant the motion pursuant to its prior ruling.

Ruling from 2/21/18

Grant relief from stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1).

Movant may proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to proceed to final judgment in the nonbankruptcy forum, and the parties will have relief to prosecute any appeal of an entered judgment, provided that the stay remains in effect with respect to enforcement of any judgment against the debtor or property of the debtor's bankruptcy estate.

The 14-day stay prescribed by FRBP 4001(a)(3) is waived.

Movant must submit the order within seven (7) days.

I. BACKGROUND

On April 23, 2000, movant and the debtor entered into a lease agreement as to the real property located at 7522 Cartwright Ave., Sun Valley, CA 91352 (the "Property"). The lease provides, in pertinent part:

The tenants hereby agree not to commit or permit any illegal acts on said premises or cause any nuisance or cause damage to the above property, or to the appurtenances thereto, or create an unreasonable interference with the comfort, safety or enjoyment of any of the other residents at the same time or any adjacent buildings or homes. The tenants further agree not to use the residence for any illegal purpose.

(Motion, Exh. A.) The lease contains no provisions regarding rent control ordinances.

On November 26, 2017, movant served a Notice to Quit on the debtor (the "Notice to Quit"). (Motion, Exh. B.) The Notice to Quit states that the debtor had violated the terms of the lease agreement by (i) storing personal property in the front yard of the Property and other outside areas; and (ii) using the Property to conduct a business. Attached to the Notice to Quit is a letter from the Office of the City Attorney of Los Angeles describing a zoning code violation as to the Property.

On December 11, 2017, movant filed an unlawful detainer complaint (the “UD Complaint”) in state court against the debtor and other occupants of the Property. (Motion, Exh. C.) A trial on the UD Complaint was set for February 14, 2018 (the “UD Trial”). (Unlawful Detainer Declaration (“UD Decl.”), ¶ 7c.(2)) On February 14, 2018, the debtor filed his chapter 7 petition, commencing this case (the “Case”).

A. The Pending Motion

On February 15, 2018, movant filed the pending motion [doc. 5]. Movant alleges that the debtor did not pay the monthly rent of $1,297 beginning on December 1, 2017. (UD Decl., ¶ 6a.) Movant alleges that the debtor did not file and serve on the movant the certification required under 11 U.S.C. § 362(l)(1), and that the debtor or adult dependent of the debtor did not deposit with the clerk any rent that would become due during the 30-day period after the filing of the petition. (Id., ¶ 7d.(1), (2).) Movant also alleges that the UD Trial was continued to March 14, 2018. (Id., ¶ 7c.(3).)

B. The Opposition

On February 28, 2018, the debtor filed his opposition [doc. 12]. The debtor did not attach a declaration signed under penalty of perjury in support of the opposition. The debtor stated that he has lived as a tenant for at least 25 years at the Property, which is rent-controlled. The debtor states that he cured movant’s alleged code violations. The debtor also states that he sought to pay rent, but rent was refused by the movant. The debtor disputes movant’s allegations that the debtor has not filed a certification pursuant to § 362(l)(1) and that the debtor has not deposited rent with the Court.

In addition, the debtor states that he will assume the existing lease under 11 U.S.C. § 365(b)(1)(A) and cure the default, if any. The debtor also argues that because the unit is rent-controlled, it is a form of public assistance and therefore exempt under California Code of Civil Procedure § 703.140(b)(1) and 11 U.S.C. § 522(b)(10)(A). In support of the assertion that rent control is public assistance benefit, the debtor cites Santiago-Monteverde v. Pereira (In re Santiago-Monteverde), 780 F.3d 126 (2d Cir. 2015) and Birkenfeld v. City of Berkeley, 17 Cal. 3d 129 (1976).

The debtor cites In re Uniq Shoes Corp., 316 B.R. 748 (Bankr. S.D. Fla. 2004) for the proposition that courts consider “several factors, including a debtor's past financial performance, any inequitable conduct engaged in by the non-debtor party, and the remaining term of a lease or relationship between the parties” to determine whether a cure is prompt under § 365(b)(1).

The debtor further states that pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(e)(2), in cases where the debtor is an individual, the stay will terminate 60 days after a motion for relief from stay is filed, unless a final decision is rendered by the court during the 60-day period, or the 60-day period is extended by agreement of the parties or upon a finding of good cause by the court.

Furthermore, the debtor states that movant has acted inequitably by filing his motion the day after the petition date. According to the debtor, section 362(l) “provides the [d]ebtor a 30-day period during which the default may be cured.”

A. 11 U.S.C. §§ 362(b)(22) and 362(l)

As an initial matter, §§ 362(b)(22) and 362(l) do not apply to the Case. Section 362 (b)(22) provides that the filing of a petition does not operate as a stay:

subject to subsection (l), under subsection (a)(3), of the continuation of any eviction, unlawful detainer action, or similar proceeding by a lessor against a debtor involving residential property in which the debtor resides as a tenant under a lease or rental agreement and with respect to which the lessor has obtained before the date of the filing of the bankruptcy petition, a judgment for possession of such property against the debtor [.]

(Emphasis added.)

Section 362(l)(1) provides:

Except as otherwise provided in this subsection, subsection (b)(22) shall apply on the date that is 30 days after the date on which the bankruptcy petition is filed, if the debtor files with the petition and serves upon the lessor a certification under penalty of perjury that—

(A) under nonbankruptcy law applicable in the jurisdiction, there are circumstances under which the debtor would be permitted to cure the entire monetary default that gave rise to the judgment for possession, after that judgment for possession was entered; and

(B) the debtor (or an adult dependent of the debtor) has deposited with the clerk of the court, any rent that would become due during the 30-day period after the filing of the bankruptcy petition.

(Emphasis added.)

Here, the UD Trial was initially set for February 14, 2018 and continued to March 14, 2018. The debtor filed his petition on February 14, 2018. It does not appear that any judgment for possession of the Property was entered prepetition, such that the § 362(b)(22) exception to the automatic stay would apply as of the petition date. Because § 362(b)(22) does not apply in the Case, the requirements of § 362(l) also do not apply in the Case. In addition, § 362(l) addresses the cure of monetary defaults. However, the default alleged by movant is nonmonetary in nature.

B. 11 U.S.C. § 365

In addition, it does not appear that the monetary cure provisions of 11 U.S.C. § 365(b)(1) apply to the lease at issue. Section 365(b)(1) provides:

If there has been a default in an executory contract or unexpired lease of the debtor, the trustee may not assume such contract or lease unless, at the time of assumption of such contract or lease, the trustee—

(A) cures, or provides adequate assurance that the trustee will promptly cure, such default other than a default that is a breach of a provision relating to the satisfaction of any provision (other than a penalty rate or penalty provision) relating to a default arising from any failure to perform nonmonetary obligations under an unexpired lease of real property, if it is impossible for the trustee to cure such default by performing nonmonetary acts at and after the time of assumption, except that if such default arises from a failure to operate in accordance with a nonresidential real property lease, then such default shall be cured by performance at and after the time of assumption in accordance with such lease, and pecuniary losses resulting from such default shall be compensated in accordance with the provisions of this paragraph;

(B) compensates, or provides adequate assurance that the trustee will promptly compensate, a party other than the debtor to such contract or lease, for any actual pecuniary loss to such party resulting from such default; and

(C) provides adequate assurance of future performance under such contract or lease.

Movant alleges that the debtor did not pay the monthly rent of $1,297 beginning on December 1, 2017. Movant served the Notice to Quit on November 26, 2017, five days before the alleged failure to pay rent. The Notice to Quit states that the debtor's defaults are nonmonetary in nature, e.g., storing personal property in the front yard of the Property and other outside areas; and using the Property to conduct a business. Based on the Notice to Quit, it does not appear that the monetary default cure provisions of § 365(b)(1) apply to the lease at issue.

The debtor argues that he will assume the existing lease under 11 U.S.C. § 365(b)(1) (A) and cure the default, if any. The debtor states that he has tried to pay rent to movant, but movant would not accept payment. The debtor also states that he has cured the alleged, nonmonetary code violations. However, these statements are not supported by declaration or other admissible evidence.

In any event, the debtor does not have standing to assume or reject a lease under 11 U.S.C. § 365. "The decision to assume or reject a lease in a Chapter 7 setting is solely the trustee's for a sixty day period only." Carrico v. Tompkins (In re Tompkins), 95 B.R. 722, 724 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1989) (citing 11 U.S.C. § 365(d)(1)).

C. Rent Control

The debtor states that his lease is subject to a Los Angeles County rent control ordinance. However, this statement is not supported by declaration or other admissible evidence. Even if the Property were subject to a rent control ordinance, the debtor's cited authorities do not support denial of the pending motion.

The debtor argues that rent control is a form of public assistance that is "exempt" under California Code of Civil Procedure ("C.C.P.") § 703.140(b)(1) and 11 U.S.C. § 522(b)(10)(A). C.C.P. § 703.140(b)(1) provides that a judgment debtor may exempt the "aggregate interest, not to exceed [$26,800] in value, in real property or personal property that the debtor or a dependent of the debtor uses as a residence, in a cooperative that owns property that the debtor or a dependent of the debtor uses as a residence." However, this statute addresses homestead exemptions, not rent-controlled lease agreements.

11 U.S.C. § 522(b)(10)(A) provides that a debtor may exempt the "right to receive . . . a social security benefit, unemployment compensation, or a local public assistance benefit[.]" The debtor cites In re Santiago-Monteverde to support his assertion that rent control is a public assistance benefit. However, In re Santiago-Monteverde concerns a rent-stabilized lease that the Second Circuit Court of Appeals held to be a "local public assistance benefit" under New York state law and therefore exempt under 11 U.S.C. § 522. 780 F.3d at 128. The debtor has not provided authority that the Los Angeles County rent control ordinance is a "local public assistance benefit" under California law, and that the lease at issue is similarly exempt.

The debtor also cites Birkenfeld. In Birkenfeld, the California Supreme Court held that a municipality's enacted rent control provisions "are within the police power if they are reasonably calculated to eliminate excessive rents and at the same time provide landlords with a just and reasonable return on their property." 17 Cal. 3d at 165. However, Birkenfeld did not address whether a debtor could claim an exemption in a rent-controlled lease as a defense to a motion for relief from the automatic stay.

In his opposition, the debtor cites § 362(e)(2). However, this statute concerns the expiration of the automatic stay 60 days after the filing of a motion for relief of the automatic stay. Section 362(e)(2) does not support denial of the pending motion.

III. CONCLUSION

Chapter 7

In light of the foregoing, the Court will grant relief from stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1).

Movant (and any successors or assigns) may proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to obtain possession of the property.

The Court will deny the movant's request for an order confirming that the automatic stay does not apply pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(l). Section 362(l) is inapplicable here, as movant has not obtained a prepetition judgment for possession of the Property.

The 14-day stay prescribed by FRBP 4001(a)(3) is waived.

Any other request for relief is denied.

Movant must submit the order within seven (7) days.

In their joint status report [doc. 9], the parties indicated that they are engaged in settlement discussions. In addition, the defendant has requested that the matter be sent to mediation. Why don't the plaintiffs want to participate in the Court's mediation program?

The parties should also be prepared to discuss the following:

Deadline to complete discovery: 6/29/18.

Deadline to file pretrial motions: 7/13/18.

Continued status conference: 8/8/18 at 1:30 p.m.

In accordance with Local Bankruptcy Rule 7016-1(a)(4), within seven (7) days after this status conference, the plaintiff must submit a Scheduling Order.

If any of these deadlines are not satisfied, the Court will consider imposing sanctions against the party at fault pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule 7016-1(f) and (g).

by plaintiff Marilyn S. Scheer

Docket 293

Tentative Ruling:

Grant Defendant the State Bar of California's Notice of Motion and Motion to Compel Production of Documents by Plaintiff Marilyn S. Scheer (the "State Bar's Second Motion to Compel"), as set forth below.

I. BACKGROUND

On July 12, 2013, Marilyn S. Scheer ("Plaintiff") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On November 1, 2013, Plaintiff filed a complaint against the State Bar of California (the "State Bar") alleging violation of the automatic stay and the discharge injunction under 11 U.S.C. §§ 362 and 524 and discriminatory treatment under § 525(a). On November 28, 2016, Plaintiff filed the first amended complaint (the "FAC") [doc. 95]. In relevant part, the FAC alleges:

The State Bar's refusal to lift Plaintiff's involuntary inactive enrollment was a violation of the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362 and constituted discriminatory treatment under 11 U.S.C. § 525.

Plaintiff requests damages for her loss of livelihood from July 12, 2013 through July 16, 2014. Plaintiff also requests costs of suit, including attorneys' fees, interest and other relief as the Court deems appropriate.

On May 10, 2017, the State Bar filed an answer to the FAC (the "Answer") [doc. 125]. In the Answer, the State Bar denied all relevant allegations in the FAC and asserted six affirmative defenses: (A) failure to state a claim; (B) Plaintiff's damages were caused in whole or in part by Plaintiff's own actions; (C) Plaintiff's damages were caused in whole or in part by third parties; (D) failure to mitigate losses; (E) the State Bar was not the cause of any losses alleged by Plaintiff; and (F) the Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction.

On December 14, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion to extend deadlines ("Plaintiff's Motion to Extend") [doc. 192]. On February 16, 2018, the Court entered an order granting Plaintiff's Motion to Extend (the "February 2018 Scheduling Order") [doc. 273]. Among other things, the February 2018 Scheduling Order set forth procedures for resolving discovery disputes in this adversary proceeding. Thereunder, when a party wishes to move to compel discovery, the moving party is required to transmit a letter via email to the opposing party, requesting documents. The opposing party is then required to send a letter within a two week period responding to the request (but not necessarily providing the requested documents). In the event of the opposing party's failure to respond, or inadequate response, the moving party is permitted to file a motion to compel attaching the discovery letter and response [doc. 273, pp. 2-3]. The Court adopted these procedures to excuse the parties from the meet and confer requirements under LBR 7026-1(c).

On December 7, 2017, the State Bar filed a motion to compel the continued deposition of Plaintiff (the "State Bar's First Motion to Compel") [doc. 181], asserting that Plaintiff refused to answer questions regarding her law practice. On December 15, 2017, Plaintiff filed a motion for a protective order requesting the Court prohibit the State Bar from questioning Plaintiff about her law practice (the "Motion for Deposition Order") [doc. 194].

On January 4, 2018, Plaintiff filed a motion for a protective order requesting the Court seal Plaintiff's medical records and tax returns [doc. 209]. On February 15, 2018, the Court entered a protective order limiting testimony and production of Plaintiff's medical records and tax returns (the "Plaintiff's Protective Order") [doc. 272].

On March 7, 2018 the State Bar filed a second motion to compel production of documents by Plaintiff (the "State Bar's Second Motion to Compel"). In evidence of compliance with the Plaintiff's Protective Order, the Declaration of Marc A. Shapp in support of the Motion [doc. 294] attached a discovery letter sent by email and U.S. Mail on February 16, 2018 (the "Discovery Letter") [doc. 294, Exh. A], as well as a response letter from Plaintiff sent on March 2, 2018 (the "Response Letter") [doc. 294, Exh. B]. The State Bar seeks to compel production of documents in response to the following requests:

- 2) All tax returns from 2009 through 2014, inclusive (encompassed within its document requests five and six);

- 5) All documents relating to Plaintiff's application for or the approval of disability insurance benefits Plaintiff received from January 1, 2012 through December 31, 2014 (encompassed within its document requests six and eleven).

On March 14, 2018, Plaintiff filed an opposition to the State Bar's Second Motion to Compel [doc. 308]. Therein, Plaintiff states that she will not produce her tax returns until the persons identified as "qualified persons" in the Plaintiff's Protective Order send her the non-disclosure agreements required in that order (the "NDAs"). Plaintiff asserts that she has no other documents in her possession responsive to the State Bar's requests.

II. DISCUSSION

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 26(b)(1)—

Unless otherwise limited by court order, the scope of discovery is as follows: Parties may obtain discovery regarding any nonprivileged matter that is relevant to any party's claim or defense and proportional to the needs of the case, considering the importance of the issues at stake in the action, the amount in controversy, the parties' relative access to relevant information, the parties' resources, the importance of the discovery in resolving the issues, and whether the burden or expense of the proposed discovery outweighs its likely benefit. Information within this scope of discovery need not be admissible in evidence to be discoverable.

(emphasis added). Pursuant to Rule 26(b)(2)(C)(iii), "the court must limit the frequency or extent of discovery otherwise allowed by these rules or by local rule if it determines that...the proposed discovery is outside the scope permitted by Rule 26(b)(1)."

Pursuant to Rule 26(b)(2)(B),

On a motion to compel discovery or for a protective order, the party from whom discovery is sought must show that the information is not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or cost. If that showing is made, the court may nonetheless order discovery from such sources if the requesting party shows good cause. Alternatively, the court may impose conditions on such discovery.

Pursuant to Rule 34, a party may serve on any other party a request within the scope of Rule 26(b) to "produce and permit the requesting party or its representative to inspect, copy, test, or sample" items in the "responding party's possession, custody, or control." In response, a party is obligated to produce all specified relevant and nonprivileged documents or other things that are in his or her possession, custody or control. If a party seeking a discovery is dissatisfied with the response, it may seek a court order requiring the responding party to provide an affidavit describing the efforts made to locate the documents. Pursuant to Rule 37—

(a) Motion for an Order Compelling Disclosure or Discovery

(1) In General. On notice to other parties and affected person, a party may move for an order compelling disclosure or discovery. (3) Specific Motions

(A) To Compel Disclosure. If a party fails to make a disclosure required by Rule 26(a), any other party may move to compel disclosure and for appropriate sanctions.

(B) To Compel a Discovery Response. A party seeking discovery may move for an order compelling an answer, designation, production, or inspection. This motion may be made if:

Chapter 7

Federal courts generally recognize a right of privacy that can be raised in response to discovery requests. Johnson by Johnson v. Thompson, 971 F.2d 1487, 1497 (10th Cir. 1992). However, unlike a privilege, the right of privacy is not an absolute bar to discovery. Courts balance the need for the information against the claimed privacy right under the following factors:

(1) the type of information requested, (2) the potential for harm in any subsequent non-consensual disclosure, (3) the adequacy of safeguards to prevent unauthorized disclosure, (4) the degree of need for access, and (5) whether there is an express statutory mandate, articulated public policy, or other recognizable public interest militating toward access.

See Seaton v. Mayberg, 610 F.3d 530, 539, 541, fn. 47 (9th Cir. 2010), citing Tucson Woman's Clinic v. Eden, 379 F.3d 531, 551 (9th Cir. 2004).

III. THE STATE BAR'S DOCUMENT REQUESTS

- 1) All documents referring to, relating to, or evidencing, any economic and non-economic harm suffered as a result of the Defendant, or any of its representatives, agents or employees' actions in this adversary proceeding" (relating to its document request number two)

The State Bar asserts that Plaintiff has previously withheld documents responsive to this request for want of a protective order. Now, it argues, that the Court has issued the Plaintiff's Protective Order, Plaintiff no longer has a stated basis for withholding such responsive documents. The Response Letter indicates that Plaintiff plans to respond to this request by producing her tax returns. The State Bar believes that Plaintiff has possession or control of more documents responsive to the request. Because the State Bar cannot determine the completeness of Plaintiff's production until it is made, it requests that the Court issue an order requiring Plaintiff to make such production within 10 days of entry of the order.

Plaintiff has stated that she will not produce documents responsive to this request until she receives the NDAs. This is in accordance with the text of the Plaintiff's Protective Order. Thereunder, "prior to receiving" any confidential documents, including tax returns, each person qualified to receive the confidential documents was required to "execute a nondisclosure agreement" a copy of which is required to be "immediately provided to Plaintiff" [doc. 272, p. 3]. As of the date the Opposition was filed, Plaintiff had not yet received the NDAs signed by the State Bar's attorneys in compliance with the Plaintiff's Protective Order.

Plaintiff has indicated that she is in possession of documents responsive to this request [doc. 29, Exh. D, pp. 11-12]. In response to a Rule 34 demand, a party must produce documents that are in their possession, custody or control. Once Plaintiff receives the signed NDAs she will no longer have a stated reason for withholding the documents. Consequently, the Court will grant the Motion as to this request, conditioned on Plaintiff's prior receipt of the NDAs.

- 2) All tax returns from 2009 through 2014, inclusive (relating to its document requests five and six)

Plaintiff's response to the discovery letter states that she will provide those tax returns that she "can locate." The State Bar argues that this is not sufficient as a matter of law. The State Bar requests that the Court enter an order requiring Plaintiff to produce tax returns for the years between 2009 and 2014 no more than 10 days from the entry of the order. To the extent that Plaintiff cannot locate tax returns for the relevant period, the State Bar requests that the Court require Plaintiff to obtain transcripts from the IRS and produce them to the State Bar within 30 days of the entry of the order.

Under Rule 34, Plaintiff must produce documents that are in her possession, custody or control. The rule does not condition the requirement to produce on the producing party's possession of the document, and the fact that a party does not have possession of the document does not absolve them of the requirement to produce it. Although Plaintiff may not be in possession of her tax returns, as the State Bar points out, the IRS provides a convenient means of obtaining tax return transcripts from prior years for free. Thus, Plaintiff is in "control" of her tax return transcripts, and must produce them. Accordingly, the Court will grant the Motion as to this request, conditioned on Plaintiff's prior receipt of the NDAs.

- 3) All documents evidencing pension or retirement income, including but not limited to government-sponsored programs such as Social Security, as well as any other sources of private retirement income from January 1, 2009 through December 31 2014 (relating to its document requests four and six)

a) Relevance

In the Response Letter, Plaintiff objects to this request as irrelevant. She argues that information about her retirement income is irrelevant because the issue is what she could have earned if her license was reinstated, and she has already established that she was indigent during the relevant period. The State Bar argues that the requested documents are relevant because they contain information about her finances during the time period for which her involuntary inactive enrollment overlapped with her bankruptcy case. This information will help determine the nature and extent of the injury Plaintiff suffered.

Plaintiff seeks relief in part in the form of payment for actual damages to compensate her for her loss of income and "loss of livelihood." In order to determine what Plaintiff's loss of income was, the parties must present information about Plaintiff's earnings during the relevant period. The Court will overrule Plaintiff's relevance objection.

b) Invasion of Privacy

Plaintiff asserts that this request violates her right to privacy under Article I of the California Constitution, the Plaintiff's Protective Order and federal law.

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Evidence ("FRE") 501, testimonial privileges in federal question cases are governed by federal common law. A federal question case is one that arises under federal law. 28 U.S.C. § 1331 (giving district courts original jurisdiction over all civil actions arising under federal law). The FAC alleges violation of the automatic stay and the discharge injunction under 11 U.S.C. §§ 362 and 524 and discriminatory treatment under § 525(a). Because these are federal bankruptcy law statutory provisions, the case presents federal questions under 28 U.S.C. § 1331. Consequently, Plaintiff's reliance on the California Constitution's privacy protections is misplaced.

Courtroom 301 Calendar

Wednesday, March 28, 2018

Plaintiff cites to the Supreme Court of the United States' decision in Griswold v. Connecticut, 381 U.S. 479 (1965), in support of her argument regarding a fundamental federal right to privacy. Plaintiff is correct that federal courts have recognized a right to privacy in connection with discovery, and that "fishing" for evidence is not encouraged. However, the State Bar has articulated a specific need for the financial information it seeks, and outlined how that information is relevant to the damages calculation in this proceeding. In addition, Plaintiff does not articulate specific reasons she believes that disclosure of information regarding social security or retirement income would be harmful to her. Consequently, the Court will overrule Plaintiff's objection based on privacy.

c) Plaintiff's Control Over Relevant Documents

The State Bar also argues that Plaintiff has an affirmative obligation to obtain her financial records from third parties, even if she does not currently possess them. As with Plaintiff's tax returns, the State Bar requests that the Court compel Plaintiff to produce all of her financial statements for the requested period not later than 10 days after the entry of the order to compel, and, to the extent that she fails to locate the responsive documents, to obtain them from her bank or banks and produce them to the State Bar within 30 days of entry of the order.

As discussed above, Plaintiff has "control" of any documents which she can obtain upon request. To the extent that the State Bar seeks documents such as bank records regarding private retirement plans, Plaintiff can request those from her bank or banks and has the requisite "control" giving rise to a production obligation under Rule 34. In addition, as with her tax return transcripts and her bank records, Plaintiff has an obligation to obtain her records from the Social Security Administration (the "SSA"), which, as noted by the State Bar, is a service that the SSA provides for free. Consequently, Plaintiff must produce those documents related to this request that she can access, not only the ones currently in her possession. The Court will grant the Motion as to this request, conditioned on the Plaintiff first receiving the NDAs.

- 4) All documents evidencing disability insurance income from January 1, 2012 through December 31, 2014, and all documents relating to Plaintiff's application for or the approval of disability insurance benefits Plaintiff received (relating to its document requests six and eleven).

Chapter 7

In the Response Letter, Plaintiff states that she was receiving food stamps, and then in 2013 she began receiving Social Security Disability payments, and stopped receiving food stamps. She states that she no longer has her application for social security benefits or any other records responsive to these requests. Plaintiff asserts that the information responsive to this request would be included on her tax returns.

The State Bar contends that Plaintiff's response is insufficient. The State Bar requires more information regarding the basis for Plaintiff's qualification for disability insurance, not just the amount she received, in order to craft its arguments regarding her loss of livelihood damages. In addition, the State Bar plans to make arguments based on the U.S. Social Security Administration's provision of disability insurance to Plaintiff, and it will need evidence to support those arguments.

As discussed above, Plaintiff has control of the information about her disability insurance available to her through the SSA, and therefore has an obligation to produce it. Consequently, the Court will grant the Motion as to these requests as well.

IV. CONCLUSION

The Court will grant the State Bar's Second Motion to Compel as to document request numbers two, four, five, six, and eleven, conditioned on the Plaintiff first receiving the NDAs.

The State Bar must submit the order within seven (7) days.

#17.00 Defendants motion to amend the February 15, 2018 protective order limiting testimony and production of plaintiffs medical records and tax returns

Docket 299

Tentative Ruling:

The Court will grant the Motion to Amend the February 15, 2018 Protective Order Limiting Testimony and Production of Plaintiff's Medical Records and Tax Returns (the "Motion") [doc. 299], filed by the State Bar of California (the "State Bar"), as set forth below.

I. SERVICE

The State Bar filed and served the Motion on March 7, 2018, only 21 days before the hearing, which is allowable under LBR 9013-1(d)(2). Marilyn S. Scheer ("Plaintiff") asserts that she was served on March 8, 2018, and therefore she objects to the untimely served motion. However, since Plaintiff had notice of the motion, and timely served a response, the one-day delay does not appear to have caused her harm.

II. BACKGROUND

On January 4, 2018, Plaintiff filed a motion for a protective order requesting the Court seal Plaintiff's medical records and tax returns [doc. 209]. On February 15, 2018, the Court entered a protective order limiting testimony and production of Plaintiff's medical records and tax returns (the "Plaintiff's Protective Order") [doc. 272].

On March 7, 2018, the State Bar filed the Motion [doc. 299]. The Motion requested that the Court amend the Plaintiff's Protective Order to include Vanessa Holton, the State Bar General Counsel, as a "qualified person" under the Order. On March 21, 2018, the State Bar filed a statement of its procedures for settlement claims (the "Settlement Procedures") [doc. 321]. Therein, the State Bar explained that its General Counsel may authorize the settlement of claims that do not implicate a material policy issue up to $25,000. In addition, the State Bar's General Counsel normally obtains settlement authority from the Board of Trustees in the event that the settlement amount in question exceeds $25,000.

On March 14, 2018, Plaintiff filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 307]. Plaintiff also argues that the State Bar never mentioned Vanessa Holton in discussions regarding the Plaintiff's Protective Order or at any time earlier in this proceeding.

III. DISCUSSION

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 26(b)(1)—

Unless otherwise limited by court order, the scope of discovery is as follows: Parties may obtain discovery regarding any nonprivileged matter that is relevant to any party's claim or defense and proportional to the needs of the case, considering the importance of the issues at stake in the action, the amount in controversy, the parties' relative access to relevant information, the parties' resources, the importance of the discovery in resolving the issues, and whether the burden or expense of the proposed discovery outweighs its likely benefit. Information within this scope of discovery need not be admissible in evidence to be discoverable.

(emphasis added). Pursuant to Rule 26(b)(2)(C)(iii), "the court must limit the frequency or extent of discovery otherwise allowed by these rules or by local rule if it determines that...the proposed discovery is outside the scope permitted by Rule 26(b)(1)." Under Rule 26(c)(1)—

A party or any person from whom discovery is sought may move for a protective order in the court where the action is pending -- or as an alternative on matters relating to a deposition, in the court for the district where the deposition will be taken. The motion must include a certification that the movant has in good faith conferred or attempted to confer with other affected parties in an effort to resolve the dispute without court action. The court may, for good cause, issue an order to protect a party or person from annoyance, embarrassment, oppression, or undue burden or expense....

"Rule 26(c) confers broad discretion on the trial court to decide when a protective order is appropriate and what degree of protection is required." Seattle Times Co. v. Rhinehart, 467 U.S. 20, 36, 104 S.Ct. 2199, 81 L.Ed.2d 17 (1984). The party seeking the protective order has the burden "to 'show good cause' by demonstrating harm or prejudice that will result from the discovery." Rivera v. NIBCO, Inc., 364 F.3d 1057, 1063 (9th Cir.2004). Furthermore, courts have "broad authority to fashion a protective order that serves the interests of the parties and the administration of justice." Sony Computer Entm't Am., Inc. v. NASA Elecs. Corp., 249 F.R.D. 378, 381 (S.D. Fla. 2008).

The Settlement Procedures indicate that as the State Bar's General Counsel, Ms. Holton has authority regarding any settlement discussions in this case. Accordingly, it appears appropriate that she have access to the pertinent discovery documents, so that she can make informed decisions regarding any settlement discussions. This Court has broad authority to fashion a protective order that serves the interests of the parties. Plaintiff has asserted that it is in her interest to settle this dispute. It therefore appears to be in Plaintiff's interest to allow Ms. Holton to be included in the Plaintiff's Protective Order as a qualified person.

IV. CONCLUSION

The Court will grant the Motion.

The State Bar must submit the order within seven (7) days.

I. BACKGROUND

On September 27, 2017, Tiffany Alexandra Fox ("Defendant") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition (the "Bankruptcy Petition"). On January 2, 2019, Gavin Stokes ("Plaintiff") filed a complaint (the "Complaint") against Defendant, seeking denial of discharge pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(4)(A), (B), (C) and (D) [doc. 1]. In relevant part, the Complaint alleges:

On October 24, 2015, Plaintiff and Defendant entered into a contract (the "Contract") [doc. 1, Exh. A]. Pursuant to the Contract, Plaintiff loaned Defendant $9,050 to furnish and lease two properties. Id. In return, Defendant was to pay Plaintiff twenty-five percent of all rental income from those two properties and two others. Id. Defendant breached the Contract. Complaint, ¶ 9.

On March 17, 2017, Plaintiff filed a state court action against Defendant and Richard John Taylor ("Taylor") in the Superior Court of California, County of Los Angeles ("LASC") [doc. 1, Exh. C]. The LASC mandated that the parties attend arbitration, which they did. Complaint, ¶ 9. The parties reached a settlement agreement (the "Settlement Agreement") which was filed in the LASC on September 18, 2017 [doc. 1, Exh. B].

The Settlement Agreement required Defendant and Taylor to pay Plaintiff

$12,748, through monthly payments of $1,000 starting on October 25, 2017. Id. at ¶ 2. The Settlement Agreement also stated in relevant part, "The parties agree that if the Defendants default on the payment agreement, the Plaintiff shall petition the court to enter a judgment of $10,000 less any payments made against the Defendants." Id. at ¶ 3.

Nine days after entering into the Settlement Agreement and before the first payment was due, Defendant filed the Bankruptcy Petition. On November 15, 2017, Plaintiff filed "Plaintiff's Request for Court Order and Answer" along with the attachments "Declaration of Default on Payment of Judgment" and "Stipulation Re Settlement" with the LASC [doc. 1, Exh. C]. On November 27, 2017, the LASC granted the Plaintiff's request and entered a judgment against Defendant and Taylor in the amount of $10,000. Id.

In her Bankruptcy Petition, Defendant inflated the amount of her rental expense on her residence. See 1:17-bk-12592-VK, doc. 11, Schedule J. Defendant states her rental expense is $4,750 per month; however, on the same document she states she will be moving in with her mother to share expenses. Id. Defendant provided a new address to the Court since she filed her Bankruptcy Petition (the "New Property"). An online database shows the New Property sold on May 22, 2017, for $680,000. According to Zillow.com, a 30-year mortgage on the New Property with zero down payment and 4.5% interest will cost $4,396, including insurance and taxes. Therefore, the rental expense is inflated.

In her bankruptcy Petition, Defendant made a material discrepancy. In her Schedule E/F, Defendant lists Plaintiff as a creditor with a $12,000 claim dated October 20, 2005. See 1:17-bk-12592-VK, doc. 11, Schedule E/F. But the Contract was actually entered into on October 24, 2015, a ten-year discrepancy.

On February 12, 2018, Defendant filed the Motion [doc. 9]. On March 7, 2018, Plaintiff filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 15]. On March 13, 2018, Plaintiff filed a motion for leave to file first amended complaint (the "Motion to File FAC") [doc. 16].

II. DISCUSSION

A. General Rule 12(b)(6) Standard

A motion to dismiss [pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6)] will only be granted if the complaint fails to allege enough facts to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face. A claim has facial plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged. The plausibility standard is not akin to a probability requirement, but it asks for more than a sheer possibility that a defendant has acted unlawfully.

We accept factual allegations in the complaint as true and construe the pleadings in the light most favorable to the non-moving party. Although factual allegations are taken as true, we do not assume the truth of legal conclusions merely because they are cast in the form of factual allegations. Therefore, conclusory allegations of law and unwarranted inferences are insufficient to defeat a motion to dismiss.

Fayer v. Vaughn, 649 F.3d 1061, 1064 (9th Cir. 2011) (internal quotation marks omitted)(citing, inter alia, Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 547 (2007); Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678, (2009)). "Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8(a) (2) requires only 'a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief,' in order to 'give the defendant fair notice of what the . . . claim is and the grounds upon which it rests.'" Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555 (U.S. 2007)(citations omitted). "[F]acts must be alleged to sufficiently apprise the defendant of the complaint against him." *Kubick v. Fed. Dep. Ins. Corp. In evaluating a Rule 12(b)(6) motion, review is "limited to the contents of the complaint." Clegg v. Cult Awareness Network, 18 F.3d 752, 754 (9th Cir. 1994). However, without converting the motion to one for summary judgment, exhibits attached to the complaint, as well as matters of public record, may be considered in determining whether dismissal is proper. *See Parks School of Business, Inc. v. Chapter 7

Section 727(a)(4)(A) denies a discharge to a debtor who "knowingly and fraudulently" made a false oath or account in the course of the bankruptcy proceedings. In order to bring a successful § 727(a)(4)(A) claim for false oath, the plaintiff must show: (1) the debtor made a false oath in connection with the case; (2) the oath related to a material fact; (3) the oath was made knowingly; and (4) the oath was made fraudulently. In re Wills, 243 B.R. 58, 62 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1999). "[A] false oath may involve a false statement or omission in the debtor's schedules." In re Roberts, 331 B.R. 876, 882 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2005), aff'd and remanded on other grounds, 241 F. App'x 420 (9th Cir. 2007).

"A debtor acts knowingly if he or she acts deliberately and consciously." In re Retz, 606 F.3d at 1198 (quoting Khalil v. Developers Sur. & Indem. Co. (In re Khalil), 379 B.R. 163, 174 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2007) (internal quotation omitted). The fraud provision of § 727(a)(4) is similar to common law fraud, which the Ninth Circuit has described as follows:

The creditor must show that (1) the debtor made the representations; (2) that at the time he knew they were false; (3) that he made them with the intention and purpose of deceiving the creditors; (4) that the creditors relied on such representations; (5) that the creditors sustained loss and damage as the proximate result of the representations having been made.

In re Roberts, 331 B.R. 876, 884 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2005), aff'd and remanded on other grounds, 241 F. App'x 420 (9th Cir. 2007). "For the purposes of § 727(a)(4), materiality replaces the elements of reliance and proximately caused damage in a fraud cause of action." Id.

"A fact is material if it bears a relationship to the debtor's business transactions or estate, or concerns the discovery of assets, business dealings, or the existence and disposition of the debtor's property." Retz 606 F.3d at 1198 (quoting Khalil, 379 B.R. at 173). An omission or misstatement that "detrimentally affects administration of the estate" is material. Id.; Wills, 243 B.R. at 63 (citing 6 Lawrence P. Chapter 7

Intent must usually be established by circumstantial evidence or inferences drawn from the debtor's course of conduct. Khalil, 379 B.R. at 173 (circumstances might include multiple omissions or failure to clear up omissions), aff'd, 578 F.3d 1167. "(T)he cumulative effect of false statements may, when taken together, evidence a reckless disregard for the truth sufficient to support a finding of fraudulent intent" under § 727(a)(4). Stamat v. Neary, 635 F3d 974, 982 (7th Cir. 2011).

Plaintiff states that Defendant in her Schedule J "overstated... her on-going rental or home-ownership expenses of $4,750 per month." Complaint, ¶ 10. Plaintiff explains that he believes the expense is an inflated figure based on Defendant's statement in her schedules that she planned to move in with her mother, as well as his calculation of a monthly mortgage payment based on the purchase price of Defendant's mother's new home. Complaint, ¶ 10.

The amount of the rental expense listed on Defendant's Schedule J does not appear to be material. On her Schedule J Defendant states that she "will be moving, with my three sons, to Orange County to reside with my mother and share expenses there." [doc. 11, p. 35]. Because Defendant had not yet moved on the date of her bankruptcy filing, presumably she stated her rental expenses as of the petition date (as instructed by the form which states "estimate your expenses as of your bankruptcy filing date"). Plaintiff's argument that the Schedule J amount does not match his projected calculation of Defendant's mother's mortgage expense is therefore inapposite. In addition, because Defendant planned to move, the rental expense listed on her petition was not going to be her actual rental expense going forward and therefore not material to the administration of her case. In addition, as Defendant points out in the Opposition, even in the absence of her rental expense, her monthly income as of the petition date was negative. Consequently, the rental expense listed in Defendant's Schedule J is not material.

In the Motion, Defendant argues that she did not inflate the amount of her rental expense on her residence, attaching a lease agreement to the Motion [doc. 9, Exh. A], purportedly showing that she was paying $4,750 in rent in September 2017. The question before the Court is whether the Complaint included sufficient facts, if taken as true, to support a cause of action under § 727(a)(4)(A). The Court cannot consider this evidence. Defendant further argues that if rent was removed as an expense in her Schedule J, her income would still be negative giving her no reason to falsely state the amount of her rental expense. This argument goes to the issue of intent, which the Court need not reach because the rental expense is not material.

Plaintiff additionally alleges that Defendant misstated the date the debt to Plaintiff was incurred. Complaint, ¶ 12. The Ninth Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel examined this issue in In re Bors. No. ADV LA-12-1130-PC, 2012 WL 6575171, at *4 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. Dec. 17, 2012), aff'd, 672 F. App'x 696 (9th Cir. 2016). There, the debtor among other things listed an incorrect date for when the plaintiff's claims were incurred—June 2010 instead of October 2009. The plaintiff filed an adversary complaint objecting to the debtor's discharge, alleging multiple causes of action including § 727(a)(4)(A). The debtor filed a motion to dismiss the adversary complaint and the bankruptcy court granted the motion. The Bankruptcy Appellate Panel for the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals found in relevant part:

We conclude that Simona failed to allege sufficient facts to establish a cognizable claim that Debtor obtained his discharge by fraud. The primary "fraud" she asserted that occurred in connection with Debtor's case was his manner of listing the State Court Action in his Schedule F. Simona alleged that Debtor intentionally omitted the suffix codes from the case number for the State Court Action, that he intentionally listed an incorrect court location for it, that he improperly valued the State Court Action at $0.00, and that he listed an incorrect date for when her fraud claim was incurred. Whether these actions can be considered a false oath is questionable. We also question whether these facts are even material. In any event, Debtor provided sufficient information about the State Court Action in his Schedule F and SOFA to put the trustee or any creditor on notice of it.

Id. at *9.

Here, Plaintiff has not alleged how the misstatement detrimentally affects administration of the case. Plaintiff has not alleged that Defendant altered the amount of the debt owed to him, nor has he alleged that any party was not on proper notice of the debt. Under Bors, it is unlikely this fact alone can be considered a false oath or material. Defendant provides sufficient information about the debt owed to Plaintiff in her Schedule E/F to put the trustee or any creditor on notice of it. Further, Plaintiff fails to explain how stating an incorrect date is fraudulent rather than just a typographical error.

In addition, the two alleged misstatements do not present a sufficient pattern of behavior on which to base an inference of fraudulent intent. The rental amount may well have been the amount that Defendant was paying in rent at the time of the petition, and the misstated date may not even amount to a false oath. Moreover, two misstatements hardly amount to a "pattern." Accordingly, the Court will grant the Motion as to the § 727(a)(4)(A) claim.

Section 727(a)(4)(B) provides that a discharge shall be denied to a debtor who "knowingly and fraudulently, in or in connection with the case ...presented or used a false claim." "The term 'claim' means the right to payment or a right to an equitable remedy for breach of performance if the breach gives rise to a right to payment. In re Thompson, No. ADV.LA 07-01567-EC, 2009 WL 7751298, at *9 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. Apr. 20, 2009).

"To deny a debtor's discharge under section 727(a)(4)(B), the debtor must have presented or used inflated or fictitious claims in his bankruptcy case, with intent to defraud." Thompson, 2009 WL 7751298, at *9. "Willful intent to defraud is a crucial element of the cause of action." Id. "Omissions, misstatements or inaccuracies in bankruptcy petitions or schedules do not necessarily establish fraudulent intent." Id. "A debtor's listing of a debt to another in his schedules, when false, can constitute a proper cause of action as a presentation or use of a false claim under section 727(a)(4)(B)." Id.

Although Plaintiff alleges that Defendant misstated the date the debt to Plaintiff was incurred, he does not allege that Defendant used inflated or fictitious claims in her bankruptcy schedules. Under the above authorities, Plaintiff has only alleged that Defendant made a misstatement or inaccuracy in her schedules. See Thompson, 2009 WL 7751298, at *10. Plaintiff also cannot base a § 727(a)(4)(B) claim on the allegation that Defendant inflated her rental expense for her residence because a monthly expense is not a claim within the meaning of § 101(5). See In re Richter, 525 B.R. 735, 746-49 (Bankr. Chapter 7

Section 727(a)(4)(C) provides that a discharge shall be denied to a debtor who "knowingly and fraudulently, in or in connection with the case ...gave, offered, received, or attempted to obtain money, property, or advantage, or promise of money, property, or advantage, for acting or forbearing to act."

To sustain an objection under § 727(a)(4)(C), the objecting party must establish: (1) knowledge and a fraudulent intent on the part of the debtor; and (2) receipt of, or an attempt to obtain, or the giving or offering of, money, property or advantage, or a promise of these, for a purpose, namely, action or forbearance in the case in which the offender is a debtor. In re Wolf, 577 B.R. 327, 351 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017). Stokes v. Stokes (In re Stokes), 451 B.R. 44, 87 (Bankr. D. Mont. 2011) (internal citations omitted).

"Section 727(a)(4)(C) clearly contemplates the denial of a discharge to debtors who accept a "bribe," i.e., money or property, advantage or a promise of these for acting or forbearing to act in or in connection with the case." In re Stokes, 451 B.R. at 87 (citing 6 Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 727.06 (16th ed. 2010)). "It also includes the giving or offering of a bribe by the debtor." Stokes, 451 B.R. at 87 (citing 6 Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 727.06 (16th ed. 2010)).

The Plaintiff did not assert any allegations of bribery or extortion or anything similar in the Complaint. As such, Plaintiff has not presented sufficient factual allegations on which to base a § 727(a)(4)(C) claim for relief. See In re Wolf, 577 B.R. at 351.

E. 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(4)(D)

Section 727(a)(4)(D) provides that a discharge shall be denied to a debtor who "knowingly and fraudulently, in or in connection with the case ... withheld from an officer of the estate entitled to possession under this title, any recorded information, including books, documents, records, and papers, relating to the debtor's property or financial affairs."

"[A] party objecting to discharge under [Section 727(a)(4)(D) ] has the initial burden of proving...: 1) the withholding of documents was done by the debtor or someone for whose conduct the debtor is legally responsible; 2) was in connection with a case; 3)

Plaintiff did not assert any allegation that Defendant has withheld any books, documents, records and papers relating to Defendant's property or financial affairs from the chapter 7 trustee or an officer of the estate entitled to possession of the information. As such, Plaintiff has not presented sufficient factual allegations on which to base a § 727(a)(4)(D) claim for relief. See In re Soliman, No. 2:07-CV-469-GEB, 2008 WL 802484, at *2 (E.D. Cal. Mar. 24, 2008).

F. Leave to Amend

Where a complaint is insufficient under FRCP 12(b)(6), a court has discretion to grant the plaintiff leave to amend. The Rule controlling amendments to complaints is Rule 15. Pursuant to Rule 15(a), applicable to this adversary proceeding through Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 7015—

(1) Amending as a Matter of Course.

A party may amend its pleading once as a matter of course within:

(A) 21 days after serving it, or

(B) if the pleading is one to which a responsive pleading is required, 21 days after service of a responsive pleading or 21 days after service of a motion under Rule 12(b), (e), or (f), whichever is earlier.

(2) Other Amendments.

In all other cases, a party may amend its pleading only with the opposing party's written consent or the court's leave. The court should freely give leave when justice so requires.

Courts have the discretion to grant or deny leave to amend a complaint. Swanson v. U.S. Forest Serv., 87 F.3d 339, 343 (9th Cir. 1996). "In exercising this discretion, a court must be guided by the underlying purpose of Rule 15 to facilitate decision on the merits, rather than on the pleadings or technicalities." United States v. Webb, 655 F.2d 977, 979 (9th Cir. 1981). The factors courts commonly consider when determining whether to grant leave to amend are:

1. Bad faith;
2. Undue delay;
3. Prejudice to the opposing party; and
4. Futility of amendment.

Ditto v. McCurdy, 510 F.3d 1070, 1079 (9th Cir. 2007) (internal citations omitted). Dismissal without leave to amend is appropriate when the court is satisfied that the deficiencies in the complaint could not possibly be cured by amendment. Jackson v. Carey, 353 F.3d 750, 758 (9th Cir. 2003); Lopez v. Smith, 203 F.3d 1122, 1127 (9th Cir. 2000). "Futility alone can justify the denial of a motion for leave to amend." Nunes v. Ashcroft, 375 F.3d 805, 808 (9th Cir. 2003).

When deciding whether to grant leave to amend or to dismiss with or without prejudice, the court should consider the "new" facts in plaintiff's opposition papers. See Orion Tire Corp. v. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Inc., 268 F.3d 1133, 1137-38 (9th Cir. 2001).

Although Plaintiff filed the Motion to File FAC as a separate motion, this Court will interpret it as a request for leave to amend in response to the Motion. Plaintiff proposes a number of changes to the complaint, including reducing his first cause of action from claims under § 727(a)(4)(A), (B), (C) and (D) to only one claim under § 727(a)(4)(C), as well as asserting a second cause of action under § 727(a)(5).

Plaintiff does not have the right to amend the Complaint "as a matter of course," having filed the Motion to File FAC more than 21 days after the Motion was filed. Consequently, the Court must inquire as to the factors listed above. Plaintiff's proposed amendments are futile because the deficiencies in the Complaint regarding the § 727(a)(4) claims could not possibly be cured by amendment and Plaintiff's proposed § 727(a)(5) claim lacks merit.

Plaintiff's proposed amended complaint does not assert a claim under § 727 (a)(4) (A), (B) or (D), nor does it present any new facts applicable to those causes of action.

In addition, the proposed amended complaint does not present any new facts supporting a claim under § 727(a)(4)(C). Plaintiff appears to interpret that section as applicable to his claims that Defendant defrauded him under the Contract. As explained above, however, this section refers to bribery or fraud in connection with the bankruptcy case. Plaintiff does not assert any facts tending to support such a cause of action and allowing him to amend his complaint as proposed would be futile.

Section 727(a)(5) states: "The court shall grant the debtor a discharge, unless ... the debtor has failed to explain satisfactorily, before determination of denial of discharge under this paragraph, any loss of assets or deficiency of assets to meet the debtor's liabilities." 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(5). "Under § 727(a)(5) an objecting party bears the initial burden of proof and must demonstrate: (1) debtor at one time, not too remote from the bankruptcy petition date, owned identifiable assets; (2) on the date the bankruptcy petition was filed or order of relief granted, the debtor no longer owned the assets; and (3) the bankruptcy pleadings or statement of affairs do not reflect an adequate explanation for the disposition of the assets." Retz, 606 F.3d at 1205.

The proposed amended complaint does not identify any of Defendant's individual assets to support Plaintiff's § 727(a)(5) claim. Instead, Plaintiff asserts that Defendant entered into a settlement agreement and then filed bankruptcy soon thereafter. The fact that Defendant entered into a settlement agreement does not necessarily indicate that she had any particular assets with which to make payments under the agreement. Consequently, the Court will not allow Plaintiff to amend his complaint to include § 727(a)(5) because such an amendment would be futile.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will grant the Motion without leave to amend as to claims under § 727(a)(1) - (5) and with leave to amend as to any other pertinent sections of the Bankruptcy Code, provided that Plaintiff must file any amended complaint within two weeks following the entry of the Order granting the Motion. If Plaintiff does not timely file such an amended complaint, the adversary proceeding will be dismissed, with prejudice.

Defendant must submit the order within seven (7) days.

Docket 3

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part and deny in part the Motion to Strike Exhibit C to Plaintiff's Complaint (the "Motion") [doc. 3].

I. BACKGROUND

On November 27, 2017, Shalva Shalom Krihali ("Defendant") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On January 19, 2018, Bernadett Zimmerman and Gabor Szabo (together, "Plaintiffs") filed a complaint against Defendant (the "Complaint"), initiating this adversary proceeding.

The Complaint alleges that Defendant was Plaintiff Zimmerman's employer at his gold and silver buying business in Studio City, CA. Zimmerman was the plaintiff in a state court sexual harassment action against Defendant (the "State Court Action"), and Plaintiff Szabo was her attorney. The jurors in the State Court Action found Defendant responsible for willful failure to pay employee, constructive termination, sexual assault, sexual battery and intentional infliction of emotional distress. Zimmerman was awarded damages, fees and costs totaling $127,937.09. Attached as Exhibit A to the Complaint is the judgment on the special jury verdict (the "Jury Verdict"); attached as Exhibit B is the attorney fees and costs attachment to the Jury Verdict (together with the Jury Verdict, the "Judgment"); and attached as Exhibit C ("Exhibit C") is the first amended complaint from the State Court Action (the "State Court Complaint").

On February 20, 2018, Defendant filed the Motion [doc. 3]. Therein, Defendant moves to strike Exhibit C from the Complaint in its entirety, arguing that the State Court Complaint alleged many specific and scandalous allegations, and there is no purpose for including it in the Complaint other than to prejudice the Court against Defendant. In particular, Defendant objects to paragraphs 2 and 4-16 [doc. 1, pp. 21-25]:

- a) Paragraph 2 alleges that Defendant comingled personal and client funds, as well as personal funds with funds belonging to the business.
- b) Paragraph 4 alleges that Defendant induced Zimmerman to work for Defendant by telling her that she could work up to making a higher salary.
- c) Paragraphs 5-10 describe Defendant's various sexual advances towards and sexual boasting to Zimmerman.
- d) Paragraph 11 alleges that Zimmerman was afraid of Defendant and that she repeatedly asked him to stop touching her, but continued to work for him.
- e) Paragraph 12 describes an incident in which Defendant accused Zimmerman of stealing his money, then made sexual threats against her and sexually battered her.
- f) Paragraphs 13-15 describe Defendant's threatening and sexual phone calls and text messages to Zimmerman.
- g) Paragraph 16 describes Zimmerman's emotional response to Defendant's harassment, including sleeplessness, headaches, anxiety, and depression.

On February 28, 2018, Defendant filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 7]. On March 15, 2018, the main bankruptcy case was converted from Chapter 7 to Chapter 13 [1:17-bk-13160-VK doc. 22].

issues by dispensing with those issues prior to trial." Whittlestone, Inc. v. Handi-Craft Co., 618 F.3d 970, 973 (9th Cir. 2010). Motions to strike are "strongly disfavored, and the decision of whether to strike all or part of a pleading rests within the sound discretion of the court." Act Now to Stop War and End Racism Coalition v. District of Columbia, 286 F.R.D. 117, 125 (D.D.C. 2012).

Allegations are redundant if they "constitute a needless repetition or other averments or are foreign to the issue." See Sliger v. Prospect Mortgage, LLC, 789 F.Supp.2d 1212, 1216 (E.D. Cal. 2011). A matter is immaterial if it "has no essential or important relationship to the claim for relief or the defenses being pled." Whittlestone, at 974. "Impertinent' matter consists of statements that do not pertain, and are not necessary, to the issues in question." Fantasy Inc. v. Fogerty, 984 F.2d 1524, 1527 (9th Cir. 1993), rev'd on other grounds in Fogerty v. Fantasy, Inc., 510 U.S. 517, 534-35 (1994). The term "[s]candalous' generally refers to any allegation that unnecessarily reflects on the moral character of an individual or states anything in repulsive language that detracts from the dignity of the court." Anderson v. Davis Polk & Wardwell LLP, 850 F.Supp.2d 392, 416 (S.D.N.Y. 2012); see also Gauthier v. U.S., 2011 WL 3902770 at *12 (D. Mass. 2011) (material is "scandalous" if it "improperly casts a derogatory light on someone").

The decision about whether to strike material as scandalous "is within the discretion of the district court." Alvarado-Morales v. Digital Equipment Corp., 843 F.2d 613, 618 (1st Cir.1988). In exercising its discretion, the court should view "the pleadings in the light most favorable to the non-moving party." California Dep't of Toxic Substances Control v. Alco Pac., Inc., 217 F. Supp. 2d 1028, 1033 (C.D. Cal. 2002).

A motion to strike based on extraneous matter is not appropriate unless the extraneous matter is actually prejudicial to the defense. Davis v. Ruby Foods, Inc., 269 F.3d 818, 821 (7th Cir. 2001). In Davis, the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals reviewed the decision of a district court to strike an entire complaint on the grounds that it included extraneous allegations, such as that the defendant was an FBI informant. The Court of Appeals found that the extraneous allegations were ignorable and non-prejudicial to the defense in the action. Id.

Motion to Strike—Redundant, Immaterial, Impertinent, or Scandalous Matter, 5C Fed. Prac. & Proc. Civ. § 1382 (3d ed.). However, "[a]llegations may be stricken as scandalous if the matter bears no possible relation to the controversy or may cause the objecting party prejudice." Talbot v. Robert Matthews Distrib. Co., 961 F.2d 654, 664 (7th Cir. 1992). In Talbot, the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals held that the district court had not abused its discretion in striking portions of the complaint for common law fraud and misrepresentation which alleged, without factual basis, that the defendant had deliberately caused a deadly salmonella outbreak. Id. at 655.

Unless unduly prejudicial to the defendant, allegations supplying background, which contribute to understanding of the complaint as a whole, will not be stricken. Fuchs Sugar & Syrups, Inc. v. Amstar Corp., 402 F.Supp. 636, 637–638 (S.D.N.Y.1975); see LeDuc v. Kentucky Central Life Insurance Co., 814 F.Supp. 820 (N.D.Cal.1992). In Fuchs Sugar, the antitrust complaint made reference to an earlier antitrust decree against the defendant. The defendant's motion to strike was denied because the court determined that the earlier antitrust decree could demonstrate facts bearing upon defendant's course of conduct which could "carry weight" at trial, and it was no more prejudicial to the defendant than the other allegations in the complaint. Fuchs Sugar, 402 F.Supp at 637-638. On the other hand, even if an allegation is relevant to plaintiff's claim, it may still be stricken if it is scandalous or set out in "needless detail." Tucker v. Am. Int'l Grp., Inc., 936 F. Supp. 2d 1, 16 (D. Conn. 2013).

For example, in Alvarado-Morales, the First Circuit Court of Appeals upheld the decision of the district court to strike terms including "concentration camp," "brainwash" and "torture" and such similes as "Chinese communists in Korea." Alvarado-Morales, 843 F.2d at 618. In addition, a California district court struck language in a complaint referring to defendants as "vultures feeding on the dead." Cairns v. Franklin Mint Co., 24 F. Supp. 2d 1013, 1023 (C.D. Cal. 1998).

1. Relevance

Defendant argues that Exhibit C to the Complaint is completely irrelevant to the issue of dischargeability of the Judgment, because the State Court Action has been litigated and is subject to the Judgment and Jury Verdict. It appears that the State Court Complaint is offered as background for the Judgment. Although the jury did not make specific findings as to each individual allegation of harassment, this does not detract from the value of the State Court Complaint as background for the Jury Verdict.

Because the State Court Complaint is offered as background, the Court must inquire whether it is unduly prejudicial. It is true that the allegations in the State Court Complaint do not cast a favorable light on Defendant. However, these allegations are no more prejudicial than the Jury Verdict finding that Defendant actually engaged in sexual misconduct. See Fuchs Sugar, 402 F.Supp. at 637–638.

2. Scandalousness

Defendant argues that the entirety of the State Court Complaint should be struck as scandalous and prejudicial. Defendant appears to request alternatively that Paragraphs 2 and 4-16 be struck from Exhibit C. Insofar as the paragraphs in the State Court Complaint provide a greater understanding of the complaint as a whole, those paragraphs should not be struck unless they are "unduly prejudicial."

As an initial observation, the allegations in the State Court Complaint do not rise to the level of superfluous description. The State Court Complaint describes the events without any derogatory references regarding Defendant, or any language akin to the language described in Alverado-Morales or Cairns. The phrases and conduct described may be unsavory, but they do not resemble the mud-slinging that the courts struck in those cases.

Some of the paragraphs which Defendant finds objectionable are not relevant to this action. Paragraph 2 alleges that Defendant comingled personal and client funds, as well as personal funds with funds belonging to the business. Paragraph 2 is not relevant to the issue of nondischargeability, because it does not bear on the question of whether Defendant willfully or maliciously harmed Plaintiff Zimmerman. Paragraph 4 alleges that Defendant induced Zimmerman to work for Defendant by telling her that she could work up to making a higher salary. The allegations in Paragraph 4 are not relevant because the Jury Verdict found that job benefits were not conditional on Zimmerman's acceptance of Defendant's advances [doc. 1, p. 9]. Because these portions of the State Court Complaint are not relevant to this action, the Court will strike them from Exhibit C.

Paragraphs 5-16 contain information which is relevant to the Judgment. The allegations contained in those paragraphs lay the foundation for the Jury Verdict, which is central to Plaintiff's cause of action. As described above, it does not appear that the allegations in the State Court Complaint are any more prejudicial than the allegations in that complaint about the Jury Verdict finding that Defendant did, in fact, harass Plaintiff Zimmerman. Consequently, the Court will not strike Paragraphs 5-16 from Exhibit C.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will deny the Motion as to the entirety of Exhibit C, but will grant the Motion as to Paragraphs 2 and 4 of the State Court Complaint.

Defendant must submit an order within seven (7) days.

#5.00 Trustee's Final Report and Applications for Compensation

Diane Weil, Chapter 7 Trustee

Docket 74

Tentative Ruling:

In light of the facts of this case, the chapter 7 trustee (the "Trustee") should be prepared to address why she is entitled to compensation apart from the fee paid to chapter 7 trustees in no-asset cases and reimbursement of expenses, if funds become available.

On March 31, 2016, the debtor filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On January 18, 2017, Citibank, N.A. filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay (the "RFS Motion") [doc. 35]. In the RFS Motion, Citibank alleged that the Trustee was holding at least $136,000 in accounts receivable that was subject to Citibank's security interest. Citibank sought relief from the automatic stay to pursue its remedies to obtain the monies held by the Trustee.

At the February 8, 2017 hearing on the RFS Motion, the parties stated that they had reached a settlement as to $100,000 of the disputed funds. The Court continued the hearing to March 8, 2017 to allow the parties to resolve their dispute as to the balance of the funds.

The hearing was continued several times. On July 12, 2017, the Court ruled that Citibank was entitled to relief from stay as to the remaining funds in the Trustee's possession [doc. 58]. On July 25, 2017, the Court entered an order granting the RFS Motion (the "RFS Order") [doc. 60].

On August 23, 2017, Citibank filed an adversary proceeding against the Trustee, seeking turnover of the funds pursuant to the RFS Order [adv. no. 1:17-ap-01078-VK]. On August 31, 2017, Citibank filed a notice of dismissal of the adversary proceeding [adv. no. 1:17-ap-01078-VK, doc. 5].

On January 8, 2018, the Trustee filed her final report and application for compensation [doc. 69]. In her application for compensation, the Trustee requests $12,700.10 in fees and $884.91 in expenses. The Trustee states that all funds in the estate were turned over to Citibank. The Trustee acknowledges that there are no funds in the estate for payment of fees and expenses at this time. The Trustee seeks to reserve the right to seek such compensation in the future, should funds become available.

"[S]ection 326(a) ‘does not cover cases in which the trustee simply turns over the property to the secured creditor, nor where the trustee abandons the property and the secured creditor is permitted to foreclose.’" In re Hokulani Square, Inc., 776 F.3d 1083, 1086 (9th Cir. 2015) (citing H.R. Rep. No. 95–595, at 327 (1977), 1978 U.S.C.C.A.N. 5963). In light of the turnover of all funds in the estate to Citibank, it appears that the Trustee is not entitled to compensation based on this distribution.

#11.00 Disclosure statement hearing in support of plan of reorganization
fr. 2/8/18

Docket 79

Tentative Ruling:

Debtor should be prepared to address the following:

The most recent Monthly Operating Report ("MOR"), for February 2018, reflects an ending balance of $61.26 in Debtor's general debtor in possession account and an ending balance of $9,686.30 in Debtor's rental account. In Part 3.A. of the proposed disclosure statement, Debtor projects having $21,130.04 in available cash as of the effective date. However, under the feasibility analysis in part 5, Debtor projects having $20,930.04 in cash as of the effective date. As such, there is a discrepancy of $200 within the disclosure statement.

Both projected amounts are more than the current cash on hand, which totals $9,747.56. In Part 5, Debtor indicates that he needs a total of $17,177.26 to cover effective date payments. These payments include $15,000 to AOE Law Associates and $2,177.26 in other plan payments. In December 2017, Debtor's MOR reflected $17,011.30 cash on hand, but in February 2018, Debtor paid AOE Law associates $12,000 pursuant to their approved fee application [doc. 98, p. 5]. Presumably, Debtor no longer will need to pay that $12,000 to AOE on the effective date. If this is the case, then it appears he will have enough cash on hand to cover his effective date expenses ( $$17,177.26 - $12,000 = $5,177.26$ ). Debtor must update his disclosure statement accordingly.

Part 3 D of the disclosure statement states that Debtor planned to increase his tenant's rent to $3,000 as of February 2018 (an increase of $500), but the February 2018 MOR does not reflect any such increase. The $6,000 would be enough to cover plan payments if Debtor's expenses are identical to the expenses listed in the Declaration of Current/Postpetition Income & Expenses (Exh. A to the disclosure statement) every single month (which includes plan payments). However, Debtor has not shown that he will actually receive his projected $500/month increase in rental income to cover his monthly expenses.

Debtor's latest MOR reflects expenses in the amount of $2,982.11, not including the monthly $2,652.93 in payments to secured lender. This totals $5,635.04, which is very close to D's projected expenses of $5,644.23. In January 2018, D's expenses totaled $2,981.07, which coupled with the payments to the secured lender would total $5,634. As it stands, if Debtor strays even a penny beyond the projected expenses in the Declaration of Current/Postpetition Income & Expenses, Debtor will be unable to make plan payments.

Moreover, it appears that Debtor's disclosure statement does not taken into account his payment of postpetition income tax. Given Debtor's tight budget, it is unclear how Debtor will be able to pay his income tax liabilities.

Proposed dates and deadlines regarding "Debtor's Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization" (the "Plan")

If, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1125, the Court approves the "First Amended Disclosure Statement Describing Original Chapter 11 Plan:"

The debtor must serve the notice and the other materials (with the exception of the ballots, which should be sent only to creditors in impaired classes) on all creditors and the United States Trustee.

Chapter 11

#13.00 Application to employ Illyssa I. Fogel of Illyssa I. Fogel & Associates as Attorney for Debtor

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part and deny in part. The Court will continue the hearing to allow the parties to file supplemental briefing regarding the issues addressed below.

I. BACKGROUND

On January 18, 2018, JBC Staples, LLC (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. In the petition, the Debtor indicated that it is a single asset real estate debtor. (Doc. 1, at p. 2.) In its Statement of Financial Affairs, the Debtor indicated that on January 18, 2018, the Debtor paid $40,000 to Illyssa Fogel. (Doc. 8, at p. 18.) The source of the $40,000 was not disclosed in the Statement of Financial Affairs.

A. *The Cash Collateral Motion

On February 20, 2018, the Debtor filed an emergency motion to use cash collateral (the "Cash Collateral Motion") [doc. 20]. On March 19, 2018, the Court entered an order (i) granting the Cash Collateral Motion on an interim basis, authorizing the Debtor to use rental income as stated in the budget to maintain the real property located at 1525 Mall Road, Unit #1, Monroe, Michigan, 48612 (the "Property"), and (ii) directing the Debtor to commence paying $8,053.33 per month in adequate protection payments to Wells Fargo, N.A. ("Wells Fargo").

A final hearing on the Cash Collateral Motion is set for May 10, 2018 at 2:00 p.m. In ruling on the Cash Collateral Motion, the Court did not rule on the validity or extent of Wells Fargo's interest in the Debtor's cash collateral, which the Debtor contests.

B. *The Employment Application

On February 9, 2018, the Debtor filed an application to employ Illyssa I. Fogel as general bankruptcy counsel (the "Application") [doc. 11]. Prepetition, the Debtor paid to Ms. Fogel the sum of $40,000 as a retainer, of which $10,987 has been withdrawn to cover pre-filing fees and expenses. The remainder is being held in Ms. Fogel's trust account. (Declaration of Illyssa I. Fogel ("Fogel Decl."), ¶ 4.) The Application does not disclose the source of the funds used to pay the $40,000 retainer.

The retention agreement between the Debtor and Ms. Fogel provides, "In consideration of my rendering these legal services, [the Debtor] shall tender to me, Illyssa I. Fogel of Illyssa I. Fogel & Associates, a total retainer of Forty Thousand Dollars ($40,000.00). Legal services rendered on behalf of JBC will be billed and charged against the retainer . . .". (Application, Exh. C, at p. 2.) Payment of Ms. Fogel's fees from the retainer balance is subject to Court approval. (Id., at p. 3.)

As for requests for compensation, Ms. Fogel proposes to use the "Professional Fee Statement" procedure as follows:

[I]n accordance with U.S. Trustee Guidelines and Notices, Applicant has been advised that the Firm will submit to the Office of the U.S. Trustee a copy of the Firm's Professional Fee Statement with respect to fees for professional services rendered to Applicant and for reimbursement of expenses incurred on behalf of Applicant/Debtor and serve copies of the Professional Fee Statement pursuant to the procedure described therein that it intends to draw down from the retainer a sum equal to 100% of the fees and costs incurred for that period. If no objection to the Professional Fee Statement is submitted and/or filed and served within ten (10) days after service of the Professional Fee Statement, the Firm will draw down from the retainer monthly. If a written objection to the Firm's monthly invoice is filed by a party-in-interest, the Firm will refrain from withdrawing the disputed funds from its trust account until the Court has resolved the objection[.]

(Application, at pp. 3-4.)

C. The Limited Objection

On February 22, 2018, Wells Fargo filed a limited opposition to the Application [doc. 26]. Wells Fargo does not oppose the Debtor's employment of Ms. Fogel. However,

Wells Fargo objects to the Debtor's request to use any portion of the remaining pre-petition retainer to pay post-petition legal fees and expenses, because the retainer balance is Wells Fargo's cash collateral and should be turned over to Wells Fargo. In addition, the Debtor should not be allowed to surcharge the cash collateral pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 506(c), because it cannot show any direct benefit to Wells Fargo from payment of the administrative expenses of the Debtor's case.

In support of its limited opposition, Wells Fargo provided the following documents as evidence of its security interest in the rents generated by the Property (the "Rents"):

- A Promissory Note (the "Note") dated November 14, 2006, executed by the Debtor in favor of Principal Life Insurance Company ("Principal LI"), in the amount of $2.3 million. (Chance Decl., ¶ 5; Exh. 2.)
- A mortgage dated November 14, 2006, between DG Staples, LLC and the Debtor, as tenants in common, and Principal LI, together with its successors and assigns, recorded on November 20, 2006, as a first priority lien (the "Mortgage"). (Chance Decl., ¶ 6; Exh. 3.)
- UCC-1 Financing Statements filed in Delaware Department of State, as amended. (Chance Decl., ¶ 7e, Exh. 8.)
- An Allonge to Secured Promissory Note Dated November 14, 2006 from Principal LI to Principal Commercial Funding II, LLC. (Chance Decl., ¶ 8a, Exh. 9.)

Chapter 11

- An Assignment of Mortgage from Principal Commercial Funding II, LLC to Wells Fargo, recorded on August 20, 2008 in the Monroe County Register of Deeds, Document No. 2008R15911. (Chance Decl., ¶ 8e, Exh. 13.)

On January 30, 2017, Wells Fargo served a notice of default on the Debtor and DG Staples, LLC. (Chance Decl., ¶ 10, Exh. 14.) On December 19, 2017, Wells Fargo filed a complaint against the Debtor and DG Staples, LLC for appointment of receiver in Michigan state court. (Chance Decl., ¶ 4, Exh. 1.)

II. DISCUSSION

Court approval is required for a debtor-in-possession to employ professional persons. 11 U.S.C. § 327(a). A court may also evaluate a prepetition retainer paid to an attorney for reasonableness. In re Dividend Dev. Corp., 145 B.R. 651, 655 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1992).

A. Prepetition Retainer

Upon the filing of a petition, a prepetition retainer may become property of the estate, depending on what type of retainer it is. A "classic" or "earned upon receipt" retainer "is one paid to a lawyer for which the only consideration exchanged is the promise to represent the client and no other party in the particular matter. The consideration cannot include logically the provision of future services if the retainer is truly earned upon receipt." In re Hathaway Ranch P'ship, 116 B.R. 208, 216 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1990). "Because the debtor holds no interest in a classic retainer, it does not become part of the estate, and no fee application is required before the attorneys use the retainer funds." In re McDonald Bros. Const., Inc., 114 B.R. 989, 998–99 (Bankr. N.D. Ill. 1990).

A second type of retainer agreement between debtors and their attorneys provides that the retainer will be held by the attorneys to secure payment of fees for future services that the attorneys are expected to render. Under such a "security retainer," the money given to the debtors' attorneys is not present payment for the future services. Rather, the retainer remains the property of the debtor until the attorney "applies" it to charges for services actually rendered; any unearned funds are turned over by the attorneys.

A third type of retainer is an "advance payment retainer." Under such an arrangement, "the debtor pays, in advance, for some or all of the services that the attorney is expected to perform on the debtor's behalf. This type of retainer differs from the Security Retainer in that ownership to the funds is intended to pass to the attorney at the time of payment." In re Montgomery Drilling Co., 121 B.R. 32, 38 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. 1990). Thus, an advance payment retainer does not become property of the estate.

Based on the language of the retention agreement and Ms. Fogel's declaration, the retainer at issue appears to be a security retainer. The retention agreement between the Debtor and Ms. Fogel provides, "In consideration of my rendering these legal services, [the Debtor] shall tender to me, Illyssa I. Fogel of Illyssa I. Fogel & Associates, a total retainer of Forty Thousand Dollars ($40,000.00). Legal services rendered on behalf of JBC will be billed and charged against the retainer . . .". (Application, Exh. C, at p. 2.) Payment of Ms. Fogel's fees from the retainer balance is subject to Court approval. (Id., at p. 3.) Prepetition, the Debtor paid to Ms. Fogel the sum of $40,000 as a retainer, of which $10,987 has been withdrawn to cover pre-filing fees and expenses. The remainder is being held in Ms. Fogel's trust account. (Fogel Decl., ¶ 4.)

Under similar facts, the court in Montgomery Drilling held that such an arrangement was a security retainer under California law. In Montgomery Drilling, a portion of the retainer was "allocated for the payment of filing fees, with the remainder as a retainer fee for services rendered and to be rendered." Montgomery Drilling, 121 B.R. at 38. Such a security retainer was held to be property of the bankruptcy estate. See also In re GOCO Realty Fund I, 151 B.R. 241, 251 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 1993) ("To the extent that the client retains an interest in a retainer under California law, a pre-petition retainer paid to an attorney becomes property of the estate upon the commencement of a bankruptcy case.")

In GOCO Realty Fund I, a secured creditor filed a motion for turnover of prepetition retainers, on the grounds that its cash collateral was being used to fund litigation against its interests. The secured creditor argued that based on an assignment of rents provision, it had perfected a security interest in funds that the debtor had paid to counsel as retainer fees. Id. at 244. The court held that the retainers at issue were security retainers and property of the estate. Under California law, an attorney has a security interest in a prepetition retainer.

The purpose of a security retainer is to provide security to an attorney for payment of services. The attorney perfects a security interest in money by taking possession of the funds. The Uniform Commercial Code, adopted in California, expressly permits the creation of a security interest in money, which can only be perfected by possession.

A security interest in . . . money . . . may be perfected by the secured party's taking possession of the collateral . . . . A security interest is perfected by possession from the time possession is taken without relation back and continues only so long as possession is retained . . . .

Cal. Com. Code Ann. § 9305. Counsel holding a retainer thus has a validly perfected security interest in the funds in his possession. Numerous courts have noted that a retainer is property of the estate but that the debtor's counsel also has an interest in the retainer.

GOCO Realty Fund I, 151 B.R. at 251–52; see also Cal. Com. Code § 9313 (successor statute to § 9305) Although the security retainers at issue in GOCO Realty Fund I were property of the estate, the retainers were not the secured creditor's cash collateral. The secured creditor had perfected its security interest but had not enforced its right to the rents prepetition. Under California law, a secured lender must take an enforcement step before it is entitled to possession of rents under an assignment of rents. Id. at 247, 252; but see MDFC Loan Corp. v. Greenbrier Plaza Partners, 21 Cal. App. 4th 1045, 1052 (1994), as modified, Feb. 2, 1994 (distinguishing GOCO Realty Fund I on the basis that the secured lender had made a timely demand for rents).

Here, Ms. Fogel holds the balance of the prepetition retainer in trust on behalf of the Debtor. Thus, pursuant to California Commercial Code § 9313 and GOCO Realty Fund I, Ms. Fogel's possession of the retainer balance perfected her security interest in those funds.

GOCO Realty Fund I was decided under California law. In the pending case, the Property is located in Michigan. Wells Fargo's position is that the loan documents as to the Property are governed by Michigan law. Although the Debtor disputes the validity of Wells Fargo's alleged interest in cash collateral, the Debtor has not addressed whether Michigan law would apply to the loan documents and to Wells Fargo's alleged interest.

Wells Fargo argues that the balance of prepetition retainer held by Ms. Fogel is Wells Fargo's cash collateral and subject to turnover. However, Wells Fargo has not established that the monies that constitute the prepetition retainer were generated from the Rents. Nor has Wells Fargo established that its alleged security interest has priority over Ms. Fogel's security interest in the prepetition retainer. Accordingly, the Court at this time cannot conclude that the balance of the prepetition retainer is Wells Fargo's cash collateral and thus subject to turnover.

B. Professional Fee Statement Procedure

The Court will deny the Debtor's request to compensate in accordance with the Professional Fee Statement procedure described in the Application. The Debtor has not shown sufficient justification to deviate from the compensation procedures set forth in 11 U.S.C. §§ 330 and 331. Ms. Fogel may file and serve applications for compensation not more than once every 120 days, pursuant to §§ 330 and 331.

III. CONCLUSION

In light of the foregoing, the Court will grant the Application to the extent that the Debtor seeks to employ Ms. Fogel. The Court will deny the Application to the extent that Ms. Fogel seeks compensation pursuant to the Professional Fee Statement process. Ms. Fogel may file and serve applications for compensation no more than once every 120 days, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 330 and 331.

The Court will continue the hearing to May 3, 2018, at 2:00 p.m. to allow the parties to file supplemental evidence and briefing regarding (i) the source of the retainer funds; and (ii) taking into account Michigan law (if applicable), whether the retainer balance constitutes Wells Fargo's cash collateral. No later than April 19, 2018, the

fr. 3/29/18

Docket 221

Tentative Ruling:

In light of the opposition filed by Massage Envy Franchising, LLC [doc. 240], the parties should be prepared to address whether they have reached any resolution of the issues raised regarding assumption and assignment of the franchise agreements, cure of monetary defaults, and the status of required leases for the clinic locations.

In addition, the debtors' sale motion proposes to pay certain secured creditors and a lessor from the sale proceeds. (Doc. 221, at p. 12.) Many of these creditors hold claims against one debtor, but not against the other debtors. The sale motion does not allocate the sale proceeds among the jointly administered entities. In effect, the sale motion appears to treat the jointly administered entities as substantively consolidated entities, when no order for substantive consolidation has been entered in these cases. [FN1]

In In re Murray Indus., Inc., 119 B.R. 820 (Bankr. M.D. Fla. 1990), jointly administered debtors brought a motion for substantive consolidation for purposes of reorganization. Previously, the jointly administered debtors had sought to sell substantially all their assets.

Prior to the approval of the sale, this Court expressed its misgivings and stated its concern about the propriety of the proposed sale because it appeared to be a de facto substantive consolidation of the Debtors' estates in complete disregard of the procedural requirements for such a consolidation. This concern was based primarily on the fact that there was no allocation of the purchase price between the several entities whose assets were involved in the sale.

Id. at 826. The debtors stressed their dire financial condition and the need to consummate the sale. The debtors stated that they were structured as one entity and had always operated as one entity. The debtors denied that the money would go into “one pot,” never to be allocated among the debtors, and stated that substantive consolidation might be appropriate.

The court approved the sale, finding that the purchase price was an “excellent offer and represented a purchase price which far exceeded anybody's expectations.” Id. Two secured creditors, who held claims against each of the individual debtors, received proceeds from the sale in full satisfaction of their claims. The debtors subsequently filed the motion for substantive consolidation, which was granted by the court.

Here, unlike the debtors in Murray, the debtors have not stated that they are structured as one entity and have always operated as one entity. The debtors have not stated any intent to allocate sale proceeds. Most of the creditors to be paid from the sale proceeds appear to have claims against individual debtors and not against all four debtors. The Murray court approved the sale because the debtors were able to show that the proposed sale was not a de facto substantive consolidation. The debtors in the pending cases have not made a similar showing.

ENDNOTE

[1] In their motion, the debtors have not addressed the de facto substantive consolidation that their proposed sale apparently contemplates. The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals requires consideration of two factors when analyzing whether substantive consolidation is appropriate: “(1) whether creditors dealt with the entities as a single economic unit and did not rely on their separate identity in extending credit; or (2) whether the affairs of the debtor are so entangled that consolidation will benefit all creditors.” In re Bonham, 229 F.3d 750, 766 (9th Cir. 2000) (internal quotations omitted). “Consolidation under the second factor, entanglement of the debtor's affairs, is justified only where ‘the time and expense necessary even to attempt to unscramble them [is] so substantial as to threaten the realization of any net assets for all the creditors' or where no accurate identification and allocation of assets is possible." Id. (quoting In re Augie/Restivo Baking Co., Ltd., 860 F.2d 515, 519 (2d Cir. 1988)). "The presence of either factor is a sufficient basis to order substantive consolidation." Id.

In Bonham, the leading case on substantive consolidation in this circuit, the Court of Appeals set forth the purpose of substantive consolidation in bankruptcy:

The theory of substantive consolidation emanates from the core of bankruptcy jurisprudence. As Justice Douglas noted, "[t]he power of the bankruptcy court to subordinate claims or adjudicate equities arising out of the relationship between the several creditors is complete." Sampsell, 313 U.S. at 219, 61 S. Ct. 904. "[T]he theme of the Bankruptcy Act is equality of distribution." Id. Orders of substantive consolidation combine the assets and liabilities of separate and distinct—but related—legal entities into a single pool and treat them as though they belong to a single entity. See Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. v. Colonial Realty Co., 966 F.2d 57, 58–59 (2d Cir.1992); Eastgroup, 935 F.2d at 248; Norton Bankruptcy Law and Practice 2d § 20:4 (1997). Substantive consolidation "enabl[es] a bankruptcy court to disregard separate corporate entities, to pierce their corporate veils in the usual metaphor, in order to reach assets for the satisfaction of debts of a related corporation." James Talcott, Inc. v. Wharton (In re Continental Vending Machine Corp.), 517 F.2d 997, 1000 (2d Cir.1975). The consolidated assets create a single fund from which all claims against the consolidated debtors are satisfied; duplicate and inter-company claims are extinguished; and, the creditors of the consolidated entities are combined for purposes of voting on reorganization plans. See In re Augie/Restivo, 860 F.2d at 518.

Docket 42

Tentative Ruling:

Grant relief from the automatic stay and annulment of the automatic stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1).

Movant (and any successors or assigns) may proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to obtain possession of the property.

The co-debtor stay of 11 U.S.C. § 1201(a) and § 1301(a) is terminated, modified or annulled as to the co-debtor(s), on the same terms and conditions as to the debtor.

The order is binding and effective in any bankruptcy case commenced by or against the debtor for a period of 180 days, so that no further automatic stay shall arise in that case as to the property.

Grant movant's request to annul the automatic stay. "Many courts have focused on two factors in determining whether cause exists to grant [retroactive] relief from the stay: (1) whether the creditor was aware of the bankruptcy petition; and (2) whether the debtor engaged in unreasonable or inequitable conduct, or prejudice would result to the creditor." In re Nat'l Environmental Waste Corp., 129 F.3d 1052, 1055 (9th Cir. 1997). "[T]his court, similar to others, balances the equities in order to determine whether retroactive annulment is justified." Id.

Here, movant was unaware of the debtor's bankruptcy petition before January 17, 2018, and the debtor acted unreasonably in a way that has prejudiced movant. movant or any other unsecured creditors in her schedules or creditor mailing list.

Regarding movant's awareness, movant submitted declarations attesting to the following facts:

On May 27, 2014, Greenback MDR LLC entered into a lease agreement (the "Lease") with the debtor and her co-lessees as to the real property located at 19610 Superior St., Northridge, CA 91324 (the "Property"). (Declaration of Nalini Arora, ¶ 4; Exh. 1.) The Lease was subsequently assigned to movant. (Id., ¶ 4; Exhs. 1–4.)

On August 17, 2017, movant served a Notice to Quit on the debtor and her co-lessees (the "Notice to Quit"). The Notice to Quit states that the debtor and her co-lessees unlawfully used the Property for short-term rentals in violation of Los Angeles Municipal Code sections 11, 12.07 and 12.21. (Declaration of Robert Hudock, ¶ 2; Exh. A.)

On September 1, 2017, movant filed an unlawful detainer complaint (the "UD Complaint") in state court against the debtor and her co-lessees. (Id., ¶ 3; Exh. B.) On September 11, 2017, the debtor filed a demurrer to the UD Complaint. Movant filed an opposition to the demurrer. The debtor did not appear at the demurrer hearing, and the state court overruled her demurrer. (Id., ¶ 4.)

No response to the UD Complaint was filed. On September 14, 2017, the state court entered default against the debtor and her co-lessees. (Id., ¶ 5; Exh. C.) Movant proceeded to serve written discovery and a notice of deposition on the debtor. The debtor did not respond. Movant then filed a motion to compel against the debtor (the "Motion to Compel"). The state court granted the Motion to Compel and imposed sanctions on the debtor in the amount of $4,000. The debtor has not complied with the state court's order or paid the sanctions. (Id., ¶¶ 6, 7; Exhs. D, E.)

On January 12, 2018, movant filed a motion for summary judgment (the "MSJ") against the debtor and her co-lessees. The debtor did not oppose the MSJ. The hearing on the MSJ was scheduled for January

17, 2018. On January 16, 2018, the debtor faxed a “Notice of Stay of Proceedings” to movant, alleging a stay of the state court proceedings in light of the debtor’s bankruptcy case. (Id., ¶ 8; Exh. G.) Movant attests that it had no knowledge of the debtor’s bankruptcy case before receipt of the debtor’s fax. (Id., ¶ 9.)

With respect to the debtor’s conduct in the pending case, in her petition the debtor listed her residence address as “22838 Roscoe Boulevard, Canoga Park, CA 91304-3228.” The debtor did not list movant or the Lease in her schedules. The debtor has not opposed the pending motion. Although the debtor’s bankruptcy case has been pending since November 23, 2015, she did not notify movant of her case until January 17, 2018. For these reasons, the Court finds that annulment of the automatic stay is warranted.

The 14-day stay prescribed by FRBP 4001(a)(3) is waived.

Any other request for relief is denied.

Movant must submit the order within seven (7) days.

Note: No response has been filed. Accordingly, no court appearance by movant is required. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the Court will determine whether further hearing is required and movant will be so notified.

REVERSE MORTGAGE SOLUTIONS, INC

Docket 26

Tentative Ruling:

The Court will continue the hearing to May 2, 2018 at 9:30 a.m.

On March 31, 2017, the debtor filed her chapter 13 petition. In her schedules, the debtor listed the real property located at 26007 Alizia Canyon Drive Unit F, Calabasas, CA 91302 (the "Property"). Movant holds a reverse mortgage promissory note, secured by a deed of trust as to the Property.

On June 17, 2017, the debtor died. Her death triggered the six-month period for timely repayment of the reverse mortgage. Because the debtor could not repay, movant accelerated the maturity date of the reverse mortgage. The entire balance of the reverse mortgage is now due and payable in full.

On March 5, 2018, on behalf of the legal representative of the debtor's probate estate, the debtor's counsel filed a motion to sell the Property (the "Motion to Sell"). According to the debtor's counsel, the proposed sale will pay off the reverse mortgage in full. On March 27, 2018, the Court entered an order granting the Motion to Sell [doc. 34]. The sale is scheduled to close on April 6, 2018.

On March 6, 2018, movant filed the pending motion for relief from the automatic stay as to the Property (the "RFS Motion") [doc. 26]. Movant seeks relief from stay to foreclose against the Property. On March 21, 2018, the debtor's counsel filed an opposition to the RFS Motion, stating that the proposed sale will render the RFS Motion moot [doc. 30].

In light of the closing of the sale and the anticipated payoff in full of the debt to movant, the Court will continue this matter to May 2, 2018, at 9:30 a.m. No later

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

I. BACKGROUND

On March 16, 2017, Hermann Muennichow ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. Prior to the petition date, Duane J. Van Dyke ("Plaintiff") had initiated a state court action against Debtor and his nondebtor spouse seeking damages for fraud, breach of fiduciary duty, imposition of constructive trust and conversion. The state court action was stayed when Debtor filed the chapter 7 petition.

On June 12, 2017, Plaintiff initiated this adversary proceeding against Debtor. The complaint seeks nondischargeability of the debt owed to Plaintiff pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2), (a)(4), (a)(6) and (a)(14) and objects to Debtor's receipt of a discharge pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 727(c), (d) and (e) (the "Complaint") [doc. 1]. On August 22, 2017, Debtor filed an answer to the Complaint [doc. 13].

On November 16, 2017, the Court issued an order to appear and show cause why this adversary proceeding should not be dismissed for failure to prosecute (the "OSC for Failure to Prosecute") [doc. 22]. On November 17, 2017, Plaintiff filed a response to the OSC for Failure to Prosecute mentioning the "recent death of the debtor" (the "Response to the OSC") [doc. 24 p. 3, lines 2-3].

On December 14, 2017, the Court entered a scheduling order (the "Scheduling Order") [doc. 27]. On December 14, 2017, the Scheduling Order was served on the chapter 7 trustee, Plaintiff's counsel, Debtor's counsel and the United States Trustee through NEF [doc. 28]. On December 16, 2017, the Scheduling Order was served on Plaintiff and Debtor by first class mail [doc. 28]. In the Scheduling Order, the Court stated:

The Court being apprised of the death of the Debtor Hermann Muennichow and it appearing that the Plaintiff seeks to move forward with this adversary proceeding,

It is hereby ordered that the status conference is continued to February 14, 2018, at 1:30 p.m. in Courtroom 301 of the above-captioned Court; and,

It is further ordered that a status conference report be filed by January 31, 2018 to address, in addition to all other matters required in the report, the status of any motion to substitute a party in place of the deceased debtor pursuant to Federal Rules of Procedure Rule 25(a).

(emphasis added).

On February 1, 2018, Plaintiff filed a joint status report (the "Status Report") [doc. 29]. In the Status Report, Plaintiff stated: "Debtor recently died and a motion to substitute personal representative will need to be filed shortly. No will or trust has been located and no [p]robate has been commenced." [doc. 29, p. 2, ¶ 5]. Plaintiff also stated that he would not know when he would be ready for trial until a personal representative was appointed and he was waiting for probate to open [doc. 29, p. 2, ¶¶ 1-2].

On February 6, 2018, Stuart R. Simone, Debtor's counsel, filed a declaration regarding the termination of the attorney client relationship (the "Simone Declaration") [doc. 30]. In the Simone Declaration, Mr. Simone states that Debtor died on November 11, 2017. Attached is a copy of the death certificate [doc. 30, p. 2, ¶ 3 and Exh. A].

On February 15, 2018, the Court entered an order to show cause why the Court should not dismiss the adversary proceeding because of Debtor's death (the "OSC"). The OSC required Plaintiff to appear and explain how the Court could grant effective relief in this adversary proceeding [doc. 32]. The OSC set a response deadline of March 21, 2018.

On March 21, 2018, Plaintiff filed a response and declaration in reply to the Court's OSC (the "2018 Response") [doc. 35]. In the 2018 Response, Plaintiff requests that the Court abstain from hearing the adversary proceeding under 11 U.S.C. § 1334(c) (1). However, Plaintiff also asserts that a determination of Plaintiff's claims in this proceeding remains relevant because of a dispute regarding certain life insurance proceeds. Allegedly Plaintiff and Debtor's spouse, Helayne Muennichow ("Mrs. Muennichow"), each claim an interest in these policy proceeds. (EN1)

As of the date the Response was filed, probate had not opened, nor had there been an appointment of any personal representative by any court [doc. 35, p. 2, ¶ 6].

II. DISCUSSION

A. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 25

"In an adversary proceeding, specific procedural steps are required if the deceased, including a chapter 7 debtor, is a party." In re Eads, 135 B.R. 380, 384 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. 1991). The mechanics are set out in Rule 25, which applies in adversary proceedings pursuant to Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7025.

Pursuant to Rule 25(a)—

(1) Substitution if the Claim Is Not Extinguished. If a party dies and the claim is not extinguished, the court may order substitution of the proper party. A motion for substitution may be made by any party or by the decedent's successor or representative. If the motion is not made within 90 days after service of a statement noting the death, the action by or against the decedent must be dismissed.

(3) Service. A motion to substitute, together with a notice of hearing, must be served on the parties as provided in Rule 5 and on nonparties as provided in Rule 4. A statement noting death must be served in the same manner. Service may be made in any judicial district.

In Barlow v. Ground, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals held that Rule 25 required two affirmative steps to trigger the running of the ninety-day period. 39 F.3d 231, 233 (9th Cir.1994). "First, a party must formally suggest the death of the party upon the record." Id. "Second, the suggesting party must serve other parties and nonparty successors or representatives of the deceased with a suggestion of death in the same manner as required for service of the motion to substitute." Id. "A non-party successors or representatives of the deceased party must be served the suggestion of death in the manner provided by Rule 4 for the service of a summons." Id.

As a preliminary matter, there are four documents in the record in which Debtor's death is acknowledged: (1) the Response to the OSC [doc. 24]; (2) the Status Report [doc. 29]; (3) the Simone Declaration [doc. 30]; and (4) the Scheduling Order [doc. 27]. Of these documents, only the Scheduling Order is sufficiently formal to trigger the running of the 90-day period. See In re Brand, 545 B.R. 37, 40 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016) ("the notice of death must be sufficiently formal in order to trigger the running of the 90-day period") (emphasis in original); Acri v. Int'l Ass'n of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, 595 F.Supp. 326, 330 (N.D. Cal 1984) (the notice must be more than a mere mention of the death in a court proceeding or pleading).

In Barlow, the Court of Appeals held that where a nonparty representative is clearly known at the time notice of death is made, Rule 25 requires service upon that nonparty representative pursuant to Rule 4. 39 F.3d at 233. In the 2018 Response, Plaintiff states that Mrs. Muennichow, who is not a party to this proceeding, asserts an interest in Debtor's life insurance policy proceeds. Consequently, Mrs. Muennichow likely has an interest in contesting this nondischargeability action.

As a result, in order to trigger the beginning of the statutory period, it appears appropriate that any notice of death be served on Mrs. Muennichow. See Rende v. Kay, 415 F.2d 983, 986 (D.C. Cir. 1969) (statement of death must "identify the representative or successor of an estate who may be substituted as a party for the deceased before Rule 25(a)(1) may be invoked"). Because the Scheduling Order was not served on Mrs. Muennichow, it appears that it is not sufficient to trigger the running of the 90-day period in Rule 25.

B. Abstention

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 305(a), a bankruptcy court, after notice and a hearing, may dismiss a case "or may suspend all proceedings in a case under this title, at any time if... the interests of creditors and the debtor would be better served by such dismissal or suspension." Title 28, U.S.C. § 1334(c)(1) states that "nothing in this section prevents a district court in the interest of justice, or in the interest of comity with State courts or respect for State law, from abstaining from hearing a particular proceeding arising under title 11 or arising in or related to a case under title 11."

The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has articulated twelve factors for consideration when assessing the merits of abstention:

- (1) the effect or lack thereof on the efficient administration of the estate if a Court recommends abstention,
- (2) the extent to which state law issues predominate over bankruptcy issues,
- (3) the difficulty or unsettled nature of the applicable law,
- (4) the presence of a related proceeding commenced in state court or other nonbankruptcy court,
- (5) the jurisdictional basis, if any, other than 28 U.S.C. § 1334,
- (6) the degree of relatedness or remoteness of the proceeding to the main bankruptcy case,
- (7) the substance rather than form of an asserted "core" proceeding,
- (8) the feasibility of severing state law claims from core bankruptcy matters to allow judgments to be entered in state court with enforcement left to the bankruptcy court,
- (9) the burden of [the bankruptcy court's] docket,
- (10) the likelihood that the commencement of the proceeding in bankruptcy court involves forum shopping by one of the parties,
- (11) the existence of a right to a jury trial, and
- (12) the presence in the proceeding of nondebtor parties.

In re Tucson Estates, Inc., 912 F.2d 1162, 1167 (9th Cir. 1990). "No single factor is dispositive, and the decision does not turn on a counting of the number of factors on each side." In re Lazar, 200 B.R. 358, 373 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1996).

The overwhelming weight of the Tucson factors is against abstention. The Complaint asserts causes of action under 11 U.S.C. §§ 523 and 727. This Court has exclusive jurisdiction over core bankruptcy matters, which include nondischargeability actions. Plaintiff has not asserted any state law causes of action and has no right to a jury trial. Moreover, Plaintiff maintains that there is a dispute with regard to entitlement to Debtor's life insurance policy proceeds and that a finding of nondischargeability remains relevant. Because this Court has exclusive jurisdiction to determine the claims asserted in the Complaint, abstention is not appropriate.

III. CONCLUSION

In light of the foregoing, Plaintiff should be prepared to inform the Court if and how he intends to continue prosecuting the Complaint.

ENDNOTES

1. On July 28, 2017, David Seror, the chapter 7 trustee appointed in Debtor's case, filed an adversary complaint against Debtor and Mrs. Muennichow seeking, among other things, to avoid fraudulent transfers under 11 U.S.C. § 548 and denial of discharge under 11 U.S.C. § 727 [1:17-ap-01069-VK]. In her answer, Mrs. Muennichow stated that she and Debtor have been legally separated at all times relevant to that adversary proceeding [doc. 7, ¶ 10]. In connection with that proceeding, the chapter 7 trustee has noted: "Debtor and Defendant Helayne were in the process of obtaining a divorce at the time of the Debtor's death. . . . Counsel for Debtor's wife has stated in Court that she will not and cannot serve as the personal representative for Debtor's decedent's estate herein" [doc. 35, Declaration of David Seror, ¶ 3].

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

On September 16, 2017, Exclusive German Auto Repair, Inc. ("Debtor") filed the underlying chapter 7 bankruptcy petition [1:17-bk-12387]. On October 11, 2017, the chapter 7 trustee filed a report of no distribution. On December 6, 2017, Kingsang Cheung ("Plaintiff") filed this adversary proceeding, asserting claims for nondischargeability of debt under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A) and (a)(6) against Debtor and "Does 1-50, Inclusive."

As an initial matter, only "individuals" may receive a discharge under chapter 7. 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(1). Debtor, as a corporation, is not eligible for discharge of its debts in its chapter 7 case. Consequently, this adversary proceeding is moot; Debtor's debt to Plaintiff is not subject to being discharged, irrespective of this adversary proceeding.

To the extent that Plaintiff seeks relief from any person other than Debtor, Plaintiff may pursue that relief in a nonbankruptcy court.

Based on the foregoing, the Court will dismiss this adversary proceeding as moot. The Court will prepare the order.

I. BACKGROUND

A. *The Debtor and Creditor's Business Dealings

In 1977, Deborah Adri (the "Debtor") and Moshe Adri ("Creditor") married. In 1983, Creditor and the Debtor formed Shoes for Sale, Inc., which funded the purchase of other ventures. In 1990, the Debtor and Creditor divorced, but they continued to work together on various business ventures. Between 1992 and 1994, the Debtor and Creditor purchased retail units in Van Nuys out of which they operated their shoe business. However, due to a decline in business, they rented out the individual units to third-party lessees. The Debtor and Creditor formed the following LLCs, each of which held title to an individual unit.

- M & D Resources, LLC — 6401-6407 Van Nuys Blvd & 14501 Victory Blvd;
- Street Resources, LLC — 6420-6422 Van Nuys Blvd;
- 6371-77 VNB, LLC — 6371-6377 Van Nuys Blvd., 14504-14508 Victory Blvd ("6371-77 VNB");
- Magen Star Resources, LLC — 6311-6313 Van Nuys Blvd., Van Nuys, CA 91401;

- Noho Plaza, LLC (collectively, "the LLCs").

(Doc. 10, ¶¶ 2, 3.)

In 2004, the Debtor and Creditor entered into an agreement regarding the ownership of the LLCs (the "LLC Agreement"). The LLC Agreement contains an arbitration provision stating, "Any action to enforce or interpret this Agreement or to resolve disputes between the MEMBERS or by or against any MEMBER shall be settled by arbitration in accordance with the rules of the American Arbitration Association." (LLC Agreement, § 10.1.)

Until 2008, the units were rented at capacity. However, by 2009, the occupancy rate had fallen to 40%. On March 11, 2011, the Debtor filed an unlawful detainer action against Creditor on behalf of 6371-77 VNB for Creditor's non-payment of rent. Creditor filed a lawsuit against the Debtor and the LLCs which was later dismissed due to lack of standing. (Doc. 10, ¶¶ 5, 6.)

B. Creditor's Prior Bankruptcy Cases, the Settlement Agreement, and the Sale Order

On December 12, 2012, Creditor filed a chapter 7 petition, initiating case no. 1:12-bk-20733-MB ("Creditor's Bankruptcy"). On March 18, 2013, the Debtor filed a chapter 11 petition on behalf of 6371-77 VNB, initiating case no. 1:13-bk-11840-AA (the "6371-77 VNB Bankruptcy").

On March 27, 2014, all parties executed a global settlement agreement (the "Settlement Agreement"). The Settlement Agreement provides, "The Parties stipulate that this Release Agreement may be enforced by the Court pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure § 664.6." (Doc. 10, Exh. B, Settlement Agreement, ¶ 4.) The Settlement Agreement also provides that, "This settlement is subject to court approval." (Id., ¶ 14.) The Settlement Agreement further provides as follows:

Following execution of this Agreement, [the Debtor] shall pay, indemnify and hold harmless [Creditor] for all past, present and future expenses related to the real estate operations of 6371-77 VNB, LLC

[and other entities] including but not limited to: mortgage expenses, credit line expense, attorney's fees, accounting fees, property taxes, maintenance expenses, brokerage expenses, payroll and insurance premiums, as well as for any and all third party claims, past and present, brought against 6371-77 VNB, LLC [and other entities].

(Id., at ¶ 3.) There is no provision for arbitration in the Settlement Agreement.

The Debtor filed a motion for approval of the Settlement Agreement in the 6371-77 VNB Bankruptcy. On May 8, 2014, the bankruptcy court in the 6371-77 VNB Bankruptcy entered an order approving the Settlement Agreement (the "6371-77 VNB Settlement Agreement Order"). (Debtor Decl., ¶ 11; case no 1:13-bk-11840-AA, doc. 292.) The 6371-77 VNB Settlement Agreement Order did not contain an exclusive reservation of jurisdiction in the bankruptcy court to hear disputes regarding the Settlement Agreement.

On May 6, 2014, Creditor filed a motion in Creditor's Bankruptcy to approve the Settlement Agreement [case no. 1:12-bk-20733-MB, doc. 171]. After creditor East West Bank filed an opposition, Creditor voluntarily withdrew his motion to approve the Settlement Agreement [case no. 1:12-bk-20733-MB, docs. 174, 177]. East West Bank held a judgment against Creditor for alleged shortfalls in the repayment of the debt owed by 6371-77 VNB. (Doc. 20, ¶ 18.)

Subsequently, Creditor settled with the chapter 7 trustee (the "Trustee Settlement"), sold his residence (the "Property"), and dismissed Creditor's Bankruptcy. (Debtor Decl., ¶ 11.) The order approving the Trustee Settlement stated that the Debtor had filed an opposition to the Trustee Settlement, but she orally withdrew the opposition at the hearing. (Case no. 1:12-bk-20733-MB, doc. 388.)

The orders approving the Trustee Settlement (the "Trustee Settlement Order") and sale of the Property (the "Sale Order") specifically reserved jurisdiction over all matters regarding or related to the Trustee Settlement and sale of the Property. (Debtor Decl., ¶ 12; case no. 1:12-bk-20733-MB, docs. 387, 388) in state court (the "Petition to Compel"). On January 24, 2017, the Debtor filed a response to the Petition to Compel, in which she stated she was agreeable to proceeding with arbitration and that she intended to file a cross-complaint against Creditor. (Doc. 20-1, Exh. A, at pp. 1–2.)

The arbitrator allowed Creditor to amend the Petition to Compel. In the amended Petition to Compel (the "Amended Petition"), Creditor set forth the following causes of action:

- (1) Breach of contract
- (2) Fraud and deceit/concealment
- (3) Negligent misrepresentation
- (4) Breach of fiduciary duty
- (5) Common count — money had and received
- (6) Conversion

(Doc. 14, ¶ 6; Doc. 2-12, pp. 3–6.) In her response to the Amended Petition, the Debtor did not object to the arbitrator's jurisdiction to determine the claims. Instead, the Debtor filed an answer and counterclaim, seeking $300,000 from Creditor for alleged improper distributions in violation of the LLC Agreement. (Doc. 14, ¶ 6; Doc. 2-15, at pp. 14–22.)

The American Arbitration Association Rules (the "AAA Rules") provide, in relevant part:

- (a) The arbitrator shall have the power to rule on his or her own jurisdiction, including any objections with respect to the existence, scope, or validity of the arbitration agreement or to the arbitrability of any claim or counterclaim.

- (c) A party must object to the jurisdiction of the arbitrator or to the arbitrability of a claim or counterclaim no later than the filing of the answering statement to the claim or counterclaim that gave rise to the objection. The arbitrator may rule on such objection as a preliminary matter or as a part of the final award.

(Doc. 14, ¶ 7.)

The matter was ordered to arbitration. Multiple hearings were held and extensive discovery was conducted. Five days before trial, the Debtor filed her trial brief, in which she contested the jurisdiction of the arbitrator to hear the parties' dispute. (Doc. 20, ¶ 17.) A two-day trial was held before the arbitrator. (Doc. 14, ¶¶ 9–10.) At the arbitration trial, Creditor argued that pursuant to the Settlement Agreement, the Debtor had agreed to indemnify Creditor for all debts arising from 6371-77 VNB. According to Creditor, because the Debtor did not do so, Creditor was forced to agree to the Trustee Settlement and sell the Property in Creditor's Bankruptcy, which resulted in Creditor's loss of the equity in the Property. (Doc. 20, at ¶ 18.)

On November 29, 2017, a corrected award was issued (the "Corrected Award"). (Doc. 14, ¶ 10.) The Corrected Award awarded Creditor $1,215,761 in economic damages, $114,917.85 in attorney's fees, and $23,156.63, and provided for other declaratory and injunctive relief. $500,000 of the economic damages were damages resulting from the loss of equity from the forced sale of the Property in Creditor's Bankruptcy. (Doc. 11-6, Exh. 3-2, at pp. 34, 38.)

On December 22, 2017, Creditor filed a petition to confirm the Corrected Award (the "Petition to Confirm"). The Debtor filed an opposition to the Petition to Confirm, claiming that the arbitrator lacked jurisdiction to rule on the parties' dispute. (Doc. 14, ¶ 12.) The hearing on the Petition to Confirm was set for February 21, 2018. Before the hearing on the Petition to Confirm, the state court issued a tentative ruling granting the Petition to Confirm.

On February 16, 2018—five days before the hearing on the Petition to Confirm—the Debtor filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. On February 20, 2018, the Debtor removed the state court proceeding (the "State Court Action") to this Court. At the February 21, 2018 hearing on the Petition to Confirm, the state court continued the matter to April 25, 2018. (Doc. 14, ¶¶ 13, 14.)

On February 20, 2018, the Court issued the Order to Show Cause re Remand (the "OSC" [doc. 5]). The OSC provided that any party seeking remand must file and serve its memorandum of points and authorities not later than 28 days after the filing of the notice of removal. This period expired on March 20, 2018.

On March 22, 2018, Creditor filed his response to the OSC and request for remand [doc. 13].

II. DISCUSSION

A. Subject Matter Jurisdiction

Removal of state court actions to federal district court is governed by 28 U.S.C. §§ 1441–1455. Removal and remand of actions related to bankruptcy cases is governed by § 1452.

- (a) A party may remove any claim or cause of action in a civil action . . . to the district court for the district where such civil action is pending, if such district court has jurisdiction of such claim or cause of action under section 1334 of this title.
- (b) The court to which such claim or cause of action is removed may remand such claim or cause of action on any equitable ground. . . .

28 U.S.C. § 1452.

The Court strictly construes the removal statutes against removal jurisdiction, and jurisdiction must be rejected if there is any doubt as to the right of removal. See Gaus v. Miles, Inc., 980 F.2d 564, 566 (9th Cir.1992). The party seeking removal bears the burden of establishing federal jurisdiction. Id.

Moreover, under the well-pleaded complaint rule, "[t]he presence or absence of federal-question jurisdiction is governed by the 'well-pleaded complaint rule,' which provides that federal jurisdiction exists only when a federal question is presented on the face of the plaintiff's properly pleaded complaint." Caterpillar Inc. v. Williams, 482 U.S. 386, 392, 107 S. Ct. 2425, 96 L.Ed.2d 318 (1987).

Parties cannot consent to subject matter jurisdiction. Clapp v. Commissioner, 875

F.2d 1396, 1398 (9th Cir. 1989) ("Subject matter jurisdiction cannot be conferred upon the court by consent or waiver."); and In re Marshall, 264 B.R. 609, 619 (C.D. Cal. 2001) ("[I]n so far as the issue is the actual subject matter jurisdiction of the federal courts, rather than just the bankruptcy court's power to enter a final judgment, such jurisdiction cannot be conferred by consent.").

As set forth in § 1452, removal to a bankruptcy court requires that the court have jurisdiction of such claim or cause of action under 28 U.S.C. § 1334. 28 U.S.C. § 1334(b), with regard to bankruptcy cases and proceedings, provides that:

Except as provided by subsection (e)(2) and notwithstanding any Act of Congress that confers exclusive jurisdiction on a court or courts other than the district courts, the district courts shall have original but not exclusive jurisdiction of all civil proceedings arising under title 11, or arising in or related to cases under title 11.

1. *Arising Under Jurisdiction

"A matter arises under the Bankruptcy Code if its existence depends on a substantive provision of bankruptcy law, that is, if it involves a cause of action created or determined by a statutory provision of the Bankruptcy Code." In re Ray, 624 F.3d 1124, 1131 (9th Cir. 2010).

2. *Arising In Jurisdiction

"A proceeding 'arises in' a case under the Bankruptcy Code if it is an administrative matter unique to the bankruptcy process that has no independent existence outside of bankruptcy and could not be brought in another forum, but whose cause of action is not expressly rooted in the Bankruptcy Code." Id.

Matters that "arise under or in Title 11 are deemed to be 'core' proceedings . . .". In re Harris Pine Mills, 44 F.3d 1431, 1435 (9th Cir. 1995). Title 28, United States Code, section 157(b)(2) sets out a non-exclusive list of core proceedings, including "matters concerning the administration of the estate," "allowance or disallowance of claims," "objections to discharges," "motions to terminate, annul, or modify the automatic stay," and "confirmation of plans." Bankruptcy courts have the authority to hear and enter final judgments in "all core proceedings arising under title 11, or arising in a case under title 11 . . . ." 28 U.S.C. § 157\(b\)\(1\); Stern v. Marshall, 564 U.S. 462, 475–76, 131 S. Ct. 2594, 2604, 180 L.Ed.2d 475 (2011).

3. Related to Jurisdiction

Bankruptcy courts also have jurisdiction over proceedings that are "related to" a bankruptcy case. 28 U.S.C. § 1334(b); In re Pegasus Gold Corp., 394 F.3d 1189, 1193 (9th Cir. 2005). A proceeding is "related to" a bankruptcy case if:

[T]he outcome of the proceeding could conceivably have any effect on the estate being administered in bankruptcy. Thus, the proceeding need not necessarily be against the debtor or against the debtor's property. An action is related to bankruptcy if the outcome could alter the debtor's rights, liabilities, options, or freedom of action (either positively or negatively) and which in any way impacts upon the handling and administration of the bankrupt estate.

"[C]ivil proceedings are not within 28 U.S.C. § 1334(b)'s grant of jurisdiction if they . . . 'are so tangential to the title 11 case or the result of which would have so little impact on the administration of the title 11 case . . . . Put another way, litigation that would not have an impact upon the administration of the bankruptcy case, or on property of the estate, or on the distribution to creditors, cannot find a home in the district court based on the court's bankruptcy jurisdiction.'" In re Wisdom, 2015 WL 2128830, at *10 (Bankr. D. Idaho May 5, 2015) (quoting 1 Collier on Bankruptcy, ¶ 3.01[3][e][v] (Alan N. Resnick & Henry J. Sommer eds., 16th ed. 2014)).

Here, the Court does not have "arising under" or "arising in" jurisdiction. There is no "arising under" jurisdiction because the matter does not involve any statutory provisions of the Bankruptcy Code. This matter also does not "arise in" the bankruptcy case because it can independently exist outside of bankruptcy and be brought in another forum. None of the causes of action alleged in the Amended Petition are dependent or intertwined with the existence of Debtor's bankruptcy or any issue therein.

However, this Court does have "related to" jurisdiction over this matter. The Debtor is a respondent in the State Court Action. If Creditor is successful in the State Court Action, Creditor will obtain a substantial judgment against the Debtor, and the size of the Debtor's estate may be diminished as a result. Consequently, the State Court Action has the potential to affect the administration of the Debtor's estate.

B. Mandatory Abstention

Creditor argues that mandatory and permissive abstention are applicable to removed actions. However, in 2001, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals held that neither mandatory nor permissive abstention applies to removed proceedings because there is no pending state proceeding upon removal. In re Lazar, 237 F.3d 967, 981–82 (9th Cir. 2001) (citing Sec. Farms v. Int'l Bhd. of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen & Helpers, 124 F.3d 999, 1009–10 (9th Cir. 1997)). This Court is bound by the Court of Appeals' holding. As a result, neither mandatory nor permissive abstention applies to this proceeding.

C. Timeliness of Creditor's OSC Response

On February 20, 2018, the Court issued the Order to Show Cause re Remand (the "OSC" [doc. 5]). The OSC provided that any party seeking remand must file and serve its memorandum of points and authorities not later than 28 days after the filing of the notice of removal. This period expired on March 20, 2018.

On March 22, 2018, Creditor filed his response to the OSC. The Debtor objected that Creditor's response was untimely in violation of the OSC. The Debtor also objected that Creditor did not comply with 28 U.S.C. § 1447 by filing a motion to remand within 30 days of the notice of removal. However, 30 days after the notice of removal is March 22, 2018. It appears that the response to the OSC is timely pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1447.

D. Remand

"Bankruptcy courts have broad discretion to remand cases over which they otherwise have jurisdiction on any equitable ground." In re Enron Corp., 296 B.R. 505, 508 (C.D. Cal. 2003). 28 U.S.C. § 1452(b) provides, in pertinent part: "The court to which such claim or cause of action is removed may remand such claim or cause of action on any equitable ground." "[E]ven where federal jurisdiction attaches in actions ‘related to’ bankruptcy proceedings, Congress has explicitly provided for courts to find that those matters are more properly adjudicated in state court.’” Parke v. Cardsystem Solutions, Inc., 2006 WL 2917604, at *4 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 11, 2006) (quoting Williams v. Shell Oil Co., 169 B.R. 684, 690 (S.D. Cal. 1994)).

Courts generally consider up to fourteen factors in deciding whether to remand a case to state court. Enron, 296 B.R. at 508. Factors courts should consider in deciding whether to remand are:

- (1) the effect or lack thereof on the efficient administration of the estate if the Court recommends [remand or] abstention;
- (2) extent to which state law issues predominate over bankruptcy issues;
- (3) difficult or unsettled nature of applicable law;
- (4) presence of related proceeding commenced in state court or other nonbankruptcy proceeding;
- (5) jurisdictional basis, if any, other than [section] 1334;
- (6) degree of relatedness or remoteness of proceeding to main bankruptcy case;
- (7) the substance rather than the form of an asserted core proceeding;
- (8) the feasibility of severing state law claims from core bankruptcy matters to allow judgments to be entered in state court with enforcement left to the bankruptcy court;
- (9) the burden on the bankruptcy court’s docket;
- (10) the likelihood that the commencement of the proceeding in bankruptcy court involves forum shopping by one of the parties;
- (11) the existence of a right to a jury trial;
- (12) the presence in the proceeding of nondebtor parties;
- (13) comity; and
- (14) the possibility of prejudice to other parties in the action.

Id. at 508 n.2; see also In re Cytodyn of New Mexico, Inc., 374 B.R. 733, 738 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2007).

In weighing the factors above, the Court finds that remand is appropriate. First, although the outcome of the State Court Action may affect the size of the Debtor’s estate, litigation of the State Court Action will not otherwise have an effect on the bankruptcy case. The liability arising from the State Court Action will determine the amount of distribution available to creditors, but that determination will not hinder the Debtor and other parties in interest from proceeding with the Debtor's bankruptcy case.

Moreover, the Amended Petition alleges exclusively California causes of action, including breach of contract, fraud and deceit/concealment, negligent misrepresentation, breach of fiduciary duty, common count—money had and received, and conversion. Although the issues may not be particularly difficult or complex, unlike California courts, this Court does not routinely adjudicate these issues.

Next, the only basis for bankruptcy jurisdiction over this proceeding is 28 U.S.C. § 1334, and the Amended Petition does not present "core" issues. As a result, this Court is unable to enter final judgment without the parties' consent. Although the Debtor noted the notice of removal that she consents to the entry of final judgment by this Court, that consent is contingent on the Court not remanding this action to state court. Creditor has not stated whether he consents to entry of final judgment by this Court.

The Debtor points to the Trustee Settlement Order and the Sale Order as reserving bankruptcy court jurisdiction to hear disputes arising from those orders. However, a review of the record shows that the dispute in the State Court Action arises primarily from the Settlement Agreement and whether it superseded the LLC Agreement. The 6371-77 VNB Settlement Agreement Order—the only prior bankruptcy court order approving the Settlement Agreement—did not reserve exclusive bankruptcy court jurisdiction. By its terms, the Settlement Agreement required "court" approval, but it did not specify which court, or that more than one bankruptcy court was required to approve it. Similarly, the Settlement Agreement provides that it "may be enforced by the Court pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure § 664.6," but it does not specify which court.

California Code of Civil Procedure ("C.C.P.") § 664.6 provides:

If parties to pending litigation stipulate, in a writing signed by the parties outside the presence of the court or orally before the court, for settlement of the case, or part thereof, the court, upon motion, may enter judgment pursuant to the terms of the settlement. If requested by the parties, the court may retain jurisdiction over the parties to enforce the settlement until performance in full of the terms of the settlement.

(Emphasis added.)

Contrary to the Debtor's position, the language of C.C.P. § 664.6 regarding retention of jurisdiction is permissive, not mandatory. In Weddington Prods., Inc. v. Flick, 60 Cal. App. 4th 793, 809 (1998), the California Court of Appeal stated, "Section 664.6 was enacted to provide a summary procedure for specifically enforcing a settlement contract without the need for a new lawsuit." The Court of Appeal in Weddington did not comment on whether jurisdiction under C.C.P. § 664.6 was solely vested in the settlement court. The Debtor cites Elyaoudayan v. Hoffman, 104 Cal. App. 4th 1421 (2003) for the proposition that "it is for the settlement court to determine in the first instance whether the parties have entered into an enforceable settlement." However, Elyaoudayan does not support this proposition. Terry v. Conlan, 131 Cal. App. 4th 1445 (2005) is also inapposite. Although Terry addresses a trial court's review of motions to enter judgments based on a settlement agreement, the case did not specifically invoke C.C.P. § 664.6. In addition, the Court of Appeal in Terry stated that "[w]hen the same judge hears the settlement and the motion to enter judgment on the settlement, he or she may consult his memory." Id. at 1454. This statement presupposes the possibility that different judges may hear the settlement and the motion to enter judgment on the settlement. Nothing in Terry supports the proposition that the same judge must hear both the settlement agreement and the motion to enter judgment on the settlement, pursuant to C.C.P. § 664.6.

The Debtor argues that the State Court Action concerns the sale of the Property. However, the State Court Action does not appear to be a dispute arising from the Sale Order, but rather from the Settlement Agreement. The Corrected Award issued by the arbitrator does not attempt to undo the terms of Sale Order. Instead, the Corrected Award provides for monetary damages arising from the Debtor's breaches of agreements.

Further, as noted above, the State Court Action has a limited relationship to the Debtor's bankruptcy case. While the judgment and extent of damages may have an effect on future distribution to creditors, the State Court Action does not otherwise deal with any bankruptcy issues or impede the Debtor's administration of the estate. As there are no core bankruptcy matters at issue in this proceeding, severability of any bankruptcy issues from state law causes of action is also not an option.

Given the extensive prior litigation that took place outside of this Court, this Court's docket will be burdened by the removal. The arbitrator has fully adjudicated the State Court Action, and all that remains is entry of judgment by the state court. Additionally, the state court has significant experience with the California causes of action alleged in the Amended Petition.

Finally, the parties will not face any prejudice if the Court remands the State Court Action. At the time Creditor filed the Petition to Compel, he chose the state court as the appropriate forum. The Debtor also chose the state court as the appropriate forum to file her answer and cross-complaint. Remanding this proceeding will allow the state court to finish adjudicating the issues that were before it, and the state court will not need additional time to familiarize itself with those issues and the parties.

The record also suggests that the Debtor removed this action for the purpose of forum shopping. Contrary to the AAA Rules, the Debtor did not timely contest the jurisdiction of the arbitrator. The first time she contested jurisdiction was days before the arbitration trial. The Debtor subsequently contested jurisdiction in opposing the Petition to Confirm. As noted above, there does not appear to be a basis for contesting the arbitrator's or the state court's jurisdiction in the State Court Action. See Greenspan v. Ladit, LLC, 185 Cal. App. 4th 1413, 1446-47 (2010) (construing a JAMS rule similar to AAA rule regarding jurisdiction; "In other words, the arbitrator decides arbitrability issues at the outset, and his decision is final.").

Many of the Enron factors weigh in favor of remanding this proceeding to state court. Consequently, the Court will remand this proceeding.

III. CONCLUSION

In light of the foregoing, the Court will remand this proceeding to state court.

Creditor must submit an order within seven (7) days.

#15.00 Motion for default judgment under LBR 7055-1

Docket 14

Tentative Ruling:

I. BACKGROUND

On April 25, 2017, Grigor Chilingaryan ("Defendant") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On July 31, 2017, Merchants Acquisition Group, LLC ("Plaintiff") filed a motion for extension of time to file a complaint objecting to the Defendant's discharge (the "Motion to Extend") [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 20]. On September 6, 2017, the Court entered an order granting the Motion to Extend, extending the deadline for Plaintiff to file a complaint to November 13, 2017 [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 28].

On November 13, 2017, Plaintiff filed a complaint against Defendant (the "Complaint"), requesting nondischargeability of the debt owed to it pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2)(A) and (a)(2)(B). In relevant part, the Complaint stated:

Defendant opened a charge account (the "Account") with Daniel's Jewelers ("Jewelers") on March 2, 2017. In order to open the Account, Jewelers required Defendant to fill out and execute a combined credit application and account agreement. In the credit application portion, Defendant misrepresented that his monthly net income was $8,200.00. Defendant made this misrepresentation with the intention that Jewelers would rely on the fraudulent representation in its decision whether to grant the extension of credit and the amount of the credit extension. Jewelers actually, reasonably and justifiably relied on the misrepresentation of net monthly income.

On March 2, 2017, Defendant purchased four watches from Jewelers for the combined price of $3,675.75. Defendant made a $600 down payment and charged the remaining balance of $3,075.75 to the Account. Defendant impliedly represented his present intention to perform the repayment obligation incurred by the purchase. Jewelers actually, reasonably and justifiably relied on Defendant's representation of intention to perform the repayment obligation. Defendant actually lacked the intention to perform his repayment obligation. Defendant failed to make any payments after March 2, 2017.

Defendant obtained luxury goods by actual fraud, false pretenses and false representations with the specific intent to deprive Jewelers of its property. Defendant made a materially false statement regarding his monthly net income in writing with the specific and actual intent to deceive Jeweler.

The unpaid principal balance of the debt owed to Jewelers is $3,827.72, subject to proof of the exact amount at trial. Jewelers assigned the account and claims to Plaintiff. The debt owed to Plaintiff should be nondischargeable pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2)(A) and (a)(2)(B).

On January 2, 2018, Plaintiff served a summons (the "First Summons") on Defendant [doc. 3]. On January 2, 2018, Plaintiff requested that default be entered against Defendant [doc. 5]. On January 3, 2018, the Court did not enter default against Defendant because the summons had expired and had not included the declaration required under Local Bankruptcy Rule 7055-1(a) [doc. 6].

On January 7, 2018, Plaintiff filed a request that the clerk issue another summons (the "Second Summons") [doc. 7]. On January 12, 2018, Plaintiff served the second summons on Defendant [doc. 11]. On March 6, 2018, Plaintiff requested that default be entered against Defendant [doc. 12]. On March 7, 2018, the Court entered default against Defendant [doc. 16].

On March 6, 2018, Plaintiff filed the Motion [doc. 14]. Defendant has not timely filed a response to the Motion.

Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("FRCP") 55, incorporated by Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 7055, governs default judgments.

FRCP 55(b)(2) provides as follows:

(b) Judgment. Judgment by default may be entered as follows...

...(2) By the Court. In all other cases the party entitled to a judgment by default shall apply to the court therefor; but no judgment by default shall be entered against an infant or incompetent person unless represented in the action by a general guardian, committee, conservator, or other such representative who has appeared therein. If the party against whom judgment by default is sought has appeared in the action, the party (or, if appearing by representative, the party's representative) shall be served with written notice of the application for judgment at least 3 days prior to the hearing on such application. If, in order to enable the court to enter judgment or to carry it into effect, it is necessary to take an account or to determine the amount of damages or to establish the truth of any averment by evidence or to make an investigation of any other matter, the court may conduct such hearings or order such references as it deems necessary and proper and shall accord a right of trial by jury to the parties when and as required by any statute of the United States.

"The bankruptcy court has broad discretion to grant a default judgment; the plaintiff is not entitled to such judgment as a matter of right." In re McGee, 359 B.R. 764, 771 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2006).

"The factors to be considered for entry of a default judgment include: (1) the possibility of prejudice to the plaintiff, (2) the merits of the plaintiff's substantive claim, (3) the sufficiency of the complaint, (4) the sum of money at stake in the action, (5) the possibility of a dispute concerning material facts, (6) whether the default was due to excusable neglect, and (7) the strong policy underlying the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure favoring decisions on the merits." McGee, at 771.

A. Possibility of Prejudice to Plaintiff

Although Plaintiff served the Second Summons on Defendant, Defendant failed to respond to the pleadings. If Defendant receives a discharge, and default judgment is not entered in Plaintiff's favor, Plaintiff will not be able to recover. As such, a motion for default judgment appears to be Plaintiff's only avenue for relief. This factor favors entry of default judgment.

B. Merits of the Plaintiff's Substantive Claims

1. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A)

In accordance with § 523(a)(2)(A), a debt for property may be excepted from discharge when a debtor obtained the property by "false pretenses, a false representation or actual fraud, other than a statement respecting a debtor's or an insider's financial condition." To prevail on a § 523(a)(2)(A) claim, a plaintiff must prove by a preponderance of the evidence the following five elements:

- (1) misrepresentation, fraudulent omission or deceptive conduct by the debtor;
- (2) knowledge of the falsity or deceptiveness of his statement or conduct;
- (3) an intent to deceive;
- (4) justifiable reliance by the creditor on the debtor's statement or conduct; and
- (5) damage to the creditor proximately caused by its reliance on the debtor's statement or conduct

In re Weinberg, 410 B.R. 19, 35 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2009) (citing In re Slyman, 234 F.3d 1081, 1085 (9th Cir. 2000)).

Plaintiff points to two misrepresentations by Defendant: (A) Defendant using the Account to purchase the watches was an implied representation that Defendant intended to repay the debt when he did not; and (B) Defendant representing that his monthly net income was $8,200.00 when it was not.

As to the first misrepresentation, pursuant to the presumption in § 523(a)(2)(C), the Complaint and the declaration attached to the Motion sufficiently establish nondischargeability of the debt under § 523(a)(2)(A). Pursuant to § 523(a)(2)(C)—

- (i) For purposes of subparagraph (A)—
  - (I) consumer debts owed to a single creditor and aggregating more than $675 for luxury goods or services incurred by an individual debtor on or within 90 days before the order for relief under this title are presumed to be nondischargeable."
  - ...
  - (ii) for purposes of this subparagraph--
    - (I) the terms "consumer", "credit", and "open end credit plan" have the same meanings as in section 103 of the Truth in Lending Act; and
    - (II) the term "luxury goods or services" does not include goods or services reasonably necessary for the support or maintenance of the debtor or a dependent of the debtor.

The Complaint and the declaration attached to the Motion establish that Defendant purchased the watches for more than $675. Because they are not goods or services reasonably necessary for the support or maintenance of Defendant or a dependent of Defendant, the watches are luxury goods. See In re LaBovick, 355 B.R. 508, 515 (Bankr. W.D. Pa. 2006). Defendant purchased the watches on March 2, 2017, and Defendant filed his chapter 7 petition on April 25, 2017. Thus, Defendant purchased the watches within the requisite ninety day period. Defendant has not responded to rebut the presumption. Consequently, Plaintiff has established nondischargeability of the debt under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A).

2. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(B)

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(B), the plaintiff must prove, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the debtor incurred a debt by "use of a statement in writing:"

- (i) that is materially false;
- (ii) respecting the debtor's or an insider's financial condition;
- (iii) on which the creditor to whom the debtor is liable for such money, property, services, or credit reasonably relied; and
- (iv) that the debtor caused to be made or published with intent to deceive....

Here, the Complaint refers to one statement in writing: Defendant's monthly net income on the credit application. The Motion argues that Jewelers reasonably relied on Defendant's representation in making the loan. The Declaration attached to the motion was made by an officer of Plaintiff, who cannot properly testify as to reliance by the Jewelers. Consequently, Plaintiff has not established nondischargeability under § 523(a)(2)(B).

C. Sufficiency of the Complaint

"The second and third [Eitel] factors, taken together, require that [plaintiffs] assert a claim upon which [they] may recover." In re Sharma, 2013 WL 1987351, at *10 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. May 14, 2013), aff'd, 607 F. App'x 713 (9th Cir. 2015), citing IO Group, 708 F.Supp.2d 989, 997 (N.D. Cal. 2010). "For default judgment based solely on the complaint, without the benefit of a prove-up hearing, the facts in the complaint must go beyond being well-pled; they must support the ultimate determination of liability." Sharma, 2013 WL 1987351 at *10.

For the reasons stated above, the Complaint sufficiently states a claim against Defendant as to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A), but not as to § 523(a)(2)(B)

D. The Sum of Money at Stake in the Action

Under this factor, "the court must consider the amount of money at stake in relation to the seriousness of Defendant's conduct." PepsiCo, Inc. v. Cal. Security Cans, 238 F.Supp.2d 1172, 1176 (C.D. Cal. 2002).

In the Complaint, Plaintiff requests that the Court deem nondischargeable the amount of $3,827.72, subject to proof of the exact amount at trial. In the declaration attached to the Motion, the Plaintiff states that $4,181.69 was due on the Account as of the date the Motion was filed [doc. 15, Declaration of Bruce Jackman, ¶ 6].

E. Possibility of Dispute

"The fifth Eitel factor considers the possibility of dispute as to any material facts in the case." Elektra Entertainment Group, Inc., et al., 2004 WL 783123, *4 (C.D. Cal. Feb. 13, 2004). "The general rule of law is that upon default the factual allegations of the complaint, except those relating to the amount of damages, will be taken as true." Televideo Systems, Inc. v. Heidenthal, 826 F.2d 915, 917-918 (9th Cir. 1987) (quoting Geddes v. United Financial Group, 559 F.2d 557, 560 (9th Cir.1977)).

As discussed above, a presumption of discharge arises for credit extended for the purchase of luxury goods over $675 within 90 days of the petition pursuant to § 523(a)(2)(C). Defendant purchased the watches on credit from Jewelers on March 2, 2017. Jewelers extended $3,075.75 of credit to Defendant for the purchase of the watches. Defendant filed his chapter 7 petition on April 25, 2017, well within the 90-day period. There appears to be a low possibility of dispute as to the presumption of nondischargeability.

F. Possibility of Excusable Neglect

"Due process requires that all interested parties be given notice reasonably calculated to apprise them of the pendency of the action and be afforded an opportunity to present their objections before a final judgment is rendered." Elektra Entertainment Group, Inc., et al., 2004 WL 783123, *5 (C.D. Cal. Feb. 13, 2004) (citing Mullane v. Central Hanover Trust Co., 339 U.S. 306 (1950)).

Plaintiff served the Second Summons and the Complaint on Defendant at Defendant's address listed on his bankruptcy petition. Plaintiff also served the Motion on Defendant using that address. As such, the possibility of excusable neglect is low.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will grant the Motion as to Plaintiff's claim for relief under § 523(a)(2)(A). Plaintiff will be awarded a judgment in the amount of $4,181.69.

Pursuant to the provisions of Local Bankruptcy Rule 7055-1(b)(4), the Court may award attorney's fees when a promissory note, contract, or applicable statute provides a basis for the recovery of attorney's fees. Although the Complaint states that the underlying contract provides for attorney's fees, the copies of the contract provided with the Motion are illegible. If Plaintiff wishes to recover attorney's fees, Plaintiff must file an authenticating declaration and copy of the contract which clearly reflects an applicable contractual provision for Plaintiff's recovery of attorney's fees.

I. BACKGROUND

On February 13, 2015, Ernest Charles Barreca ("Defendant") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On May 15, 2015 Gerson and Gertrude Fox ("Plaintiffs") filed a complaint against Defendant, requesting nondischargeability of the debt owed to them pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(4) and (6) [doc. 1]. On July 27, 2015, Plaintiffs filed a first amended complaint, which added claims under 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2)(A) and (a)(2)(B) (the "FAC") [doc. 12].

On May 5, 2017, Defendant timely filed a motion for summary judgment (the "MSJ") [doc. 86]. On May 31, 2017, the parties filed an initial pretrial stipulation (the "IPS") [doc. 99]. On June 21, 2017, Plaintiffs filed an opposition to the MSJ [doc. 107]. On June 28, 2017, Defendant filed a reply to the opposition to the MSJ [doc. 117]. Defendant did not object to the use of any exhibits in the opposition to the MSJ pursuant to FRCP 26(a)(1) and 37(c). On July 12, 2017, the Court denied the MSJ [doc. 121].

On February 5, 2018, the parties filed a joint pretrial stipulation (the "JPS") [doc. 145]. The parties attached their respective exhibit and witness lists to the JPS. On February 8, 2018, Defendant filed the motion to exclude evidence (the "Motion"), outlining objections to each of Plaintiffs' JPS exhibits largely on the grounds of relevance, lack of foundation, and failure to provide FRCP 26 disclosures [doc. 155].

On March 23, 2018, at the prior hearing on the Motion, the Court issued a tentative ruling (the "Prior Tentative Ruling") stating, in relevant part:

Plaintiffs have demonstrated that they sufficiently identified Exhibits 2, 5, 29, 31, 32, 43, 53-55, 61, 65, 69, 83 through the ISP or the opposition to the MSJ. Plaintiffs assert that they also sufficiently identified Exhibits 1, 3-4, 6-28, 30, 33-42, 44-52, 58-60, 62-64, 66-68, 70, 73-81 and 84-87 (the "Additional Exhibits"). (EN2)

The Court will continue this hearing to April 4, 2018 at 2:30 p.m. No later than March 30, 2018, Plaintiffs must submit a supplemental declaration evidencing that, in or before June 2017, they identified or provided the Additional Exhibits to Defendant in connection with this proceeding. No later than April 3, 2018, Defendant must file any response to the supplemental declaration...

In addition, Plaintiffs must pay Defendant's attorney's fees incurred in preparing the Motion. No later than March 30, 2018, Defendant must submit evidence of the attorney's fees which he incurred to do so.

[doc. 174, pp. 27-28].

On March 27, 2018, Defendant filed a declaration by his attorney, Jeff Katofsky, in support of attorney's fees (the "Katofsky Fee Declaration") [doc. 171], stating that his customary legal rate is $775.00 per hour, and requesting total billable fees of $17,842.50. The Katofsky Fee Declaration attached an invoice detailing the requested fees. Defendant also filed a declaration by associate counsel Michael Leff in support of the fee request, stating that his customary legal rate is $475.00 per hour [doc. 172].

On March 30, 2018, Plaintiffs filed a declaration by their attorney, Brian Nachimson (the "Nachimson Declaration") [doc. 173]. Therein, Mr. Nachimson presented the following explanations regarding Plaintiff's provision or identification of the Additional Exhibits:

3, 4, 22-23, 27, 41, 84, 86-87	Plaintiffs did not identify or provide these documents to Defendant, but these documents are contained within a document Nachimson refers to as the "Stern Database," which Defendant intends to use as evidence.
21	Plaintiffs did not previously disclose this exhibit due to a typographical error. Plaintiffs wrote an incorrect date on the exhibit in the IPS, but their intent was to include it in the IPS.
6, 46, 58-60, 62-64, 66, 70, 73-79, 81, 85	Plaintiffs did not identify or provide these documents to Defendant.

On April 3, 2018, Defendant filed a declaration by his attorney, Jeff Katofsky, in response to the Nachimson Declaration (the "Katofsky Declaration") [doc. 175]. Therein, Mr. Katofsky argues that the exhibits included in the IPS should be excluded at trial because they were identified post-discovery and the failure to identify them during discovery was not substantially justified or harmless. Mr. Katofsky also argues that while the Prior Tentative Ruling noted that Exhibits 1, 2, 58, 59 and 70 could be authenticated by Mr. Fox, Mr. Fox cannot testify and these exhibits should be excluded on those grounds.

The Prior Tentative Ruling stated that the Court would allow exhibits that Plaintiffs could establish they identified or provided to Defendant in or before June 2017. Plaintiffs have submitted declaratory evidence that they identified Exhibits 1, 7-17, 19-20, 24-26, 30, 33-40, 44-45, 47-52, 67 and 80 in the IPS on May 31, 2017. In addition, Plaintiffs have submitted evidence that they provided Exhibits 18, 30 and 44-55 in the opposition to the MSJ and the request for judicial notice in support of the opposition to the MSJ, each of which were filed on June 21, 2017. Plaintiffs have also submitted satisfactory evidence that they provided Exhibits 28 and 42 to Defendant at his deposition in April 2017. Plaintiffs will be allowed to use the foregoing exhibits at trial.

Mr. Katofsky argues that the exhibits identified in the IPS should be inadmissible because they were not supported by arguments that the failure to produce them was substantially justified in the Nachimson declaration. However, the Prior Tentative Ruling directed Plaintiff to submit a declaration evidencing that they identified or provided the Additional Exhibits to Defendant in connection with this proceeding in or before June 2017, and did not invite further arguments regarding justification. The Court has already ruled that Plaintiffs' failure to provide documents prior to the close of discovery was not substantially justified or harmless, and elected to impose lesser sanctions [doc. 174, p. 27].

B. Exhibits Not Sufficiently Identified or Provided

Plaintiffs state that they did not identify or provide Exhibits 6, 46, 58-60, 62-64, 66, 70, 73-79, 81 and 85. Although Plaintiffs intended to identify Exhibit 21 in the IPS, they did not do so. Because Plaintiffs did not identify or provide these documents to Defendants, the Court will not allow Plaintiffs to use them at trial.

Plaintiffs also state that although they did not provide Exhibits 3, 4, 22-23, 27, 41, 84 and 86-87 (the "Stern Exhibits"), these exhibits are contained in a database compiled by an independent forensic accountant, Adrian Stern, in the bankruptcy case of Michael Joel Kamen (the "Stern Database") [Nachimson Declaration, ¶¶ 3-5, 7]. The Stern Database includes over 100,000 pages [Katofsky Declaration, ¶ 3]. Defendant has offered the "Notice by the Official Committee including the Report of Adrian Stern" as one of his exhibits [doc. 135, p. 87, lines 13-14], which appears to contain only 112 pages, and not the entire Stern Database [Nachimson Declaration, Exh. 1].

Chapter 7

As the Court explained in the Prior Tentative Ruling, Defendant's knowledge of the existence of documents does not relieve Plaintiffs of their FRCP 26 obligations [doc. 174, p. 24]. The fact that the Stern Exhibits were contained in an extensive database of documents supporting the Report of Adrian Stern is not adequate to make Defendant sufficiently aware of Plaintiff's intended use of such documents in this adversary proceeding. The Court will not allow Plaintiffs to use the Stern Exhibits at trial.

C. Exhibits Which Could be Authenticated by Mr. Fox

The Katofsky Declaration argues that Exhibits 1, 2, 58, 59 and 70 should be excluded because Mr. Fox will not be able to authenticate them at trial. Plaintiffs assert that Exhibits 1, 2, 58 and 59 can be authenticated by Mr. Fox, but not Exhibit 70 [doc. 174, p. 12]. In addition, this argument ignores the statement in the Prior Tentative Ruling that excluding those exhibits for lack of foundation is premature at this time because there may be other witnesses who can authenticate them. The Court will not alter its prior ruling with regard to Defendant's foundation objections.

D. Attorney's Fees

Defendants bear the burden of proving that the fees sought are reasonable. In re Atwood, 293 B.R. 227, 233 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2003). The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals customarily assesses the reasonableness of attorney's fees utilizing the "lodestar" approach where the number of hours reasonably expended is multiplied by a reasonable hourly rate. In re Eliapo, 468 F.3d 592, 598 (9th Cir. 2006). "A district court should exclude from the lodestar amount hours that are not reasonably expended because they are 'excessive, redundant, or otherwise unnecessary.'" Van Gerwen v. Guarantee Mut. Life Co., 214 F.3d 1041, 1045 (9th Cir. 2000) (quoting Hensley v. Eckerhart, 461 U.S. 424, 434, 103 S.Ct. 1933, 1939-40, 76 L.Ed.2d 40 (1983)). "

Defendant's attorneys request a total of $17,842.50 in fees. The invoice attached to the Katofsky Fee Declaration includes 22.3 hours to prepare the Motion (3.5 hours by Mr. Katofsky, and 18.8 hours by Mr. Leff). At Mr. Leff's rate of $450 per hour, 18.8 hours to draft the Motion yields $8,460 in fees.

The Motion does not bear these fees. A vast majority of the Motion constitutes a series of "cut and paste" objections to Plaintiffs' exhibits. None of the objections appear to have been extensively researched or briefed, and some appear to have been applied indiscriminately. For example Defendant objected to almost every single exhibit on the grounds of relevance, lack of foundation and failure to provide Rule 26 disclosure, with almost identical language in each objection. Mr. Katofsky's time in reviewing the Motion appears reasonable, but the 18.8 hours purportedly spent by Mr. Leff in drafting the Motion appears to exceed the reasonable amount of time required for a motion that presents largely repetitive arguments. Consequently, the Court assesses that a more appropriate time expense for such a motion is 14 hours, for a total of $6,300 in fees.

According to the invoice, Mr. Katofsky expended a total of 11.5 hours on the Motion (including attending hearings and drafting an opposition to Plaintiffs' supplemental brief) at a rate of $775 per hour, for total fees of $8,912.50. This hourly rate is unreasonably high. While Mr. Katofsky may be compensated for fees incurred, the lodestar approach allows only reasonable fees and expenses. Reducing Mr. Katofsky's rate to a more common rate of $500 yields a total of $5,750.

III. CONCLUSION

Based on the foregoing, the Court will allow Plaintiffs to present Exhibits 1, 7-17, 19-20, 24-26, 30, 33-40, 44-45, 47-52, 67 and 80 at trial, in addition to the exhibits the Court allowed in the Prior Tentative Ruling. The Court will not allow Plaintiffs to present Exhibits 3, 4, 6, 21-23, 27, 41, 46, 58-60, 62-64, 66, 70, 73-79, 81 and 84-87.

The Court will allow attorney's fees in this matter of $5,750 for Mr. Katofsky and $6,300 for Mr. Leff, for a total award of $12,050, to be paid within 21 days after entry of the order.

The Court will prepare the order.

Docket 12

Tentative Ruling:

As the Court noted in its tentative ruling on February 14, 2018, contrary to Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 7016-1(b)(2)(D), the defendant's list of exhibits in the proposed joint pretrial order [doc. 145] are inadequately labeled. At the hearing, the defendant stated that the vast majority of his exhibits are emails, but the exhibits are not properly labeled as such and do not describe any of the content or parties to the emails. Are the plaintiffs satisfied with the way the defendant's exhibits are identified?

In addition, on February 14, 2018, the Court noted that the parties had not included the information required by LBR 7016-1(b)(2)(F), (G), (H) and (I). Although the Court is now satisfied regarding LBR 7016-1(b)(2)(F), (G) and (H), the parties have not yet addressed the length of the trial, as required by LBR 7016-1(b)(2)(I).

The Court has bifurcated this proceeding and the first phase of trial will only concern nondischargeability and not damages. The parties should address the impact of the bifurcation on their witness and exhibit lists.

Mr. Katofsky stated in a declaration that at the prior status conference, Mr. Nachimson agreed to advise him by March 20, 2018 as to which of the five disputed witnesses (Kevin Golshan, Jack Garrett, David Frank, Mohammed Islam and Peter Meherian) plaintiffs intend to call at trial, but Mr. Nachimson has not yet provided that information [doc. 175, p. 4]. Has Mr. Nachimson done so yet?

Chapter 7

On January 5, 2018, the Court set trial in this case for the week of May 29, 2018 [doc. 143, p. 2]. The Court has currently reserved four days for the trial. The parties must finalize their witness schedule and, based on that schedule, apprise the Court of the new projected length of the trial.

For the pretrial conference on July 12, 2017, the Court set forth a pretrial briefing and witness testimony schedule. The Court intends to adhere to that schedule, as follows:

TRIAL BRIEFS:

The plaintiffs' trial brief must be filed and served 28 days before trial (i.e., May 1, 2018).

The defendant's trial brief must be filed and served 21 days before trial.

Any reply brief by the plaintiffs must be filed and served 14 days before trial.

WITNESS TESTIMONY:

The Court will take all direct testimony by declaration, with the exception of hostile witnesses To the extent that any hostile witness is being questioned by an adverse party, the Court will take direct testimony from these witnesses live at trial. To the extent that a witness is not testifying at the request of an adverse party, the direct testimony of that witness must be set forth in a timely filed and served declaration.

Witnesses may be cross-examined live at trial.

The declarations of the plaintiffs' witnesses, in lieu of direct testimony, must be filed and served 28 days before trial (i.e., May 1, 2018).

The declarations of the defendant's witnesses, in lieu of direct testimony, and any evidentiary objections to the declarations filed by the plaintiffs must be filed and served 21 days before trial.

Any evidentiary objections to the declarations filed by the defendant must be filed and served 14 days before trial.

Docket 300

Tentative Ruling:

David K. Gottlieb, chapter 7 trustee – approve fees of $56,317.76 and reimbursement of expenses of $44.45, on an interim basis. The approved fees are based on § 326(a) statutory fees, calculated using interim disbursements in the amount of $962,739.99 and disbursements to professionals in the amount of $139,518.69.

Lewis Brisbois Bisgaard & Smith LLP ("Lewis Brisbois"), for services rendered as general counsel to David K. Gottlieb as chapter 11 trustee – approve fees of $30,585.00 and reimbursement of expenses of $629.13, on an interim basis. The Court has not awarded $66.00 in fees for the reasons stated below.

Lewis Brisbois, for services rendered as general counsel to David K. Gottlieb as chapter 7 trustee – approve fees of $87,948.50 and reimbursement of expenses of $1,012.61, on an interim basis. The Court has not awarded $907.00 in fees for the reasons stated below.

Berkeley Research Group, LLC ("BRG"), accountant to chapter 7 trustee – approve fees of $17,231.28 and reimbursement of expenses of $109.95, on an interim basis. The Court has not awarded $889.50 in fees for the reasons stated below.

11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(1)(A) provides that a court may award to a professional person employed under § 327 "reasonable compensation for actual, necessary services" rendered by the professional person. "In determining the amount of reasonable compensation to be awarded to the professional person, the court shall consider the nature, the extent and the value of such services, taking into account all relevant factors, including—(A) the time spent on such services; (B) the rates charged for such services; (C) whether the services were necessary to the administration of, or beneficial at the time at which the service was rendered toward the completion of, a case under this title; [and] (D) whether the services were performed within a reasonable amount of time commensurate with the complexity, importance, and nature of the problem, issue, or task addressed . . .". 11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(3). Except in circumstances not relevant to this chapter 7 case, "the court shall not allow compensation for—(i) unnecessary duplication of services; or (ii) services that were not—(I) reasonably likely to benefit the debtor’s estate; or (II) necessary to the administration of the case." 11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(4)(A).

11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(2) provides that the court may, on its own motion, award compensation that is less than the amount of the compensation that is requested.

11 U.S.C. § 328(b) provides that an attorney may not receive compensation for the performance of any trustee’s duties that are generally performed by a trustee without the assistance of an attorney. In re Garcia, 335 B.R. 717, 725 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2005) (holding that bankruptcy court did not abuse its discretion in refusing to compensate chapter 7 trustee’s counsel for services rendered in connection with the sale of property of the estate and for preparing routine employment applications).

Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 2016-2(e)(2) provides a "nonexclusive list of services that the court deems ‘trustee services.’" This list includes, among other activities: conduct 11 U.S.C. § 341(a) examination; routine investigation regarding location and status of assets; turnover or inspection of documents; recruit and contract appraisers, brokers, and professionals; routine collection of accounts receivable; routine documentation of notice of abandonment; prepare motions to abandon or destroy books and records; routine claims review and objection; monitor litigation; answer routine creditor correspondence and phone calls; review and comment on professional fee applications; and additional routine work necessary for administration of the estate.

In Garcia, the Ninth Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel ("BAP") upheld the bankruptcy court’s refusal to approve fees for preparation of employment applications, observing that “absent a showing by applicant to the contrary, routine employment applications remain a trustee duty.” Garcia, 335 B.R. at 726. With respect to its holding, the BAP explained “a case trustee may only employ professionals for tasks that require special expertise beyond that expected of an ordinary trustee.” Id. at 727.

Docket 145

Tentative Ruling:

I. BACKGROUND

On October 11, 2017, Mehri Akhlaghpour ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. On February 1, 2018, the Court issued an order directing the appointment of a chapter 11 trustee [doc. 101]. On February 6, 2018 Nancy J. Zamora was appointed the chapter 11 trustee (the "Trustee") [doc. 107].

On her schedule A/B, Debtor listed an ownership interest in a number of real properties. Among them were properties located at 26943 Hillsborough Pkwy, Unit 27, Santa Clarita, California 91354 (the "Hillsborough Property") and 8338 Woodley Pl., Unit 28, North Hills, CA 91343 (the "Woodley Property") (the Woodley Property and the Hillsborough Property together, the "Properties") [doc. 11, p. 7-8]. The Debtor did not list either of the Properties as exempt in her schedule C [doc. 11, p. 16].

On February 7, 2018, the Trustee filed an application to employ Rodeo Realty, Inc (the "Broker") as a real estate broker [doc. 110]. On February 26, 2018, the Trustee filed a declaration that no party requested a hearing on the motion.

On March 6, 2018, the Trustee filed a motion to sell the Hillsborough Property free and clear of liens, subject to overbid, and to assume and assign the unexpired lease on the Hillsborough Property (the "Hillsborough Motion") [doc. 145]. Also on March 6, 2018, the Trustee filed a motion to sell the Woodley Property free and clear of liens subject to overbid (the "Woodley Motion") (the Hillsborough Motion and the Woodley Motion together, the "Sale Motions") [doc. 146]

On March 22, 2018, creditor Seterus, Inc. as the authorized servicer for Federal National Mortgage Association ("Seterus"), filed a limited opposition to the Woodley Motion, consenting to the sale only insofar as the proceeds are enough to pay its lien in full (the "Limited Opposition") [doc. 154]. The Limited Opposition states that Seterus consents to the sale on the condition that in the event the sale proceeds are not enough to pay it in full, Seterus must provide written consent to the terms of the sale [doc. 154, p. 2].

Also on March 22, 2018, Debtor filed an omnibus opposition to the Sale Motions (the "Opposition") [doc. 159]. The Opposition attached two real estate appraisals. One appraisal estimates the market value of the Woodley Property at $335,000-345,000 (the "Woodley Appraisal") [doc. 159-1, p.5]. The other appraisal estimates the market value of the Hillsborough Property at $345,000-359,000 (the "Hillsborough Appraisal") [doc. 159-1, p. 34]. On March 29, 2018, the Trustee filed a reply to the Opposition (the "Reply") [doc. 162].

On March 22, 2018, the Trustee filed a third motion to sell Debtor's property located at 5454 Zelzah Avenue, #302, Encino, California, 91316 (the "Zelzah Property") [doc. 155].

II. DISCUSSION

A. General Sale Standard

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 363(b)(1), the "trustee, after notice and a hearing, may use, sell, or lease, other than in the ordinary course of business, property of the estate" subject to an exception that does not apply here. A trustee has broad authority to negotiate sales of estate property under 11 U.S.C. § 363(b)(1); see also In re Canyon Partnership, 55 B.R. 520, 524 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1985). In reviewing motions to sell property under § 363(b), a court must determine whether sound business reasons support the sale outside the ordinary course of business. In re Walter, 83 B.R. 14, 19 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1988).

B. Good Business Reason Justifying Sale

Debtor objects to the sales of the Properties on the grounds that the Sale Motions propose to sell substantially all of the estate assets and are not supported by a good business justification. Debtor references In re Lionel Corp., 722 F.2d 1063 (2nd Cir. 1983). In Lionel, the Second Circuit Court of Appeals outlined six factors for determining whether a good business reason exists justifying a sale of substantially all of the assets of the debtor.

The Trustee correctly asserts that Lionel is distinguishable because the chapter 11 trustee in Lionel sought authority to sell substantially all of the estate's assets. Here, the Sale Motions do not contemplate the sale of all or substantially all of the estate's property, because the estate owns four other properties not subject to the Sale Motions. In addition, the estate owns a 100% interest in eight business entities [doc. 11, pp. 11-12]. Even accounting for the Trustee's additional motion to sell the Zelzah Property, the Sale Motions will not result in the sale of substantially all of the estate property.

In addition, in Lionel the chapter 11 trustee did not give any business justification for the sale, other than the appeasement of the committee of largest creditors. Id. at 1071. Here, the Trustee has articulated a number of reasons for the sales, including that continued operation of the Properties as rental properties is not tenable, and that the prices are fair and reasonable.

Debtor also objects to the sales on the grounds that: (1) the sales are premature because the Properties are not wasting assets; (2) there is no justifiable cause for selling the Properties because the real estate market in the Los Angeles area is improving; and (3) the sale prices are inadequate.

Here, the sale motions are not premature. Debtor filed her chapter 11 petition nearly six months ago. Given that the marketing of the Properties generated multiple interested buyers, it appears that the sale prices reflect the market, and that the Properties have been marketed for enough time to generate competitive interest [doc. 162, pp. 6-7]. Furthermore, although the Properties are not "wasting assets," the inconsistent lease agreements Debtor has provided to the Trustee (and the lack of rent actually paid on the Woodley Property) do not support the contention that the Properties' income outweighs the expense of retaining them [doc. 162, Decl. of Nancy Zamora, ¶¶ 6-7].

C. The Trustee's Business Judgment

As outlined by the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel of the Ninth Circuit (the "BAP"):

The court's obligation in § 363(b) sales is to assure that optimal value is realized by the estate under the circumstances. The requirement of a notice and hearing operates to provide both a means of objecting and a method for attracting interest by potential purchasers. Ordinarily, the position of the trustee is afforded deference, particularly where business judgment is entailed in the analysis or where there is no objection. Nevertheless, particularly in the face of opposition by creditors, the requirement of court approval means that the responsibility ultimately is the court's.

In re Lahijani, 325 B.R. 282, 288–89 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2005).

Debtor calls into question the Trustee's business judgment, stating that the Trustee lacks the "requisite business judgment in real estate" to consider, analyze and accept offers on the Properties. Contrary to Debtor's evaluation, the Trustee has been a chapter 7 trustee since 1998 and also has been a chapter 11 trustee in cases involving real estate. In those capacities, the Trustee has operated rental properties and sold over one hundred properties [doc. 162, Decl. of Nancy Zamora, ¶ 2]. Based on the Trustee's record of experience, she may properly be afforded the business judgment deference.

D. Sufficient Marketing and Reasonableness of Price

Debtor argues that the Properties have not been sufficiently marketed, because the prices contemplated in the Sale Motions are below market value. In support of this contention, Debtor points to the Woodley Appraisal and Hillsborough Appraisal (together, the "Appraisals") attached to the Opposition.

The Trustee is correct that the Appraisals are not persuasive evidence that the purchase prices are too low. First, each of the Appraisals is based on exterior inspections of the Properties, rather than thorough internal inspections [doc. 159, Exh. 1 and 2]. In addition, the Woodley Appraisal contains comparable sales in the same condominium complex as the Woodley Property which are lower than the sale price in the Woodley Motion [doc. 159-1, Exh. 1, p. 12]. Similarly, the Hillsborough Appraisal contains comparable sales in the same condominium complex as the Hillsborough Property which are lower than the sale price in the Hillsborough Motion [doc. 159-1, Exh. 2, pp. 41-42].

In addition, as explained in the Reply, the Broker has engaged in marketing efforts for the Properties, including listing the real property on the multiple listing service and on various internet sites that offer listing services. The Broker also conducted showings and appointments at the Properties and received three offers on the Hillsborough Property and 14 offers on the Woodley Property. As of the date of the Reply, the Broker continued to market the Properties to generate overbids. These efforts and offers not only establish that the real property has been thoroughly marketed, but also that the sale prices reflect the Properties' market values [doc. 162, pp. 6-7].

E. Sub-Rosa Plan

Debtor argues that the sale of the Properties, along with the sale of the Zelzah Property, would constitute an impermissible "sub-rosa" plan. Debtor further indicates that she believes that the Trustee must first establish that a plan is infeasible before liquidating assets.

In Lionel, the Second Circuit Court of Appeals considered a proposed pre-confirmation sale, noting that such a sale would be appropriate if there was an "articulated business justification" for it. Lionel, 722 F.2d at 1070.

Furthermore, the proposed sales do not take the place of a plan. After paying the allowed claims of creditors secured by the Properties, the Trustee is not proposing to distribute net proceeds to other creditors at this time [doc. 152, p. 16]. See In re Air Beds, Inc. 92 B.R. 419 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1988). Consequently, the contemplated sales of the Properties do not constitute an impermissible "sub-rosa" plan.

F. Due Process Considerations

Debtor argues that the Sale Motions should not be approved because § 363 sales are an inappropriate violation of the due process rights of Debtor and creditors to the estate. However, Debtor and the estate's creditors have been served with notice of the sale, and have had an opportunity to object. Furthermore, the Trustee has demonstrated that the sale of the Properties will generate funds with which she can make distributions to creditors. Finally, pursuant to the overbid procedures built into the sale terms, Debtor and any other interested party has the opportunity to bid on the Properties. Consequently, Debtor has not demonstrated that any party in interest's due process rights have been violated.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will grant the Sale Motions, subject to the Limited Opposition.

The Trustee should submit the orders within seven (7) days.

I. BACKGROUND

A. *The Debtor's Bankruptcy Cases

Before filing the pending chapter 13 case, Parminder Singh (the "Debtor") filed five other bankruptcy cases. On September 2, 2011, the Debtor filed a chapter 13 petition, initiating case no. 1:11-bk-20602-MT (the "First Case"). On November 15, 2011, the First Case was dismissed for failure to make plan payments.

On November 9, 2011, the Debtor filed a chapter 13 petition, initiating case no. 2:11-bk-56556-NB (the "Second Case"). On December 27, 2011, the Second Case was dismissed at the Debtor's request.

On September 28, 2016, the Debtor filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition, initiating case no. 1:16-bk-12831-MT (the "Third Case"). A foreclosure sale of the Debtor's residence located at 15425 Sherman Way, Unit 354, Van Nuys, California 91406 (the "Property") had been scheduled for September 29, 2016. (Doc. 36, Exh. A.) On October 17, 2016, the Third Bankruptcy Case was dismissed for failure to file schedules, statements, and/or a plan.

On January 31, 2017, the Debtor filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition, initiating case no. 1:17-bk-10261-VK (the "Fourth Case"). A sheriff's sale of the Property had been scheduled for February 1, 2017. (Doc. 36, Exh. B.) On May 15, 2017, the Debtor received a chapter 7 discharge in the Fourth Case.

On August 30, 2017, the Debtor filed a chapter 13 petition, initiating case no. 1:17-bk-12305-MB (the "Fifth Case"). A foreclosure sale of the Property had been scheduled for August 31, 2017. (Doc. 36, Exh. C.) On September 18, 2017, the Fifth Case was dismissed for failure to file schedules, statements, and/or a plan.

On November 8, 2017, the Debtor filed a chapter 13 petition, initiating case no. 1:17-bk-12988-VK (the "Pending Case"). A foreclosure sale of the Property had been scheduled for November 9, 2017. (Doc. 36, Exh. D.) The Debtor acknowledges that because he received a discharge in the Fourth Case, he is not entitled to a discharge in the Pending Case. (Declaration of Parminder Singh, doc. 32, ¶ 6.)

B. The First Lien Avoidance Motion

In the Fourth Case, the Debtor listed the Property in his Schedule A/B. In his Schedule C, Debtor claimed a $1 exemption in the Property pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure § 703.140(b)(5). In his Schedule D, the Debtor listed the following encumbrances against the Property: (A) a consensual lien in favor of Bank of America in the amount of $221,943.28; (B) a consensual lien in favor of the Los Angeles Housing Department in the amount of $117,285; and (C) a lien in favor of 15425 Sherman Way Homeowners Association ("Creditor") in the amount of $27,065.72. (Case no. 1:17-bk-10261-VK, doc. 1.)

On February 21, 2017, the Debtor filed a motion pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 522(f) to avoid Creditor's lien (the "First Lien Avoidance Motion") [case no. 1:17-bk-10261-VK, doc. 14]. As evidence of Creditor's lien, the Debtor attached an abstract of judgment recorded on August 12, 2016, as instrument no. 20160957321 and a notice of delinquent assessment recorded on September 19, 2016, as instrument no. 20161134363 (the "2016 Lien"). (Case no. 1:17-bk-10261-VK, doc. 14, Exhs. 9, 10.)

On May 26, 2017, the Court entered an order denying the First Lien Avoidance Motion [case no. 1:17-bk-10261-VK, doc. 30]. In its ruling, the Court found that the 2016 Lien arose by operation of California Civil Code § 5650 et seq., and that the 2016 Lien may not be avoided under 11 U.S.C. § 522(f) because it is not a judicial lien. (Case no. 1:17-bk-10261-VK, doc. 33, at p. 7.)

C. The Debtor's Pending Case

In the Pending Case, the Debtor again listed the Property on his Schedule A/B. In his Schedule D, the Debtor listed the following encumbrances against the Property: (A) a consensual lien in favor of Bank of America in the amount of $215,705.50 (the "BofA Lien"); and (B) a consensual lien in favor of the Los Angeles Housing Department in the amount of $117,285 (the "LAHD Lien"). The Debtor did not list Creditor as holding a secured lien against the Property. Instead, in his Schedule E/F, the Debtor listed Creditor as holding a nonpriority unsecured claim in the amount of $305. (Doc. 1, at pp. 25-26, 29.)

On December 13, 2017, the Debtor filed an amended chapter 13 plan (the "Plan") [doc. 22]. On February 1, 2018, the Plan was confirmed [doc. 28]. The Plan is a 100% plan. In accordance with the Plan, in addition to the payments specified to class 2 and class 4 secured creditors, the Debtor "will make regular payments, including preconfirmation payments, directly" to Creditor. (Doc. 22, at p. 7.) The Plan does not discuss the stripping of the Creditor's lien.

On February 2, 2018, before the deadline to do so, Creditor filed proof of claim no. 2, asserting a secured claim in the amount of $10,102.02, arising from a notice of delinquent assessment recorded on September 19, 2016 against the Property, as instrument no. 20161134363. (Doc. 32, Exh. 9.) The proof of claim appears to be based on the 2016 Lien, which the Debtor unsuccessfully tried to avoid in the Fourth Case.

Attached to Creditor's proof of claim is an account history, with a start date of May 2, 2016 (the "Account History"), which shows the running balance of Creditor's claim. The Account History references several payments on August 4, 2017 which brought the claim balance down from $37,323.82 to $7,340.20. Subsequently, shortly before the filing of the Pending Case, the claim balance increased to $10,102.02.

D. The Second Motion to Avoid Lien

On March 8, 2018, the Debtor filed the pending motion to avoid lien (the "Second Motion to Avoid Lien") [doc. 32]. In support of the Second Motion to Avoid Lien, the Debtor submitted an appraisal valuing the Property at $260,000. (Doc. 32, Exh. 3.) The Debtor provided evidence that the BofA Lien was recorded on April 18, 2007 as instrument no. 20070927116, and has a balance of $214,696.94.

The Debtor also provided evidence that the LAHD Lien was recorded on April 18, 2007 as instrument no. 20070927117, and has a balance of $117,285.00. The deed of trust evidencing the LAHD Lien contains a provision that states, "Borrower shall pay all taxes, assessments, charges, fines and impositions attributable to the Property, which may attain priority over this Security Instrument." (Doc. 32, Exh. 6, p. 4 (emphasis added).)

The Debtor seeks to avoid in full the 2016 Lien, which the Debtor alleges is the third priority lien encumbering the Property. (Doc. 32, Exh. 9.) The Debtor contends that because the 2016 Lien is wholly unsecured, it can be avoided pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 506(d).

In his declaration, the Debtor states that he scheduled Creditor's claim in the amount of $305 as unsecured, because he was "under the impression that [Creditor] had released all of its liens against [his] property and, as a result of [his] 2017 Chapter 7 discharge, was only owed for post-Chapter 7 unpaid fees and dues accrued." (Declaration of Parminder Singh, doc. 32, ¶ 19.)

II. DISCUSSION

A. Effect of Chapter 7 Discharge

Except as provided in 11 U.S.C. § 523, a chapter 7 discharge discharges an individual debtor:

from all debts that arose before the date of the order for relief under this chapter, and any liability on a claim that is determined under section 502 of this title as if such claim had arisen before the commencement of the case, whether or not a proof of claim based on any such debt or liability is filed under section 501 of this title, and whether or not a claim based on any such debt or liability is allowed under section 502 of this title.

11 U.S.C. § 727(b).

In accordance with 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(16), a discharge under section 727 does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt:

for a fee or assessment that becomes due and payable after the order for relief to a membership association with respect to the debtor's interest in a unit that has condominium ownership, in a share of a cooperative corporation, or a lot in a homeowners association, for as long as the debtor or the trustee has a legal, equitable, or possessory ownership interest in such unit, such corporation, or such lot, but nothing in this paragraph shall except from discharge the debt of a debtor for a membership association fee or assessment for a period arising before entry of the order for relief in a pending or subsequent bankruptcy case [.]

In the Second Motion to Avoid Lien, the Debtor states that he scheduled Creditor's claim in the amount of $305 as an unsecured claim because he believed that the Creditor had released all of its liens against the Property. Pursuant to § 523(a)(16), irrespective of the 2016 Lien, because the Debtor still has an interest in the Property, and received a discharge in the Fourth Case, fees and assessments charged by Creditor after the filing of the Fourth Case, i.e., after January 31, 2017, are nondischargeable.

B. Priority of the 2016 Lien

Pursuant to California Civil Code ("C.C.") § 5675:

(a) The amount of the assessment, plus any costs of collection, late charges, and interest assessed in accordance with subdivision (b) of Section 5650, shall be a lien on the owner's separate interest in the common interest development from and after the time the association causes to be recorded with the county recorder of the county in which the separate interest is located, a notice of delinquent assessment, which shall state the amount of the assessment and other sums imposed in accordance with subdivision (b) of Section 5650, a legal description of the owner's separate interest in the common interest development against which the assessment and other sums are levied, and the name of the record owner of the separate interest in the common interest development against which the lien is imposed.

(b) The itemized statement of the charges owed by the owner described in subdivision (b) of Section 5660 shall be recorded together with the notice of delinquent assessment.

(c) In order for the lien to be enforced by nonjudicial foreclosure as provided in Sections 5700 to 5710, inclusive, the notice of delinquent assessment shall state the name and address of the trustee authorized by the association to enforce the lien by sale.

(d) The notice of delinquent assessment shall be signed by the person designated in the declaration or by the association for that purpose, or if no one is designated, by the president of the association.

(e) A copy of the recorded notice of delinquent assessment shall be mailed by certified mail to every person whose name is shown as an owner of the separate interest in the association's records, and the notice shall be mailed no later than 10 calendar days after recordation.

C.C. § 5680 provides that "[a] lien created pursuant to Section 5675 shall be prior to all other liens recorded subsequent to the notice of delinquent assessment, except that the declaration may provide for the subordination thereof to any other liens and encumbrances." "Although section 1367 [predecessor statute to C.C. § 5680] does not mention conveyances filed before the assessment lien, there is no reason to believe the Legislature intended to deviate from the system of first in time, first in right." Thaler v. Household Fin. Corp., 80 Cal. App. 4th 1093, 1100 (2000), as modified May 18, 2000 (finding that an homeowner association's assessment lien, recorded after a second priority deed of trust was recorded, was a third priority lien).

Creditor argues that the terms of the LAHD DOT provide for a subordination of LAHD Lien to the 2016 Lien. However, the LAHD DOT provides that "Borrower shall pay all taxes, assessments, charges, fines and impositions attributable to the Property, which may attain priority over this Security Instrument." (Emphasis added.) This appears to be a permissive provision that does not mandate that such taxes, assessments, charges, fines and impositions attributable to the Property will have superpriority over the LAHD Lien.

On the contrary, C.C. § 5680 provides that a homeowner association assessment lien will have priority over all subsequent liens, but that the lien declaration may provide for the subordination of the HOA lien to other liens. As the Thaler court noted, this statute does not address liens recorded before a homeowner association's assessment lien. Absent further authority or evidence, the Court cannot at this time determine that the 2016 Lien in favor of Creditor has priority over the previously recorded LAHD Lien.

C. Lien Stripping Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 506(d) in Chapter 13 Cases

Creditor is correct that Dewsnup v. Timm, 502 U.S. 410, 418, 112 S.Ct. 773, 778, 116 L.Ed.2d 903 (1992) and Bank of Am., N.A. v. Caulkett, ___ U.S. ___, 135 S. Ct. 1995, 192 L.Ed.2d 52 (2015) prohibit lien stripping in chapter 7 cases pursuant to § 506(d). However, the Debtor's case is a chapter 13 case. A chapter 13 plan may "modify the rights of holders of secured claims, other than a claim secured only by a security interest in real property that is the debtor's principal residence[.] 11 U.S.C. § 1322(b) (2). Although § 1322(b)(2) prohibits stripping of liens secured only by a debtor's principal residence, Ninth Circuit authority allows a chapter 13 debtor to strip from a primary residence any junior liens that are wholly unsecured. Zimmer v. PSB Lending Corp. (In re Zimmer), 313 F.3d 1220, 1225 (9th Cir. 2002) ("Without a secured claim, a creditor's rights may be modified.").

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1327(a), "[t]he provisions of a confirmed plan bind the debtor and each creditor, whether or not the claim of such creditor is provided for by the plan, and whether or not such creditor has objected to, has accepted, or has rejected the plan." "[O]nce a plan is confirmed, the plan binds the debtor and its creditors . . . so long as the debtor remains current under the plan." In re Lemma, 394 B.R. 315, 324 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 2008); In re Hileman, 451 B.R. 522, 524–25 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2011) (quoting Lemma).

Although confirmed plans are res judicata to issues therein, the confirmed plan has no preclusive effect on issues that . . . were not sufficiently evidenced in a plan to provide adequate notice to the creditor. In other words, if Chapter 13 plan provisions do not adequately identify a secured creditor's modified claims, to hold that the plan modified the claim "would be to allow lien stripping by ambush."

Enewally v. Wash. Mut. Bank (In re Enewally), 368 F.3d 1165, 1173 (9th Cir. 2004).

On February 1, 2018, the Plan was confirmed. The Plan is a 100% plan and provides that the Debtor "will make regular payments, including any preconfirmation payments, directly" to Creditor. Because the terms of the confirmed Plan are binding upon the Debtor, and there is no provision in the Plan regarding the stripping of the 2016 Lien, the 2016 Lien may not be stripped at this time. Even if the 2016 Lien were stripped, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(16), the Debtor still would be liable to Creditor for all fees and assessments that have accrued since January 31, 2017.

III. CONCLUSION

In light of the foregoing, the Court will deny the Second Motion to Avoid Lien.

Creditor must submit an order within seven (7) days.

1:13-15351 Juan Venegas

Chapter 13

#74.00 Debtor's motion to be released from escrow and request for detailed accounting of payments

Docket 71

Tentative Ruling:

Deny without prejudice.

On August 14, 2013, Juan Venegas (the "Debtor") filed a chapter 13 petition. On November 19, 2013, the Debtor's plan (the "Plan") was confirmed [doc. 30]. Under the Plan, the Debtor was to pay $786 per month for months 1 and 2, and then $1,186 per month for the remaining months.

On March 13, 2018, the chapter 13 trustee filed a periodic accounting report in the Debtor's case (the "Report") [doc. 70]. The Report indicates that the most recent payments were received from the Debtor on February 13, 2018, in the amounts of $1,000 and $186. The Report also indicates that the remaining principal balance owed under the Plan is $6,138.17.

On March 20, 2018, the Debtor filed the pending motion [doc. 71]. The motion is not accompanied by a declaration signed under penalty of perjury as to the facts stated. The Debtor states that he paid the chapter 13 trustee $62,058.00. The Debtor further states that on March 8, 2018, he made his final payment of $5,606.51. The Debtor requests that he be "released from escrow." The Debtor also requests a detailed accounting of payments made. He states that in 2015, he overpaid $10,000. He paid over $30,000 in one month but the amount due was $17,000 plus $2,900 "to pay for the lawyer of CitiMortgage." The Debtor requests reimbursement of his overpaid money.

The Debtor has not provided any evidence to contradict the Report, which indicates that the Debtor has not yet completed his payments under the Plan. The Debtor also has not indicated under what authority he seeks an accounting and turnover. It is also unclear if he seeks an accounting and turnover from CitiMortgage or from the chapter 13 trustee. Accordingly, the Court will deny the motion without prejudice.

#75.00 Motion for order discharging debtors pursuant to the hardship discharge provisions of 11 USC 1328

fr. 3/13/18

Docket 82

Tentative Ruling:

On March 13, 2018, the Court continued the hearing on this motion for the debtors to present further evidence of the good faith required for a motion to modify their plan, including: (1) their amended Schedules I and J showing their current budget; (2) an explanation of the way in which they will pay their outstanding income tax liabilities; and (3) proof of their ability to obtain the proposed loan for the full amount of their aggregate remaining plan payments, as calculated by the chapter 13 trustee (the "Trustee").

On March 13, 2018, the Trustee filed a periodic accounting report for the claims in this case (the "Status Report") [doc. 92]. That report shows a $0 balance for priority tax debts owed to the IRS, and a total balance remaining of $22,937.90.

On March 23, 2017, the debtors filed a supplemental response to the Trustee's objection to their motion (the "Supplemental Response") [doc. 93]. In his declaration attached to the Supplemental Response, Mr. Pinsker states that the debtors have tendered $22,800 to the Trustee and that the debtors made an extra electronic payment of $279 since the prior hearing [doc. 93, Decl. Mark Pinsker, ¶ 7]. The motion states that the amounts tendered to the Trustee are enough to cover the remaining plan payments to pay creditors 18% of their claims, as well as the outstanding tax liability for tax year 2014, which the Trustee has been paying from the debtors' chapter 13 plan payments.

The Supplemental Response attaches an account summary of the debtors' account with the Trustee, which appears to be current as of March 20, 2018 (the "Account Summary") [doc. 93, Exh. 1]. The Account Summary reflects that the debtors tendered the $22,800 payment by cashier's check on March 14, 2018. The alleged additional payment of $279 is not apparent from the account summary.

The Supplemental Response also attaches a current budget, in the form of schedules I and J [doc. 93, Exh. 3]. The attached schedule I asserts that the debtors' current monthly income is $5,850. The attached schedule J indicates that the debtors' average monthly expenses are $9,066. Based on these amounts, the debtors assert that their monthly net income is ($3,124). Consequently, the debtors' evidence of their average income and expenses adequately demonstrates the current inability to make plan payments going forward.

The Trustee should be prepared to address any outstanding objections to the motion, and whether the amounts which the debtors have tendered as of the hearing are adequate to cover the remaining payments under the debtors' chapter plan. If the Trustee has no objections, the Court will grant the motion.

Movants must submit the order within seven (7) days.

Pursuant to the Court's prior ruling, the debtors timely filed a supplemental declaration [doc. 112]. In light of the evidence submitted, the Court will grant in part and deny in part the motion. Jose P. Ginez and Corazon S. Ginez ("Respondents") must turn over funds in the amount of $8,065.55 to the debtors no later than 35 days after entry of the order. In addition, Respondents must pay the debtors' attorney fees in the amount of $6,320.84 no later than 35 days after entry of the order.

I. BACKGROUND

Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. ("Wells Fargo") is the beneficiary of the first deed of trust encumbering 23842 Erin Place, Canoga Park, California 91304 (the "Property"), recorded on September 2, 2005 (the "First Trust Deed"). Jose P. Ginez and Corazon S. Ginez (together, "Respondents") are the original borrowers under the corresponding note and the trustors under the First Trust Deed. (Doc. 60, Exh. D.)

Wells Fargo is the beneficiary of the second deed of trust encumbering the Property, recorded on March 28, 2006 (the "Second Trust Deed"). Respondents are the original borrowers under the corresponding note and the trustors under the Second Trust Deed. (Doc. 60, Exh. C.)

On December 31, 2009, Romulo Gramata Bernardino and Ladinila Aspiras Bernardino (the "Debtors") purchased the Property from Respondents, pursuant to an "All-Inclusive Deed of Trust and Assignment of Rents" (the "Third Trust Deed"). Respondents are the beneficiaries and the Debtors are the trustors of the Third Trust Deed. On January 6, 2010, the Third Trust Deed was recorded. (Doc. 60, Exh. F.)

On March 24, 2014, the Debtors filed a chapter 13 petition. On December 17, 2014, the Court confirmed the Debtor's chapter 13 plan (the "Plan") [doc. 35]. The Plan provides for direct payment by the Debtors to Wells Fargo for arrearages owing on the First and Second Trust Deeds. Respondents were served with notice of the hearing on confirmation of the Plan.

On September 21, 2015, Ms. Ginez contacted the Debtor's bankruptcy attorney stating that she was a creditor of the estate and inquired as to how she would get paid through the bankruptcy. (Declaration of Kevin T. Simon ("Simon Decl."), ¶ 6.) On September 24, 2015, the Debtors filed a motion to avoid the Third Trust Deed (the "Lam Motion") [doc. 60]. On November 13, 2015, the Court entered an order approving the Lam Motion (the "Lam Order") [doc. 69]. The Lam Order provided that "no payments are to be made on the secured claim of the junior lienholder," and that the "claim of the junior lienholder is to be treated as an unsecured claim and is to be paid through the plan pro rata with all other unsecured claims." (Doc. 69, at p. 2.)

Because the Debtors purchased the Property with the Third Trust Deed, Respondents' name and address are on all loan documentation and statements from the First Trust Deed and the Second Trust Deed. (Simon Decl., ¶ 8.) The Debtors fell behind on the payment for the First Trust Deed, but continued to remit funds to Wells Fargo. After the Debtors defaulted on the First Trust Deed, Wells Fargo returned the mortgage payments to Respondents rather than the Debtors. (Id., ¶ 9.)

On February 16, 2016, Wells Fargo issued a statement reflecting unapplied funds and a payment reversal of $7,065.55, as well as unapplied funds of $2,000.00. (Simon Decl., Exh. B.) On February 26, 2016, Wells Fargo mailed Respondents a letter with a check enclosed for $1,000.00 advising Respondents the funds were returned because it was an insufficient amount to reinstate the loan. (Simon Decl., Exh. D.) On March 1, 2016, Respondents cashed the $1,000.00 check from Wells Fargo. (Simon Decl., Exh. E.)

II. RELEVANT LAW

A. Property of the Estate

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 541(a)(1),

The commencement of a case under section 301, 302, or 303 of this title creates an estate. Such estate is comprised of all the following property, wherever located and by whomever held:

- (1) Except as provided in subsections (b) and (c)(2) of this section, all legal or equitable interests of the debtor in property as of the commencement of the case.

In addition, for chapter 13 debtors, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1306(a):

Property of the estate includes, in addition to the property specified in section 541 of this title—

- (1) all property of the kind specified in such section that the debtor acquires after the commencement of the case but before the case is closed, dismissed, or converted to a case under chapter 7, 11, or 12 of this title, whichever occurs first; and
- (2) earnings from services performed by the debtor after the commencement of the case but before the case is closed, dismissed, or converted to a case under chapter 7, 11, or 12 of this title, whichever occurs first.

III. DISCUSSION

A. Turnover of Estate Property

Under § 541(a)(1) and § 1306(a)(2), the funds at issue are identifiable bankruptcy estate property and subject to turnover. In addition, the amount of the funds received by Respondents is not of inconsequential value to the estate. Respondents possessed and controlled estate property that the Debtors may use, sell, or lease during the pendency of the bankruptcy case.

In addition, Respondents had actual knowledge of the Debtors' bankruptcy case. On September 21, 2015, Ms. Ginez contacted the Debtors' attorney to inquire "how she should go about getting paid through the bankruptcy." Respondents also received actual notice of the Debtors' bankruptcy case because they were served notice of the Plan confirmation hearing, the Lam Motion and the Lam Order. As such, the turnover requirements under § 542 apply to Respondents.

The Plan was confirmed on December 17, 2014 and provided that the Debtors would pay Wells Fargo through the Plan to cure arrearages on the First Trust Deed and Second Trust Deed. Pursuant to § 1327, the provisions of the confirmed Plan bind each creditor, including Respondents. As such, pursuant to the confirmed Plan, Respondents were not entitled to retain the monies paid by the Debtors to Wells Fargo pursuant to the Plan.

Furthermore, pursuant to the Lam Order, no monies were to be paid to Respondents after the Third Trust Deed was avoided. Respondents' claim was to be paid through the Plan pro rata with all other unsecured claims. Thus, Respondents were not entitled to any of the monies returned by Wells Fargo.

The Motion seeks turnover of funds totaling $10,065.55. However, the evidence attached to the Motion shows that Respondents cashed checks totaling $8,065.55. Although there is a bank statement showing $2,000 in unapplied funds, it is unclear whether Wells Fargo ever sent those funds to Respondents. Consequently, if Debtors seek turnover of this additional $2,000, the Debtors must submit evidence showing that Respondents obtained possession of the other $2,000.

B. Violation of the Automatic Stay

Here, Respondents violated the automatic stay by exercising control over property of the estate. It appears from the "IOU" note that Respondents were under the impression they could retain the money and credit it towards the debt owed to them. However, by retaining the checks and subsequently cashing them, Respondents exercised control over estate property in violation of § 362(a)(3). See In re Lyle, 324 B.R. 128; In re Carlsen, 63 B.R. 706, 711 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1986) (finding that the IRS violated both the automatic stay and the turnover requirements when it failed to return a check to the County after learning of the debtor's bankruptcy).

The violation of the automatic stay was willful because Respondents had actual knowledge of the Debtors' bankruptcy case at the time they retained the funds. "[T]he failure to return property of the estate with knowledge of the bankruptcy is a violation of both the automatic stay and of the turnover requirements of the Bankruptcy Code." Abrams v. Sw. Leasing and Rental Inc. (In re Abrams), 127 B.R. 239, 241-43 (9th

B.A.P. Mar. 3, 2015) (continuing retention of property of the bankruptcy estate violated the automatic stay). To preserve the "status quo" of the bankruptcy, Respondents would have had to return the funds to the Debtors or to Wells Fargo in order to relieve their violation. Respondents did not do so.

Accordingly, the Court will grant the Debtor's request for damages pursuant to § 362 (k)(1). The Debtors do not include a breakdown of damages incurred as a result of the willful violation of the stay. The Debtors must supplement the Motion with an statement of actual damages, fees, and costs incurred.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, it does not appear that Respondents' conduct warrants punitive damages. The Court will deny the Debtors' request for punitive damages.

IV. CONCLUSION

In light of the foregoing, the Court will grant in part and deny in part the Motion. No later than March 27, 2018, the Debtors must file a supplemental declaration with (i) evidence that Respondents possessed monies in excess of $8,065.55, and (ii) evidence regarding actual damages, fees, and costs incurred while litigating this matter.

The Debtors must submit the order within seven (7) days.

#79.00 Debtor's motion for order compelling turnover of property of the estate (business personal property)

stip filed 3/26/18

Docket 20

Tentative Ruling:

Deny, for the reasons set forth below.

I. BACKGROUND

On February 21, 2018, at approximately 12:45 p.m., Ziv Kanon ("Debtor") filed a chapter 13 petition. In his schedule A/B, Debtor stated that he operates a sole proprietorship repair and resale business specializing in heavy equipment such as forklifts called HD World Equipment [doc. 10, p. 16].

On March 20, 2018, Debtor filed his motion for an order compelling turnover of property of the estate (the "Motion") [doc. 20]. In the Motion, Debtor explains that he operated his business on premises owned by Mark and Doris Wurzel and the Wurzel Family Trust ("Wurzel"). Wurzel previously obtained an unlawful detainer judgment against Debtor, which was stayed multiple times pursuant to stipulations between Debtor and Wurtzel [doc. 20, Exh 1, 2, 4].

Debtor states that pursuant to a stipulation to continue the stay of the unlawful detainer judgment (the "October Stipulation") [doc. 20, Exh. 4], Debtor made payments to continue occupying the property through February 15, 2018. The October Stipulation stated that "anything left behind after moveout [sic] will belong to [Wurzel] and may be disposed of without notice." On October 5, 2017, the Superior Court of California, County of Los Angeles approved the October Stipulation and entered it as a judgment [doc. 20, Exh 4].

Debtor asserts that he was in discussions with Wurzel to extend his move-out date as of February 15, 2018. When the move-out date passed, Wurzel had Debtor evicted by the sheriff on February 21, 2018 at 8:30 a.m. [doc. 29, Wurzel Decl., ¶ 11] (doc. 29, Exh. 12, which is the sheriff's report of eviction, states that the lockout occurred on February 20, 2018, Wurzel states that the eviction actually occurred on February 21). Debtor alleges that his construction equipment (the "Equipment") was on Wurzel's property at the time of the lockout.

On April 2, 2018, Wurzel filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 29]. In the Opposition, Wurzel asserts that Debtor forfeited his interest in the Equipment (if any) under the terms of the October Stipulation because he did not remove it before the lockout.

In addition, Wurzel asserts that Debtor has taken inconsistent positions with respect to the Equipment [doc. 29, Wurzel Decl., ¶ 7]. On May 9, 2017, in an email to Mark Wurzel from the HD World Equipment email address, Dorit Kanon (Debtor's non-filing spouse) stated that "there are more than 20 different individual, financial institutes [sic] and other owners" who have an interest in the "personal property" on Wurzel's lot [doc. 29, Exh. 8]. In addition, on May 9, 2017, in a facsimile communication to Wurzel's state court counsel, Debtor's state court counsel stated: "there are a lot [sic] of machines on the property that may be owned by other companies" [doc. 29, Wurzel Decl. ¶ 7; Exh. 9].

II. DISCUSSION

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 541—

- (a) The commencement of a case under section 301, 302, or 303 of this title creates an estate. Such estate is comprised of all the following property, wherever located and by whomever held:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 542—

control, during the case, of property that the trustee may use, sell, or lease under section 363 of this title, or that the debtor may exempt under 522 of this title, shall deliver to the trustee, and account for, such property or the value of such property, unless such property is of inconsequential value or benefit to the estate.

"A turnover proceeding is 'not intended as a remedy to determine the disputed rights of parties to property; rather it is intended as the remedy to obtain what is acknowledged to be property of the bankruptcy estate.'" In re Century City Doctors Hosp., LLC, 466 B.R. 1, 19 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) (quoting Lauria v. Titan Sec. Ltd., 243 B.R. 705, 708 (Bankr. N.D. Ill. 2000). See also In re Gurga, 176 B.R. 196, 199 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1994) (citations omitted) ("turnover proceedings involve return of undisputed funds"). "In order to maintain a motion for turnover, the burden of proof is upon the party seeking the turnover." In re Bloom, 91 B.R. 445, 446 (Bankr. N.D. Ohio 1988).

1. Requirement of an Adversary Proceeding

As an initial matter, pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 7001 (1), a proceeding to recover money or property must be filed as an adversary proceeding. See Matter of Perkins, 902 F.2d 1254, 1258 (7th Cir. 1990) ("a turnover action is an adversary proceeding which must be commenced by a properly filed and served complaint"). Consequently, the Motion is procedurally improper.

2. Disputed Right to Property

Even if the procedural roadblock to turnover was not present, the Motion would nevertheless be inappropriate. Turnover motions involve the return of undisputed property. Gurga, 176 B.R. at 199. Here, the parties dispute the ownership of the Equipment at the time Debtor filed the petition, and it is not evident that Debtor currently has an interest in the Equipment.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will deny the Motion.

Docket 4

Tentative Ruling:

Grant relief from the automatic stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 362(d)(1), (d)(2) and (d)(4), and annulment of the automatic stay pursuant to § 362(d)(1).

Movant (and any successors or assigns) may proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to obtain possession of the property.

The order is binding and effective in any bankruptcy case commenced by or against the debtor for a period of 180 days, so that no further automatic stay shall arise in that case as to the property.

Grant movant's request to annul the automatic stay. "Many courts have focused on two factors in determining whether cause exists to grant [retroactive] relief from the stay: (1) whether the creditor was aware of the bankruptcy petition; and (2) whether the debtor engaged in unreasonable or inequitable conduct, or prejudice would result to the creditor." In re Nat'l Environmental Waste Corp., 129 F.3d 1052, 1055 (9th Cir. 1997). "[T]his court, similar to others, balances the equities in order to determine whether retroactive annulment is justified." Id.

Here, movant was unaware of the debtor's bankruptcy petition before March 19, 2018, and the debtor acted unreasonably in a way that has prejudiced movant. Regarding movant's awareness, movant submitted a declaration attesting to the following facts:

On June 15, 2017, after a trustee's sale, movant acquired an ownership interest in the real property located a 53 Stagecoach Road, Bell Canyon, CA 91307 (the "Property"). (Unlawful Detainer Declaration,

On July 9, 2017, movant served a Notice to Quit on the debtor and his co-occupants (the “Notice to Quit”). The Notice to Quit states that the Property was sold at foreclosure and that movant intended to evict any occupants. (Id., ¶ 7b., Exh. B.)

On October 11, 2017, movant filed an unlawful detainer complaint in state court against the debtor and his co-occupants. (Id., Exh. C.) On February 16, 2018 and without movant’s knowledge, the debtor removed the unlawful detainer action (the “UD Action”) to the district court of the Central District of California.

On February 20, 2018, the state court entered an unlawful detainer judgment against the debtor and his co-occupants (the “February 20 Judgment”). (Id., Exh. D.) On March 2, 2018, the district court remanded the UD Action. (Id., Exh. E.) On March 19, 2018, without knowledge of the debtor’s bankruptcy filing, the state court entered an order vacating the February 20 Judgment and entering a subsequent order and judgment (the “March 19 Judgment”). (Id., Exh. F.)

With respect to the debtor’s conduct, in his petition the debtor listed movant’s counsel as a creditor in his mailing list, but did not list movant. The debtor has not yet filed schedules in his pending case. On January 7, 2018, the debtor filed a prior chapter 13 case, case no. 1:18-bk-10044-MB (the “Prior Case”). On January 17, 2018, movant filed in the Prior Case a motion for relief from the automatic stay as to the Property (the “Prior RFS Motion”) [case no. 1:18-bk-10044-MB, doc. 8]. On February 8, 2018, the bankruptcy court in the Prior Case entered an order granting the Prior RFS Motion (the “Prior RFS Order”) [case no. 1:18-bk-10044-MB, doc. 13]. On March 30, 2018, the Prior Case was dismissed because the debtor did not file schedules, statements, or a plan [case no. 1:18-bk-10044-MB, doc. 19].

On March 28, 2018, the debtor filed an opposition to the pending motion [doc. 10]. In the opposition, the debtor alleges that he has been employed intermittently for the last 6 months. He intends to obtain employment to pay his debts through a chapter 13 plan. The debtor states that on March 18, 2018 at 10:26 p.m., his counsel faxed notice of the debtor's bankruptcy to movant's counsel. (Doc. 10, Exh. A.)

Based on the foregoing, and notwithstanding the debtor's opposition, it appears that the Prior Case and the debtor's fax to movant one day before entry of the March 19 Judgment were part of an effort to hinder movant's eviction proceedings. For these reasons, the Court finds that annulment of the automatic stay is warranted.

In addition, the Court finds that relief from the automatic stay is warranted pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(4). 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(4) provides:

On request of a party in interest and after notice and a hearing, the court shall grant relief from the stay provided under subsection (a) of this section, such as by terminating, annulling, modifying, or conditioning such stay—

(4) with respect to a stay of an act against real property under subsection (a), by a creditor whose claim is secured by an interest in such real property, if the court finds that the filing of the petition was part of a scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors that involved either—

(A) transfer of all or part ownership of, or other interest in, such real property without the consent of the secured creditor or court approval; or

(B) multiple bankruptcy filings affecting such real property.

If recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in real property, an order entered under paragraph (4) shall be binding in any other case under this title purporting to affect such real property filed not later than 2 years after the date of the entry of such order by the court, except that a debtor in a subsequent case under this title may move for relief from such order based upon changed circumstances or for good cause shown, after notice and a hearing. notices of interests or liens in real property shall accept any certified copy of an order described in this subsection for indexing and recording."

Based on the facts noted above, the Court concludes that the debtor's filing of the petition in this chapter 13 case was part of a scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors. The filing and subsequent dismissal of the Prior Case, the entry of the Prior RFS Order, and the removal and subsequent remand of the UD Action justify the provision of in rem relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(4).

The 14-day stay prescribed by FRBP 4001(a)(3) is waived.

Any other request for relief is denied.

Movant must submit the order within seven (7) days.

Docket 6

Tentative Ruling:

Grant motion on an interim basis and continue hearing to June 7, 2018 at 9:30 a.m.

Under 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3), in order to extend the automatic stay in a case filed within one year of another case which was pending within the same year but was dismissed, the debtor must show that the present case was filed in good faith as to the creditors to be stayed. Under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3)(C)(i)(III), a case is presumptively filed not in good faith if there has not been a substantial change in the financial or personal affairs of the debtor since the dismissal of the next most previous case, or any other reason to conclude that the later case will be concluded with a chapter 7 discharge, or a confirmed chapter 11 or 13 plan that will be fully performed.

On January 18, 2018, the debtor filed a prior chapter 13 petition [case no. 1:18-bk-10095-VK]. In her prior schedules, the debtor disclosed monthly income in the amount of $5,289.50 and monthly expenses in the amount of $5,009.00, leaving net monthly income of $280.50. (Case no. 1:18-bk-10095-VK, doc. 15, at p. 27.) In her prior plan, the debtor's proposed plan payment was $280.50 for 6 months, then $377.73 per month for 54 months. (Case no. 1:18-bk-10095-VK, doc. 23, at p. 3.)

In her pending case, the debtor's Chapter 13 Calculation of Your Disposable Income (Official Form 122C-2) states that her disposable income is $0. (Doc. 22, at p. 7.) In her chapter 13 plan, the debtor proposes a monthly payment of $280.50 for 2 months, then $842.51 for 58 months. (Doc. 5, at p. 2.) In her declaration, the debtor alleges that she paid Cedar Green Services ("Cedar Green") to assist her with saving her real property. The debtor states that Cedar Green took her money without contacting her lender. The debtor hopes to rent out her real property to generate income to pay her secured lender.

Notwithstanding these assertions and the lack of an opposition to her motion, the debtor has not provided at this time clear and convincing evidence that her financial affairs have improved since her prior case, such that the pending chapter 13 case will result in a confirmed plan that will be fully performed. The debtor has provided no evidence that she has sufficient net monthly income to fund a chapter 13 plan. She has provided no evidence she will be able to generate sufficient income by renting her property.

In light of the foregoing, the Court will grant the motion on an interim basis up to the date of the continued hearing. No later than May 10, 2018, the debtor must file and serve notice of the continued hearing on all secured creditors. The debtor must (i) timely tender her postpetition deed of trust payments to Mr. Cooper in the amount of $2,105 (as stated in her Chapter 13 Calculation of Your Disposable Income (Official Form 122C-2)) as to the real property located at 6111 Greenbriar Drive, Fayetteville, PA 17222; (ii) timely tender her chapter 13 plan payments in the amount of $280.50 to the chapter 13 trustee; and (iii) file a declaration supported by admissible evidence that renting the property will generate sufficient income to fund a chapter 13 plan. No later than May 24, 2018, the debtor must file a declaration to demonstrate that she made her postpetition deed of trust and chapter 13 plan payments.

The Court will prepare the order.

Tentative Ruling:

On February 21, 2018, this Court issued a ruling granting in part and denying in part the plaintiff's motion for summary judgment [doc. 47]. What is the status of the order regarding that motion?

In its status report [doc. 50], the plaintiff indicated that it wishes to proceed with trial regarding its § 727 claims, in advance of trying its other claims. In light of the status report, the Court will continue this status conference for the parties to file a joint pretrial stipulation regarding the plaintiff's § 727 claims, in accordance with Local Bankruptcy Rule 7016-1 ("LBR"), as follows:

Deadline to complete and submit pretrial stipulation: May 7, 2018.

This status conference will be continued as a pretrial conference to May 17, 2018 at 1:30 p.m.

The plaintiff has stated that it has had difficulties communicating with the defendants and that the defendants were unresponsive to its attempts to meet and confer [doc. 12]. Pursuant to LBR 7016-1(c), it is the plaintiff's duty to prepare and sign a proposed pretrial stipulation that is complete in all respects except for the other party's list of exhibits and witnesses. The plaintiff must serve the proposed pretrial stipulation in such a way that it will actually be received by the defendants no later than 4:00 p.m. on the 7th day prior to the last day for filing the proposed pretrial stipulation.

Within three (3) days of receipt of the plaintiff's proposed pretrial stipulation, if the defendants find it satisfactory, they must attach their list of exhibits and witnesses to the pretrial stipulation, indicate approval of the proposed pretrial stipulation by signature and file it by the deadline set forth above. Alternatively, in the event that the defendants find the plaintiff's proposed pretrial stipulation unsatisfactory, the defendants must immediately contact the plaintiff in a good faith effort to achieve a joint proposed pretrial stipulation.

If the plaintiff does not receive a timely response from the defendants, it must file and serve a proposed pretrial stipulation by the deadline referenced above, along with a declaration asserting the failure of the defendants to respond.

In accordance with LBR 7016-1(a)(4), within seven (7) days after this status conference, the plaintiff must submit a Scheduling Order.

#17.00 Plaintiff UL LLC's motion for summary judgment or, in the alternative, partial summary judgment against debtor Donnabelle EscarezMortel

Docket 14

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, for the reasons set forth below.

I. BACKGROUND

A. The District Court Litigation

1. Trademark Infringement

UL LLC ("Plaintiff") is a certification company which tests, inspects and certifies products and develops safety standards. Plaintiff's Request for Judicial Notice ("RJN"), Exhibit 1, ¶¶ 13-15. Plaintiff owns a certification mark which Plaintiff allows its authorized customers to use on their products to indicate that they have been tested and certified as safe by Plaintiff. Id.

On November 2, 2016, Plaintiff filed a complaint (the "District Court Complaint") against The Space Chariot, Inc. ("Space Chariot"), Kevin Walker ("Walker") and Donnabelle Escarez Mortel ("Debtor") (Space Chariot, Walker and Debtor collectively, the "Defendants") in the United States District Court for the Central District of California entitled UL LLC v. The Space Chariot, Inc., et al., Case No. 2:16-CV-01872-CAS (AFMX) (the "District Court Action"). RJN, Exhibit 1; Plaintiff's Statement of Uncontroverted Facts ("SUF"), ¶ 1.[EN1] The complaint in the District Court Action alleged that the Defendants willfully and deliberately infringed on Plaintiff's trademark and counterfeited its certification mark. RJN, Exhibit 1.[EN2] The complaint explained that Defendants were in the business of selling two-wheeled scooters called hoverboards, and had used Plaintiff's mark to certify that their products were safe before any safety standard for self-balancing scooters existed. RJN, Exhibit 1, ¶ 39.[EN3] Debtor appeared in the District Court Action and was represented by counsel. SUF ¶ 2; see, e.g. RJN, Exhibit 2 and 4.

On February 22, 2017, Plaintiff moved for partial summary judgment regarding its claims for federal trademark infringement pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 1114 and counterfeit of registered mark pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 1114. SUF ¶ 3; RJN, Exhibit 3. Debtor opposed the motion. SUF ¶ 4; RJN, Exhibit 4. On April 19, 2017, Walker and Debtor filed a notice in the District Court Action that they had petitioned for bankruptcy. RJN, Exhibit 6, p. 2. On April 20, 2017, the District Court issued a ruling granting Plaintiff's summary judgment motion on both claims only as against Space Chariot because the action was stayed as to Walker and Debtor, but discussing the actions of all Defendants (the "Trademark Ruling"). SUF, ¶ 5; RJN, Exhibit 5.

On June 20, 2017, Plaintiff filed a notice that the bankruptcy court lifted the stay in the District Court Action. On July 7, 2017, the District Court issued a ruling incorporating the Trademark Ruling as against Debtor and Walker, stating that the findings and conclusions therein "applied equally to Walker and [Debtor]." RJN, Exhibit 6, p. 3. In the order entering judgment against Walker and Debtor (the "Judgment"), the District Court stated that Walker and Debtor engaged in "willful, deliberate and unjustifiable counterfeiting of Plaintiff's trademarks." SUF, ¶ 6, RJN, Exhibit 7, p. 2. The District Court entered judgment for Plaintiff against Defendants for $1,000,000 in statutory damages, plus prejudgment interest and costs. RJN, Exhibit 6 and 7. Walker and Debtor are "jointly and severally liable for damages" to Plaintiff. RJN, Exhibit 6.

2. Contempt

On November 17, 2016, the District Court issued a temporary restraining order (the "TRO") ordering Defendants to: (1) cease all counterfeiting and shut down Space Chariot's website; (2) not disburse any company or personal assets; and (3) freeze all assets except reasonable living and business expenses [doc. 14, p. 8]. On December 9, 2016, the parties stipulated to a preliminary injunction (the "Preliminary Injunction") which required Debtor to: (1) not disperse any business or personal assets; (2) provide an accounting of all assets over $5,000, (3) provide monthly accountings of personal and business expenses; (4) freeze all assets; and (5) produce bank statements [doc. 14, p. 8].

On March 7, 2017, Plaintiff moved the District Court for an order of civil contempt and sanctions against Defendants. SUF ¶ 7; RJN, Exhibit 8. That motion alleged that Defendants had violated the TRO and the Preliminary Injunction by dispersing assets, withdrawing funds in excess of their allowance and failing to provide the agreed upon records and accounting, among other things. RJN, Exhibit 8. On March 20, 2017, Defendants filed an opposition to the motion for civil contempt and sanctions. SUF, ¶ 8; RJN, Exhibit 9.

On April 10, 2017, the District Court issued a ruling holding Defendants in contempt and awarded Plaintiff sanctions for its costs and attorney's fees incurred in issuing subpoenas to third party banks to obtain the records the Defendants had been ordered to turn over, for investigating the disbursement of Defendants' assets and for prosecuting the motion for civil contempt (the "Contempt Ruling"). SUF, ¶ 9; RJN, Exhibit 10. The District Court ordered that Defendants were jointly and severally liable for a $21,784.34 sanction (the "Sanctions Order"). RJN, Exhibit 11.

B. The District Court's Findings in the Trademark Ruling

The Trademark Ruling stated, in relevant part:

To prevail on a claim for trademark infringement under the Lanham Act, a plaintiff must prove (1) ownership of a valid trademark; (2) use of the mark without its consent; and (3) such use is likely to cause confusion....Counterfeiting is a more specialized case of trademark infringement because a counterfeit "is a spurious mark which is identical with, or substantially indistinguishable from, a registered mark." 15 U.S.C. § 1127; see also 4 McCarthy on Trademarks and Unfair Competition § 25:10 (4th ed.) ("[C]ounterfeiting is 'hard core' or 'first degree' trademark infringement and is the most blatant and egregious form of 'passing off.' As Judge Scheindlin put it, counterfeiting is an aggravated form of trademark infringement "that seeks to trick the consumer into believing he or she is getting the genuine article[.]"). In a case involving the willful use of a counterfeit mark, a plaintiff may elect statutory damages pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 1117(c).

Chapter 7

In accordance with the foregoing, the Court finds that UL has presented undisputed evidence showing that defendants used a "spurious mark which is identical to or substantially indistinguishable from" the UL [trade]Marks "in connection with the sale, offering for sale, distribution, or advertising of any goods or services." 15 U.S.C. §§ 1114; 1127. Accordingly, a rational trier of fact could not find for defendants on UL's claims for trademark infringement and counterfeiting of a registered mark.

....

"[I]f the court finds that the use of the counterfeit mark was willful," the plaintiff may recover statutory damages in an amount not more than $2,000,000 per counterfeit mark per type of goods or services sold, offered for sale, or distributed, as the court considers just." 15 U.S.C. § 1117(c)(2).

RJN, Exhibit 5, pp. 10, 17.

The parties each presented arguments regarding the willfulness of Defendants' infringement. Plaintiffs argued that the use of counterfeit marks was willful because Defendants never sought permission to use the marks, despite multiple notifications from Plaintiff of their violation. Defendants argued that they did not receive Plaintiff's cease and desist letters that were sent by mail, that Space Chariot was complying with relevant safety regulations when it used Plaintiff's mark and that Defendants were entitled to use the mark when its supplier received a certification from Plaintiff. RJN, Exhibit 5, p. 18.

The District Court found that Defendants' arguments and excuses were "unavailing" because the "record evidence show[ed] that [D]efendants knowingly used replica UL Marks before a UL certification for hoverboards became available" RJN, Exhibit 5, p. 18. In addition, "at a minimum [D]efendants knew that the hoverboards obtained from" their supplier prior to Plaintiff issuing a certification for hoverboards could not have been certified, but they advertised them as such. RJN, Exhibit 5, p. 19. Furthermore, it appeared that Defendants had received an email cease and desist notification from Plaintiff. RJN, Exhibit 5, p. 18.

Based on the foregoing, the District Court concluded that there was "no dispute of material fact regarding [D]efendants' willful use of counterfeits of the UL marks. A

C. The Contempt Ruling

In the Contempt Ruling, the District Court stated, in relevant part:

"[C]ourts have inherent power to enforce compliance with their lawful orders through civil contempt." California Dep't of Soc. Servs. v. Leavitt, 523 F.3d 1025, 1033 (9th Cir 2008) (quoting Shillitani v. United States, 384 U.S. 364, 370 (1966)). A party requesting an adjudication of civil contempt must establish "by clear and convincing evidence that the contemnors violated a specific and definite order of the court." Stone v. City and County of San Francisco, 968 F.2d 850, 856 n.9 (9th Cir. 1992). "The burden then shifts to the contemnors to demonstrate why they were unable to comply." Id.... [A] respondent may avoid being found in contempt by demonstrating that their failure to comply with a court order was "based on a good faith and reasonable interpretation of the order." Id. Additionally, "contempt is appropriate only when a party fails to comply with a court order that is both specific and definite." Balla v. Idaho State Bd. of Corr., 869 F.2d 461, 465 (9th Cir. 1989).

The Court finds defendants in contempt of the TRO and the Preliminary Injunction. In light of the character and magnitude of defendants' violations of the TRO and Preliminary Injunction and the necessity of deterring defendants' conduct in violation of the Court's orders, the Court GRANTS UL's request...

D. Debtor's Bankruptcy Case and this Adversary Proceeding

On April 18, 2017, Debtor filed a voluntary chapter 7 bankruptcy petition [case no. 1:17-bk-11026]. On July 20, 2017, Plaintiff filed an adversary complaint against Debtor requesting nondischargeability of the Judgment pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a) (6).

On December 8, 2018, Plaintiff filed a motion for summary judgment (the "Motion") [doc. 14]. With the Motion, Plaintiff also filed the RJN [doc. 15] and the SUF [doc. 16]. Plaintiffs argue that they are entitled to summary judgment on their §523(a)(6) claim based on issue preclusion under the Trademark Ruling and the Judgment, as well as the Contempt Ruling. In the alternative, partial summary judgment should be awarded on either the Judgment or the Contempt Ruling individually.

On March 20, 2018, Debtor filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") which attached a declaration (the "Walker Declaration") by Walker and a declaration by Debtor (the "Debtor Declaration") [doc. 23]. Debtor also filed a statement of disputed material issues of fact and conclusions of law in support of the Opposition ("Debtor's Statement of Facts") [doc. 24]. In the Opposition, Debtor argues that she was not the officer, director or owner of Space Chariot and was not involved in the operations of the company and that she did not engage in conduct that was willfully designed to inflict injury on Plaintiff. Debtor further argues that she had no subjective knowledge that harm was substantially certain to occur.

On March 28, 2018, Plaintiff filed a reply to the Opposition (the "Reply") [doc. 25] and a reply to Debtor's Statement of Facts (the "Reply to Debtor's Facts") [doc. 26]. In the Reply, Plaintiff argues that the Motion seeks summary judgment under the principals of issue preclusion, and Debtor's additional facts are not relevant because she cannot dispute issues which were already litigated in the District Court (e.g., her liability for trademark violation).

II. DISCUSSION

A. *Motion for Summary Judgment Standard

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 56, applicable to this adversary proceeding under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 7056, the Court shall grant summary judgment if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 247

(1986); Rule 56; FRBP 7056. "By its very terms, this standard provides that the mere existence of some alleged factual dispute between the parties will not defeat an otherwise properly supported motion for summary judgment; the requirement is that there be no genuine issue of material fact." 477 U.S. at 247–48 (emphasis in original).

As to materiality, the substantive law will identify which facts are material. Only disputes over facts that might affect the outcome of the suit under the governing law will properly preclude the entry of summary judgment. Factual disputes that are irrelevant or unnecessary will not be counted. . . . [S]ummary judgment will not lie if the dispute about a material fact is "genuine," that is, if the evidence is such that a reasonable jury could return a verdict for the nonmoving party. . . .

Id. at 248–50 (internal citations omitted). Additionally, issues of law are appropriate to be decided in a motion for summary judgment. See Camacho v. Du Sung Corp., 121 F.3d 1315, 1317 (9th Cir. 1997).

The initial burden is on the moving party to show that no genuine issues of material fact exist based on "the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with affidavits, if any." Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323, 106 S.Ct. 2548, 2553, 91 L.Ed. 265 (1986). Once the moving party meets its initial burden, the nonmoving party bearing "the burden of proof at trial on a dispositive issue" must identify facts beyond what is contained in the pleadings that show genuine issues of fact remain. Id., at 324; see also Anderson, 477 U.S. at 256 ("Rule 56(e) itself provides that a party opposing a properly supported motion for summary judgment may not rest upon mere allegation or denials of his pleading, but must set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial.").

The nonmoving party meets this burden through the presentation of "evidentiary materials" listed in Rule 56, such as depositions, documents, electronically stored information, affidavits or declarations, stipulations, admissions, and interrogatory answers. Id. To establish a genuine issue, the non-moving party "must do more than simply show that there is some metaphysical doubt as to the material facts." Matsushita Electrical Industry Co. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 586 (1986); see also Anderson, 477 U.S. at 252 ("The mere existence of a scintilla of evidence in support of the [non-moving party's] position will be insufficient."). Rather, the nonmoving party must provide "evidence of such a caliber that 'a fair-minded jury could return a verdict for the [nonmoving party] on the evidence presented.'" U.S. v. Wilson, 881 F.2d 596, 601 (9th Cir. 1989) (quoting Anderson, 477 U.S. at 266).

Here, there are no genuine issues as to any material facts regarding the District Court Action As discussed below, Plaintiffs are entitled to summary judgment under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6).

B. Burden of Proof

The plaintiff's burden of proof in a nondischargeability action under 11 U.S.C. § 523 (a) is "the ordinary preponderance-of-the-evidence standard." Grogan v. Garner, 498 U.S. 279, 291 (1991). "Proof by the preponderance of the evidence means that it is sufficient to persuade the finder of fact that the proposition is more likely true than not." In re Arnold & Baker Farms, 177 B.R. 648, 654 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1994), aff'd sub nom. In re Arnold & Baker Farms, 85 F.3d 1415 (9th Cir. 1996) (citing In re Winship, 397 U.S. 358, 371 (1970)).

C. Issue Preclusion

The preclusive effect of a prior federal court judgment is determined under federal law. In re Daily, 47 F.3d 365, 368 (9th Cir.1995). The elements of federal issue preclusion are:

- (1) there was a full and fair opportunity to litigate the issue in the previous proceeding;
- (2) the issue was actually litigated and decided in the previous proceeding;
- (3) the issue was lost as a result of a final judgment in that action; and
- (4) the person against whom collateral estoppel is asserted in the present action was a party or in privity with a party in the previous action.

Chapter 7

D. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6)

11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6) states that a discharge under 11 U.S.C. § 727 does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt "for willful and malicious injury by the debtor to another entity or to the property of another entity." A tort judgment against a debtor does not necessarily establish the "willful and malicious injury" elements unless the underlying tort required findings of both "willful" and "malicious" conduct by a debtor. See In re Busch, 311 B.R. at 657, 668-669 (Bankr. N.D.N.Y. 2004); In re Pekar, 260 F.3d 1035, 1037-1038 (9th Cir. 2001); In re Plyam, 530 BR 456, 469-470 (9th Cir. BAP 2015).

Demonstrating willfulness requires a showing that defendant intended to cause the injury, not merely the acts leading to the injury. Kawaauhau v. Geiger, 523 U.S. 57, 61-62 (1998). Debts "arising from recklessly or negligently inflicted injuries do not fall within the compass of § 523(a)(6)." Id., at 64. It suffices, however, if the debtor knew that harm to the creditor was "substantially certain." In re Su, 290 F.3d 1140, 1145-46 (9th Cir. 2002); In re Jercich, 238 F.3d 1202, 1208 (9th Cir. 2001) ("[T]he willful injury requirement of § 523(a)(6) is met when it is shown either that the debtor had a subjective motive to inflict the injury or that the debtor believed that injury was substantially certain to occur as a result of his conduct.") (emphasis in Jercich).

The Ninth Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel ("BAP") has held that "intentional infringement [of a trademark] is tantamount to intentional injury under [§ 523(a)(6)]." In re Smith, No. ADV.01-02219-A, 2009 WL 7809005, at *9 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. Dec. 17, 2009), aff'd, 465 F. App'x 707 (9th Cir. 2012). In Smith, the BAP found that the bankruptcy court had properly applied issue preclusion to the issue of willfulness under § 523(a)(6) where the underlying district court made findings that the debtor intentionally infringed on a trademark. The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has also upheld the decision of a bankruptcy court to apply issue preclusion regarding willfulness under § 523(a)(6) based on a district court judgment finding a debtor liable for counterfeiting. In re Yu, 545 B.R. 633, 645 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016), aff'd sub nom. In re Chunchai Yu, No. 6:15-AP-01153-SC, 2016 WL 4261655 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. Aug. 11, 2016), aff'd, 694 F. App'x 542 (9th Cir. 2017).

Under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6), the injury must also be the result of maliciousness. Su, 290 F.3d at 1146. Maliciousness requires (1) a wrongful act; (2) done intentionally;

(3) which necessarily causes injury; (4) without just cause or excuse. Id., at 1147. Maliciousness does not require "personal hatred, spite, or ill-will." In re Bammer, 131 F.3d 788, 791 (9th Cir. 1997). In addition, "[m]alice can be inferred based on the nature of the wrongful act." In re Ormsby, 591 F.3d 1199, 1207 (9th Cir. 2010).

In Yu, the bankruptcy court applied collateral estoppel on the issue of malice. The district court there had made specific findings that the debtor had engaged in importing equipment she knew was counterfeit, and that the debtor's conduct had necessarily caused injury because "the act of trademark infringement itself is a 'categorically harmful activity.'" Yu, 545 B.R. at 645, citing Smith, 2009 WL 7809005, at *10. In addition, The Yu court found that debtor had no just cause or excuse because the district court specifically found that the debtor's trademark infringement was intentional, and the debtor could not collaterally attack the substantive findings in the district court's judgment.

E. Issue Preclusion Applies to the Judgment

1. A Full and Fair Opportunity to Litigate the Issue in the Previous Action

In her opposition, Debtor argues that she was not properly represented in the District Court Action, because she was jointly represented with Space Chariot and Walker. However, competent representation is not a requirement of issue preclusion. Yu, 545 B.R. at 640. Debtor was not only represented by counsel in the District Court Action, but multiple pleadings were filed on her behalf, including an answer to the complaint, an opposition to Plaintiff's motion for summary judgment, and an opposition to Plaintiff's motion for sanctions. RJN, Exhibit 2, 4, 9. The fact that Debtor was jointly represented does not mean that her representation was inadequate. Debtor's argument is inapposite, and this element is satisfied.

2. The Issue was Actually Litigated in the Previous Action

An issue is "actually litigated" where it is "raised by the pleadings or otherwise placed in issue." In re Birnbaum, 513 B.R. 788, 801 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 2014). As discussed above, other bankruptcy courts have granted summary judgment in adversary proceedings precluding willful trademark infringers and counterfeiters from re-litigating Lanham Act claims. See e.g. Yu, 545 B.R. at 639, In re Mucci, 458 B.R. 802

Chapter 7

In order to reach its conclusion regarding statutory damages for counterfeiting, the District Court was required to decide whether Debtor's conduct was willful. To make a finding of willfulness under the Lanham Act, the court had to find "evidence of knowing conduct" or "evidence that the defendant acted with an aura of indifference to plaintiff's rights." RJN, Exhibit 5, pp. 17-18. The District Court found that Debtor had met this standard because the record showed that Debtor "knowingly used" replicas of Plaintiff's trademark. RJN, Exhibit 5, p. 18. The District Court awarded statutory damages of $1,000,000, which are only available where a party has willfully counterfeited another party's mark.

Here, as in Smith and Yu, the District Court specifically found that the Debtor engaged in "willful, deliberate and unjustifiable counterfeiting of Plaintiff's trademarks." SUF, ¶ 6, RJN, Exhibit 7, p. 2. That finding was essential to the damages award in the Trademark Ruling. Consequently, the issue of willfulness was actually litigated in the District Court Action.

The District Court found that Debtor knowingly used counterfeits of Plaintiff's marks. As in Yu, such a finding sufficiently establishes that there was a wrongful act which was done intentionally for a finding of malice under § 523(a)(6). Because trademark infringement is a "categorically harmful activity," Debtor's infringement necessarily caused injury to Plaintiff. Defendants offered a number of excuses for their actions which the District Court found "unavailing." RJN, Exhibit 5, p. 19. Indeed, the District Court stated that the actions taken by Defendants were "unjustifiable." RJN Exhibit 7, p. 2. The District Court findings establish that Debtor's conduct was malicious.

3. *The Issue was Lost as a Result of a Final Judgment on the Merits

Here, the Judgment is final because it was entered on October 20, 2017. Pursuant to Rules 3 and 4, a party has 30 days to appeal a judgment. The time to appeal the Judgment has passed and there are no appeals pending. The Judgment also was on the merits, as evidenced by the Trademark Ruling, which includes detailed findings about why Debtor is liable on the various causes of action asserted in District Court. This element is satisfied.

4. The Person Against Whom Collateral Estoppel is Asserted was a Party in the Previous Action

Debtor was one of the Defendants in the District Court Action. The findings in the Judgment specifically included her. As such, this element also is satisfied.

F. Issue Preclusion Applies to the Sanctions Order

A debt for contempt sanctions may be nondischargeable under § 523(a)(6) "when the conduct leading to the contempt was both willful and malicious." In re Suarez, 400 B.R. 732, 738 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2009), aff'd, 529 F. App'x 832 (9th Cir. 2013). In Suarez, the BAP upheld a bankruptcy court's ruling that a debtor's conduct leading to contempt was willful where she violated an order enjoining her from contacting or harassing her ex-husband's new wife. The debtor's conduct was aimed at the new wife and substantially certain to result in injury. In addition, the fact that the debtor had intentionally violated the order established that her conduct was wrongful, done without just cause or excuse for purposes of establishing malice. Id. Furthermore, the conduct caused "injury" in the form of attorney's fees and costs to enforce the order. Id.

As in Suarez, the Contempt Ruling establishes that Debtor's conduct was willful. The conduct discussed in the Contempt Ruling constituted affirmative acts in direct violation of the District Court's orders. Exhibit 10, pp. 4-5.

Similarly, the Contempt Ruling establishes malice. The affirmative violations of the District Court's orders, including dispersing assets and failing to abide by the asset freeze, were wrongful acts which could not possibly have been unintentional. The District Court found that the excuses offered by Defendants (that they used funds obtained from violation of the Preliminary Injunction and TRO to fund their defense) were insufficient to absolve them of liability for their contemptuous conduct. RJN, Exhibit 10, pp. 5-6. In addition, as in Suarez, Plaintiff was forced to incur attorney's fees and costs to enforce the orders.

In light of the foregoing, the issues of the willfulness and maliciousness of Debtor's conduct were actually litigated in the District Court Action. For the same reasons as discussed above with regard to the judgment, the other elements of issue preclusion are met here. The Contempt Ruling has not been appealed, and Debtor was represented by counsel in the previous action.

III. CONCLUSION

Based on the foregoing, the Court will grant the Motion.

Movant must submit the order within seven (7) days.

ENDNOTES

1. Debtor filed a separate statement of disputed issues of material fact [doc. 24]. However, that statement admits the vast majority of Plaintiff's statements, and adds what Debtor appears to believe are clarifying statements. To the extent that these assertions are offered to defeat Plaintiff's statements of fact, they fail to satisfy Debtor's burden to show a genuine issue of material fact. This memorandum treats statements of fact as undisputed where Plaintiff has met its burden and Debtor has offered no evidence showing there is a genuine issue for trial.
2. In her response to the SUF, Debtor states that this fact is "disputed." However, Debtor offers no facts or evidence in rebuttal, and merely adds the additional information that "the case was brought against Kevin and the Space Chariot, Inc." Furthermore, Debtor states: "[i]t is undisputed that [Defendant] was named in the lawsuit." Doc. 24, p. 2. Debtor has failed to satisfy her burden to show a genuine issue of material fact, especially in light of the District Court Complaint attached as Exhibit 1 to the RJN.
3. The complaint in the District Court Action also alleged that prior to Plaintiff's issuance of a safety standard for hoverboards, there were numerous reports about hoverboards self-combusting and catching fire. Plaintiff stated that many companies, including Space Chariot, responded to the negative press by falsely claiming that their hoverboards were certified by Plaintiff. RJN, Exhibit 1, ¶¶ 35-39.

Amy L. Goldman, chapter 7 trustee – approve fees of $2,750.00 and reimbursement of expenses of $27.80.

Lewis Brisbois Bisgaard & Smith LLP (“Lewis Brisbois”), counsel to chapter 7 trustee – approve fees of $8,696.50 and reimbursement of expenses of $86.04. The Court does not approve $2,281.50 in fees for the reasons below.

SLBiggs, A Division of SingerLewak (“SLBiggs”), accountant to chapter 7 trustee – approve fees of $2,469.00 and reimbursement of expenses of $149.79. The Court does not approve $663.00 in fees for the reasons below.

11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(2) provides that the court may, on its own motion, award compensation that is less than the amount of the compensation that is requested.

11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(1)(A) provides that a court may award to a professional person employed under § 327 "reasonable compensation for actual, necessary services" rendered by the professional person. "In determining the amount of reasonable compensation to be awarded to the professional person, the court shall consider the nature, the extent and the value of such services, taking into account all relevant factors, including—(A) the time spent on such services; (B) the rates charged for such services; (C) whether the services were necessary to the administration of, or beneficial at the time at which the service was rendered toward the completion of, a case under this title; [and] (D) whether the services were performed within a reasonable amount of time commensurate with the complexity, importance, and nature

In light of the foregoing, the Court will not approve the following fees because they appear to be excessive:

SLBiggs

- The Court will approve 1.5 hours for Lisa Nuzzi for preparation of the fee application (reduction of 1.3 hours at $210 / hour).
- The Court will approve 8 hours for Kathi Cervi for tax preparation (reduction of 2 hours at $195 / hour).

Lewis Brisbois

- The narrative of services provided states that 4.5 hours were billed in preparing the fee application, for a total of $990.00 fees. However, the billing records attached to the application show 9.8 hours billed for preparing the fee application, for a total of $2,156 in fees. The Court will approve 4 hours for preparing the fee application.
- On May 22, 2017, there is an entry for "Begin preparation of asset Purchase Agreement re: membership interest," which billed 1.8 hours, for a total of $396.00 in fees. This entry does not appear to apply to the pending case, which concerned the settlement of a wrongful termination claim against the debtor's former employer. The Court will not approve these fees.
- Between March 13, 2017 and April 11, 2017, there are multiple, almost daily entries for email communications to various parties regarding the settlement agreement, in some cases multiple emails on a single day. In addition, on April 3, 2017, an entry on an email regarding the settlement agreement appears to have been miscategorized under "Asset Disposition" instead of under "Asset Analysis and Disposition." The Court will reduce such fees by 50% (reduction

11 U.S.C. § 328(b) provides that an attorney may not receive compensation for the performance of any trustee’s duties that are generally performed by a trustee without the assistance of an attorney. In re Garcia, 335 B.R. 717, 725 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2005) (holding that bankruptcy court did not abuse its discretion in refusing to compensate chapter 7 trustee’s counsel for services rendered in connection with the sale of property of the estate and for preparing routine employment applications).

Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 2016-2(e)(2) provides a "nonexclusive list of services that the court deems ‘trustee services.’" This list includes, among other activities: conduct 11 U.S.C. § 341(a) examination; routine investigation regarding location and status of assets; turnover or inspection of documents; recruit and contract appraisers, brokers, and professionals; routine collection of accounts receivable; routine documentation of notice of abandonment; prepare motions to abandon or destroy books and records; routine claims review and objection; monitor litigation; answer routine creditor correspondence and phone calls; review and comment on professional fee applications; and additional routine work necessary for administration of the estate.

In Garcia, the BAP upheld the bankruptcy court’s refusal to approve fees for preparation of employment applications, observing that “absent a showing by applicant to the contrary, routine employment applications remain a trustee duty.” Garcia, 335 B.R. at 726. With respect to its holding, the BAP explained “a case trustee may only employ professionals for tasks that require special expertise beyond that expected of an ordinary trustee.” Id. at 727.

In accordance with Garcia and LBR 2016-2(f), the Court does not approve the fees billed for the services identified below. It appears that these fees are for services that are duplicative of those that could and should be performed by the chapter 7 trustee, as a trustee.

Tentative Ruling:

Nancy Hoffmeier Zamora, chapter 7 trustee – approve fees of $3,250.00 and reimbursement of expenses of $383.23.

Grobstein Teeple, LLP (“Grobstein”), accountant to chapter 7 trustee – approve fees of $1,360.00 and reimbursement of expenses of $93.49. The Court will not approve $120.00 in fees for the reasons below.

11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(2) provides that the court may, on its own motion, award compensation that is less than the amount of the compensation that is requested.

Secretarial/clerical work is noncompensable under 11 U.S.C. § 330. See In re Schneider, 2008 WL 4447092, *11 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. Sept. 26, 2008) (court disallowed billing for services including: monitoring and reviewing the docket; electronically distributing documents; preparing services packages, serving pleadings, updating service lists and preparing proofs of service; and e-filing and uploading pleadings); In re Ness, 2007 WL 1302611, *1 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. April 27, 2007) (data entry noncompensable as secretarial in nature); In re Dimas, 357 B.R. 563, 577 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2006) (“Services that are clerical in nature are not properly chargeable to the bankruptcy estate. They are not in the nature of professional services and must be absorbed by the applicant’s firm as an overhead expense. Fees for services that are purely clerical, ministerial, or administrative should be disallowed.”).

#14.10 Disclosure statement hearing in support of plan of reorganization

fr. 2/8/18; 3/29/18

Docket 79

Tentative Ruling:

Contrary to this Court's instructions at the prior hearing regarding approval of the debtor's proposed disclosure statement, the debtor did not file a red-line version of an amended disclosure statement by April 6, 2018. On April 9, 2018, the debtor's counsel filed a declaration requesting that this hearing be continued for sixty days to allow the debtor time to file his 2017 tax returns prior to doing so.

The Court will continue the hearing regarding the adequacy of the debtor's disclosure statement to June 14, 2018 at 1:00 p.m. No later than May 31, 2018, the debtor must file a redline of the amended disclosure statement.

Appearances on April 12, 2018 are excused.

3/29/18 Tentative:

Ikechukwu Mgbeke ("Debtor") should be prepared to address the following:

The most recent Monthly Operating Report ("MOR"), for February 2018, reflects an ending balance of $61.26 in Debtor's general debtor in possession account and an ending balance of $9,686.30 in Debtor's rental account. In Part 3.A. of the proposed disclosure statement, Debtor projects having $21,130.04 in available cash as of the effective date. However, under the feasibility analysis in part 5, Debtor projects having $20,930.04 in cash as of the effective date. As such, there is a discrepancy of $200 within the disclosure statement.

Both projected amounts are more than the current cash on hand, which totals $9,747.56. In Part 5, Debtor indicates that he needs a total of $17,177.26 to cover effective date payments. These payments include $15,000 to AOE Law Associates and

$2,177.26 in other plan payments. In December 2017, Debtor's MOR reflected $17,011.30 cash on hand, but in February 2018, Debtor paid AOE Law associates $12,000 pursuant to their approved fee application [doc. 98, p. 5]. Presumably, Debtor no longer will need to pay that $12,000 to AOE on the effective date. If this is the case, then it appears he will have enough cash on hand to cover his effective date expenses ($17,177.26 - $12,000= $5,177.26). Debtor must update his disclosure statement accordingly.

Part 3 D of the disclosure statement states that Debtor planned to increase his tenant's rent to $3,000 as of February 2018 (an increase of $500), but the February 2018 MOR does not reflect any such increase. The $6,000 would be enough to cover plan payments if Debtor's expenses are identical to the expenses listed in the Declaration of Current/Postpetition Income & Expenses (Exh. A to the disclosure statement) every single month (which includes plan payments). However, Debtor has not shown that he will actually receive his projected $500/month increase in rental income to cover his monthly expenses.

Debtor's latest MOR reflects expenses in the amount of $2,982.11, not including the monthly $2,652.93 in payments to secured lender. This totals $5,635.04, which is very close to D's projected expenses of $5,644.23. In January 2018, D's expenses totaled $2,981.07, which coupled with the payments to the secured lender would total $5,634. As it stands, if Debtor strays even a penny beyond the projected expenses in the Declaration of Current/Postpetition Income & Expenses, Debtor will be unable to make plan payments.

Moreover, it appears that Debtor's disclosure statement does not taken into account his payment of postpetition income tax. Given Debtor's tight budget, it is unclear how Debtor will be able to pay his income tax liabilities.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

The Court will continue this matter to May 10, 2018 at 1:00 p.m.

On March 29, 2018, the debtor filed a Status Conference Report of Chapter 11 Case (the "Status Report") [doc. 44]. Contrary to the Order Setting Hearing on Status of Chapter 11 Case and Requiring Report on Status of Chapter 11 Case [doc. 38], the Status Report is not supported by evidence in the form of declarations and supporting documents. In addition, the debtor did not serve the Status Report on My Lucky Bamboo, Inc. or Dave Czehut, who are creditors on the List of Creditors Who Have the 20 Largest Unsecured Claims Against You and Are Not Insiders [doc. 20].

No later than April 19, 2018, the debtor must serve notice of the continued status conference on all required parties. No later than April 26, 2018, the debtor must file evidence, i.e., declarations and supporting documents, in support of the debtor's status report.

Appearances on April 12, 2018 are excused.

If the debtor elects to file a transcript of her tax return with the Court pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 521(f), in lieu of filing the actual return, the debtor may find information about transcripts and request a transcript from the Internal Revenue Service's website, located at <https://www.irs.gov/individuals/get-transcript>.

The parties should address the following:

Deadline to file proof of claim ("Bar Date"): June 15, 2018.

Deadline to mail notice of Bar Date: April 16, 2018.

The debtor(s) must use the mandatory court-approved form Notice of Bar Date for Filing Proofs of Claim in a Chapter 11 Case, F 3003-1.NOTICE.BARDATE.

Deadline for debtor(s) and/or debtor(s) in possession to file proposed plan and related disclosure statement: October 31, 2018.

Continued chapter 11 case status conference to be held at 1:00 p.m. on November 15, 2018.

The debtor(s) in possession or any appointed chapter 11 trustee must file a status report, to be served on the debtor's(s') 20 largest unsecured creditors, all secured creditors, and the United States Trustee, no later than 14 days before the continued status conference. The status report must be supported by evidence in the form of declarations and supporting documents.

The Court will prepare the order setting the deadlines for the debtor(s) and/or debtor(s) in possession to file a proposed plan and related disclosure statement.

fr. 1/18/18; 2/15/18; 3/12/18

Docket 428

Tentative Ruling:

The Court previously continued the hearing regarding the debtor's application to employ James J. Little and Trial Advocacy Group, LLC ("TAG") as special litigation counsel, filed on December 18, 2017 [doc. 428] (the "Little Employment Application"). As a result of Mr. Little's death, it appears that the debtor is no longer seeking to employ Mr. Little and TAG with regard to any services provided to the debtor's estate before Mr. Little's death. Consequently, the Court will deny the Little Employment Application for failure to prosecute.

The Court will prepare the order denying the Little Employment Application.

1/18/2018 Tentative:

The applicant has not provided sufficient information regarding whether the debtor's principals and/or affiliates, who/which applicant also represents ("Mr. Little and TAG are representing the Debtor and affiliated companies in various state court litigation matters in which the Debtor is involved . . .") [Application, at p. 3, para. 5], will seek to pay their liability using the debtor's assets. The applicant must furnish additional information regarding this possibility, such as whether there exists an indemnity, guaranty or other similar agreement between the debtor and its principals/affiliates.

#19.10 Application by debtor to employ Philip H. Stillman as special litigation counsel and approval of hourly fee

Docket 442

Tentative Ruling:

Deny. The debtor has not sufficiently described the intended scope of the employment of proposed special litigation counsel and sufficiently disclosed that counsel's apparently simultaneous representation of insiders of the debtor, some of which/whom, among other things, apparently contend that they are creditors of the debtor or are entitled to liens against property of the estate.

For example, why is proposed "special litigation" counsel prosecuting the debtor's motion for authority to incur secured debt? See doc. 452. With respect to that motion, is proposed special litigation counsel simultaneously representing the debtor and Foirs, Inc.? If not, with respect to that motion, which other attorney is representing Foirs, Inc.?

Consequently, the Court cannot conclude that proposed special litigation counsel does not represent or hold any interest adverse to the debtor or to the estate with respect to the matter(s) on which such attorney is to be employed.

The respondents must submit the order within seven (7) days.

I. BACKGROUND

On July 18, 2014, Gingko Rose Ltd. ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition.

On March 19, 2015, the Court entered an order suspending this chapter 11 case (the "Stay Order") [doc. 255]. In the Stay Order, the Court stated that this case "is suspended until completion of the State Court Malicious Prosecution Case... or until further order of the court (the 'Interim Period') pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 305(a)...." The Stay Order provided that Debtor must comply with the provisions of 11 U.S.C. § 364.

On December 18, 2017, Debtor filed a motion to incur postpetition secured debt (the "Motion") [doc. 429] and the Declaration of David Darwish (the "Darwish Declaration") [doc. 430]. In the Motion, Debtor requests authority to execute a promissory note and deeds of trust in favor of Foirs, Inc. ("Foirs") in the amount of $3,321,781.05, which Debtor asserts is the amount Foirs paid to satisfy a judgment against Debtor.

In the Darwish Declaration, Mr. Darwish, a principal of Debtor, provides that Foirs is owned by his son and daughter. Darwish Declaration, ¶¶ 1-2. Mr. Darwish also attached several deeds of trust in favor of Foirs, dated December 1, 2017. Darwish Declaration, Exhibit B. Debtor has not provided a promissory note between Debtor and Foirs.

On January 3, 2018, judgment creditors Jack Vaughn, Esmeralda Hernandez, Wayne Hart, Carlos Rodriguez and Ernest Johnson ("Judgment Creditors") filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 434]. Judgment Creditors assert that Debtor cannot seek authorization by the Court to enter into a postpetition financing agreement after entering into that agreement. On January 12, 2018, Debtor filed a reply to the Opposition (the "Reply") [doc. 437]. In the Reply, Debtor states that the promissory note between Foirs and Debtor includes a provision that states that authorization by the Court is a condition precedent to executing the promissory note and that Foirs is entitled to equitable subrogation of its alleged lien.

II. ANALYSIS

Under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 4001(c)(1)(A), "[a] motion for authority to obtain credit... shall be accompanied by a copy of the credit agreement and a proposed form of order." Debtor has not provided the Court with a copy of the promissory note between Debtor and Foirs. Under FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B), a motion must include "all material provisions of the proposed credit agreement" as well as "describe the nature and extent of each provision" provided in FRBP 4001(c)(1)(B). Debtor has also not provided this information, and, as a result, the Motion is procedurally improper. Nevertheless, the Court will address the merits below.

A. Postpetition Financing under 11 U.S.C. § 364(c)

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 364(c)—

If the trustee is unable to obtain unsecured credit allowable under section 503(b)(1) of this title as an administrative expense, the court, after notice and a hearing, may authorize the obtaining of credit or the incurring of debt—

- (1) with priority over any or all administrative expenses of the kind specified in section 503(b) or 507(b) of this title;
- (2) secured by a lien on property of the estate that is not otherwise subject to a lien; or
- (3) secured by a junior lien on property of the estate that is subject to a lien.

Chapter 11

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 364(d)(1)—

The court, after notice and a hearing, may authorize the obtaining of credit or the incurring of debt secured by a senior or equal lien on property of the estate that is subject to a lien only if—

(A) the trustee is unable to obtain such credit otherwise; and

(B) there is adequate protection of the interest of the holder of the lien on the property of the estate on which such senior or equal lien is proposed to be granted.

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 364(d)(2), "[i]n any hearing under this subsection, the trustee has the burden of proof on the issue of adequate protection." Courts have articulated a three-part test to determine whether a debtor is entitled to § 364(c) financing: (1) the trustee or the debtor is unable to obtain unsecured credit under § 364(b); (2) the credit transaction is necessary to preserve the assets of the estate; and (3) the terms of the transaction are fair, reasonable, and adequate given the circumstances of debtor and the proposed lender. In re Crouse Grp., Inc., 71 B.R. 544, 549 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 1987).

First, Debtor has not shown that it was unable to obtain unsecured credit. See In re Photo Promotion Assocs., Inc., 89 B.R. 328, 333 (S.D.N.Y. 1988) ("Section 364(c), therefore, is unavailable unless a prospective creditor has refused to extend credit under section 364(a)."). In fact, it appears Foirs was willing to extend credit (by paying off the judgment) without first obtaining a security interest in Debtor's property. As such, this element not being satisfied, the Motion may be denied on this basis alone.

Next, Debtor has not shown that the transaction is necessary to preserve the assets of the estate. In fact, Foirs apparently already paid Judgment Creditors. Debtor has not stated that Foirs intends to take any action against the estate if the Court does not approve this transaction. Consequently, this element is also not satisfied.

Moreover, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has "interpreted section 364(c)(2) as requiring a debtor to obtain the bankruptcy court's authorization before incurring secured debt." In re Harbin, 486 F.3d 510, 521 (9th Cir. 2007) (emphasis in Harbin).

"[I]f the debtor fails to obtain prior authorization, the bankruptcy court may exercise its corrective power to rescind the transaction." Id. (citing In re McConville, 110 F.3d 47, 50 (9th Cir. 1997)). "[N]othing in the language of the Bankruptcy Code precludes the court from considering nunc pro tunc authorization of the refinancing as one possible remedy in response to the 'equities of the situation' before it." Id., at 522.

Here, Debtor asserts that the promissory note includes a condition precedent that conditions the effectiveness of the promissory note and deeds of trust on the Court's approval of the postpetition financing. However, Debtor has not attached the promissory note. The deeds of trust attached to the Darwish Declaration include no such language. As such, the evidence before the Court suggests that Debtor encumbered property of the estate without prior approval of the Court. Consequently, the Court may rescind the transaction. Harbin, at 521. In light of the above, the Court will deny Debtor's request to incur postpetition secured debt.

B. Equitable Subrogation

"[S]ubrogation is the substitution of one party in place of another with reference to a lawful claim, demand or right. It is a derivative right, acquired by satisfaction of the loss or claim that a third party has against another.... [W]hen the doctrine of subrogation applies, the subrogee succeeds to the legal rights and claims of the subrogor with respect to the loss or claim." In re Hamada, 291 F.3d 645, 649 (9th Cir. 2002). In Hamada, the court referred to California law on subrogation, "which provides for equitable subrogation if the party seeking subrogation meets five specific criteria." Id., at 651.

First, the claimant must have paid the debt owed to the lienholder in order to protect the claimant's own interest. Second, the claimant must not have acted as a volunteer. Third, the claimant could not have been primarily liable for the debt he paid. Fourth, the claimant must have paid the entire debt owed to the lienholder. And, fifth, the subrogation must not work an injustice to the rights of others.

Id. (quoting Fidelity Nat. Title Ins. Co. v. U.S. Dept. of the Treasury, I.R.S., 907 F.2d 868, 870 (9th Cir. 1990)).

First, the doctrine of equitable subrogation is a separate issue from Debtor's authority to incur postpetition debt. Debtor brings up equitable subrogation for the first time in the Reply, such that Judgment Creditors have not been given an opportunity to respond to this argument.

Nevertheless, equitable subrogation does not apply here. Nothing in the record demonstrates that Foirs paid the judgment to Judgment Creditors in order to protect Foirs' own interest or that the judgment was secured. Next, it is unclear if Foirs has paid the entire debt owed to Judgment Creditors, because Judgment Creditors are litigating appeals against Debtor, which Judgment Creditors assert may result in additional liability. Finally, it is unclear if Foirs acted as a volunteer. As a result, Debtor may not rely on equitable subrogation as a basis for the Court to grant Foirs any liens against property of the estate.

The Court will deny the Motion.

I. BACKGROUND

On October 11, 2017, Mehri Akhlaghpour ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. On February 1, 2018, the Court issued an order directing the appointment of a chapter 11 trustee [doc. 101]. On February 6, 2018, Nancy J. Zamora was appointed the chapter 11 trustee (the "Trustee") [doc. 107].

On her schedule A/B, Debtor listed an ownership interest in a number of real properties. Among them was a property located at 5454 Zelzah Avenue, #302, Encino, CA 91316 (the "Zelzah Property"). In her schedule C, Debtor did not claim an exemption in the Zelzah Property [doc. 11, p. 16].

On February 7, 2018, the Trustee filed an application to employ Rodeo Realty, Inc (the "Broker") as a real estate broker [doc. 110]. On March 15, 2018, the Court entered its order approving the employment of the Broker [doc. 135]. On March 22, 2018, the Trustee filed a motion to sell the Zelzah Property free and clear of liens, subject to overbid, and to assume and assign the unexpired lease on the Zelzah Property (the "Motion") [doc. 155].

On March 29, 2018, Debtor filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 163]. The Opposition includes a printout of a webpage from

The Opposition also includes a declaration by Rob Schultz, the CEO of Pacific Realty (the "Schultz Declaration") [doc. 163, Schultz Declaration, ¶ 2]. On March 29, 2018, the Trustee filed a reply to the Opposition (the "Reply") [doc. 164].

On March 6, 2018, the Trustee filed motions similar to the Motion regarding real properties located at 26943 Hillsborough Pkwy, Unit 27, Santa Clarita, California 91354 (the "Hillsborough Property") [doc. 145], and at 8338 Woodley Pl., Unit 28, North Hills, California 91343 (the "Woodley Property") [doc. 146]. On April 5, 2018, the Court issued a ruling granting both of those motions [doc. 165].

II. DISCUSSION

A. General Sale Standard

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 363(b)(1), the "trustee, after notice and a hearing, may use, sell, or lease, other than in the ordinary course of business, property of the estate" subject to an exception that does not apply here. A trustee has broad authority to negotiate sales of estate property under 11 U.S.C. § 363(b)(1); see also In re Canyon Partnership, 55 B.R. 520, 524 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1985). In reviewing motions to sell property under § 363(b), a court must determine whether sound business reasons support the sale outside the ordinary course of business. In re Walter, 83 B.R. 14, 19 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1988).

B. Good Business Reason Justifying Sale

Debtor objects to the sale of the Zelzah Property on the grounds that the Motion proposes to sell substantially all of the estate assets and is not supported by a good business justification. Debtor references In re Lionel Corp., 722 F.2d 1063 (2nd Cir. 1983). In Lionel, the Second Circuit Court of Appeals outlined six factors for determining whether a good business reason exists justifying a sale of substantially all of the assets of the debtor.

The Trustee correctly asserts that Lionel is distinguishable because the chapter 11 trustee in Lionel sought authority to sell substantially all of the estate's assets. Here, the Motion does not contemplate the sale of all or substantially all of the estate's property, because the estate owns three other properties not subject to the Motion. In addition, the estate owns a 100% interest in eight business entities [doc. 11, pp. 11-12]. Even accounting for the Trustee's prior-approved sales of the Hillsborough and Woodley Properties, the Motion will not result in the sale of substantially all of the estate property.

In addition, in Lionel, the chapter 11 trustee did not give any business justification for the sale, other than the appeasement of the committee of largest creditors. Id. at 1071. Here, the Trustee has articulated a number of reasons for the sale, including that continued operation of the Zelzah Property as a rental property is not tenable, and that the sale price is fair and reasonable.

Debtor also objects to the sale on the grounds that: (1) the sale is premature because the Zelzah Property is not a wasting asset; (2) there is no justifiable cause for selling the Zelzah Property because the real estate market in the Los Angeles area is improving; and (3) the sale price is inadequate.

Here, the Motion is not premature. Debtor filed her chapter 11 petition nearly six months ago. Given that the marketing of the Zelzah Property generated multiple inquiries and offers, it appears that the sale price reflects the market, and that the Zelzah Property has been marketed for enough time to generate competitive interest [doc. 164, Decl. of Behnaz Tavakoli, ¶¶ 3-6].

Furthermore, as the Trustee points out in the Reply, the Zelzah Property does not generate net rental income. Debtor asserts that the rental income for the property is $1,550, and that its expenses consist of $888.44 for mortgage payments, $390 for HOA fees, and $22 for insurance, for a total of $1,300.44. This total does not include the annual tax bill for the Zelzah property, which amounts to approximately $283 per month. Accounting for property taxes, the property is operating at a $23 per month loss [doc. 164, Decl. of Nancy Zamora, ¶¶ 6-7].

C. The Trustee's Business Judgment

As outlined by the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel of the Ninth Circuit (the "BAP"):

The court's obligation in § 363(b) sales is to assure that optimal value is realized by the estate under the circumstances. The requirement of a notice and hearing operates to provide both a means of objecting and a method for attracting interest by potential purchasers. Ordinarily, the position of the trustee is afforded deference, particularly where business judgment is entailed in the analysis or where there is no objection. Nevertheless, particularly in the face of opposition by creditors, the requirement of court approval means that the responsibility ultimately is the court's.

In re Lahijani, 325 B.R. 282, 288–89 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2005).

Debtor calls into question the Trustee's business judgment, stating that the Trustee lacks the "requisite business judgment in real estate" to consider, analyze and accept offers on the Zelzah Property. Contrary to Debtor's evaluation, the Trustee has been a chapter 7 trustee since 1998 and also has been a chapter 11 trustee in cases involving real estate. In those capacities, the Trustee has operated rental properties and sold over one hundred properties [doc. 164, Decl. of Nancy Zamora, ¶ 2]. Based on the Trustee's record of experience, she may properly be afforded business judgment deference.

D. Sufficient Marketing and Reasonableness of Price

Debtor argues that the Zelzah Property has not been sufficiently marketed, because the price contemplated in the Motion is below market value. In support of this contention, Debtor points to the Property Radar Estimate and the Schultz Declaration attached to the Opposition.

The Trustee is correct that the Property Radar Estimate is not persuasive evidence that the purchase price is too low. First, there is no evidence suggesting that Property Radar has made any inspection of the Zelzah Property's interior or exterior in assessing its value. In fact, the Property Radar Estimate does not set forth any procedures by which Property Radar estimated the $335,700 value [doc. 163, Exh. 1]. In addition, the Property Radar Estimate includes "comp. sales" and "comp. listings" figures for the Zelzah Property of $300,319 and $244,872, respectively [doc. 163, Exh. 1]. Given that these figures are at or below the sale price for the Zelzah Property, this data indicates that the sale price is fair and reasonable.

The Schultz Declaration is similarly unpersuasive. First, Mr. Schultz's purported marketing strategy, which includes both online advertisements and mailers, appears comparable to the Broker's online marketing approach [Schultz Decl., ¶ 3]. As explained in the Reply, the Broker has engaged in marketing efforts for the Zelzah Property, including listing the property on the multiple listing service and on various internet sites that offer listing services. Furthermore, the Broker's marketing strategy resulted in multiple inquiries and three offers on the Zelzah Property. As of the date of the Reply, the Broker continued to market the Zelzah Property to generate overbids. [doc. 164, Decl. of Behnaz Tavakoli, ¶¶ 3-6 and Exhibit 2 thereto]. These efforts and offers establish that the Zelzah Property has been thoroughly marketed and that the sale price (which is subject to overbid) reflects the Zelzah Property's market value [doc. 164, pp. 6-7].

Mr. Schultz states that the $299,000 purchase price is only speculatively the best purchase price for the Zelzah Property. However, this assertion is based on Mr. Shultz's assumption that the property was not sufficiently marketed and his review of the multiple listing service for the Zelzah Property. In coming to his conclusion regarding the purchase price, Mr. Schultz does not claim to have seen the property in person [Schultz Decl., ¶¶ 4-6].

E. Sub-Rosa Plan

Debtor argues that the sale of the Zelzah Property, along with the sale of the Hillsborough and Woodley Properties, would constitute an impermissible "sub-rosa" plan. Debtor further indicates that she believes that the Trustee must first establish that a plan is infeasible before liquidating assets.

In Lionel, the Second Circuit Court of Appeals considered a proposed pre-confirmation sale, noting that such a sale would be appropriate if there was an "articulated business justification" for it. Lionel, 722 F.2d at 1070. Furthermore, the proposed sale does not take the place of a plan. After paying the allowed claims of creditors secured by the Zelzah Property, the Trustee is not proposing to distribute net proceeds to other creditors at this time [doc. 164, p. 10]. See In re Air Beds, Inc. 92 B.R. 419 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1988). Consequently, the contemplated sale of the Zelzah Property does not constitute an impermissible "sub-rosa" plan.

F. *Due Process Considerations

Debtor argues that the Motion should not be approved because § 363 sales are an inappropriate violation of the due process rights of Debtor and creditors to the estate. However, Debtor and the estate's creditors have been served with notice of the sale, and have had an opportunity to object. Furthermore, the Trustee has demonstrated that the sale of the Zelzah Property will generate funds with which she can make distributions to creditors. Finally, pursuant to the overbid procedures built into the sale terms, Debtor and any other interested party has the opportunity to bid on the Zelzah Property. Consequently, Debtor has not demonstrated that any party in interest's due process rights have been violated.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will grant the Motion.

I. BACKGROUND

Kandy Kiss of California, Inc. (the "Debtor") is a California corporation that was in the business of design, product development, wholesale manufacture, and sale of apparel to large retailers. IDFIX, Inc. ("Movant") produced fabric and garments for the Debtor.

In 2015, the Debtor and Movant had a dispute over certain garments that Movant produced for the Debtor. The Debtor refused to pay for the alleged nonconforming garments, which cost a total of $2,462,097.88 [doc. 137, Exh. A]. On July 14, 2016, the Debtor filed in state court a complaint against Movant and three other defendants, alleging breach of contract, breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing, conversion, open book account, account stated, unjust enrichment, and fraudulent concealment (the "State Court Action") [doc. 137, Exh A]. On December 1, 2016, Movant filed a cross-complaint against the Debtor and three other cross-defendants, alleging breach of contract, breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing, conversion, open book account, account stated, unjust enrichment, and fraudulent concealment (the "Cross-Complaint") [doc. 137, Exh A].

On February 14, 2017, an involuntary petition was filed against the Debtor. The State Court Action was stayed pursuant to the automatic stay. On September 19, 2017, the order for relief was entered in the Debtor's case [doc. 63].

On March 15, 2018, Movant filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay to proceed with the Cross-Complaint against the Debtor in the State Court Action (the "Motion") [doc. 137]. In the Motion, Movant argues that the Court must abstain from hearing the State Court Action because mandatory abstention under 28 U.S.C. § 1334 (c) constitutes cause for lifting the automatic stay. Movant also argues that relief from the automatic stay is proper using the multi-factor test from In re Sonnax Indus., Inc., 99 B.R. 591 (D. Vt. 1989), aff'd, 907 F.2d 1280 (2d Cir. 1990).

On April 4, 2018, the chapter 7 trustee ("Trustee") filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 139]. On April 11, 2018, Movant filed a reply to the Opposition [doc. 140].

II. DISCUSSION

A. Mandatory Abstention

28 U.S.C § 1334(c)(2) provides:

Upon timely motion of a party in a proceeding based upon a State law claim or State law cause of action, related to a case under title 11 but not arising under title 11 or arising in a case under title 11, with respect to which an action could not have been commenced in a court of the United States absent jurisdiction under this section, the district court shall abstain from hearing such proceeding if an action is commenced, and can be timely adjudicated, in a State forum of appropriate jurisdiction.

Mandatory abstention under 28 U.S.C. § 1334(c)(2) requires that the following seven elements be met:

(1) A timely motion; (2) a purely state law question; (3) a non-core proceeding § 157(c)(1); (4) a lack of independent federal jurisdiction absent the petition under Title 11; (5) that an action is commenced in a state court; (6) the state court action may be timely adjudicated; (7) a state forum of appropriate jurisdiction exists.

In re Gen. Carriers Corp., 258 B.R. 181, 189 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2001).

For the Court to be required to abstain, all seven elements of mandatory abstention must be present. Here the Motion was timely filed and there is no independent basis for federal jurisdiction outside of Title 11 of the United States Code as the Cross-Complaint alleges purely state law questions. Although the State Court Action may have an effect on future distribution to creditors, the Cross-Complaint does not otherwise raise any bankruptcy issues or impede the Trustee's administration of the case. Moreover, the State Court Action was commenced in state court and the state court has jurisdiction over the State Court Action.

However, it is unclear whether the state court can timely adjudicate the State Court Action. Compare In re Eastport Associates, 935 F.2d 1071, 1078-79 (9th Cir. 1991) (holding that the state court could not timely adjudicate the matter where parties would have to start litigation over in state court); and In re Smith, 389 B.R. 902, 921 n. 18 (Bankr. D. Nev. 2008) (noting that "there can be no timely adjudication" where the bankruptcy court can hear the matter before the state court); with Bowen Corp. v. Sec. Pac. Bank Idaho, F.S.B., 150 B.R. 777, 784 (Bankr. D. Idaho 1993) (finding the state court could adjudicate the matter much more quickly because a motion for summary judgment had already been filed and was pending before the action was removed to federal court). "[T]he party moving for abstention will bear the burden of demonstrating that a state court action can be timely adjudicated." In re First All. Mortgage Co., 269 B.R. 449, 455 (C.D. Cal. 2001). There is no trial set in the State Court Action and few resources have been expended in preparation for a trial in the State Court Action [doc. 140]. The parties would need to prosecute the State Court Action from start to finish because it was stayed in the early stages of litigation. Movant has not provided any evidence that the State Court Action can be timely adjudicated. On the other hand, if necessary, this Court could estimate Movant's claim sooner than the state court would be able to fully adjudicate the State Court Action and liquidate Movant's claim. Accordingly, it does not appear that all elements for mandatory abstention have been met.

B. Relief from the Automatic Stay

Section 362(d)(1) permits lifting of the automatic stay to continue pending litigation against a debtor in a nonbankruptcy forum. See Christensen v. Tucson Estates, Inc. (In re Tucson Estates, Inc.), 912 F.2d 1162, 1166 (9th Cir. 1990). In so determining, "the bankruptcy court should base its decision on the hardships imposed on the parties with an eye towards the overall goals of the Bankruptcy Code." In re C & S Grain Co., Inc., 47 F.3d 233, 238 (7th Cir. 1995) (emphasis added).

Factors that courts have used to determine whether to lift the automatic stay to allow litigation to proceed in a non-bankruptcy forum include:

- (1) Whether the relief will result in a partial or complete resolution of the issues.
- (2) The lack of any connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case.
- (3) Whether the foreign proceeding involves the debtor as a fiduciary.
- (4) Whether a specialized tribunal has been established to hear the particular cause of action and that tribunal has the expertise to hear such cases.
- (5) Whether the debtor's insurance carrier has assumed full financial responsibility for defending the litigation.
- (6) Whether the action essentially involves third parties, and the debtor functions only as a bailee or conduit for the goods or proceeds in question.
- (7) Whether litigation in another forum would prejudice the interests of other creditors, the creditors' committee and other interested parties.
- (8) Whether the judgment claim arising from the foreign action is subject to equitable subordination under Section 510(c).
- (9) Whether movant's success in the foreign proceeding would result in a judicial lien avoidable by the debtor under Section 522(f).
- (10) The interest of judicial economy and the expeditious and economical determination of litigation for the parties.
- (11) Whether the foreign proceedings have progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial.
- (12) The impact of the stay on the parties and the "balance of the hurt."

In re Curtis, 40 B.R. 795, 799–800 (Bankr. D. Utah 1984) (citations omitted); see also Sonnax, 907 F.2d at 1286 (listing factors). When applied to the pending Motion and case, the Sonnax factors do not appear to support relief from the automatic stay.

Whether the relief will result in a partial or complete resolution of the issues

This factor weighs against lifting the automatic stay. Allowing the State Court Action to proceed in state court would not allow immediate and complete resolution of the dispute between Movant and the Debtor. The state court can adjudicate the claims and cross-claims between the parties; however, Movant would still need to file a proof of claim in the Debtor's bankruptcy case in order to receive a distribution from the Trustee.

The lack of any connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case

This factor weighs against lifting the automatic stay. Although the State Court Action may have an effect on future distribution to creditors, the Cross-Complaint does not otherwise deal with any bankruptcy issues. However, if the Trustee were required to litigate the State Court Action in a different forum, such litigation may impede the Trustee's administration of the case.

Whether the foreign proceeding involves the debtor as a fiduciary

The State Court Action does not involve the Debtor's conduct as a fiduciary.

Whether a specialized tribunal has been established to hear the particular cause of action and that tribunal has the expertise to hear such cases

The Trustee contends that Movant has not met its burden to show that extraordinary circumstances exist for deviating from the well-established bankruptcy claims resolution process. The Court agrees.

Whether the debtor's insurance carrier has assumed full financial responsibility for defending the litigation

It is unclear whether the Debtor's insurance carrier, if any, has paid for costs of defending the State Court Action.

Whether litigation in another forum would prejudice the interests of other creditors, the creditors' committee and other interested parties

Movant argues there is no prejudice because all creditors will get paid a pro-rata share. However, the cost of liquidating Movant's claim in the State Court Action, potentially without any reason for doing so, may decrease the amount of funds available for unsecured creditors. This factor weighs against lifting the automatic stay.

equitable subordination under Section 510(c)

Chapter 7

At this time, it does not appear that any resulting judgment that Movant may obtain in the State Court Action would be subject to equitable subordination.

The interest of judicial economy and the expeditious and economical determination of litigation for the parties

This factor weighs in favor of lifting the automatic stay. The Debtor is one of four cross-defendants in the State Court Action. If the Court lifted the automatic stay, it would minimize potentially duplicative litigation in two different forums.

Whether the foreign proceedings have progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial

This factor weighs against lifting the automatic stay, because the State Court Action has not progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial. The State Court Action was stayed at the early stages of litigation. The parties have not expended significant resources in the State Court Action that would go to waste if the Court denies the Motion.

The impact of the stay on the parties and the "balance of the hurt."

Entry of judgment in the State Court Action would prejudice the Debtor. However, the Court can prohibit any enforcement of the judgment against the Debtor or the Debtor's estate during the pendency of its bankruptcy case. Still, lifting the stay does not appear warranted here because the State Court Action is at a very early stage, and allowing the parties to litigate the State Court Action may impede the administration of the Debtor's estate.

Movant contends that the Court lifting the automatic stay will ensure a level playing field because the Trustee is currently free to prosecute the State Court Action, but Movant is prevented from doing so by the automatic stay. However, the Trustee has not determined whether he will prosecute any of the Debtor's affirmative claims. Because the Trustee is not presently prosecuting the State Court Action, there is no need at this time for the Court to level the playing field. Accordingly, the "balance of the hurt" weighs against lifting the automatic stay.

III. CONCLUSION

In light of the foregoing, Movant has not shown that mandatory abstention under 28 U.S.C. § 1334(c)(2) applies to the State Court Action. In addition, the Sonnax factors weigh against lifting the automatic stay. Movant has not shown sufficient cause under 11 U.S.C § 362(d)(1) to warrant relief from the automatic stay to proceed with the nonbankruptcy action against the Debtor.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, Movant may proceed against the non-debtor defendants in the nonbankruptcy action. Movant also retains the right to file a proof of claim under 11 U.S.C. § 501 in the Debtor's bankruptcy case.

The Trustee must submit the order within seven (7) days.

I.      BACKGROUND

On November 4, 2016, HSBC Bank USA, N.A. ("HSBC") conducted a foreclosure sale of the real property located at 7730 Quakertown Avenue, Los Angeles, California 91306 (the "Property") [doc. 1, Exh. A].

On December 9, 2016, Olga Campos ("Defendant") filed chapter 13 case no. 1:16-bk-13500-MB (the "First Bankruptcy Case"). On February 8, 2017, the First Bankruptcy Case was dismissed because Defendant did not appear at the § 341(a) meeting and/or did not make the required preconfirmation plan payments [case no. 1:16-bk-13500-MB, doc. 22].

On March 28, 2017, Defendant filed an action in state court against HSBC and other defendants (the "State Court Action") [case no. 1:18-bk-10409-VK, doc. 7, Exh. 1]. In the State Court Action, Defendant alleged causes of action including wrongful foreclosure, negligence, unfair trade practices, cancellation of note, quiet title, and fraud in the initial loan processing and failure to provide truthful disclosure. On July 6, 2017, HSBC and the other defendants filed a demurrer in the State Court Action. On August 17, 2017, the state court entered a tentative ruling on the demurrer in the defendants' favor. On August 22, 2017, Defendant filed a request for dismissal of the State Court Action.

On May 16, 2017, Defendant filed chapter 13 case no. 1:17-bk-1192-VK (the "Second Bankruptcy Case"). On June 16, 2017, the Second Bankruptcy Case was converted to chapter 7 at Defendant's request [Case no. 1:17-bk-1192-VK, docs. 13, 14]. On September 5, 2017, the Second Bankruptcy Case was dismissed because Defendant did not appear at the § 341(a) meeting [case no. 1:17-bk-1192-VK, doc. 22].

On December 18, 2017, Haim Ramar ("Plaintiff") purchased the Property at a lender-arranged auction. On December 29, 2017, the grant deed transferring the Property to Plaintiff was recorded [doc. 1, Exh. A]. On December 31, 2017, Plaintiff served Defendant with a three-day notice to quit [doc. 1, Exh. A]. On January 5, 2018, Plaintiff filed an unlawful detainer action against Defendant (the "UD Action") [doc. 1, Exh. A]. Trial in the unlawful detainer action was scheduled for February 16, 2018.

On February 15, 2018, one day before the unlawful detainer trial, Defendant filed chapter 13 case no. 1:18-bk-10409-VK (the "Third Bankruptcy Case"). In her petition, Defendant listed the Property's address as her residence address [case no. 1:18-bk-10409-VK, doc. 1, at p.2]. Defendant listed the Property in her Schedules A/B. Id., at p. 12. Defendant did not list any creditors with claims secured by the Property. Id., at p. 23. Defendant listed the following unsecured claims in her Schedule E/F:

- HSBC, $15,000
- KS Enterprise, $10,000
- Plaintiff, $1,500
- HSBC, $75,000

Id., at pp. 24-25. In addition, in her Schedule J, Defendant disclosed that she pays $750 per month for rental income or home ownership expenses. Id., at p. 32.

On February 16, 2018, Plaintiff filed a motion for relief from stay to proceed with the UD Action (the "RFS Motion") [case no. 1:18-bk-10409-VK, doc. 10]. On March 14, 2018, the Court held a hearing on the RFS Motion. The Court granted relief from the automatic stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) and allowed Plaintiff to proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to obtain possession of the Property [case no. 1:18-bk-10409-VK, doc. 26].

On March 15, 2018, the automatic stay in the Third Bankruptcy Case terminated pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3). On March 22, 2018, the Court entered the order on the RFS Motion [case no. 1:18-bk-10409-VK, doc. 34].

On March 20, 2018, the state court held a hearing on the UD Action [doc. 4].

Defendant did not appear at the hearing. Id. The state court granted possession of the Property to Plaintiff. Id. On March 20, 2018, Defendant removed the unlawful detainer action to this Court (the "Notice of Removal") [doc. 1]. Also on March 20, 2018, Defendant filed a notice of conversion to chapter 7 in the Third Bankruptcy Case [case no. 1:18-bk-10409-VK, doc.31]. On March 21, 2018, the Court converted the Third Bankruptcy Case to chapter 7 [case no. 1:18-bk-10409-VK, doc.32].

On March 20, 2018, the Court the issued an order to show cause re remand of the UD Action (the "OSC") [doc. 2]. On March 22, 2018, Plaintiff timely filed a notice of objection to removal (the "Objection") [doc. 4]. Defendant did not timely file a reply to the OSC or the Objection.

On April 2, 2018, a Los Angeles County Sheriff lockout was scheduled pursuant to the state court order granting Plaintiff possession of the Property [doc. 6, ¶ 7]. On April 2, 2018, the state court granted Defendant a temporary restraining order preventing Plaintiff from enforcing the lockout. Id. at ¶ 7.

II. DISCUSSION

As an initial matter, Defendant did not comply with either the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") or the Local Bankruptcy Rules ("LBR") in removing the UD Action. FRBP 9027(a)(1) requires "a short and plain statement of the facts which entitle the party filing the notice to remove, contain a statement that upon removal of the claim or cause of action the proceeding is core or non-core and, if non-core, that the party filing the notice does or does not consent to entry of final orders or judgment by the bankruptcy judge." FRBP 9027. Here, Defendant did not provide any such statements pursuant to FRBP 9027(a)(1).

Moreover, under LBR 9027-1(d), "[u]nless otherwise ordered by the court, the party filing a notice of removal must file with the clerk: (A) [a] copy of the docket of the removed action from the court where the removed litigation was pending; and (B) [a] copy of every document on the docket . . . within 30 days after the date of filing of the notice of removal . . . ." Defendant has not filed any of these required documents.

1441-1455. Removal and remand of actions related to bankruptcy cases is governed by § 1452.

- (a) A party may remove any claim or cause of action in a civil action . . . to the district court for the district where such civil action is pending, if such district court has jurisdiction of such claim or cause of action under section 1334 of this title.
- (b) The court to which such claim or cause of action is removed may remand such claim or cause of action on any equitable ground. . . .

28 U.S.C. § 1452.

As set forth in § 1452, removal to a bankruptcy court requires that the court have jurisdiction of such claim or cause of action under 28 U.S.C. § 1334. Under § 1334, "the district courts shall have original and exclusive jurisdiction of all cases under title 11." "A matter 'arises under' the Bankruptcy Code if its existence depends on a substantive provision of bankruptcy law, that is, if it involves a cause of action created or determined by a statutory provision of the Bankruptcy Code." In re Ray, 624 F.3d 1124, 1131 (9th Cir. 2010).

"A proceeding 'arises in' a case under the Bankruptcy Code if it is an administrative matter unique to the bankruptcy process that has no independent existence outside of bankruptcy and could not be brought in another forum, but whose cause of action is not expressly rooted in the Bankruptcy Code." Id.

A case is "related to" a case under title 11 if "the outcome of the proceeding could conceivably have any effect on the estate being administered in bankruptcy." In re Fietz, 852 F.2d 455, 457 (9th Cir. 1988) (citing Pacor, Inc. v. Higgins, 743 F.2d 984, 994 (3d Cir. 1984)). Only matters over which the district courts have jurisdiction under § 1334 are in turn referred to the bankruptcy courts. 28 U.S.C. § 157(a) ("Each district court may provide that any or all cases under title 11 and any or all proceedings arising under title 11 or arising in or related to a case under title 11 shall be referred to the bankruptcy judges for the district.").

The Court strictly construes the removal statutes against removal jurisdiction, and jurisdiction must be rejected if there is any doubt as to the right of removal. See Gaus v. Miles, Inc., 980 F.2d 564, 566 (9th Cir.1992). The party seeking removal bears the burden of establishing federal jurisdiction. See Prize Frize, Inc. v. Matrix, Inc., 167 F.3d 1261, 1265 (9th Cir. 1999).

Here, the only conceivable type of jurisdiction this Court would have for a state unlawful detainer action would be "related to" jurisdiction. "[A] civil proceeding is 'related to' the bankruptcy if its outcome could conceivably have any effect on the bankruptcy estate. The proceeding need not be against the debtor or the debtor's property. It is sufficient if the 'outcome could alter the debtor's rights, liabilities, options, or freedom of action (either positively or negatively) and which in any way impacts upon the handling and administration of the bankruptcy estate.'" ACI-HDT Supply Co., 204 B.R. at 237.

The foreclosure of the Property occurred in 2016. On December 18, 2017, Plaintiff purchased the Property at auction, and recorded the grant deed transferring the Property to Plaintiff on December 29, 2017. Defendant filed the Third Bankruptcy Case on February 15, 2018. As a result, Defendant has no claim to the Property and the Property is not property of Defendant's bankruptcy estate in the Third Bankruptcy Case. Because the Property is not property of Defendant's bankruptcy estate, the UD Action has no bearing on the administration of the Third Bankruptcy Case. Accordingly, the Court does not have jurisdiction over the UD Action because it is not "related to" the bankruptcy.

It appears that the Court does not have jurisdiction over the UD Action and that remand is warranted. However, even if this Court does have jurisdiction, the factors discussed below favor remand.

B. Remand

"Bankruptcy courts have broad discretion to remand cases over which they otherwise have jurisdiction on any equitable ground." In re Enron Corp., 296 B.R. 505, 508 (C.D. Cal. 2003). 28 U.S.C. § 1452(b) provides, in pertinent part: "The court to which such claim or cause of action is removed may remand such claim or cause of action on any equitable ground." "[E]ven where federal jurisdiction attaches in actions 'related to' bankruptcy proceedings, Congress has explicitly provided for courts to find that those matters are more properly adjudicated in state court." *Parke v. (quoting Williams v. Shell Oil Co., 169 B.R. 684, 690 (S.D. Cal. 1994)).

Courts generally consider up to fourteen factors in deciding whether to remand a case to state court. Enron, at 508. Factors courts should consider in deciding whether to remand are:

- (1) the effect or lack thereof on the efficient administration of the estate if the Court recommends [remand or] abstention;
- (2) extent to which state law issues predominate over bankruptcy issues;
- (3) difficult or unsettled nature of applicable law;
- (4) presence of related proceeding commenced in state court or other nonbankruptcy proceeding;
- (5) jurisdictional basis, if any, other than [section] 1334;
- (6) degree of relatedness or remoteness of proceeding to main bankruptcy case;
- (7) the substance rather than the form of an asserted core proceeding;
- (8) the feasibility of severing state law claims from core bankruptcy matters to allow judgments to be entered in state court with enforcement left to the bankruptcy court;
- (9) the burden on the bankruptcy court's docket;
- (10) the likelihood that the commencement of the proceeding in bankruptcy court involves forum shopping by one of the parties;
- (11) the existence of a right to a jury trial;
- (12) the presence in the proceeding of nondebtor parties;
- (13) comity; and
- (14) the possibility of prejudice to other parties in the action.

Id., 508 n. 2; see also In re Cytodyn of New Mexico, Inc., 374 B.R. 733, 738 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2007).

The majority of the Enron factors weigh in favor of remanding the UD Action. Remand would have no effect on the efficient administration of Defendant's bankruptcy estate. The Property was foreclosed upon prepetition and the Property is not part of Defendant's bankruptcy estate. The UD Action concerns only state law issues, with which the state court has greater expertise.

Chapter 13

There does not appear to be any jurisdictional basis for this Court to hear this claim outside of § 1334. Because the Property is not property of Defendant's bankruptcy estate, there is essentially no relatedness between the UD Action and Defendant's bankruptcy case.

There is no core proceeding here. The state court has fully adjudicated the UD Action. The expertise of a bankruptcy court is not needed to determine any of these state law issues. There is similarly no need to "sever" state law claims. All of the claims are state law claims.

"The ninth factor, the burden on the bankruptcy court's docket, is neutral. Bankruptcy courts are sufficiently busy that a multi-week trial is difficult to accommodate, but it can be done if necessary." In re Franklin, 179 B.R. 913, 928 n40 (Bankr.E.D.Cal. 1995). There is nothing particular about this adversary that implies it would be more difficult or burdensome for this Court than any other adversary proceeding. However, the issues are solely state law issues, which are not within this Court's expertise. This may be more time consuming for this Court to have to research and rule on than for a state court.

It appears that the UD Action was removed here solely as forum shopping. Defendant appears to have removed the UD Action to delay Plaintiff's possession of the Property and to stay in the Property as long as possible. In addition, the parties do not appear to have consented to a jury trial in this Court.

"Comity dictates that California courts should have the right to adjudicate the exclusively state law claims involving California-centric plaintiffs and California-centric transactions." In re Enron Corp., 296 B.R. 505, 509 (C.D. Cal. 2003). Here, the UD Action involves a California-centric plaintiff and California-centric transactions—as discussed above, there is no particular reason why the expertise of this Court is necessary to determine the issues presented in the UD Action. There is no impact on the administration of the bankruptcy estate if the case stays in state court.

Finally, Plaintiff has been prejudiced because the UD Action already proceeded to judgment in state court. Plaintiff should not have to relitigate the UD Action because

C.      *Was Removal Improper and is Plaintiff Entitled to Attorneys' Fees?

On granting a motion for remand, the federal court may order the payment of "just costs and any actual expenses, including attorney fees, incurred as a result of the removal." 28 U.S.C. § 1447(c). Section 1447(c), and the costs and fees provision in particular, applies to bankruptcy-related removals under § 1452(a). See Things Remembered, Inc. v. Petrarca, 516 U.S. 124, 128-29 (1995) ("There is no express indication in § 1452 that Congress intended that statute to be the exclusive provision governing removals and remands in bankruptcy."); Daleske v. Fairfield Communities, Inc., 17 F.3d 321, 324 (10th Cir. 1994) ("[T]he provisions of 28 U.S.C. § 1447(c) apply to cases removed under § 1452(a) as well."); Billington v. Winograde, 207 B.R. 935, 942-43 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. 1997) (awarding fees pursuant to § 1447(c) for case removed to bankruptcy court); see also Miller v. Cardinale, 280 B.R. 483, 494 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2002), aff'd on other grounds, 361 F.3d 539 (9th Cir. 2004) ("It is well settled that § 1447(c) applies to bankruptcy removals and remands.").

The decision whether to award costs "is within the discretion of the district court, and bad faith need not be demonstrated." Moore v. Permanente Med. Grp., Inc., 981 F.2d 443, 448 (9th Cir. 1992). "Even after the statute was amended [to remove the word 'improvidently'], 'the propriety of the defendant's removal continues to be central in determining whether to impose fees.'" Daleske, 17 F.3d at 324 (quoting Miranti v. Lee, 3 F.3d 925, 928 (5th Cir. 1993)).

Under § 1447(c), whether the removal was "improper" or "defective" is neither dispositive nor the proper inquiry. Gardner v. UICI, 508 F.3d 559, 562 (9th Cir. 2007). Instead, the proper inquiry turns on the reasonableness of the removal. Martin v. Franklin Capital Corp., 546 U.S. 132, 136, 126 S.Ct. 704, 708-09 (2005). Absent unusual circumstances, the court may award costs and expenses under § 1447(c) only if the removing party lacks an objectively reasonable basis for seeking removal. Id. Conversely, if the removing party has an objectively reasonable basis for removal, costs and expenses should be denied. Id.; see also Lussier v. Dollar Tree Stores, Inc., 518 F.3d 1062, 1065 (9th Cir. 2008) ("Resolving a circuit split on the issue, Martin explicitly rejected the view that attorney's fees should presumptively, or automatically, be awarded on remand.").

In Martin, the Supreme Court discussed the "large objectives" of § 1447(c) as follows:

The process of removing a case to federal court and then having it remanded back to state court delays resolution of the case, imposes additional costs on both parties, and wastes judicial resources. Assessing costs and fees on remand reduces the attractiveness of removal as a method for delaying litigation and imposing costs on the plaintiff. The appropriate test for awarding fees under § 1447(c) should recognize the desire to deter removals sought for the purpose of prolonging litigation and imposing costs on the opposing party, while not undermining Congress' basic decision to afford defendants a right to remove as a general matter, when the statutory criteria is satisfied.

546 U.S. at 140.

Here, it is unclear why Defendant removed the UD Action to this Court. Judgment in the UD Action was entered on March 20, 2018, just prior to removal. As such, there does not appear to be anything left for this Court to adjudicate in the UD Action. The removal of the fully-adjudicated UD Action was objectively unreasonable. In addition, in the Notice of Removal, Defendant did not provide any statutory basis for jurisdiction over the UD Action. Furthermore, the UD Action does not have any connection with the Third Bankruptcy Case, because the Property is not property of the Defendant's bankruptcy estate. Accordingly, the Court has discretion to award attorney's fees to Plaintiff incurred as a result of the objectively unreasonable removal.

III. CONCLUSION

In light of the foregoing, the Court will remand the UD Action to state court. No later than May 2, 2018, Plaintiff must submit a supplemental declaration supported by admissible evidence of fees and costs incurred in connection with opposing the removal of the UD Action.

Plaintiff must submit the order within seven (7) days.

Tentative Ruling:

Grant as to all causes of action, with leave to amend.

I. BACKGROUND

On August 21, 2017, Daniel Scott Borshell ("Defendant") filed a voluntary chapter 7 bankruptcy petition. The deadline for objecting to Defendant's discharge was November 27, 2017. On December 4, 2017, Defendant received a discharge.

On November 21, 2017, Oggi's Pizza and Brewing Company ("Plaintiff") filed an adversary complaint (the "Complaint") against Defendant for nondischargeability of the debt owed to Plaintiff under 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2)(A), (a)(4), and (a)(6). The Complaint alleged the following facts:

On April 19, 2001, Defendant and Plaintiff entered into a franchise agreement (the "Franchise Agreement"), under which Defendant and others owned and operated one of Plaintiff's franchises in Vista, California. Various issues arose under the Franchise Agreement, and Plaintiff served Defendant with multiple notices of default. (Complaint, ¶ 23.) On August 6, 2009, Plaintiff notified Defendant of the termination of the Franchise Agreement as a result of Defendant's repeated defaults. (Complaint, ¶ 24.) Thereafter, Defendant failed to comply with the termination provisions and requirements set forth in the Franchise Agreement, and continued to use Plaintiff's name, logo, commercial symbol, service marks, trade names and other intellectual property, and continued to hold himself out as a franchisee of Plaintiff.

After Plaintiff terminated the Franchise Agreement, Defendant operated as a franchisee of Plaintiff but did not use the same high quality food ingredients required of franchisees and did not pay any royalty fees. This conduct "damaged the reputation and goodwill" of Plaintiff's franchise. (Complaint, ¶ 27.)

Defendant used statements in writing regarding his financial condition that were materially false; "on which Plaintiff [sic], to whom Defendant was liable; and that Defendant caused to be made or published with intent to deceive. (Complaint, ¶ 18.) Defendant made such false representations with the intent to deceive Plaintiff and to secure payment for the fraudulent sale of the Plaintiff's intellectual property before Plaintiff could defend its property. (Complaint, ¶ 28.)

At a later time, Defendant "secured a new buyer for his restaurant, holding himself out as a franchisee of [Plaintiff's] restaurants." (Complaint, ¶ 29.) Defendant "colluded" with the other defendants to keep the fact of the transfer secret from Plaintiff "and perpetuated intentional misrepresentations to [Plaintiff] in an attempt to defraud them about the true nature of the transaction. [Plaintiff] relied on the false statements to their detriment." (Complaint, ¶ 29.) In addition, Defendant's actions complicated Plaintiff's "ability to enforce its rights against him, recover its [i]ntellectual [p]roperty and prevent the unauthorized purchaser from misappropriating their property and damaging their reputation." (Complaint, ¶ 30.)

Defendant additionally made false statements when he held himself out as conducting a franchise of Plaintiff after the Franchise Agreement terminated. Defendant falsely represented that he possessed rights as a franchisee and retained rights to assign or convey the intellectual property. (Complaint, ¶ 32.)

At all times, a fiduciary relationship existed between Plaintiff and Defendant "in performance of their responsibilities as [f]ranchisee as to the intellectual and personal property of the [f]ranchisor." (Complaint, ¶ 36.) Pursuant to the Franchise Agreement, Plaintiff entrusted Defendant "with certain rights to use and the obligation to care and protect [Plaintiff's] intellectual and personal property." (Complaint, ¶ 38.) Defendant breached his fiduciary duty when he refused to return and continued to use and benefit from Plaintiff's intellectual property after the Franchise Agreement was terminated. (Complaint, ¶ 41.) In addition, Defendant transferred the intellectual property without the required consent of Plaintiff and refused to unwind the transaction. (Complaint, ¶ 43.) Defendant's breach of his fiduciary duty to Plaintiff led to an unauthorized purchaser usurping Plaintiff's intellectual property. (Complaint, ¶ 44.)

On August 28, 2009, Plaintiff filed an action against Defendant and other defendants (collectively, "State Court Defendants") in state court (the "State Court Action"). (Complaint ¶ 7.) In December 2010, the state court entered a stipulated judgment and order for permanent injunction. That order enjoined the State Court Defendants from: (1) using Plaintiff's name, logo and commercial symbol on any menus, advertisements, promotional material on any item within, or for sale at, Defendant's restaurant; (2) representing to the public that the Vista, California restaurant was a franchise of Plaintiff; and (3) using Plaintiff's products and recipes. (Complaint, ¶ 8.)

On December 16, 2011, after a jury trial, the jury returned a verdict finding Defendant liable for conversion, concealment, conspiracy, and misappropriation of trade secrets. (Complaint, ¶ 10.) The jury also found that Defendant had acted willfully and/or maliciously in his misappropriation of trade secrets, and that "[Defendant] and his company, DSB Enterprises, Inc., acted with malice, oppression, or fraud." (Complaint, ¶ 11.) The jury awarded Plaintiff $1,740,000 in damages against Defendant (jointly and severally with other defendants) with post judgment interest at 10% per annum. (Complaint, ¶ 12.)

On December 22, 2017, Defendant filed a motion for an order dismissing Plaintiff's claims for relief for nondischargeability pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 12(b)(6) (the "Motion") [doc. 6] as well as a request for judicial notice (the

The Judgment provides, in relevant part:

- Defendant's motion for nonsuit was granted as to both causes of action for intentional and negligent misrepresentation, and as to punitive damages. (Judgment, at p. 3.)
- Defendant was found liable for conversion, concealment, conspiracy, misappropriation of trade secrets. (Id., at pp. 4–5.)
- Defendant acted "willfully and/or maliciously" as to misappropriation of trade secrets. (Id., at p. 5.)
- The State Court Defendants are "jointly and severally" liable for the sum of $1,740,000. (Id., at p. 9.)

The Minute Order provides, in relevant part:

–Intentional Misrepresentation/Negligent Misrepresentation.

The court grants the motion [for nonsuit] on these claims with respect to Daniel Borshell and DSB. The only misrepresentation argued was as to the P&L statements, but the evidence of justifiable reliance is wholly absent. Indeed, Ms. Hadjis expressly did not rely on them; she sent Mr. Borshell's sister back (twice) to do them over. . . .

–Punitive Damages Claims.

The court finds that plaintiffs have failed to offer clear and convincing evidence of oppression, fraud or malice by [Daniel Borshell]. As to "fraud," the court has granted the non-suit as noted immediately above. The evidence is overwhelming that Mr. Borshell was desperate to sell the restaurant and get out from under the debt and other challenges of running it. Acting in one's self interest does not, without more, equate

II. LEGAL STANDARDS

A. Rule 12(b)(6)

A motion to dismiss [pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6)] will only be granted if the complaint fails to allege enough facts to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face. A claim has facial plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged. The plausibility standard is not akin to a probability requirement, but it asks for more than a sheer possibility that a defendant has acted unlawfully.

We accept factual allegations in the complaint as true and construe the pleadings in the light most favorable to the non-moving party. Although factual allegations are taken as true, we do not assume the truth of legal conclusions merely because they are cast in the form of factual allegations. Therefore, conclusory allegations of law and unwarranted inferences are insufficient to defeat a motion to dismiss.

In evaluating a Rule 12(b)(6) motion, review is "limited to the contents of the complaint." Clegg v. Cult Awareness Network, 18 F.3d 752, 754 (9th Cir. 1994). Parties must instead "rely on summary judgment and control of discovery to weed out unmeritorious claims." Leatherman v. Tarrant Cty. Narcotics Intelligence & Coordination Unit, 507 U.S. 163, 168–69 (1993). However, without converting the motion to one for summary judgment, exhibits attached to the complaint, as well as matters of public record, may be considered in determining whether dismissal is proper. See Parks Sch. of Bus., Inc. v. Symington, 51 F.3d 1480, 1484 (9th Cir. 1995); Mack v. S. Bay Beer Distribs., Inc., 798 F.2d 1279, 1282 (9th Cir. 1986).

A court may also consider evidence "on which the complaint necessarily relies if: (1) the complaint refers to the document; (2) the document is central to the plaintiff's claim; and (3) no party questions the authenticity of the copy attached to the [Rule] 12 (b)(6) motion." *Marder v. Pursuant to Rule 9(b), "[i]n alleging fraud or mistake, a party must state with particularity the circumstances constituting fraud or mistake. Malice, intent, knowledge, and other conditions of a person's mind may be alleged generally." Allegations must be "specific enough to give defendants notice of the particular misconduct which is alleged to constitute the fraud charged . . .". *Neubronner v. C. Leave to Amend

Where a complaint is insufficient under Rule 12(b)(6), a court has discretion to grant the plaintiff leave to amend. Under Rule 15(a)(2) "the court should freely give leave [to amend] when justice so requires." However, dismissal without leave to amend is appropriate when the court is satisfied that the deficiencies in the complaint could not

D. Claim Preclusion

In California, claim preclusion "bars relitigation of a cause of action that previously was adjudicated in another proceeding between the same parties or parties in privity with them." Citizens for Open Gov't v. City of Lodi, 205 Cal. App. 4th 296, 324 (2012). "Claim preclusion arises if a second suit involves (1) the same cause of action (2) between the same parties (3) after a final judgment on the merits in the first suit." Id. Claim preclusion bars "not only issues that were actually litigated but also issues that could have been litigated." Id.

E. Issue Preclusion

"A bankruptcy court may rely on the issue preclusive effect of an existing state court judgment . . . . In so doing, the bankruptcy court must apply the forum state's law of issue preclusion." In re Plyam, 530 B.R. 456, 462 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2015); see also 28 U.S.C. § 1738 (federal courts must give "full faith and credit" to state court judgments). The requirements for issue preclusion in California are:

- (1) the issue sought to be precluded from relitigation is identical to that decided in a former proceeding;
- (2) the issue was actually litigated in the former proceeding;
- (3) the issue was necessarily decided in the former proceeding;
- (4) the decision in the former proceeding is final and on the merits; and
- (5) the party against whom preclusion is sought was the same as, or in privity with, the party to the former proceeding.

In re Harmon, 250 F.3d 1240, 1245 (9th Cir. 2001) (citing Lucido v. Super. Ct., 51 Cal. 3d 335, 341 (1990)). "California further places an additional limitation on issue preclusion: courts may give preclusive effect to a judgment 'only if application of preclusion furthers the public policies underlying the doctrine.'" Plyam, 530 B.R. at 462 (quoting Harmon, 250 F.3d at 1245). "The party asserting preclusion bears the burden of establishing the threshold requirements." Harmon, at 1245. "This means providing 'a record sufficient to reveal the controlling facts and pinpoint the exact issues litigated in the prior action.'" Plyam, at *3 (quoting In re Kelly, 182 B.R. 255,

III. DISCUSSION

A. Documents Not Attached to the Complaint

As an initial matter, the parties in their pleadings discuss at length documents that were not attached to the Complaint. Although the Complaint did not attach the Judgment, the Complaint refers to and relies upon the Judgment. The Judgment was attached to the RJN in support of the Motion. It does not appear that either party has questioned the authenticity of the Judgment. Consequently, under Marder, the Court may consider that document.

The Complaint refers to and relies upon the Franchise Agreement. However, neither Plaintiff nor Defendant provided a copy of the Franchise Agreement for the Court's review. Therefore, under Marder, the Court cannot consider the Franchise Agreement in assessing the sufficiency of the claims in the Complaint.

B. Defendant's Liability

In the Motion, Defendant argues that the Judgment did not apportion damages as to each cause of action, or as to each of the State Court Defendants. (Motion, at p. 4.) However, the Judgment provides that the State Court Defendants are "jointly and severally" liable for the judgment amount of $1,740,000. (Doc. 7, Exh. A, p. 9.)

C. Claim and Issue Preclusion

Defendant argues that the Judgment, which granted a motion for nonsuit in part, has preclusive effect as to Plaintiff's fraud allegations. Pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure ("C.C.P.") § 581c(c), "[i]f [a] motion [for nonsuit] is granted, unless the court in its order for judgment otherwise specifies, the judgment of nonsuit operates as an adjudication upon the merits." See also Am. Broad. Companies, Inc. v. Walter Reade-Sterling, Inc., 43 Cal. App. 3d 401, 406 (1974).

With respect to claim preclusion, it appears that the judgment for nonsuit is a final adjudication on the merits pursuant to C.C.P. § 581c(c). Plaintiff and Defendant were parties in the State Court Action and are parties in the pending adversary proceeding. However, it is not clear that the causes of action described in the Judgment are the same as Plaintiff's claim for relief under § 523(a)(2)(A), as alleged in the Complaint.

With respect to issue preclusion, Plaintiff and Defendant were parties in the State Court Action and are parties in the pending adversary proceeding. It appears that the issues of intentional and negligent misrepresentation were actually litigated and necessarily decided in the State Court Action, and that the judgment of nonsuit is a final adjudication on the merits pursuant to C.C.P. § 581c(c). However, it is not clear that the issues described in the Judgment are identical to the issue of fraud alleged in the Complaint.

Defendant argues that the Minute Order has a preclusive effect on Plaintiff's fraud and malice allegations. With respect to Defendant, the Minute Order indicates that the state court granted the motion for nonsuit as to the intentional misrepresentation and negligent misrepresentation claims. The state court noted that the "only misrepresentation argued was as to the P&L statements, but the evidence of justifiable reliance is wholly absent." However, without additional information and context, the Court cannot assess the impact of this determination, as set forth in the Minute Order.

In the Minute Order, the state court also held that "plaintiffs have failed to offer clear and convincing evidence of oppression, fraud or malice by this defendant." The Minute Order further states that the state court granted the nonsuit as to fraud (i.e., intentional and negligent misrepresentation). However, the state court's determination that there was no clear and convincing evidence of oppression, fraud or malice does not preclude the existence of fraud under § 523(a)(2)(A), where the burden of proof is a preponderance of the evidence (see below). Accordingly, and to the extent that the Court can take judicial notice of the matters contained in the Minute Order, it is not clear that the statements in the Minute Order establish any preclusive effect in the pending adversary proceeding.

To prevail on a § 523(a)(2)(A) claim, Plaintiff must prove by a preponderance of the evidence:

- (1) misrepresentation, fraudulent omission or deceptive conduct by the debtor;
- (2) knowledge of the falsity or deceptiveness of his statement or conduct;
- (3) an intent to deceive;
- (4) justifiable reliance by the creditor on the debtor's statement or conduct; and
- (5) damage to the creditor proximately caused by its reliance on the debtor's statement or conduct

"It is not necessary that misrepresentations be communicated directly to the creditor so long as there is reason to expect that the creditor will rely on the misrepresentation and that her conduct will be detrimentally influenced thereby." In re Cleary, 487 B.R. 633, 642 (Bankr. D. Md. 2013), aff'd, Case No. ADV 08-00264, 2013 WL 6713188 (D. Md. Dec. 18, 2013), aff'd sub nom. Limberger v. Cleary, 585 F. App'x 165 (4th Cir. 2014) (citing Sempione v. Provident Bank of Md., 75 F.3d 951, 962 (4th Cir.1996)).

In the Complaint, Plaintiff alleges that Defendant continued to operate as a franchisee of Plaintiff after the termination of the Franchise Agreement. In doing so, Defendant continued to hold himself out as a franchisee of Plaintiff to the general public, when in fact he was not. Plaintiff further alleges that Defendant made an intentional misrepresentation to the buyer of Defendant's restaurant that Defendant was still a franchisee of Plaintiff. In doing so, Defendant allegedly obtained the proceeds of the sale through false pretenses, false representations, and actual fraud.

Assuming the above allegations to be true, it does not appear that the foregoing representations were made by Defendant to Plaintiff. Under Cleary, misrepresentations need not be made directly to a creditor if there is reason to expect that a creditor will rely on the misrepresentation. Notwithstanding Cleary, it is not apparent from the face of the Complaint that Plaintiff has sufficiently alleged that there was reason to expect that Plaintiff relied on Defendant's misrepresentations (which are not described), or how Plaintiff did so.

Plaintiff makes conclusory allegations that the above misrepresentations to the general public and to the buyer "were made by [Defendant] with the intent to deceive [Plaintiff][.]" (Complaint, ¶ 28.) Plaintiff further alleges that "[Defendant] colluded with the other Defendants to keep the fact of the transfer secreted from [Plaintiff] and perpetrated intentional misrepresentations to [Plaintiff] in an attempt to defraud them about the true nature of the transaction. [Plaintiff] relied on the false statements to their detriment." (Complaint, ¶ 29.) Such conclusory allegations are insufficient to state a claim for relief under § 523(a)(2)(A) and Rule 9(b), which requires that fraud allegations be pled with specificity.

In its Opposition, Plaintiff argues that its fraud allegations are sufficient because the state court made a finding that the Debtor engaged in concealment, which requires an intentional misrepresentation. Under California law:

The required elements for fraudulent concealment are:

(1) concealment or suppression of a material fact; (2) by a defendant with a duty to disclose the fact to the plaintiff; (3) the defendant intended to defraud the plaintiff by intentionally concealing or suppressing the fact; (4) the plaintiff was unaware of the fact and would not have acted as he or she did if he or she had known of the concealed or suppressed fact; and (5) plaintiff sustained damage as a result of the concealment or suppression of the fact.

Graham v. Bank of Am., N.A., 226 Cal. App. 4th 594, 606 (2014). Plaintiff refers in the Complaint to the finding of concealment in the Judgment. However, to state a claim for relief under § 523(a)(2)(A), the Complaint does not include sufficient facts regarding that determination set forth in the Judgment.

capacity, embezzlement, or larceny." A debt is nondischargeable for fraud or defalcation while acting in a fiduciary capacity "where (1) an express trust existed, (2) the debt was caused by fraud or defalcation, and (3) the debtor acted as a fiduciary to the creditor at the time the debt was created." In re Niles, 106 F.3d 1456, 1459 (9th Cir. 1997).

1. Existence of Trust/Fiduciary Relationship

Whether a relationship is a fiduciary one within the meaning of § 523(a)(4) is a question of federal law. Ragsdale v. Haller, 780 F.2d 794, 795 (9th Cir. 1986); see also In re Cantrell, 269 B.R. 413, 420 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2001). In the context of dischargeability, the fiduciary relationship must arise from an express or technical trust that was imposed before and without reference to the wrongdoing that caused the debt. Ragsdale, 780 F.2d at 796; see also In re Stern, 403 B.R. 58, 66 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2009) ("In order for the debt to be actionable for nondischargeability, the debtor must have been a trustee before the alleged wrong and without reference thereto; the debtor must have already been a trustee before the debt was created."); Cantrell, 269 B.R. at 420 ("Only relationships arising from express or technical trusts qualify as fiduciary relationships under § 523(a)(4)."). Under § 523(a)(4), the "scope of the term 'fiduciary capacity' is a question of federal law," but "the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has considered state law to ascertain whether the requisite trust relationship exists." In re Honkanen, 446 B.R. 373, 379 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2011); Ragsdale, 780 F.2d at 796.

"A trust under California law may be formed by express agreement, by statute, or by case law." Cantrell, 269 B.R. at 420. An express trust under California law requires the following five elements: (1) present intent to create a trust; (2) a trustee; (3) trust property; (4) a proper legal purpose; and (5) a beneficiary. Honkanen, at 379 n.6 (citing Cal. Prob. Code §§ 15201–15205). A technical trust under California law is one "arising from the relation of attorney, executor, or guardian, and not to debts due by a bankrupt in the character of an agent, factor, commission merchant, and the like." Id. at n.7 (quoting Royal Indem. Co. v. Sherman, 269 P.2d 123, 125 (1954)). "Trusts arising as remedial devices to breaches of implied or express contracts—such as resulting or constructive trusts—are excluded, while statutory trusts that bear the hallmarks of an express trust are not." Id. (citing In re Pedrazzini, 644 F.2d 756, 759 (9th Cir. 1981)).

Chapter 7

Here, Plaintiff does not allege in the Complaint that any term of the Franchise Agreement, statute, or case law gave rise to an express or technical trust under California law. Plaintiff alleges that "[a]t all times, a fiduciary relationship existed between Plaintiff[] and [Defendant][.]" (Complaint, ¶ 36.) Plaintiff also alleges that "pursuant to the terms of the Franchise Agreement[,]" Defendant "owed a fiduciary duty to care for [Plaintiff's] [i]ntellectual [p]roperty, on behalf of [Plaintiff] and to protect and preserve the property." (Id., ¶ 38.) These allegations are insufficient to indicate the existence of an express or technical trust under California law.

2. Defalcation

Under § 523(a)(4), debts related to "defalcation while acting in a fiduciary capacity," are nondischargeable. "Defalcation is defined as 'misappropriation of trust funds or money held in any fiduciary capacity.'" In re Lewis, 97 F.3d 1182, 1187 (9th Cir. 1996).

In the Complaint, Plaintiff alleges that Defendant misappropriated Plaintiff's intellectual property when Defendant continued to operate the franchise after the Franchise Agreement was terminated and sold the franchise and the intellectual property to a buyer without Plaintiff's approval. These allegations do not appear to concern Defendant's misappropriation of funds held in a trust, as required to state a claim for defalcation under § 523(a)(4).

F. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6)

11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6) states that a discharge under 11 U.S.C. § 727 does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt "for willful and malicious injury by the debtor to another entity or to the property of another entity." A tort judgment against a debtor does not necessarily establish the "willful and malicious injury" elements unless the underlying tort required findings of both "willful" and "malicious" conduct by a debtor. See In re Busch, 311 B.R. at 657, 668–69 (Bankr. N.D.N.Y. 2004); In re Peklar, 260 F.3d 1035, 1037–1038 (9th Cir. 2001); In re Plyam, 530 BR 456, 469–70 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2015).

Demonstrating willfulness requires a showing that defendant intended to cause the injury, not merely the acts leading to the injury. Kawaauhau v. Geiger, 523 U.S. 57, 61–62 (1998). Debts "arising from recklessly or negligently inflicted injuries do not fall within the compass of § 523(a)(6)." Id. at 64. It suffices, however, if the debtor knew that harm to the creditor was "substantially certain." In re Su, 290 F.3d 1140, 1145–46 (9th Cir. 2002); In re Jercich, 238 F.3d 1202, 1208 (9th Cir. 2001) ("[T]he willful injury requirement of § 523(a)(6) is met when it is shown either that the debtor had a subjective motive to inflict the injury or that the debtor believed that injury was substantially certain to occur as a result of his conduct.") (emphasis in Jercich).

Under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6), the injury must also be the result of maliciousness. Su, 290 F.3d at 1146. Maliciousness requires (1) a wrongful act; (2) done intentionally; (3) which necessarily causes injury; (4) without just cause or excuse. Id., at 1147. Maliciousness does not require "personal hatred, spite, or ill-will." In re Bammer, 131 F.3d 788, 791 (9th Cir. 1997). In addition, "[m]alice can be inferred based on the nature of the wrongful act." In re Ormsby, 591 F.3d 1199, 1207 (9th Cir. 2010).

Section 523(a)(6) generally applies to torts rather than to contracts, and an intentional breach of contract generally will not give rise to a nondischargeable debt, unless it is accompanied by tortious conduct which results in willful and malicious injury. Jercich, 238 F.3d at 1205; Lockerby v. Sierra, 535 F.3d 1038, 1040 (9th Cir. 2008) ("an intentional breach of contract cannot give rise to nondischargeability under § 523(a)(6) unless it is accompanied by conduct that constitutes a tort under state law").

In the Complaint, Plaintiff alleges that Defendant "engaged in willful and malicious conduct as well as in the conversion of [Defendant's] assets." (Complaint, ¶ 15.) Plaintiff alleges that the Judgment establishes that Defendant was liable for conversion, concealment, conspiracy, and misappropriation of trade secrets. (Id., ¶ 16.) Plaintiff further alleges that Defendant "acted willfully and/or maliciously[,]" and acted "willfully, maliciously, and with deliberate intent to deceive [Plaintiff]." (Id., ¶ 17.)

Plaintiff alleges that the Judgment established that Defendant "acted willfully and/or maliciously" with regard to misappropriation of trade secrets. (Judgment, at p. 5.) However, it is unclear from this equivocal language in the Judgment whether this finding is sufficient to state a claim for "willful and malicious" injury under § 523(a)(6). Moreover, Plaintiff was not awarded punitive damages against Defendant; this suggests that Defendant's conduct was not willful and malicious, within the meaning of § 523(a)(6).

Because Defendant was held liable in the State Court Action for conversion, Plaintiff contends that Plaintiff has a meritorious claim for relief under § 523(a)(6). However, as held by the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals:

A judgment for conversion under California substantive law decides only that the defendant has engaged in the "wrongful exercise of dominion" over the personal property of the plaintiff. It does not necessarily decide that the defendant has caused "willful and malicious injury" within the meaning of § 523(a)(6). A judgment for conversion under California law therefore does not, without more, establish that a debt arising out of that judgment is non-dischargeable under § 523(a)(6).

Peklar, 260 F.3d at 1039. Pursuant to Peklar, the state court's determination that Defendant was liable for conversion, standing alone, does not suffice to state a claim for relief under § 523(a)(6).

IV. CONCLUSION

In light of the foregoing, the Court will grant the Motion as to all causes of action, with leave to amend.

Defendant must submit an order within seven (7) days. If Plaintiff elects to file an amended complaint, it must file an amended complaint no later than 14 days after the entry of the order. Any response to an amended complaint must be filed no later than 14 days from the date of the filing of an amended complaint.

I. BACKGROUND

On June 30, 2017, Steven Mark Rosenberg ("Plaintiff") filed his voluntary chapter 7 petition. On October 10, 2017, Plaintiff received his chapter 7 discharge [1:17-bk-11748-VK, doc. 21]. On November 27, 2017, Debtor filed an adversary complaint ("Complaint") against Deutsche Bank National Trust Company ("Deutsche Bank"), Ocwen Loan Servicing, Inc. ("Ocwen"), Alliance Bancorp, Inc. ("Alliance"), Alliance Bancorp Estate Trustee Charles A. Stanziale, Jr., MERS Mortgage Electronic Registration Systems, Inc. ("MERS"), One West Bank ("One West"), and Does 1-25.

The Complaint alleges causes of action for violation of 11 U.S.C. § 524(a), violation of Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 3001(c)(2)(B) and (C), fraudulent concealment, violation of 18 U.S.C. § 157 and declaratory relief, and demands a jury trial. The Complaint bases these claims on the following facts:

Plaintiff is the sole beneficiary of the Isadore and Norma P. Rosenberg Trust, and a personal representative of the Estate of Isadore Rosenberg, who passed away in 2008. Complaint, ¶ 8.

On March 15, 2007 an alleged deed of trust (the "DOT") securing a $390,000 promissory note was recorded against real property owned by Isadore Rosenberg located at 15814 Septo Street, North Hills, CA 91343 (the "Property"). The DOT was recorded for the benefit of Ampro Mortgage, a division of United Financial Mortgage Corporation ("Ampro"), the predecessor to Alliance as the lender, and MERS as nominee for the lender. Isadore was feeble with macular degeneration at the time and could not have signed the documents. Complaint, ¶ 9.

On April 16, 2008, Ampro assigned the DOT to IndyMac Bank, FSB ("IndyMac") via MERS, but that assignment was not acknowledged until August 2008 [doc. 1, Exh. 1]. Ampro filed a chapter 7 bankruptcy petition and was dissolved on February 1, 2008. By the time of the purported assignment, Ampro had been dissolved.

Also on April 16, 2008, IndyMac transferred the DOT to Deutsche Bank as trustee for Alliance 2007-OA1, but was not acknowledged until December 29, 2009 [doc. 1, Exh 2]. A third "correction of assignment" was recorded on March 17, 2017. Complaint, ¶ 30.

The Pooling and Service Agreement regarding the DOT (the "PSA") provided that the depositor, master servicer, trustee or the securities administrator were not authorized to accept contributions to the real estate mortgage investment conduits after the closing date on May 30, 2007. The appropriate processing for the Property was never properly transferred to Alliance Bancorp 2007 OA-1 per the requirements of the PSA prospectus. Consequently, Defendants have never had proper title to the property. Complaint ¶ 16, 27-31, 36-38.

The DOT and accompanying documents (e.g., the grant deed and adjustable rate rider) bears a signature forged by Isadore Rosenberg's former caregiver, David Curtis Harder. The Complaint includes a Forensic Handwriting Expert Summary Report [doc. 1, Exh. 4].

On August 29, 2009, Plaintiff filed an action via the probate proceedings for Isadore Rosenberg's estate, seeking to determine title to the Property and asserting that the DOT was a forgery (the "Probate Action"). Complaint, ¶ 13-14. Plaintiff filed a request to voluntarily dismiss the Probate Action in January 2015, and the probate court granted the request with prejudice. Plaintiff appealed, and the appellate court reversed the order of dismissal, ordering the petition be dismissed without prejudice. The Probate Action was dismissed without prejudice on January 19, 2017. Complaint, ¶ 20.

foreclosure proceedings against Plaintiff. One West and Deutsche Bank do not have rights to foreclosure based on legitimate documentation, because Alliance never had a proper loan. Based on this, under the California Homeowner's Bill of Rights, Plaintiff seeks redress of material violations of the foreclosure process.

None of the entities listed as Defendants in this adversary proceeding filed a proof of claim in the main bankruptcy case. At the time the adversary complaint was filed, a nonjudicial foreclosure of the Property was scheduled for November 28, 2017.

On January 23, 2018, Plaintiff voluntarily dismissed the Complaint with respect to Defendants CIT Bank (f.k.a. One West Bank, erroneously sued as One West Bank) and Alliance Bancorp [doc. 13]. That dismissal left Deutsche Bank, MERS and Ocwen ("Defendants") as the only remaining parties to this action.

On February 13, 2018, Ocwen and MERS (together, "Movants") filed a motion for judgement on the pleadings (the "Motion") [doc. 16]. The Motion was accompanied by a request for judicial notice in support of the Motion (the "RJN") [doc. 17]. Movants argue that the allegations in the Complaint regarding forgery, fraud and rescission are time barred, and that the challenge to the foreclosure based on the alleged broken chain of title fails because Plaintiff has no standing. Movants also argue that the matter in the complaint is non-core and they will not consent to final judgment.

On March 9, 2018, Deutsche Bank, the current beneficiary of the loan secured by the DOT, filed a joinder in the Motion and the RJN (the "Joinder") [doc. 24]. Because the allegations against Deutsche Bank are identical to the allegations against Movants, Deutsche Bank joins in each and every argument and authority in the Motion. Deutsche Bank also states that it does not consent to the entry of final orders or judgments in this case because it is a non-core matter.

On March 21, 2018, Plaintiff filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition"). The Opposition asserts, among other things that: (1) Plaintiff filed this adversary proceeding in 2017, as a continuation of litigation that was commenced in 2009; (2) that he has standing to challenge the assignments under California law; (3) that the Motion gives rise to estoppel, and Movants have impliedly admitted all the allegations in the Complaint are true; (4) the bankruptcy case has not been properly discharged because there was no proper 11 U.S.C. § 341(a) meeting; and (4) a Rule 12(c) motion is not appropriate because Plaintiff has initiated the discovery process by having an initial conference pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26.

On March 28, 2018, Defendants filed a reply to the Opposition (the "Reply") [doc. 32]. In the Reply, Movants request that the Motion be granted with prejudice (without leave to amend).

II. DISCUSSION

A. Jurisdiction

Movants argue that the claims asserted in the Complaint will have no effect on Plaintiff's discharge in this case, and there are no issues to be determined under bankruptcy law. However, Movants do not cite any authority to support the blanket statement that a bankruptcy court does not have jurisdiction to hear matters which do not affect the discharge in a case.

Movants also argue that even if Plaintiff prevailed, the estate would remain insolvent. However, Plaintiff's Schedule D [doc. 1, p. 20] reflects that Ocwen (as servicer for Deutsche Bank) is the only creditor with a claim secured by the Property. If that lien were entirely voided, the Trustee could sell the Property, and the nonexempt equity could leave the estate with funds to pay creditors.

Finally, Movants and Deutsche Bank assert that they do not consent to the entry of final orders or judgments by this Court. This does not deprive the Court of jurisdiction; the Court can issue findings of fact and conclusions of law regarding non-core matters for approval by the district court. In addition, some of the causes of action in the complaint are based on bankruptcy rules or statutes. The Court may enter final judgment regarding core matters without the parties' consent. 28 U.S.C. § 157(b) (1) ("Bankruptcy judges may hear and determine all cases under title 11 and all core proceedings arising under title 11, or arising in a case under title 11... and may enter appropriate orders and judgments....").

B. Standard for Judgment on the Pleadings

Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 12(c), applicable through FRBP 7012, provides that "[a]fter the pleadings are closed--but early enough not to delay trial--a party may move for judgment on the pleadings." In deciding a Rule 12(c) motion, the court applies the same standards applicable to a Rule 12(b)(6) motion. See Cafasso, U.S. ex rel. v. General Dynamics C4 Systems, Inc., 637 F.3d 1047, 1054, fn. 4 (9th Cir. 2011) ("Rule 12(c) is 'functionally identical' to Rule 12(b)(6)").

In resolving a Rule 12(c) motion, the court can consider (without converting the motion to a summary judgment): (a) the complaint and answer; (b) any documents attached to or mentioned in the pleadings; (c) documents not attached but "integral" to the claims; and (d) matters subject to judicial notice. L-7 Designs, Inc. v. Old Navy, LLC, 647 F.3d 419, 422 (2nd Cir. 2011); Massey v. Ojaniit, 759 F.3d 343, 347-348 (4th Cir. 2014).

However, under Rule 12(d), if, "on a motion under Rule 12(b)(6) or 12(c), matters outside the pleadings are presented to and not excluded by the court, the motion must be treated as one for summary judgment under Rule 56. All parties must be given a reasonable opportunity to present all the material that is pertinent to the motion."

"A judgment on the pleadings is properly granted when, taking all the allegations in the pleadings as true, the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law." Nelson v. City of Irvine, 143 F.3d 1196, 1120 (9th Cir. 1998). Nonetheless, when they contradict matters subject to judicial notice, the court need not accept alleged facts as true. Sears, Roebuck & Co. v. Metropolitan Engraver, Ltd., 245 F.2d 67, 70 (9th Cir. 1956).

A motion to dismiss pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6):

will only be granted if the complaint fails to allege enough facts to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face. A claim has facial plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged. The plausibility standard is not akin to a probability requirement, but it asks for more than a sheer possibility that a defendant has acted unlawfully.

We accept factual allegations in the complaint as true and construe the pleadings in the light most favorable to the non-moving party. Although factual allegations are taken as true, we do not assume the truth of legal conclusions merely because they are cast in the form of factual allegations. Therefore, conclusory allegations of law and unwarranted inferences are insufficient to defeat a motion to dismiss.

Fayer v. Vaughn, 649 F.3d 1061, 1064 (9th Cir. 2011) (internal quotation marks omitted)(citing, inter alia, Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 547 (2007); Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678, (2009)). "[Rule] 8(a)(2) requires only 'a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief,' in order to 'give the defendant fair notice of what the . . . claim is and the grounds upon which it rests.'" Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555 (U.S. 2007)(citations omitted). "[F]acts must be alleged to sufficiently apprise the defendant of the complaint against him." Kubick v. Fed. Dep. Ins. Corp. (In re Kubick), 171 B.R. 658, 660 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1994).

C. Leave to Amend

Courts have the discretion to grant or deny leave to amend a complaint. Swanson v. U.S. Forest Serv., 87 F.3d 339, 343 (9th Cir. 1996). "In exercising this discretion, a court must be guided by the underlying purpose of Rule 15 to facilitate decision on the merits, rather than on the pleadings or technicalities." United States v. Webb, 655 F.2d 977, 979 (9th Cir. 1981). The factors courts commonly consider when determining whether to grant leave to amend are:

1. Bad faith;
2. Undue delay;
3. Prejudice to the opposing party; and
4. Futility of amendment.

Ditto v. McCurdy, 510 F.3d 1070, 1079 (9th Cir. 2007) (internal citations omitted). Dismissal without leave to amend is appropriate when the court is satisfied that the deficiencies in the complaint could not possibly be cured by amendment. Jackson v. Carey, 353 F.3d 750, 758 (9th Cir. 2003); Lopez v. Smith, 203 F.3d 1122, 1127 (9th Cir. 2000).

D. Timing of the Motion

Plaintiff asserts that the Motion was not timely brought because discovery has already opened. However, Rule 12(c) allows for a motion for judgment on the pleadings "after the pleadings are closed—but early enough not to delay trial." The opening of discovery has no effect on this timeframe. In addition, as Movants point out, the Court has not yet scheduled a motion cut-off deadline or a trial date. Consequently, the Motion was timely filed.

E. Statute of Limitations

Movants assert that any claims regarding forgery, cancellation or rescission are time barred under California law. Under California Code of Civil Procedure ("CCCP") § 337, "An action upon any contract, obligation or liability founded upon an instrument in writing" must be brought within four years. Under CCCP § 338(d) an "action for relief on the ground of fraud or mistake" must be brought within three years.

"Equitable tolling applies to situations in which a party has several legal remedies, pursues one such remedy reasonably and in good faith, and then turns to the second remedy after the statute has expired on that remedy." Equitable Tolling of Statute of Limitations, California Practice Guide: Administrative Law Ch. 16-D. Equitable tolling can also be applied where the claimant "has actively pursued his judicial remedies by filing a defective pleading or where he has been induced or tricked by his adversary's misconduct into allowing the filing deadline to pass." Irwin v. Dep't of Veterans Affairs, 498 U.S. 89, 90 (1990).

Plaintiff filed the Probate Action on August 29, 2009. Plaintiff was aware of the fraud and forgery causes of action at that time. Plaintiff argues that this action is merely an extension of the Probate Action, which concluded after the limitations period ended, in 2017. There is no authority supporting this argument. This proceeding, a bankruptcy court adversary proceeding, is not a continuation of the state court proceeding. Consequently, based on California law, Plaintiff's claims of fraud or forgery are time-barred.

F. 11 U.S.C. § 524(a)(2)

Plaintiff argues that, as a result of 11 U.S.C. § 524(a)(2), Defendants are barred from attempting to collect their debt secured by the Property. Pursuant to § 524(a)(2), a discharge in a bankruptcy case "operates as an injunction against the commencement or continuation of an action, the employment of process, or an act, to collect, recover or offset any such debt as a personal liability of the debtor, whether or not discharge of such debt is waived."

Plaintiff's allegations do not indicate that Defendants have taken any action which violates the discharge injunction in his bankruptcy case. Plaintiff asserts that Defendants are in the process of proceeding with a judicial foreclosure against the Property. Such an action is not in violation of the discharge injunction, which applies only to a debtor's personal liability. Discharge does not impair a creditor's right to proceed in rem against property by which its claim is secured. In re Blendheim, 803 F.3d 477, 493-494 (9th Cir. 2015).

G. FRBP 3001(c)(2)(B) and (C)

Plaintiff alleges that Defendants violated FRBP 3001(c)(2)(B) and (C) by failing to file a proof of claim and accompanying documents. Under 11 U.S.C. § 501(a), a creditor "may file a proof of claim." A "claim" is a right to payment without regard to whether the creditor has filed a proof of claim. 11 U.S.C. § 101(5). Secured creditors must generally file proofs of claim in order to receive payment from the bankruptcy estate; however, "a lien that secures a claim against the debtor is not void due only to the failure of any entity to file a proof of claim." FRBP 3002(a).

Unless affirmative action is taken to avoid a lien, a "bankruptcy discharge extinguishes only one mode of enforcing a claim—an in personam action;" liens and other secured interests survive the bankruptcy. Johnson v. Home State Bank, 501 U.S. 78, 79 (1991). In other words, a bankruptcy discharge has the effect of relieving a debtor's personal liability, but it does not extinguish debts secured by property. Consequently, regardless of Plaintiff's discharge, Defendants may take action to satisfy their secured claim through the sale of the Property.

Furthermore, a failure to file a proof of claim does not give rise to a cause of action which Plaintiff may assert. As concerns Plaintiff, the only effect of a secured creditor's failure to file a proof of claim is that the secured creditor may not take part in distributions from the estate, if distributions to creditors from unencumbered, nonexempt property ever become available. Accordingly, Plaintiff has not stated a cause of action under FRBP 3001(c)(2), nor can Plaintiff amend the Complaint in any way that would state one.

H. Fraudulent Concealment

Fraudulent concealment of a cause of action effectively "tolls" that cause of action for the period for which it was fraudulently concealed. In order to assert that a cause of action was tolled under a fraudulent concealment theory, a plaintiff must show: (1) the substantive elements of fraud; and (2) an excuse for late discovery of the facts. Investors Equity Life Holding Co. v. Schmidt, 195 Cal. App. 4th 1519 (4th Dist. 2011). The elements of an action for fraud and deceit based on concealment are:

(1) the defendant must have concealed or suppressed a material fact, (2) the defendant must have been under a duty to disclose the fact to the plaintiff, (3) the defendant must have intentionally concealed or suppressed the fact with the intent to defraud the plaintiff, (4) the plaintiff must have been unaware of the fact and would not have acted as he did if he had known of the concealed or suppressed fact, and (5) as a result of the concealment or suppression of the fact, the plaintiff must have sustained damage."

Marketing West, Inc. v. Sanyo Fisher (USA) Corp., 6 Cal. App. 4th 603, 612-613 (1992).

Plaintiff asserts his fourth cause of action on the theory that Defendants have known that their chain of assignment was broken throughout the course of the state law proceeding and Plaintiff's bankruptcy proceeding, and they fraudulently concealed that information. The Court need not assess whether Plaintiff has properly alleged fraudulent concealment, or timely brought the allegation, if Plaintiff cannot demonstrate that he sustained damage as a result of the concealed fact. Plaintiff has not demonstrated that he has standing to recover based on an improper assignment.

In California, post-foreclosure wrongful foreclosure actions based on improper chain of title are appropriate. See Yvanova v. New Century Mortgage Corp., 62 Cal.4th 919 (2016); Glaski v. Bank of Am., Nat'l Ass'n, 218 Cal. App. 4th 1079 (2013). However, California Courts of Appeal have held that a homeowner lacks standing in a pre-foreclosure action to challenge a foreclosure sale. Saterbak v. JP Morgan Chase Bank, N.A., 245 Cal. App. 4th 808 (2016); Yhudai v. IMPAC Funding Corp., 1 Cal.App.5th 1252 (2016).

Furthermore, under Yvanova, Plaintiff lacks standing to argue the voidability of the assignment of the DOT. In that case, a plaintiff brought a post-foreclosure suit for wrongful foreclosure of her property. The plaintiff argued that the lender lacked an interest in her property giving it the right to foreclose because its interest was based on an assignment made after the closing date in the pooling and service agreement. The California Supreme Court reasoned:

California law does not give a party personal standing to assert rights or interests belonging solely to others... When an assignment is merely voidable, the power to ratify or avoid the transaction lies solely with the parties to the assignment; the transaction is not void unless and until one of the parties takes steps to make it so. A borrower who challenges a foreclosure on the ground that an assignment to the foreclosing party bore defects rendering it voidable could thus be said to assert an interest belonging solely to the parties to the assignment rather than to herself.

Yvanova, 62 Cal. 4th at 936. The California Supreme Court held that void assignments do confer standing on a borrower to bring a post-foreclosure action. Id. at 942-943.

Plaintiff has not asserted that any party to the PSA or the assignments have taken action to render the assignments void, and Plaintiff, who was not a party to the PSA, does not have the power to bring a suit to void it. Accordingly, Plaintiff has not yet suffered harm giving him standing to bring a suit based on the allegedly improper assignments of the DOT. Moreover, because Plaintiff's failure to state a claim is based on lack of standing, Plaintiff cannot amend the Complaint to state a claim for relief on the current facts.

In any event, Plaintiff would have a problem demonstrating damages based on the alleged improper chain of assignments. Regardless of the specific holder of the assignment, the Property is encumbered. The harm to Plaintiff is not a result of the allegedly improper assignment or the failure of any Defendant to reveal the nature of the assignments to him. Consequently, Plaintiff has not asserted a cause of action based on fraudulent concealment of the allegedly improper assignments of the DOT.

I. 18 U.S.C. § 157

Pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 157:

a person who, having devised or intending to devise a scheme or artifice to defraud and for the purpose of executing or concealing such a scheme or artifice or attempting to do so—

- (1) files a petition under title 11, including a fraudulent involuntary petition under section 303 of such title;
- (2) files a document in a proceeding under title 11; or
- (3) makes a false or fraudulent representation, claim, or promise concerning or in relation to a proceeding under title 11, at any time before or after the filing of the petition, or in relation to a proceeding falsely asserted to be pending under such title, shall be fined under this title, imprisoned not more than 5 years, or both.

This statute deals with criminal bankruptcy fraud, and criminal matters are generally not within the jurisdiction of bankruptcy courts. See Matter of Hipp, Inc., 895 F.2d 1503, 1511 (5th Cir. 1990). In addition, as an initial matter, Plaintiff has not stated a cause of action under 18 U.S.C. § 157 because the statute does not create a private cause of action. See Lee v. United States Agency for Int'l Dev., 859 F.3d 74, 76 (D.C. Cir. 2017) (holding that no private right of action is necessarily created by a criminal statute which does not expressly create one).

appropriate. See In re McDonald, 497 B.R. 489, 493 (Bankr. D.S.C. 2013). Here, however, it is not clear that Defendants have violated 18 U.S.C. § 157. Plaintiff has not made allegations regarding any specific filing made by any Defendant in the bankruptcy proceeding. The only filing by any Defendant in the main case is a request for special notice by Deutsche Bank. Plaintiff alleges that Defendants made misrepresentations to him and to the court in the Probate Action regarding the validity of their title, but such a representation is not punishable under § 157 (which creates criminal liability for fraudulent filings in a bankruptcy proceeding). Consequently, Plaintiff has not asserted a cause of action upon which relief can be granted under § 157, and would not be able to amend the Complaint to assert one.

J. Declaratory Relief

Declaratory relief is a procedural device for granting a remedy. It does not create any substantive rights or causes of action. Harris County Texas v. MERSCORP Inc., 791 F.3d 545, 552 (5th Cir. 2015). Courts inquire whether there is a "substantial controversy, between parties having adverse legal interests, of sufficient immediacy and reality to warrant the issuance of a declaratory judgment." Maryland Cas. Co. v. Pacific Coal & Oil Co., 312 U.S. 270, 273 (1941).

Plaintiff argues that declaratory relief is appropriate based on the actions of Defendants to foreclose on the Property. However, as discussed above, Plaintiff has not asserted any actual wrongdoing with respect to the foreclosure actions. In addition, based on his fraudulent concealment theory, Plaintiff cannot assert any harm pre-foreclosure. Therefore, Plaintiff does not have a "substantial controversy" with Defendants upon which declaratory relief can be granted, and he would not be able to amend the Complaint to assert one.

III. CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, the Court will grant the motion without leave to amend as to Movants and Deutsche Bank.

Movants must submit the order within seven (7) days.

MOSHE ARDI

fr. 4/4/18

Docket 28

Tentative Ruling:

Grant relief from the automatic stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1).

I. BACKGROUND

A. The Debtor and Creditor's Business Dealings

In 1977, Deborah Adri (the "Debtor") and Moshe Adri ("Creditor") married. In 1983, Creditor and the Debtor formed Shoes for Sale, Inc., which funded the purchase of other ventures. In 1990, the Debtor and Creditor divorced, but they continued to work together on various business ventures. Between 1992 and 1994, the Debtor and Creditor purchased retail units in Van Nuys out of which they operated their shoe business. However, due to a decline in business, they rented out the individual units to third-party lessees. The Debtor and Creditor formed six LLCs (collectively, the "LLCs"), each of which held title to an individual unit. (Doc. 35, ¶¶ 3, 4; Exh. 1.)

In 2004, the Debtor and Creditor entered into an agreement regarding the ownership of the LLCs (the "LLC Agreement"). The LLC Agreement contains an arbitration provision stating, "Any action to enforce or interpret this Agreement or to resolve disputes between the MEMBERS or by or against any MEMBER shall be settled by arbitration in accordance with the rules of the American Arbitration Association." (Doc. 35, Exh. 1, LLC Agreement, § 10.1.)

On March 11, 2011, the Debtor filed an unlawful detainer action against Creditor on behalf of 6371-77 VNB (one of the LLCs) for Creditor's non-payment of rent.

Chapter 11

Creditor filed a lawsuit against the Debtor and the LLCs, which was later dismissed due to lack of standing. (Doc. 35, ¶¶ 5, 6.)

B. Creditor's Prior Bankruptcy Cases, the Settlement Agreement, and the Sale Order

On December 12, 2012, Creditor filed a chapter 7 petition, initiating case no. 1:12-bk-20733-MB ("Creditor's Bankruptcy"). On March 18, 2013, the Debtor filed a chapter 11 petition on behalf of 6371-77 VNB, initiating case no. 1:13-bk-11840-AA (the "6371-77 VNB Bankruptcy").

On March 27, 2014, all parties executed a global settlement agreement (the "Settlement Agreement"). The Settlement Agreement provides, "The Parties stipulate that this Release Agreement may be enforced by the Court pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure § 664.6." (Doc. 35, Exh. 2, Settlement Agreement, ¶ 4.) The Settlement Agreement also provides that "This settlement is subject to court approval." (Id., ¶ 14.) The Settlement Agreement further provides that:

Following execution of this Agreement, [the Debtor] shall pay, indemnify and hold harmless [Creditor] for all past, present and future expenses related to the real estate operations of 6371-77 VNB, LLC [and other entities] including but not limited to: mortgage expenses, credit line expense, attorney's fees, accounting fees, property taxes, maintenance expenses, brokerage expenses, payroll and insurance premiums, as well as for any and all third party claims, past and present, brought against 6371-77 VNB, LLC [and other entities].

(Id., at ¶ 3.)

On May 8, 2014, the bankruptcy court in the 6371-77 VNB Bankruptcy entered an order approving the Settlement Agreement (the "6371-77 VNB Settlement Agreement Order"). (Doc. 35, ¶ 11; case no 1:13-bk-11840-AA, doc. 292.) The 6371-77 VNB Settlement Agreement Order did not contain an exclusive reservation of jurisdiction in the bankruptcy court to hear disputes regarding the Settlement Agreement.

On May 6, 2014, Creditor filed a motion in Creditor's Bankruptcy to approve the Settlement Agreement [case no. 1:12-bk-20733-MB, doc. 171]. After creditor East

West Bank filed an opposition, Creditor voluntarily withdrew his motion to approve the Settlement Agreement [case no. 1:12-bk-20733-MB, docs. 174, 177]. East West Bank held a judgment against Creditor for alleged shortfalls in the repayment of the debt owed by 6371-77 VNB. (Adv. no. 1:18-ap-01014-VK, doc. 20, ¶ 18.)

Subsequently, Creditor settled with the chapter 7 trustee (the "Trustee Settlement"), sold his residence (the "Property"), and dismissed Creditor's Bankruptcy. (Doc. 35, ¶ 11.) The order approving the Trustee Settlement stated that the Debtor had filed an opposition to the Trustee Settlement, but she orally withdrew the opposition at the hearing. (Case no. 1:12-bk-20733-MB, doc. 388.)

The orders approving the Trustee Settlement (the "Trustee Settlement Order") and sale of the Property (the "Sale Order") specifically reserved jurisdiction over all matters regarding or related to the Trustee Settlement and sale of the Property. (Doc. 35, ¶ 12; case no. 1:12-bk-20733-MB, docs. 387, 388.)

C. Petition to Compel Arbitration

On October 26, 2016, Creditor filed a petition to compel arbitration against the Debtor in state court (the "Petition to Compel"). On January 24, 2017, the Debtor filed a response to the Petition to Compel, in which she stated she was agreeable to proceeding with arbitration and that she intended to file a cross-complaint against Creditor. (Adv. no. 1:18-ap-01014-VK, doc. 20-1, Exh. A, at pp. 1-2.)

The arbitrator allowed Creditor to amend the Petition to Compel. In the amended Petition to Compel (the "Amended Petition"), Creditor set forth the following causes of action:

- (1) Breach of contract
- (2) Fraud and deceit/concealment
- (3) Negligent misrepresentation
- (4) Breach of fiduciary duty
- (5) Common count — money had and received
- (6) Conversion

In her response to the Amended Petition, the Debtor did not object to the arbitrator's jurisdiction to determine the claims. Instead, the Debtor filed an answer and counterclaim, seeking $300,000 from Creditor for alleged improper distributions in violation of the LLC Agreement. (Adv. no. 1:18-ap-01014-VK, doc. 14, ¶ 6; Doc. 2-15, at pp. 14–22.)

The American Arbitration Association Rules (the "AAA Rules") provide, in relevant part:

(a) The arbitrator shall have the power to shall have the power to rule on his or her own jurisdiction, including any objections with respect to the existence, scope, or validity of the arbitration agreement or to the arbitrability of any claim or counterclaim.

(c) A party must object to the jurisdiction of the arbitrator or to the arbitrability of a claim or counterclaim no later than the filing of the answering statement to the claim or counterclaim that gave rise to the objection. The arbitrator may rule on such objection as a preliminary matter or as a part of the final award.

(Adv. no. 1:18-ap-01014-VK, doc. 14, ¶ 7.)

The matter was ordered to arbitration. Five days before trial, the Debtor filed her trial brief, in which she contested the jurisdiction of the arbitrator to hear the parties' dispute. (Adv. no. 1:18-ap-01014-VK, doc. 20, ¶ 17.) A two-day trial was held before the arbitrator. (Adv. no. 1:18-ap-01014-VK, doc. 14, ¶¶ 9–10.) At the arbitration trial, Creditor argued that pursuant to the Settlement Agreement, the Debtor had agreed to indemnify Creditor for all debts arising from 6371-77 VNB. According to Creditor, because the Debtor did not do so, Creditor was forced to agree to the Trustee Settlement and sell the Property in Creditor's Bankruptcy, which resulted in Creditor's loss of the equity in the Property. (Adv. no. 1:18-ap-01014-VK, doc. 20, at ¶ 18.)

On November 29, 2017, a corrected award was issued (the "Corrected Award"). (Adv. no. 1:18-ap-01014-VK, doc. 14, ¶ 10.) The Corrected Award awarded Creditor $1,215,761 in economic damages, $114,917.85 in attorney's fees, and $23,156.63, and provided for other declaratory and injunctive relief.

Chapter 11

On December 22, 2017, Creditor filed a petition to confirm the Corrected Award (the "Petition to Confirm"). The Debtor filed an opposition to the Petition to Confirm, claiming that the arbitrator lacked jurisdiction to rule on the parties' dispute. (Adv. no. 1:18-ap-01014-VK, doc. 14, ¶ 12.) The hearing on the Petition to Confirm was set for February 21, 2018. Before the hearing on the Petition to Confirm, the state court issued a tentative ruling granting the Petition to Confirm.

On February 16, 2018—five days before the hearing on the Petition to Confirm—the Debtor filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. On February 20, 2018, the Debtor removed the state court proceeding (the "State Court Action") to this Court.

On February 20, 2018, the Court issued the Order to Show Cause re Remand (the "OSC" [Adv. no. 1:18-ap-01014-VK, doc. 5]). On April 4, 2018, the Court held a hearing on the OSC and remanded the State Court Action. The Court's ruling on the OSC was posted as docket no. 21 in adv. no. 1:18-ap-01014-VK (the "Remand Ruling").

On March 14, 2018, Creditor filed the pending motion for relief from the automatic stay (the "Motion") [doc. 28]. The initial hearing on the Motion was continued to allow Creditor to provide sufficient notice of the Motion to all parties in interest entitled to receive such notice.

II. DISCUSSION

Section 362(d)(1) permits lifting of the automatic stay to continue pending litigation against a debtor in a nonbankruptcy forum. See Christensen v. Tucson Estates, Inc. (In re Tucson Estates, Inc.), 912 F.2d 1162, 1166 (9th Cir. 1990). In so determining, "the bankruptcy court should base its decision on the hardships imposed on the parties with an eye towards the overall goals of the Bankruptcy Code." In re C & S Grain Company, Inc., 47 F.3d 233, 238 (7th Cir. 1995) (emphasis added).

Factors that courts have used to determine whether to lift the automatic stay to allow litigation to proceed in a non-bankruptcy forum include:

- (1) Whether the relief will result in a partial or complete resolution of the issues.
- (2) The lack of any connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case.

- (3) Whether the foreign proceeding involves the debtor as a fiduciary.
- (4) Whether a specialized tribunal has been established to hear the particular cause of action and that tribunal has the expertise to hear such cases.
- (5) Whether the debtor's insurance carrier has assumed full financial responsibility for defending the litigation.
- (6) Whether the action essentially involves third parties, and the debtor functions only as a bailee or conduit for the goods or proceeds in question.
- (7) Whether litigation in another forum would prejudice the interests of other creditors, the creditors' committee and other interested parties.
- (8) Whether the judgment claim arising from the foreign action is subject to equitable subordination under Section 510(c).
- (9) Whether movant's success in the foreign proceeding would result in a judicial lien avoidable by the debtor under Section 522(f).
- (10) The interest of judicial economy and the expeditious and economical determination of litigation for the parties.
- (11) Whether the foreign proceedings have progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial.
- (12) The impact of the stay on the parties and the "balance of the hurt."

In re Curtis, 40 B.R. 795, 799–800 (Bankr. D. Utah 1984) (citations omitted); see also In re Sonnax Industries, Inc., 99 B.R. 591 (D. Vt. 1989), aff'd, 907 F.2d 1280 (2d Cir. 1990) (listing factors). When applied to the pending Motion and case, the Curtis factors appear to support relief from the automatic stay.

Whether the relief will result in a partial or complete resolution of the issues

This factor weighs in favor of relief, because allowing the case to proceed in state court would allow immediate and complete resolution of the dispute between Creditor and Debtor (e.g., the Corrected Award can be confirmed). The Debtor argues that she will appeal any judgment in the State Court Action. Although the Debtor argues that she will incur costs related to any such appeal, such an appeal is voluntary.

The lack of any connection with or interference with the bankruptcy case

Creditor argues that relief is warranted because the Debtor already listed Creditor as a creditor in her schedules, and the substantive claims were resolved in state court and all that remains is a procedural ratification of the Corrected Award. Allowing the State Court Action to proceed to judgment would avoid unnecessary relitigation of the state law issues in this Court.

Whether the foreign proceeding involves the debtor as a fiduciary

The State Court Action involved substantive determinations regarding damages and harm that resulted from Debtor's conduct as a fiduciary.

Whether a specialized tribunal has been established to hear the particular cause of action and that tribunal has the expertise to hear such cases

Creditor contends that the arbitrator was a specialized tribunal that heard and adjudicated the dispute.

Whether the debtor's insurance carrier has assumed full financial responsibility for defending the litigation

It is unclear if the Debtor's insurance carrier, if any, has paid for costs of defending the State Court Action. Creditor argues that any additional costs to be incurred in the State Court Action are minimal, since the Debtor's counsel need not appear at the continued hearing on the Petition to Confirm.

Whether the action essentially involves third parties, and the debtor functions only as a bailee or conduit for the goods or proceeds in question

This factor is not applicable.

Whether litigation in another forum would prejudice the interests of other creditors, the creditors' committee and other interested parties

In light of the arbitration that already took place and was completed, allowing the State Court Action to proceed to entry of judgment would be the most cost effective means to liquidate the Creditor's claim, and no creditors have filed an opposition to the Motion.

Whether the judgment claim arising from the foreign action is subject to

Chapter 11

This factor is not applicable.

Whether movant's success in the foreign proceeding would result in a judicial lien avoidable by the debtor under Section 522(f).

Given that Creditor has not yet obtained a judicial lien, and is precluded from doing so at this time, it appears that this section is not applicable. However, were such a lien to arise, with respect to her residence, the Debtor may be able to avoid a judgment lien pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 522(f). The Debtor has claimed an exemption in the amount of $175,000 in her residence, pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure § 704.730.

The interest of judicial economy and the expeditious and economical determination of litigation for the parties

This factor weighs in favor of lifting the stay. The State Court Action is nearly complete and only requires entry of judgment. Revisiting the entire dispute in this Court would be an unnecessary duplication of effort.

Whether the foreign proceedings have progressed to the point where the parties are prepared for trial

All that remains in the State Court Action is entry of judgment.

The impact of the stay on the parties and the "balance of the hurt"

The Debtor already has had a chance to litigate her dispute with Creditor, in arbitration. If the Motion is granted, the parties would not have to expend further resources in this Court relitigating state law issues. The Court will prohibit any enforcement of the judgment against the Debtor or the Debtor's estate during the pendency of her bankruptcy case.

III. CONCLUSION

In light of the Curtis factors, the Court will grant relief from stay pursuant to 11

U.S.C. § 362(d)(1).

Creditor may proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to proceed to final judgment in the nonbankruptcy forum, provided that the stay remains in effect with respect to enforcement of any judgment against the Debtor or property of the Debtor's bankruptcy estate.

The 14-day stay prescribed by FRBP 4001(a)(3) is waived.

Creditor must submit the order within seven (7) days.

#3.00 Motion in individual case for order imposing a stay or continuing the automatic stay as the court deems appropriate

from: 3/21/18

Docket 14

Tentative Ruling:

Grant. Pursuant to the Court's prior ruling, on April 13, 2018, the debtor filed a declaration regarding her postpetition deed of trust payment, her ability to get contributions from family members, and her employment status. The debtor also provided timely notice to secured creditors of the date of the continued hearing.

Because neither the Order setting the continued hearing [doc. 24] nor the notice of the continued hearing [doc. 23] set forth a deadline for the filing of responses to the motion, and a creditor may appear at the hearing to oppose the relief sought in the motion, the debtor's counsel should make an appearance at the hearing.

The debtor must submit an order within seven (7) days.

Ruling from 3/21/18

Grant motion on an interim basis and continue hearing to May 2, 2018 at 9:30 a.m.

I. BACKGROUND

Previously, the debtor filed the following six bankruptcy cases:

Case No.	Chapter	Disposition
97-25708	13	Dismissed on 1/27/98 for failure to make plan payments
98-10704	7	Converted on 4/20/98; standard discharge on 8/3/98
10-11404	13	Dismissed on 7/29/11 for failure to make plan payments
11-20540	7	Converted on 11/9/11; standard discharge on 3/14/12
16-12629	11	Dismissed on 1/19/17 on motion by the United States Trustee

Chapter 11

The Fifth Bankruptcy Case

On September 9, 2016, the debtor filed chapter 11 case no. 1:16-bk-12629-VK (the "Fifth Bankruptcy Case"). In her Schedules I & J, the debtor listed her monthly income as $11,050.00 and her monthly expenses as $5,685.00, leaving a net monthly income of $5,365.00. The debtor stated that she was employed as a registered nurse for three weeks, but did not give a name or address for her employer. (Case no. 1:16-bk-12629-VK, doc. 19, at pp. 20–24.)

On December 2, 2016, the United States Trustee ("UST") filed a motion under 11 U.S.C. § 1112(b) to dismiss or convert the Fifth Bankruptcy Case (the "First Motion to Dismiss") [case no. 1:16-bk-12629-VK, doc. 37]. The UST alleged that the debtor had not properly prepared her monthly operating reports and attached required bank statements, and was paying professional fees without Court approval. The debtor did not oppose the First Motion to Dismiss. On January 19, 2017, the Court entered an order granting the First Motion to Dismiss and dismissing the Fifth Bankruptcy Case [case no. 1:16-bk-12629-VK, doc. 46.]

The Sixth Bankruptcy Case

On July 12, 2017, the debtor filed case no. 1:17-bk-11847-VK (the "Sixth Bankruptcy Case"). In her Schedules I & J, the debtor listed her monthly income as $5,500.00 and her monthly expenses as $5,335.00, leaving a net monthly income of $165.00. The debtor indicated that she was employed as a registered nurse for Senior Hospice Care for two years. (Case no. 1:17-bk-11847-VK, doc. 10, at pp. 19–22.)

On August 6, 2017, the debtor filed a motion to continue the automatic stay (the "First Motion to Continue Stay") [case no. 1:17-bk-11847-VK, doc. 20]. The Court twice continued the hearing on the First Motion to Continue Stay so that the debtor could cure her service errors. On September 20, 2017, the Court issued a ruling granting the First Motion to Continue Stay and directing the debtor to submit an appropriate order within seven days. The debtor did not submit the order.

On November 16, 2017, the UST filed a motion under 11 U.S.C. § 1112(b) to dismiss or convert the Sixth Bankruptcy Case (the "Second Motion to Dismiss") [case no.

1:17-bk-11847-VK , doc. 48]. The UST alleged that the debtor had not provided evidence of vehicle insurance coverage or monthly operating reports for August and September 2017. On January 5, 2018, the Court entered an order granting the Second Motion to Dismiss and dismissing the Sixth Bankruptcy Case [case no. 1:17-bk-11847-VK, doc. 57.]

The Pending Bankruptcy Case

On February 21, 2018, the debtor filed the pending case. In her pending case, the debtor's Schedules I & J indicate monthly income is $7,350.00 and monthly expenses of $5,825.00, leaving net monthly income of $1,525.00. The debtor states that she has been self-employed as a registered nurse for ten years. (Doc. 1, at pp. 29–32.)

On March 9, 2018, the debtor filed a motion to continue the automatic stay (the "Second Motion to Continue Stay") [doc. 14] and an application for an order shortening time to hear the Second Motion to Continue Stay (the "Application") [doc. 15]. The Court entered an order granting the Application and setting a hearing for March 21, 2018 (the "OST") [doc. 16].

In the Second Motion to Continue Stay, the debtor alleges that in the Sixth Bankruptcy Case, she was initially compliant with UST requirements. However, the debtor became ill and could not remain compliant. In addition, the debtor states that she lost 90% of her income. The debtor states that she is substantially compliant in the pending case and "has arranged backup" in the form of family contributions to remain compliant. The debtor further states that her income has increased and stabilized. The debtor states that she is willing to provide monthly adequate protection payments to her secured lender.

II. DISCUSSION

As an initial matter, in the OST, the Court instructed the debtor to provide telephonic notice to the UST by March 13, 2018. In the debtor's declaration regarding service, the debtor does not state that she gave telephonic notice to the UST [doc. 19].

Under 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3), in order to extend the automatic stay in a case filed within one year of another case which was pending within the same year but was dismissed, the debtor must show that the present case was filed in good faith as to the creditors to be stayed. Under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3)(C)(i)(III), a case is presumptively filed not in good faith if there has not been a substantial change in the financial or personal affairs of the debtor since the dismissal of the next most previous case, or any other reason to conclude that the later case will be concluded with a chapter 7 discharge, or a confirmed chapter 11 or 13 plan that will be fully performed.

In the Second Motion to Continue Stay, the debtor states that her income has increased and stabilized since the dismissal of the Sixth Bankruptcy Case. In the Sixth Bankruptcy Case, the debtor's schedules showed monthly income of $5,500 and monthly expenses of $5,335.00, leaving net monthly income of $165.00. In her pending case, the debtor's monthly income is $7,350.00 and her monthly expenses are $5,825.00, leaving net monthly income of $1,525.00. In addition, the debtor states that she is compliant with UST requirements and has "arranged backup" to ensure compliance.

Notwithstanding these assertions and the lack of an opposition to her motion, the debtor has not provided at this time clear and convincing evidence that her financial affairs have improved since her prior case, such that the pending chapter 11 case will result in a confirmed plan that will be fully performed. The debtor has made inconsistent statements regarding her work history. In the Fifth Bankruptcy Case, the debtor stated that she was employed as a registered nurse for three weeks, but did not state her employer. In the Sixth Bankruptcy Case, the debtor stated that she was employed as a registered nurse for Senior Hospice Care for two years. In her pending case, the debtor states that she has been self-employed as a registered nurse for ten years.

In light of the foregoing, the Court will grant the motion on an interim basis up to the date of the continued hearing. No later than March 28, 2018, the debtor must file and serve notice of the continued hearing on all secured creditors. No later than April 13, 2018, the debtor must (i) tender her April 2018 deed of trust payment to Deutsche Bank/Nationstar in the amount of $3,500.00 (as stated in her current Schedule J) as to the real property located at 11922 Louise Ave., Granada Hills, CA 91344; and (ii) file a declaration supported by admissible evidence of her employment status and her family members' ability to make contribution payments. No later than April 25, 2018, the debtor must file a declaration to demonstrate that she made her April 2018 deed of trust payment.

The Court will prepare the order.

On April 10, 2018, the Court entered (1) an Order Granting in Part and Denying in Part, Plaintiff's Notice of Motion and Motion for Leave to File First Amended Complaint for Objection to Discharge [doc. 27]; and (2) an Order Granting in Part and Denying in Part, Defendant's Motion to Dismiss Complaint in an Adversary Proceeding Pursuant to F.R.C.P. 12(b)(6); F.R.B.P. 7012(b)(6); F.R.C.P. 9(b) [doc. 28] (together, the "Orders").

Tentative Ruling from 3/28/18

Grant Defendant the State Bar of California's Notice of Motion and Motion to Compel Production of Documents by Plaintiff Marilyn S. Scheer (the "State Bar's Second Motion to Compel"), as set forth below.

I. BACKGROUND

On July 12, 2013, Marilyn S. Scheer ("Plaintiff") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On November 1, 2013, Plaintiff filed a complaint against the State Bar of California (the "State Bar") alleging violation of the automatic stay and the discharge injunction under 11 U.S.C. §§ 362 and 524 and discriminatory treatment under § 525(a). On November 28, 2016, Plaintiff filed the first amended complaint (the "FAC") [doc. 95]. In relevant part, the FAC alleges:
