1. Quiet Title;

fr. 10/2/19; 11/20/19

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

On January 7, 2020, the plaintiff filed a notice of dismissal of the remaining defendant, Martin Serraf [doc. 76]. Although Mr. Serraf's answer references an address in Carlsbad, California, the plaintiff served Mr. Serraf, the day before this status conference, with the notice of dismissal at a Beverly Hills, California address and a West Hills, California address. Plaintiff may not have otherwise notified Mr. Serraf of his intent to dismiss Mr. Serraf or that this status conference may be vacated upon that dismissal.

The Court will dismiss Mr. Serraf as a defendant - without prejudice to Mr. Serraf moving for recovery of any fees and costs he incurred, e.g., in connection with attending the status conferences arising from this adversary proceeding.

#1.00 Motion for order approving individual debtor's disclosure statement in support of debtor's plan of reorganization

Docket 125

Tentative Ruling:

Deny.

Taking into account the objections of the United States Trustee to the proposed disclosure statement [doc. 117] and for the reasons discussed below and in calendar no. 2, the disclosure statement does not contain adequate information.

Notice/Service. The debtor did not serve notice of the hearing on all creditors as required by Fed. R. Bankr. P. 2002(b) and 3017(a). Specifically, the debtor did not serve secured creditor Los Angeles County Treasurer and Tax Collector and the following unsecured creditors: (1) LVNV Funding, LLC; (2) Merrick Bank; (3) Franchise Tax Board; (4) Midland Funding, LLC; and (5) Synchrony Bank.

Claim 3. The debtor did not account for secured claim no. 3 filed by the Los Angeles County Treasurer and Tax Collector in the correct class of claims. The debtor appears to have classified this claim as an administrative claim, rather than a secured claim.

Financial Projections. The disclosure statement does not include a sufficient explanation for the basis of the debtor's financial projections, including the projections for business gross receipts. The debtor's last six monthly operating reports show the following income:

Month	General DIP Account	Rental Account	Total Income
Nov-19	$7,975.00	$3,202.03	$11,177.03
Oct-19	$5,714.01	$7,902.03	$13,616.04
Sept-19	$4,976.09	$2.00	$4,978.09
Aug-19	$14,987.06	$3,200.01	$18,187.07
July-19	$1,320.00	$3,202.00	$4,522.00

Chapter 11

The debtor's average income according to his last six monthly operating reports is $9,467.04. However, the income and expense projections for the first six months of the plan (the "Projections") [doc. 117, Exh. A], indicate that the debtor will receive $12,540.33 per month in income. This does not accurately reflect historical, post-petition income, and the debtor did not provide a sufficient explanation for the discrepancy between his actual cash flow and projected cash flow.

Additionally, the debtor did not complete subsection C of the Source(s) of Payments under the Plan [doc. 117, p. 4].

Post-Petition Taxes. The Projections do not provide for payment of the debtor's post-petition income taxes.

Wife's Contribution to the Plan. The Projections indicate that the debtor's wife will contribute $6,140.33 per month into the chapter 11 plan. In order to disclose adequate information, any amended disclosure statement must include financial information about the ability of the debtor's wife to make such contributions.

Lease of Real Property. In the Projections, the debtor indicates that the monthly expenses on his rental property located at 16815 Parthenia Street, Northridge, California (the "Northridge Property") are $5,201.55. This includes deed of trust payments, property taxes, property insurance and maintenance. In the debtor's proposed disclosure statement, the debtor indicates that he has leased 50% of the Northridge Property for a term of seven years for $3,200 per month. The debtor must include the lease agreement in any amended disclosure statement. How does the debtor intend to fund the deficiency between the monthly expenses on the Northridge Property and the rental income?

Debtor's Interest in Other Real Properties. On November 14, 2019, the debtor filed his 2018 tax return with the Court [doc. 119]. That tax return indicates that, in 2018, the debtor was collecting rents from real properties located at 40536 N 171st East, Lancaster, California (the "Lancaster Property") and 13640 Norris Ave., Sylmar, California (the "Sylmar Property"). The tax return does not indicate that these properties were sold in 2018. The Lancaster Property is not listed in any of the debtor's schedules. What is the debtor's interest in this property?

In his statement of financial affairs, the debtor lists the Sylmar Property as the address for his business, Helping Hands Homes. However, the debtor did not list the Sylmar Property in his schedule A/B or a lease for the Sylmar Property in his schedule G.

On what basis does the debtor's business occupy the Sylmar Property? Is he a tenant of that property? Or does he have an equity interest in that property? If the debtor is a tenant, what are the monthly rental payments, and when does the lease terminate?

The Court will prepare the order.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Based on, among other things, the debtor's flawed and inaccurate disclosures, which are discussed below, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a) and 1104(a)(1) and/or (a)(2), the Court may appoint a chapter 11 examiner to investigate, among other things, the debtor's assets, liabilities and prepetition transfers.

Exhibits to the Disclosure Statement Inconsistent with Filed Schedules

To the debtor's disclosure statement [doc. 117], the debtor attached a schedule A/B ("Exhibit B") [Exh. B] and a schedule E/F ("Exhibit C", and together with Exhibit B, the "Attachments") [Exh. C]. The Attachments are not consistent with the debtor's most recently filed schedule A/B ("Amended Schedule A/B") [doc. 28], filed on August 17, 2018, and schedule E/F ("Schedule E/F") [doc. 1], filed on July 10, 2018.

In his Amended Schedule A/B, the debtor lists an interest in real property located in North Hills, California (the "North Hills Property"), valued at $810,000. In Exhibit B, the debtor values the North Hills Property at $835,000. The debtor does not list an interest in any other real property.

In his Amended Schedule A/B, the debtor represents that, as of the petition date, he had $900 in his bank account. In Exhibit B, the debtor represents that he had $1,000.

Below is a chart listing the nonpriority unsecured creditors the debtor enumerated in his Schedule E/F, compared to Exhibit C to the proposed disclosure statement.

All of the creditors listed in Exhibit C have filed proofs of claim in the debtor's case. With the exception of DCFS Trust (which the debtor appears to have called TD Auto Finance in his Schedule E/F) and Mr. Cooper, none of the creditors listed in Exhibit C were listed in the debtor's master mailing list. As such, it does not appear that these creditors received notice of the debtor's chapter 11 case. The Court is concerned that there may be additional creditors that did not receive notice of this chapter 11 case.

To date, the debtor has not filed an amended master mailing list.

Undisclosed Sale of Real Property Two Months Prior to the Petition Date

On November 14, 2019, the debtor filed his 2018 federal tax return with the Court (the "2018 Tax Return") [doc. 119]. The 2018 Tax Return indicates that, in May 2018, two months prior to the debtor filing his chapter 11 petition, the debtor sold real property located at 15170 Greenrock, Lancaster, California (the "Greenrock Property") and received proceeds in the amount of $39,660.

Chapter 11

Item 18 of the statement of financial affairs ("SOFA") states, "[w]ithin 2 years before you filed for bankruptcy, did you sell, trade or otherwise transfer any property to anyone, other than property transferred in the ordinary course of your business or financial affairs?" In his original SOFA [doc. 1], filed on July 10, 2018, and his amended SOFAs [docs. 15 and 26], filed on July 25, 2018 and August 14, 2018, the debtor responded "no" to item 18.

In his Amended Schedule A/B, the debtor represents that, as of the petition date, he had $900 in his bank account. What did the debtor do with the significant proceeds from the sale of the Greenrock Property - which he received two months prior to the petition date?

Undisclosed Interests in Real Property

As discussed in calendar no. 1, the 2018 Tax Return indicates that, in addition to the North Hills Property, the debtor was collecting rents from real properties located at 40536 N 171st East, Lancaster, California (the "Lancaster Property") and 13640 Norris Ave., Sylmar, California (the "Sylmar Property"). However, the Lancaster Property is not listed in the debtor's original schedules and statements [doc. 1] or in the debtor's numerous subsequent amendments [docs. 15, 23, 26 and 28].

In his statement of financial affairs, the debtor identifies the Sylmar Property as the address for his business, Helping Hands Homes. However, the debtor did not include an interest in the Sylmar Property in his Amended Schedule A/B or set forth a lease for the Sylmar Property in his schedule G [doc. 1].

Are there secured creditors holding liens against the Lancaster Property and/or the Sylmar Property which did not receive notice of this chapter 11 case?

On March 18, 2019, a creditor, who was not listed in the debtor's schedules or master mailing list, filed a motion for relief from stay (the "RFS Motion") based on an unlawful detainer action regarding real property located at 13350 Dyer Street, Sylmar, California (the "Dyer Street Property") [doc. 66]. In his chapter 11 petition, the debtor identified the Dyer Street Property as his residence.

On March 27, 2019, the debtor filed an opposition to the RFS Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 68]. In the Opposition, the debtor states that, prepetition, he entered into an agreement to lease the Dyer Street Property for seven years, commencing on June 30, 2018, i.e. ten days prior to filing this chapter 11 case. The debtor did not list this lease agreement in his schedule G [doc. 1] or in any of the numerous amended schedules and statements [docs. 15, 23, 26 and 28].

On June 13, 2019, the Court entered an order granting the RFS Motion [doc. 80]. Since the RFS Motion was granted, the debtor has not filed a notice of change of address. Does the debtor still reside at the Dyer Street Property, and if not, where is the debtor residing?

Incomplete Statement of Financial Affairs

Item 4 of the SOFA states, "[d]id you have any income from employment or from operating a business during this year or the two previous calendar years?" Item 4 explicitly requests that the debtor disclose his or her gross income.

In his original SOFA [doc. 1], filed on July 10, 2018, and his most recently filed SOFA [doc. 26], filed on August 14, 2018, the debtor responded "no" to item 4. As evidenced by his 2017 tax returns [doc. 48] and the 2018 Tax Return, the debtor's response to item 4 is clearly inaccurate.

Engagement of an Accountant without Court Approval

In his October 2019 monthly operating report [doc.122], the debtor listed a $450.00 "personal expense" to "Farzan." According to the fee summary attached to the Tax Return [doc. 119], the debtor engaged Farzan & Farzan AAC for the preparation of his 2018 tax return and paid $450 for this service. The debtor has not obtained Court approval for the employment of any accountant.

#23.10 Hearing re: H. Samuel Hopper's objection to confirmation of debtor's third amended chapter 13 plan

Docket 166

Tentative Ruling:

I. BACKGROUND

A. Schedules and Statements

On December 18, 2018, Kenneth C. Scott (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 13 petition and his schedules and statements [doc. 1]. On December 19, 2018, the Debtor filed an amended statement of financial affairs [doc. 13].

On March 6, 2019, the Debtor filed a further amended statement of financial affairs [doc. 34] and an amended schedule C [doc. 35]. On May 17, 2019, the Debtor filed amended schedules I and J [docs. 95 and 96]. On the same day, the Debtor also filed an amended statement of current monthly income [doc. 98].

On August 28, 2019, the Debtor's counsel filed a document purporting to be an amended statement of current monthly income [doc. 165].

B. Debtor's Exemptions

In his amended schedule C [doc. 35], the Debtor claimed all of his assets exempt, including $17,274.00 in "monies in business account" (the "Funds"). On March 18, 2019, Dr. Hopper filed an objection to the Debtor's claim of an exemption in the Funds [doc. 42]. On July 17, 2019, the Court entered an order overruling that objection [doc. 160]. Dr. Hopper did not appeal that order or file a motion for reconsideration.

C. Motion to Dismiss Chapter 13 Case

On April 19, 2019, Dr. Hopper filed a motion to dismiss this bankruptcy case, which was based, in part, on bad faith (the "Motion to Dismiss") [doc. 70]. Prior to the May 14, 2019 hearing on the Motion to dismiss, the Court posted a tentative ruling denying the Motion to Dismiss. However, based on Dr. Hopper's oral argument at that hearing, the Court the continued the hearing on the Motion to Dismiss in order for the parties to take discovery regarding the issue of bad faith [doc. 123].

On November 13, 2019, the Court held a continued status conference on the Motion to Dismiss. At that hearing, the Court set a continued status conference for December 10, 2019 [doc. 180]. Dr. Hopper's counsel was present at the November 13, 2019 hearing.

On November 20, 2019, the Debtor filed a motion for summary judgment on the issue of bad faith (the "MSJ") [doc. 174]. The hearing on the MSJ is set for February 5, 2020 at 2:30 p.m.

On November 26, 2019, the Debtor and Dr. Hopper filed a joint status report regarding the discovery that Dr. Hopper would take in connection with the Motion to Dismiss [doc. 181]. In that joint status report, Dr. Hopper states that he intends to take written discovery, including interrogatories, requests for admission and document requests, and depositions of the debtor, Niaz Khnai, JoAnn Scott and the person most knowledgeable at Fenton & Ross, CPA.

On December 10, 2019, the Court held a continued status conference on the Motion to Dismiss. Prior to the status conference, the Court posted a tentative ruling regarding the Debtor's objections to Dr. Hopper's proposed discovery. Dr. Hopper's counsel failed to appear at that status conference. At the status conference, the Court set February 1, 2020 as the last day for discovery to be completed on the issue of bad faith [doc. 183].

D. Objection to Dr. Hopper's Claim

On February 26, 2019, Dr. Hopper filed claim 3-1, asserting a nonpriority unsecured claim in the amount of $1,510,975.25. On March 25, 2019, the Debtor filed an objection to Dr. Hopper's claim [doc. 50].

March 26, 2019, Dr. Hopper filed an amended proof of claim, asserting a nonpriority unsecured claim in the amount of $260,975.25 [Claim 3-2]. On March 28, 2019, Debtor filed an objection to the Claim (the "Objection to Claim") [doc. 55]. The Objection to Claim is currently pending. A continued hearing on the Objection to Claim is set for February 5, 2020 at 2:30 p.m.

On December 16, 2019, Dr. Hopper filed a further amended proof of claim, asserting a nonpriority unsecured claim in the amount of $169,432.60 [Claim 3-3].

E. Related Adversary Proceeding

On April 19, 2019, Dr. Hopper filed a complaint against the Debtor and the Debtor's corporation, My Private Practice, Inc. ("MPPI"), for, among other things, nondischargeability of the debt owed to Dr. Hopper, initiating adversary proceeding 1:19-ap-1046-VK.

On July 3, 2019, Dr. Hopper filed an amended complaint, adding Kenneth Scott Psy.D as a defendant and adding several causes of action [1:19-ap-1046-VK, doc. 9]. On July 23, 2019, the Debtor filed a motion to dismiss the adversary proceeding [1:19-ap-1046-VK, doc. 12]. That motion to dismiss is currently pending. A continued hearing on that motion to dismiss is set for February 5, 2020 at 2:30 p.m.

F. Chapter 13 Plans

On December 18, 2018, the Debtor filed a chapter 13 plan (the "Plan") [doc. 2]. The confirmation hearing on the First Chapter 13 Plan was set for March 12, 2019. The Plan was a 36-month plan.

On March 4, 2019, H. Samuel Hopper ("Dr. Hopper") filed an objection to the Plan [doc. 28] and a declaration in support of that objection [doc. 29]. On March 12, 2019, the Court held a confirmation hearing on the Plan. The Court continued the confirmation hearing to May 14, 2019.

On March 6, 2019, the Debtor filed an amended chapter 13 plan (the "First Amended Plan") [doc. 31]. Pursuant to the First Amended Plan, the Debtor proposed to make payments in the amount of $272.82 per month, for 36 months. On April 30, 2019, Dr. Hopper filed an objection to the First Amended Plan [doc. 77].

On May 14, 2019, the Court held a hearing on confirmation of the First Amended Plan. The Court continued the confirmation hearing to July 2, 2019.

In a declaration filed on May 17, 2019, the Debtor stated that, because he received higher than expected gross income in 2018, he would amend his chapter 13 plan to be a 60-month plan [doc. 100, ¶ 15]. On May 21, 2019, the Debtor filed his further amended chapter 13 plan (the "Second Amended Plan") [doc. 110]. Through the Second Amended Plan, the Debtor proposes to pay $493.61 per month, for 60 months. On June 17, 2019, Dr. Hopper filed an objection to the Second Amended Plan [doc. 133].

On July 2, 2019, the Court held a hearing on confirmation of the Second Amended Plan. The Court continued the confirmation hearing to September 10, 2019.

On August 28, 2019, the Debtor filed a revised Second Amended Plan (the "Revised Second Amended Plan") [doc. 166]. The only change the Debtor made in the Revised Second Amended Plan from the Second Amended Plan was that he completed Section I.B.1.b. (apparently incorrectly) by identifying: (1) the total amount to be paid under the Revised Second Amended Plan, i.e., $29,616.00 (rather than the distribution to be made to Class 5, i.e., $24,155.00); and (2) an estimated percentage to be paid to claims in Class 5.

On December 30, 2019, Dr. Hopper filed an objection to the Revised Second Amended Plan [doc. 166]. Dr. Hopper objects to the Revised Second Amended Plan on four grounds: (1) the Revised Second Amended Plan does not provide for proper treatment of Dr. Hopper's claim; (2) the Revised Second Amended Plan does not allocate all of the Debtor's disposable income towards the plan payments; (3) the Revised Second Amended Plan and the Debtor's petition were filed in bad faith; and (4) the Debtor has withheld substantial, relevant information regarding his income, the status of his professional license and his ability to repay creditors.

II. DISCUSSION

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1325(a)(4), "the court shall confirm a plan . . . if the value, as of the effective date of the plan, of property to be distributed under the plan on account of each allowed unsecured claim is not less than the amount that would be paid on such claim if the estate of the debtor were liquidated under chapter 7 of this title on such date."

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1325(b)(1):

If the trustee or the holder of an allowed unsecured claim objects to the confirmation of the plan, then the court may not approve the plan unless, as of the effective date of the plan—

- (A) the value of the property to be distributed under the plan on account of such claim is not less than the amount of such claim; or
- (B) the plan provides that all of the debtor's projected disposable income to be received in the applicable commitment period beginning on the date that the first payment is due under the plan will be applied to make payments to unsecured creditors under the plan.

A. Objection One

Dr. Hopper's first objection is based on two grounds: (1) that the Debtor has not demonstrated that holders of nonpriority unsecured claims will receive property having a value at least equal to the amount holders of such claims would receive in a chapter 7 liquidation; and (2) the Revised Second Amended Plan does not provide for payment of Dr. Hopper's potentially nondischargeable claim in full.

Regarding the first argument, the Debtor's schedules A/B [doc. 1] represent that, as of the petition date, the Debtor held assets in the amount of $126,817.28; a retirement account constitutes $96,892.28 of that amount. In his amended schedule C [doc. 35], the Debtor claimed all of these assets as exempt.

In his schedule A/B [doc. 1], the Debtor represented that, as of the petition date, the liquidation value of his 100% ownership interest in MPPI was $0.00. See Cunningham v. Masterwear Corp., 569 F.3d 673, 676 (7th Cir. 2009) (stating that an owner may offer valuation testimony either based on personal knowledge, under Fed. R. Evid. 701, or based on specialized knowledge, under Fed. R. Evid. 702).

Based on the evidence before the Court at this time, there are not any non-exempt assets for the chapter 7 trustee to liquidate for the benefit of unsecured creditors. Thus, holders of nonpriority unsecured claims, including Dr. Hopper, will receive more through the Revised Second Amended Plan, that is, $24,155.00 in all, than the amount such creditors would receive in a hypothetical chapter 7 liquidation.

Regarding the second argument, even if Dr. Hopper's claim is found to be nondischargeable, the Revised Second Amended Plan does not need to provide for full payment of the claim. As the United States Bankruptcy Panel for the First Circuit stated, "[n]othing in the Bankruptcy Code requires that a nondischargeable debt. . . be paid in full through a Chapter 13 plan. Rather, the only consequence of nondischargeability is that, to the extent the debt is not paid through the Chapter 13 plan, it must be paid after completion of the plan, or at least from a source other than the funds devoted to the plan." In re Bentley, 266 B.R. 229, 235 (B.A.P. 1st Cir. 2001).

The Court will overrule this objection.

B. Objection Two

Dr. Hopper's second objection to the Revised Second Amended Plan is that the Debtor fails to distribute all his disposable income to the plan. Dr. Hopper argues that the Debtor's statement of current monthly income represents that the Debtor receives $32,022.34 in income per month [doc. 98], and the Debtor's amended schedule J represents that the Debtor's monthly expenses are $4,511.69, leaving net monthly income of $27,510.65. However, the Revised Second Amended Plan provides for monthly payments of only $493.61.

At the prior confirmation hearing on July 2, 2019, the Debtor's counsel stated that the Debtor's current monthly income, as stated in docket 98, is incorrect. The Debtor's counsel was directed to file, prior to the continued confirmation hearing, an amended statement of current monthly income.

On August 28, 2019, the Debtor's counsel filed a document purporting to be an amended statement of current monthly income [doc. 165]. However, that document is actually the Revised Second Amended Plan.

When does the Debtor intend to file an amended statement of current monthly income?

C. Objection Three

Dr. Hopper's third objection to the Revised Second Amended Plan is based on the Debtor's allegedly bad faith. The hearing on the MSJ is set for February 5, 2020 at 2:30 p.m. As such, at this time, the Court will not make a ruling with regard to the Debtor's alleged bad faith.

D. Objection Four

Dr. Hopper's fourth objection to the Revised Second Amended Plan is based, in part, on the Debtor's psychology license allegedly being subject to a disciplinary action by the California Attorney General. Dr. Hopper argues that if the Debtor's psychology license is suspended or revoked, the Debtor will have no means to make his chapter 13 plan payments.

Pursuant to § 1325(a)(6), one of the requirements for confirmation of a chapter 13 plan is that the debtor will be able to make all payments under the plan and to comply with the plan. As the bankruptcy court stated in In re Anderson, 18 B.R. 763 (Bankr. S.D. Ohio), aff'd, 28 B.R. 628 (S.D. Ohio 1982):

This Court must judge the feasibility of the debtor's proposal as the facts appear at the time of confirmation. While it may be conceded that the successful completion of the Chapter 13 proposal of this debtor is contingent upon a sale of real estate under market conditions which, in recent months, are far from ideal, this Court is reluctant to conclude at this point in time that the plan lacks the requisite feasibility required for confirmation under the test set forth in § 1325(a)(6) of the Bankruptcy Code. A debtor proposing a Chapter 13 plan need not prove that the plan is guaranteed to be successful. Virtually every plan that requires some performance in the future will be subject to a risk factor affecting its successful completion. This Court's judicial discretion is to be exercised, then, to determine at the time of confirmation whether the risk of failure of the proposed plan is impermissible.

Anderson, 18 B.R. at 765.

At this time, the Debtor's psychology license has not been suspended or revoked, and the Debtor has made his preconfirmation chapter 13 plan payments. In addition, the Debtor's amended schedules I and J [docs. 95 and 96], represent that the Debtor has sufficient net monthly income to fund the Revised Second Amended Plan.

The Court will not deny confirmation of the Revised Second Amended Plan because, in the future, the Debtor's psychology license may be suspended or revoked. If this does happen, presumably, the Debtor will no longer be able to make his chapter 13 plan payments; he will not successfully complete his confirmed chapter 13 plan; and his case may be dismissed, without his receipt of a discharge.

The Court will overrule this objection.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will overrule objections one and four. The Court makes no findings as to objections two and three.

#72.00 Show Cause Hearing Why Debtors' Counsel Should Not be Sanctioned for Failure to Appear at Hearing on Trustee's Motion to Dismiss

Docket 103

Tentative Ruling:

On November 2, 2019, the chapter 13 trustee (the "Trustee") filed a motion to dismiss the case of Michel A. Contreras, IV and Carmen Contreras ("Debtors") for failure to submit all tax returns ("Motion to Dismiss") [doc. 101]. On December 10, 2019, the Court held a hearing on the Motion to Dismiss. Debtors' counsel did not appear.

On December 11, 2019, the Court issued an Order to Show Cause Why Debtors' Counsel Should Not be Sanctioned for Failure to Appear at Hearing on Trustee's Motion to Dismiss (the "OSC") [doc. 103], on the grounds that Debtors' counsel failed to appear at the hearing on the Motion to Dismiss as required by Local Bankruptcy Rule 3015-1(u)(1). Debtors' counsel was ordered to explain his failure to appear and file and serve on Debtors a written response to the OSC no later than December 31, 2019.

On December 16, 2019, Debtors' counsel filed his response ("Response") [doc. 106]. In the Response, Debtors' counsel states that he was on his way to the December 10, 2019 hearing when he was involved in a car accident. Debtors' counsel states that he was rushed to the emergency room and discharged on December 11, 2019.

If Debtors' counsel or an appearance attorney appears at the continued Motion to Dismiss hearing on January 14, 2020 at 10:30 a.m., then the Court may discharge the OSC. However, if no appearance is made at the continued Motion to Dismiss hearing, the Court may impose sanctions on Debtors' counsel.

Docket 48

Tentative Ruling:

On October 30, 2019, the chapter 13 trustee (the "Trustee") filed a motion to dismiss the case of Gerardo Paz and Araceli Diane Paz ("Debtors") for failure to submit all tax returns ("Motion to Dismiss") [doc. 44]. On December 10, 2019, the Court held a hearing on the Motion to Dismiss. Debtors' counsel did not appear.

On December 11, 2019, the Court issued an Order to Show Cause Why Debtors' Counsel Should Not be Sanctioned for Failure to Appear at Hearing on Trustee's Motion to Dismiss (the "OSC") [doc. 48], on the grounds that Debtors' counsel failed to appear at the hearing on the Motion to Dismiss as required by Local Bankruptcy Rule 3015-1(u)(1). Debtors' counsel was ordered to explain his failure to appear and file and serve on Debtors a written response to the OSC no later than December 31, 2019.

Tentative Ruling:

On October 31, 2019, the chapter 13 trustee (the "Trustee") filed a motion to dismiss the case of Michael Anthony Sarnataro and Cindi Joanna Romualdo-Sarnataro ("Debtors") for failure to submit all tax returns ("Motion to Dismiss") [doc.34]. On December 10, 2019, the Court held a hearing on the Motion to Dismiss. Debtors' counsel did not appear.

On December 12, 2019, the Court issued an Order to Show Cause Why Debtors' Counsel Should Not be Sanctioned for Failure to Appear at Hearing on Trustee's Motion to Dismiss (the "OSC") [doc. 36], on the grounds that Debtors' counsel failed to appear at the hearing on the Motion to Dismiss as required by Local Bankruptcy Rule 3015-1(u)(1). Debtors' counsel was ordered to explain his failure to appear and file and serve on Debtors a written response to the OSC no later than December 31, 2019.

On December 20, 2019, Debtors' counsel filed and served his response ("Response") [doc. 39]. In his Response, Debtors' counsel states that his office failed to calendar the December 10, 2019 hearing. Nonetheless, prior to that hearing, his office had reached out to the debtors regarding the Motion to Dismiss, and they have been unresponsive.

On January 10, 2020, Debtors' counsel filed a Declaration of David Chung re Motion to Dismiss [doc. 41]. In that declaration, Debtors' counsel also states that he has reached out to Debtors on multiple occasions, and Debtors have been unresponsive. Debtors' counsel states that because of the breakdown in communication, he is unable to resolve the Motion to Dismiss. Based on the representations made in the Response and the Declaration of David Chung re Motion to Dismiss, the Court will discharge the OSC.

Claimant Bank of America, NA. and for Account Ending in 2212

STIP filed on 1/10/20 doc #41

Docket 36

Tentative Ruling:

The Court will continue this hearing to March 10, 2020 at 11:00 a.m.

Pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 3007-1(b)(2), the debtor must serve the objection and notice of hearing on the claimant. Although the debtor served notice of the hearing on the claimant [doc. 33], it does not appear that the debtor served the objection on the claimant. The proof of service attached to the objection [doc. 36], indicates that the claimant was not served.

In addition, pursuant to Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7004(h)(3) and LBR 3007-1(b)(2), the debtor must serve the objection and notice of hearing on the claimant via certified mail addressed to an officer of the institution. Here, the notice of hearing [doc. 33], indicates that the claimant was served via United States mail.

By February 7, 2020, the debtor must serve notice of the continued hearing, the objection and the deadline to file a response (14 days prior to the hearing date) on Bank of America, N.A. in accordance with the procedures in Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7004(h) and LBR 3007-1(b)(2).

#2.00 Amended Disclosure Statement hearing

Docket 105

Tentative Ruling:

On December 18, 2019, the U.S. Trustee (the "UST") filed an objection to the debtor's first amended disclosure statement on three bases: (A) that the debtor did not provide a declaration from his spouse regarding her willingness to contribute to the debtor's chapter 11 plan of reorganization; (B) the debtor has not provided for tax withholding in his schedules or Declaration of Current/Postpetition Income and Expenses; and (C) the debtor did not attach a list of unsecured creditors to the disclosure statement.

On December 30, 2019, the debtor filed a declaration by his spouse regarding her willingness to contribute to the debtor's first amended chapter 11 plan of reorganization [doc. 118]. On January 9, 2020, the debtor filed a reply and attached a list of unsecured creditors [doc. 120]. The debtor also filed an updated Declaration of Current/Postpetition Income and Expenses [doc. 119]. This time, the debtor includes a deduction for his spouse's income taxes. However, the debtor does not include any deductions for his own income taxes.

In addition, in the debtor's monthly operating report for November 2019 [doc. 114], the debtor indicates that his property insurance expired in September 2019. In his updated Declaration of Current/Postpetition Income and Expenses, the debtor states that his monthly mortgage payment does not include property insurance, and the debtor does not otherwise include any payment towards property insurance in his accounting of expenses. Is the debtor's real property currently insured?

The debtor must supplement the disclosure statement with information about his real property insurance, or lack thereof, and include his tax withholding in his accounting of expenses. The debtor should update his Declaration of Current/Postpetition Income and Expenses accordingly.

Docket 139

Tentative Ruling:

Grant.

I. BACKGROUND

On August 14, 2018, Mr. Tortilla, Inc. ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. Prepetition, Debtor disputed a $35,000 invoice by Diana's Mexican Food Products, Inc. ("Diana's"). Declaration of Anthony Alcazar ("Alcazar Declaration") [doc. 139], ¶ 5. Debtor contended that the quality of the product supplied by Diana's was below standard and yielded substandard tortillas, leading to the loss of at least one major customer. Id. Eventually, Diana's sued Debtor for payment of the $35,000, and Debtor filed a cross-complaint seeking damages. Id. Diana's included Debtor's two principals, and their father, as defendants (together, the "Nondebtor Defendants"). Id.

In 2017, Debtor and the Nondebtor Defendants (together, the "State Court Defendants") hired Roger Vega to represent them during trial. Alcazar Declaration, ¶ 7. According to Mr. Alcazar, the State Court Defendants believe that Mr. Vega did not comply with pretrial requirements, which led to the state court striking the State Court Defendants' answers and cross-complaint and entering a joint and several judgment in the amount of $214,000 against each of the State Court Defendants (the "Diana's Judgment"). Id. Consequently, on February 28, 2019, the State Court Defendants filed a malpractice complaint against Mr. Vega (the "Malpractice Action"). Alcazar Declaration, ¶ 2.

On December 5, 2019, Debtor filed a motion to approve an agreement with Mr. Vega (the "Motion") [doc. 139]. Debtor did not attach the settlement agreement between the State Court Defendants and Mr. Vega. On December 10, 2019, the U.S. Trustee

(the "UST") filed an opposition to the Motion [doc. 144], on the basis that Debtor must provide a copy of the settlement agreement. On December 12, 2019, Diana's filed an opposition to the Motion [doc. 145]. Diana's also requested a copy of the settlement agreement.

On December 26, 2019, the Court held a hearing on the Motion. The Court instructed Debtor to file a supplement to the Motion and attach the settlement agreement with Mr. Vega. On December 27, 2019, Debtor filed a supplement and attached the subject settlement agreement (the "Agreement") [doc. 148]. Through the Agreement, Debtor and the other Nondebtor Defendants, on the one hand, and Mr. Vega, on the other hand, agreed that Mr. Vega would pay the State Court Defendants $40,000 in addition to $20,000 previously paid to Debtor by Mr. Vega. The $40,000 is to be divided equally among the State Court Defendants, with Debtor receiving its portion of $10,000. In return, the State Court Defendants agreed to dismiss the Malpractice Action.

On January 10, 2020, Diana's filed another opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 149]. In the Opposition, Diana's asserts that Debtor should not use the Agreement to settle the Nondebtor Defendants' claims, and that the entire $40,000 should be given to Debtor to settle Debtor's claim against Mr. Vega. The UST no longer objects to the Motion.

II. ANALYSIS

Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 9019(a) provides the following: "On motion by the trustee and after notice and a hearing, the court may approve a compromise or settlement." In deciding whether to approve a compromise, courts must determine whether it is fair and equitable, and whether it is reasonable under the particular circumstances of the case. In re A & C Properties, 784 F.2d 1377, 1381 (9th Cir. 1986).

Although "[t]he law favors compromise and not litigation for its own sake," the law requires "more than a mere good faith negotiation of a settlement by the trustee in order for the bankruptcy court to affirm a compromise agreement." Id. "[A]s long as the bankruptcy court amply considered the various factors that determined the reasonableness of the compromise, the court's decision must be affirmed." Id. In determining the fairness, reasonableness and adequacy of a proposed settlement agreement, the court must consider:

- (a) The probability of success in the litigation; (b) the difficulties, if any, to be encountered in the matter of collection; (c) the complexity of the litigation involved, and the expense, inconvenience and delay necessarily attending it; (d) the paramount interest of the creditors and a proper deference to their reasonable views in the premises.

Id. (citations omitted). It is the movant's burden to establish that the settlement is reasonable and should be approved. Id. Courts have recognized that the court should not substitute its own judgment for that of the trustee, but rather should ensure that the trustee has exercised proper business judgment and the settlement "falls above the lowest possible point in the range of reasonableness." In re Rake, 363 B.R. 146, 152 (Bankr. D. Idaho 2007) (internal quotation omitted).

A. Probability of Success in Litigation

Debtor has met its burden of demonstrating that it would face significant difficulty succeeding in the Malpractice Action. As noted by Debtor, the Malpractice Action would essentially involve proving that, had the state court allowed the parties to proceed to trial, Debtor would have prevailed. This would involve multiple layers of proof, including showing that: (A) the product provided by Diana's was below standard; (B) if the product was below standard, the tortillas made from the product were substandard; (C) if the tortillas were substandard, it was the product supplied by Diana's, and no other factor, that made the tortillas substandard; and (D) if the product supplied by Diana's led to substandard tortillas, the loss of customers or any other damages was the result of the substandard tortillas and no other reason.

Given the significant amount of evidence required to make these showings, the record does not indicate that Debtor had a probability of success against Diana's; consequently, Debtor also would face significant difficulty demonstrating damages in the Malpractice Action. Accordingly, this factor weighs in favor of approving the Agreement.

B. Difficulties in Collection

Debtor also has shown that, if it is able to win a judgment in the amount of $214,000, it will be difficult to collect the full amount from Mr. Vega. According to Debtor's counsel, "$214,000 is significantly more than Mr. Vega's insurance coverage." Declaration of M. Jonathan Hayes [doc. 148], ¶ 10. Without insurance coverage over the full amount of a potential judgment, Debtor will have to initiate collection proceedings against Mr. Vega. Such proceedings to enforce any judgment against Mr. Vega will require more time and resources than the immediate payment of $40,000 contemplated under the Agreement. As such, this factor also favors approval of the Agreement.

C. Complexity and Expense, Inconvenience and Delay of Litigation

As noted above, prosecuting the Malpractice Action will involve multiple layers of proof. Offering such proof will be expensive. For example, according to Debtor, Debtor would need to retain experts to attempt to litigate the Malpractice Action successfully. Given the complexity of the case and the amount of time and resources necessary to prosecute the action, this factor weighs in favor of approval of the Agreement.

D. Paramount Interest of Creditors

The primary objection by Diana's is that the Nondebtor Defendants should give their portion of the settlement proceeds to Debtor for the benefit of unsecured creditors. However, the Nondebtor Defendants were individually named by Diana's as defendants and are now jointly and severally liable under the Diana's Judgment. Because Mr. Vega represented all of the State Court Defendants, each of the State Court Defendants has their own malpractice claim against Mr. Vega. As such, the distribution of settlement proceeds to the Nondebtor Defendants cannot accurately be characterized as a receipt of Debtor's funds by insiders; the $10,000 to be paid to each of the Nondebtor Defendants is to settle their own claims against Mr. Vega, and the Court does not have the power to compel these nondebtor entities to turn over their funds to the estate.

Moreover, the assertion by Diana's that Debtor settled the Nondebtor Defendants' claims on their behalf is inaccurate. As noted by Debtor, the Nondebtor Defendants were represented by their own counsel, Sevan Gorginian, who separately negotiated on the Nondebtor Defendants' behalf. Declaration of M. Jonathan Hayes, ¶¶ 2, 6, 8. As such, the Nondebtor Defendants did not benefit from the use of Debtor's counsel. Nor is there any evidence on the record that the Nondebtor Defendants received any other benefit from Debtor in connection with the negotiation and execution of the Agreement.

Consequently, the $30,000 set to be received by the Nondebtor Defendants is outside the scope of the Court's assessment of Mr. Vega's settlement with Debtor. The Court's narrow focus is whether it is fair, equitable and reasonable for Debtor to settle with Mr. Vega for $10,000. Given the discussion above regarding Debtor's chances of success and the significant resources necessary to prosecute the Malpractice Action, the immediate receipt of $10,000 into the estate is in the paramount interest of creditors. Because all of the factors weigh in favor of approval of the Agreement, the Court will grant the Motion.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will grant the Motion.

Debtor must submit an order within seven (7) days.

#6.00 Motion in Individual Case for Order Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

fr. 12/4/19, 12/18/19

Docket 19

Tentative Ruling:

The Court will deny the motion.

At the prior hearing on December 18, 2019, the Court ordered the debtor to file a declaration to demonstrate that she timely made her proposed adequate protection payments. As of January 21, 2020, the debtor did not timely file such a declaration.

The Court will prepare the order.

Tentative Ruling for December 18, 2019

At the prior hearing, on December 4, 2019, the Court ordered the debtor to file the following by December 16, 2019:

1. An amended statement of financial affairs that correctly states the debtor's gross income during this year and the two previous years and any lawsuit, court action or administrative proceeding in which the debtor was a party within one year before she filed her petition.
2. An amended schedule D that lists all liens against the debtor's real properties and whether the debtor disputes those liens.
3. An amended schedule I that includes the required statement for each real property showing gross receipts, ordinary and necessary business expenses and the total monthly net income.
4. A declaration by the debtor explaining the home improvement and/or tax liens that may have attached to her real properties.
5. A declaration by the debtor discussing the amount she proposes to pay monthly in adequate protection payments and how the debtor will afford those adequate protection payments.

6. All unexpired leases listed in the debtor's schedule G.

On December 17, 2019, the debtor belatedly filed these documents [docs. 37 and 38] and a stipulation with Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. ("Wells Fargo") to continue the automatic stay with respect to the debtor's rental property (the "Stipulation") [doc. 39]. In the Stipulation, the debtor agrees to start making adequate protection payments to Wells Fargo in the amount of $2,000 per month. The debtor also proposes making adequate protection payments to PHH Mortgage/NewRez in the amount of $2,200 per month [doc. 38].

In her amended schedule I [doc. 37], on line 8a, the debtor states that she is receiving net income of $4,222 per month from her residence and the rental property. However, the attachment sheet indicates that she is receiving net rental income of $3,622 per month.

As such, it appears that debtor is earning $4,503 per month in combined rental and disability income, leaving negative net monthly income of ($591). Once the debtor begins making the adequate protection payments pursuant to the Stipulation, i.e., paying the lender $2,000 per month, instead of $1763 per month, her negative net monthly income will increase.

In her amended schedule J [doc. 37], the debtor lists payments on two vehicles in the amounts of $782 and $751. The Court questions why the debtor, who is unemployed, and whose spouse also is unemployed, requires two vehicles. Unless the debtor is willing to abandon one of these vehicles, the Court does not see how the debtor will have sufficient net income to fund a chapter 11 plan of reorganization.

In her supplemental declaration in support of the motion [doc. 38], the debtor states that she has entered into the written leases attached in exhibit A, which add up to $4,600 per month, and one oral lease. The debtor does not discuss the monthly rental payment under the oral lease or explain why that lease is not in writing.

12/4/19 Tentative Ruling

The Court will deny the motion.

Chapter 11

On February 28, 2019, Blanca Mohd (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 13 petition, initiating case 1:19-bk-10469-VK (the "First Case"). On March 12, 2019, the Debtor filed a motion to extend the deadline to file schedules and statements [First Case, doc. 12]. The Court granted that motion and extended the deadline for the Debtor to file schedules and statements to March 28, 2019. Id. at doc. 13.

In the First Case, the Debtor never filed her schedules and statements, by the extended deadline, or by months later. On June 18, 2019, the Court entered an order dismissing the First Case for failure to file information. Id. at 20.

During the pendency of the First Case, PHH Mortgage Corporation ("PHH") filed claim 5 ("Claim 5"), representing that it holds a claim in the amount of $583,101.23, secured by real property located at 10437 Cedros Avenue, Mission Hills, California 91345 (the "Residence"). In Claim 5, PHH represented that the prepetition arrears on the Residence were $59,776.80.

Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. ("Wells Fargo") filed claim 9 ("Claim 9"), representing that it holds a claim in the amount of $328,912.64, secured by real property located at 14915 Sandra Street, Mission Hills, California 91345 (the "Rental"). In Claim 9, Wells Fargo represented that the prepetition arrears on the Rental were $84,117.72.

The Pending Case

On November 7, 2019, the Debtor filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition, initiating this case. In this case, the Debtor's schedules I and J state that she has monthly income of $3,802.00 and monthly expenses of $5,308.00, leaving net monthly income of ($1,506.00) [doc. 12]. However, in her schedule J, the Debtor did not include any mortgage expense for the Rental; she listed a mortgage expense for the Residence only.

In her schedule I, the Debtor indicates that she is disabled. The Debtor represents that her monthly income consists of $2,921.00 from leasing the Rental and $881.00 from disability assistance. In contrast, the Debtor's statement of financial affairs represents that her income from "disability & rental" for January 1, 2019 through the petition date (November 7, 2019) was $500.00, for 2018 $10,283.00 and for 2017 $81.00 [doc. 12]. These amounts are far less than the $3,802.00 in the gross monthly income set forth in her schedule I.

In her schedule A/B [doc. 12], the Debtor represents that the fair market value of the Residence is $451,000.00 and the fair market value of the Rental is $550,000.00. In her schedule D [doc. 12], the Debtor indicates that PHH holds a claim secured by the Residence in the amount of $611,015.00 and that Wells Fargo holds a claim secured by the Rental in the amount of $353,829.00.

In her schedule G [doc. 12], the Debtor lists four unexpired leases: one for the Rental and three for the Residence. The Debtor does not set forth the monthly rent payable under each lease, and she did not submit the leases with her pending motion.

On November 27, 2019, the Debtor filed the pending motion to continue the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362 (the "Motion") [doc. 19] and an application for an order setting hearing on shortened notice (the "Application for OST") [doc. 20]. On the same day, the Court entered an order granting the Application for OST and setting a hearing on the Motion for December 4, 2019 (the "OST") [doc. 22]. Pursuant to the OST, the Debtor was to serve written notice of the hearing, a copy of the OST and the Motion on the Debtor's secured creditors and the 20 largest unsecured creditors by no later than November 27, 2019 at 5:00 p.m.

On November 27, 2019, the Debtor filed an amended notice of hearing on the Motion [doc. 25]. The amended notice of hearing, allegedly served by United States mail on November 27, 2019, does not include the deadline by which a response to the Motion must be filed and served.

Through the Motion, the Debtor seeks to continue the automatic stay as to all creditors. The Debtor states she will rent out all or a portion of the Residence and the Rental and that the rent collected will be used to make her deed of trust payments and to fund a chapter 11 plan of reorganization. The Debtor also states that she has a strategy to resolve the "home improvement/tax liens" on the Residence and the Rental. The Debtor does not describe her "strategy." Moreover, in her schedules, the Debtor did not list any home improvement or tax liens.

The Debtor also represents that she will begin making adequate protection payments to her secured creditors in December 2019. However, the Debtor does not propose an amount for those payments, nor has she provided any convincing evidence of her

Discussion

Under 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3), in order to extend the automatic stay in a case filed within one year of another case which was pending within the same year but was dismissed, the debtor must show that the present case was filed in good faith as to the creditors to be stayed. Under 11 U.S.C. 362(c)(3)(C)(i)(III), a case is presumptively filed not in good faith if there has not been a substantial change in the financial or personal affairs of the debtor since the dismissal of the next most previous case, or any other reason to conclude that the later case will be concluded with a chapter 7 discharge, or a confirmed chapter 11 or 13 plan that will be fully performed.

Notwithstanding the assertions in the Motion, at this time, the Debtor has not provided clear and convincing evidence that her financial affairs have improved since the dismissal of her prior chapter 13 case, such that the pending chapter 11 case will result in a confirmed plan that will be fully performed.

In her pending case, the Debtor's schedules I and J indicate negative net monthly income of ($1,506.00). Because her schedule J does not include expenses attributable to the Rental, such as the deed of trust payment, the Debtor's net monthly income is likely even less than this amount. In addition, contrary to the assertions in her schedule I, the Debtor's statement of financial affairs indicates that the Debtor's gross monthly income is much less than the $3,802.00 indicated in her schedule I.

Given the Debtor's negative net income, and the marked discrepancy between the income reflected in her schedules and in her statement of financial affairs (which reflect a lack of any meaningful income, at all), at this time, the Debtor has not presented clear and convincing evidence that she can confirm a chapter 11 plan and fully perform any such plan.

Similarly, the Debtor has not provided sufficient evidence of her ability to make adequate protection payments, nor does the Motion mention the amount of the adequate protection payments that the Debtor intends to make.

In light of the foregoing, the Court will deny the Motion.

The Court will prepare the order.

#7.00 Motion in Individual Case for Order Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

fr. 11/20/19

Docket 8

Tentative Ruling:

The Court will deny the motion.

At the prior hearing on December 18, 2019, the Court ordered the debtor to file, by January 20, 2020, a declaration to demonstrate that he timely made certain post-petition deed of trust and chapter 13 plan payments. The debtor did not timely file such a declaration.

The Court will prepare the order.

Ruling for December 18, 2019

The Court will grant the motion on an interim basis up to the date of the continued hearing. The Court will continue this hearing to January 22, 2020 at 9:30 a.m. No later than December 2, 2019 the debtor must file and serve notice of the continued hearing on all creditors in accordance with Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7004(b)(3) and (h).

In addition, the debtor must timely pay: (1) his deed of trust payments in the amount of $3,259.00 (as stated in his current Schedule J) as to the real property located at 10426 Independence Avenue, Chatsworth, California 91311; and (2) his December 2019 and January 2020 plan payments in the amount of $1,500.00 as stated in the debtor's proposed chapter 13 plan [doc. 2]. No later than January 20, 2020, the debtor must file a declaration to demonstrate that he timely made his required post-petition deed of trust and chapter 13 plan payments.

The debtor must submit the order within seven (7) days.

Appearances on November 20, 2019 are excused.

#20.00 Status conference re: amended complaint to determine dischargeability of debt

fr. 12/11/19

Tentative Ruling:

As previously stated by the Court at the December 11, 2019 status conference, the Court may dismiss this case if the Court allows the withdrawal of Richard Shuben as the plaintiff's counsel and if the plaintiff does not obtain new counsel by January 22, 2020.

The Court intends to grant Mr. Shuben's request to withdraw as counsel. Has the plaintiff retained an attorney to replace Mr. Shuben?

12/11/2019 Ruling:

On December 4, 2019, the plaintiff's attorney, Richard Shuben, filed a motion to withdraw as counsel (the "Motion to Withdraw") [doc. 20]. Although Mr. Shuben served the Motion to Withdraw on the plaintiff, Mr. Shuben did not provide a notice of a deadline for the plaintiff to respond or include a notice that this adversary proceeding may be dismissed if the plaintiff, a limited liability company, proceeds without counsel. See Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 2091-1(d).

The Court will continue this status conference to 1:30 p.m. on January 22, 2020. No later than December 18, 2019, Mr. Shuben must file and serve a notice with the language required by LBR 2091-1(d) and provide a deadline of 14 days for the plaintiff to respond to the Motion to Withdraw. If Mr. Shuben successfully withdraws as counsel, the Court will assess whether the plaintiff has obtained new counsel at the continued status conference on January 22, 2020. If the plaintiff has not obtained new counsel by that time, the Court may dismiss this adversary proceeding in accordance with LBR 9011-2(a).

Tentative Ruling:

The Court will prepare an order dismissing Martin Serraf as a defendant - without prejudice to Mr. Serraf moving for recovery of any fees and costs he incurred, e.g., in connection with attending the status conferences arising from this adversary proceeding.

1/8/2020 Tentative:

On January 7, 2020, the plaintiff filed a notice of dismissal of the remaining defendant, Martin Serraf [doc. 76]. Although Mr. Serraf's answer references an address in Carlsbad, California, the plaintiff served Mr. Serraf, the day before this status conference, with the notice of dismissal at a Beverly Hills, California address and a West Hills, California address. Plaintiff may not have otherwise notified Mr. Serraf of his intent to dismiss Mr. Serraf or that this status conference may be vacated upon that dismissal.

The Court will dismiss Mr. Serraf as a defendant - without prejudice to Mr. Serraf moving for recovery of any fees and costs he incurred, e.g., in connection with attending the status conferences arising from this adversary proceeding.

#21.00 Motion for judgment on the pleadings

fr. 12/11/19

Docket 31

Tentative Ruling:

Although the Court has not completed its evaluation of the entirety of the pending motion, it has completed its tentative assessment of particular contentions.

Given the parties' attempts to reach a consensual resolution, the Court is providing a written tentative ruling on which issues the Court has assessed, to date, i.e., regarding the pertinent statutes of limitations and the claims for breach of contract and California Unfair Competition Law. That tentative ruling is set forth below.

At 2:30 p.m., on February 26, 2019, the Court will hold a continued hearing, to provide a tentative ruling on the claims for negligence and breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing.

Appearances on January 22, 2019 are excused.

I. BACKGROUND

On November 29, 2016, Christopher Sabin Nassif ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. On October 31, 2018, Debtor and his wife, Robin Nassif (together, "Plaintiffs"), filed a complaint (the "Complaint") against Nationstar Mortgage LLC ("Nationstar"), Bank of America, N.A. ("BOFA"), Aztec Foreclosure Corporation, The Bank of New York Mellon ("BONYM") and Does 1-10 (collectively, "Defendants"), initiating this adversary proceeding.

The Complaint alleges causes of action for violation of the California Homeowner Bill of Rights, Cal Civ. Code §§ 2920.5, et seq., breach of written agreement, breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing, negligence and violation of the California Unfair Competition Law ("UCL"), Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17200, et seq. In relevant part, the Complaint makes the following allegations:

In June 2004, Plaintiffs purchased real property located at 19016 Devonport Lane, Tarzana, California (the "Property"). On April 4, 2006, a deed of trust ("DOT") securing a $2,000,000 promissory note (the "Note") was recorded against the Property [Complaint, Exh. A]. The DOT identifies Plaintiffs as the borrowers, America's Wholesale Lender ("AWL") as the lender and Mortgage Electronic Registration Systems, Inc. ("MERS") as nominee for the lender. On October 13, 2011, MERS assigned the DOT to BONYM [Complaint, Exh. B]. During this time, BOFA was the servicer for the Note.

On July 1, 2009, Plaintiffs initially fell behind on their deed of trust payments. Thereafter, Plaintiffs attempted to modify the Note based on a change in financial circumstances. On February 1, 2013, BOFA agreed to modify the DOT. BOFA prepared a loan modification agreement ("LMA"), which was signed and notarized by Plaintiffs on December 28, 2012 [Complaint, Exh. C]. On February 1, 2013, Stacie Carrasco, on behalf of BOFA, signed and acknowledged the LMA.

Under the LMA, Plaintiffs were to make the following deed of trust payments: (a) $6,692.49 per month for the first 36 months; (b) $7,830.28 per month for the next 12 months; and (c) $8,726.48 per month for 351 months (the remainder of the term of the Note). Beginning with the February 2013 deed of trust payment, Plaintiffs attempted to make the payments required under the LMA. However, BOFA would not accept the payments and requested that Plaintiffs not make any further payments until the Note was properly modified.

During the period of time that BOFA was investigating the LMA, BOFA transferred the DOT to Nationstar on July 23, 2013 [Complaint, Exh. E]. On January 27, 2016, Nationstar executed a corrective assignment of the DOT transferring the DOT to BONYM [Complaint, Exh. F].

Due to no fault of Plaintiffs, BOFA and Nationstar failed to promptly modify the Note as agreed upon in the LMA. According to the proof of claim ("POC") filed by Nationstar in Debtor's bankruptcy case, the LMA was not "booked" until December 3, 2013, which was 10 months after the LMA was to be implemented [Complaint, Exh. D]. The accounting listed in the POC, shows that Plaintiffs were still delinquent and due for the pre-modified June 2009 date because BOFA failed to reconcile the LMA with the account. Defendants did not provide an explanation for the delay of the implementation of the LMA.

As a result, although Plaintiffs initially attempted to make payments under the LMA, BOFA and Nationstar returned payments that were made and refused to accept payments unless the entire defaulted arrearage was paid by Plaintiffs. As a result of Defendants' negligent conduct, there are numerous unexplained and improper fees associated with the claim while the LMA was being implemented, despite California's restriction on said charges.

On September 15, 2018, Nationstar sent a correspondence to Plaintiffs admitting that there may have been an "error asserted" on their account [Complaint, Exh. K]. However, Nationstar failed to promptly, and through no fault of Plaintiffs, correct the error. Plaintiffs request to fix the issue was thereafter ignored despite acknowledgment of the LMA. Nationstar failed to honor the LMA and proceeded with foreclosure proceedings. In 2016, Nationstar recorded a notice of default and two notices of trustee's sale [Complaint, Exhs. H, I and J]. BOFA and Nationstar failed to rescind the notice of default and notice of sale despite a fully executed LMA and the acknowledgement of an internal error.

The accounting error, when finally reconciled, was not implemented in a timely fashion. This resulted in a series of threats to Plaintiffs of foreclosure and the loss of the Property. Defendants failed to properly update the LMA in the system causing great harm to Plaintiffs, including the instant chapter 11 filing to prevent foreclosure of the Property.

BOFA breached the LMA agreement by failing to complete the booking of the LMA, failing to compel or cooperate with Plaintiff's [sic] efforts to compel Nationstar to comply with the LMA, and by transferring the Note to Nationstar despite the failure to book the LMA properly. Defendants represented that they would modify the Note and proceed with the modified terms. However, each Defendant had no intention of honoring said contract. Defendants have made or disseminated untrue or misleading statements with respect to the LMA prior to the proposed foreclosure sale about the status of the agreement.

Briefly mentioned in the Complaint, and attached as Exhibit F, is a Corrective Assignment of the Deed of Trust. On January 27, 2016, BOFA signed this document, as "attorney-in-fact for Nationstar."

On September 27, 2019, BOFA filed a motion for judgment on the pleadings (the "Motion") [doc. 31], along with a request for judicial notice. In the Motion, BOFA argues that all causes of action against BOFA are barred by the applicable statute of limitations and that Plaintiffs' claims fail as to BOFA.

On January 8, 2020, Plaintiffs filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 52]. On January 15, 2020, BOFA filed a reply to the Opposition (the "Reply") [doc. 53].

I. DISCUSSION

A. Standard for Judgment on the Pleadings

Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 12(c), applicable through Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 7012, provides that "[a]fter the pleadings are closed--but early enough not to delay trial--a party may move for judgment on the pleadings."

"A motion for judgment on the pleadings is a vehicle for summary adjudication, but the standard is like that of a motion to dismiss." Mag Instrument, Inc. v. JS Products, Inc., 595 F.Supp.2d 1102, 1106-07 (C.D. Cal. 2008). "Rule 12(c) is 'functionally identical' to Rule 12(b)(6) and... 'the same standard of review' applies to motions brought under either rule." Cafasso, U.S. ex rel. v. Gen. Dynamics C4 Sys., Inc., 637 F.3d 1047, 1055 n. 4 (9th Cir. 2011). The only "significant difference" is that a Rule 12(c) motion is properly brought "after the pleadings are closed and within such time as not to delay the trial." Mag Instrument, 595 F.Supp.2d at 1102.

"A judgment on the pleadings is properly granted when, taking all the allegations in the pleadings as true, the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law." Nelson v. City of Irvine, 143 F.3d 1196, 1120 (9th Cir. 1998). However, "a plaintiff is not entitled to judgment on the pleadings when the answer raises issues of fact that, if proved, would defeat recovery." Gen. Conf. of Seventh-Day Adventists v. Seventh-Day Adventist Congregational Church, 887 F.2d 228, 230 (9th Cir. 1989).

Under Rule 12(d), if, "on a motion under Rule 12(b)(6) or 12(c), matters outside the pleadings are presented to and not excluded by the court, the motion must be treated as one for summary judgment under Rule 56. All parties must be given a reasonable opportunity to present all the material that is pertinent to the motion."

In resolving a Rule 12(c) motion, the court can consider (without converting the motion to a summary judgment): (a) the complaint and answer; (b) any documents attached to or mentioned in the pleadings; (c) matters subject to judicial notice; and (d) documents not attached but "integral" to the claims. Massey v. Ojaniit, 759 F.3d 343, 347-348 (4th Cir. 2014); L-7 Designs, Inc. v. Old Navy, LLC, 647 F.3d 419, 422 (2nd Cir. 2011).

Pursuant to Rule 9(b), "[i]n alleging fraud or mistake, a party must state with particularity the circumstances constituting fraud or mistake. Malice, intent, knowledge, and other conditions of a person's mind may be alleged generally." Allegations must be "specific enough to give defendants notice of the particular misconduct which is alleged to constitute the fraud charged...." Neubronner v. Milken, 6 F.3d 666, 671 (9th Cir. 1993). "[M]ere conclusory allegations of fraud are insufficient." Moore v. Kayport Package Exp., Inc., 885 F.2d 531, 540 (9th Cir. 1989).

B. Leave to Amend

Under Rule 15(a)(2) "the court should freely give leave [to amend] when justice so requires." Courts have the discretion to grant or deny leave to amend a complaint. Swanson v. U.S. Forest Serv., 87 F.3d 339, 343 (9th Cir. 1996). "In exercising this discretion, a court must be guided by the underlying purpose of Rule 15 to facilitate decision on the merits, rather than on the pleadings or technicalities." United States v. Webb, 655 F.2d 977, 979 (9th Cir. 1981). The factors courts commonly consider when determining whether to grant leave to amend are:

1. Bad faith;
2. Undue delay;
3. Prejudice to the opposing party; and
4. Futility of amendment.

Ditto v. McCurdy, 510 F.3d 1070, 1079 (9th Cir. 2007) (internal citations omitted). Dismissal without leave to amend is appropriate when the court is satisfied that the deficiencies in the complaint could not possibly be cured by amendment. Jackson v. Carey, 353 F.3d 750, 758 (9th Cir. 2003); Lopez v. Smith, 203 F.3d 1122, 1127 (9th Cir. 2000). "Futility alone can justify the denial of a motion for leave to amend." Nunes v. Ashcroft, 375 F.3d 805, 808 (9th Cir. 2003).

C. Statute of Limitations

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 108(a)—

If applicable nonbankruptcy law, an order entered in a nonbankruptcy proceeding, or an agreement fixes a period within which the debtor may commence an action, and such period has not expired before the date of the filing of the petition, the trustee may commence such action only before the later of—

- (1) the end of such period, including any suspension of such period occurring on or after the commencement of the case; or
- (2) two years after the order for relief.

11 U.S.C. § 108(a). Under California law, claims based on a written agreement are subject to a four-year statute of limitations. CCP §§ 339 and 337. Similarly, claims under the UCL are subject to a four-year statute of limitations. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17208. However, claims based on negligence are subject to a two-year statute of limitations. CCP § 339(1).

Neither party addressed when the statute of limitations on each cause of action began to run and the application of 11 U.S.C. § 108(a) to those statute of limitations. Assuming the statute of limitations began to run when both parties (including BOFA) had executed the LMA, i.e., in February 2013, Plaintiffs' breach of contract, breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing and UCL claims are not barred by the statute of limitations. As stated above, each of those claims has a four-year statute of limitations.

Absent the application of 11 U.S.C. § 108(a), using BOFA's execution date of the LMA, the relevant statute of limitations would run in February 2017. However, in November 2016, Debtor filed his chapter 11 petition. Because Debtor filed his petition before the statute of limitations ran on those claims, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 108(a), the statute of limitations was tolled for two years. Before the expiration of this two-year tolling period, Plaintiffs filed the Complaint.

As to Plaintiffs' negligence claim, it is not clear from the Complaint that the claim is barred by the statute of limitations. BOFA contends that, after July 2013, when it transferred service of the Note to Nationstar, it had no involvement with the Plaintiffs' loan or the LMA. However, on January 27, 2016, "as attorney-in-fact" for Nationstar, BOFA signed the Corrective Assignment of the Deed of Trust [Complaint, Exh. F]. Based on this document, attached to the Complaint, it is not clear that BOFA's involvement with Plaintiffs' loan and the LMA ceased in 2013.

Given that BOFA's involvement with the Plaintiffs' loan and the LMA may have extended past 2013, it is not clear that the statute of limitations for negligence ran prior to Debtor filing his chapter 11 petition. Accordingly, as to the negligence claim, based on the statute of limitations only, BOFA has not shown that it is entitled to judgment as a matter of law.

D. Breach of Contract

To allege a cause of action for breach of contract, a plaintiff must allege: (1) the contract; (2) plaintiff's performance or excuse for nonperformance; (3) defendant's breach; and (4) the resulting damages to plaintiff. Bushell v. JPMorgan Chase Bank, N.A., 220 Cal.App.4th 915, 921 (2013).

Here, Plaintiffs have properly stated a claim for breach of contract. Plaintiffs alleged that the existence of a valid written contract - the LMA. Plaintiffs alleged that they attempted to make deed of trust payments as required under the LMA, and BOFA rejected those payments. Plaintiffs also alleged that BOFA told Plaintiffs not to make payments until the LMA was properly implemented. Plaintiffs further alleged that BOFA breached the LMA agreement by failing to complete the booking of the LMA and that this breach resulted in damages to Plaintiffs, which include legal fees and costs in bringing the Complaint to enforce the LMA.

In the Motion, BOFA argues that Plaintiffs did not identify a specific provision of the LMA that it breached. However, under the LMA, BOFA agreed to modify the terms of the Note. Before BOFA transferred the Note to Nationstar, BOFA apparently failed to effectuate the modification of the Note. This is a breach of the LMA. In addition, after the LMA should have been implemented, BOFA purportedly refused to accept payments under the LMA. [FN1]

E. California Unfair Competition Law, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17200, et seq.

"The UCL is a broad remedial statute that permits an individual to challenge wrongful business conduct 'in whatever context such activity might occur.'" Lozano v. AT & T Wireless Servs., Inc., 504 F.3d 718, 731 (9th Cir. 2007) (citing Cel-Tech Commc'ns, Inc. v. Los Angeles Cellular Tele. Co., 83 Cal.Rptr.2d 548, 561 (1999)). It prohibits "unfair competition," which it broadly defines as including "any unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice and unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading advertising...." Cal. Bus. & Prof.Code § 17200. Because the statute is written in the disjunctive, it is violated where a defendant's act or practice is (1) unlawful, (2) unfair, (3) fraudulent, or (4) in violation of section 17500 (false or misleading advertisements). Cel-Tech, 83 Cal.Rptr.2d at 565. Each prong of the UCL is a separate and distinct theory of liability. Lozano, 504 F.3d at 731.

Under the UCL, an "unlawful" business practice or act "is an act or practice, committed pursuant to business activity, that is at the same time forbidden by law." People ex rel. Harris v. Pac Anchor Transp., Inc., 195 Cal.App.4th 765, 773 (2011).

"A business practice that is not unlawful may nonetheless be actionable as an 'unfair' business practice." Pinel v. Aurora Loan Servs., LLC, 814 F.Supp.2d 930, 940 (N.D. Cal. 2011), Under the UCL, an "unfair" business practice is "one that either offends an established public policy or is immoral, unethical, oppressive, unscrupulous, or substantially injurious to consumers." McDonald v. Coldwell Banker, 543 F.3d 498, 506 (9th Cir. 2008).

Under the UCL, conduct is considered "fraudulent" if the conduct is "likely to deceive." Morgan v. AT & T Wireless Servs., Inc., 177 Cal.App.4th 1235, 1254 (2009). "A cause of action for fraudulent business acts under section 17200 is distinct from a common law fraud claim." Webb v. Bank of Am., N.A., No. 2:13-CV-02006-MCE-AC, 2013 WL 6839501, at *7 (E.D. Cal. Dec. 23, 2013). Under section 17200, a plaintiff does not need to show reliance to state a claim for fraudulent business acts. Klein v. Earth Elements, 59 Cal.App.4th 965, 970 (1997). A plaintiff need only allege that the public is likely to be deceived by the alleged business acts. Id.

However, all claims alleging fraudulent business practices under section 17200 are subject to the heightened pleading standard of Rule 9(b). See, e.g., Kearns v. Ford Motor Co., 567 F.3d 1120, 1125 (9th Cir. 2009). To meet the heightened pleading standard of Rule 9(b), a plaintiff must plead facts as to the "who, what, when, where, and how" of the alleged fraudulent conduct, Cooper v. Pickett, 137 F.3d 616, 627 (9th Cir. 1997), and "set forth an explanation as to why [a] statement or omission complained of was false and misleading," In re GlenFed, Inc. Sec. Litig., 42 F.3d 1541, 1548 (9th Cir.1994) (en banc).

In order to have standing, a plaintiff asserting an unfair competition claim must allege that (1) he or she "suffered injury in fact," and (2) "lost money or property as a result of such unfair competition." Lozano, 504 F.3d at 731–32.

The types of relief available under the UCL actions are injunctive and restorative. Cal. Bus. & Prof.Code § 17203; see also Lozano, 504 F.3d at 733. The California Supreme Court has "stated that the concept of restoration or restitution, as used in the UCL, is not limited only to the return of money or property that was once in the possession of that person. Instead, restitution is broad enough to allow a plaintiff to recover money or property in which he or she has a vested interest." See Juarez v. Arcadia Fin., Ltd., 61 Cal.Rptr.3d 382, 400 (2007) (citing Korea Supply Co. v. Lockheed Martin Corp., 131 Cal.Rptr.2d 29, 42 (2003)).

Here, Plaintiffs have stated a claim for a UCL violation under the "unfair" prong. Plaintiffs alleged that BOFA entered the LMA and never intended to honor the LMA.

Plaintiffs also alleged that BOFA did not implement the LMA in a timely manner, which caused improper fees to be added on to the Note and that BOFA refused to accept payments under the LMA. This is actionable under the "unfair" prong because it is "immoral unethical, oppressive, unscrupulous, or substantially injurious to consumers." See Lewis v. Bank of Am. NA, No. CV 13-7717 CAS VBKX, 2013 WL 7118066, at *3 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 18, 2013).

In Lewis, the plaintiffs alleged that they entered into a loan modification with BAC Home Loans Servicing, LP ("BAC"), a subsidiary of BOFA. The plaintiffs alleged that they began making payments as required by the loan modification agreement and continued making such payments until BOFA and BAC refused to accept further payments. The plaintiffs alleged that BOFA and BAC sold the plaintiffs' note to Select Portfolio Servicing, Inc. ("Select"), or designated Select as servicer of the note. Thereafter, as alleged by the plaintiffs, Select refused to accept payments on the note pursuant to the terms of the loan modification agreement. Lewis, 2013 WL 7118066, at *1-2. Additionally, the plaintiffs alleged that the defendants claimed that they never entered into a loan modification agreement with plaintiffs.

When ruling on a Rule 12(b)(6) motion, the court in Lewis found that the plaintiffs stated a claim for violation of the UCL based on the defendants' alleged denial of the existence of a loan modification agreement. The Lewis court found that this denial was actionable under the "unfair" prong of the UCL because it is "immoral unethical, oppressive, unscrupulous, or substantially injurious to consumers." Lewis, 2013 WL 7118066, at *3.

The Lewis court also found that the plaintiffs alleged an injury in fact. The court stated that "it is a reasonable inference from the allegations in the [c]omplaint that plaintiffs have suffered an injury in fact due to the threat of a foreclosure, resulting from defendants' alleged breach of the loan modification agreement." Lewis, 2013 WL 7118066, at *4. See also Pinel, 814 F.Supp.2d at 942 (holding that plaintiff's allegation that she was denied the benefits of a loan workout agreement was sufficient for purposes of prudential standing under the UCL) (citing Lozano's finding that injury under the UCL established where plaintiff "did not receive the full value of his contract").

In contrast, Plaintiffs have not stated a UCL claim under the "unlawful" prong.

Plaintiffs have not alleged that BOFA's conduct violated any law. Moreover, to the extent that this claim is predicated on Plaintiffs' breach of contract and breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing claims, it fails as a matter of law. A common law violation is insufficient to establish a violation of the unlawful prong of the UCL. See Shroyer v. New Cingular Wireless Services, Inc., 622 F.3d 1035, 1044 (9th Cir. 2010) ("a common law violation such as breach of contract is insufficient" to establish a claim under the unlawful prong of the UCL); see also Nat'l Rural Telecomms. Coop. v. DIRECTV, Inc., 319 F.Supp.2d 1059, 1074–75 (C.D. Cal. 2003).

Similarly, Plaintiffs have not stated a UCL claim under the "fraudulent" prong. In the Opposition, Plaintiffs mention BOFA's alleged fraudulent conduct. Plaintiffs state that on numerous instances, BOFA employees made or disseminated untrue or misleading statements. However, in the Complaint, Plaintiffs did not plead the "who, what, when, where, and how" or set forth an explanation as to why a statement was false and misleading. Consequently, Plaintiffs' fraud allegations do not meet the heightened pleading standard under Rule 9(b).

Similar to the Lewis case, in the Motion, BOFA argues that Plaintiffs do not have standing to assert a UCL claim. However, Plaintiffs have alleged an injury in fact because of the loss of benefits under the LWA, and the resulting threat of foreclosure. See Lewis, 2013 WL 7118066, at *4; Kwikset Corp. v. Superior Court, 51 Cal.4th 310, 323 (2011) (injury for purposes of standing under the UCL includes "hav[ing] a present or future property interest diminished"). Whether or not BOFA's conduct led to the commencement of foreclosure proceedings is a factual determination that cannot be made on a motion for judgment on the pleadings.

In the Reply, BOFA argues that Plaintiffs' UCL claims fail because they are "damage claims." However, Plaintiffs also requested injunctive relief and the appointment of a receiver, if necessary. Under the UCL, injunctive and restorative relief are available. As such, this argument is unpersuasive.

II. CONCLUSION

The Court will deny the Motion with respect to Plaintiffs' breach of contract and UCL claims.

1. Plaintiffs also allege that BOFA breached the LMA by failing to compel, or cooperate with Plaintiffs' efforts to compel, Nationstar to comply with the LMA, and by transferring the Note to Nationstar, despite the failure to book the LMA properly. Plaintiffs presented no authority for the proposition that, after BOFA transferred service of the Note to Nationstar, BOFA was required to compel Nationstar to comply with the LMA. In addition, the DOT states that the Note or a partial interest in the Note, together with the DOT, can be sold one or more times without prior notice to Plaintiffs [Complaint, Exh. A, p. A-40]. Accordingly, by transferring the Note to Nationstar, BOFA could not have breached the LMA.

Tentative Ruling:

Based on, among other things, the debtor's receipts and expenses as identified in his monthly operating reports, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a) and 1104(c)(1), the Court may order the appointment of a chapter 11 examiner to investigate the debtor's income and monthly expenditures from January 1, 2018 forward and whether the debtor's 2018 tax return was properly prepared.

At the prior status conference on December 12, 2019, the debtor's counsel represented that the debtor filed his 2018 personal tax return and that she would file it with the Court within a few days. On January 22, 2020, the debtor's counsel filed that tax return with the Court. That tax return indicates that the debtor prepared that tax return himself, without the assistance of an accountant.

The debtor's 2018 tax return apparently does not correspond with the debtor's monthly operating reports from 2018. Based on the debtor's monthly operating reports from 2018, during that year, the debtor deposited $175,758.83 into the debtor in possession bank account. In contrast, the debtor's 2018 tax return indicates that his gross income for 2018 was $30,445.00.

At the prior status conference, the debtor's counsel represented that Unlimited Financial Services provides bookkeeping services for the debtor's production company. The Court ordered the debtor to file a declaration regarding his production company and why the debtor is paying services for the company, an alleged separate entity, from estate funds. The Court also ordered the debtor to file his company's 2018 tax return. As of January 22, 2020, the debtor has not filed his company's tax return or a declaration.

The debtor's monthly operating reports for 2019 indicate that the debtor was paying Unlimited Financial Services $1,577.00 each month, without Court approval or Unlimited Financial Services having being employed as an estate professional.

Tentative Ruling from 12/12/19

Contrary to the Order Setting Hearing on Status of Chapter 11 Case and Requiring Report on Status of Chapter 11 Case [doc. 23], the debtor has not filed his 2018 income tax return with the Court.

What service was provided to the debtor by Unlimited Financial Services, at a cost of $1,577.00, on October 3, 2019?

#2.00 Confirmation hearing re: second amended chapter 11 plan

fr. 12/5/19

Docket 124

Tentative Ruling:

At this time, the Court will not confirm the debtor's proposed chapter 11 plan of reorganization.

I. BACKGROUND

On November 25, 2019, Mr. Tortilla, Inc. ("Debtor") filed a plan confirmation brief (the "Brief") [doc. 137] in support of Debtor's chapter 11 plan of reorganization (the "Plan") [doc. 124]. The Plan provides for an 8.3% distribution to nonpriority unsecured creditors, totaling $50,000, plus an anticipated $10,000 received by a recent settlement. In the Brief, Debtor acknowledged that the Plan violates the absolute priority rule because Debtor's shareholders, Ronald Alcazar and Anthony Alcazar (together, the "Shareholders"), intend to retain their equity interest despite a rejection of the Plan by the class of general unsecured creditors (Class 4A). In light of the violation of the absolute priority rule, Debtor stated that the Shareholders intend to contribute new value of $20,000 into the Plan for payment to nonpriority unsecured creditors, thereby increasing the total contribution to nonpriority unsecured creditors to 13.3% of their claims. The $20,000 new value contribution amounts to approximately 3.3% of the total nonpriority unsecured claims, excluding the class of insider unsecured claims.

On December 5, 2019, the Court held a hearing regarding confirmation of the Plan. At that time, the Court continued the hearing and provided a deadline for creditors to object to the new value contribution proposed by Debtor. On January 16, 2020, Diana's Mexican Foods, Inc. ("Diana's") filed an objection to the proposed new value contribution (the "Objection") [doc. 153]. Diana's argues that the $20,000 new value contribution by the Shareholders is not substantial and is a small fraction of Debtor's value.

"Allowing old equity to retain an interest does not violate the absolute priority rule if the former equity holders provide new value to the reorganized debtor, under the 'new value corollary' to the absolute priority rule." In re Ambanc La Mesa Ltd. P'ship, 115 F.3d 650, 654 (9th Cir. 1997). "The new value corollary requires that former equity holders offer value under the Plan that is (1) new, (2) substantial, (3) in money or money's worth, (4) necessary for successful reorganization, and (5) reasonably equivalent to the value or interest received." Id. "The burden is clearly on the proponent of the plan to satisfy all the requirements of the new value exception." In re Tucson Self-Storage, Inc., 166 B.R. 892, 899 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1994).

Here, there is no dispute over whether the $20,000 cash infusion by the Shareholders is new or "money or money's worth." The parties also do not dispute whether a new value contribution is necessary for successful reorganization. As such, the sole dispute is whether the proposed $20,000 contribution is "substantial" and "reasonably equivalent to the value or interest received."

A. Whether the $20,000 Contribution is Substantial

"[T]he new value contribution [must] be 'substantial' in comparison to such things as" (1) the total unsecured claims against the debtor, (2) the claims being discharged, or (3) the dividend being paid on unsecured claims by virtue of the contribution." Ambanc, 115 F.3d at 655.

Here, Debtor has provided for two classes of unsecured creditors: a class of general unsecured creditors and a class of insider unsecured creditors. The nonpriority unsecured claims total $862,720; the claims total $601,920 if the Court excludes the class of insider unsecured creditors from the calculation. As noted above, Debtor has the burden of proving each element of the new value exception to the absolute priority rule.

In support of its argument that the contribution of $20,000 is substantial, Debtor states that nonpriority unsecured creditors will receive nothing in a chapter 7 liquidation based on a liquidation value of $400,000. However, Debtor provides no analysis or evidence under the standard above, i.e., whether the $20,000 is substantial when compared to: (A) the total nonpriority unsecured claims; (B) the total amount of claims to be discharged; and (C) the dividend being paid on nonpriority unsecured claims by virtue of the contribution.

Although there is no bright line rule, a review of several cases provides a general overview of what courts consider "substantial." For instance, in Ambanc, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals held that a contribution that was 0.5% of the total unsecured debt was a de minimis contribution that did not satisfy the substantiality element. Ambanc, 115 F.3d at 655. In reaching this conclusion, the Court of Appeals relied on three cases where courts held that contributions between 1.56% and 3.8% were insufficient to satisfy the substantiality requirement. See Matter of Woodbrook Assocs., 19 F.3d 312 (7th Cir. 1994) (finding that a $100,000 contribution was not substantial because it represented 3.8% of $2,600,000 in unsecured debt); Matter of Snyder, 967 F.2d 1126, 1131 (7th Cir. 1992) (holding that "the disparity between the contribution and the unsecured debt," 2.2% of approximately $1,000,000 unsecured claims, was "so extreme ... there [was] no need to proceed any further"); and In re Olson, 80 B.R. 935, 937 (Bankr. C.D. Ill. 1987) (finding that a $5,000 contribution was not substantial because it represented 1.56% of $320,000 in unsecured debt).

Other courts have held similarly. For instance, in In re H.H. Distributions, L.P., 400 B.R. 44, 52-53 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 2009), the court aggregated cases and held that a contribution totaling "slightly less than 3% of the unsecured debt" was not substantial. The court referenced multiple cases in reaching this conclusion. See, e.g. In re Haskell Dawes, Inc., 199 B.R. 867, 876-77 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 1996) (holding that a 5.1% contribution was insubstantial); and In re Sovereign Group 1985-27, Ltd., 142 B.R. 702, 710 (E.D. Pa. 1992) (holding that a 3.6% contribution was insubstantial).

Under these authorities, and especially because Debtor has not provided analysis or evidence using the standard above, Debtor's proposed new value contribution is not substantial. Even using the lower $601,920 number, a payment of $20,000 constitutes approximately 3.3% of nonpriority, noninsider unsecured debt. Because Debtor has not met its burden of proving that the 3.3% contribution is substantial under any of the metrics above, the Court cannot hold that the contribution is substantial; several courts have held similar contributions insubstantial.

B. Whether the $20,000 Contribution is Reasonably Equivalent to the Value or Interest Received

The "new value" contributed must be reasonably equivalent to the value of the interest received or retained. Ambanc, 115 F.3d at 654-656. "[The] equivalency requirement ensures that equity holders will not eviscerate the absolute priority rule by means of gratuitous, token cash infusions proposed primarily to 'buy' cheap financing." In re Crosscreek Apts., Ltd., 213 B.R. 521, 548 (Bankr. E.D. Tenn. 1997) (internal quotes omitted). Determining whether the new value is reasonably equivalent to the interest received ordinarily requires the value of the debtor in possession's business to be determined on a 'going concern' basis. Consol. Rock Prod. Co. v. Du Bois, 312 U.S. 510, 525-26, 61 S. Ct. 675, 685, 85 L. Ed. 982 (1941).

Here, in its disclosure statement in support of the Plan (the "Disclosure Statement") [doc. 123], Debtor offered a Broker's Price Opinion valuing Debtor between $619,000 and $649,000. Disclosure Statement, Exhibit B. Nevertheless, in a declaration attached to the Disclosure Statement, one of the Shareholders stated that he believes the liquidation value is closer to $400,000 based on his knowledge of Debtor. Disclosure Statement, Declaration of Ronald Alcazar, ¶¶ 5-9. Diana's challenges Debtor's valuation on the basis that the value of Debtor has not been market tested.

The Supreme Court of the United States "requires that the quantum of new value be market tested; otherwise the parties and the court cannot know whether the amount of new value proposed in the debtor's plan is the most available." In re NNN Parkway 400 26, LLC, 505 B.R. 277, 281 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2014) (citing Bank of America Nat'l Trust & Sav. Ass'n v. 203 N. LaSalle Street P'ship, 526 U.S. 434, 456-57, 119 S.Ct. 1411, 1424, 143 L.Ed.2d 607 (1999)). However, as noted by the court in NNN Parkway, "LaSalle is... vague as to what exactly a debtor must do to 'market test' the interest; the Supreme Court expressly left the question open while naming some alternatives, such as the right to bid for the same interest or the right to file a competing plan." Id.

In assessing LaSalle and its progeny, the NNN Parkway court derived certain guidelines for ascertaining whether new value has been appropriately market tested—

First, what is required to meet the threshold "market test" must be evaluated on a case by case basis. In re Union Fin. Servs. Grp., Inc., 303 B.R. 390, 426 (Bankr. E.D. Missouri 2003). In Union Financial, the court found that efforts of an independent special committee, separately represented by counsel, in soliciting participation from 137 firms, including most of the leading equity, financial services and investment banking firms, over a reasonable bid period, was adequate to meet the LaSalle standard. Id. at 425–26. In contrast, talking to only one investor unrelated to the sponsoring investor about the investment opportunity is obviously insufficient. In re Global Ocean Carriers Ltd., 251 B.R. 31, 49, n. 19 (Bankr. Del. 2000). Certainly, an appraisal or expert's opinion as to the value cannot alone satisfy the "market testing" of LaSalle. H.G. Roebuck & Son, Inc. v. Alter Communications, Inc. (In re Alter Communications, Inc.), 2011 WL 2261483, *7 (Dist. Md. 2011). Reaching out to 15 members of a potentially interested community, particularly if those efforts are only pre-petition, is not sufficient. Id. at *7 n.7. Eight cryptic, bare-bones advertisements after the initial plan was on file were also insufficient. Id. at *8. This court does not hold that in every case an investment banker must be hired, whose fee is tied to success in finding the most money on the best terms. But engagement of such a person with that goal and motivation would help. The court does not hold that advertisements in targeted local and national newspapers are always required, or that they would even be appropriate in every case. But the court does hold that debtors bear the burden of showing that the new money offered is the most and best reasonably obtainable after some "market testing" in order to cram down over the objections of a non-consenting class of unsecured creditors. This probably requires, at a minimum, demonstration of a systematic effort designed to "market test" the deal. Debtor bears the burden of persuasion on that point and that burden is not carried in this case.

Id., at 283; see also In re Davis, 262 B.R. 791, 799 (Bankr. D. Ariz. 2001) ("The Supreme Court expressly did not decide what is necessary to meet its "market test," but did broadly suggest that either the right to bid for equity under a plan or the opportunity to propose a competing plan would suffice.") (emphases in Davis); and In re Castleton Plaza, LP, 707 F.3d 821, 821-22 (7th Cir. 2013) ("Competition is essential whenever a plan of reorganization leaves an objecting creditor unpaid yet distributes an equity interest to an insider.").

Under the guidance of these in-circuit decisions, it appears allowing an opportunity for creditors to propose a competing plan or providing for the right to bid for equity would be appropriate methods of market testing under LaSalle. Using the same guidance, "an appraisal or expert's opinion as to the value cannot alone satisfy the 'market testing....'" NNN Parkway, 505 B.R. at 283. For evidence of value, Debtor offers only an appraisal and the opinion of one of the Shareholders. Of note, even these valuations are not consistent; the Broker's Price Opinion values Debtor at $219,000 more than the opinion offered by one of the Shareholders. Moreover, the opinion offered by one of the Shareholders is as to Debtor's liquidation value, not the going concern value.

Debtor asserts that creditors could have filed a competing plan because the exclusivity period set forth by 11 U.S.C. § 1121(b) and (c) expired. Although it is true that creditors could have filed a competing plan, and may yet decide to do so, the decision not to file a competing plan to date does not alleviate Debtor from meeting its burden of providing a market tested valuation under LaSalle. As it stands, Debtor's own valuations are inconsistent, and the valuation used by Debtor for its calculations in the Brief is based on an opinion regarding liquidation value, not the going concern value of Debtor. Debtor has not otherwise subjected its valuation to competition, which appears to be the basic requirement of LaSalle's mandate for market testing.

In any event, even if Debtor had satisfied this element, Debtor has not met the substantiality requirement (discussed above). As such, the parties should be prepared to discuss how they intend to proceed. Are the Shareholders prepared to offer additional cash to increase their new value contribution? If Diana's is not satisfied with any increased amount proposed by the Shareholders, how does Diana's propose that Debtor's valuation be market tested? Does Diana's intend to file a competing chapter 11 plan, or does Diana's believe that Debtor's equity should be subject to bidding? The parties should be prepared to discuss these issues and relevant dates and deadlines.

Tentative Ruling:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 1112(b)(1) and (4)(F), (4)(H) and (4)(K), this case will be dismissed. Based upon the Court's review of the debtor's schedules of assets and liabilities and statement of financial affairs, filed on August 5, 2019, and the record in this case, the Court concludes that it is in the best interest of creditors and the estate to dismiss this case.

The Court will retain jurisdiction under 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a) and 329(b) to issue an order to show cause why Donna Bullock should not be ordered to disgorge some or all of the compensation she received from the debtor, because such compensation exceeds the reasonable value of her services.

According to the debtor's statement of financial affairs [doc. 9], the debtor paid Ms. Bullock $2,500 for services related to this bankruptcy case. As noted in the United States Trustee's motion to dismiss or convert, Ms. Bullock never filed an application to be employed as counsel to the debtor and debtor in possession.

The U.S. Trustee must submit an order within seven (7) days.

#6.00 Status conference re: chapter 11 case

Tentative Ruling:

On December 19, 2019, the Court entered an Order Setting Hearing on Status of Chapter 11 Case and Requiring Report on Status of Chapter 11 Case (the "Order") [doc. 9]. The Order required the debtor to file a case status conference report and serve that status report on the United States Trustee, all secured creditors and the twenty largest unsecured creditors by no later than January 9, 2020. Contrary to the Order, the debtor did not timely file a case status conference report.

To the extent that the deed of trust on the debtor's sole significant asset, i.e., improved real property located in Encino, California, provides for an assignment of rents, the debtor has not filed a motion to obtain authorization for its use of cash collateral.

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a), 349(a) and 1112(b)(1) and (4)(E), this case will be dismissed with 180-day bar to the debtor's filing of another petition under any chapter of the Bankruptcy Code. Based upon the Court's review of the debtor's schedules [doc. 1] and statement of financial affairs [doc. 8], the Court concludes that it is in the best interest of creditors and the estate to dismiss this case.

In addition, the Court will issue an order to show cause why, in accordance with 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a) and 329(b), Dana Douglas should not be ordered to disgorge some or all of the compensation she received from the debtor, because such compensation exceeds the reasonable value of her services.

According to the debtor's statement of financial affairs [doc. 8], the debtor paid Ms. Douglas $7,500 for services related to this bankruptcy case. As of January 21, 2020—48 days after the petition date—Ms. Douglas has not filed an application to be employed as counsel to the debtor and debtor in possession.

The Court will prepare the order.

#17.00 Debtor's motion to convert case from chapter 7 to 13

Docket 21

Tentative Ruling:

Grant, subject to the conditions set forth below.

I. BACKGROUND

On October 15, 2019, Marine Kasabyan ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. David K. Gottlieb was appointed the chapter 7 trustee (the "Trustee").

On October 29, 2019, Debtor filed her schedules and statements [doc. 11]. In her schedule A/B, Debtor scheduled real property located at 16344 Itasca Street, North Hills, CA 91343 (the "North Hills Property"). Debtor valued the North Hills Property at $575,000. Debtor also scheduled real property located at 4620 Inland Court, Las Vegas, NV 89147 (the "Nevada Property"), valued at $250,000. In her schedule C, Debtor claimed an exemption in the Nevada Property in the amount of $99,011.30 under California Code of Civil Procedure § 704.730.

In her schedule D, Debtor indicated that the North Hills Property is encumbered by two liens: (A) a first priority lien in favor of Mr. Cooper in the amount of $288,497.68; and (B) a second priority lien in favor of Nazaret Tonoyan in the amount of $300,000. Debtor also indicated that the Nevada Property is encumbered by a lien in favor of Rushmore Loan Management Services in the amount of $150,988.70. In her schedule E/F, Debtor scheduled unsecured debt totaling $112,807.40. Finally, in her schedules I and J, Debtor stated that she and her spouse have a monthly net income of $18.94.

On December 4, 2019, Debtor filed an amended schedule C [doc. 17]. In her amended schedule C, Debtor modified her claim of an exemption in the Nevada Property to a claim under Nevada Revised Statute ("NRS") § 21.090(1)(l) and (1)(m).

On December 11, 2019, Debtor filed a motion to convert her case to one under chapter 13 (the "Motion") [doc. 21] and a declaration in support of the Motion [doc. 22]. On December 17, 2019, the Trustee filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 24]. In the Opposition, the Trustee argues: (A) Debtor's scheduled net monthly income of $18.94 is insufficient to fund a chapter 13 plan; (B) Debtor cannot confirm a chapter 13 plan because a chapter 7 liquidation will yield $100,000 from the sale of the Nevada Property and Debtor would have to pay $1,600 per month for 60 months to provide the same amount to creditors; and (C) Debtor acted in bad faith because she undervalued her real property and moved to convert this case after it became apparent the Trustee may sell the Nevada Property. The Trustee also notes that Debtor has not furnished all required documents to the Trustee.

On January 9, 2020, Debtor filed a reply to the Opposition (the "Reply") [doc. 29]. In the Reply, Debtor contends that: (A) Debtor will reduce her expenses to increase her monthly net income; (B) Debtor's family will provide contributions towards a chapter 13 plan; (C) the Trustee cannot liquidate the Nevada Property because of Debtor's homestead exemption; and (D) Debtor's valuations of her real properties are not evidence of bad faith merely because Debtor's valuations are different from the Trustee's valuations. Debtor also notes that she is willing to propose a chapter 13 plan that pays 100% of unsecured creditors' claims.

On January 16, 2020, the Trustee filed a sur-reply [doc. 31]. The Court did not authorize the filing of a sur-reply. In the unauthorized sur-reply, the Trustee contends, among other things, that Debtor is not entitled to a homestead exemption under Nevada law and that Debtor has not provided evidence that her family will contribute funds towards a chapter 13 plan.

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 706(a) & (d)—

- (a) The debtor may convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 11, 12, or 13 of this title at any time, if the case has not been converted under section 1112, 1208, or 1307 of this title. Any waiver of the right to convert a case under this subsection is unenforceable.

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, a case may not be converted to a case under another chapter of this title unless the debtor may be a debtor under such chapter.

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 109(e)—

Only an individual with regular income that owes, on the date of the filing of the petition, noncontingent, liquidated, unsecured debts of less than $394,725¹ and noncontingent, liquidated, secured debts of less than $1,184,200¹, or an individual with regular income and such individual's spouse, except a stockbroker or a commodity broker, that owe, on the date of the filing of the petition, noncontingent, liquidated, unsecured debts that aggregate less than $394,725¹ and noncontingent, liquidated, secured debts of less than $1,184,200¹ may be a debtor under chapter 13 of this title.

The right to convert under this section is not absolute. In Marrama v. Citizens Bank of Mass., 549 U.S. 365, 127 S.Ct. 1105, 166 L.Ed.2d 956 (2007), the Supreme Court of the United States determined that a debtor forfeits his right to convert to chapter 13 under § 706(a) if the debtor engages in bad faith conduct that would warrant dismissal or reconversion of a chapter 13 case. In Marrama, the debtor, Robert Marrama, made misleading or inaccurate statements in his chapter 7 schedules, and engaged in fraudulent transfers prepetition with the intent of shielding his valuable property from creditors. Id., at 368. After the chapter 7 trustee informed Mr. Marrama of his intent to recover the fraudulently transferred property for the benefit of the estate, Mr. Marrama moved to convert his case to a chapter 13 case. Id., at 368-69. The chapter 7 trustee objected to the conversion based on Mr. Marrama's bad faith attempts to conceal the transferred property. Id., at 369. Mr. Marrama argued he had an absolute right to convert to chapter 13 under 11 U.S.C. § 706(a). Id.

The Court first determined there was no absolute right to conversion because of § 706(d), which requires a debtor be eligible to be a debtor under the chapter to which he wishes to convert. Id., at 372. The Court then looked to the reasons why a debtor may not qualify to be debtor under chapter 13, such as 11 U.S.C. § 109(e) (which sets forth the Code's requirements for being a chapter 13 debtor) or, more importantly, for "cause," under § 1307(c) (which sets forth the standards for dismissal or conversion under chapter 13). Id. The Court noted that, under § 1307(c), prepetition bad faith conduct may constitute "cause" warranting dismissal or conversion. Id., at 373. Thus, a debtor's prepetition bad faith conduct could be grounds to deny a motion for conversion under § 706. Id. The type of bad faith conduct contemplated by the Marrama court is "conduct that is atypical and extraordinary." Id., at 382 (internal quotations omitted).

To determine whether a case was filed in bad faith under § 1307(c), bankruptcy courts must review the totality of the circumstances. In re Ellsworth, 455 B.R. 904, 917 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2011). Bankruptcy courts consider the following factors:

1. Whether the debtor misrepresented facts in his petition or plan, unfairly manipulated the Code, or otherwise filed his petition or plan in an inequitable manner;
2. The debtor's history of filing and dismissals;
3. Whether the debtor intended to defeat state court litigation; and
4. Whether egregious behavior is present.

In re Leavitt, 171 F.3d 1219, 1224 (9th Cir. 1999).

A. Whether Debtor is Eligible to be a Chapter 13 Debtor

The Trustee contends that Debtor is not eligible to be a chapter 13 debtor because Debtor scheduled a monthly net income of $18.94. The Trustee asserts a chapter 7 liquidation is more beneficial to Debtor's creditors because such a liquidation will yield at least $100,000 from the sale of the Nevada Property.

However, as noted by Debtor, there does not appear to be any equity in the Nevada Property based on Debtor's claim of homestead exemption. Although the Trustee argues that Debtor is not entitled to a homestead exemption, the Trustee has not yet objected to Debtor's claim of a homestead exemption. Under 11 U.S.C. § 522(l)—

The debtor shall file a list of property that the debtor claims as exempt under subsection (b) of this section. If the debtor does not file such a list, a dependent of the debtor may file such a list, or may claim property as exempt from property of the estate on behalf of the debtor. Unless a party in interest objects, the property claimed as exempt on such list is exempt.

(emphasis added). Pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 4003(b), "a party in interest may file an objection to the list of property claimed as exempt within 30 days after the meeting of creditors held under § 341(a) is concluded or within 30 days after any amendment to the list or supplemental schedules is filed, whichever is later."

The § 341(a) meeting of creditors has not concluded. As such, there is still time for the Trustee to object to Debtor's claim of an exemption. Nevertheless, to date, the Trustee has not filed an objection, and there is no determination by the Court as to Debtor's entitlement to a homestead exemption under Nevada law. Although the Trustee raises arguments as to why Debtor is not entitled to a homestead exemption in the unauthorized sur-reply, neither Debtor nor the Court has had a meaningful opportunity to assess and/or respond to these arguments.

In any event, in the Reply, Debtor states that she is ready to propose a chapter 13 plan that will pay unsecured creditors 100% of their claims. Although Debtor has not yet provided evidence that her family is willing to contribute funds towards her chapter 13 plan, prior to the Court confirming any plan that relies on family contributions, Debtor will have to provide such evidence to the chapter 13 trustee. If raised by the chapter 13 trustee, or any creditors, the Court will adjudicate these issues, including Debtor's entitlement to a homestead exemption and/or whether there is equity in either of Debtor's real properties.

B. Whether Bad Faith Conduct Exists to Prevent Conversion of this Case

Here, the Trustee contends that Debtor acted in bad faith by undervaluing her real properties and failing to provide the Trustee with documentation requested by the Trustee. However, it is not evident that Debtor's real properties are worth more than Debtor's scheduled values. At this time, there is only a difference of opinion in value. Moreover, Debtor's failure to furnish certain documents does not necessarily rise to the level of bad faith contemplated by Marrama.

Nevertheless, to ensure that creditors are not prejudiced by the conversion, the Court will allow conversion only if Debtor agrees to the following conditions: (A) if there is cause to dismiss or convert Debtor's chapter 13 case, the Court will reconvert this case to a chapter 7 case; (B) in the chapter 13 plan, Debtor must provide for payment in full of reasonable administrative expenses incurred during the chapter 7 case; and (C) Debtor must agree to toll the deadlines to object to Debtor's claim of a homestead exemption or to file avoidance actions as to liens against Debtor's real property, such that the applicable time periods will be suspended until entry of an order (if any) reconverting the chapter 13 case to a chapter 7 case.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will grant the Motion, subject to the conditions set forth above.

The Trustee must submit an order within seven (7) days.

#1.00 Motion for summary judgment or, in the alternative,
summary adjudication of issues

fr. 12/18/19

Docket 27

Tentative Ruling:

Grant.

I. BACKGROUND

On April 19, 2018, Gabriel Medina ("Debtor") filed a chapter 13 petition. On December 10, 2018, Debtor filed a complaint against Strunzo Development Corp. ("Strunzo"), requesting cancellation of a deed of trust in favor of Strunzo and a judicial declaration that neither Debtor nor his real property is subject to the deed of trust. Based on the following facts, Strunzo moves for a judgment in its favor or, in the alternative, partial summary adjudication.

A. Debtor's History with the Subject Property

On May 27, 1986, Debtor and Belen Gonzalez Rangel acquired real property located at 15143 Polk Street, Sylmar, California 91342 (the "Property"). Request for Judicial Notice ("Strunzo's RJN") [doc. 27], Exhibit 1. At the same time, Debtor and Ms. Rangel executed a deed of trust securing a loan of $90,669. Strunzo's RJN, Exhibit 2.

On May 28, 1992, in connection with a refinance, Debtor and Ms. Rangel recorded a new deed of trust securing a new promissory note of $134,000. Strunzo's RJN, Exhibit 3. On March 17, 1998, Debtor and Ms. Rangel recorded another deed of trust securing a home equity line of credit in the amount of $25,000. Strunzo's RJN, Exhibit 4. On July 30, 1998, Ms. Rangel executed a quitclaim deed conveying her interest in the Property to Debtor as his sole and separate property. Strunzo's RJN, Exhibit 5.

From 2003 through 2007, Debtor refinanced the Property five times. Strunzo's RJN, Exhibits 7-10, 12. Specifically, Debtor refinanced the Property: (A) in 2003, when Debtor borrowed $158,000 secured by a deed of trust; (B) in 2004, when Debtor borrowed $262,500 secured by a deed of trust; (C) in 2005, when Debtor borrowed $337,500 secured by a deed of trust; (D) in January 2007, when Debtor borrowed $367,500 secured by a deed of trust; and (E) in August 2007, when Debtor borrowed $480,000 secured by a deed of trust in favor of Mortgageit, Inc. ("Mortgageit"). Id. In January 2007, Debtor also obtained a $17,000 home equity line of credit secured by a deed of trust. Strunzo's RJN, Exhibit 11.

B. Debtor's Transactions with the Herreras

In March 2009, Debtor sought assistance to obtain a loan modification and retained the Herrera Sindell Group. Declaration of Gabriel Medina [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 70], ¶ 3. On March 2, 2009, Debtor signed an Option Agreement to Purchase Real Property (the "Option Agreement"). Declaration of Michael Herrera (the "Herrera Declaration") [doc. 27], ¶ 8, Exhibit 3. Through the Option Agreement, Debtor agreed that the mortgage against the Property was in danger of default and conveyed the Property to the Herrera Sindell Group for the Herrera Sindell Group to, among other things, potentially negotiate the mortgage. Id. The Option Agreement allowed for Debtor to repurchase the Property. Id.

On April 27, 2009, Mortgageit recorded a notice of default and election to sell. Strunzo's RJN, Exhibit 13. On July 29, 2009, Mortgageit recorded a notice of sale of the Property and scheduled a foreclosure sale for August 18, 2009. Strunzo's RJN, Exhibit 14.

On August 27, 2009, Debtor executed a grant deed transferring the Property to Diesel Enterprises, Inc. ("Diesel"). Strunzo's RJN, Exhibit 15. On September 17, 2009, the grant deed was recorded. Id. Subsequently, beginning September 22, 2009, Debtor leased the Property for $2,443 per month pursuant to a written lease agreement. On January 26, 2012, the grant deed was recorded. Id.

On May 2, 2013, Edge Holdings executed a promissory note in return for a $165,000 loan from Strunzo (the "Note"). Declaration of Pasquale Caiazza ("Caiazza Declaration"), ¶ 7, Exhibit 1. On the same day, Edge Holdings executed a deed of trust against the Property (the "DOT"). Caiazza Declaration, ¶ 7, Exhibit 2. The DOT identified Strunzo as the lender and JMJ Funding Group, Inc. ("JMJ Funding") as the trustee. Id. On May 16, 2013, Strunzo funded the loan with a check in the amount of $165,000. Caiazza Declaration, ¶ 8, Exhibit 3. On May 28, 2013, the grant deed was recorded. Caiazza Declaration, ¶¶ 7, 13, Exhibit 2.

C. The Unlawful Detainer Action

On April 10, 2014, Debtor was served with a Three-Day Notice to Quit. Declaration of Gabriel Medina [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 70], ¶ 6. On May 2, 2014, Edge Holdings filed an unlawful detainer action against Debtor and his spouse (the "UD Action"). Id. Subsequently, the court presiding over the UD Action entered judgment against Debtor and his wife; on October 14, 2014, Debtor and his wife were evicted. Id.

On May 6, 2014, in connection with the UD Action, Debtor filed a declaration under penalty of perjury (the "UD Declaration"). Strunzo's RJN, Exhibit 22. In relevant part, Debtor explained that he sold the Property to the Herrera Sindell Group expecting to repurchase it when he was ready. Id. Debtor also stated—

When I was ready to get my house I went to a real estate agent. I showed him my case and was given a record of the property and he told me I could not for any reason buy the house because what Herrera Sindel[l] had done was been a fraud. D. The Quiet Title Action

On May 7, 2015, Debtor filed a complaint in state court against the Herrera Sindell Group, Edge Holdings and several other entities, asserting causes of action for Quiet Title, Cancellation of Deeds and Fraud, among other claims (the "Quiet Title Action"). Strunzo's RJN, Exhibit 20. Debtor also named "all persons claiming any interest in the subject property adverse to plaintiff's title thereto" and "Does 1-50" as defendants. Id. Debtor alleged he would "amend [the complaint] to allege their true names and capacities when they have been ascertained." Id.

Debtor did not name Strunzo or JMJ Funding as defendants. Id. Nevertheless, to the state court complaint, Debtor attached a title report by First American (the "Title Report"). Id. The Title Report was generated on April 15, 2015. Id. On the first page of the Title Report, JMJ Funding is listed as a lender on a $165,000 loan. Id.

On October 5, 2016, the state court entered a judgment in favor of Debtor, cancelling the grant deed from Debtor to Diesel and the string of grant deeds executed thereafter (the "Quiet Title Judgment"). Strunzo's RJN, Exhibit 21. In relevant part, the state court held—

IT IS FURTHER DECLARED AND ORDERED BY THE COURT that Plaintiff GABRIEL MEDINA is the owner in fee simple of the Subject Property, free and clear of any interest, claim or lien of any of said Defendants or of anyone (EXCLUDING LIENS OF NONDEFENDANT PARTIES) claiming an interest in the Subject
Property adverse to Plaintiff's rights thereto.

On April 19, 2018, Debtor filed his chapter 13 case. On December 10, 2018, Debtor filed the complaint against Strunzo, requesting cancellation of the DOT. On September 30, 2019, Strunzo timely filed a motion for summary judgment (the "MSJ") [doc. 27]. In the MSJ, Strunzo asserts that: (A) Strunzo is not bound by the Quiet Title Judgment because the state court explicitly excluded nonparty lienholders from its purview; (B) Strunzo is a good faith encumbrancer for value; and (C) the statute of limitations on Debtor's claims against Strunzo has expired because Debtor generated the Title Report on April 15, 2015, which showed the DOT encumbering the Property.

On November 20, 2019, Debtor filed an opposition to the MSJ (the "Opposition") [doc. 43]. Debtor also filed an untimely motion for summary judgment [doc. 44]. The Court entered an order striking Debtor's motion for summary judgment as untimely [doc. 49].

In the Opposition, Debtor contends that: (A) Strunzo was a party to the Quiet Title Action because Debtor named "all persons claiming any interest in the subject property adverse to plaintiff's title thereto" and served "all persons claiming any interest in the subject property adverse to plaintiff's title thereto" by publication; (B) the void grant deed in favor of Edge Holdings cannot pass title to Strunzo; (C) Strunzo is not a bona fide purchaser because the multiple transfers of the Property should have put Strunzo on notice; (D) the Quiet Title Judgment is binding on Strunzo because Strunzo was a party and is in privity with Edge Holdings; and (E) Debtor timely filed this action because Debtor did not learn about Strunzo's claim until September 15, 2018, when Strunzo filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay (the "RFS Motion") in Debtor's bankruptcy case. The Opposition is supported, in large part, by Debtor's spouse and guardian ad litem, Maria de Los Angeles Medina. On December 4, 2018, Strunzo filed a reply to the Opposition [doc. 48], reiterating its arguments from the MSJ and objecting to Ms. Medina's declaration in its entirety on the basis that Ms. Medina was not a listed witness in Debtor's initial disclosures and does not have personal knowledge about the events at issue.

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 56, applicable to this adversary proceeding under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 7056, the Court shall grant summary judgment if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 247, 106 S.Ct. 2505, 2509-10, 91 L.Ed.2d 202 (1986); Rule 56; FRBP 7056. "By its very terms, this standard provides that the mere existence of some alleged factual dispute between the parties will not defeat an otherwise properly supported motion for summary judgment; the requirement is that there be no genuine issue of material fact." 477 U.S. at 247-48 (emphasis in original).

As to materiality, the substantive law will identify which facts are material. Only disputes over facts that might affect the outcome of the suit under the governing law will properly preclude the entry of summary judgment. Factual disputes that are irrelevant or unnecessary will not be counted. . . . [S]ummary judgment will not lie if the dispute about a material fact is "genuine," that is, if the evidence is such that a reasonable jury could return a verdict for the nonmoving party. . . .

Id. at 248-50 (internal citations omitted). Additionally, issues of law are appropriate to be decided in a motion for summary judgment. See Camacho v. Du Sung Corp., 121 F.3d 1315, 1317 (9th Cir. 1997).

The initial burden is on the moving party to show that no genuine issues of material fact exist based on "the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with affidavits, if any." Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323, 106 S.Ct. 2548, 2553, 91 L.Ed. 265 (1986). Once the moving party meets its initial burden, the nonmoving party bearing "the burden of proof at trial on a dispositive issue" must identify facts beyond what is contained in the pleadings that show genuine issues of fact remain. Id., at 324; see also Anderson, 477 U.S. at 256 ("Rule 56(e) itself provides that a party opposing a properly supported motion for summary judgment may not rest upon mere allegation or denials of his pleading, but must set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial.").

The nonmoving party meets this burden through the presentation of "evidentiary materials" listed in Rule 56, such as depositions, documents, electronically stored information, affidavits or declarations, stipulations, admissions, and interrogatory answers. Id. To establish a genuine issue, the non-moving party "must do more than simply show that there is some metaphysical doubt as to the material facts." Matsushita Electrical Industry Co. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 586, 106 S.Ct. 1348, 1356, 89 L.Ed.2d 538 (1986); see also Anderson, 477 U.S. at 252 ("The mere existence of a scintilla of evidence in support of the [non-moving party's] position will be insufficient."). Rather, the nonmoving party must provide "evidence of such a caliber that 'a fair-minded jury could return a verdict for the [nonmoving party] on the evidence presented.'" U.S. v. Wilson, 881 F.2d 596, 601 (9th Cir. 1989) (quoting Anderson, 477 U.S. at 266).

B. Whether Strunzo was Deemed a Defendant in the Quiet Title Action

Pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure ("CCP") § 762.060—

- (a) In addition to the persons required to be named as defendants in the action, the plaintiff may name as defendants "all persons unknown, claiming any legal or equitable right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the property described in the complaint adverse to plaintiff's title, or any cloud upon plaintiff's title thereto," naming them in that manner.
- (b) In an action under this section, the plaintiff shall name as defendants the persons having adverse claims that are of record or known to the plaintiff or reasonably apparent from an inspection of the property.

(emphasis added). Under CCP § 764.045—

Except to the extent provided in Section 1908, the judgment does not affect a claim in the property or part thereof of any person who was not a party to the action if any of the following conditions is satisfied:

- (a) The claim was of record at the time the lis pendens was filed or, if none was filed, at the time the judgment was recorded.
- (b) The claim was actually known to the plaintiff or would have been reasonably apparent from an inspection of the property at the time the lis pendens was filed or, if none was filed, at the time the judgment was entered. Nothing in this subdivision shall be construed to impair the rights of a bona fide purchaser or encumbrancer for value dealing with the plaintiff or the plaintiff's successors in interest.

"In addition to persons required to be named as defendants, a quiet title plaintiff may elect to include 'all persons unknown' with adverse claims to the property. Cal. Civ. Proc. Code § 762.060(a). Even so, the plaintiff must name those persons 'having adverse claims that are of record or known to the plaintiff or reasonably apparent from an inspection of the property.' Cal. Civ. Proc. Code § 762.060(b)." Mortg. Elec. Registration Sys. v. Robinson, 45 F.Supp.3d 1207, 1210 (C.D. Cal. 2014). California courts have held that quiet title judgments do not bind nonparties that were "of record and known to" the plaintiff even where the plaintiff had initially named an entity as a defendant but subsequently dismissed the entity prior to judgment. Deutsche Bank Nat'l Tr. Co. v. McGurk, 206 Cal.App.4th 201, 212 (Ct. App. 2012) ("As the result of its voluntary dismissal, New Century became a nonparty to the quiet title action. New Century's interest was both of record and known to McGurk prior to filing her lis pendens. Thus, under both subdivisions of Code of Civil Procedure section 764.045, the quiet title judgment could not have bound it.")

Here, there is no dispute that Strunzo's claim was of record prior to Debtor's filing of the Quiet Title Action. In fact, Debtor attached the Title Report to his state court complaint, which included Strunzo's claim on the first page. As such, Debtor was required to name Strunzo as a defendant. Debtor's inclusion of "all persons claiming any interest in the subject property adverse to plaintiff's title thereto" as defendants did not suffice where Strunzo's claim was a known adverse claim against the Property.

Debtor argues that he served Strunzo by publication. Notwithstanding the fact that there is no admissible evidence regarding Debtor's service by publication [FN1], Debtor does not state that he served Strunzo by publication; rather, Debtor states that he served "all persons claiming any interest in the subject property adverse to plaintiff's title thereto" by publication. Moreover, Debtor's service of papers on parties, by any method, was not a substitute for naming entities known to Debtor. The record demonstrates that Debtor never named Strunzo as a defendant. As a result, under California law, the Quiet Title Judgment cannot bind Strunzo.

C. Whether Issue Preclusion Applies

"A bankruptcy court may rely on the issue preclusive effect of an existing state court judgment In so doing, the bankruptcy court must apply the forum state's law of issue preclusion." In re Plyam, 530 B.R. 456, 462 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2015); see also 28 U.S.C. § 1738 (federal courts must give "full faith and credit" to state court judgments). The requirements for issue preclusion in California are:

- (1) the issue sought to be precluded from relitigation is identical to that decided in a former proceeding;
- (2) the issue was actually litigated in the former proceeding;
- (3) the issue was necessarily decided in the former proceeding;
- (4) the decision in the former proceeding is final and on the merits; and
- (5) the party against whom preclusion is sought was the same as, or in privity with, the party to the former proceeding.

In re Harmon, 250 F.3d 1240, 1245 (9th Cir. 2001) (citing Lucido v. Superior Court, 51 Cal. 3d 335, 341 (1990)).

"The party asserting preclusion bears the burden of establishing the threshold requirements." Harmon, 250 F.3d at 1245. "This means providing 'a record sufficient to reveal the controlling facts and pinpoint the exact issues litigated in the prior action.'" Plyam, 530 B.R. at 462 (quoting In re Kelly, 182 B.R. 255, 258 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1995), aff'd, 100 F.3d 110 (9th Cir. 1996)). "Any reasonable doubt as to what was decided by a prior judgment should be resolved against allowing the [issue preclusive] effect." Kelly, 182 B.R. at 258.

Here, Strunzo was neither a party to the Quiet Title Action nor in privity with any of the parties to the Quiet Title Action. Debtor asserts that Strunzo was a party because Debtor named "all persons claiming any interest in the subject property adverse to plaintiff's title thereto" as defendants. However, as noted above, this was insufficient to bind parties of record like Strunzo.

Debtor also asserts that Strunzo was in privity with Edge Holdings because Edge

Holdings had a similar interest in the validity of its grant deed. Debtor does not explain why Edge Holdings would be motivated to defend the validity of a deed of trust encumbering the property in which Edge Holdings claimed an interest. Strunzo's interest in the validity of the DOT was different from Edge Holdings' claim to ownership of the Property via a grant deed.

In any event, the state court explicitly excluded nonparty lienholders from the Quiet Title Judgment. The state court having explicitly expressed its intent not to bind nonparty lienholders like Strunzo, this Court is not precluded from litigating the issue of the validity of the DOT held by Strunzo.

D. The Statute of Limitations

The parties do not dispute that CCP § 338(d) governs this action. Under CCP § 338(d), parties must bring "[a]n action for relief on the ground of fraud or mistake" within three years. "The cause of action in that case is not deemed to have accrued until the discovery, by the aggrieved party, of the facts constituting the fraud or mistake." CCP § 338(d).

The defendant bears the initial burden of proving the plaintiff's claims are barred by the applicable limitations period. Thereafter, the burden shifts to the plaintiff to demonstrate his claims survive based on one or more nonstatutory exceptions to the basic limitations period.

Luke v. Sonoma Cty., 43 Cal.App.5th 301 (Ct. App. 2019).

"Under the discovery rule, the cause of action accrues when the plaintiff suspects or should suspect that the injury was caused by wrongdoing, that someone has done something wrong to her or him. In other words, the limitations period begins once the plaintiff has notice information of circumstances to put a reasonable person on inquiry...." Nguyen v. W. Digital Corp., 229 Cal.App.4th 1522, 1539 (Ct. App. 2014) (emphasis in Nguyen) (internal quotations and citations omitted).

Here, on May 6, 2014, Debtor filed the UD Declaration, under penalty of perjury, stating that he was "given a record of the property." Strunzo's RJN, Exhibit 22. Debtor also noted in the UD Declaration that he had informed a detective that the Property had been fraudulently transferred. As such, at least as of May 6, 2014, Debtor was on inquiry notice that there may be deeds or deeds of trust involving the Property that Debtor did not authorize. Because the DOT in favor of Strunzo was recorded on May 28, 2013, approximately one year before Debtor signed the UD Declaration, any "record of the property" would have included the DOT.

Either way, by April 15, 2015, Debtor knew about Strunzo's claim against the Property when Debtor's attorneys generated the Title Report in preparation for filing the Quiet Title Action. Notably, although Debtor contends he did not learn about Strunzo's claim until Strunzo filed the RFS Motion, Debtor does not dispute that the Title Report was generated on April 15, 2015. Debtor also does not dispute the authenticity of the verified state court complaint. Debtor only objects on the bases of relevance and by arguing that the Quiet Title Judgment precludes litigation of these matters. However, the Title Report is relevant to the statute of limitations issue, and the Court addressed Debtor's preclusion argument above.

Although Strunzo bears the initial burden of proving that Debtor's claims are time barred, the burden then shifts to Debtor to demonstrate that his claims survived. Here, Strunzo met its burden by referencing the UD Declaration and by pointing to the Title Report generated on April 15, 2015. The burden then shifted to Debtor. In response, Debtor states, in a conclusory fashion, that he did not learn about Strunzo's claim until Strunzo filed the RFS Motion. Debtor does not meaningfully address the UD Declaration or the Title Report. As such, Debtor did not meet his burden of showing an exception to the statute of limitations. Debtor did not name Strunzo or JMJ Funding (the entity that appeared on the Title Report) as defendants to the Quiet Title Action. Consequently, the applicable statute of limitations expired on April 15, 2018, four days before Debtor filed his chapter 13 petition.

The Court need not decide the merits of Debtor's arguments regarding whether the DOT is void because there is no genuine dispute that Debtor's claims expired prepetition. As such, the Court will enter judgment in favor of Strunzo.

III. CONCLUSION

Tentative Ruling:

I. BACKGROUND

On March 16, 2017, Hermann Muennichow ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. David Seror was appointed the chapter 7 trustee (the "Trustee"). During the pendency of the bankruptcy case, Debtor passed away.

A. Initiation of this Adversary Proceeding and the Consent Order

On June 29, 2018, The Lincoln National Life Insurance Company, an Indiana Corporation ("Lincoln National") filed a complaint for interpleader (the "Complaint"). Lincoln National named Helayne Muennichow, Debtor's widow, the Trustee and the Duane Van Dyke Irrevocable Trust as defendants. In the Complaint, Lincoln National alleged, in relevant part:

Lincoln National assumed responsibility for a life insurance policy issued on April 27, 2006 insuring the life of Debtor (the "Policy"). In the Policy, Debtor designated Ms. Muennichow, his wife at the time, as the sole primary beneficiary. On March 27, 2013, Debtor submitted an Ownership Change for Life Policy form transferring ownership of the Policy to the Van Dyke Trust. On April 25, 2013, the Van Dyke Trust modified the beneficiary designation under the Policy to designate the Van Dyke Trust as the sole primary beneficiary and removed Ms. Muennichow as a beneficiary.

On November 11, 2017, Debtor died. The amount due under the Policy is $1,003,240.92, comprised of a $1 million death benefit and a $3,240.92 premium refund, which became payable to the proper beneficiary upon Debtor's death. In December 2017, Ms. Muennichow sent a letter to Lincoln National claiming an interest in the Policy; Ms. Muennichow alleges that the Policy was purchased during her marriage to Debtor and is a community property asset and that Debtor unlawfully transferred ownership of the Policy without her knowledge or consent.

The Van Dyke Trust, Ms. Muennichow and the Trustee have asserted a claim to the Policy. Lincoln National has deposited the Policy's funds with the Court pending a determination regarding which party has an interest in the Policy.

On September 11, 2018, the Court entered a consent order (the "Consent Order") [doc. 11]. As relevant to this matter, Gary Kurtz, Ms. Muennichow's attorney, signed the Consent Order on behalf of Ms. Muennichow. Ms. Muennichow did not sign the Consent Order, and there is no proof of service of the Consent Order on Ms. Muennichow.

In the Consent Order, the parties agreed, among other things, that: (A) Lincoln National will deposit $1 million, plus applicable interest, into the Registry of the Court; (B) upon deposit of the funds, Lincoln National will be dismissed from this action with prejudice; (C) Lincoln National will be discharged from any and all liability with respect to the Policy, the deposited funds and payment of the deposited funds; (D) the claimants to the funds will be enjoined from commencing or prosecuting any other action against Lincoln National with respect to the Policy, the deposited funds and payment of the deposited funds; (E) Lincoln National waives any right to attorneys' fees and costs in connection with this action; and (F) no costs will be taxed against Lincoln National.

B. Ms. Muennichow Learns about the Consent Order

On November 12, 2018, Robert J. McKennon, another attorney representing Ms. Muennichow, sent an email to Ms. Muennichow, stating—

It appears that [Mr. Kurtz], as your attorney, signed a consent order allowing Lincoln to deposit the funds into court and be dismissed from the interpleader action. This appears to mean that your attorney consented to allowing dismissal of Lincoln such that it could not now be sued for bad faith. In my opinion, he should not have consented to this and probably stems from his ignorance of insurance law. This may well preclude you from filing a bad faith action. I would like to hear from you if you consented to allowing [Mr. Kurtz] to file this and I would like to hear from [Mr. Kurtz] about this and why this was done.

C. Ms. Muennichow's Substitution of Mr. Kurtz with Mr. McKennon

On December 5, 2018, Mr. Kurtz notified all parties involved in this adversary proceeding of the substitution of Mr. McKennon as Ms. Muennichow's attorney. McKennon Declaration, ¶ 4, Exhibit D. On the same day, the Trustee responded to the email and informed Mr. McKennon about an upcoming global mediation set for January 17, 2019. Id.

On December 10, 2018, Ms. Muennichow filed a Substitution of Attorney, substituting Mr. McKennon in place of Mr. Kurtz [doc. 18]. On the same day, Mr. McKennon emailed the parties and informed them that he had been out of town and Mr. Kurtz had not updated Mr. McKennon on the status of the adversary proceeding. McKennon Declaration, ¶ 4, Exhibit D.

D. Ms. Muennichow Informs Lincoln National about Mr. Kurtz's Lack of Authority

On December 10, 2018, Mr. McKennon asked Lincoln National's counsel, Tim Lendino, to speak to him about the case. Id. As a result, Mr. McKennon and Mr. Lendino arranged a telephone conversation for the following day. Id. On December 21, 2018, Mr. McKennon emailed Mr. Lendino the following—client's desire to extricate herself from the consent order that she never saw or approved so she could file a counterclaim for bad faith against Lincoln. Please let me know the status of this. I think it would be a good idea for Lincoln National to participate in the mediation in January for this reason. Otherwise, there is not likely going to be a global resolution of the interpleader matter.

Id. On the same day, Mr. Lendino responded that Lincoln National would not agree to set aside the Consent Order, but that Mr. Lendino would consult with his client regarding whether Lincoln National would participate in the upcoming global mediation. Id.

E. Ms. Muennichow's Post-Mediation Efforts to Settle and/or Mediate

On December 27, 2018, Mr. McKennon again emailed Mr. Lendino, asking Mr. Lendino to summarize Lincoln National's position in an email. Id. On December 30, 2018, Mr. Lendino responded that Lincoln National is not inclined to participate in a mediation because they had been dismissed from this adversary proceeding. Id.

The parties (excluding Lincoln National) attended a global mediation on January 17, 2019 [Status Report, doc. 35]. Evidently, the mediation did not result in a settlement agreement between any of the parties. On January 22, 2019, after the parties' failed mediation, Ms. Muennichow emailed Mr. Kurtz the following—

You need to file a motion to modify the portion of the consent order discharging Lincoln from its liability with respect to that policy. You need to do this quickly, so that I can get started pursuing my claims against Lincoln. You must state in the motion that you did not speak to me before you consented to the release and never obtained my permission, which is the truth. You and I must include declarations establishing that you did not get my permission before agreeing to the consent order. The motion must explain that I intend on pursuing a bad faith action against Lincoln.

of record. Id. From January 22, 2019 to January 23, 2019, Mr. Kurtz and Ms. Muennichow went back and forth regarding whether Mr. Kurtz or Mr. McKennon should file a motion modifying the Consent Order. Id. On January 23, 2019, Ms. Muennichow informed Mr. Kurtz she would "see what [she] can do." Id. Subsequently, Ms. Muennichow informed Mr. McKennon's law firm that they would have to prepare the motion to modify the Consent Order. Deposition of Helayne Muennichow [doc. 91], Exhibit 2, 92:4-8.

From February 19, 2019 to February 20, 2019, the Trustee and Mr. McKennon discussed the possibility of attending another day of mediation. McKennon Declaration, ¶ 6, Exhibit F. On February 20, 2019, the parties attended a status conference, at which time the Court instructed the defendant parties to file and serve their responses to the Complaint [doc. 21].

F. The Present Motion

On March 12, 2019, Ms. Muennichow filed a motion to be relieved from the Consent Order (the "Motion") [doc. 24] and three declarations in support of the Motion [docs. 26, 27, 28]. Among other things, Mr. Kurtz stated in his declaration in support of the Motion that Ms. Muennichow had repeatedly told him that she intended to sue Lincoln National for its removal of Ms. Muennichow from the Policy [doc. 28, ¶¶ 7-8]. A declaration by William Towers, identified as an associate to Ms. Muennichow, also noted that Ms. Muennichow had been vocal to Mr. Kurtz about her intent to sue Lincoln National [doc. 27, ¶¶ 5-11]. On March 15, 2019, Ms. Muennichow also filed an answer to the Complaint and a counterclaim against Lincoln National [doc. 33] as well as crossclaims against the other defendants [doc. 34].

On March 26, 2019, Lincoln National filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 36], arguing that Ms. Muennichow did not meet the standard under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 60(b). In the Opposition, Lincoln National did not address the attorney authorization arguments set forth in the Motion.

On May 15, 2019, the Court held a hearing on the Motion. At that time, the Court issued a tentative ruling setting forth the applicable standard regarding attorney authorization under California law (the "May 15, 2019 Tentative Ruling"). In relevant part, the Court stated that the Consent Order operated as a settlement of any claims against Lincoln National involving the Policy, and that the settlement was governed by California law on attorney authorization. The Court noted—

To the extent Mr. Kurtz did not have authority to sign the Consent Order, Ms. Muennichow will not be bound by the Consent Order, and the parties' Rule 60(b) arguments will be moot. If Mr. Kurtz did have authority to bind Ms. Muennichow, Ms. Muennichow will properly be bound by the Consent Order, and Ms. Muennichow has not demonstrated a basis for relief under Rule 60(b).

(emphasis in the May 15, 2019 Tentative Ruling). As to Rule 60(b), the Court reiterated at the end of the May 15, 2019 Tentative Ruling that, "[t]o the extent Mr. Kurtz had authority to sign the Consent Order, the Court will not grant Ms. Muennichow relief under Rule 60(b)." (emphasis added). The Court then set the remaining issues for an evidentiary hearing, specifically: "(A) whether Mr. Kurtz had express, apparent or ostensible authority to sign the Consent Order on behalf of Ms. Muennichow; and (B) even if Mr. Kurtz did not have authority, whether Ms. Muennichow subsequently ratified the Consent Order."

The Court set an evidentiary hearing on the remaining issues for December 20, 2019 [doc. 87]. On December 11, 2019, Ms. Muennichow filed a trial brief [doc. 89] and the McKennon Declaration, attaching the relevant evidence in preparation for the evidentiary hearing. On the same day, Lincoln National filed its trial brief (the "Lincoln Trial Brief") [doc. 91]. In the Lincoln Trial Brief, Lincoln National concedes that Mr. Kurtz did not have authority to execute the Consent Order on Ms. Muennichow's behalf. Lincoln Trial Brief, p. 9 ("Lincoln does not intend to contest Ms. Muennichow's assertion that she did not consent to the Consent order."). As such, Lincoln National narrowed the issues in its brief to the following: (A) whether Ms. Muennichow subsequently ratified the Consent Order; and (B) whether Rule 60(b) should govern this matter and, if so, whether there is a basis under Rule 60(b) to modify the Consent Order. Regarding the first issue, Lincoln National contends that the approximately four months between Ms. Muennichow learning about the Consent Order and filing the Motion represented a long enough delay for a finding of ratification. Finally, if the Court grants the Motion, Lincoln National requests that the entire Consent Order should be vacated.

Shortly before the evidentiary hearing, the parties contacted chambers to inform the Court that the parties stipulate to the admission of all exhibits. In light of this stipulation, the parties requested that the Court decide this matter without an evidentiary hearing. Consequently, the Court continued the evidentiary hearing to issue a ruling.

II. ANALYSIS

The parties now agree that Ms. Muennichow did not authorize Mr. Kurtz to sign the Consent Order. The parties also have stipulated to the admission of all exhibits without objection. As such, the sole remaining issues are whether Ms. Muennichow ratified the Consent Order and whether there is a basis to modify the Consent Order.

A. Ratification

Under California law, "[a] principal is liable 'when the principal knows the agent holds himself or herself out as clothed with certain authority and remains silent.'" NORCAL Mut. Ins. Co. v. Newton, 84 Cal.App.4th 64, 78 (Ct. App. 2000) (quoting Jacoves v. United Merchandising Corp., 9 Cal.App.4th 88, 103 (Ct. App. 1992)). "A principal's failure to promptly disaffirm an agent's conduct on her behalf constitutes a ratification." Id., at 79; see also Gates v. Bank of America, 120 Cal.App.2d 571, 576-577 (Ct. App. 1953) ("[W]here the rights of third persons depend on his election, the rule is a principal must disaffirm an unauthorized act of his agent within a reasonable time after acquiring knowledge thereof, else his silence may be deemed ratification or acquiescence in order to protect an unsuspecting third party.").

Pursuant to the authorities above, the principal is required to promptly act to disaffirm her agent's conduct to third parties. However, the authorities do not require that the act in question be the filing of a motion. To attempt to show a delay, Lincoln National calculated that four months passed between Ms. Muennichow's notice of the Consent Order and the filing of the Motion. However, Ms. Muennichow, through Mr. McKennon, informed Lincoln National by mid-December 2018 that Ms. Muennichow never authorized Mr. Kurtz to execute the Consent Order and that Ms. Muennichow intended to move for modification of the Consent Order. See McKennon Declaration, ¶ 4, Exhibit D.

In fact, Ms. Muennichow emailed Mr. Kurtz the same day she learned about the Consent Order from Mr. McKennon. Ms. Muennichow immediately informed Mr. Kurtz that "[t]ime is of the essence" and sought both Mr. Kurtz's and Mr. McKennon's advice regarding how to reverse Mr. Kurtz's unauthorized actions. Shortly thereafter, Ms. Muennichow substituted Mr. McKennon as her attorney of record. On the same day as the substitution, Mr. McKennon sent an email to all other parties to this adversary proceeding to receive updates about the status of the case and requested a conversation with Lincoln National about the Consent Order.

As evidenced by the emails between Mr. Lendino and Mr. McKennon, no later than December 21, 2018, Lincoln National knew that Ms. Muennichow intended to modify the Consent Order on the basis that her attorney did not have authority to sign the Consent Order on her behalf. Thus, contrary to Lincoln National's calculation of four months, approximately five weeks lapsed between Ms. Muennichow learning about the unauthorized act and her disaffirmance of the act to third parties. Given Ms. Muennichow's immediate spur to action after receiving notice of the Consent Order, Ms. Muennichow did not ratify the Consent Order.

The additional lapse of time between December 2018, when Lincoln National learned of Ms. Muennichow's position, and the filing of the Motion, did not serve to ratify Mr. Kurtz's conduct. First, as discussed above, the relevant act to disaffirm Mr. Kurtz's conduct was Ms. Muennichow's prompt notice to Lincoln National that she did not authorize her attorney's signature on the Consent Order.

Second, from December 2018 through mid-February 2019, Ms. Muennichow attempted to negotiate with Lincoln National and/or the other defendants to this action. Specifically, until the end of December 2018, Ms. Muennichow attempted to convince Lincoln National to stipulate to modification of the Consent Order and to attend the global mediation set for January 17, 2019. Lincoln National refused. In January 2019, Ms. Muennichow attended a mediation with the remaining defendants. Although that mediation failed, until mid-February 2019, Ms. Muennichow discussed the possibility of a second mediation with the other defendants to this action. Approximately three weeks after those discussions, Ms. Muennichow filed the Motion.

The Court will not penalize Ms. Muennichow for attempting to negotiate with Lincoln National and/or the other defendants prior to filing the Motion. Such a penalty would disincentivize parties from attempting to settle matters before incurring the time and expense of filing and prosecuting a motion. Although Ms. Muennichow knew that Lincoln National would not settle by the end of December 2018, it is reasonable that Ms. Muennichow would wait for the result of mediation with the other defendants in case the result of such a mediation impacted how Ms. Muennichow would proceed against Lincoln National.

Third, Ms. Muennichow, like all other defendants, had a mid-March deadline to file a response to the Complaint, including her counterclaims and crossclaims against Lincoln National and the other defendants. In addition, Ms. Muennichow obtained declarations from multiple individuals in connection with the Motion. Given the amount of work required to file the Motion and the other pleadings, there was not a significant delay between mid-February 2018, when it became evident a settlement would not be forthcoming, and the filing of the Motion.

In any event, as noted above, the relevant act of disaffirmance occurred when Ms. Muennichow promptly notified Lincoln National, in December 2018, that she never authorized entry into the Consent Order. Subsequent to December 2018, Ms. Muennichow did not take any action that would lead Lincoln National to believe that Ms. Muennichow had changed her mind and would no longer seek a modification of the Consent Order. Ms. Muennichow's participation in mediation and/or settlement discussions did not translate to a ratification of Mr. Kurtz's conduct. Lincoln National has not referenced anything else in the record that would indicate that Ms. Muennichow waived from her position that she did not authorize entry of the Consent Order and would seek to obtain relief from the Consent Order.

The cases cited by Lincoln National do not compel a different result. For instance, Lincoln National references Gaine v. Austin, 58 Cal.App.2d 250 (Ct. App. 1943), arguing that the four-month span between Ms. Muennichow learning about the pertinent language in the Consent Order and filing the Motion is analogous to the four-month delay in Gaine. Notwithstanding the approximately 77 years of jurisprudence between the publication of Gaine and this decision, the facts in Gaine are not comparable to the facts here.

In Gaine, the plaintiff retained an attorney to represent him in connection with certain real property transactions. Gaine, 58 Cal.App.2d at 253-57. In connection with his representation of the plaintiff, the attorney settled a dispute and collected $7,500 into his account. Id., at 259-60. The attorney advised the plaintiff by April 6, 1937 that he had settled the dispute and collected the $7,500 into his account. Id., at 260. Nevertheless, the plaintiff did nothing until August of 1937, when the plaintiff fired the attorney. Id.

In contrast, Ms. Muennichow immediately emailed Mr. Kurtz and, within approximately a week, substituted Mr. McKennon in place of Mr. Kurtz. By approximately one month after receiving notice of the Consent Order, Lincoln National had been apprised that Ms. Muennichow intended to modify the Consent Order.

In NORCAL, the defendant and her husband (together, the "Newtons"), were sued for malpractice. NORCAL, 84 Cal.App.4th at 67. The Newtons, through an attorney named James Murphy, sought defense and indemnity from the insurance company on behalf of both the Newtons, despite the fact that only the husband was insured through the relevant policy. Id. The plaintiff agreed to provide the defendant a defense with a reservation of rights. Id. Subsequently, the plaintiff insurer funded a settlement of the claims. Id., at 68.

After the settlement, the Newtons and the plaintiff disagreed as to how the settlement would be reported to a medical practitioner data bank. Id., at 69. Mr. Murphy, on behalf of both the defendant and her husband, sent multiple letters to the plaintiff over the span of a year demanding arbitration under the insurance policy. Id., at 69-70. After the plaintiff and the defendant could not agree on an arbitrator, the defendant informed the plaintiff, through a new attorney, that she did not consent to arbitration. Id., at 70. The plaintiff then sought to compel arbitration, and the trial court granted this request. Id., at 70-71.

On appeal, the defendant argued that her attorneys could not bind her to arbitration. Id., at 78. The appellate court disagreed, noting that Mr. Murphy had sent letters, on the defendant's behalf, demanding arbitration, and copies of these letters were sent to the defendant. Id., at 79. The appellate court also observed that the defendant never stated in her declaration that she was unaware of these legal demands being made on her behalf. Id. Moreover, Mr. Murphy had sent arbitration demand letters on behalf of the defendant for approximately one year before the defendant stated that she did not consent to arbitration. Id., at 69-70, 79. [FN1].

Here, the evidence shows that Ms. Muennichow was unaware of the Consent Order until November 13, 2018; nothing in the record indicates that Ms. Muennichow received notice of the Consent Order prior to November 13, 2018. As noted above, there is no proof of service showing that the Consent Order was served on Ms. Muennichow. By mid-December 2018, approximately one month later, Ms. Muennichow had informed Lincoln National that she did not authorize Mr. Kurtz's execution of the Consent Order and intended to move for modification of the Consent Order.

Although NORCAL is inapposite, the NORCAL court referenced a case that is analogous to this case. Id., at 78 (citing Blanton v. Womancare, Inc., 38 Cal.3d 396 (1985)). In Blanton, a decision by the Supreme Court of California, the attorney admitted that his client informed him that she would submit to arbitration only if her right to a de novo trial was preserved. Blanton, 38 Cal.3d at 399. Despite this, the attorney entered into a stipulation on behalf of the client agreeing to binding arbitration and failing to preserve his client's right to a de novo trial. Id., at 399-400. The client did not learn about the stipulation until approximately three months after the stipulation was entered. Id., at 400. At that time, she objected, fired her attorney and retained new counsel to invalidate the stipulation. Id. Under these facts, the Blanton court held that the attorney did not have authority to enter into the stipulation, and the client did not subsequently ratify the stipulation. Id., at 408.

These facts are strikingly similar to the facts here. As in Blanton, Ms. Muennichow repeatedly informed Mr. Kurtz (and others) that she intended to pursue an action against Lincoln National. Nevertheless, Mr. Kurtz entered into a stipulation, on Ms. Muennichow's behalf and without her authorization, relieving Lincoln National from any further liability arising from the Policy. Similar to Blanton, Ms. Muennichow learned about the Consent Order three months after its entry and immediately retained new counsel to invalidate the Consent Order. Thus, like the client in Blanton, Ms. Muennichow did not ratify the Consent Order.

Lincoln National asserts that Rule 60(b) should govern this matter and that, under Rule 60(b), there are no grounds to modify the Consent Order. As part of its support for this contention, Lincoln National references the May 15, 2019 Tentative Ruling, wherein the Court stated that Ms. Muennichow had not demonstrated a basis for modifying the Consent Order under Rule 60(b)(1) based on Mr. Kurtz's negligence.

The May 15, 2019 Tentative Ruling was a tentative ruling subject to change. Nevertheless, in the May 15, 2019 Tentative Ruling, the Court stated that Ms. Muennichow was not entitled to relief under Rule 60(b) only "[t]o the extent Mr. Kurtz had authority to sign the Consent Order...." (emphasis added). There is no longer any dispute that Mr. Kurtz did not have authority to sign the Consent Order. As such, the Court's prior analysis under Rule 60(b)(1) is no longer applicable.

Nor is Lincoln National's argument that Rule 60(b) should apply to the Consent Order dispositive of the issues before the Court. Whether the Court uses Rule 60(b) or California law as the avenue to modify the Consent Order, the result is the same. As noted by Lincoln National, Rule 60(b)(1) does not apply to remedy "mistakes [that] arose from attorney misconduct." Latshaw v. Trainer Wortham & Co., 452 F.3d 1097, 1100-01 (9th Cir. 2006).

However, courts have drawn a distinction between the type of attorney misconduct that is not covered by Rule 60(b), such as an attorney failing to explain legal consequences properly to a client, and an attorney's lack of authority to act on behalf of a client. For instance, one in-circuit court provided the following reasoning—

The Latshaw matter is distinguishable from this matter in that the Defendants did not make their offer under advice from counsel which was legally incorrect. Defendants' offer was not the offer that was intended—defense counsel made a drafting error. Moreover, defense counsel did not have the authority to make an offer of judgment of $100,000 as to just the county.

Close v. Pierce Cty., Wash., 2009 WL 2987190, at *3 (W.D. Wash. Sept. 15, 2009) (citing Yapp v. Excel Corp., 186 F.3d 1222, 1231 (10th Cir. 1999) (holding that Rule 60(b) motions should provide relief to a party when an attorney in the litigation has acted without authority)). Another in-circuit court held that, although Rule 60(b) does not protect from attorney incompetence, Rule 60(b)(6) may serve to vacate orders entered without authority—

This principle bars a litigant from avoiding the consequences of voluntarily hiring an incompetent attorney, but the principle reaches its limit here. The movants are not asking for relief from simple incompetence; they were wholly abandoned by their former attorney at a critical time. Nothing indicates they approved of, knew of, ratified or anticipated his conduct.

Johnson v. Siu Keung Chan, 2020 WL 230200, at *3 (E.D. Cal. Jan. 15, 2020).

"Upon a proper showing, even a consent judgment may be set aside under Rule 60(b). In particular, a consent judgment shown to have been entered without express authority from the client or without the client's actual consent may be the subject of Rule 60(b) relief." Smith v. Widman Trucking & Excavating, Inc., 627 F.2d 792, 796 (7th Cir. 1980); see also Bosch v. Olympia Brewing Co., 849 F.2d 1475 (9th Cir. 1988) ("Settlement agreements entered into without authority of the client may be voided by motion to vacate.") (citing Surety Ins. Co. v. Williams, 729 F.2d 581, 582 (8th Cir. 1984) (holding that an attorney's lack of authority to settle a claim states a ground for relief under Rule 60(b)).

Given this ample authority, there are grounds to modify the Consent Order under Rule 60(b) as well as under the California law referenced herein and in the May 15, 2019 Tentative Ruling. There is no longer any dispute that Mr. Kurtz acted without authority. Consequently, under either body of law, the Court may relieve Ms. Muennichow from the Consent Order based on Mr. Kurtz's lack of authority to act on her behalf.

Lincoln National contends that relief under Rule 60(b) is inappropriate because Ms. Muennichow's claims against Lincoln National lack merit. However, prior to vacating a consent order as a result of an attorney's lack of authority, the authorities cited above do not require an analysis of the merits of the parties' claims against each other. Nor does this Court have the benefit of full briefing about the underlying claims between Ms. Muennichow and Lincoln National, as required to assess those claims. At this time, those issues are not properly before the Court. Consequently, in the determination of the Motion, the Court will not make any findings with respect to the merits of Ms. Muennichow's claims against Lincoln National.

C. Lincoln National's Request to Vacate the Consent Order

If the Court grants the Motion, Lincoln National asks the Court to vacate the Consent Order in its entirety. However, Ms. Muennichow is the only party that has moved for modification of the Consent Order. As such, unless the parties stipulate to vacate the Consent Order in its entirety, the Court will not vacate the Consent Order at this time. The Court only will relieve Ms. Muennichow from the Consent Order.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will relieve Ms. Muennichow from the Consent Order. If the other parties file a stipulation to vacate the Consent Order, the Court will vacate the Consent Order in its entirety. If the other parties do not stipulate to such relief, they may file a motion for the Court to vacate the Consent Order.

Ms. Muennichow must submit an order within seven (7) days.

#4.00 Order to show cause why this case should not be dismissed with a 180-day bar to refiling for having been filed in bad faith

Tentative Ruling:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a), 349(a) and 1112(a), (b)(4)(E) and (4)(F), the Court will dismiss this case with a 180-day bar to the debtor's filing another petition under any chapter of the Bankruptcy Code.

I. BACKGROUND

A. The Debtor's Schedules and Statements

On October 20, 2019, Nora Los, LLC (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. The Debtor concurrently filed its schedules and statements.

In its belatedly filed status report [doc. 25], the Debtor represented that it owned residential real property located at 5021 Topeka Drive, Tarzana CA 91356 (the "Tarzana Property").

In its Summary of Assets and Liabilities for Non-Individuals, filed on October 20, 2019 [doc. 1], the Debtor indicated that it had no assets and no creditors, at all.

In the Debtor's schedule A/B, filed on October 20, 2019 [doc. 1], the Debtor indicated that, other than the Tarzana Property, it had no assets, including any cash or cash equivalents. For the Tarzana Property, the Debtor provided a value of $0.00.

In the Debtor's schedule E/F, filed on October 20, 2019 [doc. 1], the only unsecured creditor (priority and nonpriority) listed by the Debtor is the IRS, with a claim in the amount of $0.00.

In its amended schedule D, filed on November 21, 2019 [doc. 21], the Debtor identifies four secured creditors. None of these secured creditors were listed in the Debtor's original schedule D [doc. 1]. Instead, in its original schedule D [doc. 1], the Debtor indicated that it had no secured creditors, at all.

In its statement of financial affairs, filed on October 20, 2019 (the "SFA") [doc. 1], the Debtor indicates that it has no gross revenue and made no payments or transfers to creditors within 90 days before filing its petition.

The Debtor also represented, in its SFA, that no accountants or bookkeepers maintained the Debtor's books and records within 2 years before filing this case, that no firms or individuals were in possession of the debtor's books and records when this case was filed, and that the Debtor has not issued a financial statement within 2 years before filing this case to any financial institutions, creditors or other parties.

In its SFA, item 28, the Debtor did not list any officers, directors, managing members, general partners, members in control, controlling shareholders, or other people in control of the debtor at the time of the filing of this case.

On December 19, 2019 the Debtor filed an amended SFA (the "Amended SFA") [doc. 28]. The Debtor filed the Amended SFA after the status conference on December 12, 2019, where the Court pointed out the numerous apparent inaccuracies and omissions in the SFA. In contrast to the SFA, in the Amended SFA the Debtor represents that: (1) it made two payments to creditors within 90 days of filing its petition, one in the amount of $12,228.75 and the other in the amount of $500; (2) Mahdis Ekbantani is an accountant or bookkeeper who maintained the Debtor's books and records; and (3) Fahd Soliman is the managing member and 100% owner of the Debtor, and his address is the Tarzana Property.

B. The Debtor's Monthly Operating Reports

In its monthly operating reports filed for October 2019 and November 2019, the Debtor did not complete Section IV - regarding payment to secured creditors, or Section V - regarding insurance coverage. In both of these monthly operating reports, the Debtor left these sections blank. The Debtor did not timely file its December 2019 monthly operating report.

On November 6, 2019, the Court entered an Order Setting Hearing on Status of Chapter 11 Case and Requiring Report on Status of Chapter 11 Case (the "Order") [doc. 13]. Contrary to the Order, the Debtor has not provided: (a) evidence regarding the Debtor's actual income, expenses and cash flow for the last six months preceding the filing of this case on a month by month basis; or (b) a budget of the Debtor's projected income, expenses and cash flow for the first six months of this case on a month by month basis.

In the Debtor's belatedly filed status report, the Debtor represented that the Tarzana Property "requires some repair to make it attractive for rental and/or sale" [doc. 25, ¶ 10]. The Debtor further stated, "the Debtor will require 60-90 days to effectuate repairs and to prepare a marketing package for potential investors to sell the Subject Property or seek a lender to refinance the current obligations of the Debtor based on better rates" [doc. 25, ¶ 13]. This status report was signed by Mr. Soliman, under penalty of perjury.

In contrast, in the Declaration of Fahd Soliman re: Response to Order to Show Cause, which was also signed by Mr. Soliman under penalty of perjury [doc. 42], Mr. Soliman now represents that the Debtor intends to sub-divide the Tarzana Property into four separate plots of land which will allow the construction of four single family homes [doc. 42, ¶ 10]. In fact, Mr. Soliman states that "the Debtor is in the middle of sub-dividing the Property" and that "the Debtor has to make certain repairs to the Property before the Debtor is able to finish the permitting process for the subdivision" [doc. 42, ¶ 15]. Mr. Soliman also represents that the Debtor filed this chapter 11 case to "raise new capital for its redevelopment and to limit interest demands" [doc. 42, ¶ 14]. The status report [doc. 25] made no mention of the Debtor's purported intent subdivide the Tarzana Property, that the Debtor was supposedly in the permitting process for the subdivision or the need to raise new capital to effectuate this subdivision.

D. KBP Dumont LLC

On January 14, 2020, KBP Dumont LLC ("KBP") filed a motion for an extension of the deadline to file a complaint against the Debtor under 11 U.S.C. § 523. In that motion, KBP represents that it made a loan to the Debtor secured by the Tarzana

Property. KBP states that it was not served with notice of the Debtor's filing of this bankruptcy case. KBP states that the first time it was notified of the filing or served with any documents was on December 30, 2019.

E. The Order to Show Cause

On December 12, 2019, the Court held a status conference in the above-captioned case. After the status conference, the Court issued an Order to Show Cause Why this Case Should Not Be Dismissed with a 180-Day Bar to Refiling for Having Been Filed in Bad Faith (the "OSC") [doc. 29]. The OSC ordered any response to be filed by January 16, 2020.

On January 17, 2020, the Debtor belatedly filed a Declaration of Fahd Soliman re: Response to Order to Show Cause (the "Debtor's Response") [doc. 42]. In the Debtor's Response, Mr. Soliman states that "the Debtor has been making regular payments to its primary secured creditors until it filed for bankruptcy" [doc. 42, ¶ 16]. However, KBP represents that the Debtor has not made a payment in over two years [doc. 50].

On January 23, 2020, the Debtor filed a Supplemental Declaration of Fahd Soliman re: Response to Order to Show Cause (the "Supplemental Response") [doc. 44], a Declaration of Edward Askelrod re: Proposed DIP Loan/Investment [doc. 45] and a Declaration of Hen Levi re: Proposed DIP Loan/Investment [doc. 46]. Also on January 23, 2020, KBP filed a nonopposition to the OSC [doc. 50].

Attached to the Supplemental Response is a typographical plan with a geology and soil report approval letter from the City of Los Angeles, dated November 3, 2017 [Exh. A], an environmental clearance approval letter from the City of Los Angeles, dated August 3, 2018 [Exh. B] and two proposals for repairs to the Property, dated May 31, 2019 and June 17, 2019 [Exh. C]. Clearly, the Debtor knew of the existence of these documents and its purported intention to subdivide the Tarzana Property well before it filed the status report on December 5, 2019 [doc. 25].

convert a chapter 11 case pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §1112(b). *See In re Consolidated Pioneer Mortg. C.D. Cal. 2000) ("A bankruptcy court has broad discretion to convert or dismiss a chapter 11 petition for 'cause' under 11 U.S.C. § 1112(b).").

Here, there is cause to convert or dismiss this case pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1112(b)(4) (E) and (4)(F). Contrary to the Order, the Debtor has not provided: (a) evidence regarding the Debtor's actual income, expenses and cash flow for the last six months preceding the filing of this case on a month by month basis; or (b) a budget of the Debtor's projected income, expenses and cash flow for the first six months of this case on a month by month basis. Further, the Debtor did not timely file its December 2019 monthly operating report.

Moreover, given the Debtor's highly inaccurate representation that its initial schedules and statement of financial affairs were true and correct, made under penalty of perjury (signed by Fahd Soliman, as "Manager"), having reviewed the information provided in the Debtor's schedules, SFAs and the chapter 11 case status conference report and the Debtor's Response, it appears that this bankruptcy case was filed in bad faith.

In the Debtor's Response, Mr. Soliman states that he did not have some of the needed information to complete the petition documents at the time of filing this chapter 11 case because these documents were destroyed in a fire [Declaration of Fahd Soliman re: Response to Order to Show Cause ("Soliman Decl."), ¶ 6]. Instead of requesting an extension of time to file the case commencement documents, which this Court routinely grants, the Debtor made misrepresentations in its initial schedules and statements, signed under penalty of perjury. The Court cannot have confidence that the statements in the Soliman Decl., which are also signed under penalty of perjury, are accurate when the Debtor previously made highly inaccurate and misleading representations, signed under penalty of perjury.

In light of the foregoing, it appears that dismissal of this chapter 11 case is in the best interest of creditors and the estate. From a review of the record, if the Debtor's case were converted, it does not appear that there would be sufficient assets in the Debtor's estate that could be administered for the benefit of creditors.

Further, it does not appear that the Debtor has sufficient income to make adequate protection payments or deed of trust payments regarding the debt secured by the Tarzana Property (which is overencumbered). In the Debtor's Response, Mr. Soliman states that the Debtor does not generate any income [Soliman Decl., ¶ 7]. Mr. Soliman further states that he is paying for the Debtor's expenses and obligations. In the Debtor's 90-day projections, apparently provided to the United States Trustee, the Debtor represents that the deed of trust payments and the maintenance expenses on the Tarzana Property total $21,075 per month [doc. 41, Exh. A]. These projections do not include payment to KBP. The Debtor did not provide evidence of Mr. Soliman's ability to make adequate protection payments or deed of trust payments, and apparently, Mr. Soliman has not been able to pay all the obligations on the Tarzana Property, as represented by KBP.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will dismiss the case with a 180-day bar to refileing.

The Court will prepare the order.

In its statement of financial affairs, filed on October 20, 2019 (the "SFA") [doc. 1], the Debtor indicates that it has no gross revenue and made no payments or transfers to creditors within 90 days before filing its petition.

The Debtor also represented, in its SFA, that no accountants or bookkeepers maintained the Debtor's books and records within 2 years before filing this case, that no firms or individuals were in possession of the debtor's books and records when this case was filed, and that the Debtor has not issued a financial statement within 2 years before filing this case to any financial institutions, creditors or other parties.

In its SFA, item 28, the Debtor did not list any officers, directors, managing members, general partners, members in control, controlling shareholders, or other people in control of the debtor at the time of the filing of this case.

On December 19, 2019 the Debtor filed an amended SFA (the "Amended SFA") [doc. 28]. The Debtor filed the Amended SFA after the status conference on December 12, 2019, where the Court pointed out the numerous apparent inaccuracies and omissions in the SFA. In contrast to the SFA, in the Amended SFA the Debtor represents that: (1) it made two payments to creditors within 90 days of filing its petition, one in the amount of $12,228.75 and the other in the amount of $500; (2) Mahdis Ekbantani is an accountant or bookkeeper who maintained the Debtor's books and records; and (3) Fahd Soliman is the managing member and 100% owner of the Debtor, and his address is the Tarzana Property.

Also contrary to the Order, the Debtor belatedly filed a status report [doc. 25].

D. KBP Dumont LLC

On January 14, 2020, KBP Dumont LLC ("KBP") filed a motion for an extension of the deadline to file a complaint against the Debtor under 11 U.S.C. § 523. In that motion, KBP represents that it made a loan to the Debtor secured by the Tarzana Property. KBP states that it was not served with notice of the Debtor's filing of this bankruptcy case. KBP states that the first time it was notified of the filing or served with any documents was on December 30, 2019.

E. Application to Employ Matthew Abbasi as Debtor in Possession Counsel and his Compensation

On December 30, 2019, 71 days after the petition date, the Debtor filed an application to employ Matthew Abbasi as debtor in possession counsel [doc. 35]. The Court has not granted that application.

On October 21, 2019, the Debtor filed an amended Disclosure of Compensation of Attorney for Debtor(s) [doc. 7]. That disclosure indicates that the Debtor paid Mr. Abbasi $5,283 as compensation for legal services provided in this chapter 11 case. [FN1]

Mr. Abbasi represents that he had to take care of his wife, who was injured giving birth to their child, and his children as his wife recovered. Mr. Abbasi represents that because he was taking care of his wife and children, his availability during that time was very limited. Mr. Abbasi stats that he made matters more complicated by filing two chapter 11 cases within 48 hours.

First, Mr. Abbasi failed to file an application to be employed as debtor in possession counsel promptly, as required by LBR 2014-1(b)(1)(E). Second, Mr. Abbasi's services have been "of poor quality and... [did] not comply with [Mr. Abbasi's] ethical duties." Smith, 436 B.R. at 483. Regarding Mr. Abbasi's decision to file inaccurate schedules and statements, Mr. Abbasi states, in his declaration, that the Debtor did not provide him with all the information needed. If this was so, Mr. Abbasi should have filed a motion for an extension of time to file the case commencement documents, which the Court routinely grants. Furthermore, Mr. Abbasi had a duty to investigate the assets and liabilities of the Debtor prior to filing the schedules and statements. A simple title search on the Tarzana Property would have revealed that the Debtor has secured creditors.

Moreover, Mr. Abbasi's explanation that he had to take time off work to care of his wife and children, and that the matter was complicated by his decision to file two chapter 11 cases within 48 hours, is unavailing. Once Mr. Abbasi decided to appear on behalf of the Debtor, he was required to act diligently and competently on behalf of his client. Instead, Mr. Abbasi filed inaccurate and misleading schedules and statements, apparently did not provide notice of the Debtor's chapter 11 bankruptcy filing to all secured creditors, failed to file complete monthly operating reports as required by the United States Trustee guidelines and belatedly filed several documents, including the status report [doc. 25], the Response and the Debtor's response to a related order to show cause in this case.

Mr. Abbasi argues that the Court should vacate the OSC because "no one was prejudiced by [his] good faith errors" [doc. 41, ¶ 15]. However, the Debtor has been prejudiced by Mr. Abbasi's actions. The Court has issued an order to show cause why this case should not be dismissed with a 180-day bar to refiling for having been filed in bad faith [doc. 29] because of the poor quality of legal services provided by Mr. Abbasi.

Based on the poor quality of services provided by Mr. Abbasi in this case, the Court will not approve his employment; he is not competent to be counsel for the debtor and debtor in possession. Consequently, Mr. Abbasi must disgorge the fees he received in this case.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will order Mr. Abbasi to disgorge the $5,283 he received from the Debtor or Mr. Soliman as compensation for legal services provided in this case.

The Court will prepare the order.

FOOTNOTES

1. In the Declaration of Matthew Abbasi re: Response to Order to Show Cause (the "Response") [doc. 41], Mr. Abbasi states that Mr. Soliman paid the $5,283 retainer; not the Debtor. The Debtor has not filed an amended Disclosure of Compensation of Attorney for Debtor(s) showing that Mr. Soliman was the source of the compensation. On January 10, 2020, the Debtor filed an amended Disclosure of Compensation of Attorney for Debtor(s) [doc. 38]. However, it appears that this document was inadvertently filed in this case. The caption of that document indicates that it is for an unrelated chapter 11 case. Whether the Debtor or Mr. Soliman paid Mr. Abbasi, the Court has authority to order disgorgement of the fees.

#7.00 Order to show cause why this case should not be dismissed with a 180-day bar to refile for having been filed in bad faith

Tentative Ruling:

On January 23, 2020, the debtor's managing member, Fahd Soliman, filed a Declaration of Fahd Soliman re: Response to Order to Show Cause [doc. 51]. In that declaration, Mr. Soliman states "the Debtor's Chapter 11 case is no longer viable," that he "can no longer afford to pay for [the] mortgage" on the debtor's principal asset, i.e., commercial real property located in Ontario, California, and that "it is in the best interest of the Debtor, its creditors, and its estate to dismiss" this bankruptcy case.

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a), 349(a) and 1112(a), the Court will dismiss this case with a 180-day bar to the debtor's filing of another petition under any chapter of the Bankruptcy Code. Based upon the Court's review of the debtor's schedules and statement of financial affairs, the Court concludes that it is in the best interest of creditors and the estate to dismiss this case.

The Court will prepare the order.

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a), 329(b) and 330(a)(3), the Court will order Matthew Abbasi to disgorge the $5,283 he received as compensation for legal services provided in this case.

I. BACKGROUND

A. The Debtor's Schedules and Statements

On October 20, 2019, Amir & Leila, LLC (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. The Debtor concurrently filed its schedules and statements. The Debtor's petition was signed by the Debtor's proposed counsel, Matthew Abbasi.

In its belatedly filed status report [doc. 27], the Debtor represented that it owns, and rents out: (1) commercial real property located at 958 E Holt Blvd., Ontario, CA; and (2) residential real property located at 4995 E. Cherry Hills Dr., Palm Springs CA. However, in the Debtor's schedule G, filed on October 20, 2019 [doc. 1], the Debtor indicated that it had no unexpired leases.

In the Debtor's amended schedule G, filed on January 8, 2020 [doc. 46], the Debtor indicated that it has two unexpired leases, one on the commercial property and one on the residential real property. The Debtor filed the amended schedule G after the status conference on December 12, 2019, where the Court pointed out the numerous apparent inaccuracies and omissions in the Debtor's schedules.

In its amended schedule A/B, filed on November 21, 2019 [doc. 24], the Debtor indicated that it had no cash or cash equivalents.

In the Debtor's schedule E/F, filed on October 20, 2019 [doc. 1], the only unsecured creditor (priority and nonpriority) listed by the Debtor was the IRS, with a claim in the amount of $0.00.

Chapter 11

In its amended schedule D, filed on November 21, 2019 [doc. 25], the Debtor identified only two secured creditors - one secured by the Debtor's residential real property and one secured by the Debtor's commercial real property. Neither of these secured creditors were listed in the Debtor's original schedule D [doc. 1]. Instead, in its original schedule D, the Debtor indicated that it had no secured creditors, at all.

In its responses to Part 1 in its statement of financial affairs, filed on October 20, 2019 (the "SFA") [doc. 1], the Debtor indicated that it had no gross revenue and that it made no payments or transfers to creditors within 90 days before filing its petition.

The Debtor also represented, in its SFA, that no accountants or bookkeepers maintained the Debtor's books and records within 2 years before filing this case, that no firms or individuals were in possession of the Debtor's books and records when this case was filed, and that the Debtor had not issued a financial statement within 2 years before filing this case to any financial institutions, creditors or other parties.

In its SFA, item 28, the Debtor did not list any officers, directors, managing members, general partners, members in control, controlling shareholders, or other people in control of the Debtor at the time of the filing of this case.

On December 19, 2019 the Debtor filed an amended SFA (the "Amended SFA") [doc. 33]. The Debtor filed the Amended SFA after the status conference on December 12, 2019, where the Court pointed out the numerous apparent inaccuracies and omissions in the SFA. In contrast to the SFA, in the Amended SFA the Debtor represents that: (1) it received gross income in the amount of $73,400 from January 2019 to the petition date from operating a business; (2) it made six payments or transfers to creditors within 90 days before filing its petition in the aggregate amount of $9,116.26; (3) Mahdis Ekbatani is an accountant or bookkeeper who maintained the Debtor's books and records; and (4) Fahd Soliman is the managing member and 95% owner of the Debtor. The Debtor did not indicate who owns the other 5% of the Debtor.

In both of these monthly operating reports, the Debtor left these sections blank. The Debtor did not timely file its December 2019 monthly operating report.

C. The Status Conference Order

On November 6, 2019, the Court entered an Order Setting Hearing on Status of Chapter 11 Case and Requiring Report on Status of Chapter 11 Case (the "Order") [doc. 15]. Contrary to the Order, the Debtor has not provided: (a) evidence regarding the Debtor's actual income, expenses and cash flow for the last six months preceding the filing of this case on a month by month basis; or (b) a budget of the Debtor's projected income, expenses and cash flow for the first six months of this case on a month by month basis. Also contrary to the Order, the Debtor belatedly filed a status report [doc. 27].

D. Application to Employ Matthew Abbasi as Debtor in Possession Counsel and his Compensation

On December 30, 2019, 71 days after the petition date, the Debtor filed an application to employ Matthew Abbasi as debtor in possession counsel [doc. 43]. The Court has not granted that application.

On January 10, 2020, the Debtor filed an amended Disclosure of Compensation of Attorney for Debtor(s) [doc. 48]. That disclosure indicates that the Mr. Soliman paid Mr. Abbasi $5,283 as compensation for legal services provided in this chapter 11 case.

E. The Order to Show Cause

On December 12, 2019, the Court held a status conference in the above-captioned case. After the status conference, the Court issued an Order to Show Cause Why Debtor's Counsel Should Not Disgorge Fees (the "OSC") [doc. 39]. The OSC ordered any response to be filed by January 16, 2020.

[doc. 49]. In the Response, Mr. Abbasi states that from October 1, 2019 to December 31, 2019, Mr. Abbasi had to take a significant amount of time off work. Mr. Abbasi represents that he had to take care of his wife, who was injured giving birth to their child, and his children as his wife recovered. Mr. Abbasi represents that because he was taking care of his wife and children, his availability during that time was very limited. Mr. Abbasi states that he made matters more complicated by filing two chapter 11 cases within 48 hours.

Under Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 2014-1(b)(1)(E)—

A timely application for employment is a prerequisite to compensation from the estate. Therefore, an application for the employment of counsel for a debtor in possession should be filed as promptly as possible after the commencement of the case, and an application for employment of any other professional person should be filed as promptly as possible after such person has been engaged.

Based on the poor quality of services provided by Mr. Abbasi in this case, the Court will not approve his employment; he is not competent to be counsel for the debtor and debtor in possession. Consequently, Mr. Abbasi must disgorge the fees he received in this case.

I. BACKGROUND

A. The Debtor's Schedules and Statements

On October 21, 2019, 80 Flintlock Lane, LLC (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. The Debtor concurrently filed its schedules and statements.

In its belatedly filed status report [doc. 22], the Debtor represented that it owned one real property located at 80 Flintlock Lane, Bell Canyon CA 91307 (the "Bell Canyon Property").

In its Summary of Assets and Liabilities for Non-Individuals, filed on October 21, 2019 [doc. 1], the Debtor indicated that it had no assets, at all.

In the Debtor's schedule A/B, filed on October 21, 2019 [doc. 1], the Debtor indicated that, other than the Bell Canyon Property, it had no assets, including any cash or cash equivalents. For the Bell Canyon Property, the Debtor provided a net book value of $0.00 for the Debtor's interest in the Bell Canyon Property, and stated that the current value of the Debtor's interest in the Bell Canyon Property is "unknown."

In contrast, in the Debtor's amended Schedule A/B, filed on November 21, 2019 [doc. 18], the Debtor indicated that the current value of the Debtor's interest in the Bell Canyon Property is $500,000.00.

In its schedule D, filed on October 21, 2019 [doc. 21], the Debtor identifies one secured creditor, Mr. Cooper, with a secured claim in the amount of $766,666.00.

In the Debtor's schedule E/F, filed on October 21, 2019 [doc. 1], as priority unsecured creditors, the Debtor lists the Franchise Tax Board, the IRS and Ventura County Assessor's Office, each with claims in the amount of $0.00. The only nonpriority unsecured creditor listed by the Debtor is a foreclosure trustee.

In its schedule G [doc. 1], the Debtor represented that it has no unexpired leases. In its schedule H [doc. 1], the Debtor identified one codebtor, Ahmad Anthony Nowaid; the Debtor did not provide his mailing address.

In its statement of financial affairs, filed on October 21, 2019 (the "SFA") [doc. 1], the Debtor indicated that it has no revenue. The Debtor also represented that it had no losses from fire within one year before filing this case.

The Debtor also represented, in its SFA, that no accountants or bookkeepers maintained the Debtor's books and records within 2 years before filing this case, that no firms or individuals were in possession of the Debtor's books and records when this case was filed, and that the Debtor has not issued a financial statement within 2 years before filing this case to any financial institutions, creditors or other parties.

In its SFA, item 28, the Debtor did not list any officers, directors, managing members, general partners, members in control, controlling shareholders, or other people in control of the Debtor at the time of the filing of this case.

On December 19, 2019 the Debtor filed an amended SFA (the "Amended SFA") [doc. 27]. The Debtor filed the Amended SFA after the status conference on December 12, 2019, where the Court pointed out the numerous apparent inaccuracies and omissions in the SFA. In contrast to the SFA, in the Amended SFA the Debtor represents that: (1) it received gross income in the amount of $58,500 in 2018 and $32,500 in 2017 from "Lease of Property;" (2) the Bell Canyon Property "suffered smoke and related damages" in November 2018; the Debtor valued the property lost as unknown; (3) Shahrad Tadayon is an accountant or bookkeeper who maintained the Debtor's books and records; and (4) Anthony Nowaid is the managing member and 100% owner of the Debtor.

Based on a bank statement attached to its November 2019 monthly operating report, on November 4, 2019, the Debtor made a deposit into its bank account in the amount of $1,108.69. The source of that deposit is unclear.

C. The Status Conference Order

On November 6, 2019, the Court entered an Order Setting Hearing on Status of Chapter 11 Case and Requiring Report on Status of Chapter 11 Case (the "Order") [doc. 7]. Contrary to the Order, the Debtor has not provided: (a) evidence regarding the Debtor's actual income, expenses and cash flow for the last six months preceding the filing of this case on a month by month basis; or (b) a budget of the Debtor's projected income, expenses and cash flow for the first six months of this case on a month by month basis.

of 'cause' has been made, a choice must be made between conversion and dismissal based on the 'best interests of the creditors and the estate.'" In re Nelson, 343 B.R. 671, 675 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2006). The bankruptcy court has discretion to dismiss or convert a chapter 11 case pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §1112(b). See In re Consolidated Pioneer Mortg. Entities, 264 F.3d 803, 806 (9th Cir. 2001) ("The decision to convert the [chapter 11] case to Chapter 7 is within the bankruptcy court's discretion."); and In re Silberkraus, 253 B.R. 890, 903 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2000) ("A bankruptcy court has broad discretion to convert or dismiss a chapter 11 petition for 'cause' under 11 U.S.C. § 1112(b).").

Here, there is cause to convert or dismiss this case pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1112(b)(4) (E) and (4)(F). Contrary to the Order, the Debtor has not provided: (a) evidence regarding the Debtor's actual income, expenses and cash flow for the last six months preceding the filing of this case on a month by month basis; or (b) a budget of the Debtor's projected income, expenses and cash flow for the first six months of this case on a month by month basis. Further, the Debtor did not timely file its December 2019 monthly operating report.

Moreover, given the Debtor's highly inaccurate representation that its initial schedules and statement of financial affairs were true and correct, made under penalty of perjury (signed by Anthony Nowaid, as "Manager"), having reviewed the information provided in the Debtor's schedules, SFAs and the chapter 11 case status conference report (such as, the Debtor has only one creditor of any significance - which creditor holds a lien against the Debtor's sole real property), it appears that this bankruptcy case was filed in bad faith.

In the Debtor's Response, Mr. Nowaid states that he did not have some of the needed information to complete the petition documents fully at the time of filing this chapter 11 case [Declaration of Anthony Nowaid re: Response to Order to Show Cause ("Nowaid Decl."), ¶ 4]. Instead of requesting an extension of time to file the case commencement documents, which this Court routinely grants, the Debtor made misrepresentations in its initial schedules and statements, signed under penalty of perjury. The Court cannot have confidence that the Debtor's statements in the Nowaid Decl., which are also signed under penalty of perjury, are accurate when the Debtor previously made inaccurate and misleading representations, signed under penalty of perjury.

In the Debtor's Response, Mr. Nowaid states that the Debtor does not generate any income and that the Bell Canyon Property requires extensive repairs [Nowaid Decl., ¶ 13]. Mr. Nowaid further states that he is paying for the Debtor's expenses including the payment of Mr. Abassi's fees for services related to this chapter 11 case. Id. However, in the Disclosure of Compensation of Attorney for Debtor(s) [doc. 1], the Debtor represented that it paid $5,783 to Mr. Abassi; not that Mr. Nowaid had done so. [FN1]

In light of the foregoing, it appears that dismissal of this chapter 11 case is in the best interest of creditors and the estate. From a review of the record, if the Debtor's case were converted, it does not appear that there would be sufficient assets in the Debtor's estate that could be administered for the benefit of creditors.

Further, it does not appear that the Debtor has sufficient income to make adequate protection payments or deed of trust payments regarding the debt secured by the Bell Canyon Property (which is overencumbered). Mr. Nowaid states that he is paying for the Debtor's expenses. The Debtor did not provide evidence of Mr. Nowaid's ability to make adequate protection payments or deed of trust payments or his ability to fund the purported extensive repairs to the Bell Canyon Property.

In the Debtor's Response, Mr. Nowaid represents that the secured creditor of the Bell Canyon Property has wrongfully began foreclosure proceedings on that property. If any foreclosure sale of the Bell Canyon Property does not take place in accordance with state law, the Debtor remains entitled to seek relief from the state court.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will dismiss the case with a 180-day bar to refileing.

The Court will prepare the order.

#11.00 Order to show cause why debtor's counsel should not disgorge fees

Docket 31

Tentative Ruling:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a), 329(b) and 330(a)(3), the Court will order Matthew Abbasi to disgorge the $5,783 he received as compensation for legal services provided in this case.

I. BACKGROUND

A. The Debtor's Schedules and Statements

On October 21, 2019, 80 Flintlock Lane, LLC (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. The Debtor concurrently filed its schedules and statements. The Debtor's petition was signed by the Debtor's proposed counsel, Matthew Abbasi.

In its belatedly filed status report [doc. 22], the Debtor represented that it owned one real property located at 80 Flintlock Lane, Bell Canyon CA 91307 (the "Bell Canyon Property").

In its Summary of Assets and Liabilities for Non-Individuals, filed on October 21, 2019 [doc. 1], the Debtor indicated that it had no assets, at all.

In the Debtor's schedule A/B, filed on October 21, 2019 [doc. 1], the Debtor indicated that, other than the Bell Canyon Property, it had no assets, including any cash or cash equivalents. For the Bell Canyon Property, the Debtor provided a net book value of $0.00 for the Debtor's interest in the Bell Canyon Property, and stated that the current value of the Debtor's interest in the Bell Canyon Property is "unknown."

In contrast, in the Debtor's amended Schedule A/B, filed on November 21, 2019 [doc. 18], the Debtor indicated that the current value of the Debtor's interest in the Bell Canyon Property is $500,000.00.

In its schedule D, filed on October 21, 2019 [doc. 21], the Debtor identifies one secured creditor, Mr. Cooper, with a secured claim in the amount of $766,666.00.

In the Debtor's schedule E/F, filed on October 21, 2019 [doc. 1], as priority unsecured creditors, the Debtor lists the Franchise Tax Board, the IRS and Ventura County Assessor's Office, each with claims in the amount of $0.00. The only nonpriority unsecured creditor listed by the Debtor is a foreclosure trustee.

In its schedule G [doc. 1], the Debtor represented that it has no unexpired leases. In its schedule H [doc. 1], the Debtor identified one codebtor, Ahmad Anthony Nowaid; the Debtor did not provide his mailing address.

In its statement of financial affairs, filed on October 21, 2019 (the "SFA") [doc. 1], the Debtor indicated that it has no revenue. The Debtor also represented that it had no losses from fire within one year before filing this case.

The Debtor also represented, in its SFA, that no accountants or bookkeepers maintained the Debtor's books and records within 2 years before filing this case, that no firms or individuals were in possession of the Debtor's books and records when this case was filed, and that the Debtor has not issued a financial statement within 2 years before filing this case to any financial institutions, creditors or other parties.

In its SFA, item 28, the Debtor did not list any officers, directors, managing members, general partners, members in control, controlling shareholders, or other people in control of the Debtor at the time of the filing of this case.

On December 19, 2019 the Debtor filed an amended SFA (the "Amended SFA") [doc. 27]. The Debtor filed the Amended SFA after the status conference on December 12, 2019, where the Court pointed out the numerous apparent inaccuracies and omissions in the SFA. In contrast to the SFA, in the Amended SFA the Debtor represents that: (1) it received gross income in the amount of $58,500 in 2018 and $32,500 in 2017 from "Lease of Property;" (2) the Bell Canyon Property "suffered smoke and related damages" in November 2018; the Debtor valued the property lost as unknown; (3) Shahrad Tadayon is an accountant or bookkeeper who maintained the Debtor's books and records; and (4) Anthony Nowaid is the managing member and 100% owner of the Debtor.

B. The Debtor's Monthly Operating Reports

In its monthly operating reports filed for October 2019 [doc. 23] and November 2019 [doc. 24], the Debtor did not complete Section IV - regarding payment to secured creditors, or Section V – regarding insurance coverage. In both of these monthly operating reports, the Debtor left these sections blank. The Debtor did not timely file its December 2019 monthly operating report.

C. The Status Conference Order

On November 6, 2019, the Court entered an Order Setting Hearing on Status of Chapter 11 Case and Requiring Report on Status of Chapter 11 Case (the "Order") [doc. 7]. Contrary to the Order, the Debtor has not provided: (a) evidence regarding the Debtor's actual income, expenses and cash flow for the last six months preceding the filing of this case on a month by month basis; or (b) a budget of the Debtor's projected income, expenses and cash flow for the first six months of this case on a month by month basis. Also contrary to the Order, the Debtor belatedly filed a status report [doc. 22].

Although the Debtor's counsel represents that it has provided the United States Trustee with the Debtor's 90-day income and expense projections [Declaration of Matthew Abbasi re: Response to Order to Show Cause, ¶ 13], he has not provided this to the Court.

D. Application to Employ Matthew Abbasi as Debtor in Possession Counsel and his Compensation

On December 20, 2019, 60 days after the petition date, the Debtor filed an application to employ Matthew Abbasi as debtor in possession counsel [doc. 33]. The Court has not granted that application.

On October 21, 2019, the Debtor filed a Disclosure of Compensation of Attorney for Debtor(s) [doc. 1]. That disclosure indicates that the Debtor paid Mr. Abbasi $5,783 as compensation for legal services provided in this chapter 11 case. [FN1]

On December 12, 2019, the Court held a status conference in the above-captioned case. Appearances were as noted on the record. After the status conference, the Court issued an Order to Show Cause Why Debtor's Counsel Should Not Disgorge Fees (the "OSC") [doc. 31]. The OSC ordered any response to be filed by January 16, 2020.

On January 19, 2020, Mr. Abbasi belatedly a response to the OSC [doc. 39], and on January 21, 2020, Mr. Abbasi filed a Declaration of Matthew Abbasi re: Response to Order to Show Cause (the "Response") [doc. 40]. In the Response, Mr. Abbasi states that from October 1, 2019 to December 31, 2019, Mr. Abbasi had to take a significant amount of time off work. Mr. Abbasi represents that he had to take care of his wife, who was injured giving birth to their child, and his children as his wife recovered. Mr. Abbasi represents that because he was taking care of his wife and children, his availability during that time was very limited. Mr. Abbasi states that he made matters more complicated by filing two chapter 11 cases within 48 hours.

II. DISCUSSION

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 329(a)—

- (a) Any attorney representing a debtor in a case under this title, or in connection with such a case, whether or not such attorney applies for compensation under this title, shall file with the court a statement of the compensation paid or agreed to be paid, if such payment or agreement was made after one year before the date of the filing of the petition, for services rendered or to be rendered in contemplation of or in connection with the case by such attorney, and the source of such compensation.

plan under chapter 11, 12, or 13 of this title; or
(2) the entity that made such payment.

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(3)—

In determining the amount of reasonable compensation to be awarded to an examiner, trustee under chapter 11, or professional person, the court shall consider the nature, the extent, and the value of such services, taking into account all relevant factors, including—

- (A) the time spent on such services;
- (B) the rates charged for such services;
- (C) whether the services were necessary to the administration of, or beneficial at the time at which the service was rendered toward the completion of, a case under this title;
- (D) whether the services were performed within a reasonable amount of time commensurate with the complexity, importance, and nature of the problem, issue, or task addressed;
- (E) with respect to a professional person, whether the person is board certified or otherwise has demonstrated skill and experience in the bankruptcy field; and
- (F) whether the compensation is reasonable based on the customary compensation charged by comparably skilled practitioners in cases other than cases under this title.

Under Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 2014-1(b)(1)(E)—

A timely application for employment is a prerequisite to compensation from the estate. Therefore, an application for the employment of counsel for a debtor in possession should be filed as promptly as possible after the commencement of the case, and an application for employment of any other professional person should be filed as promptly as possible after such person has been engaged.

compensation when an attorney fails to meet the requirements of [§§ 327, 329, 330, 331]." In re Lewis, 113 F.3d 1040, 1045 (9th Cir. 1997).

The Court has discretion to order the return of excess compensation when compensation received by the debtor's counsel exceeds the reasonable value of services rendered. 11 U.S.C. § 329(b); see also In re Spickelmier, 469 B.R. 903, 914 (Bankr. D. Nev. 2012) (finding that counsel for the debtor demonstrated "a lack of competence and diligence" which did "not deserve to be compensated").

"Services charged by a debtor's attorney which are of poor quality and/or which do not comply with the attorney's ethical duties are not reasonable and provide grounds for disgorgement of fees for purposes of § 329(b)." In re Smith, 436 B.R. 476, 483 (Bankr. N.D. Ohio 2010). "Improper conduct on the part of...attorneys has frequently been penalized by withholding compensation or reimbursement or both." In re Wilde Horse Enters., Inc., 136 B.R. 830, 844 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1991) (citing In re Rancho Motor Inn, Inc., 527 F.2d 1044, 1047 (9th Cir. 1975)).

First, Mr. Abbasi failed to file an application to be employed as debtor in possession counsel promptly, as required by LBR 2014-1(b)(1)(E). Second, Mr. Abbasi's services have been "of poor quality and... [did] not comply with [Mr. Abbasi's] ethical duties." Smith, 436 B.R. at 483. Regarding Mr. Abbasi's decision to file inaccurate schedules and statements, Mr. Abbasi states, in his declaration, that the Debtor did not provide him with all the information needed. If this was so, Mr. Abbasi should have filed a motion for an extension of time to file the case commencement documents, which the Court routinely grants. Furthermore, Mr. Abbasi had a duty to investigate the assets and liabilities of the Debtor prior to filing the schedules and statements.

Moreover, Mr. Abbasi's explanation that he had to take time off work to care of his wife and children, and that the matter was complicated by his decision to file two chapter 11 cases within 48 hours, is unavailing. Once Mr. Abbasi decided to appear on behalf of the Debtor, he was required to act diligently and competently on behalf of his client. Instead, Mr. Abbasi filed inaccurate and misleading schedules and statements, failed to file complete monthly operating reports as required by the UST guidelines and belatedly filed several documents, including the status report [doc. 22], the Response and the Debtor's response to a related order to show cause in this case.

Mr. Abbasi argues that the Court should vacate the OSC because "no one was prejudiced by [his] good faith errors" [doc. 40, ¶ 19]. However, the Debtor has been prejudiced by Mr. Abbasi's actions. The Court has issued an order to show cause why this case should not be dismissed with a 180-day bar to refiling for having been filed in bad faith [doc. 29] - a situation which was exacerbated because of the poor quality of Mr. Abbasi's legal services.

Based on the poor quality of services provided by Mr. Abbasi in this case, the Court will not approve his employment; he is not competent to be counsel for the debtor and debtor in possession. Consequently, Mr. Abbasi must disgorge the fees he received in this case.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will order Mr. Abbasi to disgorge the $5,783 he received from the Debtor or Mr. Nowaid as compensation for legal services provided in this case.

The Court will prepare the order.

FOOTNOTES

1. In the Declaration of Matthew Abbasi re: Response to Order to Show Cause (the "Response") [doc. 40], Mr. Abbasi states that Mr. Nowaid paid the $5,783 retainer; not the Debtor. The Debtor has not filed an amended Disclosure of Compensation of Attorney for Debtor(s) showing that Mr. Nowaid was the source of the compensation. On January 10, 2020, the Debtor filed an amended Disclosure of Compensation of Attorney for Debtor(s) [doc. 38]. However, it appears that this document was inadvertently filed in this case. The caption of that document indicates that it is for an unrelated chapter 11 case. Whether the Debtor or Mr. Nowaid paid Mr. Abbasi, the Court has authority to order disgorgement of the fees.

Movant (and any successors or assigns) may proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to foreclose upon and obtain possession of the property.

If recorded in compliance with applicable state laws governing notices of interests or liens in real property, the order is binding in any other case under this title purporting to affect the property filed not later than 2 years after the date of the entry of the order by the court, except that a debtor in a subsequent case under this title may move for relief from the order based upon changed circumstances or for good cause shown, after notice and hearing.

ARTEM GERASHCHENKOV

DEBTOR

Docket 8

Tentative Ruling:

Grant relief from stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

Movant (and any successors or assigns) may proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to obtain possession of the property.

The order is binding and effective in any bankruptcy case commenced by or against the debtor for a period of 180 days, so that no further automatic stay shall arise in that case as to the property.

The 14-day stay prescribed by FRBP 4001(a)(3) is waived.

Deny any other request for relief.

The movant's request for relief under 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(4) is denied, because section 362(d)(4) appears to be inapplicable. The movant is the owner of property, not a creditor whose claim is secured by an interest in the property, as specified in the statute.

Movant must submit the order within seven (7) days.

#14.00 Motion in individual case for order imposing a stay or continuing the automatic stay as the court deems appropriate

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

The Court will grant the motion on an interim basis up to the date of the continued hearing. The Court will continue this hearing to March 25, 2020 at 9:30 a.m. No later than February 12, 2020, the debtor must file and serve notice of the continued hearing on all creditors in accordance with Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7004(b)(3) and (h).

On January 31, 2020, Pensco Trust Company Custodian fbo Alan L Brooks, IRA ("Pensco"), a secured creditor, filed a timely opposition to the motion [doc. 20]. Pensco argues that the debtor has not overcome the presumption of bad faith as required by 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3)(C).

In his immediately preceding case, the debtor was not represented by counsel. In the pending case, the debtor has retained counsel, which is a change in the debtor's personal and financial affairs. The Court will continue this hearing in order to assess the debtor's ability to perform under his proposed chapter 13 plan.

The debtor must timely pay his: (A) February 2020 and March 2020 plan payments in the amount of $4,798.00 (as stated in the debtors' proposed chapter 13 plan) to the chapter 13 trustee [doc. 15]; (B) February 2020 and March 2020 deed of trust payments in the amount of $3,000.00 (as stated in his current schedule J) as to his residential real property [doc. 14]; (C) February 2020 and March 2020 deed of trust payments in the amount of $1,523.72 (as stated in Pensco's opposition) as to his commercial real property [doc. 20]; and (D) February 2020 and March 2020 homeowner's association ("HOA") payments on his residential real property in the amount of $380 (as stated in his current schedule J). No later than March 23, 2020, the debtor must file a declaration to demonstrate that he timely made his required post-petition deed of trust, HOA and chapter 13 plan payments.

In addition, the debtor's schedule I [doc. 14] indicates rental income in the amount of

#8.10 Order to show cause re: dismissal with a 180-day bar to refiling

Docket 4

Tentative Ruling:

The Court will dismiss this case with a 180-day bar.

On December 23, 2020, Prudential Equity Group ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition (the "First Case") [1:19-bk-13179]. On January 6, 2020, the Court issued an Order to Show Cause why the First Case should not be dismissed for failure to retain counsel pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 9011-2(a) (the "First OSC") [1:19-bk-13179, doc. 7].

On January 16, 2020, the Court held a hearing on the First OSC. Debtor appeared without counsel. At that time, the Court informed Zoraida Molina, who appeared on behalf of Debtor, that Debtor must retain counsel to proceed with a bankruptcy case.

On January 22, 2020, the Court entered an order dismissing the First Case based on Debtor's failure to retain counsel [1:19-bk-13179, doc. 14]. On the same day, Debtor filed a new chapter 7 petition. The petition was filed and signed by Ms. Molina. Once again, Debtor is not represented by counsel.

On January 24, 2020, the Court issued an Order to Show Cause why this case should not be dismissed for failure to retain counsel pursuant to LBR 9011-2(a) (the "OSC") [doc. 4]. In the OSC, the Court instructed Debtor to file a disclosure of compensation of attorney for Debtor by February 3, 2020, or the case would be dismissed with a 180-day bar.

As of February 4, 2020, a response to the OSC or disclosure of compensation form has not been filed. Consequently, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a) and 349(a), the Court will dismiss this case with a 180-day bar to Debtor's filing of another petition under any chapter of the Bankruptcy Code.

The Court will prepare the Order.

I. BACKGROUND

A. Debtor's Bankruptcy Filing and Prepetition History with the Delano Property

On July 30, 2015, Reza Fateh Manesh ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. David Seror was appointed the chapter 7 trustee (the "Trustee"). On August 12, 2015, Debtor filed his schedule A [doc. 26] and included real property located at 14520 Delano Street, Van Nuys, CA 91411 (the "Delano Property"). In his schedule A, Debtor stated that his wife, Shahla Tehrani Broomand, held a 20% separate property interest in the Delano Property.

Contrary to Debtor's statements in his schedule A regarding ownership of the Delano Property, prepetition, Reza Pour, a judgment creditor of Debtor, obtained a judgment from state court through which the state court held that Debtor owned the Delano Property and Ms. Broomand "had no valid right, title, or interest in the Delano Property" (the "State Court Judgment") [FN1]. In relevant part, the state court also held that the Delano Property was subject to Mr. Pour's judgment lien.

On November 2, 2015, Debtor attended a § 341(a) meeting of creditors. Hossein Fatehmanesh, Debtor's brother, also was present. At this meeting, Debtor testified that the Delano Property was generating rental income. Subsequently, Mr.

Fatehmanesh confirmed that he and Debtor had received $15,000 in security deposits and rental income from the Delano Property. Shortly after the § 341(a) meeting, the Trustee filed a motion for turnover, requesting that Debtor turn over the Delano Property and the related rental income and security deposits to the estate (the "Turnover Motion") [doc. 54].

On November 19, 2015, Debtor filed amended schedules and statements [docs. 66-71] and a motion to convert his case to a chapter 13 case [doc. 65]. In his amended schedule A [doc. 66], Debtor stated that he owns the Delano Property in fee simple. In his amended schedule C [doc. 67], Debtor claimed an exemption in the Delano Property. In his schedule I [doc. 68], Debtor stated that he receives $4,425.11 in monthly rental income from the Delano Property. Debtor also amended his Statement of Financial Affairs [doc. 69] to reflect yearly rental income from the Delano Property.

On December 21, 2015, the Court entered an order granting the Trustee's motion for turnover and instructing Debtor to turn over the Delano Property and all security deposits and postpetition rent related to the Delano Property [doc. 88]. Subsequently, the Court denied Debtor's request to convert this case [doc. 104].

B. The Trustee's Complaint against Mr. Fatehmanesh

On November 5, 2015, along with the Turnover Motion, the Trustee filed a complaint against Mr. Fatehmanesh (the "Fatehmanesh Action") [1:15-ap-01237-VK, doc. 1]. In the complaint filed in the Fatehmanesh Action, the Trustee requested that Mr. Fatehmanesh turn over the Delano Property as well as any related rents and security deposits generated from the Delano Property.

On November 29, 2016, the Court held trial in the Fatehmanesh Action. On January 11, 2017, the Court issued a ruling holding that the Delano Property is property of the estate and that Mr. Fatehmanesh does not have an interest in the Delano Property (the "Ruling") [doc. 35]. The Court relied on, among other things, the preclusive effect of the State Court Judgment; specifically, the Court held that Mr. Fatehmanesh (as well as Debtor and Ms. Broomand, who were parties to the action that led to the State Court Judgment) was bound by the State Court Judgment. On January 26, 2017, the Court entered judgment in favor of the Trustee (the "Judgment") [doc. 38], reiterating that Mr. Fatehmanesh "has no interest in the [Delano Property] and the [Delano] Property is property of the bankruptcy estate pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 541." Judgment, p. 2. The Court also awarded the Trustee attorneys' fees and costs as contempt sanctions under 11 U.S.C. § 105(a).

Mr. Fatehmanesh appealed the Judgment to the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel of the Ninth Circuit (the "BAP"). On February 6, 2018, the BAP issued a decision affirming the Judgment. Mr. Fatehmanesh then filed an appeal with the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. On August 8, 2019, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed the Judgment. On August 22, 2019, Mr. Fatehmanesh filed a petition for rehearing en banc. On September 23, 2019, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals entered an order denying Mr. Fatehmanesh's petition for a hearing en banc.

C. Debtor's Complaint against Mr. Pour

On August 30, 2017, Debtor filed a complaint against Mr. Pour (the "Complaint") [1:17-ap-01080-VK, doc. 1], asking the Court to set aside two renewals of the judgment held by Mr. Pour. On September 21, 2017, Mr. Pour filed a motion to dismiss the Complaint (the "Motion to Dismiss") [1:17-ap-01080-VK, doc. 4], asserting that, prepetition, a state court had disposed of a near identical complaint filed by Debtor against Mr. Pour. On December 6, 2017, the Court issued a ruling holding that this Court could not invalidate the state court's prior decision in favor of Mr. Pour [1:17-ap-01080-VK, doc. 13]. On December 21, 2017, the Court entered an order dismissing the Complaint [1:17-ap-01080-VK, doc. 16].

D. The Trustee's Motion to Sell the Delano Property

On January 14, 2020, the Trustee filed a motion to sell the Delano Property (the "Motion") [doc. 144]. In the Motion, the Trustee states that he does not dispute Mr. Pour's judgment lien against the Delano Property and that he intends to pay Mr. Pour from the sale proceeds. On January 23, 2020, Mr. Fatehmanesh and Ms. Broomand filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 148]. In the Opposition, Mr. Fatehmanesh and Ms. Broomand characterize themselves as the owners of the Delano Property and request that the Court stay any sale of the Delano Property to allow Mr. Fatehmanesh and Ms. Broomand to file a quiet title action in state court. In addition, Mr. Fatehmanesh and Ms. Broomand contend that the Trustee has not properly investigated whether Mr. Pour has a legitimate claim against the estate.

On January 30, 2020, the Trustee filed a reply to the Opposition (the "Reply") [doc. 150], noting that Mr. Pour has a judgment against Debtor and a judgment lien against the Delano Property, and that both the state court and this Court have repeatedly stated that the State Court Judgment is valid. The Trustee also states that neither Mr. Fatehmanesh nor Ms. Broomand has any legal interest in the Delano Property. On January 31, 2020, Mr. Fatehmanesh and Ms. Broomand filed an unauthorized sur-reply to the Reply [doc. 151]. The Court will not consider this sur-reply as Mr. Fatehmanesh and Ms. Broomand did not obtain permission from the Court to file a sur-reply.

II. ANALYSIS

Mr. Fatehmanesh and Ms. Broomand oppose the Motion on two bases, arguing that: (A) they are the owners of the Delano Property and intend to file a quiet title action in state court to obtain a determination regarding their ownership; and (B) the Trustee should investigate the legitimacy of Mr. Pour's claim against the estate.

As to the first argument, Mr. Fatehmanesh and Ms. Broomand are barred from relitigating the issues related to ownership of the Delano Property. Under California law, which applies to the State Court Judgment, "a final judgment, rendered upon the merits by a court having jurisdiction of the cause, is conclusive of the rights of the parties and those in privity with them, and is a complete bar to a new suit between them on the same cause of action." Burdette v. Carrier Corp., 158 Cal.App.4th 1668, 1681–82 (Ct. App. 2008). Under federal law, which applies to this Court's Judgment, claim preclusion applies where—

(1) the parties are identical or in privity; (2) the judgment in the prior action was rendered by a court of competent jurisdiction; (3) there was a final judgment on the merits; and (4) the same claim or cause of action was involved in both suits.

Rein v. Providian Fin. Corp., 270 F.3d 895, 899 (9th Cir. 2001). Under both California and federal law, claim preclusion bars relitigation of all issues that were or could have been raised in the prior actions. See Rein, 270 F.3d 895, 898-99 (federal law); Tensor Grp. v. City of Glendale, 14 Cal.App.4th 154, 160 (Ct. App. 1993) (California law).

Here, Debtor, Ms. Broomand and Mr. Fatehmanesh have had ample opportunity to assert their claims to the Delano Property. The state court, through the State Court Judgment, explicitly held that Ms. Broomand does not have an interest in the Delano Property. Subsequently, this Court, through the Ruling and the Judgment, held that Mr. Fatehmanesh is bound by the State Court Judgment and also does not have an interest in the Delano Property. The Court further held that the Delano Property is property of the estate. Both the State Court Judgment and this Court's Judgment are final judgments no longer subject to appeal. As such, Mr. Fatehmanesh and Ms. Broomand are barred from asserting an ownership interest in the Delano Property.

For the same reasons, Ms. Broomand and Mr. Fatehmanesh cannot challenge the validity of Mr. Pour's judgment lien. In the State Court Judgment, the state court held that Mr. Pour's judgment lien attached to the Delano Property. After Debtor attempted to relitigate the same issue before this Court by filing a complaint against Mr. Pour, the Court referenced the State Court Judgment and held that this Court does not have the power to overturn the State Court Judgment. Consequently, the issues of ownership of the Delano Property and the validity of Mr. Pour's judgment lien have been thoroughly litigated, and there are final judgments disposing of these issues. Neither Ms. Broomand nor Mr. Fatehmanesh has provided a legally sound reason to revisit the final judgments entered by this Court and the state court. The Court will not delay administration of this estate based on resurrected arguments already adjudicated by multiple courts.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will grant the Motion.

Chapter 11

#10.00 Motion for counsel of record, Levene, Neale, Bender, Yoo & Brill L.L.P., to withdraw as counsel for the Debtor And Debtor In Possession

Docket 139

Tentative Ruling:

Grant.

I. BACKGROUND

On January 16, 2019, Coast to Coast Holdings, LLC ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. Debtor retained Levene, Neale, Bender, Yoo & Brill L.L.P. ("Levene Neale") as its general restructuring counsel.

In its schedule A/B, Debtor scheduled a fee simple interest in real property located at 1140 Henry Ridge Motorway, Topanga, CA 90290 (the "Property") [doc. 13]. In an amended schedule D [doc. 60], Debtor indicated that Keystone Real Estate Lending Fund ("Keystone") holds a secured claim against the Property. In an amended schedule E/F, Debtor also listed a disputed claim asserted by Joseph Leonardi.

On August 13, 2019, Debtor filed a motion for approval of a compromise between Debtor and Debtor's principals, on the one hand, and Mr. Leonardi, on the other hand (the "Leonardi Agreement") [doc. 88]. Keystone was not a party to the Leonardi Agreement. As relevant to this matter, in the Leonardi Agreement, the parties agreed to release their claims against each other, with the exception of any vandalism claim against Mr. Leonardi, and Mr. Leonardi agreed to dismiss all legal proceedings, claims, liens, filings and notices against Debtor. On September 11, 2019, the Court entered an order approving the Leonardi Agreement [doc. 105].

On November 6, 2019, Debtor filed a proposed amended chapter 11 plan (the "Plan") [doc. 117] and related disclosure statement [doc. 118]. Through the Plan, Debtor stated that it intends to fund the Plan by selling the Property or, as an alternative, obtaining financing in the amount of $2.4 million.

On November 27, 2019, Keystone filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay (the "RFS Motion") [doc. 126]. In the RFS Motion, Keystone indicated that it has a secured claim totaling $2,193,167.02. Keystone also identified two other liens against the Property: (A) a $60,000 lien in favor of one of Debtor's principals pursuant to a settlement approved by the Court; and (B) a $69,032.73 tax lien. On December 18, 2019, the Court entered an order granting the RFS Motion, holding that there is no equity in the Property. The Court also noted that, because Keystone indicated it would reject the Plan and the Plan did not include an impaired, non-insider consenting class, the Property did not appear to be necessary to an effective reorganization. On December 19, 2019, the Court entered an order granting the RFS Motion [doc. 136].

On December 30, 2019, Debtor and one of its principals filed a complaint against Keystone in state court (the "State Court Action") [1:20-ap-01006-VK, doc. 1]. Debtor is represented by D'Attaray Law in the State Court Action. Through the State Court Action, Debtor asserts multiple causes of action under California law. On January 21, 2020, Keystone removed the State Court Action to this Court.

On January 3, 2020, Levene Neale filed a motion to withdraw as Debtor's counsel (the "Motion") [doc. 139]. According to Levene Neale, there is a conflict between Levene Neale and Debtor that has rendered Levene Neale's representation of Debtor impossible.

On January 23, 2020, Keystone filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 142]. In the Opposition, Keystone contends that Debtor is attempting to "game the system" by invoking the automatic dismissal provision of Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 2091-1(d), which prohibits limited liability companies like Debtor from appearing without counsel. Keystone argues that Debtor is attempting to remove this Court's jurisdiction over the removed State Court Action by dismissing this bankruptcy case. Keystone requests that the Court deny the Motion until Debtor complies with the Leonardi Agreement by dismissing a state court action against Mr. Leonardi and that, subsequently, the Court should convert this case to one under chapter 7. On January 30, 2020, Levene Neale filed a reply [doc. 144], stating that Levene Neale is not involved with the State Court Action or any other state court matters, and that Keystone cannot enforce compliance with the Leonardi Agreement.

Pursuant to the California Rule of Professional Conduct ("CRPC") 1.16(b)(4), a lawyer may withdraw from representing a client if:

- (4) the client by other conduct renders it unreasonably difficult for the lawyer to carry out the representation effectively....

Pursuant to CRPC 1.16(d):

A lawyer shall not terminate a representation until the lawyer has taken reasonable steps to avoid reasonably foreseeable prejudice to the rights of the client, such as giving the client sufficient notice to permit the client to retain other counsel, and complying with paragraph (e).

Courts have considered the following factors when evaluating a motion to withdraw: "(1) the reasons why withdrawal is sought; (2) the prejudice withdrawal may cause to other litigants; (3) the harm withdrawal might cause to the administration of justice; and (4) the degree to which withdrawal will delay the resolution of the case." CE Res., Inc. v. Magellan Grp., LLC, 2009 WL 3367489, at *2 (E.D. Cal. Oct. 21, 2015); see also Deal v. Countrywide Home Loans, 2010 WL 3702459, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Sept. 15, 2010); and Beard v. Shuttermart of Cal., Inc., 2008 WL 410694, at *2 (S.D. Cal. Feb. 13, 2008).

Here, there is cause to withdraw based on Levene Neale's assertion that there is an irreconcilable conflict with its client. Keystone does not dispute that there is cause to withdraw, but contends that the Court should deny withdrawal at this time to prevent dismissal of Debtor's bankruptcy case under LBR 2091-1(d).

However, Keystone has not articulated why dismissal of this action will prejudice any party, including Keystone. The Court granted the RFS Motion, allowing Keystone to proceed with foreclosure in state court. In addition, as noted by the Court in connection with the RFS Motion, Debtor is unlikely to confirm the Plan for lack of an impaired consenting class. Moreover, Keystone has not explained why conversion to a chapter 7 case would benefit unsecured creditors; the Court previously held that there is no equity in the Property and Debtor does not have any other significant assets that may be liquidated by a chapter 7 trustee.

Further, there is no good reason this Court should adjudicate the State Court Action. The State Court Action involves California law, and Keystone is as able to defend itself before the state court as it would before this Court. Finally, as noted by Debtor, to the extent the Leonardi Agreement requires Debtor to dismiss its action against Mr. Leonardi (Debtor preserved its right to pursue Mr. Leonardi for vandalism), Keystone was not a party to the Leonardi Agreement and does not have standing to enforce the Leonardi Agreement. Given that there is no reasonable prospect of reorganization and a chapter 7 case would not yield a distribution for unsecured creditors, dismissal of this case will not prejudice creditors. If the Court grants the Motion and Debtor does not have replacement counsel, the Court will dismiss this case pursuant to LBR 2091-1(d).

Sec 1307(c)(6)

Tentative Ruling:

The Court will continue this hearing to March 10, 2020 at 10:30 a.m.

On January 28, 2020, the debtors filed an opposition to the motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 58], an amended schedule I [doc. 71] and a declaration of current/post-petition income and expenses [doc. 72]. By February 25, 2020, the chapter 13 trustee must file a reply to the Opposition addressing the issues raised in the Opposition.

In the Opposition, the debtors contend that they cannot afford an increase in their plan payment as requested in the motion because, since 2018, their income has been reduced, and their expenses have been higher than anticipated. In the Opposition, one of the expenses the debtors identify is tuition for their son to attend Notre Dame High School, which is a private Catholic high school. The debtors represent that they paid $13,475.00 for tuition for Fall 2017 through Spring 2018 and $14,479.00 for tuition for Fall 2018 through Spring 2019.

Regarding the debtors' expense for religious school tuition, in a prior chapter 13 case, in connection with an objection to plan confirmation [Mark Efreem Rosenberg, 1:17-bk-13413-VK], the Court addressed this issue. The following is the analysis from the Court's ruling in that prior case:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 707(b)(2)(A)(ii)(IV),

[T]he debtor's monthly expenses may include the actual expenses for each dependent child less than 18 years of age, not to exceed $1,925 per year per child, to attend a private or public elementary or secondary school if the debtor provides documentation of such expenses and a detailed explanation of why such expenses are reasonable and necessary, and why such expenses are not already accounted for in the National Standards, Local Standards, or Other Necessary Expenses referred to in subclause (I).

"Generally, private school tuition is not a reasonably necessary expense." Id.; see also Webb, 262 B.R. at 690; Univest-Coppell Village, Ltd. v. Nelson, 204 B.R. 497 (E.D.Tex.1996). "When deciding whether private school education is reasonably necessary, bankruptcy courts examine the totality of the circumstances to determine whether the debtor's plan reflects a good faith effort to maximize repayment to creditors." Id. "Bankruptcy courts have considered both the circumstances of the private schooling and the terms of the debtor's proposed Chapter 13 plan." Id. "In particular, bankruptcy courts have examined whether debtors have chosen private school education only where a compelling circumstance exists, or have compensated for such an expense by eliminating other reasonably necessary expenses such as health insurance." Id.

In the Reply, the Debtor argues that the tuition expense is a reasonably necessary expense for a devout, Orthodox Jewish family. The Debtor contends that a Jewish education is not a preference; it is an imperative for the preservation of traditional rabbinic Judaism for future generations. Debtor further argues that he has made other sacrifices so that he can afford religious school tuition for his children.

There is no binding precedent in the Ninth Circuit regarding whether parochial school tuition is a reasonably necessary expense. In In re Cleary, 357 B.R. 369 (Bankr. Ct. S.C. 2006), the court examined this issue and in relevant part noted,

Prior to the enactment of BAPCPA the courts were split on the subject of reasonableness of private school tuition as a deduction from income to arrive at disposable income. The majority of cases reject private school tuition as a reasonably necessary expense; at least in the absence of educational necessity or special needs. Earlier decisions expressed the "view that a debtor's creditors should not pay tuition for the debtor's children." In re McNulty, 142 B.R. 106 (Bankr.D.N.J.1992); See also In re Jones, 55 B.R. 462 (Bankr.D.Minn.1985) (Expressing the view, no longer held in many circles, that the public education was of high quality.). The fulcrum was to balance "creditor's rights against the appropriate basic needs of the debtors and their dependents." Watson[, 403 F.3d] at 8.

The public policy notion that private school tuition is a luxury expense for the purposes of calculating available income under either the chapter 7 means test or for the disposable income analysis in confirming a chapter 13 plan is swept aside by BAPCPA. An allowable expense is that for "each dependent child less than 18 years of age, not to exceed [$1,925.00] per year per child, to attend a private or public elementary or secondary school if the debtor provides documentation of such expenses and a detailed explanation of why such expenses are reasonably necessary, and why such expenses are not already accounted for in the National Standards, Local Standards, or Other Necessary Expenses referred to in subclause (I)." § 707(b)(2)(A)(ii)(IV). For some purposes at least, Congress has set forth the public policy that private school tuition can be a reasonable and necessary expense.

Cleary, 357 B.R. at 373. Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 707(b)(2)(A)(ii)(IV), the Debtor is entitled to spend $1,925.00 annually for each of his three older children to attend a parochial school. That would be $481.25 per month. The Debtor is spending $1,414.58 per month. Thus, the Court needs to determine whether the remaining $933.33 is a reasonably necessary expense.

In Cleary, the court found that the debtor was not limited to the expense ceiling for private school tuition. 357 B.R. at 374. The court stated,

The Debtor and his family have shown long term enrollment at parochial schools. All of the children attend private school, save one—who plans to return to private school next year. The Debtor's wife attended private school. The Debtor and his wife have strongly held religious convictions. The Debtor's wife would not work outside the home (and did not do so for many years) except to provide additional income to pay for private school tuition. In fact, Mrs. Cleary's pay check is reduced by the amount of tuition for the couple's children who attend the elementary school where she works. The family's sacrifice of other basic expenses to fund private school tuition is noteworthy and, in this case, the deciding factor for the Court in approving the necessity and reasonableness of the expense for private school tuition. See In re Grawey, 2001 WL 34076376 (Bankr.C.D.Ill.2001)(private school tuition and belt-tightening in the context of the dischargeability of student loans—sacrifices other basic necessities such as health care insurance). Debtor, if his testimony and schedules are truthful, could file a chapter 7 petition and it is very likely that he would lose no assets to administration for creditors. He is curing a small arrearage on his home loan through the chapter 13 plan, but the amount is de minimis. Debtor is giving up furniture secured by purchase money loans. For these reasons the Court finds that private school tuition is a reasonable and necessary expense of the debtor.

Here, the Debtor has demonstrated long-term commitment to educating his children at parochial schools and deeply held religious convictions. The Debtor filed a declaration of Rabbi Eliezer Eidlitz regarding the importance of Jewish day school education for preserving Judaism [doc. 77]. Further, the Debtor has compensated by eliminating other reasonably necessary expenses. The Debtor has scheduled an expense for clothing, laundry and dry cleaning of only $75.00 per month for six people. The Debtor has stated his family's food expense, at $1,250.00, even though he could claim more. The Debtor has scheduled medical and dental expenses of $0.00 and a health insurance expense of $0.00 per month for six people. The Debtor has claimed an expense for entertainment of only $75.00 per month, a small emergency allocation of only $100.00 per month and $0.00 per month for home repair allocation. Further, the Debtor has increased the distribution to unsecured creditors by putting forward a 60-month plan and receiving contributions from his family to increase his income [doc. 86, Exh. 5]. The Second Amended Plan provides a 23% distribution to unsecured creditors.

In examining the totality of the circumstances, it appears that the Debtor has made a good faith effort to maximize repayment to creditors, and parochial school tuition is a reasonably necessary expense of the Debtor.

Although the Court will not limit the Debtor's expenses for private school to the statutory limit in 11 U.S.C. § 707(b)(2)(A)(ii)(IV), the entire $933.33 is not a reasonably necessary expense. The Debtor is paying more for parochial school than the debtors in any of the cases cited by the Debtor. The Court recognizes that the Debtor has spent less in some areas in order to afford parochial school education. The Trustee has a standard no-look food allowance of $250.00 per person per month [see doc. 79, Declaration of Mark Efrem Rosenberg, ¶ 12c.]. For a family of six, that would equal $1,500.00 per month. That is $250.00 more than the Debtor scheduled as an expense for food. Further, a reasonable budget for a family of six for clothing, laundry and dry cleaning would be $175.00 per month, which is $100.00 more than the Debtor scheduled as an expense. Accordingly, the Court finds that $350.00 of the $933.33 overage is reasonable and necessary, and the Debtor must commit an additional $583.33 in disposable income to the Second Amended Plan. The Court will sustain the Creditor's Second Objection in part on this point.

If the chapter 13 trustee is objecting to the debtors' religious school expense, in the reply, the chapter 13 trustee should take into account the standards set forth in In re Mark Efrem Rosenberg, 1:17-bk-13413-VK, as discussed above.

On December 9, 2019, the chapter 13 trustee (the "Trustee") filed a motion to dismiss Debtor's case for failure to make plan payments ("Motion to Dismiss") [doc. 133]. On December 23, 2019, Debtor filed an opposition to the Motion to Dismiss [doc. 134]. On January 14, 2020, the Court held a hearing on the Motion to Dismiss. Debtor's counsel did not appear.

On January 15, 2020, the Court issued an Order to Show Cause Why Debtors' Counsel Should Not be Sanctioned for Failure to Appear at Hearing on Trustee's Motion to Dismiss (the "OSC") [doc. 136], on the grounds that Debtor's counsel failed to appear at the hearing on the Motion to Dismiss as required by Local Bankruptcy Rule 3015-1(u)(1). Debtor's counsel was ordered to explain his failure to appear and file and serve on Debtor a written response to the OSC no later than January 28, 2020.

On January 20, 2020, Debtor filed a voluntary request for dismissal [doc. 139]. On January 23, 2020, the Court entered an order dismissing Debtor's chapter 13 case [doc. 141].

On January 20, 2020, Debtor's counsel timely filed his response ("Response") [doc. 140]. In his Response, Debtor's counsel states that he failed to calendar the January 14, 2020 hearing properly. Because the Motion to Dismiss has been resolved, the Court will discharge the OSC.

Appearances on February 11, 2020 are excused.

#89.00 Order to show cause why debtors' counsel should not be sanctioned for failure to represent the debtors in connection with a motion for relief from stay

Docket 45

Tentative Ruling:

The Court will continue this hearing to March 10, 2020 at 9:30 a.m.

On April 14, 2016, Rodolfo Cortes and Doris Cortes ("Debtors") filed a chapter 13 petition. On April 28, 2016, Debtors filed a "Rights and Responsibilities Agreement Between Chapter 13 Debtors and Their Attorneys" ("RARA") [doc. 16]. Among other things, the RARA provides that after Debtors' bankruptcy case is filed, their attorney, Glenn Ward Calsada, agrees to respond timely to all motions filed in this case, including motions for relief from stay.

On November 26, 2019, The Bank of New York Mellon filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay (the "RFS Motion") [doc. 43]. Debtors did not timely file a response. On January 22, 2020, the Court held a hearing on the RFS Motion, Mr. Calsada did not appear. However, Debtors did. The Court continued the hearing to February 19, 2020 in order for Debtors to file a response.

On January 22, 2020, the Court issued an Order to Show Cause Why Debtors' Counsel Should Not be Sanctioned for Failure to Represent the Debtors in Connection with a Motion for Relief from Stay [doc. 45], on the grounds that Debtors' counsel failed to appear at the hearing on the RFS Motion as required by Local Bankruptcy Rule 3015-1(u)(1) and the RARA. Debtors' counsel was ordered to explain his failure to appear and file and serve on Debtors a written response to the OSC no later than January 31, 2020.

On January 25, 2020, Debtors' counsel timely filed his response ("Response") [doc. 51]. In his Response, Debtors' counsel states that Debtors did not contact him regarding the RFS Motion prior to the January 22, 2020 hearing. Debtors' counsel states that if Debtors had contacted him, he would have appeared. On January 24, 2020, Debtor's counsel filed a response to the RFS Motion on behalf of Debtors [doc.

#90.00 Order to show cause why debtor's counsel should not be sanctioned for failure to appear at hearing on Trustee's motion to dismiss

Docket 56

Tentative Ruling:

On March 14, 2018, Andres Salcedo, Jr. ("Debtor") filed a chapter 13 petition. On August 13, 2018, Debtor's chapter 13 plan was confirmed [doc. 38].

On November 25, 2019, the chapter 13 trustee (the "Trustee") filed a motion to dismiss Debtor's case for failure to make plan payments ("Motion to Dismiss") [doc. 53]. On January 14, 2020, the Court held a hearing on the Motion to Dismiss. Debtor's counsel did not appear.

On January 15, 2020, the Court issued an Order to Show Cause Why Debtors' Counsel Should Not be Sanctioned for Failure to Appear at Hearing on Trustee's Motion to Dismiss (the "OSC") [doc. 56], on the grounds that Debtor's counsel failed to appear at the hearing on the Motion to Dismiss as required by Local Bankruptcy Rule 3015-1(u)(1). Debtor's counsel was ordered to explain his failure to appear and file and serve on Debtor a written response to the OSC no later than January 28, 2020.

On January 28, 2020, Debtor's counsel timely filed his response ("Response") [doc. 60]. In his Response, Debtor's counsel states that prior to that hearing, his office had reached out to the Debtor regarding the Motion to Dismiss, and Debtor has been unresponsive. Debtor's counsel also states that since that hearing, he has reached out to Debtor, but Debtor has been unresponsive. On January 28, 2020, Debtor's counsel withdrew Debtor's opposition to the Motion to Dismiss [doc. 59]. Based on the representations made in the Response and because Debtor's opposition has been withdrawn, the Court will discharge the OSC.

#92.00 Motion re: objection to claim number 4 by claimant Heriberto Perez

fr, 12/10/19

Docket 25

Tentative Ruling:

I. BACKGROUND

On March 20, 2018, Heriberto Perez filed a complaint in state court (the "State Court Complaint") against Joseph Lisi and Cynthia Lisi ("Debtors"), initiating state court case BC698597 (the "State Court Action"). Objection, Exhibit 1. Through the State Court Complaint, Mr. Perez alleges that Debtors were the "mutually agreed upon monitor" for their two year old granddaughter, Emma Victoria Perez ("Emma"). Opposition to Objection to Claim [doc. 28], Exhibit 2. Mr. Perez further alleges that, pursuant to a family court order, Debtors' daughter, Magdalena Lisi ("Magdalena"), was prohibited from having unsupervised visits with Emma based on, among other things, Magdalena's use of drugs and alcohol. Id., Exhibits 2-3.

According to the State Court Complaint, on May 27, 2016, Debtors allowed Magdalena to have unsupervised visitation time with Emma, at which time Magdalena, while heavily intoxicated, lost control of her vehicle. Id., Exhibit 2. Emma died as a result of the injuries sustained from the collision. Id.

On August 9, 2019, Debtors filed a chapter 13 petition. On October 8, 2019, Mr. Perez filed proof of claim no. 4-1, asserting an unsecured claim in the amount of $2,010,000 against the estate. The proof of claim is based on the allegations from the State Court Complaint.

On October 18, 2019, Debtors filed an objection to Mr. Perez's claim (the "Objection") [doc. 25]. In the Objection, Debtors request that the Court disallow Mr. Perez's claim on the basis that Debtors did not have a legal duty to supervise Mr. Perez's daughter. Debtors also argue that Mr. Perez did not attach any documentation in support of his proof of claim.

Chapter 13

On November 25, 2019, Mr. Perez filed an opposition to the Objection (the "Opposition") [doc. 28]. Mr. Perez asserts that there is a confidential family court order designating Debtors as monitors during Magdalena's supervised visits with Emma. Mr. Perez also asserts that Debtors owed a duty because they agreed to undertake supervision of Emma. Aside from the family court order requiring that Magdalena's visits be supervised, Mr. Perez also attaches a string of text messages between Mr. Perez and Debtors, through which the parties communicated about Emma's visits. Opposition, Exhibits 3-4. On December 3, 2019, Debtors filed a reply to the Opposition (the "Reply") [doc. 30], reiterating that Mr. Perez has not established a claim against the estate.

II. ANALYSIS

A. Debtors' Lack of Documentation Argument

As a preliminary matter, the Court will not disallow a claim based on a lack of documentation attached to the proof of claim. See In re Campbell, 336 B.R. 430, 436 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2005) ("[W]hen a debtor objects to a creditor's proof of claim that does not conform with Rule 3001(c) by including copies of the documentation on which it is based, the bankruptcy court should resolve the issues by reference to the usual burdens of proof associated with claims litigation."). Moreover, Mr. Perez attached documentation in support of his claim to the Opposition. In any event, the Court continued the hearing on the Objection to assess if Mr. Perez has a plausible claim against the estate; the Court is not weighing the evidence currently before the Court or otherwise adjudicating the issues related to Mr. Perez's claim.

B. Whether Debtors Had a Duty to Supervise the Child

"To state a claim for wrongful death, a plaintiff must plead (1) the tort (negligence or other wrongful act), (2) the resulting death, and (3) the damages, consisting of the pecuniary loss suffered by the heirs." Whooley v. Tamalpais Union High Sch. Dist., 399 F.Supp.3d 986, 1002-03 (N.D. Cal. 2019) (citing Lattimore v. Dickey, 239 Cal.App.4th 959, 968 (Ct. App. 2015)). Here, Mr. Perez's claim of wrongful death is based on negligence. Under California law—

Chapter 13

The elements of negligence are: (1) defendant's obligation to conform to a certain standard of conduct for the protection of others against unreasonable risks (duty); (2) failure to conform to that standard (breach of the duty); (3) a reasonably close connection between the defendant's conduct and resulting injuries (proximate cause); and (4) actual loss (damages).

Id., at 998–99 (internal quotations omitted).

Debtors contend that Mr. Perez has not stated a claim against the estate because Debtors did not owe a duty to Mr. Perez. However, the pertinent question is whether Debtors owed a duty to Emma. As to that issue, Mr. Perez contends that a confidential order from family court designated Debtors as supervisors during Magdalena's visits with Emma. Mr. Perez has not provided this order to the Court; as a result, the Court cannot assess whether a duty arose from any such order.

Nevertheless, even without the order, Mr. Perez has stated a cognizable claim against Debtors. Generally, there is "no duty to act to protect others from the conduct of third parties." Delgado v. Trax Bar & Grill, 36 Cal.4th 224, 235 (2005). However, "a volunteer who, having no initial duty to do so, undertakes to provide protective services to another, will be found to have a duty to exercise due care in the performance of that undertaking if" certain conditions are met. Margaret W. v. Kelley R., 139 Cal.App.4th 141, 162 (Ct. App. 2006). Under California law—

A negligent undertaking claim of liability to third parties requires evidence that: (1) the actor undertook, gratuitously or for consideration, to render services to another; (2) the services rendered were of a kind the actor should have recognized as necessary for the protection of third persons; (3) the actor failed to exercise reasonable care in the performance of the undertaking; (4) the actor's failure to exercise reasonable care resulted in physical harm to the third persons; and (5) either (a) the actor's carelessness increased the risk of such harm, or (b) the actor undertook to perform a duty that the other owed to the third persons, or (c) the harm was suffered because either the other or the third persons relied on the actor's undertaking.

Even if there is a special relationship based on, for example, an undertaking to protect a third party, "the existence of a duty still requires that the harm be reasonably foreseeable." Margaret W., 139 Cal.App.4th at 153.

What is apparent from all these cases analyzing defendants' liability for the criminal conduct of a third party is that foreseeability is the crucial factor and that—no matter whether a heightened or lesser degree of foreseeability was required and no matter whether the actual crime committed or only similar conduct needed to be foreseen—foreseeability must be measured by what the defendant actually knew.

Id., at 156 (emphasis added).

Here, Debtors' declarations include testimony that they "did not become aware that Magdalena developed a drug and alcohol abuse problem until Magdalena was over the age of 18." Declaration of Joseph Lisi, ¶ 18; Declaration of Cynthia Lisi, ¶ 18 (emphasis added). Given that the accident occurred when Magdalena was over the age of 18, Debtors' testimony does not establish that they did not have knowledge about Magdalena's drug and alcohol abuse at the relevant times. Moreover, there is currently no evidence regarding the extent of Debtors' knowledge about the family court order requiring that all of Magdalena's visits be supervised, but Debtors do acknowledge that they spoke to social workers about Magdalena and Emma. Declaration of Joseph Lisi, ¶ 29; Declaration of Cynthia Lisi, ¶ 29. Further, the text exchanges between Mr. Perez and Debtors indicate that the parties were in constant communication about Emma's visits; notably, in a text message sent by Mr. Perez to Mr. Lisi prior to the accident, Mr. Perez states—

Joe [yo]u guys agreed to b[e] with Maggie and Emma at all times. If you or Cindy can't do that let me know so we could get someone else to monitor Maggie's visits with [E]mma.

Opposition, Exhibit 4. In light of this record, Mr. Perez has stated a plausible claim against the estate based on a negligent undertaking theory. Even without a court order designating Debtors as Emma’s monitors, Debtors may have voluntarily agreed to supervise Emma. If Debtors had actual knowledge sufficient to make Magdalena’s unsupervised actions foreseeable, Debtors may be held liable under the authorities above.

Of course, the Court does not have a complete record and, to demonstrate sufficiently that Debtors had actual knowledge, the parties likely will have to proceed to trial. At this time, the Court is only assessing if the record states a plausible claim against the estate. [FN1]. The Court does not intend to preclude adjudication of any of the issues herein by another court.

Given that this Court does not have the power to preside over a trial or otherwise liquidate Mr. Perez’s claim, 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(5), the parties should discuss whether they prefer a withdrawal of the reference to District Court or relief from the automatic stay to pursue this action in state court. Alternatively, the parties may elect to stay this matter and attend mediation prior to proceeding in a different forum.

III. CONCLUSION

The parties should be prepared to discuss how they intend to proceed.

1. The cases cited by Debtors involve fact intensive inquiries about foreseeability and the actual knowledge held by families of violent actors before particularly egregious conduct, such as sniping random passersby from a rooftop or escaping a facility and stabbing people in a nearby park. See Wise v. Superior Court, 222 Cal.App.3d 1008 (Ct. App. 1990); and Rice v. Center Point, Inc., 154 Cal.App.4th 949 (Ct. App. 2007). In those cases, neither the specific conduct nor the victims were held to be foreseeable. Those facts are not analogous to a case where the parents of the perpetrator allegedly undertook supervision of the victim and may have been aware of the perpetrator’s addiction and propensity for driving under the influence.

#2.00 Motion for relief from stay [RP]

U.S. BANK TRUST NATIONAL ASSOCIATION AS TRUSTEE OF BUNGALOW SERIES III TRUST
VS
DEBTOR

fr. 1/15/20

Docket 60

Tentative Ruling:

Deny. In the motion, the movant contends that the Court ruled in a related adversary proceeding, 1:17-ap-01069-VK (the "Adversary Proceeding"), that the real property at issue was not property of the estate. The movant argues that cause exists based on the Court's ruling in the Adversary Proceeding.

However, in the Adversary Proceeding, the Court did not rule that the real property at issue was not property of the bankruptcy estate. Further, the Court did not make a finding that there was a transfer of the real property from community property to separate property of Ms. Muennichow.

In the Adversary Proceeding, the Court ruled that, assuming there was a transfer of the real property, the chapter 7 trustee did not show that any such transfer was done with fraudulent intent. Because the movant did not allege any other grounds for relief in the motion, the Court will deny the motion.

Respondent must submit the order within seven (7) days.

#6.00 Motion in Individual Case for Order Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic Stay

fr. 1/22/20

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

At the prior hearing, held on January 22, 2020, the Court ordered the debtor to file and serve notice of the continued hearing and the deadline to file a written response on all creditors by January 28, 2020. It appears that the debtor did not timely file and serve such notice.

In addition, the Court ordered the debtor to lodge an order within seven days of the prior hearing. The debtor has not lodged any such order.

Ruling from January 22, 2020

The Court will grant the motion on an interim basis and continue the hearing to February 19, 2020 at 9:30 a.m.

The notice of the motion indicates that the motion is being heard on regular notice. However, the movant did not provide 21 days notice as required by Local Bankruptcy Rule 4001-1 and 9013-1(d).

By January 29, 2020, movant must file and serve notice of the continued hearing and the deadline to file a written response (14 days prior to the continued hearing) on all creditors in accordance with Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7004(b)(3) and (H).

Movant must submit the order within seven (7) days.

Case dismissed 2/11/20

Docket 18

Tentative Ruling:

Grant relief from stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

Movant (and any successors or assigns) may proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to foreclose upon and obtain possession of the property.

If recorded in compliance with applicable state laws governing notices of interests or liens in real property, the order is binding in any other case under this title purporting to affect the property filed not later than 2 years after the date of the entry of the order by the court, except that a debtor in a subsequent case under this title may move for relief from the order based upon changed circumstances or for good cause shown, after notice and hearing.

Grant movant's request to annul the automatic stay.

"Many courts have focused on two factors in determining whether cause exists to grant [retroactive] relief from the stay: (1) whether the creditor was aware of the bankruptcy petition; and (2) whether the debtor engaged in unreasonable or inequitable conduct, or prejudice would result to the creditor." In re National Environmental Waste Corp., 129 F.3d 1052, 1055 (9th Cir. 1997). "[T]his court, similar to others, balances the equities in order to determine whether retroactive annulment is justified." Id.

On January 19, 2019 at 9:00 a.m., movant conducted a foreclosure sale of the property [Declaration of Kelli J. Espinoza ("Espinoza Decl."), doc. 19, ¶ 6]. At the time of the foreclosure sale, movant was unaware of the debtor's bankruptcy petition. Movant became aware of the debtor's petition from a facsimile received on January 19, 2019 at 11:46 a.m.; subsequent to the foreclosure sale [Espinoza Decl., ¶ 6]. Consequently, retroactive relief from the automatic stay is appropriate in this case.

Moreover, the filing of this case appears to be part of a scheme to delay, hinder or defraud creditors. The original borrower, Carlos D. Orozco, and his wife have executed ten unauthorized grant deeds transferring a fractional interest in the property to nine different people for no consideration [doc. 18, Exhs. 5-13]. The debtor received his interest from one of these unauthorized grant deeds shortly before the petition date. In addition, this is the ninth case affecting the property since 2018 [Exh. 15].

The 14-day stay prescribed by FRBP 4001(a)(3) is waived.

Movant must submit the order within seven (7) days.

Note: No response has been filed. Accordingly, no court appearance by movant is required. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the Court will determine whether further hearing is required and movant will be so notified.

#11.00 Motion for relief from stay [AN]

MICHELE BIDINGER
VS
DEBTOR

Docket 99

Tentative Ruling:

Deny, for the reasons discussed below.

I. BACKGROUND

On January 13, 2016, Alexander Eshaghian ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 13 petition. On June 24, 2016, Debtor's chapter 13 plan was confirmed [doc. 40].

Debtor is the owner of a medical office that has several employees. One of those employees was Michele Bidinger ("Movant"). On October 5, 2017, Movant filed a complaint with the Department of Fair Employment and Housing (the "DFEH") against Debtor for claims that allegedly arose postpetition.

On August 8, 2018, Movant filed a Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay Under 11 U.S.C. § 362 (Action in Non-Bankruptcy Forum) (the "First RFS Motion") [doc. 78]. On September 27, 2018, the Court entered an order granting the First RFS Motion to allow Movant to file a complaint with the DFEH [doc. 86]. However, that order stated that prosecution of the complaint was stayed pending further order of the Court. Id.

On December 6, 2018, Movant filed a request for assignment to the Court's mediation program [doc. 88]. On December 7, 2018, the Court entered an order granting that request and ordering the matter to mediation [doc. 89]. On June 4, 2019, the mediator filed a certificate regarding the conclusion of the mediation assignment, which stated that the parties did not settle [doc. 92].

On January 21, 2020, Movant filed a Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay Under 11 U.S.C. § 362 (Action in Non-Bankruptcy Forum) (the "Motion") [doc. 99]. In the Motion, Movant requests relief from the automatic stay to litigate to conclusion her claim in state court.

On January 30, 2020, Debtor filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 102]. In the Opposition, Debtor argues that, under the framework of the Curtis factors, Movant has not shown sufficient cause to grant the Motion. Additionally, Debtor argues that Movant is not entitled to the extraordinary relief she seeks in the Motion.

II. JUDICIAL STANDARD

11 U.S.C. § 362(a) provides, in relevant part:

Except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, a petition filed under section 301, 302, or 303 of this title, or an application filed under section 5(a)(3) of the Securities Investor Protection Act of 1970, operates as a stay, applicable to all entities, of—

(1) the commencement or continuation, including the issuance or employment of process, of a judicial, administrative, or other action or proceeding against the debtor that was or could have been commenced before the commencement of the case under this title, or to recover a claim against the debtor that arose before the commencement of the case under this title;

(3) any act to obtain possession of property of the estate or of property from the estate or to exercise control over property of the estate;

(4) any act to create, perfect, or enforce any lien against property of the estate . . .

Chapter 13

Under 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1), a court may grant relief from the automatic stay "for cause."

III. DISCUSSION

The automatic stay bars the commencement or continuation of any proceeding against a debtor based on a claim that arose prepetition. 11 U.S.C. § 362(a)(1). Here, Movant alleges that all claims arose postpetition. Accordingly, the automatic stay does not prevent Movant from proceeding to liquidate her claim against Debtor in state court.

The Court need not discuss the Curtis factors, as argued by Debtor, because they are inapplicable. The Court is not granting relief from the automatic stay for Movant to liquidate her claims; there is no automatic stay barring Movant from doing so.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, the automatic stay in Debtor's case bars "any act to obtain possession of property of the estate or of property from the estate or to exercise control over property of the estate." 11 U.S.C. § 362(a)(3). The automatic stay also bars "any act to create, perfect, or enforce any lien against property of the estate." 11 U.S.C. § 362(a)(4). Although Movant may proceed in state court against Debtor to liquidate her postpetition claim, the automatic stay prevents Movant from enforcing any judgment obtained in state court against property of Debtor's estate.

IV. CONCLUSION

As noted above, the automatic stay does not bar Movant from proceeding against Debtor in state court on account of her postpetition claim. However, the automatic stay bars enforcement of any judgment obtained in state court against property of Debtor's estate.

Accordingly, Movant may proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to enforce her remedies to proceed to final judgment in state court, provided that the stay remains in effect with respect to enforcement of any judgment against Debtor or property of Debtor's bankruptcy estate.

Deny request for annulment as moot. For the reasons discussed above, the automatic

#14.00 Status conference re: complaint for determination of the dischargeability of a claim

Tentative Ruling:

On December 21, 2017, the plaintiff filed a complaint against the defendant, requesting nondischargeability of the alleged debt owed to him pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2), (a)(3), (a)(4) and (a)(6) (the "Original Complaint") [1:17-ap-01111-VK, doc. 1]. On January 10, 2019, the Court entered an order dismissing the Original Complaint for failure to prosecute (the "Dismissal Order") [1:17-ap-01111-VK, doc. 18].

The Dismissal Order has not been vacated and remains in effect. Nevertheless, on December 10, 2019, the plaintiff filed another complaint, based on the same allegations as the Original Complaint, initiating this adversary proceeding.

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 41(b)—

If the plaintiff fails to prosecute or to comply with these rules or a court order, a defendant may move to dismiss the action or any claim against it. Unless the dismissal order states otherwise, a dismissal under this subdivision (b) and any dismissal not under this rule--except one for lack of jurisdiction, improper venue, or failure to join a party under Rule 19--operates as an adjudication on the merits.

(emphasis added). In light of the above, the Court intends to issue an Order to Show Cause why this adversary proceeding should not be dismissed in accordance with the Dismissal Order.

Tentative Ruling:

Amy L. Goldman, chapter 7 trustee – approve fees of $40,386.67 and reimbursement of expenses of $272.94, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 330, on a final basis. The trustee is authorized to collect 100% of the approved fees and reimbursement of expenses.

Lewis Brisbois also requested that the Court approve $12,881.50 in fees and $276.57 in reimbursement of expenses for services provided as general counsel to the chapter 11 trustee. reimbursement of expense.

11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(2) provides that the court may, on its own motion, award compensation that is less than the amount of the compensation that is requested.

11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(1)(A) provides that a court may award to a professional person employed under § 327 "reasonable compensation for actual, necessary services" rendered by the professional person. "In determining the amount of reasonable compensation to be awarded to the professional person, the court shall consider the nature, the extent and the value of such services, taking into account all relevant factors, including—(A) the time spent on such services; (B) the rates charged for such services; (C) whether the services were necessary to the administration of, or beneficial at the time at which the service was rendered toward the completion of, a case under this title; [and] (D) whether the services were performed within a reasonable amount of time commensurate with the complexity, importance, and nature of the problem, issue, or task addressed . . .". 11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(3). Except in circumstances not relevant to this chapter 7 case, "the court shall not allow compensation for—(i) unnecessary duplication of services; or (ii) services that were not—(I) reasonably likely to benefit the debtor's estate; or (II) necessary to the administration of the case." 11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(4)(A).

11 U.S.C. § 328(b) provides that an attorney may not receive compensation for the performance of any trustee's duties that are generally performed by a trustee without the assistance of an attorney. In re Garcia, 335 B.R. 717, 725 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2005) (holding that bankruptcy court did not abuse its discretion in refusing to compensate chapter 7 trustee's counsel for services rendered in connection with the sale of property of the estate and for preparing routine employment applications).

Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 2016-2(e)(2) provides a "nonexclusive list of services that the court deems 'trustee services.'" This list includes, among other activities: conduct 11 U.S.C. § 341(a) examination; routine investigation regarding location and status of assets; turnover or inspection of documents; recruit and contract appraisers, brokers, and professionals; routine collection of accounts receivable; routine documentation of notice of abandonment; prepare motions to abandon or destroy books and records; routine claims review and objection; monitor litigation; answer routine creditor correspondence and phone calls; review and comment on professional fee applications; and additional routine work necessary for administration of the

In Garcia, the BAP upheld the bankruptcy court’s refusal to approve fees for preparation of employment applications, observing that “absent a showing by applicant to the contrary, routine employment applications remain a trustee duty.” Garcia, 335 B.R. at 726. With respect to its holding, the BAP explained “a case trustee may only employ professionals for tasks that require special expertise beyond that expected of an ordinary trustee.” Id. at 727.

In accordance with Garcia and LBR 2016-2(f), the Court does not approve the fees billed by Lewis Brisbois while general counsel to the chapter 7 trustee for the services identified below. It appears that these fees are for services that are duplicative of those that could and should have been performed by the chapter 7 trustee, as a trustee.

#5.00 U.S. Trustee's motion to dismiss or convert case under 11 U.S.C. § 1112(b)

Tentative Ruling:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 1112(b)(1) and (b)(4)(C), (F) and (H), this case will be converted to one under chapter 7. Based upon the Court's review of the debtors' schedules of assets and liabilities and statement of financial affairs, filed on January 28, 2020, there may be assets in the debtors' estate that could be administered for the benefit of creditors. Accordingly, the Court concludes that it is in the best interest of creditors and the estate to convert this case to one under chapter 7. Moreover, the debtors may be eligible for a chapter 7 discharge.

The U.S. Trustee must submit an order within seven (7) days.

Note: No response has been filed. Accordingly, no court appearance by movant is required. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the Court will determine whether further hearing is required and movant will be so notified.

NATIONSTAR MORTGAGE LLC
VS
DEBTOR

Docket 23

Tentative Ruling:

Grant relief from stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

Movant (and any successors or assigns) may proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to foreclose upon and obtain possession of the property.

If recorded in compliance with applicable state laws governing notices of interests or liens in real property, the order is binding in any other case under this title purporting to affect the property filed not later than 2 years after the date of the entry of the order by the court, except that a debtor in a subsequent case under this title may move for relief from the order based upon changed circumstances or for good cause shown, after notice and hearing.

Grant movant's request to annul the automatic stay.

"Many courts have focused on two factors in determining whether cause exists to grant [retroactive] relief from the stay: (1) whether the creditor was aware of the bankruptcy petition; and (2) whether the debtor engaged in unreasonable or inequitable conduct, or prejudice would result to the creditor." In re National Environmental Waste Corp., 129 F.3d 1052, 1055 (9th Cir. 1997). "[T]his court, similar to others, balances the equities in order to determine whether retroactive annulment is justified." Id. Here, movant was unaware of the debtor's bankruptcy petition prior to the foreclosure sale on November 5, 2019. Regarding the movant's awareness, movant submitted a declaration testifying that it was not notified of the debtor's bankruptcy case until November 6, 2019, which was after the sale.

On May 29, 2019, the debtor filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. The debtor did not list an interest in the real property at issue in the debtor's schedules. Additionally, the debtor did not list the movant in the debtor's master mailing list. On May 27, 2019, a grant deed was allegedly executed whereby Baldev K. Singh and Baljit Singh purported to transfer a 15% interest in the real property at issue to the debtor, for no consideration [Exh. 11]. That grant deed was not recorded until November 5, 2019, the day of the foreclosure sale. The debtor never amended his or her schedules to include the subject property or master mailing list to include the movant. Consequently, retroactive relief from the automatic stay is appropriate in this case.

Moreover, the filing of this case appears to be part of a scheme to delay, hinder or defraud creditors. The original borrowers, Baldev K. Singh and Baljit Singh, have executed seven unauthorized grant deeds transferring a fractional interest in the property numerous different people for no consideration [Exhs. 5-11]. The debtor received his interest from one of these unauthorized grant deeds two days before the petition date. In addition, this is the eighteenth case affecting the property since 2015 [Exh. 13].

The 14-day stay prescribed by FRBP 4001(a)(3) is waived.

Any other request for relief is denied.

Movant must submit the order within seven (7) days.

Note: No response has been filed. Accordingly, no court appearance by movant is required. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the Court will determine whether further hearing is required and movant will be so notified.

I. BACKGROUND

A. Debtor's Bankruptcy Filing

On December 12, 2019, Olga Leyva ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. Although Debtor indicated in her petition that she lives at 14035 Astoria Street, #130, Sylmar, California 91342 (the "Sylmar Property"), Debtor identified her mailing address as 12522 Filmore Street, #104, Pacoima, California 91331 (the "Pacoima Property").

On December 20, 2019, Debtor filed her schedules and statements [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 8]. In her schedule A/B, Debtor indicated that she does not have an interest in any real property. In her schedule D, Debtor did not include any secured creditors. In her schedule G, Debtor indicated that she does not have any executory contracts or unexpired leases. In her Statement of Financial Affairs ("SOFA"), Debtor stated that she had lived at her current address in the last three years. Debtor also stated that she was not a party in any lawsuit, court action or administrative proceeding within one year of filing her petition.

B. The Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay to Proceed with the UD Action

On December 24, 2019, Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation ("Federal Home") filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay to proceed with an unlawful detainer action in state court (the "UD Action") as to the Sylmar Property (the "RFS Motion")

[Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 9]. In a declaration attached to the RFS Motion, an attorney representing Federal Home stated that one of the defendants in the UD Action, Juan Nungaray, was deemed a vexatious litigant in an order entered by a United States District Court (the "Vexatious Litigant Order"). Declaration of Agop Gary Arakelian ("Arakelian Declaration"), ¶ 18, Exhibit E. In the Vexatious Litigant Order, entered on November 20, 2019, the District Court stated—

The recent remand was the third time Defendant Juan Nungaray attempted to remove this case despite an absence of subject matter jurisdiction in this Court. Due to these removals, the unlawful detainer action filed on December 12, 2018 has still not proceeded to trial.

The Court agrees that Nungaray has removed the case multiple times for the purely vexatious reasons of delay and avoidance of a judgment on the merits. Under the circumstances, the Court finds that an... order would bar further removal of this case by anyone without a prior order of the federal court and would bar Nungaray from removing cases without prior order of the federal court given the high likelihood that he may attempt to replicate his delay tactics in the future.

The Court declares Juan Nungaray to be a vexatious litigant. The Clerk is not to file any notice of removal of a state court case by Nungaray without a prior order of a judge of this Court. The Court further orders that the Clerk not file any future notice of removal of [the UD Action], regardless of who files the removal, without a prior order of a judge of this Court.

Id. On December 9, 2019, shortly after entry of the Vexatious Litigant Order, Debtor had filed an answer in the UD Action asserting an interest in the Sylmar Property and referring to the Sylmar Property as her property. Arakelian Declaration, ¶ 19, Exhibit F. By that time, Mr. Nungaray had removed the UD Action four different times and obtained at least seven continuations of the trial in the UD Action. Arakelian Declaration, ¶¶ 13- 18. Three days later, Debtor filed her chapter 7 petition.

On January 22, 2020, the chapter 7 trustee submitted a report of no distribution, designating Debtor's case a no-asset case. On January 23, 2020, the Court entered an order granting the RFS Motion [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 18].

C. The Removal of the UD Action to this Court

On January 28, 2020, Debtor removed the UD Action to this Court, initiating this adversary proceeding. On January 29, 2020, the Court entered an Order to Show Cause (the "OSC") [doc. 2], requiring Debtor to serve a copy of the OSC on all other parties and to file a status report at least 14 days prior to the status conference. The defendants have not filed proof of service of the OSC or a timely status report. Neither party filed a response to the OSC.

II. ANALYSIS

A. The Removal Violated the Vexatious Litigant Order

In the Vexatious Litigant Order, the District Court explicitly prohibited any party from removing the UD Action without obtaining approval from a District Court judge. Neither Debtor nor any of the other defendants provided evidence of any such approval from a District Court judge. As such, this action will be remanded in accordance with the Vexatious Litigant Order.

B. Remand of this Matter to State Court is Appropriate

Even if the Vexatious Litigant Order did not mandate remand, the Court would remand this action to state court. "Bankruptcy courts have broad discretion to remand cases over which they otherwise have jurisdiction on any equitable ground." In re Enron Corp., 296 B.R. 505, 508 (C.D. Cal. 2003). 28 U.S.C. § 1452(b) provides, in pertinent part: "The court to which such claim or cause of action is removed may remand such claim or cause of action on any equitable ground." Courts generally consider up to fourteen factors in deciding whether to remand a case to state court. Enron, 296 B.R. at 508. Factors courts should consider in deciding whether to remand are:

- (1) the effect or lack thereof on the efficient administration of the estate if the

- Court recommends [remand or] abstention;
- (2) extent to which state law issues predominate over bankruptcy issues;
 - (3) difficult or unsettled nature of applicable law;
 - (4) presence of related proceeding commenced in state court or other nonbankruptcy proceeding;
 - (5) jurisdictional basis, if any, other than [section] 1334;
 - (6) degree of relatedness or remoteness of proceeding to main bankruptcy case;
 - (7) the substance rather than the form of an asserted core proceeding;
 - (8) the feasibility of severing state law claims from core bankruptcy matters to allow judgments to be entered in state court with enforcement left to the bankruptcy court;
 - (9) the burden on the bankruptcy court's docket;
 - (10) the likelihood that the commencement of the proceeding in bankruptcy court involves forum shopping by one of the parties;
 - (11) the existence of a right to a jury trial;
 - (12) the presence in the proceeding of nondebtor parties;
 - (13) comity; and
 - (14) the possibility of prejudice to other parties in the action.

Id., 508 n.2; see also In re Cytodyn of New Mexico, Inc., 374 B.R. 733, 738 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2007).

Here, the factors weigh heavily in favor of remanding this matter to state court. First, there is no effect on the administration of the estate. Debtor did not schedule the Sylmar Property as an asset of the estate and did not identify any liability related to the Sylmar Property. Debtor also did not indicate any leasehold or possessory interest in the Sylmar Property; in fact, it appears Debtor is receiving her mail at a different residential address. To the extent Debtor has any legitimate interest in the Sylmar Property, the chapter 7 trustee has submitted a report of no distribution and stated that there is no property available for distribution. As such, the UD Action will have no impact on this estate.

Moreover, the UD Action involves state law and there are no bankruptcy issues to adjudicate. As to comity, "[c]omity dictates that California courts should have the right to adjudicate the exclusively state law claims involving California-centric plaintiffs and California-centric transactions." Enron, 296 B.R. at 509. Here, the matter involves California-centric transactions. In addition, there is no jurisdictional basis other than 28 U.S.C. § 1334.

Next, this matter is "non-core." Core proceedings include all actions "arising under" title 11 or "arising in" a case under title 11. In re Marshall, 600 F.3d 1037, 1053 (9th Cir. 2010) aff'd sub nom. Stern v. Marshall, 564 U.S. 462, 131 S. Ct. 2594, 180 L. Ed. 2d 475 (2011). This action neither arises under title 11 nor arises in a case under title 11, in that this action can exist independently of Debtor's bankruptcy case. Nor is this action "inextricably intertwined" with administration of the bankruptcy estate. In re ACI-HDT Supply Co., 205 B.R. 231, 236-37 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1997); see also In re Harris, 590 F.3d 730, 739 (9th Cir. 2009).

Finally, there is a high likelihood of forum shopping and prejudice to Plaintiff. Given the Vexatious Litigant Order and the other facts above, it appears the defendants in the UD Action, particularly Mr. Nungaray, are using the removal process as a tool for delay. The Court will order the immediate remand of this matter to state court.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will remand this matter to state court.

The Court will prepare the Order.

#24.00 Defendant's motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim

Docket 4

Tentative Ruling:

Grant.

I. BACKGROUND

On August 20, 2019, Robert M. Gerstein ("Defendant") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On December 2, 2019, Greg Himes ("Plaintiff") filed a complaint against Defendant, requesting nondischargeability of the debt owed to him. On December 11, 2019, Plaintiff filed a first amended complaint (the "FAC") [doc. 3]. In the FAC, Plaintiff alleges—

In 2011, Plaintiff was asked by Defendant, who is the president of GGB Medical Management Services, Inc. ("GGB"), to design a software system to be used by UC Irvine Medical Center ("UCI") for creating invoices. At this time, UCI had issued a purchase order in the amount of $1,090,000 to GGB, and Plaintiff obtained a retainer of $2,000 per week to complete his work.

In 2012, GGB became erratic in its payments to Plaintiff and, on several occasions, Plaintiff suspended work until GGB paid its outstanding invoices. By March 2013, GGB stopped paying its invoices and had not paid its December 2012, January 2013 and February 2013 invoices. Unbeknownst to Plaintiff, on February 13, 2013, the City of Los Angeles had filed a tax lien against GGB in the amount of $105,772 and, on March 4, 2013, the Internal Revenue Service had issued a Notice of Levy in the amount of $756,932. At the same time, GGB was delinquent in its office lease payments in the amount of $105,482.97.

In January and February 2013, Plaintiff and Defendant exchanged email messages regarding the unpaid invoices. Defendant promised to pay the outstanding invoices so that Plaintiff would continue to provide services to GGB. On March 5, 2013, Defendant handwrote two company checks, payable to "Cash," and handed the checks to Plaintiff. After repeated failed attempts to cash the checks, Plaintiff sent a demand letter to Defendant.

In April 2014, Plaintiff sued Defendant in small claims court. In June 2014, the state court entered judgment in favor of Plaintiff in the amount of $7,145. As part of his collection efforts, Plaintiff has filed a lien against all of Defendant's real property in Los Angeles County and a California UCC lien on all of Defendant's personal property.

Moreover, following GGB's eviction in June 2013, GGB moved its employees, operations and business to ORS Medical Management, Inc. ("ORS"). Documentation reflected that Defendant was the president of both GGB and ORS. The assignment of GGB's business to ORS was a fraudulent transfer. In addition, Plaintiff holds the copyright to the software that he writes and his clients are given a non-exclusive license to use the software. Plaintiff allowed GGB, but not ORS, to use this non-exclusive license.

On these allegations, Plaintiff requests nondischargeability of the debt owed to him under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A) and (a)(4).

On January 6, 2020, Defendant filed a motion to dismiss the FAC (the "Motion") [doc. 4]. In the Motion, Defendant asserts: (A) Plaintiff has not stated a claim under § 523(a)(2)(A) because Plaintiff has not alleged that Defendant did not intend to pay Plaintiff; (B) Plaintiff alleges that Defendant was a transferor, not a transferee, such that a fraudulent transfer claim against Defendant is inappropriate; and (C) any copyright infringement claim is against ORS, not Defendant. On February 14, 2020, Plaintiff filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 9], asserting that the FAC includes sufficient allegations of fraud. In the Opposition, Plaintiff appears to argue that his claim under § 523(a)(2)(A) is based on the following allegations: (A) Defendant's unfulfilled promises to pay Plaintiff's invoices; (B) Defendant's transfer of checks with insufficient funds; (C) the fraudulent conveyance of GGB's assets to ORS; and (D) ORS's use of the copyright held by Plaintiff.

II. ANALYSIS

A. General Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 12(b)(6) Standard

A motion to dismiss [pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6)] will only be granted if the complaint fails to allege enough facts to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face. A claim has facial plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged. The plausibility standard is not akin to a probability requirement, but it asks for more than a sheer possibility that a defendant has acted unlawfully.

We accept factual allegations in the complaint as true and construe the pleadings in the light most favorable to the non-moving party. Although factual allegations are taken as true, we do not assume the truth of legal conclusions merely because they are cast in the form of factual allegations. Therefore, conclusory allegations of law and unwarranted inferences are insufficient to defeat a motion to dismiss.

In evaluating a Rule 12(b)(6) motion, review is "limited to the contents of the complaint." Clegg v. Cult Awareness Network, 18 F.3d 752, 754 (9th Cir. 1994). However, without converting the motion to one for summary judgment, exhibits attached to the complaint, as well as matters of public record, may be considered in determining whether dismissal is proper. See Parks School of Business, Inc. v. Symington, 51 F.3d 1480, 1484 (9th Cir. 1995); Mack v. South Bay Beer Distributors, Inc., 798 F.2d 1279, 1282 (9th Cir. 1986). in the complaint, or matters of judicial notice—without converting the motion to dismiss into a motion for summary judgment." United States v. Ritchie, 342 F.3d 903, 908 (9th Cir. 2003). State court pleadings, orders and judgments are subject to judicial notice under Federal Rule of Evidence 201. See McVey v. McVey, 26 F.Supp.3d 980, 983-84 (C.D. Cal. 2014) (aggregating cases); and Reyn's Pasta Bella, LLC v. Visa USA, Inc., 442 F.3d 742, 746 n.6 (9th Cir. 2006) ("We may take judicial notice of court filings and other matters of public record.").

Pursuant to Rule 9(b), "[i]n alleging fraud or mistake, a party must state with particularity the circumstances constituting fraud or mistake. Malice, intent, knowledge, and other conditions of a person's mind may be alleged generally." Allegations must be "specific enough to give defendants notice of the particular misconduct which is alleged to constitute the fraud charged..." Neubronner v. Milken, 6 F.3d 666, 671 (9th Cir. 1993). "[M]ere conclusory allegations of fraud are insufficient." Moore v. Kayport Package Exp., Inc., 885 F.2d 531, 540 (9th Cir. 1989).

Dismissal without leave to amend is appropriate when the court is satisfied that the deficiencies in the complaint could not possibly be cured by amendment. Jackson v. Carey, 353 F.3d 750, 758 (9th Cir. 2003); Lopez v. Smith, 203 F.3d 1122, 1127 (9th Cir. 2000).

B. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A)

To prevail on a § 523(a)(2)(A) claim, a plaintiff must prove by a preponderance of the evidence the following five elements:

- (1) misrepresentation, fraudulent omission or deceptive conduct by the debtor;
- (2) knowledge of the falsity or deceptiveness of his statement or conduct;
- (3) an intent to deceive;
- (4) justifiable reliance by the creditor on the debtor's statement or conduct; and
- (5) damage to the creditor proximately caused by its reliance on the debtor's statement or conduct

In re Weinberg, 410 B.R. 19, 35 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2009) (citing In re Slyman, 234 F.3d 1081, 1085 (9th Cir. 2000)).

Here, as noted above, Plaintiff appears to base his claim under § 523(a)(2)(A) on the following: (A) that Defendant did not honor his promise to pay Plaintiff; (B) that Defendant wrote bad checks; (C) that Defendant fraudulently conveyed GGB's assets to ORS; and (D) that ORS infringed on Plaintiff's copyright.

i. Allegations Related to Promises to Pay Plaintiff's Invoices

Regarding Plaintiff's first basis, Plaintiff has not adequately alleged that Defendant made his promises with fraudulent intent. Although intent may be alleged generally, Plaintiff does not specify which statements Defendant made with intent not to honor those statements. The FAC must establish that Defendant possessed fraudulent intent at the time the allegedly false representations or omissions occurred. See In re Lee, 536 B.R. 848, 855 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2015) ("The alleged misrepresentation must have occurred at the inception of the debt as an inducement for the debt.").

Here, although Plaintiff references several instances where Defendant promised to pay Plaintiff, those promises occurred after Plaintiff performed the services for which he was owed money. The FAC does not include sufficient allegations that Defendant initially induced Plaintiff to enter into their agreement, prior to Plaintiff performing his services, with an intent to defraud Plaintiff or with the knowledge that Defendant would not pay certain invoices. Plaintiff may amend the FAC to specify which representations or omissions Defendant made to induce Plaintiff to perform services for Defendant.

ii. Allegations Related to Issuance of Checks

Plaintiff also appears to allege that Defendant's issuance of checks without sufficient funds establishes a claim under § 523(a)(2)(A). Courts disagree as to whether writing a check without insufficient funds qualifies as a "representation" for purposes of § 523(a)(2)(A). See, e.g. In re Indzheyana, 2012 WL 6212698, at *6 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. Dec. 13, 2012) (summarizing the "great deal of confusion" in the Ninth Circuit as to this issue).

Nevertheless, whether the checks constitute a representation or not, Plaintiff has not adequately alleged that Defendant issued the checks with fraudulent intent or with knowledge that Defendant did not have sufficient funds in his bank account. In addition, by the time Defendant issued the checks, Plaintiff already had incurred the damages he requests by providing the services for which Plaintiff billed Defendant. As such, aside from the unclear allegations as to intent, Plaintiff has not adequately alleged that the checks without insufficient funds caused Plaintiff's damages. Plaintiff may amend the FAC to provide adequate allegations regarding intent, causation and damages.

iii. Allegations Based on Fraudulent Transfer

It is unclear from the FAC if Plaintiff is asserting a separate fraudulent transfer claim or if Plaintiff is attempting to base his § 523(a)(2)(A) claim on a fraudulent transfer. It also is unclear if Plaintiff is attempting to proceed under 11 U.S.C. § 548 or California law on fraudulent transfers. Either way, there are several issues with Plaintiff's allegations. First, an avoidance of the transfer to ORS would result in a reversion of assets to GGB, not to Defendant's bankruptcy estate. Second, even if there was a possibility of recovering property for the benefit of the estate, Plaintiff does not have standing to pursue such avoidance actions. See In re Parmetex, Inc., 199 F.3d 1029, 1031 (9th Cir. 1999).

Moreover, although Plaintiff may use fraudulent transfers as a basis for the "actual fraud" portion of § 523(a)(2)(A), Plaintiff is not relieved from alleging causation and damages. See Husky Int'l Elecs., Inc. v. Ritz, 136 S.Ct. 1581, 194 L.Ed.2d 655 (2016) (holding that fraudulent transfers may qualify as "actual fraud" for purposes of § 523(a)(2)(A)). Plaintiff has not adequately alleged causation or damages in the FAC. First, under California law, Plaintiff is likely limited to non-monetary damages as remedies for a fraudulent transfer. See Cal. Civ. Code § 3439.07 (setting forth available remedies of creditors). However, even if Plaintiff is entitled to a monetary judgment under a different theory not stated in the FAC, Plaintiff has not alleged any facts that would show how Plaintiff was damaged by the subject transfers. For instance, Plaintiff has made no allegations regarding the value of the allegedly transferred assets.

Finally, pursuant to Plaintiff's own allegations, Defendant is neither the transferor (identified as GGB in the FAC) or the transferee (ORS). Plaintiff has not referenced any theory of recovery that would allow Plaintiff to hold Defendant liable for transfers to which he was not a party. As such, Plaintiff has not stated a claim for relief based on a fraudulent conveyance. Plaintiff may amend the FAC to include additional allegations or theories that may result in nondischargeability of a debt owed to Plaintiff based on the allegedly fraudulent transfer.

iv. Allegations Based on Copyright Infringement by ORS

Finally, Plaintiff appears to allege that ORS's alleged copyright infringement also should be a basis for nondischargeability under § 523(a)(2)(A). However, the allegations in the FAC refer to ORS as the entity responsible for infringing Plaintiff's copyright. The FAC is devoid of any allegations that Defendant inappropriately used Plaintiff's copyright. Plaintiff is free to pursue any copyright infringement claims against ORS in the appropriate forum. This Court is not the appropriate forum for a proceeding between two nondebtor entities that will have no impact on Defendant's estate. As such, the Court will dismiss this claim without prejudice to Plaintiff pursuing any copyright infringement claims against ORS before a different court.

C. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(4)

A debt is nondischargeable for fraud or defalcation while acting in a fiduciary capacity "where (1) an express trust existed, (2) the debt was caused by fraud or defalcation, and (3) the debtor acted as a fiduciary to the creditor at the time the debt was created." In re Niles, 106 F.3d 1456, 1459 (9th Cir. 1997). Whether a relationship is a fiduciary one within the meaning of § 523(a)(4) is a question of federal law. Ragsdale v. Haller, 780 F.2d 794, 795 (9th Cir. 1986); see also In re Cantrell, 269 B.R. 413, 420 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2001) ("The definition of 'fiduciary capacity' under § 523(a)(4) is governed by federal law."). In the context of dischargeability, the fiduciary relationship must arise from an express or technical trust that was imposed before and without reference to the wrongdoing that caused the debt. Ragsdale, 780 F.2d at 796.

Under § 523(a)(4), the "scope of the term 'fiduciary capacity' is a question of federal law," but "the Ninth Circuit has considered state law to ascertain whether the requisite trust relationship exists." In re Honkanen, 446 B.R. 373, 379 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2011); Ragsdale, 780 F.2d at 796. "A trust under California law may be formed by express agreement, by statute, or by case law." Cantrell, 269 B.R. at 420.

Here, although Plaintiff references 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(4), the FAC does not include any allegations regarding whether Defendant qualified as a fiduciary under the definitions above. The FAC also does not include any allegations regarding embezzlement or larceny, nor would any claims for embezzlement or larceny apply to the general allegations in the FAC because the FAC is based mostly on unpaid services, not any transfer of Plaintiff's funds by Defendant. The Court will dismiss this claim.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will dismiss Plaintiff's copyright infringement claim against ORS without prejudice to Plaintiff filing the claim before a different, appropriate forum. The Court will otherwise dismiss the FAC with leave to amend.

If Plaintiff elects to proceed with this action, Plaintiff must file and serve a second amended complaint no later than March 31, 2020. Defendant must file and serve a response to the second amended complaint no later than April 14, 2020.

The Court will prepare the Order.

After reviewing the supplemental briefing [docs. 26 and 27], the Court will grant in part and deny in part the motion for the reasons discussed below.

I. BACKGROUND

A. Debtor's Bankruptcy Case

On December 18, 2018, Kenneth C. Scott ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 13 petition, initiating case 1:18-bk-13024-VK. In his schedule A/B, Debtor scheduled a 100% interest in My Private Practice, Inc. ("MPPI") and valued his interest at $0.00. Debtor also scheduled an interest in "monies in business account," valued at $17,274.00 (the "Funds"). In Debtor's latest-amended schedule C [Bankruptcy Case, doc. 35], Debtor claimed an exemption in the Funds pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure ("CCP") § 703.140(b)(5). In his schedule E/F, Debtor listed a pending lawsuit commenced by H. Samuel Hopper ("Plaintiff") in state court (the "State Court Action").

On February 20, 2019, Debtor attended his initial § 341(a) meeting of creditors (the "Meeting of Creditors") [doc. 20]. At the Meeting of Creditors, Debtor testified that: (A) MPPI was no longer operating and Debtor had organized a new corporate entity, Scott Psy.D; (B) he listed the Funds in his schedules as business-related property; (C) the Funds were in one of the corporate bank accounts; (D) Debtor was the sole shareholder of that corporation; and (E) after the petition date, Debtor paid the Funds, which amounted to the full balance of MPPI's corporate account, to himself. Id. at pp. 8-11.

On March 18, 2019, Plaintiff filed an objection to Debtor's claim of an exemption in the Funds (the "Objection to Exemption") [Bankruptcy Case, doc. 42]. In the Objection to Exemption, Plaintiff contended that: (A) Debtor does not qualify for a homestead exemption under CCP § 703.140(b)(1); (B) the Funds were property of MPPI and do not qualify as property of the estate that Debtor may exempt; and (C) Debtor has provided no evidence that he was entitled to a distribution of $17,274 from MPPI. On July 17, 2019, the Court entered an order overruling the Objection to Exemption (the "Exemption Order") [Bankruptcy Case, doc. 160]. In the Court's ruling [Bankruptcy Case, doc. 150], the Court noted, in relevant part:

Here, the Scott Declaration establishes that, as of the petition date, Debtor was the 100% shareholder of a subchapter S corporation, MPPI. As such, all the shares of MPPI became property of the estate as of the petition date. Under § 541(a)(6) and (a)(7), any proceeds or profits arising from those shares also constitute property of the estate.

In the Scott Declaration, Debtor states that, postpetition, Debtor received a distribution based on his interest in the shares. Rather than claim an exemption in the shares, Debtor claimed an exemption in this distribution, i.e., the Funds. . . . [F]or two reasons, Debtor properly claimed an exemption in the Funds. First, MPPI is a subchapter S corporation. . . . In the Scott Declaration, Debtor testified that he receives a yearly dividend based on profits generated by MPPI. Because MPPI is a subchapter S corporation, all of MPPI's profits flow through to Debtor as the sole shareholder.

Second, even if Debtor could not claim an exemption in the Funds directly, Debtor could have claimed a $17,274 exemption in the shares of MPPI under CCP § 703.140(b)(5). Such an exemption would have excluded $17,274 of the value of the shares from the estate. Consequently, whether Debtor claimed an exemption in the Funds or the shares is a distinction without a difference; either way, Debtor would have been entitled to exempt value in the amount of $17,274.

Because Debtor has established, through the Scott Declaration, that he receives a yearly distribution based on MPPI's profits, and there being no contradictory evidence, Debtor has met his burden of proving that he is entitled to an exemption in the Funds.

On March 13, 2019, Plaintiff filed a motion for relief from stay to proceed with the State Court Action (the "RFS Motion") [Bankruptcy Case, doc. 38]. On May 29, 2019, the Court entered an order denying the RFS Motion [Bankruptcy Case, doc. 121].

On March 26, 2019, Plaintiff filed an amended proof of claim for a nonpriority unsecured claim in the amount of $260,975.25 (the "Claim") [Claim 3-2]. On March 28, 2019, Debtor filed an objection to the Claim (the "Objection to Claim") [doc. 55]. On April 30, 2019, Plaintiff filed a response to the Objection to Claim (the "Response") [doc. 78]. In the Response, Plaintiff indicates that he agrees to amend the Claim to reflect his revised calculation of the Claim, as stated in the Response—$190,880.65. On May 14, 2019, the Court held a hearing on the Objection to Claim. At that hearing, the Court ruled that it would adjudicate the disputes regarding the Claim in connection with this adversary proceeding.

On August 28, 2019, Debtor filed an amended chapter 13 plan (the "Plan") [doc. 166]. In the Plan, Debtor proposes to pay $493.61 per month for 60 months, totaling $29,616.00. If confirmed, the Plan provides for the payment of 19.5% of nonpriority unsecured claims.

B. The Adversary Proceeding

On April 19, 2019, Plaintiff filed a complaint against Debtor and MPPI initiating this adversary proceeding (the "Complaint") [doc. 1]. On July 3, 2019, Plaintiff filed an amended complaint (the "FAC") [doc. 8] against Debtor, MPPI and Kenneth Scott, Psy.D, A Psychological Corporation ("Scott Psy.D.," collectively, "Defendants"). In the FAC, Plaintiff alleges, in relevant part [emphasis added]:

From April 2013 through June 2017, Defendants employed Plaintiff as a Psychological Assistant ("PA") subject to the California Labor Code. Because Plaintiff was not a licensed psychologist, he was not exempt from California's overtime and minimum wage laws.

In October 2014, Plaintiff and Defendants entered into a written employment agreement (the "Agreement"), which outlined a compensation scheme based on a graduated scale of percentages of the gross revenue Plaintiff generated for Defendants in each calendar month. However, throughout the course of his employment, Plaintiff was not compensated according to a "bona fide payroll program" and was unable to determine if he was being paid according to the Agreement because the statements Defendants provided him were insufficient. The pay statements provided to Plaintiff were rudimentary and incomplete. Additionally, between April 2013 and June 2017, Defendants failed to reimburse Plaintiff for business expenses, and between August 2015 and June 2017, Defendants failed to reimburse Plaintiff for work-related travel expenses.

Defendants also deducted payroll taxes in amounts not authorized by law without an itemized calculation of each type of payroll tax and not according to any W-4. On at least three instances, the entirety of Plaintiff's paycheck for a given period was deducted. Defendants also unlawfully underreported Plaintiff's gross income to state and federal tax authorities. Defendants defrauded Plaintiff by failing to withhold his payroll taxes in lawful and appropriate amounts, failing to pay those withheld taxes to government authorities as required by law on Plaintiff's behalf and by issuing fraudulent tax records on which Plaintiff relied to report and pay his annual income taxes.

On multiple instances between April 2013 and June 2017, in retaliation against Plaintiff's assertion of his rights to be paid lawfully and in accordance with the Agreement, Debtor either gave Plaintiff knowingly false assurances that all his employment and payroll practices were lawful and honest, or occasionally threatened to terminate Plaintiff. Between April 2013 and June 2017, Plaintiff reasonably relied on Debtor's assurances that Defendants' employment and payroll practices were routine and lawful in all respects and forbore seeking alternative comparable employment. Throughout his employment at MPPI, Plaintiff was never paid overtime as required by law.

On multiple occasions, Plaintiff complained to Debtor that he should be treated as a regular employee and not as an independent contractor. In response, Debtor either gave Plaintiff false assurances, or threatened to terminate Plaintiff based on what Debtor alleged was Plaintiff's breach of the Agreement.

On June 17, 2017, Plaintiff resigned from MPPI. In July 2017, Plaintiff secured alternative but lower paid employment as a PA with another employer. Plaintiff has suffered emotional distress as a result of his employment at and constructive termination from MPPI and has consequently sought psychological treatment.

On October 8, 2018, Plaintiff, Debtor and MPPI entered into a tolling agreement (the "Tolling Agreement"), tolling applicable statute of limitations through November 16, 2018. In the Tolling Agreement, the parties agreed that "any statute of limitations or statute of repose that had expired prior to October 8, 2018 shall not be resurrected or tolled by" the Tolling Agreement. On November 7, 2018, Plaintiff filed the State Court Action.

On February 20, 2019, at the 341(a) meeting of creditors, Debtor testified that he transferred the Funds from MPPI's business accounts to his personal use after the petition date. Debtor additionally testified that MPPI was no longer doing business and that he had formed a new corporation in January 2019, Scott Psy.D. Plaintiff believes Debtor transferred the Funds out of MPPI to frustrate Plaintiff's efforts to collect his unpaid wages from Defendants.

On July 23, 2019, Defendants filed a Motion to Dismiss Pursuant to Rules 8, 9, and 12 (the "Motion") [doc. 12]. In the Motion, Defendants argue: (1) the FAC is untimely; (2) the FAC does not meet the requirements of Fed. R. Civ. P. ("FRCP") 8 and Fed. R. Bankr. P. ("FRBP") 7008; (3) claims three through seventeen are not core proceedings and are not related to a claim under title 11; (4) 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(7) cannot be a basis for relief because Plaintiff is not a governmental agency; (5) Plaintiff's fraud claims do not meet the requirements of FRCP 9; (6) Plaintiff did not articulate the grounds for relief for annulment of transfer in fraud of creditors; (7) Plaintiff has no standing to pursue a conversion claim; and (8) some of the claims in the FAC are outside the applicable statute of limitations.

oral argument at the hearing, the Court ordered the parties to submit briefing and continued the hearing to February 5, 2020.

On December 16, 2019, Plaintiff filed a supplemental brief (the "Plaintiff's Supplemental Brief") [doc. 26]. In Plaintiff's Supplemental Brief, Plaintiff requests that the Court reconsider the Tentative Ruling on the following causes of action in the FAC: (A) waiting time penalties under Cal. Lab. Code § 203; (B) statute of limitations under Cal. Lab. Code §§ 226(f) and 1198.5(k); (C) declaratory relief concerning ownership of the funds (third cause of action); (D) annulment of transfers in fraud of creditors (fourth cause of action); (E) breach of contract (twelfth cause of action); (F) conversion (thirteenth cause of action); (G) injunctive relief under the UCL. In addition, Plaintiff argues that the Court must dismiss an entire cause of action rather than strike a portion of the allegations in the FAC. On January 6, 2020, Debtor filed a reply to Plaintiff's Supplemental Brief (the "Debtor's Supplemental Brief") [doc. 27].

II. DISCUSSION

Based on the Motion, the Opposition, the Reply, the Plaintiff's Supplemental Brief and the Debtor's Supplemental Brief, the Court will issue the following ruling. The Court will first address Defendants' procedural objections to the FAC, then Plaintiff's claims for monetary relief and lastly, Plaintiff's other claims that are potentially nondischargeable or otherwise request equitable relief.

A. Procedural Objections to the FAC

1. Subject Matter Jurisdiction over Claims Three Through Seventeen

In the Motion, Defendants argue that causes of action three through seventeen are not "core" proceedings and they do not otherwise relate to a claim under title 11; thus, the Court should dismiss these causes of action. Defendants contend that bankruptcy courts are not courts of general jurisdiction, and that although bankruptcy courts may hear matters involving debtors, the causes of action must involve some rights under title 11.

Parties cannot consent to subject matter jurisdiction. Clapp v. Commissioner, 875 F.2d 1396, 1398 (9th Cir. 1989) ("Subject matter jurisdiction cannot be conferred upon the court by consent or waiver."); and In re Marshall, 264 B.R. 609, 619 (C.D.

28 U.S.C. § 1334(b), with regard to bankruptcy cases and proceedings, provides that:

Except as provided by subsection (e)(2) and notwithstanding any Act of Congress that confers exclusive jurisdiction on a court or courts other than the district courts, the district courts shall have original but not exclusive jurisdiction of all civil proceedings arising under title 11, or arising in or related to cases under title 11.

"A matter arises under the Bankruptcy Code if its existence depends on a substantive provision of bankruptcy law, that is, if it involves a cause of action created or determined by a statutory provision of the Bankruptcy Code." In re Ray, 624 F.3d 1124, 1131 (9th Cir. 2010).

iii. Related to Jurisdiction

Bankruptcy courts also have jurisdiction over proceedings that are "related to" a bankruptcy case. 28 U.S.C. § 1334(b); In re Pegasus Gold Corp., 394 F.3d 1189, 1193 (9th Cir. 2005). A proceeding is "related to" a bankruptcy case if:

[T]he outcome of the proceeding could conceivably have any effect on the estate being administered in bankruptcy. Thus, the proceeding need not necessarily be against the debtor or against the debtor's property. An action is related to bankruptcy if the outcome could alter the debtor's rights, liabilities, options, or freedom of action (either positively or negatively) and which in any way impacts upon the handling and administration of the bankrupt estate.

Pegasus Gold Corp., 394 F.3d at 1193.

"[C]ivil proceedings are not within 28 U.S.C. § 1334(b)'s grant of jurisdiction if they... 'are so tangential to the title 11 case or the result of which would have so little impact on the administration of the title 11 case... Put another way, litigation that would not have an impact upon the administration of the bankruptcy case, or on property of the estate, or on the distribution to creditors, cannot find a home in the district court based on the court's bankruptcy jurisdiction.'" In re Wisdom, 2015 WL 2128830, at *10 (Bankr. D. Idaho May 5, 2015) (quoting 1 Collier on Bankruptcy, ¶ 3.01[3][e][v] (Alan N. Resnick & Henry J. Sommer eds., 16th ed. 2014)).

Here, the Court has "arising under" jurisdiction over claim three because the matter involves statutory provisions of the Bankruptcy Code. In claim three, Plaintiff requests that the Court enter an order declaring the true ownership of the Funds, and whether the Funds are part of Debtor's bankruptcy estate. This Court has jurisdiction to determine whether the Funds are property of Debtor's bankruptcy estate pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 541.

The Court does not have "arising under" or "arising in" jurisdiction over causes of action four through seventeen. There is no "arising under" jurisdiction because the matters do not involve any statutory provisions of the Bankruptcy Code. These matters also do not "arise in" the bankruptcy case because they can independently exist outside of bankruptcy and be brought in another forum. None of these causes of action alleged in the FAC are dependent or intertwined with the existence of Debtor's bankruptcy case or any issue therein.

However, the Court does have "related to" jurisdiction over these causes of action because litigation of the FAC will impact Debtor's bankruptcy estate. A judgment in favor of Plaintiff will affect Debtor's chapter 13 plan, including the percentage of nonpriority unsecured claims paid through that plan. Further, a determination that a debt was incurred through fraud is directly related to determining the dischargeability of that debt. As such, the Court will not dismiss the third through seventeenth causes of action in the FAC for lack of subject matter jurisdiction.

2. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 15

In the Motion, Defendants argue that the FAC should be dismissed because it is untimely under FRCP 15(a)(1). Pursuant to FRCP 15(a), applicable to this adversary proceeding through FRBP 7015—

(1) Amending as a Matter of Course. A party may amend its pleading once as a matter of course within:

(A) 21 days after serving it, or

(B) if the pleading is one to which a responsive pleading is required, 21 days after service of a responsive pleading or 21 days after service of a motion under Rule 12(b), (e), or (f), whichever is earlier.

(2) Other Amendments. In all other cases, a party may amend its pleading only with the opposing party's written consent or the court's leave. The court should freely give leave when justice so requires.

Here, Plaintiff filed the Complaint on April 19, 2019 and the FAC on July 3, 2019. Defendants filed a motion to dismiss the Complaint under FRCP 12(b) on May 31, 2019 [doc. 5]. Accordingly, in order for the FAC to be timely under FRCP 15(a)(1), Plaintiff must have filed the FAC by June 21, 2019. Because Plaintiff did not file the FAC until July 3, 2019, it is untimely.

However, courts have the discretion to grant or deny leave to amend a complaint. Swanson v. U.S. Forest Serv., 87 F.3d 339, 343 (9th Cir. 1996). "In exercising this discretion, a court must be guided by the underlying purpose of [FRCP] 15 to facilitate decision on the merits, rather than on the pleadings or technicalities." United States v. Webb, 655 F.2d 977, 979 (9th Cir. 1981). The factors courts commonly consider when determining whether to grant leave to amend are:

1. Bad faith;
2. Undue delay;
3. Prejudice to the opposing party; and
4. Futility of amendment.

Ditto v. McCurdy, 510 F.3d 1070, 1079 (9th Cir. 2007) (internal citations omitted).

Plaintiff missed the deadline to amend the Complaint as a matter of course by twelve days. The untimely filing of the FAC has not caused undue delay in this adversary proceeding. Further, Defendants do not appear to have suffered any prejudice. Additionally, the amendments that Plaintiff made to the Complaint are not futile. As such, pursuant to FRCP 15(a)(2), the Court will retroactively grant Plaintiff leave of court to file the FAC.

3. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8

In the Motion, Defendants argue that the FAC should be dismissed because Plaintiff failed to comply with FRCP 8 and FRBP 7008. Pursuant to FRCP 8(a)—

- (a) Claim for Relief. A pleading that states a claim for relief must contain:
 - (1) a short and plain statement of the grounds for the court's jurisdiction, unless the court already has jurisdiction and the claim needs no new jurisdictional support;
 - (2) a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief; and

(3) a demand for the relief sought, which may include relief in the alternative or different types of relief.

Pursuant to FRBP 7008—

[FRCP 8] applies in adversary proceedings. The allegation of jurisdiction required by [FRCP] 8(a) shall also contain a reference to the name, number, and chapter of the case under the Code to which the adversary proceeding relates and to the district and division where the case under the Code is pending. In an adversary proceeding before a bankruptcy court, the complaint, counterclaim, cross-claim, or third-party complaint shall contain a statement that the pleader does or does not consent to entry of final orders or judgment by the bankruptcy court.

Failure to satisfy the requirements of FRBP 7008 and FRCP 8(a) "is not fatal, especially when...the [c]ourt is able to determine its jurisdiction and the core nature of the claims asserted based upon the face of the [complaint]." In re Ward, No. 14-32939-BJH, 2017 WL 377947, at *6 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. Jan. 26, 2017), aff'd sub nom. In re Ward, 585 B.R. 806 (N.D. Tex. 2018).

Additionally, "the rules governing the form of pleading should be liberally construed, and motions to dismiss complaints based on pleading errors are to be disfavored. Courts adopting this view ignore the deficient format of the pleadings and instead focus on the substance of the document in determining whether the pleading substantially complies with the required elements of [FRCP] 8...." In re Bey, 2014 WL 4071042, at *3 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. Aug. 14, 2014) (citations omitted).

In the FAC, Plaintiff substantially complied with the required elements of FRCP 8(a) and FRBP 7008. Plaintiff indicated the name, number and chapter of Debtor's bankruptcy case. Plaintiff indicated that he consented to this Court's entry of final judgments on claims one and two. Plaintiff also indicated that those claims were "core" proceedings and that claims four through seventeen were "non-core" proceedings within the meaning of the Bankruptcy Code. Except as discussed below, each of the claims in the FAC contain a short and plain statement showing why Plaintiff believes he is entitled to relief. Further, the FAC contains a prayer for relief.

Contrary to FRBP 7008, Plaintiff did not indicate whether he does or does not consent to the entry of final judgment by this Court on all claims in the FAC. However, based on the face of the FAC, the Court is able to determine its jurisdiction and the nature of Plaintiff's claims. As such, the Court will disregard the deficient format of the FAC and focus on the substance of the pleading.

B. Application of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6)

A motion to dismiss [pursuant to [FRCP] 12(b)(6)] will only be granted if the complaint fails to allege enough facts to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face. A claim has facial plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged. The plausibility standard is not akin to a probability requirement, but it asks for more than a sheer possibility that a defendant has acted unlawfully.

We accept factual allegations in the complaint as true and construe the pleadings in the light most favorable to the non-moving party. Although factual allegations are taken as true, we do not assume the truth of legal conclusions merely because they are cast in the form of factual allegations. Therefore, conclusory allegations of law and unwarranted inferences are insufficient to defeat a motion to dismiss.

Fayer v. Vaughn, 649 F.3d 1061, 1064 (9th Cir. 2011) (internal quotation marks omitted); citing, inter alia, Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 547, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 167 L.Ed.2d 929 (2007); and Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678, 129 S.Ct. 1937, 173 L.Ed.2d 868 (2009)).

In evaluating a FRCP 12(b)(6) motion, review is "limited to the contents of the complaint." Clegg v. Cult Awareness Network, 18 F.3d 752, 754 (9th Cir. 1994). However, without converting the motion to one for summary judgment, exhibits attached to the complaint, as well as matters of public record, may be considered in determining whether dismissal is proper. See Parks School of Business, Inc. v. Symington, 51 F.3d 1480, 1484 (9th Cir. 1995); Mack v. South Bay Beer Distributors, Inc., 798 F.2d 1279, 1282 (9th Cir. 1986). "A court may [also] consider certain Ritchie*, 342 F.3d 903, 908 (9th Cir. 2003). State court pleadings, orders and judgments are subject to judicial notice under Federal Rule of Evidence 201. See McVey v. Visa USA, Inc., 442 F.3d 742, 746 n.6 (9th Cir. 2006) ("We may take judicial notice of court filings and other matters of public record.").

Here, Plaintiff requests that the Court take judicial notice of a certified copy of the transcript of Debtor's § 341(a) meeting of creditors on February 20, 2019 and a certified copy of the transcript of the hearing on the RFS Motion on May 15, 2019 [doc. 20]. The Court may properly take judicial notice of these documents.

Dismissal without leave to amend is appropriate when the court is satisfied that the deficiencies in the complaint could not possibly be cured by amendment. Jackson v. Carey, 353 F.3d 750, 758 (9th Cir. 2003); Lopez v. Smith, 203 F.3d 1122, 1127 (9th Cir. 2000).

C. Plaintiff's Causes of Action for Monetary Relief

1. Statute of Limitations

In the Motion, Defendants argue that many claims asserted in the FAC are barred by the applicable statute of limitations.

Regarding Plaintiff's claims for violations of the California Labor Code ("CLC"), generally, the statute of limitations for an action upon a liability created by statute, other than a penalty or forfeiture, is three years. Cal. Civ. Proc. ("CCP") § 338(a). However, violations of the CLC may also be actionable under California's Unfair Competition Law ("UCL"). Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et seq.

"A UCL action is an equitable action by means of which a plaintiff may recover money or property obtained from the plaintiff or persons represented by the plaintiff through unfair or unlawful business practices." Cortez v. Purolator Air Filtration Prod. Co., 23 Cal. 4th 163, 173 (2000). Under the UCL, an employee's recovery of unlawfully withheld wages and expenses and unlawful deductions to wages are proper restitutionary remedies. Cortez, 23 Cal. 4th at 168; Espejo v. The Copley Press, Inc., 13 Cal. App. 5th 329, 367–68 (Ct. App. 2017); Ordonez v. Radio Shack, No. CV 10-7060 CAS MANX, 2011 WL 499279, at *6 (C.D. Cal. Feb. 7, 2011) ("The Court further concludes that the UCL claim may be maintained to the extent it is predicated on plaintiff's claim under Sections 221 and 2802.").

Claims under the UCL are subject to a four-year statute of limitations. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17208; see also Cortez, 23 Cal. 4th at 178. The UCL's four-year statute "admits of no exceptions" and therefore applies even when the action is based on violation of a statute with a shorter limitations period. Cortez, 23 Cal. 4th at 178-79.

In the FAC, Plaintiff has asserted a UCL claim for, among other things, unpaid wages, unpaid business and travel expenses and unlawfully deducted general overhead expenses and payroll taxes. These claims are governed by the UCL's four-year statute of limitations, rather than the typical three-year statute of limitations for actions upon a liability created by statute. As discussed above, the Tolling Agreement, executed on October 8, 2018, extended deadlines that had not already expired. Consequently, Plaintiff's claims for unfair business practices that accrued prior to October 8, 2014 are barred. In the FAC, Plaintiff has not asserted claims for these causes of action prior to October 8, 2014. As such, these claims are not barred by the applicable statute of limitations.

Regarding Plaintiff's claims for reimbursement of lost wages and waiting time penalties, those claims are governed by the three-year statute of limitations for actions upon a liability created by statute. CCP § 338(a); Pineda v. Bank of Am., N.A., 50 Cal. 4th 1389, 1398 (2010) ("[A] single, three-year limitations period govern[s] all actions for section 203 penalties"). Under CLC § 202, an employer must pay an employee who resigns his or her wages within 72 hours. If the employer fails to timely pay those wages, the employer is liable for waiting time penalties under CLC § 203(a). The wages shall continue as a penalty from the due date at the same rate until paid, but not more than 30 days. Here, Plaintiff resigned on June 17, 2017. This is within the three-year period. As such, these claims are not barred by the applicable statute of limitations.

Regarding Plaintiff's claims for penalties, in his individual capacity, under CLC §§

1102.5(f), 98.6(b)(3), 1198.5(k) and 226(e) and (f), the statute of limitations for an action upon a statute for a penalty or forfeiture, if the action is given to an individual, or to an individual and the state, is one year. CCP § 340(a); Robles v. Agreserves, Inc., 158 F. Supp. 3d 952, 1004 (E.D. Cal. 2016) ("If a plaintiff attempts to obtain the statutory penalties provided by Labor Code § 226(e), then the one year statute of limitations of California Civil Code § 340(a) applies.").

Plaintiff's claims for penalties under CLC §§ 1102.5(f), 98.6(b)(3) and 226(e) are barred by the applicable statute of limitations. Plaintiff ceased employment with MPPI on June 17, 2017. Accordingly, the one-year statute of limitations expired on June 17, 2018. As discussed above, the Tolling Agreement, executed on October 8, 2018, extended deadlines that had not already expired. Consequently, the one-year statute of limitations was not tolled by the Tolling Agreement. The Court will dismiss these claims without leave to amend.

Plaintiff's claims for penalties under CLC §§ 1198.5(k) and 226(f) are not barred by applicable statute of limitations. Plaintiff alleges that on August 6, 2018, Plaintiff demanded a copy of his personnel file and a copy of his complete payroll and time records. Plaintiff's causes of action under CLC §§ 1198.5(b)(1) and 226(b) would not have accrued until at the earliest Plaintiff's demand for his records or at the latest when Defendants failed to comply by the deadlines set forth in the statutes. Using either date, the period is within the applicable one-year statute of limitations. The Court will not dismiss these claims.

Regarding Plaintiff's claims for breach of contract (twelfth cause of action), claims based on oral agreements are subject to a two-year statute of limitations, and claims based on written agreements are subject to a four-year statute of limitations. CCP §§ 339 and 337. In the FAC, Plaintiff alleges that Defendants breached a written agreement. Consequently, Plaintiff's claims for breach of contract that accrued prior to October 8, 2014 are barred.

Regarding Plaintiff's claim for wrongful termination in violation of public policy, this claim is subject to a two-year statute of limitations. CCP § 335.1; Prue v. Brady Co./San Diego, 242 Cal. App. 4th 1367, 1382 (2015). In the FAC, Plaintiff requests damages in the amount of back pay that he would have received had he remained employed with Defendants from June 18, 2017 through August 21, 2018. This period is within the two-year statute of limitations. As such, the Court will not dismiss this claim.

2. Application of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(a)(4)

In the Motion, Defendants argue that Plaintiff is asserting claims that are partially outside of the applicable statute of limitations. Defendants contend that Plaintiff should provide a more definite statement under FRCP 12(a)(4) to enable Defendants to answer the allegations in the FAC.

Rule 12(e) states in relevant part that "[a] party may move for a more definite statement of a pleading . . . which is so vague or ambiguous that the party cannot reasonably prepare a response. The motion must be made before filing a responsive pleading and must point out the defects complained of and the details desired."

A court may grant a Rule 12(e) motion when the pleading is "so vague or ambiguous that the opposing party cannot respond, even with a simple denial, in good faith or without prejudice to himself." Hicks v. Arthur, 843 F.Supp. 949, 959 (E.D. Pa. 1994) (quoting 5A Charles A. Wright and Arthur R. Miller, Federal Practice & Procedure, Civil 2d, § 1376 (1990)). "[Rule 12(e)] is concerned with defects in the complaint . . . Any inconsistency with other papers or lack of detail can be explored during the pretrial discovery phase of the litigation." Stanton v. Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co., 388 F.Supp. 1171, 1174 (S.D.N.Y. 1975).

"Rule 12(e) is designed to strike at unintelligibility rather than want of detail." Resolution Trust Corp. v. Dean, 854 F.Supp. 626, 649 (D. Ariz. 1994); Cox v. Maine Maritime Academy, 122 F.R.D. 115, 116 (D. Me. 1988); Woods v. Reno Commodities, Inc., 600 F.Supp. 574 (D.Nev. 1984). "Therefore, a rule 12(e) motion properly is granted only when a party is unable to determine the issues he must meet." Cox, 122 F.R.D. at 116 (citing Innovative Digital Equipment, 597 F.Supp. 983, 989 (N.D. Oh. 1984); and Usery v. Local 886, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, 72 F.R.D. 581, 582 (W.D.Okla. 1976)).

Here, the FAC is clear regarding the issues that Defendants must address in a responsive pleading. The FAC is not so vague, ambiguous or unintelligible such that Defendants cannot prepare a responsive pleading. Other than the statute of limitation issues discussed in this ruling, in the FAC, Plaintiff has not stated claims outside the applicable statute of limitation. Accordingly, the Court will not order a more definite statement under FRCP 12(a)(4).

3. Wrongful Termination in Violation of Public Policy (Tenth Cause of Action)

In the Motion, Defendants argue that Plaintiff has not stated a claim for relief for wrongful constructive termination because, in the FAC, Plaintiff admits that he resigned his position.

Under California law, "[c]onstructive discharge occurs when the employer's conduct effectively forces an employee to resign." Turner v. Anheuser-Busch, Inc., 7 Cal. 4th 1238, 1244–45 (1994). "Although the employee may say, 'I quit,' the employment relationship is actually severed involuntarily by the employer's acts, against the employee's will." Id. "As a result, a constructive discharge is legally regarded as a firing rather than a resignation." Id.

"In order to establish a constructive discharge, an employee must plead and prove, by the usual preponderance of the evidence standard, that the employer either intentionally created or knowingly permitted working conditions that were so intolerable or aggravated at the time of the employee's resignation that a reasonable employer would realize that a reasonable person in the employee's position would be compelled to resign." Id. at 1251.

In the FAC, Plaintiff alleges that throughout his employment at MPPI (from 2013 through 2017), Debtor and MPPI illegally withheld earned wages, illegally failed to reimburse business and travel expenses and illegally deducted general overhead expenses and payroll taxes. Plaintiff further alleges that on multiple occasions he made complaints to Defendants regarding these alleged violations of the CLC. On a FRCP 12(b)(6) motion, the Court must accept factual allegations as true. As such, in the context of ruling on the Motion, Plaintiff has alleged sufficient facts in the FAC to allege constructive discharge.

"Even after establishing constructive discharge, an employee must independently prove a breach of contract or tort in connection with employment termination in order to obtain damages for wrongful discharge." Id. (emphasis in original). "Apart from the terms of an express or implied employment contract, an employer has no right to terminate employment for a reason that contravenes fundamental public policy as expressed in a constitutional or statutory provision." Id. at 1252. "An actual or constructive discharge in violation of fundamental public policy gives rise to a tort action in favor of the terminated employee." Id.

Tort claims for wrongful discharge typically arise when an employer retaliates against an employee for: (1) refusing to violate a statute; (2) performing a statutory obligation; (3) exercising a statutory right or privilege; and (4) reporting an alleged violation of a statute of public importance. Id. at 1256.

In the FAC, Plaintiff asserts a cause of action for breach of contract. Additionally, Plaintiff asserts a cause of action for unlawful retaliation. Under his unlawful retaliation cause of action, Plaintiff alleges, among other things, that he was constructively terminated because of his complaints to Debtor and MPPI regarding their violations of the CLC. As such, in the context of ruling on the Motion, Plaintiff has alleged sufficient facts in the FAC to allege wrongful discharge.

4. Dischargeability of Claims

In the Motion, Defendants also argue that the tenth through twelfth and fourteenth through seventeenth causes of action should be dismissed with prejudice because the claims are dischargeable under 11 U.S.C. § 523. These causes of action are for violations of various sections of the CLC, breach of contract and unfair business practices.

As to Debtor, these claims appear to be dischargeable. However, that is not a reason for the Court to dismiss these causes of action on a FRCP 12(b)(6) motion. Further, these claims are not dischargeable by the non-debtor entities, MPPI and Scott Psy.D. See 11 U.S.C. § 524(e). [FN1] As stated above, the Court has subject matter jurisdiction over these causes of action. Also, Plaintiff has met his burden to allege enough facts in the FAC to state a claim that is plausible on its face for each of those causes of action. Moreover, Debtor filed the Objection to Claim, so the Court must adjudicate the validity and amount of the Claim, whether dischargeable or not. Accordingly, the Court will not dismiss those causes of action.

D. Dischargeability of Civil Penalties (First Cause of Action)

1. Impact of 11 U.S.C. § 1328

Chapter 13

In the first cause of action, Plaintiff requests that the Court enter a declaratory judgment stating that any civil penalties owed to Plaintiff as a result of Debtor's violations of CLC §§ 98.6, 226(f), 1102.5 and 1198.5 are not dischargeable. [FN2] Defendants argue that 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(7) cannot be a basis for determining that any civil penalties owed by Debtor to Plaintiff are nondischargeable, because Plaintiff is not a governmental unit.

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(7), a debt may be made nondischargeable in a bankruptcy action "to the extent such debt is for a fine, penalty, or forfeiture payable to and for the benefit of a governmental unit, and is not compensation for actual pecuniary loss, other than a tax penalty." (emphasis added). In 11 U.S.C. § 101(27), the Bankruptcy Code defines a "governmental unit" as the:

United States; State; Commonwealth; District; Territory; municipality; foreign state; department, agency, or instrumentality of the United States (but not a United States trustee while serving as a trustee in a case under this title), a State, a Commonwealth, a District, a Territory, a municipality, or a foreign state; or other foreign or domestic government.

Section 523(a)(7) encompasses traditional government fines. While it also may encompass criminal judgments ordering restitution to the debtor's victims, these judgments still are paid directly to a government agency. These judgments are considered "for the benefit of a government unit." Kelly v. Robinson, 479 US 36 (2004). "[T]he limitation of § 523(a)(7) to fines assessed 'for the benefit of a governmental unit' was intended to prevent application of that subsection to wholly private penalties such as punitive damages." Kelly, 479 U.S. at 51 n.13, 107 S.Ct. 353 (emphasis added); see also In re Warfel, 268 B.R. 205, 211 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2001).

However, in a chapter 13 case, when a confirmed chapter 13 plan is completed, a debt under § 523(a)(7) is dischargeable. 11 U.S.C. § 1328. commit to a plan to pay their creditors over a number of years rather than through a liquidation. Id. at 713. Section 1328(a) sets forth a list of debts that may be made nondischargeable in a chapter 13 proceeding. Section 523(a)(7) is not included. Having been omitted from that list, section 523(a)(7) does not make penalties nondischargeable in a chapter 13 case. In re Kozlowki, 547 B.R. 222, 231 (Bankr. E.D. Mich. 2016). Because Debtor filed his petition under chapter 13, if Debtor successfully confirms and completes the Plan, any civil penalties owed by Debtor, which are within the scope of § 523(a)(7) are dischargeable.

2. The Scope of 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(7)

Even if Debtor does not confirm and complete the Plan, under § 523(a)(7), Plaintiff has not stated a claim for relief that is plausible on its face. Plaintiff does not allege that any civil penalties, payable by Debtor, are due to and for the benefit of a governmental unit. Instead, he alleges that "[Plaintiff] is entitled to recover civil penalties from [Defendants]" for violations of the California Labor Code and that "a debtor may not discharge civil penalties which may be collected by a victim of certain statutory wrongs as defined by the legislature." FAC, ¶¶ 46-50.

Plaintiff is not a "governmental unit," as defined in § 101(27). As a result, any penalties owed directly to Plaintiff are not within the scope § 523(a)(7).

E. Claims under California's Private Attorney General Act of 2004

1. Application of 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(7)

In the Opposition, Plaintiff argues that "California Labor Code's provisions effectively deputize Plaintiff to sue and collect civil penalties on behalf of the State of California, rendering Plaintiff an agent of the State of California. As a state agent, Plaintiff is eligible to recover civil penalties that are non-dischargeable under [§] 523(a)(7)." Opposition, p. 9. In support of his position, Plaintiff cites to Medina v. Vander Poel, 523 B.R. 820 (E.D. Cal. 2015).

In Medina, the bankruptcy court held that the creditor's claims under California's Private Attorneys General Act of 2004 ("PAGA"), CLC § 2699, et seq., against a chapter 7 debtor were discharged under 11 U.S.C. § 727. The creditor appealed to the district court. In relevant part, the district court held that civil penalties under PAGA fall within the exception to discharge set forth in § 523(a)(7). Plaintiff's reliance on Medina is misplaced. Unlike the creditor's relevant claims in Medina, the FAC does not appear to be a PAGA action.

Pursuant to CLC § 2699(a), "any provision of this code that provides for a civil penalty to be assessed and collected by the Labor and Workforce Development Agency or any of its departments, divisions, commissions, boards, agencies, or employees, for a violation of this code, may, as an alternative, be recovered through a civil action brought by an aggrieved employee on behalf of himself or herself and other current or former employees pursuant to the procedures specified in Section 2699.3."

"The purpose of the PAGA is not to recover damages or restitution, but to create a means of 'deputizing' citizens as private attorneys general to enforce the Labor Code." Brown v. Ralphs Grocery Co., 197 Cal. App. 4th 489, 501 (2011), as modified (July 20, 2011). "The relief provided by the statute is designed to benefit the general public, not the party bringing the action." Huff v. Securitas Sec. Servs. USA, Inc., 23 Cal. App. 5th 745, 756 (Ct. App. 2018), reh'g denied (June 13, 2018), review denied (Aug. 8, 2018). "PAGA 'does not create property rights or any other substantive rights'" for private parties; statutory penalties imposed under the PAGA are paid mostly to the state. Medina, 523 B.R. 826-27; see also CLC § 2699(i) (75% distributed to the Labor and Workforce Development Agency, and the remaining 25% to aggrieved employees). Under PAGA, "[t]he plaintiff is not even the real party in interest in the action—the government is." Huff, 23 Cal. App. 5th at 757.

There are no separate individual claims in a PAGA action; the individual must bring a PAGA claim as a representative action on behalf of himself or herself and other aggrieved employees. Reyes v. Macy's, Inc., 202 Cal. App. 4th 1119, 1123–24 (2011) ("The PAGA statute does not enable a single aggrieved employee to litigate his or her claims, but requires an aggrieved employee 'on behalf of herself or himself and other current or former employees' to enforce violations of the Labor Code by their employers."). "The penalties that can be recovered in the action are those that can be recovered by state enforcement agencies under the Labor Code; they are separate from the statutory damages that can be recovered by an employee pursuing an individual claim for a Labor Code violation." Huff, 23 Cal. App. 5th at 756.

2. Required Exhaustion of Administrative Procedures

"Any plaintiff bringing a PAGA action must first exhaust the administrative procedures set forth in Cal. Labor Code section 2699.3." Estate of Harrington v. Marten Transp., Ltd., No. CV 15-1419-MWF (ASX), 2017 WL 5513635, at *3 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 6, 2017). "Among those procedures is the requirement that the aggrieved employee give notice to the Labor and Workforce Development Agency ("LWDA") and the employer of the specific provisions of the labor code alleged to have been violated." Id. "An aggrieved employee may only commence a civil action after he receives notice from the LWDA that it does not intend to investigate the violations, or, if no notice is provided, after 60 calendar days of the postmark date of his notice to the LWDA." Id. "At that time, the aggrieved employee may commence a civil action pursuant to Section 2699." Id. (internal quotations omitted).

Courts may dismiss PAGA causes of action for failure to exhaust the required administrative remedies. Id. (collecting cases). To plead compliance with the exhaustion requirements, a plaintiff should first list: (1) when the plaintiff notified the LWDA about the violations, (2) what, if any, response the plaintiff received from the LWDA, or (3) how long the plaintiff waited before commencing an action. Id.

Here, Plaintiff does not plead that he has complied with the procedural requirements in CLC § 2699.3. In the FAC, Plaintiff does not state: (1) when he notified LWDA about the alleged violations; (2) what, if any response he was given from LWDA; and (3) how long he waited before commencing this adversary proceeding. Moreover, Plaintiff did not bring the FAC on behalf of any other employees. [FN4]

3. Statute of Limitations

Even if Plaintiff complied with the procedural requirements in CLC § 2699.3, PAGA claims are restricted by a one-year statute of limitations. CCP § 340(a). An employee must provide notice to LWDA and the employer within one year of when the employee ceases working for the employer. CLC §§ 2699.3(a)(2) and (d); Crosby v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., 42 F. Supp. 3d 1343, 1346 (C.D. Cal. 2014). The "statute of limitations may be tolled up to 60 days (previously 33 days) to account for the period between when LWDA receives a PAGA complaint letter and when it provides notice to the aggrieved employee whether it grants permission for the aggrieved employee to initiate a civil action." Crosby, 42 F. Supp. 3d at 1346.

Accordingly, Plaintiff would have had to provide notice to LWDA by June 17, 2018. The statute of limitations then would be tolled, for 60 days, to August 16, 2018. As discussed above, the Tolling Agreement, executed on October 8, 2018, extended deadlines that had not already expired. At the latest, it appears that the statute of limitations period for any PAGA claims would have expired by August 16, 2018, and the Tolling Agreement would not have extended this statute of limitations period. Consequently, any claims under PAGA are barred.

For the reasons stated above, Plaintiff's entitlement to civil penalties (if any) is not within the parameters of § 523(a)(7). Consequently, for the first cause of action, Plaintiff has not stated a claim for relief under FRCP 12(b)(6), and the Court will dismiss that cause of action.

F. Declaratory Relief Concerning Nondischargeability of Fraud Damages
(Second Cause of Action)

In the second cause of action, Plaintiff seeks declaratory relief determining that a judgment entered in the State Court Action based on a finding of fraud would be nondischargeable under 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2) and/or (a)(4) "to the extent that [Debtor] is determined to have been acting in a fiduciary capacity when he fraudulently withheld incorrect amounts of payroll taxes from Plaintiff's paychecks, or to the extent that the court in the [State Court Action] determines that [Debtor] embezzled or stole those funds from Plaintiff's paychecks." [FN3] In the Motion, Defendants argue that it is unclear what Plaintiff is requesting, because this Court denied the RFS Motion. In the Opposition, Plaintiff reiterates that the second cause of action is not a cause of action under 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2) and/or (a)(4), but a request for declaratory relief.

For purposes of determining dischargeability, claims successfully reduced to judgments in state court may be given collateral estoppel effect in a bankruptcy court. Grogan v. Garner, 498 US 279, 284-85, 290 (1991). However, in order for collateral estoppel to apply, certain requirements must be met. See In re Harmon, 250 F.3d 1240, 1245 (9th Cir. 2001). Without the Court being able to review the judgment and the state court's findings, the Court cannot determine whether those requirements have been satisfied. Accordingly, the Court will dismiss the second cause of action.

G. Declaratory Relief Concerning Ownership of the Funds (Third Cause of Action)

In the third cause of action, Plaintiff requests that the Court enter an order declaring the true ownership of the Funds, and whether the Funds are part of Debtor's bankruptcy estate. Specifically, Plaintiff states that "[j]udicial intervention is required to determine the rights and obligations of each of the parties, including but not limited to [Debtor] and MPPI, as to whether MPPI owned at least $17,247.00 in cash maintained in a "business bank account" as of the [p]etition [d]ate herein and on relevant dates thereafter according to proof, or whether those funds were part of [Debtor's] bankruptcy estate in this proceeding." FAC, ¶ 65.

The Declaratory Judgment Act, 28 U.S.C. § 2201(a), provides in pertinent part:

In a case of actual controversy within its jurisdiction . . . any court of the United States, upon the filing of an appropriate pleading, may declare the rights and other legal relations of any interested party seeking such declaration, whether or not further relief is or could be sought. Any such declaration shall have the force and effect of a final judgment or decree and shall be reviewable as such.

"Declaratory relief is appropriate '(1) when the judgment will serve a useful purpose in clarifying and settling the legal relations in issue, and (2) when it will terminate and afford relief from the uncertainty, insecurity, and controversy giving rise to the proceeding.'" Flores v. EMC Mortg. Co., 997 F. Supp. 2d 1088, 1111 (E.D. Cal. 2014) (quoting Bilbrey by Bilbrey v. Brown, 738 F.2d 1462, 1470 (9th Cir.1984)).

"As an equitable remedy, declaratory relief is 'dependent upon a substantive basis for liability' and has 'no separate viability' if all other causes of action are barred." Flores, 997 F. Supp. 2d at 1111 (quoting Glue-Fold, Inc. v. Slatterback Corp., 82 Cal. App. 4th 1018, 1023, n. 3 (2000)). Chapter 13

After Plaintiff filed the Objection to Exemption, the Court determined that the funds were property of the bankruptcy estate because, as of the petition date, Debtor was the 100% shareholder of a subchapter S corporation, MPPI, and as such, all MPPI's profits flow directly through to Debtor as the sole shareholder. All shares of MPPI became property of the estate as of the petition date. Under § 541(a)(6) and (a)(7), any proceeds or profits arising from those shares also constitute property of the estate, i.e. the Funds. The Court also determined that Debtor was entitled to an exemption of the Funds. Additionally, the parties did not dispute that, on the petition date, the Funds were held in a business account.

This request for declaratory relief is essentially asking the Court to reconsider its ruling in the Exemption Order. However, Plaintiff did not file a motion for reconsideration of the Exemption Order or a notice of appeal. Because the Court already has determined issues identical to the third cause of action, the Court will dismiss the third cause of action, without leave to amend.

In the Plaintiff's Supplemental Brief, Plaintiff argues that by dismissing this cause of action, Plaintiff will be prejudiced. As the Court stated in its ruling on the Objection to Exemption [1:18-bk-13024-VK, doc. 150], allowing Debtor his claim of exemption does not prevent Plaintiff from obtaining a court determination that the distribution of the Funds from MPPI to Debtor was improper or from otherwise holding Debtor and/or MPPI liable to Plaintiff. Nothing in this ruling contradicts those statements.

H. Annulment of Transfers in Fraud of Creditors (Fourth Cause of Action)

In the fourth cause of action, Plaintiff requests that the Court "annul" MPPI's alleged fraudulent transfer of the Funds to Debtor. In the Motion, Defendants argue that Plaintiff does not articulate his grounds for relief for the fourth cause of action. Although Plaintiff did not articulate his ground for relief in the FAC, in the Opposition, Plaintiff indicates that he is moving under California's Uniform Voidable Transaction Act ("CUVTA"), Cal. Civ. Code ("CCC") §§ 3439, et seq.

Pursuant to CCC § 3439.05—

whose claim arose before the transfer was made or the obligation was incurred if the debtor made the transfer or incurred the obligation without receiving a reasonably equivalent value in exchange for the transfer or obligation and the debtor was insolvent at that time or the debtor became insolvent as a result of the transfer or obligation.

- (b) A creditor making a claim for relief under subdivision (a) has the burden of proving the elements of the claim for relief by a preponderance of the evidence.

"A plaintiff must make an affirmative showing that it was injured by a transfer in order to have statutory standing to pursue a fraudulent transfer claim under CUFTA." In re Blanchard, 547 B.R. 347, 353 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016); see also Fid. Nat. Title Ins. Co. v. Schroeder, 179 Cal. App .4th 834, 845 (Ct. App. 2009) ("A creditor has not been injured unless the transfer puts beyond reach property the creditor could subject to payment of his or her debt.") (emphasis in original).

In the FAC, Plaintiff alleges that before MPPI transferred the Funds to Debtor and/or Scott Psy.D, he held a claim against MPPI for various CLC violations. Plaintiff contends that MPPI transferred the Funds for no consideration; thus, it did not receive reasonably equivalent value in exchange for the Funds. Plaintiff asserts that MPPI had knowledge of Plaintiff's claim and transferred the Funds with actual intent to hinder, delay or defraud MPPI's creditors, including Plaintiff. Plaintiff also asserts that MPPI has incurred extensive indebtedness, and as a result of the transfer of the Funds, MPPI rendered itself insolvent. Plaintiff further alleges that Debtor received the Funds from MPPI, and that as CEO and sole shareholder of MPPI, Debtor had knowledge of Plaintiff's claims at the time of the transfer.

Plaintiff alleges this cause of action against Defendants. If Plaintiff is moving under CUVTA, as he indicated in the Opposition, he may be able to state a claim for relief under FRCP 12(b)(6) as to MPPI and Debtor, but not as to Scott.Psy.D.

FRCP 8(a)(2) requires that a pleading stating a claim for relief contain "a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief." The function of this pleading requirement is to "give the defendant fair notice of what the...claim is and the grounds upon which it rests." Bell Atl. Corp., 550 U.S. at 555.

The FAC does not state the legal basis for the cause of action against Defendants. As such, Defendants have not been provided with fair notice regarding Plaintiff's claim against them and the grounds upon which it rests, as required by FRCP 8(a)(2).

In the Plaintiff's Supplemental Brief, Plaintiff argues that he should not be required to amend the FAC because he has alleged sufficient facts. In practice, "a complaint...must contain either direct or inferential allegations respecting all the material elements necessary to sustain recovery under some viable legal theory." Twombly, 550 U.S. at 562, 127 S.Ct. 1955. Without knowing the legal basis of the claim, the Court cannot assess whether Plaintiff has alleged sufficient factual allegations respecting all material elements necessary to sustain recovery. Additionally, under CUVTA, Plaintiff has not alleged sufficient factual allegations against Scott Psy.D. The Court will dismiss this claim with leave to amend.

In the Debtor's Supplemental Brief, Debtor argues that, for purposes of a fraudulent transfer, the payment of a dividend cannot be the basis of a transfer for no consideration. Debtor is incorrect. There is case law supporting the assertion that a dividend payment, in certain circumstances, can be avoided as a fraudulent conveyance. See In re TC Liquidations LLC, 463 B.R. 257, 278 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 2011) (distribution of dividends to shareholders of S corporation for payment of the shareholders tax obligations were avoided as fraudulent conveyances under 11 U.S.C. § 548(a)(1)(A)).

I. Fraud and Deceit Under Cal. Civ. Code §§ 1572-73 and 1709-10 (Fifth Cause of Action)

1. Application of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 9(b)

In the Motion, Defendants argue that the fifth cause of action for fraud and deceit under California law is wholly devoid of the facts and particularities that are required pursuant to FRCP 9(b) and FRCP 12(b)(6). Specifically, Defendants argue that the allegations are missing the "who, what, when, where, and how."

Pursuant to FRCP 9(b), "[i]n alleging fraud or mistake, a party must state with particularity the circumstances constituting fraud or mistake. Malice, intent, knowledge, and other conditions of a person's mind may be alleged generally."

Allegations must be "specific enough to give defendants notice of the particular misconduct which is alleged to constitute the fraud charged..." Neubronner v. Milken, 6 F.3d 666, 671 (9th Cir. 1993). "[M]ere conclusory allegations of fraud are insufficient." Moore v. Kayport Package Exp., Inc., 885 F.2d 531, 540 (9th Cir. 1989).

In the FAC, Plaintiff alleges that Debtor and MPPI fraudulently promised to pay Plaintiff according to an agreed-upon employment compensation scheme, without any intent of doing so. Plaintiff specifically alleges that the parties entered into the Agreement. Plaintiff further alleges that Debtor and MPPI knew that Plaintiff would not be paid according to the terms of the Agreement, and that Debtor and MPPI "intentionally withheld or suppressed that information from Plaintiff that would have better informed his decision whether to accept or decline the offer of employment in the PA position." Plaintiff alleges that by making these misrepresentations to Plaintiff, Debtor was able to keep more profit for himself.

Further, Plaintiff alleges he justifiably relied on Debtor's promises to pay Plaintiff according to the agreed-upon pay-scale by accepting employment as a PA with Debtor and MPPI and foregoing alternative employment. Plaintiff alleges that he suffered damages in the form of "rightfully earned wages," "business expenses Plaintiff incurred on behalf of Defendants but was never reimbursed," "the amount of income he would have earned had he refused the PA position with Defendants, and obtained employment as a PA elsewhere" and "substantial emotional distress" that were proximately caused by his reliance.

Plaintiff alleges that Defendants' misconduct occurred between April 11, 2013 through June 17, 2017. Plaintiff additionally alleges that that Defendants were able to perpetrate the fraud by concealing material information through false and misleading earning statements and Debtor falsely assuring Plaintiff that he was being paid lawfully.

Thus, Plaintiff alleges with particularity the circumstances constituting fraud and alleges generally the conditions of Debtor's state of mind so as to satisfy the heightened pleading standard imposed by FRCP 9(b).

2. Application of Statute of Limitations

In the Motion, Defendants also argue that Plaintiff's claims for fraud are time barred.

Under California law, "[a]n action for relief on the grounds of fraud or mistake must be commenced within three years." Kline v. Turner, 87 Cal. App. 4th 1369, 1373 (2001). "However, such action is not deemed accrued 'until the discovery, by the aggrieved party, of the facts constituting the fraud or mistake.'" Id. at 1374 (quoting CCP § 338(d)). "[C]ourts interpret discovery in this context to mean not when the plaintiff became aware of the specific wrong alleged, but when the plaintiff suspected or should have suspected that an injury was caused by wrongdoing." Kline, 87 Cal. App. 4th at 1374. "The statute of limitations begins to run when the plaintiff has information which would put a reasonable person on inquiry." Id.

In the FAC, Plaintiff alleges that Defendants concealed deductions and withholdings from Plaintiff's paychecks in the "earning statements" presented to Plaintiff on a monthly basis, which prevented Plaintiff from discovering Defendants' fraud earlier. On a FRCP 12(b)(6) motion, the Court must take all factual allegations as true. Consequently, at this time, the Court must accept as true that Plaintiff did not discover Defendants' alleged fraud until he resigned in June 2017, and Plaintiff's claims for fraud under California law may not be time barred. Because Plaintiff has stated a claim for relief that is plausible on its face under FRCP 12(b)(6), the Court will not dismiss the fifth cause of action.

J. Conversion (Thirteenth Cause of Action)

In the thirteenth cause of action, Plaintiff makes two separate statements for his claim for conversion against Defendants. The first is that Defendants interfered with Plaintiff's earned wages by deducting specific amounts from Plaintiff's paycheck, to which Defendants were not entitled or which exceeded amounts that could be legally deducted. Plaintiff claims that he has suffered economic damages in the amount of back pay he should have received had he been paid all wages earned in a timely manner, plus interest thereon. The second is that Debtor and/or Scott Psy.D converted the Funds (the entire amount in MPPI's bank account) to Debtor's use; Plaintiff contends that he was damaged because the Funds otherwise would have been paid to Plaintiff, to satisfy his claims.

"Conversion is the wrongful exercise of dominion over the property of another." Farmers Insurance Exchange v. Zerín, 53 Cal. App. 4th 445, 451 (Ct. App. 1997). Under California law the elements of conversion are plaintiff's ownership or right to possession of property at the time of the conversion, defendant's wrongful act or disposition of his property right, and consequent damages. Ehrle, 189 B.R. 771, 776 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2002) (citing In re Saylor, 178 B.R. 209, 214 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1995)).

Plaintiff's first allegation meets the requirements under FRCP 12(b)(6). Regarding his first statement, in support of his position, Plaintiff cites Voris v. Lampert, 7 Cal. 5th 1141, 446 P.3d 284 (2019), reh'g denied (Oct. 23, 2019). In Voris, the plaintiff worked with the defendant to launch three startup companies, partly in return for a promise of later payment of wages. After a falling out, the plaintiff was fired, and he was never paid the promised compensation. The plaintiff sued the three companies, invoking breach of contract and statutory remedies for the nonpayment of wages, and won. The plaintiff was unable to collect on his judgments and sought to hold the defendant personally liable for the unpaid wages based on conversion. The Voris court held that conversion was not an appropriate remedy.

In Voris, the California Supreme Court stated in relevant part:

Voris argues, the nonpayment of wages should be treated as a conversion of property, not as a failure to satisfy a " 'mere contractual right of payment.' " (Sanowicz, supra, 234 Cal.App.4th at p. 1041, 184 Cal.Rptr.3d 517.) But to accept this argument would require us to indulge a similar fiction: namely, that once Voris provided the promised services, certain identifiable monies in his employers' accounts became Voris's personal property, and by failing to turn them over at the agreed-upon time, his employers converted Voris's property to their own use.

Voris contends that there is precedent for this view. . . Voris directs our attention to the Court of Appeal's decision in Department of Industrial Relations v. UI Video Stores, Inc. (1997) 55 Cal.App.4th 1084, 64 Cal.Rptr.2d 457 (UI Video Stores). There, in a brief two-paragraph discussion, the court approved a conversion action brought by the Division of Labor Standards Enforcement (DLSE) of the Department of Industrial Relations. DLSE had sued Blockbuster on behalf of Blockbuster employees to recover money that was unlawfully deducted from their paychecks to pay for uniforms, in violation of the applicable wage order. of the settlement agreement Blockbuster mailed individual checks to the employees in the amount of the wrongful deductions. But a number of checks were returned as undelivered, and DLSE ordered Blockbuster to deposit those checks in California's unpaid wage fund. When Blockbuster refused, DLSE filed a second complaint, alleging that Blockbuster's refusal amounted to an unlawful conversion of the checks to its own use. The Court of Appeal reversed a grant of summary judgment in the defendant's favor, apparently accepting DLSE's argument that it had the right to immediate possession of the checks, in its capacity as an agent of the state and trustee for the employees. (Id. at pp. 1094–1096, 64 Cal.Rptr.2d 457.)

Although UI Video Stores involved a conversion action related to wrongfully withheld wages, it did not concern a conversion claim for the nonpayment of wages. The act of conversion that the court recognized in UI Video Stores was the defendant's misappropriation of certain checks that it had cut and mailed to employees as part of the settlement agreement—checks that at least arguably became the property of the employees at that time. The defendant's failure to pay wages in the first instance was not remedied through a conversion claim, but rather through DLSE's enforcement action under the Labor Code. Whether the employees could have sustained a conversion action for the unpaid uniform reimbursements themselves is a matter that was not at issue in UI Video Stores, and which the court did not address.

For reasons already explained, the nature of the underlying wage claim in UI Video Stores, like the nature of the wage claim in this case, is not one that fits easily with traditional understandings of the conversion tort. Unlike the cases involving failure to turn over commissions, for example, which were earmarked for a specific person before being misappropriated and absorbed into another's coffers, a claim for unpaid wages simply seeks the satisfaction of a monetary claim against the employer, without regard to the provenance of the monies at issue. In this way, a claim for unpaid wages resembles other actions for a particular amount of money owed in exchange for contractual performance—a type of claim that has long been understood to sound in contract, rather than as the tort of conversion.

Voris, 7 Cal. 5th at 1153–56. The Voris court went on to state in a footnote:

We do not suggest that any and all claims related to wages necessarily fall outside the bounds of the law of conversion, merely because they relate to wages. The label of monies as "wages" or "commissions" or "fees"—or any other form of compensation for that matter—is not determinative, provided that the claim otherwise satisfies the elements of the conversion tort. (Cf. dis. opn., post, 7 Cal.5th at p. 1163, 250 Cal.Rptr.3d at pp. 797-798, 446 P.3d at pp. 299-300.) Take, for instance, an employer that pays wages but then removes the money from an employee's account, or that diverts withheld amounts from their intended purposes; that employer may well have committed conversion. (Cf. U.S. v. Whiting (7th Cir. 2006) 471 F.3d 792 [employer committed criminal conversion under federal statute by holding money deducted from employees' paychecks in the company's general operating account instead of delivering it to the employees' 401(k) plans or paying the employees' health insurance premiums; once employees had been paid, the deductions belonged to the employees and no longer belonged to the employer].) But absent a similar scenario, the ordinary failure to pay wages does not give rise to conversion.

Voris, 7 Cal. 5th at 1156, n.11.

Here, some of Plaintiff's allegations, i.e., deductions for general overhead expenses, are analogous to the claims in UI Video Stores. However, some of Plaintiff's allegations, i.e., deductions for payroll taxes, are analogous to the claims in U.S. v. Whiting, 471 F.3d 792 (7th Cir. 2006), where the employer committed conversion by diverting withheld amount from their intended purpose, rather than the underlying wage claim in UI Video Stores, where the employer deducted monies from the employees' paychecks for uniforms.

Plaintiff alleges that Defendants committed conversion by diverting withheld amounts from their intended purpose. Specifically, Plaintiff alleges that MPPI and/or Debtor deducted monies from his paycheck for payroll taxes, which should have been paid to the taxing authorities, but MPPI or Debtor failed to do so, i.e., MPPI and/or Debtor converted the monies to their own use rather than paying the monies to the taxing authorities. The court in Voris specifically stated that in circumstances like the one Plaintiff is alleging here, there may be a claim for conversion. If the allegations in the FAC are true, as the Court must accept at this stage, Plaintiff has alleged sufficient allegations to state a claim for relief that is plausible on its face.

Plaintiff's second allegation does not state a claim for relief under FRCP 12(b)(6). The Funds could have included monies received from clients of MPPI, which Plaintiff did not own or have a right to possess, at that time. As such, Plaintiff has not plausibly alleged that Defendants exercised dominion over his property. However, pursuant to FRCP 8(d)(2), if a party makes alternative statements, the pleading is sufficient if any one of them is sufficient. Because Plaintiff's first statement of the claim is sufficient, the Court will not dismiss this claim.

K. Injunctive Relief

In the sixth, eighth, ninth and seventeenth causes of action, pursuant to various sections of the California Labor Code and California Business and Professions Code, Plaintiff requests injunctive relief.

1. Unlawful Retaliation Under Cal. Lab. Code § 98.6 (Sixth Cause of Action)

Regarding the sixth cause of action, Plaintiff alleges that, pursuant to CLC § 98.6(b) (1), because of Defendants' unlawful retaliation against Plaintiff, Plaintiff is entitled to injunctive relief in the form of an order reinstating him to employment with Defendants. CLC § 1102.5(b) states,

An employer, or any person acting on behalf of the employer, shall not retaliate against an employee for disclosing information, or because the employer believes that the employee disclosed or may disclose information, to a government or law enforcement agency, to a person with authority over the employee or another employee who has the authority to investigate, discover, or correct the violation or noncompliance, or for providing information to, or testifying before, any public body conducting an investigation, hearing, or inquiry, if the employee has reasonable cause to believe that the information discloses a violation of state or federal statute, or a violation of or noncompliance with a local, state, or federal rule or regulation, regardless of whether disclosing the information is part of the employee's job duties.

Here, Plaintiff alleges that on multiple occasions he made complaints to Defendants regarding Defendants alleged violations of the CLC. Plaintiff alleges that Defendants retaliated against Plaintiff by threatening to terminate his employment. Plaintiff also alleges that he was constructively terminated on June 17, 2017 because of his complaints to Debtor and MPPI regarding CLC violations. As such, Plaintiff has alleged enough facts in the FAC to overcome a FRCP 12(b)(6) motion, and the Court will not dismiss this claim.

2. Failure to Maintain and Timely Produce Personnel Records Under Cal. Lab. Code. § 1198.5(k) (Eighth Cause of Action)

Regarding the eighth cause of action, Plaintiff alleges that on August 6, 2018, Plaintiff submitted to Debtor a written demand that Defendants produce a copy of Plaintiff's complete personnel file within 30 days pursuant to CLC § 1198.5. Plaintiff alleges that Debtor produced only a small portion of Plaintiff's personnel records. CLC § 1198.5 affords every current and former employee the right to inspect and receive a copy of the personnel records that the employer maintains relating to the employee's performance or to any grievance concerning the employee. CLC § 1198.5(a). An employer is required to make these records available within 30 calendar days from the date the employer receives a written request unless agreed otherwise. Id. at § 1198.5(b). A current or former employee may also bring an action for injunctive relief to obtain compliance with this section. Id. at § 1198.5(l).

Here, Plaintiff has stated a claim for injunctive relief under CLC § 1198.5(l). On August 6, 2018, Plaintiff alleges that he requested his personnel files from Debtor. Plaintiff states that, at the time of filing the FAC, Defendants had not provided him complete records. Consequently, the Court will not dismiss this claim.

Regarding the ninth cause of action, Plaintiff alleges that on August 6, 2018, Plaintiff submitted to Defendants a written demand to produce a copy of Plaintiff's complete payroll and time records within 21 days pursuant to CLC § 226. Plaintiff alleges that Debtor produced some of Plaintiff's records, but some were missing, and the records produced were incomplete and inaccurate. CLC § 226(b) requires employers to keep the information required by subdivision (a) and affords current and former employees the right to inspect or receive a copy of records pertaining to their employment, upon reasonable request to the employer. An employer who receives a reasonable request shall comply with the request as soon as practicable, but no later than 21 calendar days from the date of the request. Id. at § 226(c). The failure to comply within this timeframe entitles the current or former employee to bring an action for injunctive relief to ensure compliance with this section. Id. at § 226(h).

Here, Plaintiff has stated a claim for injunctive relief under CLC § 226(h). On August 6, 2018, Plaintiff alleges that he requested his payroll and time records. Plaintiff states that, at the time of filing the FAC, Defendants had not provided him complete records. As such, the Court will not dismiss this claim.

4. Unfair Business Practices Under Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17200, et seq. (Seventeenth Cause of Action)

Regarding the seventeenth cause of action, Plaintiff requests, pursuant to California Business and Professions Code ("CBPC") § 17203, an injunction requiring Defendants to: "(1) produce Plaintiff's complete personnel file; (2) produce all records relating to Plaintiff's earnings for all periods he worked as a PA at Defendants' facilities. . . ; (3) account for all amounts owed to Plaintiff under the Agreement; (3) [sic] cease and desist in their use and conversion of corporate assets; (4) annul and reverse all MPPI transfers of MPPI's corporate assets to [Debtor] and/or [Scott Psy.D.]; (5) turnover all MPPI corporate assets or former assets to Plaintiff in partial satisfaction of MPPI's obligations to Plaintiff." FAC, ¶ 191. Plaintiff also seeks an accounting of all assets of MPPI that may have transferred to insiders and successors of MPPI and to family members of insiders of MPPI.

CBPC § 17203 provides, in relevant part, that, competition may be enjoined in any court of competent jurisdiction. The court may make such orders or judgments, including the appointment of a receiver, as may be necessary to prevent the use or employment by any person of any practice which constitutes unfair competition, as defined in this chapter, or as may be necessary to restore to any person in interest any money or property, real or personal, which may have been acquired by means of such unfair competition.

(emphasis added). "The UCL statutory standing requirements differ from standing requirements in federal court." Freeman v. ABC Legal Servs., Inc., 877 F. Supp. 2d 919, 923–24 (N.D. Cal. 2012). Under California law, "[t]o have standing to bring a claim under the UCL, a private plaintiff must show that it has suffered injury in fact and has lost money or property as a result of unfair competition. Pom Wonderful LLC v. Coca-Cola Co., 679 F.3d 1170, 1178 (9th Cir. 2012), rev'd on other grounds, 573 U.S. 102, 134 S. Ct. 2228 (2014); CBPC § 17204. However, in federal court, a plaintiff must also meet the requirements for standing under Article III to pursue injunctive relief under the UCL. Hangarter v. Provident Life & Acc. Ins. Co., 373 F.3d 998, 1021–22 (9th Cir. 2004). "Article III standing requires an injury that is actual or imminent, not conjectural or hypothetical." Id. "In the context of injunctive relief, the plaintiff must demonstrate a real or immediate threat of an irreparable injury." Id.

"Even if [the UCL] permits a plaintiff to pursue injunctive relief in California state courts . . . even though he or she currently suffers no individualized injury as a result of a defendant's conduct, 'a plaintiff whose cause of action [under the UCL] is perfectly viable in state court under state law may nonetheless be foreclosed from litigating the same cause of action in federal court, if he cannot demonstrate the requisite injury' to establish Article III standing." Id. (quoting Lee v. Am. Nat'l Ins. Co., 260 F.3d 997, 1001–02 (9th Cir. 2001)).

In Hangarter, a plaintiff insured brought suit against her insurer and its parent company for discontinuing total disability benefits. One of the plaintiff's claims was for injunctive relief under the UCL. The appellate court concluded that the plaintiff lacked Article III standing to seek injunctive relief against the defendants for violation of the UCL, because the plaintiff currently had no contractual relationship with the defendants, and therefore, was not threatened personally by their future conduct.

Several courts have applied these standards in the context of wage and hour disputes, and have concluded that a former employee lacks standing to seek prospective injunctive relief because a former employee cannot show a real or immediate threat of irreparable injury by the former employer's employment practices. See, e.g., Bayer v. Neiman Marcus Grp., Inc., 861 F.3d 853, 864–65 (9th Cir. 2017); Davis v. Farmers Ins. Exch., 245 Cal. App. 4th 1302, 1326–27, 200 Cal. Rptr. 3d 315, 335 (2016), as modified on denial of reh'g (Apr. 21, 2016); Oyarzo v. Tuolumne Fire Dist., No. 1:11-CV-01271-SAB, 2014 WL 37247, at *3 (E.D. Cal. Jan. 6, 2014), aff'd in part, vacated in part, remanded sub nom. on other grounds Oyarzo v. Turner, 641 F. App'x 700 (9th Cir. 2015); Milligan v. Am. Airlines, Inc., 327 F. App'x 694 (9th Cir. 2009) ("Milligan is not an American employee. She therefore cannot show that she faces a 'real or immediate threat of irreparable injury' by American's employment practices. The fact that Milligan brought a class-action claim does not alter this analysis."); Richards v. Ernst & Young LLP, C08–4988 JF (HRL), 2010 WL 682314 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 24, 2010) (finding the plaintiff "lacks standing to seek such relief because she no longer works for E & Y and therefore is not threatened personally by the alleged labor code violations"); Delodder v. Aerotek, Inc., 2009 WL 3770670, *2 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 9, 2009) ("The Court finds that plaintiffs lack standing to seek prospective relief under the UCL because plaintiffs do not dispute that they are no longer employees of defendant, and thus, they cannot demonstrate a 'real or immediate threat of irreparable injury' by defendants' employment practices.").

However, there is some case law that suggests that "[a] former employee currently seeking to be reinstated or rehired may have standing to seek injunctive relief against a former employer." Bayer, 861 F.3d at 865; see also Pitre v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., No. SACV171281DOCDFMX, 2017 WL 11093619, at *5 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 8, 2017). Here, Plaintiff is a former employee of MPPI, but Plaintiff has requested an order reinstating his employment with Defendants. As such, Plaintiff may have Article III standing to pursue injunctive relief under the UCL.

Nevertheless, "injunctive relief [under the UCL] is available to prevent threatened injury and is not a remedy designed to right completed wrongs." Madrid v. Perot Sys. Corp., 130 Cal. App. 4th 440, 464–65, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 210, 228 (2005). "It should neither serve as punishment for past acts, nor be exercised in the absence of any evidence establishing the reasonable probability the acts will be repeated in the future." Id.

Here, Plaintiff's requests for injunctive relief appear to be remedies designed to right Defendants' alleged wrongs. All Plaintiff's requests address Defendants' conduct in the past in order to collect his purported unpaid wages, not Defendants' conduct in the future to prevent unfair employment practices as required by the UCL. Plaintiff has not alleged that any conduct he requests the Court enjoin is likely to be repeated in the future. Accordingly, the Court will dismiss Plaintiff's request for injunctive relief in the seventeenth cause of action with leave to amend.

III. CONCLUSION

For reasons discussed above, the Court will grant the Motion in part and deny the Motion in part. The Court will grant the Motion as to the first, second, third, fourth and twelfth causes of action, Plaintiff's requests for penalties under CLC §§ 1102.5(f), 98.6(b)(3) and 226(e) and Plaintiff's request for injunctive relief in the seventeenth cause of action.

Defendants must submit the order within seven (7) days. Plaintiff must file and serve any amended complaint within 14 days following the entry of the order.

#4.00 U.S. Trustee's motion under 11 U.S.C. § 1112(b) to dismiss or convert case

Docket 145

Tentative Ruling:

The Court will dismiss this case.

I. BACKGROUND

On January 16, 2019, Coast to Coast Holdings, LLC ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. In its schedule A/B [doc. 13], Debtor listed real property located at 1140 Henry Ridge Motorway, Topanga, California 90290 (the "Property") and valued the Property at $2.9 million. The Property was Debtor's sole significant asset; aside from the Property, Debtor scheduled a claim against the resident of the Property, Joseph Leonardi, for unlawful detainer and past due rent.

In Debtor's schedule D, Debtor identified two secured claims against the Property: (A) a deed of trust in favor of Keystone Real Estate Lending Fund ("Keystone") in the amount of $1,939,724.94; and (B) property taxes owed to the Los Angeles County Tax Collector in the amount of $39,331.42. In its Statement of Financial Affairs, Debtor indicated that it had not generated any income in 2018 or 2019.

On August 13, 2019, Debtor filed a motion to approve a compromise between Debtor and its principals, on the one hand, and Mr. Leonardi, on the other hand (the "Compromise Motion") [doc. 88]. On September 11, 2019, the Court entered an order granting the Compromise Motion [doc. 105].

On November 27, 2019, Keystone filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay (the "RFS Motion") [doc. 126] to proceed with its remedies in state court. In the RFS Motion, Keystone stated it has a claim in the amount of $2,13,167.02. Keystone also acknowledged that Debtor's principal, Jeff Turner, has a secured claim in the amount of $60,000 and that the Los Angeles County Tax Collector has a current claim of $69,032.73. Keystone identified the value of the Property as $2.4 million.

On December 19, 2019, the Court entered an order granting the RFS Motion [doc. 136]. On December 24, 2019, a foreclosure sale was conducted, at which time Keystone credit bid its claim and took title and possession of the Property. Declaration of Hamid D. Rafatjoo [doc. 155], ¶ 14.

On January 3, 2020, Levene, Neale, Bender, Yoo & Brill L.L.P ("Levene Neale") filed a motion to withdraw as Debtor's counsel (the "Motion to Withdraw") [doc. 139]. Keystone opposed the Motion to Withdraw, on the basis that withdrawal of Levene Neale would lead to dismissal of this case pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule 2091-1(d). On February 6, 2020, the parties appeared for a hearing on the Motion to Withdraw. At that time, the Court granted the Motion to Withdraw but agreed not to automatically dismiss this case, until Keystone filed a motion to convert this case to a chapter 7 case.

On the same day, the U.S. Trustee (the "UST") filed a motion to dismiss this case (the "Motion to Dismiss") [doc. 145], on the basis that Debtor has not timely filed its monthly operating reports. On February 13, 2020, Keystone filed a motion to convert this case to a chapter 7 case (the "Motion to Convert") [doc. 155]. In the Motion to Convert, Keystone notes that Debtor filed a state court action against Keystone (the "State Court Action") and requests conversion and liquidation of Debtor's assets in a chapter 7 case in lieu of proceeding in state court. Keystone also agreed to negotiate a carve out arrangement with the chapter 7 trustee if this case is converted. Further, Keystone removed the State Court Action to this Court [1:20-ap-01006-VK].

On February 20, 2020, the UST filed an opposition to the Motion to Convert (the "Opposition") [doc. 157]. In the Opposition, the UST asserts that, because Keystone took title and possession of the Property, there are no assets to liquidate in a chapter 7 case. The UST also notes that Keystone does not provide any specific information about the specifics of a carve out and whether there would be any meaningful distribution to unsecured creditors after a chapter 7 trustee recovered his or her administrative fees. On February 27, 2020, Keystone filed a reply to the Opposition, stating that it intends to negotiate a carve out that would provide a distribution to general unsecured creditors.

On February 20, 2020, Keystone filed an opposition to the Motion to Dismiss [doc.

158], and on February 25, 2020, the UST filed a reply to this opposition [doc. 159]. In these filings, the parties reiterate their arguments in support of and in opposition to the Motion to Convert.

II. ANALYSIS

11 U.S.C. § 1112(b) provides in pertinent part—

(b) (1) Except as provided in paragraph (2) of this subsection, subsection (c) of this section, and section 1104(a)(3), on request of a party in interest, and after notice and a hearing, absent unusual circumstances specifically identified by the court that establish that the requested conversion or dismissal is not in the best interests of creditors and the estate, the court shall convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 7 or dismiss a case under this chapter, whichever is in the best interests of creditors and the estate, if the movant establishes cause. . .

(2) The court may not convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 7 or dismiss a case under this chapter if the court finds and specifically identifies unusual circumstances establishing that converting or dismissing the case is not in the best interests of creditors and the estate, and the debtor or any other party in interest establishes that -

(A) there is a reasonable likelihood that a plan will be confirmed . . . within a reasonable period of time; and

(B) the grounds for converting or dismissing the case include an act or omission of the debtor other than under paragraph 4(A) –

(i) for which there exists a reasonable justification for the act or omission; and

(ii) that will be cured within a reasonable period of time fixed by the court.

(4) For purposes of this subsection, the term ‘cause’ includes . . .

...

(A) substantial or continuing loss to or diminution of the estate and the absence of a reasonable likelihood of rehabilitation;

...

(F) unexcused failure to satisfy timely any filing or reporting requirement established by this title or by any rule applicable to a case under this chapter....

11 U.S.C. § 1112(b).

“Cause’ is defined in § 1112(b)(4), but the list contained in § 1112(b)(4) is illustrative, not exhaustive.” In re Mense, 509 B.R. 269 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2014). The movant bears the burden of establishing by a preponderance of the evidence that cause exists. In re Sullivan, 522 B.R. 604, 614 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2014).

Motions to dismiss under 11 U.S.C. § 1112(b) require a two-step analysis. “First, it must be determined that there is ‘cause’ to act. Second, once a determination of ‘cause’ has been made, a choice must be made between conversion and dismissal based on the ‘best interests of the creditors and the estate.’” In re Nelson, 343 B.R. 671, 675 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2006).

Here, the parties do not dispute that there is cause to dismiss or convert this case. Debtor has failed to meet its obligations, such as timely filing monthly operating reports. Moreover, Debtor is not and has not been receiving any income and the estate no longer has title to or possession of the Property; consequently, there is substantial diminution of the estate and no reasonable likelihood of rehabilitation.

The parties dispute whether dismissal or conversion is in the best interest of creditors and the estate. Based on the record above, dismissal is in the best interest of creditors. First, Keystone now has title to and possession of the Property. As such, it is unclear how a chapter 7 trustee would facilitate or oversee the sale of property that is no longer property of the estate. Keystone also has not addressed why this Court would have authority over the sale of a property that is no longer property of the estate.

In addition, as noted by the UST, Keystone has not provided any details regarding the type of carve out Keystone is prepared to offer for payment to unsecured creditors.

Thus, there is no guarantee that Keystone will proffer a carve out sufficient to pay unsecured creditors. Further, Debtor has no other assets for liquidation; Debtor's only other asset was a claim against Mr. Leonardi which has been settled by order of this Court. The main remaining dispute is between Debtor and Keystone.

Rather than incur chapter 7 administrative fees and costs, it is more prudent to have Keystone pursue its rights in state court. Given the likely futility of a chapter 7 case, the Court will dismiss this case. Upon dismissal of this case, the Court also will not have jurisdiction over the State Court Action. As such, the Court also will remand the State Court Action to state court.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will dismiss this case and remand the State Court Action.

The chapter 7 trustee must submit an order within seven (7) days.

#7.00 Order to show cause why debtor's counsel should not disgorge fees

Docket 52

Tentative Ruling:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a), 329(b) and 330(a)(3), the Court will order Donna Bullock to disgorge the $2,500 she received as compensation for legal services provided as counsel to the debtor and debtor in possession in this case.

I. BACKGROUND

On July 22, 2019, 14554 Friar, LLC (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. In its petition, the debtor indicated that this is a "single asset real estate case," as that term is defined in 11 U.S.C. § 101(51B). The Debtor's petition was signed by the Debtor's proposed bankruptcy counsel, Donna Bullock.

According to the Debtor's Disclosure of Compensation of Attorney for Debtor(s) [doc. 9, p. 45], Leonid Kamenetsky paid Ms. Bullock $2,500 as compensation for legal services provided in this chapter 11 case. However, Ms. Bullock never filed an application to be employed as counsel to the Debtor, as a debtor in possession.

On August 7, 2019, the Court entered an Order Setting Hearing on Status of Chapter 11 Case and Requiring Report on Status of Chapter 11 Case (the "Order") [doc. 14]. The Order set a case status conference for September 12, 2019 and ordered the Debtor to file a case status report 14 days prior to the September 12, 2019 status conference. Contrary to the Order, the Debtor belatedly filed a status report on September 12, 2019, the day of the status conference [doc. 25]. Contrary to the Order, that status report was not served on any of the Debtor's creditors.

Because of this belated filing, the Court continued the status conference to October 3, 2019. At the continued status conference on October 3, 2019, the Court set a bar date of December 16, 2019 and ordered the Debtor to serve notice of the bar date by October 15, 2019 and to lodge the order setting the bar date within seven days. The Debtor never served notice of the bar date or lodged the bar date order.

On October 30, 2019, Easy Financial LLC ("Easy Financial"), one of the Debtor's secured creditors, filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay regarding the Debtor's main asset, i.e., certain commercial real property (the "RFS Motion") [doc. 32]. One of the grounds for relief asserted by Easy Financial was that, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(3), the Debtor failed within 90 days after the petition date to file a plan of reorganization or to commence the required monthly interest payments.

In preparing the RFS Motion, Easy Financial searched the California Secretary of State website for the Debtor [Declaration of David I. Brownstein, doc. 50, ¶ 4]. Apparently, Debtor registered with the California Secretary of State on July 17, 2019, i.e., five days prior to filing its chapter 11 petition. Id. at ¶ 5 and Exh. A. Additionally, the grant deed transferring the commercial real property from the prior entity, Friar Street Property, LLC, to the Debtor was recorded within two hours of the Debtor filing its chapter 11 petition [doc. 32, Exh. J].

Because the Debtor was created less than a week prior to filing its chapter 11 petition, the Debtor has no unsecured creditors. Additionally, none of the lienholders listed in schedule D as the Debtor's secured creditors made any loans or provided any goods or services to the Debtor.

The hearing on the RFS Motion was set for November 20, 2019 and the deadline for opposition was November 6, 2019. On November 13, 2019, the Debtor, again belatedly, filed an opposition [doc. 34]. The Court set the matter for an evidentiary hearing.

On December 26, 2019, the Debtor and Easy Financial filed a stipulation requesting a continuance of the evidentiary hearing to February 28, 2020 [doc. 43]. Prior to the continued evidentiary hearing on February 28, 2020, on motion of the United States Trustee, the Debtor's case was dismissed [doc. 54].

On December 26, 2019, the United States Trustee (the "UST") filed a motion to dismiss or convert the Debtor's case to one under chapter 7 (the "Motion to Dismiss") [doc. 42]. In the Motion to Dismiss, the UST noted that the Debtor had not filed monthly operating reports for August 2019, October 2019, November 2019 and December 2019, and that the Debtor had not paid the United States trustee quarterly fees for the third and fourth quarters of 2019 and the first quarter of 2020. Additionally, the UST noted that, in violation of Local Bankruptcy Rule 9011-2(a), the Debtor had not employed counsel.

On January 23, 2020, the Court held a hearing on the Motion to Dismiss. The Debtor did not file a response to the Motion to Dismiss. However, Ms. Bullock and the Debtor's principal appeared at the hearing and opposed the Motion to Dismiss.

At that hearing, the Court granted the Motion to Dismiss and, because of the Debtor's failure to comply with the requirements of being a debtor in possession, dismissed the Debtor's bankruptcy case.

After that hearing, the Court issued an Order to Show Cause Why Debtor's Counsel Should Not Disgorge Fees (the "OSC") [doc. 52]. The OSC ordered any response to be filed by February 20, 2020. Ms. Bullock has not timely filed a response.

II. DISCUSSION

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 329(a)—

- (a) Any attorney representing a debtor in a case under this title, or in connection with such a case, whether or not such attorney applies for compensation under this title, shall file with the court a statement of the compensation paid or agreed to be paid, if such payment or agreement was made after one year before the date of the filing of the petition, for services rendered or to be rendered in contemplation of or in connection with the case by such attorney, and the source of such compensation.
- (b) If such compensation exceeds the reasonable value of any such services, the court may cancel any such agreement, or order the return of any such payment, to the extent excessive, to—
 - (1) the estate, if the property transferred—
 - (A) would have been property of the estate; or
 - (B) was to be paid by or on behalf of the debtor under a plan under chapter 11, 12, or 13 of this title; or

(2) the entity that made such payment.

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(3)—

In determining the amount of reasonable compensation to be awarded to an examiner, trustee under chapter 11, or professional person, the court shall consider the nature, the extent, and the value of such services, taking into account all relevant factors, including—

- (A) the time spent on such services;
- (B) the rates charged for such services;
- (C) whether the services were necessary to the administration of, or beneficial at the time at which the service was rendered toward the completion of, a case under this title;
- (D) whether the services were performed within a reasonable amount of time commensurate with the complexity, importance, and nature of the problem, issue, or task addressed;
- (E) with respect to a professional person, whether the person is board certified or otherwise has demonstrated skill and experience in the bankruptcy field; and
- (F) whether the compensation is reasonable based on the customary compensation charged by comparably skilled practitioners in cases other than cases under this title.

Under Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 2014-1(b)(1)(E)—

A timely application for employment is a prerequisite to compensation from the estate. Therefore, an application for the employment of counsel for a debtor in possession should be filed as promptly as possible after the commencement of the case, and an application for employment of any other professional person should be filed as promptly as possible after such person has been engaged.

(emphasis added).

"[A] bankruptcy court has broad and inherent authority to deny any and all compensation when an attorney fails to meet the requirements of [§§ 327, 329, 330, 331]." In re Lewis, 113 F.3d 1040, 1045 (9th Cir. 1997).

Chapter 11

The Court has discretion to order the return of excess compensation when compensation received by the debtor's counsel exceeds the reasonable value of services rendered. 11 U.S.C. § 329(b); see also In re Spickelmier, 469 B.R. 903, 914 (Bankr. D. Nev. 2012) (finding that counsel for the debtor demonstrated "a lack of competence and diligence" which did "not deserve to be compensated").

"Services charged by a debtor's attorney which are of poor quality and/or which do not comply with the attorney's ethical duties are not reasonable and provide grounds for disgorgement of fees for purposes of § 329(b)." In re Smith, 436 B.R. 476, 483 (Bankr. N.D. Ohio 2010). "Improper conduct on the part of...attorneys has frequently been penalized by withholding compensation or reimbursement or both." In re Wilde Horse Enters., Inc., 136 B.R. 830, 844 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1991) (citing In re Rancho Motor Inn, Inc., 527 F.2d 1044, 1047 (9th Cir. 1975)).

First, Ms. Bullock failed to file an application to be employed as debtor in possession counsel, as required by LBR 2014-1(b)(1)(E). Second, Ms. Bullock's services have been "of poor quality and... [did] not comply with [Mr. Bullock's] ethical duties." Smith, 436 B.R. at 483.

Once Ms. Bullock decided to appear on behalf of the Debtor, she was required to act diligently and competently on behalf of her client. Instead, Ms. Bullock failed to file monthly operating reports as required by the United States Trustee guidelines and failed to file timely numerous pleadings, including the status report, the Opposition, a response to the Motion to Dismiss and a response to the OSC. Ms. Bullock also failed to serve notice of the bar date and lodge a bar date order as ordered by the Court at the October 3, 2019 status conference, and she apparently did not properly guide the Debtor to comply with the requirements of a single asset real estate case.

The Debtor has been prejudiced by Ms. Bullock's actions. The Court dismissed the Debtor's case, in part, because of the poor quality of Ms. Bullock's legal services. Consequently, Ms. Bullock must disgorge the fees she received in this case.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will order Ms. Bullock to disgorge the $2,500 she received from Mr. Kamenetsky as compensation for legal services provided in this case.

#8.00 Order to show cause why debtor's counsel should not disgorge fees

Docket 16

Tentative Ruling:

On December 4, 2019, the debtor filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. At the initial chapter 11 case status conference, held on January 24, 2020, the Court ordered that the debtor's bankruptcy case be dismissed [doc. 19].

On January 24, 2020, the Court issued an Order to Show Cause Why Debtor's Counsel Should Not Disgorge Fees (the "OSC") [doc. 16]. The OSC ordered that any response be filed and served on the debtor by February 20, 2020.

On February 11, 2020, the debtor filed another chapter 11 petition, initiating case 1:20-bk-10320-VK (the "Second Case").

On February 21, 2020, Dana M. Douglas filed a response to the OSC (the "Response") [doc. 24]. In the Response, Ms. Douglas represents, under penalty of perjury, that she "refunded the full value of the $7500 fee received in the prior case." [Declaration of Dana M. Douglas, ¶ 5]. Ms. Douglas further states that "[w]hen Debtor elected to continue to utilize [Ms. Douglas'] services for [the Second Case], Debtor tendered $7500 which [Ms. Douglas] received and accepted for its full value with no offset for any prior services." Id.

Based on the representations in the Response, the Court will discharge the OSC. However, in connection with the Second Case, the Court will evaluate whether $7,500 is reasonable compensation for the services provided by Ms. Douglas in that case.

#10.00 Order to show cause re: dismissal with a 180-day bar to refiling

Tentative Ruling:

On December 23, 2019, Prudential Equity Group ("Prudential") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition (the "First Case") [1:19-bk-13179]. Prudential indicated it owns real property located at 18280 Hombre Lane, Murrieta, California (the "Property"). On January 6, 2020, the Court issued an Order to Show Cause why the First Case should not be dismissed for failure to retain counsel pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 9011-2(a) (the "First OSC") [1:19-bk-13179, doc. 7].

On January 16, 2020, the Court held a hearing on the First OSC. Prudential appeared without counsel. At that time, the Court informed Zoraida Molina, who appeared on behalf of Prudential, that Prudential must retain counsel to proceed with a bankruptcy case.

On January 22, 2020, the Court entered an order dismissing the First Case based on Prudential's failure to retain counsel [1:19-bk-13179, doc. 14]. On the same day, Prudential filed another chapter 7 petition (the "Second Case") [1:20-bk-10155-VK]. The petition was filed and signed by Ms. Molina. Once again, Prudential was not represented by counsel.

On January 24, 2020, the Court issued an Order to Show Cause why the Second Case should not be dismissed for failure to retain counsel pursuant to LBR 9011-2(a) (the "Second OSC") [1:20-bk-10155-VK, doc. 4]. In the Second OSC, the Court instructed Prudential to file a disclosure of compensation of attorney for Prudential by February 3, 2020, or the case would be dismissed with a 180-day bar.

By the February 3, 2020 deadline, Prudential did not file a response to the Second OSC or disclosure of compensation of an attorney. On February 6, 2020 at 1:00 p.m., the Court held a hearing on the Second OSC. No one appeared on behalf of Prudential. On February 7, 2020, the Court entered an order dismissing the Second Case with a 180-day bar to refiling [1:20-bk-10155-VK, doc. 10].

On February 12, 2020, Bayridge Holding dba Prudential Equity Group ("Debtor") filed this chapter 7 petition. In its petition, Debtor represents that it owns the Property. The petition was filed and signed by Hector Carrillo. Debtor is not represented by counsel.

On February 18, 2020, the Court issued an Order to Show Cause why this case should not be dismissed with a 180-day bar to refiling (the "OSC") [doc. 7]. The Court instructed Debtor to file a disclosure of compensation by February 28, 2020. Debtor did not timely file a disclosure of compensation or any response to the OSC.

Consequently, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a), 349(a) and 362(d)(1), the Court will dismiss this case with a 180-day bar, retroactively annul the automatic stay to the filing of Debtor's petition and order that the automatic stay will not apply to the Property during the first 180 days of any future bankruptcy case filed by Debtor, Prudential, Mr. Carrillo and/or Ms. Molina.

The Court will continue this hearing to April 16, 2020 at 2:00 p.m.

The debtor did not serve the claimant at the correct address with notice of the hearing. The notice of hearing [doc. 291] indicates that the debtor served the claimant at 333 Nelson Street SW, Unit 434, Atlanta, GA 30313. However, the claimant's address, according to proof of claim 6, is 333 Nelson Street SW, Unit 4343, Atlanta, GA 30313.

By March 12, 2019, the debtor must serve notice of the continued hearing and the deadline to serve a written response on the claimant Poladov, LLC at the address listed in proof of claim 6.

Appearances on March 5, 2020 are excused.

Chapter 7

#15.00 Debtor's motion for order to vacate discharge

Docket 20

Tentative Ruling:

Deny.

I. BACKGROUND

On October 4, 2018, David Forman ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On January 22, 2019, Debtor received a discharge [doc. 11]. On January 23, 2019, Debtor's case was closed.

On August 21, 2019, Debtor filed a motion to reopen his case (the "First Motion to Reopen") [doc. 14] to enter into a reaffirmation agreement with Select Portfolio Servicing ("SPS"). On August 23, 2019, the Court entered an order denying the First Motion to Reopen [doc. 15] on the basis that, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 524(c)(1), a reaffirmation agreement must be made before a discharge is granted.

On January 28, 2020, Debtor filed another motion to reopen his case (the "Second Motion to Reopen") [doc. 17]. In the Second Motion to Reopen, Debtor stated that he intended to move to vacate his discharge to be able to enter into a reaffirmation agreement with SPS. On January 30, 2020, the Court entered an order reopening Debtor's case [doc. 18].

On February 6, 2020, Debtor filed the Motion [doc. 20]. Debtor contends the Court may vacate his discharge pursuant to its equitable powers under 11 U.S.C. § 105(a).

II. ANALYSIS

Bankruptcy courts do "not have the inherent equitable power to revoke a discharge outside the framework of § 727(d)." In re Markovich, 207 B.R. 909, 913 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1997); see also In re Mi Jung Hong, 2014 WL 465562 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. Feb. 5, 2014). Under § 727(d), "the trustee, a creditor, or the United States trustee" have standing to request revocation of a discharge. 11 U.S.C. § 727(d). In addition, the statute provides only four circumstances that would lead to revocation of a debtor's discharge—

- (1) such discharge was obtained through the fraud of the debtor, and the requesting party did not know of such fraud until after the granting of such discharge;
- (2) the debtor acquired property that is property of the estate, or became entitled to acquire property that would be property of the estate, and knowingly and fraudulently failed to report the acquisition of or entitlement to such property, or to deliver or surrender such property to the trustee;
- (3) the debtor committed an act specified in subsection (a)(6) of this section;
or
- (4) the debtor has failed to explain satisfactorily—
 - (A) a material misstatement in an audit referred to in section 586(f) of title 28; or
 - (B) a failure to make available for inspection all necessary accounts, papers, documents, financial records, files, and all other papers, things, or property belonging to the debtor that are requested for an audit referred to in section 586(f) of title 28.

11 U.S.C. § 727(d)(1)-(4).

In addition to § 727(d), courts have held that vacating a discharge for a debtor to enter into a reaffirmation agreement also runs afoul of 11 U.S.C. § 524(c)(1): "The weight of case law authority is that the bankruptcy courts do not have the equitable power to vacate discharges to allow debtors to enter into reaffirmation agreements because this would be inconsistent with the statutory deadline that reaffirmation agreements must be made before the entry of discharge set forth in 11 U.S.C. § 524(c)(1)." Mi Jung Hong, 2014 WL 465562 at *4 (collecting cases). "The equity powers of the bankruptcy court cannot be used to override specific statutory provisions in the Code." Markovich, 207 B.R. at 913.

Here, the Court does not have the power to employ its equitable authority under 11 U.S.C. § 105(a) if the Court's actions will conflict with other statutory provisions. In this case, vacating Debtor's discharge to allow Debtor to proceed with a reaffirmation agreement will run afoul of both § 524(c)(1) and § 727(d). Under § 524(c)(1), Debtor's receipt of a discharge operated as a statutory deadline for entering into reaffirmation agreements. As to § 727(d), Debtor does not have standing to request, and this Court does not have the sua sponte power to enter, an order vacating Debtor's discharge. Moreover, completing a reaffirmation agreement is not one of the four statutory reasons to vacate a debtor's discharge. Consequently, the Court will deny the Motion.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will deny the Motion.

The Court will prepare the order.

#6.01 Hearing re Novastar, LLC's objection to confirmation of debtor's second amended 13 Plan

Docket 63

Tentative Ruling:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a), 349 and 1307(c), the Court may dismiss this case with a two-year bar to refiling.

I. BACKGROUND

A. Chapter 13 Petition and Schedules

On March 24, 2019, Jan Bidasha (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 13 petition. In her petition [doc. 1], the Debtor represents that she lives at 17438 Kinzie, Northridge, California (the "Northridge Property"). In her statement of financial affairs ("SOFA") [doc. 35], the Debtor represents that she has lived at the Northridge Property during the three years prior to filing her chapter 13 petition.

In her schedule A/B [doc. 27], the Debtor indicates that she owns real property located at 2750 Artesia Blvd., #460, Redondo Beach, California (the "Redondo Beach Property"). In her schedule D [doc. 29], the Debtor listed two claims secured by the Redondo Beach Property, one in favor of Bank of America and the other in favor of Novastar, LLC ("Novastar"). In the Debtor's second amended chapter 13 plan [doc. 58], the Debtor represents that Novastar holds a third deed of trust against the Redondo Beach Property. However, in the Debtor's schedules, the second lienholder against the Redondo Beach Property is not disclosed.

In her schedule I [doc. 33], the Debtor represents that she receives $5,515.34 in income per month, which includes $1,600.00 from rental income. However, in her schedule G [doc. 31], the Debtor did not identify any unexpired leases.

In her schedule J [doc. 34], the Debtor represents that her monthly expenses total $5,289.93. This includes a $3,200 monthly expense for a "live in caretaker." Because of the Debtor's claimed expenses, the Debtor represents that her net monthly income is $225.41.

B. State Court Litigation

In 2014, the Debtor filed a state court lawsuit against Novastar and other defendants [doc. 63, Exh. 1]. After Novastar prevailed in that lawsuit, the state court awarded Novastar attorneys' fees and costs. Id.

Subsequently, Novastar filed a state court action against the Debtor, among others [doc. 46, Exh. 1]. In that state court complaint (the "Complaint"), Novastar represents that in 2014, the Debtor executed a promissory note in the principal amount of $90,000, with 12.90% interest, with all principal and unpaid interest due on the maturity date of May 1, 2015. This note is secured by a deed of trust on the Redondo Beach Property.

Novastar alleges that the Debtor represented in the loan documents that she did not live in the Redondo Beach Property and that Novastar would hold a second deed of trust. Novastar further represents that is discovered, after the loan was made, that the Debtor was living in the Redondo Beach Property and that Novastar's lien is subordinate to a second lien against the Redondo Beach Property, in favor of the City of Redondo Beach.

Additionally, Novastar claims that the Debtor used the proceeds of its loan to purchase real property located at 11227 Collett Avenue, Granada Hills, California (the "Granada Hills Property"). Novastar also alleges that the debtor transferred the Granada Hills Property to her son-in-law for insufficient consideration. In the Complaint, Novastar seeks an equitable lien against the Granada Hills Property.

On June 24, 2019, Novastar filed a motion for relief from stay to proceed with that state court action (the "RFS Motion") [doc. 46]. In July 2019, the Court granted relief from stay for that litigation to proceed [doc. 51].

On May 29, 2019, Novastar filed proof of claim 4-1 (the "Claim"), asserting a claim secured by the Redondo Beach Property in the amount of $516,711.90. According to the Claim, Novastar's note matured in 2015, which was prepetition. The Claim consists of the principal balance of the note, interest and attorneys' fees.

On March 2, 2020, the debtor filed an objection to the Claim (the "Objection") [doc. 74]. Even though the Court previously granted relief from stay for the state court litigation to proceed, the Objection concerns the same litigation. The hearing on the Objection is set for April 14, 2020.

Three other creditors have filed proofs of claim in the Debtor's case. The Franchise Tax Board and Verizon filed unsecured claims in the amounts of $1,020.71 and $764.08, respectively [Claims 1-1 and 2-1]. Bank of America, N.A. filed a secured claim against the Redondo Beach Property, based on a first deed of trust, in the amount of $133,043.95 [Claim 3-1].

D. Chapter 13 Plan and the Debtor's Dilatory Conduct

To date, the Court has held four plan confirmation hearings, i.e., on June 11, 2019, September 10, 2019, November 12, 2019 and February 11, 2020. Because the debtor failed to provide proper notice and to provide required documentation to the chapter 13 trustee, the Court continued each of these hearings.

In the Debtor's second amended chapter 13 plan (the "Plan") [doc. 58], the Debtor proposes to pay $225.00 per month for 36 months. Plan payments are allocated to the Debtor's attorneys' fees, the Franchise Tax Board's claim, arrears to Bank of America, N.A., as the first deed of trust holder, and fees of the chapter 13 trustee. The Plan does not provide for any payments to be made to Novastar, or to the other small unsecured creditor. The chapter 13 trustee and Novastar have filed objections to confirmation of the Plan.

II. DISCUSSION

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1307(c):

Chapter 13

[O]n request of a party in interest or the United States trustee and after notice and a hearing, the court may convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 7 of this title, or may dismiss a case under this chapter, whichever is in the best interests of creditors and the estate, for cause. . . .

11 U.S.C. § 1307(c). In deciding whether a chapter 13 case should be dismissed or converted, courts apply a two-step analysis. "First, it must be determined that there is 'cause' to act. Second, once a determination of 'cause' has been made, a choice must be made between conversion and dismissal based on the 'best interests of the creditors and the estate.'" Nelson v Meyer (In re Nelson), 343 B.R. 671, 675 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2006).

In addition to the enumerated causes listed in § 1307(c), a chapter 13 case filed in bad faith may be dismissed for cause under 11 U.S.C. § 1307(c). In re Leavitt, 171 F.3d 1219, 1224–25 (9th Cir. 1999); In re Eisen, 14 F.3d 469, 470 (9th Cir. 1994). Bad faith is determined by evaluating the totality of circumstances, including the following factors: (1) whether the debtor misrepresented facts in his petition or plan, unfairly manipulated the Bankruptcy Code, or otherwise filed his chapter 13 petition or plan in an inequitable manner; (2) the debtor's history of filings and dismissals; (3) whether the debtor only intended to defeat state court litigation; (4) whether egregious behavior is present. See In re Leavitt, 171 F.3d 1219, 1224 (9th Cir. 1999).

Here, there is cause to dismiss the Debtor's case; it appears that that the Debtor did not file this case in good faith, and that this is a two-party dispute, between the Debtor and Novastar. Rather than going forward with the pending litigation in state court, which has the expertise to hear that litigation, and before which trial was set, the Debtor filed her chapter 13 petition. Subsequently, the Debtor has dragged this case out, on the basis of a chapter 13 plan that pays nothing to Novastar. In light of the foregoing, it appears that dismissal of this chapter 13 case is in the best interest of creditors and the estate.

III. CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a), 349 and 1307(c), the Court may dismiss this case with a two-year bar to refiling.

Chapter 13

#80.00 Order to show cause whe debtor's counsel should not be sanctioned for failure to appear at hearing on trustee's motion to dismiss

Docket 38

Tentative Ruling:

On August 26, 2016, Julio Cesar Arias ("Debtor") filed a chapter 13 petition. On December 5, 2016, Debtor's chapter 13 plan was confirmed [doc. 21].

On December 31, 2019, the chapter 13 trustee filed a motion to dismiss Debtor's case for failure to make plan payments ("Motion to Dismiss") [doc. 33]. On February 11, 2020, the Court held a hearing on the Motion to Dismiss. Debtor's counsel did not appear.

On February 12, 2020, the Court issued an Order to Show Cause Why Debtors' Counsel Should Not be Sanctioned for Failure to Appear at Hearing on Trustee's Motion to Dismiss (the "OSC") [doc. 38], on the grounds that Debtor's counsel failed to appear at the hearing on the Motion to Dismiss as required by Local Bankruptcy Rule 3015-1(u)(1). Debtor's counsel was ordered to explain his failure to appear and file a written response to the OSC no later than February 25, 2020.

On February 24, 2020, Debtor's counsel timely filed his response ("Response") [doc. 42]. In his Response, Debtor's counsel states that prior to that hearing, his office had reached out to Debtor regarding the Motion to Dismiss, and Debtor has been unresponsive. On February 24, 2020, Debtor's counsel withdrew Debtor's opposition to the Motion to Dismiss [doc. 41]. Based on the representations made in the Response and because Debtor's opposition has been withdrawn, the Court will discharge the OSC.

#83.00 Debtor's motion re: objection to claim number 3,4,5 by Claimant Bank of America, NA. and for Account Ending in 2212

fr. 1/14/20

Docket 36

Tentative Ruling:

The deadline for filing a proof of claim in the debtor's case was December 30, 2019.

On December 8, 2019, the debtor filed an objection to proof of claims 3, 4 and 5 filed by Bank of America, N.A. ("BofA") and to a prospective claim regarding account ending in 2212 to be filed by BofA (the "Objection") [doc. 32]. On January 27, 2020, the debtor and BofA filed a stipulation resolving the debtor's objections to proof of claims 3, 4 and 5 (the "Stipulation") [doc. 45]. On the same day, the Court entered an order approving the Stipulation [doc. 44].

The Stipulation resolved the Objection, except for the debtor's objection to a prospective claim regarding account ending in 2212 to be filed by BofA. However, BofA has not filed such a proof of claim, and the deadline for filing a proof of claim has passed. Accordingly, the Court will deny the balance of the Objection as moot.

The Court will prepare the order.

9/12/19; 11/14/19; 11/21/19; 1/9/20

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

In the debtor's declaration, filed on February 27, 2020 [doc. 150], the debtor requests that the Court dismiss this case. If the debtor agrees to pay the allowed fees and expenses of the chapter 11 examiner and all allowed unsecured claims in full, and provides for such payment to be made, prior to the dismissal of the case, the Court thereafter will dismiss this case with a 180-day bar.

If the debtor does not provide for payment of the allowed fees and expenses of the chapter 11 examiner and all allowed unsecured claims in full, prior to the dismissal of the case, based on the chapter 11 examiner's initial report ("Examiner Report") [doc. 149], pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a) and 1112(b)(1), the Court will convert this case to one under chapter 7.

In the Examiner Report, the chapter 11 examiner states that the debtor appears to have an interest in several previously undisclosed real properties. A chapter 7 trustee can investigate the estate's interests in these real properties, and the use of the proceeds from the debtor's prepetition sale of real property, and determine if any such interests can be liquidated for the benefit of creditors, and any sale proceeds can be recovered.

1/9/20 Ruling

Based on, among other things, the debtor's flawed and inaccurate disclosures, which are discussed below, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a) and 1104(c)(1), the Court will order the appointment of a chapter 11 examiner to investigate, among other things, the debtor's assets, liabilities and prepetition transfers.

Chapter 11

To the debtor's disclosure statement [doc. 117], the debtor attached a schedule A/B ("Exhibit B") [Exh. B] and a schedule E/F ("Exhibit C", and together with Exhibit B, the "Attachments") [Exh. C]. The Attachments are not consistent with the debtor's most recently filed schedule A/B ("Amended Schedule A/B") [doc. 28], filed on August 17, 2018, and schedule E/F ("Schedule E/F") [doc. 1], filed on July 10, 2018.

In his Amended Schedule A/B, the debtor lists an interest in real property located in North Hills, California (the "North Hills Property"), valued at $810,000. In Exhibit B, the debtor values the North Hills Property at $835,000. The debtor does not list an interest in any other real property.

In his Amended Schedule A/B, the debtor represents that, as of the petition date, he had $900 in his bank account. In Exhibit B, the debtor represents that he had $1,000.

Below is a chart listing the nonpriority unsecured creditors the debtor enumerated in his Schedule E/F, compared to Exhibit C to the proposed disclosure statement.

Chapter 11

All of the creditors listed in Exhibit C have filed proofs of claim in the debtor's case. With the exception of DCFS Trust (which the debtor appears to have called TD Auto Finance in his Schedule E/F) and Mr. Cooper, none of the creditors listed in Exhibit C were listed in the debtor's master mailing list. As such, it does not appear that these creditors received notice of the debtor's chapter 11 case. The Court is concerned that there may be additional creditors that did not receive notice of this chapter 11 case.

To date, the debtor has not filed an amended master mailing list.

Undisclosed Sale of Real Property Two Months Prior to the Petition Date

On November 14, 2019, the debtor filed his 2018 federal tax return with the Court (the "2018 Tax Return") [doc. 119]. The 2018 Tax Return indicates that, in May 2018, two months prior to the debtor filing his chapter 11 petition, from the sale of real property located at 15170 Greenrock, Lancaster, California (the "Greenrock Property"), the debtor received proceeds in the amount of $39,660.

Item 18 of the statement of financial affairs ("SOFA") states, "[w]ithin 2 years before you filed for bankruptcy, did you sell, trade or otherwise transfer any property to anyone, other than property transferred in the ordinary course of your business or financial affairs?" In his original SOFA [doc. 1], filed on July 10, 2018, and his amended SOFAs [docs. 15 and 26], filed on July 25, 2018 and August 14, 2018, the debtor responded "no" to item 18.

In his Amended Schedule A/B, the debtor represents that, as of the petition date, he had $900 in his bank account. What did the debtor do with the significant proceeds from the sale of the Greenrock Property - which he received two months prior to the petition date?

Undisclosed Interests in Real Property

As discussed in calendar no. 1, the 2018 Tax Return indicates that, in addition to the North Hills Property, the debtor was collecting rents from real properties located at 40536 N 171st East, Lancaster, California (the "Lancaster Property") and 13640 Norris Ave., Sylmar, California (the "Sylmar Property"). However, the Lancaster Property is not listed in the debtor's original schedules and statements [doc. 1] or in the debtor's numerous subsequent amendments [docs. 15, 23, 26 and 28].

In his statement of financial affairs, the debtor identifies the Sylmar Property as the address for his business, Helping Hands Homes. However, the debtor did not include an interest in the Sylmar Property in his Amended Schedule A/B or set forth a lease for the Sylmar Property in his schedule G [doc. 1].

Are there secured creditors holding liens against the Lancaster Property and/or the Sylmar Property which did not receive notice of this chapter 11 case?

On March 18, 2019, a creditor, who was not listed in the debtor's schedules or master mailing list, filed a motion for relief from stay (the "RFS Motion") based on an unlawful detainer action regarding real property located at 13350 Dyer Street, Sylmar, California (the "Dyer Street Property") [doc. 66]. In his chapter 11 petition, the debtor identified the Dyer Street Property as his residence.

On March 27, 2019, the debtor filed an opposition to the RFS Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 68]. In the Opposition, the debtor states that, prepetition, he entered into an agreement to lease the Dyer Street Property for seven years, commencing on June 30, 2018, i.e. ten days prior to filing this chapter 11 case. The debtor did not list this lease agreement in his schedule G [doc. 1] or in any of the numerous amended schedules and statements [docs. 15, 23, 26 and 28].

On June 13, 2019, the Court entered an order granting the RFS Motion [doc. 80]. Since the RFS Motion was granted, the debtor has not filed a notice of change of address. Does the debtor still reside at the Dyer Street Property, and if not, where is the debtor residing?

Incomplete Statement of Financial Affairs

Item 4 of the SOFA states, "[d]id you have any income from employment or from operating a business during this year or the two previous calendar years?" Item 4 explicitly requests that the debtor disclose his or her gross income.

In his original SOFA [doc. 1], filed on July 10, 2018, and his most recently filed SOFA [doc. 26], filed on August 14, 2018, the debtor responded "no" to item 4. As evidenced by his 2017 tax returns [doc. 48] and the 2018 Tax Return, as well as his disclosures in Schedule I, the debtor's response to item 4 is clearly inaccurate.

Engagement of an Accountant without Court Approval

In his October 2019 monthly operating report [doc.122], the debtor listed a $450.00 "personal expense" to "Farzan." According to the fee summary attached to the Tax Return [doc. 119], the debtor engaged Farzan & Farzan AAC for the preparation of his 2018 tax return and paid $450 for this service. The debtor has not obtained Court approval for the employment of any accountant.

Docket 61

Tentative Ruling:

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 7001(1), in order to obtain turnover from the debtor's daughter, who owns a 50% interest in the subject property, the chapter 7 trustee would be required to initiate an adversary proceeding.

Because an adversary proceeding is required to obtain the requested turnover and to sell the nondebtor co-owner's interest in the subject property, and given the conditions described in the motion regarding the non-debtor co-owner's lack of cooperation, the presence of other occupants in the subject property and the deteriorated condition of the subject property, on what basis does the chapter 7 trustee project that any return to holders of unsecured claims will be generated from a sale of this property? See 11 U.S.C. § 542(a) ("[A]n entity... in possession, custody, or control... of property that the trustee may use, sell, or lease... shall deliver to the trustee... such property or the value of such property, unless such property is of inconsequential value or benefit to the estate.") (emphasis added).

SANJAY PALTA
VS
DEBTOR

Docket 33

Tentative Ruling:

Grant relief from the automatic stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1).

Movant may proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to proceed to final judgment in the nonbankruptcy forum, provided that the stay remains in effect with respect to enforcement of any judgment against the debtor and property of the debtor's bankruptcy estate.

Movant retains the right to file a proof of claim under 11 U.S.C. § 501 and/or and adversary complaint under 11 U.S.C. § 523 or § 727 in this bankruptcy case.

The 14-day stay prescribed by FRBP 4001(a)(3) is waived.

The Court will deny the movant's request to annual the automatic stay. The movant's declaration does not state that any actions taken after January 9, 2020, were done without knowledge of the debtor's bankruptcy case.

Movant must submit the order within seven (7) days.

Note: No response has been filed. Accordingly, no court appearance by movant is required. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the Court will determine whether further hearing is required and movant will be so notified.

Telephonic Hearing Only. CourtCall, the Court's telephonic provider, has amended pricing for its services and is offering discounted rates to attorneys through April 30 and FREE access for parties who do not have an attorney (pro se parties). Telephonic

WILMINGTON SAVINGS FUND SOCIETY FSB
VS
DEBTOR

Docket 10

Tentative Ruling:

Grant relief from stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

Movant (and any successors or assigns) may proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to foreclose upon and obtain possession of the property.

If recorded in compliance with applicable state laws governing notices of interests or liens in real property, the order is binding in any other case under this title purporting to affect the property filed not later than 2 years after the date of the entry of the order by the court, except that a debtor in a subsequent case under this title may move for relief from the order based upon changed circumstances or for good cause shown, after notice and hearing.

The 14-day stay prescribed by FRBP 4001(a)(3) is waived.

Any other request for relief is denied. On March 10, 2020, the Court entered an order that, among other things, dismissed this case with a 180-day bar to the debtor refiling under any chapter of the Bankruptcy Code and annulled the automatic stay retroactively to the filing of the debtor's petition [doc. 13].

Movant must submit the order within seven (7) days.

Note: No response has been filed. Accordingly, no court appearance by movant is required. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the Court will determine whether further hearing is required and movant will be so notified.

Chapter 13

#2.00 Motion in individual case for order imposing a stay or continuing the automatic stay as the court deems appropriate

fr. 2/5/20;

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

Unless the debtor provides for the prompt conversion of this case to one under chapter 7, the Court will deny the motion.

Pursuant to the order granting the motion on an interim basis (the "Interim Order") [doc. 22], no later than March 23, 2020, the debtor had to file a declaration demonstrating that he timely made his required postpetition deed of trust payments on his residential and commercial real properties, his postpetition homeowner's association payments and his postpetition chapter 13 plan payments. On March 23, 2020, the debtor filed a declaration [doc. 31]. That declaration does not demonstrate that the debtor fully complied with the Interim Order.

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3)(C)(i)(III), the debtor has not provided clear and convincing evidence that his financial or personal affairs have improved since the prior case, such that the pending chapter 13 case will result in a confirmed plan that will be fully performed. Accordingly, if the case remains as one under chapter 13, the Court cannot grant the motion.

However, in a chapter 7 case, in order to extend the automatic stay in a case filed within one year of another case which was pending within the same year but was dismissed, the debtor must show that the present case was filed in good faith as to the creditors to be stayed. Under 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3)(C)(i)(III), a case is presumptively filed not in good faith if there has not been a substantial change in the financial or personal affairs of the debtor since the dismissal of the next most previous case, or any other reason to conclude that the later case will not be concluded with a chapter 7 discharge. See In re Castaneda, 342 B.R. 90, 94 n.5 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 2006).

Although the debtor has not shown a substantial change in financial or personal circumstances, at this time, there is no reason for the Court to conclude that the pending case will not be concluded with a chapter 7 discharge. If the debtor is willing to convert this case to one under chapter 7, the Court will grant the motion.

February 5, 2020 Ruling

The Court will grant the motion on an interim basis up to the date of the continued hearing. The Court will continue this hearing to March 25, 2020 at 9:30 a.m. No later than February 12, 2020, the debtor must file and serve notice of the continued hearing on all creditors in accordance with Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7004(b)(3) and (h).

On January 31, 2020, Pensco Trust Company Custodian fbo Alan L Brooks, IRA ("Pensco"), a secured creditor, filed a timely opposition to the motion [doc. 20]. Pensco argues that the debtor has not overcome the presumption of bad faith as required by 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3)(C).

In his immediately preceding case, the debtor was not represented by counsel. In the pending case, the debtor has retained counsel, which is a change in the debtor's personal and financial affairs. The Court will continue this hearing in order to assess the debtor's ability to perform under his proposed chapter 13 plan.

The debtor must timely pay his: (A) February 2020 and March 2020 plan payments in the amount of $4,798.00 (as stated in the debtors' proposed chapter 13 plan) to the chapter 13 trustee [doc. 15]; (B) February 2020 and March 2020 deed of trust payments in the amount of $3,000.00 (as stated in his current schedule J) as to his residential real property [doc. 14]; (C) February 2020 and March 2020 deed of trust payments in the amount of $1,523.72 (as stated in Pensco's opposition) as to his commercial real property [doc. 20]; and (D) February 2020 and March 2020 homeowner's association ("HOA") payments on his residential real property in the amount of $380 (as stated in his current schedule J). No later than March 23, 2020, the debtor must file a declaration to demonstrate that he timely made his required post-petition deed of trust, HOA and chapter 13 plan payments.

In addition, the debtor's schedule I [doc. 14] indicates rental income in the amount of $3,000 per month. However, the debtor's schedule G [doc. 14] indicates that the debtor has no unexpired leases. By February 12, 2020, the debtor must amend his

STRUNZO DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION
VS
DEBTOR

Tentative Ruling:

On April 9, 2018, the debtor filed a voluntary chapter 13 petition. On November 27, 2018, the Court entered an order confirming the debtor's amended chapter 13 plan [doc. 86]. The debtor's confirmed chapter 13 plan does not provide for payments to movant on account of its lien against the real property. According to movant, the debtor has not made any postpetition deed of trust payments to movant. The debtor does not dispute this.

On September 15, 2018, movant filed a motion for relief from stay on the real property at issue (the "First RFS Motion") [doc. 66]. In response to the First RFS Motion, the debtor disputed the validity of movant's deed of trust and requested time to file an adversary proceeding [doc. 70].

On December 10, 2018, the debtor filed a complaint against movant seeking to invalidate movant's lien, initiating adversary proceeding 1:18-ap-01126-VK (the "Adversary Proceeding"). On February 19, 2020, the Court entered final judgment in the Adversary Proceeding in favor of movant [Adversary Proceeding, doc. 63].

On March 4, 2020, the movant filed another motion for relief from the automatic stay with respect to the real property at issue (the "Motion") [doc. 106]. On March 11, 2020, the debtor filed an opposition to the Motion arguing, among other things, that the debtor did not sign the note associated with movant's deed of trust and that the debtor will file a motion to convert his case to one under chapter 11.

The Court resolved the debtor's arguments regarding the validity and extent of movant's lien in connection with the Adversary Proceeding. That judgment is final. Further, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1307(d), after a chapter 13 plan is confirmed, the case cannot be converted to one under chapter 11. Moreover, postpetition deed of trust payments are not being made to movant.

Accordingly, the Court will grant relief from stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1).

Movant (and any successors or assigns) may proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to foreclose upon and obtain possession of the property.

The co-debtor stay of 11 U.S.C. § 1201(a) and § 1301(a) is terminated, modified or annulled as to the co-debtor, on the same terms and conditions as to the debtor.

The 14-day stay prescribed by FRBP 4001(a)(3) is waived.

Any other request for relief is denied.

#21.00 Defendants Sunderland McCutchan, Inc.'s and Edward McCutchan's Motion to impose sanctions upon plaintiff Richard Abel for violation of federal Rules of civil Procedure, Rule 11

Docket 159

Tentative Ruling:

Deny.

I. BACKGROUND

On May 4, 2018, Robert Zuckerman ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. On August 2, 2018, Richard Abel ("Plaintiff") filed a complaint against Sunderland/McCutchan, Inc., Sunderland/McCutchan LLP and B. Edward McCutchan, Jr. (together, the "McCutchan Defendants"), among others (the "Complaint"). From the filing of the Complaint until the present, Plaintiff has been self-represented.

As to the McCutchan Defendants, Plaintiff alleged that, by operation of a state court assignment order (the "Assignment Order") and a recorded judgment lien (the "Judgment Lien"), Plaintiff was entitled to $8,135 deposited into an account managed by the McCutchan Defendants (the "Account"). Plaintiff also requested turnover of these funds from the McCutchan Defendants pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 542.

On August 30, 2018, the McCutchan Defendants filed a motion to dismiss the claims against them (the "First Motion to Dismiss") [doc. 7], asserting that: (A) the funds were transferred to the McCutchan Defendants in open court and Plaintiff did not object; (B) the funds were owed to the McCutchan Defendants and did not belong to Debtor, such that turnover was not applicable; and (C) Plaintiff did not have standing to request turnover under 11 U.S.C. § 542.

On September 13, 2018, before the Court assessed the First Motion to Dismiss, Plaintiff filed a first amended complaint (the "FAC") [doc. 11]. In the FAC, Plaintiff added additional factual allegations to the prior claims from the Complaint, but no longer requested turnover from the McCutchan Defendants under 11 U.S.C. § 542. Instead, Plaintiff added a claim against the McCutchan Defendants for avoidance of a preferential transfer pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 547(b). On October 10, 2018, the McCutchan Defendants filed another motion to dismiss (the "Second Motion to Dismiss") [doc. 24]. In the Second Motion to Dismiss, the McCutchan Defendants asserted that: (A) some of Plaintiff's claims against certain defendants were time barred; (B) Plaintiff did not have standing to assert the § 547(b) claim; and (C) reasserting that the funds did not belong to Debtor.

On February 20, 2019, the Court held a hearing on the Second Motion to Dismiss. At that time, the Court issued a ruling granting in part and denying in part the Second Motion to Dismiss [doc. 68]. In this ruling, the Court rejected the McCutchan Defendants' argument that Plaintiff's claims were time barred. As to the McCutchan Defendants' argument that Plaintiff lacked standing, the Court noted that there was a pending motion to convert Debtor's case to a chapter 7 case. As such, the Court stated that, if the case converted to chapter 7 case, the chapter 7 trustee would have sole authority to pursue the claim under 11 U.S.C. § 547(b); otherwise, if the case remained a chapter 11 case, the Court instructed Plaintiff to file a motion for authority to pursue the claim under § 547(b). Finally, as to Plaintiff's claims for declaratory relief regarding ownership of the funds in the Account, the Court held that Plaintiff had not adequately alleged that Debtor had a right to the funds such that the Assignment Order or the Judgment Lien attached to the funds.

On March 18, 2019, the Court converted Debtor's case to a chapter 7 case. Diane Weil was appointed the chapter 7 trustee (the "Trustee").

On March 27, 2019, Plaintiff filed a second amended complaint (the "SAC") [doc. 75]. As to the McCutchan Defendants, Plaintiff alleged that the Assignment Order and Judgment Lien attached to the funds because they were originally in Debtor's attorney's account. Plaintiff also requested that, in the event the Trustee decided not to pursue the claim under 11 U.S.C. § 547(b), the Court grant Plaintiff permission to pursue the claim. Finally, Plaintiff asserted that the Assignment Order and Judgment Lien would attach to any recovery by the Trustee.

On April 22, 2019, the McCutchan Defendants filed a motion to dismiss the SAC (the "Third Motion to Dismiss") [docs. 82]. The McCutchan Defendants argued that the funds were paid as sanctions and, as a result, belonged to the McCutchan Defendants, not Debtor. As such, the McCutchan Defendants believed that that neither the Assignment Order nor the Judgment Lien attached to the funds.

On June 5, 2019 and September 11, 2019, the Court held hearings on the Third Motion to Dismiss. In its ruling on the Third Motion to Dismiss [doc. 135], the Court dismissed Plaintiff's allegations related to 11 U.S.C. § 547(b). However, the Court denied the Third Motion to Dismiss as to Plaintiff's claims of declaratory relief regarding whether the Assignment Order and Judgment Lien attached to the subject funds held by the McCutchan Defendants.

During a status conference held on the same day, the Court questioned whether it had subject matter jurisdiction over the remaining disputes between Plaintiff and the McCutchan Defendants, namely, whether the disputed funds belong to Plaintiff or the McCutchan Defendants. Given the dismissal of Plaintiff's claims which may have brought the funds into the estate, and the fact that the remaining dispute was about ownership of non-estate funds between two nondebtor parties, the Court issued an Order to Show Cause why this Court had subject matter jurisdiction over the remaining dispute (the "OSC") [doc. 141].

On November 13, 2019, the Court held a hearing on the OSC. At that time, the Court issued a ruling [doc. 150] holding that the Court did not have subject matter jurisdiction over the remaining dispute between Plaintiff and the McCutchan Defendants.

On January 14, 2020, the McCutchan Defendants filed a motion to impose sanctions against Plaintiff (the "Motion") [docs. 159, 160, 161]. In the Motion, the McCutchan Defendants assert that Plaintiff should be sanctioned because: (A) the Court dismissed all claims against the McCutchan Defendants; (B) Plaintiff made inconsistent allegations about ownership of the funds; and (C) Plaintiff did not object to the state court's award of sanctions to the McCutchan Defendants and has not otherwise alleged a legitimate entitlement to the funds. The McCutchan Defendants also attached a letter to Plaintiff asking him to dismiss all claims against the McCutchan Defendants with prejudice or risk a motion for sanctions filed before this Court.

On March 9, 2020, Plaintiff filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 190]. Plaintiff argues that the McCutchan Defendants did not comply with the safe harbor provision of Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 9011(c)(1)(A) and that the McCutchan Defendants are representing themselves pro se, and are thus not entitled to attorneys' fees. Plaintiff also asserts that the Motion is untimely and without merit and requests an award of $211.32 for costs incurred opposing the Motion.

On March 13, 2020, the McCutchan Defendants filed a reply to the Opposition (the "Reply") [doc. 197]. In the Reply, the McCutchan Defendants argue that this Court "clearly" did not have subject matter jurisdiction and that Plaintiff never pled diversity of citizenship or a claim in excess of $75,000 to establish subject matter jurisdiction. The McCutchan Defendants also assert that the Motion is timely and otherwise reiterate their bases for sanctioning Plaintiff.

II. ANALYSIS

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 9011(b)—

By presenting to the court (whether by signing, filing, submitting, or later advocating) a petition, pleading, written motion, or other paper, an attorney or unrepresented party is certifying that to the best of the person's knowledge, information, and belief, formed after an inquiry reasonable under the circumstances, --

- (1) it is not being presented for any improper purpose, such as to harass or to cause unnecessary delay or needless increase in the cost of litigation;
- (2) the claims, defenses, and other legal contentions therein are warranted by existing law or by a nonfrivolous argument for the extension, modification, or reversal of existing law or the establishment of new law;
- (3) the allegations and other factual contentions have evidentiary support or, if specifically so identified, are likely to have evidentiary support after a reasonable opportunity for further investigation or discovery; and
- (4) the denials of factual contentions are warranted on the evidence or, if specifically so identified, are reasonably based on a lack of information or belief.

Pursuant to FRBP 9011(c)—

If, after notice and a reasonable opportunity to respond, the court determines that subdivision (b) has been violated, the court may, subject to the conditions stated below, impose an appropriate sanction upon the attorneys, law firms, or parties that have violated subdivision (b) or are responsible for the violation.

(1) How initiated

(A) By Motion

A motion for sanctions under this rule shall be made separately from other motions or requests and shall describe the specific conduct alleged to violate subdivision (b). It shall be served as provided in Rule 7004. The motion for sanctions may not be filed with or presented to the court unless, within 21 days after service of the motion (or such other period as the court may prescribe), the challenged paper, claim, defense, contention, allegation, or denial is not withdrawn or appropriately corrected, except that this limitation shall not apply if the conduct alleged is the filing of a petition in violation of subdivision (b). If warranted, the court may award to the party prevailing on the motion the reasonable expenses and attorney's fees incurred in presenting or opposing the motion. Absent exceptional circumstances, a law firm shall be held jointly responsible for violations committed by its partners, associates, and employees.

(2) Nature of sanction; limitations

A sanction imposed for violation of this rule shall be limited to what is sufficient to deter repetition of such conduct or comparable conduct by others similarly situated. Subject to the limitations in subparagraphs (A) and (B), the sanction may consist of, or include, directives of a nonmonetary nature, an order to pay a penalty into court, or, if imposed on motion and warranted for effective deterrence, an order directing payment to the movant of some or all of the reasonable attorneys' fees and other expenses incurred as a direct result of the violation.

- (A) Monetary sanctions may not be awarded against a represented party for a violation of subdivision (b)(2).

- (B) Monetary sanctions may not be awarded on the court's initiative unless the court issues its order to show cause before a voluntary dismissal or settlement of the claims made by or against the party which is, or whose attorneys are, to be sanctioned.

"An award of sanctions for a violation of FRBP 9011 or its counterpart in the FRCP, Rule 11, is an exceptionally serious matter, and is reserved for those rare situations in which a claim or defense is asserted without any evidentiary support or legal basis, or for improper purposes, such as to harass or delay an opponent, or cause undue expense." In re Quinones, 543 B.R. 638, 646 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2015). "We accord the district court's determination whether to impose sanctions deference, because 'the district court is better situated than the court of appeals to marshal the pertinent facts and apply [the law].'" Air Separation, Inc. v. Underwriters at Lloyd's of London, 45 F.3d 288, 291 (9th Cir. 1995) (quoting Cooter & Gell v. Hartmarx Corp., 496 U.S. 384, 402-03 (1990)). "Courts must apply an objective test in assessing whether the rule has been violated." Yagman v. Republic Ins., 987 F.2d 622, 628 (9th Cir. 1993).

As a preliminary matter, the parties dispute whether the McCutchan Defendants complied with the safe harbor provision of FRBP 9011(c)(1)(A). Although the McCutchan Defendants sent a letter, dated December 30, 2019, describing the conduct they believe violates FRBP 9011, it is unclear if the McCutchan Defendants sent Plaintiff a copy of the Motion that was filed with the Court. In addition, the parties dispute whether the Motion is timely under Quinones, 543 B.R. 638. Given that Quinones involves motions filed after a decision on the merits, which is not the situation in this dismissal for lack of subject matter jurisdiction, Quinones does not prevent the McCutchan Defendants from filing a motion under FRBP 9011. Either way, the McCutchan Defendants have not stated a basis for sanctioning Plaintiff under FRBP 9011.

First, contrary to the McCutchan Defendants' contention, the Court did not dismiss all of Plaintiff's claims. Rather, the Court held that, although Plaintiff made sufficient allegations as to his declaratory relief claims against the McCutchan Defendants, this Court does not have subject matter jurisdiction to adjudicate the remaining dispute between the McCutchan Defendants and Plaintiff. The McCutchan Defendants appear to misunderstand the effect of the Court's holding. Pursuant to this Court's ruling, Plaintiff may proceed with his remaining claims against the McCutchan Defendants in a forum with jurisdiction. This Court has not and will not adjudicate the merits of Plaintiff's remaining claims against the McCutchan Defendants, and, as a result, the Court cannot hold that the claims are frivolous or otherwise subject to FRBP 9011.

In addition, the McCutchan Defendants' argument in the Reply that Plaintiff proceeded with his claims despite the Court lacking jurisdiction is inaccurate. Whether this Court has subject matter jurisdiction depends on whether the claims against the McCutchan Defendants would have any impact on Debtor's estate. That there was neither diversity jurisdiction nor a claim over $75,000 has an impact on this Court's jurisdiction. Given that Plaintiff initially anticipated recovering the subject transfer into the estate, the Court had subject matter jurisdiction over the claims. However, given the nature of the remaining claims, the Court held it no longer had jurisdiction over the matter. Thus, the Court will not penalize Plaintiff based on this jurisdictional argument.

Moreover, the McCutchan Defendants appear to argue that Plaintiff repeatedly pursued claims for which he did not have standing. However, Plaintiff did not repeat the same allegations in the Complaint, the FAC and the SAC. In response to the First Motion to Dismiss, wherein the McCutchan Defendants argued Plaintiff did not have standing to file a claim against them under 11 U.S.C. § 542, Plaintiff filed the FAC and removed his claim under that statute. Instead, Plaintiff attempted to pursue a claim under 11 U.S.C. § 547(b).

In its ruling on the Second Motion to Dismiss, the Court held that Plaintiff did not have standing to pursue his § 547(b) claim. However, the Court did not dismiss this claim with prejudice. Instead, the Court informed Plaintiff that, depending on the outcome of the request to convert Debtor's chapter 11 case, Plaintiff may be able to move for authority to pursue a claim under § 547(b). After conversion of Debtor's case to a chapter 7 case, Plaintiff did not pursue a claim under § 547(b); instead, Plaintiff requested leave to obtain permission from the Trustee to pursue a claim under § 547(b). In light of these changes, contrary to the McCutchan Defendants' assertion, Plaintiff did not repeat the same arguments regarding standing.

Further, that Plaintiff may have made inconsistent allegations about the ownership of funds is not a basis for sanctions under FRBP 9011. Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8(d), parties are allowed to plead in the alternative. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(d) (2) ("A party may set out 2 or more statement of a claim or defense alternatively or hypothetically, either in a single count or defense or in separate ones. If a party makes alternative statements, the pleading is sufficient if any one of them is sufficient."); and Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(d)(3) ("A party may state as many separate claims or defenses as it has, regardless of consistency.") (emphasis added).

Finally, the Court will not make any findings regarding the merits of Plaintiff's remaining claims against the McCutchan Defendants. The McCutchan Defendants may make their arguments regarding the merits of the claims in the appropriate forum.

In light of the above, the McCutchan Defendants did not have a legal or factual basis for filing the Motion. The McCutchan Defendants based the Motion on an inaccurate representation of this proceeding's history and this Court's past rulings. Consequently, pursuant to FRBP 9011(c)(1)(A), the Court will award Plaintiff the costs he incurred opposing the Motion in the total amount of $211.32.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will deny the Motion. The McCutchan Defendants must pay and file proof of payment of the $211.32 award to Plaintiff no later than April 25, 2020.

The Court will prepare the Order.

P. 7041, a complaint objecting to the debtor's discharge under 11 U.S.C. § 727 shall not be dismissed at the plaintiff's instance without notice to the chapter 7 trustee, the United States trustee, and such other persons as the court may direct, and only on order of the court containing terms and conditions which the court deems proper.

A motion for approval of the proposed settlement of the parties' adversary proceeding must be set for hearing in accordance with Local Bankruptcy Rule 9013-1. In

In addition to the motion, the parties must file written notice of the motion and the other pleadings and evidence identified in Local Bankruptcy Rule 9013-1. Written notice of the proposed settlement and the hearing thereon, in accordance with Local Bankruptcy Rule 9013-1, must be provided to the chapter 7 trustee, the Office of the U.S. Trustee and all defendants' creditors. Although the plaintiff served the motion to approve compromise [doc. 14] and the stipulation between the parties on the defendants' creditors, the plaintiff did not provide notice of the deadline for any party in interest to object.

In addition, the plaintiff's motion does not include a pertinent discussion regarding settlement of a claim under 11 U.S.C. § 727. As such, the plaintiff should file and serve an amended motion to approve the compromise between the parties. In connection with the motion, the Court will evaluate the proposed settlement in light of such cases as In re Babb, 346 B.R. 774 (Bankr. E.D. Tenn. 2006), In re Levine, 287 B.R. 683 (Bankr. E.D. Mich. 2002) and In re Armond, 240 B.R. 51 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1999), and such other relevant authorities as the parties may bring to the Court's attention in their motion for approval of the proposed settlement.

The Court will set a hearing on the amended motion at 2:30 p.m. on January 22, 2020. No later than December 18, 2019, the plaintiff must file and serve an amended motion discussing the authorities above. By the same date, the plaintiff must file and serve proper notice of the amended motion with the hearing date provided by the Court and the deadline for any parties in interest to object to the motion, 14 days prior to the hearing date.

#10.00 Debtor's Motion to "Designate" and Thereby Disqualify the Ballots of Vivavet Labs, Inc. Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §1126(e) as Not Having Been Cast in Good Faith

Docket 215

Tentative Ruling:

For the reasons stated below, the Court will deny the motion.

I. BACKGROUND

A. Debtor's Bankruptcy Case

On August 22, 2018, Integrated Dynamic Solutions, Inc. ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. On December 12, 2019, the Court entered an order [doc. 208] approving of the adequacy of Debtor's second amended disclosure statement (the "Disclosure Statement") [doc. 196]. The hearing on Debtor's second amended chapter 11 plan of reorganization (the "Plan") [doc. 197] is set for March 26, 2020.

On April 16, 2019, Vitavet Labs, Inc. ("Creditor") filed amended proof of claim 6-2, asserting a total claim in the amount of $1,475,281.89. Of that amount, Creditor asserts that $1,428,188.69 is secured by three properties owned by Debtor's principal and an account receivable, and $47,903.20 is unsecured (the "Claim"). The Claim is based on an arbitration award and state court judgment confirming that award [doc. 215, Exh. C].

On March 20, 2018, Debtor's principal, Nasrollah Gashtili, filed his own chapter 11 petition, initiating bankruptcy case 1:18-bk-10715-VK. During the pendency of his bankruptcy case, Mr. Gashtili sold the three properties referenced in the Claim and paid a portion of the proceeds to Creditor. Accordingly, the only collateral securing Creditor's claim is the account receivable.

Creditor did not make a 11 U.S.C. § 1111(b)(2) election prior to the conclusion of the hearing on the Disclosure Statement. Accordingly, in the Plan, a portion of the Claim is treated as secured in class two and a portion is treated as unsecured in class 3. Both classes are impaired. Creditor is the only creditor in class two. There are several other creditors in class three.

On January 17, 2020, Debtor filed a ballot summary and the ballots received by Debtor [doc. 216]. On both its class two and class three ballots, Creditor voted to reject the Plan (the "Ballots"). Based on these votes, class two and class three have rejected the Plan.

B. The Motion

On January 17, 2020, Debtor filed a Motion to "Designate" and Thereby Disqualify the Ballots of Vitavet Labs, Inc. Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1126(e) as Not Having Been Cast in Good Faith (the "Motion") [doc. 215]. In the Motion, Debtor argues that principals of Creditor have said on multiple occasions to multiple individuals that their goals are to cause Debtor to go out of business and to have Mr. Gashtili imprisoned. Debtor contends that such statements made repeatedly and over a period of time, demonstrate both malice and bad faith, either of which is sufficient to result in the disqualification of the Ballots.

To the support the allegations in the Motion, Debtor filed four declarations, one by Mr. Gashtili, one by Fatemeh Kiani, Mr. Gashtili's estranged spouse, one by Lindsey Green, an attorney who represented Ms. Kiani at a judgment debtor examination conducted on October 5, 2018, and one by Andrew Goodman, an attorney who represents Mr. Gashtili in his personal bankruptcy case. In Mr. Gashtili's declaration, in relevant part, he testifies as to the following:

In 2015, shortly after Debtor filed a complaint in state court against Creditor, Matt Simpson, who worked for Creditor, sent Mr. Gashtili an email requesting to meet with him [Declaration of Nasrollah Gashtili ("Gashtili Decl."), ¶ 4]. At that meeting, Mr. Simpson told Mr. Gashtili that upon the return of Creditor's attorney, Creditor would be filing a counterclaim against Debtor in the state court action. Id. at ¶ 5. At that same meeting, Mr. Simpson told Mr. Gashtili that Debtor should drop the lawsuit because Blake would never agree to settle, that he would make sure to put Debtor out business and would try to put Mr. Gashtili in jail. Id. Mr. Gashtili told Mr. Simpson that he was willing to negotiate, but Mr. Simpson demanded that Mr. Gashtili dismiss the state court complaint. Id. When Mr. Gashtili refused, Mr. Simpson stated "f you" and left the meeting. Id.

On March 14, 2016, Debtor filed a complaint in state court against Automated Systems America, Inc. ("ASAI"). Id. at ¶ 9. On October 24, 2017, Mr. Gashtili met with Larry Washor, an attorney who represented ASAI. Id. at ¶ 11. At that meeting, Mr. Washor told Mr. Gashtili that Mr. Washor was in constant contact with counsel for Creditor, that he had been told that Mr. Gashtili committed criminal fraud, that Debtor would soon be out of business and that Mr. Gashtili would be in jail. Id. at ¶ 12.

On December 12, 2017, Mr. Gashtili met with Philip Landsman, an attorney representing Creditor. Id. at ¶ 14. At that meeting, Mr. Landsman told Mr. Gashtili that Creditor's goal was not just to collect as much money as possible from Mr. Gashtili and Debtor, but also to destroy Debtor and send Mr. Gashtili to jail. Id. at ¶ 13.

After Mr. Gashtili filed his personal bankruptcy case, he had another encounter with Mr. Simpson in the hallway outside the Courtroom. Id. at ¶ 14. Mr. Simpson told Mr. Gashtili that he was a "m f," that Mr. Gashtili is hiding money and that Creditor will find the money and send Mr. Gashtili to jail for fraud. Id.

There are other instances of inappropriate behavior as well, including an instance where on the lawyers told Mr. Gashtili that he would lose all his "cases" because he was not a "real American." Id. at ¶ 15.

In Ms. Kiani's declaration, in relevant part, she testifies that on October 5, 2018, she attended a deposition regarding her financial affairs at the law office of Stella Havkin, an attorney who was representing Creditor [Declaration of Fatemeh Kiani, ¶¶ 3-4]. The parties in attendance at the deposition were Mr. Green, Mr. Simpson, Ms. Havkin, Michael Raichelson, Creditor's current attorney, and a court reporter. Id. at ¶ 5. During a break in the deposition, Ms. Kiani observed and personally heard a conversation between Mr. Green and Mr. Simpson. Id. at ¶ 6. Mr. Simpson told Mr. Green that the dispute between Debtor and Creditor was not about money and that Mr. Gashtili has and will go to jail. Id. at ¶ 8.

In Mr. Green's declaration, in relevant part, he testifies that at the October 5, 2018 deposition, he spoke with Mr. Simpson [Declaration of Lindsey Green, ¶ 4]. Mr. Green asked Mr. Simpson why Creditor was unable to reach a settlement with Debtor. Id. Mr. Simpson replied that the dispute was not about money and that he believed that Mr. Gashtili should go to jail. Id. at ¶ 5.

In Mr. Goodman's declaration, in relevant part, he testifies that on August 22, 2018, he had a conversation with Mr. Simpson [Declaration of Andrew Goodman, ¶ 2]. Mr. Simpson told Mr. Goodman that if Debtor filed a bankruptcy petition, Creditor would never settle. Id. Mr. Simpson stated that Creditor would file multiple lawsuits against Mr. Gashtili, Debtor and Ms. Kiani in an attempt to make sure that Debtor went out of business and Mr. Gashtili goes to jail for fraudulent transfer of assets. Id. Debtor filed its bankruptcy petition later that day. Id. at ¶ 4.

On March 12, 2020, Creditor filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 225]. In the Opposition, Creditor argues that the Motion ignores the fact that the Plan goes against Creditor's economic self-interest by impermissibly stripping Creditor's lien from the account receivable and by making no payments to Creditor for two years. Creditor contends that the Motion fails to mention any time that Creditor has taken affirmative steps intended to harm other creditors, such as purchasing other unsecured claims, or to put Debtor out of business.

To support the Opposition, Creditor filed four declarations, one by Blake Kirschbaum, Creditor's sole owner and principal, one by Ms. Havkin, one by Mr. Raichelson and one by Mr. Landsman.

In Mr. Kirschbaum's declaration, he testifies, in relevant part, that Mr. Simpson was neither a principal of Creditor nor employed by Creditor at the time Creditor cast the Ballots [Declaration of Blake Kirschbaum ("Kirschbaum Decl."), ¶ 4]. Mr. Kirschbaum testifies that Mr. Simpson and Creditor parted ways in April 2019. Id. Mr. Kirschbaum testifies that Creditor cast the Ballots more than nine months after Mr. Simpson left the company, and Mr. Simpson played no part in Mr. Kirschbaum's decision to reject the Plan. Id. Mr. Kirschbaum testifies that his decision to reject the Plan on behalf of Creditor was based on Creditor's own self-economic interest. Id. at ¶¶ 3, 6.

In Ms. Havkin's declaration, in relevant part, she testifies that she represented Creditor at the October 5, 2018 deposition [Declaration of Stella Havkin, ¶ 2]. Ms. Havkin testifies that she does not recall any recess during the examination wherein Mr. Green was alone with Mr. Simpson and she does not recall any conversations between Mr. Green and Mr. Simpson wherein Mr. Simpson stated that the dispute was not about money and that Mr. Gashtili should go to jail. Id. at ¶ 3. Ms. Havkin further testifies that it is not her custom or practice to allow attorneys to speak to her client's representative directly during breaks in examination outside of her presence. Id. Mr. Raichelson testifies as to the same in his declaration [Declaration of Michael Raichelson ("Raichelson Decl."), ¶ 6].

Mr. Raichelson also testifies that at a deposition on January 30, 2020, he questioned Mr. Gashtili about the allegation that an attorney told him he would lose all his cases because he was not a real American, and that Mr. Gashtili testified that the attorney who allegedly made this statement was Mr. Washor [Raichelson Decl., ¶ 7, Exh. A]. Mr. Kirschbaum testifies that Mr. Washor has never represented Creditor. [Kirschbaum Decl., ¶ 5].

In Mr. Landsman's declaration, he testifies, in relevant part, that he represented Creditor in its judgment collection efforts in the state court [Declaration of Philip Landsman, ¶ 2]. Mr. Landsman testifies that he met with Mr. Gashtili on December 12, 2017, for a judgment debtor examination. Id. Mr. Landsman testifies that he did not tell Mr. Gashtili, before, during or after the judgment debtor examination, that Creditor's goal was to destroy Debtor and send Mr. Gashtili to jail. Id.

On March 19, 2020, Debtor filed a reply to the Opposition (the "Reply") [doc. 228]. In the Reply, Debtor states that it is seeking a designation only of Creditor's vote in class three. Debtor believes that designation of Creditor's class two vote is irrelevant.

notice and a hearing, the court may designate any entity whose acceptance or rejection of [a] plan was not in good faith, or was not solicited or procured in good faith or in accordance with the provisions of this title." 11 U.S.C. § 1126(e). As the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has explained:

In this context, designate means disqualify from voting. The Bankruptcy Code does not further define the rather murky term "good faith." That job has been left to the courts.

The Supreme Court brought some clarity to this area when it decided Young v. Higbee Co., 324 U.S. 204, 65 S.Ct. 594, 89 L.Ed. 890 (1945). In Young, the Court was discussing the predecessor to § 1126(e) when it declared that if certain persons "had declined to accept [the] plan in bad faith, the court, under section 203 could have denied them the right to vote on the plan at all." Id. at 210– 11, 65 S. Ct. at 598 (footnote omitted). It went on to explain that the provision was intended to apply to those "whose selfish purpose was to obstruct a fair and feasible reorganization in the hope that someone would pay them more than the ratable equivalent of their proportionate part of the bankrupt assets." Id. at 211, 65 S. Ct. at 598. In other words, the section was intended to apply to those who were not attempting to protect their own proper interests, but who were, instead, attempting to obtain some benefit to which they were not entitled. See also Insinger Machine Co. v. Federal Support Co. (In re Federal Support Co.), 859 F.2d 17, 19 (4th Cir.1988). . . . Other courts have further illuminated the area.

If a person seeks to secure some untoward advantage over other creditors for some ulterior motive, that will indicate bad faith. See In re Marin Town Ctr., 142 B.R. 374, 378–79 (N.D.Cal.1992). But that does not mean that creditors are expected to approach reorganization plan votes with a high degree of altruism and with the desire to help the debtor and their fellow creditors. Far from it.

If a selfish motive were sufficient to condemn reorganization policies of interested parties, very few, if any, would pass muster. On the other hand, pure malice, "strikes" and blackmail, and the purpose to destroy an enterprise in order to advance the interests of a competing business, all plainly constituting bad faith, are motives which may be accurately described as ulterior.

In re Pine Hill Collieries Co., 46 F.Supp. 669, 671 (E.D.Pa.1942). That is to say, we do not condemn mere enlightened self interest, even if it appears selfish to those who do not benefit from it. See id. . . . That self interest can extend even further without being an ulterior motive. It has been held that a creditor commits no wrong when he votes against a plan of a debtor who has a lawsuit pending against the creditor, for that will not, by itself, show bad faith. See Federal Support Co., 859 F.2d at 20; see also In re A.D.W., Inc., 90 B.R. 645, 651 (Bankr.D.N.J.1988); In re Landau Boat Co., 8 B.R. 432, 436 (Bankr.W.D.Mo.1981). It has also been held that no bad faith is shown when a creditor chooses to benefit his interest as a creditor as opposed to some unrelated interest. See In re Landing Assocs., Ltd., 157 B.R. 791, 803 (Bankr.W.D.Tex.1993); In re Peter Thompson Assocs., Inc., 155 B.R. 20, 22 (Bankr.D.N.H.1993). And the mere fact that a creditor has purchased additional claims for the purpose of protecting his own existing claim does not demonstrate bad faith or an ulterior motive. "As long as a creditor acts to preserve what he reasonably perceives as his fair share of the debtor's estate, bad faith will not be attributed to his purchase of claims to control a class vote." In re Gilbert, 104 B.R. 206, 217 (Bankr.W.D.Mo.1989).

Courts, on the other hand, have been sensitive to situations where a company, which was not a preexisting creditor, has purchased a claim for the purpose of blocking an action against it. They have seen that as an indication of bad faith. See In re Keyworth, 47 B.R. 966, 971-72 (D.Colo.1985). The same has been true where creditors were associated with a competing business and desired to destroy the debtor's business in order to further their own. See In re MacLeod Co., Inc., 63 B.R. 654, 655 (Bankr.S.D.Ohio 1986); see also In re Allegheny Int'l, Inc., 118 B.R. 282, 289 (Bankr.W.D.Pa.1990). And when the debtor had claims against itself purchased by an insider or affiliate for the purpose of blocking a plan, or fostering one, that was seen as a badge of bad faith. See In re Holly Knoll Partnership, 167 B.R. 381, 389 (Bankr.E.D.Pa.1994) (fostering); In re Applegate Property, Ltd., 133 B.R. 827, 834–35 (Bankr.W.D.Tex.1991) (blocking).

In short, the concept of good faith is a fluid one, and no single factor can be said to inexorably demand an ultimate result, nor must a single set of factors be considered. It is always necessary to keep in mind the difference between a creditor's self interest as a creditor and a motive which is ulterior to the purpose of protecting a creditor's interest. Prior cases can offer guidance, but, when all is said and done, the bankruptcy court must simply approach each good faith determination with a perspicacity derived from the data of its informed practical experience in dealing with bankrupts and their creditors.

In re Figter Ltd., 118 F.3d 635, 638–40 (9th Cir. 1997) (emphasis added).

"Courts have consistently held that the right of creditors to vote on a plan is a critical feature of Chapter 11, and the party seeking to disallow a vote bears a heavy burden." In re Indianapolis Downs, LLC., 486 B.R. 286, 296 (Bankr. D. Del. 2013); see also In re DBSD North America, Inc., 634 F.3d 79, 102 (2nd Cir. 2011) ("[A] party seeking to designate another's vote bears the burden of proving that it was not cast [or solicited] in good faith.") (citation omitted); In re Charles St. African Methodist Episcopal Church, 480 B.R. 66, 68 (Bankr. D. Mass. 2012) ("the burden of proving good faith is on the party seeking designation") (citation omitted). "Designation of a creditor's vote is a drastic remedy, and, as a result, designation of votes is the exception, not the rule." Indianapolis Downs, LLC., 486 B.R. at 296.

Based on the above authorities, even assuming all the statements referenced in the Motion were made, Debtor has not met its heavy burden of proving that the Ballots were not cast in good faith. Debtor provided no evidence that by rejecting the Plan, Creditor is attempting to obtain a benefit to which it is not entitled or to secure an untoward advantage over other creditors for an ulterior motive.

The Motion references statements made by Mr. Washor, an attorney for ASAI. Debtor provided no evidence that Mr. Washor ever represented Creditor. Accordingly, any statements made by him cannot be attributable to Creditor's intent.

The Motion also references statements made by Mr. Simpson. Creditor provided evidence that Mr. Simpson was not involved in the decision-making process regarding the Ballots, and had not been employed by Creditor for nine months prior to that decision. Debtor did not provide contradictory evidence.

In the Reply, Debtor argues that although Mr. Simpson was not employed by Creditor at the time it cast the Ballots, his statements are evidence of Creditor's intent. While it may be true that his statements could have evidenced Creditor's intent at prior times, those statements are not evidence of Creditor's intent when casting the Ballots. Mr. Simpson was not involved Creditor's decision to reject the Plan. The only person involved in Creditor's decision to reject the Plan was Mr. Kirschbaum. Accordingly, the relevant inquiry regarding Creditor's intent at the time of casting the Ballots would be that of Mr. Kirschbaum's; not Mr. Simpson. None of the statements referenced in the Motion were alleged to be made by Mr. Kirschbaum.

Regarding the other instances of inappropriate behavior referenced in the Motion, Creditor provided evidence that Mr. Gashtili testified that Mr. Washor made the statement regarding him not being a "real American;" not an attorney representing Creditor. Debtor did not dispute this evidence.

Regarding the statements referenced in the Motion alleged to be made by Mr. Landsman, those statements were made in 2017. Although the statements, which Mr. Landsman denies making, could have been evidence of Creditor's intent in 2017, it is hard to see how those statements would be relevant to Creditor's intent in casting the Ballots three years later. The statements were made before Debtor even filed its chapter 11 petition.

This case is not analogous to the cases where courts have designated ballots. Creditor has not purchased claims for the purpose of blocking the Plan, and Creditor is not associated with a competing business that would like to destroy Debtor's business to further its own interest. The two cases cited by Debtor in the Motion, In re Figter Ltd., 118 F.3d 635 (9th Cir. 1997) and In re Fagerdala, 891 F.3d 848 (9th Cir. 2018), are both cases involving creditors who purchased unsecured claims. Additionally, the courts in those cases declined to designate the ballots. Debtor did not cite to any case where a court designated a ballot based only on the creditor's hostility toward the debtor, and the Court could not find one.

The court in In re Pine Hill Collieries Co., 46 F.Supp. 669 (E.D. Pa. 1942), states that pure malice constitutes bad faith. That does not appear to be the case here. Mr. Kirschbaum testified that Creditor voted to reject the Plan based on its own economic self-interest. As the Court explains in the tentative ruling on the confirmation of the Plan, calendar number 11, the Plan is not confirmable based in part on Creditor's treatment under the Plan. Creditors are entitled to vote on chapter 11 plans based on their own self-interest, and it appears that is what Creditor has done. Designating a ballot is a drastic remedy, and it does appear that such a drastic remedy is appropriate at this time.

III. CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, the Court will deny the Motion.

Creditor must submit the order within seven (7) days.

Chapter 11

#11.00 Confirmation Hearing Re: 2nd Amended Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization

Docket 197

Tentative Ruling:

The Court will deny confirmation of the Debtor's Proposed Plan of Reorganization Dated November 1, 2019 (the "Plan") [doc. 197].

A. Background

On August 22, 2018, Integrated Dynamic Solutions, Inc. ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. Pre-petition, on July 30, 2014, Debtor and Automated Systems America, Inc. ("ASAI") entered into a licensing agreement (the "Agreement") [doc. 88, Exh. C]. Under the terms of the Agreement, Debtor granted ASAI the non-exclusive right and license to use its software. Id. at sec. 1.1. In return, ASAI was to pay Debtor a one-time license fee in the aggregate amount of $2,200,000.00. Id. at sec. 1.3. ASAI was to pay $200,000.00 by August 1, 2014, and the remaining $2,000,000.00 is to be paid in monthly installments of $16,666.67 for 120 months (the "ASAI Receivable"). Id. Accordingly, the last payment will be made in September 2024. ASAI has remained current on these payments.

On April 16, 2019, Vitavet Labs, Inc. ("VitaVet") filed amended proof of claim 6-2, asserting a total claim in the amount of $1,475,281.89. Of that amount, VitaVet asserts that $1,428,188.69 is secured by the ASAI Receivable and three real properties owned by Debtor's principal, Nasrollah Gashtili, and $47,903.20 is unsecured (the "VitaVet Claim"). The VitaVet Claim is based on an arbitration award and state court judgment confirming that award [doc. 215, Exh. C].

On March 20, 2018, Mr. Gashtili filed his own chapter 11 petition, initiating bankruptcy case 1:18-bk-10715-VK. During the pendency of his bankruptcy case, Mr. Gashtili sold the three real properties referenced in the VitaVet Claim and paid a portion of the proceeds to VitaVet. Accordingly, the only collateral securing VitaVet's claim is the ASAI Receivable.

On September 6, 2018, Debtor filed an emergency motion for an order authorizing interim and final use of cash collateral (the "First CC Motion") [doc. 18]. VitaVet opposed the First CC Motion. The Court held several hearings on the First CC Motion and allowed the parties to submit supplemental briefing.

On December 7, 2018, the Court entered an order on the First CC Motion granting it in part, and denying in part [doc. 81]. Specifically, the Court prohibited Debtor from using the $16,666.67 received each month from ASAI. The Court noted, in relevant part, in ruling on the First CC Motion,

Keeping in mind that the "ASAI Receivable" is a finite sum of money, it appears that the debtor has not demonstrated the existence of adequate protection for its proposed, ongoing use of the monthly payments made by "ASAI."

Doc. 105, Exh. A.

On December 19, 2018, Debtor filed a second motion for use of cash collateral (the "Second CC Motion") [doc. 88]. On February 1, 2019, the Court entered an order granting in part, and denying in part the Second CC Motion [doc. 130]. Specifically, the Court continued to prohibit Debtor from using the $16,666.67 received each month from ASAI. As the Court noted in its ruling on the Second CC Motion [doc. 118], the ASAI Receivable is subject to VitaVet's judgment lien on personal property.

On January 8, 2019, ASAI filed proof of claim 8-1, asserting an unsecured claim in the amount of $16,000,000 based on state court litigation between Debtor and ASAI (the "ASAI Claim"). On January 22, 2020, the Court entered an order approving a stipulation between Debtor and ASAI for relief from the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362 to proceed with that state court litigation.

On October 31, 2019, Debtor filed the Plan. On December 12, 2019, the Court entered an order [doc. 208] approving the adequacy of Debtor's second amended disclosure statement (the "Disclosure Statement") [doc. 196].

Receivable to fund the Plan. According to Debtor's most recently filed monthly operating report for February 2020, the cash collateral DIP account contains $276,382.11. The Plan is a 108-month plan. The monthly payments from ASAI on account of the ASAI Receivable will end in month 55 of the plan.

Under the Plan, on month one, Debtor will make a one-time payment of $120,000 to Mr. Gashtili. Starting on month two continuing through month 108, Debtor will pay Mr. Gashtili monthly compensation. Mr. Gashtili's monthly compensation varies during the duration of the Plan, at a high of $26,000 per month and a low of $14,000 per month. During the pendency of Debtor's bankruptcy case, Debtor has paid Mr. Gashtili monthly compensation in the amount of $10,000. In total, by month 24 of the Plan, Mr. Gashtili will receive $706,000 from Debtor.

Under the Plan, all classes are impaired. Class 1 consists of a secured claim filed by Gordan T. Graves. The treatment of that claim is consistent with the parties' plan treatment stipulation, which was approved by the Court [doc. 106]. Class 1 voted to accept the Plan.

Class 2 consists of VitaVet's secured claim. VitaVet did not make a 11 U.S.C. § 1111(b)(2) election prior to the conclusion of the hearing on the Disclosure Statement. Accordingly, in the Plan, $907,000 of the VitaVet Claim is treated as secured in class 2 and $356,723 is treated as unsecured in class 3. VitaVet is the only creditor in class 2. Under the Plan, Debtor proposes to make monthly payments to VitaVet on account of its secured claim. The monthly payments start in month 25 and continue through month 108. Debtor proposes to pay $2,500 per month for months 25 to 36, then $5,000 per month for months 37 to 48, then $15,000 per month for months 49 to 90, then $30,000 per month for months 91 to 107, then a final payment of $25,034.60 in month 108. Under the Plan, VitaVet does not retain its lien on the ASAI Receivable. Class 2 voted to reject the Plan.

Class 3 consists of unsecured claims totaling $16,517,230.54. This amount includes the ASAI Claim and the deficiency of VitaVet's claim. There are several other creditors in class 3. Under the Plan, Debtor proposes to pay members of class 3 their pro rata share of $31,500. Debtor proposes to make quarterly payments in the amount of $1,500 starting in month 30 and continuing through month 87, and one final payment of $1,500 in month 99. Class 3 voted to reject the Plan.

Class 4 consists of Mr. Gashtili's equity interest in Debtor. Under the Plan, Mr. Gashtili will retain his 100% equity interest in Debtor in exchange for contributing $15,000 in new value.

The Plan provides for Debtor to receive a discharge pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1141(d) upon the effective date of the Plan. If Debtor materially defaults under the Plan and the default is not cured, affected creditors may sue to enforce the terms of the Plan or seek to dismiss or convert the case to one under chapter 7.

On January 17, 2020, Debtor filed Debtor's Confirmation Brief in Support of Reorganization Plan Filed October 31, 2019 (the "Brief") [doc. 218]. On February 27, 2020, VitaVet filed an objection to the Plan (the "Objection") [doc. 223] and a declaration in support of the Objection [doc. 224]. On March 19, 2020, Debtor filed a reply to the Objection [doc. 227].

C. 11 U.S.C. § 1129

Because not all impaired classes voted to accept the Plan, the Court may not confirm the Plan under § 1129(a) alone. However, the Court may confirm the Plan if it complies with all applicable requirements under § 1129(a) (except for § 1129(a)(8)) and if Debtor shows that the Plan does not discriminate unfairly and is fair and equitable with respect to each impaired class of claims or interests that has rejected the Plan.

11 U.S.C. § 1129(b)(1) provides:

Notwithstanding section 510(a) of this title, if all of the applicable requirements of subsection (a) of this section other than paragraph (8) are met with respect to a plan, the court, on request of the proponent of the plan, shall confirm the plan notwithstanding the requirements of such paragraph if the plan does not discriminate unfairly, and is fair and equitable, with respect to each class of claims or interests that is impaired under, and has not accepted, the plan.

The Plan satisfies § 1129(b)(1) to the extent that the Plan does not discriminate unfairly among members of an impaired, non-accepting class. Under the Plan, the member in class 2 will receive aggregate payments in the amount of $1,255,034.60 and all members of class 3 will receive a pro rata share of $31,500.

11 U.S.C. § 1129(b)(2) provides:

For the purpose of this subsection, the condition that a plan be fair and equitable with respect to a class includes the following requirements:

(A) With respect to a class of secured claims, the plan provides—

(i) (I) that the holders of such claims retain the liens securing such claims, whether the property subject to such liens is retained by the debtor or transferred to another entity, to the extent of the allowed amount of such claims; and

(II) that each holder of a claim of such class receive on account of such claim deferred cash payments totaling at least the allowed amount of such claim, of a value, as of the effective date of the plan, of at least the value of such holder's interest in the estate's interest in such property;

(ii) for the sale, subject to section 363(k) of this title, of any property that is subject to the liens securing such claims, free and clear of such liens, with such liens to attach to the proceeds of such sale, and the treatment of such liens on proceeds under clause (i) or (iii) of this subparagraph; or

(iii) for the realization by such holders of the indubitable equivalent of such claims.

(B) With respect to a class of unsecured claims—

(i) the plan provides that each holder of a claim of such class receive or retain on account of such claim property of a value, as of the effective date of the plan, equal to the allowed amount of such claim; or

- (ii) the holder of any claim or interest that is junior to the claims of such class will not receive or retain under the plan on account of such junior claim or interest any property, except that in a case in which the debtor is an individual, the debtor may retain property included in the estate under section 1115, subject to the requirements of subsection (a)(14) of this section.

(C) With respect to a class of interests—

- (i) the plan provides that each holder of an interest of such class receive or retain on account of such interest property of a value, as of the effective date of the plan, equal to the greatest of the allowed amount of any fixed liquidation preference to which such holder is entitled, any fixed redemption price to which such holder is entitled, or the value of such interest; or
- (ii) the holder of any interest that is junior to the interests of such class will not receive or retain under the plan on account of such junior interest any property. . . .

D. Indubitable Equivalent

Although the Plan proposes to make deferred cash payments to VitaVet, which appears to trigger the provisions of 11 U.S.C. § 1129(b)(2)(A)(i), the Plan does not provide for VitaVet to retain its lien on the ASAI Receivable. As such, the Plan is not fair and equitable under that provision. Instead, Debtor argues that the Plan is fair and equitable as to class 2 because VitaVet will receive the indubitable equivalent of its claim in accordance with § 1129(b)(2)(A)(iii).

Under 11 U.S.C. § 1129(b)(2)(A)(iii), a plan is "fair and equitable" if, with respect to a class of secured claims, it provides "for the realization by such holders of the indubitable equivalent of such claims." "In more basic terms, if a reorganization plan is to bind an unconsenting creditor, the creditor should hold at least the same value of claims under the plan as it would hold without the plan: an ‘indubitable equivalence.’”

In re Wiersma, 227 F. App'x 603, 606–07 (9th Cir. 2007).

“The Ninth Circuit has recognized two components of an indubitably equivalent substitute: It must both ‘compensate for present value’ and ‘insure the safety of the principal.’” Wiersma, 227 F. App'x 603 at 607(citing Crocker Nat'l Bank v. Am. Mariner Indus., Inc. (In re Am. Mariner Indus., Inc.), 734 F.2d 426, 433 (9th Cir.1984) (abrogated on other grounds)). Where the plan changes a secured creditor's rights in the collateral, providing the indubitable equivalent requires that the plan provide substitute collateral or other assurances that the creditor's risk is not increased. In re Arnold & Baker Farms, 85 F.3d 1415, 1422 (9th Cir.1996) (citation omitted).

“This principle has been well recognized in the context of using cash collateral post-confirmation to fund a Chapter 11 reorganization.” In re Souza, No. 12-13341, 2012 WL 8441318, at *6 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. Nov. 26, 2012); see e.g., In re Griswold Bldg., LLC, 420 B.R. 666, 705–06 (Bankr. E.D. Mich. 2009) (“Debtors propose to use the Lender's cash collateral to pay claims that have a lower priority under the Bankruptcy Code than the claims of the Lender, without providing any replacement collateral for the Lender. It is hard to see how that is fair and equitable.”).

Here, VitaVet has a security interest in the ASAI Receivable. The Plan proposes to use the ASAI Receivable to pay administrative and tax claims under the Plan and in Mr. Gashtili’s bankruptcy case, without providing some additional protection to VitaVet. Although the deferred payments starting in month 25 of the Plan and continuing through month 108 may compensate VitaVet for the present value of its collateral over the life of the Plan, the payments do not insure the safety of the principal.

As the Court has noted previously, the ASAI Receivable is a finite sum of money. The monthly payments from ASAI will end in month 55 of the Plan. Debtor proposes to use $400,000 of those funds before VitaVet receives any compensation on account of its secured claim. Although Debtor will make deferred payments, Debtor is not offering to provide replacement collateral that is equivalent to the value of the funds already collected and segregated in the cash collateral DIP account and the future funds to be paid by ASAI during months 1 through 55 of the Plan. Leaving VitaVet without security in the event that Debtor defaults under the Plan is not the indubitable equivalent of having a lien on a current and paying receivable. Under the Plan, VitaVet's risk is increased. As a result, Debtor has not carried its burden of proof that the Plan is fair and equitable.

E. Absolute Priority Rule

Under the Plan, Debtor's principal retains his equity interest, so class 3—unsecured creditors classified senior to the debtor's members—must be paid the full present value of their claim. The unsecured class 3 claims will not be paid in full under the Plan as of the effective date.

"Allowing old equity to retain an interest does not violate the absolute priority rule if the former equity holders provide new value to the reorganized debtor, under the 'new value corollary' to the absolute priority rule." In re Ambanc La Mesa Ltd. P'ship, 115 F.3d 650, 654 (9th Cir. 1997). "The new value corollary requires that former equity holders offer value under the Plan that is (1) new, (2) substantial, (3) in money or money's worth, (4) necessary for successful reorganization, and (5) reasonably equivalent to the value or interest received." Id. "The burden is clearly on the proponent of the plan to satisfy all the requirements of the new value exception." In re Tucson Self-Storage, Inc., 166 B.R. 892, 899 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1994).

1. Substantial

"[T]he new value contribution [must] be 'substantial' in comparison to such things as" (1) the total unsecured claims against the debtor, (2) the claims being discharged, or (3) the dividend being paid on unsecured claims by virtue of the contribution." Ambanc La Mesa Ltd. P'ship, 115 F.3d at 655.

Although there is no bright line rule, a review of several cases provides a general overview of what courts consider "substantial." For instance, in Ambanc, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals held that a contribution that was 0.5% of the total unsecured debt was a de minimis contribution that did not satisfy the substantiality element. Ambanc, 115 F.3d at 655. In reaching this conclusion, the Court of Appeals relied on three cases where courts held that contributions between 1.56% and 3.8% were insufficient to satisfy the substantiality requirement. See Matter of Woodbrook Assocs., 19 F.3d 312 (7th Cir. 1994) (finding that a $100,000 contribution was not substantial because it represented 3.8% of $2,600,000 in unsecured debt); Matter of Snyder, 967 F.2d 1126, 1131 (7th Cir. 1992) (holding that "the disparity between the contribution and the unsecured debt," 2.2% of approximately $1,000,000 unsecured claims, was "so extreme ... there [was] no need to proceed any further"); and In re Olson, 80 B.R. 935, 937 (Bankr. C.D. Ill. 1987) (finding that a $5,000 contribution was not substantial because it represented 1.56% of $320,000 in unsecured debt).

Other courts have held similarly. For instance, in In re H.H. Distributions, L.P., 400 B.R. 44, 52-53 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 2009), the court aggregated cases and held that a contribution totaling "slightly less than 3% of the unsecured debt" was not substantial. The court referenced multiple cases in reaching this conclusion. See, e.g. In re Haskell Dawes, Inc., 199 B.R. 867, 876-77 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 1996) (holding that a 5.1% contribution was insubstantial); and In re Sovereign Group 1985-27, Ltd., 142 B.R. 702, 710 (E.D. Pa. 1992) (holding that a 3.6% contribution was insubstantial).

Here, the allowed claims in class 3 total $16,517,230.54. A payment of $15,000 constitutes 0.09% of those allowed claims. Debtor argues that the amount of unsecured debt should be considered $207,600.54 because the ASAI Claim is not liquidated and is subject to offset by Debtor's claims against ASAI in the state court litigation. However, Debtor has not filed an objection to the ASAI Claim. Accordingly, at this time, the ASAI Claim is an allowed claim. As such, the Court cannot disregard the claim for purposes of this calculation as Debtor requests. Under the above authorities, a 0.09% payment is not substantial.

2. Reasonably Equivalent to the Value or Interest Received

The "new value" contributed must be reasonably equivalent to the value of the interest received or retained. Ambanc La Mesa Ltd. P'ship, 115 F.3d at 654-656. "[The] equivalency requirement ensures that equity holders will not eviscerate the absolute priority rule by means of gratuitous, token cash infusions proposed primarily to 'buy' cheap financing." In re Crosscreek Apts., Ltd., 213 BR 521, 548 (Bankr. E.D. Tenn. 1997) (internal quotes omitted).

Here, in the Brief, Debtor argues that the value received must be equal to Debtor's nonexempt assets. Debtor cites to In re Juarez, 603 B.R. 610 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2019). Juarez is not applicable to this case. Juarez involved an individual debtor; not a corporation.

Regarding corporate debtors, determining whether the new value is reasonably equivalent to the interest received ordinarily requires the value of the debtor in possession's business to be determined on a 'going concern' basis. Consol. Rock Prod. Co. v. Du Bois, 312 U.S. 510, 525-26, 61 S. Ct. 675, 685, 85 L. Ed. 982 (1941). Debtor has not provided a valuation of its business as a going concern, and in the Disclosure Statement, Debtor provides a calculation only of its liquidation value.

Additionally, the Supreme Court of the United States "requires that the quantum of new value be market tested; otherwise the parties and the court cannot know whether the amount of new value proposed in the debtor's plan is the most available." In re NNN Parkway 400 26, LLC, 505 B.R. 277, 281 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2014) (citing Bank of America Nat'l Trust & Sav. Ass'n v. 203 N. LaSalle Street P'ship, 526 U.S. 434, 456-57, 119 S.Ct. 1411, 1424, 143 L.Ed.2d 607 (1999)). Debtor has not provided a market tested valuation under LaSalle. Accordingly, Debtor has not met its burden with respect to this requirement.

F. Feasibility

In the Objection, VitaVet argues that the Plan is not feasible. Because the Court is denying confirmation of the Plan (as discussed above), the Court will not rule on whether the Plan is feasible. To satisfy other standards for confirmation, Debtor must amend the Plan, and any such feasibility analysis will necessarily change based on that amendment.

G. Bad Faith

In the Objection, VitaVet argues, among other things, that the Plan was filed in bad faith. In the Reply, Debtor refutes VitaVet's allegations. Because the Plan fails to satisfy other prerequisites to confirmation, at this time, the Court declines to rule on whether Debtor filed the Plan in bad faith.

VitaVet must submit the order within seven (7) days.

#16.00 Debtor's Motion to Avoid Lien Under 11 U.S.C. §522(f) with Jennifer Hoult

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

I. BACKGROUND

Prepetition, on November 15, 2019, creditor Jennifer Hoult obtained a writ of execution (the "Writ") against Jason Scott Fontaine ("Debtor"). Motion [doc. 11], Exhibit 3. On January 2, 2020, Debtor filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On January 5, 2020, Ms. Hoult was sent notice of Debtor's bankruptcy case through her counsel [doc. 7].

In his schedule A/B [doc. 9], Debtor listed an interest in several checking and savings accounts. In his schedule C, filed on January 16, 2020, Debtor claimed exemptions in his accounts under California Code of Civil Procedure § 703.140(b) (5).

On January 7, 2020, the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department (the "Sheriff") sent a notice of levy to Debtor (the "Notice of Levy"). Motion, Exhibit 3. On January 8, 2020, Bank of America sent notices to Debtor that his accounts were being levied and that the accounts would be frozen. Motion, Exhibit 2. Bank of America also informed Debtor that it was holding $10,303.19 pending a determination by the chapter 7 trustee as to ownership of the funds. Id. On January 17, 2020, the Sheriff sent a notice of Debtor's bankruptcy to Ms. Hoult. Motion, Exhibit 3.

On January 24, 2020, Debtor filed the Motion [doc. 11]. In the Motion, Debtor requests avoidance of the lien in favor of Ms. Hoult because it impairs his exemption in the accounts. Debtor also requests turnover of the $10,303.19 held by Bank of America on account of the Notice of Levy.

On February 10, 2020, Ms. Hoult filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 17]. In the Opposition, Ms. Hoult contends that she levied the funds prior to obtaining notice of Debtor's bankruptcy. Ms. Hoult also argues that the Motion should be denied because Debtor's case is a bad faith filing and the U.S. Trustee allegedly is assessing that issue. To date, a motion to dismiss Debtor's case has not been filed. Debtor did not timely file a reply to the Opposition.

II. ANALYSIS

Here, neither party has provided relevant law regarding whether the execution lien at issue may be avoided under 11 U.S.C. § 522(f) or if, as discussed below, an execution lien arose at all. Pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure ("CCP") § 697.710, "[a] levy on property under a writ of execution creates an execution lien on the property from the time of levy until the expiration of two years after the date of issuance of the writ unless the judgment is sooner satisfied."

"When a writ of execution is levied upon, an execution lien arises. An execution lien is an avoidable judicial lien." In re Coy, 552 B.R. 199, 203 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016). "Upon levy (i.e., upon recordation of the notice of levy and writ of execution), an execution lien is created by operation of law." Id., at 204 (citing CCP § 697.710) (emphasis added); see also Diamond Heights Vill. Ass'n, Inc. v. Fin. Freedom Senior Funding Corp., 196 Cal.App.4th 290, 302 (Ct. App. 2011) ("An execution lien does not arise when a writ of execution is issued by the court, but rather when the levying officer levies the property (constructively seizes it) by recording a copy of the writ of execution and notice of levy.").

Here, the parties have not provided a complete record to the Court. As such, it is unclear when the Notice of Levy and the Writ were recorded. The only information we have is that the Notice of Levy was delivered to Debtor postpetition, on January 7, 2020. To the extent the Notice of Levy also was recorded postpetition, the lien would not arise until after the petition date.

Generally, "the nature and extent of exemption is determined as of the date that the bankruptcy petition is filed." In re Chiu, 266 B.R. 743, 751 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2001). "Because lien avoidance is part and parcel of the exemption scheme, the right to avoid a judicial lien must also be determined as of the petition date." Id. Although, as explained by Chiu, exemption rights are determined as of the petition date, some courts have held that liens arising postpetition may be avoided if the underlying debt arose prepetition and the debtor had a right to his or her exemption as of the petition date. See, e.g. In re Vaughan, 311 B.R. 573 (B.A.P. 10th Cir. 2004); In re Corio, 371 Fed. App'x 352 (3d Cir. Mar. 24, 2010) (relying on Vaughan); and In re Feathers, 2015 WL 1598087 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 7, 2015) (relying on Vaughan). These cases referenced 11 U.S.C. § 522(c) to reach their conclusion. Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 522(c)—

Unless the case is dismissed, property exempted under this section is not liable during or after the case for any debt of the debtor that arose, or that is determined under section 502 of this title as if such debt had arisen, before the commencement of the case, except—

- (1) a debt of a kind specified in paragraph (1) or (5) of section 523(a) (in which case, notwithstanding any provision of applicable nonbankruptcy law to the contrary, such property shall be liable for a debt of a kind specified in such paragraph);
- (2) a debt secured by a lien that is—
 - (A)
 - (i) not avoided under subsection (f) or (g) of this section or under section 544, 545, 547, 548, 549, or 724(a) of this title; and
 - (ii) not void under section 506(d) of this title; or
 - (B) a tax lien, notice of which is properly filed;
- (3) a debt of a kind specified in section 523(a)(4) or 523(a)(6) of this title owed by an institution-affiliated party of an insured depository institution to a Federal depository institutions regulatory agency acting in its capacity as conservator, receiver, or liquidating agent for such institution; or
- (4) a debt in connection with fraud in the obtaining or providing of any scholarship, grant, loan, tuition, discount, award, or other financial assistance for purposes of financing an education at an institution of higher education (as that term is defined in section 101 of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1001)).

In Feathers, the Securities and Exchange Commission (the "SEC") had a pending action against the debtor at the time the debtor filed his chapter 7 petition. Feathers, 2015 WL 1598087 at *1. Postpetition, the district court entered judgment in favor of the SEC and, subsequently, the SEC obtained a judgment of nondischargeability under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(19). Id.

After the debtor received his discharge and the debtor's case was closed, the SEC recorded an abstract of judgment, thereby attaching a judicial lien to the debtor's real property. Id. The debtor then reopened his bankruptcy case and moved for avoidance of the SEC's lien. Id. The bankruptcy court held that the debtor could avoid the lien despite the fact that the judicial lien was recorded postpetition. Id., at *1-2. As part of its assessment, the court found:

Reviewed in the context of § 522 as a whole, other provisions "set forth limitations as to when exemptions may or may not trump a creditor's claim or lien rights, but they focus on the nature and timing of the claim, rather than the time when the lien affixed." Id. The general rule is that exempt property will not be liable for pre-petition debts but § 522(c) sets forth four exceptions. None of these exceptions apply to the SEC's claim. Further, the fact that Congress created certain exceptions, implies that only those exceptions and no others were intended.

Id., at *2. After holding that the timing of the lien attachment was not relevant to the question before the court, the court held that the SEC's lien could be avoided under § 522(f) because "[t]he plain language of Bankruptcy Code § 522(c) makes clear that property exempted during a bankruptcy case may not be required to satisfy debts that arose prior to the bankruptcy case." Id.

Here, the parties do not dispute that the judgment in favor of Ms. Hoult was entered prepetition; that the Writ, attached to the Motion, was executed prepetition reflects as much. Moreover, to date, no party in interest has objected to the validity of Debtor's claims of exemption. "Unless a party in interest objects, the property claimed as exempt... is exempt." 11 U.S.C. § 522(l). Objections are timely if filed within 30 days after the § 341(a) meeting of creditors is concluded, or within 30 days after the schedule of property claimed exempt is amended by the debtor, whichever is later. Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 4003(b)(1). As such, there may be cause to avoid the execution lien under the authorities above.

However, the major difference between this case and Feathers is that, in Feathers, the automatic stay did not prevent entry of the judgment in favor of the SEC (and, as a result, the postpetition recordation of the abstract of judgment) because there was an exception to the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362(b)(25). Here, Ms. Hoult has not set forth an applicable exception to the automatic stay.

"[A]ctions taken in violation of the automatic stay are void." In re Gruntz, 202 F.3d 1074, 1082 (9th Cir. 2000) (citing In re Schwartz, 954 F.2d 569, 571 (9th Cir. 1992)). An affirmative duty is imposed on non-debtor parties to comply with the stay, and to remedy any violations, even if inadvertent, of the automatic stay. In re Dyer, 322 F.3d 1178, 1191-92 (9th Cir. 2003). "For voidness purposes, it makes no difference whether the stay violator was aware of the stay when he or she violated the stay. Regardless, all acts and judicial proceedings undertaken in violation of the stay are void." In re Carter, 2016 WL 1704719, at *4 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. Apr. 22, 2016), aff'd, 695 F. App'x 307 (9th Cir. 2017) (internal citations omitted).

Neither party has discussed whether the automatic stay served to void any of the postpetition actions taken in this case, such as the levy of funds and, assuming the Notice of Levy was recorded postpetition, the creation of an execution lien. If the execution lien was created postpetition, as discussed above, and if no applicable exception to the automatic stay applies, then the lien is void and there is no lien to avoid via § 522(f). Either way, assuming an exception to the automatic stay does not apply, Ms. Hoult has an obligation to order the return of any funds that were taken from Debtor's accounts postpetition. See, e.g. In re Hernandez, 483 B.R. 713 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2012).

In light of the above, the parties should provide supplemental briefing as to the following: (A) when the Notice of Levy was recorded; and (B) whether the execution lien and/or any transfer of funds from Debtor's accounts are void by operation of 11 U.S.C. § 362.

Docket 53

Tentative Ruling:

In order to consider further briefing concerning the issues discussed below, the Court will continue this hearing to April 29, 2020 at 9:30 a.m.

I. BACKGROUND

On April 12, 2019, Caridad Salas Hileman (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 13 petition. On the same day, the Debtor filed her schedules and statements, which are signed under penalty of perjury [doc. 1]. On her petition, the Debtor indicated that her residence was 14658 Haynes Street, Van Nuys, California (the "California Property").

In her schedule C [doc. 1], under Cal. Code. Civ. P. § 704.730, the Debtor claimed a $75,000 homestead exemption in the California Property. In her statement of financial affairs [doc. 1], the Debtor indicated that she had not lived anywhere else during the last three years.

Between 2009 and 2018, the Debtor has filed five prior chapter 13 petitions [1:18-bk-12541-VK; 1:17-bk-11167-VK; 1:13-bk-16139-AA; 1:10-bk-14174-MT; 1:09-bk-26160-MT]. In each of these chapter 13 cases, the Debtor indicated that her residence was the California Property.

On her schedule A/B [doc. 1], the Debtor indicated that she holds interests in the California Property and in another improved real property, located at 291 S. 16th Avenue, Show Low, Arizona (the "Arizona Property"). The Debtor valued the Arizona Property at $160,000 and indicated that Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. ("Wells Fargo") holds a secured claim, in the amount of $142,027.27, against the Arizona Property [Schedule D, doc. 1]. In her master mailing list, Debtor included Wells Fargo [doc. 1].

On April 12, 2019, the Debtor filed a motion to continue the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362 as to all creditors (the "Continue Stay Motion") [doc. 6]. No creditor filed an opposition to that Motion. On May 22, 2019, the Court granted the Continue Stay Motion [doc. 23].

On April 12, 2019, the Debtor filed her chapter 13 plan (the "Plan") [doc. 2]. On September 4, 2019, the Debtor filed and served notice of her § 341(a) meeting of creditors and the confirmation hearing on the Plan. The first confirmation hearing was set for October 8, 2019 [doc. 38]. The Debtor served that notice and the Plan on Wells Fargo and the lienholder secured by the California Property.

The deadline for filing a proof of claim in the Debtor's bankruptcy case was June 21, 2019. On October 22, 2019, Nationstar Mortgage LLC dba Champion Mortgage Company ("Movant") filed a notice of appearance and request for special notice [doc. 44]. Prior to this, it appears that Movant was not receiving notices regarding the Debtor's bankruptcy case.

On December 9, 2019, the Debtor filed a declaration setting forth postpetition, preconfirmation payments on deeds of trust secured by the California Property and the Arizona Property [doc. 45]. In that declaration, the Debtor indicated that, on account of the Arizona Property, she paid Wells Fargo $1,200 per month from May 2019 through December 2019. This declaration was served on Movant via NEF.

On December 10, 2019, the Court held a continued confirmation hearing on the Plan. On December 31, 2019, the Court entered an order confirming the Plan [doc. 49].

Under the Plan, the Debtor is to maintain and make any current contractual installment payments to Wells Fargo directly. The Plan provides for payments to cure prepetition arrearages to Wells Fargo in the amount of $0.00. The Plan also provides that the dollar amount of arrearage stated on a proof of claim controls over any contrary amount listed in the Plan. No creditor filed a proof of claim regarding the

The Debtor provided for the cure of the prepetition arrearages on the California Property in class 2, which is for claims secured solely by property that is the Debtor's principal residence. The Debtor provided for the claim secured by the Arizona Property in class 4, which is for secured claims other than claims secured by the Debtor's principal residence.

On February 19, 2020, Movant filed a motion for relief from stay as to the Arizona Property (the "Motion") [doc. 53]. In the Motion, Movant states that it is the holder of the promissory note and deed of trust on the Arizona Property [Exh. 3]. According to the assignment of deed of trust attached to the Motion, in 2017, Wells Fargo assigned the note and deed of trust to Movant.

The note is a reverse mortgage that provides for no monthly payments an account of the loan [Exhs. 1 and 2]. However, immediate payment in full of all outstanding principal and accrued interest is due if a borrower dies and the Arizona Property is not the principal residence of at least one surviving borrower. The borrowers under the note are the Debtor and Albert F. Hileman. Attached to the Motion is the death certificate of Albert F. Hileman. The death certificate indicates that Mr. Hileman died on May 1, 2017 [Exh. 4].

In the Motion, Movant argues that cause exists to grant relief from the automatic stay because the loan is due and payable in full, i.e., Mr. Hileman died and the Arizona Property is not the Debtor's principal residence.

On March 4, 2020, the Debtor filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 57]. In the Opposition, contrary to her chapter 13 petition, her schedules, her statement of financial affairs and the Plan, the Debtor testifies that she currently resides in the Arizona Property, as her principal residence, and that she has done so since prior to confirmation of the Plan [Declaration of Caridad Salas Hileman, ¶ 9]. The Debtor also testifies that her sister, along with other tenants, lives in the California Property. Id. at ¶ 10.

A. Section 1327(a)

Under Chapter 13, "[t]he provisions of a confirmed plan bind the debtor and each creditor, whether or not the claim of such creditor is provided for by the plan, and whether or not such creditor has objected to, has accepted, or has rejected the plan." 11 U.S.C. § 1327(a). "[S]ubsection 1327(a) bar[s] post-confirmation relief from [the] stay based on grounds arising before confirmation." Ellis v. Parr (In re Ellis), 60 B.R. 432, 434 (9th Cir. BAP 1985). Therefore, a creditor must voice concerns, such as worries about adequate protection and the necessity of certain assets for a successful reorganization, before the confirmation. Once confirmation occurs, the creditor may not raise any issue that it could have raised before confirmation. Anaheim Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Evans (In re Evans), 30 B.R. 530, 531–32 (9th Cir. BAP 1983).

In re Barry, 201 B.R. 820, 823 (C.D. Cal. 1996); see also In re Hileman, 451 B.R. 522, 524 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2011). On the other hand, based on a default in post-confirmation payments, relief from stay is permitted under § 1327(a). In re Ellis, 60 B.R. 432, 435 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1985).

If a party did not receive notice sufficient to satisfy its due process rights, "[a] confirmed plan does not have preclusive effect." In re Richter, 525 B.R. 735, 750–51 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2015); Ellett v. Stanislaus, 506 F.3d 774, 777 (9th Cir. 2007) ("[A] claim cannot be considered to have been provided for by the plan if a creditor does not receive proper notice of the proceedings." (internal quotation marks omitted)).

"The threshold for due process though is low: [d]ue process merely requires 'notice reasonably calculated, under all the circumstances, to apprise interested parties of the pendency of the action and afford them an opportunity to present their objection.'" Richter, 525 B.R. at 750–51 (citing Mullane v. Cent. Hanover Bank & Trust Co., 339 U.S. 306, 314, 70 S.Ct. 652, 94 L.Ed. 865 (1950)). In the context of a plan, this means "a creditor need only get ordinary notice of [the] Chapter 13 plan to be bound by its terms." Espisona v. United Student Aid Funds, Inc., 553 F.3d 1193, 1204 (9th Cir.2008), aff'd, 559 U.S. 260, 130 S.Ct. 1367, 176 L.Ed.2d 158 (2010).

Here, it appears that the Debtor did not provide notice of the deadline for filing a proof of claim or the deadline to object to the Plan to Movant; rather, the Debtor provided notice of both to Wells Fargo. However, more than a month prior to the continued hearing on confirmation of the Plan, Movant had actual notice of the chapter 13 case, yet Movant did not file an objection to confirmation of the Plan.

Pursuant to §1327(a), if Movant is bound by the Plan, Movant is barred from relief from the automatic stay on grounds arising preconfirmation. Issues regarding the Debtor's obligation (if any) to pay Movant's secured claim in full under the Plan could have been raised pre-confirmation. As such, if Movant had sufficient notice of the Plan, Movant would be barred from seeking relief from stay on these grounds.

If Movant is bound by the Plan, and the Debtor is not in default under the confirmed Plan, there is not cause to grant relief from the automatic stay. See In re Garrett, 185 B.R. 620, 623 (Bankr.N.D.Ala.1995) ("The terms of the plan as confirmed fix the legal rights of the parties and the only cause for relief from the stay after the confirmation is the debtor's material failure to adhere to the payment terms set forth in the plan.").

On the other hand, if Movant did not receive adequate notice of the Plan, then Movant is not bound and may pursue relief from stay based on the Debtor's default under the note.

Neither party has addressed the effect of the confirmed Plan on the grounds for relief in the Motion, nor whether Movant was provided adequate notice of the Debtor's bankruptcy case. Accordingly, in order for the parties to submit supplemental briefing, the Court will continue this hearing.

III. CONCLUSION

For the reasons discussed above, the Court will continue this hearing to April 29, 2020 at 9:30 a.m. No later than April 15, 2020, Movant must file a supplemental brief discussing whether it received adequate notice of the Debtor's bankruptcy case such that it is bound by the terms of the Plan. No later than April 22, 2020, the Debtor must file any response to that supplemental brief.

Docket 25

Tentative Ruling:

On January 16, 2020, the Court entered an order granting the plaintiff's request to amend the original complaint (the "Amendment Order") [doc. 18]. As such, the Court will strike the defendant's opposition to the plaintiff's request to amend the original complaint, which was filed almost one month after entry of the Amendment Order [doc. 30].

On February 11, 2020, the defendant filed an answer to the amended complaint [doc. 29]. At the same time, the defendant filed a motion for leave to amend her answer [doc. 28]. It is unclear if the defendant is requesting leave to file another answer or if the defendant is requesting leave to file the answer she already filed. If the defendant is requesting the latter, the defendant does not need leave from the Court to respond to the amended complaint. If the defendant is requesting leave to file another amended answer, the Court will allow the defendant to file an amended answer no later than April 17, 2020.

Parties should be prepared to discuss the following:

#9.00 Motion For Summary Judgment

fr. 3/18/20

Docket 31

Tentative Ruling:

For the reasons discussed below, the Court will grant the motion in part and deny the motion in part.

I. BACKGROUND

A. State Court Proceedings

Nasrollah Gashtili ("Debtor") owns Integrated Dynamic Solutions, Inc. ("IDS") [Debtor's Statement of Uncontroverted Facts ("SUF"), doc. 44, ¶ 2]. Debtor is the sole shareholder, board member, director and principal of IDS. Id. As such, Debtor directs IDS' actions and personally benefits from IDS' business. Id.

In June 2014, Vitavet Labs, Inc. ("Plaintiff") met with Debtor and IDS as part of Plaintiff's search for a website and software developer [SUF, ¶ 1]. Debtor represented to Plaintiff that IDS was Microsoft Gold certified [SUF, ¶ 3]. At the time of that representation, Debtor knew this representation was false and that IDS was not Microsoft Gold certified [SUF, ¶ 4]. In deciding whether to engage IDS to create its website and software, Plaintiff relied on Debtor's false representation regarding IDS' certification and would not have engaged IDS if Plaintiff had known that IDS was not Microsoft Gold certified [SUF, ¶ 6].

Plaintiff engaged IDS to develop a website and related software per specifications contained in a consulting agreement, dated January 15, 2015 (the "Consulting Agreement"), and a related statement of work ("SOW") [SUF, ¶ 7]. IDS was required to complete the project by June 15, 2015 [SUF, ¶ 8]. IDS did not complete the work by that date. Id. Instead, on August 13, 2015, IDS delivered the software to Plaintiff [SUF, ¶ 9]. The software delivered to Plaintiff did not work satisfactorily and did not meet the requirements of the Consulting Agreement. Id.

Pursuant to the Consulting Agreement, Plaintiff was to pay IDS $170,000.00 for the work performed by IDS [SUF, ¶ 11]. However, Plaintiff paid IDS only $90,000.00. Id. On August 13, 2015, Plaintiff demanded the return of the work, which it owned pursuant to the Consulting Agreement, from Debtor and IDS [SUF, ¶ 10]. IDS refused to return the work to Plaintiff until it paid the remaining $80,000.00 provided for in the Consulting Agreement [SUF, ¶ 12].

Consequently, on August 17, 2015, IDS filed a complaint against Plaintiff in the Superior Court of California, County of Los Angeles seeking, among other things, recovery of the $80,000.00 (the "State Court Action") [SUF, ¶ 13]. Subsequently, Plaintiff filed a cross-complaint against Debtor and IDS, and Plaintiff sought a preliminary injunction. Id. The state court granted that request and entered a preliminary injunction requiring IDS to turn over the work to Plaintiff [SUF, ¶ 14].

Rather than turning over the work to Plaintiff, IDS appealed the preliminary injunction [SUF, ¶ 15]. The appellate court upheld the preliminary injunction. Id. However, Debtor and IDS continued to refuse to comply with the preliminary injunction until the remittitur from the appeal was issued [SUF, ¶ 16]. After the remittitur was issued, Debtor and IDS turned the work over to Plaintiff [SUF, ¶ 17]. However, the work turned over to Plaintiff was incomplete and unusable. Id. Ultimately, the state court held Debtor in civil contempt for not turning the work over to Plaintiff [SUF, ¶ 18].

On May 9, 2016, pursuant to the terms of the Consulting Agreement, the State Court Action was sent to arbitration [SUF, ¶ 19]. From August 14, 2017 through August 17, 2017, JAMS arbitrator Richard Chernick held an evidentiary hearing [SUF, ¶ 20]. At that hearing, each side offered documentary evidence, called witnesses and cross-examined opposing witnesses [doc. 33, Exh. 1, p. 3]. At the conclusion of the presentation of evidence, the parties stated that they had no further evidence to offer, and the matter was argued orally on August 18, 2017. Id.

On October 23, 2017, the arbitrator issued a Final Award (the "Arbitration Award")

[SUF, ¶ 21; doc. 33, Exh. 1]. In the State Court Action, on December 12, 2017, the court confirmed the Arbitration Award (the "Judgment ") [SUF, ¶ 25; doc. 33, Exh. 2]. The Judgment is final [SUF, ¶ 27].

B. Arbitration Award and the Judgment

In relevant part, the Arbitration Award states the following:

I. INTRODUCTION AND PROCEDURAL STATEMENT

...

On August 28, 2017, an Interim Award issued substantially in favor of [Plaintiff]. . . On August 30, 2017, [Debtor] sought a clarification of the Interim Award. The Interim Award noted that the contract (lost profit) damages were, in the first instance, the responsibility of IDS only, because [Debtor] was not a party to the contract and was not found to be the alter ego of IDS. The conversion damages are jointly and severally the responsibility of IDS and [Debtor]. The fraud finding was limited to the sole proven misrepresentation about Microsoft Gold status. It provides a basis for fraud in the inducement in that "[Plaintiff] would have gone elsewhere if it knew of IDS's current status." Interim Award at 10. The Interim Award thereafter determined that the "lost profit damages for breach of contract [was] proximately caused by IDS's and [Debtor's] fraudulent representations" (id., p. 14). Between the lost profit damages and the conversion damages, "there is no other category or type [of] damages suffered by [Plaintiff]...so no separate damages for fraud are assessed." Id. But [Debtor] was found responsible for both categories of damages, so the entire compensatory award should be joint and several. (emphasis added).

...

III. ANALYSIS

[Plaintiff] bears the burden of proof as to its non-fraud claims by preponderance of the evidence and, as to fraud, by clear and convincing evidence. California substantive law applies.

C. Counterclaimant's Fraud Claim.

[Debtor], Kirshbaum and Simpson had extensive discussions prior to the execution of the [Consulting Agreement]. In the course of those discussions, [Debtor] represented the qualifications of IDS and [Debtor] personally to perform the proposed work successfully: . . . (vi) that IDS was Microsoft Gold certified, further indicating its qualification to undertake the project. The evidence supports the assertion that these representations were made to and relied on by [Plaintiff].

The Microsoft Gold representation was also false (although it might have been true in earlier time periods). [Plaintiff] established that it insisted on this certification in order to be sure its chosen developer was qualified to perform the work. Whether that is factually true or not, it is true that [Plaintiff] would have gone elsewhere if it knew IDS's current certification status. This proof meets the "clear and convincing" standard of proof.

On this very limited basis, [Plaintiff] has proven fraud in the inducement. It is entitled to damages proximately caused by this fraud. (internal citations omitted).

[Plaintiff's] conversion claim depends on the provision of the SOW that entitled it to demand "deliver to [Plaintiff] anytime during the term of the project upon a written request by [Plaintiff]" of the application, database, and [source] code. "In addition, a complete set of documents as well as the application, database, and code will be delivered to [Plaintiff] on the final day of this SOW." The [Consulting Agreement] makes it clear that [Plaintiff] is the sole owner of the work and work product of the project. (internal citations omitted).

[Plaintiff] demanded and was refused return of the work (broadly defined) at the time of delivery of the application on August 13, 2015.

[Debtor] and IDS refused to turn over the work until it was paid the last contract installment. In the [State Court Action], [Plaintiff] sought and the court entered a preliminary injunction directing IDS and [Debtor] not to continue to withhold from [Plaintiff] the most current application, database, migration scripts, source code, and Technical Design Documents for the software developed by IDS and for [Plaintiff] under the parties' contract." [sic] This order was appealed and was affirmed in a published opinion. Only after the remittitur was returned to the trial court did [Debtor and IDS] purport to comply with the preliminary injunction. What they turned over was unusable because the migration scripts did not contain directions as to the order in which they must be installed. [Plaintiff] sought a contempt and only then did [Debtor] instruct Devarajan to provide the necessary instructions. Even then, the software could not be made to function fully, and the trial court threatened and ultimately imposed a civil contempt on [Debtor] personally until he caused the software to work. (The appellate court issued an alternative writ in response to the trial court's order of contempt, and the trial court dismissed the contempt in response.) Notwithstanding these efforts to obtain the contractual benefit [Plaintiff] was clearly entitled to, [IDS] and [Debtor] never fully complied with its contractual obligations. (internal citations omitted).

These facts evidence IDS's and [Debtor's] conversion of the software and related elements from and after August 13, 2015. Because [Plaintiff] has been continuously deprived of the use of the software since August 13, 2015, it is reasonable that it be entitled to seek alternate source to procure what it thought it had bargained for in the [Consulting Agreement]. (internal citations omitted).

F. Damages for Fraud.

proximately caused thereby, whether it could have been anticipated or not"). In view of the award of lost profit damages for breach of contract (above) and the damages for conversion (below), either of which could be considered to have been "proximately caused" by IDS's and [Debtor's] fraudulent representations, there is no other category or type of damage suffered by [Plaintiff] that has not otherwise been compensated, so no separate damages for fraud are assessed. (emphasis added).

G. Damages for Conversion.

The deprivation to [Plaintiff] of the software it contracted to purchase necessitated it to find alternative software. It was delayed in this effort (lost profits for that period) and it is required to obtain new software because it is not reasonable to assume that IDS will ever deliver workable software.

[Plaintiff] proved the cost of developing that new software in its damage model. (Ex. 136, Section 3). The projected cost, based on actual estimate from providers of software similar to that IDS agreed to deliver is $374,532 (average bid from three providers). That is an appropriate measure of damage for the conversion. See Civ. Code § 3336 (conversion of personalty): the value of the property at the time of the conversion, with interest from that time, or an amount sufficient to indemnify the party injured for the loss which is the natural, reasonable and proximate result of the wrongful act complained of and which a proper degree of prudence on his part would have averted; and a fair compensation for the time and money properly expended in pursuit of the property).

There is no overlap between the lost profits claim and the conversion claim; therefore both are awarded.

Pursuant to the Arbitration Award, Plaintiff established breach of contract against IDS, fraud against Debtor and IDS and conversion against Debtor and IDS. The Arbitration Award awarded a total of $1,014,857.00 in compensatory damages, as follows:

- For breach of contract: $640,325.00
- For fraud: $0.00
- For conversion: $374,532.00

The Arbitration Award states that because Debtor was found to be liable for fraud, he is also responsible for the breach of contract damages. Accordingly, Debtor and IDS are jointly and severally liable for the entire compensatory damage award. The Arbitration Award also states that Debtor is jointly and severally liable for $47,410.00 in statutory costs.

The Judgment states that Plaintiff "is awarded damages in the amount of $1,014,857.00. This award is jointly and severally the responsibility of IDS and [Debtor]. Of this amount, $640,235.00 is based on [Plaintiff's] breach of contract claim, and $374,532.00 is based on [Plaintiff's] fraud claim." It appears that there was a clerical error in the Judgment, i.e., the state court meant $374,532.00 is based on Plaintiff's conversion claim. The Judgment also awarded Plaintiff interest, attorneys' fees and costs.

C. Adversary Proceeding

On March 20, 2018, Debtor filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition, initiating case 1:18-bk-10715-VK]. On October 29, 2018, Plaintiff filed a complaint against Debtor objecting to the discharge of the debt owed to it pursuant to the Arbitration Award under 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2) and (a)(6), initiating this adversary proceeding [doc. 1]. On October 31, 2018, Plaintiff filed a first amended complaint which also objected to Debtor receiving a discharge under § 727 (the "FAC") [doc. 4].

On December 13, 2019, Plaintiff filed a motion for summary judgment on the 11 U.S.C. § 523 claims (the "Motion") [doc. 32], a request for judicial notice [doc. 33] and a statement of unconverted facts and conclusions of law [doc. 34]. In the Motion, Plaintiff argues that the Arbitration Award has collateral estoppel effect and the finding of fraud bars the discharge of Debtor's debt to Plaintiff under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2). Additionally, Plaintiff argues that the finding of conversion makes Debtor's debt to Plaintiff nondischargeable under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6).

On February 26, 2020, Debtor filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 43] and a statement of uncontroverted facts [doc. 44]. In the Opposition, regarding the 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2) claim, Debtor argues: (A) there was no intent not to perform; (B) there was no justifiable reliance; (C) the arbitrator found fraud in the inducement; not actual fraud; and (D) the Arbitration Award awards $0.00 for Plaintiff's fraud claim. Regarding the 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6) claim, Debtor argues although the Arbitration Award found that Debtor wrongfully converted property of Plaintiff, there was no finding that Debtor had subjective intent to injure Plaintiff. On March 4, 2020, Plaintiff filed a reply to the Opposition (the "Reply") [doc. 45].

II. DISCUSSION

A. General Motion for Summary Judgment Standard

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 56, applicable to this adversary proceeding under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 7056, the Court shall grant summary judgment if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 247, 106 S.Ct. 2505, 2509-10, 91 L.Ed.2d 202 (1986); Rule 56; FRBP 7056. "By its very terms, this standard provides that the mere existence of some alleged factual dispute between the parties will not defeat an otherwise properly supported motion for summary judgment; the requirement is that there be no genuine issue of material fact." 477 U.S. at 247-48 (emphasis in original).

As to materiality, the substantive law will identify which facts are material. Only disputes over facts that might affect the outcome of the suit under the governing law will properly preclude the entry of summary judgment. Factual disputes that are irrelevant or unnecessary will not be counted. . . . [S]ummary judgment will not lie if the dispute about a material fact is "genuine," that is, if the evidence is such that a reasonable jury could return a verdict for the nonmoving party. . . .

to be decided in a motion for summary judgment. See Camacho v. Du Sung Corp., 121 F.3d 1315, 1317 (9th Cir. 1997).

The initial burden is on the moving party to show that no genuine issues of material fact exist based on "the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with affidavits, if any." Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323, 106 S.Ct. 2548, 2553, 91 L.Ed. 265 (1986). Once the moving party meets its initial burden, the nonmoving party bearing "the burden of proof at trial on a dispositive issue" must identify facts beyond what is contained in the pleadings that show genuine issues of fact remain. Id., at 324; see also Anderson, 477 U.S. at 256 ("Rule 56(e) itself provides that a party opposing a properly supported motion for summary judgment may not rest upon mere allegation or denials of his pleading, but must set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial.").

The nonmoving party meets this burden through the presentation of "evidentiary materials" listed in Rule 56, such as depositions, documents, electronically stored information, affidavits or declarations, stipulations, admissions, and interrogatory answers. Id. To establish a genuine issue, the non-moving party "must do more than simply show that there is some metaphysical doubt as to the material facts." Matsushita Electrical Industry Co. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 586, 106 S.Ct. 1348, 1356, 89 L.Ed.2d 538 (1986); see also Anderson, 477 U.S. at 252 ("The mere existence of a scintilla of evidence in support of the [non-moving party's] position will be insufficient."). Rather, the nonmoving party must provide "evidence of such a caliber that 'a fair-minded jury could return a verdict for the [nonmoving party] on the evidence presented.'" U.S. v. Wilson, 881 F.2d 596, 601 (9th Cir. 1989) (quoting Anderson, 477 U.S. at 266).

To prevail on a § 523(a)(2)(A) claim, the plaintiff must demonstrate, by a preponderance of the evidence, the following five elements:

- (1) misrepresentation, fraudulent omission or deceptive conduct by the debtor;
- (2) knowledge of the falsity or deceptiveness of his statement or conduct;
- (3) an intent to deceive;
- (4) justifiable reliance by the creditor on the debtor's statement or conduct; and
- (5) damage to the creditor proximately caused by its reliance on the debtor's statement or conduct

Based on the finding of fraud in the Arbitration Award, Plaintiff has met its burden of proving that it is entitled to summary judgment on its claim under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A). However, based on the conversion finding in the Arbitration Award, Plaintiff is not entitled to summary judgment on its claim under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6).

1. Issue Preclusion Applies to the Fraud Finding in the Arbitration Award

Through the Arbitration Award, the state court held that Debtor was liable for fraud in the inducement, a type of fraud under California law. The Arbitration Award is based on the same facts alleged in the FAC.

With respect to § 523(a)(2)(A), "Ninth Circuit case law confirms that the elements of fraud under California law match the ones under § 523(a)(2)(A)." In re Davis, 486 B.R. 182, 191 (Bankr. N.D. The same elements apply to fraud in the inducement. Parino v. BidRack, Inc., 838 F.Supp.2d 900, 906 (N.D. Cal. 2011) (applying California law on fraudulent in the inducement); see also In re Nga Tuy Pham, 2009 WL 3367046 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2009) ("A debt is excepted from discharge if it results from fraud in the inducement.

11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)[A]."). Based on these authorities, the issues are identical to the issues before this Court.

The "actually litigated" requirement addresses whether the issues were "properly raised, submitted for determination, and determined in that proceeding." Happy Nails & Spa of Fashion Valley, L.P. v. Su, 159 Cal. Rptr. 3d 503, 512 (Ct. App. 2013). As noted in the Arbitration Award, both parties appeared at the evidentiary hearing and presented evidence, both oral and documentary. Based on the Arbitration Award, the issues related to fraud were actually litigated. The arbitrator rendered his final decision based on the evidence at the evidentiary hearing. Consequently, this element is satisfied.

"In order for the determination of an issue to be given preclusive effect, it must have been necessary to a judgment." Creative Ventures, LLC v. Jim Ward & Assocs., 126 Cal. Rptr. 3d 564, 580 (Ct. App. 2011). The issues present here were necessarily decided in the State Court Action. The state court could not have entered a judgment holding that Debtor is liable for fraud unless the state court decided all of the issues under § 523(a)(2)(A), including Plaintiff's justifiable reliance. In fact, the Arbitration Award specifically found that Debtor made a false misrepresentation with knowledge of its falsity, that Plaintiff relied on this misrepresentation and that Plaintiff was injured as a result. Accordingly, this element is also satisfied.

The Judgment is final and on the merits, as evidenced by the Arbitration Award, which includes detailed findings about why Debtor is liable on the various causes of action asserted in State Court Action. This element is satisfied.

The parties to this proceeding are identical to the parties from the State Court Action. In the State Court Action, Plaintiff was the defendant and cross-claimant, and Debtor was a cross-defendant. In the arbitration, Debtor was determined to be a proper party. As such, this element is also satisfied. Accordingly, the Court may give preclusive effect to the fraud finding in the Arbitration Award.

Although the Arbitration Award regarding the fraud finding may be given preclusive effect, "only those damages proximately caused by the fraud . . . may be given preclusive effect." In re Henkel, 490 B.R. 759, 782 (Bankr. S.D. Ohio 2013); see also Demerdjian v. Thompson (In re Thompson), 354 B.R. 174, 180 (Bankr. E.D. Tenn. 2006) ("Although the plaintiff has a claim for breach of contract, only that portion of the damages proximately caused by the fraud is nondischargeable under § 523(a)(2)(A).") (citing Novartis Corp. v. Luppino (In re Luppino), 221 B.R. 693, 703–04 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 1998) (analysis still required on each debt to determine whether it was proximately caused by § 523(a)(2)(A) acts) (additional citations omitted)); see also Lewis v. Lowery (In re Lowery), 440 B.R. 914, 925 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. 2010) ("[Issue preclusion] as to liability is not the same as [issue preclusion] as to damages, and the Court must separately analyze the damages awarded to the Plaintiff").

In the Opposition, Debtor argues that the Arbitration Award and the Judgment awarded Plaintiff $0.00 in damages on account of the fraud claim. However, the Arbitration Award states that both damages awarded for breach of contract and conversion can be considered proximately caused by Debtor's fraud. It goes on to state that it would not award any separate damages for fraud because those damages were subsumed within the breach of contract and conversion awards. The Arbitration Award does not state that it was awarding $0.00 in fraud damages because Plaintiff suffered no damage on account of Debtor's fraud.

Although breach of contract damages generally are dischargeable, if that breach of contract is accompanied by fraud, the damages may be nondischargeable. As the district court in In re Roth, 518 B.R. 63, 71 (S.D. Cal. 2014), aff'd, 662 F. App'x 540 (9th Cir. 2016) states:

A "fundamental polic[y] of bankruptcy law is to give a fresh start only to the 'honest but unfortunate debtor.'" Accordingly, simple breaches of contract are dischargeable. See In re Riso, 978 F.2d 1151, 1154 (9th Cir.1992). However, if a debt for an intentional breach of contract is "accompanied by" a tort, it is excepted from discharge. Id. (refusing to discharge a debt for a breach of contract accompanied by willful and tortious conduct). This applies equally to breaches of contract accompanied by fraud under the other subdivisions of § 523. See Banks v. Gill Distribution Centers, Inc., 263 F.3d 862, 868 (9th Cir.2001). The fraud makes nondischargeable a preexisting obligation, it does not itself create a new obligation. In re Jercich, 238 F.3d 1202, 1205 (9th Cir.2001). As such, the original breach of contract claim is the correct measure of the amount of the debt excepted from discharge. See Banks, 263 F.3d at 868.

The bankruptcy court found [the plaintiff] proved [the debtor] committed fraud by a preponderance of evidence. The alleged fraud accompanied [the debtor's] breach of contract, as [the debtor] entered the contract fraudulently. Therefore the state court judgment is the correct damage measure because it is the debt resulting from the fraud. The bankruptcy court correctly found the breach of contract damages were precluded from discharge based on [the debtor's] accompanying fraud. Accordingly, the bankruptcy court's ruling that the $2.8 million debt is nondischargeable is affirmed.

Roth, 518 B.R. at 71.

Here, the Arbitration Award found that Debtor committed fraud by clear and convincing evidence. Debtor fraudulently induced Plaintiff to enter into the contract. Because the debt resulted from the fraud, the damages awarded for breach of contract and conversion are the correct measure of fraud damages.

In the Opposition, Debtor argues that there is no way to determine how much, if anything, the arbitrator may have awarded for Debtor's misrepresentation. However, the arbitrator clarified that although Debtor was not a party to the contract, he was liable for all breach of contract damages, because those damages were proximately caused by Debtor's fraud. The same is true for the conversion damages. If Debtor had not fraudulently induced Plaintiff into entering the Consulting Agreement, Plaintiff would not have suffered the breach of contract damages or the conversion damages. Accordingly, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2), the breach of contract damages and the conversion damages awarded in the Arbitration Award and Judgment are nondischargeable.

Additionally, "[o]nce it is established that specific money or property has been obtained by fraud . . . 'any debt' arising therefrom is excepted from discharge," including treble damages. Cohen v. de la Cruz, 523 U.S. 213, 218, 118 S. Ct. 1212, 1216, 140 L. Ed. 2d 341 (1998). Accordingly, the interest and costs awarded against Debtor in the Judgment also are nondischargeable.

11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6) states that a discharge under 11 U.S.C. § 727 does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt "for willful and malicious injury by the debtor to another entity or to the property of another entity."

Demonstrating willfulness requires a showing that defendant intended to cause the injury, not merely the acts leading to the injury. Kawaauhau v. Geiger, 523 U.S. 57, 61–62, 118 S.Ct. 974, 977 (1998). Debts "arising from recklessly or negligently inflicted injuries do not fall within the compass of § 523(a)(6)." Id., 523 U.S. at 64. It suffices, however, if the debtor knew that harm to the creditor was "substantially certain." In re Su, 290 F.3d 1140, 1145–46 (9th Cir. 2002); In re Jercich, 238 F.3d 1202, 1208 (9th Cir. 2001) ("[T]he willful injury requirement of § 523(a)(6) is met when it is shown either that the debtor had a subjective motive to inflict the injury or that the debtor believed that injury was substantially certain to occur as a result of his conduct.") (emphasis in Jercich).

Under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6), the injury must also be the result of maliciousness. Su, 290 F.3d at 1146. Maliciousness requires (1) a wrongful act; (2) done intentionally; (3) which necessarily causes injury; (4) without just cause or excuse. Id., at 1147. Maliciousness does not require "personal hatred, spite, or will-will." In re Bammer, 131 F.3d 788, 791 (9th Cir. 1997).

Here, the Arbitration Award is silent as to whether Debtor's conduct was willful or malicious. In the Motion, Plaintiff asserts that the Arbitration Award establishes a claim under § 523(a)(6) because the arbitrator allegedly found that Debtor's conversion was a wrongful act and that Debtor knew he was harming Plaintiff by withholding the work product. However, the arbitrator never made such findings. The Arbitration Award is silent as to Debtor's subjective intent to injure Plaintiff. is when the arbitrator cites to Cal. Civ. Code § 3336; not when the arbitrator is discussing his findings regarding Debtor's conduct. As such, the Court cannot conclude that willfulness and maliciousness as defined in § 523(a)(6) were actually litigated.

Additionally, a finding of fraud is insufficient for purposes of § 523(a)(6). Although a finding of fraud requires a finding that a defendant possessed intent to deceive, it does not require a finding that a defendant's conduct was willful, as that term is defined above, or malicious. As such, the findings regarding fraud are not identical to the intent elements required for § 523(a)(6).

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will grant the Motion on Plaintiff's § 523(a)(2)(A) claim. The Court will deny the Motion on Plaintiff's § 523(a)(6) claim. Any dispute regarding the application of amounts paid to Plaintiff to date, during the course of Debtor's chapter 11 case, will be adjudicated at a separate time.

Tentative Ruling:

Have the parties secured a date for mediation? If so, the parties should be prepared to discuss a deadline for them to file a written stipulation as required by Local Bankruptcy Rule 7026-1(c)(3), and continued hearing dates on the motions to quash.

Ruling from March 4, 2020

After reviewing the motions to quash [docs. 28 and 29], the oppositions to those motions [docs. 40 and 41] and the replies to those oppositions [docs. 42 and 43], the Court has determined that the parties must file a written stipulation identifying any disputed discovery issue as to each category requested for production, with contentions and points and authorities of each party as to each issue, as required by Local Bankruptcy Rule 7026-1(c)(3).

Either before or after the parties file such a stipulation, the parties are ordered to attend mediation in downtown Los Angeles with the Honorable Gregg W. Zive or the Honorable Thomas B. Donovan, both of whom are recalled United States Bankruptcy Judges assisting with mediations. To set up the mediation, the parties are directed to contact Judge Zive at (775) 326-2107 and/or Judge Donovan at (213) 894-3728.

#18.00 Plaintiff's motion for default judgment under LBR 7055-1

fr. 2/19/20; 3/18/20

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part and deny in part.

I. BACKGROUND

On April 27, 2019, John Bicz ("Defendant") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On October 20, 2019, Ben Peterson ("Plaintiff") filed a complaint against Defendant, requesting nondischargeability of the debt owed to him pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A). On November 27, 2019, after Defendant failed to file an answer to the complaint timely, the Clerk of the Court entered default against Defendant (the "Default") [doc. 9].

On November 29, 2019, Plaintiff filed a motion for default judgment (the "Motion") [doc. 11]. Through the Motion, Plaintiff requested judgment in his favor based on an attached state court judgment (the "State Court Judgment"). Declaration of Shai Oved, ¶ 2, Exhibit A. The State Court Judgment reads, in relevant part—

IT IS ORDERED, ADJUDGED, AND DECREED that Plaintiff Ben Peterson recover from Defendant John Bicz, individually and doing business as JB Construction... the total sum of $96,711.00... plus costs and reasonable attorney fees pursuant to CCP §2033.420(b) and B&P §7160 judgment against John Bicz.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED, ADJUDGED, AND DECREED that, Plaintiff Ben Peterson recover costs of $688.50 based on the stipulation of the Parties, and that Plaintiff recover attorney fees of $10,000.00 through the date of the judgment based on the stipulation of the Parties

(and avoid filing a Memorandum of Costs and/or any Attorney Fee Motion).

Id. On January 17, 2020, Plaintiff and Defendant entered into a stipulation to vacate the Default and treat the Motion as a motion for summary judgment based on the State Court Judgment (the "Stipulation") [doc. 24]. On January 29, 2020, the Court entered an order approving the Stipulation [doc. 26].

On February 26, 2020, Defendant filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 28]. Defendant included the state court's Statement of Decision after Trial (the "Statement of Decision"), which includes the state court's findings of fact and conclusions of law in support of the State Court Judgment. Declaration of John Bicz, ¶ 5, Exhibit A. In the Statement of Decision, the state court categorized its findings of fact regarding Plaintiff's entitlement to monetary recovery into five parts: (A) Restitution; (B) Damages; (C) Statutory Damages; (D) Requests for Admissions; and (E) Contractor's Bonds. Id.

With respect to restitution, the state court held that Plaintiff was "entitled to disgorgement of the entire amount paid to JB Construction and/or Mr. Bicz, or the total of $123,711" pursuant to California Business & Professions Code ("B&P") § 7031(b). Id. Specifically, the state court based its order of disgorgement on Defendant's failure to maintain workers' compensation insurance, which rendered Defendant's contractor's license invalid under California law. Id. Under the section entitled "Damages," the state court held that "Plaintiff did not establish that he is entitled to any other damages for breach of contract." Id. In relevant part, the state court stated—

First, the court finds that Bicz ceased working because of Peterson's failure to obtain necessary building permits and Peterson's unilateral changes to the design plan. Bicz established that once he had completed most of the framing, Mr. Peterson decided to lower the foundation in the unfinished area, to expand other rooms, both of which required new permits, substantial work by other contractors, and renewed inspections. These changes interfered with defendant's completion of his work, making it impossible for him to complete the job in a timely manner. The project has still to be approved for completion, three years later, leaving the framing exposed to the elements and deteriorating through no fault of defendant's. Further, the court finds that Peterson had an unlicensed contractor, Mr. Molina, make unsafe modifications to the design, including removing one or more beams and supports, interfering further with Biczo's completion of the job.

Given Peterson's unilateral actions to impede the job, his failure to obtain necessary inspections and building permit adjustments, and his decision to remove certain beams and posts making the project structurally unsound, defendant is not responsible for the consequential damages Peterson has incurred, including the money he paid to an unlicensed contractor, Mr. Molina, for substandard work, or for any of the potential costs associated with completing this project.

Id. Next, in a separate section entitled "Statutory Damages," the state court held—

Plaintiff seeks statutory damages pursuant to [B&P] 7160, which provides that "any person who is induced to contract for a work of improvement,..., in reliance on false or fraudulent representations or false statements knowingly made, may sue and recover from such contractor... a penalty of five hundred dollars ($500), plus reasonable attorney's fees."

Plaintiff has proven that defendant Biczo falsely represented that he was a licensed contractor, which would include compliance with all requirements imposed on licensed contractors. Biczo's failure to have workers' compensation insurance in place resulted in an automatic suspension of his license by operation of law. [B&P] 7125.2. As his license was suspended at all material times by operation of law, his representation that he was licensed was a false statement. Plaintiff is entitled to statutory damages of $500, plus reasonable attorney's fees to be determined upon properly noticed motion.

Id. Finally, in the last two sections, the state court held that Plaintiff may request reimbursement of expenses associated with Defendant's failure to admit to certain requests for admission later proven at trial and that, during the relevant time periods, Defendant had a contractor's bond with Business Alliance Insurance Company and Wesco. Id.

In the Opposition, Defendant argues that the state court's findings in the Statement of Decision do not include any findings that would preclude litigation of a claim under § 523(a)(2)(A). On March 4, 2020, Plaintiff filed a reply to the Opposition [doc. 30], asserting that issue preclusion applies to deem the entire State Court Judgment nondischargeable pursuant to Ghomeshi v. Sabban, 600 F.3d 1219 (9th Cir. 2010).

II. ANALYSIS

A. General Motion for Summary Judgment Standard

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 56, applicable to this adversary proceeding under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 7056, the Court shall grant summary judgment if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 247, 106 S.Ct. 2505, 2509-10, 91 L.Ed.2d 202 (1986); Rule 56; FRBP 7056. "By its very terms, this standard provides that the mere existence of some alleged factual dispute between the parties will not defeat an otherwise properly supported motion for summary judgment; the requirement is that there be no genuine issue of material fact." 477 U.S. at 247-48 (emphasis in original).

As to materiality, the substantive law will identify which facts are material. Only disputes over facts that might affect the outcome of the suit under the governing law will properly preclude the entry of summary judgment. Factual disputes that are irrelevant or unnecessary will not be counted. . . . [S]ummary judgment will not lie if the dispute about a material fact is "genuine," that is, if the evidence is such that a reasonable jury could return a verdict for the nonmoving party. . . .

Id. at 248-50 (internal citations omitted). Additionally, issues of law are appropriate to be decided in a motion for summary judgment. See Camacho v. Du Sung Corp.,

121 F.3d 1315, 1317 (9th Cir. 1997).

The initial burden is on the moving party to show that no genuine issues of material fact exist based on "the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with affidavits, if any." Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323, 106 S.Ct. 2548, 2553, 91 L.Ed. 265 (1986). Once the moving party meets its initial burden, the nonmoving party bearing "the burden of proof at trial on a dispositive issue" must identify facts beyond what is contained in the pleadings that show genuine issues of fact remain. Id., at 324; see also Anderson, 477 U.S. at 256 ("Rule 56(e) itself provides that a party opposing a properly supported motion for summary judgment may not rest upon mere allegation or denials of his pleading, but must set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial.").

The nonmoving party meets this burden through the presentation of "evidentiary materials" listed in Rule 56, such as depositions, documents, electronically stored information, affidavits or declarations, stipulations, admissions, and interrogatory answers. Id. To establish a genuine issue, the non-moving party "must do more than simply show that there is some metaphysical doubt as to the material facts." Matsushita Electrical Industry Co. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 586, 106 S.Ct. 1348, 1356, 89 L.Ed.2d 538 (1986); see also Anderson, 477 U.S. at 252 ("The mere existence of a scintilla of evidence in support of the [non-moving party's] position will be insufficient."). Rather, the nonmoving party must provide "evidence of such a caliber that 'a fair-minded jury could return a verdict for the [nonmoving party] on the evidence presented.'" U.S. v. Wilson, 881 F.2d 596, 601 (9th Cir. 1989) (quoting Anderson, 477 U.S. at 266).

B. Issue Preclusion

"A bankruptcy court may rely on the issue preclusive effect of an existing state court judgment In so doing, the bankruptcy court must apply the forum state's law of issue preclusion." In re Plyam, 530 B.R. 456, 462 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2015); see also 28 U.S.C. § 1738 (federal courts must give "full faith and credit" to state court judgments). The requirements for issue preclusion in California are:

- (1) the issue sought to be precluded from relitigation is identical to that decided in a former proceeding;

- (2) the issue was actually litigated in the former proceeding;
- (3) the issue was necessarily decided in the former proceeding;
- (4) the decision in the former proceeding is final and on the merits; and
- (5) the party against whom preclusion is sought was the same as, or in privity with, the party to the former proceeding.

In re Harmon, 250 F.3d 1240, 1245 (9th Cir. 2001) (citing Lucido v. Superior Court, 51 Cal. 3d 335, 341 (1990)).

"The party asserting preclusion bears the burden of establishing the threshold requirements." Harmon, 250 F.3d at 1245. "This means providing 'a record sufficient to reveal the controlling facts and pinpoint the exact issues litigated in the prior action.'" Plyam, 530 B.R. at 462 (quoting In re Kelly, 182 B.R. 255, 258 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1995), aff'd, 100 F.3d 110 (9th Cir. 1996)). "Any reasonable doubt as to what was decided by a prior judgment should be resolved against allowing the [issue preclusive] effect." Kelly, 182 B.R. at 258.

Here, Plaintiff is correct that Sabban controls. However, Sabban leads the Court to a different conclusion than the one reached by Plaintiff. In Sabban, the plaintiff sued the debtor in state court for breach of contract, negligence, fraud and violations of B&P §§ 7160 and 7031(b), based on a contracting dispute between the parties. Sabban, 600 F.3d at 1220. After trial, the state court awarded the plaintiff a $500 penalty plus attorneys' fees pursuant to B&P § 7160, but declined to award additional damages under that statute. Id., at 1221. Separately, the state court also awarded the plaintiff disgorgement in the amount of $123,000 under B&P § 7031(b). Id.

The debtor then filed a chapter 7 petition. Id. Subsequently, the plaintiff filed a complaint requesting nondischargeability of the entire state court judgment pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A). Id. In a motion for summary judgment, the plaintiff asserted that the state court's judgment precluded the bankruptcy court from litigation of his claim under § 523(a)(2)(A). Id. The bankruptcy court held that, although the award under B&P § 7160 (the $500 penalty and the attorneys' fees) was nondischargeable, the separate award of $123,000, based on disgorgement under § 7031(b), was dischargeable. Id. The Bankruptcy Appellate Panel of the Ninth Circuit agreed. Id.

On appeal, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed, holding that "the judgment against [the debtor] under § 7031(b) is dischargeable." Id., at 1224. The Court of Appeals reasoned that, as to damages under B&P § 7160, which would be nondischargeable, "[a]ctual damages are available... but the state court specifically declined to award them...." Id. In addition, as to the $123,000 awarded under B&P § 7031(b), the Court of Appeals held that B&P § 7031(b) "is not premised on the commission of fraud" and that "a plaintiff in a § 7031(b) suit need only show that the contractor was unlicensed." Id. As such, the Court of Appeals concluded that any award under B&P § 7031(b) was dischargeable and any award under B&P § 7160 was nondischargeable. Id.

There is no meaningful difference between the state court's decision in Sabban and the state court's decision in this case. As in Sabban, the state court in this case separated its award under B&P § 7031(b) from its award under B&P § 7160. As to B&P § 7160, the statute that is subject to nondischargeability under § 523(a)(2)(A), the state court awarded only $500 in penalties and attorneys' fees and costs (which, through the State Court Judgment, the parties agreed would total $10,688.50). Although actual damages are available under B&P § 7160, the state court declined to award them. The state court separately ordered the disgorgement of $123,711 under B&P § 7031(b) (of which a balance of $96,711 remains in accordance with the State Court Judgment). Under Sabban, the order of disgorgement is dischargeable.

Plaintiff attempts to distinguish Sabban on the basis that the contractor in Sabban completed the work and, as such, there were no additional damages. Plaintiff asserts that, contrary to Sabban, Defendant did not complete the work on his property and that it would cost $60,000 for Plaintiff to finish the incomplete job. However, the Statement of Decision belies Plaintiff's contention. In the Statement of Decision, the state court explicitly held that Defendant is not liable for any damages associated with the cost to complete the work on Plaintiff's property. In fact, as noted above, the state court held that Plaintiff was responsible for the incomplete work on his property—

Given Peterson's unilateral actions to impede the job, his failure to obtain necessary inspections and building permit adjustments, and his decision to remove certain beams and posts making the project structurally unsound, defendant is not responsible for the consequential damages Peterson has incurred, including the money he paid to an unlicensed contractor, Mr. Molina, for substandard work, or for any of the potential costs associated with completing this project.

Statement of Decision, pp. 19-20. Because the state court explicitly held that Defendant is not liable for damages for incomplete work on Plaintiff's property, this Court will not hold otherwise.

Nevertheless, Plaintiff is entitled to summary judgment for the damages awarded under B&P § 7160, in the amount of $500 in penalties and $10,688.50 in attorneys' fees and costs. Pursuant to B&P § 7160—

Any person who is induced to contract for a work of improvement, including but not limited to a home improvement, in reliance on false or fraudulent representations or false statements knowingly made, may sue and recover from such contractor or solicitor a penalty of five hundred dollars ($500), plus reasonable attorney's fees, in addition to any damages sustained by him by reason of such statements or representations made by the contractor or solicitor.

(emphasis added). In the Opposition, Defendant contends that the state court's award under B&P § 7160 is not preclusive because there is no "evidence" of misrepresentations made by Defendant and, as a result, no findings regarding Plaintiff's reliance on misrepresentations. However, the state court explicitly held that Defendant "falsely represented that he was a licensed contractor." Statement of Decision, p. 20.

Moreover, because B&P § 7160 requires a showing that a plaintiff was induced "in reliance on false or fraudulent representations or false statements knowingly made," the state court necessarily held that Plaintiff relied on Defendant's false representation prior to entering judgment under B&P § 7160. See In re Cantrell, 329 F.3d 1119, 1124-25 (9th Cir. 2003) (holding that express findings are not required where a court necessarily decided an issue prior to entering judgment); see also In re Welch, 2013 WL 3306195, at *2 (Bankr. D. Or. Jul. 1, 2013) (issues regarding reliance "must have been necessarily decided in the State Court proceeding to obtain the judgment of actual fraud"). Here, the state court could not have entered a judgment under B&P § 7160 without finding that Plaintiff relied on Defendant's false representations.

Tentative Ruling:

A. The Oppositions

On February 27, 2020, the debtor and his wife filed oppositions to the chapter 7 trustee's counsel's fee application (the "Oppositions") [docs. 299 and 300]. Among other things, in the Oppositions, the debtor and his wife request that the Court continue this hearing in order for them to inspect documents concerning the estate under 11 U.S.C. §§ 346, 704(a)(7) and 724(b)(2) and 28 U.S.C. § 586. Based on the standards set for in 11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(1)(A), this is not a reason for the Court to deny the fee applications or to continue this hearing. The debtor is free to file an appropriate motion with the Court to request the documents that he seeks.

The debtor and his wife also argue that the sale of real property located in Lake Tahoe, California was improper because they allege that there were issues regarding ownership of the property. However, the Court decided the estate's interest in the property in connection with the sale motion [doc. 254]. Neither the debtor nor his wife appealed that order or filed a motion for reconsideration.

The balance of the Oppositions argue that the fee application contains lumped billing, unnecessary billing, duplicate charges and charges indicating mistakes by the chapter 7 trustee's counsel or that are unrelated to this case. Further, the overall billing in this case is excessive considering the size and complexity of this case.

In response to the Oppositions, Lewis Brisbois Bisgaard & Smith LLP ("Lewis Brisbois"), counsel to chapter 7 trustee, voluntarily reduced its fees by $550.00 because of nine entries that were inadvertently billed to this estate [doc. 301]. Accordingly, Lewis Brisbois requests approval of $114,960.00 in fees.

B. Standards the Court Must Apply to Assess Fee Applications

11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(1)(A) provides that a court may award to a professional person employed under § 327 "reasonable compensation for actual, necessary services" rendered by the professional person. "In determining the amount of reasonable compensation to be awarded to the professional person, the court shall consider the nature, the extent and the value of such services, taking into account all relevant factors, including—(A) the time spent on such services; (B) the rates charged for such services; (C) whether the services were necessary to the administration of, or beneficial at the time at which the service was rendered toward the completion of, a case under this title; [and] (D) whether the services were performed within a reasonable amount of time commensurate with the complexity, importance, and nature of the problem, issue, or task addressed . . .". 11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(3). Except in circumstances not relevant to this chapter 7 case, "the court shall not allow compensation for—(i) unnecessary duplication of services; or (ii) services that were not—(I) reasonably likely to benefit the debtor's estate; or (II) necessary to the administration of the case." 11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(4)(A).

11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(2) provides that the court may, on its own motion, award compensation that is less than the amount of the compensation that is requested.

11 U.S.C. § 328(b) provides that an attorney may not receive compensation for the performance of any trustee's duties that are generally performed by a trustee without the assistance of an attorney. In re Garcia, 335 B.R. 717, 725 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2005) (holding that bankruptcy court did not abuse its discretion in refusing to compensate chapter 7 trustee's counsel for services rendered in connection with the sale of property of the estate and for preparing routine employment applications).

Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 2016-2(e)(2) provides a "nonexclusive list of services that the court deems 'trustee services.'" This list includes, among other activities:

conduct 11 U.S.C. § 341(a) examination; routine investigation regarding location and status of assets; turnover or inspection of documents; recruit and contract appraisers, brokers, and professionals; routine collection of accounts receivable; routine documentation of notice of abandonment; prepare and file notices and motion to abandon assets and related orders; routine claims review and objection; monitor litigation; answer routine creditor correspondence and phone calls; review and comment on professional fee applications; and additional routine work necessary for administration of the estate.

In Garcia, the BAP upheld the bankruptcy court's refusal to approve fees for preparation of employment applications, observing that "absent a showing by applicant to the contrary, routine employment applications remain a trustee duty." Garcia, 335 B.R. at 726. With respect to its holding, the BAP explained "a case trustee may only employ professionals for tasks that require special expertise beyond that expected of an ordinary trustee." Id. at 727.

In addition, secretarial/clerical work is noncompensable under 11 U.S.C. § 330. See In re Schneider, 2008 WL 4447092, *11 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. Sept. 26, 2008) (court disallowed billing for services including: monitoring and reviewing the docket; electronically distributing documents; preparing services packages, serving pleadings, updating service lists and preparing proofs of service; and e-filing and uploading pleadings); In re Ness, 2007 WL 1302611, *1 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. April 27, 2007) (data entry noncompensable as secretarial in nature); In re Dimas, 357 B.R. 563, 577 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2006) ("Services that are clerical in nature are not properly chargeable to the bankruptcy estate. They are not in the nature of professional services and must be absorbed by the applicant's firm as an overhead expense. Fees for services that are purely clerical, ministerial, or administrative should be disallowed.").

C. Approval of Administrative Expenses

Having assessed the fee applications at issue pursuant to the standards set forth in 11 U.S.C. § 330(a)(1)(A) and the arguments raised in the Oppositions, the Court approves the payment of fees and reimbursement of expenses as set forth below.

with the chapter 7 trustee's proposed distribution [doc. 296], the trustee is authorized to collect $28,539.25 of the approved fees and $464.85 in reimbursement of expenses.

SLBiggs, A Division of SingerLewak ("SLBiggs"), accountant to chapter 7 trustee – approve fees of $17,973.50 and reimbursement of expenses of $356.41, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 330, on a final basis. In accordance with the chapter 7 trustee's proposed distribution [doc. 296], SLBiggs is authorized to collect $17,638.91 of the approved fees and $356.41 in reimbursement of expenses.

Havkin & Shrago LLP, counsel to the chapter 11 debtor in possession – approve fees of $10,347.50 and reimbursement of expenses of $1,518,312, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 330, on a final basis. All fees and reimbursement of expenses approved on an interim basis are approved on a final basis. In accordance with the chapter 7 trustee's proposed distribution [doc. 296], Havkin & Shrago LLP is not authorized to collect any outstanding approved fees or reimbursement of expenses.

Lewis Brisbois, counsel to chapter 7 trustee – approve fees of $94,267.20 and reimbursement of expenses of $3,000.41, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 330, on a final basis. Lewis Brisbois is authorized to collect 100% of the approved fees and reimbursement of expenses. The Court will not approve $20,692.80 in fees for the reasons stated below.

In accordance with 11 U.S.C. §§ 328 and 330(a)(1)(A), LBR 2016-2(e)(2) and (f) and Garcia, the Court will not approve 18% of the fees billed by Lewis Brisbois. Overall, Lewis Brisbois' fees include fees billed for unnecessary duplication of services and services that were not reasonably likely to benefit the estate or necessary to administration of case.

Many of the fees billed by Lewis Brisbois include fees billed for providing services that could and should have been performed by the chapter 7 trustee, as trustee. Some of these services include, among other things, answering routine creditor correspondence, communicating with the real estate brokers and potential buyers of the real properties, preparing employment applications for the trustee's professionals, reviewing proofs of claim, reviewing schedules and monitoring litigation.

Additionally, some of the fees billed by Lewis Brisbois were excessive considering the complexity of the matter and size of the return to the estate, including the motion

fr; 3/19/20;

Docket 385

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part and deny in part.

I. BACKGROUND

On June 15, 2010, Darin Davis ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On January 12, 2011, Asphalt Professionals, Inc. ("API") filed proof of claim no. 4-1, asserting an unsecured claim in the amount of $3 million.

On January 11, 2019, the chapter 7 trustee filed an objection to API's claims (the "Trustee's Objection") [doc. 257]. Debtor filed a joinder to the Trustee's Objection [doc. 266]. On May 9, 2019, the Court entered an order sustaining the Trustee's Objection and disallowing API's claim in full (the "Claim Order") [doc. 296]. API filed an appeal of the Claim Order (the "Claim Appeal") before the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel of the Ninth Circuit (the "BAP"). On November 5, 2019, the BAP affirmed the Claim Order [doc. 378].

On May 23, 2019, Debtor filed a motion requesting attorneys' fees and costs incurred objecting to API's proofs of claim (the "First Motion") [doc. 303]. API opposed the First Motion [doc. 362]. On October 17, 2019, the Court held a hearing on the First Motion. At that time, the Court issued a ruling granting the First Motion and explaining the Court's reasoning (the "Fee Ruling") [doc. 369]. On October 28, 2019, the Court entered an order granting the First Motion (the "Fee Order") [doc. 372]. API filed an appeal of the Fee Order (the "Fee Order Appeal"). The Fee Order Appeal is currently pending before the BAP.

Chapter 7

On November 15, 2019, Debtor filed a motion requesting attorneys' fees and costs incurred defending the Claim Appeal (the "Second Motion") [doc. 385]. On March 5, 2020, API filed an opposition to the Second Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 418], reiterating the same arguments from their opposition to the First Motion. On March 12, 2020, Debtor filed a reply to the Opposition (the "Reply") [doc. 421] and a request for judicial notice (the "RJN") [doc. 422].

II. ANALYSIS

A. Appellate Jurisdiction over Merits of API's Arguments

"The filing of a notice of appeal is an event of jurisdictional significance—it confers jurisdiction on the court of appeals and divests the district court of its control over those aspects of the case involved in the appeal." Griggs v. Provident Consumer Disc. Co., 459 U.S. 56, 58, 103 S.Ct. 400, 402, 74 L.Ed.2d 225 (1982). "The timely filing of a notice of appeal to either a district court or bankruptcy appellate panel will typically divest a bankruptcy court of jurisdiction 'over those aspects of the case involved in the appeal.'" In re Sherman, 491 F.3d 948, 967 (9th Cir. 2007) (quoting In re Padilla, 222 F.3d 1184, 1190 (9th Cir. 2000)). "The bankruptcy court retains jurisdiction over all other matters that it must undertake 'to implement or enforce the judgment or order,' although it 'may not alter or expand upon the judgment.'" Id. (quoting Padilla, 222 F.3d at 1190).

The merits of the parties' arguments regarding Debtor's entitlement to attorneys' fees and costs are currently before the BAP. Given the pending appeal, this Court does not have jurisdiction to rule on API's substantive arguments; those arguments will be addressed by the BAP. As such, the Court's ruling is limited to a decision on the reasonableness of the fees and costs requested by Debtor.

B. Reasonableness of Fees

Movants bear the burden of proving that the fees sought are reasonable. Center for Biological Diversity v. Cty. of San Bernardino, 188 Cal.App.4th 603, 615 (Ct. App. 2010); In re Atwood, 293 B.R. 227, 233 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2003). Both California state courts and the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals customarily assess the reasonableness of attorneys' fees utilizing the "lodestar" approach where the number of hours reasonably expended is multiplied by a reasonable hourly rate. Ketchum v. Moses, 24 Cal.4th 1122, 1131 (2001); In re Eliapo, 468 F.3d 592, 598 (9th Cir. 2006).

"A district court should exclude from the lodestar amount hours that are not reasonably expended because they are 'excessive, redundant, or otherwise unnecessary.'" Van Gerwen v. Guarantee Mut. Life Co., 214 F.3d 1041, 1045 (9th Cir. 2000) (quoting Hensley v. Eckerhart, 461 U.S. 424, 434, 103 S.Ct. 1933, 1939-40, 76 L.Ed.2d 40 (1983)). "After computing the lodestar, the court must assess whether additional considerations require adjustment of the figure, such as the novelty or complexity of the issues, the skill and experience of counsel, the quality of representation and the results obtained." PSM Holding, 2015 WL 11652518 at *4.

In the Opposition, API notes that certain items are redacted. However, Debtor is not requesting reimbursement of the redacted portions of the invoice attached to the Second Motion. Debtor only seeks an award of fees and costs for those unredacted amounts.

As to reasonableness, the attached billing statement reflects that, aside from researching and writing the appellate brief, Debtor's counsel filed briefs responding to API's motions to increase page limits and augment the record. In light of these additional matters before the appellate court, Debtor's request of $16,787.50 in fees is reasonable. Debtor's request of $2,465 to prepare this Motion also is reasonable. However, having assessed the Reply and the RJN, the Court will award a total of $850 in estimated fees and costs associated with these filings. In addition, because the Court does not anticipate that a hearing on this matter will exceed one hour, the Court will award a total of $425 in estimated fees and costs incurred attending the hearing. Consequently, the Court will award Debtor a total of $20,527.50.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will award Debtor a total of $20,527.50 incurred defending the Claim Appeal, filing the Second Motion, the Reply and the RJN and attending the hearing on the Second Motion.

Debtor must submit an order within seven (7) days.

- #9.00 Debtor's amended motion for order authorizing:
- (1) Sale of property at 2300 Pisani Pl, Venice, CA 90291-4827 outside the ordinary course of business pursuant to section 363(b);
 - (2) Without overbids;
 - (3) For a determination of good faith purchaser pursuant to §363(m)
 - (4) Authorizing disbursement of proceeds; and
 - (5) Waiving the 14-day stay imposed by FRBP 6004

fr. 2/20/20; 3/19/20

Docket 21

Tentative Ruling:

In its opposition [doc. 34], Center Street Lending Corporation ("Center Street") asserts that the purchaser is not entitled to a good faith determination under 11 U.S.C. § 363(m). Does Center Street intend to cross-examine the declarants regarding this issue? If so, and given that the courthouse is currently closed to the public, the parties should be prepared to discuss how to proceed with an evidentiary hearing.

In addition, the debtor has not identified under which prong of 11 U.S.C. § 363(f) it requests approval of this sale. To the extent the debtor is asserting that the sale price is greater than the aggregate value of all liens against the property, see 11 U.S.C. § 363(f)(3), the Court does not have sufficient evidence to make a determination regarding the amount of Center Street's claim.

On March 15, 2020, the debtor filed a supplemental declaration [doc. 39], attaching a closing statement and asserting that the closing statement reflects that the debtor received $1,985,000 from Center Street. However, Center Street has not had a meaningful opportunity to respond to the debtor's evidence or to provide the Court with its own evidence regarding the amount of its claim. As such, the parties also should be prepared to discuss a briefing schedule for the parties to: (A) supplement the record with proof of the amount of Center Street's claim; and (B) discuss which prong of 11 U.S.C. § 363(f) allows a sale of the property free and clear of liens, if any.

Further, in light of the fact that the property is not subject to overbid and has not been subject to postpetition marketing, the Court will not waive the 14 day stay under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 6004(h).

Finally, the Court will deny Center Street's motion to strike the debtor's reply (the "Motion to Strike") [doc. 37]. Although the debtor did not timely file its reply, the Court continued the hearing from its original date of March 19, 2020 to April 2, 2020, providing the Court and Center Street additional time to assess the debtor's reply. The Court also will be further continuing this matter for the reasons stated above. As such, the Court will not strike the debtor's reply.

The debtor must submit an order on the Motion to Strike within seven (7) days.

Tentative Ruling:

#2.10 Motion in individual case for order imposing a stay or continuing the automatic stay as the court deems appropriate

fr. 2/5/20; 3/25/20;

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

Pursuant to the second order granting the motion on an interim basis (the "Second Interim Order") [doc. 34], no later than April 1, 2020, the debtor had to file a declaration demonstrating that he timely made his required postpetition deed of trust payments on his residential and commercial real properties, his postpetition homeowner's association payments and his postpetition chapter 13 plan payments.

On April 1, 2020, the debtor filed a declaration (the "Second Declaration") [doc. 36]. The Second Declaration does not demonstrate that the debtor has made his February 2020 and March 2020 postpetition deed of trust payments as to his residential real property and his February 2020 and March 2020 postpetition homeowner's association payments. The Second Declaration demonstrates that the debtor made only one of his postpetition homeowner's association payments.

Similarly, the debtor's prior declaration, filed on March 23, 2020 (the "First Declaration") [doc. 31], does not demonstrate that he made these payments. In the First Declaration, the debtor states that he made his February 2020 deed of trust payment as to his residential real property. However, the debtor did not indicate the date he mailed the payment to the secured lienholder.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth in the Court's tentative ruling at the prior hearing held on March 25, 2020, unless the debtor provides for the prompt conversion of this case to one under chapter 7, or files an amended chapter 13 plan which provides that he will surrender his residential real property, the Court will deny the motion.

Unless the debtor provides for the prompt conversion of this case to one under chapter 7, the Court will deny the motion.

Pursuant to the order granting the motion on an interim basis (the "Interim Order") [doc. 22], no later than March 23, 2020, the debtor had to file a declaration demonstrating that he timely made his required postpetition deed of trust payments on his residential and commercial real properties, his postpetition homeowner's association payments and his postpetition chapter 13 plan payments. On March 23, 2020, the debtor filed a declaration [doc. 31]. That declaration does not demonstrate that the debtor fully complied with the Interim Order.

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3)(C)(i)(III), the debtor has not provided clear and convincing evidence that his financial or personal affairs have improved since the prior case, such that the pending chapter 13 case will result in a confirmed plan that will be fully performed. Accordingly, if the case remains as one under chapter 13, the Court cannot grant the motion.

However, in a chapter 7 case, in order to extend the automatic stay in a case filed within one year of another case which was pending within the same year but was dismissed, the debtor must show that the present case was filed in good faith as to the creditors to be stayed. Under 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3)(C)(i)(III), a case is presumptively filed not in good faith if there has not been a substantial change in the financial or personal affairs of the debtor since the dismissal of the next most previous case, or any other reason to conclude that the later case will not be concluded with a chapter 7 discharge. See In re Castaneda, 342 B.R. 90, 94 n.5 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 2006).

Although the debtor has not shown a substantial change in financial or personal circumstances, at this time, there is no reason for the Court to conclude that the pending case will not be concluded with a chapter 7 discharge. If the debtor is willing to convert this case to one under chapter 7, the Court will grant the motion.

February 5, 2020 Ruling

The Court will grant the motion on an interim basis up to the date of the continued hearing. The Court will continue this hearing to March 25, 2020 at 9:30 a.m. No later than February 12, 2020, the debtor must file and serve notice of the continued hearing on all creditors in accordance with Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7004(b)(3) and (h).

Chapter 13

On January 31, 2020, Pensco Trust Company Custodian fbo Alan L Brooks, IRA ("Pensco"), a secured creditor, filed a timely opposition to the motion [doc. 20]. Pensco argues that the debtor has not overcome the presumption of bad faith as required by 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3)(C).

In his immediately preceding case, the debtor was not represented by counsel. In the pending case, the debtor has retained counsel, which is a change in the debtor's personal and financial affairs. The Court will continue this hearing in order to assess the debtor's ability to perform under his proposed chapter 13 plan.

The debtor must timely pay his: (A) February 2020 and March 2020 plan payments in the amount of $4,798.00 (as stated in the debtors' proposed chapter 13 plan) to the chapter 13 trustee [doc. 15]; (B) February 2020 and March 2020 deed of trust payments in the amount of $3,000.00 (as stated in his current schedule J) as to his residential real property [doc. 14]; (C) February 2020 and March 2020 deed of trust payments in the amount of $1,523.72 (as stated in Pensco's opposition) as to his commercial real property [doc. 20]; and (D) February 2020 and March 2020 homeowner's association ("HOA") payments on his residential real property in the amount of $380 (as stated in his current schedule J). No later than March 23, 2020, the debtor must file a declaration to demonstrate that he timely made his required post-petition deed of trust, HOA and chapter 13 plan payments.

In addition, the debtor's schedule I [doc. 14] indicates rental income in the amount of $3,000 per month. However, the debtor's schedule G [doc. 14] indicates that the debtor has no unexpired leases. By February 12, 2020, the debtor must amend his schedule G to include any unexpired leases.

Contrary to the Court's instructions given during the last status conference (at which the plaintiff appeared), the plaintiff has not filed a status report, as required by Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 7016-1(a)(2).

On April 1, 2020, defendant Navient Solutions, LLC ("Navient") filed a unilateral status report [doc. 10]. Navient did not attach a proof of service to the status report; as such, it is unclear if Navient served the plaintiff (the plaintiff does not receive electronic notice via CM/ECF). In any event, the parties should be prepared to discuss the following:

Deadline to complete discovery: 8/31/20.

Deadline to file pretrial motions: 9/14/20.

Deadline to complete and submit pretrial stipulation in accordance with Local Bankruptcy Rule 7016-1: 10/7/20.

Pretrial: 10/21/20 at 1:30 p.m.

In accordance with LBR 7016-1(a)(3), within seven (7) days after this status conference, the plaintiff must submit a Scheduling Order.

If any of these deadlines are not satisfied, the Court will consider imposing sanctions against the party at fault pursuant to LBR 7016-1(f) and (g).

On March 24, 2020, the chapter 7 trustee filed a motion to approve a compromise with the defendant [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 45].

The Court will continue this status conference to 1:30 p.m. on May 6, 2020, to assess if the Court has approved the parties' compromise. I. BACKGROUND

On May 4, 2018, Robert E. Zuckerman ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. On March 18, 2019, the Court converted Debtor's case to a chapter 7 case [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 129].

On March 27, 2019, Richard Abel ("Plaintiff") filed the operative second amended complaint (the "SAC") [doc. 75] against Debtor and Continental Communities, LLC, Valley Circle Estates Realty Co., Zuckerman Building Company, Continental San Jacinto, LLC, San Jacinto Z, LLC, Rezinate San Jacinto, LLC, Maravilla Center, LLC and Phoenix Holdings Fund, LLC (together, the "Corporate Entities"), among other defendants. As to the Corporate Entities, Plaintiff alleged that—

Debtor is an insider of the Corporate Entities and controls the Corporate Entities. Debtor and the Corporate Entities have made several loans among each other. Debtor has a right to receive profits, salaries, distributions, loan repayments, etc. from the Corporate Entities. In his amended schedules, Debtor indicated that four of the Corporate Entities owe Debtor large sums of money.

Plaintiff obtained a judgment lien against Debtor's property (the "Judgment Lien") and an assignment order the ("Assignment Order") from state court. Plaintiff believes all Debtor's rights to payment from the Corporate Entities belong to Plaintiff.

Plaintiff also believes that the Corporate Entities are in possession of property of the estate, and such property of the estate should be turned over pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 542 and sold pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 363.

The Corporate Entities did not file a response to the SAC. As such, Plaintiff obtained defaults against the Corporate Entities [docs. 106-113].

On February 25, 2020, Plaintiff filed a motion for default judgment against the Corporate Entities (the "Corporate Motion") [doc. 175]. Plaintiff did not attach any evidence to the Corporate Motion. Instead, Plaintiff references the SAC to prove up his claims.

II. ANALYSIS

Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("FRCP") 55, incorporated by Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 7055, governs default judgments. FRCP 55(b)(2) provides as follows:

(b) Judgment. Judgment by default may be entered as follows...

...(2) By the Court. In all other cases the party entitled to a judgment by default shall apply to the court therefor; but no judgment by default shall be entered against an infant or incompetent person unless represented in the action by a general guardian, committee, conservator, or other such representative who has appeared therein. representative) shall be served with written notice of the application for judgment at least 3 days prior to the hearing on such application. If, in order to enable the court to enter judgment or to carry it into effect, it is necessary to take an account or to determine the amount of damages or to establish the truth of any averment by evidence or to make an investigation of any other matter, the court may conduct such hearings or order such references as it deems necessary and proper and shall accord a right of trial by jury to the parties when and as required by any statute of the United States.

"Our starting point is the general rule that default judgments are ordinarily disfavored." Eitel v. McCool, 782 F.2d 1470, 1472 (9th Cir. 1986). But, "[c]ourts have inherent equitable powers to dismiss actions or enter default judgments for failure to prosecute, contempt of court, or abusive litigation practices." Televideo Systems, Inc. v. Heidenthal, 826 F.2d 915, 916 (9th Cir. 1987). "The general rule of law is that upon default the factual allegations of the complaint, except those relating to the amount of damages, will be taken as true." Id., at 917-18 (internal quotation omitted).

"The bankruptcy court has broad discretion to grant a default judgment; the plaintiff is not entitled to such judgment as a matter of right." In re McGee, 359 B.R. 764, 771 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2006). "The trial court's 'broad discretion' over entry of default judgment includes the discretion to require the plaintiff to prove its case with competent, admissible evidence, to assess matters in accordance with substantial justice, and to make reasonable inferences against the plaintiff." Id., at 775.

"[A] default establishes the well-pleaded allegations of a complaint unless they are . . . contrary to facts judicially noticed or to uncontroverted material in the file." Facts that are not well pled include allegations that are "made indefinite or erroneous by other allegations in the same complaint, . . . allegations which are contrary to the facts of which the court will take judicial notice, or which are not susceptible to proof by legitimate evidence, or which are contrary to the uncontroverted material in the file of the case." It follows that a default judgment that is based solely on the pleadings may only be granted upon well-pled factual allegations, and only for relief for which a sufficient basis is asserted in a complaint.

Id., at 772. Further, even if the Court takes the plaintiff's facts as true, "the facts alleged in the complaint may be insufficient to establish liability." Id., at 771.

"The factors to be considered for entry of a default judgment include (1) the possibility of prejudice to the plaintiff, (2) the merits of the plaintiff's substantive claim, (3) the sufficiency of the complaint, (4) the sum of money at stake in the action, (5) the possibility of a dispute concerning material facts, (6) whether the default was due to excusable neglect, and (7) the strong policy underlying the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure favoring decisions on the merits." McGee, at 771 (Eitel v. McCool, 782 F.2d at 1471-72); see also Truong Giang Corp. v. Twinstar Tea Corp., 2007 WL 1545173 (N.D. Cal. 2007). However, "Rule 55 gives the court considerable leeway as to what it may require as a prerequisite to the entry of a default judgment." Televideo Systems, 826 F.2d at 917.

A. Possibility of Prejudice to the Plaintiff

As discussed below, Plaintiff may be able to pursue some of his claims against the Corporate Entities in a different forum. As such, denial of the Corporate Motion will not significantly prejudice Plaintiff.

B. Merits of the Plaintiff's Substantive Claim

As noted above, Plaintiff has not attached any evidence to the Corporate Motion. As such, the Corporate Motion may be denied on this basis alone. However, the Court will deny the Motion because Plaintiff either has not stated a claim against the Corporate Entities or the Court does not have subject matter jurisdiction over the claim.

i. The Claims for Turnover and Sale of Estate Property

Plaintiff appears to be requesting turnover of property under 11 U.S.C. § 542 and sale of such property under 11 U.S.C. § 363. Notwithstanding the fact that the SAC is devoid of any allegations regarding whether assets allegedly held by the Corporate Entities are property of the estate subject to turnover or sale, Plaintiff does not have standing to pursue a turnover claim or to sell property of the estate. See 11 U.S.C. § 542(a) (requiring delivery of property of the estate to the trustee); and 11 U.S.C. § 363(b)(1) (allowing the trustee to use, sell, or lease property of the estate). Consequently, the Court will dismiss these claims.

ii. The Claims Based on the Assignment Order and the Judgment Lien

The remaining claims against the Corporate Entities are vague. It appears Plaintiff is alleging that he has an interest in assets held by the Corporate Entities by operation of the Assignment Order and/or the Judgment Lien. Plaintiff does not specify the nature of the assets, details regarding why the Assignment Order or Judgment Lien would attach to those assets or whether the assets belong to the Corporate Entities or Debtor.

To the extent Plaintiff is alleging that the Assignment Order or Judgment Lien attached to assets held by the Corporate Entities in which Debtor and/or the estate do not have an interest, Plaintiff may pursue recovery of those assets in an appropriate forum. To the extent Plaintiff is alleging that the Judgment Lien attached to assets of the estate, Plaintiff will be treated as a secured creditor if the chapter 7 trustee decides to distribute those assets. If Plaintiff wants to enforce his state law rights as a judgment lienholder, Plaintiff may file a motion for relief from the automatic stay. Plaintiff has not otherwise stated a claim for relief in the SAC.

C. Sufficiency of the Complaint

"The second and third [Eitel] factors, taken together, require that [Plaintiffs] assert a claim upon which [they] may recover." In re Sharma, 2013 WL 1987351, at *10 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. May 14, 2013), aff'd, 607 F. App'x 713 (9th Cir. 2015), citing IO Group, 708 F.Supp.2d 989, 997 (N.D. Cal. 2010). "For default judgment based solely on the complaint, without the benefit of a prove-up hearing, the facts in the complaint must go beyond being well-pled; they must support the ultimate determination of liability." Sharma, 2013 WL 1987351 at *10.

For the same reasons noted above, the allegations against the Corporate Entities are insufficient. As against the Corporate Entities, the allegations either do not establish a claim relief or Plaintiff does not have standing to pursue the claims.

D. The Sum of Money at Stake in the Action

Under this factor, "the court must consider the amount of money at stake in relation to the seriousness of Defendant's conduct." PepsiCo, Inc. v. Cal. Security Cans, 238 F.Supp.2d 1172, 1176 (C.D. Cal. 2002). There are no allegations regarding the amount of damages Plaintiff is requesting against the Corporate Entities. As such, this factor also weighs against entering a default judgment.

E. Possibility of Dispute

"The fifth Eitel factor considers the possibility of dispute as to any material facts in the case." Elektra Entertainment Group, Inc., et al., 2004 WL 783123, *4 (C.D. Cal. Feb. 13, 2004). "The general rule of law is that upon default the factual allegations of the complaint, except those relating to the amount of damages, will be taken as true." TeleVideo Systems, at 917-918 (quoting Geddes v. United Financial Group, 559 F.2d 557, 560 (9th Cir.1977)).

Here, given the lack of clarity of the allegations against the Corporate Entities, there is a high possibility of dispute regarding the material facts. Consequently, this factor weighs in favor of denying the Corporate Motion.

F. Possibility of Excusable Neglect

"Due process requires that all interested parties be given notice reasonably calculated to apprise them of the pendency of the action and be afforded an opportunity to present their objections before a final judgment is rendered." Elektra Entertainment Group, Inc., et al., 2004 WL 783123, *5 (C.D. Cal. Feb. 13, 2004) (citing Mullane v. Central Hanover Trust Co., 339 U.S. 306 (1950)).

Plaintiff served the Corporate Entities with the summons and the SAC and, subsequently, with the Corporate Motion. As such, there is not a significant risk of excusable neglect. Nevertheless, the remaining factors weigh in favor of denial of the Corporate Motion.

#15.00 Motion for default judgment against defendant Nikki B. Allen

Docket 177

Tentative Ruling:

Deny.

I. BACKGROUND

On May 4, 2018, Robert E. Zuckerman ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. On March 18, 2019, the Court converted Debtor's case to a chapter 7 case [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 129].

On March 27, 2019, Richard Abel ("Plaintiff") filed the operative second amended complaint (the "SAC") [doc. 75] against Debtor and Nikki B. Allen, among other defendants. As to Ms. Allen, Plaintiff alleged—

Debtor was represented by Ms. Allen in state court. During an April 10, 2018 hearing before the state court, Ms. Allen wrote a $8,135 check from her trust account holding Debtor's funds. The check was to satisfy a sanctions award from the state court to a third party. Plaintiff believes the Judgment Lien and the Assignment Order attached to Debtor's funds in Ms. Allen's account. Plaintiff also believes any transfers from Debtor to Ms. Allen were preferential transfers.

Ms. Allen did not file a response to the SAC. As such, Plaintiff obtained a default against Ms. Allen [doc. 49].

On February 25, 2020, Plaintiff filed a motion for default judgment against Ms. Allen (the "Allen Motion") [doc. 177]. Plaintiff did not attach any evidence to the motion. Instead, Plaintiff references the SAC to prove up his claims.

Allen in a different forum. As such, denial of the Allen Motion will not significantly prejudice Plaintiff.

B. Merits of Plaintiff's Substantive Claims

As noted above, Plaintiff has not attached any evidence to the Allen Motion. As such, the Allen Motion may be denied on this basis alone. However, the Court will deny the Allen Motion because Plaintiff either has not stated a claim against Ms. Allen or the Court does not have subject matter jurisdiction over the claim.

i. The Claim for Recovery of Preferential Transfer Plaintiff alleges that Ms. Allen received $8,135 into a client trust account, which Ms. Allen transferred to a third party pursuant to a state court order. A transferee, for purposes of 11 U.S.C. § 547(b), "is one who has dominion over the money or other asset, the right to put the money to one's own purposes." In re Incomnet, Inc., 463 F.3d 1065, 1070 (9th Cir. 2006). "The inquiry focuses on whether an entity had legal authority over the money and the right to use the money however it wished." Id. Courts have held that entities holding funds in trust for another are "mere conduits" without the type of dominion that would qualify the entity as a transferee. See, e.g. In re Viola, 469 B.R. 1, 6-7 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2012), aff'd, 583 F. App'x 669 (9th Cir. 2014).

Here, based on Plaintiff's own allegations, Ms. Allen was a "mere conduit" for the $8,135 that was transferred to a third party, pursuant to a court order. As such, Ms. Allen did not have dominion over the funds and was not a transferee under 11 U.S.C. § 547(b). Because Plaintiff cannot state a claim against Ms. Allen for recovery of $8,135 under a preferential transfer theory, the Court will dismiss that claim with prejudice. [FN1].

ii. The Claims Based on the Assignment Order and the Judgment Lien

In the SAC, Plaintiff alleges that his Assignment Order and Judgment Lien attached to the $8,135 contained in Ms. Allen's client trust account. Given that Plaintiff also alleges that the funds are now in the possession of a third party, it is unclear what kind of damages Plaintiff would have against Ms. Allen.

Chapter 7

Nevertheless, because the Court is dismissing Plaintiff's preferential transfer claim, the Court does not have subject matter jurisdiction over the remaining allegations against Ms. Allen. The dispute between two non-debtor parties regarding whether Plaintiff's Assignment Order or Judgment Lien attached to the $8,135 will have no impact on Debtor's estate. See 28 U.S.C. § 1334(b); and In re Pegasus Gold Corp., 394 F.3d 1189, 1193 (9th Cir. 2005). Even if the Court has subject matter jurisdiction over this dispute, the Court elects to abstain from the dispute under 28 U.S.C. § 1334(c)(1). Consequently, the Court will dismiss these remaining allegations for lack of subject matter jurisdiction or, in the alternative, will abstain from deciding these issues. Plaintiff may pursue these claims in an appropriate forum.

C. Sufficiency of the Complaint

"The second and third [Eitel] factors, taken together, require that [Plaintiffs] assert a claim upon which [they] may recover." In re Sharma, 2013 WL 1987351, at *10 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. May 14, 2013), aff'd, 607 F. App'x 713 (9th Cir. 2015), citing IO Group, 708 F.Supp.2d 989, 997 (N.D. Cal. 2010). "For default judgment based solely on the complaint, without the benefit of a prove-up hearing, the facts in the complaint must go beyond being well-pled; they must support the ultimate determination of liability." Sharma, 2013 WL 1987351 at *10.

For the same reasons noted above, the allegations against Ms. Allen are insufficient. As against Ms. Allen, the allegations either do not establish a claim for preferential transfer or the Court does not have subject matter jurisdiction over the allegations.

D. The Sum of Money at Stake in the Action

Under this factor, "the court must consider the amount of money at stake in relation to the seriousness of Defendant's conduct." PepsiCo, Inc. v. Cal. Security Cans, 238 F.Supp.2d 1172, 1176 (C.D. Cal. 2002). As to Ms. Allen, the amount at stake appears to be $8,135. However, Plaintiff has not alleged a basis for recovery from Ms. Allen, let alone that Ms. Allen engaged in serious conduct. As such, this factor also does not weight in favor of a default judgment.

"The fifth Eitel factor considers the possibility of dispute as to any material facts in the case." Elektra Entertainment Group, Inc., et al., 2004 WL 783123, *4 (C.D. Cal. Feb. 13, 2004). "The general rule of law is that upon default the factual allegations of the complaint, except those relating to the amount of damages, will be taken as true." TeleVideo Systems, at 917-918 (quoting Geddes v. United Financial Group, 559 F.2d 557, 560 (9th Cir.1977)).

Here, although there may not be a high possibility of dispute as to the facts alleged in the SAC, there is a high possibility of dispute as to the legal relevance of those facts. In any event, Plaintiff may pursue the remaining claims in a different forum.

F. Possibility of Excusable Neglect

"Due process requires that all interested parties be given notice reasonably calculated to apprise them of the pendency of the action and be afforded an opportunity to present their objections before a final judgment is rendered." Elektra Entertainment Group, Inc., et al., 2004 WL 783123, *5 (C.D. Cal. Feb. 13, 2004) (citing Mullane v. Central Hanover Trust Co., 339 U.S. 306 (1950)).

Plaintiff served Ms. Allen with the summons and the SAC and, subsequently, with the Allen Motion. As such, there is not a significant risk of excusable neglect. Nevertheless, the remaining factors weigh in favor of denial of the Allen Motion.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will deny the Allen Motion. For the reasons stated above, the Court will dismiss Plaintiff's preferential transfer claim regarding the $8,135 with prejudice. The Court will dismiss the remaining claims for lack of subject matter jurisdiction, or, in the alternative, will abstain from deciding those issues. Plaintiff may pursue those claims in an appropriate forum.

The Court will prepare the Order.

Have the parties secured a date for mediation? If so, the parties should be prepared to discuss a deadline for them to file a written stipulation as required by Local Bankruptcy Rule 7026-1(c)(3), and continued hearing dates on the motions to quash.

Ruling from March 4, 2020

After reviewing the motions to quash [docs. 28 and 29], the oppositions to those motions [docs. 40 and 41] and the replies to those oppositions [docs. 42 and 43], the Court has determined that the parties must file a written stipulation identifying any disputed discovery issue as to each category requested for production, with contentions and points and authorities of each party as to each issue, as required by Local Bankruptcy Rule 7026-1(c)(3).

Either before or after the parties file such a stipulation, the parties are ordered to attend mediation in downtown Los Angeles with the Honorable Gregg W. Zive or the Honorable Thomas B. Donovan, both of whom are recalled United States Bankruptcy Judges assisting with mediations. To set up the mediation, the parties are directed to contact Judge Zive at (775) 326-2107 and/or Judge Donovan at (213) 894-3728.

April 1, 2020 Tentative Ruling

After reviewing the supplemental briefing [docs. 26 and 27], the Court will grant in part and deny in part the motion for the reasons discussed below.

I. BACKGROUND

A. Debtor's Bankruptcy Case

On December 18, 2018, Kenneth C. Scott ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 13 petition, initiating case 1:18-bk-13024-VK. In his schedule A/B, Debtor scheduled a 100% interest in My Private Practice, Inc. ("MPPI") and valued his interest at $0.00. Debtor also scheduled an interest in "monies in business account," valued at $17,274.00 (the "Funds"). In Debtor's latest-amended schedule C [Bankruptcy Case, doc. 35], Debtor claimed an exemption in the Funds pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure ("CCP") § 703.140(b)(5). In his schedule E/F, Debtor listed a pending lawsuit commenced by H. Samuel Hopper ("Plaintiff") in state court (the "State Court Action").

On February 20, 2019, Debtor attended his initial § 341(a) meeting of creditors (the "Meeting of Creditors") [doc. 20]. At the Meeting of Creditors, Debtor testified that: (A) MPPI was no longer operating and Debtor had organized a new corporate entity, Scott Psy.D; (B) he listed the Funds in his schedules as business-related property; (C) the Funds were in one of the corporate bank accounts; (D) Debtor was the sole shareholder of that corporation; and (E) after the petition date, Debtor paid the Funds, which amounted to the full balance of MPPI's corporate account, to himself. Id. at pp. 8-11.

On March 18, 2019, Plaintiff filed an objection to Debtor's claim of an exemption in the Funds (the "Objection to Exemption") [Bankruptcy Case, doc. 42]. In the Objection to Exemption, Plaintiff contended that: (A) Debtor does not qualify for a homestead exemption under CCP § 703.140(b)(1); (B) the Funds were property of MPPI and do not qualify as property of the estate that Debtor may exempt; and (C) Debtor has provided no evidence that he was entitled to a distribution of $17,274 from MPPI. On July 17, 2019, the Court entered an order overruling the Objection to Exemption (the "Exemption Order") [Bankruptcy Case, doc. 160]. In the Court's ruling [Bankruptcy Case, doc. 150], the Court noted, in relevant part:

Here, the Scott Declaration establishes that, as of the petition date, Debtor was the 100% shareholder of a subchapter S corporation, MPPI. As such, all the shares of MPPI became property of the estate as of the petition date. Under § 541(a)(6) and (a)(7), any proceeds or profits arising from those shares also constitute property of the estate.

In the Scott Declaration, Debtor states that, postpetition, Debtor received a distribution based on his interest in the shares. Rather than claim an exemption in the shares, Debtor claimed an exemption in this distribution, i.e., the Funds. . . . [F]or two reasons, Debtor properly claimed an exemption in the Funds. First, MPPI is a subchapter S corporation. . . . In the Scott Declaration, Debtor testified that he receives a yearly dividend based on profits generated by MPPI. Because MPPI is a subchapter S corporation, all of MPPI's profits flow through to Debtor as the sole shareholder.

Second, even if Debtor could not claim an exemption in the Funds directly, Debtor could have claimed a $17,274 exemption in the shares of MPPI under CCP § 703.140(b)(5). Such an exemption would have excluded $17,274 of the value of the shares from the estate. Consequently, whether Debtor claimed an exemption in the Funds or the shares is a distinction without a difference; either way, Debtor would have been entitled to exempt value in the amount of $17,274.

Because Debtor has established, through the Scott Declaration, that he receives a yearly distribution based on MPPI's profits, and there being no contradictory evidence, Debtor has met his burden of proving that he is entitled to an exemption in the Funds.

On March 13, 2019, Plaintiff filed a motion for relief from stay to proceed with the State Court Action (the "RFS Motion") [Bankruptcy Case, doc. 38]. On May 29, 2019, the Court entered an order denying the RFS Motion [Bankruptcy Case, doc. 121].

On March 26, 2019, Plaintiff filed an amended proof of claim for a nonpriority unsecured claim in the amount of $260,975.25 (the "Claim") [Claim 3-2]. On March 28, 2019, Debtor filed an objection to the Claim (the "Objection to Claim") [doc. 55]. On April 30, 2019, Plaintiff filed a response to the Objection to Claim (the "Response") [doc. 78]. In the Response, Plaintiff indicates that he agrees to amend the Claim to reflect his revised calculation of the Claim, as stated in the Response—$190,880.65. On May 14, 2019, the Court held a hearing on the Objection to Claim. At that hearing, the Court ruled that it would adjudicate the disputes regarding the Claim in connection with this adversary proceeding.

On August 28, 2019, Debtor filed an amended chapter 13 plan (the "Plan") [doc. 166]. In the Plan, Debtor proposes to pay $493.61 per month for 60 months, totaling $29,616.00. If confirmed, the Plan provides for the payment of 19.5% of nonpriority unsecured claims.

B. The Adversary Proceeding

On April 19, 2019, Plaintiff filed a complaint against Debtor and MPPI initiating this adversary proceeding (the "Complaint") [doc. 1]. On July 3, 2019, Plaintiff filed an amended complaint (the "FAC") [doc. 8] against Debtor, MPPI and Kenneth Scott, Psy.D, A Psychological Corporation ("Scott Psy.D.," collectively, "Defendants"). In the FAC, Plaintiff alleges, in relevant part [emphasis added]:

From April 2013 through June 2017, Defendants employed Plaintiff as a Psychological Assistant ("PA") subject to the California Labor Code. Because Plaintiff was not a licensed psychologist, he was not exempt from California's overtime and minimum wage laws.

In October 2014, Plaintiff and Defendants entered into a written employment agreement (the "Agreement"), which outlined a compensation scheme based on a graduated scale of percentages of the gross revenue Plaintiff generated for Defendants in each calendar month. However, throughout the course of his employment, Plaintiff was not compensated according to a "bona fide payroll program" and was unable to determine if he was being paid according to the Agreement because the statements Defendants provided him were insufficient. The pay statements provided to Plaintiff were rudimentary and incomplete. Additionally, between April 2013 and June 2017, Defendants failed to reimburse Plaintiff for business expenses, and between August 2015 and June 2017, Defendants failed to reimburse Plaintiff for work-related travel expenses.

Defendants also deducted payroll taxes in amounts not authorized by law without an itemized calculation of each type of payroll tax and not according to any W-4. On at least three instances, the entirety of Plaintiff's paycheck for a given period was deducted. Defendants also unlawfully underreported Plaintiff's gross income to state and federal tax authorities. Defendants defrauded Plaintiff by failing to withhold his payroll taxes in lawful and appropriate amounts, failing to pay those withheld taxes to government authorities as required by law on Plaintiff's behalf and by issuing fraudulent tax records on which Plaintiff relied to report and pay his annual income taxes.

On multiple instances between April 2013 and June 2017, in retaliation against Plaintiff's assertion of his rights to be paid lawfully and in accordance with the Agreement, Debtor either gave Plaintiff knowingly false assurances that all his employment and payroll practices were lawful and honest, or occasionally threatened to terminate Plaintiff. Between April 2013 and June 2017, Plaintiff reasonably relied on Debtor's assurances that Defendants' employment and payroll practices were routine and lawful in all respects and forbore seeking alternative comparable employment. Throughout his employment at MPPI, Plaintiff was never paid overtime as required by law.

On multiple occasions, Plaintiff complained to Debtor that he should be treated as a regular employee and not as an independent contractor. In response, Debtor either gave Plaintiff false assurances, or threatened to terminate Plaintiff based on what Debtor alleged was Plaintiff's breach of the Agreement.

On June 17, 2017, Plaintiff resigned from MPPI. In July 2017, Plaintiff secured alternative but lower paid employment as a PA with another employer. Plaintiff has suffered emotional distress as a result of his employment at and constructive termination from MPPI and has consequently sought psychological treatment.

On October 8, 2018, Plaintiff, Debtor and MPPI entered into a tolling agreement (the "Tolling Agreement"), tolling applicable statute of limitations through November 16, 2018. In the Tolling Agreement, the parties agreed that "any statute of limitations or statute of repose that had expired prior to October 8, 2018 shall not be resurrected or tolled by" the Tolling Agreement. On November 7, 2018, Plaintiff filed the State Court Action.

On February 20, 2019, at the 341(a) meeting of creditors, Debtor testified that he transferred the Funds from MPPI's business accounts to his personal use after the petition date. Debtor additionally testified that MPPI was no longer doing business and that he had formed a new corporation in January 2019, Scott Psy.D. Plaintiff believes Debtor transferred the Funds out of MPPI to frustrate Plaintiff's efforts to collect his unpaid wages from Defendants.

Based on these allegations, Plaintiff asserts the following claims in the FAC: (1) declaratory relief regarding nondischargeability of civil penalties pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(7); (2) declaratory relief re nondischargeability of fraud damages pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2) and (4); (3) declaratory relief re ownership of $17,247 in business account; (4) annulment of transfer in fraud of creditors; (5) fraud and deceit pursuant to Cal. On July 23, 2019, Defendants filed a Motion to Dismiss Pursuant to Rules 8, 9, and 12 (the "Motion") [doc. 12]. In the Motion, Defendants argue: (1) the FAC is untimely; (2) the FAC does not meet the requirements of Fed. R. Civ. P. ("FRCP") 8 and Fed. R. Bankr. P. ("FRBP") 7008; (3) claims three through seventeen are not core proceedings and are not related to a claim under title 11; (4) 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(7) cannot be a basis for relief because Plaintiff is not a governmental agency; (5) Plaintiff's fraud claims do not meet the requirements of FRCP 9; (6) Plaintiff did not articulate the grounds for relief for annulment of transfer in fraud of creditors; (7) Plaintiff has no standing to pursue a conversion claim; and (8) some of the claims in the FAC are outside the applicable statute of limitations.

On September 18, 2019, Plaintiff filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 19] and a request for judicial notice [doc. 20]. On September 26, 2019, Defendants filed a reply to the Opposition (the "Reply") [doc. 22].

continued the hearing to February 5, 2020.

On December 16, 2019, Plaintiff filed a supplemental brief (the "Plaintiff's Supplemental Brief") [doc. 26]. In Plaintiff's Supplemental Brief, Plaintiff requests that the Court reconsider the Tentative Ruling on the following causes of action in the FAC: (A) waiting time penalties under Cal. Lab. Code § 203; (B) statute of limitations under Cal. Lab. Code §§ 226(f) and 1198.5(k); (C) declaratory relief concerning ownership of the funds (third cause of action); (D) annulment of transfers in fraud of creditors (fourth cause of action); (E) breach of contract (twelfth cause of action); (F) conversion (thirteenth cause of action); (G) injunctive relief under the UCL. In addition, Plaintiff argues that the Court must dismiss an entire cause of action rather than strike a portion of the allegations in the FAC. On January 6, 2020, Debtor filed a reply to Plaintiff's Supplemental Brief (the "Debtor's Supplemental Brief") [doc. 27].

II. DISCUSSION

Based on the Motion, the Opposition, the Reply, the Plaintiff's Supplemental Brief and the Debtor's Supplemental Brief, the Court will issue the following ruling. The Court will first address Defendants' procedural objections to the FAC, then Plaintiff's claims for monetary relief and lastly, Plaintiff's other claims that are potentially nondischargeable or otherwise request equitable relief.

A. Procedural Objections to the FAC

1. Subject Matter Jurisdiction over Claims Three Through Seventeen

In the Motion, Defendants argue that causes of action three through seventeen are not "core" proceedings and they do not otherwise relate to a claim under title 11; thus, the Court should dismiss these causes of action. Defendants contend that bankruptcy courts are not courts of general jurisdiction, and that although bankruptcy courts may hear matters involving debtors, the causes of action must involve some rights under title 11.

Parties cannot consent to subject matter jurisdiction. Clapp v. Commissioner, 875 F.2d 1396, 1398 (9th Cir. 1989) ("Subject matter jurisdiction cannot be conferred upon the court by consent or waiver."); and In re Marshall, 264 B.R. 609, 619 (C.D. Cal. 2001) ("[I]n so far as the issue is the actual subject matter jurisdiction of the federal courts, rather than just the bankruptcy court's power to enter a final judgment, such jurisdiction cannot be conferred by consent.").

28 U.S.C. § 1334(b), with regard to bankruptcy cases and proceedings, provides that:

Except as provided by subsection (e)(2) and notwithstanding any Act of Congress that confers exclusive jurisdiction on a court or courts other than the district courts, the district courts shall have original but not exclusive jurisdiction of all civil proceedings arising under title 11, or arising in or related to cases under title 11.

i. Arising Under Jurisdiction

"A matter arises under the Bankruptcy Code if its existence depends on a substantive provision of bankruptcy law, that is, if it involves a cause of action created or determined by a statutory provision of the Bankruptcy Code." In re Ray, 624 F.3d 1124, 1131 (9th Cir. 2010).

ii. Arising In Jurisdiction

"A proceeding 'arises in' a case under the Bankruptcy Code if it is an administrative matter unique to the bankruptcy process that has no independent existence outside of bankruptcy and could not be brought in another forum, but whose cause of action is not expressly rooted in the Bankruptcy Code." Id.

Matters that "arise under or in Title 11 are deemed to be 'core' proceedings" In re Harris Pine Mills, 44 F.3d 1431, 1435 (9th Cir. 1995). Title 28, United States Code, section 157(b)(2) sets out a non-exclusive list of core proceedings, including "matters concerning the administration of the estate," "allowance or disallowance of claims," "objections to discharges," "motions to terminate, annul, or modify the automatic stay," and "confirmation of plans." Bankruptcy courts have the authority to hear and enter final judgments in "all core proceedings arising under title 11, or arising in a case under title 11" 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(1); Stern v. Marshall, 564 U.S. 462, 475-76, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2604, 180 L.Ed.2d 475 (2011).

iii. Related to Jurisdiction

Bankruptcy courts also have jurisdiction over proceedings that are "related to" a bankruptcy case. 28 U.S.C. § 1334(b); In re Pegasus Gold Corp., 394 F.3d 1189, 1193 (9th Cir. 2005). A proceeding is "related to" a bankruptcy case if:

[T]he outcome of the proceeding could conceivably have any effect on the estate being administered in bankruptcy. Thus, the proceeding need not necessarily be against the debtor or against the debtor's property. An action is related to bankruptcy if the outcome could alter the debtor's rights, liabilities, options, or freedom of action (either positively or negatively) and which in any way impacts upon the handling and administration of the bankrupt estate.

Pegasus Gold Corp., 394 F.3d at 1193.

"[C]ivil proceedings are not within 28 U.S.C. § 1334(b)'s grant of jurisdiction if they... 'are so tangential to the title 11 case or the result of which would have so little impact on the administration of the title 11 case... Put another way, litigation that would not have an impact upon the administration of the bankruptcy case, or on property of the estate, or on the distribution to creditors, cannot find a home in the district court based on the court's bankruptcy jurisdiction.'" In re Wisdom, 2015 WL 2128830, at *10 (Bankr. D. Idaho May 5, 2015) (quoting 1 Collier on Bankruptcy, ¶ 3.01[3][e][v] (Alan N. Resnick & Henry J. Sommer eds., 16th ed. 2014)).

Here, the Court has "arising under" jurisdiction over claim three because the matter involves statutory provisions of the Bankruptcy Code. In claim three, Plaintiff requests that the Court enter an order declaring the true ownership of the Funds, and whether the Funds are part of Debtor's bankruptcy estate. This Court has jurisdiction to determine whether the Funds are property of Debtor's bankruptcy estate pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 541.

The Court does not have "arising under" or "arising in" jurisdiction over causes of action four through seventeen. There is no "arising under" jurisdiction because the matters do not involve any statutory provisions of the Bankruptcy Code. These matters also do not "arise in" the bankruptcy case because they can independently exist outside of bankruptcy and be brought in another forum. None of these causes of action alleged in the FAC are dependent or intertwined with the existence of Debtor's bankruptcy case or any issue therein.

However, the Court does have "related to" jurisdiction over these causes of action because litigation of the FAC will impact Debtor's bankruptcy estate. A judgment in favor of Plaintiff will affect Debtor's chapter 13 plan, including the percentage of nonpriority unsecured claims paid through that plan. Further, a determination that a debt was incurred through fraud is directly related to determining the dischargeability of that debt. As such, the Court will not dismiss the third through seventeenth causes of action in the FAC for lack of subject matter jurisdiction.

2. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 15

In the Motion, Defendants argue that the FAC should be dismissed because it is untimely under FRCP 15(a)(1). Pursuant to FRCP 15(a), applicable to this adversary proceeding through FRBP 7015—

(1) Amending as a Matter of Course. A party may amend its pleading once as a matter of course within:

(A) 21 days after serving it, or

(B) if the pleading is one to which a responsive pleading is required, 21 days after service of a responsive pleading or 21 days after service of a motion under Rule 12(b), (e), or (f), whichever is earlier.

(2) Other Amendments. In all other cases, a party may amend its pleading only with the opposing party's written consent or the court's leave. The court should freely give leave when justice so requires.

Here, Plaintiff filed the Complaint on April 19, 2019 and the FAC on July 3, 2019. Defendants filed a motion to dismiss the Complaint under FRCP 12(b) on May 31, 2019 [doc. 5]. Accordingly, in order for the FAC to be timely under FRCP 15(a)(1), Plaintiff must have filed the FAC by June 21, 2019. Because Plaintiff did not file the FAC until July 3, 2019, it is untimely.

However, courts have the discretion to grant or deny leave to amend a complaint. Swanson v. U.S. Forest Serv., 87 F.3d 339, 343 (9th Cir. 1996). "In exercising this discretion, a court must be guided by the underlying purpose of [FRCP] 15 to facilitate decision on the merits, rather than on the pleadings or technicalities." United States v. Webb, 655 F.2d 977, 979 (9th Cir. 1981). The factors courts commonly consider when determining whether to grant leave to amend are:

1. Bad faith;
2. Undue delay;
3. Prejudice to the opposing party; and
4. Futility of amendment.

Ditto v. McCurdy, 510 F.3d 1070, 1079 (9th Cir. 2007) (internal citations omitted).

Plaintiff missed the deadline to amend the Complaint as a matter of course by twelve days. The untimely filing of the FAC has not caused undue delay in this adversary proceeding. Further, Defendants do not appear to have suffered any prejudice. Additionally, the amendments that Plaintiff made to the Complaint are not futile. As such, pursuant to FRCP 15(a)(2), the Court will retroactively grant Plaintiff leave of court to file the FAC.

3. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8

In the Motion, Defendants argue that the FAC should be dismissed because Plaintiff failed to comply with FRCP 8 and FRBP 7008. Pursuant to FRCP 8(a)—

- (a) Claim for Relief. A pleading that states a claim for relief must contain:
- (1) a short and plain statement of the grounds for the court's jurisdiction, unless the court already has jurisdiction and the claim needs no new jurisdictional support;
 - (2) a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief; and
 - (3) a demand for the relief sought, which may include relief in the alternative or different types of relief.

Pursuant to FRBP 7008—

[FRCP 8] applies in adversary proceedings. The allegation of jurisdiction required by [FRCP] 8(a) shall also contain a reference to the name, number, and chapter of the case under the Code to which the adversary proceeding relates and to the district and division where the case under the Code is pending. In an adversary proceeding before a bankruptcy court, the complaint, counterclaim, cross-claim, or third-party complaint shall contain a statement that the pleader does or does not consent to entry of final orders or judgment by the bankruptcy court.

Failure to satisfy the requirements of FRBP 7008 and FRCP 8(a) "is not fatal, especially when...the [c]ourt is able to determine its jurisdiction and the core nature of the claims asserted based upon the face of the [complaint]." In re Ward, No. 14-32939-BJH, 2017 WL 377947, at *6 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. Jan. 26, 2017), aff'd sub nom. In re Ward, 585 B.R. 806 (N.D. Tex. 2018).

Additionally, "the rules governing the form of pleading should be liberally construed, and motions to dismiss complaints based on pleading errors are to be disfavored. Courts adopting this view ignore the deficient format of the pleadings and instead focus on the substance of the document in determining whether the pleading substantially complies with the required elements of [FRCP] 8...." In re Bey, 2014 WL 4071042, at *3 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. Aug. 14, 2014) (citations omitted).

In the FAC, Plaintiff substantially complied with the required elements of FRCP 8(a) and FRBP 7008. Plaintiff indicated the name, number and chapter of Debtor's bankruptcy case. Plaintiff indicated that he consented to this Court's entry of final judgments on claims one and two. Plaintiff also indicated that those claims were "core" proceedings and that claims four through seventeen were "non-core" proceedings within the meaning of the Bankruptcy Code. Except as discussed below, each of the claims in the FAC contain a short and plain statement showing why Plaintiff believes he is entitled to relief. Further, the FAC contains a prayer for relief.

Contrary to FRBP 7008, Plaintiff did not indicate whether he does or does not consent to the entry of final judgment by this Court on all claims in the FAC. However, based on the face of the FAC, the Court is able to determine its jurisdiction and the nature of Plaintiff's claims. As such, the Court will disregard the deficient format of the FAC and focus on the substance of the pleading.

B. Application of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6)

A motion to dismiss [pursuant to [FRCP] 12(b)(6)] will only be granted if the complaint fails to allege enough facts to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face. A claim has facial plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged. The plausibility standard is not akin to a probability requirement, but it asks for more than a sheer possibility that a defendant has acted unlawfully.

We accept factual allegations in the complaint as true and construe the pleadings in the light most favorable to the non-moving party. Although factual allegations are taken as true, we do not assume the truth of legal conclusions merely because they are cast in the form of factual allegations. Therefore, conclusory allegations of law and unwarranted inferences are insufficient to defeat a motion to dismiss.

Fayer v. Vaughn, 649 F.3d 1061, 1064 (9th Cir. 2011) (internal quotation marks omitted); citing, inter alia, Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 547, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 167 L.Ed.2d 929 (2007); and Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678, 129 S.Ct. 1937, 173 L.Ed.2d 868 (2009)).

In evaluating a FRCP 12(b)(6) motion, review is "limited to the contents of the complaint." Clegg v. Cult Awareness Network, 18 F.3d 752, 754 (9th Cir. 1994). However, without converting the motion to one for summary judgment, exhibits attached to the complaint, as well as matters of public record, may be considered in determining whether dismissal is proper. See Parks School of Business, Inc. v. Symington, 51 F.3d 1480, 1484 (9th Cir. 1995); Mack v. South Bay Beer Distributors, Inc., 798 F.2d 1279, 1282 (9th Cir. 1986). in the complaint, or matters of judicial notice—without converting the motion to dismiss into a motion for summary judgment." United States v. Ritchie, 342 F.3d 903, 908 (9th Cir. 2003). State court pleadings, orders and judgments are subject to judicial notice under Federal Rule of Evidence 201. See McVey v. McVey, 26 F.Supp.3d 980, 983-84 (C.D. Cal. 2014) (aggregating cases); see also Reyn's Pasta Bella, LLC v. Visa USA, Inc., 442 F.3d 742, 746 n.6 (9th Cir. 2006) ("We may take judicial notice of court filings and other matters of public record.").

Here, Plaintiff requests that the Court take judicial notice of a certified copy of the transcript of Debtor's § 341(a) meeting of creditors on February 20, 2019 and a certified copy of the transcript of the hearing on the RFS Motion on May 15, 2019 [doc. 20]. The Court may properly take judicial notice of these documents.

Dismissal without leave to amend is appropriate when the court is satisfied that the deficiencies in the complaint could not possibly be cured by amendment. Jackson v. Carey, 353 F.3d 750, 758 (9th Cir. 2003); Lopez v. Smith, 203 F.3d 1122, 1127 (9th Cir. 2000).

C. Plaintiff's Causes of Action for Monetary Relief

1. Statute of Limitations

In the Motion, Defendants argue that many claims asserted in the FAC are barred by the applicable statute of limitations.

Regarding Plaintiff's claims for violations of the California Labor Code ("CLC"), generally, the statute of limitations for an action upon a liability created by statute, other than a penalty or forfeiture, is three years. Cal. Civ. Proc. ("CCP") § 338(a). However, violations of the CLC may also be actionable under California's Unfair Competition Law ("UCL"). Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et seq.

"A UCL action is an equitable action by means of which a plaintiff may recover money or property obtained from the plaintiff or persons represented by the plaintiff through unfair or unlawful business practices." Cortez v. Purolator Air Filtration Prod. Co., 23 Cal. 4th 163, 173 (2000). Under the UCL, an employee's recovery of unlawfully withheld wages and expenses and unlawful deductions to wages are proper restitutionary remedies. Cortez, 23 Cal. 4th at 168; Espejo v. The Copley Press, Inc., 13 Cal. App. 5th 329, 367–68 (Ct. App. 2017); Ordonez v. Radio Shack, No. CV 10-7060 CAS MANX, 2011 WL 499279, at *6 (C.D. Cal. Feb. 7, 2011) ("The Court further concludes that the UCL claim may be maintained to the extent it is predicated on plaintiff's claim under Sections 221 and 2802.").

Claims under the UCL are subject to a four-year statute of limitations. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17208; see also Cortez, 23 Cal. 4th at 178. The UCL's four-year statute "admits of no exceptions" and therefore applies even when the action is based on violation of a statute with a shorter limitations period. Cortez, 23 Cal. 4th at 178-79.

In the FAC, Plaintiff has asserted a UCL claim for, among other things, unpaid wages, unpaid business and travel expenses and unlawfully deducted general overhead expenses and payroll taxes. These claims are governed by the UCL's four-year statute of limitations, rather than the typical three-year statute of limitations for actions upon a liability created by statute. As discussed above, the Tolling Agreement, executed on October 8, 2018, extended deadlines that had not already expired. Consequently, Plaintiff's claims for unfair business practices that accrued prior to October 8, 2014 are barred. In the FAC, Plaintiff has not asserted claims for these causes of action prior to October 8, 2014. As such, these claims are not barred by the applicable statute of limitations.

Regarding Plaintiff's claims for reimbursement of lost wages and waiting time penalties, those claims are governed by the three-year statute of limitations for actions upon a liability created by statute. CCP § 338(a); Pineda v. Bank of Am., N.A., 50 Cal. 4th 1389, 1398 (2010) ("[A] single, three-year limitations period govern[s] all actions for section 203 penalties"). Under CLC § 202, an employer must pay an employee who resigns his or her wages within 72 hours. If the employer fails to timely pay those wages, the employer is liable for waiting time penalties under CLC § 203(a). The wages shall continue as a penalty from the due date at the same rate until paid, but not more than 30 days. Here, Plaintiff resigned on June 17, 2017. This is within the three-year period. As such, these claims are not barred by the applicable statute of limitations.

Regarding Plaintiff's claims for penalties, in his individual capacity, under CLC §§ 1102.5(f), 98.6(b)(3), 1198.5(k) and 226(e) and (f), the statute of limitations for an action upon a statute for a penalty or forfeiture, if the action is given to an individual, or to an individual and the state, is one year. CCP § 340(a); Robles v. Agreserves, Inc., 158 F. Supp. 3d 952, 1004 (E.D. Cal. 2016) ("If a plaintiff attempts to obtain the statutory penalties provided by Labor Code § 226(e), then the one year statute of limitations of California Civil Code § 340(a) applies.").

Plaintiff's claims for penalties under CLC §§ 1102.5(f), 98.6(b)(3) and 226(e) are barred by the applicable statute of limitations. Plaintiff ceased employment with MPPI on June 17, 2017. Accordingly, the one-year statute of limitations expired on June 17, 2018. As discussed above, the Tolling Agreement, executed on October 8, 2018, extended deadlines that had not already expired. Consequently, the one-year statute of limitations was not tolled by the Tolling Agreement. The Court will dismiss these claims without leave to amend.

Plaintiff's claims for penalties under CLC §§ 1198.5(k) and 226(f) are not barred by applicable statute of limitations. Plaintiff alleges that on August 6, 2018, Plaintiff demanded a copy of his personnel file and a copy of his complete payroll and time records. Plaintiff's causes of action under CLC §§ 1198.5(b)(1) and 226(b) would not have accrued until at the earliest Plaintiff's demand for his records or at the latest when Defendants failed to comply by the deadlines set forth in the statutes. Using either date, the period is within the applicable one-year statute of limitations. The Court will not dismiss these claims.

Regarding Plaintiff's claims for breach of contract (twelfth cause of action), claims based on oral agreements are subject to a two-year statute of limitations, and claims based on written agreements are subject to a four-year statute of limitations. CCP §§ 339 and 337. In the FAC, Plaintiff alleges that Defendants breached a written agreement. Consequently, Plaintiff's claims for breach of contract that accrued prior to October 8, 2014 are barred.

Regarding Plaintiff's claim for wrongful termination in violation of public policy, this claim is subject to a two-year statute of limitations. CCP § 335.1; Prue v. Brady Co./San Diego, 242 Cal. App. 4th 1367, 1382 (2015). In the FAC, Plaintiff requests damages in the amount of back pay that he would have received had he remained employed with Defendants from June 18, 2017 through August 21, 2018. This period is within the two-year statute of limitations. As such, the Court will not dismiss this claim.

2. Application of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(a)(4)

In the Motion, Defendants argue that Plaintiff is asserting claims that are partially outside of the applicable statute of limitations. Defendants contend that Plaintiff should provide a more definite statement under FRCP 12(a)(4) to enable Defendants to answer the allegations in the FAC.

Rule 12(e) states in relevant part that "[a] party may move for a more definite statement of a pleading . . . which is so vague or ambiguous that the party cannot reasonably prepare a response. The motion must be made before filing a responsive pleading and must point out the defects complained of and the details desired."

A court may grant a Rule 12(e) motion when the pleading is "so vague or ambiguous that the opposing party cannot respond, even with a simple denial, in good faith or without prejudice to himself." Hicks v. Arthur, 843 F.Supp. 949, 959 (E.D. Pa. 1994) (quoting 5A Charles A. Wright and Arthur R. Miller, Federal Practice & Procedure, Civil 2d, § 1376 (1990)). "[Rule 12(e)] is concerned with defects in the complaint . . . Any inconsistency with other papers or lack of detail can be explored during the pretrial discovery phase of the litigation." Stanton v. Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co., 388 F.Supp. 1171, 1174 (S.D.N.Y. 1975).

"Rule 12(e) is designed to strike at unintelligibility rather than want of detail." Resolution Trust Corp. v. Dean, 854 F.Supp. 626, 649 (D. Ariz. 1994); Cox v. Maine Maritime Academy, 122 F.R.D. 115, 116 (D. Me. 1988); Woods v. Reno Commodities, Inc., 600 F.Supp. 574 (D.Nev. 1984). "Therefore, a rule 12(e) motion properly is granted only when a party is unable to determine the issues he must meet." Cox, 122 F.R.D. at 116 (citing Innovative Digital Equipment, 597 F.Supp. 983, 989 (N.D. Oh. 1984); and Usery v. Local 886, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, 72 F.R.D. 581, 582 (W.D.Okla. 1976)).

Here, the FAC is clear regarding the issues that Defendants must address in a responsive pleading. The FAC is not so vague, ambiguous or unintelligible such that Defendants cannot prepare a responsive pleading. Other than the statute of limitation issues discussed in this ruling, in the FAC, Plaintiff has not stated claims outside the applicable statute of limitation. Accordingly, the Court will not order a more definite statement under FRCP 12(a)(4).

Chapter 13

3. Wrongful Termination in Violation of Public Policy (Tenth Cause of Action)

In the Motion, Defendants argue that Plaintiff has not stated a claim for relief for wrongful constructive termination because, in the FAC, Plaintiff admits that he resigned his position.

Under California law, "[c]onstructive discharge occurs when the employer's conduct effectively forces an employee to resign." Turner v. Anheuser-Busch, Inc., 7 Cal. 4th 1238, 1244–45 (1994). "Although the employee may say, 'I quit,' the employment relationship is actually severed involuntarily by the employer's acts, against the employee's will." Id. "As a result, a constructive discharge is legally regarded as a firing rather than a resignation." Id.

"In order to establish a constructive discharge, an employee must plead and prove, by the usual preponderance of the evidence standard, that the employer either intentionally created or knowingly permitted working conditions that were so intolerable or aggravated at the time of the employee's resignation that a reasonable employer would realize that a reasonable person in the employee's position would be compelled to resign." Id. at 1251.

In the FAC, Plaintiff alleges that throughout his employment at MPPI (from 2013 through 2017), Debtor and MPPI illegally withheld earned wages, illegally failed to reimburse business and travel expenses and illegally deducted general overhead expenses and payroll taxes. Plaintiff further alleges that on multiple occasions he made complaints to Defendants regarding these alleged violations of the CLC. On a FRCP 12(b)(6) motion, the Court must accept factual allegations as true. As such, in the context of ruling on the Motion, Plaintiff has alleged sufficient facts in the FAC to allege constructive discharge.

"Even after establishing constructive discharge, an employee must independently prove a breach of contract or tort in connection with employment termination in order to obtain damages for wrongful discharge." Id. (emphasis in original). "Apart from the terms of an express or implied employment contract, an employer has no right to terminate employment for a reason that contravenes fundamental public policy as expressed in a constitutional or statutory provision." Id. at 1252. "An actual or constructive discharge in violation of fundamental public policy gives rise to a tort action in favor of the terminated employee." Id.

Tort claims for wrongful discharge typically arise when an employer retaliates against an employee for: (1) refusing to violate a statute; (2) performing a statutory obligation; (3) exercising a statutory right or privilege; and (4) reporting an alleged violation of a statute of public importance. Id. at 1256.

In the FAC, Plaintiff asserts a cause of action for breach of contract. Additionally, Plaintiff asserts a cause of action for unlawful retaliation. Under his unlawful retaliation cause of action, Plaintiff alleges, among other things, that he was constructively terminated because of his complaints to Debtor and MPPI regarding their violations of the CLC. As such, in the context of ruling on the Motion, Plaintiff has alleged sufficient facts in the FAC to allege wrongful discharge.

4. Dischargeability of Claims

In the Motion, Defendants also argue that the tenth through twelfth and fourteenth through seventeenth causes of action should be dismissed with prejudice because the claims are dischargeable under 11 U.S.C. § 523. These causes of action are for violations of various sections of the CLC, breach of contract and unfair business practices.

As to Debtor, these claims appear to be dischargeable. However, that is not a reason for the Court to dismiss these causes of action on a FRCP 12(b)(6) motion. Further, these claims are not dischargeable by the non-debtor entities, MPPI and Scott Psy.D. See 11 U.S.C. § 524(e). [FN1] As stated above, the Court has subject matter jurisdiction over these causes of action. Also, Plaintiff has met his burden to allege enough facts in the FAC to state a claim that is plausible on its face for each of those causes of action. Moreover, Debtor filed the Objection to Claim, so the Court must adjudicate the validity and amount of the Claim, whether dischargeable or not. Accordingly, the Court will not dismiss those causes of action.

In the first cause of action, Plaintiff requests that the Court enter a declaratory judgment stating that any civil penalties owed to Plaintiff as a result of Debtor's violations of CLC §§ 98.6, 226(f), 1102.5 and 1198.5 are not dischargeable. [FN2] Defendants argue that 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(7) cannot be a basis for determining that any civil penalties owed by Debtor to Plaintiff are nondischargeable, because Plaintiff is not a governmental unit.

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(7), a debt may be made nondischargeable in a bankruptcy action "to the extent such debt is for a fine, penalty, or forfeiture payable to and for the benefit of a governmental unit, and is not compensation for actual pecuniary loss, other than a tax penalty." (emphasis added). In 11 U.S.C. § 101(27), the Bankruptcy Code defines a "governmental unit" as the:

United States; State; Commonwealth; District; Territory; municipality; foreign state; department, agency, or instrumentality of the United States (but not a United States trustee while serving as a trustee in a case under this title), a State, a Commonwealth, a District, a Territory, a municipality, or a foreign state; or other foreign or domestic government.

Section 523(a)(7) encompasses traditional government fines. While it also may encompass criminal judgments ordering restitution to the debtor's victims, these judgments still are paid directly to a government agency. These judgments are considered "for the benefit of a government unit." Kelly v. Robinson, 479 US 36 (2004). "[T]he limitation of § 523(a)(7) to fines assessed 'for the benefit of a governmental unit' was intended to prevent application of that subsection to wholly private penalties such as punitive damages." Kelly, 479 U.S. at 51 n.13, 107 S.Ct. 353 (emphasis added); see also In re Warfel, 268 B.R. 205, 211 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2001).

However, in a chapter 13 case, when a confirmed chapter 13 plan is completed, a debt under § 523(a)(7) is dischargeable. 11 U.S.C. § 1328. Through § 1328, "Congress secured a broader discharge for debtors under Chapter 13 than Chapter 7 by extending to Chapter 13 proceedings some, but not all, of § 523(a)'s exceptions to discharge." In re Ryan, 389 B.R. 710, 714 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2008). The broader discharge afforded to chapter 13 debtors reflects a policy determination that it is preferable to have debtors commit to a plan to pay their creditors over a number of years rather than through a liquidation. Id. at 713. Section 1328(a) sets forth a list of debts that may be made nondischargeable in a chapter 13 proceeding. Section 523(a)(7) is not included. Having been omitted from that list, section 523(a)(7) does not make penalties nondischargeable in a chapter 13 case. In re Kozlowki, 547 B.R. 222, 231 (Bankr. E.D. Mich. 2016). Because Debtor filed his petition under chapter 13, if Debtor successfully confirms and completes the Plan, any civil penalties owed by Debtor, which are within the scope of § 523(a)(7) are dischargeable.

2. The Scope of 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(7)

Even if Debtor does not confirm and complete the Plan, under § 523(a)(7), Plaintiff has not stated a claim for relief that is plausible on its face. Plaintiff does not allege that any civil penalties, payable by Debtor, are due to and for the benefit of a governmental unit. Instead, he alleges that "[Plaintiff] is entitled to recover civil penalties from [Defendants]" for violations of the California Labor Code and that "a debtor may not discharge civil penalties which may be collected by a victim of certain statutory wrongs as defined by the legislature." FAC, ¶¶ 46-50.

Plaintiff is not a "governmental unit," as defined in § 101(27). As a result, any penalties owed directly to Plaintiff are not within the scope § 523(a)(7).

E. Claims under California's Private Attorney General Act of 2004

1. Application of 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(7)

In the Opposition, Plaintiff argues that "California Labor Code's provisions effectively deputize Plaintiff to sue and collect civil penalties on behalf of the State of California, rendering Plaintiff an agent of the State of California. As a state agent, Plaintiff is eligible to recover civil penalties that are non-dischargeable under [§] 523(a)(7)." Opposition, p. 9. In support of his position, Plaintiff cites to Medina v. Vander Poel, 523 B.R. 820 (E.D. Cal. 2015).

In Medina, the bankruptcy court held that the creditor's claims under California's Private Attorneys General Act of 2004 ("PAGA"), CLC § 2699, et seq., against a chapter 7 debtor were discharged under 11 U.S.C. § 727. The creditor appealed to the district court. In relevant part, the district court held that civil penalties under PAGA fall within the exception to discharge set forth in § 523(a)(7). Plaintiff's reliance on Medina is misplaced. Unlike the creditor's relevant claims in Medina, the FAC does not appear to be a PAGA action.

Pursuant to CLC § 2699(a), "any provision of this code that provides for a civil penalty to be assessed and collected by the Labor and Workforce Development Agency or any of its departments, divisions, commissions, boards, agencies, or employees, for a violation of this code, may, as an alternative, be recovered through a civil action brought by an aggrieved employee on behalf of himself or herself and other current or former employees pursuant to the procedures specified in Section 2699.3."

"The purpose of the PAGA is not to recover damages or restitution, but to create a means of 'deputizing' citizens as private attorneys general to enforce the Labor Code." Brown v. Ralphs Grocery Co., 197 Cal. App. 4th 489, 501 (2011), as modified (July 20, 2011). "The relief provided by the statute is designed to benefit the general public, not the party bringing the action." Huff v. Securitas Sec. Servs. USA, Inc., 23 Cal. App. 5th 745, 756 (Ct. App. 2018), reh'g denied (June 13, 2018), review denied (Aug. 8, 2018). "PAGA 'does not create property rights or any other substantive rights'" for private parties; statutory penalties imposed under the PAGA are paid mostly to the state. Medina, 523 B.R. 826-27; see also CLC § 2699(i) (75% distributed to the Labor and Workforce Development Agency, and the remaining 25% to aggrieved employees). Under PAGA, "[t]he plaintiff is not even the real party in interest in the action—the government is." Huff, 23 Cal. App. 5th at 757.

There are no separate individual claims in a PAGA action; the individual must bring a PAGA claim as a representative action on behalf of himself or herself and other aggrieved employees. Reyes v. Macy's, Inc., 202 Cal. App. 4th 1119, 1123–24 (2011) ("The PAGA statute does not enable a single aggrieved employee to litigate his or her claims, but requires an aggrieved employee 'on behalf of herself or himself and other current or former employees' to enforce violations of the Labor Code by their employers."). "The penalties that can be recovered in the action are those that can be recovered by state enforcement agencies under the Labor Code; they are separate from the statutory damages that can be recovered by an employee pursuing an individual claim for a Labor Code violation." Huff, 23 Cal. App. 5th at 756.

2. Required Exhaustion of Administrative Procedures

"Any plaintiff bringing a PAGA action must first exhaust the administrative procedures set forth in Cal. Labor Code section 2699.3." Estate of Harrington v. Marten Transp., Ltd., No. CV 15-1419-MWF (ASX), 2017 WL 5513635, at *3 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 6, 2017). "Among those procedures is the requirement that the aggrieved employee give notice to the Labor and Workforce Development Agency ("LWDA") and the employer of the specific provisions of the labor code alleged to have been violated." Id. "An aggrieved employee may only commence a civil action after he receives notice from the LWDA that it does not intend to investigate the violations, or, if no notice is provided, after 60 calendar days of the postmark date of his notice to the LWDA." Id. "At that time, the aggrieved employee may commence a civil action pursuant to Section 2699." Id. (internal quotations omitted).

Courts may dismiss PAGA causes of action for failure to exhaust the required administrative remedies. Id. (collecting cases). To plead compliance with the exhaustion requirements, a plaintiff should first list: (1) when the plaintiff notified the LWDA about the violations, (2) what, if any, response the plaintiff received from the LWDA, or (3) how long the plaintiff waited before commencing an action. Id.

Here, Plaintiff does not plead that he has complied with the procedural requirements in CLC § 2699.3. In the FAC, Plaintiff does not state: (1) when he notified LWDA about the alleged violations; (2) what, if any response he was given from LWDA; and (3) how long he waited before commencing this adversary proceeding. Moreover, Plaintiff did not bring the FAC on behalf of any other employees. [FN4]

3. Statute of Limitations

Even if Plaintiff complied with the procedural requirements in CLC § 2699.3, PAGA claims are restricted by a one-year statute of limitations. CCP § 340(a). An employee must provide notice to LWDA and the employer within one year of when the employee ceases working for the employer. CLC §§ 2699.3(a)(2) and (d); Crosby v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., 42 F. Supp. 3d 1343, 1346 (C.D. Cal. 2014). The "statute of limitations may be tolled up to 60 days (previously 33 days) to account for the period between when LWDA receives a PAGA complaint letter and when it provides notice to the aggrieved employee whether it grants permission for the aggrieved employee to initiate a civil action." Crosby, 42 F. Supp. 3d at 1346.

Accordingly, Plaintiff would have had to provide notice to LWDA by June 17, 2018. The statute of limitations then would be tolled, for 60 days, to August 16, 2018. As discussed above, the Tolling Agreement, executed on October 8, 2018, extended deadlines that had not already expired. At the latest, it appears that the statute of limitations period for any PAGA claims would have expired by August 16, 2018, and the Tolling Agreement would not have extended this statute of limitations period. Consequently, any claims under PAGA are barred.

For the reasons stated above, Plaintiff's entitlement to civil penalties (if any) is not within the parameters of § 523(a)(7). Consequently, for the first cause of action, Plaintiff has not stated a claim for relief under FRCP 12(b)(6), and the Court will dismiss that cause of action.

F. Declaratory Relief Concerning Nondischargeability of Fraud Damages
(Second Cause of Action)

In the second cause of action, Plaintiff seeks declaratory relief determining that a judgment entered in the State Court Action based on a finding of fraud would be nondischargeable under 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2) and/or (a)(4) "to the extent that [Debtor] is determined to have been acting in a fiduciary capacity when he fraudulently withheld incorrect amounts of payroll taxes from Plaintiff's paychecks, or to the extent that the court in the [State Court Action] determines that [Debtor] embezzled or stole those funds from Plaintiff's paychecks." [FN3] In the Motion, Defendants argue that it is unclear what Plaintiff is requesting, because this Court denied the RFS Motion. In the Opposition, Plaintiff reiterates that the second cause of action is not a cause of action under 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2) and/or (a)(4), but a request for declaratory relief.

For purposes of determining dischargeability, claims successfully reduced to judgments in state court may be given collateral estoppel effect in a bankruptcy court. Grogan v. Garner, 498 US 279, 284-85, 290 (1991). However, in order for collateral estoppel to apply, certain requirements must be met. See In re Harmon, 250 F.3d 1240, 1245 (9th Cir. 2001). Without the Court being able to review the judgment and the state court's findings, the Court cannot determine whether those requirements have been satisfied. Accordingly, the Court will dismiss the second cause of action.

G. Declaratory Relief Concerning Ownership of the Funds (Third Cause of Action)

In the third cause of action, Plaintiff requests that the Court enter an order declaring the true ownership of the Funds, and whether the Funds are part of Debtor's bankruptcy estate. Specifically, Plaintiff states that "[j]udicial intervention is required to determine the rights and obligations of each of the parties, including but not limited to [Debtor] and MPPI, as to whether MPPI owned at least $17,247.00 in cash maintained in a "business bank account" as of the [p]etition [d]ate herein and on relevant dates thereafter according to proof, or whether those funds were part of [Debtor's] bankruptcy estate in this proceeding." FAC, ¶ 65.

The Declaratory Judgment Act, 28 U.S.C. § 2201(a), provides in pertinent part:

In a case of actual controversy within its jurisdiction . . . any court of the United States, upon the filing of an appropriate pleading, may declare the rights and other legal relations of any interested party seeking such declaration, whether or not further relief is or could be sought. Any such declaration shall have the force and effect of a final judgment or decree and shall be reviewable as such.

"Declaratory relief is appropriate '(1) when the judgment will serve a useful purpose in clarifying and settling the legal relations in issue, and (2) when it will terminate and afford relief from the uncertainty, insecurity, and controversy giving rise to the proceeding.'" Flores v. EMC Mortg. Co., 997 F. Supp. 2d 1088, 1111 (E.D. Cal. 2014) (quoting Bilbrey by Bilbrey v. Brown, 738 F.2d 1462, 1470 (9th Cir.1984)).

After Plaintiff filed the Objection to Exemption, the Court determined that the funds were property of the bankruptcy estate because, as of the petition date, Debtor was the 100% shareholder of a subchapter S corporation, MPPI, and as such, all MPPI's profits flow directly through to Debtor as the sole shareholder. All shares of MPPI became property of the estate as of the petition date. Under § 541(a)(6) and (a)(7), any proceeds or profits arising from those shares also constitute property of the estate, i.e. the Funds. The Court also determined that Debtor was entitled to an exemption of the Funds. Additionally, the parties did not dispute that, on the petition date, the Funds were held in a business account.

This request for declaratory relief is essentially asking the Court to reconsider its ruling in the Exemption Order. However, Plaintiff did not file a motion for reconsideration of the Exemption Order or a notice of appeal. Because the Court already has determined issues identical to the third cause of action, the Court will dismiss the third cause of action, without leave to amend.

In the Plaintiff's Supplemental Brief, Plaintiff argues that by dismissing this cause of action, Plaintiff will be prejudiced. As the Court stated in its ruling on the Objection to Exemption [1:18-bk-13024-VK, doc. 150], allowing Debtor his claim of exemption does not prevent Plaintiff from obtaining a court determination that the distribution of the Funds from MPPI to Debtor was improper or from otherwise holding Debtor and/or MPPI liable to Plaintiff. Nothing in this ruling contradicts those statements.

H. Annulment of Transfers in Fraud of Creditors (Fourth Cause of Action)

In the fourth cause of action, Plaintiff requests that the Court "annul" MPPI's alleged fraudulent transfer of the Funds to Debtor. In the Motion, Defendants argue that Plaintiff does not articulate his grounds for relief for the fourth cause of action. Although Plaintiff did not articulate his ground for relief in the FAC, in the Opposition, Plaintiff indicates that he is moving under California's Uniform Voidable Transaction Act ("CUVTA"), Cal. Civ. Code ("CCC") §§ 3439, et seq.

Pursuant to CCC § 3439.05—

whose claim arose before the transfer was made or the obligation was incurred if the debtor made the transfer or incurred the obligation without receiving a reasonably equivalent value in exchange for the transfer or obligation and the debtor was insolvent at that time or the debtor became insolvent as a result of the transfer or obligation.

- (b) A creditor making a claim for relief under subdivision (a) has the burden of proving the elements of the claim for relief by a preponderance of the evidence.

"A plaintiff must make an affirmative showing that it was injured by a transfer in order to have statutory standing to pursue a fraudulent transfer claim under CUFTA." In re Blanchard, 547 B.R. 347, 353 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016); see also Fid. Nat. Title Ins. Co. v. Schroeder, 179 Cal. App .4th 834, 845 (Ct. App. 2009) ("A creditor has not been injured unless the transfer puts beyond reach property the creditor could subject to payment of his or her debt.") (emphasis in original).

In the FAC, Plaintiff alleges that before MPPI transferred the Funds to Debtor and/or Scott Psy.D, he held a claim against MPPI for various CLC violations. Plaintiff contends that MPPI transferred the Funds for no consideration; thus, it did not receive reasonably equivalent value in exchange for the Funds. Plaintiff asserts that MPPI had knowledge of Plaintiff's claim and transferred the Funds with actual intent to hinder, delay or defraud MPPI's creditors, including Plaintiff. Plaintiff also asserts that MPPI has incurred extensive indebtedness, and as a result of the transfer of the Funds, MPPI rendered itself insolvent. Plaintiff further alleges that Debtor received the Funds from MPPI, and that as CEO and sole shareholder of MPPI, Debtor had knowledge of Plaintiff's claims at the time of the transfer.

Plaintiff alleges this cause of action against Defendants. If Plaintiff is moving under CUVTA, as he indicated in the Opposition, he may be able to state a claim for relief under FRCP 12(b)(6) as to MPPI and Debtor, but not as to Scott.Psy.D.

FRCP 8(a)(2) requires that a pleading stating a claim for relief contain "a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief." The function of this pleading requirement is to "give the defendant fair notice of what the...claim is and the grounds upon which it rests." Bell Atl. Corp., 550 U.S. at 555.

The FAC does not state the legal basis for the cause of action against Defendants. As such, Defendants have not been provided with fair notice regarding Plaintiff's claim against them and the grounds upon which it rests, as required by FRCP 8(a)(2).

In the Plaintiff's Supplemental Brief, Plaintiff argues that he should not be required to amend the FAC because he has alleged sufficient facts. In practice, "a complaint...must contain either direct or inferential allegations respecting all the material elements necessary to sustain recovery under some viable legal theory." Twombly, 550 U.S. at 562, 127 S.Ct. 1955. Without knowing the legal basis of the claim, the Court cannot assess whether Plaintiff has alleged sufficient factual allegations respecting all material elements necessary to sustain recovery. Additionally, under CUVTA, Plaintiff has not alleged sufficient factual allegations against Scott Psy.D. The Court will dismiss this claim with leave to amend.

In the Debtor's Supplemental Brief, Debtor argues that, for purposes of a fraudulent transfer, the payment of a dividend cannot be the basis of a transfer for no consideration. Debtor is incorrect. There is case law supporting the assertion that a dividend payment, in certain circumstances, can be avoided as a fraudulent conveyance. See In re TC Liquidations LLC, 463 B.R. 257, 278 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 2011) (distribution of dividends to shareholders of S corporation for payment of the shareholders tax obligations were avoided as fraudulent conveyances under 11 U.S.C. § 548(a)(1)(A)).

I. Fraud and Deceit Under Cal. Civ. Code §§ 1572-73 and 1709-10 (Fifth Cause of Action)

1. Application of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 9(b)

In the Motion, Defendants argue that the fifth cause of action for fraud and deceit under California law is wholly devoid of the facts and particularities that are required pursuant to FRCP 9(b) and FRCP 12(b)(6). Specifically, Defendants argue that the allegations are missing the "who, what, when, where, and how."

Pursuant to FRCP 9(b), "[i]n alleging fraud or mistake, a party must state with particularity the circumstances constituting fraud or mistake. Malice, intent, knowledge, and other conditions of a person's mind may be alleged generally."

Allegations must be "specific enough to give defendants notice of the particular misconduct which is alleged to constitute the fraud charged..." Neubronner v. Milken, 6 F.3d 666, 671 (9th Cir. 1993). "[M]ere conclusory allegations of fraud are insufficient." Moore v. Kayport Package Exp., Inc., 885 F.2d 531, 540 (9th Cir. 1989).

In the FAC, Plaintiff alleges that Debtor and MPPI fraudulently promised to pay Plaintiff according to an agreed-upon employment compensation scheme, without any intent of doing so. Plaintiff specifically alleges that the parties entered into the Agreement. Plaintiff further alleges that Debtor and MPPI knew that Plaintiff would not be paid according to the terms of the Agreement, and that Debtor and MPPI "intentionally withheld or suppressed that information from Plaintiff that would have better informed his decision whether to accept or decline the offer of employment in the PA position." Plaintiff alleges that by making these misrepresentations to Plaintiff, Debtor was able to keep more profit for himself.

Further, Plaintiff alleges he justifiably relied on Debtor's promises to pay Plaintiff according to the agreed-upon pay-scale by accepting employment as a PA with Debtor and MPPI and foregoing alternative employment. Plaintiff alleges that he suffered damages in the form of "rightfully earned wages," "business expenses Plaintiff incurred on behalf of Defendants but was never reimbursed," "the amount of income he would have earned had he refused the PA position with Defendants, and obtained employment as a PA elsewhere" and "substantial emotional distress" that were proximately caused by his reliance.

Plaintiff alleges that Defendants' misconduct occurred between April 11, 2013 through June 17, 2017. Plaintiff additionally alleges that that Defendants were able to perpetrate the fraud by concealing material information through false and misleading earning statements and Debtor falsely assuring Plaintiff that he was being paid lawfully.

Thus, Plaintiff alleges with particularity the circumstances constituting fraud and alleges generally the conditions of Debtor's state of mind so as to satisfy the heightened pleading standard imposed by FRCP 9(b).

2. Application of Statute of Limitations

In the Motion, Defendants also argue that Plaintiff's claims for fraud are time barred.

Under California law, "[a]n action for relief on the grounds of fraud or mistake must be commenced within three years." Kline v. Turner, 87 Cal. App. 4th 1369, 1373 (2001). "However, such action is not deemed accrued 'until the discovery, by the aggrieved party, of the facts constituting the fraud or mistake.'" Id. at 1374 (quoting CCP § 338(d)). "[C]ourts interpret discovery in this context to mean not when the plaintiff became aware of the specific wrong alleged, but when the plaintiff suspected or should have suspected that an injury was caused by wrongdoing." Kline, 87 Cal. App. 4th at 1374. "The statute of limitations begins to run when the plaintiff has information which would put a reasonable person on inquiry." Id.

In the FAC, Plaintiff alleges that Defendants concealed deductions and withholdings from Plaintiff's paychecks in the "earning statements" presented to Plaintiff on a monthly basis, which prevented Plaintiff from discovering Defendants' fraud earlier. On a FRCP 12(b)(6) motion, the Court must take all factual allegations as true. Consequently, at this time, the Court must accept as true that Plaintiff did not discover Defendants' alleged fraud until he resigned in June 2017, and Plaintiff's claims for fraud under California law may not be time barred. Because Plaintiff has stated a claim for relief that is plausible on its face under FRCP 12(b)(6), the Court will not dismiss the fifth cause of action.

J. Conversion (Thirteenth Cause of Action)

In the thirteenth cause of action, Plaintiff makes two separate statements for his claim for conversion against Defendants. The first is that Defendants interfered with Plaintiff's earned wages by deducting specific amounts from Plaintiff's paycheck, to which Defendants were not entitled or which exceeded amounts that could be legally deducted. Plaintiff claims that he has suffered economic damages in the amount of back pay he should have received had he been paid all wages earned in a timely manner, plus interest thereon. The second is that Debtor and/or Scott Psy.D converted the Funds (the entire amount in MPPI's bank account) to Debtor's use; Plaintiff contends that he was damaged because the Funds otherwise would have been paid to Plaintiff, to satisfy his claims.

"Conversion is the wrongful exercise of dominion over the property of another." Farmers Insurance Exchange v. Zerín, 53 Cal. App. 4th 445, 451 (Ct. App. 1997). Under California law the elements of conversion are plaintiff's ownership or right to possession of property at the time of the conversion, defendant's wrongful act or disposition of his property right, and consequent damages. Ehrle, 189 B.R. 771, 776 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2002) (citing In re Saylor, 178 B.R. 209, 214 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1995)).

Plaintiff's first allegation meets the requirements under FRCP 12(b)(6). Regarding his first statement, in support of his position, Plaintiff cites Voris v. Lampert, 7 Cal. 5th 1141, 446 P.3d 284 (2019), reh'g denied (Oct. 23, 2019). In Voris, the plaintiff worked with the defendant to launch three startup companies, partly in return for a promise of later payment of wages. After a falling out, the plaintiff was fired, and he was never paid the promised compensation. The plaintiff sued the three companies, invoking breach of contract and statutory remedies for the nonpayment of wages, and won. The plaintiff was unable to collect on his judgments and sought to hold the defendant personally liable for the unpaid wages based on conversion. The Voris court held that conversion was not an appropriate remedy.

In Voris, the California Supreme Court stated in relevant part:

Voris argues, the nonpayment of wages should be treated as a conversion of property, not as a failure to satisfy a " 'mere contractual right of payment.' " (Sanowicz, supra, 234 Cal.App.4th at p. 1041, 184 Cal.Rptr.3d 517.) But to accept this argument would require us to indulge a similar fiction: namely, that once Voris provided the promised services, certain identifiable monies in his employers' accounts became Voris's personal property, and by failing to turn them over at the agreed-upon time, his employers converted Voris's property to their own use.

Voris contends that there is precedent for this view. . . Voris directs our attention to the Court of Appeal's decision in Department of Industrial Relations v. UI Video Stores, Inc. (1997) 55 Cal.App.4th 1084, 64 Cal.Rptr.2d 457 (UI Video Stores). There, in a brief two-paragraph discussion, the court approved a conversion action brought by the Division of Labor Standards Enforcement (DLSE) of the Department of Industrial Relations. DLSE had sued Blockbuster on behalf of Blockbuster employees to recover money that was unlawfully deducted from their paychecks to pay for uniforms, in violation of the applicable wage order. The parties settled, and as part of the settlement agreement Blockbuster mailed individual checks to the employees in the amount of the wrongful deductions. But a number of checks were returned as undelivered, and DLSE ordered Blockbuster to deposit those checks in California's unpaid wage fund. When Blockbuster refused, DLSE filed a second complaint, alleging that Blockbuster's refusal amounted to an unlawful conversion of the checks to its own use. The Court of Appeal reversed a grant of summary judgment in the defendant's favor, apparently accepting DLSE's argument that it had the right to immediate possession of the checks, in its capacity as an agent of the state and trustee for the employees. (Id. at pp. 1094–1096, 64 Cal.Rptr.2d 457.)

Although UI Video Stores involved a conversion action related to wrongfully withheld wages, it did not concern a conversion claim for the nonpayment of wages. The act of conversion that the court recognized in UI Video Stores was the defendant's misappropriation of certain checks that it had cut and mailed to employees as part of the settlement agreement—checks that at least arguably became the property of the employees at that time. The defendant's failure to pay wages in the first instance was not remedied through a conversion claim, but rather through DLSE's enforcement action under the Labor Code. Whether the employees could have sustained a conversion action for the unpaid uniform reimbursements themselves is a matter that was not at issue in UI Video Stores, and which the court did not address.

For reasons already explained, the nature of the underlying wage claim in UI Video Stores, like the nature of the wage claim in this case, is not one that fits easily with traditional understandings of the conversion tort. Unlike the cases involving failure to turn over commissions, for example, which were earmarked for a specific person before being misappropriated and absorbed into another's coffers, a claim for unpaid wages simply seeks the satisfaction of a monetary claim against the employer, without regard to the provenance of the monies at issue. In this way, a claim for unpaid wages resembles other actions for a particular amount of money owed in exchange for contractual performance—a type of claim that has long been understood to sound in contract, rather than as the tort of conversion.

Voris, 7 Cal. 5th at 1153–56. The Voris court went on to state in a footnote:

We do not suggest that any and all claims related to wages necessarily fall outside the bounds of the law of conversion, merely because they relate to wages. The label of monies as "wages" or "commissions" or "fees"—or any other form of compensation for that matter—is not determinative, provided that the claim otherwise satisfies the elements of the conversion tort. (Cf. dis. opn., post, 7 Cal.5th at p. 1163, 250 Cal.Rptr.3d at pp. 797-798, 446 P.3d at pp. 299-300.) Take, for instance, an employer that pays wages but then removes the money from an employee's account, or that diverts withheld amounts from their intended purposes; that employer may well have committed conversion. (Cf. U.S. v. Whiting (7th Cir. 2006) 471 F.3d 792 [employer committed criminal conversion under federal statute by holding money deducted from employees' paychecks in the company's general operating account instead of delivering it to the employees' 401(k) plans or paying the employees' health insurance premiums; once employees had been paid, the deductions belonged to the employees and no longer belonged to the employer].) But absent a similar scenario, the ordinary failure to pay wages does not give rise to conversion.

Voris, 7 Cal. 5th at 1156, n.11.

Here, some of Plaintiff's allegations, i.e., deductions for general overhead expenses, are analogous to the claims in UI Video Stores. However, some of Plaintiff's allegations, i.e., deductions for payroll taxes, are analogous to the claims in U.S. v. Whiting, 471 F.3d 792 (7th Cir. 2006), where the employer committed conversion by diverting withheld amount from their intended purpose, rather than the underlying wage claim in UI Video Stores, where the employer deducted monies from the employees' paychecks for uniforms.

Plaintiff alleges that Defendants committed conversion by diverting withheld amounts from their intended purpose. Specifically, Plaintiff alleges that MPPI and/or Debtor deducted monies from his paycheck for payroll taxes, which should have been paid to the taxing authorities, but MPPI or Debtor failed to do so, i.e., MPPI and/or Debtor converted the monies to their own use rather than paying the monies to the taxing authorities. The court in Voris specifically stated that in circumstances like the one Plaintiff is alleging here, there may be a claim for conversion. If the allegations in the FAC are true, as the Court must accept at this stage, Plaintiff has alleged sufficient allegations to state a claim for relief that is plausible on its face.

Plaintiff's second allegation does not state a claim for relief under FRCP 12(b)(6). The Funds could have included monies received from clients of MPPI, which Plaintiff did not own or have a right to possess, at that time. As such, Plaintiff has not plausibly alleged that Defendants exercised dominion over his property. However, pursuant to FRCP 8(d)(2), if a party makes alternative statements, the pleading is sufficient if any one of them is sufficient. Because Plaintiff's first statement of the claim is sufficient, the Court will not dismiss this claim.

K. Injunctive Relief

In the sixth, eighth, ninth and seventeenth causes of action, pursuant to various sections of the California Labor Code and California Business and Professions Code, Plaintiff requests injunctive relief.

1. Unlawful Retaliation Under Cal. Lab. Code § 98.6 (Sixth Cause of Action)

Regarding the sixth cause of action, Plaintiff alleges that, pursuant to CLC § 98.6(b) (1), because of Defendants' unlawful retaliation against Plaintiff, Plaintiff is entitled to injunctive relief in the form of an order reinstating him to employment with Defendants. CLC § 1102.5(b) states,

An employer, or any person acting on behalf of the employer, shall not retaliate against an employee for disclosing information, or because the employer believes that the employee disclosed or may disclose information, to a government or law enforcement agency, to a person with authority over the employee or another employee who has the authority to investigate, discover, or correct the violation or noncompliance, or for providing information to, or testifying before, any public body conducting an investigation, hearing, or inquiry, if the employee has reasonable cause to believe that the information discloses a violation of state or federal statute, or a violation of or noncompliance with a local, state, or federal rule or regulation, regardless of whether disclosing the information is part of the employee's job duties.

Here, Plaintiff alleges that on multiple occasions he made complaints to Defendants regarding Defendants alleged violations of the CLC. Plaintiff alleges that Defendants retaliated against Plaintiff by threatening to terminate his employment. Plaintiff also alleges that he was constructively terminated on June 17, 2017 because of his complaints to Debtor and MPPI regarding CLC violations. As such, Plaintiff has alleged enough facts in the FAC to overcome a FRCP 12(b)(6) motion, and the Court will not dismiss this claim.

2. Failure to Maintain and Timely Produce Personnel Records Under Cal. Lab. Code. § 1198.5(k) (Eighth Cause of Action)

Regarding the eighth cause of action, Plaintiff alleges that on August 6, 2018, Plaintiff submitted to Debtor a written demand that Defendants produce a copy of Plaintiff's complete personnel file within 30 days pursuant to CLC § 1198.5. Plaintiff alleges that Debtor produced only a small portion of Plaintiff's personnel records. CLC § 1198.5 affords every current and former employee the right to inspect and receive a copy of the personnel records that the employer maintains relating to the employee's performance or to any grievance concerning the employee. CLC § 1198.5(a). An employer is required to make these records available within 30 calendar days from the date the employer receives a written request unless agreed otherwise. Id. at § 1198.5(b). A current or former employee may also bring an action for injunctive relief to obtain compliance with this section. Id. at § 1198.5(l).

Here, Plaintiff has stated a claim for injunctive relief under CLC § 1198.5(l). On August 6, 2018, Plaintiff alleges that he requested his personnel file from Debtor. Plaintiff states that, at the time of filing the FAC, Defendants had not provided him complete records. Consequently, the Court will not dismiss this claim.

Regarding the ninth cause of action, Plaintiff alleges that on August 6, 2018, Plaintiff submitted to Defendants a written demand to produce a copy of Plaintiff's complete payroll and time records within 21 days pursuant to CLC § 226. Plaintiff alleges that Debtor produced some of Plaintiff's records, but some were missing, and the records produced were incomplete and inaccurate. CLC § 226(b) requires employers to keep the information required by subdivision (a) and affords current and former employees the right to inspect or receive a copy of records pertaining to their employment, upon reasonable request to the employer. An employer who receives a reasonable request shall comply with the request as soon as practicable, but no later than 21 calendar days from the date of the request. Id. at § 226(c). The failure to comply within this timeframe entitles the current or former employee to bring an action for injunctive relief to ensure compliance with this section. Id. at § 226(h).

Here, Plaintiff has stated a claim for injunctive relief under CLC § 226(h). On August 6, 2018, Plaintiff alleges that he requested his payroll and time records. Plaintiff states that, at the time of filing the FAC, Defendants had not provided him complete records. As such, the Court will not dismiss this claim.

4. Unfair Business Practices Under Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17200, et seq. (Seventeenth Cause of Action)

Regarding the seventeenth cause of action, Plaintiff requests, pursuant to California Business and Professions Code ("CBPC") § 17203, an injunction requiring Defendants to: "(1) produce Plaintiff's complete personnel file; (2) produce all records relating to Plaintiff's earnings for all periods he worked as a PA at Defendants' facilities. . . ; (3) account for all amounts owed to Plaintiff under the Agreement; (3) [sic] cease and desist in their use and conversion of corporate assets; (4) annul and reverse all MPPI transfers of MPPI's corporate assets to [Debtor] and/or [Scott Psy.D.]; (5) turnover all MPPI corporate assets or former assets to Plaintiff in partial satisfaction of MPPI's obligations to Plaintiff." FAC, ¶ 191. Plaintiff also seeks an accounting of all assets of MPPI that may have transferred to insiders and successors of MPPI and to family members of insiders of MPPI.

CBPC § 17203 provides, in relevant part, that, competition may be enjoined in any court of competent jurisdiction. The court may make such orders or judgments, including the appointment of a receiver, as may be necessary to prevent the use or employment by any person of any practice which constitutes unfair competition, as defined in this chapter, or as may be necessary to restore to any person in interest any money or property, real or personal, which may have been acquired by means of such unfair competition.

(emphasis added). "The UCL statutory standing requirements differ from standing requirements in federal court." Freeman v. ABC Legal Servs., Inc., 877 F. Supp. 2d 919, 923–24 (N.D. Cal. 2012). Under California law, "[t]o have standing to bring a claim under the UCL, a private plaintiff must show that it has suffered injury in fact and has lost money or property as a result of unfair competition. Pom Wonderful LLC v. Coca-Cola Co., 679 F.3d 1170, 1178 (9th Cir. 2012), rev'd on other grounds, 573 U.S. 102, 134 S. Ct. 2228 (2014); CBPC § 17204. However, in federal court, a plaintiff must also meet the requirements for standing under Article III to pursue injunctive relief under the UCL. Hangarter v. Provident Life & Acc. Ins. Co., 373 F.3d 998, 1021–22 (9th Cir. 2004). "Article III standing requires an injury that is actual or imminent, not conjectural or hypothetical." Id. "In the context of injunctive relief, the plaintiff must demonstrate a real or immediate threat of an irreparable injury." Id.

"Even if [the UCL] permits a plaintiff to pursue injunctive relief in California state courts . . . even though he or she currently suffers no individualized injury as a result of a defendant's conduct, 'a plaintiff whose cause of action [under the UCL] is perfectly viable in state court under state law may nonetheless be foreclosed from litigating the same cause of action in federal court, if he cannot demonstrate the requisite injury' to establish Article III standing." Id. (quoting Lee v. Am. Nat'l Ins. Co., 260 F.3d 997, 1001–02 (9th Cir. 2001)).

In Hangarter, a plaintiff insured brought suit against her insurer and its parent company for discontinuing total disability benefits. One of the plaintiff's claims was for injunctive relief under the UCL. The appellate court concluded that the plaintiff lacked Article III standing to seek injunctive relief against the defendants for violation of the UCL, because the plaintiff currently had no contractual relationship with the defendants, and therefore, was not threatened personally by their future conduct.

Several courts have applied these standards in the context of wage and hour disputes, and have concluded that a former employee lacks standing to seek prospective injunctive relief because a former employee cannot show a real or immediate threat of irreparable injury by the former employer's employment practices. See, e.g., Bayer v. Neiman Marcus Grp., Inc., 861 F.3d 853, 864–65 (9th Cir. 2017); Davis v. Farmers Ins. Exch., 245 Cal. App. 4th 1302, 1326–27, 200 Cal. Jan. 6, 2014), aff'd in part, vacated in part, remanded sub nom. on other grounds Oyarzo v. Turner, 641 F. App'x 700 (9th Cir. 2015); Milligan v. Am. Airlines, Inc., 327 F. App'x 694 (9th Cir. 2009) ("Milligan is not an American employee. She therefore cannot show that she faces a 'real or immediate threat of irreparable injury' by American's employment practices. The fact that Milligan brought a class-action claim does not alter this analysis."); Richards v. Ernst & Young LLP, C08–4988 JF (HRL), 2010 WL 682314 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 24, 2010) (finding the plaintiff "lacks standing to seek such relief because she no longer works for E & Y and therefore is not threatened personally by the alleged labor code violations"); Delodder v. Aerotek, Inc., 2009 WL 3770670, *2 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 9, 2009) ("The Court finds that plaintiffs lack standing to seek prospective relief under the UCL because plaintiffs do not dispute that they are no longer employees of defendant, and thus, they cannot demonstrate a 'real or immediate threat of irreparable injury' by defendants' employment practices.").

However, there is some case law that suggests that "[a] former employee currently seeking to be reinstated or rehired may have standing to seek injunctive relief against a former employer." Bayer, 861 F.3d at 865; see also Pitre v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., No. SACV171281DOCDFMX, 2017 WL 11093619, at *5 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 8, 2017). Here, Plaintiff is a former employee of MPPI, but Plaintiff has requested an order reinstating his employment with Defendants. As such, Plaintiff may have Article III standing to pursue injunctive relief under the UCL.

Nevertheless, "injunctive relief [under the UCL] is available to prevent threatened injury and is not a remedy designed to right completed wrongs." Madrid v. Perot Sys. Corp., 130 Cal. App. 4th 440, 464–65, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 210, 228 (2005). "It should neither serve as punishment for past acts, nor be exercised in the absence of any evidence establishing the reasonable probability the acts will be repeated in the future." Id.

Chapter 13

Here, Plaintiff's requests for injunctive relief appear to be remedies designed to right Defendants' alleged wrongs. All Plaintiff's requests address Defendants' conduct in the past in order to collect his purported unpaid wages, not Defendants' conduct in the future to prevent unfair employment practices as required by the UCL. Plaintiff has not alleged that any conduct he requests the Court enjoin is likely to be repeated in the future. Accordingly, the Court will dismiss Plaintiff's request for injunctive relief in the seventeenth cause of action with leave to amend.

III. CONCLUSION

For reasons discussed above, the Court will grant the Motion in part and deny the Motion in part. The Court will grant the Motion as to the first, second, third, fourth and twelfth causes of action, Plaintiff's requests for penalties under CLC §§ 1102.5(f), 98.6(b)(3) and 226(e) and Plaintiff's request for injunctive relief in the seventeenth cause of action.

Defendants must submit the order within seven (7) days. Plaintiff must file and serve any amended complaint within 14 days following the entry of the order.

Having reviewed the Examiner's Statement of Investigation [doc. 249], the Court cannot confirm any chapter 11 plan of reorganization because the debtor has not properly disclosed his interest in CRN, LLC in his schedules and in his approved disclosure statement [doc. 113]. Moreover, the debtor has not provided the chapter 11 examiner with requested documents regarding that entity.

In addition to the debtor's disclosure statement containing inadequate information about the debtor's interest in CRN, LLC, for the purpose of soliciting acceptances and rejections of the plan, without a credible valuation of the debtor's interest in CRN, LLC, e.g., by the chapter 11 examiner, or subject to review by the chapter 11 examiner, the Court will not be able to conclude that confirmation of a chapter 11 plan satisfies 11 U.S.C. § 1129(a)(7)(A)(ii).

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Ruling from January 23, 2020

Based on, among other things, the debtor's receipts and expenses as identified in his monthly operating reports, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a) and 1104(c)(1), the Court may order the appointment of a chapter 11 examiner to investigate the debtor's income and monthly expenditures from January 1, 2018 forward and whether the debtor's 2018 tax return was properly prepared.

At the prior status conference on December 12, 2019, the debtor's counsel represented that the debtor filed his 2018 personal tax return and that she would file it with the Court within a few days. On January 22, 2020, the debtor's counsel filed that tax return with the Court. That tax return indicates that the debtor prepared that tax return himself, without the assistance of an accountant.

The debtor's 2018 tax return apparently does not correspond with the debtor's monthly operating reports from 2018. Based on the debtor's monthly operating reports from 2018, during that year, the debtor deposited $175,758.83 into the debtor in possession bank account. In contrast, the debtor's 2018 tax return indicates that his gross income for 2018 was $30,445.00.

At the prior status conference, the debtor's counsel represented that Unlimited Financial Services provides bookkeeping services for the debtor's production company. The Court ordered the debtor to file a declaration regarding his production company and why the debtor is paying services for the company, an alleged separate entity, from estate funds. The Court also ordered the debtor to file his company's 2018 tax return. As of January 22, 2020, the debtor has not filed his company's tax return or a declaration.

The debtor's monthly operating reports for 2019 indicate that the debtor was paying Unlimited Financial Services $1,577.00 each month, without Court approval or Unlimited Financial Services having being employed as an estate professional.

Tentative Ruling from 12/12/19

Contrary to the Order Setting Hearing on Status of Chapter 11 Case and Requiring Report on Status of Chapter 11 Case [doc. 23], the debtor has not filed his 2018 income tax return with the Court.

What service was provided to the debtor by Unlimited Financial Services, at a cost of $1,577.00, on October 3, 2019?

Tentative Ruling:

Accordingly, the Court will continue this hearing to June 4, 2020 at 1:00 p.m. No later than April 16, 2020, the debtor must file and serve notice of the continued hearing on all creditors, the chapter 11 trustee and the United States Trustee.

5/16/19; 8/8/19; 11/14/19; 2/6/20

Tentative Ruling:

Pursuant to the ruling at the prior chapter 11 case status conference held on February 6, 2020, the debtor was to file an updated status report by March 26, 2020. The debtor has not timely done so.

In the debtor's amended disclosure statement [doc. 188], the debtor indicates that he is receiving income in the amount of $5,000 per month plus commission of 25% of gross revenues from new patient treatment from Beverly Hills Cancer Center. The debtor indicates that he has deposited this income into the debtor's "corporate account." That account is not reflected in the debtor's monthly operating reports.

As property of the estate, that income must be deposited into a debtor in possession account. To reflect this income, the debtor must file amended monthly operating reports.

Chapter 7

#13.00 Trustee's Application for Authority to Employ Real Estate Broker Coldwell Banker Residential Brokerage

Docket 117

Tentative Ruling:

Grant.

On February 27, 2020 the chapter 7 trustee (the "Trustee") filed an application to employ a real estate broker (the "Application") [doc. 117]. On March 12, 2020, the debtor filed a response to the Application (the "Response") [doc. 132]. In the Response, the debtor argues: (A) a sale of the property will generate more money if the smoke and fire damages on the property is repaired; (B) prepetition, the debtor had hired a realtor and the debtor believes this realtor should handle any sale of the property; (C) there is no reason for the urgency of the sale; (D) the debtor wants to make sure that the property sells for enough to generate proceeds for the debtor to find a new residence; and (E) the debtor disputes the validity of the claim filed by Darren Kessler against the estate. The debtor also notes that he lacks representation.

Regarding the debtor's argument that his prepetition realtor should handle the proposed sale, the debtor has not provided any legal authority that would compel this Court to select the debtor's realtor instead of the Trustee's chosen professional. See In re Alaska Fishing Adventure, LLC, 594 B.R. 883, 889-90 (Bankr. D. Alaska 2018) (holding that "the trustee's business judgment is to be given great judicial deference" when assessing issues related to sale of estate property) (internal quotation omitted).

With respect to the debtor's concern regarding a lack of representation, the Court entered an order requiring the debtor's counsel to file a properly noticed motion to withdraw prior to terminating his representation of the debtor [doc. 142]. In opposition to the motion to withdraw, the debtor may raise any concerns regarding potential prejudice from counsel's withdrawal.

The remaining arguments made by the debtor are not relevant to approval of the Application. If and when the Trustee files a motion to sell the property, the debtor

#14.00 Motion by Diane C. Weil, Chapter 7 Trustee, for Issuance of an Order to Show Cause Why Debtor Should Not Be Held in Contempt for Violation of this Court's Conversion Order

fr. 3/26/20

Docket 119

Tentative Ruling:

In her reply [doc. 141], the chapter 7 trustee (the "Trustee") notes that the debtor has made some progress towards complying with the Court's order converting the debtor's case to a chapter 7 case (the "Conversion Order") [doc. 98], and that the debtor continues to provide the Trustee with documents. In addition, the Trustee is receiving pertinent documents from other sources. As such, the Trustee requests a continuance of this matter to permit the Trustee to evaluate whether the debtor comes into compliance with the Conversion Order.

The Court will continue this hearing to 2:00 p.m. on June 4, 2020. No later than May 21, 2020, the Trustee must file a status report updating the Court on the debtor's compliance. If the Trustee believes the debtor has complied with the Conversion Order and/or there is no longer a basis for this motion, the Trustee should file a notice of withdrawal of this motion.

Tentative Ruling:

On March 6, 2020, the parties filed a stipulation to continue the original hearing on this matter, asserting that "[t]he parties have resolved most of the issues and are currently in discussion to completely resolve" this matter (the "Stipulation") [doc. 171]. On March 9, 2020, the Court entered an order approving the Stipulation and continuing the hearing from March 10, 2020 to April 14, 2020 [doc. 172].

The parties have not updated the Court about the status of their attempts to resolve this matter completely. Have the parties reached an agreement? If not, do the parties require additional time to resolve this matter? If the parties are unable to resolve this matter, the Court intends to set an evidentiary hearing.

#35.00 Hearing on objection to closing of chapter 13 case

Tentative Ruling:

On November 21, 2014, Nabiollah Morovati ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 13 petition. On January 17, 2020, the chapter 13 trustee filed a Notice of Intent to File Trustee's Final Report and Account, Obtain Discharge of Debtor, and Close Case (the "Notice of Intent") [doc. 64]. On January 28, 2020, in response to the Notice of Intent, Sukari Hayes ("Creditor") filed an Objection to the Closing of the Case (the "Objection") [doc. 65].

On February 26, 2020, the Court entered an order setting a hearing on the Objection (the "Order") [doc. 67]. Pursuant to the Order, Creditor was to serve the Objection on Debtor, Debtor's counsel and the chapter 13 trustee no later than March 9, 2020. Creditor did not file proof with the Court that she complied with the Order.

Consequently, the Court will continue this hearing to May 5, 2020 at 11:00 a.m. No later than April 17, 2020, Creditor must file and serve the Objection and notice of the continued hearing on Debtor, Debtor's counsel and the chapter 13 trustee. That notice must indicate that any written response to the Objection must be filed and served by May 1, 2020.

If Creditor does not timely file proof of service in compliance with this ruling, the Court may overrule the Objection at the May 5, 2020 continued hearing.

#38.00 Order to show cause why debtor's counsel should not be sanctioned for failure to appear at hearing on trustee's motion to dismiss

Docket 51

Tentative Ruling:

On October 31, 2018, Brian Jeffrey Minor ("Debtor") filed a chapter 13 petition. On May 7, 2019, Debtor's chapter 13 plan was confirmed [doc. 41].

On October 15, 2019, the chapter 13 trustee filed a motion to dismiss Debtor's case for failure to make plan payments ("Motion to Dismiss") [doc. 44]. On March 10, 2020, the Court held a continued hearing on the Motion to Dismiss. Debtor's counsel did not appear.

On March 13, 2020, the Court issued an Order to Show Cause Why Debtors' Counsel Should Not be Sanctioned for Failure to Appear at Hearing on Trustee's Motion to Dismiss (the "OSC") [doc. 51], on the grounds that Debtor's counsel failed to appear at the hearing on the Motion to Dismiss as required by Local Bankruptcy Rule 3015-1(u)(1). Debtor's counsel was ordered to explain his failure to appear and file and serve on Debtor a written response to the OSC no later than March 31, 2020.

On March 13, 2020, Debtor's counsel timely filed his response ("Response") [doc. 54]. In his Response, Debtor's counsel states that did not attend the March 10, 2020 hearing because of an inadvertent calendaring error [Declaration of Eric Ridley, ¶ 3]. Debtor's counsel states that prior to the March 10, 2020 hearing, Debtor decided to file a notice of non-opposition to the Motion to Dismiss because he cannot afford to remain current on his chapter 13 plan payments. Id. at ¶ 4. However, before he filed the notice of non-opposition, Debtor's counsel's law partner suffered a medical emergency. Id. at ¶ 5. Because of this, Debtor's counsel had to cover his law partner's hearings, appearances and other obligations, along with his own. Id. During this time, Debtor's counsel miscalendared or deleted both the notice of non-opposition and the appearance. Id. at ¶ 6. #46.00 Confirmation hearing re amended chapter 13 plan

Tentative Ruling:

If the debtors are current on their chapter 13 plan and other required post-petition payments, the Court will continue this hearing to May 5, 2020 at 11:30 a.m.

On January 17, 2020, the debtors filed a chapter 13 plan that includes modification of the claim of Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. ("Wells Fargo"), secured by the debtors' 2014 Toyota Camry (the "Plan") [doc. 11]. On March 10, 2020, the Court held a hearing on confirmation of the Plan and continued the hearing to April 14, 2020.

On March 19, 2020, the debtors filed an amended chapter 13 plan (the "Amended Plan") [doc.30]. The treatment of Wells Fargo's claim is the same in the Plan and the Amended Plan.

On March 31, 2020, fourteen days prior to the continued hearing on the Amended Plan, Wells Fargo filed an objection (the "Objection") [doc. 31]. In the Objection, Wells Fargo objects to the debtors' valuation of the vehicle, the interest rate set forth in the Amended Plan and the proposed monthly adequate protection payments in the Amended Plan. In the Objection, Wells Fargo contends that the value of the vehicle is $11,000. Wells Fargo based its valuation on the "clean retail" value listed in the N.A.D.A. Guide [doc. 31, Exh. C].

On April 7, 2020, the debtors filed a reply to the Objection (the "Reply") [doc. 33]. In the Reply, the debtors argue that the Objection is untimely, that Wells Fargo's valuation of the vehicle does not consider the $1,000 in repairs that the vehicle allegedly needs and that the appropriate date for determining the prime interest rate is the date of confirmation.

The Court will overrule the debtors' argument that the Objection was untimely. The Objection was filed fourteen days prior to the continued hearing and after the debtors filed the Amended Plan.

When determining the prime rate under Till v. SCS Credit Corp., 541 U.S. 465, 124 S. Ct. 1951, 158 L. Ed. 2d 787 (2004), the relevant date is the date of confirmation of the plan; not the petition date as Wells Fargo argues. See In re Field, No. 04-00028-TLM, 2005 WL 3148287, at *4-5 (Bankr. D. Idaho Oct. 17, 2005).

Regarding the vehicle's valuation, the debtors contend that Wells Fargo's valuation should be adjusted downward to account for the age and condition of the vehicle. For this proposition, the debtors cite to In re Ayres, No. 09-56695 ASW, 2010 WL 652825 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. Feb. 16, 2010). In relevant part the court in Ayres states:

Bankruptcy Code § 506(a)(2) provides:

If the debtor is an individual in a case under chapter 7 or 13, such value with respect to personal property securing an allowed claim shall be determined based on the replacement value of such property as of the date of the filing of the petition without deduction for costs of sale or marketing. With respect to property acquired for personal, family, or household purposes, replacement value shall mean the price a retail merchant would charge for property of that kind considering the age and condition of the property at the time value is determined.

11 U.S.C. § 506(a)(2).

Although the language of Bankruptcy Code § 506(a)(2) appears to be quite specific, the Bankruptcy Code does not articulate a specific methodology to obtain the "price a retail merchant would charge for property of that kind considering the age and condition of the property." The Ninth Circuit has not yet established a method for retail valuation under § 506(a)(2), and courts outside the Ninth Circuit have adopted a variety of methods. The two cases from within the Ninth Circuit to address the issue have calculated retail value "by adjusting the Kelley Blue Book or N.A.D .A. [sic] Guide retail value for a like vehicle by a reasonable amount in light of the evidence presented regarding the condition of the vehicle and any other relevant factors." In re Morales, 387 B.R. 36, 45 (Bankr.C.D.Cal.2008); accord, In re Guerra, 2008 WL 3200831, *3 (Bankr.E.D.Cal.2008).

[M]any courts, including the two decisions from within the Ninth Circuit which have addressed this issue, have used the "retail" value of these guides as a starting point and then adjusted the values downward to account for the vehicles [sic] mileage and condition, or other applicable factors.

Ayres, 2010 WL 652825, at *5-6.

According to Ayres, the debtors are correct that Wells Fargo's valuation should be adjusted based on the vehicle's condition and age. Attached to the Reply is a declaration by the debtors stating that they have made inquiries regarding the cost to repair the vehicle and have found that it would cost $1,000 and upward. The debtors did not include any other evidence regarding the cost of the repairs. It appears that Wells Fargo has not yet had an opportunity to inspect the vehicle, in order to evaluate its current condition.

Accordingly, if the debtors are current on their chapter 13 plan and other required post-petition payments, the Court will continue this hearing to May 5, 2020 at 11:30 a.m. to allow time for Wells Fargo to inspect the vehicle. By April 28, 2020, based on the standard set forth in Ayres, both parties must file evidence of the vehicle's retail value.

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part and deny in part.

I. BACKGROUND

On July 30, 2015, Reza Fateh Manesh ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. David Seror was appointed the chapter 7 trustee (the "Trustee").

A. Relevant Prepetition Events

On May 11, 1995, almost 25 years ago, Reza Pour obtained a judgment against Debtor in the amount of $50,000 (the "1995 Judgment"). Declaration of James S. Uyeda ("Uyeda Declaration") [doc. 165], ¶ 2, Exhibit 1. Mr. Pour has twice renewed the 1995 Judgment, once in 2005 (the "2005 Renewal of Judgment") and once in 2014 (the "2014 Renewal of Judgment"). Uyeda Declaration, ¶¶ 31, 33, Exhibits 16, 18. On June 30, 1995, Mr. Pour recorded an abstract of judgment against all of Debtor's real property located in the County of Los Angeles and, on April 19, 2006, recorded an amended Abstract of Judgment. Uyeda Declaration, ¶ 3. Since its entry, Mr. Pour has attempted to collect on the 1995 Judgment. Uyeda Declaration, ¶¶ 2, 4.

In 1998, Hossein Fatehmanesh, Debtor's brother, purchased real property located at 14520 Delano Street, Van Nuys, CA 91411 (the "Delano Property"). [FN1]. related to the Delano Property (the "Fatehmanesh Litigation"). The Fatehmanesh Litigation resulted in a settlement agreement through which any interest Mr. Fatehmanesh had in the Delano Property terminated and title to the Delano Property was deemed to be held by Debtor and Ms. Broomand.

In 2014, Mr. Pour discovered that Debtor had used Ms. Broomand and several aliases to hold title to various real properties. Uyeda Declaration, ¶ 5. On September 9, 2014, Mr. Pour filed a complaint against Debtor and Ms. Broomand requesting a declaratory judgment that Debtor was the sole owner of the Delano Property. On September 3, 2014, days before Mr. Pour filed his complaint, Ms. Broomand executed a quitclaim deed purporting to transfer 79.4% of the Delano Property to Mr. Fatehmanesh (the "2014 Quitclaim Deed"). The parties did not immediately record the 2014 Quitclaim Deed.

On March 19, 2015, the state court entered a default judgment against Debtor and Ms. Broomand (the "Resulting Trust Judgment"), holding that, as of April 19, 2006 (when Mr. Pour recorded an Amended Abstract of Judgment against the Delano Property), Ms. Broomand held title to the Delano Property as trustee of a resulting trust for the benefit of Debtor and had no valid right, title or interest in the Delano Property. The state court also held that Debtor was the equitable owner of the Delano Property and, as a result, the Delano Property was subject to Mr. Pour's judgment lien.

Subsequently, Debtor and Ms. Broomand filed three motions to set aside the Resulting Trust Judgment. Uyeda Declaration, ¶ 9. They argued, among other things, that they had not been properly served with the complaint. Id. Debtor also filed a motion to quash a writ of execution obtained by Mr. Pour, arguing that the writ of execution was not properly served on Debtor. Uyeda Declaration, ¶ 15, Exhibit 9. Debtor and Ms. Broomand also repeatedly filed declarations stating they were not married. Uyeda Declaration, ¶¶ 10-13. The state court denied all three of the motions to set aside the Resulting Trust Judgment. Uyeda Declaration, ¶ 14. On July 21, 2015, eight days before the state court denied the last of the motions to set aside the Resulting Trust Judgment, the 2014 Quitclaim Deed was recorded.

C. The Revocation of Debtor's Discharge

On February 23, 2016, the U.S. Trustee filed a complaint against Debtor requesting revocation of Debtor's discharge on the basis that Debtor concealed his ownership interest in the Delano Property and refused to turn over postpetition funds generated from the Delano Property to the Trustee [1:16-ap-01020-VK, doc. 1]. On May 31, 2016, the U.S. Trustee and Debtor entered into a stipulation to revoke Debtor's discharge [1:16-ap-01020-VK, doc. 6]. On June 2, 2016, the Court entered an order revoking Debtor's discharge [1:16-ap-01020-VK, doc. 8].

D. The Adversary Proceeding against Mr. Fatehmanesh

At the same time the Trustee requested turnover from Debtor, the Trustee filed a complaint against Mr. Fatehmanesh requesting turnover of the Delano Property and the $15,000 from Mr. Fatehmanesh (the "Fatehmanesh Adversary") [1:15-ap-01237-VK]. Mr. Fatehmanesh insisted the estate did not have an interest in the Delano Property. On November 29, 2016, the Court held trial on the matter, taking testimony from Mr. Fatehmanesh, Debtor and the Trustee. On January 11, 2017, the Court issued a ruling in the Fatehmanesh Adversary [1:15-ap-01237-VK, doc. 35], holding that, as of the petition date, Debtor was the equitable owner of the Delano Property in accordance with the Resulting Trust Judgment. As such, the Court held that Mr. Fatehmanesh was required to turn over the Delano Property and the $15,000, both of which were property of the estate, to the Trustee. On January 26, 2017, the Court entered judgment in favor of the Trustee (the "Turnover Judgment") [1:15-ap-01237-VK, doc. 38].

Mr. Fatehmanesh appealed the Turnover Judgment. On February 6, 2018, the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel of the Ninth Circuit affirmed the Turnover Judgment. Mr. Fatehmanesh appealed this affirmance to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. On August 8, 2019, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed the Turnover Judgment. On August 22, 2019, Mr. Fatehmanesh filed a petition for rehearing en banc. On September 23, 2019, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals entered an order denying the petition for a rehearing en banc.

On August 12, 2016, Debtor filed a state court complaint against Mr. Pour, alleging that Mr. Pour did not properly serve the 2005 Renewal of Judgment on Debtor and that Debtor already had satisfied the 1995 Judgment. Uyeda Declaration, ¶ 34, Exhibit 19. On September 20, 2016, Mr. Pour filed a demurrer in state court, on the basis that Debtor did not have standing to bring the action because of Debtor's bankruptcy case. On March 20, 2017, the state court entered an order and judgment of dismissal (the "Dismissal Judgment"), sustaining Mr. Pour's demurrer without leave to amend. Uyeda Declaration, ¶ 34, Exhibit 20.

On August 30, 2017, Debtor filed a similar complaint against Mr. Pour before this Court (the "Pour Complaint") [1:17-ap-01080-VK, doc. 1]. Debtor again alleged he was not properly served with the 2005 Renewal of Judgment. Debtor also alleged that Mr. Pour fraudulently obtained renewals of the 1995 Judgment because Debtor had already satisfied the 1995 Judgment by paying Mr. Pour $9,000 pursuant to an alleged settlement agreement. In the prayer for relief, Debtor sought to invalidate Mr. Pour's renewals of judgment, thereby invalidating Mr. Pour's secured claim against the estate.

On September 21, 2017, Mr. Pour filed a motion to dismiss the Pour Complaint (the "Motion to Dismiss") [1:17-ap-01080-VK, doc. 4]. On December 6, 2017, the Court held a hearing on the Motion to Dismiss. At that time, the Court issued a ruling (the "Pour Ruling") [1:17-ap-01080-VK, doc. 13], holding that: (A) this Court does not have the power to set aside the state court judgments in favor of Mr. Pour; and (B) Debtor does not have standing to pursue his claims against Mr. Pour because the claims are property of the estate. On December 21, 2017, the Court entered an order dismissing the Pour Complaint [1:17-ap-01080-VK, doc. 16].

On October 23, 2019, Debtor filed a motion for relief from the automatic stay (the "First RFS Motion") [doc. 133], asking the Court for relief to pursue his claims against Mr. Pour in state court. Once again, Debtor asserted that he had satisfied the 1995 Judgment and that Mr. Pour did not properly serve the 2005 Renewal of Judgment on Debtor. On November 13, 2019, the Court held a hearing on the First RFS Motion. At that time, the Court ruled that it would deny the First RFS Motion to provide the Trustee an opportunity to evaluate whether or not to object to Mr. Pour's claim [doc. 140]. On November 20, 2019, the Court entered an order denying the First RFS Motion [doc. 142].

F. The Trustee's Sale of the Delano Property

On January 14, 2020, the Trustee filed a motion to sell the Delano Property (the "Motion to Sell") [doc. 144]. Mr. Fatehmanesh and Ms. Broomand opposed the Motion to Sell [doc. 148], arguing that they are the owners of the Delano Property, disputing Mr. Pour's claim against the estate and requesting a stay of the sale so Mr. Fatehmanesh and Ms. Broomand may file a quiet title action in state court. In a draft quiet title complaint attached to their opposition, Mr. Fatehmanesh and Ms. Broomand alleged, among other things, that Debtor and Ms. Broomand were not served with Mr. Pour's renewals of the 1995 Judgment.

On February 6, 2020, the Court held a hearing on the Motion to Sell. At that time, the Court issued a ruling granting the Motion to Sell (the "Sale Ruling") [doc. 152] and holding that: (A) Mr. Fatehmanesh and Ms. Broomand are barred from relitigating issues related to ownership of the Delano Property because the Court already had ruled that the Delano Property is property of the estate in connection with the Fatehmanesh Adversary; and (B) Mr. Fatehmanesh and Ms. Broomand could not challenge the judgment lien held by Mr. Pour because the state court held, in connection with the Resulting Trust Judgment, that Mr. Pour's judgment lien attached to the Delano Property. The Court also noted that "the issues of ownership of the Delano Property and the validity of Mr. Pour's judgment lien have been thoroughly litigated, and there are final judgments disposing of these issues." Sale Ruling, p. 5. The Court warned the parties that it "will not delay administration of this estate based on resurrected arguments already adjudicated by multiple courts." Id. On February 10, 2020, the Court entered an order approving the sale of the Delano Property [doc. 156]. Mr. Pour's judgment lien attached to the proceeds of the sale of the Delano Property. Those proceeds are currently held by the Trustee.

G. Debtor's Motion to Pursue Claims against Mr. Pour in State Court

On February 24, 2020, Debtor filed another motion for relief from the automatic stay (the "Motion") [doc. 160]. In the Motion, Debtor again argues, as he alleged in the Pour Complaint, that: (A) Mr. Pour fraudulently obtained renewals of the 1995 Judgment because Debtor already had satisfied an alleged settlement agreement between the parties by paying Mr. Pour $9,000; and (B) Debtor was not properly served with the 2005 Renewal of Judgment (together, the "Claims"). Debtor requests relief from the automatic stay to pursue the Claims in state court and/or requests abandonment of the Claims by the estate. Debtor also requests that the Trustee hold the sale proceeds until the state court adjudicates the Claims.

On March 4, 2020, Schyna Pour, trustee of the Reza Jalali Pour Trust (the "Trust"), filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Pour Opposition") [doc. 165]. The Trust is the assignee of Mr. Pour's claim against the estate. In the Pour Opposition, the Trust argues that: (A) the state court already dismissed the Claims when it sustained a demurrer by Mr. Pour in March 2017; (B) the Claims are time barred; (C) Debtor does not dispute that the 2014 Renewal of Judgment was properly served, such that his allegations regarding the 2005 Renewal of Judgment are irrelevant; and (D) Debtor should be estopped from continuing to litigate against Mr. Pour.

The Trustee also filed a response to the Motion (the "Trustee Response") [doc. 168]. In the Trustee Response, the Trustee states that he has reviewed Mr. Pour's claim and requested additional documentation during the course of his investigation of Mr. Pour's claim. Declaration of David Seror ("Seror Declaration"), ¶ 7. Based on that review, the Trustee believes Mr. Pour has an allowed claim against the estate. Seror Declaration, ¶ 8. The Trustee also believes that Debtor's current claims against Mr. Pour do not have any value, and that the cost of administering the asset would significantly outweigh any benefit to the estate. Seror Declaration, ¶ 11. Finally, given the age of this case, the Trustee expressed concern over the delays in administration and believes the litigation Debtor hopes to pursue is "facially frivolous." Seror Declaration, ¶ 12.

On March 10, 2020, Debtor filed a reply to the Pour Opposition and the Trustee Response [doc. 169], asserting that: (A) the Trust did not properly serve Debtor with the Pour Opposition at Debtor's current address; (B) Debtor has a proper claim against Mr. Pour based on improper service of the 2005 Renewal of Judgment; and (C) the Trustee has refused to investigate whether Mr. Pour's claim is fraudulent. Debtor also includes a lengthy discussion about alleged perjury by Mr. Pour in declarations filed before the state court; these assertions are neither supported by a declaration by Debtor nor relevant to the Motion before the Court.

Chapter 7

As a preliminary matter, Debtor contends he was not properly served with the Pour Opposition. Debtor did not file a declaration under penalty of perjury to support his statements regarding service, and it is evident from the background above that Debtor and Ms. Broomand have a long history of using alleged service defects as both a sword and a shield. Nevertheless, the Pour Opposition was properly served on Debtor at the address listed on the docket. If Debtor would like to be served at a different address, Debtor must file and serve a Notice of Change of Address. Until then, Debtor will be served at the address listed on the docket. In any event, it appears Debtor timely reviewed the Pour Opposition because Debtor timely filed a reply.

A. Abandonment of Debtor's Claim against Mr. Pour

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 554(b)—

On request of a party in interest and after notice and a hearing, the court may order the trustee to abandon any property of the estate that is burdensome to the estate or that is of inconsequential value and benefit to the estate.

To approve a motion to abandon property, the court must find, by a preponderance of the evidence, that "(1) the property is burdensome to the estate or (2) of inconsequential value and inconsequential benefit to the estate." In re Viet Vu, 245 B.R. 644, 647, 650 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2000). "Charged with the duty of maximizing the value of the estate, a trustee may abandon a cause of action only when he deems its value to be less than the cost of asserting it." In re Sullivan & Lodge, Inc., 2003 WL 22037724, at *4 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 20, 2003).

Here, the Claims are both burdensome to the estate and of inconsequential value and inconsequential benefit to the estate. As noted by both the Trustee and the Trust, Debtor's challenge of the 2005 Renewal of Judgment is time barred. Pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure § 683.170(b), "[n]ot later than 30 days after service of the notice of renewal pursuant to Section 683.160, the judgment debtor may apply by noticed motion under this section for an order of the court vacating the renewal of the judgment." (emphasis added). Debtor does not dispute that he was served with the 2014 Renewal of Judgment, but did not move to vacate the 2014

Renewal of Judgment within 30 days of being served with it. As such, the Claims are unlikely to succeed and, as a result, unlikely to provide value to the estate. [FN3].

Moreover, even if the Claims are not time barred, pursuing the Claims would be burdensome to the estate. Assuming Debtor will be able to show that he paid $9,000 to Mr. Pour, Debtor also will have to prove that Mr. Pour agreed to a $9,000 settlement of his much larger claim. This will require a significant amount of discovery and, because it appears Debtor is relying on witness declarations instead of documentary evidence, a trial.

In any such trial, the Court believes Debtor and his witnesses will face serious credibility issues. As outlined above, Debtor has spent 25 years evading payment of Mr. Pour's claim. During that time, Debtor, Ms. Broomand and/or Mr. Fatehmanesh:

- (A) transferred the Delano Property multiple times among themselves;
- (B) secretly executed the 2014 Quitclaim Deed transferring Ms. Broomand's interest in the Delano Property just before Mr. Pour filed a complaint against Ms. Broomand and Debtor;
- (C) filed three different motions before the state court to vacate the Resulting Trust Judgment, all of which were denied;
- (D) recorded the 2014 Quitclaim Deed while their third request to vacate the Resulting Trust Judgment was pending;
- (E) falsely represented to the state court that Debtor and Ms. Broomand were not married;
- (F) filed multiple amended schedules and statements and repeatedly changing the sworn statements about Debtor's interest in the Delano Property;
- (G) refused to turn over the Delano Property and money generated therefrom to the estate, leading to the revocation of Debtor's discharge;
- (H) continued to assert that Debtor did not have an interest in the Delano Property during the Fatehmanesh Adversary, including by pursuing multiple appeals of the Turnover Judgment and increasing administrative costs of the estate;

- (I) filing a state court complaint against Mr. Pour despite having no standing to pursue such an action, which the state court dismissed;
- (J) filing a near identical complaint before this Court that was dismissed;
- (K) opposing the Motion to Sell and requesting leave to file a quiet title complaint in state court to again dispute Debtor's interest in the Delano Property; and
- (L) filing two motions for relief from the automatic stay to continue asserting that Mr. Pour fraudulently obtained renewals of the 1995 Judgment.

None of these attempts have been successful. Both the state court and this Court have repeatedly ruled against Debtor, Ms. Broomand and Mr. Fatehmanesh with respect to their arguments related to the Delano Property or the validity of Mr. Pour's secured claim. In fact, Debtor's actions led to the revocation of his discharge. Rather than benefit the estate, these parties' efforts have significantly increased the administrative fees and costs to be borne by the estate.

The Trustee Response and the Pour Opposition, as well as the Court's own record, demonstrate that Debtor's claim does not have any value and would be incredibly burdensome to the estate. As such, the Court will order the Trustee to abandon the Claims.

Because the Court is granting Debtor's request for abandonment, upon entry of the order on this Motion, the Claims will no longer be property of the estate. Thus, Debtor will not need relief from the automatic stay to proceed in state court. The Court notes that, at this time, it appears Debtor may recover surplus proceeds from the estate. Debtor's intentions to continue litigating against Mr. Pour will cost Debtor and potentially expose Debtor to sanctions, and/or claims against Debtor of malicious prosecution, in state court. Nevertheless, once the Claims no longer are property of the estate, the Court cannot preclude Debtor from pursuing the Claims (subject to potential sanctions, and/ or claims against Debtor of malicious prosecution) in state court.

B. Distribution to Creditors

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), "[a] claim or interest, proof of which is filed under section 501 of this title, is deemed allowed, unless a party in interest... objects." Under 11 U.S.C. § 704(a), the chapter 7 trustee is required to, among other things, "collect and reduce to money the property of the estate... and close such estate as expeditiously as is compatible with the best interests of parties in interest" and "if a purpose would be served, examine proofs of claims and object to the allowance of any claim that is improper." 11 U.S.C. § 704(a)(1), (5) (emphasis added); see also In re Hyman, 123 B.R. 342, 347 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1991).

In addition, under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 3009, "[i]n a chapter 7 case, dividends to creditors shall be paid as promptly as practicable." See also In re Cink, 2007 WL 601585, at *3 (Bankr. D.S.D. Feb. 21, 2007) ("[Creditors are] entitled to full payment of their allowed claims to the extent estate funds are available. Anything less is prejudicial to creditors. The statutory duty to insure an appropriate distribution lies with [the trustee].").

Debtor requests that the Court order the Trustee to stay any distribution to Mr. Pour while Debtor pursues the Claims in state court. Debtor has provided neither legal authority nor a compelling reason to persuade the Court to enter such an order.

Mr. Pour has an allowed secured claim against the estate. The Trustee, pursuant to his statutory duties, testified that he assessed Mr. Pour's claim and concluded that the claim is entitled to distribution from the proceeds of the sale of the Delano Property. In addition to the Trustee's evaluation of Mr. Pour's claim, Debtor attempted to invalidate Mr. Pour's secured claim by filing the Pour Complaint. The Court already ruled that it does not have the power to modify the state court's judgments or renewals of judgments which, as of the petition date, remained valid and enforceable. In addition, Ms. Broomand and Mr. Fatehmanesh have argued that Mr. Pour does not have a valid judgment lien against the Delano Property. However, in the Resulting Trust Judgment, the state court held that Mr. Pour's judgment lien attached to the Delano Property. Again, as of the petition date, the Resulting Trust Judgment and Mr. Pour's judgment lien remained valid and enforceable.

For the reasons stated above, it is unlikely that Debtor will be able to prove otherwise in state court. Given that Mr. Pour has an allowed secured claim against the estate, he is entitled to distribution from the estate. The Trustee has a statutory duty to make distributions in accordance with the Bankruptcy Code to creditors holding allowed claims. And, pursuant to the authorities above, the Trustee must strive to expeditiously make such distributions.

Debtor, Ms. Broomand and Mr. Fatehmanesh have delayed administration of this estate since the petition date, i.e. almost five years. The Court will not aid Debtor's efforts to further interfere with the Trustee's statutory duty to close this estate expeditiously, particularly where Debtor is unlikely to prevail on his arguments in state court. The Trustee may proceed with distribution to creditors as planned; the Court will not require that the Trustee hold the funds owed to Mr. Pour or further delay any distribution to creditors pending adjudication of the Claims.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will order the abandonment of the Claims. The Court will not delay distribution of funds held by the Trustee to creditors, including to Mr. Pour or to his assignee, the Trust.

The Trustee must submit an order within seven (7) days.

with the Claims because the state court previously sustained a demurrer on the Claims. However, the demurrer was based on an argument that Debtor did not have standing because the Claims belonged to the estate. #15.00 Motion for default judgment under LBR 7055-1

Docket 12

Tentative Ruling:

In the motion [doc. 12], movants did not attach a declaration or other evidence attesting to the allegations in the complaint. As such, movants have not proven the merits of their claim. In addition, because the amount claimed is unliquidated, pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule 7055-1(b)(2), movants must submit evidence of the amount of damages by declaration and notice must be given to the defaulting parties of the amount requested.

Accordingly, the Court will continue this hearing to May 20, 2020 at 2:30 p.m. to allow movants to supplement the motion with additional evidence. By April 29, 2020, movants must file and serve an amended motion and notice of the continued hearing on the defaulting parties.

#3.00 Status conference re: chapter 11 case

fr. 2/20/20

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a) and 1112(b)(4)(A) and (F), the Court will dismiss this case.

On January 10, 2020, 2300 Pisani, a Nevada Domestic LLC ("Debtor"), filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. In its latest amended schedules [doc. 11], Debtor identified five secured creditors with liens against Debtor's primary asset, a duplex located at 2300 Pisani Place, Venice, California 90291 (the "Property"). Debtor indicated that it has no unsecured creditors.

On February 4, 2020, less than one month after filing its chapter 11 petition, Debtor filed a motion to sell the Property [doc. 21]. Through the Motion, Debtor sought approval of a private credit bid sale to the secured creditor with a third priority lien against the Property. Debtor did not engage in postpetition marketing of the Property and did not provide for overbidding in connection with the sale.

Center Street Lending Corporation ("Center Street"), the secured creditor with a first priority lien against the Property, opposed the sale. Debtor and Center Street disagree about the amount of Center Street's claim.

On April 2, 2020, the Court held a hearing on Debtor's motion to approve the sale. At that time, the Court noted that Debtor had failed to identify which prong of 11 U.S.C. § 363(f) allowed for a sale free and clear of liens against the Property. The Court also stated that Debtor would have to provide additional briefing regarding the amount of Center Street's claim and that the Court may set an evidentiary hearing on Debtor's request for a good faith determination under 11 U.S.C. § 363(m). As such, the Court continued the hearing.

At the prior chapter 11 case status conference, the Court noted that Debtor had failed to file its January 2020 monthly operating report ("MOR"). To date, Debtor has neither filed the January 2020 MOR nor any other MORs; at this time, the February 2020 and March 2020 MORs are past due.

In light of the above, dismissal is warranted. Debtor has failed to comply with the requirements of being a chapter 11 debtor in possession, and Debtor appears to have filed this case in bad faith. Debtor does not have any unsecured creditors. Apparently, Debtor filed this case for the sole purpose of selling the Property for the benefit of one of its secured creditors. Debtor has not articulated why such a result could not be accomplished outside of bankruptcy, e.g., through a foreclosure sale.

Debtor has not set forth a compelling or legitimate reason for the Court to allow this case to continue in chapter 11. Further, having reviewed Debtor's schedules and statement of financial affairs, conversion of this case to a chapter 7 case would not serve to benefit any creditors. Consequently, the Court will dismiss this case.

The Court will prepare the Order.

#4.10 Trustee's Application for Authority to Employ Real Estate Broker

Docket 65

Tentative Ruling:

On March 6, 2020, the debtor filed an opposition to the chapter 7 trustee's application to employ a real estate broker on the sole basis that the debtor has moved to convert his case to a chapter 13 case [doc. 74]. Given that the Court is denying the debtor's request to convert this case, the Court will approve this application.

The chapter 7 trustee must submit an order within seven (7) days.

#5.00 Debtor's motion to convert case from chapter 7 to 13.

Docket 72

Tentative Ruling:

Deny.

I. BACKGROUND

On June 26, 2018, Antoine R. Chamoun ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. David Seror was appointed the chapter 7 trustee (the "Trustee").

In his petition, Debtor stated he lives at 16935 Blackhawk Street, Unit 9, Granada Hills, CA 91344 (the "Blackhawk Property"). In his amended schedule A/B [doc. 23], Debtor identified real property located at 1706 Empty Saddle Road, Simi Valley, CA 93063 (the "Empty Saddle Property"). Debtor valued the Empty Saddle Property at $500,000. In his schedule D, Debtor indicated that the following deeds of trust encumber the Empty Saddle Property: (A) a deed of trust in favor of Bank of America in the amount of $287,311; (B) a deed of trust in favor of Special Loan Servicing in the amount of $46,123; and (C) a deed of trust in favor of Walid Chamoun ("Walid"), Debtor's brother, in the amount of $333,434. Debtor also scheduled $1,432.14 in taxes and $421,054.52 in unsecured debt.

In his Statement of Financial Affairs ("SOFA"), Debtor stated that he is not married and referenced a prepetition dissolution action against his ex-wife, Patricia Chamoun ("Patricia"). In his schedule G, Debtor referenced a lease agreement with Patricia, indicating that Patricia rents the Empty Saddle Property from Debtor.

In an attachment to his schedule J [doc. 1], Debtor states that Patricia pays the mortgage "on the home" directly to lenders. Although Debtor swore under penalty of perjury that he lives at the Blackhawk Property, i.e., not with Patricia at the Empty Saddle Property, Debtor listed $0 in expenses. In addition, in his amended schedule C, Debtor claimed a $100,000 homestead exemption in the Empty Saddle Property, referring to the Empty Saddle Property as a "family residence."

Moreover, in his schedule I [doc. 1], Debtor stated that he receives $1,118.48 in monthly income. However, in his SOFA, Debtor stated that he received no income from 2016 until the petition date, in June 2018.

On September 16, 2019, the Trustee filed a complaint against Walid and Patricia for avoidance of fraudulent transfers (the "Fraudulent Transfer Action") [1:19-ap-01105-VK, doc. 1]. In the complaint, the Trustee alleges that the deed of trust in favor of Walid is a fraudulent transfer because Debtor did not receive any value in return for the deed of trust. In addition, as to Patricia, the Trustee alleges—

In 2016, Debtor received the Empty Saddle Property, and liability on debts associated with the Empty Saddle Property, via a marital settlement agreement ("MSA"). Pursuant to the MSA, Debtor also received a significantly imbalanced share of the community property debts.

On August 1, 2016, Debtor leased the Empty Saddle Property to Patricia for a period of 10 years. Debtor only charged, as rent, the mortgage payment owed to Bank of America. The lease to Patricia fails to account for the fair market rental value of the Empty Saddle Property over the 10 year term covered by the lease.

On October 14, 2019, Debtor received his chapter 7 discharge [doc. 60]. In the meanwhile, the parties attempted to settle the Fraudulent Transfer Action through mediation. However, on February 10, 2020, the mediator filed a certificate regarding conclusion of mediation, noting that the parties did not settle [Fraudulent Transfer Action, doc. 14]. The Fraudulent Transfer Action remains pending.

On February 19, 2020, the Trustee filed an application to employ a real estate broker (the "Broker Application") [doc. 65]. On March 6, 2020, Debtor filed a motion to convert his case to a chapter 13 case (the "Motion") [doc. 72]. Debtor also filed an opposition to the Broker Application [doc. 74], on the basis that Debtor will be converting his case to a chapter 13 case. The Trustee opposes Debtor's request to convert his case [doc. 76].

II. ANALYSIS

A. General Right to Convert Standard

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 706(a) & (d)—

(a) The debtor may convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 11, 12, or 13 of this title at any time, if the case has not been converted under section 1112, 1208, or 1307 of this title. Any waiver of the right to convert a case under this subsection is unenforceable.

...

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, a case may not be converted to a case under another chapter of this title unless the debtor may be a debtor under such chapter.

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 109(e)—

Only an individual with regular income that owes, on the date of the filing of the petition, noncontingent, liquidated, unsecured debts of less than $394,725¹ and noncontingent, liquidated, secured debts of less than $1,184,200¹, or an individual with regular income and such individual's spouse, except a stockbroker or a commodity broker, that owe, on the date of the filing of the petition, noncontingent, liquidated, unsecured debts that aggregate less than $394,725¹ and noncontingent, liquidated, secured debts of less than $1,184,200¹ may be a debtor under chapter 13 of this title.

The right to convert under this section is not absolute. In Marrama v. Citizens Bank of Mass., 549 U.S. 365, 127 S.Ct. 1105, 166 L.Ed.2d 956 (2007), the Supreme Court of the United States determined that a debtor forfeits his right to convert to chapter 13 under § 706(a) if the debtor engages in bad faith conduct that would warrant dismissal or reconversion of a chapter 13 case.

Chapter 7

The Court also determined that there is no absolute right to conversion because of § 706(d), which requires a debtor be eligible to be a debtor under the chapter to which he wishes to convert. Id., at 372. The Court then looked to the reasons why a debtor may not qualify to be debtor under chapter 13, such as 11 U.S.C. § 109(e) (which sets forth the Code’s requirements for being a chapter 13 debtor) or, more importantly, for "cause," under § 1307(c) (which sets forth the standards for dismissal or conversion under chapter 13). Id.

B. Whether Debtor is Eligible to be a Chapter 13 Debtor

The parties do not discuss the impact of Debtor’s receipt of a discharge on Debtor’s ability to convert this case. "[T]here is no absolute prohibition on converting a case from Chapter 7 to Chapter 13 post-discharge, but pre-closing; rather there is a § 1307(c) ‘for cause’ review.” In re Santos, 561 B.R. 825, 830 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017). In Santos, the debtors received a chapter 7 discharge. Id., at 826. After their discharge, the chapter 7 trustee moved to employ a broker and compel the debtors to turn over their real property. Id. The debtors then moved to convert their case to a chapter 13 case. Id.

In considering the conversion motion, the bankruptcy court first outlined permissible methods of filing a chapter 7 followed by a chapter 13 case—

In considering whether there are grounds for conversion “for cause,” (such as manipulation of Bankruptcy Code or abuse of process), the Court notes that two similar, and allowed, tactics have a fundamentally different impact on administration of the bankruptcy estate. Those situations are when a debtor files sequential bankruptcies (i.e. the filing of a Chapter 13 upon the closing of the Chapter 7 case), and when the Debtor attempts to file simultaneous bankruptcies (the filing of a Chapter 13 case while a Chapter 7 case is pending). The former is permissible and is commonly referred to as a Chapter 20 case. See, e.g., In re Metz, 67 B.R. 462, 465 (9th Cir. BAP 1986). The latter appears to be permissible in the Ninth Circuit upon a finding that the later filing occurred in good faith. See In re Blendheim, 803 F.3d 477, 500 (9th Cir. 2015).

Id., at 829–30. The court distinguished between these permissible methods and the debtors’ request to convert their case, holding—

In this case, as opposed to Blendheim, allowing Debtors' proposed conversion would relieve Debtors of burdens (allowing the bankruptcy estate to be fully administered) tied to benefits (the bankruptcy discharge) that they have already received. To extend the Chapter 20 practice and the Blendheim holding to allow for conversion in this situation would be to create a loophole that could lead to abuse of the bankruptcy system. See, e.g., In re Lesniak, 208 B.R. 902, 906 (Bankr. N.D. Ill. 1997) (“[T]he Court finds that it would be an abuse of process to permit the Debtors to convert to Chapter 13 at this stage of their Chapter 7 case.”). If “a debtor converts to Chapter 13 after the Chapter 7 discharge, but before the estate property is liquidated, he has received all of the benefits of Chapter 7 without any of the burdens, because he regains his nonexempt property, and his debts have all been discharged.” In re Rigales, 290 B.R. 401, 407 (Bankr. D.N.M. 2003). Bankruptcy relief involves a “quid pro quo.” See In re Jeffrey, 176 B.R. 4, 6 (Bankr. D. Mass. 1994).

The Court... finds that cause would exist to convert or dismiss a Chapter 13 case that was converted to Chapter 13 post-discharge, prior to closing, when administration of the Chapter 7 estate was still occurring. Specifically, Debtors’ proposed conversion... would result in an abuse of process. Because Marrama allows the Court to deny conversion “for cause” under § 1307(c), the Debtors are ineligible to be debtors under Chapter 13 at time time.

Id., at 830-31 (emphasis added).

As in Santos, Debtor seeks to convert his case post-discharge while administration of his chapter 7 estate is still occurring. As such, allowing Debtor to convert to a chapter 13 case would result in Debtor obtaining the benefits of a discharge without the attendant burdens, i.e., administration of Debtor’s estate. Because such a result would amount to an abuse of process and lead to reconversion to a chapter 7 case under 11 U.S.C. § 1307(c), Debtor is not eligible to be a chapter 13 debtor at this time. [FN1].

C. Debtor's Bad Faith Conduct

In addition to Debtor's discharge preventing conversion of this case, the Court also may deny the Motion based on bad faith conduct by Debtor. Here, Debtor provided inconsistent information in his schedules and statements. In his petition, Debtor stated that he resides at the Blackhawk Property. However, Debtor claimed a homestead exemption in the Empty Saddle Property and, in his schedule J, swore under penalty of perjury that Debtor has $0 in expenses, noting that Patricia pays the mortgage "on the home." Debtor provided no explanation regarding who pays the rent and other expenses for Debtor to reside at the Blackhawk Property. Moreover, although Debtor stated that he receives $1,118.48 in monthly income, Debtor indicates in his SOFA that he has received $0 in income from 2016 through 2018.

Aside from Debtor's inconsistent statements, Debtor seemingly moved to convert his case to frustrate the Trustee's efforts to liquidate the Empty Saddle Property. Debtor did not file the Motion until after the Trustee's unsuccessful mediation with Walid and Patricia and the Trustee's request to hire a broker. Further, the Trustee is pursuing the Fraudulent Transfer Action on the belief that the deed of trust in favor of Walid is meant to encumber the Empty Saddle Property to prevent liquidation of the Empty Saddle Property. Consequently, the Court also will deny the Motion on the basis that Debtor requests conversion of his case in bad faith.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will deny the Motion.

The Trustee must submit an order within seven (7) days.

1. The Trustee also argues that Debtor cannot satisfy 11 U.S.C. § 109(e) because his unsecured debts exceed the debt limit of $419,275. In his latest-amended schedule E/F [doc. 23], Debtor scheduled a total of $422,486.66 in unsecured debt. However, Debtor indicated that $186,616.92 is either contingent or unliquidated. This leaves a total of $235,869.74 in noncontingent, liquidated unsecured debt. Although there are some claims in the Claims Register that appear not to overlap with Debtor's schedules, those claims amount to $24,174.86. In any event, because the Court is denying conversion on other grounds, Debtor's eligibility based on the debt limit of § 109(e) is not determinative.

#4.00 Motion in Individual Case for Order Imposing a Stay or Continuing the Automatic Stay as the Court Deems Appropriate

fr. 3/4/20

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

The Court having reviewed the debtor's declaration, filed on April 22, 2020 [doc. 25], the debtor having properly served the notice of the continued hearing on all creditors [doc. 14], no objection having been filed and the debtor being current on his chapter 13 plan payments, the Court will grant the motion.

The debtor must submit the order within seven (7) days.

Note: No response has been filed. Accordingly, no court appearance by movant is required. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the Court will determine whether further hearing is required and movant will be so notified.

#5.00 Motion for relief from stay [UD]

924 CARONDELET LLC
DEBTOR

Docket 20

Tentative Ruling:

Grant relief from stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

Movant (and any successors or assigns) may proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to obtain possession of the property.

The order is binding and effective in any bankruptcy case commenced by or against the debtor for a period of 180 days, so that no further automatic stay shall arise in that case as to the property.

The 14-day stay prescribed by FRBP 4001(a)(3) is waived.

Grant movant's request to annul the automatic stay.

"Many courts have focused on two factors in determining whether cause exists to grant [retroactive] relief from the stay: (1) whether the creditor was aware of the bankruptcy petition; and (2) whether the debtor engaged in unreasonable or inequitable conduct, or prejudice would result to the creditor." In re National Environmental Waste Corp., 129 F.3d 1052, 1055 (9th Cir. 1997). "[T]his court, similar to others, balances the equities in order to determine whether retroactive annulment is justified." Id.

Here, the debtor filed his petition on October 7, 2019. In his schedule G [doc. 1], the debtor did not indicate a leasehold interest in the subject real property. In his schedule E/F [doc. 1], the debtor did not list the movant as a creditor. The debtor also did not list the movant on his master mailing list [doc. 1]. Accordingly, the movant was not served with notice of the debtor's bankruptcy case.

On September 24, 2019, without knowledge of the debtor's chapter 7 case, the movant filed an unlawful detainer action against Hwa-Jeong Shin and Sung-Ill Ahn for possession of the subject real property [Declaration of Agop Gary Arakelian ("Arakelian Decl."), ¶ 2, Exh. C]. On October 9, 2019, the debtor and Amy Volker each filed a prejudgment claim and answer to the unlawful detainer complaint [Arakelian Decl., ¶ 3, Exh. D].

The unlawful detainer trial was set for December 24, 2019 [Arakelian Decl., ¶ 3]. However, on December 23, 2019, the movant was notified for the first time that Ms. Volker had filed a chapter 7 petition, initiating bankruptcy case 1:19-bk-12393-MT [Arakelian Decl., ¶ 4, Exh. E]. The unlawful detainer trial was continued to January 23, 2020, and then again to March 5, 2020 [Arakelian Decl., ¶ 4].

At the March 5, 2020 continued trial date, the movant was notified for the first time of the debtor's bankruptcy case. Id. at ¶ 6. By this time, the debtor had already received a discharge and his case had been closed [docs. 11 and 12]. Consequently, retroactive relief from the automatic stay is appropriate in this case.

Any other request for relief is denied.

Movant must submit the order within seven (7) days.

Note: No response has been filed. Accordingly, no court appearance by movant is required. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the Court will determine whether further hearing is required and movant will be so notified.

On March 9, 2020, the Court entered an order dismissing the plaintiff's first amended complaint (the "Dismissal Order") [doc. 12]. In the Dismissal Order, the Court stated that "if the plaintiff elects to proceed with the action, the plaintiff must file and serve a second amended complaint no later than March 31, 2020." Dismissal Order, p. 2.

The plaintiff did not file a second amended complaint by March 31, 2020. As such, the Court will dismiss this adversary proceeding.

The Court will prepare the Order.

#24.00 Defendant's motion to dismiss complaint for the denial of discharge pursuant to FRCP 12b(6) & FRCP 9(b)

Docket 5

Tentative Ruling:

For the reasons discussed below, the Court will grant in part and deny in part the motion.

I. BACKGROUND

On July 9, 2019, Peter M. Seltzer ("Defendant") filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition, initiating bankruptcy case 1:19-bk-11696-VK. On December 26, 2019, the Court entered an order converting Defendant's bankruptcy case to one under chapter 7 [Bankruptcy Case, doc. 98].

On December 16, 2019, Darren Kessler ("Plaintiff") filed a complaint against Defendant (the "Complaint"), seeking nondischargeability of the debt owed to him pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2), (a)(4) and (a)(6) and for denial of discharge pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 727(a)(2), (a)(4)(A) and (a)(5). In relevant part, the Complaint makes the following factual allegations:

On May 20, 2014, Defendant executed and delivered to Plaintiff a promissory note/equity agreement (the "May Note") [Complaint, Exh. A]. Under the terms of the May Note, Defendant borrowed and agreed to pay Plaintiff the principal sum of $800,000 (the "Principal"). The May Note provided that Plaintiff would immediately receive a 14% equity interest in ACC Enterprises, LLC ("ACC"). Defendant was to pay off the Principal upon receipt of payment from ACC. The payments were to be made on a cyclical basis based on disbursement made via K-1 by ACC to Defendant within thirty days of Defendant being paid.

On October 1, 2014, Defendant and Plaintiff agreed to modify the May Note, and entered into a new promissory note (the "October Note") [Complaint, Exh.

B]. The October Note provided that in addition to the previously acquired 14% interest in ACC, Defendant also personally agreed to repay Plaintiff the sum of $800,000 along with an equity interest in the "stock of the makers" [sic]. All principal and accrued interest in the October Note was due and payable by October 1, 2017, and the October Note states that repayment of the Principal is "in addition to" the transfer of equity.

On July 10, 2014, Plaintiff transferred $300,000 to ACC Industries, Inc. On November 21, 2014, Plaintiff transferred an additional $500,000 to Defendant's corporation, Jakdyl, Inc. [Complaint, Exh. C]. ACC Industries, Inc. and Jakdyl, Inc. are listed on Defendant's statement of financial affairs, item #27.

On August 18, 2015, Defendant emailed Plaintiff reaffirming that he "anticipate[d] paying [Plaintiff] back $800,000 principle [sic] by end of Dec 2015... (Remainder will be paid from Vegas Building $250k)." (the "2015 Email") [Complaint, Exh. D].

Defendant defaulted in his performance of the October Note by failing to pay the note in full when due. Prior to filing the Complaint, Plaintiff made a demand for the balance due on the October Note, but no part of said balance has been paid. Consequently, Plaintiff filed a complaint against Defendant in the superior court for the state of California for breach of contract, money had and received and unjust enrichment.

In statements made in the state court action, Defendant denied executing the May Note and the October Note. Defendant also stated that the company in which Plaintiff was to receive distributions and an equity interest did not exist at the time Plaintiff transferred funds to Defendant. Defendant further stated that the emails affirming his obligation to Plaintiff were "altered." Thus, when Defendant made the representations in the May Note and the October Note, he knew them to be false, and made these representations with the intent to induce Plaintiff to enter into the notes.

After the petition date, Defendant filed his original schedules and statement of financial affairs ("SOFA") [Bankruptcy Case, doc. 10]. Defendant signed his schedules and SOFA under penalty of perjury as true and accurate.

Defendant's SOFA, listed, among other things: (i) no income from employment or operation of a business in 2019; (ii) no payments to insiders within one year prior to the petition date; (iii) no gifts within the two years prior to the petition date; (iv) no loss or insurance coverage from theft, fire or other disaster; (v) no transfers within the two years prior to the petition date; (vi) no accounts with financial institutions closed within the one year prior to the petition date; and (vii) interest in three business entities – Indiana Texas Management ("ITM"), 2305 LLC and Jakdyl LLC.

On August 15, 2019, Defendant appeared for his § 341(a) meeting of creditors, where he testified under oath about his assets and liabilities (the "Meeting"). At the Meeting, Defendant revealed that he had an interest in over 20 business entities as well as additional pending litigation, which he failed to disclose in his original schedules.

Following the Meeting, Plaintiff filed several motions for Fed. R. Bankr. P. ("FRBP") 2004 examinations, mainly against financial institutions where Defendant currently had (or had in the past) accounts and where Defendant's entities currently had (or had in the past) accounts.

On October 15, 2019, Defendant filed amended schedules and SOFA [Bankruptcy Case, doc. 56]. Defendant filed the amended schedules two months after the Meeting and after the Court granted several of Plaintiff's FRBP 2004 examinations.

The amended schedules and SOFA disclosed the following, which were not included in the original schedules: (i) transfer of $50,000 to Brian Burr; (ii) four litigation claims against third parties; $6,850 gross income in the last calendar year from operating a business; (iii) $150,000 received in the last year from a legal settlement; (iv) $300,000 property damage from the November 2018 Woolsey fire; (v) two transfers including a $550,000 transfer to Neil Harris in February 2019 as a business investment to be repaid and a $50,000 transfer to Brian Burr "temporarily" in May 2019; and (vi) an additional nine business entities which he had an interest within the four years prior to the Defendant's July 2019 and August 2019 monthly operating reports ("MOR") reflect that beyond receipt of one insurance proceed check in the amount of $121,000, Defendant had no income. Those MORs also reflect that Defendant retained accounts under the name of 2305 LLC and ITM, neither of which were designated debtor-in-possession accounts, to transact for general personal expenses. The August 2019 MOR also reflects that Defendant withdrew $66,010 for a "price lift." Defendant has submitted no evidence that such funds were used for Woolsey fire damage repairs.

Defendant's September 2019 and October 2019 MORs reflect, among other things, that Defendant: (i) received another alleged insurance proceeds check in the amount of $134,162.70; (ii) made a cash withdrawal from the 2305 LLC account in the amount of $9,510 rendering the account closed; (iii) closed his Wells Fargo debtor-in-possession account and opened a new account at Union Bank; (iv) paid $15,000 to "tactical mitigation" for purported home damage repairs; and (v) paid an additional $15,000 for "price lift" for alleged home repairs.

Based on the discovery Plaintiff received from his FRBP 2004 examinations, many (if not all) of Defendant's entities are the alter ego of the other. Defendant often and freely moved funds in and out of his entities and into and out of Defendant's personal accounts to hide funds from creditors, and for his own personal use.

Defendant maintained a bank account, in his name, at Chase during the pendency of his bankruptcy case and immediately prior to the petition date. On May 21, 2019, Defendant received over $178,759 in insurance proceeds. Only $126,000 of these funds were deposited in the debtor-in-possession account, as Defendant withdrew $40,000 on May 29, 2019, an additional $9,866.64 on the day prior to the petition date, and a further $2,832 after the petition date (collectively, the "Insurance Proceed Transfers").

Between March 2019 and the petition date, Defendant made the following withdrawals and/or transfers from the 2305 LLC account, none of which were disclosed in Defendant's original or amended schedules: (i) March 18, 2019, wire to ETF Management in the amount of $150,000; (ii) April 19, 2019, wire to Harris Ritoff in the amount of $100,000; (iii) May 20, 2019, two withdrawals in the amounts of $28,000 and $7,000; and (iv) May 28, 2019, a withdrawal in the amount of $4,000 (collectively, the "Pre-Petition Transfers").

As of January 1, 2019, Defendant had $1,048,301.55 in the ITM and 2305 LLC bank accounts. About six months later, on the petition date, Defendant only had $128,857.76, which funds consisted solely of insurance proceeds. Defendant has not provided a justification or explanation for the dissipation of $900,000.

In his amended SOFA, Defendant asserts that he received $250,000 in income in 2018 and that ACG Industries was shut down in 2017. However, a review of the ITM bank account reveals that from March 2018 to May 2018, Defendant received $905,000 from ACG Industries. This demonstrates that Defendant received three times the amount of income disclosed in his amended SOFA and that ACG Industries was still operating in 2018.

Attached to the Complaint are the May Note [Exh. A], the October Note [Exh. B], bank statements [Exh. C] and the 2015 Email [Exh. D]. The May Note provides that Defendant "promises to get re payment to the order of [Plaintiff], or his successors in interest, the sum of EIGHT HUNDRED THOUSAND ($800,000.) DOLLARS through revenues generated by [ACC]. Along with securing an equity stake of 14% in the makers INVESTMENT in [ACC]...." The May Note further provides, that "[a]ll principal and accrued interest shall be due and payable on a cyclical basis based on disbursement made via K-1 by ACC to 'maker' within 30 days of 'maker' being paid." On May 22, 2014, Plaintiff and Defendant apparently signed the May Note.

The October Note provides that Defendant and ACC "promises to pay to the order of [Plaintiff], or his successors in interest, the sum of Eight hundred thousand ($800,000.) DOLLARS along with an equity interest of 14% in the makers...." The October Note provides that interest will accrue for three years, "payable annually on the anniversary date at the rate of five percent (1%) [sic] per annum." The October Note further provides that: "[a]ll principal and accrued interest shall be due and payable by Oct 1, 2017." On October 1, 2014, Plaintiff and Defendant apparently signed the October Note.

Based on the bank statements, on July 10, 2014, Plaintiff made a $300,000 transfer to ACC Industries, Inc., and on November 21, 2014, he made a $500,000 transfer to Jakdyl, Inc.

On February 4, 2020, Defendant filed the Motion [doc. 5]. In the Motion, Defendant argues that Plaintiff has failed to state a claim under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6) and that Plaintiff has failed to plead the fraud-based claims with particularity as required by Fed. R. Civ. P. 9(b). On April 15, 2020, Plaintiff filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 9]. On April 22, 2020, Defendant filed a reply to the Opposition (the "Reply") [doc. 11].

II. ANALYSIS

A. General Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 12(b)(6) Standard

A motion to dismiss [pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6)] will only be granted if the complaint fails to allege enough facts to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face. A claim has facial plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged. The plausibility standard is not akin to a probability requirement, but it asks for more than a sheer possibility that a defendant has acted unlawfully.

We accept factual allegations in the complaint as true and construe the pleadings in the light most favorable to the non-moving party. Although factual allegations are taken as true, we do not assume the truth of legal conclusions merely because they are cast in the form of factual allegations. Therefore, conclusory allegations of law and unwarranted inferences are insufficient to defeat a motion to dismiss.

In evaluating a Rule 12(b)(6) motion, review is "limited to the contents of the complaint." Clegg v. Cult Awareness Network, 18 F.3d 752, 754 (9th Cir. 1994). However, without converting the motion to one for summary judgment, exhibits attached to the complaint, as well as matters of public record, may be considered in determining whether dismissal is proper. *See Parks School of Business, Inc. v. Further, a court may consider evidence "on which the complaint necessarily relies if: (1) the complaint refers to the document; (2) the document is central to the plaintiff's claim; and (3) no party questions the authenticity of the copy attached to the [Rule] 12(b)(6) motion." Marder v. Lopez, 450 F.3d 445, 448 (9th Cir. 2006) (internal quotation marks omitted). "A complaint that merely recites statutory language fails to state a claim under Rule 12(b)(6)." In re Kubick, 171 B.R. 658, 660 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1994). This is because "mere statutory language does not plead facts sufficiently so that they may be answered or denied." Id. "[F]acts must be alleged to sufficiently apprise the defendant of the complaint against him." Id.

Pursuant to Rule 9(b), "[i]n alleging fraud or mistake, a party must state with particularity the circumstances constituting fraud or mistake. - (4) justifiable reliance by the creditor on the debtor's statement or conduct; and
- (5) damage to the creditor proximately caused by its reliance on the debtor's statement or conduct

In re Weinberg, 410 B.R. 19, 35 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2009) (citing In re Slyman, 234 F.3d 1081, 1085 (9th Cir. 2000)).

i. Misrepresentations with Knowledge of Falsity and Intent to Deceive Representations made without an intent to perform satisfy the first three requirements of § 523(a)(2)(A). In re Rubin, 875 F.2d 755, 759 (9th Cir. 1989). A promise also can be considered fraudulent when the promisor knew or should have known of his inability to perform. In re Barrack, 217 B.R. 598, 606 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1998). A promise to perform in the future is not a false representation or false pretense unless the debtor did not have intent to perform at the time he made the representation.

Chapter 7

Matter of Bercier, 934 F.2d 689, 691-92 (5th Cir. 1991) ("A mere promise to be executed in the future is not sufficient to make a debt nondischargeable, even though there is no excuse for the subsequent breach.") (citations omitted).

ii. Justifiable Reliance

To satisfy the reliance requirement of § 523(a)(2)(A), a plaintiff must show "justifiable" reliance, not "reasonable reliance." Field v. Mans, 516 U.S. 59, 74-75, 116 S. Ct. 437, 133 L. Ed. 2d 351 (1995). Justifiable reliance takes into account the "qualities and characteristics of the particular plaintiff, and the circumstances of the particular case, rather than of the application of a community standard of conduct to all cases." Id. at 71.

iii. Proximate Causation/Damages

Section 523(a)(2)(A) requires that the damage to the creditor be proximately caused by the debtor's fraud. In re Sabban, 600 F.3d 1219, 1223 (9th Cir. 2010) (explaining that the debtor will not receive a discharge of debts "resulting from" or "traceable" to fraud). "Further, as the Supreme Court explained in Field, a court may turn to the Restatement (Second) of Torts (1976), 'the most widely accepted distillation of the common law of torts,' for guidance on this issue." In re Russell, 203 B.R. 303, 313 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1996) (citing to Field, 516 U.S. at 70).

"Turning to the Restatement, proximate cause entails (1) causation in fact, which requires a defendant's misrepresentations to be a 'substantial factor in determining the course of conduct that results in [the plaintiff's] loss,' § 546; and (2) legal causation, which requires the plaintiff's loss to have been 'reasonably expected to result from the reliance,' § 548A. In determining the presence of proximate cause, however, courts must refrain from relying on speculation to determine whether and to what extent a creditor would have suffered a loss absent fraud. Id. (citing to In re Siriani, 967 F.2d 302, 306 (9th Cir. 1992)).

Here, the Complaint seeks nondischargeability under § 523(a)(2)(A) based on the following: (1) Defendant's statements in the state court action; and (2) Defendant's misrepresentations in the May Note and the October Note.

As concerns Defendant's statements in the state court action, Plaintiff has not adequately alleged that Defendant made a representation to Plaintiff that ACC existed prior to Defendant's provision of the May Note and/or the October Note. Further, if years after Plaintiff made the pertinent monetary transfers, Defendant denied executing the May Note and the October Note, and claimed the 2015 Email was altered, that does not establish that Defendant made false representations or omissions prior to signing either or both of the notes. See In re Lee, 536 B.R. 848, 855 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2015) ("The alleged misrepresentation must have occurred at the inception of the debt as an inducement for the debt."). Consequently, the statements made in the state court action (as allegedly made by Defendant) do not satisfy the elements of a claim under § 523(a)(2)(A).

The same is true for the statements made in the 2015 Email. That email was written in August 2015, i.e., after Plaintiff allegedly made the pertinent monetary transfers to Defendant's entities. Accordingly, that email (as an alleged representation by Defendant) does not satisfy the elements of a claim under § 523(a)(2)(A).

As concerns the representations in the May Note, the Complaint does not make sufficient allegations regarding whether the condition precedent was met, i.e., that ACC generated revenue and that disbursements were made to Defendant within the pertinent time frame, i.e., before the October Note went into effect. Further, the May Note contains no deadline for the payment in full of any accrued interest and principal.

As concerns the representations in and about the May Note and the October Note, the Complaint has not plead with particularity the circumstances constituting fraud as required by Rule 9(b). The Complaint does not sufficiently identify what statements or representations Defendant made to Plaintiff before Plaintiff transferred the pertinent funds in July 2014 and November 2014, and when Defendant did so. Similarly, the Complaint does not articulate on which statements or representations Plaintiff relied.

Consequently, as to the § 523(a)(2) cause of action, the Court will grant the Motion with leave to amend.

C. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(4)

A debt is nondischargeable for fraud or defalcation while acting in a fiduciary capacity "where (1) an express trust existed, (2) the debt was caused by fraud or defalcation, and (3) the debtor acted as a fiduciary to the creditor at the time the debt was created." In re Niles, 106 F.3d 1456, 1459 (9th Cir. 1997).

i. Existence of Trust/Fiduciary Relationship

Whether a relationship is a fiduciary one within the meaning of § 523(a)(4) is a question of federal law. Ragsdale v. Haller, 780 F.2d 794, 795 (9th Cir. 1986); see also In re Cantrell, 269 B.R. 413, 420 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2001) ("The definition of 'fiduciary capacity' under § 523(a)(4) is governed by federal law."). In the context of dischargeability, the fiduciary relationship must arise from an express or technical trust that was imposed before and without reference to the wrongdoing that caused the debt. Ragsdale, 780 F.2d at 796; see also In re Stern, 403 B.R. 58, 66 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2009) ("In order for the debt to be actionable for nondischargeability, the debtor must have been a trustee before the alleged wrong and without reference thereto; the debtor must have already been a trustee before the debt was created."); Cantrell, 269 B.R. at 420 ("Only relationships arising from express or technical trusts qualify as fiduciary relationships under § 523(a)(4)."). Under § 523(a)(4), a court must consider state law to ascertain whether there is the required express or technical trust. In re Honkanen, 446 B.R. 373, 379 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2011).

"A trust under California law may be formed by express agreement, by statute, or by case law." Cantrell, 269 B.R. at 420. An express trust under California law requires the following five elements: (1) present intent to create a trust; (2) a trustee; (3) trust property; (4) a proper legal purpose; and (5) a beneficiary. Honkanen, at 379 n.6 (citing Cal. Prob. Code §§ 15201–15205). A technical trust under California law is one "arising from the relation of attorney, executor, or guardian, and not to debts due by a bankrupt in the character of an agent, factor, commission merchant, and the like." Id., at n.7 (quoting Royal Indemnity Co. v. Sherman, 269 P.2d 123, 125 (Cal. Ct. App. 1954)). Additionally, "[t]rusts arising as remedial devices to breaches of implied or express contracts—such as resulting or constructive trusts—are excluded, while statutory trusts that bear the hallmarks of an express trust are not." Id. (citing In re Pedrazzini, 644 F.2d 756, 759 (9th Cir. 1981)).

ii. Fraud

Under § 523(a)(4), fraud refers to actual fraud. Honkanen, 446 B.R. at 382 (citing In re Roussos, 251 B.R. 86, 91 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2000)). This involves the "conscious misrepresentation, or concealment, or non-disclosure of a material fact which induces the innocent party to enter into a contract." Id. at 383. The elements of actual fraud include the following:

(1) defendant made a misrepresentation, concealment, or non-disclosure of a material fact; (2) defendant had knowledge that what he was saying was false; (3) defendant intended to induce plaintiff's reliance; (4) plaintiff justifiably relied; and (5) plaintiff suffered damage as a result.

Id.

iii. Embezzlement or Larceny

"Embezzlement" within the meaning of § 523(a)(4) requires three elements: (1) property rightfully in the possession of the non-owner debtor, (2) the non-owner's misappropriation of the property to a use other than that for which it was entrusted, and (3) circumstances indicating fraud. In re Littleton, 942 F.2d 551, 555 (9th Cir. 1991). "The elements of larceny differ only in that a larcenous debtor has come into possession of funds wrongfully." In re Mickens, 312 B.R. 666, 680 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2004). A finding of larceny requires proof of the debtor's fraudulent intent in taking the creditor's property. In re Sokol, 170 B.R. 556, 560 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 1994).

"Fraudulent appropriation requires an intent to deprive, which can be inferred from the conduct of the person accused and from the circumstances of the situation." Savonarola v. Beran, 79 B.R. 493, 496 (Bankr. N.D. Fla. 1987).

For purposes of embezzlement and larceny, a fiduciary relationship is not required. Littleton, 942 F.2d at 555.

Here, the Complaint does not include sufficient allegations under § 523(a)(4). Plaintiff has not plausibly alleged that an express or technical trust, which was imposed before and without reference to the wrongdoing that caused the debt, ever existed. Consequently, Plaintiff has not sufficiently set forth a fiduciary relationship, as defined under § 523(a)(4).

In the Complaint, Plaintiff alleges that Defendant agreed to act as Plaintiff's agent for purposes of ensuring that the Principal was repaid to Plaintiff in accordance with the May Note and the October Note. As stated above, any such agreement would not create the required technical trust within the purview of § 523(a)(4). Moreover, Plaintiff characterizes the debt as a loan. Accepting a loan, without more, does not create a fiduciary relationship. See In re Mbunda, 484 B.R. 344 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2012).

In addition, Plaintiff does not allege embezzlement or larceny. Plaintiff does not allege that Defendant misappropriated the Principal to a use other than that to which he and Defendant agreed. Similarly, Plaintiff does not allege that Defendant came into possession of the Principal wrongfully; rather Plaintiff admits he agreed to make the loan to Defendant. Consequently, Plaintiff's claim under § 523(a)(4) is insufficient.

As a result, as to the § 523(a)(4) cause of action, the Court will grant the Motion. Because it appears that the deficiencies could be cured by an amendment, the Court will provide leave to amend.

D. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6)

11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6) states that a discharge under 11 U.S.C. § 727 does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt "for willful and malicious injury by the debtor to another entity or to the property of another entity." As in any § 523(a) action, the plaintiff bears the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence. Grogan v. Garner, 498 U.S. 279, 286, 111 S.Ct. 654, 112 L.Ed.2d 755 (1991).

i. Willfulness

Demonstrating willfulness requires a showing that defendant intended to cause the injury, not merely the acts leading to the injury. Kawaauhau v. Geiger, 523 U.S. 57, 61–62, 118 S.Ct. 974, 140 L.Ed. 2d 90 (1998). Thus, debts "arising from recklessly or negligently inflicted injuries do not fall within the compass of §523(a)(6)." Id. at 64.

It suffices, however, if the debtor knew that harm to the creditor was "substantially certain." In re Su, 290 F.3d 1140, 1145-46 (9th Cir. 2002); In re Jercich, 238 F.3d 1202, 1208 (9th Cir. 2001) ("the willful injury requirement of § 523(a)(6) is met when it is shown either that debtor had subjective motive to inflict injury or that the debtor believed that injury was substantially certain to occur as a result of his conduct") (emphasis in original).

ii. Maliciousness

Under § 523(a)(6), the injury must also be the result of maliciousness. Su, 290 F.3d at 1146. Maliciousness requires (1) a wrongful act; (2) done intentionally; (3) which necessarily causes injury; (4) without just cause or excuse. Id. at 1147. Maliciousness does not require "personal hatred, spite, or ill-will." In re Bammer, 131 F.3d 788, 791 (9th Cir. 1997).

Section 523(a)(6) generally applies to torts rather than to contracts. An intentional breach of contract generally will not give rise to a nondischargeable debt, unless it is accompanied by tortious conduct which results in willful and malicious injury. Jercich, at 1205; Lockerby v. Sierra, 555 F.3d 1038, 1040 (9th Cir. 2008) ("an intentional breach of contract cannot give rise to nondischargeability under § 523(a)(6) unless it is accompanied by conduct that constitutes a tort under state law").

Here, Plaintiff makes a claim under § 523(a)(6) based on conversion. "Conversion is the wrongful exercise of dominion over the property of another." Farmers Insurance Exchange v. Zerin, 53 Cal. App. 4th 445, 451 (Ct. App. 1997). Under California law the elements of conversion are plaintiff's ownership or right to possession of property at the time of the conversion, defendant's wrongful act or disposition of his property right, and consequent damages. Ehrle, 189 B.R. 771, 776 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2002) (citing In re Saylor, 178 B.R. 209, 214 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1995)). "[A] mere contractual right of payment, without more, will not suffice" to support a claim for conversion. Farmers Ins. Exchange v. Zerin, 53 Cal. App. 4th 445, 452 (1997).

At the motion to dismiss stage, "[m]alice, intent, knowledge, and other conditions of a person's mind may be alleged generally." Fed. R. Civ. P. 9(b). The Complaint alleges that Defendant willfully and maliciously injured Plaintiff, that Defendant intended the consequences of his actions and that injury was substantially certain to result from Defendant's conduct. Thus, the Complaint sufficiently alleges the intent elements of §

However, the Complaint fails to allege the elements of conversion. Plaintiff alleges that he loaned the Principal to Defendant, and that Defendant was to repay the Principal to Plaintiff based on the terms in the notes. Plaintiff does not allege that Defendant used the Principal in any way other than to which the parties agreed. Further, Plaintiff cannot show that funds generated by, or received from ACC, were Plaintiff's property. Plaintiff may have had a contractual right to payment from revenues generated by ACC, but that does not turn ACC's revenues into Plaintiff's property. As stated above, a mere contractual right to payment, without more, will not support a claim for conversion.

As such, as to the § 523(a)(6) cause of action, the Court will grant the Motion. Because the deficiencies possibly could be cured by an amendment, the Court will provide leave to amend.

11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(2) provides that a court shall grant a debtor a discharge unless "the debtor, with intent to hinder, delay or defraud a creditor or an officer of the estate charged with custody of property ... has transferred, removed, destroyed, mutilated, or concealed ... (A) property of the debtor, within one year before the date of the filing of the petition; or (B) property of the estate, after the date of the filing of the petition."

"Two elements comprise an objection to discharge under § 727(a)(2)(A): 1) a disposition of property, such as transfer or concealment, and 2) a subjective intent on the debtor's part to hinder, delay or defraud a creditor..." In re Beauchamp, 236 B.R. 727, 732 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1999). The transfer must occur within one year prepetition. In re Lawson, 122 F.3d 1237, 1240 (9th Cir. 1997). Lack of injury to creditors is irrelevant under § 727(a)(2). In re Bernard, 96 F.3d 1279, 1281–82 (9th Cir. 1996).

"The standard for denial of discharge under § 727(a)(2)(B) is the same as § 727(a)(2)(A), but the disposition must be of estate property occurring after the petition date." In re Miller, 2015 WL 3750830, at *3 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. June 12, 2015).

Intent may be inferred from the actions of the debtor. In re Devers, 759 F.2d 751, 753–54 (9th Cir. 1985). The necessary intent under § 727(a)(2) "may be established by circumstantial evidence, or by inferences drawn from a course of conduct." In re Adeeb, 787 F.2d 1339, 1343 (9th Cir.1986) (quoting Devers, 759 F.2d at 753–54).

Here, the Complaint sufficiently states a claim under § 727(a)(2). Plaintiff alleges that Defendant, with the intent to hinder, delay or defraud Plaintiff, transferred and/or abandoned all or part of the Pre-Petition Transfers and the Insurance Proceed Transfers. These transfers occurred within one year prior to the petition date or after the petition date. Plaintiff also alleges that within the six months prior to the petition date, Defendant dissipated $900,000 in the ITM and 2305 LLC bank accounts without explanation or justification. As stated above, at the motion to dismiss stage, intent may be generally alleged.

In the Motion, Defendant appears to argue that the Pre-Petition Transfers and the Insurance Proceed Transfers are not property of the estate. As concerns the Insurance Proceed Transfers, under 11 U.S.C. § 541(a)(1), the casualty insurance policy itself is property of the estate; so too, under 11 U.S.C. § 541(a)(6), are the proceeds from that policy. 11 U.S.C. § 541(a)(6) (property of the estate includes proceeds, product, offspring, rents and/or profits of or from property of the estate). See also In re Hoffpauir, 258 B.R. 447 (Bankr. D. Idaho 2001).

As concerns the Pre-Petition Transfers, these were all transfers or withdrawals from the 2305 LLC bank account which took place between March 2019 and May 2019. The Complaint references Defendant's MORs, to which Defendant attached the bank statements of 2305 LLC. Based on those bank statements, post-petition, Defendant used 2305 LLC's account to pay his general living expenses, i.e., gas, utilities, restaurants and car payments. In essence, Plaintiff is alleging that Defendant significantly disregarded corporate formalities, such that the assets of 2305 LLC constitute Defendant's assets.

At this stage, Plaintiff has alleged sufficient facts to state a claim that is plausible on its face. Accordingly, as to the § 727(a)(2) cause of action, the Court will deny the Motion.

F. 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(4)(A)

To prevail on a claim under § 727(a)(4)(A), the plaintiff must show, by a preponderance of the evidence, that: (1) the debtor made a false oath in connection with the case; (2) the oath related to a material fact; (3) the oath was made knowingly; and (4) the oath was made fraudulently. Id., at 1197.

i. False Oath

"The requisite false oath may involve either an affirmatively false statement or an omission from the debtor's schedules." Searles, 317 B.R. at 377 (citing In re Wills, 243 B.R. 58, 62 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1999)).

ii. Materiality

"A false statement is material if it bears a relationship to the debtor's business transactions or estate, or concerns the discovery of assets, business dealings, or the existence and disposition of the debtor's property." Wills, 243 B.R. at 62; see also In re Guadarrama, 284 B.R. 463, 473 (C.D.Cal. 2002) ("A false statement or omission is material if it concerns information that would aid in understanding the debtor's financial affairs.") "[A]n omission or misstatement relating to an asset that is of little value or that would not be property of the estate is material if the omission or misstatement detrimentally affects administration of the estate." Wills, 243 B.R. at 63.

iii. Knowingly and Fraudulently

"A debtor acts knowingly if he or she acts deliberately and consciously." Retz, 606 F.3d at 1198 (internal quotation marks omitted). To demonstrate fraudulent intent, a plaintiff has "the burden of showing that: (1) [defendant] made the representations [e.g., a false statement or omission in bankruptcy schedules]; (2) . . . at the time he knew they were false; [and] (3) . . . he made them with the intention and purpose of deceiving the creditors." Id., at 1198-99 (emphasis in original; internal quotations omitted).

"Intent is usually proven by circumstantial evidence or by inferences drawn from the debtor's conduct." Id., at 1199. "[M]ultiple omissions of material assets or information may well support an inference of fraud if the nature of the assets or transactions suggests that the debtor was aware of them at the time of preparing the schedules and that there was something about the assets or transactions which, because of their size or nature, a debtor might want to conceal." In re Coombs, 193 B.R. 557, 565-66 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 1996). "The fact of prompt correction of an inaccuracy or omission may be evidence probative of lack of fraudulent intent." In re Searles, 317 B.R. 368, 377 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2004) aff'd, 212 F. App'x 589 (9th Cir. 2006).

Here, the Complaint contains sufficient allegations under § 727(a)(4)(A). In the Complaint, Plaintiff alleges that Defendant made numerous false oaths in his original schedules and SOFA, including, among other things, omitting the entities in which Defendant had an interest, the loss from the Woolsey fire, the amount of income Defendant received from operating a business and the transfers Defendant made within two years prior to the petition date. Defendant's amended schedules and SOFA, which Defendant filed after Plaintiff's 2004 examinations were granted, indicated that Defendant did not accurately disclose his financial information in the original schedules and SOFA. These inaccuracies or omissions bear a relationship to Defendant's business transactions or estate, or concern the discovery of assets, business dealings, or the existence and disposition of Defendant's property.

In addition, the Complaint alleges that Defendant knowingly and fraudulently failed to list assets and financial information in his original schedules and SOFA. As previously noted, Defendant's intent and state of mind may be generally alleged.

These allegations are sufficient to state a claim under § 727(a)(4)(A). Consequently, as to the § 727(a)(4)(A) cause of action, the Court will deny the Motion.

G. 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(5)

(1) debtor at one time, not too remote from the bankruptcy petition date, owned identifiable assets; (2) on the date the bankruptcy petition was filed or order of relief granted, the debtor no longer owned the assets; and (3) the bankruptcy pleadings or statement of affairs do not reflect an adequate explanation for the disposition of the assets.

Retz, 606 F.3d at 1205.

Here, the Complaint does not make sufficient allegations under § 727(a)(5). Plaintiff alleges that Defendant dispensed of $105,520 post-petition without evidence that such funds were used for home repairs. However, Ninth Circuit precedent limits § 727(a)(5) to a debtor's inexplicable, pre-petition loss of assets. In re Choy, 569 B.R. 169, 184-185 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2017). Accordingly, as to the § 727(a)(5) cause of action, the Court will grant the Motion, with leave to amend.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will grant the Motion as to the claims under §§ 523(a)(2), (a)(4) and (a)(6) and § 727(a)(5), with leave to amend, and will deny the Motion as to the balance of the claims.

Plaintiff will have 14 days from the date of the hearing to file and serve on Defendant and his counsel an amended complaint, or to file and serve notice on Defendant and his counsel that Plaintiff will not do so.

Plaintiff must submit the order within seven (7) days.

Tentative Ruling:

Having reviewed the declaration of Oninye Anyama filed on April 16, 2020 [doc. 161] and in light of the order granting Ms. Anyama's motion to withdraw as counsel [doc. 164], the Court will continue this hearing to October 22, 2020 at 1:00 p.m. to assess the propriety of disgorgement, considering the Court's ruling to convert this case to one under chapter 7 and the possible input of the chapter 7 trustee. See calendar no. 5.

3/12/20 Ruling

The Court intends to to continue this hearing to a later date to assess the motion in light of whether the debtor's case is dismissed or converted.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

Having reviewed the debtor's declaration filed on April 16, 2020 [doc. 158] and based on the chapter 11 examiner's initial report [doc. 149], pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a) and 1112(b)(1), the Court will convert this case to one under chapter 7.

In the Initial Report of Chapter 11 Examiner John P. Pringle, the chapter 11 examiner states that the debtor appears to have an interest in several previously undisclosed real properties. The debtor's refusal to provide pertinent documentation to the chapter 11 examiner prevented the chapter 11 examiner from fully assessing the nature and extent of the debtor's interests in the real properties at issue. As a result of the debtor's probable interests in those real properties, the estate likely has significant additional secured debt and unsecured debt, and also may have undisclosed assets which could be used to pay unsecured and undersecured creditors.

A chapter 7 trustee can investigate the estate's interests in these real properties, and the use of the proceeds from the debtor's prepetition sale of real property, and determine if any such interests can be liquidated for the benefit of creditors, and any sale proceeds can be recovered. Additionally, the chapter 7 trustee can investigate any claims the estate may have against the debtor's former counsel. The chapter 11 examiner will receive payment of his allowed fees and costs through the chapter 7 trustee's administration of the case.

The Court will prepare the order.

3/12/20 Ruling

In the debtor's declaration, filed on February 27, 2020 [doc. 150], the debtor requests that the Court dismiss this case. If the debtor agrees to pay the allowed fees and expenses of the chapter 11 examiner and all allowed unsecured claims in full, and provides for such payment to be made, prior to the dismissal of the case, the Court thereafter will dismiss this case with a 180-day bar.

If the debtor does not provide for payment of the allowed fees and expenses of the chapter 11 examiner and all allowed unsecured claims in full, prior to the dismissal of the case, based on the chapter 11 examiner's initial report ("Examiner Report") [doc. 149], pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a) and 1112(b)(1), the Court will convert this case to one under chapter 7.

In the Examiner Report, the chapter 11 examiner states that the debtor appears to have an interest in several previously undisclosed real properties. A chapter 7 trustee can investigate the estate's interests in these real properties, and the use of the proceeds from the debtor's prepetition sale of real property, and determine if any such interests can be liquidated for the benefit of creditors, and any sale proceeds can be recovered.

1/9/20 Ruling

Based on, among other things, the debtor's flawed and inaccurate disclosures, which are discussed below, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a) and 1104(c)(1), the Court will order the appointment of a chapter 11 examiner to investigate, among other things, the debtor's assets, liabilities and prepetition transfers.

Exhibits to the Disclosure Statement Inconsistent with Filed Schedules

To the debtor's disclosure statement [doc. 117], the debtor attached a schedule A/B ("Exhibit B") [Exh. B] and a schedule E/F ("Exhibit C", and together with Exhibit B, the "Attachments") [Exh. C]. The Attachments are not consistent with the debtor's most recently filed schedule A/B ("Amended Schedule A/B") [doc. 28], filed on August 17, 2018, and schedule E/F ("Schedule E/F") [doc. 1], filed on July 10, 2018.

In his Amended Schedule A/B, the debtor lists an interest in real property located in North Hills, California (the "North Hills Property"), valued at $810,000. In Exhibit B, the debtor values the North Hills Property at $835,000. The debtor does not list an interest in any other real property.

In his Amended Schedule A/B, the debtor represents that, as of the petition date, he had $900 in his bank account. In Exhibit B, the debtor represents that he had $1,000.

Below is a chart listing the nonpriority unsecured creditors the debtor enumerated in his Schedule E/F, compared to Exhibit C to the proposed disclosure statement.

Schedule E/F [doc. 1]	Exhibit C [doc. 117]
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Capital One • Credit One Bank NA • First Premier Bank • Syncb/low • TD Auto Finance • TD Bank USA/targetcred • Thd/cbna 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • DCFS Trust • Franchise Tax Board • LA County Treasurer & Tax Collector • LVNV Funding • Merrick Bank c/o Resurgent Capital • Midland Funding LLC • Mr. Cooper • Synchrony Bank

All of the creditors listed in Exhibit C have filed proofs of claim in the debtor's case. With the exception of DCFS Trust (which the debtor appears to have called TD Auto Finance in his Schedule E/F) and Mr. Cooper, none of the creditors listed in Exhibit C were listed in the debtor's master mailing list. As such, it does not appear that these creditors received notice of the debtor's chapter 11 case. The Court is concerned that there may be additional creditors that did not receive notice of this chapter 11 case.

To date, the debtor has not filed an amended master mailing list.

On November 14, 2019, the debtor filed his 2018 federal tax return with the Court (the "2018 Tax Return") [doc. 119]. The 2018 Tax Return indicates that, in May 2018, two months prior to the debtor filing his chapter 11 petition, from the sale of real property located at 15170 Greenrock, Lancaster, California (the "Greenrock Property"), the debtor received proceeds in the amount of $39,660.

Item 18 of the statement of financial affairs ("SOFA") states, "[w]ithin 2 years before you filed for bankruptcy, did you sell, trade or otherwise transfer any property to anyone, other than property transferred in the ordinary course of your business or financial affairs?" In his original SOFA [doc. 1], filed on July 10, 2018, and his amended SOFAs [docs. 15 and 26], filed on July 25, 2018 and August 14, 2018, the debtor responded "no" to item 18.

In his Amended Schedule A/B, the debtor represents that, as of the petition date, he had $900 in his bank account. What did the debtor do with the significant proceeds from the sale of the Greenrock Property - which he received two months prior to the petition date?

Undisclosed Interests in Real Property

As discussed in calendar no. 1, the 2018 Tax Return indicates that, in addition to the North Hills Property, the debtor was collecting rents from real properties located at 40536 N 171st East, Lancaster, California (the "Lancaster Property") and 13640 Norris Ave., Sylmar, California (the "Sylmar Property"). However, the Lancaster Property is not listed in the debtor's original schedules and statements [doc. 1] or in the debtor's numerous subsequent amendments [docs. 15, 23, 26 and 28].

In his statement of financial affairs, the debtor identifies the Sylmar Property as the address for his business, Helping Hands Homes. However, the debtor did not include an interest in the Sylmar Property in his Amended Schedule A/B or set forth a lease for the Sylmar Property in his schedule G [doc. 1].

Are there secured creditors holding liens against the Lancaster Property and/or the Sylmar Property which did not receive notice of this chapter 11 case?

On March 18, 2019, a creditor, who was not listed in the debtor's schedules or master mailing list, filed a motion for relief from stay (the "RFS Motion") based on an unlawful detainer action regarding real property located at 13350 Dyer Street, Sylmar, California (the "Dyer Street Property") [doc. 66]. In his chapter 11 petition, the debtor identified the Dyer Street Property as his residence.

On March 27, 2019, the debtor filed an opposition to the RFS Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 68]. In the Opposition, the debtor states that, prepetition, he entered into an agreement to lease the Dyer Street Property for seven years, commencing on June 30, 2018, i.e. ten days prior to filing this chapter 11 case. The debtor did not list this lease agreement in his schedule G [doc. 1] or in any of the numerous amended schedules and statements [docs. 15, 23, 26 and 28].

On June 13, 2019, the Court entered an order granting the RFS Motion [doc. 80]. Since the RFS Motion was granted, the debtor has not filed a notice of change of address. Does the debtor still reside at the Dyer Street Property, and if not, where is the debtor residing?

Incomplete Statement of Financial Affairs

Item 4 of the SOFA states, "[d]id you have any income from employment or from operating a business during this year or the two previous calendar years?" Item 4 explicitly requests that the debtor disclose his or her gross income.

In his original SOFA [doc. 1], filed on July 10, 2018, and his most recently filed SOFA [doc. 26], filed on August 14, 2018, the debtor responded "no" to item 4. As evidenced by his 2017 tax returns [doc. 48] and the 2018 Tax Return, as well as his disclosures in Schedule I, the debtor's response to item 4 is clearly inaccurate.

Engagement of an Accountant without Court Approval

In his October 2019 monthly operating report [doc.122], the debtor listed a $450.00 "personal expense" to "Farzan." According to the fee summary attached to the Tax Return [doc. 119], the debtor engaged Farzan & Farzan AAC for the preparation of his 2018 tax return and paid $450 for this service. The debtor has not obtained Court approval for the employment of any accountant.

#11.00 Order to show cause why debtor's counsel should not be held in civil contempt for failure to comply with court order

Docket 62

Tentative Ruling:

According to the debtor's statement of financial affairs [doc. 9], the debtor paid its counsel, Donna Bullock, $2,500 for services related to this bankruptcy case. On January 24, 2020, the Court entered an order to show cause why Ms. Bullock should not disgorge the $2,500 (the "First OSC") [doc. 52]. Ms. Bullock never responded to the First OSC.

On March 5, 2020, the Court held a hearing on the First OSC. Ms. Bullock did not appear. On March 9, 2020, the Court entered an order requiring Ms. Bullock to disgorge the $2,500 received from the debtor within fourteen days after entry of the order (the "Order") [doc. 60]. Pursuant to the Order, Ms. Bullock was to file a declaration stating that she complied with the Order no later than April 1, 2020. Ms. Bullock did not timely file such a declaration.

On April 3, 2020, the Court entered an order to show cause why Ms. Bullock should not be held in civil contempt for failure to comply with the Order (the "Second OSC") [doc. 62]. Pursuant to the Second OSC, Ms. Bullock was to file and serve on the debtor a response by April 16, 2020.

On April 16, 2020, Ms. Bullock timely filed a declaration in response to the Second OSC (the "Bullock Response") [doc. 65]. On the same day, the debtor's principal filed a declaration in response to the Second OSC (the "Debtor Response") [doc. 66].

In the Bullock Response, Ms. Bullock testifies that she has determined that the debtor never paid her the $2,500 as stated in the debtor's statement of financial affairs or any other amount for legal services in connection with the debtor's bankruptcy case. Ms. Bullock further testifies that she offered $2,500 to the debtor's principal, but he refused to take it because he had not paid Ms. Bullock for any services in connection with this case. Chapter 13

fr. 4/14/20

Docket 67

Tentative Ruling:

Pursuant to the Court's ruling at the prior hearing on April 14, 2020 [doc. 72], the creditor was to file and serve the objection and notice of the continued hearing on the debtor, the debtor's counsel and the chapter 13 trustee. That notice was to indicate that any written response was to be filed and served by May 1, 2020.

On April 17, 2020, the creditor filed a proof of service that represents that she served the objection on the debtor, the debtor's counsel and the chapter 13 trustee [doc. 74]. However, the proof of service does not indicate the address at which she served each party as required by Local Bankruptcy Rule 9013-3(d)(2)(B). Additionally, the proof of service is signed by the creditor, who is a party, and therefore, under Fed. R. Civ. P. 4(c)(2), is not eligible to effectuate service of process. Moreover, the creditor did not serve notice of the continued hearing and the deadline to file a response.

Accordingly, the Court will continue this hearing to June 9, 2020 at 11:00 a.m. By May 12, 2020, the creditor must serve the objection and notice of continued hearing on the debtor, the debtor's attorney and the chapter 13 trustee. The notice must indicate that any written response must be filed and served by June 2, 2020.

The proof of service must indicate the address at which the creditor served each party with the objection and notice of the continued hearing, as required by Local Bankruptcy Rule 9013-3(d)(2)(B). Additionally, the proof of service must be signed by someone over 18 years of age, other than the creditor.

Appearances on May 5, 2020 are excused.

On November 21, 2014, Nabiollah Morovati ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 13 petition. On January 17, 2020, the chapter 13 trustee filed a Notice of Intent to File Trustee's Final Report and Account, Obtain Discharge of Debtor, and Close Case (the "Notice of Intent") [doc. 64]. On January 28, 2020, in response to the Notice of Intent, Sukari Hayes ("Creditor") filed an Objection to the Closing of the Case (the "Objection") [doc. 65].

On February 26, 2020, the Court entered an order setting a hearing on the Objection (the "Order") [doc. 67]. Pursuant to the Order, Creditor was to serve the Objection on Debtor, Debtor's counsel and the chapter 13 trustee no later than March 9, 2020. Creditor did not file proof with the Court that she complied with the Order.

Consequently, the Court will continue this hearing to May 5, 2020 at 11:00 a.m. No later than April 17, 2020, Creditor must file and serve the Objection and notice of the continued hearing on Debtor, Debtor's counsel and the chapter 13 trustee. That notice must indicate that any written response to the Objection must be filed and served by May 1, 2020.

If Creditor does not timely file proof of service in compliance with this ruling, the Court may overrule the Objection at the May 5, 2020 continued hearing.

#1.00 Motion for relief from stay [UD]

SYLMAR PROPERTIES
VS
DEBTOR

fr. 4/8/20

Docket 22

Tentative Ruling:

Grant relief from stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) and (d)(2).

Movant (and any successors or assigns) may proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to obtain possession of the property.

The 14-day stay prescribed by FRBP 4001(a)(3) is waived.

Grant movant's request to annul the automatic stay.

"Many courts have focused on two factors in determining whether cause exists to grant [retroactive] relief from the stay: (1) whether the creditor was aware of the bankruptcy petition; and (2) whether the debtor engaged in unreasonable or inequitable conduct, or prejudice would result to the creditor." In re National Environmental Waste Corp., 129 F.3d 1052, 1055 (9th Cir. 1997). "[T]his court, similar to others, balances the equities in order to determine whether retroactive annulment is justified." Id.

On February 13, 2020, the debtor filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. On February 19, 2020, the movant filed and served an unlawful detainer complaint against the debtor for possession of real property located in Sylmar, California. On April 13, 2020, the movant filed and served the amended motion [doc. 22]. Attached to the amended motion is a declaration by Vince Real, attorney for movant.

Chapter 7

In Mr. Real's declaration, he testifies that he and the movant were unaware of the debtor's chapter 7 bankruptcy case at the time of filing the unlawful detainer complaint [Declaration of Vince Real, ¶ 2]. Mr. Real testifies that he became aware of the debtor's bankruptcy case when he received notice of the 11 U.S.C. § 341(a) meeting of creditors, which was after the unlawful detainer complaint was filed. Id. Accordingly, retroactive relief from the automatic stay is appropriate in this case.

Any other request for relief is denied.

Movant must submit the order within seven (7) days.

Docket 33

Tentative Ruling:

Deny. Movant has not shown sufficient cause under 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) to warrant relief from the automatic stay to proceed with the nonbankruptcy action against the debtor. On March 17, 2020, movant filed an adversary proceeding against the debtor, asserting claims for relief under 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2), (a)(4) and (a)(6). If movant contends that his claims are nondischargeable in nature, this Court may make such a nondischargeability determination within the context of the pending adversary proceeding.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, movant may proceed against the other non-debtor defendants in the nonbankruptcy action.

The debtor must submit the order within seven (7) days.

Docket 13

Tentative Ruling:

Grant relief from stay pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) and (d)(4).

Movant (and any successors or assigns) may proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to foreclose upon and obtain possession of the property.

If recorded in compliance with applicable state laws governing notices of interests or liens in real property, the order is binding in any other case under this title purporting to affect the property filed not later than 2 years after the date of the entry of the order by the court, except that a debtor in a subsequent case under this title may move for relief from the order based upon changed circumstances or for good cause shown, after notice and hearing.

The Court does not make a finding that the debtor was involved in the scheme to hinder, delay or defraud creditors.

The 14-day stay prescribed by FRBP 4001(a)(3) is waived.

Movant must submit the order within seven (7) days.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

On January 28, 2020, the Court entered an order dismissing the debtor's chapter 7 case for failure to file required documents (the "Dismissal Order") [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 107]. The following day, the chapter 7 trustee submitted a no asset report. Subsequently, the debtor's case was closed [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 108]. On March 20, 2020, by request of the debtor, the Court entered an order reopening the debtor's bankruptcy case [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 112]. The debtor has moved to vacate the Dismissal Order [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 117].

Given that the debtor's case has reopened and the chapter 7 trustee apparently has determined that there are no assets to distribute, the Court will not delay prosecution of this matter.

In the latest joint status report [doc. 40], the debtor did not indicate whether she consents to entry of a final judgment by this Court. Given that this is a nondischargeability action under 11 U.S.C. § 523, the Court does not need consent from the parties to enter final judgment. See In re Deitz, 760 F.3d 1038, 1050 (9th Cir. 2014) ("We hold that, even after Stern, the bankruptcy court had the constitutional authority to enter a final judgment determining both the amount of [the plaintiffs'] damage claims against [the debtor], and determining that those claims were excepted from discharge.") In addition, the plaintiff has indicated that it intends to seek a judgment of nondischargeability against the debtor's husband, who is not a debtor before this Court. If the plaintiff elects to proceed with its claim against the nondebtor husband, the plaintiff must file and serve a memorandum of points and authorities explaining why it is legally entitled to a judgment of nondischargeability against a nondebtor individual.

Parties should be prepared to discuss the following:

Deadline for the debtor to file a response to the complaint: 6/5/20

Deadline to complete discovery: 7/15/20.

Deadline to file pretrial motions: 7/31/20.

Deadline to complete and submit pretrial stipulation in accordance with Local Bankruptcy Rule 7016-1: 8/19/20.

Pretrial: 9/9/20 at 1:30 p.m.

In accordance with Local Bankruptcy Rule 7016-1(a)(3), within seven (7) days after this status conference, the plaintiff must submit a Scheduling Order.

If any of these deadlines are not satisfied, the Court will consider imposing sanctions against the party at fault pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule 7016-1(f) and (g).

Docket 28

Tentative Ruling:

Grant in part and deny in part.

I. BACKGROUND

On February 16, 2018, Deborah Lois Adri ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. On April 13, 2018, the Court entered an order approving Robert Yaspan as general bankruptcy counsel as of the petition date [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 53].

A. Relevant Bankruptcy Events

On December 17, 2018, creditor Moshe Adri filed a motion to appoint a chapter 11 trustee (the "Trustee Appointment Motion") [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 216]. On February 7, 2019, the Court held a hearing on the Trustee Appointment Motion. At that time, the Court issued a ruling granting the Trustee Appointment Motion (the "Trustee Ruling") [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 277]. In the Trustee Ruling, the Court stated, in relevant part—

The Court ordered Debtor to file amended monthly operating reports ("MORs") to properly complete certain sections. Debtor did not timely file amended MORs. Throughout January 2019, Debtor filed certain amended and second amended MORs and bank statements. The bank statements were partially redacted. Although Debtor's original MORs included information for her general DIP bank account, a payroll account and a tax account, Debtor's second set of amended MORs added information for a money market account and bank statements related to Debtor's corporation, Gold Girls, Inc. ("Gold Girls").

In addition, Debtor included statements and an accounting for two prepetition personal accounts that Debtor has omitted from her original schedules (the "Omitted Personal Accounts"). These statements reflected that, in January and February 2018, Debtor transferred a significant amount of funds into the Omitted Personal Accounts. The amended MORs also showed that Debtor had been using Gold Girls' account and previously undisclosed accounts to pay her personal living expenses. In addition, Debtor had distributed an unauthorized postpetition loan to Ride on Autos, Inc. ("ROA") in the amount of $22,000.

In her second amended February 2018 MOR, Debtor indicated that the aggregate ending balance in her disclosed accounts was $506,178.73. As of December 31, 2018, Debtor's ending balance had dramatically declined to $12,261.54. Similarly, Gold Girls' account diminished from $125,000 in February 2018 to $10,926.83 in December 2018. Overall, postpetition, Debtor spent $534,279.28.

Debtor did not file amended schedules or an amended Statement of Financial Affairs until after Mr. Adri filed the Trustee Appointment Motion. The amended schedules and statements differed significantly from Debtor's original schedules and statements.

Trustee Ruling, pp. 3-5. On these facts, the Court entered an order directing the appointment of a chapter 11 trustee [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 278]. Subsequently, Elissa Miller was appointed the chapter 11 trustee. On March 6, 2019, Ms. Miller filed a motion to convert Debtor's case to a chapter 7 case (the "Motion to Convert") [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 296]. On April 8, 2019, the Court entered an order converting Debtor's case to a chapter 7 case [Bankruptcy Docket, doc. 305]. Ms. Miller was appointed the chapter 7 trustee (the "Trustee").

B. Relevant Adversary Matters

On October 24, 2019, the Trustee filed a complaint against Mr. Yaspan, initiating this adversary proceeding. By stipulation of the parties, in February 2020, the Trustee filed a first amended complaint (the "FAC") [doc. 25], asserting claims for breach of fiduciary duty and professional negligence against Mr. Yaspan. Aside from incorporating the relevant portions of the Trustee Ruling, above, the Trustee alleges—

In January 2018, Debtor consulted with Mr. Yaspan regarding filing for bankruptcy after Mr. Adri obtained a $1,353,835.48 judgment against Debtor as well as significant debts owed to taxing authorities. Prepetition, Debtor gave Mr. Yaspan a $626,000 check she had received from a family trust (the "Trust"). Mr. Yaspan deposited this check into his firm's client trust account and (A) kept $25,000 as a retainer; (B) transferred $100,000 to Gold Girls, allegedly as working capital despite the fact that Gold Girls had ceased doing business; and (C) wired $501,000 to a DIP account. On the same day, Debtor withdrew $403,345.70 from the DIP account.

Subsequently, Mr. Yaspan and others employed prepared Debtor's schedules and statements without conducting due diligence as to Debtor's assets and liabilities. Mr. Yaspan failed to discuss with Debtor the various implications of filing a chapter 11 case and failed to take into consideration the impact of the timing of the petition on Debtor's tax debt.

Moreover, prepetition, Debtor had a 50% interest in ROA and would buy used automobiles at auction and then consign them to ROA without taking title or having a written agreement with ROA regarding the terms of the consignment. ROA would then sell the vehicles, deduct costs and the commission incurred by ROA and pay the balance to Debtor. Debtor provided in her disclosure statement that she started the business with funds inherited from her parents, i.e., the funds deposited into Mr. Yaspan's trust account.

Postpetition, Debtor continued this business without obtaining approval by the Court and without providing any information regarding Debtor's business plan. Mr. Yaspan failed to take any steps to protect assets of the estate or provide guidance to Debtor regarding her business, such as by advising that Debtor formalize the business relationship through a written agreement. Further, within two years, Debtor received $961,700 in distributions from the Trust. Debtor and Mr. Yaspan failed to disclose these transfers in Debtor's Statement of Financial Affairs, in addition to failing to disclose the Omitted Personal Accounts and Debtor's use of estate accounts for personal expenses.

On September 27, 2018, after Mr. Yaspan filed an application requesting compensation from the estate, the Court entered an order allowing $97,398.85 in fees and expenses and approving payment of 85% of the fees. The Trustee believes Mr. Yaspan was paid an additional $17,000.

As counsel to a chapter 11 debtor in possession, Mr. Yaspan owed fiduciary duties to the estate, which he breached by failing to, among other things, act honestly and with full disclosure regarding Debtor's assets, failing to properly counsel Debtor, failing to act with reasonable diligence, failing to act in the interest of the estate, closing his eyes or being passive to Debtor's conduct, signing Debtor's schedules and statements which were inaccurate, without conducting a reasonable inquiry, and failing to advise Debtor to take preventative or corrective action. As a result, the estate has been damaged in an amount in excess of $900,000.

In addition, Mr. Yaspan breached his duty of care to the estate by filing the petition prior to the expiration of the time the IRS would be entitled to a priority administrative claim and by subjecting Debtor to complaints for nondischargeability. As a result, the estate sustained damages for potentially up to $2 million.

On March 6, 2020, Mr. Yaspan filed a motion to dismiss the FAC (the "Motion") [doc. 28]. In the Motion, Mr. Yaspan contends: (A) the Trustee cannot demonstrate causation of damages; (B) the Trustee lacks standing to sue Mr. Yaspan; (C) public policy bars claims against Mr. Yaspan; and (D) the Trustee's claims are barred by the doctrine of unclean hands. On April 22, 2020, the Trustee opposed the Motion [doc. 32].

Aside from this adversary proceeding, Debtor also filed a complaint against Mr. Yaspan, asserting claims for, among other things, breach of fiduciary duty and professional negligence [1:20-ap-01014-VK]. Debtor's complaint is based on many of the same allegations as the FAC.

In addition, the Trustee has filed a complaint against Debtor, requesting denial of Debtor's discharge pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(2), (a)(3) and (a)(4) (the "Discharge Action"). The Discharge Action remains pending.

II. ANALYSIS

A. General Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 12(b)(6) Standard

A motion to dismiss [pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6)] will only be granted if the complaint fails to allege enough facts to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face. A claim has facial plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged. The plausibility standard is not akin to a probability requirement, but it asks for more than a sheer possibility that a defendant has acted unlawfully.

We accept factual allegations in the complaint as true and construe the pleadings in the light most favorable to the non-moving party. Although factual allegations are taken as true, we do not assume the truth of legal conclusions merely because they are cast in the form of factual allegations. Therefore, conclusory allegations of law and unwarranted inferences are insufficient to defeat a motion to dismiss.

However, without converting the motion to one for summary judgment, exhibits attached to the complaint, as well as matters of public record, may be considered in determining whether dismissal is proper. See Parks School of Business, Inc. v. Symington, 51 F.3d 1480, 1484 (9th Cir. 1995); Mack v. South Bay Beer Distributors, Inc., 798 F.2d 1279, 1282 (9th Cir. 1986).

"A court may [also] consider certain materials—documents attached to the complaint, documents incorporated by reference in the complaint, or matters of judicial notice—without converting the motion to dismiss into a motion for summary judgment." United States v. Ritchie, 342 F.3d 903, 908 (9th Cir. 2003). Under the "incorporation by reference" doctrine, a court may look beyond the four corners of the complaint to take into account documents whose contents are alleged in a complaint, but not physically attached, and may do so without converting a Rule 12(b)(6) motion into a motion for summary judgment. Davis v. HSBC Bank Nevada, N.A., 691 F.3d 1152, 1160 (9th Cir. 2012). The court "may treat the referenced document as part of the complaint, and thus may assume that its contents are true for purposes of a motion to dismiss under Rule 12(b)(6)." Id., quoting *United States v. B. Standing

Mr. Yaspan contends that the Trustee does not have standing to bring her claims against Mr. Yaspan. Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 541(a), the commencement of a bankruptcy case creates an estate comprised of the following property—

- (7) Any interest in property that the estate acquires after the commencement of the case.

*4 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2014) (citing 11 U.S.C. § 554).

In light of these authorities, the Trustee succeeded to Debtor's claims upon conversion of Debtor's case to a chapter 7 case. The breach of fiduciary duty and professional negligence claims arose pre-conversion and, as a result, were property of the estate at the time the Court converted Debtor's case. Because the Trustee has the exclusive right to sue on claims held by the estate, the Trustee has standing to pursue this action.

The cases referenced by Mr. Yaspan are inapposite. First, the California authorities cited by Mr. Yaspan merely hold that an attorney-client relationship "or other basis for a duty of care" must exist to assert a claim for professional negligence. Jager v. County of Alameda, 8 Cal.App.4th 294, 297 (Ct. App. 1992) (emphasis added). Here, the Trustee has alleged bases to assert both her claims, namely, that she succeeded to Debtor's rights upon conversion of this case and that Mr. Yaspan owed a fiduciary duty to the estate as well as Debtor (discussed below). Moreover, even if California law restricted non-client parties from bringing certain claims against attorneys, the Trustee's express right under the Bankruptcy Code to inherit a debtor's causes of action would preempt California law. See Sherwood Partners, Inc. v. Lycos, Inc., 394 F.3d 1198, 1204 (9th Cir. 2005) (holding that the trustee's statutory powers preempts state law that interferes with those powers); and In re Ellwanger, 140 B.R. 891, 900 (Bankr. W.D. Wash. 1992) ("The more fundamental flaw in movants' position is that federal bankruptcy law, rather than assignability or public policy under state law, determines whether the malpractice claims are property of the estate."). As such, the Trustee has standing to prosecute her claims.

C. Whether Mr. Yaspan Owed a Fiduciary Duty to the Estate

Mr. Yaspan asserts that he did not owe any fiduciary duties to the estate. As a preliminary matter, the Trustee may bring a claim for breach of fiduciary duty whether Mr. Yaspan owed that duty to the estate or Debtor. As explained above, the Trustee is the only party with standing to bring any pre-conversion claims held either by Debtor or the estate. Nevertheless, in the FAC, it appears the Trustee is resting her claim for breach of fiduciary duty on duties owed to the estate. If the Trustee intended to base her claim on duties owed to both Debtor and the estate, the Trustee should amend the FAC to split the claim and specify which allegations pertain to a breach as to Debtor versus a breach as to the estate. However, to the extent the Trustee intends to proceed with a breach of fiduciary duty claim as to the estate alone, case law supports the Trustee's position that Mr. Yaspan owed fiduciary duties to the chapter 11 estate.

"According to the majority of courts addressing this issue, an attorney for a debtor in possession is a fiduciary of the bankruptcy estate." In re Count Liberty, LLC, 370 B.R. 259, 280 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2007) (aggregating cases); see also In re Perez, 30 F.3d 1209, 1219 (9th Cir. 1994) ("Counsel for the estate must keep firmly in mind that his client is the estate and not the debtor individually. Counsel has an independent responsibility to determine whether a proposed course of action is likely to benefit the estate or will merely cause delay or produce some other procedural advantage to the debtor."). In Count Liberty, the court, citing numerous authorities from across the country, explored the nature of the duties owed by a chapter 11 debtor in possession's counsel to the estate—

Counsel for a debtor in possession is not simply a mouthpiece for his client. Counsel is charged with the duty to advise the debtor in possession of its responsibilities under the Code, and to assist the debtor in possession, and its principals, in discharging those responsibilities. A debtor in possession's attorney bears a heightened duty of care to ensure the integrity of the bankruptcy process where, by definition, a debtor in possession is not disinterested, and counsel for a debtor in possession must be disinterested, free of any adverse entanglements which could cloud its judgment respecting what is best for the estate.

A debtor in possession's attorney must be proactive, i.e., prepared to render unsolicited legal advice regarding preventative or corrective action that may be necessary for the debtor in possession to properly discharge its fiduciary obligations. The attorney must render candid advice, so the client can make informed decisions regarding the representation. Counsel cannot remain a passive observer, silently sitting by in the face of a client's legally unacceptable decision. Nor can the attorney simply close his eyes to matters that may have an adverse legal consequence to the estate. Zealous representation requires the attorney to initiate advice (1) when the client is unaware of the potentially adverse legal consequences of a proposed course of action, and (2) where the offering of advice would be in the client's best interests. If the attorney and client disagree, counsel must refrain from filing bad faith or frivolous pleadings and ultimately withdraw if the high standard for withdrawal is met.

Count Liberty, LLC, 370 B.R. at 281–83 (internal quotations and citations omitted). [FN1].

In the FAC, the Trustee alleges that Mr. Yaspan breached precisely these types of duties. Mr. Yaspan attempts to distinguish Count Liberty on the basis that, there, the issue arose in connection with the court's review of counsel's entitlement to attorneys' fees. However, the context of the Count Liberty decision is a distinction without a difference; the court never held that parties may only raise breach of fiduciary duty issues in connection with fee applications. In fact, several courts have allowed affirmative claims for breach of fiduciary duty and professional negligence to proceed against counsel for chapter 11 debtors. See, e.g. In re Food Management Group, LLC, 380 B.R. 677, 713 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2008) (rejecting the attorney-defendants' argument that the trustee was limited to pursuing disgorgement instead of initiating an adversary proceeding to bring a claim for, among other things, breach of fiduciary duty); R & R Assocs., 402 F.3d 257 (allowing chapter 7 trustee to bring adversary proceeding against former chapter 11 debtor in possession's counsel for breach of fiduciary duty and negligent representation); and In re Jennings, 378 B.R. 678, 686 (Bankr. M.D. Fla. 2006) (same).

In his reply, Mr. Yaspan emphasizes that such a duty to the estate presents attorneys for debtors in possession with a difficult decision: either breach his duty of confidence to the debtor in possession by alerting the Court of misconduct or breach his duty to the estate by remaining silent. But such a duty has long been part of the bargain between counsel and estate. Congress prescribed certain duties to professionals employed by the estate and gave bankruptcy courts oversight over these professionals' employment and compensation. 11 U.S.C. §§ 327, 330. In return, such professionals receive first priority compensation from the estate. 11 U.S.C. § 507(a)(1).

In fact, courts have explicitly acknowledged the difference between state rules of professional conduct and duties of counsel for debtors in possession. For instance, the Second Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel explained that, "[i]n the nonbankruptcy context, absent ongoing fraud or criminal activity, an attorney's obligation is to advise the client and, if the client disagrees, resign." In re JLM, Inc., 210 B.R. 19, 26 (B.A.P. 2d Cir. 1997). However, the panel's study of several bankruptcy cases painted a different picture—

[T]he attorney for the debtor in possession may not simply resign where the client refuses the attorney's advice concerning the client's fiduciary obligations to the estate and its creditors. Counsel must do more, informing the court in some manner of derogation by the debtor in possession. See ... 1 NORTON BANKR. L. & PRAC.2d § 27:22 & n. 33 (Supp.1997) (citing In re Swansea Consol. Resources, Inc., 155 B.R. 28, 38 n.14 (Bankr.D.R.I.1993) (as an officer of the court, debtor in possession's counsel "had absolutely no choice but to disclose" unauthorized diversion of debtor in possession funds to foreign bank); Agresti v. Rosenkranz (In re United Utensils Corp.), 141 B.R. 306, 309 (Bankr.W.D.Pa.1992) ("If the debtor is not fulfilling its fiduciary duty to the estate, it is the responsibility and duty of debtor's counsel to bring such matters to the attention of the court")); Vining v. Ward (In re Ward), 894 F.2d 771, 776 (5th Cir.1990) (had attorney for the debtor known of existence of an unscheduled judgment against the estate, "as an officer of the court, [the attorney] would certainly have had a duty to inform the court"); In re Rivers, 167 B.R. 288, 300 (Bankr.N.D.Ga.1994); In re Wilde Horse Enterprises, Inc., 136 B.R. at 847 (recognizing that counsel for the debtor in possession faced with management's persistence in breaching fiduciary obligation must alert the court through motion to be relieved as counsel or otherwise).

Id.

Even if Mr. Yaspan believed he could not disclose information to the Court, Mr. Yaspan always had the option of withdrawing as counsel. "Under no circumstances... may the lawyer for a bankruptcy estate pursue a course of action, unless he has determined in good faith and as an exercise of his professional judgment that the course complies with the Bankruptcy Code and serves the best interests of the estate." Perez, 30 F.3d at 1219. Chapter 7

136 B.R. 830, 847 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1991). As outlined by the Wilde Horse court in response to an attorney's comment that there was nothing she could have done to control her client—

The prepetition answer comes from our own Ninth Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel in In re Villa Madrid, 110 B.R. 919 (9th BAP 1990) where the Court said:

"The importunities of a desperate client do not relieve an attorney of the affirmative duty of reasonable inquiry imposed by Rule 9011. The evident warning flags and the inadequate time available to make such inquiry should have impelled [the attorney] to consider the ever-present option of declining a questionable engagement." Id. at p. 924.

The post-petition answer is that on the very first hint or suspicion that the debtor or debtor's principal is not being honest, or is neglecting his/hers/its fiduciary duty to the estate, it is the attorney's duty to first ask probing questions and demand full and reasonably corroborated responses, and then if counsel is still unsatisfied or ethically uncomfortable, immediately bring the unresolved concerns to the Court's attention by way of a motion to be relieved as counsel of record or in some other way. The wholly unacceptable response is to do nothing and continue in the engagement "looking the other way". Counsel does so at his or her personal and professional peril.

Id. (emphases in Wilde Horse).

In light of this ample authority, Mr. Yaspan had a fiduciary duty to the estate. In the FAC, the Trustee explicitly alleges which duties she believes Mr. Yaspan breached. As a result, the FAC includes adequate allegations regarding breach of duties owed to the estate.

D. Damages for Breach of Fiduciary Duty

To establish a claim for breach of fiduciary duty, a plaintiff must show "the existence of a fiduciary relationship, breach of that duty and damages." Shopoff & Cavallo LLP v. Hyon, 167 Cal.App.4th 1489, 1509 (Ct. App. 2008).

Mr. Yaspan contends that the Trustee's alleged damages are speculative and that the Trustee has failed to allege how Mr. Yaspan's alleged conduct proximately caused the damages. In support, Mr. Yaspan cites Campbell v. Magana, 184 Cal.App.2d 751 (Ct. App. 1960) and Namikas v. Miller, 225 Cal.App.4th 1574 (Ct. App. 2014). In Campbell, the appellate court affirmed the trial court's judgment that, although the attorneys had negligently handled the client's case, the client did not suffer any damages because her case had no merit. Campbell, 184 Cal.App.2d at 763. The client attempted to argue that, even if she could not have won at trial, she should be able to recover the settlement value of her claim. Id., at 757-58. The appellate court rejected this notion, holding that any possibility of settlement "fell in the category of speculation, conjecture and contingency." Id., at 758.

In Namikas, the plaintiff sued his attorney for negligently recommending entry into a marital settlement agreement; the agreement based spousal support payments on a calculation by a software program called DissoMaster. Namikas, 225 Cal.App. at 1579-80. Years later, the court modified the amount of spousal support after the plaintiff's new attorney argued that spousal support should be calculated using a forensic marital standard of living analysis. Id., at 1579.

In this context, the appellate court affirmed the trial court's judgment in favor of the attorneys, holding that the plaintiff had failed to demonstrate whether he would have received a more favorable outcome absent his attorney's alleged negligence. Id., at 1580. The appellate court highlighted that the plaintiff had not submitted evidence that his ex-wife would have accepted lower spousal support payments or that, in return for a lower spousal support payment, the ex-wife would not have demanded a larger property settlement or payment of her attorneys' fees. Id., at 1583-87. The appellate court also noted that damages are particularly difficult to show in cases involving settlement because such damages are "inherently speculative" and often based on "an educated guess." Id., at 1582-83.

These cases are a far cry from the allegations in the FAC. In Campbell and Namikas, the courts were asked to engage in conjecture regarding the amount of a possible settlement the plaintiffs may have received. The Court need not engage in any such speculation here. The Trustee's allegations draw a clear line from Mr. Yaspan's alleged conduct to a specific amount of damages, i.e., the amount depleted from the estate. Moreover, in contrast to the intense evidentiary burden in Namikas, the alleged damages here are based on easily verifiable sources, such as Debtor's bank statements. Finally, the facts in Campbell and Namikas are completely distinguishable from the allegations in the FAC. Mr. Yaspan has not explained how cases about the speculative valuation of settlements relate to a bankruptcy case where damages are based on transfer of estate property. Simply put, there are no useful parallels between these cases and this adversary proceeding.

Mr. Yaspan also asserts that there are no damages because the Trustee has sued to deny Debtor her discharge and, as a result, creditors will not be damaged. Notwithstanding the fact that the Court has not adjudicated Debtor's entitlement to a discharge, the relevant issue is whether the estate (or Debtor, if the claim is a prepetition claim inherited from Debtor) has been damaged. There is likely no clearer damage to the estate than depletion of assets. Whether creditors have incurred damages as a result is not relevant to the claims before the Court. [FN2].

Finally, Mr. Yaspan contends that the Trustee must establish that Debtor would not have transferred estate assets but for Mr. Yaspan's conduct. However, the Trustee's allegations are not exclusively based on Mr. Yaspan's failure to advise Debtor. The Trustee also alleges that Mr. Yaspan failed to investigate Debtor's financial affairs, failed to complete Debtor's schedules and statements accurately and failed to bring light to Debtor's improper transfers of estate assets. These allegations do not depend on Debtor's cooperation with Mr. Yaspan. Taking the allegations as a whole, the Trustee has provided a link between Mr. Yaspan's overall conduct and the damage incurred by the estate. The Court will not dismiss the Trustee's claim for breach of fiduciary duty.

E. Damages for Professional Negligence

With respect to professional negligence, the plaintiff must demonstrate "(1) the duty of the attorney to use such skill, prudence, and diligence as members of his or her profession commonly possess and exercise; (2) a breach of that duty; (3) a proximate causal connection between the breach and the resulting injury; and (4) actual loss or damage resulting from the attorney's negligence." Namikas, 225 Cal.App.4th at 1581.

Mr. Yaspan again asserts that the Trustee's damages are too speculative, citing Orrick Herrington & Sutcliffe v. Superior Court, 107 Cal.App.4th 1052 (Ct. App. 2003) and Shopoff, 165 Cal.App.4th 1489. In Orrick, the client sued his former attorneys for failing to advise him of potential consequences of the marital settlement agreement the client signed, such as possibly exposing the client to tax and securities liability as well as litigation from his ex-wife and current wife. Orrick, 107 Cal.App.4th at 1055. Prior to suing his attorneys, the client had expended significant resources attempting to undo the marital settlement agreement and overturn the judgment of dissolution adopting the marital settlement agreement. Id. The appellate court held that the client had not established damages because—

The undisputed facts, however, show neither his ex-wife nor his current wife, nor the taxing authorities nor the securities regulators have made any claims against [the client]. Nothing compelled [the client] to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars in his futile attempt to overturn the settlement.

Id., at 1060.

Here, unlike Orrick, the tax consequences alleged by the Trustee are not speculative. The IRS has filed a proof of claim in the amount of $634,733.87 against the estate, and indicated that $510,740.42 of the claim is entitled to priority treatment. The impact of such priority treatment is that Debtor cannot receive a discharge of the IRS's priority claim and nonpriority unsecured creditors will receive less because of the priority claim. The active assertion of a claim against the estate is distinguishable from a case where the court based its opinion, in part, on the fact that the relevant taxing authorities had not made any claims against the client. In addition, Mr. Yaspan contends that Debtor did not suffer damages because her bankruptcy filing prevented entry of a larger judgment based on an arbitration award. Mr. Yaspan will have an opportunity to provide such a defense when the Court weighs facts and takes evidence. At this pleading stage, the Trustee has provided adequate allegations regarding damages based on the timing of the petition.

Next, Mr. Yaspan, referencing Shopoff, asserts that the Trustee cannot rely on the Discharge Action as a basis for her professional negligence claim. The Court agrees.

In Shopoff, a client hired an attorney to represent him in a legal action regarding the client's business. Shopoff, 167 Cal.App.4th at 1498-1500. After obtaining a judgment for the client that was difficult to enforce, the attorney negotiated a global settlement of the action. Id., at 1499. The settlement resulted in an interpleader action to liquidate the business's assets. Id., at 1501. While the interpleader action was pending, the client sued his attorney for legal malpractice and breach of fiduciary duty, asserting that the attorney induced the client into agreeing to the settlement that led to less recovery than enforcing the judgment. Id., at 1509-10. The Shopoff court held that the damages were too speculative because the interpleader action was still pending and it was not yet clear whether the client would receive less through the liquidation. Id., at 1510-11.

Similarly, here, the Discharge Action is still pending. Because the Court has not adjudicated Debtor's entitlement to a discharge, it is not clear that Debtor will lose her discharge as a consequence of Mr. Yaspan's alleged conduct. Unlike the Trustee's allegations regarding the IRS's priority claim against the estate, which ripened before the Trustee initiated this adversary proceeding, the damages related to Debtor's potential loss of discharge are speculative.

The Trustee's reference to Helbling v. Josselson, 378 B.R. 550 (Bankr. N.D. Ohio 2007), is not persuasive. There, the chapter 7 trustee did not initiate an adversary proceeding against the debtor's attorney until after the debtor's discharge was revoked. Helbling, 378 B.R. at 552. Moreover, in Helbling, the issue of whether damages were speculative was not before the court; the court considered the issue of postpetition damages in the context of determining whether the professional negligence claim was property of the estate (holding that it was). Id., at 555-56. As such, Helbling does not contradict the holding of Shopoff.

Consequently, the Court will dismiss the professional negligence claim based on Debtor's potential loss of her discharge without prejudice, and will not dismiss the professional negligence claim based on the tax consequences incurred as a result of the timing of Debtor's bankruptcy filing.

Chapter 7

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Evidence 501, "[i]n a civil case, state law governs privilege regarding a claim or defense for which state law supplies the rule of decision." As such, the Court must apply California law on privilege. Under California Evidence Code § 954—

[T]he client, whether or not a party, has a privilege to refuse to disclose, and to prevent another from disclosing, a confidential communication between client and lawyer if the privilege is claimed by:

- (a) The holder of the privilege;
- (b) A person who is authorized to claim the privilege by the holder of the privilege; or
- (c) The person who was the lawyer at the time of the communication, but such person may not claim the privilege if there is no holder of the privilege in existence or if he is otherwise instructed by a person authorized to permit disclosure.

California's Evidence Code provides exceptions to the attorney-client privilege. Cal. Evid. Code §§ 956-962. For instance, pursuant to California Evidence Code § 958, "[t]here is no privilege under this article as to a communication relevant to an issue of breach, by the lawyer or by the client, of a duty arising out of the lawyer-client relationship." In addition, under California Evidence Code § 912(a)—

Except as otherwise provided in this section, the right of any person to claim a privilege provided by Section 954 (lawyer-client privilege)... is waived with respect to a communication protected by the privilege if any holder of the privilege, without coercion, has disclosed a significant part of the communication or has consented to disclosure made by anyone. Consent to disclosure is manifested by any statement or other conduct of the holder of the privilege indicating consent to the disclosure, including failure to claim the privilege in any proceeding in which the holder has legal standing and the opportunity to claim the privilege.

"The party claiming the [attorney-client] privilege has the burden of establishing the preliminary facts necessary to support its exercise, i.e., a communication made in the course of an attorney-client relationship." Costco Wholesale Corp. v. Superior Court, 47 Cal.4th 725, 733 (2009). [FN3].

Mr. Yaspan argues that public policy should bar this lawsuit because the Trustee's claims require an investigation of communications between Mr. Yaspan and Debtor, and Mr. Yaspan is unable to waive the attorney-client privilege. This argument is premature. At this stage, the Court is evaluating the adequacy of the Trustee's allegations. The Court is not ruling on the admissibility of evidence. [FN4].

The Court will assess the applicability of the attorney-client privilege if there is an actual controversy over disclosure of privileged information. Should the issue arise, the parties should be prepared to discuss why Debtor has not waived the privilege by suing Mr. Yaspan on the same bases as the Trustee. Debtor also may explicitly consent to disclosure. In any event, the Court is confined to adjudicating live cases or controversies, U.S. CONST. art. III, § 2, cl. 1, and cannot generate predictive rulings based on speculative evidentiary issues that may not materialize.

G. Unclean Hands/In Pari Delicto

Finally, Mr. Yaspan argues that the unclean hands doctrine bars the Trustee's lawsuit against Mr. Yaspan. According to Mr. Yaspan, the allegations in the FAC implicate Debtor and, as a party standing in Debtor's shoes, the Trustee also is subject to a defense of unclean hands.

The doctrine of unclean hands "demands that a plaintiff act fairly in the matter for which he seeks a remedy." Kendall-Jackson Winery, Ltd. v. Superior Court, 76 Cal.App.4th 970, 978 (Ct. App. 1999). "Whether the doctrine of unclean hands applies is a question of fact." Id.

Not every wrongful act constitutes unclean hands. But, the misconduct need not be a crime or an actionable tort. Any conduct that violates conscience, or good faith, or other equitable standards of conduct is sufficient cause to invoke the doctrine.

Chapter 7

The misconduct that brings the unclean hands doctrine into play must relate directly to the cause at issue. Past improper conduct or prior misconduct that only indirectly affects the problem before the court does not suffice. The determination of the unclean hands defense cannot be distorted into a proceeding to try the general morals of the parties.

Id., at 979. "[T]here must be a direct relationship between the misconduct and the claimed injuries." Mattco Forge, Inc. v. Arthur Young & Co., 52 Cal.App.4th 820, 846 (Ct. App. 1997).

First, Mr. Yaspan appears to contend that the unclean hands doctrine bars the Trustee's professional negligence claim. Although the doctrine may apply to some of the allegations that form the bases of the professional negligence claim, the doctrine does not apply to Mr. Yaspan's legal advice regarding the timing of Debtor's petition and the related tax consequences. In other words, there is no connection between Debtor's alleged unclean hands and receipt of tax advice from Mr. Yaspan.

As to the remaining allegations, the issue is whether the Trustee inherits Debtor's alleged bad acts such that Mr. Yaspan may use unclean hands as a shield. The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has not directly addressed this issue. See In re Mortg. Fund '08 LLC, 527 B.R. 351, 366 (N.D. Cal. 2015) (noting lack of authority from the Court of Appeals). Yet, "every circuit to have considered the question has held that a defendant 'sued by a trustee in bankruptcy may assert the defense of in pari delicto, if the jurisdiction whose law creates the claim permits such a defense outside of bankruptcy.'" Id. (quoting Peterson v. McGladrey & Pullen, LLP, 676 F.3d 594, 598-99 (7th Cir. 2012)).

Generally, "when a trustee asserts a claim on behalf of a debtor, the trustee proceeds under 11 U.S.C. § 541(a)(1), which defines the property of the estate as 'all legal or equitable interests of the debtor in property as of the commencement of the case.'" In re Crown Vantage, Inc., 2003 WL 25257821, at *6 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2003). As such, courts that assessed the issue have determined that § 541(a) "establishes the estate's rights as no stronger than they were when actually held by the debtor," and thus in pari delicto, or any other defense available against the debtor, can be asserted against the trustee." Id. (quoting In re Hedged-Investments Associates, Inc., 84 F.3d 1281,

However, these authorities pertain to prepetition causes of action. Courts have reached the opposite result where the alleged conduct occurred postpetition. As noted by one local court, "[n]umerous courts have held that the in pari delicto defense is available only with respect to conduct that occurred pre-petition." Roussos, 2016 WL 5349717 at *11 (collecting cases).

Although these cases draw a line between prepetition and postpetition conduct, the heart of the issue is not so much about timing than a debtor in possession's roles pre- and post-petition.

[U]pon the filing of her chapter 11 petition, the Debtor wore two hats, that of the debtor and that of the debtor-in-possession. On the petition date, the Properties became property of the estate, and the Debtor personally lost all legal and equitable interest in them. The Debtor became the fiduciary of the estate and was obligated to act in the interests of the creditors. The Debtor, however, also existed—to use that term—in her personal capacity and separate from her status as debtor-in-possession.

In re Hoang, 449 B.R. 850, 856–57 (Bankr. D. Md. 2011) (internal citation omitted). Thus, although a "trustee acquires prepetition claims as property of the estate... subject to whatever infirmities (such as an in pari delicto defense) that may have existed," the "post-petition conduct of the Debtors' principals, attorneys and other third-parties" that give rise to claims for harm to the estate are not imputed to the trustee. Food Mgmt. Grp., 380 B.R. at 693-94.

Hoang is particularly analogous to the case here. There, the trustee alleged that a debtor used an escrow company and an attorney to carry out a "massive asset-concealment scheme." Hoang, 449 B.R. at 852. Among other conduct, the debtor was accused of using the attorney's trust account as a "private bank account" exclusively for her benefit. Id. Subsequently, the debtor filed a chapter 11 petition. Id. The trustee alleged that the debtor continued her asset-concealment scheme by: (A) failing to disclose assets in her schedules and statements; (B) selling undisclosed assets during the pendency of her case without approval by the bankruptcy court; (C) failing to account for the sale proceeds in her debtor in possession account; (D) with the aid of the escrow company and her attorney, creating postpetition sham entities to hide the sale proceeds; and (E) parking proceeds in her attorney's trust account under different identities. Id., at 852-54.

The trustee sued the attorney and the escrow company. Id., at 852. The defendants attempted to use in pari delicto as a defense, on the basis that the allegations heavily implicated Debtor in the concealment scheme. Id., at 854. The bankruptcy court acknowledged that "the application of in pari delicto doctrine to claims by a bankruptcy trustee grounded in a debtor's pre-petition activities seems fairly well settled." Id., at 855. However, the court reasoned that the allegations did not compel imputation of the debtor's actions to the chapter 7 trustee—

As noted above, upon the filing of her chapter 11 petition, the Debtor wore two hats, that of the debtor and that of the debtor-in-possession. The complaint does not allege that the Debtor committed the asset-concealment scheme in the course of her service as debtor-in-possession. To the contrary, the Complaint alleges that Debtor acted wholly outside the scope of that role and strictly in her personal capacity by concealing her ownership and sale of the properties and secreting the sales proceeds through undisclosed bank accounts.

The Debtor also is alleged to have done so for her personal benefit and not for the benefit of the estate. The Debtor did not disclose her ownership interest in the Properties on her bankruptcy Schedules, did not obtain court approval for their sale and did not transfer the sale proceeds into any debtor-in-possession bank accounts or otherwise disclose the sales in the bankruptcy case.

Id., at 858.

Similarly, here, upon the filing of her chapter 11 petition, Debtor wore two hats: one as a fiduciary to the estate and another in her personal capacity. As in Hoang, Debtor's alleged postpetition actions that were adverse to the estate were presumed to have been done in her personal capacity. As such, the Trustee does not shoulder the burden of defenses arising from Debtor's postpetition conduct. Consequently, the doctrine of unclean hands does not apply to the Trustee's postpetition allegations.

As to the prepetition allegations, the doctrine of unclean hands will apply as a defense. However, the determination is premature. The Court has yet to weigh any evidence with respect to this adversary proceeding or the Discharge Action. If Debtor is proven culpable, the unclean hands doctrine may apply to bar claims against Mr. Yaspan that are based on prepetition conduct.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will grant the Motion, without prejudice, as to the professional negligence claim based on the Discharge Action. The Court otherwise will deny the Motion.

The Trustee must submit an order within seven (7) days.

1. Mr. Yaspan's citation to In re SIDCO, Inc., 173 B.R. 194 (E.D. Cal. 1994), is unpersuasive. There, the court merely held that attorneys for debtors in possession do not owe fiduciary duties to creditors or shareholders. SIDCO, 173 B.R. at 196-97. The Trustee is not arguing that Mr. Yaspan owes any duties to creditors.
2. To the extent Mr. Yaspan argues that the Trustee is limited to requesting disgorgement as damages, he has provided no authority setting forth such a holding; in fact, as noted by one court in the face of a similar argument: "The... Defendants have offered no authority – and the Court is aware of none – for the proposition they espouse limiting the Trustee to fee disgorgement if the Trustee can establish liability for breach of fiduciary duty and damages in a larger amount." Food Mgmt., 380 B.R. at 713.
3. Courts disagree as to whether a chapter 7 trustee inherits an individual debtor's right to waive the attorney-client privilege. Compare In re Ginzburg, 517 B.R. 175, 182 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2014); with In re Eddy, 304 B.R. 591, 599–600 (Bankr. D. Mass. 2004). Because this issue is not properly before the Court, and may not need to be if Debtor herself waives the privilege, the Court will not rule on this issue at this time.

4. Mr. Yaspan's reference to Solin v. O'Melveny & Myers, LLP, 89 Cal.App.4th 451 (Ct. App. 2001), does not compel a different result. There, the court dismissed an action when the non-party clients intervened to request dismissal based on the attorney-client privilege. Solin, 89 Cal.App.4th at 456. In addition, the clients' request came after the parties were engaged in discovery, and it became evident that privileged information would be necessary. Here, Debtor has not intervened to assert her privilege, and this matter is at the pleading stage.

Adv#: 1:20-01010 Ace Industrial Supply, Inc. v. Travers

#26.00 Amended motion to dismiss adversary complaint under FRCP 12(B)(6)

Docket 7

Tentative Ruling:

For the reasons discussed below, the Court will grant the motion in part, and deny the motion in part.

I. BACKGROUND

On October 23, 2019, John Stephen Travers ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition, initiating bankruptcy case 1:19-bk-12677-VK. On his petition, Debtor listed the following dbas: Toolmaster Industrial Support, Inc., Toolmasters Industrial Supply, Inc. and Travco Tools, Inc.

On January 30, 2020, Ace Industrial Supply, Inc. ("Plaintiff") filed a complaint against Debtor and Tool Masters (the "Complaint"), seeking nondischargeability of the debt owed to it pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2), (a)(4) and (a)(6). The Complaint also seeks a permanent injunction against Debtor and Tool Masters. In relevant part, the Complaint makes the following allegations:

Plaintiff had approximately 150 sales representatives employed by it for telemarketing sales of industrial tools and equipment. Jasper Pantaleon is a former sales representative of Plaintiff.

Debtor is the chief executive officer, secretary and chief financial officer of Toolmasters Industrial Supply, Inc. ("Toolmasters"). Tool Masters is an unincorporated business entity of Debtor. Debtor and Tool Masters are competitors of Plaintiff.

Mr. Pantaleon sold paper copies and electronic versions of Plaintiff's customer account information to Debtor, who purchased the information using cash, MoneyGrams and checks. The account information for each customer includes the name of Plaintiff's customer, the customer's contact information, the person to contact and specific sales of industrial tools and equipment previously sold by Plaintiff, including the date, quantity and price.

From September 2018 to present, Debtor provided Plaintiff's customer account information to his own salespersons to call Plaintiff's clients and solicit their business [Exh. E, Declaration of Justin Lehman, employee of Toolmasters]. Based on the account information, Debtor knew who to call and when Plaintiff's customers may need to reorder industrial tools and equipment. Debtor made these calls in a manner so that Plaintiff's customers would not realize they were being contacted by a company other than Plaintiff [Exh. C, Declaration of Priscilla Schlauch, one of Plaintiff's customers].

Additionally, Mr. Pantaleon funneled Plaintiff's orders to Debtor to fulfill for Plaintiff's customers and get paid by Plaintiff's customers. In doing these activities, Mr. Pantaleon breached his written employment agreement with Plaintiff to keep confidential Plaintiff's trade secret information [Exh. D, Declaration of Larry G. Lawrence, the general manager of Plaintiff].

The information about Plaintiff's account information is not public information and is only known to Plaintiff. The account information is confidential, proprietary and trade secret information of Plaintiff. Debtor was fully aware of the confidential, proprietary and trade secret nature of Plaintiff's customer account information.

Debtor has wrongfully solicited and made sales using stolen confidential and proprietary Plaintiff customer account information obtained improperly and unlawfully from Plaintiff. The misappropriation and use of Plaintiff's trade secret information was done intentionally by Debtor in contravention of the law. Debtor was aware, prior to him being provided with Plaintiff's account information, that Plaintiff had agreements with its sales representatives confirming, in writing, that the customer account information was confidential and proprietary trade secret information of Plaintiff.

Plaintiff has suffered actual losses consisting of sales made by Debtor to Plaintiff's customers. Debtor used Plaintiff's trade secret information of its customer accounts to solicit Plaintiff's customers, make sales to them and switch the customers to buy from Debtor rather than Plaintiff. But for the use of the stolen account information, the sales made by Debtor would not have occurred.

In October 2018, Plaintiff became aware of Debtor's wrongful taking, purchase and theft of Plaintiff's customer account information. Plaintiff sent detailed, written cease and desist letters to Debtor. Even after those letters, Debtor continued to sell, purchase and use Plaintiff's trade secret information about its customers.

On December 14, 2018, Plaintiff filed a complaint in the Superior Court of California, County of Los Angeles, against Debtor, Toolmasters, Tool Masters and Mr. Pantaleon alleging misappropriation of trade secrets in violation of Cal. Civ. Code § 3426, et seq., breach of duty of loyalty/violation of California Labor Code § 2863 and breach of contract (the "State Court Complaint") [Exh. A].

The State Court Complaint is based on Plaintiff's allegations that Debtor and Mr. Pantaleon willfully misappropriated and used Plaintiff's customer account information. On January 9, 2019, the state court issued a preliminary injunction against Debtor, Toolmasters and Tool Masters [Exh. B].

Attached to the Complaint is the verified State Court Complaint [Exh. A], the preliminary injunction issued by the state court [Exh. B], a declaration by Priscialla Schlauch [Exh. C], a declaration by Larry G. Lawrence [Exh. D] and a declaration by Justin Lehmann [Exh. E].

The allegations in the State Court Complaint mirror the allegations in the Complaint. Attached to the State Court Complaint is Mr. Pantaleon's signed confidentiality agreement with Plaintiff.

Chapter 7

The preliminary injunction enjoins Debtor, Toolmasters and Tool Masters, during the pendency of the state court action, from using, disclosing, copying, transmitting or transferring to any third party any confidential and proprietary customer account information of Plaintiff and from representing to customers or potential customers that they are Plaintiff when attempting to make sales. Additionally, the preliminary injunction orders Debtor, Toolmasters and Tool Masters to return to Plaintiff any of the confidential information in their custody, possession or control.

Ms. Schlauch is one of Plaintiff's customers. In her declaration, Ms. Schlauch testifies in relevant part:

On November 26, 2018, Mark, their regular sales representative at Plaintiff, called Ms. Schlauch and her partner and asked from them to call him back to see if they wanted to order anything from Plaintiff. ¶ 3. On December 3, 2018, Ms. Schlauch and her partner received a call from a person they assumed was Mark, asking if they wanted to order any new tools and supplies. ¶ 4. The person did not identify himself by name. Id. During the call, Ms. Schlauch's partner asked a question about a prior employee of Plaintiff, to which the person on the phone said that he was no longer working at Plaintiff. Id. Ms. Schlauch placed an order with the person on the phone for $400 and gave him a credit card number. Id. The person on the phone stated that he was familiar with her account and that this is not the largest order that they had made in the past. Id. At no time did the person on the phone tell Ms. Schlauch and her partner that he was not calling from Plaintiff. Id.

The next day, Ms. Schlauch and her partner received a call from Mark. ¶ 5. Ms. Schlauch and her partner told Mark that they had already placed an order with him. Id. Mark informed them that he was unaware of any such order and that he had not called them the day before. Id. Ms. Schlauch went online to check her credit card statement to see if there was a charge for the sale. Id. There was a charge on her credit card from "Toolmaster" in California. Id.

Lawrence details how Plaintiff guards its customer account information to keep it confidential, including that Plaintiff requires its employees to sign an agreement to protect the confidential information, as well as in Plaintiff's employment handbook. Mr. Lawrence testifies that Plaintiff's customer information is not in any public domain and is not available to any of its competitors. ¶ 6. Mr. Lawrence also testifies that Mr. Pantaleon worked for Plaintiff, that Mr. Pantaleon signed the confidentiality agreement and received a copy of the employee handbook. ¶¶ 11-19. Mr. Lawrence testifies that he was told by a former employee that Mr. Pantaleon was selling Plaintiff's customer account information to Debtor. ¶ 20.

Mr. Lehmann currently is employed by Toolmasters and was formerly employed by Plaintiff. In his declaration, Mr. Lehmann testifies in relevant part:

On September 11, 2018, Mr. Lehmann became aware that Debtor and Toolmasters were using printouts of Plaintiff's customer account information. ¶ 8. The printouts were being used by the sales representatives to call Plaintiff's customers. Id. These printouts were the only leads being given by Toolmasters to its telemarketers to make sales calls. Id. The printouts were on the telemarketers' desks each day. Id. Mr. Lehmann was given the printouts by Debtor. ¶ 13.

The printouts of Plaintiff's customer account information were referred to by Debtor and others at Toolmasters as "Ace House Paper." Id. On several occasions, Debtor told Mr. Lehmann that he was buying a lot of Ace House Paper and that he had a lot of Ace House Paper for use at Toolmasters. Id. On September 11, 2018, Mr. Lehmann's first day at Toolmasters, Debtor told him that "[y]ou are not going to worry about accounts for a long time. You will not have to split any accounts. I have a lot of Ace House Paper." ¶ 10. On September 18 or 19, 2018, Debtor told Mr. Lehmann that he has "bought a large amount of Ace House Paper" and had "paid a bunch of money for them." ¶ 17.

When Mr. Lehmann began working at Toolmasters in September 2018, Toolmasters employed six pro salespersons and two "green peas," which are new hires who have not yet demonstrated that they have adequate sales skills to be employed as a "pro" salesperson. ¶ 12. By December 16, 2018, because of the increased sales, Toolmasters employed eight pro salespersons and four green peas. ¶ 19.

Mr. Lehmann thought that the use of Plaintiff's customer account information was fundamentally wrong, so he decided to contact the owner of Plaintiff and let him know that the information had been stolen and was being used by Toolmasters to sell to Plaintiff's customers. ¶ 9.

On March 2, 2020, Debtor filed an amended motion to dismiss the Complaint (the "Motion") [doc. 7]. In the Motion, Debtor argues that the Complaint fails to state a claim under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6). On April 22, 2020, Plaintiff filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 17]. To the Opposition, Plaintiff attached a declaration by Mr. Pantaleon. On April 29, 2020, Debtor filed a reply to the Opposition and a request to strike Mr. Pantaleon's declaration [doc. 18].

II. ANALYSIS

A. General Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 12(b)(6) Standard

A motion to dismiss [pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6)] will only be granted if the complaint fails to allege enough facts to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face. A claim has facial plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged. The plausibility standard is not akin to a probability requirement, but it asks for more than a sheer possibility that a defendant has acted unlawfully.

We accept factual allegations in the complaint as true and construe the pleadings in the light most favorable to the non-moving party. Although factual allegations are taken as true, we do not assume the truth of legal conclusions merely because they are cast in the form of factual allegations. Therefore, conclusory allegations of law and unwarranted inferences are insufficient to defeat a motion to dismiss.

Fayer v. Vaughn, 649 F.3d 1061, 1064 (9th Cir. 2011) (internal quotation marks omitted) (citing, inter alia, Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 547, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 167 L.Ed. 2d 929 (2007); Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678, 129 S.Ct. 1937, 173 L.Ed. 2d 868 (2009)). "Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8(a)(2) requires only 'a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief,' in order to 'give the defendant fair notice of what the . . . claim is and the grounds upon which it rests.'" Twombly, 550 U.S. at 555 (citations omitted). "[F]acts must be alleged to sufficiently apprise the defendant of the complaint against him." Kubick v. Fed. Dep. Ins. Corp. (In re Kubick), 171 B.R. 658, 660 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1994).

In evaluating a Rule 12(b)(6) motion, review is "limited to the contents of the complaint." Clegg v. Cult Awareness Network, 18 F.3d 752, 754 (9th Cir. 1994). However, without converting the motion to one for summary judgment, exhibits attached to the complaint, as well as matters of public record, may be considered in determining whether dismissal is proper. See Parks School of Business, Inc. v. Symington, 51 F.3d 1480, 1484 (9th Cir. 1995); Mack v. South Bay Beer Distributors, Inc., 798 F.2d 1279, 1282 (9th Cir. 1986). Further, a court may consider evidence "on which the complaint necessarily relies if: (1) the complaint refers to the document; (2) the document is central to the plaintiff's claim; and (3) no party questions the authenticity of the copy attached to the [Rule] 12(b)(6) motion." Marder v. Lopez, 450 F.3d 445, 448 (9th Cir. 2006) (internal quotation marks omitted). "The court may treat such a document as part of the complaint, and thus may assume that its contents are true for purposes of a motion to dismiss under Rule 12(b)(6)." Id. (internal quotation marks omitted).

"A complaint that merely recites statutory language fails to state a claim under Rule 12(b)(6)." In re Kubick, 171 B.R. 658, 660 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1994). This is because "mere statutory language does not plead facts sufficiently so that they may be answered or denied." Id. "[F]acts must be alleged to sufficiently apprise the defendant of the complaint against him." Id.

Pursuant to Rule 9(b), "[i]n alleging fraud or mistake, a party must state with particularity the circumstances constituting fraud or mistake. Malice, intent, knowledge, and other conditions of a person's mind may be alleged generally."

Allegations must be "specific enough to give defendants notice of the particular misconduct which is alleged to constitute the fraud charged...." Neubronner v. Milken, 6 F.3d 666, 671 (9th Cir. 1993). "[M]ere conclusory allegations of fraud are insufficient." Moore v. Kayport Package Exp., Inc., 885 F.2d 531, 540 (9th Cir. 1989).

Dismissal without leave to amend is appropriate when the court is satisfied that the deficiencies in the complaint could not possibly be cured by amendment. Jackson v. Carey, 353 F.3d 750, 758 (9th Cir. 2003); Lopez v. Smith, 203 F.3d 1122, 1127 (9th Cir. 2000).

B. Mr. Pantaleon's Declaration

To the Opposition, Plaintiff attached a declaration by Mr. Pantaleon. Generally, when ruling on a Rule 12(b)(6) motion, the court cannot consider "new" facts alleged in plaintiff's opposition papers. See Schneider v. California Dept. of Corrections, 151 F.3d 1194, 1197 (9th Cir. 1998). On the other hand, the court should consider the "new" facts in plaintiff's opposition papers when deciding whether to grant leave to amend or to dismiss with or without prejudice. See Orion Tire Corp. v. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Inc., 268 F.3d 1133, 1137-38 (9th Cir. 2001). Accordingly, the Court will not consider Mr. Pantaleon's declaration, except in the context of whether to grant leave to amend or to dismiss with prejudice.

C. Allegations Under 11 U.S.C. § 523

In the opposition, Plaintiff seems to argue that because it has sufficiently alleged that Debtor violated the California Uniform Trade Secrets Act ("CUTSA"), those allegations are sufficient for alleging nondischargeability under § 523. Plaintiff cites to several cases in which the bankruptcy court, applying the doctrine of collateral estoppel, determined that a prepetition state court judgment based on violation of the state's trade secret act was nondischargeable. See, e.g., In re Shahverdi, No. ADV 09-0119-MT, 2013 WL 2466862 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. June 7, 2013), In re Frye, No. ADV.LA 07-01150-BB, 2008 WL 8444822 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. Aug. 19, 2008), In re Lopez, 367 B.R. 99 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2007), In re Jonatzke, 478 B.R. 846 (Bankr. E.D. Mich. 2012) and In re Brown, 237 B.R. 740 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1999).

However, what those cases demonstrate, and in particular Shahverdi, is that although a judgment based on a debtor's misappropriation of a trade secret may be nondischargeable, the Court still must determine whether the related findings are sufficient to meet the standards for nondischargeability set forth under § 523. In Shahverdi, the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel for the Ninth Circuit ("BAP") vacated and remanded the bankruptcy court's decision to grant summary judgment under §§ 523(a)(2)(A) and (a)(4) based on a prepetition arbitration judgment. Shahverdi, 2013 WL 2466862, at *16. The bankruptcy court in Shahverdi based its decision to grant summary judgment on CUTSA. Id. at *7. In vacating and remanding the bankruptcy court's ruling, the BAP determined that the bankruptcy court failed to make sufficient findings for nondischargeability. Id. at *16. See also Matter of Miller, 156 F.3d 598 (5th Cir. 1998) (reversing and remanding because a judgment for misappropriation of trade secrets did not necessarily establish nondischargeability). [FN1].

Accordingly, the Court must evaluate the allegations in the Complaint based on the standards set forth in § 523.

D. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A)

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2)(A), a bankruptcy discharge does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt "for money, property, services, or an extension, renewal, or refinancing of credit, to the extent obtained by – false pretenses, a false representation, or actual fraud, other than a statement respecting a debtor's or an insider's financial condition."

To prevail on a § 523(a)(2)(A) claim, the Plaintiffs must prove by a preponderance of the evidence the following five elements:

- (1) misrepresentation, fraudulent omission or deceptive conduct by the debtor;
- (2) knowledge of the falsity or deceptiveness of his statement or conduct;
- (3) an intent to deceive;
- (4) justifiable reliance by the creditor on the debtor's statement or conduct; and
- (5) damage to the creditor proximately caused by its reliance on the debtor's statement or conduct

In re Weinberg, 410 B.R. 19, 35 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2009) (citing In re Slyman, 234 F.3d 1081, 1085 (9th Cir. 2000)).

Here, the Complaint does not contain sufficient allegations under § 523(a)(2)(A) to state a claim that is plausible on its face. The Complaint does not allege that Debtor made any representations to Plaintiff in order to obtain Plaintiff's customer account information. Similarly, the Complaint does not articulate on which statements or representations Plaintiff justifiably relied.

Moreover, it does not appear that leave to amend is appropriate in this case; the deficiencies in the Complaint cannot be cured by amendment. The Complaint alleges that Debtor purchased the customer account information from Mr. Pantaleon; not Plaintiff. Other than the cease and desist letters, nowhere in the Complaint does Plaintiff allege any communication between Debtor and Plaintiff regarding the customer account information. Additionally, in the Opposition, Plaintiff acknowledges that it has not alleged a claim for fraud. Consequently, as to the § 523(a)(2) cause of action, the Court will grant the Motion with prejudice.

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(4), a bankruptcy discharge does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt "for fraud or defalcation while acting in a fiduciary capacity, embezzlement, or larceny."

Plaintiff makes no claim that Debtor was acting in a fiduciary capacity, nor claims that Debtor embezzled. Therefore, the focus of the inquiry is on the term "larceny."

"For purposes of section, 523(a)(4), a bankruptcy court is not bound by the state law definition of larceny but, rather, may follow federal common law, which defines larceny as a felonious taking of another's personal property with intent to convert it or deprive the owner of the same." In re Ormsby, 591 F.3d 1199, 1205 (9th Cir. 2010) (quoting 4 Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 523.10[2] (15th ed. rev. 2008)). Felonious is defined as "'proceeding from an evil heart or purpose; malicious; villainous ... Wrongful; (of an act) done without excuse of color of right.'" In re Kiesewetter, 391 B.R. 740, 748 (Bankr.W.D.Pa.2008) (quoting BLACK'S LAW DICTIONARY (8th

"Fraudulent appropriation requires an intent to deprive, which can be inferred from the conduct of the person accused and from the circumstances of the situation."
Savonarola v. Beran, 79 B.R. 493, 496 (Bankr. N.D. Fla. 1987).

For purposes of larceny, a fiduciary relationship is not required. Littleton, 942 F.2d 551, 555 (9th Cir. 1991).

Here, the Complaint contains sufficient allegations to state a claim under § 523(a)(4). The allegations in the Complaint are analogous to the facts in In re Ormsby, 386 B.R. 243 (E.D. Cal. 2008), aff'd, 591 F.3d 1199 (9th Cir. 2010). In Ormsby, Lawrence E. Ormsby ("Ormsby") owned a small real estate title company, Inter-County. Ormsby, 386 B.R. at 246. First American Title Company of Nevada ("First American"), a larger title company, had developed extensive databases and organization of title records that greatly simplified title searches such as those Ormsby conducted. Id. at 247. Ormsby contracted to access the databases ("plants") developed for the period after 2000, but did not subscribe to access the plants for earlier years. Id.

In spring of 2000, Ormsby began soliciting employees of First American to work at Inter-County. Id. Joseph McCaffrey ("McCaffrey") was one of the employees Ormsby solicited. Id. Ormsby and McCaffrey discussed the importance of the plants to a new title company, and the plants' potential to make a new company competitive. Id. McCaffrey understood that the plants were not public records, but rather were private and proprietary to First American. Id. Ormsby hired McCaffrey and paid him a $7,000 signing bonus. Id.

In anticipation of his employment at Inter-County and while he still had access to his office at First American, McCaffrey appropriated the 1900s plants from First American, with the encouragement, cooperation and assistance of Ormsby. Id. McCaffrey gave the microfiche files to Ormsby, who sent them out to a non-local copy service for duplication. Id. Inter-County then used the appropriated plants in searching titles and issuing policies until their return was compelled by court order. Id.

Prepetition, First American filed an action in a Nevada state court against Ormsby and McCaffrey. Id. The Nevada state court entered judgment against Ormsby and found that he encouraged, assisted and cooperated with McCaffrey in misappropriating the plants. Id. at 247–48. Subsequently, Ormsby filed a chapter 7 petition, and First American brought a complaint seeking nondischargeability of the judgment under §§ 523(a)(4) and (a)(6). Id. at 248. The bankruptcy court granted summary judgment in favor of First American, and Ormsby appealed. Id.

Ormsby first appealed the bankruptcy court’s judgment to the United States District Court for the Eastern District of California. The district court affirmed the bankruptcy court’s ruling, stating in relevant part:

Per the state court judgment, [Ormsby] encouraged, cooperated, and assisted in the misappropriation of the title plants from [First American]. [Ormsby] had knowledge of and acquiesced in the theft and conversion of the title plants. [Ormsby] sent the microfiche title plants to a non-local copy service. [Ormsby’s] title company converted to its own use [First American’s] proprietary base files, subdivision files, and preliminary title reports to assist it in the opening of their business. This Court concludes that these facts, in conjunction with the remainder of the state court findings, amounts to the "felonious taking of [First American’s] personal property with intent to convert it" by [Ormsby].

Therefore, section 523(a)(4) works to bar the bankruptcy discharge of [Ormsby’s] obligation to [First American].

Id. at 250. Ormsby then appealed the district court’s ruling to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, which affirmed the district court’s ruling. On appeal to the Ninth Circuit, Ormsby argued that judgment against him did not constitute larceny within the federal definition of the term because the state court judgment did not make findings of fraudulent intent. Ormsby, 591 F.3d at 1205. In relevant part, the Ninth Circuit stated:

We make no determination concerning whether federal law requires a finding of fraudulent intent for larceny as Ormsby contends. Were we to find that larceny required fraudulent intent, the state court judgment would provide enough information to determine that the court found that his actions amounted to fraud, because "[i]ntent may properly be inferred from the totality of the circumstances and the conduct of the person accused." *Kaye v. re Rose), 934 F.2d 901, 904 (7th Cir.1991). The totality of the circumstances as described in the state court's findings of fact make clear that Ormsby acted with fraudulent intent. When he started Inter-County, he purchased the rights to use the title plant for 2000 until the present, demonstrating that he was aware of the lawful means of obtaining access to them. Rather than purchasing the rights to the title plants for the 1900s, he hired McCaffrey away from a competing title company and discussed with him the importance of the title plants to a new title company. While McCaffrey still had access to the plants that [First American] possessed, Ormsby encouraged, cooperated, and assisted McCaffrey's removal of the plants and their reproduction. Of particular note, Ormsby sent the microfiche containing the plants to a non-local copying service, likely to avoid detection. Based on these facts found by the state court, Ormsby's conduct constituted larceny within the federal meaning of the term; accordingly under section 523(a)(4), his debt cannot be discharged.

Id. at 1206.

The allegations in the Complaint are similar to those in Ormsby. The Complaint alleges that Debtor coopted one of Plaintiff's employees to get Plaintiff's customer account information, and then used that information, which he knew was confidential, proprietary and trade secret information to Plaintiff, to solicit or obtain business from Plaintiff's clients. As in Ormsby, Plaintiff has sufficiently alleged that Debtor encouraged, cooperated and assisted Mr. Pantaleon in the misappropriation of its customer account information, and that Debtor had knowledge of and acquiesced in the theft and conversion of that information. These allegations sufficiently state a claim that Debtor committed larceny with the meaning of § 523(a)(4), i.e., a felonious taking of Plaintiff's personal property with intent to convert it by Debtor. Accordingly, as to the § 523(a)(4) cause of action, the Court will deny the Motion.

F. 11 USC § 523(a)(6)

11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(6) states that a discharge under 11 U.S.C. § 727 does not discharge an individual debtor from any debt "for willful and malicious injury by the debtor to another entity or to the property of another entity." As in any § 523(a) action, the plaintiff bears the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence. Grogan v. Garner, 498 U.S. 279, 286, 111 S.Ct. 654, 112 L.Ed.2d 755 (1991).

i. Willfulness

Demonstrating willfulness requires a showing that defendant intended to cause the injury, not merely the acts leading to the injury. Kawaauhau v. Geiger, 523 U.S. 57, 61–62, 118 S.Ct. 974, 140 L.Ed. 2d 90 (1998). In the Ninth Circuit, " § 523(a)(6)'s willful injury requirement is met only when the debtor has a subjective motive to inflict injury or when the debtor believes that injury is substantially certain to result from his own conduct." Ormsby, 591 F.3d at 1206 (quoting In re Su, 290 F.3d 1140, 1142 (9th Cir.2002)). "The Debtor is charged with the knowledge of the natural consequences of his actions." Id. (citing In re Cohen, 121 B.R. 267, 271 (Bankr.E.D.N.Y.1990)). See also Su, 290 F.3d at 1146 ("In addition to what a debtor may admit to knowing, the bankruptcy court may consider circumstantial evidence that tends to establish what the debtor must have actually known when taking the injury-producing action.").

ii. Maliciousness

Under § 523(a)(6), the injury must also be the result of maliciousness. Su, 290 F.3d at 1146. Maliciousness requires (1) a wrongful act; (2) done intentionally; (3) which necessarily causes injury; (4) without just cause or excuse. Id. at 1147. Maliciousness does not require "personal hatred, spite, or ill-will." In re Bammer, 131 F.3d 788, 791 (9th Cir. 1997).

Here, Plaintiff makes a claim under § 523(a)(6) based on Debtor's alleged violation of CUTSA. At the motion to dismiss stage, "[m]alice, intent, knowledge, and other conditions of a person's mind may be alleged generally." Rule 9(b). The Complaint alleges that Debtor willfully and maliciously injured Plaintiff and that Debtor intended the consequences of his actions. Thus, the Complaint sufficiently alleges the intent elements of § 523(a)(6).

Additionally, contrary to Debtor's argument, the Complaint alleges that Plaintiff was damaged by suffering actual losses consisting of sales by Debtor and Tool Masters to Plaintiff's customers. Under Rule 8, the Complaint need not state a specific amount of damages to put Debtor on notice of the claims against him.

Regarding willfulness, in In re Hernandez, No. ADV 09-02271, 2011 WL 3300927, at *5 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. Jan. 5, 2011), the BAP examined the elements of a claim under CUTSA and the element of willfulness under § 523(a)(6). In Hernandez, prepetition, a California state court entered a judgment against the debtors for misappropriation of trade secrets, intentional interference with contractual relations and intentional interference with prospective economic advantage. Hernandez, 2011 WL 3300927, at *1. Subsequently, the debtors filed a chapter 7 petition, and the creditor filed a complaint seeking nondischargeability of the judgment under § 523(a)(6). Id. at *2. The creditor moved for summary judgment, and the bankruptcy court, applying the doctrine of collateral estoppel, determined that the judgment was nondischargeable. Id. The debtors appealed. Id. at *3.

When discussing whether collateral estoppel applied to the business torts, i.e. misappropriation of trade secrets, the BAP stated, in relevant part:

The jury made no specific finding concerning the willful nature of [the debtors'] conduct, but found [the debtors] liable for misappropriation of trade secrets, intentional interference with contractual relations and intentional interference with prospective economic advantage. We thus examine whether these causes of action under California law encompass the same elements as the willful requirement under § 523(a)(6) and whether the jury's findings satisfy those elements.

Under California law, a trade secret is misappropriated if a person (1) acquires a trade secret knowing or having reason to know that the trade secret has been acquired by "improper means," (2) discloses or uses a trade secret the person has acquired by "improper means" or in violation of a nondisclosure obligation, (3) discloses or uses a trade secret the person knew or should have known was derived from another who had acquired it by improper means or who had a nondisclosure obligation, or (4) discloses or uses a trade secret after learning that it is a trade secret but before a material change of position. Cal. Civ.Code § 3426.1, subd. (b). "Improper means," includes "theft, bribery, misrepresentation, breach or inducement of a breach of a duty to maintain secrecy...." Cal. Civ.Code § 3426.1.

Regarding the mental state for an actionable acquisition of a trade secret, one court observed that the term "acquired" as used in the statute "implies more than passive reception; it implies pointed conduct intended to secure dominion over the thing, i.e., '[t]o gain, obtain, or get as one's own, to gain the ownership of (by one's own exertions or qualities).'" Silvaco Data Sys., 184 Cal.App. 4th at 234. In other words, "one does not ordinarily 'acquire' a thing inadvertently; the term implies conduct directed to that objective." Id.

Hernandez, 2011 WL 3300927, at *5. The BAP went on to examine the elements, under California law, of intentional interference with contractual relations and intentional interference with prospective economic advantage. The BAP then noted:

Our examination of the elements for misappropriation of trade secrets, intentional interference with contractual relations and intentional interference with prospective economic advantage reveals that the identical factual allegations were at issue in the state court action as those for a willful injury under § 523(a)(6); i.e., all causes of action required an inquiry into whether [the debtors] acted either with an objective substantial certainty of injury or whether [the debtors] acted with a subjective motive to cause [the creditor's] injury.

In sum, the issues essential to the willful injury requirement under § 523(a)(6) were identical to those raised in [the creditor's] state court complaint. Moreover, those issues were actually litigated and necessarily decided when they were submitted to the jury and determined. Accordingly, there is no genuine issue of material fact as to whether the state court jury decided that [the debtors] caused a willful injury within the meaning of § 523(a)(6).

Hernandez, 2011 WL 3300927, at *5. Similarly, the bankruptcy court in In re Kohler, No. 04-54120-MM, 2008 WL 5753359, at *4 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. Nov. 6, 2008), found that the requisite knowledge for misappropriation of trade secrets under California law is identical to and satisfies the requirement of intent to inflict injury for a finding of willfulness under § 523(a)(6).

Accordingly, if the Complaint sufficiently alleges a violation of CUTSA, those allegations are sufficient to meet the elements of willfulness under § 523(a)(6). Under California law, a prima facie claim for misappropriation of trade secrets requires that the plaintiff demonstrate that: (1) he owned a trade secret; (2) the defendant acquired, disclosed, or used the plaintiff's trade secret through improper means; and (3) the defendant's actions damaged the plaintiff. Cytodyn, Inc. v. Amerimmune Pharmaceuticals, Inc., 160 Cal.App.4th 288, 297 (Cal Ct. App. 2008). "Improper means' includes theft, bribery, misrepresentation, breach or inducement of a breach of a duty to maintain secrecy, or espionage through electronic or other means." Id. at 296.

A defendant who receives trade secret information from someone other than the plaintiff is liable for trade secret misappropriation if the plaintiff can show that the defendant knew or had reason to know that the information was a trade secret and that the use or disclosure was unlawful. Steinberg Moorad & Dunn, Inc. v. Dunn, No. CV 01-07009 RSWL(RZX), 2002 WL 31968234, at *24 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 26, 2002).

The Complaint sufficiently states a claim under CUTSA. Plaintiff alleges that its customer account information is a trade secret. In Morlife, Inc. v. Perry, 56 Cal.App.4th 1514 (Cal Ct. App. 1997), the California Court of Appeal extensively summarized California law with respect to when a customer list can be protected as a trade secret:

With respect to the general availability of customer information, courts are reluctant to protect customer lists to the extent they embody information which is readily ascertainable through public sources, such as business directories ... On the other hand, where the employer has expended time and effort identifying customers with particular needs or characteristics, courts will prohibit former employees from using this information to capture a share of the market. Such lists are to be distinguished from mere identities and locations of customers where anyone could easily identify the entities as potential customers ... As a general principle, the more difficult information is to obtain, and the more time and resources expended by an employer in gathering it, the more likely a court will find such information constitutes a trade secret ... The requirement that a customer list must have economic value to qualify as a trade secret has been interpreted to mean that the secrecy of this information provides a business with a substantial business advantage ... In this respect, a customer list can be found to have economic value because its disclosure would allow a competitor to direct its sales efforts to those customers who have already shown a willingness to use a unique type of service or product as opposed to a list of people who only might be interested ... Its use enables the former employee to solicit both more selectively and more effectively.

Id. at 1521–22.

In the Complaint, Plaintiff alleges that the customer account information is confidential and not known to the public. The information contains more than just the identity and location of Plaintiff's customers; it also contains the customers' particular needs and characteristics. Additionally, Plaintiff alleges that the customer account information has economic value because its use increased Debtor's sales. The Complaint also alleges Plaintiff's efforts to keep this information confidential by having their sales representatives sign nondisclosure agreements. Accordingly, the Complaint contains sufficient allegations that Plaintiff's customer account information is a trade secret.

The Complaint alleges that Debtor acquired the customer account information through improper means, i.e., paid Plaintiff's employee for the information. The Complaint also alleges that Debtor then improperly used the information, e.g., solicited Plaintiff's customers in a manner such that the customers thought they were placing an order with Plaintiff. The Complaint also alleges that Plaintiff was damaged in the amount of the sales that were placed with Debtor. Finally, the Complaint alleges that Debtor knew of the nondisclosure agreement prior to purchasing the customer account information from Mr. Pantaleon. Consequently, as to the § 523(a)(6) cause of action, the Court will deny the Motion.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will grant the Motion with respect to the § 523(a)(2)(A) with prejudice. The Court will deny the Motion as to the §§ 523(a)(4) and (a)(6) claims.

Debtor must file and serve an answer to the Complaint within fourteen days.

Plaintiff must submit the order within seven (7) days.

#1.00 U.S. Trustee's Motion under 11 U.S.C. §110 for disgorgement of fees and fines against bankruptcy petition preparer Gloria Ortiz and Taxxprep

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

Grant. Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 110(h)(5), respondents must remit the fines set forth below to the Office of the U.S. Trustee:

1. Respondents failed to sign and print their name and address on the Bankruptcy Petition Preparer Declaration and the Bankruptcy Petition Preparer Disclosure as commanded by 11 U.S.C. § 110(b)(1): $100.00 ($50.00 per violation)
2. Respondents failed to place on the Bankruptcy Petition Preparer Declaration and the Bankruptcy Petition Preparer Disclosure an identifying number that identifies those who prepared the document as mandated by 11 U.S.C. § 110(c)(1): $100.00 ($50.00 per violation)
3. Respondents failed to notify the debtor of the maximum amount the debtor could be charged before preparing any document for filing for the debtor or accepting any fee from or on behalf of the debtor as required by 11 U.S.C. § 110(h)(1): $50.00

Because respondents did not disclose their identity, the Court will triple these fines pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 110(l)(2)(D), for a total of $750.00. Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 110(h)(3)(A)(i), the Court will also require disgorgement of $500.00 in unreasonable fees paid by the debtor.

In addition, by intentionally charging the debtor $300 more than the amount permitted for typical chapter 7 documents, and then not disclosing their involvement, and falsely preparing the debtor's documents to appear as if no one helped her, respondents acted fraudulently in violation of 11 U.S.C. § 110(i)(1). Respondents must pay statutory damages in the amount of $2,000.00 to the debtor.

Thus, respondents must remit the following amounts to the Office of the U.S. Trustee:

Given that the parties agree that the Notice of Levy was not recorded, there is no lien to avoid under 11 U.S.C. § 522(f). As such, this motion is moot.

Nevertheless, the debtor's accounts and any funds held by the Sheriff are property of the estate. 11 U.S.C. § 541(a). As such, the Court will order the Sheriff to release any funds in its possession to the chapter 7 trustee immediately.

The parties' arguments regarding the debtor's entitlement to an exemption or dismissal of the debtor's case will be addressed if an objection to the debtor's claims of exemption is filed or a motion for the dismissal of this case is filed and set for hearing, on proper notice.

#5.00 The Lincoln National Life Insurance Company's motion to dismiss Helayne Muennichow's counterclaims pursuant to rule 12(b)(6)

fr. 4/29/20

Docket 106

Tentative Ruling:

Grant.

I. BACKGROUND

On March 16, 2017, Hermann Muennichow ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. David Seror was appointed the chapter 7 trustee (the "Trustee"). During the pendency of the bankruptcy case, Debtor passed away.

On June 29, 2018, The Lincoln National Life Insurance Company, an Indiana Corporation ("Lincoln National"), filed a complaint for interpleader (the "Complaint"). Lincoln National named Helayne Muennichow, the Trustee and the Duane Van Dyke Irrevocable Trust (the "Trust") as defendants. In the Complaint, Lincoln National alleged, in relevant part:

Lincoln National assumed responsibility for a life insurance policy issued on April 27, 2006 insuring the life of Debtor (the "Policy"). In the Policy, Debtor designated Ms. Muennichow, his wife at the time, as the sole primary beneficiary. On March 27, 2013, Debtor submitted an Ownership Change for Life Policy form transferring ownership of the Policy to the Van Dyke Trust (the "Change Form"). On April 25, 2013, the Van Dyke Trust modified the beneficiary designation under the Policy to designate the Van Dyke Trust as the sole primary beneficiary and removed Ms. Muennichow as a beneficiary.

On November 11, 2017, Debtor died. The amount due under the Policy is $1,003,240.92, comprised of a $1 million death benefit and a $3,240.92 premium refund, which became payable to the proper beneficiary upon Debtor's death. In December 2017, Ms. Muennichow sent a letter to Lincoln National claiming an interest in the Policy; Ms. Muennichow alleges that the Policy was purchased during her marriage to Debtor and is a community property asset and that Debtor unlawfully transferred ownership of the Policy without her knowledge or consent.

The Van Dyke Trust, Ms. Muennichow and the Trustee have asserted a claim to the Policy. Lincoln National has deposited the Policy's funds with the Court pending a determination regarding which party has an interest in the Policy.

Lincoln National incorporated the Policy into the Complaint. The attached Policy includes the following provision: "The Owner is shown on page 3 or in a rider attached to this policy. While the Insured is alive, the Owner may exercise every right and option and receive every benefit provided by this policy. These rights, however, are subject to the written consent of any Irrevocable Beneficiary." Policy, p. 5. The Policy did not designate an Irrevocable Beneficiary. The Policy further provided that: "While the Insured is alive, the Owner or beneficiary may be changed." Policy, p. 5.

In addition, both the Policy and the application to obtain the Policy, also incorporated into the Complaint, are signed only by Debtor as the "Owner." Lincoln also attached the Change Form to the Complaint. The Change Form stated, in relevant part: "The Signature of all owners will be required to exercise any contractual right under policy/certificate."

On March 15, 2019, Ms. Muennichow filed an answer to the Complaint and her counterclaims against Lincoln National (the "Counterclaims") [doc. 33]. In relevant part, Ms. Muennichow alleges—

In 1983, Debtor and Ms. Muennichow married. In 2006, Debtor obtained the Policy. The application for the Policy listed Ms. Muennichow as the sole beneficiary. For most of the duration of the Policy, the premiums were paid with community property funds generated from community property.

The Change Form explicitly stated, "The Signature of all owners will be required to exercise any contractual right under policy/certificate." Prior to March 2013, the entirety of the premiums were paid with community property funds; as such, Ms. Muennichow was a partial owner of the Policy.

Lincoln National failed to investigate if the transfer of ownership was made with Ms. Muennichow's consent or if Debtor signed the form without duress. Lincoln National also failed to investigate after the Trust removed Ms. Muennichow as beneficiary. Lincoln National, Debtor and the Trust all failed to consult with Ms. Muennichow before signing the transfer of ownership or changing the beneficiary to the Policy.

Because Ms. Muennichow did not sign or consent to the transfer of ownership, the transfer was ineffective. Ms. Muennichow first learned about these changes in April or May 2018, during a deposition of John Van Dyke.

Pursuant to these allegations, Ms. Muennichow asserts claims for Breach of the Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing and Breach of Fiduciary Duty. On February 20, 2020, Lincoln National filed a motion to dismiss the Counterclaims (the "Motion") [doc. 106]. Ms. Muennichow opposes the Motion [doc. 112].

II. ANALYSIS

A. General Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 12(b)(6) Standard

A motion to dismiss [pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6)] will only be granted if the complaint fails to allege enough facts to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face. A claim has facial plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged. The plausibility standard is not akin to a probability requirement, but it asks for more than a sheer possibility that a defendant has acted unlawfully.

We accept factual allegations in the complaint as true and construe the pleadings in the light most favorable to the non-moving party.

Although factual allegations are taken as true, we do not assume the truth of legal conclusions merely because they are cast in the form of factual allegations. Therefore, conclusory allegations of law and unwarranted inferences are insufficient to defeat a motion to dismiss.

In evaluating a Rule 12(b)(6) motion, review is "limited to the contents of the complaint." Clegg v. Cult Awareness Network, 18 F.3d 752, 754 (9th Cir. 1994). However, without converting the motion to one for summary judgment, exhibits attached to the complaint, as well as matters of public record, may be considered in determining whether dismissal is proper. See Parks School of Business, Inc. v. Symington, 51 F.3d 1480, 1484 (9th Cir. 1995); Mack v. South Bay Beer Distributors, Inc., 798 F.2d 1279, 1282 (9th Cir. 1986).

Ritchie*, 342 F.3d 903, 908 (9th Cir. 2003). Under the "incorporation by reference" doctrine, a court may look beyond the four corners of the complaint to take into account documents whose contents are alleged in a complaint, but not physically attached, and may do so without converting a Rule 12(b)(6) motion into a motion for summary judgment. Davis v. HSBC Bank Nevada, N.A., 691 F.3d 1152, 1160 (9th Cir. 2012). The court "may treat the referenced document as part of the complaint, and thus may assume that its contents are true for purposes of a motion to dismiss under Rule 12(b)(6)." Id., quoting *United States v. B. Breach of Fiduciary Duty

In 2001, the Supreme Court of California held that "[t]he-insurer-insured relationship... is not a true 'fiduciary relationship'..." Vu v. Prudential Prop. & Cas. Ins. Co., 26 Cal.4th 1142, 1150-51 (2001). Nevertheless, the Vu court stated that California courts had imposed "special and heightened" duties that were "fiduciary-like" but arose "because of the unique nature of the insurance contract, not because the insurer is a fiduciary." Id., at 1151 (emphasis in Vu).

The holding that insurers owe "fiduciary-like" duties but are not actual fiduciaries has led to divergent interpretations regarding whether insurers may be sued for breach of fiduciary duty. Most "Ninth Circuit courts, construing California law, hold that while the insurer-insured relationship is fiduciary in nature, it does not provide for an independent action for common law breach of fiduciary duty." Negrete v. Fid. 7 Guar. Life Ins. Co., 444 F.Supp.2d 998, 1003-04 (C.D. Cal. 2006) (citing Solomon v. North American Life and Cas. Ins. Co., 151 F.3d 1132, 1138 (9th Cir. 1998)). Some courts have held that "[a]n insurer's breach of its 'fiduciary-like duties' is adequately addressed by a claim for breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing implied in the insurance contract." Tran v. Farmers Grp., Inc., 104 Cal.App.4th 1202, 1212 (Ct. App. 2002); see also David v. Allstate Ins. Co., 2013 WL 5178558, at *4 (C.D. Cal. 2013). Other courts have allowed breach of fiduciary duty claims to proceed if a plaintiff states a breach of the limited special duties owed by insurers. See, e.g. Negrete, 444 F.Supp.2d at 1004; and In re Nat'l W. Life Ins. Deferred Annuities Litig., 467 F.Supp.2d 1071, 1087 (S.D. Cal. 2006).

The Court notes that in Negrete and National Western Life, the courts allowed a claim for breach of fiduciary duty because the insurers had held themselves out as something more than an insurance company. In Negrete, the plaintiff had alleged that the insurance company had held itself out as financial advisors and estate planning specialists. Negrete, 444 F.Supp.2d at 1004. In National Western Life, the plaintiffs alleged that the insurers "held themselves out as objective financial planners who act in [the plaintiffs'] best interests." National Western Life, 467 F.Supp.2d at 1087.

Here, Ms. Muennichow has not alleged that Lincoln National held itself out as anything more than an insurance company. As such, under the authorities above, there can be no independent claim for breach of fiduciary duty against Lincoln National.

Even if Ms. Muennichow could state a claim for breach of fiduciary duty, the authorities above contemplate claims brought by the insured. With the exception of Tangorra v. ING USA Annuity & Life Ins. Co., 2013 WL 12084961 (S.D. Cal. Aug. 14, 2013), Ms. Muennichow has not provided any authorities that allow a party other than the insured to assert a breach of fiduciary cause of action against the insurer. However, Tangorra is inapposite.

In Tangorra, the plaintiff alleged that both she and her husband had entered into an annuity agreement with the insurance company and that both she and her husband had signed a change of beneficiary form adding herself and her husband's three children as the primary beneficiaries. Tangorra, 2013 WL 12084961 at *1. The plaintiff further alleged that the husband signed a second change of beneficiary form without the plaintiff's knowledge, removing the plaintiff as a beneficiary, and that the form included the following language: "If the owner resides in a Community Property or Marital property state, the owner's spouse must also sign the change in form." Id. (emphasis added). Under these allegations, the Tangorra court held that:

Interpreting Vu and other California case law, some district courts in California have allowed breach of fiduciary duty claims where plaintiffs allege something more than a simple insurer-insured relationship. See e.g. In re National Western Life Ins. Deferred Annuities Litigation, 467 F.Supp.2d 1071, 1088 (S.D. Cal. 2006); Negrete ex rel. Ow v. Fidelity and Guaranty Life Ins. Co., 444 F.Supp.2d 998, 1003–04 (C.D. Cal. 2006); Estate of Migliaccio, 436 F.Supp.2d 1095, 1108 (C.D. Cal. 2006).

Here, Plaintiff alleges that Defendant owed her a fiduciary duty directly and by way of her marital community property rights to act with the utmost good faith and in the best interest of Plaintiff in administering the annuity. Plaintiff alleges that Defendant breached that duty by failing, contrary to its own form and to the community property laws of California, to get her consent to a change and/or to pay her claim for benefits. As a result of that breach, Plaintiff was damaged. This Court cannot say that "it appears beyond doubt" that the Plaintiff can prove no set of facts which would entitle her to relief on a fiduciary duty-based theory.

Id., at *3-4.

Here, Ms. Muennichow has not alleged that she was a signatory to the Policy. In fact, the Policy, incorporated into the Complaint and referenced by Ms. Muennichow in the Counterclaims, does not include Ms. Muennichow's signature anywhere in the Policy or the application to obtain the Policy. [FN1]. Although the Tangorra court relied in part on unspecified community property rights, the court relied on such rights only in combination with the direct rights owed to the plaintiff as a signatory to the policy and the original change of ownership form. Those allegations are not comparable to the allegations here. Ms. Muennichow has not presented, and the Court has not found, any cases allowing a breach of fiduciary duty action to proceed where the plaintiff is a non-insured, non-signatory former beneficiary.

To the extent California law allows breach of fiduciary duty claims to be asserted against an insurer at all, Ms. Muennichow has not alleged a claim for relief. In addition, as neither the insured nor a signatory to the Policy, Ms. Muennichow has cited no authority that allows her to proceed with her breach of fiduciary duty claim. Consequently, the Court will dismiss the breach of fiduciary duty claim with prejudice.

As a preliminary matter, Lincoln National asserts that Ms. Muennichow does not have standing to sue Lincoln National for breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing because Ms. Muennichow was not a party to the Policy. However, the primary case cited by Lincoln National allowed for "parties to the insurance contract or named beneficiaries" to sue insurers for breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing. Grant v. State Farm Life Ins. Co., 2007 WL 3119738, at *4 (E.D. Cal. 2007). In Grant, the spouse asserting an interest in the policy was never a named beneficiary. Id., at *1. The Grant court held that the surviving spouse was, at most, an incidental beneficiary based on her claim to the deceased spouse's estate as the surviving spouse. Id., at *4-5; see also Erwin-Rios v. UNUM Life Ins. Co. of Am., 2013 WL 12097544, at *4 (S.D. Cal. 2013) ("Plaintiff has failed to allege facts showing that she had a contractual relationship with UNUM. Under the Policy, she was not named as the insured or as an express beneficiary.") (emphasis added).

"As a general rule, absent an assignment of rights or a final judgment, a third party claimant may not bring a direct action against an insurance company on the contract because the insurer's duties flow to the insured." Harper v. Wausau Ins. Co., 56 Cal.App.4th 1079, 1086 (Ct. App. 1997). "There are several exceptions to the general rule which prohibits a third party claimant from suing an insurer." Id. As relevant to this action, an express beneficiary has standing to sue an insurer, as does a third party "where the contracting parties must have intended to benefit that individual and such intent appears on the terms of the agreement." Id., at 1087. "It is well settled, however, that [this exception] excludes enforcement of a contract by persons who are only incidentally or remotely benefited by the agreement." Id.

Whereas in Grant and Erwin-Rios the suing spouses were never express beneficiaries to an insurance contract, here, the Policy expressly listed Ms. Muennichow as the beneficiary. As such, Ms. Muennichow was not merely an incidental or remote beneficiary based on a community property claim. Instead, Ms. Muennichow alleges that she was deprived of her rights as an express beneficiary based on the conduct alleged in her Counterclaims. Because Ms. Muennichow seeks relief based on loss of her status as a former intended beneficiary, Ms. Muennichow has standing to assert her claim for breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing.

The implied covenant is breached where an insurer acts "unreasonably" or "without proper cause." Chateau Chamberay Homeowners Ass'n v. Associated Int'l Ins. Co., 90 Cal.App.4th 335, 347 (Ct. App. 2001). "[A]llegations which assert such a claim must show that the conduct of the defendant, whether or not it also constitutes a breach of a consensual contract term, demonstrates a failure or refusal to discharge contractual responsibilities, prompted not by an honest mistake, bad judgment or negligence but rather by a conscious and deliberate act, which unfairly frustrates the agreed common purposes and disappoints the reasonable expectations of the other party thereby depriving that party of the benefits of the agreement. Just what conduct will meet these criteria must be determined on a case by case basis and will depend on the contractual purposes and reasonably justified expectations of the parties." Id. (internal quotation omitted).

"A breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing does not require a breach of a specific provision of a contract." Abbit v. ING USA Annuity & Life Ins. Co., 252 F.Supp.3d 999, 1010 (S.D. Cal. 2017), aff'd, 774 F.App'x 351 (9th Cir. 2019) (citing Carma Developers (Cal.), Inc. v. Marathon Dev. California, Inc., 2 Cal.4th 342, 373 (1992). "Rather, '[t]he covenant of good faith and fair dealing, implied by law in every contract, exists merely to prevent one contracting party from unfairly frustrating the other party's right to receive the benefits of the agreement actually made.'" Id. (quoting (Guz v. Bechtel Nat. Inc., 24 Cal.4th 317, 349–50 (2000)) (emphasis in Guz). However, it is "equally clear that a party cannot be held liable on a bad faith claim for doing what is expressly permitted in the agreement." Solomon, 151 F.3d at 1137.

Ms. Muennichow bases her claim for breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing on one or a combination of the following: (A) that the Change Form explicitly stated that "the Signature of all owners will be required to exercise any contractual right under policy/certificate;" and (B) that Ms. Muennichow's unspecified community property rights made Ms. Muennichow an owner of the Policy. Both theories are discussed below.

iii. Reference to Contractual Language

F.3d 990, 994 (9th Cir. 2008). Insurance contracts are "subject to the same general principles of interpretation as any other contract." Casey v. Metro. Life Ins. Co., 688 F.Supp.2d 1086, 1094 (E.D. Cal. 2010) (citing AIU Ins. Co. v. Sup. Ct., 51 Cal.3d 807, 821–822 (1990)). "The mutual intention of the contracting parties at the time the contract was formed governs interpretation." Id. (citing Cal. Civ. Code § 1636). "The parties' mutual intent is to be determined, if semantically possible, solely from the written provisions of the contract." AIU Insurance, 51 Cal.3d at 822.

The Court's interpretation of the Policy and the Change Form is governed "solely" by the written provisions in those documents. The Policy defined the owner as the entity listed "on page 3 or in a rider attached to this policy." Policy, p. 5. Neither page 3 nor any rider refer to Ms. Muennichow as an owner. In fact, Ms. Muennichow is not listed as an owner or a co-insured party anywhere in the Policy or the application to obtain the Policy. [FN2]. In addition, the Policy required the written consent of beneficiaries only if the beneficiary was an "Irrevocable Beneficiary." Policy, p. 5. Ms. Muennichow also was not designated an Irrevocable Beneficiary in the Policy.

As such, the written provisions required only that Debtor, as the sole owner defined by the Policy, sign the Change Form. Because the Court is interpreting the mutual intentions of Debtor and Lincoln National, the fact that the parties to the Policy did not define Ms. Muennichow as an owner and left blank the multiple spaces where a co-owner would have signed the Policy indicates that the term "owner" refers solely to Debtor. Thus, Ms. Muennichow's allegations do not establish that Lincoln National breached the terms of its own Policy or the requirements of the Change Form.

Moreover, although a breach of the Policy is not a prerequisite to Ms. Muennichow's claim, it is "equally clear that a party cannot be held liable on a bad faith claim for doing what is expressly permitted in the agreement." Solomon, 151 F.3d at 1137. The Policy explicitly allowed for a change of owner or beneficiary while the insured party was alive. Policy, p. 5. Whether Lincoln National owed a duty to Ms. Muennichow based on her community property rights is a separate issue, discussed below; however, that Lincoln National did not seek Ms. Muennichow's consent prior to transferring ownership of the Policy did not violate the language in the Policy or the signature requirement on the Change Form.

Ms. Muennichow's core allegations regarding Lincoln National's alleged breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing rest on her assertion that Lincoln National should have investigated Ms. Muennichow's community property interest in the Policy and obtained her consent prior to transferring ownership of the Policy. However, Ms. Muennichow has set forth no law that imposes such a duty on insurers.

Once again, Ms. Muennichow asserts that Tangorra is on point. However, Tangorra is unhelpful to Ms. Muennichow with respect to her claim for breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing. Although the Tangorra court mentioned community property rights in its analysis of that plaintiff's breach of fiduciary claim, as to the plaintiff's claim for breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing, the court stated as follows:

Here, Plaintiff has sufficiently alleged breach of the implied covenant. She alleges that Plaintiff and Defendant entered into an Agreement and that the Agreement specifically stated that the beneficiary could not be changed without her consent. Plaintiff further alleges that she has fully performed (or been excused from performing) under the Agreement. Plaintiff further alleges that Defendant had an implied duty under the Agreement to act in good faith and fair dealing with Plaintiff with respect to (1) obtaining her authorization to change beneficiaries under the Agreement; and (2) properly approve Plaintiff's claim for benefits or proceeds under the Agreement. Finally, Plaintiff alleges that Defendant breached the Agreement by failing to get her consent and failing to pay her claim, all of which has damaged Plaintiff. Therefore, Plaintiff has stated a claim for breach of the implied covenant.

Tangorra, 2013 WL 12084961 at *3. As is evident from this analysis, the Tangorra court relied exclusively on the plaintiff's agreement with the insurance company; as discussed above, the plaintiff in Tangorra was a signatory to the annuity agreement at issue in Tangorra. Id. Here, Ms. Muennichow is not a signatory to the Policy. The Tangorra analysis has no bearing on whether Ms. Muennichow's community property rights entitle her to bring a claim for breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing against Lincoln National. As such, Ms. Muennichow has not stated a claim for relief against Lincoln National. [FN3].

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will dismiss the Counterclaims without leave to amend.

Lincoln National must submit an order within seven (7) days.

1. As noted above, the Court may look beyond the four corners of the Counterclaims to take into account documents whose contents are alleged in the Counterclaims, but not physically attached. Davis, 691 F.3d at 1160.
2. Given that the Complaint was filed after the transfer of ownership of the Policy to the Trust, the version of the Policy attached to the Complaint designates the Trust as the owner of the Policy "on page 3." However, Lincoln National also attached the application to obtain the Policy completed by Debtor, which reflects that Debtor applied to be the sole owner of and insured party to the Policy.
3. Ms. Muennichow may have a claim against Debtor's estate and/or the Trust, depending on which underlying community property right she intends to assert. See, e.g., Grant, 2007 WL 3119738, at *5 ("[W]hile [the plaintiff] could have certain rights to the Policy proceeds if [the decedent] used community property assets to pay the premiums for the Policy, those rights would not include a claim against the [insurance company].")(emphasis in original).

DEBTOR

Docket 20

Tentative Ruling:

Unless an appearance is made at the hearing on May 20, 2020, the hearing is continued to June 17, 2020 at 9:30 a.m., and movant must cure the deficiencies noted below on or before May 27, 2020.

In accordance with Fed. R. Bankr. P. 4001(a)(1), movant must properly serve the motion and notice of the continued hearing and the deadline to file a written response on the creditors included on the list filed under Fed. R. Bankr. P. 1007(d). See doc. 1 List of Creditors Holding 20 Largest Unsecured Claims.

The declaration attached to the motion is not signed by a person who has personal knowledge of the matters set forth in the declaration as required by 28 U.S.C. § 1746 and Fed. R. Evid. 902(11).

In the motion, movant appears to request annulment of the automatic stay [doc. 20, p. 10]. However, movant did not attach a supplemental declaration to the motion explaining what actions were taken before movant knew the bankruptcy petition was filed, and why movant would be entitled to such relief.

On May 6, 2020, the debtor filed a response to the motion for relief from the automatic stay [doc. 30]. By no later than June 10, 2020, the movant must file a reply to that response addressing, among other things, cause for relief from the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) and (d)(2) and its standing to seek the requested relief.

Appearances on May 20, 2020 are excused.

Appearances on May 21, 2020 are excused.

Ruling from December 5, 2019

The Court will continue this hearing to March 19, 2020 at 1:00 p.m.

On October 29, 2018, VitaVet Labs, Inc. ("VitaVet") filed a complaint against debtor asserting that the debt owed to it by the debtor is nondischargeable under 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2) and (a)(6) and objecting to the debtor's discharge under 11 U.S.C. § 727, initiating adversary proceeding 1:18-ap-01113-VK (the "Adversary Proceeding"). A pre-trial conference in the Adversary Proceeding is scheduled for March 4, 2020 [Adversary Proceeding, doc. 29].

In the debtor's second amended disclosure statement, the debtor represents that if any portion of VitaVet's claim is deemed nondischargeable, the debtor will seek to amend and/or modify his chapter 11 plan of reorganization [doc. 190, p. 14]. The debtor further states that if VitaVet is successful in objecting to the debtor's discharge, the debtor will likely withdraw his proposed chapter 11 plan because he will have no ability to reorganize. Id.

Accordingly, at this time, it is premature for the Court to approve the adequacy of the debtor's second amended disclosure statement and set a hearing on confirmation of the second amended plan. Depending on the outcome in the Adversary Proceeding,

Tentative Ruling:

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a) and 1112(b)(1) and (4)(A), (F) and (K), the Court intends to issue an order to show cause why this case should not be dismissed or converted to one under chapter 7.

On May 7, 2020, the debtor filed a case status report (the "Status Report") [doc. 248]. Contrary to the Order Setting Hearing on Status of Chapter 11 Case and Requiring Report on Status of Chapter 11 Case [doc. 23], the Status Report is not supported by evidence.

As of May 13, 2020, the debtor has not filed monthly operating reports for March 2020. The debtor's monthly operating report for April 2020 will be due on May 15, 2020. Further, in the Status Report, the debtor states that it has not paid the United States Trustee quarterly fees for the first quarter of 2020.

In the Status Report, the debtor represents that its revenues are down approximately 70%. The debtor states that unless there is a significant upturn in business, the debtor "likely has little or no ability to generate the type of net income needed to fund [a chapter 11 plan]."

The Court will prepare the order to show cause, setting the hearing at 2:00 p.m. on June 11, 2020.

#4.00 Judgment Creditors Motion Assignment Order and Restraining Order

fr. 5/14/20

Docket 735

Tentative Ruling:

I. BACKGROUND

On March 25, 2020, creditors Tammy R. Phillips and Tammy R. Phillips, a Prof Law Corp. ("Creditors"), filed a motion for an order assigning any stimulus check received by Kevan Harry Gilman ("Debtor") pursuant to the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act ("Stimulus Check") to Creditors (the "Motion for Assignment") [doc. 735]. The Court set the Motion for Assignment for hearing and directed Debtor to disclose whether he qualifies for a Stimulus Check and, if so, if Debtor intends to claim an exemption in the Stimulus Check.

On April 16, 2020, Debtor filed a declaration in response to the Motion for Assignment (the "Declaration") [doc. 744]. In the Declaration, in relevant part, Debtor states that he does not expect to receive a Stimulus Check. The remainder of the Declaration is about Debtor's medical issues. On May 11, 2020, Creditors filed an untimely reply to the Declaration (the "Reply") [doc. 745]. In the Reply, Creditors neither address Debtor's contention that he is unlikely to receive a Stimulus Check nor provide relevant legal analysis.

II. ANALYSIS

Pursuant to the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act (the "CARES Act"), "eligible individual[s]" may receive "as a credit against the tax imposed by subtitle A for the first taxable year beginning in 2020 an amount equal to the sum of"—

- (1) $1,200 ($2,400 in the case of eligible individuals filing a joint return), plus

- (2) an amount equal to the product of $500 multiplied by the number of qualifying children (within the meaning of section 24(c)) of the taxpayer.

26 U.S.C.A. § 6428(a). Congress placed limitations on the Stimulus Check based on an individual's adjusted gross income. 26 U.S.C.A. § 6428(c). The adjusted gross income is calculated by reference to the individual's 2019 tax return or, if the individual did not file a tax return in 2019, by reference to the 2018 tax return. 26 U.S.C.A. § 6428(f)(1), (f)(5)(A). If a 2018 tax return also is unavailable, the adjusted gross income is determined by reference to the individual's 2019 Social Security Benefit Statement or 2019 Social Security Equivalent Benefit Statement. 26 U.S.C.A. § 6428(f)(5)(B).

The CARES Act does not explicitly prohibit judgment creditors from levying the Stimulus Check, and does not explicitly provide for an automatic exemption of the Stimulus Check to protect the Stimulus Check from collection. See CORONAVIRUS AID, RELIEF, AND ECONOMIC SECURITY ACT, PL 116-136, March 27, 2020, 134 Stat 281. Moreover, there is not yet any case law analyzing whether judgment creditors may levy on the Stimulus Check or whether judgment debtors are entitled to claim an exemption in the Stimulus Check.

There is, however, some authority discussing these issues in the context of the Economic Stimulus Act of 2008 (the "ESA"). Much of the CARES Act mirrors the ESA. Like the CARES Act, the ESA provided for stimulus checks via 26 U.S.C. § 6428. See, e.g. In re Schwinn, 400 B.R. 295, 298-99 (Bankr. D. Kan. 2009). The relevant portions of 26 U.S.C. § 6428 are mostly identical under both the ESA and the CARES Act, with the exception that the stimulus checks under the ESA were capped at lower amounts. Id.

There appear to be no California cases analyzing whether stimulus checks (under any prior act) are covered by a particular exemption under California law. In addition, the existing federal cases that discuss exemptions of such checks apply the exemption law of other states. Nevertheless, the cases are instructive.

Bankruptcy cases within this circuit that address exemptions of stimulus checks primarily focus on two issues: (A) first, whether such checks are property of the estate; and (B) second, whether debtors may otherwise exempt the checks from the estate. See, e.g. In re Wooldridge, 393 B.R. 721 (Bankr. D. Idaho 2008); In re Schwenke, 2008 WL 4381822 (Bankr. D. Mont. Sep. 25, 2008); and In re Campillo, 2008 WL 2338316 (Bankr. D. Ariz. June 6, 2008). Although whether the Stimulus Check is property of the estate is not relevant to this matter [FN1], the fact that these courts held that debtors must turn over stimulus checks to the estate for distribution to creditors means, at least under the similarly worded ESA, that there was no federal law or policy that automatically excepted the stimulus checks from collection by creditors. Id.

Nevertheless, the cases did allow for debtors to attempt to claim an exemption under state law. Id. In those cases, after a thorough analysis under Idaho, Montana and Arizona law, the courts held the debtors were not entitled to claim the specific exemptions they asserted. Id. As noted above, there are currently no cases that assess whether any of California's statutory exemptions apply to stimulus checks. However, as with any other asset, Debtor may seek to exempt the Stimulus Check from collection in accordance with California law. If Debtor elects to claim an exemption, Debtor will have the burden of proving his entitlement to an exemption under Cal. Code of Civ. Proc. § 703.580(b).

As it stands, Debtor allegedly does not expect to receive a Stimulus Check. However, should Debtor receive a Stimulus Check in the future, the Court will set the following procedure: (A) the Court will order that the Stimulus Check be sent directly to Creditors; (B) Creditors must serve the Court's order on the United States Government; (C) if Creditors receive the Stimulus Check, Creditors must deposit the check into a client trust account held by Creditors' counsel, Charles Q. Jakob (the "Trust Account"); (D) within 14 days of receiving the Stimulus Check, Debtor may claim an exemption in the Stimulus Check by filing a notice before this Court, specifying which California statute allows for an exemption in the Stimulus Check and providing sufficient evidence and legal analysis to meet his burden of proof; (E) within 14 days after filing such a notice, Creditors may file and serve an objection to Debtor's claim of exemption; and (F) within seven days after any such objection, Debtor may file and serve a reply.

If Debtor does not timely claim an exemption in the Stimulus Check, or if the Court holds that Debtor is not entitled to an exemption, the Court will allow the funds in the Trust Account to be released to Creditors. If the Court holds that Debtor is entitled to an exemption, Creditors must turn over the funds to Debtor.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will prepare the order setting the procedures above.

1. Here, the Court is assessing whether a judgment creditor may enforce an order of this Court, pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 69(a), by collecting the Stimulus Check, not whether Debtor must turn over the Stimulus Check to the estate.

#1.00 Motion in individual case for order imposing a stay or continuing the automatic stay as the court deems appropriate

fr. 2/5/20; 3/25/20; 4/8/20

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

Pursuant to the third order granting the motion on an interim basis [doc. 41], no later than May 20, 2020, the debtor had to file a declaration demonstrating that he timely made his required postpetition deed of trust payments on his residential and commercial real properties, his postpetition homeowner's association payments and his postpetition chapter 13 plan payments. The debtor did not timely file such a declaration.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth in the Court's tentative ruling at the prior hearing held on March 25, 2020, unless the debtor provides for the prompt conversion of this case to one under chapter 7, or files an amended chapter 13 plan which provides that he will surrender his residential real property, the Court will deny the motion.

The Court will prepare the order.

April 8, 2020 Tentative Ruling

Pursuant to the second order granting the motion on an interim basis (the "Second Interim Order") [doc. 34], no later than April 1, 2020, the debtor had to file a declaration demonstrating that he timely made his required postpetition deed of trust payments on his residential and commercial real properties, his postpetition homeowner's association payments and his postpetition chapter 13 plan payments.

On April 1, 2020, the debtor filed a declaration (the "Second Declaration") [doc. 36]. The Second Declaration does not demonstrate that the debtor has made his February 2020 and March 2020 postpetition deed of trust payments as to his residential real property and his February 2020 and March 2020 postpetition homeowner's association payments. The Second Declaration demonstrates that the debtor made only one of his postpetition homeowner's association payments.

Similarly, the debtor's prior declaration, filed on March 23, 2020 (the "First Declaration") [doc. 31], does not demonstrate that he made these payments. In the First Declaration, the debtor states that he made his February 2020 deed of trust payment as to his residential real property. However, the debtor did not indicate the date he mailed the payment to the secured lienholder.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth in the Court's tentative ruling at the prior hearing held on March 25, 2020, unless the debtor provides for the prompt conversion of this case to one under chapter 7, or files an amended chapter 13 plan which provides that he will surrender his residential real property, the Court will deny the motion.

March 25, 2020 Tentative Ruling

Unless the debtor provides for the prompt conversion of this case to one under chapter 7, the Court will deny the motion.

Pursuant to the order granting the motion on an interim basis (the "Interim Order") [doc. 22], no later than March 23, 2020, the debtor had to file a declaration demonstrating that he timely made his required postpetition deed of trust payments on his residential and commercial real properties, his postpetition homeowner's association payments and his postpetition chapter 13 plan payments. On March 23, 2020, the debtor filed a declaration [doc. 31]. That declaration does not demonstrate that the debtor fully complied with the Interim Order.

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3)(C)(i)(III), the debtor has not provided clear and convincing evidence that his financial or personal affairs have improved since the prior case, such that the pending chapter 13 case will result in a confirmed plan that will be fully performed. Accordingly, if the case remains as one under chapter 13, the Court cannot grant the motion.

However, in a chapter 7 case, in order to extend the automatic stay in a case filed within one year of another case which was pending within the same year but was dismissed, the debtor must show that the present case was filed in good faith as to the creditors to be stayed. Under 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3)(C)(i)(III), a case is presumptively filed not in good faith if there has not been a substantial change in the financial or personal affairs of the debtor since the dismissal of the next most previous case, or any other reason to conclude that the later case will not be concluded with a chapter 7 discharge. See In re Castaneda, 342 B.R. 90, 94 n.5 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. 2006).

Although the debtor has not shown a substantial change in financial or personal circumstances, at this time, there is no reason for the Court to conclude that the pending case will not be concluded with a chapter 7 discharge. If the debtor is willing to convert this case to one under chapter 7, the Court will grant the motion.

February 5, 2020 Ruling

The Court will grant the motion on an interim basis up to the date of the continued hearing. The Court will continue this hearing to March 25, 2020 at 9:30 a.m. No later than February 12, 2020, the debtor must file and serve notice of the continued hearing on all creditors in accordance with Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7004(b)(3) and (h).

On January 31, 2020, Pensco Trust Company Custodian fbo Alan L Brooks, IRA ("Pensco"), a secured creditor, filed a timely opposition to the motion [doc. 20]. Pensco argues that the debtor has not overcome the presumption of bad faith as required by 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3)(C).

In his immediately preceding case, the debtor was not represented by counsel. In the pending case, the debtor has retained counsel, which is a change in the debtor's personal and financial affairs. The Court will continue this hearing in order to assess the debtor's ability to perform under his proposed chapter 13 plan.

The debtor must timely pay his: (A) February 2020 and March 2020 plan payments in the amount of $4,798.00 (as stated in the debtors' proposed chapter 13 plan) to the chapter 13 trustee [doc. 15]; (B) February 2020 and March 2020 deed of trust payments in the amount of $3,000.00 (as stated in his current schedule J) as to his residential real property [doc. 14]; (C) February 2020 and March 2020 deed of trust payments in the amount of $1,523.72 (as stated in Pensco's opposition) as to his commercial real property [doc. 20]; and (D) February 2020 and March 2020 homeowner's association ("HOA") payments on his residential real property in the amount of $380 (as stated in his current schedule J). No later than March 23, 2020, the debtor must file a declaration to demonstrate that he timely made his required

In addition, the debtor's schedule I [doc. 14] indicates rental income in the amount of $3,000 per month. However, the debtor's schedule G [doc. 14] indicates that the debtor has no unexpired leases. By February 12, 2020, the debtor must amend his schedule G to include any unexpired leases.

April 1, 2020 Ruling

After reviewing the supplemental briefing [docs. 26 and 27], the Court will grant in part and deny in part the motion for the reasons discussed below.

I. BACKGROUND

A. Debtor's Bankruptcy Case

On December 18, 2018, Kenneth C. Scott ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 13 petition, initiating case 1:18-bk-13024-VK. In his schedule A/B, Debtor scheduled a 100% interest in My Private Practice, Inc. ("MPPI") and valued his interest at $0.00. Debtor also scheduled an interest in "monies in business account," valued at $17,274.00 (the "Funds"). In Debtor's latest-amended schedule C [Bankruptcy Case, doc. 35], Debtor claimed an exemption in the Funds pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure ("CCP") § 703.140(b)(5). In his schedule E/F, Debtor listed a pending lawsuit commenced by H. Samuel Hopper ("Plaintiff") in state court (the "State Court Action").

On February 20, 2019, Debtor attended his initial § 341(a) meeting of creditors (the "Meeting of Creditors") [doc. 20]. At the Meeting of Creditors, Debtor testified that: (A) MPPI was no longer operating and Debtor had organized a new corporate entity, Scott Psy.D; (B) he listed the Funds in his schedules as business-related property; (C) the Funds were in one of the corporate bank accounts; (D) Debtor was the sole shareholder of that corporation; and (E) after the petition date, Debtor paid the Funds, which amounted to the full balance of MPPI's corporate account, to himself. Id. at pp. 8-11.

On March 18, 2019, Plaintiff filed an objection to Debtor's claim of an exemption in the Funds (the "Objection to Exemption") [Bankruptcy Case, doc. 42]. In the Objection to Exemption, Plaintiff contended that: (A) Debtor does not qualify for a homestead exemption under CCP § 703.140(b)(1); (B) the Funds were property of MPPI and do not qualify as property of the estate that Debtor may exempt; and (C) Debtor has provided no evidence that he was entitled to a distribution of $17,274 from MPPI. On July 17, 2019, the Court entered an order overruling the Objection to Exemption (the "Exemption Order") [Bankruptcy Case, doc. 160]. In the Court's ruling [Bankruptcy Case, doc. 150], the Court noted, in relevant part:

Here, the Scott Declaration establishes that, as of the petition date, Debtor was the 100% shareholder of a subchapter S corporation, MPPI. As such, all the shares of MPPI became property of the estate as of the petition date. Under § 541(a)(6) and (a)(7), any proceeds or profits arising from those shares also constitute property of the estate.

In the Scott Declaration, Debtor states that, postpetition, Debtor received a distribution based on his interest in the shares. Rather than claim an exemption in the shares, Debtor claimed an exemption in this distribution, i.e., the Funds. . . . [F]or two reasons, Debtor properly claimed an exemption in the Funds. First, MPPI is a subchapter S corporation. . . . In the Scott Declaration, Debtor testified that he receives a yearly dividend based on profits generated by MPPI. Because MPPI is a subchapter S corporation, all of MPPI's profits flow through to Debtor as the sole shareholder.

Chapter 13

Second, even if Debtor could not claim an exemption in the Funds directly, Debtor could have claimed a $17,274 exemption in the shares of MPPI under CCP § 703.140(b)(5). Such an exemption would have excluded $17,274 of the value of the shares from the estate. Consequently, whether Debtor claimed an exemption in the Funds or the shares is a distinction without a difference; either way, Debtor would have been entitled to exempt value in the amount of $17,274.

...

Because Debtor has established, through the Scott Declaration, that he receives a yearly distribution based on MPPI's profits, and there being no contradictory evidence, Debtor has met his burden of proving that he is entitled to an exemption in the Funds.

On March 13, 2019, Plaintiff filed a motion for relief from stay to proceed with the State Court Action (the "RFS Motion") [Bankruptcy Case, doc. 38]. On May 29, 2019, the Court entered an order denying the RFS Motion [Bankruptcy Case, doc. 121].

On March 26, 2019, Plaintiff filed an amended proof of claim for a nonpriority unsecured claim in the amount of $260,975.25 (the "Claim") [Claim 3-2]. On March 28, 2019, Debtor filed an objection to the Claim (the "Objection to Claim") [doc. 55]. On April 30, 2019, Plaintiff filed a response to the Objection to Claim (the "Response") [doc. 78]. In the Response, Plaintiff indicates that he agrees to amend the Claim to reflect his revised calculation of the Claim, as stated in the Response—$190,880.65. On May 14, 2019, the Court held a hearing on the Objection to Claim. At that hearing, the Court ruled that it would adjudicate the disputes regarding the Claim in connection with this adversary proceeding.

On August 28, 2019, Debtor filed an amended chapter 13 plan (the "Plan") [doc. 166]. In the Plan, Debtor proposes to pay $493.61 per month for 60 months, totaling $29,616.00. If confirmed, the Plan provides for the payment of 19.5% of nonpriority unsecured claims.

B. The Adversary Proceeding

On April 19, 2019, Plaintiff filed a complaint against Debtor and MPPI initiating this adversary proceeding (the "Complaint") [doc. 1]. On July 3, 2019, Plaintiff filed an amended complaint (the "FAC") [doc. 8] against Debtor, MPPI and Kenneth Scott, Psy.D, A Psychological Corporation ("Scott Psy.D.," collectively, "Defendants"). In the FAC, Plaintiff alleges, in relevant part [emphasis added]:

From April 2013 through June 2017, Defendants employed Plaintiff as a Psychological Assistant ("PA") subject to the California Labor Code. Because Plaintiff was not a licensed psychologist, he was not exempt from California's overtime and minimum wage laws.

In October 2014, Plaintiff and Defendants entered into a written employment agreement (the "Agreement"), which outlined a compensation scheme based on a graduated scale of percentages of the gross revenue Plaintiff generated for Defendants in each calendar month. However, throughout the course of his employment, Plaintiff was not compensated according to a "bona fide payroll program" and was unable to determine if he was being paid according to the Agreement because the statements Defendants provided him were insufficient. The pay statements provided to Plaintiff were rudimentary and incomplete. Additionally, between April 2013 and June 2017, Defendants failed to reimburse Plaintiff for business expenses, and between August 2015 and June 2017, Defendants failed to reimburse Plaintiff for work-related travel expenses.

Defendants also deducted payroll taxes in amounts not authorized by law without an itemized calculation of each type of payroll tax and not according to any W-4. On at least three instances, the entirety of Plaintiff's paycheck for a given period was deducted. Defendants also unlawfully underreported Plaintiff's gross income to state and federal tax authorities. Defendants defrauded Plaintiff by failing to withhold his payroll taxes in lawful and appropriate amounts, failing to pay those withheld taxes to government authorities as required by law on Plaintiff's behalf and by issuing fraudulent tax records on which Plaintiff relied to report and pay his annual income taxes.

On multiple instances between April 2013 and June 2017, in retaliation against Plaintiff's assertion of his rights to be paid lawfully and in accordance with the Agreement, Debtor either gave Plaintiff knowingly false assurances that all his employment and payroll practices were lawful and honest, or occasionally threatened to terminate Plaintiff. Between April 2013 and June 2017, Plaintiff reasonably relied on Debtor's assurances that Defendants' employment and payroll practices were routine and lawful in all respects and forbore seeking alternative comparable employment. Throughout his employment at MPPI, Plaintiff was never paid overtime as required by law.

On multiple occasions, Plaintiff complained to Debtor that he should be treated as a regular employee and not as an independent contractor. In response, Debtor either gave Plaintiff false assurances, or threatened to terminate Plaintiff based on what Debtor alleged was Plaintiff's breach of the Agreement.

On June 17, 2017, Plaintiff resigned from MPPI. In July 2017, Plaintiff secured alternative but lower paid employment as a PA with another employer. Plaintiff has suffered emotional distress as a result of his employment at and constructive termination from MPPI and has consequently sought psychological treatment.

On October 8, 2018, Plaintiff, Debtor and MPPI entered into a tolling agreement (the "Tolling Agreement"), tolling applicable statute of limitations through November 16, 2018. In the Tolling Agreement, the parties agreed that "any statute of limitations or statute of repose that had expired prior to October 8, 2018 shall not be resurrected or tolled by" the Tolling Agreement. On November 7, 2018, Plaintiff filed the State Court Action.

testified that he transferred the Funds from MPPI's business accounts to his personal use after the petition date. Debtor additionally testified that MPPI was no longer doing business and that he had formed a new corporation in January 2019, Scott Psy.D. Plaintiff believes Debtor transferred the Funds out of MPPI to frustrate Plaintiff's efforts to collect his unpaid wages from Defendants.

Based on these allegations, Plaintiff asserts the following claims in the FAC: (1) declaratory relief regarding nondischargeability of civil penalties pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(7); (2) declaratory relief re nondischargeability of fraud damages pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2) and (4); (3) declaratory relief re ownership of $17,247 in business account; (4) annulment of transfer in fraud of creditors; (5) fraud and deceit pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §§ 1572, 1573, 1709, and 1710; (6) unlawful retaliation pursuant to Cal. Lab. Code § 98.6; (7) unlawful retaliation pursuant to Cal. Lab. Code § 1102.5; (8) failure to maintain and timely produce personnel records pursuant to Cal. Lab. Code § 1198.5(k); (9) failure to maintain and timely produce wage and hour records pursuant to Cal. Lab. Code § 226(f); (10) wrongful termination in violation of public policy; (11) unlawful deductions from wages pursuant to Cal. Lab. Code §§ 216 and 221; (12) breach of written contract; (13) conversion; (14) reimbursement of business expenses pursuant to Cal. Lab. Code § 2805; (15) failure to provide accurate wage statements pursuant to Cal. Lab. Code § 226; (16) waiting time penalties pursuant to Cal. Lab. Code § 203; and (17) unfair business practices pursuant to Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17200, et seq.

On July 23, 2019, Defendants filed a Motion to Dismiss Pursuant to Rules 8, 9, and 12 (the "Motion") [doc. 12]. In the Motion, Defendants argue: (1) the FAC is untimely; (2) the FAC does not meet the requirements of Fed. R. Civ. P. ("FRCP") 8 and Fed. R. Bankr. P. ("FRBP") 7008; (3) claims three through seventeen are not core proceedings and are not related to a claim under title 11; (4) 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(7) cannot be a basis for relief because Plaintiff is not a governmental agency; (5) Plaintiff's fraud claims do not meet the requirements of FRCP 9; (6) Plaintiff did not articulate the grounds for relief for annulment of transfer in fraud of creditors; (7) Plaintiff has no standing to pursue a conversion claim; and (8) some of the claims in the FAC are outside the applicable statute of limitations.

On September 18, 2019, Plaintiff filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition")

[doc. 19] and a request for judicial notice [doc. 20]. On September 26, 2019, Defendants filed a reply to the Opposition (the "Reply") [doc. 22].

On November 13, 2019, the Court held a hearing on defendants' Motion to Dismiss Pursuant to Rules 8, 9, and 12 (the "Motion") [doc. 12]. Prior to the hearing, the Court issued a tentative ruling, see below (the "Tentative Ruling"). After listening to oral argument at the hearing, the Court ordered the parties to submit briefing and continued the hearing to February 5, 2020.

On December 16, 2019, Plaintiff filed a supplemental brief (the "Plaintiff's Supplemental Brief") [doc. 26]. In Plaintiff's Supplemental Brief, Plaintiff requests that the Court reconsider the Tentative Ruling on the following causes of action in the FAC: (A) waiting time penalties under Cal. Lab. Code § 203; (B) statute of limitations under Cal. Lab. Code §§ 226(f) and 1198.5(k); (C) declaratory relief concerning ownership of the funds (third cause of action); (D) annulment of transfers in fraud of creditors (fourth cause of action); (E) breach of contract (twelfth cause of action); (F) conversion (thirteenth cause of action); (G) injunctive relief under the UCL. In addition, Plaintiff argues that the Court must dismiss an entire cause of action rather than strike a portion of the allegations in the FAC. On January 6, 2020, Debtor filed a reply to Plaintiff's Supplemental Brief (the "Debtor's Supplemental Brief") [doc. 27].

II. DISCUSSION

Based on the Motion, the Opposition, the Reply, the Plaintiff's Supplemental Brief and the Debtor's Supplemental Brief, the Court will issue the following ruling. The Court will first address Defendants' procedural objections to the FAC, then Plaintiff's claims for monetary relief and lastly, Plaintiff's other claims that are potentially nondischargeable or otherwise request equitable relief.

A. Procedural Objections to the FAC

1. Subject Matter Jurisdiction over Claims Three Through Seventeen

In the Motion, Defendants argue that causes of action three through seventeen are not "core" proceedings and they do not otherwise relate to a claim under title 11; thus, the Court should dismiss these causes of action. Defendants contend that bankruptcy courts are not courts of general jurisdiction, and that although bankruptcy courts may hear matters involving debtors, the causes of action must involve some rights under title 11.

Parties cannot consent to subject matter jurisdiction. Clapp v. Commissioner, 875 F.2d 1396, 1398 (9th Cir. 1989) ("Subject matter jurisdiction cannot be conferred upon the court by consent or waiver."); and In re Marshall, 264 B.R. 609, 619 (C.D. Cal. 2001) ("[I]n so far as the issue is the actual subject matter jurisdiction of the federal courts, rather than just the bankruptcy court's power to enter a final judgment, such jurisdiction cannot be conferred by consent.").

28 U.S.C. § 1334(b), with regard to bankruptcy cases and proceedings, provides that:

Except as provided by subsection (e)(2) and notwithstanding any Act of Congress that confers exclusive jurisdiction on a court or courts other than the district courts, the district courts shall have original but not exclusive jurisdiction of all civil proceedings arising under title 11, or arising in or related to cases under title 11.

i. Arising Under Jurisdiction

"A matter arises under the Bankruptcy Code if its existence depends on a substantive provision of bankruptcy law, that is, if it involves a cause of action created or determined by a statutory provision of the Bankruptcy Code." In re Ray, 624 F.3d 1124, 1131 (9th Cir. 2010).

ii. Arising In Jurisdiction

"A proceeding 'arises in' a case under the Bankruptcy Code if it is an administrative matter unique to the bankruptcy process that has no independent existence outside of bankruptcy and could not be brought in another forum, but whose cause of action is not expressly rooted in the Bankruptcy Code." Id.

Matters that "arise under or in Title 11 are deemed to be 'core' proceedings" In re Harris Pine Mills, 44 F.3d 1431, 1435 (9th Cir. 1995). Title 28, United States Code, section 157(b)(2) sets out a non-exclusive list of core proceedings, including "matters concerning the administration of the estate," "allowance or disallowance of claims," "objections to discharges," "motions to terminate, annul, or modify the automatic stay," and "confirmation of plans." Bankruptcy courts have the authority to hear and enter final judgments in "all core proceedings arising under title 11, or arising in a case under title 11" 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(1); Stern v. Marshall, 564 U.S. 462, 475-76, 131 S.Ct. 2594, 2604, 180 L.Ed.2d 475 (2011).

iii. Related to Jurisdiction

Bankruptcy courts also have jurisdiction over proceedings that are "related to" a bankruptcy case. 28 U.S.C. § 1334(b); In re Pegasus Gold Corp., 394 F.3d 1189, 1193 (9th Cir. 2005). A proceeding is "related to" a bankruptcy case if:

[T]he outcome of the proceeding could conceivably have any effect on the estate being administered in bankruptcy. Thus, the proceeding need not necessarily be against the debtor or against the debtor's property. An action is related to bankruptcy if the outcome could alter the debtor's rights, liabilities, options, or freedom of action (either positively or negatively) and which in any way impacts upon the handling and administration of the bankrupt estate.

Pegasus Gold Corp., 394 F.3d at 1193.

"[C]ivil proceedings are not within 28 U.S.C. § 1334(b)'s grant of jurisdiction if they... 'are so tangential to the title 11 case or the result of which would have so little impact on the administration of the title 11 case... Put another way, litigation that would not have an impact upon the administration of the bankruptcy case, or on property of the estate, or on the distribution to creditors, cannot find a home in the district court based on the court's bankruptcy jurisdiction.'" In re Wisdom, 2015 WL 2128830, at *10 (Bankr. D. Idaho May 5, 2015) (quoting 1 Collier on Bankruptcy, ¶ 3.01[3][e][v] (Alan N. Resnick & Henry J. Sommer eds., 16th ed. 2014)).

Here, the Court has "arising under" jurisdiction over claim three because the matter involves statutory provisions of the Bankruptcy Code. In claim three, Plaintiff requests that the Court enter an order declaring the true ownership of the Funds, and whether the Funds are part of Debtor's bankruptcy estate. This Court has jurisdiction to determine whether the Funds are property of Debtor's bankruptcy estate pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 541.

The Court does not have "arising under" or "arising in" jurisdiction over causes of action four through seventeen. There is no "arising under" jurisdiction because the matters do not involve any statutory provisions of the Bankruptcy Code. These matters also do not "arise in" the bankruptcy case because they can independently exist outside of bankruptcy and be brought in another forum. None of these causes of action alleged in the FAC are dependent or intertwined with the existence of Debtor's bankruptcy case or any issue therein.

However, the Court does have "related to" jurisdiction over these causes of action because litigation of the FAC will impact Debtor's bankruptcy estate. A judgment in favor of Plaintiff will affect Debtor's chapter 13 plan, including the percentage of nonpriority unsecured claims paid through that plan. Further, a determination that a debt was incurred through fraud is directly related to determining the dischargeability of that debt. As such, the Court will not dismiss the third through seventeenth causes of action in the FAC for lack of subject matter jurisdiction.

2. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 15

In the Motion, Defendants argue that the FAC should be dismissed because it is untimely under FRCP 15(a)(1). Pursuant to FRCP 15(a), applicable to this adversary proceeding through FRBP 7015—

(1) Amending as a Matter of Course. A party may amend its pleading once as a matter of course within:

(A) 21 days after serving it, or

(B) if the pleading is one to which a responsive pleading is required, 21 days after service of a responsive pleading or 21 days after service of a motion under Rule 12(b), (e), or (f), whichever is earlier.

(2) Other Amendments. In all other cases, a party may amend its pleading only with the opposing party's written consent or the court's leave. The court should freely give leave when justice so requires.

Here, Plaintiff filed the Complaint on April 19, 2019 and the FAC on July 3, 2019. Defendants filed a motion to dismiss the Complaint under FRCP 12(b) on May 31, 2019 [doc. 5]. Accordingly, in order for the FAC to be timely under FRCP 15(a)(1), Plaintiff must have filed the FAC by June 21, 2019. Because Plaintiff did not file the FAC until July 3, 2019, it is untimely.

However, courts have the discretion to grant or deny leave to amend a complaint. Swanson v. U.S. Forest Serv., 87 F.3d 339, 343 (9th Cir. 1996). "In exercising this discretion, a court must be guided by the underlying purpose of [FRCP] 15 to facilitate decision on the merits, rather than on the pleadings or technicalities." United States v. Webb, 655 F.2d 977, 979 (9th Cir. 1981). The factors courts commonly consider when determining whether to grant leave to amend are:

1. Bad faith;
2. Undue delay;
3. Prejudice to the opposing party; and
4. Futility of amendment.

Ditto v. McCurdy, 510 F.3d 1070, 1079 (9th Cir. 2007) (internal citations omitted).

Plaintiff missed the deadline to amend the Complaint as a matter of course by twelve days. The untimely filing of the FAC has not caused undue delay in this adversary proceeding. Further, Defendants do not appear to have suffered any prejudice. Additionally, the amendments that Plaintiff made to the Complaint are not futile. As such, pursuant to FRCP 15(a)(2), the Court will retroactively grant Plaintiff leave of court to file the FAC.

3. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8

In the Motion, Defendants argue that the FAC should be dismissed because Plaintiff failed to comply with FRCP 8 and FRBP 7008. Pursuant to FRCP 8(a)—

- (a) Claim for Relief. A pleading that states a claim for relief must contain:
 - (1) a short and plain statement of the grounds for the court's jurisdiction, unless the court already has jurisdiction and the claim needs no new jurisdictional support;

(2) a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief; and

(3) a demand for the relief sought, which may include relief in the alternative or different types of relief.

Pursuant to FRBP 7008—

[FRCP 8] applies in adversary proceedings. The allegation of jurisdiction required by [FRCP] 8(a) shall also contain a reference to the name, number, and chapter of the case under the Code to which the adversary proceeding relates and to the district and division where the case under the Code is pending. In an adversary proceeding before a bankruptcy court, the complaint, counterclaim, cross-claim, or third-party complaint shall contain a statement that the pleader does or does not consent to entry of final orders or judgment by the bankruptcy court.

Failure to satisfy the requirements of FRBP 7008 and FRCP 8(a) "is not fatal, especially when...the [c]ourt is able to determine its jurisdiction and the core nature of the claims asserted based upon the face of the [complaint]." In re Ward, No. 14-32939-BJH, 2017 WL 377947, at *6 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. Jan. 26, 2017), aff'd sub nom. In re Ward, 585 B.R. 806 (N.D. Tex. 2018).

Additionally, "the rules governing the form of pleading should be liberally construed, and motions to dismiss complaints based on pleading errors are to be disfavored. Courts adopting this view ignore the deficient format of the pleadings and instead focus on the substance of the document in determining whether the pleading substantially complies with the required elements of [FRCP] 8...." In re Bey, 2014 WL 4071042, at *3 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. Aug. 14, 2014) (citations omitted).

In the FAC, Plaintiff substantially complied with the required elements of FRCP 8(a) and FRBP 7008. Plaintiff indicated the name, number and chapter of Debtor's bankruptcy case. Plaintiff indicated that he consented to this Court's entry of final judgments on claims one and two. Plaintiff also indicated that those claims were "core" proceedings and that claims four through seventeen were "non-core" proceedings within the meaning of the Bankruptcy Code. Except as discussed below, each of the claims in the FAC contain a short and plain statement showing why Plaintiff believes he is entitled to relief. Further, the FAC contains a prayer for relief.

Contrary to FRBP 7008, Plaintiff did not indicate whether he does or does not consent to the entry of final judgment by this Court on all claims in the FAC. However, based on the face of the FAC, the Court is able to determine its jurisdiction and the nature of Plaintiff's claims. As such, the Court will disregard the deficient format of the FAC and focus on the substance of the pleading.

B. Application of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6)

A motion to dismiss [pursuant to [FRCP] 12(b)(6)] will only be granted if the complaint fails to allege enough facts to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face. A claim has facial plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged. The plausibility standard is not akin to a probability requirement, but it asks for more than a sheer possibility that a defendant has acted unlawfully.

We accept factual allegations in the complaint as true and construe the pleadings in the light most favorable to the non-moving party. Although factual allegations are taken as true, we do not assume the truth of legal conclusions merely because they are cast in the form of factual allegations. Therefore, conclusory allegations of law and unwarranted inferences are insufficient to defeat a motion to dismiss.

However, without converting the motion to one for summary judgment, exhibits attached to the complaint, as well as matters of public record, may be considered in determining whether dismissal is proper. See Parks School of Business, Inc. v. Symington, 51 F.3d 1480, 1484 (9th Cir. 1995); Mack v. South Bay Beer Distributors, Inc., 798 F.2d 1279, 1282 (9th Cir. 1986). "A court may [also] consider certain materials—documents attached to the complaint, documents incorporated by reference in the complaint, or matters of judicial notice—without converting the motion to dismiss into a motion for summary judgment." United States v. Ritchie, 342 F.3d 903, 908 (9th Cir. 2003). State court pleadings, orders and judgments are subject to judicial notice under Federal Rule of Evidence 201. See McVey v. McVey, 26 F.Supp.3d 980, 983-84 (C.D. Cal. 2014) (aggregating cases); see also Reyn's Pasta Bella, LLC v. Visa USA, Inc., 442 F.3d 742, 746 n.6 (9th Cir. 2006) ("We may take judicial notice of court filings and other matters of public record.").

Here, Plaintiff requests that the Court take judicial notice of a certified copy of the transcript of Debtor's § 341(a) meeting of creditors on February 20, 2019 and a certified copy of the transcript of the hearing on the RFS Motion on May 15, 2019 [doc. 20]. The Court may properly take judicial notice of these documents.

Dismissal without leave to amend is appropriate when the court is satisfied that the deficiencies in the complaint could not possibly be cured by amendment. Jackson v. Carey, 353 F.3d 750, 758 (9th Cir. 2003); Lopez v. Smith, 203 F.3d 1122, 1127 (9th Cir. 2000).

C. Plaintiff's Causes of Action for Monetary Relief

1. Statute of Limitations

In the Motion, Defendants argue that many claims asserted in the FAC are barred by the applicable statute of limitations.

Regarding Plaintiff's claims for violations of the California Labor Code ("CLC"), generally, the statute of limitations for an action upon a liability created by statute, other than a penalty or forfeiture, is three years. Cal. Civ. Proc. ("CCP") § 338(a). However, violations of the CLC may also be actionable under California's Unfair Competition Law ("UCL"). Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et seq.

Chapter 13

"A UCL action is an equitable action by means of which a plaintiff may recover money or property obtained from the plaintiff or persons represented by the plaintiff through unfair or unlawful business practices." Cortez v. Purolator Air Filtration Prod. Co., 23 Cal. 4th 163, 173 (2000). Under the UCL, an employee's recovery of unlawfully withheld wages and expenses and unlawful deductions to wages are proper restitutionary remedies. Cortez, 23 Cal. 4th at 168; Espejo v. The Copley Press, Inc., 13 Cal. App. 5th 329, 367-68 (Ct. App. 2017); Ordonez v. Radio Shack, No. CV 10-7060 CAS MANX, 2011 WL 499279, at *6 (C.D. Cal. Feb. 7, 2011) ("The Court further concludes that the UCL claim may be maintained to the extent it is predicated on plaintiff's claim under Sections 221 and 2802.").

Claims under the UCL are subject to a four-year statute of limitations. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17208; see also Cortez, 23 Cal. 4th at 178. The UCL's four-year statute "admits of no exceptions" and therefore applies even when the action is based on violation of a statute with a shorter limitations period. Cortez, 23 Cal. 4th at 178-79.

In the FAC, Plaintiff has asserted a UCL claim for, among other things, unpaid wages, unpaid business and travel expenses and unlawfully deducted general overhead expenses and payroll taxes. These claims are governed by the UCL's four-year statute of limitations, rather than the typical three-year statute of limitations for actions upon a liability created by statute. As discussed above, the Tolling Agreement, executed on October 8, 2018, extended deadlines that had not already expired. Consequently, Plaintiff's claims for unfair business practices that accrued prior to October 8, 2014 are barred. In the FAC, Plaintiff has not asserted claims for these causes of action prior to October 8, 2014. As such, these claims are not barred by the applicable statute of limitations.

Regarding Plaintiff's claims for reimbursement of lost wages and waiting time penalties, those claims are governed by the three-year statute of limitations for actions upon a liability created by statute. CCP § 338(a); Pineda v. Bank of Am., N.A., 50 Cal. 4th 1389, 1398 (2010) ("[A] single, three-year limitations period govern[s] all actions for section 203 penalties"). Under CLC § 202, an employer must pay an employee who resigns his or her wages within 72 hours. If the employer fails to timely pay those wages, the employer is liable for waiting time penalties under CLC § 203(a). The wages shall continue as a penalty from the due date at the same rate until paid, but not more than 30 days. Here, Plaintiff resigned on June 17, 2017. This is within the three-year period. As such, these claims are not barred by the applicable statute of limitations.

Regarding Plaintiff's claims for penalties, in his individual capacity, under CLC §§ 1102.5(f), 98.6(b)(3), 1198.5(k) and 226(e) and (f), the statute of limitations for an action upon a statute for a penalty or forfeiture, if the action is given to an individual, or to an individual and the state, is one year. CCP § 340(a); Robles v. Agreserves, Inc., 158 F. Supp. 3d 952, 1004 (E.D. Cal. 2016) ("If a plaintiff attempts to obtain the statutory penalties provided by Labor Code § 226(e), then the one year statute of limitations of California Civil Code § 340(a) applies.").

Plaintiff's claims for penalties under CLC §§ 1102.5(f), 98.6(b)(3) and 226(e) are barred by the applicable statute of limitations. Plaintiff ceased employment with MPPI on June 17, 2017. Accordingly, the one-year statute of limitations expired on June 17, 2018. As discussed above, the Tolling Agreement, executed on October 8, 2018, extended deadlines that had not already expired. Consequently, the one-year statute of limitations was not tolled by the Tolling Agreement. The Court will dismiss these claims without leave to amend.

Plaintiff's claims for penalties under CLC §§ 1198.5(k) and 226(f) are not barred by applicable statute of limitations. Plaintiff alleges that on August 6, 2018, Plaintiff demanded a copy of his personnel file and a copy of his complete payroll and time records. Plaintiff's causes of action under CLC §§ 1198.5(b)(1) and 226(b) would not have accrued until at the earliest Plaintiff's demand for his records or at the latest when Defendants failed to comply by the deadlines set forth in the statutes. Using either date, the period is within the applicable one-year statute of limitations. The Court will not dismiss these claims.

Regarding Plaintiff's claims for breach of contract (twelfth cause of action), claims based on oral agreements are subject to a two-year statute of limitations, and claims based on written agreements are subject to a four-year statute of limitations. CCP §§ 339 and 337. In the FAC, Plaintiff alleges that Defendants breached a written agreement. Consequently, Plaintiff's claims for breach of contract that accrued prior to October 8, 2014 are barred.

Regarding Plaintiff's claim for wrongful termination in violation of public policy, this claim is subject to a two-year statute of limitations. CCP § 335.1; Prue v. Brady Co./San Diego, 242 Cal. App. 4th 1367, 1382 (2015). In the FAC, Plaintiff requests damages in the amount of back pay that he would have received had he remained employed with Defendants from June 18, 2017 through August 21, 2018. This period is within the two-year statute of limitations. As such, the Court will not dismiss this claim.

2. Application of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(a)(4)

In the Motion, Defendants argue that Plaintiff is asserting claims that are partially outside of the applicable statute of limitations. Defendants contend that Plaintiff should provide a more definite statement under FRCP 12(a)(4) to enable Defendants to answer the allegations in the FAC.

Rule 12(e) states in relevant part that "[a] party may move for a more definite statement of a pleading . . . which is so vague or ambiguous that the party cannot reasonably prepare a response. The motion must be made before filing a responsive pleading and must point out the defects complained of and the details desired."

A court may grant a Rule 12(e) motion when the pleading is "so vague or ambiguous that the opposing party cannot respond, even with a simple denial, in good faith or without prejudice to himself." Hicks v. Arthur, 843 F.Supp. 949, 959 (E.D. Pa. 1994) (quoting 5A Charles A. Wright and Arthur R. Miller, Federal Practice & Procedure, Civil 2d, § 1376 (1990)). "[Rule 12(e)] is concerned with defects in the complaint . . . Any inconsistency with other papers or lack of detail can be explored during the pretrial discovery phase of the litigation." Stanton v. Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co., 388 F.Supp. 1171, 1174 (S.D.N.Y. 1975).

"Rule 12(e) is designed to strike at unintelligibility rather than want of detail." Resolution Trust Corp. v. Dean, 854 F.Supp. 626, 649 (D. Ariz. 1994); Cox v. Maine Maritime Academy, 122 F.R.D. 115, 116 (D. Me. 1988); Woods v. Reno Commodities, Inc., 600 F.Supp. 574 (D.Nev. 1984). Chapter 13

Here, the FAC is clear regarding the issues that Defendants must address in a responsive pleading. The FAC is not so vague, ambiguous or unintelligible such that Defendants cannot prepare a responsive pleading. Other than the statute of limitation issues discussed in this ruling, in the FAC, Plaintiff has not stated claims outside the applicable statute of limitation. Accordingly, the Court will not order a more definite statement under FRCP 12(a)(4).

3. Wrongful Termination in Violation of Public Policy (Tenth Cause of Action)

In the Motion, Defendants argue that Plaintiff has not stated a claim for relief for wrongful constructive termination because, in the FAC, Plaintiff admits that he resigned his position.

Under California law, "[c]onstructive discharge occurs when the employer's conduct effectively forces an employee to resign." Turner v. Anheuser-Busch, Inc., 7 Cal. 4th 1238, 1244–45 (1994). "Although the employee may say, 'I quit,' the employment relationship is actually severed involuntarily by the employer's acts, against the employee's will." Id. "As a result, a constructive discharge is legally regarded as a firing rather than a resignation." Id.

"In order to establish a constructive discharge, an employee must plead and prove, by the usual preponderance of the evidence standard, that the employer either intentionally created or knowingly permitted working conditions that were so intolerable or aggravated at the time of the employee's resignation that a reasonable employer would realize that a reasonable person in the employee's position would be compelled to resign." Id. at 1251.

In the FAC, Plaintiff alleges that throughout his employment at MPPI (from 2013 through 2017), Debtor and MPPI illegally withheld earned wages, illegally failed to reimburse business and travel expenses and illegally deducted general overhead expenses and payroll taxes. Plaintiff further alleges that on multiple occasions he made complaints to Defendants regarding these alleged violations of the CLC. On a FRCP 12(b)(6) motion, the Court must accept factual allegations as true. As such, in the context of ruling on the Motion, Plaintiff has alleged sufficient facts in the FAC to allege constructive discharge.

"Even after establishing constructive discharge, an employee must independently prove a breach of contract or tort in connection with employment termination in order to obtain damages for wrongful discharge." Id. (emphasis in original). "Apart from the terms of an express or implied employment contract, an employer has no right to terminate employment for a reason that contravenes fundamental public policy as expressed in a constitutional or statutory provision." Id. at 1252. "An actual or constructive discharge in violation of fundamental public policy gives rise to a tort action in favor of the terminated employee." Id.

Tort claims for wrongful discharge typically arise when an employer retaliates against an employee for: (1) refusing to violate a statute; (2) performing a statutory obligation; (3) exercising a statutory right or privilege; and (4) reporting an alleged violation of a statute of public importance. Id. at 1256.

In the FAC, Plaintiff asserts a cause of action for breach of contract. Additionally, Plaintiff asserts a cause of action for unlawful retaliation. Under his unlawful retaliation cause of action, Plaintiff alleges, among other things, that he was constructively terminated because of his complaints to Debtor and MPPI regarding their violations of the CLC. As such, in the context of ruling on the Motion, Plaintiff has alleged sufficient facts in the FAC to allege wrongful discharge.

4. Dischargeability of Claims

In the Motion, Defendants also argue that the tenth through twelfth and fourteenth through seventeenth causes of action should be dismissed with prejudice because the claims are dischargeable under 11 U.S.C. § 523. These causes of action are for violations of various sections of the CLC, breach of contract and unfair business practices.

As to Debtor, these claims appear to be dischargeable. However, that is not a reason for the Court to dismiss these causes of action on a FRCP 12(b)(6) motion. Further, these claims are not dischargeable by the non-debtor entities, MPPI and Scott Psy.D. See 11 U.S.C. § 524(e). [FN1] As stated above, the Court has subject matter jurisdiction over these causes of action. Also, Plaintiff has met his burden to allege enough facts in the FAC to state a claim that is plausible on its face for each of those causes of action. Moreover, Debtor filed the Objection to Claim, so the Court must adjudicate the validity and amount of the Claim, whether dischargeable or not.

Accordingly, the Court will not dismiss those causes of action.

D. Dischargeability of Civil Penalties (First Cause of Action)

1. Impact of 11 U.S.C. § 1328

In the first cause of action, Plaintiff requests that the Court enter a declaratory judgment stating that any civil penalties owed to Plaintiff as a result of Debtor's violations of CLC §§ 98.6, 226(f), 1102.5 and 1198.5 are not dischargeable. [FN2] Defendants argue that 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(7) cannot be a basis for determining that any civil penalties owed by Debtor to Plaintiff are nondischargeable, because Plaintiff is not a governmental unit.

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(7), a debt may be made nondischargeable in a bankruptcy action "to the extent such debt is for a fine, penalty, or forfeiture payable to and for the benefit of a governmental unit, and is not compensation for actual pecuniary loss, other than a tax penalty." (emphasis added). In 11 U.S.C. § 101(27), the Bankruptcy Code defines a "governmental unit" as the:

United States; State; Commonwealth; District; Territory; municipality; foreign state; department, agency, or instrumentality of the United States (but not a United States trustee while serving as a trustee in a case under this title), a State, a Commonwealth, a District, a Territory, a municipality, or a foreign state; or other foreign or domestic government.

Section 523(a)(7) encompasses traditional government fines. While it also may encompass criminal judgments ordering restitution to the debtor's victims, these judgments still are paid directly to a government agency. These judgments are considered "for the benefit of a governmental unit." Kelly v. Robinson, 479 US 36 (2004). "[T]he limitation of § 523(a)(7) to fines assessed 'for the benefit of a governmental unit' was intended to prevent application of that subsection to wholly private penalties such as punitive damages." Kelly, 479 U.S. at 51 n.13, 107 S.Ct. 353 (emphasis added); see also In re Warfel, 268 B.R. 205, 211 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2001).

under § 523(a)(7) is dischargeable. 11 U.S.C. § 1328. Through § 1328, "Congress secured a broader discharge for debtors under Chapter 13 than Chapter 7 by extending to Chapter 13 proceedings some, but not all, of § 523(a)'s exceptions to discharge." In re Ryan, 389 B.R. 710, 714 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2008). The broader discharge afforded to chapter 13 debtors reflects a policy determination that it is preferable to have debtors commit to a plan to pay their creditors over a number of years rather than through a liquidation. Id. at 713. Section 1328(a) sets forth a list of debts that may be made nondischargeable in a chapter 13 proceeding. Section 523(a)(7) is not included. Having been omitted from that list, section 523(a)(7) does not make penalties nondischargeable in a chapter 13 case. In re Kozlowki, 547 B.R. 222, 231 (Bankr. E.D. Mich. 2016). Because Debtor filed his petition under chapter 13, if Debtor successfully confirms and completes the Plan, any civil penalties owed by Debtor, which are within the scope of § 523(a)(7) are dischargeable.

2. The Scope of 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(7)

Even if Debtor does not confirm and complete the Plan, under § 523(a)(7), Plaintiff has not stated a claim for relief that is plausible on its face. Plaintiff does not allege that any civil penalties, payable by Debtor, are due to and for the benefit of a governmental unit. Instead, he alleges that "[Plaintiff] is entitled to recover civil penalties from [Defendants]" for violations of the California Labor Code and that "a debtor may not discharge civil penalties which may be collected by a victim of certain statutory wrongs as defined by the legislature." FAC, ¶¶ 46-50.

Plaintiff is not a "governmental unit," as defined in § 101(27). As a result, any penalties owed directly to Plaintiff are not within the scope § 523(a)(7).

E. Claims under California's Private Attorney General Act of 2004

1. Application of 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(7)

In the Opposition, Plaintiff argues that "California Labor Code's provisions effectively deputize Plaintiff to sue and collect civil penalties on behalf of the State of California, rendering Plaintiff an agent of the State of California. As a state agent, Plaintiff is eligible to recover civil penalties that are non-dischargeable under [§] 523(a)(7)." Opposition, p. 9. In support of his position, Plaintiff cites to Medina v. Vander Poel, 523 B.R. 820 (E.D. Cal. 2015).

Chapter 13

In Medina, the bankruptcy court held that the creditor's claims under California's Private Attorneys General Act of 2004 ("PAGA"), CLC § 2699, et seq., against a chapter 7 debtor were discharged under 11 U.S.C. § 727. The creditor appealed to the district court. In relevant part, the district court held that civil penalties under PAGA fall within the exception to discharge set forth in § 523(a)(7). Plaintiff's reliance on Medina is misplaced. Unlike the creditor's relevant claims in Medina, the FAC does not appear to be a PAGA action.

Pursuant to CLC § 2699(a), "any provision of this code that provides for a civil penalty to be assessed and collected by the Labor and Workforce Development Agency or any of its departments, divisions, commissions, boards, agencies, or employees, for a violation of this code, may, as an alternative, be recovered through a civil action brought by an aggrieved employee on behalf of himself or herself and other current or former employees pursuant to the procedures specified in Section 2699.3."

"The purpose of the PAGA is not to recover damages or restitution, but to create a means of 'deputizing' citizens as private attorneys general to enforce the Labor Code." *Brown v. 2. Required Exhaustion of Administrative Procedures

"Any plaintiff bringing a PAGA action must first exhaust the administrative procedures set forth in Cal. Labor Code section 2699.3." Estate of Harrington v. Marten Transp., Ltd., No. CV 15-1419-MWF (ASX), 2017 WL 5513635, at *3 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 6, 2017). "Among those procedures is the requirement that the aggrieved employee give notice to the Labor and Workforce Development Agency ("LWDA") and the employer of the specific provisions of the labor code alleged to have been violated." Id. "An aggrieved employee may only commence a civil action after he receives notice from the LWDA that it does not intend to investigate the violations, or, if no notice is provided, after 60 calendar days of the postmark date of his notice to the LWDA." Id. "At that time, the aggrieved employee may commence a civil action pursuant to Section 2699." Id. (internal quotations omitted).

Courts may dismiss PAGA causes of action for failure to exhaust the required administrative remedies. Id. (collecting cases). To plead compliance with the exhaustion requirements, a plaintiff should first list: (1) when the plaintiff notified the LWDA about the violations, (2) what, if any, response the plaintiff received from the LWDA, or (3) how long the plaintiff waited before commencing an action. Id.

Here, Plaintiff does not plead that he has complied with the procedural requirements in CLC § 2699.3. In the FAC, Plaintiff does not state: (1) when he notified LWDA about the alleged violations; (2) what, if any response he was given from LWDA; and (3) how long he waited before commencing this adversary proceeding. Moreover, Plaintiff did not bring the FAC on behalf of any other employees. [FN4]

3. Statute of Limitations

Even if Plaintiff complied with the procedural requirements in CLC § 2699.3, PAGA claims are restricted by a one-year statute of limitations. CCP § 340(a). An employee must provide notice to LWDA and the employer within one year of when the employee ceases working for the employer. CLC §§ 2699.3(a)(2) and (d); Crosby v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., 42 F. Supp. 3d 1343, 1346 (C.D. Cal. 2014). The "statute of limitations may be tolled up to 60 days (previously 33 days) to account for the period between when LWDA receives a PAGA complaint letter and when it provides notice to the aggrieved employee whether it grants permission for the aggrieved employee to initiate a civil action." Crosby, 42 F. Supp. 3d at 1346.

Accordingly, Plaintiff would have had to provide notice to LWDA by June 17, 2018. The statute of limitations then would be tolled, for 60 days, to August 16, 2018. As discussed above, the Tolling Agreement, executed on October 8, 2018, extended deadlines that had not already expired. At the latest, it appears that the statute of limitations period for any PAGA claims would have expired by August 16, 2018, and the Tolling Agreement would not have extended this statute of limitations period. Consequently, any claims under PAGA are barred.

For the reasons stated above, Plaintiff's entitlement to civil penalties (if any) is not within the parameters of § 523(a)(7). Consequently, for the first cause of action, Plaintiff has not stated a claim for relief under FRCP 12(b)(6), and the Court will dismiss that cause of action.

F. Declaratory Relief Concerning Nondischargeability of Fraud Damages
(Second Cause of Action)

In the second cause of action, Plaintiff seeks declaratory relief determining that a judgment entered in the State Court Action based on a finding of fraud would be nondischargeable under 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2) and/or (a)(4) "to the extent that [Debtor] is determined to have been acting in a fiduciary capacity when he fraudulently withheld incorrect amounts of payroll taxes from Plaintiff's paychecks, or to the extent that the court in the [State Court Action] determines that [Debtor] embezzled or stole those funds from Plaintiff's paychecks." [FN3] In the Motion, Defendants argue that it is unclear what Plaintiff is requesting, because this Court denied the RFS Motion. In the Opposition, Plaintiff reiterates that the second cause of action is not a cause of action under 11 U.S.C. §§ 523(a)(2) and/or (a)(4), but a request for declaratory relief.

For purposes of determining dischargeability, claims successfully reduced to judgments in state court may be given collateral estoppel effect in a bankruptcy court. Grogan v. Garner, 498 US 279, 284-85, 290 (1991). However, in order for collateral estoppel to apply, certain requirements must be met. See In re Harmon, 250 F.3d 1240, 1245 (9th Cir. 2001). Without the Court being able to review the judgment and the state court's findings, the Court cannot determine whether those requirements have been satisfied. Accordingly, the Court will dismiss the second cause of action.

G. Declaratory Relief Concerning Ownership of the Funds (Third Cause of Action)

In the third cause of action, Plaintiff requests that the Court enter an order declaring the true ownership of the Funds, and whether the Funds are part of Debtor's bankruptcy estate. Specifically, Plaintiff states that "[j]udicial intervention is required to determine the rights and obligations of each of the parties, including but not limited to [Debtor] and MPPI, as to whether MPPI owned at least $17,247.00 in cash maintained in a "business bank account" as of the [p]etition [d]ate herein and on relevant dates thereafter according to proof, or whether those funds were part of [Debtor's] bankruptcy estate in this proceeding." FAC, ¶ 65.

The Declaratory Judgment Act, 28 U.S.C. § 2201(a), provides in pertinent part:

In a case of actual controversy within its jurisdiction . . . any court of the United States, upon the filing of an appropriate pleading, may declare the rights and other legal relations of any interested party seeking such declaration, whether or not further relief is or could be sought. Any such declaration shall have the force and effect of a final judgment or decree and shall be reviewable as such.

"Declaratory relief is appropriate '(1) when the judgment will serve a useful purpose in clarifying and settling the legal relations in issue, and (2) when it will terminate and afford relief from the uncertainty, insecurity, and controversy giving rise to the proceeding.'" Flores v. EMC Mortg. Co., 997 F. Supp. 2d 1088, 1111 (E.D. Cal. 2014) (quoting Bilbrey by Bilbrey v. Brown, 738 F.2d 1462, 1470 (9th Cir.1984)).

"[D]eclaratory relief does not serve to 'furnish a litigant with a second cause of action for the determination of identical issues.'" Gayduchik v. Countrywide Home Loans, Inc., 2010 WL 1737109, at *4 (E.D. Cal. 2010) (quoting General of Am. Ins. Co. v. Lilly, 258 Cal. App. 2d 465, 470 (1968)).

After Plaintiff filed the Objection to Exemption, the Court determined that the funds were property of the bankruptcy estate because, as of the petition date, Debtor was the 100% shareholder of a subchapter S corporation, MPPI, and as such, all MPPI's profits flow directly through to Debtor as the sole shareholder. All shares of MPPI became property of the estate as of the petition date. Under § 541(a)(6) and (a)(7), any proceeds or profits arising from those shares also constitute property of the estate, i.e. the Funds. The Court also determined that Debtor was entitled to an exemption of the Funds. Additionally, the parties did not dispute that, on the petition date, the Funds were held in a business account.

This request for declaratory relief is essentially asking the Court to reconsider its ruling in the Exemption Order. However, Plaintiff did not file a motion for reconsideration of the Exemption Order or a notice of appeal. Because the Court already has determined issues identical to the third cause of action, the Court will dismiss the third cause of action, without leave to amend.

In the Plaintiff's Supplemental Brief, Plaintiff argues that by dismissing this cause of action, Plaintiff will be prejudiced. As the Court stated in its ruling on the Objection to Exemption [1:18-bk-13024-VK, doc. 150], allowing Debtor his claim of exemption does not prevent Plaintiff from obtaining a court determination that the distribution of the Funds from MPPI to Debtor was improper or from otherwise holding Debtor and/or MPPI liable to Plaintiff. Nothing in this ruling contradicts those statements.

H. Annulment of Transfers in Fraud of Creditors (Fourth Cause of Action)

In the fourth cause of action, Plaintiff requests that the Court "annul" MPPI's alleged fraudulent transfer of the Funds to Debtor. In the Motion, Defendants argue that Plaintiff does not articulate his grounds for relief for the fourth cause of action. Although Plaintiff did not articulate his ground for relief in the FAC, in the Opposition, Plaintiff indicates that he is moving under California's Uniform Voidable

Transaction Act ("CUVTA"), Cal. Civ. Code ("CCC") §§ 3439, et seq.

Pursuant to CCC § 3439.05—

- (a) A transfer made or obligation incurred by a debtor is voidable as to a creditor whose claim arose before the transfer was made or the obligation was incurred if the debtor made the transfer or incurred the obligation without receiving a reasonably equivalent value in exchange for the transfer or obligation and the debtor was insolvent at that time or the debtor became insolvent as a result of the transfer or obligation.
- (b) A creditor making a claim for relief under subdivision (a) has the burden of proving the elements of the claim for relief by a preponderance of the evidence.

"A plaintiff must make an affirmative showing that it was injured by a transfer in order to have statutory standing to pursue a fraudulent transfer claim under CUFTA." In re Blanchard, 547 B.R. 347, 353 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2016); see also Fid. Nat. Title Ins. Co. v. Schroeder, 179 Cal. App. 4th 834, 845 (Ct. App. 2009) ("A creditor has not been injured unless the transfer puts beyond reach property the creditor could subject to payment of his or her debt.") (emphasis in original).

In the FAC, Plaintiff alleges that before MPPI transferred the Funds to Debtor and/or Scott Psy.D, he held a claim against MPPI for various CLC violations. Plaintiff contends that MPPI transferred the Funds for no consideration; thus, it did not receive reasonably equivalent value in exchange for the Funds. Plaintiff asserts that MPPI had knowledge of Plaintiff's claim and transferred the Funds with actual intent to hinder, delay or defraud MPPI's creditors, including Plaintiff. Plaintiff also asserts that MPPI has incurred extensive indebtedness, and as a result of the transfer of the Funds, MPPI rendered itself insolvent. Plaintiff further alleges that Debtor received the Funds from MPPI, and that as CEO and sole shareholder of MPPI, Debtor had knowledge of Plaintiff's claims at the time of the transfer.

Plaintiff alleges this cause of action against Defendants. If Plaintiff is moving under CUVTA, as he indicated in the Opposition, he may be able to state a claim for relief under FRCP 12(b)(6) as to MPPI and Debtor, but not as to Scott.Psy.D.

FRCP 8(a)(2) requires that a pleading stating a claim for relief contain "a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief." The function of this pleading requirement is to "give the defendant fair notice of what the...claim is and the grounds upon which it rests." Bell Atl. Corp., 550 U.S. at 555. The FAC does not state the legal basis for the cause of action against Defendants. As such, Defendants have not been provided with fair notice regarding Plaintiff's claim against them and the grounds upon which it rests, as required by FRCP 8(a)(2).

In the Plaintiff's Supplemental Brief, Plaintiff argues that he should not be required to amend the FAC because he has alleged sufficient facts. In practice, "a complaint...must contain either direct or inferential allegations respecting all the material elements necessary to sustain recovery under some viable legal theory." Twombly, 550 U.S. at 562, 127 S.Ct. 1955. Without knowing the legal basis of the claim, the Court cannot assess whether Plaintiff has alleged sufficient factual allegations respecting all material elements necessary to sustain recovery. Additionally, under CUVTA, Plaintiff has not alleged sufficient factual allegations against Scott Psy.D. The Court will dismiss this claim with leave to amend.

In the Debtor's Supplemental Brief, Debtor argues that, for purposes of a fraudulent transfer, the payment of a dividend cannot be the basis of a transfer for no consideration. Debtor is incorrect. There is case law supporting the assertion that a dividend payment, in certain circumstances, can be avoided as a fraudulent conveyance. See In re TC Liquidations LLC, 463 B.R. 257, 278 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 2011) (distribution of dividends to shareholders of S corporation for payment of the shareholders tax obligations were avoided as fraudulent conveyances under 11 U.S.C. § 548(a)(1)(A)).

I. Fraud and Deceit Under Cal. Civ. Code §§ 1572-73 and 1709-10 (Fifth Cause of Action)

1. Application of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 9(b)

In the Motion, Defendants argue that the fifth cause of action for fraud and deceit under California law is wholly devoid of the facts and particularities that are required pursuant to FRCP 9(b) and FRCP 12(b)(6). Specifically, Defendants argue that the allegations are missing the "who, what, when, where, and how."

Pursuant to FRCP 9(b), "[i]n alleging fraud or mistake, a party must state with particularity the circumstances constituting fraud or mistake. Malice, intent, knowledge, and other conditions of a person's mind may be alleged generally." Allegations must be "specific enough to give defendants notice of the particular misconduct which is alleged to constitute the fraud charged..." Neubronner v. Milken, 6 F.3d 666, 671 (9th Cir. 1993). "[M]ere conclusory allegations of fraud are insufficient." Moore v. Kayport Package Exp., Inc., 885 F.2d 531, 540 (9th Cir. 1989).

In the FAC, Plaintiff alleges that Debtor and MPPI fraudulently promised to pay Plaintiff according to an agreed-upon employment compensation scheme, without any intent of doing so. Plaintiff specifically alleges that the parties entered into the Agreement. Plaintiff further alleges that Debtor and MPPI knew that Plaintiff would not be paid according to the terms of the Agreement, and that Debtor and MPPI "intentionally withheld or suppressed that information from Plaintiff that would have better informed his decision whether to accept or decline the offer of employment in the PA position." Plaintiff alleges that by making these misrepresentations to Plaintiff, Debtor was able to keep more profit for himself.

Further, Plaintiff alleges he justifiably relied on Debtor's promises to pay Plaintiff according to the agreed-upon pay-scale by accepting employment as a PA with Debtor and MPPI and foregoing alternative employment. Plaintiff alleges that he suffered damages in the form of "rightfully earned wages," "business expenses Plaintiff incurred on behalf of Defendants but was never reimbursed," "the amount of income he would have earned had he refused the PA position with Defendants, and obtained employment as a PA elsewhere" and "substantial emotional distress" that were proximately caused by his reliance.

Plaintiff alleges that Defendants' misconduct occurred between April 11, 2013 through June 17, 2017. Plaintiff additionally alleges that that Defendants were able to perpetrate the fraud by concealing material information through false and misleading earning statements and Debtor falsely assuring Plaintiff that he was being paid lawfully.

Thus, Plaintiff alleges with particularity the circumstances constituting fraud and alleges generally the conditions of Debtor's state of mind so as to satisfy the heightened pleading standard imposed by FRCP 9(b).

2. Application of Statute of Limitations

In the Motion, Defendants also argue that Plaintiff's claims for fraud are time barred. Under California law, "[a]n action for relief on the grounds of fraud or mistake must be commenced within three years." Kline v. Turner, 87 Cal. App. 4th 1369, 1373 (2001). "However, such action is not deemed accrued 'until the discovery, by the aggrieved party, of the facts constituting the fraud or mistake.'" Id. at 1374 (quoting CCP § 338(d)). "[C]ourts interpret discovery in this context to mean not when the plaintiff became aware of the specific wrong alleged, but when the plaintiff suspected or should have suspected that an injury was caused by wrongdoing." Kline, 87 Cal. App. 4th at 1374. "The statute of limitations begins to run when the plaintiff has information which would put a reasonable person on inquiry." Id.

In the FAC, Plaintiff alleges that Defendants concealed deductions and withholdings from Plaintiff's paychecks in the "earning statements" presented to Plaintiff on a monthly basis, which prevented Plaintiff from discovering Defendants' fraud earlier. On a FRCP 12(b)(6) motion, the Court must take all factual allegations as true. Consequently, at this time, the Court must accept as true that Plaintiff did not discover Defendants' alleged fraud until he resigned in June 2017, and Plaintiff's claims for fraud under California law may not be time barred. Because Plaintiff has stated a claim for relief that is plausible on its face under FRCP 12(b)(6), the Court will not dismiss the fifth cause of action.

J. Conversion (Thirteenth Cause of Action)

In the thirteenth cause of action, Plaintiff makes two separate statements for his claim for conversion against Defendants. The first is that Defendants interfered with Plaintiff's earned wages by deducting specific amounts from Plaintiff's paycheck, to which Defendants were not entitled or which exceeded amounts that could be legally deducted. Plaintiff claims that he has suffered economic damages in the amount of back pay he should have received had he been paid all wages earned in a timely manner, plus interest thereon. The second is that Debtor and/or Scott Psy.D converted the Funds (the entire amount in MPPI's bank account) to Debtor's use; Plaintiff contends that he was damaged because the Funds otherwise would have been paid to Plaintiff, to satisfy his claims.

"Conversion is the wrongful exercise of dominion over the property of another." Farmers Insurance Exchange v. Zerin, 53 Cal. App. 4th 445, 451 (Ct. App. 1997). Under California law the elements of conversion are plaintiff's ownership or right to possession of property at the time of the conversion, defendant's wrongful act or disposition of his property right, and consequent damages. Ehrle, 189 B.R. 771, 776 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2002) (citing In re Saylor, 178 B.R. 209, 214 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1995)).

Plaintiff's first allegation meets the requirements under FRCP 12(b)(6). Regarding his first statement, in support of his position, Plaintiff cites Voris v. Lampert, 7 Cal. 5th 1141, 446 P.3d 284 (2019), reh'g denied (Oct. 23, 2019). In Voris, the plaintiff worked with the defendant to launch three startup companies, partly in return for a promise of later payment of wages. After a falling out, the plaintiff was fired, and he was never paid the promised compensation. The plaintiff sued the three companies, invoking breach of contract and statutory remedies for the nonpayment of wages, and won. The plaintiff was unable to collect on his judgments and sought to hold the defendant personally liable for the unpaid wages based on conversion. The Voris court held that conversion was not an appropriate remedy.

In Voris, the California Supreme Court stated in relevant part:

Vor is argues, the nonpayment of wages should be treated as a conversion of property, not as a failure to satisfy a " 'mere contractual right of payment.' " (Sanowicz, supra, 234 Cal.App.4th at p. 1041, 184 Cal.Rptr.3d 517.) But to accept this argument would require us to indulge a similar fiction: namely, that once Vor is provided the promised services, certain identifiable monies in his employers' accounts became Vor is's personal property, and by failing to turn them over at the agreed-upon time, his employers converted Vor is's property to their own use.

Vor is contends that there is precedent for this view. . . Vor is directs our attention to the Court of Appeal's decision in Department of Industrial Relations v. UI Video Stores, Inc. (1997) 55 Cal.App.4th 1084, 64 Cal.Rptr.2d 457 (UI Video Stores). There, in a brief two-paragraph discussion, the court approved a conversion action brought by the Division of Labor Standards Enforcement (DLSE) of the Department of Industrial Relations. DLSE had sued Blockbuster on behalf of Blockbuster employees to recover money that was unlawfully deducted from their paychecks to pay for uniforms, in violation of the applicable wage order. The parties settled, and as part of the settlement agreement Blockbuster mailed individual checks to the employees in the amount of the wrongful deductions. But a number of checks were returned as undelivered, and DLSE ordered Blockbuster to deposit those checks in California's unpaid wage fund. When Blockbuster refused, DLSE filed a second complaint, alleging that Blockbuster's refusal amounted to an unlawful conversion of the checks to its own use. The Court of Appeal reversed a grant of summary judgment in the defendant's favor, apparently accepting DLSE's argument that it had the right to immediate possession of the checks, in its capacity as an agent of the state and trustee for the employees. (Id. at pp. 1094–1096, 64 Cal.Rptr.2d 457.)

Although UI Video Stores involved a conversion action related to wrongfully withheld wages, it did not concern a conversion claim for the nonpayment of wages. The act of conversion that the court recognized in UI Video Stores was the defendant's misappropriation of certain checks that it had cut and mailed to employees as part of the settlement agreement—checks that at least arguably became the property of the employees at that time. The defendant's failure to pay wages in the first instance was not remedied through a conversion claim, but rather through DLSE's enforcement action under the Labor Code. Whether the employees could have sustained a conversion action for the unpaid uniform reimbursements themselves is a matter that was not at issue in UI Video Stores, and which the court did not address.

For reasons already explained, the nature of the underlying wage claim in UI Video Stores, like the nature of the wage claim in this case, is not one that fits easily with traditional understandings of the conversion tort. Unlike the cases involving failure to turn over commissions, for example, which were earmarked for a specific person before being misappropriated and absorbed into another's coffers, a claim for unpaid wages simply seeks the satisfaction of a monetary claim against the employer, without regard to the provenance of the monies at issue. In this way, a claim for unpaid wages resembles other actions for a particular amount of money owed in exchange for contractual performance—a type of claim that has long been understood to sound in contract, rather than as the tort of conversion.

Voris, 7 Cal. 5th at 1153–56. The Voris court went on to state in a footnote:

We do not suggest that any and all claims related to wages necessarily fall outside the bounds of the law of conversion, merely because they relate to wages. The label of monies as "wages" or "commissions" or "fees"—or any other form of compensation for that matter—is not determinative, provided that the claim otherwise satisfies the elements of the conversion tort. (Cf. dis. opn., post, 7 Cal.5th at p. 1163, 250 Cal.Rptr.3d at pp. 797-798, 446 P.3d at pp. 299-300.) Take, for instance, an employer that pays wages but then removes the money from an employee's account, or that diverts withheld amounts from their intended purposes; that employer may well have committed conversion. (Cf. U.S. v. Whiting (7th Cir. 2006) 471 F.3d 792 [employer committed criminal conversion under federal statute by holding money deducted from employees' paychecks in the company's general operating account instead of delivering it to the employees' 401(k) plans or paying the employees' health insurance premiums; once employees had been paid, the deductions belonged to the employees and no longer belonged to the employer].) But absent a similar scenario, the ordinary failure to pay wages does not give rise to conversion.

Voris, 7 Cal. 5th at 1156, n.11.

Here, some of Plaintiff's allegations, i.e., deductions for general overhead expenses, are analogous to the claims in UI Video Stores. However, some of Plaintiff's allegations, i.e., deductions for payroll taxes, are analogous to the claims in U.S. v.

Whiting, 471 F.3d 792 (7th Cir. 2006), where the employer committed conversion by diverting withheld amount from their intended purpose, rather than the underlying wage claim in UI Video Stores, where the employer deducted monies from the employees' paychecks for uniforms.

Plaintiff alleges that Defendants committed conversion by diverting withheld amounts from their intended purpose. Specifically, Plaintiff alleges that MPPI and/or Debtor deducted monies from his paycheck for payroll taxes, which should have been paid to the taxing authorities, but MPPI or Debtor failed to do so, i.e., MPPI and/or Debtor converted the monies to their own use rather than paying the monies to the taxing authorities. The court in Voris specifically stated that in circumstances like the one Plaintiff is alleging here, there may be a claim for conversion. If the allegations in the FAC are true, as the Court must accept at this stage, Plaintiff has alleged sufficient allegations to state a claim for relief that is plausible on its face.

Plaintiff's second allegation does not state a claim for relief under FRCP 12(b)(6). The Funds could have included monies received from clients of MPPI, which Plaintiff did not own or have a right to possess, at that time. As such, Plaintiff has not plausibly alleged that Defendants exercised dominion over his property. However, pursuant to FRCP 8(d)(2), if a party makes alternative statements, the pleading is sufficient if any one of them is sufficient. Because Plaintiff's first statement of the claim is sufficient, the Court will not dismiss this claim.

K. Injunctive Relief

In the sixth, eighth, ninth and seventeenth causes of action, pursuant to various sections of the California Labor Code and California Business and Professions Code, Plaintiff requests injunctive relief.

1. Unlawful Retaliation Under Cal. Lab. Code § 98.6 (Sixth Cause of Action)

Regarding the sixth cause of action, Plaintiff alleges that, pursuant to CLC § 98.6(b) (1), because of Defendants' unlawful retaliation against Plaintiff, Plaintiff is entitled to injunctive relief in the form of an order reinstating him to employment with Defendants. CLC § 1102.5(b) states,

An employer, or any person acting on behalf of the employer, shall not retaliate against an employee for disclosing information, or because the employer believes that the employee disclosed or may disclose information, to a government or law enforcement agency, to a person with authority over the employee or another employee who has the authority to investigate, discover, or correct the violation or noncompliance, or for providing information to, or testifying before, any public body conducting an investigation, hearing, or inquiry, if the employee has reasonable cause to believe that the information discloses a violation of state or federal statute, or a violation of or noncompliance with a local, state, or federal rule or regulation, regardless of whether disclosing the information is part of the employee's job duties.

Here, Plaintiff alleges that on multiple occasions he made complaints to Defendants regarding Defendants alleged violations of the CLC. Plaintiff alleges that Defendants retaliated against Plaintiff by threatening to terminate his employment. Plaintiff also alleges that he was constructively terminated on June 17, 2017 because of his complaints to Debtor and MPPI regarding CLC violations. As such, Plaintiff has alleged enough facts in the FAC to overcome a FRCP 12(b)(6) motion, and the Court will not dismiss this claim.

2. Failure to Maintain and Timely Produce Personnel Records Under Cal. Lab. Code. § 1198.5(k) (Eighth Cause of Action)

Regarding the eighth cause of action, Plaintiff alleges that on August 6, 2018, Plaintiff submitted to Debtor a written demand that Defendants produce a copy of Plaintiff's complete personnel file within 30 days pursuant to CLC § 1198.5. Plaintiff alleges that Debtor produced only a small portion of Plaintiff's personnel records. CLC § 1198.5 affords every current and former employee the right to inspect and receive a copy of the personnel records that the employer maintains relating to the employee's performance or to any grievance concerning the employee. CLC § 1198.5(a). An employer is required to make these records available within 30 calendar days from the date the employer receives a written request unless agreed otherwise. Id. at § 1198.5(b). A current or former employee may also bring an action for injunctive relief to obtain compliance with this section. Id. at § 1198.5(l).

Here, Plaintiff has stated a claim for injunctive relief under CLC § 1198.5(l). On August 6, 2018, Plaintiff alleges that he requested his personnel file from Debtor. Plaintiff states that, at the time of filing the FAC, Defendants had not provided him complete records. Consequently, the Court will not dismiss this claim.

3. Failure to Maintain and Timely Produce Wage and Hour Records Under Cal. Lab. Code. § 226(f) (Ninth Cause of Action)

Regarding the ninth cause of action, Plaintiff alleges that on August 6, 2018, Plaintiff submitted to Defendants a written demand to produce a copy of Plaintiff's complete payroll and time records within 21 days pursuant to CLC § 226. Plaintiff alleges that Debtor produced some of Plaintiff's records, but some were missing, and the records produced were incomplete and inaccurate. CLC § 226(b) requires employers to keep the information required by subdivision (a) and affords current and former employees the right to inspect or receive a copy of records pertaining to their employment, upon reasonable request to the employer. An employer who receives a reasonable request shall comply with the request as soon as practicable, but no later than 21 calendar days from the date of the request. Id. at § 226(c). The failure to comply within this timeframe entitles the current or former employee to bring an action for injunctive relief to ensure compliance with this section. Id. at § 226(h).

Here, Plaintiff has stated a claim for injunctive relief under CLC § 226(h). On August 6, 2018, Plaintiff alleges that he requested his payroll and time records. Plaintiff states that, at the time of filing the FAC, Defendants had not provided him complete records. As such, the Court will not dismiss this claim.

4. Unfair Business Practices Under Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17200, et seq. (Seventeenth Cause of Action)

Regarding the seventeenth cause of action, Plaintiff requests, pursuant to California Business and Professions Code ("CBPC") § 17203, an injunction requiring Defendants to: "(1) produce Plaintiff's complete personnel file; (2) produce all records relating to Plaintiff's earnings for all periods he worked as a PA at Defendants' facilities. . . ; (3) account for all amounts owed to Plaintiff under the Agreement; (3) [sic] cease and desist in their use and conversion of corporate assets; (4) annul and reverse all MPPI transfers of MPPI's corporate assets to [Debtor] and/or [Scott Psy.D.]; (5) turnover all MPPI corporate assets or former assets to Plaintiff in partial satisfaction of MPPI's obligations to Plaintiff." accounting of all assets of MPPI that may have transferred to insiders and successors of MPPI and to family members of insiders of MPPI.

CBPC § 17203 provides, in relevant part, that,

Any person who engages, has engaged, or proposes to engage in unfair competition may be enjoined in any court of competent jurisdiction. The court may make such orders or judgments, including the appointment of a receiver, as may be necessary to prevent the use or employment by any person of any practice which constitutes unfair competition, as defined in this chapter, or as may be necessary to restore to any person in interest any money or property, real or personal, which may have been acquired by means of such unfair competition.

(emphasis added). "The UCL statutory standing requirements differ from standing requirements in federal court." Freeman v. ABC Legal Servs., Inc., 877 F. Supp. 2d 919, 923–24 (N.D. Cal. 2012). Under California law, "[t]o have standing to bring a claim under the UCL, a private plaintiff must show that it has suffered injury in fact and has lost money or property as a result of unfair competition. Pom Wonderful LLC v. Coca-Cola Co., 679 F.3d 1170, 1178 (9th Cir. 2012), rev'd on other grounds, 573 U.S. 102, 134 S. Ct. 2228 (2014); CBPC § 17204. However, in federal court, a plaintiff must also meet the requirements for standing under Article III to pursue injunctive relief under the UCL. Hangarter v. Provident Life & Acc. Ins. Co., 373 F.3d 998, 1021–22 (9th Cir. 2004). "Article III standing requires an injury that is actual or imminent, not conjectural or hypothetical." Id. "In the context of injunctive relief, the plaintiff must demonstrate a real or immediate threat of an irreparable injury." Id.

"Even if [the UCL] permits a plaintiff to pursue injunctive relief in California state courts . . . even though he or she currently suffers no individualized injury as a result of a defendant's conduct, 'a plaintiff whose cause of action [under the UCL] is perfectly viable in state court under state law may nonetheless be foreclosed from litigating the same cause of action in federal court, if he cannot demonstrate the requisite injury' to establish Article III standing." Id. (quoting *Lee v. Chapter 13

In Hangarter, a plaintiff insured brought suit against her insurer and its parent company for discontinuing total disability benefits. One of the plaintiff's claims was for injunctive relief under the UCL. The appellate court concluded that the plaintiff lacked Article III standing to seek injunctive relief against the defendants for violation of the UCL, because the plaintiff currently had no contractual relationship with the defendants, and therefore, was not threatened personally by their future conduct.

Several courts have applied these standards in the context of wage and hour disputes, and have concluded that a former employee lacks standing to seek prospective injunctive relief because a former employee cannot show a real or immediate threat of irreparable injury by the former employer's employment practices. See, e.g., Bayer v. Neiman Marcus Grp., Inc., 861 F.3d 853, 864–65 (9th Cir. 2017); Davis v. Farmers Ins. Exch., 245 Cal. App. 4th 1302, 1326–27, 200 Cal. Rptr. 3d 315, 335 (2016), as modified on denial of reh'g (Apr. 21, 2016); Oyarzo v. Tuolumne Fire Dist., No. 1:11-CV-01271-SAB, 2014 WL 37247, at *3 (E.D. Cal. Jan. 6, 2014), aff'd in part, vacated in part, remanded sub nom. on other grounds Oyarzo v. Turner, 641 F. App'x 700 (9th Cir. 2015); Milligan v. Am. Airlines, Inc., 327 F. App'x 694 (9th Cir. 2009) ("Milligan is not an American employee. She therefore cannot show that she faces a 'real or immediate threat of irreparable injury' by American's employment practices. The fact that Milligan brought a class-action claim does not alter this analysis."); Richards v. Ernst & Young LLP, C08–4988 JF (HRL), 2010 WL 682314 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 24, 2010) (finding the plaintiff "lacks standing to seek such relief because she no longer works for E & Y and therefore is not threatened personally by the alleged labor code violations"); Delodder v. Aerotek, Inc., 2009 WL 3770670, *2 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 9, 2009) ("The Court finds that plaintiffs lack standing to seek prospective relief under the UCL because plaintiffs do not dispute that they are no longer employees of defendant, and thus, they cannot demonstrate a 'real or immediate threat of irreparable injury' by defendants' employment practices.").

However, there is some case law that suggests that "[a] former employee currently seeking to be reinstated or rehired may have standing to seek injunctive relief against a former employer." Bayer, 861 F.3d at 865; see also Pitre v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., No. SACV171281DOCDFMX, 2017 WL 11093619, at *5 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 8, 2017). Here, Plaintiff is a former employee of MPPI, but Plaintiff has requested an order reinstating his employment with Defendants. As such, Plaintiff may have Article III standing to pursue injunctive relief under the UCL.

Nevertheless, "injunctive relief [under the UCL] is available to prevent threatened injury and is not a remedy designed to right completed wrongs." Madrid v. Perot Sys. Corp., 130 Cal. App. 4th 440, 464–65, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 210, 228 (2005). "It should neither serve as punishment for past acts, nor be exercised in the absence of any evidence establishing the reasonable probability the acts will be repeated in the future." Id.

Here, Plaintiff's requests for injunctive relief appear to be remedies designed to right Defendants' alleged wrongs. All Plaintiff's requests address Defendants' conduct in the past in order to collect his purported unpaid wages, not Defendants' conduct in the future to prevent unfair employment practices as required by the UCL. Plaintiff has not alleged that any conduct he requests the Court enjoin is likely to be repeated in the future. Accordingly, the Court will dismiss Plaintiff's request for injunctive relief in the seventeenth cause of action with leave to amend.

III. CONCLUSION

For reasons discussed above, the Court will grant the Motion in part and deny the Motion in part. The Court will grant the Motion as to the first, second, third, fourth and twelfth causes of action, Plaintiff's requests for penalties under CLC §§ 1102.5(f), 98.6(b)(3) and 226(e) and Plaintiff's request for injunctive relief in the seventeenth cause of action.

Defendants must submit the order within seven (7) days. Plaintiff must file and serve any amended complaint within 14 days following the entry of the order.

Tentative Ruling:

Ruling from December 10, 2019

On November 20, 2019, the debtor filed a motion for summary judgment on the issue of bad faith [doc. 174]. That motion is set for hearing at 2:30 p.m. on February 5, 2020.

On November 26, 2019, the debtor and Mr. Hopper filed a joint status report (the "Status Report") [doc. 181]. In the Status Report, Mr. Hopper states that he intends to take written discovery, including interrogatories, requests for admission and document requests, and depositions of the debtor, Niaz Khnai, JoAnn Scott and the person most knowledgeable at Fenton & Ross, CPA.

The debtor contends that this discovery is not appropriate because: (1) the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure ("FRCP") apply to adversaries under the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP"), but not the main bankruptcy case; (2) Niaz Khnai, JoAnn Scott and the person most knowledgeable at Fenton & Ross, CPA are not under the jurisdiction of the Court; and (3) the debtor will not waive any privileges.

First, pursuant to FRBP 9014, the rules governing discovery in FRCP 26 and 28 through 37, which are incorporated into FRBP 7026 and 7028 through 7037, apply to contested matters. This motion is a contested matter. As such, these discovery rules apply to this dispute.

Second, Niaz Khnai, JoAnn Scott and the person most knowledgeable at Fenton & Ross, CPA do not need to be parties to the dispute in order for them to be subject to a deposition, through an issued subpoena.

Chapter 13

Finally, once Mr. Hopper propounds any discovery request, if the debtor or a third party believes the discovery is subject to any privilege - following compliance with Local Bankruptcy Rule 7026-1(c) - a motion for a protective order may be filed.

Tentative Ruling from November 13, 2019

The Court having assessed, among other things, the first amended complaint in the related adversary proceeding, the defendants' motion to dismiss the first amended complaint, the objection to movant's claim, the validity of debtor's exemption claims (to which the movant objected) and the progress in the debtor's bankruptcy case, including the status of the debtor's proposed amended chapter 13 plan, the Court intends to deny the motion, based on the analysis set forth in the Court's earlier tentative ruling.

What further evidence, if any, does the movant intend to submit, and when?

Tentative Ruling from May 14, 2019

For the reasons discussed below, the Court will deny the motion.

I. BACKGROUND

On December 18, 2018, Kenneth C. Scott (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 13 petition. The Debtor has no prior bankruptcy filings.

Prior to the Debtor filing his petition, on November 7, 2018, Samuel Hopper filed a complaint in the California Superior Court, County of Los Angeles against the Debtor for, among other things, various wage claims, civil penalties, statutory penalties, interest and attorneys' fees and costs (the "State Court Action") [doc. 70, Exh. 1]. On December 11, 2018, the Debtor was apparently served with the summons and the complaint in the State Court Action [doc. 20, Exh. 2].

In his schedule A/B [doc. 1], the Debtor did not list an interest in any real property. The Debtor listed an interest in personal property with an aggregate value of $126,817.28. In his amended schedule C [doc. 35], the Debtor claimed exemptions in $126,817.28 of that personal property.

In his schedule D [doc. 1], the Debtor did not list any secured creditors. In his schedule E/F [doc. 1], the Debtor listed nonpriority unsecured claims totaling $123,841.73. Those nonpriority unsecured claims consisted of: (1) a $9,069.00 claim in favor of Bank of America for a revolving credit account; (2) a $30,000.00 claim in favor of Mr. Hopper for the State Court Action; (3) a $35,600.00 claim in favor of JoAnn Scott, who is the Debtor's mother; and (4) a $49,172.73 claim in favor of Johanna Scott for an obligation arising out of a separation agreement. In his statement of financial affairs ("SOFA") [doc. 1], the Debtor indicated that he was married.

As of May 9, 2019, five creditors have filed claims in the Debtor's case. American Honda Finance Corporation filed claim 1, which indicates that it holds a secured claim in the amount of $19,469.73 based on a lease. Bank of America, N.A. filed claim 2, which indicated that it holds a nonpriority unsecured claim in the amount of $8,944.00 based on a consumer credit card. Mr. Hopper filed claim 3-2, which indicates that he holds a nonpriority unsecured claim in the amount of $206,975.25. The Debtor has filed an objection to Mr. Hopper's claim. JoAnn Scott filed claim 4, which indicates that she holds a nonpriority unsecured claim in the amount of $35,600.00 based on a contract. Johanna Scott filed claim 5, which indicates that she holds a nonpriority unsecured claim in the amount of $49,172.00 based on a marital separation agreement.

In his petition [doc. 1], the Debtor indicated that he rents his residence. In his schedule G [doc. 1], the Debtor listed two unexpired leases: a vehicle lease with American Honda Finance and a residential lease with Decon Corp.

In his schedules I and J [doc. 1], the Debtor represented that his monthly income is $4,255.87 and his monthly expenses are $3,983.05, leaving net monthly income of $272.82. The Debtor indicated that he is employed as a therapist at My Private Practice. In his schedule A/B, the Debtor indicated that he owns a 100% interest in My Private Practice.

On March 6, 2019, the Debtor filed an amended SOFA [doc. 34]. In the amended SOFA, the Debtor indicates that he has an interest in My Private Practice and Kenneth Scott-Psy'd, Inc. The Debtor represents that Kenneth Scott-Psy'd, Inc. is the same as My Private Practice.

On December 18, 2018, the Debtor filed a chapter 13 plan [doc. 2]. The chapter 13 trustee and Mr. Hopper filed objections to that plan [docs. 27 and 28]. On March 6, 2019, the Debtor filed an amended chapter 13 plan (the "Plan") [doc. 31]. In the Plan, the Debtor proposes to make plan payments in the amount of $272.82 per month (all of the Debtor's net monthly income, according to his schedule J) for 60 months. The Plan is a 5.52% plan. As of May 9, 2019, the chapter 13 trustee has not objected to confirmation of the Plan. However, Mr. Hopper has [doc. 77].

On April 19, 2019, Mr. Hopper filed the Motion [doc. 70]. Mr. Hopper did not serve the debtor and all creditors as required by Local Bankruptcy Rule 3015-1(q)(3). In the Motion, Mr. Hopper argues that the Court should dismiss the case based on the Debtor's bad faith.

On April 30, 2019, the Debtor filed an opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [doc. 73]. On May 7, 2019, Mr. Hopper filed a reply to the Opposition (the "Reply") [doc. 84].

‘cause’ to act. Second, once a determination of ‘cause’ has been made, a choice must be made between conversion and dismissal based on the ‘best interests of the creditors and the estate.’” Nelson v Meyer (In re Nelson), 343 B.R. 671, 675 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2006).

Here, Mr. Hopper does not argue for dismissal based on any of the enumerated causes listed in § 1307(c). Rather, Mr. Hopper argues that bad faith is additional cause for dismissal. A chapter 13 case filed in bad faith may be dismissed for cause under 11 U.S.C. § 1307(c). In re Leavitt, 171 F.3d 1219, 1224–25 (9th Cir. 1999); In re Eisen, 14 F3d 469, 470 (9th Cir. 1994). Bad faith is determined by evaluating the totality of circumstances, including the following factors: (1) whether the debtor misrepresented facts in his petition or plan, unfairly manipulated the Bankruptcy Code, or otherwise filed his chapter 13 petition or plan in an inequitable manner; (2) the debtor's history of filings and dismissals; (3) whether the debtor only intended to defeat state court litigation; (4) whether egregious behavior is present. See In re Leavitt, 171 F.3d 1219, 1224 (9th Cir. 1999). Mr. Hopper’s main arguments are that: (1) the Debtor filed his petition to avoid litigating the State Court Action; and (2) the Debtor filed false or incomplete schedules.

Regarding Mr. Hopper’s first argument, “[w]hile a debtor's resort to bankruptcy to improve his or her position in pending litigation is relevant to the analysis, that single factor is not determinative in resolving the good faith issue.” In re King, No. BAP/AZ-07-1317-PAJUK, 2008 WL 8444814, at *5 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. Mar. 12, 2008) (citing In re Powers, 135 B.R. 980, 992 (Bankr.C.D.Cal.1991)).

Here, it does not appear that the Debtor has filed his petition for an improper purpose. Although the Debtor filed his petition shortly after being served with the complaint in the State Court Action, it does not appear that the Debtor filed this case only to defeat the State Court Action. After being implicated in litigation, many debtors file bankruptcy petitions to address their debts, including those that are disputed and not yet liquidated.

Regarding Mr. Hopper’s second argument, the evidence does not show significant inaccuracies in the Debtor’s schedules. Mr. Hopper argues that the scheduled claims in favor of the Debtor’s mother and estranged wife are possibly fraudulent. Mr.

Hopper contends, among other things, that at the time of filing the Motion, neither the Debtor's mother nor his estranged wife had filed claims. A scheduled creditor not filing a proof of claim does not necessarily indicate fraud. Further, at this point, the Debtor's mother and his estranged wife have filed proofs of claim. Mr. Hopper also argues that the Debtor has not listed Kenneth Scott-Psy'd, Inc. on any of the Debtor's schedules, either as an asset or as his employer. However, the Debtor did list Kenneth Scott-Psy'd, Inc. in his amended SOFA. Mr. Hopper also argues that the Debtor has claimed improper exemptions in his personal property. Mr. Hopper has filed an objection to the Debtor's exemptions which is set for hearing on June 11, 2019. At that time, the Court will address Mr. Hopper's arguments regarding the Debtor's claims of exemption.

The Debtor does not have a prior history of any bankruptcy proceedings. Mr. Hopper has not shown that the Debtor has unfairly manipulated the Bankruptcy Code. Further, the Debtor does not appear to have engaged in egregious behavior. Accordingly, the Court will deny the Motion.

III. CONCLUSION

fr. 4/9/20

Docket 188

Tentative Ruling:

Taking into account the objections to the proposed disclosure statement, the disclosure statement does not currently contain adequate information.

Any amended chapter 11 plan of reorganization and related disclosure statement should address the objections raised by the United States Trustee and HSBC Bank USA, except those related to confirmation issues, such as feasibility and compliance with 11 U.S.C. § 1123(b)(5). Those issues will be evaluated in connection with a hearing regarding confirmation. The amended disclosure statement and plan should address, among other things, the following:

Service. The debtor has not served notice of the disclosure statement ("DS") hearing on the Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") in accordance with Local Bankruptcy Rule 2002-2(c) and Fed. R. Bankr. Chase/Bank One Card Serv. Claim. In the debtor's amended schedule E/F [doc. 67], the debtor lists a $23,705.00 unsecured claim in favor of Chase/Bank One Card Serv. The debtor did not list the claim as contingent, unliquidated or disputed. Exhibit C to the Disclosure Statement does not account for this claim.

Cash Flow Projections. The disclosure statement does not provide cash flow projections for the first six months after the effective date of the plan.

Lease of Real Property. In the debtor's proposed chapter 11 plan of reorganization, the aggregate monthly payment to the creditors in classes 2(c), (d) and (e) is $9,266.79. In the debtor's disclosure statement, the debtor indicates that he has purportedly entered into a one-year lease of the real property for $5,400.00 per month [Exh. E]. How does the debtor intend to fund the deficiency between the plan payments and the rental income?

Employment Income. In the declaration of current/postpetition income and expenses, the debtor represents that he receives $9,500 per month in income from his employment. The debtor's monthly operating reports do not reflect this income. See calendar no. 3. If the debtor includes this income as part of his gross wages, evidence of such income needs to be attached to the disclosure statement, as the monthly operating reports do not indicate any such employment income.

Pursuant to the ruling at the prior status conference held on April 9, 2020, the debtor was to file an updated status report, supported by evidence, by May 21, 2020. The debtor did not timely file any such status report.

Additionally, the debtor was to file amended monthly operating reports that reflect the debtor's income received from his employment. As of May 28, 2020, the debtor has not filed any such amended monthly operating reports.

Moreover, because that income is property of the estate, the Court ordered the debtor to deposit his employment income into a debtor in possession account. The debtor's March 2020 and April 2020 monthly operating reports do not indicate any of his income from his post-petition employment.

Ruling from April 9, 2020

Pursuant to the ruling at the prior chapter 11 case status conference held on February 6, 2020, the debtor was to file an updated status report by March 26, 2020. The debtor has not timely done so.

In the debtor's amended disclosure statement [doc. 188], the debtor indicates that he is receiving income in the amount of $5,000 per month plus commission of 25% of gross revenues from new patient treatment from Beverly Hills Cancer Center. Chapter 7

#6.00 Motion in individual chapter 11 case for order authorizing debtor in possession to employ general counsel

Docket 63

Tentative Ruling:

Deny nunc pro tunc employment.

I. BACKGROUND

On January 14, 2020, Robert Alderman and Noni Alderman (the "Debtors") filed a voluntary chapter 11 petition. Stephen L. Burton ("Applicant") represents the Debtors.

On January 22, 2020, the United States Trustee (the "UST") filed a motion to dismiss or convert the Debtors' chapter 11 case to one under chapter 7 (the "Motion to Convert") [doc. 15]. The Motion to Convert was based on the Debtors' noncompliance with the UST requirements. The Debtors did not file a response to the Motion to Convert.

On February 20, 2020, the Court held a hearing on the Motion to Convert. At the hearing, the Debtors still were not in compliance with the UST requirements. Accordingly, the Court granted the Motion to Convert, and converted the Debtors' case to one under chapter 7 [doc. 36]. Prior to the Court converting the Debtors' case, Applicant did not file an employment application.

On March 4, 2020, the UST filed a motion for sanctions/disgorgement of the fees paid to Applicant by the Debtors (the "Motion for Sanctions") [doc. 41]. The Motion for Sanctions is based on Applicant's failure to perform the services that he agreed to perform, and Applicant's failure to file an employment application.

On April 27, 2020, Applicant and the UST filed a stipulation to continue the hearing on the Motion for Sanctions (the "Stipulation") [doc. 59]. Pursuant to the Stipulation, Applicant was to file a motion to be employed by the estate by May 4, 2020, and a hearing on that motion would be set for June 4, 2020. On April 27, 2020, the Court entered an order approving the Stipulation [doc. 61].

On May 10, 2020, Applicant filed a Motion in Individual Chapter 11 Case for Order Authorizing Debtor in Possession to Employ General Counsel (the "Motion") [doc. 63]. In the Motion, Applicant requests approval of nunc pro tunc employment as of the petition date. On May 21, 2020, the UST filed an opposition to the Motion [doc. 68].

II. DISCUSSION

"Both § 327 and Bankruptcy Rule 2014 explicitly require attorneys [and other professionals] to seek the approval of the court before they commence employment for the estate." In re Downtown Inv. Club III, 89 B.R. 59, 63 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1988). "The Ninth Circuit allows retroactive (nunc pro tunc) awards of fees for services rendered without prior court approval where: (1) the applicant has a satisfactory explanation for the failure to receive prior judicial approval; and (2) the applicant has benefitted the estate in some significant manner." In re Mehdipour, 202 B.R. 474, 479 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1996), aff'd, 139 F.3d 1303 (9th Cir. 1998).

"These strict requirements are not to be taken lightly 'lest it be too easy to circumvent the statutory requirement of prior approval.'" Id. (quoting In re B.E.S. Concrete Prods., Inc., 93 B.R. 228, 231 (Bankr.E.D.Cal.1988)). "A retroactive authorization order should not be issued where the lateness in seeking court approval of employment is accompanied by inexcusable or unexplained negligence." Downtown, 89 B.R. at 63–64.

Under Local Bankruptcy Rule 2014-1(b)(E), "an application for the employment of counsel for a debtor in possession should be filed as promptly as possible after the commencement of the case, and an application for employment of any other professional person should be filed as promptly as possible after such person has been engaged."

Here, Applicant has failed to provide a satisfactory explanation for his failure to file an employment application during the pendency of the chapter 11 case, or shortly thereafter. Applicant states that he was busy assisting the Debtors with their chapter 11 compliance issues, but Applicant has not demonstrated any extraordinary circumstances that would have precluded him from filing an employment application while he worked on those issues. Compliance issues are not an extraordinary circumstance; many chapter 11 debtors have compliance issues. This appears to be a case of inexcusable or unexplained negligence.

Applicant additionally states that in mid-January, when the Debtors filed their petition, the "insurance companies and banks were not fully staffed." Applicant offered no explanation why that situation (if it actually existed) would delay the timely filing of his employment application.

Moreover, Applicant has not demonstrated that he benefitted the estate in some significant manner. Applicant did not file a response to the Motion to Convert, and the Debtors were not in compliance with the UST requirement prior to the hearing on the Motion to Convert. Based on the record before the Court, the Court cannot say that Applicant's efforts provided a significant benefit to the estate.

III. CONCLUSION

For the reasons discussed above, the Court will deny the Motion.

The UST must submit the order within seven (7) days.

I. BACKGROUND

On January 2, 2020, Jason Scott Fontaine ("Debtor") filed a voluntary chapter 7 petition. In his schedule E/F [doc. 9], Debtor identified nine unsecured creditors, including Jennifer Hoult.

On February 7, 2020, the chapter 7 trustee filed a Notice of Assets and set a deadline of May 12, 2020 for creditors to file proofs of claim [doc. 14]. Multiple creditors timely filed proofs of claim against the estate.

On May 5, 2020, Ms. Hoult filed a motion to dismiss Debtor's case (the "Motion") [doc. 51]. In the Motion, Ms. Hoult requests dismissal under 11 U.S.C. § 707(b) on the basis that Debtor's debts are primarily consumer debts. In addition, Ms. Hoult requests dismissal on the basis that Debtor filed for bankruptcy protection without attempting to pay or settle the debt owed to Ms. Hoult. Finally, Ms. Hoult states that Debtor failed to schedule certain assets.

On May 21, 2020, Debtor filed an opposition to the Motion [doc. 63]. Debtor asserts that Ms. Hoult's request under § 707(b) is untimely and that there is no cause to dismiss this case. Ms. Hoult did not timely file a reply.

Chapter 7

- (1) unreasonable delay by the debtor that is prejudicial to creditors;
 - (2) nonpayment of any fees or charges required under chapter 123 of title 28; and
 - (3) failure of the debtor in a voluntary case to file, within fifteen days or such additional time as the court may allow after the filing of the petition commencing such case, the information required by paragraph (1) of section 521(a), but only on a motion by the United States trustee.
- (b)
- (3) In considering under paragraph (1) whether the granting of relief would be an abuse of the provisions of this chapter in a case in which the presumption in paragraph (2)(A)(i) does not arise or is rebutted, the court shall consider—
 - (A) whether the debtor filed the petition in bad faith; or
 - (B) the totality of the circumstances (including whether the debtor seeks to reject a personal services contract and the financial need for such rejection as sought by the debtor) of the debtor's financial situation demonstrates abuse.

Under 11 U.S.C. § 349(a), "[u]nless the court, for cause, orders otherwise, the dismissal of a case under this title does not bar the discharge, in a later case under this title, of debts that were dischargeable in the case dismissed; nor does the dismissal of a case under this title prejudice the debtor with regard to the filing of a subsequent petition under this title, except as provided in section 109(g) of this title."

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 109(g), "[n]otwithstanding any other provision of this section, no individual or family farmer may be a debtor under this title who has been a debtor in a case pending under this title at any time in the preceding 180 days if"—

- (1) the case was dismissed by the court for willful failure of the debtor to abide by orders of the court, or to appear before the court in proper prosecution of the case; or
- (2) the debtor requested and obtained the voluntary dismissal of the case following the filing of a request for relief from the automatic stay provided by section 362 of this title.

In addition, 11 U.S.C. § 105(a) states—

Chapter 7

The court may issue any order, process, or judgment that is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of this title. No provision of this title providing for the raising of an issue by a party in interest shall be construed to preclude the court from, sua sponte, taking any action or making any determination necessary or appropriate to enforce or implement court orders or rules, or to prevent an abuse of process.

A. The Request for Dismissal under 11 U.S.C. § 707(b) is Untimely

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure ("FRBP") 1017(e)(1), "a motion to dismiss a case for abuse under § 707(b) or (c) may be filed only within 60 days after the first date set for the meeting of creditors under § 341(a), unless, on request filed before the time has expired, the court for cause extends the time for filing the motion to dismiss."

Here, the first date set for the meeting of creditors under § 341(a) was February 7, 2020. As such, the deadline for creditors to file a motion to dismiss under § 707(b) ran on April 7, 2020. Although Ms. Hoult previously moved to extend the deadline to object to Debtor's discharge and/or seek to except the debt owed to her from discharge, Ms. Hoult never moved to extend the deadline to file a motion to dismiss under § 707(b). Moreover, General Order 20-03, which automatically extended certain deadlines, extended the deadline under FRBP 1017(e) only as to the United States Trustee. General Order 20-03, p. 2. As such, the Court will deny Ms. Hoult's request for dismissal under § 707(b) as untimely.

B. Ms. Hoult Has Not Set Forth an Alternative Basis for Dismissal

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 707—

(c) The Court may dismiss a case under this chapter only after notice and a hearing and only for cause, including—

(1) unreasonable delay by the debtor that is prejudicial to creditors;

Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 305—

Chapter 7

(a) The court, after notice and a hearing, may dismiss a case under this title, or may suspend all proceedings in a case under this title, at any time if—

- (1) the interests of creditors and the debtor would be better served by such dismissal or suspension;

FRBP 1017(e) does not set a deadline for parties in interest to request dismissal under other statutes, such as § 707(a) or § 305(a). As such, Ms. Hoult's request for dismissal under those provisions are timely. Nevertheless, aside from Ms. Hoult's time barred arguments under § 707(b), Ms. Hoult has not provided a legitimate basis for dismissal.

Ms. Hoult's primary basis for requesting dismissal is that Debtor filed for bankruptcy protection without attempting to repay the debt owed to Ms. Hoult. However, if filing a bankruptcy petition to avoid paying a debt was a legitimate basis for dismissal, every bankruptcy case would have to be dismissed. Ms. Hoult has not set forth any other reason why Debtor's filing was made in bad faith or is prejudicial to creditors. [FN1].

In fact, dismissal of this case will prejudice Debtor's creditors. Debtor scheduled several other creditors, many of whom timely filed proofs of claim to receive a distribution from the estate. The chapter 7 trustee has filed a Notice of Assets, signaling to creditors that a distribution will be forthcoming. If the Court dismisses this case, creditors will have to revert to a race to the courthouse to obtain any payment from Debtor. Moreover, if Debtor did fail to schedule assets, as Ms. Hoult contends, it is especially important to allow the chapter 7 trustee to continue investigating Debtor's assets and to collect them for the benefit of the estate. As such, Ms. Hoult has not provided cause for dismissal or shown that dismissal better serves the interests of Debtor and creditors.

III. CONCLUSION

The Court will deny the Motion.

Debtor must submit an order within seven (7) days.

Chapter 7

1. The parties' discussion about 11 U.S.C. § 727 is irrelevant to dismissal of this case. Section 727 governs Debtor's entitlement to a discharge, not whether Debtor's case should be dismissed.

Tentative ruling regarding the evidentiary objections to the identified paragraphs in the Declaration of Douglas W. Gastelum set forth below:

The debtor objects to paragraph 11 of Mr. Gastelum's declaration on the basis that the paragraph "contains a recitation of statements [Mr. Gastelum] heard." That paragraph contains no such statements. To the extent the debtor objects to Mr. Gastelum's reference to out of court statements made by the debtor, as set forth in paragraph 27 of the declaration, such statements are not hearsay pursuant to Federal Rule of Evidence 801(d)(2), which governs statements made by an opposing party.
